Priority Ticket Put on A-Plan by U. N. Group

Atoms-for-Peace Hailed by Many Delegates as Most Important

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (U.P.)—Without discussion, the U. N. Assembly today put on its agenda with a priority tag the Eisenhower atoms-for-peace plan today.

It sent the proposals to the key political committee where it will be fully discussed.

No one spoke as Assembly President Eelco N. van Kleffens, called for discussion on whether to put the item on the agenda.

The United States and the Soviet Union, which agreed yesterday on this action, did not ask for the floor.

The action means that the Assembly will give early consideration to this item, which is hailed by some delegates as the most important before this ninth session.

Discussion of the plan got a surprising assist yesterday from the Soviet. Russia's Andrei Vishinski not only insisted in the Steering Committee that the atom item go on the Assembly agenda, but called for a unanimous vote in recommending its consideration.

Vishinski denied U.S. statements that the Soviet Union had rejected the atom pool plan, proposed by President Eisenhower last December in a speech to the U.N. Vishinski said the Kremlin wished to resume talks on the idea.

U.S. Secretary of State Dulles presented a further four-point study and training plan to the Assembly Thursday, which emphasized atomic power techniques and methods of fighting cancer. He said the United States and other countries would develop the program even if Russia refused to cooperate.

Tragedy Hits Again in Hartley Family

WASHINGTON, Ind. (U.P.)—Three-year-old Shirley Ann Hartley, sister of the two-headed boy whose birth last December created a worldwide sensation, suffered fatal burns in a bonfire at her parents' home yesterday.

The little girl suffered third-degree burns over most of her body at the family home at Petersburg. She died in Daviess County Memorial Hospital here, the hospital in which the two-headed boy was born.

The boy, named Donald Ray and Daniel Kaye, died April 20 at the age of four months.

Returns Mechanized

DETROIT (U.P.)—Plans to mechanize the tabulation of election returns have been approved by the Wayne County Board of Auditors. Tabulations, formerly handled by crews of county workers, will be turned over to machine-equipped trained professionals. Election officials estimate the new system will have the unofficial count available by at least 4 a.m. the morning following an election.

Delaware Town Awaits Race Solution on Monday

MILFORD, Del. (U.P.)—Mayor Edward C. Evans hoped for continued peace in this tense town today—but with his "fingers crossed"—as the issue of racial integration in the local high school awaited settlement.

This southeastern Delaware community of 5,700 appeared quiet on the surface. But everywhere the conversation eventually turned to the biggest question posed here in more than a half century: Shall eleven Negro pupils be allowed to continue their studies at the previously all-white high school when classes resume Monday?

And the question provoked many answers, with the town folk taking sides in a battle, at least for the present, of words.

Mayor Evans said he's got his "fingers crossed" that it will stay peaceful. I certainly hope that everyone will think about the situation and consider the fact that violence will solve nothing.

Evans' statement followed a strongly worded stand by Gov. J. Caleb Boggs who yesterday called on Milford residents to obey the

The question mark represents Vermont which is still trying to untangle itself with different sections on different times.

Battle Continues Despite Storm

Near-Typhoon Winds Churn Formosa Strait During Gun Duels

TAIPEH (INS)—Winds of near-typhoon force interrupted the Formosa Strait warfare Friday night after a day of fresh air strikes in which the Nationalists claimed they sank five Red gunboats and crippled two others.

Big guns on the Nationalist outpost, Isle of Quemoy, eight miles off the Communist mainland coast, continued their roaring duels with Red artillery on nearby Amoy and other islands as the windstorm churned the 100-mile-wide strait.

In the Nationalist capital of Taipei, meanwhile, free China's chief military spokesman, Lt. Gen. Chang Yi-Ting, scoffed at renewed threats by Red Premier Chou En-Lai to "liberate" Formosa Island and "drive off" the U. S. Seventh Fleet.

Chang branded Chou's warlike statement, broadcast by Peiping, "foolish propaganda and the same old stuff."

Chang's remarks were followed by another Peiping broadcast quoting Red China's acting general staff chief, Nieh Jung-Chen, as saying the Communist "liberation army" will seize Formosa and "wipe out" the group of Chiang Kai-Shek traitors.

In the 22nd day of China's miniature civil war, Nationalist planes dealt new blows to Red shipping and shore installations along the mainland coast Friday until nightfall.

A Taipei air force communique said F-47 thunderbolt fighter-bombers unleashed three attacks on a Communist naval formation off Fusan, 40 miles southwest of Quemoy.

Union and Square D Firm in Marathon Talk Session

DETROIT (INS)—Union and company negotiators in the 102-day-old Square D strike remained locked early today in a marathon bargaining session that began at 10 a.m. yesterday.

While the talks were in progress, the International CIO-United Auto Workers entered the dispute officially for the first time with a four-point proposal aimed at hastening settlement of the walkout.

Censure Report Held in Secrecy

Sen. Watkins Guards Verdict on McCarthy Until Monday

WASHINGTON (U.P.)—A special Senate investigating committee took elaborate precautions today to guard the secrecy of its 60,000-word verdict on censure charges against Sen. McCarthy.

A few details about the general makeup of the report came to light, but the key question was still under wraps: Do the unanimous findings declare for or against the controversial Wisconsin Republican?

Senate leaders yesterday shelved plans for a politically explosive pre-election Senate session on the censure move. They agreed instead to hold off the start of the session until Nov. 8, the week after the Nov. 2 national congressional elections.

The date was fixed as the investigating committee, headed by Sen. Watkins (R-Utah), completed what Watkins announced was a unanimous report of findings on a censure resolution by Sen. Flanders (R-Vt.) and 46 supporting charges.

The charges were filed at McCarthy by Flanders and Sens. Fulbright (D-Ark.) and Morse (Ind.-Ore.). They accused him of misconduct including contempt of the Senate, slurring fellow senators, abusing an Army general, and illegal use and solicitation of secret government documents.

Watkins and his five fellow committee members ordered the verdict made public Monday, but took extraordinary precautions meanwhile against any "leak" as to its contents.

Watkins said no committee member has retained a copy of the report. No copy has been given to McCarthy or anyone else, and that he feels "very certain" no member would give even a hint in advance to anyone about the nature of the finding.

Kefauver Pulls Boner, So Say the Democrats

OAKLAND, Calif. (U.P.)—Dem. Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee made party colleagues squirm during a campaign speech Friday night when he forcefully declared: "We cannot trust our future to two more years of Democratic rule in Congress."

Local Democrats hastily assured everybody, "It was all a mistake. He meant to say Republican."

John Gojcek, International Vice President of the Striking Independent United Electrical Workers said the proposal has not come under consideration at the present bargaining session.

As the talks moved into their 20th hour state and federal mediators issued a statement saying they intended to work for settlement of the strike until agreement is reached.

Gojcek said there still were several points at issue between the company and the union. One of these is known to be the company's insistence on a stringent no-strike clause in the contract.

The CIO-UAW, in its proposal suggested these four steps to end the strike:

1. Open the plant for normal operations on the basis of the employment status before the strike, and under the contract and other provisions upon which agreement already has been reached.
2. Management and union shall agree to submit all remaining issues for final and binding determination by a three-man arbitration panel.
3. The arbitration panel shall report in 30 days.
4. The panel shall conduct a vote to determine whether Square D workers want to continue with the UE as their bargaining agent or to select another union as bargaining agent.

Wouldn't Los Angeles Like Pontiac Weather?

LOS ANGELES (U.P.)—Los Angeles citizens faced another smoggy time today after an attack of the eye-irritating stuff yesterday was termed the worst of the year.

One superior judge adjourned his court in the Civic Center yesterday because of the discomfort, and citizens were coughing and wiping their eyes most of the day. The smog clouds rolled in early and then spread to foothill communities.

Smog and fog cut visibility at the Los Angeles International Airport and no planes were allowed to land until 11 a.m.

U. S. Asks $29 Pay

WASHINGTON (INS)—The U. S. formally demanded today that Soviet Russia pay damages of $1,620,295 for the shooting down of an American B29 bomber off Hokkaido, Japan, on Oct. 7, 1953. The U. S. note was delivered at the Soviet foreign office in Moscow by Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen.

GOP Campaign Planned Early, Say Ike's Aides

To Start Easy, Increase to Climax; Stevenson in Indianapolis Tonight

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Aides to President Eisenhower say the step-up in Eisenhower's personal campaign for a Republican Congress was planned long ago and it doesn't mean that GOP concern about the Nov. 2 election has increased.

At the summer White House in Denver, aides said Eisenhower's most forceful pronouncement of the burgeoning campaign Thursday night at Los Angeles was dictated by a plan to start GOP vote-seeking at an easy pace, gradually bringing it to a climax.

Democrat Adlai Stevenson took note last night of Eisenhower's larger role in the campaign and contended the President is pleading for a Republican Congress "to save the Republican party."

Stevenson, who'll address a Democratic rally at Minneapolis tonight, told an Evansville, Ind. audience that Eisenhower is saying, in effect, "give me a Republican Congress to do what we couldn't do with a Republican Congress."

"The nation can't be saved that way," Stevenson said. For the GOP, House Speaker Martin of Massachusetts was in Pueblo, Colo., last night. He said voters must decide whether they want Eisenhower's legislative program "sabotaged and ripped to shreds" by a Democratic Congress.

Vice President Nixon will return to the fray Tuesday for a second major speaking tour that will take him into five northeastern states.

Stevenson spoke last night in behalf of Sen. Douglas (D-Ill.) who is opposed for reelection by Republican Joseph T. Meek.

The 1953 Democratic presidential candidate said it is hard to know what Meek "stands for except day by day expediency. Expediency is the policy of the Republican party."

Stevenson said the GOP-controlled 83rd Congress "stood for disorder, incompetence and impotence."

Accident Injuries Fatal to Girl, 14

Beverly Western Dies After Two Car Crash in Southfield Township

Beverly Western, 14, of 3000 Southfield Rd., Royal Oak Township, died last night at 9:30 in St. Joseph Mercy Hospital of injuries which she suffered about four hours earlier in an auto collision at Evergreen and 12 Mile Rds. in Southfield Township.

Miss Western was the driver of a car traveling north on Evergreen road which collided with a southbound car on 12 Mile road driven by Arthur R. Schumaker, 17, of 18615 Sen Quentin, Birmingham. No one else was injured.

Michigan State Police of the Redford Post said Richard Brahm, 16, of 25555 Farmbrook, Birmingham, was ticketed for allowing Miss Western, an unlicensed driver, to operate an auto. Brahm was in the car, owned by his father, at the time of the crash. Statements will be taken today at the Oakland County Prosecutor's office to determine the accident's cause, according to police, who said there was a stop sign at Evergreen road.

Claim AFL Unions Trying to Woo Members of UMW

Auto Crashes Into Residence

Driver Flees After Car Rams Home on Cherry Court Today

A wildly-driven auto later reported stolen from Detroit, crashed into a home at 37 Cherry Ct. early this morning after it had rammed another car at Auburn Ave. and Saginaw St.

Pontiac Police said the house is owned by Stanley Stabinski, who could not estimate the damage.

Patrolman Howard Lenigan said neighbors, awakened by the loud crash, saw three youths run from the car after it hit the house.

None of the sleeping occupants were injured but police said the impact damaged the front of the home and caved in the walls, knocking down plaster.

Police quoted the hit-run victim, Ronald Johnson, 20, of 176 W. Yale Ave., as saying the car sped away after the collision.

Johnson said the car's license plate bore the number CL58-47, reported stolen at 7 a.m. by Detroit police.

Lenigan said the occupants of the stolen car may have been from Detroit originally and may attempt to steal another car to return there.

Road Repair Job Would Take 10 Years, Cost $100 Million, Says Leon Belknap

By BURDETT C. STODDARD

It would take $100,000,000 in the next ten years to put roads maintained by Oakland County in shape to meet every traffic need, county road commission engineer-manager Leon V. Belknap said today.

"This figure does not include sums which might be spent by the state on trunk lines in the county," he explained.

"At present we have about $1,000,000 yearly for new construction," Belknap added.

"New construction is an optimistic term at best. Shortage of funds has almost entirely restricted the county program during the past several years to resurfacing old roads threatening to wear out."

Widening from 18 to 22 feet of concrete highways being resurfaced plus some widening projects in cooperation with cities is about all that can be called new construction.

Belknap's staggering estimate of money needed is no exaggerated figure picked from the air. It is based on a study done by the road commission.

- The study revealed need for:
1. Some 160 miles of two lane pavement being widened to four lanes.
 2. Grade separations at 15 highway intersections and ten railroad crossings.
 3. New limited access expressways.

Says Complaints on Construction Were Ignored

Further Probe Looms as Capehart Scores Area Housing Chief

The Senate Banking Committee moved its Federal Housing Investigation to New York today after Chairman Sen. Capehart (R-Ind.) roundly criticized Wendell O. Edwards, FHA director of Eastern Michigan, for failing to take action on a complaint by John Hobby, a Walled Lake housepainter.

Hobby volunteered his testimony to the committee yesterday when it wound up its Detroit hearings.

Hobby told the committee that he bought a pre-fabricated home at 2148 Hoeft in a Walled Lake subdivision which was erected by the Colwell Homes Inc., of Birmingham.

Hobby said that after he moved into the house he discovered that there were several gaps in the walls and that the septic tank was not working properly.

Complaints to the FHA office in Detroit were to no avail, Hobby said, and added that he couldn't even get a list of specifications on the house to see if it were properly constructed.

The housepainter also said that other residents on his street had the same complaints. The smell of sewage was so bad he said, the people referred to the street as "Tohacco Road."

When Edwards took the stand, Sen. Capehart told him that his investigators had looked into Hobby's complaint and that everything he said was true.

Edward said that it was the first time he had heard about it. "You ought to have a more effective complaint system," Capehart told Edwards. "We are going to get to the bottom of this. We are going to call anyone who approved those homes and find out why." Capehart did not say when future hearings would be held.

In other actions in Detroit yesterday, the committee spotlighted a million dollar "windfall" profit on housing projects built with government-backed loans.

Builder-sportsman Saul Silberman of Baltimore, Md., testified during the two-day hearings that he got a million dollars more in FHA guaranteed loans than it cost him to build four housing projects. It is the excess loan money over actual construction cost the committee has labeled "windfall profits."

Fair Skies Forecast for Pontiac Sunday

The weather outlook for Pontiac and vicinity is fair tonight and Sunday.

The U.S. Weather Bureau says it will be a little cooler tonight with a low of 46-50, higher tomorrow 66-70.

The road commissioners don't pretend that $10,000,000 per year can be made available, they simply state that if unlimited funds were on hand that much could be used to make county roads adequate for safety and traffic movement in ten years.

They say the number of vehicles on county roads increases tremendously every year. Building of new subdivisions adds about 40 miles of new gravel roads each year.

Yet present funds will allow only maintenance of a road system which was last termed adequate 20 years ago.

Holznagel Property Bought by First Methodist Church

From Our Birmingham Bureau
BIRMINGHAM—With the rapid growth of its church school already indicating the need for expansion at the First Methodist Church, the board of trustees has announced the purchase of the former Holznagel property, a 1½-acre site immediately east of the church building.

The residence on the land will receive an interior face-lifting and for the present, will make room for an additional 125 children at each of the two Sunday morning church school sessions.

John Maritz, secretary of the board, said that, equally as important, the added facilities will allow for construction of another driveway, running directly south from Maple to the parking area.

Currently the only access is off Pleasant street. Eventual plans call for the addition of a wing which would replace the Holznagel residence, Maritz said.

The new church on Maple and Pleasant was completed two years ago. It replaced the old building (built in 1873) at Maple and Henrietta which, with its stately spire, had long been a landmark in the community.

Applauding the Altrusa Club will hold its next meeting at Kingswood school tomorrow at 4 p.m. Guest of honor is to be Mrs. Erma Christie of Muncie, Indiana.

Besides being president-elect of Altrusa International, Mrs. Christie is supervisor in the Muncie public schools, and has developed many character-building projects for youth.

A buffet supper will follow the meeting, to which Altrusa Clubs of Michigan and Ohio have been invited.

Current events headlined the table-top speeches at this week's meeting of the Toastmasters Club. Discussed were: the effects of the new Mackinac Straits bridge on the future of Michigan; what the outcome of the Square D strike will be; and what action should be taken now that EDC is dead.

The four major speakers included Edwin Kierke, who spoke on "Sacrifice Above Self"—a sketch of civic contributions being made by local resident Ernest Seasholtz, who, among other things, serves as president of the Birmingham Board of Education.

Pat Murphy spoke on "Management Development" and Robert Don Uyle pointed out safety precautions to be taken while hunting, in his talk entitled, "Safety in Fun."

Final speaker was George Motzenbecker, who compared big business with small in his speech, "Basic Decision."

Rev. Harold Towne, minister at St. James Episcopal Church, has announced that the Oakland Convocation of the Woman's Auxiliary will begin with Holy Communion at 10:30 a.m. Monday at St. Andrew's mission, Drayton Plains.

