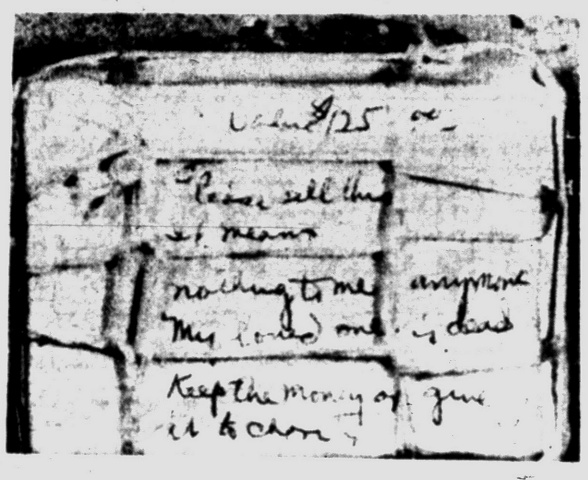
THE RING — Norman L. Pattison, owner of Connolly's Jewelers, 16 W. Huron St., examines diamond engagement ring he received Friday from a mysterious person who told him to sell it because "my loved one's dead."



THE PACKAGE — This is the note which Pattison saw upon removing the package from the envelope. He believes it came from a man or woman whose mate had just died.

Mystery Diamond to Aid UF

Mail Brings Ring of Grief

By GEORGE T. TRUMBULL JR.

Somewhere, a heartbroken person sits, unaware that a once-cherished diamond ring will probably mean $125 for the Pontiac Area United Fund.

The square-cut diamond arrived mysteriously yesterday in Pontiac. It came in a small 3 by 2½-inch package addressed to Connolly's Jewelers, 16 W. Huron St. Connolly's was mistakenly spelled "Connoleys" on the outside wrapper.

"Thought at first it was a repair someone was sending in until I read the note, which kind of set me back a little," declared Norman L. Pattison, owner of Connolly's.

The note, written with pen on the inside wrapper, tightly held together with white string, read:

"Value $125. Please sell this. It means nothing to me anymore. My loved one's dead.

Keep the money or give it to charity."

There was no hint whatsoever as to who sent the ring. And why to Pontiac? And why to Connolly's?

"Apparently it comes from someone who used to live in Pontiac and knows the reputation of the store, or maybe even purchased the ring at the store," said an anxious Pattison before he opened the mysterious box.

It was mailed first class and cost the sender 8 cents. A nearly illegible postmark indicated it was mailed from California, possibly from Corte Madera, a tiny suburb of San Francisco.

A third wrapper was around a

Industrialist Wearies of Jail Cell

After 30 days in Oakland County Jail, Harvey S. Freeman wants out.

The Detroit industrial designer will offer Oakland County Circuit Court a compromise Monday in exchange for his freedom.

Freeman, 37, of 29553 Lochmoore Rd., Farmington Township, is serving a 90-day term for failure to pay $1,050 in temporary alimony to his estranged wife, Virginia, 31.

"I'm still broke and can't pay it," said Freeman after his attorney filed the petition for a new hearing.

But Freeman said he is willing to start paying support for his family again, at a reduced rate of $40 a week for his wife and three sons, Michael, 7; David, 5, and Thomas, 3.

This is $80 a week less than the amount set by Circuit Judge William J. Beer in February, a month after Mrs. Freeman started the divorce on grounds of mental cruelty.

Last month, Freeman was told by Judge Beer that he would have to make good $550 in unpaid support payments and $500 in attorney fees for his wife or go to jail for contempt of court.

Toilet kit in hand, Freeman appeared in court four days later ready for jail, saying he was broke.

Designer of the bullet-proof suit of armor which the Detroit Police Dept. adopted several years ago and nicknamed "The Armadillo," Freeman is angry at the Friend of the Court's office.

CLAIMS DEFICIT

Admitting net sales of $75,815 last year as owner of the Independent Engineering Co. in Detroit, Freeman maintained that he ended the year $3,800 in the hole.

The Friend of the Court advised Judge Beer that Freeman netted a $14,000 profit.

"The judge wouldn't believe

Doctors Say Susan Badly Confused

Pontiac's Grads Told to Pick Up Challenge

While the topics may have been different, "take up the challenge and meet your responsibilities," was the theme of advice to Pontiac Central High School and Pontiac Northern High School graduates in commencement addresses yesterday.

Dr. Lowell R. Eklund, director of continuing education at Michigan State University Oakland, spoke about "The Fabulous Future" to the more than 3,000 gathered in Central's gym.

Graduates and a more-than-capacity crowd filled the new auditorium at Northern to hear D. B. Varner, chancellor of MSUO, speak on "The Fortunate Few."

Of the great strides and challenges to be undertaken, Eklund cited peace as the most important. He urged the 345 graduates to adopt an old maxim in working toward that end.

"You must be your brother's keeper," he said. "You must know that your brother is the Hindu boy starving in the streets of Calcutta.

"You must know that your brother is the lad fighting for freedom in Hungary.

"You must know that your brother is the boy held prisoner in a Red Chinese commune.

"You must know that your sister is the colored girl in Little Rock with the white woman's spittle running down her cheek."

Eklund told the graduates that all assembled for their commencement are concerned with the "glorious potential" of their lives.

'GREEN YEARS CLOSE'

"The green years are bowing to a close, seniors. Ahead lies a fabulous future and a challenge. Man's achievements are limited only by his imagination. Some of you here today may in your lifetime journey to the moon.

"But, you must not only conquer the distance between the earth and the moon. You must conquer the distance between man and man."

Varner cautioned the 181 Northern graduates that "our enemes are undergoing a vast mobilization of brain power.

"I plead to you to continue your education," said Varner. "The demands of our responsibilities today make it imperative that we be educated.

"While you still have the impetus, you must renew your dedication to move ahead toward a more educated mind, for yourself and for the contribution you must make to society."

Whether or not a student is able to go on to college or pursue self-betterment in a less systematized way, Varner urged the graduates to mobilize America's drive to develop human resources.

ADDRESSES PARENTS, TOO

Varner directed a part of his talk to the parents in the audience.

"Some people are saying that rising education costs are breaking our economic backbone. Meanwhile, there was an average of 21 gallons of beer consumed per person last year in the state of Michigan.

"Is it going to be beer, or education?

"This is your opportunity to invest in a free American government."

Varner had a special welcome for the 21 Northern grads who will go on to the fall semester at Michigan State University Oakland.

Rape-Suspect Called Drunk

Wife Talks in Defense at Case That Involves Negro Coed

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP)—The wife of Willton T. Collinsworth tearfully told a white male jury today her husband was not responsible for his actions the night he and three companions allegedly raped a Negro coed.

"He was very well on his way to being dead drunk," she said of the last time she saw him the night of the alleged rape.

Mrs. Pearlie Collinsworth, a small, thin-faced brown-haired woman, took the stand to testify in support of a defense claim that Collinsworth was mentally incapable of distinguishing between right and wrong when he had been dringing.

On trial with Collinsworth are David E. Beagles, Ollie Stoutamire and Patrick Scarborough.

Mrs. Collinsworth wrung her hands nervously between sobs while she replied to questions about their family life.

"When he is sober you could not ask for a better husband. He was a good provider for me and the two children," she said.

"But when he had even one beer he couldn't stop and he didn't seem like the same man. He would beat me and he didn't seem to remember what he was doing."

Collinsworth, at 23 the eldest of the four white youths on trial for their lives in the case, became emotional as his wife and older brother testified. He wiped tears from his eyes with a handkerchief and buried his head in his hands.

The Collinsworth defense started after testimony of two other defendants, Beagles and Scarborough, that the Negro coed submitted to them voluntarily. The fourth defendant, Stoutamire, closed his case without taking the stand.

County School Aid Funds Short by $2,810,000

Many Operating Bills Will Not Be Paid With Normal Promptness

Schools in Oakland County can expect bill collectors to be knocking on their doors as the state announced that the county will be getting $2,810,000 less this year in state school aid funds.

With this money in turn usually distributed among school districts it is expected that its non-payment will mean that the school systems will not be able to meet all their operating bills as soon as would normally be possible.

