SIT-IN DISPERSED — More than 250 black students at Pontiac Central High School ended a three-hour sit-in just before noon today when School Supt. Dr. Dana P. Whitmer agreed to arrange a public meeting with the board at 7:30 tonight at Central High auditorium. The students insist that the board discuss nine demands presented at last Thursday night's board meeting. (Story page A-2.)

How to Keep Teens Away From Drugs

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the first in a series of articles written by a prize-winning reporter to inform anxious parents about the drug and narcotics situation and suggest what they can do to guard their own children against its hazards.)

BY ALTON BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Writer

The use—and abuse—of drugs that affect human minds is spreading across the country like smog.

Young Americans by the hundreds of thousands, perhaps by the millions, are tasting, experimenting or going still further with marijuana, with LSD, with the uppies and downies of pep pills and sedatives, with Speed, and even in some cases with heroin.

By the millions, parents are increasingly puzzled, worried or even downright panicky. Most disturbing to them, is the fact that marijuana or "pot" especially is becoming popular among junior high and high school students.

30 S. Viets Die, 105 Wounded in Red Ambush

SAIGON (AP) — Hundreds of enemy troops ambushed about 300 South Vietnamese paratroopers, killing 30 of the government soldiers and wounding 105 in a two-day battle that was still going on late today, the Saigon government said.

The savage battle was one of five major fights reported in the past 24 hours — at three points near the Cambodian border and to the north and south of Saigon. The dead included 31 Americans and at least 27 Vietcong and North Vietnamese, allied spokesmen said.

The Vietcong also shelled more than 35 towns and allied bases during the night as the enemy's spring offensive continued in its third week.

U.S. Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird told newsmen as he left Saigon after a four-day visit that the offensive is a "calculated escalation of the war." But he said it "has not been successful."

NOT REVEALED

Laird would not reveal the recommendations he is carrying back to President Nixon, except to say that he would request additional funds to strengthen the South Vietnamese armed services.

The secretary said some American troops would be replaced in due course by South Vietnamese as the latter's armed forces grew stronger. But he would not give any timetable.

Laird said that on the basis of his trip he could not foresee any circumstances which would require more American forces in Vietnam.

The South Vietnamese paratrooper battalion that was ambushed reported 14 of its men killed and 80 wounded in a savage fight 54 miles northwest of Saigon and three miles from the Cambodian border. American bombers finally drove off the enemy force, but enemy casualties were not known.

PLATOON DECIMATED

About 20 miles to the south, every U.S. air cavalryman in a 40-man platoon was killed or wounded when an estimated 400 troops from the Vietcong 5th Division ran into the platoon as it was checking the Cambodian border for infiltrators.

American reinforcements poured into the battle, but 14 U.S. troops were killed and 31 were wounded. At least 37 of the enemy were killed, the U.S. Command said.

Other air cavalrymen operating 27 miles northeast of Saigon on the fringes of the Vietcong war Zone D rain into elements of the 1st Vietcong 5th Division, which two weeks ago tried to overrun the big U.S. military complex at Bien Hoa.

U.S. spokesmen said 24 enemy troops were counted dead, while U.S. losses were two killed and 11 wounded.

Egypt General Killed by Shell

TEL AVIV (AP) — After two days of heavy shelling, the Suez Canal was reported quiet again today. Egypt prepared a hero's funeral for its army chief of staff, Gen. Abdel Moneim Riad, who was fatally wounded by an Israeli shell yesterday.

U.N. observers blamed Egypt for the start of the artillery duel Saturday.

Israelis shells hit Egypt's oil refinery at Suez for the fourth time since the 1967 war, and the Israelis said a petrochemical plant and oil storage tanks were still burning today. Egypt said three tanks were set afire.

Israel said one of its Piper Cubs was shot down, three Israelis including the pilot were killed and 14 were wounded.

3 EGYPTIANS KILLED

Egypt said three of its men were killed and 13 wounded and it lost a MIG jet.

The semiofficial Cairo newspaper Al Ahram said Riad had flown by helicopter to Ismailia yesterday and was observing the artillery duel with a group of officers when the shell landed close to him.

Riad, 50, was Egypt's second-ranking soldier after the defense minister, Gen. Mohammed Fawzi. President Gamal Abdel Nasser posthumously awarded him Egypt's highest military decoration, the Star of Honor.

Ray Pleads Guilty, Hints at Conspiracy

From Our News Wires

MEMPHIS, Tenn. — James Earl Ray, hinting a conspiracy existed, pleaded guilty today to the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

Ray was the only person in court to suggest others may have taken part in the April 4, 1968, sniper slaying of the Nobel peace prize winner.

His guilty plea was part of a deal with the prosecution that he will be sentenced to 99 years in the Tennessee State Prison at Nashville, instead of taking the chance that a jury might sentence him to death in the electric chair.

Ray said, however, that he did not agree with a theory—apparently held by his own lawyer—that there was no conspiracy to assassinate King. But, he said,

Nixon May Trim Plan

ABM Verdict Near

KEY BISCAIYNE, Fla. (AP) — President Nixon summoned security adviser Henry A. Kissinger to his Florida retreat today to discuss the antiballistic missile controversy.

Gerald L. Warren, deputy press secretary, said Nixon wanted to consult with Kissinger "on the ABM and other matters." Asked if the Middle East might figure in the conversation, Warren said he could not rule that out.

Nixon, described as near a decision on deploying a "thin" antiballistic missile shield, will fly back to Washington with Kissinger late in the day.

He is expected to make known his ABM decision tomorrow or Wednesday, perhaps in a national television-radio appearance.

AWAY FROM CITIES

It's expected that proposed missile sites for the nuclear-tipped Spartan interceptors will be moved as much as 30 miles from major population centers. Location of the sites near cities had drawn criticism from citizens who feared

"I agree with the stipulation" to plead guilty.

'NOT A CONSPIRACY'

"I've never had hopes of anything except . . . to save this man's life," said Ray's lawyer, Percy Foreman of Houston, Tex. "It took me months to prove to myself . . . that it was not a conspiracy."

Five witnesses then testified to the actual fact of King's slaying, at the Lorraine Motel here April 4, 1968. This is necessary under Tennessee law in a case where the death penalty could be involved.

Then, the jury must retire to go through the formality of setting the 99-year sentence.

The jury was chosen from a venire picked two weeks ago, but the jurors themselves had no idea, a court spokesman said, that they would be assigned to the Ray case until court began this morning.

Criminal Court Judge Preston Battle asked Ray, who was called to the stand, whether he understood that his guilty plea meant he waived all rights to appeal. He also was asked if the decision to plead guilty was his own and of his own free will.

"I agree with the stipulation," Ray said, and then told the judge he wanted to add something.

Asked what it was, Ray said he wanted to go on record as saying he did not agree with "the theory that there was no conspiracy."

If the jury agrees to the 99-year sentence, and there are indications it will, Ray could be eligible for parole in 33 years.

The state previously said it would demand the death penalty, but the state's electric chair has not been used since 1961.

Area Girl Killed in Avon Crash

A 20-year-old Birmingham girl was killed Saturday night when the car in which she was riding went out of control and crashed in Avon Township.

Dead is Kathryn Ann Edwards, 1555 Chapin, who, according to the driver, fell out of the car when it struck a guardrail on Adams near Avon road.

The driver, Ransome Boyd, 23, of Hazel Park, told Oakland County sheriff's deputies that he was traveling about 40 miles an hour prior to the accident.

Boyd said the accident occurred when he slammed on his brakes to avoid hitting a guard post and the car slid sideways and struck the guardrail. Skid marks measured 111 feet, according to a deputy.

New Kitchen May End KP

FT. BENNING, Ga. (AP) — A general's lunch today offers hope for the legions of GIs who have dreamed of the end of KP.

Maj. Gen. John M. Wright Jr., Ft. Benning commander, is going to eat the first meal cooked during the 10-day test of a new, Army-developed field kitchen.

The Army says the kitchen, called "subsistence preparation by electronic defusion" or Speed, will make kitchen police obsolete.

Its utensils are disposable. They include paper plates and plastic spoons, cups and pans. Cooking is done by two microwave ovens, a grill and a forced-air oven.

The kitchen is a pod-like affair 12 feet long, seven feet wide and eight feet high. It can be carried by helicopter or truck and comes stocked with enough food to maintain 200 men for a day.

It also contains an incinerator for getting rid of the utensils.

129 Pontiac-Area Youths Leave for Army Induction

Families, sweethearts and friends said goodbye this morning to 129 Pontiac area young men headed for Detroit's Fort Wayne Army Induction Center in the March draft call.

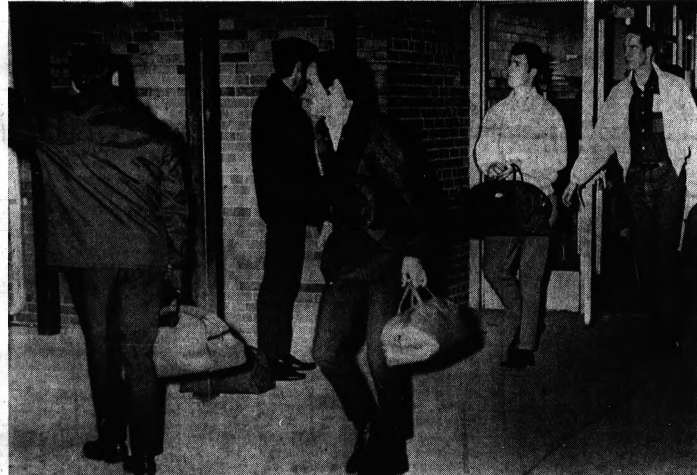

The group gathered at the Pontiac Elks Lodge, 114 Orchard Lake, prior to their 7 a.m. departure. The Elks have been providing use of their facilities since last September.

Prior to that, the draftees used to assemble and wait for the bus at a downtown intersection. Several area organizations have combined efforts to give the youths a warmer sendoff.

At the Elks Lodge, a light breakfast is provided as well as a place to say farewells. The facility was jammed this morning with more than 600 persons.

Contributing to the sendoff were Elks Lodge 819, Lake Orion, Chief Pontiac and Cook-Nelson American Legion posts; Post 811 of the Forty and Eight; the Armvets; UAW Local 596, Disabled American Veterans Post 16 and the Gideon Society.

The draftees are from three city draft boards, 65, 331 and 67. Today's call was termed one of the larger ones in recent months. The number reflects a step-up to replace large numbers of men being discharged, according to draft officials.

OFF THEY GO—Draftees from the Pontiac area leave the Elks Lodge early this morning to board buses for Detroit's Ft. Wayne induction center. In the March call-up were 129 young men.

Spring Unsprung: Snow Due Tonight

Spring hasn't sprung yet. The weatherman predicts snow flurries, cloudy skies and lower temperatures for today and tonight. Today's high is due to be in the mid-30s with tonight's low in the mid-20s.

Tomorrow the flurries will end but the partly cloudy skies and cooler temperatures will continue.

Light snow is on the agenda for Wednesday with temperatures in the 30s.

This morning's northwest winds at 10 to 22 m.p.h. will slow this afternoon to 8 to 12 m.p.h. and pick up speed again tonight at 10 to 20 m.p.h.

Probabilities of precipitation in percent are 30 today, tonight and tomorrow.

Rome Campus Reopens

ROME (AP) — The University of Rome reopened today after a 16-day shutdown and two months of student occupation and disorders.

Police stood guard at the gates to the main campus and at entrances to other schools of the university scattered around the city. They let anyone go in without checking on credentials.

Parochial Foes Pick Up Support From 2 Corners

LANSING (UPI) — Opening the tax dollars' pocketbook to finance nonpublic education got negative responses from two political corners over the weekend. Both want that pocketbook snapped shut and padlocked.

The 60,000 member Michigan Education Association (MEA) heeded up the anti-parochial forces by contributing $500 to an organization bent on keeping tax dollars in the public schools.

State Sen. Sander Levin, D-Berkley, stepped into the fray yesterday by announcing his "active opposition to Parochial results from vigorous support for a strong system of public schools, rather than opposition to the existence of private or parochial schools."

The essence of the struggle, Levin told the Detroit chapter of the Citizens to Advance Public Education (CAPE), is that tax dollars simply won't stretch far enough to support two different school systems.

Levin is the Senate minority leader and a former Democratic State chairman.

He cited the huge deficit of more than $25 million now facing the Detroit school system and the latest information from the State Department of Education that 74 school districts were operating on a deficit.

"Today we are struggling to obtain the financial aid and public support necessary to sustain quality education programs and to improve programs for children in needy school districts and the disadvantaged children of low income families."

"Diversion of monies to private schools would inevitably result in failure to resolve these massive education problems," Levin said.

'VIOLATES PRINCIPLE'

Noting that his opposition to the stormy issue was as an individual senator and not as Senate Democratic leader, Levin argued that Parochial destroys the separation of church and state principle.

"Religious institutions have been free to operate without governmental interference and control, and governmental institutions have been free to operate without favoritism to any religious denomination, he said."

The support of the MEA, which made the donation to CAPE, was viewed as a big boost for the drive against Parochial. The Michigan Federation of Teachers, mainly predominant in the metropolitan Detroit area, has remained neutral.

Pending in the Michigan House currently is a bill which would grant $40 million annually to parochial schools for teaching secular subjects.

The chief sponsor, Rep. J. Robert Traxler, D-Bay City, conceded additional taxation is needed to pay for the massive program.

'Wiretap Files Must Be Bared'

WASHINGTON (AP) Criminal defendants whose conversations or "premises" were bugged by federal agents have a right to examine government transcripts and logs, the Supreme Court ruled 5 to 3 today.

This includes government records relating to national security matters. The Justice Department has argued strenuously against such action.

The point of the examination by defense attorneys is to determine if prosecution was built on illegal eavesdropping.

The government already had conceded its obligation to disclose illegal bugging if the bugging helped the prosecution. But it maintained this examination should be done by a federal judge—not by the defendant's lawyers.

'MORE THAN FORMALITY'

The court, in an opinion by Justice Byron R. White, a former Justice Department official, disagreed. He said if the bugging hearings "are to be more than a formality and petitioners (defendants) not left entirely to reliance on government testimony there should be turned over to them the records of those overheard conversations which the government was not entitled to use in building its case against them."

Ship With Hole in Side Is Steaming for Port

NEW YORK (AP) — The British cargo vessel Montclair, a hole smashed in her side just above the waterline by a truck which broke loose in the hold during stormy North Atlantic weather, proceeded today under its own power toward Halifax, N.S. 350 miles to the Northeast, the Coast Guard reported.

The 440-foot vessel, with a crew of 32, began shipping water through a 12-foot hole yesterday while rolling in 20-to 30-foot seas.

Using its own pumps and two dropped by a Coast Guard plane, the ship was able to keep abreast of the flooding as the seas abated.

The Norwegian freighter Pontos is standing by.

Peking: Soviets Provoked Clash

TOKYO (AP) — Communist China charged today that the Soviet Union provoked the Manchurian border clash March 2 to divert the attention of Russians who are massing for a "revolution" against "Soviet fascist rule."

Some Western analysts have suggested that Peking provoked the bloody fight for a similar reason — to make the Chinese forget internal dissensions and rally behind Mao Tse-tung by raising the specter of a "Soviet threat."

Boistering this view was an announcement from Peking Sunday that Red Chinese militiamen and peasants are patrolling with frontier guards.

Press reports in Hong Kong and London said Peking has put 5 million men on an armed alert. The official Chinese announcement gave no exact figures.

Each side has accused the other of starting the March 2 battle on a disputed island in the Ussuri River, which separates the Soviet Far East and Manchuria. Moscow said 31 of its soldiers were killed and 14 were wounded. China has not released casualty figures.

Observers in Tokyo believe the rallying of Chinese in anti-Soviet protests is directly related to Peking's plan to hold its 9th party congress this year. Peking has not announced a date for the congress, but Japanese correspondents in Peking reported in February preparations were under way.

Storms May Change Apollo Splashdown

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — With stormy weather buffeting their planned Atlantic landing area, the Apollo 9 astronauts received word today they might have to shift their splashdown to calmer seas.

Air Force Col. James A. McDivitt and David R. Scott and civilian Russell L. Schweickart then turned space age weathermen to report on conditions in the landing zone and over a wide area of the United States.

The weather watch helped break the monotony of Apollo 9's seventh day in space—in which the astronauts drifted to conserve fuel and dreamed of home. They had another light schedule of picture taking, navigation checks, an engine firing, and resting.

The astronauts had completed 97 per cent of their flight objectives. The crucial lunar module — LEM-checkout, Schweickart's space walk and the rendezvous of the LEM and command module occurred in the first five days.

They are remaining aloft to prove the reliability of the Apollo command-ship for 10 days, the longest period presently planned for man-to-the-moon missions.

As Apollo 9 circled overhead, there was a slight delay in preparations for the next step. Movement of the Saturn 5 rocket and spaceship for Apollo 10 to a Cape Kennedy launch pad, scheduled today, was postponed 24 hours because of a minor problem.

Apollo 10, commanded by Air Force Col. Thomas P. Stafford, is scheduled to orbit the moon with a lunar module in May — paving the way for a landing by two members of the Apollo 11 crew in July.

Negroes End Sit-in at PCH

By MARY SUNDSTROM

More than 250 Central High School black students dispersed just before noon today following a three-hour sit-in during which they insisted that the school board meet with them today to discuss their demands.

Pontiac Schools Supt. Dr. Dana P. Whitmer addressed the students at 11:25 a.m. and told them that he and as many of the board members as could attend would meet with them at 7:30 tonight at the Central High auditorium.

Whitmer asked that the demonstrators disperse at the 11:30 a.m. bell and go to their classes. He also asked that all nonstudents leave the building. Several black adults and black students from other schools participated in and observed the demonstration.

The sit-in began at 8:30 a.m., the opening of the school day. Demonstrators told Central Principal Garth Er-

Birmingham Area Proposed Ban on Cigarette Ads Rapped

BLOOMFIELD HILLS—The proposed banning by the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) of cigarette advertising from broadcast media could be "a crippling blow to the basic business-advertising relationship."

This is the contention of Ernest A. Jones, chairman of the locally based advertising agency of MacManus, John & Adams Inc.

Jones identifies himself as a nonsmoker who "owns no stock in the broadcast or tobacco industries. He added that his agency does not have a cigarette account."

In an address prepared for delivery before members of the Phoenix, Ariz., Advertising Club today, Jones contends that he is greatly concerned about the right of business to sell a legal product in a legal manner.

FEARS REPUTATION

"I am concerned with the Kafka-like execution by commission on an unproven charge. If the voice of legitimate business can be stifled in this manner, I wonder what product or service will be next obliterated by a statistical shadow," Jones explained.

Jones believes that any successful unopposed move inevitably will be repeated and extended. "I wonder when rights of other manufacturers, other media may be assumed by probability rather than certainty, when the administrative act of licensing will be converted into outright suppression."

"The use of cigarettes is a medical question; the arbitrary banning of their advertising—however insipidly stupid it may be—is a constitutional question. And one, I hope, that is soon answered by the Congress," the adman said.

Jones maintains there is no product made, no product advertised, from automobiles to aspirin, which does not have a negative potential due to situation or circumstance.

He added that other media and industries should not look at the FCC opinion as a tobacco-television problem. "Constitutional rights are neither selective nor negotiable," he added.

Dr. A. P. Ulbrich will give a color slide lecture on Michigan plants and shrubs that cause allergies to thousands of local residents in a meeting of the Bloomfield Hills Camera Club in the Cranbrook Hall of Science tonight at 8.

Dr. Ulbrich, a Troy resident, is known nationally for his work in allergies and skin irritants. He has made several hundred slides of local plants and flowers that are the common enemy of man.

How to Keep Teens Off Drugs

their children away from using mind-affecting drugs?

