Jobless Bill Wins Senate OK

Richmond Torn Asunder by Choice of Reuther

RICHMOND (AP) — An invitation to United Auto Workers President Walter P. Reuther to address the graduation class at Richmond High School has stirred up a controversy in this Macomb County community.

Reuther had accepted the invitation to speak to the 70 graduates at their June 11 commencement exercises.

Now the Board of Education plans to meet with Reuther Thursday or Friday to try to stop the whole thing, one way or another.

"I wanted to get someone of national prominence into our community to give our seniors a memorable graduation exercise," said Nelson.

Reuther accepted the invitation on March 13. One week later, a group of parents filed a petition with the board, asking that the selection of a speaker be reconsidered. The petition, signed by 51 parents, did not specify Reuther by name.

But it said the Board should select "someone associated with the field of education, rather than a leader in a highly controversial field."

"We intend to tell him (Reuther) what's going on and ask him what he thinks we should do," said Harold Weller, Board president.

"We will not be asking him to cancel out, but we feel he'll know the right thing to do. After all, we really can't do justice to him. We'd need a much larger auditorium."

The protest was led by three parents of graduating seniors. They were Clarence Ruhmann, a bank cashier, Leslie C. Dittman, a service station operator, and Clifford Hensch, a funeral director.

★ ★ ★

"We're not picking on Reuther," said Ruhman. "He happens to be the fall guy. If Henry Ford was invited, we'd feel the same way."

Nelson said he was stunned by the protests and would not budge on the invitation unless the Board ordered a change.

Reuther, in accepting the invitation, wrote Nelson:

"I am moved by your observation that too often people of prominence choose not to be bothered with small communities and I am, therefore, pleased to advise you that I will accept your kind invitation."

$3.6 Million Loss Forecast If Fund Used

State Senate Informed of Costs Involved in Mortgaging Plan

LANSING (AP)—The Senate Appropriations Committee was told today that Gov. Williams' veterans trust fund mortgaging plan would result in a total net cost to the state general fund of $3,671,000.

The testimony came from Alfred B. Fitt, legal advisor to the governor, who said cost estimates ranging up to 20 million dollars were erroneous.

Fitt went through a long explanation of his calculations and apparently satisfied committee members as to their substantial validity, judging from the absence of critical questioning.

Fitt offered a series of amendments to the bill which he said he believed would eliminate necessity for a court test of the mortgaging plan in the event it is enacted.

If court test is necessary, it would delay actual conversion of trust fund securities to cash anywhere from two to six weeks, thereby enhancing the possibility of payless paydays.

Liquidation of the 50-million-dollar trust fund would produce an estimated 43 million dollars at the current market for a loss of seven millions.

State officials have indicated the general fund will run dry some time around May 1 unless it is replenished.

OBJECTIONS VOICED

Mild objections to mortgaging were voiced at the hearing by Lawrence J. Lalone, director of the trust fund, and by Carl Matheny of Detroit, American Legion legislative chairman and a former state commander.

Both said they were disturbed over the lack of firm guarantees that the trust fund would be reestablished in its present form after the proposed transfer of securities was made to the state universities as collateral for bank loans, and to the state public school employes retirement fund.

Lalone and Matheny welcomed a suggestion from Sen. Edward Hutchinson (R-Fennville) that the Legislature provide for an 'auto-

Princess Grace Will Undergo Appendectomy

The former Hollywood movie star was accompanied by her husband, Prince Rainier III; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John B. Kelly of Philadelphia, Pa.; a Philadelphia surgeon, Dr. James A. Lehman; her private secretary; and 900 pounds of baggage.

Dr. Lehman reportedly will perform the operation at Lausanne. He arrived with Mr. and Mrs. Kelly from Philadelphia Saturday.

Grace's sister, Mrs. Donald C. LeVine, said in Philadelphia that the princess has had several attacks of appendicitis recently.

"It was nothing serious," Mrs. LeVine said. "She finally decided to have the appendix taken out before it did get serious."

Sets Nov. 1 Date for Small Chevy

Unofficial Report Says Car to Be in Production at Willow Run

YPSILANTI (AP)—General Motors' new smaller wheelbase car will be in production at the Chevrolet plant in nearby Willow Run by Nov. 1, according to the Ypsilanti Daily Press.

The paper said it learned from reliable industry sources that the new car will carry the name Chevrolet with a series designation.

The Press said the car will be powered with an engine of less than 100 horsepower. It added:

"The new Chevrolet will have a six-cylinder engine and a wheelbase of a little more than 100 inches. Mileage is expected to exceed 25 miles per gallon.

"Reliable industry sources described the new model to the Daily Press as a "personalized utility car.' It will sell for 'less than $2,000' and there will be just one model, the four-door sedan.

★ ★ ★

"The new model will have deluxe, optional equipment which will further personalize the product but the new car will not replace the standard Chevrolet."

General Motors offices in Detroit made no immediate comment about the reported plans to put the new smaller unit in production in Willow Run.

The company so far has said only that it has been studying the smaller car market and would enter it if it showed promise of profit and permanency.

GOP Approves Measure Over Dem Protests

House Unlikely to Pass Plan to Extend Benefits to July 1

From Our News Wires

LANSING —Republicans whisked a controversial jobless pay bill through the Senate last night over protests of labor leaders and filibustering Democrats.

The bill, which would permit 28,700 Michigan workers to continue receiving federally-extended job insurance benefits until July 1, was passed by a 20-11 party line vote but failed to get the necessary two-thirds vote for immediate effect.

There was scant chance the 23-page bill would pass the House in its present form.

Its three main provisions would:

1. Bring Michigan under the federal extension of the temporary unemployment compensation program, enabling an estimated 28,700 jobless persons whose benefits otherwise would expire tomorrow to go on receiving them for up to 13 weeks more.

2. Short circuit future applications of state Supreme Court doctrine announced two months ago in a decision awarding jobless pay benefits to Detroit area Ford workers idled in 1953 as the result of a strike at an Ohio Ford plant.

3. Raise maximum regular benefit levels either $1 or $2. The proposed new ceilings would range from $35 a week for a single man to $57 for a married man with four minor dependents.

★ ★ ★

In addition, the bill would make nine other changes in existing law, most of them restricting its coverage for comparatively small groups of presently eligible claimants.

BOOST WEEKLY PAY

Republicans made much of the fact their bill would boost maximum weekly jobless pay benefits by one or two dollars, depending on family classification.

"Under the present law the legislature is committed to increase benefits as living costs

Application 'Error' Admitted by Straley

By MAX E. SIMON

After denying all charges against him, Herbert W. Straley admitted last night he falsified his application for employment as Pontiac police chief in 1951.

The suspended chief made the admission before the Civil Service Commission after being handed a photostatic copy of his job application by prosecution attorney A. Floyd Blakeslee.

Straley had just finished telling the Commission he was fired from the Flint police force in 1932 by Chief Caesar J. Scarvada.

"I was one of 24 fired from the department," Straley said. "The reason given for our dismissal was 'economy' but it was really political.

NO PLACE ON FORM

"After six weeks, I was back on the department because of another political upheaval."

Confronted with his application, Straley acknowledged writing that he had never been discharged from public service.

"I didn't deliberately leave it out," Straley said.

The chief asserted that nowhere on the application was there a place to mention that he had been rehired.

"I couldn't find any place to explain I got my job back, and I didn't write about my dismissal," Straley told the Commission.

Earlier in the evening Straley said City Manager Walter K. Willman refused to file charges against then-Dectective Herbert C. Cooley, who on his application for employment and promotion wrote he never had been arrested.

Straley said Cooley, now a sergeant, "perjured himself."

DOESN'T THINK SO

"Didn't you think that your falsifying your application was just as bad as his doing that?" Straley was asked by Blakeslee.

"No sir, I don't think so," Straley asserted.

Under his direction, Straley said, the Police Department has solved all murders in recent years and nearly 100 per cent of all other major crimes.

He said no planning and research unit was established by him because of a manpower shortage. "I felt that patrolmen were needed out on the street to give service and protection to the community," Straley replied.

"I certainly can't understand why I'm accused of not delegating authority to subordinate officers," he declared. "They certainly have not been doing nothing for the past several years."

He called the report of the Public Administration Service of Chicago highly critical of the department. "It was unjustly so," Straley said. "Its object was to belittle and ridicule me."

The chief said he seldom discussed the report with City Manager Walter K. Willman because "the manager knew how I felt about it." It was agreed, Straley said, to wait until Public

Decision Vowed Before Monday

Commission to Rule in Straley Case Despite Lack of Record

Pontiac Civil Service Commissioners appeared determined today to render a decision on the Herbert W. Straley hearing before Monday, despite the fact that they won't have a complete official transcript of the proceedings to study.

Commissioners Stuart A. Austin and Theodore Carlson have been taking extensive notes to which they can refer in lieu of a transcript, said Austin, and Commissioner Gerald Guinan said the latest sessions of the hearing are "still fresh in my mind, anyway."

Court reporters, who have been recording the reams of testimony from the long hearing, stated flatly today that the transcript of the proceedings will not be finished by Monday, when Pontiac voters are scheduled to pass on Civil Service repeal.

"It would be impossible to have the transcript finished by then, even if the hearing concluded at tonight's session," declared Charles Hauser, one of the two reporters in the Oakland County Reporters firm, which is preparing the official record of the hearings.

"We might be able to get the transcript finished next week when more secretarial help is available. But that's a guess," he said.

Having determined to hurdle difficulties over the transcript, Commissioners have decided to begin tomorrow's session at 4 p.m., 3½ hours earlier than usual,

FROM OUR NEWS WIRES

WASHINGTON—The Supreme Court, splitting chiefly along liberal and conservative lines, ruled late yesterday that state and federal governments can both prosecute an offender for the same act.

The court's three leading liberals, Chief Justice Earl Warren and justices William O. Douglas and Hugo L. Black, dissented in both cases. Each involved the constitutional guarantee against double jeopardy.

Justice William J. Brennan Jr. joined the three in one decision which upheld a state conviction despite an earlier federal acquittal. He said federal officers engineered the state prosecution when their actions in the federal court failed.

Black asserted that that case, settled by a 5 to 4 decision, marked the first time the Supreme Court ever had sanctioned a state prosecution after a federal acquittal.

Black also protested there would be "victims of such double prosecutions" who often will be those "without friends in high places."

Brennan Jr. commented there are now "no restraints on the use of state machinery by federal officers to bring what is in effect a second federal prosecution."

It was the first time the Supreme Court has ever specifically ruled that a federal prosecution is no bar to a state prosecution for the same crime. However, in several decisions since 1922 the court has upheld the federal government's right to prosecute persons after they had been prosecuted in state courts.

Brennan wrote the majority opinion in the second case, in which the court upheld a federal conviction in the wake of a state conviction for the same act.

Justice Felix Frankfurter, speaking for the majority, said that a number of states have laws barring a second prosecution if the defendant has been tried by the federal government for a similar offense. The situation, he said, raises problems with which the states are more competent to deal than the Supreme Court.

In his dissent Brennan said: "It is exactly this kind of successive prosecution by federal officers that the fifth amendment was intended to prohibit."

The Fifth amendment guarantees that no person shall be "subject for the same offense to be twice put in jeopardy of life or limb."

Guidance Group Being Organized

Committee to Offer Social Service to Area Families

Twenty-one community-minded citizens met last night to organize the Pontiac General Citizens Committee on Child and Family Protection and Youth Assistance, a group which proposes to give social guidance to emotionally upset people.

The dinner meeting at the Oakland County Children's Center was held at the invitation of Probate Judge Arthur E. Moore who has helped to organize similar committees in Madison Heights, Royal Oak, Royal Oak Township, Farmington-Clarenceville, Troy, Milford, Rochester and Hazel Park.

Philip J. Proud, assistant superintendent of Pontiac Schools in charge of personnel, was appointed temporary chairman of the committee, which will seek to reach children and families in need of counseling and guidance before the trouble becomes critical.

The committee also made preparations last night to recommend that a city ordinance be adopted setting up the committee and formulating its policies. City Attorney William Ewart will be asked to draw up the ordinance.

A case work or executive committee of the organization, made up of professional social workers, was organized six months ago to take care of referral cases concerning children, teenagers and families in need of guidance and help.

The 16 persons asked to serve on the general Citizens Committee were Monroe Osmun, a member of the Oakland County and Pontiac boards of education; Mrs. William Anderson, president of the Pontiac Parent-Teacher Association Council; John W. Fitzgerald, editor of The Pontiac

Gus Scholle Hits GOP on Jobless Pay

LANSING (AP)—Gus Scholle, state AFL-CIO president, said last night, "The Republican party is again trying to capitalize on the hunger and empty bellies of unemployed workers."

"They offer fishhooks of disqualifications instead of bread to Michigan's unemployed citizens," Scholle said in commenting on a GOP-sponsored unemployment compensation bill approved by the Senate.

However, Sen. John P. Smeekens (R-Coldwater), one of the sponsors of the bill, said Republicans "are making an honest effort to do something for the unemployed."

"Benefits for thousands of workers expire Wednesday. Something must be done."

Meanwhile, Walter P. Reuther, United Auto Workers president, denounced the unemployment bill passed in the State Senate last night.

"The Republican-sponsored proposal . . . to amend the State Unemployment Compensation Law is a devious attempt to write into the statute a series of restrictive and punitive measures which the GOP has been unsuccessful in having enacted in years past," Reuther said yesterday.

Warn India Against Interfering

Tibet Revolt Burns on, Reds Admit

From Our News Wires

NEW DELHI—Communist China admitted today the Tibetan revolution is still smoldering and warned foreign nations — chiefly India — against interfering in China's "internal affairs."

The warning broadcast by Peiping Radio coincided with reports the Dalai Lama was nearing the Indian border and that he might seek asylum in India once India's position is clarified.

The Chinese Communists were reported seeking to cut off the Dalai Lama in his flight to the border, and unconfirmed reports said the Reds had dropped paratroops south of the Brahmaputra River to try to cut him off.

(The London Daily Telegraph in a dispatch from Kalimpong said the Dalai Lama was believed to have crossed the Great River into rebel-held areas the Chinese Reds have not previously managed to penetrate.)

A group of 100 Tibetans called on Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru today and handed him appeals asking him to take the Tibetan issue before the United Nations.

NEHRU SYMPATHETIC

Nehru previously refused to meet the Tibetan delegations but today they called at his home and asked him to use his influence to guarantee the safety of the Dalai Lama, to protest the destruction of Tibetan monasteries by the Communists and to try to preserve Tibetan autonomy.

Nehru yesterday expressed sympathy for the Tibetans and rejected Chinese Communist warnings that the Indian Parliament should not discuss China's "internal affairs."

He predicted "ultimate victory" for Tibetans fighting Chinese Communist rule but urged them to be patient.

Nehru gave his soothing counsel to the delegation of refugees as Red China offered leniency to Tibetan rebels who surrender. Peiping warned that "those who stubbornly resist will be punished."

The Chinese Reds insist Tibetan rebels abducted the Dalai Lama and whisked him off to south Tibet. Refugee circles in India say the ruler fled to escape Communist capture and is now with holdout forces in south Tibet.

The Reds have elevated the rival Panchen Lama in the missing ruler's place but indicated they would again make the Dalai Lama head of the local Tibetan government if he returns and collaborates with them.

Big 3 Ministers Seek Unity

State Senate Passes Jobless Aid Measure

go up," Williams said. "But the increases in this bill are cleverly limited to those in the maximum earnings brackets.

"The effect would be to deny any cost of living increase to about 46 per cent of the unemployed."

Sen. John P. Smeekens (R-Coldwater), chief sponsor of the Senate bill, concluded a lengthy explanation of its terms:

"We do not go into any new concepts but merely clarify what has been the intention of the employment security law since its inception."

RULES OUT SUBSIDY

Smeekens described this portion as an assertion of the "long-standing intent" of the legislature, with the main purpose of ruling out any subsidy of strikes out of unemployment compensation funds.

The Coldwater Republican said it also would avoid penalizing companies with employes at more than one location and "safeguard the principle that unemployment compensation must favor neither party in a labor dispute."

Some of the so-called minor provisions of the bill would:

Deny jobless pay benefits to persons receiving workmen's compensation checks as the result of a factory injury.

Write in an "incentive plan" governing odd job earnings that could be retained by unemployed persons receiving jobless pay benefits.

'Might Have Avoided Crash'

Santa Rosa Captain Testifies He Broke Rule Turning Left

NEW YORK (AP)—The captain of the Grace liner Santa Rosa testified Monday that "in all probability" he could have avoided a collision with the tanker Vlachem by turning right, instead of left.

★ ★ ★

★ ★ ★

★ ★ ★

The ships collided in fog about 22 miles off Atlantic City, N.J., last Thursday morning. A gash was ripped in the liner's bow. The engine room of the tanker was hit, causing the death of four of the 39 crewmen aboard.

★ ★ ★

Liner Captain Frank S. Siwik told the Coast Guard investigating board that when it became apparent the two ships would pass close together he relied on speed to avoid collision.

★ ★ ★

After the 50-year-old captain told of ordering a left turn three minutes before the crash, he was asked:

"Instead of going left at approximately 2:57 a.m., had you gone right would you have avoided a collision?"

"In all probability," he replied.

Flint Will Sell Weekly Tickets to Bus Riders

FLINT (AP) — Sale of $3 weekly tickets for adult bus riders was approved last night by the Flint City Commission.

The tickets will be sold at three downtown retail stores and go into use April 6. Ticket holders will not be required to pay the five-cent transfer fee paid by regular passengers, the commission said.

Regular fare on Flint City Coach Line Inc. buses will continue at 25 cents a ride. Bus service in Flint has been on a six-day-a-week basis since last month when drivers and maintenance men ended a five-day strike.

At that time, the bus line said it would not be able to meet the strikers' demands unless the transfer fee was approved by the Commission.

The bus line operators said they hope the weekly-ticket plan will increase revenue.

matic, continuing annual appropriation of about $1,200,000—the amount required to support aid to veterans now financed from trust fund income.

WOULD MAKE 3 BILLS

The House-approved veterans trust fund mortgage bills were up for a hearing today before the Senate Appropriations Committee.

The trust fund plan as adopted by the House last week was contained in four bills.

Fitt drafted a series of "purely technical" amendments that would condense the plan into three bills.

The amendments, some of them suggested by bond attorneys, were aimed at lessening the chance of a court test if the Legislature decided to mortgage the 50-million-dollar fund.

One administration spokesman said the threat of a court test would be "considerably eased" by adoption of the amendments.

Larry Lalone, director of the trust fund, indicated last night he would favor the amendments.

Lalone denied weekend reports that organized veterans were ready to go along with outright liquidation of the fund.

The plan as approved by the House would not liquidate the fund, created in 1943 to assist needy veterans.

Securities from the fund would be used as collateral for loans.

2-Day Meeting to Begin Today

Will Strive for Accord on Three-Fourths of German Problems

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Western Big Three foreign ministers today open a two-day strategy meeting they hope will move them three-fourths of the way toward the united front they need before negotiating with the Soviets.

They are expected to give quick approval to German proposals already drafted by a team of allied working experts during the past month. In a second meeting this afternoon at the State Department they are to review the German outlook with West Germany's Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano.

Acting Secretary of State Christian Herter Jr., substituting for ailing Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, is to represent the United States.

★ ★ ★

Britain's Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd, a veteran of many diplomatic conferences, is to attend along with French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville, another newcomer to such meetings.

Leaving London Monday night, Lloyd pictured the meeting as an opportunity to coordinate Allied policy. He said he anticipated discussing problems fully and frankly.

MAIN WORRY

The results of the sessions are to be made known to the full 15-nation Atlantic Pact Council which begins a 10th anniversary meeting here Thursday. The Berlin crisis promises to be the main worry at this three-day conference.

The most important part of the strategy talks probably will come Wednesday when all four foreign policy chiefs consider how to reconcile their remaining differences.

The four allies have pretty much decided on a master "package" offer to the Soviets which would seek to solve the long-range problem of how to unite East and West Germany while providing security to the rest of Europe.

But they are understood to be far apart on a short-term plan for dealing with the Soviet Union's threat to give East German Communist control of all land, air and water routes to West Berlin.

★ ★ ★

TALK PRIVATELY

Some British authorities are talking privately of negotiating an international status for West Berlin along with promises to curb the anti-Soviet tone of the West Berlin radio.

But American, French and West German authorities are cool to this idea. About the only basis for a combined Western approach appears to be Secretary Dulles' suggestion that the Allies allow East Germans to take over some Soviet responsibilities provided the Soviets openly acknowledge them as their "agents."

The Soviets have given no sign that such an offer would be satisfactory.

The working experts will have four weeks to hammer out their differences. The foreign ministers are to get together again in Paris April 27 for what they hope will be final approval before sitting down at a conference table with the Soviet Union's Andrei Gromyko in Geneva May 11.

Flint Arson Case Falling Apart

By GEORGE T. TRUMBULL JR.

FLINT—The case against Jack D. Thompson, accused as the arson partner of human torch victim Frank H. Kierdorf, appeared in danger of falling apart today.

★ ★ ★

A worried Jerome L. O'Rourke, Genesee County prosecutor, reentered Circuit Court here after a noon recess, determined to pull his case together after two adverse rulings by Circuit Judge Stephen J. Roth and the possibility of a third which would see the 11-woman, 3-man jury directed to find Thompson innocent of arson.

Before recessing the Thompson trial this morning, Judge Roth gave O'Rourke a "second chance" to "show links sufficient to tie the defendant to the crime of arson."

