Congress Leery of Surtax Plan

COLLEGE FUND BEEFED UP — Ralph Schultz of Holly displays his grand champion Angus to auction buyers at the 4-H Fair last night. Ralph got $1 a pound for the 952-pound prize animal. He said he'll use the money for college. The buyer is the Pontiac Optimist Club, which plans to hold a raffle for the steer, with proceeds to go to charity.

Public 'Stampeding' to County 4-H Fair

The best Thursday night in memory of county 4-H officials was almost marred by a cattle stampede.

About 5,000 persons flocked to the fairgrounds at Perry and Walton yesterday with the total number of cars and carnival sales reported about 20 per cent over last year.

Featured last night was the livestock auction. Cofeatured was a fireworks display canceled from the previous night because of rain.

At 10 p.m., as the pigs were all sold and the steers being led to the sales ring —bang!

Related Pictures and Story, Page A-4

Confusion ensued as small 4-Hers were dragged about by their ponderous cattle, startled by the fireworks.

The loving youngsters rubbed the animals' hides and talked to them and the beasts became adjusted to the fireworks just as they had to the rest of the noise and excitement of the fair.

Biggest buyer of the childrens' products was Hoffman's Packing of Pontiac which took about 80 per cent of sales and also volunteered free dressing for any other buyers.

Romney Talks in N.Y. Tonight

CHAUTAUQUA, N.Y. (UPI) — Michigan Gov. George Romney outlines his basic foreign policy views in a speech here today that ends a six-week moratorium on national politicking forced upon him by serious state problems.

"This is his resumption of exploratory efforts after a long delay, including four cancelations of out-of-state appearances," said Travis Cross, a personal assistant not on the state payroll.

Romney, Cross said, has been working on the Chautauqua "lecture" for more than six weeks. "It'll be a sketch of the global picture and where he thinks we're headed," Cross said.

Though Romney has not delivered a major speech on his foreign policy views within the public spotlight as a possible GOP nominee for the presidency, past speeches hint at what he'll say.

★ ★ ★

In a speech at Louisville, Ky., in February, Romney said, "America must develop the underlying framework for a new generation of foreign policy."

CONCEPTS OF BROTHERHOOD

For elaboration, Romney said, "It must place primary emphasis on sharing our principles of material progress and universal concepts of brotherhood, rather than primarily on guns, gadgets, and things for being the world's policeman."

Without mentioning President Johnson by name, Romney criticized current U.S. foreign policy for its "absence of worldwide goals and priorities."

Estimate of Fire Damage in City Strife: $200,000

By MEL NEWMAN

Fire damage in last week's civil disturbance in Pontiac was estimated at $200,000, according to figures released today by city fire officials.

★ ★ ★

Fifty-four fires, all attributed to arsonists by acting Chief Charles Marion, were recorded from 10 p.m. July 24 to 7 a.m. the following day, but one blaze alone was blamed for at least half the total damage.

The Versa Tube Corp., 92 Branch, which burned throughout the night, was described by officials as destroyed.

Marion said he estimates damage to the building and contents at Versa Tube was "right around $100,000."

The blaze broke out about 11 p.m. and tied up four engines and two ladder trucks until it went out of control.

OTHER HEAVY LOSSES

Marion said three other fires contributed heavily to the over-all damage figure.

Losses of $10,000 were estimated at both Harvey's Market, Osmun and Jessie, and Orchard Lake Furniture, 164 Orchard Lake, which was twice struck by arsonists during the disturbance, according to firemen.

A $7,000 loss was reportedly suffered at Figa's Market, Fisher and Motor.

★ ★ ★

Marion attributed the relatively low damage figures in most of the fires to rapid response by his department and continual patrolling by police.

'EXCELLENT JOB'

"Each department did an excellent job," he said.

Both personnel and equipment were stretched to the breaking point through the night.

Every piece of equipment available to the city was pressed into service, while some crews were shuttled to and from Detroit to relieve Pontiac firemen working in the riot zone there.

★ ★ ★

Through the remainder of the week, off-duty men were called on to work additional shifts, and Marion pointed out that not one man failed to report.

"This," he said, "was 100 per cent cooperation."

PROPOSED ADDED TAXES — President Johnson is shown yesterday as he approves a message to Congress calling for a 10 per cent surtax on individual and corporate incomes to help finance the Vietnam war. He also said he is authorizing an increase of 45,000 troops for Vietnam. With him are Treasury Secretary Henry Fowler and presidential aide Joseph Califano (left).

GM Asks Contract Change in Cost-of-Living Formula

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors Corp. has served notice on the United Auto Workers that it wants changes in the cost-of-living formula in any new contract with the union.

The statement came yesterday when the company laid its 1967 bargaining demands on the negotiating table.

Since 1964 UAW members have gained some 18 cents in hourly wage increases under the cost-of-living allowance, which adds or subtracts a penny an hour quarterly for each .4 of a point movement in the Bureau of Labor Statistics consumer price index.

Walter P. Reuther, UAW president, has insisted there can be no tampering with the cost-of-living plan, and has indicated that any attempt to alter the plan could provoke a strike.

★ ★ ★

Louis G. Seaton, GM vice president for personnel, said yesterday the company will propose modifications of the formula, "as we did in 1961 and 1964."

In neither year was the company successful.

'NOT UNILATERAL'

Seaton said the formula "is a matter for collective bargaining, not a unilateral matter as Mr. Reuther apparently wants it to be."

Seaton said the quarterly adjustment "is pretty fast." He indicated that GM would like an annual adjustment and a maximum limit.

An apparent split in thinking in the union became evident yesterday over whether the union would strike to win some sort of profit sharing plan, one of the UAW's top demands.

Douglas A. Fraser, director of the union's Chrysler department, said Wednesday the union would not strike this year to win profit sharing.

Ernest Moran of UAW's GM department, said profit sharing "still is on the table" at General Motors and expressed the view that Fraser was speaking only for Chrysler.

House Hearings on Program to Begin Aug. 14

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional reaction to President Johnson's call for a 10 per cent income tax surcharge generally ranges from lukewarm to chilly, with few members except some Democratic leaders offering unqualified support.

Some other Democrats joined in the expected Republican opposition to the long-awaited tax hike request.

Chairman William Proxmire, D-Wis., of the Senate-House Economic Committee called it a blunder that would hamper business growth and thus generate little new revenue.

And Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee said only: "I'm uncommitted; committed to no one, one way or the other."

Mills, who ranks as perhaps the foremost tax expert in Congress, has remained noncommittal since Johnson first proposed a surcharge on personal and corporate income taxes last January. At that time Johnson urged a 6 per cent surtax.

REVISED SCHEDULE

But the Arkansas Democrat reviewed the ways and means committee's schedule to provide at least two weeks of hearings beginning Aug. 14.

See Related Stories, Pages A-2, B-11

The hearings will be interrupted Aug. 17 and 18 when the House is scheduled to consider Johnson's bill to increase Social Security benefits and taxes.

Almost to a man, members who discussed the proposals Johnson sent to Congress Thursday agreed that if a tax hike is enacted at all, it won't be by Oct. 1 — the date the President asked the surcharge on individual income taxes to start.

And veteran members of the ways and means committee said it never has been willing to make retroactive a tax increase on individuals. Johnson asked the matching 10 per cent increase on corporate income taxes be made retroactive to July 1.

Plenty of Sunshine Heading Our Way

Here is the official day-by-day Weather Bureau report for Pontiac:

Family Reminisces About Holly's Hero

"Oh I have slipped the surly bonds of earth
And danced the skies on laughter-silvered wings . . .
. . . Put out my hand and touched the face of God."
("High Flight" by John Gillespie Magee Jr.)

By JEAN SAILE

There are tears and the heavy task of believing the unbelievable for the family of Air Force First Lt. Karl Richter, dead at age 24.

★ ★ ★

Touched by national fame as a Vietnam war ace, the young Holly hero died a week ago in the skies over North Vietnam aboard a rescue helicopter.

Yesterday his body lay in the Dryer Funeral Home at Holly, attended by two airmen of an honor guard.

More honor guardsmen were to come for the funeral at 10 a.m. tomorrow at St. Rita's Catholic Church there.

★ ★ ★

Some four miles away in the rambling frame home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ludwig Richter at 11610 Dixie, Holly Township, preparations were under way for the five days of ceremony which will culminate with his burial with full Air Force honors at the U.S. Air Force Academy, Colorado Springs, Colo.

"There's my final resting place," Richter had earlier told his parents.

In the house it seemed unreal. Lt. Richter was everywhere — in photographs — in trophies — in framed Air Force commendations and certificates, and in the glass-enclosed Air Medal on the mantle.

The Distinguished Flying Cross, awarded last September when he became the youngest pilot ever to shoot down a MIG over Southeast Asia, was missing.

"Karl never sent it home," reported his mother whose pleasant face bore a hollow-eyed sadness.

MEMORIES ABOUND

But most of all there were memories.

Around the big kitchen table, strong black coffee primed the reminiscence of relatives gathered close in time of death.

Their memories provided a picture of a laughing-eyed, action-loving boy . . . not above mischief. . . always with a heart. . .someone with that rare personality that attracts people and happenings like a magnet.

Higher Draft, War Budget Hike Likely

WASHINGTON (AP) — Higher draft calls and a possible $2-billion supplemental defense budget request are likely as a result of President Johnson's ordered troop increase for Vietnam, Pentagon sources say.

The President announced Thursday that 45,000 to 50,000 more men will be deployed to the war zone in response to recommendations of top defense and military officials.

★ ★ ★

At the same time, he said, there is a possibility that because of increased military spending, defense expenditures for fiscal 1968 may exceed the $73 billion budget by up to $4 billion.

Exactly how high draft calls will go now is being determined in a Pentagon study of what the newly authorized 525,000-man level for Vietnam next summer will do to over-all U.S. military strength.

ANNOUNCED DRAFT

Announced draft calls for the five months extending through September have risen to an average of about 23,000 a month. This reflects, in part, the Pentagon's move to meet its 1966-approved Vietnam manpower ceiling of 480,000.

Sources said draft calls during the last quarter of this year likely will exceed 35,000 a month.

★ ★ ★

As for spending, sources say Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara believes $2 billion in planned spending can be trimmed from the defense budget to offset partially the possible $4-billion overrun mentioned by the President.

The $2 billion difference would have to be covered by a supplemental budget request early next year, sources said.

1967 SUPPLEMENT

The administration also had to get a $12-billion defense supplement for fiscal 1967, but the 1968 budget was supposed to cover all anticipated war spending as well as meet other military needs.

In his tax message, Johnson warned "the cost of conflict can never be precisely estimated nor fully foreseen."

★ ★ ★

"Thus," he added, "the possibility remains, defense spending for fiscal 1968, based on present plans, may exceed the January 1967 budget by up to $4 billion."

The President said McNamara had been ordered to "conduct a searching review of all defense expenditures and to withhold all such expenditures that are not now essential for national security."

AIRCRAFT CUTS

Defense officials already are in the process of cutting back on fighter aircraft purchases. They say this is possible because of a lower-than-expected rate of looses over North Vietnam.

The level of U.S. forces in Vietnam now stands officially at 454,000 after a 7,000-man "statistical adjustment" by the Pentagon Thursday.

★ ★ ★

The Pentagon said it no longer will count as part of the U.S. strength the large numbers of "transients" — mainly en route replacements and departing personnel — which always are in the manpower pipeline.

In addition to the 454,000 are 35,000 men in Thailand and 40,000 sailors in offshore vessels contributing to the war effort. This war force compares with the 472,800 men who served in and near Korea at the peak of that conflict.

MAINLY ARMY

The Pentagon said most of the 45,000 new troops will be Army. Sources said there will also be a certain number of Air Force and Navy units, mainly combat support elements.

No Reserve callup is expected, the Pentagon said.

Ex-General Quits Dem Unit in Opposition to Viet Policy

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Retired Lt. Gen. James M. Gavin, a former U.S. ambassador to France, has resigned from the Massachusetts Democratic Advisory Council because "I strongly oppose the Vietnam involvement and so I simply cannot support President Johnson for reelection in 1968."

The council of leading business and professional people was created in January to advise Democratic state legislators on policy and programs.

★ ★ ★

"Obviously anyone on that council should be ready to support President Johnson," Gavin said in an interview Thursday night.

Gavin, a former top planner at the Pentagon, said, "Vietnam is the hard-core problem. But there is much more to it."

"Obviously our domestic programs are grossly underfunded —especially in the poverty area," he said. "And I look on this as a consequence of the Vietnam war, of the money we're pouring in there."

Gavin said he sent his resignation by letter to state Democratic Chairman Lester Hyman. He said he listed "business pressures" as his official reason.

★ ★ ★

Gavin, 60, is chief executive officer of Arthur D. Little, Inc., a research firm in Cambridge. He retired from the Army in 1958 and was appointed ambassador to France in 1961 by the late President John F. Kennedy.

★ ★ ★

First word of the resignation was published by the Boston Globe in a copyright article in Friday morning editions.

APPOINTED TO COUNCIL

Gavin was one of 16 persons appointed to the council, which was organized at urging of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.

Gavin said he discussed the resignation with Kennedy before sending the letter to Hyman.

Gavin has been an outspoken critic of America's Vietnam policies since early 1966 when he appeared before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

"My decision to resign is consistent with what I have been saying and writing for almost two years," he said.

Avon Hospital Dedication Set

Crittenton Ceremonies Slated for Tomorrow

The Rochester Branch, Crittenton General Hospital, will be dedicated in ceremonies at 2 p.m. tomorrow.

Located at 1201 W. University Drive, Avon Township, on land donated by Howard L. McGregor Jr., the hospital is designed as a 207-bed facility.

First patients will be accepted Aug. 15, according to hospital spokesmen.

The dedication Saturday will feature talks by A. Riley Allen, administrator, and Ormond S. Wessels of Birmingham, president of the Crittenton Board of Trustees.

A public open house will follow from 2 to 5 p.m. Sunday.

Said to cost in excess of $6 million, the hospital will have a combined medical - osteopathic staff of some 300 doctors, including those from the Detroit Crittenton unit. Nursing personnel number 95 for the opening weeks.

The hospital was the recipient of a Hill-Burton Grant from the federal government for $1,950,000. Local contributions plus a $2-million mortgage have largely made up the balance, said hospital officials.

The facility is expected to serve a large part of the eastern Oakland County area.

New Volunteer Bureau Serves County Agencies

BIRMINGHAM — "There is still a great need for volunteers," said Mrs. Geraldine Clemmons, director of the newly formed Central Volunteer Bureau for Oakland County.

★ ★ ★

The agency coordinates efforts of various agencies to obtain volunteer help and at the same time directs individuals to where they might best serve.

The bureau is an effect of the United Community Services of Metropolitan Detroit, cosponsored by the Junior League of Birmingham.

The program has gained wide acceptance in the Detroit area and the Oakland County center was recently established to carry on a similar effort.

"The response has been wonderful so far, but a lot of people still don't know we are here," said Mrs. Clemmons.

"Helping others is such a rewarding experience and I'm sure many more from this area would be glad to help out," she said.

Volunteers are asked to act in various capacities in care of crippled children, the mentally ill and the elderly.

"Volunteers can perform both simple and extremely complicated tasks," Mrs. Clemmons explained.

★ ★ ★

In the more complex area is a recent development in the treatment of the mentally ill—community involvement.

"We need people who would be willing, for instance, to take a person from a hospital out shopping or to a movie . . . or just be a friend.

"Someone with a little training could be used to start group conversations . . . it's so important to bring these people out of themselves," Mrs. Clemmons said.

Volunteers are also requested for drivers — someone with a car who could take a handicapped person to medical appointments or on a personal business trip.

"Without volunteer help, many of our community programs would collapse," she said.

Judge Charges Ferndale Man

Refused to Answer Mafia Role Question

A Ferndale man was cited for contempt of court yesterday by Oakland County grand juror James S. Thorburn for refusing to answer a question linking him to an alleged Mafia leader.

It was the first indication that the grand jury may be investigating organized crime.

John Johns, 53, of 818 Pinecrest told Jerome K. Barry, special prosecutor to the grand jury, that he would not answer questions because he already is under a federal grand jury subpoena, and that he wasn't represented by counsel.

He said that his attorney, Frank McLean of Detroit, is out of town.

★ ★ ★

The information was made public when the transcript of the proceedings was filed with the county clerk's office.

ATTACHED TO NOTICE

The testimony was attached to a notice of a show cause hearing scheduled for Tuesday before Circuit Judge Farrell E. Roberts.

It will be determined at that time if Johns should be held in contempt and subject to a fine and a jail term.

Johns refused to tell Barry where he was employed or answer the question, "Are you a bag (collection) man for Tony Giacalone?"

★ ★ ★

Giacalone was once described by former Detroit Police Commissioner George Edwards, now a federal district appeals judge, as a leader of the Mafia.

Johns was released on $10,000 bond pending his show cause hearing.

Views Vary as Legislature Ends Session

LANSING (AP)—The regular session of the 1967 Michigan Legislature passed into history Thursday with the final gavel drowning out immediate hope for passage of a $60-million gasoline and license plate tax boost.

Despite a last-minute push, the lawmakers adjourned their six-month session as scheduled without approving the so-called "good roads package" designed to meet increased road building and maintenance costs.

But the bills' backers are expected to try to talk Gov. George Romney into placing the package on the calendar for the special session he has ordered for Oct. 10 to consider court organization and extra money for civil rights efforts.

Some lawmakers, mostly Democrats, have labeled the 1967 Legislature, which approved the state's first income tax, as "the taxingest legislature in Michigan's history."

Others prefer to describe the Legislature, where Republicans hold a slim margin in both houses, as one devoted to "taxes, fees and regulations."

N. Koreans in S. Viet, Says U.S. Intelligence

SAIGON (UPI) — U.S. intelligence reports say Communist North Koreans have joined guerrilla forces in South Vietnam and soon may take an active part in the war, military sources said today.

★ ★ ★

According to the military men, a key U.S. Central Intelligence Agency operative in the northern mountain jungles is the main source of reports on the Koreans. He reported seeing them.

The agent estimated the force he saw numbered about 150 to 160 men. Other intelligence reports indicated the North Koreans may be infiltrating an entire battalion, up to 400 men.

They probably will be used as advisers to Vietcong units, the reports said.

★ ★ ★

The reports pinpointed the North Koreans' location as the rugged Communist - controlled mountains near the boundary of Quang Ngai and Quang Tin provinces 325 miles north of Saigon.

40,000 TROOPS

South Korea has sent 40,000 troops to join anti-Communist forces in this country.

At Da Nang, the U.S. Marine bastion that supervises allied action in the area, spokesmen said they had received an unconfirmed report of North Koreans being in the area. Military officials in the area of the report were acting on the assumption it is true.

The CIA agent reported he was in a Montagnard tribal village one night when the Koreans came, escorted by Vietcong.

★ ★ ★

He said the villagers were forced to form a torchlight welcome for the Communists.

BY OCTOBER

Vietcong told the villages the new arrivals "would join the (Vietcong) National Liberation Front in September or October."

Americans are expected to purchase nine million cars in the 1968 model year.

'Hate' Charge May Cut Off Poverty Funds

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — A Negro official's exclusion of whites from a summer antipoverty project which Senate investigators were told teaches "hatred of the white race" may result in loss of federal and local funds, the local director says.

"At the very least, there will be an investigation," said the Rev. J. Paschal Davis, white Episcopal minister who heads Nashville's Metropolitan Action Commission, the local agency through which the Office of Economic Opportunity channels federal antipoverty funds.

★ ★ ★

Davis reacted to the Senate testimony and to the response of Fred Brooks, the project director and chairman of Nashville's Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee.

"We teach the historical fact that whites came to Africa and viciously enslaved many of the great African people," said Brooks, 20. "If the history of their Negroes' past leads them to hate white people, that's not our responsibility."

City Nearer Buying Old Housing Project

Mayor Wiliam H. Taylor Jr. expressed optimism today that the city may be able to obtain the Crystal Beach Housing Project.

★ ★ ★

The owners of the 72-unit development indicated to the mayor at a private meeting last night that they would be willing to sell the property to the city.

Taylor said that he was not at liberty to reveal details of the meeting at this time, but added that a "mutual understanding" was reached.

"There are problems that first must be overcome," said Taylor, "and the owners then plan to submit a proposal in writing to the city."

★ ★ ★

The housing development, located on 7½ acres in the southwest section of the city, has frequently been criticized because of its condition.

DISTURBANCES

The problem came to a head last week following the civil disturbance in the city when a number of young Negroes demanded that some prefabricated housing be erected to replace the Crystal Beach development.

Taylor said, however, that the city has been negotiating with the owners for some time regarding the purchase, and not since the demands were made.

The project was first developed by the federal government during World War II and later sold to seven Detroiters.

★ ★ ★

Earlier in the day, Taylor met with a number of Negro youths for the second time in a week to review problems brought to the city's attention.

MAIN POINTS

"We further discussed their three main points and what had been done and then scheduled another meeting for 1 p.m. Aug. 10," Taylor said.

One condition which Taylor said he had no control over was the removal of State Rep. Arthur J. Law's grocery store at 200 Earlmoor from the neighborhood.

Law allegedly shot and killed a teen-ager who reportedly attempted to break into the store during the violence July 24-25.

★ ★ ★

The Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce is, however, attempting to make arrangements for Law to sell the property if he is agreeable.

Sliding-Scale Tuition Stirs Citizen Protests

Citizen groups are investigating the possibility of law suits against Michigan State and Oakland universities' sliding scale tuition plan, an MSU trustee revealed today.

"I have talked to people so concerned with the ability-to-pay plan that they are willing to contribute money to fight it in the courts," said Trustee Kenneth W. Thompson of Bloomfield Hills.

"And I, for one, will help them fight it."

Thompson was one of three Republican trustees to vote against the tuition plan, two weeks ago. C. Allen Harland of Bloomfield Hills was one of five Democratic trustees to push it through.

★ ★ ★

CUTS THREATENED

House action, however, is not binding on the trustees. But there were threats of budget cuts next year if the trustees do not back off-on the plan, believed to be the nation's first.

Under the novel tuition plan, Michigan undergraduates would be charged a yearly tuition equal to 3 per cent of his parents' gross income if they make between $11,800 and $16,700.

Below an income of $11,800, students would pay $354 a year and above $16,700, a maximum of $501 yearly.

Republican Floor Leader William P. Hampton of Bloomfield Hills said Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley is expected to rule soon on whether it is legal for MSU and OU to force students to divulge their families' incomes.

Criticizing the gross-income-based plan as not taking into consideration the number of children in a family, Hampton remarked:

"I think this thing they've come up with is just about as ridiculous as any thing I've ever seen come down the pike."

"It is a big mess," commented Thompson. "I don't know what's going to happen, but I can assure you that it will be discussed at our next board meeting in September."

Trustees and legislators generally seem to be split on the issue by party lines — Democrats for the sliding scale and Republicans against it.

Here's LBJ Tax Hike Package in Brief

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here's a breakdown of the tax hike package sent to Congress Thursday by President Johnson:

Individual Income Taxes—A 10-per cent surcharge effective Oct. 1 of this year. This would mean a person who currently would pay $500 in income taxes would have to pay $550 over the course of a full year—or $512.50 this year, since the surcharge would be in effect only the final quarter. Unaffected would be some 16 million persons in the lowest income brackets.

★ ★ ★

Corporate Income Taxes — A 10-per cent surtax effective last July 1. Speed up corporate tax collections.

Automobile Taxes — Continue the 7 per cent manufacturer's excise tax on autos to July 1, 1969. It was scheduled to drop to 2 per cent next April 1 and to 1 per cent on Jan. 1, 1969. Under the proposal it wouldn't dip to 1 per cent until Jan. 1, 1970.

Telephone Excise Taxes—Postpone until July 1, 1969, the cut in telephone excise taxes from 10 per cent to 1 per cent. It was scheduled for April 1. Postpone for one year the scheduled elimination of the tax.

Anticipated Results—A $6.3-billion increase in income tax revenues for the fiscal year ending next June 31; excise tax postponements would salvage $300 million otherwise lost; and the corporate speedup will net $800 million.

The best evidence of the origin of a cultivated plant is to find the place where ancestral forms still grow wild. In this manner, it was found that watermelons grow wild in central Africa.

Dem Decries Ford Stand on Rat Control Measure

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Democratic congressman yesterday branded as absurd and callous House GOP leader Gerald Ford's explanation of why Republicans voted against the administration's rat controll bill.

Rep. James Howard of New Jersey said he was shocked when he read a statement by Ford that the program could serve as best only 2½ per cent of the American population.

Howard, noting that in numbers this represented 5 million people, asked whether Ford meant Republicans should vote only for programs which help more than 5 million people.

"Only a samll percentage of Americans die of cancer each year," Howard said in remarks inserted into the Congressional Record. "Does Mr. Ford mean we should abandon the government's cancer research and control programs?

* * *

"Only 53,000 Americans died in highway accidents last year. Does Mr. Ford mean that Republicans should have voted down the Highway Traffic and Safety Acts of 1966."

$40 MILLION

Two weeks ago the House refused to take up the measure, which would provide $40 million in federal funds over the next two years to help cities rid their slums of rats.

Administration leaders have indicated they may try again to pass the bill.

Assault Exam Today for Detroit Guard

DETROIT (AP) — The preliminary examination of a private guard accused of felonious assault in an incident during last week's racial violence was delayed until today in Detroit Recorder's Court.

The hearings on charges against Melvin Dismukes, 24, a construction worker and part-time private guard, was delayed for 24 hours Thursday by Judge Samuel H. Olsen when the prosecution's complaining witness failed to appear in court.

Dismukes is accused of assaulting James Sortor, 19, of Detroit with a gun butt early in the morning of July 26th at the Algiers Motel, where three Negro teen-agers were found shot to death.

Ex-Owner Dies

ROGERS CITY (AP) — Service for Louis J. Stubl, 62, of Presque Isle was to be held today at the Gatzke Funeral Home here. Stubl, former owner of the Lake Harbor Lodge at Presque Isle, died Wednesday.

Holly Schools Plan Austerity if Millage Fails

HOLLY TOWNSHIP — The school board here has mapped out an austerity program that includes dropping sports if a third try for millage on Aug. 31 proves a failure.

This time the board is asking just seven mills, which will leave taxes about the same. The hope of getting an extra three mills with the seven mills expired has been dropped for now.

In June and July, 10-mill requests were rejected by voters.

A few austerity steps will be necessary even if the seven-mill request finally passes, school officials indicated. The board plans to cut the staff by six teachers and refrain from buying some needed furniture and equipment.

* * *

It was hoped to raise about $100,000 with the extra three mills. Since that time state aid has been increased, in accordance with population figures, by $38,000 leaving a smaller deficit.

LETTER ON BUDGET

Russell Haddon, schools superintendent, said a letter has been sent to teachers and other employes stating that original budget figures contained provisions for salary raises.

AREA NEWS

This provision will stay in the budget, although the amount would be reduced if the election is lost, Haddon said.

"We must do this to stay competitive on salaries," he said.

* * *

The board has called for a meeting of all interested local organizations for 8 p.m. Monday at the district office at the high school.

ELECTION CAMPAIGN

Members of the organizations will be invited to take part in the election campaign with the goal of preserving the quality of education in the Holly district.

Invited are such groups as the Kiwanis, veterans, athletic boosters, chambers of commerce, and ministers.

The board has listed 22 items of economy to be put in force in the event the seven-mill levy fails.

* * *

Included is cutting all extracurricular activities including sports and dropping six more teachers.

OTHER CUTS

Also to be cut are adult education, field trips, building improvements, travel and leave expenses, and purchases of books and supplies.

On June 12, the 10-mill request lost by a 49-vote margin, 377-328. Then on July 25 voters turned out in record numbers to defeat the issue 528 to 407, a wider margin.

This was interpreted by the board as meaning voters would not "buy" a tax increase at this time.

Consideration was given to the fact that a state income tax has recently been approved and higher valuations have also added to individual tax burdens.

Budget Approved in W. Bloomfield

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — The township budget has received the approval of the Township Board following a public hearing which drew about 20 residents.

The board made no changes on the tentative budget. With expenditures of $590,236, it carries a deficit of about $80,000.

The budget covers a fiscal year which began April 1 and ends March 31, 1968.

The board also approved recently a rezoning request enabling the construction of the Detroit Bank and Trust building. It will be on the corner of Orchard Lake and West Maple.

* * *

Both the Township Planning Commission and the Oakland County Coordinating Committee approved the rezoning.

DENIED REQUEST

In other action, the board has denied the rezoning request for an office on Orchard Lake Road near the Grand Trunk Western Railroad tracks in the Automobile Country Club Subdivision.

Dr. L. J. Finkell of Birmingham made the rezoning request. It was also denied by the planning commission.

* * *

The board denied the request because an office would be an "improper use of the land," said Township Supervisor John F. Warren.

Hero's Life Recalled

GENEROSITY

An aunt recalled the time when he was about 16 and gave his jacket to a boy who didn't have one.

"Yes, and remember when he gave his job to the boy who'd gotten married and didn't have one," said his mother and she shook her head.

