Dear Friends, Fans, Alumni and Donors,

I am very excited about being your Director of Athletics here at Oakland University. Being born in Royal Oak, I have always hoped to get back to this great state of Michigan. Not to mention to be able to cheer on my hometown professional sports teams in the Red Wings, Lions, Tigers and Pistons.

When I first arrived on campus, we hosted a brainstorming session in the O'rena where we invited Oakland University constituents to help us identify the department's inherent strengths, where our opportunities are for improvement, what will trigger our ascent into the top 10 of our current NCAA classification (D-IAAA, non-football) and what our external threats to our organization that can unravel even the best plans.

From that process, we identified branding and marketing as our biggest opportunity. Having a consistent brand is important and identifying the bear head logo as our primary logo, will help us become identifiable in the market place.

Messaging is even a bigger part of branding for the athletic department. There are no other Golden Grizzlies in the professional or intercollegiate landscape. The athletic department has embraced that and changed our website and social media platforms to GoldenGrizzlies.com, Facebook/Twitter @GoldenGrizzlies and Instagram @Golden_Grizzlies.

I know there is long history here that refers to our great university as OU in our locale and community. While I agree that we cannot nor should want to replace that tradition on our campus, in the sports industry, OU refers to many different sports properties. From an athletics perspective, we need to commit to Oakland University or Oakland as there can be no confusion with these word associations. Please help us achieve this unified message.

The final part of our brand is the gameday experience. In order to create a new and exciting gameday experience, we met with key members of the student organizations and designed a new format. Using our current strengths of band, cheer and dance performances, we have added a DJ to inject high energy into the O'rena at crucial moments. We have also removed all halftime acts and replaced with strategic sponsorship opportunities and video content.

My goal is to have Oakland University Athletics inside the top 10 in its NCAA classification. We cannot do that alone. We need your help. Whether its being a great fan at a game, getting friends involved in our student-athlete experience, or making a contribution, it all helps and is appreciated. We are the GOLDEN GRIZZLIES. And we WEAR THE BEAR!

Sincerely,

Jeff Konya
Director of Athletics

MEN'S BASKETBALL HEAD COACH GREG KAMPE

Greg Kampe completed his 30th season in 2013-14 and is the third-longest tenured coach at one school in Division I. Kampe led Oakland to six championships in 14 seasons inside The Summit League, including three NCAA tournaments (2005, '10, '11).

He became the fifth active D-I coach to win 500 games at one school, finished third all-time in The Summit League with 147 league victories, and earned a league-best five coach of the year selections.

Kampe led the Golden Grizzlies to a tie for fifth-place standing in their first season inside the Horizon League with a 7-9 record. The Golden Grizzlies won their opening round game versus Youngstown State, before falling to Wright State in the quarterfinals.

A CLOSER LOOK AT KAMPE

- » Led team to a nation's-best 34-2 league record from 2009-11
- » Oakland won six Summit League championships in 14 seasons
- » The Golden Grizzlies are 43-9 (.827) in league play at home since 2008
- » Oakland is averaging over 80 points per game over the last five seasons

- » Over 25 players have gone on to play professionally, including two in the NBA; Rawle Marshall (2002-05) for the Dallas Mavericks (2005-06) and Indiana Pacers (2006-07), while Keith Benson (2007-11) became the first-ever draft pick, taken 48th overall by the Atlanta Hawks and played for the Golden State Warriors (2012)
- » Brian Gregory (1987-90) continues to hold the all-time school record in assists for a career, single-season and single-game, and now has become a very successful college coach; After working under Tom Izzo at Michigan State, Gregory took over a Dayton and led the Flyers to multiple NCAA tournaments, before becoming the head coach at Georgia Tech in 2011.

WOMEN'S BASKETBALL HEAD COACH JEFF TUNGATE

Jeff Tungate was named the head coach for the women's basketball team on July 16, 2013. He has spent the previous six seasons as the associate head coach for the men's basketball program and is going into his ninth season overall with the Golden Grizzlies. In 2014, Tungate received the inaugural Oakland Athletics Coach of the Year award.

