'Russians Seek to Win Cold War, Not End It'

From Our News Wires

WASHINGTON — Secretary of State Dulles said today Soviet leaders are trying to delude the world into believing they want to end the cold war while actually seeking advantage to win it.

Nevertheless, he told a news conference, the United States feels this spring is about the right time for a high level East-West conference on Germany and European security since it is sometimes possible to reach peace-promoting agreements with the Soviets through tough bargaining.

Dulles said the United States would be delighted to get an effective reunification of Germany by any means fair to all sides. But he ruled out the Soviet proposal for a confederation of West Germany and Communist East Germany because, he said, that is designed to secure the permanent partition of the German nation.

Concerning a big four foreign ministers meeting, he said, there is always a possibility of persuading the Communists into making agreements which do not give undue advantages or disadvantages to either side.

Dulles cited the Korean armistice, the Austrian peace treaty and last year's Soviet-American agreement on cultural exchanges as evidences of worthwhile agreements that have been reached between the East and West.

Dulles said the worth of a big four foreign ministers meeting would depend on whether the Russians are willing to discuss German and European problems on a broad basis or make an effort, as they have in the past, to restrict the talks to items on which they alone are interested.

On other points, Dulles:

1. Expressed concern that Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan may have formed a false impression on his trip here that the American people are not really behind their government in carrying on strong policies toward Russia. People mostly talked generalities to Mikoyan, Dulles said, while the government has their support when it is dealing with Russia on specific, difficult issues.

2. Reacted skeptically to the statement by Soviet Premier Khrushchev yesterday that as a result of Mikoyan's visit here Khrushchev sees signs of a "thaw" in the cold war. Dulles said Khrushchev lives in the north country where the icy blasts come from, and if they're going to become balmy now Dulles will be delighted.

3. Confirmed reports of disagreement between th United States and some of the Baghdad Pact powers over the extent of defense commitments the United States would make in proposed new security agreements with Pakistan, Iran and Turkey. Dulles said he thought the differences would be ironed out but that under existing legislative authority the Eisenhower administration cannot possibly make agreements with Pakistan and Iran that would go beyond concern with Communist aggression.

4. Said the United States plans to withdraw its military advisory mission in Cuba since the new revolutionary government has criticized its presence there.

5. Denied knowledge of any recommendation from the Atomic Energy Commission that underground explosions be excluded from any international agreement banning nuclear weapons tests. Dulles said that while there may be disagreements within the government on details of any policy, President Eisenhower has made the decision in favor of trying to prohibit tests and the United States is standing on this decision.

Nikita Outlines Plan for Russia

Says Red Economics Can Win World, War Not Inevitable

From Our News Wires

MOSCOW — A buoyant Nikita Khrushchev proclaimed a historic new Communist doctrine today: Red economic strength is enough to win the world and neither hot nor cold war is inevitable any longer.

This was the powerful, underlying message of Khrushchev's keynote speech to the opening of the 21st Communist Party congress in which he launched a staggering seven-year plan to beat the capitalists.

"With each passing year the U.S.S.R. is growing stronger," Khrushchev proclaimed before the Communist world's most powerful assembly.

"The domestic and international position of the Soviet Union has never been as stable. . .(we are) a mighty bulwark of peace. There is every reason to state that the Socialist countries stand at the head of all progress."

Khrushchev gave the cheering delegates and assembled leaders of world communism this assignment for the seven years ahead:

"The historic task of catching up and surpassing the leading capitalistic countries in per capita output must be carried out. . . make the most of the time factor in Socialism's peaceful economic competition with Capitalism. . ."

Khrushchev's State of the Soviet Union message was all encompassing, and in it he spoke belligerently but without a hint of war. He put the accent on "peaceful competition," and in his emphasis on a rising standard of living seemed to indicate a considerable de-emphasis of military spending.

"The invincible camp of Socialism has everything necessary to bridle the forces of aggression," he said.

Khrushchev announced that the Soviet Union has started assembly line production of intercontinental ballistic missiles.

In a review of Soviet achievements in science, including jet aviation and rocketry, Khrushchev declared:

"The Soviet Union has started the serial production of intercontinental ballistic missiles."

More than 1,500 delegates from throughout the Soviet Union and Communist parties in 70 other countries applauded vigorously.

In the political field he called for "further consolidation of the Soviet Socialist system, the unity and solidarity of the Soviet people, development of Soviet democ-

New Car Sales Still Going Up

Average of 17,000 Sold Daily in Period From Jan. 11-20

DETROIT (AP)—Dealers sold 136,000 new cars in the second 10 days of 1959, Ward's automotive reports said yesterday.

The statistical agency said Jan. 11-20 sales were 9.6 per cent greater than in the first 10 days of January.

Ward's said the Jan. 11-20 sales were 17.2 per cent above the same period last year.

It said an average of 17,000 autos were sold each day during the period compared with 15,500 during the first 10 days.

The agency said 124,000 new cars were sold during the first period.

"The rise is in sharp contrast to last year at this time when auto buying declined at mid-month," Ward's said. "More than one million of the 1959 cars now are on the roads, adding impetus to the industry's drive for increased sales."

$140 Million Tax Hike Asked by Williams

LANSING (AP)—Gov. Williams today proposed 140 million dollars in new taxes to back up a 424 million general purpose spending plan in 1959-60 and to whittle the state's deficit.

The basic budget, he told the legislature, amounts to an increase of about 45 million dollars over the spending stride that will be hit this fiscal year after pressing school and welfare needs are met.

In his budget message, Williams:

1. Made no specific tax recommendations. These will be aired on a statewide telecast Friday, and spelled out in still greater detail to lawmakers next week.

2. Urged a boost in revenues to nearly 448 million dollars, with 24 millions tagged for debt reduction—the first of five annual installments of about this size.

3. Called for a long range, 146 million dollar building program at colleges and other institutions, and creation of state building authority to handle it through bond issue financing.

4. Proposed allotment of $38,700,000 or 87 per cent of the suggested operational spending increase, for education from kindergarten on up.

He pegged the state's general fund debt at $110,600,000 as of next June 30, end of the fiscal year, and declared:

"If this budget appears to be large, let us remember that we are paying not only tomorrow's bills, but the bills we have accumulated through yesterday's neglect."

The governor said two years of "severe austerity" by the legislature in setting expenditure policy represented "disregard of the facts of our public life" and only stored up trouble.

An "explosive population increase" contributed to the situation and so did the economic recession which skyrocketed welfare costs and cut deeply into revenues, he said.

Williams went on:

"The responsibilities of a sovereign and civilized state cannot

'The Future' Looks Rosy to Williams

LANSING (UPI)—Michigan's economic future for the coming several months is brighter, Gov. G. Mennen Williams cautiously ventured today in placing his budget recommendations before the legislature.

There is no reason not to expect the present upturn to extend into substantial recovery in the near future," he said, "with even a better general economy expected before the close of the next fiscal year."

Williams cited an expected full recovery in the nation's economy in 1960, "as measured by such basic economic indicators as gross national product, personal income and personal consumption expenditures."

He said revenue estimates for the state during the 1959-60 fiscal year, reflect "favorable estimates of recovery in the Michigan economy" but he warned that the recession caused reductions in the estimates for this fiscal year.

"In general, the recession has reduced receipts from most sources of the general fund," he said, "but the present upturn is expected to increase the final amount of revenue received to a figure above what would result if there were no improvement in the current rate of collections."

An increase of about six per cent or $17,000,000 is expected for the 1959-60 fiscal year, he said.

"If, as most of our economists think, we experience a general business recovery, we should have a fairly good revenue outlook," Williams told the lawmakers.

He predicted personal income would be up and retail sales, particularly consumer durable goods, would increase and provide more state revenue.

However, he cautioned, "It is possible to have a sizable business recovery and still be a long way from full employment."

Eastman Drafts Ouster Charges Against Straley

Says He Has Approval of City Manager to File Formal Complaint

Charges of incompetency and lack of leadership against Police Chief Herbert W. Straley are being drawn up today by Public Safety Director George D. Eastman.

"I now have the city manager's permission to prefer charges," Eastman said yesterday after a conference in City Manager Walter K. Willman's office.

Eastman met Willman after the city manager talked to Straley and asked the police chief if he had reached a decision on his future plans.

Willman warned Straley his failure to resign would result in ouster charges being filed before the Civil Service Commission.

In his conference with Straley, Willman said he offered no advice to Straley on whether the chief should resign.

"It's the chief's decision," Willman said.

"I don't feel I have any decision to make," Straley countered.

"I'll never resign," he declared yesterday, "and I'll fight any charges against me. I defy the reputation of Eastman to be matched against mine any day."

HUDDLE ON LEGALITIES

Eastman closeted himself with City Attorney William A. Ewart late in the day to discuss the legal issues involved in filing charges.

The safety director said he'd prefer charges just as soon as they were prepared, but was unsure of when that would be.

He also was unsure of what period the charges would cover. The Civil Service Act calls for charges being filed within 90 days of alleged offenses.

Since his arrival here Oct. 7, Eastman has twice recommended

Detroit Hospital Cuts Welfare Case Load

DETROIT (AP)—Children's Hospital in Detroit says it must drastically curtail treatment of welfare patients because of "critical financial problems."

Mrs. Gerald B. Slattery, president of the hospital board of trustees, made the report in letters to state, county and city officials.

She said the hospital was unable to absorb the loss for care given state aid patients in 1958 caused by the shortage of state funds.

The hospital said it has been forced to cut down immediately on the number of bed patients admitted under the Afflicted Children's Act.

Faithful Swan Reunited With Mate at Last

DETROIT (AP)—A lonely vigil for his feathery girl friend has ended happily for a faithful male swan.

The female, cured after she was frozen to the ice a month ago in the Detroit River, was reunited with her swan swain yesterday.

The two swans had been part of a flock which landed to rest on the way south for the winter. The female became lodged in the ice when it was time to resume the journey.

Conservation officers rescued the female and brought her ashore where they nursed her back to health. The rest of the flock — except the faithful male — continued south.

Yesterday, hale and hearty, the female was released. Together they headed downstream slowly into Lake Erie.

Teamster Owns Trucking Firm

Senate Told McMasters Made $19,711 From Sideline Hauling Jobs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate investigators were told today the business agent of Teamsters Union President James R. Hoffa's own local drummed up $19,711 in trucking business as a sideline.

The agent, Rollan McMasters of Detroit Local 299, refused, on grounds of possible self-incrimination to answer questions.

The story of McMasters' sideline was told by William Rumminger of 1990 Humphrey Ave., Birmingham, Mich., a salesman for the Douglas Trucking Lines in Detroit.

In response to questions by committee counsel Robert F. Kennedy, Rumminger said he had, since 1953, operated a sales firm called the Aero Cartage Co. to line up business for trucking firms on a commission basis.

"Business was bad," Rumminger said, until McMasters approached him.

He said he agreed to split commissions 50-50 with McMasters and suddenly his account prospered with the McLouth Steel Corp. in Detroit.

Rumminger said he did not pay commissions to McMasters directly, but to a concern called the M & G Cartage Co. from 1955-57, he said, these commissions totaled $19,711.07.

"Who was in the company I did not know," he said.

Kennedy said he has a statement from Wayne County officials indicating that M & G Cartage Co. is owned and controlled by McMasters.

Rumminger's testimony kicked off another year of committee inquiries into alleged improper practices in the labor-management relations field.

The new hearings are expected again to go into operations of teamster boss Hoffa who has been denounced by the committee for connections with gangsters and for his handling of the big union's affairs.

Will Ask State to Resume Aid, Unfreeze Funds

Payless Paydays Loom for Both Universities, Officials Say

EAST LANSING (AP) — Banks today cut off further credit to Michigan State University and the University of Michigan.

The announcement came on the same day that Gov. Williams proposed 140 million dollars in new taxes to support a 424 million dollar general purpose spending plan in 1959-60 and to whittle the state's deficit.

"It now appears that we can't borrow any more and will have to ask the governor and state treasurer to rescind the 'freeze' on payments to the state universities," said Philip J. May, MSU comptroller.

"The banks now have informed the university that no further credit can be extended," confirmed W. K. Pierpont, University of Michigan vice president.

Pierpont said an attempt is being made to meet with legislative leaders and the governor "to prevent any interruption in payrolls."

He said that by March 5, the University of Michigan will have expended all its funds for general operations and will be owed 10 million dollars by the state.

It will have spent four million dollars borrowed from the banks, four millions in student fees collected during the spring semester and will have withheld about one million dollars in payments to creditors, he said.

Michigan State University currently is owed $6,600,000 by the state and also has been borrowing from banks to meet current obligations.

May said MSU could meet its payrolls through the first three weeks of February but also will need substantial financial relief to cover a large faculty payroll due the last of February.

Concerning the veterans trust fund bonds which have been proposed as possible collateral for future loans to the universities, May said the banks have indicated that such loans would not be possible without an act of legislature supported by an attorney general's opinion.

County Spends $251,000 Since November

Snow Stealing Road Building Funds

Should the snow continue to fall in record amounts as it has so far this winter, maintenance and construction on local and primary roads in Oakland County might have to be skipped this year, declared Sol D. Lomerson, member of the Road Commission.

Lomerson said today that the Commission has already spent $251,000 since Nov. 1 for the removal of snow and ice from the 2,700 miles of roads the Commission has to clear.

"This is more than we spent all of last season, and about three times as much as we spent up to this time last season," Lomerson said.

Residents won't have to worry about the Commission running out of money for road clearance the rest of this winter, Lomerson said, but secondary roads will go untouched this summer if the Commission has to continue to dip into funds originally set aside for this purpose, Lomerson said.

This is because the commission relies on the county's share of state receipts from gas and weight taxes to pay for maintenance and construction of local and primary roads, which includes snow removal.

"We have already clipped some of this year's program for maintenance of local roads," said Lomerson, "and possibly could cut into construction on primary roads."

He said Oakland County expects $3,975,000 as its share of state receipts from gas and weight taxes. For the 12 months this must be spread $775,000 for 1,800 miles of local roads and $3,200,000 for 700 miles of primary roads.

Lomerson estimated that for an average winter the Commission spends $200,000 for clearing roads. Costs include wages for a crew of about 200 men and operational costs of a fleet of nearly 120 trucks.

Work on state trunklines by the Commission won't feel the pinch of lessening funds as this work is done under contract for which the county is reimbursed by the state, the official said.

Warmer Weather Due Tomorrow

A little warmer weather is on the way, according to the U.S. Weather Bureau. Tonight's low will be a cool 12 but tomorrow's high will climb to near 28 degrees.

Today's westerly winds at 6-14 miles an hour will become light southwesterly tonight. The Bureau forecasts scattered snow flurries and cold again for Thursday.

In downtown Pontiac the lowest temperature preceding 8 a.m. was 4 degrees above zero. At 2 p.m. the reading was 24.

Up School Spending, Williams Asks

Wants 18 Million More for Schools

State System Would Get Seven of Every Eight Dollars Increase

LANSING (AP)—Michigan's mushrooming public school system from kindergarten through college would collect roughly seven of every eight dollars in spending increases proposed by Gov. Williams in his $709-60 budget.

Williams, taking note of "the enormously increasing problems of public education," recommended:

1. A 31 per cent boost — $18,100,000 — in the operating budget for higher education, raising it to $106,100,000.

2. A liberalized formula for figuring state aid to local school districts. It carries a 78 per cent increase — $20,500,000 — in the allocation from the state's general fund, and an overall boost of 29 million dollars.

Of the $44,400,000 general fund increase the Governor proposed beyond the current $379,500,000 spending program, 87 per cent would go to schools.

In keeping with their size, the University of Michigan and Michigan State University grabbed the biggest share of the higher education budget. Williams recommended $34,275,000 for the University of Michigan as compared with 30 million allocated for the current fiscal year. Michigan State's share would jump from $25,315,000 to $28,384,000.

Under a legislative economy move, both schools took one-million dollar cuts last year from their allocations the year before.

This year's recommendations include $550,000 to operate the U. of M.'s new branch at Dearborn and an identical amount for Michigan State's new branch in Oakland County. MSU's share also includes about five million dollars for its cooperative extension service and agricultural experiment station.

With Wayne State University ready to become a full-fledged state institution after a three-year transition from municipal to state control, Williams proposed to boost its appropriation from $9,719,000 to $15,425,000.

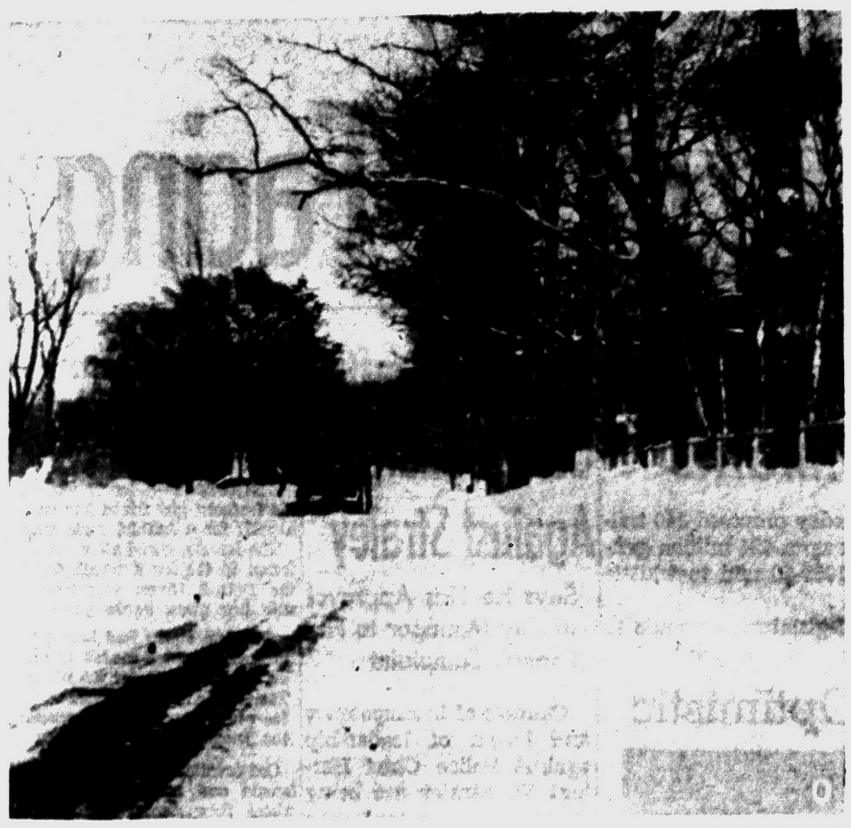

School fiscal experts estimate the state would shell out about 330 million dollars to local school districts next year from all sources under the governor's plan. That's about 29 million above the current figure.

Nearly seven million of the increase would come from their two-thirds share of an expected 10-million dollar gain in state sales tax income. Legislative appropriations would furnish most of the rest.

Williams proposed to raise the state school aid formula from $190 to $210 per pupil.

In actuality, the new formula would lift the net average contribution from $151 to $161 per pupil, requiring the legislature to raise its supplementary general fund allocation from an expected $26,600,000 this year to $46,700,000 next year.

Detroit Asks Los Angeles for Facts

DETROIT (AP)—The auto industry has asked Los Angeles for more information on area auto exhaust emission to speed final development of devices aimed at controlling air pollution.

Charles M. Heinen, chairman of the Automobile Manufacturers Assn. Vehicle Combustion Committee, made the request yesterday in a letter to Warren M. Dorn. Dorn is chairman of the air pollution committee of the Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors.

Heinen asked for the latest county estimate of the daily emission of hydrocarbons from auto exhausts and the method of making the estimate.

He also asked the minimum necessary reduction of hydrocarbons a day needed to bring the total to an acceptable level for pollution control purposes and whether the same measurement methods would be used to test the effectiveness of an exhaust control device or procedure.

Five methods of reducing exhaust emissions were described here Jan. 16 at a meeting of the Society of Automotive Engineers. One of them was a catalyst unit which would replace the car muffler.

JOHN C. JAMIESON

Jamieson Served 25 Years in Many Sales Capacities Since 1934

John C. Jamieson, executive assistant to the general manager in charge of dealer relations for Pontiac Motor, will retire Feb. 1, under the provisions of the General Motors retirement plan after serving the division for 25 years, it was announced by S. E. Knudsen, general manager.

Jamieson's retirement ends a colorful career which included duty in almost every phase of the automotive sales field. His affiliation with Pontiac in 1934 was preceded by nine years of retail dealer sales experience in Arizona and two years with the Chevrolet field sales organization.

From 1934 to 1944 Jamieson held various positions of responsibility in Pontiac's Denver, Chicago, and Dallas sales zones. He was named zone manager in Dallas in 1945, and in 1949 was promoted to the post of regional manager with headquarters in Kansas City.

Jamieson moved to Chicago in 1950 to head the Midwest Region before assuming management of the Pacific Region in 1952 at San Francisco.

In 1953, he was appointed assistant general sales manager in charge of Pontiac sales in the Western half of the United States with headquarters in Pontiac. Jamieson assumed his current executive duties in May, 1956.

