IT'S A WHOPPER—Steven Banfield, 5851 Tubbs, Waterford Township, is puzzled why one turnip in his garden grew so big while all the others were of normal size. The huge blue-top turnip dug up yesterday measures 34 inches in circumference and 11 inches in diameter.

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — Investigators today worked on the theory that leaking gas ignited by a concession stand stove caused the Halloween evening explosion that killed 63 persons at an ice show here.

Hopes High
in College Bid

Pontiac is still in the running for a proposed $30-million osteopathic college, reports Max Adams, manager of the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce.

Adams, who returned yesterday from a Washington, D.C. conference with government and college officials, said a decision was expected within a week or two.

The object of the week-long trip was to discuss financing the proposed college.

Osteopathic officials wonder if federal urban renewal land can be purchased with federal funds. Adams says they can, but urban renewal authorities must confirm it.

“We stand a very fine chance,” Adams added, “and we have to be confident because nothing has been said to make us feel otherwise.”

Dem Leaders
Ready to Deal on Tax Reform

State GOP Must Get Key Opposition Votes to Support Program

LANSING (AP) — Democratic leaders, aware that their party holds the key votes on Gov. George Romney's tax reform plan in the legislature, say they are already ready to start bargaining.

“I'm not ready to say whether we will give a push to any kind of a compromise tax package,” said House minority leader Joseph Kowalski, D-Detroit.

“But we are willing to meet with the Republicans and talk things over.”

Democrats regard themselves as being in a strategic position, because the revised tax reform program is locked in committee in the Senate and apparently lacks the GOP votes it would need to pass the House.

House Republicans will caucus Monday night, when the legislature reconvenes, to poll themselves on the revised program.

ENOUGH STRENGTH
Romney and House speaker Allison Green, R-Kingston, say they expect to find enough strength to bring the bills out of committee but both admit that Democratic support will be needed to pass them, on the floor.

As cranes pulled apart the debris inside the big coliseum at the Indiana State Fairgrounds, investigators found a half-dozen butane gas tanks. Two of them were ruptured. At least four were impounded.

There were “wild rumors” galore, Anderson said. Some said no permits had been issued for the butane gas. Anderson said investigators were checking out reports a concession worker “discovered hissing gas, saw the fog and yelled ‘Clear out.’”

The explosion originated in or near the refreshment counters below the south tier of seats in the huge oval-shaped auditorium. It ripped through the concrete floor beneath a section of 330 seats, best in the house.

STANDS ERUPT
The blast flung men, women and children, and chairs, and huge chunks of concrete 50 feet into the air onto the rink where “Holiday on Ice” skaters were pirouetting in the grand finale before an audience of 4,600. Then came flames.

The dead and injured contained the names of some of the most prominent persons in the community.

The victims included Dwight Keim, former Mayor of West Lafayette, Ind.; Herman Schmitz, former Commandant of the Indiana State Soldiers Home, and his wife; Earl H. Myer, executive vice president of the Indiana Farmers Mutual Insurance Co., and his wife; George Schumaker, an advertising executive for the Indianapolis News and Star; and Doctors Marshall McClung and Jesse Staten.

Fred Kortepeter, 62, Indianapolis, collapsed and died while apparently looking for a relative or friend at the temporary morgue set up on the ice of the coliseum.

October Production
Breaks Auto Record

DETROIT (AP) — Automobile production for October was the highest for any month in history, figures from the industry indicated yesterday.

With various records reported by individual manufacturers, the total passenger car production came out at 798,716 as compared to the prior March 1955 all-time high of 794,015.

Last year the total for October was 723,575.

This brought the 10-month total for the year to 6,145,957. The 10-month total last year was 5,599,584.

Truck production for the 10 months was 936,292 as against 799,681 for the same period last year.

General Motors reported production of 402,353 cars in October compared to its prior highest monthly total of 398,169 last May. Ford made 232,727 cars, compared to its prior monthly high of 210,892 in November 1955, another industry boom year.

PONTIAC BREAKS RECORD
Pontiac Motor turned out 45,135 Pontiacs and 17,168 Tempests in October to top the October 1962 mark of 39,032 Pontiacs and 15,080 Tempests.

Chrysler said it produced 110,275 passenger cars in October compared to 90,087 for October 1962.

American Motors reported a record production of 89,976 cars for its model year to date, an increase of 20 per cent over this date a year ago.

Studebaker reported it made 10,657 cars in October, a drop from October of last year. Studebaker's total was 15,003 in October 1962.

“Too much talk about the use of tax reduction as anti-inflation to a hypothetical recession—could actually help to bring about an undue public preoccupation with the possibility of a recession and result in helping to bring one into being,” Townsend said.

But when word of the suicides reached her, the aide said, “This changes the picture entirely.”

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Mrs. Ngo Dinh Nhu, secluded behind her double-locked hotel door, prepared a statement late last night on reports her husband, South Viet Nam's strong man, Ngo Dinh Nhu, had committed suicide after their surrender in a military coup.

But she withheld the statement while keeping track of news reports. Her travel plans depend upon them.

Buddhists Rule
in Viet Capital

TOKYO (AP) — Military rebels in South Viet Nam announced today the death of President Ngo Dinh Diem and his brother Ngo Dinh Nhu, and proclaimed a new government led by Buddhists.

Some accounts filtering from Saigon — where thousands danced in the streets — said the brothers committed suicide, others that they were shot to death.

Suicide was the story broadcast by the rebel-held Radio Saigon.

This terse account, as pieced together by diplomatic sources in Bangkok, Thailand and in Washington, was that the president, 62, and his brother, 52, killed themselves upon being recaptured after once escaping military custody.

A Bangkok diplomat said the two were reported to have swallowed poison on the way to jail in an armory's car from a church in Saigon's Chinese quarter where they had taken refuge.

There was no independent confirmation. Some diplomats wondered whether the two would have so braced their Roman Catholic faith as to take that way out, for the Church condemns suicide.

The American Broadcasting Co., announced it had received word from its Saigon correspondent that a nervous officer shot the brothers after taking them into custody at the church.

NEWS CENSORED
Some news dispatches filtered from Saigon after a long blackout about the 18-hour revolutionary strike, but censorship held back many details.

The victorious generals gave the reins of a provisional government to Nguyen Ngoc Tho, 55, a slender Buddhist who had served as Diem's vice president since 1956.

The United States, which officially disclaimed any part in the coup, expects the new government to heal the rift with the nation's Buddhist majority and specially press the U.S. backed war against Communist guerrillas.

JFK CALLS OFF TRIP
President Kennedy called off a trip to Chicago for the Army-Air Force football game and remained at the White House to keep in close touch with the Vietnamese situation.

A Western newsman who saw the Saigon fighting told reporters on arriving in Bangkok there was no firm estimate of the losses on either side, but a rough guess would be a total of about 100.

“They threw an awful lot of stuff at each other,” he said. “It's surprising there weren't more casualties.”

“There was a cease-fire at dawn. The impression in Bangkok was that Diem and Nhu managed to escape temporarily at that time, only to be picked up later at the church.”

There were only fragmentary details on their deaths. Only the Vietnamese press was said to have been permitted to photograph the bodies.

FLED CAPTORS
A Saigon radio broadcast said the brothers were taken into custody after a while they were hoisted over the battle-scarred presidential palace.

They were recaptured — it was not disclosed how or where — and committed suicide, the broadcast said.

Mobs Dance, Cheer;

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — Tens of thousands of Vietnamese danced and paraded through littered streets today in a rowdy and exuberant celebration.

There was little doubt that the coup against the Ngo Dinh Diem regime was a popular one. But in some sections of the city, the celebration got out of hand.

Crowds pillaged pro-government newspapers, smashed stores and tore down statues and posters associated with the Diem regime.

For the first few hours, victorious revolutionary troops stood by, not interfering. By noon, they started moving in to protect property and attempt to restore order.

SEEN AS ENEMY
“We did not want to interfere at first,” a Vietnamese colonel told the Associated Press.

“The people have looked too long on the army as its enemy. We want to reestablish the fact that we are all friends now.”

Students paraded through the streets with banners proclaiming “Down With Diem, Down With Nhu.”

They stormed into the National Assembly building, smashing windows and tearing down portraits of Diem. They lit a huge bonfire in front of the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Gregory, an American couple who have been publishing the Times of Viet Nam, financed by Diem's family.

BURN HOMES
They set fire to the homes of several pro-government officials, smashed book stores owned by Diem's family and tore down a giant stone statue of the “Truong Sinh” legendary Vietnamese heroes who have been publicized and promoted by Mme. Ngo Dinh Nhu.

Joint Moon Trip Chance Looks Dim to Diplomats

MOSCOW (UPI) — Western diplomats said today they see no prospect of a joint Soviet-American moon project anytime soon despite Premier Nikita Khrushchev's qualified approval of the idea.

The diplomats said Khrushchev is unwilling to present to join in a joint venture like that suggested by President Kennedy in his U.N. speech Sept. 20, presumably because it would involve disclosure of Soviet rocket secrets.

They recalled that the Russian Premier rejected a similar proposal outright when Kennedy suggested it at their 1961 meeting in Vienna.

He is coolly cordial to the idea now, perhaps because of the recent U.S. gains in the space race.

In an impressive toast at a diplomatic reception here yesterday, Khrushchev said "cooperation between states in exploring outer space would be materially advanced" if it were possible to attain "a relaxation of tensions" supported by practical steps in disarmament.

TOAST TO SCIENTISTS

The Premier was toasting the Soviet scientists responsible for the launching "Flight-1," an unmanned spacecraft which the Russians say can be maneuvered from the earth by remote control.

The Soviet agency Tass said the "guided, maneuverable spacecraft" has already boosted itself from one orbit into a different and larger one.

Observers said such maneuvers make it at least theoretically possible to link up two or more spacecraft to form a "space platform" which might be used as a way station for flights into deep space.

There was immediate speculation that the Russians may soon launch a second spacecraft, probably called "Flight-2," and attempt a rendezvous in orbit.

GEMINI PROJECT

The U.S. Gemini project, which involves two-man spacecraft, includes provisions for orbital linkups and space flights lasting as long as a week.

The launching of Flight-1 indicated Russia intends to go on with advanced space experiments despite Khrushchev's weekend announcement that the Kremlin is bowing out of the moon race.

The charges and countercharges were made after both Algeria and Morocco had announced that the cease-fire was being observed.

ORDER GIVEN

Algerian President Ahmed Ben Bella said late last night he had ordered his forces to respect the cease-fire.

The Moroccan Army commander in the Fiquig area said he had given similar orders to his forces.

Hours after the fighting stopped, however, both sides reported it had resumed.

Mortar shells were falling in downtown Fiquig at 7 a.m., and Moroccan sources said an estimated 3,000 Algerian troops were attacking with tanks, mortars and rocket rifles.

The Algerians charged the Moroccans unleashed attacks at almost exactly the same hour against the village of Beni Ounif, about a mile from here but on the Algerian side of the border.

Diem, Nhu Are Dead

(Continued From Page One) and night siege of the presidential palace. A 90-minute dawn tank and artillery attack preceded Diem's capitulation after eight years of rule.

The leader of the coup was Gen. Duong Van Minh, 47, a polyglot Buddhist who once received Diem's warm embrace for his successful crackdown on Saigon's brothels and gambling dens.

RANKING BUDDHIST

A civilian and former vice president, Nguyen Ngoc Tho, was named provisional president. As the ranking Buddhist in the Diem government, he was a leader in the campaign to conciliate South Viet Nam's angered Buddhists.

It was Diem's treatment of Buddhists, capped by the government's August raids on pagodas and ensuing arrests, that marked the country's final disenchantment with him and his family.

One of the first acts of the new government was to release political prisoners, students and Buddhist monks and nuns imprisoned under Diem and Nhu.

In Washington, U.S. officials reacted cautiously to the overthrow of the Diem government, with which the United States has had a running argument in recent months because of the Buddhist crisis.

U.S NOT INVOLVED

A State Department spokesman said the United States was in no way involved in Diem's ouster. Military officials, however, said they believe the revolutionary committee of generals has the popular support for an intensified war effort against the Communist Viet Cong guerrillas.

At the height of the battle, little news of the revolt filtered from the city. Commercial lines of communication were disrupted.

The coup began at noon yesterday, with an attack on the presidential palace, a stucco building in downtown Saigon. The rebels encountered stiff resistance from Diem's loyal palace guards and his crack 2,000-man detachment of special forces. As the battle grew more fierce it became apparent Diem's time was limited.

ASK SURRENDER

The rebels halted the attack for three hours, during which they offered Diem and his brother a pledge of safe conduct if they surrendered. They refused, and again the insurgents opened their attack.

The battle raged through the streets. Rebel marines surrounded the national and municipal police headquarters which they captured.

As night fell, rebel mortars fired point blank at army headquarters where Diem's palace guard was held up. By midnight, the center was reduced to rubble and tanks rolled in.

By 4 a.m. today, 10 tanks moved in on the presidential palace from the east. Others ringed the building from the west and the south.

At night, rebel marines fired at the cream-colored palace. Adjoining buildings were ablaze.

It was clear Diem, Nhu and their few remaining soldiers could not survive the merciless pounding much longer. At 6:37 a.m., a white flag fluttered over the palace.

Diem and Nhu had surrendered unconditionally.

Deaths Laid to Murder, Suicide

LIVONIA (AP) — The bodies of a 72-year-old man, his 64-year-old wife and the couple's 39-year-old son were found today in the partially burned home of the son in this west side Detroit suburb.

Police said Charles T. Donohue, a retired factory worker, apparently shot his wife, Elizabeth, 64, and son Charles T. Jr., 39, set fire to the upstairs of his home (30110 Greenland) and then shot himself with a deer rifle.

Firemen answering an alarm turned in by a neighbor found the bodies. The son's body was found in an upstairs bedroom.

Mrs. Donohue's body and that of her husband were found downstairs.

Police said the elder Donohue apparently shot his son, a former Detroit Police officer, in an upstairs bedroom, came downstairs and shot his wife and then turned his rifle on himself.

There were no immediate explanation for the shootings.

Barry Explains View of Welch

Doesn't Want Birch in His Political Corner

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater says he has no intention of denouncing members of the John Birch Society as long as what they do and say is "temperate and in keeping with the decency called for in American politics."

But the Arizona Republican doesn't put the society's founder, Robert Welch, in that category.

Goldwater says he long ago took issue with Welch—who has called former President Dwight D. Eisenhower a traitor and the late John Foster Dulles a Communist.

"The argument in my opinion, against the Birch society centers on Mr. Welch," Goldwater said.

EXPLAINS VIEWS

The senator spelled out his views on the society in a letter to Thomas M. Storke, editor and publisher of the Santa Barbara, Calif., News-Press.

Storke won a Pulitzer Prize in 1962 for editorials "calling public attention to the efforts of the semicretive John Birch Society to wage a campaign of hate and vilification in Santa Barbara."

When he didn't get a reply, Storke published an editorial Oct. 12, advising Goldwater: "If you really hope to enter the presidential race as a champion of responsible conservatism, you cannot afford to have raging lunaticism, slanderers and racists parading under your banner."

LETTER ASTRAY

In his Oct. 21 reply, made public today, Goldwater said the letter apparently went astray and he wasn't aware of it until Storke published his editorial.

Goldwater said he does not agree with the society's call for impeachment of Chief Justice Earl Warren, elimination of the income tax and U.S. withdrawal from the United Nations.

