

Harriman Hopeful About Laos After Talking With Nik

MOSCOW (AP) — U.S. Undersecretary of State W. Averell Harriman expressed hope today that his talks with Premier Khrushchev "will lead to an improvement in the situation in Laos."

Harriman spoke at a news conference in the U.S. Embassy with correspondents from both sides of the Iron Curtain.

He denied emphatically, and branded as false, statements in the Soviet press that Americans were instigating the trouble in Laos and that American officers were leading some of the Laotian troops in the attack.

These charges were repeated as Harriman met Friday with Khrushchev, who reiterated support for a neutral Laos.

Harriman said neither Khrushchev nor Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko questioned his assertion that it was the pro-Communist Pathet Lao forces that started the fighting.

He said he was pleased with the results of the mission to which he was assigned by President Kennedy.

"Premier Khrushchev reaffirmed unequivocally his position of two years ago and a year ago," Harriman said.

The Geneva agreement was drawn up a year ago to end the fighting and to provide for the neutrality of Laos. The other reference was to a meeting between Kennedy and Khrushchev in Vienna in 1961 at which both pledged support for a neutral Laos.

Harriman said he did not feel it was proper for him to discuss reports that Khrushchev might step down from his job as chief of state or of the party.

K. VIGOROUS, STRONG
"He impressed me," Harriman said, "as being vigorous and strong as captain of the ship of state."

Harriman met with Khrushchev for 3½ hours yesterday. He held another meeting this morning with Gromyko.

Harriman handed Khrushchev a personal message from Kennedy. But there was no indication that Khrushchev agreed with Kennedy on concrete steps to halt the fighting in Laos.

Nikita Phones Greeting

Russ Give Castro Roaring Hello

MOSCOW (AP) — Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro flew into the arctic city of Murmansk today to a roaring welcome and got a prompt greeting by long distance from Premier Khrushchev.

On this first visit to the Soviet Union, Castro will get star billing May Day in the traditional parade in Red Square.

"Moscow is waiting for you, comrade Fidel Castro," radio Moscow quoted Khrushchev as telling the Cuban leader by long-distance telephone.

"The whole Soviet people warmly greet you. We are waiting for you in Moscow."

OFFERS THANKS

Castro thanked Khrushchev for inviting him to the Soviet Union.

"In a speech to the people of Murmansk, Castro declared the visit was "the most exciting moment of our life."

He was bundled up against the cold after a flight from balmy Havana, a flight kept secret by a complete cutoff of communications from Cuba until he had landed at Murmansk.

The Soviet news agency Tass said thousands had greeted the bearded Cuban on his hush-hush midnight arrival.

Castro put it higher and said he would guess all 200,000 of the city's population had turned out to meet him.

Leading them was First Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan who went to Havana last autumn to smooth things over after Soviet Premier Khrushchev had said he would withdraw Soviet rockets.

NO MENTION

Neither Castro nor Mikoyan made any mention Saturday of those events in their speeches, which were broadcast by Moscow Radio.

Castro began calmly and slowly, but was soon outshouting his Soviet translator, who had begun shouting at the very beginning.

The fact that Castro was arriving in the Soviet Union was a closely guarded secret, both here and in Cuba, although it had been announced 11 days ago that the Cuban would make a visit to the Soviet Union this year.

It will not be Castro's first meeting with Khrushchev. They met in New York at a United Nations session more than 2½ years ago.

Castro began his speech by praising the people of Murmansk for their "great sacrifices" during World War II, when the port was one of the main entry points for the vast quantities of supplies that came from the West.

"Speaking honestly," Castro said, "I never supposed that it would be at this point on the globe that I would start my acquaintance with your great country."

The regular scheduled air route from Cuba to the Soviet Union runs from Havana to Murmansk. This is to avoid passing over the territory of any other country.

Cloud Convention Brews Wet Sunday

Tonight's gathering of clouds will likely get stormy tomorrow, and strike up showers and thundershowers in the area.

The mercury will dip to a low of 45 tonight, and climb to a high of 62 tomorrow, says the weatherman.

The weather picture for Monday is mostly cloudy. Slightly cooler temperatures are expected.

Southeasterly winds at 10 to 18 m.p.h. are blowing over the area today. The lowest mercury reading in downtown Pontiac prior to 8 a.m. was 43. At 2 p.m. the thermometer registered a pleasant 66.

Survivors Set Funeral Rites for Mine Dead

Officials Probe Cause of West Virginia Blast That Took 22 Lives

CLARKSBURG, W. Va. (AP) — Mourning survivors today planned funerals for 22 victims of a violent coal mine explosion in northern West Virginia, as mine officials tried to pinpoint the cause of the tragedy.

Rescue workers located the last of the bodies late last night and by midnight had brought all the victims to the surface at the Clinchfield Coal Co.'s Compass No. 2 mine at Dola, 12 miles northwest of Clarksburg.

The sheet-shrouded bodies were taken first to a company-owned building for identification, then to funeral homes in the area. There were no announced plans for mass funerals.

Authorities did not learn immediately what ignited the explosion 400 feet under the surface Thursday night, but the ingredients were believed to be methane gas and coal dust, two old and deadly enemies of the miner.

Death apparently came quickly and mercifully. Most of the men apparently were felled by shock waves from the explosion and died instantly. The bodies showed signs of concussion.

Flash burns marked the bodies, although there was no evidence of fire after the explosion. The miners apparently had no time to set up barriers.

Rescue workers found the first three bodies clumped in the main conveyor line.

Later yesterday, seven more bodies were found in a passage way where they had been operating a continuous mining machine.

FIDEL GREETED — Cuba's Prime Minister Fidel Castro is welcomed to the Soviet Union by Russian Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan, who led the official greeting for the Cuban leader in Murmansk at midnight. Castro said he would cherish forever the memory of the great reception he received.

Exec Earnings Told by Ford

DETROIT (AP) — Ford Motor Co.'s proxy statement indicated yesterday that Henry Ford II, the company's chairman and chief executive, was paid $50,000 last year in salary and bonuses.

John Dykstra, who retires as president May 1, received $315,000 and President-elect Arjay R. Miller received $417,917.

Each of the 10 top officers serving as directors received at least $215,000.

In its report last week, General Motors Corp. said Frederick C. Donner, GM chairman, had received a record $791,475 in salary and bonuses in 1962 and that seven other company officials had received more than $500,000.

Ford's record 1926 sales of press as usual when the panther nearly $8.1 billion boosted bonus was located. The classes were dismissed as police, firemen and members of the Franki Circus swarmed over the school grounds.

At the gates of the school yard, police held back a crowd of about 2,000, while circus animal trainers hastily set up cages and nets to trap the panther.

One small cage was set up just outside a three-foot square hole in the foundation through which the panther entered. This was reinforced by a large cage.

TEAR GAS FAILS

Firemen tried to flush the panther from under the school house by squirting in tear gas. This failed.

Firemen then tried to force it into the cage with water from a high pressure hose.

With sledge hammers, they knocked a hole in one end of the school's foundation to insert the nozzle. A large hole was also cut in the floor of the school and three animal trainers climbed down into the low, 2-foot high foundation area.

Prowling Panther Caught in France

PARIS (AP) — A snarling black panther, just a few days removed from a Borneo jungle, was tracked down and captured today underneath a girls' school in a Paris suburb.

The panther escaped Thursday from a circus and had terrorized the entire community of St. Denis on the outskirts of Paris.

A worker was bitten on the arm and shoulder yesterday when he stumbled on the big jungle cat in a darkened apartment house alley.

After an intense search by police carrying machine guns and by dogs, the panther was found this morning hiding beneath the one-story school.

Walter Hagen III. The boy, grandson of golfing great Walter Hagen, died last night in Pontiac General Hospital. He never regained consciousness after being accidentally shot by a friend Tuesday evening.

The shooting occurred in the Hagen home at 6353 North Shore Court, West Bloomfield Township, when Michael Hough, 14, of nearby 6847 Alden Drive, was handling a gun he thought was unloaded.

The Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the Bell Chapel of the William Hamilton Co., Birmingham. Funeral service will be at 11 a.m. Monday in St. Hugo of the Hills Catholic Church, with burial in Holy Sepulchre Cemetery.

Exam Asked on Charge of Murder Intent

Thomas G. Vermeulen, 28, of St. Clair Shores, today demanded examination on a charge of assault with intent to murder a Waterford Township man last night.

Vermeulen held James Robertson of 4630 Irwindale St. at gunpoint in a field next to Robertson's home for nearly a half-hour before township police persuaded him to hand them his shotgun, said detective Jack Hart.

Vermeulen appeared before Waterford Township Justice John McGrath this afternoon. The warrant was requested by Robert Temple, Oakland County senior assistant prosecutor.

Vermeulen of 2713 Broadway St. is scheduled to reappear before McGrath for examination on the charge at 9:30 a.m. May 7. His bond was set at $10,000.

Robertson told police that Vermeulen, an old friend, came to his home around 8:30 and a quarrel concerning Vermeulen's wife ensued.

Robertson told police Vermeulen had shot at him once but missed. He was treated at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital for a head wound he said he suffered when Vermeulen hit him with the gun.

No Accord Reached for Laos Peace

KHANG KHAY, Laos (AP)—Premier Prince Souvanna Phouma failed today in another attempt to reach agreement with the pro-Communist Pathet Lao to end a crisis threatening his neutral government.

Both sides decided, however, to meet again Tuesday in the Pathet Lao headquarters here, near the Plain des Jarres.

Souvanna met with his half-brother, Prince Souphanouvong, the Pathet Lao leader. The premier flew here from Vientiane, his capital.

"We've achieved no results," Souphanouvong told reporters after the meeting.

MAKES CHARGE

Then the Pathet Lao chief launched into a charge that about 500 right-wing troops were airlifted to the Plain des Jarres Friday. They said the planes apparently belonged to Air America, a private aid mission under charter to the U.S. aid mission in Laos.

The charge follows repeated Communist attempts to make it appear the Lao crisis was touched off by the United States to destroy Laos' neutrality.

Pathet Lao forces have driven neutralist troops of Gen. Kong Le virtually off the Plain.

Even Souvanna apparently expected to make little progress on his trip here.

Souvanna was accompanied on his flight by British Ambassador Donald Hoson and Soviet Embassy First Secretary Yuri Kuznetsov and the Indian and Canadian members of the three-nation truce commission. The Polish member of commission did not make the trip.

chev-Harriman meeting said merely: "The President and the chairman of the Council of Ministers reaffirmed that both governments fully support the general agreement on the Laotian question about which there was an exchange of views between them at Vienna (in 1961) and a mutual understanding reached."

Neither the communique nor U.S. Embassy officials indicated how the discussions had proceeded or whether any concrete action to stop the fighting in Laos was agreed upon.

The U.S. Embassy has exercised the tightest kind of secrecy since Harriman arrived Thursday night. Embassy officials refused even to mention the subject of Laos to reporters.

Harriman and U.S. Ambassador Foy D. Kohler went to see Khrushchev after talking for 2 1/2 hours with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko.

Beyond the terse communique, not a word of what was discussed came from embassy or Soviet sources.

However, repeated charges in the Soviet press that the United States touched off the fighting in Laos gave some indication of subjects covered in the Harriman meetings.

Legislature Delays Deadline to Clear Out Remaining Bills

Joint committees will recommend that contracts for construction of utilities at the Oakland County Service Center be awarded to low bidders when the County Board of Supervisors meets Tuesday in Pontiac.

The meeting will be held at 9:30 a.m. in the auditorium of the old county office building, 1 Lafayette St., pending completion of the new supervisors' auditorium at the center sometime in June.

Low bid of $394,500 to improve and extend water and steam heat lines for new buildings at the center was submitted by Eames & Brown, Pontiac plumbers.

George A. Odien of Bloomfield Township was low bidder at $68,443 to add sanitary sewers at the center.

Five bids for the water and steam lines construction were opened by the County Board of Auditors yesterday at a joint meeting of the supervisors' Ways and Means, Building and Grounds and Special Building committees.

Bidding was close. The second low bid was for $397,500, while the highest bid was for $448,000.

Exam Slated in Kidnaping

Oxford Police Case Listed Wednesday

The justice court examination of Frederick F. Hannah on charges of kidnaping and armed robbery of three Oxford Police personnel is scheduled Wednesday.

Hannah, 24, of 20 E. Burdick St., Oxford, surrendered to an FBI agent and a sheriff's department detective yesterday morning.

The ex-convict stood mute at his arraignment before Oxford Justice George Meads. Hannah was returned to the Oakland County Jail after failing to post $25,000 bond.

Hannah kidnaped patrolmen Richard Lamphier, 21, and Wendell Hill, 24, and radio operator Mrs. Leonore Westphal, 46, the morning of April 6.

The two officers had brought Hannah to the police station after stopping him for a traffic violation. Hannah pulled a gun on them while he was being searched.

He took the three to a Detroit motel and bound them. Mrs. Westphal was able to free herself and then the others a few minutes after Hannah left.

Hannah escaped with about $10 taken from the two officers. He also took their service revolvers which he pawned in Miami, Fla.

Police said Hannah returned Wednesday night to his grandmother's home in Oxford and stayed there until he called police.

FBI agent Palmer Wee and Detective Charles Whitlock took Hannah into custody.

Race Is Open for Posts on School Board

The lineup for the annual school election on June 10 is still wide open, but the race for two four-year terms on the school board is certain to include at least one incumbent.

Monroe M. Osmon, a downtown merchant and veteran of more than a dozen campaigns, will seek re-election. He is the only candidate to enter the race so far.

The Rev. J. Allen Parker, the other incumbent, said this week he has not decided whether he will seek a third term on the seven-member board.

Rev. Parker is minister of the Newman A.M.E. Church on Auburn Road.

Osmon, who was first elected to the board in 1946, seeks his sixth term. He is also a member of the Oakland County Board of Education.

The two incumbents topped a six-way race in 1959. Parker finished with 1,588 votes, while Osmon garnered 1,376.

Although no challengers have yet entered the school board contest, candidates have until May 11, to file nominating petitions.

House Adoption of Senate Amendments to the Bill, Clearing the Path of the Governor's Desk, Was Termed 'Splendid News' by Romney Himself

The court held that workers laid off as a result of strikes in other plants of their firms were eligible to draw state unemployment compensation benefits.

Former Gov. John Swainson, a Democrat, vetoed Ford - Canton bills twice since the 1959 court ruling.

Romney says he would have vetoed those, too, but there apparently is no doubt that he will sign the bill approved in the House yesterday on a 57-45 party-line vote.

State Senate OKs Appointment of 4

The State Senate yesterday unanimously confirmed the appointment of William B. Graben-dike, of Birmingham, and three other members of the State Board of Equalization.

Grabendike, former director of the Oakland County Equalization Department, was one of four appointed to the board Thursday by Governor George Romney. He lives at 1387 York-shire Road.

The other appointees are Mrs. Beulah Fuller of Ann Arbor, Otley Culler of Flint and Robert Tripp of Lapeer.

The Senate also confirmed Genevieve Blakeley of Detroit as a member of the Crippled Children's Commission.

A demand that the measure be vetoed when it comes to Romney's desk was made by United Auto Workers President Walter Reuther, who said the bill fails to carry out Romney's pledge to secure a bill providing "equity for employers and employees."

House adoption of Senate amendments to the bill, clearing the path of the governor's desk, was termed "splendid news" by Romney himself.

Release of Cubans Is 'Smelly' Justice

The release of three Cuban saboteurs and a convicted killer in New York has a distinct odor about it. They were freed "in the national interest" in a swap for 21 Americans held by NIKITA KHRUSHCHEV's flunky, frustrated baseball pitcher, FIDEL CASTRO.

How much trouble can Castro's boys cause in the U.S., as long as they hold American prisoners? What happens to our justice system when we trade off these scum to bail our people who missed the last boat or plane?

The danger signs in Cuba were flying for some time. Those Americans who stayed on knew what they were risking.

One of those freed was FRANCISCO MOLINA, a CASTRO supporter who killed a nine-year-old New York girl in a brawl with anti-CASTRO forces. He was sentenced to 20 years to life.

That sense stood until the Kennedy administration felt it was in the national interest to ship him home as another payoff. Even if three of the released Americans were Central Intelligence Agency men, as it is rumored, the deal still smells.

U.S. Should Minimize British-Shared Secrets

It's no secret that Britain has been having trouble with its secrets for the past several years. Another instance which indicates the low level of security there occurred recently.

"Ban the Bomb" marchers were armed with pamphlets which included some classified defense plans for use in the event of nuclear attack.

This was just another in a series of lapses in security which includes the sale of Navy secrets and the disappearance of personnel with classified material behind the Iron Curtain.

It almost would seem that the best way to get something publicized in England would be to stamp it "secret."