A native of Edinburg, N.D., Jamieson studied at North Dakota State College in Fargo. He and his wife, the former Bessie Wilson of Minot, N.D., make their home at 1497 Pilgrim, Birmingham.

The Day in Birmingham

City Tightens Restrictions on Dogs Running Loose

BIRMINGHAM — A sharp increase in complaints of dogs running at large in the city today brought a warning to owners from Police Chief Ralph W. Moxley.

Moxley said the city ordinance clearly states that dogs must be "under reasonable control" at all times.

Police and the dog warden have been ordered to adopt a get-tough policy on stray animals, officials said.

Dogs taken to the pound cannot be released until owners show proof that the animals have had rabies shots and are licensed. First and second offenses within a one-year period result in violation tickets to the owners. A third offense automatically calls for an appearance in court.

Deadline for 1959 dog licenses is Mar. 1, after which fees double.

The absence of three commissioners from the regular meeting cut several items of business from last night's agenda.

Four efficiency roll assessments needing five of seven votes were held over, as was the discussion of the West Maple road widening from Westchester way to Cranbrook road.

John Martz was reappointed to the South Oakland Hospital Authority where he has represented the city of Birmingham for several years.

Police are charging Charles Boggs, 20, of 727 Purdy St., with grand larceny in the theft of a diamond ring valued at $1,300.

Officers said the ring was stolen from a strongbox in the room of John Mathrath, also a roomer at the same address.

Boggs confessed the theft and showed where he hid the ring in the restaurant where he worked, police reported. The theft occurred sometime during the past week, though the ring was missed only yesterday by Mathrath.

Deadline Looms for Sports Queen Contest in City

Deadline for entries in the Winter Sports Queen contest is 5 p. m. tomorrow, said Leonard Buzz, recreation supervisor of the Parks and Recreation Department.

The queen will reign over the Pontiac Winter Ice Carnival this weekend.

Girls who are single, 18 years of age or older and live in Oakland County are eligible for the contest, Buzz said. The queen will be selected on the basis of appearance, poise, personality, knowledge of current events and interest in winter sports.

Contestants may be professional models or athletes, Buzz said, and entrants will win points if they have an interest in skiing or ice skating.

The winner will receive a trophy, a complete ski outfit and an all-expense-paid trip to Grayling to represent the city in the Grayling Winter Sports Queen Contest.

The winner of that contest will be eligible to appear in the Miss Michigan pageant.

Entry forms are still available at the department's City Hall offices or at Northside Field, Edison and Montcalm Streets, where the carnival will be staged.

City's Lack of Facilities Causing River Pollution

The city of Pontiac last year continued to taint the Clinton River with a pollution rate violating state standards.

The overall efficiency at the sewage treatment plant here was only 83 per cent, 12 points below the minimum of the Water Resources Commission, John Hennessey, plant superintendent, reported.

And yet, since the efficiency rate showed an improvement, state officials are pleased with the report, according to City Manager Walter K. Willman.

"It is manifest that Pontiac needs new sewage treatment facilities," Willman said. "The state knows this as well as the city administration.

"However, the state has given no indication it will order the city to construct more facilities.

"Since voters turned down the sewage treatment plant bond issue last fall, at the moment there is no plan to increase the plant's capacity except on orders from the state."

KEEPING TABS

Willman said the state is continuing to sample the Clinton, keeping tabs on whether the pollution rate rises or falls.

The city itself took more than 125,000 samples last year at the request of the state, Hennessey said.

"Due to the limited capacity of the existing facilities, 72,200,000 gallons of waste were bypassed straight into the Clinton with either partial or no treatment," he reported.

The total flow to the plant last year was 4,969,000,000 gallons, Hennessey reported. Seventy-eight tons of chlorine were used for disinfection and 1,400 tons of solids removed.

Digested sludge produced 26,900,000 cubic feet of sludge gas to operate heat and power generators at the plant.

The department figured that it cost $39.79 to handle every 1,000,000 gallons of flow received at the plant. This figure was broken down to $2.34 per person in Pontiac.

Budget of $424 Millions Called for by Governor

be ignored, and when the attempt is made to ignore them they pile up into an inescapable backlog which must then be met at one time.

"That is where we stand today."

Interestingly, the tax increase figure corresponded closely with the yield of the tax package recommended Dec. 3 by citizen advisers to a special legislative tax study committee.

But the governor cautioned against concluding that he was endorsing or otherwise accepting the citizens committee's specific tax recommendations.

Under its austerity policies, the legislature two years ago imposed a moratorium on new capital improvements and whacked Williams' proposed 412 million dollar budget to 341 millions.

Last spring it voted only 333 million dollars for 1958-59.

But the chickens have come home to roost, the governor said, and the current operating expenditure lid must be lifted to $379,500,000—by 46 millions.

Of this, $26,200,000 will have to be channeled from the general fund into this year's school aid kitty and another 19 millions in supplementation will have to be voted, 14 millions of it for poor relief.

Another $8,600,000 was provided to meet the state employes salary increase ordered by the State Civil Service Commission in December.

Third in size behind the proposed higher allotment for education and the pay raise was the governor's recommendation for a four million dollar boost in mental health spending.

This item included $1,160,000 for training, research, community clinics and "special services vital to prevention and early treatment." The rest was pretty well diffused throughout the department.

Calling the entire budget one of "rigid and severe economy," the governor said his mental health proposals "do not represent the needs nor standards that should be maintained," but some modest improvement.

The remainder of the overall increase was pretty much apportioned in bits and snatches across the entire spectrum of state government—a million dollars or more here, a fraction of a million there.

Williams strung along with unsuccessful recommendations of earlier years in urging small sums for a number of new agencies.

These included a housing commission ($25,000), a commission on the aging ($40,000), $50,000 for the Great Lakes tidewater commission, an atomic energy commission ($35,000) and an automation commission ($25,000).

LANSING (AP)—Gov. Williams' 1959-60 state general fund budget at a glance:

General operations, pay raise, etc.	$377,200,000
School aid supplementation	46,700,000
Total general fund outlays		$423,900,000
Revenues, existing sources	307,800,000
Revenues, new taxes	140,000,000
Total resources available		447,800,000
Deficit reduction		23,900,000

(The state deficit, estimated at $110,600,000 as of June 30, would be pared by mid-1960 to $86,700,000.)

Maps Ouster Charge Against Police Chief

Straley's ouster, but was turned down both times by the city manager.

Straley is protected by civil service, which Pontiac voters adopted for the Police Department in 1957.

Under the act, the chief is entitled to a hearing before the Civil Service Commission on any charges brought against him.

"Any charges against me are trumped-up," Straley asserted. "Why are they bringing charges now? Why not sooner?

"Instead of letting Eastman make charges against me, Willman should call him into the office and order him to help me get the department's troubles resolved," the chief said.

Willman said, however, "Any hopes I had that they (Eastman and Straley) might work together have been squashed."

Straley accused Eastman of doing "everything he can to humiliate me." He also charged Eastman with "heaping indignities" on him and ridiculing him in the eyes of the public and police officers.

"He doesn't even speak to me," Straley said. "What have I done? What is there in his makeup to make him act that way?"

The chief also claimed Eastman had gathered a group of "troublemakers" in the department around him, "showed favoritism and given them soft jobs."

Straley has been engaged for two years in a running feud with the Pontiac Police Officers Assn. (PPOA), an employe organization to which a majority of the officers belong.

It was the internal departmental strife that led to the City Commission calling in the Public Service Administration of Chicago to study the city police situation.

The PAS report contained sharp criticism of Straley's seven-year reign and recommended the hiring of a public safety director to reorganize the department.

Eastman relieved Straley of command on Nov. 12, and has given the chief only a couple reports to prepare since then.

"I feel deep sympathy toward the chief because of the position he's in," Eastman said.

Eastman said he also finds himself in a "difficult situation."

"But that's an occupational hazard," he quipped.

Willman stressed he will not file charges, but only receive them from Eastman and decide whether to forward them to the Civil Service Commission.

About the charges, Willman said:

"However Eastman wants to handle it—whatever charges he wants to bring—that's his business."

Straley has been an adamant opponent of the Civil Service Act which was strongly supported by the PPOA and adopted after the association campaigned strongly for it.

"In a way, the Civil Service Act is protecting me," the chief admitted.

"My reply to those who are saying 'Straley must go' is 'Eastman must go,'" the chief declared.

Moscow Flays Nassar

MOSCOW (AP)—Premier Nikita Khrushchev today accused President Gamal Abdel Nasser's United Arab Republic of making spurious attacks on Communists.

Economics Can Win World—Khrushchev

racy, the activity and initiative of the broad masses in the building of communism, extension of the functions of public bodies in matters of state importance, increase in the organizational and educational role of the party and the Socialist state, and an all-out strengthening of the alliance between the workers and the peasants and of the friendship of the peoples of our country."

On the international front, Khrushchev termed nuclear disarmament the "task of tasks" and said the Soviet Union would continue to work for a summit conference.

"It is essential to learn to solve contentions problems by peaceful talks," he said. "It is time to understand that threats are a hopeless business when they refer to the Soviet Union."

He offered no new solution for the Berlin crisis, a major source of East-West friction. He said neither East nor West Germany can be eliminated "without touching off a world war."

Khrushchev began his speech 30 minutes after the session opened. The title was "Target Figures of the Development of the U.S.S.R. National Economy in 1959-65."

For the first time in history foreign newsmen were admitted to the great hall of the Kremlin to hear the hours-long speech. To some it seemed as if Soviet policy had decided the nuclear age ruled out war as a means of conquest and left an even more powerful weapon—economic progress.

The confident party leader and premier went before the party's 21st Congress with unparalleled personal power. Even V. I. Lenin had faced a divided leadership in the days immediately following the Revolution. Josef Stalin held power over a seething volcano. Khrushchev was at the head of a united party.

Jury May Decide Alyea's Fate Today

A Circuit Court jury was to be asked today to decide the fate of Raymond L. Alyea, accused of killing a Southfield nursery caretaker.

The jury of eight women and five men has been listening to testimony since Jan. 8 before Judge William J. Beer.

Attorneys for prosecution and defense presented their final arguments this morning.

Alyea, a 35-year-old ex-convict from Detroit, is accused of stabbing Anthony Jasinski to death Aug. 1 in the nursery where he was employed, 22951 Northwestern Highway.

The prosecution contends that the killing occurred after a robbery. The defense says that Alyea walked in on the robbery and fled, fearing to be implicated and returned to prison as a parole violator.

State Police Herd Cattle on Xway

YPSILANTI (UPI)—State Police "played cowboy" during a fist-shaking, flashlight-waving roundup of 25 head of cattle that were dumped out onto the expressway in a three-truck accident early today.

A two-mile stretch of the expressway (U.S. 12) between Ypsilanti and Willow Run Airport was blocked off for four hours while police wrangled cattle and untangled the trucks.

State police said the tractor-trailer loaded with cattle had a flat tire and pulled off to the side but the trailer still was on the edge of the road. A second truck struck the trailer about 2 a.m. knocking it over and a third truck ploughed into the escaping herd of cattle. At least one animal was killed.

Cold Rain Slicks Roads

East Continues to Suffer

Cold and wet weather spread across areas in the eastern half of the nation today but skies were clear in many sections.

A mixture of rain, freezing rain and snow slicked highways and streets in a wide belt from Kansas and Oklahoma across northern Arkansas and Missouri into the Ohio Valley and Middle Atlantic states.

Cold air followed the wet weather. The biggest temperature drops were south of the wet belt extending from north central Texas along the Ohio River to Virginia and southeast Pennsylvania. Temperatures were 10 to more than 20 degrees lower, with biggest drops in Texas.

It also was colder in northern Colorado, southern Wyoming and western Nebraska and it still was chilly in most of the Midwest and New England.

The second major precipitation area was in the Pacific Northwest, with rain reported in many areas.

Little change was reported in the flood conditions in five eastern and central states hit by last week's damaging overflows. Crest stages all along the Ohio River, the U.S. Weather Bureau reported, are lower than was indicated last week and further flooding will be minor.

Skies were clear over most of Georgia and Florida and along the Gulf Coast. But rain, along with cooler weather, was forecast during the day in most of the Gulf states.

Instead of Baker, Dorothe Dunavin was elected, according to a correction made by the Council today.

Army to Fire Second Rocket

Moon Try Set for Feb. 28

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI)—The Army plans to fire its second moon rocket Feb. 28 in another attempt to send a 13-pound payload skimming past the moon like Russia's Lunik, it was learned today.

* * *

But officials are concerned over the possibility that the public will overlook the scientific importance of the space probe and notice only that its payload is just a fraction of the size of the 3,245-pound Lunik.

After the Air Force failed in three tries last year to orbit the moon, the Army tried last month to blast a 13-pound payload past the lunar sphere and on toward the sun. But bad aim and insufficient speed spoiled the shot, and the little Pioneer III probe stopped climbing at 66,000 miles.

Frondizi in Detroit to Tour Auto Plants

DETROIT (AP) — Argentina's President Arturo Frondizi and his official party of 11 arrived here at Metropolitan Airport today for a whirlwind tour of Detroit's automotive plants.

An Air Force military transport plane carrying the Argentine president landed at 12:07 p.m. after a flight from Chicago.

Salk Program to Start in February

City PTAs Reveal Plans to Set Up Polio Clinics

Warning that Pontiac children and adults are not adequately protected against infantile paralysis, the Pontiac Council of Parent-Teacher Associations, today announced plans for the city's first school-sponsored polio clinics.

Mrs. William H. Anderson, council president, said that figures indicated the city was "surprisingly unprepared" to meet a polio crisis.

A school survey conducted recently, she said, showed that only a quarter of the city's population had received Salk vaccine.

If Pontiac follows national patterns—and it probably does, Mrs. Anderson warned—this is the estimated deficiency in polio protection here:

62,200 IN DANGER

There are about 23,000 people up to the age of 40 who have had no shots at all.

An additional 6,200 have had less than the recommended three shots to insure protection.

And of persons over the age of 40, there are 33,000 who have not had any shots, or had only one.

"It's to remedy this situation and offer the people of Pontiac protection against polio that the PTAs have decided to sponsor clinics," said Mrs. Anderson.

Tentative plans call for the first clinics during the week of Feb. 16 at four locations throughout the city — Madison Junior High School, Owen School, Bethune School and Wilson School.

It is expected that both afternoon and evening hours will be arranged, Mrs. Anderson said, with children encouraged to attend in the afternoon and employed adults in the evening.

Since the Salk program recommends three shots, a second clinic should take place in mid-March, Mrs. Anderson said, and a third in October.

FOR EVERYONE

Who should take advantage of the clinics?

"Anyone who doesn't have protection at all, or who has had one or two shots, but not three, or who needs booster shots," said Mrs. Anderson.

Arranged with the sanction of the Oakland County Department of Health, the clinics will charge $1 fee for each shot.

Shots will be administered by registered nurses, Mrs. Anderson said, and a medical doctor will be on hand at each clinic to oversee the treatment.

PTA volunteers will keep the finance and treatment records, Mrs. Anderson said.

The clinics will be sponsored with the cooperatin of the Pontiac Board of Education.

Gold-Plated Bathroom Fixtures Coming Up

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Doctors, like their patients, often put off being doctored too. A survey showed one out of four physicians with hypertension waited two years before seeking treatment, and 14 per cent with peptic ulcer postponed treatment for five years or more.

Did you know a mink coat made of female skins is supposed to be preferable to one made of male skins? It is reportedly finer-haired and lighter in weight.

Beau Brummell, famous 19th century British dandy, is sometimes credited with being the first man in modern history to take a daily bath. But, alas for cleanliness—later in life he became dirty and slovenly, and died a senile pauper.

Taking a bath, incidentally, is still something of a problem in some parts of the United States. Three million American homes still lack running water.

You are more nearly waterproof than you think. Nature has provided your skin with between two and three million oil glands which help you shed moisture.

Prosperity note: Bathroom fixtures plated with 24-karat gold are now being mass produced in this country for the first time.

As men get scarcer, the girls are giving them less and less chance to get away. The average engagement period 30 years ago was a year or more. Now it's from five to seven months.

Do you share the popular misconception that most actors are sissies? They aren't. Many are ex-athletes and most keep in top physical condition.

Do you like to lie on the rug while watching television? Well, cut it out: you may get sick. Some statistician has figured out a 9-by-12-foot rug collects three pounds of dirt in a year and nests 11,914,000,000 germs.

For people who don't like air conditioning, a trip to the moon offers a fine escape. The temperature there ranges from 215 degrees above zero by day to 240 degrees below zero at night.

Odd facts for nature lovers: Some butterflies have as many as a million scales—laid like shingles on a roof—in their wings. The mountain goat is probably the only horned mammal that sits on its haunches.

If you've ever wondered why there are so few vine-covered cottages around Wall Street, Manhattan's famous financial district, here's your answer: Land there is conservatively valued at $15,000,000 an acre. And seats on the New York Stock Exchange have ranged in price from a high of $625,000 in 1929 to $17,000 in 1942.

To get money quickly from a banker, tell him you want it to put on a second bathroom in your home. This is one of the projects for which it is now easiest to get a bank loan.

Ike's Labor Message Won't Ask Curbing of Union Politics

By LYLE C. WILSON

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Eisenhower message on labor legislation to be sent to Congress this week will represent the views of Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell.

It will reject the views of Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield and other Republicans who want to crack down hard on the political activity of organized labor. In a speech last month, Summerfield put it this way:

"America today teeters on the precipice of a labor-bossed Congress . . . this means that Congress will not be guided by the traditional principles of either party.

"I think it is high time that the American people demand that the political activity of organized labor be brought within reasonable bounds, and clearly governed by law."

Mitchell in a press conference last week rejected Summerfield's estimate of labor's influence in Congress. There is considerable evidence, however, of the very great political power now and for some years past enjoyed by the leaders of organized labor, largely in the Democratic party.

The staff of the Senate Republican campaign committee prepared before the 1958 elections a thick volume under the title:

"The labor bosses — America's third party."

The volume's forward cited what the staff regarded as two especially significant bits of evidence in the form of public statements.

The first was made in July, 1952, national convention. Barkley said:

"Since arriving in Chicago I have learned that certain self-appointed political labor leaders have taken upon themselves to announce their opposition to me as a Democratic nominee for president.

"They have admitted to me that weeks ago they committted themselves to a program and to candidates other than myself which would give them greater control of the machinery and policies of the Democratic party."

The second statement was attributed to Louis Hollander, president of the New York State CIO. Hollander predicted in February, 1955, a complete realignment in American politics in the next five to 10 years—and added:

"I believe that we can force the reactionaries of both old parties to form their own third party. Then labor can sit down by the late Vice President Alben W. Barkley during the Democratic and rebuild one of the two remaining parties, supporting the liberals who stay on."

The staff committee's comment on the foregoing was this:

"Thus, the hold of the labor bosses on the Democratic party has, for all practical purposes, rendered responsible Democratic leadership virtually impotent.

"And, equally, it is apparent from Mr. Hollander's statement that the ultimate goal of the labor bosses is not merely to take over the Democratic party, but to eliminate it—along with the Republican party—as a decisive force in American politics."

Sen. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz) has cited Michigan as a state in which the CIO has become dominant in the Democratic party.

"By 1950," Goldwater told a Michigan audience, "the CIO politicians had completed their conquest of the Democratic party in Michigan. This is the pattern of political conquest. It is a pattern which must not be permitted to spread across the country."

Sheriff, Son Fined on Assault Charges

MUSKEGON (UP) — Muskegon County Sheriff Arthur Davis and his son, James have been fined a total of $75 after entering pleas of guilty to assault and battery charges.

The sheriff pleaded guilty yesterday to a charge he assaulted John Piasecki and was fined $25. His son pleaded guilty of assaulting Robert Cronican and Ernest Johnson and was fined $50.

Judge Robert Burns of Grand Rapids dismissed five other charges against the pair. The 8 consolidated charges stemmed from an election night victory party brawl at a police lodge in suburban Twin Lake.

Acquitted Alabama Judge Boasts He 'Defied U. S.'

From Our News Wires

MONTGOMERY, Ala. — The acquittal of former Judge George Wallace on a contempt charge leaves Wallace in the role of a potential candidate for governor boasting he defied civil rights investigators and got by with it.

Wallace insisted he disobeyed a federal court order, despite the court's finding that he had complied with it and actually helped the U.S. Civil Rights Commission get access to voter registration records.

The former state judge declared he had successfully defied the authority of the federal government and the civil rights agency. "They were defied and backed down," he said.

"This only shows," said Wallace, "that if you resist them (federal agents) and back them to the wall, they will hunt any way to back away."

Wallace's term expired last week. He was under court order from U. S. District Judge Frank M. Johnson Jr. to make the records available to commission agents. Instead he turned them over to grand juries hastily summoned in Barbour and Bullock Counties.

Johnson ruled Monday that because the grand juries made the records available for examination, Wallace carried out the effect of his order and only pretended to defy the court.

In Washington, southern senators today proposed a constitutional amendment to resolve the school integration crisis by assuring states and their subdivisions full control over public education.

