Allies Will Observe 78-Hour Viet Truce

U.S. vs. Dixie on Voting Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government clashed with a big segment of the South today as debate over the constitutionality of the 1965 Voting Rights Act opened before the Supreme Court.

David W. Robinson II, special counsel for South Carolina, launched the eight-hour debate over the five-month-old law.

Nearly a quarter of a million Negroes have registered to vote in the seven Southern states touched by the act since it became law.

Five of those states joined South Carolina in its attack on the law as an inappropriate and unfair use of federal power to enforce the 15th Amendment to the Constitution, forbidding denial of voting rights because of race or color.

Seated at Robinson's side as he opened his attack was U.S. Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach who will personally defend the law's constitutionality in his first high court argument as attorney general.

Katzenbach —celebrating his 44th birthday — was attired in the traditional frock coat, vest and striped trousers government lawyers wear before the Supreme Court.

At his side, at the long counsel table facing the nine justices, was Thurgood Marshall, U.S. solicitor general, a Negro who relinquished to his boss the argument of the controversial and weighty case.

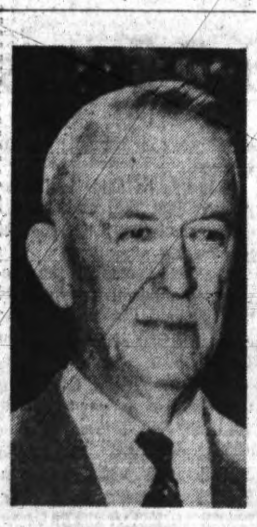
Lawyers from New Jersey and Massachusetts — the latter representing 18 Northern and Western states — were to support the government.

GIVE 8 HOURS

The high court has allotted eight hours for hearing the case, which South Carolina brought directly in the Supreme Court instead of going through the lower federal courts.

Arguments are expected to continue at least through tomorrow.

Robinson was expected to contend that the Voting Rights Act is not an appropriate means of enforcing the 15th Amendment which bars discrimination against voters and gives Congress the power to enact appropriate enforcement legislation.



GEN. HODGES

Heart Attack Claims Noted U.S. General

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Gen. Courtney H. Hodges understood GI problems because he had been a GI himself.

★ ★ ★

"I love the American soldier — I really feel a very strong sentiment about him," Hodges once said. "He is my work. And I don't think he has any equal."

Hodges rose from the ranks to command the U.S. 1st Army which liberated Paris in a victorious drive through France and Germany in World War II.

The four-star general died yesterday at Brooke Army Medical Center of a heart attack. He was 79. He had lived here since his retirement in 1949.

Hodges dropped out of West Point after one year because of trouble with geometry. He got a job in a Georgia grocery store but quit in 1906 and enlisted in the regular army at Ft. McPherson, Ga. He was commissioned in 1909.

★ ★ ★

His army career spanned more than 43 years, including action during the Mexican expedition of Gen. John J. Pershing, World War I, World War II, and postwar service as commanding general of the 1st Army area at Governor's Island, N.Y.

Hodges took command of the 1st Army Aug. 1, 1944, from Gen. Omar N. Bradley.

GOP Leaders Will Reply on State of Union

Dirksen, Ford Slate Party's Answer to Johnson Message

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress gets another "State of the Union" message tonight — this time from the Republicans.

Senate GOP leader Everett M. Dirksen and House GOP leader Gerald R. Ford will deliver their party's answer to President Johnson's message of last week.

Radio and television networks will carry the taped 30-minute Dirksen-Ford reply which has been billed as "a high level and realistic look at the state of the union."

The two leaders are expected to call for close scrutiny, and perhaps cutbacks, in domestic spending.

A tip-off to the Republican "guns-or-butter" position was given by Ford in the current issue of the Republican congressional committee's weekly newsletter.

★ ★ ★

"If we are going to halt inflation and prevent tax increases and give our men in Viet Nam what they need to win, and still meet even legitimate domestic needs," Ford said, "Congress is going to have to cut deeply into the administration's so-called Great Society budget."

Here's the outlook for the week on Capitol Hill:

The Senate and House will mark time as far as major floor action is concerned. But committees may take up some controversial measures.

★ ★ ★

The Senate's legislative docket includes consideration today of a bill to preserve the natural beauty of five western rivers, followed by a bill to authorize a $9.5 million inter-American cultural and trade center (Interama) in Miami. The river bill has not passed the House. The cultural center measure cleared the House last year but ran into Senate opposition.

There is no business for the House floor this week.

No timetable has been set for delivery of a series of presidential messages spelling out details of proposed legislation outlined in the State of the Union message. Some messages may be sent to Congress this week.

One of the first messages is expected to request an estimated $12 billion or more for emergency financing of the Vietnamese conflict.

'Mystery Boy Fatally Beaten'

MONROE (AP) — A small boy whose frozen body was found in an outhouse of an abandoned farm died following a severe beating about the head and body, an autopsy report indicated today.

Dr. Walter Stryker, a Monroe pathologist, said a study of internal cell tissues confirmed earlier indications that the unidentified child died after a beating.

A teletype description of the child, about 3, has been sent to law enforcement agencies throughout the country, State Police said.

The dead boy, white, dark-haired and wearing a blue ski jacket, black pants and red shirt with white buttons, was found by a rabbit hunter Saturday night on an old farm 15 miles southwest of this southern Michigan city near the Ohio border.

★ ★ ★

He had been dead about a week, police said.

A monogram of a green and black airplane was on a shirt pocket. The boy's undershirt had colored pictures of clowns.

The body may have been thrown into the outhouse, police said.

Police said they had no reports of missing children that they could link with the boy.

Urges Rep. Ford

'Continue Peace Try'

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford says President Johnson's peace offensive should continue despite the lack of immediate results.

★ ★ ★

Only the President can decide how long to push the peace moves and suspend the bombings of targets in North Viet Nam, Ford said yesterday in an interview.

But the Michigan congressman warned that the bombing pause should not be prolonged indefinitely because the increased movement of Communist troops and supplies into South Viet Nam poses a further threat to American troops.

Republican Sen. Jacob K. Javits of New York joined Ford in backing the presidential peace offensive, which he said gives the United States "an excellent chance of getting out of there with honor."

★ ★ ★

Javits, as did Ford, called on the President to share his knowledge about the peace drive with Congress.

CONCERNED

Former Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, 1964 GOP presidential candidate, said in a San Diego interview he was concerned about the peace offensive because "we're not being told anything about it."

Another leg of the far-ranging peace offensive ended yesterday when Secretary of State Dean Rusk and roving Ambassador W. Averell Harriman concluded talks with President Ferdinant E. Marcos of the Philippines.

The presidential envoys, who promised to keep Marcos "informed on diplomatic developments," headed back to the United States.

★ ★ ★

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, who recently visited Marcos as part of the presidential peace drive, described as too gloomy and pessimistic a senatorial fact-finding report on the prospects for peace in Viet Nam.

★ ★ ★

The report, issued two weeks ago by Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield and four other senators, said chances for a just, negotiated settlement were very slim. If the peace efforts fail, the report said, the Viet Nam fighting will escalate toward "general war on the Asian mainland."

"While there is much in the Mansfield report that deserves the thoughtful attention of the American people," Humphrey said yesterday, "it's conclusions are just a little bit too pessimistic."

The vice president said there is no longer any possibility of a Viet Cong military success. The Viet Cong's aims in South Viet Nam, he added, "have been put out of reach."

★ ★ ★

Mansfield, joined with Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., to again express the hope that the President will continue the bombing pause which began Dec. 24.

In a joint interview, they said the United States stands only to gain by maintaining the lull.

Army Commander Is Ruling in Nigeria

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP)—Nigeria's Army commander emerged as the dominant figure in Africa's most populous nation today following an unsuccessful coup attempt by mutinous elements in the armed forces.

Maj. Gen. Aguiyi Ironsi declared himself temporary head of the federal government and chief of all armed forces last night and suspended key provisions of the Nigerian constitution.

He also suspended the nation's top civilian officials, including Prime Minister Sir Abubaker Tafawa Balewa, President Azikwe Nnamdi, the heads of Nigeria's four regions and the federal and regional parliaments.

Balewa was kidnaped during the coup attempt with his finance minister, Chief Festus Okotie Ebon.

The rebels are believed holding them hostage. Ironsi's troops were reported searching for them.

★ ★ ★

Troops loyal to Ironsi guarded government buildings and other key points in Lagos and manned five roadblocks between the airport and the capital.

Remnants of the rebel force appeared to be on the run.

One report said Kaduna, the chief northern city, was the only main center in rebel hands.

Ironsi said military governors would take over in the four regions and would be responsible to his military regime for keeping order.

Cong Pledges No Attacks for 4-Day Period

American Troops to Cease Firing From Thursday to Sunday

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—The commander of U.S. forces in Viet Nam, Gen. William C. Westmoreland, today ordered all American troops to cease firing for 78 hours starting at noon Thursday in observance of the Vietnamese lunar New Year holiday, Tet.

Westmoreland's order seconded the decision of the South Vietnamese government to halt fighting during the national celebration.

Similar instructions went to South Korean, Australian and New Zealand troops fighting alongside the Vietnamese and Americans.

The truce more than doubles the 30-hour cease-fire observed by allied forces during the Christmas holiday.

But it falls 18 hours short of the Tet truce proclaimed by the Viet Cong.

★ ★ ★

There was no sign in the Saigon sector of any letup in fighting before the holiday, although elsewhere in the country military activities continued at a slow pace.

LIGHTNING STROKE

In a lightning stroke, a Viet Cong company attacked a government infantry and armor school at Thu Duc 10 miles north of Saigon at 1 a.m.

While one part of the guerrilla force fired two mortar shells as a diversion, another hit part of the compound with automatic weapons.

The school reportedly housed 20 North Vietnamese war prisoners the government has promised to release at the northern frontier as a new year's gesture.

★ ★ ★

There was some speculation the Viet Cong may have attacked to free the captives, but this was not certain.

★ ★ ★

The guerrillas pierced the barbed wire of the officers' candidate school and raked the billets, killing five wives and three children of Vietnamese officer candidates in their beds. Three other children were wounded.

Armored troops fought back and killed 10 of the Viet Cong.

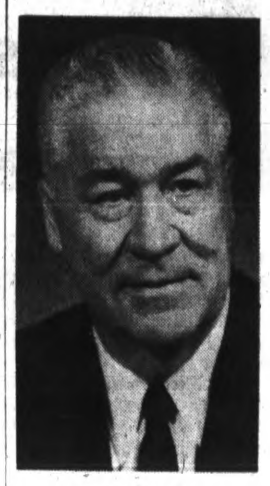
VEEP COMMENTS — Vice President Hubert Humphrey discusses Viet Nam in an interview yesterday. He said the conclusions reached by Sen. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., and his senatorial fact-finding team in their Viet Nam report were a little "too pessimistic." The conclusions in the report are too gloomy, Humphrey said, although there "is a great deal of factual material."



JAMES E. GOODMAN

GM Exec, 61, Dies in Minnesota

An up-from-the-ranks General Motors Corp. executive, James E. Goodman, died Saturday night in a Rochester, Minn., hospital.

Goodman, 61, of 451 Goodhue, Bloomfield Hills, had been undergoing treatment for a heart condition the past two weeks at the Mayo Clinic.

An executive vice president, Goodman began his 41-year GM career on an automobile assembly line in a Norwood, Ohio, factory.

Service for Goodman will be 11 a.m. Wednesday at Christ Church Cranbrook, Bloomfield Hills. His body is at the Bell Chapel of the William R. Hamilton Co., Birmingham.

Surviving are his wife, Ruth, and a son, Jack of Beverly Hills, Calif.

Contributions may be made to the Martha I. Goodman Foundation, in care of the National Bank of Detroit.

FIRST GM JOB

He got his first GM job as a 20-year-old at the Fisher Body plant in Norwood. He was a metal finisher.

During the next 11 years, Goodman served in various supervisory positions in Fisher Body plants throughout the country, returning to Norwood as resident manager.

He subsequetly managed Fisher plants in Oakland, Calif., and Flint.

Goodman was named general manager of the Fisher Body Division and elected a vice president of GM in 1952.

VICE PRESIDENT

In 1958, he was elected group vice president in charge of body and assembly divisions, a GM director and a member of the executive and administration committees.

His executive vice president position came in 1961. Since then, he had directed operations of the car and truck group, body and assembly divisions groups, and the automotive components and defense group.

Goodman was named chairman of the administration committee July 1, 1965.

2 Detroit Police Shot Over Traffic Violation

DETROIT (UPI) — Two policemen were shot and wounded today as they tried to question three men about a traffic violation.

Two gunmen fled but officers captured their alleged companion and said they knew the identify of one of the fugitives. Police said there was no apparent motive for the shootings.

France Ends Euromart Boycott

Cuba Is Asked to Free Crews

HAVANA (AP) — Swiss Ambassador Emil Stadelhofer sought the release today of nine fishermen held by Cuban authorities after their three boats entered Cuban territorial waters Sunday.

Stadelhofer, who represents American interests here, said he had been in conference with Cuban officials but declined to elaborate.

★ ★ ★

The nine were reported held at the port of Santa Lucia, west of Havana, in Pinar del Rio Province.

The U.S. Coast Guard reported one of the vessels ran aground off the Cuban coast and two sister ships went to her aid, each carried three crew members. They were reported to be in route from Tampa, Fla., to Nicaragua.

U.S. CITIZENS

All were identified as U.S. citizens except one who was listed by the shrimp company as a Honduran.

The U.S. Coast Guard said the 73-foot Charles Singleton ran aground off northwest Cuba Sunday and her two sister boats — Penny Singleton and Mark E. Singleton — were directed to a Cuban port by the Cuban Coast Guard.

★ ★ ★

"We have been in squally weather and blown off course," the fleet manager of the company in Tampa quoted one captain as saying in a radio message.

All three vessels, each carrying a captain and two crewmen, were en route from Tampa to Nicaragua. The boats were built in the last year or so and bought by the Singleton Shrimp Co. in Tampa for $250,000.

★ ★ ★

The Coast Guard Search and Rescue Center in Miami said it could not take part in any rescue mission because the mishap occurred within Cuban waters.

SEAMAN RESCUED — A raft with two survivors and one body from the sunken Spanish Freighter Monte Palomares is shown being pulled alongside the Coast Guard cutter Escanaba last Tuesday. De Gaulle Aide Attends Parley

Expected to Make Two Major Demands

LUXEMBOURG (AP) — France ended today a six-month boycott of the European Common Market.

The other five member governments all had their eyes on President Charles de Gaulle's foreign minister, Maurice Couve de Murville, wondering what price he would set to restore full French cooperation.

Couve de Murville was one of the first speakers today on the program of a meeting of the foreign ministers at Luxembourg's City Hall.

When he arrived from Paris earlier in the day he told reporters that with good will it ought to be possible to get the Euromart back on the rails again. But French spokesmen were saying it probably would take more than this two-day meeting.

2 DEMANDS

Couve de Murville was expected to make two major demands:

1. A firm agreement to allow each of the member nations to hold their veto over major Common Market decisions. This veto has existed all along but it had been due to disappear Jan. 1, 1966.

2. A curb on the powers of Chairman Walter Hallstein and his nine-man commission. De Gaulle feels Hallstein is acting too much as if he were the president of a United States of Europe.

Couve de Murville walked out of the last full meeting of the Common Market Council July 1, 1965. The reason given was that the members had failed to meet an agreed midnight deadline for a plan to subsidize the exports of farm surpluses.

Today, he was all amiability as he stepped off the train. He will be facing more or less solid opposition from the other members: West Germany, Italy, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg. They say they want no change in the present setup.

HEADS OPPOSITION

Joseph Luns, Holland's foreign minister, heads the opposition to the French stand. He told an interviewer: "We are fundamentally satisfied with the way the treaty was thought out and the way the organization works. So now we shall see how France specifies what it wants."

West Germany, Belgium and Luxembourg also sent their foreign ministers to the meeting. Emilio Colombo, minister of the treasury, is representing Italy.

Annual Event Set Tomorrow

Rev. Joseph Kubik of St. Mary's College, Orchard Lake, will be the guest speaker tomorrow night when the Waterford Township Jaycees hold their annual "Bosses' Night" banquet at Fortino's Steak House.

Moderator of campus fraternities and an economics instructor at the school, Father Kubik was educated in Belgium and Italy and at the University of Detroit. He was ordained in 1942.

Cofeatured at the event will be selection of the township's outstanding young man of 1965 and boss of the year.

A committee, headed by Dr. William Weber, currently is canvassing churches, businesses, clubs and organizations to determine which young man, 21 to 35, has contributed the most to the community during the year.

★ ★ ★

Last year, Robert Lawyer, coordinator of the community schools program, was named outstanding young man, while Fire Chief Lewis Goff was tapped for the boss-of-the-year award.

Bosses' Night, held in conjunction with National Jaycee Week, Jan. 16-23, will begin at 7, according to Norman Wood, chairman.

'Don't Scare Fish Away; Land Softly'

Ice fishermen are a cool breed.

It's difficult to break the concentration of the bundled-up set who sit by little holes in the ice waiting for fish.

A case in point was an emergency landing yesterday on Pontiac Lake by a Beechcraft Bonanza.

"You'd think it happened every day," said Clark Cryderman who brought his single engine plane down on the lake due to an engine failure.

★ ★ ★

"They just looked up briefly and went on with their fishing."

NO INJURIES

But Cryderman wasn't complaining. The emergency landing resulted in no injuries and no damage to the plane.

"The fishermen probably thought I wanted to land on the lake," he said.

Cryderman of 6243 Wilson, Waterford Township, was returning from a short flight at 5:30 p.m. when he noted a power failure in the engine.

★ ★ ★

"Rather than take a chance on landing at Pontiac Municipal Airport, I decided to bring it down on the lake," he explained.

Kidney Transplant Fails

Tragedy in Family Again

A Troy family that has had more than its share of hard luck was visited by tragedy again Saturday.

George Johnson Jr., 15-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Johnson Sr., 2068 Orpington, died of complications resulting from a kidney transplant at the University of Michigan Hospital.

The youngster was stricken last June with a rare, incurable kidney ailment. Doctors had hopes, however, that a kidney transplant might prolong his life.

Last month a healthy kidney became available and the operation was performed Dec. 20.

★ ★ ★

Despite the efforts of medical specialists, the boy began to fail. He weighed 145 pounds when he entered the hospital. He weighed 55 when the end came.

AT HIS BEDSIDE

His parents, who maintained a constant vigil throughout the ordeal, were at his bedside when he died.

In 1958 the Johnsons lost another son, Kelly, who was struck and killed by a train.

In 1964 Johnson suffered three heart attacks.

★ ★ ★

Last August another son, David, was seriously injured in a traffic accident.

George Jr. will be buried tomorrow beside Kelly in tiny Union Corners Cemetery.

RICHARD D. KUHN

Four Injured in Three-Car City Accident

A three-car rear-end collision at Voorhees and Telegraph injured four persons, two of whom were to be admitted to Pontiac General Hospital.

★ ★ ★

Pontiac police said a car driven by Detroit attorney, Stanley F. Kaczor, 56, slid into the rear of a stalled vehicle and then struck a second auto.

Two women in the stalled car, Mrs. Colonas C. Nickles, 17, and Louise Wojcik, 18, both of Hamtramck, suffered facial lacerations and bruises.

Another passenger, Charles, Mayes, 18, of Hamtramck, and Miss Wojcik were treated at the hospital for injuries and released.

Kaczor suffered a broken nose and lacerations. He and Mrs. Nickles are reported in satisfactory condition at the hospital.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Nickles' husband had put the hood up on the car and was seeking assistance at a service station when the accident occurred, witnesses told police.

★ ★ ★

Thomas H. Cochrane, 58, of 32 Susan, driver of the second car, was uninjured.

Birmingham Area News

Integration Unit Sets 2 Events

Efforts of the Birmingham-Bloomfield Committee on Open Occupancy are being directed toward two special observances, scheduled for Feb. 27 and March 6.

Plans to mobilize community support through the two events were discussed at the committee's second general meeting last night.

Some 150 persons attended the program at Northminster Presbyterian Church in Troy.

The campaign for integrated housing is to be supported by area clergymen in sermons delivered Feb. 27.

★ ★ ★

Plans are still indefinite for the March 6 event, which will take the form of a demonstration or rally of some sort.

MEET WITH REALTORS

At last night's program, chairman John C. Palms told of a meeting committee representatives held with members of the Birmingham Board of Realtors.

The board, he said, has indicated it will hold a general membership meeting within the next two to three weeks to discuss the open occupancy committee's proposals.

The committee has asked realtors to take action to bring at least five Negro families into the area by Sept. 1, to cooperate with out-of-town brokers who have Negro clients seeking homes in the area and to adopt a policy as a group favoring open occupancy.

★ ★ ★

Organized in November, the committee last night divided itself into subgroups to work on specific phases of its campaign.

The groups are legal, church, direct action, publicity and student-faculty.

★ ★ ★

Committee member Stanley Ovshinsky, 2700 Squirrel, Bloomfield Township, last night spoke of the need for a public demonstration.

Realtors, he said, had commented that the group should demonstrate that it has community support.

"We have to mobilize the community to make this support visual," he said. "We need a series of actions that are concrete and meaningful."

The Birmingham Council of Churches has agreed to cooperate in the Feb. 27 program.

Rev. Maurice Geary of Marian High School and Rev. Raymond Fenner of the Birmingham Congregational Church have been appointed to take charge of the clergy's plans for the day.

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — A 13-week free boating safety course will begin Wednesday at Bloomfield Hills High School.

Presented by the Birmingham Power Squadron, the class will be held at 7:30 p.m.

It includes instruction on the proper handling of inboard, outboard and sailboats.

78-Hour Viet Truce Ordered

a government spokesman said.

These bodies were left behind, but the fleeing Viet Cong were seen to be carrying other dead or wounded.

The Viet Cong kidnaped an American civilian official today outside the village of Trung Lap, about 25 miles north of Saigon, and marched him into the jungle, his hands in the air.

FROM NEVADA

The missing man is Douglas Ramsey, 28, of Boulder City, Nev.

He is the assistant province representative of the U.S. mission for the area.

His driver, a South Vietnamese, came back and told American authorities they were traveling northeast from Cu Chi when they came under Viet Cong gunfire.

★ ★ ★

The driver said he stopped. He added that Ramsey got out and raised his hands in a surrender gesture.

Several Viet Cong guerrillas marched him away. The driver was wounded slightly in the first ambush fire but able to navigate on foot.

CIVILIANS KILLED

Twenty-six civilians were killed and four were wounded when a busload of civilians hit a Viet Cong mine on the road from Moc Hoa to Cai Lay, near Kien Tuong, 35 miles south of the capital.

Northwest of Saigon, a Viet Cong attack on a U.E. troop convoy backfired.

Supported by planes roaring in over the treetops, the Americans turned the bitter fight 20 miles northwest of Saigon into a dubbing for the guerillas.

★ ★ ★

The Communists heated up the ebbing 11-day U.S. sweep on the edge of their Iron Triangle by spraying the convoy with automatic weapons as it rolled to Trung Lap carrying the 2nd Battalion of the U.S. 1st Infantry Division's 28th Regiment back to brigade headquarters.

Hopeful Makes Congress Bid

Richard D. Kuhn, Pontiac attorney and businessman, today announced that he will be a Republican candidate for U.S. congressman from the 19th District.

★ ★ ★

The GOP nominee for the post in 1964, Kuhn, 36, of 205 Gateway, Waterford Township, represented Oakland County's 1st Legislative District at the Constitutional Convention.

He served on the convention's education committee, the committee on legislative powers and was chairman of the subcommittee on the legislature.

In announcing his bid for the August primary nomination, Kuhn said, "This nation is in economic chaos, mainly because of the ever-increasing socialistic pressures, which have been so detrimental to our finances."

★ ★ ★

In six elections prior to the 1964 campaign, Kuhn was an unsuccessful candidate for the GOP nomination for State Senator from Oakland County.

He is a graduate of Michigan State University and the Detroit College of Law.

NY 'Hero' Now Boycotted, Despised

NEW YORK (UPI) — A heroic little grocer who braved an angry mob to come to the aid of a surrounded patrolman is an outcast in his own neighborhood today, friendless and out of business.

★ ★ ★

"My own people, my own people have turned against me," said Puerto Rican-born Enrique Negron about his recent days in the East Bronx neighborhood where eight months ago he became a "hero" for rushing to help patrolman Philip Siegel.

★ ★ ★

"Don't worry, officer," Negron cried as he pushed his way to Siegel's side. "Don't worry, we'll help you."

Suddenly someone in the crowd closing around the patrolman and two holdup suspects plunged an icepick into Negron's back and the grocer fell as police reinforcements arrived.

Negron spent a week in the hospital and was hailed briefly as a hero. He received a $1,000 check from the Patrolmen's Benevolent Association, a personal note from Vice President Hubert Humphrey praising his "courageous act," and several plaques.

★ ★ ★

But in the neighborhood, Negron was not called hero. Instead his former friends and customers passed him by with curses of "cop lover." He had to sell the grocery (last June) because nobody came to buy any more.

HAD FRIENDS

"We had a lot of friends. They feel bad that I helped a cop," said Negron yesterday in his halting English.

With the store for which he had saved since age 10 gone, nobody in the area willing to hire him, and his savings down to $300, Negron says he probably could get welfare but doesn't want to live off charity.

Patrolman Siegel, who has talked to Negron several times since the incident, says, "He's had it pretty rough. They just seemed to turn on the poor guy.

"And he's really such a nice little fellow. I should know. If it wasn't for him, I'd probably be dead."

★ ★ ★

But, says Negron, "If I had to do it again, I'd do it. It's the way I am. I don't like to see anybody abused."

Neighbors Hate Him For Helping A Policeman

Seek New Snooping, Information Laws

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate and House investigators are pressing for legislation this session to give citizens more protection against big government's snooping — and a bigger opening to kibitz on Uncle Sam.

Neither measure was asked by President Johnson and one — a "Freedom of Information" bill — has drawn strong opposition from the administration.

★ ★ ★

In the Senate, Sen. Edward V. Long, D-Mo., said his subcommittee will resume its investigation into wire tapping by government agencies within 30 days.

Long said he hopes the hearings will lead to legislation to restrict government agents' use of what he calls "an armory of electronic snooping devices."

PROTECT RIGHTS

"The challenge before my subcommittee," Long said, "is to write legislation which will protect the individual's right to privacy while ensuring that adequate law enforcement continues."

Meanwhile the "Freedom of Information" bill aimed at cracking the privacy of the bureaucy is hanging fire in the House.

★ ★ ★

Its fate, one congressional source said, "will probably depend on how much outside pressures develops for it."

One form of the measure passed the Senate last year. But on the other side of Capitol Hill, Rep. John E. Moss, D-Calif., was unable to get his bill through his Government Operations subcommittee, although he had it rewritten 10 times in unsuccessful efforts to ease administration opposition.

UNWRITTEN RIGHT

Justice Department lawyers said the bill was unworkable and would do violence to the theory of executive privilege — the unwritten right of the President to withhold certain records from the public or Congress.

Moss launched a new effort last week, giving subcommittee members a written rundown on both his and the Senate's bill — and suggesting the Senate's might be the best bet.

★ ★ ★

The legislation, urged by representatives of the nation's news media, would give any citizen a court-enforced access to records of official actions.

Certain files, of course, would be specifically excluded — those for instance, dealing with national security or matter of individual privacy such as Internal Revenue records.

New GI Bill for 'Hot Spot' Vets Is Urged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A "hot spot" GI Bill of Rights measure has been offered to Congress as a substitute for the Senate-approved "cold war" bill giving benefits to all peacetime military men.

★ ★ ★

Its primary college aid benefits of $130 per month would be available to ex-servicemen who have served either in Viet Nam or in such semicombat situations as the Dominican Republic or Berlin, or in any future actions of this type.

Lesser school benefits would be given to home-front veterans under the substitute measure, which was sent to the House without fanfare by the White House.

House action on such a bill in some form is expected next month at closed sessions of the veterans committee. Final passage of such a bill this year is considered certain.

★ ★ ★

The Senate passed its $400 million-a-year version last July 19. It would provide basic payments of $110 monthly, with extra allowances for dependents, to anyone in service for at least 180 days since Jan. 1, 1955.

January 1955 was the cutoff date for eligibility under the GI Bill approved for veterans of the Korean War.

Quill's High-Handed Action Strikes Blow at U.S. Labor

MIKE QUILL has damaged the whole labor cause appreciably and turned away myriads of friends and many, many more people in the twilight zone. Even President JOHNSON bluntly declared the transportation settlement a violation of the administration's wage and price guidelines.

QUILL's actions beg for Federal legislation to place the balance of power in more intelligent hands in lieu of such ruthless and avaricious paws.

★ ★ ★

One of labor's outstandjng desires has been to repeal the Taft-Hartley Labor Act, Section 14-B which permits states to ban the union or closed shop. This was narrowly upheld last year, though President Johnson ran interference for the unions. The matter will arise again and it's perfectly possible that Quill has alienated sufficient Congressmen to guarantee the matter will be thumbed down again.

★ ★ ★

If the Nation must face irresponsible labor leaders, Congress cannot shirk. QUILL tore up a court order on TV to show off, and said he "hoped Judge GELLER would drop dead in his black robes"; and he called the Mayor a "juvenile" and a "pipsqueak." Further, he tossed eight million people into a perfect turmoil, costing the city $100 million a day. For selfish arrogance, this sets a new AAU record.

★ ★ ★

When the strike was called, QUILL demanded a wage increase of $150 a week which he finally scaled down to $40 a week as a "concession." The ultimate settlement runs between $50 and $70 million which the hapless and helpless taxpayers will pick up as a civic deficit.

★ ★ ★

President JOHNSON walked away from everything and declared piously that "this is a local matter." Yet this same man told the steel industry what to do and declared virtuously: "we must hold the line and check inflation." The steel figures were peanuts compared to this, but the President went all out in the first instance and then bowed meekly before the astronomical deal with QUILL.

★ ★ ★

Many feel the situation has provided Congress with ample justification for establishing restraints and at least a modicum of defense against the public-be-hanged attitude which is espoused so readily by some small minds in big places. Imagine — eight million people tossed to the dogs for two weeks by a nincompoop like Quill.

The Great I Am....

Historically, we gave our Presidents a cabinet so they could have the advice and help of competent assistants. President KENNEDY began "dispensing" with these meetings and finally had one in every five weeks.

But JOHNSON beats that.

He has had just one in five months.

★ ★ ★

In the light of all that's transpiring at home and abroad, this open declaration of self-sufficiency leaves one aghast. It recalls the words of the old song:

"I'm the great I am.
I'm known all through the pack.
With a king or queen
I can be seen;
But nothing as low as a jack.

I'm the idol of all —
Both the great and small —
I'm known from A to Z.
Each day in the week
The papers will speak of the great I am!
That's me!"

In spite of the dubious grammar in the last line, this may summarize the situation more exactly than a column of thoughtful prose.

Suddenly Forgetful...

As 1965 ended, Great Britain should have paid us an installment of $138 million on her loan. Instead, they just skipped it.

"So sorry." (And all that jazz.)

★ ★ ★

This is the fourth time our dear cousins have "postponed" a payment and the solicitous treasury over there suggests we'd get it in the year 2004. After the last war, we advanced gigantic sums at 2% interest. Britain needed this to keep the British flag flying. That old slogan "the sun never sets on the British Empire" went down the drain with the British navy.

★ ★ ★

In the meantime, the U.S. will probably increase taxes enough to allow you — and you — and you — to make up the deficiency.

And in Conclusion...

Jottings from the well-thumbed notebook of your peripatetic reporter:

With Christmas over, the junk mail creeps back. The most profligate waste of the early season goes to The Publishers Central Bureau, Long Island City, N.Y. Six duplicate junk mail offerings reached me in a single mail, later in the day another arrived and the next morning three arrived and two later. Also, I received four at the house—a total of 16. . . . . MIKE GUINAN says he's retiring "for life" from the Episcopal vestry after a third of a century of service. Few great, Christian gentlemen have ever given as goodly a portion of their busy lives to the Lord and humanity.

CHERI

Trusted scouts declare Cheri Mason is one of the area's very attractive young ladies. . . . . Insider's Newsletter says some Newton, Mass., youngsters became so irked at a "no Beatle haircut" edict, they shaved their silly noggins and appeared with smooth, bald pates. I'll bet they look dumber than they are. . . . . Airlines say it costs about $2,000 to train an acceptable hostess and then she only stays 18 months.

