

Kennedy Is Armed With Lake Orion, Oxford at Least 700 Early Votes in School Election campaigns going. But Adlai E. Stevenson, a two-time winner of jockeys in this political gamble, said he was willing to accept a Cabinet post as a consolation prize.

There were some rather strong indications that supporters of Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.) were about to toss in the sponge. They denied this, of course, but the seeming futility of opposing the Kennedy-Jaggersman impressed itself deeply on some Symington backers.

Steve Langmade, Arizona national committeeman, told a reporter he understands considerable time is being given in the Symington camp to releasing the 104 convention vote supporters claim the Missouri senator has nailed down on the first ballot.

Any such action could be a fatal blow to the efforts of Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas to hold the line in the early counting and thus open the way for selection later of either himself or some other candidate.

Langmade is pledged to Kennedy on the first ballot and he will vote that way on the second. If additional votes are needed, Langmade said, he is prepared to switch to Johnson on the third counting.

Kennedy backers said they expected Sunday night to be half of the Symington votes if they are released.

Former President Harry S. Truman's double-reverse decision not to attend the convention after all cast a dark pall of gloom over the Symington camp.

Symington dismissed the decision with the comment that "Mr. Truman always does what he thinks is best."

All of the presidential hopefuls came together Sunday night in typical Hollywood setting—festooned Beverly Hills hotel banquet room in which breathing space was at a premium.

Stevenson, greeted by a storm of applause, was lyrical. Tenny, Kennedy ripped off an old campaign speech at a furious gait. Symington played it down. He said nobody had done him wrong in the preliminaries of the convention, which gets under way late today.

LECTURES DEMS
Johnson, in the star billing as the last act on the show, lectured the Democrats about the souring condition of a world in which Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev can threaten to launch rockets against this country if it interferes in Cuba's undulating affairs.

All of this generated a lot of enthusiasm among loyal Democrats who had plunked down $10 a plate for the fund-raising dinner. But its effect on the outcome of the convention halting was obviously not very great.

Despite barbed statements by his rivals, Kennedy continued to fence them in. While they talked of delegates gains, he battered down the Missouri senator has nailed down on the first ballot.

California and its 51-vote delegation was one of these. With what his critics called characteristic indecision, Gov. Edmund G. Brown announced he is backing Kennedy. Brown said that delegates could go their independent ways.

But he later denied that this constituted a pledge to him on the first ballot. The delegation put off until Tuesday any poll of sentiment, but most of its members thought it would summate at least 60 votes for Kennedy toward the 761 he needs for the nomination.

THE DECISION OF CALIFORNIA and some other states could determine whether Kennedy snatches the prize on the first roll call or is forced to battle it out longer.

Among others, Gov. Herschel C. Lovejoy of Iowa, a favorite son delegation after it casts its 26 votes for him on the first tally as directed by the state's party convention.

Having done that, the delegation could switch before the final result was announced. A poll showed 100 votes for Kennedy and the remainder split Symington 4, Johnson 2, Stevenson 2, absent 14.

Thieves Take TV Sets From Stores in Pontiac

Record players and TV sets were No. 1 on the hit parade of burglars and thieves the past weekend.

Those were the items taken in a trio of weekend crimes.

From Frayer Refrigeration Sales, 589 Orchard Lake Ave., the burglars took portable TV sets and radios with a total value of approximately $2,000.

Using a ladder to climb up the roof, the burglars entered by breaking a window on top of the building, Pontiac police said.

The break-in was discovered Saturday.

Five TV sets were stolen from a store at the rear of WKC, Inc., 108 N. Saginaw St. The sets were found missing early Saturday afternoon. They were valued at $600.

Less than an hour later, Walter's Dept. Store, 70 N. Saginaw St., reported a $15 record player stolen from the store.

The all-day event is scheduled for July 27 at Pontiac Country Club.

Ticket chairman is Ronald Smith, prices Dr. H. A. Miller and golf, Charles Perkins.

Golf matches are to be run from 8 a.m. until evening.

Luncheon is to be served from 11:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. and dinner 5-8 p.m.

The Day in Birmingham Business Group Asking Three Traffic Changes

BIRMINGHAM—Three recommendations from the Central Business District Development Committee to improve the general circulation of traffic in the downtown district here will be received by the City Commission tonight.

Asking that the City Commission take action as soon as possible, Wilbur R. Mason, chairman of the committee, in a letter, requested the city to:

1. Correct the present jog in traffic caused by the offset between Willets street and Oakland avenue where they intersect Woodward avenue.

2. Correct the present jog in traffic caused by the offset between Brown street and Forest avenue where they intersect Woodward avenue.

3. Remove parking at the curb on the north side of Maple avenue from Chester street to Hunter boulevard from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m.

A public hearing on the road oiling of Warwick from Henley to Abbey streets is due today at 8 p.m. at the City Commission meeting.

Assessments spread against residents along the street will be reviewed at the hearing.

Joseph Barza
Requiem Mass for Joseph Barza, 88, of 1315 N. Woodward Ave., Bloomfield Hills, will be said Tuesday at 9 a.m. at St. Elizabeth Chapel, Bloomfield Hills. Burial will be in Mt. Hope Cemetery, Pontiac.

The body will be at the Manley Bailey Funeral Home until 8 a.m. Tuesday.

Mr. Barza died Sunday after a long illness.

Pitchers: Bob Friend, Bill Monbouquette

KANSAS CITY—Bob Friend of the Pittsburgh Pirates was selected to start for the National League today against Boston's Bill Monbouquette for the American League in the 28th All-Star Game at Municipal Stadium.

Friend, a 29-year-old right-hander, had won 10 and lost five for the league-leading Pirates in regular National League play.

He started the 1958 All-Star Game at Washington and was the winner. He lost in a relief role in 1958 at Baltimore.

Monbouquette, 23, was making his first All-Star appearance. The Red Sox right-hander had won eight and lost seven this season. In his last start Friday he shut out the New York Yankees.

Set Three-Month Record
NEW YORK (AP)—American Telephone & Telegraph Co. today reported record Bell System earnings for the three months ended June 31. Net income rose to $11,848,000, equal to $1.01 a share on the parent company stock.

For the same period a year earlier, profit totaled $220,118,000, equal to $1.32 a share.

men a fresh missionary for breakfast.

Over one thousand newsmen are to represent their seats at the convention. Their spats—and fairly good deals—are expected to be in the open air, side of the speakers' platform.

They come from every state and territory in the union, as well as prominent parties in over 40 other nations have their men here.

Besides their men in the press section, quite a number of the big city and chain newspapers also have separate booths. This greatly augments the number of newsmen following the big show.

I am told by no less an authority than The Associated Press that it is the largest such gathering ever assembled in the world. The wire service also says anything ever before attempted. I have only to step a few feet from my desk to put my words on their way.

Radio and television are claiming that they have been pushed somewhat aside in favor of the newspapers. From my own observation, I would say that there is nothing personal about my attitude.

"But I cannot lend myself to what is happening here," said Truman at the July 2 news conference. "I am as sorry as I can be about the situation. Let me say again there is nothing personal about my attitude."

At the July 2 news conference, Truman said, in effect, that the convention was rigged in favor of Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts. Because that, Truman said, he could not attend the convention as a delegate.

On-Again, Off-Again HST OH

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The 1960 Democratic National Convention opens today without Harry S. Truman.

The former president, who quit as a Missouri delegate July 2 and then wavered when asked to change his mind, finally decided Sunday to stay away from the proceedings.

But there was a slight possibility he might turn up—at least to cheer on the sidelines.

When asked if he intended to visit Los Angeles during the convention, Truman said, "I have nothing further to say." He said a statement issued earlier in the day, spoke for itself.

In that statement, phoned to his aides here from Independence, Mo., Truman said he was not going to stand by my original decision and the statement I made at the press conference July 2 in Independence.

"I am as sorry as I can be about the situation. Let me say again there is nothing personal about my attitude."

At the July 2 news conference, Truman said, in effect, that the convention was rigged in favor of Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts. Because that, Truman said, he could not attend the convention as a delegate.

Landlord Kills After Threats

Shoots Former Mental Patient to 'Protect His Own Life'

ST. HELEN (UPI)—John Martindale, 28, a former mental patient, was shot to death by his elderly landlord yesterday in this Roscommon County community.

Wilbert Murphy, 78, told state police he shot Martindale in the head with a .32 caliber pistol when Martindale threatened to kill him.

Murphy said Martindale attempted to stab him yesterday and had threatened him previously.

A coroner's inquest was scheduled today.

State police said reports on file at West Branch substantiated Murphy's claim that Martindale threatened him several times.

Martindale was discharged from the Veteran's Hospital at Battle Creek in May after treatment for a mental disorder.

New York Police report that in 1959 they "extricated 107 persons who were caught in machinery and revolving doors...rescued 82 persons on rats or in the waters of the harbor...and released 23 animals from dangerous predicaments."

Wanted: More and More Pennies! They Lead Such a Busy Existence

WASHINGTON (U) — Congress has received its annual reminder that although the country spends billions every year, it operates to a great extent on pennies.

We're using up more and more pennies all the time — so many that the people who make pennies had to ask for a lot of extra dollars to produce a billion extra pennies.

Leland Howard, assistant director of the mint, went to Capitol Hill recently to share his problem with a House Appropriations subcommittee.

MAKES MONEY

Howard, who has devoted many years to making money for others to spend, arrived just after the congressmen had finished discussing the national debt, a matter of some 280 billion dollars.

All Howard wanted was an additional $600,000, which is another way of saying 60 million pennies, to keep up with the demand for coins. A transcript of the closed meeting discloses he was greeted sympathetically.

"We have known for a long time that money was scarce," Rep. Albert Thomas (D-Tex.) observed.

This may have been one reason for cutting the mint's request to $500,000, which may be added to its previously allotted $5,500,000 in paper money.

Despite the trimming, Howard now says he doesn't expect us to run completely out of pennies.

"We make a lot of cents," he said without blushing.

The mints at Philadelphia and Denver turned out 2,534,000,000 pieces of jingling money last year. Seventy-seven per cent of them were pennies. In the next 12 months they're expected to make another 1,837,500.

Howard says the physical life expectancy of a penny is 30 years. Many, however, die ahead of their time—forgotten in a desk drawer or fallen through a sidewalk grill. They're living a hell-mell existence.

What a Problem Might Mac Has— It's Elephantine

ST. IGNACE (UPI)—Mackinac bridge authority chairman Prentiss M. Brown is trying to figure out how many axes an elephant has.

Brown said he has been notified that a touring circus with elephants plans to cross the bridge on July 25.

"Our toll charges are all listed in terms of the number of axes a vehicle has," Brown said. "I don't know what the charge for an elephant is and at the moment I don't know how to figure it out."

Hope to Give Homes Fallout Protection

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI)—Plans are under way by the Atomic Energy Commission to make homes of the future resistant to radioactive fallout.

Robert L. Corbise, deputy assistant director for radiological protection of the AEC, said in a talk at the Chamber of Commerce here that providing protection from fallout soon may be a big business.

Corbise said he foresees the day when homeowners will call in a radiation fallout protection service just as other home repairs are now called in.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain—without surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months.

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Files have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—the discovery of a world-famous research institution.

Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug counters. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

Violators Must Answer to State's Point System

The State's point system for traffic violators is no joke. At least that's the opinion of the 10,830 Michigan motorists that lost their licenses in the first five months of 1960.

Over a two year period they had accumulated at least 12 points. This is the breaking point; as a result their licenses were suspended or revoked for varying periods.

Even with this get-tough policy our state traffic accidents were a disgrace over the recent holiday weekend.

This is a new program and it will take some little time for everyone to become aware of the seriousness of being called up before the examiners.

Records of the Department of State show that 23,223 drivers, who piled up at least 12 points, were called in for interviews in the first five months of this year. Almost all of those whose license was not suspended or revoked were given driving instructions or had their driving privileges restricted.

Caution while driving is something we should all constantly keep in mind. If not we'll wind up behind the eight ball and find ourselves without a license. The State's not fooling. Just ask some of the unlucky drivers.

THE FOLLOWING are the number of points assigned for particular violations:

- Six points — Manslaughter, negligent homicide or felonious driving.
- Six points — Driving under the influence of liquor or narcotic drugs.
- Six points — Failing to stop and identify self at scene of accident, when required by law.
- Six points — Reckless driving.
- Four points — Speeding 15 miles or more over limit.
- Three points — Less than 15 miles over limit.
- Three points — Disobeying traffic signal, stop sign or improper passing.
- Two points — Other moving violations.

Fireworks Disastrous Over Holiday Weekend

Fireworks are a lethal weapon. They were banned years ago in Michigan for this very reason. But still permits may be obtained and public displays are offered on the Fourth of July.

Even when handled under a permit, and with experienced operators, fireworks still remain an unnecessary dangerous exhibition for children and grownups alike.

The hazards and damages far outweigh any earthly good that can come from fireworks. A recent incident in Birmingham over the Fourth of July holiday weekend emphasized this point.

A mother and daughter narrowly escaped suffocation from only black smoke that filled their home early Tuesday morning. Damage from the fire was estimated at $30,000.

It is believed that the fire was caused by sparks falling from fireworks of a community sponsored display. It was just by chance that the mother and daughter were awakened by the clatter of falling glass as windows shattered from the intense heat generated from the fire.

How could the short enjoyment of viewers be worth snuffing out the lives of neighbors?

This is an old question, but it comes so close to reality that perhaps reviewing ordinances that license such displays should be considered.

Many neighbors in the area of the fireworks reported falling embers in their yards. Anyone or all of these sparks could have ignited and instead of one single fire it might have been a block or two holocaust.

For the safety of everyone more stringent regulations are definitely needed. Better still, eliminate fireworks completely.

The trend in international affairs gives basis for the prediction that soon the Dove of Peace will be sprouting spurs, the olive branch will be growing thorns, and official diplomats will be wearing bullet- and bug-proof vests.

Those foreigners who shout, "Yanks, go home!" should add, "and don't come back until we need you or your money again."

The Man About Town

Biggest in Nation

The Final Census Figures Give Us Unique Position

Sound argument: One that can be spoiled with too much sound.

The 1960 census shows that Michigan is growing faster than any of the 50 states in the union, except California and Florida. And the two leaders are doing this because they have a geographical advantage over us.

Were you to take out the retired segment of our nation's population, Michigan would far outstrip both of them. Our state's retirees have helped them to gain their gain. Tax exemptions and other baits have done the trick.

The census figures also show that during the past ten years Michigan has topped the whole U.S.A. in the number of people who have moved into it because in a matter of employment and living standards.

And now this writer is getting down to show why Michigan has this attraction. The reason is with us right here in the Pontiac area.

Our state's biggest growth in population in the past ten years has come in the Oakland-Macomb County area. It far outstrips the gain made anywhere else in Michigan's 83 counties. On a percentage basis, the growth in our neighboring Wayne County (Detroit) was a mere pittance. No census taker busted any pencils in Wayne County.

And, as far as can be learned, there is no similar area in the entire nation that can match the Oakland-Macomb County growth. Until the certified official figures can be produced to sensibly contradict this assertion, this column maintains that we're tops in the U.S.A.

Yes, and this growth will continue. The increase of the past ten years is the biggest that we could have for drawing others here. These contented new residents are urging others to come and join them where living is so much better than anywhere else.

The good president of the Oakland County Sportsman's Club,

Warren H. Neuschwander counts everybody as quite a person who can remember how to spell it.

Coming down through the years for several generations, those who've tried it say that a teaspoon of oatmeal in a glass of water is still the best hot weather drink.

A large oak tree near the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jean Fallsworth of Rochester, divides into two equal parts just as it leaves the ground. One part bears a big crop of acorns every year, but the other never has an acorn.

Surprising What Always Hatches Out

David Lawrence Says:

Most Delegates Prefer Johnson

LOS ANGELES—It's the political paradox of the century. Sen. Kennedy has the votes to win the nomination, but a majority of the delegates themselves, if they had not been irrevocably committed in advance to the Massachusetts senator, would vote for Sen. Lyndon Johnson.

For the Texas senator is the real choice of the delegates. Lawrence says. There's no doubt about it. Every conversation with key men in various delegations confirms that appraisal.

The feeling is that Johnson could surely win in November and that Kennedy is likely to be beaten by Nixon. The contrast is between a youthful candidate and an experienced leader.

Why wouldn't the convention nominate the man of its choice? That's a good question, and to answer it one must be familiar with the arts of pre-convention strategy and the influence of organization politics at the local level.

Again and again, as one talks to delegates of the independent type, they bemoan the fact that deals and trades inside the states have brought Sen. Kennedy his delegate strength. They tell of the early efforts of pro-Kennedy men extending back for years.