The Planning Board will recommend to the City Commission that Planning Director Robert S. Boatman be allowed to work on a consulting basis for the rest of the fiscal year. Boatman has requested the change in order to be able to assist Scot Bagby, planning consultant in Grand Rapids.

Boatman would attend all board meetings while Bagby, who has worked before for the city, would attend at least six.

A special shoot for hunters will be held at the Birmingham Gun Club on Richardson road, Comm.

BIRMINGHAM—In a statement to the Pontiac Press today, Birmingham resident Young C. Smith spoke out against the proposed parking lot in the block bounded by Brown, Pierce, Woodward and Merrill streets, and also the financing of the project.

"A great deal of interest has arisen in the city and many citizens are signing petitions of protest against the project, and asking that parking projects in the city not be overdone to the detriment of the attractive appearance of the city," Smith said.

Citing an Aug. 7 report from traffic engineers to City Manager Donald C. Egbert, Smith states that the report, based on meter revenues around the block concerned, reveals that only a limited number of spaces in the lot should be provided for shoppers, and that the revenue produced by these short time spaces will be relatively low.

Smith quotes the report as stating that the 57 short-term spaces will produce revenue of $25 a year each.

The remaining 166 spaces in the proposed lot, for all day parking, if used at 80 per cent capacity, at $5.00 per month, are expected to bring total gross revenue up to $9,393. for the year, with all charges of depreciation, lighting, care of meters to come out of this.

"It appears that to insure that such projects shall be planned with ordinary business prudence, there should be inserted in the ordinances or in the charter of the city a provision that such projects shall be self-liquidating," Smith continued.

"In other neighboring communities parking projects are financed by revenue bonds, which in turn benefit from revenue from parking lots and also from street meters," he said.

The city commission, by recent action, established the necessity of the lot, which is to be financed by special assessment to the property owners in the area benefiting.

The city would also bear a share of the cost, estimated at $27,000.

Commenting in an interview on Red Premier Chou En-lai's latest call yesterday for liberation of Formosa, Koo declared it should not be dismissed as mere propaganda. Chou's speech calling Formosa sacred territory was broadcast by Peiping Radio.

"It is something the Communists feel very strongly," Koo said. "Just as the Nationalists feel equally strongly that they must return to the mainland."

Whether the Communists start an all-out assault on Formosa and the Pescadores "will depend a great deal on how much supplies Russia will give them in arms, aircraft, guns and ships," the veteran diplomat said, adding:

"However, the Communists very likely will make a serious attempt to take the offshore islands. They serve as stepping stones to Formosa and the Pescadores."

Legal Dignitaries Gather at College

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (UP)—Legal dignitaries from as far away as England gathered here today to pay homage to three great law scholars and mark the 175th anniversary of the William and Mary Law School—oldest in the nation.

Chief Justice Earl Warren, the honor guest, was scheduled to deliver the main address.

But it was the presence of Warren, former California governor named to the Supreme Court by President Eisenhower, that apparently was keeping two of the states top elected officials away.

Gov. Thomas E. Stanley and Atty. Gen. J. Lindsay Almond declined invitations to the Marshall-Wythe—Blackstone commemorative exercises because of "other business."

Several Congressmen also stayed away.

The coolness of state officials was a protest against the Supreme Court May 17 decision which outlawed segregation in the public schools. Warren authored the decision.

Two Breakins Reported in City by Police

An undetermined amount of money and $15 worth of tools were stolen from the Pontiac Farm and Industrial Tractor Co. office, 825 Woodward Ave., last night, Pontiac Police reported today.

A restaurant next to the company, the Snack House, 819 S. Woodward Ave., also was entered through a rear window by thieves who looted three vending machines of an estimated $12.

Wife, 28, Enters Plea of Innocent in Mate's Death

LAWRENCE, Mass. (INS)—Mrs. Lawrence Clark stood arrow-straight yesterday in Essex Superior Court and pleaded innocent to a charge that she murdered her husband last Palm Sunday.

The pretty 28-year-old mother of three small children fought off collapse during the drama-packed arraignment to enter the plea herself.

A 10-day continuance was granted for special pleadings by Judge Charles Fairbank—who ordered that she be held without bail. No trial date was set, pending a report of state alienists who will examine her under state law.

Mrs. Clark is accused of shooting, stabbing and strangling her husband, Melvin, 29, in their Amesbury home on April 10 and throwing the weighted body into the Merrimack River. It was found June 2, washed ashore in a marsh.

Bradbury denied at a press conference yesterday every accusation made in a 29-page summary in the current issue of U. S. News and World Report of the book, "The Hydrogen Bomb: How The U. S. Almost Lost It."

The book, written by Washington newsmen James R. Shoyky and Clay Blair Jr., criticizes Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer, recently denied security clearance by the AEC, and the entire Los Alamos unit.

Bradbury refused to elaborate on certain points in the summary because of the classified nature of the material but he said:

BLOOD BANK SAVED LIVES

Rev. Leroy C. Westbrook, associate pastor of the First Baptist Church of Alhambra is one of thousands who are alive today because Red Cross supplied blood to save them. Rev. Westbrook said, "I owe my life to Red Cross Blood."

If you will, consider donation of blood as a purely selfish act; Oscar Johnson was hale and hearty, never sick a day in his life. "Why should I give my blood?" he asked. "I don't need any." A pilot light went out on a water heater, he and his wife went down stairs to light it. Struck a match. An explosion! She was horribly burned and he escaped with his life. Both of them are loud in their claim, "Red Cross blood saved our lives."

When the bloodmobile is available give your blood. It might save your life.

Sheppard Case Horrified Investigators

By JAMES CROSSLEY

NEA Staff Correspondent

CLEVELAND (NEA) — On the surface, the life of Marilyn and Sam Sheppard was much like any married life in prosperous surroundings. He has said repeatedly that Marilyn was the only woman he ever loved.

High school sweethearts, they went away to different schools. While he was still studying osteopathy in Los Angeles they decided to stop waiting and be married. After school, they came to Bay Village where Dr. Sam stepped into a lucrative practice.

There was an interesting circle of social friends. The Sheppards purchased the pleasantly-located home for $31,500 and paid the mortgage off in two and a half years. Besides a jeep and Jaguar, he had a Lincoln Continental.

There were family parties, boating, water-skiing in which both were interested. Marilyn taught basketball to schoolgirls and a Sunday school class. They lived quietly. Dr. Sam was absorbed in his work.

It is this strange mixture of normality, climaxed by a monstrous brutality, which makes the case of Marilyn Sheppard's murder so intriguing and controversial.

The defense, of course, blames everything on the mysterious intruder or intruders. Purse and desks were found ransacked and the doctor's bag appeared to be rifled. A small green felt drawing bag containing watches and jewelry was found where it had been thrown over the cliff bank. The victim's pajamas were disarranged.

"Hunt for a psychopathic prowler" is their answer to the motive problem. The family of feared a $10,000 reward and put the cash up. A detective has been employed.

Fingers have been pointed at a parade of persons — from a house guest, Dr. Leonard Hovesten, who was absent the night of the crime, to Mayor Houk of Bay Village. Both of them took lie detector tests to convince police of the truth of their stories.

The prosecutors brush aside the motive theories of the defense. There was no evidence of sexual attack. The trial may see a debate on whether drugs were missing from the bag, though police say none were.

As to robbery, they think they can account for all the money in the house and declare the felt bag contained only valueless junk jewelry — plus the doctor's own watch with traces of moisture inside.

A good deal of the drama in the case has come from what happened from the moment the Bay Village police arrived on the scene. Cleveland police were horrified by the unsentimental activity on July 4.

Overwhelmed by the intricacies of the local police let too many people tramp over the premises and in the house. They have been criticized for not arresting the husband and jailing him immediately.

"The case would have been cracked by some intensive questioning in the first few hours," say the Cleveland police.

Mayor Houk explains, "I figured Sam couldn't have done it."

It was a month before he was finally arrested, even though Cleveland detectives told Dr. Sam he was the number one suspect a few hours after the crime.

The doctor meantime tended his patients and made the rounds of the hospital. That was the period when he was wearing his orthopedic collar and, until police ordered him to quit it, carrying a revolver strapped at his waist "for protection."

Public feeling was riding high. Shortly after the Cleveland Press front-paged an editorial titled "Someone Is Getting Away With Murder," Dr. Sam went to jail.

Police tried a few days of non-stop questioning to shake his story. Dr. Sam blocked that. He clamored up and took to reading the Bible while he was being questioned.

Since then he has stayed in his cell, listening to ball games on a portable radio, writing the story of his life and occasionally sending out, by means of visitors, complaints about sanitary conditions and the tedious life.

The grand jury heard witnesses in the case and promptly indicted him for first degree murder. The trial date has not yet been set.

The defense, sparked by a veteran and able attorney, William J. Corrigan, has busied itself trying to get Dr. Sam out on bail and threatening to ask for a change of venue to take the trial anywhere else but Cleveland.

The stories of all the principals were made public in detail at the coroner's inquest held before the arrest. Dr. Sam spent a day and a half going over his story and answering questions.

There was one exception, however. Susan Hayes hadn't made her admissions then and Dr. Sam was denying any romantic link with her. Susan's testimony should be the high point in the trial.

New Officers Plan Party and Program

The Youth Fellowship of the Bethel Evangelical Reformed Church recently elected the following officers: Chuck Hutler, president; Rita Lister, vice president; Tom Clark, secretary; and Carolyn White, treasurer.

Meetings will be held every other Sunday night at 7:30 o'clock in the church basement. The group will meet at the church at 7:30 p.m. next Saturday for a hayride at Rochester. Mr. and Mrs. Gerald McLeod, chaperones, have invited the young people to their home, after the ride, for a Weiner roast.

$5,000 for 144 Skeletons Is Bargain, School Says

LOMA LINDA, Calif. — The College of Medical Evangelists has received a $5,000 shipment of 144 skeletons from India, a shipment which the medical college considers a bargain, as bones go.

Dr. John E. Hughes, anatomy teacher, said skeletons are quite expensive and difficult to purchase in the United States.

Dr. Hughes said each freshman student will be assigned a skeleton for work in his first year course.

Doctors Cast Doubt of Epileptic Heredity

CHICAGO (UP)—Two Baltimore physicians question that heredity has much to do with epilepsy. Instead, they believe it is associated with complications before, during and immediately after birth.

Drs. Abraham Lilienfeld and Benjamin Pasamanick of the Johns Hopkins School of Hygiene and Public Health reported in the Journal of the American Medical Association that their study of 396 epileptics and 393 non-epileptic children "raises doubts" about the family-pattern theory.

"The results of this study appear to indicate that there exists a relationship between certain abnormal conditions associated with childbearing and the subsequent development of epilepsy in the offspring," they said.

A large number of epileptic births the doctors studied were premature, they said.

The Old Testament was written in Hebrew, and the New Testament in Greek, with the exception of the Gospel according to St. Matthew, which also was written in Hebrew.

Mr. Blackwood's Plan

This newspaper is tremendously interested in HAROLD L. BLACKWOOD's far seeking proposal about a cultural center here.

As he himself pointed out, it is a long range project which could not materialize in less than 50 years. Yet it strikes us as a highly practical idea which appeals to those interested in Pontiac's cultural future.

Certainly there is great need for the structures he suggests for the center—auditorium, library and junior college. These he would erect on property which would have to be rezoned and is bounded by Orchard Lake, Palmer, Washington and Williams Streets.

Another practical aspect of the idea is the fact that 15 acres of the property already is publicly owned and occupied by Pontiac High School and Crofoot grade school. The remaining 45 acres could be acquired gradually over the years, as Mr. BLACKWOOD suggests, when the individual properties are put on the market.

We not only think Mr. BLACKWOOD's idea deserves careful consideration but that he has done the community a service by voicing it. All over America today cities are planning for the future. The rapid growth in homes, in industry and in retail trade is imposing a new set of conditions.

We should face them all candidly. Roads, parking spaces and similar things are very important, but Mr. Blackwood's suggestions are equally vital. In some ways they are more so. They are aimed at the soul of the city which must not be lost in the whirl of trade and commercial activities.

A commission to study this plan further could well be named with Mr. BLACKWOOD as chairman.

Stockpiling for Defense

In view of continued international tension there is reassurance in the Administration's plans for defense stockpiling in fiscal 1955.

Highlight of these plans, as revealed by Defense Mobilizer FLEMING, is the order for purchase of $145,000,000 worth of critical materials, supply of which might be cut off by war.

Additional evidence that the Defense department realizes that anything can happen any time on the international front appears in a second order. This provides that about $400,000,000 worth of critical materials previously ordered under the defense production act will be transferred to stockpiles.

Involved in these orders are such materials as asbestos, bauxite, beryl, fluorspar, manganese, chromite, diamonds, feathers, ore, mica, nickel, opium, platinum, selenium, talc, tungsten, tantalite, copper, cobalt and molybdenum.

This list is a reminder how far the United States now falls short of self sufficiency in the matter of important raw materials. Any government which failed to guard against the danger of war-caused shortage of these products would be courting national suicide.

Lamprey Thyroid Studied

A current surprise from the realm of science is the discovery by University of Michigan researchers that lamprey eels have at least one asset—thyroid glands worth studying.

In the minds of most Great Lakes area residents, sea lampreys rank among the most undesirable of all living creatures. Since they invaded Great Lakes waters they have worked havoc among lake trout and whitefish, with resulting serious financial losses to the commercial fishing industry.

This has been the case despite the expensive co-operative, but so far unsuccessful efforts of the United States and Canada to rout these marine predators.

For the past 13 years CHARLES W. CREASER, professor of zoology at the University of Michigan's Douglas Lake station, has been studying lamprey's thyroid equipment. His findings later may prove of great value because it now is known that the lamprey's thyroid gland is similar to man's and like it, accumulates iodine.

In the next stage of study Prof. CREASER and his associates will attempt to discover the location and function of this primitive vertebrate's adrenal gland.

The results of these studies seem to indicate that nothing in nature, no matter how objectional or harmful, can be dismissed as valueless.

Can Don Do It?

Leonard Giving Michigan Republicans Lift of Its Life

By JACK I. GREEN
LANSING—A man who never went to a political meeting, except possibly with a nightstick is giving Michigan's Republican Party the lift of its life.
He is Donald S. Leonard, the former state and Detroit police commissioner, who holds his party's nomination for governor.
Republicans now are saying happily: "If anybody can do it, Don can."

They mean that Leonard looks now like he may be the best campaigner to go up against the old pro, Gov. G. Mennen Williams, since Williams jumped into the governor's chair almost six years ago.

Several factors are making Republican hearts beat rapidly and Republican throats thicken with emotion.
For one, Leonard is apparently going to the wire this time with none of the serious party splits which plagued, and probably defeated, both of his predecessor nominees—Harry F. Kelly and Fred M. Alger.

This, in itself, proves the sense of the decision by Leonard and party leaders to avoid a convention fight and renominate the incumbent state officers.

Secondly, Leonard is showing himself the best campaigner the Republicans have put forward in a long time—certainly against Williams.

Republicans have been saying enviously for a long time: "What we need is somebody who can call square dances like Soap." By that they meant someone who can get out and shake hands with the man in the street and appear to like it.

Leonard is doing that. He is popping up here and there and going into grocery stores, banks, factories and all the other places the common people inhabit. He trots right up to a stranger, pumps his hand, hands him a card, flashes a big grin and makes a little sales pitch.

Leonard says he goes into a rural bank, asks the president if he minds a little politicking in his sacred precincts and works over any of the natives who happen to drop in with their overdraft notices. He went into a big bank in Highland Park recently and gave the business to a cool 250 persons standing in line at the various windows. He says he got one snub out of the lot.

In other words, Leonard is doing what Williams has been doing for six years and apparently doing it well. Leonard is working hard and is proving that he is no stuffed shirt.

Previous candidates have spent two months hollering about "the power-mad CIO bosses," the "ADA," Gus Schelle and Walter Reuther and have gone down to defeat.

Leonard, seemingly, is not going to conduct that kind of a campaign. Probably he figures there are lots of Republicans in labor unions and that there is no point in kicking them in the shins when he wants their votes.

But, in any event, he has already hit at Williams on Williams' own record. He has put the governor on the defensive on two occasions already in the campaign and that is something which no previous Republican Candidate accomplished.

Mother Who Worked During War Feels She Must Be Home to Fill Children's Needs

Letters will be condensed when necessary because of lack of space. Full name, address and telephone number of the writer must accompany letters but these will not be published if the writer so requests, unless the letter is critical in its nature.

I just read "A Parent" where only 36 were happy and contented in their homes out of 356 teenagers. Well, I think that is when they really need their parents, and I find that a lot of mothers go to work, and they just cannot give the children the attention that they would if they were home. A mother to greet them when they get home from school or see them off to school with love and tenderness that only a mother can give a child.

I know, as I worked during the war almost a year, and that was too long. I have wonderful children, and I thought of them a lot at work, even if they were high school age, they just don't get the affection they should when mother is working.

This goes for all mothers working that have husbands working too. What is the matter with you men? Can't you support your wife, is she asking for more than you can afford, or is she trying to live in a higher bracket than you can afford.