★ ★ ★

The Syracuse Post-Standard came up with the best headline on the N.Y. strike matter: "Judge Puts QUILL in Pen." . . . . . Women are among the persistent traders in the stock market these days and account for an appreciable part of the heavy volume. . . . . Overheard: "My friend knows a Texas juvenile who sent his butler out to slit a few tires." . . . . . Dept. of Cheers and Jeers: the C's—FRED MATTHAEI (Senior and Junior); the J's — Publishers Central Bureau's wanton waste.

David Lawrence Says:

President's Popularity Slipping

WASHINGTON — Something has happened to the popularity of President Johnson. Whether it's his handling of the war in Viet Nam or his failure to lend moral support to the tragic strike situation in New York City is not yet clear.

LAWRENCE

Certainly many newspapers which editorially endorsed Johnson for election in 1964 are criticizing him severely now. Also, letters received from different parts of the country show evidences of a disillusionment on the part of the voters.

★ ★ ★

Two newspapers in New York which supported Johnson in his presidential campaign — the Times and the Herald Tribune — have expressed their sharp criticism of his attitude toward the transit strike. The Times in an editorial on Jan. 15 entitled "Politics, the LBJ Way," said in part:

★ ★ ★

"Through all the 12 days that New York was crippled by a transit strike called in defiance of law and court order, President Johnson had not a word of condemnation for the union leaders responsible for this exercise in economic blackmail of a city. Now that the siege has been lifted with a costly settlement, Johnson suddenly finds his voice, and censures New York for paying too high a price for its freedom.

PEACE TERMS

"The President is quite right in stating that the peace terms breach his anti-inflation guidelines . . .

"If Johnson had seriously wanted to act against an inflationary settlement, he had ample opportunity to do so.

"On any one of the 12 days he could have denounced the strike as a threat to the national interest — which the chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, Gardner Ackley, now acknowledges it was — and he could have supported Lindsay in the mayor's unheeded call for arbitration, fact-finding or a retroactive contract extension. But the President did not choose to do so.

★ ★ ★

"Such help from Johnson would have been doubly meaningful in the light of attempts by some elements in the old-time Democratic-labor cabal in this city to exploit the strike as an instrument for humiliating the new Republican-fusion mayor, thus hoping to kill his future political career.

"Now that Lindsay and the city have survived the strike, the President contributes his meed toward discrediting the settlement.

"The blatantly political character of his comment is underscored by the continued absence of any direct criticism of the Transport Workers Union for its coercion of the community.

"He declares himself 'quite disturbed that essential services could be paralyzed for so long'; but there is not a hint of who is to blame. Not a word about flouting the law and the courts, not a syllable about the damage to the moral and judicial structure of this, the largest city in the United States."

Across the continent, many newspapers expressed the same criticism.

PUBLIC OPINION

These samples of public opinion will be taken seriously by many members of Congress, and legislation to prevent abuses by organized labor surely will be considered. Lots of members are beholden to labor for campaign contributions.

★ ★ ★

The majority of the voters, however, may in November repudiate timid congressmen and elect opposing candidates as a means of voicing the nation's disapproval of government by favoritism.

Bob Considine Says:

Declare War? Good Idea ...but on the Other Hand

NEW YORK — Why don't we declare war on North Viet Nam, stop jabbing and throw the haymaker which would knock that arrogant little nation off the map?

CONSIDINE

After all, we "are" at war. We're losing men and massive treasure every day.

We have more firepower on the line out there than we possessed in all our wars up to and including WWI: An enormous variety of planes, ships; bombs, ammo, flame, tear gas, defoliation sprays — you name it, we've got it. And are using it.

But there seems to be little likelihood that there will ever be any formal declaration of war, despite the temptation to reap what would be the ensuing benefits.

If President Johnson went before Congress with one of those old-fashioned "a date which will live in infamy" declarations, he'd stampede the session and have the whole country probably behind him.

It would throttle his hecklers under pain of prison terms for treason, pack the draft-card arsonists off to camp as conscientious objectors, reduce strikes, shake millions out of their apathy and euphoria.

★ ★ ★

However, there are momentous drawbacks to any formal declaration of war. These obviously loom larger in the President's view from the top than the benefits which would accrue.

FORCE RUSSIA'S HAND

A declaration of war would force Russia to abandon its present tightrope-walking activities and give it no choice but to come actively to North Viet Nam's aid.

We could destroy huge areas of China by bombing but still not win an inch of its unwanted territory by ground action.

Mao Tse-tung has said, in effect, that he could lose twice as many Chinese as there are Americans of all ages and still have three times as many Chinese left as there are now Americans.

★ ★ ★

It has been estimated that U.S. presidents since George Washington's time have sent the nation's armed forces into action 125 times without the endorsement of Congress or a formal declaration of war.

Voice of the People:

Minority Groups Need Protection of Proper Law

How much longer will Americans do nothing against the religious persecution of the Amish in this country? What has happened to religious freedom? We know that the excuse for this outrage is hiding behind the cloak of so-called proper education laws. No one will deny that education is needful and proper, but when you study the Amish people one can readily see that their education has done far more for them than our public schools have done for a vast number of Americans.

★ ★ ★

It seems that the school government would do well to clean up the drop-out problem before they point a finger at the children of the Amish. These people look well-fed, have good homes, have never been welfare wards, and I had never heard of one having been taken to court until this wicked intrusion into their religious rights.

★ ★ ★

Let's stop this debacle by a proper law to protect such minority groups. This could be only the beginning of religious persecution in this country. Only as we live by the Constitution given us by our forefathers can we help these people. We twiddle our thumbs while the Supreme Court and do-gooders make a shamble of our Constitution.

OUTRAGED CITIZEN

Supports Reclassifying Misguided Students

I wonder where Senator Philip A. Hart and Assistant Attorney General Fred M. Vinson Jr. get the impression that being reclassified 1A is being "punished." If this is a punishment, there are thousands of our young men being punished for entering the armed forces through the draft.

★ ★ ★

Students are classified in order to further their education and when they violate this condition by sitting in at a draft board, they should be classified 1A. It is quite a different matter to protest the so-called war in Viet Nam by parading and freedom of speech than by sitting in at a draft board and intimidating the employes and hindering the work of the board.

If there were a bit of patriotism in these students they would enlist and support the Armed Forces who are fighting in Viet Nam for the very freedom that these students are violating. It is time publicity and whole-hearted support are given to honorable and patriotic men. Let's give less publicity to our misguided students and classify them 1A.

Comments on Michigan Deer Hunting Laws

The fellow who signed his letter "Jack Pine" should have signed it "Knot Head." Anyone who thinks this game management is the right way is a meat hunter, not a sportsman. I've never heard of a dairy farmer killing off his herd to have a bigger and better one. If the hunters are increasing in number as much as reported, the hunters will naturally take care of things.

★ ★ ★

I believe Senator O'Brien, representing the people, has every right to step in and do something before it is too late. We still live in a democracy. I say let's go back to the "bucks only" law and open on the 15th instead of on weekends.

MATT MERSINO

'Disagree With Letter on School Basketball'

We disagree with Pat Geiger's letter on basketball. If the subs were good enough basketball players to be in the game more, they wouldn't be subs. If they practice just as hard as the regulars, the coach would know if they are good enough to be put in the game more often. It takes more than luck to make a great team and we think our whole team is great. If we're losing, putting in second string won't make us win.

★ ★ ★

We think that Northern's basketball coach is an all-right guy and we're sure the student body and faculty will back us up on this. We are very proud that we attend Pontiac Northern High School.

Seems Possible

Nothing is impossible to the man who doesn't have to do it himself.

Gravediggers!

The Renmin Ribao (Peking)

The American people are swinging into action. They are fighting against the Johnson Administration's war of aggression in Viet Nam. The tidal wave of mass demonstrations which is developing in the United States indicates that the consciousness of the people has been rising rapidly.

★ ★ ★

The "National Days of Protest" movement sponsored by the "National Coordinating Committee to End the War in Viet Nam" has swept the United States. Sixty cities are seething with activity. Thousands of people have thrown themselves into the struggle, shouting such slogans as "No more imperialist wars!" and "U.S., get out of Viet Nam!" Young Americans burned their draft cards. American women asked "how many more mothers must mourn" the loss of their sons? Angry throngs held a "haunt-in" demonstration against General Taylor, a criminal in the aggressive war against South Viet Nam. Neither the Johnson injunctions nor police tear gas can prevent the American people's struggle against the aggression from reaching a new high. This storm of the American people's struggle has shaken the White House.

First, the movement is developing on a broader scale than ever. It has rallied mass organizations composed of wide sections of the American people to take simultaneous, organized united action on a nationwide scale. This has never been known in the American people's struggle against the U.S. government's aggression abroad.

In this way, the struggle against the U.S. war of aggression in Viet Nam is closely linked with the American people's fight against monopoly capital and the struggle of the American people is closely linked with the struggle of the world's people against U.S. imperialism. Right now a mighty force against U.S. imperialism is rising in the heartland of U.S. imperialism — the United States itself.

It is U.S. imperialism which has compelled the awakened American people to finally defy everything and take to the streets to put an end of the war of aggression against Viet Nam. The Johnson Administration has unscrupulously escalated its war of aggression in Viet Nam, continued to expand the area of bombing and gone so far as to carry out military provocations against China time and again.

The American people, therefore, are faced with the real danger of a large-scale land war being forced on them by the Johnson Administration. . . .

To cover up the crime of expanding the war, Johnson has tirelessly spoken about peace. He says that the main aim of the United States is to establish stable peace in Southeast Asia and the next moment he claims that "we seek no wider war." But men are being drafted and sent to South Viet Nam; war armaments are being stepped up daily. Johnson's stock of "peace" talk can no longer fool them.

★ ★ ★

Chairman Mao Tse-tung has pointed out, "It will be proved that the U.S. reactionaries, like all the reactionaries in history, do not have much strength. In the United States there are others who are really strong — the American people." The great, awakened American people will be the gravediggers of U.S. imperialism — the most cruel, reactionary and corrupt of all imperialism. . .

Weekend's Road Toll Low at 5

By United Press International

A 16-year-old Grandville youth who failed to beat a Chesapeake & Ohio train became the fifth traffic fatality in what was believed to be the safest motoring weekend in recent state history.

Witnesses said Mark DeJonge was killed last night when he passed cars waiting for a train at a Hudsonville crossing, ignored flashing red lights and drove onto the tracks.

The train, en route from Chicago to Grand Rapids, struck the car, knocking it 200 feet.

Brenda Galmore, 3 months, Grand Rapids, was killed yesterday after noon when the car in which she was riding failed to make a turn on U. S. 131 in Fife Township, Grand Traverse County, and was hit broadside by another vehicle.

★ ★ ★

James D. Wright, 40, Detroit, was killed early yesterday when he was thrown from his car which struck a guard rail on the Chrysler Freeway in Detroit.

CAR HIT TREE

Raymond J. Smieleski, 21, Royal Oak, was killed early yesterday when he lost control of his car, hit a tree and careened into another car.

Raymond T. Ruddy, 30, Ann Arbor, was killed Friday night on I-94 at U.S. 12 in Ypsilanti Township, Washtenaw County, when his car ran off the road and hit an overpass abutment.

'THIS OLD HOUSE' — The former home of the Rochester Homer Wing Post No. 172 of the American Legion is coming down after 40 years of serving the community. The post is building a new hall next to the Rochester Municipal Building, and the old hall on West University is being torn down to make way for a new office and store building. The hall was converted from a private home to a community house in 1925. The American Legion bought it in 1945.

Avondale Board to Get Report

Results of a year-long study of future needs of the Avondale school system will be presented to the board of education tonight.

The Avondale Citizens School Study Committee, under the direction of Dr. Gerald Boicourt of Wayne State University, started the study last February.

It was originally scheduled for completion in June but through a series of delays, the preliminary report was not prepared until November.

Individual committees have been studying aspects of the elementary education program, the junior high school education program, the senior high school education program, population, buildings, public relations and finance.

★ ★ ★

A steering committee worked with consultants from Wayne.

News of the Area

The board of education allocated a maximum of $5,000 to pay for the consulting service.

FINANCE COMMITTEE

Representatives of all the committees were to act as a finance committee to determine the cost of the recommendations.

A probable bond issue or millage vote this year will be determined by the report, according to Acting Schools Supt. Charles Johnson.

Anticipating the need for additional buildings, the board has already asked its architects to draw up plans for a new elementary school with the understanding that they will be paid when a tax increase is approved.

★ ★ ★

Johnson said projected figures show that by 1980 there will be 7,000 pupils in the Avondale schools. He said that at present, if each elementary classroom contained only 25 pupils, 17 new elementary classrooms would be needed. There are now about 33 pupils in each room.

TO SAVE TIME

The board hopes to save between four and six months construction time by having O'Dell, Hewlett and Luckenbach Associates of Birmingham draw up plans for a new school now.

★ ★ ★

The board will meet at 8:30 tonight at Avondale High School.

Oxford High School to Hold 'College Night'

OXFORD — Students planning to attend college and their parents are invited to participate in "College Night" at 8 this evening at the high school.

★ ★ ★

Representatives of Oakland University, Michigan State University, Pontiac Business Institute, Oakland Community College and De Lima College will be on hand to answer questions about their respective schools.

Holstein Group Reports Gains

New Memberships, Exports Up in 1965

Despite a continued decline in dairy cattle numbers during the year, 1965 brought solid gains in export activity, ownership transfers and new memberships for the Holstein - Friesian Association of America.

In his year-end summary report, Executive Secretary Robert H. Rumler also noted that the number of registered Holstein cows on official testing programs showed an increase over the previous year's enrollment.

The association issued 150,585 ownership transfers in 1965, an increase of 15,190 over the 1964 volume and an all-time high.

Registrations of purebred black and whites leveled off at 256,769 animals, down slightly from year-ago figures, but in line with strong annual totals for the past six years. Over-all, Holsteins accounted for 66 per cent of all dairy breed registrations in 1965.

★ ★ ★

For the second consecutive year, membership application activity sustained gains over other years in recent history.

MEMBERSHIP APPLICATIONS

In 1965, 2,242 applications were received, matching the previous year's jump over 1963 and earlier figures. This increase in membership defies the present day trend of fewer dairy farms.

Improved money exchange rates, stepped up promotion and market development work and continued interest in U.S.-bred registered Holsteins resulted in substantially larger export sales in 1965.

The Holstein Association processed ownership transfers for 3,626 animals of all ages, which were shipped to 27 different countries.

★ ★ ★

Dairy herd owners in Mexico, Venezuela, Italy, Korea and Canada were the biggest buyers from breeders in this country. The 12-month Holstein export total is 73 per cent above 1964 sales.

TESTING PROGRAMS

Under the breed improvement phase of Holstein Association operations, two official production testing programs were conducted throughout the year.

Enrollment of registered Holsteins in Herd Improvement Registry continued to decline; but total enrollment was increased by the growing Dairy Herd Improvement Registry program.

At 1965 year end, there were 142,811 cows in 3,248 herds under official testing supervision. This reflects a gain of 1,428 animals.

At Rochester School

Panel to Air Taxes

ROCHESTER — Taxing procedures will be explained in a panel discussion to be held at the North Hill Elementary School at 8 p.m. tomorrow.

Mechanics of the taxation system, the 1963 state constitutional requirements, the 50 per cent assessment law, the legal definition of cash value, and state equalized valuation will be discussed.

The five panelists all have experience in taxation at the state, county and township levels of government.

They are Edward W. Kane, executive secretary of the State Tax Commission; Richard R. Roesch, assistant attorney general; and State Rep. Harry A. DeMaso, R-Battle Creek.

Also participating will be Vance Fouts, Hazel Park supervisor and chairman of the Oakland County equalization committee and State Rep. George Montgomery, D-Detroit.

UNABLE TO ATTEND

State Representative Rollo G. Conlin, R-Adrian and James N. Folks, R-Jackson, both scheduled as panelists, have announced they will be unable to attend.

Questions on assessed valuation and voted school bond issues and millage will be answered by Schools Supt. Dr. William Early.

The meeting was arranged by State Rep. Robert J. Slingerlend, D-Lake Orion.

Topic: Why Incorporate?

FARMINGTON TOWNSHIP —The committee studying the proposal to incorporate Farmington Township as a city will hold its second public meeting tonight.

The program will be held at 8 p.m. at East Junior High School, 2500 Middle Belt.

Topic for the meeting is "Why Incorporate?"

Board Eyes 3 Suggestions

HOLLY — Three recommendations of the Four District Education Study Committee will be discussed at the Holly Board of Education meeting tonight.

★ ★ ★

The final report of the committee was made earlier this month at the conclusion of a 13-month study by representatives of the Holly, Fenton, Linden and Lake Fenton school districts.

Holly's 11-member delegation has suggested that the district hire its own curriculum coordinator on a full- or half-time basis and that a co-operative business training pilot program be established for Holly schools.

Also recommended was the appointment of director for a cooperative vocational education program for the four districts.

★ ★ ★

The board also is expected to approve plans for an addition to Davisburg School at its 8 p.m. meeting.

PTA Council Slates Open Blood Bank

The Pontiac PTA Council will sponsor an open blood bank Friday in McCarroll School from 3 to 9 p.m.

Appointments are not necessary. However, those wishing one may contact Mrs. Charles Austin of Kenilworth Street.

An open blood bank is one sponsored by an organization but donors may stipulate to which bank the blood is to be given.

For instance, if a donor wishes to replace blood for a patient in a hospital this request will be honored and the blood credited to the patient.

One pint of blood may be given at each eight-week interval but not more than five times in one year.

Those eligible must be between the ages of 18 and 59 years. Donors under 21 years must have a consent slip signed by parent or guardian.

Meadow Brook School of Music Announces Expanded Program

Pianist Eugene Istomin, violinist Isaac Stern, and cellist Leonard Rose, will join the imposing list of performers including Sixten Ehrling, 20 Detroit Symphony first-chair men, and choral luminary Robert Shaw, to head Oakland University's Meadow Brook School of Music programs in the summer of 1966.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Walter S. Collins, dean of the unique development in music education established last year in the Detroit area, revealed that Istomin, Stern, and Rose will be in residence July 18 through Aug. 7 to conduct a piano trio institute limited to six highly talented pianists, violinists, and cellists between the ages of 15 and 30.

The program, first of its kind for the artists, will also be open to thirty qualified performers and teachers of each instrument who will audit these master teachers' instruction in daily open lessons and be coached in piano trio performance.

STARTS JULY 11

The regular six week credit granting summer session is designed for high school students who have completed the 11th grade, college and graduate students, teachers and performers, and will open July 11.

★ ★ ★

The orchestral progam is open to superior instrumentalists interested in perfecting their orchestral techniques and will duplicate the Detroit Symphony in size and balance. The student orchestra so formed will be under the direction of Albert Tipton, Detroit Symphony first flutist.

★ ★ ★

Among the Detroit Symphony principals participating are Mischa Mischakoff, violinist; Nathan Gordon, violist; Italo Babini, cellist; Arthur Krehbiel, French horn; James Tamburini, trumpet; and Paul Schaller, clarinet.

LONGER TERM

Shaw's choral and vocal institute has been expanded from four to six weeks and will also begin July 11. The Youth Chorus, University Chorus, and Choral Conductors Workshop directed by Shaw will perform at the Festival with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra.

★ ★ ★

Assisting Shaw in 1966 will be Clayton Krehbiel, University of Kansas; Howard Swan, Occidental College; Burton Garlinghouse, Cleveland Music School Settlement; William Vennard, University of Southern California; Karl Trump, College of Wooster; John Wustman, New York; Eric Dalheim, University of Illinois; David Gooding, Lake Erie College; and Marjorie Gordon and Alice Engram from Detroit.

A new opera workshop directed by David DiChiera of the Oakland music department will be added to the program this summer.

In the two week period June 25-July 10 preceding the regular session, a special Institute for Medieval, Renaissance, and Early Baroque Music will be conducted by the 10-member New York Pro Musica.

The program was developed by the group's director, Noah Greenberg, who died suddenly Jan. 9 in New York City.

The special two week session represents the first time such a program has been offered. It is designed for a limited number of serious singers, instrumentalists, conductors and scholars interested in furthering their knowledge of performing practices in this increasingly popular musical realm.

Financial aid based on ability and need will be available for all programs. Information may be secured from the Meadow Brook School, Oakland University.

Do You Think You Can Change?

She's Looking for Faults

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I met a girl eight months ago, and five minutes after I met her I confided to a friend, "There is the future Mrs. K——." I mention this just to emphasize what a great impression she made on me.

ABBY

I am a high school dropout, through no fault of my own, but a dropout nonetheless. She is a high school teacher with a B.A. degree, going for her M.A. I am 29 and she is 26. I sell for a living and do very well. Here's the problem:

She is trying to remake me. I don't mind criticism because I really want to improve myself, but I can't even turn around without her correcting me.

"Don't talk so fast!" "Don't rattle your keys in your pocket!" "Stand up straight!" "Quit cracking your knuckles!" "Clean your glasses!" She even criticizes my driving.

There is something wrong wrong with everything I do. I can't even drink a cup of coffee without her telling me that I'm making too much noise. Yet I still want to marry her. WHY?

PICKED TO PIECES

DEAR PICKED: Beats me. There must be something very special in this girl's favor that you have failed to mention.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: We have a child in our neighborhood (I'll call him Dickie), who has just turned five. Dickie has been the cause of many "accidents" involving the neighborhood children.

For instance, my baby was sitting in her stroller outside when Dickie took her for a "walk" (run) into the back fence, and knocked her out. I have forbidden him to go near the baby again.

Then he took my three-year-old boy for a "ride" on his trike, and my boy "fell off," cutting his forehead so badly he had to have eight stitches in it.

Now my five-year-old just came home with a bump on his head the size of an egg. Dickie hurled an inner tube at him, knocking his head against a tree.

These are only a few incidents involving my own children.

I once complained to his mother, and she just laughed and said he was "all boy." This is fine, but I would like to see my children grow to adulthood despite this child. Am I an overprotective mother? What now?

UPSET MOTHER

DEAR UPSET: You and your husband and the parents of the other children who have been victimized by Dickie's "all boy" behavior should call on Dickie's parents.

Urge them to take this child to a specialist in child behavior. Their boy could be disturbed and in need of professional help.

In the meantime, keep your own children safely out of Dickie's reach.

DEAR ABBY: Last month our son joined the armed forces. The night before he left, many of his friends and relatives honored him with gifts of money. In a few weeks he got an honorable discharge because of an injury.

Please, Abby, advise us if it is proper for him to return the money to those who gave it to him. He doesn't want to offend anyone, but he doesn't feel right keeping it.

W. VIRGINIA

DEAR W. VIRGINIA: Your son should attempt to return the money. The givers will probably insist that he keep it, but feeling as he does, he should make the gesture.

Set Art Show at the Mall for Jan. 31

The fourth annual Oakland County Art Show will be held at the Pontiac Mall Jan. 31 through Feb. 12.

All artists in Oakland County may exhibit works in oil, pastel, water color, graphic, charcoal and mixed media and sculpture.

Cochairmen of the show are Mrs. Kate McLean, local artist and art teacher, and William Finger of Finger's, an art supply store.

Both say this will be the largest art show held in the area. Last year more than 300 artists exhibited more than 800 pieces of work.

It it estimated that about 500 artists will display their creations this year.

Three noted state artists will be judges for the award-giving show. Included among them is Edward Hissong of Franklin.

Artists may register at Finger's and the Sherwin Williams Store, both in the Mall.

Work will be received for exhibit on Jan. 30 from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. The main entrance will be open for this.

Those Italians Love Bareness for Beach

FLORENCE, Italy (UPI) — The beaded bikini set the style Saturday on the second day of Italian spring-summer fashion previews in the historic Pitti palace.

The Florence collections put their emphasis on youth, color, geometry and some fairly heady sophistication.

★ ★ ★

Gibo's purple - beaded bikini came with a sarong that was purple on one side and reversed to a finger-painting print of reddish stripes.

Gibo's fondness for beachwear that clanked extended to beaded and bangled sandals and a long lilac linen resort gown banded in clusters of tiny shells.

YOUTH EMPHASIZED

Noni's knit-dress sports collection accentuated youth and knees, with hemlines usually thigh high. The effect was underlined by knee socks and white patent leather Mary Jane shoes.

The shape was flared at the hemline, sleeveless and linear. White was the favored color—usually combined with camel, turquoise or an especially vivid contrast of carrot and crimson.

Albertina's knits featured short skirts and sunny colors—yellow, violet, grass greens and masses of white.

★ ★ ★

Lucrezia presented versatile costumes based on skin-tight Bermuda shorts, wrap around skirts and suit-like jackets. These outfits came in color combinations like pink and orange.

WEAR 'TATTOO'

Castillo's knitwear used color and geometry with sophistication. The models presenting the collection all wore a tattoo-like diamond outlined in black on the left cheek.

Boldly colored square, triangular or diamond-shaped targets covered back or bosom of most dresses. In a yellow and red striped sun dress, the bull's eye was carefully cut out to reveal the model's navel.

★ ★ ★

One of the handsomest dresses in the Castillo collection was a long, slim black knit gown. It was trimmed with a sunray pattern of white bands that converged at the shoulder and then continued on down the back as streamers.

AP Photo

This white tennis sweater banded in black and yellow by designer Celli grew until it reached almost to the ankles. Sketched at the Italian 1966 spring and summer fashion show in Florence, the sweater retained ribbed hems, cuffs, necklines and bulky cable stitching of the traditional sweater. Cable-stitched shoes are in black and white.

AP Photo

Gilt glass beads and square stones in red, green, blue and topaz are used for top piece, necklace and bracelet worn with Tiziania's white silk gabardine slacks. At right is a dinner dress of green linen printed with vivid colors and slit on side. This one from Eleanora Garnett fashion house. Both shown at current Italian spring and summer collection in Florence, Italy.

Why Grow Old?

By Josephine Lowman

As most of you know I am currently bringing you my Eight-Week Beauty Improvement Plan (BIP for short) to help you lose overweight you may have accumulated, streamline your measurements, and improve your appearance in general. A half-million women are following BIP to see how much more attractive they can become in just eight weeks.

★ ★ ★

Last week I published sample menus for five days. These provided you with between 1,100 and 1,200 calories a day. This week I will bring you menus for four more days. Therefore, you will have menus for nine days. However, those of you who are going to be dieting for as long as eight weeks may not want to repeat the menus over and over again.

★ ★ ★

You may want to plan your own meals. Therefore let us consider some of the tricks which cut the calorie count.

In the first place you will notice that the servings are much smaller than those you usually have. If you study the menus you will also find that foods are not fried, visible fat is cut off, and items such as gravy are ignored.

SUBSTITUTES

Carbohydrates and fats are cut low in the diet. Milk is usually skim milk and the intake of butter or margarine is sharply limited. Herbs and lemon juice and vinegar are frequently used for seasoning. Artificial sweeteners are often substituted for sugar. Commercial or homemade reducing salad oil dressings are recommended.

★ ★ ★

Tomato juice is suggested as the base for a homemade salad dressing. Add a sprinkling of Roquefort cheese and a dash of garlic. You can vary this to taste by adding different herbs and lemon juice or onion, or both, to the juice. Herbs are a tremendous help when wishing to add a gourmet touch to slimming menus.

You can use my menus as guides and make substitutions. Just be certain to substitute a food in the same classification, for instance, a vegetable for a vegetable, lean meat, fish or fowl for meat, and fruits for fruit. As a general rule do not substitute for the citrus fruits and juices because they are such extremely rich sources of vitamin C.

'More Pressure and Harassment for Public Schools'

By G. K. HODENFIELD
AP Education Writer

WASHINGTON — The public schools have been the target of increased pressure and harassment during the past three years, a commission of the National Education Association reported today.

The NEA's commission on Professional Rights and Responsibilities said the John Birch Society was the No. 1 troublemaker. However, the Birch Society also appeared as No. 20 on the list of groups helpful to the schools.

★ ★ ★

The commission report said there has been an increase in censorship or criticism of books used in the schools since its last survey in 1962.

The report was prepared for the 18th annual conference on "Critics and the Schools." It summarized the response to a questionnaire of nearly 15,000 teachers and other educators.

LOCAL REPORTING

The survey showed 56 per cent of the local reporting noted a damaging effect from destructive criticism, compared with 49 per cent in 1962. The percentage of schools reporting "much damage" rose from 11 to 16 per cent in the same period.

★ ★ ★

Ninety per cent of criticism in the form of charges of communism or subversion in the schools, the report said, came from three states — California, Michigan and Ohio.

These three states also reported the greatest activity by right-wing groups in connection with book criticism and censorship, the report said.

Without distinguishing between the types of pressure and harassment, the report listed the chief troublemakers in this order:

The John Birch Society, teachers unions which compete bitterly with the NEA for teacher memberships), citizens' committees, Chambers of Commerce, American Legion, Dan Smoot Reports, and Parent-Teacher Associations.

MOST HELPFUL

However, on the list of those groups which had been most helpful, the PTAs were away out in front, followed in order by Chambers of Commerce, American Association of University Women, American Legion, business and professional women's clubs and citizens' committees.

★ ★ ★

The report said right-wing groups, parents and religious groups led the attack on school books.

Civil rights groups also emerged for the first time in the survey as book critics, particularly in regard to social studies and history books "which do not reflect the multiracial character" of the American culture.

Books under the strongest attack were "Catcher in the Rye," "Dictionary of American Slang," "Little Black Sambo" and "Brave New World."

NEGRO AUTHORS

Other books on the list included those by Negro authors, sex education books, books about the United Nations, "To Kill a Mockingbird," "1984," "The Scarlet Letter," "Exodus," and "Another Country, as well as Time and Newsweek magazines.

★ ★ ★

Religious groups, the report said, have stepped up their attacks on biology and science textbooks, particularly those dealing with evolution.

He's Feeling Sheepish

BUCKLAND NEWTON, England (UPI) — The stork has been busy lately at John Hisock's farm. One of his ewes had twins, another triplets and a third quadruplets—all on the same night.

Only One India Opponent Left to Mrs. Gandhi's Leadership Bid

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — India's political big guns came to bear today on the only candidate standing in the way of Mrs. Indira Gandhi's campaign to become the nation's next prime minister.

Mrs. Gandhi, 48-year-old daughter of the late prime minister Jawaharlal Nehru, already has picked up formidable support that made two leading contenders decide to drop out of the race.

Bur Morarji Desai, a rightwing leader in the governing Congress party, stuck it out and said he would fight Mrs. Gandhi until the final decision is made Wednesday.

On that day, the Congress party's members in Parliament will elect a new majority lealer. The leader automatically is asked to form a new government.

Many leading Congress members were cooperating in an effort to persuade Desai to withdraw to preserve a facade of party unity. He was being told his cause was hopeless.

This message was carried by some of the most powerful politicians in India — Kumaraswami Kamaraj, the Congress party president; Atulya Ghosh, West Bengal Congress leader, and Jagivan Ran, a great vote-getter among India's untouchable class.

Desai insisted he would surprise Mrs. Gandhi and draw support from party leaders angry at the way large blocks of votes were thrown to her Saturday by party President Kamaraj.

Kamaraj announced "almost all" state chief ministers favored Mrs. Gandhi. Since the chief ministers control the party's local machine, Kamaraj's statement started Mrs. Gandhi's bandwagon forward at great speed.

Red Wings' Ullman on Scoring Spree

Norm Connects for Five Goals in 2 Games

Detroit Blanks Leafs, 4-0; Gains 4-4 Tie With N. Y. Rangers

DETROIT (AP) — Norm Ullman has done an about face in the goal scoring department and Detroit Red Wings fans couldn't be happier.

Ullman, who led the National Hockey League with 42 goals last year, scored five over the weekend as the Red Wings tied New York 4-4 Saturday and shut out Toronto 4-0 Sunday.

★ ★ ★

Ullman scored three of his goals Sunday, giving him 22 for the season, 18 of which he has scored in Detroit, equalling last year's production before the home fans.

NO PREFERENCE

"I have no preference as far as the ice goes," said the soft-spoken Ullman. "I guess my record shows that. I'm just taking my shots and if the puck goes in, so much the better."

The Red Wings dropped out of a tie for second place over the weekend as Montreal scored a 6-4 victory over Chicago Saturday and defeated Boston 3-1 Sunday to climb back into a first-place tie with the Black Hawks.

★ ★ ★

Toronto trimmed Boston 6-1 in the other game Saturday while New York surprised Chicago 6-5 Sunday.

Ullman became the second player to hit the 20-goal mark this season. It was his second three-goal game of the season and ninth of his career, putting him in fourth place among active players.

