CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Snipers armed with rifles, shotguns, carbines and bayonets opened fire on a police tow truck at the start of a night of terror that left 10 persons dead, including three white policemen.

Four thousand National Guardsmen patrolled the area today, restoring at least surface calm to the East Side Negro neighborhood that saw burning and looting follow the outbreak of shooting last night.

The battle started, according to police, when the snipers opened fire on policemen removing an abandoned auto. Three officers fell dead.

The coroner listed seven Negroes among the victims and police said two of them were snipers.

STILL UNDETERMINED

Whether the other dead were bystanders, participants, or were in their homes when struck down by ricocheting bullets couldn't be immediately determined.

Among those arrested was Fred Ahmed Evans, who has claimed a position of black nationalist leadership. Police quoted Evans as saying there were 17 men in his group and that he surrendered after his rifle failed to fire while he was aiming it at a policeman. Evans attracted widespread attention more than a year ago by predicting an eclipse on May 9, 1967, would be accompanied by a wave of racial violence in American cities on that date. The violence predicted by Evans, who was then operating an astrology shop, did not occur.

The outbreak also produced:

- 19 injured, 11 of them policemen, one of whom remained in critical condition with a gun wound.
- 50 arrests, about half on looting charges. Others were held for breach of peace, conspiracy, carrying concealed deadly weapons.
- About 200 homeless, from blazes started by fire bombs.
- An unofficial damage estimate of over $100,000, mostly for buildings and their contents, and for several burned-out autos.
- A halt in the sale of alcoholic beverages in Cleveland and surrounding suburbs.
- Mobilization of all of Ohio's 15,250 National Guardsmen with 4,000 dispatched immediately to the state's biggest city to help keep order.

The three-hour firefight with police began when the police tow truck rode up to Euclid Avenue and 123rd Street to "pick up a piece of junk."

"We just started," said Patrolman William McMillan, 35, "when somebody started shooting at me with a shotgun."

The calm of the hot summer night—the temperature was 80—was shattered when bullets began pouring from rooftops, windows, from behind bushes—and police rushed in many more men.

It ended, except for the occasional crack of a gunshot, just before a heavy thunderstorm about midnight cooled off the steaming streets and damped some blazes started by fire bombs.

Police armed with rifles joined National Guardsmen on patrol today.

When the gunfire erupted, police radio calls came thick and fast and had a tone of desperation.

'PRETTY BAD'

"Things are pretty bad down here," said one. "We're pinned down. The wounded men are lying in the street. We can't get to them. Get some armored cars."

Gov. James A. Rhodes, alerted at the National Governors Conference in Cincinnati, promptly mobilized Ohio's 15,250 National Guardsmen.

The office of the adjutant general in Columbus immediately committed 4,000 men to Cleveland, the state's biggest city. Its population of more than 800,000 includes about 350,000 Negroes.

Ohio Adj. Gen. Sylvester T. Del Corso, summoned from Akron to command the guardsmen, said "I see some evidence of a plot" involving black nationalists.

Witnesses said the snipers appeared to have an organized battle plan. Some used automatic carbines.

After some fires were started, snipers began shooting at firemen and police ordered the firefighters out of the area.

There was none of the mob rioting that exploded in the Hough area two years ago, but there was more gunfire, scattered looting of stores and some firebombing. A number of rooftop snipers were reported.

Won't Waver on War—Johnson

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — President Johnson has declared he will not waver from a Vietnam policy he called just and reasonable, despite "the pressures and strains that come normally in any political year."

The nation's governors who heard that pledge had no plans to attempt to match it with one of their own. The 60th National Governors Conference held its final session today, and the agenda did not touch on Vietnam.

Johnson spent an hour last night at the conference.

Before a black-tie crowd of more than 2,000 persons at the governors' ball, Johnson declared:

"Our nation wants peace, our government wants peace, our men in Vietnam want peace and your President wants peace. Yet some among us seem to feel that I or we alone can bring peace to Vietnam. They seem to ignore the presence and irreconcilability of the enemy."

problem of crime. "The federal government does not seek the responsibility of policing our streets—and I hope and pray it will never accept it," he said. "But if the American people look to Washington in a matter so clearly defined as this, it may betray a weakness in our partnership."

Johnson asked for the governors' help in getting congressional action on legislation to "protect our people from guns in criminal hands."

'I KEPT THAT PROMISE'

Johnson said he had promised battle-ground restraint in announcing he would not run again for the White House, and has kept that promise.

"We are willing to go as far as honor and safety permit us to go," he said. "But we are not going to impose a coalition government—or any kind of government—on the people of South Vietnam."

Official Tells Why Road Tax Needed

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the first of three stories on the Oakland County Road Commission's bid for a 1-mill property tax increase for road construction.)

By ED BLUNDEN

Oakland County voters will be asked Aug. 6 to approve a 1-mill property tax boost to improve county roads.

"There just doesn't seem to be any other way," Frazer W. Staman, chairman of the county road commission, said in explaining why.

Staman and the commission have been faced with increasing criticism in the last two years as the condition of county roads came nearer and nearer the crisis stage. Despite stopgap measures, ($500,000 on a short-term basis and $4 million on a 20-year bond) the situation is getting worse.

Staman explained that a lot of county roads were constructed in the 1920s under a statute that stimulated projects but placed a heavy burden on property owners along the rights-of-way. With the Depression of the 1930s, road construction fell off. Then there was World War II when men and materials were scarce.

In the postwar period the population boom brought thousands of new families and hundreds of new subdivisions but relatively little improvements in the road system.

Staman recalls that a $6-million bonding program in the early 1960s accomplished some badly needed work. But mostly it has been patchwork and crisis-type construction.

Rain to Continue, Sewer Project Says Weatherman Receives Boost

Today's rain is expected to continue throughout the night with a chance of thundershowers predicted for tomorrow and more showers on tap for Friday.

Little change in temperature is forecast with highs today in the 70s, dipping into the low 60s tonight.

Tomorrow will be partly sunny and mild.

Precipitation probabilities in per cent: today 70, tonight 40, tomorrow 30.

Low in downtown Pontiac prior to 8 a.m. was 68. By 2 p.m. the temperature was 73.

The Clinton - Oakland Sewer Interceptor Project received a boost from the federal government yesterday with the approval of a substantial increase in a grant of federal funds allocated for the project.

The Federal Water Pollution Control Administration of the Department of the Interior approved the $4.68-million increase that goes to the Oakland County Department of Public Works.

The grant, which is allocated as a certain percentage of eligible project costs, was increased in the same proportion as the eligible cost increased, a fact determined when bids were received earlier this year.

Construction of the interceptor, which will connect to Avon, Pontiac, Waterford, West Bloomfield and Independence township sewer facilities, is to begin this year.

It is slated to empty sewage from the Clinton Valley area of the county into an interceptor being constructed by the Detroit Department of Water Supply which runs to Detroit for treatment.

The original grant for the $28.2-million project was $3.83 million. The majority of the project will be financed by the sale of bonds.

Pontiac Div. Sets 2nd July Record

For the second time this month Pontiac Motor Division has reported all-time record sales.

Thomas L. King, general sales manager, said today that 25,879 new Pontiacs, Tempests and Firebirds were sold during the July 11-20 period.

"This erases the old record set last year when 25,422 units were sold."

In the first 20 days of the month, Pontiac dealers sold a record 90,951 units, 10 per cent more than in the same period a year ago.

Train Hits Bus; 9 Migrants Die

NEWTONVILLE, N. J. (AP) — A two-car passenger train plowed into a farm labor bus Tuesday night, killing nine of the migrants and injuring 20 others in this southern New Jersey community.

State police said the two self-propelled diesel cars of the Pennsylvania-Reading Seashore Lines, carrying some 100 passengers, tore the old school bus in two and threw the rear half 300 feet downt the track. No one on the train was injured.

State police accounted for 39 bus passengers, but did not know exactly how many were aboard.

State police said the train was south-bound from Philadelphia to Jersey shore points where it passed the crossing, which is marked with painted railroad warning signs but no lights.

State Trooper John Caruso said the bus driver, Love Clark, 33, of Wilmington, Del., had a Delaware driver's license which had expired in March 1966.

Four of the injured were reported in serious condition.

Riot Bill Veto Is Upheld

LANSING (AP) — A 40-member bipartisan coalition upheld Gov. George Romney in the House yesterday, defeating an attempt to override his veto of a controversial bill giving emergency riot powers to local officials.

Backers of the bill, who claimed support from more than 50 cities and townships, mustered 60 votes to write it into law over Romney's objection—a majority of the 109-member house, but 13 short of the needed two-thirds vote.

The vote came on the anniversary of the start of Detroit's bloody 1967 racial rioting.

Returning after a month's recess for a two-day session, lawmakers also voted down a bill which would legalize court-ordered wiretapping by law enforcement officers.

The House approved a bill allowing package liquor sales within 500 feet of a school or church and decided against challenging Romney's veto of a measure exempting legislators from Lansing's new city income tax.

The Senate, meanwhile, approved and sent to the House a resolution which would bring lawmakers back to work Aug. 15 and 16 and would end the regular 1968 legislative session then.

A bill creating a state commission on agricultural labor and changing the name of the State Conservation Department to the Department of Natural Resources won House approval and was returned to the Senate.

Backers of the riot bill—which would authorize local officials such as city mayors to impose curfews and ban sales of liquor, gasoline, arms and ammunition—had asked city officials to urge their legislators to vote for the measure.

premeditated," Smith said earlier Tuesday in a joint statement with undersheriff Clifford Fosmore.

"More than one weapon of different caliber" was used in the slayings, Smith said. No weapons were found in the cabin, but different caliber shell casings were recovered, he added.

"It was mass murder," said Lt. Col. Melvin Kaufman, deputy director of the Michigan State Police.

VALUABLES UNTOUCHED

Smith said it appeared robbery could be ruled out as a motive in the crime, since a number of valuable objects, including cameras, were left untouched.

However, Smith said a billfold belonging to Robison contained no money.

There was no sign of a struggle in the cabin, Smith said, and all the furniture was upright.

Police said the body of Shirley Robinson, 40, was found covered with a rug near the cabin fireplace. The body of Robison was found stacked with those of his daughter, Susan, 7, and one son. The other two sons' bodies apparently had been dragged into a bedroom in the six-room house.

The Robinson sons were Richard, 19, Gary, 16, and Randall, 12.

The Robinsons lived at 18790 Delores in Lathrup Village, near Detroit, where Robison published Impressario, a magazine of the arts.

Police said they discovered a note near the cabin door indicating the Robisons planned an airplane trip to Kentucky and were to leave June 25. "We'll be back July 7th or 8th," the note said.

Two cars, one the family's Ford station wagon and the other a rented or leased Chrysler, were discovered locked undamaged in the cabin driveway.

DISCOVERED BODIES

Chauncey A. Bliss, owner and caretaker of Blisswood, a resort area in Good Hart, was the man who discovered the bodies.

Bliss said that earlier this month his father, Chauncey P. Bliss, noticed bullet holes in the window of the cottage and checked under the house when he smelled a strong odor. Bliss said he did not investigate the inside of the house because he thought bullet holes in the window were the work of youngsters with pellet guns.

The Robisons were a close-knit family, the younger Bliss said, who "usually did things together."

"The boys were a good looking bunch," Bliss said, "but little Susie was her father's favorite. She had long brown hair and big blue eyes, a real beautiful girl."

LAST TO SEE ROBISON

The last person who had seen any of the family alive was the elder Bliss, who said Robison had come to his house to pay a condolence visit after Norman Bliss, the younger Bliss' son, was killed in a motorcycle accident two days before the Robisons were to leave for Kentucky.

His son and Richard Robison were frequent companions before Norman Bliss' caretaker recalled. But later they drifted apart, he said.

Detroit Woman Murder Victim Found in Area

The decomposed body of a murder victim found in Farmington Township yesterday has been identified as that of a Detroit woman missing since July 10. Farmington Township police said the body of Mrs. Olivia Allen, 43, was discovered in a wooded area off 13 Mile Road east of Haggerty by a neighborhood resident about 10 a.m.

Officers said she had suffered a blow on the head.

Police said that a warrant naming an unidentified suspect has been issued by the Oakland County Prosecutor's office.

MOTHER OF SIX

Mrs. Allen, the mother of six children and a waitress at the Greyhound bus station in downtown Detroit, was reported missing July 10 when she failed to appear at work.

Her husband and son identified articles found with the body as belonging to the victim, police said.

Evidence found near the body has been sent to the Michigan State Police crime lab in East Lansing, according to investigators.

Police said they are awaiting the results of an autopsy performed yesterday at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital.

Gun Bill OK Predicted

WASHINGTON (AP) — A leading congressional supporter of gun control legislation predicts the House will approve President Johnson's embattled proposal to restrict the sale of rifles, shotguns and ammunition.

The prediction was made by Judiciary Chairman Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., after the House spent seven hours Tuesday wading through amendments to ready a measure for today's expected final vote. Celler's opposite number in the Senate, Judiciary Chairman James O. Eastland, D-Miss., declared his opposition to a "similar bill" called up for simultaneous action in his committee.

Must Accept Role of S. Viet Rulers

Harriman Warns N. Viets

PARIS (AP) — Ambassador W. Averell Harriman bluntly told North Vietnamese negotiators today that to progress toward peace "you must be prepared to recognize the role of South Vietnam's government in working out a settlement of the Vietnam war."

Harriman's assertion in the 14th session of the Paris peace talks followed directly on President Johnson's Honolulu meeting with President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam at the end of last week. North Vietnam regularly denounces the Saigon government as an American puppet.

Harriman told newsmen he had not seen definitive evidence that the lull in the war around Saigon, which began in mid-June, was finally coming to an end. But he added: "What is disturbing is that the terrorist actions on theaters around Saigon have started again. People have been killed. I intend to call attention to that." The Vietcong bombed four theaters in Saigon and nearby towns Sunday, killing 12 Vietnamese and wounding 91.

TO PRESENT APPEAL

Going into the talks, Harriman said he would present to the North Vietnamese negotiators the appeal issued in Honolulu by President Johnson and President Nguyen Van Thieu "for a peaceful settlement and an end of the violence."

Harriman and his aides are also trying to find out whether North Vietnam is weakening its support for the National Liberation Front and offering Washington a new lure among its terms for a final political settlement in South Vietnam.

Harriman would like to know if a statement last week of Hanoi's requirements for a peace settlement was intended to introduce a new element into the slow-moving talks.

The statement from the North Vietnamese foreign ministry last week summarized Hanoi's four-point plan for ending the war, including first, withdrawal of all U.S. forces; second, neutralization of North and South Vietnam; and third, the final decision on unification of the North and South to be made on the principle of "self-determination."

The third point was the one which received fresh treatment. It called for the right of self-determination for the people of South Vietnam in the settlement of their own affairs.

Hearing Aug. 5 on Raises in General Fund Budget

Revisions in the city's 1968 general fund budget — increasing revenue and expenditures by about $350,000 — will be aired at a public hearing Aug. 5.

City commissioners last night received revisions from the administration. Edward R. Gallagher, director of finance, said the revisions, the second since original adoption, are necessary to bring the budget in line with actual fiscal experience.

He said it is now realized that income and property tax receipts will be higher than anticipated in March when the last revisions were made.

The city now expects to receive $3,129,000 for collection of property taxes, up $132,000 from the amount anticipated in March.

Related Stories, Page A-9

anticipated in March, and $2,473,000 from the income tax, up $262,000 from the amount anticipated in March.

OTHER CHANGES

Other changes bring the net increase to $360,000. The income will be utilized for items which were cut from budget considerations in March including about $146,000 for office equipment, furniture and fixtures, special radio equipment, machinery and replacement of city cars.

Creation of a housing code enforcement division for the rest of the year will cost $27,800, increases in longevity pay $36,966 more than was anticipated in March.

Other increases which will presumably be approved Aug. 5 are: cost of referendum election, $5,000; contribution to employees' retirement system, $22,000 more; new personnel, $53,494; vacation and holiday pay allocation left out of the previous budget by mistake, $45,966; amounts needed for wage and longevity increases for employees will cost some $45,000 more than was anticipated.

Exam Focuses on Cash Deposit to Weighmaster

The owner of an excavating company testified yesterday that he had once given a $250 deposit for a special hauling permit to Tom Kennedy, former Oakland County weighmaster charged with embezzling.

Clinton B. Leonard, president of C. B. Leonard, Inc., 6695 Highland, Waterford Township, said the deposit was in lieu of a $5,000 bond he was to secure at a later date.

Leonard was the first witness to testify at the opening of Kennedy's preliminary examination before Waterford Township Justice of the Peace Kenneth H. Hempstead.

Kennedy is charged with three counts of embezzling funds totaling $1,250 from the Oakland County Road Commission.

INDIVIDUAL CASES

Assistant Prosecutor Michael Friedman attempted to consolidate the cases since some of the witnesses to testify are the same in each alleged offense. Hempstead, however, sustained the objection of Kennedy's attorney, James Lawson, ruling that each case will be heard individually to determine if a crime was committed.

Leonard said he had never paid Kennedy in the past for a special hauling permit, but he never questioned him about the deposit when Kennedy wrote on the permit that the money was returnable upon securing a cash bond.

Leonard said that he needed the special permit to use a portion of Middle Belt Road in May 1967. Restrictions on truck loads would have prevented him from operating if he hadn't received the permit.

The second witness, David Hasse, director of the Department of Permits and Special Uses for the Road Department, testified, however, that the department has no record of a receipt showing the $250 deposit.

HE HAD RESIGNED

Kennedy, 49, of 2908 Voorheis, Waterford Township, resigned last October, shortly after being confronted with reports about irregularities in his department. Kennedy has been weighmaster 15 years.

The hearing was adjourned after three hours. It will resume late next month.

3 Still Critical in Powder Blast

Three of five Pontiac-area persons who suffered burns in a gunpowder accident at a Civil War-style weapons demonstration Sunday remain in critical condition at the University of Michigan Burn Center in Ann Arbor.

Some 25 spectators were injured in the explosion of a keg of gunpowder at the National Cannon and Carbine Matches at Somerset Center in Hillsdale County.

Listed in critical condition are Gary Defendorf, 23, of 9418 Dixie Highway, Springfield Township; and James Broegman and Walter Simons, 37, both of Davidsburg.

Reported improving and in fair condition is Carl Lapham, 25, of 8880 White Lake Rd., White Lake Township. Lapham's condition was listed previously as serious.

PATIENT IMPROVES

Jack Miles, 16, of 1811 Meadowridge, Commerce Township, is in good condition, according to hospital officials. Miles was listed previously in satisfactory condition.

State Police said Defendorf and Broegman had their clothing blown off by the force of the blast, which resulted when a piece of wadding from a Civil War mortar was caught in a breeze and blown 65 feet to the powder keg, igniting it.

Defendorf was burned over 80 per cent of his body, while Lapham and Simons were burned over 60 per cent of their bodies, according to police.

Assessments Confirmed on Water Main

BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — The township board this week confirmed a special assessment roll for the construction of an eight-inch water main extension on four streets in the extreme northwest corner of the township.

Confirmation of the project, in the Ward Orchard Subdivision, came after a petition of local property owners in the affected district. More than 54 per cent of the residents of Wellington, Desaix, Maward and Atkinson were in favor of the special assessment that will be required to fund the project.

Township officials confirmed the project, at a cost of $28,420 to be assessed on a site basis.

A township official said that definite figures, concerning the amount of assessments to each individual have not yet been determined.

SEWER HEARING

In other action the board held the first hearing for a sanitary sewer special assessment district for the Cranbrook Hills-Chemleish area.

The board passed a resolution setting a public hearing for 8:30 p.m. Sept. 9, at which final approval will be decided and public objections to the project will be heard.

The board also awarded two contracts to G. & H. Contractors of New Haven. The firm submitted a low bid of $18,487 for the Ward Orchard Subdivision sanitary sewer project.

G. & H. also was chosen to receive a contract for a relief drain project for the Edison-Desaix area. Its low bid was $14,172.

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — State Rep. William Hampton, R-Bloomfield Hills, is one of several prominent Republicans serving on a committee out to gain two seats on the Michigan State University Board of Trustees this year.

63 MEMBERS

The group, calling itself the Committee for Better Trustees, was formed in 1964. Today it has 63 members.

"Our basic goal... is to elect trustees who are interested in, who will support, who will fight for and who will work objectively with the MSU administration," said Kenneth Thompson, a GOP Trustee.

The committee has endorsed a Bloomfield Township man, Richard D. Ernst of 4364 Orchard Hill, who announced his candidacy yesterday.

"As a Michigan State alumnus, I am convinced that the present makeup of the board must be changed for the good of the university," Ernst said.

A 1948 graduate of MSU, Ernst now serves as a member of the Executive Board of the MSU Alumni Association as well as a member of the Board of Directors of the Oakland County MSU Alumni Club.

Need for More Road Funds Is Explained

What the road commission has faced is a series of circumstances that also has affected many other governmental functions — rising costs of wages and materials and increased demands for services, but little increase in the scope of funding.

What the commission hopes to gain with the 1-mill levy are funds that will be directly applicable to road improvement projects.

$9.5 MILLION
The commission's income, from state gas and weight taxes, and participating funds, is about $9.5 million per year. However, maintenance, administration, salaries and equipment costs account for all but about $1.5 million per year.

The commission hopes to realize about $3.5 million a year from the millage levy, based on the county's valuation.

These funds would be slated entirely for road projects and would provide a total of about $5 million for the next five years above and beyond the cost of running the operation.

According to Staman, this amount still would not provide what engineers feel are the needs of the county. However, it would provide an obviously closer program to what is needed.

The road commission has prepared an engineering report which it is presenting to all communities. In it is explained the road needs and probable costs. Staman said support for the millage vote is being sought in all the communities and the pledge is made that money collected from the communities will be put back into them on an equal basis.

Legal Probe Speedup Urged

LANSING (AP) — Gov. George Romney has asked Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley to do his best to speed up completion of an investigation of the Livingston County courts and lawyers.

Romney made his request after receiving a telegram from the industrial committee of the Livingston County Chamber of Commerce.

The chamber group complained that the state bar, the attorney general's office and other authorities have been conducting the probe for the past six months.

"It is public knowledge that there are some irregularities yet these authorities have not made any public statement of their findings," the telegram said.

"CANNOT WAIT"

"The citizens of this county cannot wait for this information they must know before the Aug. 6 primary. Many of the candidates for public office are attorneys," the telegram continued.

"It is necessary the innocent attorneys be cleared before the primary and the ones under investigation be publicly exposed. The voters cannot afford to make an uninformed choice of candidates which would only aggravate an already deplorable situation," the chamber group said.

The accusations involved alleged improper handling of estate settlements by lawyers and the courts and other legal irregularities.

Romney told Kelley it would be beneficial to the people of Livingston County if one or more of the investigations could be concluded before the Aug. 6 primary.

Romney said the state bar investigation must be conducted in confidence and that any report would be submitted to the state bar and eventually the State Supreme Court.

The governor said, however, by the attorney general covers "If the charges are unfounded, this should be clarified immediately," Sharpe said. "If the charges are true, disbarment proceedings and whatever other action is indicated should begin immediately — so that attorneys who had no part in the investigation can report within the next two weeks the public trust without suspicion on Aug. 6."

An aide said the investigation, weeks.

In Waterford School District

Five 'Deficient' History Texts in Use

Five history textbooks in use in Waterford Township secondary schools have been cited in a State Board of Education report as being typical of "deficient" social studies texts used in Michigan schools. The report states the texts are "very seriously deficient in their treatment of minorities in general and Negroes in particular."

The five are among a dozen texts reviewed by an advisory committee appointed by State Superintendent of Public Instruction Ira Polley. The committee was assisted by a team of six prominent historians each of whom reviewed two of the books.

The panel selected the 12 texts on the basis of a statewide survey of school districts that showed them to be the history books used most widely in the state and, therefore, broadly representative of all social studies texts used in the state.

The Waterford Township School District was one of 25 state school districts included in the survey of textbook use.

TOTAL TONE

Criteria used in evaluating the books were historical accuracy, realistic treatment of the accomplishments and contributions of minorities, treatment of the concept of "race," and the total tone of the textbook.

On these bases, the committee found the texts to be historically inaccurate, misleading and distorted with regard to minority groups.

Holly Festival Is This Weekend

HOLLY — An Antique Show and Sale and an Arts and Crafts Show will highlight this community's summer festival Friday and Saturday.