It takes time and money to line up a first- or second-ballot victory such as Sen. Kennedy has in sight. Some estimates are that 3 million dollars has been spent in the Kennedy movement. This means that commitments were made months ago.

It shouldn't be inferred that votes were actually bought, but in politics the ambitious are ready to give their support for what they can get out of it later, either through appointments to office or other favors in federal, state or city governments.

GREATER THAN BELIEVED

The Kennedy strength is incalculably greater than his opponents ever believed. When any candidate gets within halting distance of a nomination, only a miracle can prevent his winning it. The "Stop Kennedy" plots have been numerous, but one by one they are proving illusory.

For the fact is that the Massachusetts senator has solid commitments. His lieutenants have done their work well. They didn't rely on mere promises of support. They actually selected the delegates in local organizations who could stand by the Massachusetts senator through thick and thin.

One hears a good deal, too, about the religious issue. But it is in a form that's beneficial to Sen. Kennedy. This is in Pennsylvania, where Gov. Lawrence has been trying to steer a middle course, the pressure

The Country Parson

The coroner's investigation revealed that the doctor had specified "baby aspirin" — which are a grain strength — but unfortunately the father did not understand this and purchased full strength tablets instead. Even though the doctor was not consulted, he should have been. It is, it is morally or ethically reprehensible for a doctor to prescribe over the telephone in lieu of visiting the patient to find out what the illness is.

A fellow without money is only broke — without love, he's broken.

from down the line, especially at the local precinct level, is substantial.

The governor is a Catholic and has ended seeing the religious issue dragged into the campaign, but in the end he will have to succumb to pressure or find himself at odds with large numbers of Catholic voters in his state. That's the way the dilemma of the Pennsylvania governor is described by Pennsylvania sources.

Unquestionably the governor would prefer either Lyndon Johnson or Adlai Stevenson. Perhaps last week the governor thought he could keep his delegation neutral, but now he has to release his delegates to vote as they wish.

In state after state the "unit rule" has been a help to Sen. Kennedy. It means that even a thin majority for a certain candidate is enough to compel the vote of the entire delegation to be cast for the candidate desired by the majority.

In many of these states the minority are outspoken in favor of Sen. Johnson.

Notwithstanding the Kennedy strength, it is amazing how the groundswell for Lyndon Johnson has grown in recent weeks. But while a groundswell may be a reflection of how the voters in a given state feel, this does not sway the delegates. They are not responsive to public sentiment. They are responsive only to the leaders and the organizations that brought them here and, in many instances, paid their travel and hotel expenses.

Dr. William Brady Says:

Feeding Your Children Aspirin Makes Me Sick

"We give our four children aspirin 103 and usually it goes down a little. So what do you do when a fever goes up too high?"

"Our doctor says give them aspirin. He will come to the house if I ask him, but then he will give them a shot, and I think a shot should be used only if the fever lasts too long."

"We do keep a thermometer in the house and I know fever is a good sign. When it is not over 102 or 103 I bathe them with water at room temperature. But when the fever goes above 103 I am worried." (Mrs. C.L.)

Your query, Ma'am, typical of many makes me feel sick. Your doctor's method is in my opinion, a disgrace to his profession. His profession? I should say his business. He is not a physician. He's a merchant of medicine.

You young Ma'am, feeding your children aspirin every time they have a fever is a thing that happens to them, are cultivating in them a propensity to resort to drugs, sedatives, analgesics, tranquilizers, cigarettes, narcotics, hypnotics, alcohol, whatever dope "everybody" uses nowadays.

Aspirin (acetyl-salicylic acid) is probably the least harmful analgesic (ache or pain killer) we have, but this does not mean that it is safe enough to keep in the home and dole out to everyone indiscriminately. It is particularly bad for children. I have known a father who had fed his children aspirin. The father gave the baby several 5-grain aspirin tablets.

A little while ago I told her of the death of an infant from aspirin. The infant's father, telephone doctor, advised him to give the baby aspirin. The father gave the baby several 5-grain aspirin tablets.

The coroner's investigation revealed that the doctor had specified "baby aspirin" — which are a grain strength — but unfortunately the father did not understand this and purchased full strength tablets instead. Even though the doctor was not consulted, he should have been. It is, it is morally or ethically reprehensible for a doctor to prescribe over the telephone in lieu of visiting the patient to find out what the illness is.

A brisk fever is generally a favorable sign in an ailing child. A mother who can't tell a child is feverish without the aid of a little glass stick is poorly qualified for her job.

A doctor who visits a sick child only when the nurse finds the child's temperature too high is not a good family physician.

Signed letters not more than one page or 100 words long, pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, a M.D., and addressed envelope, sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan. (Copyright 1960)

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Too Many Dates Stall Matrimony

Alan's case shows that a man mustn't play the field too long in picking a wife. In the teens, it is desirable to date many members of the opposite sex. But after 21, begin to narrow your range, or you'll never be able to make up your mind.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
CASE 8-413: Alan W., age 41, is a handsome business executive.

"Dr. Crane, I am glad you have your Scientific Dating Bureau in action," he said with a smile.

"For I think it is time I got married. I've drifted along until now I suddenly realize I am beginning to grow old, and I have no wife."

"Oh, I've never lacked girl friends," DR. CRANE or dates. In fact, I was elected the most popular man at the university."

"And I'm always being invited by my friends to escort their visiting unmarried relatives. But somehow I could never make up my mind."

"Do you suppose it is possible to have too many dates and too many girl friends?"

SALES PSYCHOLOGY
Yes, and that is one of the reasons why Alan is unmarried. For he is not only handsome, but is cultured, athletic and wealthy. Too, he has had so many girls at his beck and call that he couldn't decide.

In sales psychology we stress the danger of offering too many choices to a customer.

Voice of the People

Jess MacLeay's Departure Loss to All of Michigan

The departure of Jess MacLeay as head football coach of Central High is a loss to the City of Pontiac as well as the Saginaw Valley Conference and the State of Michigan.

He assumed a challenge which seemed almost impossible to conquer. Pontiac Central was a "pushover" in football. Coach MacLeay set out to make PCH a winner, but due to lack of team spirit and lack of honest civic support his first year ended in failure. MacLeay blasted the people for their failure to develop a well balanced athletic program and this brought about a raft of criticism, but in 1958 Central won four of nine games.

In 1959 MacLeay had only 35 boys, but he molded together the finest football team that has been seen on the Washtenaw turf in many years. Despite the pressure from the public, the doubtful alumni, and despite the usual back breaking schedule of Valley opponents, a record of six wins and three losses was attained.

The impossible task became not so impossible after all. Pontiac Central has gained prestige in football. The Chiefs now rate as one of the best all around athletic schools in the state. They can thank Jess MacLeay.

It is with deep regret that I see Jess MacLeay leave. He is a great coach, a man of integrity, and a man dedicated to the mental, physical, and spiritual development of the youth of America.

Petitioning Against Teacher's Dismissal

We believe that one would have to be quite naive not to realize that a small minority of critical parents backed up by a principal are responsible for Mrs. Vogel's dismissal. The authorities possess our petition bearing the names of the majority of her students' parents who wish to keep Mrs. Vogel.

Parents, act and enlighten the proper school authorities and do it now before a gross injustice is done.

We have the right to make our voices heard.

Is Pierce Referring to Our President?

I see Earl Pierce wants to get rid of our playboy politicians. I wonder if he has any reference to the President that was appointed one-third of the last seven and one-half years on the golf course and another one-third of that time at his farm and his pure bred stock that was practically given to him, which, of course, could not be termed as payola in what does he have in mind? Let's hear more about it.

Romney So Happy Over Survival of His Pet—Citizens For Michigan

DETROIT (UPI)—For the first time since talk about his personal politics and financial troubles nearly wrecked Citizens for Michigan late last year, George Romney was convinced today that the organization will succeed.

Romney, American Motors Corp. president never lost faith in the soundness of his idea. But he frequently admitted he could not with complete confidence, predict success for the organization he created to encourage greater citizen participation in politics.

But CFM's role in obtaining such things as improving the state's industrial climate and its reputation throughout the nation and to take a look at the necessity of state services in some areas, "I think we will be as successful on the tax question as we have been in this petition drive," he said.

"I'm convinced now that CFM will work because it has worked and is working," Romney said.

"They (the League of Women Voters and JCC) didn't have enough funds to have all of the petitions printed," Romney said. "CFM formed a special committee which raised the funds and made the petitions available to be signed."

"The momentum in the drive came after CFM joined in a co-ordinated effort with these other groups," he said. "Working together, we obtained as many signatures in the final nine days of the drive as the League and the JCC's did in the four months in which they circulated petitions before CFM joined the drive."

Romney indicated, however, that the drive had done as much for Citizens for Michigan as the organization did for the drive.

"This drive provided CFM with the opportunity to prove that it could succeed in a worthwhile goal . . . a chance to prove it was not just an idealistic dream nor an instrument of any individual's personal political ambitions," he said.

"It stirred a lot of interest in Citizens for Michigan and convinced a lot of people that the idea could work and would work. We learned a lot of lessons and will strengthen our approach in the future."

Although elated over the success of the petition drive, Romney outlined a series of difficult tasks still ahead of CFM.

"So far we've just got the proposed amendments to the way of selecting delegates to a constitutional convention on the ballot," he said.

"Now we have to get voter approval of these proposals in the fall election, then we have to get a constitutional convention called by the voters at the spring election, then we have to elect the delegates and draft a new Constitution, and finally we have to get the new Constitution approved by the voters."

In addition, CFM is still working on a revision of the state's tax structure and plans to work on ful on the tax question as we have been in this petition drive," he said. "I'm convinced we can come up with a tax program for Michigan that will meet the state's needs and be acceptable to the majority of the citizens."

"But the most important thing is that we have passed our most important test," he said. "We're on our way now. We're convincing the rest of the nation that citizens can be informed and act in unison for the best interests of their government."

Dems Set Strong Antibias Plank

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A plank pledging a bold federal attack on racial discrimination, written over strong Southern objections, appeared headed today for adoption in the Democratic party platform. The platform goes before the Democratic National Convention Tuesday after preliminary action today by the full Platform Committee. Approval by both groups seemed certain.

But unanswered was what Dixie delegates might do about it. They could walk out of the convention in protest as some did in 1952 to express dissatisfaction with a civil rights stand taken then. Or they could stay and fight out the issue on the convention floor and take a probable defeat.

Their final decision, some of them said, was tied to the fate of the candidacy of Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas for the party's presidential nomination.

Southern backers of the Texan were reluctant to stir up too much trouble at this point lest such action embarrass him with Northern delegates who support him for the nomination, but also favor a strong civil rights declaration. They said drastic action by Southern delegates might well be associated with Johnson, inasmuch as he represents a Southern state and has many Dixie votes for the nomination.

Northern civil rights groups were jubilant over the plank approved Sunday night by a 20-member drafting committee of the convention's full 100-member resolutions committee. It gave them just about everything they had hoped for. The drafting committee also approved other planks covering foreign and other domestic issues, but civil rights promised the biggest fight.

Speaking for the Southland delegates, Sen. Sam J. Ervin of North Carolina said he could not accept the civil rights proposal. He was one of four Southerners on the drafting committee. However, two of these were absent from the session at which the plank was approved. Significantly, one of the absentees was Rep. Paul J. Kilday of Texas, a Johnson supporter. Ervin declined to speculate, however, on what steps that Dixie delegates might take.

Riots Hurt Hong Kong
HONG KONG (AP)—Informed sources say the recent riots in Tokyo hurt Hong Kong's tourist business. Many Americans, the biggest tourist spenders in Hong Kong, have canceled planned trips to the Far East because of the turmoil in Japan. U.S. tourists spent about $85,000,000 here last year.

YEARS OF JOY—Overcome with relief upon reaching Belgium, this Congo refugee burst into tears. She landed in Brussels Saturday with the first plane load to reach that city after riots against European rocked the new republic. Other Europeans reached Paris by plane.

The Vatican state was created by treaty with Italy in 1929.

Both Employment, Unemployed Rise

WASHINGTON (AP)—Government sources indicate the number of unemployed increased about one million in June while the number of employed reached a record high.

Official figures will be released Tuesday. The sources predicted about 4 1/2 million unemployed and about 68,100,000 employed—an increase of more than 500,000 in employment over last July's record.

Both employment and unemployment can climb because of the expanding labor force.

Keynote Speech to Surprise Dems: It'll Be Shorter

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif. (UPI) — The wife of Idaho Sen. Frank Church, keynote speaker for the Democratic National Convention, says her husband's address will have some surprises.

"First of all," said Bethine Church, "it's shorter than most."

Church was staying in the mountains near here before driving to Los Angeles for the start of the convention.

World's chief storehouse of unused water power, now estimated at 130 million horsepower, is contained in the Belgian Congo region.

Chicago Publisher Dies in His Sleep

CHICAGO (AP) — Chesser M. Campbell, 62, who rose from a subscription salesman to become president of the Tribune Co. and publisher of the Chicago Tribune, died Sunday in his sleep.

Death tentatively was attributed to a heart attack.

He was on a fishing vacation in Lake Conasa, Que., site of a Tribune newspaper plant. With him were Roy C. Ingersoll, chairman of Borg-Warner Corp.; Franklin Landing, chairman of Jewel Tea Co.; and Kenneth Zweigert, president of Harris Trust & Savings Bank.

Students Hunt Oil in County

By JIM LONG
Five young Michigan State University geology students went on a reconnaissance survey for oil in Oakland County today.

Oakland is the 15th county to be surveyed by the team from the school's geophysics department. They will spend the entire summer studying 62 of the state's 83 counties.

"Looking for oil is a general term we use when asked what we're doing," said Howard Meyer, 21, who is heading the geology team.

"Actually we can't tell anything about the readings we take. All we do is take the readings from instruments and send them to Lansing where they are all correlated and placed on a map," Meyer said.

The job of mapping out all the gathered information will be done by Dr. William Hinz, head of the MSU Geo-Physics Department, he said.

"Even though we won't be able to definitely say that oil is in a specific spot, about all that can be said is that one location may be better than another in oil deposits."

Meyer estimated that it will take at least two years before all the information will be made available to the State. The survey was set up with a grant from the National Science Foundation, he said.

IN SEARCH OF OIL — Two members of a five-man geology team from Michigan State University, Don Hill and Jim Lowden, take readings on a magnetometer in their preliminary survey of oil deposits throughout the state. The crew is taking a survey of the entire Lower Peninsula.

Clarkston Area Drive to Start This Fall but Officials Act Early

CLARKSTON—Chairman of the United Fund in the voting precincts of Clarkston, near Milford, seems resolved today.

For the past several months, naturalists at the park have been concerned over a white squirrel who was having trouble being accepted as a squirrel because of his color.

A rarity in squirreldom, Whitley appeared to be leading a lonely existence, completely unimpressed by his naturalized squirrel brethren.

However, the color bar, what with spring and all, apparently collapsed.

Yesterday, there were two more white squirrels scurrying along the natural trail.

Bill Hopkins, chief naturalist at the park, believes these young albinoes are the off-spring of the previously observed white squirrel.

A lack of pigment in what would otherwise be red squirrels gives the creatures a pure white coat and pink eyes. Because of the color, the albinoes will have a tougher time escaping their natural enemies, Hopkins noted.

If they do survive, the number of albino squirrels at the park may continue to increase.

While the Albino is capable of appearing in almost any animal as well as among humans, it is considered extremely rare among red squirrels.

However, the color could conceivably become popular among the squirrels. The trend is rising locally, anyway.

In addition to a regular diet of grubs and peanuts, an ostrich at the Detroit Zoo in Royal Oak, has acquired a taste for keys — car keys in particular.

Zoo officials aren't sure yet which ostrich swallowed a set of keys belonging to Nancy Malott, 28, of 219 N. Wilson St., Saturday afternoon.

None of the zoo's 35-odd, flightless birds has complained of a bellyache, the officials said.

Miss Malott was visiting the zoo with two 11-year-old twins, Janice and Joyce Bornstein of Detroit.

They were feeding peanuts to the birds, more hungry than the rest, nipped Joyce's hand.

Miss Malott gave Joyce her key case and suggested she wrap it around her hand as a defense against the key-snatched bird another peanut.

James Sesterlin, township clerk, said he would request purchase of a one-year supply of tires for the police department vehicles.

One Problem Solved, Another Created

White Squirrel Key-Eating Bird!

Snow-white squirrels and a key-eating ostrich are the news today.

The problem of an out-cast albino squirrel living along the Aspen Nature Trail in the Clarkston area, near Milford, seems resolved today.

Ponder License in Waterford

Amusement or Track? Up for Consideration at Tonight's Meeting

Whether to issue a permanent amusement park license or one for a race track at the Everett Entertainment Center, which owns a similar race track at Dixie Highway and Telegraph road will be decided at tonight's Waterford Township Board meeting.