It's the ninth straight year he's scored at least 20 goals.

He missed a chance to get his fourth goal Sunday when he broke in alone on Toronto goalie Johnny Bower with less than 10 seconds remaining. Bower blocked the shot with his chest.

"I can't be too unhappy about that one," the 10-year veteran said. "I didn't know how much time was left so I just shot. If I had known, I would have waited longer and gone for a corner."

Ullman put the Red Wings ahead before the game was four minutes old. Alex Delvecchio scored on a power play later in the first period.

★ ★ ★

Ullman's last two goals came in the second period, one on a bouncing backhanded shot from in front of the Toronto blue line and the other on a deflection of Delvecchio's shot from the point.

"I'll be perfectly happy with three points every weekend," said Manager-Coach Sid Abel. "(Roger) Crozier's been playing terrific hockey and it's good to see Ullman going so well."

Crozier turned aside 31 shots in registering his sixth shoutout of the season, tops in the league. He led the league with that many last year.

"If it hadn't been for him, we could have lost to New York Saturday," said Abel, recalling Jean Ratelle's goal in the final minute which gave the Rangers the tie.

MONTREAL WIN

At Boston, Jean Beliveau scored his 371st career goal, tying him for fourth place on the all-time scoring list, in leading the Canadiens past the Bruins.

Ex-Red Wing Pit Martin scored for Boston when the game was 19 seconds old. Claude Larose got that one back later in the period and Henri Richard scored the second Montreal goal.

Bobby Hull scored four goals for Chicago, but Doug Robinson's third-period tally proved to be the winner.

Len Lunde got the Black Hawks' other goal. Vic Hadfield had two goals for New York while Reg Fleming, Don Marshall and Ratelle got the others for the Rangers.

The Red Wings play an exhibition against Hamilton tonight and return to NHL action at home against Montreal Thursday.

WEST HEADS EAST — Herb Adderley (26) of the Green Bay Packers and Western All-Stars is brought down by Bob Hayes of the Dallas Cowboys after intercepting a Norm Snead (Philadelphia Eagles) pass in first period of yesterday's NFL All-Star game in Los Angeles. The West returned the ball moments later to the East on a fumble. The East eleven rolled to a 36-7 victory.

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Grid Giveaway, Says Lombardi

LOS ANGELES (AP) — It's elementary in football that the less you give up the ball the more chance a team has to win.

When you surrender the ball 10 times, well—

"That's the whole story of the game."

Author of this was Coach Vince Lombardi of the Green Bay Packers, whose favored West team was drubbed 36-7 by the East in Sunday's National Football League Pro Bowl game.

Two fumbles and eight pass interceptions by the alert East certainly contributed to the downfall of Lombardi's warriors.

★ ★ ★

There were other factors, notably the East's on-target quarterback, Frank Ryan of the Cleveland Browns; his teammate, fullback Jim Brown, and the St. Louis Cardinals' kicking specialist, Jim Bakken.

Jim Brown—there were six fellows named Brown in the game—scored three touchdowns to equal a pro bowl record.

True, his combined yardage for the scores was five. But he banged out a total of 64 and was named for the third time as Back of the Game.

Ryan completed 10 of 21 passes for 182 yards, a 51-yard throw setting up one touchdown on the West's two.

Bakken's contributions were three field goals of 41, 36 and 42 yards.

But for some 60,124 fans in Memorial Coliseum, perhaps the main show finally centered on the West's No. 1 quarterback, John Brodie of the San Francisco 49ers.

Brodie set a Pro Bowl record, too—for the number of intercepted passes he threw. The number was six.

The West's brightest—and possibly only—moment came with four minutes remaining. Little Tommy McDonald of the Los Angeles Rams made a typical McDonald 31-yard catch, leaping high to grab the ball and fall into the end zone.

The pass carried some consolation, too. John Brodie threw it.

AFL Highlight: Housecleaning

HOUSTON Tex. (AP)—Expansion was the No. 1 topic at the American Football League meetings today after a long weekend of house-cleaning in which nine players, including San Diego's mammoth Ernie Ladd and Earl Fasion, were shipped to new locations.

★ ★ ★

The kickoff was the Ladd-Faison trade, with the two all-league defensive standouts sent to Houston in a five-player deal considered the biggest in AFL history and accompanied by one of the league's biggest fusses.

In addition to Ladd and Faison, San Diego Coach Sid Gillman gave the Oilers a piece of his mind for "tampering" while accepting three players in exchange — linebacker Johnny Baker, defensive end Gary Cutsinger and cornerback Pete Jaquess.

★ ★ ★

The multi-player trade was announced Saturday during the second period of the AFL All-Stars 30-19 victory over Buffalo while Ladd and Faison still were playing. Then on Sunday, San Diego lost tight end Dave Kocourkek, a second team All-AFL selection.

MIAMI PICKS

Kocourke, Buffalo fullback Billy Joe, quarterback Eddie

BILLY JOE WILSON

Wilson of Boston and New York linebacker Wahoo McDaniel were selected by the Miami Dolphins as the first of 32 veteran players they will receive under the AFL stocking formula.

With the first of the expected player shifts made attention focused on the league owners, who had expansion listed as the main item on the official agenda. Preliminary discussions were started with an eye toward expansion to a 10th team for the 1967 season.

Heading the list of franchise applicants were Chicago, Los Angeles and Anaheim, Calif.; Washington, D.C.; Milwaukee, Portland, Ore., and Phoenix, Ariz. It was expected that if a decision could not be reached the list would at least be pared.

★ ★ ★

The Dolphins, who become operational as the ninth team this year, are expected to name four more of their selections today.

Pennel 'Upset' in Vault

Englishmen Rescue K. of C. Games

BOSTON (AP) — Three Englishmen—one who runs two miles for "a rest," another who disdains regular indoor track shoes and a third who calls himself "fat as a pig"—were hailed today as rescuers of the 40th Knights of Columbus Games.

Alan Simpson, a 25-year-old clerk, was an overwhelming choice for the John F. Kennedy Memorial Award as the meet's outstanding performer Saturday night after he set a K of C record of 8:14.6 in winning his first attempt at two miles indoors.

John Whetton, a 24-year-old school teacher, posted his 23rd victory in 25 indoor mile starts with a finishing kick that caught him in 4:06.6, and countryman John Cooper surprised himself in capturing the 600 in 1:11.2.

FINAL TRY

Late in the evening, John Pennel, who has cleared 17 feet in the pole vault, concentrated on a third and final attempt at an indoor record of 16-9¼. The crowd of 9,021 was virtually silent.

★ ★ ★

Then, as Pennel began his run, a few hecklers let loose. Pennel lost his concentration and pulled up. When he finally tried again, he obviously was disturbed and failed to even reach the bar, forcing him to settle for a victory at 15-6.

★ ★ ★

"The fans here were worse than the ones in Europe," Pennel said later. "I may not come back here for the Boston A.A. meet later this month."

★ ★ ★

Simpson, who placed second in the mile at Detroit Friday night, entered the Boston two-mile "just for a rest."

Whetton, who wears flat rubber soles in belief that spikes "are a waste of time" on the boards, said a slow early pace (2:08 at the half) suited him because of his race in Detroit the previous night.

Eastern Golfer Nips Detroiter

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP)— J. Walcott Brown of Sea Girt, N.J., upset two-time champion George Haggarty of Detroit 2-up Saturday and won the Belleair Seniors Golf Tournament.

★ ★ ★

The match went to the final hole, which Brown birdied for the victory.

Brown, a 63-year-old banker, was one-under-par over the par-71, 6,367-yard course at the Bellview-Biltmore.

Wins Governor's Cup

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Mike Thomas of Harvey Cedars, N.J., won the Governor's Cup at the Orange Bowl Regatta Sunday as favorite Bill Sterett was penalized for crossing the starting line too early.

Waterford Five Tops Service Brigade Loop

Waterford Community Church rolled to a 34-19 victory over Sunnyvale Chapel last week to remain in first place in the Christian Service Brigade basketball race.

Detroit Named U.S. Olympic Bidder for Eighth Time

Three Ballots by Committee

Picks Salt Lake City for Winter Site

CHICAGO (AP) — It took three ballots before Detroit gained a simple majority edge over Los Angeles to win the honor of being the U. S. city to bid at the international level for the 1972 Summer Olympic Games.

Salt Lake City was designated on the first ballot to bid for the 1972 Winter Olympiad.

The action came Saturday in a vote of 42 members of the U.S. Olympic Committee meeting in Chicago.

★ ★ ★

Throughout the day, impressive presentations were made by delegations from Detroit, Los Angeles, St. Louis, Chicago and Philadelphia, wanting the 1972 Summer Olympics and from Salt Lake City, Lake Placid, N.Y., and Anchorage, Alaska, seeking the bid for the Winter Games.

FIRST ROUND

On the first round, Detroit received 18 votes to 15 for Los Angeles, eight for St. Louis, one for Chicago and a surprising none for Philadelphia. With Chicago and Philadelphia dropping out, the second round balloting brought 21 for Detroit, 16 for Los Angeles and 5 for St. Louis.

With St. Louis out, the final vote was Detroit 25 and Los Angeles 17.

★ ★ ★

For the eighth time the Motor City will be bidding for the Summer Games, never having won them. In 1964, Detroit finished second to Mexico City when the International Olympic Committee awarded the 1968 site.

For the 1972 Winter Olympics, Salt Lake City received 36 votes while Lake Placid had six and Anchorage none.

WINTER GAMES

The 1968 Winter Games will be at Grenoble, France, after Lake Placid was far outdistanced in the final showdown.

The last time the Summer Olympics were held in the United States was 1932 in Los Angeles. The Winter Games were at Squaw Valley, Calif., in 1960.

★ ★ ★

Doug Roby of Detroit, president of the U. S. Olympic Committee, thinks both U. S. cities, especially Detroit, will have a difficult time landing the 1972 Games when the final vote comes before the international body in Rome, Italy, late in April.

★ ★ ★

Bidding against Detroit will be Montreal, Munich, Germany and probably Madrid-Barcelona. The Banff area in Calgary, around Lake Louise in Canada, again is bidding for the Winter Games after making a strong showing in trying to land them for 1968. Another strong entry is Sappuro, Japan.

"I think the Canadian, Japanese and Utah bids probably will be hotly contested," said Roby. "But right now I would have to say that Detroit cannot be considered a favorite for the 1972 Summer Games in view that the 1968 Olympiad is on this continent in Mexico City"

Muhammad Ali Lets Joe Louis Join 'Winner'

NEW YORK (AP) — Heavyweight champion Cassius Clay, unbeaten in his 22 pro fights, has hired Joe Louis to work with him "because it's time Joe was with a winner."

The former heavyweight king will have plenty of chances to be with a winner said Clay in announcing that he hopes to have four title fights this year. He said No. 1 may be announced by Tuesday.

"I want the first one within 10 weeks to three months," said Clay, who celebrated his 24th birthday today.

Clay, or Muhammad Ali as he prefers to be called, named Doug Jones of New York, Ernie Terrell of Chicago, George Chuvalo of Toronto and England's Brian London as the four possible opponents for this year, adding that Jones "is the most likely at this time."

The champion announced the hiring of Louis "for training and advising" and his fight plans in accepting the Edward J. Neil Memorial Plaque as Fighter of the Year.

WOLL Breaks Scoring Mark

A hot-shooting Waterford Our Lady of Lakes quintet cracked the school scoring record last night in handing Detroit St. Rose a 104-84 setback in a Macomb Catholic League contest.

The 104 points broke the old mark of 88 set by the Lakers in their 88-70 win over St. Frederick last week.

The win upped the Lakers' record in Macomb play to 5-2, keeping them within shooting distance of league-leading St. Michael (8-1).

Five players hit in double figures for the Lakers. Carl Matzelle led the way with 27, followed by Randy Wise (26), Dennis McCullock (20) Doug Springer (18) and Tom Sirbaugh (10).

Cornell Coach Switches

DUKE COACH—Tom Harp, 38, head coach at Cornell University for the last five years, yesterday was named head football mentor at Duke University.

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) —Tom Harp is leaving Cornell to accept the prestigious job of head football coach at Duke University "to fulfill personal desires to participate in major college football."

★ ★ ★

Duke officials announced Sunday that Harp, head football coach at Cornell the last five years, will suceed Bill Murray as head coach at Duke. The terms of Harp's contract with Duke were not made public.

Harp said he was "delighted to join the Duke family" and make the switch from the Ivy League ao the Atlantic Coast Conference.

The 38-year-old coach, who was the youngest Ivy League coach the first four years he was at Cornell, said he planned to bring in "from one to five" new assistants but did not say who they might be.

Murray resigned Nov. 20 after 15 seasons at the Blue Devils' helm to become executive secretary of the American Football Coaches Association.

★ ★ ★

The Duke appointment is a big step for the youthful-looking Harp, who has a life time coaching record of 57 wins, 31 losses and four ties.

The 1965 Cornell club ended its season with a 4-3-2 record and a fifth ranking nationally in rushing offense. Cornell had an average of 258.1 yards per game.

Typical Day in NBA

By The Associated Press

Wilt Chamberlain got sick, Bill Russell got hurt and the Cincinnati Royals got scared. All in all it was a typical day in the National Basketball Association's tension-packed Eastern Division.

Chamberlain, who was stricken with food poisoning after eating Saturday night, watched from the bench, and Russell bruised a shoulder but not before making his presence felt as Boston beat Philadelphia 137-122 Sunday afternoon.

The Royals came from behind and then had Detroit almost turn the table on them before edging the Pistons 108-106 for their 11th victory in their last 12 starts.

After the smoke cleared, Boston still led the East by one half game over Cincinnati while Philadelphia was four games back of the Celtics.

HAWKS WIN

St. Louis beat Baltimore 136-128 in another afternoon game.

Second-year man Lucious Jackson took over for Chamberlain against Russell, and scored only 11 points while Russell scored 19, got 14 rebounds and blocked several shots before going out late in the third period with the bruised shoulder.

Saturday, Detroit beat Baltimore 122-117 and Los Angeles trounced New York 152-123.

Olympic Champ Upset in State Skating Event

MIDLAND (AP)—Dick Blasy, 19-year-old skater from Midland, upset Olympic 500-meter champion Terry McDermott at the Essexville barber's specialty Sunday.

On slow ice, Blasy thundered the 500 course in the Chemical City Classic's special Olympic style meet in :44.9 to McDermott's :46.2.

The special meet decided on eight Michigan representatives to take part in the Olympic-style meet Feb. 4-6 at Flint.

Speed skaters from across the nation, including most of the 1964 U. S. Olympic team, will compete in the event.

★ ★ ★

The meet was called to keep U. S. speedskaters in shape during the off years between Olympiads and help select a 30-member U. S. team to face a Canadian team Feb. 12-13 at Saskatchewan.

At the Flint meet, two U. S. skaters, a man and a woman, will be selected to go against the best in Europe Feb. 19-20 in Sweden and Norway.

THOSE PICKED

The Michigan team for the Flint meet already includes McDermott, by virtue of his Olympic record, Mrs. James Omelenchuk of Warren, a previous Olympic team member, and Tom Augustitus, a top Detroit skater who could not compete this weekend because of an Army Reserve obligation.

★ ★ ★

The other spots were decided at Midland on the basis of accumulative, or elapsed, time for the 500 and 1,500 meter events.

Blasy was the top competing qualifier, posting an elapsed time of 99.16 seconds for the two events. He finished second in the 1,500 to Detroit's Eddie Bertrand who posted a winning time of 2:39.7.

Other qualifiers were Mike Carey and Bill Freeman, both of Detroit.

With Mrs. Omelenchuk absent, Nancy Darby of Flint led women qualifiers with an elapsed time of 1:25.6 for the two events.

The other two girl qualifiers were in the intermediate division for girls 17 and under. They were Linda Michalski and Sheila Young, both 16 of Detroit.

Two intermediate boys, Mark Hickner, 16, of Bay City, and Paul Mehl, 17, of Detroit also qualified. Hickner, who had an elapsed time of 1:92.8, didn't lose a match in the Chemical City Classic.

Local Boater Reaps Prizes

Chuck Cartwright of Cass Lake might have suspected he was in for a good weekend when he won two of the four heats Saturday in the Shelly's Bar Trophy ice regatta at Cass Lake.

He followed through by winning two more heats Sunday to clinch the Cass Lake Ice Yacht Club competition's prize.

★ ★ ★

Cartwright also added the Sporer Trophy to his collection by winning three of five heats in the Detroit sailing club regatta that shared the course yesterday.

Chuck's wife Arlene capped the presentations by giving birth to a 7-pound, 14-ounce boy at 6 a.m. this morning. This is the Cartwright's third offspring.

About 50 ice yachts competed during the two-regatta weekend. Ro Redner and Ed Stack, both of Cass Lake, were two-three behind Cartwright in the local club's race.

Detroiter Jack Wessenberg was second and Cass Lake's Gene Treuter third in the DN regatta.

★ ★ ★

As long as the ice remains, he Cass Lake club will have Saturday and Sunday afternoon aces beginning at 1 p.m. in front of the Pontiac Yacht Club.

Death Mars Motor Rally

MONTE CARLO (UPI) — The 170 surviving cars set out in bitter cold today for the French Alpine town of Chambrey and back over bad roads as the death-marred Monte Carlo Motor rally continued.

★ ★ ★

The drivers expected the worst from the 890-mile round trip. The rally organizers themselves termed the roads "in shocking condition." The 170 autos still in the running were the survivors from the original field of 197 that set out Friday from nine points in Europe and arrived in Monte Carlo Sunday.

★ ★ ★

Two Spanish competitors were killed in a crash Sunday. Jose-Luis Pampyn, 35, one of Spain's best drivers, and Rafael Taravilla died in the wreckage of their Fiat 1500 which swerved off the icy road and hit a tree.

Important Prep Games on Limited Cage Slate

Tuesday's limited high school basketball schedule has important league games at three sites, plus several well-matched independent foes meeting.

The top game will be at Brighton where Bloomfield Hills will invade the Bulldogs' den. Both have title ambitions in the Wayne-Oakland League race, but can't afford another loss.

Hills (3-3) knocked off Northville's high-prancing Mustangs Friday night to move within two games of the pace-setters.

Brighton, meanwhile, pushed its mark in the race to 4-2 — one game behind Northville and West Bloomfield, and tied with Clarkston — but must play without scoring leader Damon Eubank who has transferred back to Indiana.

However, Bruce Evenson paced Brighton's scoring for the past two seasons and the 6-5 senior pumped in 30 points last week for his best 1965-66 showing.

★ ★ ★

The visiting Barons' best weapon this campaign has been a balanced offense and they haven't displayed it consistently. With Brighton tomorrow and arch-rival West Bloomfield Friday night, coach Hal Henderson has a big job facing him.

Another Wayne-Oakland game has winless Clarenceville visiting Holly.

Orchard Lake St. Mary, leading the Northwest Parochial Division race, will entertain St. Francis de Sales in the Eaglets stretch run for the title. They won by 19 earlier.

Utica's unbeaten Chieftains will attempt to do what their football squad couldn't do: protect a perfect record at Center Line in a Bi-County loop tilt.

One of Oxford's two wins this season was a two-point verdict at Warren Woods. That victim will visit the Wildcats tomorrow.

St. Frederick's twice-beaten Rams have a date at winless Emmanuel Christian; once defeated Ferndale will visit always dangerous Hamtramck; and Hazel Park will go to Mount Clemens.

Country Day, a class C Birmingham school, will travel to Cranbrook, a "B" team. South Lyon will be host to Pinckney and Royal Oak St. Mary will invade Madison Lamphere.

Lakeland Tops Lakeview Six

The Lakeland AA Hawks won their second game of the season Sunday, 3-1, over Lakeview AC at Gordie Howe Hockeyland in St. Clair Shores.

Ronnie Young scored twice and Bruce Strohm once to back the fine goaltending of Randy Sutt in the Southeastern Michigan Junior Hockey Association game.

It was the best effort of the season by the Lakeland youngsters who next play the Waterford Rangers at 7 p.m. Sunday on the Windsor Arena ice.

Hazel Park Wins Meet at Northern

Hazel Park piled up 78 points in walking off with the fourth annual Pontiac Northern Wrestling Invitational tournament Saturday.

The Parkers, unbeaten in six dual starts going into the tourney, picked up four individual titles and placed four grapplers in runnerup positions in taking the team crown

Ypsilanti finished second with 69 points, followed by Pontiac Northern (65) and Pontiac Central (64).

PNH and PCH picked up three individual championships apiece.

Winning titles for Northern were Mike Hester (95), Bruce Tippin (154) and Troy Bell (133), Dan Rodriguez (145) and Ben Rodriguez (180) won titles for Central.

Chiefs' Coach Sees Wildcats as Tough Foe

"We're going to worry about Bay City Handy before Saginaw," says coach Fred Zittel of Pontiac Central.

The Chiefs play at home Friday against the Wildcats and then take on Saginaw in the Saginaw Valley Conference's pivotal contest.

The Saginaw tilt will be Jan. 25, not tomorrow as erroneously reported in Saturday's Press.

"I remember what Handy has done when they came down here in the past and we were expected to have an easy time," said Zittel. "The last time they had us on the ropes the first half and we really had to hustle to pull out a win."

It will be difficult for Zittel to keep the Chiefs from thinking past Handy, a team that is winless in five games. But he's going to try by concentrating on the Wildcats in practice this week.

The PCH coach said he was quite pleased with the play of Prentice Hill as his No. 3 guard.

"Hill is all business out there. He's an intelligent boy and he's really given us a lift."

Hill has been averaging better than 10 points a game in unbeaten PCH's first seven games.

SEVEN PLAYERS

The junior guard is one of the top seven players on the varsity. Ross Ludwick is the other first line reserve, but he has started several games.

Actually, Zittel has five players of about equal ability he can call on at any time and not hurt the team's effectiveness. Jessie Evans, the top scorer, and guard Jim McClenden are the key players.

Center Larry Platt, forward Willie Craft and guard Eddie Pruitt join with Hill and Ludwick to give the Chiefs excellent depth. It isn't every coach who can call on his No. 6 and No. 7 players without yielding some ground.

The Chiefs can move half a game ahead of Saginaw in the SVC race by beating Handy. Saginaw plays non-league Flint Northwestern Friday.

San Diego Golf Champ

Casper Wins 'at Home'

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Billy Casper has triumphed in 30 PGA tournaments but none exceeded the thrill of victory in Sunday's San Diego Open.

The 34-year-old Casper, veteran of 11 pro years, finally won before the home folks by blazing a trail of seven birdies for a last-round 64 and a 16-under-par 268 for 72 holes.

"I've always wanted to win at home," said Casper, "so this is a very gratifying victory. I worked awful hard last year but couldn't win it when I shot a 64 on the last round and tied the tournament record.

This tourney was worth $40,000, and Casper's share was $5,800.

Destructive Rio Flooding Again Focuses Attention on Flimsy Shantytowns

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — Death and destruction slid down Rio de Janeiro's hills into fashionable Copacabana last week, bringing the problem of the city's "favela" shantytowns to attention once again.

Nearly a week of rain produced floods and landslides that sent thousands of flimsy shacks and their wretched inhabitants tumbling into streets inhabited by the middle and upper classes.

More than 450 persons — half of them children — perished in the Greater Rio area. Officials said 2,100 housing units were destroyed, 5,000 have been condemned, 5,000 more were damaged and 4,000 families numbering 20,000 persons are homeless. Another 20,000 persons are estimated to have moved in with relatives, adding to their crowded conditions.

Gov. Francisco Negrao de Lima and his advisers are asking the federal and U.S. governments for help on a massive housing program for the homeless. The first phase will be to put up tents and barracks on vacant lands near the destroyed sections.

SECOND PHASE

The second phase includes completion of a 1,600-unit suburban housing project which lacks water, sewage and electricity.

Several newspapers have launched editorial campaigns to eliminate the shantytowns.

"The moment of decision has arrived," said Jornal do Brasil.

★ ★ ★

In an open letter, former Gov. Carlos Lacerda told President Humberto Castello Branco that 5,000 units of public housing could be completed in two months with federal aid.

Sources within the government said Negrao de Lima and his advisers are "studying a long-term housing construction plan."

"But any such solution depends on external aid — either federal or international," the sources said.

"We don't doubt that the resources will appear, if determination appears first," Jornal do Brasil said.

Lacerda, during his term, moved the residents of several favelas to housing projects built with U.S. loans under the Alliance for Progress.

★ ★ ★

Many of the refugees now sheltered in schools and other public places have indicated they want to go back to their hillside homes. Some have returned.

Those whose homes were smashed in the slides shrug their shoulders and say they will rebuild. Plenty of material is at hand in the city's dumps and refuse piles.

One problem is the residents' reluctance to move. Many had to be taken away by force even at the height of the rainstorms.

When Lacerda tried to move residents of a large favela to "Vila Kennedy," which was financed by the Alliance for Progress, many refused to go and moved into other favelas.

The big objection to moving is one of convenience. Most of the favelados work near their shacks.

But there's an even stronger force keeping the favelados in their precariously perched hillside shacks.

"I was born here and I grow up here. This is my home. I don't want to go," one favelado said.

Lewis Carroll's "Alice in Wonderland" has been translated into the Swahili language.

Mediocre Social Season Due

By Esther Van Wagoner Tufty

WASHINGTON — The President and Mrs. Johnson will continue their "getting to know you" entertainment policy at the White House but, unless the war atmosphere lifts, the social season will not be exceptional.

Certain functions are a traditional part of politics and diplomacy considered necessary to smooth cooperation between policymakers at home and abroad.

Visiting heads-of-state must be properly honored or an international incident might result.

Almost as serious a domestic incident would follow the snubbing of the top leaders in the Congress and the Supreme Court.

The first dinner on Jan. 24 honors the vice president, the speaker, and the chief justice of the supreme court.

HOSPITABLE

The Johnsons not only know the value of White House entertaining but they are hospitable people.

The White House records show the President and First Lady were hosts to 30,230 guests at 138 parties during the last year.

One innovation of President Johnson's may even be stepped up because of the Vietnam crisis. The First Family had made a special effort to get to know foreign diplomats on a personal basis.

Many have been the private chats and yachting trips down the Potomac with small groups of foreign envoys given by the President. Lady Bird Johnson has had several morning coffee chats with ambassadors' wives.

LBJ HALLMARK

The Johnson hallmark of official functions has been informality, almost too much so, according to Washington social arbiter Carolyn Hagner Shaw, who regrets the change from "white-tie" to "black-tie" protocol.

The dignity and prestige of the executive mansion is lessened in her eyes by creating relaxed festive atmosphere. Actually, it was the young Kennedys who first broke through the stiff traditional customs governing White House official social affairs.

The Johnsons, it is safe to predict, will continue in 1966 to add a Texas, wide-open-space coloration to what goes on at the White House.

★ ★ ★

The doorkeeper at one of the Senate visitors galleries says tourists always want to spot four senators: the two Kennedys, Republican leader Dirksen and Margaret Chase Smith.

EASY TO SPOT

Actually, all are easy to identify. The Kennedys look like Kennedys. Dirksen, with his wispy wild mane, has only to speak in his gravelly voice.

And there are only two women senators and Mrs. Smith, unlike Maureen Neuberger of Oregon, sits on the Republican side of the dividing line and always wears a rose.

Since the opening of the new session of the 89th Congress, visitors also have their eye on the newest senator, Harry Byrd Jr. of Virginia, the son of the distinguished senator who retired after 32 years, not only from the Senate but from being the "boss man" in the Old Dominion's Democratic organization.

How to Save on Taxes – 13

3 Big Deductions Justify Itemizing

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the 13th of a 14-part series, "Cut Your Own Taxes," by tax expert Ray De Crane, designed to help readers save money on their income tax returns.)

By RAY DE CRANE
NEA Special Writer

As a general rule, the average taxpayer needs three major deductions on his Form 1040 to justify itemizing deductions rather than taking the alternative choices.

These three are:

- Interest payments on a sizable mortgage.
- Real estate taxes.
- A substantial medical deduction.

★ ★ ★

Even if you don't have all three, continue through your master checklist of deductions.

Then compare your total with your two alternatives: a 10 per cent of income allowance, or the minimum standard deduction.

There is no limit to the itemized deductions you may claim, so long as they are all allowable and the expenses can be substantiated.

★ ★ ★

Your alternative choices do have limits. The 10 per cent rule (for example, $800 allowance on an $8,000 income) provides a top allowance of $1,000 regardless how high the income might be.

TOP ALLOWANCE

And this is further restricted to a top of $500 per person when separate returns are filed by a married couple.

The minimum standard deduction permits the use on joint returns of a flat $200, plus an additional $100 for each exemption. This means that a husband, wife and five children could claim an allowance of $900 without itemizing deductions.

On separate returns of married persons, this would be limited to $100, plus an additional $100 for each exemption.

In considering the interest deduction on your return, attention is usally centered first on mortgage interest.

Ordinarily, the monthly or yearly mortgage slip will show the allocation of the payment among principal, interest, taxes, and insurance.

If your statement does this, simply total the interest payments made during the year for your allowable deduction.

Other interest properly deductible on your return includes the amount paid a bank, savings and loan, credit union or finance company for the use of their money.

★ ★ ★

A cardinal rule on interest deduction is that it can be claimed only by the person legally obligated for the payment.

RULE OUT CLAIM

If you gratuitously make a mortgage payment for one of your children, you cannot claim the interest you paid. Similarly, if you helped a friend by making a payment on a note for him, you have no interest deduction.

But if you were a cosigner on the note, he defaulted and the finance company forced you to make the payment, you would then have an interest deduction. In that case, you were legally obligated to make the payment.

Carrying charges and service charges are not deductible as such.

To arrive at the allowable interest deduction, total the unpaid balances on the first day of each month, divide by 12 to get the average unpaid balance and then multiply by 6 per cent to arrive at allowable interest.

(Next: Other deductions.)

Liuzzo Seeks to Stop Ads on Death Car

DETROIT (UPI) — Anthony Liuzzo, husband of slain white civil rights worker Viola Liuzzo, said yesterday he was contacting the FBI in an attempt to stop the sensational advertising of the car in which his wife was killed.

An advertisement in the Birmingham News Saturday called the car a "crowd-getter" and listed the 1963 Oldsmobile, complete with bullet holes, for $3,500.

Mrs. Liuzzo, a Detroit housewife, was fatally shot the night of March 25 as she drove along U.S. 280 following the Selma-to-Montgomery "Freedom March."

Liuzzo said at the time of the slaying he was financing the uto through General Motors Acceptance Corp., and that afterward he arranged for the company to dispose of the auto.

★ ★ ★

"Notice — Do you need a crowd getter?" the advertisement said. "I have a 1963 Oldsmobile two-door in which Mrs. Viola Liuzzo was killed. Bullet holes and everything still intact. Ideal to bring in crowds. $3,500."

POST BOX

No name or phone number was listed and prospective buyers were instructed to write to a post box in care of the newspaper.

Liuzzo also told United Press International that officials in Alabama have refused to return his wife's personal effects, including her wedding rings to him, "until the proceedings are over."

Coast Guard Boat Splits, Dunks Crew

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A Coast Guard patrol boat, on its way to investigate a report of a capsized sailboat, sank itself yesterday when a seam in its fiberglas hull split open.

"We're used to this," said Electrician's Mate David Gabel, one of the three Coast Guardsmen rescued. "We're not used to sinking, of course, but to getting wet."

$1.75 Minimum Pay Doubtful

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congressional hopes for a 50-cent an hour hike in the federal minimum wage today appeared futile.

★ ★ ★

House supporters of the increase in the present $1.25 hourly minimum expect the legislation which will come to the floor will provide for no more than a 25-cent increase.

Last year's hopes for raising the minimum to $1.75 appear to have been dashed by opponents warning of the large increase's potential for inflating the economy.

Key sources told UPI last weekend the 1966 version probably would provide a two-step increase to $1.40 this year and $1.50 in 1967.

★ ★ ★

Although the House cleared the way last year for action on the $1.75 minimum wage floor, Congress was in no mood to tackle the controversial issue in mid-September, and it was never called up.

While the decision has not been made formally, the sources said a fall back to the $1.50 level could be expected.

NY Strike Loss Put at $1 Billion

NEW YORK (AP) — The Commerce and Industry Association estimates that the 12-day subway and bus strike cost New Yorkers a billion dollars and that "less than 25 per cent will be recovered."

The major business group urged that the 15-cent transit fare be increased to help pay for the contract settlement that ended the transit tie-up last Thursday.

