Tax, Mine Bills Signed by Nixon

From Our News Wires

WASHINGTON — President Nixon signed into law today a tax-relief bill for 63 million Americans, including a 15 per cent boost in Social Security benefits and loophole-closing reforms.

But he warned that he will "take the action I consider necessary to present a balanced budget for the next fiscal year."

The President also signed the federal coal mine health and safety bill today but said its provision for federal workmen's compensation "in no way should be considered a precedent."

One provision of the bill is to provide federal payments for a time to miners disabled by respiratory ailments — a type of workmen's compensation not covered by most state laws.

Nixon's tax statement indicated the budget will be tight on expenditures, but was silent as to whether he will also recommend tax increases to make up for the revenue losses occasioned by the bill.

The tax package is the biggest in modern history.

The tax relief provisions start becoming effective in 1970—but the relief provisions don't apply to salaries earned in 1969. The full effect won't be felt until 1973 when the last provisions become effective.

A 15 per cent across-the-board increase in Social Security benefits for 25 million persons becomes effective Jan. 1. However, bigger checks won't show up until payments are mailed next April.

In 1970, the $600 personal exemption for each taxpayer and dependent goes to $625. The exemption rises to $700 on Jan. 1, 1972, and $750 on Jan. 1, 1973.

The mine-safety act will, for the first time, limit the permissible amount of coal dust in the 3,600 U. S. coal mines as a means of controlling both "black lung disease" and explosive air mixtures.

Early this afternoon, the President and Mrs. Nixon were to fly to California.

Nixon probably will wait until his State of the Union Message to Congress Jan. 22 to spell out what he has in mind in the way of new proposals. It is likely, however, to include a "value added" tax, in which a tax is added on at each stage of the manufacturing process — a sort of national sales tax.

Word that Nixon would sign the mine-safety bill came yesterday as a delegation of miners' widows was visiting the White House.

Snowmobile Crackdown Vowed

By ED BLUNDEN

Snowmobiles are becoming a major headache in Oakland County, and a crackdown is imminent, according to Lt. Donald Kratt, of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

Many snowmobilers are operating with complete disregard for laws, regulations or even common sense, he said.

★ ★ ★

Hundreds of complaints have been reported to the sheriff's department since the first snow cover. Kratt said the complaints are of snowmobiles being run over private property, destroying trees, shrubs, and anything else in their path.

"Apparently many snowmobile drivers feel anything that's covered with snow is fair game," he said. He vowed a crackdown.

RESTRICTIONS ON USE

Actually, use of snowmobiles is quite restrictive in state laws.

The vehicles are not permitted on roads, for instance. And a snowmobile has no more right on anyone's property than a car has. The use of private lakes is just as protected against snowmobiles as it is against boats, Kratt pointed out.

Owners of the vehicles are taking their machines so much for granted that few have even bothered to register them as required, Kratt said.

A snowmobile license can be granted at any Department of State office for $5, and is required if the vehicle leaves the property of the owner.

Drivers are subject to a large variety of misdemeanor charges for offenses that include drunk or drugged driving, speeding, making too much noise or smoke, operating on a highway, driving at night without proper lighting or driving through any area designated as a forestry.

The state act governing snowmobiles also provides that "any community may pass an ordinance regulating the operating of snowmobiles."

POOR USE INVITES BAN

Thus, just as bad practices by hunters have moved many Oakland County communities to ban the sport, poor use of snowmobiles could result in banning them from many areas, if the annoyance becomes too great, Kratt said.

Many snowmobilers are also neglecting their own safety, he said.

★ ★ ★

Several serious injuries have been reported in recent weeks. One man went into a barbed wire fence and his face was so badly shredded he faces years of plastic surgery.

★ ★ ★

A girl fell off and then was run over by the vehicle, suffering a deep facial scar. Last weekend a motor blew up and a Detroit man sustained an eye injury.

★ ★ ★

Kratt said, "This is the first big year of the snowmobile and too many drivers are behaving with reckless abandon, ignoring the rights of others and endangering themselves. All the law departments in the county are having trouble with complaints.

"This is going to have to be controlled before it gets out of hand," he said.

Housing-Code Suit Hearing Set

Legal action was started yesterday in Oakland County Circuit Court to force the Pontiac City Commission to schedule a referendum on the city's new housing code.

The complainants, Arthur Smith, 369 Seward, and Harry F. Evans, 253 Clifford, are asking that the code be suspended until the ordinance is decided by voters at a general or special election.

Judge William R. Beasley set Jan. 7 to hear arguments why the request should not be granted.

The suit follows the Dec. 16 rejection by the commission of petitions asking for the election. The commission refused to accept the petitions on the opinion of City Attorney Shirwin Birnkrant.

Smith and Evans were among those who spearheaded the petition drive. They contend the code could present financial hardships to elderly homeowners.

The petitions, which contained more than the number of signatures required, were filed Nov. 28, the day after Thanksgiving. The holiday, according to Birnkrant, marked the 30 day deadline for submitting the petitions. He also contended the petitions were not properly signed.

Alan Greenberg, attorney for the complainants, said state law provides that anything falling due on a legal holiday carries over to the next business day.

Arms-Cost Excesses Put at Almost 50%

WASHINGTON (AP) — The cost of major weapons systems is running nearly 50 per cent ahead of original estimates and no central agency is keeping track of all arms development information, a congressional study team has been told by Assistant Comptroller Gen. Robert P. Keller.

The cost overrun investigation by a joint House-Senate subcommittee chaired by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., focused today on shipbuilding and the Navy's estimate that the bill could be up to $1.2 billion higher than originally figured.

★ ★ ★

Navy officials say a major problem comes from claims being filed by shipbuilders against the government for changes ordered by the Navy on 125 ships during the past 13 years.

Keller told the subcommittee yesterday that the estimated cost of 38 major weapons systems is $62.9 billion, although initial estimates placed the cost at $42 billion.

'SHOCKING FINDING'

Proxmire called the lack of central cost information a "shocking finding" and said overruns cannot be controlled if one official or agency is not keeping track of all weapons development.

The chairman also said an increase in estimates for the Navy's Deep Submerging Rescue Vehicle from $36 million for 12 to $463 million for six is fantastic.

★ ★ ★

He said the Navy should only need one or two. There have only been two deep-sea submarine emergencies in 40 years, he said.

Chance of Snow Seen for Tonight

The weatherman says there's a chance of some snow this evening or tonight, but he doesn't predict how much.

Temperatures in the low 30s today are expected to drop to 23 to 28 tonight, and rise to a high of 27 to 32 tomorrow.

★ ★ ★

Probabilities of precipitation in per cent are 40 today, 50 tonight and 30 tomorrow.

★ ★ ★

Twenty-nine was the low temperature in downtown Pontiac before 8 a.m. By 2 p.m. the thermometer recorded 36.

Mystery Gunboats a Day Away From Port

From Our News Wires

HAIFA, Israel — A heavy overcast shrouded the eastern Mediterranean today as the five mystery gunboats from France advanced through windwhipped seas toward Israel's chief port.

★ ★ ★

Israeli maritime experts said the boats were still at least a full day out of Haifa. One source said they were probably delayed by rough weather and slower escorts from the Israeli Navy.

★ ★ ★

The low clouds and high winds were expected to hamper any attempt by Egyptian planes to intercept the boats. They slipped out of Cherbourg about 3 a.m. Christmas Day in defiance of the French embargo on arms for Israel.

Hundreds gathered on Mt. Carmel abandoned their lookout as word flashed through the city that the boats now were expected tomorrow.

SIGHTED BY TRAWLER

An Italian trawler reported sighting the ships early yesterday east of Sicily escorted by "numerous other Israeli ships." Greek police on the island of Crete said the convoy passed north of the island shortly after midnight.

★ ★ ★

There was no evidence of any effort to intercept the gunboats, although Arab newspapers called on the French Navy to do so.

★ ★ ★

Arab world capitals withheld condemnation of the incident pending an explanation from France. Representatives of 14 Arab nations called a meeting in Paris today to discuss the matter, a threat to what had been improving relations with the French.

★ ★ ★

'70 Economic Outlook for Area Is Uncertain

By DIANNE DUROCHER

An aura of uncertainty regarding the new year appears to be settling over the Pontiac area economy as 1969 draws to a close.

A variety of factors — the high cost of living, tight money, high interest rates and a drop in industrial production — offer mounting evidence that government anti-inflationary efforts are beginning to be felt.

★ ★ ★

"It's hard to say exactly why, but everybody feels like they've just got to scale back," said Earl Kreps, manager of the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce.

Pontiac area residents are curtailing purchases of durable goods, growing more conscious of saving money and looking toward next year's auto contract negotiations, Kreps said.

STARTED LEVELING IN JUNE

Consumer spending started to level off in the area around June, Kreps continued. Residents will probably continue spending moderately, with a reluctance for credit buying until contracts are settled, he predicted.

Retailing in the Pontiac area for 1969 registered a slight increase over 1968, according to a check of area businesses.

Gross sales volume of Pontiac Mall stores showed an over-all increase of approximately 12 per cent during 1969 compared with a 24 per cent rate of increase in 1968, said Mrs. Ruth McCarthy, mall resident manager.

★ ★ ★

She continued, "Soft line (clothes and smaller items) items are selling very well, but big ticket (appliances, furniture etc.) items are not moving as well as in past years."

For 1970 Mrs. McCarthy anticipated that sales will continue to rise on about the same level as this year showing a 10 to 12 per cent increase.

She added that a 1970 forecast for the Pontiac Mall also includes plans for enlarging the center "in various ways," but declined to elaborate further.

★ ★ ★

Jack Simon, manager of Simms Brothers Inc., in downtown Pontiac said his store's sales volume for 1969 was up slightly over 1968. Simon is also president of the Downtown Pontiac Business Association.

He added however that operational expenses and general overhead have risen considerably, making it difficult to maintain profit margins.

FIERCE COMPETITION

"Freight rates have gone up, newspaper advertising rates and salaries have increased and manufacturers have increased prices," Simon explained.

He added that many downtown stores are receiving fierce competition from shopping centers in the outlying areas.

★ ★ ★

John Harrington, manager of Sears and Roebuck in downtown Pontiac, said that the store's sales volume this year was just about parallel with 1968.

"Soft line sales are up, but people don't seem to be buying deluxe fringe items," Harrington said. He added, "People are buying smaller items and paying cash and they are not buying anything they don't need."

SHYING AWAY

He speculated that people are shying away from long-term purchasing because of the current "uncertain employment situation in Pontiac."

Regarding 1970, Harrington said that he expects sales to remain at their current level for the next several months and then to begin to rise.

Rebecca Karnehm, promotion manager of the Miracle Mile Shopping Center, Bloomfield Township, said the center experienced a definite increase in traffic in 1969. She attributed this, in part, to the opening of new stores and the widening of Telegraph in front of the center.

Auto Industry Ending '69 in Sales Slump

The U.S. auto industry is closing out 1969 with slumping sales and unwieldy inventories.

Retail new-car sales are expected to be less than one per cent below the record set last year — but that's 70,000 units. Sales for 1969, including imports, are expected to total 9.54 million units, as compared to 9,611,000 units in 1968.

Truck sales for 1969 are expected to total about 1,925,000 units as compared with 1,807,000 units in 1968, an increase of 6.6 per cent.

A bright note for 1969 came when GMC Truck and Coach Division was reported a strong third in the heavy truck field.

INFLATION KEY

Inflation appears as the key to 1970 auto sales.

"Looking to 1970, the prospects for further economic expansion may be importantly influenced by the government's efforts to meet the challenge of inflation," James M. Roche, chairman of General Motors, said in a year-end report.

He added, "There is reason to be hopeful that current economic trends may foreshadow a reduction in inflationary pressures, establishing a firmer foundation for growth in 1970 and later years. Our expectations for 1970 assume that this objective will be realized."

★ ★ ★

The GM executive predicted car sales in 1970 of 9.2 to 9.5 million units, assuming that employment and income continue to rise during the year.

Atmosphere of Uncertainty on Area Economic Future

'BUSIEST SEASON'

"This has been the busiest Christmas season that the center has experienced," she said, adding that center merchants anticipate a good year in 1970.

Pontiac area banking and savings and loan executives, currently experiencing a profit squeeze, are not optimistic about the new year.

* * *

Money is tight and interest rates are up largely due to inflation and partly due to federal monetary controls, explained Edward Barker, president of Pontiac State Bank.

Warren H. Eierman, president of Community National Bank said, "As far back as 1966 it has been increasingly difficult for banks to find available monies for loans because their supply of funds — bank deposits — have simply not been able to match the record demand for loans."

DEMAND AT ALL-TIME HIGH

The demand for all types of loans is at an all-time high, he said, adding, "There has never been a similar situation—of high interest rates with a shortage of money to the degree we are currently experiencing — in banking history."

"As an industry banks simply have no money available to lend," he said.

* * *

"There was little or no growth in demand deposits (checking accounts) and a modest growth in time savings (savings deposits)," Eierman added.

"Who knows what the future has in store," Eierman continued, "economists predict that there will be no relief of the tight money situation at least through mid-1970."

SOME HOPE

In referring to the new usury law and the effects of erasing the state's 7 per cent ceiling on home mortgage loans, Eierman said, "No matter what rate you are allowed to charge, if you have no money to lend then you're in trouble."

By taking off the ceiling on home mortgage loans, there is some hope that money will become more available, but it may take longer than a year for rates to level off, Eierman said. Currently the rate is around 8½ per cent, he added.

* * *

Initially, there was some problem regarding unclear wording of the new law "but it is now our understanding, as advised by counsel, that current rates will hold when the ceiling goes back on after next year," Eierman concluded.

James Clarkson, president of First Federal Savings and Loan of Oakland, said, "Lifting the ceiling on residential mortgage interest was intended to help lenders, but because of the law's unclear wording, it has actually hurt."

DROP EXPECTED

He said that in 1967 First Federal of Oakland made loans in excess of $20 million; in 1968, $13,843,000 and in 1969 through the change in the usuary law in August, $17.5 million.

"This is going to drop off tremendously in 1970," Clarkston said, "We are not issuing very many mortgage commitments because of the new usuary law and the lack of sufficient cash flows running in."

* * *

"We are still continuing to loan, but for smaller amounts," he concluded.

Realtors have been feeling the credit crunch more in recent months, commented Claude C. McGruder, 1969 president of the Pontiac area Board of Realtors.

'CAN'T PURCHASE'

"The general public has as much money now as they ever did," McGruder said, "But because home mortgages are at a premium people can't purchase or build new homes."

Some observers are still confident of a healthy 1970, however.

* * *

"The current tight money situation is going to hurt everybody a little, but the economy is going to get healthy," said Robbin R. Hough, an Oakland University professor of economics.

He explained, "In an inflationary period, such as we are now experiencing, people would like to spend, but when they realize that their paycheck isn't buying what it should or did, then they back off from spending.

'DEEP SKEPTICISM'

"Today we are dealing with a deeply embedded skepticism about the future value of the dollar, Hough said, addding that this skepticism about the price level can be partly attributed to the fact that inflation was allowed to run for so long — almost four years.

This long-sustained inflation is now beginning to respond to federal monetary controls and as a result there is a possibility that unemployment will rise, Hough said.

* * *

He explained, the purpose of monetary restraint is to slow the economy and thereby ultimately to halt inflation by decreasing the rate of growth of money supply.

As the money supply stops growing, while incomes and prices continue to rise, people find themselves holding smaller cash balances than they would like and ultimately respond to this situation by cutting down on their purchases of real assets — especially autos and durable goods, he said.

Women's Limit on Work Hours Illegal---Kelley

LANSING (AP) — Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley said today a Michigan law limiting employed women to a 10-hour work day is in conflict with the 1964 Federal Civil Rights Act.

Kelley's opinion holds that women now may work more than 10 hours a day and 55 hours a week if employed by firms with more than 25 employes. Firms with fewer than 25 employes still would be covered by the 10-55 limitation, he said.

* * *

Michigan, Kelley said, is only the fourth state to review the possibility of conflict in its state antidiscrimination laws.

"Since Michigan has no law limiting the number of hours a man may work, a woman is denied the same rights to overtime compensation as her male counterpart, in direct violation of the federal act," Kelley wrote.

'PREVENTS PROMOTIONS'

He added: "This limitation on the number of hours a woman may work tends to prevent the promotion of women to supervisory positions which might require longer hours than the state law permits."

California, North and South Dakota attorneys general have reached similar conclusions about laws in their respective states, Kelley said. The Kentucky attorney general ruled contrarily, but one of two cases used in reaching that opinion has been overruled, Kelley said.

* * *

The Federal Equal Employment Opportunity Commission said last Aug. 19 that laws restricting women's working hours "although originally promulgated for the purpose of protecting females, have ceased to be relevant to our technology or to the expanding role of the female worker in our economy."

Black General for AF

WASHINGTON (AP) — Col. Daniel James Jr. probably will be the only Negro general in the Air Force by the time his promotion passes through the Senate confirmation process.

* * *

Waterford OKs Firemen's Pact

The Waterford Township Board last night approved a one-year contract with the Waterford Township Professional Fire Fighters calling for a $1,150 salary increase during 1970.

A $400 increase will be awarded Jan. 1 while a $750 increase will be awarded July 1.

* * *

This will raise the salary of a driver-engineer who has worked on the force two years from the present $9,100 to $10,250 after July 1, 1970.

A lieutenant's salary will rise from $9,870 to $11,020 after July 1. A captain who receives $10,702 today will be paid $11,852 after July 1.

'INCREASE COMPARABLE'

"This increase is comparable to other areas," Township Supervisor Elmer Johnson said.

The fire fighters were awarded $916 in rasies this year — $416 on Jan. 1 and $500 on July 1.

* * *

The new contract will mean an across-the-board increase of $2,066 over 1969 and 1970.

Ship Fire Under Control

DURBAN, South Africa (AP) — A fire on board the British supertanker Mactra has been brought under control and the ship is on an even keel, the ship reported today. A spokesman for the owners said the 208,560-ton ship was "quite safe."

* * *

Three tugs from Durban and Cape Town were on their way to aid the Mactra, but none was expected to reach her before late tomorrow. She was reported 180 miles off the east coast of Africa in the Mozambique Channel last night.

Ethiopia Embassy Hit

MOSCOW (AP) — Sixty Ethiopian students stormed their embassy in Moscow today, ripping out phones, tearing up files, marking swastikas on the wall and chanting slogans against Emperor Haile Selaisse.

* * *

They were protesting the death in Addis Ababa of Kilahun Gizaw, a 29-year-old student leader shot Sunday by an unknown gunman. A leader of the demonstration accused the Ethiopian government of killing Gizaw and said similar protests would be staged at other Ethiopian embassies.

Guards Ring Spiro at Marcos Inaugural

MANILA (UPI) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew attended President Ferdinand E. Marcos' inauguration under heavy Secret Service guard today and later dismissed demonstrations against his Philippines visit as inconsequential.

* * *

In an impromptu news conference at the Manila Intercontinental Hotel following the ceremony, Agnew said the anti-American deomonstration outside the U.S. Embassy last night "didn't really amount to very much."

The vice president said he was sure the protest was not representative of the feelings of the Philippine people.

* * *

"I think this activity . . . is going to continue whenever a nation is taking a strong course to preserve a free-enterprise system," he said.

'TACTIC OF LIFE'

"I think we'll just have to get used to that as a tactic of modern life."

Agnew met for 30 minutes this afternoon with Prime Minister Chung Il Kown of South Korea and later visited a U.S. military cemetery in Makari Town. Tonight he and Mrs. Agnew attended a state dinner hosted by President and Mrs. Marcos at the presidential palace.

* * *

In his 20-minute inaugural address, Marcos, 52, called for a united Asia and peaceful coexistence with all powers, including Communist China.

The tightest security precautions in the nation's history prevented any repetition of last night's incident, in which anti-American demonstrators threw a gunpowder-filled bottle at Agnew's limousine outside the U.S. Embassy.

Agnew is on the first official stop of his 23-day, 10-nation Asian goodwill tour.

Auto Sales Sag at Year's End

Auto sales, after rising well above the 1968 level in September and early October as the result of the earlier introduction of new models, have slumped in November and December, according to Ward's Automotive Reports, the industry statistical service.

Surveys of consumer buying intentions show weakening interest in new car purchases, and dealers are reportedly holding record stocks of unsold cars.

* * *

Decisions are expected to adjust January and first-quarter output, Ward's reports, adding that January car output, which will include week-long shutdowns Jan. 12-19 at some Chrysler Corp. plants plus adjustments by GM and Ford, may well dip below 650,000 units when all scheduling action is taken. The industry's original output was projected at 720,000 units.

Thousands of auto workers — including 12,500 in Pontiac — were laid off extra days during the Christmas holidays this year.

* * *

The move, designed to reduce the national inventory of unsold new cars affected some 12,500 of GM's 36,000 employes in Pontiac.

U.S. Hands N. Viets Prisoner-List Plea

PARIS (AP) — The United States handed North Vietnam a list today of U.S. military personnel missing in Southeast Asia and asked it to identify those it is holding prisoner.

Ambassador Philip Habib, acting U.S. delegation chief at the Vietnam peace talks, also called on Hanoi to allow neutral inspection of its prisoner of war camps and then to negotiate exchange of prisoners.

* * *

The list of the missing was delivered to Col. Ha Van Lau, Hanoi's No. 2 delegate, by Habib.

Habib said the North Vietnamese apparently want to use prisoners as "pawns in bargaining for an over-all settlement of the war." He said Hanoi's refusal to negotiate seriously in Paris delayed an over-all settlement and prolonged "agonizing doubt about the lives and welfare" of U.S. soldiers missing or known to have been taken prisoner.

Birmingham

Police Chief Says Holidays Hike Mishaps

BIRMINGHAM — The traditional holiday pattern of parties, drinking and winter weather is already showing signs of pushing the local accident curve upward, Police Chief Darryl Bruestle warned residents today.

Chief Bruestle said his department is working to hold down holiday traffic problems.

* * *

"If you think you can drink freely at parties and then slide behind the wheel of your car hoping you can get away with it this time remember this fair warning: Our department will be out with all the manpower we can muster to protect you — and others — from your own dangerous thinking."

* * *

An Alcohol Education Center to encourage the sensible use of liquor by motorists has been established temporarily at the Birmingham Automobile Club of Michigan Office.

The center will operate through New Year's Day.

* * *

The center display which may also be seen in package liquor stores and bars, includes a poster with practical tips for persons who drink and drive along with a chart showing how many drinks one can consume before driving ability is affected.

Bottle sleeves with an alcoholic chart and a plea for moderation as the best policy are available at all AAA offices.

* * *

The program places responsibility for motorists who drink and drive on the host serving the alcohol.

The display suggests that motorists eat food such as mashed potatoes or beans (which act like a sponge) before drinking, and stop all drinking about an hour before the party ends.

Registration for preschool story hours at Baldwin Library begins Friday. All 3-5 years olds not in nursery school or kindergarten are eligible for the winter series beginning Jan. 6 or the spring series beginning March 3.

Registration must be made in person for the seven-week program.

A Reflective Essay Puts the Focus on Our Rural Heritage

By T. LARRY ADCOCK

Staff photographer Rolf Winter has a particular liking for driving about the countryside with camera in hand.

He here provides us with a pictorial essay of rural Oakland County.

A German by birth, Winter later emigrated to Holland, then America. His appreciation for the beauty of a rural setting grew keen during his boyhood and young adult days in scenic European locales.

The barn and windmill photograph represents a man's organized presence with nature and his pledge to cultivate the fertile land to feed his fellow men.

A SCHOOL BUS

A school bus at a Holly railroad crossing makes a predawn round, gathering the children each morning to transport them to learning experiences.

And, finally, a woodpile. Stored up firepower for the long winter nights to come. A comfortable, secure feeling for the household, knowing the warmth the wood will provide.

The photos reflect a life far, far away from the hurly-burly of cities . . . a life that is a bit slower-paced, a little more appreciative of its natural appearance.

Rural America, though some say is fast fading, is alive and well in the hearts of country boys who have moved to the cities and city boys who visit the country.

MAN'S OBLITERATION

The neon lights, the concrete, glass, steel and plastic have obliterated much of our original lands.

America, originally agrarian, today retains only bits and pieces of its rural heritage . . . an occasional barn and windmill, a school bus at a small-town railroad crossing and a pile of firewood

Wixom Studies Probe Possibility of Renewal for Its Downtown Area

By LOIS FRIEDLAND

WIXOM — Land and building studies of the central business area are under way, exploring the possibilities of urban renewal.

Money for the three studies will come from a $125,579 grant for surveying and planning a new central business area, authorized by the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

* * *

Funds for the over-all study will become an advance payment on a $1.2-million grant should the city decide to actually rebuild the 53.6 acre central area.

Contracts totaling $24,400 were awarded to three companies for the current studies.

PACTS DETAILED

Groseclose & Williams, Washington D. C., received a $4,000 contract for a land use and marketability study. Ellis Naeyaert & Co. of Warren received a $4,400 grant to make building inspections and decide which are sturdy enough to remain and which must be torn down.

Ralph Wenger & Co., Grand Rapids, will do the initial appraisals at a cost not to exceed $16,000.

* * *

These studies are due within 60-90 days, according to Robert E. Case, assistant to the mayor.

Survey and planning work must be wrapped up and into the HUD office in Chicago by next April, the federal deadline for the preliminary work

PAIR OF VERDICTS

At that point, both the city and HUD must individually decide to go ahead with urban renewal before any program can begin.

If the city decides to proceed, a public hearing will be held.

* * *

The area in question is bounded by Wixom and Manistee to the west, the far edge of the Wixom subdivision to the south, empty land to the east, the Renton plat and acreage to the north.

Some 61 buildings are located on the land. More than half may have to be demolished, according to the city's formal application for the grant.

PART OF MASTER PLAN

The renewal plan currently being considered was designed by Vilican-Leman & Associates, planning consultants for the city, in 1963. It is part of a master plan the council requested from the firm.

The plan includes compatible light industrial and commercial facilities with related uses. Lands on the west side of the existing central business district would be used for light industry, while housing could be located to the north of the railroad tracks and west of Wixom road.

* * *

Wixom Road would end about a block from Pontiac Trail, in the center of industrial area, and begin again south of Pontiac Trail. The business district would be moved opposite the civic center, which would include city hall.

Vilican-Leman is performing other survey and planning work necessary for the grant. Its $33,000 fee also comes from the preliminary grant.

U.S. Pressing to Keep Viet Hamlets Secure

EDITOR'S NOTE — How do the Vietnamese people in the countryside feel after another year of war? And what has happened to the Vietcong? Two Associated Press men who have covered the war since 1962 assess the situation after revisiting battle areas and provinces from south to north. This is the second of three reports.)

By PETER ARNETT and HORST FAAS

SAIGON (AP) — The promise of lasting safety for the Vietnamese peasant and the assurance that the Vietcong will not return to dominate his life are overriding aims of all allied efforts in Vietnam today.

The defeat of the Vietcong and the North Vietnamese army seem no longer paramount. Safety in the hamlets and fields, and the promise to maintain it, have swung whole Vietnamese populations away from Vietcong influence and brought a semblance of normal life to millions.

★ ★ ★

The villages have been the scene of major battles in the past, the peasant always a pawn. The promise that has won his cooperation is that there will be no more battles in his neighborhood.

It was taking a twofold military effort to keep the promise. On the one hand the allied forces are driving the Vietcong from population centers into remote jungles, mountains and across the borders; with the other hand they are keeping them there.

U.S. WILLING

American commanders say they would do everything that it takes, including fighting big battles, to prevent a comeback.

"The people and the Communist armies are being separated. The Communists no longer are able to swim in the seas of people. We are pulling the population rug from under him, and clubbing him on the head when he comes back."

★ ★ ★

That is the view of Lt. Gen. Julian Ewell, commander of the four U.S. divisions that fight in the war zones around Saigon.

A survey by these reporters shows that in only a fifth of the 45 provinces do large, mobile Vietcong forces remain among the population. From the air and highways it can be seen that these provinces have not kept up with the others.

NOT IN SHAPE

The people crowd in refugee centers along the main roads. Wastelands, rutted highways and burned-out villages still dominate the countryside.

The Vietcong guerrilla units that once constituted the backbone of the insurgency are no longer in fighting shape. Most still exist but are understrength; to avoid destruction they have left their home villages to live in the swamps and jungles.

★ ★ ★

The Vietcong's military weakness in the villages came as a surprise to the Americans and Vietnamese who spearheaded the move back into the countryside.

The district of Tra On, in the Mekong Delta, considered under complete Vietcong control last January, was taken without a shot in July. Heavy fighting was expected when government troops moved against Quoi An village at the Mekong River's edge. None developed, and it turned out that Quoi An and its 12,000 people had been ruled by 12 armed guerrillas.

TOO WEAK

In other villages the Vietcong considered themselves too weak to resist and left for the hills, hoping the government armies would pass through.

"It must have come as a great surprise to them that this time we stayed," commented Capt. Ismael Noriega, whose paratroopers assist the local militia of Dinh Binh hamlet on the central coast. "We sit down here with their wives and families, and they are stuck up there in the mountains, pretty hungry and alone."

★ ★ ★

The once-powerful Vietcong district and province chiefs who commanded every level of society are now in many cases forced to rule their fiefdoms from exile, surrounded by North Vietnamese bodyguards.

In many areas it is believed the enemy made a major miscalculation.

'DROPPED THE BALL'

"They dropped the ball last November. They underestimated our promise to the people to stay," says an American official in the delta. "They assessed our program wrongly. They thought it would just collapse and fizzle out like all other pacification programs.

"Earlier this year Vietcong strategy was just to clobber American units and kick them around and cause as many American casualties as possible. Then belatedly they had to recognize they could not get back into their places — we had moved in."

★ ★ ★

North of Hue in Phong Dien district Lt. Col. William A. Steinberg, from King of Prussia, Pa., had his battalion join the local militia to rout guerrillas and the political underground.