The Board issued a 10-day preliminary license to Carlton Everett, the owner of the six-acre operation 10 days ago. Everett told the Board that he intended to install civil muffers on the cars to cut noise.

Residents had complained earlier of noise from go-carts.

In other business, two requests for use of lot licenses will be considered. One has been filed by Royce Hedkins and Robert Givens for a lot at 450 Dixie Highway and the other by owners of a proposed lot at 487 Elizabeth Lake Rd.

James Sesterlin, township clerk, said he would request purchase of a one-year supply of tires for the police department vehicles.

Wouldn't Make Love; Two Die

GARY, Ind. (AP)—A newly wed husband killed his wife and himself Sunday after she began making a cake instead of love.

Police said, Ben Newbold, 43, shot his 36-year-old wife Clementine in the head with a .22 caliber pistol. Then Newbold shot himself in the head with the same gun.

Mrs. Newbold's 11-year-old daughter by a previous marriage, Sharon Harris, said her stepfather tried to kiss his wife while they sat on a couch.

"Momma got up and went into the kitchen and she started baking a cake," the child said. "Then she asked daddy for a divorce."

Sharon told police Newbold did reply to her by coming back into the kitchen with a gun.

1st Two Drownings Occur in Area Sunday

The first two drownings of the summer occurred in Oakland County Sunday afternoon.

The victims were Thomas Phillips Jr., 12, of 1908 Renner St., Livonia, and James E. Ashcroft, 23, of 610 Kenneth St., Madison Heights.

The Phillips boy was swimming with friends at Dodge State Park No. 4 on Cass Lake when he became tired while playing water tag about 100 yards from shore, according to Pontiac state police.

Phillips and his friends had been told not to go swimming by Samuel E. Friesene of 1908 Renner St., who brought them to the park for an outing, Trooper Gerald Tafel said.

His body was recovered in about five feet of water and all attempts to revive him failed. Assisting were sheriff's deputies and Waterford Township police and firemen. The drowning occurred shortly after 6 p.m.

Ashcroft drowned while swimming in a grave pit in Troy despite frantic efforts of his friend to save him.

He was swimming in the Walker grave pit near 19 Mile and John R roads when he suddenly collapsed for help, according to his companion, James Seifried, 23, of 1732 E. Grant, Hazel Park.

Seifried told Troy police that he reached Ashcroft, but lost him in the deep water after attempting to pull him to shore. The victim's body was recovered an hour later by sheriff's deputies.

Britishers Consider Ban on Cuban Sugar

LONDON (AP)—Some 50 Conservative members of the House of Commons have signed a motion calling on the British government to ban imports of Cuban sugar.

The members of the government party are demanding tough reprisals against the Castro regime for its taking over the British-controlled Shell oil refinery in Cuba.

They believe a ban on Cuban sugar also would boost sugar imports into Britain from such Commonwealth sources as the West Indies, South Africa and Mauritius.

Beauty Is By-Product but Prevents Erosion

AMES, Iowa (AP)—Harold Dotling, landscape engineer for the Iowa Highway Commission, estimates it costs between $8,000 and $10,000 a mile to landscape the interstate highway system in the state.

"But the plantings are absolutely essential to control erosion and protect the roads," he says. "Beauty is simply a pleasant by-product."

Club Members at Convention Keep in Touch

LOS ANGELES (AP)—One room at the Democratic convention headquarters hotel was taken by the 750 Club, composed of Democrats who have contributed $1,000 or more to the party.

A newsman discovered the club ordered a direct telephone line to some point downtown. He didn't know where but—suspecting there might be political significance—traced the number to see who would answer.

It was the brokerage firm of Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith.

Gates Will Spend Extra Defense $$$

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The administration has reversed its stand and agreed to spend for weapons development at least some of the 700 million dollars Congress added to President Eisenhower's defense budget.

Defense Secretary Thomas S. Gates Jr. said, "I'm sure we want to use some of the additional cash to expedite some of the weapon systems we have on the way."

Over administration opposition, Congress added the 700 million to President Eisenhower's $4-billion request for funds to run the nation's far-flung military establishment in the fiscal year that started July 1.

Some of the extra money was earmarked for the B70 super-bomber program and for more Polaris missile-firing submarines.

Salt Lake City Beauty Wins Universe Crown

MIAMI BEACH (UPI)—The new Miss Universe, lovely Linda Bemest of Salt Lake City, Utah, confessed today that she liked "older men — a year or two older." She is 18.

But the raven-haired beauty chosen Saturday night from an international field of 82 contestants, said she is not sure what kind of man she'll fall in love with. "Some are good and some are bad. You just can't tell until you actually fall in love."

Linda, a Mormon, graduated from high school just last month. She had placed second in her only try in a beauty contest during her school years.

Her luck changed Thursday when she was chosen as Miss U.S.A. and stepped forth to represent this country in the Miss Universe competition.

Her newly won prizes include a $5,000 cash award, a motion picture contract offer and a multitude of other gifts.

Miss Bemest took time out from her whirl of activities Sunday to attend church with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Bemest. They attended an Episcopal Church because the pastor had befriended her family during their week's stay here.

Later at a press conference, Miss Bemest's green eyes flashed as she laughed over the former custom of Mormon men marrying several wives.

"Everybody thinks because I'm a Mormon my father must have a bunch of wives," she said.

"We've traced one part of our family all the way back to Adam."

Georgia Investigates Shooting of Negro

HAZLEHURST, Ga. (AP)—Georgia Bureau of Investigation and Jeff Davis County officers investigating the beating and shooting of a Negro pulpwood worker by five white men have declined to comment on the motive for the violence but said an arrest was expected soon.

The officers said Sunday their investigation was still going on in the case.

GBI Sgt. James R. Dunn of Hazlehurst said the Negro, Joe L. Howard, told him he was abducted last Tuesday by the white men after one of them came to his house and requested the loan of a flashlight, saying he had a flat tire.

Miss Bemest took time out from her whirl of activities Sunday to attend church with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Bemest. They attended an Episcopal Church because the pastor had befriended her family during their week's stay here.

Later at a press conference, Miss Bemest's green eyes flashed as she laughed over the former custom of Mormon men marrying several wives.

"Everybody thinks because I'm a Mormon my father must have a bunch of wives," she said.

"We've traced one part of our family all the way back to Adam."

Right Way Is Best Way to Serve

By EMILY POST

Dear Mrs. Post: The bridge club to which I belong met at my house the other evening. Coffee and cake are always served by the hostess after the game. I baked a layer cake to serve to my guests. Before they arrived, my son asked me if he could have a piece of it.

As it was a large cake and I knew they couldn't possibly eat it all, I said he could have a slice. When my sister saw the cake, she said, "You're not going to serve cake that has been cut into, to your guests, are you?" I said, "Yes, what's wrong with that?"

She said it was just not the right thing to do and that it looked as though I was serving left-over cake to my guests. As I had nothing else in the house, I served it anyway, but have been wondering ever since whether it was really wrong to serve cake that had been cut into to my guests. Will you please give me your opinion of this?

Answer: There was nothing really wrong in what you did, but it would have been more appetizing to have sliced the rest of the cake and separated the pieces on a serving platter.

Dear Mrs. Post: I am going to be married in the very near future. I have a very close friend whom I had always intended to have as my best man. However, my fiancé thinks that I should ask her brother to fill this position. I don't want to start a family feud, but is it not my place to choose my own attendant?

Answer: It is definitely your privilege to choose your own attendants just as it is the bride's privilege to choose hers.

Dear Mrs. Post: While with a woman friend recently, we met an acquaintance who is expecting a baby shortly. My friend congratulated her. I contented that this was rather indelicate and in bad taste. She disagreed with me.

It has always been my impression that congratulations were extended after the arrival of the baby, not before. Who is right?

Answer: While not really wrong, it would have been in better taste to act as if she had not noticed that this acquaintance was expecting a baby.

Fellowship Unit Gets Together

Mrs. George Hollis offered devotions when the Fellowship Class of the Baldwin Avenue Evangelical United Brethren Church met Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth McQueen on New York avenue.

Lewis Ball opened the meeting with prayer.

The Rev. and Mrs. Myron Everett will be hosts for the next meeting.

Suspicion Is So Deadly

By VIVIAN BROWN

Suspicion can break up some beautiful friendships. Young people should keep in mind.

Here's a letter that illustrates suspicion in the making: "My girl friend is doing her best to attract my boy friend. She has even planned a surprise birthday party for me, and has called him asking him to lend his help."

"He told me about it because I had planned to do something else on that date. Should I tell her that I know what she is up to?"

Ignore it. Act gracious about the party. Her intentions could be different from what you suspect. And besides you should have more confidence in yourself than you display.

Another letter concerns early marriage.

"My fiancé is 19. I am 17. My parents say that we are too young to get married, and believe I should wait until I am 18."

"We want to get married this summer and honeymoon before Jack goes back to college in the fall. He will be a junior and is studying to be an electronics engineer. We have known each other for six months."

Six months is a short time to know a person you plan to marry. But many successful marriages have been made despite short engagements. Much would depend on whether you are mature enough to take on the obligations of marriage.

Here's a problem that concerns propriety: "Do you see any harm in a Long summer days give horse-loving youngsters the hours they crave for their favorite sport. Renewing an old acquaintance with a friend of summers past are 9-year-old Debbie David, left, and her 8-year-old sister Diana. They are the daughters of the William J. Davids of Lochaven road, Waterford Township.

Two Doctors Hurry in Powder Puff Race

WILMINGTON, Del. (UPI)—Two women physicians from Media, Pa., completed the Powder Puff Derby last night and explained they hurried through the cross-country flight because they had appointments with patients this morning.

Drs. Margaret Denmore and Constance Volk were the first to complete the annual derby for women pilots touching down their Beecheratt Bonanza at the New Castle Air Base at 5:20 p.m. EDT. Their flight time from Torrance, Calif., was 29 hours and five minutes.

Other contestants were reported waiting out bad weather and headwinds stretched from Windsor, Ariz., to Chattanooga, Tenn. All entrants, racing on the basis of a handicap established for each plane, must land here by noon (EDT) or be disqualified.

The two physicians were greeted by more than 250 persons at the airport. Ernest Reyer, president of the Wilmington Businessmen's Club Assn., sponsors of the race, awarded them a bottle of champagne.

"It was fun, but good to be home," said pilot Denmore. It was like running an obstacle course in some places, she said. It was necessary, for example, to detour 10 miles to Phoenix, Ariz., Saturday to take advantage of head winds. The only other excitement came in Albuquerque, N. M., when a landing gear stuck for a few moments prior to a landing, but "came around," Dr. Denmore said.

Dr. Denmore and Volk flew 1,200 miles Saturday and the rest of the distance yesterday. They decided to complete the race despite bad weather during the hop from Chattanooga to Roanoke, Va., because "we have appointments with patients Monday morning."

The Powder Puff contestants will hold a three-day convention at the Hotel Dupont here at the completion of the race.

Double-Decker for VIPs

Dems Have Sunday Shindig

By ARTHUR EDSON
LOS ANGELES (AP)—Democrats have proved conclusively that, given the opportunity, they can celebrate as high and as handsomely as the richest Republican.

The party went partying Sunday, and, man and candidate, what partying! The big show was a double-decker 300-plate affair at the Beverly Hilton, Los Angeles' plushest hotel.

Around 2,500 turned out for the two-ballroom job in which the four presidential aspirants in the convention opening to day trotted from one hall to the other to repeat their gems.

The route between halls led through the kitchen, which brought this crack from Adlai E. Stevenson: "I've been through the kitchen so many times the last time through they offered me a job."

In addition to the glamor performance, featuring the candidates, a big outside, free-party was held for delegates and alternates in a department store parking lot across the street.

BAR 300 FEET LONG

Tables were set up to provide a bar 300 feet long. Forty-eight bartenders tended furiously. Fifty-six waiters whizzed about rescuing used glasses. The booze was stacked in cases under the tables like eggs in crates at a chick hatchery.

A small river ran through the lot, ice melting and leaking out of the paper bags in the late afternoon sun.

A brass band and an orchestra provided music, and then, because Democrats traditionally play it poornouth even when they're wallowing in it, girls circled through the crowd peddling a new Democratic cook book. At $3 apiece, the books are supposed to raise money to put the candidate on television.

If you've always wondered how Mrs. Jack Kennedy makes waffles, this is your literature.

Not many delegates are big-money boys, so few crossed the road to hear the four presidential contenders make their pitch.

As was expected, each took potshots at the Republicans, and as each painted his idea of the leader that would save us, it became apparent they all must have written their

Dinner Dance Held After Horse Show

A dinner dance at the Metamora Club featuring an area orchestra followed Saturday's activities at the 28th annual Metamora Hunt Horse Show.

Of special interest at the show was a trophy, donated for the Ladies Working Hunter Class in memory of the late Mrs. Laura B. Higbie by her family and friends.

Mrs. Dean Bedford Jr. was chairman of the event, assisted by secretary Mrs. Carl H. Clendening, Ethel Film, Mrs. George K. Mitchell and Mrs. Charles K. Backus.

Judges were Mrs. Edgar Scott of Villa Nova, Pa., and Dean Bedford, MFH, of Fallston, Md.

Couple to Live at Camp Pendleton

Tiffany baskets of white gladioli and carnations graced the church of the First Church of God for Saturday vows of Donna Gene Herron who became the bride of Pvt. Robert Charles Stutzman, U.S. Marine Corps.

The Rev. Eugene Ramsey performed the ceremony in the presence of 200 guests who later attended the church reception.

Parents of the newlyweds are the Dale Herrons of Coleman drive and the Charles Stutzmans of Kettering street.

Darlene Herron, honor maid, preceded her sister to the altar. A cascade of pink and white roses complemented her dress of mint green lace over matching taffeta.

Mrs. Darrell Herron of Drayton Plains, her sister-in-law's bridesmaid, wore orchid lace over taffeta. Yellow and white roses comprised her bouquet.

MRS. ROBERT C. STUTZMAN

Traditional white satin fashioned the floor-length bridal gown. The neckline was scalloped and sleeves formed puffed points over the hands. Fingertip veiling was held by a headpiece of satin with lace inserts.

An arrangement of pink sweatshirt roses and carnations rested on the white Bible held by the bride.

Darrell Herron was best man at his sister's wedding. Guests were seated by John Schurman, Arland Corde, and the bride's cousin Carl Sturgis.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Herron chose pink lace over a pink satin sheath dress. Mother of the bridegroom was attired in a two-piece dress much he would take her out for dinner or a movie? He has plenty of money (he has mentioned it often enough) but he's afraid someone will try to marry him for it. How can I get rid of this bore without making him angry?

NO PRIVACY

DEAR NO PRIVACY: Get a "DO NOT DISTURB" sign and hang it on your door. If he knocks anyway, stick your head out the window and say, "Oh, didn't you see the sign? I was resting." He'll go away. Repeat this as often as you want privacy. It will work.

DEAR ABBY: I have a beautiful wife and daughter who look alike and they are beginning to act alike. My wife refuses to wear a slip and my daughter, who is 16, does just what her mother does.

Sometimes it is all right because their outer clothes are heavy enough, but when they wear thin dresses you can see right through. We have had several arguments about this.

The wife says that very few sophisticated women wear slips. And the daughter says none of her friends wear them. With summer here, I am getting nervous again. Maybe I am old-fashioned, but I wish you'd set me (and those women of mine) straight. Thanks.

EMBARRASSED

DEAR EMBARRASSED: Your wife is mistaken. A lady never allows herself to be "seen through." Compromise. Ask the girls to wear half-slips.

DEAR ABBY: We gave our 18-year-old son a car for high school graduation, and now he is out dating every night. He never cared much for girls, but lately he has been staying out until 3 and 4 every morning.

We know that daughters are expected to bring home their dates so their parents can meet them. But is this true of sons? I keep telling my husband that "nice" girls couldn't stay out that late. My husband says I am "over protective."

Am I wrong to be concerned? Why don't parents of boys have the same right to meet the company their sons keep as have parents of girls?

CONCERNED MOTHER

DEAR CONCERNED: They have. Find out who the girls are. You are wise to be suspicious of girls who have as much freedom and as little supervision as these young ladies (?) appear to have.

County Folk at Caravan West Rally

Fifteen Pontiac area residents are currently camped out at the foot of Pikes Peak attending the 3rd annual Wally Byam Caravan Club International Rally in Colorado Springs, Colo.

Byam, the founder of modern caravanning, had led more than 25 caravans to such places as Mexico, Europe, Africa, and behind the Iron Curtain.