How much of the complete story about various drugs do young people and children know?

How can you tell if someone is smoking marijuana, or taking LSD or other drugs?

WHY NOW?

Why did the great turn-on with drugs come along now?

What benefits do drug users say they find? What harms may various drugs cause?

Just what are all these drugs, new and old?

What should parents do if teen-agers or college students become dependent on drugs?

What is the argument all about over legalization of marijuana, or reducing the penalties for possessing it?

There are of course no simple, pat answers to these and other questions.

WHAT CAN PARENTS DO

For a majority of young people, observers remark, the encounter with mind-affecting drugs appears as a flirtation, a one-time or one-in-a-while event, with users sure they can take it or leave it.

But some authorities say such experimentation can amount to drug roulette—that some young people particularly susceptible to various drugs, can become dependent, and get hurt, badly hurt, from what they intended as a rather innocent adventure.

The "drug scene" is part of a larger one. For the truth is that American society is heavily a pill society. Its people for years have been swallowing billions of pills and capsules, including tranquilizers.

American society tolerates alcohol and nicotine, both of which technically are drugs, and millions of people abuse both of them. It has long had a corps of addicts hooked on heroin or opium, but fewer now than 30 or 40 years ago.

PILLS FOR EVERYBODY

Many among a huge variety of drugs are taken legitimately, prescribed for medical benefits. But there is also a great black market among some potent drugs, and illegal manufacture or importation.

Each year, says the Food and Drug Administration, billions of sedative and pep pills are diverted to illegal use and ultimate misuse. That means enough pills or tablets per person per year to "keep everyone in the United States awake and jumping for a week, and enough barbiturates to keep them in a stupor for a week."

The newer element in the nation's drug problem is the rather sudden spread of drugs that induce fantasies or hallucinations, or that "expand the mind."

This drug problem is here. It is now. It is big. It is apparently growing bigger.

ANSWERS NEEDED

And it has set loose a storm of emotion that confuses the issues, and that blocks effective answers.

Part of the problem is "a tyranny of opinion, attitude and belief in the absence of knowledge," said Dr. Helen H. Nowlis, University of Rochester psychologist and director of the National Association of Student Personnel Administrators.

Many parents are baffled or alarmed because the drug scene is something totally outside of their own personal experience. Many cannot help wondering whether their children will remain immune to the appeal of present drugs, or to a raft of new drugs which experts predict will inevitably come along. Many parents are far more alarmed, some experts say, than they really need be.

REAL FACTS

But practically all agree that parents are not likely to get very far unless they know the real facts about different drugs. Only with knowledge can they give sound counsel.

Youngsters and students generally know a good deal more than parents about mind-influencing drugs. But they may also tend to believe what they choose on a controversial subject. And they usually learn about drugs from their own companions—not all of them well or fully informed.

Parents are wrong, for example, if they argue that marijuana is a "narcotic" or that it is physically addictive. The reasons why it is not, and why parents could honestly have been misled into thinking it is, are explained later.

The point that authorities make here is that parents get into trouble if they do insist marijuana is a narcotic, or if they lump all drugs together as being equally bad.

"Once the youngster can prove the parent is wrong about a big point, he very likely takes the position—'Now I can't believe anything you say at all,'" says one psychiatrist. "Any drug education which is not scrupulously honest will fail with the kids," a psychologist adds. "Once you exaggerate, you lose them."

'Blacks Eager to Integrate'

DETROIT (UPI) — Racial attitudes in postriot Detroit find the majority of white people are hesitant over full-scale integration while most blacks are eager to integrate, an in-depth social and psychological study has reported.

Only 26 per cent of the whites interviewed demonstrated integrationist attitudes compared to 89 per cent of the blacks who favored full integration, the study said.

Directed by Dr. Elliott Luby, associate director of the Lafayette Clinic in Detroit, the study found the greatest danger for racial explosion comes from a small minority of extremists on both sides.

"These are intensely angry and profoundly frightened men, both black and white, who will attempt to move us toward more violence and a paranoid restructuring of all race relations in the city," the study said.

TINY MINORITY

Some 16 per cent of the whites favored segregation as opposed to 2 per cent of the blacks, the study said.

Of the white segregationists, 67 per cent didn't finish high school while only 3 per cent of them had any college training. At the average of 55, they were 14 years older than the average liberal white's age 41.

The study pointed out that 11 times as many white integrationists had gone to college as segregationists. Seventy per cent of the liberals had finished high school.

County's Rec Facilities Offer Varied Activities

Recreation areas and programs as sponsored by the Oakland County Parks and Recreation Commission will this year give county residents a variety of choices.

The Springfield-Oaks area, some 225 acres located near Davidsburg, provides a nine-hole golf course, hiking and nature trails and a picnic area.

Beach facilities to be constructed on the Mill Pond should be ready for use in July, according to Kenneth VanNatta, county director.

An activities center, an additional nine-hole golf course, a playground, Little League ball field, softball field, horseshoe-pitching courts, badminton and tennis courts are currently in the development process.

CAMPING POPULAR

At Groveland-Oaks, 181 acres on the headwaters of the Thread River, camping is popular. Beach facilities on Stewar Lake have been improved and enlarged and a small marina is to be constructed.

VanNatta said the children's play area, the activities building and campsite facilities are to be enlarged and repaired where necessary. New roads are to be built and new sanitary facilities constructed.

At Waterford-Oaks, 110 acres on the westerly limits of Pontiac, VanNatta plans development of existing facilities to house programs for the handicapped, recreation craft shows, a performing arts center, a music festival site, programs for the elderly, and the area has been designated as home for the 1969 Soap Box Derby.

Independence-Oaks, 337 acres on the headwaters of the Clinton River, and Addison-Oaks, 700 acres in Addison township, are still in the preliminary phase of development and acquisition. The areas currently offer informal enjoyment in a natural setting.

Total development costs of the five areas are estimated at $2.5 million, Van Natta said. He estimates all costs can be met from currently voted millage for recreation.

Four Youths Arrested in Thefts From Trucks

UTICA — Four youths from Utica and Shelby Township were arrested here Saturday night in connection with the theft of more than $300 worth of equipment from Michigan Bell Telephone Co. trucks last week, police said.

Police reported most of the equipment has been recovered. Two of the youths are in the custody of their parents while the other two are being held in Macomb County Juvenile Detention Home.

All of the youths will be arraigned in Juvenile Court.

'Cheated Out of Inheritance' She Won't Accept Money

(FLINT UPI) — For five years now, Mrs. Emma G. Readis has steadfastly refused to accept $171.58 from the Oakland County treasury.

"It can just stay there and rot, she says."

Mrs. Readis, a cook at a restaurant in this southeast Michigan city, believes she has somehow been cheated out of thousands of dollars from her uncle's estate.

When the uncle, Gabriel Burnett, died in 1960, he named Mrs. Readis as sole heir. The estate was appraised at $25,700 for tax purposes.

But the land and property of the estate all were sold to pay claims against it. When all the claims had been paid, Mrs. Readis was awarded $171.58.

Mrs. Readis said she had expected to receive thousands of dollars. She said she was so shocked at the amount offered that she refused to accept it.

The probate court ordered the county treasurer to hold the money until Mrs. Readis agrees to take it.

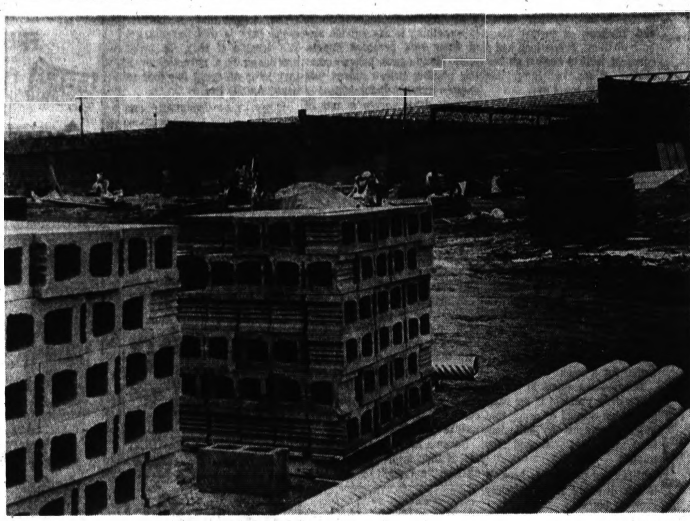

It has been in the county treasurer's office ever since.

Bloomfield Twp. Laments Neglect of Telegraph Road

BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — Concern for the plight of highway M50 in western Oakland County is fast giving an inferiority complex to the police and government personnel of this township. Township officials have been talking loud and loud about the road problem — Telegraph — but, as Police Chief Robert L. Snell put it, "No one seems to be listening."

Telegraph is serving a community that only 15 years ago had a population of approximately 3,800. Today, the township's population is near 45,000.

Chief Snell laments the fact that construction of 1-75 and 1-696 has failed to ease the traffic load on Telegraph as highway department officials have figured. A heavy increase in truck traffic on the highway has added further complications.

CLOSEST ROUTE

Snell explained that truckers and many commuter still travel the highway that is the closest between two points, and Telegraph, in many cases, serves this purpose more than the expressways do.

"This fact, the highway department apparently didn't count on. Since the traffic patterns have proved that usage of Telegraph has not and will not decrease, the only alternative is to completely reengineer the highway," Snell said.

He pointed out, in a recent interview, that a continuing "multiplicity of stop-gap" measures have failed to make significant contributions to improving safety conditions on the highway.

Total automobile accidents jumped more than 25 per cent from 324 in 1967 to 435 in 1968. More than 300 persons were injured in Telegraph accidents in 1968. Accidents at the increasingly critical Long Lake-Telegraph intersection more than doubled from 26 to 55.

6-MILE STRETCH

Traffic Lieutenant Richard Reuther

noted that all these accidents occurred on a six-mile stretch of Telegraph that comes under Bloomfield Township jurisdiction.

Township police are cracking down on speeders with increased patrols and use of radar. Increased traffic enforcement is the only thing that is holding the accident increases to an even close-to-respectable total, according to Snell.

What is more alarming, the chief said, is that the Highway Department has not included Telegraph in its five-year program of commitments. Added Township Supervisor Homer Case, "We not only don't have any help from the state now, but we apparently have no assurance of getting any through 1973."

1964 REQUEST

Snell explained that in 1964 the township asked the Highway Department to widen and improve Telegraph to a six-lane divided highway. It asked that the median be 60 feet wide to provide left-turn lanes north and south of each intersection. The intersections, Snell said, are still the major cause of accidents on Telegraph.

Snell noted that in 1965 the Highway Department partly concurred with the township request, by eliminating a sharp transition north of Maple Road on Telegraph. A left-turn arrow also was added to the traffic lights at the Telegraph-Maple intersection.

The chief said this control device contributed to reducing the accident growth for a while but over the long term serves only as a stop gap.

"The only answer to effectively and permanently improving Telegraph is simply to widen the highway," Snell said.

Supervisor Case said the road right-of-way has been purchased for most of the length of Telegraph to allow widening, but the highway department has remained silent on a commitment.

LARK, Utah (AP) — Tough, grizzled William (Buck) Jones relaxed in a hospital bed today, freed from the tiny cell of rock that held him captive deep in a Utah mountain for eight days.

Jones, 61-year-old father of 11, was brought to safety Sunday night by rescuers who had tunneled tediously through 25 feet of rock to his cubicle.

After an emotional reunion with his big family at the mine entrance, Jones was whisked 20 miles to a Salt Lake City hospital for examination and rest. He looked weary, but obviously was in high spirits.

"I want a shower!" he shouted. "I think I need it."

The echo rang down the hospital corridor.

SHAVED HIMSELF

He got a bath instead. Then he shaved himself, had a dinner of ham and eggs and watched a television replay of his rescue.

A hospital spokesman said there would be no immediate interviews.

It was a tearful, joyful scene when the tunnel train carrying Jones to safety reached the surface after a 4½-mile ride from the shaft in which he was trapped by a cave-in March 1.

A cheer went up from more than 300 persons crowding the tunnel opening, including Jones' entire family.

Her eyes glistened, Mrs. Jones cried, "Buck, I love you!" His children shouted, "Hi, dad."

"Hello, mother," the weary, bearded Jones said to his wife. Then the two spent a private moment in the covered mine car before fellow miners carried him to an ambulance.

"His kisses were very dusty," said daughter Velma Jones. Mrs. Jones said he was "very tired" but had laughed and talked with her.

A direct route through the 12-to-15 feet of mud and rock which sealed Jones in the tunnel was abandoned after four days' because of cave-in danger. Another miner was working to attempt to drill an escape tunnel.

Jones' quarters were about 5 feet wide, and only high enough for him to crouch in.

DANGER FOR RESCUERS

The rescue climaxed days of danger and frustration for workers who risked their own lives in the narrow shaft of the lead, zinc and silver mine.

Officials had feared a new cave-in which could have crushed Jones and taken the lives of his rescuers.

"He came right down a ladder by himself," said rescuer Walt Graham. Another rescuer, Jack Glancy, said, "He believes God saved him. Nobody is going to change his mind on that."

Jones was trapped when the God saved him. Nobody is going to change his mind on that."

into problems. The rescue was free.

For 3½ days, there was only silence as rescue workers picked slowly through the rubble.

Then Jones started the morning by calling out.

"When are you going to get me out of here?"

A day later a pipeline less than two inches in diameter was drilled through to provide Jones with food and water while crews inched their way toward him.

WOMEN OFTEN HAVE BLADDER IRRITATION

Common kidney or bladder irritations affect twice as many women as men, often causing enuresis and urinary tract infections, according to a study by Dr. C. S. Taylor, M.D., of the University of Michigan Medical Center. In such cases, CISTEX usually brings relief by relieving the irritation in the bladder and easing pain. Get CISTEX at drug stores today.

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the second in a series of stories on skiing in Europe, written by vacationing staffer Lois Friedland.)

Sestriere is a tiny Italian ski village — cut into the mountain side — where the "European jet set" and the Italian working-man wait side by side for the ski lift.

It was begun as an investment by owners of the Fiat Motor Co., some 35 years ago. Today the ski runs, reached by cable car and mile-long T-bars and Pomis lifts, cover miles of mountainous terrain. The village itself is a conglomeration of hotels, including the 17-story-high Grand Hotel Duchi D'Aosta and the Grand Hotel Principi Piedmont, a luxury hotel. The rooms in the better hotels are similar to those in the good hotels in the United States. The Principi Piedmont, offers a solarium, a movie theater, a heated outdoor swimming pool and sauna bath.

WEEKEND SKIERS
Surrounding the hotels are many more spartan apartment houses usually occupied by the working Italians who ski on weekends and during vacations. We are staying in an apartment rented by Italians whom we met in the United States last year. They come to Sestriere every weekend. It is a 1½-hour drive from Turin, their home.

The apartment looks much like the inside of summer cabins in northern Michigan, except that you must turn on all hot water when you come in. The water is heated in special units by the bath (no shower) and near the kitchen sink.

CHIC MOTHERS
All perishable food is kept on the balcony — there are no refrigerators — and portable tabletop burners are used — no stoves.

Hay Drops Aid Wild Horses

MINDEN, Nev. (AP) — Seventy wild horses marooned in deep snow after fleeing poachers "are definitely picking up strength" after twice-weekly hay drops since Feb. 26, says a sponsor of the effort.

The mustangs are stranded on a ride of the 9,000-foot Pine Nut Mountains east of Lake Tahoe. The snow is as deep as 15 feet, and the horses were starving until the Pine Nut Mustang Association was formed.

"We're going to continue to drop hay until the animals can return to their own habitat under their own strength," said Ed Court, owner of a helicopter service who is paying for the air operation, worth $170 an hour. "If we take them down now, they would become prey to poachers who take them in and sell them for the meat that is used for dog food."

Two pilots brave 70-mile-an-hour winds and "it's extremely dangerous," Court said Sunday.

villages in Italy, Sestriere is full of well-dressed skiers and children caring for little children while the rest of the family is on the slopes.

A number of restaurants offer Italian food at all prices. There are several discotheques and a few piano bar-type nightclubs.

LONG, LONG RUNS
A skier can start the day by going up a mile-long T-bar and work his way into Sestriere via long, long runs of perfect snow. There is no ice in the spring because the strong sun softens the snow. Everyone sports a tan from the top of his turtleneck sweater up. We took the T-bar up and spent the day on an area which was not difficult to ski, for those who have skied areas in either the eastern or the western U.S.

The runs are, however, literally miles longer, and the sensation of skiing without stopping is something every real skier dreams of. NEVER ALONE

The Europeans always ski in large groups, waiting for each other at regular intervals. No one skis alone; if hurt, he might not be discovered until the next day. A mountainside is too irritated. We had stopped in manner as Michigan's Boyne Skiing areas are checked daily.

We discovered — much to our delight — that we could keep pace with our Italian hosts, although their skiing form is considerably better. Most northern Italians begin skiing when they are very young and have no fear of the mountain itself.

The Italians are a very expressive people who appear to believe in taking action when day. A mountainside is too irritated. We had stopped in manner as Michigan's Boyne Skiing areas are checked daily.

Apparently the six of us were not too noisy because an Italian floor apartment owner dumped a bucket of water on us to quiet us — without a word of warning. When they are very young and have no fear of the mountain itself.

We ran inside the building; but, when we came out 30 minutes later, he was waiting and we were doused again.

New SEC Boss Is Tough—but in a Quiet Sort of Way

WASHINGTON (AP) — He is him, with the idea he'll lay low or go light on the industry." At the same time, observers figure Budge to be less an innovator than Cohen, who kept Wall Street constantly on edge.

The quiet, closed-mouth, judicial way of doing business used by the 58-year-old former Idaho congressman puts him in sharp contrast to his old friend and predecessor, Manuel F. Cohen, who resigned last month under pressure from President Nixon.

But the new chairman, who was elevated to the job after serving as an SEC member since 1964, says there won't be major changes in the policy of the commission, which was criticized by Nixon during the presidential campaign as "heavy handed."

While refusing to comment on the Nixon charges, Budge said "I think the SEC will continue to do its job just as it has in the past," he said in an interview.

STORMY WEATHER

And so do his subordinates, many of whom admit they will miss the stormy weather that seemed to mark the Cohen years.

"Nixon has picked a man who's 110 per cent behind our enforcement programs," one attorney said.

"Judge Budge is very enforcement-minded," he added. "I don't think it would be right to say the President has picked

'Hub of World' Is Going for Only $7,000

PODUNK CENTER, Iowa (AP) — The whole town of Podunk Center is for sale for a grand total of $7,000.

The butt of thousands of jokes, the town consists of one acre in south-central Iowa, and has a gas station, grocery store and cafe—all under one roof—and a four-unit motel.

The town isn't on any road maps, is too small for the postal guide and doesn't have a zip code number, but its mayor, city manager and owner, Homer Weeks, advertises it as "the hub of the world."

Weeks, 41, says he must sell the town because burns received last August had forced him to close it down.

The town's population reached its peak of 21 in the 1930s when four families lived there.

does a good job of getting right to the heart of something with a single question."

Another Budge-watcher said there need be no concern about the new chairman, so long as he is faced with courses of action where the law indicates what must be done.

"He tends to be rather a purist on the law, it seemed to me," he said. "If the law says A plus B equals C then it doesn't matter how activist or doesn't matter how activist or "When he sits there, an SEC official said, "he looks like a what the law says and nothing judge. Thinks like one too. He will keep him from it."

While Budge likes to keep his opinion to himself, he expresses concern about giantism in American business.

"Too great a concentration of power—this is my own personal philosophy now, doesn't have anything to do with the SEC—is always something which should be watched," he said.

"I don't care if it's in the government, in private industry, the banking industry or the securities industry."