Another thing is too many parents take too much to drinking, and indecent language. By all means, I'm not perfect but I did my best by my children.

Appalled by Grave Thief, Man Offers a Reward

I read in your column where (a reader) still has faith in human beings about the dog that had his tongue cut out. But still there are some just small and mean enough for that.

For instance, I made a small boat with 2 spars and full rigging, filled it with plants and flowers and set in on the grave of our little grandson and someone was just low-down enough to steal it off the grave.

I am offering a reward for the address of any one who has it.

Modern Playwrights Use Profanity to Shock an Audience Into Laughter

Modern playwrights should go back to Shakespeare. They don't know how to develop humor out of social conflict. So they stud their lines with profanity, plus rank sexual crudity, thinking that the resulting self-conscious laughter of the crowd is popular accolade.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
Case M-324: Dorothy Weick, aged about 36, is a very active youth worker in the Lutheran Church at Findlay, Ohio, and speaks before many conferences of church leaders.

When she was visiting us in Chicago recently, Mrs. Crane and I took her to see a stage play. Our son David accompanied us.

The play was called "The Seven Year Itch." It had been praised by some acquaintances of mine as uproariously funny, so I figured I'd have a jolly evening. Maybe I just anticipated too much.

Anyway, at the end of the first act, I yawned and asked my wife: "Am I getting old and out of touch with reality?" For I'm just wasting my time here.

"I'd much rather be seeing a color movie with a good plot and some excitement," Mrs. Crane, however, said she felt the same way. So we waited through Act II.

Then, without indicating my view of the play, I leaned over to David and asked him how he liked the performance.

"I don't see where they thought this was so funny," he replied, and I decided it wasn't my age that was at fault."

Off and on, I attend stage plays, especially when we have guests from out of town who want to see the sights.

Personally, I wouldn't trade one good color movie for half a dozen stage plays.

For the stage plays are often second rate. The plotting is poor. And the humor is forced.

In fact, the average modern playwright doesn't know how to get a laugh with legitimate social conflict.

Instead, he tries to shock the audience into self-conscious laughter by having the hero spout oaths and obscene language at unexpected places.

And I suppose he then thinks his play is funny because a lot of half drunken members of the audience laugh loudly at such gutter vocabulary spewed over a mixed audience.

In a long and varied lifetime, I have naturally been around all types of men, including the toughest.

Many of them have a paucity of vocabulary and a permanent inferiority complex that makes them use profane and loud speech chronically to sound big.

In a low class masculine environment, maybe that wouldn't be so reprehensible, for you could consider the source and shrug it off.

But when modern stage plays charge $5 to $7.50 per ticket for an insipid plot where the puerile playwright tries to "shock" the audience into self-conscious giggles by "You Go—D—S.O.B." I feel our English teachers better revive more interest in Shakespeare, who needed no such profane outbursts to intrigue a crowd.

Apparently, we are witnessing a generation of Greenwich Village pannies who think the only way to portray a he-man is with uncouth language in a mixed audience.

The decadence of the legitimate stage can't be blamed on a moronic level of intelligence in the audience, for morons couldn't pay for current theater tickets.

Adolescent authors usually think a lot of profanity and sexual crudity are synonymous with playwriting.

Hollywood beats the legitimate stage all hollow. "Mutiny on the Bounty" or "The Robe" or Martin Luther" or even a two-gun western demonstrates more histrionic skill and plotting technique.

Days of All Faiths Jewish New Year's Day to Be Observed Tuesday

By DR. HOWARD V. HARPER
Tuesday, Sept. 28, is according to Jewish tradition, the 5,715th anniversary of the creation of the world. It is Rosh Hashanah—New Year's Day—and with it begins also the "High Holidays," the 10 most holy and significant days in Jewish religious life.

In Leviticus, chapter 24, verses 24 and 25, the people of Israel are commanded to blow the ceremonial horns on this day and to offer a burnt sacrifice.

Burnt offerings dropped out of Jewish practice when the Temple at Jerusalem was destroyed and the people scattered to all parts of the earth, so that part of the command can no longer be obeyed. But the great horns (called the shofar) are still blown, summoning all Jews to the solemn services.

Almost all business is suspended on Rosh Hashanah, and Orthodox Synagogue and Reform Temple alike will be thronged with worshippers. Even those who neglect religious duties during the rest of the year will turn out today, something like the way in

Baering Down

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER
(International News Service)
If we rearm Bonn the French can retaliate by making Paris an open city. But Reno has it topped.

The question is strictly one of banking. Bonn and Paris want both banks of the Rhine.

French-German rapprochement was calibrating by Premier Mendes-France in his last speech half-way up Eiffel Tower. The Premier said in cooking French, "give Germany back its tanks, subs and planes and first thing you know Adenauer will want to legalize bingo."

Mendes-France doesn't want Western Germany to get a turn at the bat. Those gander-hoppers have an old established custom of calling on the French at the drop of a hate.

But the sooner Mendes the slower it's fixed.

Being an exhausted student of fatigued history we'll coach Mendes on the score. Napoleon said a French soldier was worth one Englishman, two Prussians and a Russian.

What if he did say it the day before Waterloo? He would have been right if grouchily had marched toward the sound of guns. But it was Blucher who showed up with his Prussian Prussians.

We suggest Mendes might permit the West Germans to start a couple of teenage gangs.

We still don't understand how Shickelgruber got by that customs inspector who searches your baggage at Havre.

Now that EDC is down the drain the plans of mice and men call for a better trap. Mendes forgot Germany hates Russia more than it hates France. It takes more than a double-cross to win a game of European tick-tack-toe.

The answer to the scuttling of EDC is tied up with Indochina, Tunisia and Commie pressure at home.

In order to keep his own job Mendes had to play both ends against the middle.

Boy, 17, Likes to Go Without Any Shirt Even in the Coldest Winter Weather

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
THE MAIL BOX
Keep Cool

I am 17 and like to go around without a shirt, both in the house and out in the yard even in the coldest winter weather. I feel no discomfort, but my mother fears it is bad for me and that it will cause rheumatism later in life.

Answer—Mothers will be mothers. George, I suppose they'll go on thinking that until the last almanac has disappeared from the earth. It will probably change mother's mind not one iota, but you might tell her that if you were my son I'd slap you on the back and tell you that's fine, if you enjoy it.

What Are YOU Afraid Of?
What change would there be for a person with varicose vein if the vein broke?

Answer—A varicose vein seldom if ever breaks, and even if it should, simple pressure on the bleeding spot with clean finger or handkerchief would stop the bleeding. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope and ask in writing, signed, for pamphlet on Varicose Veins and Varicose Ulcer. Probably the notion of a "broken" vein arises from the observation that a "break" in the skin is often the beginning of ulcer.

So You Haven't Any Phobias?
I have a kid brother (13) who makes snakes and makes pets of them. I'm all right, but I'm just being silly.

Answer—Knowledge, such as your kid brother has, would make you unafraid. Some people have a morbid fear of thunder (tonitrophobia) because they have never learned that by the time one hears thunder the danger (of being struck by lightning) is past.

Girls Who Are Fortyish
"Ben Toth" has a little pamphlet giving excellent advice to girls who are fortyish. Thank you for your wonderful cooperation in the past. (Mrs. J. O.)

Answer—Send stamped, self-addressed envelope and ask for pamphlet The Menopause. For teenage girls there is the pamphlet Hygiene for Girls and Health for Women. If you ask for both, enclose ten cents with stamped, self-addressed envelope. If anything is stuck on the coin it will come back for laundering or dry-cleaning at your expense.

Athlete's Foot
My friend says she obtained from wife a recipe for athlete's foot that cleared it up in a few days. I have had athlete's foot for a year or more.

Answer—Send stamped, self-addressed envelope and ask for pamphlet Dermaphytosis (Ringworm, Foot Itch).

Romeo Man Hits English Translations of Hans Christian Andersen Fairy Tales

By WILMA GREENWAY

If you were brought up before the era of comic books and TV, you probably retain a particular affection for the fairy tales of Hans Christian Andersen. The fanciful stories caught your child's imagination, and you never forgot them.

But for one Romeo man, the mere mention of fairy tales in connection with Hans Christian Andersen is enough to stir up fires of indignation.

James B. Giern, 68, of 76007 Van Dyke Rd., says Andersen never wrote any fairy tales. What he did write, Giern claims, was fables which have so suffered in the translation that much of their original meaning has been lost.

Andersen's fables were meant not for children but for adult reading, says the Danish born interpreter, and their background is not fanciful, but realistic.

To prove his point, Giern recently translated one of the famous author's stories from the original Danish, and had it published in the August issue of The Rotarian. The story, "In Millennium," written in the 1840s, appears almost prophetic in the light of present day knowledge as it describes the "youthful people" of America touring old Europe via a steam-powered airship.

Andersen's stories carried moral implications and he usually used characters of his day to illustrate them, the Romeo translator points out.

Seek to Solve Area Problems

New Group to Work for Improvement of All Southeast Michigan

BERKLEY—The Supervisors' Inter-County Committee which held its organization meeting Friday at Cotter's Tavern will seek through co-operation to solve their mutual problems.

Twenty-five supervisors from Wayne, Oakland, Macomb, Washenaw and Monroe counties attended the noon meeting. Members of other counties and members of the Detroit Regional Planning Commission attended as observers.

Director T. Ledyard Blakeman of the Detroit Metropolitan Area Regional Planning Commission discussed a possible source of funds for planning commissions throughout the area.

Edward Connor, chairman of Wayne County Board of Supervisors, was named chairman and Floyd Andrews, chairman of Oakland County Board of Supervisors, vice chairman.

David Levinson of Birmingham headed the 5-man delegation from Oakland County Board of Supervisors.

Five subcommittees were appointed to study long-range inter-county problems.

Representing Oakland County on these committees are: H. M. Thatcher of West Bloomfield Township, recreation, roads and highways; Mayor Howard K. Kelley of Royal Oak, water problems; William Roeser of Southfield Township, sewers and drains; John K. Erwin of Pontiac, St. Lawrence Seaway.

"The concerted action of the group should make it possible to create federal interest in defense areas to obtain federal funds to assist in solving our mutual problems," Mayor Kelley stated.

The next meeting will be held November 4 at Cotter's tavern and the December meeting is scheduled to be held at Monroe.

Pound 'Standby' Said Abandoned

Report Monetary Fund Has Dropped $1 Billion Credit Plan

WASHINGTON—Plans reportedly were abandoned today for the creation now of a billion dollar "standby" credit in the International Monetary Fund (IMF) to help Britain establish the pound as a freely exchangeable currency.

The British, in private discussions with other delegations at the current annual meeting of the 57-nation fund and world bank, were said to have left a clear impression that they are not now prepared for any rapid or drastic move to make the pound freely convertible.

Delegates said this eliminated what had been expected to be a major piece of business at the conference of the governing boards of the twin multi-billion-dollar lending agencies.

Concrete planning for the standby fund cannot be undertaken, IMF officials said, without definite information from the British delegation on the scope, method, and timing of convertibility plans.

Informants said such data has not been provided, although the British gave assurance yesterday they would continue to push forward the gradual removal of curbs on the use and movement of sterling as a contribution to the expansion of world trade.

Mrs. Luce Rapping Tipplers, Mail Says

LONDON (INS)—The London Daily Mail reported today that U.S. ambassador to Italy Clare Boothe Luce has issued stern orders to her staff to watch their behavior at social functions.

The newspaper, in a dispatch from Rome, said Mrs. Luce particularly warned "embassy wives" and female employees not to indulge in drinking at parties.

The Daily Mail said the American Mission in Rome has been embarrassed lately by reports that embassy girls had been drinking heavily.

It said the Rome newspaper, American News, had reprimanded drinkers declaring that "in a country where excessive drinking is not the general rule, it's a shame to see some representatives of our country misbehaving."

Neighbors Work to Help Burned-Out Family of 4

WHITE LAKE TOWNSHIP—Two little girls who lost all their playthings in a fire that leveled their Cedar Island Lake home can still smile through their tears. Because their most precious possession—"Specks," their puppy, whom they thought at first might be trapped in the flames—escaped and is well.

"As long as God keeps Specks safe, we don't mind," two-year-old Wendy Gay and Mary, 6, told a neighbor.

Their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Price, are happy too. Because, although everything—furniture, personal possessions, clothes, their home on 389 Timberline Trail—was swept away in the Wednesday morning blaze, they still have each other, and their children unharmed.

The neighbors aren't happy, though. They're horror-stricken to see the family destitute, and they're canvassing for donations of money, clothing and bedding for the stricken family.

The fire, which struck at 7:30 in the morning, forced Mrs. Price and the children to flee in their nightclothes. Even the children's shoes were burned.

"I know they're desperate," Mrs. Edward Haley of 389 Lakeview Dr., a neighbor, said. "I'll be glad to go anywhere and pick up donations for them, if anyone will call me at Empire 5-5525."

Mrs. Haley stated that Mrs. Price, aged 37, wears a size 10 dress, while Richard Price, also 37, is size 40 to 42. Nothing was saved in the fire except two skirts and two jackets, and insurance only covered the mortgage on the house.

Price, though glad of his neighbors' help, was not despondent. "It took nine years to acquire what we had," he said. "But we're young. We can start over."

The family is living in a partly furnished cottage at 8316 Cascade, Cooley Lake.

Glamour and Excitement Are Rarely Included in Earning a Living

Mishap Was Simply an Accident

Husband's Opinion Correct That There's No Blame

By EMILY POST

A wife tells me: "The other evening my husband and I drove a friend home from a party. In getting out of the car she ripped her stocking on the edge of the door which is quite rough, and in doing this exclaimed, 'There goes my new stockings.' I feel that I should buy her a new pair of stockings."

My husband thinks that the tearing of her stockings was purely and simply an accident and it is not our responsibility to buy her new ones. Will you please tell me what, if anything, I should do about this?"

I agree with your husband.

Dear Mrs. Post: I would like your opinion on the following: The other day an acquaintance offered me a cigarette. I refused, saying, "No thank you, I don't smoke." I have been told that this was unnecessary and that the person to whom I said it considered the remark insulting and showed disapproval of her smoking. What do you think?

"No, thank you," is enough. But saying, "I don't smoke" doesn't necessarily mean that you were showing your disapproval. It depends on how you say it—to say it casually is quite all right, but to say it in a disapproving tone would be discourteous.

Dear Mrs. Post: (a) Are the children in a wedding party—the flower girls and the ring bearer—supposed to be given presents for taking part in the wedding? If so, what is usually given them? (b) Also, if there is a rehearsal dinner, is it necessary that the children be included at this?

No, to both questions. Dear Mrs. Post: Is it improper to send a wedding present as long as four months after the wedding date? My employer just received such an announcement of the daughter of a business associate and he wondered about sending a gift.

It is entirely proper to send a present if he would like to. On the other hand, this passage of time and the fact that it was only an announcement cancels any obligation.

One bad thing about figure is that it often makes a man go straight when the road curves.

New Style Demands the Covered Modest Look

Everybody is succumbing to the new look of covered-up modesty, including Ciel Chapman whose famous decollete ball gowns have been the joy and treasure of every glamour girl in the country. The youthful innocence of today's dress represents a new departure in design for Mrs. Chapman.

But don't let the quiet understatement fool you. Mrs. Chapman still knows how to shape a bosom and her bodice seaming does the trick. The cuffed hip pockets extend slightly around to the back as do the side seams of the skirt, a manipulation that gives an enormously slenderizing effect.

Make it in sheer wool and trim it was linen as it was in the original, or in crepe, faille or linen. Gleaming white satin as accent is a particularly smart note this season.

Girl Should Teach Boy a Lesson

Let Him Know Others Are Around, Take Him Back Too

By ELIZABETH WOODWARD

"Dear Miss Woodward: Ted and I have gone together off and on all through high school—we're both seniors now. During that time we've gone steady several times—seven times to be exact. I still can't figure him out—or his intentions either."

We'll go steady for maybe three weeks then he suddenly stops calling and practically ignores me. But as soon as I seem to be getting back in circulation he calls for a date and before long he's asking me to go steady again.

"I went away during the summer and when I returned home I had a flurry of dates with several different boys. I had a wonderful time though I often thought of Ted and wished I were going with him only again."

He called me the other day and asked me for a date but I refused. (One of his friends told me Ted said he could get me back any time he wanted, so I thought I'd show him.) He has called since, but I wasn't home.

"Now—should I keep on refusing dates with him or not? If I go out with him again, I may lose the chances other boys are giving me. I've dropped them so often to go out with Ted! I'm really over a barrel. Can you help me at all?"

Gals have nine lives—and here you are about to start on your eighth round of going with Ted. Cause you'll go with him again, you know you will. Though it may take the ninth whirl for Ted to make up his mind not to let you slip away from him ever again!

This eighth life together can be a memorable one. The round that began to clarify intentions for both of you. Different from the other times because you're going into it with your eyes wide open, and a mighty unwillingness to have any wool pulled.

This is the round when you can go with Ted, without going steady with him—a bit of juggling that can be widely publicized among your other boy friends.

Accept his next date invitation. Go out with him and have a wonderful time. But make that date the evening before you have a date with somebody else. That will scotch, abruptly, any notion that he's dropping everybody in his behalf.