The measure, introduced by Sen. Herman E. Talmadge (D-Ga) with seven Dixie cosponsors, appeared to be the South's long-range answer to all other 1959 civil rights legislation.

Talmadge said such a constitutional change is needed to avert the "unparalleled catastrophe" of widespread school closings certain to follow southern resistance to the Supreme Court's integration order.

His amendment would vest "administrative control of any public school, public educational institution or public educational system" in the state or political subdivision which operates it.

Sewage Plant Issue Revived

Willman Seeks Decision on Putting Bond Plan on April Ballot

Should Pontiac put the sewage treatment plant bond issue proposition before voters again April 6?

City Manager Walter K. Willman said he would raise the question at tonight's City Commission meeting.

"The question should be discussed and it's up to the commissioners to decide," said Willman, who explained that he would not make any recommendations for or against the bond issue.

Last Nov. 4, property owners turned down a bond issue for the second time in two years.

Defeated by a narrow nine per cent margin, the bond issue amounted to $3,300,000 and would have financed a new plant and improvements to the old.

City officials say the existing plant is overloaded, a situation which has caused the Water Resources Commission to reprimand Pontiac for pollution of the Clinton River.

They also say that limited facilities are blocking industrial and residential expansion in Pontiac.

Willman said he would ask commissioners to approve further agreements he has developed to get the Pontiac General Hospital expansion program under way again.

The latest agreements would cover electrical repairs in the east wing and architectural designs. Similar agreements covering needed plumbing and heating repairs and general construction were approved last week and contracts are being developed, Willman said.

The city manager intends to let local firms do the repairs and complete remodeling of the east wing on a time and material basis.

Up for passage tonight is an ordinance amendment that would include photograph studios in the city's personal service zoning classification.

Initial airing will be given a request from the Pontiac Fire Fighters Assn., Local 376 for an additional 24 hours off-duty in each six-day period, instead of the present eight-day period.

Also to be proposed by the city attorney is an ordinance amendment giving the Board of Appeals authority to authorize auto parking in certain zones.

Alive in 115 M.P.H. Crash

GREENVILLE, Miss. (UPI) — Police reported yesterday that Leo Davis, 31, received only minor injuries despite the fact that his car went out of control, at 115 miles per hour, struck several objects alongside the highway, clipped off a utility pole, slammed into a service station and set the place on fire.

Adventure Film 'Mighty Amazon' Slated Tonight

The Downtown Pontiac Kiwanis Club will continue its current Travel and Adventure Series tonight with the appearance of Julian Gromer and his film, "The Mighty Amazon."

Gromer's filmed boat trip from New York to Key West, "The Atlantic Coast," was one of the highlights of last year's series.

He is noted for his beautiful color photography and the high fidelity musical background he uses to enhance his film-lectures, a club spokesman said.

Tonight's film was shot from the deck of a river boat during a 1,000-mile trip up the Amazon. Life on the river is excitingly pictured.

The audience will see tropical rain, forests, native villages, and many other jungle scenes along this river.

The show is scheduled to begin at 8 p.m. in the Pontiac Central High auditorium.

Deaf Mute Will Face Charge of Murder

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — A mentally-retarded deaf mute faces arraignment on a murder charge today in the gunshot-bludgeon death of Harold H. Mulder, 35, who had rebuffed past attentions to his 16-year-old daughter.

Kent County Sheriff Arnold Pigorsh said a murder warrant has been issued for Robert Balzeski, 22, a former patient at the Coldwater State Home and Training School.

Prosecutor Joseph Renihan said Balzeski probably would be arraigned today on a murder charge. Renihan indicated, however, he would seek a sanity hearing for him.

Pigorsh said Balzeski admitted by note and sign language that he shot and beat Mulder, a neighbor, for thwarting attempts to date the victim's daughter.

Since 1924, the University of Texas has derived $285,447,694 from petroleum leases, bonuses and royalties, on its property.

Man Who Shot Switzer Cleared

Jury Rules Alfalfa's Killer Had to Act in Self-Defense

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Alfie charged me with a jackknife. I was forced to shoot."

So testified Moses S. Stiltz, 38, Monday, and a coroner's jury held him blameless in the slaying of one-time "Our Gang" comedy star Carl (Alfalfa) Switzer.

Jack Piott, 37, testified he and Switzer, 32, had been drinking when they got in a fight with Stiltz last Wednesday night. Switzer claimed Stiltz owed him $50. Stiltz denied it.

In clearing Stiltz, the jury ruled Switzer's death was justifiable homicide and that Stiltz acted in self defense.

Piott had not been accused of any responsibility in the shooting. He appeared at the inquest solely as a witness.

'Vet' Urges Pets Get Proper Care for Winter Days

BOSTON (UPI)—Do you know how to "winterize" your pet dog or cat?

Dr. Gerry B. Schnelle, chief of staff of Angell Memorial Animal Hospital, pointed out:

—It is dangerous to allow dogs to run free after a heavy snowstorm because they are likely to stay on plowed roads and may be hit by cars. Dogs should be walked on a leash for their outdoor exercise at such times.

—Special attention should be given to dogs' feet when they contact sanded sidewalks or streets. The rock salt in the sand can irritate the tender webbing between the toes. The dog's feet should be wiped dry after a walk.

—Both dogs and cats can be allowed outdoors even in extremely cold weather if they are kept active, but should be allowed to return to house or kennel when they wish.

Hospital Trip Expensive for Ty Power's Wife

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Mrs. Tyrone Power's trip to the hospital gained her a son but cost her $15,000 worth of furs and jewelry.

Pres. Frondizi Fights to Restore Economy

Argentina's first democratically elected president in 28 years, ARTURO FRONDIZI, is on a 12 day visit to this country despite serious unrest and labor troubles in his own country.

Last February Dr. FRONDIZI was elected president succeeding the interim government of Gen. ARAMBURU which did not or could not take strong measures toward rehabilitation of the Argentine economy. In his successful campaign FRONDIZI sought and got the votes of Communists, Peronists, Catholics and nationalists as well as his own Radical Party. He was opposed by certain democratic elements.

But as soon as Dr. Frondizi was elected, he repudiated Peronist and Communist support and has instituted an austerity program to restore financial stability to Argentina. Everything in it runs counter to the policies of many of the parties that backed him.

One big need is development of the oil industry. Geologists know there is plenty of oil there but Argentina imports 75 per cent of its oil requirements. Oil resources are nationalized and the U.S. Export-Import Bank and the International Bank had refused to lend money for oil exploration as being too risky.

However, last fall Frondizi arranged deals with American and European firms to explore and drill with the oil going to the national firm for processing. Also, under agreements with the U. S. government, 11 private U. S. and Canadian banks, Argentina will get assistance totaling $329 million.

Argentina is paying the price for Dictator PERON'S grandiose attempts to change overnight a basically agricultural country into an industrial one. He left its economy practically bankrupt.

President FRONDIZI is traveling a hard road in his efforts to stabilize Argentina's economy.

anxious to strengthen his economic and political positions to counter any threat of Soviet domination. He invited that threat when he purchased Communist arms and accepted Russian economic aid.

To help strengthen those relations, the United States has sold NASSER $25 million worth of wheat and flour on very easy terms and has leased a large army dredge for work on the Canal.

The main point at issue, however, still is freedom of the canal guaranteed to all shipping under the Old Suez Canal treaty which was abrogated by NASSER. While he has said he will observe the terms of the treaty there still is no guarantee that he will not interpret them to suit his own convenience as in the case of the continuing blockade against Israel.

"MANY people have what may be called a string-saving complex. There is scarcely anything that somebody isn't saving."—From a magazine article. Yes, indeed. Even yet, a few people are saving money.

BEING old is about like being young, except for hurting a lot and being tired nearly all the time.

The Man About Town

Plugged the Leak

Oakland County Product Was Used in Nautilus

Inch: What, if you give some people, you'll wish you had given them a foot instead.

An Oakland County product helped the atomic submarine Nautilus make that North Pole trip. The owner of Bar's Products Supply at Holly, states that when a condenser leak was holding up the voyage, a solution made in his factory stopped it when all other efforts had failed.

Fred D. Barton,

This factory, which is located on the former property, was brought to Holly in 1954, largely because Barton had heard his mother often say that it is such a good town. The former she spent her youth in Holly. She now lives in California.

The anual meeting of

Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce

on Feb. 18 very appropriately is to honor

Michigan State University Oakland, and the meeting is to be honored with

as the speaker, who surely is tops for such an occasion.

Our visiting nurses must be on the road, regardless of the weather, and one of them,

Mrs. Julia Fitzgibbon

of 102 Hudson St., thanks all who were responsible for putting the Pontiac area highways in shape for the Monday morning travel.

Britain and the UAR Settle Suez Claims

It's good news that President NASSER of the United Arab Republic has reached agreement with Britain for a financial settlement of claims resulting from his 1956 seizure of the Suez Canal.

Similar agreements were reached last year between the UAR and France and between the UAR and the largely French owned Universal Canal Co. which built and operated the waterway. NASSER agreed to return seized French property in return for French credits and to reimburse the company over a five year period.

To Maintain a Balance

David Lawrence Says:

Taxes Destroy Business Incentive

WASHINGTON — What is the "mood" of American business today? Lately there has been considerable discussion as to what has to be done if America is to keep the lead in the race with the Communist system.

LAWRENCE

Adlai Stevenson, in recent speeches, spoke of this country as pursuing a "fat, dumb, happy, complacent way" in the face of Soviet competition, and describes the struggle as being waged "between a chaotic, selfish, indifferent commercial society and the iron discipline of the Communist world."

There are other criticisms, too. Many businessmen have in their minds today the "image" of a frustrated America. They see the incentives missing for the extra push that used to be so important in the competitive arena.

Thus, for instance, a businessman from the West Coast, who has been rather successful himself and who travels around the country quite a lot, dropped in for a chat with this correspondent the other evening. When asked what he found to be the mood of businessmen generally, he said:

"I am sorry to say that I find a widespread discouragement — really a lack of incentive. Businesses try hard, in this day of competition, to increase their volume of sales, but they are face to face with the necessity of giving more than half of their profits to the government and of using more and more of their income to meet wage demands.

"Now the feeling is growing that there isn't much chance of a tax reduction for corporations, and this, more than any other factor, is killing the very incentive and stimulus we need for a growing America.

"As for the executive, what incentive is there for him, since most of any increase in salary he may get goes to the tax collector anyhow?"

Yet every day in the debate over the President's budget — between the "spenders" and the "savers" — many of the Democrats are taking the position that all that is needed for national growth is for the government to spend more. Their argument is that the gross national product will increase just because population increases.

Very little thought seems to be given to the fact that a "commercial society," as Stevenson describes it, can deteriorate very rapidly without incentives and under a heavy tax burden.

Today, 52 cents out of every dollar of profit a corporation makes must go to the federal government for taxes. On top of this are state and local taxes. Even if all the remainder were paid out in dividends—which can't be done because funds have to be set aside for new plant and equipment and future contingencies—the individual stockholders still would have to pay to the federal government in taxes anywhere from 20 to 90 per cent of their receipts from this same corporation.

While the radicals like to talk in collective figures about business earnings before taxes, they usually overlook the plight of the marginal companies.

Realistically speaking, Republican Chairman Alcorn should not be worried about the "image of big business" as being something Republican. It fits the Democratic Party even better. For, in the last 25 years, the Democrats have passed tax laws that favor "big business" and monopoly.

As for "big unionism," it has consistently favored "big business" as against small business by setting the wage scales so high that the marginal companies cannot pay them and must seek mergers with the larger companies as the only way out of the dilemma.

America may be approaching a truly critical period in her economic history. Until the federal corporation taxes are reduced considerably, there is very little prospect that America will travel again the road of sound growth and economic progress.

THOUGHTS FOR TODAY

Even in a righteous cause force is a fearful thing; God only helps when men can help no more.—Johann Schiller.

Dr. William Brady Says:

Spare Baby Your Kisses; They Can Spread Disease

"Our 9-month- old baby has just recovered from a serious illness." (Just say an illness. Any illness in such a young baby is serious.) "Members of my wife's family insist on kissing the baby on his hands, cheek, and even on the mouth. The doctor warned us that this is dangerous to our baby or any baby, for the germs transferred in that way may be deadly to our baby or has not yet developed any immunity such as protects adults.

DR. BRADY

"Wouldn't it be a blessing for all young babies if you could make people understand how wicked it is to subject the unprotected infant to such danger, just to express their love for the little guy? We're afraid we'll offend them if we raise any objection." (A.M.K.)

Even at that risk you should protect your baby, and the heck with your wife's relations if they choose to be unreasonable about it. Tell them it is doctor's orders. Tell them what the doctor said. If they really love the baby, of course they will understand and in future govern themselves accordingly.

Your query reminds me that I once suggested that the place to kiss a young baby is on the sole of the foot, but that was a mistake because immediately after you plant a sample of your pneumococci on the foot, the baby may put his foot in his mouth.

A good rule for everyone would be "Never kiss the baby you love."

Lest I seem to take baby-kissing too seriously, let me cite an outbreak of spyhilis in a group of young girls about three weeks (incubation period) after a birthday party where a kissing game was played.

A youth at the party had syphilis in the highly communicable secondary stage, and the girls he kissed developed the initial lesion (chancre) on lips, cheek or tongue.

The youth had the characteristic copper-colored rash, but it didn't show on his face.

New Resident Expresses Great Praise for Our Area

I've been a resident of Oakland County for the past year and each day in this scenic wonderland proves our choice was a provident one.

The wonderful schools, the friendly people and the excellent care of our roads are but a few of the reasons I extoll the virtues of this county.

The accelerated courses being offered to the students at Walled Lake High School is an outstanding example of the forethought and extra efforts that are extended to the people in this area. My children are now in grade school, but in a few years they'll have the opportunity of attending this up-to-date school.

If I seem superfluous in my praise of this beautiful place, it's only because I'm so grateful to call "Greater Pontiac" my home.

The Pontiac Press has become "our" paper now. Although I am not always in accord with your editorials, I find them refreshing and thought-provoking. Your reporting policies are unique and I read your pages from "stem to stern."

Lately I've noticed your proofreaders need assistance. Perhaps you need my "eagle-eye."

'That Fund Didn't Do Us Any Good'

We're a veteran's family that could do very well without the Trust Fund. In August we desperately needed help but were refused. My husband had been laid off three months with hospitalization automatically canceled and I had to have surgery. The high cost of medicine plus doctor fees made quite a strain on our unemployment check as we have four children.

My physician wrote the Veteran's Trust Fund explaining my need for hospitalization and major surgery and we were refused help because "it was not a matter of life or death."

We received greatly appreciated help from Oakland County and from kind and courteous people. I certainly hope we never need help in the future as we needed it then and expect to get it from the Vet's fund.

I read the article about cheating in class and agree 100 per cent. This is one of the obstacles in the way of progress. If something isn't done about this problem, it will probably be one of America's biggest downfalls in the future.

Asks Questions Concerning L. C. C.

Why do we TV viewers have to put up with beer and wine ads? Why don't they allow bar owners to advertise a certain brand of beer or wine in their front window to the general public? They'd get fined if they did.

Why do they allow parents to take their children into bars and sit at a table with them while they're drinking and also running around all over the place, playing the bowling game and what have you?

Why does the L. C. C. let a bar owner keep his bar so dark you can't see the filth? Why does the L. C. C. allow the bars to charge 30 to 35 cents for local beer when you can go 50 to 200 miles and buy Detroit beer for 25 cents? Why does the L. C. C. allow 3.7 to be brewed that is not beer?

Urges Everyone to Feed Birds

The Man About Town spoke very truly when he said the birds need our help now as never before. Cold weather doesn't bother them as much as snow and snow doesn't bother as much as ice. Ice is their deadly foe and it places a coat of armor around their winter time food and leaves them helpless. Put out food for your birds. Residents in all sections face this duty, for birds stick to neighborhoods and live their lives right there. The Man About Town must be a great bird lover.

'I Won't Send Her if She Must Walk'

How many parents living in this area sent their children to Herrington School last Wednesday? I know I didn't send my five-year-old as she would have had to walk.

It was too cold to put a dog out, let alone let small children walk over a mile. There is a bus that is transporting seven Mark Twain School children over to Herrington School, that goes right by our streets but the Board of Education won't let it pick up the children on the road as we are in the City limits.

Other schools closed Wednesday because the buses couldn't get out. Herrington School didn't close because they don't have buses. They just figured the children could walk. Well, as long as it's bad weather and my daughter has to walk, I'll not send her.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Points Out Importance of Trifles

Prof. Hess shows you the marks of a topnotch Applied Psychologist in action. That's why he has such crowded classrooms and is much in demand by business corporations to conduct sales classes. "Significant trifles" are used by the pro to beat the amateur. Note Michelangelo's comment in this regard.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case A - 438: Professor G. Hess heads the psychology department at the Robert Morris School.

And he really can apply what he teaches. I laud him as the versatile type of educator whom students admire.

CRANE

To prove my point, when he introduced me to the college convocation earlier in the day, prior to my evening Commencement Speech, he asked:

"Can you men and women at the back hear me clearly?"

Notice that simple question for it is a mark of a professional public speaker.

Professor Hess knew the loud speaker system was turned on, but he wanted to be doubly sure the rear rows could easily hear.

Most speakers never think of that little "plus" item, but are content just to find the loud speaker is working.

Professor Hess is a Dale Carnegie graduate and director of many sales training courses for leading industries, so he is tops in the practical field of psychology. And he holds a law degree, too.

Now notice his second query to the packed auditorium:

"If you men standing in the rear want to sit down, there are nine vacant seats here on the front row. Come on down and be comfortable."

MICHAELANGELO'S RULE

And it is in these little extras that a professional surpasses the amateur.

Some friends were once visiting the great Michelangelo as the latter was putting the finishing touches to a great statue. They tried to coax him to go on a vacation with them, but he demurred.

Several weeks later, these friends again returned. The great sculptor was still working with the same statue.

"Why, what have you done in our absence?" one of his guests exclaimed.

"Oh, I've polished up the angle of the jaw and smoothed off the elbow," replied Michaelangelo.

"Why, those are just trifles," the woman answered.

"True enough," replied Michelangelo, "but trifles make perfection and perfection is no trifle."

SIGNIFICANT TRIFLES

"Significant trifles" is a paradox, but many of you talented clergymen could evolve a wonderful sermon from that text.

They explain why Stan Musial towers far above his own talented colleagues on the baseball diamond.

Professor Hess then graciously introduced me and at the close of my talk, he roved up and down the aisles, calling out questions from the students during the open forum that followed.

He would relay a query from a student in the back row. Why do you suppose he walked back here?

To get the audience to look around. This simple technique subconsciously impressed the packed auditorium with the fact there was standing room only!

Professor Hess is thus a consummate Applied Psychologist, who never misses a trick when it comes to clever auditorium psychology. He's a professional!

So send for my booklet "Public Platform Strategy," enclosing a stamped return envelope, plus 20c (non-profit).

It is full of other bits of psychological strategy of use to amateurs as well as professionals.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped self-addressed envelope is sent to the Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

Brigitte Coy—at Least About Wedding Day

PARIS (AP)—Brigitte Bardot, who is ready to reveal almost everything for her films, is coy about disclosing her wedding date.

Earlier this month it was reported that she had fixed Jan. 29 for her marriage to guitarist Sacha Distel. But Brigitte says now it just won't happen that soon, even though Jan. 29 is Distel's 24th birthday.

"We'll get married some day," she said.

Police Fraternity Hunting Talent for Feb. 28 Show

The Fraternal Order of Police in Pontiac is looking for amateur talent.

Anyone who can hold an audience's attention through song, dance, jokes or other stage feats is welcome to try out for an appearance in the organization's benefit show, Feb. 28, said James Lafnear, president of Pontiac Lodge 132, F. O. P.

Auditions will be at 2 p. m. Saturday in Madison Junior High School auditorium.

The FOP is planning a stage show combining amateur and professional talent to raise money for its widows and orphans fund, Lafnear said.

There will be two performances of the benefit show, afternoon and evening, in the gymnasium of Pontiac Central High School. Amateur talent will be judged by an applause meter, Lafnear said.

The performer who wins the most applause will receive a $50 U. S. savings bond, and the second highest will get a $25 bond, he said.

Many Will Find Tax Returns Are Easier to Prepare

(One out of four tax returns received by the Internal Revenue Service has a major error. This series is intended to show you how to avoid mistakes while paying the lowest possible tax. You'll save money by reading each of the articles in this six-part series before making out your return. Why not cut out each one so all the information you need will be handy when you start filling out your form?)

By FRANK CORMIER
AP Staff Writer

Uncle Sam is being a little kinder this year to several million of his tax-paying relatives. Tax rates are as high as ever but, in many cases, the job of making out a return will be easier.

Because collecting taxes is almost as much trouble as paying them, Uncle Sam likes to simplify the procedure when he can. It helps him and it helps you.

The big change this year permits an additional five million taxpayers to file the simplest of all tax returns—form 1040A. This form is about the size of a bank check and asks only a few questions.