However, the shortage will not be as damaging as could be if it were not that most of the systems have borrowed money against anticipated taxes and have voted excess millage, according to Claude M. Elmore, assistant superintendent of county schools.

"It will be like borrowing from Paul to pay Peter," Elmore said.

State Controller James W. Miller announced yesterday that four counties, including Oakland, will wind up the fiscal year June 30 with shortages of one million dollars or more in state school aid funds.

Statewide, the school aid deficit will come to $27,911,000, Miller said.

He emphasized that sales tax and other earmarked revenues still are flowing into the school aid fund, but all anticipated receipts are being set aside to make up a $16 million arrearage to the State School Employes Retirement Fund.

Elmore said lacking the payment of the $2,810,000 to Oakland County, the county will have received approximately 88 per cent of what the state had promised it in aid for the fiscal year which began July 1, 1958 and ends the last day of this month.

He said the shortage here will have an indirect result on the actual educational programs in the schools, as moneys which usually are applied for these purposes might have to be used to meet some bills.

Wayne County will be shorted the biggest sum, $7,728,000. Genesee will miss $1,405,000, Macomb $1,260,000, and Kent $1,020,000.

Other Michigan counties will be shorted amounts coming to less than a million dollars.

Convince Yourself First

LONDON (UPI)—Michael Ashe wrote in to plead guilty to a traffic offense. He almost convinced himself he was innocent in the process. He wrote eight lines of explanation, then crossed them out and said: "Please excuse the above. I had exonerated myself so completely I was even beginning to believe it." He was fined $7.

ORDEAL ENDS HAPPILY — Susan Lawrence is comforted by her parents, Lester and Miriam Lawrence, in Royal Oak's William Beaumont Hospital. The 14-year-old schoolgirl, missing since Monday, was found sitting in an Oak Park field by a motorist yesterday afternoon. The frail, 70-pound girl was dazed, dirty and disheveled but appeared unharmed.

Phone Call Wipes Away Lawrences' Dark Fears

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Lawrence of Detroit went through a lifetime of suffering in five days.

But a phone call to their home yesterday afternoon gave their real-life nightmare a happy ending.

A woman reporter answered the phone. She turned to Mrs. Lawrence and said:

"Susan's been found alive."

Mrs. Lawrence collapsed on the spot. After she was revived she became hysterical and started to cry.

Neighbors helped Mrs. Lawrence to a couch and soothed her.

"It's all right now. There's nothing to cry about," they said.

Mrs. Lawrence said, "Thank God. It was the Shayuot (a Jewish holiday). It has brought good luck. Thank God. Our prayers have been answered."

The holiday commemorates the giving of the Ten Commandments to Moses on Mt. Sinai and also marks the beginning of the summer harvest.

Neighbors streamed out of their homes to tell the Lawrences that they had heard the news and to congratulate the happy parents.

FROM GLOOM TO JOY

In a moment, the home changed from one of gloom and despair to one of happiness and jubilance.

The Lawrences were taken to the Oak Park police station. There they learned the daughter had already been taken to William Beaumont Hospital in Royal Oak.

Tears of joy fell from the parents' faces as they were escorted into the emergency ward for the reunion.

Mrs. Lawrence embraced her daughter.

The child whispered: "Hi — it was horrible."

Afterward, the happy mother said:

"Susan will be confirmed at this time next year and we want all the people of the press, radio and television, and the fine police officers to attend the confirmation.

"Our thanks to these good people is small, but it comes from our hearts and is meant to be big. Nothing we can do will ever repay what has been done for us."

'FRIEND FOR LIFE'

Mrs. Lawrence hugged Bert Schultz, the motorist who found Susan in Oak Park.

"I've never known Mr. Schultz before but he will be a friend of ours for life."

Schultz, a happy smile on his face, said, "Thank God I found her."

Susan's father, on the verge of tears, grabbed the motorist's hands.

"How can I ever thank you?" he asked.

Missing Girl Doesn't Know What Occurred

Detroit Teenager, Gone Since Monday, Wasn't Criminally Assaulted

By MAX E. SIMON

Susan Lawrence, the frail 14-year-old girl who vanished Monday from her home, was resting comfortably in Detroit's Mt. Sinai Hospital today.

Doctors described the girl as "completely confused" mentally.

She was found yesterday afternoon near the Northland Shopping Center by a motorist, Bert Schultz, 40, of Detroit.

Schultz, a manufacturer's representative, spotted the girl in a weed-grown field at Nine Mile and Greenfield roads.

Schultz said he drove approximately 200 yards past where Susan was sitting, then recalled the newspaper descriptions of the missing child.

He backed up his car, got out, and asked the child, who was sitting with her head between her knees, "Are you Susan Lawrence?"

BERT SCHULTZ

"Yes," the child murmured.

"Come on, I'll take you home," Schultz said.

"Thanks," she replied.

Schultz said the girl looked "worn, dejected and forlorn."

Schultz told the girl to put her head on the seat and close her eyes. "She seemed to be shivering."

HAILS POLICE CAR

The motorist hailed an Oak Park police car and told them he thought he had the missing Lawrence girl.

"My gosh, I think you have," said an astounded officer.

Golf Tourney Round Put Off

U. S. Open Delayed Day Because of Rain, First Time Ever

MAMARONECK, N.Y. (AP) — The fourth round of the National Open Golf Championship was postponed until tomorrow afternoon after rain, lightning and flooded greens caused delays of nearly two hours in the third round today.

Joe Dey, U.S. Golf Assn. executive director, announced the postponement shortly before noon.

It was the first time in the history of the open that a round has been postponed for any reason.

Because of a New York State blue law, play cannot start before 2 p.m. on Sunday. There were 61 players left in the field for the last two rounds, and the number presented a problem of trying to get them all through the first round before dark.

Dey said that new pairings will be made for tomorrow's round and that any professional who decides to withdraw after today's third round will receive one of the $200 last-place prizes that ordinarily go only to players completing the 72 holes.

Legal Barrier on City Cooler Falls

Hoping to Open Jail in September

Just three little words covered a recent inspection of the $100,000 Pontiac city jail: "Not in operation."

The new jail is on the second floor of the Public Safety Building which opened in December, 1957. It has never been used, but city officials are hopeful that the jail will finally open in September.

A legal barrier which once blocked the jail's opening has been removed.

Two Pontiac police officers last August obtained an injunction in Oakland County Circuit Court which halted the naming of a jail administrator.

Patrolmen Harold Hayden and Log Peters charged the city was about to name a civilian head of the jail when the job should go to a policeman.

LIFT INJUNCTION

The injunction was recently lifted after City Manager Walter K. Willman and Public Safety Director George D. Eastman promised that the job be given an officer.

The three-word "not in operation" report was filed in Lansing by W. H. Nestle, state inspector of jails for the Department of Corrections.

"No point saying more with the jail closed," Nestle explained.

Nestle's visit at the city jail was his second. The first was early last winter when he was invited down by local officials to make sure the jail met all state requirements.

TOURS LAYOUT

At that time, Nestle went through the jail, designed to house 20 prisoners, and containing six regular cells for men, two cells for women, two cells for incorrigibles, a six-man dormitory and a bullpen.

"The jail was ready for use. I gave the go-ahead on opening up," Nestle said.

Imagine my surprise when I came back and found the jail had never been opened."

Willman last year decided against taking any action on the jail until Eastman arrived in October.

He asked the safety director to prepare a jail report with recommendations.

Eastman's findings have been in Willman's hands a half year ago but no action has been revealed.

FALL OPENING

Although the 18-page report's contents are being kept secret, Willman said he plans to open the jail sometime in September.

"The opening of the jail is not a financial problem," Willman said. "It's a manpower shortage in the Police Dept. that is creating difficulty.

The police force is presently 28 officers short of its authorized strength of 129.

Whether the jail will be a full or part-time operation, and whether it will cost more to house prisoners in the city rather than the county jail are questions yet to be answered.

To open a jail, Nestle pointed out, an appropriate staff must be hired.

OUTLINES STAFF

At least four turnkeys, matrons and cooks would have to be employed if the jail is open 24 hours a day.

The salaries would push jail expenses close to and maybe more than double the $20,000 yearly it costs to lodge city prisoners in the Oakland County Jail.

Nestle said the jail should really employ eight turnkeys. "They're dealing with a tough element," he said. "Maximum security is important.