The next time he's over at the house, arrange a very convenient phone call for him to overhear. (No names or details, just let him get a vague impression that you're talking to some other boy.) He'll soon realize he isn't the only boy you date—and it may force his hand.

When he starts talking steady stuff again, put the soft pedal on it. Remind him of the past and the number of times you've agreed, only to have him default. Jokingly tell him you adore him, but you're leery of entangling alliances with him. He'll have to prove a bit of constancy before you'll listen to any more talk on the subject.

Ted obviously likes you, or he wouldn't keep popping up. And he may start sticking around. But if you "no steady with anybody" publicity is working well, you'll still have your other boy friends. To any questions they may ask about Ted, you can be blithe, unconcerned and very noncommittal, but firm that you aren't going steady with him.

This procedure will get you off the barrel of indecision, and put you on a seesaw for a change. But it's a maneuver that may make Ted wonder how he can make you settle down. And that will be for your ninth life together!

The food chopper won't slip if you put a piece of sandpaper between the clamps and the underside of the table.

Little Alterations Make Bathroom Look Glamorous

Rather than dreaming about a bathroom that's the last word in luxury and glamor, you can take steps to make yours more inviting.

There's nothing more relaxing than a bubble bath of lukewarm water in comfortable and pretty surroundings.

A little carefully planned remodeling can bring about alterations that make for convenience and beauty.

For instance, what about adding a vanity top counter, one that will extend on either side of the basin. This counter can hold all your face creams, makeup, cologne, hair brushes, nail files, and all the other accessories that make good grooming a pleasant ritual.

You'll make your housekeeping easier, too, because wiping off a marble, plastic or tile counter is quicker than digging into the corners of otherwise necessary accessory shelves.

A bathtub set at an angle makes for more glamor and also more shelf room. So, if your bathroom architecture permits it, you can have your old tub shifted to an angle. Then, you can put your bath preparations on the newly created shelf ends.

Be Sensible in Picking a Part-Time Job Field

By ANNE HEYWOOD

So many women who are practical and sensible as wives, mothers and homemakers, go hog-wild when it comes to planning a part time job.

They throw all their good sense out the window, and dream up some perfectly ridiculous scheme from which they will never in a million years make a red cent.

But you cannot convince them of this in advance, because they have a stubborn conviction that "with me it will work."

It has been my experience that this happens most often in two fields—personal shopping, and the travel agency. Every week, women write me that they intend to set up a small business on a part time basis, in one or another of these fields. And it's all my life is worth to change their minds.

Because the past few weeks have brought in more than the usual number of such letters, let me reiterate the facts in the hope of dissuading a few of you from these losing propositions.

First, the personal shopping service. The fact that you just love to buy things for people does not mean that you can get them to pay you for doing it. Friends will let you shop for them forever, as long as it's free, but when you mention charging a fee, they disappear.

Also, it is one thing to buy things for friends with similar tastes—and quite another thing to buy things for strangers whose tastes you think are ghastly.

Second, the travel agency. If you have had no experience in the field, you cannot hope to open an office, no matter how many rich and traveling friends you have. You simply won't know the ropes.

Moreover, even if you get a job in someone else's agency, you will soon learn that the travel field is not full of romance, excitement and interesting people—at least, not for the beginner.

It is full of facts, figures, lot division, time tables and schedules. So if you think the travel field would be simply divine, please think again!

Mrs. Ione W. Bartholomew of West End avenue checks a few of the books she catalogued for the Oakland County Children's Home. She has acted as librarian there for the past eight years when she first volunteered her time.

Local Woman Librarian for the Children's Home

The library at the Oakland County Children's Home has many good books stacked on its shelves but there is still room for many more—the kind of books that boys and girls of today really enjoy.

Mrs. Ione W. Bartholomew, the librarian at the home for the past eight years has come to know much about the interests of the youngsters there.

For example, she says, these boys and girls tell her that they would like stories about modern history, biographies of modern men, radar stories, airplane stories—anything in the mechanical line, sport stories and current magazines.

Those who will benefit from these books are the youngsters from the fourth to the ninth grades.

We learned that Mrs. Bartholomew is an ex-librarian at the University of Michigan and a former executive secretary at Pontiac State Hospital.

We also found how she happened to volunteer her time at the Oakland County Children's Home. When the Woman's Literary Club of Pontiac decided to donate books one Christmas, Mrs. Bartholomew who is a member of the club, catalogued about 60 books.

The superintendent at the time, Arne L. Hulet, told Mrs. Bartholomew that there were several books in and around the building but that they were not in order.

Mrs. Bartholomew offered her services saying she would catalog all the books and put them in order. That was eight years ago.

Since that time Mrs. Bartholomew has continued to give freely of her time acting as librarian. Each Thursday she conducts two story hours for children in the first three grades.

Mrs. Bartholomew wishes to express her appreciation to the people and to organizations throughout Oakland County who have donated so many good books to the home. She wants them also to know what it has meant to the youngsters there.

Confession?—Ask The Man Who Goes There!

Catholics go to Confession to a priest for one reason only: to obtain divine forgiveness for their sins.

But why, you ask, go to a priest? Why not confess our sins directly to God?

Ask the man who goes to Confession and here's what he will tell you: Sin is an offense against God; it must be forgiven by God. It is God, not man, who determines how forgiveness must be obtained. Christ plainly pointed this out when He empowered His Apostles and their successors to forgive sins or to refuse forgiveness.

"Whoso sins you shall forgive," Christ said, "they are forgiven them; whose sins you shall retain, they are retained." (John 20:21-23). Thus Christ authorized the Apostles, and their successors, to pardon or to deny pardon as they judged the sinner worthy or unworthy. To do this they had to know what they were forgiving...the secret dispositions of the sinner...his sorrow and willingness to repair the wrong done to his neighbor by his sins. Who could make this known but the sinner himself—and what is this but Confession?

But Confession—the Sacrament of Penance—is only one of the seven Sacraments Christ left in His Church. Yes, seven—no more and no less! Christ's religion is not merely a message to be accepted, but a life to be lived—from the cradle to the grave. Christ's seven Sacraments are the answer to man's seven basic needs.

Man is born, but he needs to be reborn a Christian in the Sacrament of Baptism. He is nourished, but he needs Christian nourishment in Holy Communion, the Sacrament of the Eucharist. He grows, but he needs to grow and be strengthened in Christian life by the Sacrament of Confirmation. He is cured of disease, but he needs a remedy for sin, so destructive of Christian life, and this he finds in the Sacrament of Penance.

Man lives in society which needs officials to promote the common good—and for his life in the Church, he finds officials provided by the Sacrament of Orders. He perpetuates the human race in marriage, which Christ made the Sacrament of Matrimony. And at death, he needs consolation and strength for the last dread hour which he finds in the Last Anointing—the Sacrament of Extreme Unction.

Would you like to know more about each of the seven Sacraments? How they can help you to meet the seven basic needs of your life? Then write today for a free pamphlet which gives important information concerning them. Ask for Pamphlet No. 5-N.

Ministers electing to come under the program do so as self-employed persons, according to Rex A. C. Atwood, district manager for the Social Security Administration here.

Rosh Hashana Observance Starts at Sunset Monday

In synagogues throughout the world, the Jewish religious New Year will be ushered in at sunset, Monday.

Rosh Hashana, which means the beginning of the year, inaugurates a ten-day period of spiritual self-analysis and prayer which is climaxed by Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement. This begins at nightfall Wednesday.

The ritual for the High Holy Days is highlighted by the sounds of the Shofar of ram's horn, the ancient instrument which once called men to warfare and now calls for combat against wrong doing and shortcomings. Special prayers and melodies voiced in the worship services stress the themes of repentance and divine mercy.

Rosh Hashana is observed two days by traditional Jews; one, by Reform Jews.

Temple Beth Jacob will hold Rosh Hashana services for the Jewish New Year in its new building at 79 Elizabeth Lake Rd. Although the formal dedication will be later in the year, the building will be completed in time for the High Holy Days and will be in full use for Friday evening services, the Religious School and the many functions of its affiliated groups.

Services for the evening of Rosh Hashana will begin at 8:15 p. m. Monday and at 10 a. m. Tuesday. A children's service will take place Tuesday afternoon, at 2 p. m. Rabbi Sanford E. Saperstein will speak on "Doom or Destiny," at the morning service and "Three Hundred Years and Three Questions," will be the title of the evening sermon.

The final Friday Evening Ser-

Retreat Service Speaker Will Be Dr. Eugene Blake

The Fall Retreat of Detroit Presbytery will be held at the new Westminster Presbyterian Church, W. Outer Drive and Hubbell St., Detroit at 3 p. m. Tuesday. Dr. Eugene Carson Blake of Philadelphia, Pa., clerk of the General Assembly will be the speaker. He will also meet with all the clerks of the 82 local churches of this area at this meeting.

The evening service at 8 p. m. will be part of the week's dedication ceremonies for the Westminster Church and Dr. Blake will speak on "Our Church for Our Day."

Dinner Honors Pontiac Pastor

Sunday School Mission
Becomes Baptist Church
Known as Bethany

The Rev. Rufus M. Traver, D. D. will be honored with a community dinner as a testimony to the 50 years he has given to religious and civic affairs in Pontiac, Oct. 7 at 6:30 at the Bethany Baptist Church.

Special invitations are extended to everyone who has been baptized by Dr. Traver, also to all couples who have been married by him.

The Rev. Mr. Traver was born in Rochester, N. Y. He received his ministerial training at Rochester Theological Seminary and his first pastorate was at Hilton, N. Y. In 1902, he came to Pontiac and was pastor of the First Baptist Church for 16 years. In 1918, he became a field secretary and served during World War I in religious work for the United States Army. Dr. Traver served a Baptist Church in East Orange, N. J. for four years, then became field secretary of the Northern Baptist Convention of New Jersey. While pastor of the First Baptist Church here in 1906, Dr. Traver organized a Sunday School as a home mission project. Meetings were held in a private home and later in a store on Green St. This was known as the West Side Chapel of the First Baptist Church and later in 1917 the group was officially organized as the Bethany Baptist Church.

In 1946 an adult Bible Class was named in his honor and in 1947, he was elected to the office of honorary deacon for life by members of the Bethany Baptist Church.

The Travers have one son, Roland, and Mt. Clemens and one grandchild. Speakers for the evening will be Dr. William H. Marbach of the First Presbyterian Church, the Rev. H. H. Savage of the First Baptist Church and the Rev. Fred R. Tiffany of the host church. Wilbur G. Crawford, president of the Mens Club, assisted by Judge H. Russell Holland, J. Fred Gibson, Richard Acfe, Frank Marsh, Irving Zuehlke, Glenford Haviland and Paul Snover are planning arrangements. Reservations should be made at the church office.

Service Starts Oct. 5 for Deaf at St. Trinity

St. Trinity Lutheran Church will resume the monthly services for the deaf on Oct. 5 at 8 p. m. and the first Tuesday of each succeeding month. This is to correct the date in last Saturday's paper, given as Oct. 8th.

NEWMAN A.M.E. CHURCH

Historic Church to Be Replaced

Congregation Formed
90 Years Ago, Continue on Same Spot

The Newman African Methodist Episcopal Church on Auburn Ave. will hold the last service in the old church building at 11 a. m. Sunday. The congregation of the church has existed for 90 years. The original building was a little white frame church house that occupied the same spot. The present building is the result of a remodeling program of more than 50 years ago.

A new church will replace the old one on the present location. Until then, the congregation will worship at 164 Orchard Lake Ave., the recent home of Temple Beth Jacob. The Rev. J. Allen Parker has been pastor of the church since 1943.

Program Is Planned by Lutheran Group

The Ushers' Club of Grace Lutheran Church met recently in Grace Fellowship Hall to discuss the fall program. Harold Boyer, chairman, introduced the 20 new ushers and gave them instructions on church ushering.

The club provides recreational equipment for the Boy Scout Troop 244 and supplies for the Sunday School.

Attorney General's School Shows Value of Citizenship

"We in America don't seem to appreciate what we inherit as much naturalized persons who have to work for citizenship."

This was one of the impressions Miss Janice Antona, director of Pontiac's citizenship training classes, received while at the National Citizenship Conference held recently in Washington, D. C.

Miss Antona, who also said most Americans are "too apathetic toward their freedom," represented Pontiac with Miss Karen Hoff, Miss Pontiac of 1954, at the conference which included 1,500 delegates from the 48 states.

Teaching citizenship and English to the foreign born in Pontiac has been Miss Antona's job since 1936. Citizenship is not only my job, but my life," she states. The theme of the conference was "The Three Branches of the Federal Government—Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow," Miss Antona reports.

The conference, she said, had a twofold purpose: To instill good citizenship in naturalized citizens and to inspire better citizenship in native born Americans.

A Constitution Day ceremony at the Washington Monument was one of the high spots for Miss Antona. The governors of the thirteen original states placed floral wreaths at the foot of the monument.

"It was particularly gratifying to me to know that in a small way we have been doing for 17 years in our citizenship programs in Pontiac what the National Conference was advocating," Miss Antona reports.

Actress Says Women's Faces Have Sex Appeal

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Quiet, everybody! An important announcement is coming. Ready for it? All women should, if possible, have a face, in addition to their other equipment. Because women's faces—better take this down—have sex appeal!

To think of all the time we men have wasted, avoiding looking at their faces, concentrating on staring at their certain other areas. Now comes along fast-rising Hollywood actress Martha Hyer, a former top N. Y. model, to claim that for girls aspiring to fame in movies and television, a face is practically a necessity.

"I don't care how a girl's built," said Miss Hyer, up at the Hotel Warwick the other day, whereupon Tony Calvaca, the gifted photographer, interrupted her.

"I do," he said simply. "Her sex attraction," continued Miss Hyer, of Fort Worth, Tex., who's built very nicely, "is actually in her face."

Take Marilyn Monroe, with that open-mouthed look. Take Audrey Hepburn, with her elfin, boyish-typed body, but who has no sex appeal.

Audrey was flat before Dior was. Her sex appeal's in her eyes, and so is Monroe's, partly, with that heavy-lidded look.

"Lana Turner had the parted-lips look before Marilyn did. June Allyson does it with a sort of naivete. Piper Laurie has a coy look and Elaine Stewart an over-the-shoulder look. But it's done with the face!"

This was all such big news to me that I pressed Miss Hyer for some details.

"How do you make the face work for you, for example, when you're simply posing for pictures?" I asked her. "It's a filthy thing," Martha said. "You flirt with the camera." "Not with the cameraman?" spoke up Tony. "Sometimes it's the same," said Martha. "One time... but never mind."

Miss Hyer then issued some tips on posing wherein other parts of the body are used.

"Never stand straight up and down when posing," she said. "Always angle your body. Never sit with your legs straight together. Have one toe pointed at the instep of the other. Put your hands over the fatty part of your calf." Tony asked for a rear picture of Miss Hyer. She complied, but she wasn't happy about it. "That is my problem," she said, patting her problem. "I got news for you. Don't do a thing about it!" said a fellow who'd come along.

"Sitting down poses are much better for some women for that reason," Martha said.

Miss Hyer — who's suddenly been seen in a great rash of new pictures — including "Sabrina" — may have been right, emphasizing the importance of the face in sex appeal, but if she is correct... how come the photographer took so many pictures of other parts of her?

Russia Asks Return of Czarists in China

TOKYO (AP)—Russians and their descendants who fled the Communist Revolution years ago apparently are being cleared out of Communist China.

A Peiping broadcast heard here said "Soviet residents in China have warmly welcomed the recent decision of the government of the U.S.S.R. to take back to the homeland Soviet citizens who have been living in China."

Russia made a pitch to get back the White Russians in China even before the Communists took over there. Some went back after receiving Soviet assurances of fair treatment.

Bright Future Predicted as Boy, 2, Has Ulcer Out

RESEDA, Calif. (AP)—Two-year-old Wayne Higgins may be destined for big things in the business world. He has been operated on for a peptic ulcer—popularly dubbed the businessman's occupational disease.

Surgeons at children's hospital removed Wayne's ulcer yesterday. They said that never in the hospital's 33-year history had they discovered a true peptic ulcer in so young a patient.

Broadway Star Wins Top Role in 7 Year Itch

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD — Tom Ewell, of all people is playing the lead in the film version of "Seven Year Itch."

This is somewhat odd in Hollywood, where the studios generally consider anyone for a role except the person who originated it on the stage. But Ewell, who played the role 730 times on Broadway, won out over such candidates as William Holden and Gary Cooper. He has the pleasure of appearing opposite Marilyn Monroe in the sexy comedy.

"I never expected to get the part," Ewell admitted between scenes. "In fact, I had already taken a house at Martha's Vineyard for a vacation in September. Needless to say, I'm happy they did choose me."

The actor said he was only out of the show twice during its long run. Once he strained a ligament and couldn't walk for three days. And he took a six-week vacation from the show for a tour of the West Indies.

"It was hard work," he sighed, looking back on the engagement. "I don't mind long runs too much. But in this show I was on stage the whole time. Once you start talking each evening, you know you can't stop."