The rally is in honor of his birthday. Among those gathered in over 1,000 trailers near the city are Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Wilkins, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Biggins and Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Warren.

Others are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sumpter, Calvin Warner, and Mrs. Richard Paschke, Kenneth Jenkinson, Penny Galbraith and Mr. and Mrs. Orin Gooch.

At the close of the rally, some will join a 20-trailer caravan to Western Canada.

The Land O'Lakes Duplicate Bridge Club had six tables in play when members met Friday at Waterford's C&I Building.

Winners were Mr. and Mrs. Harold Cox, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Hickman, Mr. and Mrs. Ericson Lewis, Mrs. Charles Patrick and Mrs. Carl Bolten and Dr. and Mrs. Maurice Willis.

GUTHRIE MCCLINTIC at Theater

When famed theatrical producer Guthrie McClintic comes to Will-O-Way Theatre after Aug. 12 through 14, he will bring with him the zest and enthusiasm he has absorbed in 39 years of Broadway production.

Married to equally famous Katharine Cornell, Mr. McClintic epitomizes the dramatic arts to devotees of the theater. He will appear as second "master" critic for Will-O-Way's summer classes, observing and constructively criticizing production and performance at the climax of the course.

A few late registrations are still available for the six-week course, according to director Mrs. Ceila Merrill Turper.

Omit Sex Hints in Warning Little Children

Copper Cleaner Helps on Iron

By MURIEL LAWRENCE
Comie was four months past her seventh birthday when she went on her first errand for her mother.

The store was 10 blocks away, not the familiar blocks she walked to school but new, crowded ones without friendly policemen to help her at the crossings.

So, when her mother gave her the seam binding she wanted matched at the notion store, she reminded Comie of the meaning of red and green traffic lights.

When Comie delivered the seam binding, her mother said: "Now that you're getting to be this big, I have something else important to tell you."

"There are strange grownups

In the world who do not respect children. Nobody can tell who they are because they look like other grownups."

"So the rule is for children not to speak to strangers or go into their cars or houses. They don't take candy or any favors from people they do not know."

"Grownups who respect children understand this and will not be hurt if you pay no attention to them. Obeying this rule will help you avoid being hurt by these strange grownups."

On the sexuality of sex-offense. What we are really trying to do is to protect her from shock by enforced submission to a special kind of physical assault.

If this is clear to us, our warning can protect her without disturbing her with mystified and unwholesome fears of sexuality.

Ribbon of Sugar Mixture Layered in Coffee Cake

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

Having guests in for coffee on the patio or out in the yard is a pleasant way to entertain during the summer months. If you do, you might consider Mrs. Frank Schlichter's recipe for a quick coffee cake.

This is the sort of batter you can prepare the night before and keep in the refrigerator. Just pop it into the oven the next morning.

Mrs. Schlichter is interested in a number of things. She's active in Tuesday Musicals. Gardening, bridge and interior decorating all claim a part of her time.

QUICK COFFEE CAKE
By Mrs. Frank Schlichter
1 1/2 cups sifted flour
3 tablespoons baking powder

1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup sugar
2 eggs, well beaten
1 cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla

Cut shortening into sifted dry ingredients. Add egg, milk and vanilla. Stir only until completely mixed.

Four half of the batter into greased 8x4x2 pan. Put half the brown sugar mixture on this and cover with rest of batter. Top with remaining brown sugar mixture.

Bake 30 minutes at 375 degrees.

Topping

1/4 cup brown sugar
2 tablespoons flour
1/2 cup chopped nuts

Mix all together to make a crumbly mixture.

Bridegroom's Brother Officiates

Patricia Miller Married

The Rev. Harvey Beach of Sterling College, Sterling, Kas., brother of the bridegroom, and the Rev. Walter J. Treuvisen Jr., officiated at the marriage of Patricia Joan Miller and Robert Kenneth Beach in the Community United Presbyterian Church, Drayton Plains.

Altar flowers for the Saturday ceremony were white gladioli, chrysanthemums, carnations and valley lilies.

Floor-length white Chantilly lace over tulle fashioned the gown for the daughter of Mrs. Arnold L. Phillips of Pleasant drive, Drayton Plains, and Norman T. Miller of Transparent drive, Clarkston.

The bride's fingertip veiling of silk illusion was held by a crown of sequins and rhinestones. She wore an heirloom necklace of small pearls. Valley lilies and a white orchid rested on the bride's Bible.

Betty Miller of Clarkston was her sister's honor maid, wearing a matching chiffon and roses.

Bridesmaids Constance Tatu of Drayton Plains and Mrs. Lynn Hamp wore blue chiffon. Blue

Child Paints Just What He Feels—Not Objects

By DR. DOROTHY V. WHITFIELD
AP Newfeatures

Little children love to dabble in paints. If you fix them up with a suitable place and a little equipment, both you and your child will enjoy the painting.

But don't expect a toddler to paint pictures. Many grown-ups have the notion that whenever a child paints, he must be copying something he has seen. But this is far from the truth. Little children seldom paint things. It is often the act of painting not the finished product that interests the child.

Adults think of painting as an art form, but preschool children do not know about art. They approach painting, as they do other forms of activity—as something to do, and it is the doing that is important, not the finished painting.

Children paint what they feel, not what they see. Instead of using paints to make pictures that represent the world in which they live, little children are expressing what they feel and how they feel.

DON'T ASK

The adult who comes along and asks a little child, "What are you painting?" only confuses the youngster.

Three-year-old Andy picked up the brush, dipped it into the red paint and made a straight line down one side of the paper; then he made a wavy line at the bottom. All the time he was chanting to himself: "Ferryboat, ferryboat, ferryboat on the river." Andy dipped in for some more red paint and added some curlycues and a few big blobs; then he put his brush down and turned to his mother. "Finished," he said.

Maybe Andy's painting represented the river and a boat, maybe it didn't. Andy surely didn't know and couldn't have said in words why he painted as he did, but obviously the experience was a very satisfactory one for him.

PAINT FEELINGS

Ted was an aggressive little four-year-old who bullied his way around. He loved to paint and splashed out his feelings in vivid colors and formless blobs. He was usually a little more tractable after a time at the easel. He had said with paints how he felt and the very saying made him more comfortable.

Timid children, too, benefit from having a way to "say" how they feel. Carol was a shy, mousey little four-year-old. When she first began to paint, she made tiny little dots and lines in one corner of the paper but as time went on she ventured further and further across the paper with bolder strokes.

And don't try to psychoanalyze their paintings. You will get into a lot of trouble.

Even experts find it next to impossible to draw conclusions about a child from his paintings. Even without understanding what the painting "means" the child benefits by having said it.

Women Pull Style Power

(NEA) — In the matter of beauty, American women seem unaware just how much power they possess. For the truth is that no hair style, style of makeup or hair tint can give a child from his paintings. Even without understanding what the painting "means" the child benefits by having said it.

In the field of fashion, this was proven drastically with the failure of the chemise. Paris told women that the chemise was the thing.

American women bought a few, took one horrified look and showed the offending fashion to the back of the closet. It was a fashion that died before it was really well under way.

The same thing has happened to those white lips and that pale look in makeup. Gone, completely gone. Women tried it out eagerly, decided that what they wanted was a bright bit of makeup and out went lipstick ranging from white to pale beige.

Try Mental Exercise

Your Brain Muscles Old?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

I firmly believe that lack of mental gymnastics is every bit as aging as lack of physical gymnastics. The person who becomes dull mentally because of no new ideas or interests and no hard mental work usually ages rapidly.

There is nothing like eager interest and mental curiosity to keep one youthful!

Scientists tell us that we tap a pitifully small part of our mental potential, that we all are capable of so much more than we realize. We allow our minds to atrophy from lack of strenuous use.

I, for one, am glad to know that there is some more to there. I can just get at it! I could use it!

CONTINUE STUDY

Yet so many folks finish high school or college and feel that their learning is completed. Other extremely exciting and curious people study for the rest of their lives.

There are so many opportunities for this, with libraries everywhere and adult education expanding constantly. However, today, I am thinking that we all need really brisk mental workouts regularly.

The increasing deficiency of memory, which assails so many folks from middle age on, often is due to lack of regular mental exercise rather than to hardening arteries.

This has been well proven in schools of concentration and memory. People who could not remember a telephone number, and barely their own addresses, made great strides. Many executives take courses like this. These are fascinating games you can play at home which sharpen the memory.

ANYONE FOR MATH?

Courses in math are splendid mental exercises although I must admit that this is not my dish. The mental gymnastics and memory training in learning a new language are wonderful mental conditioners and so much fun. It always is stimulating to be able to express ourselves in a new medium.

So if you suspect that your mind has been wandering while your hips have been widening, why not add zest to living by stirring up that wonderful brain?

If you would like to have my free leaflet "Hobbies" send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 66. Address Josephine Lowman in care of The Pontiac Press.

Women's Brains Different

NEW YORK (UPI)—Female brains are neither superior nor inferior to masculine brains, said Dr. Gardner Murphy, director of research at the Monaghan Foundation in Topeka, Kan.

He said it at a seminar on "Why women are better than men — and vice versa."

Dr. Murphy said there is a difference between glandular secretions present in the blood of men and women, and consequently a difference in the "body fluids of incredible complexity" bathing the brain's ten billion cells.

"Every interest, taste, attitude, or value is governed to some extent by these body fluids, and behind these fluids lies the bodily structure as a whole, with its instinctual, temperamental, and other attributes," Dr. Murphy said.

The capacity for "overwhelmingly narrow and intense preoccupation in a single task and for aggressiveness and domination both biologically and historically is associated with masculinity, just as warmth, sensitivity and an interest in people are female attributes," Dr. Murphy noted. He said because women's brains are different from men's brains, members of the gentler sex may become great novelists, but they are less likely to become great mathematicians or chess players.

Gals Sew Suits for Suffering Skin Divers

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (UPI)—Skin-diving members of Syracuse rescue squads no longer have to struggle like women shedding rubber girdles after deep-water missions.

That's because sympathetic members of the Syracuse Skin-divers, especially the women, have been making safe, more comfortable suits for the police and sheriff's departments.

Mrs. Olive Klaver and friends went into action because pressure almost gives some types of suits to divers who have been down 60 to 80 feet.

The suits are custom made. The diver, clad in bathing suit, lies on a sheet of heavy paper which is cut to size. The suits are made of three-quarter-inch neoprene foam rubber. All seams are cemented and reinforced. About $35 worth of material goes into each suit.

Add H2O Softener

(NEA) — If you find it a trial to scrub white cotton gloves clean, add a little water softener to the soapy water when you put them to soak. Let them soak about 20 minutes. You'll find that the dirt floats out.

Watch Wording

NEW YORK (UPI) — You might intend to exchange "white elephant" wedding gifts. But when writing thanks to the giver, be careful that your distaste for the gift does not show through. Sound gracious, kind, grateful. It's the thought that counts more than the gift.

Emma Said No

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (UPI)—An note has been placed in one page in the marriage license record book in the office of County Recorder John G. Uta. It reads:

"Iphed. He said Emma would not marry him. Uta says he placed the note to the record to show why the license was not complete. He adds there would be no return to the man who lost Emma."

Here's a Secret

NEW YORK (UPI) — When writing thank-you notes, pretend that you're talking to the person who sent you the wedding gift. Your note then will have a warm, conversational quality.

Europeans Watch Dem Convention but Know Little About Candidates

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign Editor

Europeans, always politically conscious, are paying increased attention to the American political scene, with special interest in this week's Democratic Convention. They like Democratic presidents, partly because the Marshall Plan which helped put Europe back on its economic feet after World War II, was instituted under a Democrat and partly because, traditionally, they feel the Democratic Party has more interest in European affairs.

They like Stevenson but know comparatively little about the policies of other potential Democratic candidates. Above all, they want the new U.S. president to be a strong leader, one, in cooperation with the European Allies, would be prepared to take a bold lead on the international scene and help toward ending the Cold War with Russia and Red China.

Cooling-off period: Don't look for a resumption of the ruptured preliminary Algerian cease-fire talks for at least several weeks. Leaders in Paris see little basis for renewed negotiations for ending the nearly six-year-old Algerian war, although they do support the possibility of some diplomatic maneuvering during August that could get talks rolling again.

If the government is going to budge on its refusal to recognize Algerian rebels as equals, August would be a good time—it's France's traditional vacation month, and most of the opposition will be out of town.

Never give up: Japanese leftists have not given up the fight against the new U.S.-Japan mutual assistance treaty although it already is part of Japanese law.

Next big forums for leftists' protests are expected to be the sixth world convention against atomic and hydrogen bombs which opens in Tokyo on Aug. 2, and the retreat of seven left-wing demonstrators in Tokyo district court.

The court case is a renewal of one in which a lower court first ruled that the old security treaty was unconstitutional and then was overruled by the Supreme Court. The Supreme Court ruling automatically threw the case back into the lower court.

Red China is facing a far more serious food shortage than it would like to be known. A nine-month drought has left Hunan, Hopei and Shansi provinces parched despite the Peking regime's determined effort to irrigate and dig wells. Typhoon Olive damaged many crops in the south. Farmers in Hunan province, the rice bowl of China, are ordered to plant terraced vegetable crops to increase the food supply. Shortages of fertilizers, which Peking admits, will lower the generally gloomy crop yields this autumn.

Five Negroes Favor Catholic for Veep

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Five Negro Democratic Convention delegates from New York City have urged both parties to name Roman Catholics as their vice presidential candidates. The group, headed by Rep. Adam Clayton Powell (D-N.Y.), said a Catholic vice president would gain the issue of religious prejudice in this year's elections. They said however "At this stage of the game" they were against Sen. John F. Kennedy, who is a Roman Catholic, for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Notes Halt in Rise of Car Stocks

DETROIT (U.S. Ward's Automotive Reports said that cutbacks in production combined with good sales have halted, at least temporarily, the rise in inventory of uncolored new cars.

Ward's said stocks of new cars in dealer's hands and in transit totaled 1,060,000 units on July 1 compared with 1,050,000 units on June 1. The figure passed the one million mark in March and had been climbing.

Production this week, Ward's said, fell to the lowest point since the week of Dec. 12, 1959. The total was estimated at 93,189 passenger cars compared with 125,968 last week and 123,147 in the similar week of 1959.

The severe drop was caused by a strike at Ford that cut Falcon and Comet output to 2,700 cars, plus vacation and inventory shut-downs that closed 13 plants. Truck production also dropped, from 23,825 last week to 13,984 this week. A year ago 25,706 trucks were built.

Like Signs Bill Giving Tax Break to Mines

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Eisenhower has signed a bill granting a new tax break to the mining industry despite the Treasury's earlier insistence that the "special tax relief" was not justified.

Eisenhower made no comment on the new law.

The measure relaxes the rules governing tax write-offs for exploration expenses which mining operators are allowed in addition to their special depletion allowances.

It permits a lifetime tax write-off of up to $400,000 for such expenses on any mine, repealing the law which hitherto has denied any such tax deductions that cannot be claimed in a four-year period. The new law retains the existing $100,000 annual limit on such write-offs.

The Treasury strongly opposed passage of the legislation. It contended the revenue loss would be "substantial."

Experts Attack Political Myths

Say Independent Voter Not Ideal, Suburbanites Do Stay Loyal

ANN ARBOR (UPI) — Political "myths" about the independent voter, the suburbs and television, were attacked by three University of Michigan political experts.

The experts, Warren E. Miller, Donald E. Stokes and Samuel H. Barnes, said there has been a prevailing notion that the independent voter is the ideal voter, since he is thought to pay a great deal of attention to issues and supposedly isn't swayed by partisan positions.

The researchers said, however, that the independent voter actually is less concerned with the issues and the candidates than is the partisan voter.

The political experts also denied the theory that people moving to the suburbs change their behavior and become Republican. They explained that "attachment to one political party is stable and most people have been a member of only one party during their lifetime."

Miller said that "both migrants into and out of the city tend to be Republican."

In discussing the advantages of political campaigning on television, Stokes said, "TV isn't as effective as it was thought to be in presenting the candidates' personalities."

"The people who relied on TV during the Eisenhower election were less likely to talk about the candidates in terms of personality," he added.

Miller and Stokes are two of the four authors of the recent book, "The American Voter."

Romania Expels Israelis

VIENNA, Austria (UP)—Romania has expelled an attaché of the Israeli Legation in Bucharest because of "activities not compatible with his diplomatic status," Radio Bucharest said Saturday. It was the second Israeli diplomat expelled by the Romanians within four months.

N.Y. Strike Rouses Weary Commuters

NEW YORK (AP) — Thousands of commuters affected by the Long Island Railroad strike got out of bed before dawn today to make their way into the city by bus, subway, taxi and car pool.

And the commuters' nightmare threatened to spread to the parent Pennsylvania Railroad.