"I have followed your campaign against Mr. Welch," Goldwater wrote, "and I would like to inform you that I had openly expressed my disagreement with that gentleman quite some time before you took up the cudgels."

Goldwater, who has said the Birch society is not a power in U.S. politics anyhow, underscored his insistence that he will not denounce society members.

Pontiac Girl, 19, Struck by Car; Motorist Flees

A hit and run driver who injured a 19-year-old Pontiac girl last night is being sought by police.

A 1960 or '61 Corvair Monza is believed to be the model of the car that struck Christine L. Johnson of 238½ Perry while she was crossing Perry near Fairgrove at 10:30 p.m.

Miss Johnson was released from St. Joseph Mercy Hospital after being treated for a shoulder and knee injury.

A witness told police that the driver was a young man. He said that after the car hit the girl, it slowed down and then sped away.

Birmingham Area News Youngsters to Learn How Books Are Made

BIRMINGHAM — Youngsters visiting the Baldwin Public Library next week will learn how manuscripts are transformed into books for them to enjoy.

Classes of children will be shown the film "The Story of a Book" in the boys and girls department of the library. The movie shows how book publishers produce Helling Clay's story of a hermit crab, "Papa."

In addition to seeing the film, young visitors will have an opportunity to inspect the cream of the crop in brand-new children's books, 100 in all.

Also featured during the National Book Week observance will be a display of the works of five perennial favorites in the juvenile literature field — Elizabeth Enright, Lois Sloobkin, Nancy Faulkner, Clement Hurd and Noel Steinfeld.

Although the film will be shown only to classroom groups visiting the library Monday through Friday, the book display will remain through Nov. 16.

Birmingham will be host to the first State Foreign Language Committee workshop of the year Friday.

School superintendents, administrators and foreign language teachers, as well as other interested persons from across the state, will attend.

The workshop, to be held at Groves High School, will include demonstrations and displays devoted to four foreign languages, French, German, Spanish and Russian.

Dr. John B. Smith, Birmingham school superintendent, will welcome the group at 9:15 a.m., immediately after registration. The program will continue until 3:30 p.m.

Romney Turnout Is Small

DETROIT (AP) — A campaign to promote Michigan Gov. George Romney for the 1964 Republican presidential nomination got off to a shaky start yesterday when an embarrassingly small crowd turned out for a $6-a-plate fund-raising dinner.

Sponsors of the event were plainly disappointed when they viewed the crowd of about 80 persons in the Detroit suburb of Garden City.

The national chairman of the draft — Romney movement — George Zimmermann of Dallas, Tex. — said the organization would proceed with plans to stir up grass-roots support for the governor.

Today, a "Romney Bandwagon" was to begin a cross-country tour winding up next summer at San Francisco, site of the Republican National Convention.

Loaded Trailer

The "bandwagon" is a 15-foot house trailer loaded with Romney buttons, brochures and bumper-stickers.

Some of the Romney backers blamed the small turnout at the kickoff dinner on his repeated insistence that he is not a candidate and will not become a candidate next year.

Although Romney has not ruled out the possibility of a draft, he has turned a cold shoulder to the move to get him the nomination.

He turned down an invitation to attend the dinner and refused to meet Zimmermann to accept a ten-gallon Texas hat as a gift.

NEVER MET

Zimmermann has never met Romney, and Henry Nephew of Garden City says he has made no contact with Romney since he became governor and only saw him briefly from a distance before that.

The possibility of entering Romney's name in the New Hampshire primary next March was raised by Zimmermann during a news conference.

But in Lansing, word came quickly from the executive office that Romney would not need his name to be entered in any primary.

Under New Hampshire law, a candidate's consent is not needed to enter his name, but the names are withdrawn on request.

Pontiac Tavern Looted by Thief; Flees With $700

Seven hundred dollars was stolen early this morning from a safe at Harry's Bar, 568 Sanford.

Jessie Turner, 38, a bartender who rooms above the bar, told Pontiac police he went downstairs to investigate a noise at 3:45 a.m.

He said he saw a man run out of the building but could give no description.

Twenty-five cartons of cigarettes and four bottles of whisky also were taken.

The owner, Harry R. Chambers, 46, of 2300 Middle Belt, West Bloomfield Township, told police he may have left the safe unlocked. There was no sign of forced entry.

Same Pattern as OU

Dixie School Looks Familiar

Oakland University may soon have a look-alike relation in Florida.

Dr. Kenneth D. Roose, OU associate dean for social sciences, said the proposed Florida Atlantic University resembles Oakland in many ways.

He has been a consultant on the development of the experimental Florida school.

Located on the site of a World War II air base, the new university is in Boca Raton, Florida, 56 miles north of Miami.

"The Florida school will be like OU in some respects, but decidedly different in others," Dr. Roose added.

BROUGHT TOGETHER

"What they've done," he said, "is to bring together all the experimental programs in higher education to see if they can be put into the junior and senior years."

He explained that the new school would be a two-year institution offering the last two years. In addition, it will admit graduate students right away.

FAU is slated to open its doors in the fall of 1964. An enrollment of 2,000 is expected. This is anticipated to swell to 10,000 by 1970.

"Frankly," Dr. Roose said, "they are an experimental college. They have a very big assignment."

EXPLAINS HOW

Asked how the new school's approach to experimental instruction compared to Oakland University, the associate dean commented that their experiments would be organized.

while it is left up to the individual instructors here.

Like the local university, the Florida school will emphasize a liberal arts curriculum. However, Dr. Roose expects that teacher education majors may be more numerous than expected.

The new university will not have intercollegiate athletics, fraternities or sororities, and about 80 percent of the students will commute.

Dr. Roose spent a week in Florida as a consultant. He took part in a program planning workshop.

A GRIM PLACE

He predicted the new university would be "a pretty grim place" the first few years.

He said to be an experimental school it was necessary to employ an innovative faculty. FAU must find 125 instructors by next fall.

The OU professor foresees still other problems. Foremost among these is building the proper image of the school.

He said this might prove difficult.

It is a problem, he claimed, to maintain high standards when you are committed to admit all students who finished two years at a junior college.

Dr. Roose said he thought Oakland University was "getting across" with its image, at least, with educators. He added that he thought Oakland had not departed too far from its original objectives.

Two Pontiac Teachers Attend Flint Workshop

Two Pontiac educators attended a three-day workshop in Flint this week.

Mrs. Jean Sturgeon, first grade teacher, and Richard Henderson, principal of Harrington Elementary School, took part in the eighth annual statewide Community Education Workshop Wednesday through Friday.

Voice of the People

Interest-bearing borrowed dollars with which to finance costly projects.

Detroit bought Wayne County water system years ago to go into the water business to help replenish its depleted coffers. Detroit city officials are awaiting Waterford's cityhood, for then Waterford can obtain the money for its $11 million (plus 38 years interest) program which will bring Detroit water into the area.

Waterford Township has the greatest source of ground water supply in the county and is felt to be an adequate source. However, this is to be ignored so that Detroit can push its high-priced water into our faucets and into areas beyond. The township engineers as far back as 1960 had already pinpointed the three spots where we will hook on to Detroit water.

The Cityhood Study Committee and the Waterford Citizens Action Committee for incorporation have pussyfooted the idea that if Waterford becomes a city "taxes need not necessarily increase." This is ridiculous. More money through higher taxes is the real reason behind this move.

Maynard J. Peters

Having attended the meeting at Pierce Jr. High at which Dr. Louis Friedland, Political Science Department of Wayne State University, was the main speaker, I have one question: If the speaker is an authority on local government, and I believe he is, and if he was to present unbiased facts, as we were led to believe he would, why was it stated over and over that no questions could be asked and no questions would be recognized if it would result in Dr. Friedland's giving an opinion?

Certainly his opinion wouldn't harm the sponsoring club, or was it because on Sept. 17, 1956, Dr. Friedland, when speaking in Waterford Township, said: "The charter township system does not prevent secession because it is not a municipal government. This is the single, most serious weakness of this type of government. As neighborhoods and communities develop, they become desirable to nearby cities and fragmentation takes place."

'Reconstructed M218 Is Dangerous'

As the owner of a neighborhood store, very little passes without my knowing about it.

The topic for the last month has been the construction of M218. Everyone I come in contact with feels it is the most dangerous road in Michigan. Between Walley Lake and Orchard Lake there are very few places you can pull off the road without dropping 10 feet into a field. The old M218 needed a few changes, but our roads should be constructed for everyone's enjoyment.

A great many people are already boycotting M218. What's it going to be like this winter?

Stop in or telephone and register a complaint.

FCC to Air Limits on Radio, TV Ads

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Communications Commission will hold a hearing on possible rules limiting the length and frequency of radio and television commercials Dec. 3.

The hearing was originally set for Nov. 25, but was rescheduled yesterday after it was learned the National Association of Broadcasters has a convention scheduled for that date.

The chemical warfare service was made an army branch in 1920.

Accused Red Spies Go Home

NEW YORK (AP) — Three accused Soviet spies expelled by the United States flew home to Russia Friday night after one indicated the espionage charges as nonsense.

The one-word description was offered by Yuri A. Romashin, 38, third secretary of the Russian delegation to the United Nations, as he and two other delegation employees departed from Idlewild Airport.

The accused trio left for Stockholm en route to the Soviet Union. The State Department had requested that the three leave the country. They could not be prosecuted here because of diplomatic immunity. Besides Romashin, the other two are Gleb A. Pavlov, 39, a Soviet attaché, and Vladimir I. Olenov, 37, identified only as a delegation employee. Their wives and Romashin's young daughter and Olenov's infant son left with them.

"I'm very glad to be going home," Romashin told reporters. "We send our best wishes to the American workers."

The FBI said the three Russians had conspired with an American engineer and a Soviet citizen who did not enjoy diplomatic immunity, to steal data on a "highly sensitive Air Force contract."

The latter two, Igor A. Ivanov, 33, a chauffeur for Amberg, the Soviet trading agency, and U.S. citizen John W. Butenko, 38, of Orange, N.J., an engineer for the International Electric Corp., are being held by federal authorities for prosecution on spy charges.

'Holiday Prelude' Set

A fashion show, card party, refreshments, and bazaar combine Wednesday at the parish hall at St. Benedict's Church when the St. Thomas Unit presents "Holiday Prelude."

Fashions by Arthurs will reveal styles for women from six to 60 for the winter and holiday seasons. A card party, refreshments, door and table prizes will follow the show.

A small bazaar will provide a selection of inexpensive homemade items such as aprons, toys, novelties and baked goods.

Mrs. Homer Harrison is refreshment chairman. Reservations can be made by calling Mrs. Jeffery Cornish or Mrs. Hurtubise.

Experimenting with decorations for the "Holiday Prelude" to be presented by the St. Thomas Unit of St. Benedict's Church are from left Mrs. Fred Hurtubise of Tilmor Drive, chairman;

Mrs. James F. Brown of Edgeboro Drive; and Mrs. Thomas Sweetnam of Loch Leven Drive, decorations chairman.

You Should Still Write Thank You

By The Emily Post Institute
Q. I am getting married shortly and have a question I would like answered. At the reception, there will be wedding favors at each place at the table.

Attached to these favors is a tag reading, "Thank you for coming to our wedding" and the names of the bride and groom printed below.

Is it necessary, in addition to this, to write thank-you notes for the gifts we receive, or will this suffice?

Some say we should and others say it is not necessary. May I please have your opinion?

A. The "thank you for coming to our wedding" tags cannot possibly take the place of hand-written thank-you notes which you must write to everyone who sends you a present.

Q. When salad is served on a separate plate with the meat course, where should the plate be placed?

Everyone seems to take for granted that it belongs on the left but I think it should be on the right.

In my opinion, there is not only less space on the left if a bread-and-butter plate is used but it is also awkward to reach across the dinner plate to eat the salad.

What do you have to say about this?

A: When salad is served with the meat course, the salad plate is correctly placed at the left of the dinner plate. The bread - and - butter plate is above the salad plate and does not interfere with it.

American Women Swindled on Mistagged Mohair Sweaters

The mislabeling of Italian mohair sweaters was condemned as a hoax on the American public recently by Congressmen.

Q. C. Fisher (D., Texas) at the House of Representatives.

Imports for the month of July alone totaled more than $10,000,000 at retail.

In the first seven months of this year, the value of Italian imports of mohair sweaters showed a 125% increase over the volume for the entire year of 1961 on the same merchandise.

Congressman Fisher reported that of supplies of deception which may very well cause the buying public to get a false impression of the mohair fiber.

Mohair is a specialty fiber. Its reputation for resiliency and durability is well known. The growers have spent years improving the product, and this has added to its demand, both at home and abroad.

But the importation of these sweaters, labeled falsely with respect to their mohair content, has a serious adverse effect upon the consumer's acceptance and preference for the mohair fiber.

AFFECTING INDUSTRY

Actually, the mislabeling swindle is affecting the entire sweater industry that includes mohair producers, yarn spinners, American designers and knitwear mills and many related industries engaged in the production of mohair fashions.

Representative Fisher emphasized the fact that, while imports are frequently promoted under the claim of "superior styling," most of them are produced in city slums and on farms under conditions ordinarily prohibited to American manufacturers.

"The wages paid to the workers," he said, "are a mere pittance by comparison with American wage rates."

The situation is so serious that numerous groups have urged the Federal Trade Commission and the U.S. Customs to take action. A spokesman for one of them, Woolknit Associates, Inc., declared that the unfair competition has wrought havoc with the domestic industry's sales on mohair sweaters which are at a standstill.

The mislabeling is not only a great exaggeration of the mohair content, but cheap rove yarns sometimes used, have none of mohair's superior wearing qualities.

Woolknit Associates points out that American manufacturers rightly comply with stipulations of the Wool Labeling Act which protects the consumer from false and misleading fiber identification on content. No such control now exists on imports.

For the past three years, mohair in the United States has been one of the most important style trends in the ready-to-wear industry, with all market indications that 1964 will be another booming year.

As the mohair-producing center of the world, the United States is vitally concerned about any threat to the fiber's reputation. (In 1961, of the 21,113,000 pounds, clean basis, produced in the United States, over 60% was exported.)

Costars for fall include quilted cotton and suede cloth in a varied and interchangeable collection. Pictured are a quilted shift which picks up the matching skirt pattern and a shorty wrap skirt. The coordinated collection also includes jammies, A-line skirts, jackets, slacks and vests. All by Chestnut Hill, division of Chestnut Hill Industries, and available locally.

BRIDAL BOUQUET

She carried gardenias and tea roses set in moss green ribbon.

Melinda Sue Simpson, her sister's honor maid, and bridesmaid Mary Anne Skinner of Berea wore moss green peau de seol. Their bouquets were bronze and gold chrysanthemums.

Jon A. Davis assisted his brother as best man. They are the sons of Mrs. C. Ed Davis of Berea and the late Mr. Davis. Gerald L. Skinner of Berea ushered with A. Jeffrey Hanselmann of Cincinnati, Ohio.

After a champagne reception at the Hopkins Hotel at Cleveland Hopkins Airport, the couple left for an eastern honeymoon. After mid-November they will be at home in Royal Oak.

Fabric Factors Determine Cycles

To properly gauge the length of a washer's suds and rinse cycles, consider these four factors: the type of fabric, the color, the amount of soil — and the manufacturer's directions for your machine.

Why Grow Old?

It seems like a woman should be able to mark off seven days in which to diet without adding any extras to her allowable calorie intake for that short time. However, this is easier said than done.

