FIVE DIE IN CRASH FIRE—Firemen fight a raging fire today caused when a fuel truck and two automobiles collided on the east side of Indianapolis, Ind. At least five were killed following the explosive collision when the fire broke out and engulfed six more vehicles. Two others were reported severely burned and were removed to hospitals. GI Will Receive Highest Award

WASHINGTON (AP)—Army Lt. Walter J. Marm Jr., whose family had wondered what kind of soldier he would make, receives the nation's highest award for heroism today.

Sixteen relatives and members of Marm's family were to be present today when Secretary of the Army Stanley R. Resor presents him the Medal of Honor for courage during the battle of Ia Drang in November 1965.

Marm, 25, of Washington, Pa., is credited with killing 18 North Vietnamese soldiers firing on his platoon at the foot of Chu Pong Mountain.

"To tell you the truth, I didn't know what kind of soldier Joey would be," Marm's father, Walter J. Marm Sr., said when President Johnson signed the citation last Nov. 16.

"He'd never been in a fight in his life," said the retired Pennsylvania state policeman. "I never knew him to be mad at anybody. I wanted to teach him how to box, but he just wasn't interested."

Marm, who has three sisters, attended Army Officers Candidate School after graduating in 1964 from Pittsburgh's Duquesne University School of Pharmacy.

Says Refusal to Back Barry No Obstacle

Governor Dodges Tax Questions, Mulls Trip to South Vietnam

WASHINGTON (AP) — Michigan's Gov. Romney said yesterday he is "beginning to wonder" whether President Johnson might decide not to seek reelection in 1968.

Also on a political note, he declared that his refusal to support the Republican presidential nominee in 1964 would present no serious obstacle to his nomination in 1968.

But as to whether he actually will seek the nomination, Romney said, "I don't know, I don't know."

The GOP front-runner in the 1968 speculation repeatedly dodged questions on the need for a tax increase. However, he said most experts on this subject feel "we should have had a tax increase a year ago. And that failure to deal with the fiscal and budgetary situation a year ago has been very costly."

On another subject, the Michigan governor said he may go to South Vietnam for a firsthand look at the situation for a full understanding of the war.

"I don't think there is any simple panacea to the conflict in South Vietnam," he said. "I don't know of any more complex type of military combat than we are engaged in . . . it is unbelievable, when you go there and see it.

Regarding the likelihood of Johnson running in 1968, Romney said ". . . circumstances might develop as a result of which he (Johnson) would decide not to run."

In response to other questions put to him at a Washington interview, Romney offered these views:

- He doesn't have "anything to repent of in 1964" when he refused to support Barry Goldwater for president.
- If he decides to run it will make no difference whether President Johnson or someone else is his potential opponent.

16,245 Autos Recalled by Pontiac Motor

Pontiac Motor Division today notified owners of 1967 model Tempest, LeMans and GTO automobiles produced before Oct. 18 at the divison's home assembly plant to return the vehicles to dealers for inspection for possible misaligned steering shafts. Including those still in dealer inventory, 16,245 cars will be checked.

★ ★ ★

Pontiac said a possible misalignment in some of these vehicles occurred on the assembly line. The assembly process was changed in mid-October.

Misalignment could cause a binding condition in steering, which, even though not noticeable, would subject the steering shaft to abnormal stresses and if continued for a long period of time could cause a failure.

If these stresses are severe enough, the steering shaft could break at low car mileage, particularly when the vehicle is being parked or being turned at slow speeds.

A Pontiac Motor Division statement said its continuing concern is to assure the integrity of its cars and the comfort and safety of all who use them and to pursue that responsibility both before and after a car is sold.

This is in keeping with the stated policy of General Motors.

Bob Hope Reports From Trip to Entertain GIs---His 25th

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the first in a 12-part series.)

By BOB HOPE

HONOLULU (Special)—Well, here I go again . . . the USO and I are celebrating our 25th anniversary. I've been with them almost as long as I have with Dolores, my better half. The only difference is that she never sends me overseas at Christmastime.

I almost didn't make it this year. On the way to the airport, we took a shortcut through the sunset strip and ran into a Honda stampede . . . the weirdies were doing their Christmas picketing early. I lost 10 minutes combing their hair out of my eyes.

The USO told me not to worry about going to Vietnam, as there is a cease-fire in effect this year. I didn't have the heart to tell them that I've been shot at in peacetime . . .

HOPE

When I first started this gig in 1941, our allies, Russia and China, were helping us fight Germany, Italy and Japan.

We seem to have chosen up new sides. If we can ever get this thing finished, we might have nothing but allies.

It's hard to believe I've been doing this sort of thing for 25 years . . . seems like I've been getting new shots before the old divots get a chance to heal.

This tour feels a little dif-

School Work at Stake in Romeo Vote

Voters in the Romeo School District are being asked today to approve a $560,000 bond issue to build additional classrooms.

If approved, the issue would increase the average home owner's tax bill by $7.95 a year, according to school officials, basing the figure on a $3,000 assessed home in Washington Township.

Sought are 13 additional classrooms, a library, art center and instructional materials center for the new Indian Hills Elementary School in Washington Township.

Romeo's student enrollment jumped from 2,909 students last year to 3,114 this year. A citizens' advisory committee currently is working on long-range needs for the district.

U. S. Bombers Hit Near Hanoi

Fuel Storage Depot Is Target for Attack

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — U. S. warplanes returned to the Hanoi area with clearing weather over the Red River Valley today and attacked the Ha Gia fuel storage area 14.5 miles north of the North Vietnamese capital, a U.S. spokesman reported.

It was the first air strike around Hanoi since heavy strikes in the area last Tuesday and Wednesday. The U.S. Command said foul weather had forced U.S. air raiders to concentrate on North Vietnam's southern panhandle.

★ ★ ★

In the south, the United States continued beefing up its troop strength with the arrival of a guerrilla-trained brigade of the 9th Infantry Division — the old outfit of Gen. William C. Westmoreland, U.S. commander in South Vietnam. He was on hand to greet them.

Ground fighting tapered off to small-scale skirmishes.

TARGET HIT

The new raids in the Hanoi area, a U.S. spokesman in Saigon said, initial pilot reports indicated all the ordnance from the U.S. planes hit in the target area.

The pilots reported sighting Communist MIG jets in the area of the fuel dump, but preliminary reports disclosed no exchange of fire.

The raids last week set off a series of Communist charges that homes were bombed in Hanoi, killing women and children.

Dem Governors Ask to Aid LBJ

Want to Help Johnson Make 1968 Decisions

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic governors want President Johnson to let them help make the decisions on how to run the 1968 presidential campaign.

This was the nearly unanimous verdict of about a score of state executives who heaped their political woes on the absent President's shoulders at the National Governors' Conference in White Sulphur Springs, W.Va., last week.

Privately, the governors complained to each other that politically Johnson is a one-man band who doesn't even invite them to sing in the background chorus.