Ewell is living proof of the theory that actors have to go to Broadway to seek their fortune. He spent several years in Hollywood, marking up a number of memorable performances, largely in support roles.

The play is climaxed by having the girl from upstairs stay overnight with the husband whose wife is on vacation. I wanted to know how that would be handled on the screen. Ewell said I would have to find out from writer-director

Billy Wilder. Wilder brushed me off twice, then bawled me out for writing a so-so review on his last picture. Oh well, you can't please everybody.

I finally found out from another source that Marilyn will stay overnight, but only because Ewell's apartment is air conditioned. They'll sleep in different rooms. So much for movie realism.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y. (UP)—The photo-electric cell, commonly known as the "electric eye," consists of an evacuated glass bulb, inside which there is a metal plate or cathode, coated with a metal such as cesium, and a metal rod or ring, the anode.

The cathode and anode are connected to terminals so that they may be joined in an electrical circuit. Electrons are emitted when light falls on the cathode. These emitted electrons, in traveling to the anode allow electric current to pass through.

Rapid response to changes in light intensity is the feature of the "electric eye." The more light there is, the more electrons are given out, and the larger is the current that may be carried.

Chiefs Scuttle Skippers' Eleven 39-0

BY BILL MARTIN
Pontiac High unleashed a devastating array of offensive weapons last night in battering Waterford 39-0 in the first meeting of the two schools on the gridiron.

A near-capacity crowd of 7,000 spectators watched the Chiefs completely outclass the fledgling Class A suburban squad. Coach Dave Freeman's spirited Skippers were game enough, but just couldn't match Pontiac's speed and depth.

Chiefs marched to touchdowns the first four times they handled the ball and completely throttled Waterford's attack.

Statistics reveal the extent to which Pontiac dominated play.

Pontiac had a 140 lead in the first nine minutes. Slade raced 33 yards for the first touchdown to climax a 64-yard drive after the opening kickoff.

Two minutes later, Waterford punter Lin Salathiel bobbled a poor pass from center and was downed in the end zone by end John James and center Jack Brown for a safety. Waterford kicked off from its 20 and it took Pontiac only five plays to score again. Quarterback Bob Casteel hit end Willie Wilson with a 27-yard pass for the counter.

Chiefs staged sustained scoring drives of 49 and 46 yards in the 2nd period. Sophomore halfback Freeman Watkins scored both touchdowns, carrying three Skipper defenders over from the 13 for the last and dashing around right end for 23 yards on the other. Charlie Spann converted after the latter to give Pontiac a 27-0 half-time edge.

Skippers came up with their longest drive of the night—only 3 yards in four plays—in the 3rd quarter, but ran out of gas and had to punt to the Chiefs on their 25. Ten more plays and Pontiac had its 5th tally. Walt Poe capped the 75-yard march by bulging over from the eight.

Pontiac's final marker came in the last two minutes of the game. Sophomore quarterback Art Poe, brother of co-captain Walt Poe, connected on a 41-yard pass to James on Waterford's 1-yard line and Jimmy "Red" Taylor knifed over for the score.

Pontiac Coach Ed Graybiel used 40 players, with reserves playing nearly half the game on offense.

Chiefs go to Ferndale next Friday and return home Oct. 8 to open their Saginaw Valley Conference schedule against Flint Central.

Orioles End First Season in Majors With Four Pilots

By BEN FLEGER
Associated Press Sports Writer
The Baltimore Orioles ended their first season of operations today with a surplus of managers, a shortage of playing talent, a seventh-place finish and more than a million customers through the turnstiles.

For their final two games against the Chicago White Sox, the Orioles had four, that's right four, managers—Rogers Hornsby, who hasn't been near the club in two seasons, Marty Marion, who also runs the White Sox, Jimmy Dykes and Paul Richards.

As of Sunday it will be Richards all alone. Hornsby has had his last payment on a 3-year contract with the old St. Louis Browns and Marion, fired last season, has finished his contract. Dykes, working on a 1-year deal, has been replaced by Richards.

Richards sat in the press box last night as his new team beat his old team 2-1 on a five-litter by bonus rookie Billy O'Dell, his first major league victory.

Baltimore and the White Sox, like the other 14 major league teams, were scheduled to end their seasons Sunday but the game was moved up to free the park for a football game.

Elsewhere in the majors yesterday the Detroit Tigers whipped the pennant-winning Cleveland Indians 6-4. Philadelphia surprised the New York Yankees 5-1. Washington won twice at Boston, 1-0 in 11 innings and 6-4. Milwaukee finished off its protested game with Cincinnati and won 4-3, then defeated St. Louis 4-2 in the first three-team doubleheader in baseball history. Brooklyn shaded Pittsburgh 6-5 and the champion New York Giants split at Philadelphia, winning 1-0 and losing 4-2.

Cleveland's loss left the Indians only two games in which to break the all-time winning record of 110 games in the American League.

NFL Campaign Opens Sunday; Lions in Action

Detroit Club Is Host to Chicago Bears; Five Other Games Slated

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
Associated Press Sports Writer
Six games, headed by the meetings of the champion Detroit Lions and the Chicago Bears at the Motor City and the Philadelphia Eagles and the Cleveland Browns, Eastern Division kings, at Philadelphia, open the 35th National Football League season Sunday.

The Los Angeles Rams visit Baltimore. Chicago's Cardinals entertain the New York Giants, Washington pays a visit to San Francisco and Pittsburgh travels to Green Bay in the other league openers.

NFL teams will play 72 regular season games, 12 each, before the season winds up Dec. 19 at Cleveland with the Browns and Detroit playing a game originally scheduled for Oct. 2, but postponed because of the World Series.

Eastern Cleveland Detroit Philadelphia San Francisco New York Los Angeles Washington Chicago Bears Pittsburgh Green Bay Chicago Cardinals Baltimore

Five new coaches, Wilbur E. Bank at Baltimore, Jim Lee Howell at New York, Walt Kiesling with Pittsburgh, Joe Kuharich with Washington and Lisle Blackburn at Green Bay, will head their teams in the openers.

Exhibition records indicate that Detroit has an even stronger team than won the NFL title the past two years. San Francisco's 49ers and the Los Angeles Rams figure to give the Lions a battle for top honors in the Western division.

The Philadelphia Eagles' best offensive team in the league last year and bolstered by the addition of Notre Dame fullback Neil Warden, appear to be Cleveland's challenger in the East with the Giants an outside possibility.

DeMarco, 22, the nation's 10th-ranked wrestler, and Christensen, the No. 3-ranked contender for the 147-pound crown, square off at 8 p.m. (EST). The bout will be telecast nationally (ABC) with New England blacked out.

Giardello Beats Jones
PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Joey Giardello probably wishes he never heard of, let alone fought, the Jones boys even though he won decisions over both.

The Philadelphia No. 1 ranking middleweight challenger, scored a unanimous decision over Ralph (Tiger) Jones at the Arena last night in a nationally televised 10 rounder.

Boys' Hunter Safety Program Completed
Final arrangements were made today for the first annual OCS boys' hunter safety program. A big gathering of youngsters in the 12-18 year age bracket is expected Monday night at 8, when gun handling, farmer-hunter relations, and other pertinent matters will be discussed.

Boys from Pontiac Boys' Club, YMCA, PHS, Lincoln Jr. High, Clarkson and Waterford high schools, plus OCS juniors, have been invited, along with any others interested.

Program also includes, besides talks on safety, two motion picture films.

County Prep Elevens Show Offensive Power

By JACK SAYLOR
It only took one week for the offense to catch up with the defense. Rochester, Oxford, Clarkston, Milford, Romeo and Southfield all showed up well on the offensive to score impressive victories in Oakland County prep football action Friday.

Rochester whipped Farmington, 27-12. Oxford downed Clawson, 27-14, and Romeo defeated Troy, 25-7. Walled Lake, Avondale, Birmingham, Holly and Orionville joined these teams in winning their 2nd straight games.

Milford and Clarkston rebounded from opening week losses to take Wayne-Oakland League starters. Milford handled Clarkston, 25-7, and Clarkston topped Brighton, 31-6.

Southfield also recovered from a loss to rout Wilbur Wright, 41-0. Walled Lake blanked Keego Harbor, 6-0. Avondale stopped Lake Orion, 6-0. Birmingham outlasted Cranbrook, 21-12. Holly tripped Hartland, 12-0, and Orionville edged Flint Hoover, 6-0.

Bruce Jones and Buzz DeBaene sparked Rochester as the Falcons twice came from behind to win. DeBaene tallied 2 touchdowns and an extra point. Birmingham also spotted Cranbrook a TD before coming from behind.

Dave Allen's 84-yard kick-off return put the Maples back in front and John Appleford's 40-yard end run for a touchdown in the 4th quarter was the clincher against the stubborn Cranes.

Oxford was a 3rd team force to win the hard way. Trailing 14-6 at the half, Wildcats pushed over 3 tallies, all by Larry Spencer, in the 2nd half.

Fred Baker and Pat Thompson were big guns for Milford and Clarkston in their triumphs. Baker scored on runs of 71 and 10 yards and passed to Don Perckuhn for touchdowns plays of 30 and 40 yards.

Thompson took Brighton's opening kickoff 80 yards for one marker and added 2 other TD's on short plunges. Wolves' line play was particularly good.

Holly was a victim of numerous penalties but won on John Wheeler's 20-yard run in the 1st period and Dave Huber's 7-yarder in the 2nd quarter.

Dave Juhnke tallied on touchdowns runs of 68 and 27 yards and added 5 extra points in Southfield's rout, while John McFall counted twice in Romeo's win over Troy.

Eddie Kasuba's 53-yard run in the 2nd quarter was the lone score as Orionville won its 2nd in a row, and Avondale made it 2 straight as Don Krupp bucked 8 yards in the 2nd period after Barb Evans' 30-yard pass to Bob Kuhlfield set it up.

Walled Lake handed Keego its 2nd straight loss, as Don Pongratz scored in the 1st half and John Reid scooped 50 yards on an end-around in the 2nd half.

OVER THE GOAL—Jon Arnett bolts over from the two-yard line for a touchdown in the 2nd period of the USC-Pittsburgh game in Los Angeles last night. Arnett was a 1-man dynamo in the battle, scoring the last three touchdowns for the Trojans. Southern Cal won the game, 27-7.

Tigers Still in Contention for AL's Fourth Position

CLEVELAND (AP)—Detroit Tigers were back stronger in the 1st division running today in a 4th place tie with the Boston Red Sox.

A Tiger 6-4 victory over Cleveland yesterday coupled with a double Boston defeat at the hands of Washington did the trick.

Ted Gray held the Indians to six hits to nip their bid for a new American League record. A Cleveland victory would have been the 11th for the season, one more than the mark set in 1927 by the Yankees.

Gray had to have help in the 9th inning but was credited with the 3rd victory of the season against five losses.

Tigers blasted the Tribe's pitching ace, Bob Lemon, for 10 hits. Two were home runs by Jim Delensing and Ray Boone.

Delensing hit his 5th homer, in the 1st inning, driving in Fred Hatfield who had singled.

Boone lambasted his 20th home run of the year in the 3rd.

The two runs that gave Detroit the margin came in the eighth, scored by Boone and Wayne Belardi on a single and a fly.

The two teams finish the season with games here today and Sunday.

Stand 7 Under Par Marty Furgol, Littler Tied in 'World Series'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Marty Furgol, who calls himself "always a contender but seldom a winner," found himself deadlocked with young Gene Littler today for the lead in the $40,000 "World Series of Golf."

Each stood at 135—seven under par—as the field moved into the third round of the 72-hole tournament over the 6,814-yard layout at the Congressional Country Club.

Furgol shared the limelight today with his namesake, National Open champion Ed Furgol, who was to tee off with a flock of generals, admirals, movie actors and sports figures in the companion National Celebrities tournament. Ed Furgol was not eligible for the prize money here, but he came at his own expense. Ed and Marty are unrelated.

Marty, 37, playing out of Leominster, Ill., said he has never finished out of the money since 1949 but that he has won only two tournaments, both in 1951.

Marty, who shared the first-day lead with four others, stayed in the running with a three-under-par 68, while the 23-year-old Littler shot into a tie by firing a nifty 66, only one over the course record set in 1939 by Sam Snead.

Bo. Winger of Oklahoma City jumped into contention with an equaling 66, which gave him a 36-hole total of 136.

Dressen in Line for Nats' Post

WASHINGTON (AP)—Chuck Dressen, a managerial type unknown to Washington baseball fans, was reported today in line to manage the Senators, but a club official said Dressen "has not yet signed."

The Washington high command would neither confirm nor deny reports that Dressen would be announced Monday as the club's new pilot, replacing Bucky Harris who stepped down yesterday.

Reliable sources said Dressen would get a 3-year contract calling for between $40,000 and $45,000 a year.

The elder Griffith told a news conference yesterday that Harris had resigned. In Boston, Bucky declared he had been fired. Griffith said he wouldn't make this an issue and that "whatever he says has to be the truth."

Dressen reportedly has been sought for managerial jobs also by the Detroit Tigers and the Philadelphia Phillies.

Auto Races Switched to Sunday Afternoon

Pontiac M-50 Speedway will begin its fall series of Sunday afternoon hardtop racing this weekend. Time trials start at 1:30 p.m. with the 1st race at 3 o'clock.

In addition to the usual hardtop events, a special women's "powder puff" race will be held Sunday. Regular races include a trophy dash, 5 heat races, Australian pursuit, semi-final and 25-lap feature.

background for LIVING

HORWITZ HOME FROM LAKE SIDE—Facing Sylvan Lake, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Horwitz have a contemporary lined one-story home done in white brick with turquoise for trim. Large window expanses bring the outdoors inside the house and the interior colors follow the exterior color scheme to give continuity. The screened-in porch shown on the left will soon be extended for conversion into a recreation room.

PLAIN, LATTICE, BREAKS OVERHANG LINE—Facing James K Boulevard, the front of the Horwitz home has its wide overhang line broken by a section of lattice work the same width. This provides not only line interest in the exterior, but allows extra light to come into the front den windows of the home. Other line interest is in the wood paneling, also painted a turquoise to match the overhang color and the planter units in various heights across the front.

Your Neighbor's House

Horwitz Sylvan Lake Home Beauty Comes From Color, Texture

By HAZEL A. TRUMBLE

Formula for the home beautiful has been compounded by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Horwitz at 949 James K Boulevard on the shores of Pontiac's Sylvan Lake.

By combining courage and imagination with just the proper quantity of practicality, and then adding a portion of the truly dramatic in carnation links, limes, fuchsias and purples against an oyster white background of conversation provoking materials and textures—plus accessories with a cosmopolitan air—the result is a home of rare beauty.

The imagination Mrs. Horwitz attributes to Mr. Horwitz.

The practicality Mr. Horwitz concedes to Mrs. Horwitz. And the courage, they agree, had to be a joint project.

A one-story white brick with turquoise trim; it is designed along the contemporary mode but decorated as individual as the people who live there.

Facing the lake, the living room has one full wall of mirrors. Another wall is in ceiling-to-floor windows.

Ceiling and wall color is in oyster white with the half-wall over the white bricked fireplace in mahogany paneling. This is centered with an oil painting done by Mr. Horwitz of lilies and tulips.

Painting, one of his avocations, has produced several beautiful landscapes and still-lives for the Horwitz home.

The white boucle damask draperies rely upon a geometric design in metallic threads for texture interest. They are lined with an insulating material which keeps out the sun and cold.

Venetian green, in a deep-piled nylon carpeting, covers the floor.

For furnishings, they chose chairs in pink and purple, a pair in white and a button-backed sofa in fuchsia. Another chair is in striped satin picking up all the colors in the other pieces. Large, low upholstered seats are also in pink and purple with the material in nylon boucle.

The fireside table with its inlaid mahogany woods has the convertible feature of being able to raise it to waist height by lifting the top and extending the pedestal.

Other tables and chair legs are also in mahogany woods, but in different shades to give further color contrast.

Conversation piece of this room is the room divider of New Orleans grill work with its huge clusters of grapes and leaves painted a stark white. This same grill work forms a separating wall between the kitchen and the dining area.

Six Italian prints are arranged in a grouping on the dining room wall. This unit's furnishings are also in mahogany with Marquis patterned drapery in blues and whites frames the windows.

Kitchen and breakfast area is done in blues and greens with natural wood cupboards and turquoise and coral furnishings. Adjacent to this is one-half of the two-car garage they converted into a laundry room (bright yellow) and hallway and swimmer's bathroom. The latter room is done in sandstone with brown and gold wallpaper.

At the opposite end of the house, the bedroom wing houses two bedrooms and a master bathroom.