Questions of scale underlie several areas of inquiry the SEC has entered recently, he noted, including its attempt to assess the impact institutional conglomerates, Budge said he investors have on the market and the economy in general.

STUDYING CONGLOMERATES

The agency is also studying conglomerates to see if these companies in widely dissimilar lines of business need to be curbed and if the SEC has the power to take them on.

losers when the questionable financing holding some conglomerates together comes unstuck.

It's the commission's job, he told a reporter, to see that investors know the risks and go in with their eyes open.

Mothers Who Care Help Johnny Read

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — John-ny can read better, thanks to a group of mothers who care enough to work without pay.

A bucket of paint, a basement storeroom and $88 also went into the "skill enrichment program" at Dundee School, one of eight schools in the Omaha School District where volunteer mothers are hoping to provide programs that the schools cannot afford.

"Things have happened that never would have happened without this program," said Dundee Principal Margaret Corcoran. "I've never seen anything more encouraging." The bucket of paint dressed up the converted basement classroom. The mothers trained plans for 10 months before their work began.

And the $88, primarily from the Dundee Parent-Teachers Association, provided children's paperback books and poster materials.

38 WERE HELPED
In five months, eight mothers have helped 38 children overcome reading problems.

Most pupils have gained a year in reading since October, said Lorie Conroy, second grade teacher who helped set up and direct the program.

Some second graders who once had trouble reading have jumped a book ahead because of the mothers' help, she said. Every school in the district plans to develop a volunteer program eventually. The district has developed a special training program for volunteers based largely on the experience of the Dundee group.

FEDERAL AID SOUGHT
And the district is seeking $300,000 in federal funds over a three-year period to train volunteers to teach in public and nonpublic schools.

Officials limit each class to four children, saying they learn best when taught in small groups. Parents must give their permission before volunteers may work with their child.

Volunteers and children know each other only by first names "so the children will regard us as teachers' helpers rather than teachers," said Mrs. Jack Barnhart, at whose home volunteer mothers attend classes.

The school district classifies the volunteers as teachers' helpers hoping to avoid problems that could arise over use of noncertified instructors officials said.

"The whole program probably falls into a legal 'gray area.' But, she added, "It works."

Bag-Boys Get Army Boot --Groceries Not Their Bag

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army has sacked a squad of poverty group said the boys' blinks with the women shoppers weren't all the boys' fault.

The bag-boys, part of an anti-poverty group from Washington, were fired after a series of complaints from military housewives who shop at the base supermarket at Ft. Myer, Va.

The shoppers said the boys, mostly high school dropouts with police records from Washington's slum areas, were rude and didn't do their work properly. One woman complained that she found her groceries soaked in vinegar after she corrected a bag-boy about his packing.

The bag-boys were paid $1.60 an hour. The pay came partially from tips, with the sponsoring group, the United Planning Organization, making up the difference.

CIVILIAN REPLACEMENTS
The Army will replace the fired bag-boys with 28 civilians to be hired through civil service and paid $2.11 an hour, according to Leonard Sims of the Military District of Washington. He said the money would come from congressional appropriations and not the revenue from the store.

Sims said Sunday bag-boys at the commissaries of nearby Ft. McNair and Ft. Belvoir, were recruited from high school age boys on and around the base willing to work for tips. At the district's other Army commissary, Cameron Station — a supply base with no residents — commissary bag-boys are hired, Sims said.

Oldest Firm In Pontiac Celebrates 75th ANNIVERSARY

Inch Memorials, the oldest firm under continuous family operation in Pontiac, pauses in recognition of its 75th Anniversary.

Charles S. Inch, founder of Inch Memorials, Inc., came to the United States from Canada as a stone cutter. He established the first Inch Memorials in a building at the corner of Perry and East Lawrence Street in 1894.

This building was replaced with a new office and shop on the same site in 1907. In 1927 the business was moved to its present location at the corner of Perry Street and East Boulevard. This was adjacent to the then newly established Perry Mt. Park Cemetery.

Charles died in 1939 at which time his daughter, Marion Inch Burnes became president, an office she held until her death in 1957.

Lloyd W. Burnes, husband of Marion, who had been active in the business since 1919 then became president. Although he retired in 1961, Lloyd still retains an active interest in the company and serves in an advisory capacity.

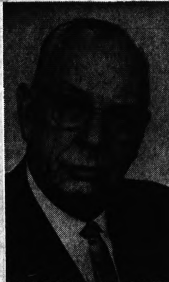

A third generation took over the family reins, Robert C. Burnes, grandson of the founder, is presently operating the business. The same standard of quality of materials and craftsmanship upon which Mr. Inch founded this firm has continued through three generations and 75 years of service to the fine families of the Pontiac area.

Foreign Visitors See Much to Interest Them in Pontiac

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Women's Editor
Oakland University's Continuum Center which devotes all its efforts to helping women find themselves is known in faraway places. A visitor last week was Sheila McMillan, senior lecturer in the Extension Division of the University of Auckland, New Zealand.

It's not only American women who are wondering what to do with their lives. When the University of Auckland ran a course of lectures on the changing role of women, the response was so great that they had to be repeated to take care of all who were disappointed the first time.

The Society for Research on Women is a voluntary organization throughout New Zealand. Dues are minimal and the research is financed through subscriptions. Men may belong.

Currently, the society is engaged in interviewing 1600 women in the four largest cities. The aim of the questionnaire is to discover how New Zealand women feel about themselves as wives and mothers and how their education has fitted them for their lives. They are being asked what kind of facilities they'd like to have in their communities to help with the care of children.

"We did it on the cheap," said Miss McMillan. "On the cheap" means that volunteers are doing the interviewing. Some 100 were trained.

WINDOW ON LIFE
"Women are interested in how people feel; it is interesting to have a window on someone's life."

A further survey is planned on unmarried mothers who have kept their babies.

Miss McMillan is on a world tour. What she learns will help her plan more meaningful extension programs for women in her native land.

Discuss Cultures of Two Guests

Conversation at dinner was lively. On my right sat our Egyptian guest, Ahmed Zayed who manages all the food industries in Egypt. On my left was a soft-spoken woman university lecturer from New Zealand.

I had planned as American a meal as possible—no, not hot dogs or hamburgers—meat loaf, lima beans, asparagus, fruit salad and gingerbread.

The asparagus was new to the Egyptian; the limas were foreign to the New Zealander. He drank tea; she had coffee.

Education was the main subject of conversation. In Egypt today, many women are attending school. There are community colleges in the cities where a woman may study any subject, says Mr. Zayed. Often mothers and daughters or servants and employers will study side by side.

Do girls have the opportunity to take any subject? Yes, but there is still resistance to hiring women engineers, even well-trained ones. What's new about that?

Education is completely free in Egypt. Everyone who graduates from college goes directly into government work. There are not enough workers to fill all the necessary jobs.

American women who sew know Egyptian cotton well; it is a beautiful fabric. But if Mr. Zayed has his way, another Egyptian product will become equally well known.

One of the by-products of the immense sugar industry is alcohol. With this alcohol, they are making perfumes which they hope to export to this country. You may one day be wearing "Nefertiti" or "1000 Nights" as frequently as you wear Chanel Number 5.

We got out the encyclopedia and looked up the countries of both our guests. They are, of course, very different in geography, in history and in living today.

Where we have a black and white race problem, the New Zealanders have a different one.

Do Their Insults Mean They're Really In Love?

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My son is a C.P.A. and he is going with a college girl. She makes all kinds of mean remarks about the way he looks (he is losing his hair) and the way he walks (he has flat feet). He, on the other hand, is always telling her she is built like a stick and has a big nose, which is also true. Why, then, do they keep going with each other? If they should marry, what kind of marriage would this be? They have been going steady for six months. Do you call this love?

MOTHER OF A C. P. A.

DEAR MOTHER: Yes, it could be "love." Maybe not YOUR kind (or mine) but if they're satisfied with each other, don't let it bother you. As for the "kind of marriage" it would be: Realistic. And possibly a better marriage than one in which each is blind to the blemishes of the other.

DEAR ABBY: I have been married for five years and have two wonderful children. My problem is a jealous husband. Before we were married, I had an affair with another man (we were engaged), and I was fool enough to confess it to my future husband. Now I realize it was a big mistake, although at the time, he said he wouldn't hold it against me. Now that we are married every time we have a quarrel he throws it in my face. He is so mean, he's even told his parents!

In addition to accusing me of having an affair with every man I meet, now he calls me filthy names and he's even accused me of having relations with my brothers and uncles! I've suggested psychiatric help for him, but he says HE is all right, I'm the one who needs help. Divorce is out of the question as it's against our religion and he is a good father to our children. I can't say I really "love" him, Abby, but I am trapped. I've always been a decent wife and haven't even looked at another man since my marriage, and don't intend to. What is your advice?

TRAPPED

DEAR TRAPPED: Your husband is sick. And any woman who subjects herself to the kind of abuse your husband dishes out is asking for a nervous breakdown. Talk to your clergyman, and perhaps together you can persuade your husband to accept some counseling. Tell him if he doesn't try to help himself, you'll be forced to take the children and leave him because you've had about as much punishment as you can stand. I'll bet he listens!

DEAR ABBY: This is for "FURIOUS IN PRESCOTT," who suggested that instead of coffeeclatching with the neighbors all day, we housewives should do our grocery shopping in the early afternoon so as not to crowd the "working wives."

I haven't had a cup of coffee with my neighbors in years. They are all out chasing their "GOD"—the Almighty dollar. Sure, I market in the evening. That's when the paper comes and I can see what's on sale, and my husband can stay home with the younger children.

While I'm there, I look into your carts and see all the "Ready-Mix" and "Jiffy-Fix" pre-frozen slop you feed your family. How long has it been since your husband had an honest-to-goodness home-cooked meal?

Yes, I'm that lazy, lowly housewife who taught your daughter how to knit in 4-H. I helped her earn her merit badges in Girl Scouts, too. And I had six of your boys in my Cub Scout den, and if I remember correctly you were too busy to even come to the Christmas play the kids put on for their parents. I've driven your kids to baseball practice because "Mom's gone." And your kids always come to MY house because you didn't want your nice new home messed up.

So, why don't YOU do your shopping

on your day off and stay out of MY way?

Only Divorce Can Make One Single Again

By ELIZABETH L. POST

The following letter has been chosen as the prize-winning one for this week. A copy of Emily Post's Etiquette has been sent to the writer.

Dear Mrs. Post: In a recent discussion, I maintained that a legally separated woman (and man, too) is still legally married and could not date other men without risk to her good reputation. I believe only a divorce makes one single again and, therefore, eligible to go out with the opposite sex. Would you please comment on the accepted social behavior of a legally separated person of any age? — Mrs. A. S.

Dear Mrs. S.: Of course it is true that only a divorce can make one "single" again. However, if one's religion, or other considerations, prevent him from getting more than a legal separation, he (or she) need not be doomed to a monastic life once he is living apart from his spouse.

As long as their behavior is respectable — adhering to the basic rules of propriety and decency — there is no reason in the world that husbands and wives who are legally separated should not enjoy the company of the opposite sex.

Dinner Guests Come From Abroad

landers have the Maori (native aborigines) problem; but Miss McMillan says it isn't too much of a problem really.

Classes similar to Head Start have been set up to train preschool Maori children and their parents so that school will be more meaningful and so that parents aren't completely alienated when the children go to regular school.

ASSIMILATION

But Maoris are being assimilated into the mainstream of New Zealand life; some hold university positions like one in Miss MacMillan's department.

We did not discuss the subject of the Arab-Israeli dispute at all.

Miss McMillan remarked on several American customs. She noted that most of us seem to let the dishes dry themselves. And the stationary bicycle for exercise that stands in the bedroom amuses her. She complained a bit about how our winter weather is chapping and drying her skin.

After dinner, we took our foreign guests to the Pontiac Creative Arts Center for the invitational preview of the current exhibit, "Mother and Child." Art is international.

Dr. Harold A. Furlong made an immediate hit with Mr. Zayed when he mentioned that Cairo was a favorite stop during a world tour.

'Resist Early Marriage,' Career Gal's Advice

Half of the American women who marry before their 20th birthdays are subsequently divorced, and as the age of marriage goes up, the divorce rate goes down.

So asserts Rebecca Greer, author of "Why Isn't A Nice Girl Like You Married?" recently published by The Macmillan Company. Why let yourself be pressured into marrying young?

"Whatever your age," insists Miss Greer, "your single status is nothing to be ashamed of. Let the girls who marry at 18 or 20 defend their position — they're the ones who're missing out. You're not missing anything you can't collect with interest — after you've had all the fun of being single."

"The single woman," she argues, "has more time and money to spend on herself than any other member of our society." She can live in a loft in Greenwich Village — or in an elegant townhouse. She can spend her Christmas bonus on a fake fur or on a trip to Paris. She is completely free to indulge herself.

Miss Greer contends that the woman who resists the lure of Lohengrin long enough to explore the people, places, and philosophies of the world is laying the foundation for a happy marriage.

But don't all men worth marrying tie the knot before they're thirty? Not so, claims our author, citing the late John F. Kennedy who wed at 36!

And is it better to have children while you're young? Why? Asks Miss Greer. So you can feel resentment at spending your prettiest, most active years changing diapers?

Noting that the single girl's pet peeve is being asked why she has not yet landed a husband, the author compiled a list of time tested answers.

• "Why settle for one dish smorgasbord?"

• "I don't believe in marriages. I prefer affairs."

• "I am married but I have to keep it a secret because of the CIA."

• "Some of us are beautiful, some of us are successful, some of us are married."

"Why Isn't A Nice Girl Like You Married?" offers many practical tips for the single woman, including decorating hints, career information, and a discussion of "the mating game."

Rebecca Greer, who admits to being on "the smiling side of thirty," is articles editor of Woman's Day magazine. She is single.

Is Their 'Trip' Really Necessary?

By BETTY CANARY

Most of us would hope to attain the acme of tolerance. That is, to be intolerant only of intolerance. Now I know I most certainly shall never achieve the heights. Because I have just been talking with a beautiful young girl who only two short years ago had everything going for her.

That was before she started smoking reefer (marijuana) or got hooked on hashish, during a trip to India. Now her only interest in life is drugs.

It brought out my intolerance for drug pushers and also for the so-called "open-minded" attitude toward drugs.

For those now prepared to tell me, "being high on marijuana is no worse than being drunk on alcohol," all I can say is, a fractured skull may be no worse than a broken back and which of these do you recommend?

GLOOMY VIEW

As for the conflict of opinion on the effects of marijuana, there has not been enough research done to prove one way or another whether it is a habituating substance (such as whisky and cigarettes) or an addicting one. Neither is there enough medical evidence in to prove whether or not marijuana damages brain cells or leads to the use of harder drugs. Until there is, I take the gloomy view.

Speed is a stimulant that, according to the medical doctor with whom I talked, is easy to get and is available in not only trademarked versions but also in black market (usually impure) form.

Speed — Dexedrine and Methedrine — causes one to become irrational and violent and in large doses can produce psychosis. It is widely used.

It's a "cinch" to be stylishly slim-waisted; all it takes is a little time and slightly more effort. Try doing the following exercise: Stand with feet slightly apart, knees bent a little, arms out like an airplane.

Kitchen Beetles Are Identified

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. — Those little insects you occasionally find in the pantry are called saw-toothed grain beetles, according to the Rutgers University College of Agriculture and Environmental Science. The flat, brownish, slender pests are only about one-tenth of an inch long.

Areas inhabited by the beetles should be washed and cleaned, the college says. The household spray containing DDT is sometimes effective.

New House Unit's Role Grows

By JAMES PHILLIPS effectively deal with urban problems, says Chairman Suski.

LANSEING (AP) — The infant House Urban Affairs Committee could turn out to be the sleeper of this legislative session.

Treated only 40 days ago, the highest priority to matters committee has had little dealing with the crisis of the scrutiny. It has been cities.

"It stands to reason that Milliken's bills — if any — will have to come through the urban affairs committee," said Suski.

But Rep. Edward Suski, D-Flint, has been quietly expanding its sphere of influence. Today, it is expected to hold its first of three hearings with mayors of Michigan cities.

Hopefully, those hearings will give birth to legislation that will

As a result, Suski explained, the impact and import of this committee is just immeasurable."

Suski, however, says he does not view the committee chairmanship as a means to create his personal dukedom in the Legislature.

"It's time to rebuild the crumbling ruins of our civilization that breed the physical and mental degeneration of our society," he said.

It is significant to note that Suski pioneered establishment of the House Civil Rights Committee in 1965. Partly as a result of Suski's committee work, civil rights legislation won approval.

"Long before the riots of 1967," House Speaker William Ryan recalled, "Rep. Suski urgently warned of the growing unrest and appealed for constructive action."

SENSITIVITY TO NEEDS

"But most important is Suski's sensitivity to the needs and concerns of urban people," said Ryan. "Such sensitivity is essential to the resolution of the problems that face us."

Besides inviting the mayors of 15 Michigan cities to speak to the committee, Suski said he plans to travel to Washington and talk with former Gov. George Romney, secretary of Housing and Urban Development, and Robert Finch, secretary of Health, Education and Welfare.

In addition, he has proposed that Daniel Moynihan, special assistant on urban affairs to President Richard Nixon, be invited to speak before a joint session of the Legislature.

"I hope Michigan will spearhead the drive to rehabilitate our urban environment," he said.

MORE EFFECTIVE

The committee should attempt to determine "how state government can be more effective," he added.

Bills already are in preparation, Suski said, dealing with all aspects of housing — from financing to construction.

Other bills relating to urban problems will soon be prepared, he said.

All told, from 25 to 30 bills have been requested, he stated.

TO INVITE MILLIKEN

Besides the mayors, Suski plans to invite Milliken to appear before the committee.

"I'd like to have the governor personally come over and address the committee," Suski won approval.

'Humans Are Outclassed by Animal Values'

By IVAN TORS

Producer of "Daktari,"
"Gentle Ben" and "Flipper"

How are things going during this year of 1969? Not very well if you ask me. True, we can fly faster than a rifle bullet, photograph the far side of the moon and send space probes to other planets.

But man himself is troubled and unsure. His concept of God is no longer as clear as it used to be. His anger flares easily; his ability to communicate seems dimmer; he somehow has less pride in himself as an individual.

What is wrong? No doubt many answers could be given by men far wiser than I. But it's my theory that modern man, to a frightening degree, has lost touch with nature — which is to say that he has lost touch with reality as God created it. My job is making films and television series about animals living in their natural environment with such marvelous simplicity and harmony and dignity.

THEY TEACH US

People often ask, "How do you teach the animals to do all those things?" Better to ask,

"What do those animals teach you?" One thing they have taught me is how much we overestimate ourselves and underestimate them. Physically, we humans are hopelessly outclassed. A dolphin's sense of hearing 12 times as acute as that of a man and the animal can produce a fantastic 17½ horsepower.

One pound of lion-muscle is equal to five pounds of man-muscle. As for values, we humans might do well to emulate the loyalty of a dog, or the sportsmanship of a rattlesnake (he strikes only in self-defense, and he gives warning before he strikes), or the courage and devotion of animal mothers.

POWER OF AFFECTION

But the most important single thing animals have taught me is the power of affection — affection as a channel of communication between all living creatures. This quality, this silent language of the heart, can reach past all the traditional barriers that exist between man and beast.

Our whole approach to working with animals, all our training methods, all our results are based on affection. Human beings need a certain amount of love if they're to develop into normal, friendly, unantagonistic people. This is the case with animals too.

The truth is, we humans are just beginning to understand animals, know them, make friends with them. For thousands of years, virtually all our ideas about animals came from hunters whose purpose was to kill, for food or trophies or sport. Hence the term "wild" animals.