There is likely to be some pointed conversation about reorganization of the Democratic National Committee at a projected post-Christmas meeting between the President and a delegation headed by Gov. Harold E. Hughes of Iowa.

Before the conference adjourned Saturday, some Democratic governors had softened their original blasts that the President was traveling the "Great Society" road too fast in a period when Vietnam war spending is skyrocketing.

Stocking Stuffers, Extras Important to Holiday Fun

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the seventh in a nine-part series on tips for Christmas gift buying.)

By JEANNE NELSON

Whether you call them stocking stuffers or just little extras, small gifts are important to the fun of Christmas. So let's get started.

For the children there are boxes of crayons and maybe a coloring book or two. The bundle would be under $1. A package of marbles would only cost 29 cents and a see-through bag of plastic soldiers 59 cents.

For 79 cents there are fashion doll outfits, and a pair of high heeled shoes for a little miss would be under $1. Knee socks of 100 per cent Orlon for toddler size up to high school can be found for $1 and under.

Bubble bath for boys and girls will cost only about 89 cents. For little girls there are matching necklace and ring sets under $1. The boys will have fun with a cap pistol about 59 cents. Get school children a number of supplies; pens, pencils, notebooks, paste, scissors, all for under $1.

★ ★ ★

Mom would appreciate the purse packet of extra hose. This runs about $1.37 a pack. And holiday paper napkins with matching coasters might please the hostess for about $1.50.

Snow Flurries, Cold Will Linger Awhile

Button up your overcoat and wear your boots tonight. Snow flurries will accompany colder temperatures, with the low to fall between 20 to 26.

Jesus Toiled Hard as Carpenter

(EDITOR'S NOTE — First article in five-part series.)

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

In a steady rhythm, the ax rose and fell, biting into the base of the tall sycamore. Every two strokes, one swinging sideways and the next slicing downward, sent a fat chip flying. He rarely missed.

It was an instinctive skill, born, shaped and seasoned into Him by upbringing and years of toil. He was a "naggar," as His native Aramaic termed it, a joiner, builder and worker of wood.

Breathing hard, Jesus stepped aside as the tree swayed with that slow, cracking groan, as if in a final desperate protest against the gash tearing at its heart, and then it fell with a roar and lay silent.

The sun rode low, past the eighth hour. He trimmed off the limbs and lifted one end of the log, levering it on His bare back until He got it balanced across His shoulders behind His head, and then He started home.

It was good timber, cut after the autumn's last growth when the sap was down.

A craftsman respected his materials. That was far more than the oppressors of Israel did for its people, even when they were pliantly submissive.

"If they do this when the wood is green," He would later observe, "what will happen when it is dry?"

When revolt did come, Caesar would crush it with massive destruction. Already many had died, and thousands of Jews, including children, had been shipped to Rome as slaves.

Tradition says that for about 20 years, from the time Jesus became a "son of the Torah" at 13, until He was 33, He had worked at His trade, handed down from the old woodworker, Joseph, who had died shortly after the young man's bar mitzvah, his coming of age.

He evidently had taken over support of the family, including His mother Mary, and it was hard but worthy labor.

They were of "low estate," as she once described it, poor but devoutly responsible.

Under pressures of making ends meet, He watched against waste. In later days, Scripture notes that He twice had His men gather up scraps of food "that nothing may be lost."

He was a saver, in the deepest sense.

He was familiar with patched clothes, pointing out that the patch ought to be shrunk like the garment or it would rip loose.

NECESSITY OF BORROWING

He also understood the necessity of having to borrow bread from a friend's house to feed an unexpected hungry guest, even though the hour was late and it troubled the friend to have to dress and come down to unbar the gate.

Nevertheless, "Ask, and it will be given you," Jesus advised. "Seek, and you will find; knock, and it will be opened unto you."

From the valley, sinking now in shadows, it was a long, hard climb up the mountainside to Nazareth.

He struggled along under the weight of the tree trunk, its bark digging pits across His sinewy back, gnats swarming about His face.

EMPLOYER'S DUTY

Sometimes, probably, he snaked the logs up the mountain by burro, or hired cutters for it.

In subsequent remarks, He showed keen familiarity with an employer's duty to laborers, and of the forethought essential to construction contracts.

"For which of you, desiring to build a tower, does not first sit down and count the cost. . . ?

"Otherwise, when he has laid the foundation and is unable to finish, all who see it begin to mock him, saying, 'This man began to build and was not able to finish.' "

He also maintained, in a parable regarded as depicting His own great-hearted ultimate role, that a householder had a right to pay his men more than they earned, to fill needs of the scantily employed as much as the full-time jobholders.

"Do you begrudge My generosity? . . . the last will be first, and the first last."

The woodworking shop in usual tools of that region and period — wedges, knives, awls, drillbits worked with a bow string, measuring rods, plummets, set-squares, bronze nails and the multipurposed adze.

* * *

Here the raw timber was split, planed into boards and made into tables, threshing floors and cabinets, or carved into wheels, yokes and ploughs—farm items for which Jesus was especially noted, according to ancient legend.

It was strenuous labor of the deft hand and accurate eye, of sweat, straining muscles and aching fatigue, of callused palms, throbbing bruises and the sweet sleep which only heavy exertions can bring.

Jesus turned out dependable workmanship; He was highly regarded, increasing in "favor with God and man," as Scripture puts it.

Such a reputation among fellow townsmen indicates he was a fair dealer, reliable in filling orders, considerate in His charges, prompt in paying for supplies.

On business in the marketplace, the identifying mark of His trade was a woodchip stuck behind an ear; dyers wore a colored cloth, weavers a large bone needle thrust in front of their tunics. Scribes carried a pen.

OTHER JOBS

Besides handcrafting items, woodworkers also built houses, erecting frames, securing limestone and basalt from quarriers for walls, laying rooftrees to hold up the reed wattling packed with clay to form flat rooftops.

Out of practiced experience, Jesus could speak later of the foolhardiness of building a house on sand, where it would collapse from flood and winds, instead of on rock, where it would withstand the elements.

Although generally esteemed, He had a singularly independent turn of mind, calling Him beyond His own clan livelihood.

It was a mission which He asserted He could not do "on My own authority," regardless of how wise or able.

". . . I seek not My own will, but the will of Him who sent me."

Distractions tugged at Him, coaxing Him to use His capacities for personal aggrandizement.

He was tempted, Scripture says, an affectionate, proficient, vital man, fond of children and home life, tempted to push his own interests, yet foregoing it to give Himself to others.

"This is My beloved Son in whom I am well pleased," came the divine confirmation to Jesus at the age of 33, to the carpenter who carried the heavy trees up the mountainside and who said, "My yoke is easy, and My burden is light."

DOMINANT CHORD

To ease that burden for others, at the anguished pith of existence, was the dominant chord within him; to bring rest to "all who labor and are heavy-laden" — even though it would mean shouldering a rougher tree—the cross.

Yet the woodworker always loved wood, the smell of it, the touch, the scaffolding it gave to the human habitat.