Citybound traffic was unusually heavy on some of the roads leading in from the struck railroad's area, the city's Borough of Queens and Nassau and Suffolk counties on Long Island.

Thousands of commuters started an hour or two hours early in boarding subway trains at stations in Jamaica, Queens.

STRIKES SUNDAY

The railroad, the nation's busiest commuter line, was struck early Sunday by the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen after efforts by Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and mediators had failed to settle the pay-hours dispute.

Dem Convention Bowl Fizzes With Hot Stuff

Who Can Catch Jack? That's the Big Question

By ARTHUR EDSON

LOS ANGELES (AP)—If it's a lively, rowdy political convention you're after, this could be it.

Today, the Democrats move into the new sports arena—it looks something like a monstrous, sky-blue flying saucer at root—to pick the man they think should be the next President of the United States.

Not since 1952 have the prospects for excitement looked so good.

That was the year of the great turbulence, when the Democrats chose Adlai Stevenson and the Republicans came up with a promising political rookie, Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Both conventions were honeys. Millions who watched television, and saw politics on the grand scale for the first time, became convinced they all were like this.

Which, alas, is far from true.

Well, this convention may renew their faith.

Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.), the front runner, has been looking along impressively. His coaches loudly insist he will win in a breeze.

But if you move in close enough you may notice that Kennedy keeps looking back nervously to see if anyone is gaining on him.

The big questions to be settled here are:

Can anyone catch Kennedy? If so, who?

No one can predict what will happen when politicians converge here for a spectacular finish.

To help you understand what the shouting is all about, let's take a quick look at some of the characters you'll be seeing, hearing and reading about during the next week.

The first official voice you'll hear will belong to Paul Butler, chairman of the Democratic National Committee. He will call the convention to order.

Cartoonists still picture professional politicians as untidy heaps of lard moving slowly toward nefarious goals under cover of deep cigar smoke.

But the caricature doesn't fit Butler at all.

Butler, at 55, stays as slim as a debutante, dresses impeccably. He neither drinks nor smokes, possibly because he has to watch his health. He's a diabetic, but he whips right along, fully charged with insulin.

Theoretically, a national chairman is all things to all party men, a glad-on-the-other-hand. Butler says what he thinks, and though his views—he's for stronger civil rights, for example—often cause his fellow Democrats to cry out in horror, he's been national chairman since January 1954.

That's astonishing durability in this risky business.

The chore of getting the convention off to a whirlwind start falls on the slender shoulders of what must be the youngest looking senator in our history, Frank Church of Idaho. As temporary chairman, he will make the keynote speech.

Only three senators took office at a more boyish age than Church. He was 32 when he was sworn in three years ago. But he looked younger. Much younger.

They laughed when Church was mistaken for a Senate page but the jokers turned to applause after he stood up to speak.

Church is dark haired, a slightly built 35-pounder who stands six feet.

He tries to keep in mind that warning issued by a famous Democrat:

"Every man who comes to Washington changes," Woodrow Wilson said, "he either grows or swells."

The permanent chairman of the convention, who wields tremendous power simply by deciding whom to recognize, and when, will be Gov. Leroy Collins of Florida.

It will be a shock to see Collins as the gavel-pounder. For this handsome, graying, tall 35-year-old could never, never be confused with Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas.

Rayburn, bald, short, stern, fair—at 78 a man of tremendous dignity—had held this job so long many believed he was the permanent chairman.

This year Rayburn stepped aside for a purpose. He will manage the presidential campaign for one of his boys, Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson.

Each U.S. Senator is entitled to two tickets to the Democratic National Convention.

But How They Talk in Private Rooms

Candidates Seem to Play Bashful Roles

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Candidates at the Democratic National Convention play an almost bashful role.

Little will be seen of them personally during most of the meetings because they rarely appear at the big hall until the game is almost over.

But they won't be in hiding. Research shows that each candidate, on the average, will be interviewed 213 times during the week.

Since Kennedy is in front, let's start with him.

No man in our history has run for the presidency as reluctantly and perhaps as skillfully as Kennedy.

Modern invention, and the Kennedy millions, have made this possible.

Long ago Kennedy made a prediction.

"I may not win the nomination," he said, "but if I'm beaten, the winner will know he's been through the fight of his life."

Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri has the most nerve-tangling position of the candidates.

His plan seems to be this: He's to hang on and circulate and hope. As other candidates fade, the delegates will have to turn somewhere.

And what better final resting place than with Symington, who, at 59, has had more executive experience than all the other candidates combined?

Like all candidates, Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas loves words with which no one can quarrel. "I'm for responsible leadership," he will say belligerently. Sure enough, there won't be an anti-responsible leadership vote left in the place.

John F. Kennedy, 35, big, persuasive, hard driving, has many things going against him. Some liberals say he doesn't show enough enthusiasm for pushing their products; some conservatives blast he's not steady enough at holding the line. Any leader of a mixed crew like the senatorial Democrats is bound to have some problems.

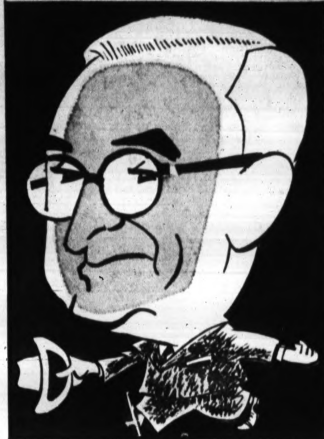

Sometimes it seems that Adlai Stevenson, like Shirley Temple, has made a career of being coy. Every time one looks up, someone is debating that great issue, is he, or isn't he, a candidate?

Well, he's back again as a "maybe so, maybe no" candidate. And his followers, faithful as ever, believe that at the first hint of a deadlock, Democrats will turn to Stevenson for a third time.

Farley Quite Sarcastic: Says Adlai Sits on Dais

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Democratic warhorse James A. Farley has taken an angry slap at the presidential aspirations of Adlai Stevenson.

Farley said that Stevenson "is prepared to accept the nomination to the presidency apparently in the belief that it is the duty of God, the Democratic Party and the American people to force it upon him."

Harry S. Truman

Joe Smith in '56?

'...to Remember You By'

By GEOFFREY GOULD

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Democrats open their political whizzing Monday. If past history is any criterion, it will be a confusing whirl of ovations, waving banners and endless speeches.

Some veteran conventioners who have attended four, five or six of these quadrennial circuses say they all tend to blur together in their memories.

Yet each convention, no matter how cut-and-dried the choosing of candidates, always seems to have some standout drama or human comedy that lingers.

Remember Joe Smith, the fictional candidate for vice president against Richard M. Nixon in 1966? Remember how Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) tried to get the floor in 1952 so he could withdraw in favor of Adlai Stevenson, and how he had to wait in discomfort until Tennessee's name was called in the balloting? Or the Puerto Rican who had the 1952 Republican convention gasping with laughter?

Something like that is likely to come out of the 1960 conventions too. To help you savvy who's on first, so to speak, here are some ABCs on what will happen this week in the Los Angeles Sports Arena.

The Democratic convention is programmed for five days.

Monday at 7 p.m. Pontiac time, National Party Chairman Paul M. Butler will call the convention to order. He had the same chore in 1956.

Then the temporary officers will be elected, and the temporary chairman—Sen. Frank Church of Idaho, will deliver the keynote address.

The first session ends with adoption of a resolution confirming nominations for the four standing convention committees, on credentials, permanent organization, rules and platform.

At Tuesday's session the temporary chairman relinquishes the gavel to the permanent chairman. This is Gov. Leroy Collins of Florida.

At Wednesday's session the platform committee will present the planks it has carpentered together for the party to stand on in the campaign. This is an important interview with an important delegate; a candidate leaves his hotel room; a critical delegation meets. All this might be happening simultaneously.

"And we always had to decide quickly," says Daly, "whether to transmit the action on the floor or another story. Whichever one we picked, that was it—the other things were lost forever."

"But now this won't happen—we can put the secondary features on tape, and run them as soon as the action permits."

Other than tape, the convention coverage basically will be the same as it was four years ago. There are no major changes contemplated.

Big Break in '60 Is Video Tape

Important task, and long months of preparation have gone into it.

Then the nominating speeches began. "A man who..." and so on.

On the fourth day the convention gets down to brass tacks. The roll calls begin to select the presidential candidate. This can be short and sweet or almost interminable.

Friday—if no lengthy deadlock develops—a cleanup day. The candidates for president and vice president make their speeches of acceptance.

Interesting Bits Will Fill In Blank Spots for Those Long Hours

NEW YORK (AP)—Planning their coverage of the 1960 political conventions, the television networks agree on one thing—video tape will be the biggest thing since the invention of the basic drum.

"Tape will do away with the lean-period-fat-period problem," says CBS' John F. Day, director of news.

"Tape will help us to cover the hard stretches," says NBC's Julian Goodman, director of news and special affairs.

"Tape relieves us of those dreadful decisions," says ABC's John Daly, vice president in charge of news.

In different words, the three networks are all talking about the same thing. The advent of tape—strictly an experimental device four years ago—is the one great change in the coverage of TV's biggest show this year.

In the multiring convention arena, action on the floor continues virtually without stopping.

A correspondent lines up an interview with an important delegate; a candidate leaves his hotel room; a critical delegation meets. All this might be happening simultaneously.

"And we always had to decide quickly," says Daly, "whether to transmit the action on the floor or another story. Whichever one we picked, that was it—the other things were lost forever."

"But now this won't happen—we can put the secondary features on tape, and run them as soon as the action permits."

Other than tape, the convention coverage basically will be the same as it was four years ago. There are no major changes contemplated.

Republican Sees It—Kennedy-Johnson

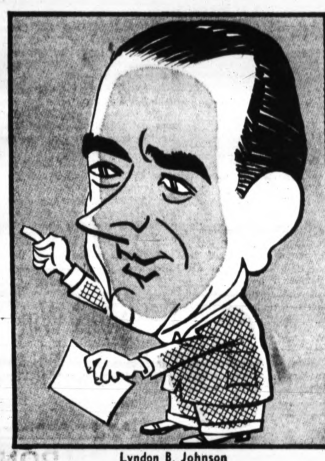

WICHITA, Kan. (AP)—The Democrats probably will send a Kennedy-Johnson ticket into the November election and "it's going to be a hard fight for us," Sen. Thurston B. Morton, Republican national chairman, believes.

But Morton predicts a Republican presidential victory—with Vice President Richard Nixon as the nominee—backed by possible GOP control of the House and strengthening of the party's Senate minority "by a few seats."

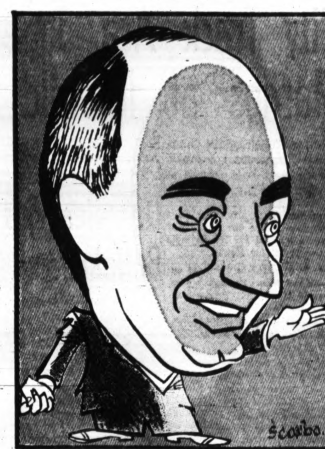

Morton said he has been convinced for some time that the Democratic National Convention, opening Monday in Los Angeles, has rigged—and I think Kennedy's got it. I think it's cut and dried."

Gov. Collins Started Out Right Way

LOS ANGELES (AP)—It wasn't low of politics, but love, which started Gov. Le Roy Collins of Florida on the career which led to his job as permanent chairman of the Democratic National Convention.

Collins wanted to marry his childhood sweetheart, Mary Call Darby.

But it took no mathematical wizard to conclude that his job in 1952 as legal clerk for the Works Progress Administration presented certain fiscal objections. He was making $54 a month.

So he ran for county prosecutor. He lost but the story has a happy ending. He married Miss Darby anyway, and two years later was elected to the Florida House of Representatives.

Collins has been a successful politician ever since so successful that, depending on who heads the Democratic ticket, he could wind up the vice presidential nominee.

On the question that haunts, and hampers, every Southern politician where do you stand on the race issue? Collins is a moderate.

"This matter of racial relations," the governor once said, "is not a Southern problem, but an American one. It is not regional, it is human."

Cannon, 81, Still on Job

LOS ANGELES (AP)—From time to time, perhaps Convention Chairman LeRoy Collins may confer with Rep. Clarence Cannon of Missouri. Cannon, at 81, is once again the convention parliamentarian.

Two contenders for the Democratic presidential nomination in former years, Sens. Richard P. Russell of Georgia and Estes E. Zeff of Tennessee will not attend this year's convention.

Hallway Only Spot for Breath of Air

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The heated race for space apparently is over at Democratic convention headquarters in the Biltmore Hotel.

Now the folks who run campaign offices are trying to solve the rooming problem.

How do you re-enter your office for a bit of work when it's jammed with delegates, well wishers and curious spectators floating from office to office?

As one wag put it, you have to step into the hallway to get a breath of air. A bent elbow can become a deadly weapon in the cramped confines of the various campaign offices.

And if the traffic continues, they'll have to pry visitors in and out with a shoe horn.

"Don't get us wrong," said Mac Roy Rason, a press aide to Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas. "We just love visitors. But we're relieved that our reception rooms finally opened downstairs today."

Stevenson and Johnson forced the most growing over space. But the national committee decision modified the Stevenson staff and Johnson people concede: "Let's face it, nobody really has adequate working space."

Volunteers by Hundreds Glad to See... Be Seen

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Far beyond the glare of spotlights and blare of trumpets, a vast army of volunteers will be scurrying like a horde of happy, hungry and helpful ants all of the 1960 Democratic convention.

No one has counted them but there must be hundreds if not thousands of volunteers—doing a variety of chores ranging from licking stamps to finding hotel rooms for delegates.

They range in prominence from Marion Brand, who will sing with other Hollywood stars in a choral group at the final session, to lady seamstresses, grade school teacher, and volunteer hostesses.

If the party had to pay for all the man-hours the volunteers donated, the Democrats would be broke before the convention started one party official commented.

With talents ranging from haughtiness to just looking pretty, the volunteers have little in common besides an enthusiasm for hard, payless work.

The Democrats have so many volunteers they had to set up a committee just to keep the eager amateurs from running into each other.

"Most of them are college students," said Carole Lasher, co-chairman of the volunteers committee. "But the ages vary from 11 to 77. They're willing to do any old thing but most of them have had no experience."

THEY'RE VOLUNTEERS—These two feminine supporters of Sen. Lyndon Johnson are examples of the volunteer workers counted on by hopefuls for the Democratic presidential nomination. They are Betty Cason of Washington, D. C., and Delores Stacks of Houston.

Dem Senators Move Offices to LA This Week

WASHINGTON (AP)—If any one yells "Senator" in Los Angeles this week, he will take a chance of being mobbed.

A check here of offices of 65 Democratic senators showed that at least 51 of them would be at the Democratic National Convention.

Several others were undecided.

Western Open, Public Links, Women's Amateur

Big Week for Golf Tournaments

Activity will be buzzing on the golf front this week.

Three major tournaments are in the offing, two on the local front and one a long ways from home involving its area players.

The annual Western Open championship, sponsored by the Western Golf Association, runs Thursday through Sunday at Detroit's Western Golf and Country Club.

Starting today and running through Friday at Flint Golf Club is the Women's Michigan Amateur Championship.

Also getting under way today at picturesque Ala Wai Golf Club in Honolulu, Hawaii, is the National Public Links tournament.

Eighteen-hole qualifying rounds are on the docket today and another 18 tomorrow at Ala Wai G. C. as 150 of the nation's finest public links golfers bid for 64 positions in match play which starts Wednesday.

The defending champion is Bill Wright of Seattle, Wash. Wright, the first Negro ever to win a national golf crown, is not exempt from the 36-hole trials, however.

Area players in the Honolulu field include Mike Anderson and Wally Smith of Honolulu, Bob McManis of Royal Oak, Ty Caplan of Plymouth, Jay Law of Harper Woods, and Avelio Juhola of Chicago.

McManis replaced Detroit's Ron Nicoll, who was unable to make the Hawaiian trip, while Juhola is substituting for Birmingham's Tim Baldwin, who passed up the national event to enter the Michigan Amateur last weekend at Port Huron.

Burly Mike Souchak heads the Western Open field, pursued closely by Art Wall Jr., who ran away from the field over the weekend with a six-stroke win in the Canadian Open at Toronto.

Repeat at City Course

It's Mrs. DeBolt, Savage

Mrs. Zada DeBolt and Stan Savage continued their mastery over the field Saturday in the annual Mixed Two-Ball Foursome golf event at Pontiac Municipal golf course.

Mrs. DeBolt, six-time women's City Medal Play champion, and Savage, one of Pontiac's leading public links golfers for several years, joined force for a five-over-par 71 to run away from everybody in the alternate tournament. It was their 2nd straight city crown.