"This is the biggest pressure the Vietcong here have ever been under," he says.

TRY FOR TRAPS

"I demand at least one ambush a night from each of our squads. We try to trap him at daytime when he mingles with the people in the fields and villages, when he is trying to buy rice, to deliver a message, mine a road or just visit his family."

Steinberg hopes that soon most of the local guerrillas and the blacklisted secret organizers will be caught in a honeycomb of allied traps.

★ ★ ★

By the best available estimate there are 80,000 armed guerrillas and just as many memembers of the secret government. The guerrillas are being killed over and over again. There are far more dead than alive.

But only one in five of the known active supporters and secret organizers has been eliminated. "We have not crippled the Vietcong infrastructure by any means," commented a senior American in Saigon.

ORGANIZING SUCCESS

While down in their effectiveness now, the guerrillas and the secret organizers have much to sustain them. Old-timers remember the guerrillas' success in organizing the countryside against the regime of Ngo Dinh Diem in the early '60s. The young ones who survived remember many local successes that culminated in the Tet offensive less than two years ago.

Even if his family lives in a government village and is happy there, as 30 Vietcong families do in the Ben Loc coffee plantation village northeast of Saigon, in the end, the guerrilla can count on them, count on his mother sneaking him some rice, and his wife giving him shelter and hiding him for a few days of rest.

★ ★ ★

The presence of the North Vietnamese nearby encourages the Vietcong, and they expect their brothers from the North to aid with replacements and weapons. The North Vietnamese talk about final victory. The guerrillas believe this, however incredulous it may seem on the local scene.

Some guerrilla units spend their summers in the Laotian hills, refitting with new recruits, new equipment and new spirit and heading back to their villages, whatever may have happened there in between.

NEVER SURRENDER

The hard-core guerrillas never surrender.

The Robin Hood myth that once surrounded the Vietcong has been exploded. Five years ago many people looked upon the Vietcong as an organization that could make everything possible with superior skills, discipline and dedication. The Vietcong were omnipresent; it was impossible to escape their influence.

★ ★ ★

"We used to admire these guys, but now they botch everything," says an American in the field. "They plant a mine and blow themselves up. Basically they are amateurs now."

The weapon the Vietcong still wield efficiently is terror. A hamlet chief sleeping at home is still the highest indicator of successful pacification. This year 4,500 people have been killed by Vietcong terrorists and assassins; five times as many were kidnaped and maimed.

FURY OF OFFENSIVE

In some areas the fury of the Tet offensive turned the people against the Vietcong. Guerrillas have to commute into Hue to hand out leaflets; the population will not permit them to live there.

The real weapon of the future for the Vietcong could be the complacency that may set in with quietude, as it has so many times before. Now Saigon's forces have a momentum. As long as Americans go along on five-man ambush patrols, and stay awake at night in the watchtowers, the Vietnamese tend to match the effort. When the Americans go home, when the patrols and ambushes become boring routine, any lack of enthusiasm may mean the difference between success and failure.

★ ★ ★

If the guerrillas survive until cracks show in the security screen they may have a chance of a comeback. "Where a vacuum appears, they move in," said a U.S. battalion commander in Phu My district.

The underground in many hamlets and districts likely waits for the new day.

ON POSTERS

In areas where the population has trust in the district and province chiefs, and truly believes in the promise of a secure future, it is possible to take on the underground.

Secret blacklists name the hunted. Some of the most-wanted people are named on posters. In a district of 22,000 people north of Hue 695 names are on the blacklist. Since October, 21 of them have been killed, captured or surrendered. The price paid was 17 allied soldiers killed, five of them Americans. The Vietcong never fired a shot in resistance. They killed with booby traps.

Americans in the field report the people are slow in accepting the idea that there is now an all-out effort, possibly the last one undertaken by the Americans in Vietnam.

Official surveys taken in some healthy delta provinces show that the peasants feel the new climate of safety but keep asking "When are the Vietcong coming back?"

CREDIBILITY IS LOW

And in the cities the government's credibility is low. A shopkeeper in Qui Nhon told that two Western reporters had driven 200 miles along coast roads, commented, "The government has told us for a long time that the road is open, but I just can't believe that."

★ ★ ★

While many people in the provinces are making a giant effort to revive their country the three million inhabitants of Saigon go their own way. The man in the street shows casual indifference. There is really only one question: Will Saigon be attacked again?

They welcome assurances like those given by the American general commanding the city's environs, that the war around Saigon is pretty much over. But the Saigon people seem little interested in helping bring about a similar situation elsewhere.

★ ★ ★

There was a howl when the Saigon government imposed austerity taxes on basic commodities like gasoline and motorbikes to get money to help rebuild the nation. The present government, like the administrations before it, tends to appease the moods of Saigon, because it is the political base for the whole war effort.

ONE STEP . . .

One step in the wrong direction could bring the Buddhists back onto the streets, annoy the militant Catholics, or wreck the economy. Events such as these could ripple through the countryside and impair recent achievements. And this despite the fact that upheavals in Saigon might bear no relation to what is happening outside the city.

Senior officials in the provinces say that because of its political handicaps the Saigon government moves slowly on decisions of vital importance.

★ ★ ★

"Six months ago it was excruciating to get a decision out of Saigon. Today it is merely agonizing," commented an American general.

Once these decisions are taken the province chiefs have more freedom than ever to carry them out.

EVOLUTION

The armed forces that are the government's instrument in the rural breakthrough are undergoing an evolution called Vietnamization.

It will move most of the regular Vietnamese army divisions to the frontier shield that presently separates the population from most of the North Vietnamese divisions and their associated Vietcong regulars.

★ ★ ★

Government territorial forces and home guards recruited and serving in their native provinces will protect the countryside inside the shield.

In two northern provinces this change has already taken place. A senior American officer calls it the war's most important single event.

Already the territorial forces are 50 per cent larger than the regular 375,000-man army. An additional force in the recruiting stage will be used as volunteer home guards.

"The last thing the Vietcong can afford to do is to trade lives with the Home Guard," a U.S. official comments. The Home Guard have lost 2,3000 killed this year, he says, and inflicted the same number of kills against the Vietcong.

★ ★ ★

There is another motive in organizing the population: a political vacuum in the countryside now that the Vietcong has been pushed back or held down.

In Vinh Long province 100,000 of the 500,000 people have been recruited for the Home Guard.

"We don't need that many people, the idea is to organize them to create a political base," an American aid official commented.

★ ★ ★

Some province chiefs feel that the great challenge of 1970 will be to interest the peasants in local politics. One American concerned in the war observes: "If we earn their allegiance and get them deeply involved with their local governments we have got it made. Then we will be in and the Vietcong will be out."

SIGN OF SUCCESS — This thriving market on South Vietnam's Route 1 is a sign of the pacificiation program's recent successes. Security provided by the U.S. 173rd Airborne Brigade has enabled lines of communication between resettled villages and main markets in northern Binh Dinh Province to be reopened. New roads and markets have been constructed.

Drinking Driver, Sign Up Now

BURLINGTON, Vt. (AP) — The Burlington Free Press, a daily newspaper that has offered free funerals in past years to those who register their intenfion to drink and drive on New Year's Eve, is offering a different service this year.

★ ★ ★

Editor Gordon Mills said Monday night the paper will distribute a questionnaire, and if persons who plan to drink and drive this holiday return it, the information will be passed on to the next of kin, should the driver meet misfortune.

The questionnaire will list such information as where the will, bank books and other personal effects are.

★ ★ ★

Mills said an average of 30 persons each year have registered for free funerals, but the paper never had to pay off.

A plant nutrition specialist believes a single nuclear complex placed in the Ganges River plain, could give the basic energy needed to help provide food for more than 40 million people.

'69 Had Its Share of Good News, Too

By the Association Press

Attention was focused on war and conflict. Crime and corruption claimed headlines. Yet there was "good news" in 1969 and some of the best of it was recorded in stories that showed countless citizens at their unselfish best.

It was the year a blind high school dropout named Clyde Raymond Smith earned his doctorate degree. It was the year that Illinois neighbors pitched in to help Don Kruse when he lost parts of both legs in a farm accident.

★ ★ ★

Perhaps one of the best-remembered "good-news" stories of the year occurred on a Detroit bus. A man attacked the driver and broke his arm. Most of the passengers cowered in their seats, but 71-year-old Bernice Kuliszko ran up the aisle and pushed the assailant away.

Mrs. Kuliszko, who was punched and had her glasses knocked off by the bully, was given a resolution of commendation by the bus system.

DOING RIGHT

"It is gratifying to know that there are still people in this world who know what is right and proud to do it without regard for their personal safety," she was told.

Smith, now teaching in Peoria, Ill., dropped out of high school and had abandoned hope of supporting himself and his wife. Later he passed an entrance exam to Arkansas State College. He graduated with honors, got a master's degree from the University of Missouri and in December got his doctor of education degree from the University of Tennessee.

★ ★ ★

People gave of themselves. In Moro, Ill., Kruse, 31, a part-time farmer, lost parts of both legs when caught in a corn picking machine. His friends not only raised $12,000 to help him, but also harvested his fields and built a concrete sidewalk, driveway and patio for his house.

In North Bend, Wash., neighbors of a baker who was injured with his wife in an auto accident manned his shop themselves. Among those helping sell the pastries were a minister and an undertaker.

A NEW ROOF

A Richfield, Minn., widow got a new roof for her home. It was installed by the "Operation Brotherhood" organization whose members donate several hours each week to an "ability bank" to help people in need.

Even prisoners displayed generosity. This year 240 inmates of Tucker Prison Farm in Pine Bluff, Ark., each contributed $1 they received as Christmas presents from the state for presents for 25 poor children living nearby.

★ ★ ★

Animals got into the act at Broward Humane Society Shelter in Fort Lauderdale, Fla. They licked their chops at an overflow of donated food after staffers appealed to the public. The 800 cans of food and 700 pounds of dry meal was plenty for all including an armadillo, a monkey and a turkey who made it through the Thanksgiving crisis.

Honesty was one of the traits seen in this year's good news. A woman in Boone, N.C., who lost a pocketbook with $600 and no local address in it, got it back through a radio appeal. In Aurora, Colo., a billfold with $44 and a bevy of credit cards in it was lost and returned intact by mail to its owner. The 18-year-old finder did not want a reward.

SHOWED THANKS

And in St. Louis, a young Marine who had been stranded in Los Angeles earlier in the year and was loaned $12 toward a plane ticket by an unidentified woman, showed his thanks by donating $100 to the Central Institute for the Deaf. She had declined repayment but suggested he send any amount he wanted to the school.

Students, too, contributed to the bright side of the news.

At Eastern Mennonite College in Harrisonburg, Va., they took odd jobs and had a fund raising auction to help raise $400,000 for a start on construction of a $1.4-million library. Some washed cars and got $200 per scrubbing. Another got $1,000 for chopping wood. Others outbid at $350 the owner of a handmade 1893 cello who donated it for the auction—and then promptly returned it to him.

Central High School students in Kenai, Alaska, held a sing-in—admission price three cans, of food—to aid the needy. A Freshman at Florissant Valley Community College in Missouri and some high school chums took orphan children on a tour of downtown display windows in St. Louis and got them Christmas presents.

Bankers, often pictured as fishy-eyed and cold-hearted, also had praise for students as financial risks. The New York State Higher Education Assistance Corp., which has loaned about $619 million to 700,000 students since 1958, reported defaults were only 1.6 per cent of dollars lent.

The Peace Corps announced that this year American school children have raised funds for the 1,000th school to be built in an underdeveloped foreign country.

★ ★ ★

The Yuletide spirit also brought out donations of food for the needy by 10,000 of the 29,000 people in Weirton, W.Va., and gifts from a Terry Sanford High School class in Fayetteville, N.C., for poor kids.

It also saw 179 Detroit patrolmen volunteer their time for duty in a high-crime area and a Philadelphia man, Albert Trauffer, 67, spend nearly $1,500 of his $7,031 yearly salary on Christmas presents for neighborhood youngsters and youths in hospitals and orphanages. He's been doing so for a quarter of a century and says, "I believe in the dear Lord treating me tomorrow as I treat people today."

Floyd Miller

The community is saddened by the passing of FLOYD MILLER, a Pontiac resident for nearly half a century.

A native of Michigan, Mr. MILLER followed a mercantile career before identifying himself with the Credit Bureau of Flint. He subsequently moved to Pontiac and established the Pontiac Credit Bureau, Inc., which he headed until the time of his death at 81.

MILLER

★ ★ ★

Mr. Miller was widely recognized in the credit-rating field, and during his long connection with it developed a successful system of advanced forms that found national acceptance.

★ ★ ★

Although active in a wide range of civic and social activities, Mr. MILLER's principal interest was the conduct of his business enterprises, leaving him little time for hobbies or recreational pursuits.

★ ★ ★

He leaves an enviable record of personal achievement and service to the business community.

Missile Site Now School Site

Here's one for the Swords-into-Plowshares Department:

A onetime launching pad for a nuclear armed missile near Topeka is now the site of a new high school, reports the National Education Association.

Missile Complex No. 9, closed in 1964, was near the center of Kansas Unified School District No. 335, which was seeking a site for a school to replace four substandard high schools.

★ ★ ★

For $1, the school district bought the land on which the missile base stood, an 18,000-square-foot underground complex, two water wells, two 30,000-gallon tanks, a sewer system and an airstrip.

★ ★ ★

The district voted $685,000 to refurbish the underground complex to house general business, math and science classrooms, teacher offices and heating and air-conditioning equipment and to build the balance of the school above ground. (Locally, the Auburn Heights campus of Oakland Community College was developed on a former Nike base.)

It added up to a fine, and unique, new school for half what it would have cost to build it from scratch.

★ ★ ★

All our armaments should find such happy ultimate uses.

Collection Cost Consistent

The IRS is currently spending a mere 40 cents for every $100 it collects in taxes, reports Commerce Clearing House.

The figure is arrived at by computing the total expenses of the service, including the salaries of some 64,500 employes, against the total of Federal taxes paid by Americans. In fiscal 1969, the latter was a record $187.9 billion.

★ ★ ★

The current cost of 40 cents compares with 32 cents per $100 in 1944, the lowest ever recorded, and the all-time high of $5.87 in 1871 under an earlier income tax law that was later declared unconstitutional.

When the present income tax began in 1913, the IRS spent $1.59 for every $100 in collected. This cost dropped to 33 cents in 1918 due to an almost five-fold boost in receipts during World War I.

The more taxes and more taxpayers always means more tax litigation. In fiscal 1968, 9,602 new tax cases were filed. This compares with 5,811 in 1958. About 10,300 tax suits are anticipated in 1969 and 10,700 in 1970, when an estimated 10 million more Americans will file returns.

But here, too, the IRS has an impressive batting average — .750 to be exact. In 1968, the Government won three of every four tax disputes taken to court.

S. Viet Coalition Fears Well Grounded

WASHINGTON (NEA)—The other day this reporter talked for three hours with a man named Vu Hong Khanh.

In 1946, Khanh was vice chairman of the Vietnam Supreme Military Council in a coalition government with Ho Chi Minh's Communists.

CROMLEY

In that same year, on behalf of the new Vietnamese government, Ho and Khanh signed an agreement by which France recognized Vietnam as a free and sovereign country within the French Union.

★ ★ ★

Khanh therefore should be somewhat of an expert on what Hanoi means by "coalition."

An understanding of this meaning is important at a time when many Americans argue for a preelection coalition as the logical solution for Vietnam.

EASY TO UNDERSTAND

After talking with Khanh it is not difficult to understand why President Thieu disagrees. He remembers 1946.

In the 1946 coalition Ho was head of state. Giap (victor at Dien Bien Phu and currently one of the five most powerful men in Hanoi) was head of the Supreme Military Council. Major cabinet posts were divided among the parties.

★ ★ ★

In the discussions on cabinet ministers in the new government, Ho and his Communist associates were quite generous (or so it seemed).

The nationalist party to which Khanh belonged had three cabinet posts — foreign affairs, social welfare, national economy — the vice chairmanship of the Supreme Military Council (Khanh) and a third of the National Assembly.

DIDN'T WORK OUT

But things didn't work out.

Ho made certain the working head of the police (in Interior) was a Communist believer. Ho issued direct orders to this man. The secretary of state for the Interior was ignored.

Ho's man Giap issued secret orders to the army and the military secret police, ignoring the Supreme Military Council, the National Assembly, the secretary of state for defense and the non-Communist members of the cabinet.

★ ★ ★

Ho had his own secret police. He armed groups of Communist party security men.

The Communists kept their own tax system. Through control of virtually all taxes, they gathered the funds they needed for party organizational work and terrorist operations.

ALL-OUT ATTACK

Once the Communists had eliminated enough opposition leaders and secured sufficient arms, they opened an all-out military-terrorist attack on the non-Communist leadership.

To clinch victory, Ho made a deal with the French, allowing the French armies back into the country. The French forces attacked the non-Communist nationalists on the frontier; the Communists attacked from within. Between the hammer and anvil, the nationalists were defeated.

★ ★ ★

This is enough of Khanh's story on what happened in Vietnam two decades ago to explain South Vietnam's fears on coalition.

Arab Summit Roils the Mideast

WASHINGTON—The Rabat Arab summit meeting has come and gone, making headlines and muddying the waters of international policy.

De TOLEDANO

A group of Arab red-hots made the noise and got the major play, pumping up steam for the kind of "holy war" which could only lead to further crisis in the Middle East.

Take, for example, the keynote speech at the unsuccessful Rabat meeting. "We have followed the road to peace until we have exhausted all our means and we have tried to reach a just settlement which does not affect our dignity and honor and would not make us surrender any of our principles or our land."

★ ★ ★

Those are beautiful sentiments, but there is not a word of truth in them.

How has Egypt followed the road to peace? How have Jordan and Iraq and Syria tried to reach a just settlement?

LAUNCHING RAIDS

The Arab countries agreed to a cease-fire after the June 1967 war. But their voices had not ceased reverberating in the councils of the world before they began to violate that cease-fire by launching raids on Israel and by arming guerrilla groups to prey on the Israelis.

After the war, the Israelis pointed out that they had withdrawn their forces in 1956, on the promise that the Arabs would sit down at the negotiating table. But this promise was forgotten and the Arab states began preparing for a second war with Israel — a war which, to their chagrin, they lost.

★ ★ ★

The Israelis said they would not discuss peace terms with third parties, which was futile, but would settle their differences with the Arabs only by direct negotiations.

Of course, neither President Nasser nor King Hussein would agree to this kind of negotiation. For the fact is that the Arabs do not want a peaceful settlement of their dispute with Israel.

NO LEG TO STAND ON

Jordan, it should be remembered, does not have a leg to stand on in its demands for the West Bank or for Jerusalem. This was territory which never belonged to the Jordanians and was theirs only because they had wrested it from Israel by force of arms in the 1948 war.

Only by maintaining a perpetual state of crisis can the rulers of the Arab world survive.

★ ★ ★

Only by painting the United States, which has compromised far more than it should have in attempting to bring the war to an end, as an "imperialist" and murderous country can they hold their people in line.

The propaganda of the disrupted Rabat meeting was designed to fool the world even as it fools the poor and underprivileged of Egypt, Syria, Jordan, Iraq and Sudan.

If it were open to careful analysis, it might even be pointed out that Sudan has been slaughtering black Africans by the thousands, and that it still condones the slave trade — despite the meager efforts of the United Nations to end it.

Old Reporter a Failure: His Work Isn't Decadent

NEW YORK—People . . . Places . . .

The young man with the long hairdo from the big New York and Hollywood talent agency had been ordered by someone higher up in his organization, possibly even bald, to drop by the old reporter's apartment to look over some stories the bum had written in the past.

The stories were a mass of experiences. One concerned the agony of Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright's imprisonment during World War II.

★ ★ ★

Another had to do with the conscience of a Brinks robber whose testimony sent half a dozen fellow thieves to prison for life (two of whom were released this past week). Still another had to do with a wildly wonderful and often eccentric lady newspaper publisher named Cissy Patterson.

CONSIDINE

There were some odds and ends for the young man to look over: the life and sad death of the greatest woman athlete who ever lived, Babe Didrikson; the little-known but intensely influential "think tanks" that the Pentagon and other top government agencies depend upon; the story of an astronaut who defected to the Soviet Union, and a short story about the death of a great metropolitan newspaper.

'I'M SURPRISED'

"No good for us," the young man declared, after a swift glance. Then he added, sincerely, "You know, I'm surprised. You're supposed to be a good reporter. Why haven't you written anything that people are really interested in?

"The only people who go to movies today are under 30. They want sex, sadism, lesbianism, sodomy, drug addiction. They don't want sweetness and light. They want to be ugly, decadent, diseased. You must be some kind of a nut to think we'd be interested in your stuff."

★ ★ ★

The old reporter was so angry he reached for the nearest object and broke it over the young man's head.

Unfortunately, it was my Guy Lombardo album.

The most mystifying reason given by the Air Force for ordering what might eventually be $6 billion worth of new McDonnell-Douglas jet fighters is that in the Korean war our pilots had a 12-to-1 mastery over the Russian-built fighters, but in the war in Vietnam that figure has been reduced to two-and-a-half to one.

When did we shoot down those two-and-a-half Migs?

Voice of the People:

Television Viewer's Day Full of No-No Warnings

I'm beginning to think I should remain in bed day in and day out. When I get up, I turn on my colored television and my wife pours me a glass of juice. A warning on television immediately tells me of cyclamates that may cause cancer. If I light a cigarette, TV says "no, no, there's danger of emphysema and lung cancer." When my wife decides to wash some clothes, she's warned that enzymes may infect her lungs.

★ ★ ★

Water is polluted, fish are full of D.D.T., the air is polluted. I don't think all the violence on "Gunsmoke" ever scared anyone as much as all these warnings on television. I'd better turn off my colored television because my health could be injured by radioactivity, and I can't see it sitting very far away. Guess I'll settle for a beer because television doesn't say "no, no," that it might damage my health.

Commends Kettering's Basketball Teams

I commend the Waterford-Kettering basketball teams for the interesting and thrilling games in this very young season. I know the record reads 0-4, but it could have just as easily been 4-0. Don't be discouraged.

★ ★ ★

I know officiating is a hard job, but if an official is bad, he still stays on. Even in the major leagues, the ball player has to produce, but the umpire stays. I think there should be some commissioner or someone to view these games once in awhile. I also think there should be a uniform price for all high school games.

Reader Tells Need to Study Word of God

One can be ever so sincere in what he believes and still be wrong. Unless our faith is based on the Word of God, we have no foundation that will hold and save us eternally. This is why we need to read and study the Word of God. Accepting the Word by faith and obeying it from the heart brings about a change of direction in your life.

Today is Tuesday, Dec. 30, the 364th day of 1969 with one to follow.

The moon is full.

The morning stars are Venus and Jupiter.

The evening stars are Mercury, Mars and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1853, the United States bought 45,000 square miles of land south of the Gila River from Mexico for $10 million. It is now the southern area of Arizona and New Mexico.

In 1903, fire swept the Iroquois Theatre in Chicago killing 588 persons.

In 1947, King Michael of Rumania abdicated, claiming he was forced out by local Communists aided by Russians.

Q&A

(Q) I have a formal complaint to make to Montgomery Ward. Can you give me the president's name and address and phone number of the main office?

MRS. JESSE FINK
616 E. COLUMBIA

(A) E. S. Donnell, 616 W. Chicago Ave., Chicago, Ill. Phone 312-467-2000.

(Q) I'm a widow of 74. A man from the City came and told me my apartment building needed certain repairs, including a shower and wash bowl with a partition around it, which will cost me about $1,000. Some are done, but I don't have much money to get the rest done by the time they told me. The man said when I have these things done, he will give me more to do. Where can I get help on this thing?

TAXPAYER

(A) Mr. Parker at City Housing Department says nothing can be done to change the requirements for meeting the minimum housing code as prescribed by law. However, he says every effort is made to accommodate persons who are cooperating with the Department, and each case is reviewed on an individual basis so financial difficulties can be taken into consideration when setting a deadline for completion of improvements.

(Q) On Nov. 10 I mailed a check for merchandise shown on the enclosed Xerox copy. My check was cashed, but I have not heard from the seller. What action do you advise?

WONDERING

(A) We suggest you wait a little longer. The Chamber of Commerce in that city tells us it is a reputable company, but they're working on back orders, and are trying to get the merchandise out as soon as possible.

Troy Villas: Busy Folks

By BARBARA GRIBBON

Troy Villas is a 12-year-old subdivision near Livernois and South Boulevard in Troy. There are ranch and two-story style homes on curved streets with plenty of land for privacy around each house.

Residents keep busy with a number of civic activities. There's a great deal of interest in handicrafts, both modern and old-fashioned in nature. Interest in the history of Troy and its many organizations keep residents busy.

THE CHARLES OSBURNS

Everyone's busy at the Charles Osburn home. The family, including Susan, 15, Margie, 14 and Jeanne, 8, moved here from Dearborn. Mrs. Osburn's mother, Mrs. Elsie Bunn, also lives with them.

Osburn is a model maker at the GM Tech Center in Warren. His hobbies include bowling, golf and swimming. He also enjoys woodworking, making such items as picture frames, inlaid wood bowls and animals.

Mrs. Osburn says her husband had to take up some outside interests in self defense. Everyone else in the family is involved in something. The two older girls, Susan and Margie, both ballet dancers, are members of the Contemporary Civic Ballet group of Oakland County in Royal Oak. This holiday season found them dancing with the Oak Park Symphony Concert. Their teacher is Rosemarie Floyd of Royal Oak. The girls' dancing keeps mom busy making costumes and chauffering them to rehearsals.

Mrs. Osburn and her mother are busy with their own hobby, rug hooking. They've put on demonstrations at the Troy Historical Museum and at Greenfield Village, where Mrs. Bunn won a first prize last year. Some of the larger rugs they make take over a year and a half to complete. Both ladies dye their own wool for their rugs and like to make large pictorial rugs, often mistaken for oil paintings when framed and hung on the wall.

* * *

Mrs. Osburn is also a Girl Guards leader and bowls with a league. The youngest daughter, Jeanne, also is taking dancing and plans to follow in her sisters' footsteps. She's a member of the Sunbeams, a junior Girl Guards group in the area. The family belongs to St. Augustine's Lutheran Church.

THE ALBIN BOROVICAS

The Albin Borovica family came two years ago from Warren. The youngsters are Cathy, 7, Barbara, 5, Michael, 3 and Mary, 2.

Borvica is assistant chief draftsman at Pontiac Motor Division. A sports fan and do-it-yourselfer, he's been refurbishing the family's house.

Mrs. Borovica enjoys sewing and makes many of her children's clothes. Cooking, baking and decorating are also hobbies of hers. She's a room mother at Niles Elementary School. The family belongs to St. Andrew's Church in Rochester.

THE ROBERT BEVIERS

The Robert Beviers have lived here for 12 years. Their family includes Terry, 11, Robert, 15, Debbie, 18, and Cindy, 21, just married. Cindy and her husband are employed by VISTA in Salt Lake City, Utah where they work in poverty areas. They're both in the educational section of VISTA, which is trying to upgrade education for all ages.

Mrs. Bevier is president of the Friends of Troy Public Library and is area chairman of the Girl Scouts. She's also blood bank chairman for the Parent-Teacher-Student Assn. at Troy High School and is program chairman for the Troy Study Club. She's also a member of the Troy Youth Protective Group and is active in the First United Methodist Church.

Bevier, who is a Prudential Insurance agent, is vice president of the Oakland County Youth Protection organization. He's president of the Troy Rotary, a volunteer fireman, president of the administrative board at the First United Methodist Church, is on the board of directors of the Troy Library and is active in Boy Scouting.

Debbie, a freshman at Centray Michigan University, was a member of the Up With People singing group for two years, traveling throughout the U.S. and Europe.

THE JESSE BURROUGHSES

The Jesse Burroughs family came five years ago from Berkley. The children are Jimmy, 8, and Brenda, 6. Also living with the family is Mrs. Burroughs' father, William Courtney, retired from the Ford Motor Co.

Courtney, an avid golfer, once played in the National Open.

Burroughs is a dynamometer technician at Ford Motor Co. He enjoys things of a mechanical nature, but his wife is the real do-it-yourselfer in the family. Expert in woodworking, she even taught carpentry for two years. She has built herself a set of kitchen cabinets, a small storage shed in the yard and a five-foot-long doll house for her daughter.

Mrs. Burroughs is a member of the Creative Council of the Continuum Center for Women at Oakland University, actually a marketing service for women expert in crafts. One of Mrs. Burroughs' most successful crafts is the unusual picture frames she makes, using a method of iconage, which transfers pictures to wood. She sold numerous frames at the Somerset Mall "Young at Art" show recently. She also enjoys sewing and is a Cub Scout Den mother. She is active in the Troy Historical Society, where she recently chairmanned the "Hand & Eye Show."

THE STEWART FALLS

Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Fall came nine years ago from Royal Oak. Their children are Stewart, 8, Steven, 3, and Alisha, 18 months old. Also in the family is a 180-pound St. Bernard named Sir Schultz.

Fall is an agent for State Mutual of America Insurance Co. He and his wife hunt for antiques, refinishing their finds for their home—almost completely furnished in unusual pieces. An old kettle drum serves as an end table and an old corn masher is a lamp. Everyone in the family has a handmade quilt. Mrs. Fall collects cookbooks; she has more than 150 and uses them, too.

Football is the family's main interest. They have five season's tickets to the Lions games.

Mrs. Fall is active in the Troy Historical Society, which recently had its annual Christmas party at her home.

15-Foot Drifts Bury Farm After Snowfall In Eastern New York

In New England

More Storms Are Due

More inclement weather was expected to hit New England late today or tonight, according to the U.S. Weather Bureau at Boston. But the bureau said residents need not fear a repeat of the post-Christmas storm that left many areas still in trouble today.

A four-day storm that began late Christmas Day and continued through Sunday left some 60 inches of new snow in parts of Vermont and up to 50 inches in sections of central and western Massachusetts.

