Cutters Opening Passage Along St. Clair River

Two Coast Guard Ships Clear 12-Mile Route; to Resume Battle Today

PORT HURON (AP)—Two Coast Guard icebreaking ships maneuvered today to throw their weight totaling almost 2,000 tons against the St. Clair River ice jam.

The Acacia, stationed at Detroit, and its sister ship, the Tupelo, from Toledo, Ohio, yesterday turned down the 12-mile channel they have cut from the southerly mouth of the river and raced at full speed back to Detroit.

It was hoped the spume and boiling wake of the vessles would help churn up the ice which reformed rapidly behind them in the slow chipping at the windrowed ice.

The ships returned to renew the battle today.

Meanwhile, senior officials of the Coast Guard and the U.S. Corps of Army Engineers made a helicopter survey of the great icefield which threatens communities on both sides of the international waterway with dry water intakes, flooding and riverbank damage.

MAIN JAM IN DOUBT

Coast Guard officers doubted the two vessels would be able to clear the main jam, where ice piled up in last week's heavy winds is believed 28-feet high, but hoped clearing a path through the southern extremity of the river would help when nature does the job.

Weather will play the most important part in clearing the ice pack, an engineer said. He said bright sunshine and temperatures just below freezing would make for best chance of clearing it safely. It was hoped the ice chunks would flow slowly through the prepared channel.

The army engineer said a rise in temperature and rain might melt the ice rapidly causing flooding and damage to riverside properties by swift-moving floes.

Light Snow Predicted for Area

Cold Wave Chills Most of Country as Frigid Air Mass Moves Southward

A "vacationing" Arctic air mass, moving steadily southward, was blamed today for cold and wet weather in most areas of the United States east of the Rocky Mountains.

Florida temperatures dipped below freezing point last night at Tallahassee in the northern part of the state, where 31 degrees was recorded. In Miami, downward moving temperatures in the 60s were reported.

The lowest temperature reported was 28 below zero at Bemidji, Minn. Below-zero readings were also reported in North Dakota, South Dakota, Minnesota and Wisconsin.

Below-freezing temperatures extended south into Texas, Alabama, Georgia and Virginia.

Scattered rain and snow fell over a large portion of the country last night, but generally the falls were light compared to the heavy snows early this week.

For Pontiac and vicinity, the outlook is cloudy and colder with occasional light snow. Today's high is predicted to be 28-32 degrees, falling to 12-16 tonight and rising to near 25 tomorrow.

Lowest temperature preceding 8 a.m. was 25. At 2 p.m., temperature outside was 31.

Oakland County Sheriff's deputies today blamed snowy streets for most of their five property damage accidents yesterday, Pontiac police reported eight accidents yesterday in which two persons were injured.

To date this year, according to Pontiac police, the city's accident toll numbers 10 more property damage accidents than during the same period last year, with four more persons injured than last year.

'As a Candidate or Aide, I'll Give All My Strength'

Tells Diners Decision on 1956 Race Will Not Be a 'Selfish One'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Either as a candidate or as a "worker in the ranks," President Eisenhower has promised to battle "with all my strength" for the policies of his administration.

Despite the uncertainty with which he viewed his role, Eisenhower's promise of support last night cheered more than 60,000 Republicans whose "Salute to Eisenhower" dinners up to $100 a plate raised an estimated five million dollars for national, state and local GOP campaign purposes.

Responding to demands that he run again, Eisenhower said "my future role remains undetermined, whether to be a candidate for your nomination or a worker in the ranks." But he promised his help in either case.

SMILING, HALE AND HEARTY

It was the President's first "night out" since his September heart attack, and to watch him was a heart thrilling thing.

He arose smiling and outwardly hale and hearty to return the salute of 60 dinners throughout the country. But tears clouded his eyes as he acknowledged the tribute, saying "The heart is so full that it is indeed dangerous to say more than 'thank you.'"

Eisenhower told 1,700 diners in Washington and about 60,000 more over the country that his decision, when it is reached, will not be a selfish one.

'WHAT SHALL I DO'

"I could devoutly wish that there were some other method by which the American people could, under the circumstances, point out the path of my true duty," he said. "But it appears that this is a question that first I alone must answer."

The Republicans who cheered his entrance with Mrs. Eisenhower, gowned in purple and carrying American beauty red roses, left no doubt that they would like to help him make an affirmative decision.

Neither did the closed circuit television flashbacks, from Los Angeles to New York, leave any thought that the Republicans saluting his third anniversary in the White House have in mind any other candidate but Eisenhower.

Some of them obviously were cheered by Eisenhower's statement that he hopes his decision when it comes, "will not unduly reflect concern for self . . ."

These party members said they

Pontiac Couple Robbed of $900 at Pistol Point

A Pontiac man and wife were robbed of $900 in their home last night by at least one armed man, who forced them to lay face down on the floor, tied their hands and legs, and placed rugs over their heads.

John and Neva Alli, of 40 Judson St., told Pontiac police they had recently withdrawn the money from a bank in order to finance a Florida vacation.

They said the lone man appeared at the front door about 6:30 p.m. and identified himself as a "state official."

Mrs. Alli, 60, who answered the door, said he was about 45 years old, medium height, dark, wore a full dark moustache, and carried a brief case. He asked to see Alli, she said.

When Alli, 66, told the man there was no one else in the house, the man drew a pistol out, the couple said.

He gained $10 from Mrs. Alli's purse, but then demanded "the big money," police said.

When Alli refused to say where the money was, the man hit and kicked him. Then Mrs. Alli devulged that the money was hidden in a trunk.

After the couple was forced to the floor, tied with cord, and rugs placed over their heads, another man entered the home, they said.

Police believe that still a third man was waiting outside in a car. The two men left by the front door after finding the $900, the couple told police.

They said they were able to work loose the cord in order to call police.

Alli said he retired in 1954, after working 30 years at Pontiac Motor Division.

Neither Mr. or Mrs. Alli were able to name any suspect who knew they had the vacation funds in the house, police said.

Seek Charges Against Widow

Flint Lawmen to Decide Basis for Prosecution; May Cite for Murder

FLINT (INS) — Genesee County authorities decide today on how, if possible, to prosecute Mrs. Betty Kehl, 32, who has told at least three versions of the murder of her husband and flunked lie tests on all three.

Prosecutor Jerome O'Rourke planned to go over a six-day investigation into the death of Robert Kehl, 34-year-old cigarette salesman, to determine whether the evidence is strong enough to issue a murder warrant against Betty.

All detectives say they are sure of is that she is implicated in some way.

That belief was strengthened yesterday when Mrs. Kehl admitted that two weeks before the slaying she tried to hire a hoodlum to "rough up" her husband.

Ex-convict Joe Cicalo, 40, told police he refused Mrs. Kehl because he was too well known as a police character.

LITTLE EVIDENCE

Meanwhile, detectives admitted they have little evidence against her boy friend, William Thomas, the handsome, 25-year-old welder accused of the murder in Mrs. Kehl's most recent accounts.

Lt. Richard Burton said: "All we've got against him is the word of a woman who has repeatedly been proven a liar."

Kehl was shot to death Monday night at a secluded Flint dump. Mrs. Kehl first insisted she was forced to drive to the dump by a stranger who ordered her husband out of the car and shot him. The weapon, a .38 caliber pistol, has not been found.

Later, she claimed it was Thomas, who is in custody along with Mrs. Kehl, although a lie test and his landlady indicate he was home the night of the murder.

Bewildered detectives admitted Mrs. Kehl shows no anxiety. They say that when they point out that her stories are contradictory, she shrugs. Sometimes, with composure, she ventures a new version. Sometimes she remains silent.

GOP Senators Plan Bill for State Driver Safety

LANSING (AP)—Sixteen Republican senators will try again this session to put into effect their own ideas of traffic safety.

Led by Sen. Creighton R. Coleman (R-Battle Creek), the group sponsored a bill for introduction Monday which seeks to effect changes proposed in last fall's special session which were defeated by Sec. of State James M. Hare on the grounds it would reduce his agency's place in the traffice safety program.

The bill would permit counties of 30,000 population or more to set up schools for bad drivers to which local courts would send motorists who had accumulated three moving violations in two years, been convicted of drunk driving or who were considered by enforcement officials to be bad driving risks.

Such offenders would be required to pay a $5 fee for driving instruction for one and a half hours a week for six weeks. The fee would go to the counties.

The bill would authorize local courts to suspend licenses or place drivers on probation.

It also would require every motorist to take an examination, except for a road test, every time his license was renewed.

It would authorize State Police to set standards for local driver license examiners and would cancel examination rights of any local officer who violated the standards.

Coleman said the schools for bad drivers "are the most important safety measure that could be enacted this session."

A similar bill was passed by the Senate at the special session but was blocked in the House.

Waterford Man Collision Victim

Robert Stewart Dies as Auto Crashes Side of Gasoline Truck

A Waterford Township man was killed in a Farmington Township accident early this morning when he allegedly ran a stoplight and wedged his car under an empty gasoline tanker.

Robert M. Stewart, 21, of 915 Beachland Rd., was thrown from his car after colliding with the empty truck, driven by John Dowell, 42, of Farmington, at Grand River and Middlebelt Roads.

Redford Post State Police said Dowell and two witnesses agreed Stewart had not slowed down as he approached the flashing red light, but drove through it into the path of the truck.

Stewart, they said, was driving north on Middlebelt road, and Dowell was traveling east on Grand River.

4 Policemen Kill Crazed Gunman

Cornered Detroiter in Apartment Shot as He Tries to Blast Officers

DETROIT (AP)— Four policemen shot and killed a berserk factory worker who barricaded himself in his apartment with a shotgun last night.

The four officers said they opened fire on James Jackson, 44, when he cocked the gun and aimed it at them as they sought to arrest him.

Jackson was dead on arrival at Receiving Hospital. Attendants said his body bore six wounds from police revolvers.

The policemen — Patrolmen Rocco Rossi, James Evans, Williams Fromius, and Donald Matuss — were exonerated after they made statements to Asst. Pros. Clarence Laster.

Laster said the four told him they had answered a call from Jackson's wife, Ethel, 45. They said she told them her husband had come home drunk and locked himself in their second floor apartment after announcing he was going to shoot a man who knocked him down in a street fight. She called from a neighbor's house.

The officers said she met them and gave them a key.

When Jackson refused them admittance, they said, they unlocked the door and walked in. They told Laster they opened fire simultaneously when he entered from a passageway, cocking and raising the gun.

Twelve Berkley High School cheerleaders and one of the teachers driving them home after a Waterford High School basketball game last night were slightly injured in a four-car pile-up on Telegraph at Ward Road.

According to Bloomfield Township officers Richard Hoffman and Knute Tubbs, the accident began when Edward Harris, 31, of Flint, stopped to make a left turn off Telegraph Road.

A car directly behind Hoffman's, driven by Ernest Singleton of 7421 S. Shaker St., Pontiac, also stopped.

Singletons car was struck from behind by Nancy McIntrye, 22, of Oak Park, one of the Berkley teachers. Her car was then hit by the second teacher, John Potter, 33, of Royal Oak.

Treated and released from Pontiac General Hospital were Potter; Joan Marsden, 17, and Joanne Ingles, 15, of Huntington Woods; Judith Cragg, 16; Joyce Gaylord, 17; Catherine Peterson, 15; Sue Yergen, 15; and Betty Richards, 16; all of Berkley.

Taylor Seeking More 'Brains' for Future Army

CHARLESTON, S. C. (INS) — Army Chief of Staff Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor today suggested this slogan for the Army of the future: "Let us put the best heads of America into the Army caps of tomorrow."

In a prepared speech at the Citadel, a military college, Taylor said that Army operations have become so complex that there is "a place for all talents . . . the artisan, the businessman, the scholar —yes, the genius."

Discussing "Some Reflections on the Subject of Leadership," Taylor said successful leaders have had and must have three qualities: Human understanding, professional competence, and strength of character.

He added: "If we are to survive as a nation, we can afford only an Army which is an Army second to none, with leaders second to none."

Cabinet Members Speak Across Nation

6,000 State Republicans Jampack Party Banquets

FROM OUR WIRE SERVICES

Michigan Republicans know today their party's 1956 campaign will stress "Peace and Prosperity."

And to prove they love both, as well as the Grand Old Party, more than 6,000 of them gathered at eight $100-a-plate dinners across the state last night and dumped more than half a million dollars into Republican campaign coffers.

President Eisenhower was a "guest" speaker at all eight Michigan "Salute to Eisenhower" dinners, via a closed circuit telecast, as he was at similar functions across the country. Michigan's audiences gave him a rising ovation.

At Flint there was an unmistakable indication of a new peace with the state's Republican ranks. State chairman John Feikens and Arthur E. Summerfield Jr., son of the Postmaster General, sat side by side and cheered together.

Young Summerfield, chairman of the Flint dinner, led a campaign last spring to oust Feikens as party chief. And only recently Feikens agreed to expand the state's campaign committee to 44 members to give Summerfield and other factions representation.

Sites of Michigan dinners, estimated attendance and principal speakers were:

DETROIT: 3,000, Lewis J. Strauss, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission;

FLINT: 560, Secretary of Labor Mitchell;

SAGINAW: 575, James H. Doolittle, wartime Air Force general;

MUSKEGON: 450, Fred A. Seaton, deputy assistant to President Eisenhower;

LANSING: 421, Dr. Herold C. Hunt, Undersecretary of Health, Welfare and Education;

ST. JOSEPH: 400, Gov. Joe Foss of South Dakota, a World War II Congressional Medal of Honor winner;

GRAND RAPIDS: 490, Gov. Arthur B. Longlo of Washington;

IPHEMING: 300, Kevin McCann, an assistant to President Eisenhower.

Almost without exception banquet chairmen reported $100 -a-plate ticket purchases outstripped attendance. Receipts were split 45-45 between state and national campaign chests, the other 10 per cent going to defray dinner expenses.

President Eisenhower and his administration—dotted from the cabinet down by many prominent Michiganders—drew praise from all speakers.

At Detroit, Strauss described the President as "a leader tirelessly and keenly devoted to the cause of peace."

Pointing to what he said was unprecedented growth "which has benefited all our people, Secretary Mitchell at Flint said: "We never had it so good."

Speaking to 15,000 New York and New Jersey Republicans in Madison Square Garden, Treasury Secretary George M. Humphrey hailed Eisenhower as the greatest American of his time and the "outstanding figure in the world today."

Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson came closest to urging the President to run again. Speaking in Houston, he declared:

"I am hopeful, as I know you are, that he will continue to provide our country with his matchless leadership in the years ahead, America needs—the world needs—Dwight D. Eisenhower—now and tomorrow."

Commerce Secretary Sinclair Weeks, speaking in Milwaukee, used the strongest language of any administration official as he accused Democratic politicians of "a mouth-watering hunger for any

2 Men Sought in Hotel Slaying

Killing Suspect Says Pair 'Rolled' Victim in Room Before Murder

Pontiac Police today are seeking two unidentified men, who a murder suspect claims "rolled" an ex-bookkeeper a few hours before his savagely beaten body was found Thursday night.

"I don't know if the men exist or not," Oakland County Prosecutor Fred C. Ziem said, "but we will wait at least until Monday before serving warrants in the case, to see if police can locate them."

Meanwhile, he said, two suspects seen leaving the hotel where 57-year-old Frank L. Beheydt was killed will remain in Oakland County Jail, held for investigation of first degree murder. They are John A. Curry, 27, and Louis E. Hayes, 21, roommates of a hotel at 126 N. Perry St.

Search for the "mystery" men is based on Curry's statement to Assistant Prosecutor Robert D. Long that Curry and the pair visited the room of the victim, where they beat him after "rolling" the man for about $15.

Curry, who said he wasn't interested in the money, said he met Beheydt earlier in a bar.

City to Effect Route Changes

Six New Regulations to Go Into Operation Here on Monday

Starting Monday, six major traffic changes within the city will go into effect, City Traffic Engineer Theodore M. Vanderstempel announced.

Mt. Clemens street between Saginaw and Mill street will be converted to one-way, eastbound. This is to relieve congestion at Saginaw and Mt. Clemens streets, Vanderstempel explained.

The second change will make Mill St. between Huron and Pike one-way, southbound, in order to eliminate the dangerous crossing at Huron and Mill.

Right hand turns of southbound Perry traffic onto Mt. Clemens will be prohibited as well as left hand turns of northbound Perry traffic onto Mt. Clemens.

Vanderstempel said traffic officers would be stationed at all focal points to assist motorists in accustoming themselves to the changes.

Another change applies to westbound traffic on Mt. Clemens street which will turn south on Mill and continue westbound along Huron street.

The last revision will permit westbound Huron traffic turning north onto Saginaw to do so at the corner of Waite's Department Store.

radical scheme dished up by Socialistic short-order cooks."

Interior Secretary Douglas McKay struck back heatedly at Democratic charges of "giveaways" in his Interior Department, declaring: "This is a purely political election-year piece of buncombe." He spoke at Casper, Wyo.

Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson dealt by implication with the charges of General Matthew B. Ridgway, former Army Chief of Staff, that Eisenhower ordered dangerous reductions in the nation's military strength.

He didn't refer to Ridgway by name in his speech at Los Angeles, but he told his audience:

"I can assure you that the President has never failed to give the Defense Department his approval for any necessary funds which after careful study we have requested."

In Chicago, Vice President Richard M. Nixon delivered a stinging attack on Adlai E. Stevenson as a "sniper," "quibbler" and "quaver-ing critic" of the President.

Republican oratory was led by eight cabinet members and other top administration officials speaking at other $100-a-plate dinners from Los Angeles to Boston.

In New York, Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey said Eisenhower has made progress toward "a widespread and continuing prosperity" as well as toward "a just and lasting peace throughout the world. We can all rest assured that we have a wise, cool head directing a firm hand on the tiller."