Just how much the cold war enemy has learned by the defections and goofs of bumbling Britons may never be known. But there is a further sobering note.

As an ally of the English, we must share a certain amount of our own defensive and offensive plans. How much of our classified information leaks out in another hole is found in their security setup?

As much as possible, it would be wise to restrict our exchange of confidences to a minimum, and only with top people.

Post Office Department Protests Cut in Budget

Right on schedule comes the annual hassle between the Post Office Department and Congress.

As usual, the budget for the Department has been cut some $92 million and the Department claims that unless the cut is restored our mail service will be curtailed.

If the past is any criterion, the odds favor the Post Office Department getting most of the cut back. However, if it doesn't, Postmaster General J. Edward Day has announced that postal research and service will be affected.

An idea that is not new but which seems to merit a try would be for Congress to employ a reputable outside industrial management firm to do a complete study on all postal operations.

Perhaps the modernized methods suggested would be an initial cure for our everlasting postal problems.

Reports indicate that only partial advances in technology have been made by the Department.

For a country as a whole, we lag far behind industry with our postal service. If it were not for the fine spirit and service of most of our postal workers, the service might be worse than it is.

The various services that have been eliminated, plus the relatively long time it takes in some instances for mail delivery, don't seem to add up when we consider that most mail charges have increased recently.

Record Set by the Kauls as Service With GM Calls

by HOWARD HELDENBRAND
Retirement came earlier in the month of Earl F. Kaul of 2275 Opdyke Road, after 41 years with GM's Fisher Body Division, the longest ever run up at the local plant.

On retirement day he was surprised by the appearance of two sons

Vernell and Joseph from other GM plants, the three representing 86 years of employment.

Our friend's service span goes back to the Beaudette Body Co., which was taken over in 1922 by Fisher Body as its Pontiac unit.

For the period 1942-43, he saw service at the Cleveland Fisher plant, where the B29 bomber was in wartime production.

The MAT's congratulations on this noteworthy record of employment, and all best wishes for many enjoyable and rewarding years of leisure.

Two extremes should interest contestants. The Number One choice, Kalle, whom an even 500 picked, is not even in the first 10 with his 313 ave. — while Causey, Kansas City, nominated by only two, is in first place with 400.

The month of May has been proclaimed Senior Adult Month by Gov. George Romney.

In the proclamation is this arresting quote: "Michigan with all her human, spiritual and material resources can become a superior state for senior adult living if we work together now and plan for the future."

This sounds pretty good to the MAT. For once, he's in on the ground floor — in this case, on two counts.

The POWER of FAITH

By WOODI ISHMAEL

High in the Swiss Alps there is a statue of St. Bernard de Menthon pointing the way to his Hospice. The inscription reads, "You who climb the Alps in safety under my guidance, continue with me to the House of Heaven."

St. Bernard was born in 923. While a student in Paris, he realized that God had called him for the priesthood. Not long after his ordination he became the Archdeacon of Aosta, Italy, at the foot of the great pass which would later bear his name.

There he saw the hazards that beset travelers through the pass; not only avalanches but robbers who preyed on them. With a little band of helpers he conquered the robbers, then built the Hospice as a life saving refuge for the travelers.

Today, monks of the St. Bernard Hospice continue to sustain the power of faith its founder had a thousand years ago.

Day of All Faiths:

Mohammedans Make Pilgrimage

BY DR. HOWARD W. HARPER

In the month of May the holy city of Mecca begins to swarm with pilgrims, arriving from all parts of the world. They come in obedience to the requirement that every Moslem make a pilgrimage once in his lifetime; they come to gain merit and acquire the title "Haji," which is a mark of distinction; and they come simply out of devotion.

Now in the days of air travel, the journey to the city of Mohammed's birth is much faster, easier, and cheaper than it was in former times. But it can still use a whole year's income for many a pilgrim. And for those who still choose to go by slower means, it can take months of their time.

For there are Moslems on every continent, 200 million of them, and for many the traveling hard. In earlier times the pilgrimage was so hazardous that a rule was soon established forbidding pregnant women and ailing mothers from attempting it.

A pilgrimage to Mecca is an excellent thing at any time, but it is best at this special time of year, which is the holiest of all seasons. It was about this time of year (June 8, 630, in the western calendar, but calculated differently in the Moslem calendar) that Mohammed the Prophet ascended to heaven, from a rock in which his footprints are still clearly to be seen. (No idea of resurrection is involved in the Prophet's ascension.)

This was the same rock on which Abraham almost sacrificed his son Isaac (Genesis, chapter 22), and the rock is in Jerusalem, at the site where Solomon's Temple once stood; but it is not to Jerusalem that this pilgrimage is headed.

THE PROCEDURE

The pilgrims arrive at a town called Jeddah, 43 miles from Mecca, and there they change from their usual clothes to a seamless white garment called an abrah. Wearing the abrah they proceed to Mecca, to the great mosque there, which is the heart of all Islam. And at the heart of the mosque is the Kaaba, the holiest of shrines. It is toward the Kaaba that the Moslem faces when, anywhere in the world, he says his prayers.

The Kaaba, for all its holiness, is not a greatly awesome thing to see. It is a small, cube-shaped building, draped in gold-embroidered black cloth—and that is all.

Built into a corner of the Kaaba is another stone, more sacred than the one at Jerusalem.

It was given to Abraham by the Archangel Gabriel. In the early morning hours the pilgrim touches the holy stone, walks around the Kaaba seven times and then goes out to spend the entire day, dawn to sunset, standing at prayer in the blazing sun.

Sometime during his visit to Mecca he keeps another long prayer vigil, but this one is easier for it is from sunset to dawn.

The pilgrim finishes with a sacrifice, a sheep or a goat, and turns back home. Now he is a Haji, entitled to the respect of every Moslem.

ISLAM-JUDAISM-CHRISTIANITY

The religion of the Mohammedan is called Islam, which means submission—that is, submission to the will of God.

The name of Abraham appears frequently in Islam lore. So do other names familiar to Christians and Jews. For the Prophet accepted much from Judaism and even a little from Christianity. Adam, Noah, Abraham, and Moses are all recognized as prophets of the one true God, and Jesus is ranked next to Mohammed himself.

If the pilgrim should die on his way home from Mecca, he has no worries. In fact, salvation is assured to anyone who dies at any stage of a pilgrimage—in Mecca, or on the journey to or from Mecca.

Rumors Fly as News Mill Grinds

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Presidential press secretary Pierre Salinger really stirred newsmen's curiosity when he announced one morning that he would have a statement of major importance at 5:30 p.m. that day.

In both Washington and Palm Beach, President Kennedy was vacationing at the time, the rumors flew.

Then, at the Florida end, a veteran correspondent sidled up to a group of buzzing reporters and, with a solemn, all-knowing air, said flatly:

"He's meeting Khrushchev." That seemed to be that—until 5:30 p.m., when Salinger announced at the White House that Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy was expecting another baby.

A Washington girl reporter impersonating Caroline Kennedy at the Women's Press Club annual stunt night declared that her daddy should have been a plumber. The punch line was:

"Then he'd know what to do about all those leaks that bother him so much."

At the same function, where their bosses and other members of the American Society of Newspaper Editors were guests of honor, two newspaper girls were costumed in men's clothes to represent Secretary of State Dean Rusk and U.N. Ambassador Adlai Stevenson. They sang a parody on "Bill Bailey Won't You Please Come Home?" casting presidential assistant McGeorge Bundy in the title role.

Won't you go home McBundy, Won't you go home? We've tried the whole year long—Keeping Macmillan happy, Soothing De Gaulle, But somehow things went wrong. Should you go back to Harvard And leave us here, To meet these crises on our own, There'd be a lot less talk, There'd be a lot less squawk,

Resident Says 'No Excuse' for City Not Being Clean

With all the services the City of Pontiac renders to us to keep this city neat and clean there is no excuse for a trashy looking place. Why can't everyone keep the city beautiful with regular clean-ups, some nice grass and flowers?

I even hope we can control the pigeons which are a dirty nuisance all around the city.

Let's Keep It Clean

'Test-Ban Talks Serious Matter'

I was disturbed by both the position and the content of the article "American, British Envoys Hope to Revive Test Talks" in the April 23 edition of The Press.

The assured continuation of all forms of life on this planet for any length of time, in the long run, depends upon the success of disarmament negotiations.

With a test-ban agreement of such vital importance, it is disheartening to hear President Kennedy say the time is not ripe for negotiations.

It soon becomes evident that the specific proposals are not the real obstacle, but rather the political, economic and social consequences which both power blocs that would necessarily follow an agreement.

In order to make people aware, do not reserve the back pages for items as important as man's existence.

Puts Price on Lobbying

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. J. William Fulbright said yesterday that a lobbyist and his associates got more than $1 million for working for the same Philippine interests whose claims the lobbyist had passed on when he was a government official.

The Arkansas Democrat, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, made the statement in a Senate speech.

He referred to the activities of John A. O'Donnell, longtime member of the now-defunct Philippine War Damage Commission.

Fulbright charged that O'Donnell, who represented various Philippine interests, violated the Foreign Agents Registration Law by failing to disclose the source of funds he contributed to more than 20 members of Congress in 1960.

Fulbright said he will seek to outlaw such campaign contributions originating from foreign sources.

Fulbright was supporting an amendment to a pending appropriations bill which would overhaul the Philippine War Claims Act passed last year.

He said, however, that O'Donnell "did not so much influence Congress as he deceived it."

No payments have been made to individual claimants under that law. The revision would channel the $73 million directly to the Philippine government for use as it chooses.

McBundy, won't you please go home!

In philosophizing on his job, Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara told the American Society of Newspaper Editors meeting in Washington: "You can't even be sure of yourself, much less prove to others, that your decision was precisely right to the last dollar—even to the last one billion dollars."

The Peace Corps recruits Americans and sends them to live among the underdeveloped people. The National Service Corps will recruit Americans and send them to live among the underdeveloped people in America.

The Grand Duchess will land at Philadelphia International airport and her son will land at New York half an hour later.

Then they'll come to Washington together for a long delayed official visit of state at the invitation of President Kennedy. The hereditary Grand Duchess' consort Prince Felix was invited too, but can't come because of illness.

Zuckert sent his reply directly back to Navy Secretary Fred Korth, listing his present job as Secretary of the Air Force and his previous experience on the Atomic Energy Commission. In a special note he politely asked Korth if the Navy was so short of men that they needed him.

Plan Traffic Court for Chicago Teens

CHICAGO (AP) — The city of Chicago, where traffic deaths have jumped 60 per cent this year, will start a special traffic court for teen-agers.

Judge Casimir Swiklinski of Traffic Court said beginning next month no teen-ager will be permitted to pay a fine for a violation without appearing before a city judge or referee.

Drivers under 20 make up fewer than 8 per cent of all motorists and are involved in 11 per cent of the nation's fatal auto accidents, he said, and two of five teen-agers are at one time or another involved in traffic accidents.

Yemen President Forms Council in U.A.R. Style

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — Yemen's President Abdullah Salal formed a 14-man Executive Council Friday to replace his Cabinet and to conform to the pattern of the United Arab Republic.

San'a Radio said Salal had named Col. Abdel Latif Dufallah as chairman of the Executive Council equivalent to premier. Before this decree Salal had served as premier as well as president.

Mustafa Yacomb was named foreign minister. There were no ministers for "Yemen's occupied south," a job Salal created a few months ago in retaliation for Britain's abstention from recognizing his regime.

Yemen claims sovereignty over British-protected Aden. Dropping this portfolio seems a bid by Salal for reconciliation with Britain.

School Millage Fight Begins in Waterford

To Waterford Township School Supt. Don O. Tatroe, the millage fight has just begun and the battle lines are drawn on just how much the people will buy.

For Tatroe, the battle is just beginning. For board member Duane Lemaux, it is just ending.

The board of education voted at a special meeting this week to present the township electorate with one construction program and two millage proposals at the June 10 election, in addition to the election of two board of education members.

Approved were a $6.25-million school-building program which will cost an estimated one mill per year over the next 30 years; a 2½ mill levy to operate and maintain the buildings to be constructed; and additional millage for improving school staff salary schedules.

Tatroe estimated that it will take an additional 2½ mills to make the staff salary schedule competitive with comparable school districts.

The exact figure will be determined at a special board meeting at 4:30 p.m. Wednesday.

VOTER REJECTION

Slightly over a year ago township voter rejected a proposed five-fill increase by an overwhelming 5-1 margin.

Tatroe, who has been Waterford's superintendent for only five months, admits that the task ahead of proponents of the measure is a large one.

"We are going to require a tremendous sales campaign," he said.

However, he has already received board approval of a program designed to inform the public on the school construction bond issues. An appropriation of $1,109 to cover printing and mailing costs has been approved. The board is also contemplating.

Russ Reveal Increase in Red Nations' Trading

MOSCOW (UPI) — Russia yesterday announced a 14 per cent increase in trade among the eight members of the Communist Council for Mutual Economic Co-operation (COMECON).

The figure represented the 1962 increase over 1961. Tass, the Soviet news agency, said a gain is expected again this year. COMECON members are the Soviet Union, Bulgaria, Romania, East Germany, Hungary, Czechoslovakia, Poland and Outer Mongolia.

Status Seekers Buying Hardtops Disguised as Convertibles

By BEN PILEGAR
UPI Aviation Editor
AP Automotive Writer

DETROIT — Not too many years ago when television still was a high-priced novelty, some status seekers installed rooftop antennas long before they ever acquired a set.

In the automobile field the ultimate status to many is the convertible. So the trend is not only to the cars with the retractable tops, but to various ingenious methods of dressing up hardtop models to look like convertibles.

The simplest such device is to add the extra ridge, or dent, in a conventional metal hardtop at exactly the same place it would occur in the soft convertible top. This doesn't fool anyone, of course, but it adds enough distinction to send hardtops booming.

The next step is to add a vinyl covering to the metal roof. This makes a hardtop look considerably more like a soft top. Several of the companies go even further and add to the vinyl-covered metal roof the vinyl cord binding or welting which is an integral part of every convertible roof.

This creates such a realistic appearance that most observers are bound to be fooled and the less observant can even ride in such models without realizing the roof, in fact, does not retract.

Convertibles still are considerably short of the volume of station wagons, sedans or hardtops. But they have been moving up steadily and in the 1963 model year have shot ahead at a rapid pace. Last year 400,000 were built. This year's figure is certain to be half a million and might well be more since true convertible weather is just arriving in much of the country.

Figures compiled by Ward's Reports show only three per cent of the total auto production in the record year of 1955 was devoted to convertibles. This increased to 4.4 per cent in 1957 and to 4.8 per cent in 1961.

So far this year it is 6.4 per cent and much of the increase has come from the introduction, within the past two model years, of convertibles in every compact car line. Last to fall in step were Valiant and the Dodge Dart.

Pilots' Group Slams FAA, Urges Huge Cut in Budget

By ROBERT J. SERLING
UPI Aviation Editor
WASHINGTON — The nation's biggest organization of private pilots yesterday called the Federal Aviation Agency (FAA) a

"fat and sated agency" and urged a 36 per cent cut in its budget. The blast came from the 90,000-member Aircraft Owners and Pilots Association (AOPA) in a 27-page document filed with the Senate and House appropriations committees.

AOPA told Congress that FAA's $800-million budget request for fiscal 1964 could be cut by nearly $294 million without affecting air safety.

The document also sharply criticized the Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) for ignoring investigation of general aviation accidents. It said the CAB has turned this aspect of air safety over to the FAA, resulting in about 4,500 accidents a year not being investigated by an independent group.

AOPA said it has the "highest regard" for both FAA administrator Najeeb E. Halaby and CAB Chairman Alan S. Boyd.

It called Halaby "without doubt one of the best administrators" ever to head a major federal air agency. But the organization said Halaby has failed to prevent an explosive expansion of his agency that now employs one man for every two civil aircraft.

The document charged that FAA's expansion has diluted its nucleus of competent, trained personnel so much "that many key positions are staffed by persons deficient in technical knowledge and operational experience of the subjects they must administer."

AOPA said the FAA has spent millions without any significant improvement in air traffic control. It accused the agency of changing its safety regulations from a protective philosophy to one of coercion. It criticized FAA's medical research program as "totally unnecessary."

For the first 16 weeks of this year, the total number of pilot cases reported was less than half the number for the comparable period in 1962 and about a sixth of the median total over the past five years.

Deaths in the United States from influenza and pneumonia have returned to more normal levels, the disease center said.

Only the Rocky Mountain and Pacific Coast regions reported death increases reflecting a late seasonal rise.

Amid the conjecture was the fact that Rockefeller's calendar shows no official engagements from May 9 to May 31. The governor, who has been shuttling between state business and speaking engagements across the nation, seldom has such a lull.

EFFECT ON IMAGE

Press secretary Robert McManus said the governor might "take some time off."