Hence the branding of certain animals as deadly or unattractive or highly dangerous to man. None of these concepts is basically true.

'KILLER WHALE'

Take the term "killer whale," for example. Think of the fear and prejudice it has inspired down through the years. Yet, when we were filming "Namu," I spent hours floating on a log beside that huge, five-ton beast, scratching his back and squeaking to him in my own version of whale talk.

Since verbal communication with animals is a one-way street, in our work we have to supplement it with other methods. Like touch: gentle, loving, reassuring touch. Everyone has seen a mother dog or cat lick and caress her newborn; this is the real language of the heart.

At our animal ranch in Soledad Canyon, about 40 miles from Los Angeles, we have attendants whose main job is to pet and fondle the animals. If an adult animal that might be dangerous is brought in, we pet him with long, sponge-tipped sticks until he becomes docile enough to touch. Even tarantulas will let you tickle their tummies if you approach them calmly.

Because we believe so strongly in the power of affection, we never train an animal by causing fear or inflicting pain.

Again, there's a strong sense of security and enough to eat — just like the rest of us.

Animals have their innocence and their dignity, and we can certainly learn from them. But man is a spiritual being and has a higher and more complex destiny: to learn compassion and understanding, to grasp the meaning of self-sacrifice, to work out his relationship with god, his fellowman and himself.

Army Studying Sheep to Learn Shock Antidotes

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A flock of sheep is grazing among old gun emplacements at the Army's Presidio-forerunners of what may become a new medical research center.

Since more humans die of shock than the effects of injury, both in peace and war, the 6th Army is studying the sheep to learn effects and possible antidotes to shock.

The shock is painlessly induced in the sheep through controlled bleeding, said Col. Nicholas G. Bottiglieri, head of the Letterman Army Institute of Research. After the animals fall into shock, researchers revive them and measure the results.

Within two years, the San Francisco Examiner reported Sunday, the Army Medical Corps hopes to have a major research complex where the sheep now graze.

U.S. to Hit Drug Trafficking

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The federal government is about to launch a full-scale assault on illegal narcotic sales, second only to gambling as a source of income for organized crime. John E. Ingersoll, director of the U.S. Bureau of Narcotics, said the government has identified the major traffickers across the country and can now begin a sustained attack on their multimillion dollar racket. He also disclosed that he is drafting legislation that "would put big traffickers away for a lot longer than they are now."

Although military officials said marijuana was used far less by servicemen than by young civilians, the statistics showed there were 11,507 investigations throughout the United States last year compared with 5,536 the year before. And in Vietnam, the total jumped from 1,267 in 1967 to 3,225 last year. * * * In addition to more vigorous attempts to nail domestic narcotic suppliers, Ingersoll said he is instructing federal agents to intensify their efforts to halt the influx of drugs from abroad.

U.S. Responsibility to Africa Is Outlined

By WHITNEY M. YOUNG JR., Executive Director, National Urban League
Foreign affairs is very much in the news these days what with President Nixon's trip to Europe, Middle East tensions, Paris peace talks, and yet another Berlin crisis. About the only part of the world that has not had its share of headlines is Africa, but it would be a serious mistake for the administration not to reconsider America's role there. As the ancestral homeland of more than a tenth of the population, Africa claims great interest and affection among large numbers of Americans. Many of us are as concerned about racist police-state actions in South Africa as we are about totalitarian actions in Europe.

America depends on Africa for much of its raw materials and resources. More and more it becomes apparent that it is in our national interest for self-determination and prosperity to thrive on the African continent. STANDING FALLS
Our moral standing in the eyes of the world goes down every time we vote with South Africa in the U. N. or back a repressive colonial regime. The real trouble spot today is the southern part of the continent — ruled by breakaway British colonists (Rhodesia), South Africans whose leadership was in sympathy with Hitler, and the Portuguese (Angola, Mozambique), whose overlordship of the remnants of a once-great empire compensate them for present second-class status.

Unless change comes to this troubled area, change that brings power to the black majorities, I don't see how bloodshed can be averted. Unless the United States supports democratic black leadership in these areas, takeover by Chinese and Russian-supported extremists is possible. A case in point is the recent assassination of Dr. Eduardo C. Mondlane, leader of the Liberation Front of Mozambique rebels. He was an anthropologist who once taught in the United States. I knew him well; he was a humane man who loved his country and who was dedicated to winning independence for his people. He returned to Africa to lead the fight for independence. Since democratic opposition was not allowed, he had to resort to guerrilla tactics. He and his cause were never backed by this government, for fear of harming relations with Portugal.

Yet he was just the kind of man we should be supporting — an incorruptible individual capable of leading his country out of the shadows of a dying colonialism. * * *

Now, with Dr. Mondlane removed from the scene, it is possible that the liberation movement will deteriorate into a struggle for power between Russian- and Chinese-influenced factions.

This story is often repeated: a moderate national leader doesn't get the support he needs from the west and is either pushed leftward or is removed from power and replaced with more irresponsible elements. Then the U. S. complains about not having friends in the country in question. NO SENSE

I'd like to see us take a more aggressive position of support for African freedom movements. It makes no sense for an American that was born in revolution to ignore the plight of the black majority in South Africa. Nor should we support the one-tenth of Rhodesians who happen to be white and the nine-tenths of their countrymen who happen to be black. Stepped-up aid to the poor nations of Black Africa is also needed. Relief for starving Biafra should be a priority item here. Other countries, including small ones like Israel, give technical and economic assistance to Africa far out of proportion to their size of their wealth. We should stop dragging our feet and pitch in too.

A Junior Editors Quiz About DONKEYS

QUESTION: What is the difference between a jackass, a donkey, a burro and a mule?

ANSWER: The spirited animals galloping at the top of our picture are wild asses of Asia. Roaming in rough, often mountainous country, the wild ass became very strong and sure footed, so that he could travel over mountain passes with ease.

It is believed that these animals were first domesticated in countries along the Mediterranean Sea. We know them now as donkeys. They have inherited the strength and sure-footedness of their ancestors. These qualities enable them to be extremely useful in packing heavy loads over rough terrain.

It is true that donkeys are slow and have a stubborn quality which makes people call them stupid or contrary. But perhaps this is because their wild ancestors knew how to take care of themselves.

A jackass is simply a male donkey. Donkeys bred for a smaller size, very useful as pack animals, are called burros.

When you breed a jackass with a female horse, you get that remarkable creature, a mule. Maybe he is stubborn as a mule, but old Mr. Long Ears is so strong that he has often been hitched up in teams to haul heavy loads.

Mathematics Explosion Is Reported

WASHINGTON—Mathematics has joined the trend toward "explosions" in everything from population to rubbish.

A recent report by a National Academy of Sciences committee speaks of an "explosive penetration of mathematical methods into other disciplines." What it amounts to, says the committee, is a virtual "mathematization of culture."

Scholars assert that discoveries in mathematics over the past 100 years are greater in quantity and quality than those in all previous history, the National Geographic Society says. Problems that would have stumped a 19th-century genius now are easily solved by college students.

In recent years, computers have revolutionized mathematics. They have made it possible to solve countless problems that previously would have been impractical to handle because of the stupendous number of calculations.

Before electronic computers appeared, a British meteorologist envisioned a "weather factory" with 64,000 human computers making the calculations necessary to forecast weather by mathematical formula.

Today, thanks in large part to the computer, mathematics has moved into a host of new disciplines, ranging from ecology to psychiatry.

Pile Treatment Works Wonders For California Couple

Treatment Shrinks Piles, Relieves Pain In Most Cases
Sacramento, Cal. Mrs. C. Arnold of this city reports: "I can't contain myself any longer to write you about wonderful Preparation H for hemorrhoids. My husband has also been using same and it's doing wonders for him."

(Note: Doctors have proved in most cases—Preparation H actually shrinks inflamed hemorrhoids. In case after case, the sufferer first notices prompt relief from pain, burning and itching. Then swelling is gently reduced. There's no other formula for the treatment of hemorrhoids like doctor-tested Preparation H. It also lubricates to make bowel movements more comfortable, soothes irritated tissues and helps prevent further infection. In ointment or suppository form.)

Historians often credit a Stone Age Egyptian with the accidental discovery of copper ore as he built his campfire in the southern part of the Sinai Peninsula. The peninsula's copper and turquoise mines were worked by pharaohs of the first dynasty.

Waste Fuel Plan to Be Explained

The use of waste products to fuel a steam-generating plant in the Detroit area will be described at tomorrow's meeting of the Greater Waterford Community Council.

Richard Ankensen, president of the Thermal Conversion Corp., will discuss how his company's plant makes use of domestic refuse, junked household appliances and old furniture without producing noise, dust or odor problems.

Ankensen lives at 2420 Private Drive, Waterford Township.

The meeting, which is scheduled to include a business session and the election of officers, is slated for 8 p.m. at Pierce Junior High School, 5145 Hatchery, Waterford Township.

"The big trouble with these skis is they start out before I'm ready and stop the same way. I don't mind falling, but the hard part is getting up."

SKIS A "MUST" — He recalled recently that skis were a "must" in those days for hunting and reaching the country store in winter.

The topic: His homemade skis, the first he's made in 60 years, and their effect on his skiing, which he hasn't done for 30 years.

Cushman learned to make skis as a matter of necessity when he made himself a pair of skis for are over—he uses the skis once in a while to keep track of his cattle. He first tried them out and built myself a pair," he on a steep hill near his home.

SAME METHOD — Cushman used essentially the same method he employed 60 years ago: Pick two fir boards with good grain and spring, fashion them with hand tools, steam and bend the tips.

Added to the shaped boards are wooden blocks and leather straps to keep his boots from slipping. Cushman says his hunting days 300 million.

Jerry Leo Burch, 22, says the Army told him two years ago to go home and wait orders. He did, and that's the last he heard from the Army until he was arrested over the weekend in Des Moines, Iowa, on a charge of being absent without leave, he said.

When told to go home, Burch said, he was in the process of seeking a hardship discharge because of the illness of both his parents.

Floatation Collars Lost by Apollo Recovery Unit

Chuck Pilley, head of the recovery team which is aboard the USS Guadacanal for the Apollo 9 splashdown, says it looks as though he will need to have some floatation collars flown from Bermuda.

Three of the collars got away in high seas and heavy winds while the recovery crews were practicing yesterday in the Atlantic for the splashdown on Thursday. The collars are fastened to spacecraft to keep them afloat until they are hoisted on shipboard.

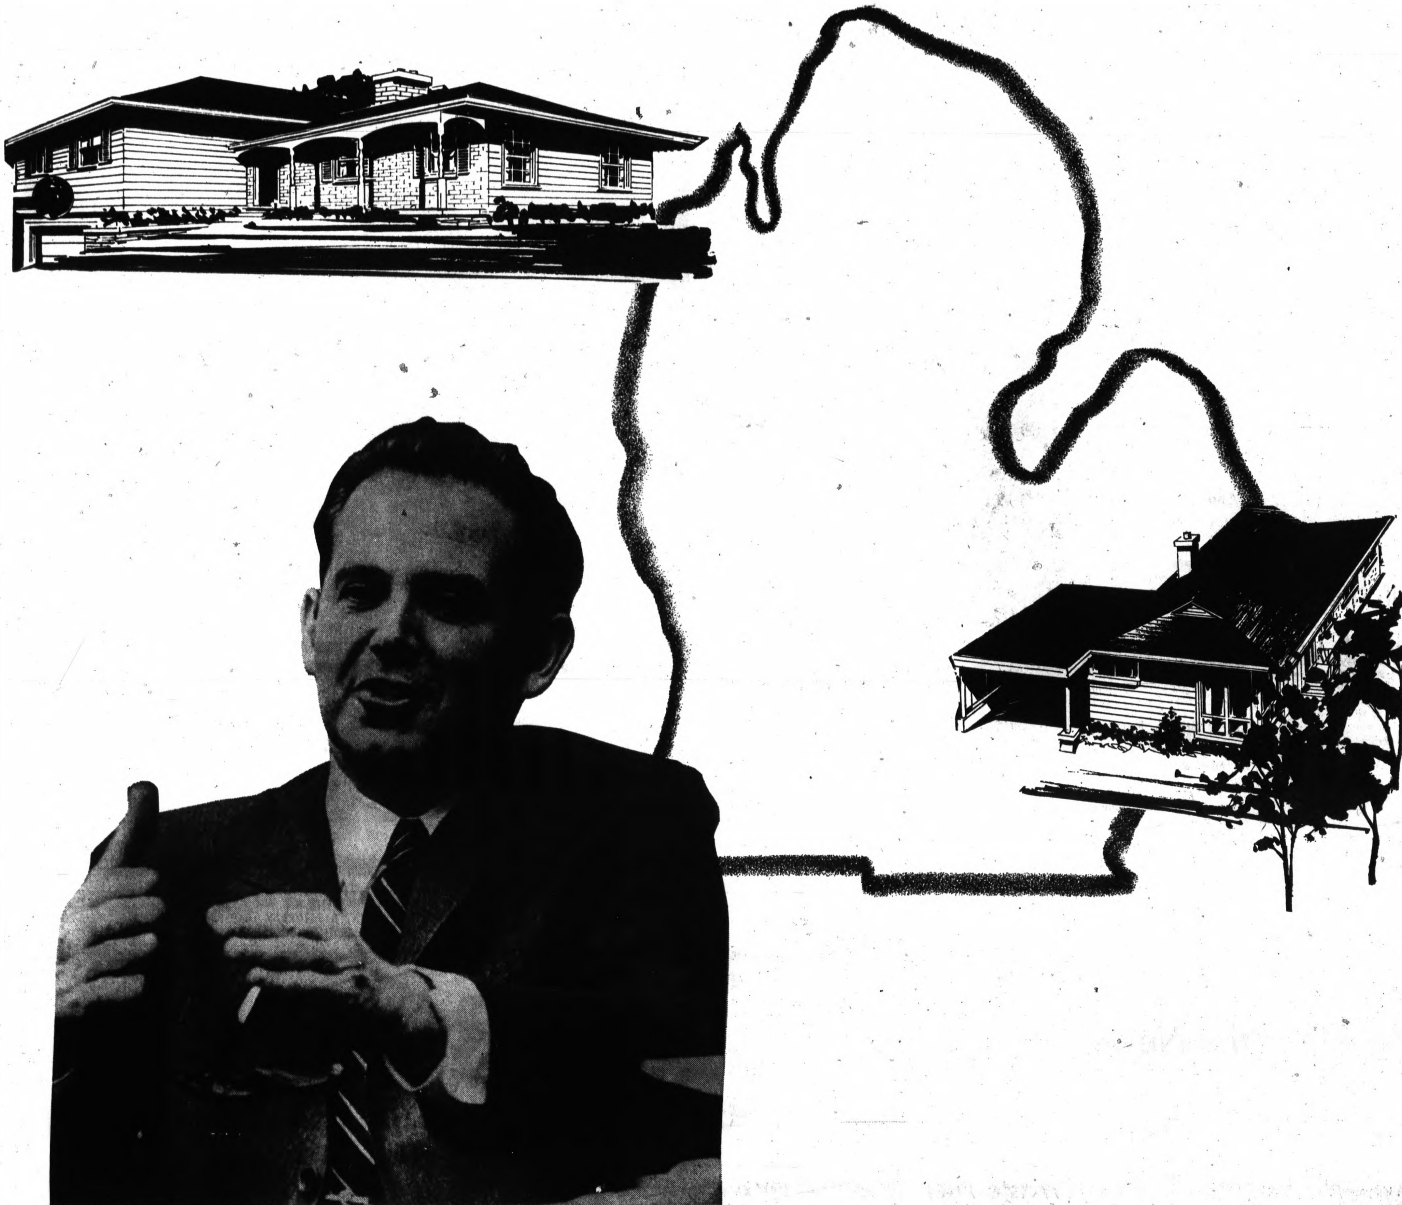

Secretary of State's Wife Gets Husband's Post

The wife of Secretary of State William P. Rogers was elected a trustee of the E. Gannett Foundation, succeeding her husband in the post, it was announced during the weekend in Rochester, N.Y.

Paul Miller, president of the foundation and Gannett Co. Inc., said Adele Rogers was elected a trustee of the foundation that provides support for charities and philanthropies in areas served by Gannett newspapers and broadcasting stations.

William Rogers was a trustee and a Gannett Co. director. He resigned when named to President Nixon's Cabinet.

"Therefore, I, William G. Milliken, Governor of the State of Michigan, do hereby proclaim the month of March 1969 as SAVINGS and LOAN month in Michigan."

THE PROCLAMATION READS:

"Savings and loan associations throughout Michigan represent more than four billion dollars of thrift and home financing resources serving this state.

"These associations are lending nearly six hundred million dollars annually in residential mortgage credit for Michigan's home-owning citizens and are paying earnings to savers in excess of one hundred thirty-five million dollars per year.

"The encouragement of thrift and home ownership is a major factor in promoting the general welfare of all citizens of this state.

"The leaders and employees of this industry have demonstrated their genuine interest in the progress of their communities and the state by active participation in civic affairs.

"Therefore, I, William G. Milliken, Governor of the State of Michigan, do hereby proclaim the month of March, 1969, as

Brettschneider Ouster Heats Caldron in Lions' Den

By BRUNO KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press
The caldron is boiling at 1401 Michigan Avenue, home of the Detroit Lions.

In another bombshell story, one of several which have come out of Lions' office in the past decade, Carl Brettschneider was fired today as director of player personnel and the list of charges he made for print in a Detroit newspaper, were being refuted by owner Bill Ford and general manager Russ Thomas.

The Lions were having a closed door meeting this afternoon—including coach Joe Schmidt and his staff—following the story this morning in which Brettschneider said, he was told "to keep his mouth shut," and that Schmidt was planning to resign as head coach in June.

"The only thing we have to say in regard to the situation is that Carl Brettschneider's contract has been terminated," said one Lions' official. "We will have a formal statement on his charges this afternoon."

In his statements to a Detroit newspaper, Brettschneider is quoted as saying, "Russ Thomas and Bill Ford have as much as told Schmidt that he is going to be fired after next season. So Joe is going to beat them to the punch and quit."

"The assistant coaches' contracts are coming up Saturday and Joe is planning to get another year and then quit . . . so that they will have a job or have to be paid off by the Lions."

Brettschneider said, "They (the Lions) planned to say that I resigned to enter private business, but that's a bunch of bunk."

"Don't let them kid anyone. I was fired," he told the Detroit newspaper.

The former linebacker of the Lions had one year remaining on his contract at an estimated $30,000 and he said he was told by Thomas and Ford last Friday that "we had such a bad college player draft" and that "I was too close to Joe Schmidt," as the reasons "I was being fired."

Among other statements attributed to Brettschneider, he said he "was warned, that if I started to do business in Detroit again I would do well to keep my mouth shut, leave quietly without slamming any doors."

MAKES CHARGE

"They moved me out and tried to pressure me to keep my mouth shut," he continued, ". . . but I don't want people to think these things are my fault and I want them to know the truth about why Schmidt isn't allowed to coach the team the way he sees it."

"They are using the same lever on Schmidt," he said. "They know Joe is in business as a manufacturer's representative and his company does a lot of business with Ford. Joe has been told not to rock the boat with the Lions or his business will suffer."

"Schmidt can't even make a trade or waive a player without Thomas and Ford having an equal vote, and last year Ford even had a phone put in his box at the home games so that he could call down the field."

In regard to past college players drafted, Brettschneider said, "I recommended Mel Farr, Lem Barney, Charley Saunders and Earl McCulloch and Thomas has been jealous of the success of these players. He was opposed to the players drafted."

"They (Thomas and Ford) were also angry over this year's No. 1 choice Altie Taylor of Utah State. I said we should draft him No. 1 and Thomas told Ford that he (Taylor) was no good, he was a dog."