GRACE AND SINATRA WORK ON NEW MOVIE — Grace Kelly has started work with Frank Sinatra on "High Society," the last movie she'll make before her scheduled wedding shortly after Easter to Prince Rainier III of Monaco. The initial scene, shot on location in the Bel-Air district of Hollywood, calls for her and Sinatra to pull up before a big mansion in a sports car.

Press President Decries Suppression of Vital News

NEW YORK (INS) — Richard W. Slocum, president of the American Newspaper Publishers Association, charged today that some things Americans "absolutely must know about are being hidden from public view."

He warned in a New York speech that "public apathy about press freedom, silence and indifference are our greatest dangers."

The executive vice president of the Philadelphia Bulletin spoke at the 33rd annual luncheon and meeting of the International Benjamin Franklin Society.

He told the meeting, commemorating the 250th anniversary of the birth of Franklin, that the Philadelphia printer had realized a free press is "the keystone of out liberty."

The Philadalphia news executive pointed out that Franklin got into the "fight of liberty" early in life and "never wavered to his death at the age of 84."

For the record, Slocum noted the first amendment to the constitution "is not regarded by publishers as a guarantee of special privilege placing editors, reporters and publishers above their fellow citizens," but as a guarantee "to all citizens that their right to know shall not be abridged . . ."

But he said:

"The sad fact is there has been a decline in world press freedom in the last decade."

Slocum warned:

"The tendency in the United States has been to shut off sources of information, to slam the door in the faces of inquiring reporters not as punitive action against the press, but in belief that the public has no right to know a growing number of things."

He said that no newspaperman disputes the need for secrecy, for confidential, secret and top secret labels in security matters.

But the newspaperman, he said, "does maintain that this can be, and is being carried to a dangerous extreme, so that some aspects about which the country not only has a right to know, but absolutely must know about, are being hidden from public view."

"Franklin," he said, "had a maxim on security. 'He that is secure is not safe.'"

Courteous Bandit Nobly Loots Lingerie Shop

NEW YORK (AP)—Politeness paid off double yesterday for a holdup man. He left a Manhattan lingerie shop with $140 in loot and made a good impression on the lady owner.

Mrs. Sara Spira told police a "nice-looking young man about 20" entered her shop at 120 E. 34th St., chatted, picked out a sweater and gloves which he said were for a girl friend.

Then he tried to repair Mrs. Spira's electric heater for her, but without success.

Finally he remarked: "I'm very sorry to have to disappoint you but this is a stickup." One hand in his pocket intimated he had a gun.

The bandit pocketed the contents of the cash register and strolled out.

Sighed Mrs. Spira: "Such a nice fellow."

Ike Promises Action in Coming Campaign

interpreted this as indicating the President will make the race if he finds he has reached what he called at Thursday's White House news conference "a reasonable level of strength" physically.

ROLE UNDETERMINED

They bolstered this belief by citing the President's assertion that "many tasks still await action." Significantly, perhaps, the President said that "the present and future are heavy with challenge, rich with opportunity."

Saying that his future role remains undetermined, he said his answer on a possible second term bid "will be forthcoming as quickly as it is firmly fixed in my mind."

* * *

The President also spoke of the continuing struggle for enduring peace and said the United States must remain "alert and strong."

He declared: "Let no one be in doubt; this struggle for peace will be waged relentlessly by Americans of all parties and all creeds until at last success shall crown our efforts and reward our faith."

Official Says Red Cross Faces Acute Money Woes

SAN FRANCISCO (INS) — An American Red Cross official said here today that the organization faces its most critical financial situation since the start of World War II.

Joseph R. Stewart, national chairman of the 1956 Red Cross campaign, blamed the problem on the "heaviest disaster expenditures" in the organization's 75-year history.

Williams, Others Will Discuss States

WASHINGTON (INS))—The governors of Michigan, Minnesota and Pennsylvania will testify on economic conditions in their states before a Senate Labor subcommittee in Washington Monday.

Chairman Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill) said the group is considering his bill to provide a program of aid to industry, investment, employment and production in distressed areas.

He said Gov. G. Mennen Williams will testify on declining employment in that state's auto parts, iron mining, and radio-television manufacturing industries. Sen. Pat McNamara (D-Mich), and Charles E. Potter (R-Mich)), also will testify.

Conditions in Pennsylvania's anthracite and bituminous coal mining regions and railroad shops employment will be the subject of Gov. George Leader's testimony.

The situation in the iron mining, shipping and lumber cutting areas of Minnesota will be discussed by Gov. Orville L. Freeman and Sen. Hubert Huhnphrey (D-Minn), and Edward J. Thye (R-Minn).

Five Workers Drown as Bridge Collapses

HEMPSTEAD, Tex. (INS)—Divers and rescue workers probed the Brazos River today for the bodies of five men believed drowned when a bridge they were working on near Hempstead collapsed.

Three other workmen were injured seriously yesterday when the structure gave way under the weight of a heavy crane and plunged into water 75-feet below.

The five men are believed pinned under a heavy steel beam.

Many other workmen escaped by leaping into the river.

The injured were Ray Evans, 29, and Frank Susen, 30, both of Bellville, Tex., and R. T. Chalk, 37, of Hempstead.

The bridge is between Bellville and Hempstead on highway 159 in east Texas.

Cabbie Nearly 'Holds Up' Rider

Told to Take Moneyless Man 30 Miles; Fare Claims He's Robbed

MINEOLA, N.Y. (AP)—Jean Thibodeau has almost a month to figure out why he took such an expensive taxi ride without money, why he promised to withdraw money from a bank in which he has no account, and why he tried to make out the cab driver was a holdup man.

It all started early yesterday morning when Thibodeau, 32, missed a train for his home in Hicksville on Long Island. He contracted by phone with a Hicksville cab company to come and get him for $9. The round trip is about 30 miles.

* * *

In Hicksville, Thibodeau informed driver John J. Geiry he had no money. It was decided Thibodeau stay in the cab office until his bank opened.

Cabbie and passenger later marched to the bank, and Thibodeau handed a teller a withdrawl slip.

The slip read: "This man is holding me up."

An alarm sounded, police rushed in and grabbed an indignant Geiry.

* * *

In Mineola District Court the affair was straightened out.

Judge Albert C. Moore learned that Thibodeau doesn't even have an account at the bank. He sentenced Thibodeau to 25 days for disorderly conduct.

Widow Is Named First Beneficiary Employes' Fund

The widow of a recently-deceased furniture store employe became the state's first beneficiary recently under an insurance plan set up last year by the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America (AFL-CIO).

The payment, a check for $1,000.82, was presented last night to Mrs. Madge M. Thorpe, of 8239 Rutland St., whose husband Charles died last weekend after a heart attack. Thorpe was employed by F. B. Melin & Co.

Leonard R. Levin, national representative for the Central States Joint Board of the ACWA, said Thorpe was a member of the Pontiac Retail Clerks Union.

Established May 12, 1955, the trust fund provides life and hospitalization benefits to nearly 400 members of the local union. Chairman of the fund is Circuit Judge George Edwards, of Wayne County.

ST. JOSEPH (AP)— A bottle of holy water from the Catholic shrine at Lourdes, France, was en route today to a 6-year-old boy at St. Joseph, whose mother desperately hopes to take him to the shrine and for a miracle that might cure him of leukemia.

* * *

The holy water was placed aboard a transatlantic airliner in Paris last night and with it went prayers of the Carmelite Sisters at Lourdes for little Randy Eckman, far across the sea.

Mrs. Helen Eckman, Randy's 34-year-old mother, appealed through the neighboring Benton Harbor News-Palladium yesterday for financial aid to fly the boy to Lourdes.

She said physicians advised that leukemia, a type of blood disease, could not be cured by medicine.

NOT CATHOLIC

Although a divorcee and not a Roman Catholic, Mrs. Eckman expressed belief that a miracle at the shrine might save her son from what now is a certain death sentence.

"I just know he can be cured at Lourdes," she said in appealing for funds to make the $1,000 round-trip to France. "I want to take him as soon as I can while he is still strong enough."

Randy, still a healthy looking kindergarten boy, was stricken a year ago. Physicians say the normal life expectancy of a leukemia victim is a year to 14 months.

Mrs. Eckman, who has two other children, is a Benton Harbor switchboard operator. She said, in asking assistance, that all her savings had gone into efforts to prolong Randy's life.

Senators Now Expecting Natural Gas Filibuster

WASHINGTON (INS) — Sen. Paul Douglas (D-Ill) rested today after beginning what he promised will be a four-day speech in opposistion to a bill lifting price controls from natural gas producers.

The Illinois Democrat quit yesterday after reading 36 pages of his 150-page prepared address, the product of six months' intensive preparation by his staff.

He emphasized he wasn't conducting a filibuster, but said he would resume his speech Monday, after the Senate's usual weekend recess, and continue until Wednesday.

Ike's Budget Chief Quitting

Rowland Hughes Leaves April 1; to Be Replaced by P. F. Brundage

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rowland Hughes is stepping down as President Eisenhower's chief budget officer after helping pilot the government within sight of its first balanced budget since 1951.

To replace Hughes April 1, Eisenhower announced yesterday he would appoint Percival F. Brundage, a former accounting executive who has been serving as deputy budget director. Brundage is from Montclair, N.J.

Brundage, 63, is in line to become the third budget director since the Eisenhower administration took office three years ago. The first was Joseph M. Dodge, a Detroit banker.

Brundage formerly was senior partner of Price, Waterhouse & Co., a New York accounting firm which has been associated with surveys of government efficiency.

BALANCE BUDGET

Just last Monday, Eisenhower told Congress he expected the budget to be in balance this fiscal year which ends June 30.

He also submitted a balanced budget for the coming fiscal year as well. Hughes cited "compelling personal and family reasons" for leaving his post. He did not say what these were.

Before joining the administration as deputy budget director nearly three years ago, Hughes was comptroller of the National City Bank of New York. It was not immediately clear whether he would return to that job.

Hughes shared the spotlight during the controversy last year over the Dixon-Yates private power contract. The Budget Bureau had been involved in early negotiations on that contract which since has been repudiated by the government.

Rioting Indians Hit Other Cities

New Violence Flares Across West Coast; 42 Killed in Bombay

BOMBAY (INS) — New violence flared in Bombay today as rioting spread across India.

After an early morning lull Bombay police, with orders to "Shoot to Kill," opened fire on crowds attempting to loot shops in the northern section of the west coast Indian city.

Two persons were injured. The death toll in the embattled city has reached 42.

Earlier, police arrested six more Communist leaders.

A majority of industrial workers have defied a call made by their union leaders to return to work.

The riots began Monday when crowds protested the Indian government's decision to administer Bombay as a separate district. Many worker groups hoped the city would become the capital of a Marathi-speaking state.

Meanwhile, violence and workers strikes spread across the nation.

In Calcutta, a general strike paralyzed businesses and transportation.

In Cuttact, on the same coast, a radio station was forced off the air, apparently by student mobs.

At Nasik, northeast of Bombay, a new outburst yesterday resulted in two deaths.

And at Kolhapur, south of Bombay, 16 policemen were injured in rioting.

Just People, Make Friends

J. L. VOORHEES

Whom would you rather believe, a salesman, with an ax to grind or a happy, modest, unassuming user? Boys follow a leader; one boy, with constructive ideas can lead that crowd into creative channels, a vice principal in a big city high school changed rowdies into respected chefs, Pullman porters and artisans by getting Negro men to teach colored boys the secrets of their trades.

M. B. SIPLE

The state department is sending "Little people" to Asia to refute highly emotional and completely erroneous claims made by Communistic agents. Carl Rowan, Sammy Lee, Jessie Owens, who for years devoted his life to 1500 South Chicago underprivileged youngsters, are by example, pride and modesty, showing the masses what they can do. This new departure has been highly successful; these Americans, just plain people, are demonstrating what ingenuity and constructive efforts can do.

Just people built Pontiac. Just people will reunite the world.

Certified mail, Dean explained, makes it possible for senders to receive many registered mail advantages at less cost. Combination mail allows the enclosure of letters with parcels upon the payment of extra postage.

Dean states that the average employe received a pay increase of 8.4 per cent last year during the department's reclassification and salary increase program.

FBI Joins Hunt for Mass Killer

Doomed Slayer Irvin Last Spotted in Chicago, Tipster Tells Police

PRINCETON, Ind. (INS) — FBI agents joined the search for doomed mass killer Leslie Irvin amid scattered reports by midwesterners who claim they saw the desperate fugitive.

Among the latest such report was one turned in by Charles Billeck, a gas attendant on Chicago's South Side, who said the confessed killer of six persons pulled into his station yesterday and asked directions to Gary, Ind.

Some five hours earlier, Irvin was reported visiting a tavern at Watseka, Ill.

Chicago Homicide Chief Lt. James McMahon put out an alert following Billeck's tip and assigned squads to hunt the killer.

Meanwhile, FBI agents, who entered the case through a warrent which stated Irvin fled the Gibson County Jail at Princeton, to Mt. Carmel, Ill., checked a report in St. Louis, where a woman said she saw Irvin early Thursday night.

The tipster, Mrs. Ruth Patton, said Irvin used to frequent a Louisville, Ky. restaurant where she formerly worked.

St. Louis is about 200 miles southwest of Watseka and officials said he could have driven there by the time he was spotted by the tavern patrons in the Illinois city.

At the same time, five persons told Montgomery County, Ohio, authorities they are sure that one of two men who stopped at a motel near Dayton and later robbed another man, was the vicious killer.

Irvin, a husky 200-pounder, five feet, 11 inches tall, was awaiting execution next June for the slaying Dec. 23, 1954, of W. Wesley Kerr in Evansville, Ind.

Ex-Waiter Cited for Failing to Report $67,000 in Tips

NEW YORK (AP)—A former headwaiter at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel has been indicted on a charge of failing to report more than $67,000 he received in tips between 1949 and 1952.

The Internal Revenue Service says the case involving the retired headwaiter, Hans Paul, probably will touch off an investigation in this area of hotels and catering services at which workers make most of their money in tips.

Paul, 63, now is vacationing in Miami, Fla. He was indicted yesterday on a charge of failing to report the tips in his earnings during the four years preceding his retirement. The government says Paul's salary during that period was $3,000 a year.

Asst. U. S. Atty. David Jaffe estimated Paul cheated the government out of nearly $25,000 in taxes.

"It is believed the government has been duped out of millions of dollars a year by those persons who fail to report an accurate accounting of gratuitous tips," Jaffe said.

Paul will return here Feb. 9 to plead to the indictment.

C. C. Philippe, a vice president of the Waldorf-Astoria, said money collected contractually for waiters from dinners varied between $500,000 and a million dollars a year for the past 10 years.

The tips go into a common pool, with the waiters getting two-thirds and the remaining one-third going to captains and others in the banquet department.

If convicted Paul could receive a maximum of five years in prison and a $10,000 fine on each of four counts.

ANALYZING FARM PLANNING —An Oakland county farm family takes advantage of the new plan called "Farm Unit Approach" offered by Michigan Cooperative Extension Service and sponsored locally by the Oakland County Extension Service. Here, Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Lake, 3695 Miller Rd., Lake Orion with daughter Carol, 18 months, plans for progress with the help of (left) Mrs. Frieda Bennett, county home demonstration agent, and (right) John Trocke, county agricultural agent. Left Photo: Craig Lake shows John Trocke one of the pure-bred heifers the Lake family bought to improve the dairy herd on their farm.

Unit Approach Extension Way of Aiding

New Kind of County Agent Helps Farm Families

A program to give farm families more on the farm and in the home assistance has been started in Oakland County by the Michigan Cooperative Extension Service. Locally the program is under the direction of John Trocke, assistant county agricultural agent.

The plan, called the "Farm Unit Approach" is the extension service way of helping farm families get things they want and need by helping them make more money; get better living comforts on the farm and in the home; and to help farmers get from farming and farm life the things in life he wants.

Any farm family is eligible to take part in this development program. Things such as size of farm, amount of capital and size of family and age make no difference.

It is a flexible program of supplying information to any farm family to use with the resources they have, no matter what they are.

For instance, if a family wants to irrigate, the county agents will get figures on the increased return, the costs and problems involved; and then line up technical aid.

Should a family want to put in an orchard, the county agent can find whether the soil and climate are suited, how much per acre it would cost, what income might be and then line up orchard specialists to help in the task.

3 STARTED

In 1955 groups were organized in Davisburg, Lake Orion and Milford. 1956 plans find groups to be started in Oxford, Holly and White Lake, according to Trocke.

About 80 families in various sections of the county have been contacted since the program began in December 1954. Some of these families have made spectacular progress.

Families wishing to take part in this help program from the extension office should contact the office in Pontiac. Information will be sent explaining the kind of help available from the extension office.

County Woman Board Member

Davisburg Resident Elected to Cooperative Extension of State

DAVISBURG — Mrs. Walter A. Brown, Davisburg, is one of the members of a 40-member advisory board of the Michigan Cooperative Extension Service scheduled to meet Jan. 31 through Feb. 3 at Michigan State University, East Lansing.

This advisory board is made up of elected and appointed representatives who are active on local advisory councils throughout the state for the three phases of extension work — 4-H Club, home economics, and agriculture.

Since all regions of the state are represented, the board gives Michigan's extension program a sound "grass roots" approach. Members carry to the state meeting ideas to improve the broad educational program.

Mrs. Brown was elected to the state board at a meeting of the Home Demonstartion council in the Ann Arbor extension district. She resides on an 80-acre dairy farm and has been a member of the county Home Demonstration council for six years.

Board Seeks Opinion on New Metamora - Dryden High School

METAMORA—The Board of Metamora No. 4 school district set a tentative date at its special meeting Tuesday for voters of the district to take a straw ballot on the issue of a new Dryden-Metamora area high school.

If the majority of the voters favor this consolidation when they meet June 1, a regular election will be scheduled.

An alternative, say board members, is to annex to the Lapeer district where 25 high school students from Metamora now attend. Eighteen from Metamora are attending Dryden High School.