If the city accepted Nestle's estimate, the cost of running the jail would soar even higher.

Nestle said the jail was planned as a full-time operation.

"When the architect and former

They're Hot...and Nervous...It's Graduation Day!

It was an oppressive 82 degrees and the 345 of them milling about under their blue-gray gowns felt as though they were "wilting."

The boys' starched collars had taken no time at all to go limp and the girls dabbed repeatedly at perspiration above their lips.

The crowd had broken into little groups, straightening each other's ties, adjusting a black and orange tassle here and there.

A teacher, whose job it was to organize them, tried to make his voice heard above the last-minute confusion.

'IT'S TIME'

"All right, it's time, it's time," he shouted, throwing up his arms as some sort of signal to regroup. "Let's get the show on the road."

One young man, wearing his tassle on the wrong side of his mortarboard, said he sure was nervous. A pretty girl standing next to him brushed back the brown hair framing her face with a sigh: "Oh, my heart's thumping."

"I hope I don't trip going up the steps," said another.

They formed a long column of twos and began the slow processional into the gymnasium. An organ sounded their entrance and parents in the bleachers, fanning themselves with programs, turned all eyes fixedly on the doorway.

The same procession, this time of 181 youngsters clad in scarlet robes, began nine hours later at another school's auditorium.

The ceremonies will be everlasting in the memories of those graduates. All were impressed with the solmenity of the occasion. All were impressed with its significance.

SOLEMNITY EASES

Afterward, knots of parents and youngsters embraced and the solemnity gave way to animated gestures and exuberant congratulations.

A teenage girl stretched to kiss her brother but got a tassle instead.

A beaming mother put her arm around dad's waist and said something about how beautiful their daughter's smile was without the braces recently removed. Dad bussed mom's cheek.

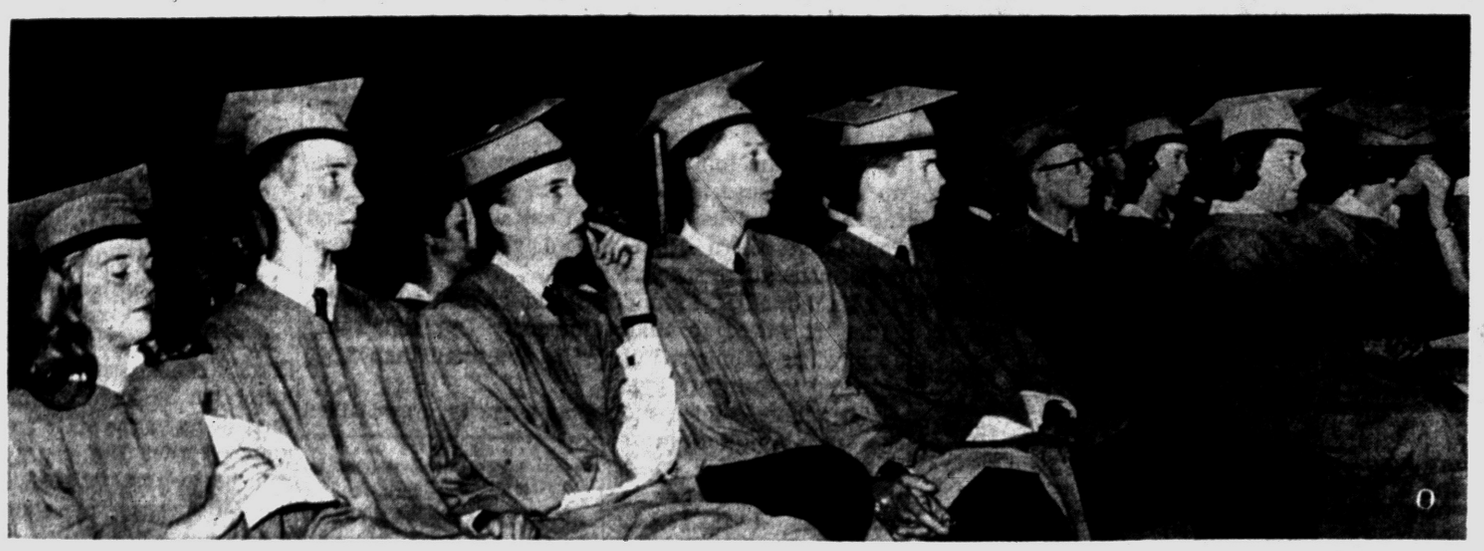
A five-year-old boy, maybe just at teeny bit envious, tugged at the full sleeve of his brother's gown and said, "You think you're so smart."

It was his day—and he sure is—all agreed.

This was the scene at Pontiac Central High School's gymnasium yesterday morning.

It was repeated in the evening as Pontiac Northern held its first commencement exercises in the auditorium of the new school.

THANK YOU, AT LAST — Kay Brantley was one of the 181 graduates to receive her diploma from Dr. Dana P. Whitmer, superintendent of schools, at Pontiac Northern High School commencement exercises last night. Kay seems to be saying something. Though we don't know the exact words, the heading of this caption couldn't be too far from what she's thinking.



RAPT AUDIENCE — Pontiac Central High School's 345 graduates listened attentively yesterday as they were addressed by Dr. Lowell R. Eklund, director of continuing education at Michigan State University Oakland. Dr. Eklund's commencement address was entitled "The Fabulous Future." Expressions on their faces reflects seriousness of graduates as they think of what lies ahead for them.

City Hopes to Open Jail in September

Police Chief Herbert W. Straley talked over plans with me, there was never any doubt the jail was to be run on a full-time basis.

NOT TEMPORARY

The jail was designed, Nestle said, to house city prisoners convicted of misdemeanors, not as a temporary lockup.

"I felt from the first that the jail would be uneconomical," Nestle said.

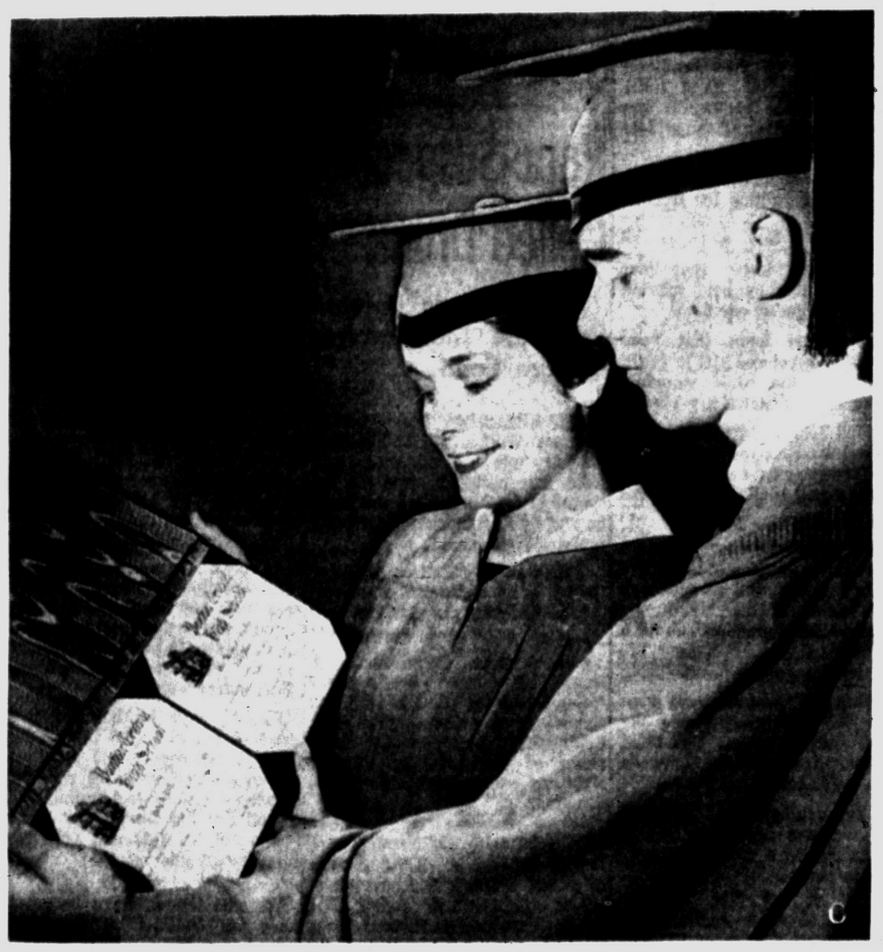
"But I didn't discuss economics with Straley and the architects. The chief knew what he wanted.