You are almost certain to have a house guest pop in during that time (no matter when you plan it), or receive an invitation for a party or two you simply cannot bear to miss. I don't know whether your friends are friends or fiends with their warm hospitality and wonderful food!

The woman who gains easily and is quite popular socially has a problem. Of course if she socializes during the seven days of my Trick AND Treat Diet she cannot expect to lose five pounds in that time.

However, there are tricks which will help not only during a special diet, but generally. If you have to watch your weight you will profit by the following suggestions.

The problem is much easier at a buffet supper than it is at a sit-down dinner. You can take care at a buffet without being noticed. You do not have to take some of everything. Ah! Even when seated you can take small helpings and play around with the highest caloric items.

Monday is the last day of my Trick AND Treat Diet which gives you a loss of about five pounds in seven days. Here are the menus for Sunday the last diet day.

BREAKFAST

One - half grapefruit, one teaspoon sugar.
One slice toast, very lightly buttered.
Two slices crisp bacon.
Coffee, one teaspoon sugar.

DINNER

Consome with parsley.
Celery and carrot sticks.
One-half medium broiler (one to one-half pound chicken or one good slice roasted chicken).
One medium baked potato seasoned with salt and parsley.
One-half cup cole slaw.
Peaches, two halves, one tablespoon syrup.

SUPPER

Egg omelet (with one teaspoon butter).
Eight ounces skim milk.
Three saltines.

If you have missed some of this diet or would like to have the complete diet in booklet form, send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for The Trick AND Treat Diet to Josephine Lowman in care of The Pontiac Press.

Levis Can Leave Oily Film in Wash

Did you know that new blue jeans and Levis sometimes leave an oily residue in the washing machine? To prevent this from soiling the next load of laundry, let the emptied washer run through a hot suds and rinse cycle.

From 1880 to 1890 the Pennsylvania oil fields were the chief sources of petroleum in the U.S.

Worshippers will receive a magazine entitled “Know Your Synod's Work” as they enter St. Paul Lutheran Church for services Sunday morning. Tomorrow will be observed as “Faith Forward Sunday.”

Pastor Maurice Shackell will preach on “Forward in the Spirit's Power.”

At 7 p.m. Sunday and again Wednesday evening the new motion picture, “A Letter to Nancy,” will be shown. This is the first feature-length movie to be produced in full color by Lutheran Church—Missouri Synod.

Professionally produced in Hollywood on the stages of Paramount Studios and Famous Films, the new 86-minute film portrays the conflict in the heart and soul of a self-assured church member.

As an attorney, he was able to convince a jury of the innocence of his client, but he found it impossible to express his faith to a nine-year-old girl.

Young People Offer
Billy Graham Movie

The Youth Fellowship of First Methodist Church is sponsoring a Billy Graham film, entitled "The Heart is a Rebel" at 7:30 p.m. Sunday.

The feature length production stars Ethel Waters, Georgia Lee and John Milford.

The story concerns a conflict in the life of a modern young couple when the husband, an advertising executive, can't find a place in his scheme of things for his wife's acceptance of the Christian faith.

Ethel Waters in the role of a practical nurse exerts a profound influence on the young couple through her day by day faith in God.

"The Heart is a Rebel" provides a front row perspective of the Graham Team in the crusade setting of Madison Square Garden, New York City.

The preaching of the evangelist is augmented by the singing of George B. Shea and music by the 1500-voice Crusade Choir under the direction of Cliff Barrows.

Rev., Mrs. Joe Lathrop Speak at Silvercrest

Rev. and Mrs. Joe Lathrop, under appointment to the field of Columbia will speak at the 9:45 a.m. Sunday School hour and at 11 a.m. worship in Silvercrest Baptist Church tomorrow.

Mrs. Lathrop will talk with the Jet Cadets at 6:30 p.m. and Rev. Mr. Lathrop will address the senior youth group at the same hour.

The Overseas Crusades film, "Venture for Victory" will be shown at 7:30 p.m. The film depicts one of the unusual ministries overseas.

The program consists of using outstanding college athletes to take the Gospel to the Orient by means of outdoor basketball games. Each year some of the nation's finest athletes are chosen to travel to the Orient where they play exhibition basketball games before capacity crowds. During half time ceremonies these Christian players are allowed to give their testimonies to faith in a living Christ.

Interested hearers are permitted to sign up for Bible correspondence courses. Through this unique ministry thousands have been reached with the teachings of Jesus Christ.

The Lathrops will present musical selections before the film showing.

Rev. Mr. Lathrop attended Moody Bible Institute and Grand Rapids School of the Bible and Music. The Lathrops will serve under the Overseas Crusades Mission.

A grease spot on a man's suit of clothes is all that you can remember of the way he was dressed. That's how our poor human minds function. We specialize on the imperfections. — O.P. Gifford.

To Cleveland, Ohio

Associate Rector Called

Rev. William E. Lyle, associate rector of All Saints Episcopal Church, has accepted a call to serve as rector of St. Luke's Episcopal Church in Cleveland, Ohio.

His resignation here will become effective Dec. 15.

A former teacher in Avondale High School, the Rev. Mr. Lyle came to All Saints following his ordination in June, 1961.

Five years ago he entered Bexley Hall Theological Seminary at Gambler, Ohio and for the entire time led his class in scholastic achievement.

He did graduate work and took his master's degree at the University of Michigan. For seven years prior to entering the ministry he taught in public high schools in Michigan.

The Lyles have four children, Aimee, Randall, Nina and Roxanna. Their present address is 230 Chippewa Road.

NEW PARSONAGE — Rev. and Mrs. Robert Shelton enjoy the living room of the new parsonage of First Baptist Church, 2996 Francesco, Waterford Township. Friends and members of the congregation are invited to the open house from two to five Sunday afternoon. The Wayside Cleaners are sponsoring the affair.

Fellowship Revival to Be Citywide

Churches of the Oakland County Ministerial Fellowship will join in sponsoring a city-wide union revival Monday through Nov. 15.

Rev. T. Michael Flowers, president of Southern Evangelistic Association in Savannah, Ga., will be the evangelist, for the service to be held at 7:30 each evening in Newman A.M.E. Church, Bagley at Brush.

Levi Eubanks will direct the massed choir composed of members of the various churches.

Rev. A.G. Johnson, pastor of the Free Methodist Church, is president of the fellowship.

Religion Not Mere-Frosting

In sharp contrast to the Supreme Court's recent decision taking prayer out of U.S. public schools, Archbishop John J. Krol of Philadelphia says that the ideal education is one wholly permeated by religion.

"Religion cannot be mere frosting on the cake of education," declares the churchman quoted by Catholic Market magazine, "nor can it be an extra-curricular seasoning added during 'religion emphasis week.' It must permeate the whole of education."

King Joash Service Set for Bethany

An act of dedication dating back over 2800 years will be revived at Bethany Baptist Church Sunday. Members will observe Pledge Sunday by using a Chest of Joash service at 11 a.m.

According to Dr. Emil Konitz, pastor, the service was instituted by King Joash in ancient Israel about 800 B.C. as an opportunity for God's people to dedicate their financial offerings to divine purposes.

During the service a chest made especially for the occasion will be placed in the chancel.

After the Bible record of King Joash is read, members of the congregation will follow the example of Israel in the service of dedication by depositing pledge cards in the chest. The ceremony will close with prayer.

Charles Hazel will assist the pastor in receiving new members.

The entire service will conclude with the observance of the Lord's Supper.

Lincoln's Religious Life Described in New Book

GREENWICH, Conn. (AP) — "It is my earnest desire to know the will of Providence in this matter. And if I can learn what it is, I will do it."

These troubled words by Abraham Lincoln, before he issued the Emancipation Proclamation freeing the slaves in America, are cited in a new book, "The Religion of Abraham Lincoln," by William J. Wolf (Seabury). It describes Lincoln as a "biblical Christian."

Groups Look for Lost Yanks

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Reinforcements from Florida planned to rendezvous today in Yucatan, Mexico, with searchers striving for a clue to the September disappearance of three anti-Castro Americans.

Seven volunteers were to take off in a two-engine cabin plane for Merida, Yucatan. Two light planes and three men already were at Merida, base of the search for Alexander Rorke Jr., 37; Geoffrey Sullivan, 28, and a man identified only as Enrique Garcia.

Ellis Rubin, Miami lawyer and spokesman for the search party, said the light planes would do much of the searching with at least one of the party equipped to parachute in the event any sign of the missing trio's plane was discovered.

Rubin said "we have nothing to go by" except the knowledge that the missing men took off from Cozumel, a resort island off the Yucatan Peninsula for Tegucigalpa, Honduras, and Managua, Nicaragua. Their flight originated Sept. 24 at Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

$1000 REWARD

Spurring the search was a $1,000 reward offered by Rorke's father for information on the whereabouts of his son and Sullivan. Rorke said his son had been reported seen in Panama about a week ago.

Young Rorke was expelled from Cuba in 1960 and later participated in raids against the Fidel Castro regime. He and a companion raided a Havana oil refinery April 25, but Cuba said bombs which were dropped did not explode.

Sullivan was Rorke's pilot on several Cuba forays.

A power boat, Volynyn III, owned by Rorke, was captured by the British navy in the Bahamas Islands and was sent to Miami with its Cuban insurgent crew. The Cubans said they had been on an anti-Castro mission when the British intervened.

Rubin said "we learned that Garcia was extremely nervous" at Cozumel and talked his companions into a nighttime takeoff for a flight over mountainous territory.

Foreign Aid Siege Ahead; Senate Leaders Bicker

WASHINGTON (AP)—A long siege appeared ahead today for the $3,817,365,000 foreign aid bill, which has weathered its first Senate test—a battle enlivened with angry sniping.

Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois shook his head at the prospects. He envisioned senators "in their red flannel pajamas" sitting with their grandchildren in front of the tree Christmas Day and muttering to themselves: "We didn't finish foreign aid."

His opposite number, Democratic leader Mike Mansfield, saw no quick finish either.

"It looks like we're in for long siege," the Montana senator said.

REJECT SURGERY

The Senate inched ahead Friday by rejecting, 46-29, a motion by Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., to send the foreign aid measure back to the Foreign Relations Committee for major surgery.

"The fight has just started," Morse, a leader of the foreign aid revolt, said afterward.

Dirksen, however, called Friday's vote a "pretty good test."

He told newsmen the final bill will be reasonably close to the compromise amendment he and Mansfield offered Thursday when they proposed a $385-million reduction in the $4.2-billion bill reported by the Foreign Relations Committee.

DIRKSEN RIDICULE

Dirksen led the fight against returning the bill to the committee. He ridiculed Morse's suggestion that something might be accomplished by a second look by a committee which had the bill since the middle of June and held 18 markup sessions.

Morse's motion would have instructed the committee to report the bill back no later than Nov. 8. Dirksen noted, but then the Senate still would have to deal with a batch of amendments Morse has proposed.

He said Morse's motion "comes with poor grace" and attributed it to "personal frustration" because the committee didn't report a bill to his liking.

"When he suffers great agony and pain," Dirksen said, "I suffer along with him."

OTHER CHANGES

He said he could foresee other amendments "which for the moment are just a gleam in the Oregon senator's eye."

More than 50 proposed amendments await action.

Morse, who was absent from the chamber in a conference on the college education bill, returned later and called Dirksen's remarks in "bad taste."

Morse said Dirksen resorted to "disrespect, sarcasm and ridicule."

Morse, a one-time Republican, said he was "glad to know I no longer belong to a party so bankrupt in leadership as to be characterized by the leadership of the senator from Illinois."

He Dabbles in the Stock Market—for $10

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Peter Lind Hayes, the comedian, has this gag where he says "I made a killing in the market today. I shot the manager of the A&P."

We Wall

Street types don't think that is very funny. When you get to be a captain of finance, you realize that money is a serious subject.

I have only recently become an investment tycoon, but I can already feel my attitude changing. Few experiences are more exhilarating than being one of the movers and shakers of the capitalistic system.

When you walk in the footsteps of old J. P., not to mention old John D., you walk tall, man. You feel like going out and cornering corn before breakfast.

CLUB TO BOLSTER

My initiation into the mystique of high finance came when I joined a group of my colleagues in forming an investment club for purposes of bolstering our already substantial fortunes.

Being all plungers by nature, we agreed to put $10 per month apiece into a common fund and use it to play the market.

Until such time as the capital gains start rolling in, however, we felt it prudent to hold onto our newspapering jobs.

The first decision facing the shareholders was whether we should be bulls or bears. We all started out as bulls, but after a couple of months some of us turned into rabbits.

TAKES IT EASY

It has been my observation that the speculative instincts of a financier tend to diminish as the sun is rising increases. At the 10 level, he is an advocate of venture capital. But at

After our club had been operating four months, and the individual investment had risen to $40, there was strong sentiment for withdrawing from the market and switching to a savings and loan account.

What I like best about being a financial baron is sitting in on the meetings where fatal issues are resolved. We never act without solid information on the stocks we purchase.

At our last meeting, one member urged sinking a big chunk of our assets in the stock of a company that makes razor blades. Interrogation by the other members showed the soundness of his proposal.

MMM, SMOOTH

He was basing his recommendation on the fact that he had tried one of the blades and had gotten a smooth shave.

"What is this, an investment club or a barber shop?" cried a heckler from the rear.

"I never knew there was a difference."

A total of 245,100 illegitimate births were recorded in the United States during 1962, up about 10,000 from figures for the previous year.

Russia Wheat Deal Discussed in D.C.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Soviet and U.S. government negotiators met for more than an hour at the State Department yesterday in further talks on possible sale of American surplus wheat to Russia.

Undersecretary of Commerce Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., who attended the meeting, said afterward the negotiations would continue.

Also at the meeting were Undersecretary of State George W. Ball, Undersecretary of Agriculture Charles S. Murphy and Sergei I. Borison, Soviet deputy foreign trade minister.

Tito Visitors Are Acquitted

NEW YORK (AP) — Two men who tried to see Yugoslav President Tito two weeks ago, and precipitated an uproar over security arrangements, have been acquitted of disorderly conduct charges.

The two Yugoslav emigrants Aleksander Karilovic, 32, and Dragutin Mundovic, 22, made it to the 35th floor of the Waldorf-Astoria hotel—the floor where Tito had a suite of rooms—before they were spotted and arrested.

Tito's aides subsequently accused New York City police of having taken "inadequate security measures." Police said that was "sheer, unadulterated nonsense."

ENGEL MANSION—The majestic Engel home stands proudly among towering oak and pine trees, far back from Franklin Road. The house is not merely a showplace, but vibrates with life—and five healthy children. Of English Tudor architecture, the sprawling mansion is trimmed with wood, stone, steel and glass. The rear of the house has a full-length patio, and the gardens are sparked with statuary.

Pontiac Press Photos by Phil Webb

background for LIVING

Heap O' Livin' in Sedate Home

By REBA HEINTZELMAN

Pontiac Press Home Editor

Cruising along the curving roadway to Elwood P. Engels' stately mansion, you'd never imagine how much robust, vigorous-living goes on there.

From outside, shielded by giant oak and pine trees, the estate looks out with serene dignity on busy Franklin Road. Its great fireplace chimney stands out and up from the roofline, giving the effect of a sedate manor house of old England.

However, the moment the door is opened, you hear gay music flooding every room in the house. A mighty organ, its pipes installed in the living-room walls 20 feet away, stands ready for action.

