Viet Fighting Erupts; GI Air Crash Toll 24

SAIGON (AP) — Allied forces killed 150 enemy troops in a new outbreak of heavy fighting near the Cambodian border, along the jungled approaches to Saigon, military spokesmen reported today.

Enemy gunners shot down a U.S. helicopter ferrying ammunition to the embattled South Vietnamese mercenaries in the area. Four Americans were killed and two wounded.

Earlier, U.S. headquarters reported that 24 Americans were killed in the collision of a big Army CH47 Chinook helicopter and an Air Force Caribou cargo plane 11 miles northwest of Hue on the coast. It was one of the worst air collisions of the war. There were no survivors.

The fighting along the Cambodian border, 60 miles northwest of Saigon was triggered at daybreak yesterday when about 400 South Vietnamese civilian irregulars were lifted into the area by American helicopters. They immediately ran into an enemy force of about 800 to 1,000 men.

Two and a half hours later, another 400 South Vietnamese mercenaries were committed to the fight.

The battle raged throughout the day.

★ ★ ★

Preliminary reports from military spokesmen said the mercenaries also seized 10 machine guns, 25 assault rifles, and other assorted weapons and ammunition.

Government casualties were put at 15 dead and 44 wounded.

The American helicopter was brought down by machine-gun fire as it was landing. A U.S. Special Forces captain and the crew chief were killed in the flaming wreckage.

The pilot and a gunner were killed by enemy riflemen as they crawled away from the wreckage after pulling out the wounded helicopter commander.

The new outbreak of fighting broke a week-long lull in ground action along the Cambodian border where the enemy lost 700 men during the last week of September in suicidal attacks on Green Beret camps screening infiltration routes.

In the aerial collision far to the north, headquarters said the Air Force Caribou had just taken off from Camp Evans, headquarters of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division. Thirteen men were killed aboard the Caribou, including four crewmen. Eleven others were killed on the helicopter, including four crewmen.

'69 County Budget Includes Pay Hikes

The Oakland County Board of Supervisors will be asked Monday to approve an average salary increase of 13 per cent for county employes for 1969.

In addition, a record county budget of $25,833,778 will be up for adoption. County officials say this is a balanced budget with expected revenues equaling projected expenditures. The 1968 budget was $21,134,162.

The largest single budget item is salaries, $11,692,156. This year's total for salaries is $9,837,624. Added for 1969 is $454,050 for 65 new positions in various departments. The other approximately $1.3 million accounts for salary increases to be spread among 1,347 county employes.

The board of supervisors meets at 9:30 a.m. at the county courthouse. The only public hearing on the budget will be at 10:30 a.m. Anyone who wishes to may speak five minutes on the budget, according to county regulations on public hearings. Last year no one spoke.

HIKE FOR AUDITOR

Recommended to receive the largest salary increase is Daniel T. Murphy, chairman of the Board of Auditors. His salary would go from $26,500 to $31,500. (Murphy would get $24,000 for his position as an auditor, supplemented by $7,500 for the chairmanship. In 1968 the supplement was $6,500, the straight salary $20,000). Murphy got a $1,500 raise last year.

The county's elected officials also are recommended for wage boosts. The prosecuting attorney would receive a $2,500 raise, to $24,000. Other elected officials getting a $2,000 hike for the year in the tentative budget, putting the wage packet at $19,500, are the clerk-register of deeds, treasurer, drain commissioner and sheriff.

No increase is recommended for the three road commissioners whose salary was left at $12,000 each.

★ ★ ★

None of the 87 supervisors themselves would benefit from the proposed salary increases. They are paid $20 per meeting. However, the county has been reapportioned and 27 new supervisors will take over the county in January. They have the power to set their own salaries under state law. Whether they will vote themselves an annual salary and what size it will be is a matter of conjecture.

INCOME SOURCES

In listing the county's expected income, the budget shows $18,270,859 to be raised by the countywide 5.28 millage levy.

The other approximately $7.5 million is to be raised by various county revenues including an expected $2.3 million as the county's share of the state income tax.

Snipers Quiet in Armed Calm of Mexico City

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Students burned trolley cars near an Olympic field and armored cars kept their guns trained on apartment buildings where snipers had holed up, but most of the Mexican capital was quiet last night.

Despite the eruption of the student rebellion into a shooting battle with army troops Wednesday night, the Olympic games still were set to open a week from Saturday.

A count of casualties at hospitals and police stations showed at least 27 persons killed in Wednesday night's fighting, and some Mexico City newspapers reported death tolls as high as 40. There was no official estimate of the number wounded, but it appeared to be in the hundreds. Various sources reported between 1,000 and 1,500 arrested.

Related Story, Page A-7

The government has reported 20 deaths. Gen. Marcelino Garcia Barragan, secretary of defense, said one of the dead was a soldier. He said the high rate of casualties among civilians was the result of their "confusion."

★ ★ ★

No injuries were reported in yesterday's incidents. Students burned three streetcars in front of the Aztec Stadium, where Olympic soccer games will be played, and fled before police made any arrests. Hit-and-run gunmen fired apparently random sprays of bullets in various sections of the city.

★ ★ ★

Wednesday night's battle was the second serious eruption. Fifteen persons were killed Sept. 23 when police and students battled with guns, knives, clubs and Molotov cocktails.

★ ★ ★

While Mexican youth is rebelling, 7,000 athletes from more than 200 nations are coming to the Mexican capital for what Avery Brundage, president of the International Olympic Committee, called "a friendly gathering of the youth of the world in amicable competition."

The games are scheduled to run through Oct. 27.

Thousands Greet Tigers

DETROIT (AP) — A sandy-haired youngster, no more than 10 and waving a piece of paper, dashed up to a weary sheriff's deputy at Detroit's Metropolitan Airport last night and screamed, "I got Bill Freehan's autograph."

The lad was one of thousands who got around protective police barricades just after a jet carrying the Detroit Tigers landed.

Related Stories, Pages C-1, C-2

"Once they're in, you'll never get them out," said the deputy of the screaming, pushing throng pressed against the plane's exit ramp as the 131 people in the Tiger party tried to disembark.

One of the first Tigers to exit was Willie Horton, whose second-inning solo homer hours earlier sent the Tigers on the way to a series evening 8-1 victory for Detroit.

"We just felt good," Horton told newsmen in the forefront of the crush. "We knew we had to go out there and do it and we did it."

When yesterday's winner, Mickey Lolich, manager Mayo Smith and Denny McLain appeared on the ramp in quick succession, it was bedlam around the plane as the fans flashed the victory sign en masse and began chanting "Go-Go Tigers" in unison.

★ ★ ★

Tiger players fought their way to buses waiting to whisk them downtown and still the fans pressed with their signs and Tiger pennants.

Two youths blocked the lead bus to make sure the players would see their lettered offering: "Tigers, Slip 'em Two Mickeys — Lolich and Stanley."

Meanwhile, over by the fence which had long since given way before the enthusiastic fans, the 80-member Cooley High School band in deep red uniforms made its musical contribution to the festivities.

The big bass drum depicted a big red cardinal — ironically the school's nickname.

The appearance of that particular band was provoked by a story the day before in a Detroit paper which observed the Tigers' first game performance was in general "like the Cooley High Marching Band."

3 Gunned Down in Futile Holdup

DETROIT (AP)—A lone gunman, apparently enraged when told there was no safe in the catering company he had just held up, shot two employes to death and wounded a third as they were lying face down on the floor today, police said.

The victims were Kurt Hartmann, owner of Hartmann's Catering Co. on Detroit's West Side; Thomas O'Rourke, and Elzora Saunders.

Police said Mrs. Saunders, although critically wounded, managed to crawl to a phone and summon help. Hartmann and O'Rourke were dead when police arrived.

She told police the gunman came in via a rear door and demanded money from Hartmann, who surrendered what he had in his wallet. The bandit, who ordered the trio to lie on the floor, asked where the safe was. Told there was none, he shot all three and then spent 10 minutes in a fruitless search for a wall safe or hidden money before he fled.

Chill Winds Bring New Season Low

Colder temperatures riding in on 12 to 25 mile per hour winds sent the mercury tumbling to 39 at 8 a.m. today, a new low for the season.

Gardeners are advised to cover tomato plants and flowers tonight as temperatures are expected to dip into the low 30s.

★ ★ ★

Here is the U.S. Weather Bureau's official day-by-day forecast:

TODAY—Variable cloudiness, breezy and cool. High 50 to 55. Fair and cool tonight with frost likely, the low 33 to 40.

TOMORROW—Sunny and not quite so cool.

SUNDAY—Fair and mild.

Precipitation probabilities in per cent are: today 10, tonight and tomorrow 5.

★ ★ ★

At 2 p.m. under sunny skies, the temperature climbed to 52.

Wilson Hits Strikes

BLACKPOOL, England (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson told Britain's unions today that "ill-considered" strikes were jeopardizing the country's economic recovery.

Britain's struggling economy has been crippled by strikes in a number of basic industries, including shipbuilding, transport and automobiles. But Wilson's appeal obviously was aimed at the metalworkers, who have threatened a nationwide strike for Oct. 21.

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP) — A student was reported killed in the second straight day of disorders yesterday in Sao Paulo. Dozens were injured, and police arrested 40 persons.

LeMay Bombshell: N-Arm Is Just Another Weapon

By the Associated Press

George C. Wallace's selection of Gen. Curtis E. LeMay as his running mate has drawn fresh attacks on his third-party campaign, particularly over the use of nuclear weapons.

LeMay, 61, former Air Force chief of staff, told his first news conference as a vice presidential candidate yesterday that "a nuclear weapon is just another weapon in the arsenal."

LeMay said he thinks there are situations where it "would be most efficient to use nuclear weapons."

Republican Richard M. Nixon, campaigning in Atlanta, said "I have great respect for Mr. LeMay as an Air Force general. But this kind of reaction shows why it is so important that in the White House, you have a man who recognizes we must have civilian control.

Related Stories, Page C-9

Democrat Hubert H. Humphrey, campaigning in West Virginia, said: "It would be disastrous if anyone who spoke as Gen. LeMay did this morning should come into a position of high responsibility.

"I never want to see nuclear weapons used anywhere, by anyone—in Vietnam or elsewhere."

The candidates hit on other issues than those raised by LeMay and Wallace, however.

★ ★ ★

Nixon said some justices sitting on the Supreme Court could fill his qualifications for a chief justice—"men who will interpret the Constitution strictly and fairly and objectively."

Humphrey characterized Republicans as the party of "recession, depression and unemployment." "We're not going to turn this country back to an administration that doesn't care," said Humphrey.

School Officials Eye Integration

By DICK ROBINSON

Pontiac schools have been sharply criticized for being seriously segregated.

Critics have branded Oakland County's largest school system as one which "pays lip service to integration." Racial isolation is getting worse, they say.

★ ★ ★

School officials are well aware of the problems in a system where three-fourths of all elementary pupils attend schools made up predominantly of their own race — white or black.

★ ★ ★

Figures show that 28 of the city's 36 schools are segregated, either predominantly black or white. Twenty-one of the 28 are elementary schools.

ISOLATION HARMFUL

Administrators and the school board realize that isolation of elementary pupils from other races is harmful to development of their attitudes, values and achievement.

But what the school officials don't know is how to better integrate schools. They are knowledgeable, however, on how to tackle the problem — by taking a long look at it.

★ ★ ★

Starting next week, teams of administrators and board of education members will fly from coast to coast to see how other school districts are trying to solve school segregation problems.

Schools Supt. Dr. Dana P. Whitmer explains that the move follows the wishes of the critical Pontiac School District Citizens Study Committee on Equality of Educational Opportunity.

Scripps-Howard Newspapers Give Backing to Nixon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Scripps-Howard Newspapers have endorsed Richard M. Nixon for president.

An editorial appearing in the 17 newspapers in the group said the Scripps-Howard editors "see no other real choice in 1968" than Nixon, the Republican nominee.

"They believe he offers more hope, on more counts, than Hubert Humphrey and that George Wallace offers no hope at all," the editorial said.

"The country is ripe, and apparently eager, for change. Historically, change in Washington has been profitable. We think this year it is unusually necessary."

The 17 Scripps-Howard newspapers endorsed President Johnson for reelection in 1964 after backing the Republican candidate in each presidential race since 1940.

U.S. Auto Makers Geared to Fight Foreign Minicars

DETROIT (AP) — With General Motors Corp. announcing plans for a minicar, the biggest firms in the nation's auto industry have cast their dies to compete against fast-rising sales of foreign subcompact cars.

Board Chairman James M. Roche of GM said yesterday in New York that his firm will introduce a small car in 1970.

It will be "a foot shorter than any car GM makes in the United States today, will weigh about 1,000 pounds and will be about a foot longer than the best-selling foreign car," he said.

That would make the GM vehicle, currently called the XP887, about 14 feet, 3 inches long. West Germany's Volkswagen, top-selling foreign import, is 13 feet, 3 inches in length.

Ford Motor Co., second-largest auto producer, is expected to introduce the first new U.S.-made competition to foreign imports when it unveils a subcompact probably in the spring of 1969.

Ford's minicar, code-named "Delta," was confirmed by Henry Ford II late last month as planned for assembly at its St. Thomas, Ont., plant.

★ ★ ★

The third of the Big Three — Chrysler — has said through its board chairman, Lynn Townsend, only that "we are going to meet all competition."

American Motors Corp. plans to build a subcompact which reportedly would be at least nine inches longer than the Volkswagen and somewhat heavier.

★ ★ ★

GM's little car will be engineered, built and distributed by its Chevrolet Division, with assembly of the car at Lordstown, Ohio.

Navy Probing Inspection of Steel for Submarines

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy acknowledges that for the past nine months it has been investigating inspection practices for steel used in U.S. submarines.

The review, the Navy disclosed last night, was prompted by a letter from the head of a steel testing firm who "expressed concern" about the service's steel buying and inspecting procedures.

★ ★ ★

The Navy said a wide-ranging probe that involved building of submarines, steel producers and government agents showed:

- There is no evidence that defective steel plates are being used in submarine construction."
- There is also no indication that the loss of the USS Thresher (1963) and USS Scorpion (last May) were due to the failure of the steel plates used in the hull structure.

★ ★ ★

- Submarine steel plates and fabricated structures are guaranteed safe through inspection procedures that are always "carried out under government supervision."
- Recent ultrasonic inspection of welds and plating in more than 40 submarines in service "has not revealed any evidence of plates which do not meet safe submarine construction requirements."

★ ★ ★

- There is no evidence that rejected plates were used in any submarine construction."

The comments followed reports this week by Washington columnists Drew Pearson and Jack Anderson that the Navy had evidence as early as July 16, 1962, that steel producers had "knowingly delivered defective plates" for submarine construction.

NAVY COMMENT

The Navy, asked for comment, defended itself—and industry, to an extent.

But the Navy's page-long rebuttal did not directly address one practice questioned by the columnists: The policy of allowing steel producers to pass judgment on their own steel.

What the Navy called "an extensive and detailed review" was started last February after the Naval Ship Systems Command received a letter from Raymond G. Perelman, president of Penn Galvanizing Co. of Philadelphia, who was critical of inspection procedures.

Perelman's firm was hired by Electric Boat, biggest U.S. sub builder, to check ultrasonically the steel plates being turned out by the mills for submarine construction.

CONTENTS SECRET

Contents of the letter were not disclosed but the columnists said Perelman, in subsequent meetings with Navy officials, said his company had documented 750 instances of defective plates since 1962.

BIRMINGHAM — Robert A. Stevens, supervisor of instructional material resources and assistance centers, has been appointed director of information services of Birmingham schools.

Stevens will assume duties similar to those of former administrative assistant Walter Piel on Nov. 4.

A new report card for elementary schools was presented to the board. The card, made up through the combined efforts of teachers, administrators, parents and students, will be used in seven elementary schools this year on a pilot basis.

The schools selected are Pembroke, Westchester, Evergreen and Walnut Lake, as well as Harlan, Pierce and Midvale, in the primary grades.

INDIVIDUAL MARKS

The new card gives teachers a chance to mark pupils on an individual basis, as opposed to the ranking type of grading which has been done in the past.

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — Voter registrations will be accepted until 8 tonight at the clerk's office, 45 East Long Lake Road.

BIRMINGHAM — The first general meeting of the Pembroke School P.T.A. will be at 8 p.m. Monday in the school auditorium.

Dr. John Blackhall Smith, schools superintendent will speak on "Education Horizon."

A question and answer period will follow.

BIRMINGHAM — A call has gone out for substitute teachers needed in the Birmingham Public Schools.

At the elementary and secondary levels vocal music teachers are needed. At the secondary level there is a need for junior high mathematics and science teachers.

Interested persons may qualify for minimum certification, if they have had 60 semester hours or 90 term hours of college training, although a bachelor's degree and teaching certificate are preferred.

Giant B52 Crashes; Two of Crew Survive

MINOT, N.D. (AP) — A B52 bomber from Minot Air Force Base crashed and burned early today on a farm 12 miles northeast of this north-central North Dakota city.

At least two crew members survived the crash, which occurred about 3 a.m., EDT. The base public relations office said the Stratofortress carried a crew of six.

★ ★ ★

There was no immediate word of the fate of the four other crewmen.

"I was out of bed like a rocket," said Carl Swarthwout, 66. "The flames were shooting several hundred feet across the soil bank land."

DOWN NEAR HOUSE

Swarthwout, who lives alone on the farm, said the eight-jet bomber came down 300 to 400 feet from his house.

A few minutes later, the farmer said, two crew members walked to the farmhouse. One appeared to be unhurt, Swarthwout said, while the other complained of an elbow injury.

★ ★ ★

The two airmen stayed in the farmhouse for two hours before an ambulance and fire truck arrived, he said. The craft was still burning three hours after it crashed.

The farmer said the survivors told him that the craft was on a training mission and there were no weapons.

'FALLING APART'

Swarthwout quoted one of the crew members as saying, "There was a failure in one side of the eight engines and the plane started to fall apart."

The two survivors told the farmer that they used their ejection mechanism to get out of the plane. They didn't know if the other crew members escaped, the farmer said.

★ ★ ★

Kelley to Hear Officials From Troy Schools

Troy Board of Education members and administrators will be invited to appear at the State attorney general's office in Lansing during the last week of October.

Dr. Rex B. Smith, superintendent of the Troy Community Schools, said he had been informed by Eugene Krasicky, assistant attorney general, that the date will be confirmed next week.

The meeting is reportedly to discuss state auditors' charges of expenditure mismanagement in the district's 1965 and 1966 building and site funds.

Smith said he was also told a copy of the auditors' report will be in board hands within a few days. The report, released prematurely before action by the attorney general's office, reportedly came through the hands of a state legislator, Smith said Krasicky told him.

Meanwhile, three dissident Troy board members, Treasurer Harold Janes and Trustees James McFarland and Leonard Lucas, have called the board's financial statement for the past year "erroneous and misleading" Janes said today.

The members say the report, which was given to news media, was released without their knowledge or approval.

Waterford Plans 4th Junior High

A fourth junior high school will be needed soon in the Waterford Township School District, the school board was informed at its meeting last night.

School officials said they will plan to have it ready for the 1971-72 school year. It would accommodate 1,250 students when opened and have expansion possibilities for 1,500.

Site of the new school, on land already purchased by the district, will be Hospital and Pontiac Lake roads. A projection of school enrollment figures showed that the three present junior high schools will be past capacity next year and some students will have to attend classes in high school rooms.

The board also discussed the possibility of building a four-room facility for training the deaf and hard-of-hearing. This would be adjacent to Cherokee Hills Elementary, 2690 Wewoka.

The facility, if constructed, would be for children of Waterford and other county school districts, officials said. All financing would be handled by state and county agencies, it was reported. Details remain to be worked out.

A small group of mothers appeared at the meeting to ask that buses be restored at Lotus Lake Elementary School. Buses were taken off when walkways were built last year.

PAUF Pitches Plea to 200 Volunteers

The opening pitch of the Pontiac Area United Fund commercial and manufacturing divisions was thrown to some 200 volunteers solicitors at a luncheon yesterday.

In keeping with the luncheon's baseball theme, Ralph Norvell, commercial division chairman, announced plans to bat for a $294,274 goal. Ted Pearson Jr., chairman of the manufacturing division, announced a goal of $40,780.

Norvell, speaking for himself and Pearson, commented: "Looking at the team in front of me . . . and with the spirit of baseball in the air, it is well to remember that in our PAUF world series . . . nobody loses, everybody wins. The solicitors receive a feeling of accomplishment and satisfaction through their efforts, knowing the people in our community will receive the service of our 55 health, welfare and youth agencies."

The volunteers also heard speaker Charles A. Smith, associate professor of English at Western Michigan University, urge cooperation as a key to conducting a successful campaign.

GIVERS ENRICHED

He said that by cooperating and giving freely during the campaign the givers themselves would be enriched.

The luncheon was sponsored by several area businesses.

Commercial division volunteers will call on area retailers, educational, professional and community leaders for donations. Small manufacturing firms and commies will be contracted by the manufacturing division.

The total PAUF goal for the campaign beginning Oct. 15 is $1,130,000.

'Proof' That Communists Were in Chicago Doubtful

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of a House subcommittee on un-American activities says he has heard testimony that at least 21 Communists were involved in the bloody clashes between antiwar protesters and Chicago police during the Democratic National Convention.

But Rep. Richard Ichord, D-Mo., did not name anyone during a hearing yesterday and when questioned after the session he was vague about the charge.

At first he said the testimony came Tuesday. Then he changed his mind and said it might have been based in part on a closed subcommittee meeting Wednesday. Finally he said he didn't know where he got the testimony.

No witness has leveled any such specific charge against the protest leaders subpoenaed to testify.

BIZARRE INCIDENTS

Thursday's session, the second since the subcommittee opened its investigation this week, was again the scene of bizarre incidents of wild behavior involving groups of wildly dressed Yippies of the Youth International Party.

One antiwar witness walked out of the hearing, another refused to answer questions about whether he is a Communist and a Yippie leader was arrested after he showed up in a shirt that police charged was made from an American flag.

Abbie Hoffman denied the charge and said it was merely a shirt of stars and stripe design.

Hoffman's wife, Anita, and another Yippie, Brad Fox, also were arrested for interfering with police. Authorities also reported arresting a girl for having a dirty phrase about the police printed on her hat.

OCC Awards Building Pact

A $2.95-million contract for construction of a vocational-technical building on the Auburn Hills Campus of Oakland Community College was awarded last night by the board of trustees.

Winning bidder was A. Z. Schmina and Sons, Inc., and construction is expected to begin soon, it was announced.

★ ★ ★

The building will house facilities and laboratories for technical training.

The board also approved a contract between the Detroit Board of Education and OCC and between OCC and Oakland University to cooperate in the Detroit teacher intern program.

★ ★ ★

The two-year program will be designed to prepare 150 degree-holding adults for roles as elementary school-teachers in inner-city areas.

It will begin later this month and will offer a master of arts teaching degree as well as a state teaching certificate, officials said.

Women's Editor to Attend Seminar

Janet Odell, women's editor of The Pontiac Press, will attend a two-week American Press Institute seminar at Columbia University, New York City, beginning Monday.

MRS. ODELL

Mrs. Odell of 163 Ogemaw will be among 28 women's page editors and writers from the U.S. and Canada.

Methods of more effectively serving women readers will be discussed with guest speakers, round-table exchanges and clinical analysis meetings in which the membership will be divided into groups for a study of each member's newspaper.

City Hospital Issues Appeal to Visitors

Pontiac General Hospital officials today issued a plea for community cooperation in visiting the hospital.

The availability of parking for visitors and employes alike continues to be a critical problem, said a hospital spokesman.

★ ★ ★

Additional parking for hospital employes is currently under construction and should be completed in 60 to 90 days, weather permitting.

Meantime, hospital officials asked visitors to the hospital to observe specified visiting hours of 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. and 4 to 8 p.m.

School Center Start Charted

Construction of a unique educational park in Pontiac is scheduled to begin in six months and to be completed by September 1970.

Architect of the $4-million Human Resource Center presented final preliminary plans to the board of education last night.

The board was expected to accept the plans so constructions bid specifications could be prepared as soon as possible.

But it was not able to do so last night because official cost estimates of the project were not ready. The board is expected to act at its next meeting, Oct. 24.

Schools Sup't. Dr. Dana P. Whitmer explained that it is possible a portion of the center may be ready early in 1970 so pupils at McConnell Elementary School could move in.

McConnell School parents have been pushing school administrators for a new facility as soon as possible.

It is estimated that construction will cost more than $4 million, figuring on 161,000 square feet at what the architects call an "extremely stringent" $25 per square foot maximum.

Whitmer said $3.75 million is available for site acquisition, construction and equipment and that additional funds from the state or private foundations will be sought.

ORIGINAL PLAN

Originally, the center was planned to serve 1,750 pupils in 178,000 square feet, according to its planners, Urban Design Associates of Pittsburgh, Pa.

★ ★ ★

To cut costs, they have compressed the facility to 161,000 square feet, and simplified its structure but increased its capacity and number of facilities to serve 2,000 pupils.

Features of the building to be built on a 19-acre site east of City Hall outlined last night are:

- A two-faced structure. Classroom wings are located closest to the community while wings for civic activities are closest to City Hall and the Board of Education Building.
- Large and small teaching areas which can be created by moving retractable chalkboards. Much open space and hardly any walls. Learning center (library-type) areas adjacent to every teaching area.
- A continuous progress plan, in which students aren't placed on grade levels but advance when they meet achievement levels. Cooperative teaching where specialists teach many children rather than just the ones assigned to their room.
- A multilevel roof line and ceilings, with a "street on the roof" connecting the civic center area with the community.

2 Bound Over in Murder Case

Two persons charged with killing a Pontiac man whose body was found in a city parking lot June 30 were bound over to Oakland County Circuit Court yesterday in separate preliminary examinations.

Facing Circuit Court arraignment Oct. 18 on an open charge of murder is Gus Williams, about 30, of 177 Fisher.

★ ★ ★

He is free after posting $2,000 bond set by Municipal Judge Maurice E. Finnegan.

Also facing an open murder charge is Willie Grandberry, 25, of the Fisher address. No date for her higher court arraignment was set by Municipal Judge Cecil B. McCallum, who remanded her to Oakland County Jail without bond.

★ ★ ★

Both are accused in the shooting death of William Odneal, 30, of 181 W. South Blvd., whose body was found in a lot in the 500 block of South Sanford.

Miss Grandberry was arrested in a police raid on a home at 119 Jackson Sept. 6. Williams was arrested July 16.

Peru Take-Over Is Resisted

LIMA, Peru (AP) — Spawned by street battles between students and police, resistance was stiffening today against the military leaders who overthrew the government of President Fernando Belaunde Terry.

In one encounter Thursday night, police fired into a crowd of students, hitting one in the head and apparently killing him. Five photographers taking pictures of the incident were arrested.

* * *

Students swirled through the streets, breaking shop windows. At least 10 cars were burned. Police used tear gas in an attempt to control the outbreaks in this Andean nation on the west coast of South America.

The new government, composed of the highest ranking officers in the army, air force and navy, is headed by Gen. Juan Velasco, army chief of staff and president of the joint chiefs.

COMMUNIQUE ISSUED

He issued a communique detailing the formation of the new government, warning against acts of violence and telling of Belaunde's exile. It was also signed by the chiefs of the navy and the air force.

Eleven members of a cabinet that had been sworn in 14 hours before the coup remained under house arrest. They had been drafting a communique calling for a rebellion when officers broke into their meeting.

* * *

Also calling for rebellion was Armando Villaneuva, chief of the Aprista party, probably the country's strongest political organization and hated by the military.

Several radio stations, including the one on which Villaneuva broadcast, were shut down, but newspapers continued to publish descriptions of the street violence and condemnations of the coup.

'COUP-MAKERS'

The Aprista paper, La Tribuna, issued a special edition Thursday night with a banner headline calling for an ouster of the "coup-makers." The back page carried a picture of tanks at the palace with the headline "Czechoslovakia? Not in Peru."

The ousted ministers have called for citizens and students to unite against the military.

There are rumors of a general strike.

* * *

Flight operations at the airport were normal. The U.S. Embassy said that so far all of the 6,000 U.S. citizens in the country are believed to be safe.

Belaunde, 55, was flown to Buenos Aires, the Argentine capital, after being taken from his bedroom in the early morning hours. He described the take over as "a barracks coup, not by the armed forces of the constitutional government."

The Peruvian Embassy in Buenos Aires, where Belaunde spent most of the day in seclusion, denied a report from La Paz that Belaunde had been offered asylum in Bolivia, which borders Peru.

OIL CRISIS

The new Cabinet, Belaunde's seventh in five years as president, had been named to deal with a government crisis that developed as a result of a contract with a U.S. oil company.

One manifesto from the military leaders said there had been "deceitful" use of executive power in resolving the long standing dispute with International Petroleum Corp., a subsidiary of Standard Oil of New Jersey.

U.P. Slayer Gets Life at Hard Labor

BESSEMER (AP) — Eric (Ike) Pearson, a 57-year-old woodsman accused in the rifle slayings of seven people and wounding of two others in a shooting spree last March 16, was sentenced to life imprisonment at hard labor Thursday by Judge Donald L. Munro in Gogebic County Circuit Court.

Pearson had pleaded guilty to an open charge of murder, which later was fixed at first degree by Judge Munro after sitting without a jury and hearing some 20 witnesses.

* * *

Pearson pleaded guilty specifically to the slaying of Rudolph Maurin, 56, of Ironwood with a high-powered rifle in a tavern in the Upper Peninsula community of Ironwood Township.

Munro sent Pearson to Ionia State Hospital for a psychiatric examination before passing sentence, and announced in sentencing Pearson that results of the examination will be supressed. He said this was recommended by Pearson's attorney, Bernard E. Larson.

* * *

While the psychiatric examination will be kept a secret from the public, the judge said he will make it available to law enforcement agencies and Department of Corrections personnel.

The judge ruled that Pearson may appeal his finding of first-degree murder if he chooses to do so, but otherwise would serve his life term sentence at Marquette State Prison.

Date Set for Sale of Sewer Bonds

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — The date for the sale of $3.65 million in general obligation bonds to finance the 13 Mile sewer arm in the townships of Farmington and West Bloomfield has been set for Tuesday, said Donald W. Ringler, deputy director of the Department of Public Works.

Bids have been awarded, subject to the sale of the bonds to the contracting firms of Canzano of Dearborn Heights and Mancinelli of Dearborn. The cost of the construction of the sewer arm will be incurred about 50-50 by the two townships it will serve.

* * *

The 13 Mile sewer arm will hook up to the Farmington Intereceptor located at Middle Belt and 13 Mile. There will be three branches; one located diagonally across the township of West Bloomfield from West Maple to East Haggerty; another parallel to Drake, ending at Maple and another between Farmington Road and Drake.

The Municipal Finance Commission approved the bond proposal for the system last month.

Group Seeks Incorporation of Bunny Run

ORION TOWNSHIP — Petitions which seek to incorporate some 1,000 township residents into a home-rule village called Bunny Run will be circulated beginning Oct. 14.

John McGee, chairman of a better roads committee for the 480 acres involved in Bunny Run subdivision, said a meeting has been called for 8 p.m. Monday at the Bunny Run Club House to discuss incorporation.

* * *

The completed petitions will be filed with the Oakland County Board of Supervisors, which then will determine whether a vote will be held on the question.

"It was our finding as a better roads committee," McGee said, "that the only way to get better roads is to incorporate."

FIVE-FIGURE SHARE

McGee estimated that the area, as a village, might receive anywhere from $12,000 to $20,000 a year in state funds which now go to the county.

* * *

"We don't want paved roads. We just want some grading," said the chairman, who reported that most of the roads in the area are private and therefore not under county maintenance jurisdiction. He said the county has refused to accept dedication, since the roads are not up to standard.

* * *

Only two roads in the area, Miller and Conklin, are paved. Bunny Run subdivision is in the extreme northeast of the township. It lies along the east end of Long Lake and surrounds Bunny Run Lake.

McGee and a committee of nine men last spring conducted a door-to-door poll which McGee said indicated that most residents are behind their plans for incorporation.

TARGET DATE

Petitions, which require 100 signatures, will be filed with the county by the end of the month, McGee said. They request that an election be held, probably early next year, to allow self determination.

Other petitions requesting a state census count of the area will also be filed, the chairman said.

* * *

Any resident may sign the first petition but only those who are landowners are eligible to sign the latter, McGee explained.

The census count would be required to show that fully 1 per cent of the landowners desire an election be held on the matter of incorporation.

Public Meeting Set in Highland on Police Millage

HIGHLAND TOWNSHIP — A public meeting to discuss the 1-mill proposal for establishment of a police force here will be held Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the Township Hall.

The millage proposal appears on the Nov. 5 ballot.

The Township Board received a petition signed by 128 residents asking for township police protection on Sept. 3.

* * *

The township currently is policed by the Oakland County Sheriff's department at a monthly cost of $13,033 for two cars patrolling daily. The cost is financed primarily out of the general fund.

The board decided last month to put the 1-mill proposal on the upcoming ballot, to set a township force.

BOARD APPOINTMENTS

In other recent action the board appointed nine members to a township planning commission after a May decision to establish such a body to watch over future community development.

* * *

Members of the new planning commission are Pearl Mastick, Corbitt House, Sydney Beach, Ernest Poland, Dr. Raymond K. Brown, George Eghotz, Roy Burley, David Kiley and James Dunleavy, who is also a member of the township board.

* * *

The appointments are effective today. The new commission will meet privately to elect a chairman.

Previously the township operated without a planning commission with just a zoning board of appeals.

2 Police Hired, Three Promoted by Shelby Twp.

SHELBY TOWNSHIP — Two additional police officers were hired and three veteran officers were promoted recently by the Township Board.

Sworn in as new officers were Donald W. Campbell and Donald J. Stabley, both of Shelby Township. This brings the police force up to 16 men.

* * *

. Promoted were Sgts. Alfred Hagerman and Donald Dahmer, both to lieutenant, and officer Gerald DeGrace to sergeant.

The promotions from sergeant to lieutenant carried a $440-pay raise; from officer to sergeant, a $960-raise. Funds for the hirings and promotions were in the police budget.

4 NEW POLICE CARS

The Township Board also awarded a contract for four new police cars to Monicatti Chrysler-Plymouth Sales, Shelby Township, on its low bid of $6,879, with trade-ins. Three bids were submitted.

A six-acre parcel at the corner of 25 southeast corner of the parcel. A con- Mile and Mound was rezoned from one-family residential to commercial and two-family residential zoning.

* * *

A service station will be built on the valescent home is planned by Dr. Albert Morgenthaler of Warren on the remainder of the parcel.

The Township Board also gave permission for operation of a flea market by Mrs. Mignon LaVigne, on VanDyke between 23 and 24 Mile roads, waiving a township ordinance that she secure a license, for the remainder of the season.

FIRE AID PACT

In other business, approval was given to a mutual aid pact between the township and the Detroit Fire Department on the recommendation of Fire Chief Clyde Schmidt.

Troy Corners History

Marker Dedication Set Sunday

TROY — A historical marker commemorating the founding of Troy Corners will be dedicated Sunday at 3 p.m. at 5945 Livernois.

Phyllis Shepard, historian representing the Michigan Historical Commission, will present the marker at ceremonies sponsored by the Troy Historical Commission.

Troy Corners was founded by Johnson Niles in 1821, just south of the present intersection with Square Lake Road. He built a log cabin at the site shortly after arriving from New York with his family.

The log cabin was later replaced by a house, today the home of Oakland County Probate Judge and Mrs. Norman E. Barnard.

TROY MARKER

The marker, the first one commissioned for Troy by the Michigan Historical Commission, was donated by Sen. and Mrs. Robert J. Huber and Mr. and Mrs. Wallace B. Hudson.

Music for the dedication will be provided by the Troy High School Band. Judge Barnard will present the story of Troy Corners and Johnson Niles. Troy Mayor Jule Famularo will officiate.

Open house will follow the ceremonies at the Troy Historical Museum, 60 W. Wattles.

Holly Board Sets $1.8 Million School Operating Budget

HOLLY—A 1968-69 budget of $1,861,509 has been approved by the board of education following a recent public hearing.

Revenues for the year are expected to be only $1,848,854, leaving a deficit of $12,655, according to Asst. Supt. Bruce Mitchell.

* * *

However, school enrollment is more than was anticipated for this year, which will balance out the deficit through an increase in state aid, Mitchell said.

The unofficial count show kindergarten through twelfth grade enrollment at 3,347, an increase of 237 students over last year.

* * *

In other business, the board set the cafeteria manager's salary at $4,400.

A deed was signed for property sold on Center Street, and the revenue from the sale was placed in a special recreational and development fund.

Fund Drive Aim: Site for Retarded

An effort to raise $35,000 by the first of the year is being made by North Oakland County New Horizons Sheltered Workshop Committee.

A poster and cannister campaign will be launched this week under the direction of Pontiac Police Chief William Hanger.

* * *

The group hopes to raise money to establish a training area for the retarded similar to those conducted in Farmington and Madison Heights.

WILL RECEIVE TRAINING

Said Robert L. McClendon, who with James J. Hunt, is cochairman of the workshop committee, "We've got about 10 per cent of our goal committed."

* * *

A building central to the Rochester, Pontiac, Waterford Township area is sought, where retarded may be given employment and where in some cases they will receive enough training to hold a regular job.