The Antique Show and Sale, to be held in Wheeler Motor Sales, will feature eight area antique dealers, a festival spokesman said.

A number of local artists and craftsmen have already entered displays for the Arts and Crafts show which will be held at the corner of Martha and Saginaw.

Other features of the fair include free motorcycle rides by the Freedom Riders Club, a free kiddie matinee at Holly Theatre, free balloons, barber shop quartet singing, dance band entertainment and 15-cent hot dogs served by Holly Girl Scouts.

The report was submitted July 10 to the State Board of Education but copies of it were not distributed to local school district officials until late last week.

Alexander said that Waterford administration officials and board members have not yet had a chance to study the report in depth.

Garrets End Teaching Career

School Plaque Honors Pair

WALLED LAKE — Students at the Clifford Smart Junior High will not soon forget teachers Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Garrett. The retired couple won't easily forget their experience in Walled Lake either.

The Garrett Award plaque will hang permanently in the lobby of the school as a remembrance of the pair, who have served a third of a century advising young people in the area.

Mr. and Mrs. Garrett, of 620 Union, Milford, announced their retirement this spring and recently received commemorative plaques from the Walled Lake Schools.

PLAQUE WORDING

Inscribed on the plaque hanging at the school lobby are the words, "Bestowed in appreciation of long and devoted service to the students of Clifford H. Smart Junior High School."

Metal bars attached to it bear the names of all the Student Council presidents at the school since its inception. There is room for several more.

At the bottom are etched the names of the two honorees and the date of their retirement.

Both Garretts began their teaching experience in 1925, shortly after their meeting at Central Michigan University and subsequent marriage.

THEY WERE TEAM

Garrett's first job in education was as principal of a new school in Fredrick. His wife, Maybelle, was assistant principal, answering to her husband.

From Frederick the couple moved to Fowler and then to the Milford schools system before beginning their long stay in Walled Lake schools.

The Garretts look back on their years in education, and note several changes since they began.

2.4-Mill Tax Boost Set for Holly Schools

HOLLY — The board of education approved an overall tax increase of 2.4 mills for the coming school year at a special meeting this week.

The increase, authorized in previous elections, is the result of the new tax rate of 23.7 mills for operations and 4.9 mills for debt retirement approved at the meeting.

"The school operations' rate is three mills higher than last year's 20.7 mills. The debt fund was cut from 5.5 mills."

In other business Monday, the board approved appointment of four persons to varied positions — Gerald Hanson, legislative chairman for the Oakland County School Board Association; Robert Longstreth, representative to review the Intermediate District Budget; Howard Upcraft, voting delegate to the Michigan Association of School Boards; and Roger Gillespie, representative to the advisory council.

School Superintendent Russell D. Haddon was directed to apply for federal funds for the purchase of a school site. The money to be sought comes under the Open Spaces Act, in which the federal government matches funds put up by the local district.

EXCESS LAND

The act also specifies that the total area of purchased land must exceed the amount of property actually needed for school facilities. The extra land must be used for public grounds such as picnic sites or forest preserves.

The board scheduled a special meeting Aug. 5, to discuss the classroom situation

Insurer Cancellations of Fire Coverage Hit

LANSING (AP) — The Michigan Legislature issued a stern warning Tuesday to insurance companies that arbitrarily cancel fire insurance policies in riot areas and threatened to deny the firms federal assistance if the practice continues.

"This is a general warning that we don't want them to be unreasonable in their cancellations," said Sen. Harvey Lodge, R-Waterford.

The warning came in a resolution supporting a request by State Insurance Commissioner David Dykhouse that all companies declare a moratorium on cancellation and nonrenewal of fire insurance until the high risk property insurance pool goes into effect this fall.

Many policies recently have been canceled by out-of-state insurance firms in order to minimize their contributions to the pool, Lodge said.

The pool insurance law goes into effect Aug. 1 and provides that all companies writing property insurance in Michigan contribute to the pool in an amount proportionate to the amount of basic property insurance they write in the state.

The pool isn't expected to become operative until this fall and property owners whose policies are cancelled may have to pay abnormally high premiums or remain uninsured until they can apply for pool insurance.

Lodge cited instances of where an elderly widow's policy was canceled because of the location of her home—despite the fact that she had never filed a claim — and of businesses whose policies were canceled and then reissued at higher rates because of the location of their plants.

"We're trying to protect the people of Michigan who qualify for insurance and who are entitled to insurance," Lodge explained.

In order to back up its demands for a moratorium, the Legislature said it would keep a close watch on the cooperation shown by firms in order to determine what course to follow for a pending federal reinsurance program.

The federal program, expected to be approved by Congress in the near future, establishes a reinsurance program that would be available to Michigan insurers to stabilize the property insurance market.

Lake Orion Council Snubs Riot Insurance

LAKE ORION — In answer to a letter from Aetna Life and Casualty Co. village council has decided to renew its insurance policy, but not pay the additional premium required for coverage of loss due to civil disturbances.

The letter said liability insurance "is subject to an exposure far beyond that contemplated by the contract. This exposure is riot and civil commotion and mob action."

John F. Reineck, village manager, said the council took the calculated risk in deciding not to pay the estimated additional premium of $420 because it did not foresee any such trouble.

The council also considered at the recent meeting a disorderly persons ordinance. It would call for a fine of $100, imprisonment in the County Jail for up to 90 days, or both, for those found guilty of being disorderly in a public place.

Final action will be taken at the council's next meeting, Aug. 12.

In other action the council accepted the annual report of Reese and Parenti, village attorneys.

The law firm reported handling 25 justice court cases and four Oakland County Circuit Court cases, as well as one case involving the Village of Lake Orion, coming to a total of $3,200.

The council agreed to pay the lawyers' fee minus the $2,000 yearly retainer.

SAFE WATER

A new safe water ordinance was read to the council. Final action will come at a later date, according to Reineck.

The ordinance was proposed to promote the safe use of waters in the village, provide for safe regulation of the use of the waters, and inform boat owners of their duties and responsibilities.

Principal of School in Thailand

Ex-Avondale High Head Returns to Asia

Rosco V. Crowell, former Avondale High School principal will leave tomorrow to return to his post as principal of the International School at Bangkok, Thailand.

Crowell, a principal at Avondale for 18 years, has headed the international high school for two years.

He has been at the home of his brother, Frank Crowell of Warren, during a two-month leave.

Approximately 3,500 students from 34 nations were enrolled at the school's two campuses last year. It is the largest international overseas school in the world and includes first through twelfth grades.

'AN ACCIDENT'

Crowell presides over grades nine through 12 — a college preparatory school which enrolled 968 students last year.

"It was almost an accident that I came here," he said.

"I decided I'd like to work overseas so I inquired at the University of Michigan. They mentioned a place in Bangkok, but I wasn't interested."

He explained he wrote an inquiry in January 1966 more out of curiosity. He met the superintendent of the international school in June of that year and signed a contract soon afterward.

LIKES ASSIGNMENT

"I like overseas teaching very much. It's quite interesting," Crowell reflected.

"This is something I haven't experienced before. I haven't run into any special problems — as the Thai words 'mai pen rai' say, take things as they are."

Crowell noted that his job isn't too difficult since Bangkok is very Americanized.

"Our turn over is between 500 and 600 students each year. We teach primarily the same things American high schools include in their curriculum, but we run one month ahead so that the students who leave will have little trouble readjusting if they move to America," he explained.

SIMILAR TO U.S.

Crowell noted that the administration setup, like the curriculum, is similar to that of schools in the United States.

A twelve-member school board is elected by parents of tuition paying students. Six new members are elected to two-year terms each year.

The preparatory school is growing rapidly. Next year, Crowell expects the enrollment to top 1,100.

BOSTON CASUALTY — George Jalbert, 22, of the Roxbury section of Boston, examines the scalp wound of Michael Mahoney, 19, of Beacon Hill after a fracas with police last night on historic Boston Common. Police have been enforcing midnight curfews on hippies who have been congregating on the Common where cows once grazed and Redcoats drilled.

Candidacy Is OK'd for 2 Romney Aides

LANSING (AP) — Atty. Gen. Russell Hellman, D-Dollar Bay, Frank Kelley has ruled that the governor's legal aide may legally run for the Court of Appeals without first resigning his position.

The ruling was asked in the case of Robert Danhof, legal aide to Gov. George Romney, a candidate for the court post.

Kelley also held that the chairman of the State Civil Service Commission can run as a candidate for the County Board of Supervisors without a conflict of interest existing between the two posts.

This question was raised because Richard Milliman, a former press secretary to the governor and present Civil Service Commission chairman, is a candidate for the Eaton County Board of Supervisors.

Both queries were from Rep.

Girl From Waterford at Medical Meeting

A 16-year-old Waterford Township girl has been selected to represent Oakland County at the National Young Adult Conference on Birth Defects sponsored by the March of Dimes.

Marsha Karnes of 2120 Old Lane left Sunday for Brigham Young University in Provo, Utah, to attend the conference. She is one of 250 young people representing every state at the convention.

Miss Karnes was chosen this spring to be Waterford Township High School's teen leader for the 1968-69 school year. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Karnes.

In the case of Danhof, Kelley said that as a non-classified state employee he is not prohibited from becoming a candidate for public office.

In the ruling on Milliman, the attorney general said that members of the Civil Service Commission are not employees of state civil service subject to prohibitions against political activities that apply to workers under civil service.

"Moreover," Kelley said, "the offices of chairman of the State Civil Service Commission and member of the County Board of Supervisors are sufficiently unrelated so as to preclude the possibility of a conflict of interest."

PROPRIETY AT ISSUE

Hellman, a Democrat, said several people had asked him about the propriety of the candidacy for office by the two Republican aides close to Romney. Kelley also answered three other questions raised by Hellman. The attorney general ruled:

- There is no conflict of interest involved if a county registrar of deeds also operates a private abstract business.

- A member of a county social services board is not required to resign to become a candidate for state representative.

- A member of the State Board for Public Community and Junior Colleges is not required to resign to become a candidate for state representative.

Testimony Hurts Fortas' Chances—Hart

WASHINGTON (AP) — Testimony during Senate committee hearings into President Johnson's Supreme Court appointments has hurt chances that Abe Fortas will be confirmed as chief justice, according to a leading supporter of the nomination.

Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., says opponents of the nominations picked up much ammunition during Senate Judiciary Committee hearings into the naming of Fortas, now an associate justice, to succeed retiring Earl Warren.

Hart said that Fortas' refusal to answer questions about his decisions, his acknowledged participation in White House conferences since becoming a member of the court, and testimony attacking his rulings in obscenity cases all provide grist for the opposition.

But he, nonetheless, said he stood by his earlier prediction that the committee would recommend Senate confirmation by a 10-6 margin at worst and possibly by a vote of 12-4.

PLUS OR MUNUS?

What happens in the Senate, Hart said, will depend in part of whether Republican opponents decide that fighting his appointment will be "More of a plus than a minus for them politically."

The committee, called into closed session today, seems unlikely to finish its hearings in time for the full Senate to act before September on the nominations, which includes the appointment of federal Judge Homer Thornberry to be an associate justice.

Chairman James O. Eastland, D-Miss., said he never predicts what the committee may do, but told newsmen he could not conceive of the Fortas nomination being brought up in the Senate before September.

Congress is expected to recess at the end of next week until after Labor Day because of the Republican and Democratic national conventions.

PICTURES DISPLAYED The committee concluded nine days of public hearings Tuesday on a sensational note when Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., displayed magazines with pictures of nude men and women in suggestive poses and said that distribution of such "hard-core pornography" has become much worse since Fortas has been a Supreme Court justice in 1965.

Thurmond also raised the question of whether a conflict of interest was involved in Fortas taking part in an obscenity case unusual degree of judicial and suggested that Fortas be restrained.

invited to return to testify on this point if he cared to do so.

Eastland later said he would extend Fortas a written invitation to come back.

The conflict of interest question was raised by Thurmond in citing testimony Monday by James J. Clancy, an attorney for Citizens for Decent Literature Inc., who oppose Fortas confirmation.

CITES CASE

Clancy said that Fortas' law firm filed a brief for a publisher in a 1957 case and also reportedly helped him get a mailing permit for his men's magazine and then in 1966, as a member of the Supreme Court, Fortas sat in judgment on an appeal involving another firm of the publisher.

Thurmond wanted to know if the Justice Department had investigated this. Christopher told him that "a careful review of the investigation files has revealed there is no reason why Justice Fortas should not be confirmed as chief justice."

The final witness was Deputy Atty. Gen. Warren Christopher, who was called for questioning about a Justice Department memorandum reviewing Fortas' service on the Supreme Court and crediting him with an taking part in an obscenity case unusual degree of judicial and suggested that Fortas be restrained.

Thurmond pressed Christopher to tell him what the Justice Department had to say about Fortas' record in obscenity cases.

"Our view over-all is that Justice Fortas has taken a moderate and reasonable view in the field of obscenity," Christopher replied.

Come to Osmun's great storewide summer clearance sale.

July is when Osmun's stages a spectacular clearance sale. We do it, really, to clear the place out... to make room for the new merchandise we'll be showing for Autumn. So suits and sport coats and topcoats and shoes and zip jackets and slacks and you-name-its are going for much lower prices than you'd pay at other times. (You-name-its with names like: Eagle, Petrocelli, Ronald Bascombe, Ambassador, Phoenix, Martinelli, French Shriner, Crosby Square, M'sieur, Esquire, Fashion Park, etc.) And everything that's now sale-priced at Osmun's previously was regular-priced at Osmun's. It's all merchandise right off our racks. And it's all right on our racks now. Specially tagged. With savings, in some cases, up to 45 per cent. So come and look. The sale goes on all of July. But don't wait too long. An Osmun's sale is a bad time of year to wait too long.

Study Means to Prevent Hijacking

The hijacking of airliners is fast becoming an item of only mild news value simply because it happens with such frequency. In fact, the news that government and private agencies are finally considering steps to prevent airline hijacking was more newsworthy last week than a story about a hijacking several days earlier.

This situation comes to pass obviously because government and private agencies have been sitting around watching airliners being forced to fly to Cuba and doing little or nothing about it.

Last week the Federal Aviation Administration and the Air Transport Association disclosed that devices to photograph passengers boarding a plane, keep them under secret in-flight surveillance or detect large pieces of metal like a pistol are being studied.

While surveillance has some merit, it would seem the most valuable preventative item would be a device installed at gates which would detect metal objects being carried by passengers. Surely something of this nature must be done to stop this rash of illegal hijackings.

While we cheer these agencies for showing some desire to tackle the problem, we can't help but wonder why it took so long for someone to decide preventative measures were in order. Maybe it was because the most recent hijacked airliner carried among its passengers a U.S. Senator from Mississippi.

One can only imagine what action might have been taken had the airliner carried a higher ranking government official.

'Fathead' Could Be Compliment in Disguise

Although medical science continually warns us that excess fat can lead to dire health problems, it may turn out to be just the opposite topside. Being a fathead may have its advantages.

A researcher, Dr. GEORGE D. CHERAVIL of the Marquette School of Medicine, suggests there may be a definite relationship between fatty material in the brain and mental illness—the more fat, the less likelihood of illness.

He says studies have shown less fat in gray matter from former mental patients than from normal brains.

Various fat deficiencies, including that old devil, cholesterol, have been indicated in cases of schizophrenia, senility, degenerative diseases of the brain and spinal cord and alcoholism.

CHERAVIL cautions that research is still preliminary and doesn't support a cause-and-effect relationship. But further study could conceivably lead to therapy aimed at reversal of whatever processes may be involved in fat deficiencies.

It could turn out that while sticks and stones may break our bones, at least one name is a downright complement.

Even the Eskimos Have Gone Modern

The illusion-shattersers are at it again, coming up with those cold, hard facts to break up our fondest dreams of people in faraway places.

This time it is word that stereotypes concerning such peoples get in the way of understanding. The word comes from a University of Wisconsin anthropologist, WILLIAM S. LAUGHLIN.

The people in question? Eskimos. You know, those people of the North who dwell in igloos and rub noses. You're in for a surprise.

Only one in 10 has ever been inside an igloo. Most live in frame houses, according to LAUGHLIN.

The nose rub, so dear to the hearts of storytellers of the Great North, has been replaced with the kiss. Furthermore, lest we harbor any other illusions about this ancient people, a five-year, $1 million study of the race is about to be undertaken.

All of which makes us blubber for the good old, myth-ridden days, not to mention the long, long nights when Eskimo gals gnawed on reindeer hide to soften it for clothing, thus becoming the first among females to chew the fat with the neighbors.

Myth Surrounds VP Nominees

By RAYMOND MOLEY
There are periods when political commentators and editors find acute shortages of interesting topics to write about.

They then fall back upon a few hardy perennials or, one might say in this case, quadrennials.

When the presidential nominees are all but determined — and they usually are a few weeks before the nominating conventions — speculation returns to possible nominees for vice president.

In more than one presidential campaign year in the past, when this question of vice presidential candidates has been brought about, I have taken the trouble to point out a lesson in politics which I learned a long time ago.

And now since I realize that no one long remembers or little notes what is written by a political writer, I venture to repeat that lesson.

FDR STRATEGIST

I learned it from the late Ed Flynn, boss of the Bronx, the Democratic national chairman in 1940 and the wisest and most influential of all FDR's strategists for many years.

It was in 1944 when, because of Flynn's advice, Roosevelt had decided to "dump" Henry Wallace from the ticket. As a replacement, Roosevelt had substantially promised the vice presidential nomination to James P. Byrnes who had left the Supreme Court to help the president in the war effort.

At that point Flynn, as he told me later, decided to intervene. He forcefully and even heatedly told the president that if Byrnes were on the ticket he could not hope to carry New York state.

Then, in answer to Roosevelt's request for an alternate, Flynn answered: "The man who will lose you the fewest votes. No candidate for vice president has ever helped the head of the ticket." And so, Harry S. Truman, relatively unknown nationally, was chosen.

FLYNN WAS RIGHT

After Flynn told me about this I looked at the record over the years. It was clearly apparent that Flynn was right.

Vice presidential candidates have been chosen for many reasons but I find that until 1960—a quite definite exception to the rule—none has helped the ticket.

Sometimes they have been chosen by pure chance after the nomination of the presidential candidate. Often geography has had something to do with it.

President Eisenhower and ex-President Hoover, but the listless campaigning of Lodge unfortunately lost many votes for the ticket.

Two "dream tickets" have been the subject of much comment. One was Rockefeller-Reagan.

ERRAND BOY?

This has been repeatedly rejected by Ronald Reagan no doubt because if he accepted such a nomination he would stultify every principle which he has stood for in his public life.

And why leave the great office of governor of California to be an errand boy for the governor of New York even if that governor should be elected president? Countless thousands of Republicans would turn away from such a prospect.

Or a Humphrey-Edward Kennedy ticket? The young senator would sacrifice a promising future to be the tail of the kite of a man whose views on Vietnam his brother Robert Kennedy vigorously opposed.

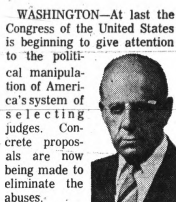

The two men who are likely to be nominated for President will no doubt follow a rule created by Nixon himself and followed by Humphrey in the office of vice president. They will want someone who will be loyal to the President, who will help in off-year campaigning and will be used by the president for miscellaneous chores.

Why Not Make It A Team Operation!

David Lawrence Says:

Ervin Plan Aims at Judge Setup

WASHINGTON—At last the Congress of the United States is beginning to give attention to the political manipulation of America's system of selecting judges. Concrete proposals are now being made to eliminate the abuses.

Sen. Sam LAWRENCE, D-N.C., who has been criticizing appointments to the judiciary made "for political purposes and not for judicial excellence" has offered an amendment to the Constitution to provide a new way for the President to choose justices of the Supreme Court of the United States.

Under the Ervin proposal, when there is a vacancy on the court, the president would be required to call a conference of the presiding judges of the highest court of each state and of the chief judge in each of the 11 United States circuit courts of appeals.

This conference would designate and transmit to the president the names of five or more persons considered qualified to fill a vacancy on the high court.

WOULD BE OBLIGATED

The president would be obligated to select one of the designated persons for nomination. If the Senate did not confirm the first name, the president then would be obligated to pick someone else from the list.

Up to now, the Department of Justice either has submitted names to the president in advance or has looked up the record of persons whom the president has indicated he might be interested in appointing to the bench. But the department has not itself publicly discussed the qualifications of the appointees.

The Department of Justice could be made an independent agency, headed by an attorney general who would be appointed for a term of 10 years. The department could be conducted like the Comptroller General's Office, which is responsible directly to Congress for its acts and not to the executive.

Many senators were astonished this week when the Department of Justice transmitted a memorandum pointing to the appointment of Justice Fortas and making laudatory comments about his decisions, while at the same time criticizing the congressional committee for expressing doubts as to the wisdom of the appointment.

If it were not for the widespread criticism of the Supreme Court during the last three years, has raised eyebrows in Congress and elsewhere.

Humphrey Fears Revolt by McCarthy Delegates

By BRUCE BOSSAAT

WASHINGTON (NEA) — It is supposed to be something of a put-down for Vice President Humphrey that President Johnson seems to be stage-managing the 1968 Democratic national convention as he did the 1964 affair at Atlantic City.

Actually, the vice president's strategists are far more concerned over a put-down of another sort — how to put down an incipient rebellion at Chicago by the most militant of Sen. Eugene McCarthy's chosen convention delegates.

Humphrey men estimate that upward of 200 of the senator's committed delegates probably will be in noisy revolt throughout the convention and very likely will walk out under the glaring eye of glib television.

As one aide puts it: "These people are going to look on Chicago simply as a place to demonstrate against the war."

FEARS REAL

The Humphrey camp's fears of a seriously disrupted convention thus are very real, and are not assuaged by triple-perimeter ticket checks to prevent packing of the hall — or provisions for a tight security seal to block any storming of the doors as some hotheads are calling for.

There is obviously no way to bar the doors to legitimately chosen McCarthy delegates obsessed with extreme dovish views on Vietnam and determined to condemn as undemocratic any convention that does not nominate McCarthy.

Humphrey leaders think they saw the shape of things to come in the Minnesota convention a few weeks ago.

A delegate who had been sharply criticized by McCarthy in the hall stood up to answer on a point of personal privilege. A cluster of McCarthy delegates, loudly chanting, "We want Peace!" from the convention floor, drowned him out for several minutes. He gave up.

'Express Your Opinion on Court Appointments'

Americans, support your senators who are questioning the qualifications of Justice Abe Fortas and Homer Thornberry. The Senate Judiciary Committee is acting on our behalf. We do not have the opportunity to question these men but our senators who represent us do; and if they don't, they are letting us down.

President Johnson would like to place his pals on the bench on the highest court in the land, without question. Why should we accept this? We will have to abide by the decisions of these men for the rest of their lives. Do we not have the right to know everything about their qualifications and backgrounds?

The decisions handed down by the Supreme Court affect each of us in our daily life. It is our duty to see that we find the very best men in the Country for such high positions. Find out the facts and write your Senators to tell them how you feel.

The Press has endorsed the much-debated Orion Airport plans. The same Press also dwells upon fighting crime and seeking better law enforcement, complete with strict prosecution of the guilty. The Press has always had strong feelings on traffic safety. Does anyone know what percentage of accidents directly results from the deplorable condition of our northbound County roads? Shouldn't priority go toward maintaining them?

You often refer to the beauty of our Michigan waters. I agree, but the water backing up from sewers and drains each time it rains isn't such a source of pride. Shouldn't funds go there maybe before a private jet airport?

Please settle an argument. In "Have Gun, Will Travel," did Paladin have a first name, and if so, was it Ward or Wire? R. A.

REPLY

To our knowledge, his first name was never given on the show. However, his card read "Wire Paladin," which may be what's confusing you. The "Wire" was not his name, but rather a suggestion to send a telegram (wire) to Paladin in case of trouble requiring outside assistance. He was for hire as a troubleshooter and could be reached by wire in San Francisco.

Hovertrain

Atlanta Journal

One of the hits of Expo last summer in Montreal was the Hovercraft, a British boat which traveled across (and above) the water on air jets. It was fun to ride and fast. Now comes word from England of an experimental Hovertrain, which uses the same principle. The train will have one track and will be guided by it and not rest upon it.

The motor is described as linear induction which works by magnetic traction and has no moving parts. Very little power will be required to move the train at high speeds along a T-shaped concrete platform.