In his first season at the helm, Tungate led the Golden Grizzlies to its first non-losing season in league play since 2010-11. Oakland finished the season with an 8-8 record in its inaugural season in the Horizon League. He also implemented a new offense that averaged the most points per game since 2007-08 and the most total points in five seasons. He coached the first-ever All-Horizon League performers in Bethany Watterworth (2nd team) and Kim Bee (All-defensive). He earned his first career victory as a Division I head coach on Nov. 27, 2013, defeating Niagara 71-57.

Tungate began his career as Assistant Girl's Basketball Coach at Clarkston High School followed by one season as Assistant Women's Basketball Coach at Oakland Community College working for Oakland Hall of Honor member Ann Serra.

He spent seven seasons overall with the men's basketball program, six as associate head coach. The Golden Grizzlies experienced unmatched success, making three NCAA tournaments and winning five Summit League championships during his tenure. In 2010, Tungate was an honorable mention selection by CollegeInsider.com for the top 25 mid-major assistant coaches. Over the course of his seven years with the men's program, Tungate worked with six players that played professional basketball, including OU's first-ever NBA Draft Pick Keith Benson, taken 48th overall by the Atlanta Hawks in 2011.

Tungate graduated from Oakland in 1993 with a degree in English. During his time at OU he played on the baseball team where he earned Preseason All-America honors in 1992 and continues to hold the school record for longest hitting streak at 20 games.

Jeff is married to the former Kelley Kleinhans. They both reside in Rochester, with their two sons, Jordan and Cooper.

ATHLETIC DIRECTOR JEFF KONYA

Jeff Konya was named Director of Athletics on July 7, 2014 and began his post on August 11, 2014. Prior to accepting the position at Oakland, Konya served as AD at Cal State Bakersfield from 2010-14.

Konya has overseen all operational aspects of an 18-sport NCAA Division I athletics department at CSUB with an estimated $11 million annual budget, more than 60 coaches and staff, and approximately 350 student-athletes. He executed a strategic plan to gain primary conference memberships in the WAC, which occurred in October 2012, and affiliate memberships prior to that date: men's soccer to the Pac 12, baseball to the WAC, and softball to the WCC. In 2012, CSUB athletics fundraising ranked first nationally when compared to similar public I-AAA institutions, and this fiscal year which concluded on June 30, 2014, CSUB Athletics set all time institutional record highs in scholarship fund dollars raised ($603,000) and overall fundraising (over $2,000,000). Also, he is a member of the NCAA men's soccer selection committee.

"Jeffrey Konya is a veteran leader with close to 20 years of athletics department experience and a record of progressively increased leadership responsibilities," said then interim president Betty Youngblood. "He has been a member of several Division I athletics senior leadership teams that have seen success both internally and externally over the past several years."

"It is my responsibility as a leader and educator to create an environment for our student-athletes to be successful academically, athletically and socially," Konya said. "I firmly believe student-athlete development must be a priority and that our efforts are integrated with campus initiatives and opportunities."

Konya is widely recognized as an innovator in athletics marketing. His 2012 CSUB "New Gold Standard" campaign was named a National Association of Collegiate Marketing Administrators (NACMA) Finalist for the Division I athletics marketing department of the year. It was a campaign that featured his implementation of the "blue basketball court," which is routinely credited as one of the first unique basketball court visual brands in the marketplace and one of the best overall designs.

"In my perception, Oakland University has a high ceiling for its athletics department and can quickly grow into one of the Top 10 properties in its respective NCAA classification. In reaching this potential, it is my responsibility to be fiscally sound in practice and to seek revenue opportunities for growth, as well as to maintain an inclusive environment that values gender equity and cultural diversity for all members of the department while being reflective of the mission of the institution," he added.