Heaven itself, as He once described it, was like a tree nourished in the good earth, like a tiny seed springing up until it became a great sheltering monarch, a homing place for all the creatures of the air — one that would never fall to a man's ax.

And at the last, the crack carpenter of Nazareth, the man of the hard arms, the quick hands and sure eye, said He still had a construction project to work on. "I go to prepare a place for you." It would be a "house of many rooms," firmly anchored, well-proportioned, built by a professional.

Accord Terms Remain Secret

City, Employe Groups Set Separate Sessions

Terms of the tentative wage-increase agreement reached between the City of Pontiac and three employe groups remained secret today as police, fire and public works personnel prepared for separate ratification meetings tonight.

* * *

The pay increase, which will reportedly eat up most of the city's existing $750,000 general fund surplus, also awaits approval of the City Commission.

The Commission is expected to give consideration to the measure at an informal meeting tonight.

The only official comment from state-appointed negotiator Harry N. Casselman is that the settlement "does not meet" all demands, but "deals fairly" with employes and Pontiac taxpayers.

* * *

Pontiac police, whose sick-call boycott Nov. 1-3 triggered the fact-finding hearing into the dispute, were reluctant to express immediate approval of an agreement.

WAIT FOR DETAILS

"It's nice to hear we've gotten together on this thing," one officer commented, "but nobody's going to be real satisfied until the details are announced."

Members of the Pontiac Police Officers Association (PPOA) are scheduled to hear the terms of the agreement at a 7 o'clock meeting tonight.

The PPOA's initial wage demand included a $1,276 annual increase and longevity benefits.

* * *

Association representatives reportedly turned down a $750 a year boost by the city during negotiations Thursday.

* * *

The salary figures will also be voted upon by members of the Pontiac Fire Fighters Association and public works employes in Local 100 of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes.

Death Claims Supervisor in Oakland Twp.

Francis J. Voll Sr., 68, an Oakland Township supervisor for the last 13 years, died yesterday morning at his home.

He had lived in Oakland Township the past 36 years at 4240 Collins and was owner of the Goodison Planing Mill there during World War II.

Service will be at 1 p.m. Wednesday at the William R. Potere Funeral Home, Rochester. Burial will be in Paint Creek Cemetery, Oakland Township.

A Rochester Lions Club memorial service will be at 8:30 tonight. Memorial service by Rochester Chapter 165, OES, and Rochester Lodge No. 5, F&AM, are scheduled for 8 and 8:30 p.m. Tuesday, respectively.

Mr. Voll, a member of the supervisors' powerful ways and means committee, was active in the Oakland Township Farm Bureau.

CLUB MEMBERSHIP

He was a past president of the Rochester Lions Club and a member of City of Straits Lodge 452 F&AM, Detroit.

Surviving are his wife, Caddie; two sons, Frank Voll Jr. and Graham Voll, both of Rochester; eight grandchildren; a brother; and a sister.

Fuel Truck, Cars Hit; 5 Die in Indianapolis

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — An explosive collision of a fuel truck and two automobiles, followed by a roaring fire that engulfed six vehicles, left at least five dead today on one of Indianapolis' busiest streets.

Police Inspector John Foran said he believed the five bodies were all that would be found in the twisted, charred wrecks. Two persons reportedly were severely burned and removed to hospitals.

The semitrailer truck jackknifed and two autos crashed into the truck which instantly exploded in a gush of flame, Ralph Smith, 19, an eyewitness, said.

The billowing fire engulfed the truck and five autos, burning so intensely that first fire companies at the scene were driven back and had to call for help.

Traffic was backed up for miles.

DANGER PERSISTS

Children from a nearby school, swarmed around the blazing wreck, worrying police almost as much as the danger of exploding fuel tanks on the passenger cars.

Danger in the area persisted after firemen brought the fire under control. Thousands and gallons of blazing fuel had poured into a storm sewer and smoke came from manhole covers almost a mile away.

Three of the dead apparently were a man, a woman and a young child in a station wagon.

One of the survivors was the tanker driver but he was reported near death at Marion County General Hospital with severe burns.

2 Yanks Admit Soviet Charge

LENINGRAD, U.S.S.R. (AP) — Two young Americans pleaded guilty at the start of their trial in a Leningrad court today to violating Soviet currency regulations.

* * *

Buel Ray Wortham of North Little Rock, Ark., also pleaded guilty to stealing an antique statue of a bear from a Leningrad hotel.

The currency charge against Wortham and Craddock M. Gilmour Jr. of Salt Lake City, Utah, carried a possible prison sentence of three to eight years. The maximum sentence on the theft charge is three years.

Wortham, 25, and Gilmour, 24, were arrested Oct. 1 as they were driving to Finland. Gilmour was released Dec. 1 on bail of more than $11,000 but bail was denied Wortham.

* * *

The trial is expected to last three days.

The indictment charged that Wortham illegally exchanged $35 and 35 Finnish marks for 75 rubles while Gilmour had Wortham change $30 for him for 45 rubles.

* * *

In effect this meant that the two paid about $75 for rubles worth $132 at the official rate.

Quarrel May Delay U. N. Adjournment

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — A new quarrel over U.N. peace-keeping operations threatened today to delay adjournment of the General Assembly's 22nd session.

The Soviet Union and France warned Saturday night that a new crisis might result if the assembly adopted a Canadian resolution setting guidelines for the special committee on peace-keeping operations. The two countries said the resolution was illegal.

* * *

A conciliation commission of 11 nonaligned countries sought to head off a showdown. One member said the commission wanted Canada to withdraw the resolution. Another said it was trying to work out amendments acceptable to all.

Soviet Interest in Trade Told

New Attempt to Ease U. S. Curbs Planned

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Johnson administration plans another attempt early next year to persuade Congress to ease restrictions on trade with the Soviet Union and Communist nations of Eastern Europe.

The Soviet government apparently favors removal of East-West trade barriers, according to four congressmen who conferred with Soviet trade officials.

* * *

"They indicated a very real interest in expanded trade with the United States," Rep. Thomas Ashley, D-Ohio, told a Moscow news conference Sunday.

He and Reps. Thomas M. Rees, D-Calif., James Harvey, R-Mich., and Chester L. Mize, R-Kan., reached Moscow after a two-week tour of Eastern Europe.

'ARTIFICIAL BARRIERS'

"The Soviet view as presented to us is that trade between this country and the United States could increase a great deal if it were not for artificial barriers put up by our side," Ashley said.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., told a New York City audience that he had information that the Soviet Union "is ready to do business with the United States in every area."

* * *

The administration asked the 89th Congress to lift present restrictions on East-West trade, but the legislation died in the House Ways and Means Committee. Present plans call for its reintroduction after the 90th Congress convenes Jan. 10.

The legislation would end existing tariff discrimination, which averages 50 per cent but reaches 400 per cent or more on some items, on imports from Communist countries except Poland and Yugoslavia.

Commissioners Asked to Weigh Parking Study

BIRMINGHAM — City commissioners tonight will be asked to consider a traffic study in connection with a possible parking structure in the area bounded by Bates, Martin, Henrietta and Townsend streets.