★ ★ ★

The cost of new two-year contracts between the city Transit Authority and the striking Transport Workers Union and Amalgamated Transit Union, both AFL-CIO, has been estimated variously between $52 million and $70 million.

The Commerce and Industry Association also says it will ask Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller to sponsor stronger laws to ban strikes by public employes.

POSITION OUTLINED

The association's position was outlined by Executive Vice President Ralph C. Gross Sunday on the WCBS-TV "Newsmakers" program and in a later interview.

In addition to the financial losses, Gross said, "the image of our city suffered greatly all over the nation because of the strike. We must make sure that something like this never happens again."

★ ★ ★

Two Republican officials defended GOP Mayor John V. Lindsay against criticism of the strike settlement by President Johnson and Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz. They were U.S. Sen. Jacob K. Javits and John J. Gilhooley, GOP member of the semiautonomus three-member Transit Authority.

★ ★ ★

Lindsay, who assumed office five hours before the strike started New Year's Day, has defended the strike settlement.

EXCESS OF GUIDELINES

Johnson and Wirtz have criticized it as being in excess of the 3.2 per cent wage-increase guideline that the national administration says is necessary to prevent inflation.

Gilhooley said Sunday: "As far as I am concerned, it was not the bravest act of Mr. Wirtz' career to shoot our young mayor in the back after he'd made the difficult decision to raise New York from its knees."

★ ★ ★

Gilhooley, who spoke on the WNBC-TV "Searchlight" program, also said: "I didn't see President Johnson or Mr. Wirtz around here before the Jan. 1 strike."

★ ★ ★

Wirtz flew here Jan. 6, conferred at City Hall and flew back to Washington.

MEDIATION PANEL

Gilhooley said the mediation panel that helped settle the strike found inequities between the pay of the transit workers and the pay of other city employes doing similar work.

★ ★ ★

"We acted to relieve the misery of 8 million persons," Gilhooley said. "I don't know of what value it was, after the mayor had made the tough decision, to shoot him in the back."

★ ★ ★

Javits said Johnson's criticism of the strike settlement "wasn't fair."

Javits, who defended the size of the strike settlement in an interview, said "guidelines are not inflexible," and added: "It comes with ill grace to take him (Lindsay) to task on the guidelines issue."

★ ★ ★

Javits said Johnson could have stepped into the contract dispute if he wanted to reaffirm his determination to keep the settlement within the 3.2 per cent guidelines. The senator said that with "the danger of anarchy and grave disorder, the mayor did all he could."

Girl Saved; Horse Lost

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — A 10-year-old girl whose saddle horse bolted down a railroad track escaped death when the animal caught its leg between two cross ties on a trestle and hung suspended 25 feet above a creek.

★ ★ ★

Margaret Bobo said she climbed up the horses body Sunday and out of danger. She apparently was uninjured.

★ ★ ★

Police shot the pet horse, named "Star," after halting a freight train 300 yards from the trestle where the animal was hanging.

Officer Loss Is High in Viet

U. S. Rate Surpasses World War II, Korea

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army has lost officers in battle in Viet Nam at a heavier rate than in Korea or World War II.

An analysis made available today showed that through last Dec. 31, the Army had lost 205 officers and warrant officers in enemy action and 873 enlisted men.

This works out to about 19 per cent in officer battle deaths.

In the Korean war, 1,121 Army officers were killed in action as against 18,213 enlisted men — about 5 per cent in officer losess.

In World War II, officer battle deaths in the Army came to a little more than 16 per cent — 31,057 officers against 161,741 enlisted men.

Until last summer, the United States was involved mainly in an advisory rather than a ground combat role in Viet Nam.

★ ★ ★

Thus, a large slice of the U.S. Army force there was represented by officers who were attached to Vietnamese combat units and thus were exposed to battle hazard. Seasoned sergeants also did adviser duty.

The commitment of large U.S. ground forces in the past six months has brought the percentage of officer losses down, as might be expected.

114 OFFICERS

In 1965 over-all, the Army lost 114 officers in combat as against 785 enlisted men — an officer loss rate of 12.6 per cent.

Figures for the previous years reflect the disproportionate officer loss: in 1964, 55 officers and 16 enlisted men; in 1962, eight officers and nine enlisted men.

The breakdown prepared for Gen. Harold K. Johnson, Army chief of staff, showed that, among officers, the captain group took the heaviest losses. Of the over-all officer battle death total of 205, 84 were captains.

Over 30 Arrested in Sex, Dope Raids Near Colleges

NEW YORK (AP) — A series of police invetigations have led to the arrest of more than 30 students of a dozen U.S. colleges recently on illicit sex and narcotics charges.

No definite connection between the various incidents was claimed and only a tiny minority of undergraduates was said to be involved. But police reported evidence that professional dope pushers were operating on the fringes of a number of campuses.

★ ★ ★

In Akron and Columbus, Ohio, 22 young persons were arrested last week in marijuana raids, including at least nine students or former students of Ohio State and Kent State Universities. Police said they believed there had been big shipments of the narcotic weed into the area from Mexico.

In Norman, Okla., eight students and five former students of the University of Oklahoma were arrested on charges ranging from possession of narcotics to lewdness. The police bag in this raid on an apartment near the campus included two 18-year-old coeds.

SEX ORGY

Meanwhile, school officials said they were investigating a report that a 16-year-old girl was smuggled into an Oklahoma University athletic dormitory for a sexual orgy during the year-end holidays.

At the University of Michigan, six students and six persons described by police as "campus hangers-on" were accused of possession or sale of narcotics. One defendent, a 29-year-old painter, was said to have grown marijuana in a home garden plot three blocks from the campus.

A Syracuse University student returning from the holidays was nabbed by detectives who said his luggage contained marijuana, heroin, pills known as goof balls and a switchblade knife. Police said the use of narcotics at the university had been under investigation since last fall.

★ ★ ★

Two University of Massachusetts sophomores were charged with possession of harmful drug pills and one was accused of selling them.

TEEN ARRESTED

In Washington, U.S. narcotics agents, acting on a tip from officials of American University, arrested an 18-year-old freshman and charged him with selling marijuana.

A University of Miami student and his wife were picked up at Miami Airport by customs agents who said they were trying to smuggle in five pounds of marijuana from Jamaica.

Police arrested a dozen non-students in a recent narcotics raid near the University of Washington in Seattle. An investigating reporter for the Seattle Times said 500 to 1,000 persons in the university area, including a number of school dropouts, were using marijuana.

Four Killed as Auto Plunges off Bridge

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Four Houston men were killed Sunday night when their automobile struck a freeway guard rail, ricocheted off a bridge, and plunged to a street below.

Police said the dead were James Thornton Howard, 25; Willie Wallace, about 20; Eugene Hunt, 24, and Adolph Foley Jr., 24.

Science Finds New Healing Substance That Promptly Stops Itching and Pain of Piles

New York, N. Y. (Special) — One of the most common afflictions is a condition known as "itching piles." It is most embarrassing for the victim during the day and especially aggravating at night.

No matter what you've used without results — here's good news. For the first time, science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to promptly stop the burning itch and pain. It actually shrinks hemorrhoids — without surgery. Medical science has proved this substance produces a remarkably effective rate of healing. Its germ-killing properties also help prevent infection.

In one hemorrhoid case after another "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by a doctor's observations. This improvement was maintained in cases where a doctor's observations were continued over a period of months! Among these sufferers were a wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' duration.

The secret is this new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®) — discovery of a world-famous research institution. This substance is now obtainable in ointment or suppository form known as Preparation H®. Ask for Preparation H Suppositories (convenient to carry if away from home) or Preparation H Ointment with special applicator. Available at all drug counters.

U-M Expedition Leaves for Egypt to Study Nubians

ANN ARBOR (UPI) — The second Egyptian expedition of University of Michigan School of Dentistry was scheduled to leave today for Komombo, in the Nile valley.

The group of dentists, anthropologists and genticists, headed by Dr. James E. Harris, assistant professor of orthodontics, was to gather information about the Nubians, a group of Egyptians who have remained isolated and relatively unchanged since about 2000 B.C.

★ ★ ★

Recently, because the backwaters from the Aswan Dam flooded their traditional homelands, the Nubians moved to an area near Komombo, 30 miles north of the dam.

The information gathered on the living Nubians, coupled with last year's data on the ancient tribe, would provide a scientific study spanning some 2,500 years, probably the most detailed evidence ever collected to show dental changes in a specific population across the ages.

Pontiac's Skyline Taking on New Dimensions

As this map shows, a wide range of improvements — some still on the drawing board—are changing the Pontiac skyline.

★ ★ ★

Of course, some of the improvements are underground and fail to change the horizon-to-horizon view. Nevertheless, they indirectly influence the view.

For example, the projected Galloway Creek sanitary sewer which will run from the north city limits to a point near the sewage treatment plant on the east, is a key factor in future development of that corner of the city.

The trunk sewer, to be built as part of the county's Clinton-Oakland Interceptor system, will lead to new homes and businesses in the northeast section.

★ ★ ★

One of the projected buildings slated for a 1966 start is the new Catholic central high school.

SEWER SERVICES

Another underground improvement is the Opdyke Road sanitary sewer, providing sewer services to the southeast corner of the city.

Among the above-ground improvements to benefit will be the projected Michigan College of Osteopathic Medicine at Auburn and Opdyke.

In 1965, the campaign to provide a site for the college was completed. Pontiac citizens contributed more than $400,000 to purchase the 164-acre site.

★ ★ ★

Pontiac during 1965 and again this year will have additional apartment units. More than 1,300 units are planned or under construction.

PLANS UNDERWAY

In other housing development, plans are underway to provide housing for Pontiac General Hospital interns. Negotiations have begun to acquire a piece of Pontiac State Hospital land for the projected units.

Further progress last year was accomplished on expansion of General Motors Corporation facilities in Pontiac.

Other changes scheduled for 1966 include further study of grade separations for railroad tracks.

★ ★ ★

Also, further work toward improving sewer facilities to end water pollution problems.

INDUSTRIAL PARK

City Hall is expected to push development of the 25-acre industrial park. The park project was taken over by the city last year when a private group, organized by civic leaders, ran into legal and financial obstacles.

The industrial park is to be located in the vicinity of GMC Truck & Coach Division.

A major change last year was the purchase and annexation of 235 acres along the north city limits for a future sanitary landfill site.

★ ★ ★

This modified the city's boundaries near Collier, changing the face of Pontiac on local maps as well as on the landscape.

WILL RELOCATE

A small slice of this land was sold to a local scrap yard. The firm is to relocate its scrap operation adjacent to downtown to the new site.

★ ★ ★

This adds another improvement calculated to change the city's skyline.

U.S. Lacks Manpower Punch for Viet Victory--Red China

TOKYO (UPI) — Communist China says the United States doesn't have enough fighting men to win the war in Viet Nam.

Peking radio, in broadcasts monitored here yesterday, called Viet Nam a "bottomless pit" and said the American military buildup is in "dire straits."

Red China said only a fraction of 4.4 million American servicemen, reserves and potential draftees can be mobilized for combat.

Already there is an officer shortage, the official Communist New China news agency claimed.

"Even if the Johnson administration should be able to recruit several hundred thousand more men by draft calls or mobilization of reserves, this American cannon fodder would still be inadequate to meet the needs of the South Viet Nam battlefield," Peking said.

U.S. VULNERABLE

Red China said the U.S. buildup in Viet Nam is leaving other parts of the world vulnerable to Communist revolutions. It did not specify where.

The buildup, it claimed, was "like dismantling the West wall to mend holes in the East wall."

Turning to the Soviet Union, Peking said the Russians took another step "along the road of worsening relations" on Jan. 10 when the Soviet Embassy refused to accept a protest from Communist China.

★ ★ ★

The protest demanded that the Russians retract charges that Peking was interfering with Soviet arms shipments to Communist North Viet Nam, the broadcasts said.

★ ★ ★

The Chinese also claimed the Russians were trying to ease East-West tensions over Germany, and that this was making it easier for the United States to pull its troops out of Europe.

New Hampshire was the first American colony to adopt a state constitution.

Hanoi Peace Move Speculated

NEW YORK (UPI) — A Yale professor who returned recently from an unauthorized peace mission to North Viet Nam speculated yesterday that Hanoi may have withdrawn its troops from South Viet Nam in direct response to President Johnson's peace overtures.

★ ★ ★

Staughton Lynd, a Quaker who teaches history, said at a news conference he based his speculation on a Jan. 5 interview he had with North Viet Nam Premier Pham Van Dong and on reports in American newspapers.

During the 90-minute interview with Pham, Lynd said, the premier denied point-blank that any North Vietnamese troops were aiding the Viet Cong in South Viet Nam.

Lynd said this puzzled him but, added to press reports here indicating no contact with North Vietnamese troops since before the Christmas truce, it "seems a possible indication" of a favorable reaction to U.S. peace moves.

★ ★ ★

At the same time, the political action director of the Committee for a Sane Nuclear Policy (SANE), returned from a week of talks with Vietnamese Communists in Paris and Algiers and pleaded for indefinite suspension of the bombing, of North Viet Nam.

'LESS SUSPICION'

"Right now, with a three-week suspension of the bombing, there is clearly less suspicion than I met with when I talked with these people last July," Sanford Gottlieb said at a news conference at Kennedy International Airport yesterday.

In Saigon, however, U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk and South Vietnamese Prime Minister Nguyen Cao Ky issued a communique saying there were no indications that North Viet Nam was seeking an end to hostilities.

Lynd held his news conference before addressing a crowd of 4,500 at Manhattan Centre here.

★ ★ ★

Also speaking at the meeting were the 36-year-old historian's two companions on the 10-day trip to North Viet Nam—Thomas Hayden, 26, a founder of Students for a Democratic Society, and Communist theoretician Herbert Aptheker, director of the American Institute for Marxist Studies.

'Reach POWs via Algeria'

NEW YORK (AP) — American families of Viet Cong prisoners may get mail and packages to them through a postal address in Algeria, says an official of the National Committee for a Sane Nuclear Policy.

Sanford Gottlieb, the committee's political action director who arrived Sunday by plane from Paris, said he held a week of talks there with Hanoi representatives.

Earlier, Gottlieb said, he met in Algiers with representatives of the National Liberation Front (Viet Cong), which he said had authorized him to disclose the "new channel of communication" between American prisoners and their folks at home.

The address is 18 Rue Langevin, Quarter la Redoute, Algiers, Algeria, Gottlieb said.

PEACE OFFENSIVE

He said he believes the American peace offensive is beginning to break down Hanoi's suspicions about the sincerity of American intentions. But, he said, the United States must consider the Viet Cong a "full and equal partner" in any negotiations with Hanoi.

BOAT WRECKED — A small boat lies wrecked on the shore at Avalon, Catalina Island, Calif., the result of 65-mile-an-hour winds that whipped through the area Saturday night, sinking several pleasure boats.

Waves Batter West Coast

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Gale-force winds battered southern California for the third consecutive day today, causing tumultuous waves along the coast that damaged $250,000 worth of boats.

Harry Orbach, 40, Newport Beach, was feared drowned yesterday when he was washed overboard from a 20-foot power boat which had rescued him and his wife and 18-year-old son from their 30-foot sailboat.

At least six persons were injured and many others, including actress June Lockhart and her husband, architect John Lindsay, were menaced by wind and waves up to 20 feet high near Catalina Island.

Also threatened when winds reached gusts up to 65 miles per hour were Superior Court Judge Edward R. Brand; Samuel Sontag; and Charles Offer, chairman of Budget Finance Plan.

★ ★ ★

Offer, 53, was taken to Avalon Hospital on Catalina Island after he suffered a heart attack aboard his wave-battered 40-foot sloop. Brand and Sontag were aboard Offer's vessel.

Stylist Defends LBJ's 'Manly' Garb

British critics of President Johnson's mode of dress just dislike seeing a man dressed like a man," says movie stylist Sy Devore in Hollywood.

Tailor and Cutter, the bible of the British tailoring industry, had said that the President as a style setter "added up to a fat, round nothing."

"The President dresses the way a robust, vigorous outdoors man should dress," Devore said yesterday. "These so-called stylists have been trying to introduce styles which would make all men look like their sisters."

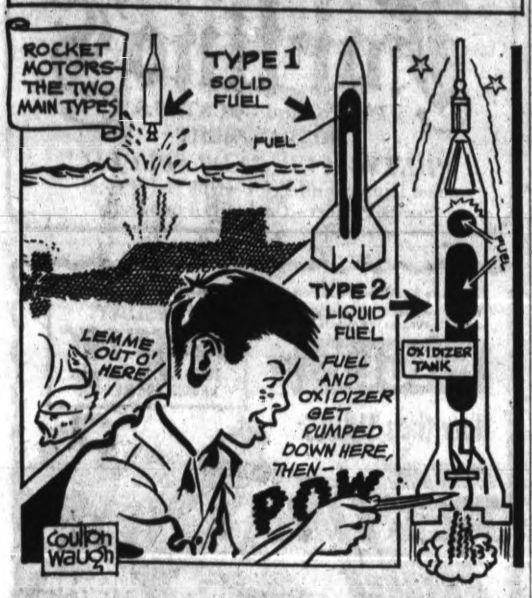
Junior Editors Quiz on ROCKET MOTORS



QUESTION: How do rocket motors work?

★ ★ ★

ANSWER: Thanks to the rocket, it's a new age. Rockets work by the same general principle used in jet airplane engines: Fuel is burned inside a combustion chamber with an open end or nozzle, out of which the exhaust gases rush.

This releases pressure which would otherwise push backward. This allows the forward-pressing forces inside to operate, so forcing the plane or rocket ahead. Both jets and rockets need air for combustion.

Jets take their air from outside, but rockets have their air stored inside. In one kind of rocket, solid fuels such as resin, rubber and asphalt mix with stored oxygen and are ignited.

This is the type used by our atomic submarines. Our diagram to right gives an idea of how the other type, or liquid fuel rocket, works.

Two kinds of fuel unite when needed, one of which, the oxidizer, contains oxygen. The mixture is set off by a slow gunpowder charge.

These are the rockets, which, put together in several stages, are being used to boost capsules and explore space.

★ ★ ★

FOR YOU TO DO: Are the two types of rocket motors the only ones to be used in the future? Probably not; at least two other types are being considered: electric and atomic rockets. Watch the newspapers for the latest developments in rocketry.

Weaver Faces Senate Quiz

Likely to Get OK as 1st Negro in Cabinet

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Banking Committee takes up today President Johnson's nomination of Robert C. Weaver as secretary of the new Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Chairman A. Willis Robertson, D-Va., predicted before the session that the group would approve the nomination during the day and send it to the Senate floor for confirmation.

★ ★ ★

If all goes as expected, Weaver, 58, will become the first Negro member of the Cabinet.

He was scheduled to appear before the committee for questioning along with Prof. Robert C. Wood, nominated by Johnson as undersecretary.

MASSIVE PROBLEMS

Committee members said they wanted to ask both men about their plans for dealing with massive problems confronting the nation's cities.

Weaver appeared certain to meet a friendlier reception than he did five years ago when President John F. Kennedy nominated him to head the Housing and Home Finance Agency.

★ ★ ★

For one thing, he has appeared before the group many times in the intervening period and has won its backing for some of the most significant housing legislation ever passed by Congress.

In 1961, the Senate confirmed Weaver's nomination by voice vote after the committee had approved it by an 11-4 vote.

NO LONGER FOES

Two of the members who opposed the New Yorker at the time, Robertson and Sen. Wallace F. Bennett, R-Utah, have announced they will vote for him this year.

★ ★ ★

The bill passed by Congress last year setting up the new Cabinet department allotted to it the functions and personnel of the Housing and Home Finance Agency but nothing else.

Several members of Congress said programs in other departments dealing with air pollution, urban highways and education in slum areas should be transferred to the new department.

★ ★ ★

After he had signed the bill, Johnson set up a task force headed by Wood, chairman of the department of political science at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, to study the department's organization.

The Scotch School pupil received a check for $10 and a copy of Compton's Illustrated Science Dictionary. It was the first time she had submitted a question to the feature.

15 Hurt as Train Derails in Kansas

MINNEOLA, Kan. (AP) — Fifteen persons were injured, none seriously, when six cars of the Rock Island Golden State Limited No. 3 derailed as the train sped through this southwestern Kansas town early Sunday.

* * *

Bound for Los Angeles from Chicago, the train carried 143 passengers and was traveling 70 miles an hour when the last six cars — three sleepers, a chair car, a diner and a club car — left the tracks but remained upright.

* * *

Three passengers and two crew members were admitted to a hospital for observation. Ten others were treated and released.

Mother, Crash Victim, Delivers Twin Boys

MILAN, Italy (UPI) — An expectant mother delivered twins last night a few minutes after being injured in an automobile collision on her way to the hospital.

* * *

Mrs. Lucia Falcone, 31, was thrown out of the car driven by her husband and bystanders helped him carry her to the emergency ward half a block away. Mrs. Falcone suffered only minor injuries. A few minutes after she was taken into the hospital, doctors delivered twin boys — both doing well.

On 60th Anniversary

Variety Lists Top Cash Films

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD — Like Bing Crosby, Bob Hope, Fred Astaire and Cary Grant, Variety is now in its 60s and refuses to show its age.

THOMAS

The show biz bible passed its 60th this month with a thick, fact - crammed anniversary edition that once more demonstrated Variety's worth to the entertainment world.

Always an arresting feature of the anniversary edition is Variety's estimate of film grosses for the year. The figures are necessarily guesses, since film companies jealously guard their ledgers. But Variety's close watch of theater business provides an air of accuracy.

* * *

Last year brought three films that are likely to place among the top five moneymakers of all time. The figures are company rentals for the United States and Canada; a film generally earns an equal amount overseas.

Variety calculates "Mary Poppins" has already drawn $28.5 million in domestic rentals with a potential of $33 million. Since Disney is releasing the film again this summer, the amount may exceed even that.

SOUND OF MUSIC

"The Sound of Music" has attracted $20 million in only 140 roadshow engagements, and Variety pegs its potential at $35 million. No wonder Julie Andrews was selected sweetheart of the Theater Owners of America.

The third member of the golden trio was the picture Julie Andrews didn't make — "My Fair Lady." Variety figures its domestic gross at $19 million, but won't hazard a guess on the eventual amount. Since "My Fair Lady" is still playing in road shows, the future monies will be considerable.

* * *

The three films may soon be pushing the all-time leaders. Champ is still "Gone With the Wind" with $41.2 million; since it can earn added millions with each new release, the 1939 epic seems likely to hold its lead.

"Ben-Hur" (1959) ranks second with $38 million, and "The Ten Commandments" (1957) follows with $34.2 million. Further down the list are: "Around the World in 80 Days," "Cleopatra," "How the West Was Won," "West Side Story," "The Robe" and "South Pacific."

* * *

Another phenomenon of 1965 was the irrepressible "Goldfinger." The James Bond spy chase garnered almost $20 million, an amazing sum considering that it lacked the spectacle qualities of the above-mentioned films.

Underground World of Viet Cong Uncovered

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — An underground world of tunnels and subterranean rooms where Viet Cong eat, sleep and plot to take over South Viet Nam was uncovered and partially destroyed by allied forces under the Ho Bo Forest 20 miles northwest of Saigon last week.

The intricate complex, reaching down three levels at some places, stretched a distance of 8 or 9 miles in a straight line. Numerous subsidiary tunnels were discovered.

★ ★ ★

Some observers believe the Ho Bo tunnels are the main part of a system that stretches from Saigon to the Cambodian border.

"Wherever they go, they represent a tremendous amount of work," said Lt. Colonel A.V. Preece, commander of the Australian regiment that found many of the tunnels.

LONG LABOR

"There must have been millions of man-hours of work put into these subterranean caverns," he said.

The U.S. and Australian forces who pushed into the tunnelled region met relatively little opposition. Preece said, "We were damned lucky we got in there when the tunnels were undermanned. If they had been manned, we would have lost a lot more people."

★ ★ ★

As it was, the Australians lost 8 killed and 29 wounded. American casualties were listed as light.

One Australian died in bad air 30 feet down in a tunnel. Col. Preece said the soldier fainted because of the lack of osygen. By the time they lifted him out through the narrow tunnel exit he was dead.

DEFENSE SYSTEM

The tunnels were described as a "progressive defense system," with narrow openings for machineguns at the outer edge of the Ho Bo Forest and leading in to deeper and more heavily fortified bunkers.

In the middle of forest the Americans and Australians discovered command bunkers 7 feet underground made of concrete and reinforced with steel. These concrete rooms were up to 8 or 9 feet square.

★ ★ ★

The tunnel system which linked the rooms, the bunkers and the machinegun holes opening into the forest measured about 2 to 2½ feet in width.

There was one main tunnel system, with numerous subsidiary tunnels leading from it.

USE OF ROOMS

Some of the undergrown rooms were apparently used as kitchens, others as classrooms and bedrooms. A well with a concrete cover was found underground.

The Australians found a cache of 50 weapons in one tunnel. Ammunition, food and clothing were found in other tunnels.

"These tunnels are as familiar to the inhabitants as the streets of our home towns," said Lt. Colonel John E. Tyler, commander of the 1st Battalion of the 173rd Airborne Brigade.

The water level in the tunnel area was 40 feet below the ground level, and the tunnels were down to a depth of at least 30 feet. Most were eight feet to ten feet deep.

WORK IN PROGRESS

The whole area was in the process of being expanded by the enemy according to the Australian regimental commander. Work on some tunnels had not been completed.

The allied troops had difficulties in searching the tunnel area because they were too big to get through some places cut out for the smaller Vietnamese. The Australians used a dog to assist them.

The allied officers believe the tunnel system has been gradually developed for 5 to 10 years. They think that the Viet Cong were planning to man it with a major force. Probably two battalions were in there when the allies hit, but the Viet Cong chose not to fight too hard.

However, when the allies left the region, they were still under occasional sniper fire.

★ ★ ★

The allied forces say they inflicted considerable damage on the tunnel system. "It will take them a long time to rebuild them," Colonel Tyler said.

Woodrow Wilson's father was pastor of the First Presbyterian Church at Staunton, Va.

By JACOBY AND SON

With only nine tables of experts at work you would expect that the bidding and play of many hands in the championship team trials would be identical.

JACOBY

This was not the case. In fact it wasn't until deal eight of round four that any hand produced nearly the same treatment at all tables.

Every West opened with one spade. Each felt the hand was too strong for a weak two or preemptive three opening, and that the trump suit was not good enough for a four bid.

Every North doubled and every South responded two hearts. It is noteworthy that the Souths preferred the good four-card heart suit to the bad five-card diamonds.

★ ★ ★

The West players all rebid to two spades and at this point there was a parting of the ways. Seven North players overbid a trifle and jumped to four hearts, the other two made the conservative bid of three hearts.

This caused a real split among their two partners. One went to four hearts, the other passed at three and in all instances the bidding stopped.

The play at all tables was identical. West always opened the ace of spades and continued the suit in the hope that his partner would be able to ruff.

★ ★ ★

Dummy would win with the king and each declarer would lead a heart to his ace and then lead a diamond toward dummy. No one was willing to pull trumps right away because that play might lose control of the hand.

Once this line of play was adopted, there was no way to keep declarer from making 10 tricks. West could take his ace of diamonds right away or hold off once. In either instance South would lose only two diamonds and a spade.

♥♣CARD Sense♠♦

Q—The bidding has been:

West	North	East	South
			1 ♣
Pass	1 ♥	Pass	?

You, South, hold:
♠2 ♥A K 8 7 ♦K Q 10 4 ♣A Q J 8
What do you do?

A—Bid three diamonds. Your hand is too strong to bid only four hearts. It is not strong enough to go beyond game at this stage.

TODAY'S QUESTION

You bid three diamonds and your partner goes to three no-trump. What do you do now?

ACLU Lawsuit Due on State School Law

DETROIT (AP)—The American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) was expected to bring a lawsuit today challenging the constitutionality of the Michigan auxiliary services school law.

The Detroit School Board asked Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley Saturday to serve as counsel against the expected lawsuit.

The ACLU said it would challenge the requirement for public schools to provide auxiliary services to private and parochial schools.

The ACLU contends the law violates the church-state separation provisions of the U.S. Constitution.

CONSIDERATION

Kelley's chief aide, Leon Cohan, said the school board's request will be given every consideration. He said tests of state laws normally are defended by the attorney general.

The law requires public schools to provide services such as remedial reading and speech courses to private and parochial schools.

Retired Pair Has Rigid Schedule

SANDIA KNOLLS, N. M. (AP) — Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Graham may be retired, but their days are still so busy that they must stick to a daily working schedule, complete with coffee breaks, just to get everything done.

★ ★ ★

An employe of the Santa Fe Railway for 31 years until his recent retirement, Graham and his wife moved here from Albuquerque and immediately became the busiest couple in the neighborhood.

He is the water service man for the community water facility, commissioner for the local volunteer fire department and general fix-it man for the area.

He also spends much of his time in a well-equipped workshop constructing furniture for his home and those of neighbors, and is compiling a family genealogy.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Graham grows prize-winning flowers, keeps up a voluminous correspondence with friends and maintains a large collection of cups and saucers from around the world. To get all this done, the Grahams stick to daily work patterns.

★ ★ ★

They get up at 5:30 a.m., breakfast at 7, coffee break at 10, and lunch at noon. After a rest period until 1:30 p.m., work continues until 5:30 with a coffee break at 3:30.

Legislators in D. C. Airing Bridge Costs

LANSING (AP) — Five Michigan legislators have gone to Washington to try to find out whether the federal government plans to pick up the costs of the Mackinac Bridge.

The bridge was built in the late 1950s at a cost of $100 million. A state bond issue financed construction of the five-mile span linking Michigan's Upper and Lower Peninsulas. The state has paid its regular interest charges on the bond issue but has not paid off any principal.

★ ★ ★

Sen. Garland Lane, D-Flint, chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee, announced the Washington trip Saturday. He said reports have reached him that the government is considering the bridge as part of Interstate Highway 75. The highway approaches the bridge on both ends.

The federal government pays 90 per cent of the cost of construction of interstate highways, the states 10 per cent.

TAKE BRIDGE

Lane said there were reports the government plans to take over the bridge within five years.

★ ★ ★

Other announced members of the delegation were Sens. Joseph Mack, D-Ironwood, William Roman, D-Warren; and Stanley Rozycki, D-Detroit; and Sen. Charles Zollar, R-Benton Harbor.

Christine Says Husband Was Disappointed

LONDON (UPI) — Erstwhile playgirl Christine Keeler, whose affair with War Minister John Profumo in 1963 almost brought down the British government, says her three-month-old marriage went on the rocks because her husband "expected too much from me."

The auburn-haired, 23-year-old former party girl disclosed during the weekend her marriage to engineer James Levermore, 24, was at an end. She also revealed she is expecting a baby and would fight to keep the child.

"I found that Jimmy expected too much from me," Miss Keeler said. "I couldn't manage on my housekeeping allowance. We seemed to be bickering all the time.

"We had no common interests. There was nothing holding us together. There was no point in going on."

★ ★ ★

Miss Keeler was one of the principals in the Profumo scandal, which rocked Britain and almost toppled the conservative government of then-Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

PRISON TERM

She served a six-month prison term for perjury in another case involving a Jamaican lover.

Another of the girls involved in the celebrated case, blonde Mandy Rice-Davies, also is having new problems.

She appears in court Jan. 25, named correspondent in a divorce suit filed by the Baroness Vivien Elizabeth Cervello against Baron Pierre Cervello.

"He is my good friend," said Mandy of the baron.

Ice Grips Germany in Long Cold Snap

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — Rural roads and large parts of the inland waterways were iced up as a subzero freeze continued to keep most of Germany in its icy grip.

At least three deaths were attributed to weather. An 18-year-old girl fell asleep in a garden hut near Nuernberg and froze to death. Two boys died of gas poisoning when the flame of a gas heater went out during the night.

Trading Is Heavy

Mart Higher in Record Ground

NEW YORK (AP) —Motors, aerospace issues, steels and airlines advanced as the stock market pushed farther into record high ground early this afternoon. Trading was heavy.

The ticker tape lagged as many moderate-sized transactions combined with a variety of big blocks to pile up volume.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 3.90 at 991.20.

General Motors gave blue chips leadership as it spurted a couple of points following a statement by GM President James M. Roche that auto sales in 1966 will be equal to or better than the record results of 1965.

HIGHER TREND

Rails, tobaccos, electronics and nonferrous metals also showed a generally higher trend. Drugs were lower.

Little change was shown by farm implements, mail order-retails and building materials.