Konya completed his Juris Doctor with honors in 1998 at the University of Iowa College of Law and his bachelor of arts in 1995 from Princeton University. Previous work experiences include being the athletics director at Northeastern State (OK) and serving in senior athletics leadership capacities at such institutions as SMU, Memphis, Bucknell and UTSA. He was born in Royal Oak, Mich., spent part of his youth living in West Bloomfield, Mich., and is an avid Detroit sports fan.

ABOUT THE METRO SERIES

Oakland and Detroit have branded an annual rivalry called the Metro Series, driven by Trinity Transportation, which will be awarded to the school with the most head-to-head victories over the course of the academic year.

Separated by just 26 miles, Oakland and Detroit are the only Division I schools located in the Metro Detroit area and are both members of the Horizon League. The Golden Grizzlies and Titans will compete in men's and women's basketball, men's and women's cross country, men's and women's golf, men's and women's soccer, softball, women's tennis, men's and women's track and field.

The winner of each competition will be awarded points, with cross country, golf and track and field being decided by the highest finish at the Horizon League Championships. The school with the most points at the end of the season will be awarded the Metro Rivalry cup. In an event of a tie in the first year, the school with the most Horizon League All-Academic selections from all sports will be the winner. Following the inaugural season, the school that wins the cup the previous year will retain the cup in an event of a tie.

Last season Oakland and Detroit witnessed attendance highs at the men's basketball games that produced an overtime thriller in the O'rena on ESPN during Rivalry Week. The Golden Grizzlies had an attendance record of 4,065 and the Titans featured a crowd of 6,976 in Calihan Hall, the third largest attendance since the 1999-00 season.

SCORING

Each of the 14 sports that Oakland and UDM compete in head-to-head will be worth two points for each contest or championship. Ties will result in one point each.

Points will be awarded during regular-season play only in head-to-head meetings.

For men's and women's cross country, men's and women's golf, men's and women's indoor/outdoor track and field, two points will be awarded to the team that finishes higher at the Horizon League Championships.

In an event of a tie, the team that won the rivalry the year before will retain possession of the trophy. For the first year, the team with the most Horizon League All-Academic selections will be crowned the winner.

GOLDEN GRIZZLIES' 2005 SEASON WAS AN IMPROBABLE 'CINDERELLA' STORY

By Catherine Slonksnis
GoldenGrizzlies.com Contributor

Battling inconsistency throughout the year, the Oakland University men's basketball team turned a would-be disappointing season into an improbable fairy-tale ending. The Golden Grizzlies pulled off a stunning win against Oral Roberts University on "The Shot" by Pierre Dukes to take the Mid-Con Tournament. Although Oakland was beaten by the eventual NCAA champions — The University of North Carolina — the year was anything but a loss.

Expectations for the 2004-2005 team were low, and discord between some players made team cohesion seem impossible. Facing a rough opening schedule, Oakland began its season with an 0-7 record, all on the road. Unable to hold leads, particularly in the second half of games, players became used to a losing atmosphere. Oakland struggled to retain momentum and road wins failed to materialize.

"There was so much drama that at one point I don't think anybody liked each other, it was like a sorority house. It was bad," coach Greg Kampe said.

Still, Kampe saw a spark in the team and he continued to push his players. Meanwhile, Dukes, who wasn't on the team at the start of the season — having decided not to play after the 2003-2004 season — was asked by Kampe to take part in practices to help a short-handed roster, without the pressure to play in games.

It wasn't until later in the season though, that players changed their perspective about the game, and each other. Kampe, who eventually had enough of the fighting, suspended the team's shooting guard, Kris Krzyminski, prior to the last month of the season. Kampe's actions galvanized the players to each other and Cortney Scott said they "bought into" the idea of playing basketball as a team.

"That really was the breaking point for us and that really turned us around because then a lot of us, we quit playing for — I wouldn't say so much the fans so much that we played for ourselves, and that's when things started changing," Scott said. "We started doing it because we wanted to win and we wanted to leave a legacy."