* * *

Mayor James F. Cleary of North Adams, Mass., said the storm caused a crisis in his city.

"We're down to two snowplows — he rest have broken. Everybody's dead on their feet, and now they say more snow may be on the way," he said Monday

DAIRY FARMERS HURT

Snowmobiles still were being pressed into service in North Adams and elsewhere in New England for food and medical deliveries and other emergencies.

* * *

Dairy farmers in Vermont were especially hard hit. Some in the Newbury area said they were dumping their milk because tankers couldn't pick it up. Others said they had to do milking by hand for the first time in years because of power failures.

* * *

The entire state of Vermont was declared a disaster area Sunday. The storm caused some flooding in coastal regions where it rained heavily.

"Unless we get more rain, the worst of the flood problem is past," a spokesman for the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers said.

HEAVY RAINS

A variety of precipitation fell across much of the rest of the nation during today's early hours.

Rain fell from Texas across the Tennessee Valley and the Virginias to Delaware and New Jersey. Locally heavy amounts were recorded in some areas.

* * *

A tornado watch was in effect for portions of Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama as a cold front moved rapidly across the states clashing with warm moist air driven northward out of the Gulf of Mexico.

* * *

A tornado demolished about 20 trailer homes at a trailer park near Jonesville, La. Only two minor injuries were reported. Another tornado struck near Vidalia, La., ripping off the roof of a house and overturning several trucks.

HAIL IN ALABAMA

A little more than two inches of rain had fallen at Muscle Shoals, Ala., by early morning. Small hail mixed with thundershowers in portions of Alabama and Arkansas.

* * *

Snow, sleet or freezing rain was falling from eastern New Mexico as far north and east as Pennsylvania. The upper Great Lakes area reported light snow falling.

More light snow was falling from Idaho across Montana and Wyoming to North Dakota with subzero temperatures the norm from the eastern Dakotas to Iowa and portions of Colorado.

* * *

Predawn temperatures ranged from 15 below zero at Aberdeen, S.D., to 72 at Key West, Fla.

47.7 million tons of shipping passed through the inland waters of the St. Lawrence Seaway between U.S. and Canada in 1968, nearly a record.

Warning Is Issued on March 7 Eclipse

WASHINGTON (AP) — Solar eclipse fans: If you miss the big blackout next March 7, you'll have to wait until 2184 to see the next one scheduled to occur over a large part of the United States.

The National Science Foundation issued the last-chance warning in announcing an eclipse-watching session for college astronomy teachers to be held March 6 and 7 at East Carolina University in Greenville, N.C. The total eclipse of the sun takes place when the sun, moon and earth—in that order—are lined up and the disk of the moon fully covers the sun. Once the entire solar surface is hidden, the sky gets dark enough to allow viewers to see bright stars.

* * *

The March 7 show, centered over the nation's southeast coast, will feature the usual 100-mile-wide shadow of the moon racing at 1,000 miles per hour across the earth's surface.

The shadow will begin in the Pacific Ocean off the west coast of Mexico, then move across southern Mexico and the Yucatan Peninsula, the Gulf of Mexico and northwest Florida. Next it will skirt inland along the Atlantic coast of Georgia and the Carolinas, leave land at the mouth of Chesapeake Bay, touch Nantucket Island, cross Nova Scotia and end south of Iceland in the North Atlantic.

From any given spot, the totality will last for about three minutes.

The most recent total eclipse visible within the continental United States occurred in August 1963.

Bread-Price War in Third Month; 4 Loaves 2 Bits

KALISPELL, Mont. (AP) — A bread price war moved into a third month Monday with four one-pound loaves of unsliced white bread selling for 25 cents.

The normal price would be around $1. At one time the loaves dipped in price to three cents each.

What started the war?

"I wish I knew," said James Todd, a baker.

BACK FROM HANOI — Cleveland industrialist Cyrus Eaton, flanked by his wife, Anne, tells newsmen of his discussions with North Vietnamese leaders. Eaton was 86 Saturday.

Industrialist Tells Pullout Plan for Peace

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Industrialist Cyrus Eaton says withdrawal of 100,000 U.S. troops in 60 days and all the troops in 18 months would convince Hanoi President Nixon is seeking an end to the Vietnam war.

* * *

Eaton told a news conference Monday he based his judgment on eight days of talks and visits with the leaders of North Vietnam earlier this month.

Eaton said once Hanoi was convinced of a U.S. desire for peace all the details—such as the release of prisoners—would be easily agreed upon.

Eaton, 86-year-old chairman of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway, said he found the leaders of Hanoi in agreement that they wanted to end the war but were determined not to lose it.

Eaton said W. Averell Harriman could have negotiated an end to the war at the Paris peace talks but was not granted the power to do so. Eaton did not elaborate on this.

Harriman's successor as chief U.S. negotiator, Henry Cabot Lodge, did not want to end the war, Eaton declared.

HEW Bill Pits Nixon, Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon and the Democratic Congress are heading into a campaign year on a collision course, with a confrontation on a leftover appropriation atop the agenda for the new session.

"The issue is really going to come to a head right at the start," a Senate Democratic aide sair of a $19.7-billion appropriation bill that would sharply increase outlays for education and for health programs —which Nixon has threatened to veto.

★ ★ ★

Senate Republican leader Hugh Scott said, as Congress adjourned last week until Jan. 19, he hoped a way would be discovered to a settlement acceptable to both Congress and the White House. But he said he had none in mind.

Congress delayed passage of the health-education appropriation at the end of the first session after Nixon made an 11th-hour objection to its cost.

CAN'T BE STINGY'

"There is an argument over where to put the priorities in our federal budget, but this certainly is one area where we cannot afford to be stingy," said Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., a leading advocate of the increased health and education spending.

The priority argument is certain to be sounded again and again as the 91st Congress authorizes and appropriates money — particularly for the Pentagon.

President Nixon already has said the next defense budget will represent the smallest percentage of over-all federal spending proposals since World War II.

But that is not likely to satisfy many congressional Democrats.

'CEILING, NOT FLOOR'

"Whatever he proposes is a ceiling, not a floor," said a Senate policy maker.

Meanwhile, strategists on the Democratic National Committee are urging their party's congressional figures to step up criticism of the administration performance on inflation, crime and national priorities.

"The next three months will be critical for Democratic elected officials to answer the President's attacks and hold Republicans responsible for his ineffectual handling of these problems," said a memo prepared by the Democrats' campaign and research directors, Mark Shields and Peter D. Hart.

The disagreement over how much and where to spend blends into political debate over inflation and the blame for rising prices.

In threatening an education and welfare appropriations veto, Nixon said an economy troubled by inflation could not afford an increase of $1.1 billion over his budget.

Russia Will Act in China Talks

Negotiator to Return With Revised Offer

MOSCOW (UPI) — Communist informants said today the Soviet Union will present a revised formula for border peace at the next Sino-Soviet negotiations in Peking in an effort to get the talks off dead center.

The Foreign Ministry announced yesterday the chief Soviet negotiator, First Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily V. Kuznetsov, would return to the Chinese capital "within the next few days."

★ ★ ★

"The conversations will continue," a ministry spokesman said. "We want a positive solution in Peking." The talks have been deadlocked since they began Oct. 20.

No details of the new Soviet peace formula were revealed, and Soviet officials reportedly were not overly optimistic it would bring progress in the discussions.

★ ★ ★

There had been widespread speculation in Moscow that Kuznetsov's return to the Soviet capital on Dec. 14 to attend a session of the Supreme Soviet actually signaled indefinite suspension of the talks.

But the Soviets did not want to take the initiative in breaking off contact with China, the informants said, and decided to rework their demands in hopes of making it easier for the Chinese to respond.

'NO POLITICS INVOLVED' — NASA Administrator Thomas O. Paine denies charges that a decision announced yesterday to close NASA's new Electronics Research Center had political overtones. The center was to have been located on a 29-acre site in Cambridge, Mass., and represents an investment of $30 million. The decision was criticized by Massachusetts Democrats and Republicans.

NASA Closing Is Hit

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — The unexpected decision to close the space agency's new Electronics Research Center has brought criticism of the White House from Massachusetts Republicans and Democrats.

The announcement Monday means the loss of 850 jobs, mostly highly skilled personnel, with an $18 million annual payroll and part of an estimated $25 million in annual contracts canceled out to Massachusetts firms by the NASA center.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., said the closing of the Cambridge Center was a "disastrous" decision by President Nixon.

Gov. Francis W. Sargent, a Republican, called the shutdown "a major mistake."

BROOKS NOT TOLD

Five days before the announcement of the closure, Sen. Edward W. Brooke, a Republican, told newsmen that his sources in the White House and NASA assured him the center would continue in operation.

State Rep. David E. Harrison, chairman of the Democratic State Committee, said, "it appears as if President Nixon has disregarded Massachusetts since he did so poorly here in 1968 and will not give anything to the citizens of this state."

★ ★ ★

Dr. Thomas O. Paine, NASA administrator, flew to Boston Monday to tell employes of the decision, and was asked by newsmen if politics entered into the closedown order.

"Absolutely not," he said.

'Saigon Guilty of Duplicity'

HHH: Talk on Viet Helped Me

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UPI) — Hubert H. Humphrey believes his speech in Salt Lake City helped his 1968 presidential campaign.

He says the South Vietnamese were guilty of "duplicity" for not going immediately to the Paris peace talks.

Former President Lyndon B. Johnson said last week the Salt Lake City speech — in which the former vice president said he would halt the bombing of North Vietnam if he were elected — cost Humphrey the "few thousand" votes needed to put him in the White House.

Johnson said Humphrey's speech, on Sept. 20, 1968, had alarmed the South Vietnamese officials and caused them to stay away from the Paris talks until after the election.

DIDN'T PLAY POLITICS

In a statement released before the Johnson interview was televised Saturday night, Humphrey said his Salt Lake City speech was motivated by what he thought was "right and responsible . . . I did not play politics with Vietnam during the campaign nor have I played politics with this serious issue since then."

In a radio interview last night, Humphrey said the Salt Lake City speech was "a crucial turning point in the campaign."

Humphrey told UPI last night that the South Vietnamese were guilty of "duplicity" in not going to Paris, and "thought they could get a better deal from Mr. Nixon . . . after the election.

Comet Sparks Questions About Star of Bethlehem

NEW YORK (AP) — An astronomer said today that reports of a "Christmas Eve comet" caused people to ask the American Museum - Hayden Planatarium if the Star of Bethlehem could have been a comet.

"We doubt it," said Dr. Kenneth L. Franklin, assistant chairman of the museum. "In our traditional sky show we mention that a comet has always been considered an omen of disaster, and we point out that no comet was recorded at the time of the birth of Jesus, which was probably in the spring of 6 B.C."

★ ★ ★

The speculation arose after reports of the seventh comet to be discovered during 1969. It is Comet Tago-Sato-Kosaka, discovered on Oct. 10 and 12 by three Japanese astronomers for whom it is named.

Tago-Sato-Kosaka was about 44 million miles from the sun at its closest on Dec. 21. It was visible in New York around Dec. 15 but not after Dec. 23.

On Christmas Eve or Christmas night, the comet might have been visible far down in the Southern Hemisphere, perhaps from parts of Australia.

By Jan. 8-10, it should be visible in the southern United States, looking to the southsouthwest. By Jan. 20, it should be visible to the entire country, although the full moon Jan. 22 will interfere. It will fade to the eye in early February. It may be visible in the Southern Hemisphere now, but with difficulty, at sunset.

Would Cost Millions

State Prison Revamping Urged

LANSING (AP) — A multi-million-dollar revamping of Michigan's prison system—including a detention facility for women and a 600-man "medium security" institution—has been proposed by the State Corrections Commission.

The commission called the state's three maximum security prisons for men, at Ionia, Jackson and Marquette, "outmoded and unsuited in many respects to progressive handling of lawbreakers."

★ ★ ★

Replacement of the three would be "financially out of the question," the commission said. It called, however, for "extensive remodeling and renovation" of the units.

Commission Chairman G. Robert Cotton cited "an immediate need to expand and remodel housing and programs for prisoners."

WOULD COST MILLIONS

Department officials said implementing the several ideas enumerated after a commission review of current prison operations would cost many millions of dollars.

They declined to estimate the exact total, however, because plans have not been completed for any projects. But they said more than $4.7 million has been requested for planning and initial construction on some projects during the 1970-71 fiscal year.

★ ★ ★

Besides renovations at the three maximum security prisons, the commission said Michigan needs:

● A new medium security training institution to hold some 600 offenders. "Such a facility is called for by the increased volume of prison commitments and the lack of skills found among this intake," the commission said.

● A new reception-diagnostic treatment center to process all new commitments. "The existing facility (at the state prison of Southern Michigan) is a makeshift arrangement."

● A new adjustment center for recalcitrant persons who cannot "adjust to the general group."

● A state penal facility for female offenders. Present facilities, rented in the Detroit House of Correction, involve "a costly arrangement and a facility designed especially for the female felony offender is needed," the commission said.

● Addition of two former job corps centers, now unused, to the state corrections system, in order to augment the existing corrections camp program.

● Redesign of the prison industries program, "hopefully by opening up new markets for prison products, so that prison work assignments would have real training value for later free world employment.

● Adoption of the proposed criminal code by the Legislature, to provide "more flexible treatment of individuals. . ."

● Expansion of the community corrections center and work pass programs.

Polish-Jew Refugees Seek New Life in Denmark?

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (AP)—Some 1,500 Jewish refugees from Poland are trying to start a new life in this country.

The refugees, telling of pressure and harassment condoned by the Warsaw government after the Mideast war of 1967, began trickling into Denmark in 1968.

★ ★ ★

Last summer the trickle turned into a stream, and while arrivals are now on the decline, they have given Denmark its biggest and most complicated refugee problem since World War II.

Officially, all are coming here as emigrants headed for Israel. Few will ever go there.

BRANDED AS ZIONISTS

To escape humiliation and unemployment in Poland they, like an estimated 9,000 other Jews who fled to other countries, signed papers branding themselves as Zionists.

Danish Refugee Aid a government-financed but privately run organization, normally is geared to handle 80-100 refugees annually. For months it has been receiving more than that number weekly.

Danes 26 years ago spontaneously evacuated nearly 8,000 Jews from German-occupied Denmark to neighboring, neutral Sweden. For the arrivals from Poland, knowledge of what the Danes did then is a major sources of optimism now.

They have to wait three weeks for police clearance and asylum papers in small cabins of the St. Lawrence, once a steamer on the Great Lakes but for several years moored in Copenhagen's harbor as a hotel ship. "Many of us barely survived Nazi death camps," said one of the Poles.

NEW SYSTEM

"We believed the new system in Poland would do away with racial prejudice once and for all."

Another commented: "Maybe somebody thought it was better for Poles to hate Jews than to hate Russians."

★ ★ ★

The refugees range from an 83-year-old woman to a girl born after her mother arrived here. They include university teachers, doctors of medicine, craftsmen and workers.

Refugee Aid concentrates efforts on the ultimate goal: integration and assimilation.

As long as the refugees remain unemployed they receive a $3 daily meal allowance plus free lodging.

A language school has started with university students taking the Poles through crash courses in Danish. Familiarization centers are being set up across the country to get the refugees away from Copenhagen.

"We are highly encouraged by the spontaneous willingness to help at the local level," says the Rev. Viggo Mollerup, secretary general of the Lutheran Church aid organization. "There is a broad popular support for the work to bring these people out of their isolation."

CHILDREN INVITED

Many refugee children were invited to spend Christmas and New Year with Danish families. Tourist guides organized free sight-seeing trips. A member of parliament arranged for an old woman to have her most immediate problem solved: a new set of false teeth.

All benefits of the Danish social and health care system are automatically extended to the old and the sick.

Refugee Aid Secretary Pill Christensen is optimistic about prospects for finding work for all the other refugees. Most children of school age have resumed their education.

Soviets Help Cubans Cast Big Shrimp Net

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — With Russian help, Fidel Castro's new $10-million shrimp boat fleet is appearing off the coast of Mexico in what industry circles consider a Cuban challenge to U.S. and Mexican fishing operations in the Gulf of Mexico.

Mexican navy officials disclosed a steady buildup has been observed on Campeche Sound since Cuba began taking delivery on 90 Spanish trawlers earlier this year.

★ ★ ★

Industr leaders confirmed the fact and predicted there would be 300 Cuban shrimp boats in the Gulf and Caribbean within three years, outstripping both Americans and Mexicans in technology. "Each boat has a Russian captain. Movements are radio-controlled from a huge fishing complex, built and operated by Russians, at Puerto Pesquero near Havana," a shrimp industry executive told UPI.

"The American and Mexican operations are still family-sized affairs. They pack their shrimp on ice. The Cubans have freezers aboard. It is one more case of "get big or get out."

MARKETING PROBLEM

One problem Castro faces is marketing. As long as the Cuban premier is refused access to the U.S. market, he must sell shrimp in Europe at reduced prices, or force Cubans to eat a great deal of shrimp.

Cuban officials have made soundings in Mexican fishing circles, about the possibility of marketing Cuban shrimp in the U.S. through a phony point of origin, industry sources said.

★ ★ ★

Mexicans rebuffed the scheme. Among other reasons, it might jeojardize Mexican leadership in the U.S. shrimp market. Mexico has relations with Cuba; the U.S. does not.

Cuba is selling shrimp in France and Spain, in addition to the Communist bloc, according to industry sources here.

RUSSIAN BACKING

Russian money and technology are behind the entire Cuban fishing industry expansion, in an effort to diversify Cuba's one-crop, sugar economy, according to diplomatic intelligence received here.

The projected Cuban fleet of 300 boats compares with about 300 Mexican and 2,000 U.S. trawlers in the Gulf and Caribbean. However the Cuban boats are 77 feet long, steel-hulled, fast and modern, compared with typical shrimpboats about 40 feet long, wooden-hulled, and using ice to preserve shrimp during frequent short runs back to base.

★ ★ ★

In addition to shrimping, Cuba is moving into tuna and haddock fishing on a large scale.

Haddock and hake boats, controlled by radio from Havana, have been operating off New York City, according to intelligence sources here. Other Cuban boats have been spotted as far south as the coasts of Guyana, in South America.

★ ★ ★

The 90 Spanish shrimp trawlers have unusually large water and fuel capacities. Each boat carries a crew of 11, according to diplomatic sources. It is estimated each boat cost the Russians about $115,000, including freezer equipment, for a total investment of more than $10 million.

Racial Debates Stall Legislation

State Business Lags as Lawmakers Argue

LANSING (AP)—The clenched fist — symbol of militancy — pushed the Michigan Legislature's calendar into the background at almost regular intervals during the 1969 session.

Some lawmakers argued that furious, name - calling debates got nowhere but in the newspapers.

★ ★ ★

Resolutions, which generally sparked the racial discussions the House and Senate floors, carry no force of law. They are, in most instances, expressions of legislative intent.

But they put a subject within argument's easy reach and, some contend, serve to create in legislators as well as the general public an awareness of problems.

FRUITLESS ORATORY

Time after time during the recently concluded session, some lawmakers seemed more than willing to let slide the matters of legislative business while they tangled in fruitless oratory on racial issues.

The case of Ferris State College illustrates the point.

Rep. E. D. O'Brien, D-Detroit, introduced a resolution praising Ferris's president, Victor Spathelf, for his handling of a racial disturbance on the Big Rapids campus.

★ ★ ★

Black representatives, who form a caucus too small to pass legislation by itself but large enough to defend what it considers unfair, fought the resolution.

They argued that arrest of black students at the campus—but not whites who reportedly participated in the hassles—represented inequity.

COMPROMISE

Debate went on for weeks, with most other matters suspended in the meantime, until a compromise resolution finally passed.

In the Senate, the New Bethel Church incident in which a white Detroit policeman was shot to death sparked angry talk.

★ ★ ★

But all the talk, and even a slap delivered by a woman legislator who called a colleague a "white nigger," accomplished little.

The debates served only to widen a liberal-conservative split that sapped tenuous party unity in both chambers.

★ ★ ★

And they took up a lot of time that could otherwise have been used for work on matters over which the Legislature has more control.

Drunk Drivers—2

Does the Alcoholic Deserve a License?

By ROBERT BUCKHORN

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Does an alcoholic have a right to a driver's license?

Most highway safety experts agree that the alcoholic is a sick person, the victim of a disease who needs medical and psychiatric care.

But they add one factor: Behind the wheel of a car, the alcoholic is a killer.

This year more than 56,000 persons were killed in automobile accidents. More than 3.5 million persons were injured. Alcohol was involved in 25,000 of the fatalities and 800,000 of the injuries recorded in 1969.

MUST ACCEPT BLAME

Closer to the mark, the 1968 alcohol and highway safety report submitted to Congress by the Transportation Department says alcoholics — compulsive drinkers — must accept the major share of the blame for alcohol-involved accidents.

★ ★ ★

Most state laws identify drunk drivers by the amount of alcohol found in the blood. The federal government has proposed a uniformed standard of not more than one-tenth of 1 per cent (.10) by weight.

So far, 24 states, and the District of Columbia and Puerto Rico, have conformed to the federal standard. Twenty four others use a higher (.15) standard, and one, Utah, uses a tougher (.08). But three — New Mexico, Texas, and Mississippi — have no standard.

★ ★ ★

What does the .10 per cent standard mean to a drinker? A chart published by the Health, Education and Welfare department shows, in rough averages, that a 150-pound man, drinking on an empty stomach, could have 5 one-ounce shots of 80 proof liquor in one hour before he reached the .10 per cent level. On a full stomach, the same man could down 7 one-ounce shots of 80 proof liquor.

DIFFERENT CASE

In a state using the .15 per cent standard, the same man drinking on an empty stomach would be allowed 8 one-ounce shots of 80 proof liquor on an empty stomach and almost 10 on a full stomach before he was legally drunk.

Who drinks like that? The social drinker can, but seldom does. The case against the alcoholic is different. According to a Transportation Department study, alcoholics involved in fatal accidents "invariably had blood alcohol concentrations of .10 per cent and higher."

★ ★ ★

According to Dr. William Haddon Jr., former director of the National Highway Safety Bureau, alcoholics, who make up only about 4 per cent of the drivers on the highway, may be responsible for nearly one-half of the highway deaths.

One statistic more revealing than most is that Transportation Department studies showed up to 57 per cent of the drivers killed in single-car accidents had blood-alcohol readings of .10 per cent and higher.

(Next: How can the alcoholic be kept off the highway?)

Movie Ordeal to Be Repeated

Film Lost, Frenchman to Return to W. Irian

JAKARTA (AP) — French documentary film maker Pierre Gaisseau says he plans to return to the Lost Valley of West Irian to reshoot 23,000 feet of "superb film" showing the little-known Stone Age tribesmen there.

★ ★ ★

Gaisseau lost the film—and nearly lost his life—in a disastrous trip through rapids of the Idenburg River earlier this month. The expedition began three months ago when its 15 members parachuted into the valley. It ended when their rubber canoes were torn to shreds by the razor-edged rocks of the rapids.

Gaisseau, 47, filmed the Oscar-winning documentary "The Sky Above, the Mud Below" on an earlier expedition in West Irian, the Indonesian half of New Guinea.

★ ★ ★

On the latest trip, he said, he went through three unexplored valleys in the mountains. Some of the tribes inhabiting the area are known to be cannibals.

'BEST FILM'

"That film we lost was the best I have ever taken," he said. "The natives were friendly and reacted wonderfully.

"They thought I was a witch doctor and treated me as such. It was all my cameras, tape recorders and video tape gear that mystified them. We had no trouble from them at all."

★ ★ ★

The film maker said the end of the expedition could have been worse.

"It was hard losing all that film," he explained, "but if we had gone on another two miles or so, we would have hit the worst rapids I have ever seen. They are in a canyon, and I am sure some or all of us would have been killed if we had tried to ride them."

TEAM STRANDED

The team was stranded on the banks of the Idenburg for several days, but managed to salvage a damaged radio and signal for help. A small helicopter from Australian New Guinea ferried them out one by one.

Gaisseau said the film was in a waterproof bag and was tied to two inflated tire tubes. He said he offered a $2,000 reward for its recovery, and several crocodile hunters who work along the Idenburg are searching for the brown bag.

★ ★ ★

Meanwhile, he is making plans to return to West Irian in January to remake the film if it is not found. This time he will not try to come out by canoe, he'll call for a helicopter.

Report by Police

EAST LANSING (AP) — The fraudulent check unit of the Michigan State Police reports processing 229 bogus checks during November. Face value of the checks totaled $61,680, State Police said. Crime detection units at East Lansing, Plymouth and Warren, meanwhile, conducted 2,000 examinations, identified 59 suspects in criminal cases and processed 41,216 latent fingerprints.

Tricia Nixon, daughter of President and Mrs. Richard Nixon, walks with escort, Edward Cox, a Harvard Law School student and resident of New York City, at the International Debutante Ball Monday night in New York City.

Tricia at Ball With a 'Friend'

NEW YORK (AP) — Tricia Nixon and her frequent escort, Edward F. Cox, were among the onlookers Monday night as 62 debutantes made their bows in an elegant world of pink and silver at the 15th International Debutante Ball.

Miss Nixon, the President's older daughter, made her own debut at the ball in 1964 with Cox as her escort. They told newsmen a total of seven times Monday night that they were still "just good friends."

Cox, a Harvard law student, appeared a bit weary of answering questions about rumors that they will become engaged. As far as he was concerned, he said, "People can think what they will."

★

Miss Nixon, the President's elder Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Robert H. Finch, whose daughter Maureen, was the first debutante to appear.

The event was held in the mammoth grand ballroom of the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel which had been decorated in a Versailles theme. The tables were covered with pink linens and centered with pink tapers in sterling candelabras entwined with live orchids.

The 62 debutantes include 13 girls from foreign nations, 10 from New York State and 39 from other states. More than 1,000 guests attended the $60 a plate affair.

SEE-THROUGH DRESS

There was one slight problem. Miss Carolyn Anne McKenzie, the English deb, arrived in a white lace see-through dress with pants. The committee made her change clothes.

"I'm not ready for pajamas at a debutante ball," declared Miss Beatrice Joyce, the ball's founder. "I don't think we ought to do that."

"They're far more liberal in London," commented Miss McKenzie. "It isn't as though I'd done anything indecent."

'Met' Opens With 534th Aida Under One-Armed Conductor

By MARY CAMPBELL
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK — The Metropolitan Opera finally opened on Monday night, despite as many past and present difficulties as an opera plot.

The opera season, delayed by a labor dispute, opened with "Aida." The Met has performed the Verdi opera more often than any other and had scheduled it for its opening 16 weeks ago.

The opera management and unions didn't agree on a new contract until two weeks ago. Rehearsals didn't start until agreement was reached.

Top "society" personalities were missing from the opening night audience which included Mayor John V. Lindsay, composer-conductor Leonard Bernstein and several UN diplomats. An expected air of excitement that the opening finally had arrived could not be detected.

Conductor Francesco Molinari-Pradeli, himself a replacement for ailing Thomas Schippers, conducted the opening night without the right arm he broke one day earlier while leaving church.

Most observers thought the season wouldn't be able to start until January. But, as one union leader said, "Our people could do 'Aida' if you woke them up in the middle of the night." It was the 534th performance of "Aida" at the Met since 1886, the 10th one on an opening night.

CAST

On stage were "Aida" veterans, Leontyne Price, who has been with the Met since 1960 and now enjoys the rare distinction of singing her third opening night; Richard Tucker, who will celebrate his 25th anniversary with the Met in January; Robert Merrill, who sang at general manager Rudolf Bing's first opening night in 1950, and Irene Dalis, who debuted with the company in 1956. They all sounded in their prime. Tucker's voice was ringing, reminiscent of a Caruso recording, and Miss Price lived up to her reputation as the best contemporary Aida.

The opera, though well sung and smoothly staged, didn't really ever become a great evening in the opera house. The conducting seemed erratic. The dancing was not good. The final click of inspiration was missing.

Rod MacWherter, who was to sing the messenger in the opera, became ill a few hours before curtain time. Paul Franke sang the part. And tenor James McCracken, scheduled to sing Radames at the Sept. 15 opening night, is under contract to the Barcelona Opera at this time. Richard Tucker sang in his place.

★ ★ ★

The Met management estimates its deficit for the season at $7 million.

Under the new contract, orchestra players are at a $300 a week minimum, chorus members at $215 and ballet dancers at $185. Reports differ as to the amount of acrimony over the long union-management wrangle, but all agreed that everybody was working hard to bring order out of the chaos.

Says Sex Education Emphasizes Biology

NEW YORK (UPI) — Child psychiatrist Bruno Bettelheim says sex education tends to encourage promiscuity by concentrating too much on the biological aspects of reproduction.

★ ★ ★

In an article published in the Ladies' Home Journal, Bettelheim says most sex education courses are conducted as though "teaching sex were like teaching addition or subtraction . . . where nothing more happens than an intellectual taking-in of information."

Learning about addition "will normally create no anxieties that interfere with understanding, but the opposite is true of young people learning about sex," Bettelheim said.

★ ★ ★

The University of Chicago psychiatrist said sex instruction, while covering the physical aspects of the sex act, should "never neglect the all-important emotional factors that . . . determine whether the physiological experience will take on the tenderness and attachment we want sex to have for our children."

'Squeezed' Infant Suffers Fracture, Internal Bleeding

DETROIT (UPI) — A five-week-old infant, born with a defective lower spine and a condition known as hydrocephalus, is in critical condition at Wayne County General Hospital today, suffering from internal bleeding.

Little Barbara Booth, who weighs only five pounds, sustained a "minor" fracture of the femur thigh bone Saturday when a 12-year-old retarded girl picked her up and squeezed her in the acute hospital ward of the Plymouth State Home in suburban Northville, where both were patients.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Homer F. Weir, superintendent at the home, said the retarded girl wandered from her room three doors away and discovered the Booth infant.

"She picked up what she probably thought was a doll and was loving it when one of the nurses down the hall saw what she was doing and took the baby.