The Lapeer Board of Education has considered banning further tuition students from non-annexed areas, officials say.

Predicts Skilled Labor Shortage

Mitchell Thinks Acute Situation Will Come in Wake of Automation

FLINT (AP)—Secretary of Labor Mitchell states that automation will bring an acute shortage of skilled labor within the next 10 years and that management and labor unions must concentrate efforts on the education of the unskilled worker.

Mitchell, here to address a "Salute to Eisenhower" banquet last night also told a meeting of union leaders that he doesn't think there is a "Chinaman's chance" of passing Taft-Hartley Law amendments recommended by his department and has "grave doubts" of effecting any substantial favorable labor legislation this year.

Mitchell, at a news conference, said automation will create a need for an 11 to 14 per cent increase in the skilled labor force in the next 10 years and that there will be a 25 per cent increase in total productivity.

The labor secretary, at a meeting with 15 representatives of building trades unions, said he has not been able to get a hearing on even non-controversial legislation "because the House committee is chaired by a man from North Carolina who represents a rural non-industrial district and who has no interest in things important to labor."

He said the labor department last year submitted 15 recommendations for Taft-Hartley Law amendments and resubmitted them again this year.

ANCIENT EGYPT — 6
Papyrus Boat on the Nile

The life of the ancient Egyptians centered around the River Nile. It gave them water for food, for molding bricks and for bathing. Many of them sailed up and down the Nile in small boats.

Here is a young Egyptian boy in a small, painted boat of braided papyrus covered with wood. There is an oar at the stern to steer the boat when needed, wooden paddles to propel it and a small sail to catch any stray breeze.

On either side of the prow is a big eye to show the boat where to go.

Paste this picture on cardboard and color it as you wish. Then cut out the boat carefully. Fold back along each dotted line. The center part is the bottom of the boat. Paste the corresponding lettered points together and curl the end of the bottom up inside.

Cut a piece of wax paper larger than the bottom of the boat and place it gently on the surface of a dish of water. Then set the boat on the paper and it will keep dry and firm on your own River Nile.

Soviet Military Leaving Finland

Porkkala Citizens Cheer as 20,000 Move Out; Sub Bases Destroyed

By JOHN H. MARTIN
INS Foreign Director

People in little Finland—population 4,000,000—are celebrating today. The Russians are pulling out of Porkkala.

Twenty thousand Soviet soldiers and sailors have been air-lifted out of the naval base leased to the Russians under the peace treaty.

Big explosions have marked the destruction of the Soviet submarine pens carved out of the granite cliffs, and of other military installations in the base west of Helsinki.

Now the week-long operation in handing over the remaining buildings and territory has begun.

The Russians as part of the "operation smile" begun last year are smiling and giving the Finnish authorities extensive inventories.

Gen. S. I. Kabanov, Soviet commander of the relinquished base, says the Finns will gain possession of a large number of Soviet-built military buildings among the 675 to be returned. Included is a complete railway depot.

* * *

More than 7,000 Finnish farmers abruptly displaced back in 1944 now can return in peace to their farms and cottages in the 300-square-mile area which once produced much milk, vegetables and fish for the capital of Helsinki.

What is behind this Soviet voluntary withdrawal from "a position of strength?"

It gives the Russians propaganda in their efforts to get cancelation of American bases abroad. Soviet Defense Minister Marshal Georgi K. Zhukov mentioned that last September when Moscow agreed to give up Porkkala. He said he hoped the U. S. would "liquidate" its military bases abroad now that Russia set the Porkkala example.

In return for regaining part of their own soil the Finns have agreed to extend their "treaty of friendship and cooperation and mutual assistance" with the U.S.S.R. This was due to expire in 1958 but will be extended to 1975.

It means that Finland proclaims her neutrality for the next 20 years. But if Germany "or any power allied to her" should attack then the Finns would be expected to call in the Soviets and go to war.

Actually Porkkala's importance to the Soviets has lessened greatly in the atomic age.

It was intended to block enemy approaches to the Kronstadt Naval Base and Leningrad at the end of the Baltic Sea. But the Soviets since then have built naval and aerial bases stretching far to the west near the western end of the Baltic.

GM's Motorama of 1956 Lures Car-Wise Throngs

If public interest is a reliable index, General Motors' Motorama of 1956 is a tremendous smash hit.

Throngs that taxed the capacity of the Waldorf-Astoria came to view the latest creations of the world's largest automobile manufacturer. As was the case during the preview, visitors' reactions indicated enthusiastic acceptance of the 26 stock models displayed by GM's five divisions.

★ ★ ★

This was especially true of the sparkling Pontiacs. Never before have new models turned out here caused such excited admiration. Pontiac's dream car, Club de Mere, naturally is one of the stars of a star-studded multimillion dollar show.

These dream cars, headed by GM's Firebird II, a gas turbine conception designed for normal operation or for radar control, fascinated the throng. The visitors were eager to see these specially built models of what cars may be like in 1976. They also were deeply interested in GM's kitchen of tomorrow featured by the ultrasonic dishwasher.

★ ★ ★

But they were far more interested in the beautiful stock cars, any one of which they can go out and buy today of any GM dealer.

On the basis of all reports from the show, it looks like another big year for Pontiac Motor Division and the entire Pontiac area.

City Parking Lot Plan Given CIO Endorsement

Oakland County CIO Council has taken a sharp look at Pontiac's $600,000 parking lot program and liked what it saw.

At a meeting representing 50,000 workers, the 68 delegates present unanimously adopted a resolution which went beyond mere endorsement of this project.

The resolution first pointed out that CIO members would be "most affected by a private parking lot monoply held by Sam L. Stolorow." Continuing, it said that private parking costs 35 cents an hour compared with the proposed charge of five cents per hour in the municipal lots.

★ ★ ★

As to the need for the proposed 624 parking stalls, delegates were emphatic. They agreed that Pontiac already is far behind other cities of like size in the matter of accommodating the parking public. At the same time they pointed out that if this condition continues, motorists would go to other areas to shop.

★ ★ ★

Finally, and most important of all, the resolution said that the bond issue needed to finance the new parking lots would be no burden on the City's taxpayers. In other words, no attention is being paid to reports that this project will result in an increase in municipal taxes.

More than that, the delegates are so strongly in favor of the project, to be voted on March 5, that they have offered to work with any group, organization or individuals in its support.

MEA's Aim Is to Make School Job Appointive

Directors of Michigan Education Association are working on a plan they hope will result in a long advocated change in the State's top school administration.

They are preparing petitions asking for a constitutional amendment to make appointive the now elective office of State Superintendent of Public Instruction. Also sought is enlargement of the present State Board of Education from four to eight elected members with power to appoint the superintendent for a six-year term.

★ ★ ★

It is hoped to have the petitions ready for circulation by March 15. The present plan is to send one to each of the 40,000 MEA members. They, in turn, are to be asked to obtain eight signatures. At least 218,703 valid signatures will be needed on the petitions, which must be filed in Lansing July 6 to insure the amendment a place on the November 6 ballot.

This proposal isn't new. The idea of making the office, now held by Dr. Clair L. Taylor, appointive, is to take it out of partisan politics. He himself long ago endorsed it in principle. So did Dr. Eugene B. Elliott, State Superintendent from 1937 to 1948 and now president of Michigan State Normal College at Ypsilanti.

★ ★ ★

The Press also likes this MEA plan in principle. We believe that making this educational post appointive would be an important administrative improvement. It would free the incumbent from the effort and expense of fighting for re-election every two years thus increasing his efficiency.

There's still a critical zone of unemployment—the one just north of the ears.

Inertia in Lansing

Legislature Not Expected to Accomplish Much

By JACK I. GREEN

LANSING—Don't look for anything very startling from the 1956 legislative session.

• • •

If one can judge by the atmosphere and the attitudes of Michigan's lawmakers, 1956 will go down in the books as a dull, routine session.

Observers of all types have been struck this month by the limp and lackluster temper of the legislators as they return for a session expected to go until April 6.

KEEPING COOL

But this year there seems to be no disposition to get excited about anything.

• • •

It is true that the governor's budget recommendations have been delayed and will not be published until next week. It is also true that Williams has not shown his hand fully yet, planning to send in at least three more special messages of specific recommendations.

So the Legislature can be expected to sit back and wait until it gets the full picture.

Key legislators say they are not excited about issues this year because the public isn't. There doesn't seem to be much demand for anything new from the Legislature, so the Legislature can hardly be expected to stir up excitement itself.

WEARY SOLONS

Another factor probably is weariness, the weariness left from the fall special session which dragged bitterly to mid-December and left the lawmakers worn and disgusted.

• • •

Another factor probably was Williams' general message of recommendations. It contained so many proposals, so many that have been heard for six or seven years and so many far-reaching ideas that the Legislature seems to have settled into a kind of "oh, what's the use" attitude.

A final factor possibly is the lassitude which comes from a continued stalemate, a sort of political "familiarity breeds contempt."

Without discussing whether the Democrats or Republicans should have decisive control of state government, one can say that Michigan's continual deadlock between the two parties has reached almost the point of complete inertia.

• • •

After seven years, the Republicans can almost tell you to the letter what the governor will say on any subject. The executive branch can predict with 90 per cent accuracy what the Legislature will or will not do with the governor's recommendations.

After seven years, Michigan's government, especially the legislative part, has become a worn disc, dinning the same scratchy music into tired ears.

So don't expect the Legislature to dance any new steps in 1956.

Days of All Faiths

St. Paul and His Baptizer, St. Ananias, Commemorated Together Wednesday

By DR. HOWARD V. HARPER

A very important man in the early history of Christianity was St. Anaias, of Damascus, who is honored Wednesday. It was he who brought St. Paul into the Church, thus letting loose the greatest single evangelistic force in the struggling new organization. It is appropriate that Ananias should be commemorated on January 25, the day that also celebrates the conversion of St. Paul.

The story is told in the ninth chapter of the Acts of the Apostles. St. Paul, then known as Saul, was a violent enemy of Christianity, and was on his way to the town of Damascus to gather all the Christians he could find there and bring them to Jerusalem where they would be treated as criminals.

But on the way Saul was struck down by a blinding light, out of which the Lord Himself spoke to him and converted him. He proceeded, still blind, to Damascus.

In Damascus a faithful Christian named Ananias was also visited by a vision, in which Jesus told him to go "to the street called Straight" and restore Saul's sight. But Ananias had heard of Saul's persecution of the Church and he protested strongly against this assignment. Nevertheless, he did go to Saul, restored his sight, baptized him, and fed him.

• • •

So it was that Ananias was the intermediary in what might be considered the most important event in the early Church: the recruiting of Christianity's all-time greatest missionary.

This Ananias is not to be confused with the infamous Ananias whose story of deception is told in the fifth chapter of Acts, and whose name has for centuries been a synonym for "liar."

St. Ananias is believed to have become Bishop of Damascus and to have been stoned to death.

COLLEGE BOYS "SAINT"

Saturday, January 28, is St. Charlemagne's Day, but Charlemagne was actually not a saint at all. He was an Emperor, and a great one. Charlemagne means Charles the Great.

The idea of calling him a saint comes from French college students, to whom he has always been a hero because of his intense interest in education. Tradition says he was the founder of the University of Paris, a rather surprising act for a man who himself was never able even to learn to read and write.

Despite the Emperor's own illiteracy, his reign was marked by a tremendous cultural revival, with scholarship, literature, and philosophy making great advances.

Throughout France, St. Charlemagne's Day is still celebrated by college students with a great breakfast, at which the champagne flows freely, and professors and top students show off their learning with poems and erudite speeches.

Strangely enough, the expression "born with a silver spoon in his mouth" was, in its origin, connected with the sacrament of Baptism. In the Middle Ages it became the custom for godparents at baptism to give spoons to their godchildren. Both rich and poor gave them—the rich folk gave silver spoons, the poor gave spoons of baser metals.

Everyone, of course, gave of as costly material as he could afford, and in many cases the baptismal spoon was an important addition to the child's worldly goods. It was for this reason this expression came into use, indicating that to certain children the gift was of no importance. Children of wealthy parents already had all the silver they needed. They were born with silver spoons — in their mouths, naturally, because that is where spoons go.

Case Records of a Psychologist

To Quit Smoking, Get Mad at Yourself, Make Public Statement, Get Substitute

Lola wants the facts about tobacco. Use this Case Record in Sunday School or at the young people's society. Discuss it in high school hygiene or physiology classes, for facts are needed to let teenagers form correct conclusions.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Sase Q-354: Lola F., aged 18, is president of the young people's society in her local church.

"Dr. Crane, we are having a discussion of bad habits, like smoking and drinking," she began.

• • •

"And we need some facts for our Sunday debate. Some of the kids say everybody smokes nowadays, at least the vast majority.

"Is that true? And what are the disadvantages of smoking? If a person is already addicted to tobacco, how can he break that habit?"

TOBACCO FACTS

Only a minority of Americans smoke: According to data recently released by the Census Bureau for the National Cancer Institute, as of 1955, the figures are:

Cigarette smokers, 38 million. Cigar smokers, 2½ million, plus an additional 7½ million who smoke cigars occasionally, as when offered a free one.

Pipe smokers—3½ million regularly, and another 4½ million occasional pipe smokers.

Even when you include the occasional cigar and pipe smokers with all the regular users of cigarette, cigars and pipes, the total is 56 million smokers of all types.

That leaves 110 million nonsmokers: So smokers are decidedly in the minority.

And the same report of the Census Bureau showed that 1,800,000 cigarette smokers had quit that bad habit within the previous 18 months.

WHY SMOKERS START

Most smokers begin the habit because of social pressure. They feel timid and want to hide in group or "herd" action, so when with a group where cigarettes are passed around, they take one.

This is called the "sheep" reaction of folks who have inferiority complexes.

After once having established the habit, however, then the victim finds it difficult to quit. That's why many physicians, dentists and other scientists still smoke, although they veto tobacco to their patients.

For those doctors started in their teens and are still victims of that adolescent bad habit.

By permitting tense people to wave their arms in public via the act of smoking, the cigarette habit thus drains off some pent-up energy, but this tension can be diverted via chewing gum and action games to a far better degree.

• • •

Besides, the tobacco industry has released the fact that the average cigarette smoker burns up $97.54 per year on the ends of his cigarettes. So the economic expense of tobacco is an unwarranted item in the budget.

HOW QUIT SMOKING

To quit smoking, you should work up ire at yourself and make a dramatic public announcement. Then clear all tobacco out of the house so you aren't tempted absent-mindedly to pick up a cigarette.

And substitute some other action which will let you employ those same smoking muscles when you again feel tense. For example, carry a package of gum in the same pocket or purse.

Then, when the urge to fish for a cigaret overtakes you, reach for the package of gum. Shake out a chicklet and chew vigorously for a few minutes.

Repeat the process whenever you have another craving to use the hand and arm that formerly waved the cigarette around.

For further psychological advice, send for my booklet "How to Stop Smoking," enclosing a stamped return envelope, plus 20c (non-profit).

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 3c stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

Dr. Brady's Mailbag:

Former Nurse Reports Her 6 Children Wear as Little Clothing as They Choose

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

I am a registered nurse, not of the Saireygamp variety, now retired and just raising my six children. They wear as much or as little clothing as they choose, and this gives the neighbors something to talk about. My husband stayed with me through all of my labors — giving me moral support and himself peace of mind. Keep preaching, and more power to you! (C. M.)

Answer — Thank you, Ma'am. It seems that when they have me ready to say uncle, some angle sends me a message like yours, and I come back fighting.

Sometimes I get a good laugh —but sometimes you make me sick. When you suggest that we women get out and walk five miles for fresh air and exercise, who'll wash the clothes, do the ironing, scrub floors, cook, bake and . . . Bet you don't walk . . .(Grace M. G.))

Answer — You expect the doctor to take care of your chores?

About two years ago your representative in Hastings, Neb., who supplied a powder to be taken in orange juice at 10 a.m. and 3 p.m. . . . . (H. H. F.)

Answer — I have never had an agent, representative or other person authorized to speak or act for me.

Excellent results from following your recommendations . . . for instance my teeth seem to have stopped decaying and I haven't needed a filling for over 3 years since I started drinking 1½ to 2 quarts of milk daily. Just have them cleaned annually by dentist . . . .(V. T.)

Answer — Milk is probably the best tooth food.

My husband is 86 and I'm 79 We're still able to take care of ourselves, thanks to your teachings. Formerly I had spells when I couldn't sleep well, but I began doing belly breathing as you advised and now I sleep like a child. . . . (Mrs. W. F.)

Answer — Thank you, Ma'am. That's one of the many benefits to be derived from BB. A lot of Yankee Wisacres who seem to think they are practicing it are not. They're as funny as a tin soldier (or a Plebe at West Point) sticking out his chest or "pulling in that stomach." They pantomine their brash American ignorance of anatomy and physiology. Send 35c and stamped, self-addressed envelope for Little Lesson 21, HOW TO BREATHE.

Nice girl, about 20, has pimples. She has consulted many doctors and two specialists who have not done much to help. Now she has found one who says she must have her tonsils removed . . . (Mrs. P. M.)

Answer — It's possible. But if the girl is not a moron she should understand that no doctor can promise that removal of tonsils will bring about cure of acne or any other ailment. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for pamphlet TONSILS ARE NOT ALL BAD. If you want also the pamphlet on Acne —BLACKHEADS AND PIMPLES inclose 35c.

Always had trouble with my daughter, 4, who will not become "regular" and has to have a laxative every day . . .(W. R. C.)

Answer —The poor kid. It won't be so easy as it would have been to withhold unnatural "aids" in the first place, but if you're not sure you know more than I know about such matters, send 35c and stamped, self-addressed envelope for Little Lesson 25, THE CONSTIPATION HABIT AND COLON HYGIENE. Incidentally here's a caution for every prospective parent to remember; Don't give your baby that first dose of physic.