Meanwhile the jail — for which the city has purchased $22,000 worth of kitchen equipment to fit it its capacity of 20 prisoners — stays empty.

A matron's room with private bath is unoccupied. So are turnkey's offices, and a visiting room with special phones so prisoners can talk with visitors on the other side of a solid glass panel.

And city prisoners are still serving their sentences in the county jail.

THANKS AND A PROMISE — Harrison Munson, president of Pontiac Central High School's class of '59, addressed the graduates, faculty and guests at commencement exercises yesterday morning. In behalf of the class, Munson expressed thanks to parents and faculty and a promise to take up the challenge of the future.



FIRST ROLL CALL — Nancy Donaldson, treasurer of Pontiac Central High School's senior class of '59, and Philip White, vice president, called off the names of the graduates as they received their diplomas at commencement yesterday. The exercises were held in the school's gymnasium. This was the first time in the school's history that such a roll call was performed.

Susan Found in Confused State

Park police station. From there she was rushed by a police car to William Beaumont Hospital in Royal Oak for examination.

DELAY QUESTIONING

Dr. Seymour Adelson, her family physician, ordered the child transferred to Mt. Sinai Hospital after a preliminary examination.

Adelson said all questioning of the girl would be withheld until after she was "well rested."

He says her physical state was "quite reasonable" when she was found. "Mentally, he is confused, disorganized and disoriented," he said.

We are not sure whether the present mental state is a result of her five days away and have no idea of where she's been."

Susan told Oak Park Police that she had been "staying with friends," but Edel at the hospital she told her mother she did not know where she had been.

Preliminary examinations at Beaumont disclosed that the 70 pound teenager, a freshman at Detroit Mumford High School, was not criminally assaulted.

She recognized her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Lawrence, when they came to the hospital but was vague on her whereabouts during the days she was missing.

STORY UNBELIEVABLE

She seemed to be having bad hallucinations," said Lawrence.

Dr. Adelson said, "She realized that he has been wandering around and thinks she has been with some people. However, anyone she tells us now is completely unbelievable."

When Susan was found, she was barefoot and her body covered with mosquito and insect bites. Her dress was torn from the waist down.

Spots of blood, presumably from insect bites, were on her slip. The doctors said she had also suffered minor bruises and cuts.

When the parents and Susan were reunited, the daughter looked up and whispered: "Hi — it was horrible."

She then became incomprehensible.

"We've got her back and don't care where she's been. We are very happy."

The girl, who looks four or five years younger than her 14 years, disappeared Monday morning when she left home to go to the library to study for final examinations.

She never arrived at the school library and was not seen until Schultz picked her up yesterday.

Police at first believed the girl was the victim of a kidnaping but considered her a runaway after finding Susan's diary in which she said she hated school and Detroit.

Suicide was also considered a possibility because she wrote in her diary, I hate living. Sometimes I think if I were dead all this would end."

At the height of the search, more than 650 persons, volunteers, Boy Scouts and policemen, combed areas of the city.

DOESN'T REMEMBER

Susan was given a light supper of fluids last night at Sinai Hospital but still was unable to recall anything that happened after she left home and was vague about the few days before her disappearance.

"She didn't even remember that she appeared in 'South Pacific' at her Sunday school," Dr. Adelson said.

Susan's mother sobbed in the Beaumont Hospital emergency ward as she told of the reunion with her only child.

"She told us that she asked the way of a little boy who was two feet tall, and was half black, half blue and part white.

"And she said she tried to stop a truck once, but the hubcap came off. She said a man chased it, then the hubcap came back and the truck went away."

Mrs. Lawrence hugged Schultz in the emergency ward of the hospital. Her husband shook the motorist's hand again and again.

"Thank you, thank you, thank you . . ." the father said.

Mrs. Lawrence held her daughter's head in her lap as the girl was moved to the Detroit hospital.

"Our prayers have been answered," she said through her tears.

"Thank heaven it came out this way."

LONG SCARLET LINE — The first graduating class of Pontiac Northern High School formed a long red line as it marched to the stage at last night's commencement in the school's auditorium. The class sat on the stage during the ceremony. Their robes were impressive against a lavender backdrop.

me and the Friend of the Court is a friend only to women," Freeman complained.

Life in jail has not been unpleasant, said the graduate of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

In five days, Sheriff Frank W. Irons named Freeman head trustee, a position that results in better sleeping quarters, better food and the freedom of the jail.

But Freeman is worried about his business and misses his sons.

NEEDS BUSINESS

"If I don't get out and hunt up some new contracts, I'll be out of business within a month and my six employes will be out of their jobs," he said.

Freeman is also concerned lest his business reputation has been damaged by his stay in jail.

"But one friend told me he considered it 'strictly a business proposition' and I hope that's the general attitude."

Freeman said the Farmington Township Planning Board has turned down his offer to resign because of the jail record. He has been on the board a year.

Judge Beer said the Friend of the Court has made a new investigation of Freeman's finances.

Declining to divulge details of the agency's report, the judge indicated that the Friend of the Court wanted to hold the line on the alimony rates.

"This is the first time that Mr. Freeman has requested the court to consider changing the rates. This is surprising because he could have done this any time during the proceedings.

"Up to now, it seems, he has preferred to say, 'Nuts to the court.'

Sad Mystery Ring Arrives in the Mail

brown box from another jeweler, J. B. Hudson Co. of Minneapolis. Inside this box was a regular ring box holding the engagement ring. The ring box's top cover was missing.

Pattison examined the ring with an eyeglass and discovered it had not been mounted at his store. The diamond was about one-quarter carat, and worth "about $175."

"Because the sender set the $125 value I will sell the ring for that price and turn the money over to the United Fund to help kick off their fall campaign," Pattison said.

"Its' an awful nice stone," he said. "I can't see any imperfections in it."

MYSTERY REMAINS

The mystery remains, however. Who sent it?

Two Surrender in Uranium Deal

'False Representation' on Mines, Production May Have Hit 400

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Two men surrendered Friday night to face charges in connection with an uranium deal which may involve one million dollars or more.

John Milton Addison, 36, and Dan Nance, 32, ended a statewide search with their surrender. They were soon freed on bonds of $40,000 each.

Addison and Nance had been sought since Wednesday, when a county grand jury reported two indictments against each, ing them with stealing more than $50.

Homer Garrison Jr., who heads the Texas Department of Public Safety, said reports from investigators indicated as many as 400 persons "may have been victimized by false representation regarding uranium ore mines and production schemes.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Harold Hall said documents seized in a $150-a-day hotel suite indicated Addison and Nance had received money from people in 18 states.

Hall said the two moved in the best circles, dropping hints that they had a machine which would make it profitable to operate abandoned uranium mines. He said they let it be known that loans would be necessary for their operations, and never accepted less than $1,250.

Several investors expressed indignation over the indictments and arrests. One was John Crow, formerly an All America football player at Texas A&M who played professional football last season with the Chicago Cardinals.

Crow declined to say how much money he had invested but said he was positive he would get it back.

Long's Lawyers Confer on Writ

Habeas Corpus Hearing Slated for Monday in Galveston Court

GALVESTON Tex. (AP) — Attorneys for Gov. Earl Long of Louisiana conferred today about procedure when Long seeks release from a mental clinic here.

An application for a writ of habeas corpus comes up Monday before District Judge L. D. Godard.

Long, in his petition Friday, said he was "illegally confined and restrained in his liberty at the John Sealy Hospital." He was flown from Baton Rouge to Galveston May 30, and, according to his petition, was drugged and strapped to a stretcher for removal from the Governor's mansion.

And now, he contends, he is "a governor in exile by force and kidnaping." Lt. Gov. Lether Frzar has been carrying on the Governor's functions.

Long's three court-appointed attorneys are Adrian S. Levy Sr., former Galveston mayor, Jean Hosey, and Fine S. Bedford.

"If the writ is granted," Hosey said Friday night, "then we are faced with practical problems of what would be in Governor Long's best interest."