The internal bleeding developed some time after the incident.

★ ★ ★

Weir said he sent the baby to the county hospital because her blood count was continuing to plummet.

"She can get blood transfusions there and then possible surgery to locate the bleeding," he said.

"If they can get the bleeding stopped, she could come along. But she's not what you'd call a good risk."

The infant's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Booth, of suburban Garden City, were married in April and have no other children.

Aging Parents Demand Time Claims Writer

By ELIZABETH L. POST
Of The Emily Post Institute

The following letter deals very well with an ever-present problem. I am using it as the basis for my article today because it discusses a situation familiar to many of us. While it presents only one side, it may cause some members of the other side to stop and think, and possibly mend their ways.

★ ★

Dear Mrs. Post: You state in one of your recent columns that it is selfish of married children living near their parents to neglect them — that the parents wanted weekly calls, visits and/or invitations from their married children and grandchildren.

You certainly said a mouthful when you mentioned that the damage in this relationship had already been done. I am sure these children are not simply forgetting their parents in oversight. The parents most likely make that impossible.

Does it occur to you that these may be parents who cannot let loose the strings? They may have offered a great deal of unwanted advice, interfered and tried to dominate and manipulate these same children. These may be parents who have never learned to derive satisfaction from living an interesting and independent life of their own.

Husband Is Cop Out Father by His Childish Behavior

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My problem is a husband who loves to tell everybody that he is "growing up with his children."

We have two sons, 10 and 12, and their father is well known among the neighborhood kids as a "good sport." And no wonder! There is absolutely no discipline around this house. Anything goes. Nothing but fun and horseplay!

Our sons have become obnoxious, loud-mouthed, know-it-alls who won't listen to either one of us.

What is the matter with a man who is blind to the fact that his sons do not need another playmate — they need a father!

THEIR MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: He hasn't grown up himself yet! Furthermore, in his eagerness to win the approval of his sons, he is depriving them of a father. All children need a "hand" (sometimes a firm hand, a helping hand — and occasionally the back of one). If your husband continues to cop out as a father, you will have to be the strong one. Pity.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: After some of the disgraceful sights I've seen in miniskirts, I never thought I'd like to see the day when I'd complain because skirts were too long, But here I am.

Abby, those maxi coats! They are hideous. What are the fashion designers trying to do to us women anyway? Do we have to go from one extreme to the other? Granted, those short, short skirts way up to here were terrible on most girls over 22. But now they're trying to shove these Grandma Civil War styles down our throats. Please, please, let's get some sort of a protest movement going. Or do you like them?

HATES MAXI LOOK

DEAR HATES: I don't "like" them, but given a choice between the mini and the maxi, I'd take the maxi. And the only "protest" that will ever be effective is the one which affects the designers, wholesalers, and retailers in the pocketbook. If you don't like 'em, don't buy 'em.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: Three years ago a "gay" guy wrote to you asking if he should marry if he could satisfy both parties. You advised him not to. Your advice was not taken, and today he (and I) are facing a situation identical to one I just read in your column from "Troubled Out West."

For six years this "gay" guy and I had a romance going. (I am also "gay.") He decided that for "appearances" sake he should marry a young woman he knew as a friend. (He believed, as many homosexuals do, that if he married, all suspicions of homosexuality would disappear.)

My friend's wife had "suspected" the truth about him, but of course he admitted nothing. They've been married for three years, have one child and another on the way. Meanwhile his "gay" relationship with me has never stopped. We see each other at least twice a week.

★ ★ ★

It is a game of hide and seek. He is not "happy" with his wife, but he feels "safer" married. He also feels a sense of obligation now that he is a "family man." I am not happy without him and I won't stop seeing him.

★ ★ ★

I have the feeling his wife knows about us but she will never give him up either.

I am writing only to say that if a girl suspects a man is "gay," but marries him anyway, hoping to change him, she is in for a big disappointment. Sign me

TROUBLED OUT EAST

DEAR ABBY: I read a letter in your column from a mailman who signed himself, "WALKING DRY." He wanted to know where all the nice ladies were who used to give the mailman a glass of cold water.

Well, I can tell you where they are. They're on MY route in Westland, Mich. I've had coffee, tea, and chocolate, both hot and cold. And cookies, and fresh fruit. I've also been given fresh vegetables from their gardens, and large bouquets of flowers from their yards.

And that's not all. I've had hand-made gifts, and even a pure bred shepherd with registration papers. These were all presents. And not at Christmas time either. But that's another story.

No. 45 in WESTLAND

★ ★ ★

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to Abby, in care of The Pontiac Press, Dept. E-600, P.O. Box 9, Pontiac, Mich. 48056. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Noise Effects Studied

BOSTON (UPI) — Such noises as sonic booms could have an emotional and psychological effect on unborn babies as well as their mothers, scientists said Sunday.

Dr. Lester W. Sontag and a panel of scientists summed up science's proofs that excessive noise, even of less intensity than sonic booms, is bad for the heart and blood vessels in addition to the hearing of adults. They discussed the matter at the annual meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

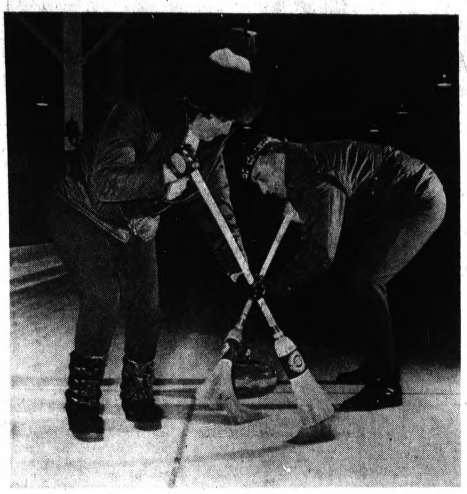
Who says the doldrums have to set in after the excitement of Christmas is over? Not this bunch of youngsters who take advantage of winter fun in Murphy Park. New gift skates and ski jackets found under the tree last Thursday, add a bright note to the cold season ahead.

Fashion/Now



Word goes out from the skip. Sweep, sweep. Rochester husband-wife team, Ethel and Jack Allingham begin to slick the ice for the smooth sailing stone. Sophisticated black teamed with white is Ethel's choice for her curling outfit. She adds a dash of glamour with touches of fur on hat and boots. Jack's handsome sports outfit is a blaze of red and cut for the trim look. Badges on his tam tell a story.

Curling Gets New Image as Fashion Sweeps Rink

By JEANNE NELSON

The Scots claim to have invented that grand, old game of curling some 400 years ago. But, Oakland County is responsible for its start here in the United States about 139 years ago. In fact, at that time the shout of the skip's "sweep" could be heard clear across Orchard Lake as the first group of curlers gathered for a game.

★ ★ ★

In another year, several clubs had formed in the Detroit area; and, when the ice was right, there developed many a bonspiel (club contest) right there on the Detroit River at the foot of Joseph Campau Street.

It wasn't until the turn of the century that the Detroit Curling Club erected its present indoor facility on Forest Avenue. A disastrous fire in 1948 partially destroyed the building (which has since been repaired and modernized) but never the curlers' spirits.

CURLING CLOTHES

The Detroit Club will play host to the International Bonspiel Jan. 8-11, where it's expected that all those different curling outfits could cause their own sweeping wins. Don Thomas, owner of the Sporthaus at Somerset Mall, says most of the clothes used for this sport are interchangeable with active and apres-ski wear. One exception is gloves. Curlers wear warmly lined leather finger gloves while skiers need suede mitts.

Boots must be warm to withstand long periods on the ice. Trim ski pants are most often topped with matching ski sweaters and warm, but lightweight, jackets. Hats are the fun accessory, with some curlers going to outlandish extremes. Of course, the tam remains ever popular and is seen in a multitude of tartans.

Dana Lockniskar, who acts as the club's public relations man invited me down to participate in a curling game and, while I'm not going to win any prizes for my sweeping, I must say here and now, this is great sport. And even more importantly, the players exhibit such enthusiasm that it would take a real sour-grapes type not to get caught up in the spirit of the game.

Curling has lots of pluses going for it and not the least among them is the fact that it's truly a family sport. Watching some of these families enjoying the game together, it was hard to remember that the generation gap we hear about is still around.

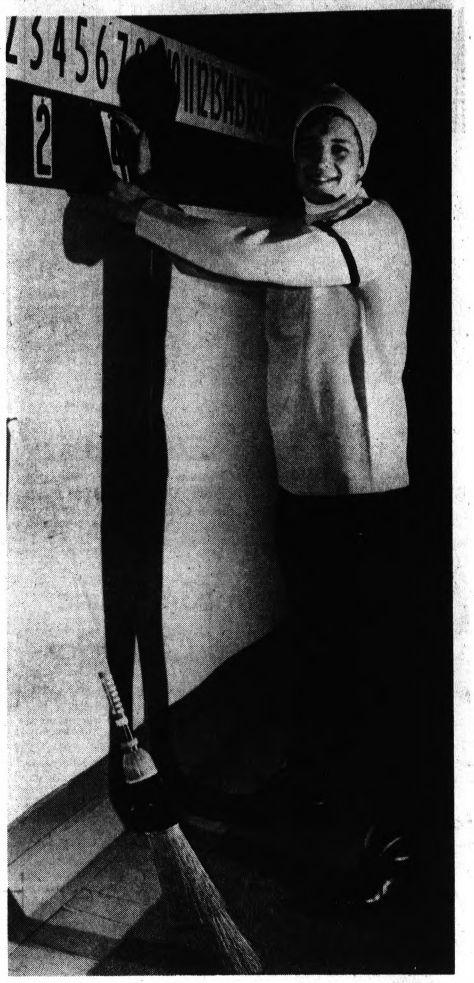
Although it's a thrill to deliver a stone exactly as the skip has indicated, sweeping has got to be the real fun part. With arms going as fast as the body allows, it takes every bit of balance the player can muster to keep a running pace without slipping on the ice that's kept absolutely smooth.

There's no doubt that the old game of curling has been sadly overlooked through the years. However, recently industry has taken a second look at this sport and has shown some interest in forming new clubs for employe participation.

★ ★ ★

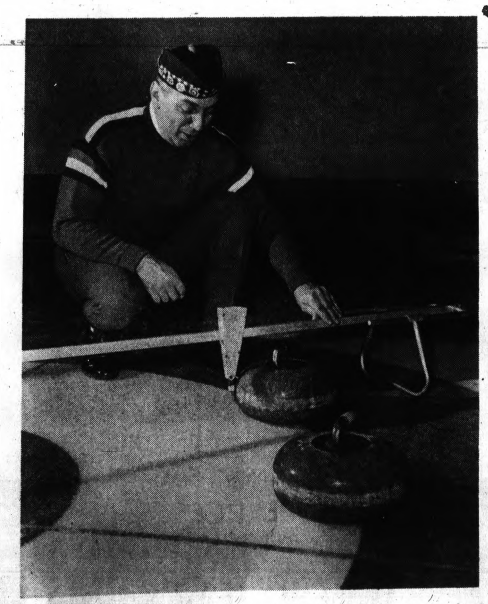
Perhaps curling is best described in "The Spirit of Curling" by Fergie Ferguson of Milwaukee, Wis., who says: "The heart of curling is in its incomparable spirit. Without it, it is just another pastime. With it, it's the spirit of all games. The spirit of curling is reflected in its most cherished traditions."



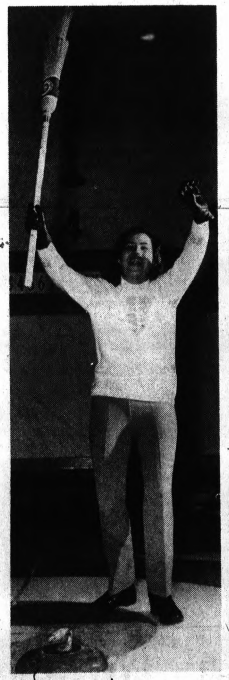
The racer's look is adopted by Andover High School student, Hyatt Wilson of Bloomfield Township. His navy ski pants are trim and topped with a powder blue all-wool sweater featuring the white and navy racing stripes. A coordinated cap follows the blue-on-blue theme.

All curling and ski fashions shown are from the Don Thomas Sporthaus located in the Somerset Mall, Troy. Pontiac Press photos by Rolf Winter.

It's serious business here as Ethel Allingham tests the measuring instrument's accuracy. Denise Green checks her opponent's figures in a bright red and white print blouse teamed with her black pants.



If you think close only counts in horseshoes, you're wrong. Jack Allingham measures the minute differences in these two stones. His scarlet crew neck sweater carries the racer's stripes so popular with sportswear this season.

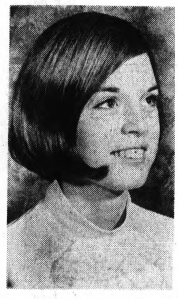


It's in the house and a near shot rock signals pretty Mindy Livermore. Mindy, who's an RN at Pontiac General Hospital, wears a delicately designed ensemble of coco, apricot and white. Her white wool sweater from Turkey carries an unusual front panel and hip border design in apricot.

Joe Livermore of Orchard Lake, puts his own brand of body English to the stone as Mrs. Denise Green of Troy gets ready to take her directions from the skip. Denise's black ski pants follow bell bottom styling and her bright red new, longer jacket features the "wet look." Joe is all turned out in brown. His matching sweater contains a bold front pattern in green and gold.

August 15 is the wedding date selected by Sally Jane Hunter and Gerald James Feil. Both are students at Western Michigan University. The bride-elect is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Neil R. Hunter of Waverly Drive. Parents of the prospective bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. James G. Feil of Roseville.

Kathryn Ellen Trudeau and her fiance, Lance Craig Bedini are planning to marry. Parents of the engaged couple are the Norman Trudeaus of Sherbrook Road, Commerce Township and the John E. Cudahys of Mundelein, Ill. The bride-elect attended Oakland Community College. Her fiance attends Triton Junior College.



Mr. and Mrs. George Luenberger of Oriole Road announce the engagement of their daughter, Donna Rae, to Michael C. Nichols. The prospective bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Marie Nichols of Green Street and the late Lawrence W. Nichols. Michael attends Oakland University. April 25 wedding vows are being planned.

Handle Your Charity Dollar Carefully

By ANNE TAYLOR
AP NEWS FEATURE

Many charity drives step up their campaigns around this time of year, which brings me right to the point: Handle your charity dollars as carefully as you do your food or investment dollars.

Lest I appear the least bit misanthropic, I hasten to add that I'm all for giving to charity — but I advocate throughtful, not emotional giving. It's the only way to handle money.

★ ★ ★

Here are some tips I have prepared for the charity season:

- Check up on any new charity seeking your money. Ask a few simple questions, and if the answers don't satisfy you, don't give.
- Be certain that the collector really represents the charity. There is no set procedure for determining this, but if the individual is unknown to you, he or she should not object to showing credentials.
- Be wary of organizations that use telephone appeals, telegrams or other "pressure" tactics. Ask that all pertinent facts be available in written form. Frauds don't like to put things in writing; honest charities always have printed matter available.

RETURN

- Remember that you are under no obligation to return or pay for any unsolicited merchandise that comes through the mails. No straightforward charity will attempt to confuse you on this subject.
- Don't be too timid to ask the solicitor for a charity unfamiliar to you if he or she is willing to provide a detailed report of activities — maybe even a financial statement.
- Ask how much of your contribution will be spent for the purpose for which it is collected, and what percentage is to be spent for administration and fund-raising costs.

Sometimes fund-raising costs can reach preposterous proportions. The Better Business Bureau found earlier this year that one "charitable" organization had operating costs totaling 76 per cent of collections.

FINANCIAL REPORT

How do you interpret financial statements of charitable organizations? It isn't always easy, although some standardization is being reached.

At the moment you might find one charity states that it spends 15 per cent of income on fund-raising, while another reports operating costs of 7.5 per cent and another 7.5 per cent on public education.

Both charities might be worthwhile, but their manner of telling you so is different. The fact is that both are spending 15 per cent on fund-raising, no matter how they state it.

To clarify misconceptions, the National Health Council and the National Social Welfare Assembly have been leaders in adopting uniform auditing statements and terminology for 54 voluntary health-welfare agencies and thousands of their affiliates.

★ ★ ★

Until complete uniformity is achieved, however, it is wise to look closely. When you determine that most of the revenue is going for administration, put your money back in your pocket book.

Before dipping into your pocketbook, you may wish to consider your own selfish interest. Is the gift taxable? Not all are, you know.

If you have any doubts, call the nearest Internal Revenue Office. Relieved of tax-season pressures, I have found them remarkably prompt and helpful with questions.

The couple married Jan. 3, 1920 in Pontiac and have lived here ever since. Their children are: Mrs. Jess Hobson or Ortonville, Raymond and Harold, both of First Avenue: Mrs. Orville Kelly of Shimmons Road, Pontiac Township, Paul of Maybee Road, Independence Township and Mrs. Ronald Hetherington of Tilmor Street. There are 10 grandchildren.

So---Hearing Isn't Always Believing

By BETTY CANARY
NEA Writer

I went to the doctor because I thought perhaps noise pollution had finally caught up with me. He checked my ears, said nothing was wrong and sent me home to tell my family I could hear them all right, but I didn't particularly like what I heard.

★ ★ ★

I can't remember when I started thinking something was wrong with my ears, but I can remember when I thought our eldest son had gone stone deaf. This was before I knew that every child around age 15 acquires the ability to simply tune others in and out at will. Right now my second son can do it and he is only 13.

There is a way of coping with this problem. If you have been screaming, "PLEASE take out the garbage!" or growing hoarse what with trying to get him to clean out the garage, then you are going about it in the wrong way. Go into a room with a closed door.

Go outside. You could even go all the way across town. Then, whisper, "I think we might raise your allowance." He will hear you. He will be right beside you. With his hand out. Grasp the hand firmly and say, "Now that I have your attention . . ."

But, back to a parent's hearing problems. I have always checked what my children read as I have worried over their picking up gutter words. However, I wasn't prepared to have my youngest daughter start calling me "Mumsie, dear." She even started saying things like, "I shan't be late."

TEA TOO?

I saw the book she was reading. The little girl in it always wore white embroidered dresses and loved talking with Mumsie Dear's gardener. The cook, too. Being called "Mumsie, dear," wasn't the only thing bothering me. I was afraid she'd start asking me to serve tea every afternoon. Not to mention providing her with a drawerful of gloves and a wicker box filled with handkerchiefs from Switzerland. Frankly, I was glad when Babs took that book back to the library.

And wouldn't any mother question her hearing if a boy who spoke perfectly at two forgot at age nine? "Whа?" my son asked me. "Nnn, I din."

I have discussed these problems with others and discovered I was not alone. I ended up with a three-page list of things mothers do not like to hear. It includes:

A group of sixth-grade cheerleaders doing flips in an upstairs bedroom. Tennis balls bouncing off the side of the house when someone is trying to take a nap. Electric guitars at midnight. Toys that honk and whistle while one tries to talk on the phone. Children who honk and whistle while one tries to talk on the phone.

★ ★ ★

Compiling the list did more for me than my trip to the doctor's office. It really eased my mind. For one thing, I was surprised to discover that every one of the mothers with whom I spoke has a child who says, "Granzelbach fritze," when asked, "What did you do in school today?"

Almost all of them have a child who says, Puhds and scrnd bff," when asked, "What was served for lunch?" Most of those who have teen-agers report that, upon being asked, "Where are you going?" the son or daughter invariably replied, "Gnitz dn."

Tan Slowly Without Burn

To get that tan without suffering through a painful sunburn next summer, medical authorities suggest you begin your first day with about 15 to 20 minutes of exposure each on your face and back and then extend the period in the sun each day.

Increase exposure by one third the second day, another third the third day, and so on. Remember that painful burns can be caused by wind as well as sun, and that even on a cloudy day it is possible to get a severe burn.

Freshman Girl on Rifle Team

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Linda Lee Duke, who learned to shoot at the age of 13, now has a top position on the University of Florida's Rifle Club "A" team.

Since all members of the team are required to take Army ROTC, the 17-year-old freshman from Cocoa, Fla., is the only "regular" Army girl on the campus.

With a score of 255 points out of a possible 300, Linda Lee is accepted as "a regular guy, but sort of a little sister, since I am the youngest on the University team."

She spends about 10 hours a week on the rifle range, an hour in ROTC class and two hours in drill. In her spare time she likes to sew.

Food Preparation

Avoid Disease; Keep Hands Clean

Looking for a practical and rewarding New Year's resolution? Then resolve always to use lots of soap and water in your kitchen.

Let's face it. Food poisoning ranks second only to the common cold as the most frequent cause of illness in the United States.

★ ★ ★

"To avoid food poisoning, people should learn a few facts about basic hygiene. Many do not realize that we should wash our hands in soapy water after handling raw meat, poultry or eggs before working with other foods," reports Elsie Dawson, supervisory food technologist with the Agriculture Research Service in Beltsville, Md.

Miss Dawson, head of the Consumer Use of Food Laboratory, University of California (Berkeley), adds, "Anyone cooking should keep her hands away from her mouth, nose and hair. Also, anyone ill or with an infected cut should not prepare the meal. It also is wise not to use the hands for mixing foods, at least whenever possible."

START FRESH

Don't dip a spoon or fork into cooking food a second time. Use a fresh one for second dipping. This also will help prevent food from being contaminated by bacteria.

Certain bacteria growing in food may cause illness by entering the body and setting up infections in the digestive tract. Other bacteria may cause toxins which cause illness. Salmonella spreads simply and easily by eating contaminated food or by contact with an infected person. The symptoms are headache, vomiting, diarrhea, cramps and fever.

★ ★ ★

Staph, probably the most common food-borne disease, causes vomiting, diarrhea and cramps. These symptoms, incidentally, often are attributed to other causes. Other illnesses caused by food bacteria are botulism, often fatal, and Perfringens, which results in nausea, diarrhea and acute inflammation of stomach and intestines.

These threats can be avoided. The U.S. Department of Agriculture, in cooperation with the Grocery Manufacturers of America, is now working on a project to alert homemakers to the hazards of foodborne illnesses and how to avoid them. A new pamphlet, "Keeping Food Safe to Eat," was prepared by the Human Nutrition Research Division. (For a copy, send 10 cents to the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402.)

This effort concentrates on proper storage, preparation and serving of "sensitive" foods, such as meat, poultry, fish, eggs and dairy foods; also on dishes which contain these products — custards, creamy sauces, dressings, casseroles and gravies.

"We emphasize clean hands, clean counters and clean utensils to prevent contamination. We stress that food may not be safe to eat if held for more than three or four hours at room temperatures, between 60 degrees and 120 degrees, the temperature zone where bacteria grow rapidly. Always serve food soon after cooking. Or refrigerate promptly," Miss Dawson adds.

Make Own Notepaper

DEAR POLLY — Janet asked how to make an outer decorative covering for notepaper, using waxed paper and toilet tissue. I am sure she meant facial tissues. I have great success with the following method: Paste cut-out flowers or pressed leaves on waxed paper.

Lay a SINGLE sheet of facial tissue over the "picture" you have made. Make a mixture of half water and half all-purpose white glue. Spread this generously over the top of the tissue with a one-inch brush. Let dry, then iron on the WAXED PAPER side. I use a deckle cutter for the edges when the sheets are cut to the size of the notepaper. — SISTER GLORIA

★ ★ ★

DEAR POLLY — I hope my Pointer helps Janet, who has disappointing results making notepaper with tissue and other papers. First, lay a piece of white shelf paper or other white paper on the ironing board. Smoothly lay on it a piece of that clear, clining plastic wrap we use in the kitchen.

Put your design of dry leaves, flowers or just pictures and perhaps some glitter in place, then a sheet of waxed paper over the top. Press gently with a BARELY WARM iron.

Test a piece first. The result is a very pretty and unusual effect. Be sure to have the "front" of your decorations against the plastic wrap, as the waxed paper side will be the wrong side. Cut to fit the notepaper you wish to use inside this decorative folder. — MRS. G.K.

★ ★ ★

DEAR GIRLS — Even though Mrs. G.K.'s letter included a beautiful example of her method, I simply could not believe it could be done so easily and quickly and with no messy pasting. It worked great and takes far less time than other methods. The biggest trick is to have the iron on the right temperature. Experiment a bit, as you do not want the plastic to stick to the shelf paper, which is really just a protection to the ironing board. — POLLY

POLLY'S PROBLEM

DEAR POLLY — One rainy evening, the rubber strip came off our windshield wipers and left a long scratch on the passenger's side of the glass. Is there any way to remove this scratch? — MRS. J.K.

Bo Claims Loop Title First Target

PASADENA, Calif. — As far as Michigan coach Bo Schembechler is concerned, neither the Rose Bowl nor any games with non-league teams which are meant to decide the ratings, will ever be as important as winning the Big Ten title.

"Sure this has been a new and exciting experience for me and for the players, but playing Southern Cal in the Rose Bowl could never replace the traditional rivalry with Ohio State or Michigan State," said Schembechler.

* * *

"For teams like Notre Dame or Penn State: independent teams, the No. 1 rating might mean a lot more, but for most teams in conferences, winning their league titles always comes first," he added.

Bo admits that the atmosphere of the Wolverine training camp prior to this Rose Bowl has been entirely different from the atmosphere prior to the Ohio State game.

MANY FACTORS

"Ohio State was the No. 1 team in the country, the defending Big Ten champion, the Rose Bowl champion, brought the largest crowd ever to Michigan Stadium, plus the fact that OSU has been a long traditional rival and the factor of revenge we had remembering the whipping we took in 1968, are many reasons why the atmosphere was different for that game," said Schembechler.

"The past two weeks have seemed so long and it has been like an all new training camp starting again . . . The distractions have been many.

* * *

"I was once in favor of repealing the no-repeat rule for going to the Rose Bowl, but now I'm waivering.

"I can now see why the rule was passed. Southern Cal, which has been in the Rose Bowl three straight years, didn't have to be away from home for Christmas.

"If we could practice in a warmer climate closer to home, then go home for Christmas and come out a day or so before the game, I might think differently," Bo added.

The fact that USC has been to three straight Rose Bowls and now the fourth, does have its advantages Bo admits.

TIME TO LEARN

"I think it is especially an advantage to the coaches. I'm sure that McKay (USC coach) has learned how to handle his boys to get them ready for this post season game.

"If we should work the boys too hard, or maybe not hard enough with one or two drills a day, or with or without pads every day, are psychological factors we must consider."

Schembechler doesn't think that USC will be peaked psychologically because of the fact that Michigan is unbeaten in four Rose Bowl games and whipped USC 49-0 in their lone clash in this famous bowl.

"The revenge motive would exist if the current players had faced each other as was the case when we played Ohio State this year.

* * *

"I'm sure McKay could find it easier to bring his team up for UCLA than for us."

Anyway, the distractions of which Schembechler speaks, such as going to Disneyland, Universal City, the public luncheons and dinners and the press conferences, all come to an end Wednesday when Bo and his 50-man traveling squad go into seclusion.

"It will probably be the quietest New Year's Eve most of you boys have spent. We will watch a movie and be in bed by 10 p.m."

2 Longhorn Teams Seek Sports Titles

By the Associated Press

Not one, but two, Texas Longhorn teams are playing for championships this week.

The Texas football team, ranked No. 1 in the nation, meets Notre Dame in the Cotton Bowl Saturday. The basketball team, a far cry in success from its football counterparts, plays Seton Hall of New Jersey for the Hurricane Classic title in Miami tonight.

* * *

The Hurricane Classic is just one of scads of holiday basketball tournaments. The important thing, is that the obscure Longhorns bumped off fifth ranked Ohio University 73-65 Monday night to gain the final berth.

* * *

The unexpected victory won't bring the Longhorns into the national rankings but it boosted their record to 5-4 and brought the Bobcats their first defeat in eight games. The Longhorns jumped ahead to stay 26-25 with three minutes to play in the half. The fumbling favorites managed only 32 per cent from the field but Craig Love grabbed 28 rebounds to break the Classic record and lead Ohio to a 55-52 edge on the boards.

MILDER UPSETS

Sixth-ranked Tennessee and eighth-ranked Houston were shot down in milder upsets.

Unbeaten but unranked Niagara stunned Tennessee 69-68 in the semi-finals of the All College tournament at Oklahoma City. All-American Calvin Murphy scored the winning basket with 13 seconds left to win the Purple Eagles a berth in tonight's championship game against Oklahoma City.

* * *

Santa Clara used a tight zone defense to hand No. 8 Houston its first loss in 10 games, 85-63, in the semifinals of the Las Vegas Holiday Classic. It was sweet revenge for the Broncos, since their loss to Houston earlier in the season knocked them out of the national rankings.

* * *

In other games involving the Top 20 teams in The Associated Press' new weekly poll, top-ranked Kentucky breezed past Miami of Ohio 80-58 with a five-mintes 17-5 scoring spree midway in the second half and remained unbeaten in eight games, while No. 2 UCLA beat Ivy League Princeton, but barely, for the Bruin Classic Championship at Los Angeles. The Bruins won their seventh straight, 76-75, on Sidney Wick's 12-foot jump shot in the final three seconds.

Pistons Slump in 4th Quarter

By The Associated Press

The Detroit Pistons had to throw away a 14-point lead with five minutes left in the third period to come out a loser Monday night against Cincinnati in National Basketball Association play.

The Detroiters showed off before a home crowd of 5,500 for nearly a full three periods, but fizzled out to a 110-103 loss to the Royals.

* * *

In the only other NBA action Monday, Atlanta defeated San Diego 122-118. In American Basketball Association play, Indiana topped New Orleans 94-89.

The Royals' Fred Foster scored 13 of his 19 points in the third period to help Cincinnati roll into its comeback. They scored nine straight points late in the period to cut Detroit's lead to 83-81.

SCORING SPREE

Then Norm VanLier scored a basket for the Royals at the outset of the fourth period to tie the game. Moments later Connie Dierking broke loose on a personal six-point spree that put the Royals ahead for keeps at 89-87.