After a tough home loss to the University of Missouri-Kansas City, Oakland did just that, going on a winning streak that included an upset against UMKC later in the month. The team took its first road game victory of the season against Western Illinois and Oakland became the first seventh-seeded team in 16 years to make the Mid-Con title game.

Needing one win to take the Mid-Con Tournament, Oakland had to face Oral Roberts on the road, something they had struggled with. Rawle Marshall and Scott played an aggressive game against ORU, but trailing 60-58 with mere seconds on the clock, Marshall was doubled up, unable to take a shot.

Rather than attempt the impossible, Marshall gave up his moment in the spotlight and sent the ball to Dukes, making it the most selfless act of the season. Dukes, who had eventually taken up Kampe's offer to play on the team earlier in the season, was wide open. With 1.3 second left on the clock, the game, and the tournament on the line, Dukes made "The Shot."

"All I remember is backdooring and I came back to the ball to help Rawle because he needed help," Dukes said. "Before you knew it I just squared up and I just shot it. I really do wish I could remember shooting the ball or remember the moment. It's not one of those surreal moments where I can just remember releasing the ball, I don't have that image."

Dukes' shot handed Oakland an extraordinary upset over Oral Roberts as the team took the Mid-Con Tournament, — despite holding a losing record — sending the Golden Grizzlies to the NCAA tournament for the first time since Oakland became eligible for Division I postseason in 2002.

As lasting as the win was, it wasn't the moment that stood out in Kampe's mind. As he walked through the tunnel following on-court celebrations, Kampe saw two players who had fought all season resolve their differences. It formed a lasting image that Kampe remembers vividly to this day. Those players were Marshall and Scott.

"The two guys that hated each other the most, the two that I had said (theoretically), 'You guys go in the locker room and only one come out,' were standing in the hallway hugging each other," Kampe said. "Which was, for me, was an unbelievable — one of the best moments I've ever had in coaching, was to see that happen."

Oakland defeated Alabama A&M in the opening round game before facing UNC, the No. 1 seed in the NCAA tournament on the road, but they were eventually beaten by the Tar Heels. But while Oakland's year concluded in Charlotte, the story of their incredible season did not, and it brought the campus together when the team returned to Michigan.

The national spotlight shined on the Golden Grizzlies in the days that followed. The team was now viewed as one that could hold its own in competition, making 2005 a turning point for Oakland University. In the end, Oakland's unlikely season became one of college basketball's Cinderella stories.

CINDERELLA WEARS BASKETBALL SHOES

HOW THE 1990 WOMEN'S BASKETBALL TEAM DEFIED THE ODDS ALL THE WAY TO THE FINAL FOUR

By Samantha Franz
GoldenGrizzlies.com Contributor

As any student-athlete can attest to, your teammates really do become your family. From the countless hours of play to the shared experiences of victory and defeat, sports have the amazing ability to create life-long bonds. Regardless of where life takes you after graduation, there is a piece of you that always belongs with your teammates.

The 1989-90 women's basketball squad was so much more than a team. It was a 12-man family that defied the odds, thanks to a seamless combination of talent and chemistry that took a college relatively unknown outside of Michigan to the big stage of the Final Four.

Head Coach Bob Taylor knew he had a special group and realized that the secret to keeping his team successful throughout the entire season was to make sure the passion never wavered.

"What separated Coach Taylor from most college coaches was his ability to keep his players fresh," said team captain Ann (Serra) Lowney (1988-90). "There was never a summer program we had to follow; he told each of us to do what we felt we needed to do in the summer to become a better player. Because he trusted us, none of us wanted to let him down."

Taylor also mixed up his team's schedule with practice, open gyms, aerobic workouts and off days to make sure his team never burned out. The results paid off.

"We all loved the game so much that when it was game time, we were eager to take the floor," said Lowney. "On the other hand, most of our opponents who practiced six days a week for two-plus hours a day would get worn out as the season progressed."