Signed letters, not more than one page of 100 words long, pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped self-addressed envelope is sent to the Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

Ike Admits Some Fatigue, Health to Decide 2nd Term

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower has given the country plain notice he will never again be quite the man he was before, physically, and that henceforth he must avoid undue fatigue.

Although he says he still hasn't made up his mind on running again this concern about his health has run through everything Eisenhower has told newsmen, even as long ago as last August, before his heart attack.

He said Thursday: "It would be idle to pretend that my health can be wholly restored. . .My future life must be carefully regulated to avoid excessive fatigue."

• • •

While he has decided to let his name stay in any state presidential primary where it may be entered, he practically invited all Republican would-be presidents to get into the state primaries too to give voters a wide choice.

ENCOURAGES PARTY

He no doubt meant this as encouragement to all of his party's presidential hopefuls to get active but it may have had the effect of chilling their blood. In almost any state primary against Eisenhower they'd almost certainly lose.

Newsmen who went to his news conference yesterday were not surprised when he left them still guessing on whether he'll run again. He said he hasn't decided and won't for a while.

It was last summer—weeks before his heart attack Sept. 24—that Eisenhower began raising questions about his health when asked about seeking a second term.

• • •

In August he spoke about the eroding effect of the presidency on the man in the White House and said, when he had no reason to expect a heart attack, that the state of his health would be a major factor in his decision on running.

That concern about his health appeared in statements he has made since then. He has noted that no man has reached 70 in the presidency. He'd be 70 three months before the end of a second term.

He has said the presidency is more wearing than any military assignment he ever had. He told newsmen Jan. 9 he would have to be careful to avoid fatigue. He has emphasized his decision would be based on what is good for the country.

• • •

Along that line he has said it is a "very critical thing to change governments in this country at a time that it is unexpected," a statement which could only mean it is critical if a president dies in office or, for health reasons, can't carry on with his job.

And prayed to God for you . . . That all your hopes were now fulfilled . . . And all your dreams come true . . . But also as I talked to Him . . . I wept a thousand tears . . . For my poor ignorance and sins . . . That touched your early years . . . I had it in my power and . . . I should have been the one . . . To bring you every happiness . . . Nuns Purchase Briggs' Mansion

Dominican Sisters to Use 24-Room Estate as New Convent

DETROIT (INS) — The Dominican Sisters of the Sick Poor has announced purchase of the late Walter O. Briggs' Detroit mansion (at 700 W. Boston Blvd.) for use as a convent.

Announcement of the purchase was made by Mother Rose Xavier, mother general of the order, and Mrs. Jerry T. Flanigan, president of the Detroit Auxiliary, friends of the sick and poor, principal supporters of the order's work.

The Dominican Sisters of the Sick Poor is a community of registered nurses who spend their time visiting and ministering to the needs of sick in their homes. They do not maintain hospital or convalescent facilities of their own.

The palatial 24 room home, which has 8 baths, 9 fireplaces, two finished recreation rooms and numerous utility rooms, occupies land that is 200 feet wide and 313 feet deep, running the full depth of the block through to Glynn Court.

The only remodeling that will be necessary will be the conversion of the present drawing room into a chapel. The adjacent sun room will be utilized as a sacristy.

The convent will be known as St. Ann's Convent, the name used for the present residence (at 4848 Commonwealth), which has become too small for the nuns.

2 Youngsters Fire Genuine Pearls in Beanshooters

LAKEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Youngsters told officers the little pellets made great ammunition for bean shooters.

Then the officers told the youngsters they had been shooting real pearls.

Jeweler Charles Uel White, 58, had reported $1,000 worth of the gems taken from his home, a converted bus parked in front of his son's house.

Reports of flying pearls yesterday led sheriff's deputies to a pair of 13-year-old boys firing them through their bean shooters. They were down to their last $300 worth. Pearls worth $150 were recovered from a juvenile battlefield.

Deputies said the boys probably will be turned over to their parents. Search for pearls continued.

2,000 MSU Students Seek Part-Time Jobs

EAST LANSING (AP) — The employment office at Michigan State University is overflowing with students looking for part-time jobs.

John R. Kinney, of the MSU Placement Bureau, said a record more than 2,000 undergraduates are job-seeking. Many of the students, he said, are desperate for income to supplement support from the GI bill or money from home.

Part of the job-rush, Kinney said, is caused because so many students returned home broke after the Rose Bowl football trip.

Student talents available range from skilled draftsmen and television repairmen to babysitters and handymen.

More Vacation Spots Seen From Soil Bank Program

WASHINGTON (INS) — Visions of a nation more liberally sprinkled with fishing, hunting and camping spots were drawn yesterday by members of the Senate Agriculture Committee.

* * *

Sen. George D. Aiken R-Vt.), said that increased vacation areas throughout the country will be one of the real benefits of the proposed soil bank, a key feature of the Eisenhower farm program.

He made his statement after the committee heard spokesman for the National Wildlife Federation and the Isaac Walton League testify that land diverted from crops to timber or marshes will increase outdoor recreation.

Aiken agreed. He said: "Everyone seems to regard this (farm) legislation as a measure for lifting farm income. Actually, it is something that is going to add to the pleasures and the income of the whole country.

SOMETHING WRONG

"Not everyone is a farmer but everyone likes to go fishing, hunting, camping or at least picknicking — and if they don't there is something wrong with them."

Sen. Karl Mundt (R-S.D.), whose state is noted for its pheasants, also was enthusiastic about the wild life refuges which he said could be developed on at least part of the 45 million acres the administration proposes to take out of cultivation.

Land diverted under the conservation feature of the soil bank would be put to "protective vegetative cover including but not limited to trees and grass, or water storage."

The Wildlife Federation urged inclusion in this provision of trees and shrubs "which attract game." But the organization said that even without this specification, the program would "bring back" much of the wildlife that has disappeared throughout the country.

* * *

Endorsal of the soil bank came, too, tform the Vegetable Growers Assn. of America. However, it charged that producers of wheat, cotton, corn and other basic crops in surplus were getting "special consideration as usual."

Walter F. McCaleb Jr., speaking for the organization, said the acreage reserve program which provides for cutbacks in surplus crops, should apply to all farm production.

A planning commission has recommended nationwide prohibition for India by April, 1958.

Sees A-Energy Use for Sewage Disposals

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Mayor Norris Poulson says there is a possible new use of atomic energy — the decontamination of sewage.

"If successfully developed, this new use of atom power might revolutionize present-day methods of sewage decontamination and disposal," he said yesterday.

Hyperoid Engineers, a firm retained by the city to plan improvements in the sewerage system, has been making extensive studies of the atomic energy possibilities.

Deal With Old Beau in New Way

By ELIZABETH WOODWARD

The old year, with all its high and low moments, seems long gone. The fun you had is tucked away in your memory book. So are the gaffs you pulled, the boners you made, the mistakes in judgment that ruffled your relationships with the people you liked.

* * *

It was a year of living, learning and yearning. And you can't run backward to recapture a minute of it.

Chances slipped through your fingers. Love affairs petered out. Mighty smites on boys came to nothing. Some of your high hopes weren't realized.

That was in 1955. And the new year probably will bring similar catastrophic frustrations. But you need have no part in bringing them about. Not if you've learned your lesson well.

Take this girl for instance. She didn't recognize a good thing when she saw it.

"Dear Miss Woodward: We dated a lot about three years ago and continued to date off and on since then. He respects me a great deal, but I never could get any closer to him than just being his friend, at least I didn't think I could.

"I finally got tired of his taking it for granted that I'd always be around, so I sort of dropped out of our crowd and started dating another boy and paying less attention to my boy friend.

"He's bashful when it comes to dating, and he isn't going with anybody in particular. And I'd like to get back to where I was with him, for I realize now that it makes me happy just to be around him. How can I do this without really running after him?"

Answer: No relationship stands stock still. Association forges bonds of shared experiences, shared laughter, understanding. Your years of friendship with this boy brought you much closer to him than you suspected.

* * *

If he's bashful about dating, he's probably shy about revealing too much of his sentimental side, too. His taking you for granted was a compliment to you. He assumed that you were happy to be with him.

But you got a bee in your bonnet. You wanted things to come to a head instead of drifting along as they were. So you forced the issue by avoiding him. Only he didn't come chasing after you. And now in retrospect you figure his was a better deal than any you're getting now.

Your best bet is to "rediscover" him. Get back into your old crowd (through one of the girls, if necessary). Your approach to him should be completely new. Don't take it for granted that he's still the same, or that he'll react to you in the way he used to.

You're not the same girl now, so make a brand-new impression on him. Pursue him gently (he may still be a bit shy).

And gradually, time after time, let him see that you are happy to be with him. It may earn you a second chance.

Exchange of Present Irks Giver

Thinks Bride-to-Be Was Wrong Not to Ask Permission

By EMILY POST

A reader writes: "I would like your opinion on the following incident: I was invited to a bridal shower not long ago and I took the bride-to-be a very beautiful nightgown.

"When she opened it she raved about it, couldn't thank me enough and said it was just perfect. Several days later I met this same bride-to-be in the store in which I had bought the nightgown, exchanging it for another less expensive one.

I felt very hurt over this and think it was wrong of her to exchange it. If she did want to exchange it for some reason, don't you think she should have at least asked me if I minded? I would appreciate hearing from you on this matter."

Answer: The presents given a bride-to-be very often have to be exchanged and it is not considered discourteous as a general rule. Also it is not necessary to ask permission of the giver before doing so.

Evidently she was very keen about your present but for some reason found she was unable to wear it. If I were you I would not feel hurt over it.

"Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please tell me what is the proper way for the bridegroom's mother (a widow) to entertain the bride's family before the wedding? Is it up to her to give a dinner party after the rehearsal, and for whom?"

Answer: The bridegroom's mother has no actual obligation to entertain. If she would like to have a lunch or supper for the bridal party or for the bride's family she may do so, of course, but it is not expected.

"Dear Mrs. Post: A friend of mine gave a bridal shower for a girl friend of hers recently and at that time presented her with a corsage. Was it her place to do this? I always thought that the bride-to-be's fiance sent her a corsage on this occasion."

Answer: There is no rule about it. Many bridegrooms do and many do not.

The Indispensable Women

Secretaries Fill Key Role in World

Psychologists tell us nothing makes a woman happier than to feel useful and needed. If this is true, then secretaries should be happy as larks. In the entire business world there is probably no other single occupation more indispensable than that of the secretary.

The boss expects her to be personable, well-dressed and well-groomed. She should have an attractive voice and pleasant manner; be calm, cheerful, discreet, efficient, have poise, tact, dignity and intelligence. In short, maintain a standard of behavior which he never, in his wildest dreams, would dare expect from any other person he knows.

And the amazing thing is that most secretaries really are all these things! Of course, where there is a secretary there must be a boss. But have you ever watched a boss floundering pitifully around his office on a day when his secretary is out sick? It becomes pretty obvious then who needs whom the most!

Today 20 million women are working in the United States. More than a million of them are in the secretarial field.

It is one of the most popular jobs for women and certainly it is one of the most satisfying. Because it has variety and responsibility, and it has the excitement of being in on things even before they happen. And most of all, it has the challenge of people—of human relations—of meeting people and getting along with them.

Social Aid Discussed by Panelists

St. Vincent Society Hears Trio From Family Center

The values of cooperation among social agencies was stressed by a panel of three speakers from Pontiac's Family Catholic Center when they addressed the Oakland County St. Vincent de Paul Society at St. Vincent Shelter Thursday evening.

* * *

The three case workers, Frances Knoll, Leon Messinger and Gregory Speltz, were introduced by Edward Morey, president of the society.

The panel stressed that all possible sources of help must be marshaled in the interest of persons seeking aid, and that each agency depends on the other.

"It is only when we are acquainted with all resources in a community and when we all work cooperatively that we are fulfilling our functions," Miss Knoll pointed out.

* * *

The panel drew upon case records to show how the Catholic Family Center has, through the years, worked closely not only with other private agencies but also with public agencies.

Mr. Messinger stated that although a family may receive financial help from another agency, the center sometimes continues seeing the family on a regular basis to help them with their emotional problems and to work toward helping them become financially independent if possible.

In summary, the panel alerted the audience that it is not a happy ending which makes a case successful, but rather it is the assurance that the center has made available to the client every possible source of help.

They Make Drab Apartment Bloom

By ANNE HEYWOOD

Over the holidays I met a wonderful couple who have worked out a retirement business that is lucrative as well as fun. It began when I visited a friend who has a new apartment which faces entirely on a stone court.

* * *

"It depressed me so," she told me, "but it was all we could find at our rent. Our last place faced on a garden. We loved it, but it was an old building which had to be demolished.

"For the first week or so here, I thought I would die, with nothing to look at but gray stone. Then one day, in the elevator, I met my neighbor who lives upstairs.

"She was such a cheerful-looking lady, and I guess she could see how blue I was, so she asked me up for a cup of tea. I went along and am I glad I did!

* * *

"When I walked into her place," my friend went on, "I looked around in amazement. She has the same apartment we have, just one flight higher. But the greenery, the freshness! She has plants at every window, dozens of them.

"She has special window boxes full of plants and then, inside, a special table at each window covered with plants. Even the radiator cover holds plants.

SPECIAL MATERIAL

"When I asked her about them, she said rather shyly that she and her husband had worked it out. They even found a special material which protects the plants from the heat.

* * *

"I was so delighted with her place," my friend continued, "I asked if it would be possible for them to help me fix up mine, I said I would insist on paying plenty, because it would change the whole apartment.

"She told me, rather shyly, that so many people had wanted such arrangements that she and her husband were in the business ever since he had retired. She explained that he was a good carpenter and she had a green thumb.

"Now," my friend said, "they are going to come tomorrow to give me 'the works.' For a flat fee, they put in the window boxes, the radiator cover top and the tables in front of the windows.

"It includes all labor and materials, and, if you like, the wife buys the plants for you and sees that they are healthy and in good variety so that something will always be blooming. It's a moderate fee, too.

CAN HARDLY WAIT

"I can hardly wait to get my 'greenhouse' started."

I went to meet them and found them to be really delightful.

They're in their late 60s, but they look young as can be. And they make a very good income from their retirement business.

3-D Pastel Colors Will Be Hair-do Fashion for 1956

OMAHA (INS)—Short swirls, 3-D and pastel colors will be featured by beauty shops in 1956.

Hair stylist Claude Smith predicts the short swirl will be the dominant style, at least through the early months of the new year.

The direction will be up and back, somewhat like the updo style of World War II, but the hair length will continue to be short.

Smith also forecasts deep flairs in hair-dos, to produce an illusion of three dimensions—length, width and depth.

Hair ornaments are coming back and more women are expected to demand a tint or dye, particularly the pastel shades of champagne, blonde, smoke gray, or pink.

Stylist Smith believes 1956 will see increasing popularity of the gimmick of keeping a streak of hair bleached so it can be tinted to match a favorite dress.

There's a humidifier on the market that can be installed in any warm-air furnace to cut down on the dryness of heated air.

'Battle of Waists' Marks London Style Showings

LONDON (INS) — The "battle of the waists" continued in London as England's top fashion designers showed their spring fashions.

Digby Morton, displaying his ideas on the second day of showings by the Incorporated Society of London Fashion Designers, played it safe by having both waisted and unwaisted clothes.

Morton showed a "Cascade" line with definite waist marking for evening, and a "Djellaban" straight tunic line for day. The "Djellaban," inspired by the Moroccan tunics Morton saw on a recent visit to Tangier, is an exotic three-quarter length loose tunic with a hood.

Morton said it was so comfortable he wore one himself around the house.

* * *

In addition to the "Djellaban" tunic coat, Morton showed fez hats and Oriental colors, also inspired by his Tangier visit. One bright pink fez was modeled with a tightly fitted black and white checked dress.

This designer's evening dresses were mostly short, and displayed 18th Century influence.

Designer Michael, also showing both waisted and unwaisted clothes, came up with a new idea: Padded hips.

Michael added lightly padded hips to classic suits of worsted tweed or silk with closely fitted waists. Jackets had three-quarter-length sleeves and skirts were shorter than usual.

Michael also displayed a "Creole" box jacket suit silhouette. The box jackets, widened at the shoulders, featured open necklines.

The length and width of sleeves, from tiny cap sleeves to long slinky ones, all are part of fashion's equipment for polite prevarication.

Still Wear Sheaths

If your hips are wide you can still wear a sheath, but choose one with a skirt that does not taper toward the hem. The turmpet flare is good, as is the straight semi-fitted skirt with a kickpleat or godet hemline. Your full skirts should spread from a low hipline, not the waist.

Simple Design Mirrors 'Easy Does It' Philosophy

"Easy does it" is the phrase that best sums up Brigance's fashion philosophy. It is an attitude clearly defined in this new model that is as easy to make as it is to look at.

* * *

Cut without a waistline seam, the body consists of only four lengths, the front two having quarter-inch stitched tucks.

Its great simplicity is further emphasized with a flat collar that sits away from the neck, a cleverly designed belt that buckles in back, and a buttoned front opening.

A dress that you will slip into with pleasure and frequency, it is lovely made in any soft material such as silk, sheer wool crepe or shantung. Come summer, you'll want to use the pattern again without sleeves, made in printed lawn or chambray.

This pattern is cut to designer measurements, not standard pattern measurements.

Bust	Waist	Hips	Size
35	25	36 inches	12
36½	26½	37½ inches	14
38	28	39 inches	16

Church Vesture Made of People

Houston Episcopalians Donate Personal Items for Communion Service

HOUSTON, Tex.—The beautiful golden objects used in services at the Episcopal Church of St.John the Divine here have been "forged out of the body of the church."

When the church, located in the fashionable River Oaks section here, opened its new building in 1953, new altarware was needed.

"We wanted furnishings for the altar that the people could feel a part of," said the Rev. Thomas W. Sumners, rector.