NEW INCOME LIMIT

In the past, you could file 1040A only if your income was below $5,000 and was made up largely of wage and salary receipts. The maximum has been raised this year to $9,999.99. This new ceiling also applies if husband and wife file a joint return.

The Internal Revenue Service figures 35 million Americans are eligible to file the simplified form. Many taxpayers still will choose to submit longer returns, however. That's because you can't itemize deductions or take advantage of several other tax breaks if you file 1040A.

Uncle Sam says he wants you to cash in on every tax benefit you can legitimately claim. This series of articles is designed to help you pinpoint the benefits that can help you. The series applies primarily to the majority of Americans who received most of their 1958 income in wages and salaries.

If you are under 65 and had an income of $600 or more in 1958, you must file a return—even if you don't owe any tax. If you were 65 or over last year, you must file if your gross income was $1,200 or more.

You owe no tax if your income fell below these minimums. Even so, it may pay you to file a return. That's the only way you can get your money back if any taxes were withheld from your pay during the year.

Tax returns must be mailed in time to reach the district director of internal revenue by Wednesday, April 15. However, you can fill out and mail your return just as soon as your employer (or employers, if you had more than one) gives you a record of how much you were paid during the year and how much was withheld for taxes. He gives you this information on form W2 and you must attach a copy to your return when you file it.

There are definite advantages in filing early. If you have a refund coming, you'll get your money sooner. In any case, the unhurried early filer may avoid costly errors.

By this time, the postman probably has brought you copies of the same type of tax form you used last year, together with filing instructions. If you want to use a different form this year, or are paying taxes for the first time, you can get forms and instructions from your local post office or bank or from any IRS office.

Your first big problem is to choose the form which best fits the size and type of your income and deductible expenses. There are two basic forms — the simple 1040A and the regular 1040.

While 1040A is the simplest form, it is good only for reporting the simplest kind of tax situation. You can use it only if your income was below $10,000 and consisted entirely of wages reported on W2s, or consisted entirely of such wages plus not more than $200 of income from other wages, dividends and interest.

Also, if you file 1040A you must take the standard 10 per cent deduction for interest paid, contributions to charity, medical expenses, etc. The only tax benefits you can claim on 1940A are:

1. The standard deduction.
2. The usual $600 exemptions for yourself and each of your dependents.

3. The tax exemption granted the first $50 of qualifying dividends paid on any stock you own ($100 if you own the stock jointly with your wife). If you received dividends, you can forget about the first $50 (or $100) in adding up your income. However, if you file

1040A you can't claim the tax credit granted on dividends above that amount.

If your actual deductions exceed the standard deduction, or if you can claim any tax benefits beside the three cited, you will be money in pocket to file form 1040.

Incidentally, if you file 1040A and your income is below $5,000, Internal Revenue will compute your tax—if you don't—and send you a refund or a bill. If you want to figure your own tax, you can follow the instructions IRS provides. However, if you do this and find you owe the government money, you must send along a check or money order, with your return. You can't wait for a bill.

If you file 1040A and your income is $5,000 or higher, the law requires you to use the standard deduction and compute your own tax.

MOMENT OF DECISION

Now comes the moment of decision for taxpayers who decide to file form 1940. How many of its 4 pages should be filled out?

If your adjusted gross income is below $5,000 and your sole source of income is salary or wages, you may be able to get by with page 1 only. Adjusted gross income is the amount reported on line 11, page 1 of form 1040.

Filing a single page means you accept the standard 10 per cent deduction and claim exemptions only for yourself and, if married, your wife and children.

Also, none of your income can be from dividends, interest, rents, pensions and other sources which must be reported on page 3.

If you use only page 1, a table on the back of the IRS instruction book will tell you your tax liability. You find the amount according to your adjusted gross income, your marital status and the number of exemptions you can claim.

PROCEDURE EXPLAINED

Should your adjusted gross income total $5,000 or more, you have to do the arithmetic of figuring out your own tax. Page 15 of the instructions spells out the procedure. You do your computation on page 2 of the return.

Page 2 also is used to itemize your deductions—if that's to your advantage—and to explain any exemptions claimed for persons other than your wife and children.

Page 3 is for reporting income from dividends, interest, sales or exchanges of property, pensions, annuities, rents, royalties and certain other income.

One page 4 you compute tax credits for dividends received and for retirement income.

Most wage earners don't have to fill out pages 3 and 4. By looking at your income figures and your sources of income, you will be able to tell whether they apply to you.

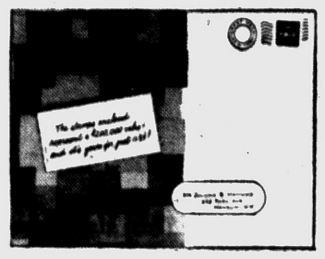

Tomorrow: Deciding whether to file a separate, joint or special return.

The average speed of freight trains is about 19 miles per hour. However, the running speeds are considerably more because the average speeds are computed after all stops made for switching, picking up and setting out cars.

The Bear River is the longest river in the United States which doesn't empty into an ocean. It wanders 550 miles through Utah, Wyoming and Idaho and empties into the Great Salt Lake only 150 miles from its headwaters.

Here are a few of the most popular hat silhouettes for spring. This high-crowned roller of golden yellow rough linen is designed by Mr. John. The narrow upturned brim emphasizes the higher look so prevalent in this spring's collection.

The flowered mushroom in the popular shades of pale to dark lilac is from Emme's spring millinery collection. All-flowered hats are very important this spring.

"The suiter" is a medium-brim skimmer of shiny black saw-toothed braid, semi-high crown banded with black grosgrain ribbon. A tailored flat bow is at the side.

Spring Chapeau to Be Brim-Full of Fashion

Spring traditionally begins with a hat, and this year millinery creators have placed importance on the brim for spring.

The brim may be a narrow underline or a tiny lift beneath the lower edge of a tall crown. It may be a simple curve or an intricate scrollwork, a soaring cuff or a swooping capeline.

COLOR RAMPANT

Color runs rampant. A basic hat may be of vibrant color daringly combined with another color.

Bright blues, vivid pinks, bright yellows, orange tones, oriental blues and greens are seen on these hats, and the color tones match dresses from New York designers.

Straws are back again in the forefront of millinery fashion. Crisp, firm-textured straws are seen in clean-lined boaters and stiff-brimmed dandy sailors.

All-flowered hats are part of the very feminine collection of hats for spring, as well as delicate veiling-and-net hats.

Fashions Fit in Right Places

Paris in Fine Form

PARIS (UPI) — French high fashion dipped to the grass roots level today in presenting a straightforward spring line that put waist, bust and hips where they should be.

The collection was Jacques Heim's, which opened a week of pace-setting fashion shows of styles for the coming summer season.

Heim said he borrowed his theme from the flower garden. He called his silhouette the "Rose Line."

But what it amounted to was our old friend the princess line. It shows a lady's attributes without exaggeration.

Skirts were slim and lower than last season, between upper and mid-calf. They tended to pare down hips.

Busts — gain without exaggeration — were where nature put them. So were waists, with the aid of a 3-to-4-inch belt-like panel at the midriff.

Heim's designer, Jean Pmerade, called it "a smooth intersection to bring the waist back to normal." The panel does just this.

The silhouette was tapered at the bottom. It blossomed out at the shoulder line with the help of interesting wide collars and set-in shoulders.

Invitation Issued by the Hostess

Boy Can Take You to Visit Relatives for an Evening

By EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: I have been seeing quite a good deal of a young man I met several months ago. I like him very much and I think he does me. Whether or not we will ever marry, remains to be seen.

"On several occasions he has asked me to visit relatives of his, saying that he would like them to meet me. Up to now I have found some excuse for not going because I did not think it was the right thing to do.

"I am not sure he will ask me again and so I would like you to tell me whether or not it would be proper for me to go with him. If not, what can I tell him without seeming "prudish"?

Answer: If it is merely to see them in the afternoon or evening, it would be quite all right to go. But if it is to stay in their house or even go to a meal you would certainly have to receive an invitation from the hostess.

"Dear Mrs. Post: At a dinner of eight people, must there be conversation between small groups, let us say two or three persons, or must the conversation be directed to the entire group at table?"

Answer: At a small table of eight where all can easily hear what everyone else says the conversation may be general. If the table is large or has a high centerpiece that is hard to see over, separate conversations are necessary between each two or three guests sitting together.

"Dear Mrs. Post: After a young man is introduced to you, and upon his leaving he says, "I'm glad to have met you," what is the correct reply to make."

Answer: "Thank you" is the best answer. Or if you have had a very pleasant conversation, it is proper as well as courteous to reply, "I am very glad to have met you."

Sweet Vinegar Dressing Used for Cabbage Salad

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

Adding cabbage salad to a meal is often just the touch it needs. This recipe from Mrs. Erwin Greer is for a salad she likes to take to pot luck dinners. She says it is best made the day before and keeps indefinitely.

Mrs. Greer is an active person. She is president of her Child Study Club and helps her husband in his business. Bridge, antique furniture and reading are her hobbies.

GOOD CABBAGE SALAD
By Mrs. Erwin Greer

1 large cabbage
2 green peppers
2 large sweet onions
2 tablespoons celery salt
2 tablespoons mustard seed
Salt
2 cups white vinegar
2 cups sugar

Chop cabbage, green peppers and onions. Mix other ingredients together and let come to a boil. Simmer for a few minutes. Cool to lukewarm and pour over vegetables. Refrigerate a while before serving preferably 24 hours. Keeps indefinitely.

A basic dress of silk shantung designed by Mr. Mort. The contrasting satin Empire belt is completely detachable, making two dresses instead of one. May be purchased locally.

Dear Abby . . .

Forget Romance; Try Psychiatrist

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

"Dear Abby: I'll admit I'm no gorgeous looking movie star but I think I've got the same trouble. I'll do anything to get a man to fall in love with me but as soon as I get him I don't want him any more. Then I go after somebody else and and the same happens.

ABBY

"I come from a good family and have had good bringing up. I am 24 and never married. Believe me, my parents aren't gray-headed for nothing. I'm so ashamed of myself but I can't seem to change. What is the matter with me?

ASHAMED

Dear Ashamed: Those who go from romance to romance for the excitement of the conquest (and there are many—both men and women) are emotionally insecure. You feel the need to prove over and over again that you are desirable. A psychiatrist could remove the clinker from your thinker.

"Dear Abby: The man I go with was divorced six years ago and has been supporting his wife and three children, so he hasn't much money. I have always worked and saved my money. He says he will marry me if he is sure the love between his ex-wife and himself is good and dead. The only way he can find out if that love is dead is to go to Mexico where she is living. He wants me to give him the money for the trip. In a way it is for me, too, because if the love is dead he will marry me. Please give me your advice.

UNDECIDED

Dear Undecided: Don't finance any trips for a man who wants to find out how "dead" his love is. If he wants to marry you, he'll find a way.

"Dear Abby: My girl friend and I really love each other an awful lot but we fight about who should call who on the telephone. She has a job where it would be much easier for her to call me (and it wouldn't cost her anything) but she expects me to call her all the time. When I do call her just to kid her a little I will say something like, "Oh, boy, you should see the pretty girl that just walked by!" Then she gets mad and hangs up on me and I have to call her back again to apologize. How can I get the shoe on the other foot?"

PHIL

Dear Phil: First you've got to keep your foot out of your mouth.

"Dear Abby: My mother and I are having a little disagreement and hope you can help clear it up. She says it is perfectly all right for a girl to refuse a date for a certain affair, and if a more desirable boy asks her to the same affair to accept. I say it would make the boy who got turned down feel very bad if the girl showed up with another boy. My mother says there is no reason for a girl to be stuck with a drip just because he asked her first."

PRO AND CON

Dear Pro: If a girl refuses a date to a specific affair with a simple, "No, thank you," she's free to go with someone else. BUT, if she says she is "unable to attend that affair" or is going "elsewhere" it would be extremely poor taste to show up with someone else.

Wave at the World

Response May Overwhelm You

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

If you wave at the world, it waves back at you! Sometimes its response is so enthusiastic that it almost kills you because you do not have enough time or energy to tap all it offers in friendship, accomplishment and happiness.

There are so many lonely people! It seems to me that there are many factors, attitudes and situations which lead to this sad and damaging condition. Shyness may be a handicap in making friends or building success. This may be due to defects in beauty or to experiences in childhood or teenage which injured the ego.

Self-consciousness effects everything about us from our personality to our posture. If this is your trouble, try to figure out why you are shy and then take measures to overcome your lack of self-confidence.

One of the first and most practical and helpful measures is to make yourself as attractive as possible. Whatever it is you require to be better looking, see that you have it. This may be a loss in pounds or better grooming or a better complexion or a new hairdo.

Whatever the condition is which is worrying you, it can almost surely be improved, if not entirely overcome. The new feeling that you are attractive in appearance will go a long way toward banishing your shyness.

Perhaps you feel at a disadvantage because you did not have as good an education as some of your friends. You can educate yourself with the world of books and you can become well-informed by reading your daily newspapers and some of the current news magazines. You also can take some of the classes offered by Adult Education.

VICIOUS CIRCLE

Shyness is apt to lead to a vicious circle. The timid person more or less withdraws from others because of the dread of social gatherings and new contacts—and the only way to overcome shyness is by practice. These folks should take every opportunity to meet others, to go to parties whether they want to or not. They must have practice in order to build self-confidence!

Sometimes people find themselves lonely because they have been selfish and self-centered. Sometimes they lack friends because they withdrew from life after a great grief and never really returned to it.

It is a mistake to sit and wait for life to bring you friends. Make the first move yourself. Wave at life, secure in the knowledge that it will wave back at you, that warmth and friendliness are not only acceptable but cherished in every society, everywhere.

Walking Easy Exercise, but Have Objective

Winter, as well as summer, is a time for exercise. Your body needs it just as much as it does in the months when you're actively swimming or playing tennis or bike riding.

The easiest exercise, and one of the most effective, is walking. If you make a practice of walking every single day, even in bad weather, you will soon find that you've formed a habit. It's one that will pep up your circulation, make you feel less lethargic, keep your weight down and your figure trim.

Americans are not accustomed to strolling, so have an objective in mind when you set out on your walk.

Prosperity is a period in which you can go broke more slowly.

Bob Considine Says:

Cuba Editor 'Neither Communist Nor Capitalist'

HAVANA—Had a talk today with gun-toting Editor Carlos Franqui, described by Time as "a Communist-lining journalist." Franqui heads the new Havana daily newspaper Revolucion, the city's 32nd paper. We met at the presidential palace, where the bearded and bone-tired fellow appears to have the run of the place.

"Are you a Communist?" I asked him.

He slapped his side, the side with the .38 strapped to it, and said: "If I am, something has gone wrong. Khruschev hasn't sent me my check. Then there's something else. The Communists call me a fascist. It is confusing."

"What are you?"

"I belong to any and every party that believes in liberty," the 37-year-old Franqui said with that peculiarly ringing authority of Dr. Castro's bearded ones. "I despise Communist regimes because they deprive millions of liberty. I despise capitalistic regimes because they keep millions in misery."

Well, how did his paper (which has reached a circulation, he said, of 75,000 since appearing above ground) stand on factions which might not like the way Castro is running things.

"I predict that before long several Cuban political parties will be in active competition with Fidel's 'July 26 movement'," Franqui swore. "The only party I'd be in favor of barring would be one composed of confirmed believers in Batista. Those people must be criminals."

"Could you bring yourself to criticize Castro if you thought he was wrong?"

"Certainly," he snapped with a trace of anger. "I've already started. It was my paper which demanded of him that he imprison one of our best friends in the revolution—an heroic captain—for the death of a certain Batista supporter he wanted to put on trial.

True, the officer himself did not shoot this man, but one of the officer's soldiers did indeed, and I felt the officer should bear full responsibility for this breakdown in discipline. I had to fight to make this point, but I'm happy today to report that this man, this friend, is in prison where he belongs."

The Cuban editor, close to Castro since they were boys, says he has had to make certain concessions to popular taste since bringing his crusading paper into town from the hills.

"I've put in a sports section," he said with a slight shudder, "but I'm still holding out against society columns and, of course, police blotter reports. I'm taking advertisements, too, but will remain selective in that field. We need the money, of course, but we don't accept ads which might tend to 'buy' us editorially."

Revolucion is being printed, ironically enough, on a press which once boomed forth a steady paean of praise for Batista and preached damnation for his rebel enemies.

The plant is that of the defunct "Alberta," a paper owned personally by the deposed dictator. Franqui hopes to raise enough money by public subscription to buy the property after his friend's government takes it over. It won't be difficult, one would guess.

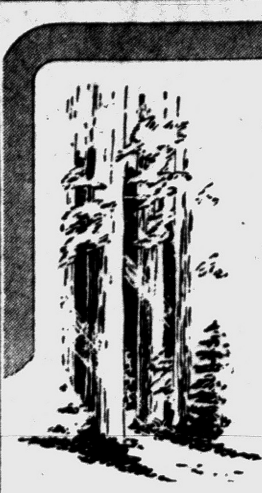

Representatives from 15 New York public relations and advertising firms were in Havana when Castro returned from Caracas over the weekend. Some had previously handled Batista. One, at least, was prepared to offer his office's services gratis to the successful revolutionary. Most of the Madison Avenue boys would return empty handed.

Castro isn't easy to budge; matter of fact, he isn't easy to see. Everything is running hours late, even the trials and shootings. It is not so much that the traditional malaise of "manana" has settled on the vibrant revolution, it is just that it takes time to replace utter chaos with what constitutes order.

Every important (and thousands of unimportant) jobs must be filled with Castro men, and their functions explained. Personal appointments run from four hours to four days behind schedule.

I waited outside the office of President Urrutia Lleo for five hours Friday, after frequent earnest promises of "he'll see you any minute now," and never did get to see him. Not even manana.

A midget (defines Tony Pettito) is someone who isn't long for this world . . . Many a love-sick couple gets over it by marrying . . . The man who has a good opinion of himself (notes Carey Williams) seldom keeps that opinion to himself. — Earl Wilson.

Social Security Expert Says:

Legal Will Most Important

By RAY HENRY
Associated Press Writer

Why should you have a legal will?

The big reason: You can choose how your property will be distributed if you should die. Without a will the property is divided according to the laws of your state, probably in a way you wouldn't have chosen.

But, there are plenty of other reasons.

Catherine Marshall tells some of them in her new book "To Live Again." She's the widow of Peter Marshall who was chaplain of the U.S. Senate when he died nine years ago and the author of the best-seller, "A Man Called Peter."

Marshall wrote no will to provide for the distribution of his property to his wife and small son. Either he felt he didn't need one because he had little property or—like a lot of us—he never got around to it.

The first difficulty Mrs. Marshall ran into was the freezing of her husband's checking account by District of Columbia authorities. This was done because the account wasn't also in Mrs. Marshall's name.

Thus, the money in the account couldn't be used even for the essentials of living.

Later, also under D.C. laws, a safety deposit box with Marshall's insurance policies was sealed. This, of course, held up the collection of Marshall's insurance.

Then, Mrs. Marshall hit District of Columbia laws regarding the distribution of Marshall's estate. Only one-third of his estate could go to her and the balance to his young son.

Due to this division of property, Mrs. Marshall had to get a D.C. court to name her the administratrix of her husband's estate. This is usually a fairly costly procedure, requiring the services of a lawyer.

Also, as the guardian of her son, she's now required to file a financial accounting with the court each year of the property held by her—as guardian of her son's estate.

Almost none of this would have happened if Marshall had made a simple will before he died.

Now, I ask again: Why should you have a legal will?

In getting a will drawn up, you should always talk with a lawyer. He's trained in the use of the language wills must contain. And, he knows the proper form of a will based on your state's laws.

How much a lawyer will charge to make a will for you depends on the amount of property you have and the amount of time it takes. Usually, the cost will not be more than $25.

After the will has been written, ask your lawyer about how to best get it signed and witnessed. Most states require a will be signed by at least two witnesses.

Of course, you should take great care in storing the will after it's been signed and witnessed. Probably the best place is a safety deposit box in a bank.

Don't forget that once you make a will it should be kept up to date. Many circumstances could change a will, such as the death of one of the many persons you name in it.

Mongrels Stand Guard at Body of Mistress

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Two mongrels kept policemen away when the officers tried to investigate the death of their mistress.

Dr. Robert Hausman, medical examiner, said Mrs. Magdalene Parker, about 80, was accidentally burned to death. Arson investigator L. L. Findley said she apparently set her clothing afire with a match.

A neighbor, Antonio Martinez, called on Mrs. Parker and when no one answered the door he peeked in a window. He said he saw the dogs guarding her body and called police.

The police had to call dog catchers.

Freed in Stabbing of Dick Haymes' Son

NEW YORK (AP)—A boy accused of stabbing singer Dick Haymes' teenaged son has been cleared of a juvenile delinquency charge at the request of young Haymes.

Children's Court Justice George A. Timone dismissed the charge against Alan Clarke, 15, Monday.

Clarke had surrendered earlier in the day. He was accompanied by an aunt, Mrs. Joseph Stein of Maplewood, N.J.

Police said Clarke admitted stabbing Dick Haymes Jr., 16, Sunday in a fight over a girl.