What the petition for a writ amounts to is a challenge to Texas' jurisdiction in a case involving a citizen of another state who claims he was transferred to that state against his will.

The petition was signed in Long's own handwriting, "Earl K. Long, Governor in exile by force and kidnaping."

Set for Tuesday, the day after the habeas corpus hearing, is a hearing in which the sanity of the 63-year-old governor would be the main issue.

Midwest Gets Welcome Relief From Hot Spell

By The Associated Press

Cold air knifed through the midwest today, offering some relief to the steaming hot weather that clutched most of the nation.

The mercury slid some 10 degrees at Midwest points during the early morning. The Weather Bureau in Chicago forecast significant daytime temperature drops throughout the Great Lakes and Ohio Valley.

Elsewhere, another day of high readings was on tap.

Thunderstorm activity was rather general in an Eastern sector, bounded by Ohio, Pennsylvania and Virginia.

Friday night, a funnel-shaped cloud, described as a "baby tornado" stormed through Celoron, a Western New York village. Trees were uprooted and there was some damage to buildings in the resort area.

An amusement park roller coaster was blown down by winds estimated by residents at 60 miles an hour. The roof of a drive-in ice cream shop was lifted by the wind and tossed some 50 feet into a used car lot.

Sever thundersqualls and hail storms accompanied the storm.

Thundershowers deposited some 1.75 inches of rain at Altoona, Pa. while 1.10 fell at Martinsburg, W. Va. Friday's hot temperatures were paced by a 110 at Needles, Calif., while Laredo, Tex. had a 101. To the north, Gooding, Idaho, saw the mercury rise to 99.

Fireworks Blast Kills 1

PORTVILLE, N.Y. (AP) — Gerald Ozzella, 27, was injured fatally and David Mendell, 21, suffered shock when three explosions ripped through the Olean Fireworks Co. Friday. Ozzella, son of the owner, David Ozzella, was mixing chemicals in one of the two company buildings when the first explosion occurred, state police said. A fire spread to a nearby building and set off two more explosions.

Boy's Final Day of Kindergarten Also Last of Life

SCARSDALE, N.Y. (AP) — It was little Russell Roy Anderson's last day of kindergarten.

Russell, 6 years old, gathered up his books at the Trinity Lutheran Church school and walked outside to await his father.

Arthur Anderson, the father, was several cars back in a line of other parents who had come to take their children home at 3 p.m. yesterday.

As Anderson waited his turn to move up, he heard a crash ahead. He got out to investigate.

In horror he saw the crushed body of his son.

Police said a car driven by Mrs. Catherine Stowell, 62, who had arrived to pick up a grandson, had lurched forward out of control, mounted the terrace where the Anderson boy was standing and struck him down.

The boy was pronounced dead a few minutes later.

2 Detroit Policemen Fired After Acquittal

DETROIT (UPI) — Two Detroit policemen who were acquitted of charges of criminal assault have been fired by the Police Department.

The officers, Edwin Cable, 36, and Michael O'Donnell, 31, appeared before a police trial board yesterday and were released from duty.

The men were acquitted last month by a recorder's court jury of charges of criminally assaulting a 22-year-old expectant mother.

Detroit Police Commissioner Herbert Hart said the men gave "deceptive answers" on lie tests they requested in their bid for reinstatement and back pay from the department.

The woman charged they assaulted her after stopping her for a traffic violation.

Mob of MSU Students Roams Over Campus

EAST LANSING (UPI) — A screaming mob of students roamed the Michigan State University campus for two hours early today before the disturbance was quelled by police.

Four students were locked up for disorderly conduct.

Police were prepared for more trouble tonight.

Observers said between 500 and 800 men milled around the Brody group of dormitories and 150 near Shaw Hall about 12:30 a.m. today.

They were shouting insults at policemen called to break up the crowd. Some tossed firecrackers, rolls of toilet paper and stones. One stone smashed a police car window. Bystanders were struck by flying missiles.

Three police officers, observers said, were mobbed by the students. One was tackled, another had his tie torn off.

Campus police summoned reinforcements. About 35 officers from Ingham County, East Lansing and State Police were on hand.

State Police sent out an emergency call for help from posts at Brighton, Ithaca, Ionia, Flint, Jackson and Battle Creek. The troopers stationed themselves outside the city but were not needed.

Police blamed the trouble on a combination of warm weather and final exams which are being held this week and next at MSU.

Students 'Flunk' TV Education

They Rap Automation, 'Robot Classrooms,' Want Teachers Back

COMPTON, Calif. (AP)—TV, as an instructor, is strictly a one-eyed monster from nowhere among the crew-cut set at Compton College.

The collegians say:

They're tired of being guinea pigs in a pioneer TV education project.

Video instruction has all the facination of an hour-long commercial.

It gets a zero in the campus audience rating — compared with an old-fashioned professor you can talk back to.

Friday more than 200 cut classes and picketed the campus with placards protesting "automatized education" and "robot classrooms." They hanged in effigy a headless figure called "pioneering spirit."

Sophomore Ted Hallisey, 20, a leader of the Student Organization for Better Education, explained:

"When a student sees TV, he expects entertainment. He's expecting 'Gunsmoke,' not algebra. And there is no instructor to ask questions of and clear up misconceptions. It destroys the entire concept of student - teacher relationships."

The anti-TV faction says it has signatures of 1,500 students seeking to oust TV from the classroom and return it to the living room. The two-year Southern California school has an enrollment of 1,800.

A recent industry survey shows that 30 per cent of all wrist watches are purchased by men for themselves, 30 per cent are bought by men as gifts for others, 31 per cent are sold to women for gifts and only nine per cent are bought by women for their own use.

Have Always Been at Least 2 Full Blows a Year

Tropical Hurricane Season Will Begin Monday

MIAMI (UPI) — The season begins Monday when steamy Atlantic waters near the equator area ready to spawn nature's most awesome show of power — the tropical hurricane.

For the record, the hurricane season begins June 15 and lasts through November. But the intricate and little-understood weather patterns that could result in the first Atlantic hurricane might already be at work. The first tropical storm of the year, Arlene, has come and gone in the Gulf of Mexico. It never became a hurricane.

The first hurricane could be born any day. As far back as weather records here go, there have been at least two full hurricanes a year. Once, in 1933, there were 21.

During the prime danger period hurricane watching is a 24-hour-a-day job in the offices of hurricane central in the Miami Weather Bureau.

Acting meteorologist in charge, Walter Davis, said hurricane detection this year will be "as good or better than ever before."

Veteran hurricane forecasters do not make many guesses about them.

"As far as trying to make a guess that hurricanes will favor one part of the country — I just can't do it," he said.

For the past several years, hurricanes have raised their aim north of Florida on the Atlantic Seaboard.

"We know that in certain years Hurricanes seem to gang up on one section of the country. For instance, one year they will tend to hit the Gulf States, another Florida and another North Carolina.

"There are a lot of experts and self-styled experts who claim that hurricanes move in cycles and that they can predict where they will likely hit. They may move in cycles but we just don't have enough data over a long enough period to be able to accurately pinpoint these cycles."

READY TO TRACK

Davis said all was in readiness to track the storms when they come.

The first outpost is the hurricane hunter airplane. Both the Navy and the Air Force will send out regular patrols to scan the spawning grounds.

The Weather Bureau again plans to drop balloons into the calm "Eye" or center of the hurricanes to help in tracking. The balloons, used the first time last year, send radio signals enabling forecasters to follow the progress of the storms.

Other than a generally tightened forecast system, no radical new hurricane tracking methods are planned, he said.

Hurricanes that hit North America are usually born in the equatorial waters of the Atlantic or Caribbean.

The first hurricane of 1959 will start as a muggy breeze in the doldrums. The tropical sun will draw moistures out of the sea. The warmed air will rise and cooler air will rush in to replace it.

The hot air meeting with the cooler air at high levels will trigger showers and a squall line. Air pressure in the crest of the wave will drop.

The spinning action of the earth will give a twist to these winds, like it does water spinning in a lavatory as it goes down the drain. This closed-circulation system, moving ever faster in a circle, may grow into a tropical storm with winds of 4 to 50 miles an hour.