So the congregation brought to the church many objects of precious metals and stones to be melted and converted into the pieces now used at services.

A silver tray was the largest item brought to the church. Rings were the smallest. Other objects included candlesticks, cream and sugar vessels, watches and eyeglass frames. There also were baby spoons and cups that the members' children used, heirloom pins, brooches and diamond stickpins.

Five ecclesiastical artists submitted designs for the altarware after studying pictures of the church. A company in London, England, was selected to make the 18 separate pieces.

Among the furnishings are a processional cross, an altar cross, candelabra and various vessels.

"You look upon them as part of the body of the church," says Mr. Sumners. "You know they have been forged out of the very lives of the people themselves."

Classes and Clubs to Report on Fund

Sunday will be "Randolph Smith Day" at the Neman A. M. E. Church on Auburn Ave.

A graduate of Pontiac High School now serving with the U. S. Army in Japan, Smith will be honored for his service in helping to rebuild the church. Before entering the service, he was a leader of the young people.

The Rev. J. Allen Parker, pastor will speak on "Let Us Build." Young people's groups, clubs and classes will report on the building fund. The Junior Choir will furnish the music under the direction of Mrs. Elizabeth Milburn.

People Give Up Too Easily When Going Gets Tough

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

The late Dr. Frank Crane was fond of telling a story about the days when horse-drawn wagons were more frequent than they are today. He was walking down the street and passed a place where a teamster had unhitched his horses to feed them.

* * *

Dr. Crane noticed the heavy collar had been taken off one of the horses and that the horse's neck was very sore. He was concerned by this and went up to the teamster and asked, "Pretty hard, isn't it, to make a horse with a sore neck pull against that collar?"

DR. PEALE

"Yep," the teamster answered, "plum tough." And then he went on to make a remark that Dr. Crane never tired of quoting: "There wouldn't be much work done in this world, mister, if only horses and folks that are plum fit had to do it!"

I thought about Dr. Crane's story some time ago when I read about George Barnes in the newspapers. He's in the hat-cleaning business in Baltimore, but he has spent a good bit of time in Johns Hopkins Hospital during the past two years. When they sent him home last November, he was 73.

* * *

Doctors had amputated his right leg because of congested blood vessels — his left one had been taken off for the same reason in 1944. They had also removed much of his stomach. And the surgeon had performed a major operation to relieve him of an aneurysm, a balloon-like swelling of a blood vessel.

He carries on his work from a wheel chair now. "I don't see any reason why I should just sit around and collect relief checks and look at myself in the mirror," he cheerfully told a reporter. "I feel just as good as I've ever felt." He lives alone, but this doesn't bother him. "I can take care of my house O.K. and I cook all my meals myself."

Mr. Barnes says, "I like to read the Bible. You'd be surprised how that helps when you run into a problem." He doesn't want people to pity him as just an old man trying to keep busy. He is trying to do something constructive. "My experience might show people," he says, "that if they just try to do something, they can do it. But if you don't even try, you're whipped."

WE ALL GIVE UP TOO EASILY

That, of course, is the spirit that gets things done in this world, whether they be little things, medium-sized things, or great things. Many of us are all too ready to lay our burdens down and allow others to shoulder them. We give up all too easily.

This is not only wrong spiritually and morally; it is also a mistake physically. As Dr. William D. Stroud of Philadelphia told a gerontology symposium, "It is better that the patient fill out his life with rewarding work rather than worried rest." It is surprising how much better we do when we "just try," as Mr. Barnes says.

Of course, no one will argue that seriously ill people should work. Obviously, that is a matter for a doctor to decide in each individual case. But, by and large, intellectual and physical activity is a helpful thing, and those who keep active and alert to the very end of their days lead the most satisfying lives.

* * *

Nowadays, we hear much about occupational therapy as being a good cure for worried and troubled thoughts. Well do I recall when I began working with people, especially with reference to their emotional problems. A country doctor of the so-called old school (perhaps he was more up-to-date than we thought) said, "The cure for a broken heart or a troubled mind is often as simple as for a woman to mop a floor, or a man to chop wood." It's certainly worth trying. If things bother you, get busy at some useful activity. It solves lots of problems.

* * *

This is a time-tested philosophy. In the Book of Ecclesiastes we read: "There is nothing better for a man, that he should eat and drink, and that he should make his soul enjoy good in his labor."

Hollywood Headlines:

Rosalind Russell Pleased by Drab Character Role

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"I've always tried to do different things—and I've got the flops to prove it."

* * *

This was Rosalind Russell's analysis of her long and distinguished acting career. And it explains why she takes flyers that other top stars wouldn't venture.

BROADWAY VENTURE

For instance, she left a thriving film career to venture into a Broadway musical, "Wonderful Town." It was a big hit. Lately she has raised eyebrows by playing an unglamorous, spinsterish schoolteacher in "Picnic." The amazement is caused not only by the fact that she appears fortyish in the film; her role is not a leading one.

* * *

"Ah, but it is," she corrected as she served tea over the bar of her Beverly Hills manse. "I consider it the leading role. If people go out of the theater and remember it, then it was the leading role.

* * *

"It was the same way in 'The Women.' People told me, 'Roz, you're foolish to take a minor role like that.' But it was the leading part. Every scene counted, and all my scenes pertained to the plot. They couldn't cut me out; believe me, I had analyzed the script carefully.

ONLY FUN ROLES

"Besides, I have always made a specialty of playing characters. They're the only fun roles. The only trouble is that they're not easy to find. Usually all the characterization in a script is thrown at the leading man and woman."

* * *

As for the loss of glamor, Roz said that worries her not. She makes her entrance in "Picnic" applying cold cream and during the picture makes use of none of the gimmicks for glamor girls — special lighting, makeup tricks, soft lenses.

* * *

"When we sent the first rushes back to the studio from the Kansas location," she reported, "the word came back: 'Russell looks too good.' So they gave me the works—harsh lighting, clear lenses and everything."

VIEWER REACTION

She laughed as she told of attending the preview in New York. Someone in the seat behind her exclaimed, "how she has aged!"

* * *

Undaunted, Roz said she will continue doing different things.

'Plain and Fancy' Cast Is Stuck Up — by 2 Gunmen

NEW YORK (AP) — Two gunmen put on a three-minute, apparently rehearsed "bit" part backstage at a Broadway musical last night which cost the management $7,000.

* * *

The hit play, "Plain and Fancy"—at the Mark Hellinger Theatre—stresses the difference between honest Amish folks in Pennsylvania and double-dealing of city slickers.

Just as company Manager Al Jones started to hand out paychecks to two of the girls in the show, stage doorman Jack Gill was called to the telephone. That when the two bandits slipped through the stage entrance and confronted Jones and the girls.

Jones handed over an envelope holding individual packets containing pay for the performers and a number of backstage workers.

* * *

The bandits whisked out of the stage entrance and merged with the crowds on 51st St., off Broadway.

U. S. to Disclose Talks at Geneva

To Answer Red Chinese Charge of Dragging Out Meeting by Refusals

WASHINGTON (AP)—The State Department, which has accused Red China of "distorting" America's aims in negotiations between the two at Geneva, prepared to tell today its own side of the story.

* * *

The Chinese Communist regime at Peiping broke a secrecy agreement Wednesday to disclose in detail positions taken by both countries in the negotiations. It accused the United States of dragging out the talks by refusing to agree to what it called "acceptable" proposals put forth by the Reds.

The State Department promptly charged that the Reds had "distorted" the American position and had falsely accused this country of "occupying" the island of Formosa.

Formosa is the stronghold of the Chinese Nationalist government and the Chinese Reds want to take it over. It is at the heart of the deadlock which has so far blocked any agreement between the United States and Red China on political issues.

The United States has been trying to get Red China to agree to a statement renouncing the use or threat of force in its international relations, and covering Formosa.

Red China wants Formosa excluded, contending the island is its "domestic" problem and that the whole trouble there results from United States "occupation" of Chinese territory. The United States rejects this argument as baseless.

* * *

The Reds agreed last September to release all American civilians in China and let them come home. But they still hold 13 in prison and the United States has accused them of violating the September agreement by this action.

Polar Bear Hunt Broadcasted Via Navy Style

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Across the crackling wastes of an arctic Navy operation area the USS Rushmore messaged: "Desire daily polar bear report at your earliest convenience."

* * *

The USS Lindenwald, a landing ship, dock, like the Rushmore, replied: "Herded bear to within 50 feet of well several times but bear proved more agile than LCVP (landing craft, vehicle-personnel.)"

Later the Rushmore pursued the matter further: "No polar bear report, please keep us advised all bear episodes; odds quoted 10 to one on bear with few takers."

Crew members of the Lindenwald related the bear story on their return from the far north unloading operation. It seems an inquisitive polar bear nosed up to a porthole of a small craft, a cook sounded the tally-ho and landing craft churned out of the well deck of the LSD in pursuit of the bear.

Harriman Pokes GOP Policies

Says 'Alarming Drift' Rising in Economic, Farm, Foreign Plans

LOS ANGELES (AP)—New York Gov. Averell Harriman said today an "alarming drift" has developed at home and in foreign affairs under President Eisenhower's administration.

Harriman, a Democrat, struck directly at Eisenhower's farm, economic and foreign policies in a speech prepared for Town Hall luncheon meeting.

Noting Eisenhower's description of his administration as one of "dynamic conservatism," Harriman said the dictionary definition of that is something like static motion.

He called the Republicans a "party of reluctance which doesn't move until it has to — as when an election is coming up."

Harriman said Eisenhower's soil bank plan and some other measures proposed in a farm program are "too little and too late."

Harriman's criticisms of Eisenhower followed a similar frontal assault in San Francisco yesterday, when he said the President had been wrong in his judgments on Russia.

In San Francisco Harriman said "It's not likely I would be president."

Associates said there was no meaning in his remark other than that the new governor is a "modest fellow." Harriman has been discussed prominently as presidential timber, but is not an announced candidate.

Sees Use of Electricity Doubling in Ten Years

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A manufacturer predicts the nation's use of electricity will double in the next 10 years.

Don G. Mitchell, board chairman and president of Sylvania Electric Products Co., New York, also told an interviewer yesterday that the West Coast does 30 per cent of the nation's electric business.

Mitchell said it is probable that privately owned electric utilities will spend three billion dollars a year in the next decade for expansion.

Archer Rory Calhoun Set for Africa Safari

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Just when I was arranging for a rocket junket, Rory Calhoun jerked me back a few hundred years . . . telling how he's going big-game hunting in Africa with bow-and-arrow.

"It must not be such a crazy idea—there are 7,000,000 archers now in America," the tall, handsome, black-haired Hollywood star said.

★ ★ ★ ★

"I've been boar-hunting and goat-hunting with a bow in California, Iowa, Louisiana and Mississippi," Calhoun offered.

"But are you that good with a bow?" I asked in all my country-boy innocence.

"No, but HE is." Calhoun wagged his head toward big, rough-talking Howard Hill, world's champion bow-and-arrow shot. They're safari-ing soon to Kenya to film "Imboga," which as all of my readers already know means "buffalo" in Swahili.

"This child here talks like he has two tongues," Hill grinned. "Anyway, people don't think you can kill a rhino with a bow. I just may do it. It makes an animal madder'n anything to have an arrow in his hide."

RORY

"I think it's sporting," Rory said. "It's no trick to shoot a deer with a rifle. With a bow, you give a deer a fair chance. Howard," he added, "killed an elephant with a bow."

"He charged our camera down in Tanganyika," Hill explained. "It took about 8 minutes before he fell over."

Hill told of a tribe of so-called "leopard men" in Africa who, he said, were supposedly 7 feet tall and spotted, and who reputedly ate all visitors alive. They got a "bad reputation," he said.

★ ★ ★ ★

"We didn't have any trouble with 'em," he related. The leopard spots were makeup. Before we went in, we made a deal with another tribe to hire 160 of their spearmen to take along.

Rory and Hill will be taking plenty of firearms, too. Hill, who's originally from Wilsonville, Ala., has practiced bow-and-arrowing in Miami, Seattle, Los Angeles and Mexico, where he's lived, and has been on 15 safaris.

"It all started," he recalled, "when my dad got me a bow-and-arrow when I was about 8. I liked it and practiced for years. I didn't say anything about it, though, because people'd have laughed at me. I finally told them when I got good enough that if they'd have made a crack, I'd have let 'em have an arrow in their pants."

Author Huxley Says Moms Losing Dignity

NEW YORK, N. Y. — Aldous Huxley says Mother has lost her dignity to the commercial interests in the United States.

The famous scholar and novelist is appalled at the exaggerated amount of merchandising and advertising revolving around "Mother-love." We are encouraged to reverse and worship our mothers by buying the products which she would like or approve of. This, according to Huxley, has all the dangerous earmarks of false idol worship.

Today, says Huxley mother inhabits a delicious Disneyland, where everything is syrup and technicolor, cuteness and schmaltz."

False sentimentality used to sell products can only result in the eventual breaking-down of genuine family ties and the disappearance of sincere feelings towards those we should respect and admire.

Civil Service Changes Policy

Employes Hear Orders to Unclog Flow of News Meant for U. S. Public

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Civil Service Commission, under prodding by a House committee, has told its employes they have a responsibility "to assist in the task of keeping the public informed."

This new directive, disclosed today, takes the place of one which advised employes that information about commission affairs is "the property of the government" and must not be disclosed without authorization.

Chairman Moss (D-Calif) of a House Government Operations subcommittee hailed the change as a step toward unclogging the flow of information as a result of his group's inquiry into the way government agencies are letting the press and public know about their activities.

* * *

"I hope other federal executive agencies will review their information policies," Moss said in a statement, adding:

"Officials should adopt a positive attitude and tell the public everything the government is doing unless they can clearly justify withholding information."

Actually, the newly announced revision is not such a policy reversal as it might appear to be.

CSC chairman Philip Young told the subcommittee when it opened its inquiry late last year that the agency's employes long have been encouraged to publicize "legitimate" information about CSC—with the agency itself deciding what sort of information is "legitimate."

Young said the "government property" warning was intended to keep within the agency such internal matters as differences of opinion that might arise among officials while final policy decisions are being reached.

Young conceded at the time the order might be better worded.

Young also disclosed, in a letter to Moss, that he is having an interagency advisory group study the question of making available to the public the names and salaries of all federal employes.

PLENTY OF HEIGHT — There was plenty of board work for the tall boys in the Southfield-Walled Lake game last night. Larry Hughes (14) of Walled Lake who stands 6-3 and Ray Filar of Southfield 6-2 battle for a rebound with Eric Leighton (33) Southfield's 6-3 forward in the background. The Jays nipped Walled Lake 63-62 in an Inter-Lakes game.

SAGINAW — Trojan fans got their 1st look at the current edition of Pontiac's SVC basketball contenders Friday night, and saw a well-coordinated crew ram over a 79-57 victory against Larry Laeding's hapless Saginaw five.

Art Van Ryzin's club marked up its 3rd Valley win and its 5th victory in seven starts. The win closed out the 1st round of league play, and left Saginaw with five straight defeats.

And while Chiefs were disposing of the Trojans in easy fashion, across town in Saginaw the Valley leaders took an unexpected and highly significant licking.

Arthur Hill's Lumberjacks, beaten 54-44 by Chiefs, dumped Joe Dowdy's Flint Central Indians by a five-point margin, 64-59, to break a winning streak at four straight. Loss was Indians' 1st in SVC play. It brings the Central squad withing striking distance of Pontiac, Arthur Hill and Northern. All three will be leveling their sights at Central in the 2nd round.

Northern won the match against the Bay City Wolves, 56-53, in the night's other loop contest.

Last night's results left Pontiac and Arthur Hill tied for 3rd place behind Flint Central and Northern. Flint schools share the top spot with 4-1 records. Chiefs and Jacks have 3-2 marks.

Chiefs didn't waste any time piling up a big margin. Seconds after the opening jump, Willie Dewatt grabbed a pass from Larry Peet, raced in and laid one up. At the end of the period, PHS had 23, Trojans 6. At intermission the count stood 47-17.

When play was resumed, Van Ryzin began pulling out his starters. Dave Diehm, Jim Jones and Dave Simmons went in. Later Terry Zellhart and Clyde Lewis went in. Except for the final period when Dewalt, Rod Treais and Larry Peet came out, Chiefs goal-getting didn't suffer much.

Dewalt and Treais, along with Trojans' Del Blondin set the scoring pace. This time it was Treais who topped the field. Rod fired 25 points (9 goals) and Willie hit for 23 (6 buckets, 11 gift shots). Blondin had 23 (6 baskets). Hud Ray turned in 11.

Chiefs' forwards, Dewalt and Treais were hot as a firecracker on their driving layups, corner shots and at the free toss line.

Ray and Jim Skinner, along with Dewalt and Treais, did a fine job on the rebounds, while Peet's back court work and floor game was outstanding.

Blondin and Dick Yates, forwards, gave yeoman service to the Trojans.

Southfield did it again! The Jays put together a furious second half rally, as they've done in the past two games, to nip Walled Lake 63-62 in a thriller.

The victory moved Southfield into a 1st place tie with the Vikings in the Inter-Lakes conference.

During the first quarter the lead changed hands seven times before Walled Lake took a 15-12 advantage. In the second stanza, the Vikings displayed fine ball handling and with John Walker hitting from outside with four straight field goals, Walled Lake carried a 10 point lead into the dressing room, 36-26.

For the first three minutes of the second half, Walled Lake held an eight point lead when suddenly guards Bob Evans and Ken Moser started clipping the nets.

Walled Lake lost its poise in handling the ball, losing it five times.

Evans hit for 12 points in the 3rd period and with a minute to go in the period the Jays took a 47-46 lead.

The game was tied five times and leads changed 4 times when with one minute to play Eric Leighton hit from the corner to make it 63-61 for Southfield.