* * *

The Madison Heights and Farmington shops serviced 200 retarded employables last year, McClendon said.

The workshop committee meets at 7:30 p.m. Mondays at the CAI Building, 5640 Williams Lake, Waterford Township.

Name New OCCEO Members

Twelve new members have been appointed to the Oakland County Commission on Economic Opportunity (OCCEO).

The new commissioners were approved after being nominated by the Oakland County Board of Supervisors, seven persons, and private organizations, five members.

* * *

The commission makes all decisions on policy for the administration of the county's antipoverty war. The OCCEO's director, Edward P. Revis, pointed out the 12 new members bring the commission near the number and makeup required by new federal regulations.

The OCCEO had to be reorganized early this year due to amendments passed by Congress along with new funding. Although some persons felt the amendments would hamper operations of antipoverty programs, Revis said he does not feel this would apply in Oakland County. Among the new rules was a requirement that one-third of the commission members be public officials.

* * *

Though in the past it has been difficult to find public officials with the time and desire to serve on the OCCEO, Revis said their participation is desired and "should help us be more effective."

The OCCEO meets monthly to hear reports and make decisions concerning policies and expenditures of funds—about $2 million yearly.

BOARD MEMBERS

New members named by the board of supervisors are Judge Norman R. Barnard of the juvenile division of the Probate Court Dr. Bernard D. Berman, department of health director; Maurice J. Croteau, chairman of the Social Services Board; Vernon Edward, supervisor from Keego Harbor; Robert E. Lilly, vice chairman of the Board of Auditors; James L. Reid, supervisor of White Lake Township; and John J. Rusher, a consultant engineer from Royal Oak.

From private organizations are Father Charles Grenville, association pastor at Holy Name Church, Birmingham; Mrs. Ruth Neff of the Homemakers and Church Volunteers; Irvin Malcolm of Grosse Pointe Woods, J. L. Hudson Co. official, representing the business community; Hubert Price of the Pontiac Organization of Black Youth; and James Dyer of Voice of Oakland County Action League.

* * *

Six other positions on the OCCEO remain to be filled.

The second meeting, Meet the Candidate, will be at 8 p.m. at Brandon Township High School. The group anticipates the attendance of representatives from the Democratic, Republican and American Independent parties, according to Guy Foster, chairman.

The public is invited to attend.

Community School Director Hired in West Bloomfield

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — The board of education has taken the first step in the creation of a community school program by hiring a community director for the Roosevelt Elementary School, 2065 Cass Lake, Keego Harbor.

Gerald DiPaola will teach physical education to afternoon classes at the school but the remainder of his time will be devoted to directing school educational programs in the late afternoons, evenings, Saturdays and summers. The programs will be open to all residents living within the Roosevelt attendance area.

* * **

Harvey N. Sterns assistant Superintendent for instruction, said: "We expect this pilot program to be successful."

He added that future expansion of educational programs to other schools will depend on the success of the Roosevelt School program.

BASED ON DEMAND

The community school program will be based on resident demand. While a broad recreational program is expected to draw the crowds, other possibilities include sewing, woodworking, bridge or any class residents wish to support, Sterns said.

The board of education will finance the afternoon teaching hours, however, additional activities will be supported by the federally funded Title I program.

* * *

DiPaola is a graduate of Wayne State University where he majored in psychology and minored in sociology and English. He has worked with the Macomb County Probate Court as probation officer and juvenile counselor for the past eight years.

North Hill School Will Host Open House

ROCHESTER—North Hill Elementary School, 1385 Mahaffey, will host its annual open house at 8 p.m. Monday.

Principal Murel Bartley will outline the general education philosophy and introduce the teaching staff. Bernhard W. Vosteen, PTA president, will outline the program for the year and introduce officers and committee chairmen.

* * *

Parents will be invited to meet with teachers for an introduction to the curriculum. No individual conferences are slated during the evening.

Legislator Looks to 12-Month Operation

State Control of Schools Hit

A "marked tendency" towards state control of schools is decried by State Rep. Donald E. Bishop, R-Rochester.

BISHOP

"This would achieve nothing. It would simply transfer the problem," Bishop said.

* * *

"The same people would be shouldering the burden; they would merely pay their taxes to a different agency."

Bishop said, "One of the basic decisions facing the people is whether to abandon traditional nine-month school years and support a more effective use of existing school facilities or face a continuing and perhaps perpetual spiral of school taxes."

'ON LOCAL LEVEL'

"I believe this is a decision so fundamental that it can be made only on the local level. The state can provide positive guidelines, but that is all," the young representative affirmed.

* * *

Bishop backed up his remarks by citing a study of the Rochester School District.

* * *

He said the study disclosed that between 1960 and 1967 student enrollment in the Rochester district increased by 45 per cent. During the same period, operating costs soared by nearly 100 per cent.

"And these figures did not include bond issues for new construction," Bishop noted. "Actually, Rochester is not unusual. It is a typical district."

'IT TOOK INITIATIVE'

Rep. Bishop, an attorney and member of the House Appropriations Committee, praised officials of the Rochester, Bloomfield Hills and Utica school districts for their studies on year-round operation of schools. "They have taken the initiative on a very unpopular issue and should be commended," Bishop said.

* * *

Bishop contended that year-round operation would help to "substantially alleviate" the problem. "Our present school year is geared to an agrarian society that no longer exists," he asserted. "It is a luxury we can no longer afford."

* * *

But, Bishop acknowledged that any change in the existing setup would require a "massive" educational effort. "People I have talked to agree with the year-round concept, but they say, 'Leave my kid out,'" he said.

Bell Phone Survey: Good, Bad News

The Michigan Bell Telephone Co. has some good news for residents in White Lake Township and the village of Milford and some bad news for the southern part of the county.

Bell officials reported yesterday on a study of county phone rates and the possibility of having toll-free calls to the County Center from outlying areas.

* * *

They submitted the report to the ways and means committee of the Oakland County Board of Supervisors. The committee asked for the study a year ago.

Along with the report, the Bell representatives announced that White Lake and Milford would be incorporated into the Pontiac area phone district Dec. 17, thus making a call from those areas into most of the northern part of the county a regular rather than 20-cent toll call.

ORTONVILLE LATER

Ortonville also will be joined into the larger district sometime next year, officials said.

The bad news concerned the cost to the county if a countywide, toll-free system were installed for calls to the county center at Telegraph and Pontiac Lake Road.

* * *

The anticipated cost was placed at about $3,500 monthly or about $50,000 a year. The supervisors expressed dismay at the cost and no action was taken toward having it installed.

It other action, the ways and means committee joined with the personnel committee to request county corporation counsel Robert P. Allen to initiate a lawsuit over circuit judge salaries.

An act of the State Legislature in January set judges' salaries at $30,000 per year, $20,000 from the state and $10,000 from the county. The county committees recommended raising the salaries to $34,000 with $14,000 from the county (the amount paid by the county to judges this year).

* * *

It was decided to take the matter to court because the legislature's act appears to be at variance with the state constitution. Final decision on pressing the issue would have to be made by the entire board of supervisors.

Western Dude Ranch Rises in East Israel

VERED HAGALIL, Israel (AP) — The dude ranch of Vered Hagalil—Rose of Galilee—is like an arrow from America's West plunged into the heart of the Bible lands.

It is the realization of a dream for 43-year old Yehuda Avni, who left Chicago nearly 20 years ago. He was Edward Stone-Schneider before he adopted a Hebrew name.

Avni was born in a big city from a family of city dwellers. He had a yearning to live in the wide-open space.

"I had four good years at college studying the humanities," he said. "You end up asking questions. I didn't want to make a living in an office; I liked riding and I liked working in the country."

HIS SEARCH ENDS

He came to Israel "for a short visit" in 1949 and, like many Americans before and since, found something of what he was searching for. He stayed.

After eight years on cooperative settlements, he struck the idea of a western-type ranch on the shores of the Sea of Galilee where Christ walked and preached. It would cater for small numbers of visitors who liked the quiet life—and it would earn Avni a living.

★ ★ ★

"Sitting on a horse and trekking through the trails where Jesus lived and roamed is the best way to travel," said Avni, a quiet, pipe-smoker with twinkling eyes and lines of laughter around his mouth. "We trot along at five or six miles an hour. It's therapeutic."

Avni spent six months wandering over Israel before he found what he was looking for: a hillside littered with huge volcanic rocks thrown up by the tremendous earth seizure which cut the Great Rift from Southwest Asia to East Africa and formed the Sea of Galilee and the Dead Sea in Israel.

SCENIC, AVAILABLE

"It was scenic and available," he says. A panorama of mountains and lake stretches as far as the eye can see from Vered Hagalil, past the Roman city of Tiberias. It is a land of wild grass, orchards and churches.

"I took about a year to persuade the authorities it wasn't a cockeyed idea. My background in sociology helped me win through—I understood the bureaucratic process."

★ ★ ★

After another year he began running out of money. He formed a small corporation with friends in Chicago, a Belgian and an English chain store magnate.

Wandering Bedouins sold him Arabian horses. He has 10 and is starting a breeding program.

STONE RAMBLINGS

The ranch house-restaurant and stables ramble in stone and wood between the great black boulders of the corral.

The menu offers fried chicken, charcoaled steak, hot fudge sundaes and black cow floats for hungry riders cantering home after up to 12 hours in the near-100 degree sun of summer and the rain which turns the hills into water cascades in winter.

★ ★ ★

There are bacon and eggs for breakfast.

"We're kosher from 10 a.m.," said Avni with a chuckle.

Since 1962 the ranch house and one of the three planned stone cabins have been completed at more than $100,000. Almost another $100,000 is programed for cabins, perhaps a swimming pool and tennis courts, and a bunkhouse to sleep 10.

FAMILY HELPS

Avni runs the ranch with his wife Yonah, 40, daughter Yaara, 17, and sons Ranaan, 14 and Giora, 6. Marcel Kievet, 21, from Holland is riding master.

"I've never been out West in the States. But I've read a lot of cowboy books," said Avni.

★ ★ ★

"I had an ideal. I don't want a big hotel with coachloads of people coming every day. A millionaire friend in Chicago said he would invest a million dollars, but not ten thousand. I turned him down.

Avni rises at dawn and finishes around 8 p.m. He works his land and tends his horses and guests like a family.

Funds for Stadium Plan Well Spent

Before any cynics begin complaining about the $7,500 that was laid out to present a plan for locating a new stadium on Pontiac's eastern boundary a couple weeks ago, they should take into consideration just what such a stadium would mean to this area. The stadium, as proposed, would be built primarily as a home for the Detroit Tigers and Detroit Lions.

At this very moment we have in our midst a prime example of just one gigantic benefit in having that stadium in or near Pontiac: The 1968 World Series.

★ ★ ★

When the umpire called "Play Ball," Wednesday at Busch Stadium, cash registers started ringing in St. Louis and Detroit.

Local businesses in those cities have braced for the happy shock wave.

Hotels have long been booked solid, with waiting lines extending far out into suburban communities.

Restaurants have rearranged tables to gain maximum benefit from space limitations.

The St. Louis Chamber of Commerce expects that if the series goes to a full seven games, it will mean more than $2 million in business to merchants in the St. Louis area.

At Tiger Stadium alone, it is estimated more than $200,000 will be spent just eating and drinking during the three games scheduled to be played there.

★ ★ ★

That should give you some idea what it would mean locally, if someday the host stadium to a World Series—or any championship event—were right here in our own back yard.

It makes that $7,500 effort to bring such a stadium here look like a flash in the pan.

Just Who Does He Think He Is Hurting?

Bumper Crops Add to Burden of Taxpayers

We agree with the theory that the best way to help backward countries is to teach them how to help themselves. This is especially true in the production of enough food to feed the many starving people in such nations.

But, along with this belief comes a disturbing thought: Maybe we ought not to do too good a job of helping people to help themselves, lest they become harnessed by our great malady of overproduction.

★ ★ ★

In other words, we are in some ways the victims of our own energy, ingenuity and efficiency.

★ ★ ★

It appears that we are in for a bumper harvest this year. Wheat, corn and soybeans in particular are pointing toward record or near-record levels.

★ ★ ★

However, the sound of rejoicing is not echoing through the farm belt, the halls of government or the supermarket. No one is particularly happy about a situation that means falling prices for the farmer, more paid out in support prices by the government and no compensating decline in the tab at the checkout counter for the taxpayer-consumer, who in the end picks up the tab for price support.

It wasn't supposed to work out this way. Through its complex of farm programs, principally reduction of producing acreage linked to supports, the Agriculture Department had hoped to keep production roughly in line with demand and payments to farmers within manageable limits.

★ ★ ★

But the American farmer has, true to form, demolished all the governmental expertise with his great efficiency. By continuing to increase per-acre yield through improved seed, fertilizer and technique, his output on 6.8-million fewer acres than last year is exceeding all expectations.

It's all going to cost the taxpayer plenty. President Johnson estimates an extra $700 million. Other guesses run higher—as high as $3.9 billion in support payments for the current fiscal year instead of the $2.9 billion budgeted.

In making the good earth steadily better, we are in a class by ourselves. Our performance in agriculture is truly phenomenal.

★ ★ ★

But our record in managing our bounty is something else again. We treat as an inconvenience what is basically a tragedy.

While starvation is reality to millions, even within our own borders, we spend billions to take land out of production and keep crops off the market in a generally unsuccessful attempt to keep both the producer and consumer happy.

There is no simple solution to this very complex problem, but certainly there must be a better approach than we have so far devised.

'Magnificent Giant' Visited Pontiac

By DICK SAUNDERS

Last Saturday I came home with cinders in my hair. It was glorious.

SAUNDERS

We went down to the Pontiac train station to see that special steam locomotive excursion come through.

I tell everyone I took my kids to see the big iron horse because it sounds familyish. But it really wasn't quite that way at all. The kids just came along.

★ ★ ★

I think they came along to watch me as much as anything else. It must be of some amusement to them to watch adults become kids again for a fleeting moment.

We weren't able to take in the full excursion to Durand due to prior commitments. It must have been great. The locomotive was originally purchased from the Reading Railroad by two rail fans and is now the largest of the old steamers still operating in the United States.

It was a magnificent giant. A thing of beauty, grunting and wheezing, blowing steam and belching black smoke and cinders from its stack.

★ ★ ★

There were people waiting there with tape recorders to capture it in sound; others carried cameras; some just came to watch and remember how it used to be.

There is something about a steamer that makes a diesel engine look and sound like an anemic, antiseptic imposter. A diesel is sexless by comparison.

The steamers had sex appeal; real personality. To the female fan, "he" was full of muscle; a symbol of masculinity, spittin' and swearin' his way down the main line. To the man, "she" was a glamorous lady, with a lovely face and fine body.

★ ★ ★

I remember the last regular steam run on the Grand Trunk Western Railroad through Pontiac on March 26, 1960. It was a cold, crisp Saturday morning.

There wasn't much of a crowd on the platform as the commuter made her last stop en route to Detroit.

★ ★ ★

She was so beautiful in the cool morning air, spewing that tall head of steam and smoke, all gray and black and frosty . . . waiting to begin that final trip in the dull twilight.

I took some pictures that morning, too. And I went to work with cinders in my hair.

★ ★ ★

The things I've said here about steamers, you can't apply to diesels.

The problem with a diesel is that it's too clean, too quiet and too damnably efficient. It isn't human. It has no human frailties. It has no heart. It is a machine.

The steamer was almost human. It had faults. When it worked, it got dirty and made noise.

Furthermore, a steamer let you know that it was often a real struggle to pull that long freight out of a siding onto the main line.

There is no such hint of struggle with a diesel.

★ ★ ★

Saturday, that steamer stopped across the Huron crossing for several minutes.

I looked at the traffic piling up and thought:

"You people in your cars don't know how lucky you are. Sit there and look at her as she blows smoke and cinders upon you. She is the last of her kind. Don't sound your horns. Stand up and blow her a kiss. She is the beautiful mistress of a dead age."

You can't say that about a diesel.

David Lawrence Asks:

Should Fortas Be on the Court?

WASHINGTON — Although President Johnson withdrew the nomination of Justice Abe Fortas to be chief justice, the issue of "good behavior" has by no means been settled.

LAWRENCE

The fundamental point at issue has not been touched. Little that is constructive has resulted.

The basic question—whether Justice Fortas is qualified to serve as chief justice — was not resolved. He was, in effect, denied the promotion because of allegedly improper or indiscreet acts. Maybe other justices will learn a lesson from this.

★ ★ ★

But, it might be asked, if the criticisms were valid, why was Fortas denied the post of chief justice and yet permitted to remain as an associate justice?

The Constitution declares that federal "judges shall hold their offices during good behavior." Since they are appointed by the President and confirmed by the Senate, it is logical that Congress and the President shall pass judgment on what meant by the phrase "good behavior."

SAME THINGS

It was said during recent weeks that other judges have done some of the same things which Justice Fortas was accused of doing. If so, will any steps be taken to reprimand them?

Can it be set forth plainly that the action of Justice Fortas in accepting large lecture fees collected by a former law partner from clients and business associates was specifically disapproved? Nor were his activities in serving as a private counselor to the President formally declared taboo.

★ ★ ★

Underlying the whole controversy is the public resentment against some of the decisions of the Supreme Court itself.

Justice Fortas, however, was not alone responsible for the various rulings made. Other justices participated in the court's decisions.

CERTAIN POWERS

Congress has certain powers whereby decisions of the high court can be overruled. A constitutional amendment can be proposed by both houses and offered for ratification by the states.

Also, Congress can enact a law limiting the jurisdiction of the court in certain types of cases.

★ ★ ★

A statute can be passed, moreover, declaring that no member of the high court shall directly or indirectly become involved in counseling the executive branch of the government. This could be described as a definition of "good behavior."

★ ★ ★

The Fortas controversy afforded an opportunity for many people to give vent to their feelings. This will by no means be abated as a result of the withdrawal of the nomination of Justice Fortas.

Bob Considine Says:

LBJ's Rebuttal on Viet Leaves Humphrey Irked

NEW YORK — People . . . places . . .

Candidate Hubert Horatio Humphrey was quite upset by his boss's "no man can predict" rebuttal to his statement that some U.S. troops would be coming home from Vietnam by the end of this year or early next.

CONSIDINE

He was also disturbed by Denfense Secretary Clark Clifford's disclaimed, on "Meet the Press," that there were no prospects whatever for a reduction in the size of American forces in Vietnam in the foreseeable future.

"The vice president knows, as everybody else does, that we could bring home 25,000 'house-keeping' troops tomorrow without impairing our clout," one of Humphrey's aides told us indignantly.

★ ★ ★

"I just can't understand why the administration is not lending more support to him, why it isn't backing him up on even the obvious things.

"It's a crazy thought, I know," the aide said, "but sometimes I think they want to see Nixon win."

Foreign Minister Tran Chanh Thanh of South Vietnam lifted a rug the other day to reveal some unpleasant dust we have tried to sweep under it.

He said that South Vietnam's armed forces would continue to fight if the U.S. and North Vietnam reaches an agreement that is not to the liking of the Saigon government.

★ ★ ★

Our people have tried not to think about that possibility or probability, whichever it is. This war started as a fight between the Saigon government forces and insurrectionist Vietcong units, also from South Vietnam, of course.

The latter were supplied and in some cases trained by Ho Chi Minh's government in the north.

We, who had once sided with Ho Chi Minh when he was leading the underground war against Japanese occupation forces, now sided with Saigon and sent it limited supplies and a relatively small number of nonshooting advisers.

The war has long since escalated into a large conflict between the U.S. and North Vietnam, and it is these two powers alone who are conferring at Paris, not the Saigon government or the Vietcong. If accord is reached at Paris that ignores the original combatants, Thanh was saying, the original war would resume.

★ ★ ★

Where would we go from there?

I was thrilled to see on the front page, for a change, the hero story of Robert Green. That was enjoyable reading. For the first time in months I read an article through.

I'm sick of picking up the paper and reading about war, violence, burning draft cards, etc. If man would only stop and help his neighbor once in awhile and put self behind and God first in his life, wouldn't we have a nice place in which to live?

Comments on Recent Demonstration at OU

Regarding the picture of the demonstrators at Oakland University, what is education doing for our young folks? Neatness and appearance used to mean something. These are supposed to be well-educated youngsters. The sit-ins and demonstrations have got to be stopped before we can achieve peace in this Country. There should be more respect for law and order.

Letters Discuss Candidates for Presidency

At least one presidential candidate is not afraid to speak out against the people that are driving our country to ruin. If elected, George Wallace will take some badly-needed action. Wallace has done wonders for Alabama. He can do wonders for all of us if given the chance. He has the strength our forefathers had and their determination. This country has worked over 200 years for what we have. Must we lose it in the next few years?

BETY PARRISH

I find the GOP's most recent southern strategy extremely abhorent. Michigan's Congressman Gerald Ford, Republican minority leader, has advised Southern Republican Congressional candidates that they need not support the Nixon-Agnew ticket, in the face of local Wallace sentiment, if it "endangers their own election." The obvious implications are that Rep. Ford and southern Republican congressional candidates see no basic policy differences between Nixon and Wallace, or that so-called southern Republican candidates are simply Wallace candidates masquerading in Republican clothing.

★ ★ ★

If the former is true, it represents a severe indictment of the Republican presidential candidate by his own party. If the latter is true, it illustrates the willingness of the Republican party to attach itself to racist candidates in order to win control of the Congress. No Democrat or Democratic candidate will suggest any alliance with Wallace or Wallace-type candidates. Both our party and our presidential candidate, Hubert Humphrey, would disavow any such tactic as that being espoused by Congressman Gerald Ford.

Question and Answer

I'm new in this country and am renting a home. During our absence, a window was broken. My landlord says he isn't responsible for replacing it. Who really is responsible for the damage?

MRS. T. M.

REPLY

We talked to Mr. Hunter in the City legal department. He says no city ordinance covers this, but if you have a written lease, responsibility for damages should be outlined in the lease. If not, it is usually the tenant who is responsible for ordinary repairs, the landlord for major repairs and upkeep. However, this is a legal matter, and a lawyer could give you more specific advice. If you can't afford a lawyer, Oakland County Legal Aid Society, 335-8163, may be able to help you.

Student Aid

Chicago Tribune

In the next three years 7.2 billion dollars in federal tax funds will be distributed to colleges and universities. How much of the money will be spent to support student rioters?

This question bothered members of the House when the bill came up last July, soon after the well organized uprising at Columbia university. The House voted to cut off federal aid to students whose actions were "of a serious nature and contributed to the disruption of the administration."

★ ★ ★

This mandatory cutoff was opposed by many colleges and universities. The Senate then decided that college officials should be permitted to decide when funds should be cut off. House and Senate conferees now have reached a compromise. A student will lose federal aid for two years if he is convicted by a court of any crime involving use of force, disruption of campus activities, or seizure of college property. A student also may be deprived of federal tax support if he or she willfully refused to obey lawful regulations or orders of college officials.

Under these provisions order can be maintained. The taxpayers who are being soaked by the federal and state governments for higher education projects should not be obliged to subsidize students like those who rioted at Columbia, at the University of California, and at the University of Illinois.

★ ★ ★

The left wing Students for a Democratic Society already has called for "a dozen Columbias." J. Edgar Hoover quoted a New Left leader as saying "perhaps 25 universities linked to the movement would be too much for the police — for the dominant class — and we would get what we demand." The FBI director added:

"These extremists openly avow that their aim is to overthrow the existing order. Under the guise of academic freedom and freedom of speech, they profess to seek a dialogue, when actually what they seek is a confrontation with established authority to provide disorder. They expect to smash first our educational structure, then our economic system, and finally our government itself.

★ ★ ★

"It is vitally important to recognize that these militant extremists are not simply faddists or 'college kids' at play. Their cries for revolution and their advocacy of guerrilla warfare evolve out of a pathological hatred for our way of life and a determination to destroy it.

While violent student groups make up only a small minority of college students, they seem able to enlist support from many native faculty members and timid administrators. It will be interesting to see how many college administrations have the stamina to cut off federal funds from rioters, as Congress has directed.

Bullet-Torn Mexico City on Macabre Holiday

MEXICO CITY (AP) — It was a macabre holiday for many Mexicans.

They licked ice cream cones, nibbled tacos and walked the bloody, bullet-pocked streets of Tlatelolco where 25 died and hundreds were injured in fighting Wednesday night between rebellious students and government troops.

"Que es eso, mama?"—"what is that, mama?"—asked a little girl, pointing to a snub-nosed tear-gas gun of a granadero.

Three teen-aged boys, dirty and disheveled, sat on the curb stone, smoking cigarettes and fingering a spent rifle shell.

"Rat, tat, tat," shouted one, raising his arms and imitating soldiers firing machine guns.

It was a sunny day at the intersection of Nonoalco and Prolongacion de San Juan de Letran, within viewing distance of the spot where a rally of 6,000 ended in wild gun play, death and destruction.

★ ★ ★

A white-hatted ice cream vendor passed by with his cart, selling four flavors.

"Business is very good," he said. "Many people are walking by here today."

POLICE BUSINESS

Most of his business came from the granaderos, riot police dressed in blue.

Granaderos with white, taped billy sticks hovered over shoeshine boys, doing a big business at a peso a throw.

★ ★ ★

Granaderos in light blue crash helmets had stubby tear-gas guns slung over their shoulders and silver cannisters at their hips.

Canvas-covered army trucks lined San Juan as far as the eye could see. Khaki-uniformed soldiers with rifles over their shoulders moved in such numbers that it looked like army maneuvers.

GUNS POINTED

On the San Juan viaduct, armored vehicles parked 10 feet apart, the slim nozzles of their machine guns pointed at the windows across the street.

The granaderos and soldiers stood straddle-legged in front of the glass-shattered buildings.

Families walked by, tykes barely able to walk and women carrying babies in arms, pointing and chattering away with excitement.

The Plaza of the Three Cultures was quiet—boarded off from the curious.

U.P. Color ... Like a Shattered Rainbow

IRONWOOD (AP)—Imagine a rainbow shattered into billions of pieces and scattered over the landscape as far as the eye can see.

Then you have an approximation of the splendor of the color spectacular that nature now is putting on in the woodlands of Michigan's Upper Peninsula.

* * *

And the show above the Straits of Mackinac will become even more breathtaking yet.

Some areas report only about 60 per cent of the anticipated fall coloring has developed, but the Northwest hereabout is ablaze.

BEAUTIFUL CANYON

Zooming along U. S. 2 from Iron Mountain to Ironwood, one gets the feeling at times of driving through an unbelievably beautiful canyon.

It is hard to concentrate on the driving. Alone, and thus immune to embarrassment, even one who can't carry a tune sometimes catches himself singing snatches of thing like, "God Bless America" or "Battle Hymn of the Republic."

The beauty is something one has to experience to believe. One can never draw a picture of it in mere words.

Rains flecked with snow and high winds, which came both Wednesday and Thursday tore away many leaves at the tip-tops and possibly shortened by a few days the normal two-week run of nature's masterpiece.

More rains and winds would chop more days off.

Gradually, as if on a tilted pallette, the color then would slowly flow southward across the straits.

The topping of a hill with a hardwood valley spread out below is an experience which makes one swear he'll never come north again in October without the family.

It is a sight one owes his children.

BLENDS OF EVERY HUE

There are blends of every hue you ever saw—of yellow, orange, brown, red, pink and green, with a late-blossoming blue week occasionally poking up its flowers among blood-red sumac bushes along the roadside.

Thirty-six of Dearborn's senior citizens, who chartered a bus, didn't miss the show. Nor did a writer, who had seen it before, and knew it would be a better one than the World Series, even if he is a sports nut of sorts.

The Dearbornites, traveling west to east after coming up through Chicago and Wisconsin, headed from Iron Mountain Thursday toward Hulbert, Sault St. Marie and the Les Cheneaux country around Cedarville.

Fund Bar to Hit Bias OK'd

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has reversed itself and voted to permit the government to withhold federal money from segregated schools.

The House originally attached a rider to the money bill for the Department of Health, Education and Welfare barring the government from forcing school districts to bus pupils to correct segregation.

But the Senate revised the rider last month, allowing money to be withheld to "overcome racial imbalance."

The House voted 166 to 158 Thursday to go along with the Senate version. The Senate must still approve the compromise $18.4 million money bill before it can go to the President.

FEDERAL AID BARRED

The House insisted, however, on its more stringent language barring federal aid funds to students convicted of offenses stemming from major disturbances at colleges and universities.

Victim of Thieves Is 2-Time Loser

SEATTLE (AP) — When Forster Bradford returned home Wednesday night, he found burglars had taken $1,000 worth of camera equipment and jewelry. As he checked the loss, a telephone call informed him that someone had broken into a house he had purchased for resale. They had taken $5,275 worth of furniture.

INNOCENT VICTIM — A homeless, parentless and nameless Ibo tribe girl needs a stick to support herself as she walks about a refugee camp in Owerri, Nigeria. The girl, believed to be about 6, is a victim of advanced malnutrition. Doctors, who expect her to die, say her body rejects food.

Uprooted, Starving, Dying

Biafran Tot Is Tragic Symbol

OWERRI, Eastern Nigeria (AP) — For want of a name they call the little girl Ula. At a guess, she'd be 6 years old, a homeless, parentless refugee.

She's starving but seldom eats. Her frail body rejects any form of nourishing food. Like thousands of other Ibo children, uprooted by the Nigerian civil war, Ula may soon die.

Her black curly hair is turning light brown and falling out, signs of advanced malnutrition. She's practically sightless and totters along like a dwarfed old woman.

Ula is not thin and spindly like some starving Ibo children. She is grotesquely bloated, with her head and limbs twice normal size.

Most of the day she whimpers, huddled in a corner of the Nigerian army refugee camp close to the fighting zone. She appears unworried by the humid mosquito-laden atmosphere, the thundering torrential rains, or the stutter of machine guns.

Ula is one of thousands of Ibo refugees crowded into makeshift refugee camps. Most of the children are in advanced stages of starvation after living for months on root vegetables. Concentrated protein and vitamin foods, including dried milk, are rejected by their wasted bodies.

* * *

Doctors forecast that a whole generation of young Ibo children may be doomed to an early death if the starvation continues on its present widespread scale. They point out that advanced protein deficiency in young children seriously curtails life expectancy. The children become mentally retarded and unable to resist even minor ailments.

Already plagued with transportation problems and a serious lack of medical facilities in forward areas, the Nigerian army has its hands full trying to cope with the increasing flow of refugees, many too weak to aid themselves.

TRAGIC PROBLEM

"We must soon face up to the tragic problem of having millions of refugees crowded together in a small concentrated area, in what is left of rebellious Biafra," said one field commander.

"Unless the Biafrans surrender, thousands of Ibo tribespeople may well die not only of starvation but because they will be in the direct fighting zone."

There is no evidence to support Biafra's claim that the federal Nigerian forces are intent on genocide. Nevertheless they remember the 1966 massacre by Ibo-hating northerners who killed 30,000 Ibos living in the northern territory.

Many in this eastern area believe that whichever way the Nigerian civil war ends, the last Biafran stronghold will be bursting at the seams with countless thousands of starved Ibo children like Ula.

Fortas: I Will Persevere

NEW YORK (AP) — Supreme Court Justice Abe Fortas says he will "persevere" in the fight for civil liberties and says "fundamental human rights" guaranteed in the 14th amendment are under attack.

* * *

"Be careful on this issue of 'law and order,' a great phrase to which strange meanings are being attached," Fortas said Thursday night at a New York University Law School conference on the 100th anniversary of the 14th amendment.

It was the 58-year-old justice's first public appearance since he withdrew Wednesday as President Johnson's nominee for U.S. chief justice. He took the step after the Senate failed to cut off a filibuster against his nomination.

* * *

Fortas got a standing ovation of several minutes when he entered the filled, 500-seat auditorium and brought the audience to its feet several times during his speech.

Local Officials to Study Integration Around U. S.

This committee, made up mostly of outside citizens, recommended that "all methods of effective integration should be explored" to immediately try to produce pupil integration.

"The board feels it has an obligation to see first hand what other successful districts mentioned in the citizens report are doing," Whitmer said.

* * *

"We might find some ideas that could be applied to Pontiac."

First stop next Wednesday for a team of five administrators and trustees will be Evanston (Ill.) Township District 65. That district has closed a Negro school and turned it into a special school for gifted students.

CALIFORNIA VISIT SET

Later in October, four board members and two administrators are scheduled to visit Berkeley, Calif., for two days.

Berkeley has integrated schools by a large, controversial busing plan.

* * *

Other school systems that might be visited in November are White Plains, New Rochelle and Greenburgh, N.Y. and Englewood, N.J., according to Whitmer.

* * *

All these districts were cited in the citizens report as "communities where the boards of education and their superintendents have determined that integration is vital to the welfare of the community."

* * *

Whitmer says the issue is such an important one it is worth the less than $1,000 that will be spent. The money will come out of the school budget.

An immediate plan to relieve de facto school segregation — created by where people choose to live — has not been very well received by the community.

* * *

The open-enrollment plan, which went into effect last month, permits students from predominantly Negro Jefferson Junior High School to transfer to predominantly white Washington, Madison, Lincoln or Kennedy junior highs. But students have to get there by their own transportation.

* * *

Seventy Jefferson students actually did transfer, reports Assistant Supt. William J. Lacy. Washington took 59, Madison seven and Kennedy and Lincoln two each.

CALLED TOKENISM

Opponents of the plan call it "tokenism."

"I don't see it as tokenism," Whitmer commented. "We are not bragging about this limited freedom of choice plan. But it does break down the doors of those who feel hemmed in."

* * *

Citizens groups have called for a citywide plan, including elementary schools, to promote racial balance.

"School integration is a money problem" Whitmer says. "It is expensive."

EXPENSIVE PROPOSITION

It would cost the school district about three times the money it now spends to bus 3,000 pupils with 18 buses, according to Whitmer.

Educational parks, such as the forthcoming Human Resources Center to consolidate elementary schools, for all elementary pupils is "extremely expensive," the superintendent adds.

* * *

Whitmer is fearful of creating integrated neighborhoods to integrate schools and then seeing the white people moving out.

"The majority of parents want their children to go to school near home," Whitmer maintains. "This is our elementary neighborhood school concept.

CITES ADVANTAGE

"It has been attacked by people in the community as an excuse for not integrating schools, but I feel people are over simplifying this.

"The concept has the advantage of parents and teachers working together for improved educationn for children. Its disadvantage is that pupils don't have the opportunity to achieve as well."

* * *

Whitmer backs the Human Resources Center and a long-range plan for the improvement of education and racial balance as ways to solve the problems.

The long-range plan, which probably won't go into effect until the early 1970s, provides for only east side and west side senior high schools, a new unique junior high school in the Central High buiilding and the phasing out of Jefferson.

'MORE EFFECTIVE SCHOOL'

"This action I believe represents a way to provide good education, and it can be carried out," Whitmer remarks

"Instead of merely trying to mix kids up racially you should try to create a more effective school for Negro and white students.

* * *

"This hopefully will encourage people to stay in the neighborhood."

Pressure is being put on school officials by citizens and the Michigan Civil Rights Commission and federal government.

RECOMMENDATIONS EXPECTED

The commission, which held a hearing on school race relations here in June, is expected to have some recommendations shortly.

A federal investigation currently being conducted in Pontiac is part of a move to extend "forced integration" to Northern schools from the South.

It is likely something more will be done to relieve de facto segregation in Pontiac, but no one knows what at the moment.

Pontiac School Affairs

Enrollment Is Down for Grades One-Six

Class sizes first through sixth grades in Pontiac are the smallest ever, an assistant school superintendent reported to the board of education last night.

Enrollment figures released by Assistant Supt. William J. Lacy showed there are 11,887 first through sixth grade pupils, 119 less than last year.

* * *

Over-all, there are 23,866 children going to school in the Pontiac School District, only 137 more than a year ago, according to Lacy.

Lacy said his office is still compiling enrollment figures and that the figures are "unofficial, but reasonably correct."

OFFICIAL COUNT

Every year on the fourth Friday in September local school officials around the state take an official count of pupils enrolled in schools.

The figures are given to the state and the state then gives each school district a net total of about $207 per pupil.

* * *

Lacy said an elementary school increase of only five pupils was a "blessing" because a new elementary school to take an overflow of pupils from other schools didn't open last month as expected.

Enrollment figures for the indicated fourth Fridays:

Grade	1967 Actual	1968 Projection	1968 Actual
Kindergarten	2,185	2,248	2,314
1 through 6	12,006	12,073	11,887
Elementary Total (incl. spec. ed.)	14,443	14,573	14,448
Junior High (7-9)	5,084	5,228	5,126
Senior High (10-12)	4,202	4,278	4,241
Others			51
Total enrollment	23,729	24,079	23,866

'Scare Tactics' Claimed

Teacher Raps PEA

Some Pontiac teachers are being forced to join a teacher organization by "scare tactics," a teacher told the board of education last night.

Thomas Marshall, new president of the dying Pontiac Federation of Teachers, pleaded with the school board to reexamine the agency shop clause in the teaching contract.

* * *

It provides that all teachers must pay the Pontiac Education Association $85 a year for contract-negotiating and other services.

Penalty for not paying the $85 is dismissal at the end of the school year.

LEGAL AGENT

PEA is the legal bargaining agent for all Pontiac teachers until next summer when the three-year teachers' contract expires. Teachers again can vote then on selection of an agent.

Victor Bouckaert, executive director of the PEA, reported that his organization has increased its membership from 633 last year to more than 1,000 now.