"Everyone in the National Football League knows this team is all fouled up. They've tried to hire nine assistants in recent months but no one wants to work for this organization."

OUTSIDE INTERESTS

"Schmidt is fed up with the entire situation but he is in a box because of his outside business interests," Brettschneider was quoted as saying.

Brettschneider in his quoted charges also accused Van Patrick, Lions' sports-caster as having "Ford's ear."

The Lions were in a meeting this morning and Schmidt, Thomas or Ford were not available for comment.

The Lions' spokesman who said a formal statement would be issued this afternoon also said, "It is a shame that he (Brettschneider), who claims to be such a friend of Schmidt's is dragging Schmidt into this and putting words in Schmidt's mouth."

"We expect that Schmidt will refuse the statements which were made involving him," said the Lions' spokesman.

Lakers, Orion District Champs

Area Cagers in Regional Play

Lake Orion's prep hoopsters have very little time to savor their 65-58 Class A district tournament victory over Troy Saturday night at Utica Stevenson High School.

The Dragons will be right back in the thick of the state tournament tomorrow night when they will tangle with talented North Farmington in the opening round of the Southfield regional eliminations.

Birmingham Brother Rice, (15-5) who ousted Bloomfield Hills Andover, 61-53, Saturday at Seaholm's "A" tourney, will wait until Wednesday to tackle strong Pontiac Central at Southfield.

Also due for Wednesday's regional activity is Royal Oak Kimball. The Knights qualified to meet Detroit Northern at Ferndale by trimming city rival Dondoro, 81-54, in their own district finale.

Almont riddled Marine City Holy Cross's defenses for a 76-61 district title victory Saturday at Port Huron to advance to the Class D regional and a Wednesday encounter with Grosse Pointe University School at Utica Stevenson.

BIGGEST WEEK

Another Saturday victory was West Bloomfield. The Lakers completed the highest scoring week in their cage history by ripping Romeo, 81-59, at Rochester.

The Lakers now advance to Seaholm's Class B competition but will be idle until Thursday when they will encounter the survivor of Tuesday's Holy Redeemer-Bloomfield Hills Lahser tilt.

Other county regional qualifiers who made it Friday night were Southfield, Orchard Lake St. Mary and Bloomfield Hills Rooper. All will see action tomorrow night.

Southfield will play Detroit Northeastern in the Ferndale "A" tournament. Ol. St. Mary will meet St. Martin dePorres in "C" at Harper Woods Bishop Gallagher.

Rooper's Roughriders will have their introduction to regional activity at Stevenson against once-beaten Detroit St. Martin.

Only Ferndale's regional will have a Friday title contest. All other county quintets would play Saturday if they reach the championship game.

Lake Orion advanced for the second straight year with a strong last half against Troy. The Colts earlier laced the Orion squad, 72-36, but 6-foot-8 Gary Mize was the difference Saturday.

He scored 25 points and controlled the backboards, particularly in the third quarter when the Dragons (16-2) posted a 20-12 superiority on the scoreboard. Gary Roberts' six straight free throws in the final period clinched the win.

Mike Biallas hit 17 points, Don MacAloon 13 and Steve Jones 10 to pace Brother Rice's second straight district title at Birmingham. Andover also was the Warriors' victim last March.

Kimball fell one point shy of its season's high in blasting Dondoro for the second time. Fred Stellum's 20 points paced the Knights who set a school record with their 15th win in 19 outings.

Fast Pit Stops Key to Victory

ROCKINGHAM, N.C. (AP) — They say auto races are won or lost in the pits, and the first person to agree would be David Pearson, who won the Carolina 500-mile stock car classic Sunday.

"We made 13 pit stops," said Pearson after picking up a check for $16,150, "but the crew called the shots. They got me in and out of the pit so fast that I got caught only once with my race running a full speed."

Pearson, who dominated the race for 310 of the 500 circuits of the one-mile North Carolina Motor Speedway, finished more than a lap ahead of Dodge's Bobby Allison, a previous winner here.

Third place went to Cale Yarborough, like Pearson a member of Ford's factory team; while Paul Goldsmith in a Dodge and Richard Petty in the Ford finished fourth and fifth, respectively.

Allison won $9,500, his biggest paycheck of the year, while Yarborough picked up $4,975, his smallest.

West Bloomfield topped the 80 mark for the third time in the Rochester "B" activity and avenged last year's district title game defeat by Romeo.

The Bulldogs unleashed a 32-point barrage by guard Mike Semp, his career high, but WBHS had four players in twin figures and outscored them both from the field and at the foul line.

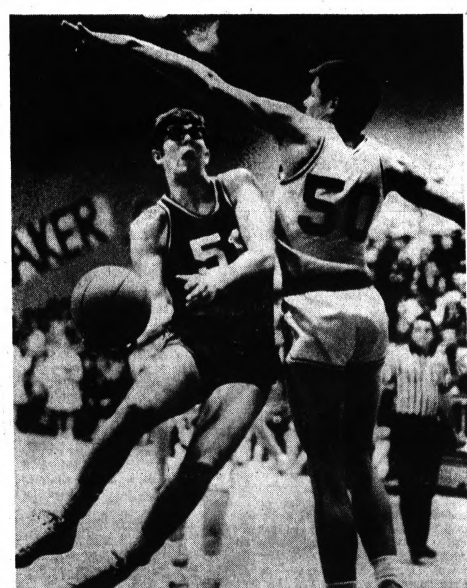

The Lakers shot a scorching 60 per cent from the floor in the middle two quarters, missing only two shots out of 10 in the second session.

Romeo stayed within six points of the winners until late in the third quarter. The Lakers controlled the backboards in raising their season mark to 19-1 with their 12th win in a row.

Almont (10-9) steadily built up its lead for three quarters against Holy Cross (12-5). John Bacholczyk's 26 points did most of the damage for the Raiders.

Carmen Alampi's 14, and 10 each by Frank Bacholczyk and Tim Reaume, who came off the bench and also provided rebounding help, enabled the winners to outscore Holy Cross both from the field and at the charity stripe.

Strong Bids Made by Tiger Rookies

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP)—Mayo Smith has two quick-footed problems that may take the entire exhibition baseball season to solve, but he likes them just the same.

The problems go by the names of Ron Woods and Wayne Redmond, two rookie outfielders vying for a spot as an extra outfielder when the World Champion Detroit Tigers begin the season with their 25-man roster.

Although only three exhibition games have gone by, both Woods and Redmond have impressed in the field and at the plate.

"These are the problems I like to have," the Tiger manager said after the Tigers beat Minnesota 6-3 Sunday.

"We have a lot of games to play down here and something will separate something," he added in response to a question on which of the two would stick with the team.

Redmond got his inside-the-park home run in his only trip to the plate and Woods got a pair of singles in two tries.

In the opening exhibition loss to Pittsburgh Friday, Redmond singled and Woods doubled.

In Saturday's 10-4 victory over the Twins, Woods singled and Redmond got two singles and a home run.

Both have sparked by making fine catches and both have shown fine baserunning ability.

"I'm glad to see them both playing well," Smith said. Redmond has improved a lot from last year."

Third base coach Grover Reisinger praised Redmond's home run: "He's got good power and is a smart hitter. He doesn't just swing at the ball; he gives into the pitch. I think the kid has a chance of being a real fine hitter."

A crowd of 3,800 was on hand to witness the Tigers open their 33rd Grapefruit League season in Lakeland.

The Tigers jumped on Jim Roland for five runs in the first inning, three on a home run by Bill Frehan, to give Denny McLain a comfortable lead.

McLain won 31 games last year as the Tigers gave him an average of five runs per game. He worked the first two innings and got the win, but Smith got a look at some other hurlers who hadn't pitched yet in a game this spring: Fred Lasher, John Wyatt, Elroy Face, Tom Timmerman, who pitched Friday, finished up.

The twins got a run in the second inning off McLain on a single by Graig Nettles, a walk, a fielder's choice, another walk and an error by third baseman Don Wert. Nettles narrowed Detroit's lead to 5-3 with a two-run homer in the fifth off Wyatt.

Redmond's home run came in the seventh.

Local Wrestlers Win State Titles

By FLETCHER SPEARS
EAST LANSING — Teams from Oakland County picked off a big share of individual honors, but well-balanced Detroit Catholic Central wound up with the state class A wrestling championship.

The Detroit squad piled up 43 points to claim the 'A' crown before a crowd of 4,235 at the Jenison Fieldhouse, while Madison's Eagles showed similar team depth in capturing the 'B' title. The C-D championship went to Shelby.

INDIVIDUAL WINNERS
Pontiac Central, Walled Lake, Hazel Park and Royal Oak Dondoro came up with individual champions in the 'A' competition as the 12 titles were taken by 12 different schools.

Finishing a surprising second to Catholic Central was Lansing Sexton (37), followed by Walled Lake (35), Pontiac Central (27) and Battle Creek Central (25). Pontiac Northern, runner-up last year, was well down the list with six points.

RODRIGUEZ HURT
Senior Larry Arnold picked off the 133-pound crown for Pontiac Central, but the Chiefs suffered a big blow when their 175-pounder Rojelio Rodriguez suffered a shoulder separation at the onset of the finals and defaulted.

Rodriguez is in Pontiac General Hospital and PCH coach Steve Szabo said the senior grappler is slated for a long recovery.

STATE WRESTLING TOURNAMENT
Class A Results: 1. Pontiac Central; 2. Battle Creek Central; 3. Lansing Sexton; 4. Walled Lake; 5. Battle Creek Central; 6. Battle Creek Central; 7. Battle Creek Central; 8. Battle Creek Central; 9. Battle Creek Central; 10. Battle Creek Central; 11. Battle Creek Central; 12. Battle Creek Central.

surgery to repair the shoulder today. Mike Karner gave Walled Lake a state title in the 127-pound class. The Vikings' Bob Mott was second in the 165-pound division, Rick Baker was fourth at 175 and Randy Hyde second in the 120 class.

Mark Davis picked off the 103-pound crown for Hazel Park, while Roger Duty won the 154-pound title for Dondoro.

TOP COACH
The state high school wrestling coaches gave Catholic Central coach Mike Rodriguez, a former Big Ten mat champion, an added honor by naming him 'Coach of the Year' shortly before the team sewed up the championship.

Chris Antonietti gave Catholic Central its lone individual title with a win in the 120-pound class. The champs, however, with seven wrestlers in the field, managed three thirds — one by the coach's son, Steve — and ran up a lot of points in the preliminaries to take the team title.

Pontiac Northern's John Dunn was fourth in the 120 class and Pontiac Central's Myron Borders placed fourth in 138.

GOOD BALANCE
Madison failed to take any individual honors but the Eagles picked up two seconds and a third en route to the Class B championship.

Mike Gonzales (45) and Pat Coleman (112) grabbed seconds for the Eagles while Greg Peters placed third. Bill Eisenheimer of Madison Heights Bishop Foley claimed the 138-pound Class B crown.

Farmington Our Lady came up with two third-place finishes in the C-D competition. Pat Kern was third in 133 and Barry Walsh third at heavyweight. Both are Juniors.

BIG CHIEF—Sparking Pontiac Central to a fourth-place finish in the state Class A wrestling tournament was senior Larry Arnold, who captured the 133-pound championship.

Pinch Bats Help

Rule Assists in Two Games

Braves, Yanks Win With Pinch Hitters

By the Associated Press
Luman Harris and Ralph Houk have discovered, much to their satisfaction, that some good hitters are neither born nor made—but designated.

Now all they have to do is come up with a couple of able appointees to pinch hit for pinch hitters Hank Aaron and Roy White.

Aaron, battling in the pitcher's spot under the designated pinch hitter rule being tried out in spring training games, started Hanks' Atlanta Braves to an 11-3 romp over Los Angeles Sunday by smashing a first inning home run.

White, playing the same role for Houk's New York Yankees, scored a tying, three-run homer in a four-run ninth that tipped Baltimore 7-6.

WEEKEND PASSES
Aaron, however, was hit on the right knee by a Pete Mikkelson pitch in the seventh inning and will miss today's Braves-Yankees exhibition at West Palm Beach, Fla. And White, who joined the Yankees on a weekend pass from the Army, will be back on duty at Fort Dix, N.J.

While Aaron and White were delivering the long ball in the pinch for the Braves and Yankees, conventional homers helped six other clubs nail exhibition victories.

Joe Lis hit a three-run blast in the 10th inning, helping Philadelphia's 6-4 triumph over Pittsburgh. Larry Hise and Johnny Callison also homered for the Phillies and Jose Martinez connected for the Pirates.

Rookie Ken Myette pitched three scoreless innings and clouded a two-run homer, leading Cincinnati past the Chicago White Sox 4-0.

Homers by Dalton Jones, Reggie Smith and Billy Conigliaro powered Boston to a 12-4 romp over St. Louis.

BIG INNING
Joe Morgan hit a two-run shot as Houston flattened the New York Mets 5-3 with five runs in the third inning and Al Ferrara touched off a four-run second inning burst with a two-run wallop, pacing the San Diego Padres to a 6-2 victory over the San Diego Marines.

San Francisco cuffed Cleveland with five first-inning runs and routed the Indians 9-3 for a 3-0 exhibition mark. Willie Mays, the Giants' new leadoff hitter, started the first-inning fireworks by drawing a walk and singled in the fifth to trigger a two-run wrap-up rally.

Aurelio Rodriguez, Larvis Tatum and Tom Egan cracked three hits each as California thumped the Chicago Cubs 16-5. Gerry McNett's double launched a three-run sixth-inning flurry that carried Seattle to a 6-3 verdict over Oakland.

Housewife Applies for Cage 'Whistle'

SPRING LAKE (UPI) — Mrs. Robert Bareham, a 43-year-old busy housewife and mother of four, thinks the caliber of high school basketball refereeing should be improved — and has applied for a whistle.

Mrs. Bareham, as far as anyone here can remember, is the first woman to make application to the Michigan Athletic Association to referee boys' high school basketball games.

Kegler Gets Doctor's OK, Then Hits 289

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Without the doctor's approval, Sam Coleman probably never would have made a splash in the 66th annual American Bowling Congress tournament.

Coleman, 52, of Fairfield, Ohio, threw his back out in place about 10 days ago, and did not get his doctor's permission until three days ago to join the list of more than 32,000 keglers in the current tourney.

He rolled a 289 line Sunday, the best game to date in the 79-day competition.

He had 10 consecutive strike-matching the best single game string so far, then left the No. 10 pin standing in the 11th frame.

His 663 series put him in 10th place in the regular singles standings.

STATE KEGLER
Jim Kiziar of Jackson, Mich., had 687 series for third place in the singles.

The defending regular team champion, Dave's Auto No. 1 of Philadelphia, rolled the best team game of the tournament to date, 1,097.

But the team's series total Sunday was 3,071, putting the title defenders into second place 64 pins behind the leader, Haefer of St. Louis.

"Since I was five years old, my parents took me to basketball games, civic affairs and to religious functions and I should know a little about the game," she said last week.

An inveterate fan, she has twin sons that play basketball at Spring Lake High School. But aside from family interests she knows the rule books from cover to cover and keeps up on changes.

TEAM OUSTED
The specter of Mrs. Bareham officiating in games involving her sons — assuming she could get permission immediately — was eliminated Thursday night when Grand Rapids Kenowa Hills ousted Spring Lake from the state tournament, 67-65.

"Anyone can obtain a permit to referee from the state to handle high school basketball games if they pass an open book test. I feel this penalizes coaches who have obtained degrees and spent time with students above and beyond their duties. To have 'freakies' go in and serve as referees and do an incapable job irks me," she said.

In the meantime, the office of Allen Bush, director of the Michigan High School Athletic Association at Lansing, has a problem.

It is a new situation. Women have been given state permits to referee girls' basketball games and men have been given permits to referee girls' games but no woman hitherto has been a referee in state high school male basketball games.

The state office said it could not be done but hasn't come up with a clause in the rule books that says it can't.

Duke Aide B.C. Choice

NEWTON, Mass. (AP) — Charles J. "Chuck" Daly, an assistant basketball coach at Duke University, has been named head coach at Boston College.

Daly will replace Bob Cousy, who has announced he is retiring after this season, his sixth at B.C.

Daly, 38, has been an assistant coach at Duke the past six years. He previously spent eight years coaching high school basketball in Pennsylvania.

Pistons Get Warning

By the Associated Press
Crew-cut Paul Seymour sighed disgustedly and said he will levy a $1,000 fine against the next Detroit Pistons that costs his team points by "hanging back and gipping at an official."

The Pistons coach said it "contributed quite a bit" to Detroit's humiliating 126-121 National Basketball Association loss to Milwaukee at Cobo Arena Sunday.

Citing Walt Bellamy, Hap Hairston and Dave Bing as examples, Seymour said staying in the backcourt to complain to an official "created an odd situation."

"You give them (Milwaukee) an open shot or you commit fouls to cover up for fellows lagging behind," said Seymour.

Marty Liquori Leads Wildcats

By the Associated Press
"It was running for the team, not myself tonight," Marty Liquori of defending champion Villanova said after leading the Wildcats to a victory in the Track and Field Championships.

Villanova, coached by Jim Elliott, captured the 48th edition for the 10th time in 13 years as his Liquori-led Wildcats came up with three meet-record performances in taking the team title with 46 points to 32½ for runner-up Maryland.

And Liquori, the 19-year-old sophomore, stretched his unbeaten string to five at New York's Madison Square Garden before his 9:06 Saturday night.

Liquori set his record in the mile-run as he was clocked 4:03.3, breaking ex-Wildcat Dave Patrick's mark of 4:06.1. The Cedar Grove, N.J., youngster in his four other outings at the Garden, won the Milrose mile in 4:00.8—the fastest of the indoor season—the Federation two-mile, K of C 1000 and the Olympic Invitational 1500 meters.

Lakeland Ice Units Skate Past 3 Foes

The Lakeland Hawks midget hockey team received strong goal tending from Jerry Vought and Joe Wright to post back-to-back victories Saturday and Sunday.

Vought, making his first start in the nets, paced Lakeland past Madison Heights Saturday, 3-2, and Wright backstopped his 2-1 conquest of Warren Sunday, the Hawks' third straight win.

Bill Herrmannson had a pair of goals; Curt Wright, Bill Dolan, Mark Codere and Pat Hassa netted the others for the winners.

Lakeland's banhamis drubbed Fraser, 4-2, Saturday to retain their lead in the southeast Michigan Junior League's "B" bracket. Eric Rose had a hat trick and Ray Emsley added the other goal in support of goalie Brad Muehl's work.

Marty Liquori Leads Wildcats

By the Associated Press
"It was running for the team, not myself tonight," Marty Liquori of defending champion Villanova said after leading the Wildcats to a victory in the Track and Field Championships.

Villanova, coached by Jim Elliott, captured the 48th edition for the 10th time in 13 years as his Liquori-led Wildcats came up with three meet-record performances in taking the team title with 46 points to 32½ for runner-up Maryland.

And Liquori, the 19-year-old sophomore, stretched his unbeaten string to five at New York's Madison Square Garden before his 9:06 Saturday night.

Liquori set his record in the mile-run as he was clocked 4:03.3, breaking ex-Wildcat Dave Patrick's mark of 4:06.1. The Cedar Grove, N.J., youngster in his four other outings at the Garden, won the Milrose mile in 4:00.8—the fastest of the indoor season—the Federation two-mile, K of C 1000 and the Olympic Invitational 1500 meters.

Tech Skaters in Semifinals

Defending Champion Denver Favored

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — The defending champion University of Denver Pioneers will meet Harvard Thursday night in the first round of the NCAA Hockey Championship at the Broadmoor World Arena.

Michigan Tech and Cornell will tangle Friday night in the other semifinal match. The winners will meet in the championship match Saturday night.

Michigan Tech gained a berth by downing Michigan, 7-4, Saturday.