Thompson's attorney, Joseph R. Joseph, asked for the directed verdict.

"The prosecution hasn't proven anything," he declared.

O'Rourke gave a brief, 10-minute summary of why he believed his case against Thompson held water.

But Roth indicated that O'Rourke's arguments weren't sufficient to convince him and told the prosecutor to try again after lunch.

Thompson is charged with helping Kierdorf set fire to a suburban Flint pickup station of the Latreille Cleaners late Aug. 3, a few hours before Kierdorf stumbled into St. Joseph Mercy Hospital with fatal burns covering most of his body.

Thompson and Kierdorf were friends through Flint Teamster Local 332, where both were business agents.

Joseph argued that the prosecution still had not proven that Kierdorf participated in the fire, let alone Thompson, and that a motive in the mystery was only "guessed at, not demonstrated."

★ ★ ★

He said that a half dozen or so witnesses who saw two men at the blaze weren't able to identify who they were, while others who thought they saw Kierdorf after the fire weren't positive in their testimony that Thompson was with him.

Although O'Rourke won one favorable ruling, allowing him to introduce to the jury a 66-page record of statements by Thompson Aug. 7, which O'Rourke claimed revealed "contradictions" in Thompson's alibi, the prosecutor lost on two others.

The defense, Judge Roth ruled, can first, requestion a police witness who said Thompson's fresh fingerprints were found on Kierdorf's car and, second, cross-examine authorities about their handling of the Kierdorf investigations.

Two of the officials whom O'Rourke will have to place on the stand for the benefit of the defense are Atty. Gen. Paul A. Adams, who was in charge of the investigation, and George B. Taylor, chief assistant Oakland County prosecutor.

The court also ruled that O'Rourke must produce Frank's uncle, Herman Kierdorf, and Leaun Harrelson, president of Pontiac Teamster Local 612, if the defense wants to quiz them, but that appeared unlikely.

Most of this morning was taken up with the reading of Thompson's long statement, after which the prosecution rested its case.

The Day in Birmingham

Architect Gets Go-Ahead on Public Library Work

BIRMINGHAM—Construction of the proposed addition to Baldwin Public Library moved a little nearer to reality last night when commissioners voted to have the architect proceed with working plans.

Action was taken after bonding attorneys informed city officials that such a project could be undertaken without a public vote. Whether the entire $151,800-addition will be financed through a bond issue has not yet been decided.

Nearly a year ago commissioners allocated $75,000 for the addition. The project came to a halt when architects Smith, Tarapata and MacMahon revealed the cost would be more than double that.

Commissioners also approved the recommendation of City Engineer Grover R. Serenbetz on asphaltic surfacing for 10 streets at a cost of $56,400.

Guest fee increases for holiday, weekend and early evening play were approved in an effort to relieve overloading of the golf course at Springdale Park at these times.

Commissioners hinted the possibility of limiting the number of times a guest may use the golf course if the fee increase doesn't work.

David Bradt of 267 Abbey Rd. this morning reported the theft of $431 from the cash register of his shop, the Electronic Service Co., 1287 S. Woodward Ave.

Birmingham Police said Bradt told them several boys had been in the shop just before closing time. Entry was later made through an open window.

Birmingham Exchange Club has run head on into the year-old policy adopted by commissioners to permit but one fund-raising drive on city streets per month.

Club officials asked to have May 9 for their annual toothbrush sale. The city's veteran organizations beat them by a week in scheduling their poppy sale for the latter part of May.

The Exchange Club will be asked to select an April date if possible. Sale proceeds are used to finance summer camp programs for underprivileged children in the county, and for the Birmingham Civil Air Patrol Squadron and the Teen Traffic Court.

Reservations for the Congregational Church Women's Club luncheon for April 7 must be made at the church office by Friday.

Following the 12:30 p.m. luncheon, Mrs. Raymond Walmouth, Grosse Pointe Public Library public relations director, will speak on "A Tapestry of Books and People."

He is survived by his sister, Mrs. Margaret K. Pettibone and one nephew, both of Birmingham.

If a decision has not been reached by then, and if voters decide to repeal Civil Service for police, the question would be raised whether the long Straley hearing before the Civil Service Commission is still valid.

Attorney James G. Hartrick said he would advise the commission to render a decision before midnight Sunday, even though there is a technical possibility that a vote Monday to repeal Civil Service won't be effective until the ballots are officially canvassed four days later.

"This is only a technical possibility—it would have to be tested in court and there's no use taking chances if you don't have to," he told the Commission.

NINE SESSIONS BEHIND

Hauser said that his firm today was only finishing the final transcript of the March 11 session.

There are more than 700 pages of proceedings, representing nine evening sessions since March 11, that have not yet been typed up, he said.

★ ★ ★

"If we had been told when we were hired that the proceedings had to be recorded on a day-to-day basis, we might have been able to make different arrangements," said Hauser.

"We could have had typists present at the hearing, typing the record as it occurred.

"However, we were not informed until lately there was any urgency in finishing the transcript.

"We've put an extra man on, working every night from 7 to midnight and next week we should have another typist available all day."

This second typist is working on another hearing elsewhere in the county at present, he explained.

The transcript of the Straley hearing is a legal document and the two court reporters have to follow a complicated procedure to attest to its accuracy.

They take the testimony down on shorthand machines which produce tapes in code. Then they read off the tapes into a dictaphone, to which the typists listen as they type up the record.

Finally, the reporters must proof read the typed records, comparing them to the coded tapes.

Abandoned Infant Found in Car at Midland Hospital

MIDLAND (AP) — Mrs. Stanley Thompson found a little baby girl abandoned in the back seat of the car she had parked at the Midland Hospital last night.

★ ★ ★

The baby was bundled in two blankets and dressed in two blue cotton kimonos. She appeared normal and healthy, under 14 days old, and weighed 5 pounds 2 ounces.

Mrs. Thompson turned the baby over to the hospital. A pediatrician said the baby was not born in a hospital.

Police had no clue as to the identity of the baby. They planned to discuss the case with Probate Court officials.

Typical Early Spring Weather Across Nation

By The Associated Press

Nearly typical early spring weather prevailed across the nation today, with a mixture of mild and clear weather and showers and cloudy skies.

It was mostly fair weather from Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas eastward south of the Ohio River to the south Atlantic coastal states, excluding Florida, which reported considerable cloudiness.

Partly cloudy to cloudy weather, with a sprinkling of showers, was the rule in other parts of the country.

Showers were in prospect for wide areas during the day. More rain was in store for the Pacific Coast from northern California northward to Canada and extending into interior sections of Washington, Oregon and Idaho.

Birmingham Man Sues Toledo Track

Charles P. White of Birmingham and Joseph Levy of Detroit each asked $1,500 for that portion of their $8,500 annual salaries which they claim has not been paid.

Both Levy and White are stockholders in the horse track corporation and were directors until the last annual meeting March 12.

Pontiac General Research Wins Award

Nip Does Wonders on Cold Day

The inebriated gent in the Upper Peninsula who survived a couple of days in a snowbank this winter, (thanks to several pints of whisky, he said) may have taken a tip from a research project at Pontiac General Hospital.

The research showed, among other things, that a tipsy rabbit is not so apt to suffer frostbite as a sober one.

A paper covering results of the research won the coveted Fred M. Collar Award and resulted in a plaque being proudly installed on the walls of Pontiac General.

The award also brought $100 to Dr. David C. Packard, author of the paper, who conducted the experiments under the direction of Dr. Vernon C. Abbott, a Pontiac General staff physician.

The Collar award, named after the University of Michigan surgeon, is considered a distinguished one, because it is the only one of its kind in the country. It is granted for outstanding research in the fields of trauma and nutrition by hospital resident physicians, young doctors who have won their licenses but who have not yet branched out into private practice.

Dr. Packard is a graduate of Baylor College School of Medicine and has been a resident of obstetrics and gynecology at Pontiac General two years.

Dr. Packard's research centered on the idea that circulation of the blood has a lot to do with curbing the ill-effects of frostbite.

★ ★ ★

1. By rapid-thawing of the affected area, a greater amount of tissue is salvable than by slow-thawing.

2. The use of anti-coagulants to prevent blood clotting helps save tissue, too.

3. So do drugs that prevent blood vessels from constricting, cutting off flow of blood to the affected area.

The significance of the research is that it boils down to a recommended, standardized treatment for frostbite.

It aims not only at saving lives, but also at limiting the destruction of body tissue by gangrene, the dreaded deterioration that goes hand in hand with frostbite.

While conducting the rabbit research in a little office at Pontiac General, Dr. Packard also went through most of the frostbite research that has been done in the past.

★ ★ ★

His paper took the past work into consideration, too.

A human life was also involved in the project—in fact, it got it started.

A middle-aged man, suffering extensive frostbite, was brought into Pontiac General as an emergency case early last year while Dr. Packard was on duty.

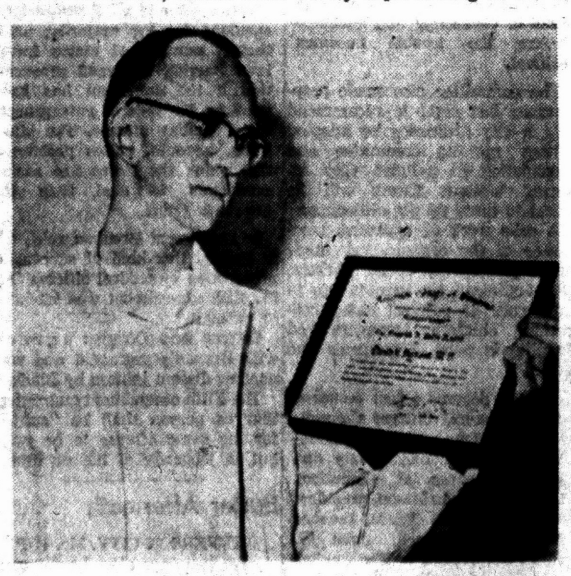

It was while treating this patient that Dr. Packard got the idea for the experiment, a project agreed to by the hospital and carried out with its best wishes.

★ ★ ★

The patient prospered under the experiment. Although so frozen that some of his body fluids had crystallized and both hands and feet were solid, eventually he recovered with only the tips of four fingers being affected by gangrene.

★ ★ ★

As for the tipsy rabbit, he took the alcohol before one leg was frozen in experiment. So imbibing can't be considered treatment, but rather preventive medicine, perhaps.

2 Workmen Killed, Buried in Cave-In BATTLE CREEK (AP)—Two workmen were buried alive beneath an avalanche of dirt yesterday while they worked in a 30-foot deep telephone cable ditch.

Police and workmen, using mechanical equipment, dug for about five hours before recovering the bodies of Jose Gonzales 36, of Grand Rapids, and Renaldo Garza, 34, of Detroit. More than 10 feet of dirt covered the men when the ditch caved in around them.

Dr. James Haffenden, Calhoun County medical examiner, said the men suffocated instantly.

They worked for the Weikel Construction Co. of Fort Wayne, Ind., which was relocating a cable for Michigan Bell Telephone Co.

Suspect Death Due to Carbon Monoxide

DETROIT (AP)—A Detroit bar owner whose body was found with the unconscious form of his sweetheart was believed today to have died from carbon monoxide poisoning.

Wayne County Medical Examiner Edward Zawadzki said an autopsy of Milan G. Parker's body showed 38 per cent carbon monoxide in his blood stream, enough to kill.

The woman, Mrs. Rose Marie Lusk, 38, of Detroit, regained consciousness Sunday night but went deaf yesterday. Zawadzki said the deafness may have been caused by carbon monoxide poisoning among other things.

Mrs. Lusk, a divorcee, has refused to tell police what happened. Parker, 38, was found in bed Sunday morning.

'The Babe and I'

By MRS. BABE RUTH with Bill Slocum

(Condensed from "The Babe and I" Copyright, 1959, by Mrs. Babe Ruht and published by Prentice Hall, Inc.)

The business of baseball had a few more bucks to be made out of the Babe after he put aside his Yankee uniform. It made those bucks — and then some.

But I didn't wish it in 1935. My husband was fighting for the right to work in the only business he knew — a business that was now to humiliate him beyond belief.

The Boston Braves were teetering on bankruptcy in 1935, and the owner, Judge Emil Fuchs, got permission from the Yankees to talk to their dollar a year chattel.

Babe's understanding of his deal with Fuchs was clear. He would, in time, succeed Bill McKechnie as manager. He was, in fact, to be technically Bill's boss, because he was signed as a vice president.

A V. P. WHO PLAYS RIGHT

A vice president who would also play right field whenever his aching body permitted. It was another of the hundreds of precedents the Babe set in baseball.

It was a bad, bad deal for Babe. It was not only a bad deal for the $35,000 he signed for but would have been bad for $350,000.

Fuchs was determined to make his investment in Babe Ruth's hopes pay off to the last dime, and in no time he and Babe were at war.

Fuchs scheduled exhibition games out of all conscience. The fields were bad. Babe Ruth, 40 years of age, was lacerated in print because he couldn't play like the Babe Ruth who was 20 when he was with the Boston Red Sox.

Most ball players sulk at criticism and under cover of public-relations politeness loathe newspapermen. Babe fought back; as a result, he had far better press relations.

So he was baffled and angered by the beating he took in the Boston papers. He lay it to insularism: "If they were any good they'd be in New York," he would say.

HIS LAST BIG GAME

He and Fuchs fell out completely when the judge ordered him to appear at the opening of a cheap clothing store in Boston. Babe refused.

★ ★ ★

By now Babe was aware that the man he thought was going to give him the managership was merely giving him the business.

On May 25 the Braves were in Pittsburgh and Babe Ruth was trying to figure out a graceful way to get out of his contract. On that day he hit three towering home runs.

It was a remarkable performance for any athlete, particularly one old and heartsick.

This was the moment to quit, I told him that and he said, "I thought of it going around the bases the third time."

Christy Walsh called from New York. "You're going to quit, Babe. Do it now."

Why?

"Because I gave that old so-and-so in Boston my word I wouldn't quit until after the Memorial Day double-header in Philadelphia."

OUT OF WORK

But June 2 he called in the newspapermen in Boston and quit. The third homer he had smashed in Pittsburgh was his 714th big league home run. And his last.

That was a trying press conference. And when it was over he came home, terribly upset and fighting back the tears.

Now he was out of work. Not out of income. He was on the radio three times a week, there were endorsements, and rare and lucrative personal appearances.

Baffled Vice President

He was a welcome guest at golf courses, fishing lodges, hunting camps and bowling alleys.

He went to an occasional ball game at the Yankee Stadium. And he got a standing ovation every time.

The fans had better memories than the magnates. Because he heard not a single word from organized baseball in 1935.

And it was the same through the 1936 season. And the 1937. And the 1938 season got under way with Babe hearing nary a word.

THE DEPTHS

I know no words for his despondency. He kept himself busy with hunting and fishing and golf.

★ ★ ★

Whenever he entered the house there was always the same unspoken question plastered all over his big, tanned face, "Any phone calls?"

Sometimes, rarely, there was rage. Often a "To hell with 'em, I'm having more fun and making more money than any of em!" which fooled neither the Babe nor me. Now and then, there were hot tears of frustration.

So it was when one night Babe came home from a fishing trip around 9 o'clock.

He looked at me and I said, as normally as my voice would allow, "Larry MacPhail is trying to get in touch with you."

★ ★ ★

"What's he want?" the Babe demanded. "What's his telephone number? Where is he? How'd the Dodgers do today?"

He almost ran to me from the phone. "MacPhail wants to see me right now," he said, heading toward the door. "This looks like I might be in baseball again."

"MacPHAIL WANTS ME!"

It had been years since I had seen my husband so happy. He was back at 1 in the morning, a different man from the nice, baffled, hurt fellow I had been living with.

"MacPhail wants me," he roared. "He wants me as a coach for the rest of the season. I told Larry I'll appear in all the exhibition games I can and I'll give a 10 minute hitting exhibition before each regular and exhibition game. I'll be the manager next year!"

After some minutes I asked, idly, "What's he going to pay?"

Babe looked at me in wonder. "Pay? Pay? What the hell is the difference? I think he said it was $15,000."

We talked and talked and talked. He was ecstatic. So was I. The last thing he said before bed time was:

"Well, it's not the Yankees. But it's still New York."

Virginia Talks Racial Defense

Assembly Eyes New Ways to Block School Integration Efforts

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Virginia's General Assembly begins consideration today of new legal lines of defense against the spread of racial integration in public schools.

It appeared the program the Assembly will be asked to enact will add up to a freedom-of-choice plan as successor to the now-defunct massive resistance program which collapsed in state and federal courts.

The phrase "freedom of choice," said a source close to Gov. J. Lindsay Almond Jr., was chosen because the plan may offer a community or an individual the choice between state-aided private schooling or integrated public schooling.

A 40-member legislative commission has kept its deliberations secret. The Assembly meeting is a resumption of the special school session of January 28 called after the courts invalidated laws which had held the school segregation line since the Supreme Court's 1954 decision on the subject.

Legislators enacted two major requests Almond made — state tuition grants of up to $250 for pupils who refused to attend integrated schools, and repeal of the compulsory school attendance law.

The Assembly then recessed and Almond named the commission to draft a new school program.

Highway Deaths Up by 3 Pct. Over 1958

CHICAGO (AP) — The National Safety Council says it is disturbed at the upward trend in traffic deaths on the nation's highways in the first two months this year.

The council said today the death toll of 5,290 for January and February was 3 per cent more than the 5,130 reported in the same period last year. Last month's total was 2,410, an increase of 2 per cent.

★ ★ ★

The council said in view of the severe winter weather it didn't believe the increased toll could be blamed on heavier traffic.

Disabling injuries in January and February were estimated by the council at 200,000.

No traffic deaths were reported in February by 24 cities. The three largest were Norfolk, Va., Richmond, Va. and Wichita, Kan.

Tropical Greenery Once Flourished in Anarctica

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Antarctica, now burdened with 4,500,000 cubic miles of ice, once was a tropical region in which flourished giant trees and lush vegetation.

It is not inconceivable, according to Dr. Harry Wexler, chief scientist of the U. S. International Geophysical Year (IGY) research will get that way again.

Wexler said the world through most of its past history has been warm all over, but now "we are in an abnormal age" with great portions of the earth—particularly the six million square miles of Antarctica—buried under ice.

Scientists believe Antarctica became an ice box millions of years ago. There is evidence of a warming spell about 10,000 years ago. Before then, the ice cover apparently was about 1,000 feet thicker than it is now.

But millions of years ago, before the ice came, Antarctica was green with luxuriant vegetation. This was proved by American scientists who early this year completed a trek from the U.S. Byrd Station to the newly discovered Horlick mount range.

The expedition found sandstone-shale coal beds containing leaf fossils and 12-foot remains of petrified trees. The coal beds, proof positive of ancient vegetation, varied in thickness from a few inches to a few feet. In the same sedimentary region the explorers found fossil bivalve shells.

Even modern Antarctica is not quite as inhospitable to life as might be supposed.

In another American trek, from the Ellsworth Station, scientists found a large pond with water plants growing in it. The region is ice-free only a brief time each year, and the plants evidently are hardy enough to survive long periods of refrigeration.

The theory is that the plant seeds originally found their way to the Antarctic interior on the feet of far-ranging skua gulls.

Seals, penguins, and giant petrels thrive along the antarctic coast. And perfectly mummified bodies of seals have been found many miles inland at elevations up to 2,000 feet above sea level.

"No one knows how they got there," Wexler said.

Soviet IGY scientists reported mummified bodies of seals, skua gulls, petrels and penguins at the vestcold oasis on the shores of lakes of bitter-salt water.

The Russians said the corpses were well preserved by the cold in winter and were saved from decay in summer because of the dry air "and the complete absence of bacteria and insects."

So thoroughly mummified were the seals, for example, that only the eyes and occasional patches of fur were damaged.

Only 10 per cent of Argentina's land is under cultivation. About 80 per cent is regarded as capable of producing crops, grass or forests.

ELECTION MONDAY, APRIL 6

Said of Doug: 'Good Lord, Capt. Hornblower'

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK — If Douglas Fairbanks Jr., dressing for a "junior prom" in his honor, were to wear all his orders, decorations and medals—he would have to be conveyed to the dance by derrick.

If this same all-around gentleman were to visit all his offices across the world in one week, he would require, not merely jets, but rockets. At late count, he is personally involved with, and an officer in, at least 30 businesses and organizations, from the United Nations to PM's Popcorn, Ltd.

He is called, quite properly, the "Fabulous Fairbanks." And not always without a sneer on both sides of the Atlantic.

In England, many a British snob resents Doug because he (only an American) has succeeded in entertaining Queen Elizabeth and her hubby in his home not only once, but twice. Even is he is a knight (honorary) this is the height of palace-climbing, and they are jealous.

But the hoots and bleats that hurt the most come from the United States, where the jealous ones have spread the impression that Fairbanks is a snob—forgetting that a snob is one who vulgarly seeks association with those he considers better off than he is.

Fairbanks, in the last 20 years, has been better off both financially and socially than almost anybody, and that takes in the folks at Buckingham.

"It used to annoy me," Doug said, smiling with a confidence no snob could aspire to, "that the people of my own country would pay no attention to me except to comment that I'd 'gone British.' But I'm accustomed to it now. People have been saying it, after all, for 20 years.

"What they don't realize is that I spend more time here than I do abroad. And that I've been commuting, theoretically, since long before I was born. My grandfather—he was a great sort of cotton tycoon, one of the wolves of Wall Street type characters—did a great deal of business in England.