Most of the increase came from teachers complying with the agency shop provision.

But teachers are given the option of paying the $85 as a service fee instead of becoming a PEA member and paying it as dues.

'WON'T BE PRESSURED'

"We refuse to be pressured by the PEA," Marshall said.

He said he favored a freedom of choice for teachers between the two teacher organizations, and he objected to the fact that only $28 of the $85 goes to the local Education Association unitl

The hushabye heat.

Soft and low. Gentle and quiet. That's electric heat.

It's the quietest heat you can get.

If it's radiant, there's no sound at all. If it's a warm-air furnace, the fan runs at a lower speed. Gives only a gentle hum, soft as a lullaby.

What else?

Electric heat is clean. No fumes. No soot. No draft. No chill one moment nor a burst of hot air the next. The humidity stays in the comfort range. Better for you. Your nose and throat. Better for your home. Never desert dry.

Call Edison for the name of your nearest Edison-approved Electric Heat Contractor. He'll give you a no-obligation survey. And we'll see that you get a $100 trade-in allowance on your old heating plant.

Electric heat . . . the hushabye heat. Comforting to have while your little one, your pretty one, sleeps.

Can't Recall Your Name, but . . . Uh, Uh

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — One of life's little ordeals is having an imperfect memory for names.

Most of us are in this plight. We rather envy people like former Postmaster General James A. Farley, the sprightly octogenarian who has the reputation of never forgetting the identity of anyone he has ever met. It is said of Jim that he even had a prenatal memory, and that immediately after birth he handed the doctor a cigar and called the surprised medic by his first name.

BOYLE

* * *

Such powers of total recall, cultivated by politicians and salesmen, are beyond most of us. What feeble memory we do have seems to desert us in an emergency. If asked unexpectedly to introduce his own mother, many a man stutters and murmurs, "I'd like you to—uh—meet—uh Mama." Under sudden stress he not only can momentarily forget his mother's name—he can forget his own.

HUMAN FACT

This is such a human fact of normal life that you would think it would be taken for granted by everyone, and accepted for what it is—a temporary lapse.

But it isn't. All of our lives are made hideous at times by those oddballs who rush up to us at a social function, stick out their paw and demand loudly: "I'll bet you don't even know who I am!"

* * *

Thus challenged, your mind immediately flees. Guilt assails you. All you can see is the bulbous face of your tormenter. Everyone nearby stops talking and watches your feeble struggles.

"Sidney Beaverhoff?"

"Nope."

"Bascom Ripplethwaite?"

"Nope."

"Algy Whumperdink?"

"Nope." He is leering triumphantly now and the crowd is snickering.

"Well, you face is familiar, but—" Your voice trails off lamely.

* * *

"I'm Abner Jabberwocky, the guy you slept next to in Latin during our sophomore year in high school," he crows. And then the inevitable note of injury creeps into his tone: "You're not the kind of a guy who forgets his old pals, are you?"

Old Pal, the devil. All you want to do is to wrap your hands around his throat for the public humilitation he has caused you. Now that you have found out who he is, you can't wait to start forgetting him again.

GUESSING GAME

It would seem but ordinary courtesy when you meet someone you haven't seen for a long time to mention your own name first and save him from possible embarrasment. But the world is full of characters who want to make a guessing game of their own identity. They appear to get a positive pleasure out of making their victims squirm.

Often they turn out to be people with utterly forgettable personalities, and your memory has done you a favor by balking and stubbornly refusing to recall them. The only thing that would make them memorable would be to have their names tattooed on their foreheads in purple ink, followed by the words: "I'm a boor—beware."

* * *

The best way to deal with one of these social pests when he plants himself in front of you and asks, "Who am I?" is to answer, "Your face is familiar, but I hoped you'd outgrow it."

Then walk away. You may make an enemy, but don't worry. He probably isn't the kind of a guy who would mention you favorably in his will anyway.

Mott Fund-Raising Is Spotlighted

By GEORGIA ROSEWALL

Money-raising projects are in the spotlight this fall at Waterford Mott High School. Yearbook, sweater, tee-shirt, and magazine sales all prevail at Mott.

Yearbooks went on sale this week. Orders will be taken during homeroom with the price set at $4. A $2 deposit may be made. The money will go towards the publishing of the 1969 yearbook.

★ ★ ★

Pep Club started selling Mott sweaters Monday. They are navy blue V neck's with 'Mott' written on them. Tee-shirts were also sold.

The sweaters were sold out the second day, showing the success of the sale. More sweaters and tee-shirts are on order.

SALE PROCEEDS

Proceeds from both sales will go towards the purchasing of pompons, bumper stickers and spirit buttons. Pep Club also plans on donating a school flag, track record board or an announcement board to the school.

Students will start their second annual magazine sale Tuesday.

An assembly will be presented at the beginning of the sale. Information about the sale, placing magazine orders, prizes available and the purpose of the sale will be discussed.

★ ★ ★

The goal is set at $7,500. Each student's quota is $10. Various prizes are to be awarded to high salesmen.

The money earned will be used to carpet the Media Center at Mott.

BERMUDA DAY

Bermuda Day, sponsored by the newspaper class was held yesterday. Proceeds from the event will go towards publishing Mott's first newspaper.

Staff positions for the newspaper are Vicki Koch, editor-in-chief; Audrey Hatmaker, assistant editor; Debbie Stapleton, current affairs editor; Greg McMorris, editorial page editor; Greg Pizza, sports editor; Gene Lund, photography editor; and Larry Williams, advertising manager.

The "Polaris" staff for the 1968-69 yearbook has also been announced. Cindy Harper, Dawn Saffron, Debe Brown, editors-in-chief; Dee Dee Smith, copy editor; Kathy Hall, layout editor; and Rosann Kirpatrick, business editor.

Assistant editors and section editors will be announced next week.

COUNCIL ELECTED

Representatives from homeroom for Student Council were elected last week. The first meeting was held Monday.

Groves High Year Starts With Numerous Changes

By KIM SEROTA

Several weeks ago, Wylie E. Groves High School opened its doors, for what seemed to many the first time.

The school this year is showing signs of its "newness." From a new principal to innovations to breaking away from old traditions, the '68-69 school year has started with an abundance of changes.

★ ★ ★

Of the things that have changed at Groves, the people have changed the most. At the head of the roster is Richard A. Lyden, the new principal. He is an administrator from the Dayton, Ohio, area and is replacing former principal Charles E. Lundy.

"I didn't come here to change everything—just improve it," he commented, and although he admits, only, to want to be part of Groves, he has suggested and initiated many new ideas.

WELCOMES TEACHERS

Along with its principal, the school also welcomed 32 teachers and counselors.

Three students are particularly noticeable additions to Groves. Eduardo Colombo and Juerg Straub are attending the school as American Field Service foreign exchange students and Christina Jansson is studying on the Youth for Understanding program.

★ ★ ★

Eduardo is staying with his American brother Jim Cameron, Jeurg is living with Doug Carr and Christina is spending the year with American sister Jann Rosen. All six are members of the class of '69.

★ ★ ★

Innovations at Groves are plentiful. They include longer lunch periods, activty periods and the concept of flexibility in daily scheduling.

COUNCIL REPLACED

A new idea in student government is the replacement of Student Council with the Student CORPS. President Mark Bergeron has expressed his hopes that CORPS will fulfill its motto of "Working with you, for you," and become a "Super Council."

Walled Lake Election Held

By JOANNE SANDERSON

Election of Walled Lake High School class officers, Student Council and executive boards took place this week.

Senior class officers are Chuck Baldwin, president; Deb Fockler, vice president; Debbie Kelsey, secretary; and Mary Streeter, treasurer.

Junior class officers are Robin Ward, president; Pat Munger, vice president; Connie Walton, secretary; and Linda Heliker, treasurer.

The sophomore class elected Tom Barry as president, Cheryl Rates as vice president, Candy Ingham secretary, and Sue Romberg treasurer.

ORGANIZATIONS LISTED

Organizing at Walled Lake Central are the Future Homemakers Association (Mrs. Richard A. Saurerbrun, sponsor), Debate Club (Jaquelyn Bowers, sponsor), and Cave Club (Aubrey Golden, William Fritz and Robert Dickinsor, sponsors).

Oakland Christian Classes Get Start

By MELINDA THEMM

A new school came into being as Oakland Christian High School began classes last Monday.

★ ★ ★

The biggest problem confronting students is catching up. Other area schools have already been in session three weeks.

★ ★ ★

Wasting no time, nominees for Student Body officers are being accepted. Final selections will be made next week and elections for Student Body and class officers will be held later this month.

Representatives from each homeroom will be chosen to form the Student Council.

TO WORK WITH OFFICERS

Throughout the year these students will work closely with officers of the Student Body, discussing new ideas and working out problems that may occur.

The school newspaper, the Halberdier, is being organized. The staff officials are yet to be chosen with publication to begin the first part of December.

Monday, Juniors will order class rings

OLL Grads Back; U.S. Calls Coach

By CHRIS GINGRAS

Homecoming is early this year at Our Lady of the Lakes High School, and it has a double significance.

As is traditional, it will be the occasion for welcoming back alumni. It also will be a time to say farewell to Michael Boyd, head football coach and teacher who is a second lieutenant in the ROTC and who has been called to active duty.

★ ★ ★

Boyd has been the Lakers' coach for the past three seasons.

The game Saturday is for Coach, but the dance tonight belongs to Queen Anne Marie Matzelle. Votes were cast last week, and the queen was announced at last Friday's pep rally.

RUNNERS-UP IN COURT

Pat LaBrie and Kathy Budnik, the two runners-up, will serve in Anne's court as senior representatives.

Other members of the court include junior Cindy Walsh, sophomore Diane Sibel and freshman Kim Gallo.

The dance will follow a theme of "Autumn Enchantment," with music provided by the New Breed.

This year's homecoming will be informal as was last year's. However, a change has been made in regard to floats.

★ ★ ★

Instead of having one float for each grade, each homeroom will have a "car float" to enter in competition.

Built around the body of the car, each float will be self-propelled rather than requiring a trailer for hauling.

'Disneyland' Theme at PNH

Homecoming Nears

By LARRY HELTSLEY

Homecoming arrangements dominate coming activities at Pontiac Northern. The Student Council chose "Disneyland" for this year's theme.

PNH seniors elected the homecoming court from a list of nominated seniors, two from each senior homeroom. Linda Crabtree, Terry Kay, Maragret Frank and Connie Lutes constitute the female half of the court.

★ ★ ★

Elected male members are Tom Pardee, Rob Clancy, Harry Miller and Robin McIlroy. Elections will be held to determine the queen and king, and the results will be announced Oct. 11 at the pep assembly.

HOMECOMING DANCE

Walled Lake will be the homecoming foe on Oct. 11, and the homecoming dance will be held Oct. 12.

★ ★ ★

Four foreign exchange students are attending PNH. Ulf Lyddby (Sweden) is living with Tim and Tom Mash. Max Bronniman (Switzerland) and Andy Nelson (Denmark) are living with Tim Huemille and Dave Roerink, respetcively.

The only girl, Heikke Franz from Germany, is staying with Connie Miller.

★ ★ ★

An all-junior card section, organized by Scottie Hasted, junior class president, made its first appearance at the Livonia Stevenson football game.

The Huskie marching band placed first at the Michigan State Fair band competition this summer. A. Roger Welton is director of the prize-winning band.

Northern's Acapella Choir performed before the first Northern PTSA meeting of the year. The meeting discussion topic was "Attendance Problems in the High School."

The Student Council has announced that a war memorial will be constructed in a central area of the school. Former Northern students who have lost their lives while serving in the U.S. Armed Forces will be paid tribute.

NEW TEACHERS

Bewildered sophomores are not the only new faces at PNH as 19 new teachers have been added to the faculty.

Andover Swings With Activities

By ANN PETERS

Extracurricular activities are in full swing at Bloomfield Hills Andover High School. Many clubs have held meetings to plan their activities for this year. Pep Club members have formed committees and begun work on up-coming homecoming festivities. Class floats are under construction causing an epidemic of flower-making parties.

The Latin Club of Andover is planning an Oct. 9 field trip to the Detroit Institute of Arts to view the Masada exhibition. The Latin Club's doughnut sales began Sept. 24 with proceeds going to various charities at Christmas time.

★ ★ ★

Committees have been organized to prepare for the annual French Club Christmas banquet.

The staff of the 1968-1969 yearbook, the Hillcrest, has been announced; and the first issue of the school's newspaper, The Shield, went on sale last Friday.

'CHARLIE BROWN' ON STAGE

Rehearsals will start soon for this semester's Protagonist production — "You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown!" Mark Gallo, student-director, has announced the cast.

Waterford Girls Set Grid Game

By JANICE CRISP

To most girls a powder puff is something which is used to apply makeup, but tomorrow night at Waterford Township High School, it will mean football. At 8, the underclass girls will face the seniors at Waterford's annual Powder Puff Football Game. It is sponsored by the Foreign Exchange Club.

★ ★ ★

Male cheerleaders will be on hand to encourage the girls to greater efforts. The captain of the senior cheerleaders is Jeff Ballard. Norman Barker will head the underclass cheerleaders.

Acting as coaches and sponsors are Mrs. Richard Durnbaugh girls' physical education instructor, and Terrence Dolan, Spanish teacher and sponsor of the Foreign Exchange Club.

VARSITY CLUB INITIATIONS

Varsity Club initiations took place this week. Tuesday and Wednesday the 23 boys desiring membership wore ties and sport coats to their classes, along with tags announcing that they were seeking membership in the club.

Tomorrow new members will launch a "cleanup Waterford" campaign as part of their initiation requirements. The boys will pull weeds around the school and courtyard, pick up papers, sweep the parking lot and paint school doors blue and gold.

★ ★ ★

This year's initiation activities may seem a bit tame to those who remember the applicants of other years. The singing boys with dresses, makeup and pots on their heads are now gone.

The change was explained by George Pizza, president of the Varsity Club. "We want to make our club the most respected in the school," he said.

Oct. 7-11 will be the dates of the Foreign Exchange candy sale. The money from this and other projects will go to students traveling abroad next summer through the club.

There will be an after-game dance tonight.

At Holly High

Students Help on Policy

By MARCIA CLARK

Archbishop Dedicates PC

By GERI KLINKHAMER

The long waiting and anticipation is over. Pontiac Catholic High School came into full being with its formal dedication Saturday.

The Rev. Father John F. Dearden, archbishop of the Detroit diocese, performed the ceremony.

* * *

RAPID GROWTH

The rapid growth of PC is visibly seen by the difference between the thriving class of 82 seniors and the new class of 145 freshmen.

Elections of the sophomore, junior and senior class officers were held recently.

The sophomore leaders are Tom Worthy, president; Toby Vanover, vice president; Debbie Condon, secretary; and Cathy Wroblewski, treasurer.

MERIT TESTS

On Tuesday of this week the juniors took their California Merit Achievement tests.

Seniors are applying for their scholarship tests so they can get their entries into their collage of their choice as soon as possible.

The recruiting of staff members for the 1969 yearbook began under the direction of Michael Foley, English instructor.

Dominican Back to Normal After Summer Vacation

By ANDI BARNES

After three months of vacation, it is difficult to be regulated by a schedule. Things at Dominican Academy are finally returning to normal, clubs and activities are again beginning to function. The first touch of the familiar was the return to uniforms Monday.

The scheduled activity period also began this week. Monday, homerooms met to discuss revelant problems and ideas.

* * *

Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday are specified days for such activities as debate, yearbook, journalism, Latin Club, Christian Action Club and Glee Club. Glee Club will also meet on specified evenings for 45 minutes.

* * *

Seniors started the ball rolling with outside activities. They are sponsoring a "Buy a Beautiful Beastie" sale of senior stuffed animals. The animals come in velvet and vinyl, and in assorted sizes.

* * *

Seniors believe this will promote friendship and unity among the girls, and add money to their treasury. The sale ends Friday.

OFFICIALLY INAUGURATED

Tuesday, Student Council and class officers were officially inaugurated into their respective offices.

The program was conducted during a student assembly and presided over by Sharon Yezbick, Student Council president.

Troy Mod-ular

By LUANNE GREENSTEIN

New students and teachers are finally getting used to the modular scheduling after four weeks at Troy High School. The modular system was threatened last year, but an affirmative vote in a crucial millage election kept it alive.

* * *

Most of the excitement at Troy High right now is caused by the approaching homecoming game and dance. Oct. 11, Troy will host the Utica Chiefs. Classes are planning their floats around the theme of "History of Africa."

* * *

Recently, over 150 Troy students went to see the movie, "A Man for All Seasons." Four busloads left the school at 9 a.m. for the short trip to the Village Theatre.

Japanese on Tour

By GAIL NELSON

Stevenson High School was host to a group of Japanese teachers touring the United States to study English and observe American customs.

These teachers were surprised at how informal American classrooms are.

* * *

Hiroyoshi Jiju, professor at Wakayama University in Japan, told of being kicked out of class for putting his elbow on his desk when he was a student.

* * *

Japanese students are required to take very difficult entrance exams, not only in preparation for college but for junior high and high school.

WOMEN DRIVERS AMUSING

The Japanese were amused by the fact that Stevenson bus drivers are women, because women are still considered inferior in Japan, although their position is improving.

* * *

Elementary teaching, which is about 60 per cent female in Japan, is one of the few major occupations open to Japanese women.

The Japanese visitors attended pep assemblies, football games and other activities including a Japanese-style party before returning home.

Stevenson has acquired a mascot this year. His name is Phred, a 15-inch alligator.

DARK THOUGHTS?

Phred seems to lack school spirit thus far, preferring to spend each day in a dark secluded corner.

* * *

The mascot has a hearty appetite, especially when goldfish and worms are on the menu.

* * *

Also new to Stevenson are two classes. One is a group of sixth graders who are attending Stevenson only temporarily while waiting for their new school to be completed and the ninth grade is now a part of senior high school instead of junior high.

* * *

Stevenson High School's dedication ceremonies have been postponed to February. The ceremony will not be held on the originally scheduled date because Adlai Stevenson III, son of the late U.N. ambassador for whom the school was named, could not be here to give his address.

Opening lead—♥J

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY

The best player doesn't always make the most tricks. He will over a period of years but on some hands he deliberately adopts a safer line of play to insure his contract.

JACOBY

Take today's hand played by Ralph Chafetz at New York's Mayfair Club. Ralph was in a four-Spade contract and, while he had no objection to making an overtrick, his main purpose was to make sure of his contract.

He could count 10 winners without any trouble but his problem was to see that East and West couldn't collect four tricks before he got them.

All else being equal, the right way to play trumps when you miss four to the queen is to play out your ace and king but all else wasn't equal. Ralph wanted to keep East out of the lead because East could lead a club through Ralph's king.

Ralph had to lose a diamond trick in any event. One diamond loser, plus a spade loser, plus two club losers adds up to four defensive tricks.

Ralph wasn't going to let that happen. He won the heart lead. Then he led a trump to dummy's ace and returned the jack. East played low and Ralph finessed. West took his queen and collected his minor suit aces later, but Ralph was perfectly happy. He scored game and rubber.

Suppose that East held the ace of diamonds and got in with that card to lead a club and set Ralph? Ralph had listened to the bidding. West had opened one heart on a black-high suit. He needed both missing aces to have an opening bid!

♥♠ CARD Sense ♠♥

Q—The bidding has been:

West	North	East	South
	2♠	Pass	3♠
Pass	4♣	Pass	4♥
Pass	4♠	Pass	5♠
Pass	6♠	Pass	?

You, South, hold:

♠K94 ♥A7854 ♦QJ5 ♣42

Your partner's two spade bid was forcing. What do you do now?

A—Bid six spades only. Your partner is making a belated effort in reach seven but he was willing to stop at game earlier.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Instead of bidding four spades, your partner jumps to five spades over your four hearts. What do you do now?

This trio of Cranbrook branch, Woman's National Farm and Garden Association women pause for a chat at Thursday's International Tea at "The Acorns," the John Q. Nagel estate at Metamora. From left are Mrs. Russell Robbins of West Maple Road, Bloomfield Township; Mrs. Frederick Fisk of Birmingham and Mrs. Lloyd Sherwood of Bloomfield Hills.

Membership Push Includes 1st Bring-Along Tea

The Women's Association for the Detroit Symphony is searching all points of the compass in its drive for 200 new members. Four "bring-along" teas, to which members may bring a good prospect for membership, are planned.

The first will be Wednesday at 2:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Charles L. Wilson Jr. in Bloomfield Hills.

Mrs. Robert N. Green is in charge of reservations.

★ ★ ★

The following will make up the committee of the day: Mrs. Kenneth G. Manuel, Mrs. Charles C. Hilton, Mrs. Robert Fife, and Mrs. Harold Warner, all of Bloomfield Hills.

Also on the committee are three Birmingham women: Mrs. H. J. Nederlander, Mrs. Jerome F. Cummiskey, and Mrs. Raymond Lucas.

★ ★ ★

The next bring-along tea will be at the Grosse Pointe home of Mrs. Troy Maschmeyer on Oct. 17. Mrs. Sidney E. Chapin will host the third at her Dearborn home Oct. 24, and on Nov. 13, the last tea will be at the northwest Detroit home of Mrs. H. Glenn Bixby.

SPEAKER

Mrs. Arnold W. Lungershausen, Women's Association president and a concert harpsichordist, will give a brief talk at each tea.

The second in the Village Woman's Club's "Living Series" is set for Tuesday at the club, as usual, same time, 9:30 a.m.

The subject is wickerware. Mrs. John Buick will demonstrate the making of a wicker purse.

★ ★ ★

Cochairmen of the Living Series are Mrs. David Schutte and Mrs. John D. Birney.

Tuesday's hostesses are Mrs. Lee Bertling Jr., Mrs. Lance Minor Jr., Mrs. Ronald Petrella and Mrs. David W. Krupp.

Offer Lectures on Drug Problem

"Drug Use — Where Are We Heading?" is the topic of a lecture to be given Tuesday at the Village Woman's Club on East Long Lake Road, under sponsorship of the Merrill-Palmer Institute.

Dr. Aaron L. Rutledge, head of the psychotherapy program at Merrill-Palmer, will be the speaker at this first of three free lectures which are offered as a community service.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Aaron, a Certified Consulting psychologist, is a past president of the National Council on Family Relations and the American Association of Marriage Counselors. He boasts an extensive background in the mental health and human relations fields.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Walter O. Briggs III and Mrs. Royal A. Wilson are cochairmen of the lecture series.

Hosts for the Tuesday meeting will be Mayor and Mrs. David Breck of Birmingham, Mr. and Mrs. William A. McNamee, the Don A. Cargills and Mr. and Mrs. Donald E. Young.

★ ★ ★

The public may attend on a limited reservation basis and reservations may be made by calling The Village Woman's Club.

Today's Woman

Crash Put Her in Library

By JANET ODELL
Women's Editor, The Pontiac Press

There are many forces that change a person's direction when he or she is trying to decide on a career. Today, it may be the war in Vietnam. Back in the 1930s, it was THE DEPRESSION.

MRS. ODELL

The depression switched Pontiac's head librarian, Phyllis Pope, from a musical career to one of books.

But she still loves and enjoys her music. One of the first purchases she made when she was on her own was a Steinway console piano.

★ ★ ★

A piano to her is what a car is to many—a dream realized. "I'm one of the last Americans not to own a car," says Miss Pope.

Librarians come out of hiding occasionally—hiding is where they keep themselves while they're trying to decide what books to buy, which ones to discard, how to speed the transfer of new books from packing case to shelf and all the day-by-day decisions of running a library.

Miss Pope is custodian of some 94,000 volumes.

Starting Thursday, she's going to inaugurate a new program. For nine weeks, she will present a book review program called "Books Old and New, Your Thursday A.M. Review."

COFFEE HOUR

Open to the public, the 10 a.m. program in the downstairs auditorium of the Library will be preceded by coffee.

"I want to give people a strong idea of the great variety of books and subjects that the library has," Miss Pope says.

We had lots of questions for our library expert.

Have books themselves changed?

Yes, in a way. Non-fiction books are written now in a more lively style and read more like fiction. Subject matter changes with the times, of course.

★ ★ ★

Children's books now cover a wider range of topics too and the writing is livelier and more grown-up in style. But TV has not spoiled books for children, says Phyllis Pope.

"The object behind a library is still much the same from generation to generation; it is basically the love of reading. This enjoyment doesn't vary and good books remain good books," she says.

What about paperbacks?

They are excellent. There are many good paperback titles that are not in library bindings. But libraries will probably handle many paperbacks in the future.

Are how-to-do-it books popular?

"Always. Books on projects for the home, hobbies and models are constantly in demand."

Miss Pope and her staff read 15-20 book review periodicals regularly. She writes for The Library Journal, a book review periodical that goes all over the English-speaking world.

But you can't please everyone, she says resignedly. "Some people complain if you have a book; others complain if you don't have it."

Miss Pope touched lightly on some of the special services the library offers:

- Books can be ordered from the State library if they are not in the local one.
- Pictures can be rented for three or four weeks with renewal permitted.
- Records can be checked out. The library has two record players for use in the building.
- Books printed in oversize type are available for those with sight problems. And the library can help blind individuals apply for talking books, a service of the federal government.

Books are the mainstay of Phyllis Pope's life. She has ridden herd on them in Pontiac since 1955, coming here from Jamestown, N.Y. She is a native of Oshkosh, Wis., and a graduate of the University of Wisconsin.

Don't forget those Thursday morning book reviews.

Have Fun in the Sun

Now You Can Be 'Socially Secure'

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am 70-years-old, in exceptionally good health and for six years have kept company with a lady now 65. We ride and dine together frequently and enjoy one another's company. It is unlikely that we will ever marry as we occupy homes owned and lived in by three generations of our families.

ABBY

Some years ago I inherited a small winter home in Florida and I've invited my friend to drive down with me for the winter. She has always declined, but recently she said "Ask Abby, and if she thinks it's all right, perhaps I shall agree."

LONELY

DEAR LONELY: You may tell her that Abby said that when a lady reaches the age of social security, she is "socially secure" . . . so to go ahead and have fun in the sun.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: I love Sheldon very much and want to marry him, but here's my problem. He has a very domineering mother. She divorced Sheldon's father when Sheldon was a baby and she never remarried. He was her only child. She raised him alone and now she acts like a martyr.

★ ★ ★

I am 25 and Sheldon is 30. He's handsome, gentle, and well educated—everything a woman would want in a husband, but "mama" has to know where he is every minute.

She has her own apartment (thank God) but she drains her son for every bit of attention she can get. (If she has a cold, it's "pneumonia." Indigestion is a "slight heart attack.")

My friends say they wouldn't wish a mother-in-law like her on their worst enemy. I've seen very little of her, but Sheldon says she "likes" me.

How important is a man's mother? She is only 57, so I can count on "mama" being in the picture for a long time yet.

SHELDON'S GIRL

★ ★ ★

DEAR GIRL: How "important" a man's mother is depends entirely on the man. How does Sheldon react to his mother's possessiveness? Don't listen to "friends." Get to know "mama" better and decide for yourself whether the cord is cut or not. Then act accordingly.

★ ★ ★

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, care of The Pontiac Press, Dept. E-600, P.O. Box 9, Pontiac, Mich. 48056 and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Kitty Carlisle, regular panelist on the daytime edition of "To Tell the Truth," will speak on "First Person Singular" at Wednesday's opening Pontiac-Oakland Town Hall, Inc. lecture series. Beginning at 10 a.m. in the Huron Theatre, the event will be followed by a celebrity luncheon.

AAUW Dramas Are Scheduled

The first play in a three-play series sponsored by the Rochester branch, American Association of University Women, will be presented Oct. 12 at 1:30 p.m. with a repeat performance at 3:30 p.m.

★ ★ ★

The play is "Hansel and Gretel" by the Opera Ensemble of the Birmingham Musical.

★ ★ ★

Tickets for this play-date and for the series will go on sale through the Rochester elementary schools on Tuesday. Prior to that date, group orders of ten or more will be accepted.

★ ★ ★

Ticket chairman is Mrs. John F. Solverson of Winkler Mill Road.

Profits will be allocated to the AAUW Fellowship Fund.

TWO MORE

Subsequent offerings will be Henry Martin's production of "The Brave Little Tailor" on Jan. 18, 1969; and on March 1, the branch's own presentation of "Grandmother Slyboots," a mod version of "Little Red Riding Hood."

★ ★ ★

All plays will be done in the Rochester Senior High School's auditorium.

★ ★ ★

Coordinating all arrangements for this series and the ticket campaign is the branch's fellowship chairman. Mrs. James Laidig. Mrs. Solverson, in her capacity as chairman of the theatre workshop group, is assisting.

Get Angry at the Children? It's Natural and Okay

By JUNE ELERT

Dr. Haim Ginott, a clinical psychologist who has "done his share of sinnin'" offered some words of advice on the science of child-raising Thursday at Birmingham Town Hall.

Dr. Ginott began his career as an elementary school teacher in Israel. He quickly came to the conclusion that "there is no relationship between what we teach children and what they learn."

Still finding no connection after obtaining a BS degree in education, he came to the United States and turned to a career in psychology "to find the answers."

★ ★ ★

Author of the best-selling "Between Parent and Child" Dr. Ginott is now serving as an adjunct associate professor in the New York University graduate department of psychology.

Capsulizing some common errors of young parents or parents of young children, he suggested that our children are not necessarily our friends — rather they are more like our enemies. Why? "Because," he said, "they are dependent upon us and wherever there is dependency, there is hostility."

SELF-INTEREST

We must not expect children to be concerned about our welfare — they are interested only in their own point of view because they are capable only of thinking from that vantage point.

How do we make our children our friends? By providing more opportunity for independence — greater autonomy.

★ ★ ★

In dealing with toddlers, he advised giving them limited choices. Say, for example, "You may have either eggs or cereal for breakfast today."

Never say, "What would you like for breakfast today?" "This is dangerous," he warned, "since the child is bound to ask for something you don't have on hand."

★ ★ ★

Continuing, he said, "Give the child in fantasy, what you can't give him in reality." Example — If you offer your youngster Corn Flakes or Rice Krispies and then find you haven't got the one he chooses, don't rush out to the grocery to get it for him.

Sympathize with his disappointment, but without apologies, and write down on a piece of paper the thing he wants and show it to him, with the assurance that it will be included in the next shopping trip.

"This is very effective," Dr. Ginott said, "especially when the child is too young to read."

★ ★ ★

In a rather more serious vein, Ginott emphasized the physicians' dictim, "first of all, do no harm."

Following this theme, he said parents should not argue with children about their feelings, nor dispute their right to their feelings. A hurt will not disappear just because Mama rubs it and says "There, it's all better."

He told of a mother, who, when her son complained vociferously about too much homework, agreed with him so loudly and emphatically, with such sympathetic groans and clucks, that he finally drew back and said "Look, Mom, it's bad, but it's not that bad," and went upstairs to do the homework.

ANGER SINFUL?

In Ginott's opinion, Anglo-Saxons are in deep trouble because, in their culture, to be angry is to be bad. This produces a feeling of sinfulness.

He said we should learn to get angry and enjoy it. We should learn to express our anger in ways that do not hurt the child. Most importantly, no matter how angry we get, we must not attack the child's character or personality.

Admitting that this is not easy, Ginott reminded us that "we all have a collection of instant insults inside us, but," he warned, "no child was ever made wise by being told how stupid he is."

FACE IT

And, he concluded, "There is no way to live with children without getting angry."

When a domestic disaster has already occurred, this is no time to begin a sermon on all the alternatives that could have avoided it. As he put it, "When someone is drowning, it is no time to offer him swimming lessons." Get the sponge and clean up the mess.

Winding up his talk, Dr. Ginott reassured parents about the guilt they feel when they do succumb to anger. He said, "We cannot be angry and feel loving at the same time. Love can wait until later."

"A good parent," in his opinion, "is one who has human skills in dealing with children. We need to translate our human ideals into daily practices."

★ ★ ★

Dr. Ginott's talk is being repeated today, with celebrity luncheon and question and answer session following at the Kingsley Inn.

Accentuate the Positive, Teachers Are Advised

By LESLIE J. NASON, ED. D.
University of S. California

Young persons want to progress more than they want to correct mistakes.

Parents and teachers should take advantage of this in providing motivation for learning. Too often teachers accentuate the negative.

NASON

A term paper is returned with the errors marked in red pencil and, in many cases, the teacher's criticism as well. Nothing is said about the next step the student should take in developing his ability to write better papers.

★ ★ ★

Calling attention to a student's errors may cause him to rise up in selfdefense. Even though he cannot explain why the errors were made, he passes them off as carelessness. "I know the rule of grammer that I violated and I knew how to spell the words. I was just so interested in what I was saying that I got careless."

The teachers notations give the student no information that he does not already have. They have built up a fear of making errors.

DISLIKE WRITING

In such cases, students come to dislike writing. Their fears tense their minds, which in turn causes them to make more errors.

What the student needs is guidance towards writing better papers. He needs suggestions on the positive side.

★ ★ ★

I have worked with students at all levels — from grammer school pupils to college graduates. Given specific suggestions as to the next move toward improvement, they are willing to cooperate.

As their first efforts bring improvement, they accept further suggestions and continue to progress.

CAN BE ACCENTUATED

I am not suggesting that the errors on test papers should not be indicated and grades lowered accordingly. But if students are taught to learn from their mistakes, the positive can be accentuated.

In reviewing a test in mathematics, a student should think over each incorrect response, asking himself the question "How should I have known and recognized from the wording of the question what the correct procedure is?"

★ ★ ★

Even in the case of careless errors, he should ask himself "What caused me to make this error? What could I have been thinking about at the time I made it?" How can I remind myself to go back and eliminate such errors?"

Whether it be learning to sew a fine seam, perfecting a baseball pitch or writing an adequate theme, the student must always keep in mind the end result toward which he is working. His mind must be centered on improvement.

★ ★ ★

To be sure, in all of these processes he may falter and make mistakes, but the desired result is attained only by substituting correct procedures for the faulty ones.

The efficient way is to concentrate on the steps toward improvement; that is, he should accentuate the positive!

Bermuda Plan for Decimal Currency Features Dollars

HAMILTON, Bermuda (AP)—Bermuda will adopt the term "dollars" as the key to its currency under plans worked out by a Decimal Currency Committee.

★ ★ ★

Parliment is expected to act later this year on a recommendation to discard the British system of pounds, shillings and pence.

One Bermuda cent would equal one U.S. cent. Any revaluation of the U.S. dollar would destroy this parity, the committee noted, but "the Bermuda currency would then stand at a premium or discount to the American dollar."

When Britain devalued its pound in 1967, the Bermuda pound was correspondingly devalued. The committee says no automatic revaluation would be necessary under the new system.

DON'T CORRESPOND

Canada, Australia and New Zealand are among areas that already use "dollars" and decimal coinage, but their dollars do not correspond in value to the U.S. dollar.

Actually, it has never been necessary to have pounds to trade in Bermuda stores. They gladly take American money, with its value translated. Thus anyone with two greenbacks and 40 cents can buy an item selling for a pound, which has the exchange value of $2.40.

The target date for Bermuda Decimal Day, when dollars supplant pounds entirely, is Feb. 2, 1970.

Billion Copies of Bible Printed

Everyday-Language Editions Once Barred

WASHINGTON — Publishing the Bible in everyday language once was a capital offense.

Clerics condemned John Wycliffe for heresy when his followers brought out the first complete English translation of "Goddes lawe" in 1382.

★ ★ ★

When William Tyndale dared publish a second English edition in 1525, copies were put to the torch. So was he.

Despite early setbacks, the Bible has proven to be the world's most popular book. A billion copies have been printed in more than a thousand languages since Gutenberg invented movable type in the 15th century.

EVOLVED AS LIBRARY

The Bible evolved, not as a single volume, but as a whole library by scores of authors, says the National Georgraphic Society in its recent book, "Everyday Life in Bible Times."

Militant Negroes Near Start of Fight to Rule Newark

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — A special City Council election this fall marks the first round in a riot-spawned drive by militant Negroes to win political control of this city, where blacks form a majority of the population but have a minority of votes.

A group called the United Brothers is urging black unity behind two Negro City Council candidates in a special election in November which could be a prelude to the next mayor's race in 1970.

★ ★ ★

Ironically, the Brothers' best hope for success is in a predominantly white ward, where five white candidates may splinter the white vote.

"Community control" of schools and services is a major plank in the Negroes' platform.

2 ON COUNCIL

Two Negroes already hold council seats. But they won through the existing political organizations, while the new movement grew directly out of the rioting which took 26 lives—24 of them Negroes—in 1967.

The first political moves of the Negro militants were aimed at recalling the white mayor, Hugh Addonizio. That effort died, but the idea of political action didn't. Now the Negro militants are working toward defeating Addonizio if he keeps a tentative decision to run for a third term in two years.

A Negro seems certain to be in the race.

Addonizio declines to comment on the current council campaign, but says a black man "inevitably" will be elected mayor, possibly by 1974. Addonizio has faced Negro opponents before, and won.

DISCOUNT EFFORTS

Some City Hall political sources discount the effectiveness of black efforts, saying, "The United Brothers is one man—LeRoi Jones." They think Addonizio's greatest worry is a "white backlash" candidate.

Population figures give a false picture of Negro political strength. Negroes make up at least 52 per cent of the more than 400,000 residents—and some estimates put the figure higher.

