Willman Says Water Report Is 'Purely a Local Fight'

A report that Detroit may not be capable of pumping water to Pontiac as part of a metropolitan service area, was called "purely a local fight" today by City Manager Walter K. Willman.

Laurence G. Lenhardt, Metropolitan Area Regional Planning commission adviser and former Detroit water superintendent, denounced a National Sanitation Foundation study recommending creation of a huge six-county area with Detroit as its principal supplier.

Child Murder Suspect Held

Convicted Rapist Called Best So Far by Police on deCausin Case

DETROIT (AP)—An ex-convict was held on an open charge today for questioning in the rape-slaying of six-year-old Mary de Causin in suburban Ecorse Township last week.

State Police Lt. Richard Whaley, who is in charge of the investigation, identified the man as Lawrence Richard Turner, 50, who lives in the vicinity of the slain child's home. He was arrested about noon yesterday, Whaley said.

"Turner is the best suspect we have had yet," Whaley said. "But our detectives aren't getting any answers from him."

Police said Turner was convicted of rape in Detroit in 1941. He was sentenced to 15-30 years in Southern Michigan Prison and released in December, 1956.

The girl disappeared from her home last Wednesday afternoon. Her bound and mutilated body was found the next day in a wooded area about a mile from her home.

Drove Under Influence

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Marshall Frey, 10, was treated at a hospital for injuries received while "under the influence of comic books." The boy told police he rammed his bicycle into the side of a parked car as he attempted to flip a page in the comic book he was reading.

Press Contest Pooch, 'Skippy' in Same Home After 8 Years

By DICK SAUNDERS

Eight years ago The Pontiac Press made a young Lapeer boy the proud owner of a six-month-old puppy, Skippy, clumsy little cocker with a flouncy coat, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Patton, 6 Higley St. Lapeer, for winning first place in The Pontiac Press "Skippy" contest.

Bruce, now 16 years old, won the puppy by submitting the best letter in 25 words or less telling why he wanted a dog like Skippy. Since then the dog has become a part of the Patton family, bringing them many moments of happiness.

The Pattons still live at the Higley street address and they still have Skippy, but the cocker spaniel isn't as frisky as he used to be. He has been sidelined by a nasty disease which the Pattons described as "a type of fungus that begins in his ear and grows, or spreads, outward."

They said the disease is stubborn and has disappeared for short periods, but has reappeared about three times since Christmas. Skippy rarely goes out of the house any more.

It seems as though Skippy was a rather fortunate pup—or at least unusual—since he was raised with kittens. This paid off in the long run. As Skippy showed the Pattons years later, he had benefited from the companionship of his childhood feline friends.

PLAYED NURSEMAID

The event took place shortly after a new batch of kittens had been brought into the house about three years ago. Skippy decided to play nursemaid and gently began to pick each kitten from the basket, set it on the floor and lick it.

The bitch was that Skippy didn't realize his much greater size, and, according to Bruce, the only part of each kitten that could be seen protruding from his teeth was a little furry tail.

He'd then open his mouth and out would tumble a ball of fur. "However, he did know his strength," added Mrs. Patton. "Not one kitten had a scratch on it."

"He is an unusually smart dog," Bruce noted. "I can remember when we had a hen in a box in the backyard. He would go out and edge the lid from atop the box and let the hen out just so he could chase her around the yard."

When the Pattons first got Skippy, he stuck very close to

Mr. Patton. In fact, he wouldn't sleep anywhere but at the foot of Mr. Patton's bed. It seems the bed was on casters and one side of it was up tight against the wall.

During the first night he slept there, Skippy rolled over against

STILL KICKING — Skippy, the cocker spaniel that was given by the Pontiac Press to Bruce Patton, 16, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Patton, 6 Higley St., Lapeer, eight years ago is still alive. Pictured here with his master, Skippy is battling with an infection of the ears which has plagued him for the past year. The two have been together since Skippy was six months old and Bruce was eight, and are the closest of pals although Skippy has been confined to the house lately and forced to limit his activities to watching television and enjoying an occasional sip of beer.

Crew of Warship F.D.R. Braves Live Steam to Save Comrades

2 Die, 5 Hurt in Carrier Explosion

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—The aircraft carrier Franklin D. Roosevelt limped into port early today, the victim of its second accident at sea in two months.

On board were two dead and five seriously injured crewmen. They were sprayed by live steam which spewed out when a pump exploded deep inside the 45,000-warship yesterday.

Twenty-nine other crewmen were stricken with heat prostration or exhaustion, many of them in efforts to rescue trapped comrades.

Capt. T. W. Hopkins credited heroism and the fine training of U.S. Navy men with holding down the number of casualties. He said "I can't pinpoint one single man" for heroism; "all are equally deserving of praise."

FIGHT THROUGH STEAM

Fifty to 60 men entered the fierce steam for rescue work or to help confine damage.

A board of investigation met to determine the extent of damage. The explosion blew pieces of the pump through two bulkheads as well as the steam lines. Hopkins said, however, he did not think the ship would need drydocking for repairs.

The vessel is scheduled to join the 6th Fleet in the Mediterranean in July.

The Roosevelt reduced speed "to secure the boilers" immediately after the explosion and six or seven planes in the air were diverted to land fields at Jacksonville.

One plane, a twin-jet A3D Skywarrior attack bomber, was unable to lower its landing gear and crashed near the carrier basin at nearby Mayport. The three crewmen parachuted and were picked up unharmed.

Hopkins told newsmen the ship was on a routine training exercise when the accident occurred at 12:42 p. m. about 100 miles off the coast.

Hopkins said the explosion occurred "about midships in the third class, Spartanburg, S.C. pump room on the fourth or fifth deck below the hangar deck."

The two men killed were on watch in a compartment adjoining the pump room. Live steam got to them through an open hatch.

Hopkins listed the dead as Bob E. Hyder, 22, boiler attendant in the third class, Spartanburg, S.C.; and Sidney R. Wall, 20, fireman, Norwood, S.C.

Pick Hottest---Get Cool $100

In just ten days a crisp $100 U. S. Savings bond will go to Pontiac's top weather prognosticator, for picking June's hottest moment.

If you failed to enter the Pontiac Press contest, or if you found your prediction fell a little short during the recent heat wave, don't be disheartened.

Due to your fine response in guessing June's hottest moment, the Press has decided to conduct another contest for July.

The lucky winner again will receive a $100 bond.

Only one entry per person. All entries must be in the Pontiac Press building by 2 p. m. Saturday, June 29. The decision of Press judges will be final, and in case of a tie, the prize will be split.

The contest is open to all Press subscribers and carriers. Only employees of the Press and their immediate families are barred.

The same rules issued for this month's temperature guesses will apply.

Simply mail (or deliver in person) a post card with your name, address, and forecast as to the date, hour (a. m. or p. m.), and hottest moment in July to:

Weather Man
Pontiac Press
P. O. Box 40
Pontiac, Michigan

That gives you nine days to ponder July's hot spot.