Proposed by Reid and Cool, traffic engineering consultants, the study would determine the maximum parking structure capacity which can be accommodated by the existing streets, traffic controls and street improvements required and the need for on-street storage space for cars entering the parking facility.

If approved, the study would require about 60 days and would be undertaken as soon as possible, according to the consultants.

The problem of traffic on Willits will also be taken under consideration by the commission.

* * *

Based on reports from the Engineering and Police Departments and the traffic consultant, City Manager R. S. Kenning will recommend that the commission take steps to temporarily close Willits between Baldwin and Greenwood to westbound traffic.

PLAN SUBMITTED

An evaluation of the plan would be submitted to the commission after a trial period.

* * *

A study of the traffic problem was undertaken after numerous residents complained of speeding, of traffic using Willits as a by-pass and of the traffic safety and noise of vehicles at the two right angle bends between Baldwin and Greenwood.

Johnson Calls In Experts for Budget Talks

Summoned to the President's home near Johnson City, 65 miles west of here, were Budget Director Charles L. Schultze, Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman and Director James E. Webb of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

For the current year, Johnson proposed budgets of nearly $7 billion for agriculture and $5.1 billion for NASA.

The budget the President now is working on, for presentation to Congress next month, covers the 12 months starting July 1.

FINAL DETAILS

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara will be at the ranch Tuesday, presumably to help nail down some of the final details of the new defense budget, expected to total nearly $70 billion.

★ ★ ★

The total budget will likely run around $135 billion.

The budget, however, is just one of two major documents Johnson is preparing for Congress. The other is his State of the Union message — a broad outline of his goals and plans for the country's future.

Johnson also faces in the next few weeks a decision on whether to increase taxes. Some economists believe a tax hike is needed now to bring federal income and spending into closer balance and to dampen inflationary pressures.

Others, however, feel an increase in taxes now, when some economic indicators are turning mushy, would only promote a recession.

Other problems facing the President include the future of his "Great Society" programs, including social welfare and other domestic efforts; the question of the military draft and future defense projects.

★ ★ ★

The President and Mrs. Johnson and daughter Lynda arrived at the ranch Friday.

Johnson and his wife attended Episcopal church services Sunday in Fredericksburg, 15 miles west of the ranch. Then they motored to a frontier museum in size of Texas.

Libya, situated on the north central coast of Africa, occupies an area of about 680,000 square miles. It is about 2½ times that old German community and went to see a house built in 1856.

No More Water

Well, Well!

By JEAN SAILE

As any unrestrained punster will tell you, "A well is a deep subject."

★ ★ ★

And at $5.50 a foot, which seems to be the going price, it's also pretty expensive.

City born and bred suburbanites, having gone "country," often have to face a critical water shortage — theirs.

It happens one morning. The "country" squire arises to a new day — stumbles into the bathroom — turns the tap, and — nothing!

★ ★ ★

MIND WORKS

He scratches his head, adjusts his robe (it suddenly feels chillier), twists expectantly at the tap again — and his mind begins to work.

He heads at a fast trot for the basement.

Checking to see if anyone turned the water off at that source, he goes over the pressure tank for B-B holes (not that he suspects any of the kids) — follows the pipe gropingly until it disappears through the wall and goes? — who knows where?

★ ★ ★

Dejection sets in, and even worse — a feeling of utter incompetence. The footsteps drag back up the stairs.

DIFFERENT IDEAS

Aftr some serious consultation with neighbors — each of whom has a different idea and a different well man — the still-completely-at-sea suburbanite heads for the telephone.

He dials and the well man's wife answers. No, he's out on the job. No, she doesn't know when he'll be back. Would he care to leave his number?

And so it goes — until long about 6:30 p.m. when well men apparently come home to roost, and the suburbanite suddenly finds himself swamped with telephone calls.

★ ★ ★

It's a good feeling though. About this time he thinks nobody cares.

BLAME DESCENDS

His wife, having had no water for dishes, laundry or face washing, has somehow transferred the blame for the whole debacle to his shoulders.

The kids are saying, "But Daddy, why can't we flush the toilet?"

It isn't until the next day that anyone comes up with the idea of hooking up a hose from the neighbor's system to his system—the only catch being it's best if the neighbor is informed.

★ ★ ★

In suburbia it is not considered cricket to hook up without the neighbor's knowledge. Once however this is accomplished the battle is half won.

ON THE SPONGE

It even occurs to the beleaguered squire, that were it not for having to thaw those 200 feet of hose each morning, it might be cheaper to continue operation on the sponge.

By this time, however, a well man (or several well men) have appeared, giving their considered opinions (each one different), and the home owner has made his choice — albeit on an honest-looking face rather than on any recommended procedure.

With that decision he's reached that crucial part of the game called "waiting for a rig" — the unwritten rule being that whoever can do the job is not available for a week.

★ ★ ★

So while the neighbor's water merrily trickles through his pipes, the home owner anxiously considered the weather each morning — noting whether it's too cold to drill today or not — calculating the number of good days needed by the digger to get the rig off its present job — and first thing you know he's an expert.

★ ★ ★

Of course, by then he doesn't need all this new-found knowledge. The new well hopefully insures against that.

What he's really looking for is an extra job to pay for the digging — or a small home in town on a paved street with water and sewer services provided.

PARTY HOST—Skiers at Troy's Somerset Park came in off the slopes Saturday night to stage a fund-raising champagne party to help finance their newly formed ski club. Waiting for guests to arrive are cohosts Mr. and Mrs. Philip Lockard (left), 1832 Coolidge, and Mr. and Mrs. Lee Goren, 2926 Somerset, both of the Somerset apartments.

Committee to Study High Cost of Water

WOLVERINE LAKE — Residents' complaints about their unusually high water bills have resulted in the formation of a committee to study water rates.

Water Commissioner Robert Parsons who appointed four men to the committee, said the group will begin its studies at a meeting slated for Dec. 28.

The Village Council has also appointed a three-man group to act in an advisory capacity to Parson's committee.

Named to the study committee were Anthony L. Grisdatti, 2662 Los Angelus; Lawrence Jenks, 2635 Los Angelus; Harold Estep, 2069 Helmsford; and Clyde W. Johanson, 2104 Glencove.

★ ★ ★

Members of the advisory committee are Johanson, Fred Stricker, 1845 Ladd and Ray Carr, 4417 S. Commerce.

COVER COSTS

Parsons said the study, which will take about a month, will cover income and costs of water and the question of adequate rates to substantiate the costs.

When the study is completed, the committee will make its recommendations to the advisory committee which will in turn present the results to the village council.

Residents of the Laguna Vista Subdivisions complained at a council meeting last month about their "unusually high" water bills.

★ ★ ★

One man said he had received a bill for $75 which covered a nine-month period.

VARIOUS RATES

Parsons, who was recently appointed to his position, said that on checking he had found two different types of meters in use, homes with no meters, homes paying a metered rate and homes paying a flat $8 a quarter year minimum.