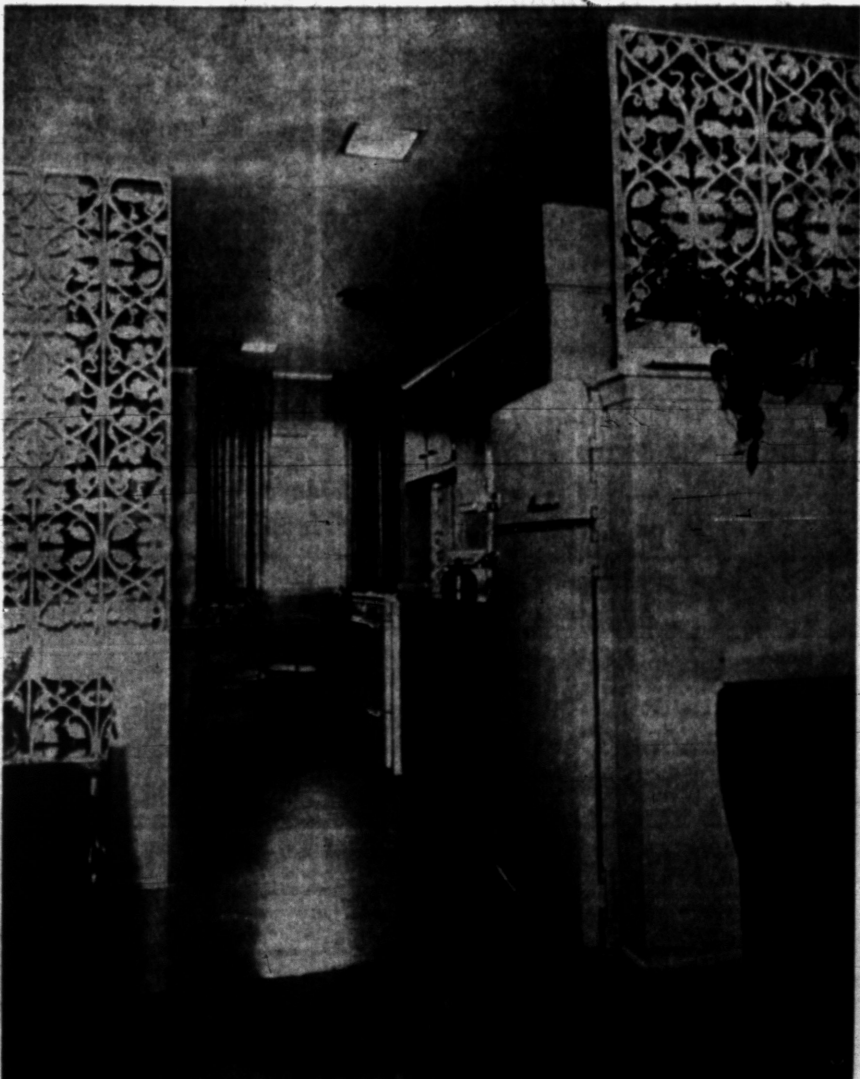

A study in green, beige and copper, this room has a king-sized bed whose headboard and coverlet are tailored in copper colored nylon velvet. The skirt, scalloped in design, has each panel revealing a French pastoral scene. Draperies are full-length Caledon green silk gauze with self-applique in flowers along the borders.

Eye-appeal of this room travels from the windows, to the bed to the interesting corner lighting fixture. It is a brass centered arrangement whose multi-pronged brass tubes hold star

STAR-STUDED FIXTURE—One of the most unusual lighting fixtures in the Horwitz house is this corner bedroom light of brass and crystal stars. Called Sunburst, the central cylinder is polished metal with the prongs in the same brass and the lights a crystal star.

NEW ORLEANS GRILL WORK—Conversation piece of the living room and dining room is a wrought iron wall made of clusters of grapes and leaves painted a stark white. This type of separating unit provides not only a dividing unit but allows for free circulation of air and light.

MIRROR WALL REFLECTS LIVING ROOM—This photo was taken of the full mirrored wall in the living room. The living room is reflected with its white New Orleans grill work, its wall of white draperies, its white chairs and sofa in fuchsia. Other chair color seen in carnation pink and purple. The carpeting is a Venetian green nylon.

MR. AND MRS. HORWITZ VIEW LAKEFRONT—Overlooking Sylvan Lake, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Horwitz are shown standing before their living room windows. A pair of white nylon boucle chairs with button backs are placed in front of this full-wall of windows. Note the pattern of the draperies which is actually achieved by metallic embroidery on oyster white boucle damask.

London has not been in the path of a total solar eclipse for more than 150 years, nor will its people see one in the 20th century.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

VERSATILE HOME—This design can be used for a doctor or dentist, or anyone needing an office in the home, or a four-bedroom house. The vestibule can be opened as part of the living room by means of folding doors. Sliding or folding doors also can be used for several closets, as well as for toilet compartment, which visualizes a wall of glass block separating it from the bathroom. This house covers 1,384 square feet. It is plan C-336 by the Small House Planning Bureau, St. Cloud, Minn.

Use Secrets of Ship Cabin in the Home

Centuries-old secrets of ship's cabin compactness are being borrowed today for family room storage walls.

Theory is that the popularity of the family room increases in direct ratio to the ease with which every member of the family can find his own particular lazy-time gear.

Maximum storage in a minimum of space is the key, and where can you find more efficiently designed storage space than in a ship's cabin?

Landlubber's lockers must be flexible enough to fit into any corner or odd space in the family room, especially into, sometimes lost areas adjacent to fireplaces. They can be built of west coast hemlock or some other softwood which can be readily cut to fit available space. Another advantage of hemlock is that drawer fronts, sliding doors, cabinet doors and other exposed portions can all be made out of the same material.

Natural wood finishes which bring out the texture and grain and beautiful soft sunny colorings help create the informality so essential in the family's playtime room. Most of this finishing is easy to do.

The wood panel boards should be carefully sanded and buffed either before they are installed or immediately afterwards. Then a filler should be applied and sanded. Several coats of varnish or res can be added to create as deep a patina as desired; make sure the surface is sanded smooth after each varnish coat has thoroughly dried. A final application of clear wax will give a beautiful glossy finish.

Mending Invisible If You Try This Trick

To make the mending of fine curtains invisible, cover the hole with a piece of white paper, then run the papered area back and forth under your sewing machine. After laundering the curtains, the paper will have soaked away and the darning will be hard to detect.

Pillow for Playroom

To make attractive pillows for playroom, porch or child's bedroom, cover a small kneeling pad pillow with washable chintz, cretonne or sailcloth cut into easily removable pillow slips.

Horwitz Home Study in Color

The guest bedroom is done in beige and rose with the master bathroom in green and coral.

Other lighting fixtures which give the Horwitz home the unusual touch are located in the entrance hallway where Chinese rickshaw lamps are used on the side walls. For overhead lighting, Italian blown crystal drops are bound in brass.

Next part of the Horwitz project calls for extending the present sun porch out several feet toward the lake and making it into a recreation room.

"We had the fine assistance of our son-in-law, Robert L. Perrin, a Pittsburgh decorator, in developing the color schemes we have," said Mr. and Mrs. Horwitz who have found that compatibility in color makes a home more livable.

Color Plays Tricks; Keep Sample Lighter

When choosing paint for the walls of a room, remember that your sample should be quite a bit lighter than the finished effect you wish to achieve.

The same color on a large area looks darker than it does on a small surface.

Remember, too, four walls of the color reflect each other and deepen the color effect.

A hawk can detect a mouse from hundreds of feet in the air. One sighted, the rodent has little chance to survive, for this fierce, flesh-eating bird descends upon its prey with deadly speed and accuracy.

Takes Unsightly Stain From Brick Walls

The chemical reaction of water and the salts in bricks sometimes forms unsightly, powdered stains on brick walls.

Known as efflorescence, these white, blotchy stains can often be removed by scrubbing with clear water. However, a surer method is to make a solution of one pint muriatic acid and 10 parts water. Apply this mixture with a fiber brush, then rinse with clear water immediately.

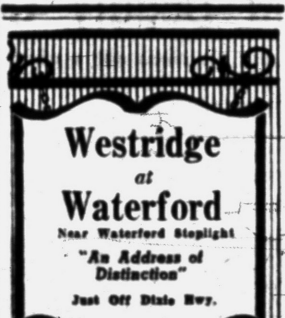

While at it, check for places where water may be trickling down into or behind the brick wall. Inspect flashings, the roof and window sills.

Newest Fabrics Easy to Care for Manufacturers Make Exciting Materials

Wear Resistant

Whether you realize it or not, the major aim of the decorative fabrics manufacturer today is to produce fabrics that are as easy to care for as possible.

Never before has there been such an abundance of easy-to-maintain decorative fabrics, beautiful to look at, resistant to hard wear, and comfortable to live with. Tried and true favorites are also being used in new exciting ways.

Everywhere there's a continued use of metallic glints, sometimes as part of the weave, sometimes in the print—luxurious to look at, but durable.

The "do-it-yourself" movement is also being felt in the decorative fabrics field. There are packets made up to cover a hassock, to make slip covers, and even draperies.

All necessary sewing or upholstery accessories are included in the package, and some of the components are assembled in advance to assist in getting the job finished with a "professional" look.

However, whether you "do-it-yourself" or not, there are many new decorative fabrics with which you should become acquainted.

SMART LOOKING SPACE SAVER—Space budgeting is as important as financial economy in today's home. It is available in a choice of seven finishes.

Telephone Talk Big Problem? Plan Cozy Nook

If there's a lot of telephoning going on at your house, plan a place for it. Perhaps there's a nook nearby that you could take over and convert into your own private telephone booth.

Here are two ideas that can be adapted to any house, making practical use of very little space. They are secluded corners, pleasant, comfortable and easily accessible. And they save the expense of a telephone table and are more convenient, too.

October Household magazine suggests putting up a single, plain shelf in one corner of your kitchen, to hold the phone and book. Decorations, such as a carved wooden clock, what-not shelf, or wall planter, can be added to make a pleasant phoning nook.

Look into the possibilities of converting a tiny hall closet. Such a recessed space may be a little-used part of the house. Minus door, it makes a perfect corner for your phone, away from interfering noise. The overhead shelves of the closet give you a chance to dress-up the bare hallway with bric-a-brac.

Hardwood flooring is now being used for walls and ceilings. A novel decorating job uses regular lengths of maple or birch to line a dining room. Lower grades of flooring strips are used to create patterns.

Terrace Near Kitchen

For the average-size house an excellent place for the terrace is near the kitchen door. This makes entertaining and dining out much easier because the service facilities of the kitchen are nearby. If you are thinking about making a terrace, use quarry tile; it'll last forever and take the roughest kind of wear.

'Room' for New Baby

If you have a new baby at your house and have to find a place for him, here's an idea you may wish to use. Curtain off a corner of your room with sliding curtains of washable drapery material, hanging to the floor. These may be tied back when desired. Slip over a comfortable chair in the same fabric, but make the top like an over blouse, so it may be easily removed for laundering.

SECOND FLOOR PLAN

PLAN # 7306 AP Non-Residential

A MULTI-LEVEL house, with recreation and utility rooms half-a-flight down from main living room floor, two bedrooms and bath a half-flight up, and two more bedrooms and bath another half-flight up. In addition, the living room is dropped one step below entrance foyer and dining room, providing extra ceiling height. This is plan 7306 by Herman York, 90-04 161st St., Jamaica 2, N. Y. The house as pictured was built and sold for less than $23,000 on a plot 80 by 100 at Bar Harbor, Massapequa, N. Y.

Hurricane Is Eye-Opener

Heed Storm Warnings; Avoid Tragic Aftermath

Hurricane or storm warnings usually give you time to take emergency precautions. Here are things you can do to prevent or minimize storm damage.

This list was worked out by engineers of the National Board of Fire Underwriters:

1. Loose material and movable objects, such as boards, garbage cans, porch and outdoor furniture, should be put where there is no danger of their being lifted and blown against your house or through a window.
2. Movable awnings should be raised and securely tied back, or removed entirely.
3. Shutters should be firmly attached as quickly as possible. Delay may mean that it will be impossible to get them in proper position, with the result that they may cause further damage.
4. Garage doors and other large doors should be braced against movement either in or out.
5. If possible, stay in rooms on the leeward side of the house—that is, on the side opposite that against which the wind is blowing.

6. Keep a door or window open on the leeward side. If windows or walls are broken on the windward side, open more leeward doors or windows.

This will help keep internal air pressure from building up and will lessen the chance of damage to leeward walls and windows, or the hazard of the roof being lifted.

7. If your house is divided up by interior partitions, keep partition doors closed to reduce the suction of air currents on the leeward side of the house.

8. If you live on low ground near a waterfront or beach which might be inundated by high water, go immediately to safer buildings on higher ground.

Make Neat Joints Fill Drop-leaf Gap

Don't like that right-angle gap between table top and drop leaves? You can get a neat joint—and a 2-inch wider top—this easy way.

Make a strip of matching wood to fill the space. Blunted nails in the side edge of the leaves and hold the strip in place.

You'll have a trim table surface, the hinges won't show, and the strips come off in a jiffy when you want to have the drop leaves up.

Hot Water Tank Must Fill Needs

Give Thought to Size; Will It Meet Your Family Demands

No one likes to sit around waiting for an old-fashioned, small-sized and slow-heating domestic water heater to replenish itself, least of all the housewife with a huge wash staring her in the face on Monday morning.

Yet, this is just what is happening in many homes today, the Plumbing and Heating Industries Bureau points out, simply because such modern automatic time and work-saving appliances as the automatic clothes washer and dishwasher were installed without giving a thought to whether the water heater would be equal to meeting the increased demand.

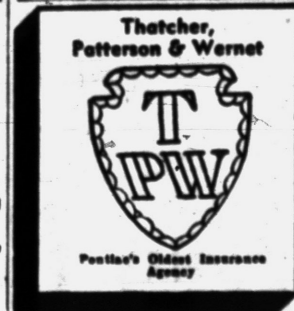

It does not take long for a water heater of 30 gallons or less capacity to be emptied if several in a family of four are bathing and showering at the same time the automatic clothes washer and dishwasher are in operation. Even a heater with rapid recovery takes a certain length of time to replenish itself. And once it is empty, someone is inconvenienced by waiting until a fresh supply has been heated.

The importance of having a qualified plumbing contractor check the water heater's capacity before making an extensive investment in appliances requiring hot water is a point which has been brought emphatically to the attention of homeowners during National Home Week.

As a rule of thumb for determining minimum hot water capacity needed, a house with 1 or 2 bedrooms should have a 30-gallon heater; a house with 2 or 3 bedrooms, a 40-gallon heater; a house with 4 or 5 bedrooms, a 50-gallon heater; and a house with 4 or 5 bedrooms and 3 or 4 bathrooms, a 75-gallon heater. If an automatic dishwasher or clothes washer is contemplated, the next larger size heater should be chosen.

Prevents Tree Decay

U. S. Forest Service figures show that one-fifth of the annual cut of lumber is needed to replace that which has been destroyed by decay. Pressure treatment with preservatives can virtually halt losses caused by decay, yet such treatment cost comparatively little.

Small Space Makes Patio

Delightful All-Weather Area Can Be Made in Simple Manner

Too small for a garden and too large to ignore is the narrow space between home and driveway which has given many a householder the screaming meemies.

Now, some bright people have turned this never-never land into a delightful and unexpected patio.
They've accomplished this charming creation so easily a good many folks are now wondering why they overlooked the obvious all these years.

It can be an all-weather patio by the simple expedient of extending the roofline to cover the area. Upkeep is eliminated by covering the ground with an inexpensive decking of fir two-by-fours laid edge-wise and spaced a half inch apart to permit water to drain away.

A simple, framed wooden screen of fir separates the patio from the driveway, and adds just the touch of simplicity which is the charm of this little patio. The screen should parallel driveway height, easiest to build screen is one formed in fir two-by-fours with one-by-four boards covering both sides of the frame to give a finished appearance.

The screen gives privacy from the traffic of the driveway yet avoids the impression of "clos-in in" around the patio users.

Oftentimes an extension of the roofline by some six or eight feet to cover the narrow, snug area alongside the home is all that is needed to create an outdoor living haven of wide usefulness. The overhanging roof acts as a sunshade, and because the tiny patio is close to the house and generally right in front of the entrance opening onto the driveway, it is a favorite spot when a member of the family has only a few minutes to relax.

Simple Window Valance Good Project for Start

By STEVE ELLINGSON

There has been a great deal of mail lately, and once more we want to say we enjoy it. It occurs to us that you readers might enjoy some of these letters along with us.

For example, there's the lady in Denver. She writes, "Who says woodworking is for men? I'm a grandmother of 76 summers and I can handle a hammer and saw as good as any man. Right now I'm specializing in toys for my grandchildren."

A 9-year-old boy in Wyoming wants to know how to make a bait trap—one big enough to hold a grizzly. We can't help but wonder why he passed up elephants.

This letter we liked especially well. It comes from a widow with three sons: one in high school and two still in the grades. Her letter reads, "The boys and I have been spending our evenings building furniture for our new little home. It's been lots of fun."
"Each one of us has a part of the work that we specialize in.
I cut out the patterns and trace them on the wood. The oldest boy does the sawing, and the younger ones help with the sanding."

"Keeping the boys home evenings had been somewhat of a problem to me, but now they have an interest and are perfectly content as long as they can be in our little shop. I take in washing and the boys are pretty proud to be able to help me in furnishing our home. We're having a wonderful time with our little 'private hobby club.'"