★ ★ ★

But nearly 40 per cent of them are below voting age. Many others are not registered.

Joe White, a United Brothers leader, guesses 25 per cent of the city's registered voters are Negroes. Donald Malafronte, Addonizio's top aide, says racial information is not kept on registrations, but he thinks Negro registration, as a percentage of eligible voters, is about the same as that of whites.

The United Brothers—organized last winter at the urging of poet-playwright LeRoi Jones—has sent 45 volunteers into Negro neighborhoods for nine weeks trying to boost Negro registrations. But leaders say they haven't had time to check on progress.

Jones, convicted on a gun-carrying charge stemming from an arrest during the riot, is in the forefront of Negroes who feel that blacks must form their own political groups rather than try to work within existing organizations.

★ ★ ★

Both of Newark's elected Negro councilmen are tied closely with Addonizio and the Democratic party.

But the militants do not espouse revolutionary changes in the form of city government. Theirs is a cry similar to that of "good government" reformers for years.

TAX CHANGES URGED

They call for tax changes to produce money to finance improved city programs, better city employes. "The people who work for the city must be made more directly responsible to the individuals that they affect daily who live in it," says Theodore Pinckney, of the Brothers' council candidates.

Three months ago, the Brothers organized a black political convention, drawing 800 representatives from a wide range of organizations in the mostly Negro central ward, where wounds of looting and burning still fester.

Jones, in the keynote address called on Negroes to organize behind only one candidate for each public office, to canvass their neighborhoods and to contribute their money for a voter registration drive.

At one point, he pleaded: "Spend at least as much as you spend on whisky to free yourself."

JOINS UNITY PLEA

His plea for unity was joined by Philip Hutchings, new head of the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee, and other Negro figures, including Leon Ewing, who had been appointed by Addonizio to fill a vacant council seat until November.

Ewing asked for the Brothers' endorsement. He didn't get it.

★ ★ ★

Instead, the convention backed Pinckney, 34, a schoolteacher and former roommate of Jones at Howard University, for an at-large seat. Also endorsed, for a vacated seat from a ward composed of several ethnic groups, was a young anti-poverty worker, Donald Tucker.

Political realities give Tucker the better chance.

Without a black voting majority, Pinckney must hope for a split in the white vote—and a solid black one. Pinckney faces 24 white candidates and Ewing, who may appeal to many older Negroes less in sympathy with the militants' plea for black unity.

WHITE CANDIDATES

Notable among the white candidates are Anthony Imperiale, head of the white militant north ward Citizens Committee, and Anthony J. Guiliano, a former president of Newark's Patrolmen's Benevolent Association. Imperiale is widely known as leader of a group formed after the riots to patrol city streets. Guiliano is running on a "law and order" platform.

Tucker, by contrast, has only six opponents, one a Negro who may drop out. Each of the other candidates is identified with one ethnic group.

★ ★ ★

Should ethnic identifications split the white vote while Negroes unite behind Tucker, he could win, helped by a law which dispenses with runoffs in special elections. So he would not need a majority of votes to win.

GLENWOOD PLAZA . North Perry at Glenwood

Flatter Your Mum Border

Autumn is chrysanthemum time, and nothing frames the chrysanthemum border more attractively than a well-kept, fine-textured lawn.

Mums and a good bluegrass turf have something else in common besides their good looks. Both are quite sensitive to day-length. Chrysanthemums flower only when days grow shorter (you can hasten flowering by putting a bushel basket over the plant in late afternoon).

Kentucky bluegrass also responds to decreasing length of day, by growing stocky and thick. Because the leaf blades are short and dense in autumn, bluegrass makes a beautiful lawn without appreciable mowing.

Plant Daffodil Bulbs 3-6 Inches Deep

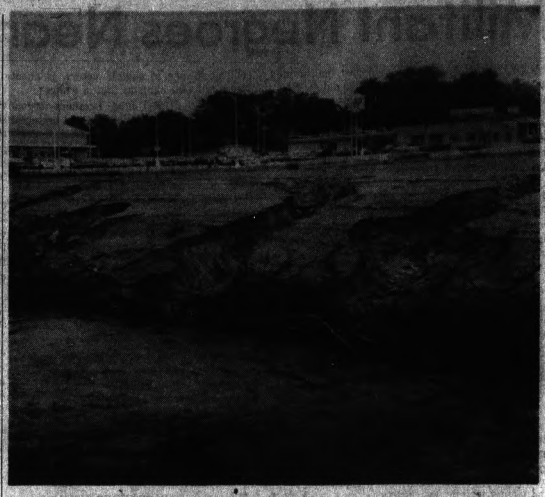
Sound, double-nosed daffodils of the size supplied by specialist growers should be planted three to six inches deep and about five inches apart.

Gardeners can plant daffodil bulbs from mid-September until the ground is frozen.

The only effect produced by late planting is that the normal blooming time of the specimen is delayed.

Wait Until Frost

Roots of caladiums, dahlias, gladiolus, tuberous begonias and cannas can remain outside until the first frost which blackens their leaves and pushes them into dormancy.



Soil Erosion Damages Land And Streams

Cheaper Than Repair

Conserve Natural Resources

Soil erosion, whether it be on cropland, residential development, industrial sites, or roads, contributes to one of the most serious pollution and sediment problems in our lakes and streams.

Once the soil leaves the location in which it was formed, it becomes an absolute enemy of society. Not only does the productivity of the land it left decrease, but the value of the land where it stops is also lowered.

* * *

Whether sediment collects on agricultural land; or is deposited on the roadbed of a highway; whether it moves into a storm sewer or stops in some small stream or goes into a river or even into the Great Lakes, makes little difference. The deposition of sediment in any of these locations is a serious problem.

In some parts of Michigan, the most critical sources of sediment are in the areas being developed for housing or for industry.

REMOVAL COSTLY

The cost of removing sediment from lakes, after it has been deposited there, is prohibitive. Erosion can be prevented for a cost of less than three cents per cubic yard of potential sediment.

It costs about $2 to remove the same sediment from a lake after it has been carried there by erosion.

* * *

In the process of urbanization, usually 100 per cent of the soil surface is disturbed by bulldozers. While this land is being developed, tremendous amounts of sediment are eroded into streams below.

Even though the loss of soil may not seriously damage the land upon which houses are being built, the off-site damages to lands and streams below are serious.

EFFECTIVE CONTROL

It is possible to apply conservation measures, while land is being converted to houses, which will effectively control this erosion and resulting stream pollution.

All levels of government, particularly, the township and county government, must take a close look into the need for controlling excess erosion during the development of residential areas, schools, highways, roads, and shopping centers.

* * *

Soil conservation district directors, and soil conservation service stand ready to furnish technical recommendations for the control of the ever-increasing urban soil erosion problems.

The Oakland County Soil Conservation District is interested in soil conservation in both urban and rural areas. The district's office located in Room, 9, Federal Building, 35 East Huron, in cooperation with the United States Soil Conservation Service, will help all planners and users in proper use of the soil for a better tomorrow.

Apply Weed Killers to Your Lawn Now

Treat your lawn in early fall with any weed killer containing 2, 4-D to eradicate dandelions and plantains. Then you won't have to worry about these pests next spring.

2, 4-D killers are available in liquid and granular forms. The granular form is applied with a fertilizer spreader. The liquid form is diluted with water and sprayed on the weeds.

If using the liquid form, apply it from a sprayer that is kept solely for weed killers. It is almost impossible to clean a sprayer well enough to remove the minute quntity of 2, 4-D that can prove lethal to a valued ornamental.

Apply weed killers only on a day when there is no wind.

Official to Speak at Rose Society

The October meeting of the Metropolitan Rose Society of Detroit will be held Sunday from 2-5 p.m. at the Ford Building, Michigan State Fair Grounds.

Guest speaker will be G. A. Johnson, inspector in charge, plant quarantine division, U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Plant Tulip Bulbs in Autumn

Unlike many spring-flowering bulbs, tulips should be planted later in the fall. As late as mid-November is possible in the North. If set out early and warm weather follows, their growth could be injured.

Tulips like fairly good soil. Earth that will grow good vegetables (or weeds!) will grow good tulips. If it isn't already that way, take your shovel or spade and incorporate enough humus to make it so.

* * *

Tulips also prefer a fair amount of light. Not less than half a day's sunshine is advisable.

Most people buy mixtures because they usually are cheaper than buying all of one variety. But for best effects groups of three, five or more of one kind planted together are preferable.

EFFECT

To insure the maximum effect, all of the flowers should grow to the same height and bloom at the same time. Study your catalogs carefully and select varieties which will flower together and are of comparable height.

To further insure their blooming together, select only top size bulbs and plant them at exactly the same depth, using your Green Thumb bulb planter.

* * *

Early flowering tulips such as Golden Mascot, Pink Beauty and White Hawk all grow to about 15" and should flower at the same time early in April.

Cottage tulips, Darwin varieties and Breeders are all taller and flower in May. Most of the Cottage varieties are about 26" tall and the colors are very pure. Northern Queen, a creamy ivory, planted with Chapaqua, a cherry pink, will create an eye-catching picture next spring.

Next in height are the Darwin tulips which generally grow to about 28". The colors are strong and true, except for the blues which tend to be smoky. The violet-blue of Archbishop combines beautifully with Golden Harvest, a clear strong yellow, and Zwanenberg which is pure white.

Tallest of all are the Breeder varieties which flower at about 32". They offer the deep bronzy tones not found in other varieties. Try Chinese Bandit, which suffuses brown with orange, planted with Orange Delight for a breathtaking spring sight.

Program Agenda Lists Herb Talk

The Organic Farm and Garden Club of Royal Oak will host Mrs. John Dennis of the Branch County Farm and Garden Club of Coldwater. She will speak on "Herbs for Flavor, Fragrance and Fun."

* * *

The public meeting will be held at the Royal Oak Women's Club, 404 S. Pleasant, Royal Oak.

Lily Society Sets Annual Bulb Sale

The Michigan Regional Lily Society will hold its Annual Bulb Sale Oct. 13 from 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

The sale will be at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Hough, 25205 Waycross, Southfield.

Control Weed

Control chickweed this autumn with 2, 4, 5-TP. Be careful to apply herbicide on a still day so that the drift doesn't attack wanted perennials or ornamental shrubs nearby.

Skip Moving Mum Plants Until Spring

Stop! Don't dig up those chrysanthemum plants! Spring, not fall, is the right time for this job.

"The best time to dig, divide and replant chrysanthemums is three to four weeks after the last killing frost in the spring, or after considerable new growth has developed," according to a Purdue University horticulturist.

* * *

Plant the new shoots or divisions 18 to 24 inches apart in a well-drained garden or bed, with full sunlight and free circulation of air, away from tall shrubs and trees.

"Plant chrysanthemums in the late spring — mid-May — when the peonies, iris and tulips are in bloom," he reiterated.

MULCH LATER

"Mulch your chrysanthemums to protect them over the winter," he advised. "Apply the mulch in late November or early December."

* * *

The purpose of the mulch, he said, is to keep the soil uniformly cold once it has frozen, to eliminate alternate freezing and thawing.

Chrysanthemum plants, unless replanted, seldom produce as good a crop the second year as they did the first, Prof. too compact and too crowded. he explained.

Harvest Parsnips During Winter

If you live where soil is unfrozen at times during winter you should harvest parsnips during every open spell.

It doesn't pay to leave them until spring for if they start growing again their taste is going to be bitter when you eat them.

* * *

Just as the starch in the roots changes to sugar when frost arrives in fall, so the sugar changes back to starch with a new season's growth.

The reason many people do not like the taste of parsnips is that they've eaten them after the sugar-starch change.

Put Daffodils in Spring Bed

Golden yellow daffodils nodding in the sun are one of the long-remembered sights of spring. But this fall, consider other daffodils in addition to the familiar large yellow Trumpet types.

Daffodils now come in a large assortment of colors and delicate color combinations. Pinks and lime are just two examples. Bright orange-red cups are contrasted by yellow or pure white petals on some.

Be certain to select some types that will multiply and increase through the years.

Straggly Blades Impede Growth

Don't let your new lawn go into winter with long straggly blades.

The weight of the snow accumulation will mat the young plants into a tangled mass of vegetation and slow down if not kill spring growth.

Too Late Now

Do not prune evergreens, rose bushes or hedges this late, wait until spring.

Sen. Griffin's Prod Foiled Fortas

WASHINGTON (AP) — Robert P. Griffin, the man who sparked the fight that blocked confirmation of Abe Fortas as chief justice, is a back-row senator who bucked President Johnson, leaders of his own party and the nation's legal establishment.

Not that the 44-year-old Michigan Republican, first elected to the Senate two years ago, claims a single-handed victory in forcing Johnson's withdrawal of the nomination Wednesday at Fortas' request.

★ ★ ★

Griffin readily acknowledges that the help of GOP colleagues as well as support from southern Democrats was essential to bringing about the defeat of a nominee for chief justice for the first time since 1795.

Nonetheless, it was the unimposing, soft-spoken senator who spearheaded the drive who turned up much of the ammunition for the opposition.

A BLIND TIP

An example: Griffin got "a blind call" tipping him to the fact that Fortas was paid $15,000 for lecturing at a summer law school seminar out of $30,000 in donations solicited by a former law partner, Paul A. Porter, from five men with far-flung business and financial interests.

He still doesn't know who made the call.

This was said by many senators to have seriously damaged the appointment's chance.

What first started Griffin off was a newspaper item last June 14 saying that Chief Justice Earl Warren ". . . may quit before President Johnson's term runs out. Reason: He hopes to have a voice in selection of his successor."

'NONE OF HIS BUSINESS'

Griffin says his reaction, as a lawyer, was that "That's none of Warren's business."

A week later, before Warren's intention to retire was officially known and before Fortas' nomination was submitted, Griffin made a brief Senate speech saying that "I shall not vote to confirm an appointment of the next chief justice by a lame-duck President."

★ ★ ★

At a Senate Republican Policy Committee luncheon after his Senate speech, Griffin said, he found quite a few of his GOP colleagues agreed.

Griffin and California Sen. George Murphy then circulated a statement declaring the filling of any Supreme Court vacancies should be left to the next president and pledging to oppose any nominees submitted by Johnson in the closing months of his administration.

AFTER NOMINATION

The statement, signed by 18 of the 36 Republican senators, was issued on June 26 shortly after Johnson announced Warren's intent to retire and his nomination of Fortas, an old friend and advisor, to succeed him. At the same time federal Judge Homer Thornberry, another old friend of Johnson's, was nominated to replace Fortas as an associate justice.

Griffin denounced the appointments as examples of "cronyism at its worst" and renewed his objection to nominations by a "lame duck" president, but he says these arguments "didn't catch on with a lot of people."

★ ★ ★

But as the controversy went on, he said, senators ended up with "a basketful" of other reasons for opposing Fortas' confirmation.

At the start Senate GOP leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, dismissed Griffin's fight against the nomination as "frivolous, diaphanous, gossamer." But in the end Dirksen voted against cutting off the filibuster against confirmation.

FILIBUSTER WORKS

The failure of the antifilibuster move, by a 14-vote margin on Tuesday, doomed Fortas' chances and led to the withdrawal of the nomination.

During the judiciary committee's extended hearings, Griffin, who is not a member, fed the members with leads, suggested questions, and possible witnesses.

★ ★ ★

But with all this, Griffin says one factor not to be overlooked is Fortas' unprecedented appearance as a witness at the hearings.

"Fortas' own testimony didn't help him a bit," Griffin remarked in his review of the battle.

Griffin is no stranger to the giant-killer role. His congressional career started in 1956 with a victory over a three-term representative.

MAJOR FORCE

He was a major force in the overthrow of Rep. Charles A. Halleck as GOP leader and he was coauthor of the Landrum-Griffin Act, which was passed over the strenuous objections of the labor movement, a power political force in his home state.

He got into the Senate by appointment after the death of Sen. Patrick V. McNamara, but he won the seat on his own in 1966 by upsetting G. Mennen (Soapy) Williams, a six-term Michigan governor who was considered one of the most powerful figures in Michigan's history.

★ ★ ★

Griffin, a 165-pounder who stands 5-feet-8 and wears thick glasses, plays golf and likes to fish for trout. He cuts his own lawn and cooks breakfast Sunday mornings for his family.

He and his wife, the former Marjorie Anderson of Ludington, Mich., have four children — three boys and a girl. His wife taught school while he was going to the University of Michigan law school after army service in World War II.

Griffin went into the Army as a private and was a artillery forward observer. He spent 14 months overseas and came out of the Army as a corporal.

★ ★ ★

He was born in Detroit and grew up in a house hand-built by his father.

Cardinals Bombed, 8-1

Tigers Unleash Power in Squaring Series

By JERE CRAIG

ST. LOUIS — The predicted pattern of the World Series has emerged in just two games: for the Cardinals and their star pitcher Bob Gibson it's three strikes and sit down; for the Tigers and their power, it's three bombs and lie down.

Three long home runs and an impressive mound outing by Mickey Lolich brought the Detroit club an 8-1 Series-squaring conquest Thursday at Busch Memorial Stadium here before 54,692 fans.

* * *

The talented southpaw combined the talents of teammates Denny McLain and Earl Wilson to reach a plateau not yet achieved by either of the last two 20-game winners on the Tiger hill corps, a victory in the World Series.

This is the first Classic action for all three. McLain never had a chance for his win in the opener because St. Louis ace Gibson was invincible in striking out 17 Bengal batters.

Wilson, meanwhile, has his first opportunity coming up tomorrow when he will oppose Ray Washburn in game No. 3.

But after Al Kaline's two putouts helped him defensively in the opening inning, and slugger Willie Horton rocketed the first Nelson Briles' pitch he saw a good 30 feet beyond the 386-foot marker on the left field wall, Thursday was all Lolich's day.

NO HITTER

Not regarded as a hitter — he had a triple in 1966 and three two-baggers this season as all of his major league extra-basehits; Lolich stunned his mound rival Briles by tomahawking a 2-2 delivery high into the left field seats for the game's second tally.

"The home run was a shock," the motorbike-minded Tiger twirler confessed. "I didn't know where the ball was. I was watching Brock go back and I stepped right over first base when I reached the bag.

"I had to go back and touch it," he added.

* * *

Clean-up hitter Norm Cash jumped on an inside fast ball leading off the fifth inning for another blast deep into the seats and a 3-0 advantage. All three Tiger homers were solid shots.

After Cash's drive there were successive singles by Horton and Jim Northrup. With one man out, Don Wert walked to load the bases, and after Lolich fanned, Dick McAuliffe lined sharply to center field.

TAINTED HIT

Curt Flood came in on the ball but it fell out of his glove as he reached below his knees to make the catch. Two more runs scored and McAuliffe received credit for a safety.

* * *

Kaline — who made a one-out, two-men-on-base sparkling one-handed grab of Orlando Cepeda's foul fly in the first inning — started the seventh with a single, and Cash produced his second single and third hit.

Horton walked to load the bases, but Northrup grounded into a twin-killing, limiting the eruption to just one run.

It did regain the six-run lead that Lolich saw trimmed by one in the preceding frame. The Cardinals' ace speedster again was the culprit.

* * *

He walked and stole second. Curt Flood's infield single moved the runner to third. Cepeda then popped a single to center for the losers' lone run.

Mickey Stanley started a double play on Mike Shannon's hot shot to end the threat. Lolich came through with his second hit, giving him a .500 Series-leading plate average, in the eighth, but a double play halted the uprising.

BULLPEN FALTERS

The Cardinals' shaky relief pitching in which the bullpen was charged with four of the eight runs, yielded two more tallies in the last inning.

Kaline's second single started it. Shannon loused up Cash's bunt attempt and both men were safe. After a sacrifice and a strikeout, Joe Hoerner walked Bill Freehan (the only Tiger regular without a hit) intentionally.

Then Wert and Lolich drew passes to force in two more runs. The pitcher's second RBI ties him with second basemen McAuliffe and Julian Javier for the Series lead.

* * *

The ironic part of Lolich's plate performance is that starter Briles was asked in an earlier interview which of the Tigers would he bear down on the most?

"All eight of them," the 19-game winner replied. "Everybody but the pitcher?" Right," he confirmed.

When asked if Lolich's six-hit, nine-strikeout, two-walk pitching was a typical performance batterymate Freehan was quick to state:

"He doesn't normally hit home runs."

Mayo Glows Over Stanley's Play, HRs

ST. LOUIS — "We've got power; we can reach the fences in any ball park!"

Detroit Tiger manager Mayo Smith wasn't bragging. Relaxing amid a continually changing cluster of writers, and radio - television personnel in the visiting clubhouse following Thursday's display of home run hitting, Smith was just reminding his listeners of the Tigers' 1968 victory formula.

* * *

Mayo did admit, though, that the dramatic home run hit by pitcher Mickey Lolich was a surprise even to him. In addition, the 54-year-old Tiger skipper agreed that the home run in the preceding inning by slugger Willie Horton was a big help.

"Yes, it helped . . . being the first run. I thought the reaction was real good by the rest of the club," Smith said.

* * *

Another pleasing factor for the off-season devotee of golf was the continued good play at shortstop by converted outfielder Mickey Stanley.

"The play he made in the sixth inning was a big lift for us," Smith noted. He was referring to the double play started by Stanley on Mike Shannon. At the time, the Cardinals had a run across and two men on base with one out.

QUICK MOVE

Stanley had to move quickly to his right to make the stop, and then get the ball to second sacker Dick McAuliffe at the bag.

"I thought it was a big play," McAuliffe related. "He made a good throw. I wanted to make sure I had the ball before trying to throw to first."

Veteran outfielder Al Kaline also came through with a clutch defensive play to help Lolich out of a potential first-inning jam.

* * *

He had to come from deep right-centerfield to pick off Orlando Cepeda's foul fly in the first inning with runners at first and second base. Again there was one out. Kaline also retired the next batter on a drive to right-center, ending the early threat.

As soon as Kaline caught Cepeda's long drive with a one-hand grab, he hit a canvas gate that came open. But he whirled and fired a throw to second base without a lost motion.

* * *

Stanley did draw what many thought was an unfair error, the Tigers' fourth in the two games. Curt Flood drilled a grounder past third sacker Don Wert that the new shortstop managed to glove with a back-handed stab deep in the hole.

However, the young standout from Grand Rapids sprawled on the ground in the effort and the ball squirted from his glove and rolled into foul territory.

Stanley just rolled over casually. "I thought the ball was in my glove," he revealed later. When he couldn't find it there, he had to search for it and by the time the recovery was made, the speedy Flood reached second base.

It was scored a single and an error, apparently on the belief it is impossible to hit a double to deep shortstop.

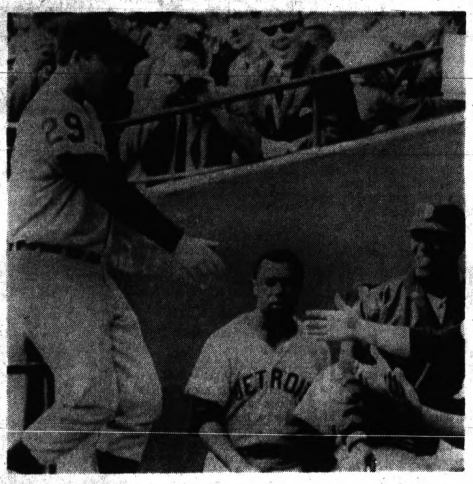
TOUGH TIGER—Detroit southpaw Mickey Lolich shows the form that baffled the St. Louis Cardinals in the second game of the World Series in St. Louis yesterday. Mickey flipped a neat six-hitter in winning, 8-1, and he shared in the offensive fireworks, also, slamming a home run and single.



AP Wirephoto

ATTA BOY, MICK!—Getting the welcome home treatment as he nears the dugout after belting a home run is Detroit pitcher Mickey Lolich, who sent one of Nelson Briles' fast balls sailing into the upper deck in left field in the third inning of the second World Series game in St. Louis yesterday. In background are Willie Horton, who homered in the second, and pitcher Earl Wilson, who'll be on the mound when the Tigers meet the Cards in Tiger Stadium tomorrow.

Both Teams Unimpressed With Series Scout Reports

ST. LOUIS — Perhaps one of the most overemphasized factors at least by the news media in the 1968 World Series is the matter of scouting reports.

"I read the report and won't change my way of pitching," third-game starter Earl Wilson of the Detroit Tigers said Thursday.

The emphasis placed on the value of the scouting reports is about the same on the part of both the Cardinal and Tiger players.

* * *

Catcher Bill Freehan of the Bengals is quite frank in evaluating the importance of the reports for pitching to the Cardinal hitters.

"Scouting reports are good for one thing: They tell you where some guys like to hit the ball," the Tigers standout catcher said Thursday. "The pitcher still has to go with his strength."

Shortstop Dal Maxvill of the defending World Champion Redbirds made two excellent grabs of line drives in the opener, and almost threw out Willie Horton with a sparkling try yesterday. But he wouldn't credit the scouting report with putting him in the right position.

"I've been playing behind Gibby (St. Louis ace hurler Bob Gibson) for several years and thus I have a good idea how he will pitch to certain hitters.

* * *

"I was playing Horton to pull (two of his plays were at Willie's expense) and Northrup straight-away."

* * *

Gibson himself admitted after his brilliant 17-strikeout performance Wednesday that he hadn't payed much attention to the report about the Detroit hitters. The pitchers' comments on both sides agreed; they all were more concerned with pitching in their own style.

* * *

Another value, however, of the scouting reports is to reflect what players — particularly catchers and outfielders — might have throwing troubles or who cannot run very fast.

Bengals Skipper Unsettles Horton With Field Move

If anyone should have been beaming in St. Louis after the Tigers' 8-1 World Series victory Thursday over the Cardinals it was Willie Horton. But he wasn't.

He sat on his dressing room stool, head down and visibly upset.

It was Horton who broke the Series scoring ice for Detroit in the second inning with a home run. But it was the same "Willie the Wonder" who was pulled from leftfield after the sixth inning for what Manager Mayo Smith said were defensive purposes.

* * *

"We won, but I don't like that move," he said, "I've been playing left all year and I'm not that bad a left fielder."

At the top of the seventh inning Smith moved Ray Oyler to shortstop, Mickey Stanley from short to his regular position in centerfield and moved Jim Northrup from center to left.

DO IT AGAIN

"Northrup's got a better arm than Horton," said Smith. "I'll make it (the move) again Saturday if I have to."

On Horton's home run Mayo said: "It was a big thing; it relaxed everyone."

Bill Freehan agreed. "It sort of broke the ice," he said.

But Willie didn't say much about the homer.

"I don't think anyone can beat me at my position," he said.

"I'm going to have a talk with him (Mayo)," Horton said. Wednesday pitcher Denny McLain said the same thing after being disturbed about being taken from the game by Smith after five innings.

Denny in Gay Mood After Talk With Mayo

ST. LOUIS — Denny McLain acknowledged Thursday that he discussed his sixth inning exit in Wednesday's World Series opener with Detroit Manager Mayo Smith after the game.

But the Tigers' pitching ace wouldn't say if he complained to Smith about being yanked.

McLain, somewhat miffed about leaving the game for a pinch hitter in the sixth with the Tigers trailing St. Louis 3-0, indicated in post-game interviews that he might talk about it with Smith.

"I was disappointed," McLain said before Thursday's second game. "We talked. But he's the boss. Whatever he says goes."

Then he quipped: "Until I own my own ball club, I'll do whatever the manager says."

POWER HITTERS — The famed Tiger power that was missing when the Detroiters fell before the St. Louis Cardinals on Wednesday, 5-0, was present yesterday as Norm Cash (from left), Mickey Lolich and Willie Horton clouted home runs to pace an 8-1 Tiger victory.

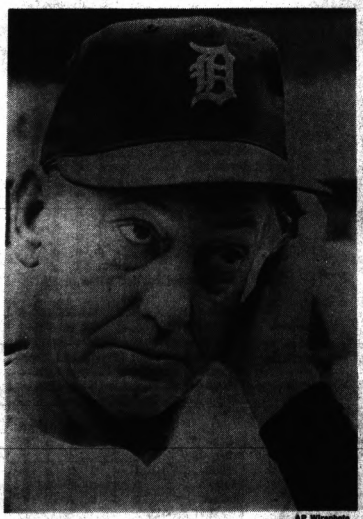
Lolich Has Loss of Energy, Cardinals' Briles Lacks 'Stuff'

Before . . . . . Tiger Hurler Groggy With Pills, Pills, Pills



AP Wirephoto

WORRIED SKIPPER — This is the expression Tiger manager Mayo Smith showed to the world prior to yesterday's second game of the World Series in St. Louis. The apparent glum is understandable. His club had lost a 5-0 decision the day before.

Mickey Lolich had two major problems before he went out to get the Tigers even in the second game of the World Series — keeping his mouth shut and his eyes open.

He managed to do the second, but not the first, and that's how the motorcycle-riding Detroit pitcher became the hero of Thursday's game as he scattered six hits and hit the first homer of his career in an 8-1 victory over St. Louis that tied the series at one victory apiece.

FINDS PROBLEM

Lolich's problems stemmed from a groin infection he first noticed Wednesday night. And, as soon as he got to the ball park Thursday, he reported to the team doctor.

For the next couple of hours, whenever Lolich opened his mouth someone either shoved in a thermometer or some pills.

The pills, in turn, were beginning to put him to sleep.

"I was quite groggy from the pills," Lolich explained. "The doctor said my eyes looked like they were going to sleep. He said I might run out of gas in the middle of the game and that I might get a headache at any time.

★ ★ ★

"I didn't get the headache. But I was woozy all day."

However, Lolich claimed the situation only served to make him a more effective pitcher.

"What happened because of that was I was so concerned about the infection I had no chance to be nervous and with all those pills making me groggy and the energy out of my body, I was completely relaxed.

LACKS ENERGY

"Another thing was that I didn't have enough energy to throw as hard as I usually do and as a result my fastball was sinking more."

Conscious of keeping from feeling any more tired, Lolich proceeded to the mound, where he completely lulled the Cardinals into submission.

★ ★ ★

But pitching under those conditions had to be a little difficult for the wide-awake, fun-loving 28-year-old left-hander who started out in life as a right-hander.

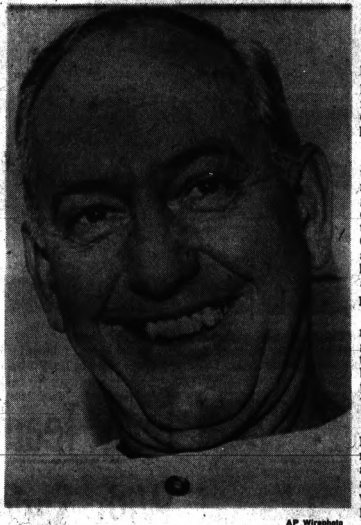
SUCCESSFUL THEFT — Lou Brock of the St. Louis Cardinals slides safely into second base in the eighth inning yesterday as shortstop Ray Oyler makes a big stretch to reach the throw from first baseman Norm Cash at first but Brock beat Cash's toss to second, pitcher Mickey Lolich tossed to Cash at first but Brock beat Cashs toss to second.

After . . . . . Card Starter Finds Homer Embarrassing



AP Wirephoto

OH, HAPPY DAY — The glum reflected by Detroit's Mayo Smith (far left) has obviously disappeared as this picture clearly shows. And there was a good reason for the smile (far right). The Tigers had just beaten the Cardinals in the second game of the World Series.

Nelson Briles knew the Tigers had power, but it took Detroit pitcher Mickey Lolich's home run to convince the St. Louis Cardinal right-hander he didn't have anything.

★ ★ ★

Briles sat at his locker and talked about the three home runs he had given up as the Tigers evened the World Series at one game apiece with a 8-1 victory Thursday over the St. Louis Cardinals. There wasn't exactly a gala air in the Cardinals' clubhouse, but nobody moped around, either.

PROVES POINT

"Lolich's home run proved right there I didn't have very good stuff," Briles admitted. "I tried to move the ball around, but it was no good. I tried to get the ball in on a hitter and it went out over the plate.

★ ★ ★

"Today was just typical of the last month of the season for me," the dark-haired Briles added. "I didn't have good stuff and I'm not able to do what I want. My breaking ball was pretty good, though."

★ ★ ★

Briles won 19 games during the regular season, missed 20 because of a bad September.

All three homers came off fastballs.

★ ★ ★

"I gave it all I had," Nellie said, "which evidently wasn't too much."

Willie Horton's second-inning homer was off "a very good pitch," Briles said. "It was down and it was away."

Then Lolich hit his in the third inning.

★ ★ ★

"I never get embarrassed when anybody does anything," Briles stressed, "because they're here for a reason and when anything happens, you have to give them credit. He had to hit it."

★ ★ ★

Briles lasted only long enough to face two men in the sixth, but he was surprised he was around that long.

★ ★ ★

"This is a World Series and you can't afford to go too long with anybody," Briles said. "They stayed with me longer than I thought they would. They hoped I would battle my way out of it."

Because . . . . .

LONG DAY — St. Louis manager Red Schoendienst is downcast as he waits for a long day to end.

Ex-Shortstop of Cubs Lauds Stanley's Play

DETROIT (UPI) — The ballplayer having the most fun at this World Series isn't even in it.

He's wearing an amazed look about the whole thing because this is as close as he's ever been to a World Series during his 15 major league seasons, working press credentials on his left lapel because he's doing daily telephone interviews for a Chicago radio station, and a perpetual smile on his face because 37-year-old Ernie Banks loves the whole world and doesn't care who knows it.

★ ★ ★

"I never had so much fun in my life," he said Thursday waiting in the recesses of Busch Memorial Stadium along with more than 100 others from the various news media for the game between the Tigers and Cardinals to finish so he could go do his work.

LAUDS STANLEY

"What do you think of that Mickey Stanley at shortstop?" someone asked the Cubs' ex-shortstop about Detroit's converted center fielder.

★ ★ ★

"Magnificent," said Ernie Banks. "That double play he made on Shannon was tremendous. It was a big play, too. If he doesn't make it, that could've been trouble for Detroit. Big trouble."

Willie Horton, pitcher Mickey Lolich and Norm Cash all hit home runs for the Tigers in Thursday's second game at St. Louis but Ernie Banks didn't get overly excited about the blows.

ERNIE EXCITED

He has seen a home run before. He has hit a few himself. Four hundred seventy-four to be exact. What he did get excited about was the way Mickey Stanley, ordinarily a center fielder, played a new position, shortstop, which is Ernie Banks' old position. He broke in at shortstop for the Cubs and played there eight years. He has been playing first base for them the last seven.

"When you move away from your old position you kinda watch the guy playing your old position," said Banks. "I talked to Pee Wee Reese about that the other day and he said the same thing.

"I still consider shortstop my position. I know I'm playing first base now but that first position is the one you always associate yourself with. That's why I'm so interested in Mickey Stanley. Isn't he something?"

Saturday Night's Games
Dayton at Pontiac
Flint at Hamtramck
Ypsilanti at Lackawanna

Still clinging to mathematical hopes, the Pontiac Firebirds went through a fired-up workout last night looking for an upset of highly favored Dayton Saturday night at Wisner Stadium.

The Firebirds have four games left to play, three of which will be at Wisner Stadium.

Dayton has five games remaining on the schedule and three of them are on the road against the toughest challengers in the Midwest Football League.

★ ★ ★

The Colts, with Pistol Pete Mikolajewski leading the league in TD passes and total offense, must play at Flint and at Lackawanna after the Firebirds' game.

DEFEAT EVERYONE

Dayton has defeated every team in the league, taking close home decisions against Lackawanna, Pontiac and Ypsilanti.

The possibility of a two-way or even a four-way tie is mathematical and should this come about, the MFL has considered playoff possibilities.

★ ★ ★

The Firebirds have had a boost in morale with the addition of quarterback Doug Holcomb, former Purdue signal caller who is expected to play against Dayton tomorrow night.

The big thing however for the Firebirds will be to stop Pistol Pete, whose aerials have demolished MFL defenses, including four touchdowns against Pontiac in their first meeting this season.

Saturday night, with nearly 1,000 Oakland County retirees in attendance, the Firebirds have a program featuring the Waterford High band, the display of 1969 Pontiac models and the awarding of two box seats for Monday's World Series game in Detroit.

A booth for retirees will be set up on the Cass Avenue side of the stadium and proceeds of retiree ticket sales will go to the 12 county units for their activities fund.

★ ★ ★

Next Saturday night, the Firebirds have another important home contest with Lackawanna Lancers, also a strong title contender.

Lakers' Homecoming Is Farewell to Coach

There's a certain something about an individual's performance, solo or as a team, that's absolutely necessary for success but it's a part of the over-all picture that can't be measured.

The something is enthusiasm, and all individuals and teams have it, to a lesser or greater degree.

★ ★ ★

A young man with the ability to instill this something in a team is Mike Boyd, 26, of Waterford Our Lady of Lakes, who'll guide the Lakers for the final time this season tomorrow night in a home game against St. Francis de Sales.

BOYD IN ARMY

It's a Homecoming game in one respect, and a farewell contest in another — for Mike — and the play opens at 7:30 at Kettering High School field.

Young Mike, a commissioned officer in the R.O.T.C., has been called to active duty and he'll report to Fort Benjamin Harrison in Indiana next Friday and he'll eventually wind up in Texas.

★ ★ ★

Losing is sokmething the Lakers have done little of in Mike's three years at Waterford OLL. They were down in football last year, skidding to a 1-7 record, but they're on the way back now and certain to play a major role in who takes the Northwest Catholic championship.