The Royals now have three straight wins. The Pistons have lost eight of their last nine outings.

Wilson had been averaging about 15 points a game.

OU Reaches Cage Finale

Special to The Press

ALMA — Oakland University pulled away in the second half here last night to defeat Florida Presbyterian, 73-56, and reach the final round of the Alma Jaycee Basketball Tournament.

The Pioneers will play Alma College tonight for the championship.

* * *

Alma gained the title round by holding off Aurora College of Illinois, 88-84, in last night's other contest. Aurora and Florida Presbyterian will play for third place in tonight's opening action.

Oakland moved to a 35-31 halftime lead against the Florida quintet and steadily pulled away in the final 20 minutes to even its record a 3-3.

* * *

Coach Gene Boldon used 12 players and 10 scored. Freshman Carven Nelson led the Pioneers with 19 points. John Eley was next with 12. Ken Anthony netted 25 for the loser.

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Despite a game-high 23-point total by Reggie Piggee, Wayne State University's basketball squad fell 65-60 Monday night to Illinois-Chicago Circle.

Field Position Important

Kick Returns Big 'M' Asset

By BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

PASADENA, Calif. — Field position, a factor which has contributed to much of the success for the Michigan Wolverines this season, is something the Southern Cal Trojans will be determined to prevent when the two teams clash in the 56th renewal of the Rose Bowl football classic Thursday.

"Michigan's ability to return punts and kickoffs and gain great field position has been a great asset," said USC coach McKay. "This was a big factor in beating Ohio State and this is what we will have to guard against."

* * *

McKay has been using this as part of the psychology to bringing his team up for the Wolverines but he doesn't go into detail in pointing out that the two main kick return specialists Glenn Doughty and Barry Pierson will see none or little action.

"Doughty is definitely out. The surgery he had on his knee was very successfull and Glenn may be on the sidelines watching the game," said Michigan coach Bo Schembechler.

FINAL PICTURE

The cast Pierson has been wearing on his right forearm since his injury at Ann Arbor prior to leaving for the coast, was removed yesterday and a final X ray was scheduled for today.

"Billy Taylor will be in for kick returns, with either Lance Sheffler or Preston Henry at the other return spot," the coach noted.

Doughty returned three kickoffs for 86 yards against Ohio State, while Pierson had a 60-yard punt return and three interceptions against the Buckeyes.

* * *

This earned him the defensive player of the week honor after the triumph over OSU.

For the season, Pierson has returned 20 punts, the second highest in Michigan history. Lowell Perry had 22.

Taylor, who like Doughty is a sophmore, started the last five games at running back for Michigan and in this time he had runs of 84 (Illinois), 71 (Iowa) 28 (OSU), 24 (Purdue) and 21 (Minn.) in his accumulation of 808 yards in 123 carries for a 6.6 average and seven touchdowns.

NINE TOUCHDOWNS

USC will counter in its running game with Clarence Davis who has piled up 1,275 yards in 282 carries for a 4.5 average and nine touchdowns.

"Having looked at the films of all 10 games and last year's Rose Bowl of USC," said Schembechler, "I'd say they are much stronger defensively than any team we will have faced this year, and they have a more balanced running game than when they had O. J. Simpson as their big gun last year."

With Davis, the Trojans have Charles Evans who has a 4.3 average in 70 carries, Mike Berry with a 4.4 average in 60 carries and Lou Harris, recovering from a long injury, with a 5.3 average in 25 carries.

Michigan's offense against the highly touted Wild Bunch defense of the Trojans will rest primarily in the hands of 6-3 and 200 pound quarterback Don Moorhead, a junior from Ohio, who has picked up 565 yards on options and 1,134 yards passing on 89 of 178 attempts.

"What have you been told about USC," someone asked Moorhead in a press interview.

Coach Schembechler sitting nearby immediately brought on an outburst of laughter when he said, "Don't answer that, that's for your information only."

"I do know after watching the film that they are tough on the running plays and on the pass rush when they have to," said Moorhead. "I know they sacked the UCLA quarterback eight times."

"Missouri was good on the pass rush and USC plays similarly," the Wolverine QB added.

ANXIOUS TO PLAY

Asked about whether he thought the team could reach a peak similar to that of the OSU game, Moorhead said, "We've had our fun out here, but I think all the guys realize they are here to play football and the past few days we have become really anxious to play the game.

"It's been a long trip and I guess most of the guys would like to end it with a good game and go home," he added.

* * *

"Would you like to be a coach in a situation like this," Moorhead was asked.

Again Schembechler added a note of humor by interjecting, "You guys know that whatever he (Moorhead) says, he's going to be wrong."

RECORD SETTER—Ohio University's Craig Love outraces two Texas players for a loose ball in last night's Hurricane Classic basketball game in Miami. The 6-0 Love, former Birmingham Groves star, grabbed a tournament record 28 rebounds. But Texas handed the Bobcats their first loss in eight outings, 73-65.

'Now You Show Up, Hear,' Joe Frazier Warns Ellis

NEW YORK (AP) — "It was a fight that had to be made," said Angelo Dundee, manager of Jimmy Ellis, the World Boxing Association heavyweight champion.

Madison Square Garden knew that a long time ago and after 15 months of trying, the Garden finally got Ellis and Frazier, who is recognized as heavyweight champ in seven states including New York, to agree to a Feb. 16 match to settle the issue once and for all.

"Now you show up, hear?" said Frazier, pointing at Ellis. "Don't pull out on me. No bloody noses in training or anything. Heck, I get bloody noses from colds or when my little girl pops me."

Frazier was loose and ebullient, obviously happy to finally nail down his on-again, off-again bout with Ellis. But nobody was happier than Harry Markson, Madison Square Garden's director of boxing.

Markson had been on the trail of the bout ever since Sept. 14, 1968 when Ellis successfully defended his WBA crown by outpointing Floyd Patterson.

It took quite a bit of negotiating including the agreement of the WBA and New York State Boxing Commission to waive the champion-challenger relationship for the bout. The two fighters will get equal billing, Markson said.

Frazier and Ellis each agreed to $150,000 guarantee against 30 per cent of the fight's revenues. Markson said seats would be priced from $10 to $100 with the Garden scaled to do $750,000 for a sellout.

UCLA Step Away From Kentucky '5' in Weekly Ratings

By the Associated Press

Kentucky remains on top in the major college basketball rankings, with UCLA, the defending national champions, just a step away.

The Wildcats, who ran their record to 7-0 with a 102-100 squeaker over Notre Dame Saturday night, outpointed UCLA 480-470 in the balloting by sports writers and sports casters on The Associated Press panel.

* * *

Kentucky picked up 15 first place votes while UCLA, 6-0 after decisive triumphs over Louisiana State and Georgia Tech last week, got the remaining 10.

Kentucky was the runaway leader a week ago. The Wildcats then outpointed the Bruins 612-548 and received 27 first place votes to UCLA's four.

West Virginia Coach May Head for Texas

ATLANTA (AP) — A rumor that West Virginia Coach Jim Carlen is considering the head coaching position at Texas Tech persisted as his team prepared to meet South Carolina in the second annual Peach Bowl tonight.

The rumor first popped up Sunday with reports that unnamed sources in Lubbock, Tex., Daily Telegraph reported Monday night that Lubbock sources said Carlen had visited there for conferences about the job.

Carlen denied there was any substance to the rumor. "I don't know where that rumor got started," he said, "but there's nothing to it. I'm happy with the job I have.

"Right now my only concern is South Carolina," he said.

8th Straight Loss Suffered by Novi

Novi suffered its eighth straight setback of the season in the Milan Holiday basketball tournament last night, losing to Carleton Airport, 79-58.

The two teams played evenly through the first quarter, with Airport taking a slim 20-18 lead into the second stanza. But hot shooting by Airport combined with a cold spell for the Wildcats pushed the Jets to a 43-31 halftime lead.

Tom Boyer led Novi with 12 points, followed by Bob Bibian with 11 and Tom VanWagner with 10.

Hat Trick No Help

Jack Lewis turned the hat trick, but it wasn't enough for the Waterford Rangers yesterday as they fell to their second straight loss, 6-3, to the Warren Blades.

The Rangers journey to Flint Saturday for a game in the IMA Arena.

BOWLING

Firebird Lanes' boys' classic team dumped the ladies' classic quintet in a "grudge" bowling match Saturday afternoon as Danny Luenberger rolled up a 630 actual series to pace the youngsters.

* * *

The boys, spotted 56 pins per game in the three-game match, came within 82 total pins of beating the ladies in actual score. They carded 2,667 pins against 2,749 for the women. Their handicap boosted their three-game total to 2,835.

* * *

Joining Luenberger on the victorious boys' squad were Bill Poe at 589, Jimmy Bonfiglio at 496, Glen Millikin at 482 and Don Martell at 470.

Ella Irwin's 595 led the ladies, followed by Ethel Hanna (560), Terry Grant (533), Virginia Quick (532) and Shirley Pointer (529).

Pontiac Boys Club Wins Cage Tourney

The Pontiac Boys' Club won the Bay City Christmas basketball tournament for under-14-year-olds during the weekend.

* * *

Pontiac notched wins over Bay City, Lansing and Royal Oak to win the permanent and traveling trophies which go to the winner.

* * *

Tommy Howard was the winning squad's high scorer in the three games and Walter Scruggs of Pontiac was named tournament most valuable player.

SLIM HIPS HELP — Being strong is an advantage in any sport, but being big—particularly across the hips—appears to be a disadvantage. Most of the consistent money winners on the pro tour in recent years have been slender men. They are able to keep the ball close to their body as they swing and this is certainly an asset.

First Round Ends on Winning Note

The Lakeland Hawks bantam team closed out the first round of hockey league action during the weekend with a pair of one-sided wins.

* * *

The Hawks wound up 7-2-1, good for second place in the league behind the Fraser Chiefs. They downed Grosse Pointe 9-1 Sunday after gaining a 7-2 win over Southfield Saturday.

* * *

Eric Rose and Dave Jamnik each notched a hat trick during the weekend action.

JUMPING WOLVERINES—Dan Fife of Michigan takes a jump shot last night in the Wolverines' 105-65 victory over Butler at Ann Arbor. The former prep All-Stater from Clarkston collected 15 points. Steve Norris (10) of Butler attempts to block the shot while teammate Tim Nicksic (34) and Michigan's Richard Carter look on.

Wolverine Cagers Romp Past Butler

ANN ARBOR (AP)—The University of Michigan, rebounding from a 15-point loss to Utah a week earlier, threw in 50 points in the first half on the way to a 105-65 romp over Butler Monday night.

* * *

Michigan's season record is now 2-4 while Butler fell to a 4-6 mark.

* * *

"We were very sharp in the first half," commented Wolverine Coach John Orr. "And our shooting was the best we've had."

* * *

Michigan shot 61.4 per cent in the first half, sinking 27 of 44 attempts from the field. The Bulldogs' attempted to stymie the Wolverines collapsing on All-American Rudy Tomjanovich, but the 6-foot-7 forward fouled the Butler strategy with 34 points, upping his season average to 29.9 points per game.

SAME SIZE

Butler's the first club Michigan has faced whose height has not been superior.

The only nice thing about the game for Butler was the play of diminutive (5-foot-10) guard Bill Shepherd. Shepherd threw in 25 points and forced numerous Michigan turnovers. But the game was Michigan's from the outset as the Wolverines leaped to an 8-1 advantage with less than three minutes gone. The Bulldogs pulled to within one, then Michigan took off on a rampage that saw Butler outscored 34-19 in the next 12 minutes.

* * *

Michigan's 15 turnovers led Orr to comment; "We didn't run as well as we should have and our second half was subpar in the beginning."

Errant passes hurt the Wolverines as the second half began. Butler, capitalizing on the errors slashed eight points from Michigan's 24-point edge. But the Wolverines shook off the short slump as Bill Fraumann hit on two free throws and Tomjanovich slammed in a driving hook.

Michigan Sextet Tops Yale, 6-3

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Wisconsin defeated Brown 4-2 in the St. Louis Invitational Hockey Tournament championship game Monday night and Michigan beat Yale 6-3 for third place.

* * *

Merle Falk scored a three-goal hat trick for Michigan as the Wolverines overcame Yale in the opening contest.

Adams Swims Away With Relays Title

Rochester Adams walked off with the title in the First Annual Rochester High School swim relays during the weekend.

Adams picked up two first places and tied for another in piling up 48½ points against 45 for second-place Bloomfield Hills Lahser.

* * *

The rest of the seven-team field finished in this order: Madison Heights (29½), Utica Stevenson (28), Rochester (27), Utica (20) and Clawson (12).

One pool record in the new Rochester facility fell during the relays as Lahser's 400-yard freestyle squad covered the distance in 3:51.5, eclipsing the old mark of 3:58.7.

MSU Tripped by Illinois in Cage Play

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Michigan State's basketball team will try to brighten their outlook this afternoon with a consolation victory in the Far West Classic.

The Spartans will meet Temple in the final round of consolation play.

* * *

Illinois earlier whipped MSU 86-77 in the consolation bracket, although Michigan State's standout sophomore, Ralph Simpson, led the Spartans with 32 points.

Oregon, the defending tournament champion, will meet Washington in the finals. The tenth-ranked Huskies downed Oregon State 85-65.

Earl Relives the Phenomena That Made 1969 a Big Year

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—I hope everybody enjoys looking back over the past as hungrily as I do.

The Show Biz Bests of 1969 have to include the "revolutionist" youth, auto-establishment productions—"Easy Rider," "Midnight Cowboy," "Alice's Restaurant" — which will probably have to fight it out with "Hello, Dolly!" "They Shoot Horses, Don't They?" and "True Grit" for the Oscar. If Hollywood in 1970 is still age-oriented and conservative as many believe, "Hello, Dolly!" will snatch the award—but don't be too sure there's not a youth vote in the Academy, which could overturn the Establishment.

WILSON

Some of us oldsters were shocked when Buddy Hackett, Don Rickles and Anthony Newley spoke a 4-letter word in night clubs (or even a 3 in the case of Buddy Hackett) but when Katie Hepburn did it, we noticed that the audience shrieked and applauded. What was going on here?

★ ★ ★

"Hair," which some of us frowned on because it had a nude scene became evidently, a clasic, with Michael Butler employing companies in many cities and nobody thinking it very dirty any more.

Best New Groups (after the unsurpassable Beatles) were the Rolling Stones, Blood, Sweat and Tears, and Blind Faith . . . Top girl rock singer: Janis Joplin . . . Magic Word to Groupies: Fillmore East . . . Poet Laureate of the movement: still Bob Dylan.

Most worried profession in America: Barbers. Kids getting hair cut once every 3 or 6 months . . . Big deal (rather perilous) Celebrity franchise restaurants . . . Most interviewed personality in the world, Jacueline Susann, who said she loved reading "Portnoy's Complaint" but wouldn't want to shake hands with the author.

★ ★ ★

Host With the Most (Room): Earl Blackwell, whose penthouse party after "Coco" was what the GIs in Vietnam would call "outstanding" . . . Man Doing Everything (including getting a divorce and new sneakers): Woody Allen.

THE MIDNIGHT EARL . . .

Joe Namath insisted that a photographer give up his film taken of him at a party at his TV producer's penthouse where everybody was convivial . . . Shelley Winters is in huge demand for talk shown since her classic clash with David Susskind. Maybe they'd do a series?

Secret Stuff: A forthcoming film, with a gambling title, already is a gamble . . . A west side discotheque may be 1970's first casualty . . . Lynn Redgrave's worried about her father's reaction to her first nude scene in Columbia's "The Virgin Soldier."

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "Practical politics consists of Ingoring facts."—Henry Brooks Adams.

EARL'S PEARLS: Van Panopolous of 37th St. Hideway saw this sign, "Season's Greetings—Beware of Dog."

"Maxicoats are a gam shame" (Tom Manessis) . . . That's earl, brother.

Current Books

THE WAR IN THE AIR, THE ROYAL AIR FORCE IN WORLD WAR II, edited by Gavin Lyall. (Morrow, $7.95)

This nifty anthology is the middle offering in a three-part series on the British forces during World War II.

The first, "The War at Sea," was issued last year and the final work, "The War on Land," tentatively is listed for January release.

★ ★ ★

For war buffs, the series is a must. The RAF edition, like the Navy anthology, is six pounds of action in a five-pound book.

Lyall, piecing together first-person accounts from a variety of sources, chronicles the RAF from 1939 to the end of the war, from Hitler's march into Poland which triggered England's entry into the war, through the RAF's struggling development, on to Africa and finally to the frustrating account of a prison camp liberation.

Paul Robbins (UPI)

THE STRUGGLE FOR SURVIVAL, by Eliot Janeway. (Weybright & Talley, $8.50)

Eliot Janeway, economic adviser to President Franklin D. Roosevelt and many private corporations, believes the United States has "compromised her leadership in the world economy" by allowing one-time colonial powers to "transfer their former colonial responsibilities to America" while continuing to benefit from America's dollar outflow.

The U.S. decision to play reformer in Asia "was implausible from the outset provocative to foreign cynicism and tragic for idealism everywhere," the author says.

★ ★ ★

By the time Washington realized what was happening, Janeway says, "Europe was in firm political control of the balance of power between America and the Communist world, and in even firmer control of the world's largest pool of free dollars . . ."

Janeway also claims former President Lyndon B. Johnson would have had fewer financial and political problems if he had been honest with Congress and the American people.

★ ★ ★

Instead, the author charges in this highly critical book, he "resorted to escalation by stealth."

John F. Barton (UPI)

Adults, Unborn Hurt by Noise'

BOSTON (UPI) — Such noises as sonic booms could have an emotional and psychological effect on unborn babies as well as their mothers, a group of scientists claims.

Dr. Lester W. Sontag and a panel of scientists summed up science's proofs that excessive noise, even of less intensity than sonic booms, is bad for the heart and blood vessels in addition to the hearing of adults. They discussed the matter at the annual meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science (AAAS).

* * *

Sontag, director of Fels Research Laboratory at Yellow Springs, Ohio, said, "The fetus, while he cannot speak for himself, may have equal or greater reason to object to" excessive noises as adults.

"We must be concerned about its being a possible damaging aspect of the fetus' environment and a contributing factor in the total behavior and adjustment patterns in its later life," he told a symposium on noise.

HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE

Dr. Samuel Rosen of Mount Sinai School of Medicine in New York said. "Physiological effects of noise in the human, other than auditory, have not been given sufficient attention by scientists."

Dr. Joseph P. Buckley of the University of Pittsburgh said sounds such as compressed air blasts and bells and buzzers established pathological high blood pressure in his laboratory rats. He and his associates are experimenting with drugs to curb such pressure elevations and could eventually be useful for noise-plagued humans.

* * *

The infant and environment also are the subjects of a new science unveiled today. Called "environmental biology," the new science says as the infant grows, curiosity becomes dominating and it must be satisified if either is not to be environmentally deprived.

Dr. Richard Allen of Johns Hopkins University Medical School of Baltimore, its advocate, noted the child's brain reaches 90 per cent of its eventual adult size by the age of 5.

BASIC PREMISE

The basic premise of the science, as outlined by Chase, is that competence of human behavior can de "enlarged or destroyed by alterations in environmental structure."

"Environments that impair behavioral development should be disallowed in the same way that we disallow dangerous foods and drugs and dangerous pollution of the physical environment," he said.

* * *

The environment of concern to environmental biology has nothing to do with parental affluence or poverty or with what the child is taught in facts or beliefs.

Its environment is that in which the developing young human is or isn't provided with the environmental responses he must have at the time he needs them if he is to develop into a fully competent adult.

CRIPPLED BEHAVIORS

If he doesn't get them, first from parents, later from teachers, the result are "individuals crippled in their social and intellectual behaviors because of early environmental deprivation," Chase said.

On the other hand, evolving techniques of environmental biology offer "an opportunity to explore the far reaches of the human potential."

* * *

In Chase's view "No child should be allowed to suffer preventable retardation of behavioral development because of environmental deprivation. I can think of no more fundamental human right than the right of every infant and child to an early environment that allows him to become a broadly competent human being."

KATHLEEN IVES

Girl Named Queen of Job's Daughters

Kathleen Ives, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Ives of 203 Thalia, Avon Township, will be installed as queen of Rochester Bethel 51, International Order of Job's Daughters, at 7:30 p.m. Saturday at the Masonic Lodge of Rochester.

Other officers to be installed include Janice Rowland of 322 Griggs, Rochester; Kaye Askew of 1710 South Blvd., Avon Township; Nanci Snook of 6892 Coolidge, Troy; and Vicki Crandall of 4204 S. Mill, Dryden.

The program is open to the public.

Turkey-Egg Loss Is Laid to Birds' Stand on Laying

EAST LANSING (AP)—Turkeys lay their eggs standing up. Chickens, who are smarter, squat.

The result: 20 to 30 per cent of eggs laid in a given turkey flock are cracked or badly damaged by the fall. Chickens don't have that problem.

* * *

Michigan State University poultry experts have designed a shock-absorbing rubber "carpet" to reduce the egg casualties and improve the turkey birth rate.

"The average drop is about 10 inches," Richard I. Divelbiss, MSU's agricultural research editor said yesterday." There's a tremendous loss of money in cracked turkey eggs every year."

Egypt will produce three new breeds of cotton that will increase productive quantity, yield earlier and be longer and stronger.

PGH Budget Hearing Is Set

A public hearing on the $14.9-million budget for Pontiac General Hospital will be conducted by the City Commission at tonight's meeting at 8 at City Hall, East Wide Track and East Pike.

★ ★ ★

The budget, up some $2.5 million from last year, calls for raising room rates an average of $5 per day.

★ ★ ★

Most of the hospital's expenses are paid by users of the facility and the new budget does not require additional city funds.

Following the hearing, the budget will be up for approval.

Kennedys Holiday at Colorado Resort

VAIL, Colo. (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and 11 other members of the Kennedy clan are spending a Christmas and New Year's skiing vacation in this Rocky Mountain ski resort.

★ ★ ★

Sen. Kennedy arrived Dec. 23, about two days after most of the others. They plan to remain here until Jan. 5.

★ ★ ★

Other members of the group were identified by a resort spokesman as Kennedy's wife, Joan, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Smith, Pat Lawford, two of the Kennedy's children, two Smith children and three Lawford children.

'M' Musical Groups in Pasadena Concert

The University of Michigan Marching Band will present a joint concert with the U-M Men's Glee Club in Pasadena's Civic Auditorium tonight.

★ ★ ★

The band has begun an intensive period of rehearsals in California for appearances in the Tournament of Roses parade and the Rose Bowl game Thursday.

★ ★ ★

Eleven of the bandsmen are from the Pontiac area, including Dale Cheal of 219 Cherokee, Pontiac, on the euphonium.

Representing Waterford Township are Kenneth Hebenstreit of 2931 Barkman, clarinet; James Tallman of 4929 Payton, euphonium; and Charles Bush of 1128 S. Hospital.

2 FROM BIRMINGHAM

Two U-M marching band members hail from Birmingham. They are Patrick Haggerty of 18242 Dunblaine, percussion, and David Unewehr of 31093 Fairfax, euphonium.

David Wetter of 4535 Kirkaldy, Bloomfield Township, plays the cornet as does Jeffrey Bisanz of 2708 St. Joseph, West Bloomfield Township, and Michael Bowman of 1925 Hopefield, Orion Township.

★ ★ ★

Both Eric Pearson of 794 Castlebar, Avon Township, and Dana Wiegand of 67 College, Pontiac Township, play the tuba in the marching band.

The band, under the direction of William D. Revelli, is staying on the campus of the University of California at Los Angeles.

Judge Acquits, Blasts Student

CHICAGO (AP) — Judge James B. Parsons of U.S. District Court dismissed draft evasion charges against Dennis M. Gustavson, 26, a Bloomington, Ill., law student Monday. But finding for the young man didn't stop him from making a few remarks.

★ ★ ★

"These college brats are always conniving, but I have to uphold the law. The Selective Service should spend more money on supervisors instead of on lawyers."

★ ★ ★

The ruling said Gustavson was denied "proper procedure" when he requested conscientious objector status from his draft board.

★ ★ ★

"Sometimes when I turn people loose I hope they go out and get hit by a car," Judge Parsons added.

Fire Destroys 2-Story Home

Fire yesterday destroyed a two-story home at 571 Central, Lake Orion.

No one was in the home, owned by William Holberg when the blaze started according to Fire Chief Jack Caylor.

★ ★ ★

Damage to the building and contents was estimated at $23,500, Caylor reported. Cause of the blaze is still under investigation.

Trade Moderately Active

Market Depression Continues

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market continued to be depressed in moderately active trading early this afternoon.

At noon the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials showed a minimal gain of 0.40 to 792.77 after having been down 2.44.

★ ★ ★

The Associated Press 60-stock average at noon had dropped .7 to 268.1, with industrials off .8, rails off .8, and utilities up.1.

The market opened on a firm stance but quickly began drifting lower on a broad front.

Analysts said persisting tax-loss selling on this next to the last trading session of the year weighed on the market.

★ ★ ★

Declines widened their edge over advances to nearly 400 among individual issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange.

★ ★ ★

On two occasions during the morning the Big Board ticker tape trailed in reporting floor transactions.

A block of 172,000 shares of U.S. Plywood-Champion Papers was traded at 31, off 1⅛, on the New York exchange. Both the seller and buyer were institutions, according to the broker who handled the transaction.

★ ★ ★

Among prices on the American Stock Exchange were Four Seasons Nursing, off 2⅝ to 67⅜; Nortek, up 1½ to 24⅞; Research-Cottrell, off 2¾ to 59¾; Telex, off 1 to 95⅛; Asamera, off ⅝ to 17¾; and Slick, off ½ to 21⅞.

Bridge Tricks From Jacobys

By OSWALD & JAMES JACOBY

In the match between the Dallas Aces and the Walsh teams, both South players reached four spades and had no trouble making the contract.

Bobby Goldman, who was South for the Aces, jumped to four spades to announce a good spade suit and minimum hand. On the system used by him and Billy Sisenberg, the two-club response, followed by the return to two spades, committed the partnership to game. Bobby's jump to four spades gave a complete picture of the hand.

A careless player might take a quick look at dummy and play out his ace and king of spades. Should the queen drop, he would be able to try for a couple of overtricks but the actual trump, heart and club situation would probably lead to our careless friend winding up one trick short of his contract.

We say probably, because a clairvoyant declarer could recover from this bad start.

Careless players don't get into a match to determine the North American International Team and Bobby didn't fall into this trap.

He ruffed the second diamond and led out one high trump. Then he played a heart to dummy's ace and a heart back to his jack. West was in with the queen and could find no better lead than a club. Bobby won in dummy and was now ready to play his second high trump. The king of hearts and a ruff of the fourth heart came next and eventually West made his queen of trumps.

Of course, the hand was a standoff. Dick Walsh made the same four spades in the other room.

Junior Editors Quiz on GULF STREAM

QUESTION: Where does the Gulf Stream start and what makes it warm?

★ ★ ★

ANSWER: Put a kettle of water on a hot stove and after awhile steam will spout out from it, steam that has a lot of push. The boiler of a steam locomotive is a larger kind of kettle. The Gulf of Mexico, a body of water surrounded by our Gulf states, the eastern shores of Mexico and part of Central America, is another kind of kettle.

Its waters, lying in a kind of pocket, become warmed by the southern sun. Like steam from the kettle, these (warmed waters) pour through the Straits of Florida, then take a Northeast course along the American coast, passing some way offshore.

This is the Gulf Stream, a kind of ocean river. About 50 miles wide and 3,000 feet deep, it slows its speed as it moves North. When reaching North Carolina, it is moving about 40 miles a day.

From Newfoundland it heads Northeast, flowing more slowly, and divides into three branches. One moves toward Iceland and southern Greenland; one upward to Scandinavia and the third south toward Spain. Here this last joins several other currents which carry them back to the Gulf of Mexico.

In the center is an area of calm, where old time sailing ships were often trapped. Where the Gulf Stream passes cold countries, it changes their climates, making them milder.

MANY ACT AND REACT IN ACCIDENTS MANNER. MORE TRAFFIC ACCIDENTS ADD TO SAD STATISTICS OF NEW YEAR'S EVE. KEY IS TO STRIVE FOR FUN COMBINED WITH MODERATION. STARTLING NEWS DEVELOPMENT AFFECTING WAR AND PEACE COULD BREAK INTO GENERAL HOLIDAY REVELRY.

★ ★ ★

ARIES (March 21-April 19): You could break up important relationship by acting in stupid manner tonight. On positive side, you could make amends, keep promises and rekindle flames of love.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): You can make this a marvelous time if you avoid excess. Realize that to much of even the best can produce a hangover effect. Word to wise here should be sufficient.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Romance is emphasized. A young person may feel left out. Realize you do not gain happiness at expense of others. Welcome New Year with clean conscience.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Some guests who are, in a sense, uninvited could create disturbance. Maintain sense of balance and humor. Your own constructive action can make this a glorious evening.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Good lunar aspect tonight coincides with short journey, special dealings with neighbors, relatives. A new contact proves exciting, invigorating.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Avoid eccentric actions associated with money, valuable possessions. Your intuitive intellect is on the beam. Follow through on inner feelings. Be alert — and aware.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Tonight is fun time socially. But you could act in somewhat of a puzzling manner — even to yourself. Member of opposite sex responds favorably. But do not commit yourself.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Do not neglect individual who is not free to get around. Special visit could work wonders as morale builder. You may have to attend to last-minute details.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Friends prove stimulating. Appreciate desires of others. This could be romantic evening, punctuated by genuine communication with one important to you.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Prestige rises; you are given credit for brilliant plan. Best results come from entertaining at home. Seek harmony with family member. Don't argue.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Take special care if traveling. There is tendency toward confusion about directions, traffic regulations. Travel only with one who is moderate and sober.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 220): Money transactions should be delayed. Promises made under the influence prove worthless. Deal only with responsible individual. Get commitments in writing.