The DeBolt-Savage team was six strokes better than the nearest rivals, Edith and Doug Wright and Mrs. R. G. (Fannie) Martell and Joe Burdett.

Mrs. Martell, a frequent winner in Women's Metropolitan tournaments, and Burdett lost to the Wrights in the battle for 2nd place.

Both teams finished with 80's and Mr. Wright, defending City Medal Play champ, and her husband gained runner-up honors in a sudden death playoff with a birdie three on the 1st extra hole.

Mrs. DeBolt and Savage played steady golf, carding 37 strokes on each side at the city links. The Wrights and Mrs. Martell and Burdett posted identical scorecards of 41-39.

Sybil Zahn and Ray Allen took 4th place with a score of 44-37-61.

A highlight of the tourney was an eagle two by Mr. and Mrs. Truman Hammett on the 12th hole.

Truman played his partner's drive and knocked a 4-iron shot into the cup for an eagle duce.

A record total of 27 teams competed in the 18-hole Scotch Foursome tourney sponsored by the Pontiac Parks and Recreation Department.

Monday's final scores:

Zada DeBolt-Stan Savage	71-37-61
Edith and Doug Wright	41-39-80
Fannie Martell-Joe Burdett	41-39-80
Sybil Zahn-Ray Allen	44-37-61

Lad Survives Plane Crash, Hikes for Aid

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP)—An 11-year-old boy survived a crash of a small plane and then, seriously injured, walked over five miles for aid.

Killed in the crash were Mrs. R. C. Sasser, mother of Randy Sasser, and R. H. Myles, 37, pilot of the plane. All were from Waycross, Ga. The single engine Comanche crashed Sunday night atop Mt. Atena, about eight miles southwest of here. Tennessee highway patrolmen said the man and woman were thrown from the plane. Wreckage was spread over some 50 square feet.

Randy, seriously injured after being thrown from the plane, staggered through heavy underbrush to a dirt road and down the mountain to the home of Xen Austin. After he told his story he was taken to a Chattanooga hospital where he was listed in fair condition with lacerations, abrasions and a possible broken leg.

City Taxes Kill Jobs, Detroit Exec Charges

DETROIT (UPI)—The general manager of the Greater Detroit Board of Commerce today charged the city's tax policies are depriving workers of jobs.

Willis Hall made the charge in today's issue of "The Detroit Free Press," the board's weekly publication.

"Until the City of Detroit takes action to correct this inequity," Hall said, "job opportunity for the workers of Detroit will continue to diminish."

Hall blasted Detroit's assessment policies on personal property, such as machinery, tools, equipment and business inventories as "manifestly inequitable, unfair and unconscionable."

Actress Dora Settles RKO Suit at $200,000

LOS ANGELES—British actress Diana Dora has settled her $1,275,000 suit against RKO Pictures, Inc. for $200,000, court aides reported.

Miss Dora, 28, filed the suit in February of last year, claiming the studio had agreed to pay her $200,000 upon canceling two movies in which she was to star. She said the studio not only refused to pay but also defamed her.

It'll Be Like a Musical With Politics Added

Movie Stars to Air Talent at Conclave

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—It's only a dozen miles from Hollywood to the site of the Democratic National Convention. So, naturally, the big show will take on some trappings of the glamor capital. It's not like the old days, when Hollywood was virtually an FDR-free zone. Many wealthy and fairly settled towns, Hollywood now leans toward the Republicans. But there are still enough Democratic stars to give the convention a glittering look.

Tonight's opening session will see a star-spangled chorus singing the national anthem on TV. Among the chorists: Ralph Bellamy, Nat King Cole, Tony Curtis, George Jessel, Peter Lawford, Shirley Maclaine, Lee Marvin, Sherree North, Vincent Price, Barbara Rush, Frank Sinatra, Sammy Davis Jr., Shelley Winters and Jan Sterling.

The man who corralled the talent and prepared the entertainment is veteran screen writer Allen Rivkin, director of the Democrats' Art Council.

"We're not going to give the delegates a lot of entertainment at the sports arena," he explained. "They're here for business; they can get entertainment elsewhere. The main thing we provide is a musical frame for the sessions. We'll have the national anthem at the beginning and at the end, too, following some spirituals. I've seen the English sing their anthem at the beginning and close of their public events, and it's a good system."

Helping to complete the frame will be the 35-piece brass band that also plays for the Los Angeles Rams, plus Gaylord Carter at the mighty organ. They'll no doubt be belaboring TV and radio listeners with the convention's official 1960 tune, "Walkin' down to Washington." Described by Dem musical director Johnny Green as a "swinger," it goes:

"I'm walkin' down to Washington. 'Like we used to do!' 'Hosannah! Hosannah!'" Catchy? The arts committee hopes so. It also lined up Milton Berle and George Jessel to emcee the twig banquet at the Beverly Hilton Sunday night. Among the high-priced talent engaged for free: Sinatra, Davis, Judy Garland, Mort Sahl.

The big, big show, as Ed Sullivan might say, comes this Friday when the nominees make their acceptance speeches in the Coliseum. The Democrats are hoping to fill the big bowl to its 107,000 capacity.

If the history-making event isn't enough as bait, they'll also provide everything from a Japanese girl drum corps and Virgin Islands steel band to the Los Angeles police motorcycle drill team performing to the tune of "Dragoon." Dum-dum-dum, remember?

Also on the program are Mort Sahl, Steve Allen's jazz combo and Edward G. Robinson reading Whitman's "Thou mother with thy equal brood." Finishing with a bell effect. All this and the two candidates too.

It's going to be quite a week.

NAZI ARRESTED—A member of the American Nazi Party squares off with doubled fists as he is held by a policeman and a detective Sunday at a downtown Washington rally held by George Lincoln Rockwell, self-styled leader of the Nazi group. The unidentified youth was arrested without incident after the rally when he shouted at police from his car. There was a bit of heckling at the rally but no other disturbances.

State Politics in Full Swing

Bentley Gives Picnic; Hare, Connor Stumping Outstate Areas

By The Associated Press
Many of Michigan's political leaders were in Los Angeles for the Democratic Convention today, but there is a flurry of action on the state political scene.

At Owosso, more than 1,000 picnickers went to the Conservation Camp grounds Sunday to attend "The Bentley Summer Festival."

The festival was an all-day rally staged by hometown supporters of Rep. Alvin M. Bentley (R-Mich). Bentley is a candidate for the GOP nomination for the U.S. Senate.

Bentley, pleased by the large crowd, kissed babies, tried unsuccessfully to catch a greased pig and greeted a convoy of more than 50 cars filled with his supporters from the Detroit area.

The Bentley supporters made plans at the picnic to invade the Detroit area before the Aug. 2 primary to stage demonstrations in behalf of their candidate.

At North Manitowish Island, Secretary of State James Hare, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, Sunday met all four voters in the island's only precinct.

Hare flew to Tiny Island which is off Michigan's little finger and is a voting precinct in itself. The four registered voters have to cast absentee ballots because the island is about a half-day boat ride from the mainland.

Edward D. Connor, a Detroit city councilman and another candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, visited Manistowish Sunday and spoke to officers of locals making up the Western Michigan District Council, Region 7, Allied Industrial Workers.

Connor told the unionists one of his opponents for the nomination was trying to create the "false impression" that labor is behind him.

Connor did not name the candidate. Others seeking the nomination are Hare and Lt. Gov. John Swainson.

If a man is unhappy at home he should try to find out if it's because his wife is married to a grouch. . . . The reason so many people are in debt is that they spend as much money as they tell people they make. Earl Wilson.

Jonah Free Fair Grounds Undergoes Renovation

IONIA (UPI) — A $30,000 lighting and renovating project has been completed at the Ionia Free Fair Grounds track, and a 100-mile race for new and late-model stock cars will test the project July 17.

It was announced the purse for the run over a new clay surface would be about $5,300.

Dem Conventionites Brag About 'Greatest' Publicity

By BOB THOMAS
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Is the Democratic National Convention the most-covered news event of all time?

The Democrats are saying it is, and this may be one political claim that is true. When you get 5,000 people putting out a news story, that ought to be a record.

"There may have been more newsmen reporting a war in all its theaters, but I doubt it," says Sam Brightman, chief of press arrangements for the Democrats.

The Democratic war has attracted correspondents from around the globe, including two from Tass. Also covering for the Iron Curtain are the Polish Press Agency and the Czechoslovakia News Agency.

All 50 states are represented among the 450 newspapers accredited to cover the convention. Staffs range from the 100-plus of the Associated Press to a correspondent from the Anchorage Times.

Seventy foreign newspapers and agencies are represented, including those of Austria, Australia, Canada, England (biggest foreign group), Formosa, India, Indonesia, Japan, Yugoslavia, Israel, Ireland, Germany, France, Italy, Switzerland and Viet-Nam.

Brightman, a former Lancaster, Mo., boy and St. Louis reporter, has been working on press arrangements for a year and a half. As deputy chairman for public affairs, he has the double duty of accrediting the press and handling party publicity.

"It has been a headache," he sighed between phone calls. "We try to take care of as many press men as we can. We've done what we can for Negro press, weeklies, labor press, even college papers, but we have to draw the line somewhere. We've had to turn away from 300 to 400. Things would get out of hand if we didn't."

Aiding Brightman with his headache are the gallery organizations of the Congress. Joe Wills, long-time superintendent of the Senate Press Gallery, has charge of making up the list of accredited press. "The biggest problem is seating at the Sports Arena," Wills said. "We have 1,500 requests and 900 seats. Somebody's going to be unhappy."

The big show hasn't started yet, but so far the press seems to be content with the way things are being run.

Press rooms have been set up in the two lower floors of the Hotel Biltmore and others are scattered inside the Sports Arena and in a tent outside. Brightman says the facilities are the best so far, at conventions.

Some people are bound to go away unhappy. William Perry, superintendent of the House peritronics gallery and overseer of the 400-600 magazine newsmen, told of having to turn down one self-styled publisher. He said his magazine would start publication next month.

Kennedy Looks Like a Sure Thing

Cuba Asks U.N. to Look Into Its Feud With U.S.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Cuba today requested a meeting of the U.N. Security Council to consider the worsening dispute between Cuba and the United States.

Urban Renewal Funds Are Cut

Civic Center Parking Building Hardest Hit by Administration

Budget funds for downtown Pontiac parking and widening of Auburn avenue were cut by the Urban Renewal Administration (URA) in reaching a gross project cost of $6,184,658 for the city's first urban renewal effort.

Harshest hit was the proposed one-million-dollar parking structure proposed for the southwest corner of the expanded Civic Center, reported Robert A. Stier, assistant city manager and urban renewal coordinator.

The city had asked the URA to bear 65 per cent of the cost, but the URA allowed only 30 per cent federal credit, Stier said, meaning that it will cost the city an extra $125,000 in local funds to put up the building.

The URA also denied any funds for the proposed widening of Auburn (M 218), east of Park until the State Highway Department commits itself to the job.

The denial requested for most of a $254,873 slash in the funds the city accounted for land purchase.

Final budget figures approved by the URA were under study today at City Hall.

"Of course the budget figures are still estimates," observed Stier. "We can seek reduction in the project proceeds. The budget will remain flexible until the project is finished."

Stier said first land purchases in the five-year effort are expected as early as September if the URA speedily approves appraisal prices currently being assigned to the 367 parcels slated for acquisition.

Stier said that funds for Auburn avenue widening may still be forthcoming if the State Highway Department allows the job.

"We are still discussing road plans with the highway department," he noted.

Stier emphasized that the URA budget fits in with the city's plans for a downtown loop highway and elimination of the Orchard Lake avenue-Auburn avenue jog at Saginaw street.

The URA budget slash — as reported earlier — looked almost $300,000 off the gross project cost.

When the city submitted its final budget request in May, it was asking for a project with a gross cost of $6,489,000 and a net cost of $3,735,352.

The $6,184,658 project approved carries a net cost of $3,628,576.

The gross cost includes all outlay for land, buildings, and public improvements. Resale of land to private developers is expected to offset the gross cost by about $3,750,000.

The URA has approved a grant of $2,260,317 to offset two-thirds of the net cost plus another $127,245 to cover all relocation expenses. The two sums equal $2,437,562.

The city is to cover the other one-third of the net cost in the form of the public improvements slated for the project.

Cutbacks in the budget reduced the city's authorized share in the project from the requested $1,243,110 to $1,090,095. The city could spend more for it if it wants to, but as things stand now it wouldn't get credit for more as far as the two-thirds split of the net cost is concerned.

Ike Again Tells Reds We Won't Retreat on Cuba

Will Ask for Money to Mount Aid Program for Latin America

NEWPORT, R.I. (UPI) — President Eisenhower gave the Soviet Union a second warning today that the United States will not bow to any missile threat in meeting Communist infiltration of Cuba.

He also announced from the summer White House he will ask Congress for money to finance a bold new mutual aid program in Latin America to combat the economic seeds of Red encroachment.

Almost simultaneously, Cuba opened a new anti-American diplomatic offensive by formally requesting a session of the United Nations Security Council on U.S.-Cuban relations.

There were hints from Havana that America's Guantanamo Naval Base in Cuba might be headed for trouble.

Meeting newsmen after two emergency conferences with Secretary of State Christian A. Herter, Eisenhower gave these answers to weekend threats from Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev and Cuba's Fidel Castro.

"The administration stands by the President's firm declaration Saturday that missile threats will not deter the United States in shielding this hemisphere from international communism."

"The worsening Cuban crisis is being discussed every day. But for the time being we saw no reason to disclose any major moves. Officials had said previously, however, that a pan-American quarantine was under consideration."

"Dictatorships in Latin America — such as that of Fidel Castro — will eventually end in Latin America and that the area faces a period of change. But the interests of the people will be better served if that change is effected constructively and peacefully, not violently."

"To help Latin Americans help themselves, I shall seek authority for such public funds as we may deem appropriate to assist free men and neighbors in efforts in cooperative efforts to develop their nations and achieve better lives." He said he will do so "promptly."

Eisenhower spelled out his dramatic plan and some of its proposals are drastic — in a 1,000 word declaration that "we must help find constructive means for the underprivileged masses of mankind to work their way toward a better life."

JOE CHATS WITH JACK — Veteran Pontiac Press staff writer Joe Haas (right foreground) plowed his way through a huge welcoming crowd in Los Angeles Saturday to ask a few questions of Massachusetts Sen. John F. Kennedy, leading contender for the Democratic presidential nomination. Haas is at the national convention, daily sending back the latest on the goings on to Press readers.

Ike's Spirit—It Haunts Dems as They Seek a New Barkley

By JOE HAAS
LOS ANGELES — With the kickoff of their national convention so near at hand, the Democrats look worried. This is in spite of a four-year course in not running scared, which they've been teaching to their cohorts in every precinct in the United States. Their schooling is to claim everything.

They're worried about a specter. And quite paradoxically, it is the specter of a living man. He swept them off their feet in 1952 and did it again in 1956. His name is Ike.

He's now politically dead, with the final obsequies set for next Jan. 29. But that specter is a forbidding and nasty thing. It has the potential of a bad dream, even a nightmare that will come to a focus in the early hours of the night of Nov. 8.

Rejoice, the biggest task in the whole political world today falls on the shoulders of the convention's keynote speaker, Frank Church of Idaho. Can he be big enough to win the job? Democratic leaders claim he is.

Loved by everybody, regarded by political affiliates, Albert Barkley is dead. In my humble opinion, the Democrats never better had a man his equal, and perhaps never will again. The respect for his honesty and candor even exceeded the admiration for his oratory. I was there and could those moments among the most highly valuable of my life.

Four years ago that gigantic task of keynote was accorded to Governor Frank Clement of Tennessee. He had a golden voice, a laudable wit, and a certain charm. He made a strong effort, but the delegates had Barkley visions.

Stevenson again was named, despite the opposition of Harry Truman, James Seifried, 23, of 1732 E. Grand, Hazel Park.

Symington Near Ready to Throw in the Sponge

By JACK BELL
LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Democratic National Convention opens today with Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts booked solidly as a sure shot for the party's presidential nomination.

Barring some unforeseen last-hour development, Kennedy seemed likely to walk away with the coveted prize in balloting beginning Wednesday. Whether he would take it on the first count still was somewhat problematical. But that he would take it there remained little doubt.

Credited rivals kept their campaigns going. But Adlai E. Stevenson, a two-time winner of jackpots in this political gamble, said he was willing to accept a "runner-up" as a consolation prize.

There were some rather strong indications that supporters of Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.) were about to throw in the sponge. They denied this, of course, but the seeming futility of opposing the Kennedy juggernaut impressed itself deeply on some Symington backers.