Wider Use Planned for School Buildings

MILFORD — More extensive use of school buildings by community groups will be possible under a new policy adopted recently by the Huron Valley Board of Education.

In the past, outside groups have been charged a fee to cover the costs of extra custodial duty.

The philosophy behind the new policy is that the schools are considered community centers and should be available for use by organized groups of residents of the district whenever they are not in use for the educational program.

Under the policy such groups as PTA, school-affiliated organizations, local governmental divisions, boy and girl scouts and other civic, social and educational groups may use the school if no admission fee is charged, if the function takes place when custodians are on duty and if no extra custodial time is required.

Each group will be entitled to two free uses a year which involve extra cleanup or cafeteria costs.

★ ★ ★

Charges will be made for extra cleanup and cafeteria costs in some cases.

★ ★ ★

Religious groups, political parties, union groups and commercial concerns will be charged for the extra cleanup cost plus a fee schedule.

Lapeer Facility Asks for Help on Gifts

LAPEER—Lapeer State Home and Training School has asked for the public's help in meeting its Christmas gift list for "forgotten" patients.

★ ★ ★

Many items, such as small jars of instant coffee, combs, soap, shampoo, bath powder, washcloths, men's and women's cosmetics, billfolds, flashlights, crib toys and the like are needed to meet their needs.

★ ★ ★

The hospital reports 410 patients from Oakland County, 155 of whom are considered "forgotten" during the holiday season.

Frederick J. Campbell, the institution Community Relations Director, will accept offers of help from clubs and individuals.

Realtors Get 1st Woman President

ROCHESTER — Mrs. James Smalley, 896 Allston, Avon Township has been named the first woman president of the Rochester Board of Realtors.

★ ★ ★

She and her husband operate Smalley Real Estate at 2660 S. Rochester, Avon Township. They have just returned from a ten-day seminar in Acapulco, Mexico, where they met with other exchange realtors.

Mrs. Smalley is secretary-treasurer of the Rochester Business Women's Club, and a past secretary of the Rochester Board of Realtors.

She has been a member of the realtors' board of directors for several years and is a member of the Women's Council of the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

★ ★ ★

The Smalleys are members of St. Paul's Methodist Church.

OTHER OFFICERS

Other officers named to serve with Mrs. Smalley are Maurice Watson, vice president; Sam Sloan, secretary; and Dennis Carraher, treasurer.

★ ★ ★

Serving on the board of directors are Charles F. Sibert, Vada M. Nix, Neil B. Hartwig, immediate past president, Frank Shepherd, James S. Dunlop and Robert Hensley.

Troy Commission Race

Hopefuls in Fast Start

TROY — Political office seekers are off to an early start in their bid for two seats on the City Commission here.

Though the filing date for nominating petitions is still more than a month away, at least five such petitions have been taken out, according to Deputy Clerk Frances Teasdale.

One, that of Hilbert H. Hirschfield, 59, 2680 Bretby, a member of the Plan Commission, has been returned completed, she said.

The would-be contestants seek the seats currently filled by Clancy Fonseth and David Gratopp, who are winding up three-year terms on the commission.

If more than four nominating petitions are returned, the city can expect to hold a primary contest in February, according to Mrs. Teasdale.

Fonseth, 38, of 314 Lyons is seeking reelection. He has been active in the fight against public use of the Jim Robbins Co. airport there and has served on the city's traffic and safety committee.

John Kokalis, 31, 445 Colebrooke, was the first to seek petitions.

He has been active in neighborhood and citywide home owners associations, has served as a member of Troy's Building Authority and was chairman of a citizens' committee for the schools.

Alphonse Bajgier, 47, 110 Pargon, an unsuccessful candidate for the commission two years ago, has taken out petitions. He is a member of the Plan Commission.

Nominating petitions were also requested by Mrs. Emilie D. Socha, 302 Redwood, but she did not reveal who they were for.

Mrs. Socha was an outspoken critic of the city during public hearings recently regarding the Jim Robbins Co. airport.

Filing date for the petitions is Jan. 23.

Howell Man Dies in Auto

A Howell man, driving alone in his car, was dead early Sunday morning, having apparently failed to stop at the Van Dyke approach to the M53 Freeway, south of Romeo, according to police.

★ ★ ★

Maxwell J. Cameron, 58, was believed to have suffered a heart attack after his car hit the embankment opposite the stop sign, according to Romeo State Police.

Suit in Court on Imlay City 'Head Start'

LAPEER — A Circuit Court suit with potentially far-reaching implications was to be heard today by Circuit Judge James T. Churchill.

★ ★ ★

Involving the dropping of Imlay City's Head Start program by the board of education there, the suit seeks a Circuit Court rescinding of the decision.

The suit has been brought by the Imlay City Federation of Teachers and by Wilson Nickels, its president, as an individual citizen.

Bernard Fieger of Detroit, Michigan Federation of Teachers attorney, said he was basing the case on a clause in the teacher contracts which states, "The board will take advantage of federal funds available for special and remedial programs at all levels."

★ ★ ★

Nickels' suit contends that rights of the children in the district are being denied.

Auburn Jaycees Sponsor Contest

Auburn Heights Area Jaycees will offer a $25 savings bond to the home owner showing the most originality and simplicity in depicting the true spirit of Christmas in outdoor decorations.

★ ★ ★

A committee will tour the area bounded by Opdyke, Featherstone, Adams and South on Dec. 27 and 28 to judge displays.

Status of Legislative Service Bureau Chief in Doubt

LANSING (AP) — Elections generally provide the final answers to political questions. And sometimes elections raise questions, too.

One of the questions raised by the Nov. 8 Republican return to power in the Legislature is what's going to happen in the important Legislative Service Bureau.

★ ★ ★

The bureau drafts bills for lawmakers, does much of their legal research and provides counsel for their committees. It prints new bills, enrolled bills and laws, checks the rules and regulations of state agencies to see that they follow legislative intent, and publishes mountains of books, pamphlets and newsletters to help lawmakers along.

In theory, it does these and other things for legislators regardless of their party. In theory, the bureau is nonpartisan.

LONG-TIME NEWSMAN

Democrats controlled the Legislature in 1965 when Don Hoenshell, then a Detroit News capitol reporter and long-time newspaperman, was picked as director of the bureau.

Now that the Republicans are set to take over the Senate next month and have bounced back to a 55-55 tie in the House, there are rumors they plan to oust Hoenshell and replace him with their own man.

★ ★ ★

And this, Hoenshell feels, could destroy the concept of the bureau as a nonpartisan performer of technical and legal services.

"I'm not worried about myself," Hoenshell said recently. "I could go back to newspaper work—and have a lot more fun on some days. It's the concept I'm worried about.

POLITICAL ARM

"As soon as the bureau becomes a political arm of either party," he said, "then it ceases to be a bureau in the sense for which it was designed."