SEE TITLE AHEAD

The Lakers are 2-1. Another loss and they're out of it. They know that. But the picture they have in mind is that Ferndale St. James (3-0) will defeat Pontiac Catholic (3-0) Sunday. Then Waterford OLL would defeat St. James, leaving all with at least one loss, thus giving the Lakers an opportunity to share or win the title. That's the way it's outlined.

★ ★ ★

In Mike's first two years at WOLL, the Lakers rolled up a football record of 14-0. With last year's results, he's now 15-7, or 17-8 counting the first three games of this campaign. During the same three years, the Lakers posted a basketball mark of 32-18, climaxing it with a trip to the state semifinals last year.

COMEBACK TRAIL

The Lakers are on a comeback trail this season in football. "I'm getting more confident now and they are too," says Boyd. "We were coming back on the bus from Farmington Sunday (WOLL won, 25-13) and (quarterback Jim) Tracey says, 'Coach, I feel now like we can score when we get the ball.'

★ ★ ★

"They know now that they can move the ball," says Boyd, who referred to the '67 season when the Lakers had trouble putting the ball across the goal line.

ADDED INCENTIVE

"And knowing they can win the title gives them a lot incentive, too," adds Mike.

★ ★ ★

The Lakers are thin, but talented. End Pat McColgan, tackle Pat Harris and guards Bryan Satuve and Dave Boyea have provided the offensive blocking for runners Roy Lilley, Tracey, Mike Webster, Tim Hagan and Dave Calme.

All of those double on offense, and in the defensive department, Boyd says Mike Ottman, Jerry Yezbick and Jon Weston have picked up a big share of the load. And they all have that enthusiasm.

Grid Picture Clears in Area Prep Loops

The football picture in area high school leagues should be in a little sharper focus after tonight's results are in.

Locally, Pontiac Central's Chiefs have a 7:30 p.m. date at Wisner Stadium with No. 3 ranked Saginaw providing the opposition in a Saginaw Valley Conference contest.

TOPS IN STATE

In perhaps the top SVC game and the top one in high school circles around the state, No. 1 ranked Bay City Central plays host to No. 7 rated Midland. Both are unbeaten (3-0) and the winner will be in a key position to take the SVC championship.

★ ★ ★

In the Inter-Lakes League, unbeaten Walled Lake (3-0) journeys to Livonia Stevenson (3-0) and the winner there will sit alone at the top in the league race. Pontiac Northern (1-1-1) was at Farmington this afternoon, while Waterford (2-1) was attempting to keep its title hopes alive in a home game against Southfield Lathrup.

At least one of three teams sporting unbeaten marks in league play will fall in the Wayne-Oakland tonight.

★ ★ ★

The key W-O game finds West Bloomfield (2-1) with a 2-0 record in the loop, visiting Northville (1-0 in the league) which has polished off three straight foes.

Bloomfield Hills Andover, heading the W-O with a 2-0 mark, will be wary of an upset in a trip to Milford (1-1), where the Redskins may still be smarting from a 60-25 shellacking last week at West Bloomfield.

Other W-O games find Clarkston at Kettering and Brighton at Clarenceville.

ROCHESTER TRAVELS

Rochester (3-0) is sitting atop the Oakland A at present with a 2-0 mark and the Falcons are favored to make it 3-0 at Romeo (1-0-1) tonight.

Other O-A games have Troy at Avondale, Clawson at Lake Orion and Utica at Madison.

A big collision in the Southeastern Michigan Association finds Ferndale ranked fourth in the state, taking on Royal Oak Kimball on the Kimball field. Both are 1-0 in league outings.

The other SEMA games have Hazel Park at Southfield and Berkley at Birmingham Seaholm, the latter will have both teams looking for the first victory.

Turbo Crashes, Driver Unhurt, Car Demolished

ADRIAN (AP) — An STP turbocar crashed during a practice run at the Michigan International Raceway Wednesday and was demolished during tire tests. Driver Art Pollard escaped unhurt as the car crashed after running lap speeds in excess of 182 miles per hour.

★ ★ ★

The only STP turbocar of an original group of five now left to compete in the four remaining U-S Auto Club championship races is one owned by racing star Parnelli Jones and driven by Joe Leonard. Jones was recently suspended by the United States Auto Club after an argument over the results of a stock car race and can't enter the car in the inaugural 200-mile race Oct. 13 at Michigan International Speedway unless he sells it to another owner or is re-instated by U.S.A.C.

Warriors Top Lakers

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Bill Turner hit a jump shot with 30 seconds to play Thursday night in leading the San Francisco Warriors to a 106-103 victory over the previously unbeaten Los Angeles Lakers in a National Basketball Association exhibition.

Oxford Rolls Past Chippewa Valley

With the first team taking a day off, Oxford's cross-country reserves filled the gap and posted a 23-35 victory over Chippewa Valley yesterday.

Chris Ternes of Chippewa Valley won the race in a time of 12:00 but Oxford grabbed the next five spots.

George Willobee led the way, followed by Jeff McQueen, Jim Parenti, Paul Marshall and John Sefton. The win raised Oxford's record to 7-1.

Grid Win Eludes Wisconsin Coach

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — It's a good thing Wisconsin Coach John Coatta isn't superstitious. If he were, he probably wouldn't want to show up Saturday when his football Badgers tackle Michigan State in Camp Randall Stadium.

The game will be the 13th since Coatta assumed the head coaching position at the outset of the 1967 season.

* * *

The record for the first 12 games reads like a series of disasters.

And Coatta, with a 0-11-1 record, is still looking for his first victory as a head coach.

"No, I'm not superstitious," Coatta said. "But maybe this will be lucky No. 13" against Michigan State.

Lady Luck appeared to be riding with Wisconsin in the final quarter of the Washington game last week, but the Badger rally fell short and the Huskies held on for a 21-17 triumph.

Senior John Ryan went all the way at quarterback for the Badgers and connected on 16 out of 35 passes for 137 yards.

But six interceptions clouded his performance, and Coatta was undecided about a starting quarterback against Michigan State.

Lew Ritcherson, who opened the season at quarterback in Wisconsin's 55-7 loss to Arizona State, is a better runner than Ryan but isn't as accurate a passer, Coatta says.

Another backup quarterback is Bob Schaffner, a senior who hasn't played quarterback since his freshman year.

"We might contemplate throwing him in there," Coatta said. "I don't know if we can do that or not, though."

Injuries continued to plague the Badgers as they prepared for the Spartans. Linebacker Ken Criter, 217 pound senior and last year's leading tackler in the Big Ten, was sidelined with a head injury.

Defensive end Gary Waive and center Karl Rundat also were out indefinitely with injuries suffered against Washington.

The Spartans, who own a 14-10 victory over Syracuse and a 28-10 triumph over Baylor, were described by Coatta as a "solid" team.

"It's the same old Michigan State . . . wild and hairy," said Coatta.

The Spartans own a 3-1 advantage over the Badgers, who have lost four straight to Michigan State.

Rochester Ups Harrier Record

Rochester's cross-country team ran its record to 6-0 yesterday with an 18-44 victory over Romeo.

Keith Wattles set the pace for Rochester with a 10:57 clocking. Trailing Wattles were Ed Griffis (2), Doug Hauk (4), Bob Sanderson (5), Cal McDaniel (6) and Dave Arnold (7). Cliff Jarrett placed third for Romeo.

Crack Back Blocks Explained by Duffy

By DUFFY DAUGHERTY
Head Football Coach
Michigan State University

This might be a good time to explain some football terminology used by coaches, players and commentators. Apparently some of the terms are unknown to the new fans college football educates each Saturday.

For instance, in our game against the Baylor Bears they had two roverbacks injured on what we call "crack back blocks."

PLAY DEVELOPS

The crack back block occurs when one of your players is lined up as a flanker or split end. As the play develops in his direction he moves to the inside laterally and blocks a unsuspecting linebacker or defensive man who is busy watching the play develop.

* * *

It's a rough but legitimate block. A crack back block is similar to being hit on the blind side on a punt return play.

We always instruct our man making the crack back block to make sure he has an angle and not to block the defensive man when his back is turned. To do this would be clipping which is a 15-yard penalty.

We try to add humor to the crack back play by having what we call a "look out" signal. We have one of our backs yell "look out!"

Red dog blitz, shooting the gap and fire all mean the same thing for a certain defensive maneuver. Different coaches and writers will use any one of these terms to describe a linebacker or a defensive back who drives across the line hoping to nail the quarterback for a loss.

CREATE GAP

What happens on this play is that two linemen try to create a gap or a hole in the offensive line so that the linebacker or defensive back can wriggle his way through that hole and tackle the quarterback before he passes or hands off.

However, there are risks involved in shooting the gap because a defensive back doing this must give up one or more of his defensive responsibilities.

* * *

Many fans feel a screen pass occurs after a passing play breaks down. Not so. A screen pass is a planned play in which the offensive linemen charged with protecting the passer will block for a couple of counts, then will move laterally to the outside where they will be joined by an offensive back who blocked the defensive end and then slipped by him.

As this back slips past the end he usually has three blockers in front of him to create interference. A screen pass gives a team a lot of protection against an interception.

Most forward passing patterns tell a receiver where to wind up. For example, a "split end post" is where the receiver ends up near the goal post on his side. "Split end flag" means the pass catcher will line up wide and head for the nearest corner flag.

Even I get a kick out of the "look in pass." This is where the receiver fakes a look at a defender and makes believe he is putting deep pressure on him. It's a quickie play but involves a lot of faking.

'M' Absolved of Alleged Athletic Rules Violations

CHICAGO (AP) — The Big Ten absolved the University of Michigan Thursday of any rules violations alleged in a story last February 9, by the Michigan Daily, student publication.

The conference released a 21-page review of its investigation which will be turned over to the league's athletic directors.

A clean bill of health was given with one exception. It pertains to a transaction involving Cecil Pryor, a reserve junior football linebacker from Corpus Christi, Tex., and Y C McNease, former assistant Wolverine coach and now head football coach at Idaho.

The student publication alleged that athletes received discounts from local businessmen, free meals and clothing, movie theater passes, alumni payoffs, ticket selling, unpaid university loans, automobile gifts, and other violations.

REMEDIAL ACTION

"With the exception of the loan transaction, it is my considered judgment," said Big Ten Commissioner Bill Reed in the report, "that with respect to the allegations received and investigated either there is not sufficient grounds for believing a violation occurred or that a remedial action taken is adequate.

* * *

"In general, the published allegations, and most of that which was developed as supplementary, can be classified as the product of an undercurrent of misinformation, consisting of rumor and partial facts, which undoubtedly exists on every college campus where there is a highly publicized program of intercollegiate athletics," Reed continued.

"It is my earnest hope that the paucity of rules violations brought forward in the extensive investigation. . .may lay to rest some of that prevailing undercurrent."

* * *

In a similar report under similar allegations Michigan State was absolved by the Big Ten in August. In that case, Gordon Serr, assistant football coach, was reprimanded by Reed for being too free and easy in allowing players to make long distance emergency telephone calls and charging them to him.

The transaction exception at Michigan, which athletic directors will consider, involved Pryor's arrest on an assault and battery charge. Reed said Pryor called McNease for help and McNease paid his $25 bond and $57 in parking fines. The next day in court, Pryor was fined $15 and costs on the assault and battery charge.

* * *

"At the time, McNease considered it a loan to Pryor but no repayment was made," said Reed. "McNease treated it as a matter between himself and the boy and no one else on the staff knew about it.

Michigan Host to Midshipmen

Forget Navy Defeats, Warns Elliott

ANN ARBOR (AP) —"Don't sell Navy short" is the word the Michigan coaching staff has been passing out to the Wolverines for this Saturday's football game in Ann Arbor.

★ ★ ★

Coach Bump Elliott said the Midshipmen, despite convincing losses in their first two outings this season, are better than the scores made them look.

★ ★ ★

"Navy played a lot better than the score would indicate," Elliott said of Navy's 49-15 loss to Boston College last week. The Midshipmen opened their season by falling to Penn State 31-6.

UPSET IN '67

Last season, the Wolverines were upset 26-21 by a Navy squad most observers feel was considerably stronger than the current team.

★ ★ ★

Elliott described Navy as "opportunist." He said "they will take advantage of every mistake we make. That's how they beat us last year."

★ ★ ★

In 10 previous games with Navy, Michigan has won four, lost five and tied one, and the Wolverines will be out to even the series Saturday.

Michigan will go into the game with the momentum of a 31-10 victory over Duke last week. The defeat of Duke evened Michigan's season record at 1-1.

FEW CHANGES

Elliott said few changes in either offense or defense are planned for the contest. Two faces will be in the offensive starting lineup.

★ ★ ★

Sophomore Paul Staroba will play at flankerback in place of junior John Gabler, who has been sidelined with a neck injury. Saroba played the second half of the Duke game and was effective despite his lack of experience. He made two key pass receptions which set up a Wolverine field goal.

★ ★ ★

Junior Richard Caldarazzo will start at guard in place of Bob Baumgartner, who underwent knee surgery this week and will be out for the season.

★ ★ ★

On defense, senior Bob Wedge will start at safety in place of Barry Pierson who is out with a shoulder injury.

TOP DEFENDER—Detroit's Lem Barney is Associated Press' defensive player of the week in the Natoinal Football League. The second year pro intercepted a pass and made several key tackles as the Lions defeated Green Bay Sunday, 23-17.

Lions Get Nod by Wire Picker

ST. LOUIS (AP) — If Bob Gibson were throwing for the St. Louis football Cardinals Sunday, the Red Birds would figure to have a better chance against that Dallas powerhouse.

★ ★ ★

As Gibson will be busy in Tiger Stadium, it looks like another loss for Charley Winner's Cards, and a fourth straight victory for the Cowboys, highest scoring club in the National Football League.

In fact, the four unbeaten teams in the NFL should come through again. Baltimore has to handle the Chicago Bears, who woke up last week. Los Angeles has to deal with Dick Nolan's aroused San Francisco 49ers and the New York Giants may be pressed by the New Orleans Saints, who are beginning to believe in themselves.

NFL

Cleveland 28, Pittsburgh 17—(Saturday night)—Always a tough game although Browns hold a big edge in series.

Dallas 35, St. Louis 14—Don Meredith hitting the bullseye and that rugged defense is dismembering quarterbacks.

Baltimore 33, Chicago 14—Earl Morrall still doing great job filling in for John Unitas.

Los Angeles, 24, San Francisco 17—Always a war and no reason to expect anything different.

New York 31, New Orleans 21—Giants clicked on all cylinders against Redskins last week with the old Fran Tarkenton-Homer Jones firm back in business.

Green Bay 27, Atlanta 17—Packers, burning after dropping two in a row.

Detroit 21, Minnesota 20—A real toughie. Lions looking like team to be reckoned with now that Bill Munson is in control.

Washington 31, Philadelphia 27—All out for the races. Sonny Jurgensen should have field day against Eagle defense and Philadelphia runners should move on Redskins.

AFL

Kansas City 31, Buffalo 14 (Saturday night)—Bills can't figure to get cooperation they got from Joe Namath last week when they intercepted five passes.

San Diego 30, New York 24 (Saturday night)—Unbeaten Chargers will have work cut out for them as Jets rebound from Buffalo disaster.

Oakland 35, Boston 10—Raiders heading for repeat title.

Cincinnati 23, Denver 17—Surprising Bengals seem to have edge while Broncs experiment.

Houston 30, Miami 10—Oilers played strong game despite loss to Oakland.

Lions' Lem Barney Collects AP Award

NEW YORK (AP) — Lem Barney isn't a familiar name in the National Football League, but give him time. Give him time.

Barney, is a defensive back for the Detroit Lions, made two brilliant defensive plays last Sunday that inspired the Lions to a come-from-behind 23-17 victory over the champion Green Bay Packers.

★ ★ ★

The plays that turned the game around and led to Green Bay's second straight defeat earned Barney the nod Thursday as the NFL Defensive Player of the Week by The Associated Press.

★ ★ ★

Barney, Detroit's No. 2 draft pick after the 1966 college season, is playing his second year of pro ball. The 22-year-old, 6-foot, 185-pounder was a defensive standout for Jackson, State Miss., College.

SPECTACULAR

The spectacular plays by Barney came in the second period at Green Bay with the Packers ahead 10-0 and apparently driving for another touchdown.

★ ★ ★

Green Bay had the ball on the Detroit eight when Barney slipped inside two blockers for a spectacular tackle that dropped Donny Anderson for no gain.

The aroused Lions threw Bart Starr for a loss on the next play, third down, and Jerry Kramer missed a field goal try.

A few minutes later Barney leaped in front of Marv Fleming and intercepted a Starr pass to halt another threat. Quarterback Bill Munson took over in the second half as the Lions rallied to win.

Other outstanding defensive plays were made by Spider Lockhart of the New York Giants, Leroy Jordan of the Dallas Cowboys and Bubba Smith of the Baltimore Colts.

Houston Loses QB Beathard

HOUSTON (AP) — Quarterback Pete Beathard of Houston Oilers underwent surgery Thursday night for acute gangrenous appendicitis and will be out of action for five weeks.

An oiler spokesman said Beathard had been bothered off and on since the exhibition season with stomach pains.

The spokesman said Beathard should be able to start working out in three weeks and play again in five weeks.

Pontiac Northern in Harrier Win

Butch Shelton and Andy Liddy ran one-two yesterday in pacing Pontiac Northern to a 22-37 cross-country victory over Waterford.

Trailing those two in the PNH scoring column were Tom Knibbs (4), George Pickering (7) and Gary Sherwood (8).

Dewain Russell placed third for Waterford. Shelton won with a time of 10:25.

Games Green Light Given by Brundage

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The 19th Olymiad is like a tale of two cities, one of friendly athletic youth of the world and the other of riot-blooded Mexican college students.

And Thursday an amazing 81-year-old man, President Avery Brundage of the International Olympic Committee, apparently prevented the first cancellation of the Games because of a youth rebellion.

With the start of the Olympics only nine days off, Brundage took the word of reassuring Mexican authorities and proclaimed the Games would start as scheduled despite the most recent bloody gun battle between military and militant students Wednesday night.

★ ★ ★

Brundage, who next week may be elected to serve four more years in the IOC presidency he has held since 1952, ostensibly scored another in a long series of difficult administrative victories in squashing rampant rumors the Mexico Games would be called off.

IN CONFERENCE

After leading an IOC Executive Committee conference with Pedro Ramirez Vazquez, chairman of the Mexican Organizing Committee, Brundage issued a brief but straight-forward statement for which several hundred members of the world press clamored for hours Thursday.

"The Games of the 19th Olympiad, a friendly gathering of the youth of the world in amicable competition, will proceed as scheduled," said Brundage's statement issued in English, French and Spanish.

★ ★ ★

"We have conferred with the Mexican authorities and we have been assured that nothing will interfere with the peaceful entrance of the Olympic flame into the stadium on Oct. 12, nor with the competitions which follow."

Asked what measures could prevent still a third major outbreak of bloody violence in the drawn-out, bitter student strike, Brundage said:

★ ★ ★

"We must rely on the prevailing of proper authority against disorder, or we no longer have authority," said Brundage, still alert dispute a minimum of sleep since his arrival here Sunday.

GREEN LIGHT

Brundage, in giving a green light to the Games which will draw a record 7,000 athletes from more than 200 nations, also scored a behind-the-scenes triumph.

★ ★ ★

Earlier Thursday, Brundage was confronted with an ultimatum from Guilio Onesti, president of the Italian Olympic Committee and head of a newly formed assembly of national Olympic committees.

★ ★ ★

Onesti demanded that Brundage apply for formal assurance from Mexican officials that the Games could be conducted without incident, or that he (Onesti) would have the national Olympic committees make such a request.

★ ★ ★

"Mr. Onesti has the right to do any thing he pleases," said Brundage, adding: "The IOC will do what it regards necessary for the best interest and welfare of the Olympic movement."

Onesti and Count Jean de Beaumont, 63, millionaire banker who is president of the French Olympic Committee, are regarded possible presidential rivals to Brundage in next week's balloting for the office in the full IOC meeting.

On College Grid Slate

Houston Back in Spotlight

By the Associated Press

It was hard to hit home runs in the Astrodome during the summer and it may be even tougher to throw them this fall.

A major test will come tonight when 12th-ranked Houston, with a pass defense that rates fifth nationally and is led by Johnny Peacock with three interceptions, entertains Cincinnati and gets the college football weekend under way.

The Bearcats' quarterback, Greg Cook, is among the passing leaders with 33 completions in 62 attempts for 419 yards. Houston's ground game, featuring Paul Gipson's 288 yards and four touchdowns, ranks fourth in the country.

BEST MATCH

The weekend's best matchup comes Saturday night in Los Angeles when O.J. Simpson, off to the second-fastest ground-gaining start in history, and second-ranked Southern California run into—and possibly over and around—Miami of Florida, ranked 13th, and its great defensive end, 6-foot-8 Hendricks. Both were All-Americans last season.

The Simpson-Hendricks duel Saturday night is a figure filbert's delight. Simpson has scored all of Southern Cal's seven touchdowns and is tied for the national scoring lead with 42 points in two games.

His 425 yards rushing is only No. 3 nationally but the two in front of him have both played three games. Simpson's two-game start has been surpassed only once in major college history—Dick Bass of Pacific rolled up 427 yards in 1958—and his average of 212.5 yards per game is higher than 33 entire major teams.

On the other hand, Miami is seventh in rushing defense and tied for seventh in scoring defense, having yielded only 14 points in two games. Last week, Hendricks recovered two fumbles and anchored a defense that held Georgia Tech to minus three yards rushing in the second half.

Saturday afternoon naturals find West Virginia, whose quarterback, Mike Sherwood, is third in total offense and fifth in pass completions, at third-ranked Penn State, second in both total defense and rushing defense, and Florida, No. 5 in The Associated Press poll and No. 9 in total defense, hosting aerial-minded Mississippi State, whose Sammy Milner is fifth in pass-catching with 17 receptions for 198 yards.

Fifth-ranked Notre Dame, a passing terror, at Iowa, eighth in pass defense.

The Fighting Irish dropped three places in The AP poll after losing to Purdue a week ago, but they're third in total offense and eighth in passing and quarterback Terry Hanratty is sixth in individual total offense and fourth in pass completions and split end Jim Seymour is seventh in receptions.

Purdue, the No. 1 team in the nation, is at Northwestern for a Big Ten clash. The Boilermakers, led by halfback Leroy Keyes, quarterback Mike Phipps and split end Bob Dillingham, are eighth in both total offense and scoring, seventh in passing.

WATERY PROBLEM — Billy Casper removes his shoes and socks before wading into a water-filled bunker to hit a shot on the 14th hole during the second round of the Alcan Golf of the Year championship yesterday in Southport, England.

In Alcan Golf

New Pros Share First

SOUTHPORT, England — Bob Murphy of Nichols, Fla., and Bobby Cole of South Africa, amateurs less than a year ago, took the lead after 36 holes Thursday in the $200,000 Alcan Golf Tournament with its first prize of $55,000.

Murphy, U.S. Amateur champion in 1966 and winner of almost $100,000 on the pro tour in a hot spurt late this summer, added a five-under-par 69 to his 72 Wednesday for a 141. Cole, only 20, posted 71-70..

They lead the select field of 23 competitors by two strokes. There were 24 starters on Wednesday but George Archer of Gilroy, Calif., withdrew because of a sore throat and chills.

Archer was a victim of the miserable weather which has plagued this tournament over the 7,140-yard Royal Birkdale layout near the Irish Sea. The par 74 course has been battered by slashing rains for more than a week.

Murphy had more trouble keeping his ever-present cigar alight in the dampness than he had with his golf. He missed only two fairways on his round. In reverse, Cole had some trouble off the tees but used only 25 putts.

The American's second round score was the lowest of the soggy day, although it was equalled by Peter Butler and Peter Townsend, both of England.

Weather conditions were somewhat better than previously. The week-long rains turned to a mere drizzle toward noon and there actually was a brief time after lunch when no rain fell at all.

* * *

The brief drought helped Bob Charles of New Zealand most and he came in with a 70 for 143, which brought him into a tie for third with Butler.

S. Carolina Golfer Leads Ladies' Event

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Mrs. Phillip Cudone of Myrtle Beach, S.C. held a two-stroke lead over two-time winner Mrs. Hulet Smith of Pebble Beach, Calif., as today's final round of the Senior Women's Amateur Golf Championships began.

Each shot a four over par 79 Thursday in the second day of the tournament. Mrs. Cudone started the tournament Wednesday with an 80, two strokes better than Mrs. Smith, and entered the final 18 with a 159 total.

Mrs. Ruth McCullah of Pacific Palisades, Calif., was third at 82-84—166.

The defending champion, Mrs. Marge Mason of West Englewood, N.J., was fourth at 87-80—167.

BOWLING

Ed Frenak easily took high series laurels last week in the 300 Bowl Classic by rolling a 223-228-643, outdistancing runner-up Irv Killian's 200-234-626.

But the high game honors were only decided by one point. Ed Hagan took them with his 255, just nipping Walt Rennhack.

Mel Booth was a 205-220—615 performer.

The new high game mark in the "300" Ladies All Star is Bonnie Nugent's 242 during a 589 series last Friday. Laura Smith's 622 is the high series. Jackie Haxer last week had 206—595.

* * *

A 235 by Dee Driver paced the Huron Bowl Ladies Classic last week. Peg Carter hit 223 while the series laurels went to Norma Stasiuk with a fine 219—612. Terry Grant had 577.

The team efforts included Huntoon's 923—2709, and 908—2564 by Oxford Mattress.

Prep Front

By FLETCHER SPEARS

Surprises are nice and beneficiary of a pleasant one this fall is coach Lynn Reed of the Highland Lakes campus of Oakland Community College.

When Reed called roll among the candidates for the Highlanders cross-country squad, he found a gem.

On hand was Roger Cleaver, current holder of the state high school 880-yard record of 1:53.0—also a regional record-holder with a 1:55.3 time—one of the most sought after prep runners in Detroit this past year.

Cleaver, a graduate of Detroit Kettering, won Detroit and state regional cross-country titles as a prep, and this fall he has sparked the Highlanders to a 7-0 record and given them reason to think of national honors.

CLEAVER

Reed was one of a crowd of coaches seeking the services of young Cleaver, and since he had nothing to offer in the form of scholarships, etc., he was a bit surprised when Cleaver enrolled at Highland Lakes.

Opponents are a little surprised, too, at Cleaver's speed. He's the current holder of the Highlanders record of 16:38, and he and his teammate will entertain a strong Flint Community College team Friday.

BIG LITTLE GUY

The big guys are having a hard time catching pint-sized halfback Ron Thrushman of Port Huron Northern in the Eastern Michigan League.

* * *

Little Ron, a 135-pound, 5-5 junior, has tallied 10 touchdowns and five extra points in three games and the Port Huron squad has a 3-0 record and is making a bid to break into the state's 10 top-ranked teams.

* * *

"He's come a long ways," says Bob Hayes, athletic director at PH Northern. "He's real fast and we think his change of pace is his greatest forte."

CHANGE OF MIND

It probably won't matter now, but Waterford Kettering is eligible for the football championship in the Wayne-Oakland League.

In its first year, Kettering originally was told it would play only for the sake of playing since scheduling problems prevented the team from playing Northville, one of the W-O members.

* * *

Last Thursday that was changed. The league agreed that the Captains should figure in the title picture and they set it up on a percentage basis.

With that in mind the Captains took on their first foe — Bloomfield Hills Andover—and lost Friday afternoon, 34-0.

SHARP SPARTAN

Ken Heft, a product of Birmingham Seaholm, was awarded the game ball by the Spartans of Michigan State University for his play in MSU's 28-10 victory over Baylor.

* * *

A senior defensive halfback, Heft (5-8, 162) turned a sparkling job at his post on the right corner and almost pulled off a couple of interceptions.

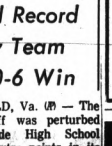
Another Oakland County product still performing well for the Spartans is offensive tackle Craig Wycinsky, a 214-pound junior from North Farmington.

TOP TEN

The top 10 football teams in Oakland County:

1. Walled Lake (3-0); 2. Ferndale (3-0); 3. B. Hills Andover (3-0); 4. Pontiac Northern (1-1-1); 5. Northville (3-0); 6. West Bloomfield (3-1); 7. North Farmington (2-0-1); 8. Madison (2-0-1; 9. Rochester (3-0); 10. Waterford (2-1).

Former Pontiac Northern star Craig Deaton has moved into the starting role as quarterback with the Carthage College eleven at Kenosha, Wis.



DEATON

A freshman, 165-pound Deaton moved into the No. 1 spot following a sharp performance in a 21-14 loss to Alma two weeks ago.

Carthage had a good line on Deaton. Head coach at Pontiac Northern is Dave Schmidt, brother of the defensive backfield coach at Carthage, Augie Schmidt.

Drysdale Wins Tennis Match

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — South African Cliff Drysdale won his second-round singles match in the Johannesburg Professional Tennis Championships, beating Frenchman Pierre Barthes 6-0, 8-6.

* * *

Earl Buchholz of St. Louis defeated Nicki Pilic of Yugoslavia 9-7, 6-4 in another match.

PTTA Gets Season Going

Stefanski Video blanked Arby's Drive-In last night, 6-0, in the opening round of the Pontiac Table Tennis Association competition.

Buettner Cleaners and Capitol Barbership share the American Division lead after posting 5-1 decisions. Stefanski is atop the National Division.

Competition Slated

PPK to Start Saturday

Area youngsters interested in kicking or passing a football will have an opportunity to do it competitively in the Ford-sponsored Punt, Pass & Kick contest which opens locally on Saturday.

Competition is slated for Oct. 5 at the Wisner Stadium practice field from 8 a.m. until noon with the Pontiac Optimist Club supervising the event in cooperation with John McAuliffe Ford. Entry forms are available a McAuliffe Ford for boys in the 8-13 age group. And contestants may pre-register at the dealership.

TOP 5 ADVANCE

The top five in each age group at the Oct. 5 competition will then advance to the local finals to be held at halftime of the Pontiac Firebirds-Lackawanna, N.Y. football game at Wisner Stadium Oct. 12. Winners in each age group then move on to the zone finals also at Wisner Oct. 19.

In Rochester, entry forms are available at Morleys Drugs for the competition which is slated for Sunday, Oct. 13 at Holback Field. The Junior Chamber of Commerce is organizing the Rochester event. Contestants will sign in between noon and 1 p.m. on Oct. 13 and begin competition at 1 p.m.

ZONE FINALS

Winners at Rochester will participate in the zone finals at Wisner Stadium Oct. 19.

Tim McKay, now 10 years old, has reached the semifinals two years in a row in the contest. He went to Baltimore two years ago and to San Francisco last year.

Competition is also set for the Waterford-Clarkston area tomorrow sponsored by Flannery Ford and Waterford Optimists. The activity is slated for 10 a.m. until noon at Drayton Plains park on Dixie Highway.

W. Lake Races to Easy Victory

Taking the first five places, Walled Lake raced to a 15-49 cross-country win over Southfield Lathrup yesterday.

Ron Beegle led the way in 10:52, followed by Jim Cook, Bruce Dudley, Don Krick and Clyde Troutman. Gary Pryzgocki was sixth for Lathrup.

School Record Set by Team in 110-6 Win

SMITHFIELD, Va. (AP) — The coaching staff was perturbed when Westside High School missed two extra points in its football game Thursday night against Central High of Sussex.

* * *

That's about the only place Westside wasn't perfect, however, in rolling to a 110-6 victory as quarterback Pernell Denson threw seven touchdown passes and his replacement, Levi Day, threw three.

U.S. to Explore Submerged Pacific Summit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An American expedition is about to explore the 80-acre summit of a submerged mountain in the North Pacific where scientists plan to build an undersea manned laboratory a few years hence.

The explorers expect to find a subsurface wilderness of marine plant and animal life unspoiled by contact with the mainland.

* * *

Object of the expedition is the Cobb Seamount, a once-violent volcano which rises nearly two miles from the sea bottom to within 108 feet of the surface. It is about 270 miles off the Washington coast and about 260 miles west of Seattle.

From what is known of the seamount, it would make an ideal stable platform for an undersea laboratory unaffected by the fierce storms which frequently strike in that region.

MISSILE BASE?

It also in theory could serve as a fixed missile base less detectable in some respects than a moving warm target, such as an atom-powered Polaris submarine, which might be visible to infrared heat sensors aboard spotter aircraft or satellites.

On Saturday the Oceanographer, a floating laboratory of the Coast and Geodetic Survey, will leave Port Angeles, Wash., to conduct what federal sources said will probably be "the most detailed exploration ever made of an undersea mountain." It will return Oct. 12.

* * *

Participating in the exploration with the Survey are scientists of the University of Washington, the Virginia Mason Research Center, and Honeywell Marine Systems Center, all of Seattle.

Cobb Seamount was discovered in 1950 by scientists whose attention was caught by a concentration of fish, unusual in the open ocean. Of about 100 known seamounts in the area, Cobb is the only one whose summit comes near enough the surface to receive considerable amounts of sunlight.

LIFE CONDITIONS GOOD

This means it probably harbors a lot of plant life, which needs sunlight to flourish, and therefore a lot of animal life, seldom encountered so far out to sea.

Information collected by the Oceanographer's electronic devices, and by the divers who will explore the seamount in person, will be made available to the Washington State Oceanography Commission for Project Sea Use.

* * *

This is the project that plans, perhaps in 1970, to build an inhabitable scientific laboratory on Cobb's submerged summit.

Scientists theorize that the mountain, which rises in terraces from the sea floor, was last active as a volcano tens of millions of years ago.

Once it must have been above water. But when the seas rose about 10,000 years ago after the melting of once extensive glaciers, Cobb became a sunken mountain.

* * *

There is no law of the sea which says Cobb belongs to the United States, for either scientific or military use. But the fact that U.S. scientists are actively exploring the seamount may have some bearing on this country's right to claim the submerged peak.

No one seems to know how the name of Lady Curzon came to be identified with a turtle soup. This soup is quite popular on the European continent. For example in Austria, particularly Vienna, the soup is offered by many fine restaurants. Holland's restaurants also know Lady Curzon soups, as do some establishments in Switzerland. If French restaurants are acquainted with it they prefer to ignore it; and in the United States few people seem even to have heard of it. Basically, Lady Curzon soup is made with clear turtle consomme, but it is sometimes prepared with clam broth, mussel broth or oxtail soup. It is always served in thimble-sized cups. And it is always received with a great deal of enthusiasm!

Son of Lloyd Bridges Makes 'Comeback' at 26

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD — When Beau Bridges was 8, he made his film debut in an ever-to-be forgotten jungle epic in which his sire was a wild gorilla.

Quite sensibly, he retired from acting soon afterward.

THOMAS

Now he is 26 and making a comeback. This time the kid might make it. At least Norman Jewison, who is directing Beau in "Gaily, Gaily," thinks so:

"I'm not one for making rash predictions, but I think Beau is going to be one of our great stars. He fits into the antihero pattern of today: He's nice looking, but not overly handsome—the same quality that Steve McQueen has. Besides, he has a great sense of humor, and he's got his feet on the ground."

ACTORS SON

The son of actor Lloyd Bridges, and brought up in Hollywood, he seems to have escaped the psychoses of many movie children.

He was born here three days after Pearl Harbor Day. In her semiconscious postdelivery state, the boy's mother tried to give his name as Beau, after a character in "Gone With the Wind." When the nurse protested that such a name wasn't appropriate, Mrs. Bridges said, "Oh, make it Lloyd Bridges III."

* * *

But he has been Beau to his family and friends and managed to survive the juvenile ragging about "B.O." After his jungle epic and a small role in "The Red Pony," his parents thought it would be better if he continued his education without the distraction of being an actor.

Beau attended Venice High School and spent two years at UCLA, playing occasional roles in television, including his father's series, "Sea Hunt." Then he landed a small but continuing part in the series "Ensign O'Toole."

LEFT SERIES

"But I was getting involved with a girl, and I feared for my plan to remain a bachelor until I was 30," he recalls. "I asked the producer to be released so I could get away to the University of Hawaii. I stayed for one semester, and I defeated my own purpose. I missed the girl so much that I came home and married her."

The pair traveled six months in Europe, then he returned to Hollywood to pursue his acting career. The pickings were good. Television series needed a young actor who could play gunmen, psychopaths, etc. Beau's big break came on Broadway in William Inge's "Where's Daddy?" The play was a bomb, but Beau drew good notices.

* * *

The young man wisely took an ad in the Hollywood trade papers to cite his triumph. Jewison pinned the ad on the bulletin board he maintains for future castings. It remained there for more than a year until Jewison was seeking an actor to portray the youthful Ben Hecht in "Gaily, Gaily," the memoir of his introduction to 1910 Chicago.

Says Jewison: "I've worked with many newcomers, including Alan Arkin and John Phillip Law and Scott Wilson, whom Richard Brooks picked for 'In Cold Blood.' Beau Bridges has the biggest potential of any of them."

General's Heirs Want Fort Back

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Three heirs of Gen. John C. Fremont asked a federal court Thursday to declare them the rightful owners of Ft. Mason, a military base recently declared surplus and turned over to the General Services Administration for disposal.

The suit was filed by Bessie Benton Fremont and Juliette Hull of New York City and for Valerie Larson of San Francisco.