Walled Lake missed an opportunity at the 55-second mark. Hughes made a free throw to make it 63-62 and missed his second.

The Vikings got possession with 42 seconds to play but instead of bringing the ball down court to work a shot, a long pass went out of bounds and the Jays held for the last 30 seconds.

* * *

Evans got 24 points and Moser 22 with Walker hitting for 23 and Hughes 21 for Walled Lake.

In a cold game at Waterford, the Skippers lost to Berkley 22-21. Only 11 personals were called in the game and in the free-throw column Berkley had two and Waterford 7.

Both teams shot under 20 per cent with Waterford's Cecil Dumbrigue high for the game with 9 points.

Bob Burtch used his entire bench of 12 and everyone scored as Farmington mauled Van Dyke 58-23.

Pontiac Elks Lead Entries in State Test

For many years Pontiac Elks lodge No. 810 has led entries for the Michigan Elks bowling tournament. This year is no exception. Pontiac will send 68 teams, 114 doubles combos and 228 singles competitors to the 1956 event, now under way at Saginaw.

Oakland county will have some 113 teams, 216 doubles and 432 singles entries, including Pontiac, Royal Oak, Ferndale and Farmington bowlers.

Pontiac's contingent competes on Feb. 4-5. Other county representatives appear at later dates.

Pontiac has been site for the big event three times, in 1950, in 1939 and 1933. It will return here next year, at the fine new No. 810's drives.

The heaters were turned on to full blast at Birmingham High school last night, but to no avail as the frigid Maples dropped a 35-30 decision to an equally cold Port Huron quintet in an Eastern Michigan League game.

* * *

The win gave the big Red sole possession of the loop lead with a 4-0 mark.

Birmingham led throughout the game until the last five minutes when Port Huron took a 29-28 lead on a field goal by Dick Robins.

Only score for Birmingham in the final period was a field goal in the last 30 seconds by John Flesser. Bob Isbell had 10 for BHS and Dick Robins had 9 for the Hurons.

Elsewhere, Mt. Clemens beat Ferndale 65-55 and East Detroit lost to Hamtramck 86-63.

Selfridge Five Beat Jewelers in Exhibition

With only six players to work with, Shaw's Jewelry cage squad couldn't cope with a collegian-loaded Selfridge Field Air Base club last night, on the base court.

Shaw's held a 27-25 1st period lead than fell behind, never to catch up. Final count was 92-83.

Bob McManus' 20 points paced the Jewelers. Dave Sebring had 16, Tom Spencer 15, Carland Townes 18, Cecil Hanes 8 and Jay McCaugna 6. That was Shaw's entire squad.

Unless the unforseen happens the wigwam of Milford's Redskins should be looking ahead to a victory dance as champions of the Wayne-Oakland league.

* * *

Last night the Skins trimmed Clarenceville 68-50 to complete the list of having beaten every team in the league.

* * *

Milford led at halftime 27-24 but the Trojans fought back to a 41-41 deadlock after three periods.

* * *

In the final stanza, high scoring Jim Davidson led the war party with 16 of his 26 points as Milford pulled away to stay. Six points by reserve guard Lee Averill helped the Redskins in the last period.

Darrell Ridling who fouled out midway in the 4th quarter was held to 11 points. Milford made 24 of 32 free throws.

At Northville, the Clarkston Wolves had to give way in the late stages to height and board control in dropping a 60-51 decision.

* * *

The lead changed several times in the 2nd period and Clarkston led 34-32 at halftime, but after four minutes in the 3nd period Northville pulled away. Darwin Teska had 20 and Pat Patterson 12 for the winners with George Lang getting 18 for Clarkston.

Holly outscored Brighton from the floor, 31 field goals to 25 but 22 free throws gave Brighton a 72-69 victory.

Herb Snyder's 35 points and Brian Watson's 26 paved the way for Brighton, with Roger Voorheis getting 20 for Holly.

High scoring Jim Simer of Madison was held to 12 points, his lowest output of the season.

* * *

The program calls for 16 finals today and 22 Sunday as 205 skaters from nine states vie for individual and team titles in a prelude to the National championships at St.Paul, Jan. 28-29.

The senior men's title shapes up as a two-cornered battle between defending champion Stan Fail of Compton, Calif., and National kingpin Ken Bartholomew of Minneapolis. Pat Gibson of Madison, Wis., is expected to retain her senior women's title.

Wayne Trounces Tech

DETROIT (AP) — Hitting on 41 per cent of its shots from the field and with three players scoring in double figures, Wayne University trounced Michigan Tech, 91-64, last night to run its season's record to 9-1. Tech now is 7-4 for the season.

Rams Hold on, 58-57

By BILL CORNWELL

Ferndale St. James had St. Frederick against the ropes at the finish of their Suburban Catholic League basketball game Friday night in St. Fred's gymnasium, but the Rams hung on to chalk up a 58-57 victory.

Other SCL action last night saw the close league race become even more congested as St. Benedict handed Royal Oak St. Mary its 1st loss and Orchard Lake St. Mary whipped St. Rita, thereby creating a four-way tie for 1st place. St. Michael, OL St. Mary, St. Benedict, and RO St. Mary all have 4-1 records.

* * *

The Dales staged a 23-point uprising in the last quarter which nearly toppled St. Fred. Scoring ace Dick Doyon fouled out with two and a half minutes remaining and St. James took advantage of his absence to almost catch the Rams in a wild ending.

St. Fred trailed at halftime, 26-25, but Doyon sparked a 3rd-period revival which sent Gene Wright's cagers into a 43-34 advantage entering the final stanza. Doyon's court generalship was sorely missed during the closing free-for-all.

Doyon gave his finest scoring performance of the season, netting 10 field goals and 11 free throws for 31 points as the Rams broke their 3-game losing streak. Ray Rieti scored 25 points and Tom Orbals tossed in 17 to lead the Dales.

St. Frederick's reserves had an easier time of it, trimming St. James in the preliminary, 55-39.

* * *

St. Benedict's Ravens were in front all the way as they trounced Royal Oak St. Mary, 53-34, at Highland Park. Three Bens scored in double figures, headed by Larry Gacki with 20 points. Phil Brezezinski dumped in 11 points for the Irish.

Ted Kopacki poured in 27 points to pace Orchard Lake St. Mary to a 63-55 triumph over St. Rita at Hazel Park. The Eaglets were in command all the way and Father John Rakoczy substituted freely. Mike Young topped the Vikings with 20 points.

Also in the double figures for the Chieftans were Lou Haase with 14 and Dick Cole with 15. It was Utica's 4th win in 6 games, and made the league record stand at 2-1.

Rochester Defeats W. Bloomfield, 66-46

Rochester fired a 21 point barrage in the 2nd period and then went on to beat West Bloomfield 66-46 at home last night.

The Lakers playing without the injured Frank Rogers held their lone lead at 12-9 after the first stanza.

Dave Peters and Jim Van Nocker had 21 and 14 respectively for ochester with Phil Schulz getting 12 for W. Bloomfield.

It was the 4th straight loss for the Lakers.

Romeo 8th Victim of Lapeer, 72-64

Romeo moved within 1 point of Lapeer three times in the 4th period but was unable to go ahead at any point and as result Lapeer was victorious in its 8th straight game, 72-64.

Led by Tom Wilson's 39 points, Lapeer poured through 28 free throws in 34 tries, including 24 straight, in chalking up the win.

Bill Schmidt led Romeo with 21 points. Romeo's mark at the free throw line was 28 of 50.

Turner Takes Split Decision

LaBua Takes Beating for 2nd Time in 37 Days From Gil

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Gil Turner looked toward Gene Fullmer again today, anxious to take on the Utah battler who was expected to provide the competition for the Philadelphian last night.

Young Jackie LaBua filed in for the ill Fullmer and took his second beating from Turner in 37 days. Again, it was a split 10-round decision.

Turner's ring experience again was the major factor. The younger LaBua showed a willingness to mix it with the veteran and nearly every round of the fast-paced battle and a sparkling-and-bloody exchange.

In the fourth round, Turner opened a cut over LaBua's right eye that spurted blood. His handlers patched it up but Gil opened it again with flicking jabs in both of the next two rounds, forcing La Bua to carry his guard high.

When LaBua's guard went up, Turner shifted to the midsection. Thus he gradually wore down his opponent.

Judge Paul Cummings scored it 5-4-1 and Referee Barney Felix, 6-3-1, both for Turner. Judge Dick Fazio gave it to LaBua, 5-4-1. The Associated Press had LaBua on top 6-4.

The last two rounds provided a furious finish for the 1,344 fans who paid $3,604 to see the nationally televised and broadcast battle.

Turner weighed 156, slightly less than his last fight with LaBua, who came in a bit heavier this time at 158.

Saginaw Reserves Dump Little Chiefs

When Pontiac High's reserve basketball team tangled with Saginaw's junior varsity, last night, at Saginaw, Little Chiefs took a 76-51 licking.

Junior Trojans were paced by Larry Rousseau's 23 points, while Ken McLintock and Dick Whitmer led the PHS crew with 14 and 13 respectively.

Pontiac trailed 23-10 end of the 1st period and never caught up.

Loss was only the 2nd for Fred Zittel's club in eight starts.

Cranes Falter in 2nd Half to Lose

Flint Tech spotted Cranbrook a 32-21 halftime advantage and then came back with a 4th period splurge of 25 pointsto beat the Cranes 63-56 last night.

Pete Bedford led the Crane scoring with 17 points followed by Bob Machus with 13 and Jerry Dobson with 11. Bill Korth was high for Flint with 15.

It was Cranbrook's 4th loss against three wins for the season.

PHS Swimmers Near Pool Marks in Win Over Wolves

Turning in performances that in several instances were very close to PHS pool records, Bob (Des) Boyce's Chief tankers yesterday afternoon won their 3rd Saginaw Valley encounter. They took a close one from Bay City's Wolves, 49-38 in the PHS pool. Winner was not determined until the two last events.

Score was tied at 27 points at end of the diving. Chiefs then went on to win the medley and freestyle relays. Meet gives PHS a Valley mark of 2-1, Bay City 2-2. It was much closer than the score indicated.

Tom Cross' 1:02.9 in the 100 backstroke was four-tenths of a second off the pool record, and Dennis Simonson's 1:18.8 in individual medley came within three-tenths of a second of the pool mark. George Bergstrom did well in the 40 freestyle, also.

Summary:

40-yard freestyle—Won by Bergstrom (P); 2nd, Finn (BC); 3rd, Wuepper (BC); 4th Wiersema (P). Time 20.1 seconds.

'M' Skaters Nip MSU in Overtime

EAST LANSING (AP) — With a 3-2 thriller tucked under their belts, the University of Michigan's hockey team headed for home ice at Ann Arbor today and another Western Intercollegiate Hockey League game against Michigan State tonight.

The Wolverines won here last night as center Neil McDonald pumped in a close-up goal at 3:22 in a sudden-death overtime period.

Michigan State stormed back, after being down 0-2, to tie the game in the final period of regulation play.

Dodgers' Victory Purse

The 1955 Dodgers got $9,768 a share for winning the world series. The figure was less than that given to the New York Giants who won the crown the year before. Their shares netted each player about $11,147.

NHL Scrambles for Cup Spots

Red Wings in Toronto Aiming for 7th Straight Victory Tonight

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The battle for fourth place, the last qualifying position for the National Hockey League's Stanley Cup playoffs, still is on in earnest. But the Toronto Maple Leafs have a golden opportunity to grab it for themselves tonight.

* * *

The Leafs are scheduled to take on the Detroit Red Wings in Toronto and a victory or a tie would move them ahead of the Chicago Black Hawks. Both Toronto and Chicago have 37 points.

The Hawks lost a good chance to gain ground last night when they blew a 3-0 decision to the tail-end Boston Bruins.

* * *

Leo Labine, Johnny Pierson and Cal Gardner broke open a tight game for the Bruins. Each found the nets in the third period.

The shutout was the sixth for Boston goalie Terry Sawchuk.

The league-leading Montreal Canadiens are down to face the New York Rangers in tonight's other game.

Steeler Bonus Choice Signs

Glick Turns Down Offer From Argonauts to Play for $12,000

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Gary Glick, an unheralded gridiron jack-of-all-trades who drew national attention after the Pittsburgh Steelers took him on their bonus pick, has signed a 1956 contract with the National Football League club.

The 195-pounder from Colorado A&M made a trip to Canada recently to discuss football with the Toronto Argonauts, and reportedly turned down a $12,000 offer.

Glick signed with the Steelers yesterday at his home in Laporte, Colo., after a talk with Steeler Assistant Coach Herman Ball. Salary terms were not disclosed. Glick made this comment:

"It was quite an honor to be named as the NFL's bonus pick. It left me in quite a muddle. Everyone was calling me on the telephone.

Glick's selection in the annual NFL draft came as quite a surprise. He is the first player from a small college ever tabbed a bonus choice since the system began in 1947.

Armada was back in sole possession of the Southern Thumb League. The Tigers scored an easy 70-60 win over Brown City while Capac was suffering a 54-53 setback at the hands of Almont last night.

Capac took the lead for the 1st time in the final three minutes of its game and held a 3 point lead with 20 seconds to play.

Larry Kersten, however, made two free throws and a field goal in these waning moments to snatch the game away from Capac. Kersten had 26 points and Jim Chernenko 20 for Capac.

Memphis won its 4th game in the league by downing New Haven 52-44 behind Jim Burns' 18 points.

In the South Central league Imlay City and North Branch were in the lead with 2-0 marks as they downed Ortonville 72-52 and Millington 71-59 respectively.

Souchak Holds 3 Stroke Lead in Caliente Meet

TIJUANA, Mex. (AP)—The Caliente Open Golf Tournament swung into the third round today and "Iron Mike" Souchak still had a tight grasp on the situation.

Souchak was three strokes in front of the field with rounds of 65-71 behind him for a 36-hole score of 136.

* * *

His nearest threats at the moment were Tommy Bolt and California's Ralph Blomquist. Tommy, had a 70 and the Glendale club pro a 72 yesterday.

Rain which drenched the 7,000-yard, par 36-36—72 Tijuana Country Club Course was expected to continue today but possibly clear up in the afternoon.

Tied at 140 and still a threat were two other seasoned tournament players, Oklahoma's Bo Wininger, with 69-71, and Marty Furgol of Lemont, Ill., 71-69.

Souchak couldn't approach his red hot 65, but as he said himself, he made few, if any, mistakes. Birdie putts just wouldn't fall as they did the day before. He was over par on only two greens, his approach shots missing in each case, but his 36-35—71 was steady and consistent.

The tournament record of 282 was established by Wiffy Cox in 1934 at 282, Souchak, in the renewal of the border town event after a lapse dating back to 1935, thinks he can do better.

Iowa-UM Set for Televised Game

ANN ARBOR (AP) —Iowa opened a four-game road trip today, meeting Michigan in a nationally televised Big Ten basketball game.

The contest, starting at 3 p.m. (EST), will be televised over NBC-TV.

Iowa goes into the game owning a 2-1 league record and holding 2nd place. Michigan, 3-2, is in a three-way tie for 4th with Indiana and Purdue.

Michigan's leading scorer is football star Ron Kramer, who has an 18.5 average. Iowa's big gun is Bill Logan, with a 14.1 mark.

PATRICIAN COLLECTION — An important piece in the new Patrician collection by Sligh is this handsome bookcase headboard bed. Unique features of this walnut headboard include the unusual new "caramel" finish and the sliding panel doors on the bookcase; these panels are tilted back on the higher than usual headboard, providing comfortable back rests. Illustrated is the swing twin bed model; the bed is also available in twin and double bed sizes.

Background for LIVING

New Furniture for 1956 Seen at Grand Rapids Market

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

Last weekend in Grand Rapids I attended my first furniture show. I think we're fortunate to have the furniture capital of the world so close. I saw so much in a short time that I'm still trying to sort out my impressions.

Regardless of house size or financial standing, each woman has, I believe, an instinctive desire to make her home an attractive place. Most women want it also to be a comfortable, homey place. Few of us care to live in a showcase.

One thing impressed me. There was very little of the stark modern furniture that seems so cold. The lines have been softened. There were many reproductions of period furniture, of pieces that have proven their worth down through the years. There was lots of contemporary furniture; this is most livable.

Among the more startling rooms I saw a purple and pale blue kitchen and a black and blue bedroom. The kitchen had purple linoleum, blue cupboards and stainless steel accents. The bedroom had black spreads, blue rug, upholstery and draperies and black accessories.

Two rugs were outstanding, both displayed in Furniture Guild's house. One combined four - inch squares of brown, beige, aqua and gold. The material was wool, the pile deep.

The other rug was displayed in a family room. It was an informal rug, gay with bright figures and flowers. Its name was Portuguese Festa.

Folding screens are more popular than ever. They have so many uses that every home should have one. You can use your imagination to make an individual screen to fit your own house.

I saw one made of several colors of string stretched in an abstract pattern between the frames. It hid nothing, but was attractive. There was another made entirely of mirrors, also one of cane.

One showroom had an unusually tall screen made of two solid pieces of wood like a flush door. This one had huge brass hinges. You could use a wrought iron screen on a porch or patio.

In a showroom dedicated to fine occasional pieces I found a four panel, antiqued birch screen with several reproductions of Currier and Ives prints on each panel.

Early American furniture never loses its appeal. The showroom of Pine Shops, Incorporated had some noteworthy pieces. They had a waist-high planter of pine that would make an excellent room divider.

There was a hutch cupboard with handsome wallpaper used behind the shelves. Anyone could do that with open shelves. Choose a paper with a large, distinctive design.

Birds eye maple is coming back as a furniture wood. I saw an exquisite harvest table about 65 inches long. The same show room had an attractive game table of this maple.

One amusing piece that would be a conversation starter was a mammoth cribbage board measuring 9x28 inches. It had drawers at each end with spaces for cards and chips.