"And then, when I was five months old, my father and mother (Douglas Fairbanks Sr. and Anna Beth Sully) took me there. My education was divided between America and Europe. I formed my first film producing company in London when I was 21."

Surely this entitles him to be in England, now that spring is here, without being classified a socially un-American American.

The impressive list of interests makes Doug Fairbanks look far more agile, physically and intellectually, than his late father, the swashbucklingest screen star of them all. He has offices in London, New York and Los Angeles, and "sponges" office space in Paris, Munich, Chicago, Brussels, Atlanta, Rome, ad international.

He delves in TV, films, fountain pens, autos, hotels, industrial development. Claims: "I just enjoy work for its own self — which sounds pretty dull." Then adds, "But I'd like to travel and read all the books I've never read. But—I've got responsibilities."

Foreign governments have given him every conceivable type of decoration. As a naval officer in the war, he earned so many medals that, when he was dressed up in part of his regalia, a friend is said to have exclaimed:

"Good lord, Capt. Hornblower."

He is a vice president of the American Association for the United Nations, and past national chairman of both CARE and "American Relief for Korea," and never hesitates to take on a new job—anywhere—"wherever my limited abilities can help the machinery."

After being knighted by Queen Elizabeth II, someone asked what her majesty had called him. "I don't think she called me anything," he replied. "But I answer to anything—sir, commander, minister and 'Hey, you'."

Partial Integration Plan Is Approved

HARRISONBURG, Va. (AP) — Counsel for the Charlottesville School Board says he does not expect much integration in public schools of that city this fall under a new assignment plan.

John S. Battle Jr. commented Monday after U.S. Dist. Judge John Paul approved the plan. Paul said he had every reason to believe it had been formulated in good faith.

Paul met for 35 minutes with Battle and Oliver W. Hill, counsel for the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People. No objections to the plan were made at this meeting.

Two white public schools in Charlottesville — Lane High and Venable Elemenetary — were closed under a now-unconstitutional state law last fall to avoid court-ordered integration. Paul had directed that 12 Negro pupils be admitted to these two schools.

Commuter Train to Lend Umbrellas to Passengers

The railroad said the umbrellas will be left at transfer stations for commuters to borrow on rainy days and return on an honor basis.

500,000 Men Under Arms

Turkey Stands Guard on Border With Russia

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Editor

ISTANBUL, Turkey — The Aras River flows along a great portion of the border between Turkey and its age-old enemy, Russia.

Watch towers on the Turkish side extend along the length of the Aras, each tower overlapping the sighting distance from its nearest neighbor.

Sentries stand guard on the bridges crossing the Aras, on the one side Russian and on the other, Turkish. Each marches regularly to midspan and then back to the river bank on his own side.

About seven to 10 miles back in the hills, away from the valley, are the encampments of Turkey's Third Army, which is entrusted with guarding the frontier.

Within the Turkish army are three separate armies, the 1st, 2nd and 3rd. The 1st stands guard around Istanbul and Thrace.

The 2nd stands along the borders with Syria and Iraq. Altogether, the force totals around 500,000 men.

Approximately one-third of Turkey's 800-million-dollar annual budget goes into its armed forces, on constant alert against Communist encroachment, whether it be from Russia or from one of its satellites or friends.

Turkish watchfulness does not end there.

A Turkish spokesman invited this correspondent to lunch one day. We drove away from the city where wide avenues represent the new, and a Roman aqueduct and a ruined city wall, the old.

The drive took us along the Bosporus to within three miles of the gateway to the Black Sea.

It was the closest to other secret Turkish military installations a foreigner can go. Easily visible were the huge nets stretching across the narrow Bosporus against Russian submarines and mines.

Nearby was the Russian Embassy's summer villa.

The spokesman waved his arm in the general direction of the whole Turkish border. Radar and other sensitive listening posts provide other safeguards, he explained, and casually added:

"We can even hear tank commanders talking back and forth when the army maneuvers in Bulgaria."

Istanbul has been a traditional spy center. How about that?

"We catch some," he said. "Others we know about, but it is better to know who they are and what they do than to pick them up. If we picked one up, we would only have to learn the identity of the one sent to take his place. It is better this way."

He said about 40 Bulgarian refugees make their way to Turkey each month. Most of these, he said, are suspected of espionage.

Many, he said, are repeaters. A man arrives, is assigned to a refugee camp and finally sent to some distant point of his own choice. A few months pass and he appears again in another attempt to fulfill a spy role.

A Turkish population larger than Turkey's own lives inside the Soviet Union and some of these, too, are employed as spies.

Gomulka Liberalizing Poland's Government

When Premier GOMULKA came to power in Poland in 1956, the free world expected nothing good would come of it. Revolution still was alive in his own country as well as in Hungary. Russia had a large and hostile force in Poland and its people were crying for more freedom.

★ ★ ★

At a recent Warsaw meeting of 3,000 delegates for all Communist countries except Yugoslavia, GOMULKA made a seven hour speech on past accomplishments and future plans. Toward the end he sprang a surprise. He announced removal of 14 of his bitterest enemies (Moscow Firsters) from the 75 member central committee and addition of three of his close friends to the seven member Politburo. For the first time GOMULKA is in full command.

★ ★ ★

Visiting in Moscow some months ago the premier played up to Khrushchev. He denounced Chancellor Adenauer and characterized Western policy as "imperialist" and in general loudly repeated the party line claptrap. However, let's look at what Premier Gomulka has been doing rather than what he has been saying.

★ ★ ★

In contrast to the 10,510 cooperative farms when GOMULKA took over in 1956, there are only 1,718 today. Most of the farmland is individually owned. One of his first acts was to free STEFAN CARDINAL WYSZANSKI, Roman Catholic Primate of Poland, and to restore all church property in return for a clergy promise to abstain from political activity. The Cardinal was the only delegate from Communist Eastern Europe to participate in the election of the new pope at the Vatican.

★ ★ ★

Police terrorism has been removed and while freedom is more or less restricted, Poles no longer are imprisoned for airing anti-government views. Schools, churches, farm organizations and even labor unions speak for the individual.

It would appear from all this that Premier GOMULKA is doing a remarkable job under the most difficult circumstances.

Solon's Death Recalls Drama in 1930 Senate

The recent death at Manistee, Mich. of former Republican Senator OTIS F. GLENN of Illinois, brings to light a dramatic incident of his short political career.

The Senator went to Washington in 1930 to fill a seat that had stayed vacant for two years because the Senate had refused to seat a slush fund candidate, Frank L. Smith of Illinois' notorious 1926 "Golden Primary."

★ ★ ★

Coming up for confirmation was CHARLES EVANS HUGHES to be Chief Justice of the United States. Many leading Republicans were opposed to President HOOVER's choice. Sen. BORAH of Idaho delivered a slashing attack, says the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, and other Republicans, including Sen. COUZENS of Michigan, spoke against the nomination. Hour after hour the denunciations continued.

★ ★ ★

Finally up rose freshman Senator Otis F. Glenn of Illinois to speak in behalf of Hughes. He told his colleagues that their arguments would have barred Lincoln from the Supreme Court; that as Governor of New York union leaders had called Mr. Hughes the greatest friend of labor laws that state ever had and that Hughes' insurance investigation was an historic public service.

★ ★ ★

When the tumult and the shouting died, CHARLES EVANS HUGHES was confirmed by a 59 to 33 vote. Unfortunately Sen. GLENN was defeated in the 1932 ROOSEVELT landslide and never again ran for office. But he should be remembered and honored for having courageously defended Mr. HUGHES who turned out to be a great Chief Justice of the United States.

City's Army Draft Board Has No Quota for April

For the first time in many months, the army enlistments from Pontiac are so large that the city draft board is not asked by the war department to induct any men in April. The number that would comprise its quota has already been covered with enlisted men.

The out-county board which has its headquarters in Pontiac has an April quota of 14 men. They will be inducted tomorrow.

U. S. Could See 24-Cent Dollar

WASHINGTON — There seems to be joy in some quarters that the budget is going to be unbalanced. Judging by some of the comments from Democrats on Capitol Hill, this proves that President Eisenhower was all wrong and that, since the budget is going to be unbalanced by more than a billion, it might as well be unbalanced by three or four or five billions.

LAWRENCE

When Congress comes back from its recess, the drive to spend more and hence make the deficit bigger will take on momentum. It seems to be taken for granted that only the prestige of the President—not the pocketbook of the American people—is going to be hurt by the failure to reduce the deficits.

It's hard for the average man to realize just what is involved in budget balancing and in the increases in treasury deficits.

At the National Press Club luncheon the other day for Raymond J. Saulnier, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, this question was asked with reference to the drop in the purchasing power of the dollar from 100 cents in 1939 to 48 cents today:

"If I have only a 48-cent 'buck' in my pocket, haven't I got 48 cents more than I had in the depression?"

Dr. Saulnier replied that nobody now is much concerned with 1939 except historically, and then added pointedly:

"I'd like to protect your 48 cents, you see, from now on."

This is a simple statement of a dilemma that faces the American people. Do they want to see the dollar decline still further in purchasing power so that the 48 cents they have today would before long be cut down to 24 cents?

The drama of money—the threat of printing-press currency—is not yet a subject of popular discussion. But among those whose business it is to deal in government securities—a man, for instance, like Aubrey G. Lanston of the New York firm which bears his name—the topic is very live. Mr. Lanston, speaking a few days ago before the Cleveland Society of Security Analysts, said:

"I think it will become plain that the people of this country will have to make a choice, sometime over the near future, either by positive action or through default.

"They can force Congress to administer federal finances in a responsible way—something we have urged other so-called less advanced countries to do—or we will end up, first, with selective controls of a mushrooming character and, ultimately, with a chaotic breakdown in our economy. . . .

"The financial irresponsibility on the part of the government has created a series of deficits that have been financed by commercial banks. No matter what you have read to the contrary, that is the fact.

"Further, it seems inevitable that the commercial banks will be obliged to absorb whatever deficits develop from here on.

"It also seems likely that the increase in the government security holdings of commercial banks will enlarge by somewhat more than the amount of future deficits because the banks will be the only major buyers left. Therefore, the banks also will have to absorb whatever government securities are sold by others.

"We should recognize now that the number of spending measures that have been, or will be passed between now and the close of the 86th Congress, call for increased government spending for fiscal 1961 and for later years, too.

"The prospect of another deficit—for fiscal 1961—coming on top of a deficit for fiscal 1960, and all those that have preceded these, could produce some substantial, unstabilizing, psychological repercussions.

"The nonchalant, fiddling attitude of Congress—as a whole—toward a balanced budget for 1960 may be building a base for explosive developments later on."

These are significant words from one of those persons who normally speak in the most restrained phrases about government finances.

Dr. William Brady Says:

Flexible Diet Advocated for Hyperacidity, Ulcer

The experience of the individual with hyperacidity or ulcer is the best guide as to what to eat and what to avoid.

After all, what some persons consider easy to digest or suitable for most delicate digestion may be difficult or impossible for others to digest. I have never forgotten a lesson I learned about this when I was 22 years old. At autopsy on a man who had suddenly collapsed in the third or fourth week of typhoid fever, we found one of the ulcers in the ileum perforated by a pencil shape curd of milk.

DR. BRADY

When I was an intern typhoid fever was still quite common and, because of the ulcers we restricted the patient's diet to liquid, chiefly milk. When I finished my internship and began to practice I allowed typhoid patients scraped beef, toast etc., if they wanted such food and could chew it.

On the more sensible diet typhoid patients fared much better and gained strength faster after the fever had run its course. That was before the discovery of typhobacterin immunization.

★ ★ ★

Anent the digestion of milk, by infant or invalid, these suggestions may be followed with profit:

1. Milk should be slowly sipped, not rapidly gulped.

2. A tablespoonful of lime water may be added to each glass (half pint) of milk, to prevent formation of large curds. In many instances a tablespoonful of oatmeal water (strained thin gruel) may be used instead of lime water for this purpose.

3. A tablespoonful of lime water contains less lime (calcium) than a tablespoonful of skim milk.

4. Lime water is a very mild antiacid and tends to correct sour stomach. Make some when you need it, by putting a lump of live, unslaked, quick lime the size of a shoat's eye — or if that's hard to estimate say a tablespoonful of unslaked lime in a quart or two of water in an earthen crock or bowl. Stir it up and let it stand 24 hours. The upper clear fluid is lime water.

For ulcer cases, it seems that almost anything within reason is permissible in the diet, provided the patient is dentally equipped to masticate food properly.

Physicians with much experience in the treatment of peptic ulcer find that a liberal diet keeps patients in better nutritional condition and gives them a better chance of cure than patients had on the old fashioned "may eat" and "may not eat" diets.

'Don't Give Us So Much Propaganda'

How come The Pontiac Press doesn't give a daily account of the progress of the 59ers instead of so much anti-Russia propaganda? We know Khrushchev is a pig. You've told us that a thousand times. It's getting awfully monotonous and corny, too. I've been getting an out-of-town newspaper to find out something I don't already know. As for Hoover Republican, he should go back to school and learn how to spell.

'Guess Other Half Was Presbyterian'

A recent letter says that half Washington's army was Roman Catholic. The Rev. Father John Tracy Ellis of Catholic University wrote in 1956 that the entire Catholic population in 1785 was only about 50,000. The population of the U. S. was over 3,000,000.

★ ★ ★

Several writers, including C. A. Hanna, author of the Scotch-Irish, and H. J. Ford, author of the Scotch-Irish in America, wrote that half the Continental Army was Scotch and Ulster Irish, most of whom were Presbyterian.

★ ★ ★

Hugh Walpole, the Earl of Oxford, called the War of Independence a "Presbyterian rebellion," and in debate in Parliament, "There is no good crying about the matter. America has run off with a Presbyterian parson." He referred to the Rev. Dr. John Witherspoon, the only clergyman to sign the Declaration of Independence.

Two Offer Solution for Dog Problem

Some of these people who gripe about dogs give me a laugh. I agree owners should keep them at home, but no law is ever enforced unless someone signs a complaint. Even murderers and burglars must have a charge brought against them.

For Justice

If we need more money in Michigan, why not raise the tax $5 on every dog and see how much we get. Perhaps this would eliminate some of the stray mongrels and make owners more conscious of their responsibilities and not let dogs run wild all over neighbors' lawns.

Owner Laments Auto 'Lemons'

An article tells of local car dealers planning a drive to sell new cars. Their drive will leave me and hundreds of potential customers cold. Sadly enough, most of these dealers will not be to blame.

Something had better be done quickly at the manufacturing end of this deal. If I ever get this $3,000 lemon running before it's two years old, I'll run it until it falls apart rather than chance another and maybe worse lemon. If not, I'm considering the foreign car market.

I have a late model '57 so-called lower-priced car. It had a new ring job at nine months and 16,000 miles. The power steering has leaked since the day we bought it and uses a pint of fluid every week. Power brake repairs cost $100 and we consider ourselves lucky we didn't have a serious accident when the rear wheel brake bands snapped in half while we were driving. We're on the second generator in the last month, have had two tires blow out, one at 6,000 miles and one at 20,000. The other tires leaks air every day. Now we carry a screw driver and pliers to shift the car into reverse when the push button gets temperamental. We had to correct the dangerously inadequate rearview mirror.

We've had a '53, '55 and this '57, each a different make and each year progressively worse. People blame the auto workers for not having pride in their work, but the greater majority put out the best quality possible with the constant glamor for quantity.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Soft Mother May Rear Criminal

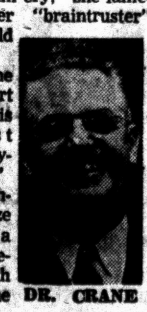

Mike's mother is preventing him from having a guardian angel. She melts before his big tears and surrenders. But good parents are often required to be a little hard-hearted at the moment in the interest of the youngster's future happiness. There's a straight road between the high chair and the electric chair.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE A-492: Mike D., aged 3, is the youngster mentioned yesterday whose mother refuses to punish him.

★ ★ ★

"Dr. Crane, I just haven't the heart to make him cry," she lamely defended her "braintruster" ideas in child rearing.

DR. CRANE

"Whenever the big tears start flowing down his cheeks, I just give him anything he wants."

Well, you mothers must realize that there is a straight road between the high chair and the electric chair.

A lot of similar softhearted mamas are indirectly responsible for the death of their sons in our prisons or the life terms of men in Sing Sing and Alcatraz.

For God Almighty expects parents to use their adult wisdom in teaching a child how to adjust to this world.

It is far better for a mother to witness her child's brief tears when she punishes it for a definite misdeed now, than to observe its prolonged tears through the bars of a prison cell 20 years later.

We have various kinds of receptors (sensory cells) in the skin. They enable us to feel warmth and cold, touch and pain.

But the pain cells far outnumber all the others for God apparently expected pain to be the quickest and most efficient teacher.

Thus, when a child touches an old fashioned iron stove or a hot iron or a steaming radiator, he feels pain.

And that single experience will usually protect him the rest of his life from similar mistakes that could jeopardize his life.

★ ★ ★

Pain is thus a great boon to mankind and a guardian angel for all children.

Thus, it is pain in the lower right side that warns us so we don't get a ruptured appendix.

It is pain in the eyes that reminds us to have our vision checked before we injure our eyes permanently.

Parents should take this new attitude about pain and realize that it is actually, not a foe of good character.

★ ★ ★

But pain should be used judiciously. That means that the old fashioned method of whipping for every little error, is passe.

HOW PUNISH CHILDREN

If you are a young couple with children, obviously you should not fill your house with glass antiques and other breakable bric-a-brac.

Be sensible! Strip unnecessary temptations from your youngsters, but there will always be a few things left that are necessary but which attract the toddler.

So teach him by saying, "No, No." If he still persists, then flick him with your finger or a snap of a small ruler.

★ ★ ★

It is pain that will correct his bad behavior, so don't spank him with your massive flat hand and almost dislocate his spine.

A single sharp snap of a finger

Once he has felt corporal punishment, you seldom need resort to it again. He soon learns from your rising crescendo that another half tone elevation in Mama's voice, and there will be the laying on of hands, so he turns aside.

And children do not hold it against their parents in later life because they were punished justly. So don't think you'll lose their love.

Khrushchev Rode to Power on Coattails of Kaganovich

(William L. Ryan has seen Nikita Khrushchev in action in Moscow and London. He has carefully analyzed his speeches and his actions. This is the second of five articles appraising the Soviet Premier's methods as the world moves toward another summit meeting where Khrushchev will play a key role.)

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

Twenty years ago Nikita Khrushchev seemed drab and colorless—a faceless, fawning party hack.

Who, today, would think of applying such terms to the man whose moon face, alternately beaming and scowling, dominates the world stage?

The man who now seems playing for incredibly high stakes was not always a gambler. Nikita Khrushchev's history pegs him as a man who liked a sure thing.

How did a one-time illiterate blacksmith climb so high?

The coattails belonged to Lazar Kaganovich, who pacified the Ukraine for Stalin in the bloody days of farm collectivization.

Khrushchev had talent. Kaganovich recognized it. With ruthless zeal Khrushchev had thrown himself into the war on Stalin's political foes, an earnestly brutal man assisting in the awesome purges which sent untold thousands before firing squads.

Over the corpses of innumerable fallen Bolsheviks, Khrushchev vaulted into alternate membership on the Politburo, the council of yes-men surrounding Stalin. That was in 1938. The purge was not yet complete. Khrushchev had another assignment.

Dressed for the part in slovenly cap and sloppy peasant clothing, Khrushchev went to the Ukraine to direct another mopup of Stalin's real and imagined enemies. There is no way of estimating how many were executed in that operation. A conservative guess puts the number at 3,000.

★ ★ ★

A thorough man, Khrushchev not only directed the purge, but reorganized Ukrainian farming. As a result, under Stalin and Kaganovich, Khrushchev became general party secretary in the Ukraine, boss of an area big as France, with about 40 million population.

Applying himself to the role, Khrushchev even emphasized the Ukrainian accent which remains with him today. It was easy. His native heath in Kursk province borders on the Ukraine.

New rewards were coming. With the purge nearly over, the 18th party congress in 1939 whisked Khrushchev into the rarefied atmosphere of the Kremlin, a full member of Stalin's Politburo. He lost no opportunity to show his gratitude. From the congress rostrum he paid glowing tribute to Kaganovich as boss of Moscow province:

"The Moscow organization is ideologically rallied around the Central Committee, around our genius leader comrade Stalin. The ideological, principled unity of the Moscow organization was achieved thanks to the skilled daily leadership we had in the person of Lazar Moisevich Kaganovich."

★ ★ ★

Seventeen years later Khrushchev would label Stalin an egomaniac murderer, political and military blunderer and unparaleled barbarian. A year after that he would maneuver Kaganovich out of office, denouncing him as a man who "fawned and did everything to inflate the cult of the personality of Stalin."

NEXT: Plot and counterplot.

Motel Battles for License

Stop Sheriff, Court Asked

CASEVILLE (AP) — Owners of a plush motel, with the State Liquor Control Commission on their side, have gone to court to block the sheriff from seizing their liquor license.

Huron County Sheriff Merritt R. McBride has defied the state agency in lifting on three different occasions licenses issued to the Bella Vista Motel.

James F. Woodworth, attorney for the motel's owners, yesterday went to Circuit Court with a bill of complaint against McBride. Woodworth asked that McBride and his agents be enjoined from interfering with the motel's lawful operations and from revoking the liquor license.

Judge Arthur M. Bach set a hearing on the case for next Tuesday.