Not only are the handsome Engel children—Paul, 19,

Lloyd, 16, Charles, 11, Ross, 8, and Vicki, 4—musical minded, but they are all avid skiers and enjoy the winter as much as the summer months.

JAZZ GROUP

Paul has his own combo band, and not a Sunday goes by without one group or another down in the big recreation room swinging with modern jazz or whatever comes to mind.

It's like a storybook house (or castle), but one that is thoroughly alive.

You'd imagine the house—with its huge high-beamed ceilings, slate or wood flooring, wide open halls and stairways—would create a sober, subdued atmosphere. Bright oil paintings, white walls and big, big, comfortable furniture dispels any such feeling.

MAIN LIVING ROOM—And live here the Engels really do! Wooden art objects from Bali, religious statues from Thailand, paintings from Paris and two big candelabra from Spain make this a room to long remember.

There's plenty of room on the beige, quilted three-section sofa and matching chair before the oversized marble fireplace. In the corner, decks of cards are ready for any foursome that cares to play.

MUSIC LOVERS—Paul's grandfather, Charles Emboden, and his sister, Vicki, 4, get a big kick out of listening to the youth play the big grand piano in the main living room.

ROOMS ARE SPACIOUS—This small photograph shows only one portion of the spacious master bedroom. Opposite the giant bed with its blue and green spread are white draperies with a splash of purple, blue and green flowers. Two gold, imported plaques flank the mirror above the marble fireplace, and an inviting chaise longue of gray brocade is spotted with tiny blue prints.

THE GREAT HALL—This scene was photographed from one end of the 15-foot-wide hall that runs through the center of the mansion. The view shows the sunken living room, the wide, hand-carved arch and hall ceiling beams that were hand-painted in muted reds and greens. Only in such a house would the mammoth, hand-carved chest with its lion's paws and the old commode opposite, be so much at home. The shining, wood-pegged floors are accented with imported, oriental rugs throughout the entire house.

the corner have a hand-painted Old World scene, and the soft, muted colors blend with the pale-green wainscoting. The opposite wall has a big marble fireplace that burns brightly at most mealtimes.

GAY BREAKFAST ROOM—This big room is gay, sunny and very much used. French doors with happy, printed draperies open onto a terrace. The splashing of water from the dark green marble cherub in the fountain to the left adds to the atmosphere of cheerfulness. Corals, greens and much greenery are the keynote of this room.

New Home Designed for the Leisurely Life

An unusual floor plan, and an extremely sensible one in these days of leisurely living, characterizes this attractive home.

Basically the house is a one-story model with three bedrooms.

But it contains an open attic over the main wing which can be finished off when needed, adding two more huge bedrooms, a bath, and a large "sitting area" which can serve as a sewing room, den, or what have you.

An equally outstanding feature is the informal area, a nicely arranged combination of family room and screened porch which offer more than 500 square feet for relaxing in any kind of weather.

The house was designed by architect Herman H. York. It is design H-1 in the House of the Week series.

York says the trend in today's housing is toward greater transition to informal areas.

LEISURE ROOM
The family room (or "leisure room," as he calls it) is larger than the living room. It has wood paneled walls and a massive fireplace and wood box in one exposed brick wall.

Beyond, through sliding glass doors, is a modern version of an old fashioned screened porch — complete with built-in barbecue.

The porch has a beamed ceiling, exposure on two sides, and leads to an optional outdoor terrace which can be added at a later time.

The house offers excellent circulation around the kitchen area with its adjoining lavatory and mud closet. Nearby, in a separate alcove behind space saving bi-fold doors, are the clothes washer and dryer.

REMOVED AREAS

The formal living and dining area are clearly removed from the daily living zone, giving them an air of exclusivity. A large bay window is the eye-catcher in the living room. A nice feature in the dining room is the shuttered pass-through to the kitchen.

The bedroom wing is isolated from any of the noise areas. It contains generous closet space (even the linen closet is more than five feet long) and there is an extra closet for the vacuum and other housecleaning paraphernalia.

The attic offers the most economical type of expansion area. It already is roofed, walled and insulated, and all that's required

Fall Rainy Season Means Much Mud

A fall rainy season means one thing for sure for the busy homemaker with young children: muddy feet. What youngster won't go out of his way to sample a good mud puddle? One way to ease the mud cleanup problem is to have an entranceway surfaced with an easy-to-clean material, such as ceramic tile. Waterproof ceramic tile needs no special care — just a swipe with a damp mop does the trick.

To Be Built at Harvard

First Plastic-Covered Tennis Courts

Harvard University has begun construction of the nation's first completely plastic-enclosed indoor tennis courts. The 160-by-135-foot building, housing three green clay doubles courts, will be covered with a 34,000-square-foot "skin" of rigid vinyl building panels.

It will rise amid the complex of other Harvard sports facilities on the bank of the Charles River, adjacent to the Dillon Field House and the Watson hockey rink. Construction is scheduled for completion before the end of the year.

The building will be heated for year-round play by jets of hot air forced around the curve of the plastic roof from two heating plants, one on either side of the structure.

For warm weather use, the entire bottom tier of panels, seven feet high, may be removed to provide cross ventilation.

The vinyl panels will be installed in sections over an arched wooden framework embedded in concrete footings. They will be bound securely in place by steel cables.

The 57-foot-long sections that will span the building's central arch will be the largest rigid vinyl sheets ever extruded in the United States.

The plastic, a comparatively new building material, was chosen by the architects because of the indoor-outdoor effect created by its homogeneous translucency.

It will be produced in a sky-blue color, specially formulated at the request of the architectural firm.

SUN LIGHT IN

Because the translucent panels will admit some 30 per cent of the sun's light, there will be no need for artificial illumination during the day.

Lights for night competition will be placed in the side of the building where they will not interfere with the vision of the players.

The $250,000 building will be named in honor of W. Palmer Dixon, Harvard squash racquets and tennis star of the 1920's, who is donating the courts to the university.

Soapy Checks State Dems

Declines to Speculate
on Governor Possible

DETROIT (AP) — Former Gov. G. Mennen Williams was checking up on Michigan's political situation yesterday, but declined to speculate on who will be the 1964 Democratic candidate for governor.

Williams, a Democrat who served six terms as governor, met for an hour with Detroit Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh.

The two said they discussed the Detroit school millage issue, Gov. George Romney's tax program, Detroit's Olympic efforts and "politics."

"I like to keep in touch with things back home," said Williams, now assistant secretary of state for African affairs. He added that his main concern at present is the "critical problems of Southern Africa."

DECLINES STATEMENT

Williams declined to say whether he preferred former Gov. John B. Swainson or Congressman - at - Large Neil Staeble to run against Romney in 1964. Swainson and Staeble now are considered the most likely contenders.

A gubernatorial primary contest "that creates antagonism will not help," Williams said. "The Democratic party has a financial problem which a primary fight wouldn't help."

Williams is in Detroit to speak at a Democratic dinner tonight honoring Sen. Philip A. Hart. He was asked whether he has aspirations for a Senate seat.

"That's a long way away," Williams said. "as far as the Senate is concerned, (Sen.) Pat McNamara (D-Mich.) was my candidate and still is."

Asked about Cavanagh's political future, Williams replied: "The people of Michigan and around the country feel that the mayor of Detroit is one of the rising young men."

Salesman Arraigned on Extortion

ABILENE, Tex. (AP) — A young securities salesman was held in the Taylor County jail today after the Federal Bureau of Investigation charged him with attempted extortion of $250,000 from a Sweetwater, Tex., banker.

The FBI charged Romney Morrison Mason, 28, of Sweetwater, formerly of Hobbs, N.M., with attempting to extort the money from Wilson Guest, president of the National Bank of Sweetwater, by threatening to blow up the town's schools, hospital and court house.

Mason, a thin, calm-voiced man was arraigned here Friday night before U.S. Commissioner Gladys Walls, who set his bond at $10,000. After the arraignment, FBI agents took him to the jail in lieu of bond.

J. Gordon Shanklin, FBI special agent in charge at Dallas, announced the extortion threat and the ensuing arrest.

THE SAXON

Shanklin said a letter, mailed to Guest on Oct. 23 and signed "The Saxon," gave the banker five days to turn over a quarter of a million dollars to the sender. The letter said further instructions would come later.

Mason, at his arraignment, told the commissioner, "The plan was a crazy thing."

The letter, the FBI said, told Guest that bombs planted in the schools, hospital and court house would be exploded by electronic devices. But Mason reportedly told Judge Walls he knew nothing about electronics.

Mason, father of one child, is a stock and bond salesman in Sweetwater. He is active in one of the town's service clubs.

Detroit Airman Killed in Dixie Car Accident

GULFPORT, Miss. (AP) — A Detroit airman and two others were killed yesterday when an automobile overturned on U.S. 90 midway between Gulfport and Biloxi.

Killed were airman 2C John Lumpkins, 19, of Manassas, N.Y.; Airman 3C Ballard L. Thomas, 22, of Jersey City, N.J.; and Airman 3C Jesse J. Kimmons, 21, of Detroit.

JUDY DOLL

Ohio Girl Is Selected Teen Queen

DALLAS (UPI) — Judy Doll, a blue-eyed, wholesome-looking, 17-year-old girl representing Akron, Ohio, is the new Miss Teenage America.

She won last night in the finals of a contest that started last Monday with 49 entrants. Various eliminations reduced the field to six girls last night.

Jeanine Zavrel, 16, Falls Church, Va., named first alternate, entered the contest as "Miss Washington, D.C."

Eileen Melody Speerin, representing New York City, won third place.

'CAN'T BELIEVE IT'

"I still can't believe it," Judy said.

"It's great," her father, Jay P. Doll, a plant engineer, said. "Her mother and I certainly did not consciously prepare her to win a contest like this."

As winner of the contest, Judy got a $10,000 scholarship, a convertible automobile, 50 shares of a soft drink company's stock, a new wardrobe and a trip around the country.

The Dolls live in Navarre, Ohio, where Judy is a senior in high school and a member of St. Paul United Church of Christ.

As Miss Teenage America of 1964 she succeeded Darla Jean Banks, 17, of Fresno, Calif.

Seek Legal Steps on Sewer in Ionia

LANSING (AP) — Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley's staff is reviewing possible legal steps to force the city of Ionia to construct a sewage treatment plant.

Ralph Purdy, chief pollution engineer for the State Water Resources Commission, said the city is the only one in Michigan with more than 5,000 population that lacks a sewage treatment program.

The commission was told by the State Health Department a survey showed the Grand River in Ionia is becoming a health hazard because of pollution.

The Health Department turned the issue over to the Attorney General's office.

Magazine Suit Filed by Dixie Chief of Police

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — Mississippi's public safety commissioner filed a $1 million libel suit against the Saturday Evening Post yesterday, claiming the Post defamed the Mississippi highway patrol.

Col. T. B. Birdsong, head of the patrol, based the suit on a story, "What Next in Mississippi?" He said it was published "with intent to defame" the patrolmen's action in the University of Mississippi integration crisis.

He said the story tried to pin the patrol with "a sizeable portion of the blame" for the riots in which two persons were killed and scores injured when Negro James Meredith was brought to the school to register last year.

Makes Good Horse Sense

Leon Ames Joins Mister Ed

THOMAS

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD—"Thank Heaven I don't have any children," said Leon Ames as he prepared to move in the same block with the loquacious horse, "Mister Ed."

Ames' lease reads for 13 weeks, but chances are he'll be hanging around much longer. As one of the best character comedy actors around, he was an ideal choice to replace the late Larry Keating as Alan Young's neighbor on the popular CBS show.

"I wouldn't be sorry if I move in forever," said Ames. "The character I play is an interesting human being and I'm working with Alan, a man who knows his comedy. The pay is fine."

LIKES HORSE
"Heck, I even like that horse. He even scares me, he's so smart."

The gimmick is this: Ames is Alan's old Army comrade, now retired, and he comes to town with his wife, looking for a place to settle. A stickler for fitness, the colonel decides that Ed is 40 pounds overweight. That's when the fun starts.

The colonel and his wife have no children, which pleases Ames greatly. Does this appear unseemly for a man with two grown children of his own?

Perhaps so, but he doesn't care. Leon has already starred in two television series—"Life With Father" and "Father of the Bride."

MISERABLE TIME

The former ran for 2½ years and found him working with a variety of red-headed youngsters as Father Day. The latter lasted a season, and he terms it "the most miserable experience of my career."

The "Mister Ed" offer came just in time to save him from a Florida theater date—as the father in "Take Her, She's Mine."

"People were beginning to think I couldn't play anything but 'parents,'" said Ames, who "parented" Elizabeth Taylor, Margaret O'Brien, Jane Powell and others during his MGM days.

Distress Radio to Be Aired

Citizens band radio enthusiasts, truckers and law enforcement officers will meet 2 p. m. Sunday at Teamsters Local 614 hall to discuss formation of an emergency message network.

Richard Montgomery, 2658 Windy Hill, Auburn Heights, said the basic idea is to establish a working relationship in which drivers of citizens band radio-equipped trucks can relay news of motorists with car trouble, or accidents.

Montgomery said the plan would help free police of time now spent in answering calls from motorists stalled on freeways.

In accidents, it could ensure speedier arrival of rescue units. Representatives of Oakland and Monroe county sheriffs' departments and Pontiac State Police post have been invited to the meeting to explain legal aspects, he said. Montgomery is a driver for National Transit Co.

Rochester, Avon, Orion Fall

Race for Title All Over in Oakland Loop

Fitzgerald Clinches Crown; Trojans Take 2nd Place

By HERB PETERS

In a final burst of touchdowns, which gave the county a new scoring leader, the Oakland A Conference closed up shop for the season last night with the exception of a lone encounter between Rochester and Avon.

Brodie Burton tallied 17 points as Clawson won Avondale, 41-4, and his 120 for the year should stand up through the few remaining games around the county. Burton's total is also a new Clawson school record, eclipsing the old mark of 116 set by John Creevy in 1946.

Despite the rout over Avondale, the Trojans (6-1) had to settle for runnerup behind champion Fitzgerald, who finished loop action unbeaten in seven games with a 54-0 romp over William Warren Cougars.

Trojans clinched third place at 5-2 by swamping Rochester, 32-7, with a 19-point fourth quarter rampage, while Madison scored in every period to trample Lake Orion, 34-0.

Colt quarterback Don Armstrong quashed Rochester's hopes for third with some dazzling broken-field running as he completed his prep career with a brilliant performance.

PUNT RETURN

The 156-pound senior veteran returned a punt 65 yards for the first TD in the final minute of the first period, and then broke open a 15-7 game in the fourth with a zigzag touchdown scamper of 35 and 33 yards.

Ken Holder also ran a punt back 65 yards for a touchdown early in the second period, and finished off the fourth-period scoring with a 45-yard jaunt on a pass interception.

After the long punt returns, which came within two minutes of each other, the Falcons rallied and nearly tied at halftime no worse off than tied.

Carl Stefanski reached 54 yards for Rochester's touchdown and Mike Konert converted. With time running out, the Falcons started a drive at their 32 and were on the Troy four when the half ended.

NO MOMENTUM

Rochester couldn't recapture momentum after the intermission and Armstrong's keepers in the fourth dropped the Falcons to 3-3 in the league.

Down at Clawson Bill Kerr sped 40 yards for a first period score and Dave Kedrow went 70 yards for another in the second before Burton could hit pay dirt.

But before the half ended, Burton took a 35-yard scoring pass from Kedrow, and with his third-straight conversion went into the county scoring lead with 112 points.