"He always liked heights," she recalled. "When he was 18 months old we caught him running around the roof of the barn — waving at the girl next door. When he was 3 we had to get him out of the tallest tree you ever saw."

And she smiled through the sadness.

AIR FORCE OFFER

"The last time we saw him was in Las Vegas better than a year ago. He could have come home then. He had 30 days, but they (the Air Force) told him that if he wanted to, he could leave immediately and fly his own F105 Thunderchief to Vietnam. He went," she said sadly.

"I wish they had made him come home after his first hundred missions."

Richter, who had completed 100 missions over North Vietnam, had turned down a second chance to come home at that time.

* * *

"He believed in what he was doing and he wanted to stay," his father, a retired tool and die man, said.

AIR FORCE PROUD

The Air Force, which officially records Lt. Richter as shot down on his 198th mission over North Vietnam, has kind words for the Holly hero.

Pontiac Press Photo

Memories Come Easily To Ludwig Richter, A Hero's Father

"I followed this boy," said Maj. George Weiss, Air Force information officer at the Pentagon. "He was an unusual boy. The Air Force was proud of him. In Vietnam he was a real spark plug."

From teachers at Holly High School where Richter was class president and cocaptain of the football team for four years, to the Air Force Academy in Colorado, people liked him.

* * *

The academy's yearbook noted with some facetiousness that Richter's "main contribution in the academic field was the invention of the Richter Study Curve, which is a growth of the 'minimum energy to graduation' principle."

Ed Scott of Holly, an academic classmate, explains, "Karl was a rare personality. He was smart, but he figured that a mark over passing was just to much wasted effort. He kidded about the curve, but he was serious about it, too."

Scott recalls that it was during Richter's senior year at the academy that he became interested in cars.

"He bought a souped-up Plymouth Fury and started racing. I don't know how many horsepower it had."

The car, according to the family, is still in Las Vegas, where Richter underwent specialized training before going to Vietnam. They'd like to find it and bring it home.

FORMER EMPLOYER

The United Tire Service, 1007 Baldwin, Holly, where Richter worked when he was home on leave from the academy, planned to close today and tomorrow in honor of the home town hero.

The store is owned by Richter's brother, Eugene, recently near death from an auto accident in Howell. He hopes to be released from the hospital to attend the funeral tomorrow.

Richter's father, his sister, her husband, an uncle and a school mate will fly to Colorado Monday for the services at the Colorado Springs cemetery.

* * *

A flyby, the Air Force's honor to departed comrades, and a 21-gun salute will be accorded the local hero.

'FREE SPIRIT'

His body will be interred, but his was a free spirit.

"He was just passing through," said his mother.

Bogus Check Gang Working Around Holly

HOLLY — Village Police Chief Omer Teeples warned area merchants that a gang of check passers is operating in the area.

So far, five bad checks have been discovered in the village area, but more have probably been passed, Teeples said.

The checks, apparently stolen, are from Pontiac State Bank of Highland and bear the name Judith A. Elkins. A man with identification of Frances C. Cummings is cashing them, the chief warned.

Farmington Schools Get OK for 9-Mill Debt Retirement

FARMINGTON — The school district received full approval yesterday from the Michigan Municipal Finance Commission to levy nine mills for debt retirement.

This results in a total levy of 32.4 mills for Farmington schools, pending the approval of the school board at its meeting Aug. 14. The nine-mill levy does not represent a tax increase as the district has levied 32.4 mills for the last two years.

The commission had originally opposed the nine-mill levy because it would leave too much surplus, said School Supt. Roderick Smith.

A recent reinterpretation of a Michigan Municipal Finance Commission law brought about the first decision of the commission. At that time, the commission permitted the school board to levy only four mills for debt retirement.

The reversal of this decision was the result of the school district's hearing before the commission. The school board argued that the levy of four mills would force the district to borrow from the State Borid Loan Fund in the future.

* * *

Another argument was that the lower levy would lead the district to increase the levy next year in response to need. A reserve favors little fluctuation in levies, explained Smith, who said he is "happy and pleased with the ruling."

$1.3-MILLION RESERVE

Smith expects the district to carry a $1.3-million reserve this year. This amounts to 80 percent of the debt retirement costs. The commission decided to allow a surplus up to one year's debt retirement fees.

The nine-mill levy will bring in $1.25 million, said Smith. Required this year to pay interest and retire bonds is $1.6 million. The balance will come from the current reserve.

The levy of nine mills was first questioned when the district sought approval to sell bonds for school expansion. The commission had at that time ordered that the district couldn't levy any more than necessary to pay principal and interest.

* * *

Smith assured that the reserve will go only for these purposes. "There will be no charges over the district's needs and outside of legal bounds," Smith added.

SAME FOR 2 YEARS

The tax levy of 32.4 mills has been the same for the last two years. The levy includes, for operating, 8.4 mills from the county allocation and 15 extra voted mills.

The constancy of the total levy is the result of a millage vote Nov. 15, 1966. This vote — besides approving a four-mill increase — set up a constant tax procedure for several years.

With the total millage the same for three years, the allotment for debt retirement would decrease one mill each year, according to plan. In 1965, 11 mills went for debt retirement. While this millage decreased, the allotment for operations increased by one mill each year.

* * *

Next year, however, Smith anticipates the total levy to increase one mill. Voters approved this in June 1966. It is to finance operation of the high school's new auditorium and swimming pool. The additional mill will be levied in December 1968, said Smith.

Will Double Floor Space

Troy Leases New Library

TROY — A new library building has been leased by the City Commission.

A recently completed building at 5044 Rochester, north of Long Lake, will replace the smaller library site at 61 E. Square Lake.

The new structure has double the floor space and will rent for $250 per month for the next year and $300 the following year.

Cost at the former site was $220 per month.

An assessment district will be formed for an area on Dequindre between Square Lake and South Boulevard where the County Health Department said bad water was a health danger.

WATER MAINS

Cost estimates for construction of water mains were ordered.

Health authorities found harmful chemicals and bacteria in the present well water which serves 17 houses.

In other business, a building permit was approved for a Shell station at the northeast corner of Big Beaver and John R.

The Historical Committee was officially renamed the Historical Commission and will have five members instead of the present three—Lois Lance, Lowell Mullins and Virginia Bollinger.

Teens Launch Drive for Leukemia Funds

OXFORD — Area teens dedicated to Aiding Leukemia Stricken American Children (ALSAC) are busy collecting funds toward a $700 goal set for the village and township.

Cheryl Gritzinger, 31 Lakeview, area chairman, is assisted by Andi Barnes, Diane Chamber and Carol Koop.

* * *

They will present a film at 6 p.m. Sunday at Holy Cross Lutheran Church, 136 S. Washington, explaining the purpose of the collection and the use of the funds.

Research in the cancerous diseases of children is carried out at St. Jude Children's Research Hospital, Memphis, Tenn. The hospital was founded by television and nightclub entertainer Danny Thomas.

Ski Lodge Fire Started Accidentally in a Sofa

HOLLY TOWNSHIP — A fire at Mt. Holly Ski Lodge yesterday morning apparently was accidentally started in a sofa, Holly Township firemen said.

The alarm was turned in by a lodge employe

* * *

Flames got under beams in the roof and jumped from spot to spot making fire-fighting difficult, firemen said.

Damage was limited to that of scorching, smoke and water. Some items stored in closets were destroyed, firemen said.

History Shows Presidential Doubts

Reluctance to Use Troops in Cities Noted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Army troops moved into Detroit through one of the narrowest corridors in federal law, according to Justice Department officials.

Research showed today that there has existed a historical reluctance on the part of presidents since 1792 to employ federal forces against civilians in American cities.

"This is the ultimate force — sending the national military force into the street against the civilian population," one official said.

"Unchecked use of this power has historically destroyed representative democracy," he said.

Research compiled in the early morning hours of July 24 — the day President Johnson ordered paratroopers to Detroit to help put down rioting — showed 15 instances where state governors sought federal help to quell civil violence.

TURNED DOWN

In five cases, including Pennsylvania's "Buckshot War" in 1838 and the 1842 "Dorr Rebellion" in Rhode Island, the governors were turned down.

In another case, mediation efforts preceded the dispatch of troops.

Officials were questioned on this point in the aftermath of political wrangling between Washington and Detroit over the speed with which President Johnson reacted to Gov. Romney's call for help.

* * *

The Justice Department said the evidence tended to show that each president called on by a governor for help answered the request only after being sure there was no alternative.

BACK IN 1873

The first use department research showed for the 175-year-old law President Johnson invoked for Detroit was in 1873.

At that time, the governor of Louisiana sought federal aid to stop lawlessness due to racial problems and political uncertainty as to who was to occupy certain political offices.

President Ulysses S. Grant issued a proclamation ordering the insurgents to disperse. They did not. The disturbance increased.

Grant ultimately sent two regiments to quell the violence.

Reports on 'Vanishing Americans'

This is the time of year when most Americans disappear. But it's an annual disappearing act called summer vacation. These "missing persons" can be counted on to return voluntarily—well, almost.

However, it is interesting to note that thousands disappear and don't return voluntarily each year. One firm alone, Tracers Company of America, Inc., processed 43,680 missing persons cases last year. What kind of people are "missing persons?" All kinds, a company survey reports.

Most missing persons (92 of every 100) settle in a major metropolitan city. Teen-agers take off by the thousands — just prior to final exams. Most return within a week.

People raised in orphanages, whether or not they're adopted, rarely give up the search for their true parents.

The study also shows that wandering wives are a real rarity. For every 1,000 missing husbands, there are only 2 missing wives. Of all husbands who fold their tents and steal away into the night, 83 per cent are in the 40 to 50 year age bracket.

★ ★ ★

Contrary to popular opinion, it is very seldom that a husband does his wandering act with another woman. Also, mothers-in-law are not the primary factors in marriage split-ups. Money is usually the prime cause.

And, for what it's worth, less than 1 per cent of all bigamists are ever prosecuted, according to the survey.

Have People and the Times Gotten Out of Kilter?

Do you ever have the feeling that this kooky old world is getting kookier?

Do you find it's more and more unnatural to do anything naturally? That if you are inclined to let nature take its course, you are not only regarded as an oddball, but it may be illegal?

We take pills to keep us awake and to put us to sleep, to slow us down and to speed us up.

We buy things we don't need with money we don't have to impress people we don't like. And when we can't meet the payments, we merely arrange for one friendly, gigantic, impossible loan to get rid of the friendly, little loans.

Banks which used to lecture us sternly on the folly of not living within our income now plead with us to live it up on borrowed money.

We take vacation trips to rest up from our labors and come back so pooped we have to rest up doing what had made us so tired we had to have a vacation.

★ ★ ★

Thousands of people, including kids, are going into mental orbit by taking hallucinatory drugs. And at least one college professor recommends such excursions — known to the trade as "psychedelic field trips" — because he believes they permit a "better understanding of mythology and culture."

Take these items one by one and you can shrug them off or perhaps accept them. But lump them together and you have to wonder what's going on and where it will end.

★ ★ ★

It would be fun to know, wouldn't it? Or would it?

Foggy Words Emanate From Foggy Bottom

What's new in Washington?

Well, here's a hot flash from the capital:

"Action-orientated orchestration of innovative inputs, generated by escalation of meaningful indigenous decision-making dialogue, focusing on multilinked problem-complexes, can maximize the vital thrust toward a non-alienated and viable urban infra-structure."

Any questions?

If, perchance, you wish to know more about this fascinating subject, write to the U. S. Department of Housing and Urban Development—known to its intimates as plain old HUD.

Some bright young man in HUD —maybe the very one who knocked out this very message — will sadly shake his action-oriented head, mourn the low level of public intelligence, and wonder what a guy has to do to make himself understood these days.

Three Men Symbolize Negro Struggle

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

MARLOW

WASHINGTON—Three men symbolize the struggle for the mind and the progress of the American Negro. All three are Negroes: Clarence Mitchell, Stokely Carmichael and H. Rap Brown.

Mitchell has worked almost his whole adult life for justice and peaceful solution through law and order for Negroes. Carmichael and Brown are apostles of violence.

Three recent statements by these men illuminate not only the different roads they have chosen to follow—and the kind of appeal they make to the Negro mind — but the choice Negroes have open to them.

"The haters, both white and nonwhite," Mitchell said Wednesday night in a talk in Atlanta, "are now operating on the same wave-length. They both want to resegregate the country."

★ ★ ★

"They are a small minority, but they are a dangerous minority. They are dangerous because some of them are reckless enough to carry out wild schemes of destruction."

In a Cuban news conference, Carmichael said: "One good thing about the Vietnam war (he never served in it since he was never drafted) is that the United States has taught us how to kill."

He called for Negro guerrilla uprisings in this country.

Police recorded a speech Brown made in Cambridge, Md., immediately before the riot July 24. In part it said:

"I mean, don't be trying to love that hunky white man to death; shoot him to death, 'cause that's what he's out to do to you. Do to him what he would like to do to you, but do it to him first."

Mitchell is 57 but he has been working for the advancement of Negroes for 30 years, which is longer than Brown, 23, and Carmichael, 26, have been alive.

WORKS FOR NEGRO

As NAACP's Washington representative, he works with senators and representatives on bills affecting Negroes, goes to committee hearings to testify or listen, or to see Justice Department lawyers, or to the White House, or to various meetings, and then on weekends has to fly around the country to attend meetings.

This has been his life 22 years, day in and out. He is not doing it for money. The NAACP is not a place to get rich.

It was the NAACP which, after years of preliminary test cases leading up to the big one, got the Supreme Court in 1954 to outlaw segregation as unconstitutional. This cut the barrier to Negro progress.

★ ★ ★

It was this decision which made it possible for Carmichael and Brown to assert themselves although they look upon the NAACP people as a bunch of outdated Uncle Toms.

LEFT SCHOOL

Brown, who had a good scholastic record but didn't finish college, is from Louisiana. He left school to work in the civil rights drive in Mississippi.

Carmichael, a citizen although born in the West Indies, finished college. He, too, got his early training in the civil rights drive in Mississippi. Last year he authored the phrase "Black Power," but he hemmed and hawed about admitting he advocated violence. Not any more — and now he is said to command fees of $1,000 or more for some of his appearances.

On The Horns

David Lawrence Says:

LBJ Ignoring Inflation Realities

WASHINGTON — The Johnson administration is still not facing up to the fact that "butter and guns" during a war are impracticable and can only result in a foundering economy.

LAWRENCE

The President's message, proposing a surcharge of 10 per cent on the taxes on individuals and corporations together with some other technical devices to increase revenues, does not go to the heart of the problem of inflation.

Usually during a war, not only is an excess-profits tax imposed, but wage-and-price controls as well.

The President has suggested cuts in certain expenditures, yet the total budget seems likely to go soaring upwards just the same.

The message sets forth a policy of trying "to provide the fairest and least disruptive means of sustaining — without inflation — America's unprecedented period of uninterrupted prosperity."

★ ★ ★

The current inflation, however, is already noticeable as prices have been steadily rising, with higher wages being demanded at the same time.

CONGRESSMEN SKEPTICAL

The President is promising that spending will be reduced, but members of Congress in both parties are skeptical about such a result.

The tax bill will not be passed until a little later in the present session of Congress when there is a clearer idea of just what the total federal budget is going to be.

It seems certain, however, that there will be a tax increase, as this will be regarded by members of both parties as the lesser of two evils. There is a hesitancy, for instance, to pass wage-and-price-control legislation or to impose an excess-profits tax.

★ ★ ★

No plan that raises taxes is, to be sure, popular, though more harm is done by handling tax problems on the basis of what is politically advantageous or disadvantageous than by putting into effect a policy that will preserve some kind of economic equilibrium.

OBVIOUSLY DIFFICULT

It is obviously difficult for an administration which faces a presidential - election campaign within the next 12 months to suspend those domestic expenditures which mean votes in various areas of the country.

So the new tax proposal and the size of the budget are designed to interfere as little as possible with the flow of government funds into the economy.

★ ★ ★

The tax measure will mean a relatively small diversion of private funds into the treasury. The high rate of government spending will continue, and if "inflation" can ever be called "prosperity," then the two terms will coincide at least until after the 1968 election.

★ ★ ★

Eventually there will have to be a day of reckoning, because the current fiscal policy is based largely on political expediency.

Bob Considine Says:

Care, Feeding of LBJ Jet Is Around-the-Clock Job

NEW YORK — The huge wall map in Gen. Howell Estes's control center at Scott Air Force Base, Ill., home of the Military Airlift Command, keeps constant tabs on the location and condition of the most famous airplane in the world: Air Force One.

CONSIDINE

The care and feeding of President Johnson's big Boeing is one of the myriad duties assigned to M.A.C. It is an around-the-clock job in the case of that particular plane, but the same is true of every other aircraft in the White House hangar, so to speak.

The White House fleet, officially known as M.A.C.'s 89th Military Airlift Wing (Special Missions) is based at Andrews Air Force Base, in nearby Maryland.

Whatever plane or chopper the President happens to be in is designated Air Force One, for communication and clearance purposes.

★ ★ ★

Be it the familiar intercontinental Boeing with its tons of hot-line facilities, or the zippy little Lockheed "Executive" that sometimes flies LBJ to his Texas ranch, the President must be able to be reached in split seconds.

Whatever the means of flight, he is accompanied by a military aide who carries with him the codes which would be needed to launch a catastrophic retaliation raid in the event of an attack on the United States.

On M.A.C.'s big board, the President's Boeing is referred to as VC-137C, No. 26,000. The No. 26,000 is used for other special mission planes, whenever the President is on board.

LBJ is aboard only a small fraction of the time the spit-and-polish Boeing is in service. It is put through its paces almost daily.

★ ★ ★

Its crew, commanded by Col. James U. Cross, who flew Mr. Johnson over much of the world during his time as vice president, tests the big ship repeatedly to prove, over and over again, that it can get off the ground safely even though it blows an engine on takeoff, and land with an engine or two "out."

★ ★ ★

It has never had to face such emergencies, a tribute to its maintenance crew.

Smiles

Nobody has ever been able to figure out why wire coat hangers are so mutually affectionate.

★ ★ ★

We'd like to live about 20 years more so we could hear our teen-agers squawking about the younger generation.

Commends Police Work During Recent Disorder

During the civil disorder last week my family and I had to stand guard at our grocery and liquor establishment. It is a shame it had to come to this but we had no choice.

★ ★ ★

I observed this about our police departments: all curfew violators were stopped and checked carefully; all buildings were constantly checked for looting and superficial damages; beefed-up road patrols were on duty around the clock with emphasis during the curfew hours.

★ ★ ★

I can't say what a fine job these fellows did. I commend all the police departments involved for a superb job. I believe the best thanks the people of Oakland County can give is our contined support and cooperation.

'Let's Eliminate Corruption from Politics'

I say amen to Romney's fine article in The Pontiac Press. It's a shame that our President uses the costly destruction of riots and homeless people to put a big feather in his cap and to step on Romney. LBJ can take his "let's all go to church and pray for peace." My answer to him is let's take this corruption out of politics so citizens can feel it is something to pray for. We will always have destruction as long as we have this kind of leadership.

Question and Answer

I never use the stuff, but could you tell me how many tons of instant coffee the American people consume a year? Just curious.

MRS. FOBERT GIRARDELLA

REPLY

According to the Pan-American Coffee Bureau in New York, 88,500 tons of instant coffee were consumed in the U.S. in 1966. Of that quantity, 79.4% was used in the home, 15.8% at work or eating place and 4.8% was used in the manufacture of syrups, flavors, confections, etc.

Reviewing Other Editorial Pages

Wry Amusement

Daily Oklahoman

Since the French government is always lecturing other nations about spending more than they take in, there is wry amusement in the speculation that this year France will have little more than a standoff. It has had favorable balances since 1959.

★ ★ ★

One reason is that foreign visitors to France now spend less and make shorter visits. High prices are one factor and another is treatment given them by service personnel and shopkeepers.

This is an old story to many Americans who, like many other peoples, put France high on the priority list of places to visit.

If French people who have now become tourists themselves, do spend the $100 million more outside their country than visitors to France spend, as the Wall Street Journal speculates, this is an ironic twist. It may put a damper on French withdrawal of U. S. gold. That would be a beneficial reaction to our own balance of payments situation.

★ ★ ★

With all its tourist attractions and long-held position as a world attraction, if tourism is falling down in France the basic reason is the attitude of French people, and their constantly outstretched hands.

Since the United States seeks to encourage tourists from abroad, and all its individual states act the same way, there is a lesson in the French situation that could well apply here.

Basic to any successful tourist program is courteous treatment. That has more to do with pleasant visits than prices although restraint is needed, too.

Hard Lesson

Richmond News Leader

If the American Treasury has not learned how to play the money war game, the Chinese Communists, of all people, have. The Chinese, it is reported, have just given America's supposedly capitalistic government a textbook lesson in how markets work — and at our expense.

★ ★ ★

Although Red China has bided her time militarily as far as the Vietnam war is concerned, she has been betting cash against us financially. In effect, Red China has wagered that if the United States overextended itself in Vietnam, the dollar would fall in value and, correspondingly, the price of gold would rise. So Red China has been buying gold.

In view of America's unsatisfactory balance-of-payments deficit and the potential $29-billion budget deficit in the coming fiscal year, confidence in the dollar abroad has declined. And the price of gold, which largely is based on dollar confidence, has soared.

★ ★ ★

The official Washington price of gold is $35 an ounce. But the new wave of gold hoarding has driven the black market price in Hong Kong and Macao up to $80 an ounce. Consequently, Red China has chartered seven Boeing jets in London to airlift $150 million worth of her gold holdings out to Hong Kong, where the gold will bring twice the price. Then the Chicoms will turn around and buy more gold on the London exchange with the dollars they get for their gold in Hong Kong.

That is one way international markets can work. How ironic it is to have the lesson taught by Communists.

Notes From Swinging London

Casino Still Bears Barred Actor's Name

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

LONDON—Notes from swinging London: The gambling casino is still advertised as George Raft's Colony, even though its one-time host is barred from Britain as undesirable. The Beverly Hillbillies are filming background shots all around London town. Another arrival is Red Skelton, here for segments with a symphony orchestra playing his compositions.

American tourists, accustomed to free movies on cross-country flights, are jolted by the $2.50 charge across the Atlantic. Seen in the Hotel Dorchester lobby: Sean Connery with long hair for a Western he plans to film in Mexico. Ray Milland arrived to direct an English movie.

★ ★ ★

Deborah Kerr recovered from an ear ailment and rejoined the cast of "Prudence and the Pill." Rare theater experience: watching Sir Ralph Richardson romp through "The Rivals" at the Haymarket. Isobel Jeans has replaced Margaret Rutherford in the play—the Academy Award winner became unable to remember the malaprops.

Spotted in a cozy corner of L'Etoile restaurant: Hayley Mills and her 53-year-old director-boyfriend, Roy Boulting. "Fiddler on the Roof" is a big hit at Her Majesty's theater, and some say Israeli comic Topol is the best to play the leading role yet.

SUBTEEN SET

Their associates suspect the Beatles will never get together on another movie. The Monkees have made a dent in England, but mostly with the subteen set. Explicit sign on a movie stage: "You must enter the stage quietly—do not let the door bang." Agatha Christie's "The Mousetrap" is being advertised in its "15th unashamed year" at the Ambassadors Theater.

BBC has begun experimenting with color prior to its official start of color programming Dec. 2. Color sets are scarce, and they cost about $800 to buy or $5.60 per week rental. There are an estimated 1,000 sets in England today.

PICTURE OF COOPERATION

It's reported Jerry Lewis was the soul of cooperation on "Don't Raise the Bridge, Lower the River" even though he neither wrote, directed nor produced. Stanley Kubrick is still finishing "2001: A Space Odyssey," which completed principal photography a year ago. Sammy Davis Jr. and Peter Lawford hope to make a series of the film they're shooting, "Salt and Pepper."

Busiest star in films, Michael Caine went from "Billion Dollar Brain"—as Harry Palmer again—to "Deadfall," next moves to "The Magus" with Anthony Quinn and Candy Bergen on Majorca.

HUDSON'S

WOMEN'S SECTION

Faithful Ever Since

Sixteen Years Make Up for Error

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Here is my problem: A young woman who lived across the hall from my husband and me came over for coffee. I asked my husband to go to the doughnut shop for something to go with coffee. This neighbor asked him if she could go along for the ride. (Two blocks away).

ABBY

Coffee was made, and the time passed. I was going out of my mind wondering what had happened to them. If they'd had a smash-up I would have heard the ambulance.

Two hours later they came back. He had lipstick on his mouth, and her blouse was all wrinkled up. They said they had "car trouble." (They forgot the doughnuts.) She went home in a hurry, and my husband said the lipstick must have got on him when he took a few drags of her cigaret. Later he admitted they kissed a few times, but he said, "What can a guy do when a woman falls all over him?"

Abby, I am heartsick. This happened 16 years ago, and I can't forget it. He's been a good husband, father, and grandfather. We've moved four times since then, but I'm still tormented. Do you think he was unfaithful? TORMENTED

DEAR TORMENTED: Your husband's "unfaithfulness" probably began and ended with a few kisses and a lot of conversation. You can forget by not dwelling on it. And that shouldn't be too difficult after 16 years of good married life.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have two pre-school children, and when we need a sitter we ask our neighbor's teenage son.

Lately we have noticed the smell of cigaret smoke in our house when we come home. We are sure this boy has been smoking without his parents' permission or knowledge.

What should we do? Should we tell his folks, or just mind our own business? We hate to see a boy of his age take up smoking and get the habit. We also hate to lose the services of a handy sitter, which is probably what would happen if we told his folks and they cracked down on him.

CONFUSED

DEAR CONFUSED: Tell the boy you've been getting his smoke signals, and unless he is permitted to smoke in his own home, you don't want him smoking in yours.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: My daughter and I are planning her wedding. She telephoned a dear friend (I'll call her Myrtle) who lives in another city, and asked her to be maid of honor. Myrtle accepted and was invited to come for a visit and make further plans.

We hadn't seen Myrtle in a year, and when we saw her we were both flabbergasted. She had lost her lovely figure and looked like a blimp. (She must have gained 50 pounds!)

All day yesterday we shopped for a gown that would correspond with those the other attendants were wearing, but we couldn't find a thing to fit Myrtle.

We hate to hurt her feelings, but the lovely wedding we have dreamed of will be ruined if we let Myrtle be the maid of honor. Is there some gracious way we can get out of this?

BRIDE'S MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: I know of no "gracious" way to tell a friend that you've changed your mind because she's changed her figure.

Take Nuptials by Candlelight

A candlelight ceremony in the Four Towns Methodist Church was the setting for the marriage of Susan Laura Grile and Lt. Robert William Donaldson, USAF.

★ ★ ★

Parents of the couple are Mrs. Malvin M. Grile of Locklin Road, Commerce Township and the Alton J. Donaldsons of Romeo.

A white floor length bridal dress of Chantilly lace and seed pearls over organza was worn for the Saturday rite. A Watteau panel train of chapel length accented the gown.

A matching lace caplet secured the bride's veil of English silk illusion.

ATTENDANTS

Mary Georgia Grile, twin sister of the bride and Dr. Michael Donaldson of Birmingham, brother of the bridegroom were honor attendants.

Duane R. Anderson of Crystal Falls and Michael McKeough of Mount Clemens were ushers.

Following a reception at the home of the bride's mother the couple left for a wedding trip to Phoenix, Ariz. They will reside in Mesa, Ariz. where the bridegroom is stationed at Williams, Airforce Base.

She's Tired--Wants to End Role

By ELIZABETH L. POST

Dear Mrs. Post: Five years ago my parents-in-law came to live with us. Before that they had their own house and whenever a special occasion arose, the family would all gather at their house to celebrate.

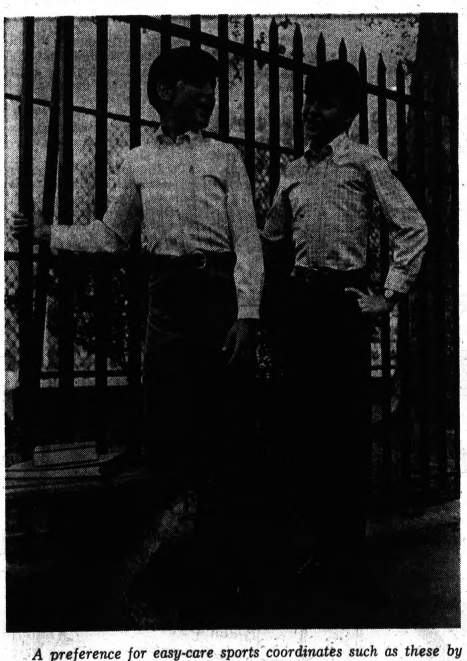
Now that they are living here, they all come to our house instead. I'm getting fed up with it. The family gets larger and larger each year and I don't feel up to all this extra work that these get-togethers entail.

Mother and Dad will soon celebrate another anniversary and I'm sure they're all planning to come here. How can I tactfully put an end to this without causing a family feud? — Mrs. R. C.

Dear Mrs. R. C.: Have your husband explain to his brothers and sisters how much extra work these family celebrations mean to you and that you are just not up to it, and ask if they won't take turns having them at their houses.

