

Housing Bias Issue Is Facing Close Vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — House leaders hope to nail down a narrow victory today and pass a civil rights provision that would ban racial discrimination by persons in the business of selling or renting housing.

The opening session of the administration's 1966 rights bill survived yesterday's sharp challenge by a one-vote margin — with the deciding vote on a controversial amendment cast by Rep. Richard Bolling, D-Mo., presiding at the time.

After an initial tally of 179 to 179 was announced on the amendment, Bolling declared:

"The vote is 179 to 179. The chair votes 'aye' and the amendment carries." With this, a roar went up from the packed galleries of the House and the milling members on the floor.

The dramatic vote cut an estimated 60 per cent of the nation's housing units out of the proposed open housing law.

It was the price its sponsors believed they had to pay to keep any housing provision in the bill.

The amendment removed from the reach of the bill individual home owners and owners of small rental units up to four-family size who live in the dwelling themselves — and any real estate agent they engage to handle the sale or rental of their property.

The exemptions were written unmistakably into the provision. The Judiciary Committee thought it had done so but the language was unclear.

The confusion produced a situation in which ardent civil rights advocates thought they could get a tougher bill and stern opponents of any measure thought they could help their cause by supporting the liberals.

They reasoned that the tougher the provision the easier it would be to knock it out of the bill eventually.

Rep. Charles M. Mathias Jr., R-Md., who wrote the original version as a compromise for the no-exemption ban proposed by President Johnson, offered the amendment.

Mathias said it would open 23 million of the nation's 60 million housing units, mostly in large apartment houses and newly developed tracts.

But Rep. William F. Ryan, D-N.Y., said it was "an amendment which reacts to the voices of darkness. It is an amendment conceived in fear."

Yank Unit Is Overrun by N. Viets

LA DRANG VALLEY, South Viet Nam (AP) — A few U.S. infantrymen who played dead were the only survivors from a stranded 1st Air Cavalry, Airmobile, Division platoon overrun by North Vietnamese in the rain-forest jungle of the central Vietnamese plateau.

The few survivors were resting today at their command post. Newsmen were not permitted to see them.

U.S. officers said the infantrymen were found hiding in the thick jungle in the La Drang Valley stripped of their weapons, wallets and money but unhurt.

Most of the platoon from the 2nd Battalion of the 7th Regiment were killed when an overwhelming North Vietnamese force pounced on them Tuesday.

The platoon was the vanguard of a company-sized force and included 27 men.

HELP DELAYED

Rain started falling minutes after they landed from helicopters, preventing more troops from coming in to assist them.

The brief action took place 18 miles southwest of Pleiku City.

American officers said the besieged platoon maintained radio contact for 50 minutes.

When reinforcements reached the scene, they discovered the bodies of most of the platoon.

REDS IN RUSH

The North Vietnamese apparently were in such a hurry to get away they did not attempt to determine whether all the Americans were dead or alive.

Three infantrymen who had crawled into the brush and captured dead were not captured but only stripped of their weapons and personal effects.

The bodies of 46 North Vietnamese troops were reportedly found in the area. The platoon had been taken into action on six helicopters.

SLAYER'S WIFE BURIED—The body of Mrs. Charles J. Whitman was carried from the Needville (Tex.) Methodist Church yesterday following the funeral service, in her home town. Her husband was shot to death by police Tuesday after killing 12 persons by firing powerful guns from the University of Texas Tower at Austin. He earlier had killed his wife and mother.

Autopsy May Show if Sniper Was Doped

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — An autopsy report today is expected to show whether Charles J. Whitman was under the influence of drugs when he killed 15 persons and wounded 31 others before police bullets cut him down.

Justice of the Peace Jerry Dellana said he had instructed pathologists making the autopsy to search for dexedrine in Whitman's blood.

Dellana said such pills—goof balls—were found in Whitman's clothing after he was shot by Austin police Monday, on the 28th-floor observatory tower of the University of Texas main building.

From his lofty sniper's nest, Whitman, 25, killed 13 persons with a murderous spray of rifle fire.

Earlier he had shot and stabbed his mother to death and fatally knifed his young wife, Kathy, as she slept in her bed, police said.