IF WEDNESDAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are stubborn but willing to change your mind when confronted with facts. You fight for underdog. A recent relationship could blossom into something meaningful.

Hearing Slated on M57 Project

LANSING (AP) — The State Highway Department plans a public hearing Jan. 28 at Clio to take testimony of the proposed $1.7 million reconstruction of 5.8 miles of M57 in Genesee County.

The purpose of the hearing, the department said, was to present details of the proposed reconstruction between M54 and Belsay Road. Highway officials also plan to answer questions about the project Jan. 21 at the Thetford Township Hall.

Sex Education Films Stir Debate in Great Britain

LONDON (AP) — When you are 8 or 9 you begin to question the mystery of life.

"Where do babies come from?" you ask.

★ ★ ★

Then, one day in school, a voice says: "All the people in the world were made in the way we've told you today, by a man and a woman together. All the people in the world grew first inside their mothers' wombs and then were born.

"And that's where babies come from."

PREVIEWS OF PROGRAM

A thousand schoolchildren of 8 and 9 heard and saw this story in previews of new sex education programs produced by the British Broadcasting Corp. and scheduled for general broadcasting later.

The stork has been shot down. Is this good?

★ ★ ★

Dr. Louise Eickhoff, child psychiatrist at Selly Oak Hospital in Birmingham, says: "I have cases to show that children who have been taught by parents without harm broke down as a result of seeing the film 'Birth of a Baby' and television programs."

Dr. Robert Kind, who teaches sex in Leicestershire schools, says: "I personally know of no case where a child has been sent off the rails by sex instruction. Ignorance causes anxiety as well as a good many illegitimate teen-age births. It is the root of many adult sex problems."

'PARENTAL BURDEN'

Much of the opposition to the programs centers on the credo that sex instruction is a parental responsibility. Proponents argue that parents have failed their job, leading to maladjusted generations.

BBC is putting Great Britain alongside Sweden in primary school sex education and ahead of the United States, where television sex instruction in some areas has called forth protest and threats of picketing and court injunctions.

★ ★ ★

Msgr. Francis Thompson, Roman Catholic bishop of Motherwell, banned the films in his diocese. Msgr. John A. Murphy, archbishop of Cardiff, Wales, said: "That there are some immature or careless parents we all agree, but have all the good parents to suffer trespass because of them?"

The government assured Parliament that parental permission will be sought so that no child will be forced to see the programs.

A BBC spokesman said 95 per cent of the parents who saw the previews approved. A spokesman for the School Broadcasting Council, a BBC affiliate, said "Initial reaction from parents, teachers and nearly 1,000 children at previews produced only a small number of objections."

The children themselves talked freely, parent and teacher reports gathered by the council showed.

"Teacher," asked one towheaded youngster after some thought, "how was the first baby born?"

A little girl asked her father over breakfast: "Daddy, you don't have babies until you're married, do you?" Her father agreed. She pondered. "Daddy," she asked, "tell me, how does your stomach know you're married?"

★ ★ ★

British secondary schools have distributed sex pamphlets since 1943.

The earlier arrival of puberty, affecting girls particularly, was a key factor in the decision of the School Brodcasting Council to recommend that BBC do its series.

★ ★ ★

The films take two forms — radiovision and television. In the former, BBC radio broadcasts the words while color films are sent to schools on request. This service will be available in January.

The television productions are divided into three segments to be shown on BBC next June.

FILMS ACTUAL BIRTH

Television produces Clare Chovill has filmed an actual birth from the doctor's side.

Margaret Sheffield, who produced the radiovision films, opted for paintings instead of camera. She showed a man and woman in the act of procreation but cut the painting off at the waist.

Certain technical words for body parts are used in the text but not such words as husband, wife, love and marriage.

"We do not want to upset children who are not part of a conventional family group," she said. "The concept of love would be difficult for children to understand in the context of sex. They would probably connect the word with their pets or dolls.

The Daily Mail has suggested "It will be up to parents to teach their children about love."

U.S. Woos Peking, Vexes Taipei

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — Recent American moves aimed at better relations between Peking and Washington are worrying officials of the Chinese Nationalist government on Formosa.

Government spokesmen so far have said little about such U.S. acts as liberalization of trade restrictions with the Communist mainland.

★ ★ ★

"But actually we are very worried by a series of facts which show the U.S. is changing its policy toward Peiping," a top government official said Friday. Peiping is the Nationalist designation for Peking.

The Nationalist government retreated to Formosa in 1949 and, backed by U.S. military and diplomatic support, has maintained steady hostility toward the Peking government for 20 years.

FOUR ACTIONS LISTED

Officials list four actions they said make them fear this U.S. support may be declining:

● Renewed contacts between the U.S. ambassador to Warsaw, Walter J. Stoessel, and the Chinese Communist charge d'affaires in the Polish capital.

● U.S. Secretary of State William P. Rogers' statements that the United States is doing everything possible to establish friendly relations with Communist China.

● President Nixon's decision to ease the United States trade embargo against Peking.

● A reported but as yet unconfirmed American decision to change or reduce U.S. naval patrols in the Formosa Strait.

"If we combine all these four recent events and study them very carefully, we must be worried about the Nixon administration's changing policy toward Red China," one official said.

"These changing policies are a threat to our own future."

The government headed by Chiang Kai-shek argues that its presence on Formosa is only temporary, and that it is the only legitimate government of all China.

The Nationalists use this to justify such policies as maintenance of martial law on Formosa and a determination to maintain their seat as China's representative in the United Nations.

The Nixon administration says it will continue to back the Nationalist government on Formosa.

Top Stories of 1970, as Told in Peaces

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — One of the national magazines annually picks its All-American football team before the season starts.

Using the same logic, this is naturally the proper time to select the 10 biggest news stories of 1970.

WEST

So, here they are:

1. Peace in Vietnam. When Nixon's strategy of massive withdrawal fails to bring Hanoi to her knees, he threatens to unleash Spiro Agnew.

Communists are warned that unless they cease fire, Agnew will give them the same kind of tongue-lashing he administered to television newscasters.

Communists quail and lay down arms. At peace conference in Paris, North and South Vietnamese delegates agree to return both countries to France.

2. Peace in Middle East. United States and Soviet Union finally agree on play for peace between Israel and Arab states. Plan provides for entire area to rejoin Roman Empire.

★ ★ ★

3. Peace in Northeast Asia. Israel and Arab states agree on plane for peace between Soviet Union and China. Under terms of agreement, China stops work on nuclear missiles. In exchange, Russians drop claim that they invented the fortune cookie.

4. Peace in Africa. Soviet Union and China agree on plan for peace between Nigeria and Biafra. Plan calls for both to apply for American statehood.

5. Peace in Far East. Protestants and Catholics agree on plan for peace between Hindus and Moslems. Under terms of agreement, India and Pakistan are reunited and once again become part of British Empire.

6. Peace in Ireland. Moslems and Hindus agree on plan for peace between Catholics and Protestants. Under terms of agreement Northern Ireland is united with Irish Republic.

★ ★ ★

As compensation to Great Britain for loss of Northern Ireland. Irish Republic agrees to pay the rent on Queen Elizabeth's color television set.

7. Peace in Germany. East and West Germans agree on reunification. Then agree to reinvade France.

★ ★ ★

8. Peace in Central America. Another "soccer war" is prevented as Honduras and El Salvador agree to take up baseball instead.

9. Peace in Washington. Democrats and Republicans agree on plan for peace between Agnew and television networks. Under terms of agreement, NBC hires Judge Haynsworth to Replace Huntley-Brinkley.

10. Peace in Greece. Onassis buys entire country from military junta and installs self as president so Jackie can be a first lady again.

To Doff Old Image

Diana Rigg No Toughie

By DICK KLEINER
NEA Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD — I asked George Lazenby, the ex-mechanic who starts his acting career as James Bond, what he thought of his first leading lady, Diana Rigg.

"She's a tough lady," he said, which anybody who ever saw her as Mrs. Emma (Sexa) Peel on The Avengers would easily believe. And then you meet her and she seems about as tough as vanilla custard.

★ ★ ★

She says The Avengers part was just that — a part. She had no interest in karate before or since. She got very tired, she says, of all the jokes — "Throw me over your shoulder, dearie" — and, as she puts it, "I had to learn how to simper at the joketellers."

The part was such a good one and she was so good at it that she says she just had to stop. And, simultaneously, call a complete halt to playing spies and agents. She appears with Lazenby in the Bond film, "On Her Majesty's Secret Service," but that is it. Finis.

JUST WAITING

But she won't go back to the Royal Shakespeare Company either — "They want you for a year, and I've done that" — so all she can do is wait for something interesting to come along.

"Pretty soon," she says, "I'll be ready for character parts — and I can hardly wait. Maybe I look young now, but I have to face up to the fact that times goes by."

★ ★ ★

She does look moderately young. Especially with all her gold rings. She collects antique gold rings, and has 15 at the moment. She was only wearing nine, and all on the left hand.

"On both hands," she says, "it gets a bit flashy."

Why only gold?

"I'm a gold person," she says. "I have a theory that people's skin toes are either gold or silver. I'm gold."

2 Men Rob Collector on Fisher Street

An insurance collector was abducted and robbed of $325 at gunpoint as he left a home on the city's south side yesterday, Pontiac police report.

William Taylor, of Grand Blanc told police he had just finished making a collection on Fisher Street about 5:30 p.m. and was walking toward his car when he was approached by two men who forced him into the car.

★ ★ ★

When he tried to break away, Taylor said, one of the men tried to spray an unknown substance in his eyes and the other hit him in the back of the head with a small revolver. He said the gun fired when he was struck.

Taylor said that he was then ordered to drive to a location about three blocks away on Wilson, where he was able to jump out of the car.

His shouts for help, he said, apparently frightened his abductors and they fled on foot.

Titanic Survivor Dies at Age 81 in Oregon Home

BURNS, Ore. (AP) — An Oregon man who survived the sinking of the Titanic died Monday at the age of 81.

He was John James Hollis, who was with his mother and his brother aboard the Titanic on its maiden voyage across the Atlantic Ocean on April 15, 1912.

The Hollis trio were among about 500 survivors. More than 1,500 other persons went down with the ship after it struck an iceberg.

Hollis, blind for the past 32 years, died at a nursing home at Burns, in southeastern Oregon.

LA Issues Warrants on 'I Am Curious'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Warrants are out for eight movie houses in Los Angeles County showing the Swedish film "I am Curious (Yellow)" and officers have begun confiscating prints of it on the ground it's obscene.

Sidney A. Cherniss Jr., head of the district attorney's special section on pornography, said Monday the warrants were obtained after law enforcement officers viewed the production and signed affidavits that, in their opinion, it was obscene.

Initial confiscations were made in Inglewood and Hermosa Beach. The other affected theaters are within the Los Angeles City limits.

Used-Car Lots Get Regulation

The Waterford Township board last night approved an ordiinance regulating and licensing used-car lots.

The ordinance requires that every used-car dealer in the township register with the clerk's office and that only used cars may be sold at the lots.

★ ★ ★

The ordinance says it will be illegal to use a lot for storage of junk cars or for display, trade or sale of any car that is not in operable condition.

The lot licensing fee is $10. The penalty for violating the ordinance is a fine of no more than $100 and or imprisonment in the county jail for not more than 90 days.

GASOLINE PACT

In other business the board awarded the two-year gasoline contract for all township vehicles to Ashland Oil and Refining Co., 4304 Lessing, Waterford Township, though it was not the low bidder.

Ashland bid $12,807 while the only other bidder, Pure Oil Division, Union Oil Co. of California, bid $12,736.

★ ★ ★

A representative of Ashland Oil explained that they own several of the township's underground storage tanks and would be forced to sell or remove the tanks if the contract went to another company.

He said the difference in removing or purchasing the tanks is more than the difference in the bids.

TO BUY TANKS

After awarding the contract the board moved that the township negotiate with Ashland Oil and Refining Company to purchase the tanks or, depending on their age, to remove the tanks and purchase new tanks in order that there will be no extenuating circumstances in the awarding of future gasoline contracts.

★ ★ ★

The board also denied two rezoning applications. One application asked that 21 acres on North Lake Angelus east of Clintonville be rezoned from single-family residential to multiple dwelling for the construction of a 288-unit apartment.

★ ★ ★

The application was denied at the recommendation of the planning commission because of the large investment people of the area have in their homes.

The second rezoning application, for four lots on Cass Lake north of Cass Elizabeth, was denied because of a change in building plans of the applicant.

★ ★ ★

The board moved to hold its next meeting Tuesday at the Waterford Board of Education Building at Elizabeth Lake and Airport.

Police Probe Motel Thefts

Two television sets and a bedspread, valued at a total of $450, were taken from two rooms of the Edgewater Beach Motor Lodge and Apartments, 3664 Dixie, Waterford Township police reported yesterday.

★ ★ ★

Police said someone entered the rooms by cutting a window screen, reaching through it and unlocking the door sometime Sunday night.

Cause No. 25128
STATE OF MICHIGAN—In the Probate Court for the County of Oakland, Juvenile Division.
In the matter of the petition concerning Willie James Perks, minor.
TO: Willie J. Perks, father of said minor child.
Petition having been filed in this Court alleging that said child comes within the provisions of Chapter 712A of the Compiled Laws of 1948 as amended, in that the present whereabouts of the father of said minor child is unknown and said child has violated a law of the State, and that said child should be continued under the jurisdiction of this Court.
In the Name of the People of the State of Michigan, you are hereby notified that the hearing on said petition will be held at the Court House, Oakland County Service Center, in the City of Pontiac in said County, on the 5th day of January A.D. 1970, at 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon, and you are hereby commanded to appear personally at said hearing.
If being impractical to make personal service hereof, this summons and notice shall be served by publication of a copy one week previous to said hearing in The Pontiac Press, a newspaper printed and circulated in said County.
Witness, the Honorable Eugene Arthur Moore, Judge of said Court, in the City of Pontiac, in said County, this 23rd day of December A.D. 1969.

ORDER FOR PUBLICATION
SUMMONS AND NOTICE OF SERVICE
STATE OF MICHIGAN—In the Circuit Court for the County of Oakland.
J. Rondina, Plaintiff vs. Mario J. Rondina, Defendant.
At a session of said Court held in the County Building in the City of Pontiac on this 9th day of December, 1969.
Present: Honorable Philip Pratt, Circuit Judge.
Upon reading and filing the Affidavit for Publication of Service signed by Lenore M. Rondina, Plaintiff in the above entitled cause in which the Plaintiff has alleged that the Defendant, Mario J. Rondina, resides outside the State of Michigan and that his last known address was 420 Linabergh Drive, N.E., Atlanta, Georgia, and that this is a civil action in which personal jurisdiction over the Defendant is not required.
It is hereby ordered that the said Mario J. Rondina, Defendant in the above entitled cause, answer or take such action as may be permitted by law on or before 1st day of March, 1970, in the action for divorce initiated by the Plaintiff in the above entitled cause or in default of such answer, that the Complaint filed herein will be taken as confessed and the relief demanded in the Complaint filed with this Court.
It is further ordered that a copy of this Order be published in The Pontiac Press at least once each week for four consecutive weeks and that the Defendant may be notified of the pendency of this action and its obligation thereto by mailing or before the date of the second publication a copy of the order to the Defendant at his last known address.
Plaintiff's Attorney: John W. Conlin Jr. Conlin, Conlin, McKenney & Meader 700 City Commerce Building Ann Arbor, Michigan

In Memoriam 2

IN LOVING MEMORY of Roger Dale Stogner who passed away December 30, 1967;
No one knows the silent heartache
Only those who've lost can tell,
The grief we bear in silence,
Of the one we loved so well.
Though we cannot hear his happy laugh,
Nor see his smiling face,
We have many cherished memories,
That death cannot erase.
Sadly missed by Mother, Dad, Brother and Sister.

People in the News

(By The Associated Press)

Poet Allan Ginsberg has filed a federal court suit seeking to force Miami, Fla., officials to let him reschedule a poetry reading at Marine Stadium, admitting all comers free.

A Ginsberg reading Dec. 22 was halted when the stadium manager, Manny Costa, objected to a number of four-letter words and drowned out the recitation with loud music on the public address system.

The poet's suit yesterday also asked $10,00 damages from Costa.

Scranton Resigns Delegation Post

SCRANTON

Former Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania has resigned as U.S. representative to a conference arranging for an International Telecommunications Satellite Consortium.

President Nixon said yesterday Scranton's successor would be Abbot M. Washburn, deputy director of the U.S. delegation.

When Scranton took the post, he said he planned to serve only through 1969.

Actor Don Murray, Wife to Separate

Actor Don Murray and his wife, Betty, blaming incompatibility, have agreed to separate, they disclosed yesterday in a joint announcement.

MURRAY

Married Aug. 2, 1961, in Berlin, they have three children.

Murray, 40, also has two children by his former marriage to actress Hope Lange.

The actor, whose big break came when he played opposite Marilyn Monroe in "Bus Stop," has been seen most recently in the ABC television series "The Outcasts."

His movie credits include leading roles in "Hatful of Rain" and "The Hoodlum Priest."

Actress to Be Released From Med Center

Actress Terry Moore's agent says he expects her to be released within a few days from the University of California Medical Center at Los Angeles, where she is under treatment for a bronchial infection.

The agent, Ray Sackheim, told newsmen yesterday that Miss Moore, 40, has been suffering from a general run-down condition.

Miss Moore's third husband, investor Stuart Warren Cramer III, 41, sued this year for divorce, charging cruelty.

Actor Gets 60 Days in Jail, Probation

INDO, Calif. (AP) — Actor John Barrymore Jr. has been sentenced to 60 days in jail and placed on two years probation after pleading no contest to a charge of possessing marijuana.

In passing sentence yesterday in Los Angeles, Superior Court Judge Karl Davis dismissed another charge, possessing dangerous drugs.

Barrymore, 37, was arrested last Aug. 4 after a traffic accident involving a car in which he was a passenger. The Highway Patrol said investigators found marijuana beneath the seat where the actor had been sitting.

A Look at TV

Cavett Right for Spot

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK — Dick Cavett returned Monday night for his third go-around on ABC and seems, finally, to be the right man in the right time spot.

MISS LOWRY

The format of his late evening show differs from that of his rivals in that he works alone — no sturdy man Friday to help bridge the awkward moments. He has a series of chairs in a simple set to accommodate the guests.

The main difference is Cavett's quiet and effective way of stimulating bright and vital discussion. In his premiere show there was some standard badinage in the Carson style with comedian-writer Woody Allen. The interesting portion came with the introduction of Metropolitan opera soprano Beverly Sills, who spoke of her family and the familiar generation gap. Miss Silsl said she did not particularly want to communicate and that she liked the gap. "I hoep it stays. What I don't heed is a 20-yeara-ld buddy."

Then came Jacqueline Grennan Wexler, former nun, former president of Webster College and now the new head of New York's Hunter College.

SPIRITED, LIVELY

Mrs. Wexler defended the young, spoke of their need for involvement. It was a spirited and lively conversation among intelligent people that shed some light on an overdiscussed subject.

The commercial interruptions often broke up good, rolling conversations. But the tone of the 90 minutes has breat spontaneity, and if Cavett's mix magic with people holds, the program may produce more insomniacs than anything since before Jack Paar quit the late night battlefield.

NBC launched a pair of fragile barks on its channels Monday in another revision of its troublesome daytime schedule. The first was the "Who, What and Where Show," which after 25 minutes had still not answered the question.

The second, and not to be underestimated, is "Life with Linkletter," in which Art and son Jack have pulled together a potpourri of interviews, oddities and show biz gimmicks in a deliberate effort to woo both the older and younger daytime viewers.

The game show is so distressingly, so indistinguishly, similar to a clutch of earlier audience participation programs that one wondered just what there was about it that persuaded the network to give it air time. Three members of the audience were seated at the usual consoles, given $150 to bet and permitted to put their money on their ability to answer an assortment of questions.

The program also has Art James, who has been hosting around game shows for years. The players grimly concentrated on answering questions about Frank Sinatra, Apollo 12, the Cuban invasion and the Whiffenpoof song and had little time for anything else.

Radical Hold Private Session

FINT, (AP — Singing, chanting, snake dancing, calisthenics and karate lessons featured a session of a meeting called by Weatherman, a breakaway group from the Students for a Democratic Society.

Efforts to keep Monday's gathering at a dance hall private included a registration system, shaded windows and a journalists' fee ranging from $25 to $100.

Weatherman, which claims as many as 10,000 members, took its name from a Bob Dylan lyric: "You don't need a weatherman to know which way the wind blows."

The Weatherman, led by 22-year-old Mark Rudd and Bernardine Dohrn, split from the main body of SDS last June at a Chicago convention. Both Rudd and Miss Dohrn attended the Flint gathering which began Saturday and was to continue through Wednesday.

IN SMALL GROUPS

The number of delegates passed the 150 mark Monday night, and most spent the evening session in small groups discussing such topics as male chauvinism, alliances with factory workers and the sugar harvest in Cuba.

A couple of Rudd's lieutenants took the stage to lead calisthenics midway through the evening.

Large posters of Communist heroes—Mao, Lenin and Ho Chi Minh—were displayed in the meeting room.

FOE VOWS CONTINUING FIGHT—Roy V. Harris (hand cupped to ear) waits for an elevator outside the Georgia Board of Regents office after the board had voted to approve former Secretary of State Dean Rusk as a member of the University of Georgia law faculty. Harris, Georgia head of the American party, which supported former Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace for president in 1968, vowed continued opposition to the appointment, which must be renewed yearly.

Rusk OK'd as Georgia U. Prof.

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Dean Rusk, secretary of state under two presidents, will come home to his native state next September as a highly paid University of Georgia faculty member.

His controversial appointment as a professor of international law was approved Monday by the state Board of Regents in a rare special session.

★ ★ ★

Rusk will be paid $45,000 a year. University President Fred C. Davison, who nominated him for the post, receives $36,500.

Rusk, 60, born in Cherokee County, Ga., is presently a fellow of the Rockefeller Foundation with an office in Washington.

9-4 VOTE

He was secretary of state through the Kennedy and Johnson administrations.

Regents approved the nomination by a 9-4 vote after a two-hour meeting behind closed doors. Several regents emerged from the meeting vowing continued opposition to the appointment, which must be renewed yearly.

★ ★ ★

"We don't think he's qualified," said Regent Roy V. Harris of Augusta, Georgia head of the American Party, which supported former Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace for president in 1968.

Opposition to Rusk centered on what some Georgians regarded as liberal views, and the marriage of his daughter, Margaret, to Guy Gibson Smith, a Negro, in 1967.

★ ★ ★

Georgia Gov. Lester Maddox did not attend the meeting, but said if he were a member of the board, "I'd vote against this." He said Rusk permitted security risks to work in the state department and contributed to "the weakness of our international position."

Tax-Reform Bill Signed by Nixon

From Our News Wires

WASHINGTON — President Nixon signed into law today a tax-relief bill for 63 million Americans, including a 15 per cent boost in Social Security benefits and loophole-closing reforms.

But he warned that he will "take the action I consider necessary to present a balanced budget for the next fiscal year."

Still awaiting Nixon's signature was a landmark bill on coal mine safety.

★ ★ ★

Nixon's tax statement indicated the budget will be tight on expenditures, but was silent as to whether he will also recommend tax increases to make up for the revenue losses occasioned by the bill.

The tax package is the biggest in modern history.

The tax relief provisions start becoming effective in 1970—but the relief provisions don't apply to salaries earned in 1969. The full effect won't be felt until 1973 when the last provisions become effective.

SOCIAL SECURITY INCREASE

A 15 per cent across-the-board increase in social security benefits for 25 million persons becomes effective Jan. 1. However, bigger checks won't show up until checks are mailed next April.

In 1970, the $600 personal exemption for each taxpayer and dependent goes to $625. The exemption rises to $700 on Jan. 1, 1972, and $750 on Jan. 1, 1973.

★ ★ ★

The higher exemption, a higher minimum standard deduction and a higher maximum standard deduction are designed to remove 7.6 million poorer taxpaying families from the rolls by 1973, and reduce taxes to another 55.5 million taxpaying families by that year.

Early this afternoon, the President and Mrs. Nixon were to fly to California to spend New Year's at the San Clemente White House.

★ ★ ★

Nixon probably will wait until his State of the Union Message to Congress Jan. 22 to spell out what he has in mind in the way of new proposals. It is likely, however, to include a "value added" tax, in which a tax is added on at each stage of the manufacturing process — a sort of national sales tax.

★ ★ ★

Word that Nixon would sign the mine-safety bill came yesterday as a delegation of miners' widows was visiting the White House.

Snowmobile Crackdown Vowed

By ED BLUNDEN

Snowmobiles are becoming a major headache in Oakland County, and a crackdown is imminent, according to Lt. Donald Kratt, of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

Many snowmobilers are operating with complete disregard for laws, regulations or even common sense, he said.

★ ★ ★

Hundreds of complaints have been reported to the sheriff's department since the first snow cover. Kratt said the complaints are of snowmobiles being run over private property, destroying trees, shrubs, and anything else in their path.

"Apparently many snowmobile drivers feel anything that's covered with snow is fair game," he said. He vowed a crackdown.

RESTRICTIONS ON USE

Actually, use of snowmobiles is quite restrictive in state laws.

The vehicles are not permitted on roads, for instance. And a snowmobile has no more right on anyone's property than a car has. The use of private lakes is just as protected against snowmobiles as it is against boats, Kratt pointed out.

Owners of the vehicles are taking their machines so much for granted that few have even bothered to register them as required, Kratt said.

A snowmobile license can be granted at any Department of State office for $5, and is required if the vehicle leaves the property of the owner.

Drivers are subject to a large variety of misdemeanor charges for offenses that include drunk or drugged driving, speeding, making too much noise or smoke, operating on a highway, driving at night without proper lighting or driving through any area designated as a forestry.

The state act governing snowmobiles also provides that "any community may pass an ordinance regulating the operating of snowmobiles."

POOR USE INVITES BAN

Thus, just as bad practices by hunters have moved many Oakland County [illegible] is joining [illegible] controlled before it gets out of [illegible] said.

Communities to ban the sport, poor use of snowmobiles could result in banning them from many areas, if the annoyance becomes too great, Kratt said.

Many snowmobilers are also neglecting their own safety, he said.

★ ★ ★

Several serious injuries have been reported in recent weeks. One man went into a barbed wire fence and his face was so badly shredded, he faces years of plastic surgery.

★ ★ ★

A girl fell off and then was run over by the vehicle, suffering a deep facial scar. Last weekend a motor blew up and a Detroit man sustained an eye injury.

★ ★ ★

Kratt said, "This is the first big year of the snowmobile and too many drivers are behaving with reckless abandon, ignoring the rights of others and endangering themselves. All the law departments in the county are having [illegible] with [illegible]

Housing-Code Suit Hearing Set

Legal action was started yesterday in Oakland County Circuit Court to force the Pontiac City Commission to schedule a referendum on the city's new housing code.

The complainants, Arthur Smith, 369 Seward, and Harry F. Evans, 253 Clifford, are asking that the code be suspended until the ordinance is decided by voters at a general or special election.

Judge William R. Beasley set Jan. 7 to hear arguments why the request should not be granted.

The suit follows the Dec. 16 rejection by the commission of petitions asking for the election. The commission refused to accept the petitions on the opinion of City Attorney Shirwin Birnkrant.

Smith and Evans were among those who spearheaded the petition drive. They contend the code could present financial hardships to elderly homeowners.

The petitions, which contained more than the number of signatures required, were filed Nov. 28, the day after Thanksgiving. The holiday, according to Birnkrant, marked the 30 day deadline for submitting the petitions. He also contended the petitions were not properly signed.

Alan Greenberg, attorney for the complainants, said state law provides that anything falling due on a legal holiday carries over to the next business day.

Arms-Cost Excesses Put at Almost 50%

WASHINGTON (AP) — The cost of major weapons systems is running nearly 50 per cent ahead of original estimates and no central agency is keeping track of all arms development information, a congressional study team has been told by Assistant Comptroller Gen. Robert P. Keller.

The cost overrun investigation by a joint House-Senate subcommittee chaired by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., focused today on shipbuilding and the Navy's estimate that the bill could be up to $1.2 billion higher than originally figured.

★ ★ ★

Navy officials say a major problem comes from claims being filed by shipbuilders against the government for changes ordered by the Navy on 125 ships during the past 13 years.

Keller told the subcommittee yesterday that the estimated cost of 38 major weapons systems is $62.9 billion, although initial estimates placed the cost at $42 billion.

'SHOCKING FINDING'

Proxmire called the lack of central cost information a "shocking finding" and said overruns cannot be controlled if one official or agency is not keeping track of all weapons development.

The chairman also said an increase in estimates for the Navy's Deep Submerging Rescue Vehicle from $36 million for 12 to $463 million for six is fantastic.

★ ★ ★

He said the Navy should only need one or two. There have only been two deep-sea submarine emergencies in 40 years, he said.

Chance of Snow Seen for Tonight

The weatherman says there's a chance of some snow this evening or tonight, but he doesn't predict how much.

Temperatures in the low 30s today are expected to drop to 23 to 28 tonight, and rise to a high of 27 to 32 tomorrow.

★ ★ ★

There's a chance of some light snow early tomorrow.

Probabilities of precipitation in per cent are 40 today, 50 tonight and 30 tomorrow.

★ ★ ★

Twenty-nine was the low temperature in downtown Pontiac before 8 a.m. By 12:30 p.m. the thermometer recorded 33.

Mystery Gunboats a Day Away From Port

From Our News Wires

HAIFA, Israel — A heavy overcast shrouded the eastern Mediterranean today as the five mystery gunboats from France advanced through windwhipped seas toward Israel's chief port.

★ ★ ★

Israeli maritime experts said the boats were still at least a full day out of Haifa. One source said they were probably delayed by rough weather and slower escorts from the Israeli Navy.