Steve Langmade, Arizona national committeeman, told a reporter he understands consideration is being given in the Symington camp to releasing the 101 convention votes supporters claim the Missouri senator has mailed down on the first ballot.

Any such action could be a fatal blow to the efforts of Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson.

Lake Orion, Oxford in School Election

Voters in Lake Orion and Oxford school districts were going to the polls today to elect Board of Education members.

In Lake Orion, where 15 candidates were competing for four Board positions, there were two proposals on the ballot.

Five persons were running for two newly created four-year terms and two sought election to the single three-year vacancy open in Oxford.

On the Lake Orion ballot was a request to authorize a $400-a-year salary to Board members filling newly created four-year terms. The other proposal requests permission to sell three acres of school district property on East Flint street.

The $6,184,658 project approved carries a net cost of $3,628,576.

The gross cost includes all outlay for land, buildings, and public improvements. Resale of land to private developers is expected to offset the gross cost by about $3,750,000.

The URA has approved a grant of $2,260,317 to offset two-thirds of the net cost plus another $127,245 to cover all relocation expenses. The two sums equal $2,437,562.

The city is to cover the other one-third of the net cost in the form of the public improvements slated for the project.

Cutbacks in the budget reduced the city's authorized share in the project from the requested $1,243,110 to $1,090,095. The city could spend more for it if it wants to, but as things stand now it wouldn't get credit for more as far as the two-thirds split of the net cost is concerned.

1st Two Drownings Occur in Area Sunday

The first two drownings of the summer occurred in Oakland County Sunday afternoon.

The victims were Thomas Phillips Jr., 13, of 1968 Rensselaer St., Livonia, and James E. Ashcroft, 23, of 63 W. Kenneth St., Madison Heights.

The Phillips boy was swimming with friends at Dodge State Park No. 4 on Cass Lake when he became tired while playing water tag about 1:00 p.m. if on shore, according to Pontiac state police.

Phillips and his friends had been told not to go swimming with friends at Dodge State Park No. 4 on Cass Lake when he suddenly shouted for help, according to his companion, James Seifried, 23, of 1732 E. Grand, Hazel Park.

Seifried told Troy police that he reached Ashcroft, but lost him in the deep water after attempting to pull him to shore. The victim's work, or will he cattle around in the water when he suddenly shouted for help, according to his companion, James Seifried, 23, of 1732 E. Grand, Hazel Park.

the last act on the how, lectured the Democrats about the souring condition of a world in which Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev can threaten to launch rockets against this country if it interferes in Cuba's undulating affairs.

All of this generated a lot of enthusiasm among local Democrats who had planned down $100 a plate for the lunch-raising dinner. But its effect on the outcome of the convention itself was obviously not very great.

Despite brave statements by his rivals, Kennedy continued to fence them in. While they talked of delegate gains, he battered down the barriers to an early nomination.

California and its 51-vote delegation was one of these. With what his critics called characteristic indecision, Gov. Edmund G. Brown announced he is backing Kennedy. Brown said the delegates could go their independent ways.

But he later denied that this constituted a release from their pledge to vote for him on the first ballot. The delegation put off until Tuesday any plot of sentimentality that is usually daily decided it would amount to at least 60 votes for Kennedy toward the 76 he needs for the nomination.

The decision of California and some other states could make the Kennedy-Kennedy match.

On-Again, Off-Again HST Off

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The 1960 Democratic National Convention opens today without Harry S. Truman.

The former president, who quit as a Missouri delegate July 2 and then wavered when asked to change his mind, finally decided Sunday to stay away from the proceedings.

But there was a slight possibility he might turn up at least one of the sidelines.

When asked if he intended to visit Los Angeles during the convention, Truman said, "I have nothing further to say. I said, in statement, issued earlier in the day, spoke for itself."

In that statement, phoned to his aides here from Independence, Mo., Truman said: "I must stand by my original decision and the statement I made at the press conference July 2 in Independence."

"I am as sorry as I can be about the situation. Let me say again there is nothing personal about my attitude."

"But I cannot lend myself to what is happening."

At the July 2 news conference, Truman had said, in effect, that the convention was rigged in favor of Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts. Because of that, Truman said, he could not attend the convention as a delegate.

CHAIN-REACTION COLLISIONS

The trouble with stopping is that people behind you frequently run into you. This is because they did not expect you to stop; you can stop quicker than they can, or they do not give themselves enough time and space. When driving in a line of vehicles be alert for sudden stops and allow more recovery space ahead. Any driver may stop at any time for a few seconds. When he looks ahead and discovers the car in front of him stopped, you can expect him to stop his car in an attempt to keep from hitting the car ahead.

Battle Creek Branch Protests State Chief's 'Interference'

BATTLE CREEK (AP)—Group of former officers and board members of the Battle Creek branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People have charged that State President Edward Turner improperly interfered in local affairs.

Mrs. Evelyn Golden, former president of the Battle Creek branch, said yesterday a protest has been sent to the NAACP Executive Secretary Roy Wilkins, in New York.

She said the letter also protested against an order from the national office last April that the 800-member Battle Creek branch should picket certain chain stores here to show support for all-in demonstrations against segregated lunch counters in the South.

The local branch had voted by a large majority not to picket. But some members joined in picketing activities and were supported by the state president in Detroit, Mrs. Golden said.

She and other local board officers appealed to Wilkins for a ruling on jurisdiction, claiming that the state president had violated local branch autonomy.

Mrs. Golden said she and 30 other resigned June 10 because there was no reply from Wilkins. So far, no election has been scheduled to replace them.

Detroit Kadans Writes Kennedy For Second Spot

Already a candidate for Congress, Detroit attorney Joseph Kadans announced today he is setting his sights on a higher goal: the Democratic vice presidency nomination.

Kadans, 47, one of six Democrats seeking the 19th Congressional District nomination Aug. 2, has written Sen. John F. Kennedy, presently the leading running contender for the presidential nomination, asking him to consider him for the second spot.

"I am so sorry as I can be about the situation. Let me say again there is nothing personal about my attitude."

At the July 2 news conference, Truman had said, in effect, that the convention was rigged in favor of Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts. Because of that, Truman said, he could not attend the convention as a delegate.

Congolese Surround 69 U.S. Missionaries

From Our News, Wires

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo — A group of 69 American missionaries was reported surrounded by mutinous Congolese soldiers today in Katanga Province as more thousands of whites fled from this riot-ridden new African republic.

Radio reports reaching Nairobi, Kenya, said the American missionaries had pleaded for helicopters to get them out of their plight in an area near the Lualaba River about 80 miles from the border of the Congo.

The Congo government has asked the United Nations to intervene and restore order in the Katanga territory. Belgian Minister Ganshof Van de Meersch said today.

The appeal was forwarded yesterday after talks between U.S. Ambassador Clare Timberlake, President Joseph Kasavubu, Premier Patrice Lumumba and Dr. Leopoldville.

And it is certain that the platform adopted by the Republicans at Chicago will do as far as all out as the Democrats do here. In some ways the party that holds its convention first is at a disadvantage, as it gives the opposition the opportunity to do some more profitable promising—if that eventually means anything.

Democrat wheel horses here tell me that they now have a total of 775 active college Democratic clubs in the nation, more than twice the number they had in the 1956 campaign. And they now are being formed at the rate of over a dozen a day.

"We'll have a thousand such clubs before election day," says one of its nationwide promoters. If the Republicans have any such elaborate program, they're not saying much about it. If they don't join after the young vote in an aggressive way, that balance of power in the Democrats' favor may decide who is to occupy the White House when the lease of life and Mamie expires on Jan. 20.

The hand of Eleanor Roosevelt is everywhere apparent here. It is almost as if she's grooming a son—she has 'em in both parties—to carry that magical name at the head of a White House—boudoir. The dyed-in-the-wool Democrats still speak of her as the nation's "first lady," and she shows all of the family's sagacity in a political way.

No matter who wins the nomination, the banner makers are having a profitable field day. The campaign headquarters of every candidate I've seen seemed bannermen stacked back to put on a desperate case that you may be able to hear in Pontiac, when augmented with the noise and music makers.

Speaking of convention music, I'm reminded of an item in a Chicago paper about an effort at the Democratic convention three years ago. It said, "A string quartet played Brahms in booming his brasses. There were two hoars—the candidate and Brahms."

Getting into the spirit of the thing, I'm quite agreeable with the statement in one of today's Los Angeles papers: "Never in their most flamboyant days did the combined Barnum-Baileys-Ringling circus ever produce anything like the Democratic convention that is opening here. We asked for it. We've done our part. Now let 'em rave. If they survive and we survive, we'll ask them to come again."

Reilly, general manager of the Ford Motor Co. Steel Division, was dead on arrival at William Beaumont General Hospital, Royal Oak, Saturday, after a heart attack.

A 32 caliber revolver was next to his body when he was found by two of his son at their home.

A Rosary will be said today at 8 p.m. at the Bell Chapel of the William R. Hamilton Co. Burial will be in Holy Sepulchre Cemetery in Southfield.

He is survived by his wife, Marian, three sons, William, Philip and Dr. Richard Reilly, and three daughters, Joan, Judith and Rita, and a sister, Mrs. Paul Farragher.

Business Group Asking Three Traffic Changes

BIRMINGHAM — Three recommendations from the Central Business District Development Committee to improve the general circulation of traffic in the downtown district here will be received by the City Commission tonight.

Asking that the City Commission take action as soon as possible, Wilbur R. Mason, chairman of the committee, in a letter, requested the city to:

1. Correct the present jog in traffic caused by the offset between Willets Street and Oakland Avenue where they intersect Woodward Avenue.
2. Correct the present jog in traffic caused by the offset between Brown Street and Forest Avenue where they intersect Woodward Avenue.
3. Remove parking at the curb on the north side of Maple Avenue from Chester Street to Hunter Boulevard from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m.

A public hearing on the road oiling of Warwick from Henley to Abbey streets is due today at 2 p.m. at the City Commission meeting.

Assessments spread against residents along the street will be reviewed at the hearing.

Joseph Mass for Joseph Barzax, 88, of 1315 N. Woodward Ave., Bloomfield Hills, will be said Tuesday at 9 a.m. at St. Elizabeth Chapel, Bloomfield Hills. Burial will be in Mt. Hope Cemetery, Pontiac.

The body will be at the Manley Bailey Funeral Home until 8 a.m. Tuesday.

Mr. Barzax died Sunday after a long illness.

He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Barzax.

Gospelists in Shelter, Wait for Directions

BENSON, Ariz. (UPI) — About 120 members of a small religious sect started their second week hidden in underground bomb shelters today, convinced the United States soon will be destroyed in a nuclear war.

The Lord told us to go in and hide when we hear the sound of the trumpet, said Glen Scott, a spokesman for the Full Gospel Assembly.

The Lord told us there would be an attack," he said. "Like Noah, we can stay in 40 days."

It took a police officer and a psychiatrist nearly an hour to persuade Wolfe to retreat to the roof from the precarious perch he had maintained in full view of more than 3,500 horrified persons on the downtown streets below.

Rescued, Wolfe said he was dependent over the breakup of his marriage of 18 months. His wife, Marjorie, 17, had disappeared a week ago after a quarrel.

The psychiatrist, Dr. J. Jerome Fine, said Mrs. Johnson believed that a reunion with his wife would have a good effect on Wolfe.

After visiting the hospital Sunday, Mrs. Johnson said her son was still despondent.

"If his wife would return — if only just so he could see her once — I believe it would help," she said.

Students Hunt Oil in Hurry

By JIM LONG

Five young Michigan State University geology students wound up a reconnaissance survey for oil in Oakland County today.

Oakland is the 15th county to be surveyed by the team from the school's geophysics department. They will spend the entire summer studying 61 of the state's 83 counties.

"Looking for oil is a general term we use when asked what we're doing," said Howard Meyer, 24, who is heading the geology team.

"Actually we can't tell anything by the readings we take. All we do is take the readings from instruments and send them to Lansing where they are all correlated and placed on a map," Meyer said.

The job of mapping out the gathered information will be made available to Dr. William Hinze, head of the MSU Geo-Physics Department, he said.

"Even then we won't be able to definitely say that oil is in a specific spot, about all that can be said is that one location may be better than another in oil deposits."

Meyer estimated that it will take at least two years before all the information will be made available to the State. The survey was set up with a grant from the National Science Foundation, he said.

COVER ITS MILES A DAY

The youths who have been on the road about 18 days, travel in a geology department panel and a station wagon belonging to the National Science Foundation. Each day they travel about 175 miles in taking readings at different locations.

At night they sleep in the open in sleeping bags wherever it is convenient.

"The Conservation Department allows us to use their facilities wherever they're handy," Meyer said.

He said the survey should be completed by the time "just about the time school opens in September."

The survey is only being made in the Lower Peninsula, he said, since it is known that there is no oil in the rocks of the Upper Peninsula.

Next stop for the team is Macomb County. From there they will go into Wayne. However, Detroit is not included in the survey.

The four other students in the team are Jim Lowden, 24, of Plymouth; Donald Hill, 19, of Okemos; Jim Carroll, 20, of Dearborn; and Sam Alquist, 25, of Plainville.

IN SEARCH OF OIL - Two members of a five-man geology team from Michigan State University, Don Hill and Jim Lowden, take readings on a magnetometer in their preliminary search for oil deposits throughout the state. The crew is taking a survey of the entire Lower Peninsula.

Police Brutality Charge Being Probed in Ferndale

FERNDALE - Investigation of charges by a father of two that he was brutally beaten by four Ferndale police officers last Thursday will be completed by town tomorrow, according to Police Chief Neil J. McGillis.

Alvin Barnes, 36, 5111 Vestal St., claims he was kicked and beaten by four officers who were on duty at the time he was arrested for being booked on a larceny charge.

Two witnesses outside the police department have yet to be questioned, said Chief McGillis, who is conducting the probe.

Alvin Barnes, 36, 5111 Vestal St., claims he was kicked and beaten with a heavy object, possibly a pistol butt, shortly after he escaped from the Ferndale police station while being booked on a larceny charge.

He was to appear at 2 p. m. today in Municipal Court to stand trial.

According to Barnes, he was standing near a restaurant at the corner of Vestal street and Woodward avenue, waiting for a friend, Charles McDonald, 20, of 8750 W. Saratoga St., Oak Park, when a patrol car with four policemen pulled up.

Barnes said Patrolman William Dingman asked him to move away from the corner. Barnes said he went into a nearby building alley where he waited while Barnes McDonald was waiting for him.

The patrol car pulled up a second time, Barnes said, and they both were arrested for loitering.

While being booked at the station, Barnes bolted out the door. He said he was pursued by three officers and that several shots were fired at him during the chase.

After running through alleys and backyards he decided to surrender and stood up with his arms raised.

Choice Seating Just Fought to Five States

LOS ANGELES (UPI) - Delegates from California, Maryland, New York, New Jersey and Alaska have the prize from row center seats at the National Democratic Convention.

But a spokesman for the host committee, which was not a political maneuvering involved in allocating the seats.

"There is no rhyme or reason—it's like a jigsaw puzzle," said Glenn Wilson, California committee member for the committee. "We just looked to see where the delegations fit best numerically."

Mancini-Mussen Rites Held

MILFORD—Holy Name Church in Birmingham was the setting for the 11 a. m. wedding Saturday of Mary Lee Mussen and Dr. Rudolph A. Mancini.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Mussen, 5005 Hill road Dr., wore a floor-length Bianchi original of white silk mist over satin with a chapel train flowing from the waist in soft, unpressed pleats.

The groom's bodice was hand appliqued with crystal and seed pearls and had a scoop neck-line and short sleeves.

Her silk illusion veil fell from a large white rose centered in diamond shaped petals. She carried a bouquet of white roses and rosebuds.

Jet Backwash Hurls Ladder Through Window

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—The backwash from a jet airliner hurtling through a plate glass window in the terminal building at Love Field yesterday. Five persons were treated for cuts and bruises as a hospital and released.

A spokesman for American Airlines said one of its Boeing-707 jets—Flight 22 to Chicago—was taxiing away from the loading ramp when the backwash sent the ladder tumbling into the window.

Clarkston Area Drive to Start This Fall

CLARKSTON—Chairman of the United States National Park Service, Clarkston, Ala., is already in the planning stages for this year's campaign scheduled to start early this fall.

Clarkston already have laid the groundwork for one of the most intensive fund drives in the county. According to Mrs. Harry Farmer, women's division chairman.

Working with her in this year's campaign are Lewis E. West, Clarkston general campaign chairman; Mrs. Margaret Libby, women's division secretary for the Clarkston Area United Fund; and Karl Bradley, executive director.

Within the next few weeks, West plans to have selected a commercial division chairman and Mrs. Farmer will have appointed her chairman.