* * *

They claim that Fremont, explorer of the West, bought the land in July 1861 for $42,000 and the government seized it in 1863 as the site for an artillery base to protect San Francisco Bay.

They contend that President William McKinley signed a bill in February 1893 directing that the Court of Claims fix compensation due the Fremont family, but they say the court never acted.

Nixon Opens Up on Third-Party Foe

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Richard M. Nixon has declared, for all the South to hear, that Alabama's George C. Wallace is not fit to be president of the United States.

But the Republican nominee for the White House acknowledged that the third-party candidate could in the end prove to be his major rival in the Nov. 5 election.

* * *

Nixon chose a campaign television appearance broadcast across a dozen southern states Thursday night to level his most direct assault against Wallace.

"We need policies at home that will go beyond simply saying that, well, if somebody lies down in front of my presidential limousine it will be the last one he lies down in front of," Nixon said. "Well, anybody who says that shouldn't be president of the United States."

'END OF THE ROAD'

His reference was to a statement Wallace had made repeatedly during his campaign that if he were president and a protester lay down in front of his car, "I will guarantee you it will be the last car they'll ever lay down in front of."

"I don't think anybody who would say that is even fit to be president," Nixon said in an interview later.

* * *

Nixon also said for the first time that he would be willing to meet Wallace in two-man, televised campaign debate. But he later added that is not going to happen, and said his comment was made facetiously.

* * *

As he has from the beginning, Nixon said campaign debates—if they are to be held—should match him and Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, the Democratic nominee.

'WOULD DO IT'

During the television broadcast, Nixon said: "I'll take on any one, but I'm not going to take on two."

"You've got to have debates between the two leading candidates, whoever they are," Nixon said later, "and if the Congress should decide that it's Nixon and Wallace, I would do that.

* * *

"That isn't going to happen, however, because while Wallace might end up second in the end . . . Congress doesn't consider him that."

* * *

Nixon talked as well of the requirements he would set for a chief justice of the United States, now that President Johnson has withdrawn his nomination of Abe Fortas to take that post.

STRICT INTERPRETATION

Nixon said he does not care whether a man is a Democrat or a Republican, a liberal or a conservative. He said he wants a chief justice who will interpret the law and leave it to Congress to write laws.

"I want men who will interpret the Constitution strictly and fairly and objectively, and that's the kind of man I intend to appoint," he said.

* * *

He said some men on the court now meet his qualifications. He did not identify them by name. But he said they are among the justices who dissented from decisions on the rights of criminal suspects, rulings Nixon has criticized.

McCarthy Endorsement Seen Near

Hubert Buoyed by Crowds

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hubert H. Humphrey says his campaign "turned the corner" during a 15-day push that carried him through wide sectors of the country.

Rallies in Portland and Seattle, Ore., were disrupted by hecklers. He admits Republican Richard M. Nixon is out in front. Lack of money forced him to cancel a batch of television commercials.

* * *

Yet Humphrey and his staff were buoyed by the size and enthusiasm of crowds that turned out in San Francisco and Charlotte, N.C. Presidential lieutenants George Ball and Douglass Cater joined the vice president's entourage. The nation's largest union — the Teamsters — gave him formal endorsement.

Democratic polls claimed he's ahead at least in eight states holding 136 of the 270 electoral votes needed for election. And in the wake of his Salt Lake City, Utah, speech advocating a qualified bombing halt, Democratic senators rose in debate to defend Humphrey at nearly the same time 10 House Democrats who had backed war critic Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy announced they now support the vice president.

DEMOCRATS PLEASED

If Republicans challenged the Democratic poll and accused the vice president of endangering the Paris peace talks, Democrats, at least, were pleased with their candidate.

Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., said: "Humphrey has hit his stride again. He seemed to be uncertain and fumbling before, but now he is the old campaigner we have known in the past."

* * *

Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield joined others who have predicted McCarthy will endorse Humphrey soon. McCarthy is scheduled to speak Tuesday at a rally for Paul O'Dwyer, a McCarthy backer who is challenging Sen. Jacob K. Javitz, R-N.Y., for reelection.

Humphrey made his "turning the corner" assessment Thursday during a wet motorcade through West Virginia, where John F. Kennedy's primary victory ended Humphrey's run for the presidential nomination in 1960.

REAL PROGRESS

A few days earlier during a television interview in Jacksonville, Fla., Humphrey said, "We're making real progress. I think the campaign is catching on . . . I think the timing is right, too."

Humphrey's campaign in West Virginia charged that Republican victory means "recession, depression and unemployment."

* * *

"A Republican administration never gave you a dime," he said at a stop while driving through a string of small towns.

"If there's one state that ought to go Democratic, it's West Virginia."

* * *

Humphrey was scheduled to spend two days in Washington before going to the World Series in Detroit Sunday.

Dem Polls Disputed

WASHINGTON (AP) — An adviser to Richard M. Nixon has challenged a Democratic claim that Hubert H. Humphrey is leading the presidential contest in eight states with a total of 136 electoral votes.

Sen. Thruston B. Morton of Kentucky said private polls offered by Democratic National chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien "don't jibe with what the public opinion polls say."

* * *

O'Brien said Thursday that party polls show the vice president ahead in Connecticut, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Massachusetts, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Texas.

"I question that Minnesota is for Humphrey even though it is his home state," Morton said. "We hear that it is nip and tuck in Michigan and Pennsylvania. Texas is certainly doubtful."

Sen. Fred Harris of Oklahoma, a member of the Democratic nominee's strategy board, said in a separate interview that Humphrey's "operation catch-up" is working.

The Oklahoma senator said Humphrey turned the corner in a Monday night national broadcast when he said he would stop the bombing of North Vietnam if there were evidence of Hanoi's willingness to neutralize the demilitarized zone.

* * *

Since the broadcast, Harris said, volunteer workers and money not available before have been coming in.

"In the first two days after that broadcast, $28,000 came in in small donations and people are calling up to ask what they can do to help," Harris said.

* * *

Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., also said Humphrey is on the upgrade.

LeMay, Tour 'Gratify' Wallace

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—With a new and widely known running mate at his side, and a fatiguing, five-state courtship of the industrial Midwest labor vote behind him, George C. Wallace relaxed his presidential campaign today, apparently satisfied with the response to both.

Retired Gen. Curtis E. LeMay listened stoically to prolonged applause in two cities Thursday as Wallace introduced him as the vice presidential candidate of the American Independent party.

* * *

Wallace said he was "pleased and gratified" at the receptions given LeMay.

In both Indianapolis and Toledo, telegrams from around the country greeted Wallace, complimenting him on his choice of LeMay.

STATURE ADDED?

Many of the messages strengthened the belief among Wallace strategists that LeMay would add stature and legitimacy to Wallace's third-party race for the presidency.

"Gen. LeMay's candidacy gives us a very strong ticket," said Wallace, whose hard line on Vietnam won the endorsement of the decorated and outspoken former Air Force chief of staff.

* * *

LeMay's candidacy reopened a dormant political debate: whether nuclear weapons should be used in war.

At a news conference in Pittsburgh announcing his candidacy, LeMay stated this view:

"My desire is not to use any weapons. But once the time comes that you have to fight, I would use any weapon that we have in our arsenal that is necessary. I do not believe nuclear weapons are necessary in Vietnam."

MILITARY SOLUTION

In his speeches at Toledo and Indianapolis, with LeMay on the platform, Wallace repeated his long-spoken avowal that, should peace negotiations fail, the Vietnam war "should be concluded militarily with conventional weapons."

He also said in an interview that he and his running mate saw eye to eye on the issue of nuclear weapons.

He said LeMay had told him privately that a third world war "would destroy civilization" and the best way to avoid it was to have a defense posture superior to any other nation's.

But no candidate ought to tell an enemy in advance, Wallace said, that America would rule out possible use of nuclear weapons in any circumstance. LeMay stated the same position at his news conference.

LOOKED NERVOUS

During the conference, Wallace, accustomed to waging a one-man campaign, appeared to some to be nervous while LeMay was explaining his views.

Too Late for Ballots

WASHINGTON (AP) — In spite of his selection as George C. Wallace's running mate, Gen. Curtis LeMay's name won't be on the ballot as a vice presidential candidate in most states.

Wallace's announcement that LeMay is his No. 2 man came too late to replace the name of former Georgia Gov. Marvin Griffin on the ballot except for a handful of states.

Griffin was picked by Wallace at the outset of his third-party campaign as a stand-in running mate because many states required any party seeking a place on the ballot list both presidential and vice presidential candidates.

However, only Florida has a law which might present a problem of who would get the electoral votes if Wallace should win the state.

FREE AGENTS

So far as the Constitution is concerned the electors picked by plurality of popular vote in their states are free agents to vote for whomever they choose.

Since the development of the party system, whole slates of pledged electors are named by the popular vote cast for president. Thus, whatever candidate gets the most votes gets that states electoral vote.

* * *

However, 17 of the states do spell out how the electors shall vote. But generally the rules aren't very precise or detailed.

Florida's law, on its face, looks the tightest. It provides felony punishment for any elector who does not vote for the presidential ticket named on the ballot. Griffin is on in Florida.

In Michigan, reliable sources indicate that while LeMay's name will not appear on the ballot, this factor will hold no weight with American Independent party electors in the state.

Apollo Crew Chief Talks Like Dutch Uncle to Daredevil Mate

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)—Navy Capt. Walter M. Schirra Jr., who almost lost a seat on a Mercury flight in 1962 because of a water-skiing accident, has cautioned one of his fellow Apollo 7 crew members against daredevil ski tactics.

Civilian astronaut Walter Cunningham has taken a couple nasty falls in recent weeks while skiing near this spaceport. Schirra, commander of the three-man Apollo 7 ship, made it plain he wasn't happy about it.

★ ★ ★

"I've chewed him out a couple times," Schirra said in an interview. "He tried to ski as well as I do, and I've skied for years. But Walt, as he always does everything, was trying to catch up in a matter of months.

"I said, 'Walt, you can be replaced. We spent three years getting ready for this. If you want to fool around water skiing these last three weeks, go ahead. But just realize what you're blowing if you do it.' So he's got the story," Schirra said.

SCHEDULED TO ROCKET

Schirra, Cunningham and Air Force Maj. Donn F. Eisele are scheduled to rocket into earth orbit Oct. 11 for a 10-day trip intended to qualify the Apollo ship for later man-to-the-moon trips.

Cunningham, who describes himself as "go-go-go all the time," said in a separate interview he has to go "full throttle" on everything, on or off the job.

★ ★ ★

He said he took up water skiing for exercise and because Schirra had complained about his charge-ahead tactics on the handball court.

Eisele describes himself as the man-in-the-middle between the "full-speed-ahead Cunningham" and the "take-it-easy Schirra." And he literally is, too, because he normally sits in the center seat in the Apollo craft.

MIDDLE MAN

Schirra, at 45, is the nation's oldest astronaut. On Apollo 7 he will be making his third and final trip into space. He probably can look at Cunningham and see a reflection of himself as a fast-moving, sports-car-loving younger astronaut of 39 when he made his Mercury trip in 1962.

The years, plus his key role as commander of the first Apollo flight, appear to have mellowed him.

Cunningham, 36, and Eisele, 38, both will be making their first space voyage.

Despite the slight difference in personalities, Schirra reports the trio is highly compatible. "I think you will see a good performance out of this total crew," he said. "We have tried very hard to make this machine work just the way it should. If we occasionally have to differ or chew each other out, we're better off for it, because we understand each other."

Candidates Asked to Talk

Candidates for political office will be asked to tell what they can do for Waterford Township at a meeting called by the Greater Waterford Community Council.

A three-man panel will question the candidates for the Nov. 5 election at the meeting, 8 p.m. Tuesday at Pierce Junior High, 5145 Hatchery.

★ ★ ★

Voters are urged to attend and find out how the hopefuls respond. Invited are all candidates from the area for national, state and county offices and also judges running on the nonpartisan ballot.

Trade Fairly Active

Mart Holds Stubbornly Higher

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market held stubbornly higher in fairly active trading early this afternoon.

Advances retained a narrowing edge over declines by about 30 issues.

★ ★ ★

Volume leaders showed seven ahead and five lower.

★ ★ ★

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks at noon had gained 1.86 at 951.33.

★ ★ ★

The Associated Press 60-stock average at noon was up .3 at 355.3, with industrials up .9, rails up .3, and utilities off .5.

CARRYOVER ANTICIPATED

Volume for the first two hours was about 5.5 million shares.

Brokers anticipated a carryover of Thursday's explosive strength in helping the market to maintain its long rally of the past dozen sessions.

Observers said the breakthrough of previous barriers likely would attract previously sidelined money in any reaction or consolidation phase, thus providing a price prop against any sharp setback.

In addition to the market's own momentum, bullish news included that of retail sales increases, indications in a University of Michigan survey of continued expectations of high consumer spending and a record rise in installment credit.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange were mostly higher. Mohawk Data slumped more than 11 and Skyline more than 4 among the wide losers. CompuDyne, Rath Packing, Warner 7 Arts, and Varo added a point or more each.

Chest Parade Has New Entry

Wall Streeters to See Curvy Californian

NEW YORK (AP)—A California brunette is the latest to invade Wall Street in the burgeoning "sweater girl derby" that has developed since a Brooklyn girl turned the street's usually staid bulls and bears into wolves.

Geri Stotts, 36, of Burbank, who measures 47-29-38, stands 5 feet 10 and weighs 150 pounds, told newsmen: "We're just going to take a walk down Wall Street at noon.

"I've run into three or four women who are much larger than I am, but they don't have my proportions," Mrs. Stotts said Thursday night.

An employe of an auto agency, she said both her husband and 21-year-old son approve of her venture, which brings her to New York for the first time.

EVELYN SMITH

IT'S HER DAY

She said her husband told her, "As long as you're having a good time, it's your day."

A Californian for the past 14 years, Mrs. Stotts was born in Harrisburg, Pa. Her trip is sponsored by Los Angeles radio station KGIL.

On Thursday, two young ladies from Cleveland, Ohio — both measuring 43-24-37—drew a noontime crowd of 4,000 financiers, brokers, clerks and passersby at the intersection of Broad and Wall Streets.

Sheila Moore, 21, and Suzanne Zulkowski, 25, were brought to Manhattan by Cleveland radio station WIXY to show New Yorkers that the Ohio city could match the 43-25-37 of Francine Gottfried of Brooklyn.

WINDY CITY BID

A Chicago entry, Evelyn (40-22-33) Smith, strolled down a Windy City street Wednesday in an Illinois attempt to duplicate Miss Gottfried's crowd-stopping walks.

Economy Unabated by Surtax and Cuts

By ROBERT D. HAWORTH
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK — The U.S. economy continues to advance at a rapid pace despite the enactment of the 10 per cent tax surcharge and the accompanying federal spending cuts.

A leading bank economist says that when he left on a trip to Europe early in the summer, there was considerable fear among some fellow economists that the fiscal restraint package would lead to a recession or minirecession. Upon his return, he said, he was surprised at how much the talk had turned to complaints that the surcharge was not braking the economy soon enough or fast enough.

★ ★ ★

The consensus among most economists is that the shift in fiscal policy enacted last June eventually will be reflected in a cooling-off of the economy. But some are questioning whether the change will be emphatic enough or long-lived enough to alter materially the inflationary bias in the economy.

The First National City Bank of New York, in its Monthly Economic Letter for October, noted that the consumer price index rose again in August following sharp increases in June and July. During the three-month period, consumer prices rose at an annual rate of 5.3 per cent, well above the increase in earlier months.

Citibank also noted that consumers have refused to be inhibited by the tax increase, as reflected in the sharp rise in retail sals in July which continued at a high level in August and September. Consumers apparently have avoided spending cuts by dipping into record savings and through pay increases which offset the tax, the bank said.

Many economists maintain it was wrong to expect the economy to react at once to the tax increase. Andrew F. Brimmer, a member of the Federal Reserve Board, said recently the goal of moderating economic growth will be achieved despite the delayed response "of some sectors of the economy," particularly consumer areas.

★ ★ ★

And the influential Bank of America, the nation's largest, has predicted a substantial slowing of the economy in the year ahead as the fiscal restraint package takes effect.

★ ★ ★

In a booklet entitled "Focus on 1969, the U.S. Economy," Bank of America said the most pronounced slowing in business activity will develop in the closing months of 1968 or early 1969.

SUBDUED SETTING

"The temporarily subdued economic setting will provide the basis for a much-needed slow-up in the inflationary pressures which have been developing over the past several years," the bank said. "The primary question is whether these inflationary tendencies can be abated without a clamor for more expansionary programs or paying too high a price in terms of lost economic growth and unemployed resources."

Citibank said that since the tax surcharge did not go into effect until July, there will be a major adjustment of withholding rates at tax time next spring which will sharply reduce refunds and increase balance-due payments.

★ ★ ★

"These April adjustments will come on top of the $3-billion-a-year increase in Social Security taxes on Jan. 1," the bank said. "As a result, the federal deficit is now expected to drop to $5 billion from $25.4 billion in fiscal 1968.

"The prospect of a sudden, substantial shift in the federal budget has all along formed the basis for forecasts of a general economic slowdown."

No End Seen in California Grape Dispute

DELANO, Calif. (AP) — "La Huelga!"

The past four years, those Spanish words—the strike!—have been the rallying cry of an epic California labor dispute in the hot vineyards of one of the world's richest agricultural belts. The end is not in sight.

★ ★ ★

Technically, no strike exists: members of the AFL-CIO United Farm Workers Organizing Committee (UFWOC) merely are refusing to accept jobs. Nonunion members are available, and are working.

For four years, however, matters have grown steadily more bitter, reaching a peak early this year when a national boycott was called against the sale of California table grapes.

The key word in the dispute is table. Wine and raisin grapes are not involved.

Every major political candidate—and some minor ones—has been pressured to take a position. Many church councils have endorsed it. Some grocery chains have discontinued the sale of table grapes.

The boycott is designed to force growers, who share in California's $3.8-billion-a-year agricultural industry, to the bargaining table.

On one side of the issue: the growers, whose lands lie among fields producing 37 per cent of the fruits and vegetables sold in the United States.

On the other: Mexican-Americans who bring in the harvest, traveling from one spread to another in season. When the harvest is done, so is their job—until the next time. The average farm worker toils 134 days a year. About 84 per cent less than the federal poverty level of $3,100, with an average annual income of $1,378, the union contends. Growers contend grape pickers average more than $2 an hour.

U.S. Spending Outlook Good

Report Cites Inflation Fears, Income Gains

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Frequent and sizable gains in income and concern about inflation were cited Thursday as making prospects for consumer spending in the United States good.

The University of Michigan's Survey Research Center said its latest quarterly survey of consumer attitudes and inclinations to buy indicates, however, that major changes in spending and saving rates depend on developments in the Vietnam War, the inflation picture and the forthcoming presidential election.

★ ★ ★

A growing proportion of persons with income gains do not feel that their financial situation has improved, the survey showed, and widespread income increases were said to stimulate consumer demand to a smaller extent than would otherwise be the case.

The survey is based on a national cross-section of 1,325 families interviewed between Aug. 12 and Sept. 6.

The latest survey showed that 51 per cent of all families reported making more money a year ago, but only 36 per cent said they are better off financially.

Successful Investing

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q — Last spring my shares of United Corp. were exchanged for $4 preference of the newly merged Pennzoil United. A dividend increase to $1 a share on the new common split shares makes me wonder if I should convert my preference shares to get the better yield. Can I convert?—F.W.

A — Your shares are convertible into 1.44 common shares for six years from the effective date of the merger. However, there is some misunderstanding on the new dividend rate which is 20 cents a quarter or 80 cents a year, making the yield on the preference shares still slightly higher than on the common. Since the preference shares are convertible, they tend to move in line with the common, plus offering additional safety. I see no advantage in conversion at this time.

★ ★ ★

Pennzoil United moved up sharply, partially in response to the spring rally but primarily on its own momentum, triggered by excellent earnings and a mammoth sulphur discovery by 98 per cent-owned Duval Corp. Although this mineral deposit is not expected to contribute to earnings much before 1970, it does provide a good long-term potential.

Perhaps the best testimony to Pennzoil's excellent outlook is tendered by the 30 institutional investors who hold 17 per cent of the company's stock.

★ ★ ★

Q — Is Zurn Industries worth holding despite its sharp drop from our purchase price of 45? If it has a future we can afford to hold it.—M. W.

A — There's good growth ahead for Zurn, I believe, and I'd hold the shares which you bought at the year's trading peak.

Sales are in an uptrend from an aggressive acquisition policy, but heavier-than-normal expenses resulted from moving one plant, and profit margins narrowed unexpectedly on the output of another. The company's president is predicting a 30 per cent increase in share net for fiscal 1969 (March) on possibly 70 per cent higher sales.

A major growth factor is Zurn's leading position in the design, manufacturer and installation of pollution control systems — both air and water.

Jury Convicts City Man of Knife Slaying

An Oakland County Circuit Court jury yesterday found a 23-year-old Pontiac man guilty of second-degree murder in the knife slaying of a Royal Oak Township youth last winter.

Deliberating most of the day, the jury returned the verdict against James O. Stovall of 348 Raeburn for the killing of Arthur E. Chaney, 19.

Stovall was charged with first-degree murder after he turned himself over to Pontiac police several hours after Chaney's body was found in the back yard of a home on South Sanford on Dec. 18.

An autopsy revealed that Chaney died of a stab wound in the heart.

SENTENCING OCT. 31

Judge Arthur E. Moore, who had presided over the two-day trial, will sentence Stovall Oct. 31. He faces a prison term of up to life. Conviction on the first-degree murder charge would have brought an automatic life sentence.

The district is in a downtown urban renewal area that was cleared recently of all but three homes. Two of them are vacant, and the third is occupied by a man "who hasn't registered for an election yet." City Clerk Daniel White said.

Senate Okays Spending Bill for Military

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House-Senate conference committee has the task of working out a military spending bill that will be the largest in history for the second straight year.

The bill passed by the Senate Thursday carries a $71.9-billion price tag. The House version, passed earlier, is $352 million bigger.

President Johnson had asked for $77 billion.

Military appropriations totaled $68.4 billion in 1944, the height of World War II, but the money came in several bills.

Last year's appropriation bill was for $69.9 billion.

ATTEMPTS BEATEN

Supporters of the Senate bill, which passed 55 to 2, beat back several attempts to trim the measure. The closest vote, 45 to 24, came Wednesday on an attempt to cut $387 million from the $700 million approvide dfor the Sentinel antiballistic missile system.

The portion of the bill earmarked for Vietnam amounts to $25.8 billion.

★ ★ ★

The bill also includes $130 million to develop a substitute for the scrapped Navy F111 swing-wing fighter-bomber.

The two who voted against the bill Thursday were Democrats Ernest Gruening of Alaska and Stephen Young of Ohio.

AUDITOR'S OPINION
Board of Education
Avondale School District
Auburn Heights, Michigan

We have examined the accounts of the General Fund, Debt Retirement Funds and the Building and Site Fund of AVONDALE SCHOOL DISTRICT (an Oakland County, Michigan fractional school district) for the year ended June 30, 1968. Our examination was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards, and accordingly included such tests of the accounting records and such other auditing procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances.

Our examination did not include an audit of the child accounting records. Our report includes a schedule of the receipts and disbursements of the Avondale school revolving and student body activities accounts. Inasmuch as we did not perform an audit of the revolving accounts, we do not express an opinion on this fund.

In our opinion, except as noted in the preceding paragraph, the accompanying balance sheets and the related statements of revenues and expenditures present fairly the financial condition of the General Fund, Debt Retirement Funds and the Building and Site Fund of the Avondale School District at June 30, 1968, and the results of their operations for the year then ended, in conformity with the generally accepted accounting basis of accounting for Michigan schools consistent with the preceding year.

Junior Editors Quiz on CINNAMON

QUESTION: Where does cinnamon come from?

* * *

ANSWER: Cinnamon — which we generally use in powdered form — is a strong spice. We don't recommend tasting the powder directly. But if you mix it with sugar, and then taste it and smell it, it will give you a delightful, aromatic feeling of the Far East. You can almost imagine the clonking of Far Eastern music, elephants, pagodas.

The best form of cinnamon comes from the island of Ceylon, below the southern tip of India. Here it grows as a tree with slim branches. When the bark of the lower branches is dried after being peeled, it curls into tubes (lower right) which are sold in bundles as cinnamon, later being ground.

Another Far Eastern plant, cassia, is often used in place of cinnamon.

Cinnamon has many uses in cooking and flavoring, such as in the making of delicious cinnamon tea rolls. Cinnamon toast, made by sprinkling cinnamon and sugar on buttered toast, is a favorite way to bring the romance of the East to your home dinner table.

You can win $10 cash plus AP's handsome World Yearbook if your question, mailed on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of this newspaper, is selected for a prize.

Hoffa Case Lawyer Seen at Bribe Probe

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Walter Sheridan, who spearheaded prosecution of James Hoffa for jury-tampering in 1964 apparently was the lead-off witness Thursday before the latest federal grand jury investigating the Teamsters union leader.

Sheridan, now an investigator for the National Broadcasting Co., was special assistant to the late Robert F. Kennedy, then U.S. attorney general, when Hoffa was convicted in Chattanooga on the jury - tampering charge. He and Edward Grady Partin, Baton Rouge, La., Teamster official who was chief government witness against Hoffa in Chattanooga, both were seen at the U.S. District Courthouse this morning.

* * *

Hoffa now is serving an eight-year prison sentence at the federal correctional institution in Lewisburg, Pa. The grand jury was called into session to look into reports that several witnesses against him and a one-time attorney have been offered bribes to change their testimony in an effort to free him.

Sheridan recently said he was offered $1 million to change his own testimony in the Hoffa case. The statement was made in open court here on a motion by the former Hoffa lawyer, Z. T. Osborn of Nashville, when Osborn sought to overturn his own 3½ - year jury-tampering sentence.

The motion was denied—and Osborn is appealing.

Also reported in Nashville for the grand jury investigation is William Hawk Daniels, Baton Rouge city judge. Daniels was quoted recently as saying a Baton Rouge businessman had offered him $250,000 to change his testimony in the Hoffa case.

Divers Hope to Get Satellite Generators

LOMPOC, Calif. (AP) — Divers hope to recover within the next few days the generator packages carried by the nuclear-powered weather satellite that fell into the Pacific Ocean shortly after launch last May.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said Thursday the wreckage of Nimbus B, valued at about $50 million, was sighted four miles north of San Miguel Island in water 350 feet deep by the crew of a small search-submarine operated under contract to the Atomic Energy Commission.

* * *

Housed in six-inch-diameter steel and graphite capsules, the pill-shaped isotype fuel elements apparently were not damaged by either the ocean impact or sea corrosion, the AEC said. If recovered, they will be returned to the AEC, which said they represent no hazard to human or marine life.

Guest Lecturer on Penal System Has Inside Data

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Harvard Law School students wanted an inside view of the penal system, so they called in an expert—onetime bank robber Theodore "Teddy" Green, former inmate at Massachusetts State Prison and Alcatraz.

Green, now an automobile salesman, was a guest lecturer at the law school Thursday. He appeared at the invitation of Prof. James Vorenberg, former director of the Justice Department's Office of Criminal Justice in Washington.

Green who made several escapes while at the old Charlestown State Prison, said that if he had hope of gaining freedom, "I'd have spent a lot less time planning escapes and more planning a future."

"But with 104 years hanging over me, the only thing that kept me sane was dreaming up ways to get out," he said.

Probe Satellite Is in Polar Orbit

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — A research satellite was shot into polar orbit Thursday, settling into a course that would take it around the globe every 103 minutes.

The 185-pound satellite was lofted atop a four-stage, solid-fuel Scout rocket. The 60-by-30-inch satellite, called Esro 1, was built by the European Space Research Organization. It carries eight experiments to study the northern lights and measure radiation during magnetic storms and quiet periods.

Lauren, Jason Separate After 7 Years of Marriage

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Lauren Bacall and Jason Robards, Jr., have separated after seven years of marriage.

Betty — or Baby, as the late Humphrey Bogart called his child bride—told me, "We're not contemplating divorce . . . we're not contemplating anything at all."

WILSON

And she hopes that after her gifted husband gets over the difficult rehearsals of his next show, "We Bombed in New Haven," and she recovers from hurting her leg while dancing at a party at the Four Seasons, that they will reconcile. "We're going to try," she said. They're calling it a trial separation.

I sat in on the televised NBC-Friars roast of Johnny Carson and it'll be a great show on his birthday Oct. 23. Some classic lines: Alan King re Sullivan: "He burst forth on show business with the impact of a soggy marshmallow." Sullivan "It hasn't been easy walking out for 20 years saying, 'Let's hear it for the flying Walinskys'."

Steve Allen: "One thing Carson did better than any of us was quit. He would like to quit more but he's not there often enough." Carson to Rickles: "I don't want to alarm you about your new show but ABC is taking another look at the Gale Storm reruns. You got the season off to a flying stop." Rickles to Mayor Lindsay: "Congratulations on always being such a nice guy while the city is being destroyed."

As Groucho Marx celebrates his 73rd birthday, the producers of "Minnie's Boys," the story of the Marx Brothers, are hoping to get him to play himself . . . The gal who shot Andy Warhol wrote to him from the hospital asking to be in a movie with him. He isn't terribly interested . . . Marcello Mastroianni slipped into the Sherry from Canada. He lost his bags somewhere en route.

THE MIDNIGHT EARL . . .

Secret Stuff: One of the best-known women in the world is wearing a blonde wig to get privacy. She wore it to the theater . . . A top comic said he'd shelve his wife but she's got him tied up financially . . . Janis Page, a gracious Fall Girl at the Saints & Sinners, said she was a forerunner of "Hair": stripped to bra and panties in "Remain to Be Seen" in 1951—and looked forward to it.

Two members of a rock 'n' roll quartet, the Happenings, insist they're gonna sue somebody — their Army Reserve unit demanded they cut their long hair down to crew cuts, "and it's damaged the group's image" . . . Florence Henderson, a hit at the Shamrock in Houston, was permitted to leave to start a TV pilot film.

Chicago Bears footballer Gale Sayers was told at Gallagher's 33 he resembled Harry Belafonte. He shrugged, "I can carry a ball — I can't carry a tune" . . . NBC turned down TV commercials for the sexy film, "Therese and Isabel" . . . Edie Adams' husband Marty Mills, who turned pro photographer two years ago, has had three TV Guide covers in a row.

Milton Berle said kiddingly that he's glad to be going back to B'way after 20 years: "It'll be nice to appear onstage in men's clothes for a change."

WISH I'D SAID THAT: America's the land of opportunity where a man can start out digging ditches and wind up behind a desk — if he doesn't mind the financial sacrifice.

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "The man who wastes today lamenting yesterday will waste tomorrow lamenting today." — P. M. Raskin.

EARL'S PEARLS: Too many of us look for a pill that will cure everything — and then send him to the White House.—Webster's Unafraid Dictionary.

Hunt for Blood Ends Happily

NORTH HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Birth defects left David Zulli almost blind with cataracts and an invalid because of a heart malformation.

The biggest hurdle, though, has been his blood—an extremely rare type, A-postive, I-negative.

* * *

In order to find a future for David, a 14-year-old with a zest for life, the Red Cross began a nationwide search and found seven donors who could supply such blood for corrective heart surgery.

They were asked to give three pints over a half-year period. The blood was stored by a new deep-freeze process.

* * *

The heart surgery, at Children's Hospital, was pronounced successful.

"I feel like I want to really do something," David said at a news conference Thursday. "I want to get around. I want to get out of here. I want to do something, you know, something physical."

Actress Asks 2nd Divorce From Mate

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Actress Gloria DeHaven filed suit Thursday for a second divorce from Dick Fincher, Miami car dealer and Democratic state senator. Miss DeHaven charged extreme cruelty.

* * *

She asked the court for unspecified amounts in alimony, child support, court costs and attorney fees. The Finchers have two children, Harry and Faith.

* * *

Miss DeHaven married Fincher on Jan. 19, 1957, and they were divorced on Sept. 27, 1963. They remarried on Jan. 19, 1965. He was her third husband.

Post Office Theft

SAULT STE. MARIE (AP) — State Police at Sault Ste. Marie said Thursday thieves broke into a post office at nearby Rudyard and took some $7,000 in cash and stamps. Postal workers discovered the break-in Thursday. The thieves entered by breaking a lock on a rear door of the post office, then knocked a hole in the wall to enter the working area.

A Look at TV

Tigers Revitalize Interest

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The Detroit Tigers showed in Thursday's NBC-TV telecast of the World Series how to revitalize fan interest in baseball.

In contrast to the season-long diet of low-scoring punchless ganes, the American League champions walloped baseballs all over the lot. They can hit, as everybody knew, and their three home runs — which helped square the series with St. Louis at a game apiece — were a big kick to the impartial viewer, not to mention Detroit fans.

* * *

The 1968 baseball classic is shaping up as a fine video attraction. Bob Gibson, the spirit of St. Louis, turned in a corking pitching performance in the opener. And Detroit showed plenty of spunk in bouncing back in Thursday's contest.

What was really remarkable about Thursday's game was that Detroit succeeded in doing to the polished, classy St. Louis team — the world champions — what few teams have been able to do: they made them look bad. And that is the one thing baseball aficaionados don't expect of St. Louis.

SERIES TO DETROIT

As awkward and clumsy and heavy-handed Detroit looked in Wednesday's opener, that is how St. Louis appeared Thursday. Now the series moves to Detroit, with day games scheduled there for Saturday, Sunday and Monday.

As often happens in the World Series, an unsung hero earns the spotlight. And for televiewers Thursday, there was no doubt that the sleeper of the baseball showdown was the Tiger pitcher, Mickey Lolich, a well-regarded, cherub-faced athlete who not only hurled exceptional,y but also hit the first home run of his career.

All of the Tigers seemed to be at the top of their game, but to long-time baseball fans there was a particular satisfaction in watching the veteran outfield great, Al Kaline, go about his work beautifully and effortlessly. It is his first series, and to watch on television as he gracefully made a difficult catch and then picked up his share of hits was, alone, worth tuning in for.

Wisconsin Bars Stock's Dealing

MADISON, Wis. (UPI) — Thomas Nelson, Wisconsin securities commissioner, Thursday prohibited all transactions by Wisconsin dealers in common stock of Newbar Televonics, Inc., Hollywood, Calif.

Newbar's principal assets, Nelson said, consist of an inventory of old movies and some mining claims in Nevada. He said its chairman is William C. Newberg, former president of Chrysler Corp., who resigned amid charges of conflicts of interest with several of Chrysler's suppliers.

* * *

Nelson also censured Citizens Securities Co., Green Bay, for past transactions in the stock.

Nelson said his action resulted from an investigation of speculative activity in Newbar stock in the Green Bay area. Citizens Securities had brought the matter to Nelson.

NEVER REGISTERED

Nelson said Newbar has never registered its stock with any state or federal regulatory agency and that there is reason to question unaudited financial information the company has distributed.

Wallet Back After a Trip

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Curtis Gilmore, an assembly line worker at the Chevrolet plant here, recently received a package from Portland, Ore., containing his wallet.

Gilmore, who has never been in Portland, says the wallet must have slipped from his pocket while at work.

"I guess it was found by whoever purchased the car," Gilmore said.

Students Heckle: Reagan Hits Back

CHICO, Calif. (AP) — Gov. Ronald Reagan, heckled by 100 or so students from Chico State College, suggested Thursday they should "damn well get your education somewhere else."

Reagan apologized for the profanity, but said, "I will not stand by in this job and watch a minority of dissident students and a minority of faculty members tear down these great institutions stone by stone."

The students—carrying various signs—were among about 700 persons who met the governor at the airport when he arrived to speak at a Republican fund-raising dinner.

Austria Violation by U.A.R. Plane

VIENNA (AP) — A United Arab Republic air force plane flew over Austrian territory for 28 minutes Thursday, ignoring orders of an intercepting aircraft to land, the Austrian air command reported. The report called the act a "flagrant violation of Austrian air space."

* * *

The pilot of the Soviet-built AN12 transport plane ignored orders of an intercepting Austrian plane to follow. The plane was flying east when it left Austria. Air traffic control in Prague reported the plane was from Belgrade en route to Dresden, East Germany, but was ordered back to Belgrade because of bad weather.

Viet Fighting Erupts; GI Air Crash Toll 24

SAIGON (AP) — Allied forces killed 150 enemy troops in a new outbreak of heavy fighting near the Cambodian border, along the jungled approaches to Saigon, military spokesmen reported today.

Enemy gunners shot down a U.S. helicopter ferrying ammunition to the embattled South Vietnamese mercenaries in the area. Four Americans were killed and two wounded.

Earlier, U.S. headquarters reported that 24 Americans were killed in the collision of a big Army CH47 Chinook helicopter and an Air Force Caribou cargo plane 11 miles northwest of Hue on the coast. It was one of the worst air collisions of the war. There were no survivors.

The fighting along the Cambodian border, 60 miles northwest of Saigon was triggered at daybreak yesterday when about 400 South Vietnamese civilian irregulars were lifted into the area by American helicopters. They immediately ran into an enemy force of about 800 to 1,000 men.

Two and a half hours later, another 400 South Vietnamese mercenaries were committed to the fight.

The battle raged throughout the day.

★ ★ ★

Preliminary reports from military spokesmen said the mercenaries also seized 10 machine guns, 25 assault rifles, and other assorted weapons and ammunition.