One hundred dollars would buy a swell set of golf clubs, lovely lawn furniture, or some light weight summer togs to wear the heat.

We're just as anxious to give away that $100 as you are to receive it.

Why not give it a try? We'll be awaiting your reply.

House Unit Tells Post Office to Curb Service

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Appropriations Committee today told the Post Office Department today to curtail some of its mail services and live within its reduced funds to avoid repetition of "the fiscal debacle of the spring of 1957."

It cut 16 1/2 million dollars from the department's request for an extra 14 1/2 millions to supplement a previous appropriation of $3,192,000,000 for the fiscal year starting July 1.

GO ALONG

Indications were the House would go along with the committee's recommendations when it considers the new money bill next week.

field told, the committee some service curtailments would be put into effect if the entire request were not granted. The committee said some of the curtailments seem to be "very desirable" and should have been ordered before now.

It said it could see "no substantial reason why second-class publications and third-class bulk mailings should not be required to be zoned in the face of a stated savings to the government of five million dollars."

RATES UP

Under the postal zoning system, rates increase as the delivery distance increases.

should not be reduced to once daily where practicable at an estimated saving of $700,000.

On star points, mail is transported by contractors between some post offices and rail terminals, or between larger post offices and small post offices.

Other savings, the committee said, could be made by suspending money order sales in some offices and by cutting down on some Saturday services.

The committee said the department should re-examine city delivery service in the light of the trend to a five-day work week and "effect such reductions in Saturday service as are in keeping with the pattern of business, industry and suburbia generally."

have said in the past there is no reason for numerous business-mail deliveries on Saturdays when most business houses are closed.

Serious consideration should be given, the committee said, to eliminating cost-of-living salary differentials paid postal employees in territories and possessions, with the possible exception of Alaska.

Lightning Hits Twice in Storm at Fort Bragg

Soldiers Knocked Over 'Like Bowling Pins'; 48 Patients Flood Hospital

FT. BRAGG, N. C. (AP) — Lightning struck twice within 10 minutes, killed two National Guardsmen and knocked over soldiers "like bowling pins" on this Army paratrooper base last night.

The base hospital called in off-duty personnel to handle the 48 patients who poured in for treatment for five or six hours after the fierce electrical storm swept across Ft. Bragg.

Field aid stations gave first aid treatment on the spot.

The Army identified the victims as Sgt. I. C. Walter Lee Milam, 26, and Pfc. Arthur Belton Norris Jr., 19, both of Kansas, N.C.

Units of the 30th Old Hickory Division of the North Carolina National Guard bore the brunt of the storm's attack. The 8,000 Tar Heel guardsmen were encamped for summer training in a wooded area 10 miles west of the main portion of the base.

SKIPPED AROUND

Striking at supertime, the lightning skipped around the bivouac area as many of the soldiers stood in chow line, mess kits in hand.

"The men in front of me were knocked down like bowling pins," one soldier said. "My metal mess gear was wrenched from my hand and bent all out of shape."

Another recalled, "The ground shook something terrible and my feet felt like the ground was sizzling—just burning up."

After the first flash, one guardsman removed his boots to see if his feet were injured. "I just put my bare foot on the wet ground when another bolt struck like the first one," he said. "I was knocked to the ground along with other people in the tent."

FOUR IN HOSPITAL

An Army spokesman said four of the injured were admitted to the hospital as patients, none seriously hurt. The other injured remained in the hospital overnight to catch up on their sleep before returning to their units.

More than three miles from the center of the storm damage one soldier was talking on a field telephone. A jolt of electricity threw him completely across a large tent.

The storm moved across the vast military reservation between 5 and 6 p. m. Jack Younts, a radio station executive at Southern Pines, 10 miles from the scene of the storm damage, said he could clearly see the electrical activity light up the sky.

The accident caught the hospital staff in the middle of changing shifts. The hospital sent out calls to wards and dining halls.

Nurses, going off duty for the night, slipped white robes over their dresses and went back to work. Corpsmen and other hospital workers quickly rallied for all-night duty.

No 'Hearings' on Air

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Speaker Rayburn today ruled out any more radio or television broadcasts of House committee or subcommittee hearings "in Washington or anywhere else."

GM to Import Its Small Auto

Cars Now Produced in England, Germany; Pontiac to Distribute

General Motors announced today its small, foreign-made Vauxhall and Opel passenger cars will be imported for sale in the U. S. for the first time this fall.

GM President Harlow H. Curtice, in a letter to the firm's distributors and dealers, said the small autos will be imported in "limited numbers."

Distribution of the Vauxhall line will be handled in this country by Pontiac Motor Division, and the Opel line by Buick Motor Division.

The Vauxhall Victor is built at Luton, England, while the Opel Rekord is produced in West Germany.

The Victor, a four-door sedan with four-cylinder engine, is almost three feet shorter and one foot narrower than GM's Chevrolet.

Present models of the Rekord are similar to the Victor, but there will be a model changeover prior to its introduction in the U. S.

Curtice said U. S. prices of the cars will be announced by the distributing divisions when they become available for sale in this country.

The first shipment of the two lines will be made to the North Atlantic Coast area. In line with availability, distribution will then be extended to the Pacific Coast area and later to the balance of the United States as rapidly as possible, Curtice announced.

Can you tell anything about the weather by watching the flight and migration of birds?

Here is an old weather omen. One watched closely by the old timers, though today few of us have the time to keep track of our feathered friends.

Just as birds have an uncanny sense of direction, they sometimes know more about the coming weather than we do. Newly hatched birds, left by their parents often fly a thousand miles or more to their summer habitat — joining their parents, even though they have never traveled the route before. Likewise, birds will return to the same yard year after year from thousands of miles away.

Similarly, if you see robins lingering longer in spring than usual, or departing the northern climates early, it will often indicate the approach of unseasonal weather trends. Birds migrate at night, as often as in the daylight, so you might find it difficult to follow their migrations.

But you can observe what native birds are present in your location at various times and note a variance from year to year. Often their departures or arrival will give a clue to future weather. It is, moreover, an interesting hobby in itself.

Final Topic Scheduled

Management-Labor Ties Slated in Bakers' Probe

WASHINGTON (INS) — Alleged collusion between management and labor was slated as the final topic today in the windup of the Senate's probe of the International Bakers Union.

Union president James G. Cross, who yesterday freely discussed all his activities except his alleged "personal relationship" with Hollywood party girl Kay Lower, was to return at 2 p. m.

The committee planned to quiz Cross about money he borrowed from the owners of the Zion Industries bakery and candy plant in Zion, Ill., at the same time his union was negotiating a wage contract with that firm.

Cross, a tall, greying man, told the racket committee yesterday any association he might have had with Miss Lower beyond official union business was "not pertinent" to the probe. He, therefore, refused to discuss it.