Haymes said the stabbing was an accident. He suffered an arm wound that took five stitches. He is the son of actress Joanne Dru, second of his father's five wives.

Mt. Whittier in New Hampshire was named for the poet John Greenleaf Whittier, who wrote many poems depicting the beauty and grandeur of the area.

Fowler Surrenders of Own Will to 'Straighten Out' Accusations

DETROIT (AP)—Allan Fowler, 69-year-old retired Detroit Credit Union manager accused of embezzling some $125,000, surrendered today to Wayne County Prosecutor Samuel Olsen.

Fowler said he was innocent of the embezzlement charge. He said he returned voluntarily "to get this straightened out."

He was accompanied by attorney Lawrence Davidow.

Fowler surrendered on the advice of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., attorney Kenneth Stevens. The former credit union manager had lived in a fashionable, $20,000 home in Fort Lauderdale since his retirement last summer.

John T. Lenhardt, director of the credit union, charged Fowler took $124,431.63 over a six-year span.

Fowler retired from the credit union last Aug. 22 after working there 17 years. His fellow employes gave him a retirement party and presented him with a $9,000 check.

Education Board Refuses to Give Reasons Just Yet

By LEE WINBORN

AVON TOWNSHIP — Some 80 persons attended last night's special meeting of the Avondale Board of Education to protest the board's action in failing to renew the contract of Superintendent of Schools Raymond N. Baker for the coming year.

The group sat through two hours of board discussion on the budget for 1959-60 —the purpose for which the meeting was called—before stating their reason for being present.

Then, Frank Skosich, representing the newly formed Citizens Committee, arose. He read five questions the group wants answered at the following regular meeting of the board, which is next Monday.

The citizens' group asked "Is it wise to make a change in administration at this time — are the reasons for the change valid — and will the move mean added cost to the district?"

Furthermore, they wanted to know how the board action of Dec. 15 would affect the faculty and the district's credit rating in the North Central Assn.

Just five weeks ago the board, by a three to two majority, voted not to renew Baker's contract. No reasons for the action were publicized at that time.

Baker's attorney has sent letters to the three board members asking for the reasons they had in failing to renew his client's contract.

"We will act as a board and answer this at our next meeting," Gordon Hamilton, board president, promised last night.

Far from appeasing the assembly this remark incited even more comment. As one spokesman, Earl Wilson, stated it, "We are asking for the motivations which prompted these individual board members to cast this majority vote."

The board president answered, "There was plenty of discussion in the meeting when the contract was not renewed. As long as we are working as a board, we will answer that way."

Each of the three men who voted were asked personally if they would list their reasons individually. All three, John Buday, Robert Sipperley and Hamilton refused, saying they would continue to act as a board.

One mother protested, "We had no inkling that a change was to occur. Before a new superintendent is hired, we want to know why our present administrator's contract was terminated."

When Baker was asked if he would publicize the board's reasons for his dismissal when he received them, he said he would consult his attorney first.

Baker had three years left before he would have retired. He was obviously shaken by last night's proceedings, which ended in an abrupt adjournment.

Delay Hearing on Blacktopping

Waterford Board Sets Further Lansdowne Talk Next Week

After a lengthy discussion on the controversial Lansdowne street blacktopping project last night, the Waterford Township Board again adjourned the hearing until next week.

This was the fifth adjournment of hearings held in an attempt to iron out difficulties, reduce cost estimates, and eliminate various phases of work to be done.

Five years ago, Lansdowne residents petitioned to have the one-mile stretch of road between Hatchery and Williams Lake roads blacktopped. A traffic count was taken and the Oakland County Road Commission prepared the gravel road for blacktopping.

One delay followed another and with the change of township administrations, completion of the road began to fade although some $8,000 had been paid for the preparation work.

Residents again took up the project in the early fall and since that time several hearings have failed to solve the problem of establishing a special assessment district for payment of the blacktopping work.

Three companies have submitted bids for the project and the Detroit Concrete Products Co. has a firm bid until July 1. Their original bid was approximately $28,000.

Since that time, and with various revisions, the cost has been reduced to $21,545 including engineering and contingency fees. One of the 20 residents present last night, James Mitchell, questioned a $1,770 figure for approximately 125 yards of gravel which cost the county approximately $3.50 per yard.

An estimate on the amount of gravel in cubic square yards rather than lineal feet along with revised ditching and mulching figures will be presented by engineers and next week's hearing may decide whether or not the township will advertise for new bids on the entire project.

Present at the meeting were representatives of Johnson & Anderson, township engineers, and the Oakland County Road Commission for the purpose of answering questions asked by residents.

Texas' natural gas reserves came to 113 trillion cubic feet at the end of 1957, or 46 per cent of the U.S. total.

Postpones Banquet

Bogus-Check Passer Got Idea From TV

A 19-year-old Commerce Township youth, who had told a probation officer he got the idea of passing worthless checks from watching television, yesterday was placed on probation for three years by Oakland County Circuit Judge William J. Beer.

David J. Harper, of 3152 Fisher Rd., pleaded guilty Jan. 12 to cashing a bad $79 check in an area supermarket because he had "no nice clothes and got tired of sitting around."

Judge Beer also ordered Harper to pay back the $318 he received from nine other worthless checks he cashed. Court costs of $150 were assessed also against Harper.

Harper's attorney, Carlton S. Roeser, asked the judge for "compassion and understanding" in the sentencing. He said Harper's 15-year-old wife was killed in a motorcycle-train accident in downtown Pontiac July 19.

Rail Credit Union Elects President

George J. Morrow has been re-elected president of the Pontiac Railroad Employes Credit Union.

Raymond Crane was re-elected secretary-treasurer and Leo Martell was re-elected to the five-member board.

Also elected were Gayland Hale, vice president, and John Gearing, board member.

At the annual meeting held at Hotel Roosevelt, a four per cent annual dividend was announced.

Salvation Army Major Reports $238,377 Spent by Center

The Salvation Army's Men Social Service Center, 118 W. Lawrence St., last year operated on a budget of $238,377, Major Ernest Alder announced today. This was the amount it spent and the amount it took in.

Major Alder, who is in charge of the new center, made the following report of the center's work and income during 1958:

The major source of income came from sales in Salvation Army Red Shield stores, $178,091. Graded paper sales amounted to $33,210 and sales of rags and surplus clothing came to $21,819.

The remainder of the $238,377 total income came from scrap metal sales and sales of related material. This totaled $5,256.15.

The organization paid out $63,444 in direct aid to those applying for services. Of this figure, the majority was spent on food and subsistence for men at the Center, $22,172.31, and cash gratuities to clients, $30,476.52.

The remaining direct expenses were divided between laundry, recreation and entertainment, professional medical and counseling services, Christmas expenses and medical supplies.

The greatest outlay was for operational and production costs. This totaled $148,818.79.

The greatest portion of this, $73,106, was paid in employes' salaries and wages. The cost of reconditioning salvaged articles amounted to $16,489, while repairs, depreciation, licenses and other items accounted for $16,757.85.

Remaining operational expenses went toward such things as rent, utilities, telephone and postage, equipment repairs and renewals.

The balance of expenses, $26,114, were administrative costs. Of this, $25,126 went for general management, including supervision, and the establishing of reserves for replacement of major equipment.

MAJOR ERNEST ALDER

The section pertaining to activities showed that 447 men had been admitted to the Social Service Center during 1958. These clients, as they are referred to at the center, were made up largely of alcoholics, parolees, the physically handicapped and emotionally disturbed.

Of these men, 63 were completely rehabilitated, with 20 leaving for outside employment and 43 promoted to employe status in the Salvation Army.

The 282 who were not rehabilitated included 227 men who left the center of their own accord, 84 who were requested to leave, six who were hospitalized and two who died while undergoing rehabilitation.

There were 65 men at the center as of Jan. 1, which is capacity for the center.

During 1958 20,870 night lodgings were provided by the center and 58,457 meals served. A total of 1,341 interviews were given clients and 582 were given medical examinations and services.

There were 104 chapel services held and they were attended by 5,620 men. Orientation classes numbered 54 and attracted 1,056, while the 56 entertainment sessions in 1958 attracted 1,893.

Bible classes recorded an attendance of 925 while Alcoholic Anonymous meetings and related group discussions were attended by 665.

The Red Shield Stores sold a total of 129,007 garments, 14,269 pairs of shoes, 18,535 books, 9,821 pieces of furniture, and 39,267 miscellaneous articles.

The report listed 2,281 articles of clothing and shoes to men at the center as direct relief contributions. Relief to needy families in the area numbered 2,589 items of clothing and furniture.

In addition, the organization collected, processed, baled and sold 4,740,750 pounds of paper, 557,120 pounds of rags, and 638,617 pounds of scrap metal.

This department of the Salvation Army is supported entirely by donations of household discards and salvaged articles, rather than cash donations from any source.

The report emphasized that 90 per cent of the income received was spent locally for wages, supplies for shops, various services, maintenance of the center and purchase and upkeep of the truck fleet.

Commission to Get Request

Need $27,500 for Airport

City commissioners will be asked tonight to appropriate $27,500 to meet a $110,000 rise in the cost of constructing the new terminal at Pontiac Municipal Airport.

The price has gone up, City Manager Walter K. Willman said, because the terminal has been designed to accommodate more business than was anticipated when cost estimates were originally prepared a year ago.

State and federal agencies have indicated that $82,500 in matching funds will be forthcoming if the city appropriates its one-quarter share, Willman said.

Homer Hoskins, airport manager, explained that the terminal building was designed to accommodate 40 persons at peak hours, a figure based on the latest federal survey of traffic at the airport.

The same figure was used in planning the drive and parking area around the terminal, he said.

At the moment, only $280,000 is actually earmarked for the terminal and surrounding area, $140,000 from federal sources, $70,000 from state and $70,000 local.

But estimates based on preliminary plans indicate it will cost $240,000 to build the terminal and $150,000 to develop the surrounding area, Hoskins said.

"The building, nevertheless, is designed to meet the airport's minimum needs, based on actual usage of the airfield," he pointed out.

Preliminary plans have been okayed in Lansing by the State Board of Aeronautics, Hoskins said, and word was received today that the Federal Aviation Administration district office in Kansas City has also approved and given the signal to have blue prints prepared.

Hoskins said the state board has indicated it will approve granting the airport $27,500 more if the city appropriates the same sum, and the federal agency has promised an additional $55,000.

Hoskins said he hopes to get the blue prints approved in time to begin construction this summer or fall.

The city has already allocated its first $25,000 for the terminal and sent the check to Lansing as an initial payment.

Bill Would Permit 1 Mill Township Tax

LANSING (AP) — The Senate today received a bill that would permit any township to qualify for allocation of one full mill of property tax provided its budget justified that amount.

It was presented by Sen. Frank Andrews (R-Hillman), chairman of an interim legislative committee that studied township problems.

Andrews said the measure would remove ambiguity resulting from a 1939 law.

The statute, after providing a full mill for townships, further established a "minimum" allocation of the average of the rates it was granted over the preceding three years.

Dozens of townships whose requests to county tax allocations boards were reduced or denied last year took appeals to the state tax commission. Some won and some lost their appeals.

To Bring Midway to Stone School

'Snowball Fair' Planned by PTA

AUBURN HEIGHTS — Stone School on Adams road will be transformed into a carnival midway for the "Snowball Fair" to be staged Friday, Feb. 6, by the Stone-Auburn Heights PTA, Mrs. Marvin Norris, PTA president, announced today.

Plans for the forthcoming event include booths and game rooms which will be open from 6 to 9 p.m. and a hayride, if the weather permits.

A talent show, which will feature children singing, dancing and playing musical instruments, is scheduled to start at 7 p.m.

High point of the evening's entertainment will be reached when the fifth grade king and queen are crowned at 8 p.m. The fifth graders are selling votes for their candidates, and the boy and girl with the highest number will be declared the winners.

Their majesties each will receive trophies in addition to their crowns.

One of the popular attractions of last year's fair will be revived again this year. It is the orange tree. Children pick crepe-paper oranges from a "tree," and each "orange" contains a number which is good for a prize.

A fish pond, cake walk, white elephant booth, cotton candy salesroom, pop corn stand, country fair and lunch room will be open throughout the evening.

The Pick-A-Pocket Lady, Mrs. Don O'Connor will roam through the halls with the copious pockets in her apron filled with surprises. One pocket will be labeled "Girls," the other "Boys," and by paying a small fee, youngsters may reach into the appropriate pocket for a gift.

The PTAs of the two schools sponsoring this event merged in October to "work together for a better PTA organization," Mrs. Norris said. Proceeds from the fair will be used for school needs to be determined by the Ways and Means Committee of the PTA.

PREPARE FOR FAIR — Members of the Stone-Auburn Heights PTA are busy this week making final preparations for their "Snow Ball Fair" to be held from 6 to 9 p. m. Friday at the Stone School on Adams road. Pictured above are two of the children who are looking forward to the event and two PTA members. They are, from left standing, Donald O'Connor, 9; Mrs. Lester Arnold, PTA publicity and program chairman, and Claudia Norris, 10. Seated is Mrs. Don O'Connor, who will be the Pick-a-Pocket Lady at the fair.

Plan Skating Party

ROCHESTER — All couples of the First Congregational Church here have been invited to attend a skating party at 7:30 p.m. Saturday at Municipal Park. The skaters will meet at the church house before going over to the rink. Hosts will be Mr. and Mrs. Biddlingmiers and Mr. and Mrs. William Griffiths.

GOLDEN ANNIVERSARY — Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Kerr celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary at a family dinner last night at the home of their daughter Mrs. Charles Griffith in Drayton Plains. The Kerrs have lived on the corner of Airport and Highland roads, for the last 47 years. They have three children, six grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Others Urged to Join

23 County School Districts to Install Warning System

Twenty-three Oakland County school districts are ging to get at least a taste of new civil defense warning system and other school districts were urged to join in today by Lewis C. Jarrendt, county civil defense director.

Installation of the first 63-voice radio receivers to carry warnings of impending disasters has been ordered by Jarrendt.

Designed to relay fast information about such impending disasters as enemy attack or tornado, the system has been approved for federal matching funds on a 50-50 basis.

Each receiver costs either $197 or $271, depending on whether special antennas are necessary, Jarrendt said.

Base station will be the Oakland County Sheriff's Department when the system is put into operation this spring, he said.

Three school districts have ordered installations in every school, while 20 others have ordered a single pilot unit for experimental purposes.

Pontiac, which has a bell and light warning system in every school, is not affected by the Oakland County plan.

Jarrendt ordered the installation of 13 units in Ferndale schools, 14 in Birmingham and 11 in Hazel Park. In addition, Avondale, Holly and Lyon Township will get two pilot units; and Brandon, Clarenceville, Clarkston, Clawson, Farmington, Lake Orion, Lamphere, Milford, Oak Park, Oxford, Rochester, Royal Oak, Southfield, Troy, Waterford Township and West Bloomfield Township will each get one.

There also will be single units installed at St. Michael School in Southfield, the Oakland County Board of Education office and the Oakland County Office of Civil De-

There's something refreshing and delightful about going out to a ski slope, whether it be as participant or a spectator.

The cold and snow which are the topics of conversation over the coffee cups in the city are hardly mentioned in negative terms around the tables inside the ski lodge looking out at the picturesque white hills covered with ski bugs.

(Ski bugs are creatures with long wooden feet who get pulled up the hill and who persistently keep sliding back down.)

"Get on a pair of those skis and you'll become a ski bug yourself," says Gerry Monod, the professional at Mt. Grampian.

Monod's personality is just as delightful as the weather at a ski slope. There's something so convincing in his tone which makes you feel that if you've never been skiing you're missing some of the greatest experiences of your life.

Speaking with his Austrian-born accent, Monod is emphatic when he says, "skiing is healthful for men and women of all ages, not merely for youngsters."

"People think of skiing with a fear of injury. Remember there are instructors and areas for beginners to learn, and once the proper fundamentals are learned, that fear is long gone," said Monod.

"I had a man cal me a couple of months ago. He told me he was 56 years old and wondered if it was too late for him to start to learn to ski. I said of course not, and today he is having more fun than he ever had in his life," Monod added.

Monod literally grew up on skis in his native Austria. During his professional teaching days on the Alpine slopes he tutored many outstanding figures such as King Carol of Romania; Von Opel, European auto maker; Von Theissen, German steel magnate; Eric Memarque, still one of Hollywood's famous writers and the late Conrad Veidt, star of many silent movies.

He came to Banff in the Canadian Rockies in 1947 to coach the Canadian racers for the National Championships.

His first outpost in the United States was at Otsego Ski Club in Michigan where he met his wife, Alys Chubbuck of Bloomfield Hills, who was also an instructor at the club.

"As you see it's pretty obvious why I am here at Grampian," said Monod, "this is my wife's home and with a young daughter it still makes it possible for Alys to ski and continue her instructions."

How does Monod compare skiing in the United States with that of the Alpine countries?

"It would be unfair to compare skiing here with that of Austria for instance. In Europe you watch most every youngster learn to ski almost as fast as he learns to walk. You can watch them mushroom through the years into great skiers."

Monod sees a great future for skiing in this area. "Michigan has become one of this country's great ski states, and in two years in this area alone I've seen a fantastic growth in skiing," he said, "and in a couple more years the popularity here should reach tremendous heights."

Monod isn't exaggerating, either. You can see it on a weekday afternoon. The ski bugs have hit the slopes.

NEW TIGER GM — Balding Rick Ferrell has been named acting general manager of the Detroit Tigers, replacing Johnny McHale who unexpectedly resigned to cast his lot with the Milwaukee Braves.

Local Bowler Tough for Fazio

Hockey Wins Game Over Star in Lakewood 'Beat the Pro' Contest

Vetegan local kegler Bob Hockey assured himself of at least two of the many prizes to be presented in the "Beat the Pro" series at Lakewood Lanes by turning in the outstanding performance against Buzz Fazio over the past weekend.

Hockey earned one award for coming the closest to the national great in a two-game series — 442 to 406. The open entry was the only contestant of four to win a game over the Fazio. He started with a 213 to 187 edge but then bowed 255 to 193. Winning a game also is good for a prize.

League entry "Bing" Miller was close behind with 389 to Fazio's 428. H. Stenquist bowed 413 to 353 and Earl Castle lost 423 to 327. The "pro" averaged 212.1 bowling eight successive games against four survivors of league and open eliminations.

The former ABC Masters champion also gave free instructions and a lecture on bowling during his local appearance.

All prizes will be awarded at the completion of the monthly program.

Terry Sawchuk Returns to Ice

DETROIT (UPI)—Chunky Bob Perreault has returned to the Hershey Bears and now Terry Sawchuk will try his luck against the high-scoring Montreal Canadiens.

Sawchuk, with bulky shoulder pads protecting his sore shoulder, worked out with the Detroit Red Wings yesterday and general manager Jack Adams and coach Sid Abel decided he'll be able to take the ice against the Canadiens Thursday.

Sawchuk missed three games after being hit by Norm Ullman's shot in pre-game practice Jan. 18. Perreault turned in a good job for the Wings who beat Chicago twice with him guarding the Red Wing nets.

The American Hockey League goaltender couldn't stem the tide Sunday night against Montreal, however, and the Canadiens poured seven goals past him after getting past the leaky Red Wing defense.

Ferrell Selected Temporary Tiger Boss

Hopes to Become Fulltime General Manager

It Was Busy Day for Rick

DETROIT (AP)—Jimmy Campbell and Pat Mullin will tee off in a twosome at the Carpenters' Golf Course in Lakeland, Fla., today.

The fellow who was supposed to make it a threesome, Rick Ferrell, can't make it.

"I had my bags packed for Lakeland and was to have left Monday," said Ferrell. "Then the call came from Detroit and they said for me to come here."

Ferrell had just been named acting general manager of the Detroit Tigers. He didn't mind canceling out on the golf game.

He is a soft-spoken, balding fellow from Greensboro, N.C. He is well-liked by everyone around Briggs Stadium and he has handled many jobs for the club.

This is his biggest one. He wants to keep it and make the clubowners strike out that "acting" that now comes before the title of general manager.

Board chairman John Fetzer, president Harvey Hansen and executive vice president Harry Sisson says the business of naming a permanent general manager may take a while. "It may take two weeks, six months or a year," said Sisson.

"The work must go on," said Fetzer, "We have many things in motion and we must keep them that way. We cannot afford to lose time."

Players must be brought under contract, spring training details must be worked out, someone must be there to make deals, talk about trades, etc. That's why the Tigers chose Ferrell.

Ferrell said his first objective is to "improve the won-lost column and put the club into the first division."

"We need power," he said. "I think our pitching staff is good. It has depth, and should keep up from running into a long losing streak. It's a better balanced club, and I think an improved one. When you get around the .500 mark, it's not such a big step to become a contender."

Ferrell's reassignment will mean that Campbell, the club's business manager, will be given added responsibilities and that some people in the minor league organization will have to pitch in a little more.

Ferrell made no quarrel when he club asked him to take the new baseball job. "Baseball is my life," he said, "and a fellow always wants to better himself."

