

Sent: Monday, June 09, 2008 1:49 PM
To: EMAILUPDATE-MI08@LS1.HOUSE.GOV
Subject: In Case You Missed It Part II: My Plan to Lower Gas Prices

My energy independence plan continues to get attention and support. In the past week, the plan to declare July 4, 2015 America's Energy Independence Day has been featured all around the country.

WHAT THEY ARE SAYING:

"Rogers' plan can and will work if America does what it historically has done -- come together to fight a common enemy. And we certainly know who that enemy is -- reliance on foreign sources of energy." (editorial) - The Oakland Press, Congressman's Energy Plan Deserves Support

If we came together as a nation today, we could stop importing overseas oil by 2015 and begin protecting America's national security, lowering gas and home heating prices, creating jobs and protecting the environment. (op-ed) - The Washington Times, Declare Independence Freedom from High Energy Costs

To Lars Larson's national radio audience, Rogers described his plan described his plan to deliver real change by increasing American energy production, promoting new sources of reliable energy, and encouraging greater energy efficiency. (audio) - Lars Larson Radio Show

"Prices at the pump are downright painful. But Rep. Mike Rogers (R-MI) has a plan to wean America off expensive foreign oil by the Fourth of July 2015." (audio) - America's Business with Mike Hambrick of the National Association of Manufacturers

"As he unveiled the 11-point plan, Rogers showed how many barrels of oil per day would be saved by implementing each point in his proposal. It's a nice plan. Really, I was impressed." (article) - Mike Mallott, Livingston Daily Press & Argus, Aiming for Energy Independence

Watch an animated summary of my Energy Independence plan

View the Energy Independence Webpage

Sincerely,

Mike Rogers
Member of Congress

Click Here to Unsubscribe