He denied, however, that his union paid Miss Lower, who has a record of arrests for residing in a house of ill fame.

The witness conceded that Miss Lower, who invoked the Fifth Amendment before the committee two weeks ago, attended union meetings in Denver, New York, Miami, and Portland, Ore., at his behest.

FOR 'ORGANIZING'

Cross contended, however, that Miss Lower's attendance at these sessions was in line with her job as an "international organizer" for the union.

Committee counsel Robert F. Kennedy noted that Cross — who lived in $30-a-day hotel rooms, gave lavish parties, and frequented swank night spots — charged Miss Lower's Miami hotel room to his own bill.

Cross laughingly explained "Our attempt was to keep this particular person under cover."

Kennedy said also that the two individuals had adjoining rooms in an Ottumwa, Iowa, hotel, and Cross did not deny the accusation.

Cross commended Miss Lower for the work she did in soliciting union members from among the ranks of employees of two Los Angeles bakeries — Van De Kamp's and Golden Crust.

When asked what functions Miss Lower performed in the various cities she visited on union business, Cross said: "As far as the international union is concerned—nothing illegal. Beyond that, it is not in the scope of the committee's investigation."

Hoffa Asks Delay From Higher Court

WASHINGTON (INS) — The conspiracy trial of No. 2 Teamsters chieftain James R. Hoffa moved temporarily to the Court of Appeals today for a ruling on a defense demand to postpone trial.

U. S. District Judge Burnita S. Matthews yesterday denied two defense requests for a postponement and even rejected a proposal for a 15-minute recess. The judge insisted that the trial go on as scheduled.

Attorneys for Hoffa and his co-defendant Hyman L. Fisch, back — charged with attempting to plant a spy on the staff of the Senate Rackets Committee — took the unusual move of calling on the appeals court to order a delay.

Attorneys Edward Bennett Williams, representing Hoffa, and Daniel B. Maher, representing Fischbach, contended that the "avalanche of publicity" on the case means that a fair trial at this time is impossible.

Assistant U. S. Attorney Edward P. Troxell told the court that he plans to summon 40 witnesses, including 28 FBI agents, and experts in handwriting and fingerprinting. The defense declined to say how many witnesses it planned to call.

U.S. Appeals Decision on GI

Supreme Court Asked to Rule on Girard Case by Justice Department

WASHINGTON (U. S. — The Justice Department today appealed to the Supreme Court from a decision barring the government from surrendering GI William S. Girard to the Japanese for trial.

A petition to the nation's highest court said the decision by U. S. Dist. Judge Joseph C. McGarrity was "clearly wrong."

CLEARLY WRONG

The petition said the "public interest in an early disposition of the case" is so great that the high tribunal should act at the earliest convenient date.

The petition was signed by Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell and J. Lee Rankin, solicitor.

The decision to go directly to the Supreme Court came after lengthy conferences between Justice and Defense Department officials over the government's next step in the case of the soldier accused of killing a Japanese woman.

PLANNED TO ADJOURN

The Supreme Court has planned to adjourn for the summer next Monday, and Justice Douglas already has left Washington for the West Coast preliminary to a summer tour of the Middle East.

By implication, there was a request in the petition for the high court to handle the case before taking its recess.

Meanwhile, the Japanese are going ahead with plans to try the 21-year-old Army specialist third class on the equivalent of a manslaughter charge for the firing range death last January of Mrs. Naka Sakai.

But reports from Tokyo said some Japanese officials were speculating Girard might never appear before any court, either Japanese or American.

There were reports from New York yesterday that Girard might marry Haru (Candy) Sueyama, his Japanese fiancée, within a few days. But in Tokyo, Maj. Stanley Levin said the reports appear to be premature. Levin is Girard's Army legal adviser.

Pontiac Osteopathic Elects R. Verne Todd

R. Verne Todd, of 160 Cherokee Rd., last night was elected president of the Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital Board of Directors for 1957-58.

Harry L. Parks, of Detroit, was elected vice president. Harry H. Whitlow, director of the hospital, was re-elected as secretary of the board.

The other three members of the board are Dr. M. C. Worster, David C. Pence and Harold Kreuger.

Appointed medical director for a second year was Dr. Lawrence Bilodeau.

The Day in Birmingham

Municipality Can't Help in Storm Water Cases

BIRMINGHAM — City attorney Richard Adams has reported that the city can take no action when grade differences cause storm water from one home to run across another's property.

Only when the condition can be proved to be a threat to health, safety or public welfare may a municipality intervene, he explained.

Adams has been asked to prepare a report on the city's position when Dr. and Mrs. Carleton Fox appeared to file a complaint against a builder working on a lot adjoining their property.

The Foxes said drainage from buildings and the drive flowed into their yard and those of their neighbors because of the grade. The builders, they reported, had been asked to correct this, had promised to do so, but had not.

They were advised by commissioners that Birmingham can take no action since it is strictly a matter for civil court.

Choosing temporary officers the Citizen's Library Study Council has named John Gilray Jr., chairman, and Mrs. John Rumsey, secretary.

The council met recently with friends of the Baldwin Public Library to take a long look at the future needs of the library. They are basing their study on "what do we have, what do we need and how do we get it." They will enter a thorough report on legal aspects, finances, area and plant expansion as soon as possible.

Included in their study will be the possibility of a district set-up as well as that of a city library serving the entire area.

The past chiefs of Pythian Temple 94 will meet June 25 at 8 p. m. with Mrs. John Matice at 1144 Chapin St.

Herman F. Bundy, Office Manager for Luntz Iron and Steel Corp. for nine years, died yesterday morning in Detroit Receiving Hospital several hours after he was injured in an automobile accident in that city.

Bundy, 49, lived at 210 Fairfax Drive.

He was a member of the First Presbyterian Church of Birmingham and its Ushers Club.

The director of the Michigan Chapter of the Institute of Scrap Iron and Steel, he was also a member of the Rushville, Ind., Masonic Lodge, Scottish Rite Bodies of Indianapolis, the Shrine at Fort Wayne and the Birmingham High Twelve.

He is survived by his wife, M. Eloise, and two daughters, Margaret Louise and Martha Jane, and a sister.

The body will be at the Manley-Bailey Funeral Home until Saturday.

Plan Air Trip Around World

Writer to Repeat Tour
First Made Ten Years
Ago by Pan-American

SAN FRANCISCO (INS)—Ten years ago—almost to the day—Pan American World Airways launched one of its most important "firsts"—the start of regularly scheduled around the world passenger flights.

As guests of Juan Trippe (builder and president of Pan American) some seventeen members of the American press made the inaugural trip, which started from La Guardia Airport in New York on June 13, 1947 and ended there thirteen days later.