The following is part of an another letter that comes from an attorney in Columbus, Ohio. He writes, "It's been several weeks now since I've rigged up a workshop in my basement. I find it a place of restful refuge when I come home mentally tired and puzzled by some complex legal problem."

"Often at the end of a couple of hours with saw, plane, and chisel, I have come out refreshed and my problem solved. I have known many other professional men who have had similar experiences."

When you write for the patterns, tell us about your shop, what sort of tools you have, what articles you like to make best, etc. We look forward to the letters and hope you'll keep them coming.

Since every home can use attractive window valances, we thought that should be our project for today.

The design pictured here with television actress Marley Sanderson is a dandy project for beginners. Valances of this kind are expensive to buy but cost very little when you build them yourself.

This design is one that may be used in any type of home, with any type of furniture and all kinds of drapes or curtains. If your room has an unfinished and barn-like look, put in some valances, they'll make a world of difference.

The valance pictured is very easy to build with a full size pattern. You simply trace the pattern on wood, then saw it out and finally put it together. Everything you need to know is printed right on the pattern.

To obtain the full size Del Mar Window Valance pattern No. 115, send 35¢ in coin to Steve Ellingson, The Pontiac Press, Van Nuys, Calif.

Guard Porch Columns

To prevent the base of porch columns from rotting, drill small holes in the base of the column to allow any water that may get into the column to flow out. Coat the inside of these holes with exterior paint. Also make sure that the base on which the column rests is ventilated and well drained.

Bring Beauty to Unsightly Spot

Practically every house has a thermostat, a switch, or even a damaged spot on the wall that might be better out of sight.

There are any number of ways you can disguise unsightly features. One method is to cover with plant foliage.

A clock with a planter base is placed so leaves extending from the planter cover the thermostat, without interfering with its use.
The plant hides the thermostat, yet the leaves can be pulled aside for checking the temperature.

It is noted that the planter isn't just hung on the wall by itself, but is part of a pleasant, informal grouping of accessories which fit into an attractive wall arrangement "picture." The type of arrangement will depend on the location of the feature you want disguised.

STENCILED WALLS—An outstanding display of model rooms, noteworthy for their elegance and beauty, was recently presented by the American Institute of Decorators in Chicago. One of the rooms—the work of the New England Chapter of the AID—was a charming and colorful living room with a distinctive wall treatment that was especially appealing. The walls were painted a pleasant putty color. Stenciled designs which picked up the colors of the flowered hooked rug—blue, green, copper and vermilion—were applied above the chair rail, up both sides of the corners and along the ceiling line. With the aid of wall paint, roller or brush and the simple technique of applying a stencil, the idea can easily be duplicated.

Year Round Conditioning

An electric machine that works like your kitchen refrigerator promises to give year-round air conditioning plus winter heating of your house at costs competitive with coal, gas and oil. No clunkers or burners to worry about and it also will eliminate great quantities of dust.

Hanging Mirror Costs Nothing if You Do It

At one time the cost of installing a large wall mirror was often nearly as much as the mirror itself, but now you can hang one yourself in less than an hour with no call for special skills or tools.

By using special brackets, you can install any mirror up to 80 inches wide with the aid of a yardstick, level and screwdriver. And all the manual help you'll need will be in lifting it into place if it's too heavy.

First, figure out where you want the mirror. Using a yardstick and pencil, indicate on the wall the approximate mirror layout. To line up the bottom bracket, use a level and mark a guide line on the wall where the lower edge of the mirror will hang.

Then place the lower edge of the bracket (with non-adjustable clips) along the guide line. Arrange the bracket so clips will be equidistant from the edges of the mirror. Now re-check position with level, and fasten the bracket with screws or toggle bolts.

To set top bracket, measure upward from the lower edge of the bottom bracket the height of the mirror. Mark the line and place the top bracket 1/2 inch below this line. Check the level and install, lining up the ratchet clips with the bottom-bracket clips.

The fourth step is where you can use help—especially if handling a large mirror. With the top ratchet clips raised, place mirror in lower, felt-padded clips. Hold top of mirror against upper bracket, slide ratchet clips down in place. That's all.

Try Landscaping for 'New Look'

New Low-Growing Shrubs Will Give Fashionable Effect

Overgrown foundation plantings of older homes should be renewed with low-growing plants which will never obscure the windows of the first floor. Developed in the past few years, the new, low-growing shrubs will create a fashionable "new look" to the older home, according to the American Association of Nurserymen.

This re-landscaping can be made to pay a "bonus" of an outdoor living room or a plant screen for greater privacy by transplanting the overgrown shrubs elsewhere on the property where their large size may be an asset.

Often the transplanted shrubs can be grouped to provide a background for the rose or flower garden. In such cases, their good qualities will show up.

Strive for all-year, everlasting beauty in your renewed foundation planting. Consult your local nurseryman for shadings of foliage color as well as flower color and form. The grays and greens and light blues of foliage offer interesting contrasts.

The purpose of the foundation planting is to frame the house. It cannot do this if it has become so overgrown that it obscures windows and darkens rooms indoors.

Plan the new foundation planting in gentle curves, rather than straight, rigid lines. You want a free, natural-looking planting undulating around the base of the house, supplying a wealth of color and contrast.

Your local nurseryman can tell you which shrubs and trees will best be suited to the particular architecture of your home. If convenient, show him a photo, or a simple plan of the property that you can draw to scale, including dimensions of the dwelling, walks, drives, etc.

Re-landscaping with modern plants will increase the resale value of the home by a considerable sum. It will add to the pleasure of family living.

Don't Burn Leaves Save for Compost

The somewhat premature dropping of tree leaves has brought on the question of whether to burn or compost them. Where composting is not possible then burning, or better yet, hauling or giving them away, is the answer.

However, burning has been overdone. Much plant residue can be spread about the shrubbery, allowed to act as a winter mulch and dug under next spring adding valuable organic matter to the soil.

If at all possible to do make a compost pile, even though it be small. There is no substitute for well-decayed compost.

The home gardener fortunate enough to possess an asparagus patch should not hurry the job of cutting down the graceful feathery growth. Removal of the tops before they are dead interferes with food storage in the roots and weakens the plants. Delay this chore for another month.

Bare spots in the lawn should be loosened to a depth of two or three inches with a spading fork. A little peat moss or compost and a 4-12-4 fertilizer should be added.

Pulverize the soil and rake smooth, then sow seed, rake lightly and roll with a light roller, or firm the seed in the soil by tamping on a broad board.

Remember the purpose of rolling or tamping is not to pack the soil—but merely to firm the seed so the tiny rootlets have something to protect them against drying out. Incidentally, the cool, moist autumn season is the best time to establish a new lawn or to remedy the faults in an old one.

A Midwest nursery specializing in evergreens and having a nationwide reputation as evergreen specialists recommends that autumn planting of evergreens begin about Sept. 1 and continue until November.

Federal Land May Be Taxed

NAREB to Ask Law
Taxing U. S. Property; Relieve Local Owners

The National Association of Real Estate Boards will urge Congress in its next session to pass legislation which would place most federal real estate on local tax rolls and thus relieve local property owners of unfair tax burdens.

Harry G. Waltemade, New York, chairman of the Realtors' Washington Committee, said this morning.

"The federal government should pay its equitable share of the costs of operating local governments in communities where it holds real property—just as any other property owner is required to do," he declared at the convention of the Indiana Real Estate Association in Evansville, Ind.

Mr. Waltemade, who heads the legislative-action body of NAREB, said the national association would continue in January its earlier efforts to obtain a law in which the United States government would consent to local tax payments.

It is universally recognized that the federal government is sovereign in its own constitutional sphere of operation and immune from local taxing powers, unless it consents to "taxation," or payments to local governments in lieu of taxes. Similarly, states may not be taxed by Washington generally.

Mr. Waltemade said that communities, which rely principally on real estate taxes to maintain themselves, have found their property owners are unfairly burdened with government costs when much of the land in their area is held by the federal government and thus free from taxation.

"The United States government owns one-fourth of all the country," Mr. Waltemade said. "In some states, it owns more than one-half of all real estate."

The realtor leader explained that the national association will continue to press its program to relieve community taxpayers from these inequities. It will urge the government:

1. To decrease its surplus holdings after completion of currently-scheduled inventories of all federal holdings.
2. To waive its immunity from local taxation, and pay local taxes "in the same manner as any other property owners of the community."

Mr. Waltemade pointed out that a law enacted late in the last session of Congress enables federal agencies to dispose of its surplus land more expeditiously through the employment of private brokers.

Postwar Rent Spiral Halted for 9 Years

WASHINGTON (INS)—The Bureau of Labor Statistics says that the persistent postwar spiral in residential rents across the nation was halted in June for the first time in nine years.

BLS made the disclosure as it reported that home building was running at exceptionally high rates in August and predicted only a mild downturn in housing output for the rest of this year.

Just after the end of World War II, BLS said, residential rents began a steady upward rise caused mainly by inflation and the worst housing shortage in history.

Last May, rents reached an all-time high of 128.3 per cent of the 1947-49 average as measured on the BLS residential rent index. This was four per cent higher than a year ago and 40 per cent above the 1946 average.

BLS says: "The residential rent index held steady in June at the all-time peak of 128.3 reached in May. This is the first halt in the steady climb in rents which began in the last quarter of 1945.

"Rents were unchanged in the majority of cities, although small advances continued to be reported in the largest metropolitan areas."

GM to Expand Belgian Plant

Harlow Curtice Reveals $6,000,000 Plan at News Conference

BRUSSELS, Belgium—President Harlow H. Curtice of General Motors today approved a $6,000,000 plant expansion that will double the assembly capacity of the General Motors Continental automobile and truck plant at Antwerp.

Mr. Curtice announced the expansion here following an inspection tour of the Antwerp plant and a luncheon talk at Antwerp before key executives of GM Continental, a General Motors subsidiary.

"We expect to begin construction of the large addition immediately and we hope to have the additional capacity available to us by the middle of 1955," the GM chief told the news conference.

The new program will increase GM's investment in the Antwerp plant to over $20,000,000.

"This will result in the additional employment of at least 800 workers," he said. GM Continental now employs approximately 2,600 persons.

Mr. Curtice said the expansion was necessary to keep pace with a growing automotive market in Belgium, Luxembourg, and The Netherlands.

In his luncheon talk, Mr. Curtice—now on a tour of GM installations in Europe—cited estimates that by 1960 the Benelux countries will provide a market for 166,000 motor vehicles, 26,000 more than are expected to be sold in the three nations this year.

Athletic Director Lauds Police Reserves at Game

Robert F. Beauchamp, Pontiac Board of Education athletic director, today lauded the city's police reserve and 5,500 spectators at the Pontiac-Waterford high school football game Friday evening for maintaining "excellent order and system at the first game."

Nineteen reserve policemen, headed by Sgt. Clayton Randolph of the regular city force, took up patrol duties at Wiser Stadium last night. The reserves according to Randolph also will be on hand for future games in order to avert possible "trouble."

Draws Fine for Illegal Employment of Minor

Lambert Palmer of 10197 Dixie Hwy., Springfield Township, pleaded guilty yesterday to illegally employing a minor when arraigned before Springfield Township Justice Emmett J. Leib.

Palmer, owner of a restaurant and bar at the Dixie highway address, was hauled into court by Mrs. Grace Long, deputy inspector for the State Department of Labor.

She charged Palmer with employing a 14-year-old boy without an approval from the state or a work permit from the youngster's school. Leib fined Palmer $100 and $25 costs.

JESSE R. PETERS

Phone Engineer Leaves Service

Jesse Peters Retires
After 39 Years With Utility Firms

Jesse R. Peters, district plant engineer here for the Michigan Bell Telephone Co. since 1938, retires this month after 39 years in the telephone business.

He was honored at a retirement party held at the Elks Temple and attended by 250 of the friends he has made during his working years. Guests came from Flint, Saginaw, Ann Arbor, Port Huron, and Detroit. He received farewell gifts.

Peters came to Pontiac to supervise engineering necessary for converting the local telephone system to dial operation.

There were 12,000 telephones in the area, including Commerce and Drayton Plains. Today, there are some 42,000 telephones. He has planned all the cables and poles for outside construction as well as rearrangement of facilities to service the growing number of telephones.

He came here from Traverse City having started with Michigan Bell in 1922 at Detroit. Prior to joining the Michigan company he had worked for Ohio and Illinois telephone companies.

World War I interrupted Peters' career and he served with the United States Army Signal Corps overseas. After his discharge, he returned to the Ohio Bell Telephone Company.

He came to Michigan in December, 1919, to work for the Public Service Commission doing telephone appraisal work until he joined the Michigan Bell.

Peters is a member of the Oakland County Engineering Society, Pontiac Chamber of Commerce, the Cook-Nelson Post No. 20 of the American Legion and Pontiac Lodge No. 21, F & AM.

Mr. and Mrs. Peters live at 165 Chippewa road. Their two sons, Allan, of Pontiac and Van of Kansas City, Mo., attended the retirement party. Peters' plans for retirement include relaxing at the family's cabin near Harrison and wintering in Florida.

Teeners Offered Business Career

Youngsters to Be Given Chance to Run Their Own Corporations

Pontiac teenagers will have an opportunity to begin their business careers Monday when Junior Achievement assemblies are held for students at Pontiac, St. Frederick and St. Michael high schools.

The assemblies, to be given by members of the JA staff, will outline the operation of the program which puts teenagers into business for themselves under the sponsorship of established business and industrial concerns.

Last year more than 200 Pontiac teenagers operated eight JA firms at the local business center at S. N. Mill St.

In the coming program year, which opens the week of Monday, Oct. 4, JA again expects to have an eight company operation here. Two JA firms will meet from 7 to 9 p. m. each night, Monday through Thursday, at the Pontiac center.

Every JA firm will be sponsored by an established business or industrial concern, which will have three of its executives work with the Junior Achievers as advisers in management, production and sales.

Achievers start in business by deciding on a product and then selling stock, at fifty cents a share, to raise operating capital. This money is then used to buy the raw materials for production and the firms produce, distribute and sell their own products, with teenagers running the affairs of the corporations.

In May of each year all JA firms go out of business. At this time they account to their stockholders and investors in successful JA firms receive dividends ranging up to ten per cent on their original investment.

Besides the first-hand business experience they gain, Achievers are eligible for numerous awards, including trips to various parts of the country, public speaking scholarships and some $65,000 worth of college scholarships which are made available each year.

Opossum Causes Two-Car Crash on Livernois Road

An opossum which sauntered onto Livernois road near Pontiac road last night was blamed for a two-car collision in which a Rochester housewife was injured.

Lloyd C. Cooley, 49, of 1511 Livernois Rd., Rochester, told Oakland County sheriffs deputies that he put on his brakes to avoid the animal and his car was struck from behind by an auto driven by Edward A. Clemmed, 31, of 1177 Mill Valley, Rochester.

Cooley's wife, Carol, 46, was treated at Pontiac General Hospital for forehead cuts and bruises.

U. N. Votes to Consider Greek Cyprus Demand

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (INS)—Greece has won its fight for U.N. General Assembly consideration of Greek demands for a plebiscite on the British-held eastern Mediterranean island of Cyprus.

The 60-nation assembly overruled British opposition and voted 30 to 19 to place the Greek item on Cyprus on the agenda of the current session. Eleven countries, including the U.S., abstained.

12-Volt Ignitions Win Popularity

More Systems Coming With 1955 Models; May Become Standard

By DAVID J. WILKIE
AP Automotive Editor

DETROIT (AP)—More 12-volt ignition systems are coming with 1955 model automobiles.

In some instances they will be coupled with the projected introduction of new high compression V-8 engines. However, some industry experts say the 12-volt electrical systems soon will be general throughout the industry.

The switch from six to 12 volt systems already has been made by several of the larger car makers. This involves changes in just about everything that is electrically operated on the car.

Whether the higher compression engines and the mounting number of accessories and special equipment items going into the modern auto actually require higher electrical voltage systems is disputed by some engineers.

In announcing the 12-volt system for their new 1955 models, the car makers will say it has been adopted to facilitate starting.

The new V-8 engines will bring higher power output as well as increased compression ratios. Some of the car makers, with new V-8 engines producing between 160 and 185 horsepower, will also have a "power booster" as an extra-cost option.

Just how the power increase will be gained still is to be publicly disclosed. However, it can be done with superchargers or with multi-barrel carburetors.

Diplomats Wait Dulles' Warning

U. S. Expected to Tell
Paris Troops May Go
If She Blocks Bonn

LONDON (U. S. P. Press)—Informed diplomats here say U. S. Secretary of State Dulles is carrying to London tonight a warning that France can't count on U. S. troops remaining in Europe if Paris blocks Allied attempts to rearm West Germany. Dulles is due here tomorrow for a conference on German rearmament with the foreign ministers of France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands, Luxembourg, Britain and Canada.

The informants said if France's Premier, M. Laval, goes along with plans to bring West Germany into the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, the United States likely will renew its guarantees to keep troops in Western Europe. Otherwise, the sources said, Dulles will advise M. Laval that the U. S. "assure" American forces would stay on.