What effect such a marriage would have on Rockefeller's presidential chances can only be guessed. There is no White House precedent with which to assess the situation.

Mrs. Murphy ducked out of sight when her divorce was announced.

In a copyright story, the New York Mirror reported today that she had been staying in the Park Avenue apartment of her cousin, Mrs. Peter Iselin.

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—An epidemic of Asian-type influenza continues to wane in the United States, and polio is at a record low level, the U.S. Communicable Disease Center reported Friday.

Fuel Promotes Rumors

Will Rocky, 'Happy' Wed?

NEW YORK (AP)—Public speculation about Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's possible marriage plans accelerated today, fueled by a little fact and a lot of conjecture.

The lady whom rumor links with the Republican governor, 54, newly divorced Margaretta (Happy) Filmer Murphy, 36, remained in seclusion.

Just as the governor has refused to comment on the divorce of 13 months ago, so has he refused to comment on the divorce four weeks ago of Mrs. Murphy, social register former member of his staff.

SMILE ON FACE

Her former husband, Dr. James S. Murphy, 41, works as a medical researcher for the Rockefeller Institute.

Although Rockefeller's press secretary painstakingly pointed out that the "no comment" should be taken to mean only that, the governor's refusal to quiet the rumors—and the smile on his face as he does so—inevitably prompted speculation.

And a rare three-week gap in Rockefeller's official schedule provided an anchor of fact for the gossip.

Rumors raced through political and social circles.

In Albany, sparked partly by cancellation of the governor's news conference Tuesday, the state capital buzzed this week with speculation that the marriage had occurred.

On Long Island, the gossip was that the marriage would take place there this weekend in the area of Southampton, where many in the Rockefeller financial circles make their home.

Amid the conjecture was the fact that Rockefeller's calendar shows no official engagements from May 9 to May 31. The governor, who has been shuttling between state business and speaking engagements across the nation, seldom has such a lull.

Africans Get TV if No Programs Shown on Screen

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP)—South Africans can look at television sets, but not if anything is on the screen.

That is the effect of a ruling given in Parliament by the minister of posts and telegraphs, Dr. Albert Hertzog.

Hertzog said exhibitors at the Johannesburg Trade and Industry Show who gave closed-circuit television demonstrations had been told to stop them. He added that there was no objection to the "mere exhibition of television sets as long as they were not in operation." Japan was one of the exhibitors.

Officials say they don't want television here until South Africa can provide all the program material for all races in both of official languages, English and Afrikaans. The real reason is more likely to be that the government does not want millions of non-whites to see how people in other countries live.

Seeds of Trouble Planted in Good Neighbor Policy

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: We recently announced that our daughter's wedding date is June 22. A neighbor called and asked me what time our wedding was scheduled for. I told her we had planned it for 11 a.m.

Then she told me HER daughter was getting married at 4 p.m. the same day, and would we let her use our flowers? I didn't know whether to say yes, no or what, so, like a fool, I said yes.

My husband told me I ought to have my head examined. Now he wants me to call her up and tell her if she wants to use our flowers she should pay half the florist bill. Would you?

SPOKE TOO SOON

DEAR SPOKE: The time to have suggested that your neighbor pay half the florist bill was when she asked to use your flowers. Having already said yes, it would be extremely awkward to add any ifs, ands or buts.

DEAR ABBY: We live in Hawaii. Last Christmas a friend from the mainland sent experiences, so they can better prepare current high school students for college life.

Sororities and fraternities recently added pledges and active members to their memberships. Cathy Steinbaugh of Owego Drive pledged Alpha Xi Delta sorority. Cathy is a freshman.

Bailey men's dormitory recently held its spring term party. Freshman Bruce Rogers helped plan the decorations and entertainment. Bruce lives on Linden Street.

Karen Bronoff of Pioneer Drive has entered Delta Gamma sorority. Karen is a freshman.

Freshman Donald Glowax of Third Street is a Sigma Nu pledge.

Beta Beta Beta has honored Ray Grundy by naming him an officer of the biological honorary. Ray is a senior. He lives on Airport Road.

Freshman Marilyn Jack of Marie Circle Drive is a new Alpha Phi Sorority active.

Gilchrist Hall has received a permit to begin construction of its water carnival float.

Junior Mary Aughenbaugh of Moss Street and freshman Lorraine Gorman of Chata Drive will participate in the project.

Water Carnival will be held May 17 and 18. Students' parents will be invited to attend. The weekend has been designated parents' weekend.

Thanks Due All Hosts for Visit

By The Emily Post Institute
Q: Recently my brother, who works in another state, became engaged. He and his fiancée planned to visit us for a week. It so happened that the only time they could come was the same time my parents had planned their vacation.

My brother and his fiancée did not want them to change their plans. My parents entertained them for two days before leaving on vacation. I took over the role of hostess after they had gone.

I prepared the meals for my brother and his fiancée and I also canceled several engagements of my own in order to be with them. When my brother's fiancée returned home, she sent my mother a broad-and-butter letter, and not one word to me.

I believe I should have received a note of thanks and am quite put out because I didn't. Am I wrong to expect this simple courtesy?

A: Her broad 'and - butter letter to your mother was correct and it was not necessary for her to have written a separate thank-you note to you. I do agree, however, that her omission of any thanks to you in her note was not very gracious.

Q: Would it be proper and in good taste to give a shower for a friend of mine who has been secretly married for six months and has just revealed the news?

A: It would neither be improper nor in bad taste to give a shower for your friend if you wish to do so.

The Emily Post Institute cannot answer personal mail, but all questions of general interest are answered in this column.

JAZZ IN WORSHIP SERVICE — Examining the score of "A Musical Offering to God" is (center) Thomas W. Vaughn, a former Pontiac resident and currently a student at Yale Divinity School. At left is Charley Smith, a drummer, and Rev. Randolph C. Smith, professor at Yale. The jazz musicale was presented at Yale last week with Mr. Vaughn creator of the program.

Thomas W. Vaughn Creates Service

Jazz Trio Joins Divinity Professor

A jazz trio joined a Yale divinity professor last week in conducting an unusual worship service, "A Musical Offering to God," at the Yale University Divinity School.

The service in which progressive jazz improvisations and the original liturgy played equal and independent roles was the creation of Thomas W. Vaughn, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Vaughn of 144 Dwight.

A graduate of Waterford Township High School, Vaughn, a 26-year-old Yale Divinity student, has some 10 year's experience as a professional jazz pianist. He is married and has a 19-month-old daughter, Sheila.

The service was held in Marquand Chapel immediately following the close of the Yale Divinity School Convocation as part of the Student Arts Festival.

His associates were the Rev. Randolph Miller, professor of Christian education at Yale, who was celebrant, and top professional musicians, Charley Smith, drummer, and Joseph Bianco, string bass player.

The jazz trio played alone and sometimes as background for the celebrant. Several portions of the service — the Assurance of Pardon, the Creed and the Oblation — were done without music.

The trio worked behind a screen to the rear of the altar so as not to distract the congregation.

"Our music is an expressive element of the service, a vehicle whereby the musicians and congregation might share in praising God," said Mr. Vaughn.

Five Lutheran Choirs to Offer Sacred Concert

Choirs of five Lutheran churches will join in presenting a program of sacred music at 4 p.m. in St. Trinity Lutheran Church tomorrow.

Among churches and pastors joining in the festival are Grace of Christ, Rev. Delayne H. Pauling; Grace, Rev. Richard C. Stuckmeyer; Holy Cross, Rev. Hubert May; St. Paul, Rev. Maurice G. Schakel; St. Stephen, Rev. Guy B. Smith; and St. Trinity, Rev. Ralph C. Claus.

Conducting will be choirmasters Joe Davis, Geraldine Parsons, Mrs. Arthur Grey, John Quilmeyer, Rev. Mr. Smith and P. H. Stohmann.

Following the Scripture reading and prayer by Pastor Claus the combined choirs will sing "Gloria" by Mozart.

The six choirs will also present "Jesus, Joy of Man's Desiring" by Bach, "Now Thank We All Our God" by Bach, Handel's "Hallelujah Chorus" and "The Lord Bless You and Keep You" by Lutkin.

"Go to Dark Gethsemane" will be presented by the host choir and Grace Lutheran choir will offer "God So Loved the World."

"Beautiful Saviour" will be the Holy Cross number and St. Paul's Choir will give "Gloria." "Praise We Sing to Thee" will be the anthem by St. Stephen's. The offering will be used for choir music materials.

For years Mrs. Rowland was in close personal contact with Charles and Myrtle Fillmore, the founders of the Unity Movement. Her writings on the subject are familiar to readers of Unity literature throughout this country as well as in Canada and England.

The Silent Unity department, which Mrs. Rowland heads, has maintained a constant 24-hour prayer vigil by workers for many years, as persons in trouble write, wire, or telephone this group for prayers at all hours of the day or night.

Unity School of Christianity is a non-sectarian religious organization. It disseminates its teachings by means of the books, magazines and other literature it publishes, and also through Unity Centers such as the Unity Center in Pontiac.

Pontiac Unity Center wishes to extend to the general public a warm invitation to attend the lecture.

background for LIVING

LIVING CHARM — The colors in this room reflect the vivid personality of the owners, the Robert Van Horns of 1241 E. Silverbell Road. The soft glow from the tailored yellow cafe curtains blends with the burnt orange chair, gold car-

eled in cherry wood and extends into the dining area. It's hard to tell the difference between real antiques and the Van Horns' reproductions. They're new, yet look like they have been handed down for generations. Draperies in the living room match the sliding-window wall draperies in the adjoining dining area. All have a neat, uncluttered, precise look — something unique in Early American decor.

UNCLUTTERED DINING — The pale yellow draperies and walls are an ideal background for the shiny cherry furniture in this dining area. The captain's chairs are comfortably upholstered in a tangerine color, and the pegged floors add to the simplicity of this decor. The outstanding pull-down lamp is an old wheel, with four little black shaded lamps on top.

Young Couple Planned Home

By REBA HEINTZELMAN
Pontiac Press Home Editor

How many newly married couples can walk into a brand new house, completely furnished for immediate living?

The Robert Van Horns, of 1241 E. Silverbell Road did. Most young couples go through the various stages of living in a furnished apartment, then to an unfurnished flat or house, and eventually build their own home.

Even then, few can afford to buy new furnishings to fit the house.

However, Robert and Ann Van Horn planned a long time to have their dream house ready for occupancy right after the wedding—just nine weeks ago—and now they are enjoying that dream.

With the help of an interior decorator, Mrs. Van Horn has projected her vivacious personality into each of the five rooms in the $19,000 house through the use of dramatic color and accessories.

So far, there are only two bedrooms, but there is plenty of room on the three-acre site for future additions.

A huge beam, salvaged from one of the urban renewal homes, was worked to give an antique hand-hewn effect. This beam, installed in old brick over the floor-to-ceiling fireplace, is supported by four additional beams.

Black slate covers the raised hearth of the low-beamed ceiling in the living room.

This room seems to be alive with color. Soft, yellow cafe draperies dramatize the sunshine that flows through the windows onto the gold carpeting and pale yellow walls.

One chair is burnt orange, and across the room, a patchwork covered chair can be swiveled around in all directions.

It's almost startling the way yellows and oranges blend in around the dining area.

The large captain's chairs are upholstered in tangerine linen, and there's no doubt of the dramatic effect of that vivid orange color.

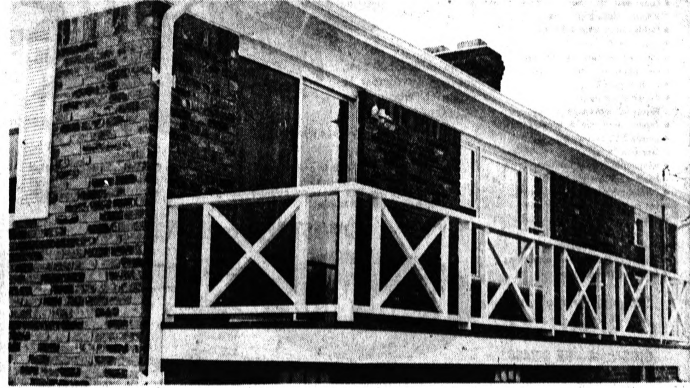

BASEMENT ENTRANCE — The Van Horns decided they didn't need a recreation room, as their spacious upstairs provided adequate entertaining space. However, they wanted an attractive exit to their lower-level two-car garage and achieved this from the main entrance hall. Mrs. Van Horn also has her utilities downstairs.

SMALL, BUT DELIGHTFUL — This brand new home that cost the Van Horns' about $19,000 only has two bedrooms, but there is plenty of room for later expansion. It is situated in a hill on a three-acre plot, and although the area looks rough now, by the end of summer it will look like the little house has been there for years.

REAR BALCONY — Even though the Van Horns have not completed their yard work, they have a lovely view through the sliding-glass doors of the dining area. Where their property ends, there is a thick woods to watch in seasonal change. The "strictly private" porch will be one of the most favorite spots this summer, according to the energetic owners.

Finish Attic, Add to Space

Extra living space can be yours if your home has an attic that can be finished. This can be an economical way to expand living space, because no new basic construction is required.

Unless the attic is immense, however, make one room and a bath instead of several smaller ones.

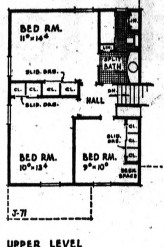

Surface the bathroom floor and walls with waterproof ceramic tile to prevent moisture damage to ceilings underneath. You can use low spaces in the attic for cabinets and shelves.

Living in Split Levels Is Suburban Shibboleth

By JULES LOH

Split-level living has become a shibboleth of the affluent suburban society. Actually the symbolism is way off base.

The fact is split-level construction basically is an economy measure.

Its dramatic departure from tired architectural tradition has an esthetic appeal which surely has influenced its popularity, but the main reason for the staggered design is to give the owner more house for the money.

This is how it works:

Take a one-story house with a basement; saw it in half as you would a stick of cord wood; raise one of the halves so that what used to be the basement becomes above-ground living area.

Result: added living space at low additional cost because the over-all perimeter, the roof area, remains substantially the same.

In today's House of the Week this bonus area contains the main entrance foyer, a large recreation room, lavatory and garage.

An interior garage such as this is an added economy—not only is it under the main roof, but it allows the house to be built on a smaller lot than would be possible with an attached garage.

The designer of this house, incidentally, is the man credited with designing the first split-level tract homes back in 1948, architect Herman H. York.

And this three-bedroom model clearly shows the result of 15 years of refining the split-level technique.

The first and second levels contain 913 square feet of living area; the bedroom level has 618 square feet for a total of 1,531.

The garage and storage space add another 245 square feet. Over-all dimensions are a modest 42 feet wide by 34 feet nine inches deep. That means this house could have more than 15 feet clearance on each side and still fit on a 75 foot lot.

ADDITIONAL DETAILS

A covered entry is an important asset to any home and this house has a particularly spacious one.

The overhanging roof is supported by crisp wrought iron panels making a nice setting for the double-door entry.

This is the focal point of the entire exterior and if any accent color is used architect York suggests you use it on the doors—but definitely not the garage doors.

The flagstone of the porch extends into the foyer, a practical as well as a handsome measure. There's a generous coat closet in the foyer, out of the way of the swing of the front door.

The living room is particularly glamorous, with a wrought iron balcony rail at the four-step stairs, a 26-pane bow window in front and a fireplace on the long wall which sweeps into the dining room ell.

The informal area is particularly well laid out. From the kitchen sink there is excellent observation of both outdoor and indoor family recreation areas.

The kitchen is plenty large, 10 feet by 13 feet 4 inches, so there's enough room for a breakfast table which doesn't encroach on the work or traffic areas.

Also, there is an abundance of counter space.

RECREATION ROOM

Down four steps and on the same level as the foyer is the spacious recreation room; and well placed for both living room and kitchen use is the lavatory.

A fireplace on the far wall of the recreation room, visible from the kitchen, would be a nice addition and is included as an optional feature. Sliding glass doors lead to the rear terrace.

From the garage it's possible to go either to the living room, or straight back to the kitchen without passing through the formal area.

The single car garage has plenty of extra space for bicycles and storage.

Upstairs, there is a minimum of hall space and all three bedrooms are well proportioned.

The main bathroom is divided with an interior door, and an extra door leads from the front portion to the master bedroom.

Architect York suggests carpeting the front section of the bath—an impressive touch.

ELEGANT NEW MODEL—This new Town and Country House is one of three completely furnished models open to the public in a development known as Knollwood Heights-Fairways on 15-Mile Road between Middle Belt and Inkster roads. The new community will feature houses like the above model in the $30,000 price range and will be situated on lots of at least one-third acre size.

New Home Site Seen

At a sneak preview this week, newspaper people were introduced to homes in one of the finest new developments in Oakland County.