The writer was fortunate to have been one of those invited to make the trip, which made history. Others aboard on the flight included Oveta Culp Hobby of the Houston, Tex., Post; Mrs. Helen Ogden Reid of the New York Herald Tribune; Gardner Cowles of the Des Moines Register and Tribune and Look Magazine; the late Tom Beck of Colliers and many others.

Today the writer is starting out to duplicate that trip in order to find out what gains have been made in ten years in around the world travel. This time he is doubling back in his steps.

In 1947 the flight went from New York to London and on to the East. This time the writer is heading West, first to Tokyo then on to India, Italy and France and home.

In the first year of regularly scheduled flights there were 42 around the world trips. On the second year there were 130 trips and during the last year 241 trips, representing an increase of 85 per cent.

At the start the schedule called for one trip a week. Then it was increased to two and sometimes three a week. As of today Pan American runs five trips weekly each way.

Time and the River

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Richmond's 500 city jail prisoners won't be sent up the river. They'll be sent down the river. That's because an expressway toll road will run through the site of the present city jail and the best quarters the city could find was a river terminal warehouse a mile below the city.

Meet Judge J. C. McGarraghy

He Made Girard Decision

By International News Service

Joseph Charles McGarraghy says he was "probably the busiest man in Washington" during World War II. Most of his work was voluntary, including innumerable committee and community project assignments.

As a federal district judge, McGarraghy says he is "almost as busy," although the work is different.

The 59-year-old judge Tuesday handed down the important decision in the case of Army Specialist 3.C. William S. Girard — declaring that the U. S. has no right to turn the soldier over to a Japanese court.

The jurist describes himself as a "youngster" on the bench, but quickly adds "Of course, not in age." He was appointed by President Eisenhower in 1954 and has served less than two and one-half years.

Before that, he was a civil lawyer extremely active in civic affairs and Republican Party politics in voteless District of Columbia.

GIFT OF LEADERSHIP

In 1947, the Washington Board of Trade described him as a man of "never-failing good humor, with a marked gift of leadership, a real understanding of community needs and able to get things done."

This was at the conclusion of his term as board president. Shortly afterwards, in 1949, he took on the job of chairman of the D. C. Republican state committee and held the post until he was named to the bench.

McGarraghy was chairman of the most spectacular Presidential inaugural in the history of the Nation's Capital, that of President Eisenhower in 1953. He said that job probably carried more "headaches" than any he had ever had.

As a federal judge, he still likes to retain some of the informality of a civic-minded layman. He often meets visitors in the anteroom of his chambers, preferring to sit on a table, rather than behind the large desk provided for a district judge.

In the relatively short time as a district judge, McGarraghy has handled several important cases. He found John T. Watkins guilty of contempt of Congress and the decision was upheld by the Court of Appeals — only to be overturned last Monday in the Supreme Court.

Since then, other federal judges have found guilty persons similarly charged and many of these cases are now being reviewed by appeals courts.

McGarraghy also upheld the status of Forces Treaty twice. In each case, involving crimes committed by servicemen of duty, his decision was upheld by the Supreme Court.

Astronomers Take First Step to Solve Mysteries of Mars

By RENNIE TAYLOR
AP Science Reporter

FLAGSTAFF, Ariz. (U) — Astronomers from more than a dozen nations today completed the first step of their cooperative effort to solve some of the mysteries of Mars and voted to tackle the problem again in 1958.

The International Mars Committee voted to continue its worldwide operations with an enlarged administrative setup and to formulate a new program for observation of the red planet when it again comes close to the earth next year.

New Canadian Cabinet Formed

Conservatives Will Be Sworn In Tomorrow; Consultations Today

OTTAWA (U) — Canada's first Conservative government in 22 years takes form today in last-minute consultations at Tory chief John Diefenbaker's office in the Parliament Building. The Cabinet will be sworn in tomorrow.

Diefenbaker, who is to become prime minister, was quiet about his Cabinet choices. But informed speculation was that he would retain the foreign minister's portfolio himself, at least for the time being, and give the key post of finance minister to Donald Fleming, a Toronto MP.

Fleming, 52, was runner-up to Diefenbaker in the voting for party leader at the Conservative convention last December. A high party informant said his appointment to the finance post has been practically settled.

Diefenbaker met a succession of Conservatives yesterday and scheduled more such conferences today. The visitors to his office gave indications of the probable makeup of the Cabinet. Among them was Maj. Gen. G. R. Pearkes, 69, of British Columbia, almost a sure bet for the defense ministry.

RFE Played Part in Hungarian Riots

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (U) — U. N. investigators concluded today that the general tone of Radio Free Europe's broadcasts to Hungary during last fall's uprising "aroused an expectation of support" and hope that a U. N. force would be sent.

However, the General Assembly's five-nation special committee on Hungary found no evidence that the anti-Communist radio actually promised the Hungarian rebels military help.

The U. N. report said "the committee feels that in such circumstances the greatest restraint and circumspection are called for in international broadcasting."

The committee said it found the station "had many listeners in Hungary, most of whom appear to have turned to it, as well as to the BBC and other Western broadcasts, as a relief from the stereotyped news service, with fulsome praise of the regime, to which they were accustomed."

Confidence Vote Due on French Program

PARIS (U) — Premier Maurice Bourges-Maunoury, after only eight days in office, puts before the National Assembly tomorrow the issue most likely to bring down his government.

His Cabinet last night agreed on virtually the same program of higher taxes as the one on which the Conservatives toppled the government of Socialist Premier Guy Mollet May 21.

The Cabinet authorized Bourges-Maunoury to call for a vote of confidence on the program.

Weeds Being Cut on Vacant City Lots

Weeds on vacant lots in the city are slowly falling to sickles as the July 1 deadline for cutting approaches, David R. Ewalt, Parks and Recreation Dept. director, reports.

"A great many more owners are cutting their lots this year compared to last year," he said happily. Because of the weed-infested lots left last year, his department was plagued for months inspecting and cutting, he said.

Lot owners failing to cut weeds by July 1 will be charged 20 cents a front foot then the city sends in a mower to do the work.

Ewalt asked that owners that have cut lots call the department at FEderal 3-7131 so inspection time and costs might be saved.

An Ethiopian group wants American capital to help develop 10,000 acres for grain and other crops, near the towns of Ambo, Gore and Jimma.

that the planet has brief periods during which things can be seen on parts of its surface through blue light.

They did this after a three day meeting in which they heard the first results of the observations made last year, when Mars came to within 40 million miles of the globe.

Summarizing these reports, Dr. E. C. Slipher, committee chairman, said the initial work produced evidence that Mars may have weather something like that on earth, but with greater extremes of temperature.

The Martian polar cap, which shows up on many of the thousands of pictures taken, apparently is shaped something like a three-decker sandwich, he added, with a foundation of surface material, a middle layer of ice and a white cloud in the atmosphere for a top.