McBride has been warned several times by the State Liquor Control Commission to stop seizing the motel's license. He lifted it for the third time last Saturday when the commission sent the motel a telegram authorizing it to sell liquor despite McBride's actions.

McBride, sheriff for 17 years, maintains the commission granted the license without heeding a long-standing policy of not issuing them without approval of the local sheriff.

The commission last week told McBride it has the sole authority to issue liquor licenses.

★ ★ ★

Yesterday, in Lansing, the commission tried a new tack in its feud with McBride. It sought to enlist the aid of Prosecutor James Humphrey of Bad Axe to advise McBride that he is acting illegally.

Assistant Attorney General James J. Rossie said the commission will wait for a reply from Humphrey before taking action against McBride.

What Rambler's Success Means to Every Motorist

Rambler Success Sparks
The Biggest Explosion in Automotive History
—and Rambler is Ready for it!

Successful revolutions do not happen overnight—especially great industrial upheavals like the public's dramatic swing to Rambler and the new concept of the modern compact car.

Suddenly the news erupts in a blaze of headlines: "Public Rebels at Big, Overweight Cars" . . . "Rambler Sales Up 167% for 1959" . . . "Market for 2,000,000 Compact Cars Predicted By 1961."

Actually, this biggest explosion in automotive history comes as the climax to two decades of need by American motorists for a new kind of car.

SIZE-POWER RACE WAS ON

Since World War II, you have seen this explosion coming. Most cars got longer and heavier, year after year. Manufacturers indulged in an all-out horsepower race and succeeded in outrunning only one thing—the family's budget.

Cars were loaded down with excess outside sheet metal and bulk, but grew more cramped inside . . . harder to get in and out of . . . harder to park, garage and maneuver.

THE CONSUMER REBELLED

The motorist became fed up! He suddenly turned to the most practical answer. He put his faith in Rambler, the car that had met his needs.

The rest is history. The market revolution sparked by the compact car now finds Rambler outselling not only most big cars, but all six of the largest-selling foreign cars combined.

Yes, the market is big—and growing bigger. And Rambler is ready for it.

Rambler alone is backed by 20 years of experience in building more than 2,000,000 cars by a new method—aircraft-type Single Unit Construction.

IT'S THE CAR YOU ASKED FOR

When you buy a Rambler, you buy something no other manufacturer can give you. You buy 20 years of work and development. You buy nationwide availability at more than 2800 dealers and their service departments—thoroughly trained in caring for these different, more modern Compact Cars.

Yes, Rambler is ready with the modern compact car you asked for. It is waiting for you at your Rambler dealer. See and drive it today—because Rambler advantages are basic.

AMERICAN MOTORS CORPORATION
RAMBLER • KELVINATOR • METROPOLITAN

What Rambler's Success Means to You

1. Twenty years of experience in building truly modern cars with single unit aircraft engineering.
2. Modern compact cars that avoid excess bulk, weight and cost.
3. A greater and better choice in cars to meet your family's needs.
4. Superior standards of quality in workmanship and design.
5. Billions of dollars in savings for American motorists.

"When are you going to settle down, Harry?"

"He's so set in his ways no woman could stand him now."

"Hypothetically speaking, I think big weddings are just a waste of money, don't you, Harry?"

★ ★ ★

"Poor thing. Someone ought to take him home and give him a good meal for a change."

"What does he do with all his money? After all, he doesn't have anyone to spend it on."

"Harry, I know just the girl for you."

"It's funny, Harry, you're the only one of the old bunch still single."

"Harry, I hate to bother you at four in the morning, but have you seen my husband?"

"Remember, Harry, if my wife calls, we were playing poker at your place last night."

"Son, when I was your age, mother and I had three children."

★ ★ ★

"It may be just a mother's intuition, son, but is she good enough for you?"

"Sure, Harry, you've got a nice apartment of your own, a sports car, a swell job, a different date every night, and you're your own boss—but what does it all add up to?"

"Sure, Harry, she's got three kids, but look at it this way—you'd have a ready-made family."

"I'm glad you like the dress, Harry. I made it myself. I just love to cook and sew."

"Hypothetically speaking, don't you think a girl ought to give up her job when she gets married, Harry?"

★ ★ ★

"Hypothetically speaking, I think two people can live as cheaply as one if they really love each other, don't you, Harry?"

★ ★ ★

Straley Denies Charges

Straley said implementation of the PAS report would be a "great and unnecessary expense" to the city. "We've had satisfactory service for the past several years," the chief said.

★ ★ ★

Officers who opposed him, Straley said, were placed by Eastman in important staff positions.

He told commissioners that Civil Service in the Police Department reduced the chief to a figurehead, unable to exercise disciplinary measures.

"I know I'm protected by Civil Service," Straley said. "But I still oppose the act.

"My aim is to vindicate myself of these charges against me."

Straley said he did place inconsequential items in personnel files of officers without telling them. "These acts of misconduct were put in the files as a reference guide," Straley said. "I wanted to see if there was a recurrence of complaints."

Straley's attorney, Clarence L. Smith, subpoenaed the personnel file of Sgt. Hugh Stimson, who was involved in a brawl last summer in which a bar waitress' nose was broken.

City Attorney William A. Ewart had told Smith the report of the incident was in Stimson's file.

The file on Stimson, president of the Pontiac Police Officers Assn. (PPOA), was brought to the City Commission chambers and introduced as an exhibit in the case. It did not contain any report on the summer incident.

Ewart objected strenuously to introducing the file without the bar incident report, which, he contended, was pulled from the file for use by city attorneys during the hearing.

Straley contended that his hands were tied on promotions by Civil Service. He also charged that he had been undercut by Willman who granted pay increases to officers over his objections.

He denied ever saying there were only 10 or 11 loyal men on the force. "I said there were that many disloyal men around," Straley maintained. "The rest were doing an excellent job."

The chief also said he never refused to do work assigned to him. "I never deliberately disobeyed a written order," Straley said.

Eastman never gave him any orders personally, Straley declared. "He wouldn't talk to me," the chief claimed. "He'd pass me in the hall of the station as though I were a total stranger."

He denied the station intercom system was rigged so that he could eavesdrop on conversations in any part of the building.

"That system was recommended to me by the KLA laboratories in Detroit," said Straley. "It is similar to those in every business establishment, which can monitor action in other parts of a building."

★ ★ ★

The chief said Pontiac was not a city of vice and has never been one.

Straley admitted not setting up a police library but said he understood one was to be established in the City Hall by the city personnel director.

To charges he had failed to maintain good behavior, the chief said he believed his conduct was acceptable and satisfactory.

"I never heard of any complaints until charges were filed," Straley said. He denied ever using vulgar and profane language.

The chief said the PAS report was brought on by officers who were "defiant, mutinous, arrogant and insolent.

"I wasn't permitted by the city manager to discipline them," he said.

Straley said he still believed a statement in his job application in which he said he could "build morale and increase efficiency."

"Nothing has caused me to waver," Straley said.

He said morale went up when he first arrived in Pontiac.

His troubles started, Straley said, when he failed to get cooperation from a former police captain, Vance Hanger, who headed the uniform patrol bureau.

"He resented my wanting him to wear a uniform, and told me he hadn't worn one for years," Straley said. "He wanted to be chief and caused me much trouble.

★ ★ ★

"I tried to flatter him by telling him he'd look good in a uniform and that he should set an example for his men. But his attitude was one of resentment."

Under questioning by Blakeslee, Straley admitted that he had never worn a uniform in Pontiac. "I was preparing to wear a chief's uniform," Straley insisted.

The Commission will continue its hearing into removal charges against Straley at 7:30 p.m. today in one of the municipal courtrooms in the Public Safety Building.

Straley was suspended Feb. 9 by Willman on charges of inefficiency and incompetency, insubordination, failure to maintain good behavior and neglect of duty.

10 Feet of Snow on 59ers Land

SEWARD, Alaska (UPI) — The long journey is over for Detroit's 59ers, but it will be a while before the homesteaders can start building their cabins and tilling land on the Kenai Peninsula.

First of all, the 59ers must select the parcels of land on which they plan to settle. Then they must sit back and wait for the snow to melt.

Most of the peninsula is covered with 10 or more feet of snow.

Many of the women and children who motored from Detroit to this peninsula which juts out into the Gulf of Alaska are staying at Henton's Lodge.

The men are busy checking possible homestead sites. They are seeking 3,200 acres of land suitable for farming. Each family can homestead up to 160 acres.

The 59ers left Detroit in a motor caravan on March 5 and needed more than three weeks to cover the 4,000 miles of winter-choked roads from Michigan to the Kenai Peninsula.

A second group of Detroiters plans to leave for Alaska this summer.

Double Marriage Family Splits; Women Sue

MINEOLA, N. Y. (AP) — The Kruchtens—mother and daughter married to father and son—were just one big unhappy family, the way the women told it Monday in suits filed in State Supreme Court.

Verla Smith Kruchten, 44, and her daughter Sara, 22, charged cruelty and profane abuse by their husbands, architect Kenneth Kruchten, 55, and his son, Van Boone Kruchten, 20, a student at Middlebury College, Middlebury, Vt.

★ ★ ★

The suits said the elder couple were wed in 1957, and Sara went to live with them at Kruchten's home in Garden City. There she met and married the younger Kruchten, and they had a son.

The family broke up last month. The women moved out and filed separation suits.

The elder Mrs. Kruchten backed up her demands with detailed charges of penny-pinching. In the suit she claimed her husband did not believe in leaving more than one light at a time on in the house, thought a tub of hot water should be used more than once, and made her watch TV from a sheet spread on the floor—to save wear and tear on the furniture.

The husbands can answer the suits later.

Harrison Substitute Hailed in 'Fair Lady'

LONDON (AP) — Veteran actor Alec Clunes stepped into Rex Harrison's shoes in "My Fair Lady" Monday night, and the consensus of the critics was that the fabulous musical is as good as ever.

Clunes, a ruddy, stocky, gray-haired Briton, is 46. This was his first venture into musical comedy in 27 years of professional acting.

Troyer Arraigned in Widow's Slaying

MOUNT CLEMENS (AP)—Joseph R. Troyer, 38, stood mute at his arraignment yesterday and a plea of innocent was entered for him on a charge of slaying an 85-year-old Mount Clemens widow.

Macomb County Circuit Judge James E. Spier set Troyer's bond at $10,000 on the common law murder charge in the killing of Mrs. Mary Douglas. Common law murder leaves the determination of the degree to the jury.

Troyer was unable to pay the bond and was returned to jail. The odd-jobs handyman asked the court to appoint a defense counsel for him.

Police said Troyer admitted beating Mrs. Douglas in a fit of anger when she told him that she coud not rent an apartment to a family with children.

Two Break-Ins Monday Under Investigation

Helen Fanson of 3137 Hickory Lawn Rd., Avon Township, told deputies that someone had broken into her home and had stolen several items of clothing valued at an estimated $75.

A second break-in within a week was reported at the Sacred Heart Church, 3360 S. Adams Rd., Pontiac Township. Vandals took $4 and caused $120 damage, according to deputies.

Insurance Offered for Mental Illness

NEW YORK (AP) — Group Health Insurance Inc. is going to offer coverage for mental illness to 30,000 subscribers as an experiment.

★ ★ ★

The two-year experiment is being made with a $300,000 grant from the National Institute for Mental Health, according to an announcement Monday by Arthur H. Harlow Jr., president of the nonprofit insurance agency.

Most health insurance programs do not provide insurance against the cost of treatment for mental illness.

The 30,000 subscribers, selected from Group Health's regular subscribers, will be covered for 30 days of hospital cared-for mental illness, and for psychiatric treatment of various types in doctors' offices.

Conservation Department Gets 4 Planes

LANSING (AP) — The State Conservation Department more than doubled its air force this month.

Four planes—two used and two new—joined the three-plane fleet.

For a nominal $1 fee for each, the department last week picked up a pair of twin-engine Beechcrafts from an Air Force base in Tucson, Ariz. The department spent $400 to put them in flying condition.

Both were listed as Army surplus property. Durwood Robson, chief of the conservation department's field administration division, said the planes would be used chiefly for forest fire duties and transportation. Both will be stationed at Lansing.

Acquired earlier this month were a pair of single-engine Piper Cubs, one to be stationed at Gladwin and the other at Newberry in the Upper Peninsula.

Robson said the craft would be used to spot forest fires in an attempt to cut fire-fighting costs.

"We figure they might be able to take the place of 12 or 14 fire towers," he said.

Onassis Hires New Manager at Monte Carlo

MONTE CARLO, Monaco (AP) — Shipping magnate Aristotle Onassis has hired a new manager to try to run Monaco's tourist attractions at less cost.

★ ★ ★

Simon is being replaced by Raoul Bertin, 62, who reportedly sees eye to eye with Onassis on money matters.

Simon and Onassis fell out after the former remodeled the Hotel de Paris at a cost of two million dollars—about twice what Onassis had intended to pay.

Onassis is the principal stockholder in the seabaths firm. Profits from the casino and other gambling totaled more than six million dollars last year, and the hotels brought in another million.

State Man Hurt Fatally in Crash With Truck

HOLLAND (AP)—David Wolbert, 22, of rural Hamilton in Allegan County, was injured fatally last night when his car collided with a trailer-truck on rain-soaked U.S. 31 seven miles south of here.

State Police said Wolbert hit the rear of a lumber-laden truck which was moving at about 40 miles per hour.

Two Men Injured as Car Overturns

Two men were injured shortly after midnight last night when the car in which they were riding ran off Parkdale road in Avon Township and overturned.

★ ★ ★

Leon A. Combs, 20, of 11410 Canal Rd., Utica, and Robert A. Larocque, 22, of Prescott, were treated at Avon Center Hospital and released.

The driver, Robert C. Primeau, 30, of 825 Miller St., Rochester, told Oakland County sheriff's deputies that an oncoming car on the wrong side of the road forced him to swerve onto the shoulder. He was uninjured.

Retires After 22 Years Painting Golden Gate

Crews of two dozen painters, swab all year to preserve the bridge from wind, salt spray and other weather wear.

GOP Fund Dinner to Honor Bagwell

LANSING (AP) — Paul D. Bagwell, titular head of the Michigan Republican party, will be guest of honor at a GOP fund-raising dinner in Detroit April 2.

★ ★ ★

The Republican State Committee said Bagwell, party nominee for governor in 1958, will define the GOP's role in meeting state government problems.

He was recently named to a special committee to draft policy and principles for the National Republican Party.

Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel (R-Calif), GOP whip in the Senate, will be the main speaker.

The old battlewagon was intentionally sunk in shallow water of Chesapeake Bay in 1911. Since then she has snared seven other ships in her superstructure.

Navy men worked most of last winter and used more than 7,000 pounds of TNT to blow the top off the once-proud battleship. They wanted to make sure every section of the wreck is at least 20 feet below the surface.

The task was an important one, because federal courts have ruled the government was at fault in several sinkings at the site near Tangier Island — across the bay from the mouth of the Potomac To make sure the ghost ship causes no more trouble, the Coast and Geodetic Survey will chart the wreckage next week.

Church Offers Stamps, Attendance Increases

ALICE, Tex. (AP) — A green trading stamp was attached to letters mailed to members of First Baptist church here by T. G. Peters, superintendent of the church school.

Come to Sunday school, he told the congregation members, and they would get two more green stamps.

Attendance was up substantially next Sunday.

'SRO' Now Means 'Send Republicans'

"They've got the SRO sign out in the Senate in Washington. You know what SRO usually means—standing room only.

"But for Hawaii I say it means this:

"'Send Republicans only.'"

Eddie Fisher, Liz Taylor in Las Vegas

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI)—Singer Eddie Fisher prepared today for a four-week stand at the Tropicana with Elizabeth Taylor a five-minute drive from the lavish hotel.

The 30-year-old singer, the actress, her three children, a nurse, a valet and Fisher's secretary arrived in this gambling resort by train from Los Angeles over the weekend.

Miss Taylor went to a ranch she is renting for $500 a week. She planned to be in the audience Wednesday when Fisher opens at the Tropicana.

Fisher refused to comment on stories that he planned to establish six-week residence to get a Nevada divorce from Debbie Reynolds. Miss Reynolds recently divorced the singer in California.

Under California interlocutory divorce decree, Fisher must wait a year to wed again.

Segregation Returns to Federation

African Partnership Failing

SALISBURY, Southern Rhodesia, (AP) — To the white man in South Africa, there are two days of dealing with the black Africans who vastly outnumber him.

Below the Limpopo River in South Africa, a mass of 10 million Negroes is being fitted into the apartheid policy. This is essentially an attempt by three million whites to force the Negroes into a separate social and political existence, on a tribal basis if possible.

North of Limpopo, in the Federation of Rhodesia and Nyasaland, the official policy is "partnership." This is an extension of empire builder Cecil Rhodes' credo of "equal rights for every civilized man" whatever his color.

Lately something has gone wrong with partnership. Extremist critics of Sir Roy Welensky, prime minister of the Federation, contend he is heading straight for apartheid.

This is an exaggeration. But segregation in the Federation is almost as complete as in South Africa.

R. S. Garfield Todd, former prime minister here, says:

"Unless (the color bar) is broken massively and immediately, it will not pass from this land and within five years it will be used by Africans against Europeans, and partnership will become an impossible ideal.

"After five years of so-called partnership, the African citizen, educated, clean, well dressed and ambitious for the progress of his family and his country remain a second-class citizen in his own land — unable to enter cinemas, for example, and unable even to become a fireman on the government-owned railways."

Prime Minister Welensky likely will argue for the partnership policy when he goes to London next year to persuade the British government that the Federation should be made a dominion in the British Commonwealth and shed its present colonial status.

The ineffectiveness of the policy will be one of the arguments the Labor Party in Britain certainly will throw back at him. It is also inconceivable that any political-minded Negro leader in Nyasaland will give up the present protectorate there for federation in a British dominion.

With voting qualifications for Negroes as high as they are, this would put the three million Nyasaland Negroes under the will of the present white voting majority at Southern Rhodesia.

Racial discrimination in Nyasaland at present is economic rather than political. An African just can't make enough money to live like a white man. There is no law to bar him from building a home in a white residential area.

Negroes working at subsistence wages cannot hope to give their children the education which would permit them to compete with whites. The recent strike of workers at the great Kariba hydro-electric project on the Zambesi River was called to obtain a raise to seven cents an hour from five. (In addition, the workers receive food and lodging.)

Also, millions of Negroes still prefer the tribal life in the bush, and it is British policy to encourage this way of life. The tribal chiefs thus can be held responsible for maintaining order. These factors weigh against the concept of partnership.

Rapid Reading Class to Start

MSUO Center Offers Course Monday Nights for Eight Weeks

The Continuing Education Center of Michigan State University Oakland will offer a rapid reading course starting Monday.

"The object of the course is to increase both the reader's speed and comprehension," said Dr. Lowell Eklund, director of the Center. "It is particularly designed for individuals for whom reading is a significant part of their daily work."

Dr. Eklund said the course, however, would be of interest to all persons seeking to improve teh efficiency and economy of their time spent in reading whether it be the newspaper, professional materials, periodicals or just recreational reading.

According to Dr. Eklund, the techniques employed in the course, if applied with reasonable diligence, are guaranteed to increase the reader's speed at least 200 to 300 per cent.

Many find that with continuing practice of the methods learned, their speed and comprehension continue to increase long after the course is over, Dr. Eklund reported.

Instructor for the course will be Dr. Russell L. Jenkins, assistant professor of communication skills at Michigan State University.

The class will meet from 7 to 10 p.m. each Monday for eight weeks. It will be limited to 25 and interested persons are asked to enroll in advance.

Last Sunday she placed flowers on his grave. Monday she shot herself in the chest with a rifle. She was reported in fair condition.

"She feels her whoe world has collapsed," said her mother, Mrs. Edward Farley. "She still wears his ring. She won't take it off."

Why Do Politicians Deny They Want to Run?

NEW YORK — Sen. John F. Kennedy, one of four or five Democrats who are busily campaigning for the party's nomination, had a hard time last week drowning out the others. Each was swearing he is not busily campaigning for the nomination.

I've often wondered why so many people in politics, even responsible people like Kennedy, go to such elaborate pains to deny ambitions in the midst of the most ambitious political calistbenics. This much is almost glaringly apparent: any man who runs for any office beyond that of dog-catcher would like to run for President.

Any man who makes his way politically to the governor's mansion or a seat in the U.S. Senate must long to move onward and upward to the White House. The hunger of any vice president must be such that it takes colossal will power to conceal it. Richard Nixon is the only American who cannot hold out his hand to Dwight D. Eisenhower, smile and say, "How do you feel?"

So Kennedy is running, and so is Sen. Symington, Sen. Johnson, Sen. Humphrey, Sen. Kefauver, Gov. Meyner of New Jersey and—for all his laughter—Gov. Pat Brown of California.

Pat, incidentally, has a very amusing speech (written for him by Dore Schary) in which he pays glowing tribute to the whole horde of Democratic hopefuls, and then concludes, "I'd be proud to have any one of them as my running mate."

Adlai Stevenson is running, too. Every fibre in that man must tingle at the prospect of running against someone other than the inshatterable folk hero, Eisenhower. I'm sure he's sure he could belt out Nixon, Rockefeller or any other Republican.

I'm sure he's sure that if the Democratic convention of 1956 had let Harry Truman have his way, and accepted Averell Harriman as the man to run against Ike, Stevenson now would be the number one candidate for the 1960 nomination.