This is worth thinking about and watching. Rapid transit still is in the future. A Hovertrain sounds economical, fast and a lot of fun besides.

Firefighting

The Holland Evening Sentinel

In the bad old days, fighting the fires that destroy so much priceless forest was largely a job for men armed with little more than shovels, courage and tenacity. It was tough, hazardous work, and often the battle was lost.

Fighting forest fires is still tough and hazardous. Modern equipment has made it less so, however, and raised the odds for success. Some of the stuff now used to help the firefighters has a fine Buck Rogers flavor about it.

To spot fires, in the first place, the U.S. Forest Service uses aircraft equipped with infrared sensors. Firefighters wear heat-resistant shirts and carry an aluminum blanket that whips into an instant fire shelter. The "troops" can call in flying fire engines — tank helicopters capable of dumping 250 gallons of water at once or spreading it over a 60-foot-long swath.

Frozen dinners in pop-top cans are dopped to men caught on distant ridges. If they must spend the night they use lightweight, disposable paper sleeping bags. Light plastic one-man water tanks, collapsible after use, replace the bulky, heavy tank once carried into battle.

Though combating forest fires is still no picnic, modern equipment and methods make it safer and more efficient. As a result, the chances of saving our forest heritage from destruction are greatly improved.

For Girls . . .

Wichita Kansas Eagle

This may interest only girls who hate gym classes because of the complexities of dressing and re-dressing, and making their hair presentable for return to regular classes. Anyway, some earnest researchers have proved that daily gym classes aren't as beneficial as those held three times a week. The research took place in California, where state law requires daily physical education classes of 50 minutes. As a trial, some schools gave classes three times a week totaling 250 minutes.

The result — the trial class students showed an increase in physical fitness almost double those in regular classes. The reason is obvious. Students in the 50-minute classes had to spend about 40 percent of their class in dressing and re-dressing. And fixing their hair.

Rocky, Reagan Agree That Latter Is Gaining

By The Associated Press
Ronald Reagan and Nelson A. Rockefeller found themselves in agreement today on a surprising point: Both saw growing support for Reagan's announced presidential candidacy.

Rockefeller, governor of New York, told newsmen at the National Governors Conference at Cincinnati Tuesday that he knows of 55 delegates, most of them in the South, who have switched from support of Richard M. Nixon as the Republican presidential candidate.

Rockefeller said 37 have lined up behind Reagan and the rest behind his own announced candidacy.

Despite conceding this shift to Reagan, Rockefeller insisted that only he can win for the Republicans in November.

Reagan, appearing at a separate news conference, didn't have any specific figures. But the California governor said

"rather, sizable movements" have sprung up designed to make him a candidate.

"I can't ignore them. It's there," Reagan said.

The governors conference provided a focal point for Tuesday's nationwide political doings which included a demonstration-marred visit by Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey to New York City, a switch from support of Eugene J. McCarthy and agreement in electrical workers disputes that had threatened both national conventions.

McCarthy and Humphrey are fighting for the Democratic presidential nomination.

SPEECH BY PRESIDENT
State chief executives trooped into a Cincinnati hotel ballroom for statements and comments throughout a day that was capped with a speech by President Johnson in which he reviewed world and national problems.

Among the convention highlights:

• Gov. Tim Babcock of Montana, Nixon's western regional chairman, said Nixon "has the strength in the key states from coast to coast" to win in November.

• Louisiana Democrats selected the state's first racially integrated convention delegation and predicted all 50 members would support Humphrey.

• Gov. John B. Connally of Texas stopped short of saying demonstrators milled in the streets outside, that the next president will have to reexamine America's national priorities.

GREAT STRENGTH
Several governors earlier in the conference suggested Kennedy would add great strength to a Humphrey ticket.

Humphrey, meanwhile, indicated that he was reserving for himself the right to pick a running mate, although he wasn't locking the door to an assist from the convention.

Humphrey didn't indicate his preference for a running mate, but showed some irritation when asked repeatedly about whether he will talk to Kennedy about the possibility of accepting second place.

The news conference proceeded a $500-plate dinner at which Humphrey declared, while hundreds of antiwar demonstrators milled in the streets outside, that the next president will have to reexamine America's national priorities.

Humphrey headquarters in Washington released a letter the vice president wrote July 15 to the Democratic Platform Committee, suggesting seven themes to be considered in shaping the programs to insure full employment; strengthening of the free enterprise system; an

Humphrey has been saying in "open presidency" with citizen campaign appearances and participation at all levels, and position papers and included: full use by society of the Peace, at home and abroad; a benefits of science and "Marshall plan" for the cities; technology.

Grads to Hear MSU Official

Terrence J. Carey, director of admissions and scholarships at Michigan State University, will address about 70 summer graduates of Pontiac Central High School Aug. 2.

The ceremonies will be held at 7 p.m. in the school auditorium, according to Richard T. Wick, Central summer school principal.

Carey, who has held his post for three years, has been in the MSU office of admissions and scholarships since 1961.

A 'Soft' Criminal

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — A burglar, described by police as a thirsty "soft liquor man," hauled away 14 cases of beer from a tavern, but didn't touch the whisky supply.

Romney: Voters Unmoved

CINCINNATI (AP) — Gov. George Romney of Michigan says "most people still are undecided, uncommitted and unenthusiastic" about the November elections.

Asked how he would classify himself, the Michigan Republican said "if I was enthusiastic, I would be committed to a candidate."

Romney told a news conference at the National Governors Conference Monday he was disturbed about a poll among his state's voters showing large blocs either undecided or planning not to vote in November.

Romney said he hopes the Republican National Convention will be "open." He said no one candidate already has the necessary delegate votes locked up to get the nomination.

Romney said his delegation will remain uncommitted until the convention.

Lowest of 2 Bids Accepted on Demolition of Buildings

The lowest of two bids was accepted last night by the City of Pontiac to begin demolition work on the R. Elkins Excavating and Demolition Co. of Union Lake, formerly used for operations of the Department of Public Works and Service. The bid of $7,632, some $2,000 less than the next lowest bidder, was accepted by Joseph E. Neippling, director of the Department of Public Works and Service, said that the bid was for the demolition of a building at 117 Orchard Lake, formerly used for operations of the Department of Public Works and Service.

City commissioners last night voted to continue the city's bus subsidy of the Pontiac Transit Corp. until Aug. 31 and to consider by that time a new proposal for subsidizing the bus operation.

An agreement with the city and the bus company calls for an annual subsidy of up to $35,000 per year. The agreement ended June 30 but the commission had not decided to continue the agreement pending further discussion with representatives of the company.

According to the 1968 edition of Automobile Facts and Figures published by the Automobile Manufacturers Association, three-fourths of the 1967 cars had power steering, more than 38 per cent power brakes and an equal number had factory-installed air-conditioning.

Commissioners also approved the lowest of six bidders — James & Brown, Inc. — for installation of $50,000 worth of new equipment at the city's sewage treatment plants. Approved the only bidder — Alvah Greer and Sons of Roseville — for $36,365 worth of sidewalk replacement work, mostly in the downtown area. Approved the lowest of three bidders, Max Frisinger of Ann Arbor, for $14,000 worth of construction on two city intersections.

Authorized receiving bids for the 1968 major street resurfacing and reconstruction program by Aug. 19.

Authorized advertising for bids for a street construction program for the city's industrial park area, which may run up to $200,000, City Manager Joseph A. Warren said.

Authorized receiving bids by Aug. 5 for $75,000 worth of asphalt patching on local streets.

Authorized receiving bids by Aug. 5 for $75,000 worth of asphalt patching on local streets.

Authorized receiving bids by Aug. 5 for $75,000 worth of asphalt patching on local streets.

At one point, plainclothesmen entered a tenement with guns drawn and arrested six persons, including one woman. They were charged with disorderly conduct. Seven other arrests were made, including two for burglary at a local supermarket. No injuries were reported.

City Acts to Speed River Work

City commissioners last night took another step to implement a multimillion dollar improvement of the Clinton River in the southwest section of the city.

Commissioners authorized a resolution petitioning the Oakland County drain commissioner to undertake a project to "relocate, widen, deepen, straighten, life or make any improvements necessary" to the river from Crystal Lake to existing improvements at Orchard Lake and Congress.

Joseph E. Neippling, director of the Department of Public Works and Service, said that petitioning the drain commission now will speed up the actual improvement although the actual construction will be some time away, because of the time necessary to undertake such projects.

The commission last week authorized a contract with consulting engineers to make recommendations on what steps would be necessary to improve the course and flow of the river.

MAJOR DELAY
Neippling asked the City Commission to begin the necessary paper work by approving the petition now instead of waiting until the engineering study is undertaken to overcome the problem of major delay in bringing a project into existence.

It was necessary to revise the estimates, Neippling said, in order to bring them in line with actual bids received on the projects.

Engineering estimates of the cost of the two drainage projects were $523,457 but actual bids, received July 1, amounted to $654,000.

continued a 10-year decline in mission approved new estimates 1967, with about 8,600 wells for two large drainage projects drilled last year, 40 per cent less than in 1957.

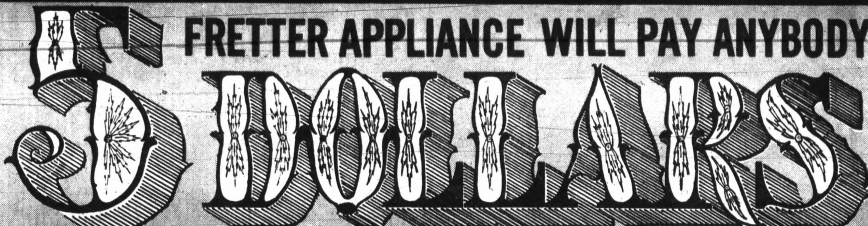

Police in Pittsburgh Raid 'Jungle' Still

PITTSBURGH (AP) — "It was like a jungle up there," said Police Capt. Kenneth Ujevich after raiding a hillside moonshine operation. "I don't know how the moonshiner got the stuff up there."

The captain said the hill in nearby Clairton rose from street level at nearly a 90 degree angle. The raiders got to the still Tuesday by grabbing clumps of vegetation and pulling them selves up.

"The area is so inaccessible it would have been cheaper to buy a bottle every day," Ujevich said.

'I'm Running to Win'

Wallace Hits GOP-Dem 'Deal'

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — publican or Democratic candi- laced the Supreme Court, George C. Wallace, third-party presidential candidate, says a date of enough votes to win in November and thereby require the election outcome be determined by the House of Representatives.

And he told a news conference Tuesday: "I don't think it's constitutional."

Wallace called the proposal by Rep. Charles E. Goodell, R-N.Y., and Rep. Morris K. Udall, D-Ariz., "just another deal between the national Republicans and Democrats."

A number of congressmen as on the country Tuesday night at well as governors have expressed concern that the Wallace candidacy might be strong enough to deprive either the Re-

MUCH MORE SUPPORT
Wallace said his party had much more support than is generally supposed. "I'm not running to throw the election into the House of Representatives," he said.

ON OKLAHOMA BALLOT
In another development Tuesday, the Oklahoma Supreme Court issued an order granting Wallace and other candidates of his party places on the Oklahoma ballot. Wallace also qualified for the Utah ballot.

Steel Workers Show Their Militance as Deadline Nears

PITTSBURGH (AP) — United Steelworkers Union (USW) members have armed their negotiators with an overwhelming vote of confidence as they race against a strike deadline a week away.

Thousands of the rank and file, in meetings, by voice, and by ballot across the nation, told their bargainers they would walk out of the mills if no contract is signed by Aug. 1.

Although the negotiations are secret, no money is believed to be on the table for the big dollar items like wages, pensions, vacations and unemployment insurance.

OVER 90 PCT.

"This will shake the money loose," said one union district director as he reported his men better than 90 per cent in favor of a strike.

The vote, taken Tuesday in 600 union halls across the country, was the first of its kind for the nation's third-largest union.

Reports from 83 locals representing about 180,000 men showed that some 3,700, or just over 2 per cent, were opposed. Figures from a dozen that took secret paper ballots showed 14 per cent opposed.

Each local was allowed to take the vote as it pleased. Most held meetings as the shifts changed and asked for a show of hands, votes and nays, or stand-up vote.

Most meetings were attended by a third or less of the total membership but union rules allowed the vote to stand for the entire local.

Here Is Vote on Vetoed Bill

LANSING (AP) — Here is how members voted Tuesday as the House refused to override the veto of a bill giving local officials emergency riot powers (a two-thirds majority, or 73 votes, was required):

Arsonist Does a Slow Burn

FONTANAN, Calif. (AP) —

Whoever set fire to a Fontana elementary school, destroying its library and an undetermined number of books, tried and tried before he succeeded.

Sheriff's arson investigators said they found 38 burned matches outside the building Tuesday, along with two books of unburned matches.

A 9,000-man local in Detroit reported only six men opposed. An 8,000-man local in Homestead, Pa., reported nine opposed. Two locals totaling 25,000 men in Gary, Ind., reported themselves unanimous.

Union leadership is under strong pressure to match the 60 other big industrial unions, and especially the auto workers, who also won a 6 per cent increase this year.

OUT OF BUSINESS

The steel industry says a 6 per cent increase each year over a three-year contract will wipe out two-thirds of its profits and put some companies out of business.

A steel strike will not severely cripple the economy. Consumers have stockpiled more than 36 million tons of steel—enough for four months in normal times—and foreign imports are ready and waiting to make up shortages.

However, strike or no strike, the industry will go into a slump after the Aug. 1 deadline as consumers work out their strike-hedge inventories. A study by Pittsburgh bank says it will take eight or nine months for production to get back to pre-negotiation levels.

President Johnson mentioned steel specifically as one of the 250 major labor contracts that will be signed in the second half of the year.

"Whether or not we reestablish noninflationary prosperity quickly and in an orderly way depends on the decisions which the leaders of American labor and business will make in the coming months," Johnson said.

Ol' Swimmin' Hole Provides Some Fun for Inner-City Kids

A 30-foot-long portable swimming pool has been put into service for Detroit's inner-city children, culminating 10 months of work on the project. The traveling pool, a gift to the city from a Detroit television station, is hauled to preannounced locations by the Department of Parks and Recreation seven days a week. It holds 8,000 gallons of water. A truck containing portable showers accompanies the pool.

UNFOXY FOX OUTFOXED—Ann Arbor Patrolman Wayne Myers holds a chagrined-looking red fox prior to giving him a free ride to the country where it is hoped he will act more like a fox than he did recently. The episode started when Bob Prieskorn of Ann Arbor found the fox in his garage. Prieskorn thought the fox wasn't a suitable playmate for his two dogs and cat so he asked police to evict the intruder. Police suspect someone must have had him for a pet and released him.

SAND FUN—There's more than one way to avoid getting a sunburn at the beach. Richard Davies, 16, of Springfield, Mass., had his friends bury him standing up in the cool sand of Misquamicut State Beach near Misquamicut, R. I. Christine Niedzwiecki, 19, of Worcester, Mass., nearly stepped on Richard and stopped to offer him a cool drink.

A Junior Editors Quiz About SHIP MODELS

Question: How did seamen put ship models into small necked bottles?

Answer: It looks impossible to put a ship model, with all its masts upright, into a bottle through the narrow neck. Many people conclude that a hole was cut in the bottle, the ship slid in and the glass plug put back. This was sometimes done, but the genuine old salt had another trick up his sleeve.

First, the little ship was made outside the bottle. Each mast was hinged at the bottom to the hull. A single thread, if pulled on, would raise them all upright (1).

Next, the old seaman would put a putty sea inside the bottle, using specially made tools. This was quite difficult.

Then the ship's masts were folded down on the hull (2) so it could be slipped inside the bottle (3). The ship was pushed in until it was in its right place. Then the putty was allowed to dry, holding the ship's hull firmly.

The long thread had been left leading out of the bottle. When this was pulled, the masts would all spring up. Holding the thread taut, a bit of glue was touched to where it joined the ship. Hot wire burned off the excess thread.

(You can win $10 cash plus AP's handsome World Year-book if your question, mailed on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of this newspaper, is selected for a prize).

Denver Quakes Laid to Army

DENVER (UPI) — Scientists have blamed earthquakes on everything from floating continents to a new explanation that they are caused by the core and mantle of the earth grinding against each other like worn clutch plates in a car.

But a Denver geologist thinks a series of quakes here has been caused by the U.S. Army.

David M. Evans linked Denver's relatively recent earthquake problem to a 12,045-foot-deep waste disposal well at the Army's Rocky Mountain Arsenal, just outside of the city, in 1966.

Evans has the Army so worried its engineers plan to begin pumping waste out of the well next month.

QUAKES BEGIN
The Army completed the arsenal well, designed to dispose of water contaminated with chemical warfare agents, in 1961. Pumping started in May 1962.

In June of the same year a quake of 3.1 intensity on the Richter scale jolted Denver and the outlying communities of Derby and Henderson.

The Richter scale measures the intensity of earth tremors and quakes on a sensitive machine called a seismograph. The scale is open-ended.

A quake of magnitude 3, hardly more than a light tremor, might not even be noticed. One of magnitude 5 can rock the average skyscraper. Scientists consider one of magnitude 9 outside the realm of the possible.

CITY SHAKEN
From the time pumping at the Rocky Mountain Arsenal began until October 1965, 17 quakes rated at Richter 3 or better were recorded in the Denver area. On Sept. 14 and again on Sept. 17, 1965, quakes of almost Richter 5 shook the city.

In 1964, when the Army shut down disposal pumping at the arsenal for nearly a year, Evans/Menlo Park, Calif., National Center for Earthquake Research; presidential science adviser Dr. Donald Hornig, and David Evans are worried.

Army engineers said the pumping will begin in mid-August when, slowly and by stages, some of the 150 million gallons of toxic waste water already in the well will be carefully pumped out.

The U.S. Geological Survey here will keep tab on any seismic earthquake activity as the fluid is pumped out.

'Grass' Control
TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — Shawnee County weed spraying crews are destroying a field of marijuana estimated to be worth more than $1 million on the illicit market after processing. The weed often grows wild in Kansas.

QUAKES CONTINUE
But the earthquakes here have continued, and the Army; the

Apollo Faces Trying Tests

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — When the Apollo 7 moonship emerges from the artificial space of a vacuum chamber later this month, astronaut Walter Schirra expects to be able to say, "Let's go fly it."

But between now and then the first of the new breed of Apollo spacecraft faces its most trying ground tests — mock flights in an airless chamber 55 feet tall and 33 feet in diameter.

Schirra, Donn Eisele and Walter Cunningham are scheduled to open the manned phase of Project Apollo on Sept. 20 by leaving earth on the nose of a Saturn 1B rocket for 11 days in orbit.

But the fate of their tentative launch date hinges on the success of tests getting under way late this week in the vacuum chamber. Schirra, Eisele and Cunningham and their backup pilots plan to put the ship through two day-long simulated flights to make sure everything is ready for the real thing.

IMPORTANCE STRESSED
The importance of the vacuum chamber testing was stressed by Schirra and Cunningham at a recent pep rally attended by more than 400 men who have a hand in Apollo 7's testing.

"As a crew we feel the spacecraft hasn't been bought yet," Schirra told the gathering. "It won't be bought until we get back down from our second

Foreign Writers Differ in Views of the United States

LONDON (AP) — John Braine, best-selling British author of "Room at the Top" and other novels found himself inexplicably happy during an unsuccessful lecture tour of the United States. He didn't know what to make of it.

"Toward the end of the trip I worked it out," he writes in the British weekly magazine, Spectator. "The name of the happiness was freedom. This (the United States) was still a country in which you could be anything you wanted to be, from beatnik to millionaire. This was a country in which still the state was there for the people, not the people for the state.

"The name of the system the people lived under was capitalism. It was often cruel, often unjust, often inefficient, often wasteful, but it gave everyone, even in an arbitrary and confused way, a chance to be what he wanted to be. Above all, it didn't care. It left people alone..."

Although Braine wound up his lecture tour without making the financial profit he had anticipated, he writes that the visit was worth more than anything money could buy. It gave him a new insight, he says, and changed him from a life-long Socialist to a supporter of Britain's Conservative party.

LESS COMPLIMENTARY

Less complimentary is America viewed through the eyes of Taisuke Fujishima, a popular Japanese writer appearing in the Shukan Yomiuri, a weekly magazine in Japan.

The biggest hangup of Americans is that they would "rather be loved than love others," he writes. Another big problem is "their incredible simplicity to the extent of stupidity," he goes

To prove his claim, Fujishima tells of an experience with a group of "American tourists" aboard an airline about to set down at Hong Kong. An American sitting next to him spotted a green mountain and asked if it was in the United States.

Hong Kong or in Red China. Fujishima told him it was in China. "FLABBERGASTED" The American "looked flabbergasted," Fujishima writes. "This man shouted to his friends sitting across the aisle, saying: 'Did you know that? That's a Red Chinese mountain! How terrible! The whole happening simply amazed me. I knew then just how deep-rooted America's China-allergy was, reflecting the foreign policy of the United States.'

America's educational policies got special attention in a weekend supplement of the Frankfurter Allgemeine Zeitung. It came in the aftermath of a strike by students at West German technical schools for a more modern curriculum.

In a full-page report, the newspaper concluded there was no school in Europe that could match the California Institute of Technology. "Caltech," it explained, "encourages researchers to change their fields. The scientific explorer shall be as free as possible from routine... Researchers of this kind resemble the pioneers of the frontier times who advanced fighting. But while the conquest of America ended on the California coast, no limits are set to the number and direction of the new problems. In a period of fermenting planning at European universities, the eyes of all who care for keeping our science abreast are directed on the California super-institute."

YOU MAY HAVE PIN-WORMS AND NOT KNOW IT

Fidgeting, nose-picking, a tormenting rectal itch are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms...tiny parasites that medical experts say infect 1 out of every 3 persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it. To get rid of Pin-Worms, they must be killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P-W Tablets do...and here's how they do it. First, a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then — Jayne's modern, medically approved ingredient goes right to work — kills Pin-Worms quickly, easily. Ask your pharmacist. Don't take chances with dangerous, highly contagious Pin-Worms which infect entire families. Get genuine Jayne's P-W Tablets. Small, easy-to-take tablets...special size for children and adults.

Solar Flares Significant to Scientists

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — here say the time is right for intense magnetic field occasionally kink, producing first sunspot groups, then solar flares.

PRIMER ON FLARES

Chief Forecaster Dale Bucknam and chief solar astronomer Patrick McIntosh provided this primer on solar flares:

Q. What are solar flares?

A. Bursts of energy released from magnetic fields within clusters of sunspots—the relatively cool areas on the sun that appear as spots on a solar photograph.

Q. What causes solar flares?

A. The equator of the sun, a globe of very hot, ionized gases, rotates faster than its poles. This causes magnetic lines of force from the sun's general area developed. And scientists the sun. The resulting ropes of only two flares in 12 years that might have emitted enough radiation to penetrate a command module.

Q. Can radiation from a flare be harmful to the earth's population?

A. No.

Q. How can flare-watching help the space program?

A. Yes, mainly through communications and the military's interest in space, such as orbiting laboratories and spy satellites.

Q. Why do you say more flares can be expected?

A. Because past performance indicates there is a peak in the number of flares about every 11 years. We are near that scheduled peak in the solar cycle.

Q. What chance is there an astronaut would encounter a major flare?

A. Small. There have been

Q. What does a solar flare look like?

A. Electrons again, through magnetic storms they created as they approached the earth.

A. Flares cannot be seen by the naked eye. Through solar telescopes, equipped with sophisticated filters, flares appear as areas of intensifying whiteness.

Q. How did the July 8 flare disrupt communications?

A. Through its emissions, X-rays and extreme ultraviolet rays affected the ionosphere, temporarily knocking out shortwave communications almost immediately. Later, slower moving electrons also upset shortwave transmissions.

Q. What caused the northern

Tourism Booms in Hawaii

Hula Girls Ask a Fair Shake

HONOLULU—With the tourist invasion continuing to grow as the jets touch on these shores, entertainment is booming.

Probably nowhere else in the United States—except Las Vegas, where the gambling creates artificial salaries—could a performer get a half-million-dollars per year contract. That's the reported salary for Hawaii's biggest hula dancer, Duke Kahanamoku's thrice nightly.

One thing is certain: Gone are the days when hotel entertainment was provided by members-waitian-show was Jack Clone, a of the staff—bus boys, chamber-veteran of 10 years of Honolulu maids, beach boys, etc. The nteries.