The proposal to include the Germans in NATO already has been approved informally by all the nations involved except France.

U. S. policy makers were said to feel the French might be taking an American defensive force for granted since President Eisenhower declared last April that a "fair share of U. S. troops would help guard Western Europe so long as its security was threatened by the Communist east."

The informants said Dulles will seek a quick decision on the controversial German arms question but will oppose any solution discriminating against the Allies wartime foes.

M. Laval recently with British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden that West Germany should be brought into NATO by the end of this year. The French proposed certain conditions, however, that the other nations have not found completely acceptable.

Smokehouse Has Limit

PULASKI, Va. (U. S. P. Press)—It is natural for a smokehouse to smoke, but those who cure meat know that there is a limit. Firemen called by neighbors to the property of Roy L. Bevil put out the fire accidentally started by small boys playing in the building.

Hal Boyle Says:

Motorcycle Cop Rapidly Disappearing From Road

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J. (U. S. P. Press)—The motorcycle cop long regarded by motorists as a kill-joy, isn't yet as rare as the cigar store Indian.

But he is rapidly disappearing from America's great highways. "We don't use motorcycles at all," said Brig. Gen. W. W. Wanamaker, executive director of the 118-mile New Jersey Turnpike. "They're too dangerous, and they couldn't do the job for us."

His force of 76 state cops all use patrol cars. The Jersey turnpike as a result is now the most heavily traveled road of its kind in the nation. It is now also one of the safest.

"This year we have reduced traffic fatalities to 2.42 per 100 million vehicle miles," said Gen. Wanamaker, "as compared to a rate of 6.6 for national public highways."

The improved safety can be explained by two things—better policing and the fact the public is showing more sense. They have learned how to drive safely on turnpikes, and the novelty of using them as racetracks has worn off. The modern highway cop would like to be regarded more as a good samaritan for motorists rather than as a guy who does nothing but ambush speeders. The figures bear them out.

"Last year we gave 15,339 summonses for speeding," said Lt. Joseph W. Mack, 48, of Haddonfield, N. J., a state policeman for 25 years. "But we helped 42,112 motorists who were in trouble."

For example, we had to arrange 15,880 towings, aided 9,485 motorists with flat tires, 9,050 who had run out of gas, and put out 57 car or truck fires.

"Our maternity record is perfect. Our men have delivered two babies, and never lost either a child or a mother. That's batting 1,000 per cent."

In his quarter century of police work Lt. Mack has gone from the horse to the motorcycle to the patrol car.

"I spent 10 years on motorcycles, and had about 100 spills in that time," he said. "With the patrol cars we can carry the equipment to do things that were impossible for a motorcycle cop."

"We're able to give more first aid to accident victims, and get them to hospitals quicker. We carry two kinds of fire extinguishers—one for gasoline fires, the other for tire or deep upholstery fires.

"Sometimes in truck collisions a driver is pinned in his burning cab. Each patrol car now has a heavy steel pry bar, and we can rip open the cab in a matter of seconds and get him out. In the old days we couldn't have helped in time—he'd have burned to death."

But now and then Lt. Mack, a tall, blue-eyed, powerfully built officer, likes to look back on his first two years in service, when he rode horseback through rural areas of the state.

"I guess I didn't care as much about that horse then as I do now," he said, wistfully. "Her name was Mamie. I wanted to get on the motorcycles because, when you finished, all you had to do was turn in the motorcycle and go eat."

"But with Mamie, I first had to see she was dry, rub her down with straw, spread her bedding, feed her, and saddle soap the leather equipment. And in the morning, before starting out, I had to curry her, feed and water her, and clean out her stall."

"I took care of her every need. She was like my baby. Later on I could have blindfolded myself and Mamie would have taken me to every stop on my regular patrol. Another thing about a horse—in winter they keep you warm on the bitterest day. They have built-in radiant heating."

"It was a wonderful life—the best. Later, when I was on the motorcycle and had learned to hate it, I found out how much Mamie had meant to me."

12 Japs Picket U. S. Embassy

Protest H-Bomb Tests as Fishermen's Rites Are Conducted

TOKYO (AP)—Twelve Japanese demonstrated today outside the U.S. Embassy as funeral services were conducted for a fisherman regarded by his countrymen as the H-bomb's first victim.

Two Japanese newspapers, meanwhile, attacked U.S. officials who have said Aikichi Kuboyama might not have died if American physicians had been allowed to treat him.

The 12 who demonstrated at the embassy were from Yaita, home town of Kuboyama who died Thursday night after he and 22 shipmates were doused with radioactive ash after an H-bomb test at Bikini March 1.

They carried placards and petitions demanding an end to atomic weapons test.

The embassy's iron gate was closed and the demonstrators were told the compound was closed because Saturday was a holiday.

Later, however, some of the demonstrators entered the compound with an appointment on another matter.

They told an embassy official the United States should pay Japan 10 million dollars for damages resulting from the H-bomb tests.

The United States has offered one million dollars and Japan reportedly is asking five to seven million.

The two statements which angered Tokyo newspapers were made by Dr. John J. Morton, director of the U.S. Atomic Bomb Casualty Commission, and by Rep. Carl Hinshaw (R-Calif.).

Morton said Japanese doctors never allowed Americans "to treat or even examine the victim."

Hinshaw said "There will always remain the question of whether this man would have died if Japanese authorities had permitted examination and treatment by skilled physicians from the Atomic Energy Commission."

Ching also criticized this nations two major labor laws, the Wagner Act and the Taft-Hartley law.

He said the Wagner Act provided labor with a license to organize unions but was interpreted as an obligation to organize unions in every industry. He said the Taft-Hartley law is "not as bad as labor thinks, not as good as management thinks."

Mediator Is Opposed to Labor Intervention

POCONO MANOR, Pa. (AP)—The former head of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service says he is opposed to government intervention in labor disputes.

Cyrus S. Ching yesterday told the 6th annual convention of the drug, chemical and Allied Trades section of the New York Board of Trade that "the less government in labor relations we have, the better off labor and industry will be."

Ching also criticized this nations two major labor laws, the Wagner Act and the Taft-Hartley law.

He said the Wagner Act provided labor with a license to organize unions but was interpreted as an obligation to organize unions in every industry. He said the Taft-Hartley law is "not as bad as labor thinks, not as good as management thinks."

Australia Fights Her Kangaroos

Nation Proud of Strange Animal but It Is Pest of Farmers, Sheep Men

SYDNEY (UP) — The kangaroo that strange-looking animal which stands proudly on Australia's national crest and attracts thousands of tourists to zoos, is also a deadly enemy of farmers and sheep men. The kangaroo is considered a vigorous competitor against the millions of sheep reputed "to carry Australia on their backs," and against the cattle that help feed the nation and "Mother England."

Australia without kangaroos would not be the real Australia, but experience has proved that any part of this continent with an uncontrolled surplus of kangaroos is not an easy place in which to try to wrest a living from the land.

That's why pastoralists and land owners wage a continual war against the long-leaping destroyers of pastures, fence-breakers and users of valuable water.

Some men in the lower West Kimberley consider they have 10 times as many kangaroos as sheep on their property, highlighting the potential for increased sheep population in Australia's northwest frontier region.

The Kimberley is a plateau of about 144,000 square miles in northwestern Australia.

It is the place where ranches of a million acres are common. At one Kimberley sheep station 23,000 kangaroos were poisoned in one season—without making much of an impression.

Experts estimate at least 200,000 kangaroos were killed in the one state of Western Australia in 1953. Despite this destruction, landowners say the animals show little signs of diminishing.

The Commonwealth Scientific and Industrial Research Organization was called in to help control the 'roos, and its experts are now engaged in finding the best way to combat, without exterminating, Australia's national animal.

Modern Horses Keep Legs Trim by Electric Unit

NEW YORK (INB)—Most horses are being by-passed in this machine age, but race horses have put machines to work for them.

Thoroughbreds nowadays are used to flying coast-to-coast in chartered airplanes, starting from mechanical gates, listening to the hum of electrical fly traps in the barn area, timed by photo-electrical means, etc.

Latest innovation at Belmont Park track is the use of electrical massage equipment so elaborate that it would do justice to milady's beauty salon. But where the girls are trying to chuck unlighty pounds, the high-strung thoroughbreds are attempting to keep their brittle legs running fit.

The compact unit, which straps on the horse's leg at any point desired, contains unique motors, motor mounts and floating panels which operate within the equipment to induce a circular, horizontal and vertical motion resulting in a deep massage action.

Most horses are retired from racing eventually because of unsoundness in one or more legs and horsemen and trainers have long searched for a remedy or equipment that would compensate the thoroughbred's underpinning for the excessive amount of punishment it takes.

Uneasy Peace Rests on Missouri Prison

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP)—An uneasy peace, marked by watchful armed troops, a few catcalls from disgruntled inmates and politicians' charges, hangs over the riot-torn Missouri State Prison.

Armed patrolmen, police and National Guardsmen continue on duty at the 118-year-old prison where a Wednesday night riot killed four, injured more than 30 and destroyed seven buildings.

Two more brief demonstrations by a few prisoners, confined to yelling and catcalling, reportedly were made yesterday. Troopers quickly quieted the inmates.

Harold Butterfield, Republican nominee for state auditor, blamed the riot on Democratic Gov. Phil M. Donnelly's refusal to discharge Thomas E. Whitecotton as corrections director.

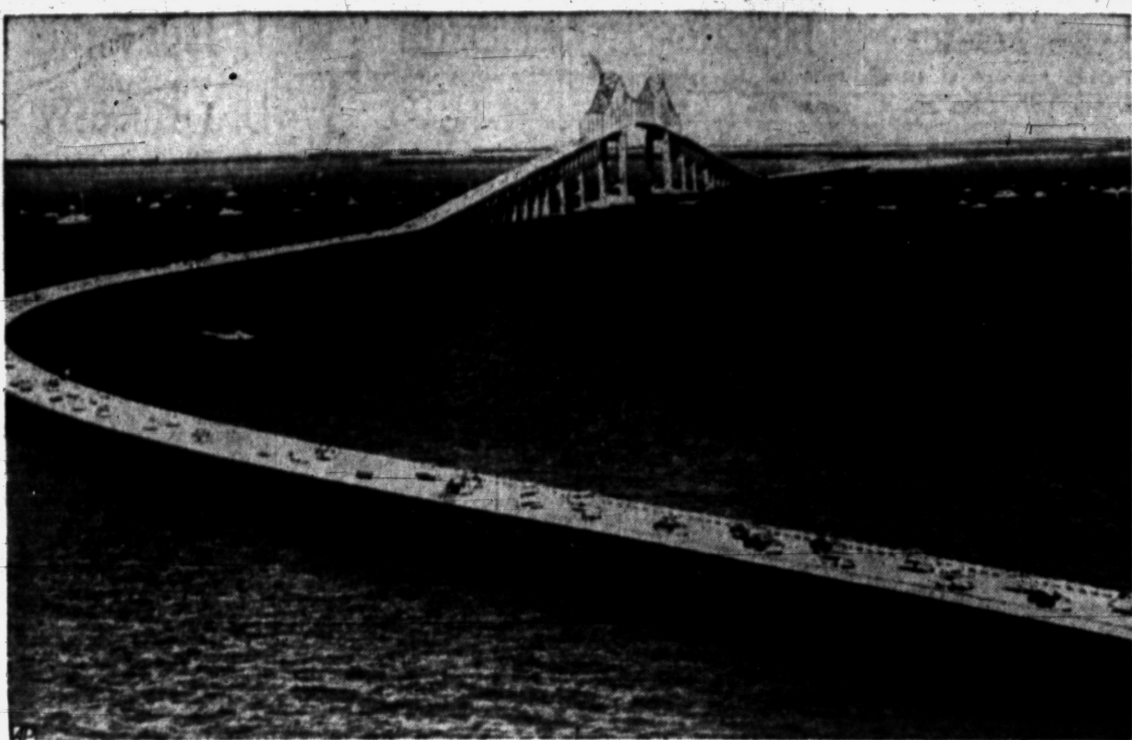

He charged that the prison "grapevine" reported impending trouble as long ago as last July. Whitecotton disagrees, saying it was a spontaneous outbreak.

He said there was no one real reason to explain the riot.

Officials Clear H-Bomb in Fish Deaths in India

GOA, PORTUGUESE, India (AP)—Startled villagers seeing many dead fish floating on the Rio Da Sal (River of Salt) excitedly spread a report that hydrogen bomb tests in the distant Pacific were the cause.

Skeptical officials said dumping of spoiled flour and chocolate into the river killed the fish.

B47 Overshoots Runway, Burns

3-Man Crew Escapes Injury as Jet Bomber Careens Into Ditch

SALINA, Kan. (AP)—A B47 jet bomber crashed into a ditch and burst into flames after overshooting a runway at the Smoky Hill Air Base here late last night but three crewmen escaped injury. One firefighter was hospitalized.

Lt. Leon M. Shaddox, base information officer, said the six-engine bomber had just landed from a routine training flight but for some unknown reason did not stop.

He said the plane rolled about 350 yards beyond the end of the runway before coming to a halt in a shallow ditch. It burst into flames and was destroyed. The plane remained upright.

The crewmen scrambled to safety. They included the plane's commander, Capt. George S. Smith, 33, Allen Park, Mich.; 1st Lt. Thomas H. Waggoner, 26, New Castle, Ind., the pilot, and Capt. Earle E. Western, 33, Sacramento, Calif., an observer.

Four men who fought the blaze were injured. Only A3C Bernard Jackson, 21, Petersburg, Va., required hospitalization. His injuries were not serious. The others were treated and released.

2 Sitting Ducks Surprise

LACONIA, N. H. (UP)—Steve Rollins and Hilbert Siegler of the state fish and game department reported an unusual discovery as they inspected wood duck nesting boxes along the Merry-meeting River.

They found two female wood ducks sitting on eggs in one box. The department said it was "the first recorded instance in New Hampshire where two females have peacefully shared the same nesting box."

Defeat of Soviet Proposal in U.N. Tops Good News

By CHARLES M. McCANN United Press Staff Correspondent

The week's good and bad news on the international balance sheet: The good.

1. The United Nations Ninth General Assembly got off to a good start in New York. A Russian attempt to force a debate on the admission of Red China to membership was defeated by a top-heavy vote of 43 to 11. The assembly voted to postpone any discussion of the issue until next year.

United Nations Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. said the Peiping regime was a puppet of Russia and that a vote for the Soviet proposal would give aid and comfort to aggressors.

2. The Iranian Parliament started debating the ratification of the agreement under which foreign oil companies are to resume production of Iran's nationalized oil. There was every indication that ratification would be voted.

The Iranian government, continuing a crack-down against Communism, was reported to have smashed a Red plot to blow up the Abadan oil refinery.

3. President Eisenhower approved a $700,000,000 plan to strengthen South Korea economically and militarily. The Korean government is to get $450,000,000 in direct military support and $250,000,000 in economic aid.

The program will enable South Korea to build up a strong army and a reserve force, and to train pilots for a jet air force.

The Bad.

1. A solution seemed far away in the attempt to rearm West Germany and give it sovereignty. Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of Germany under pressure from his own people, became increasingly irritated.

It was reported that France might agree to the immediate admission of West Germany to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, as Adenauer demands. But it was feared that France might hedge any offers with conditions which would be unacceptable to either Germany or the United States.

No agreement on the German issue was expected at a nine-power conference which starts in London next Tuesday. The best Allied leaders hope for is that a basis may be laid for an agreement at a meeting of NATO members in mid-October.

2. The H-bomb claimed its first victim when a crewman of the Japanese fishing vessel Fortunate Dragon died in Tokyo. The ship was atom dusted as a result of an American H-bomb test in the Pacific. It was feared that the death would increase Japanese ill-feeling toward the United States.

3. Riot police were called out in Rome to smash possible Communist demonstrations in connection with the scandal over the death of party girl Wilma Montesi.

The Reds are trying to overthrow the government of Premier Mario Scelba on the allegation that it hushed up details of Miss Montesi's death.

Foreign Minister Attilio Piccioni resigned because his jazz pianist son Piero was involved in what the authorities now believe was the murder of Miss Montesi. Piero Piccioni was jailed on a manslaughter charge in connection with the death.

Raps Christmas Trees

VICTORIA (AP)—A campaign to eliminate Christmas trees is being urged on the British Columbia government by Bert Price, Social Credit member of the legislature from Vancouver. "Wholesale slaughtering of Christmas trees may one day imperil the lumber industry," he says.

Medal Returned by Thief

TULARE, Calif. (AP)—A gold medalion of the Order of the Eastern Star was returned by mail to Mrs. Roberta Eaton, 20 years after her purse was stolen. "Apparently someone's conscience" bothered him for 20 years," commented Police Chief Virgil Kelly.

If all the pretzels produced annually in the United States were poured into one cellophane bag, it would weigh 125,000 pounds.

MRA Leaders Arrive

MACKINAC ISLAND (AP)—Leaders from Europe, Africa and Asia began arriving here today for the Moral Re-armament World Assembly opening Saturday. The assembly continues through Oct. 5.