Kennedy is going to jump into the Wisconsin primary next year with both feet, and the hope of his supporters is that the feet will land on Hubert Humphrey's neck. If Kennedy can win that primary—after breezing through the New Hampshire primary earlier — he'll be off and winging and may never be caught. Not even by Stevenson.

Friend of mine fell off the wagon with a splintering crash not long ago and went A.W.O.L. from home and hearth for three long days and nights. Returning, shaken and unshaven, he was struck with a brilliant idea. Before his wife could swing on him with the frying pan she had in her hand he said, "I hope you didn't pay the ransom! I had a terrible time escaping."

Same friend is a frustrated big game hunter. Not long ago he learned that the zoo in his home town was going to dispose of a very old and cranky lion. My friend volunteered to shoot the beast and dispose of it. He did so, then mounted the lion across the fender of his car and started to drive home through the busy main street.

"Yeah," my friend said, lighting a cigarette. "You should have seen the two that got away."

Security for You

Plan to Retire This Year?

By RAY HENRY

Here's how you can estimate your Social Security payments if you've been working fairly regularly, but plan to retire this year when you reach 65:

1. Write down the earnings on which you paid Social Security tax for the years listed in the chart below.

(If you don't know the amount of earnings on which you paid Social Security tax for the years listed, get out your W-2 employe tax forms for the years and—with the forms in hand—call or visit the nearest Social Security office. From these forms, your office can tell you the amount of earnings on which you paid the tax.)

Remember:

—The amount of earnings on which you could have paid tax during the years listed above was limited. So, be sure to only include on the chart the actual taxed earnings.

—The Maximum earnings on which you could have paid Social Security tax for the years 1951 through 1954 was $3,600 a year. For the years 1955 through 1958, the most you could have paid Social Security tax was on $4,200 a year.

—If, as a self-employed person, you were not covered by Social Security until 1954 to 1956, there'll be years listed in the chart above in which you had no earnings on which you paid Social Security tax.

2. Now cross off the chart the five years in which your taxable earnings were lowest or in which you had no earnings.

RECORD EXAMPLE

For example: Suppose your earning record looks like this—1951, $3,100; 1952, $3,300; 1953, $3,400; 1954, $3,600; 1955, $3,700; 1956, $4,200; 1957, $4,200; 1958, $4,200. You would cross off the years 1951 through 1956 since they're the five years with your lowest earnings.

3. Total up your earnings for the years which remained after you crossed off the five years of low or no earnings.

Using the example above, this means you would add your earnings for the years 1956, 1957 and 1958. Each year you had $4,200, so the total would be $12,600.

4. Now divide the total earnings by the number of months in the years you used to get your total earnings.

Thus, you used three years—that is, 36 months—to get your total earnings of $12,600. So, you would divide $12,600 by 36. The result is $350. This is what's called your "average monthly earnings."

AVERAGE MONTHLY EARNINGS	YOUR PAYMENTS
$ 50	$ 33
100	59
125	68
150	73
175	79
200	84
225	89
250	95
275	100
300	105
325	111
350	116

Parolee Mute at Arraignment in City Holdup

A Pontiac man on parole from a federal penitentiary yesterday stood mute when arraigned before Oakland County Circuit Court Judge H. Russel Holland on a charge of burglarizing a Pontiac drug store last August.

Judge Holland entered a plea of innocent for Leroy E. French, 49, of 755 E. Mansfield Ave., and set his trial for the April court term. French was taken back to the county jail unable to post a $1,000 bond.

Pontiac Police and FBI agents took French into custody March 20 after they had learned about his whereabouts and had given him 15 minutes to surrender. He did so in front of a downtown hotel.

French is charged with stealing $200 and blank money orders from the Furtney's Drug Store, 974 Joslyn Ave., and then spending the money here and in other states.

This was made possible, police said, after French broke into a Clarkston coal yard and took a check protector for use in falsifying the money orders.

Another Pontiac man arrested for the same alleged crime, James Mattson, 24, of 758 E. Mansfield Ave., also stood mute yesterday. Judge Holland entered an innocent plea for him and allowed him to remain free on a $300 bond.

Flint Trio Sentenced for Gas Station Job

One Flint man received an 18 months to 15-year prison sentence yesterday while two other companions from Flint were placed on probation for three years by Oakland County Circuit Judge H. Russel Holland for breaking into a Brandon Township gas station last month.

Sentenced to the State Prison of Southern Michigan at Jackson was Robert Brown, 25. Placed on probation were George Ahrns, 18, and Ronald Spees, 19. Ahrns also received 30 days in the county jail.

The trio was nabbed by Oakland sheriff's deputies after Ahrns and Brown were spotted fleeing from the station, 2140 Ortonville Rd. Spees was later apprehended in his car after dropping his companions off at the station.

Illinois Sheriff Sports Texas Ranger's Six-Gun

MURPHYSBORO, Ill. (UPI)—Jackson County Sheriff Raymond Dillinger packs a single-action six-gun that once was used by Capt. Walter Druce of the Texas Rangers.

Druce used the gun about 1880 and it was passed on to relatives after his death. Dillinger bought the 44-40 caliber Remington at an auction and his wife fashioned a holster so he could carry it.

Oakland Family Service Meeting Held

"Today's Challenge in Social Work" was the theme of the ninth annual meeting of Family Service of Oakland County, held Monday evening in Bloomfield Hills High School.

Mrs. Noel A. Buckner, president, welcomed the executive board, staff members and guests, and introduced Robert Janes, new executive director, who on April 15 will take over the position held for the past 13 years by Estella Martin. Miss Martin resigned the latter part of February.

Dean Fidele Fauri, dean of the School of Social Work at University of Michigan and a professor of public welfare administration, was guest speaker for the evening. Using the theme of the annual meeting as his topic, he noted that significant progress has been made in social services during the last 25 years and a significant rate has been assumed by the voluntary agencies.

Today the agencies can concentrate their assistance on treatment and prevention, he said. Michigan Family Service Agency has been able to expand and further their services.

Speaking particularly of unemployment, Dean Fauri pointed out how our present unemployment insurance protection program is not adequate, and cited the need for increase in national responsibility, so Congress won't have to use "stopgap legislation" to solve problems.

Dean Fauri stated: "I think the challenge to social work today is clear. We have the same responsibilities as those assumed by the social work leaders of the 30s — to make certain that the health and welfare needs of citizens are made known and are given consideration by our state and federal legislative bodies.

"For only with sound governmental programs to serve as the underpinning can we succeed in having a true partnership between governmental and voluntary programs and thus meet the needs of our citizens."

OFFICERS NAMED

During the business meeting, the following were elected to serve for three-year terms on the board of directors: James C. Allen, John F. Allen, Paul Allison, Ruben Harris, Roy B. MacAfee, Mrs. Jack Moskowitz and Mrs. Theodore Wiersema.

Members of the Junior League of Birmingham were hostesses for the social hour held following the meeting.

Vary Accessories to Set Mood, Change Personality

"The way American women use accessories to achieve a well-put-together look for every situation always amazes me," said Mme. Elsa Schiaparelli.

"Especially by working women who extend the hours of every dress they own by adding a different bag, a hat, a pair of gloves, and so appear at business, chic and tailored, and then arrive for dinner and the theater, feminine and appealing."

NEW ACCESSORIES

The clever girl, who has a social evening planned reaches business in the morning with a complete new set of accessories to refresh her at five.

At the end of her office day, her simple pearls may become a set of glowing pastel crystals. She dons a fresh pair of white kid gloves that do not show the vestiges of the day's activities. Perhaps a gay, little hat is added, a softer handbag. And, of course, a change in shoes that relaxes as well as becomes.

★ ★ ★

She may cope with a severe neckline that would define a tired expression in the evening by selecting a soft scarf or adding a touch of white at the throat to banish a drawn look.

★ ★ ★

Actually, accessories are as important as the dress or suit one is enhancing. One should spend as much time choosing them, as one does the dress and makeup one wears. And, in the same way, they should be manipulated to focus attention on the best feature.

ONE SOLUTION

One young woman solves her accessory problems when she selects a dress, and her plan can be followed by many.

She asks the saleswoman to suggest accessories that would be suitable and becoming. In many shops the saleswoman will be able to bring a selection to you as you wear the dress in the fitting room.

★ ★ ★

In that way she saves herself the time and trouble of shopping again for shoes, for gloves, handbags, jewelry, that will coordinate. She also eliminates the special feats of memory required to choose harmonizing colors when the dress is at home and cannot be compared. She is able to view the entire ensemble at once.

This young woman, of course, is extremely well-dressed. And admiring friends often wonder how she is able to do so much, so well.

CREATE ILLUSION

Accessories too, can create illusions. Belts, so smart and original this season, can create a slim silhouette when they are narrow themselves, and can give a slender girl perfect proportion if they are wide.

The correct hat can call attention to the eyes — can make them larger. A bit of veil adds mystery.

★ ★ ★

Working with basic clothes, accessories set a mood and change the personality. They transform a 'gamine' into a 'femme fatale,' a tailored lady to an outdoor type.

So many garnishes for blanc mange (cornstarch pudding that is vanilla flavored): Toasted coconut, pineapple chunks, sliced bananas, semi-sweet chocolate pieces, preserved ginger, fresh orange wheels.

Exercise Helps

Proper Food May Be the Answer

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Constipation still remains one of the curses of modern living. Highly refined foods and the rush and tension in which we exist are two major factors.

Regardless of all information concerning good nutrition which is available to the public, there still are tens of thousands of folks who eat a minimum of fresh fruits and vegetables and consume a diet consisting mainly of meat and potatoes, bread and pastry, with a small glass of orange juice each morning as a token recognition to essential foods.

There are special exercises which are of great value in overcoming intestinal sluggishness. In this position push the abdominal muscles up, then pull them down.

Meat and potatoes and bread are essential to good health, but too often so much of these is included in the menus that there is little room left for other foods.

Vegetables and fruits are not only valuable because of their mineral and vitamin content, but because they supply roughage. Roughage is a great aid to good elimination.

A recent letter from a reader tells me that she has been on a reducing diet and has lost successfully but that she has had trouble with constipation during the diet and since.

A proper slimming diet should not have this effect. It will include lots of fresh vegetables and fruits and fruit juices, as well as meat and some potatoes and bread. Fruits and vegetables especially are important on low-calorie menus because they provide roughage and are filling as well as because of their health value.

The woman who becomes constipated while losing weight is not getting enough of these or has cut her food intake too drastically; she is not getting enough food.

SHOULD EXERCISE

Lack of exercise is another contributing factor to constipation. The whole system may become somewhat stagnant with the sedentary life. Also there are special exercises which are of great value in overcoming intestinal sluggishness.

Here is one. Lie on the floor on your back with your arms resting on the floor at your sides. Bend both knees and place the feet flat on the floor. Push the abdominal muscles up toward the ceiling as far as you can. Pull the abdominal muscles down toward the floor as far as possible. Continue. Do this very slowly. This acts as an internal massage.

My leaflet about constipation has helped thousands of people. It gives you information about diet and exercise and lots of other suggestions which do not lend themselves to a newspaper column. If you would like to have it send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 23, "Are You Committing Suicide Slowly?" Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Fair Sex Shines in Legislature, Business, the Arts

In Free China — It's a Woman's World

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

Free China today is a woman's world, says pert, petite Elizabeth Wang, a member of the Taiwan Legislature, now visiting America at the invitation of the U. S. Department of State.

"We have 64 women members of the Legislative Yuan out of 500," says Mrs. Wang. "In the National Assembly there are 210 women. There is no field in business, the professions or the arts where women are not making distinguished records."

A graduate of the University of North Carolina, she is married to C. Y. Chang, also a member of the Legislature, and has three sons: Bobby, 17, a student at Cheng-Kung University; Eddie, 15 and Frank, 3.

"We call them by American names," laughs Mrs. Wang. "They have long Chinese names, too, but these ar- easier."

Daughter of a high official, Elizabeth was born in Kiang-Su province on the mainland of China, and was educated in Chinese schools and colleges before coming to the United States to take a master's degree at Chapel Hill, N. C.

"I got back to China just before Pearl Harbor," says this modern daughter of an ancient race. "I was married in the early days of the war, and then afterward came the Communist conquest of our country. My husband and I escaped to Formosa with our children.

"The constitution of Taiwan was adopted in 1947, and I have been a member of the Legislature since 1948, as have many other women.

"There is so much to be done, the need and the opportunity are so great, that the days never seem long enough to get everything done."

Mrs. Wang and her family live in a modern Japanese style home in the city of Taipei, and have three servants—a nursemaid, a housekeeper and a chauffeur to drive the tricycle ricksha which is the family vehicle.

Women of Taiwan don't waste time debating about whether to have a career or marriage, says Mrs. Wang. They have both, as a matter of course, working at their job during business hours, taking part in all community and national issues and running their homes with graciousness and ease.

"Everybody who wants to work can get a job in Taiwan," says she. "We have great prosperity, and great development. We have no beggars, no illiteracy and no juvenile delinquency.

"Sometimes it takes disaster to bring out the full powers of a people. I think that is true today of Free China."

Pie Made With Vinegar Has Penn-Dutch Flavor

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

Today's recipe is for an unusual pie. It is slightly reminiscent of Shoo Fly pie. Mrs. Ray Howard who gave us the recipe says it is very old.

Mrs. Howard, the mother of two boys, is active in Cub Scouting and the Sylvan Garden Club. She likes to sew and to work with plants indoors.

OLD TIME PIE
By Mrs. Ray Howard

½ cup raisins
3 eggs, beaten
½ cup dark corn syrup
⅔ cup cracker crumbs
½ cup butter or margarine
4 tablespoons vinegar
1¼ cups sugar
Unbaked pie shell

Mix first 7 ingredients together and pour into unbaked pie shell. Bake 30 minutes at 375 degrees, or until firm.

Bring to Life Your Artificial Bouquets

If you occasionally wear those lush artificial flowers with your wardrobe, you can bring them to life by adding a touch of fragrance.

The best method is to apply it to the backs of the flowers next to the stems. By spraying the front petals you are taking a chance on changing their delicate coloring.

Dress Up When You Feel Down

Instead, reach for your most colorful print and accent its bright, gay look with a makeup which is equally exciting.

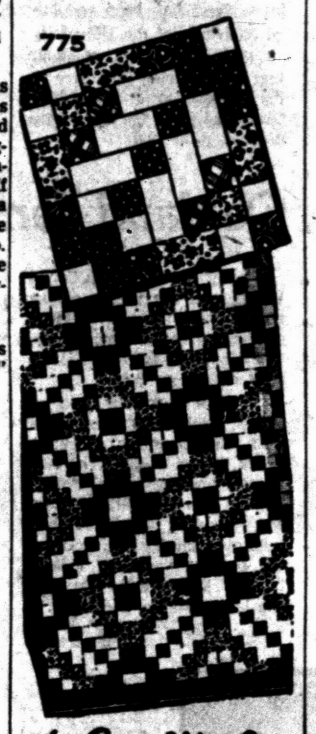

★ ★ ★

Forget how you feel for the moment and apply a beautiful finish to your complexion with foundation make-up. Pick up your spirits by dramatizing your eyes with mascara, eyebrow pencil and a bright stroke of eye shadow stick which matches a color in your print.

★ ★ ★

With lipstick, pick-up a warm tone in your dress design or make it an interesting contrasting note. Cancel the mood entirely with the addition of rouge and the important dimension of cologne.

Unrelieved black is unquestionably aging. So when you buy a black dress, plan to enliven it with brilliant costume jewelry, chiffon scarves or other bright touches.

If Well Bred You Treat All Politely

By EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please print a few words to the unthinking multitudes who daily show lack of manners to the people they come in contact with every day? The same people who worry over having things "just so" for a dinner party will throw tact to the four winds when it comes to dealing with the butcher, grocer, telephone operator, etc.

"Being a check-out clerk in a super market I actually blush at the way the "gentler sex" treat those who serve them. They seem to think these people are beneath them and that it is not necessary to show them any politeness. Millions of people read your column and I feel sure that a statement from you will help put an end to this rudeness."

Answer: Such behavior shows complete ignorance of good manners. Certainly gentle and well bred people have a kindly feeling toward their neighbors and couldn't have such an impulse.

"Dear Mrs. Post: When a husband invites two business men and their wives — all strangers to his wife — to his house for dinner, is his wife supposed to do anything about seconding his invitation? If so, what?"

Answer: She should send notes or telephone messages to the wives if she possibly can. If this is not possible, then the guests should at least be reassured by the husband who should relay a message of welcome such as, "My wife is looking forward to meeting you."

"Dear Mrs. Post: When one calls a messenger to deliver a package to someone, who is supposed to tip him Does the sender tip him beforehand or does the receiver tip when the package is delivered? Or is it necessary to tip him at all?"

Answer: A tip is not necessary, but if one is given it is better that it be from the receiver for a service done.

"Dear Mrs. Post: As the mother of the groom I was shown to my seat in church just before the mother of the bride. I was very surprised to be taken up the side aisle and seated from that position. Even more surprised when the bride's mother was seated the same way.

Answer: It was very unusual! But since this practice was followed with each of the guests, no one of them had reason for protest.

Have you heard about a shoulder shower hose with a shampoo spray attachment? One end attaches to the bathtub faucet, the other end forms a loose "collar" around the bather's shoulders. Since the spray starts at shoulder height milady's hair do is safe from splashes.

'Dollar Saved' Is Not 'Dollar Learned'—Abby

Miss of 11 Has Financial Problem

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

"DEAR ABBY: I am 11 years old and get one dollar a week allowance but I might as well get nothing because I have to put it all in the bank. My girl friend gets 50 cents a week but she can do anything she wants with it. Don't you think a person should be able to do what they want with their allowance? If I had my way I'd save most of it anyway because I have been taught to save. I know what you are going to say but I want my parents to see it."

DOLLAR ALLOWANCE

ABBY

DEAR DOLLAR: When a child is given a dollar a week with instructions to bank it all—that is not an "allowance." An allowance (if only a quarter a week) is money which the person is allowed to spend or save, as he chooses. If children are to learn how to budget, save and spend money properly, they should be given the opportunity to handle it themselves.

★ ★ ★

"DEAR ABBY: Please tell that young lady who is so worried because she dreams about her old boy friends not to lose any sleep over it. I'm a grandmother and I have asked Frank Sinatra to put his arms around me and hold me tight and tell me that he loved me. I promised in my dreams that I would be his slave. I could go on and on, but I just want to say, Abby, that dreams don't mean a thing. My old grandpa is really the only one for me—when I'm awake."

GRANDMA

"DEAR ABBY: I met a guy in civilian clothes and fell for him. I found out later he was a Marine. I like him much better in civilian clothing. When he shows up in his uniform it spoils everything for me because I just don't like him in that uniform. To tell the truth it brings back memories about the time I was young and foolish in Quantico, Va., and I'd rather forget it. Should I ask him to wear civilian clothes all the time or not?" LIKES CIVIES

DEAR LIKES: Don't knock his uniform unless you are willing to tell him why. If this man plans a career in the Marine Corps, you'd better land a civilian if you intend to keep the situation in hand.

"DEAR ABBY: We have been married for 15 years. I am 50 and my wife is 40. She will not go anywhere with me because I am getting bald. When we go out for a long ride she falls asleep. We have no children and she doesn't work. When I come home at night we have supper. After that she lies down till about ten. Then she gets up and sets her hair and then she checks all the locks on the doors and comes to bed. She tells me that we are too old for affection and I should not bother her. I have never cheated on her. Do you think I am crazy?" NEGLECTED

DEAR NEGLECTED: How long have you been putting up with this? I am not qualified to pass judgment on anyone's mental state, but if you have any doubts you ought to see a doctor. And take your wife with you.

Social Climbers Are Determined People

RUTH MILLETT

It's easy to spot a social climber. They all work in the same, not-too-mysterious ways to get where they want to be.

The social climber does a lot for other people. But she is always helpful to those who are a notch above her in the community. She never finds time for those she has already outdistanced.

She may spend a lot of time doing charity work. But it's always organized charity, where she has a chance to serve on committees with women she might not have a chance to meet in any other way.

She is sure to be a name dropper, and she is also probably sure that she drops names so cleverly she slips them by without danger of being spotted as a name dropper. But, of course, she is never quite as clever as she thinks.

She is rarely friendly with her neighbors for the simple reason that her neighbors are never quite good enough for her. When they are, it means she has arrived and no longer needs to be a social climber.

Her husband may or may not be playing the game with her. If he is you can be sure he is very flattering to the older women who are recognized social leaders.

If he doesn't share her social ambitions she usually picks the role she thinks he can play and builds him up to fit it—"interested only in his work . . . a man of few words but unerring judgment . . . an intellectual."

She is so often successful in reaching her goal, and is so tireless in working to arrive at it that you can't help wondering what she might not have accomplished if she turned her efforts elsewhere.

But the social climber doesn't have the urge to accomplish anything on her own.

Ike Sends Gift of Crystal to Crown Prince Akihito

TOKYO (AP)—Two large boxes of Steuben glassware from President and Mrs. Eisenhower arrived in Tokyo by plane Monday night to join the growing collection of wedding gifts for Crown Prince Akihito and Miss Michiko Shoda.

Reliable sources said the Eisenhowers sent a crystal bowl and an electrically illuminated vase, valued at $1,400.

The American Embassy is expected to deliver them in the next few days. The wedding is set for April 10.

Japanese law prohibits the crown prince from accepting gifts, so the Diet Parliament pushed through a bill last month lifting the ban between March 21 and April 30.

The first foreign gift to be received was a silver and gold Peruvian objet d'art from President Manuel Prado of Peru and his wife.