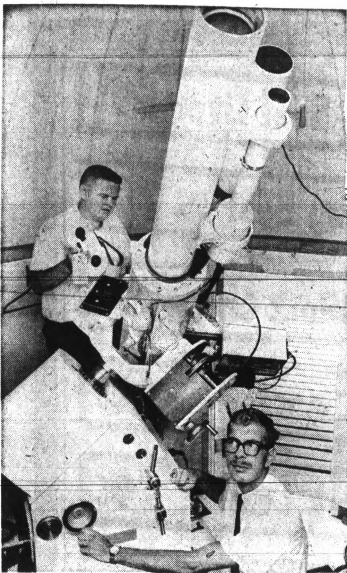

Of course, Ho is the only performer who draws that kind of money—hula dancers earn as little as $5 a night at outer island hotels. But as the demand for entertainment rises, so do salaries.

The American Guild of Variety Artists, which represents night club entertainers, has taken note of the situation. The union has threatened a strike unless hotel owners come forward with hefty raises for its members. Some demands are double current salaries, according to hotel sources.

A FAIR SHAKE

An AGVA negotiator declined to discuss specifics, but did state that the union seeks $150 weekly for hula dancers who now earn $100.

AGVA's ability to organize a hula dance strike is complicated by the moonlighting tradition, among Hawaiian entertainers.

His Dream Hasn't a Leg to Stand On

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Nearby every middle-aged male adult has a touch of Walter Mitty in him. Mine usually comes to the surface when I am out making my morning jog around the neighborhood.

Jogging is good for the body, but there is nothing to keep the mind occupied, or distracted. As a result, a jogger's mind tends to drift off into fantasies.

Most mornings I meet a few women along the street. As I lurch past them in my jogging togs (Mickey Mouse sweatshirt, corduroy pants and brown sneakers with a hole in one toe) I fancy they are discussing my form.

First lady: "Who is that superbly conditioned athlete whose majestic stride is such a rare blend of consummate grace and animalistic power?"

Second lady: "That is Speedy West, the famous jogging champion. He's training for the 1968 Olympics."

First lady: "You must be proud to live in the same neighborhood with him."

As their voices fade away, another voice begins to make itself heard above the roaring crowd. It is the voice of Chris Shenkel, the ABC sports announcer.

"And now ladies and gentlemen, we come to the grand climax of the 1968 Summer Olympics games—the two block jog. The experts agree the outcome will depend on how the altitude here in Mexico City affects the joggers. "Yakamoto, the Japanese jogger, has been preparing for it by jogging up and down Mt. Fuji. Escudero of Bolivia lives in the mountains, so he shouldn't be bothered. But Speedy West, who represents America's hopes for a gold medal in this event, has been training at sea level.

"The gun sounds and they're off. That's Yakamoto in the lead, followed by Escudero. Can Speedy West, whose valiant heart must be nearly bursting in this thin air, overtake them?"

"They're in the second block now. Speedy West, who seems to be jogging on raw courage alone, is starting his famous finishing kick. Where does that man get such amazing fortitude?"

"Here they come to the finish line. Hold your breath, folks. Win or lose, Speedy West is giving his all for the glory of America."

"He wins! It's a new Olympic jogging record. The stadium crowd is going wild. Speedy West has done it again..."

Easy. They're the same. Exactly the same... except the "Mt. Whitney" cans of ripe olives now bear the name "Lindsay."

Actually, the change started about two years ago when the Mt. Whitney Ripe Olive Company joined California's largest cooperative group of olive growers—the Lindsay Ripe Olive Growers.

And now, together, they're the world's largest group of ripe olive growers and packers. They offer the highest quality and most rigid standards of inspection of any ripe olives. Actually, you can see the difference and taste the difference...the extra goodness.

With all the care that goes into producing these olives, it seems only right that "Mt. Whitney" should take on the Lindsay name as well.

So that's been done and that's the name you'll find from now on: Lindsay, the finest of all ripe olives.

Pueblo Affair Settles Into Lengthening Diplomatic Stalemate

WASHINGTON — Nearly a half year ago — at noon 23, Korean time — the small U.S. intelligence ship Pueblo was cruising off Wonsan when a North Korean subchaser appeared with a challenge: "Leave to or I will open fire."

"I am in international waters," the Pueblo replied by international flag signal.

Two hours and 32 minutes later the lightly armed, 906-ton American vessel signed off her last radio transmission after an unequal skirmish with the subchaser joined by three North Korean patrol boats and a flock of MIG jet fighters.

"Have been directed to come to all stop; being boarded at this time," the Pueblo radioed. "Destruction incomplete. Several publications will be compromised. Four men injured, one critically. Going off air now. Destroying gear."

LONG STALEMATE

After flaming quickly into international proportions, the Pueblo affair has since settled into a lengthening stalemate between the U.S. and North Korean negotiators at Panmunjom.

Their latest announced meeting at the Korean truce site, July 10, was their nineteenth.

The Pueblo, first taken into Wonsan had since been moved by the North Koreans to a port farther north. The 82 surviving crewmen — one died — still are prisoners somewhere in North Korea, exact whereabouts undisclosed.

The men are believed — from pictures, letters and North Korean reports — to be relatively well physically, though the Koreans have rebuffed U.S. pleas for access to the captives by the International Red Cross or other outsiders.

RUMORS DENIED

The State Department took pains last week to deny rumors, reportedly originating in Japan, that Pueblo's skipper, Cmdr. Lloyd M. Bucher, 38, had committed suicide.

"The North Koreans recently told us there has been no change in the conditions of the crew since early February" and that word through Panmunjom is interpreted by the State Department as denial of the suicide rumor, press officer Robert J. McCloskey said.

The flow of letters from the prisoners to this country has fallen off sharply, but family members say those still being received continue to show the heavy hand of North Korean propaganda. There is no evidence, U.S. officials say, that letters and packages addressed to the captives have been reaching them.

A "Remember the Pueblo Committee" led by the Rev. Paul D. Lindstrom of Prospect Heights, Ill., has been trying to drum up popular support for tougher U.S. action to rescue the ship and its men.

MILITARY ACTION

The committee leaders say the United States should take military action if necessary to free the men. President Johnson and Secretary of State Dean Rusk have counseled patient negotiations as the best way to save the crewmen's lives and win return of the vessel.

"I think it is rather unlikely that you could get them back alive by military action," Rusk said. "We would like to get them back, not simply insure that they would be killed."

Rusk rejected a call by the committee for a U.S. ultimatum to the North Koreans.

Lindstrom said that if the Reds ignored an ultimatum setting a time and place for release of the Pueblo and crew, the United States should seize North Korean ships and blockade Wonsan.

12,000 MESSAGES

Mrs. Bucher, who has been active in the committee drive, recently reported receiving some 12,000 letters and telegrams from sympathetic Americans.

Since the day of seizure the United States has been demanding prompt release of the Pueblo and its crew.

The North Koreans have been calling for a U.S. apology and confession to criminal spying inside Korean waters.

The United States says the Pueblo was 15.4 miles from the nearest Korean land, well outside North Korea's claimed 12-mile limit when seized.

Rusk has said that if examination of the ship's log, after its release, shows there was any penetration of Korean waters prior to the seizure, the United States would apologize.

The North Koreans contend the Pueblo intruded within 7.6 miles of their coast. They have spurned a U.S. offer to take the issue to an international body. Sen. Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio, predicted on July 12 that the North Koreans would free the Pueblo and its men by the end of August.

He said the Central Intelligence Agency actually, had caused the ship to sail within the 12-mile limit, and that the United States would apologize and pay an indemnity of $100 million or more.

Young, a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee, declined to give the source of his information.

STATEMENT CRITICIZED

The State Department promptly took issue with the Senator and criticized such statements as potentially harmful to the negotiations.

McCloskey said there still is no breakthrough in the Panmunjom sessions.

such an effort would accomplish the recovery of the Pueblo and her crew.

Preliminary observations of however it has been described, cosmic rays have given scientists hope that an undiscovered chamber is hidden in the 469-foot pyramid of Chephres.

Johnson to Mix Teaching, Travel When He Retires

PRESIDENT JOHNSON

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson, unlike some people approaching retirement, has very definite ideas about what he will do when he leaves the White House next Jan. 20. He is looking forward with enthusiasm to a return to teaching.

But he plans to mix teaching at the University of Texas in Austin with travel, especially in Mexico, where he has visited a number of times. Central America and South America also are likely spots for informal trips.

The President expects to live at the LBJ Ranch in Texas, and probably will rent an apartment in Austin.

The ranch is within easy driving distance of Austin, which also is the home of one of his daughters, Luci.

Friends who have talked with the President about retirement say he never mentions politics in his post-White House planning. They interpret this to mean he might be content with a role similar to that played by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, who serves as a sort of elder statesman but not as a day-to-day combatant on the political battlefield.

The classroom will be nothing new to the President. It was in a little school in Cotulla, Tex., where most of the students were of Mexican descent, that he became a teacher shortly after graduating from a teachers' college at San Marcos, Tex., in 1930. The next year he became a teacher in Houston's public schools. Before coming to Washington to become secretary to Richard Kleberg, when Kleberg was a member of the House of Representatives.

His new teacher career will be in a place spectacularly different from the little school in Cotulla.

JOHNSON LIBRARY

The University of Texas has magnificent buildings on its campus, and is spending $12 million to build two others. One will be an eight-story structure housing the Lyndon Baines Johnson Library. The other is a three-story building for the Lyndon Baines Johnson School of Public Affairs.

Johnson already has been elected a member of the faculty.

The regents suggested he assume the title of "distinguished professor of public affairs" or "distinguished lecturer in public affairs." But Johnson feels some less ostentatious title, such as "visiting lecturer," or "conversationalist in residence" would be more appropriate.

He considers the teaching job would not be one in which he would carry a full work schedule and meet 8 a.m. classes. Rather, in which his political experience might enable him to discuss in a helpful way various topics of interest to students. He thinks of it also as a place where he could participate in informal discussion groups and seminars.

VISITS TO COLLEGES

His teaching would not be confined to the University of Texas, but would involve occasional visits to universities such as Harvard, North Carolina, Texas Christian and others.

Some have speculated that he might use his post-retirement activities in travel and in the classroom for advocacy of a speedup in the formation of a Latin America-wide common market.

At Austin some wags have suggested that the entrance list to the LBJ school carry in stone the words "Come let us reason together." This one of Johnson's often-used expressions. Some of his friends say such carved words might not be a bad idea at all.

Mexico's Man in Cuba Calm

'Breaking Relations
Would Help Nobody'

HAVANA (AP) — Miguel Covian Perez, the only Latin American ambassador in Havana, says he cannot be concerned by criticism from those who think Mexico should not have relations with Cuba.

"We have only to account to the people of Mexico," Covian said in an interview. To break relations, he added, "wouldn't help anybody."

Although he mentioned no names it was obvious he referred to Cuban exile groups in the United States who have tried bombs and political pressure to get Mexico to end relations with Prime Minister Fidel Castro.

"I am sure there are persons who are not in agreement with this policy toward Cuba but so far those who have demonstrated this disagreement are not Mexicans and therefore Mexico isn't concerned with their opinion."

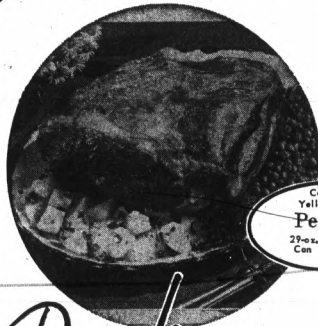

A 38-year-old lawyer, former representative and former president of Mexico's Chamber of Deputies, Covian declared: "In a few words, the maintenance of our relations, respectful and cordial as they are, depends exclusively on Cuba and Mexico."

A recognized liberal, Covian is serving in his first diplomatic post. After less than a year on the job, he is credited with having the best relations of any ambassador, East or West, with the Castro government.

Shortly after his arrival last fall, Covian was instrumental in arranging with Castro the resumption of flights to Mexico for an estimated 3,000 American citizens and their Cuban relatives waiting to leave the country. The flights had been blocked for nearly a year and even then there had been only two previously. Now they are on a monthly basis.

Phone Service Growth Is Celebrated

The growth from a single standup, hook-type phone to a 10-office business, is being celebrated this month by the Telephone Answering Service

Inc., which has local offices at 12 S. Mill.

The 40-year-old company was organized after originator John

F. Engerson was unable to reach a plumber to fix a broken water pipe.

The plumber was one of the schoolteacher-real estate man's first customers, at the 24-hour

commercial answering service

he opened in a small office on Michigan in Detroit.

Today the service still bases itself on personal, courteous and prompt telephone coverage of clients, according to Engerson of 17134 Kirkshire, Bloomfield

Hills.

TAS has survived paralyzing snowstorms, bank closings and a depression.

service during World War II

because alarm clocks were scarce.

He also offers "vacation answering," an idea formulated

one summer when a burglar chose homes to rob by calling to see if the owners were home.

Another Engerson concept is a

WASHINGTON (AP) — The

Senate has approved an additional $153 million for the Federal Aviation Administration in a move to relieve the congestion that has disrupted air traffic at some of the nation's busiest airports.

"This is not a matter of air safety, it's a matter of air survival," Sen. John C. Stennis, D-

Miss., said before the Senate approved appropriations of $883.4

million for the FAA.

The action came while reports of delays in takeoffs and landings at major airports throughout the country continued to

In New York, some minor changes in flight schedules have

can World Airways and Mohawk

Airlines as a result of increasing congestion at airports here and

FLIGHTS CANCELED

A spokesman for Mohawk said "Tuesday the airline had canceled its two nightly freighter flights between Boston and Detroit for the rest of July. The two flights carried passengers as well as mail freight and express.

Aid traffic controllers maintain that they are overworked, shortstaffed and underequipped to handle the increasing air traffic.

The bill was $153 million higher than a measure passed previously by the House and its sponsors said the extra money would provide for the hiring of 3,627 controllers. The House bill allowed for only 1,631.

The Senate approved the additional money, part of an over-all

$1.78 billion appropriations bill for the Transportation Department, 82 to 2. Only Sen. John J.

Williams, R-Del., and Strom

Thurmond, R-S.C., dissented.

"I WILL AGREE"

An informed Senate source said he expects the House will agree to much, if not all, the increases in the Senate bill.

Quick action in the House will be necessary if the measure is to go into effect before fall since

Congress takes a break for much of August due to the national political conventions.

In a related development,

FAA officials met Tuesday with leaders of the Professional Air

Traffic Controllers Organization, a new union, to discuss the air traffic.

F. Lee Bailey, the lawyer who is executive director of the union, said after the session his organization would seek meetings with industry and other interested parties this week to talk over immediate steps to end the problem.

Also, FAA administrator Wiliam F. McKee said a three-day meeting, starting today, would consider proposals on ways to relieve the congestion.

The traffic jams in the airways figured prominently in Senate debate on the money bill to expand FAA operations.

While there has been sharp dispute among the various parties involved over the causes for the recent jam-ups in air flights, there has been general agreement that a shortage of controllers is one factor.

to block a provision exempting

the new FAA jobs from a new law to roll back federal employment to 1966 levels.

Three Injured in Car Collision

Three persons were hospitalized—one in serious condition—

as the result of a traffic accident yesterday on US 10 in Springfield Township.

Reported in serious condition

Martin L. Vedrody, 17, of Grand

Blanc, whose car collided with an auto driven by Albert L.

Pierre of Detroit about 8 p.m.

according to Oakland County sheriff's deputies.

George Kovacs, 16, of Flint

a passenger with Vedrody, is reported in fair condition and Vickie Jackola, 19, of Detroit who was riding with Pierre, is listed as satisfactory, hospital authorities said.

Deputies said Pierre was driving north when Vedrody's oncoming vehicle apparently spun

Safecrackers Take $300 From Firm

Safecrackers stole $300 from a

reported yesterday to city police.

Investigators said the bur-

Glass Co., 35 W. Lawrence, through a side window, then moved the safe from one office to another before forcing it open.

Identification officers were called to check the scene for

GAS CLOUD HOVERS OVER FLAMES—
A cloud of chlorine gas rises from the FMC plant in South Charleston, W. Va., after a series of explosions yesterday ruptured a gas line, forcing up to 5,000 persons to leave their homes. There were no fatalities. Police sealed off the city, which is known as "the chemical center of the world."

It's a Classroom Summer for Two Teen Volunteers

Not many people are aware that the long hours in the summertime are actually occupied in solid, constructive ways by our young people. At McConnell Elementary School, teen-ager Mark Schafnick, has been a part of the volunteer staff working with principal Howard Caldwell. Mark's job is an interesting new one for teens in community services. Each Wednesday morning for an hour and a half he teaches the English language to Spanish-speaking children.

Most are Puerto Rican families that have recently settled in Pontiac. Mark is helping them on an individualized basis to memorize and understand the words via a colloquial method.

In this way he is preparing them for the school curriculum by instilling confidence via this informal approach. At 17 years of age, Mark is filling a need and paving the way for improved understanding between youth from various backgrounds.

specialist in photography. Tom has been instructing two Eastern students on the techniques and development processes of commercial photography. When the fall school term begins, Tom's students will be installed as Eastern's official photographers, representing the school paper and covering special student events. A lab and darkroom were recently built in a renovated section of this school.

'Mister' Is Fine; Familiarity Is Not Necessary

By ELIZABETH L. POST
Dear Mrs. Post: My husband has been corresponding with his future employers for some time, and he has met the president and vice president of the company. Since they address each other and him by first names, should he do the same? (The difference in age is not great.)
—Agnes Morgan

Dear Mrs. Morgan: As a general rule, an employee should call his superiors "Mr." until asked to do otherwise. This is particularly true in your husband's case where he is not yet employed by this new firm.

Once he starts to work for them, he should follow the lead of others holding a position similar to his.

CHOICE
Dear Mrs. Post: I have two nieces—ages 15 and 12—and have always bought them both birthday and Christmas presents. Now, is there a time to discontinue this practice? If so, should it be both occasions, and how does one go about it? It is not a question of money but time and effort are involved.
—Mrs. R. C.

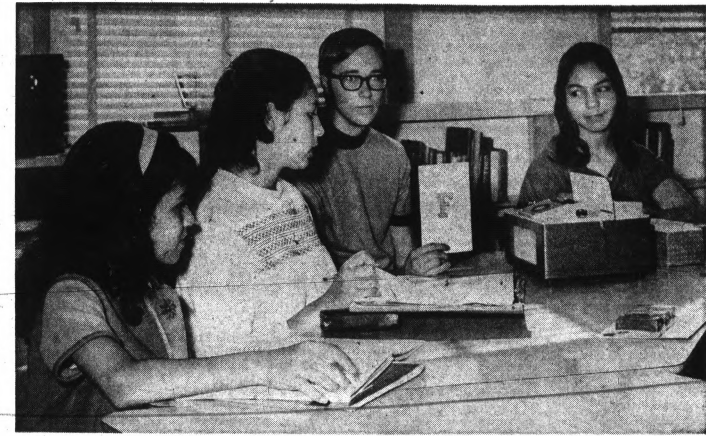

Dear Mrs. C.: You are free to discontinue the gifts—one or both—at any time you wish. The timing depends entirely on how close the girls are to you. Generally these breaks are made at the end of grammar school, or possibly, high school.

There is no need to make any explanation—just send a card instead of a gift. If you wish to make the move more gently, you might enclose a dollar or two with the card for a few years.

RECEPTION
Dear Mrs. Post: Our daughter is to be married in the hometown of the groom, where she has lived the past three years. Since most of the guests at the reception will be friends and relatives of the groom and his parents, please tell me the best way to form the receiving line.—Kay Johnson

Dear Mrs. Johnson: Since the groom's mother will know so many more of the guests' names than you will, she should stand first in the receiving line with you next to her. This way she will be able to introduce each guest to you.

Neither the groom's father nor your husband needs to stand in line; in fact, they are probably both happier and more useful circulating among the guests.

Learning to speak English in the "Expanding Their World" program sponsored this summer by the Oakland County Volunteer Bureau are three sisters. From left are Lucy and Francisca Reyes with their volunteer teen instructor, Mark Schafnick of Commerce Road, West Bloomfield Township and Maria Reyes. The girls, who are attending these classes in McConnell School, live on Perkins Street.

Caldwell established the language program for the summer involving 12 teen volunteers. "The main concern with these youngsters is to establish verbal understanding so the kids can fit into school programs. This kind of personal attention is essential," stated Caldwell.

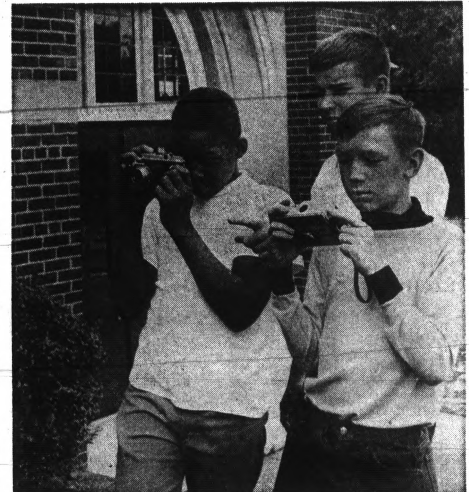

PHOTOGRAPHY
A few blocks over from McConnell School, Tom Rosenthal, community director at Eastern Junior High School has also generated one of many cultural educational programs this summer.

A particularly interesting one involves teen volunteer Thomas Johnson, 17-year-old student from Birmingham and a

Rosenthal comments "I'm extremely pleased with the success of this unique class, more so because it enables our students to develop talents on their own and makes them feel like an important part of the staff."

"I'm proud of all our volunteers; I don't know where we would be without them."

The Oakland County Volunteer Bureau has been instrumental in placing teen volunteers in both schools as part of their on-going programs in education and cultural enrichment.

Getting some of the outdoor action are these amateur photographers. From left are Larry Walker of East Boulevard, Tom Johnson of Birmingham and Randy Ihke of Chandler Street. Tom, an Oakland County volunteer in the "Expanding Their World" program has been instructing Larry and Randy in photography in anticipation of school events at Eastern Junior High School where both attend. Tom is a senior at Seaholm High School.

Two Can Play the Game

Questions May Break His Routine

By ABAGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: My husband, Mike, and I are both in our early forties. We have four children. Mike is busy with his business and I am busy with my house and the kids. Lately Mike has been getting up at 5 a.m. He doesn't have to be at work until 8 and he has only a 20-minute drive to get there. Well, he rushes around getting showered, shaved and dressed and he runs out of the house like he is going to be late for something.

When I ask him where he is going so early he says "Nowhere—I just like to ride around." I am getting suspicious and would like to know where this guy goes. Should I follow him? BERTIE

DEAR BERTIE: No, but ask him what he would think if you did the same thing for the same reason.

DEAR ABBY: I was amused to read that letter from the girl whose boy friend supposedly didn't know how to kiss. All I can say is—I should be so lucky. More than once I've had to push my dates away in disgust because of their aggressive "bedroom" kisses. There is a time and place for everything, and a doorstep after a date is not the place for a kiss like that.

A "shy" kisser can become a bit more bold in time, but an aggressive kisser can never be toned down. I don't feel any sympathy for Jake's girl. I just wish I could meet Jake.

MRS. RICHARD S. MEHOLICK

A Dynamic State Democrat, Mrs. Margaret Price, Dies

By JOHN TEARE
Associated Press Writer
ANN ARBOR — A finger pointed at her in a moment of political compulsion launched the career of Mrs. Margaret Price, later vice chairman of the Democratic National Committee, who died Tuesday in New York.

Democratic National Committeeman Neil Staebler Tuesday recalled that incident at the State party convention that launched G. Mennen Williams' tenure as governor.

ARGUING
"She and I were standing in a hall arguing," recalled Staebler. "The state chairman rushed out of a meeting and said, 'One of you two has to be our candidate for auditor general.' I pointed to her and she consented on the spot. "It was not a premeditated move,"

Staebler said, "but she was not without forethought."

Mrs. Price, whose husband, Hickman Price Jr., had been a vice president of the Kaiser automobile company and later an assistant secretary of commerce, devoted much of her life to politics, women's rights and establishment of programs for children and young people.

From the Texas White House, President Johnson said: "It is with deep regret that Mrs. Johnson and I learn of the death of Margaret Price, who gave so unstintingly of herself to her family, her friends, her country and her party."

JFK
Mrs. Price was a campaign assistant in Sen. John F. Kennedy's first presidential campaign in 1960, and later his special representative to the inauguration of the president of Paraguay in 1963.