AVON LONE THREAT

Avondale, now 1-5, threatened only once. In the third period Denry Acker spearheaded a 60-yard drive and scored from the four.

Madison (3-4) mowed down Lake Orion (2-5) with a steady attack. Mike Jacobs scored from a yard out in the first period and Jerry Dash from four yards in the second.

Lloyd Hood sprinted 52 yards for the third period TD and then in the fourth it was first Jim Bowman on a two-yard quarterback sneak and then Dick Letch on a 20-yard pass from Bowman. Dick York converted after each of the first four touchdowns.

OUT OF REACH—Steve Schilke, Rochester end, reaches for a pass in front of the goal post but it was out of his range. The Falcons lost to Troy, 32-7.

Oxford Wins 24-13 Against Old Foe

Oxford is no longer in the South Central League but the Wildcats scored a victory against North Branch, former spot foe, 24-13 for old times sake.

Another Tri-County League member, Romeo, played a non-league encounter with Lutheran East of Detroit and had to settle for a 14-14 draw.

Oxford started its scoring in the second quarter when Buzz

Cork capped a 58 yard drive with a one yard plunge.

The key play was a 24 yard gain by Dan Van Vleet after he was trapped attempting to pass.

Later in the period, Jack Farrell slanted off tackle five yards to the touchdown, set up by a pass interception on the North Branch 36.

Van Vleet passed to the five to Bates before Farrell carried over.

OPENING MARCH

In the third period, Oxford took the opening kickoff and marched 68 yards in 10 plays with Van Vleet "sneaking" for a 23 yard touchdown.

North Branch scored in the final quarter when Carl Krepple fell on an attempted punt which was dropped in the end zone.

On the ensuing kickoff, Oxford went 57 yards in 10 plays with Sam Gindl covering the last six yards.

Brian Hagmeister scored the other North Branch TD.

Romeo's Keith Simunc scored his team's two touchdowns on short runs while Dave Adams went three and 10 yards for North Branch.

WILLIAMS, Jim Gailers and Willie Horton consistently gained good yardage behind the blocking of guards Sylvester Robinson, George Jackson and Tom Roldano.

Don Wilson sped for three of the Colts' TDs on runs of 30, 17 and 80 yards. Quarterback Duane Miller passed 72 yards in back Fred Campbell for another and then ran 19 for the last.

Wilson's first two touchdowns were scored in the wild second period and earned Southwestern a 14-13 halftime lead when Doug Yancey kicked two extra points.

Dave Houts booted one for the Chiefs, but his second was deflected off line.

The Chiefs were on the SWH 37 when the half ended, thanks to a pass interception by John Smith.

Southwestern needed only two plays in the third period to put their slim lead. Willie Harris kicked into the end zone for Central.

On the first play Wilson sped through left tackle unopposed, found the PCH secondary on the wrong side of the field, and went 80 yards.

Central took the kickoff and marched to the Colts' 28 where they were stopped. On the first play Miller hit Campbell near the 50, he eluded two would-be tacklers and completed the 72-yard effort to make the score 27-13.

ANOTHER PENALTY

Early in the fourth quarter Central drove to the Colts' 15 only to be set back by another 15-yard penalty. Southwestern took over and hustled up the field with Miller running the option, untouched, the last 19.

The Chiefs tried again.

They clunged to the four. Southwestern intercepted a Murphy pass on the last play of the game.

Captains Aim: 'Waterford'

A cry of "We want Waterford" rang through the Waterford Kettering locker room yesterday afternoon shortly after the Captains had named Berkeley's Bears, 15-0.

The game was a tuneup for the Captains who meet Waterford's Skippers next Friday in the season finale.

Kettering overcame a couple of early game mistakes and used a strong defense — Berkeley's trademark — to run its season record to 6-2. The loss dropped the Bears' mark to 4-4.

The Captains lacked the explosiveness they displayed in dismantling L'Anse Creuse 60-6 last week, but they turned in a sharp ground control game that produced 284 yards.

SHORT BURST

Jim Haviland gave the Captains all the points they needed on an eight-yard scoring burst late in the first half, and the junior speedster added a second TD on a two-yard slant in the final period.

Chuck Wallace, cited by coach Jim Larkin for his outstanding play at tackle, recorded a safety for the Captains in the fourth stanza when he dumped Jim Leandorf in the end zone after blocking a punt attempt.

End Craig Hanson, center Bill Laing, guard Chuck Haviland and Wallace kept the burly Bear offense off balance throughout the game.

Two first-quarter minutes almost proved fatal for Kettering.

The Captains fumbled on the second play of the game, and quarterback Mel Patterson lobbed the ball into the hands of Berkeley halfback Skip Smith a few plays later, putting the Bears in scoring position at Kettering's 37-yard line.

TD PASS

Quarterback Jack Kwijala marched the Bears squad to the 21-yard marker and fired a scoring pass to Dale Helson for an apparent TD, but an offside penalty nullified the play and the Bears never recovered.

A wind-blown punt that sailed only 18 yards set up the Captains' first score.

The ball rolled dead at Kettering's 30-yard stripe and Patterson engineered a 10-play drive that ended with Haviland scoring through for the final eight yards.

Patterson set up the second score with his only pass completion of the game, a 38-yard loss that Haviland hauled in for a first down at Berkeley's nine-yard line. Slender Jim, running his scoring total to 76 points, skipped into the end zone three plays later.

Berkeley opened with a passing attack in the closing half after failing to dent the stiff Captains line. Slender Jim, running his scoring total to 76 points, skipped into the end zone three plays later.

West Bloomfield gained the upper hand in the prestige battle with a 35-20 decision over Bloomfield Hills under the lights Friday.

In other W-O games, Clarencville ended a 19-game losing streak with a 31-0 rout of Brighton and Milford and Holby slugged it out in a 13-13 standoff.

West Bloomfield and Hills, battled on even terms through the first quarter, but the Lakers broke the game open with a 14-point surge in the second stanza to take a 14-0 halftime lead.

The Bravos gave the Lakers a scare by closing the gap to 20-20 in the third stanza, but the speedy WB eleven regained control in the final period to record its sixth victory of the season.

The win also gave the Lakers third place W-O league race.

The game brought to an end a rugged season for the Bravos, who dropped from a tie for first to a tie with Clarencville for seventh place in the league. Both closed with 1-4 records.

Quarterback Dan Greig paced the Lakers, with three touchdowns and riddled the Bravos' secondary with his passes.

Greig hit on 12 of 13 tosses for 116 yards, connecting on eight in succession in the second half.

The senior signal caller opened the scoring in the first period with a 74 scoring jaunt and racked up two more six-pointers later in the game on runs of three and seven yards.

The Bravos' Jay Shimmick dazzled the crowd with his running which included TD swappers of 22, 47 and 33 yards.

John Neymer and Tim Ruen picked up the other TDs for the Lakers.

LATE SURGE

Clarencville erupted for 25 points in the fourth quarter to break a 6-6 deadlock and knock off Brighton.

Quarterback Danny Freels fired four scoring passes in leading the Trojans to their first win in three seasons.

Freels connected with Greg Fuller in the first period on a 14-yard pass, and pitched scores of 24, 15 and 7 to Chris Hawkins, Dave Graves and Gary Gearhart in the productive fourth quarter.

Another Trojan tally came on a four-yard run by Jim Bedson. Penalties nullified three other scores.

Mike Fournier notched Brighton's lone score on a 14-yard dash in the second quarter.

In the passing department, Freels found the target on seven of his 14 tosses good for 250 yards.

About the win, coach Ralph Tenby said "It feels pretty good."

"We were just aggressive," Tenby continued. "We took over in the ball game every thing. A real team effort."

A five-year run by Skip Miller in the fourth quarter earned Milford a tie with Holly.

Holly broke a 7-7 tie in the third period on a 45-yard dash by Jim Starr to complete a 65-yard march, but the Broncos couldn't hold Miller.

Miller tallied the Redskins' first score on a five-yard burst and added the extra point to push his scoring total to 106.

Tom Fagan plunged across from the three-yard line in the opening stanza for Holly's first score.

Milford dominated the game, running up 207 yards rushing, but 100 yards in penalties along with six fumbles were too much for the Redskins to overcome.

St. Mary, St. Mike in Finale Shamrocks Looking for 1st Victory

Orchard Lake St. Mary and St. Michael will bring the 1963 grid grind to a halt with a 2:30 p. m. clash Sunday at Wisner Stadium.

The meeting will be the second this season between the two Northwest Parochial League foes. OLSM knocked off the Shamrocks, 33-6, in the second game on the schedule.

START STRONG

The Eagles opened the season with a squad labeled by observers as championship caliber, but they ran into a mid season slump and dropped decisions to Farmington Our Lady of Sorrows and Detroit St. Agatha.

St. Mary will bring a 4-2 record into the game Sunday along with a couple of speedy halfbacks — Bernard Stee and Frank Rompel.

Directing the Eagle attack is sophomore quarterback Conrad Krogulecki, whose pin-point passing has sparked the St. Mary attack.

The Shamrocks are still looking for victory No. 1 after six outings, and have scored only 32 points in dropping the games.

St. Michael fell before Royal Oak St. Mary's aerial blitz last Sunday, 41-0, and they will have to shore up the pass defense to contain the Eagles.

On the ground the Shamrocks were tough. They picked up 125 yards rushing and held the ROSM ground attack to a meager 38 yards.

At the helm for St. Michael will be Dick Steinhilber, who is playing with a protective mask over his broken nose. The hard-running signal caller suffered the injury two games back.

In another Sunday tilt, Farmington St. James will travel to Detroit for an encounter with St. Benedict.

Yank Squad in Net Lead

BOMBAY, India (U) — The United States took a 2-0 lead over India in the interzone Davis Cup tennis finals Saturday as Chuck McKinley and Dennis Ralston scored straight set victories in the opening two singles matches.

McKinley, the Wimbledon champion, defeated Premjit Lall 6-4, 6-3, 6-0 in the first match and Ralston then beat India's top-ranked player, Ramathan Krishnan, 6-4, 6-1, 13-11 in the second match to give the United States a sweep of the opening singles.

The winner of the best-of-5 series will qualify to meet Australia, holder of the Davis Cup, in the challenge round at Adelaide, Australia, Dec. 26-28.

Arthur Hill Team Rips Flint Central

By United Press International

A quick comparison of scores against four identical foes shows that Flint Central should have been 85 points better than four-time loser Saginaw Arthur Hill.

But that didn't bother coach Hi Becker's Lumberjacks who pulled off the biggest upset of the 1963 Michigan prep football season last night by shocking top-rated Flint Central, 19-7.

Both AFL Teams Tied in Eastern Sector

BOSTON (AP) — Boston stunned favored Houston with an early 76-yard Baba Parilli to Larry Garon pass play, threw in Bob Sack's 96-yard pass interception runback and went on to crush the Oilers 45-3 Friday night.

The result tied the teams for the Eastern Division lead in the American Football League, each with 5-4 records.

Boston proved its top defensive rating was no fluke by blitzing Old Pro George Blanda and his successor, Jackie Lee, unmercifully.

Boston quarterback Parilli passed for one touchdown and scored twice, but the defensive unit was the difference.

By halftime, when the Patriots led 28-3, they had intercepted three Blanda passes and held the visitors to no yards rushing.

Blanda kicked a 46-yard field goal to make it 21-3 and the Oilers were headed for a touchdown in the second period when Sack angled in front of intended receiver Willard DewVall on the 2.

Sack intercepted and went 98 yards un molested for the score.

Ex-Lions' Back Given Compensation Ruling

DETROIT (AP) — A workmen's compensation award for injured former halfback Gene Godman against the Detroit Lions of the National Football League was upheld Friday, counsel for Godman announced.

Attorney Victor G. Hanson said the appeals board of the Michigan Workmen's Compensation Commission ruled in Godman's favor, rejecting an appeal from the football club from a referee's ruling.

Hanson said the ruling in the two-year-old case sets a precedent in professional athletics for disabled players. He said Godman will collect in excess of $15,000 from the Lions.

race for the Class A state title into a turmoil since Flint Central had been the overwhelming favorite to win the crown after its 25-18 victory over Bay City last week.

Now only second-ranked Lansing Sexton, fourth-ranked Saint Ste. Marie and eighth-ranked Detroit-Cooley are still unbeaten and Sexton has a 7-1 tie with East Lansing on its record.

Arthur Hill again proved that the best pass defense is to rush the passer and the Lumberjacks kept the pressure all night on Flint quarterback Tiny Laster who was thrown for 46 yards in losses and was able to complete only 5 of 15 passes.

Laster did complete a 66-yard TD strike to Mel Summers but the rest of the night the Arthur Hill defenders led by Dave Gould, Larry Shields, Dan Jones and Becker's son, Hi Jr., didn't give Laster a chance to get set.

Lansing Sexton, the second-ranked club, boosted its bid for its second state crown in the past three seasons by clobbering Lansing Eastern, 41-6. Sexton finished the season with a 7-0-1 record.

Bay City Central, which dropped to the No. 3 spot after the loss to Flint, whipped Bay City Handy, 32-7.

Bad Axe, which has gone 25 games without a loss and is showing for its second straight state crown, built up a 24-0 lead and topped Caro, 24-14.

St. Charles, the Class C-D leader which has gone 27 games without a loss, built up a 26-0 lead and turned back Breckenridge, 26-14.

The upset-minded Steelers face a "must win" situation as 10-point underdogs. Holder of a 4-2-1 record, Pittsburgh of the Cleveland Browns by 146 yards in the Eastern Division and would be virtually eliminated by a defeat.

The game will be the NFL's eight inter-divisional meeting of the season. The East will be straight with one of the West's 5-2 edge, with Green Bay Packers supplied by Green Bay against the St. Louis Cardinals, with whom the Steelers split two games.

With Bart Starr still sidelined with a broken right hand suffered against St. Louis two weeks ago, veteran John Roach will open at quarterback.

"The ruling has far ranging implications," Hanson said. "It has been needed for players who are injured. It gives them a clear cut decision on this issue."

Packers Face Upset Minded Pitt Steelers

Beats Top Position at Stake in Battle With Colts

By The Associated Press

Can the Cleveland Browns bounce back?

That was the question in the minds of many football fans as the Browns made ready to play Philadelphia in Franklin Field on one of Sunday's seven National Football League games.

The Browns and their all-around star, Jimmy Brown, absorbed a 33-4 whipping from the New York Giants last week after six straight victories. How they will play against the Eagles in Philadelphia may provide an indication whether they will stay in first place in the Eastern Conference.

The Giants and the Cardinals, now tied for second in the East at 5-2, battle at St. Louis. The loser could well drop out of contention.

TIED FOR TOP

The Chicago Bears and Green Bay Packers, tied for the top in the Western Conference, face stiff opposition. The Bears are at Baltimore while the Packers take on Pittsburgh in Milwaukee.

Detroit is at San Francisco, Washington at Dallas and Los Angeles at Minnesota in Sunday's other NFL games.

Jim McCusker, starting offensive tackle for Philadelphia for three years and a member of their 1960 National Football League championship team, has been placed on the Browns' roster and will play against the Eagles in Philadelphia Sunday.

WALVERS

To make room for the 250-pound McCusker, the Browns have asked waivers on rookie Tom Gossby from Baldwin-Wallace. Gossby was activated only a week ago, but returned his knees in practice Thursday. The injury is not serious.