★ ★ ★

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 1.5 at 369.7 with industrials up 1.8, rails up 1.5 and utilities up .2.

Both the Dow industrials and the AP average were pushing ahead of the historic closing highs they made Friday.

Prices were generally higher in heavy trading on the American Stock Exchange.

★ ★ ★

Corporate bonds were mostly unchanged. U.S. Treasury bonds declined.

JOHN J. BRODERICK

'Toughest Cop' Is Dead at 70

Feared by Criminals During Long Career

MIDDLETOWN, N.Y. (AP) — John J. (Johnny) Broderick, 70, the "world's toughest cop" whose beat was Broadway and who shot it out with prohibition era gangsters with relish and ease, died quietly Sunday at his home in this Orange County community.

Working out of the main New York City detective office, Broderick earned the respect of fellow policemen, the public and celebrities and the fear of the underworld during his 24½-year career which ended in retirement in 1947.

★ ★ ★

President Franklin D. Roosevelt requested that Broderick be his special bodyguard in 1936 when he went to the city for the baseball World Series.

Former heavyweight champion Jack Dempsey, whom Broderick once served as bodyguard, said of the Irish-tenor-singing cop: "He's the only man I wouldn't want to meet in a fight outside the ring and its rules."

TOUGH GANGSTER

Broderick was dubbed the "world's toughest cop" by Jack (Legs) Diamond, then regarded as one of the world's toughest gangsters.

★ ★ ★

Diamond had a reason: Broderick had been told that Diamond was looking for him.

As the story goes, Broderick caught up with Diamond just off Broadway on 46th Street and told the gangster - bootlegger: "I understand you are looking to take me for a ride."

★ ★ ★

Said Diamond, "Ah, listen, Johnny, can't you take a joke?"

"Not from you," said Broderick, knocking out Diamond with one punch.

8 MEDALS

Broderick, who won eight medals for valor, was portrayed in two movies and was the central character of a planned television series.

The celebrated detective, who frequented the night spots as part of his duties, never drank or smoked.

Roche Sees 11 Million Vehicles in '70

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The president of General Motors, James M. Roche, said today that the average annual demand for cars and trucks in the United States could exceed 11 million by 1970.

★ ★ ★

"Everything points to another good year ahead of us — the fifth in a row," he said. Record sales of 9.3 million cars and 1.5 million trucks were achieved in 1965.

★ ★ ★

Speaking at the annual convention of the National Automobile Dealers' Association, Roche said the demand for motor vehicles "has been increasing at a pace that few people outside the industry thought possible."

He said the industry had progressed because of free competition.

"Government regulation would discourage competition as we have known it," he said. "The regulatory standards would tend to become the maximum as well as the minimum. Regulation would have a severe and adverse effect upon our business."

★ ★ ★

Roche said more accurate data on the causes of accidents must be developed. He said manufacturers were exploring all phases of the problem in their laboratories.

Postal Service Hike Expected

Congress Likely to OK $15-Million Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairmen of the Senate and House Post Office Committees predicted today Congress will stamp "approved" on a $15-million administration package which would beef up postal service in thousands of American communities.

Sen. A. S. Mike Monroney, D-Okla., and Rep. Tom Murray, D-Tenn., said in separate interviews they favored moves announced Saturday to restore parcel post and post office window service eliminated in a 1964 economy move.

★ ★ ★

"This is just the first step" in administration efforts to improve postal service, Monroney said.

Congressional approval is necessary because of the $15-million annual cost of the increased service.

PARCEL POST

Saturday's announcement said President Johnson has approved a recommendation by Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien that six-day-a-week parcel post service be restored in 6,091 communities with populations over 3,000. Since 1964 one day each week has been skipped for deliveries in these cities except where postmen used motor vehicles to deliver parcels.

The other move will be increased window service at night and on weekends in nearly 15,000 post offices. Postmasters will also be authorized to resume Saturday sales of money orders.

★ ★ ★

Assistant White House news secretary Joseph Laitin, announcing the plans, said improved efficiency would reduce the postal deficit, estimated at $400 million this fiscal year, despite the $15-million cost of the improved service.

"I believe Congress will go along," said Monroney. "They kicked about the cutbacks."

OPPOSITION DOUBTED

Asked if there would be any substantial congressional opposition, Murray said, "I wouldn't think so."

Both Monroney and Murray said that the administration was in a better position than they were to estimate costs of the increased service, but Monroney said the $15-million figure "seems about right."

Looking to possible other postal improvements, Monroney said "one of the most important things is speeding up the delivery so you can get delivery of as much mail as possible on the day after it is sent."

He said planning was under way in this area and that one possible move would be to increase substantially the use of planes to transport ordinary mail.

Tribute to Movie Mogul Featured by 'Rare' Drink

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — "Jolly Joe" Levine, the bulging Bostonian who became a movie tycoon, was given an unusual tribute by his Broadway celebrity admirers at a new "in" restaurant, the Old Shanghai (1674 Broadway) where new booze news was made.

WILSON

One glass was empty and guest-of-honor Levine got it refilled with brandy . . . then suddenly dumped a generous amount of English mustard into the brandy . . . and handed it to its owner without mentioning the addition.

★ ★ ★

"Ummmm, that's gooooood boooooooze," he sighed when he drank it. He hadn't discovered the special flavor, but liked it.

Special personalized fortune cookies were prepared for Jolly Joe by the Dong Kingsmans. Samples:

"Jolly Joe great weight-lifter. Every morning he gets up" . . . "Jolly Joe loves physical fitness. He often walks all the way to his limousine."

Levine, the globe-trotter, was off to Rome to talk new pictures with Marcello Mastroianni. His wife Rosalie wasn't going along.

"Joe's only going for about a half hour," Rosalie explained.

No 'Citation' for Cart Horse

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — Policeman Raymond Thompson scratched his head and tried to decide if a traffic citation should be issued after six cars were sideswiped.

★ ★ ★

Toby, a horse drawing a sightseeing carriage at the edge of the French Quarter, bolted when Frances Eatman, 38, pulled her car alongside yesterday.

Toby's driver, Arthur Santee, had alighted from the carriage to help two tourists aboard when Toby dashed away. The carriage bumped against Miss Eatman's car.

Santee caught up with Toby after he had run 11 blocks through two stop lights, collided with five other autos and wrapped his surrey around a fire hydrant.

★ ★ ★

Thompson said property damage was slight and Toby had received only a few scratches. No ticket was issued.

Dispute Police in Kidnap Plot

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (UPI) — A friend of slain informer George Skalla, 28, has disputed police statements that Skalla masterminded the plot to kidnap rubber magnate Leonard K. Firestone for $2 million ranson.

★ ★ ★

Skalla and William Calvin Bailey, 44, were fatally shot by detectives staked out in the Firestone mansion last Thursday night when the pair came to the doorway with drawn guns to kidnap Firestone.

Los Angeles police disclosed last Friday that Skalla had been the informer who revealed details of the plot and indicated he had been recruited by Bailey, who had planned the kidnaping.

Officers said Skalla was told to go through with the kidnaping plan and was to have entered the house first and drop to the floor at the first hint of gunplay.

★ ★ ★

But Bailey stepped ahead of Skalla and assertedly menaced detectives with a gun. Bailey and Skalla were cut down by shotgun and pistol fire.

CHANGED STORY

Later Friday, however, Beverly Hills police said Skalla was the actual mastermind and Bailey was a substitute for an original accomplice, who had been arrested.

Beverly Hills Police Capt. John Hankins said Skalla had turned informer on his own plot because he feared Bailey would kill him.

But from his cell at the sheriff's Wayside Honor Farm in Castaic, Ronald Aaron Fargo, 23, Skalla's friend and former roommate, insisted during the weekend "police have known all along the kidnaping was conceived and planned by one man — Cal Bailey.

★ ★ ★

"And George Skalla knew kidnaping was stupid. That's why he went to the police immediately after being contacted by Bailey," Fargo said.

THREE POSSIBILITIES

The inmate also disclosed that the would-be kidnapers had considered three possible victims. He said he did not know the identities of the other two.

★ ★ ★

Police earlier disclosed the identity of one intended victim—Lance Reventlow, son of Woolworth heiress Barbara Hutton.

'Sukarno Feels Demonstrations Aimed at Toppling His Regime'

SINGAPORE (UPI) — President Sukarno believes mass student demonstrations were aimed overthrowing him and his government, Indonesian Foreign Minister Subandrio said today.

Subandrio, also Indonesia's first deputy prime minister, called on the people to defend Sukarno, in a speech broadcast over Radio Jakarta and monitored in Singapore.

At the same time, the radio said many mass organizations were heeding Subandrio's appeal.

"The enemies of the revolution are at present very active in attempting to overthrow him (Sukarno) by many means," Subandrio said.

★ ★ ★

He said Sukarno had deduced that student demonstrations which swirled through Jakarta last week were really part of a plot to bring down the government. Ostensibly the students were protesting soaring prices and government inefficiency.

'SHOCKED THE SOULS'

Subandrio said the demonstrations "really shocked the souls of us all."

The first deputy premier and foreign minister said Sukarno's long delayed "political solution" for Indonesia, follow-Communist coup, would be announced within a few days.

He said the extraordinary military tribunal to try those involved in the coup would begin soon after next week's celebrations marking the end of the Moslem fasting month.

The announcement of an impending political solution appeared to be an attempt to counter criticism that Sukarno was still protecting his Communist friends.

ANTIGOVERNMENT SLOGANS

Subandrio acknowledged antigovernment slogans directed against Sukarno had begun to appear.

★ ★ ★

Reports from Indonesia said some handbills carried the words "no imported wives" and "rice, yes, geishas no, in apparent reference to Sukarno's Japanese-born third wife.

The handbills were slipped into passing cars by demonstrators last week.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., (AP) — When workers finish a day of road construction on Cheju Island off South Korea, they line up to receive pay in the form of food.

Food instead of cash is the method used by the World Food Program of the United Nations, using surplus commodities to stimulate economic and social progress in developing countries.

★ ★ ★

World governments meet here Tuesday to pledge contributions to support the program for the next three years.

The Cheju Island project is making use of 7,000 volunteers and their families to build a road linking 95 villages. This will make it possible to bring 100,000 acres under cultivation and permit planting of 880,000 acres of forest, officials said.

AIDS DIET

The WFP contribution to the project totals $368,000 in food and services to assist the government in supplementing the normal diet of the workers.

This is just one of more than 100 projects supported by the WFP, an organization launched in 1963 to utilize food for emergency relief and for development of human and physical resources.

★ ★ ★

The program began with more than $90 million in food, cash and services pledged by about 70 countries for use over an experimental three-year period. The United States contributed more than 50 per cent of the total.

With the experimental phase now ending, the 24-nation Intergovernmental Committee guiding the program seeks $275 million for three more years.

U.S. SUPPORT

U.S. support of the program again was expected to be substantial. President Johnson's State of the Union message last week urged Congress "to make a maximum attack on hunger, disease and ignorance in those countries that are determined to help themselves."

Last June the United States informed the WFP Inter-Governmental Committee it would support the $275-million request for the program's next three years and would, if necessary, supply up to 50 per cent of the commodities needed.

During the first three years of its operation, WFP food has been approved for use in 116 economic and social development projects and in 29 emergencies caused by natural disasters. A total of 54 countries and territories benefited.

★ ★ ★

When the Taal volcano erupted last September in the Philippines, emergency food aid worth nearly $32,000 was sent in by the WFP to help feed persons evacuated from the area.

EGYPT HOMELESS

In the Sudan, WFP food helped in resettlement of 50,000 persons whose homes were to be flooded by backup waters of the Aswan High Dam. A $1-million food allocation helped tide the people over until new crops could be harvested.

Other projects aided by WFP foods range from a school feeding and literacy campaign in Morocco to promotion of poultry production in Tunisia.

Sponsors of Show

The Old Auto Gang

The Pontiac Automotive Trade Association, cosponsor of this week's Pontiac Mall Auto Show, had its origins about 40 years ago.

Always active, the group used to meet every week, according to Robert Oliver Sr. of Oliver Motor Sales. Now the association holds meetings once a month at the Waldron Hotel.

Comprising 10 new-car dealers, the group is headed by Ben Jerome Jr. of Jerome Motor Sales. However, new officers will be chosen at the group's annual election Jan. 31.

Oliver is the son of the late D. I. Oliver who opened a Cadillac dealership here in 1929.

Some of the other dealers here about the time the association was organized were Frank McClain, Overland; Frank Millward, Ford; Frank Thompson, Studebaker, and Emmett Page, Hudson-Essex.

OTHER ORIGINALS

Others included Barney Habel, Chevrolet; Paul and Ernest Riemenschneider, Studebaker; John Braid, Hupmobile; Arthur Stone, Whippet-Willys, Clarence Nephler, Oakland (Pontiac).

Also listed among the early dealers were Stewart Farmer, Willys-Overland; Ed Hodges, Pontiac; Art Widrig, Cadillac; Frank Droulard, Durant; Al Benter, Ford; Jay Green, Chrysler, and Arthur Rose, Buick.

New luxury accessories and safety equipment are included among the equipment displays, Newman said.

The show is sponsored by the Pontiac Automotive Trade Association, which consists of 10 area new-car dealerships, and the Mall Merchants Association.

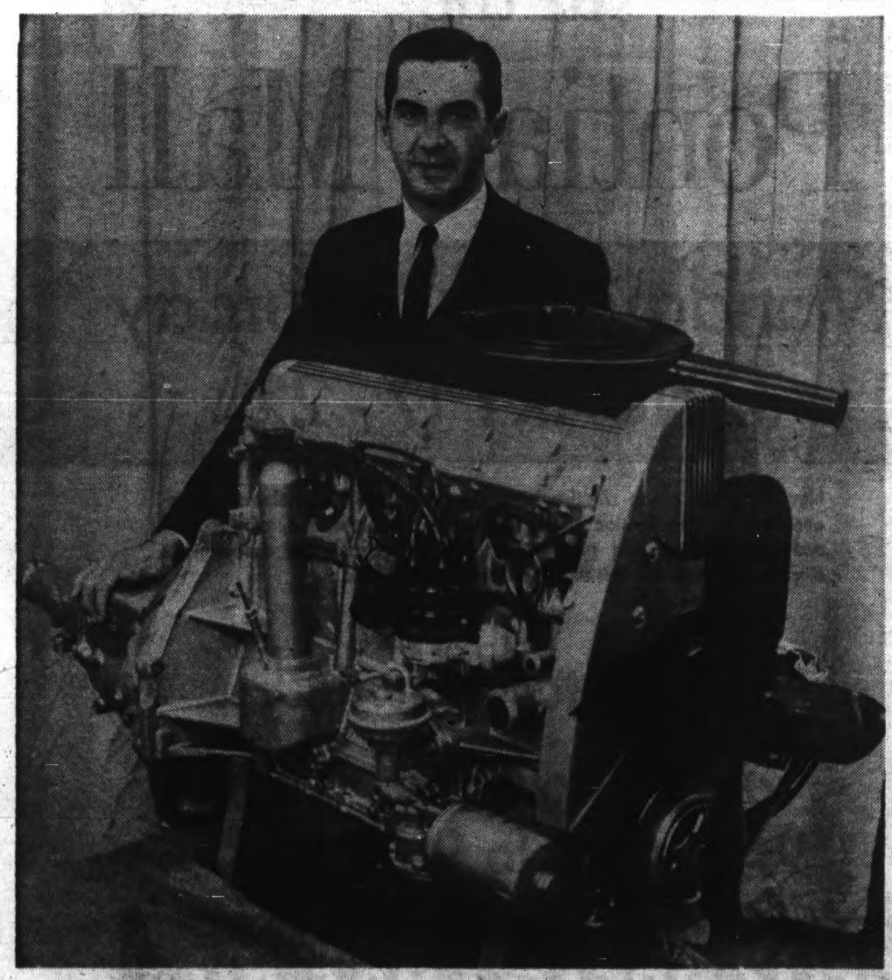
There is no admission charge or parking fee for shoppers or show visitors, assured show officials.

DEALERS

Dealers participating are Autobahn Motors, Inc., 1765 S. Telegraph, Bloomfield Township; Oakland Chrysler - Plymouth, Inc., 724 Oakland; Jerome Motor Sales, 280 S. Saginaw; Pontiac Retail Store, 65 Mount Clemens; and Matthews-Hargreaves, Inc., 631 Oakland.

Others include Oliver Motor Sale, Inc., 210 Orchard Lake; Lloyd Motors, Inc., 232 S. Saginaw; John McAuliffe Ford, Inc., 630 Oakland; Superior Rambler, 550 Oakland; and Spartan Dodge, Inc., 855 Oakland.

PAUL NEWMAN



NEW FOR 1966 — Pontiac Motor Division's General Manager John Z. DeLorean is shown with a new engine which is a "first" for both Pontiac and the American automobile industry — the first overhead cam shaft engine offered in an American passenger car. The six-cylinder engine is standard in 1966 Tempest, Tempest Custom and LeMans models. A cutaway of the engine will be displayed in the fourth annual Pontiac Mall Auto Show this week.

Pontiac, Tempest Offer Engineering, Style, Safety

The 1966 Pontiacs and Tempests, which are on display at the fourth annual Pontiac Mall Auto Show this week, offer extensive advancements in styling, engineering, safety and model availability.

Pontiac has increased the number of models from 26 last year to 33 in 1966.

The entire Tempest line has been redesigned and expanded by the addition of five new models, including a new GTO series. And for the first time in an American passenger car, an overhead camshaft six-cylinder engine is offered as standard equipment on all Tempest models except the GTO.

A new series, the 2-plus-2 with two models and a new Star Chief Executive sports coupe, has been added to the Pontiac line-up. All models, including the Grand Prix, incorporate both refinements in profile and complete changes in the front and rear.

★ ★ ★

New roof lines give the 1966 Tempest a completely new styling theme and big-car appearance. Body side sculpturing is noted by its clean simplicity with a suggestion of sports car flair.

NOTICEABLY FASTER

Both coupes and convertibles are noticeably faster in profile with dropping belt lines. On the coupe a complete breakaway from conventional upper design prevails.

The 1966 Pontiacs have bee restyled for a lower silhouette and wider appearance while maintaining the look of power and prestige identified with Pontiac.

Pontiac also has made available a completely new six-cylinder overhead cam engine for all 1966 Tempest, Tempest Custom and LeMans models.

★ ★ ★

Unique in both engineering concept and design, the Pontiac overhead cam engine is smoother, has larger output capabilities, increased fuel economy and provides greatly improved ease of servicing.

NEW ENGINE

The new engine utilizes a fiberglass-reinforced rubber timing belt in lieu of the conventional chain to drive the camshaft — another Pontiac innovation.

The engine, with single barrel carburetor, provides 165 horsepower at 4,700 rpm. The 9.0:1 compression ratio is available with either manual or automatic transmission.

In connection with the new overhead cam engine, Pontiac also has available a high output option, the Sprint option.

56 Different Models

Dodge Showing 5-Line Field

A glittering new lineup of 1966 Dodges — the Charger, Dart, Coronet, Polara and Monaco— are now on display by Spartan Dodge at the Pontiac Mall auto show.

Keeping pace with the changing demands of automobile buyers, Dodge this year has increased its offerings to 56 different models in five distinct lines, and has added a number of safety items previously listed as optional equipment.

Dodge's 1966 styling theme, underscored by the all-new Coronet, combines the contemporary "sculptured" look on the outside with the "custom" look of plush, comfortable interiors for all models.

"We've combined style, performance, comfort, durability and economy to come up with a package to meet every individual car-buyer's needs," Dodge Division general manager Byron J. Nichols said.

★ ★ ★

Safety features on all 1966 Dodge cars that previously were extra cost options are: front and rear seat safety belts, padded instrument panels and visors, windshield washers, variable-speed windshield wipers, back-up lights and left outside rear-view mirror.

SAFETY HANDLE

In addition, a new type safety door handle is standard on Coronets, Polaras and Monacos. The handle, which operates like the buckle of a seat belt, is integrated flush with the armrest and must be pulled outward to unlatch the door.

Important safety options are front-wheel disc brakes for Darts, Polaras and Monacos, and front seat shoulder belts for all models.

Most deluxe of the 1966 Dodge series is the 121-inch wheelbase Monaco, topped by a luxury sports model 2-door hardtop, the Monaco 500. Available only as a 2-door hardtop last year, the 1966 Monaco line now includes a 4-door hardtop, 4-door sedan, and 6- and 9-passenger station wagons.

★ ★ ★

Sharing new grille and tail light designs with the Monaco are the popular medium - price Polara models. Available in 4-door sedans, 2-door hardtops, 4-door hardtops, convertibles and 2- and 3-seat station wagons, the 1966 Polara has a 121-inch wheelbase.

MASSIVE CAR

The Polara's design is an evolutionary development of the 1965 theme. The car is massive, but has a sleek appearance. Its exterior styling stresses spaciousness and luxury, and new exteriors carry the theme to completion.

New from bumper to tail light this year is the family-size Coronet.

Introduced to the Dodge line last year, the Coronet immediately won public favor and has since led the way in sales, accounting for more than 40 per cent of 1965 Dodge retail figures.

★ ★ ★

The Coronet for 1966 carries a fresh, crisp combination of styling, performance, economy and ruggedness. Lines are simple and not cluttered with chrome, and the car carries significant new mechanical features.

Still the largest of the compacts with a 111-inch wheelbase, the 1966 Dart displays Dodge's bold new styling on the outside and uncommon elegance on the inside.

Most versatile of all the Dodge models, the agile Dart is back this year with engineering refinements designed to provide longer trouble-free motoring and greater ease of operation. Again, the popular low-price model is offered in a variety of 20 V8 and 6-cylinder models.

High Impact Points

Dodge engineers say the large bumpers on the 1966 Dart are designed with "high impact points." This provides extra protection to the grille and the trunk lid.

Clinic Completely Checks Car

Car-care center, repair clinic, service center — under whatever name, this new idea in automobile service combines the variety of a shopping center, the patience of a family physician, and the relaxation of a beauty-shop appointment under one big roof.

That, at any rate, is the reaction of a woman who visited a repair clinic recently, one just opened by the American Oil Co. in Chicago.

She knew she needed work done on her car, but she didn't know exactly what. She'd gotten several professional opinions, opinions that could only be confirmed, she'd concluded, by "opening up" the car. All in all they gave her grim visions of having to buy a new car or, at least, a new engine.

Then she learned about the clinic, its diagnostic lane, and the fact that, now, electronic equipment can pinpoint car problems precisely.

★ ★ ★

The day of her appointment (most of the new centers operate their diagnostic lanes by personalized appointment) wasn't much different from the times she'd taken the children in for back-to-school physicals. (Diagnosticians even used stethoscopes in examining the engine.)

CUSTOMER LOUNGE

Waiting in the customer lounge, she could relax over the latest magazines and newspapers or, as she chose to do, watch the entire procedure through wide picture windows overlooking the test lane.

In 40 or 45 minutes everything affecting safe, smooth operation is thoroughly checked: cooling system, transmission, bearing, brakes, spark plugs, lights, wipers, battery, carburetor, and so on.

★ ★ ★

A dynamometer, a highly sophisticated type of treadmill, spins the wheels at 40-50-60-70 miles an hour so the technicians can observe "on the road" performance.

END OF TRACK

At the end of the track, the car rises into the air on a hoist, and the technicians come in for one last look, a complete underneath inspection. Even the wheels are removed.

From the lounge, meanwhile, customers can see the test results on dial-panels and, by picking up a wall phone nearby, they can get a recorded explanation of exactly what's going on. Afterward the diagnosticians discuss the findings with them in private consultation rooms.

If there's work to be done, a car owner can go right to an adjoining repair shop for an estimate and leave the car or come back later. Most centers have round-the clock hours and service bays for as many as 20 cars, so there's little waiting for the work to begin.

★ ★ ★

Many offer customers car-rental service — for transportation till their own cars are ready. When they are, the repairs have been road tested—usually on another dynamometer — and fully guaranteed.

SELECTION OF PARTS

On the way out customers can browse through a supermarket selection of parts and accessories, fill up the gas tank on the front driveway, and treat their cars to an automatic wash and wax.

But back to our friend. Half expecting her car to collapse on the track, she brightened as the diagnosticians wheeled it briskly into the customer parking lot.

In the consultation room she got the news—not at all bad: "spark plugs need cleaning; carburetor linkage should be repaired; one set of king pins is gone, another's worn, but certainly not to the danger point . . ."

Later, armed with estimates from the shop foreman, she started home to think.

BIG RELIEF

"The big relief," she said, "was knowing what was wrong and what wasn't, whether or not the car was a safety hazard, and exactly what general condition it was in: good, fair, or poor. And I didn't have to take anybody's word for it. The machines told me."

Chevrolet Ends Revision of Car Trailering Brochure

Keeping pace with the camping and boating boom, Chevrolet has just completed a comprehensive revision of its car trailering brochure for distribution to motorists by the division and its dealers.

★ ★ ★

The colorful 20-page illustrated booklet for 1966 is titled, "Highways Lead to Fun and Pleasure with Trailer - Made Chevrolets." It contains even more trailering tips and detailed equipment information and recommendation than previous brochures published by the division.

With the rapidly rising popularity of boating, camping and travel, more and more diversified equipment is being made available to equip automobiles for trailering.

The 1966 Chevrolet brochure has been enlarged and amplified to describe in detail how five different lines of Chevrolet cars can be "trailer-made" with special factory option and dealer-installed equipment.

★ ★ ★

The booklet emphasizes the importance of outfitting cars for various trailer loads with vital special equipment in addition to the special Chevrolet trailer hitches.

SPECIAL EQUIPMENT

Depending upon loads, these include heavier duty tires, electrical equipment, Chevrolet's superlift air-adjustable shock absorbers and automatic level control, station wagon luggage carriers and rear window deflectors, traffic hazard warning system, trailer wiring harness, auxiliary lights, and many other items.

The brochure contains listings by tables of recommended equipment for "trailer-making" Chevrolets, Corvairs, Chevy II's and Chevelles; a section on the exclusive Chevrolet automatic level control mechanism which is especially fitted to towing heavy loads; tire recommendations; and a two-page spread with diagrams on trailer loading, counterweighting, driving and parking.

The Chevrolet trailer hitch is designed to tow a trailer of up to 2,000 pounds with a maximum tongue load of 200 pounds. There is a special hitch for Corvairs.

★ ★ ★

Additional recommendations are given for equalizer hitches to handle additional loads.

The brochures are available in limited quantity through Chevrolet dealers or by writing Chevrolet Motor Division, Room 2-129, General Motors Bldg., Detroit, Mich. 48202.

Detail Antipollution System

Three members of General Motors Engineering Staff last week reported design and operating details of the GM Air Injection Reactor system for reducing automotive air pollution in California.

William K. Steinhagen, George Niepoth and Stanley H. Mick told the Society of Automotive Engineers in Detroit that the new system, certified by California for 1966 passenger cars and light trucks, was developed with two objectives:

First, cleaner air and, second, maximum reliability with minimum maintenance.

They explained that injecting air into an automotive engine's exhaust ports was an old concept of exhaust gas treatment. In 1940 and 1941 patents were issued to inventors "who claimed a reduction in partially burned and unburned exhaust constituents."

★ ★ ★

"The mechanics of air injection," they added, "are quite simple. Pressurized air is transmitted through hoses and distribution manifolds to individual tubes or passages in each cylinder exhaust port, close to the exhaust valve.

SUPPLIES AIR

"A positive displacement nonlubricated pump supplies the air. It is a semiarticulated vane pump, belt driven from the engine crankshaft. The development of the pump was one of the significant steps in the A.I.R. system development."

Thus, the successful reduction of exhaust hydrocarbons and carbon monoxide to meet the California standard of 275 parts per million hydrocarbons and 1.5 per cent carbon monoxide involved the principle of air injection combined with extensive engine modifications.

Their presentation detailed such engine modifications as special carburetors, ported vacuum spark advance units, engine idle speed specifications and carburetor mixtures, modified cooling systems in some cars, antibackfire valves, check valves and air pump relief valves.

★ ★ ★

Variations in each of these are necessary to adapt the A.I.R. system to each General Motors engine-transmission combination.

RELIABILITY

Discussing the system's reliability, the GM engineers said that as of July 1, 1965, shortly before certification by California's Motor Vehicle Pollution Control Board, 250 GM vehicles had been operated more than 2.5 million miles with the system installed.

Long-range emission control testing involved 11 cars totaling a million miles at GM's Milford Proving Ground on a modified city driving schedule.

Nine were driven 100,000 miles each; two traveled 50,000 miles each. Two of the 100,000 mile vehicles got only minimum maintenance; they were attended to after drivers reported substandard driveability.

Exhaust emissions exceeded the California limits only when the engine malfunctioned because of misfiring spark plugs, a stuck choke or dirt in the carburetor.

Nine other vehicles were given a durability test with regular maintenance, a tuneup every 12,000 miles. They held to the California limits.

Another car covered 100,000 miles, with regular maintenance during the first 50,000 and minimum maintenance during the next 50,000. Carbon monoxide exceeded the California limit at about 66,000 miles because of a plugged fuel filter and burned ignition points.

Meanwhile, exhaust hydrocarbon and carbon monoxide analyses showed that average exhaust emissions did not change appreciably when the vehicles were tuned up.

"Individual cars did change, but not in a uniform direction," they said. "Thus, an A.I.R. car that is performing satisfactorily is not helped or hurt by a tuneup."

Durability test results, they reported, have shown that there is a minimum maintenance required in addition to normal vehicle servicing. The recommended annual maintenance is:

1. Replacement of the crankcase ventilation valve which is presently required in California.
2. Check the air pump belt and tighten if required.
3. Service the air pump air filter element on those vehicles that employ a separate unit.

The Gawk. You can't blame a gawker. After all, a first look at the tuned car doesn't come along every day. And she hasn't even seen those headlights flip into view yet.

The Unbeliever. "That sleek, exotic road machine? Made in Flint, Michigan? I don't believe it." Ever since the first Riviera, Flint has been the home of one of the world's great classics. Riviera.

The Grin. A common reaction to the tuned car. Generally becomes wider as the wearer realizes that Riviera isn't the only tuned car. Every Buick is. Wagons, sedans, hardtops, convertibles, coupes. Life is sweet.

The Unbeliever's Wife. Close kin to the Unbeliever. Can't believe a sleek, exotic machine can be comfortable too. But Riviera keeps ahead of the Giovannis: room for six comes standard.

The Close Call. Some people almost buy some other car. This look is the look they get when they discover how close they came to missing the beautiful blend of styling, performance, ride and handling that is the 1966 Buick.

1966 Buick Riviera. What the gawkers are gawking at, the unbelievers are believing and the grinners are grinning at. If you can't get to the show for a closer look, get to your Buick dealer's.

Safety and Luxury Also Highlighted

1966 Chevrolets Offer Variety

Variety, safety and luxury in a choice without precedent highlight the 1966 Chevrolets represented at the Pontiac Mall Auto Show this week.

The full lineup of 50 passenger car models in six lines, highest in the division's 55-history, includes 23 "sport jobs" — convertibles and hardtops— and 14 wagons in five different sizes and wheelbases.

Complementing this selection are more than 400 different accessories and optional equipment items — everything from auxiliary lights and horn to a new automatic air-conditioning and heating unit for year-round climate control.

"With model, color, optional, interior and other combinations running into the billions, every buyer has an opportunity unparalleled in automotive history to have his car custom-built to his own needs and tastes," said E. M. Estes, Chevrolet general manager.

★ ★ ★

Sparked by this history-making car availability, plus the largest and most diversified truck line ever offered by the division, Chevrolet hopes to become the first auto maker to hit the 3 million vehicle year in both production and sales, Estes said.