After living for several years in Brazil, the Prices moved to Washington, where Mrs. Price did legislative work on Capitol Hill for projects of interest of Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson.

She was the first chairman of the Michigan Youth Commission, formed in 1949 to participate in a White House Decennial Conference on Youth that convened in 1950.

From that meeting was to develop the National Council on Children and Youth. Mrs. Price became its first chairman.

Mrs. Price who was 55, is survived by her husband and a son, Marston. Another son, Hickman, died in San Francisco.

Pair Honeymoons in the Pacific Following Vows

Following a reception Saturday at Maurice's, newlyweds, the Richard Steven Meholicks (nee Carol Ann Thomas) departed for a wedding trip to Hawaii.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur L. Thomas of Woodstock Street and the son of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Meholick of Dearborn spoke vows earlier that evening in Grace Lutheran Church.

FLOWERS
Carrying a bouquet of Phalaenopsis orchids with Stephanotis, the bride was attired in a satin skimmer, the same worn by her mother. To complete her look, she chose a circlet of orange blossoms securing an illusion veil.

Honor attendants for the couple were Mrs. Basel Miracle, Barbara Butler and Louis Duncan. Nancy Garretson and Deanna Shuey were bridesmaids with Robert Thomas, George Palmer and Donald Lucas serving as ushers. Lily Slack was flower girl.

KING-JEWELL

Butterfly roses and white daisies comprised the cascading bridal bouquet held by M. Kay Jewell as she spoke vows Saturday with Arvil G. King. For the evening rite in Central Methodist Church, she chose a traditional ensemble of Chantilly lace over taffeta. Donna Langdon, maid of honor, and Thomas Bornfleth, best man, the Richard Johnsons and the Earl Pollards attended the couple. Prior to their departure to Mackinac Island, the newlyweds greeted guests in the church parlors. Their parents are the Elmer C. Jewells of Draper Street and the Cratie Kings of Romulus.

Polly's Pointers

Uses for Oven Shelves

Dear Polly — I always enjoy the column. When we know things can be done faster and easier it proves that housekeeping need not be a drag.

My Pointer concerns the many uses I have found for my seldom used lower oven shelf. I remove it and put it on the floor to drain wet boots on. I put newspaper or an old rug under it and figure that if it can withstand 500 degrees of heat a little water cannot hurt it.

Also an oven shelf over a box (weighted down with a brick or rock) will provide a temporary shelter for a small pet. The open shelf top lets air get in but the animal cannot get out.

The oven shelf can be removed before baking starts and be used to cool the cake, cookies or whatever you may be baking. An oven shelf put over one side of a double sink can be used for draining freshly washed lettuce or even dishes. (Polly's note — by wrapping a double thickness Be sure it is secure before trying of aluminum foil around the ing the dishes bit.) Such a shelf bottom of the handle and press will fit in the bathtub (be careful not to scratch the porcelain) and used as a sweater dryer.

Wash it off and return to the oven after any of these uses.

I am a new mother and I find a beach towel is wonderful for drying my one-year-old after his bath. I wrap him in it, sit him on my lap and dry him. I stay dry and he gets dry quicker. I also keep his bath toys in a plastic basket which has holes in the side and a handle (like an Easter basket). I put basket, toys and all in the tub and, when the bath is over, leave them there to drain.

—MRS. R. S. J. S.

Dear Polly — I do hope some of the readers can tell me how to open a window that was painted when it was so cold I did not bother to open it. Now that I would like to open the window it is stuck so tight I cannot budge it —MRS. J. S.

Area Couple Speak Vows in Dearborn

Clinton Inn at Greenfield Village was the setting for a reception following vows exchanged by Lydia Ervene Shepard and Timothy James McKibben.

The pair were wed Saturday evening in Martha Mary Chapel, Greenfield Village.

The bride wore a silk organza cage of Alencon lace with pearl trim. A matching detachable train of lace complemented her gown. A headpiece of small silk organza petals held the silk illusion veil. She carried white roses centered with a white orchid.

Mrs. Stanley Reilly, the bride's sister, and Peter Ryan were honor attendants. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Thomas Adamson, Sandi Shepard and Sharon Weber. Gretchen Gilder was flower girl.

ESQUIRE SIDE
On the esquire side were Roger Ghetting, John Helner, Gary Shepard, the bride's brother, as ushers and Michael Bonomo, ring bearer.

Parents of the newlyweds who are honeymooning in Georgian Bay and Ontario, Canada are Mr. and Mrs. Erwin C. Shepard of Verona Drive, West Bloomfield Township and Mr. and Mrs. James H. McKibben of Union Lake Road, Commerce Township.

FLOWERS and NATIONS

Most countries in the world have adopted a flower or plant as a national emblem.

The official flower of the United States is the Golden Rod, which many people look upon as a weed—nevertheless, it is a flower and a prolific one, even though it is the flower of the fields and roadsides.

We proudly display ALL flowers in our shop, because we know that different people love different flowers. We can send an arrangement or a bouquet. Call FE 2-0127, we are as close as your telephone.

Why Any Born-Loser Children?

By BETTY CANARY

After writing rather smugly congratulatory words about mothers who cuddle and talk to their babies, the question I couldn't put down was, "What happens to the babies whose parents do not give them this kind of attention?"

I cannot answer that as well as any kindergarten or first grade teacher — the ones who get the results of such homes.

A talk with a former Head Start teacher did confirm my thinking about being "disadvantaged" four- and five-year-olds. "It's too late by then. By if somebody is talking over its four they are already too far behind. They haven't learned to learn."

By the age of 12 to 18 months, children from "nonverbal" homes have already dropped behind the learning ability of children from "verbal" homes.

And, we could go farther back as any kindergarten or first grade teacher — the ones who get the results of such homes.

But we shouldn't do that, should we? It probably isn't our right or our duty. There's too much womb-to-tomb philosophy in our government already. Whose business is it if some women don't drink milk or get the proper amount of protein?

THAT'S LIFE

And, it is only logical that if grandmothers working through we don't wonder about the unborn child, we shouldn't wonder programs? Who would listen?

Mrs. M. M. Burgess, (left) was hostess Monday night in her Bloomfield Hills home in honor of Rep. Joyce Symons (D) of Allen Park (right). Rep. Symons received a citation from Michigan Kidney Foundation president Charles E. Monahan for her fight to get a $300,000 appropriation through the state legislature for victims of kidney disease.

Rep. Joyce Symons Is Honored at Dinner

The woman legislator who led the fight for a $300,000 appropriation to save lives of victims of kidney disease was feted this week in Bloomfield Hills.

Rep. Joyce Symons (D) of Allen Park was honored by the Michigan Kidney Foundation on behalf of those "who now will not have to die for lack of funds."

Foundation president Charles E. Monahan made the citation at a dinner at the home of Mrs. M. M. Burgess on Country Club Drive. Mrs. Burgess has been a trustee of the Kidney Foundation since it was organized in 1955.

In presenting the attractive legislator with a permanent plaque, Monahan said, "We know of the long hours, the late-night sessions, the drafting and redrafting and planning you devoted as you struggled against strong opposition to achieve this break-through."

"Now," he said, "many victims of kidney disease will live on as useful citizens because you refused to give up until you had won for them the most precious gift one human can bestow upon another: the gift of life."

The public health appropriation, earmarked for instruction in the use of kidney machines, was made on June 27.

A FIRST

The first such appropriation in Michigan history, the measure calls for "treatment," including "all actual and necessary expenses incurred."

Among those on hand to toast Mrs. Symons were her husband, Clarence, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Crockett, Bloomfield Hills, and Mr. and Mrs. William M. Kelly of Birmingham.

Attending from Ann Arbor were Mrs. Harry W. Anderson and Dr. and Mrs. Bernard Becu.

Other guests included Dr. William J. Jones of Allen Park, former president of the National Kidney Foundation.

Rep. Symons, whose brother undergoes regular treatments on a kidney machine in order to survive, is the mother of Gary, 19; Mark, 17; and Jill, 12.

You will find that an insulated water jug with spigot placed on the back porch will save many steps for mother in getting the younger children drinks in hot weather. They will enjoy waiting on themselves.

MRS. TERRY LEHMAN

In Walled Lake Church

Terry Lehmans Are Wed

St. Matthews Lutheran Church in Walled Lake was the setting for recent vows exchanged by Maureen Karen Gheta and Terry Lynn Lehman.

Their parents are the Emil Ghetas of Mandon Street, White Lake Township and the Kenneth Lehmans of Haggerty Highway, West Bloomfield Township.

Attended by Vickie Gaylord, the bride carried a bouquet of white Cymbidium orchids encircled by carnations.

She was attired in a silk worsted day length sheath, highlighted with lace and seed pearl trim.

Best man was Russel Streeter with ushers Greg and Bruce Gheta.

Following a reception in Plymouth, the newlyweds departed for a honeymoon trip to Lake Michigan.

You can give your kitchen a view by using a scenic patterned view. These are practical, too, as they can be wiped with a cloth and, in fact, many are vinyl plastic-coated so they can be safely scrubbed.

WNFGA Unit to Have Benefit

Members of the Brookside branch Woman's National Farm and Garden Association will sponsor a benefit luncheon and bridge party Thursday.

Mrs. Fred Fuller of Orchard Lake will open her home for the event where her cohostess will be Mrs. Thomas Harris. The noon party will provide monies for the group's scholarship fund.

Right Shortening

As a general rule, when a recipe calls for shortening, the solid white variety that does not have to be refrigerated should be used.

Pocket Saves Needless Steps

Make a large pocket in your children leave on the floor. cleaning apron to hold the many. They are quickly placed in the small odds and ends that have pocket to be put away later, to be gathered up, such as but when you are in the room where they, bobby pins, marbles, they belong. This saves many crayons, and small toys that needless steps when cleaning.

SEW SIMPLE

By Eunice Farmer

In answer to all of you who depend on me to tell you about the latest fashions for fall, I shall begin this week since I have just seen the fall collections of the top American designers in New York.

Today, I must generalize by mentioning the highlights. There is a great return to the softer, more feminine look as witnessed by the silk crepes, satins, velvets, fur trims, feathers, and beads.

The length that is generally accepted is just above the knee or about the center of the knee which is probably where most of us have been wearing the skirts this past year.

A few Mid length skirts did crop up into the picture, but it is definitely for the young, tall, slender gal who will do justice to it by making it a complete look with the right boots or shoes as well as all of the other accessories.

Yes, there is a move to more fitted clothes but don't panic and call the Goodwill yet! We can salvage many of last year's dresses by fitting them in a little closer and adding a belt.

A decorative sleeveless vest is a very important accessory and can change the mood of any dress already in your wardrobe.

As the weeks go by, I shall tell you about the techniques needed when working with new fabrics to achieve the new look of 1968. It would be a good idea to plan your entire wardrobe needs before buying anything to get the maximum coordination.

Dear Eunice Farmer, I didn't remember your advice about the original fold of the fabric and now I have a deep crease at the center front of my dress. Nothing I do seems to have any effect on it. Is there anything you can suggest?

Mrs. M. M. E.

Dear Mrs. M. M. E.: Having to correct errors seems to bring out the creativity in all of us. This has happened before and one of my students covered up her mistake with a handsome wide striped gros-grain ribbon on the neckline to the hem. Actually, the dress is much more attractive than it was before.

Since this is the year of trims, you could also use a strip of heavy cotton lace, cotton daisies, or other decorative trim. A ruffle would also work. Double the width of the finished ruffle, using one seam which you will place at the center on the under side. Using two rows of machine stitching set on a large stitch, at the center of the finished ruffle, gather up to the desired fullness and machine stitch to your dress.

You may add tiny buttons to the center of the ruffle if you desire. However, no further trimming is necessary. Never give up when you've made a mistake; just use your imagination and you can usually come up with some great ideas.

Illustrated instructions help you make button loops in the booklet "Spaghetti Straps and Rope Belts." To obtain your booklet send 25 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it to Eunice Farmer in care of The Pontiac Press, Dept. E-600, P.O. Box 9, Pontiac, Mich. 48056.

Gravity-powered self-winding Constellation Chronometer. Bracelet models $190 to $1280. Strap models from $175.

Before it can receive the coveted rating of "chronometer"...every Omega Constellation must undergo 15 days of rigid testing by an official testing bureau. This is in addition to the 1497 quality-control checks which all Omega watches receive during manufacture. The Constellation requires no hand-winding or power-cell to keep it running. It's gravity-powered by a pendulum-like rotor, which continuously winds the movement while you wear it. All Constellations are water and shock resistant. Some models offer the added convenience of date-telling dials. See our complete selection today.

Sen. Fulbright Faces Tough Fight in Arkansas Primary

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., outspoken Vietnam war critic, faces his toughest battle for election since 1944 next Tuesday in the Arkansas primaries.

Fulbright, 63, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, seeks renomination in a race with three Democrats who are hitting hard at the senator's stand on the war, the major issue in the race. His foes say his criticism has encouraged Communist ambitions.

Also on the ballot is an eight-man race for the Democratic nomination in the 1st Congressional District, where Rep. E. C. "Took" Gathings, D-Ark., is retiring, plus primary races for governor, where Winthrop Rockefeller, first Republican elected to the post in almost 100 years, seeks renomination.

Six persons seek the Democratic nomination for governor, including Mrs. Virginia Johnson, first woman ever to run for the state's highest office. She is the wife of the party's 1966 nominee, Jim Johnson, who is opposing Fulbright.

SEGREGATIONIST FOE

Fulbright's most noted opponent is Jim Johnson, a self-styled segregationist who polled 257,000 votes in losing to Rockefeller two years ago.

Also opposing Fulbright are Bobby J. Hayes, 37, a flooring manufacturer from Calico Rock, and Foster Johnson, 53, a music publisher from Little Rock.

Hayes is making his first bid for public office. Foster Johnson received more than 90,000 votes in his 1966 race against Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark.

The tandem campaigns of Jim and Virginia Johnson have been closely tied to the third-party presidential candidacy of former Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace, whose strength is thought to be considerable in this state. Johnson led the petition drive to get Wallace on the Arkansas ballot.

Fulbright has turned up at political rallies this summer in sports shirts and slacks, like the informal attire of the voters he meets.

"We've got old J. William down here campaigning in his shirt-sleeves and calling himself Bill," says Jim Johnson, who labeled Fulbright the "pin-up boy of Hanoi."

The country's cigar industry became mechanized in 1918 when the first cigar-making machine was put into operation.

Chemists Find New Nerve Impulse Clues

By Science Service
WASHINGTON — School children traditionally hook up frog legs to batteries and watch them jerk. On a more sophisticated level, chemists have measured the movement of sodium and potassium ions through nerve cell membranes and concluded that they carry the electrical signal.

But brain scientists have become more and more dissatisfied with this electrical explanation of nerve function, and are seeking alternate theories in the molecular material of the nerve membrane itself.

A clue of major importance has now come from this work with the discovery of a very active, excitable protein molecule in the nervous system. It could lead to new understanding of the driving force of biological energy in nerves — a major unknown in science.

The nerve impulse moves in waves through membranes surrounding the cell body and its branching fibers. The membrane is, in effect, a chain of large protein molecules which theoretically change character and shape as the impulse wave passes. How they change and why all but defies scientific analysis; the living membrane is nearly impossible to work with.

Plastic horseshoes are replacing steel ones, and the next step may be to fasten them with a glue-like adhesive instead of nails.

But a scientist at the U.S. Naval Air Development Center in Johnstown, Pa., has found that some of these proteins can exist in an excited, free radical form, meaning they have an unpaired electron and the capacity to control and induce chemical reactions.

Parkway Error Takes Its Toll

PRINCETON, Ky. (AP)—An attendant started out of the toll booth on the Western Kentucky Parkway, and carried a waste basket under one arm.

When a motorist drove up, the attendant told him to "drop the money in the basket, please."

It took the startled attendant several minutes to sift through the waste basket for the coins which should have gone into a basket at the side of the booth.

Top Court Appointee Hassle Not New

WASHINGTON — Current arguments over a successor to retiring Chief Justice Earl Warren continue an American tradition. For almost two centuries, the Nation's highest court has stood amid winds of controversy, the screened.

In contrast, the first Supreme Court started serenely. It convened February 1, 1790, and recessed for lack of a quorum.

Three of its six members were absent. Today's Supreme Court handles a huge volume of cases. Some 2,800 petitions to be heard are received each year. About 160 cases are set down for argument after the petitions are screened.

Justices, appointed for life and removable only for "high crimes and misdemeanors," generally outlast the presidents who nominate them and the critics who oppose them. While 35 men have been president, only 14 have been chief justice. One man, William Howard Taft, served in both capacities.

Of 96 Justices in the Court's history, three held office a record 34 years: Chief Justice Marshall (1801-35) and Associate Justices Stephen J. Field (1863-97) and John M. Harlan (1877-1911).

Hugo L. Black, the present associate justice, has served 31 years. Chief Justice Warren was appointed 15 years ago.

Childhood Habits Influence Food Selection

EAST LANSING — Why did you choose to have steak and green salad for dinner instead of boiled potatoes and salt pork?

Many factors enter into your decisions on what and when to eat, according to Mrs. Anita She noted that Americans increasingly hard to change," the Dean, foods and nutrition have more foods available than specialist said. Eating patterns are influenced by:

July Meals End Best With Icy Parfaits

A perfect ending to warm summer meals are frosty cherry parfaits. The parfait sauce, made with plump, juicy, fresh, sweet cherries and subtly accented with lemon and almond, alternates with layers of creamy rich ice cream.

If you wish, prepare the parfaits in advance and store them in your freezer. They'll be ready to bring, icy cold, to the table with no last-minute preparation.

Sweet cherry time is all too brief, so let your family enjoy this luscious fruit often in ever-so-refreshing summer desserts and salads. These summer jewels make wonderful between-meal snacks. They are low in calories, yet high in nutrition.

Fresh, sweet cherries keep best if they are stored, unwashed, in plastic bags in the refrigerator. Wash them just before serving.

SWEET CHERRY PARFAITS

2 cups fresh sweet cherries
1½ tablespoons cornstarch
½ cup sugar
½ cup orange juice
2 tablespoons lemon juice
¼ teaspoon almond extract
Few drops red food coloring
1 quart vanilla ice cream
Whipped cream

Halve and pit cherries. Mix cornstarch and sugar until well blended. Stir in orange juice. Cook and stir until thickened and clear. Stir in cherries, lemon juice, almond extract and food coloring. Cool.

Alternate cherry topping with scoops of ice cream in chilled parfait glasses. Top each parfait with a dollop of whipped

Use Egg Whites to Top Appetizer

French Souffle appetizers start with thin slices of French bread (cut into halves if loaf is more than three inches in diameter).

Beat two egg whites until stiff. Fold in two tablespoons mayonnaise, two tablespoons chopped onion and four slices bacon, cooked and crumbled. Spoon mixture onto bread slices. Bake in preheated 400 degree oven 10 to 12 minutes or until puffed and golden.

But the nutritional value of the food you consume is probably one of the least important factors, she said. Parents, particularly mothers, have an important part in setting food habits in children by what they buy, how they serve it and what meaning they attach to it.

SWEET CHERRY PARFAIT — Fresh sweet cherries folded into an almond flavored sauce are layered with scoops of ice cream in frosty parfait glasses. Serve with a topping of whipped cream.

• Kinds and varieties of food products, their quantities and proportions in the diet.
• Methods of processing, storing and shipping foods.
• Methods of preparing and serving.
• Number of meals, and the amount of food eaten daily.
• Person who makes the decisions regarding food purchases.

All of these settle into food habits that make us look forward to eating some foods and rejecting others. People can be totally unaware of the basis for their food preferences, Mrs. Dean said.

She listed some typical eating patterns and the possible non-nutritional meanings behind such practices:

- Eating favorite foods, gourmet eating and snacking — pure enjoyment.
 - Compulsive overeating, undereating or bolting your food — emotional tension and/or release.
 - Private family eating — security.
 - Preference for childhood foods — insecurity or immaturity.
 - "Meat and potatoes" — masculinity.
 - Fancy salads and desserts — femininity.
 - Style of entertaining — status, social mobility, tradition and sophistication.
 - Food fads or diets — anxiety, attention, gullibility.
 - Impulse invitations and sharing food — sociability, affection, trust or anxiety.
 - Novel foods and snacking — independence, attention.
 - Food as a bribe or reward — discipline.
 - Food as a gift — love, loyalty and morale, tradition.
- "Even such a partial list makes it clear that people have many reasons for choosing their foods and pattern of eating," Mrs. Dean noted.

"Few people will change their food habits simply because they are told that certain foods are good for them or will make them healthy. Concern for health appears to be one of the least effective ways of motivating people to change their food habits."

How You Serve Franks Is a Matter of Choice

By JANET ODELL
Food Editor, The Pontiac Press

Who says you always have to grill a hot dog? There are any number of ways to serve this truly American food. Maybe you'll even invent a new one yourself.

Because hot dogs are already cooked, you never have to worry about youngsters not getting them well done when they're on a hike or picnic.

If you're serving hot dogs at home, consider combining them with refrigerated pizza dough. Cheese, pizza sauce and pickle relish are added before baking.

CONEY CANOES

1 lb. frankfurters
1 package refrigerated pizza dough and sauce
1/4 cup pickle relish
Cut a narrow slit lengthwise in each wiener.
Unroll pizza dough and place seasoned side down. Stretch to form a 14x11-inch rectangle. Cut in half, lengthwise, then cut into 5 crosswise strips, forming 10 small rectangles.

Place one wiener lengthwise on each rectangle. Bring dough around wiener and pinch ends lightly to resemble a canoe. Combine pizza sauce and relish. Spoon 1 to 2 teaspoons sauce into slit in each wiener. Place on greased cookie sheet. Bake at 425 degrees for 10 to 15 minutes, until golden brown.

Heat remaining sauce and serve over hot Coney Canoes. Makes 10 sandwiches.

Half a world away from pizza land is Mexico where zesty food is also standard. Roll tortillas around franks and bake. Sour cream is the appropriate garnish.

MEXICAN FRANKOS

3 cans (8 ounces each) tomato sauce
2 tablespoons chopped green chilies or pickle relish
2 tablespoons instant minced onion
2 cloves garlic, minced
10 corn tortillas
Pure vegetable oil
10 frankfurters

2 cups shredded Monterey Jack, Swiss or process American cheese
1/2 cup sliced ripe olives
Shredded lettuce
1/2 cup sour cream
Whole ripe olives, if desired
In saucepan combine tomato sauce, chilies, onion and garlic; simmer 10 minutes. Meanwhile, lightly cook tortillas in oil just to soften (about 1 minute).

Place frankfurters in centers of tortillas; sprinkle with 1 1/2 cups cheese and olive slices; spoon 2 tablespoons sauce over each. Roll tortillas around frankfurters; place seam-side down in oiled 13x9x2-inch baking dish; pour remaining sauce over; sprinkle with remaining cheese. Bake at 325 degrees for 25 minutes.

Serve on bed of shredded lettuce; garnish with sour cream and whole ripe olives, if desired. Makes 5 servings.

Peanut Butter Fine for Lunch

Peanut butter is fine for summer sandwich lunches. Just remember that there are other sandwich combinations besides peanut butter and jelly — popular as that is. Here are some suggestions for sandwich spreads:

Chop leftover cooked ham and mix with peanut butter, chili sauce and mayonnaise.

Make plain peanut butter sandwiches, dip in slightly beaten egg mixed with a little milk and french fry in butter or margarine. Stewed tomatoes taste good with these.

Add a little finely diced celery and pickle relish to peanut butter.

Mix grated carrot, finely shredded green cabbage and minced parsley with peanut butter.

Add crumbled crisply-cooked bacon and chopped raisins to peanut butter.

Add leftover drained crushed pineapple to peanut butter.

This beanbake takes just minutes from refrigerator and shelf to table, and it's good enough to serve your best friend or the whole gang!

The basic ingredients? A can of pork and beans plus a pack of tomato sauce, chili powder and a bit of chili powder and hot pepper sauce give it flavor dash.

WIENER BEANBAKE OIL:
1 package (1 lb.) Wieners
1 can (1 lb.) pork & beans in tomato sauce
1/2 cup tomato sauce
1/2 teaspoon chili powder
Few drops hot pepper sauce

1/4 cup crushed corn chips
1/2 cup (4 oz.) dairy sour cream
Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Cut Wieners into thin slices. Combine with pork & beans, tomato sauce, chili powder and hot pepper sauce in 1 1/2 quart casserole. Bake 25 to 30 minutes, or until heated through. Top each serving with a spoonful of sour cream and a sprinkling of corn chips. Makes 5 servings.