McCusker has been working out with the Browns since before the start of the regular season. Sunday's game will be the start of his fifth professional season.

The former University of Detroit star was the second draft choice of the St. Louis Cardinals in 1958, but was swapped to the Eagles before the next season.

The former Eagle played most of last season with a torn knee cartilage. An off season operation mended the damage and he has been pronounced in fine shape.

The Green Bay Packers, nursing a few battle wounds but strutting with the confidence of a champion, seek their seventh straight victory while the Pittsburgh Steelers strive to keep title hopes alive.

Plum Rides Bench

Lions' Comeback Has 'Moral'

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) —

The Detroit Lions, who have pulled out their Plum, go against the bowly 49ers tomorrow with hopes for victory riding on a Moral.

Coach George Wilson has decided to give Earl Morrall the full-game quarterbacking job and Milt Plum will ride the bench.

Plum has been a disappointing number one signal caller and Morrall won the job last week when he uncorked three touchdown passes in leading the Lions to a 28 to 10 victory over the Minnesota Vikings.

Wilson says that performance earned the quarterbacking job for Morrall. "I'm not going to change a thing," said Wilson.

Detroit has a 3 and 4 record this year and is tied with Baltimore for third place in the Western division of the National Football League.

ONE WIN

The 49ers are even worse. They have only one victory in seven games, although that was ing the Lions to a 28 to 10 victory over the Minnesota Vikings.

ONE WIN

The 49ers are even worse. They have only one victory in seven games, although that was a jolting upset over the Chicago Bears two weeks ago. However, last week, the 49ers rebounded again and dropped a 28-21 decision to the Los Angeles Rams.

The Lions are favored over San Francisco despite the injuries that have plagued the team, particularly the defensive lineup. Rookie halfback Larry Ferguson this week joined flanker back Pat Sindt, still defensive back Gary Love and linebacker Carl Brettschneider on the list of players sidelined for the rest of the year.

Lion captain and middle linebacker Joe Schmidt is out for a month and Alex Karras is under suspension for the year. It leaves the Lions without six of their top players and the squad two short of a full complement.

Detroit already holds a 29-3 victory over the 49ers in an early season game. This is the second time round and the Lions figure to take them again this weekend.

HOWE GOES GOAL HUNTING

Wings' Star Needs 1 to Crack Record

MONTREAL (UPI) — Gordie Howe will shoot for his 545th goal at the Forum tonight.

Howe, the Detroit Red Wings star right winger, tied for the all-time goal scoring leadership with Maurice (Rocket) Richard at 544, will go for the record against Richard's old team when the Wings skate against the Montreal Canadiens.

Howe got the tying goal against Montreal at Olympia last Sunday.

There's also more than a good chance that Howe will get the record — breaking goal since the Canadiens are down to their third goaltender.

Gump Worsley, who was obtained from New York in the big off-season trade for Jacques Plante, is sidelined with a pulled hamstring muscle and the Canadiens No. 2 goalie, Jean Guy Morissette, suffered a fractured cheekbone during a practice session on Thursday.

The Wings also called up a player from the minors yesterday. The Wings called up defenseman Irvin Spencer, 24, from their Indianapolis farm club to replace Doug Bailey.

Barkey was called to his home in Lethbridge, Alta., because his father is ill.

Al Geiberger Leads at Midpoint With 136

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — Al Geiberger, red hot the past three weeks, forged into a one-stroke lead at the halfway point in the $25,000 Almaden Open golf tournament Friday with a 6 and a two-day total of 136.

Not all the action was among the leaders, however, as Charlie Sifford tied Geiberger's Almaden Golf and Country Club course record with a 65 and Bob McCallister knocked off six consecutive birdies.

Defending champion Geiberger, who had a first day 69, came back with a 33-34 round over the 7,045-yard par 36-36 — 72 gently rolling sun drenched layout. He took only 26 putts although he didn't drop any longer than 10 feet.

TIED

Jim Ferree and Bob Rosburg pulled into a second place tie at 137, shooting 69 and 68 respectively. First day co-leaders Babe Hickey and Dutch Harrison each jumped from 66 to 73 and into a tie for fourth at 139 with Don Whit, Alex Sutton and Bob Goetz.

Whitt and Sutton shot 71, Goetz 69 Friday.

Geiberger, tall graduate of the University of Southern California, tied for second in his last two tournaments and won $7,300-all since a five week lay off he took while his daughter was being born. He took only one bogey and depended on a hot No. 8 iron for two of his birdies.

Sifford, who practically blew himself out of contention with a first round 77, switched to a lightweight putter and needed it for only 26 strokes. He knocked in eight birdie putts ranging from three to 25 feet.

McCallister became the third pro of the year to card six straight birds in a PGA tournament. He started his hot streak at the fifth hole. Three came on putts ranging from 10 to 17 feet and accurate iron set up the others.

The Cutoff for the final two rounds came at 146, two over par for 36 holes in this 72-hole event.

Reflections
BOOKS and MEN
A man who had dropped out of school (6th grade) was elected to a State office, failed his ignorance, studied Political Science and became one of the most popular governors in New York. His name was Al Smith. A mountain man who was an authority on wild creatures, mountains, natural resources, carried a pack of 100 pounds—the heaviest part of it was books. His name is Norman Douglas.

The book which teaches the children the value of books, cultivates an appreciation of the experiences of unusual men, and women. Those experiences may be the history of man and nature or man and man, the delight of finding an ancient, hidden city, or the wisdom of a man who dedicates his life to building civilization. Whatever the text, these children absorb some of the beauty of man's sphere of influence in building a better world.

Buy books, borrow them, read them, for pleasure, for enlightenment, choose them that add something to spiritual life, something that will polish, that adds lustre to an inquisitive mind.

Tot Loses Hand in Explosion of Teens' Bomb

WICHITA, Kan. (AP)—It looked like a white Christmas tree ball, lying there in the weeds of a parking lot. One-year-old Suzanne DeCamp picked it up Friday and began rubbing it on the concrete sidewalk.

What looked like a Christmas trinket was actually a home-made bomb and it exploded, blowing off Suzanne's right hand.

Police said George H. Hale, 16, told them he threw the bomb into the weed patch after one just like it exploded prematurely and managed the hand of a friend, Gary L. Latham, 14, on Halloween.

They had made the bombs by stuffing small medicine bottles with firecracker powder, inserting fuses and encasing the works in plaster of paris.

Area Youth Suffers Injury in Auto Crash
RIVERHEAD, N.Y. (AP)—Fourteen young socialites, including the granddaughter of a duke, are under grand jury indictment charging willful destruction of property.

They were accused Friday of causing $3,202 damage to a Southampton, N.Y., mansion after a debutante ball two months ago.

If convicted on the misdemeanor charge, they could face a maximum penalty of six months in jail and $250 fines.

The 13 young men, several from prominent families in New York City and Philadelphia, and Miss Mimi Russell, 17, daughter of the publisher of Vogue of Marlborough, were among the 800 guests Aug. 31 at the debutante ball of Fernanda Wanamaker Wetherill.

Warrant Due in City Staff
It had been described as the final and most glittering social event of the summer season at the Long Island community, a fashionable summer home for society.

Miss Wetherill said that after the party several boys paid a band to continue the music at a nearby mansion her stepfather, Donald S. Leas Jr., had rented as sleeping accommodations for some of the male guests.

At midnight police arrived and found hundreds of broken windows, smashed furniture and some two dozen boys, whose photograph they took in a group.

The boys reportedly told police the 45-room mansion was private property and they could do what they wanted with it.

The seaside mansion is owned by Robert Mallory Harris.

Miss Wetherill's stepfather at first indicated that no charges would be pressed as long as the boys apologized and made restitution. Last Tuesday he issued

City, County Eye Property Exchange

A joint city-county subcommittee will tour Pontiac Municipal Airport a week from Tuesday to see what the city has to offer there in trade for County-owned property in Pontiac.

According to City Commissioner Charles Harmon, a member of the subcommittee, the city is willing to trade the airport over to the county in a fair exchange.

It is up to the subcommittee to recommend what it considers would be a fair exchange.

A lack of funds is preventing the city from carrying out needed airport expansion. A major north-south runway and an improved instrument landing system are sought at a proposed cost of several million dollars.

COUNTY PROBLEM?
City commissioners have maintained recently that the airport rightfully should be the county responsibility because its value and benefits aren't restricted to Pontiac.

Today's value of the airport is unknown. There has been no recent appraisal of the property.

However, the city to date has spent $159 million in airport development. The federal government has contributed another $11 million, and the state $412,000.

The additional runway and improved instrument landing system are deemed essential to draw more airport use here by industries and thus make the field a paying proposition.

APPRaisal.
County property in Pontiac has been appraised at a total $569,800.

The property includes the former courthouse site at Huron and Saginaw, a five-story office building at 1 Lafayette and 75 vacant acres in North Pontiac.

Other members of the subcommittee besides Harmon are City Commissioner Lou Hedford, airport manager Homer Hoskins and county supervisor Robert Jackson, Wallace Hudson and John Richard.

They are expected to make their recommendations to the aviation committee of the County Board of Supervisors and the rest of the City Commission.

Any decision is likely until a countywide study of future aviation needs is completed, according to board chairman Delos Hamlin.

Arrangements for such a study are being made by the board's aviation committee.

Once launched, the study is expected to take six months.

14 Socialites Are Indicted for Wrecking N.Y. House

Edwin F. Russell of New York City, Miami Russell's father, said a statement Friday night that his daughter "had no part in the vandalism."

Miss Russell and her sister, Serena, 19, were among the eight who appeared before the Suffolk County Grand Jury last Tuesday, either voluntarily or under subpoena.

Dist. Atty. Bernard C. Smith said the 14 under indictment would be notified of the charges by telegram and asked to surrender for arraignment. He said he would seek to extradite any of the outside the state who fail to appear; but would do so in the misdemeanor cases, reluctantly because of the time and expense involved.

Olympic Star in Red Prison
BERLIN (UPI)—A Communist court in East Germany has sentenced former women's gymnastic champion Renate Scholander to prison for six years for plotting to help athletes "choose freedom" during the 1964 Olympics.

The Communist organ Neues Deutschland said the 24-year-old gymnast was arrested June 1 along with Max Sowik, described as a cousin-in-law from West Berlin who entered East Berlin on a forged passport and gave Miss Scholander "instructions which she hid in the false heel of her shoe."

Neues Deutschland said the gymnast was to arrange meetings in Tokyo between Western intelligence officials and East German athletes who have had their fill of communism.

East German athletes are closely watched by Communist officials when they compete outside the Iron Curtain because a number of them have managed to escape.

HELPED ESCAPEE
Neues Deutschland said that Sowik helped Dietlind Klein, masseuse for the East German Police Athletic Club, flee to West Berlin by giving her a forged passport.

Sowik's sentence was not disclosed.

WATERFORD'S OPPORTUNITY

On November 5th you will have first chance to vote on incorporating Waterford Township as the City of Waterford.

Why do you have this opportunity?

Non-partisan Waterford residents chosen by the Township Board made a thorough and careful study of the differences between township government and Home Rule.

Then it was time to ask the voters what they thought. Through the efforts of such local groups as the Greater Waterford Community Council and the Waterford Junior Chamber of Commerce the question of incorporation has been placed on ballot.

Now It Is Up to YOU!

Please remember that schools and school taxes will not be affected by your decision. You will still elect your school board which will govern your school system — independently as before — and with no change. City-hood has nothing to do with the school district or its operation.

YOU NAME IT - — Waterford Has It

We moved here to enjoy leisurely and comfortable living. We want to keep it and still cushion the impact because others also wanted the same advantages.

So many of us made the decision to move here that we have problems — and we will have more if we do not gear our local government structure to face up to the problems all of us have created.

We have lakes . . . recreation . . . good neighbors . . . good churches . . . good schools . . . good tax base (we want to maintain it) . . . industry (we want more) . . . shopping areas (we need more) . . . fine homes.

Supervisor and Trustees

EMPLOYEES

Mayor and Council

SAME EMPLOYEES

YOU merely change the titles for your elected officials. Your Supervisor and Trustees become a Mayor and City Council under a city charter you will vote on in a few months.

A "YES" vote on November 5th will give you a chance to vote later on a city charter.

A CHARTER MUST BE APPROVED BY YOU BEFORE WATERFORD CAN BECOME A CITY.

and YOU get Authority to PROGRESS

By voting to become a Home Rule City you will arm your elected officials with the legal means to give you adequate services.

Water and sewer services are needed in many areas now. Inadequate legal and financial tools will only delay the planning and increase the cost to you.

Let us repair the roof now before the rain of population hits us.*

Maintain your property values by establishing efficiency in your local government.

Good planning is only good business.

Waterford must look ahead in order to retain its present attractive and unique qualities.

Our population now exceeds 50,000. By 1970 it is expected to reach 72,000. By 1980 - 100,000.

WE CANNOT AFFORD FRAGMENTATION

IF WATERFORD does not incorporate we face the serious threat of losing the Mall to Pontiac.

Of losing other portions of our township to Sylvan Lake, Union Lake, Pontiac or Keego Harbor.

Of fragmentation from within . . . eventually to break up into many cities, none of which may have an adequate tax base or be able to maintain the services we now have.

Remember . . . only the assets will be annexed or taken away. All that will eventually remain of Waterford Township will be small liabilities.

A "YES" vote November 5th will secure our boundaries for two years.

If you do not like the city charter when it is proposed, you can vote against it.

Waterford does not become a city until you approve a charter.

Let's Progress With The CITY OF WATERFORD

Let's gear ourselves legally to get a good industrial tax base to help us maintain the services we want and need.

Zoning and careful planning will enable light industry to utilize industrial areas only . . residential areas are protected from commercializations.

WE ALSO NEED...

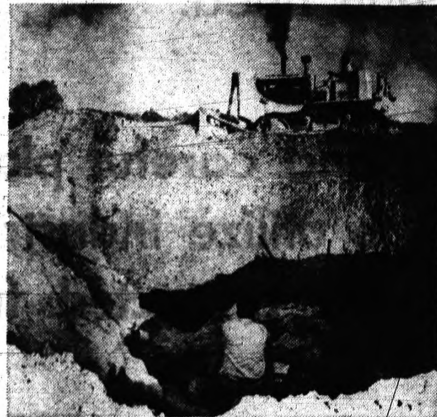

services to keep pace with our rapid growth and to maintain the high standards of friendly living we now enjoy.

WATER . . . construction begins next spring on the new system.

LIGHTS . . . some of us have these.

SEWERS . . . in the planning stage.

ROADS . . . we can do a better job as a city.

GARBAGE COLLECTION . . .
City operated means lower costs.

City government can provide these services more efficiently and more economically in the long run.

IT'S A WHOPPER—Steven Banfield, 5851 Tubbs, Waterford Township, is puzzled why one turnip in his garden grew so big while all the others were of normal size. The huge blue-top turnip dug up yesterday measures 34 inches in circumference and 11 inches in diameter.

Investigators Probe Tragic Indiana Blast

Hopes High in College Bid

Pontiac is still in the running for a proposed $30-million osteopathic college, reports Max Adams, manager of the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce.

As cranes pulled apart the debris inside the big coliseum at the Indiana State Fairgrounds, investigators found a half-dozen butane gas tanks. Two of them were ruptured.

There were "wild rumors" galore, Anderson said. Some said no permits had been issued for the butane gas. Anderson said investigators were checking out reports a concession worker "discovered hissing gas, saw the fog and yelled 'Clear out.'"