This marks the eighth time in 13 years that the Pioneers, coached by Murray Armstrong, have made the finals.

Denver earned its berth Saturday night with a 3-1 victory over Colorado College in a Western Collegiate Hockey Association regional playoff.

This will be the first time in the championship since 1958 for Harvard. Joe Cavanagh leads the Crimson in scoring with 23 goals.

Cornell, the Eastern power for the past three years, will bring three All-America players to the tournament in goalie Ken Dryden, defenseman Bruce Pattison and winger Brian Cornell.

Cornell last won the NCAA crown in 1967.

Michigan Tech has won two crowns in four previous NCAA meets. It will be led by center Al Karlander and goalie Gordon McIlrae.

The Pioneers rely on the scoring of winger George Morrison and the goal tending of Gerry Powers.

Rod Laver 'Lobs' Way Past Marty Riessen

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Rod Laver, the left-handed speedster England briefly refused to play from Australia, is $3,000 richer because of a referee's decision today but Marty Riessen of Evanston, Ill., made it a battle of first sets of their singles match.

Riessen battled Laver in the when an umpire announced Los Angeles Invitational Tennis that, due to the length of the set, Tournament finals Saturday would be decided by one 12-point but Laver triumphed 6-4, point pro game. The women objected and sat down.

Laver is tennis' leading money winner but Riessen appeared to be on the track to an upset and Mrs. King beat Mrs. Jones when he broke the Aussie's 17-15, then 6-3 for the title.

Laver and Emerson teamed to beat John Newcombe and Tony Roche in an all-Australian doubles final, 6-3, 5-6, 6-2. The from there it was close—but it second set was decided with the was obvious that Laver was in command.

The matches were marred when lady tennis stars Billie Jean King of Long Beach, Cal., and another player were involved in a controversy.

Rival USC Nips Bruins

UCLA Jolted by Slowup

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The record indicates that UCLA's 29-all tie, UCLA won 40-35 in overtime.

Last Friday's night, despite saying he didn't "contemplate any change of thinking or change of game over what we have tried to do all year long," Boyd went back to that still game.

The other loss was a 71-69 defeat at the hands of the Houston Cougars on Jan. 20, 1968 in Houston's Astrodome.

How did the Bruins react to that defeat?

They went on to win their remaining 16 games, including a 101-69 thrashing of Houston in the NCAA semifinals, and averaged 89.1 points per game the rest of the season.

They hit 100 points or more six times and demolished North Carolina 78-55 in the season's final game for the national title.

NOT FIRED UP

"I think people make too much of streaks," said UCLA Coach John Wooden. "We were not fired up. We didn't play well and they did," he said, praising the Trojans.

Two years ago USC Coach Bob Boyd tried the same slow-down tactics that beat UCLA Saturday night.

In that game, a Southern Cal shot missed at the buzzer ending regulation play and, from a 29-all tie, UCLA won 40-35 in overtime.

His tactics finally paid off. Bruins a scare in last year's Far West regional first game but UCLA prevailed 58-49.

"Maybe this loss will help us," Wooden said after the game. "Maybe it will put us in good shape for the tournament. At least, I sure hope so."

LASE SECOND

UCLA had to make a last-second desperation shot that forced two overtimes before the Bruins first-round opponent will be New Mexico State Thursday night when the NCAA Far West regional tournament begins at wet Boyd, tossed in the showers UCLA's Pauley Pavilion.

Austria's Ski Strength Seen in Vail Meet

VAIL, Colo. (AP) — Austria proved at the American International team ski races what nearly everyone knew all along—it's at the pinnacle of international skiing and will likely remain there for some time.

Finishing with an awesome show in the giant slalom, Austria rolled up 297 points in the three-day meet, well ahead of second-place France with 147.

Switzerland was fourth with 114 and Canada last, with 41.

"We have a very good team," said 22-year-old Reinhard Tritschler, who won the men's giant slalom Saturday and placed in the top three in the downhill and slalom.

"This has been a good year and we will get better."

Gertrude Gahl won the ladies slalom and giant slalom for Austria and showed why she is the individual leader in women's international skiing.

"It was a good, all-around meet for me. I like the courses here and we (Austria) did well," she said.

The United States was saved from disgrace by a young, talented women's team which slipped up needed points in the slalom and giant slalom after mediocre showings in the downhill.

Led by Marilyn Cochran, a 19-year-old from Richmond, Va., American women placed high in the slalom events somewhat erasing a poor men's showing.

Ken Still's Long Wait Ends at Citrus Open

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Ken Still and Sandy Koufax have something in common beside a personal friendship—they both waited a long time to become winners.

But while Sandy sat on the Dodger bench waiting for his chance, Still bounced around 16 years from job to job before winning his first golf tournament.

Ken's moment finally came Sunday at the $15,000 Citrus Open with a final round 70 for a 72-hole total of 10-under par 278, one stroke ahead of Miller Barber. But it came the hard way.

"It was a peculiar round," Still admitted after accepting the $23,000 first prize.

The friendly, 34-year-old bachelor for Tacoma, Wash., said he felt he'd won the tournament after an eight-foot putt for a par 5 on the first hole of the par 72 Rio Pinar Country Club course.

But his prediction was premature.

He hit into a lake on the 165-yard, par 3 12th for a double bogey and scrambled for a par 4 at 14 when he found the water again. And at 18 his second shot landed in the gallery.

Table Netters Await Finale

It's one down and one to go for the Pontiac Table Tennis League as it heads for Thursday's final night of the regular season at the Pontiac Central High School girls' gymnasium.

West Side Mobil's 4-2 loss to Francis Fuel didn't prevent it from clinching the National Division top spot last week since pursuing Richardson's Dairy also was a 4-2 loser to Stefan's TV.

Francis Fuel and Richardson's now share the runner-up spot, seven points behind West Side's titlists. Mr. Steak is only one point back in fourth place.

Meanwhile, the American Division has a tense battle raging between China City, whose 80 points matches West Side's winning total, and Capitol Barber Shop who trails by only two.

The twosome clashed head-on last week and China City gained a valuable split of the six points.

Police Nab Four Youths in City School Break-Ins

Two 17-year-old boys and two girls were apprehended by police in connection with two of five break-ins at Pontiac schools over the weekend.

Donald P. Hardie, 17, of 588 E. South Blvd., was caught along with two juveniles in Wilson School, 511 S. Sanford, Saturday night, police said.

Calvin Bell, 17, of 223 S. Edith, was found in Eastern Junior High School, 26 S. Sanford, early this morning, police said.

COMING OUT DOOR

Four officers surrounded Wilson School in response to an alarm and said they caught Hardie coming out of a door.

The juveniles with Hardie closed the door so police could not enter the school. A custodian opened the school and police found the juveniles hiding under a stage after a one-hour search.

In a similar incident, police went to Eastern Junior High at 2:42 a.m. today, climbed through a second floor window, searched the building for about 1 1/2 hours and found Bell hiding in a pipe tunnel, they said.

Hardie and Bell are being held in Oakland County Jail for arrest.

VC Grip on Mekong Delta Is No Longer Uncontested

BEN TRE, Vietnam (AP) — What has happened in the delta back and progress ranges from spot to slow. For two months a team of 9th Division soldiers has been going into "contested" villages at night, showing movements, giving medical treatment and trying to bolster the government's image. After one performance they discovered Vietcong tax collector had slipped into the crowd and spent the evening collecting delinquent accounts.

The scarecrows stood behind a rickety bamboo fence just off the road winding east from Ben Tre, capital of Kien Hoa Province. With derisive humor, signs on the fence proclaimed this was a Vietcong military reservation. Unauthorized people were warned to keep out.

Government militia manning the sun-baked mud forts along the road obeyed the signs. For all practical purposes a truce and a stalemate existed in Kien Hoa—the most populous and rice-rich province in the delta. Vietcong political bosses, guerrillas and tax collectors held sway in the countryside. The government's faded yellow and red flags flew over the mud forts and the towns. Harried peasants paid taxes to both sides. Occasional battles upset things only momentarily.

By the official statistics only half of Kien Hoa's estimated 600,000 people lived in "relatively secure" areas.

STARTING TO IMPROVE That depressing statistic has started to improve, and the scarecrows have disappeared. The change has come about because the war in Vietnam has changed.

In relative terms, the violence has declined in Vietnam since the Paris peace talks began. In the Mekong Delta, however, the change has been deceptive. The big battles are generally gone but the war is actually deadlier than ever.

The U.S. 9th Division, operating in the north, has advanced to Saigon, is the only American infantry division in the delta. Last month it claimed almost 1,000 Vietcong killed and lost 59 dead of its own. In December a year ago, when the war was approaching the climax of the Tet offensive, the division killed 578 enemy and lost 50 killed.

MUCH BETTER In statistical terms, that means the division is doing much better now. It also shows that the delta war has become more deadly, and over shadows the fighting elsewhere. Only one other U.S. division—the American in the far north—had a rougher time in December 1968.

Paralleling the infantry war, dozens of civic action programs are under way. The relative withdrawal of Vietcong units has opened up areas.

"It all might be wiped out by a new offensive," an official said, "but we've got to grab this chance."

These programs range from haphazard medical treatment by visiting infantry medics to psychological leaflets, drops. There are programs to encourage defectors, pay informers, grow rice, improve schools, pave roads, teach English, train ten ho, import chickens, train mechanics, improve sanitation, diversify farms, make bricks and train midwives.

As always, the Vietcong fight-back and progress ranges from spot to slow. For two months a team of 9th Division soldiers has been going into "contested" villages at night, showing movements, giving medical treatment and trying to bolster the government's image. After one performance they discovered Vietcong tax collector had slipped into the crowd and spent the evening collecting delinquent accounts.

The name of the game is to control the people. In the four provinces where the 9th operates—Long An, Kien Hoa, Go Cong and Dinh Tuong—all the statistical indicators are slowly improving.

More American supplies, arms and money are flowing into the long-forgotten delta than ever before. While U.S. headquarters in Saigon is contemplating the withdrawal of some American troops elsewhere this year, experts concerned with the delta are digging in their heels.

The structure in the delta, these officials contend, is still too fragile to withstand withdrawals. The Vietcong was born in the delta and its infrastructure probably is stronger than anywhere else in Vietnam. It would certainly rebound quickly if military pressure slackened.

Surviving are his wife, Linda; two daughters, Julie and Janet, and two sons, James and Robert.

Coulter of 1183 Puritan, Birmingham, was also a member of the Hudson's board of directors. He was first employed by the firm as a salesman, then as a buyer and a divisional merchandise manager.

He was a director of the Birmingham Historical Society, Athletic Club, the Birmingham Economic Club.

Memorials may be made to the Michigan Heart Association.

More than 50 officers dispersed a crowd which gathered to watch the afternoon fight between two police said was a group of Negro youths, a group of Mexican-American youths and members of outlaw motorcycle gangs.

Even though Milliken couldn't strap on his skis, he did manage to lead a snowmobile parade in Munising at the North American Snowmobile Junior Championship race.

"I know this will trigger quite a debate but I don't think it will hamper passage of future bond programs."

Before the parade, he crowned an excited 13-year-old snow princess, Linda Cornish of Munising.

At Powderhorn Lodge near Ironwood he rode the chair lift to view the slopes from the top and later stopped in at a ski class to greet students.

Traveling by plane from city to city in this rugged northern country, Milliken at one point had the pilot side-trip out over the frozen shoreline of Lake Superior and then over the Porcupine Mountains. "It's beautiful," he kept saying.

He went into the interior of the wilderness, too, to look for deer at a feeding ground near Escanaba. He led a brisk parade of officials, conservation agents and newsmen over a quarter-mile of ground to observe the animals' food supply.

Aides consider Milliken's first venture into the sparsely populated northern country a success. Future trips to Michigan will also have a central theme such as tourism, labor or mental health problems.

"This is only the beginning of a lot of traveling that I plan to do," Milliken said. "I don't plan to be gone out of the state for one week."

GOP Group Fixes Home to Aid Family

Half a dozen Oakland County Young Republicans helped Saturday to repair a home in Detroit's inner city so a family with 10 children can move in. The GOP volunteers scraped paint from walls and ceilings, plastered walls, repaired windows and did just about any chore that needed to be done.

Roger Marce, chairman of the club, explained that the 12-room, two-story home on 14th Street near Magnolia is to be rented to a low-income family. The family will have an option to buy the house.

The Young Republicans assisted the House of the Carpenter, a Detroit settlement house affiliated with the Church of Christ of Conant Gardens, in the project.

Marce said the activity was part of the club's expanded social services program, which will include an Easter egg hunt in Pontiac's Murphy Park next month.

'Mama Cass' Says Hunger Not Only Reason for Eating

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Mama Cass, 125 pounds thinner than she used to be, down to 185 from 290, went off her illustrious diet at the Stage Delicatessen when TV director Chuck Barrett couldn't fly in from California to meet her—she was so depressed that she started eating potato pancakes.

"That's my excuse for eating," explained Cass Elliott—that's her real name. "You can always find a reason. The war in Vietnam, Biafra, my coat being too long, anything!"

Helping herself to more potato pancakes, she said Barrett, director of her TV special for ABC, was not her friend ("I wish he was"). She's hoping to blast off 50 more pounds bringing her to a sexy 110.

"A lot of 110-pounders don't have your sex appeal," we said.

"Absolutely!" she agreed. "They have an antiseptic quality, they look like they've never been dirty. They look like they don't have scars on their knees from falling off bicycles when they were kids."

"Mama" who reduced her statistics from 44-52-35 to 32-44-44—and wears a size 18 dress—has been divorced from singer-composer James Hendricks but looks forward to a happy life. "God hasn't slogged me in any way. I also have talent," she said, and the worshippers of "The Mamas and Papas," with whom she started, agreed. "The thin, beautiful girls I know are not deep. They never see beyond their own reflections."

Pushing in the last of the potato pancakes, she said, "I'd like to be the kind of girl, if I walked down the football field, Joe Namath would tackle me."

THE MIDNIGHT EARL

Is the Lorillard cigarette company showing an interest in buying the Jets? (Bob Tichet was looking over the Philadelphia Eagles not long ago) ... Bill Harrah (of Reno and Lake Tahoe casinos) and his wife Scherry got the divorce ... Barbara Streisand, asked to do a "Funny Girl" sequel, said by the time she's completed her other work "I'll be playing Fanny Brice as a grandmother."

Burlesque impresario Harold Minsky checked over the former Latin Quarter site. (For a big new catch) ... Mickey Rooney'll be "George M!" in his summer stock ... Marty Miles is sporting a beard, and his wife Edie Adams explains jokingly, "I think he's going to play 'Zorba' next week."

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: Floridian Sheila MacRae bought an ermine coat, telling her husband, "Well, I might be on a plane that's hijacked to Green Bay someday!"

WISH I'D SAID THAT: The trouble with a bikini is that it shows a girl off, or shows a girl up. —Evan Esar.

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "There's only one thing better than a cold shower before breakfast—and that's no cold shower before breakfast."

EARL'S PEARLS: Bobby Goldsboro reports that his fighting men took 20 prisoners yesterday—18 teachers, one dean and a principal.

Comedy Scoop: Mitchell is asked often about the spelling of his name. "I know there are three I's," he explains, "but you only pronounce two of them." ... That's earl, brother.

MADE-TO-MEASURE

IF SOMETHING STILL HASN'T STRUCK YOUR FANCY, CONSIDER THIS HUDSON'S SERVICE

You can get any exact size, any degree of fullness, any color of the rainbow, any type of fabric in made-to-measure draperies, lined or unlined — plus matching bedspreads and have delivery in ten days. Bring your measurements to Hudson's Downtown, 8th; Northland, Eastland, Westland, Pontiac, Oakland.

For width, measure the width of your rod or the width of the area on the wall where the rod is to be placed. For length, measure from the top of the drapery rod to the exact length desired. We'll do all the rest. Your draperies will be hand-cut to exactly the size specified (and if you've ordered a bedspread it will be cut from the same bolt for an absolute color match). As for quality, side and bottom hems are doubled and blindstitched, patterns meticulously matched, and concealed corner weights are added to assure you of the correct alignment.

SIT-IN DEMONSTRATION — More than 250 black students participated in a sit-in this morning at Central High School, demanding a public hearing with the Pontiac Board of Education to discuss new demands presented at last Thursday night's board meeting. They said they felt their problems had not been fully discussed at that meeting. (Story page A-2.)

How to Keep Teens Away From Drugs

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the first in a series of articles written by a prize-winning reporter to inform anxious parents about the drug and narcotics situation and suggest what they can do to guard their own children against its hazards.)

BY ALTON BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Writer

The use-and-abuse-of-drugs that affect human minds is spreading across the country like smog.

Young Americans by the hundreds of thousands, perhaps by the millions, are tasting, experimenting or going still further with marijuana, with LSD, with the uppies and downies of pep pills and sedatives, with Speed, and even in some cases with heroin.

By the millions, parents are increasingly puzzled, worried or even downright panicky. Most disturbing to them, is the fact that marijuana or "pot" especially is becoming popular among junior high and high school students.

30 S. Viets Die, 105 Wounded in Red Ambush

SAIGON (AP) — Hundreds of enemy troops ambushed about 300 South Vietnamese paratroopers, killing 30 of the government soldiers and wounding 105 in a two-day battle that was still going on late today, the Saigon government said.

The savage battle was one of five major fights reported in the past 24 hours — at three points near the Cambodian border and to the north and south of Saigon. The dead included 31 Americans and at least 27 Vietnamese and North Vietnamese, allied spokesmen said.

The Vietcong also shelled more than 35 towns and allied bases during the night as the enemy's spring offensive continued in its third week.

U.S. Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird told newsmen as he left Saigon after a four-day visit that the offensive is a "calculated escalation of the war." But he said it "has not been successful."

NOT REVEALED

Laird would not reveal the recommendations he is carrying back to President Nixon, except to say that he would request additional funds to strengthen the South Vietnamese armed services.

The secretary said some American troops would be replaced in due course by South Vietnamese as the latter's armed forces grew stronger. But he would not give any timetable.

Laird said on the basis of his trip he could not foresee any circumstances which would require more American forces in Vietnam.

The South Vietnamese paratrooper battalion that was ambushed reported 14 of its men killed and 80 wounded in a savage fight 54 miles northwest of Saigon and three miles from the Cambodian border. American bombers finally drove off the enemy force, but enemy casualties were not known.

PLATOON DECIMATED

About 20 miles to the south, every U.S. air cavalryman in a 40-man platoon was killed or wounded when an estimated 400 troops from the Viet Cong 9th Division ran into the platoon as it was checking the Cambodian border for infiltrators.

American reinforcements poured into the battle, but 14 U.S. troops were killed and 31 were wounded. At least 37 of the enemy were killed, the U.S. Command said.

Other air cavalrymen operating 27 miles northeast of Saigon on the fringes of the Vietcong's War Zone D rain into elements of the Viet Cong 5th Division, which two weeks ago tried to overrun the big U.S. military complex at Bien Hoa.

U.S. spokesmen said 24 enemy troops were counted dead, while U.S. losses were two killed and 11 wounded.

Egypt General Killed by Shell

TEL AVIV (AP) — After two days of heavy shelling, the Suez Canal was reported quiet again today. Egypt prepared a hero's funeral for its army chief of staff, Gen. Abdel Moneim Riad, who was fatally wounded by an Israeli shell yesterday.

U. N. observers blamed Egypt for the start of the artillery duel Saturday.

Israeli shells hit Egypt's oil refinery at Suez for the fourth time since the 1967 war, and the Israelis said a petrochemical plant and oil storage tanks were still burning today. Egypt said three tanks were set afire.

3 EGYPTIANS KILLED

Egypt said three of its men were killed and 13 wounded and it lost a MIG jet.