Sauerkraut 'n' Wieners Team for Buffet Salad

The tang of sauerkraut, the full-bodied flavor of frankfurters and the sweetness of a juicy red apple are combined with the delicate, fresh flavor of western iceberg lettuce in "German Buffet Salad."

The creamy, caraway dressing enlivened with caraway will seem just right to you for this party salad.

This creamy, caraway dressing, incidentally, is equally good served over crisp wedges of western iceberg lettuce. Garnish with ripe olives and perhaps

GERMAN BUFFET SALAD

1 head western iceberg lettuce
1 cup dairy sour cream
1 package (3 oz.) cream cheese, softened
2 teaspoons sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon white pepper
1/2 teaspoon caraway seed
2 cups sliced frankfurters
1 can (8 oz.) sauerkraut, well drained
1 large red-skinned apple, diced
1 cup chopped parsley

Core, rinse and drain lettuce; chill in disposable plastic bag. Cut head lengthwise into halves; place cut sides down on board and shred to make 5 cups, packed.

Blend sour cream with cheese, sugar, salt, pepper and caraway seed in large salad bowl. Add all remaining ingredients and toss well. Chill. Makes 7 cups salad or about 14 buffet servings.

Guard Goodness of Tasty Hot Dogs

Give the franks you buy for outdoor and indoor cooking the good treatment they deserve, and they'll be wonderfully tasty no matter where they're cooked. In the sausage kitchens where franks are born, they are stuffed with selected lean beef and pork and delicately blended with just the right amount of spices.

They get their ruddy tan from hanging in a smokehouse and are then given an invigorating steam or water bath. That's why they come to you ready cooked.

The proteins and vitamins in franks are equally as nutritious as those in any meat cut.

Once you've purchased the franks, give them the same careful treatment. Store them promptly in the refrigerator and use them within a week.

For best flavor, don't freeze franks. They lose flavor when held at home freezer temperatures just as do other cured and smoked meats. Instead, buy franks every week in the amount you plan to use within the week.

Tuck Corn in Roll

One busy mother slathers butter on split frankfurter rolls, then tucks a hot cooked ear of corn into each. Twirl until buttered.

Viet 'Foliage' Is at Its Lushest on the Chin of 'Weird Beard'

SAIGON (AP) — There are some $35,000 beardless American soldiers in Vietnam and then there is John Sloman, sometimes known as Weird Beard.

He's the despair of dutiful military policemen who try to enforce an Army ban on chin foliage. Sloman politely refuses to comply. He's been getting away with it for three months and figures to hold out for the rest of his tour in Vietnam.

No hippie is Sloman. He's a hard-working engineer sergeant and onetime farmboy and mechanic from Pawnee, Ill.

Sloman's secret weapon is a medical paper, signed by an Army doctor. It excuses him from shaving as long as he is in Vietnam. (And Sloman voluntarily extended his 12-month tour for another six—though not just to escape shaving.)

LUSH RED GROWTH

"I have plenty of guys come up to me and ask how I get by with it," grins Sloman, proudly fingering a lush red growth that any other 22-year-old would envy.

Photographer,
83, Ending
3rd Career

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — At the age of 83, Leo Rosenthal is taking bows for the third career of his long life—photographer of U.N. notables from Secretary-General U Thant on down.

Born in Riga, Latvia, under the Russian czar, he has been a criminal lawyer in Moscow through two revolutions, a journalist in Berlin and Paris between two world wars and a free-lance photographer at the United Nations since it was formed in 1945.

He estimates that his U.N. photo collection contains more than 300,000 pictures of statesmen, delegates and U.N. officials at General Assembly sessions, Security Council meetings, conferences, luncheons, receptions and other events here and abroad.

STILL PINK-CHEEKED

Now, white-haired, bent, lame—but still pink-cheeked and sprightly—he has been honored by the U.N. Association of the U.S.A. with an exhibit of 600 of his photographs on U.S. participation in the United Nations.

Son of a prosperous Jewish jeweler, Rosenthal became a criminal lawyer in Moscow, served under the provisional Kerensky government as head of the Bureau of Released Prisoners and commissioner of the Taganka Prison, and after the Bolshevik Revolution became executive secretary of the Political Red Cross and a defense attorney in the revolutionary tribunals and people's courts.

He quit the law when lawyers were nationalized in 1919.

A year later he moved on to Berlin and became a court reporter in 1922 for the Vorwarts, chief newspaper of the German Social Democratic party. He worked at that until 1933, covering big trials all over Germany for eight Socialist papers and taking courtroom pictures to go with his stories. When Hitler came to power in 1933, the Vorwarts was suppressed and Rosenthal was arrested. As a Latvian citizen, he was set free.

OFF TO PARIS

In August 1934 he went to Paris as correspondent for Labor party papers in Helsinki, Stockholm, Oslo, Copenhagen and Gothenburg. He stayed till June 1940, interviewing and photographing world leaders. He left Paris the day before the Germans marched in and served as a correspondent in Vichy for his Scandinavian papers until the Germans took over the remainder of France.

In 1942 the Nazis killed his mother, brother and three sisters in Riga. Rosenthal, helped by American voluntary organizations, came to New York, where he stuffed dolls, modeled for art students, was assistant librarian of Riker's Island Prison and finally went back to photography. He took pictures at the U.N. organizing conference in San Francisco in 1945 and ended up here.

In talking with delegates, Rosenthal always kept out of their quarrels. But in posing them for pictures, he ordered them around freely. Once the late Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld told him, "You are a dictator!"

Sloman's medical problem is an allergy brought on by Vietnam's heat, humidity and laterite soil. It makes his face break out. The doctors couldn't figure out any other cure so they gave Sloman a slip of paper excusing him from shaving.

Sloman may be the only "official" Army beard in Vietnam.

Since he grew his beard, however, he's been on the lookout for others and he's spotted a few. "It's a lot cooler with a beard," Sloman says. "I know one guy with a beard in the Long Binh jail." Sloman claims. "Besides, the little I don't know why he's in kids like to feel it. They like to stroke it but I know he's got pat it. I've only had one kid give a beard. I saw it while we were it a real tug."

Sloman lets a somewhat more pointed working over from his good-humored sergeant-en-buddies in the 46th Engineer Battalion. "Some guys call me Moses and they are always coming up with a new needle," Sloman says.

"I've had MPs stop and ask if I was real. They are always stopping me but they're usually polite about it. They see the beard, they see the uniform and they just know something is wrong." His only close call was an Army major who felt the war would go better if Sloman shaved. The discussion got a little warm, Sloman recalls, but the beard survived.

Such brushes with authority usually take place in headquarters areas. Out on the job, the engineers are usually a pretty informal unwashed bunch.

On his present job, building emergency refugee housing on the outskirts of Saigon, the kids are always giggling and yelling what must be loosely translated as "Dig that crazy red beard."

Sloman knows his days of whiskered glory are numbered. It's his wife Elizabeth back in Springfield, Ill.

"Her last letter sort of said that if I didn't shave it off we would just stay home when I got back," Sloman says. "I figure on going out a little, so the beard will have to go."

Orioles Clout Indians, Eye Tiger Efforts

BALTIMORE (AP) — The American League pennant race hasn't entered its final stages yet. It only seems that way. While Mayo Smith, manager of the first-place Detroit Tigers already is bringing his starters back with only two days rest, the runner-up Baltimore Orioles have become ardent scoreboard watchers. And, it's only July.

After outlasting Cleveland 8-6 Tuesday night in a 21-hit slugfest, and replacing the Indians in second place, the Orioles turned their attention to the late-finishing Detroit-Washington game.

"What's Detroit doing?" several players asked reporters as they arrived in the clubhouse. When they had left the field, the scoreboard showed Washington ahead 4-3.

"Washington has made three pitching changes in the eighth," a reporter said. "Never mind that," outfielder Frank Robinson said. "Did Detroit score?"

CALLLED HALT

Even Oriole Manager Earl Weaver, who has posted a 10-4 record since replacing the deposed Hank Bauer, momentarily got swept up in the moment. Suddenly, he called a halt.

"Let's worry about Cleveland first," Weaver said. "We have Detroit coming in over the weekend."

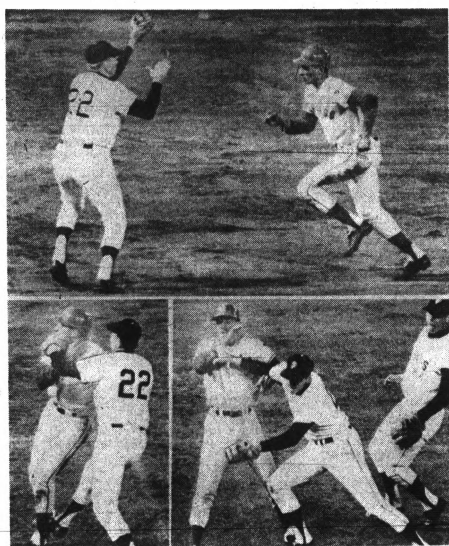

Then, after being informed Detroit had gone ahead in the eighth, Weaver added: "It's early yet. We've got time."

Baltimore trailed Detroit by 10½ games when Weaver took command July 11, but now the Orioles are six behind with a three-game series against the Tigers coming up.

Baltimore continued its recent robust hitting Tuesday night. Boog Powell drove in four runs with a homer and double. Brooks Robinson homered with a man on, and Dave Johnson tripled for two runs.

Don Buford, hitting .385 since the All-Star Game, had two hits, stole three bases and scored two runs.

Jose Cardenal and Joe Azcue hit homers for the Indians, who lost to the Orioles for only the second time in 10 games this season.

State Pro-Am Decided

Late Switch Pairs Champions

By FLETCHER SPEARS

A couple of longtime pals playing together in a competitive event for the first time own the 1968 Michigan Pro-Am Golf Championship.

Cass Jawor, assistant at Glen Oaks, and Detroit Dennis McInerney, both 31, were brought together for this tournament almost by accident and they made the best of it by posting a one-stroke victory in the 54-hole tournament at Indianwood Country Club near Lake Orion.

The two sharpshooters scored the 54-hole grind over the hilly, 6,909-yard, par-72 course with a hot 18-under-par 198 on rounds of 64, 69 and 65.

TAKE SECOND

A stroke back were Bill Bisdorf of Grosse Ile and former Michigan amateur champion Glenn Johnson.

Sharing third with 208s were former Oakland Hills pro Al Watrous and Hunter McDonald along with Glenn Stuart of Cascade Hills and Peter Green of Orchard Lake, the 1966 champions.

Defending champions Bill Mattson of Shenandoah and Bill Curtis were 10th with a 209.

CAREER HIGHLIGHT

The win was the biggest one of his career for Cass, who is one of five Javor brothers in the pro golf business. Cass is assistant to brother Stan at Glen Oaks.

Cass's best previous showing in competitive golf came in 1962 when he finished 10th in the Cajun Classic during a brief stint on the pro tour.

Javor had entered the 31st running of this tournament with Roy Cullenbine of Detroit, but business forced Cullenbine to withdraw.

The first round of the tournament was slated for Monday, and as of early Sunday, Javor had no partner.

DRAFTED PARTNER

Later in the day, McInerney, a shirt salesman, strolled into the clubhouse at Glen Oaks. "I drafted him then," said the happy Javor.

McInerney had just returned from a selling trip to Chicago.

On Monday, they fired an eight-under 64 to share the first-round lead with Knollwood's Robert Panasuk and Bob Solomon, lost the lead during the first round of yesterday's 36-hole finals and then came on strong over the final 18 holes to sew up the championship.

Bisdorf and Johnson were at 130 on two straight 65s and held a three-stroke advantage over Javor and McInerney as they headed into the final 18 holes.

HOT STREAK

But the Javor-McInerney duo hit a hot streak. Dennis banged home three birdie putts on the front side, while Cass col-

Michigan's Strack Switching Positions

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Dave Strack, who recruited All-American Cazzie Russell and catapulted Michigan into basketball prominence, resigned as head coach of the Wolverines Tuesday.

He will take over the newly created post of business manager of athletics.

The appointment was approved Tuesday night by the university's board in control of intercollegiate athletics.

Don Canham, who succeeded H.O. "Fritz" Crisler as athletic director last spring, said a successor had not been named, adding: "We should have a new coach shortly."

The best bet to succeed the 45-year-old Strack is John Orr, who served as his assistant last season.

DIFFICULT DECISION

"The decision to leave coaching was certainly difficult, but I'm pleased to be working with Don Canham, who is bringing new ideas into this important field of athletic administration," said Strack.

"I've been fortunate to have talented players, who have brought great success to Michigan. Now I'm looking forward to the business operations which should prove as rewarding as my 20 years as a coach."

Under Strack, the Wolverines posted a 113-89 record over eight years, including a 65-17 mark while Russell, now with the NBA's New York Knicks, was a player.

With Russell, Michigan won three straight Big Ten titles from 1964 through 1966, sharing one with Ohio State. The Wolverines finished third in the NCAA tournament in 1964, and second in 1965, losing to UCLA.

No 1 QUINDET

Strack's team was voted No. 1 in the Associated Press poll with a 24-4 mark in 1965, his best year.

The team slipped to a 2-12 Big Ten record in 1966 and was 6-8 last year, winning its last four conference games.

Strack was a three-year basketball regular at Michigan and captain of the 1946 team. He served as an assistant coach before taking the head coaching job at Michigan following a year as head coach at Idaho in 1959-60.

Appendectomy Puts White Sox Skipper Lopez on Sidelines

CHICAGO (AP) — Manager Al Lopez of the Chicago White Sox was resting comfortably today following an emergency appendectomy Tuesday night.

Lopez, who will be 60 next month, complained of stomach pains Tuesday and was taken to Mercy Hospital as a precautionary measure shortly before the Oakland-Chicago game was rained out.

A couple of hours later it was announced he was undergoing surgery.

Lopez, who returned as the Sox manager July 14 two days after Eddie Stanky resigned, will be out of action for at least two weeks. Coach Les Moss will direct the team during Lopez's absence.

Pinch Singles Earn 19th Win for Tiger Ace

WASHINGTON (UPI) — If Denny McLain wants to win 30 games this season, it might help if he gets his next 12 starts on the road.

McLain picked up his 19th victory of the year Tuesday night as the Detroit Tigers rallied to a 6-4 victory over the Washington Senators on pinch singles by Jim Price and Gates Brown that punched across two eighth-inning runs.

The victory, which brought the Tigers out of a three-game losing streak and increased their American League lead by six games, was the 12th for McLain in his 12 starts in road games.

All three of his losses this season came in home games, where he started 13, won seven and had no decisions in three others when he was replaced by relief pitchers.

Hal Newbouser, who tied George Mullins' club one-season record with 29 triumphs in 1941, gained his 19th victory that year Aug. 16 in relief at Boston and his 20th two days later at Fenway Park.

Detroit's uprising against the last-place Senators began when reliever Phil Ortega hit a wild streak and walked Al Kaline and Bill Freehan, with the Tigers trailing 4-3 and one out.

SOLID SINGLE

Price's pinch hit scored Kaline to tie the game and Brown sent Detroit in front with a solid single to right.

Jim Northrup doubled and Kaline singled him across to add an insurance run in the ninth inning.

McLain, who gave up eight hits and all four Washington runs, bowed out for a pinch hitter in the eighth inning Detroit rally, but Pat Dobson and Jon Warden preserved his win in relief.

The Tigers surged to a 3-0 lead in the first inning by tagging starter Camilo Pascual for three runs on a walk, an error and singles by Kaline and Freehan.

Frank Howard belted his 28th homer of the year into the upper leftfield deck to cut the margin to 3-1 in the second inning.

CLOSED THE GATES

The Senators started a three-run rally in the sixth when Mike Epstein was hit by a pitch and Howard doubled. Successive singles by Ken McMullen, Bernie Allen and Paul Casanova then accounted for the go-ahead runs.

But Brown, who is 10 for 17 as a pinchhitter, closed the gates on the Senators' bid and gave the Tigers a six-game American League lead.

"Brown has three things going for him," Manager Mayo Smith said.

"Brown believes he can hit; Brown knows he can hit, and Brown does hit."

The Tigers face the Senators again tonight in the second of three games. Mickey Lolich (7-5) will pitch for Detroit against Washington's Jim Hannan 3-2.

Easy Net Victory for Miss Fisher at Dayton Meet

Special to The Press

DAYTON, Ohio — Top-seeded Emily Fisher of Bloomfield Hills trimmed Californian Mary Struthers, 6-2, yesterday in the 18-year-old division at the Western Girls Tennis Championships.

The leading 16-year-old Kristin Kemmer also breezed to a second-round win, while three other highly ranked entries were eliminated in upsets.

SURPRISES

Eighth-seeded Rana Epstein of Miami, Fla., was eliminated by Tuppy Daugherty of Baton Rouge, La., 6-1, 6-4 and in the 16-year-old division, Sharon Walsh of San Rafael, Calif., upset third seeded Cindy Thomas of Los Angeles, 6-4, 5-7, 6-8.

Miss Kemmer breezed by Chris Slade of Redwood City, Calif., 6-2, 6-0.

In other play, Connie-Capozzi of Middletown, Ohio, third seeded in the 18-year-old division, defeated Martha Thornhill of Huntington, W. Va., 6-1, 6-2. Seeded, Jane Lawson of Middletown, Ohio, defeated Pam Farmer of San Diego, Calif., 6-2, 3-6, 7-5.

Golfer Gets Shakes Following Ace, Eagle

BRISTOL, Va. (AP) — Robert Towns quit after playing nine holes at the Holston Valley golf course Tuesday—"too shook up to go on."

Towns in that distance, carded a hole-in-one and a double eagle device.

The double eagle came at the par 5 third hole. Towns' drive went into an adjoining fairway but his iron shot went over a blind hill, onto the third green—and into the cup for a two.

The ace was at the par 4, 298-yard eighth hole. A brisk wind helped Towns' drive.

He finished the nine-holes in 34, two under par.

U.S. Race Group Trims Turbines

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — The checkered flag was waved for the second and apparently the last time Tuesday for the controversial but still winless turbine-powered race cars of Andy Granatelli.

The U.S. Auto Club board of directors cut the air intake area of the turbine cars to 11.9 square inches, effective Jan. 1, 1969.

The intake area, which governs the power of the turbines, was reduced from 23.9 to 11.9 square inches last summer by USAC.

Both moves were to make the turbines more competitive with the conventional, piston-engine cars in races with Indianapolis-type cars, including the Indianapolis 500, USAC said.

But Granatelli, STP Corp. president, said Tuesday night the latest USAC action "speaks for itself."

OTHER MOVES

"I'll not be back at Indianapolis next year with a turbine," he said from his Chicago office.

USAC also:

—Lowered displacement of the turbocharged Offenhauser and Ford engines from 170.856 to 161.703 cubic inches, also effective Jan. 1.

—Raised displacement of nonsupercharged production stock block engines from 205.1 to 220.355 inches, effective immediately.

—Left unchanged displacement of the specially built nonproduction stock engines, such as Dan Gurney drove to second place in this year's 500, at 205.1 cubic inches, with the formula to be reviewed at USAC's January meeting.

The win brought Javor a check for $350, while Bisdorf picked up $300. Al Watrous, a three-time winner of the event, and Stuart, the 1966 champ, each collected $282.50.

Golf's Big Guns on Missing List

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — The $100,000 Minnesota Classic—the closest thing to an institution on the pro golfing tour—opens a four-day run Thursday without most of the big name golfers.

The oldest tournament on the PGA circuit, the meet originated in 1930 as the St. Paul Open.

Such stars as Jack Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer, Billy Casper, Doug Sanders, Gary Player, masters champion Bob Garry and newly-crowned PGA champ Julius Boros—will be sitting out the tournament. The field of 150 will be packed with young pros.

Lee Trevino, colorful U.S. Open champion, and young Tom Weiskopf, currently the leading money winner of 1968, are rated the favorites. Defending champion Lou Graham and 1965 U.S. Open winner Ray Floyd are back for another fling at the $20,000 first-prize money.

In talking with delegates, Rosenthal always kept out of their quarrels. But in posing them for pictures, he ordered them around freely. Once the late Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld told him, "You are a dictator!"

Sloman's medical problem is an allergy brought on by Vietnam's heat, humidity and later, he's been on the lookout for others and he's spotted a few. "I know one guy with a beard in the Long Binh jail," Sloman says. "I don't know why he's in the stockade but I know he's got a beard. I saw it while we were working out there."

Sloman may be the only "official" Army beard in Vietnam. Despite a lot of funny looks, pointed working over from his good-humored sergeant-en-buddies in the 46th Engineer Battalion.

"Some guys call me Moses and they are always coming up with a new needle," Sloman says. "I've had MPs stop and ask if I was real. They are always stopping me, but they're usually polite about it. They see the beard, they see the uniform and they just know something is wrong."

His only close call was an Army major who felt the war would go better if Sloman shaved. The discussion got a little warm, Sloman recalls, but the beard survived.

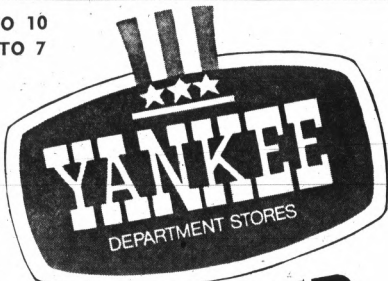

Usually take place in headquarters areas. Out on the job, the engineers are usually a pretty informal unwashed bunch.

On his present job, building emergency refugee housing on the outskirts of Saigon, the kids are always giggling and yelling back. Sloman says, "I figure what must be loosely translated as 'Dig that crazy red beard.'"

Sloman knows his days of whiskered glory are numbered. It's his wife Elizabeth back in Springfield, Ill.

"Her last letter sort of said that if I didn't shave it off we would just stay home when I got back," Sloman says. "I figure what must be loosely translated as 'Dig that crazy red beard.'"

Montreal Hopes Sag as Director Quits

MONTREAL, (UPI)—Montreal's major league baseball hopes, bedeviled by worse despite endorsement of a franchise, grew murkier today with a report of further possible changes among the financial angles of the venture.

Wealthy funeral parlor owner Marc Bougie ended his brief flyer into the baseball world by resigning Tuesday from the syndicate that promises to have a team fielded by 1969 despite a current lack of players, coach or even a name.

Bougie's exit left the syndicate with six angels who remained confident that all would end well.

"There may be a couple of changes in the group," Charles Bronfman, scion of the distilling clan and one of the six remaining backers, told United Press International.

"There could be a couple of additions, and it's still possible that another dropout could occur," Bronfman said.

PERINI INTERESTED

Bronfman acknowledged that Lou Perini, a construction magnate with large Quebec interests, is a possible new addition to the Montreal syndicate. Bronfman added that any Perini participation would require Perini to give up his interest in the Atlanta Braves.

Bronfman confirmed that John McHale, assistant to Commissioner William D. Eckert, "has an inside track" for the job of general manager of the new Montreal club. However, he added "it will be several more days" before any announcement on the appointment.

McHale is former general manager and president of the Detroit Tigers and the Atlanta Braves.

SOUTHPAW MET—Rookie left-hander Jerry Kosman has been one reason the New York Mets' pitching has shown significant improvement this season. The hard-throwing southpaw was recommended by a stadium usher to the Mets' scouts.

World Record Paid for Filly

LEXINGTON, Ky. (UPI)—Supermarket millionaire W. P. Rosso came to Keeneland's annual summer yearling sale to buy horses, especially one fine filly, and he did not care how much he paid.

Rosso got his horse Tuesday night at a cost of $406,000, a world record price for a yearling.

Rosso, making his first appearance at the sale this year, came with the intention of buying a chestnut filly by Sea-Bird whom he had seen race in France, and outbid another millionaire, platinum-magnate Charles Engelhardt, Craigwood Stables, N.J., for the horse.

The two-day sale of 248 horses netted a record $7,006,900 for an average of $28,471 a head. It compared with last year's auction of 284 yearlings for each.

Junior Team Undefeated

A seven-run fifth inning, keyed by Mark McAllister's double that drove in two runs Tuesday, boosted Rochester to its ninth win without a defeat in the city junior baseball Class D loop.

McAllister added another two-bagger to finish with two hits, two rbi's and two runs scored in the 9-3 victory over the Eagles.