Dellana said Whitman's appearance after the shooting made imperative the autopsy search for possible drug-influenced behavior.

SEEK DETERRENT

Gov. John B. Connally, hinting for a deterrent to "heinous crimes," moved forward in his quest for laws that might prevent such slaughter as Whitman perpetrated here Monday.

Whitman's body, along with that of his mother, was flown last night to Lake Worth, Fla., their home town, where Roman Catholic funeral services were to be held tomorrow.

His wife, 23, was buried yesterday near Rosenberg — in the Houston vicinity — during a steady rain after funeral services in a small, white frame church at Needville, her home town.

Funerals of other victims were being held, too, as the wounded in Austin hospitals expressed sorrow, rather than hate, for the slain, apparently demented killer and his family.

U.S. Steel Joins in Price Move

Administration Still Silent on Any Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. Steel, giant of the industry and usually its bellwether, joined today in raising prices, but the Johnson administration still stuck to official silence on the moves.

U.S. Steel was the third producer of the day to go along with price changes initiated Monday by Inland Steel Co., Jones & Laughlin and Armco came in Wednesday, and Pittsburgh Steel Co. and National Steel Corp. acted today ahead of U.S. Steel.

All the increases were essentially the same $3 a ton for prime grade hot and cold rolled sheet and strip and $2 a ton for secondary grades of the same products.

All the White House had to say up to the time of the increases today was that it will oppose any inflationary price rises. It would not say what — if anything — it might do about a rollback effort.

But the President's Council of Economic Advisers was known to have sent out messages to producers after Inland started the parade and a Pittsburgh Steel Co. spokesman confirmed that the firm got one of the messages.

TO U.S. STEEL

Another of them was known to have gone to U.S. Steel.

Senate Dem, GOP Leaders Back Air Strike Compromise

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate's Democratic and Republican leaders joined today in backing a compromise plan that would have Congress send striking airline mechanics back to work for a month, and empower President Johnson to keep them there for five more months.

Sen. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., and Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, R-point a special airlines dispute panel to serve as mediators in contract bargaining. This action would freeze the situation and keep the men on their jobs for another 60 days.

If an agreement is not worked out in that period, the President could extend the panel's efforts and the back-to-work freeze for another 90 days.

SUPPORT

"This is a proposal that seems to have the greatest amount of support," said Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., who helped turn it out yesterday in a hectic series of cloakroom conferences and later described the compromise to newsmen.

The Senate was to meet earlier than usual, in an effort to act before the day is out.

"It will be the duty of the members to labor with this matter until we complete it," said Senate Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen.

Election Will Pit Father Against Son

PETOSKEY (AP)—The November election will be a family affair in Resort Township near here.

Alden Stierzik won the Democratic nomination for township supervisor in Tuesday's primary election. His father, Wilfred, the incumbent senior member of the board, was unopposed in his bid for renomination as a Republican.

Sunny, Pleasant Is the Outlook for Tomorrow

A sunny summer day with temperatures reaching for the low 80s is the forecast for Pontiac area residents tomorrow. Tonight will be a little warmer with lows near 66 to 64.

More of the same is Saturday's prediction — fair, not much change in temperature. Today's winds are light and variable, mostly southwesterly at 5 to 12 miles per hour.

Fiftysix was the low reading in downtown Pontiac prior to 3 a.m. The mercury had registered 78 by 1 p.m.

Voter Turnout Breaks Record

A new high was set Tuesday in the number of voters going to the polls in a county primary, but the total fell far below the estimates of election officials.

Using the total vote received by the three U.S. Senate candidates as a basis, unofficial returns show that at least 101,521 ballots were cast.

As accurate count won't be available until the county board of canvassers completes an canvass on or before within the next 10 days to two weeks.

"I expect the vote to go a bit higher, since not everyone votes for all posts," said County Clerk John D. Murphy. Murphy had predicted a turnout of between 150,000 and 175,000 in the primary.

EXCEED RECORD

The preliminary figures, however, do exceed the former record set in the 1964 primary, when 106,116 went to the polls in the presidential election year.