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it correct to wear a black dress to a wedding reception? I am wearing a green suit to the church. The reception follows later in the evening and I had planned to change to a black dress. — Donna

Dear Donna: Unrelieved black is not appropriate for a wedding. It is a gay and happy occasion, and the color of your dress should reflect that atmosphere.



A preference for easy-care sports coordinates such as these by Maxon is shared by young fry and high school boys alike. Because of the fabrics of Eastman Kodel polyester and cotton, they can be washed and dried with ease, with little or no ironing required. Shirts and slacks are color coordinated for an adaptable wardrobe . . . for school and extra curricular activities.

The fall school boy finds the right formula for looking casual and well-dressed at the same time. Juvenile's three-button sports jacket has a snappy paisley lining and matching pocket kerchief. Besides looking sharp, it requires little care because the fabric is Cone durable press corduroy of Eastman Kodel polyester and cotton.

Symphony, Chorus, Soloists Excel in Dramatic Works

By RICHARD MORSE

Thursday evening, at the Meadow Brook Music Festival, an appreciative audience was treated to the combined sounds of the Meadow Brook School of Music Chorus, the Detroit Symphony Orchestra and six soloists.

The program opened with the Mass in D Minor, the ("Lord Nelson Mass") by Joseph Haydn. This great work is considered to be one of Haydn's finest.

It was influenced by the Napoleonic wars during its composition although it was supposedly written for his patron, the Second Prince Esterhazy, for his daughter the Princess Hermangild.

★ ★ ★

Haydn kept a chart of Lord Nelson's progress as the English Admiral's fleet pursued and annihilated the French fleet.

The musical scene is set with a dramatic Kyrie. This was done with a magnificent blend of orchestra and chorus by Robert Shaw, the guest conductor.

The work progressed through the usual form of Gloria, Credo, Sanctus, Benedictus and Agnus Dei.

SOLOISTS

Throughout, the soprano voice of Janice Harsanyi showed great power, yet contained a floating quality which brought out the dramatic feeling and beautiful line as required by the composer.

Florence Kopleff, contralto, although traditionally vocally limited by the forms of the music, did a fine job with her velvety warm voice. The outstanding support of tenor John McCollum and Thomas Paul contributed greatly to the composition.

The beautifully trained chorus, under the sensitive direction of Robert Shaw, sang superbly regardless of the demands made upon them.

★ ★ ★

The second and closing work of the evening was "Oedipus Rex," and operaoratorio in two acts by Igor Stravinsky.

This is a musical dramatization of Sophocles' "Oedipus Rex," using a Latin text.

It was first performed as an oratorio without staging or scenery with Stravinsky himself conducting. Later it was more successfully produced as an opera.

The score calls for a narrator (done beautifully by Robert Shaw in addition to his conducting duties); a tenor Oedipus (John McCollum); a mezzo Jocasta (Florence Kopleff); bass-baritone Creon (Yi Kwei Sze); bass Tiresias Thomas Paul); tenor Shepherd (Jon Humphrey); bass-baritone Messenger again Yi Kwei Sze).

The Meadow Brook performance seemed to create the necessary tension and conflict called for by Stravinsky's musical setting.

The audience appreciated the performance of each of the dissimilar compositions by two of our great composers.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Williams of East Lansing, with their son Brian, 14, whom the parents wanted to trade for a teen-age boy or girl for one year. They scan the magazine in which their ad appeared offering the swap. Mr. Williams, an agricultural research scientist at Michigan State University, explained that Brian is the youngest of three sons in the family and the friction has been pretty rough.

May Swap Their Home for a Year

EAST LANSING (UPI) — A mother who offered to swap her teen-age son for a year said Thursday she and her husband may end up taking in someone else's child and keeping their own too.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Julius Williams, wife of a Michigan State University agricultural researcher, said her son, Brian, 14, has become "more particular" about the location of a new home because the family is moving and he likes the new town, Yellow Springs, Ohio.

NO SWAP

"If somebody has a desperate need for a change we might take somebody one way instead of it being a swap," Mrs. Williams said.

The Williams ran an advertisement in the Humanist magazine this month.

★ ★ ★

"East Lansing — Teen-ager to trade," the ad said. "Have 14-year-old boy who wants to try different environment. Would like to trade for teen-age boy or girl for one year. References exchanged."

CHANCE TO GROW

The couple explained they weren't trying to get rid of Brian but wanted to offer him "a chance to grow without so much parental pressure."

"It's rather snowballing," she said. She said a teen-age boy telephoned from Tipton, Iowa Thursday, offering to swap homes with Brian.

Other offers have come from Greenville, S.C., Mount Clemens, Mich., Florida and Detroit, she said.

She declined to name the families involved.

★ ★ ★

"Brian is a little more particular now because the family is planning to move to Yellow Springs," she said. "He's visited the town and he likes it.

"But he's still open to possibilities."

Brian's father is leaving Michigan State to take a teaching job at Wilberforce University.

IT'S A DRAG

"My over-all impression of East Lansing is that it's a drag," Brian said. He said Yellow Springs "could be a big improvement."

Orders Nets for Long-Haired Waiters

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Hairnets for long-tressed male waiters in the hippie Haight-Ashbury district were ordered Thursday as a sanitary precaution by the city Health Department.

Present law makes only specific references to female restaurant employes, said Public Health Director Ellis D. Sox, but the present situation presents a problem the legislature didn't count on.

★ ★ ★

'Any person with long hair is likely to get some of the strands in food," Sox said. "We will require nets or some other confining method irrespective of the sex of the individual."

Bride's Parents' Party

NEW YORK (UPI) — The engagement party, whether limited to close friends and relatives or all your friends, traditionally is given by the bride's parents, etiquette experts report.

Twin Girls Born

Mr. and Mrs. Gary Wayne Falls of Peters Street, Orion Township, announce the birth of twin daughters Kimberly Lynn and Karie Sue July 27.

★ ★ ★

Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Abell of Baldwin Road, Brandon Township, and Arthur Falls of Gettysburg Drive, Avon Township.

A Shoeshine Girl

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Roxanna Krauss, 18, is a shining example of how to get ahead. When she graduated from high school and needed to save money for a college education, she took a job as a shoeshine girl in a local barber shop.

She doesn't mind getting her hands dirty. "But," she says, "When I get married, my husband better not ask me to shine his shoes."

Point System Is Not Necessary

By MARY FEELEY
Consultant In Money Management

Dear Miss Feeley:

I am about to put my home up for sale. Would you please explain the "point" system to me? I would like to get $15,000. How much should I ask to receive this amount?

MARY FEELEY

I am a widow over 65. Would it be wise for me to buy a little four-room home for $10,000 cash — rather than rent? I do like to be in the garden, and have a dog.

Mrs. A. C., Chicago

Dear Mrs. C.:

You won't necessarily get involved with points in the sale of your home — unless the buyer is depending on a mortgage insured by the Federal Housing Administration or guaranteed by the Veterans Administration.

The maximum rate of interest the lender can charge on either of these types of mortgage is six per cent. Since the going rate in the mortgage market today is about six and one-half per cent on the average, a lender would naturally want to make up the difference by charging points. Of course, points can also be required by a lender on a conventional mortgage if he finds it necessary in order to make a reasonable profit on his money.

Points are actually a discount on the money the lender allows the borrower. In other words, the borrower receives less money than he must repay over the term of the mortgage. Only one percentage point can be charged to the buyer, if he has an FHA or VA mortgage, so the seller must absorb whatever remaining number of points the lender demands.

If he doesn't want to do so, he can wait around hoping for a better deal.

If, for example, you're asking $15,000 for your house, and the mortgage lender is charging four points on a $12,000 FHA or VA mortgage to the buyer — you will have to absorb these points, amounting to $480.

So if you expect to get the full $15,000 from the sale, with this type of mortgage involved, you'd have to raise the price to cover your loss through points. The same principle holds, of course, on any mortgage extended by a lender who demands points.

* * *

Since you're in the mood for a smaller home, you may find you'd rather settle for a little less money — rather than postpone the move. As to how wise the new purchase proves that depends on how able you are to maintain it — which involves your health as well as dependable income.

While you'd pay cash for the house, property taxes, insurance and upkeep go on and on. But I agree that a garden and a dog are worth a certain risk.

Dear Miss Feeley:

I am interested in buying a lot, with intentions of building a summer home a few years from now. Unfortunately, I know nothing about the fundamentals of buying a piece of property.

* * *

Would you please advise me if I should consult a lawyer as well as a real estate broker — and why.

H. P., Middle Village, N.Y.

Dear H. P.:

Some real estate brokers are also lawyers. But unless this is true of the real estate expert you choose to deal with, you'll certainly want to have a lawyer in on discussions from the beginning.

There can be a raft of technical angles which only the legal mind is equipped to wrestle with.

The numerous steps in buying property can include: the "binder;" the contract preliminary to the closing; the survey; examination of title; abstract of title; closing of title.

* * *

You'll want your best interests protected right from the start, when it comes to signing your name to any piece of paper.

How does a wig stay on and must it be pinned to the hair?? Because it's construction is similar to an elasticized hair net, a full Drayton wig will stay on without any pinning. Only during the most active sports should a full wig ever be pinned down. However, wigiets and flings will require a few pins. By loosening the elastic in the back of the wig and using pin curls, in the hair line, so there is a form, in the back to secure the wig, this makes it feel better and it will stay on well also. Persons without an occipital protrusion should avoid a tapered hairline on their own hair in back for the above mentioned reason. However one can use bobby pins throughout the entire wig base to keep the wig secure. These pins must be removed and replaced each time the wig is worn. When pinning curls for under the wig, open end of the pins should all be directed toward the center back of the head. The wig is pulled on like a full hair net, and lifted by the thumbs and forefingers at the temples when taken off. The correct pinning underneath is important in protecting the wig netting from tears.

Can a wig be serviced at home? Home care of a wig should be limited to brushing, recombing and spraying. Cutting, coloring, cleaning and styling should definitely be left to the expert care of a beautician.

How often should a wig be cleaned and re-set professionally? This will depend on the amount of wear, but as a general rule of thumb, a wig should be set once each month and cleaned every two to three months.

Wardrobe Plan Allows Changes

Don Loper of California has come up with a new wardrobe concept in which Dad can get a dozen changes out of three suits and a sport coat.

The wardrobe consists of a gray flannel suit, black suit, black and white check business suit and sportcoat.

Loper, who has won several Caswell-Massey awards for his outstanding men's wear designs and who has been named to best dressed lists, long has been an adamant foe of fads and kookiness in wear for both men and women. His argument: they are a poor bargain because of their short-lived use.

Human Valve Is Replaced With Bovine's

NEW YORK (UPI) — A 38-year-old waiter is recuperating at home from a heart operation during which his aortic valve was replaced with a calf's.

The aortic valve regulates the pumping of blood out of the heart, into the aorta and then to the rest of the body. The man's valve had been damaged by rheumatic fever.

★ ★ ★

The operation was performed July 7 at Flower-Fifth Avenue Hospital by Dr. Sheldon Burman of the City Health Research Council and Dr. Ciro Armelli, assistant surgery professor at New York Medical College, which announced the surgery Thursday.

FOUR HOURS

The patient, identified only as a New York waiter, was on the operating table about four hours.

For more than two hours a heart-lung machine regulated his live functions as doctors worked on the by-passed aortic valve.

The patient was discharged from the hospital July 29.

Prior to the surgery, the hospital took a number of valves from its reserve bank where they had been preserved. During the operation a calf valve of a matching size was chosen and inserted in place of the diseased valve.

The operation previously had been performed only in London, Melbourne and Browns Mills, N.J.

Givenchy Presents Collection

By LUCIE NOEL

PARIS (AP)— Givenchy predesigns for elegant living today and launched a new silhouette for sports.

★ ★ ★

Throwing open his winter collection to fashion writers for the first time in five years during the regular Naute couture season, Givenchy also developed his favorite ideas, which are always contemporary without being extreme.

In recent years, Givenchy has awaited delivery of his models before showing to the press.

TUNIC DRESSES

He continued his tunic dresses, figure-skimming unfitted sheaths and unbelted chemises belonging to high society and the grand ballroom.

★ ★ ★

His new sports line carried through in his hostess gowns and right into milady's bedroom.

It is a one-piece playsuit with a wide, soft bermuda leg reaching to the kneecap.

For sports alone, it appears in tweeds, wools and jersey. Under big and loose or beautifully tailored belted coats, they come forth in Givenchy's favorite dark forest green.

★ ★ ★

They match the coat, which may be green window pane checked wool, or in a contrasting shade, such as a gray one with knee breeches under a grege mouflon woolen chunky coat.

OTHER COATS

Other wool coats for sports go over workmen's overalls and are treated to buttoned down patch pockets in the back. On skirts, flapped pockets are placed at the back in twosomes, and the same idea is carried out in coats.

★ ★ ★

A suit has saddle-bag suede pockets attached to the belt.

There is a belt story here. Many are shaped in a V-line in the back and sometimes dropped to the hips.

Givenchy uses dark brown suede for an ensemble with a fringed out hemline worn over a suit-dress, with a grege top attached to the skirt.

★ ★ ★

Most all of the top-coated models go over what first appears to be a suit, but is a tailored jacket and dress, detailed and belted often with matching hood and additional short ascot scarf tucked into the neckline.

Givenchy shows one of the most important coat lines in Paris and they follow several silhouettes. He still believes in the full loose back, but also shows a straighter line forming the one color ensemble with the figure skimming sheath or belted shift.

★ ★ ★

Givenchy's winter palette is somber for outdoors but inside the coat for afternoon cocktail or dinner wear he has luminous and jewel colors. The violet range is favored.

JEWELLED BANDS

He uses bands of jewelled embroidery on hemlines, and on plain fabrics, besides a number of all sequin dresses and evening ensembles.

Ultramarine blue is another favorite.

Pour Sugared Lemon Juice Over Oven-Fresh Bread

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

Quick breads are wonderful for sandwiches. This lemon bread is delicious and almost good enough to serve as a simple dessert.

Mrs. Glen O'Berry contributed the recipe to the Homemakers cookbook.

LEMON BREAD
By Mrs. Glen O'Berry

- 6 tablespoons shortening
- 2 eggs
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- ½ cup nuts
- ½ cup milk
- 1 cup sugar
- 1½ cups flour
- 1 lemon
- ⅛ teaspoon salt

Cream sugar and shortening together. Add eggs and beat well. Combine with flour, baking powder and salt. Gradually add milk. Add chopped nuts.

Grate the rind of one lemon and add to first mixture. Save juice of the lemon and add to it ½ cup sugar. Save this to pour over baked loaf.

Pour batter into small greased loaf pan and let stand 20 minutes. Bake at 350 degrees about 60 minutes.

Remove bread from oven and while still hot, pour lemon juice-sugar mixture over top. Let stand 15-20 minutes before removing from pan. Makes one loaf.

Husband's Fantasies Drag You Down Too

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

DEAR MRS. LAWRENCE: I've been unable to get help with my problem though there are three children involved: my baby and two boys by my former marriage.

My husband shows sexual interest in me only after a fight. He sleeps on the living room sofa. But he hides girlie magazines under the sofa, along with pictures of naked women.

If I ask him why he's so crazy about these pictures, he says it's because I'm so fat, ugly and don't dress well. Where can I go for help for me and the children?

ANSWER: You live near Pittsburgh. Go for help to your Family Service Association agency in Pittsburgh.

When you phone it, ask to speak to its public relations department. The person who answers will know my name because this column appears in his local paper. So you tell him that Muriel Lawrence said he would help you get immediate attention—a cut-through of those delaying tactics used by social agencies with which both he and I are only too well acquainted.

If he can't let me know—and I'll call the agency's national headquarters.

In the meantime, quit trying to "understand" this husband of yours who prefers imagined sex with paper girlies to real sex with his flesh-and-blood wife. His curious preferences are not our business.

Our business is asking ourselves, "Am I fat? Am I dowdy? Am I sexually unattractive — or have I been merely told that I am?" It's coming up with the truthful answers to these questions.

Because we can collapse into fat dowdiness and sexual unattractiveness if we live with a person who insists we're these things. Just as a fairy tale prince will let a witch turn him into a toad, we can let a consistently critical person thieve our real identity from us.

We'll become exactly what our accusing spellbinder wants us to be. We'll get fat, wear dirty dresses and in all ways arrange to agree with him that we are indeeed sexually undesirable.

Under these circumstances we need help. Even that Beast of the lonely forest needed Beauty to help him recover his real shape, didn't he?

Youth Makes Hard Choice on Colleges

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Like many another high school senior, 17-year-old Gary Reback had a hard time deciding what college to attend next fall.

But his problem was that, because of his academic and extra-curricular record, he was offered scholarships to seven different universities.

The Fulton High School senior, whose straight A average gave him valedictorian honors, had his choice of Yale University, Rice University, the University of Chicago, Washington University at St. Louis, Duke University, Johns Hopkins University and the University of Tennessee.

He accepted a full tuition scholarship at Yale.

Quality Fabrics Still Can Take Good Cleaning

"The Housekeeper's Week," a practical book of advice published in 1908, stated that: "Dirt is a costly condition in any circumstances.

Lack of personal cleanliness invites disease and doctor's bills.

The soaping, rubbing, boiling, rinsing, and wringing needed to bring a badly soiled garment back to decency, tell upon its integrity more than a year of careful wear.

"It does pay to buy a good thing to begin with. It pays well, and always, to get the good thing clean when legitimate wear has soiled it.

For really excellent fabrics — like the best quality of human virture — do not go to pieces in the wash."

This turn-of-the-century wisdom is as basic today as when grandma was scrubbing on a washboard, instead of laundering with automatic appliances.

Retired Teacher Still Rings Bells

KING CITY, Mo. (AP) — Mrs. Harold Smith has retired from schoolteaching, but bells still play an important part in her life. She has a collection of 150 of them, of all sizes and from all over the world.

The smallest one, from the Isle of Capri, has a chain and pin attached so it can be worn as a pin, and among her larger ones are a fire engine bell and a U.S. Navy ship bell.

She has a windmill-shaped bell from Holland, one made of waste gun cartridge, and one from Oklahoma, shaped like an oil well.

Prepainting Crack Filler

Carefully fill all cracks in ceilings and walls before repainting, advises the National Paint, Varnish and Lacquer Association.

Smooth patches level with the surface. Small hairline cracks should be filled with spackling.

It sets very rapidly, so smooth the surface before filling material is quite dry.

Apply filler with a putty knife or even finger and thumb.

Junior Editors Quiz on ALPHABET

QUESTION: Where did the letters of our alphabet come from?

★ ★ ★

ANSWER: The rebus at top carries a message—it says, "I see a girl." The pictures have filled in the meaning. The eye in the picture has suggested the "I" of the message because the sounds of the words are the same. This is how the letters of the alphabet originated.

At first, writing was by pictographs, sets of drawings you would recognize. But this was complicated. People couldn't make enough pictures to express the many meanings needed. So gradually the pictures became simple symbols, each associated with one of the sounds of a language. By recording a complete set of sounds, any message could be sent.

To write "ox," the Egyptians drew an ox's head (1). But the Semites' word for ox was "aleph." They began to use a simple version of the ox to express the "a" sound, (2). The Phoenicians (3) made it easier to write, and the Greeks (4) turned it upright with one long leg. Then the Romans made the legs equal and we had our modern A. The other letters originated in a similar way.

State Farmers' Price Index Up

LANSING (AP)—The index of prices received by Michigan farmers in mid-July was 258 per cent of the 1910-14 average, three points above the mid-June level.

The Michigan Crop Reporting Service said price increases for beans, tart cherries, meat animals, wholesale milk and eggs more than offset decreases for wheat and corn.

Break in the War Is Seen Near

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

Some experts on Southeast Asia are nursing a hunch that a break in the Vietnam war is coming and that some sort of preliminary settlement may result.

★ ★ ★

Part of this thinking is based upon events in Red China and the impact these events have had on China's neighbors. Part is based on evidence of Soviet interest in helping to bring about an end to the clash between American and Communist arms.

News Analysis

★ ★ ★

Frank N. Trager, professor of international affairs at New York University, says he feels a break in the war is in prospect.

"In my view, the clash of regular armies could end in Vietnam during this calendar year. I expect some sort of settlement in 1967 or early 1968," he writes in the American Legion magazine.

BASIC U.S. GOAL

Trager, just back from Vietnam and other points in Southeast Asia, adds that this would not mean an end to conflict. He says there could be a settlement of sorts with the basic U.S. goal, independence for South Vietnam, achieved, but that "we will clearly have to stay in Southeast Asia in some force—both military and civilian—for a good long time."

The U.S. civilian commitment to South Vietnam is a long-range one to build the economy of the country and secure its future as much as possible. The military situation, Trager feels, would be a complex one. It would involve pacification of the Vietcong guerrillas, which could take years after the fighting between regular armies ended.

★ ★ ★

"It isn't in the cards for us simply to pick up our marbles and go home," he says. "That could waste every life and every dollar that we and the South Vietnamese and our other allies have spent in the struggle. I envision something like Korea, where we are now achieving a success story in the civilian sector supported by a long military presence."

TRAVELED EXTENSIVELY

Trager formerly was director of the U.S. Point Four program in Burma. He has traveled extensively in Southeast Asia and is the author of numerous books about the area, including one called "Why Vietnam?"

★ ★ ★

Other Southeast Asia specialists assert the U.S. stand in South Vietnam has strengthened the will of other nations in the area to resist Communist incursions. Today, Red China is exerting formidable pressure on virtually all her neighbors to the south: India, Burma, Thailand, Indonesia and others. Peking has picked quarrels with all of them, and eventually may have succeeded in pushing them together in self-defense.

★ ★ ★

China's policy, probably dictated by its internal problems attendant upon the purge called "The cultural revolution," has had a boomerang effect. Nations which wanted to stay neutral, such as Burma, have been frightened by the blatant hostility coming from Peking and deliberate attempts to interfere in internal affairs. China's attitude, indeed, can strengthen the unity of other Asians in such enterprises as the Association of Southeast Asia.

★ ★ ★

These nations are interested in some sort of Asian solution to Vietnam, possibly within the framework of the 1954 Geneva accord but arrived at this time on Asian soil.

★ ★ ★

Moscow's interest in averting dangerous pressures in Asia — also inspired in part by China's truculence—lends hope to those who feel here may be some light at the end of the dark tunnel that is Vietnam. China's frightening posture can have its effect on North Vietnam as well as on other Southeast Asians, and in such circumstances, Moscow's influence could carry much more weight.

AN UPSTAIRS FIREMAN — Wind blows a stream of water into a fan shape as a Miami Beach, Fla., fireman, high above the trees, pours water onto a burning Florida Power and Light Co. oil tank on a causeway between Miami and Miami Beach yesterday. Firemen quickly brought the fire in the unused tank under control. There were no injuries.

3 Die, 4 Missing on Mountain

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — One climbed mountains "to look at the sky and the rock and the snow and the flowers."

"For the past 10 years my first love has been climbing," another wrote.

"I won't let life pass me by, and when my tide comes I will be ready to take it at the flood," wrote Stephen Taylor, 22, of Chicago.

★ ★ ★

Taylor's tide engulfed him on the icy slopes of Alaska's Mt. McKinley before he had a chance to conquer the 20,320-foot peak.

★ ★ ★

Two of his companions also are dead. Four others are missing, and probably lie buried, perhaps forever, under a 10-foot blanket of snow left by a two-day storm this week.

ALTITUDE SICKNESS

Taylor's body was found at a 17,900-foot camp where he had been forced to stay because of altitude sickness when the six others began their successful ascent July 18. Their radioed "all's well" from the summit was the last word heard from them.

The bodies of two of them, still unidentified, were found a few hundred feet from Taylor's on a ridge. All three will remain on the mountain since the terrain makes removal too hazardous.

In addition to Taylor the climbers were Jerry Clark, 31, Mark McLaughlin, 23, and John Russell, 22, all of Eugene, Ore., Henry Janes, 25, Lafayette, Ind., and Portland, Ore., Dennis Luchterhand, 23, Scarsdale, N.Y., and Walter Taylor, 24, Lafayette, Ind.

★ ★ ★

The climbers, unknown to each other previously, exchanged letters which Russell put into a scrapbook, now in the possession of Mrs. David Soderberg of Seattle.

FIRST LOVE

Russell, whose first love was climbing, wrote, "Two weeks alone in the High Sierras consummated the religion of the mountains for me."

Stephen Taylor's interest in climbing developed late.

"I went to grade school whenever I could tear myself away from the interns and doctors," he wrote. "I had asthma, broken arms, bronchitis and various allergies, as well as the usual childhood diseases."

★ ★ ★

He planned a two-year mission for the Mormon Church, then to return to college for a master's degree in business administration.

★ ★ ★

Clark, oldest of the seven, wrote, "I should have learned better than to go off stomping around the hills and such."

He had taught climbing for 14 years and also taught geology at Purdue University. The summit was not a "victory symbol" to Clark.

TIME OUT

"It's the getting there that's fun, and I like to be able to take time out along the way to admire the scenery or listen to a trickling stream or just talk," he wrote.

The parking pinch doesn't hurt when you commute Grand Trunk

Parked your car in Detroit lately? Spaces are fewer and the rates are going up. That's why we call it the parking pinch. And it hurts.

Unless you commute Grand Trunk. Park your car at the station where there's plenty of room. It's free in most cases. All you pay is our very reasonable commuter fare. Compare. By car, Pontiac to Detroit and back, estimating gas and oil plus minimum parking fee—$2.73. Grand Trunk round trip, based on monthly commuter tickets, workday use—$1.59 a day.

For more information, call our Passenger Sales Office, 962-2260.

A word of advice. On your way from the train to your office, watch out for the guys trying to find a parking space. They're mad.

'Detroit Tense Over Brutality'

DETROIT (UPI) — A Negro councilman warned yesterday that "pressure is building up" in the city's riot-ravaged neighborhoods over charges of police brutality.

Councilman Nicholas Hood said more than 200 complaints of police brutality during last week's rioting have been received by investigating agencies.

More than 110 complaints have been referred to the Justice Department and the Federal Bureau of Investigation, Hood told the Common (city) Council.

The council responded by asking Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh to report on the charges today.

★ ★ ★

Hood said he had received complaints that police beat prisoners and illegally searched persons on the streets and in their homes during the rioting.

GETTING TENSE

"Pressure is building up out there in the neighborhoods," he warned.

Among the charges was a statement by five persons who said they saw police and National Guardsmen bayonet and shoot two Negro men as the pair came out of a building with their hands in the air.

The official police report states the men were injured when one tried to flee and the other attempted to wrest a rifle from a guardsman.

SPACEMAN RESIGNS — Navy Cmdr. M. Scott Carpenter, the second American to orbit the earth, resigned yesterday from the space program to return to the Navy. He will be in charge of training aquanauts in the Navy's underwater Sealab project and said he plans to take an oceanography post with a private firm next year.

Blasts From Car Injure 3 Youths Talking to Sheriff

WICHITA, Kan. (AP)—Police said shotgun blasts were fired from a speeding car at a group of Negro youths talking with Sheriff Vern Miller early today.

Officers said three of the youths were taken to the hospital for treatment of minor cuts from pellets. They were released a short time later.

The Negroes were in a group of youths that congregated in the area to talk with Miller, but the officer said there was no indication of trouble.

The sheriff's car was peppered by one of the blasts.

PURSUED CAR

Police said Miller pursued the speeding car across Wichita and fired several shots at the vehicle, described as containing four to seven white youths. An alert has been issued for the car and its unidentified occupants in several surrounding southeastern Kansas counties.

First Lady's Plane to D.C. Delayed by Bomb Threat

NEW YORK (AP) —A crank telephone call warning there was a bomb on a Washington shuttle plane delayed Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson's return to the capital Thursday evening after a trip to New York to look at fall fashions.

An Eastern Air Lines jet carrying Mrs. Johnson and 109 other passengers was on a runway at La Guardia Airport waiting for clearance to take off when the phone call was received by a reservation clerk at 4:48 p.m.

★ ★ ★

The plane, which had been scheduled to leave at 5 p.m., was taken back to the airline's gate. After the passengers were removed, the plane was searched by Eastern employes and airport police.

Three other Eastern planes used in the shuttle service also were searched. No bomb was found.

It was not clear whether the male phone caller knew that Mrs. Johnson was aboard the shuttle.

The first lady left on another shuttle flight at 6:23 p.m.

Mrs. Johnson, who had flown here in the morning, spent the day in a suite at the Waldorf Towers, where she lunched and looked over fashions from Neiman-Marcus and Adele Simpson, Inc. A member of Mrs. Johnson's staff declined to say whether she purchased anything.

The truth about Checking Accounts and how you can save $33 a year (or more)

The truth of the matter is that most people find a checking account indispensable. It saves a lot of time. It gives you a written record of every transaction you make. And, it serves as a legal receipt of payment (which is especially helpful at income tax time). The only question is—which type of checking account is best for you? Which can save you the most money? The choice is easy, between these two at Community National:

1. If you write just a few checks a month, Community offers a special Pay-by-Check account that costs just 10¢ a check plus 50¢ a month. No minimum balance is ever required. Checks and deposit tickets are imprinted with your name and account number. And all cancelled checks are mailed to you each month along with a statement.