Red Johnson had two singles for four rbi's and teammate Ted Clark drove in two more with a single and double as the Heights Boys' Club erupted for 11 runs in the first two innings and posted an 11-3 Class E conquest of New Hope Baptist.

TWO HOMERS

In Wicket National action, Bill Webb's two home runs for the Columbia Avenue Recreation Association featured an 8-5 triumph over House of Barbers. Another two-round tripper performer was Terry Hubert in a 20-10 slugfest win by Charlie

Rochester Ace Wins Three Events

Local runners were impressive in Federation Track Meet competition last night at Southgate Schafer High School.

Rob Woodroof of Rochester, competing in the senior division (18 and over), took the 100 (10.2), the 100 hurdles (20.8) and the 440 (49.9).

Jon Costello of Pontiac Center, entered in the 15-17 age group, also won three events. He took the 440 hurdles (59.1), two mile (10:54) and 440 (54.0).

In the 14-and-under class, Nelson won four events and ran a leg on the winning 800 relay team.

Large Perch Hitting Near Port Huron

Large perch are hitting in the Lower Lake Huron near the No. 3 buoy north of Port Huron with minnows the best bait.

Walleye fishing on the St. Clair River south of Port Huron remains fair with pencil plugs the favored lures. Catfish are being taken in cuts off Saginaw Bay in Tuscola County and a 22-pound musky was caught at Murphy Lake, east of Millington.

Wild Turkeys Doing Well

Plan More Permits in Baldwin Area

Wild turkeys are doing well in the Baldwin area, according to Conservation Department biologists, and prospects are fair to good for this fall's Nov. 1-10 season.

One thousand permits (200 more than last year) will be issued in the Baldwin area and 500 in the Mio area.

Hunters interested may obtain information on areas and application procedures by writing to Wild Turkey Department of Conservation, Lansing, Mich. 48926.

The Mio wild turkey hunting area covers 775 square miles and includes parts of Alcona, Iosco, Ogemaw, Oscoda and Montmorency counties.

The Baldwin area (872 sq. mi.), slightly enlarged from last year, includes Lake County and portions of Newaygo, Oceana and Mason counties.

Change Location of Next Meeting

The August conservation commission meeting will be held in the Jack Tar Hotel, Lansing, instead of the Park Place Hotel, Traverse City, as previously announced.

Dates are Aug. 8-9. In another change, the dates for the September meeting at Caberfae Lodge, Cadillac, have been moved up one week. The new dates are Sept. 3-6.

Lamprey Eels Get Treatment

Great Lakes Streams Receive Chemicals

The Pentwater River in Oceana County is the first stream to be chemically treated in the fiscal lamprey control program of the Great Lakes Fisheries Commission for the 1968-69 season.

The work is under contract to the U.S. Bureau of Commercial Fisheries and includes rivers tributary to the Great Lakes in 22 Michigan counties on Lakes Superior, Michigan and Huron.

By July 1, 1969, these Michigan waters will have been treated with lampicide: Lake Superior — Traverse River, Houghton County; Potomac River, Ontonagon County; Big Garlic River, Marquette County.

Lake Michigan — Jordan and Boyne rivers, Charlevoix County; Fishdam, Little Fishdam rivers, and Valentine Creek, Delta County; Boardman River, Grand Traverse County; Millcoquins and Black rivers, and Mile Creek, Mackinac County.

Also, the Big Manistee River, Manistee County; Lincoln River, Mason County; Sugar Creek and Cedar River, Menominee County; Big River, Muskegon and White rivers, Muskegon County; Pentwater River, Oceana County.

Lake Huron — Devils Creek, Alpena County; East Au Gres, Au Gres, Rifle rivers, Arenac County; Saginaw River tributaries, Bay County; Martineau Creek, Canoe Lake outlet, Chippewa County; Rock Falls and Sucker creeks, Huron County.

Silver Creek, AuSable River, Iosco County; Hessel Creek, for Mackinac County; Ocqueoc National League and 7-15 River, Presque Isle County; Black Creek, St. Clair County; Mill Creek, Sanilac County.

Retiring Expert Makes Prediction

Deer Hunting Should Remain Good

LANSING (AP)—Michigan still should have fine deer hunting in the future, even up to the year 2,000.

There is a chance, too, that a new record deer might be bagged some year in southern Michigan.

These sound like pretty far-off predictions.

But they have to be taken for gospel when they come from Ilo Bartlett, who retired last week as deer specialist for the State Conservation Department.

Bartlett started on the job in 1926 and has devoted his 42 years with the department to learning about deer.

He is "Mr. Deer" to many, and is credited with leading Michigan into its present scientific management of Michigan's deer herd—one of the state's most spectacular outdoor resources.

CAN SURVIVE

Bartlett thinks it possible that "Deer have proven they can survive despite the human population explosion."

As proof, he cited the continuing increase of the deer in southern Michigan. Despite expanded building, deer browse around abandoned farms and can be spotted on the outskirts of even the state's largest cities.

Bartlett predicted that with wise management, hunters will continue to take some 100,000 deer a year—with the kill varying 10,000 one way or another according to hunting conditions and the shape of the farm crop.

Michigan's record deer is listed as one that dressed out at 334 pounds, figured at 425 pounds on the hoof. The lucky hunter was Al Tippett of Flint who shot the big buck at Trout Creek, in the western part of the Upper Peninsula, in 1919.

Bartlett predicted that with wise management, hunters will continue to take some 100,000 deer a year—with the kill varying 10,000 one way or another according to hunting conditions and the shape of the farm crop.

Michigan's record deer is listed as one that dressed out at 334 pounds, figured at 425 pounds on the hoof. The lucky hunter was Al Tippett of Flint who shot the big buck at Trout Creek, in the western part of the Upper Peninsula, in 1919.

Holly Riding Dispute

'Temporary' Solution

The conflict between horse owners and the Conservation Department over use of the Holly recreation area was "temporarily" settled yesterday.

"I think we can work out something temporary," Robert Dodge, chief of the department's state park complex, told a group of over 60 people during a special meeting at the Groveland Township Hall.

The meeting was requested by horse owners and 4-H leaders.

Big Inning Aids Softball Win

Jerry Byrd drove in four runs last night as Wixom downed Carpentier Engineering, 10-1, in Walled Lake Industrial Softball.

In a second game, Larry Rynzt' double capped a five-run sixth inning and sent John Gasky scouting across the plate with the winning run in Imperial Moulding's 5-4 win over Haggerty Lumber.

Drawing Scheduled

City softball program director Jim Jones reminds slowpitch team managers that the drawings for the post-season playoffs will be at 7:15 tonight for Mackinac County; Ocqueoc National League and 7-15 River, Presque Isle County; Black Creek, St. Clair County; Mill Creek, Sanilac County.

Father, Daughter Seek Mixed Title

The duck play in today's column represents a more complicated safety play than the one discussed yesterday. Most declarers would have made yesterday's play. We think only a small minority would make today's.

Marshall Miles says in his article in "Popular Bridge": "Why does it help to save our high cards until later rounds? It is because as long as both hands can lead a suit it doesn't matter which hand is on lead."

"When only one hand has cards left in the suit it is vital for that hand to be on lead. For some reason everyone can see why that is true when the entry is an ace, but it is harder to see when the entry is a low card."

South wins the heart lead in his own hand. He needs the queen of hearts as a later entry to dummy. Then he leads a diamond. West follows with the nine and South plays low from dummy. This play will cost him a trick in the event that West started with two or three diamonds to the ace, but he doesn't need five diamond tricks. Four will give him his contract and probably an over-trick.

Let's see what happens if he plays the king or queen. Nothing bad if East takes his ace right away, but East ducks. South returns to his hand with a spade and leads a second diamond. This time East takes his ace and South takes a two trick set. He has only one remaining entry to dummy and he does not have the diamond suit established.

If South plays low the first time, East or West will hold the trick. Then, when South

Church Invests in Minorities

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Episcopal Church has deposited $675,000 in 45 banking institutions in low-income areas of the United States, a church official says.

The Rev. Canon Nicholas Kouletis of the Los Angeles Episcopal Diocese disclosed Tuesday the church's executive council has reinvested $45,000 in three minority-group banks and savings and loans associations in Los Angeles.

Canon Kouletis said the church hopes to allow banks in Negro or Mexican-American sections to increase capital for business and home loans to people in their communities.

"My black friends tell me that putting money in black banks has done more good for them than all the preaching we've done in years," he said.

NINE KILLED — A two-car passenger train collided with this farm labor bus at Newtonville, a small southern New Jersey community, killing nine and injuring 20.

State police said a Pennsylvania-Reading Seashore Lines train hit the bus carrying about 40 migrant farm workers at a grade crossing last night.

Engine Crashes Through Wall of Railroad Shops

HUTCHINSON, Kan. (AP) — Last month a Santa Fe locomotive got away from the railroad yards here and sped some 80 miles driverless across Kansas before it was derailed.

Tuesday, another diesel kept going when it should have stopped and crashed part way through the wall of the railroad shops.

The locomotive was sitting outside the shops when a machinist attempted to drive it inside. He said he applied the brakes "but she just kept on going" through a brick and reinforced glass wall.

Damage to the building was extensive, the railroad reported.

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Bees stung a professional tree trimmer more than 100 times on his face and chest as he was trapped in his climbing ropes 35 feet above the ground.

Huston Wilhoit, 45, of Cincinnati, finally escaped by shaking loose of the ropes, climbing the tree and falling the last 10 feet.

Wilhoit, who had been summoned to a trailer park on remove a damaged limb from a tree, was reported in fair condition at a hospital.

Algeria Frees 23 Others

'Skyjacked' Israelis Still Held

PARIS (AP) — The Algerian government still held a hijacked Israeli jetliner and 21 or 22 Israeli citizens today after releasing 23 non-Israeli passengers.

The El Al Boeing 707 was diverted to Algiers on a flight from Rome to Israel early Tuesday by three members of the Liberation of Palestine, an Arab sabotage group. The front asked the Algerian government to hold the Israelis aboard the plane as Three Jewish passengers who were not Israeli citizens were flown to Marseille.

Reports of the number of Israelis held in Algiers differed.

Although the several Arab guerrilla organizations have sent commando squads into Israel repeatedly on terrorist and sabotage missions, this was the first Israeli plane ever hijacked.

One of the passengers who was released, Leon Papi, a Colombian, said the plane's cockpit staggered into the passenger compartment 20 minutes after the takeoff from Rome.

"He was bleeding profusely from a head wound and his shirt was covered in blood," said Papi. "We heard he had been hit over the head by a revolver. He told us the plane had been hijacked."

Chino Raccah, a 29-year-old Libyan, said one of the hijackers drew his finger through the blood of the injured man.

"He licked it," Raccah reported, "and said in Hebrew: 'Jewish blood is very sweet.' He added 'We shall throw all the Jews into the sea,' and then quickly said 'we want peace.'"

Two "badish men" covered the passengers with revolvers and hand grenades, the passengers said, and another was with the pilot.

The men told the passengers to keep quiet, hold their hands above their heads and they would not be harmed.

A Danish passenger said one of the hijackers took over the controls and brought the jetliner down in Algiers to a good landing.

Young Gaiz said the passengers were frightened but members of the plane crew tried to comfort the non-Israelis by telling them the hijackers were concerned only with Israeli citizens.

Landing in Algiers before dawn, the passengers were taken to a barren building at the airport and kept there together until midday.

"All we had until then was some coffee and a roll," Gaiz said. "Then they separated us. The Israelis were taken away. We were asked who we were, why we were going to Israel, after we were separated, all of a sudden we were like guests."

"We were given a good meal and taken on a tour of the city before we were put on a plane to Paris."

Top Reds Headed for Czech Talk

PRAGUE (AP) — Unconfirmed reports today said Leonid I. Brezhnev and the rest of the Soviet Communist party Politburo was on its way to Czechoslovakia for its crucial meeting with Prague's new Communist leaders to discuss the latter's controversial democratic reforms.

Departure of the Soviet delegation for the previously announced meeting was reported by the Yugoslav news agency, Tanjug, from Moscow. There was no official confirmation, but rumors of the departure circulated in Moscow.

The trip to Czechoslovakia is the first by the Politburo—steering committee of the Soviet party—outside Russia as a group.

The meeting is expected to be held today or Thursday in Slovakia, adjacent to the Soviet Union, but the time and location have not been announced.

Despite new Soviet army maneuvers along its eastern frontier, Czechoslovak officials expressed confidence the Russians would never resort to armed intervention if the country stands united behind Alexander Dubcek's reformist regime.

"The Soviets would lose more than they would gain by a military intervention," one Communist party official said.

"Moscow will have to get used to what is going on here. There can be no turning back the clock. We are not going to compromise and are determined to continue on the present course."

Party officials said they viewed the Soviet note this week demanding a strengthening of Czechoslovakia's border with West Germany, presumably by Red Army troops, as "just another step in the war of nerves."

APPARENT REBUTTAL

In apparent rebuttal to the Soviet note, Maj. Gen. Jan Pery, commander of the frontier guard forces, said in a statement to the official news agency CTK:

"Fears regarding the safety of Czechoslovakia's borders are quite unfounded. The Czechoslovak Socialist Republic has enough strength to safely protect its state border with its capitalist neighbors."

The Soviet note is expected to be a chief topic of discussion at the meeting of the 11-member Soviet Politburo and the 11-man presidium of the Czechoslovak Party.

In Moscow, the Soviet Defense Ministry announced today that "military logistic exercises" are under way in the western Ukraine, which borders on Czechoslovakia, as well as in White Russia, Latvia and the Russian Federation. They are to continue until Aug. 10.

The announcement gave no hint that the maneuvers were connected with Soviet pressure against Czechoslovakia's more liberal course. Nevertheless, there was some thinking in Moscow that the army exercises could provide a cover for Soviet forces that might be preparing for an invasion of Czechoslovakia if the party talks failed to settle the crisis.

Landau Marital 'Mission' Is Far From Impossible

By EARL WILSON
Hollywood—"I had a crush on my teach," Barbara Bain said.

"I was Martin's student at the Kurt Conway acting school in New York. He was very critical of my work and with good reason... I wasn't very good at the time."

Barbara and Martin Landau are the hottest husband-and-wife acting team on TV now.

Their CBS series, "Mission: Impossible," has made a second two-part for a movie feature for release ahead of TV, so there must be a success formula, but they don't know what it is.

"But it does work fine for us," Landau said. "When I come home from the office, I don't have to tell her what happened today because she knows. We can get right down to business. I don't think we'll have any fights in the two years we've been working together—while we've been working."

"When not working, well, that's different."

"The only thing," Landau mentioned, "is that Barbara gets up an hour earlier than I do to go to the studio, and that extra hour's sleep is precious—and she does make an awful lot of noise."

"That's because I'm incompetent at that hour and bump into things. I get to the studio at 6," Barbara explained.

But they agree that it's more natural to play husband and wife if you really are husband and wife.

"Very often you meet an actress for the first time and you shake hands with her, then you're supposed to go right into a scene which shows you quarreling on your fifth wedding anniversary," Landau said.

"Yes, it works better if you fight with somebody you know how to fight with," Barbara laughed.

When Barbara has a scene as a seductress with another man, Martin may leave the set if he isn't in the scene.

"Often it bothers the other performer, me being there," Landau elaborated. "It doesn't bother me, because I know Barbara and we know work is work. After all, we met acting..."

"We met watching each other kissing other people while acting," Barbara recalled.

"And I said, 'Yes, gee, I like the way she does that, I think I'll try it!'" Landau said.

"So now we've been married 11 years. We were married twice," said Barbara. "We feel you should be married twice."

They were married at New York Municipal Bldg. on their only free day, and 10 days later they got married again in courtesy to their parents who hadn't been invited to the first ceremony.

"Almost everybody in Hollywood's been married twice but we're the only ones who know how to be married twice to each other," said Barbara, a Chicago girl who got a B.A. from the University of Illinois.

"What do you fight about at home?"

"Oh, maybe because she starches my shirts."

"I don't starch your shirts. The laundry starches your shirts..."

"Well, you should tell the laundry..."

"How do you fight at home—quietly?"

"Loudly!"

THE WEEKEND WINDUP . . .

Dick Benjamin and newcomer Al MacGraw will get complete exposure in their film debut in "Goodbye, Columbus—they'll be nude . . . Robert Anderson won't show South African production of his B-way shows, "You Know I Can't Hear You When the Water's Running" and "I Never Sang for My Father."

A Look at TV

Equal Time for Paulsen

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—

Usually when a presidential candidate makes a speech, excerpts from his remarks are sent to the press and to radio and television stations. But let's be fair to the country. It doesn't seem right to deny Pat Paulsen the same privilege. Let's be fair to this.

As you may have heard, Paulsen, the free-lance candidate for the presidency who also works for CBS-TV's "Smothers Brothers in Case He Smothers Brothers," was given an 88-cent-a-plate testimonial dinner in a Beverly Hills cafeteria during the weekend.

"Friends... freeloaders... scribbles... gossip-mongers... regular cafeteria patrons... CIA agents... my fellow Americans."

"SOME BY FAIR"

"As I look out over this large gathering, past the television lights and steam tables, I find that I know a great many of you, perhaps a little too many. Some of you I know personally, some by reputation and some by fear."

"We might be honored tonight by the presence of Richard Nixon. I want to congratulate him for finally getting the endorsement of Mrs. Eisenhower. It was a well-thought-out, carefully considered endorsement... which Mrs. Nixon first requested eight years ago..."

"President Johnson indicated at first that he would be here. Apparently he is not exactly being flooded with invitations these days... not the kind he wants to accept, anyway. But we got a wire earlier today saying he would have to cancel out in order to attend another gathering: 'President Johnson sends regrets but unable to attend Washington due to emergency meeting of 'Friend of Hubert Humphrey'."

"So the President is lending

10 Die in Cleveland Sniper Outbreak

CLEVELAND (AP) — Snipers shooting from rooftops, windows and behind bushes — launched a reign of terror at dusk yesterday that left 10 persons dead in a predominantly Negro neighborhood on Cleveland's East Side.

Four of those killed were white, three of them policemen. Police said two of the victims were Negro snipers.

At least 18 others were hurt, two critically, in the three-hour gun battle with police that shattered the calm of a hot summer night. Scattered arson and looting followed the shooting.

Twenty-four persons were arrested, 17 on looting charges.

SCATTERED GUNSHOTS

It ended, except for scattered gunshots, just before a heavy thunderstorm about midnight cooled off the steaming streets and dampened some blazes started by firebombs.

National Guardsmen and police, armed with rifles, patrolled the area today.

The shooting began, witnesses said, when two Negro snipers "carrying rifles and . . . sacks of ammunition," ran out of an alley, crouched behind bushes and shot three white policemen, the first victims.

Later two snipers were killed. Bayonets, shotgun shells, gas masks and first aid kits were found on the bodies.

Waves of police, some using Brink's armored trucks, turned the neighborhood into an armed camp.

Tear gas and smoke bombs burst on the sidewalks and against buildings. Officers and some residents became ill from the fumes.

The shooting scene, on Lakeview Road near East 125th Street, is about a mile from the Hough area where four Negroes were killed in rioting and looting just two years ago on five other hot July nights.

When the gunfire erupted, police radio calls came thick and fast and had a tone of desperation.

'PRETTY BAD'

"Things are pretty bad down here," said one. "We're pinned down. The wounded men are lying in the street. We can't get to them. Get some armored cars."

Gov. James A. Rhodes, alerted at the National Governors Conference in Cincinnati, promptly mobilized Ohio's 15,250 National Guardsmen.

The office of the adjutant general in Columbus immediately committed 4,000 men to Cleveland, the state's biggest city. Its population of more than 800,000 includes about 350,000 Negroes.

Mayor Carl B. Stokes, a Negro who took office last November, appealed to all citizens to "stay home and cooperate with the police."

SITUATION CONTROLLED

Stokes described the situation as "bad" but at dawn said it was "controlled."

The trouble started along Lakeview Avenue and spread to other nearby residential and business districts.

At least 18 persons were hurt. Eleven policemen were shot, two critically. Three others had minor injuries not caused by gunfire.

BATTLE PLAN

Witnesses said the snipers appeared to have an organized battle plan. Some used automatic carbines. On the body of one dead sniper was a bandolier of shotgun shells, a gas mask by his side.

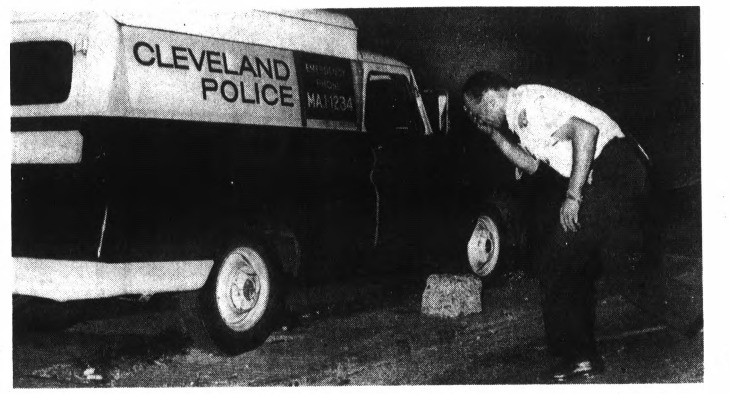

After some fires were started, snipers began shooting at firemen and police ordered the firefighters out of the area.

A supermarket burned down. An apartment house was heavily damaged by uncontrolled flames.

The outbreak last night launched a chain of violence that spread into nearby Negro areas.

NO MOB RIOTING

There was none of the mob rioting that exploded in the Hough area two years ago, but there was more gunfire, scattered looting of stores and some firebombing. A number of rooftop snipers were reported.

Official Tells Why Road Tax Needed

By ED BLUNDEN

Oakland County voters will be asked Aug. 6 to approve a 1-mill property tax boost to improve county roads.

"There just doesn't seem to be any other way," Frazer W. Staman, chairman of the county road commission, said in explaining the need for the levy.

Staman and the commission have been faced with increasing criticism in the last two years as the condition of county roads came nearer and nearer the crisis stage. Despite stopgap measures, ($500,000 on a short-term basis and $4 million on a 20-year bond) the situation is getting worse.

Staman explained that a lot of county roads were constructed in the 1920s under a statute that stimulated projects but placed a heavy burden on property owners along the rights-of-way. With the Depression of the 1930s, road construction fell off. Then there was World War II when men and materials were scarce.

In the postwar period the population boom brought thousands of new families and hundreds of new subdivisions but relatively little improvements in the road system.

Staman recalls that a $6-million bonding program in the early 1960s accomplished some badly needed work. But mostly it has been patchwork and crisis-type construction.

Won't Waver on War—Johnson

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — President Johnson has declared he will not waver from a Vietnam policy he called just and reasonable, despite "the pressures and strains that come normally in any political year."

The nation's governors who heard that pledge had no plans to attempt to match it with one of their own. The 60th National Governors Conference, held its final session today, and the agenda did not touch on Vietnam.

Johnson spent an hour last night at the conference.

Before a black-tie crowd of more than 2,000 persons at the governors' hall, Johnson declared:

'I KEPT THAT PROMISE'

Johnson said he had promised battlefield restraint in announcing he would not run again for the White House, and has kept that promise.

"We are willing to go as far as honor and safety permit us to go," he said. "But we are not going to impose a coalition government—or any kind of government—on the people of South Vietnam."

"Nor are we going to let the totalitarians impose a Communist government of their direction either," the President said. That drew one of only two rounds of applause which came during his address.

He said he and President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam agreed that a cease-fire, with effective controls and guarantees, could be part of a war settlement.

Johnson got a silver plaque from the governors, inscribed with words of "appreciation for his long and devoted public service" and his leadership in establishing ties between Washington and the states.

He urged the governors to work at the state level to deal with problems of jobs, slums, education, health and the like—saying that the federal government has in the past taken responsibility by default, because no one else would act.

In that context, he mentioned the problem of crime. "The federal government does not seek the responsibility of policing our streets—and I hope and pray it will never accept it," he said. "But if the American people look to Washington in a matter so clearly defined as this, it may betray a weakness in our partnership."

Johnson asked for the governors' help in getting congressional action on legislation to "protect our people from guns in criminal hands."

Rain to Continue, Sewer Project Says Weatherman Receives Boost

Today's rain is expected to continue throughout the night with a chance of thundershowers predicted for tomorrow and more showers on tap for Friday.