The semi-official Cairo newspaper Al Ahras said Riad had flown by helicopter to Ismailia yesterday and was observing the artillery duel with a group of officers when the shell landed close to him.

Riad, 56, was Egypt's second-ranking soldier after the defense minister, Gen. Mohammed Fawzi. President Gamal Abdel Nasser posthumously awarded him Egypt's highest military decoration, the Star of Honor.

ONE COLOR MAKE OVER PAGES Ray in Court Today —May Plead Guilty

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — James Earl Ray has a date in court today amid speculation — unconfirmed by any official source — that he would plead guilty to murdering Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., and take a 99-year prison sentence.

There was no guarantee that the hearing called by Judge W. Preston Battle would involve a plea of guilt or innocence by the 40-year-old defendant.

Some observers thought it might bring nothing more dramatic than a motion for a change of venue or some other legal maneuver by Ray's lawyer, Percy Foreman of Houston, Tex.

The Memphis Commercial Appeal

reported that Foreman had conferred with two of Ray's brothers and a sister last week, apparently to clear the way for a plea.

LONG-WAIT FOR PAROLE

Doubters pointed out that with a 99-year sentence, Ray would not be eligible for parole for at least 33 years.

The state had said previously it would demand death in the electric chair but no one has been executed in Tennessee since 1961.

Should a jury sentence Ray to life imprisonment, parole could be possible in 13½ years.

Neither Foreman nor the prosecuting staff would comment on the reports that the deal for a 99-year term had been made.

Ray, an escapee from the Missouri State Penitentiary, was arrested in London last June 8, two months and four days after King was killed by a single shot as he stood on the balcony of the Lorraine Motel.

EXTRAORDINARY SECURITY

Ray was returned to Memphis in July after lengthy extradition proceedings and since then has been held under extraordinary security precautions in an air-conditioned and TV-monitored cell block of the Shelby County jail.

He has made fewer than a half-dozen court appearances since his return, the first for his arraignment and the remainder as a series of procedural defense motions were argued.

Tennessee law in first-degree-murder cases requires a jury to set a sentence regardless of the plea entered, but a provision of the statute allows jurors who say they can not agree with a recommended sentence to be disqualified.

The law further requires that the prosecution must then prove that King was killed.

Under the rules governing a guilty plea, the attorneys then stipulate that if the case had gone to trial evidence would have been presented to show that Ray was the man who shot King.

King was slain on the night of April 4 while in Memphis to help about 1,300 sanitation workers, most of them Negroes, in a strike against the city government.

Nixon May Trim Plan

ABM Verdict Near

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP) — President Nixon, described as near a decision on deployment of a "thin" antiballistic missile shield, remained at his waterfront Florida retreat today for some final hours of relaxation before returning to the White House.

Nixon, who flew here late Friday for a respite after his exhausting European tour, was expected to be back in Washington tonight.

A presidential decision on the ABM, which has aroused strong opposition in Congress and some communities, was not expected tomorrow or, more likely, Wednesday.

Nixon, when he reveals his choice, was believed likely to embrace a modified deployment plan hopefully designed to disarm ABM critics who do not want the nuclear-tipped counterweapons placed near major cities.

AWAY FROM CITIES

It's expected that proposed missile sites for the nuclear-tipped Spartan interceptors will be moved as much as 30 miles from major population centers. Location of the sites near cities had drawn criticism from citizens who feared accidental explosions or that the areas would become a target for Soviet weapons.

The 30-mile factor would mean the site now proposed for the Pontiac area would be shifted northwest, perhaps to the Holly or Orionville area.

The expected move to scale down plans for the Sentinel program may lessen opposition to the antimissile defense system, especially in Congress.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said in an interview that a cutback in the proposed number of missile sites "will satisfy some people" in Congress who are worried about the cost of the proposed ABM program.

Critics fear the system once started will grow both in cost and intent from one originally estimated at $5 billion to protect against Chinese Communist rockets to a $40 billion system geared against the Soviet Union.

Mansfield is one of a powerful group of senators, which includes Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., who have been fighting immediate deployment of the Sentinel missile system.

129 Pontiac-Area Youths Leave for Army Induction

Families, sweethearts and friends said goodbye this morning to 129 Pontiac area young men headed for Detroit's Fort Wayne Army Induction Center in the March draft call.

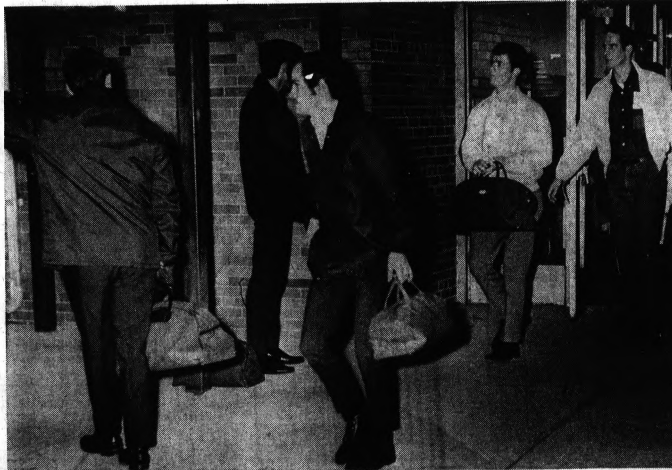

The group gathered at the Pontiac Elks Lodge, 114 Orchard Lake, prior to their 7 a.m. departure. The Elks have been providing use of their facilities since last September.

Prior to that, the draftees used to assemble and wait for the bus at a downtown intersection. Several area organizations have combined efforts to give the youths a warmer sendoff.

At the Elks Lodge, a light breakfast, is provided as well as a place to say farewells. The facility was jammed this morning with more than 600 persons.

Contributing to the sendoff were Elks Lodge 810; Lake Orion, Chief Pontiac and Cook-Nelson American Legion posts; Post 811 of the Forty and Eight; the Amvets; UAW Local 596, Disabled American Veterans Post 16 and the Gideon Society.

The draftees are from three city draft boards, 65, 331 and 67. Today's call was termed one of the larger ones in recent months. The number reflects a step-up to replace large numbers of men being discharged, according to draft officials.

OFF THEY GO—Draftees from the Pontiac area leave the Elks Lodge early this morning to board buses for Detroit's Ft. Wayne induction center. In the March callup were 129 young men.

Area Girl Killed in Avon Crash

A 20-year-old Birmingham girl was killed Saturday night when the car in which she was riding went out of control and crashed in Avon Township.

Dead is Kathryn Ann Edwards, 1555 Chapin, who, according to the driver, fell out of the car when it struck a guardrail on Adams near Avon road.

The driver, Ransome Boyd, 23, of Hazel Park, told Oakland County sheriff's deputies that he was traveling about 60 miles an hour prior to the accident.

Boyd said the accident occurred when he slammed on his brakes to avoid hitting a guard post and the car slid sideways and struck the guardrail. Skid marks measured 111 feet, according to a deputy.

New Kitchen May End KP

FT. BENNING, Ga. (AP) — A general's lunch today offers hope for the legions of GIs who have dreamed of the end of KP.

Maj. Gen. John M. Wright Jr., Ft. Benning commander, is going to eat the first meal cooked during the 10-day test of a new, Army-developed field kitchen.

The Army says the kitchen, called "subsistence preparation by electronic defusion" or Speed, will make kitchen police obsolete.

Its utensils are disposable. They include paper plates and plastic spoons, cups and pans. Cooking is done by two microwave ovens, a grill and a forced-air oven.

The kitchen is a pod-like affair 12 feet long, seven feet wide and eight feet high. It can be carried by helicopter or truck and comes stocked with enough food to maintain 200 men for a day.

It also contains an incinerator for getting rid of the utensils.

Spring Unsprung: Snow Due Tonight

Spring hasn't sprung yet. The weatherman predicts snow flurries, cloudy skies and lower temperatures for today and tonight. Today's high is due to be in the mid-30s with tonight's low in the mid-20s.

Tomorrow the flurries will end but the partly cloudy skies and cooler temperatures will continue.

Light snow is on the agenda for Wednesday with temperatures in the 30s. This morning's northwest winds at 10 to 22 m.p.h. will slow this afternoon to 8 to 12 m.p.h. and pick up speed again tonight at 10 to 20 m.p.h.

Probabilities of precipitation in percent are 30 today, tonight and tomorrow.

Parochial Foes Pick Up Support From 2 Corners

LANSING (UPI) — Opening the tax dollars' pocketbook to finance nonpublic education got negative responses from two political corners over the weekend. Both want that pocketbook snapped shut and padlocked.

The 60,000 member Michigan Education Association (MEA) beefed up the anti-Parochial forces by contributing $500 to an organization bent on keeping tax dollars in the public schools.

State Sen. Sander Levin, D-Berkley, stepped into the fray yesterday by announcing his "active opposition to Parochial results from vigorous support for a strong system of public schools, rather than opposition to the existence of private or parochial schools."

The essence of the struggle, Levin told the Detroit chapter of the Citizens to Advance Public Education (CAPE), is that tax dollars simply won't stretch far enough to support two different school systems.

Levin is the Senate minority leader and a former Democratic State chairman.

He cited the huge deficit of more than $25 million now facing the Detroit school system and the latest information from the State Department of Education that 74 school districts were operating on a deficit.

"Today we are struggling to obtain the financial aid and public support necessary to sustain quality education programs and to improve programs for children in needy school districts and the disadvantaged children of low income families."

"Division of monies to private schools would inevitably result in failure to resolve these massive education problems," Levin said.

"VIOLATES PRINCIPLE"

Noting that his opposition to the stormy issue was as an individual senator and not as Senate Democratic leader, Levin argued that Parochial destroys the separation of church and state principle.

"Religious institutions have been free to operate without governmental interference and control, and governmental institutions have been free to operate without favoritism to any religious denomination, he said.

The support of the MEA, which made the donation to CAPE, was viewed as a big boost for the drive against Parochial. The Michigan Federation of Teachers, mainly predominant in the metropolitan Detroit area, has remained neutral.

Pending in the Michigan House currently is a bill which would grant $40 million annually to parochial schools for teaching secular subjects.

The chief sponsor, Rep. J. Robert Traxler, D-Bay City, conceded additional taxation is needed to pay for the massive program.

Franc Not Yet Contributing to Currency Crisis

BASEL (AP) — Western Europe's central decided yesterday the French franc's troubles don't constitute an emergency requiring international action but the price of gold continued to rise today on Europe's free markets.

Bullion was selling at $43.75 an ounce in London, 25 cents over Friday's price. Dealers said the demand was normal and the turnover small, indicating the upward movement was caused by the absence of sellers at the lower levels.

On London's foreign exchange market the pound opened a little better — at $2.868 compared to Friday's $2.885. But the franc, which pulled sterling down last week, was still shaky.

In Zurich, the price of gold jumped from $42.40-$42.60 to $43.75-$44, hitting a record high for the second time in four days. One bullion dealer said there was "demand from almost everywhere," but a banker said the buying "did not appear to be really hectic."

After their regular monthly meeting, several of the bankers said the French government has enough gold to cope with the current flow of money beyond its borders.

Ship With Hole in Side Is Steaming for Port

NEW YORK (AP) — The British cargo vessel Montcalm, a hole smashed in her side just above the waterline by a truck which broke loose in the hold during stormy North Atlantic weather, proceeded today under its own power toward Halifax, N.S., 350 miles to the Northeast, the Coast Guard reported.

The 440-foot vessel, with a crew of 32, began shipping water through a 12-foot hole yesterday while rolling in 20-to-30 foot seas.

Using its own pumps and two dropped by a Coast Guard plane, the ship was able to keep abreast of the flooding as the seas abated.

The Norwegian freighter Pontos is standing by.

SHOW CONTRACT — Eugene L. Greek (right), representative for the Michigan Bell Telephone Co., signs a contract for his company assuring it of a booth at the 15th annual Oakland County Home and Sports Show March 27-30. Overseeing the contract signing are Waterford Jaycees Wayne Barnhart (left), booth chairman, and Tom Ritter, general program chairman. The Jaycee-sponsored show will be staged at the Waterford Township Community Activities Inc. Building, 5640 Williams Lake.

Peking Soviets Provoked Clash

TOKYO (AP) — Communist China charged today that the Soviet Union provoked the Manchurian border clash March 2 to divert the attention of Russians who are massing for a "revolution" against "Soviet fascist rule."

Some Western analysts have suggested that Peking provoked the bloody fight for a similar reason — to make the Chinese forget internal dissensions and rally behind Mao Tse-tung by raising the specter of a "Soviet threat."

Boosting this view was an announcement from Peking Sunday that Red Chinese millmen and peasants are patrolling with frontier guards.

Press reports in Hong Kong and London said Peking has put 5 million men on an armed alert. The official Chinese announcement gave no exact figures.

Light Work Slated for Apollo 9 Crew

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Drifting to conserve fuel, and dreaming of jockey the craft into a more favorable position for scheduled splashdown Thursday.

The astronauts had completed 97 per cent of their flight objectives. The crucial lunar module — LEM-checkout, Schweickart's space walk and the rendezvous of the LEM and command module occurred in the first five days.

They are remaining aloft to prove the reliability of the Apollo command ship for 10 days, the longest period presently planned for man-to-the-moon missions.

As Apollo 9 circled overhead, there was a slight delay in preparations for the next step. Movement of the Saturn 5 rocket and spacecraft for Apollo 10 to a Cape Kennedy launch pad, scheduled today, was postponed 24 hours because of a minor problem.

Apollo 10, commanded by Air Force Col. Thomas P. Stafford, is scheduled to orbit the moon with a lunar module in May — paving the way for a landing by two members of the Apollo 11 crew in July.

McDivitt, Scott and Schweickart were told not to do any unnecessary maneuvering because they were slightly low on fuel.

Birmingham Area

Proposed Ban on Cigarette Ads Rapped

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — The proposed banning by the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) of cigarette advertising from broadcast media could be "a crippling blow to the basic business-advertising relationship."

This is the contention of Ernest A. Jones, chairman of the locally based advertising agency of MacManus, John & Adams Inc.

Jones identifies himself as a nonsmoker who "owns no stock in the broadcast or tobacco industries. He added that his agency does not have a cigarette account.

In an address prepared for delivery before members of the Phoenix, Ariz., Advertising Club today, Jones contends that he is greatly concerned about the right of business to sell a legal product in a legal manner."

FEARS REPETITION

"I am concerned with the Kafka-like execution by commission of an unproven charge. If the voice of legitimate business can be stifled in this manner, I wonder what product or service will be next obliterated by a statistical shadow," Jones explained.

Jones believes that any successful unopposed move inevitably will be repeated and extended. "I wonder when rights of other manufacturers, other media may be assumed by probability rather than certainty, when the administrative act of licensing will be converted into outright suppression."

"The use of cigarettes is a medical question; the arbitrary banning of their advertising—however insipidly stupid it may be—a constitutional question. And one, I hope, that is soon answered by the Congress," the Adman said.

Jones maintains there is no product made, no product advertised, from automobiles to aspirin, which does not have a negative potential due to situation or circumstance.

He added that other media and industries should not look at the FCC opinion as a tobacco-television problem. "Constitutional rights are neither selective nor negotiable," he added.

Khan, Foes Talk Pakistan Reform

KARACHI (AP) — President Mohammed Ayub Khan met opposition leaders today at Rawalpindi amid reports that the opposition has agreed on a more representative form of government for divided Pakistan.

Sources close to opposition leaders said they have decided Pakistan should return to a parliamentary government directly elected by the adult population, and also agreed to give 56 per cent majority representation to East Pakistan.

The latter has the largest slice of the nation's 120 million population and valuable jute exports, and is separated from West Pakistan by Indian territory.

Both states would get more local control, with the federal government limited to defense, foreign affairs and currency, the sources said. But some disagreement was still reported among leaders of the six opposition parties banded in a coalition called the Democratic Action Committee.

Not included in the talks with Ayub were former Foreign Minister Zulfikar Ali Bhutto, leader of the leftist People's Party, and 85-year-old Maulana Abdul Bhashani, leader of the pro-Peking wing of the National Awami party of East Pakistan. These two parties signed an agreement yesterday forming a leftist alliance independent of the DAC.

In Rawalpindi, 4,000 supporters of Ayub demonstrated yesterday, demanding that he continue in office. Ayub has announced he will not try for a fourth term in office next year because of the recent bloodshed and rioting resulting from opposition to his regime.

Four demonstrators were hurt when a bomb was thrown into the crowd. In another clash between students and administrators in the Jamalpur district, two students were reported shot dead yesterday. The students have been calling on military officials to give up their jobs and work for new, free elections.

Black Students Sit In at PCH

By MARY SUNDSTROM

More than 250 Central High School black students lined the school's main hallway this morning in a sit-in, asking a hearing with the Pontiac School Board to discuss their demands.

Demonstrators told Central Principal Garth Errington they were not satisfied with the way their demands and proposals were handled at last Thursday night's board of education meeting.

They said they would sit in until the board meets with them.

Several black adults joined the students in the sit-in.

MEETING ARRANGED

Schools Supt. Dr. Dana P. Whitmer told the demonstrators he would arrange a meeting with a delegation of students at 7:30 tonight at the board offices.

The demonstrators insisted that they wanted a public meeting in an auditorium which all black students in the city could attend, not just a meeting with a delegation.

Dr. Robert Turpin, acting chairman of the school board in the absence of board president Monroe Osmun, who is out of town, said he would be glad to meet with the demonstrators. He added that he also would rather meet with small groups.

Dr. Whitmer said he had not talked with any other board members.

POLICE STAND BY

Several police officers stood by in the hallway and in cars outside of the school in the event of any disturbance. Errington said that the students possibly could be arrested under city ordinance for disrupting classes.

Two staff members of the Oakland County Prosecutor's Office conferred with school officials and police at the school at midmorning. It was not immediately known what action the prosecutor's office might take.

Assistant Prosecutor James Williams said, however, if necessary, arrests would be made. He said those under 17 years old would be processed through juvenile court and those over 17 would face hearings as an adult.

Other students in the school were held in their classrooms to avoid any trouble in the passing of classes, Errington said.

Black students, members of the recently-organized Black Student Union, had appeared before the board of education last Thursday, presenting a list of nine demands that they insisted be acted upon immediately.

Among the demands were: a reversal of the decision to build a proposed new high school on Pontiac State Hospital grounds (they prefer a center city site at Bagley and Orchard Lake), more black teachers and administrators, free bus transportation for all students and an investigation of all Pontiac teachers regarding racist attitudes and discriminatory actions.

On Parkinson's Disease

Drug Breakthrough Seen

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Several Philadelphia hospitals report dramatic results in the treatment of Parkinson's disease with an experimental drug.

The hospitals report that the drug L-dopa produces virtually complete recovery in about 25 per cent of their Parkinson patients and improvement in most others suffering the debilitating disorder of the nervous system which causes trembling of the hands.

Since L-dopa must be administered indefinitely, however, it is not claimed as a cure.

At Episcopal Hospital, Dr. Jack Greenberg said 10 of 35 patients lost nearly all signs of the disease after they were given the drug over a six month period, and marked improvement in another 10.

SIGNS GONE

The University of Pennsylvania Hospital, which began L-dopa trials last summer, reported that about 25 per cent of 70 to 80 patients given the drug lost nearly all signs of the disease, and about half the remaining patients showed noted improvement.

Parkinson's disease is one of the most prevalent and disabling neurological disorders. There are an estimated one million victims in the United States, with 50,000 new cases diagnosed yearly.

When cells in the body fail to manufacture a chemical called dopamine, corresponding nerve signals to the brain fail. L-dopa breaks down in the body to become the missing dopamine.

DOORS MANNED

Several black youths had manned the doors at that meeting, saying they would not let anyone leave or enter the meeting room until their problems had been fully discussed and acted upon.