Located on 15-Mile Road between Middle Belt and Inkster roads, the 100-acre development is known as Knollwood Heights - Fairways, and the 89 estate - sized sites will be no less than one-third acre.

Some will be as big as three acres, according to Ivan Frankel, developer.

A program conceived by the Kelvintor Research Division of American Motors Corporation and the Frankel Construction Company will place the kitchen and its vital services in proper perspective with the rest of the home.

The spring series of homes includes three models in the $30,000 price range identified as the Craft House, Town and Country House and the Hillside. Paul McCobb House.

Each has been completely decorated by the Robinson Furniture Company.

TOWN AND COUNTRY

In the Town and Country house where the reception was held, the entrance and adjoining hallway seem to be suspended one step higher than the living room and kitchen.

On the same level and next to the kitchen there is a family room, so comfortably built it could certainly be used as an extra living room.

The home is in the $28,500 bracket and boasts 2,700 square feet of floor space. A home for luxurious family living with a particular regard for elegance combined with practical house keeping has been achieved.

The kitchen area is unusually large with breakfast area planned as an outside cafe with ornamental iron rail dividing it from the adjoining family room.

All of the appliances are finished in Aztec copper to harmonize with the fruitwood finished wood cabinets.

Appliances include a 17.5-cubic-foot refrigerator - freezer, a built-in oven with automatic roaster and multi-heat broiler and a built-in dishwasher.

This model is available with either five or six bedrooms in the second floor area and exterior designs are custom available in any period - traditional, Early American, French Provincial, Regency or Contemporary.

The models are open for public inspection.

Use for Umbrella Stand

If you have an antique brass umbrella stand or similar attractive container, fill it with an armful of forsythia, cherry blossoms, quince, spirea, or dogwood. These flowering branches displayed in a hallway will be eye-catching.

CURBS SERVE USEFUL FUNCTIONS

Murals Reflect Family Interest

Got a ball player in your family? Or a tennis enthusiast? Whatever their favorite pastime, you can focus attention on it by hanging a mural depicting the sport. Such murals are now available in colorful ceramic tile, measuring one foot square, on which are reproduced participants representing almost every form of athletic endeavor.

Perhaps yours is not a sports-minded family. If this is the case, there still is a wide selection of murals and decorated tiles with which you can add a distinctive decorative touch to almost any room in your home.

For example, there are Indians, animals, floral designs and special murals showing historical and legendary figures, such as Paul Revere and Paul Bunyan.

Any of these murals or decorative tiled areas can be made as large as you wish. Whether you prefer the smaller size or the full-scale version, you can be certain that your mural will be permanent.

That's because real tile's colors are fadeproof. And of course ceramic tile cannot be scratched or burned, a factor that accounts for its popularity as a surfacing material for bathroom floors and walls and kitchen counters and backsplashes.

Build This for Your Best Canine Friend

Dogs Require Human's Care

(EDITOR'S NOTE—Lassie, pictured here, star of CBS television show "Lassie," is writing today's column for The Pontiac Press.)

We dogs have proven our usefulness as soldiers, policemen, guards, messengers, agricultural workers and television actors. We have learned to lead blind people. We depend upon you humans for shelter, water, food and care. We look after your children and teach them that inferior creatures need their kindness and protection.

In return, we give protection to your whole family. We are the first to warn you of danger.

We have an instinctive urge to rescue those who are drowning. We smell smoke sooner than you do. Our morality is loyalty — loyalty to you human beings.

The U.S. dog population today is 26 million. That means one dog for every seven people.

Each of us has feelings, all we ask of you is a little loyalty to us — that you recognize that we have been man's best friend since ancient times.

To us, you are pretty close to God. Indeed, you are the only God we know. We sometimes wonder why some of you do not believe like God — both in your relations with human beings and with us.

ALL THE FEATURES

I want to say a few words about the dog house shown here with me. It has all the features that we dogs like.

It may be made small for little dogs, medium for medium-size dogs and larger for dogs like myself.

It's important to have the right size sleeping area for each of us. Some of the good features are:

• It protects us from the wind. The front door is suspended from hinges that make it easy to go in or out of the house, yet the door stays closed. In the summer it may be fastened open.

• This house is built up off the ground, the same as a human's house. That keeps it warm and dry in winter.

• The roof is adjustable and may be opened in summer months. It may be taken completely off for cleaning.

• It has an awning for shade and a front porch for lounging out doors. Finally, it has a window, something we dogs like as much as you people.

To obtain the plan No. 299 for building the house shown, to fit any size dog, send $1 by currency, check or money order to: Steve Ellington Pontiac Press Pattern Dept., P.O. Box 2383 Van Nuys, Calif.

18 ROSES FOR ONLY $1⁰⁰

In Just One Single Season!

Amazing Japanese Rose rockets forth in the most fantastic splurge of bloom in all rose history — this truly produces up to 7 1/2 times more roses in one season than almost any other kind of rose on the face of the earth.

Hailed by U.S. Department of Agriculture and by leading garden experts both here and abroad — this sensational Oriental variety explodes with fresh bouquets of roses EACH AND EVERY DAY! — and not just mere scattering of puny button-hole blooms, but massive displays of full rose clusters — each and every one a perfectly formed masterpiece of floral beauty — each and every one stretching 4, 5, even 6 inches across!

Two weeks from today how would you like to grow in your garden what is undoubtedly the most sensational rose ever introduced to the people of North America. A rose so desperate to bloom that, yes, once established, in just one single season it actually produces over 9,000 magnificent flowers, a rose so incredibly prolific that you can take a scissors, snip off 5, 10, even 15 bouquets a day — and not even notice it's missing. Yes, a wonderland of the Orient, so weighted down with roses, that its branches actually bend over from the sheer weight of the blossom! And it's only the beginning of the miracle Japanese variety that's been written up in over 22 national magazines — written up by the United States Dept. of Agriculture — and that at this very moment is the rage of 5 European capitals — and that can turn your home into the garden showplace of the neighborhood the very first season you plant it.

PRODUCES MORE BLOOM IN ONE SEASON THAN OTHER ROSES! PRODUCE IN AN ENTIRE LIFETIME! You have a plan with such fantastic growing power... such overwhelming blossoming power... that it actually breaks skyward higher than a man... yields its flower-laden branches sideways wider than even the most prolific roses in the world... and buries itself under a mountain of thick, thick, thick blossoms! SO DENSE AND THICK THEY PRACTICALLY HIDE THE PLANT!

GUARANTEE We are so sure that these Miracle Japanese Rose will do all we say and more, that each plant comes to you fully backed by our Iron-clad 2-year guarantee. You are so sure that your Miracle Rose will literally smother themselves in bloom year after year... that they will give you up to 7 1/2 times more bloom than virtually any other kind of rose on the face of the earth... that if upon arrival you are not completely satisfied that there is truly fine-growth, branched, many-stemmed, they will replace any plant, any time within the next two years, absolutely free. When have you ever seen a stronger guarantee!

LOOK! Just one plant alone gives you enough of the truest "find" in garden history — here it is! A rose as prolific and hearty as it is strong and hardy that will never need to be watered after establishment. A rose so fantastically robust that it repels all insects and diseases that fear other roses to death. In other words — a rose that you can plant in sunny spots, shady spots, good soil, bad soil... and with little care it will leap forth in a blaze of brilliant beauty! A rose that will produce thousands upon thousands of spectacular blooms from top to bottom!

JUST LOOK WHAT YOU CAN DO WITH THESE SENSATIONAL PLANTS! Just imagine! You can actually surround your entire house and garden with an enchanted garden of fragrant and delightful lush and roses all summer long. Or plant a pair on either side of your doorway and you will be able to step out bouquet upon bouquet each and every day. And for a really fantastic effect, you can circle your patio with literally thousands and thousands of these delicate roses from top to bottom!

NO WONDER THIS MIRACLE ROSE HAS BEEN HAILED IN SUCH GLOWING PRAISE BY THE U.S. DEPT. OF AGRICULTURE. Why the picture practically speaks for itself... because when in your life did you ever see such a spectacle of bloom from one single rose-plant. For full details of special introductory offer, see below.

GROWS IN VIRTUALLY ANY SOIL — ANY CLIMATE — AND IS SO STRONG AND HARDY THEY EVEN THRIVE IN SUBZERO WEATHER. As if this wasn't enough to make this miracle-rose one of the truest "finds" in garden history — here it is! A rose as strong and hearty as it is strong and hardy that will never need to be watered after establishment. A rose so fantastically robust that it repels all insects and diseases that fear other roses to death. In other words — a rose that you can plant in sunny spots, shady spots, good soil, bad soil... and with little care it will leap forth in a blaze of brilliant beauty! A rose that will produce thousands upon thousands of spectacular blooms from top to bottom!

Every home-owner knows that plants and shrubs increase the value of your property and that for sheer beauty, nothing fills the bill like roses. That's why growing roses is like growing money. But even more thrilling, is the fact that when you plant this sensational Japanese Rose you can actually make them multiply themselves so that where you start with just a few plants this year, in just another year or two you can produce 6, 8 or even 10 "children" — in other words, you not only get beauty by the armful, but you're also planning an investment that increases the value of your property year after year.

SUPPLIES ARE LIMITED! YOU MUST ACT NOW! But since our supplies are limited... demand may be so great that we may not be able to fulfill all orders... All orders are filled on a first-come, first-served basis, and since now is the time to plant, you must act today. So mail the non-refundable coupon NOW!

Assemble Door

A Walled Lake distributor for Reynolds Metals Co. has been named to assemble and market a new reversible sliding glass door.

Joseph A. Hoffman, president of the Walled Lake Manufacturing Company, said his company will also have gutters and downspouts, aluminum building panels in six colors and insulated residential and commercial windows available.

The window is the first to combine double-interlock and drip cap features, according to Hoffman.

Nylon rollers and automatic locking device operable in open or closed position, and wool insulation are other features, he pointed out.

REVERSIBILITY "The outstanding feature of the sliding door is its reversibility, eliminating the need for a contractor to specify right or left slide on his order," Hoffman said. "Also," he continued, "the door can be reversed after installation if a home owner's needs are so dictated by a change in traffic pattern."

Reversibility reduces sliding door inventories by two-thirds, since it is necessary to stock only three- and four-foot reversible panels.

These can be combined to provide various widths available in crystal, crystal tempered, insulated glass and temper insulated, Hoffman concluded.

Use Private Water

About one American in 10 is served by a private water system — a system that serves those persons living beyond municipal water supplies. Because of increased demands on water supplies during the past decade, nearly half of all present systems no longer are able to do the job they were intended to do.

U.S. Runners Hoping to Add Gold Medals

Yanks Have 38 Titles to Date, but Halted Again by Cuban Nine

Sao Paulo, Brazil (AP) — Track and field, the headline sport, opens at the Pan-American Games today, with a patched-up U.S. squad expected to add heavily to its current haul of 38 gold medals.

Three men's finals, the 5,000 meters, high jump and shot put, are on today's card, along with trials in the 100 and 400-meter dashes. The long race could give the U.S. trouble.

The U.S. faces the track competition, which runs through next Saturday, with a patchwork lineup, occasioned by injuries and a few no-shows.

Argentina's veteran Oswaldo Bazzano, who won the 5,000 meter in 1955 and was second at 5,000 and first at 10,000 in 1959, poses a threat to the Americans.

Ralph Boston, the U.S. broad jump champion, will try his hand at the high jump in place of Joe Faust who didn't make the trip.

Olan Cassell of Ft. Sam Houston, Tex., has replaced injured Jerry Ashworth of Haverhill, Mass., in the 100. Dave Davis of Canoga Park, Calif., a shotput entrant, will double in the discus for Rick Baga of Manhattan Beach, Calif., who has to pass up the Games.

Cuba has a fine sprinter, Enrique Figueroa in the 100, and the West Indies has Mal Spence, third in 1959, in the 400.

Reflections

ACE OF SPADES

The Ace of Spades has the highest value of any card in a deck but upon occasion the ace of spades takes the deciding trick. It's that way with people, too.

A company may have electronic equipment, top-rated engineers, inviting general offices—an Ace of Spades in their field—and be dependent upon a ace. This dice is on the lowest rung of their personnel ladder but he, too, can be the ace.

ACE OF SPADES, a teller is the point of contact with customers; a gracious smile, a sincere "Thank you" builds goodwill, takes the winning trick—bigger dividend.

The Ace of Spades is necessary in a card game, and in business; so is a D.U.C.E.

UAW Wants Car Profit Cut

Reuther After Slice of GM Top Earnings

DETROIT (AP)—United Auto Workers President Walter P. Reuther has made it clear his union expects a slice of the record profits earned at giant General Motors Corp. in the past year.

Reuther, after addressing a session of the UAW National GM Conference yesterday, said in the face of such profits, it would be an "unconscionable crime" for the auto industry to raise prices of 1964 model cars.

Since the steel increases were announced recently, there has been talk in the industry of an increase of at least $50 per car beginning with the fall introduction.

It was generally felt that GM would set the pattern and the remainder of the industry would follow suit.

Describing the profit report, Reuther said it was "fabulous." General Motors recorded a record first quarter profit of $414 million.

Last year, the company had record profits of $1,459 billion for all four quarters.

"We base our demands on economics, and there are two immediate factors. First, the need of the workers' families, and second, the economic facts at hand."

"We believe General Motors can give workers a substantially increased share of the profits and customers a better car at a better price," he said.

About 250 UAW workers representing a total of 338,000 members at 131 GM-UMW locals around the country attended the two-day national session.

Berrien County Sued by State

LANSING (AP) — Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley announced yesterday he has filed a suit to stop construction of a controversial medical building in Berrien County.

The building is a $2.5-million addition to the Berrien County Hospital.

Kelley asked for an injunction to halt the project on behalf of the people of Michigan, the Social Welfare Commission, the State Health Commissioner, the Michigan Municipal Finance Commission and the state fire marshal.

Named as defendants were Doyle and Associates, Inc.; Berrien County, through its board of supervisors; William Gaudke, individually and as chairman of the board, and Frank Duerr Jr., as clerk of the board.

The civil complaint alleges that the defendants failed to conform with several state laws in proceeding with the project.

It pointed out that the Social Welfare Act requires approval by the Social Welfare Department for such projects, and if such approval is not received, then the contracts are not valid or binding and the counties may not pay out money.

Arson Charges Lodged Against Young Chemist

CHICAGO (AP)—Ten counts of arson have been lodged against a youthful chemistry whiz accused of masterminding a wave of bombings against the homes of Negroes.

Police said the juvenile, 16, and his friends, had hurled Molotov cocktails into at least 14 South Side homes.

Most were the homes of Negroes. The others, police said, were the homes of whites suspected of intentions to sell their homes to Negroes or of whites bombed by mistake.

None of the fires set off by the Molotov cocktails — pop bottles filled with gasoline and fitted with a lighted wick — was serious.

Police raided the apartment headquarters of the gang Thursday and seized the youth and the first of 17 others.

Nine of the others — the oldest of them was 22 — also have been charged with arson. The rest are charged with disorderly conduct.

ING BOATING BO

REMINDER — Secretary of State James Hare reminds boaters that they must have boat registration plates and numbers on Michigan waters or be penalized. The $3.00 fee covers registration for a three-year period.

Warn Boaters to Have Tags

If you are one of the three out of five watercraft owners who have not re-registered your motorboat this year, you'd better act soon if you want to enjoy Michigan waters this May or June.

Since the current three-year registration period started, on January 1, 1963, the Department of State has registered 150,000 watercraft, or about 38 per cent of the estimated 400,000 or more motorboat owners in Michigan.

According to Secretary of State James M. Hare, the unit which handles applications completes the process and gets the papers in the mail to the owner in about one week.

"If hot weather comes along and we are deluged with applications, it may slow up this present smooth flowing schedule," Hare said. "For that reason, I'd like to urge all motorboat owners to get their applications in now. If they wait until Memorial Day, they'll catch us in the big rush."

The new registration, which costs $3.00, is good for three years, from January 1, 1963 to December 31, 1965.

According to Hare, to enable boat owners to retain the MC numbers they already carry on their watercraft, the Department sent out pre-prepared applications to all boat owners whose craft had previously been registered.

All persons who received these prepared registration applications early this year were asked to return them at once with their $3.00 fee so that they could retain their present boat numbers.

The pelorus is not, however, as some incorrectly believe, an instrument only for advanced navigators nor is it an instrument to be used only in emergencies.

The Boat Rental Building, located near Maple Beach, will open May 4th at 8 a.m. to begin service for the 1963 season. Over 110 aluminum boats are available for rent, $5 deposit required.

Seventy-five cents per hour, with $1 minimum charge and maximum charges of $2.50 week days and $4.50 on Sundays and holidays are the rates.