The research also suggests, Dr. Slipher said, that something happens on Mars which causes parts of its surface to darken suddenly but temporarily. This could be a moistening of the soil, he added. If so, it means some kind of precipitation which would produce life-giving water for visiting earthlings in the future.

The 1956 efforts also disclosed

This mysterious "blue clearing" at first was thought to be something that happened simultaneously over its entire surface. But observers last year found that from some points on earth they could see martian details through blue light when observers elsewhere could not.

Research on the kind of life on Mars yielded some new evidence of the existence of organic matter but produced a belief among some observers that the living organisms are unlike anything on earth.

Dr. Slipher said observers took 100,000 pictures of Mars during the 1956 approach and produced a huge mass of reports which remain to be analyzed.

The committee authorized its officers to seek funds from the National Science Foundation to support the future program.

The question of inviting Russian astronomers to take part was brought up but no action was taken, Dr. Slipher said. He said it will be within the power of the committee officers to ask Russia or other countries to join.

BLOWING HER TOP — That is the wind is blowing her top, and Dolores Delgado, of Havana, Cuba, probably has a low opinion of the playful ocean breeze. The Cuban beauty chases her custom-made Paris hat along the deck of the Ile de France on which she arrived in New York from a European vacation.

Underpinnings Come Down, Receipts Up Paris Turns to Striptease for Girl-Hungry Tourists

PARIS (INS) — Judging from what theater billboards are saying, it looks as if Paris stage fare will be rather naked this summer.

There seems little doubt that feminine underwear will be shed in unprecedented quantities behind the footlights as the French capital plays host to its annual wave of visitors from lands where laws are bluer.

The come-hither marquee signs will range from an exuberant "strip, strip, hurrah" to the totalitarian "strip-tease 100 per cent" by way of "sexy fairy-land."

For the delicate art of "le strip-tease" has become, in a little over a decade, an integral part of the Parisian show business and one of its biggest sources of revenue.

TURN TO STRIP

At least five theater houses, that in the past winter season offered high-brow plays, are turning their stages over this summer to "strip-tease."

As one theater manager explained: "If one out of 10 tourists wants to see a Sartre play, you can bet the nine others want to see French girls."

This "girl appeal" has made the fortune of the famed Folies-

Bergere and the Casino de Paris which specialize in lavish revues.

It also has kept filling the tills of a two-score nightclubs, cabarets and "intimate" theaters where the display of feminine flesh has taken precedence over more intellectual stimulation. An average of 12,000 persons attend these shows every night throughout the year.

There are today in Paris 122 girls and women registered with the actors' union as "strip-tease artists." Some of these earn as much as a million francs ($2,857) a month.

These wages, high by French standards, are justified by their box-office appeal.

One Paris theater that averaged four million francs ($11,717) a month in ticket sales when showing a play, saw its "take" double when it shifted to a strip-tease program.

The Hub clothiers has the real McCoy!

Think now!

... where else but at the Hub can you get a suit of genuine

Duppioni silk

at this price

$79.50

The Hub does it again! (And it wasn't easy.) Duppioni silk, as you probably know, is the finest silk in the world. It comes from the cocoons of especially lovable silk worms who cuddle together in twosomes and weave their nests on a co-op basis. The "Duppioni" (or double-thread) fibres that result from this charming relationship are tougher and springier, producing a silk that is lustrous and smooth, but much more resistant to wrinkling and much harder wearing than ordinary One-pioni silk. Suits made of real Duppioni usually sell at a price that puts them out of the reach of practically everybody but the very well-heeled. But now, as the result of a timely purchase, the Hub can offer a limited number of these luxurious suits at a saving we can modestly describe as stupendous. Now that summer's on the way you definitely want to own one of these imported Duppioni silk suits. See them now at the Hub.

THEY ELOPED—Octogenarian honeymooners Mr. and Mrs. William Sandford Utley are shown after their elopement in a Denver, Colo., hotel. The couple (she's 84; he's 88) said they left their Indiana homes to run away and get married because "our children thought it was a lot of foolishness." Utley is from Evansville and his wife, the former Ellen Belle Utley, comes from Mt. Vernon. She was formerly married to her husband's cousin who died in 1951.

He's Airborne Policeman

Scans Oklahoma Drivers High Above the Highway

OKLAHOMA CITY (INS)—Highway patrol units were slowly, cautiously weaving a trap around a convicted killer who had escaped from an Oklahoma prison. Troopers stood by patrol cars, waiting for instructions to move in on the escapee who was armed and considered dangerous.

Suddenly a black and white single engine plane appeared from the west and swooped within feet of a wheat field where the man had hidden himself.

The killer leaped into the air after the plane's propeller had come dangerously close to his head and yelled to ground police: "Come and get me before this crazy guy kills me."

It was just another mission for Lt. Art Hamilton, Oklahoma highway patrol pilot, who annually flies some 1,000 hours in the sleek Beechcraft Bonanza.

MAIN DUTY

Hamilton's primary duty for the patrol is flying over Oklahoma highways—and he is recognized as one of the pioneers in vehicle traffic control from the air.

Weather permitting, he will pre-arrange a meeting on a troublesome stretch of highway with a trooper on the ground. When he arrives at the spot, he establishes radio contact with the ground unit and keeps an eye on the steady stream of traffic.

"Of course, our aim is to save lives," Hamilton points out. "By watching the drivers, we know when one is getting out of line."

CARRIES WATCH

He carries a stop watch in the plane. When a car seems to be exceeding the speed limit, he will time the driver through three section lines. Quick reference to a chart on the plane's instrument panel will give him the speed of the car.

A quick message to the ground unit results in an arrest.

The ruddy faced veteran flyer said that several days ago he was flying in western Oklahoma when he timed a car going well over 100-miles-an-hour. "The trooper stopped him," Hamilton said, "and he was completely confused. The motorist couldn't figure how anyone knew he was driving that fast—no car was in sight."

The pilot usually flies between 1,000 and 2,000 feet but on occasions he has dropped his altitude to 50 feet to obtain more information. He noted that the air "usually is pretty rough at that low altitude."

In another recent incident, a man was reported kidnapped. The only information available to the patrol was a description of the car and that the victim was wearing a white suit.

Soon the flying trooper sighted a car of that description and flew low enough to look in the car and see a man in a white suit. The car was stopped by a ground unit and the kidnap-victim freed.

On Some Days, Nothing Seems to Go Your Way

DALLAS (AP)—Harold Wynn, 30, figures yesterday just wasn't his day.

As he tells it, he fell into a mud puddle walking to his car after work, then ran into a steel window, ripping his shirt. While driving home, a bus hit his car as he waited for police, a second bus clipped it and a third bus bumped it minutes later.

Total damages were $700, partly covered by insurance. Wynn was two hours late getting home to dinner with his mother-in-law.

Body Found in River

DETROIT (AP)—The body of a man tentatively identified as that of Melvin Holmes, 57, of Detroit, was recovered from the Detroit River Wednesday. Police said identification was made from papers found on the body. Holmes was last seen Wednesday morning.