2. If you write a lot of checks each month, Community's new CHECK III account is best for you. As long as you maintain a monthly balance of at least $300 (or an average balance of $500) you can write checks free.* There's no charge for checks, no monthly service charge. And you can take your pick of 18 stylish checkbook covers.

CHECK III, the prestige checking account that's free, can save you $33 a year or more. These savings are based on writing an average of 20 checks a month. (CHECK III does not apply to business checking accounts.)

One final point: Community National has more neighborhood branch offices than any other bank in Oakland County. They're open Saturday mornings too, so cashing checks or making deposits couldn't be easier.

One more personal service from the bank that cares...

*If your balance falls below $300, you'll be charged just 10¢ a check and 75¢ for your monthly statement.

U. S. Opposing Arms Sales to Latins

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States reportedly has urged Western European countries to not sell to Latin-American countries modern armaments, such as jet aircraft, which might set off a new Latin arms race and burden Latin economies.

Officials said two major U.S. policies are involved in the effort which has been made over a period of months:

- Try to suppress arms races all over the world.
- To promote economic development and higher living standards in underdeveloped countries.

* * *

The State Department said Thursday the United States vetoed the sale by Britain to Peru of six Canberra jet bombers which the British Royal Air Force no longer uses. The planes are an early type of jet attack aircraft, essentially the same as the U.S. B57.

At the same time State Department officials said the United States advised Peru and several other Latin-American countries that Washington is not interested in supplying them with modern F5 jet fighter planes about which they have made inquiries.

Since 1962, however, the United States has supplied $45 million worth of less sophisticated arms and munitions to Peru, including F80 and F86 fighter planes. This equipment was mostly of World War II and Korean War vintage.

Officials fear that supplying newer equipment would force Latin arms competition—criticized in Congress earlier this year—to a new level.

* * *

Britain's Canberra deal was vetoed under long-time agreements between Washington and London which provides that the United States may approve or disapprove the sale to other countries of armaments which the United States has supplied to Britain or helped finance.

Such provisions are standard in all military aid agreements going back into the lend-lease agreements of World War II.

Officials reported U.S. opposition to the Canberra deal had been made known to the British and Peruvian governments some time ago.

Why the big switch to electric heat?

Good news travels fast

Talk about your bargains! Edison has again lowered the rates on electric home heat. This time, a healthy 10% on the average. That makes 30.5% in the last eight years. No wonder the big switch to electric heat is on.

The low rate's only part of it. Here's the rest: an estimate in writing of operating cost. And a three-year guarantee, given when installation is made by an Edison-approved contractor on Edison lines.

Look in the yellow pages of your telephone directory. Choose an Edison-approved electric heating contractor near you. And call him for more information about converting your home to clean, quiet, comfortable electric heat.

LIFELIKE HANGING — The Pioneer Days celebration in Ellsworth, Kan., is leaving little to imagination. Even the stark drama of a 19th century lynching is reenacted every day. Jim Homolka is shown hanging from an elm tree, depicting the storied end to an early-day murderer of a sheriff. An ingenious shoulder harness beneath Homolka's shirt supports his weight at the end of a rope, complete with a hangman's noose.

Bid on Crescent Lake Work Accepted

The Waterford Township Board of Education last night accepted the low base bid of $148,790 from the Jack A. King Co. for mechanical work at the proposed Crescent Lake Elementary School.

Four firms submitted bids at last night's board meeting, ranging to a high of $165,850.

Contracts for the architectural and electrical trades were awarded July 20.

The mechanical trades were rebid when it was determined that the low bidder, the King Co., erred in its original proposal.

★ ★ ★

A FEW CUTBACKS

In other business, the administration informed the board it is considering a few specific cutbacks to help cope with the serious financial condition facing the school district in 1967-68.

Four vacancies may not be filled, saving the district approxiamtely $33,500, and the annual teachers' orientation day, which costs $3,000, may be abandoned, according to school officials.

The positions are elementary art consultant, mathematics consultant, elementary vocal music teacher and girls' guidance counselor at Waterford-Mott High School.

A lesser amount of state aid than the district had hoped for is the crux of the problem.

PUMPING STATION

Also last night, the board was told that a temporary pumping station would be necessary to transport sewage from the proposed Mott High School to the Jeffrey Manor sewer system, a distance of about one-half mile.

The district plans to have constructed a sanitary sewer from Pontiac Lake Road south along Scott Lake Road to Jeffrey Manor to service the new school, slated to open in September 1968.

A low ground elevation near the Pontiac Lake - Scott Lake intersection necessitates the pumping station, which would boost the cost of the project from an estimated $50,000 to $75,000.

★ ★ ★

NEW SEPTIC SYSTEM

A contract for $17,690 was awarded to EleMech, Inc., to install a new septic system at Four Towns Elementary School, where the present system has been malfunctioning.

★ ★ ★

In still other business, the board authorized a $5,600 appropriation to add curbs, and gutters to the joint township - road commission - school district project for paving Van Zandt.

★ ★ ★

Also last night, the board approved 1967-68 contracts for nine teachers and accepted two resignations.

Soo Bridge Traffic Less Than Expected

SAULT STE. MARIE (AP)—July traffic on the International Bridge was only one per cent above the volume for the same month last year.

The International Bridge Authority said 139,906 vehicles crossed the span during the month. Revenues for July were $168,104, three per cent above July of 1966.

★ ★ ★

Cool weather during the month and the Detroit riots were blamed for a less-than-anticipated increase in traffic.

Firm Suing Radio Station

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) —A Michigan broadcasting firm has filed suit in U.S. District Court against radio station WMIN of St. Paul in a dispute over an alleged agreement to sell the station.

★ ★ ★

Milton Maltz and Robert G. Wright of Malrite Broadcasting Co., Mt. Clemens, Mich., said in the suit that WMIN agreed to sell the station for $310,000 last April, but since June 15 WMIN has offered to sell the station to other persons.

The suit asks that the sale to other parties be enjoined and that WMIN be required to transfer the station to Malrite subject to approval of the Federal Communications Commission.

List of Steps to Curb Vandalism Offered

A list of several recommendations by teachers and administrators to cope with rising vandalism to school buildings was presented to the Waterford Township Board of Education last night.

★ ★ ★

Last year, vandalism damage in the district amounted to $30,000, most of which was covered by insurance, said school officials.

This doesn't include glass breakage and a few other types of destruction.

The recommendations are:

- Seek township cooperation in establishing a police counselor program.
- Provide exterior lighting on buildings without such facilities.
- Maintain a record of vandalism by school and type.
- Seek closer relationship with the police.
- Follow through with courts to obtain restitution.
- Publicize the district's concern about vandalism.
- Study detection devices.
- Consider providing a districtwide attendance officer.
- Attempt to assign two custodians on the night shift at each secondary school.
- Leave corridor lights on all night in all schools.
- Fix what gets broken or damaged.
- Remove temptations (remove rocks, provide motorcycle barriers).
- Consider using plexiglass, wireglass or tempered glass in more hazardous areas.
- Seek pupil help.
- Seek parent help.
- Seek neighbor help.
- Report vandalism incidents to the central office.
- Keep pupil behavior problems in open; reemphasize the focus on citizenship education, respect and responsibility.

★ ★ ★

Treasurer Donald W. Porter said he favors a closer relationship with the police department and more follow-up stories in newspapers of those arrested and convicted for breaking into and causing destruction to schools.

ALREADY AT WORK

Supt. of Schools Dr. Don O. Tatroe said some of the recommendations already are being implemented.

★ ★ ★

China's N-Strength Incalculable in Peace Equation

(EDITOR'S NOTE — Unbidden but determined, Red China has become a full-fledged member of the nuclear club. Its pace in atomic weaponry, its politics, and its outlook all suggest profound and ominous consequences for the rest of the world. This is the last of three articles.)

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE and WILLIAM L. RYAN

Soon Red China will have a finger on the button. Will she, by accident or design, launch a nuclear catastrophe?

Fallout effects of China's H-bomb test last June 17 are enormous. The impact on the vast underdeveloped world is incalculable.

* * *

For 18 years the United States and the Soviet Union have warily confronted one another with awesome nuclear arsenals but managed to preserve nuclear peace. They know what nuclear war could mean.

China, though still a fledging member of the nuclear club, vastly alters the peace equation. Caught in the madness of the purge that Mao Tse-Tung calls the cultural revolution, she is a puzzling X, perhaps even to herself.

WORRIED QUESTIONS

Experts put many worried questions:

- Do Chinese leaders really know what a nuclear war could mean in human casualties and physical destruction?
- Suppose Red China donated a nuclear weapon to an Arab nation, out of a desire to make the Chinese dragon bigger than the Russian bear in the Middle East. Israel, some scientists say, "practically has the basic stuff lying around" to produce weapons in a few years. Might a new Middle East war some day be an atomic one?

* * *

- About 20 nations have the capability, some with little or no outside help, of building a nuclear weapon. Will Red China's success put pressure on those governments to produce such weapons?
- Is China really the "crazy, reckless, paranoid country" she appears to be to outsiders, or is her behavior just a passing phenomenon created by Mao's eagerness to shape Chinese into seifless robots?
- Might India and Japan, close enough to feel the hot breath of China's threat, feel impelled now to produce nuclear weapons? Either one can.

Only Japan knows the horrors, first hand, of nuclear weapons. Those used against it were the first A-bombs, enormously destructive but still less powerful than H-bombs.

So deep was the Japanese shock that public opinion violently opposed building such weapons for a Japanese arsenal, and even slowed Japan's development of peaceful atomic power. But now Japan faces a cruel choice: to demand more protection from America — and perhaps from the Soviet Union too — or to gamble that she will not some day be a target of China.

* * *

Time has eroded memories of the full terror that the atomic bombs of 22 years ago brought to Hiroshima and Nagasaki. Perhaps more than half the world's populations is too young to know much about it. Perhaps, some observers suggest, this fading memory figured in the relative calm with which Asian nations reacted to China's new power. There may be other reasons, too.

Some of the worry among China's neighbors — India, Japan, Burma, Australia, Malaysia, Indonesia — has been eased by the spectacle of Mao's cultural revolution, suggesting vast political, social and economic turmoil in China. Will the strife not eventually slow or even halt China's nuclear program?

PROBABY NOT

It hasn't, up to now, and the chances seem to be that it will not.

Ten years ago some of China's scientists, including those returned from the United States, were caught in a Mao trap: the Hundred Flowers period, when Mao invited open criticism came in a wave, and then Mao cracked down hard on the critics.

* * *

But important scientists got off lightly. Mao distrusted those who had been abroad long years, fearing that they had been contaminated by American and other foreign ideas. But Mao also needed them. They were required only to make routine formal confessions. Other intellectuals were forced into corrective labor for reeducations.

And in the cultural revolution, Mao's supporters took care to insulate the important scientists. Rule 12 of the Aug. 8, 1966, communique that launched Mao's Red Guards, the storm troopers of political orthodoxy, took care to steer them clear of the scientists.

Still, the cultural revolution damaged China's prestige among underdeveloped nations, as did China's abortive diplomatic offensives in Africa and Asia. Perhaps, some Asians reasoned, China was so badly off balance that it could not risk any deep international trouble.

One top China watcher for the U.S. government speculated that "17 years of political infighting left the Chinese people bone-weary of it all; China watchers believe they are witnessing a change of dynasty. Great revisions may come."

* * *

But, if Mao's philosophy wins out, Asians will have to take another look.

Few doubt that China eventually will be the dominant power in Asia. It has the resources, and energetic, clever people. The ifs involve China's problems of food, population, education, training, industrialization, advances in science other than in the nuclear field, and, most of all, solving the present political chaos.

VIET INVOLVEMENT

So far China has avoided direct involvement in Vietnam. China wants to give no excuse for an obliterative attack on her new nuclear installations.

But whatever happens, China is going to be a major problem, for both the United States and the Soviet Union.

In direct military threat, the United States seems to have little to fear from China until the mid-1970s.

* * *

For the United States, various experts agree, one consequence of China's nuclear march will be increased pressure to develope antiballistic missiles to intercept and destroy any incoming enemy missiles. The ABM cost to taxpayers could range anywhere from $4 billion to $70 billion perhaps just as a starter, for limited defenses.

"It is no longer a question of whether to have them, but when," declares Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., long a member of military and atomic energy committees. Others argue that ABMs will trigger a spiral in the arms race, forcing the Soviet Union to strengthen its striking force or expand its own ABMs.

INCREASE SPENDING

Arguing against extensive ABM efforts now, Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara says that probably "all we would accomplish would be to increase greatly both their defense expenditures and ours, without any gain in real security to either side."

Practical testing of ABMs could violate the limited nuclear treaty which bans atmospheric testing.

* * *

Chinese bombs affect Soviet thinking, too. A ban on ABM systems must be considered among "the whole range of questions relating to arms and disarmament," said Premier Alexei N. Kosygin just after China exploded her H-bomb.

China is an infuriating problem to Moscow. China's rulers claim to be the true Communists and denounce the Communist parties in the Soviet Union and elsewhere as "revisionist" betrayers of world revolution. China's feud with Moscow, aggravated by Peking's eagerness for nuclear arms, has ripped the fabric of world Communist unity to shreds.

Peking, calling the Soviet Union its enemy, has laid claim to 600,000 square miles of Soviet territory. The Chinese, with increasing frequency, stir up trouble on Soviet borders. Moscow pumps inflammatory propaganda into Chinese border provinces populated predominantly by non-Chinese people.

* * *

Since 1960, there has been no Soviet scientific help for China. But the experts say China still can spring surprises.

UNDER SAN FRANCISCO BAY — This is an artist's conception of how trains will carry commuters at speeds of up to 80 miles an hour through steel and concrete tubes under San Francisco Bay between Oakland and San Francisco. The tunnel will snake 3.6 miles across the bay to minimize earth shocks. It will be half the length of the Bay Bridge.

Rapid-Transit Tube Going on the Bottom of Frisco Bay

By LEONARD MILLIMAN

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The old San Francisco-Oakland ferry route, abandoned 30 years ago for a bridge, is going underground—and underwater.

The path is being retraced by steel and concrete tubes on the bottom of San Francisco Bay. The submarine revival will be by trains of the San Francisco Bay Area Rapid Transit District moving at 80 miles an hour.

* * *

They will course through what transit officials call the longest and deepest underwater crossing in the world.

The tube begins where the old Oakland ferry terminal once stood. It will extend 3.6 miles to the San Francisco Ferry Building. That's half the length of the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge, whose opening in 1936 drove regular ferry service from the bay.

PREFAB TUBES

There is no tunneling, no boring to build the tube. Ninety per cent of the work is done in the open air.

Sinking prefabricated tubes is not new. There are nearly 40 others in the world. But none is believed to approach the 19,113-foot length of the bay crossing. And no other is laid midway between two earthquake faults, the San Andreas and Hayward Faults.

* * *

The San Francisco-Oakland tube will snake across the bottom on seismograph tested soils to minimize and equalize earth shocks.

The $89-million tube will lie 130 feet below the surface at its deepest point.

The tube is being fabricated in a shipyard on an assembly-line basis in 57 numbered segments.

SONAR AID

It is being laid on an undersea roadway precisely graded to within a quarter of an inch.

Tube sections are lowered into place, with the aid of sonar and laser beam, and linked watertight.

Sections vary—from 273 to 366 feet. Some curve sideways, some up or down, some in two directions. Each is 24 feet high and 47 feet wide. A binocular-shaped cross-section provides the shell for two train tubes with a service corridor in between.

Each section is launched like a ship. Then it is towed to a pier where 125 men pour in a 27-inch concrete lining, five yards at a time. The concrete brings its weight to more than 10,000 tons, about that of a sizable freighter. As the tube is lined with 4,200 cubic yards of concrete, it sinks until only its top is visible.

Then it is towed to location.

60 FEET WIDE

Dredges scoop out a 60-foot-wide trench, digging 70 to 100 feet into the bay's bottom. Most of what they dredge is dumped on and around the original tube sections, building a new Port of Oakland facility.

* * *

Then the $1.5-million screed barge takes over. This is a gigantic open framework, floating on two huge pontoons. Before it goes to work, anchors and counterweights drag the pontoons underwater until it looks as though the structure stood on piles. It is just as stable.

The barge is topped by three huge hoppers on a traveling bridge. At the bottom, hanging from the same bridge, is the screed. A screed is the sort of thing concrete men use to smooth out a sidewalk. Only this one is a 56-foot-wide steel box.

GRAVEL IS DUMPED

Cranes dump gravel into the hoppers. The gravel falls down three pipes into the trench. The screed smooths a two-foot layer of gravel in the trench to within a quarter of an inch of grade. The tube rests on this.

A $1.5-million placing barge lowers it there, within an inch of center line.

* * *

Three men in a control room maneuver the tube into place.

The tube is lowered to about three feet from the last section in place. Then four railway couplers, mounted at the end of each section, draw the two sections tight with the aid of a 50-ton hydraulic jack on each.

RUBBER GASKET

This partly compresses a thick neoprene rubber gasket around the rim of the new tube. Now water trapped in the bulkheads between the two sections is bled out. Pressure of the bay water then drives the new tube home, sealing it tighter than a jam preserve jar.

Men inside the old section open a hatchway and go to work cleaning out the muck and trapped fish and crabs. Welders further seal the linked tubes from the inside.

The bulkheads will be filled with concrete to match the contour of the interior of the tubes.

Still more concrete work lies ahead to build up a railway roadway. Rails will be laid on a cushion on the concrete, without ties.

Population Explosion—3

Number of Unwanted Pregnancies Startling

(Third in a Series)

By LEWIS C. FRANK JR
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

In the 30 seconds or so that it will take you to read this paragraph, more than 100 babies will be born. While very few of the conceptions that led to their births will have been planned, most of these infants will be welcome additions to their family units, whether they are born in Tanzania, Tennessee or Thailand.

But to speak of most of these infants as being welcome additions is to ignore the statistically staggering number who were not only unplanned, but unwanted.

The director of Turkey's maternal and health services, Dr. Fethi Altuntug, has described a visit to one of his country's villages.

He was inspecting the quality of home nursing services when he found a nurse instructing a mother in the proper way to give a week-old infant a bath. He checked the temperature of the bath water. It was extremely chilly.

After closely questioning the nurse and the mother, Dr. Altuntug discovered the simple truth. The mother already had too many children. She wasn't particularly interested in having the infant survive.

"She did not know how to stop becoming pregnant," Dr. Altungtug said. "If her children survived, she would take as good care of them as she could. But if they didn't survive, well, there would be fewer to feed."

INFANTICIDE

Infanticide, deliberate or through neglect, is not unique to this Turkish woman in a remote village. It occurs here, in the United States and other developed areas.

When we speak in terms of "unwanted pregnancies," rather than actual births, the statistics are even more alarming.

Experts, such as Dr. Alan F. Guttmacher, estimate that there are 1,250,000 largely illegal abortions in the United States every year. At the rate of current births that is an abortion for every three live babies.

The world figure is certainly not less than 50 million abortions a year.

UNWED MOTHERS

Dr. Clark Vincent of the Bowman Gray School of Medicine — the nation's leading authority on illegitimate births — places the total of births to unwed mothers at 275,000 a year.

Other indices of unwanted pregnancies in addition to abortions and unwed mothers are the statistics on pregnant brides, married couples who give their children up for adoption, and the surveys of married women who keep their children, but state frankly that they weren't wanted.

Testifying before Sen. Ernest Gruening's committee which is investigating population problems, Dr. William Vogt, a leading ecologist, noted that "22 per cent of first children born to white mothers arrive in less than nine months after marriage."

Dr. Vogt also cited the 1960 report of the National Academy of Sciences that 45 per cent of women with more than three children frankly stated that their last pregnancy was unwanted.

LEGITIMATE CHILDREN

Approximately 135,000 children are adopted annually. Dr. Vincent has estimated that 15 per cent of adoptions involve children relinquished by married couples." This would register another 20,000 unwanted pregnancies.

How many unwanted pregnancies in a year? In the language of the day: 'Would you believe two million?

We can correlate pregnant brides with very high divorce rates and broken homes. We can correlate abortions with death and serious illnesses.

Dr. Emanuel K. Schwartz of New York's Postgraduate Center for Mental Health has pointed out that the unwanted children of today represent a considerable portion of the future patients in our mental institutions.

ALL CLASSES

And, Dr. Schwartz cautions, "It is a grave error to believe that unwanted children are only poor kids in poor families."

Testifying before Senator Gruening's committee, the former director of federal prisons, James V. Bennett, commented:

"In all of my experience of dealing with the disadvantaged and the underprivileged, no case is sadder or more baffling than that of the lonesome, unwanted child. A considerable percentage of those who crowd our institutions are in this category."

Bennett added the thought "that a little knowledgeable and sympathetic birth control advice to parents of such children would have been far more efective as a crime deterrent than any penal sanction we could devise."

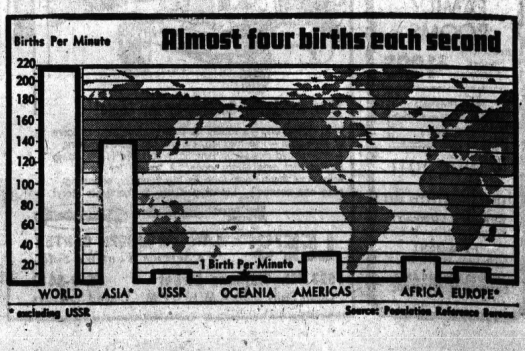
WORLD STATISTICS

If we can safely project a figure of two million unwanted pregnancies for the United States in a given year, what then can we project for the entire world?

In the United States most married couples use some form of contraception. The unwanted pregnancies result from the lapses in use and from use of imperfect methods.

If, at home and abroad, we could prevent the birth of the unwanted, the world would still have a population problem. But instead of doubling our population in the next 35 years, it would take 50 or 60 years — and the quality of living for those now alive and being born could be improved rather than worsened.

(NEXT: Compulsory Birth Control?)



Republican Leaders Call for Mideast Development

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Republican party leadership, including former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, says this country should put forth a development plan for all Middle East nations which agree to maintain peaceful relations with their neighbors.

The leaders' views were in a GOP White Paper on the Middle East released yesterday.

Adm. Lewis J. Strauss, former chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, formulated the development plan.

"This constructive proposal," the GOP paper said, "would provide huge atomic plants to desalt seawater, the first of which would produce as much fresh water as the entire Jordan River system. This in turn would irrigate desert lands to support the Arab refugees and bring yearned-for prosperity to both Arab and Israeli territories."

★ ★ ★

The paper recalled that as president, Eisenhower sought a $121-million irrigation project in the Jordan River valley. There were no details on the cost of the new development plan.

Other GOP leaders endorsing the plan include past presidential nominees, governors and the party's congressional leadership.

In the 1860s, Texas had about 800,000 to 900,000 population and perhaps four million longhorn cattle.

PROMOTED TO CAPTAIN

—Cmdr. Samuel L. Gravely Jr. of Richmond, Va., was selected by the Navy yesterday for promotion to captain. Gravely, who the Navy said is the first Negro ever to command a U. S. warship, is the first Negro selected for captain as a line officer. He is commander of the destroyer Taussig.

Ad Drive Aimed at Auto Thefts

WASHINGTON (AP) — "Don't help a good boy go bad. Lock your car. Take your keys."

This slogan will soon reach millions of Americans through newspaper, television and radio advertising as part of a nationwide campaign to cut the high number of auto thefts.

The Justice Department and the Advertising Council are working together on the campaign.

Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark said yesterday in launching the drive that 500,000 cars were stolen last year, virtually all of them by young people. He said most of the thefts could have been prevented if drivers had taken their keys and locked their cars.

LBJ Surtax Plan Gets Mixed Reviews

NEW YORK (AP)—Bankers generally have applauded President Johnson's proposed tax hike, but some businessmen were less enthusiastic. Man-on-the-street reaction ranged from resigned acceptance to outright opposition.

Many persons suggested that cuts could be made in domestic spending to lessen the need for the full 10 per cent surcharge on corporate and personal income taxes that the President proposed Thursday.

"A prompt tax increase is clearly needed," said President Gabriel Hauge of Manufacturers Hanover Trust Co. in New York.

In San Francisco, Rudolph A. Peterson, president of the Bank of America—the nation's largest bank, said, "We believe the increase is necessary."

'SHOULD BE EFFECTIVE'

Dr. Charles E. Walker, executive vice president of the American Bankers Association, said the proposal was "equitable, simple and should be highly effective in preventing a return to tight money."

But Edmund F. Martin, chairman of Bethlehem Steel, said: "At a period when the economy actually may be softening, we feel a tax increase would worsen the situation."

★ ★ ★

Henry Ford II, chairman of the Ford Motor Co., also called for "further reductions in federal spending that can be accomplished without hampering either the military effort or urgent programs to meet the crisis in our cities."

'FAVORABLE CONSIDERATION'

However, Ford, in a telegram sent to Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, also urged that the committee "give favorable consideration" to the proposal.

★ ★ ★

A random sampling of 35 persons in cities around the nation produced only three people who said without reservation that a tax hike was necessary and they favored the proposal.

Better than two-thirds of those interviewed were in general agreement with Frank Snyder, 50, a Seattle engineer, who said: "If we need it, we need it. I guess. Somebody has to pay the bill. I hate taxes, but they're a necessary evil. We have to do it, but we don't have to like it."

One person who favored the increase was Catherine O'Shaughnessy, 44, a cashier in Philadelphia. She said: "It's necessary—and I for one am willing to go along with it. I've got a son in the service and I can see where it's necessary."

'IT'S UNFAIR'

Others opposed the increase because of the war. Sherman Pulley, 23, a Washington, D.C., light company clerk, said: "It's unfair. It makes us directly support the war in Vietnam.

★ ★ ★

"It makes it a personal commitment. I don't favor the war. We should bring the troops home and spend the money on the poverty program, educational facilities, things like that," he said.

B.H. Martin, 67, a retired medical technician in Columbus, Ohio, was also opposed but for different reasons: "I'm against the tax increase, I'm just against it. It'll mean higher wages, higher food prices, higher this and that. Where are we going to stop?"

About 17,000 million persons have fled from Communist countries since World War II.

7 Charged as Dope Ring Participants

GRAND RAPIDS (UPI)—Seven persons yesterday were charged with participating in an alleged dope ring involving $25,000 worth of "pep pills" and drugs. They demanded examination in Police Court before Judge Robert Verdier who set hearing dates for Aug. 11.

An eighth defendant, Don Roberts, 31, has been charged but is serving a 90-day jail term on a charge of illegally selling barbituartes and was not arraigned yesterday.

Almost 100,000 various types of pep pills and 2,000 morphine tablets were involved, police said.

Kenneth Sikkenga, a drugstore pharmacist, was named in the warrants as a coconspirator but not as a defendant. Police said Sikkenga had been warned by several prostitutes that if he did not supply them with the pills "they would make trouble for him."

Police said the investigation started when the drugstore reported a robbery and the ground around the store was covered with snow but there were no footprints.

Malinchak Bids for Regular Assignment

Former Hoosier Slated to Start Against Denver

By BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

DENVER, Colo. — Cloyce Box, Jim Doran, Terry Barr, Gail Cogdill, Jim Gibbons and Pat Studstill are just a few of the outstanding names among Detroit Lion pass receivers.

As a future star how about Bill Malinchak?

In case Lions' fans don't recall, Malinchak was a high draft choice in 1966 after an outstanding career at Indiana.

★ ★ ★

The sturdy 6-foot and 196-pound receiver has a wealth of credentials behind him from Monessen high school near Pittsburgh and three football years at Indiana. Saturday night against the Denver Broncos in the Lions' first exhibition game, Malinchak finds himself with a starting assignment and a chance to verify those credentials.

Malinchak gets the chance because of a leg injury to Studstill.

Statistically, the former Hoosier has little to show for 1966. He caught five passes for 34 yards. Four of the passes were in the last game against Minnesota.

"I'm excited about the opportunity to play." he said, "I've just got to do a good job."

Malinchak, a member of the 1961 Monessen high team which won the Western Penn football championship, was a four-sport athlete in high school.

One of his teammates at Monessen was half back Eric Crabtree, who ironically is now an end with the Broncos.

"As a halfback, Eric also did a lot of passing in high school. He must have thrown me at least 10 TD passes," said Malinchak.

WENT TO BIG TEN

Crabtree went on to Pitt where he had an outstanding career as a pass receiver, while Malinchak cast his lot with the Big Ten.

In the pro draft Malinchak was the choice of Buffalo in the AFL as well as the Lions. "I've had the NFL on my mind since my dad used to take me as a small kid to watch the Steelers." he said. "So I was real happy the Lions picked me."

Last week in the Lions intra-squad scrimmage, Malinchak grabbed seven passes for 135 yards. He won the praises of head coach Joe Schmidt and staff.

"He's got good speed and great moves," said receiver coach John North. There's a great pro future ahead of him."

The Lions are practicing in Denver to acclimate themselves to the altitude change.