Government casualties were put at 15 dead and 44 wounded.

The American helicopter was brought down by machine-gun fire as it was landing. A U.S. Special Forces captain and the crew chief were killed in the flaming wreckage.

The pilot and a gunner were killed by enemy riflemen as they crawled away from the wreckage after pulling out the wounded helicopter commander.

The new outbreak of fighting broke a week-long lull in ground action along the Cambodian border where the enemy lost 700 men during the last week of September in suicidal attacks on Green Beret camps screening infiltration routes.

In the aerial collision far to the north, headquarters said the Air Force Caribou had just taken off from Camp Evans, the helicopter, including four crewmen. Division. Thirteen men were killed aboard the Caribou, including four crewmen. Eleven others were killed on helicopter, including four crewmen.

Bedlam at Airport

Thousands Greet Tigers

DETROIT (AP) — A sandy-haired youngster, no more than 10 and waving a piece of paper, dashed up to a weary sheriff's deputy at Detroit's Metropolitan Airport last night and screamed, "I got Bill Freehan's autograph."

The lad was one of thousands who got around protective police barricades just after a jet carrying the Detroit Tigers landed.

★ ★ ★

"Once they're in, you'll never get them out," said the deputy of the screaming, pushing throng pressed against the plane's exit ramp as the 131 people in the Tiger party tried to disembark.

One of the first Tigers to exit was Willie Horton, whose second-inning solo homer hours earlier sent the Tigers on the way to a series evening 8-1 victory for Detroit.

'FELT GOOD'

"We just felt good," Horton told newsmen in the forefront of the crush. "We knew we had to go out there and do it and we did it."

Earl Wilson, who starts the third game for the Tigers Saturday, was close behind Horton.

★ ★ ★

"What do you think of those Cardinals?" someone asked.

"Ferocious," said Wilson before he was nearly swept away by the crowd.

When yesterday's winner Mickey Lolich, manager Mayo Smith and Denny McLain appeared on the ramp in quick succession, it was bedlam around the plane as the fans flashed the victory sign en masse and began chanting "Go-Go Tigers" in unison.

★ ★ ★

Tiger players fought their way to buses waiting to whisk them downtown and still the fans pressed with their signs and Tiger pennants.

Two youths blocked the lead bus to make sure the players would see their lettered offering: "Tigers, Slip 'em Two Mickeys — Lolich and Stanley."

★ ★ ★

Meanwhile, over by the fence which had long since given way before the enthusiastic fans, the 80-member Cooley High School band in deep red uniforms made its musical contribution to the festivities.

PROVOKED BY PAPER

The big bass drum depicted a big red cardinal — ironically the school's nickname.

The appearance of that particular band was provoked by a story the day before in a Detroit paper which observed the Tigers' first game performance was in general "like the Cooley High Marching Band."

"As long as the Tigers have been placed in our category," said band director Richard Yorke, "We'd like to show them that we're good, too."

"It was all the kids' idea," said Yorke. "When they saw that story, they practiced all afternoon before coming out here." He added that a call to the offending newspaper resulted in a free bus ride to the airport.

Le May's Views on N-Arms Blasted

By the Associated Press

George C. Wallace's selection of Gen. Curtis E. LeMay as his running mate has drawn fresh attacks on his third-party campaign, particularly over the use of nuclear weapons.

LeMay, 61, former Air Force chief of staff, told his first news conference as a vice presidential candidate yesterday that "a nuclear weapon is just another weapon in the arsenal."

LeMay said he thinks there are situations where it "would be most efficient to use nuclear weapons."

Republican Richard M. Nixon, campaigning in Atlanta, said "I have great respect for Mr. LeMay as an Air Force general. But this kind of reaction shows why it is so important that in the White House, you have a man who recognizes we must have civilian control.

Democrat Hubert H. Humphrey, campaigning in West Virginia, said: "It would be disastrous if anyone who spoke as Gen. LeMay did this morning should come into a position of high responsibility.

★ ★ ★

"I never want to see nuclear weapons used anywhere, by anyone—in Vietnam or elsewhere."

The candidates hit on other issues than those raised by LeMay and Wallace, however.

COULD FILL BILL

Nixon said some justices sitting on the Supreme Court could fill his qualifications for a chief justice—"men who will interpret the Constitution strictly and fairly and objectively."

Humphrey characterized Republicans as the party of "recession, depression and unemployment." "We're not going to turn this country back to an administration that doesn't care," said Humphrey.

Humphrey's running mate, Sen. Edmund S. Miskie, drew jeers and cheers from college students in Colorado when eh urged the replacement of the present year-olds.

Scripps-Howard Newspapers Give Backing to Nixon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Scripps-Howard Newspapers have endorsed Richard M. Nixon for president.

An editorial appearing in the 17 newspapers in the group said the Scripps-Howard editors "see no other real choice in 1968" than Nixon, the Republican nominee.

"They believe he offers more hope, on more counts, than Hubert Humphrey and that George Wallace offers no hope at all," the editorial said.

"The country is ripe, and apparently eager, for change. Historically, change in Washington has been profitable. We think this year it is unusually necessary."

The 17 Scripps-Howard newspapers endorsed President Johnson for reelection in 1964 after backing the Republican candidate in each presidential race since 1940.

Mexico City in Armed Calm

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Students burned trolley cars near an Olympic field and armored cars kept their guns trained on apartment buildings where snipers had holed up, but most of the Mexican capital was quiet last night.

Despite the eruption of the student rebellion into a shooting battle with army troops Wednesday night, the Olympic games still were set to open a week from Saturday.

A count of casualties at hospitals and police stations showed at least 27 persons killed in Wednesday night's fighting, and some Mexico City newspapers reported death tolls as high as 40. There was no official estimate of the number wounded, but it appeared to be in the hundreds. Various sources reported between 1,000 and 1,500 arrested.

★ ★ ★

The government has reported 20 deaths. Gen. Marcelino Garcia Barragan, secretary of defense, said one of the dead was a soldier. He said the high rate of casualties among civilians was the result of their "confusion."

STREETCARS BURNED

No injuries were reported in yesterday's incidents. Students burned three streetcars in front of the Aztec Stadium, where Olympic soccer games will be played, and fled before police made any arrests. Hit-and-run gunmen fired apparently random sprays of bullets in various sections of the city.

★ ★ ★

Wednesday night's battle was the second serious eruption. Fifteen persons were killed Sept. 23 when police and students battled with guns, knives, clubs and Molotov cocktails.

★ ★ ★

While Mexican youth is rebelling, 7,000 athletes from more than 200 nations are coming to the Mexican capital for what Avery Brundage, president of the International Olympic Committee, called "a friendly gathering of the youth of the world in amicable competition."

The games are scheduled to run through Oct. 27.

School Officials Eye Integration

By DICK ROBINSON

Pontiac schools have been sharply criticized for being seriously segregated.

Critics have branded Oakland County's largest school system as one which "pays lip service to integration." Racial isolation is getting worse, they say.

★ ★ ★

School officials are well aware of the problems in a system where three-fourths of all elementary pupils attend schools made up predominantly of their own race — white or black.

★ ★ ★

Figures show that 28 of the city's 36 schools are segregated, either predominantly black or white. Twenty-one of the 28 are elementary schools.

ISOLATION HARMFUL

Administrators and the school board realize that isolation of elementary pupils from other races is harmful to development of their attitudes, values and achievement.

But what the school officials don't know is how to better integrate schools. They are knowledgeable, however, on how to tackle the problem — by taking a long look at it.

★ ★ ★

Starting next week, teams of administrators and board of education members will fly from coast to coast to see how other school districts are trying to solve school segregation problems.

Schools Supt. Dr. Dana P. Whitmer explains that the move follows the wishes of the critical Pontiac School District Citizens Study Committee on Equality of Educational Opportunity.

Tiny Foreign Autos Face U.S. Onslaught

DETROIT (AP) — With General Motors Corp. announcing plans for a minicar, the biggest firms in the nation's auto industry have cast their dies to compete against fast-rising sales of foreign subcompact cars.

Board Chairman James M. Roche of GM said yesterday in New York that his firm will introduce a small car in 1970.

It will be "a foot shorter than any car GM makes in the United States today, will weigh about 1,900 pounds and will be about a foot longer than the best-selling foreign car," he said.

That would make the GM vehicle, currently called the XP887, about 14 feet, 3 inches long. West Germany's Volkswagen, top-selling foreign import, is 13 feet, 3 inches in length.

Ford Motor Co., second-largest auto producer, is expected to introduce the first new U.S.-made competition to foreign imports when it unveils a subcompact probably in the spring of 1969.

Ford's minicar, code-named "Delta," was confirmed by Henry Ford II late last month as planned for assembly at its St. Thomas, Ont., plant.

The third of the Big Three — Chrysler — has said through its board chairman, Lynn Townsend, only that "we are going to meet all competition."

American Motors Corp. plans to build a subcompact which reportedly would be at least nine inches longer than the Volkswagen and somewhat heavier.

GM's little car will be engineered, built and distributed by its Chevrolet Division, with assembly of the car at Lordstown, Ohio.

Record '69 County Budget Includes 13 Pct. Pay Hikes

The Oakland County Board of Supervsors will be asked Monday to approve an average salary increase of 13 per cent for county employes for 1969.

In addition, a record county budget of $25,833,778 will be up for adoption. County officials say this is a balanced budget with expected revenues equaling projected expenditures. The 1968 budget was $21,134,162.

★ ★ ★

The largest single budget item is salaries, $11,692,156. This year's total for salaries is $9,937,624. Added for 1969 is $454,050 for 65 new positions in various departments. The other approximately $1.3 million accounts for salary increases to be spread among 1,347 county employes.

The board of supervisors meets at 9:30 a.m. at the county courthouse. The only public hearing on the budget will be at 10:30 a.m. Anyone who wishes to may speak five minutes on the budget, according to county regulations on public hearings. Last year no one spoke.

HIKE FOR AUDITOR

Recommended to receive the largest salary increase is Daniel T. Murphy, chairman of the Board of Auditors. His salary would go from $26,500 to $31,500. (Murphy would get $24,000 for his position as an auditor, supplemented by $7,500 for the chairmanship. In 1968 the supplement was $6,500, the straight salary $20,000).

The county's elected officials also are recommended for a wage boosts. The prosecuting attorney would receive a $2,500 raise, to $24,000. Other elected officials getting a $2,000 hike for the year in the tentative budget, putting the wage packet at $19,500, are the clerk-register of deeds, treasurer, drain commissioner and sheriff.

★ ★ ★

No increase is recommended for the three road commissioners whose salary was left at $12,000 each.

None of the 87 supervisors themselves would benefit from the proposed salary increases. They are paid $20 per meeting. However, the county has been reapportioned and 27 new supervisors will take over the county in January. They have the power to set their own salaries under state law. Whether they will vote themselves an annual salary and what size it will be is a matter of conjecture.

INCOME SOURCES

In listing the county's expected income, the budget shows $18,270,859 to be raised by the countywide 5.28 millage levy.

The other approximately $7.5 million is to be raised by various county revenues including an expected $2.3 million as the county's share of the state income tax.

Chill Winds Bring New Season Low

Gardeners are advised to cover tomato plants and flowers tonight as temperatures are expected to dip into the low 30s.

★ ★ ★

Here is the U.S. Weather Bureau's official day-by-day forecast:

TODAY—Variable cloudiness, breezy and cool. High 50 to 55. Fair and cool tonight with frost likely, the low 33 to 40.

TOMORROW—Sunny and not quite so cool.

At 12:30 p.m. under sunny skies, the temperature climbed to 50.

State Raps Report on Erie Pollution

LANSING (AP) — A federal report which holds southeast Michigan responsible for much of the pollution of Lake Erie was blasted yesterday by the State Water Resources Commission.

Commission Chairman John E. Vogt said the report "remains strongly misleading in many respects" even though the commission some months ago reviewed a preliminary draft of the report and submitted "12 pages of comment and criticism detailing inaccuracies and distortions."

The report was prepared by the federal Water Pollution Control Administration.

Navy Probing Inspection of Steel for Submarines

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy acknowledges that for the past nine months it has been investigating inspection practices for steel used in U.S. submarines.

The review, the Navy disclosed last night, was prompted by a letter from the head of a steel testing firm who "expressed concern" about the service's steel buying and inspecting procedures.

* * *

The Navy said a wide-ranging probe that involved building of submarines, steel producers and government agents showed:

- There is no evidence that defective steel plates are being used in submarine construction."
- There is also no indication that the loss of the USS Thresher (1963) and USS Scorpion (last May) were due to the failure of the steel plates used in the hull structure.

* * *

- Submarine steel plates and fabricated structures are guaranteed safe through inspection procedures that are always "carried out under government supervision."
- Recent ultrasonic inspection of welds and plating in more than 40 submarines in service "has not revealed any evidence of plates which do not meet safe submarine construction requirements."

* * *

- There is no evidence that rejected plates were used in any submarine construction."

The comments followed reports this week by Washington columnists Drew Pearson and Jack Anderson that the Navy had evidence as early as July 16, 1962, that steel producers had "knowingly delivered defective plates" for submarine construction.

NAVY COMMENT

The Navy, asked for comment, defended itself—and industry, to an extent.

* * *

But the Navy's page-long rebuttal did not directly address one practice questioned by the columnists: The policy of allowing steel producers to pass judgment on their own steel.

What the Navy called "an extensive and detailed review" was started last February after the Naval Ship Systems Command received a letter from Raymond G. Perelman, president of Penn Galvanizing Co. of Philadelphia, who was critical of inspection procedures.

* * *

CONTENTS SECRET

Contents of the letter were not disclosed but the columnists said Perelman, in subsequent meetings with Navy officials, said his company had documented 750 instances of defective plates since 1962.

Giant B52 Crashes; Two of Crew Survive

MINOT, N.D. (AP) — A B52 bomber from Minot Air Force Base crashed and burned early today on a farm 12 miles northeast of this north-central North Dakota city.

At least two crew members survived the crash, which occurred about 3 a.m., EDT. The base public relations office said the Stratofortress carried a crew of six.

* * *

There was no immediate word of the fate of the four other crewmen.

"I was out of bed like a rocket," said Carl Swarthwout, 66. "The flames were shooting several hundred feet across the soil bank land."

DOWN NEAR HOUSE

Swarthwout, who lives alone on the farm, said the eight-jet bomber came down 300 to 400 feet from his house.

A few minutes later, the farmer said, two crew members walked to the farmhouse. One appeared to be unhurt, Swarthwout said, while the other complained of an elbow injury.

* * *

The two airmen stayed in the farmhouse for two hours before an ambulance and fire truck arrived, he said. The craft was still burning three hours after it crashed.

The farmer said the survivors told him that the craft was on a training mission and there were no weapons.

'FALLING APART'

Swarthwout quoted one of the crew members as saying, "There was a failure in one side of the eight engines and the plane started to fall apart."

The two survivors told the farmer that they used their ejection mechanism to get out of the plane. They didn't know if the other crew members escaped, the farmer said.

* * *

Swarthwout said one of the survivors was the copilot.

Kelley to Hear Officials From Troy Schools

Troy Board of Education members and administrators will be invited to appear at the State attorney general's office in Lansing during the last week of October.

Dr. Rex B. Smith, superintendent of the Troy Community Schools, said he had been informed by Eugene Krasicky, assistant attorney general, that the date will be confirmed next week.

* * *

The meeting is reportedly to discuss state auditors' charges of expenditure mismanagement in the district's 1965 and 1966 building and site funds.

Smith said he was also told a copy of the auditors' report will be in board hands within a few days. The report, released prematurely before action by the attorney general's office, reportedly came through the hands of a state legislator, Smith said Drasicky told him.

Meanwhile, three dissident Troy board members, Treasurer Harold Janes and Trustees James McFarland and Leonard Lucas, have called the board's financial statement for the past year "erroneous and misleading" Janes said today.

The members say the report, which was given to news media, was released without their knowledge or approval.

PAUF Pitches Plea to 200 Volunteers

The opening pitch of the Pontiac Area United Fund commercial and manufacturing divisions was thrown to some 200 volunteers solicitors at a luncheon yesterday.

In keeping with the luncheon's baseball theme, Ralph Norvell, commercial division chairman, announced plans to bat for a $294,274 goal. Ted Pearson Jr., chairman of the manufacturing division, announced a goal of $40,780.

Norvell, speaking for himself and Pearson, commented: "Looking at the team in front of me . . . and with the spirit of baseball in the air, it is well to remember that in our PAUF world series . . . nobody loses, everybody wins. The solicitors receive a feeling of accomplishment and satisfaction through their efforts, knowing the people in our community will receive the service of our 55 health, welfare and youth agencies."

* * *

The volunteers also heard speaker Charles A. Smith, associate professor of English at Western Michigan University, urge cooperation as a key to conducting a successful campaign.

GIVERS ENRICHED

He said that by cooperating and giving freely during the campaign the givers themselves would be enriched.

The luncheon was sponsored by several area businesses.

* * *

Commercial division volunteers will call on area retailers, educational, professional and community leaders for donations. Small manufacturing firms and companies will be contracted by the manufacturing division.

The total PAUF goal for the campaign beginning Oct. 15 is $1,130,000.

'Proof' That Communists Were in Chicago Doubtful

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of a House subcommittee on un-American activities says he has heard testimony that at least 21 Communists were involved in the bloody clashes between antiwar protestors and Chicago police during the Democratic National Convention.

But Rep. Richard Ichord, D-Mo., did not name anyone during a hearing yesterday and when questioned after the session he was vague about the charge.

At first he said the testimony came Tuesday. Then he changed his mind and said it might have been based in part on a closed subcommittee meeting Wednesday. Finally he said he didn't know where he got the testimony.

No witness has leveled any such specific charge against the protest leaders subpoenaed to testify.

BIZARRE INCIDENTS

Thursday's session, the second since the subcommittee opened its investigation this week, was again the scene of bizarre incidents of wild behavior involving groups of wildly dressed Yippies of the Youth International Party.

One antiwar witness walked out of the hearing, another refused to answer questions about whether he is a Communist and a Yippie leader was arrested after he showed up in a shirt that police charged was made from an American flag.

* * *

Abbie Hoffman denied the charge and said it was merely a shirt of stars and stripe design.

Hoffman's wife, Anita, and another Yippie, Brad Fox, also were arrested for interfering with police. Authorities also reported arresting a girl for having a dirty phrase about the police printed on her hat.

WON'T ANSWER

Dr. Quentin B. Young of the Medical Committee for Human Rights, was the witness who refused to answer whether he is a Communist. He said the question was irrelevant and that the First Amendment to the Constitution protected him from having to answer such inquiries.

Another witness, Robert Greenblat, national coordinator of the National Mobilization Committee to End the War, refused to answer several questions and then stalked from the committee room.

Waterford Plans 4th Junior High

A fourth junior high school will be needed soon in the Waterford Township School District, the school board was informed at its meeting last night.

School officials said they will plan to have it ready for the 1971-72 school year. It would accommodate 1,250 students when opened and have expansion possibilities for 1,500.

* * *

Site of the new school, on land already purchased by the district, will be Hospital and Pontiac Lake roads. A projection of school enrollment figures showed that the three present junior high schools will be past capacity next year and some students will have to attend classes in high school rooms.

The board also discussed the possibility of building a four-room facility for training the deaf and hard-of-hearing. This would be adjacent to Cherokee Hills Elementary, 2690 Wewoka.

* * *

The facility, if constructed, would be for children of Waterford and other county school districts, officials said. All financing would be handled by state and county agencies, it was reported. Details remain to be worked out.

A small group of mothers appeared at the meeting to ask that buses be restored at Lotus Lake Elementary School. Buses were taken off when walkways were built last year.

2 Bound Over in Murder Case

Two persons charged with killing a Pontiac man whose body was found in a city parking lot June 30 were bound over to Oakland County Circuit Court yesterday in separate preliminary examinations.

Facing Circuit Court arraignment Oct. 18 on an open charge of murder is Gus Williams, about 30, of 177 Fisher.

* * *

He is free after posting $2,000 bond set by Municipal Judge Maurice E. Finnegan.

Also facing an open murder charge is Willie Grandberry, 25, of the Fisher address. No date for her higher court arraignment was set by Municipal Judge Cecil B. McCallum, who remanded her to Oakland County Jail without bond.

* * *

Both are accused in the shooting death of William Odneal, 30, of 181 W. South Blvd., whose body was found in a lot in the 500 block of South Sanford.

Miss Grandberry was arrested in a police raid on a home at 119 Jackson Sept. 6. Williams was arrested July 16.

Plan Okay Expected Due Oct. 24

School Center Start Charted

Construction of a unique educational park in Pontiac is scheduled to begin in six months and to be completed by September 1970.

Architect of the $4-million Human Resource Center presented final preliminary plans to the board of education last night.

The board was expected to accept the plans so constructions bid specifications could be prepared as soon as possible.

But it was not able to do so last night because official cost estimates of the project were not ready. The board is expected to act at its next meeting, Oct. 24.

Schools Supt. Dr. Dana P. Whitmer explained that it is possible a portion of the center may be ready early in 1970 so pupils at McConnell Elementary School could move in.

McConnell School parents have been pushing school administrators for a new facility as soon as possible.

* * *

It is estimated that construction will cost more than $4 million, figuring on 161,000 square feet at what the architects call an "extremely stringent" $25 per square foot maximum.

Whitmer said $3.75 million is available for site acquisition, construction and equipment and that additional funds the state or private foundations will be sought.

ORIGINAL PLAN

Originally, the center was planned to serve 1,750 pupils in 178,000 square feet, according to its planners, Urban Design Associates of Pittsburgh, Pa.

* * *

To cut costs, they have compressed the facility to 161,000 square feet and simplified its structure but increased its capacity and number of facilities to serve 2,000 pupils.

Birmingham

Schools Name New Director of Information

BIRMINGHAM — Robert A. Stevens, supervisor of instructional material resources and assistance centers, has been appointed director of information services of Birmingham schools.

Stevens will assume duties similar to those of former administrative assistant Walter Piel on Nov. 4.

* * *

A new report card for elementary schools was presented to the board. The card, made up through the combined efforts of teachers, administrators, parents and students, will be used in seven elementary schools this year on a pilot basis.

The schools selected are Pembroke, Westchester, Evergreen and Walnut Lake, as well as Harlan, Pierce and Midvale, in the primary grades.

INDIVIDUAL MARKS

The new card gives teachers a chance to mark pupils on an individual basis, as opposed to the ranking type of grading which has been done in the past.

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — Voter registrations will be accepted until 8 tonight at the clerk's office, 45 East Long Lake Road.

BIRMINGHAM — The first general meeting of the Pembroke School P.T.A. will be at 8 p.m. Monday in the school auditorium.

* * *

Dr. John Blackhall Smith, schools superintendent will speak on "Education Horizon."

A question and answer period will follow.

OCC Awards Building Pact

A $2.95-million contract for construction of a vocational-technical building on the Auburn Hills Campus of Oakland Community College was awarded last night by the board of trustees.

Winning bidder was A. Z. Schmina and Sons, Inc., and construction is expected to begin soon, it was announced.

* * *

The building will house facilities and laboratories for technical training.

The board also approved a contract between the Detroit Board of Education and OCC and between OCC and Oakland University to cooperate in the Detroit teacher intern program.

* * *

The two-year program will be designed to prepare 150 degree-holding adults for roles as elementary school-teachers in inner-city areas.

It will begin later this month and will offer a master of arts teaching degree as well as a state teaching certificate, officials said.

City Hospital Issues Appeal to Visitors

Pontiac General Hospital officials today issued a plea for community cooperation in visiting the hospital.

The availability of parking for visitors and employes alike continues to be a critical problem, said a hospital spokesman.

* * *

Additional parking for hospital employes is currently under construction and should be completed in 60 to 90 days, weather permitting.

Meantime, hospital officials asked visitors to the hospital to observe specified visiting hours of 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. and 4 to 8 p.m.

MRS. ODELL

Janet Odell, women's editor of The Pontiac Press, will attend a two-week American Press Institute seminar at Columbia University, New York City, beginning Monday.

Mrs. Odell of 163 Ogemaw will be among 28 women's page editors and writers from the U.S. and Canada.

Methods of more effectively serving women readers will be discussed with guest speakers, round-table exchanges and clinical analysis meetings in which the membership will be divided into groups for a study of each member's newspaper.

Peru Take-Over Is Resisted

LIMA, Peru (AP) — Spawned by street battles between students and police, resistance was stiffening today against the military leaders who overthrew the government of President Fernando Belaunde Terry.

In one encounter Thursday night, police fired into a crowd of students, hitting one in the head and apparently killing him. Five photographers taking pictures of the incident were arrested.

* * *

Students swirled through the streets, breaking shop windows. At least 10 cars were burned. Police used tear gas in an attempt to control the outbreaks in this Andean nation on the west coast of South America.

The new government, composed of the highest ranking officers in the army, air force and navy, is headed by Gen. Juan Velasco, army chief of staff and president of the joint chiefs.

COMMUNIQUE ISSUED

He issued a communique detailing the formation of the new government, warning against acts of violence and telling of Belaunde's exile. It was also signed by the chiefs of the navy and the air force.

Eleven members of a cabinet that had been sworn in 14 hours before the coup remained under house arrest. They had been drafting a communique calling for a rebellion when officers broke into their meeting.

* * *

Also calling for rebellion was Armando Villaneuva, chief of the Aprista party, probably the country's strongest political organization and hated by the military.

Several radio stations, including the one on which Villaneuva broadcast, were shut down, but newspapers continued to publish descriptions of the street violence and condemnations of the coup.

'COUP-MAKERS'

The Aprista paper, La Tribuna, isued a special edition Thursday night with a banner headline calling for an ouster of the "coup-makers." The back page carried a picture of tanks at the palace with the headline "Czechoslovakia? Not in Peru."

The ousted ministers have called for citizens and students to unite against the military.

There are rumors of a general strike.

* * *

Flight operations at the airport were normal. The U.S. Embassy said that so far all of the 6,000 U.S. citizens in the country are believed to be safe.

Belaunde, 55, was flown to Buenos Aires, the Argentine capital, after being taken from his bedroom in the early morning hours. He described the take over as "a barracks coup, not by the armed forces of the constitutional government."

The Peruvian Embassy in Buenos Aires, where Belaunde spent most of the day in seclusion, denied a report from La Paz that Belaunde had been offered asylum in Bolivia, which borders Peru.

OIL CRISIS

The new Cabinet, Belaunde's seventh in five years as president, had been named to deal with a government crisis that developed as a result of a contract with a U.S. oil company.

One manifesto from the military leaders said there had been "deceitful" use of executive power in resolving the long standing dispute with International Petroleum Corp., a subsidiary of Standard Oil of New Jersey.

U.P. Slayer Gets Life at Hard Labor

BESSEMER (AP) — Eric (Ike) Pearson, a 57-year-old woodsman accused in the rifle slayings of seven people and wounding of two others in a shooting spree last March 16, was sentenced to life imprisonment at hard labor Thursday by Judge Donald L. Munro in Gogebic County Circuit Court.

Pearson had pleaded guilty to an open charge of murder, which later was fixed at first degree by Judge Munro after sitting without a jury and hearing some 20 witnesses.

* * *

Pearson pleaded guilty specifically to the slaying of Rudolph Maurin, 56, of Ironwood with a high-powered rifle in a tavern in the Upper Peninsula community of Ironwood Township.

Munro sent Pearson to Ionia State Hospital for a psychiatric examination before passing sentence, and announced in sentencing Pearson that results of the examination will be supressed. He said this was recommended by Pearson's attorney, Bernard E. Larson.

* * *

While the psychiatric examination will be kept a secret from the public, the judge said he will make it available to law enforcement agencies and Department of Corrections personnel.

The judge ruled that Pearson may appeal his finding of first-degree murder if he chooses to do so, but otherwise would serve his life term sentence at Marquette State Prison.

Date Set for Sale of Sewer Bonds

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — The date for the sale of $2.65 million in general obligation bonds to finance the 13 Mile sewer arm in the townships of Farmington and West Bloomfield has been set for Tuesday, said Donald W. Ringler, deputy director of the Department of Public Works.

Bids have been awarded, subject to the sale of the bonds to the contracting firms of Canzano of Dearborn Heights and Mancinelli of Dearborn. The cost of the construction of the sewer arm will be incurred about 50-50 by the two townships it will serve.

★ ★ ★

The 13 Mile sewer arm will hook up to the Farmington interceptor located at Middle Belt and 13 Mile. There will be three branches; one located diagonally across the township of West Bloomfield from West Maple to East Haggerty; another parallel to Drake, ending at Maple and another between Farmington Road and Drake.

The Municipal Finance Commission approved the bond proposal for the system last month.

Group Seeks Incorporation of Bunny Run

ORION TOWNSHIP — Petitions which seek to incorporate some 1,000 township residents into a home-rule village called Bunny Run will be circulated beginning Oct. 14.

John McGee, chairman of a better roads committee for the 480 acres involved in Bunny Run subdivision, said a meeting has been called for 8 p.m. Monday at the Bunny Run Club House to discuss incorporation.

★ ★ ★

The completed petitions will be filed with the Oakland County Board of Supervisors, which then will determine whether a vote will be held on the question.

"It was our finding as a better roads committee," McGee said, "that the only way to get better roads is to incorporate."

FIVE-FIGURE SHARE

McGee estimated that the area, as a village, might receive anywhere from $12,000 to $20,000 a year in state funds which now go to the county.

★ ★ ★

"We don't want paved roads. We just want some grading," said the chairman, who reported that most of the roads in the area are private and therefore not under county maintenance jurisdiction. He said the county has refused to accept dedication, since the roads are not up to standard.

★ ★ ★

Only two roads in the area, Miller and Conklin, are paved. Bunny Run subdivision is in the extreme northeast of the township. It lies along the east end of Long Lake and surrounds Bunny Run Lake.

McGee and a committee of nine men last spring conducted a door-to-door poll which McGee said indicated that most residents are behind their plans for incorporation.

TARGET DATE

Petitions, which require 100 signatures, will be filed with the county by the end of the month, McGee said. They request that an election be held, probably early next year, to allow self determination.

Other petitions requesting a state census count of the area will also be filed, the chairman said.

★ ★ ★

Any resident may sign the first petition but only those who are landowners are eligible to sign the latter, McGee explained.

The census count would be required to show that fully 1 per cent of the landowners desire an election be held on the matter of incorporation.

Public Meeting Set in Highland on Police Millage

HIGHLAND TOWNSHIP — A public meeting to discuss the 1-mill proposal for establishment of a police force here will be held Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the Township Hall.

The millage proposal appears on the Nov. 5 ballot.

The Township Board received a petition signed by 128 residents asking for township police protection on Sept. 3.

★ ★ ★

The township currently is policed by the Oakland County Sheriff's department at a monthly cost of $13,033 for two cars patrolling daily. The cost is financed primarily out of the general fund.

The board decided last month to put the 1-mill proposal on the upcoming ballot, to set a township force.

BOARD APPOINTMENTS

In other recent action the board appointed nine members to a township planning commission after a May decision to establish such a body to watch over future community development.

★ ★ ★

Members of the new planning commission are Pearl Mastick, Corbitt House, Sydney Beach, Ernest Poland, Dr. Raymond K. Brown, George Eghotz, Roy Burley, David Kiley and James Dunleavy, who is also a member of the township board.

★ ★ ★

The appointments are effective today. The new commission will meet privately to elect a chairman.

Previously the township operated without a planning commission with just a zoning board of appeals.

2 Police Hired, Three Promoted by Shelby Twp.

SHELBY TOWNSHIP — Two additional police officers were hired and three veteran officers were promoted recently by the Township Board.

Sworn in as new officers were Donald W. Campbell and Donald J. Stabley, both of Shelby Township. This brings the police force up to 16 men.

★ ★ ★

Promoted were Sgts. Alfred Hagerman and Donald Dahmer, both to lieutenant, and officer Gerald DeGrace to sergeant.

The promotions from sergeant to lieutenant carried a $440-pay raise; from officer to sergeant, a $960-raise. Funds for the hirings and promotions were in the police budget.

4 NEW POLICE CARS

The Township Board also awarded a contract for four new police cars to Monicatti Chrysler-Plymouth Sales, Shelby Township, on its low bid of $6,879, with trade-ins. Three bids were submitted.

A six-acre parcel at the corner of 25 southeast corner of the parcel. A con- Mile and Mound was rezoned from one-family residential to commercial and two-family residential zoning.

★ ★ ★

A service station will be built on the valescent home is planned by Dr. Albert Morgenthaler of Warren on the remainder of the parcel.

The Township Board also gave permission for operation of a flea market by Mrs. Mignon LaVigne, on VanDyke between 23 and 24 Mile roads, waiving a township ordinance that she secure a license, for the remainder of the season.

FIRE AID PACT

In other business, approval was given to a mutual aid pact between the township and the Detroit Fire Department on the recommendation of Fire Chief Clyde Schmidt.

Troy Corners History

Marker Dedication Set Sunday

TROY — A historical marker commemorating the founding of Troy Corners will be dedicated Sunday at 3 p.m. at 5945 Livernois.

Phyllis Shepard, historian representing the Michigan Historical Commission, will present the marker at ceremonies sponsored by the Troy Historical Commission.

Troy Corners was founded by Johnson Niles in 1821, just south of the present intersection with Square Lake Road. He built a log cabin at the site shortly after arriving from New York with his family.

The log cabin was later replaced by a house, today the home of Oakland County Probate Judge and Mrs. Norman E. Barnard.

TROY MARKER

The marker, the first one commissioned for Troy by the Michigan Historical Commission, was donated by Sen. and Mrs. Robert J. Huber and Mr. and Mrs. Wallace B. Hudson.

Music for the dedication will be provided by the Troy High School Band. Judge Barnard will present the story of Troy Corners and Johnson Niles. Troy Mayor Jule Famularo will officiate.

Open house will follow the ceremonies at the Troy Historical Museum, 60 W. Wattles.

Holly Board Sets $1.8 Million School Operating Budget

HOLLY—A 1968-69 budget of $1,861,509 has been approved by the board of education following a recent public hearing.

Revenues for the year are expected to be only $1,848,854, leaving a deficit of $12,655, according to Asst. Supt. Bruce Mitchell.

★ ★ ★

However, school enrollment is more than was anticipated for this year, which will balance out the deficit through an increase in state aid, Mitchell said.

The unofficial count show kindergarten through twelfth grade enrollment at 3,347, an increase of 237 students over last year.

★ ★ ★

In other business, the board set the cafeteria manager's salary at $4,400.

A deed was signed for property sold on Center Street, and the revenue from the sale was placed in a special recreational and development fund.

Fund Drive Aim: Site for Retarded

An effort to raise $35,000 by the first of the year is being made by North Oakland County New Horizons Sheltered Workshop Committee.

A poster and cannister campaign will be launched this week under the direction of Pontiac Police Chief William Hanger.

★ ★ ★

WILL RECEIVE TRAINING

Said Robert L. McClendon, who with James J. Hunt, is cochairman of the workshop committee, "We've got about 10 per cent of our goal committed."

★ ★ ★

A building central to the Rochester, Pontiac, Waterford Township area is sought, where retarded may be given employment and where in some cases they will receive enough training to hold a regular job.

★ ★ ★

The Madison Heights and Farmington shops serviced 200 retarded employables last year, McClendon said.

The workshop committee meets at 7:30 p.m. Mondays at the CAI Building, 5640 Williams Lake, Waterford Township.

Name New OCCEO Members

Twelve new members have been appointed to the Oakland County Commission on Economic Opportunity (OCCEO).

The new commissioners were approved after being nominated by the Oakland County Board of Supervisors, seven persons, and private organizations, five members.

★ ★ ★

The commission makes all decisions on policy for the administration of the county's antipoverty war. The OCCEO's director, Edward P. Revis, pointed out the 12 new members bring the commission near the number and makeup required by new federal regulations.

The OCCEO had to be reorganized early this year due to amendments passed by Congress along with new funding. Although some persons felt the amendments would hamper operations of antipoverty programs, Revis said he does not feel this would apply in Oakland County. Among the new rules was a requirement that one-third of the commission members be public officials.

★ ★ ★

Though in the past it has been difficult to find public officials with the time and desire to serve on the OCCEO, Revis said their participation is desired and "should help us be more effective."

The OCCEO meets monthly to hear reports and make decisions concerning policies and expenditures of funds—about $2 million yearly.

BOARD MEMBERS

New members named by the board of supervisors are Judge Norman R. Barnard of the juvenile division of the Probate Court Dr. Bernard D. Berman, department of health director; Maurice J. Croteau, chairman of the Social Services Board; Vernon Edward, supervisor from Keego Harbor; Robert E. Lilly, vice chairman of the Board of Auditors; James L. Reid, supervisor of White Lake Township; and John J. Rusher, a consultant engineer from Royal Oak.

From private organizations are Father Charles Grenville, association pastor at Holy Name Church, Birmingham; Mrs. Ruth Neff of the Homemakers and Church Volunteers; Irvin Malcolm of Grosse Pointe Woods, J. L. Hudson Co. official, representing the business community; Hubert Price of the Pontiac Organization of Black Youth; and James Dyer of Voice of Oakland County Action League.

★ ★ ★

Six other positions on the OCCEO remain to be filled.

The public is invited to attend.

Community School Director Hired in West Bloomfield

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — The board of education has taken the first step in the creation of a community school program by hiring a community director for the Roosevelt Elementary School, 2065 Cass Lake, Keego Harbor.