Only if Production Stopped

U.S. Would Halt A-Tests

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. officials said today the United States is prepared to accept suspension of atomic weapons tests only under a first-step disarmament agreement providing also for halting production of nuclear weapons.

President Eisenhower had created the impression at a news conference yesterday that the United States might have reversed its policy on banning tests and might be about to accept a Russian proposal for a test moratorium separated from other major disarmament proposals.

A few hours later, however, the White House explained that the President "did not imply and it was not intended to imply that we would consider suspension of tests in isolation" from other arms control considerations. White House press secretary James C. Hagerty said there had been no change in policy.

The President's replies to questions on disarmament caused a stir because two weeks ago he had said the United States could end tests only on assurance that atomic weapons would not be used in future warfare. The measure of this assurance has been widely regarded here as an agreement to stop the production of such weapons and to begin the reduction of atomic weapons stockpiles.

Eisenhower was asked about a week-old Soviet proposal for a two-or three-year moratorium on test explosions, along with establishment of an international commission to manage the agreement and an inspection system to police it.

"These are hopeful signs, as I see them, and they deserve the most earnest and sympathetic study," the President said. He added that the United States wanted to know all the details because "generalization is one thing, to see how it works is another."

Then, in response to a series of inquiries, Eisenhower made the point that with an adequate inspection system to guard against secret testing it might be possible to work out an arrangement for suspending the tests in advance of some other aspects of a disarmament agreement.

He spoke of suspension under a system which would assure the United States and Russia that each knew exactly what the other was doing. Both countries could then use the period of the suspension "to work out something in which we could have real confidence," he said.

Man to Be Tried for Holding Woman

LONDON (AP)—John Raymond Bridal must stand trial on charges that he unlawfully imprisoned a 28-year-old woman for 3½ months in a cave-like excavation sealed with a manhole cover.

The 26-year-old self-styled inventor has pleaded innocent to the imprisonment charge and to another count of causing "bodily harm" to Marjorie Jordan. She claimed Bridal seized her by force and kept her prisoner from Jan. 8 to April 21.

Bridal told an earlier hearing he needed Miss Jordan to carry out certain experiments in connection with an invention on which he was working. She said all she did was dig the dugout bigger.

No date was fixed for trial. Bridal is free on $140 bail.

Rex Harrison to Wed Actress Kay Kendall

NEW YORK (AP)—Rex Harrison, stage-screen star, and actress Kay Kendall have obtained a marriage license. The English-born couple said that they plan to marry sometime later this month.

Harrison, 49, is starring in the Broadway hit "My Fair Lady." He was married twice previously. It will be the first for Miss Kendall, 31, who has appeared in a number of British films.

Storms Terrify Him, So He Flees Police

LINCOLN, R.I. (AP)—State Police Trooper Robert X. Mathews says he heard a new excuse for speeding.

"I saw you and kept on going because I'm terrified by thunder and lightning storms and wanted to get inside fast," the motorist told him.

Mathews let him off with a warning.

PARFAIT—As pretty as the vanilla chocolate parfait which combines vanilla ice cream, chocolate sauce, nuts and whipped cream.

Parfaits, Just Look Difficult

The secret of a good, home-made parfait is in the ingredients used. Naturally, the better the ice cream, the better the parfait. Incidentally, the thumb is to look for the brands which advertise the use of pure vanilla, especially pure vanilla. This is a sign of high quality products.

The ladies are also very important and here the homemaker has a chance to come up with an especially good parfait. By using only the best possible ingredients in your sauces, you can make a parfait with true, old fashioned flavor.

One trick in these sauces that is frequently overlooked today, is the use of pure vanilla extract in combination with chocolate and other flavors. Try it. You'll find you get a richer, smoother tasting result.

Parfaits always look extremely complicated. They are not. Layers of ice cream are alternated with layers of sauce. The whole is topped with a dollop of flavored, sweetened whipped cream. Don't forget the cherry on top for an added dash of color!

Serve parfaits often. They need never be the same, if you vary your ice cream and your choice of sauce.

Vanilla Chocolate Parfait
Chocolate ice cream
Vanilla sauce
Chopped nuts
Vanilla whipped cream
Fill parfait glasses with alternating layers of chocolate ice cream, vanilla sauce and chopped nuts. Top with Vanilla Whipped Cream. Garnish with a half of a nut meat.

Vanilla Sauce
1/2 cup sugar
1 tablespoon cornstarch
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup water
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 teaspoon pure vanilla extract
Combine first 3 ingredients in a saucepan. Stir in water. Cook over medium heat until thickened, about 5 minutes. Remove from heat. Add butter or margarine. Cool. Add pure vanilla extract. Serve over cake, ice cream, or use for making parfaits. Yield: 1 cup.

Vanilla Whipped Cream
1/2 cup heavy cream
1 tablespoon sugar
1/2 teaspoon pure vanilla extract
Whip cream and blend in sugar and pure vanilla extract. Yield: 1 cup.

Chocolate Parfait
Chocolate ice cream
Chocolate sauce
Vanilla whipped cream
Maraschino cherries
Fill parfait glasses with alternating layers of vanilla ice cream and chocolate sauce. Top with vanilla whipped cream and maraschino cherries.

Chocolate Sauce
3 squares unsweetened chocolate
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
1/2 cup white corn syrup
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup sugar

1/2 cup boiling water
1 teaspoon pure vanilla extract
Melt chocolate and butter or margarine over hot water. Blend in corn syrup and salt. Add sugar and mix well. Stir in boiling water. Boil 3 minutes over medium heat. Remove from heat. Cool slightly and add pure vanilla extract. Serve over ice cream, plain cake or use for making parfaits. Yield: Approximately 1-2 cups.

Mocha Parfait
Chocolate ice cream
Vanilla coffee sauce
Vanilla whipped cream
Maraschino cherry
Fill parfait glasses with alternating layers of chocolate ice cream and Vanilla Coffee Sauce. Top with vanilla whipped cream and a maraschino cherry.

Vanilla Coffee Sauce
1 1/2 cups sugar
1 teaspoon instant coffee
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup boiling water
1/2 cup white corn syrup
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
1 teaspoon pure vanilla extract
Combine first 5 ingredients in a saucepan. Cook until slightly thickened, (about 10 minutes) stirring to prevent scorching. Add butter or margarine. Cool. Add pure vanilla extract. Yield: 1-2 cups.

Women Are the Same Throughout the World

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

If women all over the world could get together, there would never be any threat of wars. For it takes only a short time to find common interests and to enjoy one another. This was brought out plainly last week when I had the good fortune to be hostess to Mrs. Denis Hawker, the wife of the visiting Australian newsman.