Airplanes loaded with instruments are ready to fly into the teeth of these storms and report their development and path.

The young storm grows swiftly in the warm waters. It feeds on heat released when water vapor condenses into rain. Its winds may increase to hurricane strength of 75 miles an hour and much higher. How big it grows from there depends on how far it travels over warm waters.

Williams Asked to Set Pace Again

Walking Races Planned Across Mackinac Bridge

LANSING (UPI) — A low-speed walk across the Mackinac Bridge a year ago was so successful the International Walkers Association is planning races for Labor Day this year.

Gov. G. Mennen Williams paced the hikers on their five-mile walk over water from Mackinaw City to St. Ignace at dedication ceremonies in 1958.

He has been invited to go the route in the opposite direction this year. But not in one of the three races planned.

Williams joined the walkers in eating sunflower seeds for energy as well as in the heel-and-toe through rain last year.

The Mackinac Bridge Authority said it will open the span for hikers again this year on Labor Day though normally only vehicles are permitted.

Marion Pearson, Grand Rapids businessman who walks for health, will put the bridge race proposal to the 25th anniversary Health Walk and Convention meeting of the International Walkers Association of America meeting June 15-28 in Ligonier, Pa.

Pearson, a real believer, is walking the 700 miles from St. Ignace to Ligonier. He started walking Memorial Day and passed through Lansing Sunday.

One association members, Mrs. S. L. Gladfelter of East Lansing, who with her husband is co-chairman of the bridge walk this year, may not be able to make the trek across the 100-million-dollar span linking the two peninsulas.

She now walks only with difficulty using crutches after an automobile accident crushed her feet.

Three Professors to Study Abroad

Three Oakland County residents will take study leaves from their faculty positions at Wayne State University during the 1959-60 academic year.

Jacob Chason of the school of medicine, 25860 York Dr., Huntington Woods, will study for a year in London, England.

Vern Wagner of the English department, 543 St. Louis, Ferndale, will spend two semesters at the University of Helsinki, Finland.

Harold Soderquist of the education department, 25340 Orchard Lake Rd., Farmington, will undertake research in this country.

When the Indians ran America (notes Jack Herbert) there were no taxes, no debts and the women did all the work. Let's trick them into taking it back. . . . Sign in the window of a store going out of business: "Opened by Mistake." —Earl Wilson

FLAG DAY

J. L. VOORHEES

June 14th, 1777, in the Halls of the Continental Congress, men are going to vote on a flag for their new Nation. The Chairman of the Committee is speaking: "The blue field was taken from the Covenanters Banner of Scotland. It signifies a covenant against oppression," he moves his pointer to the red stripes. "They mean the daring of every man in our young Nation," shifts his pointer to the white. "White is emblematic of purity." He proudly smiles as he points to the thirteen stars on the blue field. "Notice," he suggests, "the circle which signifies eternity, each star is a new constellation rising in the West."

M. E. SIPLE

"Our flag was created by a great people, witnessed a great history, has floated on high the symbol of great events, of a great plan of life worked out by a great people," was Woodrow Wilson's expression June 14th, 1917.

We are proud of our flag! You and I will proudly display it this June 14th.

Bouncing Checks on the Upswing in Michigan

EAST LANSING (AP)—Rubber checks are bouncing around Michigan with increasing frequency, the fraudulent check section of state police reports.

The number processed by the section in May stretched to 128 compared with 56 in the same month last year.

Det. Sgt. Fred C. Kelly blamed improved economic conditions for the increase.

"When the till is full and money is rolling in there is a tendency for business people to cash checks with less caution," Kelly said.

"Actually," he added, "that is the time when they should be more careful because they are more vulnerable."

State Releases Beach Expert

He's Free to Work for Others Until Funds Are Again Available

CHEBOYGAN (AP) — With hot weather driving people to beaches, the Water Resources Commission has set its swimmers itch control supervisor free to work for municipal and private beach owners until money is appropriated for a state program.

Lloyd Gouine, supervisor for nearly 20 years, left this week to begin treatment of a municipal beach for the city of Cadillac. He also has jobs booked for townships bordering Houghton Lake, Rogers City, a Cheboygan County boys camp and other beach owners.

Gouine treats beaches with chemicals to poison snails infected with a parasite that otherwise would release itself into water and attack bathers.

Beach owners are forbidden by law to put chemicals into waters without a permit. Application can be made to Gouine or the Michigan Water Resources Commission.

Use of state-owned equipment is allowed, under Gouine's supervision.

Gouine hopes that by July 1, at the start of the fiscal year, funds will be available to hire crews to do the customary comprehensive job of treating northern Michigan beaches.

Astaire's Daughter, Oxford Student Dating

The student was identified as 20-year-old Britisher John Parker-Rees.

Ava will arrive here in about two weeks with her dancing father, the Mail said.

Parker-Rees met Ava at a dance in Hollywood when he was in California attending military school.

Returns From Parley With Ike, Says Aim Is to Be Good Governor

NEW YORK (AP)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller returned Friday from a trip to the White House—but he still won't say if he hopes to live there.

Washington newspapermen peppered him with questions about the possibility of his seekig the Republican presidential nomination in 1960, but he gave the same answer he has been giving all along.

That is, that he is not seeking the nomination, and that his aim is to be a good governor. When asked if he would seek the nomination, he said that he would cross that bridge when he came to it.

Rockefeller said after a brief visit with President Eisenhower that he merely wanted to pay his respects to the President. They had not talked politics, he added.

While in Washington Rockefeller attended a dinner given by the Capitol Hill Club, a Republican organization. He spoke briefly, and fellow Republicans said he made a good impression.

Washington correspondents also had a close-up of him and reported he would be a tough contender if he went after the nomination. They wrote that he had a lot of charm, and looked like a fast-paced campaigner.

They said it seemed as if he were back in the recent campaign for governor as he left the dinner. He shook hands with everyone, including the waiters.

After the meeting with Eisenhower, Rockefeller returned here in his private plane. He'll mak 26 speeches in the state this month.

Firestone Union Awaits Ratification

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Though a new contract agreement has been signed, Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. workers were staying off the job here today.

The executive committee of Local 7, United Rubber Workers Union decided no one should go back to work in Akron until the contract is ratified. The membership is to vote Sunday on the agreement signed Friday by union and company representatives in Cleveland.

Immediately after the contract was signed Firestone had called on workers to return to their jobs and end the 58-day strike.

But Isadore (Ike) Gold, vice president of Local 7, said, "the pickets will be maintained until the contract is ratified by the members. We want the membership to have the chance to become acquainted with and study the proposed contract."

The company said workers at other Firestone plants around the country "started back to work in orderly fashion."

More than one-third of Firestone's 18,000 employes are in plants here. The firm has plants in seven other cities.

Ed Creagh Writes for Hal Boyle:

Just Think Cool, Man, That's the Secret

By ED CREAGH

WASHINGTON (AP)—So you're hot?

Your clothes hang limp on you, sweat beads trickle down your chest, your vision, fuzzes, your brain goes numb?

Nonsense. It's all in your mind. You can beat the heat in a matter of seconds if you will just follow one simple rule: Think cool.

Close your eyes. Imagine you're an ice cube. Shrink yourself and pour yourself into an imaginary little plastic tray. Tuck yourself into a refrigerator and drink in the delicious smells of celery, salami, and other goodies as you slowly freeze.

Or play iceberg. Think of the frothy cool North Atlantic lapping your chin, with the bulk of you submerged in that blessed salty coolness.

Don't make the mistake of being as cool as a cucumber. Once, in the interest of science, I took the body temperature of a cucumber. It was two degrees higher than mine, which averages 102.3.

Think of frigid mountain lakes, or a car motor on a January morning in Alaska.

Turn yourself into a mint julep. Slosh around luxuriantly in your frosted glass shell. Don't drink yourself, however. Alcohol raises the body temperature.

This cool-think bit won't work for everybody, though.

Some people get more relief by hot thinking. That is: Imagine yourself even worse off than you are.

Like you're unloading bananas on a New Orleans dock with the sun pouring globs of hot lava on you.

Or you're a steak sizzling frantically on an outdoor grill, abandoned by a cook who has reeled off in search of something tall and cooling.

Whew! It's enough to bring out a cold sweat. And that's what you're after, isn't it?