The imperial household announced gifts of food, live animals, beverages, weapons, cash or securities would not be accepted.

Akihito's parents, Emperor Hirohito and Empress Nagako, are expected to give the couple only small token gifts. This will be done privately and no announcement will be made.

Road Betterment Program to Be on Commerce Ballot

By STAN BOK
Pontiac Press Correspondent

COMMERCE TOWNSHIP — Voters of Commerce Township will have an opportunity to put a five-year road improvement program in effect when they go to the polls April 6.

If approved, the road improvement proposition will involve a two-mill tax levy which will amount to slightly less than $4 per $1,000 of assessed property valuation.

Since the average assessment for all Commerce Township properties is about $2,000, the proposed road paving proposal will cost taxpayers less than $40 for the entire five-year period, according to Thomas C. Tiley, Commerce Township supervisor.

Commenting on the road paving proposal, Supervisor Tiley stated that Commerce Township residents would probably realize a saving from the road improvement program in the form of lower auto and school bus maintenance costs.

"If Commerce Township residents want better roads, this proposal is the only answer," Tiley advised. He pointed out that Oakland County cannot pave roads in Commerce Township (or any other municipality) unless the municipality pays one-half of the cost.

The two-mill tax increase will produce about $50,000 per year or $250,000 for the five-year span. Tiley said that the county will eventually match that appropriation, though not necessarily within the five-year period. This would boost the total amount to $500,000.

Tiley estimated that about 17 miles of important roads could be paved for the total figure, based on the latest estimate of $30,000 per mile of paving.

★ ★ ★

A thru north-south route will be paved first. It would include West Maple road, from Walled Lake city limits to Benstein; Benstein road to Sleeth road; and Sleeth road east to Commerce Village.

Other roads included in the first group to be paved are Ladd, Glengary, Carroll Lake, Wise, Bass Lake, Sleeth (from Bass Lake to Wixom), and Welch.

A second group of roads to be paved includes Newton, Richardson and Oakley Park east. A third group includes a section of West Maple road, Loon Lake road (from Benstein to Wixom city limits), and McCoy road.

If the proposal is adopted by taxpayers, all roads in the first group will be paved before work begins on roads in the second group, Tiley said.

Seek Hospital Grant Balance

Approval of $316,000 in Tax Notes Pending Before Commission

City commissioners will be asked tonight to begin action completing the $950,000 grant for Pontiac General Hospital furnishings and equipment.

Up for approval is a resolution authorizing the borrowing of the third installment, $316,000, in anticipation of the 1960 tax collections.

Included in the resolution is a section authorizing the city clerk to seek bids for sale of tax anticipation notes.

Notes covering the first two installments of $317,000 each were purchased last year by the Community National Bank.

These notes were sold in anticipation of 1958 and 1959 taxes. The loans are being paid back out of taxes that normally would go into capital improvement funds.

Commissioners are to hold public hearings on intention to blacktop five streets and install curbs and gutters on four others.

Scheduled for blacktopping are Euclid avenue, between High and Jefferson; Adelaide street, Oakland to west of Baldwin; Harriett street; Cadillac to Adelaide, Kenney road, Oakland to Stanley; and LeGrande avenue, Baldwin to Euclid.

Scheduled for curbs and gutters are Carlisle avenue, Columbia to Sheffield; Carlisle avenue, Walton to Chicago; Carr street, Mt. Clemens to Pontiac Knolls subdivision; and Colgate avenue, Baldwin to Carlisle.

Up for final passage is an ordinance amendment placing ice-vending machines under the city's ice ordinance. They presently are covered by the vending machine ordinance.

Columbiaville Man Dies in Saginaw

SAGINAW (AP) — George McIntyre, 63, former chairman of the State Agricultural Commission, died in a Saginaw hospital last night.

Long associated with Frutchey Bean Co., McIntyre made his home near Columbiaville in Lapeer County at the time of his death.

He was a director of the United States Trotting Assn., and former president of the Michigan Harness Horsemen Assn.

Cause of death was not announced. He had been ill a short time. Funeral service will be tomorrow at Otter Lake.

Bus Fares in Detroit to Be Raised a Nickel

DETROIT (UPI) — Bus fares probably will be raised a nickle to 25 cents by July 1 to meet wage demands, get the system out of the red and provide money for new coaches.

Two of the three DSR commissioners said yesterday they favor the proposal being urged by two unions representing bus drivers and maintenance men.

A 10 cent hourly pay increase, recommended by city officials, if given the DSR's 3,000 employes would cost more than $800,000 a year.

Appeal Troop Ruling in Japan's High Court

TOKYO (AP) — Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi's government is expected to go direct to the Supreme Court to seek constitutional approval for the presence of American troops and bases in Japan.

Kishi called a Cabinet meeting today to discuss the Tokyo District Court ruling that the security treaty with the United States and companion agreements violate "no war" Article 9 in Japan's constitution.

Kishi challenged the ruling and said the nation's defense policy — built around American bases — would stand firm until the case is tested in the highest court.

Delay Hearing on Surfacing

April 13 Date Set for Meeting on Lansdowne Bonding Issue

The Waterford Township Board last night again postponed the final hearing on the blacktopping of Lansdowne and Marion streets. The new date is April 13.

★ ★ ★

This action was taken on the recommendation of bonding attorney Milton Thompson so that one block on Camley street may be included in a three-parcel bonding issue.

Thompson told the Board that there would be a great savings if the three streets were included in one issue. The Camley street project has been authorized, but was put aside until the other two streets can "catch up," according to Township Clerk James Seeterlin.

In other business the Board authorized that $1,500 from the seven township subdivision water system be transferred to water system No. 1 in the Huron Gardens area.

This water system has borne the general and administrative costs amounting to $11,371 during the past year, it was pointed out. Seeterlin was authorized to transfer 12½ per cent of this total back to the Huron Gardens system.

A special meeting has been scheduled for 6 p.m. Friday to discuss the 1959-60 annual township budget prior to the annual township meeting at 1 p.m. Saturday.

Charles Dickens' "A Christmas Carol" was first published in London in 1843. The American public first became familiar with his works when they were published in U. S. newspapers.

Residents to Have 'Day in Politics'

By REBA HEINTZELMAN

Township officials all over Oakland County are again getting their proposed budgets set up for the annual township meetings to be held from 1 to 6 p.m. Saturday.

★ ★ ★

For more than 50 years, residents have had the opportunity of attending this one board meeting a year to voice their approval or disapproval of township government policies.

A simple majority—usually determined by a voice vote or the raising of hands—is sufficient to approve anything in self-government which does not violate the state or federal constitutions.

Many officials feel that this is an antiquated and dangerous law. Waterford Township Supervisor Elmer Johnson pointed out that a small minority of the overall township population, could benefit themselves at the expense of all taxpayers, by approving a road, sewer, or zoning project at the annual meeting.

At this one meeting, a controling group of people could abolish all taxes for the next year, or raise the tax rate on any specific project, and in general, "wreak havoc" with government operation, Johnson said.

Although in 1955 the Legislature authorized townships with a population of 5,000 or more to abolish the annual meetings, not one of Oakland County's 23 township governments has taken advantage of this law, according to courthouse records.

Waterford and Bloomfield townships both attempted to do away with the annual township meetings by popular vote last year, but were soundly defeated.

Independence Township Supervisor Duane Hursfall has full confidence of the people in this area not going overboard on drastic issues, and said, "I think the annual township meetings are a good thing for this area. It gives the residents a chance to express themselves, and for officials to know what the people expect."

★ ★ ★

When annual township meetings first came into being in the early 1800s, officials were elected, bills read, and occasionally a new law passed. The meetings were short and to the point.

★ ★ ★

At the present time, most townships with large populations meet weekly and byweekly to transact current business, and systematic planning goes into the government operation.

★ ★ ★

"The annual township meeting is an antiquated thing as far as Waterford Township is concerned. It doesn't make sense that any majority group could come in for selfish purposes and do anything they want to," Johnson concluded.

Another outfielder, Gene Stephens, is sidelined with a badly sprained thumb. Jackie Jensen, the American League's MVP, has just returned to the line-up after missing valuable time with a tooth infection.

While Higgins pondered his misfortune, a knowing smile crossed the face of Milwaukee Manager Fred Haney as he checked the reaction to his charges of complacency among the National League champions. Stung by the accusations, the Braves laced 15 hits yesterday and broke a three-game losing streak with a 12-2 thumping of St. Louis.

★ ★ ★

In other games, New York defeated Cincinnati 4-0, Chicago's Cubs clubbed San Francisco 10-8, Detroit beat Los Angeles 8-4, Philadelphia subdued Washington 11-7, Pittsburgh bopped Baltimore 8-4 and Chicago's White Sox nipped Kansas City 5-4.

Sammy White's single in the ninth drove home Gernert, with the winning run for the Red Sox.

Hank Aaron's three-run homer paced the Milwaukee attack which also included four hits by Del Rice. Carl Willey and Bob Rush six-hit the Red Birds.

Veterans Bobby Shantz and Virgil Trucks combined for the Yankees' third shutout triumph of the exhibition season. Don Newcombe pitched four-hit ball for the Reds, but took the loss.

Dale Long broke out of a slump with two home runs as the Cubs and Giants shared eight blasts equally. Bob Speake's homer for San Francisco was his first hit of the spring. Cubs' catcher Sammy Taylor spent the night in a hospital after being struck on the head by the backlash of a bat.

Carl Sawatski's two-run pinch single provided the impetus as the Phils, blanked on one hit for five innings by Senator rookie Jack Kralick, erupted for six runs in the sixth.

Ron Kline picked up three RBI and went the distance for the Pirates. Pittsburgh was outhit 14-8 but three Oriole errors made the difference.

Shakes Off Collision With Tree to Keep Hitting; Foytack Shines

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP) — Al Kaline seems to have found a cure for the spring woes that have been nagging him for years.

Even a collision with a palm tree couldn't slow down the Tigers' young veteran yesterday over at Vero Beach. Kaline blasted in five runs with two doubles and a sacrifice fly as the Tigers beat the Los Angeles Dodgers, 8-4.

"As you know," Kaline said, "one of my problems has been trying to get away to a fast start. It takes me until the middle of June before I start hitting the ball where fielders can't get to it. By then the Yankees are way ahead and we never get a chance to catch up.

"That's why I've been working so much this spring — to see if I can beat the bad start. I've been working on my fielding as much as my hitting, too."

Kaline's do-or-die fielding yesterday must have made manager Bill Norman squirm with fright.

The right fielder was in hot pursuit of a high fly by John Roseboro when a tree stopped the chase in the sixth inning. There's no fence on the Dodgers' spring training grounds, just palm trees to line the outfield. The ball fell for a double and Kaline escaped without injury.

But in the next inning he blasted a 375-foot double with the bases filled off Johnny Podres. The three baserunners scurried home and the Tigers snapped a 3-3 tie.

★ ★ ★

Kaline doubled in a run off Rene Valdes in the ninth. His sacrifice fly in the sixth drove in one of the Tigers' first three runs off Podres.

★ ★ ★

Foytack scattered 10 hits and struck out two Dodgers. But most encouraging was his control. Normally a wildman, Foytack went through his first nine-inning chore yielding only one walk.

The Tigers helped themselves to 11 hits after Podres took over for veteran Art Fowler in the fifth. Fowler held the Tigers hitless over the first four innings.

Harvey Kuenn tripled and drove in two Tiger runs. Foytack, Eddie Yost and Larry Doby all had two safeties in addition to Kaline.

The Tigers' were leading in the second game with the Dodgers, 1-0 in the fourth, when rain washed the whole thing away.

Detroit now stands 11-6 in Grapefruit League competition. That's the best Tiger record in Florida since 1953.

NHL Playoffs to Resume Tonight

Determined Toronto Is Only Club Without Key Men Ailing

By The Associated Press

If determination means much in winning hockey games then you can look for the Toronto Maple Leafs to face the Chicago Black Hawks in the Stanley Cup finals according to their coaches.

★ ★ ★

The other assorted experts around the National Hockey League are looking for the Montreal Canadiens to meet the Boston Bruins for the Cup.

All four clubs take a step in that general direction tonight when the semifinals resume at Chicago and Toronto. The Leafs, down 2-1 to Boston, try to even the series, as do the Hawks, also down 2-1 to Montreal.

The Hawks and Leafs both won last Saturday, which prompted coaches Punch Imlach, of Toronto, and Rudy Pilous, of Chicago, to begin talking about the Stanley Cup finals.

Imlach was the most optimistic.

"I think we can beat them now. If we hadn't won that big one Saturday, I might be ready to concede. But since we won I don't see how we can miss getting into the final," he said.

Toronto will get a big lift with the absence of Boston's Doug Mohns, its hard-charging defense man, out of tonight's game with an injured right knee. Bruin coach Milt Schmidt is expected to put Jim Morrison in Mohns' spot. No other lineup changes on either side are expected.

"That win Saturday was all they needed," he said. "Now they know those guys from Montreal can be had."

He too has an advantage with the absence of Montreal's high-scoring Jean Beliveau, who fractured two vertebrae after a board check by Glen Skov. Beliveau is not expected to return for the rest of the Cup play.

★ ★ ★

Montreal has 36-year-old veteran Ken Mosdell from its farm system to replace Beliveau and Chicago called up Ron Ingram from its Buffalo team in the American Hockey League for Vasko.

★ ★ ★

The rough play that has characterized the Canadiens-Hawks series will be continued, according to Pilous. He has given his team orders to hit hard and skate the Montrealers into quick submission.

"We're going to play it straight away and we're not fooling. We'll keep on hitting them and if the boys are skating as well as they did Saturday we'll be all right," he said.

★ ★ ★

"We're not going to be chased out of the rink, no matter what Pilous thinks . . . we have met rough teams before in Stanley Cup play We can handle them all right. . . ."

Matmen Want More Stress on Fall

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP)—The NCAA Wrestling Rules Committee sought Monday to enliven its sport by putting more emphasis on the fall.

As far as general spectator interest is concerned, a fall is to wrestling what the home run is to baseball.

The committee's move in this direction was shown in changing the rule to make it easier to get a predicament point.

In collegiate wrestling terminology a predicament "is a situation in which the offensive wrestler has control of his opponent in a pinning combination and a fall or near fall is imminent."

Last year the committee revised the rule to make it necessary to hold both shoulders within three inches of the mat for two seconds. This was changed to four inches and one second for next season.

Another way a predicament point can be earned is to get one shoulder touching the mat and the other at a 45 degree angle to the mat for one second. This formerly was two seconds.

In the National Collegiate meet here last week, only 19 falls were recorded in 267 matches and seven of those were by two men.

Committee Chairman Ray Sparks of Springfield, Mass. College said the group discussed but took no formal action on a proposal to re-evaluate the scoring for the take down, escape and reversal. An escape is worth just one point and the other two account for two points each.

Proponents of the proposed change wanted the take down and escape worth the same number of points. This proposal was aimed at powerful Oklahoma State, 21 times national champion, whose wrestlers are supreme at the two techniques.

The committee also awarded next year's three-day nationals to the University of Maryland, to be held the fourth week in March.

New West Loop to Sign Pact

Rose Bowl Seems Set

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — The new Athletic Assn. of Western Universities will take up where the Pacific Coast Conference leaves off in the annual Rose Bowl football game.

Representatives of the new conference — now composed of California, Southern California, UCLA and Washington — agreed yesterday to enter into a contract with the Tournament of Roses Assn., sponsor of the New Year's Day game. The agreement will become effective Jan. 1, 1961. It will be an open-end contract — one for which no termination date is fixed.

The Coast Conference goes out of business next June 30. But its contract with the Rose Bowl organization runs through next Jan. 1, and one of its present members is expected to represent the West in the 1960 game.

The agreement between the Rose Bowl and the Big Ten, which has been sending teams to the game annually since 1947, also expires after the 1960 game. Big Ten faculty advisers and athletic directors have indicated they want to renew the contract, but final action won't be taken until May.

The AAWU now goes unofficially by the name of the Big Four, but that could change before the Rose Bowl agreement takes effect. Stanford has been invited to become a fifth member.

★ ★ ★

The AAWU did not sign a contract yesterday, but agreed in principle to terms. The signing will come at another meeting, possibly in May. One of the provisions of the deal is that the Rose Bowl and the conference must give two years' notice before terminating the agreement.

Rookie Hadley May Start for Kansas City

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — When the American League baseball season opens 11 days hence, the man most likely to be on first base for Kansas City is Kent Hadley.

He is as green a rookie as ever you are likely to see.

But this 24-year-old slugger, who hit 34 home runs in the Class AA Southern Assn. last year, apparently has taken the first base job away from seasoned competitors Harry Simpson, Preston Ward and Dick Williams.

"Right now, Hadley is my first baseman," says Manager Harry Craft. "I can't say that he'll open up there because someone might still take the job away from him but as of now he's the No. 2 man."

In an attempt to give the other three men a shot at the job, Craft has kept Hadley on the bench for the last three exhibition games. It is noteworthy that neither Simpson, Ward nor Williams has been able to hit in the three games.

★ ★ ★

Hadley's rise to prominence in the Athletics' scheme of things can be attributed to two factors: (1) He is the best defensive first baseman on the team; (2) Simpson, Ward and Williams haven't hit well since spring training began.

At the start of training, the 33-year-old Simpson was regarded as the leading candidate, with Ward rated second and Williams third.

If the A's brass thought of Hadley at all it was with discontent. The club had to keep the 24-year-old player because all of his options have been exhausted. But it was felt that Hadley needed more work in the minor leagues.

★ ★ ★

Hadley seemed to be doing his best to confirm the opinion as he managed only one hit in his first four exhibition games.

Then the 6,3, 190-pound youngster found the range. In his next 5 games, he collected 9 hits in 15 at bats, including 2 home runs.

As quickly and as simply as that, Hadley went to the top of the class.

Hadley's only taste of major league ball came last year when he played three games with the A's. In 11 at bats, he got only two singles.

The Athletics brought him up after his good year with Little Rock in the Southern Assn. In addition to his 34 homers, Hadley drove in 91 runs. But his batting average was a puny .255.

Last year, incidentally, was Hadley's best in professional baseball. He has been playing only three years.

State's John Green MVP of Big Ten

CHICAGO (AP)—Johnny Green, Michigan State's great rebounder has been named the most valuable basketball player in the Big Ten this season.

Michigan's M. C. Burton finished second and Iowa's Dave Gunther third in the poll of conference coaches and veteran officials announced yesterday.

Wedding Bells for Pietrosante

ANSONIA, Conn. (AP)—Nick Pietrosante, Notre Dame's pile-driving All-America fullback who'll play for the Detroit Lions next football season, was married to his hometown sweetheart yesterday.

Pietrosante married Geraldine Cox, a nurse in nearby New Haven, at the Church of the Assumption here.

The newlyweds will honeymoon in the midwest and live at South Bend, Ind., until Pietrosante graduates from Notre Dame in June.

Spartans in NCAA Boxing Meet

RENO, Nev. (AP) — Five boxers who have won National Collegiate championships and five runnersup battle this weekend in the NCAA championships.

San Jose State, winner of the 1958 team crown, faces a rugged job in attempting to defend its laurels in the fighting on Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights.

Returning for a crack at a third NCAA title is Sacramento State's Jimmy Flood, who won at 156 pounds in 1957, repeated at 165 last year and will try again at that weight.

Seeking to defend their titles are John Horne of Michigan State in the light heavyweight class and San Jose's Archie Milton, the heavyweight king a year ago. Hal Espy of Idaho State, who won the heavy crown in 1957, seeks to retain that title.

In the list of those runners-up of 1958 who will try again are Ed Murakami, Cal Poly, 112; Nick Akana, San Jose State's 125-pounder of last year who now is in the 132 class; David Nelson, San Jose, who goes up one notch to 139; Joe Bliss, Nevada, 139 and Walt Halley, Cal Poly, also up a stage to 156.

The contestant with the most amateur titles is 112-pound Heiji Shimabukuro, a Hawaiian attending the College of Idaho. He has won 20 tournament titles in service and AAU competition and has a victory over last year's NCAA champ, T. C. Chung.

Teams expected to compete in the three-day tournament include defending champion San Jose State, Wisconsin, Michigan State, Rice, Virginia, California, Stanford, Santa Clara, San Francisco, Washington State, Idaho State, Sacramento State and Chico State.

Trio of Cage Stars Out of Pan-Am. Trials

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — All-America Bailey Howell of Mississippi State and Don Hennon of Pittsburgh won't play with the College All-Stars in the Pan-American basketball trials.

★ ★ ★

All-Star Coach Fred Schaus of West Virginia reported Monday that Howell and Hennon had notified him they would not play.

★ ★ ★

He said Joe Ruklick of Northwestern, also named to the college team, did not report and might skip the round-robin competition Thursday through Saturday.

Raugh Honored at Tiger Camp

LAKELAND, Fla. (UPI)—Jim Raugh, chunky 23-year-old right-hander from Cleveland, was named the most improved player on the Tigers' minor league roster this spring and was given the Wish Egan Trophy last night by club president Harvey Hansen.

Raugh, who posted an 8-3 record for the Southern Association and Dixie Series champion Birmingham Barons last year, has worked seven innings with the varsity this spring and given up six hits and one run. He picked up one victory.

Hansen also handed out championship rings to the members of the five Tiger farm teams that won league pennants last season.

Michigan 9's Draw Blank

Florida scored twice in the bottom of the ninth and edged Michigan 6-5. Host Florida State beat Michigan State 5-2 after the Spartans had posted shutouts in their first three games. Illinois set down Western Michigan 3-0 on two hits.