"That's Gary for you. Wherever he goes, he goes first class."

Pontiac Sales Show Strength

Captured 11 Pct. of Auto Market in July

Pontiac and Tempest captured nearly 11 per cent of the U.S. new car sales for July as the market showed surprising strength during the month.

July sales of Pontiacs and Tempests totaled 16,719, according to John Z. DeLoorean, General Motors Corp. vice president and general manager of Pontiac Motor Division.

Preliminary reports from the four U.S. auto companies indicated 635,633 cars were sold, with last month's sales being the second highest of any July.

The figure for Pontiac and Tempest is 169 units short of the July record of 68,584 established last year, when the industrywide record of 710,721 cars was set.

The July just ended had 25 selling days, one less than July 1965.

CUT STOCKPILE

The auto industry, which entered July with an inventory of about 1.7 million new cars, had set its sights on sales of 615,000 cars in July to help with an orderly reduction of the huge stockpile.

DeLoorean noted that the demand for Pontiacs and Tempests "continues at a record clip" although production of the 1966 models ended yesterday.

A Judicial 'Hot Potato'

JOHN N. O'BRIEN

Royal Oak attorney John N. O'Brien, one of the six nominees for Circuit judge, has given the judicial race a novel twist and posed some legal questions for the State Elections Commission.

Not satisfied with just being a candidate for one of three six-year openings on the bench, O'Brien a few weeks ago decided to become a sticker candidate for a seven-week unexpired term created by the death of Justice Stanton G. Dondero.

The short term — Nov. 9 to Dec. 31 — did not show up on the ballot because no one filed petitions for the post.

When the primary results were counted yesterday, it was discovered that O'Brien's stickers for the short term appeared on at least a half dozen ballots, making him the only nominee for the job.

O'Brien, who placed fifth among the six judicial candidates for the long term, claims he is entitled to a separate slot on the November ballot for the short term.

'NOT SURE'

The State Election Commission, which certifies the Circuit Court candidates, says it's not sure, and has tossed the problem to the State Attorney's Office for an answer.

"I've done some research, but until I get a legal opinion, I can't give a positive answer," said Deputy Election Director Bernard Apol.

EX-LBJ Aide, Kennedy Friend Tennessee Foes

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Tennessee Democrats today settle a battle for the state's gubernatorial nomination which pits a former adviser to President Johnson against a friend of the Kennedy family.

Burford Ellington, a former governor, former director of the U.S. Office of Emergency Planning, and friend of President Johnson, opposes John J. Hooker Jr., wealthy young attorney who first caught the eye of the Kennedys in 1962.

At the same time, Republicans were choosing a Senate nominee in their first major primary in recent history. Howard H. Baker Jr., who lost to Bass in the general election two years ago, is running against Kenneth Roberts of Nashville, manager of the 1964 Barry Goldwater campaign in Tennessee. Polls open at 8 a.m. (Pontiac time) and, while hours vary according to the size of counties, servers predicted a heavy turnout will be closed by 9 p.m. Out of over 800,000.

Hooker closed many of his campaign speeches by quoting the late President John F. Kennedy. In the final days of the campaign, Ellington said he has no plans to "hold Bobby Kennedy's hand" — and mentioned his "contacts" in Washington in respect to what they could do for bringing industry to Tennessee.

Clement has held the governorship three terms since 1953, and Ellington served one term. This gave Hooker his main campaign issue which he cited as "14 years of machine rule" in Tennessee.

Ellington, 59, claimed Hooker, 35, was inexperienced and had failed to "do anything for his fellow man," except for Hooker's part in the 1961 "Tractors for Freedom" trade with the Castro government.

Both candidates called for increased spending for education and for on-time completion of the Interstate Highway system.

There is no Republican candidate for governor.

In the senatorial race, Bass campaigned on his record which he said entitles him to a full 6-year term. He was critical of Clement's state tax policies.

Only two of the state's nine congressmen had primary opposition.

Rights Group Jeered by Chicago Whites

Police again skirmished with white hecklers who turned out in an all-white Chicago neighborhood to harass 250 civil rights demonstrators protesting alleged housing discrimination.