Ex-Catcher Will Be G.M. Until One Is Named

Has Long Background in Game in Various Capacities

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Tigers, who lost catcher Rick Ferrell 30 years ago because they tried to keep him hidden in the minor leagues, brought him back yesterday as their general manager.

The 53-year-old Ferrell replaces John J. McHale, at least on a temporary basis. McHale, at 37 baseball's youngest general manager, quit the Tigers Sunday to become vice president and general manager of the Milwaukee Braves.

Ferrell, who holds the all-time American League record for catching 1,806 games, played four seasons in Detroit's minor league system in the late 1920s. The late Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, then commissioner of baseball, declared Ferrell a free agent because the Tigers did not place his name on the draft list.

Ferrell then sold himself to the old St. Louis Browns for a $25,000 bonus and a $12,500 contract, and started a big league career that no catcher has since matched. He caught over 100 games for 11 seasons, caught in the first All-Star Game in 1934 and in four other mid-season classics.

Ferrell played for St. Louis, Boston and Washington in the American League, and while with the Red Sox joined with his brother Wes to form one of the game's finest battery teams. Rick has a lifetime batting average of .281.

The Tigers fired Ferrell once. He came here in 1950 as a coach under Manager Red Rolfe and was let out after the 1953 season when Fred Hutchinson was manager.

"I was really shocked," he recalled. "Hutch told me I was doing a good job."

Since then Ferrell has been a scout, and last season was named director of minor league player personnel. In that capacity, he worked closely with McHale and was a consultant on many of the trades McHale made involving nearly 50 players in two seasons.

The Tigers announced yesterday Ferrell will have full authority as general manager "until such time as we name a general manager."

The club left open the door for candidates, including Ferrell himself.

"I'm going to try to keep the job," Ferrell pledged.

Chiefs Retain 'A' Leadership by Slim Margin

Unbeaten PCH Pressed by Austin 5 in State Basketball Poll

The Pontiac Central High School basketball team will have to go the rest of the way without Charlie Barge, but the Chiefs are still perched on top of the weekly Associated Press Class A poll.

Barge, a mid-year graduate, bowed out in a blaze of glory last Friday night with a 27-point performance as the Chiefs swamped Saginaw, 69-43, in a Saginaw Valley Conference game.

Gophers Back in Big Ten Title Picture

By The Associated Press

Minnesota's Golden Gophers used superior height last night to whip Illinois and climb back into contention in the Big Ten basketball race.

The Gophers, dumped out of a share of the conference lead by Michigan State Saturday, kayoed Illinois, 81-70. In last night's only other game, Ohio State trimmed Iowa, 86-72.

Both victories were fashioned on home courts.

Minnesota, using its towering height, raced to a 41-33 lead at halftime to notch its fourth victory in six games and take over third place behind idle Michigan State (4-1) and Michigan (3-1).

Ron Johnson led the Gophers with 28 points and picked off 16 rebounds.

Illinois' loss was its second in five games and dropped the Illini into a fourth place tie with idle Indiana (3-2).

Roger Taylor with 20 points, Mannie Jackson with 18 and Govenor Vaughn with 15 carried the burden for Illinois.

Ohio State wrecked any slim championship hopes held by Iowa and dumped the Hawkeyes into a tie for eighth place. Both teams now have 2-4 records and trail Northwestern (3-3) and Purdue (2-3).

Larry Siegfried led Ohio with 22 points and Joe Roberts added 21. Scoring honors, however, went to Iowa ace Dave Gunther who bagged 23 points.

Activity picks up in conference play Saturday with four games scheduled. Illinois is at Purdue, Michigan at Iowa, Northwestern at Michigan State and Minnesota at Ohio State in a regionally televised matinee. Indiana takes on De Paul in non-conference action.

Pistons' Last Gasp Fails as Warriors Win, 102-98

DETROIT (AP) — Fatigue is beginning to gnaw at the suffering Detroit Pistons.

And in the National Basketball Assn. there's no rest for the weary.

The Pistons dropped their seventh straight game last night, 102-98, to the Philadelphia Warriors. It was their third loss in three days and tonight they play again—at home for a change, against the Syracuse Nationals.

Detroit, after carrying stronger New York and Boston into overtime in weekend play, ran out of gas in the fourth quarter last night against the lowly Warriors at Bethlehem, Pa.

The Pistons, playing without scoring ace George Yardley, led 81-78 entering the final stanza. But Joe Graboski and fatigue overwhelmed them.

The Warriors shot into an 86-84 lead in the opening moments of the fourth quarter. Graboski pitched in six of the eight points.

Detroit came through with one last desperate gasp before succumbing. The Pistons tied the game at 88-90. But Graboski scored again on a fast break and Philadelphia was ahead to stay.

Graboski, an NBA oldtimer who never went to college, scored 41 points—six less than the entire Piston production—in the final period. He totalled 30 for the game and was helped by Paul Arizin's 29.

Phil Jordon with 23 points and Gene Shue with 21 were usable to take up all the slack left by Yardley's enforced absence.

The Piston sharpshooter's broken left hand was placed in a heavy cast here yesterday. He must wear the cast for at least three weeks.

Doctors at Detroit Osteopathic Hospital said he possibly could play with a light cast when the heavier one is removed. Bob Pettit of the St. Louis Hawks wore a similar light device in several games last season when his hand was broken.

Monroe Moore Leads Central States Tourney

Monroe Moore, proprietor of Auburn Lanes, had a big weekend in the annual Central States bowling tournament at Cleveland.

He took over 1st place in both singles divisions with 707 and 752 totals as the event reached the midway mark.

"Mo," who made the trip with a Flint team, moved into 2nd place in both departments of all-events competition with 1982 and 2117. His team failed to place among the top ten.

Hoosier Quintet Revamped After Midyear Losses

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (UPI) — Coach Branch McCracken began revamping the Indiana University basketball squad today following the loss of three players due to scholastic failures.

University officials announced last night that Bob Wilkinson, Glenn Butts and Leroy Gamble were suspended from the Hoosier squad for the remainder of the cage season. Poor grades in the first semester of the 1958-59 school year resulted in their suspension.

The big loss was Wilkinson, starting guard and playmaker for the Hoosiers. In 12 games this season, the former Laporte, Ind., prep star netted 96 points.

Wall, Ellis Lead El Dorado Pro-Am

PALM DESERT, Calif. (AP)—Art Wall Jr. and Wes Ellis Jr. carried a joint lead of one stroke into the second round of the 36-hole El Dorado pro-am golf tournament today.

Wall, of Pocono Manor, Pa., and Ellis, of Aldecress, N.J., each carded 70, two under par, in yesterday's first round.

At 71 were Arnold Palmer, Latrobe, Pa., winner of the $15,000 Thunderbird Invitational Sunday; Bob Rosburg, Palo Alto, Calif., and Jimmy Demaret, Kiamesha Lake, N.Y.

PNH Swimmers Face Flint Northern Club

A full schedule of swimming events is on tap this week for Pontiac area prep squads, with Pontiac Northern getting its first taste of Saginaw Valley-type competition, outside its engagements with home-town Chiefs. Huskies travel to Flint Northern this afternoon for the first meeting with the Flint school in any sport.

Trojans' balanced team is rated the edge, but coach Edwin Dauw of PNH believes the Huskies will give a good account of themselves.

Other area tank meets include Southfield at Livonia-Bentley, today; Hazel Park at Edsel Ford on Thursday; Chiefs at Arthur Hill, Friday; Birmingham at RO Kimball, and Mt. Clemens at Ferndale, Friday (both EML meets).

Huskies going to Flint today will include practically the entire squad.

PNH will depend upon captain Gary Rose, freestyler, medley and butterfly; Bill Ratliff, diving and breaststroke; Jim Tuttle, free-style; Lee Barrie, free style; Wally Johnston, medley; and relay teams of Jim Venner, Phil Wells, Tom Eley, Barrie, and Dickerson, Dick Gould, Don Maxim and John Williams.

W. Va. Kicks Out Three Gridders

MORGANTOWN, W.Va. (AP)—West Virginia's No. 1 varsity fullback candidate, a draft choice of the Chicago Cardinals, has been expelled with two of his teammates for trying to take examination papers.

The 200-pound fullback is Glen Shamblin, 22nd round pick of the Cards in last Wednesday's National Football League draft. The other players are Donald R. Smith 230-pound tackle, and halfback Dick Manion.

'Old' Golfers Start Firing

DUNEDIN, Fla. (AP) — The "old" contestants—55 and up—start the competition today as the 20th annual Professional Golfers Assn. Seniors' golf tournament gets underway at the PGA National Golf Club Court with a record field of 274.

This veteran group, which includes defending champion Gene Sarazen, will play the first 18 holes of its 36-hole competition which determines the champions in the various age classes today, with the 50-54 contenders starting play tomorrow.

When all age groups have completed their 36 holes on Friday, the low 100 and ties will continue play Saturday and Sunday to round out the 72 holes of competition for the grand championship and its rewards—$1,200 and a free trip to England to the winner.

Competition of the 6,589-yard, par 72 course, rules as keener than ever this year, with the new crop of seniors including several tournament seasoned veterans who not too long ago were playing the regular winter tour.

Top 'Names' Pace Colleges

By The Associated Press

Oscar Robertson, Bob Boozer, Johnny Cox, Jerry West, Kelly Coleman, Ron Johnson, Clarence Wordlaw and Ralph Crosthwaite —all are members of college basketball's elite.

And each provides an interesting study in contrasts today as the college lads returned from their mid-term examinations and took up the basketball wars in full swing.

Each of these potential All-Americas was principally involved in the final outcome of his team's game last night. Some produced winning efforts while others were not as fortunate as Robertson, for example, who led the fifth ranked Cincinnati Bearcats to a 73-52 victory over Drake in a Missouri Valley Conference game.

Boozer scored 21 points in Kansas State's 78-55 romp over Iowa State in a Big Eight contest, while Cox supplied the impetus with an 18 - point performance in Kentucky's 94-70 lacing of Georgia Tech.

West Virginia took the lead for the first time with 4:10 to go on West's fielder as the Mountaineers won their 43rd straight Southern Conference game, 77 - 67 over George Washington.

Johnson tallied 28 points and led the rebounding parade with 16 as Minnesota downed Illinois 81-70 in a Big Ten game. Crosthwaite teamed with Charley Osborne for 51 points—scoring 32 himself—as Western Kentucky avenged a December defeat by LaSalle with a 96-74 victory.

Conversly, Coleman was held to 16 points—14 below his season average of 30 per game—as Miami, Fla. knocked off Kentucky Wesleyan, 69-64. Former Big Ten scoring leader Wordlaw could manage only 11 points for Iowa as the Hawks lost to Ohio State 86-72 in the only other Big Ten action.

In other major games, Don Smith scored 26 points for ninth-ranked Bradley in the Braves 77-63 victory over the University of Detroit and Ted Luckenbill and Gary Phillips combined to score 54 points in Houston's 88-58 win over North Texas State.

Robertson helped Cincy to a 17-point first half lead with 16 points and scored 27 overall. He hauled down 17 rebounds and held Drake ace Bob Teeler to seven points in the first half. Teeler led Drake scorers with 17 points.

K-State, ranked third in this week's Associated Press poll, turned on a torrid second half to up their record to 14-1. The Wildcats had a slim 30 - 29 halftime lead but Boozer got help from Dave Douglas who scored 18 points in the runaway victory.

George Washington had a hefty 42-30 halftime lead over the 10th ranked West Virginians and upped this to 46-32 early in the second half before West and some Mountaineer bench strength led the comeback. This was aided by a sudden cooling off by George Washington in the last 10 minutes in which they scored only two field goals.

Preps in Non-Loop Action Tonight

By CHUCK ABAIR

A scattered list of non-league games involving several area prep quintets makes up tonight's basketball calendar around Oakland County.

Except for a three-game Suburban Catholic slate, there are only a few loop tilts scheduled.

Holly, Romeo and Imlay City will be carrying Eastern Michigan outside foes at home while Ortonville and North Branch are on the road.

Holly, sporting a six-game victory streak, takes on Flint Holy Redeemer in a warmup for its final string of games coming up in the Wayne-Oakland. Romeo, now 4-3, meets Roseville in a game postponed from a week ago and unbeaten Imlay seeks its seventh straight against Kingston.

Ortonville will be gunning for a repeat triumph over Hartland, needing the win to get over .500. North Branch will be looking for its 2nd season victory at Mayville.

Utica, Lapeer, South Lyon, Country Day, Madison Lamphere, Port Huron, Mt. Clemens and Farmington Our Lady will all be in action.

Utica will be at home to meet Lake Shore in a Bi-County League tussle. Country Day is host to Lutheran East and Our Lady of Sorrow is at home against St. Francis Xavier in other loop play.

Despite showing good scoring power, Lapeer goes into a home tilt against Flint Mandeville with a 3-5 record. The Panthers have divided two earlier games with Flint schools. South Lyon, now 7-1 and leading the League of the Lakes, entertains Howell.

Port Huron and Mt. Clemens will be carrying Eastern Michigan colors against outside foes. Port Huron plays Grosse Pointe, which is still smarting from Friday's upset by Royal Oak Dondero. Mt. Clemens meets Van Dyke of the Inter-Lakes conference.

Lamphere, currently 1-6 for the year, expects little cooperation from Harper Woods in the final game involving county schools.

Three Saginaw Valley contingents will play tuneups. Saginaw Arthur Hill, Pontiac Central's foe here Friday, will visit Midland; Bay City Central battles city rival Handy and Flint Northern is host to Lansing Sexton.

Engineers, Tech Fives Take Close Victories

Two tight tilts and a pair of runaways marked last night's action in the GMC-WMCA Basketball loop.

Engineering grabbed an early lead on Johnson's six points, and went on to defeat Court Jesters 41-40. Johnston and Pitcher had 10 each. Hotsko (16), Kleindl (14) for losers. Tech club edged Blue Chips 39-35, led by Dave Proper with 11. Bob Pickett had 13 for Chips.

In other games Bulldogs defeated Road Runners, 21-11, with Nichols' 10points tops. Falcons trampled Hasse's, 41-27, led by Gordon Montross, with 12 points.

Kentucky Stays on Top, MSU 8th in AP Ratings

By The Associated Press

Kentucky, for the second straight week, fought off a strong challenge by North Carolina to gain top ranking among the nation's college basketball teams in the weekly Associated Press poll.

The once-beaten Wildcats, needing only one more victory to make it an even 600 for coach Adolph Rupp, drew even more support today despite the fact that they, as well as the Tar Heels, were idle last week.

Of the 114 sports writers and broadcasters participating in the poll, Kentucky drew 41 first place votes to 27 for North Carolina. Last week the Wildcats topped the Tar Heels in first place votes, 38 to 33. The balloting, and won-lost records, was based on games through last Saturday.

It was closer in the point total. Kentucky (14-1) had 1,155 points to 1,097 for North Carolina (10-1). Kansas State (13-1) was a distant third despite 16 first place nominations.

Because of the comparatively little action due to the mid-year examinations, there was very little change among the top ten. The only changes took place among the fourth, fifth and sixth place teams. Auburn, the nation's only major unbeaten team, and Cincinnati moved up a notch to fourth and fifth, respectively, with North Carolina State dropping from fourth to sixth.

The top ten teams, with first-place votes and won-lost record through Saturday, Jan. 24, in parenheses (points on 10-9-8-basis)

But Point Total Not Settled

Geoffrion Still Leading

MONTREAL (AP)—Boom Boom Geoffrion, hard-shooting right-winger of the Montreal Canadiens, continued to head the National Hockey League's individual scoring parade today.

But the big question is, "Does he lead by one point or two?"

The official statistics show that Geoffrion has 57 points, one more than Andy Bathgate of New York. Each picked up three points in last week's games.

However, newspaper accounts of Sunday's game in Detroit had Geoffrion contributing one goal and two assists. The official score sheet lists the Canadiens' star with only a goal and one assist.

The Detroit official scorer, Doug Young, said last night he had given Geoffrion two assists. An error may have been made in transmitting the telegraphed report to the league office here.

Gordie Howe of Detroit collected two goals and three assists last week to strengthen his third place position. Howe has 52 points followed by Dickie Moore of Montreal with 47 points and Ed Luzenberger with 46.

Jacques Plante of Montreal remained comfortably ahead among the goalies. He has given up only 93 goals in 46 games for a 2.02 average.

Bradley 5 Too Tough for U-D

DETROIT (AP)—Sharpshooting and top notch rebounding have made Bradley one of the nation's toughest teams to beat in basketball.

The University of Detroit had nothing to match the mighty Braves last night. Ninth-ranked Bradley had little trouble scoring its 12th victory in 14 games, 77-63, against the unpolished sophomores of Detroit.

Bradley started slowly and let Detroit take the lead five different times before opening up. The Braves, grabbing most of the rebounds, moved to a 39-31 advantage at halftime. They pulled ahead by 24 points in the second half before the Titans narrowed the gap in the waning minutes against Bradley substitutes.

Eaglets, Ravens Seek to Retain SCL Leadership

Two of the three co-leaders in Suburban Catholic League's tight basketball title race are on the firing line in tonight's games, both seeking to protect their share of the top spot. All three have 7-1 records.

Orchard Lake St. Mary gets a real test at RO St. Mary, following its first loss, last week, at St. Benedict, 32-31. The Royal Oak club, an improved outfit since the first game (Dec. 5) with Eaglets, can be very tough, Rev. John Rakoczy of OLSM says. Eaglets won the first game, 53-32.

Ravens face one of the lesser lights, in St. Clements and are figured as easy winners at Highland Park. Rams, other co-leaders, are idle.

St. Rita, which lost to Rams last Friday, faces St. James in the only other SCL game tonight. St. Frederick and St. Michael postponed their 2nd meeting until next Tuesday, at PCH.

Both Grammar and Secondary Grades Have 3 'Rails'

San Angelo Schools Fit Courses to Student

SAN ANGELO, Tex. (AP)—This city of 60,000 on the West Texas plains thinks it has the best public school system in the United States.

That's a strong statement, even for Texas, and it begs for proof. San Angelo thinks it has plenty.

For more than a year critics of education in this country have been demanding more academic achievement and less life adjustment.

They want more of the solid and traditional subjects and fewer frills and vocational "escape courses," more challenges for the gifted student, more attention to the slow learner, better discipline, and more and better counselling.

In San Angelo they practice what the critics preach.

The philosophy here is to challenge each student to do his very best work in every subject, and then to provide the facilities and courses to meet and extend that challenge.

The payoff is in the curriculum—a three-rail program tailored to meet the needs and capabilities of all students, from the brightest to the dullest.

The San Angelo story is more than just the curriculum, however.

It's the story of a young, eager and informed school board more concerned with learning than penny-pinching, a citizenry willing to pay the taxes that built one of the outstanding high school plants in the country, a group of teachers and administrators willing to work 12 to 14 hours a day.

It's the story, too, of Supt. George B. Wadzeck, a man who cherished a dream for years and now has the tools and backing to make it a reality. When Wadzeck came to San Angelo seven years ago the city had had an overdose of progressive, permissive, do-as-you-please education. It was ready for a change.

It took two years—until 1954—for Wadzeck to lay the groundwork and get his plans into action. And he's the first to admit there is still much to be done.

The San Angelo curriculum is based on the three-rail plan. Rail I is for superior students, able to move much faster than their schoolmates. Rail II is for average students, eligible for college after high school graduation. Rail III is for the poor student, the slow learner for whom high school is the terminal point of education.

During a pupil's first year in school he is constantly tested and evaluated to see whether he is really ready for school.

"About 90 per cent of a kid's trouble in grade school," says Wadzeck, "is that he is biologically immature when he starts. Some kids walk earlier than others, some talk earlier. It's the same with learning, some are ready before the others."

If a child isn't up to doing first grade work, he is held in that grade for another year.

"We retain about 25 per cent of our first graders," Wadzeck says, "probably the highest proportion in the country. We don't call it flunking or failing. We just hold them back till they're ready to learn, then we throw the book at 'em.

"After the first grade, there are very few we have to hold back through the next five grades."

Based on grades, intelligence tests, aptitude tests and teachers' reports, the pupils are assigned to rails I, II, or III in the first grade. Depending on their aptitudes, some students might be on rail I English and Social Studies, and rail II or III Arithmetic. Depending on their achievement, they can climb to a higher rail, or drop to a lower one.

One major departure from normal grade school practice, even where the program is railed, is that only the student in rail I can get an "A." If he is in rail II, the best he can get is a "B," in rail III a "C."

Some educators will tell you this might frustrate the children, that they should be graded on the basis of whether they are doing the best work of which they are capable.

Wadzeck disagrees: "Life is competitive, and if the children don't learn it in the classroom, they'll certainly find it out for themselves on the playground."

Each student in rails I and II takes six academic subjects—English, Reading, Math, Social Science, Natural Science and Foreign Language—plus one Fine Arts elective and Physical Education.

Rail III students do no seventh grade work. They spend the year catching up on work in which they have fallen behind. In Math, for instance, they would review 4th, 5th and 6th grade Arithmetic.