66 DEVELOPMENTS

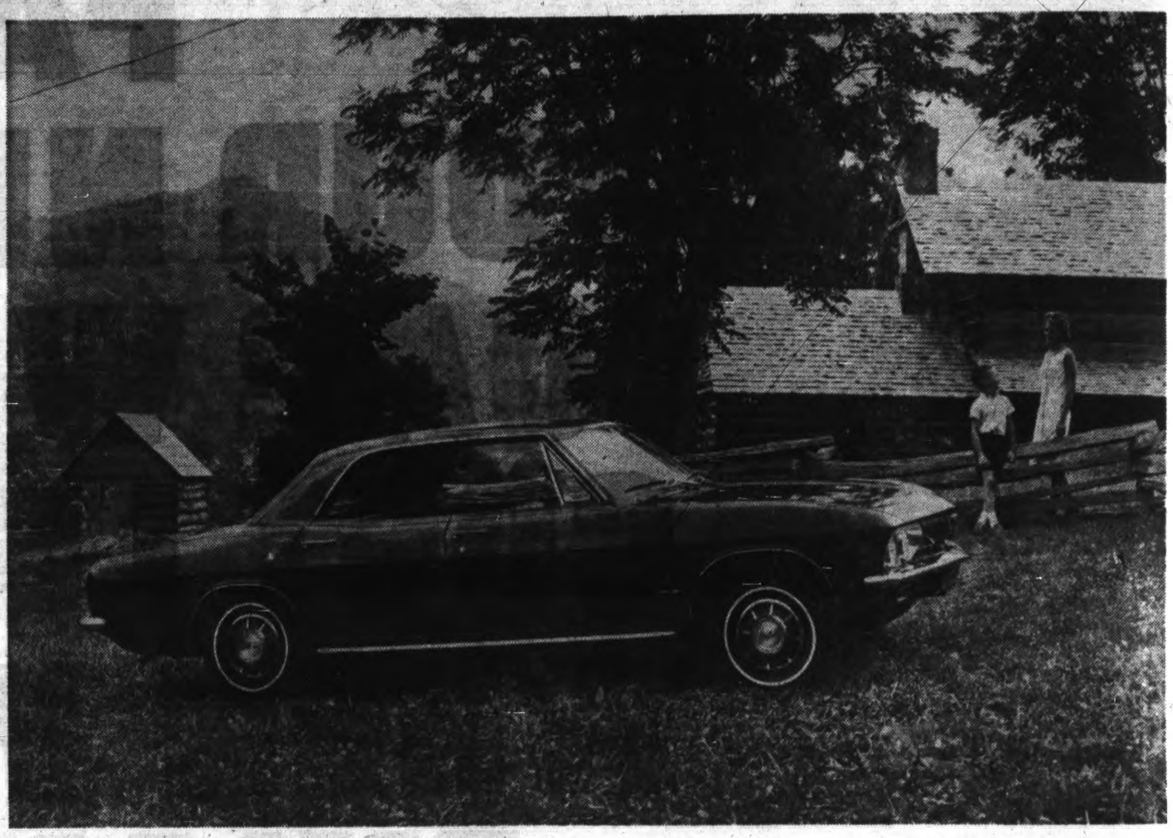
Among 1966 developments expected to help in reaching new sales marks are:

- A top-of-the-line Caprice series in four models added to the top-selling regular Chevrolets; a new four-door Chevelle hardtop sedan; and a new Chevelle Super Sport 396 series.
- Completely new styling of the Chevy II and the Chevelle plus design refinements in the other lines.
- Numerous safety features included as standard equipment. These range from padded dash and padded sun visors to backup lamps.
- Expansion of the truck line by nearly 40 per cent with the addition of 101 models. This gives a total of 366 models to meet virtually every specialized hauling need. Also added are six new engines, including gasoline and diesel.
- New passenger car mechanical features, including a new 250-cubic inch six-cylinder engine as standard equipment and two new 427-cubic inch V8s. Also added is a new standard three-speed fully synchronized manual transmission.
- Expanded options with "first time" offerings including a Comfortron single-dial automatic air conditioning and heating unit, bench front seats with arm rests, a four-way power bucket seat for the driver and tilt-telescoping steering.

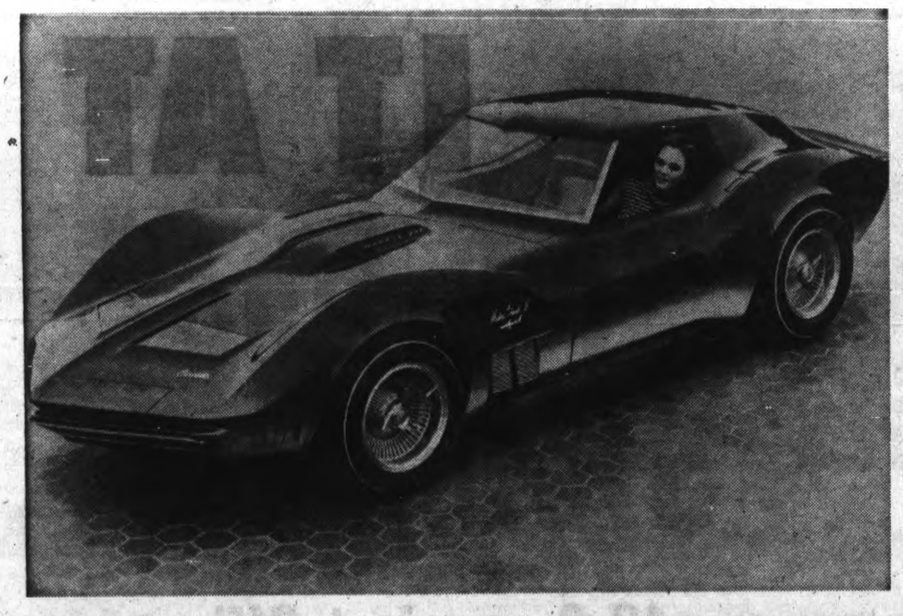
★ ★ ★

The division's six passenger car lines for 1966, four of which are represented in the Matthews-Hargreaves, Inc., display at the Mall this week, are the regular Chevrolet, Chevelle, Chevy II, Corvair, Corvette and Sportvan.

The truck line is also represented in the fourth annual Auto Show by a half-ton pickup.



CORVAIR MONZA SPORT SEDAN — The Corvair's sporty international styling is retained for 1966 with new identification in emblems and ornamentation. Among the many refinements made in the new models are a new engine exhaust grille, new taillight styling and special Monza wheel covers. Seat belts now are regular equipment in both front and back seats Headrests are offered as optional equipment on the front seats. Seven models for 1966 make up the smart Corvair family.



MAKO SHARK II — Chevrolet's experimental Corvette, Mako Shark II, is being shown at the fourth annual Pontiac Mall Auto Show this week. The two-passenger fastback coupe, incorporating the latest automobile aerodynamics, continues the "look ahead" design tradition of Corvette show cars. Among its many features are retractable stabilizing flaps, a "flip-top" roof for easy passenger access and smoothly molded aircraft-type cockpit.

Chevrolet's Newest Idea Cars Recipients of Wide Acclaim

Starring in the Chevrolet exhibit at the recent Detroit Auto Show were two of the division's newest idea cars — the Mako Shark II and the Concours — in their first Detroit appearance.

The Mako Shark II, which received wide acclaim during its appearance at the International Auto Show in New York, is an experimental Corvette fastback coupe with aerodynamic styling. A fully-operational version of this car now is touring European auto shows.

The Shark features "flip-top" roof and "hideaway" lights, rear bumper, windshield wipers and door latches with electronically operated stabilizing flaps which extend from the lip of the bob-tailed rear end to improve roadability.

The aircraft-like cockpit contains molded, contoured seats, driver-adjusted controls and toeboard, a battery of indicator lights and convenient controls.

Based on a production Corvette chassis with four-wheel disc brakes and independent suspension, the Shark is powered by a 425 horsepower version of Chevrolet's new V8 engine. It is 9.5 inches longer and 3.5 inches lower than production Corvettes and is painted to match its undersea namesake.

Called the rallyist's dream, the Concours has been a "hit" feature in several auto shows.

It is an experimental four-place convertible designed to give the utmost in comfort and control. It is distinguished by a forward-thrusting front and teardrop rear.

An elaborate instrument panel, containing 18 gauges and dials, has speedometer, tachometer and rally clock to calculate exact driving speed and time.

Hobby Aids Mustang Emblem Designer

Since his boyhood in the copper country of upper Michigan, Waino Kangas has loved to whittle.

Now an automotive clay-sculptor at the Ford Styling Center in Dearborn, he still whittles in the workshop of his home. And he has been known to carry his hobby into the living room, letting the chips fall where they may.

The Kangas household in Dearborn has its own menagerie of tiny wooden animals, including a herd of deer in a variety of lifelike postures.

Thus it was natural that the Ford Corporate Projects Studio turned to Kangas when it needed a distinctive animal sculpture for the Mustang car.

The now-familiar racing figure of a horse, which appears on the grille, front fenders, steering wheel hub, gas filler cap and even the car keys of every Mustang, first was carved in mahogany by Kangas in the styling studio. But not before he did his homework — consulting books about horses, making innumerable sketches and planning every highlight so that people could "read" the Mustang emblem even at a distance.

His carving was so precise that it was used as the die model, without the need for customary surface drawings.

No Break Foreseen in Business Upswing

"As we see it here at Ford, the long-term trend in automobiles has to be up," Donald N. Frey, Ford Motor Co. vice president and Ford Division general manager, told newsmen recently.

"There'll be some peaks and valleys along the way, to be sure, but over-all the trend is up. Our economists are forecasting that business will continue to expand at least through the first quarter of 1966."

Safety Efforts at Ford Viewed

Seek to Improve Car, Find New Features

Safety is built into automobiles in two principal ways: by making the total vehicle as reliable as possible and by incorporating features which lessen the chance of injury if accidents occur.

Colver R. Briggs, director of automotive safety for Ford Motor Co., says the ability of the driver to avoid accidents in critical situations has been improved over the years by refinements in steering, brake and suspension systems and through engine signs providing increased torque in the passing range.

Automobile manufacturers also work constantly, according to Briggs, to develop features which will reduce the number of persons killed or injured seriously in motor-vehicle accidents.

Ford Motor Co. pioneered in 1955 the industry's first "safety package," which included safety door latches; seat belts; deeply dished, energy-absorbing safety steering wheel; seat anchors; padding for instrument panels and visors, and a shatter-resistant rear-view mirror.

★ ★ ★

Since then, Ford safety engineers have improved these features time and again. For example, Ford-built vehicles now have a fourth generation of safety door latches, with more than double the resistance to opening under strain. Energy-absorbing characteristics of Ford's instrument panel padding also has been doubled since 1955.

SAFETY FEATURES

Many safety features are newly installed as standard equipment in Ford's 1966 automobiles. They are padded instrument panel, padded sun visors, outside rear-view mirror, four-way emergency flasher, front and rear seat belts, back-up lights and windshield washers. An improved windshield with twice the safety effectiveness of previous windshields also is installed in all 1966 Ford-built cars.

In addition, the company continues to offer a broad range of safety options and accessories, such as door-ajar warning lights, seat-belt reminder lights and a unique safety bucket seat for small children.

To aid in developing designs for maximum vehicle safety, Ford engineers have conducted hundreds of car-to-car and car-to-barrier crash tests, as well as roll-over tests and experiments in which cars are dropped "nose-down" by a crane.

★ ★ ★

Ford engineers also review data from various research sources on the effectiveness of safety features in actual accidents.

conducts in-depth studies of injury accidents and fatalities in Washtenaw County," Briggs said. He also cited work done in cooperation with Wayne State University on human-tolerances research.

Early in 1965, Ford announced plans for the industry's first automotive safety center, where the most advanced equipment will test the safety aspects of newly developed equipment and evaluate vehicle safety information from both inside and outside the company.

"Design of safety features and other elements of the vehicle to reduce injuries is an evolutionary thing — not revolutionary," Briggs said. "One of our biggest opportunities to effect injury reduction is in the area of front-end collapse of the vehicle.

★ ★ ★

"If we can lower the collapse rate or extend the time through ingenious engineering effort — resulting in greater energy absorption of the car components — we will greatly reduce the force with which the passenger or driver comes in contact with an object in the car.

OTHER FACTORS

"All of these factors relate to the vehicle itself," Briggs said, adding: "There are many other factors in highway safety which require improvement through the efforts of many organizations and institutions. These include driver training and licensing requirements, road design and traffic control, law enforcement and public education."

Ford worked with the University of Michigan Transportation Institute for six years to develop techniques for studying driver behavior, traffic flow and vehicle control. One result was a new research and training device that furnishes a minute-by-minute measure of driver performance and vehicle motion.

The device — called a drivometer — has potential for training new drivers and retraining experienced vehicle operators.

★ ★ ★

Ford and its dealers long have supported driver-education programs. The Ford Good Drivers League of 1941 was the first nationally sponsored effort in the auto industry to encourage teenagers to become better drivers.

DRIVER EDUCATION

In 1965, Ford and Lincoln-Mercury dealers supplied more than 4,000 cars to high schools across the United States for driver-education programs involving hundreds of thousands of students.

In addition, the company makes available a library of motion pictures on a free loan basis through Ford dealers and Ford film libraries in Dearborn, New York City and Oakland, Calif. Ford also distributes public service television film clips on safe driving.

Engineers Explode Myth About Tires

Tire engineers in Akron, Ohio are trying hard to explode a popular but dangerous superstitution that tires should be deflated slightly before motorists set out on long highway trips.

The superstition came to light in the wake of a nationally televised driving test in which many viewers flunked a question about increasing normal inflations before setting out on such trips.

The motorists erroneously believed that, since tire pressures rise with highspeed driving, tires should be deflated a few pounds before starting.

"The worst thing a driver can do to his tires is to deflate them below normal cold pressures," J. F. Hutchinson, manager of auto tire engineering for the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. said.

★ ★ ★

"Of course, air pressure increases in high-speed driving. That's how a tire protects itself. The higher pressure helps the tire to run cooler. The heat in a tire is generated by the flexing of the tread and sidewalls. Stiffer sidewalls under higher pressure cut down deflection and heat, and make the tire safer."

FOUR POUNDS

Hutchinson explained that for sustained driving at speeds of 60 miles per hour and higher, the normal "cold" pressures should be increased by four pounds a tire. Likewise, when driving with heavier than usual loads, the pressure should be increased.

This recommendation is made by both the Tire and Rim Association (TRA) and the Rubber Manufacturers' Association (RMA), which represent the tire industry.

For example, if the recommended cold pressure for a tire is 24 pounds, the TRA and RMA advise raising the inflation to 28 pounds before sustained driving at high speed.

★ ★ ★

If a tire is to be driven with heavier than nornal loads, it is advisable to increase pressure in the tires up to 32.

EARLY READING

"Cold" pressure is the reading taken when the tire is cold, preferably in the morning before the car has been moved more than a few blocks at low speed.

Hutchinson said a driver can find the normal cold pressure figure for his tires in the handbook that came with his car, from his auto dealer, or from any competent tire dealer.

"In establishing cold pressure readings, tire engineers take into account that inflations will rise on the road," Hutchinson explained. "Motorists should remember that recommended pressures are starting pressures and that they will automatically go up when the tires are in action."

The tire engineer said auto racing drivers, well aware of he importance of higher inflation for their tires, often use pressures as high as 60 to 70 pounds. The average motorists, however, should observe recommended pressures for his tires and raise them moderately for trips

New Dodge Charger Has Unique Styling and Many Features

DODGE CHARGER — The low-slung Dodge Charger is on display at the fourth annual Pontiac Mall Auto Show this week. Unique in styling with its swept-back roof, the exciting new fastback also features a full-width grille with hidden headlights, "sculptured" sheet metal design and full-width taillights. Its prototype was the Charger II, an experimental car displayed last year at auto shows in nine major U. S. cities.

An exciting new fastback Dodge called the Charger — a low-slung offspring from the show car of the same name — made its debut in the medium-size specialty car field on New Year's Day.

Unique in styling with its sweptback roof, a full-width grille with hidden headlights, "sculptured" sheet metal design and full-width tail lights, the Charger is being displayed by Spartan Dodge at the Mall Auto Show this week.

Its prototype was the "Charger II," an experimental car displayed last year before crowds in Detroit, Chicago, Los Angeles, Boston, Washington, Tampa, Seattle, Indianapolis, and Portland, Ore.

Many of the experimental car's features are retained in the production version, according to Dodge General Manager Bryon J. Nichols.

★ ★ ★

"We displayed the 'Charger II' at auto shows in nine major U. S. cities last year for two purposes," he said. "One was to show Dodge's styling and engineering excellence; the other was to get the car-buying public's reaction to such a unique car.

SPORTY CAR

"We are convinced of a strong market potential for a sporty car in the medium-size vehicle. Wherever the Charger was exhibited it drew large crowds and thousands of questions as to when it would be available," Nichols added.

The exclusive two-door hardtop features a plush, roomy interior with four individual bucket seats and a full-length console. Its two rear seats can be folded forward separately for added cargo space

Standard engine on the 117-inch wheelbase model is a 318-cubic-inch Dodge V-8. Three optional V-8 powerplants—361, 383 and the new "Hemi-426," rated at 425 horsepower — are available in the new fastback.

★ ★ ★

The Charger is 203.6 inches long, 75.3 inches wide and 53 inches high. It is slightly lower than the Dodge Coronet but has ample head, shoulder, hip and leg room.

REVOLVING HEADLIGHTS

Revolving headlights that disappear from view when not in use are integrated with unique one-piece grille design. They are controlled automatically from inside by the headlight off-on switch.

Parking and turn-signal lights are also concealed. Headlights can be left exposed at the driver's whim.

Front seats are full buckets molded into a graceful new "shell" shape and separated by a broad console that stretches back between the rear seats. The console affords large, soft armrests at a height where they are most effective, and folds forward with the rear seats for added cargo space.

★ ★ ★

Seats are trimmed in long-wearing vinyls stitched into slender horizontal pleats — designed for maximum comfort.

REAR SEATS

Unlike folding rear station wagon seats, the Charger's two individual rear seats can be folded forward one at a time depending on the extra floor cargo space needed. The Charger can be a 2-plus-2 or 2-plus-1 plus luggage — as the driver wishes.

With rear seats, armrest and a security panel folded flat, the utility area is extended to almost 6½ feet of cargo space from the top of the back seat rearward.

Skis can be stored inside with ease. With the security panel in its normal position and the rear seat back folded down, useable floor length is more than three feet.

INSTRUMENT PANEL

The Charger's all-new instrument panel features four large round gauges: alternator and fuel, speedometer, and electric tachometer that registers up to 6,000 rpm, and the oil-pressure and engine temperature gauges.

Unit construction provides a strong, rigid body for the Charger, built according to tested techniques which Dodge has developed for its other cars.

With the standard 318-cubic-inch V-8 engine, the fastback is equipped with a single two-barrel carburetor, standard camshaft, silenced air cleaner and a single exhaust system.

★ ★ ★

Optional powerplants are the 361-cubic-inch V-8 with standard camshaft; a 383-cubic-inch V-8 with a single four-barrel carburetor, dual exhaust and unsilenced air cleaner; a 426-cubic-inch V-8 Hemi, with dual four-barrel carburetors, special camshaft, dual exhausts and unsilenced air cleaner.

MAXIMUM PERFORMANCE

Also available is a 426-cubic-inch V-8 Hemi with a maximum performance camshaft.

The Charger comes equipped with a three-speed manual transmission, with a special four-speed manual or TorqueFlite automatic shift optional.

Additional standard safety equipment on the Charger includes front and rear seat belts, multi-speed electric windshield wipers, windshield washers, an outside left rear-view mirror, back-up lights and padded instrument panel and sunvisor. Tinted glass in the Charger's rear window is standard.

Extra-cost options include tinted glass, bumper guards, emergency flasher, electric window lifts, power steering and brakes and air-conditioning.

AMX Fastback Radically New

The prototype of a radical new show car featuring a unique cantilever roof and three-way seating was shown by American Motors Corp. at the Society of Auotmobile Engineers national convention in Detriot last week.

The special sports car, the AMX (for American Motors Experimental), is a two-door hardtop with fastback styling.

"It is a design experiment which is being pursued to check various design potentials and to test public response to the many unusual features," American Motors President Roy Abernethy said.

The design calls for elimination of the pillers between the front and side windows, resulting in optimum visibility for safety as well as accentuating the unique roof.

★ ★ ★

In the design, a cantilever-type roof is supported by inner structural members which also serve as a roll bar.

WINDOWS CLOSED

When fresh air is desired, the side windows remain closed. The louvers on either side of the hood may be opened and the rear window partially raised to complete the flow-thru ventilation system. The canted louvers near the front of the hood are designed to augment engine cooling.

The AMX is basically a two-passenger car, designed with shell bucket seats in leather and a full-length center console.

In addition, the design calls for "jump" seats in the rear, as well as a "Ramble seat." Unlike the runble seats of yesteryear, the new AMX version is designed to permit passengers in that seat to participate in conversation with those in front by means of the top-hinged windows. This would serve to protect the "Ramble seat" occupants from the weather and wind.

★ ★ ★

The entire rear section, from the top of the rear window to the bumper line, could be raised as a single unit, providing flexible storage space.

72 INCHES WIDE

The SMX has an over-all length of 179 inches. It is 72 inches wide, 48 inches high and has a wheel base of 98 inches.

The AMX seemingly has no taillights because they are covered by a metal mesh which resembles regular chrome. With the lights switched on, the mesh becomes transparent, permitting the red light to shine through. The taillights span the width fo the car.

The car's V-shaped grille compliments the "V" windshield. The grille and the rectangular headlights are recessed for protection. Turnpike driving lights are mounted low in the flush bumper.

★ ★ ★

There are no conventional exterior door handles. A button mechanism would open the hatch-type doors, which wrap up into the roof for easier entry and exit. The ribbed rocker panels are edged with brushed aluminum.

EXHAUST OUTLETS

Dual exhaust outlets are recessed into the trailing edges of the rocker panels.

Fifteen - inch "mag - type" wheels are used, with oversized tires in the rear. The tires have a blue stripe which matches the blue body striping along the lower sculpture line.

The model is finished in silver blue metallic.

Twin gas tanks with flush gas filler doors set in each side of the sculptures rear pillars are a design feature.

Chevrolet Installs Better Ignition Switch

New on all 1966 Chevrolets seen at the Pontiac Mall Auto Show is an improved ignition switch with a detent — or stop — between the "off" and "accessory" positions.

This prevents accidental turning of the key through "off" to "accessory" and the resulting discharge of the battery if accessories are inadvertently left running.

Use of Plastics Is Increasing

Automotive uses of ABS (Acrylonitrile - Butadiene-Styrene) plastics have nearly tripled in just five years, Harry D. Glenn, vice president and general manager of Chemical division, United States Rubber Co., recently said.

Glenn estimated the automotive industry will use about 32 million pounds of ABS material in 1966. "That averages out to 3.6 pounds per car in the new models, compared to 1.25 pounds in the 1962 models," he said.

"The major breakthrough in the increased uses of ABS plastics in the new 1966 models has been grilles for all Pontiac and Tempest cars," he said.

This grille application has been thoroughly tested and evaluated in laboratories and proving grounds. After extensive field tests, both in the United States and abroad, the ABS material has been proven to be ideal for grilles.

★ ★ ★

U.S. Rubber supplies Kralastic ABS materials to Ternstedt Division of General Motors for molding Pontiac grilles.

EXTERIOR PARTS

Advantages of ABS exterior parts are: design and styling flexibility, light weight — a reduction of as much as 35 pounds per car — ease of assembly and replacement, toughness and durability — especially at low temperatures — and economical replacement.

Glenn said U.S. Rubber pioneered the exterior use of ABS on trucks overseas two years ago. "Results from field reports on the 50,000 commercial vehicles using our Kralastic ABS grilles are excellent," he said.

Glenn expects to see an expansion of further ABS plastic applications in seating, garnish moldings, grilles, lamp bezels, trim parts, hub caps and fender extensions. These applications are now being evaluated.

"By 1970, the average American passenger car will use 7.7 pounds of ABS plastics," he predicted.

AMX PROTOTYPE — The AMX, a prototype of a design experiment by American Motors, was shown for the first time at the national convention of the Society of Automotive Engineers at Cobo Hall in Detroit last week. The AMX (for American Motors Experimental) will be used "to check various design potentials and to test public response to its many unusual features," AMC President Roy Abernethy said. The two-door hardtop's radical design features a unique cantilever-type roof supported by inner structural members which also serve as a roll bar. While basically designed as a two-passenger car, the AMX will also feature "jump" seats in the rear to accomodate additional passengers.

Falcon Blends With Mustang

The appeal of two of the most successful cars ever introduced —Mustang and Falcon — is blended to produce a completely new Ford Falcon for 1966.

★ ★ ★

The new Falcon in effect becomes a family Mustang with touches of the distinctive Mustang styling — long hood, short rear deck, rear-quarter "hop up" and round wheel openings— while retaining traditional Falcon features.

Curved side glass makes its appearance in the Falcon for the first time in 1966. An optional air conditioning system includes outlets integrated with the instrument panel.

Reversible keys and keyless locking also are featured on all 1966 Falcons as are new, stronger lock assemblies.

Curved side glass adds roominess to the new Falcon. The wheelbase for sedan models has been increased 1.5 inches, and over-all length has been increased 2.7 inches to 184.3 inches.

★ ★ ★

The increase in station wagon size is even more dramatic with over-all length increased 8.7 inches to 196.7 inches and the wheelbase increased 3.5 inches to 113 inches.

WIDER TREAD

Tread of the 1966 Falcon also has been extended to 58.2 inches front and rear — wider by three inches than comparable 1965 dimensions.

A stronger, improved body structure coupled with isolated front torque boxes — similar to those on the quiet-riding Ford — provide a smoother, quieter ride and better handling characteristics for 1966 Falcons.

The Falcon lineup for 1966 consists of 10 models in three series. Included are two- and four-door sedans and four-door station wagons in Falcon and Futura series, and a new Falcon Futura Sports Coupe.

★ ★ ★

The new coupe has as standard equipment wider bucket seats, an accent paint stripe, deluxe wheelcovers with knock-off hubs, 14-inch wheels, and the 200-cubic-inch six-cylinder engine.

MORE ROOM

While the over-all height of the new Falcon remains at 54.6 inches, interior head room has been increased from 38.2 to 38.4 inches in front and from 37.1 to 37.7 inches in the rear.

Front and rear leg room also has been increased, with front-compartment spaciousness enhanced by a new, recessed instrument panel.

The standard engine for all Falcon models except the Futura Sports Coupe and station wagon is the 170-cubic-inch Six. The 200-cubic-inch Six, standard on the Futura Sports Coupe and station wagon, is optional for all other models.

★ ★ ★

Available also as an option for all Falcons is the 200-horsepower, 289-cubic-inch two-barrel V8. All Falcon engines are designed to operate on regular fuel.

STANDARD SHIFT

A three-speed manual transmission is standard for all models, with a three-speed Cruise-O-Matic automatic transmission optional for all models.

★ ★ ★

A four-speed, fully synchronized manual transmission is available with the 289 two-barrel V8 on all models except station wagons.

The Falcon Station Bus, Club Wagon and Deluxe Club Wagon are retained in the line, and the "extended body" option — formerly available on the Station Bus — now is available on all three.

★ ★ ★

New safety features standard on all 1966 Falcons include outside rear-view mirror, back-up lights, padded instrument panel and visors, rear - seat belts, windshield washers and emergency flashers. Also featured is a new, thicker laminate windshield.

Ford Plans Automotive Safety Center

Henry Ford II recently detailed Ford Motor Co's. plans for the industry's first Automotive Safety Center. He said the center is part of a program to double the company's investment in automotive safety research.

The Ford board chairman said construction will begin next spring on a two-story, 40,000-square-foot building in Dearborn, which will be devoted exclusively to safety research and testing.

Until the new building is completed, vehicle safety engineers and technicians will continue to utilize existing facilities at the Company's Research and Engineering Center.

The Ford Automotive Safety Center, plans for which were announced last spring, will house engineering offices, laboratories, testing equipment and an auditorium seating 200. The building will be located at the western end of the company's Dearborn Proving Ground on Village Road.

★ ★ ★

"This new facility will be our nerve center for automotive safety," Ford said. "As the world's first centralized, fully-equipped laboratory for this type of safety research, it will enable us to apply a 'total systems approach' to all aspects of vehicle safety.

SAFETY RESEARCH

"We believe that placing all of our safety research and testing operations under one roof and under centralized, on-the-spot management, will enable us to achieve maximum progress in vehicle safety research in a minimum of time."

Colver R. Briggs, Ford automotive safety director, said technical facilities and personnel at the center "will provide us with the most effective means of generating, interpreting and distributing safety informatin to engineers who design our cars."

"Our dynamics laboratory will contain an impact sled and other devices which can reliably reproduce conditions experienced in highway collisions at speeds of up to 50 miles per hour," he said.

"While the instrumented collision research conducted in the laboratory is not a replacement for our outdoor crash tests on the Dearborn Proving Ground the impact sled will be equally important to us in the evaluation of future automotive designs."

CAR INTERIORS

Briggs said the dynamics laboratory will provide facilities for intensive research on materials and structures used in car interiors to minimize potential injury to occupants in crashes. It also will be used to test occupant-restraining systems.

Physical and psychological characteristics will be studied in a "human factors" laboratory.

"Human factors specialists are increasingly involved in designing cars that are simple and effortless to control," Briggs said.

He added that researchers in human factors also will study the relation of human dimensions to "workspace design" — "matching the abilities of the driver to the operating features of the car."

RIDE SIMULATOR

Another section of the center will feature a ride simulator, which enables the engineer to measure ride characteristics of a vehicle in the laboratory and evaluate such effects as human fatigue under various road conditions.

★ ★ ★

The center's auditorium, according to Briggs, will be used for seminars by worldwide authorities in the fields of medicine, education, government, engineering and research concerned with vehicle safety.

1966 FALCON — Key features of the highly successful Falcon and Mustang are combined in the 1966 Falcon. The Mustang styling influence is readily apparent in the long hood, short rear deck, rear quarter "hop-up" and round wheel openings of this 1966 Falcon Futura Sports Coupe. The 1966 Falcon has new roominess, outstanding economy and technical innovations.

Radioactive Tracers Used by GM to Measure Oil Data

General Motors Research Laboratories and Cadillac Motor Car Division engineers told the Society of Automotive Engineers convention in Detroit last week how they are using radioactive tracers to measure automobile engine oil consumption, it usually takes several hours to produce one reasonably accurate data point. The engineers said their radioisotope method can do it in seven minutes.

The method was described to SAE members by the team of engineers who developed it: W. J. Mayer, C. P. Moore, D. P. Krause, W. H. Lange and C. B. Murphy of General Motors Research Laboratories and J. J. Kelpaczyk of Cadillac.

The significance of the big increase in speed, they said, lies in the fact that it enables a design engineer quickly to obtain oil consumption data for a large number of speed and load combination (what engineers refer to as a "profile") for each design modification — something designers haven't been able to do up till now.

★ ★ ★

In addition to its value in general engine design, the method also makes it possible to explore short-term changes in oil consumption, such as those that occur during engine break-in.

INDIVIDUAL CYLINDERS

It is even possible they said, to use it to measure oil consumption in the individual cylinders of a multicylinder engine.

Systems designed by General Motors Research are in use at Cadillac and Buick Motor Division. Another is being installed at Pontiac Motor Division.

To obtain a suitable tracer, GM Research chemists synthesized an organic bromine compound with properties similar to oil and tagged it with tracer is mixed with the crankcase oil.

When the oil is burned in the engine's combustion chamber the tracer burns and gaseous hydrogen bromide is expelled in the exhaust.

ENGINE EXHAUST

Sampling is achieved by routing the engine exhaust into an extraction tower for three minutes. The hydrogen bromide is extracted by bubbling the exhaust up through a caustic solution.

The amount of tracer collected during the sampling period is determined by measuring the radioactivity of a sample of the solution. From this, engineers can calculate the amount of oil burned in the engine during the sampling period.

The engineers said their radiometric method of analysis can easily detect as little as one-hundredth of a drop of radioactively tagged oil in a three-minute exhaust sample — equivalent to an oil economy of about 67,000 miles per quart.

★ ★ ★

The engineers explained that thus far their technique is limited to new engines that have never been operated with leaded gasolines.

For some reason, they said, lead interferes with the recovery of the hydrogen bromide tracer.

Unobstructed Trunk Dodge Dart Feature

The 1966 Dodge Dart has one of the largest unobstructed trunks in the auto industry. Its capacity is 17.3 cubic feet.

The spare tire is in a recessed well in the floor of the trunk and concealed by a hard cover and mat.

The lower edge of the trunk lid is just above the bumper, thus keeping loading height at a minimum.

Air Package Tested

Chrysler System Controls Auto Exhaust

The Chrysler Cleaner Air Package successfully controls automobile exhaust emissions during 50,000 miles of use with only normal maintenance and does the job without adversely affecting engine durability or vehicle operating characteristics.

These conclusions were presented in a technical paper last week at the national meeting of the Society of Automotive Engineers in Cobo Hall.

A trio of Chrysler engineers, E. W. Beckman, W. S. Fagley and J. O. Sarto, told of the 50,000 preproduction tests of the exhaust control system at the company's Chelsea Proving Grounds.