Coach Taylor was also a keen strategist and his insight always kept his players on their toes.

"He was extremely knowledgeable about the game," said Jennifer (Golen) Dempster (1990-92). "He knew the X's and O's and always had us well-prepared going into the next game."

Under Taylor's leadership, the Pioneers' fire burned brightly throughout the entire season. Despite a roster with three players sidelined with knee injuries, the Pioneers took the GLIAC regular season crown with a 14-2 record. They then defeated Hillsdale College 106-71 in the conference tournament championship game and earned an automatic bid to the NCAA Division II Tournament for the second consecutive year.

After defeating IPFW 87-83, the Pioneers faced a familiar foe in the second round: St. Joseph's (Ind.), who in the previous season, had defeated Oakland at home and knocked them out of the tournament.

The Pioneers made sure history did not repeat itself and in a hard-fought battle, defeated St. Joseph's 89-86. With that hurdle cleared, the Pioneers found themselves in uncharted territory and they hit the road for their biggest trial yet: a Central Missouri State team that was riding a 55-0 winning streak at home.

"We were certainly hopeful and determined, but we knew we faced an enormous challenge," said Dawn Lichty (1987-90). "Our attitude was definitely the Cinderella team mentality – 'we have nothing to lose' and 'no one expects us to win' ran through our heads often."

But the Pioneers played like a team expected to win and in front of several thousand fans, Oakland snapped Central Missouri State's winning streak with a 66-61 victory and earned themselves a bid to the Final Four.

It was after the Pioneers arrived in California that the title of "Cinderella team" was brought up during a press conference.

"We sure didn't mind the label," said Lichty. "We were thrilled to be making an appearance in the Final Four and there was no reason not to believe that we could pull off another upset."

The Pioneers then faced Bentley and fought blow-for-blow the entire game until the final possession. Oakland came up just short in the final seconds by a score of 72-68.

"When it was all said and done, we were delighted to have represented Oakland University, our coaching staff and our teammates well," said Lichty. "Our team had definitely experienced some struggle that season, but the dream of doing something that few teams get to do was strong. If the dream is big enough, the facts don't matter and we sort proved that true."

It was definitely a magical year for the Pioneers and those that played for that team will forever carry the 1989-90 season with them.

"The chemistry [with that team] was unbelievable," said Dempster, who transferred to Oakland and was a starter for the Final Four team during her first year of eligibility. "I really stepped into something pretty special over there. I was very grateful that they were so welcoming."

Oakland University is so more than just a college for these women. To them, this is a community where opportunities were given, friendships forged, spouses met, and children raised.

Simply put, Oakland is home and whether they are godparents to each other's kids or haven't spoken in years, the 1990 Final Four team will always be family.

"Twenty-five years ago, we knew we could count on each other and we showed that day in and day out during the season," said Lowney. "Today, if one of us needed something, everyone knows we are just a phone call away and we'll be there for each other."

Your gift matters to Marianna.

Name: Marianna Stepp

Year: Senior

Major: Human Resources Development

Hometown: Rochester Hills, Mich.

Sport: Women's Golf Team

"Your gift matters to me because being a student-athlete is a once-in-a-lifetime experience. I'm thankful for those who support the Women's Golf Team because without them I wouldn't be where I am today."

Career plans?

After college, I plan to pursue a career in human resources. Ideally, I would like to begin my HR career in the golf industry.

Why did you pick OU?

I chose Oakland because I wanted to play golf at a Division I school. I'm so happy I picked OU because I feel as if I am part of something bigger. At Oakland, I knew I could make a difference for myself and others because it's just the right size.

What do you love most about your major?

I love the professors. I feel like I have personal relationships with them.

What is your favorite OU tradition?

I love the student-athlete events, such as our "Grizz Madness" and the "GESPY Awards." It's so much fun when we're all together, and it's great to see what others have accomplished over their four years.

Make a gift that matters today and in the future.