With her husband in Philadelphia for a seminar, Mrs. Hawker was at loose ends for two days in a strange city. The first day we went shopping at Northland. At lunch I suggested she try deep dish apple pie, as a typical American dessert.

We window shopped for several hours. We explored a pet shop and admired the exquisite finches in a cage. We bought a dress for the elder Hawker daughter. Then we went to a supermarket.

I love grocery stores. There's always something new to see, perhaps to buy. This one was no exception. The thing that most impressed my guest was the packaging of the food.

Except for the frozen food section, there weren't too many foods strange to Mrs. Hawker. Australians eat much the same as we do. But the attractive way in which most of our food is packaged intrigued her. Their bacon, for instance, isn't wrapped until it's purchased.

The next day I had invited friends in to meet Mrs. Hawker. She enjoyed helping me get lunch ready—most especially when she made two cakes from package mixes. While Australian housewives have a few mixes, they do not have the variety we do.

So she had great fun making a lemon flake and a burnt sugar cake. Then when I discovered I had run out of both powdered sugar and eggs, she made frosting, also from a mix.

The only foods I could serve that she hadn't tasted were blueberries, cottage cheese and maple syrup. We garnished a fruit gelatin salad with the berries, had fruit and cottage cheese salad for dinner and added the syrup to vanilla ice cream for a super sundae.

Gelatin is rarely used as a salad base, Mrs. Hawker said. It belongs in the dessert category, along with puddings, flummerys and tarts. Ice cream is a favorite dessert in her home, especially with her little girls.

In Australia there is less afternoon entertaining than here. The women have their social groups — and Mrs. Hawker felt right at home with my guests who talked about things like babies, food, etc. But the affairs are more apt to take place in the evening and a regular late supper is served, with sandwiches, savories and little cakes.

With the exception of less poultry and possibly more lamb and mutton, the Australians eat much the same meat as we do. Eggs are not always easy to buy so form a less important part of the diet. Terms may differ, such as minced meat for ground beef and porridge for cereal.

But you and I could eat happily too different, fortunately. Mrs. Hawker could translate into our money, for I'm hopelessly lost with the British monetary system.

The last night our guest was with us we went to a state park and cooked hamburgers over an outdoor stove. The Eight-Year-Old had made off with all our marshmallows for a roast two days before, or we could have added that experience as a typical American custom.

After forty-eight hours, Mrs. Hawker and I could truly say we found more areas of agreement than of difference. Women are the same whether they live in the southern or northern hemisphere. It is good occasionally to have this brought home to one in a personal manner.

Court Rules Man Knows if He Has Hole in His Head

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—The Court of Criminal Appeals has ruled that a man does not have to be an expert to know if he suffers a "hole in his head."

As a result, the court upheld the conviction and one-year prison sentence given Quinton J. Rawlinson for whipping Henry Mills with a bullwhip outside a tavern.

Mills complained that one of the injuries he received was a "hole in his head."

Rawlinson's attorneys objected there was no expert medical evidence to support such testimony. The court said Mills didn't have to be an expert and upheld the sentence.

STRAWBERRY RHUBARB JAM — For a fine flavor treat make some homemade Strawberry and Rhubarb Jam, using either the short-boil method or the "no-cook," both with powdered fruit pectin. You'll be glad you did when you enjoy this jam later on.

Berries and Rhubarb Go Together in Jam

Few women can resist the urge to make jam when fresh strawberries are abundant. And there's no reason why, anyone should forego that pleasure because liquid and powdered pectins have taken the time-consuming boiling, watching and guessing out of jam and jelly-making.

There is a still newer way of jam-making—one in which some fruits, such as strawberries, are not cooked at all. This new "no-cook" method is not appreciably shorter or easier than the regular pectin method and jams made the "no-cook" way must be kept refrigerated or frozen. However, some people think the uncooked jams have a fresher fruit flavor and so are worth the trouble of refrigerating.

Because rhubarb and strawberries are such a fine flavor combination, we are offering both the regular and the "no-cook" pectin recipes for making this delicious jam.

Strawberry and Rhubarb Jam
4 cups prepared fruit (about 1 lb. rhubarb and 1 quart ripe strawberries)
3/4 cup (3 oz.) powdered fruit pectin
1 box (2 1/2 oz.) powdered fruit pectin

First, prepare the fruit. Slice thin or chop (do not peel) about 1 pound rhubarb, or enough to make 2 cups. Crush about 1 quart fully

Strawberry Rhubarb Jam (Uncooked type)
3 cups prepared fruit (1 quart ripe strawberries and 1 lb. fresh rhubarb)
4 1/2 cups (1 lb.) sugar
1/2 cup water
1 box (2 1/2 oz.) powdered fruit pectin

First, prepare the fruit. Crush thoroughly 1 quart ripe strawberries. Measure 2 cups into a large pan or bowl. Grind very fine (do not peel) about 1 pound fresh rhubarb. Measure 1 cup and set aside.

Then make the jam. Measure sugar and set aside. Mix water and powdered fruit pectin in a small saucepan; add rhubarb and mix well. Bring to a boil and boil hard 1 minute, stirring constantly. Add to strawberries in large pan, stirring well. Then add sugar and stir briskly 3 minutes or until most of the sugar is dissolved. (There will be a few remaining crystals.)

Ladle quickly into glasses or freezer containers. Cover at once with tight lids or seals. Let stand 24 hours. Then store in freezer. If jam is to be used within 2 or 3 weeks it may be stored in refrigerator.

Senator Attacks Power Firm

Says Idaho Company Misrepresented Plans for Hells Canyon Dams

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Jackson (D-Wash.) today accused the Idaho Power Co. of "misleading" and "misrepresenting" its plans for three dams in Hells Canyon.

Jackson said in a speech prepared for the Senate that Congress should "right the wrong at Hells Canyon" by authorizing a federal dam which would flood the sites of the three private utility projects in the Snake River along the Idaho-Oregon border.

He spoke in debate on a bill which would authorize construction of one of the highest dams in the world in the deepest canyon on the continent. The Senate debate, is the latest clash in the private vs. public power fight.

The Eisenhower administration opposes the bill.

Jackson said a federal Hells Canyon dam would produce twice as much power as the three dams which Idaho Power Co. is building under a Federal Power Commission license.

"America cannot afford underdevelopment of her resources at any time, let alone when the Soviet Union is threatening to overtake us industrially by the mid-1970s," Jackson said.

Jackson charged Idaho Power Co. had "misled the taxpayer, misled the Federal Power Commission and misled the Congress."

"At the very time the private power company was bragging it would build its low dams at Hells Canyon without cost to the taxpayers it already had applied for a fast tax writeoff," Jackson said.

"Talk about fooling somebody. The FPC went for it hook, line and sinker."

The FPC issued a construction license to the Idaho firm on grounds the three dams would be built "without expense to the United States," Jackson said.

Later, he added, the company obtained tax writeoff certificates from the Office of Defense Mobilization.