Gerald DiPaola will teach physical education to afternoon classes at the school but the remainder of his time will be devoted to directing school educational programs in the late afternoons, evenings, Saturdays and summers. The programs will be open to all residents living within the Roosevelt attendance area.

★ ★ ★★

Harvey N. Sterns assistant Superintendent for instruction, said: "We expect this pilot program to be successful."

He added that future expansion of educational programs to other schools will depend on the success of the Roosevelt School program.

BASED ON DEMAND

The community school program will be based on resident demand. While a broad recreational program is expected to draw the crowds, other possibilities include sewing, woodworking, bridge or any class residents wish to support, Sterns said.

The board of education will finance the afternoon teaching hours, however, additional activities will be supported by the federally funded Title I program.

★ ★ ★

DiPaola is a graduate of Wayne State University where he majored in psychology and minored in sociology and English. He has worked with the Macomb County Probate Court as probation officer and juvenile counselor for the past eight years.

Classes in Lake Orion

LAKE ORION — The Orion Jaycee Auxiliary is sponsoring ballet, tap, baton and tumbling classes Tuesday afternoons at St. Joseph's Parish Hall, 36 Beebe.

Jimmy Pagonas has been retained as instructor for the term lasting through May.

North Hill School Will Host Open House

ROCHESTER—North Hill Elementary School, 1385 Mahaffey, will host its annual open house at 8 p.m. Monday.

Principal Murel Bartley will outline the general education philosophy and introduce the teaching staff. Bernhard W. Vosteen, PTA president, will outline the program for the year and introduce officers and committee chairmen.

★ ★ ★

Parents will be invited to meet with teachers for an introduction to the curriculum. No individual conferences are slated during the evening.

Legislator Looks to 12-Month Operation

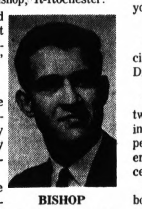
State Control of Schools Hit

A "marked tendency" towards state control of schools is decried by State Rep. Donald E. Bishop, R-Rochester.

"This would achieve nothing. It would simply transfer the problem," Bishop said.

★ ★ ★

"The same people would be shouldering the burden; they would merely pay their taxes to a different agency."



BISHOP

Bishop said, "One of the basic decisions facing the people is whether to abandon traditional nine-month school years and support a more effective use of existing school facilities or face a continuing and perhaps perpetual spiral of school taxes."

'ON LOCAL LEVEL'

"I believe this is a decision so fundamental that it can be made only on the local level. The state can provide positive guidelines, but that is all," the young representative affirmed.

★ ★ ★

Bishop backed up his remarks by citing a study of the Rochester School District.

★ ★ ★

He said the study disclosed that between 1960 and 1967 student enrollment in the Rochester district increased by 45 per cent. During the same period, operating costs soared by nearly 100 per cent.

"And these figures did not include bond issues for new construction," Bishop noted. "Actually, Rochester is not unusual. It is a typical district."

'IT TOOK INITIATIVE'

Rep. Bishop, an attorney and member of the House Appropriations Committee, praised officials of the Rochester, Bloomfield Hills and Utica school districts for their studies on year-round operation of schools. "They have taken the initiative on a very unpopular issue and should be commended," Bishop said.

★ ★ ★

Bishop contended that year-round operation would help to "substantially alleviate" the problem. "Our present school year is geared to an agrarian society that no longer exists," he asserted. "It is a luxury we can no longer afford."

★ ★ ★

But, Bishop acknowledged that any change in the existing setup would require a "massive" educational effort. "People I have talked to agree with the year-round concept, but they say, 'Leave my kid out,'" he said.

Groveland Sign-Up Set

GROVELAND TOWNSHIP — Township Clerk Donald Titsworth will accept registrations to vote in the Nov. 5 election at his home, 795 Barron Road, Ortonville, until 8 p.m. tonight.

Bell Phone Survey: Good, Bad News

The Michigan Bell Telephone Co. has some good news for residents in White Lake Township and the village of Milford and some bad news for the southern part of the county.

Bell officials reported yesterday on a study of county phone rates and the possibility of having toll-free calls to the County Center from outlying areas.

★ ★ ★

They submitted the report to the ways and means committee of the Oakland County Board of Supervisors. The committee asked for the study a year ago.

Along with the report, the Bell representatives announced that White Lake and Milford would be incorporated into the Pontiac area phone district Dec. 17, thus making a call from those areas into most of the northern part of the county a regular rather than 20-cent toll call.

ORTONVILLE LATER

Ortonville also will be joined into the larger district sometime next year, officials said.

The bad news concerned the cost to the county if a countywide, toll-free system were installed for calls to the county center at Telegraph and Pontiac Lake Road.

★ ★ ★

The anticipated cost was placed at about $3,500 monthly or about $50,000 a year. The supervisors expressed dismay at the cost and no action was taken toward having it installed.

It other action, the ways and means committee joined with the personnel committee to request county corporation counsel Robert P. Allen to initiate a lawsuit over circuit judge salaries.

An act of the State Legislature in January set judges' salaries at $30,000 per year, $20,000 from the state and $10,000 from the county. The county committees recommended raising the salaries to $34,000 with $14,000 from the county (the amount paid by the county to judges this year).

★ ★ ★

It was decided to take the matter to court because the legislature's act appears to be at variance with the state constitution. Final decision on pressing the issue would have to be made by the entire board of supervisors.

Funds for Stadium Plan Well Spent

Before any cynics begin complaining about the $7,500 that was laid out to present a plan for locating a new stadium on Pontiac's eastern boundary a couple weeks ago, they should take into consideration just what such a stadium would mean to this area. The stadium, as proposed, would be built primarily as a home for the Detroit Tigers and Detroit Lions.

At this very moment we have in our midst a prime example of just one gigantic benefit in having that stadium in or near Pontiac: The 1968 World Series.

★ ★ ★

When the umpire called "Play Ball," Wednesday at Busch Stadium, cash registers started ringing in St. Louis and Detroit.

Local businesses in those cities have braced for the happy shock wave.

Hotels have long been booked solid, with waiting lines extending far out into suburban communities.

Restaurants have rearranged tables to gain maximum benefit from space limitations.

The St. Louis Chamber of Commerce expects that if the series goes to a full seven games, it will mean more than $2 million in business to merchants in the St. Louis area.

At Tiger Stadium alone, it is estimated more than $200,000 will be spent just eating and drinking during the three games scheduled to be played there.

★ ★ ★

That should give you some idea what it would mean locally, if someday the host stadium to a World Series—or any championship event—were right here in our own back yard.

It makes that $7,500 effort to bring such a stadium here look like a flash in the pan.

Just Who Does He Think He Is Hurting?

Bumper Crops Add to Burden of Taxpayers

We agree with the theory that the best way to help backward countries is to teach them how to help themselves. This is especially true in the production of enough food to feed the many starving people in such nations.

But, along with this belief comes a disturbing thought: Maybe we ought not to do too good a job of helping people to help themselves, lest they become harnessed by our great malady of overproduction.

★ ★ ★

In other words, we are in some ways the victims of our own energy, ingenuity and efficiency.

★ ★ ★

It appears that we are in for a bumper harvest this year. Wheat, corn and soybeans in particular are pointing toward record or near-record levels.

★ ★ ★

However, the sound of rejoicing is not echoing through the farm belt, the halls of government or the supermarket. No one is particularly happy about a situation that means falling prices for the farmer, more paid out in support prices by the government and no compensating decline in the tab at the checkout counter for the taxpayer-consumer, who in the end picks up the tab for price support.

It wasn't supposed to work out this way. Through its complex of farm programs, principally reduction of producing acreage linked to supports, the Agriculture Department had hoped to keep production roughly in line with demand and payments to farmers within manageable limits.

★ ★ ★

But the American farmer has, true to form, demolished all the governmental expertise with his great efficiency. By continuing to increase per-acre yield through improved seed, fertilizer and technique, his output on 6.8-million fewer acres than last year is exceeding all expectations.

It's all going to cost the taxpayer plenty. President Johnson estimates an extra $700 million. Other guesses run higher—as high as $3.9 billion in support payments for the current fiscal year instead of the $2.9 billion budgeted.

In making the good earth steadily better, we are in a class by ourselves. Our performance in agriculture is truly phenomenal.

★ ★ ★

But our record in managing our bounty is something else again. We treat as an inconvenience what is basically a tragedy.

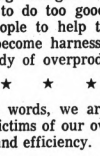
While starvation is reality to millions, even within our own borders, we spend billions to take land out of production and keep crops off the market in a generally unsuccessful attempt to keep both the producer and consumer happy.

There is no simple solution to this very complex problem, but certainly there must be a better approach than we have so far devised.

'Maginficent Giant' Visited Pontiac

By DICK SAUNDERS

Last Saturday I came home with cinders in my hair. It was glorious.



SAUNDERS

We went down to the Pontiac train station to see that special steam locomotive excursion come through.

I tell everyone I took my kids to see the big iron horse because it sounds familyish. But it really wasn't quite that way at all. The kids just came along.

★ ★ ★

I think they came along to watch me as much as anything else. It must be of some amusement to them to watch adults become kids again for a fleeting moment.

We weren't able to take in the full excursion to Durand due to prior commitments. It must have been great. The locomotive was originally purchased from the Reading Railroad by two rail fans and is now the largest of the old steamers still operating in the United States.

It was a magnificent giant. A thing of beauty, grunting and wheezing, blowing steam and belching black smoke and cinders from its stack.

★ ★ ★

There were people waiting there with tape recorders to capture it in sound; others carried cameras; some just came to watch and remember how it used to be.

There is something about a steamer that makes a diesel engine look and sound like an anemic, antiseptic imposter. A diesel is sexless by comparison.

The steamers had sex appeal; real personality. To the female fan, "he" was full of muscle; a symbol of masculinity, spittin' and swearin' his way down the main line. To the man, "she" was a glamorous lady, with a lovely face and fine body.

★ ★ ★

I remember the last regular steam run on the Grand Trunk Western Railroad through Pontiac on March 26, 1960. It was a cold, crisp Saturday morning.

There wasn't much of a crowd on the platform as the commuter made her last stop en route to Detroit.

★ ★ ★

She was so beautiful in the cool morning air, spewing that tall head of steam and smoke, all gray and black and frosty . . . waiting to begin that final trip in the dull twilight.

I took some pictures that morning, too. And I went to work with cinders in my hair.

★ ★ ★

The things I've said here about steamers, you can't apply to diesels.

The problem with a diesel is that it's too clean, too quiet and too damnably efficient. It isn't human. It has no human frailties. It has no heart. It is a machine.

The steamer was almost human. It had faults. When it worked, it got dirty and made noise.

Furthermore, a steamer let you know that it was often a real struggle to pull that long freight out of a siding onto the main line.

There is no such hint of struggle with a diesel.

★ ★ ★

Saturday, that steamer stopped across the Huron crossing for several minutes.

I looked at the traffic piling up and thought:

"You people in your cars don't know how lucky you are. Sit there and look at her as she blows smoke and cinders upon you. She is the last of her kind. Don't sound your horns. Stand up and blow her a kiss. She is the beautiful mistress of a dead age."

You can't say that about a diesel.

David Lawrence Asks:

Should Fortas Be on the Court?

WASHINGTON — Although President Johnson withdrew the nomination of Justice Abe Fortas to be chief justice, the issue of "good behavior" has by no means been settled.

LAWRENCE

The fundamental point at issue has not been touched. Little that is constructive has resulted.

The basic question—whether Justice Fortas is qualified to serve as chief justice — was not resolved. He was, in effect, denied the promotion because of allegedly improper or indiscreet acts. Maybe other justices will learn a lesson from this.

★ ★ ★

But, it might be asked, if the criticisms were valid, why was Fortas denied the post of chief justice and yet permitted to remain as an associate justice?

The Constitution declares that federal "judges shall hold their offices during good behavior." Since they are appointed by the President and confirmed by the Senate, it is logical that Congress and the President shall pass judgment on what meant by the phrase "good behavior."

SAME THINGS

It was said during recent weeks that other judges have done some of the same things which Justice Fortas was accused of doing. If so, will any steps be taken to reprimand them?

Can it be set forth plainly that the action of Justice Fortas in accepting large lecture fees collected by a former law partner from clients and business associates was specifically disapproved? Nor were his activities in serving as a private counselor to the President formally declared taboo.

★ ★ ★

Underlying the whole controversy is the public resentment against some of the decisions of the Supreme Court itself.

Justice Fortas, however, was not alone responsible for the various rulings made. Other justices participated in the court's decisions.

CERTAIN POWERS

Congress has certain powers whereby decisions of the high court can be overruled. A constitutional amendment can be proposed by both houses and offered for ratification by the states.

Also, Congress can enact a law limiting the jurisdiction of the court in certain types of cases.

★ ★ ★

A statute can be passed, moreover, declaring that no member of the high court shall directly or indirectly become involved in counseling the executive branch of the government. This could be described as a definition of "good behavior."

The Fortas controversy afforded an opportunity for many people to give vent to their feelings. This will by no means be abated as a result of the withdrawal of the nomination of Justice Fortas.

Bob Considine Says:

LBJ's Rebuttal on Viet Leaves Humphrey Irked

NEW YORK — People . . . places . . .

Candidate Hubert Horatio Humphrey was quite upset by his boss's "no man can predict" rebuttal to his statement that some U.S. troops would be coming home from Vietnam by the end of this year or early next.

CONSIDINE

He was also disturbed by Denfense Secretary Clark Clifford's disclaimed, on "Meet the Press," that there were no prospects whatever for a reduction in the size of American forces in Vietnam in the foreseeable future.

"The vice president knows, as everybody else does, that we could bring home 25,000 'house-keeping' troops tomorrow without impairing our clout," one of Humphrey's aides told us indignantly.

★ ★ ★

"I just can't understand why the administration is not lending more support to him, why it isn't backing him up on even the obvious things.

"It's a crazy thought, I know," the aide said, "but sometimes I think they want to see Nixon win."

Foreign Minister Tran Chanh Thanh of South Vietnam lifted a rug the other day to reveal some unpleasant dust we have tried to sweep under it.

He said that South Vietnam's armed forces would continue to fight if the U.S. and North Vietnam reaches an agreement that is not to the liking of the Saigon government.

★ ★ ★

Our people have tried not to think about that possibility or probability, whichever it is. This war started as a fight between the Saigon government forces and insurrectionist Vietcong units, also from South Vietnam, of course.

The latter were supplied and in some cases trained by Ho Chi Minh's government in the north.

We, who had once sided with Ho Chi Minh when he was leading the underground war against Japanese occupation forces, now sided with Saigon and sent it limited supplies and a relatively small number of nonshooting advisers.

The war has long since escalated into a large conflict between the U.S. and North Vietnam, and it is these two powers alone who are conferring at Paris, not the Saigon government or the Vietcong. If accord is reached at Paris that ignores the original combatants, Thanh was saying, the original war would resume.

Where would we go from there?

'Front Page Hero Story Was Enjoyable Reading'

I was thrilled to see on the front page, for a change, the hero story of Robert Green. That was enjoyable reading. For the first time in months I read an article through.

I'm sick of picking up the paper and reading about war, violence, burning draft cards, etc. If man would only stop and help his neighbor once in awhile and put self behind and God first in his life, wouldn't we have a nice place in which to live?

Comments on Recent Demonstration at OU

Regarding the picture of the demonstrators at Oakland University, what is education doing for our young folks? Neatness and appearance used to mean something. These are supposed to be well-educated youngsters. The sit-ins and demonstrations have got to be stopped before we can achieve peace in this Country. There should be more respect for law and order.

Letters Discuss Candidates for Presidency

At least one presidential candidate is not afraid to speak out against the people that are driving our country to ruin. If elected, George Wallace will take some badly-needed action. Wallace has done wonders for Alabama. He can do wonders for all of us if given the chance. He has the strength our forefathers had and their determination. This country has worked over 200 years for what we have. Must we lose it in the next few years?

BETY PARRISH

I find the GOP's most recent southern strategy extremely abhorent. Michigan's Congressman Gerald Ford, Republican minority leader, has advised Southern Republican Congressional candidates that they need not support the Nixon-Agnew ticket, in the face of local Wallace sentiment, if it "endangers their own election." The obvious implications are that Rep. Ford and southern Republican congressional candidates see no basic policy differences between Nixon and Wallace, or that so-called southern Republican candidates are simply Wallace candidates masquerading in Republican clothing.

★ ★ ★

If the former is true, it represents a severe indictment of the Republican presidential candidate by his own party. If the latter is true, it illustrates the willingness of the Republican party to attach itself to racist candidates in order to win control of the Congress. No Democrat or Democratic candidate will suggest any alliance with Wallace or Wallace-type candidates. Both our party and our presidential candidate, Hubert Humphrey, would disavow any such tactic as that being espoused by Congressman Gerald Ford.

Question and Answer

I'm new in this country and am renting a home. During our absence, a window was broken. My landlord says he isn't responsible for replacing it. Who really is responsible for the damage?

MRS. T. M.

REPLY

We talked to Mr. Hunter in the City legal department. He says no city ordinance covers this, but if you have a written lease, responsibility for damages should be outlined in the lease. If not, it is usually the tenant who is responsible for ordinary repairs, the landlord for major repairs and upkeep. However, this is a legal matter, and a lawyer could give you more specific advice. If you can't afford a lawyer, Oakland County Legal Aid Society, FE 335-8163, may be able to help you.

Student Aid

Chicago Tribune

In the next three years 7.2 billion dollars in federal tax funds will be distributed to colleges and universities. How much of the money will be spent to support student rioters?

This question bothered members of the House when the bill came up last July, soon after the well organized uprising at Columbia university. The House voted to cut off federal aid to students whose actions were "of a serious nature and contributed to the disruption of the administration."

★ ★ ★

This mandatory cutoff was opposed by many colleges and universities. The Senate then decided that college officials should be permitted to decide when funds should be cut off. House and Senate conferees now have reached a compromise. A student will lose federal aid for two years if he is convicted by a court of any crime involving use of force, disruption of campus activities, or seizure of college property. A student also may be deprived of federal tax support if he or she willfully refused to obey lawful regulations or orders of college officials.

Under these provisions order can be maintained. The taxpayers who are being soaked by the federal and state governments for higher education projects should not be obliged to subsidize students like those who rioted at Columbia, at the University of California, and at the University of Illinois.

★ ★ ★

The left wing Students for a Democratic Society already has called for "a dozen Columbias." J. Edgar Hoover quoted a New Left leader as saying "perhaps 25 universities linked to the movement would be too much for the police — for the dominant class — and we would get what we demand." The FBI director added:

"These extremists openly avow that their aim is to overthrow the existing order. Under the guise of academic freedom and freedom of speech, they profess to seek a dialogue, when actually what they seek is a confrontation with established authority to provide disorder. They expect to smash first our educational structure, then our economic system, and finally our government itself.

★ ★ ★

"It is vitally important to recognize that these militant extremists are not simply faddists or 'college kids' at play. Their cries for revolution and their advocacy of guerrilla warfare evolve out of a pathological hatred for our way of life and a determination to destroy it.

While violent student groups make up only a small minority of college students, they seem able to enlist support from many native faculty members and timid administrators. It will be interesting to see how many college administrations have the stamina to cut off federal funds from rioters, as Congress has directed.

Volume Tops Million Shares

Mart Maintains Upward Pace

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market maintained its upward pace in active trading early Friday.

The tape quickly fell three minutes behind as volume moved above the one-million share mark.

★ ★ ★

Advances exceeded declines by more than 100 issues.

Brokers said the momentum engendered in Thursday's explosive advance was likely to help carry the market to further high ground. Many also felt the penetration of previous barriers would loose new demand that would be certain to be attracted in any near period of reaction or consolidation.

PRICE PROP

They noted this could be expected to serve as a price prop against any immediate setback.

★ ★ ★

Also bolstering market support were news of healthy increases in retail sales, a record rise in installment credit, and some further easing of loans rates.

Opening blocks included 40,000 shares of Bristol Myers, off 1½ at 73½; 18,000 Falstaff Brewing, up ¼ at 17; 12,000 AMF up ⅜ at 24¾ and 10,500 American Telephone unchanged at 53¾.

★ ★ ★

Most changes in the over-all list were fractional. General Motors added ⅛. Aircrafts and electronics were generally higher. Xerox dropped 2.

★ ★ ★

Thursday the Associated Press 60-stock average gained 2.2 at 355.0.

Wall Streeters to See Curvy Californian

NEW YORK (AP)—A California brunette is the latest to invade Wall Street in the burgeoning "sweater girl derby" that has developed since a Brooklyn girl turned the street's usually staid bulls and bears into wolves.

Geri Stotts, 36, of Burbank, who measures 47-29-38, stands 5 feet 10 and weighs 150 pounds, told newsmen: "We're just going to take a walk down Wall Street at noon.

"I've run into three or four women who are much larger than I am, but they don't have my proportions," Mrs. Stotts

An employe of an auto agency, she said both her husband and 21-year-old son approve of her venture, which brings her to New York for the first time.

IT'S HER DAY

She said her husband told her, "As long as you're having a good time, it's your day."

A Californian for the past 14 years, Mrs. Stotts was born in Harrisburg, Pa. Her trip is sponsored by Los Angeles radio station KGIL.

Economy Unabated by Surtax and Cuts

By ROBERT D. HAWORTH
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK — The U.S. economy continues to advance at a rapid pace despite the enactment of the 10 per cent tax surcharge and the accompanying federal spending cuts.

A leading bank economist says that when he left on a trip to Europe early in the summer, there was considerable fear among some fellow economists that the fiscal restraint package would lead to a recession or minirecession. Upon his return, he said, he was surprised at how much the talk had turned to complaints that the surcharge was not braking the economy soon enough or fast enough.

★ ★ ★

The consensus among most economists is that the shift in fiscal policy enacted last June eventually will be reflected in a cooling-off of the economy. But some are questioning whether the change will be emphatic enough or long-lived enough to alter materially the inflationary bias in the economy.

The First National City Bank of New York, in its Monthly Economic Letter for October, noted that the consumer price index rose again in August following sharp increases in June and July. During the three-month period, consumer prices rose at an annual rate of 5.3 per cent, well above the increase in earlier months.

Citibank also noted that consumers have refused to be inhibited by the tax increase, as reflected in the sharp rise in retail sals in July which continued at a high level in August and September. Consumers apparently have avoided spending cuts by dipping into record savings and through pay increases which offset the tax, the bank said.

Many economists maintain it was wrong to expect the economy to react at once to the tax increase. Andrew F. Brimmer, a member of the Federal Reserve Board, said recently the goal of moderating economic growth will be achieved despite the delayed response "of some sectors of the economy," particularly consumer areas.

★ ★ ★

And the influential Bank of America, the nation's largest, has predicted a substantial slowing of the economy in the year ahead as the fiscal restraint package takes effect.

★ ★ ★

In a booklet entitled "Focus on 1969, the U.S. Economy," Bank of America said the most pronounced slowing in business activity will develop in the closing months of 1968 or early 1969.

SUBDUED SETTING

"The temporarily subdued economic setting will provide the basis for a much-needed slow-up in the inflationary pressures which have been developing over the past several years," the bank said. "The primary question is whether these inflationary tendencies can be abated without a clamor for more expansionary programs or paying too high a price in terms of lost economic growth and unemployed resources."

★ ★ ★

Citibank said that since the tax surcharge did not go into effect until July, there will be a major adjustment of withholding rates at tax time next spring which will sharply reduce refunds and increase balance-due payments.

★ ★ ★

"These April adjustments will come on top of the $3-billion-a-year increase in Social Security taxes on Jan. 1," the bank said. "As a result, the federal deficit is now expected to drop to $5 billion from $25.4 billion in fiscal 1968.

"The prospect of a sudden, substantial shift in the federal budget has all along formed the basis for forecasts of a general economic slowdown."

No End Seen in California Grape Dispute

DELANO, Calif. (AP) — "La Huelga!"

The past four years, those Spanish words—the strike!—have been the rallying cry of an epic California labor dispute in the hot vineyards of one of the world's richest agricultural belts. The end is not in sight.

★ ★ ★

Technically, no strike exists: members of the AFL-CIO United Farm Workers Organizing Committee (UFWOC) merely are refusing to accept jobs. Nonunion members are available, and are working.

For four years, however, matters have grown steadily more bitter, reaching a peak early this year when a national boycott was called against the sale of California table grapes.

KEY WORD

The key word in the dispute is table. Wine and raisin grapes are not involved.

Every major political candidate—and some minor ones—has been pressured to take a position. Many church councils have endorsed it. Some grocery chains have discontinued the sale of table grapes.

★ ★ ★

The boycott is designed to force growers, who share in California's $3.8-billion-a-year agricultural industry, to the bargaining table.

On one side of the issue: the growers, whose lands lie among fields producing 37 per cent of the fruits and vegetables sold in the United States.

On the other: Mexican-Americans who bring in the harvest, traveling from one spread to another in season. When the harvest is done, so is their job—until the next time. The average farm worker toils 134 days a year. About 84 per cent less than the federal poverty level of $3,100, with an average annual income of $1,378, the union contends. Growers contend grape pickers average more than $2 an hour.

U.S. Spending Outlook Good

Report Cites Inflation Fears, Income Gains

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Frequent and sizable gains in income and concern about inflation were cited Thursday as making prospects for consumer spending in the United States good.

★ ★ ★

The University of Michigan's Survey Research Center said its latest quarterly survey of consumer attitudes and inclinations to buy indicates, however, that major changes in spending and saving rates depend on developments in the Vietnam War, the inflation picture and the forthcoming presidential election.

★ ★ ★

A growing proportion of persons with income gains do not feel that their financial situation has improved, the survey showed, and widespread income increases were said to stimulate consumer demand to a smaller extent than would otherwise be the case.

★ ★ ★

The survey is based on a national cross-section of 1,325 families interviewed between Aug. 12 and Sept. 6.

★ ★ ★

The latest survey showed that 51 per cent of all families reported making more money a year ago, but only 36 per cent said they are better off financially.

News in Brief

Burglars broke into Crary Junior High School, 501 N. Cass Lake, Waterford Township, last night and forced open several vending machines, according to township police. A window was broken to gain entry, police said. The amount of money taken was undetermined.

David Huthwaite of 545 Pierce, Birmingham, told Pontiac police yesterday that someone stole the wheel covers, valued at $86, from his car parked at Pike and Saginaw.

Successful Investing

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q — Last spring my shares of United Corp. were exchanged for $4 preference of the newly merged Pennzoil United. A dividend increase to $1 a share on the new common split shares makes me wonder if I should convert my preference shares to get the better yield. Can I convert?—F.W.

A — Your shares are convertible into 1.44 common shares for six years from the effective date of the merger. However, there is some misunderstanding on the new dividend rate which is 20 cents a quarter or 80 cents a year, making the yield on the preference shares still slightly higher than on the common. Since the preference shares are convertible, they tend to move in line with the common, plus offering additional safety. I see no advantage in conversion at this time.

★ ★ ★

Pennzoil United moved up sharply, partially in response to the spring rally but primarily on its own momentum, triggered by excellent earnings and a mammoth sulphur discovery by 98 per cent-owned Duval Corp. Although this mineral deposit is not expected to contribute to earnings much before 1970, it does provide a good long-term potential.

Perhaps the best testimony to Pennzoil's excellent outlook is tendered by the 30 institutional investors who hold 17 per cent of the company's stock.

★ ★ ★

Q — Is Zurn Industries worth holding despite its sharp drop from our purchase price of 45? If it has a future we can afford to hold it.—M. W.

A — There's good growth ahead for Zurn, I believe, and I'd hold the shares which you bought at the year's trading peak.

Sales are in an uptrend from an aggressive acquisition policy, but heavier-than-normal expenses resulted from moving one plant, and profit margins narrowed unexpectedly on the output of another. The company's president is predicting a 30 per cent increase in share net for fiscal 1969 (March) on possibly 70 per cent higher sales.

A major growth factor is Zurn's leading position in the design, manufacturer and installation of pollution control systems — both air and water.

★ ★ ★

Boaz Siegel said the 60 days given the panel to hear testimony and complete its report is up Oct, 12 and the final plan will be in the hands of the governor by that time.

★ ★ ★

Siegel, a Detroit attorney, said he didn't know if Romney would immediately release the findings of the panel.

★ ★ ★

The three-member panel completed its hearing on the east-west expressway Tuesday in Southfield's city hall.

★ ★ ★

Objections to various sections of the proposed 6.5-mile stretch have been raised by Royal Oak, Pleasant Ridge, Huntington Woods, Oak Park, Southfield and Lathrup Village.

Firemen Set Open House

The Highland Township Fire Department will hold an open house Sunday from 1 to 4 p.m. to recognize fire prevention week, Oct. 6-12.

There will be a fire truck display at the Highland Shopping Center, Duck Lake Road and M-59, Oct. 12. Firemen will be present to answer questions regarding fire prevention.

★ ★ ★

Asa R. Smith, assistant fire chief, said he and other firemen hope to visit elementary schools in the area during the week and speak to pupils regarding fire prevention.

Jury Convicts City Man of Knife Slaying

An Oakland County Circuit Court jury yesterday found a 23-year-old Pontiac man guilty of second-degree murder in the knife slaying of a Royal Oak Township youth last winter.

Deliberating most of the day, the jury returned the verdict against James O. Stovall of 348 Raeburn for the killing of Arthur E. Chaney, 19.

★ ★ ★

Stovall was charged with first-degree murder after he turned himself over to Pontiac police several hours after Chaney's body was found in the back yard of a home on South Sanford on Dec. 18.

An autopsy revealed that Chaney died of a stab wound in the heart.

AUDITOR'S OPINION

Board of Education
Avondale School District
Auburn Heights, Michigan

We have examined the accounts of the General Fund, Debt Retirement Funds and the Building and Site Fund of AVONDALE SCHOOL DISTRICT (an Oakland County, Michigan fractional school district) for the year ended June 30, 1968. Our examination was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards, and accordingly included such tests of the accounting records and such other auditing procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances.

Our examination did not include an audit of the child accounting records. Our report includes a schedule of the receipts and disbursements of the Avondale School revolving and student body activities accounts. Inasmuch as we did not perform all of the necessary auditing procedures, we do not express an opinion on this fund.

In our opinion, except as noted in the preceding paragraph, the accompanying balance sheets and the related statements of revenues and expenditures present fairly the financial condition of the General Fund, Debt Retirement Funds and the Building and Site Fund of the Avondale School District at June 30, 1968, and the results of their operations for the year then ended, in conformity with the generally accepted modified accrual basis of accounting for Michigan schools consistent with the preceding year.

Costly Wait for Sole Voter

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — Four election-board employes, each paid $20 a day, are waiting for the only resident of the 2nd Ward's 6th District to register for the November balloting.

The district is in a downtown urban renewal area that was cleared recently of all but three homes. Two of them are vacant, and the third is occupied by a man "who hasn't registered for an election yet," City Clerk Daniel White said.

★ ★ ★

The registration period started Thursday and runs through Saturday. White called the expenditure of $240 for the four registration workers "outrageous," but election-board officials said the law required that all districts be manned.

Senate Okays Spending Bill for Military

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House-Senate conference committee has the task of working out a military spending bill that will be the largest in history for the second straight year.

The bill passed by the Senate Thursday carries a $71.9-billion price tag. The House version, passed earlier, is $352 million bigger.

President Johnson had asked for $77 billion.

Military appropriations totaled $86.4 billion in 1944, the height of World War II, but the money came in several bills.

Last year's appropriation bill was for $69.9 billion.

ATTEMPTS BEATEN

Supporters of the Senate bill, which passed 55 to 2, beat back several attempts to trim the measure. The closest vote, 45 to 24, came Wednesday on an attempt to cut $387 million from the $700 millio nprovide dfor the Sentinel antiballistic missile system.

The portion of the bill earmarked for Vietnam amounts to $25.8 billion.

★ ★ ★

The bill also includes $130 million to develop a substitute for the scrapped Navy F111 swing-wing fighter-bomber.

The two who voted against the bill Thursday were Democrats Ernest Gruening of Alaska and Stephen Young of Ohio.

Junior Editors Quiz on CINNAMON

QUESTION: Where does cinnamon come from?

★ ★ ★

ANSWER: Cinnamon — which we generally use in powdered form — is a strong spice. We don't recommend tasting the powder directly. But if you mix it with sugar, and then taste it and smell it, it will give you a delightful, aromatic feeling of the Far East. You can almost imagine the clonking of Far Eastern music, elephants, pagodas.

The best form of cinnamon comes from the island of Ceylon, below the southern tip of India. Here it grows as a tree with slim branches. When the bark of the lower branches is dried after being peeled, it curls into tubes (lower right) which are sold in bundles as cinnamon, later being ground.

Another Far Eastern plant, cassia, is often used in place of cinnamon.

Cinnamon has many uses in cooking and flavoring, such as in the making of delicious cinnamon tea rolls. Cinnamon toast, made by sprinkling cinnamon and sugar on buttered toast, is a favorite way to bring the romance of the East to your home dinner table.

You can win $10 cash plus AP's handsome World Yearbook if your question, mailed on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of this newspaper, is selected for a prize.

Hoffa Case Lawyer Seen at Bribe Probe

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Walter Sheridan, who spearheaded prosecution of James Hoffa for jury-tampering in 1964 apparently was the lead-off witness Thursday before the latest federal grand jury investigating the Teamsters union leader.

Sheridan, now an investigator for the National Broadcasting Co., was special assistant to the late Robert F. Kennedy, then U.S. attorney general, when Hoffa was convicted in Chattanooga on the jury - tampering charge. He and Edward Grady Partin, Baton Rouge, La., Teamster official who was chief government witness against Hoffa in Chattanooga, both were seen at the U.S. District Courthouse this morning.

★ ★ ★

Hoffa now is serving an eight-year prison sentence at the federal correctional institution in Lewisburg, Pa. The grand jury was called into session to look into reports that several witnesses against him and a one-time attorney have been offered bribes to change their testimony in an effort to free him.

Sheridan recently said he was offered $1 million to change his own testimony in the Hoffa case. The statement was made in open court here on a motion by the former Hoffa lawyer, Z. T. Osborn of Nashville, when Osborn sought to overturn his own 3½ - year jury-tampering sentence.

The motion was denied—and Osborn is appealing.

Also reported in Nashville for the grand jury investigation is William Hawk Daniels, Baton Rouge city judge. Daniels was quoted recently as saying a Baton Rouge businessman had offered him $250,000 to change his testimony in the Hoffa case.

Guest Lecturer on Penal System Has Inside Data

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Harvard Law School students wanted an inside view of the penal system, so they called in an expert—onetime bank robber Theodore "Teddy" Green, former inmate at Massachusetts State Prison and Alcatraz.

Green, now an automobile salesman, was a guest lecturer at the law school Thursday. He appeared at the invitation of Prof. James Vorenberg, former director of the Justice Department's Office of Criminal Justice in Washington.

Green who made several escapes while at the old Charlestown State Prison, said that if he had hope of gaining freedom, "I'd have spent a lot less time planning escapes and more planning a future."

"But with 104 years hanging over me, the only thing that kept me sane was dreaming up ways to get out," he said.

Divers Hope to Get Satellite Generators

LOMPOC, Calif. (AP) — Divers hope to recover within the next few days the generator packages carried by the nuclear-powered weather satellite that fell into the Pacific Ocean shortly after launch last May.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said Thursday the wreckage of Nimbus B, valued at about $50 million, was sighted four miles north of San Miguel Island in water 350 feet deep by the crew of a small search-submarine operated under contract to the Atomic Energy Commission.

Housed in six-inch-diameter steel and graphite capsules, the pill-shaped isotype fuel elements apparently were not damaged by either the ocean impact or sea corrosion, the AEC said. If recovered, they will be returned to the AEC, which said they represent no hazard to human or marine life.

Lauren, Jason Separate After 7 Years of Marriage

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Lauren Bacall and Jason Robards, Jr., have separated after seven years of marriage.

Betty — or Baby, as the late Humphrey Bogart called his child bride—told me, "We're not contemplating divorce . . . we're not contemplating anything at all."

WILSON

And she hopes that after her gifted husband gets over the difficult rehearsals of his next show, "We Bombed in New Haven," and she recovers from hurting her leg while dancing at a party at the Four Seasons, that they will reconcile. "We're going to try," she said. They're calling it a trial separation.

I sat in on the televised NBC-Friars roast of Johnny Carson and it'll be a great show on his birthday Oct. 23. Some classic lines: Alan King re Sullivan: "He burst forth on show business with the impact of a soggy marshmallow." Sullivan "It hasn't been easy walking out for 20 years saying, 'Let's hear it for the flying Walinskys'."

Steve Allen: "One thing Carson did better than any of us was quit. He would like to quit more but he's not there often enough." Carson to Rickles: "I don't want to alarm you about your new show but ABC is taking another look at the Gale Storm reruns. You got the season off to a flying stop." Rickles to Mayor Lindsay: "Congratulations on always being such a nice guy while the city is being destroyed."

As Groucho Marx celebrates his 73rd birthday, the producers of "Minnie's Boys," the story of the Marx Brothers, are hoping to get him to play himself . . . The gal who shot Andy Warhol wrote to him from the hospital asking to be in a movie with him. He isn't terribly interested . . . Marcello Mastroianni slipped into the Sherry from Canada. He lost his bags somewhere en route.