Hoenshell said when the Democrats first offered him the job, he went and talked to the Republicans, too. He asked them, he said, whether they would toss him out if they regained control of the Legislature. "They said no," he recalls.

★ ★ ★

On Hoenshell's wall are autographed pictures of past and present leaders of both major parties. On his desk is a sign that says, "Nonpartisan spoken here."

"Nobody alive can tell you whether I'm a Republican or a Democrat," he is fond of saying.

GOP SUSPICIONS

But at least some Republicans are suspicious that he may lean a bit the other way. Nobody wants to be quoted, but many GOP legislative leaders say they've heard complaints that the bureau relaxed the rules a little and printed some campaign material that made the Democrats look, they thought, a little too good.

"I can refute that," Hoenshell said. "All a Republican would have to do is look at the reproduction that we did."

★ ★ ★

Hoenshell's theory is that the service bureau should be outside politics, and he contends it has been in the two years he's been there.

Besides, he says, it takes a long time to train a lawyer or even a stenographer to do the work the bureau does. If the bureau jobs are regarded as political patronage jobs, he says, there will be "utter chaos" until the incoming party can train a new director and crew.

VALUABLE PROPERTY

"If you disrupt any of the bureau's sections for political purposes," he warns, "you would be destroying some very valuable property.

"Legislators would never know whether they're getting as much service as they need and deserve or not," he adds. "They'd never know whether the bureau was working too much for the Republicans or too much for the Democrats."

★ ★ ★

Nobody knows what's going to happen, not even Hoenshell. But he isn't what you'd call supremely confident of keeping his job.

"Save me a desk down in the pressroom," he joked to a reporter the other day. "I may be needing it next year."

$1,300 Stolen From Hospital

DETROIT (UPI) — Bandits entered Detroit's Harper Hospital yesterday and took $1,300 before escaping in a rusty old car.

Police said two men carried guns as they took a gray metal box and a green bag containing the loot.

They were identified as Negroes, with the man who carried the shotgun about 6-foot-5 while the others were much shorter, according to witnesses.

Police said they have no clues as to their identity, or why they robbed the hospital.

26 Arrested in Police Raid

MUSKEGON (UPI) — Muskegon Heights and other area police yesterday raided an alleged gambling and drinking establishment and arrested 26 persons.

Officers said a quantity of liquor, some "goof balls," a gun and gambling equipment were confiscated.

Frank Ferrell, 31, was charged as an operator and the others with frequenting an illegal gambling establishment. They were to appear in court today.

Tax Spot Check

BOSTON (AP) Massachusetts tax officials are spot-checking to make sure the three per cent sales tax is picked up by sellers of Christmas trees.

"YOUR HEALTH"
"NERVES"

"It's just my nerves. I've always been this way." So many patients offer this complaint to their doctors, and receive sedation and tranquilizers. Many resort to alcohol just to "relax." Take time right now to reach up and feel the muscles of your neck and shoulders. Chances are they are tight and painful to the touch. Remember, nerves go to every organ, muscle and gland in the body. Pressure on these nerves can cause a malfunction or short circuit to these parts. Chiropractic treatments can, in many cases, remove this pressure, relax the muscles, and place you back on the road to good health. Find out now if you are a Chiropractic case.

It Seems to Me . . .

Prime Study in Paradoxes Offered by United Nations

Just as I begin to lose faith in the United Nations, I'm invited down there for a current briefing with a hundred others across the Nation. They hold six or eight of these sessions every fall. Each time I come away refreshed, uplifted and once more enlisted in the ranks of the "believers."

★ ★ ★

The UN is so unwieldy.

And it's so bunglesome.

You cringe every time you recall that the smallest nation among the 122 members has one vote apiece. That's precisely what they allot the United States.

★ ★ ★

There are 77 nations there that definitely rank as "have-nots." Think of it — 77. These nations are asking — yes, begging — for assistance in every imaginable way. Nothing except the United Nations can drive these grim facts home so convincingly.

We just happen to be lucky enough to live in the greatest nation in the world. We have 40% of the world's gross national product. This always softens the knowledge that we pay 40% of the U. N. costs. The lesser developed countries are desperate for aid, for help, for assistance and even a kindly word.

★ ★ ★

The late JOHN F. KENNEDY once said:

"If we cannot help the many who are poor, we cannot save the few who are rich."

This is a challenging statement and deserves acceptance and recognition around the world—and especially in the United States.

★ ★ ★

Finally, you find yourself confronted by the ancient and unanswerable dictum:

"Can the Lord build a rock so big He can't move it Himself?"

Friends, that's about where the United Nations stands. In this facetious query you'll see some sort of parallel for the existence of the United Nations. Sometimes I think we can't do with it—and then more reasons pop up to prove we can't do without it.

★ ★ ★

Unhappily, in recognition of our assistance, no one ever falls on his knees with paeans of praise and thanksgiving. No, it's mainly a labor of love but it's something we can't justly push aside. But that's the way it is, and we must accept it accordingly and go forward from there.

Foreign Languages . . .

High school students are rapidly becoming aware of the way our globe is shrinking. They're taking foreign languages as they never have before.

Figures for 1964 disclose that nearly three million were studying foreign languages then and the number has probably passed that comfortably today.

This is wise.

It will pay dividends.

Once, South America and Europe were "far, far away." Today it's a question of a few hours. Business and social relations are increasing mightily and the trend will accelerate. More than 25% of our high school students are taking a foreign language. This is an increase of 100% over 1948.

Spanish and French head the list. They should. Our relations with South America increase amazingly. Probably Spanish should top the list. French is the dominant language in Europe, even though its importance has declined.

Personally, I believe a foreign language should be compulsory. Any high school graduate today should be able to speak, write, understand and read one outside language efficiently.

And in Conclusion . . . .

Jottings from the well-thumbed notebook of your peripatetic reporter:

Ducks cruise at 45 miles an hour but when they go past me in a a blind it's usually at 445. . . . . Overheard: "People will believe everything you tell them if you whisper it." . . . . . Mystery Zillionaire HOWARD HUGHES is out of that Boston clinic where he took a whole floor to insure privacy. He left for Las Vegas in three private railroad cars. He is truly the mystery man of all America — and some say the wealthiest. The story of the girl he married is a thriller in itself and I'd tell it if I had more space.

ELIZABETH

Trusted scouts advise me Elizabeth Sullivan rates as one of the attractive girls in the area. . . . . Crossing the Atlantic in a small sailboat without a motor is tried about 50 times a year. An average of about three fail. . . . . Rodale's Prevention magazine suggests drunk-o-meters be attached to all steering wheels and if you can't "blow clean" the ignition won't turn on. . . . . I found a 1955 calendar with the 12 months and to my amazement suddenly discovered the days of the weeks and the months were precisely the same as 1966.