The park does not rent out-board motors, nor does it supply fishing tackle or bait, or gasoline. However, persons may supply their own motors for use on rented boats. Safety cushions are available for rent as a safety measure.

CANOEING—There is a campsite on Labadie Island for canoeists on overnight trips, with a set of 4 canoeing guides, available and illustrating canoe campsites from Pontiac along the Huron River through Kensington Park and on to Lake Erie.

Canoe camp site permits are available by contacting the Huron - Clinton Metropolitan Authority, 1750 Guardian Building, Detroit 26 (Phone WOODWARD 1-5865).

Permits and canoe maps may be obtained at the above address, but the maps are available also at the office at Kensington Park.

Safe Boating Week Set for June, July 6

National Safe Boating Week will be observed by presidential proclamation this year for the period of June 30 to July 6.

Last year's reports, from a total of 340 of the estimated 1,000 local safe boating committees, indicated that community programs pertaining to safe boating have been greatly accelerated with more civic groups participating in the establishment of work on a permanent year-around basis.

In addition to the usual support of state boating supervisors and water safety commissioners the National Park Service and the Corps of Army Engineers have also stepped up safe boating programs on the numerous lakes and rivers under their control.

During the past year a great deal of impetus has also been added by the support of the National Advertising Council and a growing supply of National Safe Boating Week material from various trade groups, individuals and marine organization dealers.

Posters, press releases and instruction material are issued through the National committee for local use.

The American Water Ski Association and National Council of YMCA's have joined the National Safe Boating Week Committee for 1963, bringing the number of organizations represented to 15.

Other groups on the committee are the American National Red Cross, Girl Scouts of the United States of America, Boy Scouts of America, American Boat and Yacht Council, American Power Boat Association, United States Power Squadrons, United States Coast Guard, United States Coast Guard Auxiliary, Outboard Boating Club of America, National Safe Boating Association, National Association of Engine and Boat Manufacturers, the National Safety Council and the Yacht Safety Bureau.

Wise Skipper Obtains Guide

One of the best 40 cent investments a boatman can make today is for a copy of the new and revised edition of the Recreational Boating Guide published by United States Coast Guard.

Included in the 77 well illustrated pages, some in color, are chapters pertaining to laws and regulations and the legal minimum requirements for equipment, sub-headed for your class boat.

Sections about the prevention of and the proper steps to boating regulations and safety. Write to United States Government Printing Office, Washington 25, D. C., for 40 cents a copy. A special rate may be obtained when ordering bulk quantities.

The law requires that all boats carry at least a minimum of equipment. However, the wise boatman will take it upon himself to have an anchor, paddle, extra line and other useful equipment aboard at all times, says the Evinrude Boating Foundation.

Canoe Travel Fun in County

Fishermen who dream of the day they will travel from lake to lake via boat or canoe in Canada's northern fishing paradise can get a taste of what to expect in Oakland County.

A trip down the Huron River won't provide the best fishing, but it will supply practice in handling a canoe or river boat in fast, slow, shallow and deep water.

There will be portages to be made, and lakes to be crossed.

In addition the scenery in several places along the river is similar to the landscape found in the north. In fact, one stretch in the Proud Lake recreation area is known as "Little Upper Peninsula."

Fishermen can try their luck for trout, smallmouth and rock bass, bluegills and, below Kent Lake, walleyes while floating the Huron. The river flows through several of the better fishing lakes in the county.

The Huron takes a winding, roundabout way to Lake Erie.

It flows out of Big Lake and the next stop is Pontiac Lake. From Pontiac Lake it courses through Oxbow, Brendel, Commerce, Proud, Moss and Kent Lakes. The stream continues its southwest direction through the Portage Lakes chain northwest of Ann Arbor.

TOWARD ERIE

At Hudson Mills metropolitan park the stream bed swings southeast through Ann Arbor, Ypsilanti and Belleville on the way to Rockwood and Lake Erie.

A trip from Pontiac Lake to Lake Erie would cover about 140 miles.

Mounting a motor on the canoe or river boat will speed up travel across the lakes and also help fishermen move back upstream to make a second pass over productive water.

A 12-foot fishing boat can be used below Proud Lake, but these boats are awkward to handle in the narrow spots and tricky current.

For those who would like to take more than a day on the river, there are campsites in the various state and metropolitan authority areas.

Good roads cross the river every few miles, making it easy to pickup paddlers and boat at a pre-arranged spot.

The Clinton, although not as picturesque or fishable, is another possibility for a float trip. Trips down the Huron and Clinton during the duck hunting season have proved very productive for nimrods.

Docking Important for Good Captain

Watching a skilled helmsman maneuver his boat alongside a pier or into a narrow slip is an interesting experience. Although it looks simple or even automatic, you can be sure it takes some practice.

When you want to come alongside a pier, it's best to make your approach at about a 45 degree angle.

Keep a light hand on the throttle and when within 10 yards of the pier, cut your speed to an idle.

Coast the last several feet in neutral and just before the bow has a chance to nudge the pier, cramp the steering wheel toward the pier and shift into reverse.

This will swing the stern around and bring the boat parallel with the pier.

Water Skiing Has Phenomenal Growth

Since the end of World War II, water skiing has taken on a new look, importance and following.

It now ranks as America's fastest growing water-sport and enthusiasts from the age of 6 to 60 can be found partaking in the sport.

In 1939 it was estimated that there were less than 400 water skiers in the United States.

In 1947 the figure began a rapid rise with some 50,000 involved in the sport.

Now there are more than 6,000,000 participating and there are 500 ski clubs scattered around the country wherever there is water. In '62 the number of tournaments held number over 100.

Like all sports, water skiing has a governing body, the American Water Ski Association which sanctions meets and tournaments throughout the United States.

Each year they conduct over 70 different meets and present awards for seven different groups of skiers.

Water ski tournaments incorporate established age-groups for equal competition and consist of three events: slalom, jumping and trick riding.

Records are kept of each skier's accomplishments and he earns ratings according to his ability.

Naturally along with the increased number of water skiers there was an increase in the number of boats sold.

Most states now have laws governing water ski activity and they require at least two competent persons in a boat that's towing a water skier.

Most prohibit water skiing after dark which means skiing is only legal for the period one hour before sunrise to one hour after sunset.

The efforts of organizations such as the American Water Ski Association has been a vigorous factor in the rapid growth of the sport. Mass distribution of educational material and water skiing safety decals and a program of testing and certification of instructors as well as establishing standards for affiliated water ski schools also have won thousands of converts.

Consider Cartoppers

The "cartoppers" are the answer.

These compact light-weight floating packages provide the only solution to fishing streams too deep for wading and small inaccessible backwoods lakes seldom visited by most anglers.

Since portability is the basic requirement, confine your search to boats weighing under 120 pounds. You'll be doing plenty of lifting and carrying, so the lighter the better. Aluminum construction seems to be the best all-around choice, but strip-canvas designs that will accommodate an outboard and certain fiberglass hulls are suitable.

Dying Lakes Big Problem in Michigan

"Dying" lakes are becoming an increasingly serious problem in many of the recreational boating areas of the nation.

The lakes in the United States that are "dying" number in the thousands, according to reports of conservationists.

In Michigan alone, the State Conservation Department says, "A very large percentage of the State's 11,000 big and little lakes are in need of cleaning soon to keep them from being choked to death."

A lake dies when run-off erosion from surrounding land combines with the dead and rotting vegetation to cover the bottom of the lake with peat and silt.

This creates a fertile growing area for weeds which eventually so clog a lake that it "chokes to death."

Ordinarily this takes many years but the process has now been hastened as commercial fertilizers wash into the lakes from adjacent farms and well tended gardens and lawns. Pollution from industrial and residential sources also speed up the weed-growing process.

One authority claims that commercial fertilizers and pollution now do in one year what it formerly took nature ten years to accomplish.

Once peat, weeds and a mixture of clay and calcium called marl completely clog a lake, it should be dredged. This is a costly remedy, yet it appears to be the only answer.

Boating, Camping Popular Together

By DON VOGEL
Outdoor Editor, Pontiac Press

A station wagon, the family tucked inside and the camping gear on top, pulling a trailer containing a boat and outboard motor is a common sight on Michigan's highways every Friday afternoon and Saturday during the warm months.

A station wagon isn't always the vehicle. It can be a sedan, pickup truck or mobile camper. The boat isn't necessarily being pulled. Very often it is found on top of the car with the camping unit trailing along.

It all adds up to the fact that combined camping and boating trips by the family is growing by leaps and bounds.

The boom has been so great in recent years that space in campgrounds is at a premium — even on weekdays during the summer — and the waterways are becoming as crowded as the Lodge expressway during the rush hour.

Oakland County residents who spend weekends on these camping-boating excursions usually drive north on Friday afternoon.

TRAVEL TIME CUT

The new expressway system makes it possible for them to leave about 5 p. m. and two hours later be establishing camp in the upper reaches of the Lower Peninsula. And, during the summer, Schaeffer Mercury and found in they will have enough daylight left once they reach their destination to make camp.

Electricity and running water at campsites is a luxury, but most families can get along without these items. Finding enough room on a lake for water skiing, fishing or pleasure boating is another thing.

There are many lakes in northern Michigan which are not overcrowded with weekend boaters. These lakes are of sufficient size to handle both water skiers and fishermen.

The big problem is finding these lakes — with launching and campground facilities.

This could be a summer project for the family that likes to see different places. Some lakes will prove disappointing, but others will turn out to be ideal. It will take some looking. This is where the family that likes to camp has an advantage.

A $5 investment will save time.

Available from the Conservation Department (Mason Building, Lansing) is a list of all public fishing sites in Michigan. A Michigan Campground Guide can be obtained for a $1.20 by writing to 128 E. Michigan Ave., Battle Creek.

BIG TRIP AHEAD—Dr. Leo Wasserberger (right) and Pete Gobel have a big trip in mind as they get the lightning in ship-shape condition for the trip to Chorillos Bay, Peru. Dr. Wasserberger will compete in the World Lightning championships there in December, but plans to enter his boat in various U.S. meets to prepare for the event.

Peru Navy to Escort Lightning From PYC

By BRUNO L. KEARNS

Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

Dr. Leo Wasserberger holds no commission in the Peruvian Navy, but he'll get the real hospitality treatment next winter from a ship of Peru's Naval Fleet.

Dr. Wasserberger and his lightning sail boat will be among 15 U. S. entries which will be picked up in New York in November and transported to Chorillos Bay near Lima, Peru, to compete in the world's lightning championship, Nov. 29-Dec. 9th.

Qualifying for the world meet took place in the North American championships last fall on Lake Erie near Niagara Falls with 91 boats competing.

All told, 12 boats from the Pontiac Yacht Club tried to qualify, starting with the district races, and Wasserberger's boat was the first from PYC ever to make the grade.

Crewing with him for the district and North American championships were Pete Goebel and Bob Wood.

The Pontiac Yacht Club, with 45 lightnings, is said to be the largest inland fleet in the world. Local crews have done well in district championships in the past but none has ever gone to the world championships. Mack Goodwin was district champion in 1957, but did not go to the world meet.

Dr. Wasserberger noted that in the correspondence received from Peru, it is noted that during December temperatures range between 65 and 75, winds are steady near 15 mph with clear skies and complete sunshine, and there is no current or high seas.

"The propaganda sheets says this has not changed in the last 400 years," commented the Pontiac sail boater.

Boat Courses Now in School

San Francisco State College is developing an activity course in Small Craft (Boating).

Doris D. Holtz, associate professor, Physical Education, says that three objectives lead to launching of such a course at the college level.

These were the need for a recreation boating activity course for college men and women on a lakefront campus; the professional background preparation need for physical education teachers, recreation leaders and camp counselors for experience in small boat handling, and safety education in light of the phenomenal growth in boating popularity not only in California, but throughout the nation.

Seasickness Like a Cold —No Cure

Seasickness has plagued mankind through the ages.

With the exception of the common cold and hiccups, there is probably no ailment for which more treatments have been prescribed by the public, medical professions, and "experts."

For nearly two thousand years man has been seeking remedies for seasickness. Some of the offered suggestions through the years have been: through the years have been: Lying flat on the deck . . . drinking brandy . . . not drinking brandy . . . drinking champagne . . . pasting a strip of brown paper to the chest . . . putting icepacks on the spine plugging the ears.

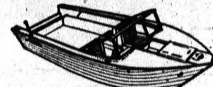

Should all these fail, one doctor suggests a "cure" for the seasick Scotchmen — "hold a sixpence between the teeth while leaning over the rail."

Plan for Summer Cruise

Most Important Things First Is Equipment

Be Sure to Consider Items for Children on Long Trips

If you are thinking about doing some outboard cruising this summer, you'll have more fun if you take the time to plan.

Often, it's the little extras that make the big difference in the success of the cruise.

Your first consideration, should be your equipment.

While almost any outboard boat is suitable for cruising on selected waterways, it doesn't make sense to cruise unsheltered offshore waters in a 15-foot runabout.

But with that same small boat you can have all kinds of fun cruising protected inland waterways, such as a river.

Time is another consideration. Unless you want to make it a combination automobile - boat trip, don't select a spot so far away that most of your time will be spent on the road getting to and from the cruise area.

There are probably several excellent areas located within a day's drive of your home.

Once you have picked the general area, select the specific waters you want to cover.

But don't restrict yourself with a schedule that is too tight.

You will find cruising is more fun if you allow enough leeway for making frequent stops at various points of interest. No doubt you'll find plenty of them.

GET CHARTS

Try to obtain detailed charts of your cruise area before leaving home. Mark the spots you want to visit. Check for fuel and supply stops. If navigation locks will be encountered, allow extra time for locking through. If you plan to sleep aboard or set up camp on the shore, you need not be concerned with lodging facilities.

Otherwise, check for the availability of suitable water front motels or cabins along the route.

Don't forget the kids. They can get pretty rambunctious on a long cruise if they do not have something to occupy their time.

Keep them interested by pointing out scenery and wild life. Explain the significance of marker buoys, locks, bridges and commercial vessels as they are encountered. Take along a few of their favorite games. Of course, youngsters are always eager to take a turn at the wheel.

And remember, when kids are aboard, frequent stops are a must.

Kensington Park Has Launching Ramps Open

Two boat launching ramps at Kensington Metropolitan Park are open for the 1963 season.

There is no charge for boat launching, permitted daily from sunrise to sunset at the 1,200-acre Kent Lake where both ramps are located at different ends of the popular boating and fishing sites.

Entrance is from the park's two entrances along the I-96 (Grand River) Freeway with the East Launching site having space for 60 cars and trailers plus additional parking space for cars and providing six simultaneous launchings. The West Launching site has space for 125 cars and trailers and permits from 6 to 8 launchings at one time with a 120-foot ramp. Speed limit is 10 miles per hour on Kent Lake.

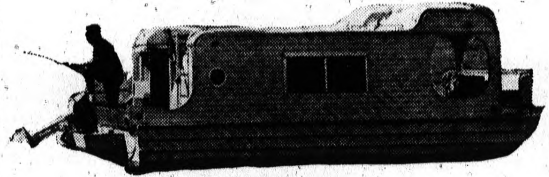

At the present time the water surface is 1½ feet below the usual late spring level and all boaters are advised to proceed with caution in the more shallow areas of Kent Lake.

Boaters are required to obtain a boat launching permit, issued without charge and good for the 1963 season, prior to launching their craft. These may be obtained at the launching sites on week-ends and at the park office on week days.

Trailers, cars and boats are not permitted to remain in Kensington Park overnight except for boats in slip rental spaces.

A four-degree error on your compass will set you about 370 feet off course for every mile traveled.

Correct answers are: 1. (a); 2. (b); 3. (c); 4. (a); 5. (a); 6. (c); 7. (a); 8. (c); 9. (a); 10. (b).

FUN BOAT—An ideal water craft for entertaining, fishing, swimming, cruising is the popular pontoon boat with small horsepower motors.

Ideal for Entertainment

Pontoons Grow Popular

Providing the deck space of a yacht at the price of a runabout, pontoon boats have become increasingly more popular within the last few years.

Whether interested in cruising, fishing, swimming or just having fun, many boatmen have found this type of boat to be ideal.

Pontoon boats are basically rafts mounted on steel or aluminum floats. They are usually equipped with side rails and a colorful canvas or vinyl canopy.

Most are fitted with a steering wheel and remote motor controls for maximum ease of operation.

In addition to this basic equipment, boarding ladders and diving boards of either the springboard or trampoline type can be added to make the boat a mobile swimming and diving raft.

Because of their roominess, pontoon boats are often used as party boats for entertaining guests. Food and beverage coolers can be easily stowed aboard.

A table and chairs, along with a barbecue grill and plenty of food set the stage for an informal dinner party.

Or, with the addition of a transistor radio, it can easily become a floating dance party.