The Hitchcock Chair Company which does business at the site of the original Hitchcock factory in Riverton, Connecticut has some exciting new home accessories.

In an old Connecticut home some one discovered a cornice board decorated in the traditional Hitchcock manner; it dates back to 1830. Very soon you will be able to buy reproductions of this cornice. It is to be available in two sizes and several colors.

Color, color, color . . . hot colors like lemon yellow and bright orange for outdoor chairs. Mediterranean colors . . . glowing, vibrant shades for upholstery and drapery fabrics, even for leather and plastic.

Deep turquoise upholstery covered a sofa that had bright navy cushions. Pink and purple and blue were all used together. Chinese red, bronze green, all shades of blue. We needn't be afraid of color.

Color everywhere, and yet I discovered the elegance of charcoal gray for a basic upholstery color. I saw several sofas covered in that shade of gray. They were most effective with bright colored pillows heaped on them.

One cocktail table had real grass and butterflies mounted on pale beige fabric under the glass top. The same showroom had glass panels with branches, pods, starfish, shells, grasses and butterflies all glued on, then varnished.

Serving carts are popular. Designer Paul McCobb's version combines a brass frame with wooden shelves and two shallow drawers. One shelf is removable to use as a tray. There is a deep basket on the bottom shelf. The top is marble.

Sligh showed a walnut card table forty inches square that folded in half to become a tea wagon twenty inches wide.

Willow and Reed had a unique, graceful sleigh tea cart. It had three formica shelves, was trimmed with rattan and comes complete with a string of Bells of Sarna. The one on display was painted red.

I saw some interesting fabrics, both for upholstery and for drapery material. Robsjohn-Gibbings has created a Damask linen woven with a fern design, also one in pink, blue and purple stripes.

Cotton taffeta comes in twenty-six luscious colors. There is a new open type casement cloth of rayon, linen and cotton, in a ripple weave.

For a music room you can get Concerto, a print having pictures of some of the great musicians in it. You can buy simulated patent leather in nine colors, guaranteed not to crack.

Cork makes a fine table top. The same cork that is used on floors, it can be treated like any wood. Its advantages are many. It is quiet and provides a surface that is kinder to fragile objects. It is easy to patch.

For a small house or an apartment one cork-topped table was ideal. One leaf went up against the wall when the table was not in use. When pulled out to full width, the table seated six comfortably. Three could sit at it when it was folded.

Some pieces of furniture are being finished on all four sides instead of only three. This makes them useful in any part of the room. Alfred Assid has a pickled pine chest with four drawers finished in this manner. It would make a good room divider.

They're making Hi Fi and record storage cabinets in all kinds of designs, from Early American knotty pine to the popular French and Italian Provincial.

Wrought iron furniture has taken to color. You can have it in citron yellow, green, aqua, slate blue, gray, pink, or the more conventional white. Cushions are covered in matching or contrasting colors. One new design made by Molla shows a shell in the chair and table frames; there is matching fabric for the cushions.

Because of a shortage of heavy glass for table tops, Molla now uses some plastic tops with inlaid marble chips. These tops are an inch thick.

Molla also makes a metal bamboo that defies detection until it is touched. This comes in color as well as in the natural bamboo shade.

One company specializes in chairs covered with fabric having a crewel design on it. I saw several, including one in the famous Willow Pattern and another depicting the fable of the Tortoise and the Hare.

CUSTOM HOME ARRANGEMENTS — Renzo R. Rutili has designed this addition to the Johnson Furniture Company's line of "Custom Home Arrangements Group of Furniture as You Want It." The bases are 33 or 49 inches. Foam rubber cushions form the seat and back. Two of the smaller bases are combined with a slat top oak planter unit, two seating units and a three drawer chest in turquoise and gold leaf decoration. Pieces may be combined in a countless variety of ways to fit individual needs. The back is decorative with an attractive ribbon design.

ROMANTIC PRIVACY — The mood of "romantic privacy" as shown in this living room of the Widdicomb collection is in contrast to the "glass box" type of house. T. H. Robsjohn-Giddings has designed furniture to be used in houses having architecture of the semi-tropical areas. A single motif — the arch — is the design theme. It is repeated here in the buffet and the cocktail table. This cocktail table has a walnut top scattered with inlaid stars of stainless steel. The rugs and upholstery are of luminous Persian blue. There is a marble-like veining in the silk upholstery. This was one of the most vivid collections shown in Grand Rapids.

OPEN SECRETARY — An interesting occasional piece in Sligh's new collection is this open secretary. Crafted of figured American walnut, this is an unique example of contemporary design. This secretary is part of the Grand Rapids Furniture Makers Guild exclusive Guild Galleries Group.

A study showed that gasoline prices at stations on the Inter-American Highway in Central America range from 45 to 65 cents

MAGIC OTTOMAN — Ready for lounging, this tailored new version of the famous Stratolounger reclining chair adjusts from closed to reclining position automatically. Featured in a wide variety of fabrics and colors, this chair disguises its mechanical qualities beneath trim lounge chair proportions. It is coordinated to go with high style living room furniture.

A power lathe for children handles plastic, wood and aluminum for cutting like its professional counterpart. The lathe weighs 16 pounds and is 27 inches long. It is powered by a 1-35 horsepower electric motor that can be stopped by finger pressure, a safety factor.

If there is a slight accidental cigarette burn in your best carpet, clip the blackened end of the tufts. Then a soapless cleaner-and-water sponging should clear up the burn nicely.

Plywood Gives Distinctive Look From Varied Textures

Paneling interior walls with plywood produces distinctively different results every time, if for no other reason than that no two plywood sheets are exactly alike. This highly versatile building-remodeling material is offered in a multitude of popular hard and soft woods.

* * *

Doing your own remodeling, you can take advantage of the matching or contrasting color and grain characteristics of the various species and introduce infinite dramatic effects. Plywood goes formal or informal with equal facility.

Have a look at the plywood pamphlets offered gratis by lumber yards. The pictures in them should give you a number of ideas for decorative wall treatments.

If it's your plan to panel over existing walls, you may want to consider using plywood planks or parquet squares. These come in 16-inch widths and in most cases can be applied to existing plaster walls without the need for furring strips.

PLAIN, TEXTURED

That seldom is true of plywood panels, which generally require furring strips to level the walls and provide nailing surfaces. The furring further adds to an existing wall's thickness—sometimes complicating installation around windows, doors and other openings.

Nonetheless, the ¼-inch thick sheets are the most used form of plywood paneling. Like the planks and squares, they are available plain or textured, pre-finished or unfinished. Although 4x8 foot panels are standard, smaller sizes can be had—a factor which helps hold waste to a minimum. Combining small panels with larger ones also leads to highly decorative wall treatments.

When you've decided on one, it's advisable to plan the paneling of each wall on paper before reaching for saw and hammer. Lay out the panel arrangements on scale drawings of the room's walls, remembering these rules:

Each wall arrangement should be balanced, symmetrical. If a wall has a fireplace or picture window, paneling should start at each side of these features, or be balanced at the center with remaining panels placed to right or left, working around the room.

On plain, uninterrupted walls, start paneling either at a corner or at the center of the walls, and work both ways. Where windows and doors interfere some piecing is necessary, and symmetry here is essential.

Installation of furring strips is desirable except in new construction, in which case paneling may be nailed directly to exposed wall studs. Five equally spaced strips are run horizontally around a room, with vertical strips let in on 16-inch centers or where panel joints occur. In paneling existing walls, strips of ¼-inch plywood may be used as furring; over concrete or masonry walls, use 1x2 inch lumber. In basements furring strips should be vertical, on 16-inch centers.

You can fasten paneling to 1-inch furring with 6-penny finishing nails, and to ¼-inch furring with 4-penny nails.

But the best system is to coat furring strips or exposed wall studs with water-resistant glue and apply panels with ½-inch brads.

Although several joining systems can be used, the simple V joint made by running a plane along the edges of panels is a favorite. If a flush butt joint is preferred, "back cut" the edges of the panels. In other words, plane a bevel on the edges so that less wood touches when panels are edge-joined. This acts as a safety valve for expansion of the wall.

FOR THE BIG FAMILY — Here's happy living for a big family. The welcoming arms of this house extend forward to greet you. The hip roof gives a long and low appearance. Airy wrought iron columns in the style of Southern frozen lace add lightness to the design as well as dignity to the entrance.

House of the Week Offers Roominess for Everyone

Big families need big houses. Only a big house can provide a maximum of opportunities for a full, happy and carefree life—large and numerous rooms, luxurious space for comfort, secure privacy indoors and outdoors, with an appreciate facade and setting.

* * *

To keep a big house unostentatious in appearance and to blend its size with sensible compactness to avoid extravagance in construction are among the tasks that confront the home designer. Lester Cohen, architect for Design T-304 on this page, shows how this can be accomplished.

This "House of the Week" is two stories high in the rear, yet it presents the long and low appearance of the modern ranch style in front. Hip roofs minimize the height. Airy wrought iron columns in the style of Southern frozen lace add lightness to the design as well as dignity to the entrance. Garage and bedroom wings of the house extend forward as welcoming arms.

This house can be built three ways.

1. With only the first floor finished, it contains three big bedrooms, maid's room and three bathrooms; a center hall with a broad open staircase; a wood paneled study suitable for guest room use; a 30-foot living room with imposing fireplace and classic French doors to the rear terrace; a big family dining room with a bowed window facing the garden; a kitchen with corner windows embracing dinette space; a laundry, and an oversize two-car garage.

2. The second floor can be reserved for future expansion or finished to provide three more bedrooms and a fourth bathroom. One of these spare rooms, measuring 21 by 27 feet, is especially suitable for a children's playroom with two large closets for toy storage. An enormous walk-in cedar lined closet is included in the plan for this second floor. This aromatic storage room measures more than 10 by 10 feet.

3. Another choice in this plan is to build the house with or without a basement. Construction over a crawl space is an easy adaptation with a modern horizontal type heating plant being located adjacent to the fireplace chimney. However, the inclusion of a basement allows for a 30 by 30-foot recreation room with a second fireplace—the chimney being planned for three flues.

PLANTING BOX

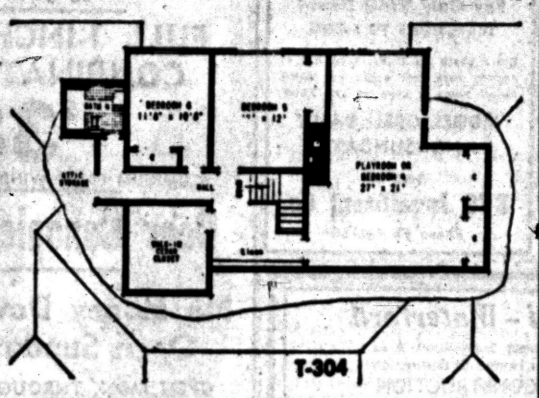

You can wander around in this house. From the front entrance porch, which is 33 feet long and paved with random laid flags, you enter a gracious center hall. From this point, space flows in open planning through living room and dining room. A low planting box to define the front hall gives the living room a full sweep from front to rear.

A feature of the master bedroom is a dressing alcove with two wardrobe walls. This bedroom measures more than 16 by 17 feet. Its private bath has a separate compartment for toilet and linen storage.

Specifications for this home include brick veneer front and sides with a stone facing under the front entrance porch. The two-story rear is sided with clapboards. A roof of 210-pound asphalt shingles laid on 35-pound waterproof paper is recommended. Oak flooring, mineral wool insulation, gypsum wallboard and wood gutters are suggested.

The house covers 2,610 square feet, excluding garage and covered porches. Overall dimensions are 81 by 50 feet. These statistics can be used as a guide for obtaining rough building estimates. Contractors who have erected homes of similar size in a locality can judge the approximate building cost before computing firm estimates from working drawings.

(See Page 18 for Additional Pictures and Coupons)

SECOND FLOOR PLAN — Three more bedrooms and a third bath are located on the second floor. There is also a large walk-in cedar closet and a built-in linen cabinet.

Claims U.S. Betters Europe in Furniture

CHICAGO (INS)—Paris may set the trends in women's fashions but when it comes to furniture, America is the style leader.

So asserted Mal Flesham, president of the Chicago Furniture Manfacturer's Association, after surveying the furniture industry in Europe.

Flesham told a news conference at the American Furniture Mart that American women have the best choice of home furnishings in the world. He said:

"Furniture that women are allowed to buy in Europe couldn't be given away over here. The high style merchandise from Denmark, Sweden, Italy and England is reserved for export and few of the designs are left on the continent.

"Unlike the American home, styles in Europe have remained the same for the past five years or longer."

Don't forget that sawdust on a workshop floor is considered by fire prevention authorities to be a major fire hazard.

Keep Christmas Tree Fresh, Safe With Water

Make sure your Christmas tree this year is as safe as it is attractive. The way to do it is to keep the butt of the tree in water while it is in the house. Refill the container daily with water as the tree absorbs it.

Keeping the tree in water will help to prevent dryness that may mean a fire hazard. It will also keep the needles from dropping so fast.

It Pays to Shop

Many do-it-yourself hobbyists are learning the hard way that it pays to shop around when buying supplies. For instance, most small home projects take short-length lumber. Bargains can be found at most lumber yards by digging around in the short length bins for fir 2x4s or boards. You can generally find just the length you need with no waste.

Split-Level Home Exhibit Opens in Washington

A new display of split-level home plans and publications will be on exhibition in the National Housing Center this month, Neal J. Hardy, center director, announces.

The National Housing Center is the new $2½ million home of the home building industry. It is located in Washington, D.C., and is dedicated to developing a better understanding of the home building industry on the part of architects, manufacturers, home builders and home buyers.

Pointing out that the split-level home was first created as a solution to the specific problems of sloping land, Hardy says that the display will explain the various types of split-level home construction and their practical application.

"Coupled with the display," Hardy said, "the National Housing Center Library has prepared a bibliography of plans and articles published recently on split-level home construction with pros and cons from the home builder's viewpoint as well as the viewpoint of home buyers."

2-Way Speaker Good for Waking Husband

Is your husband impossible to get up in the morning?

In many households running between the kitchen and bedroom several times in as many minutes to rouse a sleepy-head is the most provoking part of a housewife's daily schedule.

You can, of course, resort to several schemes, such as setting alarm clocks off at minute intervals to do your wake-up job for you.

• • •

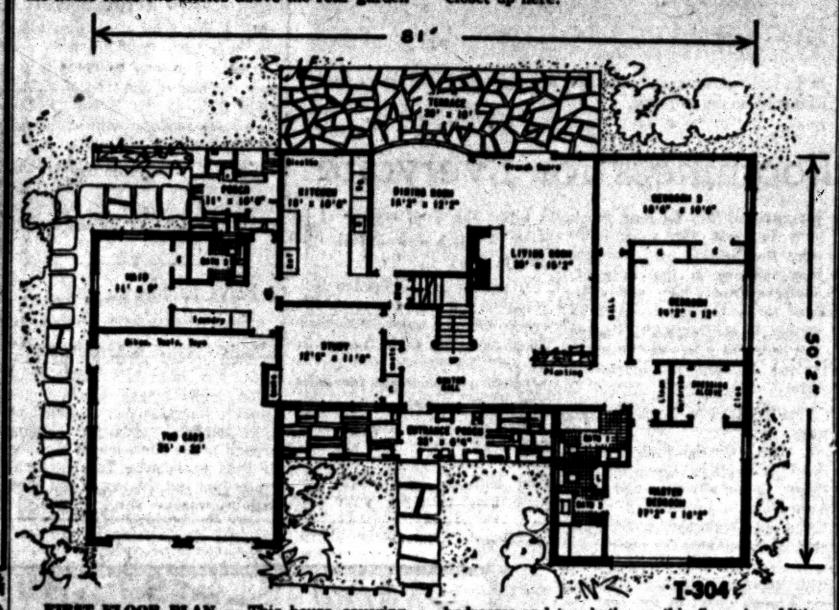

But there is an even better and far less antagonizing method which has recently been developed.

• • •

Install a simple two-way communication system that provides instant voice-to-voice contact, between the two rooms.

REAR ELEVATION — This picture shows how the house rises two stories above the rear garden terrace. There are three bedrooms, bath and cedar closet up here.

FIRST FLOOR PLAN — This house covering 2,610 square feet, has large rooms. The plan is a formal one, with a center hall. There are three bedrooms and two baths on this floor, in addition to the maid's quarters. Overall dimensions are 81 by 50 feet.

Don't paint wooden ladders; use a clear finish that will not hide future defects in the wood.

Fine Wood Paneling Is Low Price Luxury

You don't have to be a millionaire to enjoy fine wood paneling in your home. It's a luxury but not in the sense that it's expensive. When you consider original cost plus maintenance expense, wood paneling is one of the most inexpensive types of wall covering, the National Lumber Manufacturers Assn. points out.

The luxury of wood paneling comes from the distinction it adds to a home interior, from the fact that it's adaptable to any style of architecture, and from the interesting effects created by different texture, grain and color patterns in the wood.

Noted Concord Wins Wooden Bridge Fight

The citizens of historic Concord, Mass., have won a battle to have their storied bridge restored in wood. The original wood structure, famous as the "rude bridge that arched the flood," was the scene of the opening engagement of the Revolutionary War. British troops were met at the span by Colonial Minutemen who fired the "shot heard 'round the world."

Years later, the wood bridge was replaced by a steel and concrete structure. Then, recent floods destroyed the steel and concrete span. Concord's citizenry protested loudly against proposals to erect another steel and concrete structure. Now, the State Commissioner of Public Works has promised that the bridge will be reproduced in wood and made as durable and storm resistant as one of other materials.

1956 CEDAR CHEST — This is the 1956 version of the sentimental cedar chest. The styling tells you it will fit into any room in your home. Beautiful parquetry paneled doors in quartered American walnut make this a distinctive piece of furniture. All cedar interior has two sliding trays for easy accessibility.