Play College All-Stars Tonight

Rate Packers Solid Favorites

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Green Bay Packers and the 1967 College All Stars tangle tonight in soldier field for the 34th meeting between the pro champions and the best of the collegians, and as usual the pros were solid favorites.

The Packers, who lost two of 14 regular season games last year before downing Dallas for the National League Crown and Kansas City in the "superbowl", were rated 14-point favorites to rack up their sixth win in the all star series.

★ ★ ★

The Packers tripped the stars 38-0, one of the most one-sided scores of the series, last year but were beaten in their 1963 showing, 20-17. Green Bay has lost twice while winning five matches.

A crowd of about 75,000 was expected for the match, favored by a good weather forecast, a temperature under 80 degrees and low humidity. The game will be telecast nationally.

The Packers will have almost the same lineup as last year with two notable absentees, fullback Jim Taylor and halfback Paul Hornung. But the current all stars were rated a much stronger squad than the 1966 group.

For one thing, coach Johnny Sauer said, his club is deeper and he will have more manpower available. Also in workouts his players have adapted readily to new techniques and showed up well in a pre-game scrimmage against the Chicago Bears, losing 23-22.

Offensively, too, the All Stars should present a more varied attack with both Steve Spurrier, the Heisman trophy winner from Florida, and Purdue's Bob Griese at quarterback with such bright passing targets as Harry Jones, Bob Jones, Jack Clancy, Dave Williams, Gene Washington, Cas Banaszek, and Rod Sherman.

Sauer has numerous solid running backs and all should appear in the game. Among them were Clint Jones, Mel Farr, Nick Eddy, Ray McDonald and Floyd Little.

Coach Vince Lombardi of the Packers was expected to start Elijah Pitts and Donnie Anderson as his two running backs with Ben Wilson and Jim Grabowski likely to see plenty of action too. Both Anderson and Grabowski were on the 1966 all star team.

But Not by Orioles

Tigers Sent to Showers

BALTIMORE (AP) — Denny McLain, sipping his ever-present soft drink, was dressed and ready to leave the clubhouse by the time the game was over.

The 23-year-old right-hander of the Detroit Tigers had been sent to the showers early — not by the Baltimore Orioles but by a torrential downpour of rain in the eighth inning.

McLain won the rain-shortened contest 5-0 Thursday night, stopping the Orioles on three singles. He struck out six, walked one and didn't allow a runner past first base while bringing his record to 13-12.

What's more, young Denny extended to 52 the number of consecutive innings he has hurled without allowing a home run. That's quite an achievement for a pitcher who led the American League with 42 "Gopher" tosses last season and meted 23 in his first 121 innings this year.

"I've been finding my groove . . . and now I have a sinker," McLain said, explaining his recent success in preventing his pitches from being slammed over the outfield fences.

McLain credited Johnny Sain, the Detroit pitching coach, with helping him develop the sinker — which when thrown correctly, induces batters to hit the ball on the ground.

"I was fooling around on the sideline one day when my pitch moved like a sinker," McLain said. "I kept throwing,

Local Golfers Win in Publinx Tourney

Special to the Press

SAGINAW — Co-medalist Terry Hoy of Pontiac won two matches in Thursday's action of the 18th annual Michigan Publinx Golf Tournament at Swan Valley here.

Hoy defeated Tom Lock of Livonia, 4 and 3, in the first round and stopped John Weiport of Taylor, 6 and 5, to gain a spot among 16 survivors in the championship flight. He shot an even par in both matches.

★ ★ ★

Mike Wiegand and 17-year-old Gary Balliet of Pontiac also continued in the championship flight today as Wiegand defeated George Catto of Wixom, 3 and 2, and Don Curyla of Detroit, 2 and 1.

Gary's father Tom defeated Ed Purdowski of Detroit, 2 and 1, in a first round match while Pete Kranites lost to Bill Moran, 2 and 1, in the fourth flight. Roy Iceberg lost a 1-up match in 19 to John Wozniak of Warren.

Co-medalist Pat Coyne of Detroit was an early victim, losing a first round match to Walt Sabo of Detroit.

★ ★ ★

Defending champion Dr. Wayne Kramer of Flint, bidding for his third straight championship, defeated Lou St. Amour of Detroit, 3 and 2, in the first round and came back to down Dayton Shanahan of Wixom, 5 and 4, with a two-under par round, best of the day, in the second round.

Two more rounds are scheduled today with semifinals and finals set for Saturday.

Bing Signs New Pact

DETROIT (AP) — Guard Dave Bing, rookie of the year in the National Basketball Association last season, signed a two-year contract Thursday with the Detroit Pistons. Bing, who was the team's top scorer with an average of 20 points per game, received a "very substantial raise," according to a Piston spokesman.

Top Hurdlers Vie as Pan-American Games Near Finish

WINNIPEG, Canada (AP) — Hurdlers Willie Davenport and Earl McCulloch renew their intense rivalry in the 110-meter hurdles as U.S. track and field forces attempt to add to Uncle Sam's harvest of medals today in the fast closing Pan-American Games.

The race, which will take little longer than it does a pedestrian to cross a street, headlines the next-to-last day program at the University of Manitoba. The card includes the appearance of world record-holder Ralph Boston of Nashville, Tenn., in the long jump; the women's high jump finals, in which Eleanor Montgomery of Cleveland is defending champion; the men's hammer throw and the men's 50-kilometer meter walk.

Elston Howard Sheds Pinstripes for New Task With Red Sox

BOSTON (UPI) — Elston Howard, one of the central figures in the New York Yankees' greatest dynasty, today shed the pinstripes and started the task of showing the young Boston Red Sox how to win a pennant.

Howard, 38, a veteran of nine Yankee Pennant winning teams, was traded to the Red Sox Thursday for the $20,000 waiver price and two young players to be named at the end of the season.

Draper Leads Qualifying for GAM Play

Special To The Press

GRAND RAPIDS — Six Pontiac area golfers, headed by defending champion Pete Jackson of Oakland Hills and qualifying medalist Tom Draper of Red Run, began head-to-head combat here today in the 46th renewal of the Golf Association of Michigan match play championship at Blythefield Country Club.

The 52-year-old Draper, who won the GAM match play crown in 1956 and 1960, fashioned a two-under-par 70 on nines of 35-35 to capture individual medal honors in Thursday's 18-hole qualifying session over Blythefield's 6,710-yard, par 36-36—72 course.

Jackson, exempt from qualifying as the 1966 title holder, toured the course for serious practice and carded 33-38-71.

The husky Jackson collected five birdies and four bogeys on his round, which saw him sink a 70-foot putt for a birdie duece on the fifth hole, then later three-putt two greens.

Pontiac area hopefuls joining Jackson and Draper in today's opening round of match play were Fred Ewald of Oakland Hills, Jim St. Germain of Meadowbrook, Gene Eyler of Oakland Hills and Pete Green of Orchard Lake.

Eyler led this quartet with 35-37—72, followed by St. Germain, who shot 38-35—73. Ewald shot 37-37—74. Green prospered on the back nine to make the 32-man championship flight by shooting 40-37—77.

Five other Pontiac area players were championship flight casualties in Thursday's qualifiers. Indianwood's Ed Flowers carded 39-39—78 to become part of a 13-man playoff for the final three berths and he lost in the sudden-death affair.

Other casualties included Joe Grace Jr. of Detroit Golf Club, 42-38—80; Troy Hornberger of Oakland Hills, 40-40—80; John French, Bloomfield Hills, 41-42—83; and Bill Scott, Detroit Golf Club, 44-45-89.

Stiff breezes gave the 96-field trouble in Thursday's trials with only four golfers bettering par and three others equalling it.

Two rounds of match play are scheduled today and Saturday with the two finalists meeting Sunday over a 36-hole route for the game championship.

Five More Finalists in Junior Tourney

Five more finalists were determined Thursday in the city recreation department's junior baseball playoffs at Jaycee Park.

* * *

One outstanding mound effort dominated the several stingy efforts reported. Doug Gains and Pete Taylor combined to handcuff the House of Barbers Yankees, 12-0, in a Class E American elimination tilt.

They allowed only one hit—a one-out single in the last inning — and just three base runners.

In Class D, Sandy Heavenrich allowed only a lead-off single and five base runners in keeping Cranbrook alive with a 4-0 victory over Clawson, while Rochester reached the finals with a 5-3 conquest of Arnold Drugs.

* * *

The Met Club qualified to meet Russell Sundquist in the E-National championship round as Steve Humphrey blanked the Auburn Heights Boys Club Sportsmen, 13-0, in a five-inning one-hitter.

* * *

The other finalists were all determined in morning games.

Sam Allen trimmed the Northside Huskies to reach the F-National title game; the Giants dumped the Optimist Whiz Kids to advance in Widget B play; and the Braves Optimist bombed the White Sox to qualify in T-Ball.

* * *

Randy Brown's bases-loaded triple settled the Giants' 8-4 win, and Dave Hernandez ripped three hits for the Pirates in a 7-0 Widget B triumph over the Dodgers.

MUSH, HO — Veteran pro of 11 years in the NFL, Frank Varrichione, puts two members of the Pontiac Firebirds through some sled bumping sessions at the team's grid camp at Wisner Stadium practice field. Varrichione, now living in the Pontiac area, is helping head coach Tom Tracy with the linemen.

Coached by Ex-NFL Stars

Pro Touch for F-Birds

By BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

If anything, the Pontiac Firebirds will have a professional coaching touch when they begin their 1967 season in the Midwest Football League.

* * *

Three recently active NFL players, led by head coach Tom Tracy, are on the five-man staff diligently working with the Firebirds, a new franchise in the MFL.

Tracy, who started with the Lions and followed with years in Pittsburgh and Washington, has Walt Kowalcyzk, ex-Michigan State All-America who had terms with Detroit, Philadelphia and Dallas, on his staff along with the newest addition, Frank Varrichione, a 11-year veteran of the NFL with Pittsburgh and the Los Angeles Rams.

* * *

Tom Kennedy, former local prep coach who once had a stay with the Lions, and Bobby Hill, veteran of the MFL, complete the staff.

* * *

Varrichione and Kennedy have the chore of putting an offensive and defensive line together for the Firebirds as they prepare for their initial exhibition encounter Saturday, Aug. 12, against Ypsilanti in a benefit game at Rochester High School.

"We're lean on linemen," said Tracy, "but Frank is certainly bringing out the best in what we have."

Varrichione, who played at 6-feet-2 and 237 pounds, was an All-American under Frank Leahy at Notre Dame in 1954.

FAINTIN' FRANK

It was Varrichione who earned the nickname of "Faintin' Frank" after the incident which caused a furor in the game between Iowa and Notre Dame.

* * *

Varrichione's "sudden injury" stopped the clock in the game and it enabled the Irish to get off another play which led to a tie instead of a defeat.

It was later said that his questionable injury led to the many changes in football rules concerning timeouts and injury substitutions.

After playing in the college all-star game, he went to the Steelers as the first round draft choice and went to Los Angeles in 1961 in a trade which sent Lou Michaels to Pittsburgh.

* * *

Agile and quick as an offensive tackle, he had five pro bowl games under his belt before leaving the pro ranks in 1965.

* * *

In the truck business, Varrichione recently moved from Sotuh Bend, Ind., to the Pontiac area. He has a home in Rochester.

"It's tough to stay out of the game. I'm happy to be around football and more than happy to give Tom (Tracy) a hand with this team," he said.

The Firebirds have stepped up their drills this week at 6 p.m. daily at Wisner practice field.

The game in Rochester next week for the Crittendon Hospital Fund is being sponsored by the Rochester Rotary Club with tickets available in Pontiac at Griff's Grill, Osmun's Men's Store and the Firebird's downtown office, 12 N. Saginaw.

and found out how to use the sinker."

* * *

McLain has thrown the sinker in his last seven starts, pitching shutouts on July 8 and last week in addition to the seven-inning performance Thursday night.

"I only used about three or four sinkers against Baltimore, though," McLain said, "because I had a good overhand fast ball."

The game, which started 29 minutes late because of rain, was delayed another 16 minutes after Baltimore batted in the seventh and then ended on a bizarre note.

With two outs and two runs in for Detroit in the eighth, time was called when rain started falling again.

The canvas-type tarpaulin was rolled out once more. But members of the ground crew, slipping and falling on the infield couldn't get the tarp in place in time.

The Tigers scored in the eighth on a single by Norm Cash and a sacrifice fly by Ray Oyler.

Bill Freehan knocked in two runs with a fourth-inning bloop single and a drive in the sixth which caromed off the foot of losing pitcher Bill Dillman.

Post Victories in Waterford

Two Waterford Township men's softball teams advanced to the semifinal round of their respective losers' brackets by winning last night at the Drayton Plains diamond.

Midget Bar needed only two hits to eliminate Clarkston Appliance, 5-0, in the Upper Division; and Buekner Finance move up in the Lower Division with a forfeit win over Clyde's Wheel and Frame.

Both will now play Monday night against the losers of this evening's winners' bracket games in their respective divisions.

Bill Goulet of Midget Bar and The Rev. Harold Hughes of the appliance squad had a four-inning scoreless duel going when the Clarkston team defense faltered and the barmen took charge.

Bob Murphhy's two safeties for Clarkston matched the entire output by the winners.

TEEING OFF

By FLETCHER SPEARS

Golf is no game for a guy or gal with a short fuse.

Outbursts of temper on the links aren't rare, and the lack of restraint is likely to take the form of club throwing, swearing, maligning an opponent or just a loud grrrrrrrr.

The king of the temperamental set has to be pro Tommy Bolt, the dapper dan of play-for-pay golf, and often the antics of folks who belong to the temper club produce a bit of humor.

Watching others let off steam is particularly enjoyable if you happen to be a graduate of the tempermental set.

A little story was circulated a while back concerning Bolt's play in one of the big tournaments.

Seems that Bolt was making a good showing in the tourney, so good that marshals were following him with walkie talkies and relaying information on each of his shots to the press tent so the scribes could stay up to date.

* * *

Bolt's wife was among the listeners at the press tent on that particular day when word came that Tommy had hit the pin on the 16th hole.

POINTED QUESTION

"What with," asked his wife, "the ball or the caddie?"

* * *

Whether the club throwing, etc., is a product of the player's frustrations with the game itself or an outlet for pressure from some other problem is a subject we won't mess with here.

The courses are crowded with folks who have problems keeping their cool, and one of the local golfers who is occasionally pushed to the limit is Neil Mansfield, a happy individual and a good golfer, and he, apparently, is licking his temper problem.

"I haven't thrown a club since May," Neil was saying earlier this week, and laughing a little at himself. "I always feel terrible afterward, and now I really think I'll never break another club.

* * *

"It (golf) seems to bring out all the frustrations in a man," he continued. "You're all by yourself in playing the game," he says.

BROKEN TRAIL

Neil has left a trail of broken clubs since he started playing eight years ago. "I've broken a few," he says, adding, "But I hope it's all in the past."

* * *

In the past few years he has averaged about three or four broken clubs a year.

This spring, he traded in his old woods for a new set. The swap was necessary because the driver had a broken shaft, the 2-wood shaft was bent, the 3-wood was cracked and the 4-wood had a dent in the shaft.

That new driver he received in trade is now undergoing repairs in Louisville. Angered by a poor wedge shot back in May, Neil tossed the club at the bag. It hit the shaft of the driver and broke it.

* * *

Neil's worst experience with the clubs came two years ago. He took a big swing with a wood and missed the ball. He immediately broke the club with his hands and in doing so broke a finger.

ATTITUDE CHANGES

Neil is quiet and his anger on the course is directed at himself. Since the club-throwing incident in May, his attitude has changed.

* * *

"I've promised myself I'll think about the shots and then be happy with it. It (golf) is not really that important."

YOUNG SWINGERS

A couple of the younger players who are putting polish on their games are Chris Skelanger, 10, and Gordon Booker, 11, of Waterford.

In a recent Pee Wee Golf tournament in Orlando, Fla., Booker carded a 36-hole score of 175 to finish fifth among 44 entrants. Chris carded a 96 the first round and wound up in 19th place.

PUTTING AROUND

George Tuson and his son Tracey won the father and son tournament last weekend at Pine Knob with a best-ball 32. Jerry Savoie and son Jerry were second with 33. Par is 37.

The fourth hole at Twin Lakes continues to be a favorite target for aces. Three were recorded on the 165-yard hole last month. Charles Robinson dropped a six-iron shot into the cup on the fly; Tom Somers used a six, also! and David Gooley went to a two wood. All are from the Pontiac area.

PPOA Seeks Mack Crown

Plays Second Game at Marshall Today

The Pontiac Police Officers' Association staved off ouster from the state Connie Mack Baseball Tournament for boys 18-and-under Wednesday and was back in action this morning.

* * *

PPOA downed Midland, 3-2, in a tense 13 - inning duel Wednesday afternoon to reach today's third round at Marshall.

Earlier this week, Pontiac lost to Southgate in the double-elimination tournament.

PPOA broke a 0-0 tie in the 11th on Don Hayward's run-scoring double, but Midland tied it off Gerald McKeever in the bottom of the frame.

Hayward then singled home the tie-breaking marker in the 13th and scored the eventual deciding marker on an outfield error. McKeever gained the victory by stopping Midland's final rally in the last of the inning.

* * *

Rob Clancy hurled 10 scoreless innings as Pontiac's starter. A win today will put PPOA in tomorrow's quarter-finals.

Gains State Tournament Berth

Local-594 earned the right Thursday night to represent Pontiac in the Michigan Softball Association Class D district tournament by blanking Bob's Bar, 1-0, at Northside Park.

The win gave the unionmen a two-game sweep of their best-of-three playoff series.

In the National League elimination tournament, Timberlanes-II reached the winners' bracket semifinal round with an 8-6 victory over J. A. Fredman, while L&S Standard ousted Timberlanes-I, 15-5, in the losers' bracket.

An International (Slow Pitch) League outing at Beaudette Park saw The Pontiac Press hold off rallying Wagon Wheel Tavern, 10-8.

Pitcher Al Zavala of Local-594 held Bob's to two singles and stranded the tying run at third base in the last inning. Batterymate Bob Reese singled in the fifth and tallied the game's only run on defensive lapes by the losers.

QUICK RALLY

Timberlanes-II spotted Fredman's a first-inning run, then erupted for five markers. A walk, a hit batsman and three singles put the first five barmen on base, and Carl Pace cracked a big double.

Bob Gilmore of L&S rapped two home runs, and scored on a circuit clout by Paul Davis. Bob Moore also connected for the winners. Tom Upcott ripped a bases-loaded double.

The Press (10-4) took a 4-0 lead on Wagon Wheel (8-5) who promptly retaliated for five runs. Dick Tiltman's triple boosted the pressmen back into a 7-5 lead, but Jim Polan's solo homer for the tavern nine made it 7-6.

* * *

Grant St. Amour's triple and Len Cote's third hit, a single, pushed the lead to 10-7, before Wagon Wheel rallied in the last of the seventh for one on Polan and Gary Page's third hits, then left the tying run on second.

Making Clutch Plays Pays Off in Church Loop

Union Lake Baptist made the clutch plays last night to outlast wilting St. Paul Methodist and capture the Waterford Township Men's Church Softball League title, 7-6, in eight innings.

* * *

St. Paul — who was upset earlier this week to force the first-place showoff — jumped into 3-0 and 5-1 leads in the opening five innings last night.

But The Rev. Hiram Jones' double and Ted Owens' single enabled the Baptists to tie the game in the top of the seventh.

A key defensive play thwarted St. Paul's bid to win the game in the last of the seventh, and Union Lake then tallied twice in the eighth to hand pitcher Dwight Butler the victory.

* * *

The league will have its post-season double-elimination play-offs next week.

Mrs. Quinn Wins Pine Lake Honors

Mrs. James R. Quinn of Bloomfield Hills bested Mrs. Howard E. Geldolf of Birmingham on the final green Thursday to capture the Director's Cup in the 41st annual Pine Lake Country Club Women's Match play Tournament.

* * *

The two finalists from the original field of 28 battled evenly through the first 17 holes.

A similarly close duel decided the consolation honors. Birmingham's Mrs. Reginald G. Corey edged Mrs. John N. Zitta of Detroit, 2 and 1.

* * *

Defending champ Mrs. Philip Mehas was not able to compete in the five-day eliminations.

White Sox Using Old Yankee Formula in Bid for Pennant

By STEVE SNIDER

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Chicago White Sox are using an old Yankee formula in a drive to win the American League pennant right now.

A year ago, the Baltimore Orioles nailed the flag on one big trade for Frank Robinson, but the White Sox hope to do it with a flock of lesser ones for old-timers who carry a big stick.

* * *

Ken Boyer paid off in a hurry after he shifted over from the New York Mets. Ditto Rocky Colavito, obtained from Cleveland only last weekend.

This sort of maneuvering was a familiar pattern with the New York Yankees when Casey Stengel was herding them to the top year after year.

Old folks like Johnny Mize, Enos Slaughter, Johnny Hopp, Johnny Sain, Jim Konstanty, Bobby Shantz and Sal Maglie were among the men who rose to fame elsewhere before chipping in with valuable contributions to "Stengel's Lancers."

Player trades of any type are dangerous and those for oldtimers are no exception.

The Yankees frequently had to give up young talent to get veterans for spot duty. One of the last was Curt Blefary, now with Baltimore, whom the Yankes had to let slip away in 1964 to make room for Harry Bright.

Blefary may be worth a half-dozen Harry Brights but not at that precise moment. A journeyman infielder, Harry helped the Yankees over a rough spot en route to the last pennant the New Yorkers won.

* * *

The precise price the White Sox paid for Boyer and Colavito won't be known until after the season is ended since "a player to be named later" was part of both deals.

But if those two tried and true power hitters keep delivering and a pennant is forthcoming they'll have to be rated as bargain buys.

Winter trades figure strongly in the fortunes of several other contenders, including the Minnesota Twins, California Angels and the National League St. Louis Cardinals.

The Cards, leading the NL, are getting plenty of good mileage from ex-Yankee Roger Maris. Roger's bat is more constantant than it has been in years, turning out an average around .290.

The key acquisition there, however, is slugging Orlando Cepeda, who moved from San Francisco the year before.

The Twins helped their pitching in a deal for Dean Chance, who won 12 of his first 20, and one for reliever Ronnie Kline, who won his first four. Minnesota sent Don Mincher and Jimmie Hall to the Angels and they're not complaining.

The Pittsburgh Pirates discovered danger of another sort in their off-season trades. They grabbed veteran Maury Wills from the Los Angeles Dodgers to add a spice of winning spirit, then added Juan Pizarro from the White Sox and Dennis Ribant from the Mets to dress up their pitching.

Ribant won six of his first 10, Pizarro four of 12 and the club's hitting didn't measure up. Manager Harry Walker walked the plank with the preseason favorites in the second division.

Mike McCormick, moving from Washington to San Francisco, won 14 of his first 19 and is the year's "best buy." Mike cost the Giants outfielder Cap Peterson and pitcher Bob Priddy.

Tommy Davis, obtained by the Mets from Los Angeles, is having a fine year. Don Lock, ex-Washington, and Dick Hall, ex-Baltimore, have prospered with the Phillies, though the club hasn't made the headway hoped for.

* * *

But the trader to keep an eye on is General Manager Ed Short of the White Sox, who wants that pennant right now.

Cranbrook Moundsman Hurls Vital Shutout

Cranbrook's Al Levy stymied C. I. O. —594 on four hits last night to pitch the school team into a fourth-place playoff tomorrow night with Teamsters 614 in city men's baseball at Jaycee Park.

* * *

Levy outdueled C.I.O.'s Rich Goldsworthy for a 3-0 victory. Goldsworthy yielded only a last inning single by Mike Burklow but it was instrumental in the winner's final two runs.

Cranbrook tallied the game's first run in the second on a walk and three lapses by the losers' battery. The union's best game was a two-on, one-out opportunity in the final frame.

The win left Cranbrook tied with the Teamsters for fourth place at 11-8. They will play off the tie at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow at Jaycee. The winner will move into Monday's night Class A play-off game.

In a second game Thursday, Pass Excavating concluded its initial season at 11-8-1 with a 3-1 decision over U.A.W. - 653.

Pass, like Cranbrook was out-hit but capitalized on its foe's defensive misplays. Two of the winners' three singles came in the second inning when they scored all their runs.

No Political Ambitions?

DETROIT (UPI) — James G. Williams, an unemployed handyman who claims he doesn't even know what a county auditor is, faces trial on charges of failing to report his campaign expenses for an election he know nothing about.

Williams, 55, the son of a Missouri sharecropper, was free on personal bond today following his arraignment on the charge yesterday.

A warrant for his arrest said Williams failed to file "a full and true" account of his campaign expenses in the race for Wayne County auditor in the 1966 Aug. 2 primary election.

Williams, who is partly blind and supports himself, and wife and their six children on a monthly relief check of $312, said he didn't even know he was a candidate in the election.

Automobile thefts in the U. S. have increased by some 60 per cent since 1960.

GOP War Veterans Form Group in State

A new statewide organization — the Michigan Republican Servicemen's Council—has been recruiting veterans for membership, an officer, Duane Shaw of Orion Township, announced today.

* * *

The new political arm of the party will advise and consult with the state GOP committee, the governor, lieutenant governor and the Legislature on legislation and other matters which concern veterans, said Shaw.

Shaw, director of the Oakland County Department of Veteran Affairs, holds the position of fourth vice chairman in the new group.

Officers of the newly formed unit met Tuesday with Lt. Gov. William Milliken and presented him with an honorary membership in the organization.

* * *

"I predict that in the coming years this will prove to be one of the most successful and vital groups connected with the party," said Milliken.

GIVE ADVICE

He said he expected the council would "advise the Legislature as a constituent would" on matters concerning veterans in Michigan.

"The group will not lobby as such," Milliken emphasized.

Shaw said that the council is open to veterans of any war as well as those who have seen no action, providing they either have an honorable discharge from the service or are currently serving with a branch of the armed service.

* * *

Shaw of 2416 Holland said his partisan post in the organization will not conflict with his duties as director of the veteran affairs department.

Other officers are Charles Trickey of Tecumseh, chairman; Louis A. Russo of Jackson, Edwin J. Schuitema of Holland and Jack Woodward of Lansing, all vice chairmen.

Shaw is responsible for activities of the organization in the southeastern region of the state.

* * *

This area consists of the counties of Huron, Sanilac, Tuscola, Saginaw, Shiawassee, Genesee, Lapeer, St. Clair, Macomb, Oakland, Livingston, Washtenaw, Wayne, Lenawee and Monroe.

Traffic Violators Cheer Shortage

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Mansfield is running short on parking tickets and no one seems to care, says Douglas Hazen, city safety director.

Three requests to the City Council for money to print more forms have been ignored, seriously putting a crimp on the number of tickets police can give out, Hazen said Thursday.

Dolphins have been trained to attach wires to torpedoes and missiles lying on the ocean floor, thus greatly simplifying undersea recovery operations.

New Yorkers Don't Make Postal Work Easy

NEW YORK (AP) — There was an era in this country when the mail was a case of writing your letters and taking your chances.

Couriers couldn't always overcome the weather and highwaymen; stagecoaches couldn't always avoid Indians, and once in a while, a Pony Express rider and his saddlebags would disappear along the trail.

But all that was many, many years BZC—Before Zip Code.

Today's postal system has long since overcome the problems of the 17th and 18th centuries.

But in New York City, the problems of the 20th century are murder.

Manhattan's main post office —called the New York Post Office, although its territory does not cover the city's four other boroughs—says it handles more mail each day than all the post offices in France—some 31 million pieces.

★ ★ ★

That totals eight billion pieces a year, one-tenth the national volume on one 13.5 mile-by-2.5 mile island that is the heart of the national's business world.

The Post Office thinks it performs the monumental task with unheralded efficiency, but not because the people it serves makes the job particularly easy. In truth, New Yorkers seem inadvertently to do everything they can to make the difficult job impossible.

ONE ON TOP OF ANOTHER

They have a tendency, because this island is relatively small, to stack their homes and businesses one on top of another until the resulting skyscrapers soar so high one gets a whiplash craning to see the tops of them.

In the 102-story Empire State Building, for example, it takes 25 mail carriers working eight hours a day to get everything in its order place. They make three pickups and three deliveries daily.

★ ★ ★

And now the Port of New York Authority has begun erecting its twin-towered Trade Center, two buildings in downtown Manhattan that will outsky-scrape the Empire State Building by eight stories each.

"Whenever I see a new skyscraper going up, whether it's a business office or a new apartment complex, I don't see brick or aluminum or glass, I see one gigantic mailbag," said Acting Postermaster John R. Strachan.

NEW 'MAILBAG'

"There's a new mailbag going up right outside my office window," he said, referring to the new Madison Square Garden and office building being built over the underground Pennsylvania Station complex.

Strachan — who gets fewer than 100 complaints a day from Manhattanites — doesn't worry much about the service. He says he is confident that no matter what New York builds, the Post Office can handle its mail.

★ ★ ★

That is, if his men can get to it. Everyone knows the "snow nor rain, nor heat nor gloom of night" bit, but these are modern times.

From about 8 a.m. to 7 p.m., the streets of Manhattan become a creeping glut of motorized commerce that defies any mail truck to accomplish the swift completion of its appointed rounds.