After an evening of fun, the host can start a quiet outboard motor and treat his guests to a relaxing moonlight cruise.

Pontoon boats can be powered by various sizes of outboard motors, according to the Eveinrude Boating Foundation.

Since speed is usually not important, most owners prefer to use a relatively small engine and outboard motors ranging from 5½ to 18 horsepower are most popular.

On large pontoon boats, especially house boats or cabin models, outboard motors of 75 horsepower or more are sometimes used.

But for an average 16 to 20 foot model, a 10 horsepower motor is usually considered to be sufficient.

For fishing on quiet waterways, many anglers have found a pontoon boat to be just the thing.

There is plenty of room to allow several fishermen adequate space to dangle a line, and even have a fish fry if they desire.

Pontoon boats equipped with large outboard motors are sometimes used to pull water skiers.

However, since they require a greater turning radius and take longer to pick up speed than do more conventional type of boats, they are not particularly well suited for this purpose.

Cold Prevents '63 Debut of 'Miss Stars'

KAWKAWLIN, Mich. — Snow and cold combined to prevent jet-powered Miss Stars and Stripes II from making her 1963 Hubbard Lake debut in test runs scheduled for this week, preliminary to an official attempt to break the world water speed record of 260.35 m.p.h.

When snow fell Tuesday, Les Staudacher, driver, talked with the boat's owner, Robert B. Evans, and the two decided to postpone the 100-mile trip north at least another week. Warming weather is still needed, however.

Lou Kramer, of Hubbard Lake, has announced a "Salute Dinner" will be held May 25 at Lincoln, west of Harrisville, to honor Stars and Stripes owner, driver and crew. Alcona County girls will be selling an oval button bearing a picture in color of Stars and Stripes. From their number will be chosen a Miss Stars and Stripes who will preside as queen at the Salute Dinner and at affairs through the world-record-breaking attempt period.

May 4-5 Miss Stars and Stripes has a date to show herself to the University of Michigan engineering students at Ann Arbor.

Tip for Anchor Line

To anchor a boat properly, you will need a line 6 to 8 times as long as the depth of the water.

If the line is not long enough, a vertical rather than horizontal pull will be exerted and the anchor will not hold to the bottom as well.

The U. S. Weather Bureau uses a single red pennant to indicate a small craft warning. It signifies a forecast of either winds up to 38 m.p.h. or sea conditions dangerous to small craft operations, or both.

Outboards Not Faulty in Muddying Waters

Outboards don't muddy the waters, an Illinois State Normal University marine biologist reported recently.

Dr. Anereas A. Paloumpis, associate professor of fisheries and zoology at the university, asserted that outboards had no effect on the amount of silt, or turbidity, in the water of Lake Bloomington in central Illinois, following analysis of daily records which have been kept for the lake since 1931.

In notifying the Outboard Boating Club of America of his findings, Dr. Paloumpis explained that the daily turbidity readings are taken because the 650-acre lake supplies water for the city of Bloomington.

Carry an Anchor, Know Its Use

A rock tied to a clothes line and dropped over the side will do a pretty fair job of holding a small boat in calm water.

But as the size of the boat and the turbulence of the water increase, so does the need for a better method.

An anchor, of course, is the answer.

An anchor is one of the most useful pieces of equipment a boatman can own.

Properly used, it will hold his boat in place while he fishes, keep it away from rocky shores, and secure it overnight while he sleeps aboard.

An anchor can even be used to ride out heavy seas during bad weather. But despite its importance, many boatmen are not really familiar with anchors and proper anchoring procedures.

Anchors are made in various sizes, shapes and weights to be used with different boats. Most popular with outboard boatmen are the mushroom and Danforth types. Mushroom anchors resemble an inverted mushroom and used primarily with smaller boats.

Large mushrooms are often used as permanent moorings.

Lightweight Danforth type anchors have pivoting flukes which exert tremendous holding power. They are preferred by most boatmen.

Just as important as having the right anchor is knowing how to use it, according to the Evinrude Motors people.

When anchoring, first check to be sure the bitter end of the line is attached to the boat and the line is not tangled around your feet or gear. Select the spot where you want to anchor and then approach it into the wind or current, whichever is stronger. When over the spot, lower the anchor, don't heave it.

Keep your anchor in a place where it can be reached conveniently. The lines should be kept neatly coiled and inspected periodically for rot and wear.

Learn Storm Safeties in Small Outboard Boat

It probably won't happen often, and if you're lucky maybe never, but knowing how to ride out a storm in a small boat may some day prove to be mighty important.

The wise boatman, of course, does not venture out when the weather is not in his favor.

What's more, he immediately puts for shore at the first sign of an impending storm.

Nature is usually quite free with her weather warnings and it doesn't take a lot of meteorological skill to spot foul weather in the making.

Regardless of how careful you may be, there's always a chance that some day you'll be caught in the middle of a lake being churned by high waves and gusty winds.

In this situation, the first and most important thing to remember is to keep calm.

If passengers are aboard, have them sit on the floor boards.

This will lower the boat's center of gravity and reduce the danger of its being upset.

HEAD FOR SHORE

It's "any port in a storm" so head for the nearest shore. Head into the wind and waves at low speed keeping enough headway on the boat so that she holds her course.

Should the engine stop for any

Get Outboard in Top Shape

It doesn't require an awful lot of mechanical aptitude to get your outboard motor in tiptop shape for the boating season.

With a few basic tools, an average knowledge of what makes the motor work and an hour or so of spare time, just about anyone can do it. To help you here's a simple step-by-step procedure recommended by Bill Smale, chief engineer of Evinrude Motors.

Start by removing the spark plugs. Spark plugs may seem to be rather insignificant parts of the engine, yet they are vitally important. Rough idling, hard starting and excessive fuel consumption can all result from defective plugs.

Inspect the plugs carefully for burning, fouling or cracking. If they appear to be in good shape they can be cleaned, gapped and re-used.

tion, don't take chances, replace them with the type recommended by the manufacturer. Also check the rubber spark plug caps for deterioration.

IGNITION

The ignition system—breaker points, condenser, coil and wiring—can be quickly tested with a spark checker. Spark checkers are inexpensive to buy or, if you prefer, easy to make.

Next check step is the fuel system. If you ran the carburetor dry last fall, you shouldn't have any problems.

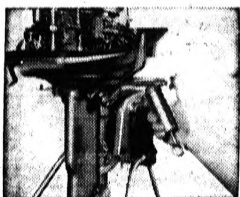

It's a good idea, however, to remove and clean the fuel filter

CHECK SPARK—Be sure to replace plugs that are questionable. Rubber caps should be inspected for deterioration.

REMOVE FILTER—Wash the filter bowl thoroughly with neutral spirits or clean gasoline and check all fuel lines for leaks.

LUBRICATE—Use a grease gun to fill the fitting and check all parts for proper lubrication.

bowl. Wash the bowl and the filter with neutral spirits or clean gasoline.

If the filter is badly clogged with varnish or other deposits, it should be replaced. Check all fuel lines for leaks or cracks.

See that all parts are properly lubricated. Using a grease gun, fill the fittings with the proper lubricant.

Your owner's manual will list other points that require attention. Lubrication is important. Don't overlook it.

DRAIN GEARS

The lower unit housing the propeller shaft and gears should be drained and refilled with the lubricant recommended by the manufacturer.

If water or metal chips are detected in the drain oil, have a qualified marine dealer check the motor. If you changed the lubricant last fall before the motor was put into storage, there is no need to do it again now.

Don't make the mistake of using fuel left in the tank over the winter months, warns Smale.

It has probably lost its ability to ignite properly and using it can cause hard starting, rough running and poor performance. Throw it out.

Especially on high horsepower motors, propellers are extremely important in getting top performance.

Mismatched or damaged propellers are the most common cause of problems related to speed and power losses, short spark plug life, excessive fuel consumption and vibration.

A propeller that is nicked or bent should be repaired, repitched or replaced.

If your motor does not deliver the kind of performance that can reasonably be expected, have a marine dealer check the propeller.

It may not be suited to your boat and the load you normally carry. While you're checking the propeller, lubricate its shaft and inspect the drive pin for wear.

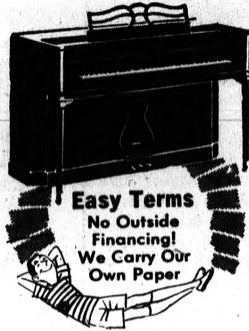

When everything is shipshape, connect the spark plug wires and put on the engine cover. Wipe down exterior metal parts with a lightly oiled cloth.

Dinghy Championship Added to Race Card

A new championship dinghy race for single-handed competition has been added to the racing schedule of the Inter-collegiate Yacht Racing Association of North America. The race will be conducted at Oyster Bay, N.Y., on June 23 and 24, sponsored by the Seawanhaka Corinthian Yacht Club, the Middle Atlantic Inter-collegiate Sailing Ass'n., and a college yet to be named. The new prize for the winner will be known as the Glen S. Foster Trophy.

The American Dinghy Championship finals for the Henry A. Morss Trophy will be held June 19-21, conducted jointly by Harvard and M. I. T., on the Charles River Basin, Cambridge, Mass.

Have Fun, but Don't Joke

Learn All Rules of Swim Safety

A small girl was getting used to swimming in deep water by diving from a pier and swimming to shallow water a few yards away. Her parents sat on the beach of the lake and watched.

After several dives she slipped from the pier and fell into the lake. Again and again she sank below the surface. Each time she came up, she grabbed a mouthful of fresh air before going under again.

On the bank her parents ceased laughing at their daughter's antics and became concerned when the girl made no attempt to swim. The youngster appeared to be in trouble, but her face showed she was more angry every time she surfaced.

So Dad waded into the lake, reached out a hand and pulled her ashore. "Why did you wait so long before coming after me?" the girl demanded.

"I didn't know you were in trouble," her father answered. "Why didn't you swim?"

"I couldn't," she explained. "I didn't have anything to push off from."

This story illustrates two important things about water safety.

First, a person who is able to swim, if only for a short distance, does not panic if he accidentally falls into deep water. He will be able to save himself either by swimming to safety or by taking care of himself until help arrives.

Second, when small children are taught to swim, they must understand, completely the difference between what is necessary and what is convenient.

NEED INSTRUCTION

This girl was taught to push away from the edge of the swimming pool with her feet before starting to swim. She had not learned to swim well when the course ended, but by practice improved. No one realized that she always "pushed off" from the side of a pool or the shallow bottom before starting to stroke.

At her age, every bit of instruction is taken as a strict rule which must be followed. She did not realize that one can swim without something to push off from for initial impetus.

Needless to say, the youngster was immediately taught to swim without a push-off before she again went into deep water.

The National Safety Council and all organizations interested in water safety recommend that swimmers use the buddy system and do not swim alone.

The swimmers should know and

Inboard Nationals Set

Inboard National Championships in the 44 Hydro and Jersey Speed Skiff classes of the American Power Boat Association have been scheduled for Red Bank, N. J., July 7. Class championships in 48, 145, 150, 225, 266, 280, and 7 Litre Hydros, and E Racing Runabout, Ski Racing Runabout and Crackerbox are scheduled for San Diego, Calif., Sept. 27-29.

observe their limitations and get out of the water when tired, overheated or chilled.

Cold water is more exhausting than warm water, so distance swimming should not be done in the cold. When first entering a pool, go in gradually to get used to the temperature. Plunging immediately into cold water numbs the body and makes breathing difficult.

Do not dive or leap into unknown waters. Fully explore the bottom to make sure the water is deep enough and that there are no rocks or submerged stumps before diving. Don't try to use a small, deep hole surrounded by shallow water for a diving hole.

For novices, eight feet of water is considered the minimum for all-round diving safety from floats or low platforms. Nine feet is recommended if springboards are used.

One should never shout for help as a joke.

If in trouble, a swimmer should conserve his strength as much as possible by resting on his back and floating with a minimum amount of motion.

Bathing beaches should be chosen carefully. Nonswimmers and inexperienced swimmers should keep to shallow water. A realistic minimum requirement should be set before one is permitted in deep water.

Many pools and organizations require an ability to swim 25 or 50 yards before the shallow water restriction is lifted.

Swimmers of little experience and nonswimmers should swim with partners of greater ability, preferably ones trained in life-saving.

The deep areas of both swimming holes and artificial pools should be roped off. The shallow area should not slope too steeply into deep water.

Harriman Hopeful About Laos After Talking With Nik

MOSCOW (AP) — U.S. Undersecretary of State W. Averell Harriman expressed hope today that his talks with Premier Khrushchev "will lead to an improvement in the situation in Laos."

Harriman spoke at a news conference in the U.S. Embassy with correspondents from both sides of the Iron Curtain.

He denied emphatically, and branded as false, statements in the Soviet press that Americans were instigating the trouble in Laos and that American officers were leading some of the Laotian troops in the attack.

"These charges were repeated as Harriman met Friday with Khrushchev, who reiterated support for a neutral Laos."

Harriman said neither Khrushchev nor Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko questioned his assertion that it was the pro-Communist Pathet Lao forces that started the fighting.

He said he was pleased with the results of the mission to which he was assigned by President Kennedy.

"Premier Khrushchev reaffirmed unequivocally his position of two years ago and a year ago," Harriman said.

The Geneva agreement was drawn up a year ago to end the fighting and to provide for the neutrality of Laos. The other reference was to a meeting between Kennedy and Khrushchev in Vienna in 1961 at which both pledged support for a neutral Laos.

Harriman said he did not feel it was proper for him to discuss reports that Khrushchev might step down from his job as chief of state or of the party.

"He impressed me," Harriman said, "as being vigorous and strong as captain of the ship of state."

Harriman met with Khrushchev for 3½ hours yesterday. He held another meeting this morning with Gromyko.

Harriman handed Khrushchev a personal message from Kennedy. But there was no indication that Khrushchev agreed with Kennedy on concrete steps to halt the fighting in Laos.

Reception Thrills Cuban

Soviet Union Welcomes Castro

By REINHOLD ENSZ

MOSCOW (AP)—Cuba's Prime Minister Fidel Castro said today he would cherish the memory of his ear-splitting welcome in the arctic city of Murmansk as "the most exciting moment of our life."

The Soviet news agency Tass said thousands had greeted the bearded Cuban on his hush-hush midnight arrival for a first visit to the Soviet Union.

Castro put it higher and said he would cherish the memory city's population had turned out to meet him.

Leading them was First Deputy

Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan who went to Havana last autumn to smooth things over after Soviet Premier Khrushchev had said he would withdraw Soviet rockets.

Neither Castro nor Mikoyan those events in their speeches, which were broadcast by Moscow Radio.

Castro began calmly and slowly, but was soon outshouting his Soviet translator, who had begun shouting at the very beginning.

"The fact that Castro was arriving in the Soviet Union was a closely guarded secret, both here and in Cuba, although it had been announced 11 days ago that the Cuban would make a visit to the Soviet Union this year.

It will not be Castro's first meeting with Khrushchev. They met in New York at a United Nations session more than 2½ years ago.

Castro began his speech by praising the people of Murmansk for their "great sacrifices" during World War II, when the port was one of the main entry points for the vast quantities of supplies that came from the West.

"Speaking honestly," Castro said, "I never supposed that it would be at this point on the globe that I would start my acquaintance with your great country."

The regular scheduled air route from Cuba to the Soviet Union runs from Havana to Murmansk. This is to avoid passing over the territory of any other country.

There are two flights a week by TU141 jet props. It is reputedly the longest nonstop flight in the world.

Castro launched into a brief declaration about the need for solidarity of the international working class. He also spoke about what he called the merits of Marxism-Leninism.

When he finished, the crowd shouted, "Viva, Cuba! Viva Cuba!"

Mikoyan spoke only a few words: "Long live the leader of the Cuban revolution, the people's hero Fidel Castro!"

Moscow prepared an ecstatic greeting for the first man to wave the banners of communism in triumph over any country in the Western Hemisphere.

WALTER HAGEN III

Bullet Wound Fatal to Boy

A bullet wound in the head has proven fatal to 14-year-old Walter Hagen III.

The boy, grandson of golfing great Walter Hagen, died last night in Pontiac General Hospital. He never regained consciousness after being accidentally shot by a friend Tuesday evening.

The shooting occurred in the Hagen home at 6333 North Shore Court, West Bloomfield Township, when Michael Hough, 14, of nearby 6847 Alden Drive, was handling a gun he thought was unloaded.

Hough said in a statement to the prosecutor that he believed the automatic pistol was empty because the clip had been removed after they had fired two rounds outside.

Opening-Day Blues Persist

Trout Anglers Shiver

By DON VOGEL

Outdoor Editor, Pontiac Press MIO — There is one thing about Michigan's unpredictable weather that is predictable — fishermen will suffer from the elements on the opening day of trout season.

It was no different in Northern Michigan today.