The explosion originated in or near the refreshment counters below the south tier of seats in the huge oval, shaped auditorium. It ripped through the concrete floor beneath a section of 33 seats, best in the house.

STANDS ERUPT
The blast flung men, women and children, and chairs, and huge chunks of concrete 50 feet into the air onto the rink where "Holiday on Ice" skaters were prouetting in the grand finale before an audience of 4,000. Then came flames.

The dead and injured contained the names of some of the most prominent persons in the community.

The victims included Dwight Keim, former Mayor of West Lafayette, Ind.; Herman Schmitz, former Commandant of the Indiana State Soldiers Home, and his wife; Earl H. Myer, executive vice president of the Indiana Farmers Mutual Insurance Co., and his wife; George Schumaker, an advertising executive for the Indianapolis News and Star; and Drs. Marshall McClung and Jesse Staten.

Fred Kortepeter, 62, Indianapolis, collapsed and died apparently looking for a relative or friend at the temporary morgue set up on the ice of the coliseum.

Dem Leaders Ready to Deal on Tax Reform

State GOP Must Get Key Opposition Votes to Support Program

LANSING (AP) — Democratic leaders, aware that their party holds the key votes on Gov. George Romney's tax reform plan in the legislature, say they are about ready to start bargaining.

"I'm not ready to say whether we will give a push to any kind of a compromise tax package," said House minority leader Joseph Kowalski, D-Detroit.

"But we are willing to meet with the Republicans and talk things over."

Democrats regard themselves as being in a strategic position because the revised tax reform program is locked in committee in the Senate and apparently lacks the GOP votes it would need to pass the House.

House Republicans will caucus Monday night, when the legislature reconvenes, to poll themselves on the revised program.

ENOUGH STRENGTH
Romney and House speaker Allison Green, R-Kingsford, say they expect to find enough strength to bring the bills out of committee but both admit that Democratic support will be needed to pass them on the floor.

October Production Breaks Auto Record

DETROIT (AP) — Automobile production for October was the highest for any month in history, figures from the industry indicated yesterday.

With various records reported by individual manufacturers, the total passenger car production came out at 798,716 as compared to the prior March 1955 all-time high of 794,015.

Last year the total for October was 725,575.

This brought the 10-month total for the year to 6,145,957. The 10-month total last year was 5,599,594.

Truck production for the 10 months was 936,252 as against 799,681 for the same period last year.

General Motors reported production of 402,353 cars in October compared to its prior highest monthly total of 398,169 last May. Ford made 232,727 cars, compared to its prior monthly high of 210,692 in November 1955, another industry boom year.

PONTIAC BREAKS RECORD
Pontiac Motor turned out 45,135 Pontiacs and 17,168 Tempests in October to top the October 1962 mark of 39,632 Pontiacs and 15,880 Tempests.

Chrysler said it produced 116,575 passenger cars in October compared to 90,887 for October of 1962.

American Motors reported a record production of 89,976 cars for its model year, to date, an increase of 20 per cent over this date a year ago.

Studebaker reported it made 16,857 cars in October, a drop from October of last year. Studebaker's total was 15,003 in October 1962.

NGUYEN NGOC THO

MADAME NHU

First Lady Gets News of Husband

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Mrs. Ngo Dinh Nhu, secluded behind her double-locked hotel door, prepared a statement late last night on reports her husband, Ngo Dinh Nhu, and president Ngo Dinh Diem had committed suicide after their surrender in a military coup.

But she withheld the statement while keeping track of news reports. Her travel plans depend upon them.

She intended to attend Mass at the nearby Roman Catholic Church of the Good Shepherd during the morning.

Earlier, she snapped "Never!" to a newsman's question whether she would seek asylum in the United States if the coup was successful.

"STABBED ME"
"I cannot stay in a country whose government stabbed me in the back," she said.

She blamed the coup on American intervention.

Messages of condolence on the overthrow of her brother-in-law's government poured into the hotel switchboard all day.

Mrs. Nhu received the first report of the possible suicides at about 9:45 P.M., approximately three hours after they reportedly occurred in Viet Nam.

TOUR NEARS END
Her original travel plans were to leave Los Angeles early next week for Tokyo, Hong Kong and Saigon, the final leg of her five-week round-the-world tour.

Amid early reports of the coup, an aide said she would probably stick to her travel plans, at least as far as Tokyo.

But when word of the suicides reached her, the aide said, "This changes the picture entirely."

Buddhist Rules in Viet Capital

TOKYO (AP) — Military rebels in South Viet Nam announced today the death of President Ngo Dinh Diem and his brother Ngo Dinh Nhu, and proclaimed a new government led by Buddhists.

Some accounts filtering from Saigon — where thousands danced in the streets — said the brothers committed suicide, others that they were shot to death.

Suicide was the story broadcast by the rebel-held Radio Saigon.

This terse account, as pieced together by diplomatic sources in Bangkok, Thailand and in Washington, was that the president, 62, and his brother, 52, killed themselves upon being recaptured after once escaping military custody.

A Bangkok, diplomat said the two were reported to have swallowed poison on the way to jail in an armored car from a church in Saigon's Chinese quarter where they had taken refuge.

There was no independent confirmation. Some diplomats wondered whether the two would have so breached their Roman Catholic faith as to take that way out, for the Church condemns suicide.

The American Broadcasting Co., announced it had received word from its Saigon correspondent that a nervous officer shot the brothers after taking them into custody at the church.

NEWS CENSORED
Some news dispatches filtered from Saigon after a long black-out after the 18-hour revolutionary strife, but censorship held back many details.

The victorious generals gave the reins of a provisional government to Nguyen Ngoc Tho, 55, a slender Buddhist who had served as Diem's vice president since 1956.

Spontaneous outbursts of dancing in the streets of Saigon greeted the overthrow of the Diem regime.

There were only fragmentary details on the deaths of Diem and Nhu. Only the Vietnamese press was said to have been permitted to photograph the bodies.

FLED CAPTORS
A Saigon radio broadcast said the brothers were taken into custody after a white flag hoisted over the battle-scarred presidential palace. But they fled their captors and sought sanctuary in a church.

They were recaptured — it was not disclosed how or where — and committed suicide, the broadcast said.

The downfall of the autocratic ruling family followed a day and night siege of the presidential palace. A 39-minute dawn tank and artillery attack preceded Diem's capitulation after eight years of rule.

THEIR DAUGHTER
He also broke with his controversial daughter, Mrs. Ngo Dinh Nhu, first lady to the bachelor president. The president, his brother and Mrs. Nhu are Roman Catholics. Chuong is a Confucianist.

Chuong referred to reports from Tokyo that Ngo Dinh Nhu had been killed in a revolt against the South Vietnamese government. The same report said Ngo Dinh's brother, President Ngo Dinh Diem, had been deposed.

"I wrote to Diem telling him of the deep discontent of the Vietnamese people," Chuong said.

"I cautioned him to avoid just such an uprising."

Chuong resigned his ambassadorial post last August in a dispute with the Diem government over its treatment of Buddhists.

Chuong has refused to see his daughter since she arrived in the United States a few weeks ago for an extended speaking tour. He said however, that if the news is true that there has been a tragedy he would see her.

Chuong has a speaking engagement Saturday in Los Angeles. His daughter is there now.

Chuong added, "However, they still consider me an enemy" — the Nhu family.

Joint Moon Trip Chance Looks Dim To Diplomats

MOSCOW (UPI) — Western diplomats said today they see no prospect of a joint Soviet-American moon project anytime soon despite Premier Nikita Khrushchev's qualified approval of the idea.

The diplomats said Khrushchev is unwilling at present to join in a joint venture like that suggested by President Kennedy in his U.N. speech Sept. 26, presumably because it would involve disclosure of Soviet rocket secrets.

They recalled that the Russian Premier rejected a similar proposal outright when Kennedy suggested it at their 1961 meeting in Vienna.

He is coolly cordial to the idea now, perhaps because of the recent U.S. gains in the space race.

In an impromptu toast at a diplomatic reception here yesterday, Khrushchev said "cooperation between states in exploring outer space would be materially advanced" if it were possible to attain "a relaxation of tensions" supported by practical steps in disarmament.

TOAST TO SCIENTISTS

The Premier was toasting the Soviet scientists responsible for the launching of "Flight-1," an unmanned spaceship which the Russians say can be maneuvered from the earth by remote control.

The Soviet agency Tass said the "guided, maneuverable spaceship" has already boosted itself from one orbit into a different and larger one.

Observers said such maneuvers make it at least theoretically possible to link up two or more spacecraft to form a "space platform" which might be used as a way station for flights into deep space.

There was immediate speculation that the Russians may soon launch a second spaceship, probably called "Flight-2," and attempt a rendezvous in orbit.

GEMINI PROJECT

The U.S. Gemini project, which envisions two-man spaceflights, includes provisions for orbital linkups and space flights lasting as long as a week. The launching of Flight-1 indicated Russia intends to go on with advanced space experiments despite Khrushchev's weekend announcement that the Kremlin is bowing out of the moon race.

The charges and countercharges were made after both Algeria and Morocco had announced that the cease-fire was being observed.

ORDER GIVEN

Algerian President Ahmed Ben Bella said last night he had ordered his forces to respect the cease-fire.

The Moroccan Army commander in the Fijig area said he had given similar orders to his forces.

Hours after the fighting should have stopped, however, both sides reported it had resumed. Mortar shells were falling in downtown Fijig at 7 a. m., and Moroccan sources said an estimated 3,000 Algerian troops were attacking with tanks, mortars and recoilless rifles.

It was Dien's treatment of Buddhists, capped by the government's August raids on pagodas and ensuing arrests, that marked the country's final disenchantment with him and his family.

One of the first acts of the new government was to release political prisoners, students and Buddhist monks and nuns imprisoned under Dien and Nhu.

In Washington, U.S. officials reacted cautiously to the overthrow of the Dien government, with which the United States has had a running argument in recent months because of the Buddhist crisis.

A State Department spokesman said the United States was in no way involved in Dien's ouster. Military officials, however, said they believe the revolutionary committee of generals has the popular support for an anti-war effort against the Communist Viet Cong guerrillas.

At the height of the battle, little news of the revolt filtered from the city. Commercial lines of communication were disrupted.

The coup began at noon yesterday, with an attack on the presidential palace, a six-story building in downtown Saigon. The rebels encountered stiff resistance from Dien's loyal palace guards and his crack 2,000-man detachment of special forces.

As the battle grew more fierce it became apparent Dien's time was limited.

ASK SURRENDER
The rebels halted the attack for three hours, during which they offered Dien and his brother a pledge of safe conduct if they surrendered. They refused, and again the insurgents opened their attack.

The battle raged through the streets, rebel marines surrounded the national and municipal police headquarters until it surrendered.

By 4 a. m. today, 16 tanks moved in on the presidential palace from the east. Other units ringed the building from the west and the south.

FIRE CONTINUES
For two and a half hours, they fired at the cream-colored palace.

Adjoining buildings were ablaze.

It was clear Dien, Nhu and their few remaining soldiers could not survive the merciless pounding much longer. At 6:37 a. m., a white flag fluttered over the palace.

Dien and Nhu had surrendered unconditionally.

The death toll from the day and night of fighting was feared high, although no figures were available immediately.

Goldwater, who has said the Birch society is not a power in U.S. politics anyway, underscored his insistence that he will not denounce society members.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater says he has no intention of denouncing members of the John Birch Society — as long as they do and say is "temperate and in keeping with the decency called for in American politics."

But the Arizona Republican doesn't put the society's founder, Robert Welch, in that category.

Goldwater says he long ago took issue with Welch—who has called former President Dwight D. Eisenhower a traitor and the late John Foster Dulles a Communist.

"The argument, in my opinion, against the Birch society centers on Mr. Welch," Goldwater said.

EXPLAINS VIEWS
The senator spelled out his views on the society in a letter to Thomas M. Storke, editor and publisher of the Santa Barbara, Calif., News-Press.

Storke won a Pulitzer Prize in 1962 for editorials "calling public attention to the efforts of the semisecret Birch Society to wage a campaign of hate and vilification in Santa Barbara."

The California publisher wrote Goldwater Aug. 15 asking whether the senator stands on "principal tenets of the society which have been laid down by Welch himself."

When he didn't get a reply, Storke published an editorial Oct. 12, advising Goldwater: "If you really hope to enter the presidential race as a champion of responsible conservatism, you cannot afford to have rag-tag hangers-on, slanderers and racists parading under your banner."

LETTER ASTRAY
In his Oct. 21 reply, made public today, Goldwater said the letter apparently went astray and he wasn't aware of it until Storke published his editorial.

Goldwater said he does not agree with the society's call for impeachment of Chief Justice Earl Warren, elimination of the income tax and U.S. withdrawal from the United Nations.

"I have followed your campaign against Mr. Welch," Goldwater wrote, "and I would like to inform you that I had openly expressed my disagreement with that gentleman quite some time before you took up the cudgels."

Goldwater, who has said the Birch society is not a power in U.S. politics anyway, underscored his insistence that he will not denounce society members.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy called off a trip to today's Air Force-Army football game in Chicago to remain in the White House in close touch with the situation in South Vietnam.

Announcement of Kennedy's decision to remain here was made about 15 minutes after his scheduled 10 a. m. departure from the White House.

"The President is not going to the football game," White House press secretary Pierre Salinger told newsmen.

At the time of Salinger's announcement, Kennedy was meeting with his top advisers on the situation in South Vietnam resulting from a coup which ousted President Ngo Dinh Diem.

ANOTHER MEETING
Salinger said Kennedy would hold another meeting with his advisers this afternoon.

There was no White House announcement of any late reports received from Saigon.

The President conferred with Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, Director John A. McCona of the Central Intelligence Agency, W. Averell Harriman, under secretary of state for political affairs, Roger Hilsman, assistant secretary for Far Eastern affairs, and Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, chairman of the joint Chiefs of Staff.

There was no White House announcement of any late reports received from Saigon.

The President conferred with Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, Director John A. McCona of the Central Intelligence Agency, W. Averell Harriman, under secretary of state for political affairs, Roger Hilsman, assistant secretary for Far Eastern affairs, and Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, chairman of the joint Chiefs of Staff.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy called off a trip to today's Air Force-Army football game in Chicago to remain in the White House in close touch with the situation in South Vietnam.

Announcement of Kennedy's decision to remain here was made about 15 minutes after his scheduled 10 a. m. departure from the White House.

"The President is not going to the football game," White House press secretary Pierre Salinger told newsmen.

At the time of Salinger's announcement, Kennedy was meeting with his top advisers on the situation in South Vietnam resulting from a coup which ousted President Ngo Dinh Diem.

Atheist Plans Attack on Church Tax Status

In the flux of international and domestic events currently monopolizing news headlines, matters of seeming secondary importance easily escape the attention they merit.

A development of this character, a most insidious one, takes shape with the announcement of the militant Baltimore atheist, Madelyn Murray, that she is instituting legal action in seven states to deprive religious institutions and churches of tax-free status.

This idea seems so revolutionary and beyond the realm of realization that ecclesiastics and laymen of the Country could well dismiss it as just another manifestation of warped social outlook.

But qualified appraisers warn against such complacency and point out that recent Supreme Court decisions hold threat of such eventualities.

The court has gone to unprecedented lengths in insisting that the Government must be neutral between atheism and a spirit of religion.