★ ★ ★

The low clouds and high winds were expected to hamper any attempt by Egyptian planes to intercept the boats. They slipped out of Cherbourg about 3 a.m. Christmas Day in defiance of the French embargo on arms for Israel.

Hundreds gathered on Mt. Carmel abandoned their lookout as word flashed through the city that the boats now were expected tomorrow.

SIGHTED BY TRAWLER

An Italian trawler reported sighting the ships early yesterday east of Sicily escorted by "numerous other Israeli ships." Greek police on the island of Crete said the convoy passed north of the island shortly after midnight.

★ ★ ★

There was no evidence of any effort to intercept the gunboats, although Arab newspapers called on the French Navy to do so.

★ ★ ★

Arab world capitals withheld condemnation of the incident pending an explanation from France. Representatives of 14 Arab nations called a meeting in Paris today to discuss the matter, a threat to what had been improving relations with the French.

★ ★ ★

'70 Economic Outlook for Area Is Uncertain

By DIANNE DUROCHER

An aura of uncertainty regarding the new year appears to be settling over the Pontiac area economy as 1969 draws to a close.

A variety of factors — the high cost of living, tight money, high interest rates and a drop in industrial production — offer mounting evidence that government anti-inflationary efforts are beginning to be felt.

★ ★ ★

"It's hard to say exactly why, but everybody feels like they've just got to scale back," said Earl Kreps, manager of the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce.

Pontiac area residents are curtailing purchases of durable goods, growing more conscious of saving money and looking toward next year's auto contract negotiations, Kreps said.

STARTED LEVELING IN JUNE

Consumer spending started to level off in the area around June, Kreps continued. Residents will probably continue spending moderately, with a reluctance for credit buying until contracts are settled, he predicted.

Retailing in the Pontiac area for 1969 registered a slight increase over 1968, according to a check of area businesses.

Gross sales volume of Pontiac Mall stores showed an over-all increase of approximately 12 per cent during 1969 compared with a 24 per cent rate of increase in 1968, said Mrs. Ruth McCarthy, mall resident manager.

★ ★ ★

She continued, "Soft line (clothes and smaller items) items are selling very well, but big ticket (appliances, furniture etc.) items are not moving as well as in past years."

For 1970 Mrs. McCarthy anticipated that sales will continue to rise on about the same level as this year showing a 10 to 12 per cent increase.

She added that a 1970 forecast for the Pontiac Mall also includes plans for enlarging the center "in various ways," but declined to elaborate further.

★ ★ ★

Jack Simon, manager of Simms Brothers Inc., in downtown Pontiac said his store's sales volume for 1969 was up slightly over 1968. Simon is also president of the downtown Pontiac Business Association.

He added however that operational expenses and general overhead have risen considerably, making it difficult to maintain profit margins.

FIERCE COMPETITION

"Freight rates have gone up, newspaper advertising rates and salaries have increased and manufacturers have increased prices," Simon explained.

He added that many downtown stores are receiving fierce competition from shopping centers in the outlying areas.

★ ★ ★

John Harrington, manager of Sears and Roebuck in downtown Pontiac, said that the store's sales volume this year was just about parallel with 1968.

"Soft line sales are up, but people don't seem to be buying deluxe fringe items," Harrington said. He added, "People are buying smaller items and paying cash and they are not buying anything they don't need."

SHYING AWAY

He speculated that people are shying away from long-term purchasing because of the current "uncertain employment situation in Pontiac."

Regarding 1970, Harrington said that he expects sales to remain at their current level for the next several months and then to begin to rise.

Rebecca Karnehm, promotion manager of the Miracle Mile Shopping Center, Bloomfield Township, said the center experienced a definite increase in traffic in 1969. She attributed this, in part, to the opening of new stores and the widening of Telegraph in front of the center.

Auto Industry Ending '69 in Sales Slump

The U.S. auto industry is closing out 1969 with slumping sales and unwieldly inventories.

Retail new-car sales are expected to be less than one per cent below the record set last year — but that's 70,000 units. Sales for 1969, including imports, are expected to total 9.54 million units, as compared to 9,611,000 units in 1968.

★ ★ ★

Truck sales for 1969 are expected to total about 1,925,000 units as compared with 1,807,000 units in 1968, an increase of 6.6 per cent.

A bright note for 1969 came when GMC Truck and Coach Division was reported a strong third in the heavy truck field.

INFLATION KEY

Inflation appears as the key to 1970 auto sales.

★ ★ ★

"Looking to 1970, the prospects for further economic expansion may be importantly influenced by the government's efforts to meet the challenge of inflation," James M. Roche, chairman of General Motors, said in a year-end report.

He added, "There is reason to be hopeful that current economic trends may foreshadow a reduction in inflationary pressures, establishing a firmer foundation for growth in 1970 and later years. Our expectations for 1970 assume that this objective will be realized."

★ ★ ★

The GM executive predicted car sales in 1970 of 9.2 to 9.5 million units, assuming that employment and income continue to rise during the year.

Atmosphere of Uncertainty on Area Economic Future

Sales volume figures for 1969 indicate about a 15 per cent increase over 1968 figures, Miss Karnehm said.

'BUSIEST SEASON'

"This has been the busiest Christmas season that the center has experienced," she said, adding that center merchants anticipate a good year in 1970.

Pontiac area banking and savings and loan executives, currently experiencing a profit squeeze, are not optimistic about the new year.

* * *

Money is tight and interest rates are up largely due to inflation and partly due to federal monetary controls, explained Edward Barker, president of Pontiac State Bank.

Warren H. Eierman, president of Community National Bank said, "As far back as 1966 it has been increasingly difficult for banks to find available monies for loans because their supply of funds — bank deposits — have simply not been able to match the record demand for loans."

DEMAND AT ALL-TIME HIGH

The demand for all types of loans is at an all-time high, he said, adding, "There has never been a similar situation—of high interest rates with a shortage of money to the degree we are currently experiencing — in banking history.

"As an industry banks simply have no money available to lend," he said.

* * *

"There was little or no growth in demand deposits (checking accounts) and a modest growth in time savings (savings deposits)," Eierman added.

"Who knows what the future has in store," Eierman continued, "economists predict that there will be no relief of the tight money situation at least through mid-1970."

SOME HOPE

In referring to the new usury law and the effects of erasing the state's 7 per cent ceiling on home mortgage loans, Eierman said, "No matter what rate you are allowed to charge, if you have no money to lend then you're in trouble."

By taking off the ceiling on home mortgage loans, there is some hope that money will become more available, but it may take longer than a year for rates to level off, Eierman said. Currently the rate is around 8½ per cent, he added.

* * *

Initially, there was some problem regarding unclear wording of the new law "but it is now our understanding, as advised by counsel, that current rates will hold when the ceiling goes back on after next year," Eierman concluded.

James Clarkson, president of First Federal Savings and Loan of Oakland, said, "Lifting the ceiling on residential mortgage interest was intended to help lenders, but because of the law's unclear wording, it has actually hurt."

DROP EXPECTED

He said that in 1967 First Federal of Oakland made loans in excess of $20 million; in 1968, $13,843,000 and in 1969 through the change in the usuary law in August, $17.5 million.

"This is going to drop off tremendously in 1970," Clarkston said, "We are not issuing very many mortgage commitments because of the new usuary law and the lack of sufficient cash flows running in."

* * *

"We are still continuing to loan, but for smaller amounts," he concluded.

Realtors have been feeling the credit crunch more in recent months, commented Claude C. McGruder, 1969 president of the Pontiac area Board of Realtors.

'CAN'T PURCHASE'

"The general public has as much money now as they ever did," McGruder said, "But because home mortgages are at a premium people can't purchase or build new homes."

Some observers are still confident of a healthy 1970, however.

* * *

"The current tight money situation is going to hurt everybody a little, but the economy is going to get healthy," said Robbin R. Hough, an Oakland University professor of economics.

He explained, "In an inflationary period, such as we are now experiencing, people would like to spend, but when they realize that their paycheck isn't buying what it should or did, then they back off from spending.

'DEEP SKEPTICISM'

"Today we are dealing with a deeply embedded skepticism about the future value of the dollar, Hough said, addding that this skepticism about the price level can be partly attributed to the fact that inflation was allowed to run for so long — almost four years.

This long-sustained inflation is now beginning to respond to federal monetary controls and as a result there is a possibility that unemployment will rise, Hough said.

* * *

He explained, the purpose of monetary restraint is to slow the economy and thereby ultimately to halt inflation by decreasing the rate of growth of money supply.

As the money supply stops growing, while incomes and prices continue to rise, people find themselves holding smaller cash balances than they would like and ultimately respond to this situation by cutting down on their purchases of real assets — especially autos and durable goods, he said.

News Briefs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federally required information on automobile safety performance will be available starting Thursday in dealers' showrooms, but it may disappoint the comparison shopper.

The Transportation Department's National Highway Safety Bureau says "considerable differences exist in the formats used and in the groupings of models, body styles and equipment which each manufacturer has chosen to provide."

Black General for AF

WASHINGTON (AP) — Col. Daniel James Jr. probably will be the only Negro general in the Air Force by the time his promotion passes through the Senate confirmation process.

President Nixon said yesterday he is nominating James, 49, a native of Pensacola, Fla., to become an Air Force brigadier general. Lt. Gen. Benjamin O. Davis Jr., the only Negro general in the Air Force, plans to retire Feb. 1.

Viet Officer Transferred

DA NANG, Vietnam (AP) — The South Vietnamese officer in charge of Quang Ngai province at the time of the alleged My Lai massacre is being transferred to another province, informed sources said today.

They said the transfer of Col. Ton That Khein is in no way related to the alleged massacre of unarmed civilians by American troops during an operation in My Lai hamlet on March 16, 1968.

Ship Fire Under Control

DURBAN, South Africa (AP) — A fire on board the British supertanker Mactra has been brought under control and the ship is on an even keel, the ship reported today. A spokesman for the owners said the 208,560-ton ship was "quite safe."

Three tugs from Durban and Cape Town were on their way to aid the Mactra, but none was expected to reach her before late tomorrow. She was reported 180 miles off the east coast of Africa in the Mozambique Channel last night.

Panel to Monitor Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — U. S. disarmament negotiations with the Soviet Union will be monitored by seven members of the Senate Armed Services Committee.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., will head the new panel that also includes Sens. John Stennis, D-Miss.; Harry F. Byrd Jr., D-Va.; Daniel K. Inouye, D-Hawaii; Margaret Chase Smith, R-Maine; John G. Tower, R-Tex.; and Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass.

Waterford OKs Firemen's Pact

The Waterford Township Board last night approved a one-year contract with the Waterford Township Professional Fire Fighters calling for a $1,150 salary increase during 1970.

A $400 increase will be awarded Jan. 1 while a $750 increase will be awarded July 1.

* * *

This will raise the salary of a driver-engineer who has worked on the force two years from the present $9,100 to $10,250 after July 1, 1970.

A lieutenant's salary will rise from $9,870 to $11,020 after July 1. A captain who receives $10,702 today will be paid $11,852 after July 1.

'INCREASE COMPARABLE'

"This increase is comparable to other areas," Township Supervisor Elmer Johnson said.

The fire fighters were awarded $916 in rasies this year — $416 on Jan. 1 and $500 on July 1.

The new contract will mean an across-the-board increase of $2,066 over 1969 and 1970.

Utica Schools Study of Language Arts Set

UTICA — An expanded systemwide committee will conduct an in-depth evaluation of the language arts program in the Utica Community Schools beginning next month.

The 33-member group includes the existing elementary language arts committee, plus secondary department chairmen and elementary and secondary principals.

The K-12 study is expected to take at least one year. Short- and long-range goals and deadlines will be established at the initial meeting in January.

Ethiopia Embassy Hit

MOSCOW (AP) — Sixty Ethiopian students stormed their embassy in Moscow today, ripping out phones, tearing up files, marking swastikas on the wall and chanting slogans against Emperor Haile Selaisse.

They were protesting the death in Addis Ababa of Kilahun Gizaw, a 29-year-old student leader shot Sunday by an unknown gunman. A leader of the demonstration accused the Ethiopian government of killing Gizaw and said similar protests would be staged at other Ethiopian embassies.

Guards Ring Spiro at Marcos Inaugural

MANILA (UPI) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew attended President Ferdinand E. Marcos' inauguration under heavy Secret Service guard today and later dismissed demonstrations against his Philippines visit as inconsequential.

* * *

In an impromptu news conference at the Manila Intercontinental Hotel following the ceremony, Agnew said the anti-American deomonstration outside the U.S. Embassy last night "didn't really amount to very much."

The vice president said he was sure the protest was not representative of the feelings of the Philippine people.

* * *

"I think this activity . . . is going to continue whenever a nation is taking a strong course to preserve a free-enterprise system," he said.

'TACTIC OF LIFE'

"I think we'll just have to get used to that as a tactic of modern life."

Agnew met for 30 minutes this afternoon with Prime Minister Chung Il Kown of South Korea and later visited a U.S. military cemetery in Makari Town. Tonight he and Mrs. Agnew attended a state dinner hosted by President and Mrs. Marcos at the presidential palace.

* * *

In his 20-minute inaugural address, Marcos, 52, called for a united Asia and peaceful coexistence with all powers, including Communist China.

The tightest security precautions in the nation's history prevented any repetition of last night's incident, in which anti-American demonstrators threw a gunpowder-filled bottle at Agnew's limousine outside the U.S. Embassy.

Agnew is on the first official stop of his 23-day, 10-nation Asian goodwill tour.

Auto sales, after rising well above the 1968 level in September and early October as the result of the earlier introduction of new models, have slumped in November and December, according to Ward's Automotive Reports, the industry statistical service.

Surveys of consumer buying intentions show weakening interest in new car purchases, and dealers are reportedly holding record stocks of unsold cars.

* * *

Decisions are expected to adjust January and first-quarter output, Ward's reports, adding that January car output, which will include week-long shutdowns Jan. 12-19 at some Chrysler Corp. plants plus adjustments by GM and Ford, may well dip below 650,000 units when all scheduling action is taken. The industry's original output was projected at 720,000 units.

Thousands of auto workers — including 12,500 in Pontiac — were laid off extra days during the Christmas holidays this year.

* * *

The move, designed to reduce the national inventory of unsold new cars affected some 12,500 of GM's 36,000 employes in Pontiac.

U.S. Hands N. Viets Prisoner-List Plea

PARIS (AP) — The United States handed North Vietnam a list today of U.S. military personnel missing in Southeast Asia and asked it to identify those it is holding prisoner.

Ambassador Philip Habib, acting U.S. delegation chief at the Vietnam peace talks, also called on Hanoi to allow neutral inspection of its prisoner of war camps and then to negotiate exchange of prisoners.

* * *

The list of the missing was delivered to Col. Ha Van Lau, Hanoi's No. 2 delegate, by Habib.

Habib said the North Vietnamese apparently want to use prisoners as "pawns in bargaining for an over-all settlement of the war." He said Hanoi's refusal to negotiate seriously in Paris delayed an over-all settlement and prolonged "agonizing doubt about the lives and welfare" of U.S. soldiers missing or known to have been taken prisoner.

Police Chief Says Holidays Hike Mishaps

BIRMINGHAM — The traditional holiday pattern of parties, drinking and winter weather is already showing signs of pushing the local accident curve upward, Police Chief Darryl Bruestle warned residents today.

Chief Bruestle said his department is working to hold down holiday traffic problems.

* * *

"If you think you can drink freely at parties and then slide behind the wheel of your car hoping you can get away with it this time remember this fair warning: Our department will be out with all the manpower we can muster to protect you — and others — from your own dangerous thinking."

* * *

An Alcohol Education Center to encourage the sensible use of liquor by motorists has been established temporarily at the Birmingham Automobile Club of Michigan Office.

The center will operate through New Year's Day.

* * *

The center display which may also be seen in package liquor stores and bars, includes a poster with practical tips for persons who drink and drive along with a chart showing how many drinks one can consume before driving ability is affected.

Bottle sleeves with an alcoholic chart and a plea for moderation as the best policy are available at all AAA offices.

* * *

The program places responsibility for motorists who drink and drive on the host serving the alcohol.

The display suggests that motorists eat food such as mashed potatoes or beans (which act like a sponge) before drinking, and stop all drinking about an hour before the party ends.

Registration for preschool story hours at Baldwin Library begins Friday. All 3-5 years olds not in nursery school or kindergarten are eligible for the winter series beginning Jan. 6 or the spring series beginning March 3.

Registration must be made in person for the seven-week program.

Floyd Miller

The community is saddened by the passing of FLOYD MILLER, a Pontiac resident for nearly half a century.

A native of Michigan, Mr. MILLER followed a mercantile career before identifying himself with the Credit Bureau of Flint. He subsequently moved to Pontiac and established the Pontiac Credit Bureau, Inc., which he headed until the time of his death at 81.

★ ★ ★

Mr. Miller was widely recognized in the credit-rating field, and during his long connection with it developed a successful system of advanced forms that found national acceptance.

★ ★ ★

Although active in a wide range of civic and social activities, Mr. MILLER's principal interest was the conduct of his business enterprises, leaving him little time for hobbies or recreational pursuits.

★ ★ ★

He leaves an enviable record of personal achievement and service to the business community.

Missile Site Now School Site

Here's one for the Swords-into-Plowshares Department:

A onetime launching pad for a nuclear armed missile near Topeka is now the site of a new high school, reports the National Education Association.

Missile Complex No. 9, closed in 1964, was near the center of Kansas Unified School District No. 335, which was seeking a site for a school to replace four substandard high schools.

★ ★ ★

For $1, the school district bought the land on which the missile base stood, an 18,000-square-foot underground complex, two water wells, two 30,000-gallon tanks, a sewer system and an airstrip.

★ ★ ★

The district voted $685,000 to refurbish the underground complex to house general business, math and science classrooms, teacher offices and heating and air-conditioning equipment and to build the balance of the school above ground. (Locally, the Auburn Heights campus of Oakland Community College was developed on a former Nike base.)

It added up to a fine, and unique, new school for half what it would have cost to build it from scratch.

★ ★ ★

All our armaments should find such happy ultimate uses.

Collection Cost Consistent

The IRS is currently spending a mere 40 cents for every $100 it collects in taxes, reports Commerce Clearing House.

The figure is arrived at by computing the total expenses of the service, including the salaries of some 64,500 employes, against the total of Federal taxes paid by Americans. In fiscal 1969, the latter was a record $187.9 billion.

★ ★ ★

The current cost of 40 cents compares with 32 cents per $100 in 1944, the lowest ever recorded, and the all-time high of $5.87 in 1871 under an earlier income tax law that was later declared unconstitutional.

When the present income tax began in 1913, the IRS spent $1.59 for every $100 in collected. This cost dropped to 33 cents in 1918 due to an almost five-fold boost in receipts during World War I.

The more taxes and more taxpayers always means more tax litigation. In fiscal 1968, 9,602 new tax cases were filed. This compares with 5,811 in 1958. About 10,300 tax suits are anticipated in 1969 and 10,700 in 1970, when an estimated 10 million more Americans will file returns.

But here, too, the IRS has an impressive batting average — .750 to be exact. In 1968, the Government won three of every four tax disputes taken to court.

Ray Cromley

S. Viet Coalition Fears Well Grounded

WASHINGTON (NEA)—The other day this reporter talked for three hours with a man named Vu Hong Khanh.

In 1946, Khanh was vice chairman of the Vietnam Supreme Military Council in a coalition government with Ho Chi Minh's Communists.

CROMLEY

In that same year, on behalf of the new Vietnamese government, Ho and Khanh signed an agreement by which France recognized Vietnam as a free and sovereign country within the French Union.

★ ★ ★

Khanh therefore should be somewhat of an expert on what Hanoi means by "coalition."

An understanding of this meaning is important at a time when many Americans argue for a preelection coalition as the logical solution for Vietnam.

EASY TO UNDERSTAND

After talking with Khanh it is not difficult to understand why President Thieu disagrees. He remembers 1946.

In the 1946 coalition Ho was head of state. Giap (victor at Dien Bien Phu and currently one of the five most powerful men in Hanoi) was head of the Supreme Military Council. Major cabinet posts were divided among the parties.

★ ★ ★

In the discussions on cabinet ministers in the new government, Ho and his Communist associates were quite generous (or so it seemed).

The nationalist party to which Khanh belonged had three cabinet posts — foreign affairs, social welfare, national economy — the vice chairmanship of the Supreme Military Council (Khanh) and a third of the National Assembly.

DIDN'T WORK OUT

But things didn't work out.

Ho made certain the working head of the police (in Interior) was a Communist believer. Ho issued direct orders to this man. The secretary of state for the Interior was ignored.

Ho's man Giap issued secret orders to the army and the military secret police, ignoring the Supreme Military Council, the National Assembly, the secretary of state for defense and the non-Communist members of the cabinet.

★ ★ ★

Ho had his own secret police. He armed groups of Communist party security men.

The Communists kept their own tax system. Through control of virtually all taxes, they gathered the funds they needed for party organizational work and terrorist operations.

ALL-OUT ATTACK

Once the Communists had eliminated enough opposition leaders and secured sufficient arms, they opened an all-out military-terrorist attack on the non-Communist leadership.

To clinch victory, Ho made a deal with the French, allowing the French armies back into the country. The French forces attacked the non-Communist nationalists on the frontier; the Communists attacked from within. Between the hammer and anvil, the nationalists were defeated.

★ ★ ★

This is enough of Khanh's story on what happened in Vietnam two decades ago to explain South Vietnam's fears on coalition.

Arab Summit Roils the Mideast

WASHINGTON—The Rabat Arab summit meeting has come and gone, making headlines and muddying the waters of international policy.

De TOLEDANO

A group of Arab red-hots made the noise and got the major play, pumping up steam for the kind of "holy war" which could only lead to further crisis in the Middle East.

Take, for example, the keynote speech at the unsuccessful Rabat meeting. "We have followed the road to peace until we have exhausted all our means and we have tried to reach a just settlement which does not affect our dignity and honor and would not make us surrender any of our principles or our land."

★ ★ ★

Those are beautiful sentiments, but there is not a word of truth in them.

How has Egypt followed the road to peace? How have Jordan and Iraq and Syria tried to reach a just settlement?

LAUNCHING RAIDS

The Arab countries agreed to a cease-fire after the June 1967 war. But their voices had not ceased reverberating in the councils of the world before they began to violate that cease-fire by launching raids on Israel and by arming guerrilla groups to prey on the Israelis.

After the war, the Israelis pointed out that they had withdrawn their forces in 1956, on the promise that the Arabs would sit down at the negotiating table. But this promise was forgotten and the Arab states began preparing for a second war with Israel — a war which, to their chagrin, they lost.

★ ★ ★

The Israelis said they would not discuss peace terms with third parties, which was futile, but would settle their differences with the Arabs only by direct negotiations.

Of course, neither President Nasser nor King Hussein would agree to this kind of negotiation. For the fact is that the Arabs do not want a peaceful settlement of their dispute with Israel.

NO LEG TO STAND ON

Jordan, it should be remembered, does not have a leg to stand on in its demands for the West Bank or for Jerusalem. This was territory which never belonged to the Jordanians and was theirs only because they had wrested it from Israel by force of arms in the 1948 war.

Only by maintaining a perpetual state of crisis can the rulers of the Arab world survive.

★ ★ ★

Only by painting the United States, which has compromised far more than it should have in attempting to bring the war to an end, as an "imperialist" and murderous country can they hold their people in line.

The propaganda of the disrupted Rabat meeting was designed to fool the world even as it fools the poor and underprivileged of Egypt, Syria, Jordan, Iraq and Sudan.

If it were open to careful analysis, it might even be pointed out that Sudan has been slaughtering black Africans by the thousands, and that it still condones the slave trade — despite the meager efforts of the United Nations to end it.

Old Reporter a Failure: His Work Isn't Decadent

NEW YORK—People . . . Places . . .

The young man with the long hairdo from the big New York and Hollywood talent agency had been ordered by someone higher up in his organization, possibly even bald, to drop by the old reporter's apartment to look over some stories the bum had written in the past.

CONSIDINE

The stories were a mass of experiences. One concerned the agony of Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright's imprisonment during World War II.

★ ★ ★

Another had to do with the conscience of a Brinks robber whose testimony sent half a dozen fellow thieves to prison for life (two of whom were released this past week). Still another had to do with a wildly wonderful and often eccentric lady newspaper publisher named Cissy Patterson.

There were some odds and ends for the young man to look over: the life and sad death of the greatest woman athlete who ever lived, Babe Didrikson; the little-known but intensely influential "think tanks" that the Pentagon and other top government agencies depend upon; the story of an astronaut who defected to the Soviet Union, and a short story about the death of a great metropolitan newspaper.

'I'M SURPRISED'

"No good for us," the young man declared, after a swift glance. Then he added, sincerely, "You know, I'm surprised. You're supposed to be a good reporter. Why haven't you written anything that people are really interested in?

"The only people who go to movies today are under 30. They want sex, sadism, lesbianism, sodomy, drug addiction. They don't want sweetness and light. They want to be ugly, decadent, diseased. You must be some kind of a nut to think we'd be interested in your stuff."

★ ★ ★

The old reporter was so angry he reached for the nearest object and broke it over the young man's head.

Unfortunately, it was my Guy Lombardo album.

The most mystifying reason given by the Air Force for ordering what might eventually be $6 billion worth of new McDonnell-Douglas jet fighters is that in the Korean war our pilots had a 12-to-1 mastery over the Russian-built fighters, but in the war in Vietnam that figure has been reduced to two-and-a-half to one.

When did we shoot down those two-and-a-half Migs?

Voice of the People:

Television Viewer's Day Full of No-No Warnings

I'm beginning to think I should remain in bed day in and day out. When I get up, I turn on my colored television and my wife pours me a glass of juice. A warning on television immediately tells me of cyclamates that may cause cancer. If I light a cigarette, TV says "no, no, there's danger of emphysema and lung cancer." When my wife decides to wash some clothes, she's warned that enzymes may infect her lungs.

★ ★ ★

Water is polluted, fish are full of D.D.T., the air is polluted. I don't think all the violence on "Gunsmoke" ever scared anyone as much as all these warnings on television. I'd better turn off my colored television because my health could be injured by radioactivity, and I can't see it sitting very far away. Guess I'll settle for a beer because television doesn't say "no, no," that it might damage my health.

Commends Kettering's Basketball Teams

I commend the Waterford-Kettering basketball teams for the interesting and thrilling games in this very young season. I know the record reads 0-4, but it could have just as easily been 4-0. Don't be discouraged.

I know officiating is a hard job, but if an official is bad, he still stays on. Even in the major leagues, the ball player has to produce, but the umpire stays. I think there should be some commissioner or someone to view these games once in awhile. I also think there should be a uniform price for all high school games.

Reader Tells Need to Study Word of God

One can be ever so sincere in what he believes and still be wrong. Unless our faith is based on the Word of God, we have no foundation that will hold and save us eternally. This is why we need to read and study the Word of God. Accepting the Word by faith and obeying it from the heart brings about a change of direction in your life.

Daily Almanac

By United Press International

Today is Tuesday, Dec. 30, the 364th day of 1969 with one to follow.

The moon is full.

The morning stars are Venus and Jupiter.

The evening stars are Mercury, Mars and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1853, the United States bought 45,000 square miles of land south of the Gila River from Mexico for $10 million. It is now the southern area of Arizona and New Mexico.

In 1903, fire swept the Iroquois Theatre in Chicago killing 588 persons.

In 1947, King Michael of Rumania abdicated, claiming he was forced out by local Communists aided by Russians.

Q&A Q&A Q&A

(Q) I have a formal complaint to make to Montgomery Ward. Can you give me the president's name and address and phone number of the main office?

MRS. JESSE FINK
616 E. COLUMBIA

(A) E. S. Donnell, 616 W. Chicago Ave., Chicago, Ill. Phone 312-467-2000.

(Q) I'm a widow of 74. A man from the City came and told me my apartment building needed certain repairs, including a shower and wash bowl with a partition around it, which will cost me about $1,000. Some are done, but I don't have much money to get the rest done by the time they told me. The man said when I have these things done, he will give me more to do. Where can I get help on this thing?

TAXPAYER

(A) Mr. Parker at City Housing Department says nothing can be done to change the requirements for meeting the minimum housing code as prescribed by law. However, he says every effort is made to accommodate persons who are cooperating with the Department, and each case is reviewed on an individual basis so financial difficulties can be taken into consideration when setting a deadline for completion of improvements.

(Q) On Nov. 10 I mailed a check for merchandise shown on the enclosed Xerox copy. My check was cashed, but I have not heard from the seller. What action do you advise?

WONDERING

(A) We suggest you wait a little longer. The Chamber of Commerce in that city tells us it is a reputable company, but they're working on back orders, and are trying to get the merchandise out as soon as possible.

Drunk Drivers—2

Does the Alcoholic Deserve a License?

By ROBERT BUCKHORN

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Does an alcoholic have a right to a driver's license?

Most highway safety experts agree that the alcoholic is a sick person, the victim of a disease who needs medical and psychiatric care.

But they add one factor: Behind the wheel of a car, the alcoholic is a killer.

This year more than 56,000 persons were killed in automobile accidents. More than 3.5 million persons were injured. Alcohol was involved in 25,000 of the fatalities and 800,000 of the injuries recorded in 1969.

MUST ACCEPT BLAME

Closer to the mark, the 1968 alcohol and highway safety report submitted to Congress by the Transportation Department says alcoholics — compulsive drinkers — must accept the major share of the blame for alcohol-involved accidents.

* * *

Most state laws identify drunk drivers by the amount of alcohol found in the blood. The federal government has proposed a uniformed standard of not more than one-tenth of 1 per cent (.10) by weight.

So far, 24 states, and the District of Columbia and Puerto Rico, have conformed to the federal standard. Twenty four others use a higher (.15) standard, and one, Utah, uses a tougher (.08). But three — New Mexico, Texas, and Mississippi — have no standard.