Many anglers, lulled by reports of temperatures in the 60s, expected mild and clear weather for most of the weekend.

They found that the insulated undergarments they left home would have been most welcome at dawn.

At 5 a.m., the mercury stood at 29 degrees along the Au Sable River near here. Three hours later, thermometers read 33. The same held true for most of the north.

Lines froze in red guides and unprotected fingers quickly became numb. Many anglers quit after an hour because of the cold.

Fires were started along the east branch of the Au Gres where fishermen were content to stay in one spot while trying to hook a lake run rainbow.

Darkening, overcast skies had many wondering if snow would fall before noon.

Except for the cold, other conditions were ideal. Streams are at midsummer level.

As usual, the trout failed to cooperate. Catches along the Au Sable were light and few large fish were creel. The large rainbows in the Au Gres were conspicuous by their absence.

One rainbow of 2½ pounds and one 3-pounder were taken shortly after dawn on the Au Gres east branch. A 4-pounder was reported caught near National City.

Cuba Boats Harass U.S. Patrol Vessel

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two U.S. jet fighters were rushed into the Florida Straits yesterday when two Cuban gunboats sped back and forth across the bow of a U.S. Coast Guard cutter.

The cutter, No. 95314, was in international waters about 30 miles northeast of Havana investigating a report that a small boat was in distress with five persons aboard.

It found no one aboard the empty, drifting boat. There was no evidence it was an American boat, the Pentagon said.

During the search, the Pentagon said, the Cuban gunboats crisscrossed the bow of the 95-foot Coast Guard vessel.

When the cutter reported the action, the Pentagon said "two FSU aircraft were scrambled from Key West."

"When the aircraft reached the scene, the maneuvers were discontinued."

There was no shooting by Cuban or American units involved.

The Coast Guard ship was commanded by Lt. (j.g.) Carl A. Strand and had a crew of 18.

It was from New London, Conn., and one of six recently sent into the Key West area to help enforce President Kennedy's orders to halt raids by anti-Castro units which called themselves Alpha 66.

10 Injured, 3 Missing in Powder Plant Blast

ROCKET CENTER, W. Va. — Ten persons were injured and three others are unaccounted for today following an explosion at the Allegheny Ballistics Laboratory.

A spokesman for the Hercules Powder Co., which operates the plant for the Navy, said a chemical processing building at the plant was destroyed by the blast. Cause of the explosion was unknown.

Survivors Set Funeral Rites for Mine Dead

Officials Probe Cause of West Virginia Blast That Took 22 Lives

CLARKSBURG, W. Va. — Mourning survivors today planned funerals for 22 victims of a violent coal mine explosion in northern West Virginia, as mine officials tried to pinpoint the cause of the tragedy.

Rescue workers located the last of the bodies late last night and by midnight had brought all the victims to the surface at the Clinchfield Coal Co.'s Compass No. 2 mine at Dola, 12 miles northwest of Clarksburg.

The sheet-shrouded bodies were taken first to a company-owned building for identification, then to funeral homes in the area. There were no announced plans for mass funerals.

Authorities did not learn immediately what ignited the explosion 400 feet under the surface Thursday night, but the ingredients were believed to be methane gas and coal dust, two old and deadly enemies of the miner.

Death apparently came quickly and mercifully. Most of the men apparently were felled by shock waves from the explosion and died instantly. The bodies showed signs of concussion.

Flash burns marked the bodies, although there was no evidence of fire after the explosion. The miners apparently had no time to set up barriers.

Rescue workers found the first three bodies clumped in the main conveyor line. Later yesterday, seven more bodies were found in a passageway where they had been operating a continuous mining machine.

FIDEL GREETED — Cuba's Prime Minister Fidel Castro is welcomed to the Soviet Union by Russian Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan, who led the official greeting to the Cuban leader in Murmansk at midnight. Castro said he would cherish forever the memory of the great reception he received.

Exec Earnings Told by Ford

DETROIT (AP) — Ford Motor Co.'s proxy statement indicated yesterday that Henry Ford II, the company's chairman and chief executive, was paid $50,000 last year in salary and bonus.

John Dykstra, who retires as president May 1, received $515,000 and President-elect Arjay R. Miller received $417,917.

Each of the 10 top officers serving as directors received at least $215,000.

In its report last week, General Motors Corp. said Frederic G. Donner, GM chairman, had received a record $791,475 in salary and bonuses in 1962 and that seven other company officials had received more than $500,000.

Ford's record 1926 sales of nearly $8.1 billion boosted bonus distribution from $34.7 million for 1961 to $41.9 million in 1962. The classes were dismissed as popularity of the Ford officials listed remained at about their 1961 levels.

As a group, the officers and directors received $2,888,193 in salaries and $4,655,000 in bonuses compared with 1961 compensation of $2,768,378 in salaries and $3,500,000 in bonuses.

Prowling Panther Caught in France

PARIS (AP)—A snarling black panther, just a few days removed from a Borneo jungle, was tracked down and captured today underneath a girls' school in a Paris suburb.

The panther escaped Thursday from a circus and had terrorized the entire community of St. Denis on the outskirts of Paris.

A worker was bitten on the arm and shoulder yesterday when he stumbled on the big jungle cat in a darkened apartment house alley.

After an intense search by police carrying machine guns and led by dogs, the panther was found this morning hiding beneath the one-story school.

Saturday classes were in progress as usual when the panther was located. The school girls were quickly evacuated, and the classes were dismissed as police, firemen and members of the Franki Circus swarmed over the school grounds.

At the gates of the school yard, police held back a crowd of about 2,000, while circus animal trainers hastily set up cages and nets to trap the panther.

One small cage was set up just outside a three-foot square hole in the foundation through which the panther entered. This was reinforced by a larger cage.

Firemen tried to flush the panther from under the school house by squirting in tear gas. This failed.

Firemen then tried to force it into the cage with water from a high pressure hose.

With sledge hammers, they knocked a hole in one end of the school's foundation to insert the nozzle. A large hole was also cut in the floor of the school and three animal trainers climbed down into the low, 3-foot high foundation area.

Working with only a heavy net for protection, the animal trainers — helped by the firemen squirting the hose — tried to chase the panther into the cage.

There was a black blue. The panther suddenly was in the cage.

It was snarling, and very wet, and very angry. The men outside the cage quickly lowered a rope that closed the door of the small cage.

A loud cheer went up from the onlookers and the panther joined in with a few angry snarls.

Raider Says He'll Keep Hitting Cuba

WASHINGTON (AP)—A freelance photographer who claims he took part in a bombing raid on Havana says he'll press the attack on Communist Cuba "at every opportunity."

More than eight hours after Alexander Rorke Jr. of New York gave newsmen his account of a low-level bombing run over a Havana oil refinery, the Cuban government echoed most of his story and said it holds the United States responsible.

But the State Department cast doubt on the whole matter. Press officer Lincoln White said: "We have no information on this at all, and we assume that if it had happened we would have heard about it. The first voice to shrill about this would have been radio Havana."

After Havana Radio broadcast the Cuban government's statement Friday night, White had no comment.

CUBA BLAMES U.S.

Havana Radio said "the Cuban government holds the United States government responsible for these pirate attacks and the consequences that may come from them."

It said a formal diplomatic protest was being prepared.

As outlined by the Cuban government, the raid took place at 10 p.m. Thursday night. Rorke told newsmen the plane started its bombing run at 8:55 p.m. and was over the refinery for 4 minutes and 40 seconds.

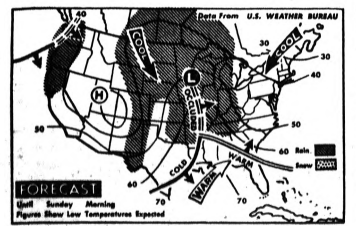

In most other details, the two versions meshed. Both Rorke and the government statement said a two-engine plane approached from the north, over the Nico Lopez refinery, dropped a 100-pound bomb and several napalm fire bombs, then flew northward.

Havana radio said none of the bombs exploded. Rorke said he thought he heard the 100-pounder hit a refinery tank but he was unable to see any damage. He said he was flying the raid, but that the film turned out poorly.

No Accord Reached for Laos Peace

KHANG KHAY, Laos (AP)—Premier Prince Souvanna Phouma failed today in another attempt to reach agreement with the pro-Communist Pathet Lao to end a crisis threatening his neutralist government.

Both sides decided, however, to meet again Tuesday in the Pathet Lao headquarters here, near the Plain de Jarres.

Souvanna met with his half-brother, Prince Souphanouvong, the Pathet Lao leader. The premier flew here from Vientiane, his capital.

"We've achieved no results," Souphanouvong told reporters after the meeting.

MAKES CHARGE

Then the Pathet Lao chief launched into a charge that about 500 right-wing troops were airlifted to Laos from the Plain de Jarres Friday. They said the planes apparently belonged to Air America, a private airline chartered to the U.S. aid mission in Laos.

The charge follows repeated Communist attempts to make it appear the Laotian crisis was touched off by the United States to destroy Laos' neutrality.

Pathet Lao forces have driven neutralist troops of Gen. Kong Le virtually off the Plain.

Even Souvanna apparently expected to make little progress on his trip here.

Souvanna was accompanied on his flight by British Ambassador Donald Hoon and Soviet Ambassador Yuri Kuznetsov and the Indian and Canadian members of the three-nation truce commission. The Polish member of the commission did not make the trip.

Britain and the Soviet Union are co-chairmen of the Geneva conference guaranteeing a neutral Laos. Souvanna brought responses of right-wing Gen. Phoumi Nosavan and Kong Le to demands laid down by Pathet Lao during talks here last Sunday.

Neither the communists nor the U.S. Embassy officials indicated how the discussions had proceeded or whether any concrete action toward the fighting in Laos was agreed upon.

Harriman Sees Gains on Laos

Gen. Harriman meeting said merely: "The President and the chairman of the Council of Ministers reaffirmed that both governments fully support the general agreement on the Laotian question about which there was an exchange of views between them at Vienna (in 1961) and a mutual understanding reached."

Neither the communists nor the U.S. Embassy officials indicated how the discussions had proceeded or whether any concrete action toward the fighting in Laos was agreed upon.

The U.S. Embassy has exercised the highest kind of secrecy since Harriman arrived Thursday night. Embassy officials refused even to mention the subject of Laos to reporters.

Harriman and U.S. Ambassador Foy D. Kohler went to see Khrushchev after talking for 2½ hours with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko.

Beyond the terse communiqué, not a word of what was discussed came from embassy or Soviet sources.

However, repeated charges in the Soviet press that the United States touched off the fighting in Laos gave some indication of subjects covered in the Harriman meetings.

Exam Slated in Kidnaping

Oxford Police Case Listed Wednesday

The justice court examination of Frederick F. Hannah on charges of kidnaping and armed robbery of three Oxford police personnel is scheduled Wednesday.

Hannah, 24, of 29 E. Burdick St., Oxford, surrendered to FBI agents and a sheriff's department detective yesterday morning.

The ex-convict stood mute at his arraignment before Oxford Justice George Meads. Hannah was returned to the Oakland County Jail after failing to post $25,000 bond.

Hannah kidnapped patrolmen Richard Lamphier, 21, and Wendell Hill, 24, and radio operator Mrs. Leonore Westphal, 46, the morning of April 6.

The two officers had brought Hannah to the police station after stopping him for a traffic violation. Hannah pulled a gun on them while he was being searched.

He took the three to a Detroit motel and bound them. Mrs. Westphal was able to free herself and then the others a few minutes after Hannah left.

Hannah escaped with about $140 taken from the two officers. He also took their service revolvers which he pawned in Miami, Fla.

Police said Hannah returned Wednesday night to his grandmother's home in Oxford and stayed there until he called police.

FBI agent Palmer Wee and Detective Charles Whitlock took Hannah into custody.

Marine Pilot Injured in Viet Nam Battle

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP)—A U.S. Marine Corps helicopter pilot was wounded in the leg by the craft he was flying was blown up by enemy fire.

The H34, loaded with Vietnamese troops, was hit just as it was touching down in an assault 340 miles north of Saigon.

The helicopter, apparently ridden by enemy machine gun fire, rolled over and exploded.

The wounded pilot and another American, who suffered a broken nose in the crash, were flown out.

For Service Center

Joint committees will recommend that contracts for reconstruction of utilities at the Oakland County Service Center be awarded to low bidders when the County Board of Supervisors meets Tuesday in Pontiac.

The meeting will be held at 9:30 a. m. in the auditorium of the old county office building, 1 Lafayette St., pending completion of the new supervisors' auditorium at the center sometime in June.

Low bid of $394,500 to improve and extend water and steam heat lines for new buildings at the center was submitted by Eames & Brown, Pontiac plumbers.

George A. Odien of Bloomfield Township was low bidder at $68,443 to add sanitary sewers at the center.

Five bids for the water and steam line construction were opened by the County Board of Auditors yesterday at a joint meeting of the supervisors' Ways and Means, Building and Grounds and Special Building committees.

Bidding was close. The second low bid was for $387,500.

DANCE MUSIC—There wasn't a twist on the program, but Pontiac elementary and secondary students heard everything else yesterday in the Pontiac Northern High auditorium. The Pontiac Symphony is shown performing at one of two afternoon youth concerts. The 60-member symphony, conducted by Felix Reicher, played a program of dances ranging from a hoedown by Copeland to Mozart minuetts. It was the third youth concert in nine years.

Raps Romney on Ford-Canton

Reuther Urges Veto of Strike-Benefits Bill

LANSDALE (AP)—Charges that Gov. George Romney had "broken faith" with organized labor were leveled today in the aftermath of legislative approval of the Ford-Canton strike-benefits bill.

A demand that the measure be vetoed when it comes to Romney's desk was made by United Auto Workers President Walter Reuther, who said the bill fails to carry out Romney's pledge to secure a bill providing "equity for employers and employees."

House adoption of Senate amendments to the bill, clearing the path of the governor's desk, was termed "splendid news" by Romney himself.

The Ford-Canton bill, ranked high on the list of legislation in his program, is designed to settle the four-year dispute over a 1959 Michigan Supreme Court ruling.

OK'D COMPENSATION

The court held that workers laid off as a result of strikes in other plants of their firms were eligible to draw state unemployment compensation benefits.

Employers have sought legislation to overturn the ruling, arguing that through tax payments to the jobless benefits fund, they were in effect forced to finance strikes against themselves.

Tours Set at Hospital

The Pontiac State Hospital open house tomorrow through Tuesday will be from 1 to 4 p.m. daily. It is being held in conjunction with Mental Health Week.

Hospital tours, color slides, and music by a patients' combo will highlight the occasion.

ings at the center was submitted by Eames & Brown, Pontiac plumbers.

George A. Odien of Bloomfield Township was low bidder at $68,443 to add sanitary sewers at the center.

Race Is Open for Posts on School Board

The lineup for the annual school election on June 10 is still wide open, but the race for two-year terms on the school board is certain to include at least one incumbent.

Monroe M. Osman, a downtown merchant and veteran of more than a dozen campaigns, will seek re-election. He is the only candidate to enter the race so far.

The Rev. J. Allen Parker, the other incumbent, said this week he has not decided whether he will seek a third term on the seven-member board.

Rev. Parker is minister of the Newman A.M.E. Church on Auburn Road.

Osman, who was first elected to the board in 1959, Parker finished with 1,588 votes, while Osman garnered 1,376.

Although no challengers have yet entered the school board contest, candidates have until May 11, to file nominating petitions.

State Senate OKs Appointment of 4

The State Senate yesterday unanimously confirmed the appointment of William B. Grabenstik, of Birmingham, and three other members of the State Board of Equalization.

Grabenstik, former director of the Oakland County Equalization Department, was one of four appointed to the board Thursday by Governor George Romney. He lives at 1887 York-shire Road.

The other appointees are Mrs. Beulah Fuller of Ann Arbor, Oliver Craft of Flint and Robert Tripp of Lapeer.

The Senate also confirmed Genevieve Blakeley of Detroit as a member of the Crippled Children's Commission.

Get Assurance on Park Bill

Udall Says Provisions Will Be Respected

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall gave assurance yesterday the National Park Service would respect provisions in a bill to create a 77,000-acre Sleeping Bear Dunes National Lakeshore area in Michigan aimed at protecting the rights of private property owners.

His views were contained in a statement submitted to a Senate Interior subcommittee considering a bill by Sens. Philip A. Hart and Pat McNamara, Michigan Democrats, to create the area on the Lake Michigan shore.

George Hartzog, associate director of the National Park Service, said the basic policy of the park service is not to extinguish all private holdings within such a recreational area.

Asked by Milward L. Simpson, R-Wyo., is this a new concept, Hartzog replied, "that is correct."

Hartzog explained this differs from park service policy to acquire private in-holdings in national parks. He said this does not hold true in recreational areas such as proposed for the Sleeping Bear Dunes.