★ ★ ★

The TV cameras are planning an all-out coverage of the wedding between JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER IV and Senator-elect CHUCK PERCY'S lovely SHARON. . . . . Right out of nowhere ROSIE CASALS suddenly ranks as the most brilliant future prospect in U.S. tennis. She's 18, but just had her first pro lesson. She's only five feet two and weighs 118 but she has scared the daylights out of our time-proven tournament stars. . . . . David Lawrence Says:

Public Must Face Facts on War

WASHINGTON—Realism is often defined as a facing up to the facts. And that's what the American people need to do in order to understand the Vietnam war and its possible consequences.

LAWRENCE

The first and most important fact is that, while the battle area itself is a small country, North Vietnam could not fight the war without the help of the Soviet Union and Red China. Yet nobody in the United Nations or our own government is laying out the facts to the world or urging that "sanctions" and trade embargoes be imposed so that the majority, instead of a minority, may rule in the entire Vietnam territory.

The latest analysis of the status of the war in Vietnam came a few days ago from Sen. John C. Stennis, Democrat, one of the most conscientious members of Congress. He is a judicial-minded man who weighs facts carefully.

Here are some of the things Sen. Stennis said to the Chamber of Commerce in his own state on Dec. 13 in a speech which didn't get nationwide reporting:

"This war has already cost us 6,000 American lives and billions of American dollars and the end is not yet in sight . . . .

"The Allied forces in South Vietnam — South Vietnamese, American, Korean and other friendly forces — now number about one million men. They are opposed by a combined Vietcong and North Vietnamese force of less than 300,000. However, this does not tell the entire story.

FACES DEFEAT

"The enemy refuses to recognize the fact that he faces defeat. We are faced with a tough, disciplined, well-trained and determined enemy who is still full of fight. He believes that time is on his side and that we will become discouraged and war weary and will pull out rather than continue to pay the high price.

"In short, there is every indication that the Communists have no intention of abandoning the fight or seeking peace through negotiations.

Sen. Stennis declared that it now has become necessary for the executive branch of our government to "formulate the long-range policy that is necessary to win this war" and to enunciate it so the American people and the world will be fully informed.

He added that the enemy "should also be clearly advised of our long-range policy and objectives and of the fact that we are determined to win."

Sen. Stennis believes that, "whatever the cost," the United States and its allies "must stay in Vietnam until peace is achieved."

Bob Considine Says:

War Offers Contrasts That Can Be Startling

ABOARD USS KITTY HAWK OFF VIETNAM — This carrier cost a few hundred million dollars. Its deck is so huge it could hold three football fields and still have room enough to accommodate a tennis court.

CONSIDINE

Monsoon weather pressed closely to the sternly defended targets of North Vietnam this night, so there would be no blazing launchings from this floating arsenal.

The ship was quiet, except for the 14 different movies being shown in 14 different sections.

The jets crowded here represent millions of dollars worth of electronic gear—incredible instrumentation designed to see, hear and think better than the ablest pilot aboard. Another has a camera that cost just under one million dollars.

★ ★ ★

I kept thinking of something I had read a couple of days before — translation of a diary found on a dead North Vietnamese soldier.

LEECHES EVERYWHERE

". . . Right from the first minute we set foot in this jungle and mountain area we encountered our worst enemy, the jungle leeches.

"Alas, they are everywhere and jump on the first man they see.

"In spite of our precautions to cover every part of the body they still succeed in attacking us. When I feel an itch on my foot, I pull my shoe off and see that my foot is covered with blood. Horrible.

". . . We take a bath in the Lam River and prepare to move to the unit tonight. Everyone is ready to carry two baskets on a pole. After a meal at 1500 hours each man receives a pressed rice ball for the night march."

The contrasts are startling in this war. On the Kitty Hawk, computers are employed to ferret out tiny flaws in the most sophisticated black boxes ever put in planes.

5,000 CALORIES A DAY

In one shop the men dress in white and sometimes wear gauze masks while working on incredibly sensitive gear calculated to find and kill furtive infiltrators like the diarists quoted above — and destroy his rice ball to boot.

Kitty Hawk pilots average 5,000 calories a day, but combat keeps most of them underweight.

". . . I have a terrible stomache all day today. As I rest in a civilian house I look at the mirror and, my God, I cannot recognize myself because I did not look that bad a month ago.

"Now my cheekbones are so prominent that I look like a walking skeleton. This evening I have a bowl of rice soup.

". . . I fall asleep and dream that I arrive at home, safe, and am greeted by Kan, my wife. I am so happy, but then there is a bump in the road and the dream is gone."

Questions LBJ's Cutback on Building, Highways

Why is President Johnson cutting building of homes to a standstill when a new generation really needs them and a way of achieving easy credit? Yet, this same government can build Ky of Vietnam a mansion costing nearly $500,000.

★ ★ ★

Why is it we're cutting our highway program when we need better highways more than ever before? This same government can build a superhighway across Thailand. Maybe "Freedom Highway" will be its name since they get it free.

Relates Family's Experience With Mail

Why do we have such poor service through the Pontiac Post Office? A letter from General Motors on Tuesday telling our son to report for an exam on Friday was delivered the following Tuesday. A business letter from Royal Oak was delivered one week late, to the wrong street and address. A letter placed in the Pontiac Post Office Sunday evening was delivered one week and two days later, along with a second letter mailed the following Sunday to see why the first was not answered.

These three letters caused a great business and financial loss to our family.

Discusses Oakland County Republicans

Thanks to reporter Jim Long for a fine, factual report on the 'power struggle' developing within our Oakland County Republican party. We sympathize with Senator Huber's idea that the current group does not properly reflect the county's true feelings.

★ ★ ★

Mr. Farnham spoke publicly on behalf of party unity and urged the differing philosophies to work together in compromise. In practice under his leadership, the sincere, hard-working though conservative group comprises some 30 to 45 per cent of the delegates restricted to less than 10 per cent voice among the elected committeemen.

★ ★ ★

If this is Mr. Farnham's concept of 'unity' and 'compromise' then we well accept the need for Senator Huber's efforts.

'Pray for Peace and Keep Women Home'

In regard to women being drafted, think of today's responsibilities of having children, doing the family chores, etc. And where would the single, working girls—full of powder, paint, wigs and false eyelashes—fit in Vietnam? If they had any intentions, there are always the Wacs, Wafs, Waves and Marines.

★ ★ ★

The woman's place is in the home, although if we were in Vietnam we wouldn't have to worry about cooking, washing, grocery bills, collecting trading stamps, etc.

★ ★ ★

Let's pray for peace and hope the time won't come when we have to send our girls off to war.

Question and Answer

If space capsules can have windows strong enough to stand all that pressure and heat, why can't submarines have windows, too?

F. P.

REPLY

The answer we received from Capt. John H. Dinnen, USN, Director of Internal Relations Division, is that windows can be put in submarines, and research vehicles such as "Trieste" do have windows which, in connection with special lighting features, serve a particular purpose. However, the effort and expense of placing windows in submarines are not considered worthwhile, because there is little or no visibility at lower depths. Windows serve no important function in the primary mission of the submarine, but instead would reduce the damage factor and integrity of the submarine's pressure hull.