* * *

What does the .10 per cent standard mean to a drinker? A chart published by the Health, Education and Welfare department shows, in rough averages, that a 150-pound man, drinking on an empty stomach, could have 5 one-ounce shots of 80 proof liquor in one hour before he reached the .10 per cent level. On a full stomach, the same man could down 7 one-ounce shots of 80 proof liquor.

DIFFERENT CASE

In a state using the .15 per cent standard, the same man drinking on an empty stomach would be allowed 8 one-ounce shots of 80 proof liquor on an empty stomach and almost 10 on a full stomach before he was legally drunk.

Who drinks like that? The social drinker can, but seldom does. The case against the alcoholic is different. According to a Transportation Department study, alcoholics involved in fatal accidents "invariably had blood alcohol concentrations of .10 per cent and higher."

* * *

According to Dr. William Haddon Jr., former director of the National Highway Safety Bureau, alcoholics, who make up only about 4 per cent of the drivers on the highway, may be responsible for nearly one-half of the highway deaths.

One statistic more revealing than most is that Transportation Department studies showed up to 57 per cent of the drivers killed in single-car accidents had blood-alcohol readings of .10 per cent and higher.

(Next: How can the alcoholic be kept off the highway?)

Film Lost, Frenchman to Return to W. Irian

JAKARTA (AP) — French documentary film maker Pierre Gaisseau says he plans to return to the Lost Valley of West Irian to reshoot 23,000 feet of "superb film" showing the little-known Stone Age tribesmen there.

* * *

Gaisseau lost the film—and nearly lost his life—in a disastrous trip through rapids of the Idenburg River earlier this month. The expedition began three months ago when its 15 members parachuted into the valley. It ended when their rubber canoes were torn to shreds by the razor-edged rocks of the rapids.

Gaisseau, 47, filmed the Oscar-winning documentary "The Sky Above, the Mud Below" on an earlier expedition in West Irian, the Indonesian half of New Guinea.

* * *

On the latest trip, he said, he went through three unexplored valleys in the mountains. Some of the tribes inhabiting the area are known to be cannibals.

'BEST FILM'

"That film we lost was the best I have ever taken," he said. "The natives were friendly and reacted wonderfully.

"They thought I was a witch doctor and treated me as such. It was all my cameras, tape recorders and video tape gear that mystified them. We had no trouble from them at all."

* * *

The film maker said the end of the expedition could have been worse.

"It was hard losing all that film," he explained, "but if we had gone on another two miles or so, we would have hit the worst rapids I have ever seen. They are in a canyon, and I am sure some or all of us would have been killed if we had tried to ride them."

TEAM STRANDED

The team was stranded on the banks of the Idenburg for several days, but managed to salvage a damaged radio and signal for help. A small helicopter from Australian New Guinea ferried them out one by one.

Gaisseau said the film was in a waterproof bag and was tied to two inflated tire tubes. He said he offered a $2,000 reward for its recovery, and several crocodile hunters who work along the Idenburg are searching for the brown bag.

* * *

Meanwhile, he is making plans to return to West Irian in January to remake the film if it is not found. This time he will not try to come out by canoe, he'll call for a helicopter.

Report by Police

EAST LANSING (AP) — The fraudulent check unit of the Michigan State Police reports processing 229 bogus checks during November. Face value of the checks totaled $61,680, State Police said. Crime detection units at East Lansing, Plymouth and Warren, meanwhile, conducted 2,000 examinations, identified 59 suspects in criminal cases and processed 41,216 latent fingerprints.

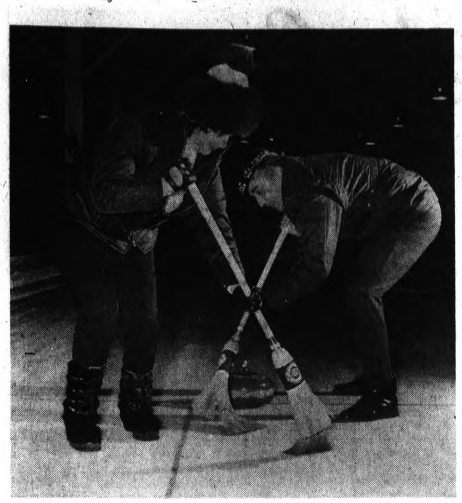
Fashion/Now



Word goes out from the skip. Sweep, sweep. Rochester husband-wife team, Ethel and Jack Allingham begin to slick the ice for the smooth sailing stone. Sophisticated black teamed with white is Ethel's choice for her curling outfit. She adds a dash of glamour with touches of fur on hat and boots. Jack's handsome sports outfit is a blaze of red and cut for the trim look. Badges on his tam tell a story.

Curling Gets New Image as Fashion Sweeps Rink

By JEANNE NELSON

The Scots claim to have invented that grand, old game of curling some 400 years ago. But, Oakland County is responsible for its start here in the United States about 139 years ago. In fact, at that time the shout of the skip's "sweep" could be heard clear across Orchard Lake as the first group of curlers gathered for a game.

★ ★ ★

In another year, several clubs had formed in the Detroit area; and, when the ice was right, there developed many an bonspiel (club contests) right there on the Detroit River at the foot of Joseph Campau Street.

It wasn't until the turn of the century that the Detroit Curling Club erected its present indoor facility on Forest Avenue. A disastrous fire in 1948 partially destroyed the building (which has since been repaired and modernized) but never the curlers' spirits.

CURLING CLOTHES

The Detroit Club will play host to the International Bonspiel Jan. 8-11, where it's expected that all those different curling outfits could cause their own sweeping wins. Don Thomas, owner of the Sporthaus at Somerset Mall, says most of the clothes used for this sport are interchangeable with active and apres-ski wear. One exception is gloves. Curlers wear warmly lined leather finger gloves while skiers need suede mitts.

Boots must be warm to withstand long periods on the ice. Trim ski pants are most often topped with watching ski sweaters and warm, but lightweight, jackets. Hats are the fun accessory, with some curlers going to outlandish extremes. Of course, the tam remains ever popular and is seen in a multitude of tartans.

★ ★ ★

Dana Lockniskar, who acts as the club's public relations man invited me down to participate in a curling game and, while I'm not going to win any prizes for my sweeping, I must say here and now, this is great sport. And even more importantly, the players exhibit such enthusiasm that it would take a real sour-grapes type not to get caught up in the spirit of the game.

Curling has lots of pluses going for it and not the least among them is the fact that it's truly a family sport. Watching some of these families enjoying the game together, it was hard to remember that the generation gap we hear about is still around.

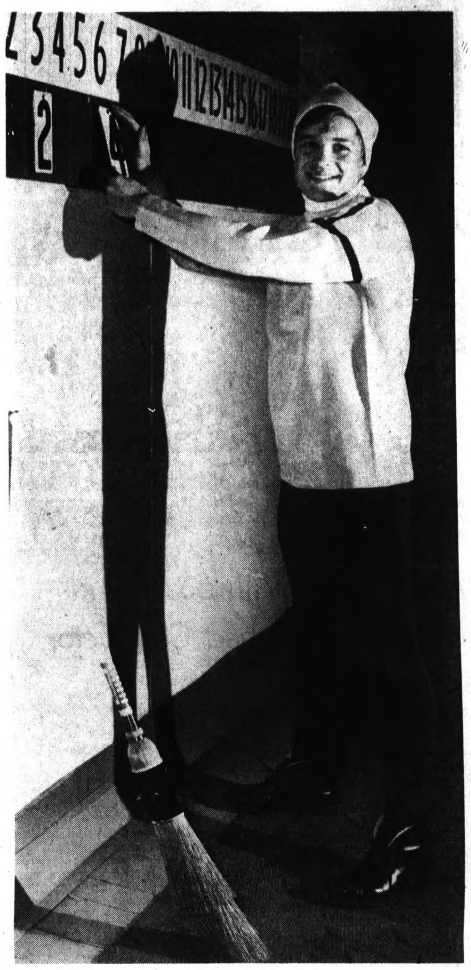
Although it's a thrill to deliver a stone exactly as the skip has indicated, sweeping has go to be the real fun part. With arms going as fast as the body allows, it takes every bit of balance the player can muster to keep a running pace without slipping on the ice that's kept absolutely smooth.

There's no doubt that the old game of curling has been sadly overlooked through the years. However, recently industry has taken a second look at this sport and has shown some interest in forming new clubs for employe participation.

★ ★ ★

Perhaps curling is best described in "The Spirit of Curling" by Fergie Ferguson of Milwaukee, Wis., who says: "The heart of curling is in its incomparable spirit. Without it, it is just another pastime. With it, it's the spirit of all games. The spirit of curling is reflected in its most cherished traditions."

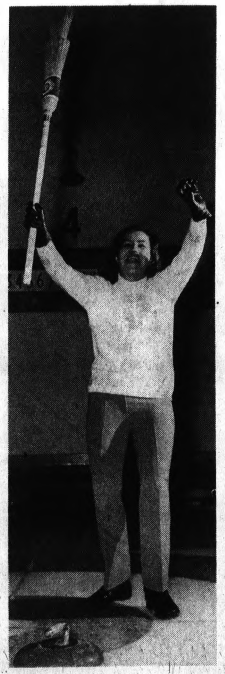


The racer's look is adopted by Andover High School student, Hyatt Wilson of Bloomfield Township. His navy ski pants are trim and topped with a powder blue all-wool sweater featuring the white and navy racing stripes. A coordinated cap follows the blue-on-blue theme.

All curling and ski fashions shown are from the Don Thomas Sporthaus located in the Somerset Mall, Troy. Pontiac Press photos by Rolf Winter.

It's serious business here as Ethel Allingham tests the measuring instrument's accuracy. Denise Green checks her opponent's figures in a bright red and white print blouse teamed with her black pants.

If you think close only counts in horseshoes, you're wrong. Jack Allingham measures the minute differences in these two stones. His scarlet crew neck sweater carries the racer's stripes so popular with sportswear this season.

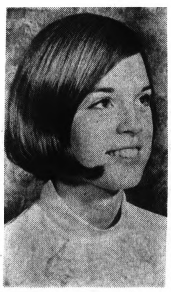


It's in the house and a near shot rock signals pretty Mindy Livermore. Mindy, who's an RN at Pontiac General Hospital, wears a delicately designed ensemble of coco, apricot and white. Her white wool sweater from Turkey carries an unusual front panel and hip border design in apricot.

Joe Livermore of Orchard Lake, puts his own brand of body English to the stone as Mrs. Denise Green of Troy gets ready to take her directions from the skip. Denise's black ski pants follow bell bottom styling and her bright red new, longer jacket features the "wet look." Joe is all turned out in brown. His matching sweater contains a bold front pattern in green and gold.

August 15 is the wedding date selected by Sally Jane Hunter and Gerald James Feil. Both are students at Western Michigan University. The bride-elect is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Neil R. Hunter of Waverly Drive. Parents of the prospective bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. James G. Feil of Roseville.

Kathryn Ellen Trudeau and her fiance, Craig Bedini are planning to marry. Parents of the engaged couple are the Norman Trudeaus of Sherbrook Road, Commerce Township and the John E. Cudahys of Mundelein, Ill. The bride-elect attended Oakland Community College. Her fiance attends Triton Junior College.



Mr. and Mrs. George Luenberger of Oriole Road announce the engagement of their daughter, Donna Rae, to Michael C. Nichols. The prospective bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Marie Nichols of Green Street and the late Lawrence W. Nichols. Michael attends Oakland University. April 25 wedding vows are being planned.

Handle Your Charity Dollar Carefully

By ANNE TAYLOR
AP NEWS FEATURE

Many charity drives step up their campaigns around this time of year, which brings me right to the point: Handle your charity dollars as carefully as you do your food or investment dollars.

Lest I appear the least bit misanthropic, I hasten to add that I'm all for giving to charity — but I advocate throughtful, not emotional giving. It's the only way to handle money.

★ ★ ★

Here are some tips I have prepared for the charity season:

● Check up on any new charity seeking your money. Ask a few simple questions, and if the answers don't satisfy you, don't give.

● Be certain that the collector really represents the charity. There is no set procedure for determining this, but if the individual is unknown to you, he or she should not object to showing credentials.

● Be wary of organizations that use telephone appeals, telegrams or other "pressure" tactics. Ask that all pertinent facts be available in written form. Frauds don't like to put things in writing; honest charities always have printed matter available.

RETURN

● Remember that you are under no obligation to return or pay for any unsolicited merchandise that comes through the mails. No straightforward charity will attempt to confuse you on this subject.

● Don't be too timid to ask the solicitor for a charity unfamiliar to you if he or she is willing to provide a detailed report of activities — maybe even a financial statement.

● Ask how much of your contribution will be spent for the purpose for which it is collected, and what percentage is to be spent for administration and fund-raising costs.

Sometimes fund-raising costs can reach preposterous proportions. The Better Business Bureau found earlier this year that one "charitable" organization had operating costs totaling 76 per cent of collections.

FINANCIAL REPORT

How do you interpret financial statements of charitable organizations? It isn't always easy, although some standardization is being reached.

At the moment you might find one charity states that it spends 15 per cent of income on fund-raising, while another reports operating costs of 7.5 per cent and another 7.5 per cent on public education.

Both charities might be worthwhile, but their manner of telling you so is different. The fact is that both are spending 15 per cent on fund-raising, no matter how they state it.

★ ★ ★

To clarify misconceptions, the National Health Council and the National Social Welfare Assembly have been leaders in adopting uniform auditing statements and terminology for 54 voluntary health-welfare agencies and thousands of their affiliates.

★ ★ ★

Until complete uniformity is achieved, however, it is wise to look closely. When you determine that most of the revenue is going for administration, put your money back in your pocket book.

Before dipping into your pocketbook, you may wish to consider your own selfish interest. Is the gift taxable? Not all are, you know.

If you have any doubts, call the nearest Internal Revenue Office. Relieved of tax-season pressures, I have found them remarkably prompt and helpful with questions.

So---Hearing Isn't Always Believing

By BETTY CANARY
NEA Writer

I went to the doctor because I thought perhaps noise pollution had finally caught up with me. He checked my ears, said nothing was wrong and sent me home to tell my family I could hear them all right, but I didn't particularly like what I heard.

★ ★ ★

I can't remember when I started thinking something was wrong with my ears, but I can remember when I thought our eldest son had gone stone deaf. This was before I knew that every child around age 15 acquires the ability to simply tune others in and out at will. Right now my second son can do it and he is only 13.

There is a way of coping with this problem. If you have been screaming, "PLEASE take out the garbage!" or growing hoarse what with trying to get him to clean out the garage, then you are going about it in the wrong way. Go into a room with a closed door.

Go outside. You could even go all the way across town. Then, whisper, "I think we might raise your allowance." He will hear you. He will be right beside you. With his hand out. Grasp the hand firmly and say, "Now that I have your attention . . ."

But, back to a parent's hearing problems. I have always checked what my children read as I have worried over their picking up gutter words. However, I wasn't prepared to have my youngest daughter start calling me "Mumsie, dear." She even started saying things like, "I shan't be late."

TEA TOO?

I saw the book she was reading. The little girl in it always wore white embroidered dresses and loved talking with Mumsie Dear's gardener. The cook, too. Being called "Mumsie, dear," wasn't the only thing bothering me. I was afraid she'd start asking me to serve tea every afternoon. Not to mention providing her with a drawerful of gloves and a wicker box filled with handkerchiefs from Switzerland. Frankly, I was glad when Babs took that book back to the library.

And wouldn't any mother question her hearing if a boy who spoke perfectly at two forgot at age nine? "Wha?" my son asked me. "Nnn, I din."

I have discussed these problems with others and discovered I was not alone. I ended up with a three-page list of things mothers do not like to hear. It includes:

A group of sixth-grade cheerleaders doing flips in an upstairs bedroom. Tennis balls bouncing off the side of the house when someone is trying to take a nap. Electric guitars at midnight. Toys that honk and whistle while one tries to talk on the phone. Children who honk and whistle while one tries to talk on the phone.

★ ★ ★

Compiling the list did more for me than my trip to the doctor's office. It really eased my mind. For one thing, I was surprised to discover that every one of the mothers with whom I spoke has a child who says, "Granzelbach fritze," when asked, "What did you do in school today?"

Almost all of them have a child who says, Puhds and scrnd bff," when asked, "What was served for lunch?" Most of those who have teen-agers report that, upon being asked, "Where are you going?" the son or daughter invariably replied, "Gnitz dn."

Tan Slowly Without Burn

To get that tan without suffering through a painful sunburn next summer, medical authorities suggest you begin your first day with about 15 to 20 minutes of exposure each on your face and back and then extend the period in the sun each day.

Increase exposure by one third the second day, another third the third day, and so on. Remember that painful burns can be caused by wind as well as sun, and that even on a cloudy day it is possible to get a severe burn.

Food Preparation

Avoid Disease; Keep Hands Clean

Looking for a practical and rewarding New Year's resolution? Then resolve always to use lots of soap and water in your kitchen.

Let's face it. Food poisoning ranks second only to the common cold as the most frequent cause of illness in the United States.

★ ★ ★

"To avoid food poisoning, people should learn a few facts about basic hygiene. Many do not realize that we should wash our hands in soapy water after handling raw meat, poultry or eggs before working with other foods," reports Elsie Dawson, supervisory food technologist with the Agriculture Research Service in Beltsville, Md.

Miss Dawson, head of the Consumer Use of Food Laboratory, University of California (Berkeley), adds, "Anyone cooking should keep her hands away from her mouth, nose and hair. Also, anyone ill or with an infected cut should not prepare the meal. It also is wise not to use the hands for mixing foods, at least whenever possible."

START FRESH

Don't dip a spoon or fork into cooking food a second time. Use a fresh one for second dipping. This also will help prevent food from being contaminated by bacteria.

Certain bacteria growing in food may cause illness by entering the body and setting up infections in the digestive tract. Other bacteria may cause toxins which cause illness. Salmonella spreads simply and easily by eating contaminated food or by contact with an infected person. The symptoms are headache, vomiting, diarrhea, cramps and fever.

★ ★ ★

Staph, probably the most common food-borne disease, causes vomiting, diarrhea and cramps. These symptoms, incidentally, often are attributed to other causes. Other illnesses caused by food bacteria are botulism, often fatal, and Perfringens, which results in nausea, diarrhea and acute inflammation of stomach and intestines.

These threats can be avoided. The U.S. Department of Agriculture, in cooperation with the Grocery Manufacturers of America, is now working on a project to alert homemakers to the hazards of foodborne illnesses and how to avoid them. A new pamphlet, "Keeping Food Safe to Eat," was prepared by the Human Nutrition Research Division. (For a copy, send 10 cents to the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402.)

This effort concentrates on proper storage, preparation and serving of "sensitive" foods, such as meat, poultry, fish, eggs and dairy foods; also on dishes which contain these products — custards, creamy sauces, dressings, casseroles and gravies.

"We emphasize clean hands, clean counters and clean utensils to prevent contamination. We stress that food may not be safe to eat if held for more than three or four hours at room temperatures, between 60 degrees and 120 degrees, the temperature zone where bacteria grow rapidly. Always serve food soon after cooking. Or refrigerate promptly," Miss Dawson adds.

Polly's Pointers

Make Own Notepaper

DEAR POLLY — Janet asked how to make an outer decorative covering for notepaper, using waxed paper and toilet tissue. I am sure she meant facial tissues. I have great success with the following method: Paste cut-out flowers or pressed leaves on waxed paper.

Lay a SINGLE sheet of facial tissue over the "picture" you have made. Make a mixture of half water and half all-purpose white glue. Spread this generously over the top of the tissue with a one-inch brush. Let dry, then iron on the WAXED PAPER side. I use a deckle cutter for the edges when the sheets are cut to the size of the notepaper. — SISTER GLORIA

★ ★ ★

DEAR POLLY — I hope my Pointer helps Janet, who has disappointing results making notepaper with tissue and other papers. First, lay a piece of white shelf paper or other white paper on the ironing board. Smoothly lay on it a piece of that clear, cling plastic wrap we use in the kitchen.

Put your design of dry leaves, flowers or just pictures and perhaps some glitter in place, then a sheet of waxed paper over the top. Press gently with a BARELY WARM iron.

Test a piece first. The result is a very pretty and unusual effect. Be sure to have the "front" of your decorations against the plastic wrap, as the waxed paper side will be the wrong side. Cut to fit the notepaper you wish to use inside this decorative folder. — MRS. G.K.

★ ★ ★

DEAR GIRLS — Even though Mrs. G.K.'s letter included a beautiful example of her method, I simply could not believe it could be done so easily and quickly and with no messy pasting. It worked great and takes far less time than other methods. The biggest trick is to have the iron on the right temperature. Experiment a bit, as you do not want the plastic to stick to the shelf paper, which is really just a protection to the ironing board. — POLLY

POLLY'S PROBLEM

DEAR POLLY — One rainy evening, the rubber strip came off our windshield wipers and left a long scratch on the passenger's side of the glass. Is there any way to remove this scratch? — MRS. J.K.

It's Immersible

A new electric skillet has family-size capacity (5½ quarts), comes in decorator colors of avocado or harvest gold and features a removable heat control unit. The skillet can be immersed in water for easy cleaning.

Use Drip-Catchers

Keep melted wax from candles off the frosting of the cake. Use marshmallows as candleholders.

Freshman Girl on Rifle Team

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Linda Lee Duke, who learned to shoot at the age of 13, now has a top position on the University of Florida's Rifle Club "A" team.

Since all members of the team are required to take Army ROTC, the 17-year-old freshman from Cocoa, Fa., is the only "regular" Army girl on the campus.

With a score of 255 points out of a possible 300, Linda Lee is accepted as "a regular guy, but sort of a little sister, since I am the youngest on the University team."

She spends about 10 hours a week on the rifle range, an hour in ROTC class and two hours in drill. In her spare time she likes to sew.

Turnover Moderate

Stock Market Opens Lower

NEW YORK (IPI) — Stocks opened lower today in moderate turnover.

In the absence of constructive news many analysts expected the market to be pulled down further by year-end tax selling which has been unusually heavy this year. Investors seemed to be taking tax losses this year rather than waiting until the new law takes effect in 1970 which is regarded as less liberal.

* * *

Shortly after the opening, the UPI marketwide indicator showed a loss of 0.21 per cent on 493 issues crossing the tape. There were 195 declines, and 158 advances.

Lowe's Theatres eased ⅛ to 35¾, while Teledyne gave up ⅛ to 38¾, Anaconda dipped ⅛ to 29⅛, but International Telephone picked up ½ to 58½.

OIL TRADING

Among the oils, Standard of Ohio eased ½ to 81¼, Occidental ¼ to 24¼ on a block of 11,600 shares, and Cities Service ⅝ to 40¾. Atlantic Richfield lost ⅛ to 83¾, while Gulf and Mobile held unchanged at 31 and 46⅞, respectively.

* * *

Int he electronics, RCAe ased ⅛ to 35 on a block of 13,500 shares, and Litton ⅜ to 35⅞. General Electric and Control Data were steady at 76⅞ and 115 in that order. IBM lost ¼ to 358.

* * *

U.S. Steel fell ¼ to 33½, and Inland ⅛ to 26¼. Bethlehem also slid ⅛ to 26¼.

People in the News

(By The Associated Press)

Poet Allan Ginsberg has filed a federal court suit seeking to force Miami, Fla., officials to let him reschedule a poetry reading at Marine Stadium, admitting all comers free.

A Ginsberg reading Dec. 22 was halted when the stadium manager, Manny Costa, objected to a number of four-letter words and drowned out the recitation with loud music on the public address system.

The poet's suit yesterday also asked $10,00 damages from Costa.

Scranton Resigns Delegation Post

SCRANTON

Former Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania has resigned as U.S. representative to a conference arranging for an International Telecommunications Satellite Consortium.

President Nixon said yesterday Scranton's successor would be Abbot M. Washburn, deputy director of the U.S. delegation.

When Scranton took the post, he said he planned to serve only through 1969.

Actor Don Murray, Wife to Separate

Actor Don Murray and his wife, Betty, blaming incompatibility, have agreed to separate, they disclosed yesterday in a joint announcement.

Married Aug. 2, 1961, in Berlin, they have three children.

Murray, 40, also has two children by his former marriage to actress Hope Lange.

The actor, whose big break came when he played opposite Marilyn Monroe in "Bus Stop," has been seen most recently in the ABC television series "The Outcasts."

His movie credits include leading roles in "Hatful of Rain" and "The Hoodlum Priest."

Actress to Be Released From Med Center

Actress Terry Moore's agent says he expects her to be released within a few days from the University of California Medical Center at Los Angeles, where she is under treatment for a bronchial infection.

The agent, Ray Sackheim, told newsmen yesterday that Miss Moore, 40, has been suffering from a general run-down condition.

Miss Moore's third husband, investor Stuart Warren Cramer III, 41, sued this year for divorce, charging cruelty.

John Barrymore Jr. Placed on Probation

Actor John Barrymore Jr. has been placed on probation for two years after pleading no contest to a charge of possessing marijuana.

In passing sentence yesterday in Los Angeles, Superior Court Judge Karl Davis dismissed another charge, possessing dangerous drugs.

Barrymore, 37, was arrested last Aug. 4 after a traffic accident involving a car in which he was a passenger. The Highway Patrol said investigators found marijuana beneath the seat where the actor had been sitting.

Cavett Right for Spot

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK — Dick Cavett returned Monday night for his third go-around on ABC and seems, finally, to be the right man in the right time spot.

MISS LOWRY

The format of his late evening show differs from that of his rivals in that he works alone — no sturdy man Friday to help bridge the awkward moments. He has a series of chairs in a simple set to accommodate the guests.

The main difference is Cavett's quiet and effective way of stimulating bright and vital discussion. In his premiere show there was some standard badinage in the Carson style with comedian-writer Woody Allen. The interesting portion came with the introduction of Metropolitan opera soprano Beverly Sills, who spoke of her family and the familiar generation gap. Miss Sills said she did not particularly want to communicate and that she liked the gap. "I hoep it stays. What I don't need is a 20-yearo-ld buddy."

Then came Jacqueline Grennan Wexler, former nun, former president of Webster College and now the new head of New York's Hunter College.

SPIRITED, LIVELY

Mrs. Wexler defended the young, spoke of their need for involvement. It was a spirited and lively conversation among intelligent people that shed some light on an overdiscussed subject.

The commercial interruptions often broke up good, rolling conversations. But the tone of the 90 minutes has breat spontaneity, and if Cavett's mix magic with people holds, the program may produce more insomniacs than anything since before Jack Paar quit the late night battlefield.

NBC launched a pair of fragile barks on its channels Monday in another revision of its troublesome daytime schedule. The first was the "Who, What and Where Show," which after 25 minutes had still not answered the question.

The second, and not to be underestimated, is "Life with Linkletter," in which Art and son Jack have pulled together a potpourri of interviews, oddities and show biz gimmicks in a deliberate effort to woo both the older and younger daytime viewers.

The game show is so distressingly, so indistinguishly, similar to a clutch of earlier audience participation programs that one wondered just what there was about it that persuaded the network to give it air time. Three members of the audience were seated at the usual consoles, given $150 to bet and permitted to put their money on their ability to answer an assortment of questions.

The program also has Art James, who has been hosting around game shows for years. The players grimly concentrated on answering questions about Frank Sinatra, Apollo 12, the Cuban invasion and the Whiffenpoof song and had little time for anything else.

Radicals Hold Private Session

FINT, (AP) — Singing, chanting, snake dancing, calisthenics and karate lessons featured a session of a meeting called by Weatherman, a breakaway group from the Students for a Democratic Society.

Efforts to keep Monday's gathering at a dance hall private included a registration system, shaded windows and a journalists' fee ranging from $25 to $100.

Weatherman, which claims as many as 10,000 members, took its name from a Bob Dylan lyric: "You don't need a weatherman to know which way the wind blows."

The Weatherman, led by 22-year-old Mark Rudd and Bernardine Dohrn, split from the main body of SDS last June at a Chicago convention. Both Rudd and Miss Dohrn attended the Flint gathering which began Saturday and was to continue through Wednesday.

IN SMALL GROUPS

The number of delegates passed the 150 mark Monday night, and most spent the evening session in small groups discussing such topics as male chauvinism, alliances with factory workers and the sugar harvest in Cuba.

A couple of Rudd's lieutenants took the stage to lead calisthenics midway through the evening.

Large posters of Communist heroes—Mao, Lenin and Ho Chi Minh—were displayed in the meeting room.

FOE VOWS CONTINUING FIGHT—Roy V. Harris (hand cupped to ear) elevator outside the Georgia gents office after the board approve former Secretary of State Dean Rusk as a member of the University of Georgia law faculty. Harris, Georgia head of the American party, which supported former Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace for president in 1968, vowed continued opposition to the appointment, which must be renewed yearly.

Rusk OK'd as Georgia U. Prof.

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Dean Rusk, secretary of state under two presidents, will come home to his native state next September as a highly paid University of Georgia faculty member.

His controversial appointment as a professor of international law was approved Monday by the state Board of Regents in a rare special session.

* * *

Rusk will be paid $45,000 a year, University President Fred C. Davison, who nominated him for the post, receives $36,500.

Rusk, 60, born in Cherokee County, Ga., is presently a fellow of the Rockefeller Foundation with an office in Washington.

9-4 VOTE

He was secretary of state through the Kennedy and Johnson administrations.

Regents approved the nomination by a 9-4 vote after a two-hour meeting behind closed doors. Several regents emerged from the meeting vowing continued opposition to the appointment, which must be renewed yearly.

* * *

"We don't think he's qualified," said Regent Roy V. Harris of Augusta, Georgia head of the American Party, which supported former Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace for president in 1968.

Opposition to Rusk centered on what some Georgians regarded as liberal views, and the marriage of his daughter, Margaret, to Guy Gibson Smith, a Negro, in 1967.

* * *

Georgia Gov. Lester Maddox did not attend the meeting, but said if he were a member of the board, "I'd vote against this." He said Rusk permitted security risks to work in the state department and contributed to "the weakness of our international position."