Hart contends his bill would safeguard the rights of some 1,600 private property owners who are congregated around inland lakes.

Udall's statement said owners of improved property who wished to sell their properties could elect to retain use and occupancy privileges for noncommercial residential purposes for up to 25 years or for their lifetime.

Area Adman Talks to Business Execs

The consumer has "no maddening urge to fall in love with any product," Ernest A. Jones, president of MacManus, John & Adams, declared this week at a meeting of Minneapolis advertising executives.

Advertisers can no longer accept the premise that they can sell products by taking either the hard-sell or soft-sell line, the Bloomfield Hills adman said.

The public is much to complex for that, he said.

Jones urged that advertising be more creative and less categorized to meet the need of "an extremely complex world."

Republicans Propose Half-Way Measures

GOP's Ideas on Castro Not So Bold When Examined

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON—President Kennedy doesn't seem to know how to get Fidel Castro and the Soviet troops out of Cuba, without risking war with Russia. His Republican critics boldly challenge him to do more.

But, when their ideas are examined, they turn out to be a lot less bold than MARLOW they may sound. They have proposed either half-way measures or hedged when they tried to sound most vigorous.

At his news conference this week Kennedy asked his critics to say whether they wanted to go to war to get rid of Castro. If not, he asked them to say precisely what their solutions are.

Republican Sen. Barry Goldwater said he is not advocating an early invasion of the island.

DON'T EXPLAIN
He didn't explain how Cuban communism could be demolished without an invasion.

Nevertheless, he said: "If we are not willing to take risks we might as well give up. Republicans have not advocated invasion of Cuba. Neither have they shrunk because of fear from the possibility of this happening."

What does this mean? It might be considered an attitude toward the danger of war. But it is neither a solution nor an answer to Kennedy's question.

Kennedy himself was less than precise in taking a dig at former President Eisenhower for not getting rid of Castro while he was in the White House.

"Perhaps," Kennedy said, "it would have been easier to take action then than it is now. But those who were in positions of responsibility did not make that judgment."

Was he suggesting Eisenhower should have ordered an American invasion before the Russians moved into Cuba? If so, he had a similar chance but didn't take it.

Sen. Thurston Morton, R-Ky., pointed out that all Kennedy did was finish what Eisenhower was preparing to do: An invasion by Cuban exiles but not by Americans. The exiles' invasion, backed by Kennedy, fell on its face.

GOLDWATER PROPOSALS
Going back over Goldwater's proposals of the past, this is what he had advocated:

"Hit-and-run raids by the exiles (Kennedy stopped them on the grounds that they accomplished nothing and might get this country into conflict with the Russians. The Republicans' Senate leader, Everett Dirksen of Illinois, agreed).

A blockade (Kennedy and Dirksen said a full blockade would be an act of war).

And an invasion if necessary. But that's a little less bold than it looks. Goldwater only suggested an invasion by the exiles, with some American support, but no invasion by this country unless the other Latin-American countries took part.

Goldwater said: "I think we can accomplish it (an invasion) without having to commit our own troops."

Since the program started 15 years ago, more than 9,000 books will be available under the program, jointly sponsored by the State Library and State Conservation departments.

Libraries in Summer Parks

LANSING (AP) — The State Library reports that 47 state parks and recreation areas will have camp libraries this summer, the largest number to offer the service since the program started 15 years ago.

More than 9,000 books will be available under the program, jointly sponsored by the State Library and State Conservation departments.

Ike Supports His Policies on Castro

Release of Cubans Is 'Smelly' Justice

The release of three Cuban saboteurs and a convicted killer in New York has a distinct odor about it. They were freed "in the national interest" in a swap for 21 Americans held by NIKITA KHRUSHCHEV's flunky, frustrated baseball pitcher, FIDEL CASTRO.

How much trouble can Castro's boys cause in the U.S., as long as they hold American prisoners? What happens to our justice system when we trade off these scum to bail out people who missed the last boat or plane?

The danger signs in Cuba were flying for some time. Those Americans who stayed on knew what they were risking.

One of those freed was FRANCISCO MOLINA, a CASTRO supporter who killed a nine-year-old New York girl in a brawl with anti-CASTRO forces. He was sentenced to 20 years to life.

That sentence stood until the Kennedy administration felt it was in the national interest to ship him home as another payoff. Even if three of the released Americans were Central Intelligence Agency men, as it is rumored, the deal still smells.

U.S. Should Minimize British-Shared Secrets

It's no secret that Britain has been having trouble with its secrets for the past several years. Another instance which indicates the low level of security there occurred recently.

"Ban the Bomb" marchers were armed with pamphlets which included some classified defense plans for use in the event of nuclear attack.

This was just another in a series of lapses in security which includes the sale of Navy secrets and the disappearance of personnel with classified material behind the Iron Curtain.

It almost would seem that the best way to get something publicized in England would be to stamp it "secret."

Just how much the cold war enemy has learned by the defections and goofs of bumbling Britons may never be known. But there is a further sobering note.

As an ally of the English, we must share a certain amount of our own defensive and offensive plans. How much of our classified information leaks out when another hole is found in their security setup?

As much as possible, it would be wise to restrict our exchange of confidences to a minimum, and only with top people.

Post Office Department Protests Cut in Budget

Right on schedule comes the annual hassle between the Post Office Department and Congress.

As usual, the budget for the Department has been cut some $92 million and the Department claims that unless the cut is restored our mail service will be curtailed.

If the past is any criterion, the odds favor the Post Office Department getting most of the cut back. However, if it doesn't, Postmaster General J. Edward Day has announced that postal research and service will be affected.

An idea that is not new but which seems to merit a try would be for Congress to employ a reputable outside industrial management firm to do a complete study on all postal operations.

Perhaps the modernized methods suggested would be an initial cure for our everlasting postal problems.

Reports indicate that only partial advances in technology have been made by the Department.

For a country as a whole, we lag far behind industry with our postal service. If it were not for the fine spirit and service of most of our postal workers, the service might be worse than it is.

The various services that have been eliminated, plus the relatively long time it takes in some instances for mail delivery, don't seem to add up when we consider that most mail charges have increased recently.

Lie detectors have been in the news recently. A polygraph machine may be able to detect a few lies, but by far the most efficient lie detector was made many centuries ago — while Adam was in a "deep sleep."

Even yet, now and then a whole day passes in which there doesn't occur anywhere in the wide world a revolution, a riot, an angry march on something or somebody, or a walk-in, stand-in, sit-in or lie-in protest demonstration.

Record Set by the Kauls as Service With GM Calls

By HOWARD HELDENBRAND
Retirement came earlier in the month to Earl F. Kaul.

of 2275 Odyke Road, after 41 years with GM's Fisher Body Division, the longest ever run up at the local plant.

On retirement day he was surprised by the appearance of two sons, B. F. Vernell and Joseph from other GM plants, the three representing 86 years of employment.

Our friend's service span goes back to the Sealed Air Co., which was taken over in 1922 by Fisher Body as its Pontiac unit.

For the period 1942-43, he saw service at the Cleveland Fisher plant, where the B29 bomber was in wartime production.

The MAT's congratulations on this noteworthy record of employment, and all best wishes for many enjoyable and rewarding years of leisure.

My friend Henry A. Balser writes that the recent hailstorm wreaked a most selective bit of damage on a small neon "HOTEL" sign of the Roosevelt Hotel, where he is a resident, knocking the H E L out of it, and leaving O & T undamaged.

The month of May has been proclaimed Senior Adult Month by Gov. George Romney.

In the proclamation is this arresting quote: "Michigan with all her human, spiritual and material resources can become a superior state for senior adult living if we work together now and plan for the future."

This sounds pretty good to the MAT. For once, he's in on the ground floor — in this case, on two counts.

The POWER of FAITH

By WOODY ISHMAEL

High in the Swiss Alps there is a statue of St. Bernard de Menthon pointing the way to his Hospice. The inscription reads, "You who climb the Alps in safety under my guidance, continue with me to the House of Heaven."

St. Bernard was born in 923. While a student in Paris, he realized that God had called him for the priesthood. Not long after his ordination he became the Archdeacon of Aosta, Italy, at the foot of the great pass which would later bear his name.

There he saw the hazards that beset travelers through the pass; not only avalanches but robbers who preyed on them. With a little band of helpers he conquered the robbers, then built the Hospice as a life saving refuge for the travelers. Today, monks of the great St. Bernard Hospice continue to sustain the power of faith its founder had a thousand years ago.

Day of All Faiths:

Mohammedans Make Pilgrimage

BY DR. HOWARD V. HARPER

In the month of May the holy city of Mecca begins to swarm with pilgrims, arriving from all parts of the world. They come in obedience to the requirement that every Moslem make a pilgrimage once in his lifetime; they come to gain merit and acquire the title "Hadj," which is a mark of distinction; and they come simply out of devotion.

Now in the days of air travel, the journey to the city of Mohammed's birth is much faster, easier, and cheaper than it was in former times. But it can still use up a whole year's income for many a pilgrim. And for those who still choose to go by slower means, it can take months of their time.

For there are Moslems on every continent, 200 million of them, and for many the distance is great and the traveling hard. In earlier times the pilgrimage was so hazardous that a rule was soon established forbidding pregnant women and nursing mothers from attempting it.

A pilgrimage to Mecca is an excellent thing at any time, but it is best at this special time of year, which is the holiest of all seasons. It was about this time of year (June 6, 630, in the western calendar, but calculated differently in the Moslem calendar) that Mohammed the Prophet ascended to heaven, from a rock in which his footprints are still clearly to be seen. (No idea of resurrection is involved in the Prophet's ascension.)

This was the same rock on which Abraham almost sacrificed his son Isaac (Genesis, chapter 22), and the rock is in Jerusalem, at the site where Solomon's Temple once stood; but it is not in Jerusalem that this pilgrimage is headed.

THE PROCEDURE

The pilgrims arrive at a town called Jeddah, 43 miles from Mecca, and there they change from their usual clothes to a seamless white garment called an ahrum. Wearing the ahrum they proceed to Mecca, to the great mosque there, which is the heart of all Islam. And at the heart of the mosque is the Kaaba, the holiest of shrines. It is toward the Kaaba that the Moslem faces when, anywhere in the world, he says his prayers.

The Kaaba, for all its holiness, is not a greatly awesome thing to see. It is a small, cube-shaped building, draped in gold-embroidered black cloth—and that is all.

Built into a corner of the Kaaba is another stone, more sacred than the one at Jerusalem. It was given to Abraham by the Archangel Gabriel. In the early morning hours the pilgrim touches the holy stone, walks around the Kaaba seven times and then goes out to spend the entire day, dawn to sunset, standing at prayer in the blazing sun.

Sometime during his visit to Mecca he keeps another long prayer vigil, but this one is easier for it is from sunset to dawn.

The pilgrim finishes with a sacrifice, a sheep or a goat, and turns back home. Now he is a Hadj, entitled to the respect of every Moslem.

ISLAM-JUDAISM-CHRISTIANITY

The religion of the Mohammedan is called Islam, which means submission—that is, submission to the will of God.

The name of Abraham appears frequently in Islam. So also do other names familiar to Christians and Jews. For the Prophet accepted much from Judaism and even a little from Christianity. Adam, Noah, Abraham, and Moses are all recognized as prophets of the one true God, and Jesus is ranked next to Mohammed himself.

If the pilgrim should die on his way home from Mecca, he has no worries. In fact, salvation is assured to anyone who dies at any stage of a pilgrimage — in Mecca, or on the journey to or from Mecca.

Washington Notebook:

Rumors Fly as News Mill Grinds

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Presidential press secretary Pierre Salinger really stirred newsmen's curiosity when he announced one morning that he would have a statement of major importance at 5:30 p.m. that day.

In both Washington and Palm Beach, where President Kennedy was vacationing at the time, the rumors flew.

Then, at the Florida end, a veteran correspondent sidled up to a group of buzzing reporters and, with a solemn, all-knowing air, said flatly:

"He's meeting Khrushchev." That seemed to be that—until 5:30 p.m., when Salinger announced at the White House that Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy was expecting another baby.

A Washington girl reporter impersonating Caroline Kennedy at the Women's Press Club annual stunt night declared that her daddy should have been a plumber. The punch line was:

"Then he'd know what to do about all those leaks that bother him so much."

At the same function, where their bosses and other members of the American Society of Newspaper Editors were guests of honor, two newspaper gals were costumed in men's clothes to represent Secretary of State Dean Rusk and U.N. Ambassador Adlai Stevenson. They sang a parody on "Bill Bailey Won't You Please Come Home?" casting presidential assistant McGeorge Bundy in the title role.

Won't you go home McBundy, Won't you go home? We've tried the whole year long—Keeping Macmillan happy, Soothing De Gaulle, But somehow things went wrong. Should you go back to Harvard And leave us here, To meet these crises on our own, There'd be a lot less talk, There'd be a lot less squawk.

Resident Says 'No Excuse' for City Not Being Clean

With all the services the City of Pontiac renders to us to keep this city neat and clean there is no excuse for a trashy looking place. Why can't everyone keep the city beautiful with regular clean-ups, some nice grass and flowers?

I even hope we can control the pigeons which are a dirty nuisance all around the city.

'Test-Ban Talks Serious Matter'

I was disturbed by both the position and the content of the article "American, British Envoys Hope to Revive Test Talks" in the April 23 edition of 'The Press.

The assured continuation of all forms of life on this planet for any length of time, in the long run, depends upon the success of disarmament negotiations.

With a test-ban agreement of such vital importance, it is disheartening to hear President Kennedy say the time is not ripe for negotiations. It soon becomes evident that

Fulbright charged that O'Donnell, who represented various Philippine interests, violated the Foreign Agents Registration Law by failing to disclose the source of funds he contributed to more than 20 members of Congress in 1950.

Fulbright said he will seek to outlaw such campaign contributions originating from foreign sources.

Fulbright was supporting an amendment to a pending appropriations bill which would overhauled the Philippine War Claims Act.

Air Force Sec. Eugene M. Zuckert recently received a letter and questionnaire from the Naval Reserve addressed to former Navy Lieutenant (j.g.) Zuckert. The questionnaire asked Zuckert to tell where he now lived, asked what he had done to update his qualifications for naval command, queried what he was now doing.

Zuckert sent his reply directly back to Navy Secretary Fred Roth, listing his present job as Secretary of the Air Force and his previous experience on the Atomic Energy Commission. In a special note he politely asked Roth if the Navy was so short of men that they needed him.

Thanks Due All Hosts for Visit

By The Emily Post Institute

Q: Recently my brother, who works in another state, became engaged. He and his fiancée planned to visit us for a week. It so happened that the only time they could come was the same time my parents had planned their vacation.

My brother and his fiancée did not want them to change their plans. My parents entertained them for two days before leaving on vacation. I took over the role of hostess after they had gone.

I prepared the meals for my brother and his fiancée and I also canceled several engagements of my own in order to be with them. When my brother's fiancée returned home, she sent my mother a bread-and-butter letter, and not one word to me.

I believe I should have received a note of thanks and am quite put out because I didn't. Am I wrong to expect this simple courtesy?

A: Her bread-and-butter letter to your mother was correct and it was not necessary for her to have written a separate thank-you note to you. I do agree, however, that her omission of any thanks to you in her note was not very gracious.

Q: Would it be proper and in good taste to give a shower for a friend of mine who has been secretly married for six months and has just revealed the news?

A: It would neither be improper nor in bad taste to give a shower for your friend if you wish to do so.

Seeds of Trouble Planted in Good Neighbor Policy

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: We recently announced that our daughter's wedding date is June 22. A neighbor called and asked me what time our wedding was scheduled for. I told her we had planned it for 11 a.m.

Then she told me HER daughter was getting married at 4 p.m. the same day, and would we let her use our flowers?

I didn't know whether to say yes, no or what, so, like a fool, I said yes.

My husband told me I ought to have my head examined. Now he wants me to call her up and tell her if she wants to use our flowers she should pay half the florist bill. Would you?

SPOKE TOO SOON

DEAR SPOKE: The time to have suggested that your neighbor pay half the florist bill was, when she asked to use your flowers. Having already said yes, it would be extremely awkward to add any ifs, ands or buts.

DEAR ABBY: We live in Hawaii. Last Christmas a friend from the mainland sent

The apples were in transit for almost four weeks and arrived rotten. Apparently they had been wrapped for protection against freezing, but not against heat. We wrote and thanked our friends for the "delicious" apples.

Now we are wondering if maybe we shouldn't have written them the truth. What if they send apples again next year?

HILLO FANS
DEAR FANS: By all means write and tell your friends the truth. You would be doing them a service. Any reputable company, whose business it is to ship fruit, is delighted—if not eager—to replace spoiled merchandise.