At least 21 men and women in a crowd of about 1,500 whites were hauled away in police vans as the demonstrators marched through streets to a real estate office Wednesday night. Several persons were injured.

A dead snake, rocks and a tomato were among missiles tossed at the marchers and several bottles were thrown at police guarding the demonstrators' automobiles in a nearby park.

Marchers were led by three aides of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

RALLY TONIGHT — King, who has demanded open housing for Negroes in Chicago, is scheduled to address a rally tonight. He called for another march into the white neighborhood Friday.

In Providence, R.I., Gov. John H. Chafee blamed "young ruffians" for racial disturbances in the city two nights this week. He said the incidents must not continue and that they must not be blown out of proportion.

The U.S. House of Representatives tentatively wrote a controversial open housing provision into the 1966 civil rights bill by one-vote margin, 180-179, Wednesday.

The provision still faces a motion to eliminate it from the bill and a separate roll-call vote before final House passage. It goes to the Senate next.

COMPROMISE — The House vote came on a compromise version of the provision that would open large apartment houses and newly built tract homes to open housing. But it would exempt individual home owners from a

Navy 'Mayor' Is Investigated

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — U.S. Navy Capt. Archie Kuntze, often referred to by friends as the American mayor of Saigon, is on leave in the United States while the commandant of the 12th Naval District studies a board of inquiry report on allegations of personal misconduct.

Until June, when the Army took over the operation from the Navy, Kuntze for almost two years directed one of the biggest businesses in South Vietnam, providing logistic support for 137,000 American troops.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Interior Committee by a 28-12 vote refused today to approve a Senate-passed bill to establish the Sleeping Bear Dunes National Lakeshore in western Michigan estimated to cost $25.3 million.

The committee first turned the bill down on a 9-7 show-of-votes vote. Rep. Morris K. Udall, D-Ariz., demanded a roll call of the committee and this showed the 12-8 margin against it. Rep. John P. Saylor, R-Pa., who originally voted for the bill, later changed his vote to no. This gives him an opportunity to ask for reconsideration.

One source said a move may be made next Tuesday when the committee is expected to meet to call the bill up again.

Twelve members of the committee were absent when the vote was called for today, following nearly two hours of discussion of the measure Wednesday.

After a quorum of the 33-man committee was present, the vote on the bill was called for without any further discussion.

247 in County Face Draft Call

Oakland County has been asked to deliver 247 men for induction into the Army in September, with the bulk of the call expected to be filled with registrants aged 19 and 20.

The county quota is among a state quota of 2,525 announced by Selective Service Director Col. Arthur E. Holmes.

Holmes said that where needed local boards have been authorized to call children men married before Aug. 26, 1965.

Of the Oakland total, 34 men will be called by Board 65 in Pontiac, 35 by Board 67 from the southwestern sector of the county, and 44 by Board 331 from northern Oakland County.

In addition, Farmington Board 328 is scheduled to take 38 with the three Royal Oak boards expected to call a total of 96.

2ND HIGHEST — Oakland County's quota was second among counties in the state to Wayne, which will induct 755.

Developer Withdraws Request for Rezoning

BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — at the Democratic Convention Developer William J. Pulte, who has been involved in several controversies with residential property owners, has withdrawn a rezoning request for the Square Lake-Opydke area.

The rezoning request would have permitted multiple zoning and a park.

Pulte had proposed a unit development complex of 128 acres including a third Fox Hills subdivision, a townhouse complex and a park.

The park would have included baseball and football fields, a swimming pool and tennis courts. Maintenance would have been the responsibility of Fox Hills residents and proprietors of the townhouses.

At a planning commission meeting, residents from two Fox Hills subdivisions had protested the proposed rezoning and the recreation area.

SAME HOUSES — Pulte said in withdrawing the request that the company would guarantee to build the same type of houses now present in the other two Fox Hills subdivisions.

It was estimated that the rezoning from residential to multiple would have increased the density of families per acre from 1.8 to 4.6.