And here is an exclusive San Angelo twist: If the Rail III student gets an "A" or "B" in his make-up work he isn't promoted to the eighth grade. He is held back so that the following year he can take the 7th grade rail II or college preparatory courses. If, however, he gets a "C" or less he is promoted into the eighth grade in rail III.

"When a rail III student comes up with excellent grades in his remedial work," says Wadzeck, "we figure he deserves another chance. He may have had emotional problems stemming from troubles at home. Maybe he has been ill and out of school for long periods. Maybe he's just a 'late bloomer.'

"But if he comes up with poor grades in his remedial or make-up work, we just have to figure he isn't college material. So we push him ahead on a rail III program that will give him the best education he can absorb.

If he spurts ahead later, of course, our testing and evaluating will catch him and there may still be time for him to advance to a higher rail."

Rail I students in the seventh grade take two years of a subject in one year and clear the way for honor courses and college level work during the 11th and 12th grades.

Rail II students take the "national curriculum" or normal college preparatory courses. Rail III students take modified work adapted to their capabilities, but including Arithmetic every year through the 11th grade and English every year through the 12th.

Wadzeck figures only about one per cent of the students are able to handle the top rail in Math, Foreign Languages and English. About 10 per cent take two courses in rail I and two in rail II, and about 5 per cent take only one rail I course.

In high school, students are graded according to the work they do in the rail to which they have been assigned. The transcripts, however, identify the course by the rail number. Thus colleges and universities, as well as prospective employers, will know just what sort of work the student has done.

Welch to Debut in 'Anatomy of a Murder'

LANSING (AP)—Joseph N. Welch, widely known Boston attorney, will make his film debut in "Anatomy of a Murder," Justice John D. Voelker's best selling novel, soon to be made into a motion picture.

Filming of the picture in the Upper Peninsula and Hollywood is expected to start in March, Columbia Pictures said in announcing Welch's selection.

Welch gained nationwide prominence in the televised 1954 Army-McCarthy hearings before a U. S. Senate committee. He will play the part of Judge Weaver. Others already chosen for the cast include Lana Turner and James Stewart.

The author of the story is a Michigan Supreme Court Justice who uses the pen name, Robert Traver.

Hollywood Headlines

Marlon Brando Refuses to Be Called a Beatnik

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Sorry, Beatniks, Malon Brando isn't one of you.

The nonconforming actor has often been hailed as a hero of the Beat Generation. His early film roles and erratic mode of living seemed in key with this band of Bohemians. So I asked him if he were one of the Beats.

"Lord, no!" he snorted. "That motorcycle is going to follow me around until I'm 80 years old."

Brando was having a spartan lunch of fruit and gelatin between his arduous labors as director and star of "One-Eyed Jacks." He seemed antagonistic toward the convention-hating Beatniks.

"Mere protest for its own sake can be a foolish thing," he remarked. "After a while, they lose sight of what they were protesting about. And you wonder if they would ever be satisfied, even if life were set the way they want it."

He said he has read none of the novels of Jack Kerouac, High Lama of the Beatniks. Brando has reportedly frequented San Francisco's North Beach joints, where the movement started, but he said, "I walked by them one day, that's all."

He does like jazz, though he prefers Afro-Cuban music. And he has had a long interest in Zen Buddhism; he suspects it has become "something like the dianetics craze" to Beatniks and other Johnny-come-latelies.

He softened his remarks about the Beats somewhat: "I guess you can't blame them for wanting to seek some identity in this world. If they don't want to be Ivy League, then they'll be anti-Ivy League — anything to escape the anonymity of today's society.

"Man is a herd animal. He lives like the cow society, which is broken down into groups and then clans and then families, all traveling together. But there are a few who won't travel with the herd at all; they're called ridge-runners.

"In most of our history, there was always a frontier for the non-herd people to escape to. Now there is no frontier. I think we have to find one on a different level."

CHAPTER XXXVII

Miss Seton sat down. In a few moments, she raised her eyes and looked at Angus.

"You know the beginning," she said.

He hesitated.

"The telephone call?"

"Yes. It was from my mother. When she told me why she had telephoned, I . . . at first, I couldn't believe it. It wasn't until she read me the letter, word by word, that I knew it must be true."

A LETTER CAME

"What did she tell you?" asked Angus gently.

"A letter had come from my sister."

"From Rosamund?"

"Yes. I'm glad you knew her. I'm glad you saw her, because it makes it easier for you to understand how I felt when I heard the news." She paused. "You know that she had been filming in Italy?"

"You told me."

"She was going on to South America to make another film . . . we thought. But she wrote to me just before she sailed. She didn't know that by the time the letter reached England, I would have left—would be on my way to meet her. My mother recognized her writing and opened the letter. She . . . she . . ."

There was silence. Miss Seton seemed unable to go on.

"What was in the letter?" asked Angus after a time.

"She wrote that she was going to South America, but she . . . she wasn't going to make a film. At Lisbon, she was meeting somebody who was joining the ship and going to South America with her. They were going to wait there until he got his divorce—and then they were going to be married."

"Marry . . . Who is he?" asked Angus.

"Lord Lorrimer."

There was a long, tense pause. Angus, his mind in a daze, could only stare at her.

"Lord Lorrimer!" he brought out at last, in stupefied tones.

"Yes." Her voice broke. "A man old enough to be her father. A man who is a father, with children not much younger than herself. A man already middle-aged, a man who's had his life. And she's . . . she's twenty-eight."

"Where . . . where did they—"

THEY MET IN ITALY

"They met in Italy. She was in Brindisi. He was on his way home from Greece. They met—and fell in love. He stayed on, and for a time, they both forgot . . . everything. She had never been in love before, and she said that it was . . . it was overwhelming.

"They agreed that he was to go home to the marriage of his son, but he said that he would join her again in Italy and go to South America with her. Then, at the last moment, she . . . she refused. She sent him away, and he went back to England and she tried to forget him. But she couldn't.

"It might have been easier if he hadn't told her that he had to go to Lisbon to attend an international conference. When she found that he would be there on the very day her ship called there, she . . . it seemed to her to be fate. She wrote to him just before sailing, telling him she had changed her mind. Before the ship sailed, she felt that she couldn't go without writing to me and asking me to break the news to my mother. And my mother opened the letter. And . . . you know the rest."

Tears coursed down her cheeks, her voice died away and she dabbed angrily at her eyes. While he waited for her to continue, Angus fought to shake his mind clear of the fog that was beginning to shroud it. Lord Lorrimer—and Rosamund Blake.

The story was still to emerge, but one fact he had already grasped, Angela was to learn that her father was running away, leaving his wife, leaving his home and his children. Her father was on his way to Lisbon—but he would not be returning.

He heard Miss Seton's voice, and forced his mind back to what she was saying.

"When I heard the news, the only thing I could think of—after the first shock—was . . . was what an appalling waste it was. For both of them. The letter she wrote wasn't the letter of a happy woman going to join the man she loved.

"She loved him—but she knew what she was taking him away from. She knew that she was breaking up a marriage that had lasted for more than twenty-five years.

"She knew that they would both be buying their happiness at a terrible cost. She knew it—but she was going to meet him. They"—She paused to steady her voice, and then went on more quietly—"They were coming nearer together, and once they met, I felt that it would be late for anybody to do anything—but when I went back to my room after hearing the news, I lay wondering why something couldn't be done to—to give them both time to think, time to reconsider, time . . just time.

"I felt that if only the coach hadn't been scheduled to get to Lisbon on that date, Rosamund wouldn't have changed her mind. And it seemed to me that if only the coach could be delayed—just for a few hours—those few hours would be enough. He wouldn't be able to meet the ship. She would arrive—and he wouldn't be there. Time, time, time. That's all that was needed. Time. And so—I made up my mind that I must do something to keep the coach back."

"It wasn't"—Mr. Holt's quiet voice took up the tale—"it wasn't a very good idea. But people act strangely under shock—as the Admiral's sister showed us yesterday. Miss Seton was acting under shock when she decided to go downstairs, get into the garage and remove a few vital parts from the engine of the Empress."

Three Issues Threaten Long Delays

Mutual Distrust Prevents Atom Ban

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Editor

For nearly three months now United States-British negotiators on the one hand and Russian on the other have sought workable agreement to ban atomic tests.

The issues go to the core of almost all cold war difficulties.

What are they?

Both sides agree on the danger to future mankind from continued, uncontrolled tests. Both sides profess to believe in the need for agreement, if only to halt one phase of the worldwide armaments race.

What then prevents it? The answer is, mutual distrust.

From the standpoint of the west at least, bitter experience has proved that any agreement with the Communists must be copper-riveted, every last detail written out.

For example, it was allied failure to write into the four-power agreement for control of Berlin a clause guaranteeing allied right of access through Communist-controlled East Germany that left open to the Communists a legalistic excuse for trying to cut off Berlin altogether.

The issues which face today's negotiators and which threaten to delay agreement for months, if not forever, are these:

The right of veto.

How long to continue a test ban.

The amount of control and the number and nature of the personnel needed to police it.

On issue No. 1, the Russians demand that all decisions be unanimous among the three nations party to the agreement. That means a built-in veto — the same sort of veto Russia has used nearly 100 times in the United Nations Security Council to hamstring decisions there and the same sort of veto that virtually has wrecked the Korean armistice.

In Korea, the Communists agreed that neither side should be allowed to increase armaments beyond that existing on the date of the armistice agreement. But the agreement was nullified by Communist refusal to permit allied inspection teams into North Korea.

The latter point overlaps into the present nuclear-ban deadlock at Geneva.

The West believes that nuclear inspection teams should be staffed by foreigners. It believes that nationals of the country concerned could not provide adequate guarantees that agreement was being observed.

Russia has charged that to permit foreign inspectors would mean establishment of a Western spy ring inside Russia.

Ironically, the Russians make no note of the possibility a Russian spy ring could be set up the same way inside the United States or Britain.

The Russians say inspection teams should be called up and sent out only when a suspicious phenomena is recorded.

The West believes the inspection teams should be highly mobile and should be on a stand-by basis.

The Russians also demand that any nuclear test ban should be permanent. The West wants it on a year-to-year basis and will agree to any ban only after the matter of controls has been settled.

Each of these differences if founded on mutual mistrust.

Any agreement reached on the basis of Russian demands would be totally in Russia's favor, leaving her free to do as she wished while continuing a barrage of propaganda charges against the West. The West is determined not to repeat the errors of Yalta, Berlin or Korea.

Go Easy! It's Better for Heart

BOSTON (UPI)—These Ten Commandments for "living with your heart" have been issued by the Massachusetts Heart Association:

1. Find a doctor you respect, obey him, and cling to him as though he were your most precious possession, as he is.
2. Tell your doctor the truth at all times.
3. Pity the fat man; the statistician numbers his days.
4. If your brain earns your living, be moderate as a weekend athlete or laborer.
5. When the snow drifts high, let some younger fellow shovel out the driveway.
6. Avoid self-dosing. "He who doctors himself has a fool for a physician."
7. Fortunate is the man who has a mild heart condition and, knowing it, learns to live with his heart.
8. Plan to take time out daily, weekly, yearly for rest.
9. Don't worry.
10. Be your age.

Warrant Out for Rylander

Missing Port Huron Bank Official Charged With Taking $2,500

PORT HURON (AP) — Missing Edward Rylander of Port Huron has been charged with willful misappropriation of funds from the Michigan National Bank.

The warrant was signed yesterday by Federal District Judge Frank Picard. Rylander, 35, is a former supervisor of the installment loan department of the Port Huron branch of the bank.

He left the bank Jan. 12 and his whereabouts are unknown.

The warrant charged him with taking $2,500.

Rylander's wife, Bernice, yesterday appealed to newspapers and radio stations to help locate her missing husband.

"Please, Eddie, get in touch with me," Mrs. Rylander appealed. "Let me know you're safe. Everything can be worked out."

She said she had taken a job to help support her five children. The youngsters range in age from 2 to 14.

The FBI said last week it is investigating the case.

3 Perish in Blaze at Apartment House

CHICAGO (AP)—Three persons perished and two others were injured in an extra alarm fire which billowed through a west side apartment building Monday night.

Firemen rescued several of the 30-odd residents of the three-story brick and stone apartment building from third-floor window ledges. At least three leaped into firemen's nets. Many fled in night clothes.

The dead were Edward Bauman 67, a former truck driver; his wife, Pearl, about 60, and anunidentified woman. Their bodies were found draped over window sills on the top floor. All had been asphyxiated.

An Englishman named Bartholomew Gosnold settled on Cuttyhunk Island off southeastern Massachusetts 18 years before the Pilgrims landed at Plymouth, but he abandoned his colony after three weeks.

John Omalia, a construction superintendent, told Oakland County sheriff's deputies Monday that kitchen cabinets and vanities valued at $310 had been stolen from two houses under construction at 4794 and 4815 Sundew St., Commerce Township, by thieves who entered the new houses through unlocked windows.

Charles F. Patten, 35, of 207 Rexton St., Walled Lake, was sentenced to 10 days in the Oakland County Jail after pleading guilty to driving with a revoked license before West Bloomfield Justice Elmer C. Dieterle Monday and was bound over to Oakland County Circuit Court after waiving examination on a charge of drunk driving

Setbacks Mark Grain Dealings

CHICAGO (AP)—General weakness spread through the grain futures market today in early dealings on the Board of Trade.

Setbacks in all pits ran to one-half cent a bushel or more within the first several minutes as offerings increased. Dealers said there appeared to be a moderate volume of profit-taking because of slow domestic and export demand.

Near the end of the first hour wheat was ⅛ to ½ cent a bushel lower, March $1.98; corn ⅜ to ¾ lower, March old type contract $1.14½; oats ¼ to ⅜ lower, March 67¼; rye ⅜ to 1 cent lower, March $1.36; soybeans unchanged to ⅝ lower, March $2.19⅝.

Oil Talks, Stalemate, Pickets Walk at Gulf

PORT ARTHUR, Tex. (AP) — A shutdown of the Gulf Oil Co. refinery here was started yesterday after contract negotiations between the company and the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union collapsed.

Picket lines will go up at all gates at 3 p.m. tomorrow, union officials said.

Officials of the union, which represents about 4,500 of the plant's 6,000 employes, said the company had rejected a last offer to continue in effect for one year the present contract plus a 5 per cent wage increase along lines of that agreed to by the Magnolia Petroleum Co. and others. Pay now averages $2.71 an hour.

Market Trend Slightly Down

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market gave ground stubbornly early today in active trading.

Most leading stocks were fractionally lower. Some were unchanged. A selection of gainers bucked the overall trend.

The market was lower from the start in heavy dealings which put the ticker tape behind transactions for a 13-minute period. As the tape caught up, prices churned at about the same level.

Steels, motors, rails and airlines were fairly unanimous on the downside. A number of leading oils posted small gains. Chemicals, aircrafts and rubbers were mixed.

The market was following through on late yesterday's selling drive which occurred after failure of a push toward a new record. While the business news contained the favorable item of a big increase in machine tool orders there was also the background of numerous corporate earnings reports showing lower income for 1958.

United Whelan rose ⅛ to 10⅝ on 1,100 shares on published report of higher dividends. Eastman Kodak recouped 3 points of recent losses. Denver, Rio Grande & Western wipd out its 3½ point jumpd of yesterday on stock split news.

Losses of about a point were taken by Pan American World Airways, Pfizer and Standard Oil (New Jersey). Fractionally lower were U.S. Steel, General Motors, American Motors, General Dynamics, Raytheon, Allied Chemical, American Can and United Air Lines.

Poles Pushed to Buy More

Salesmanship Is Bustin' Out in Western Style; but Who Has Zlotys!

WARSAW — (UPI) — Salesmanship, Western-style, is bustin' out in Poland.

The Warsaw afternoon newspaper "Kurier Polski" devoted most of the top right-hand third of page one recently to a picture of blonde and bosomy actress Eva Pachonska leaning over a modern-style radio set, with the caption:

"Eva Pachonska now has her 'Tatry' radio. What about you?"

The paper also reported that sandwich-board men, wearing giant plastic bottles and cigarette-boxes, will soon be walking the business streets advertising Chinese fruit juices and tobacco.

Warsaw's main department store, the CDT, hired elephants from a visiting circus and sent them through the city with tea-chests strapped to their sides to whet the thirst of tea-drinkers.

The government announced plans to open more than 900 self-service stores in Poland because the handful of experimental serve-yourself shops had proved economical, useful and convenient to customers.

And newspaper advertisements reminded Poles they could now buy cars, radios, furs and furniture on the instalment plan. Unlike neighboring Czechoslovakia, the instalment-buying privilege in Poland is not restricted to "conscientious and hard workers" and members of large families.

Television sets were expected to be added to the credit purchase list soon.

Behind this pleasant new campaign to sell consumer goods, however, is the depressing fact that Polish pocketbooks remain thin.

The "Tatry" radio embraced by actress Pachonska would, at 3,000 zlotys, represent a month and a half of work for the average Pole.

(The "official" rate of exchange for the zloty is four to the dollar, the "tourist" rate is 24 to the dollar and the "free" or "black" rate fluctuates around 10 to the dollar. None of these rates, however, give an accurate picture of the true purchasing value of the zloty in Poland.

Production of the Polish 'Warszawa" automobile, a sturdy but far from modernistic car, is not high but authorities obviously expect the supply will be able to meet the demand from Poles who are able to make a deposit of one-half the 125,000 zloty price, and pay the remainder in 12 to 18 months.

500 Township Men Meet in Lansing

LANSING (AP) — Some 500 township supervisors are in Lansing today for the annual convention of the State Assn. of Supervisors.

They will discuss township problems with special emphasis on urban taxes and tax equalization.

Governor Williams will address the group Wednesday night.

The lineup of speakers also includes Republican U.S. Rep. Alvin M. Bentley of Owosso; Dr. Albert Coates of North Carolina, a local government specialist; Kent County Prosecutor Joseph Renahan; and Detroit Councilman Edward Connor.

Bethlehem Steel, Youngstown Co. Merger Is Off

NEW YORK (AP)—Bethlehem Steel Corp. and the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Co. announced today that their plans to merge had been terminated.

The government has opposed the proposed merger since it was first announced in 1954 and later obtained a federal district court injunction against it.

Counsel advise, the companies said, that an appeal could not be finally disposed of before 1960. In view of the desire of both companies to avoid continued uncertainly, they said, and to permit individual planning for the future they have terminated the merger agreement.

Car of Future Seen as Roomy, No Bigger

By DAVID J. WILKIE
AP Automotive Writer

DETROIT—An automobile roomier and more comfortable yet no larger is envisioned by many car designers as the popular vehicle of 20 years hence.

It will use more light materials like magnesium and aluminum and even glass for structural purposes. It will travel more safely at greater speed on highways adapted to faster travel.

But its basic design will be much the same as that of today's cars. It will depend upon wheels for its tractive force and its power plant will be a refined version of today's piston type engine.

These are conclusions resulting from discussions by the nation's leading automotive engineers at the recent convention of the Society of Automotive Engineers.

Were it part of their responsibility, the engineers also could have said the car of 20 years from now probably will cost more. But pricing is not part of their function. However, the research they have under way is growing in its over-all concept and absorbing more millions of dollars each year. The cost of research has to be recovered in the price of the product.

Greatly simplified controls were among advances predicted for cars of the not very distant future. These would be concentrated in a single unit on the order of General Motors' Firebird III experimental car.

The Firebird has no foot pedals for braking or accelerating. A small control stick replaces the conventional steering wheel.

The Firebird III is powered with a gas turbine engine. Ford and Chrysler also have carried on experimental work with gas turbines. Progress in overcoming numerous design problems have been reported in all instances, but no industry expert will say any new form of engine power other than sparkplug-fired internal combustion is in early prospect.

Even some of the ardent advocates of the different forms of automotive power currently under test say broad refinements in the piston type engine may be expected. Yet to be established also, some of them say, is whether any other type of power plant can be produced as economically as today's conventional auto engine.

The idea of cars both roomier and more comfortable, yet no larger in overall size, was advanced by Jack E. Charipar, chief engineer of Chrysler's Plymouth Division. Lighter and more compact engines, smaller in size and weight, he said, will contribute to this.

He also envisioned electromagnetic suspension systems, adjusting automatically to all road and driving conditions; elastic fuel cells placed in otherwise unused parts of the car; and an over-all color-filled metal surface instead of sprayed-on surface paints.

Such surfaces, he said, would never require polishing or repainting.

The engineering sessions brought no new information about the status of the smaller automobiles General Motors, Ford and Chrysler are known to have in their styling sections.

A bicycle and hobby firm servicing the Pontiac area for 31 years has announced the opening of a new store in Drayton Plains.

Scarlett's Bicycle Shop, 20 E. Lawrence St., announced today that it has just opened a new bicycle and hobby shop at 4524 Dixie Highway.

The establishment was formerly known as Karen's Toyland.

According to the management, the new shop will carry a complete line of bicycles, children's wheeled goods of all types, H.O. trains, and model planes, boats, car kits, juvenile furniture and other toys.

Doctor Says It's Better Than Yelling at the Wife and Kids

Go Ahead and Chew Those Nails!