The Chrysler Cleaner Air Package (CAP) consists of engine modifications involving the carburetor and distributor as well as the addition of a vacuum control valve to advance spark timing during deceleration. All 1966 Chrysler Corp. passenger cars and light trucks built for sale in California are equipped with CAP.

"The test procedure used is one on which considerable background experience has been accumulated at the proving grounds," the trio of authors stated.

SEVERE TEST

It is a severe 50,000-mile test and is used to establish the general endurance characteristics of cars.

It includes rough, bumpy roads, gravel roads and high speed operation at speeds up to 100 m.p.h. From previous work with this schedule, it has been established that for engine components, the test is more severe than 50,000 miles of normal passenger car operation.

"An interesting aspect of this test was that CAP components were installed and serviced by mechanics who had no previous experience with CAP. Normal garage-type equipment was used when servicing the cars. Of course, the emission testing was performed by an experienced crew."

★ ★ ★

In regard to the proving grounds tests, the Chrysler engineers concluded: "The data shows that with only normal maintenance exhaust emissions were stable and were at a satisfactory level for 50,000 miles. Inspection of the engines revealed normal wear for this test. CAP did not adversely affect engine durability."

As for the future, the Chrysler engineers said other engine factors are being evaluated and developed for improved exhaust emission control.

"Additional emission reductions have been realized from studies of the induction system, combustion chamber, valve timing, and other variables. Studies are being made on how best to adapt these findings to production."

★ ★ ★

"The future holds promise of some interesting, favorable developments and design implications. These will come about from the approach now taken to engine design — where the importance of low emission levels places that factor in the first rank of engineering objectives set forth for new power plant designs."

Computer's Role Is Evaluated

Here's a fast, convenient way to solve that research problem.

Sit down at a typewriter-like machine that's in a corner of your laboratory or office. Dial by telephone to a scientific computer located elsewhere. Then type out a description of your problem in a language that can be learned in an hour.

Before your fingers leave the key board, the answer will come chattering back in your teletypewriter at electronic speeds. What you may not know: dozens of your fellow researchers are also using the same central computer at the same time.

In computer jargon, this is called multiple-access computer time-sharing. It's one of the hottest topics in the computer world today.

★ ★ ★

General Motors recently disclosed that hundreds of GM scientists and engineers in Michigan and Ohio are now using such a time-sharing computer system.

20 TERMINALS

More than 20 keyboard terminals are located in such places as physics laboratories, car proving grounds, design rooms, and engineering test areas.

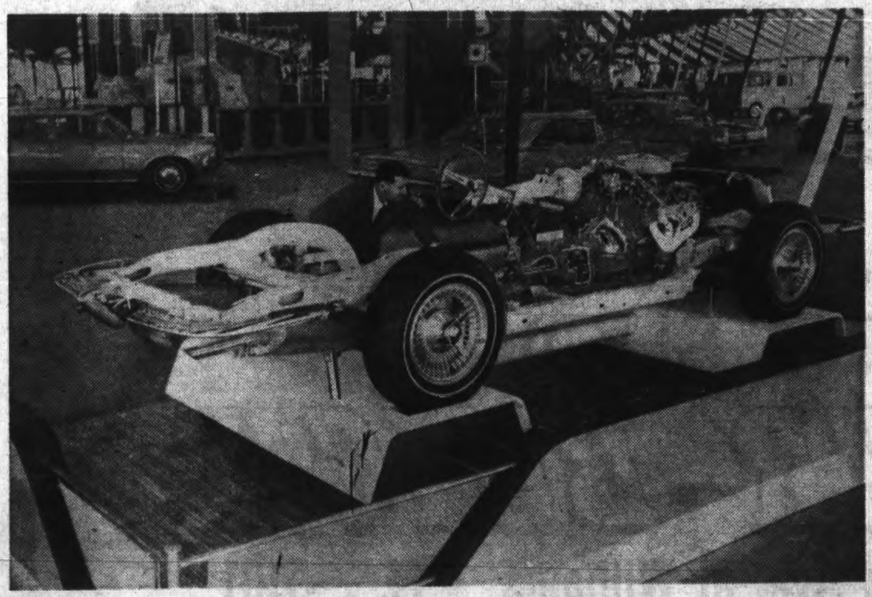
These on-the-scene terminals are linked by telephone lines to a central digital computer installed at and operated by the General Motors Research Laboratories in Warren.

The new General Motors computer system speeds the solutions of a variety of engineering and research problems: data from car exhaust emission studies, investigations into the atomic nature of matter, vehicle safety research, and the design and analysis of new products and components.

Dr. Lawrence R. Hafstad, vice president in charge of GM Research, stated that "to the best of our knowledge, this is the first such computer system to be installed and operating in the automotive industry.

"It is already allowing our engineers and scientists," he said, "to communicate problems directly and receive answers back immediately. For the man in the street, it will mean better products sooner as we decrease the time between research and production."

GM COMPUTER — General Motors new computer system features more than 20 of these teletypewriter terminals for communicating directly with central scientific computer. Here, engineer David Boice (left) and Dr. George Smith, a physicist in different research buildings, describe different mathematical problems to the computer at the same time. With its large storage capacity and computing power, the new computer handles many such requests at the same time — and responds to each with the correct answers in fractions of a second.



CUTAWAY CORVETTE — Visitors to the Pontiac Mall Auto Show this week will be able to view the mechanical features and engineering highlights of a 1966 Corvette Sting Ray. The "car without a body" exhibit was produced in Detroit by Chevrolet to provide show visitors with a clear view of the design and functions of major Corvette parts.

Tempest Engines Get Overhead Cams for Better Performance

Following years of intensive research, development and testing, Pontiac Motor Division last summer announced a completely new six-cylinder overhead cam engine for all 1966 Tempest, Tempest Custom and LeMans models.

★ ★ ★

Unique in both engineering concept and design, the Pontiac overhead cam engine is smoother, has larger output capabilities, increased fuel economy and provides greatly improved ease of servicing, according to engineers.

Most significant in design of this in-line, 230 cubic-inch engine — and the first time it has ever been used in an American passenger car — is the belt-driven overhead cam using a rocker arm and an automatic hydraulic lash adjuster.

The new engine utilizes a fiberglass-reinforced rubber timing belt in lieu of the conventional chain to drive the camshaft—another Pontiac innovation.

★ ★ ★

The engine, with single-barrel carburetor, provides 165 horsepower at 4700 rpm. The compression ratio is 9.0:1 and it is available with either manual or automatic transmission.

OPTION AVAILABLE

In connection with the new overhead cam engine, Pontiac also announced it will make available a high output option.

Called the Sprint option, it includes a four-barrel carburetor with a compression ratio of 10.5:1 and a rating of 207 horsepower.

The Sprint option is available with a three-speed transmission as standard equipment; with a four-speed, or automatic transmission optional.

★ ★ ★

The new four-barrel carburetor used in the Sprint is called the "Quadra-Jet." It features small primary venturis used in conjunction with large secondaries which utilize air valves rather than venturis to control secondary fuel flow.

LOW SPEED

This combination provides excellent low speed operation, at both part throttle and full throttle.

"In announcing our exclusive overhead cam engine, we feel we are introducing the most outstanding engine development ever to be offered by our division," said John Z. DeLorean, a General Motors vice president and Pontiac's general manager.

The fiberglass-reinforced rubber timing belt is installed outside the crankcase and connects the cam, crankshaft and accessory drive sprockets.

★ ★ ★

Tensioning of the belt is achieved through a sliding die cast aluminum accessory drive housing pioneered by Pontiac and containing the fuel pump, oil pump and distributor.

Also attached is the oil filter assembly. The entire timing belt drive mechanism is housed within an aluminum die cast cover.

'Trigger' Prevents Accidental Shifting

A dual-trigger-like control is a safety feature on the 1966 Dodge Dart four-speed manual transmission.

★ ★ ★

The new shift lever mechanism has a "lockout" that prevents accidental shifting into reverse.

★ ★ ★

The lockout is released manually by a trigger-like handle just below the shift lever knob.

The control is easily lifted by the index and middle fingers. This action allows the shift lever to move sideways into the reverse position.

Tilt-Telescoping Steering Adds to Handling Ease of Chevrolets

Chevrolet brings an added level of handling ease with a new for all regular Chevrolets on display at the Pontiac Mall Auto Show.

Available on all regular Chevrolets equipped with Powerglide or 4-speed transmissions, the unit offers a new dimension in steering versatility.

In addition to six tilt positions within 30 degrees, the wheel can be telescoped infinitely within a 3.1-inch range. Adjustment for the tilt is made with a lever adjacent to and independent of the turn signal lever.

Telescoping is accomplished though a threaded collar enclosing the horn button.

★ ★ ★

The new option allows more than three inches more horizontal movement away from the driver and vertical movement 1.2 inches greater than the previous tilt-only model.

For further steering comfort, Chevrolet continues a tilt-only steering wheel on Chevrolets and Chevelles; power steering on all models except Corvairs; and telescope only steering on Corvettes and Corvairs.

Dart Offers Disc Brakes

Front wheel disc brakes are available on the 1966 Dodge Dart for buyers who want a braking system capable of withstanding the hard usage usually associated with rallies and road racing.

The disc brakes provide reliable stopping action even when subjected to continued extreme use or exposed to water, dust or high temperatures.

An optional power brake booster is available with the Dart disc brakes.

The clutch used with the 1966 Dodge Dart V-8 has a 20 per cent higher spring load. Engineers say this provides better performance with little change in pedal effort.

Good News!

For those who have been experiencing difficulty in obtaining automobile insurance . . . and, for those who recently cancelled out . . . whatever the reason. Granted, at the beginning, this type of insurance might call for a somewhat higher rate than usual . . . BUT, the policy carries provision, for yearly premium reduction merited by a good driving record which, eventually, would reduce the premium to normal.

Ford Buyers Get 2 Booklets

Buyers of 1966 Ford cars find two booklets in their glove compartments instead of the usual one. The first is the traditional owner's manual, the second a new booklet called, "A Manual for Good Drivers."

Ford also is placing a special decal on the side windows of new cars reminding buyers to observe the rules of safe driving.

Both the booklets and decal are provided at the assembly plants.

The eight-page, three - color "Manual for Good Drivers" contains nine important pointers on good driving habits and tips on driving conditions ranging from slippery roads to turnpike cruising.

★ ★ ★

"For many years auto manufacturers have included some driving tips in the owner's manual, but we believe this is the first time a detailed booklet is so conveniently available to car owners," said Fletcher N. Platt, manager of Ford's Traffic Safety and Highway Improvement Department.

Platt said Ford hopes the booklet will help drivers "become keenly aware of the skills needed in good driving and thus contribute to more pleasurable and safer motoring."

When unfolded, the booklet forms two large highway trouble signs, each more than two feet long. They read, "Send Help" and "Need Gas."

The booklet's four sections—"Why Good Driving Is Important," "Practical Points on Good Driving," "Good Driving Is Not a Sometime Thing," and "Safety Maintenance" — serve to illustrate that driving skill and good judgment are essential to proper operation of the car.

★ ★ ★

Ford also plans to make the booklet available to driver education classes and traffic safety organizations.

Filmstrips Will Aid Driver Education

Ford Motor Co.'s Traffic Safety and Highway Improvement Department has combined a programmed learning approach with time-lapse filmstrip projection to help driver - education teachers make the best use of their time.

The filmstrips present driving maneuvers in basic steps designed to reinforce each driving sequence in the student's mind through repetition of basic rules.

A single driving situation is viewed three times in each filmstrip. The first sequence orients the student, the second emphasizes use of the correct driving procedure and the third is for review and questions.

Each filmstrip is accompanied by a recording keyed to the frame-by-frame projection. In addition, guides are provided for teacher and student.

Ford's safe-driving experts point out that students learn correct observation and decision-making skills from the on-the-road, time - lapse photographs used in the film strips.

EACH PHASE

The students encounter each phase of a driving situation in the same manner as they would in a moving car. At intervals, the student observes correct time-space relationships normally met in an actual driving maneuver.

Each filmstrip takes from 12 to 20 minutes to project, depending on the particular driving maneuver being shown.

Vote Rights Bill in High Court

WASHINGTON (AP)—South Carolina and five sister Southern states go before the Supreme Court today to challenge the constitutionality of the 1965 Voting Rights Act.

The six states contend that the act, under which nearly 250,000 Negroes have registered in the seven states of the South, is an unreasonable and unfair use of federal power.

At issue is whether the federal government has the constitutional authority to abolish literacy and other voter qualification tests which had been required by some states.

Arguing alongside South Carolina were to be legal officers from Alabama, Louisiana, Mississippi, Georgia and Virginia. North Carolina, also affected by the Voting Rights Act, is not taking part.

Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach, who celebrates his 44th birthday today, was to defend the legality of the five-month-old law in his first Supreme Court argument since he became the government's top legal officer last year.

★ ★ ★

Lawyers from New Jersey and Massachusetts — the latter representing 18 Northern and Western states — were to support the government.

GIVE 8 HOURS

The high court has allotted eight hours for hearing the case, which South Carolina brought directly in the Supreme Court instead of going through the lower federal courts.

Arguments are expected to continue at least through tomorrow.

David W. Robinson II, special counsel for South Carolina, was expected to contend that the Voting Rights Act is not an appropriate means of enforcing the 15th Amendment which bars discrimination against voters and gives Congress the power to enact appropriate enforcement legislation.

★ ★ ★

The six states also contend that the act makes a finding of past discrimination with no judicial proceedings and that its application by a mathematical formula to a handful of states — Alaska, Arizona and the seven in the South — invidiously sets them apart from other states.

PROOF NEEDED

In order to escape from jurisdiction of the act, under which federal voter registrars can be dispatched to counties where half the eligible voters are not registered or did not vote last year, a state must prove to a federal court that it does not discriminate.

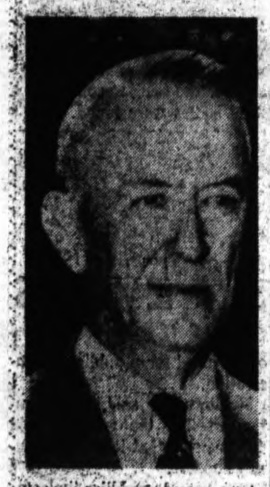
South Carolina and the other five states object that the only court permitted to hear such cases is a three-judge federal court in the District of Columbia.

Alaska asked the court last week to remove it from jurisdiction of the act, and the three Arizona counties affected are expected to do so shortly.

★ ★ ★

Katzenbach is expected to contend that state laws setting voter qualifications must bow to the federal statute's implementation of the 15th Amendment.

The attorney general will also contend that the low voter turnout in the affected states is sufficient evidence of discrimination to warrant federal action abolishing literacy tests, and, if necessary, sending federal examiners to take over the registration job.



GEN. HODGES

Death Claims Famed General

Headed the 1st Army During World War II

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Gen. Courtney H. Hodges understood GI problems because he had been a GI himself.

"I love the American soldier — I really feel a very strong sentiment about him," Hodges once said. "He is my work. And I don't think he has any equal."

Hodges rose from the ranks to command the U.S. 1st Army which liberated Paris in a victorious drive through France and Germany in World War II.

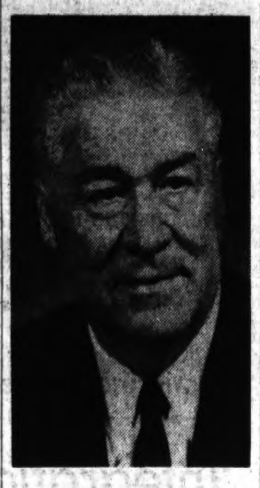
The four-star general died yesterday at Brooke Army Medical Center of a heart attack. He was 79. He had lived here since his retirement in 1949.

Hodges dropped out of West Point after one year because of trouble with geometry. He got a job in a Georgia grocery store but quit in 1906 and enlisted in the regular army at Ft. McPherson, Ga. He was commissioned in 1909.

His army career spanned more than 43 years, including action during the Mexican expedition of Gen. John J. Pershing, World War I, World War II, and postwar service as commanding general of the 1st Army area at Governor's Island, N.Y.

Hodges took command of the 1st Army Aug. 1, 1944, from Gen. Omar N. Bradley. The 1st Army was the first to reach Paris, and the first to enter Germany in World War II Sept. 11, 1944, after liberating Liege, Belgium, Sept. 2.

It was the first to cross the Rhine and the first to make contact with elements of the Soviet army in Germany.



JAMES E. GOODMAN

GM Exec, 61, Dies in Minnesota

An up-from-the-ranks General Motors Corp. executive, James E. Goodman, died Saturday night in a Rochester, Minn., hospital.

Goodman, 61, of 451 Goodhue, Bloomfield Hills, had been undergoing treatment for a heart condition the past two weeks at the Mayo Clinic.

An executive vice president, Goodman began his 41-year GM career on an automobile assembly line in a Norwood, Ohio, factory.

Service for Goodman will be 11 a.m. Wednesday at Christ Church Cranbrook, Bloomfield Hills. His body is at the Bell Chapel of the William R. Hamilton Co., Birmingham.

★ ★ ★

Surviving are his wife, Ruth, and a son, Jack of Beverly Hills, Calif.

Contributions may be made to the Martha I. Goodman Foundation, in care of the National Bank of Detroit.

FIRST GM JOB

He got his first GM job as a 20-year-old at the Fisher Body plant in Norwood. He was a metal finisher.

During the next 11 years, Goodman served in various supervisory positions in Fisher Body plants throughout the country, returning to Norwood as resident manager.

He subsequetly managed Fisher plants in Oakland, Calif., and Flint.

★ ★ ★

Goodman was named general manager of the Fisher Body Division and elected a vice president of GM in 1952.

VICE PRESIDENT

In 1958, he was elected group vice president in charge of body and assembly divisions, a GM director and a member of the executive and administration committees.

His executive vice president position came in 1961. Since then, he had directed operations of the car and truck group, body and assembly divisions groups, and the automotive components and defense group.

Goodman was named chairman of the administration committee July 1, 1965.

Temperature, Weather Due Little Change

Little temperature change is expected in the Pontiac area tonight and Tuesday.

Partly cloudy to cloudy with low readings from 10 to 17 above is the forecast. Tomorrow's high will ride in the 18 to 25 degree range.

Wednesday is expected to be slightly warmer with partly cloudy skies.

Prior to 8 a.m., the low in downtown Pontiac was 13. The temperature recorder registered 21 at 1 p.m.

Unit Leaving West Berlin

BERLIN (AP) — The U.S. Army infantry reinforcement unit first ordered to Berlin by President John F. Kennedy in 1961 will begin its permanent withdrawal today, the Army announced.

Informed sources said the decision to end the program was influenced by lessening East-West tensions in Berlin.

★ ★ ★

Some 600 men of the 1st Battalion, 21st Infantry, 24th Division were scheduled to move to West Germany through Communist East Germany by road and train. A similar convoy will follow Wednesday.

The remaining 400 men of the battalion will move on regularly scheduled U.S. duty trains.

GOP Leaders Will Reply on State of Union

Dirksen, Ford Slate Party's Answer to Johnson Message

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress gets another "State of the Union" message tonight — this time from the Republicans.

Senate GOP leader Everett M. Dirksen and House GOP leader Gerald R. Ford will deliver their party's answer to President Johnson's message of last week.

Radio and television networks will carry the taped 30-minute Dirksen-Ford reply which has been billed as "a high level and realistic look at the state of the union."

The two leaders are expected to call for close scrutiny, and perhaps cutbacks, in domestic spending.

A tip-off to the Republican "guns-or-butter" position was given by Ford in the current issue of the Republican congressional committee's weekly newsletter.

"If we are going to halt inflation and prevent tax increases and give our men in Viet Nam what they need to win, and still meet even legitimate domestic needs," Ford said, "Congress is going to have to cut deeply into the administration's so-called Great Society budget."

Here's the outlook for the week on Capitol Hill:

The Senate and House will mark time as far as major floor action is concerned. But committees may take up some controversial measures.

★ ★ ★

The Senate's legislative docket includes consideration today of a bill to preserve the natural beauty of five western rivers, followed by a bill to authorize a $9.5 million inter-American cultural and trade center (Interama) in Miami. The river bill has not passed the House. The cultural center measure cleared the House last year but ran into Senate opposition.

There is no business for the House floor this week.

No timetable has been set for delivery of a series of presidential messages spelling out details of proposed legislation outlined in the State of the Union message. Some messages may be sent to Congress this week.

One of the first messages is expected to request an estimated $12 billion or more for emergency financing of the Vietnamese conflict.

'Immediate Results Lacking'

Ford Urges Continued Peace Offensive

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford says President Johnson's peace offensive should continue despite the lack of immediate results.

Only the President can decide how long to push the peace moves and suspend the bombings of targets in North Viet Nam, Ford said yesterday in an interview.

But the Michigan congressman warned that the bombing pause should not be prolonged indefinitely because the increased movement of Communist troops and supplies into South Viet Nam poses a further threat to American troops.

Republican Sen. Jacob K. Javits of New York joined Ford in backing the presidential peace offensive, which he said gives the United States "an excellent chance of getting out of there with honor."

★ ★ ★

Javits, as did Ford, called on the President to share his knowledge about the peace drive with Congress.

CONCERNED

Former Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, 1964 GOP presidential candidate, said in a San Diego interview he was concerned about the peace offensive because "we're not being told anything about it."

Another leg of the far-ranging peace offensive ended yesterday when Secretary of State Dean Rusk and roving Ambassador W. Averell Harriman concluded talks with President Ferdinant E. Marcos of the Philippines.

The presidential envoys, who promised to keep Marcos "informed on diplomatic developments," headed back to the United States.

★ ★ ★

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, who recently visited Marcos as part of the presidential peace drive, described as too gloomy and pessimistic a senatorial fact-finding report on the prospects for peace in Viet Nam.

The report, issued two weeks ago by Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield and four other senators, said chances for a just, negotiated settlement were very slim. If the peace efforts fail, the report said, the Viet Nam fighting will escalate toward "general war on the Asian mainland."

"While there is much in the Mansfield report that deserves the thoughtful attention of the

Army Commander Is Ruling in Nigeria

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP)—Nigeria's Army commander emerged as the dominant figure in Africa's most populous nation today following an unsuccessful coup attempt by mutinous elements in the armed forces.

Maj. Gen. Aguiyi Ironsi declared himself temporary head of the federal government and chief of all armed forces last night and suspended key provisions of the Nigerian constitution.

He also suspended the nation's top civilian officials, including Prime Minister Sir Abubaker Tafawa Balewa, President Azikwe Nnamdi, the heads of Nigeria's four regions and the federal and regional parliaments.

Balewa was kidnaped during the coup attempt with his finance minister, Chief Festus Okotie Ebon.

The rebels are believed holding them hostage. Ironsi's troops were reported searching for them.

★ ★ ★

Troops loyal to Ironsi guarded government buildings and other key points in Lagos and manned five roadblocks between the airport and the capital.

REBEL FORCE

Remnants of the rebel force appeared to be on the run.

One report said Kaduna, the chief northern city, was the only main center in rebel hands.

Ironsi said military governors would take over in the four regions and would be responsible to his military regime for keeping order.

The federation of Nigeria is composed of the four regions plus the federal territory of Lagos.

FOREIGN AFFAIRS

The federal government handles such matters as foreign affairs, trade, communications, railways and defense.

Ironsi called on civil servants and police to continue in their posts.

He announced he was forming an interim government after conferring with other chiefs of the armed forces, police and members of Parliament.

'Mystery Boy Fatally Beaten'

Find Frozen Body on Farm Near Monroe

MONROE (AP) — A small boy whose frozen body was found in an outhouse of an abandoned farm died following a severe beating about the head and body, an autopsy report indicated today.

Dr. Walter Stryker, a Monroe pathologist, said a study of internal cell tissues confirmed earlier indications that the unidentified child died after a beating.

A teletype description of the child, about 3, has been sent to law enforcement agencies throughout the country, State Police said.

The dead boy, white, dark-haired and wearing a blue ski jacket, black pants and red shirt with white buttons, was found by a rabbit hunter Saturday night on an old farm 15 miles southwest of this southern Michigan city near the Ohio border.

★ ★ ★

He had been dead about a week, police said.

SHIRT POCKET

A monogram of a green and black airplane was on a shirt pocket. The boy's undershirt had colored pictures of clowns.

The body may have been thrown into the outhouse, police said.

There were abrasions above and below the left eye.

Police said they had no reports of missing children that they could link with the boy.

VEEP COMMENTS — Vice President Hubert Humphrey discusses Viet Nam in an interview yesterday. He said the conclusions reached by Sen. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., and his senatorial fact-finding team in their Viet Nam report were a little "too pessimistic." The conclusions in the report are too gloomy, Humphrey said, although there "is a great deal of factual material."

Allied Troops to Stop Firing Thursday Noon

Communist Forces Promise No Attacks for Four-Day Period

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—The commander of U.S. forces in Viet Nam, Gen. William C. Westmoreland, today ordered all American troops to cease firing for 78 hours starting at noon Thursday in observance of the Vietnamese lunar New Year holiday, Tet.

Westmoreland's order seconded the decision of the South Vietnamese government to halt fighting during the national celebration.

Similar instructions went to South Korean, Australian and New Zealand troops fighting alongside the Vietnamese and Americans.

The truce more than doubles the 30-hour cease-fire observed by allied forces during the Christmas holiday.

But it falls 18 hours short of the Tet truce proclaimed by the Viet Cong.

FOUR DAYS

They have promised not to attack from 11 p.m. Wednesday to 11 p.m. Sunday, a total of four days.

Westmoreland ordered a cease-fire from noon Thursday to 6 p.m. Sunday.

It was assumed the allies agreed on different hours to avoid giving the impression they were simply reacting to the Communist proposal.

★ ★ ★

There was no sign in the Saigon sector of any letup in fighting before the holiday, although elsewhere in the country military activities continued at a slow pace.

LIGHTNING STROKE

In a lightning stroke, a Viet Cong company attacked a government infantry and armor school at Thu Duc 10 miles north of Saigon at 1 a.m.

While one part of the guerrilla force fired two mortar shells as a diversion, another hit part of the compound with automatic weapons.

The school reportedly housed 20 North Vietnamese war prisoners the government has promised to release at the northern frontier as a new year's gesture.

★ ★ ★

the Viet Cong may have attacked to free the captives, but this was not certain.

The guerrillas pierced the barbed wire of the officers' candidate school and raked the billets, killing five wives and three children of Vietnamese officer candidates in their beds. Three other children were wounded.

Armored troops fought back and killed 10 of the Viet Cong, a government spokesman said.

Clarenceville Voting on Renewal of Levy

Property owners in the Clarenceville School District today are voting on renewal of a 7-mill operating levy for 10 years.

The renewal would not increase the present tax rate, which totals $32.95 per $1,000 of equalized assessed property valuation.

Cubans Hold 9 U.S. Shrimpers

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Nine shrimp fishermen from Tampa, Fla., were presumed to be in the custody of the Cuban government today after one of their three boats ran aground in Cuban territorial waters.

The U.S. Coast Guard said the 73-foot Charles Singleton ran aground off northwest Cuba Sunday and her two sister boats — Penny Singleton and Mark E. Singleton — were directed to a Cuban port by the Cuban Coast Guard.

★ ★ ★

"We have been in squally weather and blown off course," the fleet manager of the company in Tampa quoted one captain as saying in a radio message.

All three vessels, each carrying a captain and two crewmen, were en route from Tampa to Nicaragua. The boats were built in the last year or so and bought by the Singleton Shrimp Co. in Tampa for $250,000.

The Coast Guard Search and Rescue Center in Miami said it could not take part in any rescue mission because the mishap occurred within Cuban waters.

★ ★ ★

The State Department in Washington said it had received reports on the incident and was awaiting further information to determine whether to seek their release through the Swiss Embassy in Havana.

★ ★ ★

The United States broke diplomatic relations with Cuba several years ago and handles all such negotiations through the Swiss Embassy.

★ ★ ★

Those aboard the boats were identified as Vance Jones, Fabian Bothwell, his brother Harold Bothwell, Kinzer Moore, David Rogers, Albert Costello, William Burkhalter, Lewis White and Monroe Gray.

SEAMAN RESCUED — A raft with two survivors and one body from the sunken Spanish Freighter Monte Palomares is shown being pulled alongside the Coast Guard cutter Escanaba last Tuesday. This photo, made available today, shows Coast Guard volunteers about to swim to the raft to tie lines. The ship sank last Monday, 900 miles off Bermuda, and only six of 38 crewmen were saved.

Expect France to Make Offer

Admission to Hinge on Retaining of Veto

LUXEMBOURG (AP) — Foreign ministers of the Common Market nations prepared to meet today amid expectation that France would offer to admit Britain to the European Economic Community in exchange for retention of the requirement that all major decisions by the group be unanimous.

France is ending a six-month boycott of Common Market negotiations with the other members — West Germany, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg.

★ ★ ★

The French proposal was likely to meet stiff opposition. The other five countries say they are determined not to modify the Rome Treaty, the Common Market's constitution, for a vague French promise to admit Britain.

The five believe that France, which blackballed Britain three years ago, will press hard to keep its veto before turning the vague promise into a concrete invitation for Britain to join.

MAJORITY VOTE

Under the eight-year-old Rome Treaty, the unanimity rule was to give way to a qualified majority vote starting last Jan. 1. France was expected to ask for at least a postponement of the shift until the veto question is decided.

Observers say that Britain shares France's fear that the loss of each nation's veto could permit the Common Market to expand into a superstate with power to interfere with a nation's sovereignty.

French Foreign Minister Couve de Murville was expected to argue that no member nation could do without a veto over future decisions on commercial policy toward nonmembers, as well as in such fields as transport and tariffs.

He was also expected to put forward President Charles de Gaulle's claim that the Common Market's nine-man Executive Commission has abused its rights by proposing greater power for itself.

GROUP BARRED

At France's request, the Executive Commission was barred from the session and the meeting is being held here instead of in Brussels, headquarters of the Common Market.

De Gaulle fears that the commission, led by Walter Hallstein of West Germany, would be the focus of power if the Common Market developed into a superstate.

Annual Event Set Tomorrow

Rev. Joseph Kubik of St. Mary's College, Orchard Lake, will be the guest speaker tomorrow night when the Waterford Township Jaycees hold their annual "Bosses' Night" banquet at Fortino's Steak House.

★ ★ ★

Moderator of campus fraternities and an economics instructor at the school, Father Kubik was educated in Belgium and Italy and at the University of Detroit. He was ordained in 1942.

Cofeatured at the event will be selection of the township's outstanding young man of 1965 and boss of the year.

A committee, headed by Dr. William Weber, currently is canvassing churches, businesses, clubs and organizations to determine which young man, 21 to 35, has contributed the most to the community during the year.

★ ★ ★

Last year, Robert Lawyer, coordinator of the community schools program, was named outstanding young man, while Fire Chief Lewis Goff was tapped for the boss-of-the-year award.

Bosses' Night, held in conjunction with National Jaycee Week, Jan. 16-23, will begin at 7, according to Norman Wood, chairman.

'Don't Scare Fish Away; Land Softly'

Ice fishermen are a cool breed.

It's difficult to break the concentration of the bundled-up set who sit by little holes in the ice waiting for fish.

A case in point was an emergency landing yesterday on Pontiac Lake by a Beechcraft Bonanza.

"You'd think it happened every day," said Clark Cryderman who brought his single engine plane down on the lake due to an engine failure.

★ ★ ★

"They just looked up briefly and went on with their fishing."

NO INJURIES

But Cryderman wasn't complaining. The emergency landing resulted in no injuries and no damage to the plane.

"The fishermen probably thought I wanted to land on the lake," he said.

Cryderman of 6243 Wilson, Waterford Township, was returning from a short flight at 5:30 p.m. when he noted a power failure in the engine.

★ ★ ★

"Rather than take a change on landing at Pontiac Municipal Airport, I decided to bring it down on the lake," he explained.

Kidney Transplant Fails

Tragedy in Family Again

A Troy family that has had more than its share of hard luck was visited by tragedy again Saturday.

George Johnson Jr., 15-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Johnson Sr., 2068 Orpington, died of complications resulting from a kidney transplant at the University of Michigan Hospital.

The youngster was stricken last June with a rare, incurable kidney ailment. Doctors had hopes, however, that a kidney transplant might prolong his life.

Last month a healthy kidney became available and the operation was performed Dec. 20.

★ ★ ★

Despite the efforts of medical specialists, the boy began to fail. He weighed 145 pounds when he entered the hospital. He weighed 55 when the end came.