They were dispersed quickly by several black adults, who told them they couldn't close a public meeting.

2 in Truck Arrested at Pontiac Division

Two men were arrested yesterday after security officers at Pontiac Motor Division said the two tried to drive a truck loaded with $25,000 worth of equipment from the plant.

Held in Oakland County Jail for arraignment today are Clyde E. Bennett, 21, of 462 Oakland and Harry C. Papke, 23, of Clifford.

Security officers stopped the pair driving out the Highway and Columbia gate in a pickup truck at 2:45 a.m., police said.

Police said the two drove the truck to the rear of the plant and used a forklift to load it with 548 alternators and three 4-speed transmissions.

How to Keep Teens Off Drugs

How much of the complete story about various drugs do young people and children know?

How can you tell if someone is smoking marijuana, or taking LSD or other drugs?

WHY NOW?

Why did the great turn-out with drugs come along now?

What benefits do drug users say they find? What harms may various drugs cause?

Just what are all these drugs, new and old?

What should parents do if teen-agers or college students become dependent on drugs?

What is the argument all about over legalization of marijuana, or reducing the penalties for possessing it?

There are of course no simple, pat answers to these and other questions.

WHAT CAN PARENTS DO

For a majority of young people, observers remark, the encounter with mind-affecting drugs appears as a flirtation, a one-time or one-in-a-while event, with users sure they can take it or leave it.

But some authorities say such experimentation can amount to drug roulette—that some young people particularly susceptible to various drugs, can become dependent, and get hurt, badly hurt, from what they intended as a rather innocent adventure.

The "drug scene" is part of a larger one. For the truth is that American society is heavily a pill society. Its people for years have been swallowing billions of pills and capsules, including tranquilizers.

American society tolerates alcohol and nicotine, both of which technically are drugs, and millions of people abuse both of them. It has long had a corps of addicts hooked on heroin or opium, but fewer now than 30 or 40 years ago.

PILLS FOR EVERYBODY

Many among a huge variety of drugs are taken legitimately, prescribed for medical benefits. But there is also a great black market among some potent drugs and illegal manufacture or importation.

Each year, says the Food and Drug Administration, billions of sedative and pep pills are diverted to illegal use and ultimate misuse. That means enough pills or tablets per person per year to "keep everyone in the United States awake and jumping for a week, and enough barbiturates to keep them in a stupor for a week."

The newer element in the nation's drug problem is the rather sudden spread of drugs that induce fantasies or hallucinations, or that "expand the mind."

This drug problem is here. It is now. It is big. It is apparently growing bigger.

ANSWERS NEEDED

And it has set loose a storm of emotion that confuses the issues, and that blocks effective answers.

Part of the problem is "a tyranny of opinion, attitude and belief in the absence of knowledge," said Dr. Helen H. Nowlis, University of Rochester psychiatrist and director of the drug education project of the National Association of Student Personnel Administrators.

Many parents are baffled or alarmed because the drug scene is something totally outside any of their own personal experience. Many cannot help wondering whether their children will remain immune to the appeal of these drugs, or to a raft of new drugs which experts predict will inevitably come along.

Many parents are far more alarmed, some experts say, than they really need be.

REAL FACTS

But practically all agree that parents are not likely to get very far unless they know the real facts about different drugs. Only with knowledge can they give sound counsel.

Youngsters and students generally know a good deal more than parents about mind-influencing drugs. But they may also tend to believe what they choose on a controversial subject. And they usually learn about drugs from their own companions—not all of them well or fully informed.

Parents are wrong, for example, if they argue that marijuana is a "narcotic" or that it is physically addictive. The reasons why it is not, and why parents could honestly have been misled into thinking it is, are explained later.

The point that authorities make here is that parents get into trouble if they do insist marijuana is a narcotic, or if they lump all drugs together as being equally bad.

"Once the youngster can prove the parent is wrong about a big point, he very likely takes the position—'Now I can't believe anything you say at all,'" says one psychiatrist.

"Any drug education which is not scrupulously honest will fail with the kids," a psychologist adds. "Once you exaggerate, you lose them."

Animal's Birthday Is Remembered

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Four years ago, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ruff, now of Washington, D.C., gave to the Philadelphia Zoo a beady-eyed kuminsane — a small brown burrowing animal related to the mongoose — they named "Goosey." They had found her on a garbage dump in Liberia, West Africa.

The Ruffs remembered Goosey's fifth birthday recently by sending her a present — a wood rattle with a bell inside.

'Blacks Eager to Integrate'

DETROIT (UPI) — Racial attitudes in postwar Detroit find the majority of white people are hesitant over full-scale integration while most blacks are eager to integrate, an indepth social and psychological study has reported.

Only 26 per cent of the whites interviewed demonstrated integrationist attitudes compared to 89 per cent of the blacks who favored full integration, the study said.

Directed by Dr. Elliott Luby, associate director of the Lafayette Clinic in Detroit, the study found the greatest danger for racial explosion comes from a small minority of extremists on both sides.

"These are intensely angry and profoundly frightened men, both black and white, who will attempt to move us toward more violence and a paranoid restructuring of all race relations in the city," the study said.

TINY MINORITY

Some 16 per cent of the whites favored segregation as opposed to 2 per cent of the blacks, the study said.

Of the white segregationists, 67 per cent didn't finish high school while only 3 per cent of them had any college training. At the average of 55, they were 14 years older than the average liberal white's age 41.

The study pointed out that 11 times as many white integrationists had gone to college as segregationists. Seventy per cent of the liberals had finished high school.

Oldest Firm In Pontiac Celebrates 75th ANNIVERSARY

Inch Memorials, the oldest firm under continuous family operation in Pontiac, pauses in recognition of its 75th Anniversary.

Charles S. Inch, founder of Inch Memorials, Inc., came to the United States from Canada as a stone cutter. He established the first Inch Memorials in a building at the corner of Perry and East Lawrence Street in 1894.

This building was replaced with a new office and shop on the same site in 1907. In 1927 the business was moved to its present location at the corner of Perry Street and East Boulevard. This was adjacent to the then newly established Perry Mt. Park Cemetery.

Charles died in 1939 at which time his daughter, Marion Inch Burnes became president, an office she held until her death in 1957.

Lloyd W. Burnes, husband of Marion, who had been active in the business since 1919 then became president. Although he retired in 1961, Lloyd still retains an active interest in the company and serves in an advisory capacity.

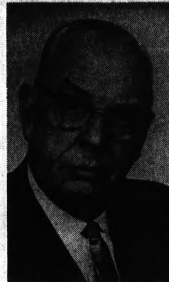

A third generation took over the family reins, Robert C. Burnes, grandson of the founder, is presently operating the business. The same standard of quality of materials and craftsmanship upon which Mr. Inch founded this firm has continued through three generations and 75 years of service to the fine families of the Pontiac area.

Foreign Visitors See Much to Interest Them in Pontiac

Oakland University's Continuum Center which devotes all its efforts to helping women find themselves is known in faraway places. A visitor last week was Sheila McMillan, senior lecturer in the Extension division of the University of Auckland, New Zealand.

It's not only American women who are wondering what to do with their lives. When the University of Auckland ran a course of lectures on the changing role of women, the response was so great that they had to be repeated to take care of all who were disappointed the first time.

The Society for Research on Women is a voluntary organization throughout New Zealand. Dues are minimal and the research is financed through subscriptions. Men may belong.

Currently, the society is engaged in interviewing 1500 women in the four largest cities. The aim of the questionnaire is to discover how New Zealand women feel about themselves as wives and mothers and how their education has fitted them for their lives. They are being asked what kind of facilities they'd like to have in their communities to help with the care of children.

"We did it on the cheap," said Miss McMillan. "On the cheap" means that volunteers are doing the interviewing. Some 100 were trained.

WINDOW ON LIFE
"Women are interested in how people feel; it is interesting to have a window on someone's life."
A future survey is planned on unmarried mothers who have kept their babies.

Miss McMillan is on a world tour. What she learns will help her plan more meaningful extension programs for women in her native land.

Conversation at dinner was lively. On my right sat our Egyptian guest, Ahmed Zayed who manages all the food industries in Egypt. On my left was a soft-spoken woman university lecturer from New Zealand.

I had planned as American a meal as possible—no, not hot dogs or hamburgers—meat loaf, lima beans, asparagus, fruit salad and gingerbread.

The asparagus was new to the Egyptian; the limas were foreign to the New Zealander. He drank tea; she had coffee.

Education was the main subject of conversation. In Egypt today, many women are attending school. There are community colleges in the cities where a woman may study any subject, says Mr. Zayed. Often mothers and daughters or servants and employers will study side by side.

Do girls have the opportunity to take any subject? Yes, but there is still resistance to hiring women engineers, even well-trained ones. What's new about that?

GOVERNMENT JOBS
Education is completely free in Egypt. Everyone who graduates from college goes directly into government work. There are not enough workers to fill all the necessary jobs.

American women who sew know Egyptian cotton well; it is a beautiful fabric. But if Mr. Zayed has his way, another Egyptian product will become equally well known.

One of the by-products of the immense sugar industry is alcohol. With this alcohol, they are making perfumes which they hope to export to this country. You may one day be wearing "Nefertiti" or "1000 Nights" as frequently as you do Chanel Number 5.

We got out the encyclopedia and looked up the countries of both our guests. They are, of course, very different in geography, in history and in living today.

Where we have a black and white race problem, the New Zealanders have a color problem.

THE PONTIAC PRESS, MONDAY, MARCH 10, 1969 B-1

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My son is a C.P.A. and he is going with a college girl. She makes all kinds of mean remarks about the way he looks (he is losing his hair) and the way he walks (he has flat feet). He, on the other hand, is always telling her she is built like a stick and has a big nose, which is also true.

Why, then, do they keep going with each other? If they should marry, what kind of marriage would this be? They have been going steady for six months. Do you call this love?

MOTHER OF A C.P.A.

DEAR MOTHER: Yes, it could be "love." Maybe not YOUR kind, (or mine) but if they're satisfied with each other, don't let it bother you. As for the 'kind of marriage' it would be: Realistic. And possibly a better marriage than one in which each is blind to the blunders of the other.

DEAR ABBY: I have been married for five years and have two wonderful children. My problem is a jealous husband. Before we were married, I had an affair with another man (we were engaged), and I was fool enough to confess it to my future husband. Now I realize it was a big mistake, although at the time, he said he wouldn't hold it against me. Now that we are married every time we have a quarrel he throws it in my face. He is so mean, he's even told his parents!

In addition to accusing me of having an affair with every man I meet, now he calls me filthy names and he's even accused me of having relations with my brothers and uncles!

I've suggested psychiatric help for him, but he says HE is all right, I'm the one who needs help. Divorce is out of the question as it's against our religion and he is a good father to our children.

I can't say I really "love" him, Abby, but I am trapped. I've always been a decent wife and haven't even looked at another man since my marriage, and don't intend to. What is your advice?

TRAPPED

DEAR TRAPPED: Your husband is sick. And any woman who subjects herself to the kind of abuse your husband dishes out is asking for a nervous breakdown. Talk to your clergyman, and perhaps together you can persuade your husband to accept some counseling.

Tell him if he doesn't try to help himself, you'll be forced to take the children and leave him because you've had about as much punishment as you can stand. I'll bet he listens!

DEAR ABBY: This is for "FURIOUS IN PRESCOTT," who suggested that instead of coffeeclatching with the neighbors all day, we housewives should do our grocery shopping in the early afternoon so as not to crowd the "working wives."

I haven't had a cup of coffee with my neighbors in years. They get all out chasing their "GOD"—the Almighty dollar. Sure, I market in the evening. That's when the paper comes and I can see what's on sale, and my husband can stay home with the younger children.

While I'm there, I look into your carts and see all the "Red-Reds" and "Jiffy-Fix" pre-frozen slop you feed your family. How long has it been since your husband had an honest-to-goodness home-cooked meal?

Yes, I'm that lazy, lowly housewife who taught your daughter how to knit in 4-H. I helped her earn her merit badges in Girl Scouts, too. And I had six of your boys in my Cub Scout den, and if I remember correctly you were too busy to even come to the Christmas play the kids put on for their parents.

I've driven your kids to baseball practice because "Mom's gone." And your kids always come to MY house because you didn't want your nice new home messed up.

So, why don't YOU do your shopping

on your day off and stay out of MY way?

Only Divorce Can Make One Single Again

By ELIZABETH L. POST

The following letter has been chosen as the prize-winning one for this week. A copy of Emily Post's Etiquette has been sent to the writer.

Dear Mrs. Post: In a recent discussion, I maintained that a legally separated woman (and man, too) is still legally married and could not date other men without risk to her good reputation.

I believe only a divorce makes one single again and, therefore, eligible to go out with the opposite sex. Would you please comment on the accepted social behavior of a legally separated person of any age? — Mrs. A.S.

Dear Mrs. S.: Of course it is true that only a divorce can make one "single" again. However, if one's religion, or other considerations, prevent him from getting more than a legal separation, he (or she) need not be doomed to a monastic life once he is living apart from his spouse.

As long as their behavior is respectable — adhering to the basic rules of propriety and decency — there is no reason in the world that husbands and wives who are legally separated should not enjoy the company of the opposite sex.

'Resist Early Marriage,' Career Gal's Advice

Hall of the American women who marry before their 20th birthdays are subsequently divorced, and as the age of to keep it a secret because of marriage goes up, the divorce rate goes down.

So assets, Rebecca Greer, some of us are successful, some of us are not. "Why Isn't A Nice Girl Like You Married?" "Why Isn't A Nice Girl Like You Married?" offers many practical tips for the single woman, including decorating hints, career information, and a discussion of "the mating game."

Miss Greer, "your single status is nothing to be ashamed of. Let the girls who marry at 18 or 20 defend their position—they're the ones who're missing out. You're not missing anything you can collect with interest after you've had all the fun of being single."

"The single woman," she argues, "has more time and money to spend on herself than any other member of our society." She can live in an elegant townhouse. She can spend her Christmas bonus on a fake fur or on a trip to Paris. She is completely free to indulge herself.

Miss Greer contends that the woman who resists the lure of Lohengrin long enough to explore the people, places, and philosophies of the world is laying the foundation for a happy marriage.

But don't all men worth marrying tie the knot before they're thirty? Not so, claims our author, citing the late John F. Kennedy who wed at 36.

And is it better to have children while you're young? Why? Asks Miss Greer. So you can feel resentment at spending your prettiest, most active years changing diapers?

Noting that the single girl's pet peeve is being asked why she has not yet landed a husband, the author compiled a list of time tested answers.

Wooden Baskets Have Many Uses

A basket, a basket, an old tired basket. If you're spring cleaning and have unearthed some old and odd baskets, don't throw them away. Restore them by first washing with a good cleaner solution.

Then rinse and air dry the baskets and they will be ready for flowers, fruit, bread or as collector's items. Paint the baskets if you like, but the scrubbed, unfinished look is popular, too.

When rubberized oversoles become dingy and gray, give them new life and make them look new again by applying a coat of liquid shoe polish, to their surface.

Is Their 'Trip' Really Necessary?

By BETTY CANARY

Most of us would hope to attain the acme of tolerance. That is, to be intolerant only of intolerance. Now I know I most certainly shall never achieve the heights. Because I have just been talking with a beautiful young girl who only two short years ago had everything going for her.

That was before she started smoking reefer (marijuana) and got hooked on hashish, during a trip to India. Now her only interest in life is drugs.

It brought out my intolerance for drug pushers and also for the so-called "open-minded" attitude toward drugs.

For those now prepared to tell me, "being high being drunk on alcohol," all I can say is, a fractured skull may be no worse than a broken back and which of these do you recommend?

GLOOMY VIEW

As for the conflict of opinion on the effects of marijuana, there has not been enough research done to prove one way or another whether it is a habituating substance (such as whisky and cigarettes) or an addicting one. Neither is there enough medical evidence to prove whether or not marijuana damages brain cells or leads to the use of harder drugs. Until there is, I take the gloomy view.

been slightly baffled about the various drugs, the following might help you sort them out. There are others, peyote, for one, but the following are those most often in the news. A medical symposium titled "Speed Kills" held at the University of California, for example, did not refer to automobile accidents. Speed is a stimulant that, according to the medical doctor with whom I talked, is easy to get and is available in not only trademarked versions but also in black market (usually impure) form.

Speed — Dexedrine and Methedrine — causes one to become irrational and violent and in large doses can produce psychosis. It is widely used.

It's a "cinch" to be stylishly small-waisted; all it takes is a little time and slightly more effort. Try doing the following exercises. Stand with feet slightly apart, knees bent a little, arms out like an airplane.

Kitchen Beetles Are Identified

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (AP) — Those little insects you occasionally find in the pantry are called saw-toothed grain beetles, according to the Rutgers University College of Agriculture and Environmental Science. The flat, brownish, slender pests are only about one-tenth of an inch long.

Areas inhabited by the beetles should be washed and cleaned, the college says. The household spray containing DDT is sometimes effective.

A Junior Editors Quiz About DONKEYS

QUESTION: What is the difference between a jackass, a donkey, a burro and a mule?

ANSWER: The spirited animals galloping at the top of our picture are wild asses of Asia. Roaming in rough, often mountainous country, the wild ass became very strong and sure footed, so that he could travel over mountain passes with ease.

It is believed that these animals were first domesticated in countries along the Mediterranean Sea. We know them now as donkeys. They have inherited the strength and sure-footedness of their ancestors. These qualities enable them to be extremely useful in packing heavy loads over rough terrain.

It is true that donkeys are slow and have a stubborn quality which makes people call them stupid or contrary. But perhaps this is because their wild ancestors knew how to take care of themselves.

A jackass is simply a male donkey. Donkeys bred for a smaller size, very useful as pack animals, are called burros.

When you breed a jackass with a female horse, you get that remarkable creature, a mule. Maybe he is stubborn as a mule, but old Mr. Long Ears is so strong that he has often been hitched up in teams to haul heavy loads.

(You may win $10 cash plus AP's handsome World Yearbook if your question, mailed on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of this newspaper, is selected for a prize.)

Mathematics

Explosion Is Reported

WASHINGTON—Mathematics has joined the trend toward "explosions" in everything from population to rubbish.

A recent report by a National Academy of Sciences committee speaks of an "explosive penetration of mathematical methods into other disciplines." What it amounts to, says the committee, is a virtual "mathematization of culture."

Scholars assert that discoveries in mathematics over the past 100 years are greater in quantity and quality than those in all previous history, the National Geographic Society says. Problems that would have stumped a 19th-century genius now are easily solved by college students.

In recent years, computers have revolutionized mathematics. They have made it possible to solve countless problems that previously would have been impractical to handle because of the stupendous number of calculations.

Before electronic computers appeared, a British meteorologist envisioned a "weather factory" with 64,000 human computers making the calculations necessary to forecast weather by mathematical formula.

Today, thanks in large part to the computer, mathematics has moved into a host of new disciplines, ranging from ecology to psychiatry.

Treatment Shrinks Piles, Relieves Pain In Most Cases
Sacramento, Cal. Mrs. C. Arnold of this city reports: "I can't contain myself any longer to write you about wonderful Preparation H for hemorrhoids. My husband has also been using same and it's doing wonders for him!"

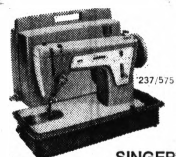

(Note: Doctors have proved in most cases—Preparation H® actually shrinks inflamed hemorrhoids. In case after case, the sufferer first notices prompt relief from pain, burning and itching. Then swelling is gently reduced. There's no other formula for the treatment of hemorrhoids like doctor-tested Preparation H. It also lubricates to make bowel movements more comfortable, soothes irritated tissues and helps prevent further infection. In ointment or suppository form.)