This system of identifying yourself with something, or somebody, else is not entirely original. A Russian named Stanislavsky made quite a name for himself by teaching actors to make like chairs, cabbage leaves, mandrake roots and other unlikely objects.

Proposes Identification of the Poor Motorists

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A past president of the California Sport Car Club thinks there should be some form of identification for poor drivers.

William M. Pollack warned teenagers:

"Drivers should use special caution when traveling near persons they recognize as bad drivers. Many drivers would be safe-guarded if such poor drivers could be identified."

ELECTRIC HEAT

Electric heat lets you dial just the warmth you want, room by room. The temperature can be up in one room, down in another. And because heating begins right there, as soon as you touch the thermostat, you can always add extra warmth fast. No need to start up a complete heating plant and wait. Instead, the room is quickly and quietly filled with clean, comfortable heat (not dry, but with natural moisture kept in the air). And it's uniform, too, with temperatures varying only two or three degrees from ceiling to floor.
Plus all these benefits—whether you're buying, building or remodeling
EXTRA SPACE
Electric heating units are completely built in. You can put to better use the space otherwise needed for chimney, fuel storage, piping, furnace or boiler.
CLEANLINESS
Walls, draperies, carpets and furniture stay clean longer because there are no products of combustion to circulate. Electric heat is the cleanest heating method that has ever been devised.
REDUCED RATE
Beginning June 1, residential customers can take advantage of a new, lower rate—2¢ per kilowatt-hour when monthly electrical consumption is over 750 units, or kilowatt-hours. Though other living costs have been rising steadily during the past several years, electricity remains one of your biggest bargains—now more than ever, with this new and lower rate step.
EFFICIENCY
All of the heat created is usable heat. None is wasted up a flue. And with individual control, there is no need to overheat several rooms in order to raise the temperature in just one.
FLEXIBILITY
Electric heat can replace regular baseboards—can be built into the walls or ceiling. Whether it be one room or the entire home, there is a system to give better heating—electrically.
SAFETY
Electric heating systems are designed to distribute heat safely, gently. Concentrations of superheated air are eliminated. There is no combustion process.
CARES FOR ITSELF
Set a thermostat, then forget it. Except for forced air units, electric heating systems have no moving parts. There's nothing to rust out, no filters to replace, no waiting for fuel deliveries.

Wait for Chance . . . Abby

Show Interest in His Business and Watch Newsboy Thaw

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am thirteen and am in love with the paper boy. He says he wants to be a newspaper reporter and is starting at the bottom. The trouble is there are two other girls who are also after him. They are both prettier than I am and have nicer clothes. They say they don't like him but the way they look at him. Wow! One night I was walking home alone and he was behind me. I could have slowed up but I didn't have brains enough. I got home and could have kicked myself. How can I get him to like me?

FRUSTRATED

DEAR FRUSTRATED: Next time you see him be sure he's alone; say "HI" good and loud and follow it right up with a question about the newspaper business: ("How are collections?" "Are there any contests going?") Show an interest in HIS interest and watch him thaw out.

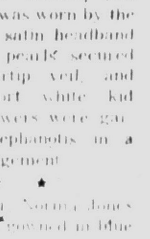
DEAR ABBY: How old do you think a man should be before he stops kissing his mother hello and goodby? My husband is almost 40 and every time we go to see his mother (she lives 12 blocks from here) he kisses her hello and when we leave he kisses her goodby. The man is my husband and I think it is time he stopped that little boy stuff. I have two sons and I am raising them that way. Is my husband too old to change his ways now?

WIFE



ABBY

DEAR WIFE: I hope you are young (and wise) enough to change yours. There's nothing wrong with a man kissing his mother — at any age.

DEAR ABBY: I am married to a man who is mature in almost every respect except in his driving. He is a very fast driver. He passes cars on the right and follows other cars too close and tries to make every green light. I have spoken to him about his driving habits but he gets mad and drives all the more reckless. In one year he's had four accidents, was arrested for reckless driving and has had his insurance cancelled. I do not drive myself so it makes it pretty tough on me and the kids. My heart is in my mouth every time I get in a car with him. Is there any cure for this?

RECKLESS DRIVER'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Walk, take the bus, taxi, or depend on the generosity of friends, but do not ride with him unless he promises to drive carefully and is willing to heed your warning when he gets out of hand. The cemetery is full of drivers whose luck ran out before their gas did.

DEAR ABBY: My last letter to an Army friend with whom I have been corresponding for many years was returned marked NO RECORD. Perhaps you can tell me which office of the ARMY to contact for the present address of my friend? It would mean a great deal to me.

MRS. P.V.

DEAR MRS. V.: Write to the Adjutant General's Office, Washington, D.C.

CONFIDENTIALLY TO VIRGINIA: Apparently, your conscience doesn't prevent you from doing anything — just from enjoying it. Better behave yourself.

Era of Slaughter Ends in Chicago

3 Big Firms Pull Out, but Small Ones Left to Keep City Tops

CHICAGO (AP) — An era in Chicago's meat packing industry is coming to a close.

Within a few weeks, all major companies which brought the city renown as "hog butcher for the world" will have quit livestock slaughtering in Chicago.

Wilson & Co., third largest meat packer in the nation, ceased slaughtering operations here four years ago; Swift & Co., the No. 1 meat producer, halted all slaughtering today and within the next few weeks Armour & Co., the second largest, also will shut down its plants here.

All ascribed the shutdowns to facilities too obsolete to be modernized profitably. Each had operated in Chicago more than 75 years. Most of that time they virtually comprised the industry here and made Chicago the largest livestock market in the world.

But with the expansion of railroad facilities and trucking operations, the companies built more modern plants elsewhere, always moving closer to sources of livestock supply and markets for meat.

The departure of these great companies from Chicago, however, does not leave the city without this major industry. There still are about 25 packers here who buy approximately 25 per cent of all cattle and sheep and 30 per cent of all hogs shipped to Chicago for sale.

Others are taken by buyers for slaughter elsewhere, mostly at plants in the East. With about 50 such buyers representing almost 300 packers, industry spokesmen say there hardly is any likelihood that Chicago will lose its top ranking spot as a livestock market. Both Swift and Armour will continue buying here. Together, they have been taking about 16 per cent of the cattle offered for sale.

Over the past 10 years, the Chicago stockyards has handled an average of more than five million cattle, hogs and sheep a year.

Bob-Lo Suspect Gives Self Up

Surrenders in Detroit, Denies Taking Part in Island Gun Battle

WINDSOR, Ont. (AP)—A four-day manhunt in Ontario and Michigan for a man wanted in connection with a gun battle on Bob-Lo Island in the Detroit River ended yesterday with the surrender of Leroy Morency.

The 23-year-old Amherstburg, Ont., man surrendered in a Detroit bar to a reporter and a photographer from the Windsor Star.

Morency had been sought in connection with a gunfight Tuesday between two men and Ontario Provincial Police that climaxed an unsuccessful robbery attempt on an amusement park safe at Bob-Lo Island opposite Amherstburg.

Morency denied any part in the gunfight, which resulted after police were tipped off by telephone to the holdup plan. Both bandits escaped the police ambush, but an Amherstburg man was arrested later that day in Amherstburg.

Leslie Temesy, 35, the father of six children, is charged with attempted robbery in connection with the Bob-Lo incident. The charge also names Morency. Bail for Temsey was set at $10,000.

Mother Changes Abduction Story

GUYMON, Okla. (AP)—A good looking Ohio mother, who said she had been abducted in Albuquerque, changed her story here Friday under FBI questioning.

Mrs. Jeanette Bailey, 25, and the three persons she said were holding her captive, were released from jail after a U.S. District Attorney said no federal statutes had been violated.

Mrs. Bailey, the mother of two children from Akron, Ohio, told officers here she had been brought from Albuquerque by two men and a woman.

She said she had fled after they stopped at a motel. But police Chief J. L. Shephard said "she changed her story quite a bit" during an interrogation by the FBI.

Courses being offered are seventh grade English, mathematics, geography and science; eighth grade English, mathematics, history and science; ninth grade English, algebra, practical mathematics, social studies (civics) and science.

Robert D. Boyce, summer school principal, said no pupil can take more than two subjects.