AT HIS BEDSIDE

His parents, who maintained a constant vigil throughout the ordeal, were at his bedside when he died.

In 1958 the Johnsons lost another son, Kelly, who was struck and killed by a train.

In 1964 Johnson suffered three heart attacks.

★ ★ ★

Last August another son, David, was seriously injured in a traffic accident.

George Jr. will be buried tomorrow beside Kelly in tiny Union Corners Cemetery.

RICHARD D. KUHN

Hopeful Makes Congress Bid

Richard D. Kuhn, Pontiac attorney and businessman, today announced that he will be a Republican candidate for U.S. congressman from the 19th District.

The GOP nominee for the post in 1964, Kuhn, 36, of 205 Gateway, Waterford Township, represented Oakland County's 1st Legislative District at the Constitutional Convention.

He served on the convention's education committee, the committee on legislative powers and was chairman of the subcommittee on the legislature.

In announcing his bid for the August primary nomination, Kuhn said, "This nation is in economic chaos, mainly because of the ever-increasing socialistic pressures, which have been so detrimental to our finances."

★ ★ ★

In six elections prior to the 1964 campaign, Kuhn was an unsuccessful candidate for the GOP nomination for State Senator from Oakland County.

★ ★ ★

He is a graduate of Michigan State University and the Detroit College of Law. He owns and operates Kuhn Auto Wash, 149 W. Huron.

DULBIN, Ireland (UPI) — A government spokesman today denied reports that plans for the proposed John F. Kennedy concert Hall had been abandoned for financial reasons.

Two Detroit Police Shot Over Ticket

DETROIT (UPI) — Two policemen were shot and wounded today as they tried to question three men about a triaffic violation.

Two gunmen fled but officers captured their alleged companion and said they knew the identify of one of the fugitives. Police said there was no apparent motive for the shootings.

Homicide Inspector Hiram Phipps said both officers were shot in the head but the bullets luckily glanced off.

Patrolman Paul Frantti, 30, was hospitalized in serious condition with a fractured skull caused by a bullet which pierced his ear and glanced off his head.

★ ★ ★

He also was shot in the toe. Patrolman John Brady, 34, suffered a grazing head wound but was not believed seriously hurt.

SEARCH FOR PAIR

Police launched a search for the two gunmen who fled on foot. Phipps said one of them was Bernard Stroble, 23, Detroit, who was charged with murder in 1959 for killing his partner in an apartment business.

He claimed the slaying was self-defense and the charge was dismissed.

Integration Unit Sets 2 Events

Efforts of the Birmingham-Bloomfield Committee on Open Occupancy are being directed toward two special observances, scheduled for Feb. 27 and March 6.

Plans to mobilize community support through the two events were discussed at the committee's second general meeting last night.

Some 150 persons attended the program at Northminster Presbyterian Church in Troy.

The campaign for integrated housing is to be supported by area clergymen in sermons delivered Feb. 27.

★ ★ ★

Plans are still indefinite for the March 6 event, which will take the form of a demonstration or rally of some sort.

MEET WITH REALTORS

At last night's program, chairman John C. Palms told of a meeting committee representatives held with members of the Birmingham Board of Realtors.

The board, he said, has indicated it will hold a general membership meeting within the next two to three weeks to discuss the open occupancy committee's proposals.

The committee has asked realtors to take action to bring at least five Negro families into the area by Sept. 1, to cooperate with out-of-town brokers who have Negro clients seeking homes in the area and to adopt a policy as a group favoring open occupancy.

★ ★ ★

Organized in November, the committee last night divided itself into subgroups to work on specific phases of its campaign.

The groups are legal, church, direct action, publicity and student-faculty.

★ ★ ★

Committee member Stanley Ovshinsky, 2700 Squirrel, Bloomfield Township, last night spoke of the need for a public demonstration.

Realtors, he said, had commented that the group should demonstrate that it has community support.

"We have to mobilize the community to make this support visual," he said. "We need a series of actions that are concrete and meaningful."

The Birmingham Council of Churches has agreed to cooperate in the Feb. 27 program.

Rev. Maurice Geary of Marian High School and Rev. Raymond Fenner of the Birmingham Congregational Church have been appointed to take charge of the clergys' plans for the day.

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — A 13-week free boating safety course will begin Wednesday at Bloomfield Hills High School.

Presented by the Birmingham Power Squadron, the class will be held at 7:30 p.m.

It includes instruction on the proper handling of inboard, outboard and sailboats.

White House officials announced over the weekend that the special cost of the Viet Nam war will be estimated at $10.5 billion in the new federal budget to be submitted to Congress soon for the fiscal year starting July 1.

Earlier, it was made known that the President also will ask Congress to authorize more than $12 billion for war costs in the current fiscal year.

Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., who has criticized the administration for not asking for more money to fight the war, announced last night his preparedness subcommittee will hold early hearings on the logistical and supply systems supporting U.S. forces in Viet Nam. He said the hearings will be closed.

NY 'Hero' Now Boycotted, Despised

NEW YORK (UPI) — A heroic little grocer who braved an angry mob to come to the aid of a surrounded patrolman is an outcast in his own neighborhood today, friendless and out of business.

★ ★ ★

"My own people, my own people have turned against me," said Puerto Rican-born Enrique Negron about his recent days in the East Bronx neighborhood where eight months ago he became a "hero" for rushing to help patrolman Philip Siegel.

★ ★ ★

"Don't worry, officer," Negron cried as he pushed his way to Siegel's side. "Don't worry, we'll help you."

Suddenly someone in the crowd closing around the patrolman and two holdup suspects plunged an icepick into Negron's back and the grocer fell as police reinforcements arrived.

Negron spent a week in the hospital and was hailed briefly as a hero. He received a $1,000 check from the Patrolmen's Benevolent Association, a personal note from Vice President Hubert Humphrey praising his "courageous act," and several plaques.

★ ★ ★

But in the neighborhood, Negron was not called hero. Instead his former friends and customers passed him by with curses of "cop lover." He had to sell the grocery (last June) because nobody came to buy any more.

HAD FRIENDS

"We had a lot of friends. They feel bad that I helped a cop," said Negron yesterday in his halting English.

With the store for which he had saved since age 10 gone, nobody in the area willing to hire him, and his savings down to $300, Negron says he probably could get welfare but doesn't want to live off charity.

Patrolman Siegel, who has talked to Negron several times since the incident, says, "He's had it pretty rough. They just seemed to turn on the poor guy.

"And he's really such a nice little fellow. I should know. If it wasn't for him, I'd probably be dead."

★ ★ ★

But, says Negron, "If I had to do it again, I'd do it. It's the way I am. I don't like to see anybody abused."

Neighbors Hate Him For Helping A Policeman

Seek New Snooping, Information Laws

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate and House investigators are pressing for legislation this session to give citizens more protection against big government's snooping — and a bigger opening to kibitz on Uncle Sam.

Neither measure was asked by President Johnson and one — a "Freedom of Information" bill — has drawn strong opposition from the administration.

★ ★ ★

In the Senate, Sen. Edward V. Long, D-Mo., said his subcommittee will resume its investigation into wire tapping by government agencies within 30 days.

Long said he hopes the hearings will lead to legislation to restrict government agents' use of what he calls "an armory of electronic snooping devices."

PROTECT RIGHTS

"The challenge before my subcommittee," Long said, "is to write legislation which will protect the individual's right to privacy while ensuring that adequate law enforcement continues."

Meanwhile the "Freedom of Information" bill aimed at cracking the privacy of the bureaucy is hanging fire in the House.

★ ★ ★

Its fate, one congressional source said, "will probably depend on how much outside pressures develops for it."

One form of the measure passed the Senate last year. But on the other side of Capitol Hill, Rep. John E. Moss, D-Calif., was unable to get his bill through his Government Operations subcommittee, although he had it rewritten 10 times in unsuccessful efforts to ease administration opposition.

UNWRITTEN RIGHT

Justice Department lawyers said the bill was unworkable and would do violence to the theory of executive privilege — the unwritten right of the President to withhold certain records from the public or Congress.

Moss launched a new effort last week, giving subcommittee members a written rundown on both his and the Senate's bill — and suggesting the Senate's might be the best bet.

★ ★ ★

The legislation, urged by representatives of the nation's news media, would give any citizen a court-enforced access to records of official actions.

Certain files, of course, would be specifically excluded — those for instance, dealing with national security or matter of individual privacy such as Internal Revenue records.

New GI Bill for 'Hot Spot' Vets Is Urged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A "hot spot" GI Bill of Rights measure has been offered to Congress as a substitute for the Senate-approved "cold war" bill giving benefits to all peacetime military men.

★ ★ ★

Its primary college aid benefits of $130 per month would be available to ex-servicemen who have served either in Viet Nam or in such semicombat situations as the Dominican Republic or Berlin, or in any future actions of this type.

Lesser school benefits would be given to home-front veterans under the substitute measure, which was sent to the House without fanfare by the White House.

House action on such a bill in some form is expected next month at closed sessions of the veterans committee. Final passage of such a bill this year is considered certain.

★ ★ ★

The Senate passed its $400 million-a-year version last July 19. It would provide basic payments of $110 monthly, with extra allowances for dependents, to anyone in service for at least 180 days since Jan. 1, 1955.

January 1955 was the cutoff date for eligibility under the GI Bill approved for veterans of the Korean War.

Important Prep Games on Limited Cage Slate

Tuesday's limited high school basketball schedule has important league games at three sites, plus several well-matched independent foes meeting.

The top game will be at Brighton where Bloomfield Hills will invade the Bulldogs' den. Both have title ambitions in the Wayne-Oakland League race, but can't afford another loss.

Hills (3-3) knocked off Northville's high-prancing Mustangs Friday night to move within two games of the pace-setters.

Brighton, meanwhile, pushed its mark in the race to 4-2 — one game behind Northville and West Bloomfield, and tied with Clarkston — but must play without scoring leader Damon Eubank who has transferred back to Indiana.

However, Bruce Evenson paced Brighton's scoring for the past two seasons and the 6-5 senior pumped in 30 points last week for his best 1965-66 showing.

★ ★ ★

The visiting Barons' best weapon this campaign has been a balanced offense and they haven't displayed it consistently. With Brighton tomorrow and arch-rival West Bloomfield Friday night, coach Hal Henderson has a big job facing him.

Another Wayne-Oakland game has winless Clarenceville visiting Holly.

Orchard Lake St. Mary, leading the Northwest Parochial Division race, will entertain St. Francis de Sales in the Eaglets stretch run for the title. They won by 19 earlier.

Utica's unbeaten Chieftains will attempt to do what their football squad couldn't do: protect a perfect record at Center Line in a Bi-County loop tilt.

One of Oxford's two wins this season was a two-point verdict at Warren Woods. That victim will visit the Wildcats tomorrow.

St. Frederick's twice-beaten Rams have a date at winless Emmanuel Christian; once defeated Ferndale will visit always dangerous Hamtramck; and Hazel Park will go to Mount Clemens.

Country Day, a class C Birmingham school, will travel to Cranbrook, a "B" team. South Lyon will be host to Pinckney and Royal Oak St. Mary will invade Madison Lamphere.

Lakeland Tops Lakeview Six

The Lakeland AA Hawks won their second game of the season Sunday, 3-1, over Lakeview AC at Gordie Howe Hockeyland in St. Clair Shores.

Ronnie Young scored twice and Bruce Strohm once to back the fine goaltending of Randy Sutt in the Southeastern Michigan Junior Hockey Association game.

It was the best effort of the season by the Lakeland youngsters who next play the Waterford Rangers at 7 p.m. Sunday on the Windsor Arena ice.

Hazel Park Wins Meet at Northern

Hazel Park piled up 78 points in walking off with the fourth annual Pontiac Northern Wrestling Invitational tournament Saturday.

The Parkers, unbeaten in six dual starts going into the tourney, picked up four individual titles and placed four grapplers in runnerup positions in taking the team crown

Ypsilanti finished second with 69 points, followed by Pontiac Northern (65) and Pontiac Central (64).

PNH and PCH picked up three individual championships apiece.

Winning titles for Northern were Mike Hester (95), Bruce Tippin (154) and Troy Bell (133), Dan Rodriguez (145) and Ben Rodriguez (180) won titles for Central.

Chiefs' Coach Sees Wildcats as Tough Foe

"We're going to worry about Bay City Handy before Saginaw," says coach Fred Zittel of Pontiac Central.

The Chiefs play at home Friday against the Wildcats and then take on Saginaw in the Saginaw Valley Conference's pivotal contest.

The Saginaw tilt will be Jan. 25, not tomorrow as erroneously reported in Saturday's Press.

"I remember what Handy has done when they came down here in the past and we were expected to have an easy time," said Zittel. "The last time they had us on the ropes the first half and we really had to hustle to pull out a win."

It will be difficult for Zittel to keep the Chiefs from thinking past Handy, a team that is winless in five games. But he's going to try by concentrating on the Wildcats in practice this week.

The PCH coach said he was quite pleased with the play of Prentice Hill as his No. 3 guard.

"Hill is all business out there. He's an intelligent boy and he's really given us a lift."

Hill has been averaging better than 10 points a game in unbeaten PCH's first seven games.

SEVEN PLAYERS

The junior guard is one of the top seven players on the varsity. Ross Ludwick is the other first line reserve, but he has started several games.

Actually, Zittel has five players of about equal ability he can call on at any time and not hurt the team's effectiveness. Jessie Evans, the top scorer, and guard Jim McClenden are the key players.

Center Larry Platt, forward Willie Craft and guard Eddie Pruitt join with Hill and Ludwick to give the Chiefs excellent depth. It isn't every coach who can call on his No. 6 and No. 7 players without yielding some ground.

The Chiefs can move half a game ahead of Saginaw in the SVC race by beating Handy. Saginaw plays non-league Flint Northwestern Friday.

Casper Wins 'at Home'

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Billy Casper has triumphed in 30 PGA tournaments but none exceeded the thrill of victory in Sunday's San Diego Open.

The 34-year-old Casper, veteran of 11 pro years, finally won before the home folks by blazing a trail of seven birdies for a last-round 64 and a 16-under-par 268 for 72 holes.

"I've always wanted to win at home," said Casper, "so this is a very gratifying victory. I worked awful hard last year but couldn't win it when I shot a 64 on the last round and tied the tournament record.

This tourney was worth $40,000, and Casper's share was $5,800.

How to Save on Taxes – 13

3 Big Deductions Justify Itemizing

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the 13th of a 14-part series, "Cut Your Own Taxes," by tax expert Ray De Crane, designed to help readers save money on their income tax returns.)

By RAY DE CRANE
NEA Special Writer

As a general rule, the average taxpayer needs three major deductions on his Form 1040 to justify itemizing deductions rather than taking the alternative choices.

These three are:

- Interest payments on a sizable mortgage.
- Real estate taxes.
- A substantial medical deduction.

★ ★ ★

Even if you don't have all three, continue through your master checklist of deductions.

Then compare your total with your two alternatives: a 10 per cent of income allowance, or the minimum standard deduction.

There is no limit to the itemized deductions you may claim, so long as they are all allowable and the expenses can be substantiated.

★ ★ ★

Your alternative choices do have limits. The 10 per cent rule (for example, $800 allowance on an $8,000 income) provides a top allowance of $1,000 regardless how high the income might be.

TOP ALLOWANCE

And this is further restricted to a top of $500 per person when separate returns are filed by a married couple.

The minimum standard deduction permits the use on joint returns of a flat $200, plus an additional $100 for each exemption. This means that a husband, wife and five children could claim an allowance of $900 without itemizing deductions.

On separate returns of married persons, this would be limited to $100, plus an additional $100 for each exemption.

In considering the interest deduction on your return, attention is usally centered first on mortgage interest.

Ordinarily, the monthly or yearly mortgage slip will show the allocation of the payment among principal, interest, taxes, and insurance.

If your statement does this, simply total the interest payments made during the year for your allowable deduction.

Other interest properly deductible on your return includes the amount paid a bank, savings and loan, credit union or finance company for the use of their money.

★ ★ ★

A cardinal rule on interest deduction is that it can be claimed only by the person legally obligated for the payment.

RULE OUT CLAIM

If you gratuitously make a mortgage payment for one of your children, you cannot claim the interest you paid. Similarly, if you helped a friend by making a payment on a note for him, you have no interest deduction.

But if you were a cosigner on the note, he defaulted and the finance company forced you to make the payment, you would then have an interest deduction. In that case, you were legally obligated to make the payment.

Carrying charges and service charges are not deductible as such.

To arrive at the allowable interest deduction, total the unpaid balances on the first day of each month, divide by 12 to get the average unpaid balance and then multiply by 6 per cent to arrive at allowable interest.

(Next: Other deductions.)

Liuzzo Seeks to Stop Ads on Death Car

DETROIT (UPI) — Anthony Liuzzo, husband of slain white civil rights worker Viola Liuzzo, said yesterday he was contacting the FBI in an attempt to stop the sensational advertising of the car in which his wife was killed.

An advertisement in the Birmingham News Saturday called the car a "crowd-getter" and listed the 1963 Oldsmobile, complete with bullet holes, for $3,500.

Mrs. Liuzzo, a Detroit housewife, was fatally shot the night of March 25 as she drove along U.S. 280 following the Selma-to-Montgomery "Freedom March."

Liuzzo said at the time of the slaying he was financing the uto through General Motors Acceptance Corp., and that afterward he arranged for the company to dispose of the auto.

★ ★ ★

"Notice — Do you need a crowd getter?" the advertisement said. "I have a 1963 Oldsmobile two-door in which Mrs. Viola Liuzzo was killed. Bullet holes and everything still intact. Ideal to bring in crowds. $3,500."

POST BOX

No name or phone number was listed and prospective buyers were instructed to write to a post box in care of the newspaper.

Liuzzo also told United Press International that officials in Alabama have refused to return his wife's personal effects, including her wedding rings to him, "until the proceedings are ver."

Coast Guard Boat Splits, Dunks Crew

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A Coast Guard patrol boat, on its way to investigate a report of a capsized sailboat, sank itself yesterday when a seam in its fiberglas hull split open.

"We're used to this," said Electrician's Mate David Gabel, one of the three Coast Guardsmen rescued. "We're not used to sinking, of course, but to getting wet."

U.S. Lacks Manpower Punch for Viet Victory--Red China

TOKYO (UPI) — Communist China says the United States doesn't have enough fighting men to win the war in Viet Nam.

Peking radio, in broadcasts monitored here yesterday, called Viet Nam a "bottomless pit" and said the American military buildup is in "dire straits."

Red China said only a fraction of 4.4 million American servicemen, reserves and potential draftees can be mobilized for combat.

Already there is an officer shortage, the official Communist New China news agency claimed.

"Even if the Johnson administration should be able to recruit several hundred thousand more men by draft calls or mobilization of reserves, this American cannon fodder would still be inadequate to meet the needs of the South Viet Nam battlefield," Peking said.

U.S. VULNERABLE

Red China said the U.S. buildup in Viet Nam is leaving other parts of the world vulnerable to Communist revolutions. It did not specify where.

The buildup, it claimed, was "like dismantling the West wall to mend holes in the East wall."

Turning to the Soviet Union, Peking said the Russians took another step "along the road of worsening relations" on Jan. 10 when the Soviet Embassy refused to accept a protest from Communist China.

★ ★ ★

The protest demanded that the Russians retract charges that Peking was interfering with Soviet arms shipments to Communist North Viet Nam, the broadcasts said.

★ ★ ★

The Chinese also claimed the Russians were trying to ease East-West tensions over Germany, and that this was making it easier for the United States to pull its troops out of Europe.

New Hampshire was the first American colony to adopt a state constitution.

Hanoi Peace Move Speculated

NEW YORK (UPI) — A Yale professor who returned recently from an unauthorized peace mission to North Viet Nam speculated yesterday that Hanoi may have withdrawn its troops from South Viet Nam in direct response to President Johnson's peace overtures.

★ ★ ★

Staughton Lynd, a Quaker who teaches history, said at a news conference he based his speculation on a Jan. 5 interview he had with North Viet Nam Premier Pham Van Dong and on reports in American newspapers.

During the 90-minute interview with Pham, Lynd said, the premier denied point-blank that any North Vietnamese troops were aiding the Viet Cong in South Viet Nam.

Lynd said this puzzled him but, added to press reports here indicating no contact with North Vietnamese troops since before the Christmas truce, it "seems a possible indication" of a favorable reaction to U.S. peace moves.

★ ★ ★

At the same time, the political action director of the Committee for a Sane Nuclear Policy (SANE), returned from a week of talks with Vietnamese Communists in Paris and Algiers and pleaded for indefinite suspension of the bombing, of North Viet Nam.

'LESS SUSPICION'

"Right now, with a three-week suspension of the bombing, there is clearly less suspicion than I met with when I talked with these people last July," Sanford Gottlieb said at a news conference at Kennedy International Airport yesterday.

In Saigon, however, U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk and South Vietnamese Prime Minister Nguyen Cao Ky issued a communique saying there were no indications that North Viet Nam was seeking an end to hostilities.

Lynd held his news conference before addressing a crowd of 4,500 at Manhattan Centre here.

★ ★ ★

Also speaking at the meeting were the 36-year-old historian's two companions on the 10-day trip to North Viet Nam—Thomas Hayden, 26, a founder of Students for a Democratic Society, and Communist theoretician Herbert Aptheker, director of the American Institute for [illegible] ist Studies.

'Reach POWs via Algeria'

NEW YORK (AP) — American families of Viet Cong prisoners may get mail and packages to them through a postal address in Algeria, says an official of the National Committee for a Sane Nuclear Policy.

Sanford Gottlieb, the committee's political action director who arrived Sunday by plane from Paris, said he held a week of talks there with Hanoi representatives.

Earlier, Gottlieb said, he met in Algiers with representatives of the National Liberation Front (Viet Cong), which he said had authorized him to disclose the "new channel of communication" between American prisoners and their folks at home.

The address is 18 Rue Langevin, Quarter la Redoute, Algiers, Algeria, Gottlieb said.

PEACE OFFENSIVE

He said he believes the American peace offensive is beginning to break down Hanoi's suspicions about the sincerity of American intentions. But, he said, the United States must consider the Viet Cong a "full and equal partner" in any negotiations with Hanoi.

Postal Service Hike Expected

Congress Likely to OK $15-Million Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairmen of the Senate and House Post Office Committees predicted today Congress will stamp "approved" on a $15-million administration package which would beef up postal service in thousands of American communities.

Sen. A. S. Mike Monroney, D-Okla., and Rep. Tom Murray, D-Tenn., said in separate interviews they favored moves announced Saturday to restore parcel post and post office window service eliminated in a 1964 economy move.

★ ★ ★

"This is just the first step" in administration efforts to improve postal service, Monroney said.

Congressional approval is necessary because of the $15-million annual cost of the increased service.

PARCEL POST

Saturday's announcement said President Johnson has approved a recommendation by Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien that six-day-a-week parcel post service be restored in 6,091 communities with populations over 3,000. Since 1964 one day each week has been skipped for deliveries in these cities except where postmen used motor vehicles to deliver parcels.

The other move will be increased window service at night and on weekends in nearly 15,000 post offices. Postmasters will also be authorized to resume Saturday sales of money orders.

★ ★ ★

Assistant White House news secretary Joseph Laitin, announcing the plans, said improved efficiency would reduce the postal deficit, estimated at $400 million this fiscal year, despite the $15-million cost of the improved service.

"I believe Congress will go along," said Monroney. "They kicked about the cutbacks."

OPPOSITION DOUBTED

Asked if there would be any substantial congressional opposition, Murray said, "I wouldn't think so."

Both Monroney and Murray said that the administration was in a better position than they were to estimate costs of the increased service, but Monroney said the $15-million figure seems about right."

Looking to possible other postal improvements, Monroney said "one of the most important things is speeding up the delivery so you can get delivery of as much mail as possible on the day after it is sent."

He said planning was under way in this area and that one possible move would be to increase substantially the use of planes to transport ordinary mail.

Dispute Police in Kidnap Plot

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (UPI) — A friend of slain informer George Skalla, 28, has disputed police statements that Skalla masterminded the plot to kidnap rubber magnate Leonard K. Firestone for $2 million ransom.

★ ★ ★

Skalla and William Calvin Bailey, 44, were fatally shot by detectives stroked out in the Firestone mansion last Thursday night when the pair came to the doorway with drawn guns to kidnap Firestone.

Los Angeles police disclosed last Friday that Skalla had been the informer who revealed details of the plot and indicated he had been recruited by Bailey, who had planned the kidnaping.

Officers said Skalla was told to go through with the kidnaping plan and was to have entered the house first and drop to the floor at the first hint of gunplay.

★ ★ ★

But Bailey stepped ahead of Skalla and assertedly menaced detectives with a gun. Bailey and Skalla were cut down by shotgun and pistol fire.

CHANGED STORY

Later Friday, however, Beverly Hills police said Skalla was the actual mastermind and Bailey was a substitute for an original accomplice, who had been arrested.

Beverly Hills Police Capt. John Hankins said Skalla had turned informer on his own plot because he feared Bailey would kill him.

But from his cell at the sheriff's Wayside Honor Farm in Castaic, Ronald Aaron Fargo, 23, Skalla's friend [illegible] during weekend "police have known all along the kidnaping was conceived and planned by one man — Cal Bailey.

★ ★ ★

"And George Skalla knew kidnaping was stupid. That's why he went to the police immediately after being contacted by Bailey," Fargo said.

THREE POSSIBILITIES

The inmate also disclosed that the would-be kidnapers had considered three possible victims. He said he did not know the identities of the other two.

★ ★ ★

Police earlier disclosed the identity of one intended victim—Lance Reventlow, son of Woolworth heiress Barbara Hutton.

'Sukarno Feels Demonstrations Aimed at Toppling His Regime'

SINGAPORE (UPI) — President Sukarno believes mass student demonstrations were aimed overthrowing him and his government, Indonesian Foreign Minister Subandrio said today.

Subandrio, also Indonesia's first deputy prime minister, called on the people to defend Sukarno, in a speech broadcast over Radio Jakarta and monitored in Singapore.

At the same time, the radio said many mass organizations were heeding Subandrio's appeal.

"The enemies of the revolution are at present very active in attempting to overthrow him (Sukarno) by many means," Subandrio said.

★ ★ ★

[illegible] said [illegible] had deduced [illegible] student demonstrations which swirled through Jakarta last week were really part of a plot to bring down the government. Ostensibly the students were protesting soaring prices and government inefficiency.

'SHOCKED THE SOULS'

Subandrio said the demonstrations "really shocked the souls of us all."

The first deputy premier and foreign minister said Sukarno's long-delayed "political solution" for Indonesia, follow-Communist coup, would be announced within a few days.

He said the extraordinary military tribunal to try those involved in the coup would begin soon after next week's celebrations marking the end of the Moslem fasting month.

The announcement of an impending political solution appeared to be an attempt to counter criticism that Sukarno was still protecting his Communist friends.

ANTIGOVERNMENT SLOGANS

Subandrio acknowledged antigovernment slogans directed against Sukarno had begun to appear.

★ ★ ★

Reports from Indonesia said some handbills carried the words "no impored wives" and "rice, yes, geishas no, in apparent reference to Sukarno's [illegible]

The handbills were [illegible] passing cars by [illegible] last week.

Tribute to Movie Mogul Featured by 'Rare' Drink

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — "Jolly Joe" Levine, the bulging Bostonian who became a movie tycoon, was given an unusual tribute by his Broadway celebrity admirers at a new "in" restaurant, the Old Shanghai (1674 Broadway) where new booze news was made.

WILSON

One glass was empty and guest-of-honor Levine got it refilled with brandy . . . then suddenly dumped a generous amount of English mustard into the brandy . . . and handed it to its owner without mentioning the addition.

★ ★ ★

"Ummmm, that's gooooooood boooooooze," he sighed when he drank it. He hadn't discovered the special flavor, but liked it.

Special personalized fortune cookies were prepared for Jolly Joe by the Dong Kingsmans. Samples:

"Jolly Joe great weight-lifter. Every morning he gets up" . . . "Jolly Joe loves physical fitness. He often walks all the way to his limousine."

Levine, the globe-trotter, was off to Rome to talk new pictures with Marcello Mastroianni. His wife Rosalie wasn't going along.

"Joe's only going for about a half hour," Rosalie explained.

Mayor Lindsay lost 12 pounds in his first 12 days in office . . . he took off a pound a day on the "Quill Diet."

THE MIDNIGHT EARL . . .

Traffic Comm. Barnes zipped up to the 65th floor Rainbow Rm. via elevator and sighed: "If only I could get traffic to move like this" . . . Paula Wayne writes from Las Vegas that the bookies were taking bets on the exact hour the N.Y. transit strike would end . . . "It's been a slow week," notes Jackie Kannon," — not a single Ford got married."

Bobby Rydell heads for a Viet Nam entertainment tour Jan. 28. (A TV series is being written for Martha Raye about her exploits there) . . . Errol Flynn's dtr. Deirdre, turned 21, picked up 30Gs as her share of his estate . . . Jack Carter, opening soon in Puerto Rico, says he'll have to get a new act — his routines at the Royal Box in N.Y. include a lot of Mike Quill jokes.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: A visiting H'wood actress said happily: "I had the loveliest proposal — someone wants to remarry me."

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Lou Alexander saw the '66 model bathing suits, and says the girls'll look as if they stepped out of Vogue —and into Playboy.

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "If people could talk out of both sides of their mouths at the same time, a lot would be said on both sides." — G. D. Prentice.

EARL'S PEARLS: Someone made a prediction for '66, that the Beatles would get a haircut — A haircut among the four of them.

Sid Allen suggests the strike leaders should be released from jail — and required to drive to work . . . That's earl, brother.

No 'Citation' for Cart Horse

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — Policeman Raymond Thompson scratched his head and tried to decide if a traffic citation should be issued after six cars were sideswiped.

★ ★ ★

Toby, a horse drawing a sightseeing carriage at the edge of the French Quarter, bolted when Frances Eatman, 38, pulled her car alongside yesterday.

Toby's driver, Arthur Santee, had alighted from the carriage to help two tourists aboard when Toby dashed away. The carriage bumped against Miss Eatman's car.

Santee caught up with Toby after he had run 11 blocks through two stop lights, collided with five other autos and wrapped his surrey around a fire hydrant.

★ ★ ★

Thompson said property damage was slight and Toby had received only a few scratches. No ticket was issued.

U.N. World Food Drive Spurs Progress

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., (AP) — When workers finish a day of road construction on Cheju Island off South Korea, they line up to receive pay in the form of food.

Food instead of cash is the method used by the World Food Program of the United Nations, using surplus commodities to stimulate economic and social progress in developing countries.

★ ★ ★

World governments meet here Tuesday to pledge contributions to support the program for the next three years.

The Cheju Island project is making use of 7,000 volunteers and their families to build a road linking 95 villages. This will make it possible to bring 100,000 acres under cultivation and permit planting of 880,000 acres of forest, officials said.

AIDS DIET

The WFP contribution to the project totals $368,000 in food and services to assist the government in supplementing the normal diet of the workers.

This is just one of more than 100 projects supported by the WFP, an organization launched in 1963 to utilize food for emergency relief and for development of human and physical resources.

★ ★ ★

The program began with more than $90 million in food, cash and services pledged by about 70 countries for use over an experimental three-year period. The United States contributed more than 50 per cent of the total.

With the experimental phase now ending, the 24-nation Intergovernmental Committee guiding the program seeks $275 million for three more years.

U.S. SUPPORT

U.S. support of the program again was expected to be substantial. President Johnson's State of the Union message last week urged Congress "to make a maximum attack on hunger, disease and ignorance in those countries that are determined to help themselves."

Last June the United States informed the WFP Inter-Governmental Committee it would support the $275-million request for the program's next three years and would, if necessary, supply up to 50 per cent of the commodities needed.

During the first three years of its operation, WFP food has been approved for use in 116 economic and social development projects and in 29 emergencies caused by natural disasters. A total of 54 countries and territories benefited.

★ ★ ★

When the Taal volcano erupted last September in the Philippines, emergency food aid worth nearly $32,000 was sent in by the WFP to help feed persons evacuated from the area.

EGYPT HOMELESS

In the Sudan, WFP food helped in resettlement of 50,000 persons whose homes were to be flooded by backup waters of the Aswan High Dam. A substitute food allocation helped tide the people over until new crops could be harvested.

Other projects aided by WFP foods range from a school feeding and literacy campaign in Morocco to promotion of poultry production in Tunisia.