SUBWAY CAR

"We're thinking constantly about ways to get around using surface vehicles," Strachan said. "We've considered using subways—putting a mail car on the trains—but they don't stop long enough in any station for us to load and unload.

"We've also considered helicopters, but where do you land them?"

★ ★ ★

But by far the biggest problem, Strachan says, is that New Yorkers are creatures of habit, and one of their worst habits is dumping the vast majority of their mail into chutes and boxes in the evening.

A trip through several acres of space used by the New York Post Office to process mail confirms Strachan's problem. During the day there are few workers at the sorting tables, canceling machines and the banks and banks of cubby holes used to divvy up mail into separate delivery areas.

BEGINS TO PICK UP

About 4 p.m., things begin to pickup and by 7 p.m., strolling through the work areas is a risk to life and limb.

Thousands of people are shoving carts, throwing bags and running around in a frantically choreographed dance of the mail room that leaves the visitor wondering how it is that nothing is lost and no one is killed.

"If I could have one wish for the Post Office, it would be that people get out of the habit of mailing everything when they leave their offices at night and start mailing during the day," Strachan said.

Most of the mail in Manhattan is business mail. I know people write business letters and prepare advertising all day, not just in the late afternoon. So why don't they mail it when it's ready?"

AP Wirephoto

MANHATTAN MAIL GLUT — Postal workers sort out letters and parcels in the general post office in New York's Manhattan. Acting Postmaster John R. Strachan says the mail flow could be improved if New Yorkers would change their habit of dumping the vast majority of their mail into chutes and boxes in the evening.

U.S. Grades 65 Areas on Dirty Air; Detroit 9th

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government issued a dirty air report card for the nation's 65 major manufacturing areas, including three Michigan cities, yesterday. All of them flunked.

As expected, New York's air was graded the dirtiest, with Chicago a close second and Philadelphia third. Los Angeles was ranked fourth but the report did not include photochemical smog, which is that city's most serious pollution problem.

Detroit was ranked ninth.

High Point-Greensboro, N. C., with more than 40,000 industrial employes, got the best marks of the 65 metropolitan areas, followed by Wichita, Kan., and Miami, Fla.

★ ★ ★

Flint was rated the eighth cleanest of the dirty 65 while Grand Rapids was ranked 13th cleanest.

ALL THREATENED

"But in all the large urban areas covered in our report the public health and welfare area is threatened by air pollution," the National Center for Air Pollution Control said.

It was the first time the government has ever ranked individual metropolitan areas on the basis of their relative severity of air pollution.

The center used three basic standards to measure each city — the concentration of suspended particles, such as fly ash in the air; the number of gallons of gasoline, a major pollution source, bought in the area; and the concentration of sulfur dioxide, a gas produced by burning coal and oil.

Pontiac Mall Hosts Circus Next Week

The circus is coming!

The Clyde Beatty-Cole Bros. Circus comes to town for two performances Aug. 11. Big top shows are at 2 and 8 p.m. at the Pontiac Mall.

New acts and thrills are promised, with David Hoover in the big cage battling royal Bengal tigers and Nubian lions. The Franconi family of bareback equestrians and Louis Murillo of the high wire will also be featured.

The circus comes to Waterford Township under the sponsorship of the Drayton Plains Lions Club.

★ ★ ★

There are 600 persons in the show which has a daily operating expense of $8,500.

4,500 SEATS

Seating capacity for each performance will be 4,500.

Circus tickets can be purchased at the door or beforehand at area business places, said Bruce Robertson, president of the Drayton Plains Lions Club.

Tickets are $2.50 each for adults and $1.25 for children.

Part of the proceeds will be used to support community projects sponsored by the club.

Trooper Report

LANSING (AP) — Michigan State Police report their officers made 25,896 arrests in June—23,643 for traffic offenses and 2,253 on criminal complaints. In addition, the department's monthly activity report says 936 juvenile traffic offenders were arrested and 561 delinquent minors apprehended.

Delta Patrol Boats Loaded With Firepower

CAN THO, Vietnam (AP) — They call it the muddy water navy. Pound-for-pound it is perhaps the most powerful fleet America ever had.

All the 31-foot river patrol boats have more weapons than the four-man crew can fire at one time.

"We like to sort of swap around," grinned Thomas Roberts, 19, an engineman from Sitka, Alaska. He can handle a machine gun, grenade launcher, m16 rifle or pistol.

The fiber-glass boats started working major estuaries in the Mekong Delta last year to drive off the Vietcong who virtually controlled the rivers by night and terrorized most daytime traffic. Now 90 of the boats maintain 24-hour patrols of the Mekong, the Bassac and other major waterways.

SHORELINE FIRE

In the delta they are apt to run into Communist fire from almost any shoreline. Recently Red gunners wounded one entire crew with recoilless rifle rounds. The Vietcong also like to lure the boats close to river banks and rake them with pellets from claymore mines suspended in trees.

Under the circumstances, the crews tend to beef up the normal armament. When boat captain Norman Booker, 23, a shipfitter from National City, Calif., set out on his last patrol after a year's tour of duty, his craft carried its normal firepower of three 50-caliber machine guns and an automatic grenade launcher. It was beefed up with 60 light machine guns, a light mortar and two hand-held grenade launchers. They were, of course, added to individual weapons such as grenades, knives, M16 rifles and pistols.

* * *

One of the staff officers is considering ways to squeeze a flamethrower into this assortment of weaponry.

All of this firepower has given the little PBRs—propelled by water jets up to 30 miles per hour-a large measure of control over rivers where the Vietcong previously moved with relative ease.

VISIBILITY DEVICES

They carry a small radar set and a secret electronic starlight telescope which magnifies available light and gives amazing nighttime visibility. Operating in pairs, crews cut engines at night and float downstream, scanning the river with radar and telescope until they catch a guerrilla band. Then they dash upon it at full speed with all guns ablaze.

"We have practically stopped the big units from crossing at night," an officer reported. "Now they generally try and filter across in small groups during the day."

* * *

The daytime patrols—when rivers are bursting with sampan traffic—have become the tedious major effort.

Thousands of peaceful-looking sampans are stopped daily. A South Vietnamese policeman checks identities and searches the sampans. When a sampan tries to evade such searching operations it generally turns out to be Vietcong and frequently opens fire. Sometimes the guerrillas dive into the rivers and abandon their craft.

AFFECTS SUPPLIES

Since the Mekong Delta still furnishes most of the recruits and rice for the Vietcong all over Vietnam, cutting off guerrilla movements has affected operations not only in the delta but farther north as well.

Communist taxation has been sharply cut along the major rivers, although Vietcong agents still catch farmers on the myriad narrow canals and smaller streams where the PBRs cannot go.

"The farmers know that if they can get to the big river they are free of Vietcong taxation and this is helping us every day in extending our intelligence and making friends," a Navy staff officer said.

Deep Freezing, Additives Can Extend Life of Blood

By Science Service

WASHINGTON—Blood shortages will soon be a thing of the past; new deep-freezing methods and additives can extend the life of whole blood far beyond its usual 21-day period.

One of the latest methods has been reported from Dr. Arthur W. Rowe, head of the Cryobiological Laboratory at the New York Blood Center.

Dr. Rowe uses liquid nitrogen at minus 320 degrees F., and has already demonstrated success with 500 pints of deep-frozen blood.

Power failures will have no effect on the liquid nitrogen system since the ultralow temperature will not be dependent on electricity as in mechanical refrigerators.

* * *

Earlier freezing techniques have been developed by Dr. James H. Pert of the American National Red Cross Blood Program and by Dr. Charles E. Huggins of Harvard.

FURTHER RESEARCH

Another preservation method entailing the additive adenine, already in use by the Army, is being further researched under 10 grants from the National Heart Institute, Bethesda, Md.

This method doubles the 21-day life of whole blood under ordinary refrigeration.

The present system for getting blood to men in Vietnam entails nearby donations from Japan, the Philippines and even closer locations, with adenine added, and there is little loss such as occurred during the Korean War.

* * *

The problems of the Army ground forces differ from those of the Navy, which has hospital ships for storage under refrigeration.

NEEDS ADDITIVE

The Army needs the additive, which does not require as low temperatures as frozen blood.

Dr. Power's new method follows the Red Cross technique, except that he uses stainless steel containers, whereas Dr. Pert uses teflon bags. These plastic containers are cheap and disposable. The liquid nitrogen temperature in both methods is the same.

Give Potted Plants Weekly Dunking

Once a week set your potted plants in a tub of water that has had the chill removed, having sufficient water to come up about one-third of the way on the pots.

* * *

Allow them to remain in the tub until the water has soaked up through the soil, from the bottom of the pot and the soil is damp on top.

* * *

While the plants are in the tub, wash the dust off their leaves. This is all the watering that most plants will need.

For the ones that become dry and need a little more, pour a little tepid water on them.

Check Woods for Poison Ivy

Don't Bring Vacation to an Itchy Climax

By JODY HEADLEE
Pontiac Press Garden Editor

A secluded wooded spot, its shades of green carpeting patterned with drifts of wildflowers and dappled sunshine, how inviting to the vacationer determined to get back to nature.

But before he revels in the idyllis setting with anything more than his eyes, he'd better check that dappled green for leaflets three or he may be sorry.

Poison ivy, the scourge of the unwary, frequently brings a delightful sojourn to an itchy climax.

The plant may be found as a ground cover or as a climber clinging to trees and fence poles, chiefly in uncultivated woodland and meadows.

* * *

It is the oily substance in the tissues of the ivy that is the troublemaker. Minute amounts of it deposited on a sensitive skin can cause severe poisoning.

WATCH PETS

It's wise to keep the family pet out of questionable areas for its fur can pick up enough of the irritating oil to launch a full scale reaction.

Even after the plants have been hit by frost and appear to be approaching dormancy, danger lurks in the red and orange leaves, stems and fruits. Tiny droplets of oil can be carried in the smoke drifts of plants being burned.

Learn to recognize the villain with its compound leaves of rich green, small greenish flowers and ivory berrylike drupes.

* * *

If you come in contact with the plant, wash exposed areas of the skin with plenty of hot water and soap. Repeat the process five or six times. Rinse in clear water, saturate affected area with rubbing alcohol, rinse again and dry.

Do not scrub exposed portions with a brush or rough cloth as that will only irritate the skin and increase the chance of an allergic reaction.

In spite of all precautions, should the skin become red, form tiny water blisters which unite into larger ones and begin to itch violently, wash with soap and warm water and cover with a drying preparation such as calamine lotion or caladryl, available without prescription in any drugstore.

* * *

For difficult cases consult your physician. He will prescribe antihistamines and other preparations to ease and control the reaction.

Other plants to avoid include poison oak and poison sumac which belong to the same family.

Poison oak is not a tree and is in no way related to the oak family. Similar to poison ivy, its compound leaf is broader and more deeply notched.

Poison sumac is a shrub or small tree. It is distinguished from the nonpoisonous by its loose, drooping clusters of white berries.

Try Different Plants

Gardeners became accustomed to flowers shaped like cups, like flat plates or like bells and tend to expect all blooms to conform to these shapes. Two unusually formed flowers are shown above.

* * *

The first is different because of the undulating stems which curve in almost any direction. This plant is called Russian statice by novice gardeners and Statice suworowii by gardening experts. The tiny blooms are rose-colored; the spikes 18 inches tall.

Not only is this statice an eye-catcher in the garden, but it may be used either in fresh or dried bouquets. It is easily dried and keeps well.

Rhodanthe is the commonly-used name for the second unusual flower. It grows from 12 to 18 inches high and has exceptionally slender stems. The flowers look as if they were made of thin straw and are rose pink, surrounded by a row of silvery petals.

* * *

Because of the straw-like texture rhodanthes look dry even when they are fresh. They will look just the same when used during winter in arrangements of dried flowers.

* * *

It is possible but not probable that you will find these two flowers for sale in early autumn in local farmer's markets. However, the best way to insure having them for use indoors in winter is to grow them yourself from seeds.

All plants need some light. Among those that will flourish in light of low intensity in your home are sansevieria, neanthebelá palms and most philodendrons.

NEW SNAPS — Open throats instead of the usual "dragon's jaws" characterize these new-type snapdragons. Bright Butterflies is the name of a fine mixture of colors.

Butterfly Snaps Are Colorful Beauties

You need no longer watch for the occasional visit of a butterfly to your garden. Instead you can grow Bright Butterflies.

For this is the name of a mixture of snapdragon colors that won an All-America Selections award.

These differ from the snapdragons with which you are familiar because they have lost their "dragon's jaws" and have open, trumpet-shaped throats.

They bloom in clear, beautiful colors; yellow, rose, pink, crimson, orange, apricot and white. Some flowers have light-colored throats which contrast with the ground color of the petals.

Plants grow 2 to 3 feet high, branching freely from the base. Hybrid vigor produces sturdy growth.

BLOOM EARLY

They bloom in early mid-summer, before the older Rocket type, and will bear a second and even a third crop of bloom during the season if old flowers are kept cut.

You'll be surprised to see how many blooms are produced in each crop.

This is because Bright Butterflies do not set seeds as freely as other snapdragons.

Try these novel flowers in your garden this year. They grow easily from seeds sown indoors or out.

Use Annuals for Corners

Every garden has odd corners or small areas that ordinarily add nothing to the garden picture but could easily be beautified with just a few plants of annual flowers.

Some of these areas demand a single fair-sized plant. These are good spots for a plant of tall-growing zinnia or marigold or perhaps a single spider plant.

Others need one or more low-growing plants. Annual phlox, viola, ageratum, dwarf marigold or dwarf zinnia are all excellent choices for massing or even planting in groups of 3 or 6 plants.

By OSWALD & JAMES JACOBY

There is one outstanding time to finesse. That is when you are in a slam contract and you are sure to make it, provided you take the finesse. Never mind about the fact that it is not likely to be necessary and may well cost you an overtrick. To paraphrase Shakespeare, "The slam is the thing."

JACOBY

When North showed an ace and a king South was tempted to go to a grand slam but he put temptation firmly behind him and settled for six. North didn't need seven sure club tricks for his vulnerable three-club bid.

He won the heart opening and counted up. He had six tricks in the three top suits. Six club tricks would give him his slam. The only thing for him to worry about would be a bad club break.

He led the three of clubs. West played the eight and for a moment South was going to play the jack from dummy. That would guard against any and all 2-2 and 3-1 club breaks. It would also produce a grand slam against all such breaks when West held the queen.

★ ★ ★

He thought for a moment. Then he thought for a second moment and realized that he wasn't interested at all in making an overtrick but he wanted to make his slam.

Four clubs held by East would have beaten him but West had played one club, so East couldn't have four clubs.

That left the possibility that West had started with four clubs. West played the eight; would he play the eight from queen-ten-eight-deuce?

Not likely but decidedly possible. South counted up once more, reached over to dummy, pulled out the nine and made sure of his contract. He also made his overtrick when East showed out.

♥♣ CARD Sense ♦♠

Q—The bidding has been:

West	North	East	South
	1 ♦	1 ♠	1 N.T.
Pass	3 ♦	Pass	?

You, South, hold: ♠K 10 2 ♥5 4 ♦Q 5 4 ♣K 9 7 6 5

What do you do now?

A—Bid three no-trump. Pass is not a bad second choice but you might as well hope that your queen of diamonds will fill in a long suit and that the defense won't run hearts against you.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Instead of bidding three diamonds your partner has bid three clubs. What do you do now?

Plan to Curb Crime News Scored by Newspapermen

HONOLULU (AP)—News media representatives opened fire today on recommendations by an American Bar Association study group that would limit reporting of crime news.

"The classic function of the press is to find out everything it can about government, about law enforcement," said J. Edward Murray of the American Society of Newspaper Editors.

★ ★ ★

"That's what the free flow of news means, what the reporter can find out, not what the public servant wants to give him on a platter."

Murray, managing editor of the Arizona Republic, is chairman of the society's Freedom of Information and Press-Bar Committee.

PREPARED REMARKS

He spoke out against the proposals in remarks prepared for a day-long hearing sponsored by the ABA's section on judicial administration.

"To begin, you will poison the stream of crime and police news by deliberately managing that news at its source," Murray said.

★ ★ ★

"We won't even let the President manage the news of his own political image without a hue and cry of press criticism.

"How can we think of giving the right to manage crime news to every town constable and marshal?"

The ABA recommendations are the result of a 20-month study by 10 prominent judges and lawyers on the constitutional guarantees of free press and fair trial.

Unveiled last October by the panel headed by Justice Paul C. Reardon of the Supreme Judicial Court of Massachusetts, they stirred immediate controversy within the law and journalism professions.

★ ★ ★

In the main, the Reardon report calls on lawyers and police to restrict their comments on pending criminal cases and to cut back on the release of information about them. The stated objective is to help assure fair trials for criminal defendants.

However, Murray told the ABA group: "We of the media contend that, if you adopt the Reardon sanctions, you will cripple the press as a watchdog of law enforcement, as the traditional enemy of secret arrest and the traditional friend of fair trial."

'AID TO JUSTICE'

The press, he said, "has often aided justice, sometimes through independent investigation paralleling that of the police, sometimes by discovering that the wrong defendant is in custody, or that a defendant is being mistreated, sometimes by finding political chicanery in the prosecutor's office, sometimes by turning up overlooked witnesses."

"Press freedom is precious," Murray said, "and, except in time of war or great national emergency, it is an indivisible, all-or-nothing freedom.

★ ★ ★

"The first hint of censorship poisons it. And, as the dictator ships illustrate, censorship itself is a contagious thing. A little breeds a lot."

D. Tennant Bryan, chairman of the Fair Trial-Free Press Committee of the American Newspaper Publishers Association, said in prepared remarks:

"A free press is the foundation of all our freedoms. Any erosion of this foundation must be of the gravest concern, not to the press alone, but to all citizens now and for generations to come."

"BASIC CONVICTION'

Bryan, president and publisher of the Richmond, Va., Times-Dispatch and the Richmond News-Leader, said this "basic conviction" is shared by the news media representatives appearing before the ABA group and by members of the bar group themselves.

Hu Blonk, chairman of the Freedom of Information Committee of the Associated Press, Managing Editors Association, told the panel that in the states of Washington and Oregon "we have both free press and fair trial" without adopting "stringent restrictions."

★ ★ ★

Blink, managing editor of the Wenatchee, Wash., Daily World, said this has been attained "through the cooperative approach spelled out in statements of principle urging restraint by both press and bar, statements that bar, bench and press can subscribe to in good conscience, knowing they're not bargaining away the public's right to know."

Walter B. Potter, chairman of the board of the National Newspaper Association, gave the group example of "unreasoned refusals" by law enforcement officers "to release facts—often information we believe Reardon committee members would agree should be made available."

NO INFORMATION

Potter, publisher of the Culpeper, Va., Star-Exponent, related, for instance, how police in Milpitas, Calif., "refused to release any information or admit any violence had been involved in the deaths of five members of a family."

"In fact," Potter said, "a woman had killed her husband and three children and then committed suicide. Officials, apparently confused by the demands for secrecy, failed to comprehend that not only was there no suspect in custody to be protected from publicity, but in fact the person responsible was dead."

★ ★ ★

A second hearing on the recommendations of the Reardon report will be held here Monday. There are to be presented in February to the midwinter meeting of the ABA's House of Delegates, the bar group's policy-making section.

OEO Expects Funds to Stay at Same Level

Officials of the Oakland County Office of Economic Opportunity say they expect to keep programs operating at the present level next year.

★ ★ ★

It was indicated to the more than 200 persons attending a Wednesday meeting that the OEO program will not receive funds beyond what is being received this year.

The OEO is operating in Oakland County on a budget of approximately $1 million.

In addition to a progress report on the work of the OEO, the meeting served as a sounding board for citizens involved in the many programs.

★ ★ ★

Luther Flanagan, deputy director of the OEO, said that a number of suggestions concerning present programs were reviewed by officials.

"The only criticism," said Flanagan, "was that there should be more programs."

Flanagan said that OEO officials are more optimistic about the programs being continued than they were a week ago.

The outlook was quite dismal following congressional hearings on possible cutbacks, Flanagan said.

"But the recent riots have made it apparent there is a need to continue the poverty programs," said Flanagan.

Man Charged After Stabbing in Saranac Bar

IONIA (AP) — Thomas W. Crump, 25, of Muncie, Ind., was held Thursday at the Ionia County jail on a charge of assault with intent to commit murder in the stabbing of a barmaid at nearby Saranac.

★ ★ ★

Crump was bound over to circuit court at his arraignment Wednesday before Justice Arthur Fox. He is held under $10,000 bond.

★ ★ ★

State Police said Crump was wanted at Albuquerque, N.M. in connection with a robbery and kidnaping at a Western Union office.

★ ★ ★

The injured barmaid, Mrs. Retha Morrow, 48, of near Saranac was in satisfactory condition at a hospital with 10 stab wounds in the chest, arms and legs.

Timber Sales Up

LANSING (AP) — Timber-cutting volumes and sales in Michigan forests during the last fiscal year rose to a record 210 million board feet of timber worth $1.08 million, reports the State Conservation Department. This was 10 million board feet and $80,000 above the previous high in 1965-66.

The world production of lemons today averages about 1.5 million long tons a year.

CBS 'Tourists' Film Red China

NEW YORK (AP) — A CBS news television crew has gone into Communist China as tourists and emerged with enough film footage for an hour-long documentary.

★ ★ ★

Correspondent Morley Safer, a Canadian, and John B. Peters, a British cameraman, posed as tourists to visit Peking, Shanghai, Canton, Sian and Yenan for three weeks.

★ ★ ★

Safer said the documentary will be shown Aug. 15.

The visit was part of a package tour arranged by a Paris travel agency. Safer said he was brought into a "revolutionary court" on one occasion in Shanghai and charged with "crimes against the people," but was released.

★ ★ ★

Because of the cultural revolution, he said, most museums were closed and he was able to visit factories and schools instead. "What more could a newsman ask?" he said.

DETROIT (AP) — Al Hargreaves has been named deputy director of the Wayne County Office of Economic Opportunity. He had been acting director.

Stand on Negro Arming Backed

NEWARK, N.J. (AP)—Charging that state police "acted like Nazi storm troopers" during Newark's riots, the head of the city's antipoverty agency has joined a colleague in advocating that Negroes arm themselves of self-defense.

Timothy Still, president of the United Community Corp., said Thursday, "I think that the philosophy of this country is that every man should be able to protect his home and family."

Still, a Negro, joined Willie Wright, a UCC director, in advocating that Negroes arm themselves.

The Office of Economic Opportunity, which funds UCC, had asked that Wright be suspended pending investigation of his statements.

"Willie and I have disagreed about many things, but I agree with him about that. I agree with him about Plainfield."

Wright had said he would shoot at state police and National Guardsmen who searched homes in riot-torn Plainfield recently for 46 stolen rifles. The searchers, acting under a declaration of emergency, did not have search warrants.

"I would not fight the National Guard because they have tanks out there, but I would sure try to get back at them some other way," Still said. "They went into people's homes out there and broke up furniture."

The UCC executive committee said Wright was not speaking for the UCC and would have to bear personal responsibility for his statements. The committee said only UCC's board of directors has the authority to suspend Wright.

Lamprey-Curb Funds Sought

WASHINGTON (AP) — An effort to restore $100,000 for a Lake Huron lamprey control program is under way in the Senate Rep. Philip E. Ruppe, R-Mich., said Thursday.

The House cut the lamprey control item to $957,000 from the administration-recommended $1,057,000 before sending the bill to the Senate.

Lamprey programs to poison the eel-like creatures which destroy trout and other game fish have succeeded in Lakes Michigan and Superior.

Canada already has appropriated $45,000 for its share of the Huron program, Ruppe said.

Gas Workshops

BIG RAPIDS (AP) — Workshops cosponsored by Ferris State College and the Michigan LP-Gas Association are scheduled Aug. 13-18 and Aug. 20-25 for liquified petroleum servicemen. Representatives of the industry are providing training equipment and material for the program.

Judy Casts Hypnotic Spell Over Her Palace Audiences

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Judy Garland, the well-known hypnotist, is now mesmerizing people at the Palace Theater.

Bert Lahr, while under Judy's hypnotic influence, stated to me, "Al Jolson was never a bigger hit than Judy was tonight."

WILSON

And actress Mimi Hines said, "I don't care about her voice—I don't care if her mouth opens and dust comes out—she's a legend that's living and I'm glad I was able to see and hear her."

Both these acute individuals failed to realize they were merely being hypnotized. I've covered the Judy Garland Cult for three years. It's at its best at the Palace. There's nothing like it in the nation. Judy is the greatest personality. Where else can you get two shows—Judy, and the audience.

You are sitting there enjoying the artistry and timing of this 95-pound shrimp in rust brown bell-bottom trousers with silver dust in her hair. She ends a song which you thought was very delightful. Suddenly you are almost shaken from your seat. From 20 to 30 people—not kids—but adults—leap up around you and start screaming "Bravo! Bravo!" From the balcony comes a thunderous roar, "We want Judy!" They've got Judy. What are they yelling about?

They are blowing kisses to Judy. One young man in the front row seems to be shaking at 500 miles an hour.

★ ★ ★

"I'm leaving here," says a friend near you. "This is either voodoo or a riot."

And the same thing happens after the next song. Strangely, Judy got her biggest applause when she forgot the lyrics of "Entertainment" and said so.

Tax Plan Roils Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional reaction to President Johnson's call for a 10 per cent income tax surcharge generally ranges from lukewarm to chilly, with few members except some Democratic leaders offering unqualified support.

Some other Democrats joined in the expected Republican opposition to the long-awaited tax hike request.

Chairman William Proxmire, D-Wis., of the Senate-House Economic Committee called it a blunder that would hamper business growth and thus generate little new revenue.

And Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee said only: "I'm uncommitted; committed to no one, one way or the other."

★ ★ ★

Mills, who ranks as perhaps the foremost tax expert in Congress, has remained noncommittal since Johnson first proposed a surcharge on personal and corporate income taxes last January. At that time Johnson urged a 6 per cent surtax.

REVISED SCHEDULE

But the Arkansas Democrat reviewed the ways and means committee's schedule to provide at least two weeks of hearings beginning Aug. 14.

See Related Stories, Pages A-2, B-11, D-5

The hearings will be interrupted Aug. 17 and 18 when the House is scheduled to consider Johnson's bill to increase Social Security benefits and taxes.

Almost to a man, members who discussed the proposals Johnson sent to Congress Thursday agreed that if a tax hike is enacted at all, it won't be by Oct. 1 — the date the President asked the surcharge on individual income taxes to start.

And veteran members of the ways and means committee said it never has been willing to make retroactive a tax increase on individuals. Johnson asked the matching 10 per cent increase on corporate income taxes be made retroactive to July 1.

LATER DATE LIKELY

A later date for both seemed likely, if there are to be increases, perhaps Oct. 1 for the corporate tax, the first of next year for the individual.

Johnson specified the surcharge would not apply across the board — some 16 million persons in the lowest taxpaying brackets would be exempt.

Thus a single person making no more than $1,900, a couple up to $3,600 or a family with two children up to $5,000 would have no surtax to pay.

But a $10,000 income typically would bear $174 more in taxes for a single person, $134 for a childless couple, $111 for a family of four. At $20,000 the increases would be $492, $348 and $316. All these figures assume standard deductions.

SOME SUGGESTIONS

There were were some suggestions taxpayers above the lowest brackets should have a portion of their income exempt from the surtax.

Other proposals were for an excess profits tax or a higher surtax on corporate than individual income.

Ways and Means committeeman Al Ullman, D-Ore., said he is pushing a 5 per cent individual, 10 per cent corporate formula.

And Republicans, as well as some Democrats, called for strictest economy to minimize or even avert any tax increase.

'A RARE VITALITY' — So said friends of Lt. Karl Richter of Holly, shot down and killed a week ago on his 198th mission over North Vietnam. Funeral service for the 24-year-old hero will be tomorrow morning in Holly, and burial with full military honors will be Monday at the U.S. Air Force Academy Cemetery, Colorado Springs, Colo.

Family Reminisces About Holly's Hero

"Oh I have slipped the surly bonds of earth
And danced the skies on laughter-silvered wings . . .
("High Flight" by John Gillespie Magee, Jr.)

By JEAN SAILE

There are tears and the heavy task of believing the unbelievable for the family of Air Force First Lt. Karl Richter, dead at age 24.

Touched by national fame as a Vietnam war ace, the young Holly hero died a week ago in the skies over North Vietnam aboard a rescue helicopter.

Yesterday his body lay in the Dryer Funeral Home at Holly, attended by two airmen of an honor guard.

More honor guardsmen were to come for the funeral at 10 a.m. tomorrow at St. Rita's Catholic Church there.

★ ★ ★

Some four miles away in the rambling frame home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ludwig Richter at 11610 Dixie, Holly Township, preparations were under way for the five days of ceremony which will culminate with his burial with full Air Force honors at the U.S. Air Force Academy, Colorado Springs, Colo.

HERO'S CHOICE

"There's my final resting place," Richter had earlier told his parents.