Bill Saba's single with the bases loaded brought Michigan's first defeat of the season. Bill Roman homered for the Wolverines and Jack Mogk slapped out three singles.

Venturi Picks Himself to Win

Masters Tournament Will Start Thursday

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—Ken Venturi feels he is "ready to pounce" and that's the way he prefers it for the Masters Golf Tournament, opening Thursday.

★ ★ ★

"Pick a winner? I pick me," the outspoken 28-year-old San Francisco professional said today as the game's elite gathered for the annual assault on the famed Augusta National course.

"I don't say that to be cocky. When I enter a tournament I feel I can win it. In this one, I believe I'm as ready as it is possible to be."

Venturi, who has let two of the last three Masters titles slip from his grasp, has been established as favorite in this 23rd renewal.

In 1956 as an amateur Venturi led through three rounds and then blew to an 80 which cropped the crown into the hands of a surprised Jack Burke. Last year Ken was the halfway leader but faltered. The title went to Arnold Palmer.

"In both instances the 14th was my jinx hole," the slender Californian said. "I think I know how to play the hole this time."

The 14th is Augusta's 400-yard par four "Chinese Fir" hole. It has a tricky undulating green which becomes a putting nightmare when the approach is left just below a fronting hump.

"I feel I have paced myself perfectly this year," Venturi said. "I feel just on the verge of going good — not quite but almost ready. That's the way I want it."

Venturi has had rounds of 68, 71, 68 over the 6,980-yard, par 72 course. Monday he toured the front nine in 31, five under par with an eagle at the fifth.

A crack field of international contenders joined such luminaries as Ben Hogan, Sam Snead and Cary Middlecoff in practice. The course was green and lush after two days of rain. Nobody was tearing it to pieces.

Howell Is Pistons' Top Choice

Knicks Select Green of MSU in NBA Draft

Detroit Pros Pick Lee of Michigan and Trade Jordon to Royals

CINCINNATI (AP) — Two All-Americas and the famed Wilt Chamberlain were among the first round choices in the National Basketball Assn. player draft today.

The Philadelphia Warriors exercised their territorial rights to Chamberlain, whom they claimed four years ago under a now-abandoned high school draft rule. The 7-foot-2 Chamberlain played last season with the Harlem Globetrotters.

The Detroit Pistons, next in the order of the draw, grabbed Bailey Howell of Mississippi State, also an All-America.

★ ★ ★

New York grabbed off a player thought to have been a prime Detroit choice, John Green of Michigan State, selected this week as the most valuable player in the Big Ten.

St. Louis took Bob Ferry of St. Louis University, and the Boston Celtics ended the first round by taking John Richter of North Carolina State.

The first trade popped up on the second round when the Cincinnati Royals, hard-pressed for a big man, swapped their choice and Archie Dees to Detroit for 6-foot-10 Phil Jordon, a veteran of three seasons in the NBA.

Exercising the choice traded by Cincinnati, Detroit took Tom Robitalle of Rice, and then picked Don Goldstein of Louisville as its regular choice.

AZALEA WINNERS — Art Wall Jr. (right), of Pocono Manor, Pa., and Mike Souchak, of Grossinger, N. Y., former Duke University golfers, took first and second place money yesterday in the Azalea Open golf tournament at Wilmington, N. C. Wall finished two strokes ahead of Souchak to win the tourney with a four-round total of 282 and $2,000 in top prize money. On hand to congratulate the two pros is Miss DeAnn Estes, Miss Wilmington.

Wall Cools Off but Wins Azalea

WILMINGTON, N. C. (AP) — Art Wall, a serious student of golf, tempered his enthusiasm over pocketing $2,000 first money in the $15,000 Azalea Open tournament yesterday with the observation that he hadn't played exceptionally well in the final round.

He had finished with a one-over-par 73 that gave him a 282 total, six under par, and a three-stroke margin over Mike Souchak, his ex-teammate on the Duke University golf squad.

Reminded that he has gone over par only seven times in 44 rounds, the 35-year-old Wall, who plays out of Pocono Manor, Pa., noted that five of his seven ventures over regulation figures have come in the final round.

"I can't understand that," he said. "I figure I'm as good as a charger at the finish as anyone. I'd prefer going into the masters at Augusta Thursday off a good closing round."

He is now a point ahead of Finsterwald, who shot the best score of the last round, 68, to win third place and $1,200 on a 287 total.

Souchak finished with a 71 for 285 and $1,500 runnerup money. Husky Mike, playing from Grossinger, N. Y., started the day five shots back of Wall in second place, then suddenly found himself in a second place battle with Finsterwald. Souchak's putter got him three birdies in the last five holes to nail down second money.

Next came Doug Ford, Paradise, Fla., and Don Whitt, Borrego Springs, Calif., tied at 291 for $850 each. In seventh at 292 for $750 was Bob Goalby, first day leader from Belleville, Ill.

The money list of 30 ran down to 302, one of the highest totals in years, due to three wet, windy days at the start of the tournament.

Hagan Duo Retains Top Slot in Elks Tournament

Despite numerous good threats, Arlette and Earl Hagan retained their position at the top of the heap in the Elks Mixed Doubles tournament after the 2nd weekend of competition.

The Pontiac couple and four other 1st week pacesetters held their ground but Norm Andress and his sister-in-law Martha Thorne of Pontiac gained a tie for 6th Saturday with 1237.

This duo could have taken over the lead if Mrs. Thorne could have exchanged her 401 tourney series for a 463 rolled in league play the same night.

A pair of Plymouth teams made strong bids to move in front but each faltered in the late stages to rank 8th and 9th.

The tournament will continue through April 26.

The leaders:

A. and E. Hagan, Pontiac	1282
V. and R. Boles, Keego	1268
L. Mason-R. Shadrick, Pontiac	1252
G. Wilkinson-H. Burton, Pontiac	1251
B. Shotwell-C. Shotwell, Pontiac	1247
M. Thorne-N. Andress, Pontiac	1237

Lane to Fight Busso Seeking 2nd Title Shot

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP)—Kenny Lane, the top contender for Joe Brown's lightweight boxing crown, will fight Johnny Busso in Hollywood Legion Stadium April 17 in an elimination bout.

Both Lane, from Muskegan Mich., and Busso, from New York, have been recent victims of Brown in championship fights. Brown beat Busso, his conqueror in a non-title bout last November, over the championship 15 round route in February.

The Lane-Busso battle was set for 10 rounds.

Robinson's Crown May Be in Jeopardy

MILWAUKEE (AP) — An official of the National Boxing Assn. said Monday it looks as though the NBA will withdraw its recognition of Ray Robinson as middleweight champion unless he signs for a title defense by April 25.

Ratings Committee Chairman Fred Saddy said a poll of the NBA's executive members "appears to be overwhelmingly against Robinson." Results of the poll have not been announced as yet.

Robinson hasn't defended his title since March 25, 1958, when he won it back from Carmen Basilio. The NBA requires champions to defend their titles at least once a year.

Compton Seeks U.S. Welter Title This Week at Toledo

Pontiac's state A. A. U. welterweight boxing champion Dick Compton left by bus this morning for Toledo where he will compete this week in the National A. A. U. tournament this week.

The blond 147-pounder could earn a berth in the Pan-American Games at Chicago next August by winning at Toledo. The top performers at Chicago will be eligible for the 1960 Olympics at Rome.

Compton, who was regional runnerup in Golden Glove competition this year, gained the berth in the Nationals by taking Michigan honors last week.

He won two bouts in impressive style March 24 and then was awarded the crown the following night when his opponent in the finals failed to appear.

Miami Paced Nation With 87.6 Average

NEW YORK (AP) — Miami of Florida, California, Auburn, Tulsa, Mississippi State and Southern Methodist were team statistical champions of major college basketball last season, figures from the NCAA Service Bureau showed today.

Miami averaged 87.6 points to win the offense title by less than three points from the 1958 champion, West Virginia. California, the NCAA tournament champion, led in defense with a 51-point yield.

Auburn topped the nation in field goal percentage with 48.8 per cent, Tulsa led in free throw shooting with 76.1 per cent, and Southern Methodist, repeating from a year ago, led in committing the fewest fouls per game—a 13.3 average. Leukemia Cell Viruses Found

Discovery May Pave Way for Treatment and Vaccine

EXCELSIOR SPRINGS, Mo. (AP)—Viruses, a suspect in the cause of leukemia, have been found in both human and chicken leukemia cells, a Duke University researcher said today.

And another virus which lives in the human intestine has provided an important clue to a defense against cancer-causing viruses, a University of Pennsylvania scientist suggested.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Joseph W. Beard of Duke and Dr. Seymour Cohen of Pennsylvania spoke at the week-long American Cancer Society seminar on cancer research problems and progress.

The virus invades the blood cells and converts their power plants into factories to produce more virus. As the virus units come off the stolen assembly line they infect more blood cells and turn them into more virus factories.

There is a great spurt of white cell growth in the blood—as if the cells are trying to outgrow the virus, Dr. Beard said. The viruses have discovered the secret of uncorking life's principal store of energy, a molecule package called ATP.

★ ★ ★

The virus, masquerading as an enzyme, knocks off an atom from this ATP bundle of energy, exploding the energy-packed compound. The cancer cell then spends this energy wantonly, probably producing more cancre cells.

The findings hold promise for probably producing more cancer and the production of a vaccine for the prevention and treatment of the disease.

Bostoner 'Presides' in Marquette Movie

Judge's Role a Natural for Lawyer

By KIM McIVER

MARQUETTE (AP) — "Mine is an agreeable courtroom and I am an honest and courteous but reasonably firm judge," said attorney Joseph N. Welch of Boston of his movie role as a judge in "Anatomy of a Murder."

Welch, displaying the wit and wisdom that won him a leading role in the Army-McCarthy hearings in Washington five years ago, today is starred in a new role as the trial judge in the film version of Justice John D. Voelker's best-selling novel.

"I have never acted before," said Welch, "although I will have to admit that the telephone rang several times with offers . . . but they never were my type of parts.

SURE THING — Four years ago Donna Anderson was discovered in Hollywood High School and signed to an exclusive contract. Since then she's completed high school, studied dancing, diction and drama, readying herself for stardom. This sure bet turned into a reality when a few months ago she was asked to play Tony Perkins wife in "On the Beach," in which she acts along with Gregory Peck, Ava Gardner and Fred Astaire.

"However, this role has something in it that called upon my small measure of talent."

Explained the Boston attorney: "I love trials and read everything I can about them. It is easy to get caught up in the fascination of this one.

"I not only feel like a judge, but I am the judge before the cameras. It is more than lines being tossed back and forth between Hollywood actors. It is a trial and you get caught up in the drama.

"You have less awareness of cameras in movies," the attorney said, recalling the television cameras at the Army-McCarthy hearing. "The red eye of the television camera is right there on top of you, while in a movie they are able to shoot from distances."

"It is a fascinating business," said Welch, and it is especially interesting to watch the director." He singled out producer-director Otto Preminger who he said must be "a most patient man."

Welch had just concluded 120 minutes under the hot lights for what he said must have been "three minutes of actual film time."

"I suppose every attorney thinks about being a judge at one time or another. But I thought I would always be an attorney. It has been a thrill to don the somber garb of a trial judge."

HIRED WIFE, TOO

Welch, following much discussion on whether he would take the role, asked Preminger about the hours of the working day. He was told it would be from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m., six days a week. To this he replied that it was much too long to be away from his wife. Mrs. Welch was hired as a juror.

Welch quipped that it would appear that the movie was getting off to a bad start since it was highly irregular for a judge to have his wife on the jury.

"However, I must admit there is a certain financial satisfaction involved."

"Both the novel and the script are well documented and it is an honest story, written the way people actually talk in a courtroom," Welch said.

Welch has helped with some of the technical advice but only in a small way, he said. "Just Saturday Voelker asked me what a trial lawyer would say as a witness was being called to the stand and I was able to supply the answer."

"Anatomy of a Murder" is a fictionalized version of an actual slaying which occurred at nearby Big Bay in 1952 and is being filmed completely on location in Marquette County. It is scheduled for release in July.

40 Head of Cattle Die as Truck Flips Over

IONIA (UPI) — About 40 head of cattle were trampled to death today when a semitruck transporting them to Grand Rapids went off the U.S. 16 expressway and tipped over on its side.

State Police said the accident occured when Cletus Lafallette of Blissfield, driver of the truck, fell asleep. About 80 head of cattle in the carrier survived the crash.

Pickax Murderer Gets Life Sentence

John U. Graddy, 27, stood up in the jury box of Oakland County Circuit Judge H. Russel Holland's courtroom yesterday and heard the sentence.

Graddy originally had been charged with first-degree murder in the Sept. 6 death of George Scholar, 68, but this later was reduced to second, to which Graddy pleaded guilty March 12.

Police said Graddy, who also took $55 from the victims wallet after the attack, fled to Chicago where he was picked up in January by FBI agents in a tavern.

British Stars Consider Arizona Ranch Just 'Pip'

By GENE HANDSAKER

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Why would two British-born movie stars buy and live on a big Arizona ranch 600 miles from their work here?

"It's a wonderful life," said Stewart Granger. "I'd like to stay there and never come back to Hollywood."

★ ★ ★

During a break the London-reared lass said of ranching: "I love it. We're up early, out riding, checking over the joint. It's a very full day."

Joint? At my request Granger described their spread:

Ten thousand acres of rolling hills just east of Nogales, five miles of the acreage on the Mexican border. Six-bedroom house, two-bedroom guest house, two-bedroom servants' quarters.

Television "in every room" with three - channel reception from Phoenix and Tucson. A 10-acre lake feeding a five-acre lake stocked with trout. Pool, tennis court. The Santa Cruz River coursing through cottonwoods.

Five hundred head of Charolais beef cattle, a French breed, "all white and enormous." "Seven families who work for us," their 20 children riding to a little red schoolhouse in a bus. Granger's two children by his former marriage—Jamie, 14½, and Lindsay, 13, a girl—in boarding school at Tucson, home on weekends.

How much of the work does he do?

"I don't dig a hole, but I say where the hole will go. I run the caterpillar and knock down trees. I love it. The evenings come far too soon."

Varying work schedules keep the Grangers apart at times, but "we just play it by ear." They'll make a picture together this summer in Singapore and London.

By auto and airliner they can get from ranch to Hollywood studio in three hours when the wind is right. While here they rent a five-room penthouse apartment. Daughter Tracy, 2½, comes along —"with 48 dolls and toy animals for her," Granger said.

"Security, it's terribly important," said Stewart. Bessie, a toy poodle who also travels with them, snuggled securely in his lap.

Lottery Ticket: Symbol of Hope

By JACK RUTLEDGE

MEXICO CITY (AP) — "When a woman feels blue, she buys a new hat. When a man fels low, down here he buys a lottery ticket."

And, says a news editor of a leading newspaper, "You have no idea what a boost it gives you."

"You immediately begin to dream of what you can do with that big prize you convince yourself you're going to win," he continued, fingering two tickets he had just bought.

"If debts are worrying you, you can pay them off. If your wife is nagging for new clothes, a million peso ($80,000), first prize is certainly the answer? Sickness? The money will pay for doctors and hospitals.

The national lottery in Mexico is operated by the government. Profits go to such welfare institutions as the children's hospital, the tuberculosis hospital, orphanages, the national school for the blind, maternity homes, and charity dining rooms. The lottery started in 1771.

There are three drawings a week, with prizes ranging from 250,000 to one million pesos. On national holidays and other important dates, the first prizes run up to 15 million pesos ($1,200,000).

After each Monday, Wednesday and Friday night drawing, the winning numbers are telegraphed to every nook and corner of the country.

Well over half of the money taken in goes to prizes, about 15 to 20 per cent to welfare groups and the rest to overhead and commissions to vendors.

Experts say that only one of every 50 to 80 tickets wins a prize exceeding the value of the ticket. A small percentage more than double the investment. And there's one chance in five of getting your money back.

Safe Driving Facts

Failure to Slow Up at Night Tempts Fate

By LOUIS CASSELS

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The average driver does not slow down at night. He should.

It found that night and day speed averaged about the same.

But it also found that accident involvement rates at night were twice as high, on the average, as in daytime. At speeds of 70 miles an hour and higher, the night time rate was four times as great.

There was some evidence that darkness, per se, is not the chief reason for higher accident rates at night. Fatigue, intoxication and other factors apparently contribute.

It was found that fatal accident rates reached a sharp peak between 2 and 4 a.m., but were less than half as high between 9 and 11 p.m.—both periods of darkness.

The study confirmed that the age of the driver has a major bearing on the accident rate. Drivers between 30 and 60 years of age had the lowest accident involvement rate. Those under 20 had the highest—250 per cent higher than the average for all drivers.

However much young people may protest the finding, the study also showed that young drivers cannot handle higher speeds as well as more mature drivers. At speeds beyond 65 miles an hour the accident rate for drivers under 24 rises much more steeply than the average for older drivers.

★ ★ ★

The study pinpointed members of the armed forces as a particularly reckless class of drivers on the whole. Servicemen in all age brackets had an accident rate twice as great as that of civilian drivers of comparable age.

The bureau's statistics show that women had a daytime accident rate 18 per cent higher and a night time accident rate 38 per cent higher than men of the same age bracket.

But—if professional male drivers (bus and truck drivers, chauffeurs, etc.) are eliminated, the accident rates for men and women drivers are approximately equal.

They are real. The study shows that it is approximately 25 per cent riskier, per vehicle-mile of travel, to venture onto the highways over a major holiday period. One-day midweek holidays produce a worse slaughter than those that occur on a weekend. Christmas is the worst. New Year's, for some reason, has a relatively low accident rate as holidays go.

The safety slogans which warn against drinking and driving were powerfully corroborated. The bureau reported that driving performances were affected by "even small amounts of alcohol."

Drivers who were found upon testing to have between 0.05 and 0.10 per cent alcohol in their blood had an accident involvement rate 50 per cent higher than those with no alcohol or less than 0.05 per cent (it takes about two highballs or two bottles of beer to produce a concentration of 0.05 per cent in the average adult.

Drivers with 0.15 per cent alcohol in their blood—the legal standard of intoxication in many states—had an accident rate 10 times as great as those with less than 0.05 per cent.

The bureau reported preliminary evidence that a wide variety of common drugs—including tranquilizers, antihistamines, barbituates and even aspirin—may affect vision or alertness and increase the risk of accidents. Further research will be done on this factor.

Don't Let Inside Know What Outside Is Doing

He had his reasons.

"I own property both inside and outside the city," Borchers said. "And I don't want my inside property telling my outside property what to do."

Job Market in Bad Shape

But Most Employers Expect Hiring Pickup This Spring

WASHINGTON (AP)—The job market is bad, worse than last year. But most employers expect a slight-to-moderate hiring pickup this spring.

★ ★ ★

The Labor Department's Bureau of Employment Security, reporting this Monday, said the rate of unemployment is six per cent, or worse, in 74 municipal areas in March.

This compared with 76 areas so classified in January and 70 in March last year.

The bureau's compilation of state-by-state bimonthly surveys of conditions in 149 labor market areas said:

Unemployment in many of the surveyed areas remained at relatively high levels for this time of the year. Employers are showing more optimism about the employment outlook over the next few months than they did at the same time last year.

Small to moderate job expansion is looked for over the next few months in a number of important durable industries, including steel, electrical machinery and fabricated metals.

The demand for steel in the now booming steel industry may be buoyed to some extent by stockpiling in fear of a possible steel strike this summer. This could result in a steel production letdown later this year whether or not a strike develops.

The Labor Department report said job conditions in major auto and aircraft centers are on the gloomy side indicating "a continued uncertainty about the short range employment outlook for these two industries."

Areas classified as having 12 per cent or more of available workers unemployed included Detroit and Muskegon, Mich.

Professors Say Americans Are Nonintellectual

LANSING (AP)—A pair of Michigan State University professors agree Americans have a great desire for education, but no respect for the educated man.

This conclusion was reached on a TV program by Philosophy Prof. Lewis Zerby and English Prof. Adrian Jaffe.

His listed power, success and sex appeal as non-intellectual values which advertisers apparently believe appeal to most American consumers.

Zerby deplored what he termed an anti-reason tenor pervading much of current American society and added:

"That sort of society may well be blown off the map by a society which is anti-intellectual, but which encourages the technical learning necessary for modern instruments of destruction.

"In the near future, reason may well be not only necessary for the good life, but for any life."

School Building Costs to Be Probed

LANSING (AP) — A Legislative study of school construction costs was proposed last night by Rep. Robert E. Waldron (R-Grosse Pointe).

Michigan is spending 150 million dollars a year to build new schools and improve old ones, Waldron said.

His joint committee of three senators and three representatives would study advances in designing and engineering of school buildings and use of new materials.

"Where the use of these modern, cost-saving techniques is being held back by obsolete statutes or building costs, antiquated practices or out-dated prejudices, the Legislature can probably be helpful," he said.

Parking Added on Saginaw St.

Shorter Bus Stop Areas Will Allow About 14 Added Car Spaces

At the request of several downtown merchants, the city has agreed to add parking spaces on downtown Saginaw street and allow parking at bus stops when buses aren't running.

Pontiac City Lines, Inc. has agreed to give up some of its bus stop space on Saginaw to make way for an additional 13 to 14 parking spaces, said Theodore M. Vanderstempel, Pontiac traffic engineer.

Four changes in Saginaw parking will go into effect at midnight Sunday, he said.