The generally chairman will divide the town into three divisions and an area chairman will be appointed for each. This chairman then divides his territory into subsections with a captain for each area.

The captains will attend the kickoff dinner, pick up their campaign material and deliver it to each worker.

At the close of the campaign, they will pick up the envelopes and give the money to local United Fund Treasurer Robert L. Jones, vice president of the Clarkston State Bank.

Agencies receiving funds from the Clarkston Area United Fund through Independence Township include the Independence Recreation Fund, Michigan Cancer Foundation, American Red Cross, Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts, Children's Aid Society, Oakland County Child Guidance Clinic, St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Civil Service Agency, Catholic Social Services and Boy Scouts in the township.

More than 12,500 passenger cars are being used for driving instruction in U.S. schools.

Glides 200 Miles; Due to Win Award

TROY - Big Beaver Airport here was the starting point of a more adventurous glider trip by a Detroit pilot who soared nonstop Saturday to Welland, Ont.

The pilot, Charles K. Hauke, 45, is expected to receive the highest award given by the Federation Aeronautique Internationale for his glider feat.

After leaving the field here, it took Hauke seven hours to complete his trip in a German L-39A-55 glider. He qualified for the international aerobically fed-eration's Diamond Award by accomplishing a trip longer than 150 miles.

Hauke, a certified public accountant, has been gliding during the past 12 years, and is a member of the Michigan Soaring Assn.

Clarkston Area Drive to Start This Fall

CLARKSTON—Chairman of the United States National Park Service, Clarkston, Ala., is already in the planning stages for this year's campaign scheduled to start early this fall.

Clarkston already have laid the groundwork for one of the most intensive fund drives in the county. According to Mrs. Harry Farmer, women's division chairman.

Working with her in this year's campaign are Lewis E. West, Clarkston general campaign chairman; Mrs. Margaret Libby, women's division secretary for the Clarkston Area United Fund; and Karl Bradley, executive director.

Within the next few weeks, West plans to have selected a commercial division chairman and Mrs. Farmer will have appointed her chairman.

The generally chairman will divide the town into three divisions and an area chairman will be appointed for each. This chairman then divides his territory into subsections with a captain for each area.

The captains will attend the kickoff dinner, pick up their campaign material and deliver it to each worker.

At the close of the campaign, they will pick up the envelopes and give the money to local United Fund Treasurer Robert L. Jones, vice president of the Clarkston State Bank.

Agencies receiving funds from the Clarkston Area United Fund through Independence Township include the Independence Recreation Fund, Michigan Cancer Foundation, American Red Cross, Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts, Children's Aid Society, Oakland County Child Guidance Clinic, St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Civil Service Agency, Catholic Social Services and Boy Scouts in the township.

More than 12,500 passenger cars are being used for driving instruction in U.S. schools.

Expels and PACS Strike Rouses Political Myths Weary Commuters

Say Independent Voter
Not Ideal, Suburbanites
Do Stay Loyal

ANN ARBOR (UPI) — Political "myths" about the independent voter, the suburbs and television were attacked by three University of Michigan political experts.

The experts, Warren E. Miller, Donald E. Stokes and Samuel H. Barnes, said there has been a prevailing notion that the independent voter is the ideal voter, since he is thought to pay a great deal of attention to issues and supposedly isn't swayed by partisan positions.

The researchers said, however, that the independent voter actually is less concerned with the issues and the candidates than is the partisan voter.

The political experts also denied the theory that people moving to the suburbs change their behavior and become Republican. They explained that "attachment to one political party is stable and most people have been a member of only one party during their lifetime."

Miller said that "both migrants into and out of the city tend to be Republican."

In discussing the advantages of political campaigning on television, Stokes said, "TV isn't as effective as it was thought to be in presenting the candidates' personalities."

"The people who relied on TV during the Eisenhower election were less likely to talk about the candidates in terms of personality," he added.

Miller and Stokes are two of the four authors of the recent book, "The American Voter."

Romania Expels Israeli

VIENNA, Austria (AP)—Romania has expelled an attaché of the Israeli Legation in Bucharest because of activities not compatible with his diplomatic status. Radio Bucharest said Saturday. He was the second Israeli diplomat expelled by the Romanians within four months.

NEW YORK (AP) — Thousands of commuters affected by the Long Island Railroad strike got out of bed before dawn today to make their way into the city by bus, subway, taxi and car pool.

The strikers include 1,350 trainmen and workers in several other job categories.

Citybound traffic was unusually heavy on some of the roads leading in from the struck railroad's area, the city's Borough of Queens and Nassau and Suffolk counties on Long Island. Thousands of commuters started an hour or two hours early in boarding subway trains at stations in Jamaica, Queens.

STUCK SUNDAY

The railroad, the nation's busiest commuter line, was struck early Sunday by the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen after efforts by Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and mediators had failed to settle the pay-hours dispute.

There'll Be Some Ding-a-Ling Days in LA This Week

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The telephone company estimates it installed a million dollars worth of special equipment for the Democratic National Convention.

A company spokesman said he expected 22,000 calls a day over the 400 extra telephones installed at the headquarters hotel and the Sports Arena.

In addition, Pacific Telephone & Telegraph expects a half million words of news copy a day to flow throughout the world from 350 teletype machines. An estimated 1,000 wire pictures are expected to be sent each day to newspapers and magazines in the United States.

Soo-Canada Bridge Looms Possible

ST. IGNACE (UPI)—Laurie Rubin, executive secretary of the International Bridge Authority, says he is "optimistic" about securing financing for a proposed international bridge between the U.S. and Canada at Sault Ste. Marie.

According to Rubin, the authority expects to effect the sale of bonds by late July or early August.

The authority has been working with financial advisers since 1954 and six companies are expected to initially purchase the bonds for distribution.

This includes four New York, one Chicago and one Detroit firm.

"We think we'll get it done," said Rubin.

Grain Futures Mart Firms Up Slightly

CHICAGO (AP) — The grain futures market swung slightly to the firm side today in moderately weak and soybeans mixed.

Brokers said there was a surprising small volume of trading in wheat and that prices were bid up by commercial buyers, mainly for export interests.

Except for rice which slipped as much as a cent in spots, all price changes were within small fractional ranges.

With the government's July crop report to be released after the close of trading today, many brokers were reluctant to extend commitments in corn and soybeans very far in either direction.

Clickmanship Is Game We Play Every 4 Years

NEW YORK, (UPI)—I leaped at the chance to play "clickmanship" again on the dear old TV set yesterday.

"Clickmanship" is a game we play every four years, provided network programming plans and the political stars are in conjunction, as they were on Sunday. The game is played only on the eve of a national convention and involves catching one candidate as he is interviewed by different people on different channels at the same time. (Tape makes it all possible.)

The real fun comes as you switch from channel to channel and try to catch the candidate starting one sentence on one channel and finishing another sentence on the other channel.

By putting together the two half-sentences, you hope to be rewarded with a whole, wild, ill-advised campaign utterance. Let's face it: you can hardly get them any other way anymore.

The "clickmanship" scoring is quite complicated—you get a point by locating a two-channel interview—but I can say that a perfect model might go like this:

"I think that after the first but not my delegates..." (click)...

will retaliate with nuclear-warhead missiles..." or, "I have waged a vigorous, prolonged fight for this nomination and I now believe..." (click).... It was the grand blunder of all time."

DIALING AND FILING: On the few occasions when the going got rough on the TV interview circuit Sunday, the men-to-watch—Kennedy, Symington, Johnson and Stevenson—confined themselves to tight little grins.

The only table-thumping occurred on ABC-TV's "College News Conference," when party Chairman Paul Butler denied that a convention had been "rigged."

For whatever it's worth: Only one blonde among the five highest scoring girls in the Miss Universe contest, seen on CBS-TV Saturday night. But that has nothing to do with my feeling the 90-minute special was unsubstantial, undramatic and unexciting.

THE CHANNEL SWIM: Leonard and the new opera, "Deseret," which launches the NBC Opera Company's 12th season on Saturday Nov. 12, will have Kenneth Smith, Judith Raskin, John Alexander and Rosemary Kuhlmann in the leading roles. Smith will portray Brigham Young in the two-hour colorcast.

Richard Kiley stars in "Bride of the Beast" on CBS-TV's "U.S. Steel Hour" Wednesday, Aug. 3. Peggy Wood and Diana Lynn are expected to join the cast.

Playwright Arthur ("Wish You Were Here") Kober has signed to write scripts for Fred MacMurray's fall ABC-TV series, "My Three Sons."

The GE company will pre-empt its own Sunday night CBS-TV time period on Nov. 13 to present a full-hour CBS news report about exciting experiments now taking place in education techniques.

Modern Jesse James Caught With Bottle Up

BRIDGETON, N.J., July 10—Jesse James is in jail today, unable to raise $100 in bail.

The 30-year-old namesake of the famed Missouri bandit was arrested with four other persons Saturday night after police broke up a brawl in a restaurant parking lot.

Police said they caught Jesse James with a broken bottle in his hand and charged him with disorderly conduct.

K Repudiated by Top Austrian

Raab Says Red Boss Does Not Doubt Where His Nation Stands

VIENNA, Austria (AP)—Chancellor Julius Raab, repudiated the attacks Premier Nikita Khrushchev made on the United States, West Germany and Italy during his recent visit to Austria.

Khrushchev said the United States had wrecked the summit talks, compared West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer with Hitler and warned Italy not to "play with fire" by allowing U.S. missile bases on its territory.

In a radio report on Khrushchev's visit, Raab said: "We have not left the Soviet Premier in any doubt that we did not agree with his statements made on Austrian territory concerning friendly countries and personalities."

The United States, West Germany and Italy all had protested the attacks and asked neutral Austria to dissociate itself from them.

Chimp Seizes Baby Girl To Change Its Diaper

TACOMA, WASH.—A female chimpanzee, trained to change a baby's diaper, seized a six-month-old girl from her stroller yesterday and refused for 20 minutes to surrender the infant.

Little Marcia Lynn Ebert was returned unharmed to her mother, Mrs. Frederick Ebert, after the chimp had completed a diaper change under surveillance of a state patrolman and store officials.

The incident occurred in a Tacoma department store which keeps the chimp for publicity purposes and lets it circulate among the customers on a leash.

The animal, whose name is April, is 4½ years old.

Comedians Having Fun at Political Convention

By EARL WILSON
SMOOG-FILLED ROOM, LOS ANGELES—The gags are flying here at Democratic Dizzlyland and I guess I don't need to tell you that some of the Democrats are flying, too.

But first, I want to mention that Perle Meats and Phil Regan, "the singing cop," are locked in battle for the convention party-tossing title. Phil's giving a solace at Dave Chasen's tonight in honor of labor leader David McDonald, which Regan says all the candidates and Harry Truman will attend.

Perle's having a few hundred intimate friends into the Coconut Grove tomorrow for brunch, starting at 10 a.m. Phil's pro-Kennedy and Perle's bitterly anti-Kennedy and pro-Johnson.

Perle's sister, Mrs. Marguerite Tyson, of Boston and Las Vegas, is going to sabotage Perle's anti-Kennedy campaigning at the brunch by urging Democrats to nominate Kennedy.

"I'm a registered Republican," says Mrs. Tyson, "and we Republicans can't be beat Kennedy."

"I'm for Adlai!" announced a hillbilly type with a bourbon-flavored breath. I asked him why.

"Grammy voted for him and I'm gonna vote for him," he hiccupped. Laughing loudly, he warned the barman to go easy on the branch water.

The comedians are making the most of the approaching political circus. Joe E. Lewis said, "What Truman wants is a silent war."

Jack Durand, subjected to Senator Kennedy's religion being brought into discussion, "It's a man's own business," claimed Durand, "what church he doesn't go to."

It was Joe E. who told one of the Kennedy leaders that he wore a Kennedy badge around the night clubs and restaurants until 6 a.m. "So where's your Kennedy badge now?" the leader asked Joe E. "Who answered: 'Oh, I'm sober now.'"

THE MIDNIGHT EAL IN N.Y.

Andre and Gambi Pourmeunay say they'll have a big church wedding in N.Y. when her legal troubles are over... Harry James and Betty Grable celebrated their 17th wedding anniversary.

Producer Anatole Litvak phoned Tony Perkins from Paris, said Ingrid Bergman isn't expecting and their film, "Time on Her Hands," will start soon... Nancy Kwan, Francis Yu's "Suze Wong" replacement, will get a star buildup.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: A virus is something originated by a doctor who couldn't spell pneumonia—Mike Rapchak, Station WOFL, Chicago.

CHIMP HUNTS A BALL.—Bing Crosby's wife Kathy has no truck with social chaff. He does a movie now and then, but mostly he just enjoys the game of life, with a TV special stuck in here and there.

Bing Talks of Retiring but in Negative Manner

By RING CROSBY
Written For The Associated Press

Comes now my seasonal seminar on the subject of retirement. I've given it—considerable thought—in a negative sort of way.

My stand is that a fellow shouldn't go into voluntary retirement while his golf game is in the par, and he is genuinely enjoying it. The kind of work he is out for.

Golf was not invented as a cage for dedicated old duffers. Golfers are trying to duck the boredom of counting their money and hoping to escape the social fluff invented by their wives.

Let's think about that categorically. My golf game isn't too bad. I let the government count my money. I'm having a ball performing my none-too-strenuous professional chores. And Kathy has no truck with social chaff.

This brings me to the subject of Bob Hope, the fellow who refers to me as the "crown of the crooners." Why he works so hard, I'll never know. He's really loaded, but he works even to the exclusion of his golf which is a game I know he loves—with all his heart. But he works day and night. He would do anything, fly anywhere to pick up a plaque.

It's better to do an odd job here and there—like the spirit moves you. The ABC spirits only move me to do two of their specials a year, and I take the jobs out of Twentieth Century-Fox when they don't interfere with my time with my family, my fishing and golf.

Why, I can have a romp with the children after their morning feeding and be ensconced in the barber chair of the Fox make-up department in five minutes flat.

We've got "High Time" all wrapped up now and, from what I've seen of the rough cut, we may have a winner.

My next special for the network is set for Oct. 5, and there isn't much I can tell you about it at this point except that I'll have three of my boys for a return engagement. They did right well on their last outing.

NEW YORK, (UPI)—I leaped at the chance to play "clickman" again on the dear old TV set yesterday.

"Clickmanship" is a game we play every four years, provided network programming plans and the political stars are in conjunction, as they were on Sunday.

The game is played only on the eve of a national convention and involves catching one candidate as he is interviewed by different people on different channels at all possible times. (Tape makes it all same.)

The real fun comes as we switch from channel to channel and try to catch the candidate starting one sentence on one channel and finishing another on the other channel.

By putting on the two half-sentences, you hope to be rewarded with a whole, well-lit-adjudged campaign utterance. (Let's face it: you can hardly get them in any way anyone is scoring.)

The "clickmanship" scoring is quite complicated—you get a point by locating a two-channel interview—but I can say that a perfect score would be like this:

"I think that after the first lot my delegates . . . (click) . . . will retaliate with nuclear weapons . . . or 'I have won a vigorous, prolonged fight for nomination and I now believed (click) . . . It was the great blunder of all time.'"

DIALING AND FILING: On few occasions when the going rough on the TV interview circuit Sunday, the men-to-watch—Kennedy, Symington, Johnson and Stevenson—confined themselves to little grins.

The only table-thumping occurred on ABC-TV's "College News Conference," when Chairman Paul Butler denigrated the convention had been "rigged."

For whoever it's worth: One blonder among the five high scoring girls in the Miss Universe contest, seen on CBS-TV Saturday night. But that has nothing to do with the feeling the 90-minute special was unfeeling, unemphatic and unexciting.

THE CHANNEL SWIM:

and Kastle's new opera, "Deer which launches the NBC of Company's 12th season on Saturday Nov. 12, will have Kennedy, Judith Raskin, John Anderson and Rosemary Kuhlman the leading roles. Smith will tour Brigham Young in the hour colorcast.

Richard Kiley stars in "Bird of the Fez" on CBS-TV's "Murray's Fall ABC-TV series. Peggy Wood and Diana Lys are expected to join the cast.

Playwright Arthur ("Wish Were Here") Kober has agreed to write scripts for Fred MacMurray's fall ABC-TV series, "Three Stars."

The GE company will present its own Sunday night CBS time period: On Nov. 13 to present a full-hour CBS news report and exciting experiments now take place in education techniques.

Modern Jesse James

Cought With Bottle Up

BRIDGETON, N.J. — Jesse James is in jail today, unable raise $100 bail.

The 30-year-old namesake of famed Missouri bandit was arrested with four other persons Saturday night after police broke up a brawl in a restaurant parking lot.

Police said they caught James with a broken bottle in hand and charged him with disorderly conduct.