In the house it seemed unreal. Lt. Richter was everywhere — in photographs — in trophies — in framed Air Force commendations and certificates, and in the glass-enclosed Air Medal on the mantle.

The Distinguished Flying Cross, awarded last September when he became the youngest pilot ever to shoot down a MIG over Southeast Asia, was missing.

★ ★ ★

"Karl never sent it home," reported his mother whose pleasant face bore a hollow-eyed sadness.

MEMORIES ABOUND

But most of all there were memories.

Around the big kitchen table, strong black coffee primed the reminiscence of relatives gathered close in time of death.

Their memories provided a picture of a laughing-eyed, action-loving boy . . . not above mischief . . . always with a heart . . . someone with that rare personality that attracts people and happenings like a magnet.

Fire Damage in City Strife Is Estimated at $200,000

By MEL NEWMAN

Fire damage in last week's civil disturbance in Pontiac was estimated at $200,000, according to figures released today by city fire officials.

Fifty-four fires, all attributed to arsonists by Acting Chief Charles Marion, were recorded from 10 p.m. July 24 to 7 a.m. the following day, but one blaze alone was blamed for at least half the total damage.

The Versa Tube Corp., 92 Branch, which burned throughout the night, was described by officials as destroyed.

Marion said he estimates damage to the building and contents at Versa Tube was "right around $100,000."

The blaze broke out about 11 p.m. and tied up four engines and two ladder trucks until it went out of control.

OTHER HEAVY LOSSES

Marion said three other fires contributed heavily to the over-all damage figure.

Losses of $10,000 were estimated at both Harvey's Market, Osmun and Jessie, and Orchard Lake Furniture, 164 Orchard Lake, which was twice struck by arsonists during the disturbance, according to firemen.

A $7,000 loss was reportedly suffered at Figa's Market, Fisher and Motor.

Marion attributed the relatively low damage figures in most of the fires to rapid response by his department and continual patrolling by police.

'EXCELLENT JOB'

"Each department did an excellent job," he said.

Both personnel and equipment were stretched to the breaking point through the night.

Every piece of equipment available to the city was pressed into service, while some crews were shuttled to and from Detroit to relieve Pontiac firemen working in the riot zone there.

★ ★ ★

Through the remainder of the week, off-duty men were called on to work additional shifts, and Marion pointed out that not one man failed to report.

"This," he said, "was 100 per cent cooperation."

PROPOSED ADDED TAXES — President Johnson is shown yesterday as he approves a message to Congress calling for a 10 per cent surtax on individual and corporate incomes to help finance the Vietnam war. He also said he is authorizing an increase of 45,000 troops for Vietnam. With him are Treasury Secretary Henry Fowler and presidential aide Joseph Califano (left).

GM Hits UAW 'Cost of Living'

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors Corp. has served notice on the United Auto Workers that it wants changes in the cost-of-living formula in any new contract with the union.

The statement came yesterday when the company laid its 1967 bargaining demands on the negotiating table.

Since 1964 UAW members have gained some 18 cents in hourly wage increases under the cost-of-living allowance, which adds or subtracts a penny an hour quarterly for each .4 of a point movement in the Bureau of Labor Statistics consumer price index.

Walter P. Reuther, UAW president, has insisted there can be no tampering with the cost-of-living plan, and has incidated that any attempt to alter the plan could provoke a strike.

Louis G. Seaton, GM vice president for personnel, said yesterday the company will propose modifications of the formula, "as we did in 1961 and 1964." In neither year was the company successful.

Seaton said the formula "is a matter for collective bargaining, not a unilateral matter as Mr. Reuther apparently wants it to be."

Seaton said the quarterly adjustment "is pretty fast." He indicated that GM would like an annual adjustment and a maximum limit.

An apparent split in thinking in the union became evident yesterday over whether the union would strike to win some sort of profit sharing plan, one of the UAW's top demands.

Douglas A. Fraser, director of the union's Chrysler department, said Wednesday the union would not strike this year to win profit sharing.

Ernest Moran of UAW's GM department, said profit sharing "still is on the table" at General Motors and expressed the view that Fraser was speaking only for Chrysler.

"While 'equity sharing' (the union's term for profit sharing) may not be a strike-worthy issue at Chrysler, it will be at Ford," declared Ken Bannon, head of the union's Ford department.

Romney Talks in N.Y. Tonight

CHAUTAUQUA, N.Y. (UPI) — Michigan Gov. George Romney outlines his basic foreign policy views in a speech here today that ends a six-week moratorium on national politicking forced upon him by serious state problems.

"This is his resumption of exploratory efforts after a long delay, including four cancelations of out-of-state appearances," said Travis Cross, a personal assistant not on the state payroll.

Romney, Cross said, has been working on the Chautauqua "lecture" for more than six weeks. "It'll be a sketch of the global picture and where he thinks we're headed," Cross said.

Though Romney has not delivered a major speech on his foreign policy views within the public spotlight as a possible GOP nominee for the presidency, past speeches hint at what he'll say.

★ ★ ★

In a speech at Louisville, Ky., in February, Romney said, "America must develop the underlying framework for a new generation of foreign policy."

CONCEPTS OF BROTHERHOOD

For elaboration, Romney said, "It must place primary emphasis on sharing our principles of material progress and universal concepts of brotherhood, rather than primarily on guns, gadgets, and things for being the world's policeman."

Without mentioning President Johnson by name, Romney criticized current U.S. foreign policy for its "absence of worldwide goals and priorities."

Fair Features Sale

The best Thursday night in memory of county 4-H officials was almost marred by a cattle stampede.

About 5,000 persons flocked to the fairgrounds at Perry and Walton yesterday with total number of cars and carnival sales reported about 20 per cent over last year.

Featured last night was the livestock auction. Cofeatured was a fireworks display canceled from the previous night because of rain.

At 10 p.m., as the pigs were all sold and the steers being led to the sales ring —bang!

Related Pictures and Story, Page A-4

Confusion ensued as small 4-Hers were dragged about by their ponderous cattle, started the fireworks.

BEASTS QUIETED

However, in a few minutes the beasts were quieted by the youngsters using friendly pats and kindly words.

The loving youngsters rubbed the animals' hides and talked to them and the beasts became adjusted to the fireworks just as they had to the rest of the noise and excitement of the fair.

Biggest buyer of the childrens' products was Hoffman's Packing of Pontiac which took about 80 per cent of sales and also volunteered free dressing for any other buyers.

COLLEGE FUND BEEFED UP — Ralph Schultz of Holly displays his grand champion Angus to auction buyers at the 4-H Fair last night. Ralph got $1 a pound for the 952-pound prize animal. He said he'll use the money for college. The buyer is the Pontiac Optimist Club, which plans to hold a raffle for the steer, with proceeds to go to charity.

Nice Weekend Is Forecast

A pleasant weekend is in store for Pontiac area residents as the U.S. Weather Bureau forecasts plenty of sunshine.

Sunny skies dotted occasionally with a few clouds is the outlook for all of Michigan through tomorrow. There's a chance of showers Sunday in Upper Michigan.

Here is the official day-by-day Weather Bureau report for Pontiac:

Higher Draft, War Budget Hike Likely

WASHINGTON (AP) — Higher draft calls and a possible $2-billion supplemental defense budget request are likely as a result of President Johnson's ordered troop increase for Vietnam, Pentagon sources say.

The President announced Thursday that 45,000 to 50,000 more men will be deployed to the war zone in response to recommendations of top defense and military officials.

* * *

At the same time, he said, there is a possibility that because of increased military spending, defense expenditures for fiscal 1968 may exceed the $73 billion budget by up to $4 billion.

Exactly how high draft calls will go now is being determined in a Pentagon study of what the newly authorized 525,000-man level for Vietnam next summer will do to over-all U.S. military strength.

ANNOUNCED DRAFT

Announced draft calls for the five months extending through September have risen to an average of about 23,000 a month. This reflects, in part, the Pentagon's move to meet its 1966-approved Vietnam manpower ceiling of 480,000.

Sources said draft calls during the last quarter of this year likely will exceed 35,000 a month.

* * *

As for spending, sources say Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara believes $2 billion in planned spending can be trimmed from the defense budget to offset partially the possible $4-billion overrun mentioned by the President.

The $2 billion difference would have to be covered by a supplemental budget request early next year, sources said.

1967 SUPPLEMENT

The administration also had to get a $12-billion defense supplement for fiscal 1967, but the 1968 budget was supposed to cover all anticipated war spending as well as meet other military needs.

In his tax message, Johnson warned "the cost of conflict can never be precisely estimated nor fully foreseen."

* * *

"Thus," he added, "the possibility remains, defense spending for fiscal 1968, based on present plans, may exceed the January 1967 budget by up to $4 billion."

The President said McNamara had been ordered to "conduct a searching review of all defense expenditures and to withhold all such expenditures that are not now essential for national security."

AIRCRAFT CUTS

Defense officials already are in the process of cutting back on fighter aircraft purchases. They say this is possible because of a lower-than-expected rate of looses over North Vietnam.

The level of U.S. forces in Vietnam now stands officially at 454,000 after a 7,000-man "statistical adjustment" by the Pentagon Thursday.

* * *

The Pentagon said it no longer will count as part of the U.S. strength the large numbers of "transients" — mainly en route replacements and departing personnel — which always are in the manpower pipeline.

In addition to the 454,000 are 35,000 men in Thailand and 40,000 sailors in offshore vessels contributing to the war effort. This war force compares with the 472,800 men who served in and near Korea at the peak of that conflict.

MAINLY ARMY

The Pentagon said most of the 45,000 new troops will be Army. Sources said there will also be a certain number of Air Force and Navy units, mainly combat support elements.

No Reserve callup is expected, the Pentagon said.

Ex-General Quits Dem Unit in Opposition to Viet Policy

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Retired Lt. Gen. James M. Gavin, a former U.S. ambassador to France, has resigned from the Massachusetts Democratic Advisory Council because "I strongly oppose the Vietnam involvement and so I simply cannot support President Johnson for reelection in 1968."

The council of leading business and professional people was created in January to advise Democratic state legislators on policy and programs.

* * *

"Obviously anyone on that council should be ready to support President Johnson," Gavin said in an interview Thursday night.

Gavin, a former top planner at the Pentagon, said, "Vietnam is the hard-core problem. But there is much more to it."

"Obviously our domestic programs are grossly underfunded —especially in the poverty area," he said. "And I look on this as a consequence of the Vietnam war, of the money we're pouring in there."

Gavin said he sent his resignation by letter to state Democratic Chairman Lester Hyman. He said he listed "business pressures" as his official reason.

* * *

Gavin, 60, is chief executive officer of Arthur D. Little, Inc., a research firm in Cambridge. He retired from the Army in 1958 and was appointed ambassador to France in 1961 by the late President John F. Kennedy.

* * *

First word of the resignation was published by the Boston Globe in a copyright article in Friday morning editions.

APPOINTED TO COUNCIL

Gavin was one of 16 persons appointed to the council, which was organized at urging of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.

Gavin said he discussed the resignation with Kennedy before sending the letter to Hyman.

Gavin has been an outspoken critic of America's Vietnam policies since early 1966 when he appeared before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

"My decision to resign is consistent with what I have been saying and writing for almost two years," he said.

Avon Hospital Dedication Set

Crittenton Ceremonies Slated for Tomorrow

The Rochester Branch, Crittenton General Hospital, will be dedicated in ceremonies at 2 p.m. tomorrow.

Located at 1201 W. University Drive, Avon Township, on land donated by Howard L. McGregor Jr., the hospital is designed as a 207-bed facility.

First patients will be accepted Aug. 15, according to hospital spokesmen.

The dedication Saturday will feature talks by A. Riley Allen, administrator, and Ormond S. Wessels of Birmingham, president of the Crittenton Board of Trustees.

A public open house will follow from 2 to 5 p.m. Sunday.

Said to cost in excess of $6 million, the hospital will have a combined medical - osteopathic staff of some 300 doctors, including those from the Detroit Crittenton unit. Nursing personnel number 95 for the opening weeks.

The hospital was the recipient of a Hill-Burton Grant from the federal government for $1,950,000. Local contributions plus a $2-million mortgage have largely made up the balance, said hospital officials.

The facility is expected to serve a large part of the eastern Oakland County area.

New Volunteer Bureau Serves County Agencies

BIRMINGHAM — "There is still a great need for volunteers," said Mrs. Geraldine Clemmons, director of the newly formed Central Volunteer Bureau for Oakland County.

* * *

The agency coordinates efforts of various agencies to obtain volunteer help and at the same time directs individuals to where they might best serve.

The bureau is an effect of the United Community Services of Metropolitan Detroit, cosponsored by the Junior League of Birmingham.

The program has gained wide acceptance in the Detroit area and the Oakland County center was recently established to carry on a similar effort.

* * *

"The response has been wonderful so far, but a lot of people still don't know we are here," said Mrs. Clemmons.

"Helping others is such a rewarding experience and I'm sure many more from this area would be glad to help out," she said.

Volunteers are asked to act in various capacities in care of crippled children, the mentally ill and the elderly.

"Volunteers can perform both simple and extremely complicated tasks," Mrs. Clemmons explained.

* * *

In the more complex area is a recent development in the treatment of the mentally ill—community involvement.

"We need people who would be willing, for instance, to take a person from a hospital out shopping or to a movie . . . or just be a friend.

"Someone with a little training could be used to start group conversations . . . it's so important to bring these people out of themselves," Mrs. Clemmons said.

Volunteers are also requested for drivers — someone with a car who could take a handicapped person to medical appointments or on a personal business trip.

"Without volunteer help, many of our community programs would collapse," she said.

Judge Charges Ferndale Man

Refused to Answer Mafia Role Question

A Ferndale man was cited for contempt of court yesterday by Oakland County grand juror James S. Thorburn for refusing to answer a question linking him to an alleged Mafia leader.

It was the first indication that the grand jury may be investigating organized crime.

John Johns, 53, of 818 Pinecrest told Jerome K. Barry, special prosecutor to the grand jury, that he would not answer questions because he already is under a federal grand jury subpoena, and that he wasn't represented by counsel.

He said that his attorney, Frank McLean of Detroit, is out of town.

* * *

The information was made public when the transcript of the proceedings was filed with the county clerk's office.

ATTACHED TO NOTICE

The testimony was attached to a notice of a show cause hearing scheduled for Tuesday before Circuit Judge Farrell E. Roberts.

It will be determined at that time if Johns should be held in contempt and subject to a fine and a jail term.

Johns refused to tell Barry where he was employed or answer the question, "Are you a bag (collection) man for Tony Giacalone?"

* * *

Giacalone was once described by former Detroit Police Commissioner George Edwards, now a federal district appeals judge, as a leader of the Mafia.

Johns was released on $10,000 bond pending his show cause hearing.

N. Koreans in S. Viet, Says U.S. Intelligence

SAIGON (UPI) — U.S. intelligence reports say Communist North Koreans have joined guerrilla forces in South Vietnam and soon may take an active part in the war, military sources said today.

* * *

According to the military men, a key U.S. Central Intelligence Agency operative in the northern mountain jungles is the main source of reports on the Koreans. He reported seeing the agent estimated the force he saw numbered about 150 to 160 men. Other intelligence reports indicated the North Koreans may be infiltrating an entire battalion, up to 400 men.

They probably will be used as advisers to Vietcong units, the reports said.

* * *

The reports pinpointed the North Koreans' location as the rugged Communist - controlled mountains near the boundary of Quang Ngai and Quang Tin provinces 325 miles north of Saigon.

40,000 TROOPS

South Korea has sent 40,000 troops to join anti-Communist forces in this country.

At Da Nang, the U.S. Marine bastion that supervises allied action in the area, spokesmen said they had received an unconfirmed report of North Koreans being in the area. Military officials in the area of the report were acting on the assumption it is true.

The CIA agent reported he was in a Montagnard tribal village one night when the Koreans came, escorted by Vietcong.

* * *

He said the villagers were forced to form a torchlight welcome for the Communists.

BY OCTOBER

Vietcong told the villages the new arrivals "would join the (Vietcong) National Liberation Front in September or October."

Americans are expected to purchase nine million cars in the 1968 model year.

Dixie Dem Calls for Prosecution of Carmichael

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Georgia Democrat yesterday introduced a resolution to place Congress on record in favor of prosecuting black power advocate Stokely Carmichael for sedition.

* * *

Rep. Maston O'Neal said the former national chairman of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee was guilty of seditious remarks in anti-American statements he made at a Communist meeting in Havana.

* * *

Sen. Eugene McCarthy, D-Minn., said Carmichael's tirades against President Johnson, Prime Minister Harold Wilson of Britain and others "run far beyond the reasonable limits of freedom of speech."

* * *

The State Department has announced it will cancel Carmichael's passport, if he returns to the United States, for unauthorized travel to a Communist nation. But the Justice Department denied reports it plans to prosecute the black power militant.

NATIONAL WEATHER — Showers are forecast for the southern Plateau region, the lower Ohio and Tennessee valleys, the Northeast and Arkansas tonight. It will be warmer over the northern Plains and upper Mississippi Valley and through the Great Lakes region, Ohio Valley and mid-Mississippi Valley.

'Hate' Charge May Cut Off Poverty Funds

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — A Negro official's exclusion of whites from a summer antipoverty project which Senate investigators were told teaches "hatred of the white race" may result in loss of federal and local funds, the local director says.

"At the very least, there will be an investigation," said the Rev. J. Paschal Davis, white Episcopal minister who heads Nashville's Metropolitan Action Commission, the local agency through which the Office of Economic Opportunity channels federal antipoverty funds.

* * *

Davis reacted to the Senate testimony and to the response of Fred Brooks, the project director and chairman of Nashville's Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee.

"We teach the historical fact that whites came to Africa and viciously enslaved many of the great African people," said Brooks, 20. "If the history of their Negroes' past leads them to hate white people, that's not our responsibility."

City Nearer Buying Old Housing Project

Mayor William H. Taylor Jr. expressed optimism today that the city may be able to obtain the Crystal Beach Housing Project.

* * *

The owners of the 72-unit development indicated to the mayor at a private meeting last night that they would be willing to sell the property to the city.

Taylor said that he was not at liberty to reveal details of the meeting at this time, but added that a "mutual understanding" was reached.

"There are problems that first must be overcome," said Taylor, "and the owners then plan to submit a proposal in writing to the city."

* * *

The housing development, located on 7½ acres in the southwest section of the city, has frequently been criticized because of its condition.

DISTURBANCES

The problem came to a head last week following the civil disturbance in the city when a number of young Negroes demanded that some prefabricated housing be erected to replace the Crystal Beach development.

Taylor said, however, that the city has been negotiating with the owners for some time regarding the purchase, and not since the demands were made.

The project was first developed by the federal government during World War II and later sold to seven Detroiters.

* * *

Earlier in the day, Taylor met with a number of Negro youths for the second time in a week to review problems brought to the city's attention.

MAIN POINTS

"We further discussed their three main points and what had been done and then scheduled another meeting for 1 p.m. Aug. 10," Taylor said.

One condition which Taylor said he had no control over was the removal of State Rep. Arthur J. Law's grocery store at 200 Earlmoor from the neighborhood.

Law allegedly shot and killed a teen-ager who reportedly attempted to break into the store during the violence July 24-25.

* * *

The Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce is, however, attempting to make arrangements for Law to sell the property if he is agreeable.

The best evidence of the origin of a cultivated plant is to find the place where ancestral forms still grow wild. In this manner, it was found that watermelons grow wild in central Africa.

Here's LBJ Tax Hike Package in Brief

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here's a breakdown of the tax hike package sent to Congress Thursday by President Johnson:

Individual Income Taxes—A 10-per cent surcharge effective Oct. 1 of this year. This would mean a person who currently would pay $500 in income taxes would have to pay $550 over the course of a full year—or $512.50 this year, since the surcharge would be in effect only the final quarter. Unaffected would be some 16 million persons in the lowest income brackets.

* * *

Corporate Income Taxes — A 10-per cent surtax effective last July 1. Speed up corporate tax collections.

Automobile Taxes — Continue the 7 per cent manufacturer's excise tax on autos to July 1, 1969. It was scheduled to drop to 2 per cent next April 1 and to 1 per cent on Jan. 1, 1969. Under the proposal it wouldn't dip to 1 per cent until Jan. 1, 1970.

Telephone Excise Taxes—Postpone until July 1, 1969, the cut in telephone excise taxes from 10 per cent to 1 per cent. It was scheduled for April 1. Postpone for one year the scheduled elimination of the tax.

Anticipated Results—A $6.3-billion increase in income tax revenues for the fiscal year ending next June 31; excise tax postponements would salvage $300 million otherwise lost; and the corporate speedup will net $800 million.

Sliding-Scale Tuition Stirs Citizen Protests

Citizen groups are investigating the possibility of law suits against Michigan State and Oakland universities' sliding scale tuition plan, an MSU trustee revealed today.

"I have talked to people so concerned with the ability-to-pay plan that they are willing to contribute money to fight it in the courts," said Trustee Kenneth W. Thompson of Bloomfield Hills.

"And I, for one, will help them fight it."

Thompson was one of three Republican trustees to vote against the tuition plan, two weeks ago. C. Allen Harland of Bloomfield Hills was one of five Democratic trustees to push it through.

* * *

CUTS THREATENED

House action, however, is not binding on the trustees. But there were threats of budget cuts next year if the trustees do not back off on the plan, believed to be the nation's first.

Under the novel tuition plan, Michigan undergraduates would be charged a yearly tuition equal to 3 per cent of his parents' gross income if they make between $11,800 and $16,700.

Below an income of $11,800, students would pay $354 a year and above $16,700, a maximum of $501 yearly.

* * *

Republican Floor Leader William P. Hampton of Bloomfield Hills said Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley is expected to rule soon on whether it is legal for MSU and OU to force students to divulge their families' incomes.

Criticizing the gross-income-based plan as not taking into consideration the number of children in a family, Hampton remarked:

"I think this thing they've come up with is just about as ridiculous as any thing I've ever seen come down the pike."

"It is a big mess," commented Thompson. "I don't know what's going to happen, but I can assure you that it will be discussed at our next board meeting in September."

* * *

Trustees and legislators generally seem to be split on the issue by party lines — Democrats for the sliding scale and Republicans against it.

Reports on 'Vanishing Americans'

This is the time of year when most Americans disappear. But it's an annual disappearing act called summer vacation. These "missing persons" can be counted on to return voluntarily—well, almost.

However, it is interesting to note that thousands disappear and don't return voluntarily each year. One firm alone, Tracers Company of America, Inc., processed 43,680 missing persons cases last year. What kind of people are "missing persons?" All kinds, a company survey reports.

Most missing persons (92 of every 100) settle in a major metropolitan city. Teen-agers take off by the thousands — just prior to final exams. Most return within a week.

People raised in orphanages, whether or not they're adopted, rarely give up the search for their true parents.

The study also shows that wandering wives are a real rarity. For every 1,000 missing husbands, there are only 2 missing wives. Of all husbands who fold their tents and steal away into the night, 83 per cent are in the 40 to 50 year age bracket.

★ ★ ★

Contrary to popular opinion, it is very seldom that a husband does his wandering act with another woman. Also, mothers-in-law are not the primary factors in marriage split-ups. Money is usually the prime cause.

And, for what it's worth, less than 1 per cent of all bigamists are ever prosecuted, according to the survey.

Have People and the Times Gotten Out of Kilter?

Do you ever have the feeling that this kooky old world is getting kookier?

Do you find it's more and more unnatural to do anything naturally? That if you are inclined to let nature take its course, you are not only regarded as an oddball, but it may be illegal?

We take pills to keep us awake and to put us to sleep, to slow us down and to speed us up.

We buy things we don't need with money we don't have to impress people we don't like. And when we can't meet the payments, we merely arrange for one friendly, gigantic, impossible loan to get rid of the friendly, little loans.

Banks which used to lecture us sternly on the folly of not living within our income now plead with us to live it up on borrowed money.

We take vacation trips to rest up from our labors and come back so pooped we have to rest up doing what had made us so tired we had to have a vacation.

★ ★ ★

Thousands of people, including kids, are going into mental orbit by taking hallucinatory drugs. And at least one college professor recommends such excursions — known to the trade as "psychedelic field trips" — because he believes they permit a "better understanding of mythology and culture."

Take these items one by one and you can shrug them off or perhaps accept them. But lump them together and you have to wonder what's going on and where it will end.

★ ★ ★

It would be fun to know, wouldn't it? Or would it?

Foggy Words Emanate From Foggy Bottom

What's new in Washington?

Well, here's a hot flash from the capital:

"Action-orientated orchestration of innovative inputs, generated by escalation of meaningful indigenous decision-making dialogue, focusing on multilinked problem-complexes, can maximize the vital thrust toward a non-alienated and viable urban infra-structure."

Any questions?

If, perchance, you wish to know more about this fascinating subject, write to the U. S. Department of Housing and Urban Development—known to its intimates as plain old HUD.

Some bright young man in HUD —maybe the very one who knocked out this very message — will sadly shake his action-oriented head, mourn the low level of public intelligence, and wonder what a guy has to do to make himself understood these days.

Three Men Symbolize Negro Struggle

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON—Three men symbolize the struggle for the mind and the progress of the American Negro. All three are Negroes: Clarence Mitchell, Stokely Carmichael and H. Rap Brown.

MARLOW

Mitchell has worked almost his whole adult life for justice and peaceful solution through law and order for Negroes. Carmichael and Brown are apostles of violence.

Three recent statements by these men illuminate not only the different roads they have chosen to follow—and the kind of appeal they make to the Negro mind — but the choice Negroes have open to them.

"The haters, both white and nonwhite," Mitchell said Wednesday night in a talk in Atlanta, "are now operating on the same wave-length. They both want to resegregate the country."

★ ★ ★

"They are a small minority, but they are a dangerous minority. They are dangerous because some of them are reckless enough to carry out wild schemes of destruction."

In a Cuban news conference, Carmichael said: "One good thing about the Vietnam war (he never served in it since he was never drafted) is that the United States has taught us how to kill."

He called for Negro guerrilla uprisings in this country.

Police recorded a speech Brown made in Cambridge, Md., immediately before the riot July 24. In part it said:

"I mean, don't be trying to love that hunky white man to death; shoot him to death, 'cause that's what he's out to do to you. Do to him what he would like to do to you, but do it to him first."

Mitchell is 57 but he has been working for the advancement of Negroes for 30 years, which is longer than Brown, 23, and Carmichael, 26, have been alive.

WORKS FOR NEGRO

As NAACP's Washington representative, he works with senators and representatives on bills affecting Negroes, goes to committee hearings to testify or listen, or to see Justice Department lawyers, or to the White House, or to various meetings, and then on weekends has to fly around the country to attend meetings.

This has been his life 22 years, day in and out. He is not doing it for money. The NAACP is not a place to get rich.

It was the NAACP which, after years of preliminary test cases leading up to the big one, got the Supreme Court in 1954 to outlaw segregation as unconstitutional. This cut the barrier to Negro progress.

★ ★ ★

It was this decision which made it possible for Carmichael and Brown to assert themselves although they look upon the NAACP people as a bunch of outdated Uncle Toms.

LEFT SCHOOL

Brown, who had a good scholastic record but didn't finish college, is from Louisiana. He left school to work in the civil rights drive in Mississippi.

Carmichael, a citizen although born in the West Indies, finished college. He, too, got his early training in the civil rights drive in Mississippi. Last year he authored the phrase "Black Power," but he hemmed and hawed about admitting he advocated violence. Not any more — and now he is said to command fees of $1,000 or more for some of his appearances.

David Lawrence Says:

LBJ Ignoring Inflation Realities

WASHINGTON — The Johnson administration is still not facing up to the fact that "butter and guns" during a war are impractical and can only result in a foundering economy.

LAWRENCE

The President's message, proposing a surcharge of 10 per cent on the taxes on individuals and corporations together with some other technical devices to increase revenues, does not go to the heart of the problem of inflation.

Usually during a war, not only is an excess-profits tax imposed, but wage-and-price controls as well.

The President has suggested cuts in certain expenditures, yet the total budget seems likely to go soaring upwards just the same.

The message sets forth a policy of trying "to provide the fairest and least disruptive means of sustaining — without inflation — America's unprecedented period of uninterrupted prosperity."

★ ★ ★

The current inflation, however, is already noticeable as prices have been steadily rising, with higher wages being demanded at the same time.

CONGRESSMEN SKEPTICAL

The President is promising that spending will be reduced, but members of Congress in both parties are skeptical about such a result.

The tax bill will not be passed until a little later in the present session of Congress when there is a clearer idea of just what the total federal budget is going to be.

It seems certain, however, that there will be a tax increase, as this will be regarded by members of both parties as the lesser of two evils. There is a hesitancy, for instance, to pass wage-and-price-control legislation or to impose an excess-profits tax.

★ ★ ★

No plan that raises taxes is, to be sure, popular, though more harm is done by handling tax problems on the basis of what is politically advantageous or disadvantageous than by putting into effect a policy that will preserve some kind of economic equilibrum.

OBVIOUSLY DIFFICULT

It is obviously difficult for an administration which faces a presidential - election campaign within the next 12 months to suspend those domestic expenditures which mean votes in various areas of the country.