In a series of legal decisions, school superintendents, teachers and pupils have been forbidden to observe a simple nondenominational prayer, to read the Bible, or even to recite the fourth stanza of America which acknowledges God as the "authority of liberty." And in a concurring opinion, the tribunal set the stage for the invalidation of such typical American practices as opening court sessions with a prayer and engraving "In God We Trust" on our currency.

The heathenish design of the Maryland infidel would strike a disastrous blow at the viability of our religious establishment at a time when America has never needed more to preserve and strengthen its moral and religious resources.

It should be opposed with unanimous force by all men and women of spiritual integrity and good will, and given short shrift in the courts and legislative halls of the land.

Current Good Times Seem Here to Stay

As the days shorten into winter, a look at the 1964 economy as crystallized by leading economists seems in order.

Though the current business expansion is now 32 months old and should be showing signs of weariness, no such symptom has appeared.

Bucking the average 36-month life of postwar recoveries, the current one is predicted to push 1963's fourth quarter gross national product to a record rate of $595 billion. The Bank of America forecasts a $611 GNP annual rate by next June.

With the unflinching economy again paced by the automobile industry, which got away to a 33 per cent gain over 1962 for the last ten days of September, the consensus is most optimistic for the first six months of 1964. And if a tax reduction materializes to provide a tonic, the year could go all the way.

Steel, another key industry, has increased output for six straight weeks. Total Industrial Production is at 125.4 per cent of the 1957-59 average and headed for a likely record by the end of October.

And indicative of the solid confidence in the economic picture are capital spending commitments by business and industry for expansion and modernization. In the fourth quarter of this year such spending is expected to reach a record annual rate of $41 billion.

On the negative side, continuing gold outflow is still an economic fly in the ointment, and unemployment persists at a current rate of 5.6 per cent.

But these irritations cloud but little the over-all brightness of the look ahead, and Americans can well be thankful for the good fortune they enjoy in this land of plenty.

Political Drama Not Barry's Style

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Barry Goldwater is unique among presidential possibilities of recent times in that he gives an impression of simple directness without the artifice.

This, in addition to whatever appeal his ideas may have, probably accounts to a great degree for his popularity in the public opinion polls.

Singly or together the hallmarks of most candidates since Franklin D. Roosevelt have been a sense of drama and often of almost fierce conviction, a permanent smile and camera-consciousness.

Roosevelt, a master campaigner, was a far better phrase-maker than any of the candidates or likely possibilities since, including Goldwater.

Roosevelt had an enormous sense of drama but, unlike some of those who aspired to his job afterwards and used drama like a scotch, he made it part of the natural fabric of what he said.

President Kennedy, on the other hand, while he can manage to look relaxed when he wants to, uses such self-conscious and manufactured phrasing in his prepared talks that it often gets between him and his listeners.

Goldwater, in an address Thursday to the Women's National Press Club, made a biting attack on the Kennedy administration, charging Kennedy with playing politics with government information to stay in office.

It was a straight-away, unlitany speech delivered in a humdrum way. He sounded just like somebody else reading a speech.

It was when he answered questions after the luncheon that Goldwater achieved his effect of simplicity and directness.

Whereas Roosevelt conveyed in a sense of warmth, Goldwater gives off an air of friendliness.

Until now this Republican from Arizona has had the advantage of not having to talk under pressure in his quest for the nomination.

He has been running hard—without formally admitting it—but just because this is so he has been able to pick his spots and pace himself. A dinner here, a rally there.

The POWER of FAITH

By WOODI ISHMAEL

San Blas Island Saga — Part 2

The faith and devotion of a gospel singer, Mrs. George Miller, bore fruit when she befriended Peter Miller, a San Blas Island Indian boy who had been brought by a missionary to the United States for an education.

After the missionary's death, Mrs. Miller assumed the responsibility of helping Peter. She raised money through friends and used her own savings to further his schooling. During summers, her home was his. She taught Peter all the hymns she knew which were of great use to him later, and took him to revivals and camp meetings.

In 1932, upon graduating from Vennard College in Iowa, the time came when Peter, to keep faith with his people, his God and his sponsors, returned to the islands as a missionary himself.

As we shall see next week, his service there has been a major fact in the religious life of that remote region.

Days of All Faiths:

Hubert—Hunters' Patron Saint

By DR. HOWARD V. HARPER

All those enthusiasts who are at this moment sitting in a duck blind or tramping through the woods looking for deer may not know it but they have a patron saint watching over them: He is St. Hubert, who in his day (8th Century) was quite a hunter himself.

In fact, he was much more interested in the chase than he was in religion. He showed little promise of ever being a saint on the Good Friday when he went out hunting while everyone else was going to church.

In the forest he was startled and a good deal shaken up to encounter a stag with a crucifix between its antlers. He was still more upset when the animal began to speak to him, "Unless you turn to the Lord, Hubert," said the stag. "You shall fall into hell."

Realizing the impulse to get away as fast as possible, Hubert dropped to his knees and asked what he should do. The stag told him to go to a certain bishop named Lambert, who would give him guidance.

(It should be noted that exactly the same story, except for the instructions about Lambert, is told of the more famous St. Eustace, who is commemorated on September twentieth, and is also a patron of hunters.)

From then on things were, of course, quite different for Hubert. Under Lambert's love and care he grew spiritually to the point where he was ordained to the priesthood and in 765 was made Bishop of Liege, in Belgium.

How much of the story of Hubert is legend and how much fact is impossible to determine. We don't really know anything about him before he appeared at Lambert's door, but we do know that he was a bishop and a saintly one and that his memory is still bright in Belgium.

As to his patronage of hunters, it is a little hard to understand how he still holds this position. His passion for hunting was the chief obstacle between him and God, and he renounced the sport completely.

St. Hubert, because of his connection with animals, is also invoked by anyone who has, or is exposed to, rabies.

TWO PRE-CHRISTIAN SAINTS

Zacharias and Elizabeth, commemorated Nov. 5 at Christian altars, were the parents of John the Baptist. Zacharias was a priest in the Temple at Jerusalem. We are told in St. Luke's first chapter that one day as Zacharias was officiating at a service, the Archangel Gabriel appeared to him and told him he and his wife would have a son, who would "make ready a people prepared for the Lord."

Elizabeth was well past the age of childbearing, and Zacharias was rash enough to express some doubt about the prediction. Apparently even Archangels can be irritated. Gabriel was insulted and he punished the old man by striking him dumb until the child was born.

After the birth of John, nothing more is ever heard of either his father or mother. There is a legend that Zacharias was killed by the soldiers of Herod because he refused to tell them where they could find John. This is a most unlikely story. If Zacharias was an old man when John was born, it is hardly possible that he would still be alive when John was a grown man making trouble for Herod.

Of course, Zacharias and Elizabeth were not Christians. They lived and died before the founding of the Church. But they are venerated as saints, as are many other pre-Christians who were part of God's long preparation for the coming of His Son.

Writer Stresses Value of U.S. Foreign Aid

We believe there is an extraordinary need to encourage better public understanding of the importance of the U.S. foreign aid program to the security and well-being of our country and how U.S. private enterprise and voluntary organizations carry out their important role in it.

The foreign aid program has been traditionally bipartisan from the beginning and today foreign aid is called for by President Kennedy and supported by former President Eisenhower.

In the period ahead, the Senate will complete action on this year's foreign aid authorization, and, thereafter, both the House and Senate will consider the bill at the appropriations stage. This is a particularly vital time for public consideration of foreign aid.

Last of Letters on Waterford Cityhood

Thanks to the Waterford Republican Club for bringing Dr. Louis Friedland, professor of local government from Wayne State University. Dr. Friedland stated that in the past, townships that had incorporated have had an increase in taxes. Also, the gasoline tax would not cover the complete cost of maintaining roads. He reminded us that there are good, sound financial charter townships as well as cities and that local governments are only as good as the people elected to run them. Let's vote to continue having a good charter township.

Conscientious Taxpayer

"Mr. Suburbanite" is welcome to read "the facts." A. C. Sherman, director, local government division, State Highway Department, has verified the gas and weight tax return placing it at $480.00 which is higher than the study committee estimated ($456.95).

"Mr. Suburbanite" has shown less awareness about his township by not knowing that it already has a supervisor and an administrator, a clerk, a treasurer, a township board, full-time police and fire departments, an attorney and part of a sanitation department.

Apparently, "Mr. Suburbanite" and Mr. Fowler have not voted in past elections otherwise they would realize that the lines of a school district are independent of the boundaries of a governing unit.

B. W.

Waterford has been a charter township for a short time. Let's use the benefits of it until we really need the advantages of a city. Now isn't the time to change.

We are using 2.83 mills for our township budget of a possible 10-mill ceiling. This leaves a considerable amount to work with before we need a higher rate. The ability to get cheaper interest rates on borrowing does not add up to the extra interest paid, as a township would still be much cheaper than the higher taxes a city would force on us.

Pontiac cannot take the Mill without consent. It seems hard to believe the Mill would want to increase its taxes approximately 500 per cent to be a part of Pontiac. Let's face this situation with a little common sense.

A 23 Year Waterford Taxpayer

Our township is fortunate because we have been able to provide a large majority of municipal services. Waterford has many dollars in such assets as buildings, equipment and property. There is no reason to believe that incorporation will increase taxes unless the people wish increases in services.

Township officials are in the process of providing many community services, such as the water and sewer programs. Since the need for these will not change, we cannot blame their expense on incorporation.

We would increase our representation at the county level from one to five members on the County Board of Supervisors.

The adoption of a "home rule" City Charter, at a later date, is the final necessary act to establish incorporation. Our boundaries will then be permanently secure.

Vote "yes" to protect what we have and to promote our community for a better future.

Shirley J. Ryden
Waterford Township

Why did you move to Waterford? Because it was a city? No! You moved from the city to the suburbs. Let's keep it a township. Move of us can afford more taxes.

22 Years in Waterford

The only thing we would get from Waterford cityhood would be another increase in our excessive taxes. Improvements in services have not been in any way near the increases in taxation and population. We should learn to crawl before we try to walk or run. Give the charter township system a fair trial before it is discarded.

Waterford Taxpayer

Opponents of Waterford incorporation are hammering one issue—taxes. The implication is that cityhood brings increased taxes. Taxes will rise even though it is a township. No matter what the governmental structure the demand for basic services would result in increased taxes.

I look upon cityhood as a sound investment because: Waterford Township needs water and sewers. These will be paid for by borrowing. Interest rates on borrowed money are generally better to a city than to a township, an intact Waterford city will prevent fragmentation into numerous cities and avoid the duplication costs of multiple governing units. Surely the cost of one administration is more economical than the cost of even two municipalities to govern the same area; plan for the rapid growth of Waterford with designated areas of commercial, industrial and residential sites is only possible under a Waterford city. Thus property values are protected.

Through incorporation the taxpayers are better served and the goals of a united community more easily shared.

M. J. N.

The Waterford Township Board favors becoming a city. This is not surprising, as the board appointed the Cityhood Study Committee. Why? So that the governing body can lay its hand on it.

Soapy Checks State Dems

Declines to Speculate
on Governor Possible

DETROIT (AP) — Former Gov. G. Mennen Williams was checking up on Michigan's political situation yesterday, but declined to speculate on who will be the 1964 Democratic candidate for governor.

Williams, a Democrat who served six terms as governor, met for an hour with Detroit Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh.

The two said they discussed the Detroit school millage issue, Gov. George Romney's tax program, Detroit's Olympic efforts and "politics."

"I like to keep in touch with things back home," said Williams, now assistant secretary of state for African affairs. He added that his main concern at present is the "critical problems of Southern Africa."

DECLINES STATEMENT

Williams declined to say whether he preferred former Gov. John B. Swainson or Congressman - at - Large Neil Stabler to run against Romney in 1964. Swainson and Stabler now are considered the most likely contenders.

A gubernatorial primary contest "that creates antagonism will not help," Williams said. "The Democratic party has a financial problem which a primary fight wouldn't help."

Williams is in Detroit to speak at a Democratic dinner tonight honoring Sen. Philip A. Hart. He was asked whether he has aspirations for a Senate seat.

"That's a long way away," Williams said. "as far as the Senate is concerned, (Sen.) Pat McNamara (D-Mich.) was my candidate and still is."

Asked about Cavanagh's political future, Williams replied: "The people of Michigan and around the country feel that the mayor of Detroit is one of the rising young men."

Salesman Arraigned on Extortion

ABILENE, Tex. (AP) — A young utilities salesman was held in the Taylor County jail today after the Federal Bureau of Investigation charged him with attempted extortion of $250,000 from a Sweetwater, Tex. banker.

The FBI charged Romney Morrison Mason, 25, of Sweetwater, formerly of Hobbs, N.M., with attempting to extort the money from Wilson Guest, president of the National Bank of Sweetwater, by threatening to blow up the town's schools, hospital and court house.

Mason, a thin, calm-voiced man was arraigned here Friday night before U.S. Commissioner Gladys Walls, who set his bond at $10,000. After the arraignment, FBI agents took him to the jail in lieu of bond.

J. Gordon Shanklin, FBI special agent in charge at Dallas, announced the extortion threat and the ensuing arrest.

THE SAXON

Shanklin said a letter, mailed to Guest on Oct. 23 and signed "The Saxon," gave the banker five days to turn over a quarter of a million dollars to the sender. The letter said further instructions would come later. Mason, at his arraignment, told the commissioner, "The plan was a crazy thing."

The letter, the FBI said, told Guest that bombs planted in the schools, hospital and court house would be exploded by electronic devices. But Mason reportedly told Judge Walls he knew nothing about electronics. Mason, father of one child, is a stock and bond salesman in Sweetwater. He is active in one of the town's service clubs.

DALLAS (UPI) — Judy Doll, a blue-eyed, wholesome-looking, 17-year-old girl representing Akron, Ohio, is the new Miss Teenage America.

She won last night in the finals of a contest that started last Monday with 49 entrants. Various eliminations reduced the field to six girls last night.

Jeanine Zavrel, 16, Falls Church, Va., named first alternate, entered the contest as "Miss Washington, D.C."

Eileen Melody Speerin, representing New York City, won third place.

"CAN'T BELIEVE IT"

"I still can't believe it," Judy said.

"It's great," her father, Jay P. Doll, a plant engineer, said. "Her mother and I certainly did not consciously prepare her to win a contest like this."

As winner of the contest, Judy got a $10,000 scholarship, a convertible automobile, 50 shares of a soft drink company's stock, a new wardrobe and a trip around the country.

Seek Legal Steps on Sewer in Ionia

LANSING (AP) — Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley's staff is reviewing possible legal steps to force the city of Ionia to construct a sewage treatment plant.

Ralph Purdy, chief pollution engineer for the State Water Resources Commission, said the city is the only one in Michigan with more than 5,000 population that lacks a sewage treatment program.

The commission was told by the State Health Department survey showed the Grand River in Ionia is becoming a health hazard because of pollution.

The Health Department turned the issue over to the Attorney General's office.

Magazine Suit Filed by Dixie Chief of Police

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — Mississippi's public safety commissioner filed a $1 million libel suit against the Saturday Evening Post yesterday, claiming the Post defamed the Mississippi highway patrol.

Col. T. B. Birdsong, head of the patrol, based the suit on a story, "What Next in Mississippi?" He said it was published "with intent to defame" the patrolmen's action in the University of Mississippi integration crisis.

He said the story tried to pin the patrol with "a sizeable portion of the blame" for the riots in which two persons were killed and scores injured when Negro James Meredith was brought to the school to register last year.