Little change in temperature is forecast with highs today in the mid-80s, dipping into the low 60s tonight.

Tomorrow will be partly sunny and mild.

Precipitation probabilities in per cent: today 70, tonight 40, tomorrow 30.

Low in downtown Pontiac prior to 8 a.m. was 68. By 12:30 p.m. the temperature was 77.

Train Hits Bus; 9 Migrants Die

NEWTONVILLE, N.J. (AP) — A two-car passenger train plowed into a farm labor bus Tuesday night, killing nine of the migrants and injuring 20 others in this Southern New Jersey community.

State police said the two self-propelled diesel cars of the Pennsylvania-Reading Seashore Lines, carrying some 100 passengers, tore the old school bus in two and threw the rear half 300 feet down the track. No one on the train was injured.

State police accounted for 35 bus passengers, but did not know exactly how many were aboard.

State police said the train was southbound from Philadelphia to Jersey shore points where it passed the crossing, which is marked with painted railroad warning signs but no lights.

State Trooper John Caruso said the bus driver, Love Clark, 33, of Wilmington, Del., had a Delaware driver's license which had expired in March 1968.

Four of the injured were reported in serious condition.

Romney Backed in House

LANSING (AP) — A 40-member bipartisan coalition upheld Gov. George Romney in the House yesterday, defeating an attempt to override his veto of a controversial bill giving emergency riot powers to local officials.

Backers of the bill, who claimed support from more than 50 cities and townships, mustered 60 votes to write it into law over Romney's objection.

The vote came on the anniversary of the start of Detroit's bloody 1967 racial rioting.

Returning after a month's recess for a two-day session, lawmakers also voted down a bill which would legalize court-ordered wiretapping by law enforcement officers.

A bill creating a state commission on agricultural law and changing the name of the State Conservation Department to the Department of Natural Resources on House approval and returned to the Senate.

Backers of the riot bill—which would authorize local officials such as city mayors to impose curfews and ban sales of liquor, gasoline, arms and ammunition—had asked city officials to urge their legislators to vote for the measure.

Seclusion Kept 6 Murders a Secret

GOOD HART (AP) — A love for the quiet, secluded life of the northern Lake Michigan shore was the reason a wealthy Detroit-area advertising agent chose to build his summer retreat there 12 years ago.

And it was why the bullet-riddled bodies of Richard C. Robison 42, and his wife and four children were not discovered for almost a month after the family had been slain.

The crime was discovered Monday after a neighbor complained of a strong odor coming from the six-room rustic cottage in a wooded, shore-line area near this tiny community consisting of a gas station and a post office in the same building.

State Police Crime Lab experts today sifted through what meager evidence was available in hopes of turning up clues in the slayings.

Autopsies were completed yesterday, an Emmet County sheriff's deputy said, but he added he had been instructed by county prosecutor Wayne Richard Smith to divulge no further information.

"We feel these murders were premeditated," Smith said earlier Tuesday in a joint statement with undersheriff Clifford Fosmire.

"More than one weapon of different caliber" was used in the slayings, Smith said. No weapons were found in the cabin, but different caliber shell casings were recovered, he added.

"It was mass murder," said Lt. Col. Melvin Kaufman, deputy director of the Michigan State Police.

VALUABLES UNTOUCHED

Smith said it appeared robbery could be ruled out as a motive in the crime, since a number of valuable objects, including cameras, were left untouched.

However, Smith said a billfold belonging to Robison contained no money.

There was no sign of a struggle in the cabin, Smith said, and all the furniture was upright.

Police said the body of Shirley Robison, 40, was found covered with a rug near the cabin fireplace. The body of Robison was found stacked with those of his daughter, Susan, 7, and one son. The other two sons' bodies apparently had been dragged into a bedroom in the six-room house lived in Lathrup Village.

The Robisons sons were Richard, 19, Gary, 16, and Randall, 12.

The Robisons lived at 18790 Delores in Lathrup Village, near Detroit, where Robison published Impressario, a magazine of the arts.

The Clinton-Oakland Sewer Interceptor Project received a boost from the federal government yesterday with the approval of a substantial increase in a grant of federal funds allocated for the project.

The Federal Water Pollution Control Administration of the Department of the Interior approved the $4.68-million increase that goes to the Oakland County Department of Public Works.

The grant which is allocated as a certain percentage of eligible project costs, was increased in the same proportion as the eligible cost increased, a fact determined when bids were received earlier this year.

Construction of the interceptor, which will connect Avon, Pontiac, Waterford, West Bloomfield and Independence townships, is to begin this year.

It is slated to empty sewage from the Clinton Valley area of the county into an interceptor being constructed by the Detroit Department of Water Supply which runs to Detroit for treatment.

The original grant for the $28.2-million project was $3.83 million. The majority of the project will be financed by the sale of bonds.

Pontiac Div. Sets 2nd July Record

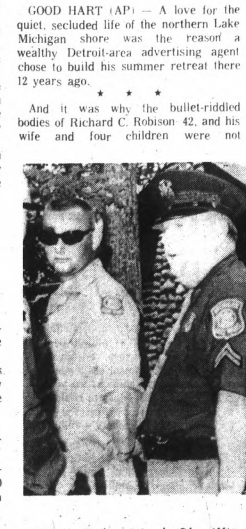

For the second time this month Pontiac Motor Division has reported all-time record sales.

Thomas L. King, general sales manager, said today that 25,879 new Pontiacs, Tempests and Firebirds were sold during the July 11-20 period.

This erases the old record set last year when 25,422 units were sold.

Blasts Rip Plant, Causing Gas Peril

SOUTH CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—A great gray cloud hung over this chemical-making center today as thousands cautiously returned to the homes they evacuated because of a deadly chlorine gas leak.

A series of small explosions yesterday, ripped through the big FMC plant, rupturing a tank filled with the chlorine gas and sending a cloud of gas fumes over a 12-block area in the city of 20,000.

Unofficial estimates of the number of evacuees ranged from 500 to 5,000.

Police sealed off the city from Charleston, the state capital across the Kanawha River. Residents sought higher ground to escape the fumes which produced smarting eyes, coughing and vomiting.

Dozens were treated at Thomas Memorial Hospital, with some requiring oxygen tents, but none was considered serious.

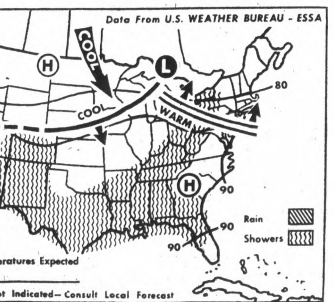

Fire swept through a complex of buildings at the chemical plant, located on U.S. 60, which cuts through the heart of the city that calls itself "the chemical center of the world."

Must Accept Role of S. Viet Rulers

Harriman Warns N. Viets

PARIS (AP)—Ambassador W. Averell Harriman bluntly told North Vietnamese negotiators today that to progress toward peace "you must be prepared to recognize the role of South Vietnam's government in working out a settlement of the Vietnam war."

Harriman's assertion in the 14th session of the Paris peace talks followed directly on President Johnson's Honolulu meeting with President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam at the end of last week. North Vietnam regularly denounces the Saigon government as an American "puppet."

Harriman told newsmen he had not seen definitive evidence that the lull in the war around Saigon, which began in mid-June, was finally coming to an end.

But he added: "What is disturbing is that the terrorist actions on theaters around Saigon have started again. People have been killed. I intend to call attention to that." The Vietcong bombed four theaters in Saigon and nearby towns Sunday, killing 12 Vietnamese and wounding 91.

TO PRESENT APPEAL

Going into the talks, Harriman said he would present to the North Vietnamese negotiators the appeal issued in Honolulu by President Johnson and President Nguyen Van Thieu "for a peaceful settlement and an end of the violence."

Harriman and his aides are also trying to find out whether North Vietnam is weakening its support for the National Liberation Front and offering Washington a new lure among its terms for a final political settlement in South Vietnam.

Harriman would like to know if a statement last week of Hanoi's requirements for a peace settlement was intended to introduce a new element into the slow-moving talks.

The statement from the North Vietnamese foreign ministry last week summarized Hanoi's four-point plan for ending the war, including first, withdrawal of all U.S. forces; second, neutralization of North and South Vietnam; and third the final decision on unification of the North and South to be made on the principle of "self-determination."

The third point was the one which received fresh treatment. It called for the right of self-determination for the people of South Vietnam in the settlement of their own affairs.

Hearing Aug. 5 on Raises in General Fund Budget

Revisions in the city's 1968 general fund budget — increasing revenue and expenditures by about $300,000 — will be aired at a public hearing Aug. 5. City commissioners last night received revisions from the administration. Edward R. Gallagher, director of finance, said he revisions, the second since original adoption, are necessary to bring the budget in line with actual fiscal experience.

He said it is now realized that income and property tax receipts will be higher than anticipated in March when the last revisions were made.

The city expects to receive $3,129,000 for collection of property taxes, up $132,000 from the amount anticipated.

Related Stories, Page A-9

anticipated in March, and $2,473,000 from the income tax, up $262,000 from the amount anticipated in March.

OTHER CHANGES

Other changes bring the net increase to $300,000. The income will be utilized for items which were cut from budget considerations in March including about $146,000 for office equipment, furniture and fixtures, special radio equipment, machinery and replacement to city cars.

Creation of a housing code enforcement division for the rest of the year will cost $27,800, increase in amounts needed more than was anticipated.

Other increases which will presumably be approved Aug. 5 are: cost of referendum election, $5,000; contribution to employees' retirement system, $22,000; new personnel, $53,404; vacation holiday pay allocation left out of the previous budget by mistake, $45,966.

Exam Focuses on Cash Deposit to Weighmaster

The owner of an excavating company testified yesterday that he had once given a $250 deposit for a special hauling permit to Tom Kennedy, former Oakland County weighmaster charged with embezzling.

Clinton B. Leonard, president of C. B. Leonard, Inc., 6695 Highland, Waterford Township, said the deposit was in lieu of a $5,000 bond he was to secure at a later date.

Leonard was the first witness to testify at the opening of Kennedy's preliminary examination before Waterford Township Justice of the Peace Kenneth H. Hempstead.

Kennedy is charged with three counts of embezzling funds totaling $1,250 from the Oakland County Road Commission.

INDIVIDUAL CASES

Assistant Prosecutor Michael Friedman attempted to consolidate the cases since some of the witnesses to testify are the same in each alleged offense. Hempstead, however, sustained the objection of Kennedy's attorney, James Lawson, ruling that each case will be heard individually to determine if a crime was committed.

Leonard said he had never paid Kennedy in the past for a special hauling permit, but he never questioned him about the deposit when Kennedy wrote on the permit that the money was returnable upon securing a cash bond.

Leonard said that he needed the special permit to use a portion of Middle Belt Road in May 1967. Restrictions on truck loads would have prevented him from operating if he hadn't received the permit.

The second witness, David Hasse, director of the Department of Permits and Special Uses for the Road Department, testified, however, that the department has no record of a receipt showing the $250 deposit.

HE HAD RESIGNED

Kennedy, 49, of 2808 Voorheis, Waterford Township, resigned last October, shortly after being confronted with reports about irregularities in his department. Kennedy has been weighmaster 15 years.

The hearing was adjourned after three hours. It will resume late next month.

Murder Victim Found in Area Detroit Woman

The decomposed body of a murder victim found in Farmington Township yesterday has been identified as that of a Detroit woman missing since July 10. Farmington Township police said the body of Mrs. Olivia Allen, 43, was discovered in a wooded area off 13 Mile Road east of Haggerty by a neighborhood resident about 10 a.m.

Officers said she had suffered a blow on the head.

Police said that a warrant naming an unidentified suspect has been issued by the Oakland County Prosecutor's office.

MOTHER OF SIX

Mrs. Allen, the mother of six children and a waitress at the Greyhound bus station in downtown Detroit, was reported missing July 10 when she failed to appear at work.

Her husband and son identified articles found with the body as belonging to the victim, police said.

Evidence found near the body has been sent to the Michigan State Police crime lab in East Lansing, according to investigators.

Police said they are awaiting the results of an autopsy performed yesterday at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital.

Gun Bill OK Predicted

WASHINGTON (AP)—A leading congressional supporter of gun control, legislation predicts the House will approve President Johnson's embattled proposal to restrict the sale of rifles, shotguns and ammunition.

The prediction was made by Judiciary Chairman Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., after the House spent seven hours Tuesday wading through amendments to ready a measure for today's expected final vote.

Celler's opposite number in the Senate, Judiciary Chairman James O. Eastland, D-Miss., declared his opposition to a similar bill called up for simultaneous action in his committee.

GOP Plans Continue

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Preparations for the Republican National Convention were back on the track today after settlement of a dispute over operation of a new piece of television equipment.

The Columbia Broadcasting System television network announced Tuesday it had reached a temporary agreement with the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers. A CBS spokesman said workers would be back today to complete preparations for the Aug. 5 convention opening.

What the road commission has faced is a series of circumstances that also has affected many other governmental functions — rising costs of wages and materials and increased demands for services, but little increase in the scope of funding.

What the commission hopes to gain with the 1-mill levy are funds that will be directly applicable to road improvement projects.

3 Still Critical in Powder Blast

Three of five Pontiac-area persons who suffered burns in a gunpowder accident at a Civil War-style weapons demonstration Sunday remain in critical condition at the University of Michigan Burn Center in Ann Arbor.

Some 25 spectators were injured in the explosion of a keg of gunpowder at the National Cannon and Carbine Matches at Somerset Center in Hillsdale County.

Listed in critical condition are Gary Defendorf, 23, of 9418 Dixie Highway, Springfield Township; and James Broegman and Walter Simons, 37, both of Davisburg.

Reported improving and in fair condition is Carl Lapham, 25, of 8880 White Lake Rd., White Lake Township. Lapham's condition was listed previously as serious.

PATIENT IMPROVES

Jack Miles, 16, of 1811 Meadowridge, Commerce Township, is in good condition, according to hospital officials. Miles was listed previously in satisfactory condition.

State Police said Defendorf and Broegman had their clothing blown off by the force of the blast, which resulted when a piece of wadding from a Civil War mortar was caught in a breeze and blown 65 feet to the powder keg, igniting it.

Defendorf was burned over 80 per cent of his body, while Lapham and Simons were burned over 60 per cent of their bodies, according to police.

Birmingham Area Assessments Confirmed on Water Main

BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — The township board this week confirmed a special assessment roll for the construction of an eight-inch water main extension on four streets in the extreme northwest corner of the township.

Confirmation of the project, in the Ward Orchard Subdivision, came after a petition of local property owners in the affected district. More than 54 per cent of the residents of Wellington, Desaix, Maward and Atkinson were in favor of the special assessment that will be required to fund the project.

Township officials confirmed the project, at a cost of $28,420 to be assessed on a site basis.

A township official said that definite figures concerning the amount of assessments to each individual have not yet been determined.

SEWER HEARING

In other action the board held the first hearing for a sanitary sewer special assessment district for the Cranbrook Hills-Chelsea area.

The board passed a resolution setting a public hearing for 8:30 p.m. Sept. 9, at which final approval will be decided and public objections to the project will be heard.

The board also awarded two contracts to G. & H. Contractors of New Haven. The firm submitted a low bid of $18,487 for the Ward Orchard Subdivision sanitary sewer project.

G & H also was chosen to receive a contract for a relief drain project for the Edison-Desaix area. Its low bid was $14,172.

63 MEMBERS

The group, called itself the Committee for Better Trustees, was formed in 1964. Today it has 63 members.

"Our basic goal . . . is to elect trustees who are interested in and who will support, who will fight for and who will work objectively with the MSU administration," said Kenneth Thompson, a GOP Trustee.

The committee has endorsed a Bloomfield Township man, Richard D. Ernst of 4364 Orchard Hill, who announced his candidacy yesterday.

"As a Michigan State alumnus, I am convinced that the present makeup of the board must be changed for the good of the university," Ernst said.

A 1948 graduate of MSU, Ernst now serves as a member of the Executive Board of the MSU Alumni Association as well as a member of the Board of Directors of the Oakland County MSU Alumni Club.

Legal Probe Speedup Urged Romney Eyes Livingston Quiz

LANSING (P) — Gov. George Romney has asked Attorney General Frank Kelley to do his best to speed up completion of an investigation of the Livingston County courts and lawyers. Romney made his request after receiving a telegram from the industrial committee of the Livingston County Chamber of Commerce.

The chamber group complained that the state bar, the attorney general's office and other authorities have been conducting the probe for the past six months.

"It is public knowledge that there are some irregularities yet these authorities have not made any public statement of their findings," the telegram said.

"CANNOT WAIT"

The citizens of this county cannot wait for this information they must know before the Aug. 6 primary. Many of the candidates for public office are attorneys," the telegram continued.

"It is necessary the innocent attorneys be cleared that are the primary and the ones under investigation be publicly exposed. The voters cannot afford to make an uninformed choice of candidates which would only aggravate an already deplorable situation," the chamber group said.

The accusations involved alleged improper handling of estate settlements by lawyers and the courts and other legal improprieties.

Romney told Kelley it would be beneficial to the people of Livingston County if one or more of the investigations could be concluded before the Aug. 6 primary.

Romney said the state bar investigation must be conducted in confidence and that any report would be submitted to the state bar and eventually the State Supreme Court.

The governor said, however, by the attorney general covers "If the charges are not that anything Kelley could do to a limited area. It is being expounded, this should be clarified speed this investigation or a pedited, the aide said, but immediately," Sharpe said. "If separate one being conducted not be completed before the charges are true, disbarment proceedings and whatever beneficial."

Romney, meanwhile, asked Rep. Thomas Sharpe, R-other action is indicated should Kelley for a copy of his report. However, also wrote the governor begin immediately — so that as soon as the attorney urging him "to use all your in-attorneys who had no part in general's investigation is compliance to bring about a public the alleged irregularities can be reported within the next two week the public trust without suspicion on Aug. 6."

An aide said the investigation weeks.

Member Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce

News in Brief Yesterday From the State Capital

By The Associated Press
THE GOVERNOR
Romney today (Wednesday) asked Attorney General Frank Kelley to do his best to speed up completion of an investigation of the Livingston County courts and lawyers. Romney made his request after receiving a telegram from the industrial committee of the Livingston County Chamber of Commerce.

THE ATTORNEY GENERAL
Romney told Kelley it would be beneficial to the people of Livingston County if one or more of the investigations could be concluded before the Aug. 6 primary.

THE SENATE
Romney said the state bar investigation must be conducted in confidence and that any report would be submitted to the state bar and eventually the State Supreme Court.

THE HOUSE
Romney said the state bar investigation must be conducted in confidence and that any report would be submitted to the state bar and eventually the State Supreme Court.

Service for Mrs. Owen G. Wright, 62, of 18 Dakota will be 1 p.m. Friday at Donelson-Johns Funeral Home with burial in White Chapel Memorial Cemetery, Troy.

Mrs. Wright, formerly a teacher at Wisner School, died today. She was a member of All Saints Episcopal Church, Pontiac Education Association, Teachers' Exchange Club and Alpha Delta Kappa.

Surviving are her husband, two daughters, Mrs. William Morris of Pontiac and Mrs. Richard Abraham of Adrian; and seven grandchildren.

Three Injured in Car Collision

Three persons were hospitalized—one in serious condition—as the result of a traffic accident yesterday on US 10 in Springfield Township.

Reported in serious condition in Pontiac General Hospital is Martin L. Vedrody, 17, of Grand Blanc, whose car collided with an auto driven by Albert L. Pierre of Detroit about 8 p.m. according to Oakland County sheriff's deputies.

George Kovacs, 16, of Flint, a passenger with Vedrody, is reported in fair condition and Vickie Jackola, 19, of Detroit, Calif.; three sons, Ernest W. of Venice, Fla., Russel J. of Orlando, Fla. and Otto L. of Waterford Township; and one brother.

Deputies said Pierre was driving north when Vedrody's oncoming vehicle apparently spun out of control into his lane.

Safecrackers Take $300 From Firm

Safecrackers stole $300 from a Pontiac firm in a break-in reported yesterday to city police.

Investigators said the burglars broke into Pontiac Glass Co., 35 W. Lawrence, through a side window, then moved the safe from one office to another before forcing it open.

Identification officers were called to check the scene for fingerprints, police said.

ORCHARD LAKE—Service for Mrs. Gladys L. Davis, 76, of 3518 Erie will be 11 a.m. Friday at Donelson-Johns Funeral Home with burial at White Chapel Cemetery, Troy.

OAKLAND TOWNSHIP—Service for Mrs. Edward Jewell, 86, of 1450 Hill Top will be 2 p.m. Friday at the Pixley Memorial Church with burial at East Lawn Cemetery, Lake Orion.

Mrs. Jewell, a member of the Gleaners Society, died yesterday.

Surviving are a son, Lloyd L. Bankenburg of Lake Orion; a daughter, Mrs. Genevieve Soule of Lake Orion; a sister, Mrs. Cord Bruder of Lake Orion; three grandchildren, and seven great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Clarence Stuart

ORION TOWNSHIP—Service for Mrs. Clarence (Clara D.) Stuart, 65, of 571 Joslyn will be 3:30 p.m. Friday at the Donelson-Johns Funeral Home with burial at Oak Hill Cemetery.

Mrs. Stuart died yesterday. Surviving are four sons, Gilbert C. of Waterford, Gerald W. of Pontiac, Gordon L. of Woodland Hills, Calif., and Gene R. of Highland; one brother; and 13 grandchildren.

Mrs. Mabel Upleger

IMLAY CITY—Service for Mrs. Mabel Upleger, 69, of 7661 Crowe will be 1 p.m. Friday at St. Paul's Lutheran Church with burial in Imlay Township Cemetery.

Mrs. Upleger died yesterday. Her body is at Muir Brothers Funeral Home, Imlay City. She was a member of St. Paul's Lutheran Church.

Surviving are her husband, John; three daughters, Mrs. Gladys Ostrom of Mount Clemens, Mrs. Betty La Bair, of Wisconsin and Mrs. Lois Jordan of Kentucky; one son, Roland of Imlay City and ten grandchildren.

The growth from a single, standup, hook-type phone to a 10-office business, is being celebrated this month by the Telephone Answering Service Inc., which has local offices at 12 S. Mill.

The 40-year-old company was organized after originator John F. Engerson was unable to reach a plumber to fix a broken water pipe.

The plumber was one of the schoolteacher-estate man's first customers, at the 24-hour commercial answering service he opened in a small office on Michigan in Detroit.

Today the service still bases itself on personal, courteous and prompt telephone coverage of clients, according to Engerson of 1734 Kirkshire, Bloomfield Hills.

STANDS TSST

TAS has survived paralyzing snowstorms, bank closings and a depression.

Engerson initiated a wake-up service during World War II because alarm clocks were scarce. He also offers "vacation answering," an idea formulated one summer when a burglar WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has approved an additional $153 million for the Federal Aviation Administration in a move to relieve the congestion that has disrupted air traffic at some of the nation's busiest airports.

"This is not a matter of air safety, it's a matter of air survival," Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., said before the Senate approved appropriations of $85.4 million for the FAA.

The action came while reports of delays in takeoffs and landings at major airports throughout the country continued to come in.

NEW YORK (AP) — Some minor changes in flight schedules have been announced by Pan American World Airways and Mohawk Airlines as a result of increasing congestion at airports here and elsewhere.

A spokesman for Mohawk said Tuesday the airline had canceled its two nightly freighter flights between Boston and Detroit for the rest of July. The two flights carried passengers as well as mail freight and express.

The controllers maintain that they are overworked, short-staffed and underpaid to handle the increasing air traffic.

The bill was $153 million high—some $15 million more than what the House and its sponsors said the extra money would provide for the hiring of

The Senate approved the additional money, part of an overall $1.78 billion appropriations bill for the Transportation Department, 82 to 2. Only Sen. John J. Pickens.

F. Lee Bailey, executive director of the union, said after the session his organization would seek meetings with industry and other interested parties to work out the problem.

Also, FAA administrator William F. McKee said a three-day, Congress takes a break for meeting, starting today, would ment to 1966 levels.

In a related development, FAA officials met Tuesday with leaders of the Professional Air Traffic Controllers Organization, a new union, to discuss the air ties involved over the causes for the recent jumps in air flights, while there has been general agreement that a shortage of controllers is one factor.

Williams tried unsuccessfully to block a provision exempting the new FAA jobs from a new law to roll back federal employment, which would ment to 1966 levels.