"We do not recommend that pupils of normal age for their grades try to advance," he said. "The summer school does give an opportunity for those who are behind to make up subjects.

Abbe Lane Suing NBC for $600,000

NEW YORK (AP)—Singer Abbe Lane is suing the National Broadcasting Co. for $600,000 in damages for injuries she says she sustained during a TV show.

In a suit filed Friday in State Supreme Court, Miss Lane, 27, claimed injuries to her left knee when she toppled from a "defective" stairway while appearing with her husband, Xavier Cugat, on his TV program of March 1, 1957.

In addition, the 59-year-old Cugat has asked $100,000 damages as a result of the alleged accident and for losses of his wife's "services and society."

NBC entered a general denial.

Refrigerator Kills Girl

BOSTON (AP)—June MacPhail, 7, died Friday when she entered a disconnected refrigerator and the door slammed. Her cousin, Christine A. MacFarlin, 8, was revived by relatives and taken to a hospital. Police said the girls were alone in the MacPhail apartment where the refrigerator had been emptied in preparation for moving today.

Los Angeles has an average of about five cars for every four families.

$25,000 to $40,000 to Save $14 Million?

LANSING (AP)—An expenditure of $25,000 to $40,000 this year would initiate a prison program that could save the state up to 14 million dollars a year in the next decade, a penal reform group said today.

The Michigan Crime and Delinquency Council wrote legislative finance committees that $25,000 to $40,000 is needed for 20 new parole officers and 15 new probation officers.

These additions would be a start toward reducing Michigan's fast-growing prison population which now tops the 10,000 mark, said the council which represents industry, labor and agriculture laymen.

TV Traffic Eye to Monitor Xway

DETROIT (AP)—The unblinking eye of television is going to assist the police in controlling Detroit expressway traffic.

On Sept. 1, 11 television cameras mounted on bridges spanning the John Lodge expressway will stare down at traffic moving along a three-mile span.

The pictures picked up by the cameras will be monitored at a central office which will warn motorists through a push button signal system when to slow down or get off the expressway because of tieups.

Alger F. Malo, Detroit street and traffic director, said the system would be the first in the nation for controlling expressway traffic. Malo said it would cost $250,000 annually, with $200,000 of the total being paid by the federal government and the remainder by the city, county and state.

Autopsy Reveals Broken Neck

Truck Driver Killed in Lyon Crash May Have Fallen Asleep

An autopsy on a Detroit truck driver who died Thursday night when his tractor-trailer smashed into a guardrail on the U.S. 16 Expressway near Lyon Township has shown death was caused by a broken neck.

State Police at the Brighton Post believed that Jack E. Eckman, 35, of 9401 Livernois suffered a heart attack.

Troopers ordered the autopsy yesterday to determine whether Eckman was ill before his truck left the highway. They said there were no visible indications of injury, but a coroner's autopsy revealed a broken neck.

The accident took place near Kensington Park at 11:15 p.m. Thursday. Officers theorized that Eckman may have fallen asleep at the wheel.

New Huron Bowl Ready by Sept. 1

The new $370,000 Huron Bowl at the Bowling Lanes arising at 7525 Elizabeth Lake Rd. in Waterford Township should be ready to open Sept. 1.

The bowling center, located less than a half mile west of Telegraph road, replace the original Huron Bowl alleys which were destroyed by fire in February.

The Elizabeth Lake road building will have 32 automatic pin setting lanes, eight more than the old Huron street structure, according to Joseph Bontiglio.

Bontiglio is a partner in the bowling center with Dominic Luz of Pontiac.

There will be a 140-car parking lot and a special nursery for the children of mothers who need baby sitters while they bowl, said Bontiglio.

* * *

The new Huron Bowl alley will have men's and women's locker rooms and a fully carpeted concourse, he said.

The western end will be split level, Bontiglio said, with the nursery and women's facilities on the bottom level.

Overall dimensions of the building will be 186 feet wide by 168 feet deep. Constructed with a brick front, the alleys will be topped by a rounded, wood roof that won't need center supports.

Construction got under way May 1. General contractor is Frank Sawdal Co. of Detroit.

Located within the bowling alley building will be a new version of The old Club 300 was also destroyed in the fire.

* * *

The club will maintain a snack bar next to the alleys. Bontiglio said. Evenings will be rounded out by a shop selling bowling equipment.

Ex-City Man's Body Found

Drowned Wednesday When Thrown Off Boat in Lake St. Clair

The body of a former Pontiac man, Lyle J. Root Jr., 31, was recovered yesterday from Lake St. Clair about a mile from Huron point.

* * *

Root, who lived in Harrison Township, Macomb County, drowned Wednesday in a boating accident which also claimed the life of Alvina Hodnett, 42, of Mt. Clemens.

Her body was recovered earlier.

Root was born in Pontiac and went to school here. He formerly lived with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Root of 583 Lenox St.

Macomb County sheriff's deputies said Roy King, 26, who was operating the boat at the time of the accident, made a sharp turn causing the pair to be thrown overboard.

King was sentenced to 10 days in jail and fined $25 for drunkenness and disorderly conduct in operating the boat.

Look for Missing Person(s) From Auto Smashup

Oakland County sheriff's deputies were checking Pontiac and Detroit area hospitals today in search of an injured person or persons who disappeared from the scene of an accident Thursday night.

* * *

Witnesses told deputies they heard some one or more persons shouting at Baldwin and Dalton Roads in Waterford Township.

An auto traveling at a high rate of speed had missed a curve, slipped and finally come to rest upside down in a field.

Deputy Leon Davis said that the occupant or occupants must have been injured judging from the damage to the car. He theorized that the driver and passengers of any had been thrown from the car when it slipped.

* * *

The auto was owned by Lt. Robert E. Webster, 1466 Lamoine, Detroit, who said it had been stolen from his home earlier yesterday. Deputies searched the accident area but could find no trace of the car's occupant.

Thurber Comments About TV Influence

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — James Thurber good-naturedly contends that due to television many young people today believe that Lincoln shot Grover Cleveland and that the current President of the United States is Bat Masterson.

Still, though he can't see much TV himself, due to his partial blindness, he's pleased at becoming a character in it.

WILSON

"I sit and listen," Thurber said the other hot afternoon at the Algonquin. "I'm not an addict of the Westerns but I can hear the bang-bangs. I hear the shots very clearly.

It seemed sad to the visitor that Thurber wasn't able to see himself portrayed by Arthur O'Connell last Monday night in a Goodyear Theater show called "Christabel." The story is about a Thurber-type writer on a magazine called "The Manhattanite" and makes use of a couple of Thurber's own stories for The New Yorker.

Thurber wasn't sad. Sitting in pajamas and dressing gown at 3:30 p.m., "We wound up at Tim Costello's and stayed till a quarter to 4," he said there were plenty of young people who didn't know history when he was one of the young people.

"I remember," Thurber said, "on the last day of a history class at Ohio State in 1911, after the bell had rung, Prof. Arthur Schlesinger Sr. — the old man — saying, 'Mr. Spencer, who is President of the United States?'"

"Mr. Spencer said Woodrow Wilson," Professor Schlesinger said. 'Thank you! I was determined that you get one question right this year.'"

We all laughed at the unlikely tale. Thurber, who is 65, drummed the arm of the chair with his fingers, then removed his glasses and wiped his eyes with a handkerchief.

Thurber repeatedly reverted to the late Harold Ross, subject of his new book, "The Years With Ross."

He remembered joining The New York Post (then The Evening Post) Sept. 1, 1926 and being lured to the New Yorker about seven months later. What, incidentally, was his outstanding reportorial job on The Post?

Thurber, despite his genius for fantasy, is a fiend for facts, and delights in TV shows that test knowledge. He's appalled that most girls don't know American history.

"Ask them to name nine presidents," he declares," and they'd say Roosevelt five times and have a hell of a time finding four others.

"Getting an interview with Thomas Alva Edison eight years after he said he'd never see another newspaperman," he replied instantly.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF MY dear husband, Roy Foote, who died two years ago, June 13th.
Roy, Roy, I miss you so much
I miss your loving kindness and help
Your companionship in our home
And always your generosity to me and to others
I wonder how I have lived these last two years without you
And why I'm so alone
Love, always and always, your wife