DALLAS (AP)—A dental specialist defends such traits as biting fingernails, chain smoking, chewing pencils and the like. They don't hurt your teeth, he says, but they do relieve tensions and are better than going home and yelling at the wife and kids.

Dr. Maury Massler of the University of Illinois said in an interview Monday chewing habits are valuable mechanisms for releasing tensions.

He said thumb-sucking in a baby is a sign of contentment—a young child sucks his thumb as a substitute for a nipple. Most children stop this at the age of 3 or 4, he added.

On reaching the age of frustration, Dr. Massler said, many children switch from thumb-sucking to nail-biting.

The children's dentists said thumb-sucking may cause protruding teeth if continued beyond age 6, but nail-biting does not hurt the teeth.

"Almost every adult has a chewing habit of some sort," Dr. Massler said. "It was found in World War II that the best pilots were not the calm ones but those who bit their nails or chewed their lips."

Chain-smoking or nibbling on pencils all day is much preferable he said, to going home bursting with frustration and bellowing at your wife and children.

Dr. Massler did say chewing gum isn't such a hot idea. It contains sugar and that's bad for your teeth, he said.

Pate and Burke Have Reservations

Navy and Marines Okay Budget, but...

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Navy and the Marines say they don't oppose President Eisenhower's defense budget. However, both attach an important "but . . ."

Adm. Arleigh A. Burke, chief of naval operations, told Congress Monday he is supporting the defense budget. But he also made it clear he is not satisfied with the speed at which ships, planes and weapons are being replaced.

Gen. Randolph M. Pate, Marine commandant, also made no protest about the budget. But he said that Pentagon orders to cut the corps to 175,000 men will mean the loss of six combat landing teams and six air squadrons. The new budget provides for only 175,000 Marines.

Burke and Pate, along with Secretary of the Navy Thomas S. Gates Jr., testified before the Senate Armed Services Committee Monday about their military branches.

Secretary of the Air Force James H. Douglas and Gen. Thomas D. White, chief of staff, were called to tell the committee today about the status and plans of the Air Force.

The Navy officials said they are satisfied the Soviet Union's submarines can't match the performance of ours "boat for boat," but they expressed concern about the great and growing number of subs the Soviet could put into action.

Gates, who also supported the budget, said the Navy will be able to hit harder than ever with missile-firing nuclear Polaris submarines and carrier-based jet attack planes.

Burke said the Navy will have 113 active subs by next July 1 but the Soviet Union will have about four times as many.

Burke emphasized the Navy needs for more missiles, jet aircraft, carriers and fighting ships in general.

While Pate made no protest about the manpower cut, he noted the Marines started the year with 187,500 officers and men, now have about 185,000 and "will continue to decline as we implement the directive to reduce to a strength of 175,000 by June 30 of this year."

Plane Hits Snowbank at Lansing Airport

LANSING (UPI)—A Capital Viscount plunged into a snowbank when its landing gear apparently collapsed as it touched down at the Lansing airport today but the 24 passengers aboard escaped injury.

The four-engine plane, Flight 60 from Grand Rapids, Mich., to New York, came in for a landing at 7:23 a.m.

Harold Garrison, state aeronautics official, said the passengers "weren't even shaken up."

Doctor Delivers Stork

CHICAGO (UPI)—An eight pound boy was born to Mrs. Sheila Stork, 21, in Edgewater Hospital Sunday night. A doctor brought it.

Truce Teams Probe Shooting of Israeli

JERUSALEM (AP) — U. N. Truce teams are investigating the killing of an Israeli soldier by Jordan guards near the Mandelbaum gate, official checkpoint on the armistice line dividing Jerusalem.

A Jordanian spokesman said the soldier was shot Monday while trying to cross the neutral land near the gate because he ignored an order to withdraw. He said the Israelis also fired on Jordan positions. Jordan complained to the truce supervision organization.

The Israelis said the Jordanians had opened fire from the Arab sector and that the dead man's comrades had to pull back his body under fire.

Florists Preserve Tradition

LANSING (AP — House officers are going to wear carnations in their lapels this year after all, and taxpayers won't get stuck with the bill.

The Michigan State Florists Assn. has agreed to pick up the tab.

With state debts soaring, House Speaker Don R. Pears (R-Buchanan) last week ordered an end to the 20-year-old custom of furnishing the speaker and house clerk with a fresh carnation each day. He figured they cost the state $85 a year.

Understandably, the florist groups didn't like the idea. So, it offered to furnish three carnations daily, th third one for the clergyman who offers a prayer before the start of each session.

Red Reporter Defects to South Korea Side

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—A North Korean reporter for the Soviet Communist party newspaper Pravda defected to South Korea today during a meeting of the Military Armistice Commission at Panmunjom. He said he feared the Communists would execute him as a reactionary.

Lee Dong Joon, 30, expressed concern for his wife and 2-month-old daughter, still in the Communist North Korean capital of Pyongyang.

Aid Bill Adding Budget Strain

39 Senators Requesting $375 Million to Help Depressed Areas

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Thirty nine Senators from both parties tossed a new challenge at President Eisenhower's economy campaign today by calling for a 375 million dollar program of aid to depressed areas.

The measure is patterned closely after one the President vetoed as too costly last August. It contrasted with the administration's request for 55 million dollars next year to help areas hard hit by unemployment.

Sen. Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill.), who planned to introduce the bill on behalf of 32 Democratic and six Republican cosponsors, denied that it would be inflationary. He maintained that "dollars spent to promote production by otherwise idle or inefficiently employed resources . . . would in fact be anti-inflationary."

Eisenhower's veto was a big issue in many distressed areas in last year's congressional election campaign. Democratic leaders have made it clear they intend to push similar legislation through Congress again this year.

Williams Joins Federal Hike Protest

See No Increase Now in State Gasoline Tax

LANSING (UPI)—The man behind the wheel can relax while the men behind Michigan's tax planning scheme for new revenue.

Gov. G. Mennen Williams and most lawmakers say new taxes will be needed to finance the budget Williams presented to the Legislature today.

But they all agree now is no time to raise the state gasoline tax. They say it would be bad for business.

Williams said yesterday he would join a group of Governors in opposition to President Eisenhower's proposal to hike federal gas taxes from three to four and a half cents.

At the same time, Williams said he knew of no move to hike the state gas tax, which now is six cents a gallon.

The tax foundation, a non-profit tax research group, had reported Michigan was one of several states "seriously" considering increases of one to two cents a gallon.

The report came as news to Williams, the highway department and veteran lawmakers who normally would know of such a move.

"The gas tax has doubled since 1951," said Rep. Emil A. Peltz (R-Rogers City), chairman of the House Roads and Bridges Committee. "If the money is being used efficiently there is no reason for increasing the tax now."

Sen. Haskell L. Nichols (R-Jackson), chairman of the Senate Highway Committee, said he would oppose any gas tax boost this year.

Nichols and Williams both said the states, rather than the federal government, should reap benefits from gax taxes paid by motorists.

Williams said Michigan has a special interest in what happens to the gas tax.

"We're concerned about the effect on the automobile industry," Williams said.

State revenue officials point out high gasoline prices have been partially responsible for the popularity of small foreign cars, which use less gas.

Michigan and Texas, with its petroleum industry, are expected to lead the fight against the President's proposed gas tax hike.

Michigan and Texas are concerned about consumer resistance to gas prices.

Highway officials in all states are concerned about the trend toward diversion of gas tax revenue to other than highway uses.

A Michigan highway department spokesman said the department did not want a tax boost at this time, although he hinted there may be a move to boost the fees for license plates for smaller cars.

Six Full Freight Cars Sink in East River

NEW YORK (UPI)—Six loaded railroad freight cars sank yesterday after sliding off a car float being towed up the East River.

Two other cars of the 14-car load on the float also spilled into the river, but were saved.

The sunken cars, which were recovered, were loaded with coal, flour and cereal. Because of the accident, the river was closed off for eight hours to ships with a draft of more than 30 feet.

HELPING HAND—As a dutiful wife who helps her husband in politics Siobhan McKenna stars in "What Every Woman Knows," the DuPont Show of the Month tomorrow night at 9:30, Channel 2. James Donald co-stars in the comedy battle of the sexes which demonstrates that behind every man, there's a woman, whether he knows it or not.

Be Kind to Battery This Cold Winter

CHICAGO (UPI)—The Chicago Motor club offers these suggestions for cold-weather starting:

—Allow a 30 to 60-second rest period for the battery between starter tries. Continuous use of the starter for more than 30 to 45 seconds harms the battery.

—Avoid constant accelerator pumping when the starter is engaged.

—To keep the gas line from freezing, add eight ounces of grain alcohol or approved commercial equivalent to every other full tank of gas.

—Shift to neutral and accelerate the motor when standing in traffic. This counteracts the heavy battery drain imposed by lights, windshield wipers and other electrical accessories.

'Alphabet Conspiracy' Lot of Jabber, Prattle, Clack

By WILLIAM EWALD

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Bell system distributes nice telephones, but abysmal TV science shows. Obviously, the firm is long on technology, but not much on art.

Last night, the Bell science series tendered the third of its one hour specials of this NBC-TV season. "The Alphabet Conspiracy." It purported to be a study of language and a peculiar chow-chow it was, a medley of linguistic pickles of all shapes, sizes and smells chucked into the mixture in bits and pieces with hysterical cheer.

Some of those particulars were fascinating — some photos of the vocal chords in action, shots of a honey bee dance, a peek at Canary Islanders practicing their whistle language.

But none of these was ever really explored and worse, only the flimsiest of attempts was made to relate all these tidbits to the hash at hand.

As a result, the whole product was hodgepodge, a careless olio of jabber, gabble, chatter, prattle and clack.

Dr. Frank Baxter was in charge of narrating the piece and as usual, he delivered his lines in the semireverential tones of a man delivering a funeral oration over a dead cat.

Siobhan Takes Poke at American Wives

BY EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Irish actress Siobhan McKenna sat in a Chinese restaurant . . . in a Jewish neighborhood . . . sipping a German beer.

I: "Is it true you consider that American wives are spoiled rotten by their adoring husbands?"

She: "Ah, it's a woman's country, this! In Europe the backbone of every country is still the country people. There the woman's place is in the home and also out in the fields, planting and plowing. Here the woman's place is in the beauty parlor and the pub."

I: "Then my B.W. is an extremely lucky woman?"

SHE: "That I wouldn't want to say without knowing you better. But the new thing in medicine is for a woman to get right up after having a baby and walk around. This is a great discovery? In Ireland women've been doing it for centuries—and going straight back to the fields."

A rose trembled on Miss McKenna's yellowish sweater.

Rehearsing in a Lower East Side theater a few doors away for "What Every Woman Knows" on TV this Wednesday she was a little tired—of some of our luxuries.

SIOBHAN

SHE: "Your central heating dries out my skin and throat. I turn it off even in cold weather. The heating from other apartments is enough for me. Sometimes, in a hot hotel, I almost faint. If it's cold, I light a fire in the fireplace. I think women here are too lazy to light a fire."

I: "I see you like tea."

SHE: "Do you know the Chinese drink tea for special reasons? Chrysanthemum tea is for a hangover. Anna Mae Wong told me tea's for productivity. I looked at her. She said, 'Why do you think there are so many Chinese? Because there's so much tea!'"

I: "Mustn't you be going back to rehearsal?"

SHE: "Yes, and I have a perpetual fear of being late. I guess it's because when I was starting out in Dublin, I couldn't afford an alarm clock."

Education Board Bill Introduced

O'Brien's Plan Would Strip Detroit Body of School Budget Control

LANSING (AP)—Branding the Detroit Board of Education "irresponsible," Rep. E. D. O'Brien (D-Detroit) last night introduced a bill which would strip the board of its control over the city school budget.

Specifically, the measure would require first class school districts to submit their budgets to the city governing body for approval, in Detroit the common council.

"This bill would restore the procedure we formerly used in Detroit," said O'Brien. "We need a more responsible body there to administer school needs."

O'Brien accused the seven-member board of failing to fulfill school construction promises and at the same time doubling the school budget in the last 10 years.

"Now, they're carrying on a terific propaganda campaign to get us to increase the school millage even more," he said.

Flies In to Play Comedy Theme

Actress From Ireland Finds Stereotypes, TV Her Biggest Surprises

Soundly built on the infallible assumption that men are stubborn but women know how to handle them, James M. Barrie's rollicking comedy of the sexes, "What Every Woman Knows," is the DuPont "Show of the Month" Wednesday (9:30 p.m., Channel 2).

As the story opens, James and David Wylie (Tim O'Connor and Cyril Cusack) are despairing of finding a husband for their plain but clever sister Maggie (Siobhan McKenna), when they and their father, Alick (Liam Redmond) surprise an unusual burglar in their home.

The Wylie men strike a bargain with the intruder, John Shand (James Donald): (they'll pay for his educaiton if he'll marry Maggie in five years.

Six years later the thoroughly educated John wins his campaign for Parliament and marries Maggie. Although a humorless man, John has built a reputation for wit via his speeches, but it is Maggie who, in typing them, adds the humor.

Soon homized by beautiful women, John announces to Maggie that he is in love with Lady Sybil (Diana Van Der Vlis), that she "inspires" him.

When cabinet minister Charles Venables (John Williams) offers John a cabinet post, contingent on the success of his next major speech, Maggie enlists the aid of Lady Sybil's sympathetically shrewd aunt, the Comtesse de la Briere (Martita Hunt), who helps her in a hilarious scheme to prove just how inspiring Lady Sybil is to John—and also to prove 'what every woman knows': that although he won't admit it, behind every 'self-made' man is the woman really responsible for his success.

Although she stars as a Scotch girl, Siobhan McKenna can't forget she's Irish. Americans won't let her.

"There seems to be an insatiable curiosity about Ireland," she says. "And I suppose they figure that since I've just gotten off the boat—or rather plane, I can tell them whether the Irish really are the pixies they're made out to be in this country. Well, I can tell them—and I do, that the Irishmen conjured up by most Americans are less logical than leprechauns, and wouldn't be recognized on the streets of Dublin.

"The Irish actually do other things than brawl and drink. They work. And they talk. The English always stop for tea. The Irish stop for conversation.

"And those Irish stereotypes in the movies, with all that 'begorrah' and 'top o' the mornin'' business! It's extraordinary that only in America do I ever hear this kind of talk.

"And the St. Patrick's Day parades over here with the fourth generation Irish celebratin noisily. Why, in Ireland, it is a quiet holiday and everyone goes to church. The pubs are closed on that day, and that night, too.

"Oh, now, I don't advocate stopping the St. Paddy's Day hullabaloo over here," Miss McKenna explains. "I guess it's a fine achievement for a tiny country like Ireland to cause such a stir in a big continent like America."

"One of the things that I really envy Americans is their television. We have absolutely none in Ireland. At least, we have no stations. We do manage to 'pirate' shows now and then from England. That is, when reception is good, we can get perhaps three of their programs.

"But," she laughs, "American television really is a wonder! It's so easy to hop an airliner and spend three weeks in this country doing a television show. And you do such magnificent productions here of really good plays. Just watching them put up the sets for 'What Every Woman Knows' impresses me."

"If Americans have a lot to learn about the Irish," she adds, "I'm afraid the Irish have everything to learn about this aspect of American entertainment. It's so fantastic that I don't see how Ireland—or any other country—could ever catch up!"

Tuller Phone Operators Win Detroit Citations

DETROIT (AP)—The Detroit Police Department has awarded civilian citations to two Tuller Hotel switchboard operators who remained at their posts while fire swept through the hotel lobby Jan. 17.

Commissioner Herbert W. Hart presented the citation to Mrs. Eva Desser, 58, and Mrs. Crystal Hartranft, 53. Both operators notified hotel guests of the fire.

The state of California has 838 state-supervised dams and 79 federal dams.

Says Hayden May Get by With Plans

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor Sterling Hayden, 42, is off to Tahiti with his four children in a 65-year-old boat, and his lawyer thinks there's a chance he may get away with defying a judge's ban on the trip.

Attorney Grant Cooper says he doubts any South Seas government would honor extradition papers even if they are issued.

"Contempt of court is only a misdemeanor," he said, "not a felony. It could be done, of course, but it never has been."

Superior Judge Emil Gumpert, who declined to issue a contempt citation against the actor Monday, scheduled a hearing today of further arguments.

Hayden's former wife, Betty Ann de Noon Hayden, 36, asked for the contempt citation in an effort to bring Hayden and the children back from the cruise. Judge Gumpert banned the voyage on the grounds that the 98-foot schooner Wanderer is unseaworthy.

With Hayden and his children are seven other men, five women and three more children. They sailed Jan. 18 three days after the judge banned the voyage.

Detroit Exhausts Fund for Snow Removal

DETROIT (AP)—The Detroit Public Works Department said it has exhausted the $700,000 originally appropriated for snow removal this year.

Department spokesmen said they will seek another $300,000 for snow removal this winter. Thus far the city has used 41,000 tons of salt.

Q. When should a young child's eyes be first examined?
A. At the time of the preschool physical examination a complete visual examination record should be made of all children's eyes so that any necessary preventive or corrective measures can be taken.

Q. Must I wear my glasses all the time?
A. Usually glasses are prescribed to take care of a specific seeing difficulty and your Optometrist should advise when to wear them. A nearsighted person, particularly with their first pair of glasses, never needs to wear them for reading and close work. In the same manner a person who has to use reading glasses for their close work does not have to use the glasses to see distance.

Q. I have 20/20 vision, yet my Optometrist ground a correction in the Safety Glasses that I wear at work. Why is this necessary?
A. The Snellen letter chart, read at 20 feet, is of little or no value as a test for vision for most industrial jobs, because most tasks requiring high visual efficiency are performed within arm's length, and it is the near-point rather than the distant vision that is most important in your case.

Khrushchev, Red Leaders Now Full of Confidence

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet leaders who walked into their 21st party congress today were a lot more confident group than met three years ago to hear Nikita S. Khrushchev downgrade Stalin.

Khrushchev showed a lot of confidence at that time, to be sure in his own ability to destroy the memory of Stalin and still survive in the Kremlin power struggle and in the future of the Soviet Union.

It was at that time he suggested Communist parties elsewhere could feel free to do their own thinking. It was an idea that came to a quick and bloody end when Hungarians, seizing a little freedom, tried for more and were crushed.

History will probably say Khrushchev in 1956 did what he had to do in condemning the long tyranny of Stalin. He wanted to destroy the image of Stalin which represented terror and oppression to all peoples everywhere.

If communism—Soviet brand—was to extend its influence in Asia, Africa and even Europe it had to put on a much friendlier and a more reasonable and helpful face than Stalin ever displayed.

Khrushchev's new policy has worked pretty well. Russian influence has been extended. But Khrushchev in 1956 was in a position to know, what the rest of the world didn't, that Russia would soon be able to dazzle the world.

It did that late in 1957 when it shot its Sputniks aloft and made clear it was far advanced—more so, it seems, than the United States — in the development of long range missiles.

Those missiles as they develop —or so the Soviets hope and say—will be a tremendous counter force to the bases which this country has built around the Soviet Union with the cooperation of American allies.

But nothing shows better how much more confident Khrushchev is now than this; in 1956 he preached sweet reasonableness. Now he's demanding the United States withdraw its forces from West Berlin.

Ever since he made the demand in November the Western world has been able to talk about little else, and Khrushchev, judging from the gay way in which he dwells on the subject, enjoys the West's concern.

He was in a gay mood Monday night at a diplomatic reception, promising to make such a long speech at the party congress today that he said he had advised Communist leaders to bring their lunch.

He can afford to be gay: He's undisputed master in the Soviet Union. In the years since 1956 he has sent into oblivion such old Communist stalwarts as Molotov, Malenkov and Bulganin.

Since Khrushchev has a good sense of the dramatic it's quite possible he will come up with some startling pronouncements at the congress meeting.

'Stevenson for Secretary of State'—Mrs. Roosevelt

NEW YORK (AP) — Eleanor Roosevelt's choice for secretary of state under a Democratic administration is Adlai Stevenson.

She named the party's two-time unsuccessful candidate for president in her column, "If You Ask Me," in the February issue of McCall's, out today.

In a previous column, Mrs. Roosevelt said she still felt Stevenson would make a splendid president, but, because of previous defeats, "probably will not want to run again."

Make 6,000 Calls in Waterford

½ Last Year's Police Force Makes Same Number as in '57

Operating with half as many patrolmen as it had the previous year, the Waterford Township Police Department last year answered almost the same number of calls as in 1957.

This fact was included in Police Chief Millard Pender's annual report, citing 6,087 miscellaneous calls made by eight patrolmen in 1958, compared to 6,268 calls in 1957 by the 16-man department.

There was a big drop in summons issued this year with only 189 reported, compared to 1,783 in 1957.

The department's four police cars were driven 140,375 miles last year and there were 337 arrests during that time compared to 395 arrests made in 1957.

Besides the eight officers, there are two radio-operator typists on the present police department staff. Seven auxiliary ($1-a-year) policemen have been trained and are available at a moment's notice, Pender said.
