OU Baseball players assist with downtown Rochester event

Members of the Oakland University Baseball team volunteered to fill the role of “tuxedo brigade” for downtown Rochester’s Girls’ Night Out on Oct. 1. In addition to providing basic gentlemanly assistance, they also acted as photographers and “paparazzi” for the evening.

Girls’ Night Out is an annual event in Rochester for ladies to don their dresses and heels and enjoy limo rides around town for upscale experiences at participating merchants including everything from make-up consultations to flowers to in-store performances.