So the new tax proposal and the size of the budget are designed to interfere as little as possible with the flow of government funds into the economy.

★ ★ ★

The tax measure will mean a relatively small diversion of private funds into the treasury. The high rate of government spending will continue, and if "inflation" can ever be called "prosperity," then the two terms will coincide at least until after the 1968 election.

★ ★ ★

Eventually there will have to be a day of reckoning, because the current fiscal policy is based largely on political expediency.

Bob Considine Says:

Care, Feeding of JBJ Jet Is Around-the-Clock Job

NEW YORK — The huge wall map in Gen. Howell Estes's control center at Scott Air Force Base, Ill., home of the Military Airlift Command, keeps constant tabs on the location and condition of the most famous airplane in the world: Air Force One.

CONSIDINE

The care and feeding of President Johnson's big Boeing is one of the myriad duties assigned to M.A.C. It is an around-the-clock job in the case of that particular plane, but the same is true of every other aircraft in the White House hangar, so to speak.

The White House fleet, officially known as M.A.C.'s 89th Military Airlift Wing (Special Missions) is based at Andrews Air Force Base, in nearby Maryland.

Whatever plane or chopper the President happens to be in is designated Air Force One, for communication and clearance purposes.

★ ★ ★

Be it the familiar intercontinental Boeing with its tons of hot-line facilities, or the zippy little Lockheed "Executive" that sometimes flies LBJ to his Texas ranch, the President must be able to be reached in split seconds.

Whatever the means of flight, he is accompanied by a military aide who carries with him the codes which would be needed to launch a catastrophic retaliation raid in the event of an attack on the United States.

On M.A.C.'s big board, the President's Boeing is referred to as VC-137C, No. 26,000. The No. 26,000 is used for other special mission planes, whenever the President is on board.

LBJ is aboard only a small fraction of the time the spit-and-polish Boeing is in service. It is put through its paces almost daily.

★ ★ ★

Its crew, commanded by Col. James U. Cross, who flew Mr. Johnson over much of the world during his time as vice president, tests the big ship repeatedly to prove, over and over again, that it can get off the ground safely even though it blows an engine on takeoff, and land with an engine or two "out."

★ ★ ★

It has never had to face such emergencies, a tribute to its maintenance crew.

Commends Police Work During Recent Disorder

During the civil disorder last week my family and I had to stand guard at our grocery and liquor establishment. It is a shame it had to come to this but we had no choice.

★ ★ ★

I observed this about our police departments: all curfew violators were stopped and checked carefully; all buildings were constantly checked for looting and superficial damages; beefed-up road patrols were on duty around the clock with emphasis during the curfew hours.

★ ★ ★

I can't say what a fine job these fellows did. I commend all the police departments involved for a superb job. I believe the best thanks the people of Oakland County can give is our contined support and cooperation.

Can't anyone be forced to post a "use at your own risk" sign in the alley behind Three Sisters Market and Holden Red Stamp Store on West Huron? A steep dip causes damage to bumpers. The City will not be responsible for the damage and the alley will not be repaired unless the stores help.

'Let's Eliminate Corruption from Politics'

I say amen to Romney's fine article in The Pontiac Press. It's a shame that our President uses the costly destruction of riots and homeless people to put a big feather in his cap and to step on Romney. LBJ can take his "let's all go to church and pray for peace." My answer to him is let's take this corruption out of politics so citizens can feel it is something to pray for. We will always have destruction as long as we have this kind of leadership.

Question and Answer

I never use the stuff, but could you tell me how many tons of instant coffee the American people consume a year? Just curious.

MRS. FOBERT GIRARDELLA

REPLY

According to the Pan-American Coffee Bureau in New York, 88,500 tons of instant coffee were consumed in the U.S. in 1966. Of that quantity, 79.4% was used in the home, 15.8% at work or eating place and 4.8% was used in the manufacture of syrups, flavors, confections, etc.

Wry Amusement

Daily Oklahoman

Since the French government is always lecturing other nations about spending more than they take in, there is wry amusement in the speculation that this year France will have little more than a standoff. It has had favorable balances since 1959.

★ ★ ★

One reason is that foreign visitors to France now spend less and make shorter visits. High prices are one factor and another is treatment given them by service personnel and shopkeepers.

This is an old story to many Americans who, like many other peoples, put France high on the priority list of places to visit.

If French people who have now become tourists themselves, do spend the $100 million more outside their country than visitors to France spend, as the Wall Street Journal speculates, this is an ironic twist. It may put a damper on French withdrawal of U. S. gold. That would be a beneficial reaction to our own balance of payments situation.

★ ★ ★

With all its tourist attractions and long-held position as a world attraction, if tourism is falling down in France the basic reason is the attitude of French people, and their constantly outstretched hands.

Since the United States seeks to encourage tourists from abroad, and all its individual states act the same way, there is a lesson in the French situation that could well apply here.

Basic to any successful tourist program is courteous treatment. That has more to do with pleasant visits than prices although restraint is needed, too.

Hard Lesson

Richmond News Leader

If the American Treasury has not learned how to play the money war game, the Chinese Communists, of all people, have. The Chinese, it is reported, have just given America's supposedly capitalistic government a textbook lesson in how markets work — and at our expense.

★ ★ ★

Although Red China has bided her time militarily as far as the Vietnam war is concerned, she has been betting cash against us financially. In effect, Red China has wagered that if the United States overextended itself in Vietnam, the dollar would fall in value and, correspondingly, the price of gold would rise. So Red China has been buying gold.

In view of America's unsatisfactory balance-of-payments deficit and the potential $29-billion budget deficit in the coming fiscal year, confidence in the dollar abroad has declined. And the price of gold, which largely is based on dollar confidence, has soared.

★ ★ ★

The official Washington price of gold is $35 an ounce. But the new wave of gold hoarding has driven the black market price in Hong Kong and Macao up to $80 an ounce. Consequently, Red China has chartered seven Boeing jets in London to airlift $150 million worth of her gold holdings out to Hong Kong, where the gold will bring twice the price. Then the Chicoms will turn around and buy more gold on the London exchange with the dollars they get for their gold in Hong Kong.

That is one way international markets can work. How ironic it is to have the lesson taught by Communists.

Faithful Ever Since

Sixteen Years Make Up for Error

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Here is my problem: A young woman who lived across the hall from my husband and me came over for coffee. I asked my husband to go to the doughnut shop for something to go with coffee. This neighbor asked him if she could go along for the ride. (Two blocks away).

ABBY

Coffee was made, and the time passed. I was going out of my mind wondering what had happened to them. If they'd had a smash-up I would have heard the ambulance.

Two hours later they came back. He had lipstick on his mouth, and her blouse was all wrinkled up. They said they had "car trouble." (They forgot the doughnuts.) She went home in a hurry, and my husband said the lipstick must have got on him when he took a few drags of her cigaret. Later he admitted they kissed a few times, but he said, "What can a guy do when a woman falls all over him?"

Abby ,I am heartsick. This happened 16 years ago, and I can't forget it. He's been a good husband, father, and grandfather. We've moved four times since then, but I'm still tormented. Do you think he was unfaithful? TORMENTED

DEAR TORMENTED: Your husband's "unfaithfulness" probably began and ended with a few kisses and a lot of conversation. You can forget by not dwelling on it. And that shouldn't be too difficult after 16 years of good married life.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have two pre-school children, and when we need a sitter we ask our neighbor's teenage son.

Lately we have noticed the smell of cigaret smoke in our house when we come home. We are sure this boy has been smoking without his parents' permission or knowledge.

What should we do? Should we tell his folks, or just mind our own business? We hate to see a boy of his age take up smoking and get the habit. We also hate to lose the services of a handy sitter, which is probably what would happen if we told his folks and they cracked down on him.

CONFUSED

DEAR CONFUSED: Tell the boy you've been getting his smoke signals, and unless he is permitted to smoke in his own home, you don't want him smoking in yours.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: My daughter and I are planning her wedding. She telephoned a dear friend (I'll call her Myrtle) who lives in another city, and asked her to be maid of honor. Myrtle accepted and was invited to come for a visit and make further plans.

We hadn't seen Myrtle in a year, and when we saw her we were both flabbergasted. She had lost her lovely figure and looked like a blimp. (She must have gained 50 pounds!)

All day yesterday we shopped for a gown that would correspond with those the other attendants were wearing, but we couldn't find a thing to fit Myrtle.

We hate to hurt her feelings, but the lovely wedding we have dreamed of will be ruined if we let Myrtle be the maid of honor. Is there some gracious way we can get out of this?

BRIDE'S MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: I know of no "gracious" way to tell a friend that you've changed your mind because she's changed her figure.

She's Tired--Wants to End Role

By ELIZABETH L. POST

Dear Mrs. Post: Five years ago my parents-in-law came to live with us. Before that they had their own house and whenever a special occasion arose, the family would all gather at their house to celebrate.

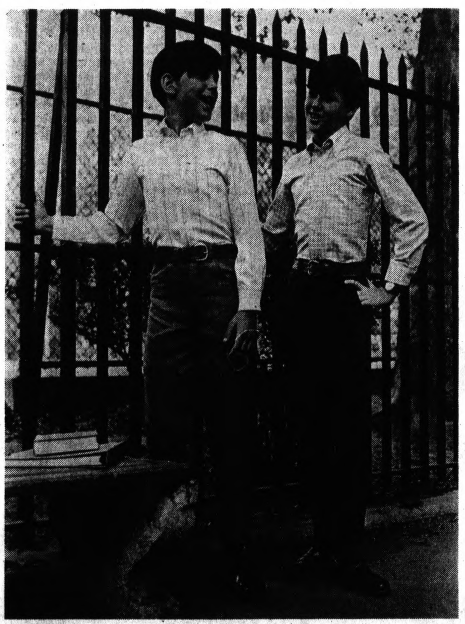
Now that they are living here, they all come to our house instead. I'm getting fed up with it. The family gets larger and larger each year and I don't feel up to all this extra work that these get-togethers entail.

Mother and Dad will soon celebrate another anniversary and I'm sure they're all planning to come here. How can I tactfully put an end to this without causing a family feud? — Mrs. R. C.

Dear Mrs. R. C.: Have your husband explain to his brothers and sisters how much extra work these family celebrations mean to you and that you are just not up to it, and ask if they won't take turns having them at their houses.

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it correct to wear a black dress to a wedding reception? I am wearing a green suit to the church. The reception follows later in the evening and I had planned to change to a black dress. — Donna

Dear Donna: Unrelieved black is not appropriate for a wedding. It is a gay and happy occasion, and the color of your dress should reflect that atmosphere.



A preference for easy-care sports coordinates such as these by Mazon is shared by young fry and high school boys alike. Because of the fabrics of Eastman Kodel polyester and cotton, they can be washed and dried with ease, with little or no ironing required. Shirts and slacks are color coordinated for an adaptable wardrobe . . . for school and extra curricular activities.

The fall school boy finds the right formula for looking casual and well-dressed at the same time. Juvenile's three-button sports jacket has a snappy paisley lining and matching pocket kerchief. Besides looking sharp, it requires little care because the fabric is Cone durable press corduroy of Eastman Kodel polyester and cotton.

Symphony, Chorus, Soloists Excel in Dramatic Works

By RICHARD MORSE

Thursday evening, at the Meadow Brook Music Festival, an appreciative audience was treated to the combined sounds of the Meadow Brook School of Music Chorus, the Detroit Symphony Orchestra and six soloists.

The program opened with the Mass in D Minor, the ("Lord Nelson Mass") by Joseph Haydn. This great work is considered to be one of Haydn's finest.

It was influenced by the Napoleonic wars during its composition although it was supposedly written for his patron, the Second Prince Esterhazy, for his daughter the Princess Hermangild.

★ ★ ★

Haydn kept a chart of Lord Nelson's progress as the English Admiral's fleet pursued and annihilated the French fleet.

The musical scene is set with a dramatic Kyrie. This was done with a magnificent blend of orchestra and chorus by Robert Shaw, the guest conductor.

The work progressed through the usual form of Gloria, Credo, Sanctus, Benedictus and Agnus Dei.

SOLOISTS

Throughout, the soprano voice of Janice Harsanyi showed great power, yet contained a floating quality which brought out the dramatic feeling and beautiful line as required by the composer.

Florence Kopleff, contralto, although traditionally vocally limited by the forms of the music, did a fine job with her velvety warm voice. The outstanding support of tenor John McCollum and Thomas Paul contributed greatly to the composition.

The beautifully trained chorus, under the sensitive direction of Robert Shaw, sang superbly regardless of the demands made upon them.

★ ★ ★

The second and closing work of the evening was "Oedipus Rex," and opera-oratorio in two acts by Igor Stravinsky.

This is a musical dramatization of Sophocles' "Oedipus Rex," using a Latin text.

It was first performed as an oratorio without staging or scenery with Stravinsky himself conducting. Later it was more successfully produced as an opera.

The score calls for a narrator (done beautifully by Robert Shaw in addition to his conducting duties); a tenor Oedipus (John McCollum); a mezzo Jocasta (Florence Kopleff); bass-baritone Creon (Yi Kwei Sze); bass Tiresias Thomas Paul); tenor Shepherd (Jon Humphrey); bass-baritone Messenger again Yi Kwei Sze).

The Meadow Brook performance seemed to create the necessary tension and conflict called for by Stravinsky's musical setting.

The audience appreciated the performance each of the dissimilar compositions by two of our great composers.

Human Valve Is Replaced With Bovine's

NEW YORK (UPI) — A 38-year-old waiter is recuperating at home from a heart operation during which his aortic valve was replaced with a calf's.

The aortic valve regulates the pumping of blood out of the heart, into the aorta and then to the rest of the body. The man's valve had been damaged by rheumatic fever.

★ ★ ★

The operation was performed July 7 at Flower-Fifth Avenue Hospital by Dr. Sheldon Burman of the City Health Research Council and Dr. Ciro Armelli, assistant surgery professor at New York Medical College, which announced the surgery Thursday.

FOUR HOURS

The patient, identified only as a New York waiter, was on the operating table about four hours.

For more than two hours a heart-lung machine regulated his live functions as doctors worked on the by-passed aortic valve.

The patient was discharged from the hospital July 29.

Prior to the surgery, the hospital took a number of valves from its reserve bank where they had been preserved. During the operation a calf valve of a matching size was chosen and inserted in place of the diseased valve.

The operation previously had been performed only in London, Melbourne and Browns Mills, N.J.

Givenchy Presents Collection

By LUCIE NOEL

PARIS (AP)— Givenchy predesigns for elegant living today and launched a new silhouette for sports.

★ ★ ★

Throwing open his winter collection to fashion writers for the first time in five years during the regular Naute couture season, Givenchy also developed his favorite ideas, which are always contemporary without being extreme.

In recent years, Givenchy has awaited delivery of his models before showing to the press.

TUNIC DRESSES

He continued his tunic dresses, figure-skimming unfitted sheaths and unbelted chemises belonging to high society and the grand ballroom.

★ ★ ★

His new sports line carried through in his hostess gowns and right into milady's bedroom.

It is a one-piece playsuit with a wide, soft bermuda leg reaching to the kneecap.

For sports alone, it appears in tweeds, wools and jersey. Under big and loose or beautifully tailored belted coats, they come forth in Givenchy's favorite dark forest green.

★ ★ ★

They match the coat, which may be green window pane checked wool, or in a contrasting shade, such as a gray one with knee breeches under a grege mouflon woolen chunky coat.

OTHER COATS

Other wool coats for sports go over workmen's overalls and are treated to buttoned down patch pockets in the back. On skirts, flapped pockets are placed at the back in twosomes, and the same idea is carried out in coats.

★ ★ ★

A suit has saddle-bag suede pockets attached to the belt.

There is a belt story here. Many are shaped in a V-line in the back and sometimes dropped to the hips.

Givenchy uses dark brown suede for an ensemble with a fringed out hemline worn over a suit-dress, with a grege top attached to the skirt.

★ ★ ★

Most all of the top-coated models go over what first appears to be a suit, but is a tailored jacket and dress, detailed and belted often with matching hood and additional short ascot scarf tucked into the neckline.

Givenchy shows one of the most important coat lines in Paris and they follow several silhouettes. He still believes in the full loose back, but also shows a straighter line forming the one color ensemble with the figure skimming sheath or belted shift.

★ ★ ★

Givenchy's winter palette is somber for outdoors but inside the coat for afternoon cocktail or dinner wear he has luminous and jewel colors. The violet range is favored.

JEWELLED BANDS

He uses bands of jewelled embroidery on hemlines, and on plain fabrics, besides a number of all sequin dresses and evening ensembles.

Ultramarine blue is another favorite.

Pour Sugared Lemon Juice Over Oven-Fresh Bread

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

Quick breads are wonderful for sandwiches. This lemon bread is delicious and almost good enough to serve as a simple dessert.

Mrs. Glen O'Berry contributed the recipe to the Homemakers cookbook.

LEMON BREAD
By Mrs. Glen O'Berry

- 6 tablespoons shortening
- 2 eggs
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- ½ cup nuts
- ½ cup milk
- 1 cup sugar
- 1½ cups flour
- 1 lemon
- ⅛ teaspoon salt

Cream sugar and shortening together. Add eggs and beat well. Combine with flour, baking powder and salt. Gradually add milk. Add chopped nuts.

Grate the rind of one lemon and add to first mixture. Save juice of the lemon and add to it ½ cup sugar. Save this to pour over baked loaf.

Pour batter into small greased loaf pan and let stand 20 minutes. Bake at 350 degrees about 60 minutes.

Husband's Fantasies Drag You Down Too

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

DEAR MRS. LAWRENCE: I've been unable to get help with my problem though there are three children involved: my baby and two boys by my former marriage.

My husband shows sexual interest in me only after a fight. He sleeps on the living room sofa. But he hides girlie magazines under the sofa, along with pictures of naked women.

If I ask him why he's so crazy about these pictures, he says it's because I'm so fat, ugly and don't dress well. Where can I go for help for me and the children?

ANSWER: You live near Pittsburgh. Go for help to your Family Service Association agency in Pittsburgh.

When you phone it, ask to speak to its public relations department. The person who answers will know my name because this column appears in his local paper. So you tell him that Muriel Lawrence said he would help you get immediate attention—a cut-through of those delaying tactics used by social agencies with which both he and I are only too well acquainted.

If he can't let me know—and I'll call the agency's national headquarters.

In the meantime, quit trying to "understand" this husband of yours who prefers imagined sex with paper girlies to real sex with his flesh-and-blood wife. His curious preferences are not our business.

Our business is asking ourselves, "Am I fat? Am I dowdy? Am I sexually unattractive — or have I been merely told that I am?" It's coming up with the truthful answers to these questions.

Because we can collapse into fat dowdiness and sexual unattractiveness if we live with a person who insists we're these things. Just as a fairy tale prince will let a witch turn him into a toad, we can let a consistently critical person thieve our real identity from us.

We'll become exactly what our accusing spellbinder wants us to be. We'll get fat, wear dirty dresses and in all ways arrange to agree with him that we are indeeed sexually undesirable.

Under these circumstances we need help. Even that Beast of the lonely forest needed Beauty to help him recover his real shape, didn't he?

Youth Makes Hard Choice on Colleges

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Like many another high school senior, 17-year-old Gary Reback had a hard time deciding what college to attend next fall.

But his problem was that, because of his academic and extra-curricular record, he was offered scholarships to seven different universities.

The Fulton High School senior, whose straight A average gave him valedictorian honors, had his choice of Yale University, Rice University, the University of Chicago, Washington University at St. Louis, Duke University, Johns Hopkins University and the University of Tennessee.

He accepted a full tuition scholarship at Yale.

Quality Fabrics Still Can Take Good Cleaning

"The Housekeeper's Week," a practical book of advice published in 1908, stated that: "Dirt is a costly condition in any circumstances.

Lack of personal cleanliness invites disease and doctor's bills.

The soaping, rubbing, boiling, rinsing, and wringing needed to bring a badly soiled garment back to decency, tell upon its integrity more than a year of careful wear.

"It does pay to buy a good thing to begin with. It pays well, and always, to get the good thing clean when legitimate wear has soiled it.

For really excellent fabrics — like the best quality of human virtue — do not go to pieces in the wash."

This turn-of-the-century wisdom is as basic today as when grandma was scrubbing on a washboard, instead of laundering with automatic appliances.

Prepainting Crack Filler

Carefully fill all cracks in ceilings and walls before repainting, advises the National Paint, Varnish and Lacquer Association.

Smooth patches level with the surface. Small hairline cracks should be filled with spackling.

It sets very rapidly, so smooth the surface before filling material is quite dry.

Apply filler with a putty knife or even finger and thumb.

Retired Teacher Still Rings Bells

KING CITY, Mo. (AP) — Mrs. Harold Smith has retired from schoolteaching, but bells still play an important part in her life. She has a collection of 150 of them, of all sizes and from all over the world.

The smallest one, from the Isle of Capri, has a chain and pin attached so it can be worn as a pin, and among her larger ones are a fire engine bell and a U.S. Navy ship bell.

She has a windmill-shaped bell from Holland, one made of waste gun cartridge, and one from Oklahoma, shaped like an oil well.

And Reuters Representative

Congo Ousts AP Newsmen

KINSHASA, The Congo (AP) — The Congolese government today ordered all correspondents and photographers of the Associated Press to leave the Congo within 48 hours.

A similar measure was announced against a representative of the British news agency, Reuters.

Information Minister Jean Jacques Kande said the decision was taken personally by President Joseph D. Mobutu.

★ ★ ★

Kande told Michael Goldsmith of the Associated Press that the AP men were being expelled because AP stories had "speculated about Russian planes which are bringing Tshombe to the Congo and the route they are supposed to take, by way of Cairo." Ex-Premier Moise Tshombe, under arrest in Algeria, faces a death sentence here.

ARMY CASUALTIES

Kande said the government also objected to an AP report three weeks ago from Bujumbura, Burundi, quoting Congolese Interior Minister Etienne Tshisekedi as saying some white residents had been killed and eaten by undisciplined troops in Katanga.

In a separate meeting with Francois Duriaud of Reuters, Kande said the government objected to Reuters reports of casualties suffered by the Congolese army in a battle with mercenaries Tuesday.

American Ambassador Robert H. McBride and British Ambassador John Cotton said they planned to urge Foreign Minister Justin Bomboko to have the expulsion order rescinded.

★ ★ ★

Also affected by the measure were part-time Associated Press reporter Pierre Moser, a Swiss citizen, and Associated Press photographer Max Nash.

'Aide of Stalin Directed Him'

Svetlana's Memoirs Say Beria Held Power

LONDON (AP) — Joseph Stalin's daughter, Svetlana Alliluyeva, claims in her memoirs that Lavrenty P. Beria, Soviet Secret police chief, dominated her father for the last 20 years of his life.

Mrs. Alliluyeva claims that Beria became the dominating influence over her father after he was rocked by her mother's suicide in 1932 and maintained that influence until the dictator died in his country home outside Moscow in 1953.

★ ★ ★

Beria, "always repulsive," brooded over Stalin at the end, posing as "the most loyal, the most faithful," while the aged dictator died in agony after a cerebral hemorrhage, Mrs. Alliluyeva writes.

Hutchinson & Co., Mrs. Alliluyeva's authorized British publisher, issued a Russian-language edition of her memoirs, "Twenty Letters to a Friend," on Thursday. The English-language edition is to appear in October.

The day after Stalin's death, his daughter writes, Beria summarily dismissed and exiled aides and members of the household staff, but not before some of them committed suicide in the hysteria following the death.

Beria was jailed on treason charges by Stalin's successors and put to death nine months after the dictator's death. Nikita S. Khrushchev, in the recent NBC television program "Khrushchev in Exile," also blamed Beria for Stalin's misdeeds.

Mrs. Alliluyeva's book was reviewed by Olga Franklin, Russian-language expert for the Daily Mail and Evening News, and John Cruesemann of the Daily Express.

Mrs. Franklin described it as "a masterpiece, written with a power worthy of Tolstoy." Cruesemann said Stalin's daughter makes him "at once fearful, funny and credible."

The book largely sidesteps politics and concentrates on the writer's life with her father.

Mrs. Alliluyeva said her father believed there was a doctors' plot against him and permitted no physicians in his home for several months before he died. He took pills and iodide occasionally, she wrote, and the day before his fatal stroke took a steam bath, which the author said a doctor would never have permitted.

Plan to Curb Crime News Scored by Newspapermen

HONOLULU (AP)—News media representatives opened fire today on recommendations by an American Bar Association study group that would limit reporting of crime news.

"The classic function of the press is to find out everything it can about government, about law enforcement," said J. Edward Murray of the American Society of Newspaper Editors.

★ ★ ★

"That's what the free flow of news means, what the reporter can find out, not what the public servant wants to give him on a platter."

Murray, managing editor of the Arizona Republic, is chairman of the society's Freedom of Information and Press-Bar Committee.

PREPARED REMARKS

He spoke out against the proposals in remarks prepared for a day-long hearing sponsored by the ABA's section on judicial administration.

"To begin, you will poison the stream of crime and police news by deliberately managing that news at its source," Murray said.

★ ★ ★

"We won't even let the President manage the news of his own political image without a hue and cry of press criticism.

"How can we think of giving the right to manage crime news to every town constable and marshal?"

The ABA recommendations are the result of a 20-month study by 10 prominent judges and lawyers on the constitutional guarantees of free press and fair trial.

Unveiled last October by the panel headed by Justice Paul C. Reardon of the Supreme Judicial Court of Massachusetts, they stirred immediate controversy within the law and journalism professions.

★ ★ ★

In the main, the Reardon report calls on lawyers and police to restrict their comments on pending criminal cases and to cut back on the release of information about them. The stated objective is to help assure fair trials for criminal defendants.

However, Murrray told the ABA group: "We of the media contend that, if you adopt the Reardon sanctions, you will cripple the press as a watchdog of law enforcement, as the traditional enemy of secret arrest and the traditional friend of fair trial."

AID TO JUSTICE'

The press, he said, "has often aided justice, sometimes through independent investigation paralleling that of the police, sometimes by discovering that the wrong defendant is in custody, or that a defendant is being mistreated, sometimes by finding political chicanery in the prosecutor's office, sometimes by turning up overlooked witnesses."

"Press freedom is precious," Murray said, "and, except in time of war or great national emergency, it is an indivisible, all-or-nothing freedom.

★ ★ ★

"The first hint of censorship poisons it. And, as the dictatorships illustrate, censorship itself is a contagious thing. A little breeds a lot."

D. Tennant Bryan, chairman of the Fair Trial-Free Press Committee of the American Newspaper Publishers Association, said in prepared remarks:

"A free press is the foundation of all our freedoms. Any erosion of this foundation must be of the gravest concern, not to the press alone, but to all citizens now and for generations to come."

'BASIC CONVICTION'

Bryan, president and publisher of the Richmond, Va., Times-Dispatch and the Richmond News-Leader, said this "basic conviction" is shared by the news media representatives appearing before the ABA group and by members of the bar group themselves.

Hu Blonk, chairman of the Freedom of Information Committee of the Associated Press, Managing Editors Association, told the panel that in the states of Washington and Oregon "we have both free press and fair trial" without adopting "stringent restrictions."

Blink, managing editor of the Wenatchee, Wash., Daily World, said this has been attained "through the cooperative approach spelled out in statements of principle urging restraint by both press and bar, statements that bar, bench and press can subscribe to in good conscience, knowing they're not bargaining away the public's right to know."

Walter B. Potter, chairman of the board of the National Newspaper Association, gave the group example of "unreasoned refusals" by law enforcement officers "to release facts—often information we believe Reardon committee members would agree should be made available."

NO INFORMATION

Potter, publisher of the Culpeper, Va., Star-Exponent, related, for instance, how police in Milpitas, Calif., "refused to release any information or admit any violence had been involved in the deaths of five members of a family."

"In fact," Potter said, "a woman had killed her husband and three children and then committed suicide. Officials, apparently confused by the demands for secrecy, failed to comprehend that not only was there no suspect in custody to be protected from publicity, but in fact the person responsible was dead."

★ ★ ★

A second hearing on the recommendations of the Reardon report will be held here Monday. There are to be presented in February to the midwinter meeting of the ABA's House of Delegates, the bar group's policy-making section.

OEO Expects Funds to Stay at Same Level

Officials of the Oakland County Office of Economic Opportunity say they expect to keep programs operating at the present level next year.

★ ★ ★

It was indicated to the more than 200 persons attending a Wednesday meeting that the OEO program will not receive funds beyond what is being received this year.

The OEO is operating in Oakland County on a budget of approximately $1 million.

In addition to a progress report on the work of the OEO, the meeting served as a sounding board for citizens involved in the many programs.

★ ★ ★

Luther Flanagan, deputy director of the OEO, said that a number of suggestions concerning present programs were reviewed by officials.

"The only criticism," said Flanagan, "was that there should be more programs."

Flanagan said that OEO officials are more optimistic about the programs being continued than they were a week ago.

The outlook was quite dismal following congressional hearings on possible cutbacks, Flanagan said.

"But the recent riots have made it apparent there is a need to continue the poverty programs," said Flanagan.