The bus stop on the west side of Saginaw between Huron and Lawrence streets will be shortened to extend only between Huron and the south end of the Oakland County Courthouse, Vanderstempel said, and parking will be allowed along the rest of the block.

Similarly, the bus stop on the east side of Saginaw between Pike and Lawrence streets will be shortened to extend only between Pike and the Strand Theater, he said, with parking allowed the rest of the block.

There will be a new bus stop on the northwest corner of Huron and Saginaw for buses coming in from the north, Vanderstempel said. At the same time, the present stop for such buses on the west side of Saginaw at Warren street will be eliminated, he added.

The new parking spaces available through these changes, he said, will be metered this spring in the same way that the rest of Saginaw is metered.

Until then, parking will be allowed in them for any length of time except between 2 a. m. and 6 a. m.

Night parking will also be allowed in the bus stops after the buses are through running, said Vanderstempel. This is after 7 p. m. Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday; after 10 p. m. Monday and Friday, and all day Sunday.

Caution Brings Market Losses

NEW YORK (AP)—The Stock Market inched to the downside as caution continued in early trading today.

The market showed no disposition to rally after yesterday's sharp loss which occurred in the face of encouraging economic news. The business and industrial background continued good but the market ignored it.

Kennecott was off a fraction while other coppers showed scant change. U. S. Steel and Republic Steel held firm while other leading steelmakers were practically motionless despite continuance of steel production at record levels.

The lower tilt was established for the list by losses among selected rails, chemicals, utilities, airlines, aircraft and mail order-retail stocks.

Union Pacific was down about a point. Fractional losses were shown by American Cyanamid, International Telephone, Eastern Air Lines, American Tobacco, Douglas Aircraft, Martin Co. and Sears Roebuck.

Thiokol dropped about 2. H. L. Green lost another 2 points while United Stores second preferred recovered a fraction after yesterday's loss.

Corn Steady, Others Mixed

★ ★ ★

Brokers said there appeared to be some opinion that a few contracts, particularly May wheat, had hit extreme tops and that now could be liquidated, even sold short, with considerably more confidence. May wheat was of a major fraction within the first few minutes while the new crop months attracted scattered support.

Continued light cash corn receipts and the purchase by Israel of 380,000 bushels over night were firming influences in that pit.

Wheat was ⅛ cent a bushel lower to ⅜ higher near the end of the first hour, May $2.08⅛; corn ⅛ to ⅛ higher, May $1.21⅛; oats ⅛ lower to ¼ higher, May 67⅛; rye ⅛ to ¼ higher, May $1.41; soybeans unchanged to ⅛ lower, May $2.25.

Door Shuts Out 12 Years Labor Over Elephant

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — A dozen years they've worked on it — off and on. Now it's finished. But alas, the blooming things too big for the door.

★ ★ ★

Not a boat. Not a plane. Not the work of home craftsmen but of experts, it stands, six feet tall, as fine a dwarf elephant as anybody ever saw.

Ease it through the door to an exhibit hall? Impossible, says Dr. P. C. Orr, curator. It won't fit. The slightest pressure and it would shatter into fragments.

Sentencing Date Set for Quintet in Narcotics Case

Sentencing of five men who have pleaded guilty to a reduced charge of possession of narcotics after they first stood mute on a more serious charge of selling dope has been set for next Tuesday.

★ ★ ★

Assistant Prosecutor Jerome K. Barry Jr. said the charge was reduced on all five when it appeared the prosecution's charge of selling dope was not too strong. Conviction for sale of narcotics carries a minimum 20-year sentence in Michigan.

Oakland County Circuit Judge H. Russel Holland scheduled sentencing for April 7 for William Barksdale Jr., 21, of Royal Oak; Willie Halliburton, 33, of 253 Bondale St.; Booker Gay, 25, of 3255 Branch St.; Lorenza Farrar, 45, of 196 S. Saginaw St.; and James Dooley, 30, of 38 Chapman St.

Marriage Annulled as Judge Sees Fraud

DETROIT (AP)—"This case smells all over of fraud," Circuit Court Judge Neal E. Fitzgerald said yesterday as he annulled the marriage of a 58-year-old dance student and his 25-year-old teacher.

"The woman was out on the prowl and lured this man into marriage," Fitzgerald added.

The judge granted the annulment after Ronald I. Hill of Windsor, Ont., testified his 1957 marriage in Detroit to Elizabeth McBride, also of Windsor, never was consummated.

Hill said he met his wife at a Windsor dance studio where he bought two life memberships for more than $8,000 each at her urging. He said he also gave her some $19,000 to establish a dance studio in Florida. He said that as far as he knows the studio never was established.

"I called twice for him to stop but he just kept running, so I fired," said Dep. Sheriff John Graves. "I hit him about two inches from where I wanted to. Just wanted to wing him."

McCampbell had been sentenced to 10 years for auto theft.

The sum so paid to the Township Treasurer shall be deposited by him in a separate bank account and shall be used solely for the payment of the township's obligation to the county to pay a certain percentage of the capital cost of a sewage disposal system to serve all of the Township of West Bloomfield, as provided in a certain contract, dated Nov. 1, 1957 as amended between the County of Oakland and the said townships and said Municipalities: Provided that the township, with the approval of the Township Board, may use any part of said moneys for the construction of trunk sewers which directly or indirectly discharge into said county sewage disposal system.

4. This ordinance is adopted for the purpose of assuring the County Board of Supervisors that the Township will be able to meet its obligations under said contract notwithstanding it is subject to the 15 mill constitutional tax limitation, in as much as the said Board of Supervisors voted to pledge the full faith and credit of the county for the payment of the principal and interest on bonds to be issued by the county in anticipation of payments to be made by this township and said other townships and cities under said contract of November 1st, 1957, as amended.

Township Clerk.

To Consider Merger

DETROIT (AP) — Stockholders of Shedd-Bartush Inc., a Detroit food processing firm, will hold a special meeting April 8 to decide on a merger with Beatrice Foods Inc. of Chicago. If approved, Beatrice would absorb the Detroit firm for about 10 million dollars. Shedd-Bartush stockholders would receive one common share of Beatrice for each two of Shedd-Bartush.

Correct Address

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI)—Auto driver Joe Contreras, who lives at 114 Can't Stop Street, gave police this excuse after an accident in which his car skidded 118 feet: "I couldn't stop."

Holly Insurance Agency in Merger

The merger of an Oakland County insurance agency with a Flint agency was announced today by R. E. Addis, president of the Addis Insurance Agency.

The Addis agency, with offices at 511 Maple St., Holly, will merge with the Fred Sherff Agency. The new corporation will be known as the R. E. Addis Agency, Inc., and the main office will remain in Holly with R. E. Addis as president and manager.

William P. Addis, an Oakland County sheriff's deputy, is resigning from that position to become vice president and manager of the Flint office, located at 613 Oak St.

Firecracker-Carrying Ship Blows Up at Kobe

KOBE, Japan (AP) — A 60-ton boat with 40 cases of firecrackers in its hold for Okinawa blew up in Kobe harbor today.

One person was killed, the captain of the ship was missing and three others were seriously injured.

'Shared' Driveway Drives Them to Court

ENCINO, Calif. (AP) — One driveway isn't enough for two $50,000 houses. Not these two, anyway.

★ ★ ★

For more than a year it has touched off insults and cussings. The feuding neighbors say water has been squirted through windows. At least once, there was a tongue stuck out.

★ ★ ★

All this was attested to in court Monday. Each family blames the other for the fuss.

SUED FOR $475,000

The neighbors, Henry E. and Genevieve Di Lucca, came back with a demand of their own for $200,000 damages.

Di Lucca sells real estate. Glick is a furniture dealer. Each accuses the other of a campaign of harassment, use of profane language and damaging furniture with water.

Glick backs his car two or three feet onto the Di Lucca property every time he goes out the driveway. That much all agree.

Glick says he has to. Di Lucca says he mustn't.

★ ★ ★

The Di Luccas built a fence with a gate. This, the Glicks complain, makes it very difficult to maneuver their automobile out of their property without backing into the gate.

After the Glicks hit the gate several times with their car bumper, the Di Luccas sought a criminal complaint. It was refused by the city attorney.

PICTURES, TOO

The judge took the case under advisement.

★ ★ ★

"It appears to the court," he commented, "that these two families should begin acting like civilized neighbors. These pictures would indicate that they lack common sense."

Food Chain Faces Antitrust Charge

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Trade Commission yesterday filed an antitrust complaint against the National Tea Co. of Chicago, the nation's fifth largest food chain.

A National Tea spokesman in Chicago said the firm would have no comment until officials had time to study the complaint.

National Tea, according to the complaint, operates 883 stores in 16 states and showed a 250 per cent sales growth between 1948 and 1957. It said 1957 sales were 661 million dollars.

The company is controlled by three Canadian corporations, Loblaw Groceterias Co. Ltd., Loblaw Cos. Ltd. and George Weston Ltd.

If its antitrust charges are upheld, the commission could force National Tea to get rid of firms and stores it has bought since 1952.

Will Aid Troy Blast Survivors

Fund Drive Organized

A drive got under way yesterday to aid the families and survivors of the Troy garage apartment explosion Friday night which claimed the life of one man and sent three other persons to the hospital.

De Wolfe-Dreon VFW Post 4037 of Dawson and Troy and its auxiliary have initiated a Fogus-LaBarge Fund to aid Mrs. Fluvanna Fogus, 20, of 6910 Montclair St. and Ralph LaBarge, 31, and his wife, Yvonne, 27, of 6735 Montclair St.

Mrs. Fogus' husband, Harry, 25, was killed in the blast caused by a defective oil burner in their home. LaBarge is still in critical condition at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital. Both women are in fair condition and showing signs of improvement, the hospital reported.

"Anyone wanting to help these families may make checks payable to the Fogus-LaBarge Fund and send them to the Rochester Branch of the National Bank of Detroit," Mrs. Haywood said Monday.

In Memoriam 2

IN LOVING MEMORY OF FRANces May Hamm who passed away 23 years ago today March 31, 1936.
Her memory is dear today.
As in the hour she passed away.
Sadly missed by children and grandchildren.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF MY husband, Phillip Worth who passed away four years ago today, March 31, 1955.
I hold you in my dreams at night
I call you in the dawn
And yet I have to tell myself
That you are really gone.
That you are gone beyond recall
Forever and a day.
And there is nothing I can do
And nothing I can say.
You were so wonderful to me
So gentle, sweet and kind
It seemed that I was always in your heart
And in your mind.
No, there is nothing I can say
Except a loving prayer
That God will bless you, dearest one
And keep you in His care.
And in my silent sorrow
There is nothing I can do
Except to live a better life
In memory of you.
Sadly missed by his wife, Mae A. Worth.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF LIONA Marie Manigold, who passed away three years ago today, March 31, 1956.
Her memory is as dear today,
As the hour she passed away.
Sadly missed by Mother and Sisters

Lingerie Show in Frisco Bar OK'd by Police

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Three hundred bugeyed customers, 30 newsmen and photographers, a bail bondsman, a lawyer and cops in plain clothes were the jury.

The young ladies wore baby doll floor-length pajamas and nebulous nighties. Afterward, Chief Cahill announced his agents reported it was all morally okay. But he said he would keep a close watch on the show.

Colorful Postal Display 'Canceled'

Power Struggle in Kansas City

Old Pendergast Party Again Gives Battle to Citizens' Group

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—The continuing struggle for control of Kansas City's municipal government reaches another climax today in the city election.

Once again, a combination of the city's Democratic party factions, known as the coalition, is challenging the non-partisan Citizens Assn. The goal of both sides is control of the 8-member City Council.

★ ★ ★

The duel began 19 years ago when the association, composed of Democrats, Republicans and independents, wrested control of the government from the Democratic party machine of the late Tom Pendergast.

This year many observers believe the coalition has its best chance of reducing association strength.

On the surface, there virtually is no race for mayor. There has been little pre-election excitement.

In the last election four years ago, only 85,979 votes were cast despite a bitter campaign between Mayor H. Roe Bartle of the Citizens Assn., and a coalition candidate. That was only 47.3 per cent of the registration. The registration this year is about 180,000 close to the figure of 1955.

Bartle is seeking re-election as a Citizens' candidate, but this year the coalition also threw its support to him. Former Jackson County Judge Ray G. Cowan is running against Bartle as an independent, and reportedly is making a hard, handshaking race.

In a bid to gain at least five of the eight council seats, the coalition is running on a promise of no new taxes and no increase in taxes. Two years ago, pleading that more revenue must be obtained, the administration sponsored a proposed earnings tax. The Citizens Assn. supported it, but the voters rejected the proposal by a wide margin. Coalition candidates are making much of this and of several small, nuisance taxes levied by the council after the earnings tax was rejected.

★ ★ ★

Citizens candidates to a man state flatly that a coalition majority on the council will mean a return of underworld control of the city government.

All eight council seats are at stake. Three of the incubents have the support of both organizations and are expected to win with ease, although each is opposed by an independent candidate.

Both sides are concentrating their work in the other five races.

Oscar Party Will Have Stars Galore, or Else!

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—It's getting real crazy when Hollywood uses TV to exploit the movies. But the warning's out in Hollywood now that every Big Name must show up for the glamorous Oscar party on NBC Apr. 6, even if it means flying a few thousand miles to get there. And if they fail to cooperate—well, "If they don't come, they'd better be awfully rich," is the threat that's being used.

WILSON

Because "live" and "tape" would seem to mean exactly the opposite.

But it's being used in the publicity about the taped shows, to indicate there's a "liveliness" to the tape . . . a "living quality." At least that's how the very glib announcer, Frank Gallup, explained it.

"You get shot around here," he said, "if you say 'film' any more instead of 'tape.'"

'Springtime' a Drooper; Desilu Western Sneaker

By WILLIAM EWALD

NEW YORK (UPI)—"America Pauses for Springtime," a special unspooled by CBS-TV last night, was a flat and hollow drooper, a dally and dawdle hour without substance or much point.

Its format was an unblushing swipe of NBC-TV's old Wide Wide World series, but the curious thing about the CBS-TV hour was that it might just as well have been shot in a studio.

Through the use of tape and film, the show kangarooed to such stops as San Francisco, Hollywood, Augusta, Ga., West Point, N. Y., Colorado's Garden of the Gods and Louisiana's Bayou Country, but it never really scooped up the flavor of any of these areas.

All of these points were merely used as backdrops for a snatch of song, a snippet of dance, a smidgin of chatter, none of it with much core or import.

Genevieve, poised against a Louisiana tree, might just as well have been singing from a stage. Ditto Robert Merrill, badly lip-synching on a Manhattan ferry, and Bobby Jones talking about nothing in particular from a swatch of sterile greenery at the Augusta National Golf Club.

Barry Sullivan, Joseph Larch and Patricia Barry turned in able performances. But it was Cliff Robertson as the prey who really snapped the whole hour alive.

THE CHANNEL SWIM: CBS-TV's Keep Talking has the wobbles again . . . Orson Bean, currently filming "Anatomy of a Murder" in Michigan has been offered the fourth panel seat on NBC-TV's new game show, Laugh Line, which debuts April 16—Elaine May, Mike Nichols and Dorothy Loudon are the other panelists.

The latest Nielsen ratings say ABC-TV's Maverick is now the number one show—It's followed by Wagon Train, the Rifleman, Gunsmoke, Perry Como, Danny Thomas, 77 Sunset Strip, Have Gun, Will Travel, Wyatt Earp and Lawman.

Testimony Due in Teel Murder

Trial to Get Under Way Today Before Jury of 12 Married Men

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—The jury hears opening statements and first testimony today in the love triangle murder trial of Minnie B. (Connie) Nicholas, charged with shooting her married lover after he jilted her for a younger woman.

A tedious 10 days of jury selection wound up late Monday with the seating of two alternates — both married men, as are the 12 regular jurors.

The first state's witnesses were two police officers. They were among the first at the scene after wealthy, handsome Forrest Teel was slain in his car last July 31.

Anderson has said Teel gasped only "hospital" when Anderson told him he might die and asked him to name the person who shot him. Teel died mnutes later.

The other policeman called was Lt. Cecil London of accident investigation. A possible third witness was Earl Alexander, who lives near the apartment development where the shooting occurred.

The shooting occurred outside the fashionable apartment of Laura Mowrer, 30-year-old secretary at the Lilly firm. Teel had been seeing her for three months after a 15-year affair with Mrs. Nicholas.

Mrs. Nicholas has admitted she found Teel's car outside Miss Mowrer's apartment and waited there three hours until Teel returned to the car after midnight.

The 44-year-old double divorcee said Teel was enraged when he found her at his car, and that her .25 caliber French revolver fired accidentally as she tried to defend herself from blows and an arm-twisting.

After the shooting she returned to her own car. Teel appearently tried to drive his car away, but it crashed into a post as he collapsed from three bullet wounds.

Mrs. Nicholas was found near death 20 hours later. She had parked her car on a secluded creek bank and swallowed 75 sleeping pills in fruit juice in a suicide attempt.

The state contends Mrs. Nicholas planned the shooting. The defense is building its case on the premise the shooting was an accident in an effort of self-defense.

Convicts Caught After Escape in Prison Bus

NAHUNTA, Ga. (AP) — Three convicts face disciplinary action at the Ware County prison branch after a spectacular attempt to escape with 12 others aboard a prison bus.

Warden A. W. Clay said the 12 men in the bus were forced to take part in the wild dash for freedom Monday and that no action would be taken against them. All 15 are white.

Tommy Barfield, 25, of Walker County, serving 1 to 2 years for burglary; Jimmy Darnell, 18, of Clayton County, serving 5 to 10 years for burglary; and Dewitt Boyett, 20, of Charlton County, serving 1 to 4 years for larceny.

They were captured after they abandoned the bus and fled into a swampland. Bloodhounds finally led a posse to where the three convicts were hiding under a bridge. The men were armed with a shotgun and two pistols but surrendered meekly

Real Husband Says TV's Ethel Is Cruel Wife

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actress Vivan Vance, 45, who plays the strong-minded wife as Ethel in TVs "I Love Lucy," is described as a cruel wife in real life by actor Philip N. Ober, 50.

★ ★ ★

Ober sued for divorce Monday, declaring Miss Vance has treated him in a cruel and inhuman manner and caused him great mental anguish.

★ ★ ★

Ober asked the court to divide more than $160,000 worth of community property.

Cut Sentimentality, Says Solon on Dulles

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn) says full-time supervision of U.S. foreign policy is essential in a critical period of world unrest.

Humphrey, member of the Senate Foreign Affairs Committee, told the State County Bar Assn. "we need people in charge 24 hours a day."

★ ★ ★

He spoke as Secretary of State John Foster Dulles flew to Florida Monday to recuperate from cancer.

★ ★ ★

"I have the highest regard for the secretary," Humphrey said. "May his health be restored. But we cannot have sentimentality in our foreign policy now."

Stall Christine Jorgensen's Wedding Plans

NEW YORK (AP) — Christine Jorgensen's efforts to obtain a marriage license have been delayed by a technicality, not connected with the fact that she changed her sex.

★ ★ ★

The delay came Monday when the would-be bridegroom, Howard J. Knox, 33, a Waukegan, Ill., statistician, couldn't produce a copy of an Illinois divorce decree that ended a previous marriage.

★ ★ ★

As for Miss Jorgensen's sex, which was changed from male to female by surgery in Denmark in 1950, a blood test certificate on which a physician certifies that she is a woman should be sufficient, said City Clerk Herman Katz.

In 1693, the first newspaper in the colonies appeared in Boston. It was called the "Publick Occurence." It expired four days later because it had been published without official permission. Today, a free and independent press serves 100,000,000 readers daily.

Was Built Over Vigorous Protests

Eiffel Tower Is 70 Years Old Today

Built as a temporary structure for the Paris Exposition of 1890, the Tower will receive its 35 millionth visitor this year.

It was officially opened March 31, 1889. Its designer, Gutave Eiffel, and a hardy group of top-hatter officials clumped up its 1,900 steps to affix the French flag to the top of what was then the world's tallest structure.

Artists cried it would spoil the skyline. Scientists warned any structure taller than 750 feet would certainly fall. Dwellers in the vicinity, fearful of awakening some come through the ceiling, went to court.

But the tower, triumphing over gravity and critics, was the hit of the exposition. It retained its popularity until the early 1900s when cries were again raised for its destruction.

Because it was supposed to be a temporary structure it was built of the cheapest iron. But not one girder or rivet has had to be replaced.

Every seven years 60 painters wear out 150 paint brushes giving the tower its characteristic reddish-brown coat. It takes 7,000 pounds of paint and four months to do the job.

U.S. Newsboys Make Big Hit in Rome

Why, said the big Rome Daily Il Messaggero, an American newsboy might even become President some day.

That is a proposition downright strange for a European, who usually buys his newspapers from a grownup "newsboy," who has little prospect of ever being anything but a newpaper vendor.

The bit of philosophy on newsboys was sparked by the visit in Rome of 65 contest winning newsboys from 58 American newspapers. They arrived yesterday for a week-long bit of sight-seeing.

★ ★ ★

Writing about them, Il Messaggero said: "They have been selected on various grounds, including good civil conduct and scholastic ability. It must be remembered that in America youngsters often work in their free time from studies."

"Therefore, among the newsboys from America," the newspaper said, "there might be future lawyers, doctors, teachers, oil magnates and—why not—even a possible President of the United States."

Something else also struck Il Messaggero as strange.

"We suppose," said the daily, "that to buy a newspaper in the United States is pleasant. The newsboys smell of lilacs and perfumed soap, and smile with white and healthy teeth."