Remove That Sizing

When you're preparing to paint a wall that has just had wallpaper removed from it, be sure to wash off any sizing or wallpaper paste that may remain. When the surface is dry, put on a coat of wall primer and allow it to dry overnight before applying your final coat of color.

Water Softener Saves Money

How would you like to save better than $16 a month—and without even trying?

* * *

You can be $200 richer at the end of the year simply by installing a home water softener, says the Plumbing and Heating Industries Bureau.

Hard water, the Bureau points out, exacts a hidden tribute from the household budget—makes it cost more than it should to run a home.

It takes more soap, detergent, and bleach to get things clean with hard water.

MORE SHAMPOO, TOO

Shampooing compounds are used up at an excessive rate in hard water, and more lotion has to be used to combat the drying and roughening effects of hard water salts on hands and complexion.

Clothing, because of the fiber-weakening effect of hard water soap curd buildup, wears out 25 per cent sooner.

Hard water scale buildup in water heating equipment acts as an insulator, preventing heat from getting through and running up the fuel bill.

Expensive plumbing repair bills are incurred when scale-choked piping has to be cleaned—or perhaps even replaced — to restore normal water pressure.

* * *

All these and other hard water costs — figured at a conservative $16.70 per month by government agencies and private research organizations—can be converted to savings with a water softener.

To clean "good" silver in a hurry, place it in an aluminum pan filled with boiling salt water and polish with soft cloth or chamois.

Work of Artists Bought by Yard-for Draperies

CHICAGO (INS)—Women who can't afford expensive oil paintings by Picasso, Chagall or Dufy can now buy them by the yard—for chair seats or draperies.

Slubbed cotton fabrics imprinted with paintings by artists of the modern impressionist school were exhibited at the International Home Furnishings Market in Chicago.

Some of the prints are actual transfers of an entire painting and others are a mixture of the characteristic motifs and colors assembled from he life works of the artist.

Women can choose Picasso's cube designs; Chagall's pastel drawings of floral bouquets or romantic figures and Dufy's black-line etchings of French landmarks, screens from Cannes, the famed resort.

Also available will be a mural of mobiles by Mirro and a pattern of small lines and abstract structural shapes by Leger.

When the knob comes off a pot lid, run a screw from the under side of the cover into a large cork. It will last a long time and you won't burn fingers.

DISPOSABLE BROILER TRAY—You can now buy a disposable broiler tray that captures dripping fats and prevents spattering of grease on oven walls. Made of metal foil, the tray has deep grooves at the bottom to prevent foods from broiling in their own fat. The reinforced corners make it easy to pour the fats off. Much faster broiling and lower fuel costs result from the extra heat reflected from the bottom of the aluminum tray.

Don't Make This Mistake When You Finish Building

The budget-minded family that puts stair coverings in the "buy later" category when furnishing a new home makes three mistakes that may be costly.

* * *

Stairs take a more concentrated beating than even the traffic-heavy kitchen. Uncovered stairs may lead to falls. And the sound of little feet running up and down the stairs is more clatter than patter.

The need for protecting stairways from wear and tear is pointed up by a "foot traffic" study made by Mrs. Rhoda Stillman, Chicago home economist.

"Not only does every member of the family use the stairway many times daily, but each follows nearly the same path up and down the center," the economist discovered. "As a result, the center of each step gets more concentrated wear than any other area in the house."

The danger of falls is greatly increased by the industrious homemaker who takes pride in a well-polished stairway, Mrs. Stillman says.

SAFETY HAZARD

"Wax may protect the wood and give it a nice glow, but it's also a safety hazard. Wax the outer edges of the steps and the hand rail, but cover the traffic area with something your feet can get a grip on. The same covering will deaden the clatter of always-in-a-hurry children."

Attractive stair coverings need not make a big hole in the furnishing budget if carpet-like rubber threads are used, Mrs. Stillman points out.

"Rubber stair coverings for both steps and risers have lost their crude 'read entrance' look and are available in many colors and patterns with a deceptively carpet-like appearance and texture. Matching landing pads and hall runners also are available. And there's a choice between conventional rubber with thick, soft foam rubber padding or without.

* * *

For the amateur do-it-yourselfer, the carpet-threads now come in a kit complete with adhesive materials, upholstery tacks and instructions for installation.

Not All Enamel Flows

An enamel is sometimes described as a "special kind of paint which flows out to a smooth coat when applied and dries to a smooth, glossy, relatively hard solid when exposed in a thin film to the air. An enamel always contains pigment and has considerable hiding power and color. Some enamels dry to a flat or eggshell finish instead of a gloss finish."

Candlestick Lighter

A new light is put on the dinner table. It is a replica of a candle with an outer shell of plastic and an inner fuel cartridge. The asbestos wick of the candle burns lighter fluid at a cost of about three cents for four hours on one filling. The candles come in 16 colors either plain or twist and 10 or 12 inches high. They fit any candlestick.

Shortages Are Over

Home building is no longer based on a housing shortage or other necessity, but rather on the desire of families with rising incomes to own bigger and better homes. This is the conclusion of the United States Savings and Loan League in its "Policies — 1956," a series of recommendations to the league's 4,200 member institutions. "The market for new houses should be very good throughout 1956," says the executive committee.

Area Building Costs Go Higher

New home costs, despite the fact that builders are employing every known production technique to effect economies and hold sales prices in line, are edging upward this winter, according to Rodney M. Lockwood, president of the Builders Association of Metropolitan Detroit.

• • •

Cost of labor, building materials and land all increased during 1955, he noted, and there are no present indications the upward trend will be halted. In fact, Lockwood added, full impact of the increasing costs will not be felt until late spring, when the "new crop" of 1956 homes enters the market.

Land costs, the Builders Association president pointed out, have more than doubled since 1946 in this area and increased about one-fifth during 1955. Materials, including lumber, cement, hardware and plumbing equipment, all took price upturns during last year, although some others, notably gypsum products, heating equipment and millwork, held the line or decreased slightly.

Building trades unions in 1955 negotiations with the Builders Association were granted an average wage increase of 10 cents an hour, bringing the average craftsman's hourly pay to $3, Lockwood added. Materials and labor costs, in the aggregate, increased about 4 per cent during 1955.

The increase in materials and labor costs alone amounts to about $600 on a $15,000 house, the Builders Association official continued. Higher land cost adds another $600 to the home price, compared to this time last year.

• • •

Many new homes now on the market, Lockwood concluded, do not reflect fully the rising costs of the last year. Anyone contemplating purchase of a new home would be well advised to do his shopping now before the spring building season, he said.

Christmas candles can be kept straight and steady in their holders if a little melted paraffin is poured into the sockets just before candles are inserted.

DINING ORIGINALITY — Matching placemats and draperies give any dining room inviting warmth, color and originality. In the picture above, burlap which comes in a range of decorative colors, was used for the draperies and placemats and edged with a Greek Key braid. Permette, a stiffening material that comes by the yard, has been used as a backing. Permette can be cut with scissors, is heat resistant and washable.

Watch the Curve Use in Furniture

CHICAGO (INS) — Watch those curves when you are furnishing your home, madame — too many of them in furniture will appear to make a room whirl like a merry-go-round.

That is the opinion of Harold Schwartz, who designs furniture and also swank houses in the United States, Italy, Mexico and France.

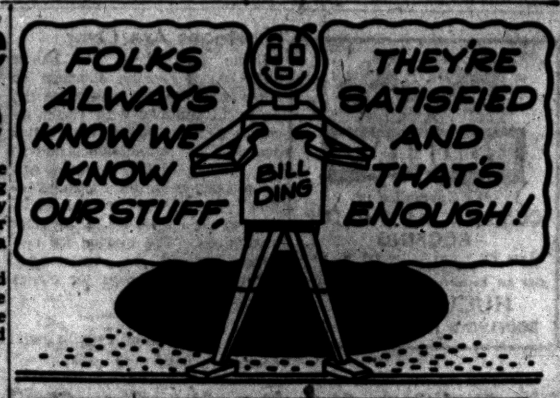

Schwartz, one of the leading U. S. designers of contemporary furniture, is soft-pedalling curves in his collection of new designs introduced at the current International Home Furnishings Market in Chicago.

As a man who helped start the rounded, "sculptured" look in furniture for modern living heeds, Schwartz asserted in an interview that most of it "has too many curves" nowadays.

Schwartz contends that curves in furniture should be as carefully ladeled out in a room as they are in women's fashions. He said:

"The hardest thing in the world to design is a woman's simple suit, well cut, to be worn from one year to the next without seeming to go out of style.

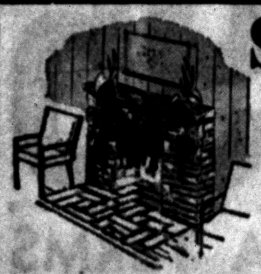

"Such clothing is a background for the person who wears them and pieces of furniture also should be a background rather than dominate the room or the people living in it."

Potholders Add to Kitchen Unity

CHICAGO (INS)—If you are doing over your kitchen, don't overlook the pot holders. They should be part of the color scheme, too.

Pot holders, towels and aprons are to kitchens what ashtrays and candy dishes are to living rooms—useful but decorative accessories.

* * *

Or at least they should be, according to New York Decorator Melanie Kahane.

"Too often," said Miss Kahane, "Women use any old pot holder or towel in an otherwise carefully decorated kitchen.

"These details count just as much as other accessories do elsewhere in the house. They can't always be whisked out of sight."

Miss Kahane, who specializes in kitchen interiors, developed several model settings for new candy-colored appliances exhibited at the International Home Furnishings Market in Chicago.

FABRICS, TOO

Besides working up mouth-watering color schemes of pale green and mint aqua; lemon yellow and frosting pink; nougat gray with sugar white, she designed fabrics to go with them.

The cottons are keyed to the new colors and have penny candy jars or bon bons drawn on a background of old-fashioned gingham checks.

Miss Kahane used them for cafe curtains on the windows; place mats on the island breakfast bars; aprons, pot holders and kitchen mitts.

* * *

Any woman can do the same thing with other prints on solid color materials and achieve a "decorator look" in her kitchen, said Miss Kahane.

In furniture for modern living, designers are using influences from all over the world from centuries past. These include Italian and French provincial, early American, Scandinavian and Biedermeier.

They Help Painting

The top flaps of some cardboard cartons are convenient accessories when you're painting. They can be used as cardboard trays on which you can place both a paint can and a brush. The "tray" makes it an easy matter to move the paint from place to place.

Region's Trunkline System Overloaded and Outdated

Editor's Note: This is the eighth in a series on the highway situation condensed from the booklet, "Wagon Roads to Expressways," to be published by the Oakland County Planning Commission.

Do our present road systems function efficiently? — the answer is a qualified "No."

Most of the state trunkline system in the Oakland-Wayne-Macomb area is badly overloaded. Many sections are built to outdated standards with winding alignments making it almost impossible to pass safely.

In some sections, short-trip traffic is forced to use state roads designed for longer hauls. Oakland's whole south half fails to function properly as a system.

The county "primary" network is the system of major routes not designated state trunklines or federal interstate routes. Many "primary" connections need rebuilding and widening to supply the needed capacity.

The county secondary system links with primary and state roads to service rural-recreational areas. Practically all remain either dirt or gravel surfaced.

The county road commissions are responsible for maintaining and expanding the primary and secondary system, which totaled 5,607 miles in 1954.

Generally, the present setup functions fairly well in areas not adjacent to Detroit. The closer to Detroit, the greater the congestion.

To solve the muddle, highways in our populous area need to have their capacity expanded and be converted to serve only one type of traffic.

Future highways must handle only traffic from abutting property, business or industry, through traffic, home-to-work flow or aroun business and shopping centers.

Many of our roads today are misused through having to carry every type of trip. For example, when a residential street has to carry through traffic, the system is not functioing properly.

In Memoriam 2

IN LOVING MEMORY OF DELLA Hall who passed away one year ago Jan. 22.
Somewhere back of the sunset,
Where lovliness never dies.
She lives in the land of glory,
Mid the blue and gold of the sky.
Gone from us who loved her,
Into the heaven of rest,
To the home of our loving Savior
Sweetly her soul; to rest.
Her life is a beautiful memory,
Her absence is silent grief.
She is sleeping in God's beautiful garden.
In the sunset of perfect peace.
Sadly missed by children, May, Lila, Dorothy, Floyd and families.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF LOUIS Spadafore, who passed away Jan. 21, 1954.
Nothing can ever take away
The love a heart holds dear,
Fond memories linger every day,
Remembrance keeps him near.
Sadly missed by Mrs. Louis Spadafore and sons, Paul, Guy and Sam, and daughters, Teresa, Esther and Genevieve.

Passenger, Not Driver

The Press in Thursday's paper incorrectly stated William M. Clarkson, 16, of 2323 Silver Circle, was a driver in a two-car accident Wednesday. Pontiac Police said today that Clarkston was a passenger in a car driven by Max Steyens, 16, of 2607 Williams St.

Rickey and Barber Plot New Video Sports Show

By JACK O'BRIAN

NEW YORK (INS) — Branch Rickey and Red Barber have a nifty sports show project for TV: The 74-year-young Rickey answering perceptive queries posed by reporter Barber . . . Sounds like the answer to a lot of sportscast fumbling . . .

Big obstacle in the proposed shiftaround of Jackie Gleason's 'Stage Show" and "Honeymooners' 'is the CBS-TV deal with the following Herb Shriner show: It must follow Gleason . . .

Now a deal is a-cooking to spot the fat one to start even with Perry Como at 8 p.m, followed by Shriner, the vacated time to be filled by a filmed series, "Joe and Mabel," now in production and considered the sort of "sleeper" that "Mr. Peepers" was originally . . .

Big hurdle—the "Stage Show" ownership (Gleason) would have to be paid off, as would contracts of the Dorsey Brothers and June Taylor. They all signed for a year, fully expecting to triumph over all opposition, instead of vice versa.

COMO THE WINNER

Como really has fractured his competition. Trendex told the story this way: Perry 33.6 vs. "Stage Show's" 14.9; Perry 30.9 vs. 23.8 for "The Honeymooners," or an average of 32.2 to 19.3.

The new Nielson shows the first drop from the top of "The $64,000 Q." . . . The Ed Sullivan Show moved up.

The powerful NBC combination of Dinah Shore, Perry Como, Gisele MacKenzie beat CBS' Phil Silvers by only two Trendex points.

Jill Corey sings on CBS-radio's "On a Sunday Afternoon" this Sunday and starts regularly on the new "Stewart Foster Show" arriving Jan. 28 (CBS radio) . . .

Judy Garland signed for a General Electric TV show but the sponsor nixed conductor - composer Leonard Bernstein, who'd been suggested by Judy . . .

OFF TO HOLLYWOOD

Lee Meriwether (Miss America '55) shuffles off to H'wood to star in Tuesday's NBC Matinee Theater . . .

NBC is encouraging new TV playwrights, airing five plays by brand new TV authors all next week on Matinee Theater . . .

Sen. George of Georgia celebrates his 78th birthday on "Face the Nation" Jan. 29.

Godfrey's new Japanese singer phrases like our finest domestic songstresses . . .

ABC-TV hopes to recover fine old big band memories when it starts "Music From Meadowbrook," starring Ralph Flanagan's band next Thursday night, over Kate Smith's Jan. 29 date on the the full ABC-TV network . . . with a string of Bells of Sarna. The one on display was painted red.

Ed Sullivan Show has been canceled . . . back later probably . . .

Asks Death Penalty for Narcotic Sellers

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP)—The stat legislature yesterday received a bill that would make the offense of selling narcotics to persons under 21 punishable by death in Kentucky.

The measure would change a law now providing a maximum sentence of life in the penitentiary. The bill proposes that the minimum sentence be 20 years confinement.

It was introduced by State Sen. Cecil C. Sanders (D-Lancaster).

New Presidents for East Rails

McGinnis Takes Post at Boston; Alpert Named to New Haven Seat

NEW YORK (AP)—Both the New Haven and the Boston & Maine Railroads have new presidents. Patrick B. McGinnis quit the New Haven to head th B. & M., while Boston corporation lawyer George Alpert was elected to succeed McGinnis.

• • •

McGinnis, following up his announcement of last Wednesday, yesterday resigned from the New Haven. About seven hours later he was elected president of the B. & M. The line, came under control of McGinnis' allies last April after a proxy fight. The B. & M. had no president.

The New Haven directors elected the 58-year-old Alpert at a special meeting following acceptance of McGinnis' resignation.

Alpert has practiced law in Boston 35 years, is a former assistant district attorney and a founder of Bandeis University. He has been a director of the New Haven since McGinnis won control less than two years ago.

Seek Law Change

LUDINGTON (AP) — The Mason County Board of Supervisors has voted to ask the State Legislature to change a law and allow the board to build a convalescent home in neighboring Scottville. The Michigan Supreme Court has ruled that the board does not now have authority to change the site of the present home.

A-Blasts Help Profs Probe Earth's Heart

ANN ARBOR (AP) — A Harvard University professor says atomic explosions have produced two new types of earthwaves which help geologists learn more about the earth's interior.

Prof. L. Don Leet told a University of Michigan audience that geologists have been able to determine accurately the time the waves take to travel through the earth.

They have learned, he said, that the earth's crust is about 20 miles thick and probably cyrstalline. Below the crust, he said, there is a mantle-like region 1,800 miles wide made up of material strong enough to withstand stresses of short duration.

Below the mantle is the earth's core made up of a liquid portion 1,360 miles thick and an apparently solid portion 790 miles thick.

A modern jet fighter plane is said to contain enough electric wiring to complete the circuits and services for 38 six-room modern houses.

Mansion to Be Convent

DETROIT (AP) — Plans were announced Friday to convert the former mansion of the late Walter O. Briggs sr. at 700 W. Boston Blvd, into a convent for the Dominican Sisters of the Sick Poor. The sisters are registered nurses who visit the homes of persons unable to afford medical attention.