Why Grow Old?
by JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Every woman would like to have beautiful, white, even teeth. Unfortunately this is not possible for everyone, that is, unless you plan to have your teeth capped for cosmetic reasons. However, we can all have well-cared for teeth although they do not rate a commercial toothpaste smile.

Many folks do not realize that our teeth have an effect on our health as well as our attractiveness. Streptococci may thrive in cavities or diseased roots. Jagged points of broken or decayed teeth or incorrect fitting bridgework may lead to cancer because of constant irritation.
Missing teeth make it impossible to chew food adequately and may lead to poor nutrition. Missing teeth and the wearing-down process also play some part in the sag in facial contour.

GUM TROUBLE
More persons lose their teeth because of gum trouble than because of decay. For this reason regular professional cleaning is important. Tartar collects on the teeth, and the usual brushing does not remove it. When this is allowed to remain and accumulate, the gums may become irritated and food particles may form in small pockets.
The teeth may gradually become loose.
Cleanliness is the first ten-

Sears National HOME APPLIANCE SALE

TALKING PICTURE—Constance Bannister, noted baby photographer, finds a tape recorder is a great help in evoking expressive reactions from children when taking their pictures.

Camera Angles

Add Sight to Sound

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newfeatures

Sight and sound have become more familiar allies in the world of amateur photography.

Their association in professional photography has been longer and stronger making "talking pictures" a showcase for the talents of experts in many fields — in entertainment, education and the lecture worlds.

The increasing availability and economy of home and portable tape recorders makes it easier for camera fans to try their hand at adding sound to their own home movie and 35mm slide showings.

Tape recorders, like cameras, are able to capture another dimension of the memories of special events and family gatherings and activities for reliving later.

There is far more added value when you combine the actual voices of children, parents or special friends with their pictures or the music or excitement in sound of any occasion.

USEFUL AID

Now baby photographer Constance Bannister, creator of the famous "Bannister babies," suggests a tape recorder as a useful aid in capturing expressive pictures of children at home.

"Sound is an important stimulus for children," she said.

"I use it along with gestures and new toys to coax off-beat expressions out of children."

"The tape recorder becomes an extra tool by which sound can be controlled at a picture-taking session."

FAVORITES

Miss Bannister keeps track of children's entertainment favorites in music, cartoon characters, radio and television programs, etc. and records their theme songs or voices when possible.

"Most children enjoy music and will respond visually to it," she noted.

"They show more enthusiasm, however, when they identify with a current favorite."

Some try to mimic or imitate the show's star, others try to create a character of their own. Either way can produce good picture possibilities — if you're alert!"

Junior Editors Quiz on HORSE BATHS

QUESTION: How do horses take baths?

ANSWER: They certainly don't take them in the manner suggested in our upper picture. It's there only for the fun of it.

Our artist tells us that he got the idea of drawing a horse in a bathtub, and couldn't resist drawing it.

As a regular thing, horses are kept clean by a daily grooming, which means going over their coats with a rubber curry comb and a body brush.

This takes out dirt and benefits the horse's health by stimulating the blood. However, horses are often washed with water and soap, especially in warm weather.

The horse may be tied up, as in the bottom picture; or held on a lead strap by another person.

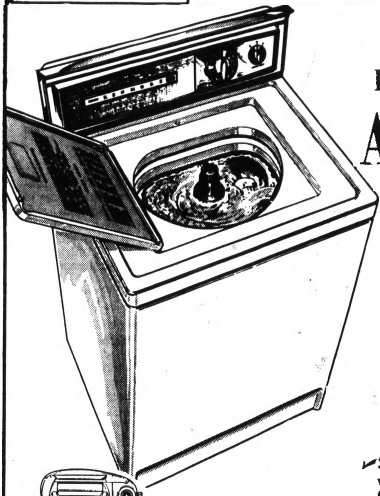

The horse is then soaped from head to foot, and all the soap removed with warm water.

It is important not to wash your horse with soap too often, as it removes the natural oils from his coat.

Horses are often cooled off in hot weather by being bathed with warm water without soap.

They are sponged all over at first and then the excess water is removed with a body scraper.

FOR YOU TO DO: We can't all have horses, but we all have hair. Be as good to your own hair as Mary is to her horse.