Actor Faces Jail Term for Kicking Photographer

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Despite a dramatic courtroom performance, actor Anthony Franciosa faces a 10-day jail sentence for kicking a photographer.

Franciosa turned on some impassioned oratory, punctuated with a great deal of arm waving and fist pounding, when the prosecution yesterday urged a jail sentence for his April 29 attack on a cameraman who tried to photograph him and actress Shelley Winters, now his wife.

Municipal Judge Mark Brandler remained unimpressed by the performance and fined the 29-year-old actor $250 in addition to sentencing him to jail. Franciosa's attorneys filed notice of appeal and he remained at liberty on $250 bond.

CHAPTER 22

"I had the impression you and Nela were enjoying each other's company too much," said Sarah Pardee quite coolly. "I don't want you to be hurt, Will. You're so young, and you've never been in love. If you aren't careful, it can destroy you."

I sat on the chair in silence, not moving. I didn't know what to say, but I realized that if anyone knew what love could do to a person, it was Sarah.

"You're not like me," she went on. "The ranch isn't first with me. It is with you. But remember this. John Mathers can't change, and Nela is his daughter. Forget her, Will. You've got to forget her. You see what will happen to both of you if you don't?"

I stood up. What she had said didn't make sense. If John Mathers was good for Sarah, then Nela must be good for me. Of course, I knew Nela much better than Sarah did, and one of the first things I had learned was that Nela was almost as impatient with her father as I was. I rolled a cigarette taking my time, and lighted it. Good Lord, I thought, Sarah is jealous of Nela. Because of me, Will Beeson, who was almost a son to her. At least, she was the nearest thing to a mother I had ever known.

It was crazy. I was sixteen when I had come here, Sarah twenty-eight. Now I was twenty-four, and she was thirty-six, and in love with John Mathers. And yet, now that I thought about it, I could remember so many things she had done for me, things I had no right to expect.

I flipped my cigarette into the yard and walked back to the couch. I said, "Sarah, how much does the Box P mean to you?"

She had been lying down, but now she sat up, moving with more agility than usual. "Will, I'm glad you've given me a chance to tell you. I hate it. Joe never belonged to me. I fought the Box P from the day we were married, and I always lost. It was first with him and I was second. Not just the Box P but the whole valley. And now it's the same with you."

"It's not the valley with me," I said.

"The ranch, then. It's put you out of my reach. You're like a stream moving away from me all the time. It's not that important. I hate the ranch."

"Then don't live here," I said. "You'll be marrying Mathers before long. Until then you can live in Canon City. I'll buy your half. I'll give you my note, or maybe I can borrow enough."

She didn't answer for a long time. Darkness was complete now. I stood close to her, her shape vague in the starshine that came through the windows and open door. Then she said, "Light a lamp, Will."

I obeyed, and when I turned to her she held her arms up to me. "Put me back into the chair," she said. I picked her up and carried her to the chair and set her down. She clung to me more than she needed to; her hands did not release me as soon as they could have. She said: "Thank you, Will. I won't sell out now. I wouldn't put that burden upon you. I don't hate the Box P so much I can't live on it."

I said, "Good night, Sarah," and left the room.

Dogbone was already in bed, and Curly and Red Thurston were pulling off their boots when I went into the bunkhouse. Red said: "I forgot to tell you, Will. I ran into Irv Costello today. He said Brahms has lost several steers. He figures the colonists are living off his beef, and he's sent for the sheriff."

"It's his trouble," I said. I didn't want to argue. Brahms might be right, but this wasn't the night for me to worry about it. I went to bed, and Red blew out the lamp; but it was a long time after that before the first pale light of dawn touched the eastern windows. I hadn't slept at all, but I had reached a decision. If Nela Mathers would have me, I'd marry her right away.

The sheriff came from Canon City, looked around, asked some questions, and rode away without making any arrests, much to Eric Brahms' disgust. I saw Irv Costello in Delaney's store that Saturday.

"Them devil colonists will go right on eating our beef," he said bitterly. "If I catch one of 'em at it, I'll hang him!"

But it was none of my business and, in my opinion, none of Costello's. The problem that kept me awake night after night was what to do about Sarah. It was a decision I couldn't make because suddenly I woke up to the fact that I didn't understand her.

I had looked upon Sarah as an angel with a shattered body. After Joe's death I blamed him for all the trouble they'd had, for making Sarah a cripple, for forcing a rule of fear upon the valley which Sarah deplored.

Looking back over the past year, I realized that my attitude toward Joe had changed by what Sarah had said, slowly and insidiously, but changed just the same. Now I habitually thought of Joe as Sarah wanted me to think of him.

I felt as if I had been forcibly shaken awake while in the middle of a beautiful dream. Two things had done so. I had seen Sarah standing on her feet as erect as anyone and I had seen her take two steps. And I had heard her say I was becoming too fond of Nela, that I must forget her, when, by all standards of common sense, she should have been happy because I was fond of Nela, who would be her step-daughter.

But it was obvious that she didn't want me to marry Nela. If I did, I wouldn't be able to bring her to the Box P as my wife. Was I, then, to walk off and leave half a ranch I owned? Though I couldn't answer that question, I made up my mind to marry Nela, then settle the other questions later. I was afraid that Sarah would find some way or other to separate me from Nela.

As we ate Sunday dinner, we were all tense, except Mathers, who rattled on in his usual enthusiastic way, and with his usual fine choice of words. Nela must have realized something was wrong. She was silent throughout the meal. So was Sarah, but her gaze was on me constantly.

The instant we were done eating, I rose. Apparently Nela sensed what was in my mind, for she pushed her chair back and got up, saying: "Excuse me, Mrs. Pardee. We're going for a walk." Sarah opened her mouth to speak, but closed it without saying a word. Once outside, I walked fast, Nela running to keep up. She grabbed my arm, panting. "What's wrong, Will?" I slowed down. "I'll tell you in a minute." When we reached the creek, we sat down behind a screen of willows beside a long pool that was deep enough for swimming. "Lie down and be comfortable," I said. "I'm going to talk for a long time — about myself."

She laughed and lay on her back, her skirt pulled up far enough to expose her ankles. I stared at them, then at her mouth with the smile still lingering in the corners, and at the dimples not more than an inch from the ends of her lips. Finally my gaze met her gray eyes.

She sat up, suddenly concerned. "Will, I never saw you look at me like that before."

I picked up a rock, tossed it into the water, and watched the circles ripple out until they died against the bank. "We've been together every Sunday lately, but you don't know much about me. It's time you did."

She dropped back to the ground, tiny patches of sunlight that slipped through the willow leaves falling on her. "I know enough, Will. I found out all I needed to know the day you had dinner with us."

"My mind was alive with memories of what my life might have been without Sarah, but my most immediate need was to marry Nela." Will Beeson must undergo a double time of trial. Continue "Gunlock" here Friday.