Effective Force

The San Diego Union

A report by the Organization of American States that international communism has stepped up plans to overthrow independent governments underlines the need for firm and watchful resistance.

Much of the burden falls on the press of North and South America. Indeed, the news media may be facing its severest test in finding and presenting facts on which sound judgments can be based.

★ ★ ★

An effective organization for promoting the necessary communication and exchange of information is the Inter-American Press Association, composed of representatives from newspapers in the Western Hemisphere.

The IAPA has become an effective force for keeping truth alive. It has improved its effectiveness by granting scholarships to talented journalists in the Americas. Altogether, 116 students have benefitted from $276,000 in financial aid supplied by the group.

★ ★ ★

Reporting and interpreting substantive problems of the hemisphere is a difficult but not impossible task. In recent years the press has grown steadily more active, despite opposition in some instances from dictatorial and totalitarian regimes.

Today, with the atheistic Communists openly outlining their basic strategy for revolution, the role of the press in hemispheric relations is more exacting than ever. But the opportunities likewise are great. Public interest in Latin American affairs is growing.

Apathy and ignorance are among the greatest enemies of democracy. The press helps dispel both.

The IAPA serves this common cause of the Americas.

Seats for GIs

Buffalo Evening News

A correspondent wonders what can be done to relieve flight delays for servicemen homebound on leave.

This is a problem that is attracting national attention, and deservedly so especially in consideration of Vietnam-bound men whose waiting at airports for passenger seats — sometimes for many hours — cuts into precious leave time.

Commercial airlines generally offer half-fare rates on a standby basis for servicemen, with preference for them over college students and other youths.

Provision for regular confirmed reservations is made now in emergency leave cases, and the Defense Department, in discussions with the airlines, is considering proposals to establish priorities among servicemen using the standby half-fare option.

These apparently would not benefit men about to be shipped to Vietnam or other overseas areas.

With all due respect for the reservation headaches faced by the airlines and their efforts to give servicemen a special break, it shouldn't be too hard to devise a regular confirmed-reservation plan at these discount rates for men who must travel long distances to their homes before going off for a year or more in Vietnam.

A CHRISTMAS PLAYHOUSE —by Janet Henry and John Lane

U.N. in '66: Africa, Vietnam, Some Hope

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Problems of black Africa dominated this year's sessions of the General Assembly, now in its final hours, but the continuing war in Vietnam cast a pall over the session.

Apprehension over the future in Southeast Asia was offset somewhat by signs of a thaw in relations between the United States and the Soviet Union and by their attempts to reach a measure of agreement on disarmament.

The mounting clamor for world peace resulted in a ringing vote of confidence for U Thant and a move to broaden the role of the secretary general in dealing with the formidable obstacles blocking the path to international understanding.

As the session opened, the 38-nation African group cut in on the traditional policy debate to protest the World Court's refusal to rule on the merits of the South-West Africa case.

For four weeks, the assembly hall echoed with charges that the white supremacist government of South Africa had violated its mandate over South-West Africa by introducing race segregation there.

★ ★ ★

In an unprecedented act of reprisal, the Africans mustered enough votes in the assembly's Budgetary Committee to deny the World Court a supplementary appropriation of $72,500 to meet expenses of the South-West Africa case.

After bringing South Africa's policies under blistering attack in separate committee debates on trusteeship, racial discrimination and apartheid or race segregation, the group turned its attention to Portugal and Rhodesia.

RESOLUTION

The Africans put through a resolution posing the threat of British force against the rebel Rhodesian regime of Prime Minister Ian Smith. The proposal meant little, however, since Britain foreswore military measures.

The Africans then won assembly approval of a demand that Portugal's partners in the Atlantic alliance stop selling arms allegedly used to control Lisbon's African territories. Most of the NATO nations voted against it.

★ ★ ★

While the Africans dominated the debates, attention was diverted by an act of U.S.-Soviet cooperation that could have a far-reaching effect on the disarmament issue.

The two superpowers agreed on a treaty that would prevent military exploitation of the moon and other celestial bodies and would ban weapons of mass destruction from outer space.

HAILED BY LBJ

President Johnson described the treaty as "the most important arms-control development" since the 1963 pact limiting nuclear arms tests.

In the same spirit of cooperation, the United States and the Soviet Union teamed to cosponsor a resolution calling on all states to refrain from actions tending to spread nuclear weapons.

The draft brought both sides a step closer to agreement on the long-delayed treaty to prevent the spread of atomic weapons.

The strides being made by Red China in nuclear testing and perfecting a delivery system undoubtedly had shaken the Kremlin and impelled it to adopt a more flexible attitude on the proposed nonproliferation pact.

OLD PHRASES, REPLIES

During the session, Soviet-bloc speakers echoed the old cold-war phrases, and the United States answered in kind. But both sides appeared in some cases to be acting more from practice than from conviction.

'Newsy' Satellite Is Sought

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The American Newspaper Publishers Association (ANPA) has asked the Federal Communications Commission to permit transmission of news within the United States via satellites.

The ANPA said that if the request were approved, a private domestic satellite system for use by newspapers, wire services and other news media, could be operating within two years.

The association said the system would improve and extend the collection and dissemination of news.

The petition was filed on behalf of the major wire services and the association's 1,000 member daily newspapers.

The FCC is considering the extent to which communications satellites should be available to nongovernmental agencies.

NEW DIMENSION

The satellite proposal, ANPA said, brings the prospect of "a new dimension in communications technology . . . which will facilitate a wider dissemination of news and introduce new methods for improving and extending the collection and dissemination of news."

★ ★ ★

Among the improvements in news delivery mentioned by the ANPA were high capacity trunking between major geographic centers, an expanded network of receiving points and speedier use of more sophisticated transmission such as video, telephoto and facsimile.

2 Geologists Find Meteorite

By Science Service

SYDNEY, Australia — The biggest meteorite yet found in Australia, and the eleventh largest found in the world, has been discovered by accident near Forrest, about 1,000 miles east of Perth, Western Australia.

Its two sections, weighing about 6 and 12 tons, are about 200 yards apart. They fell on hard limestone and left no craters.

Two geologists stumbled on the meteorite, known as an octahedrite, while carrying out a survey.

Using small trees on Null-arbor Plain as bearings, they unsuspectingly chose the meteorite, which appeared as a black object on the horizon, as a marker.

★ ★ ★

On closer inspection, they realized it was a meteorite. The existence of the meteorite had been known for about three years and it had been sought in vain during the past two.

NICKEL-IRON

The meteorite is of nickel-iron alloy and contains about 12 per cent nickel. Its age is estimated at "probably thousands of years and possibly hundreds of thousands of years."

★ ★ ★

It carries the markings of its flight through the atmosphere and shows a pattern of melting that is unusual for a meteorite.

Jefferson Turkey Had Little 'Cents'

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

When Thomas Jefferson was in the White House, his Christmas turkey cost 75 cents. Ducks then sold for 30 cents each.

BOYLE

During his first year as president, Theodore Roosevelt didn't allow a Christmas tree in the White House. As a conservationist, he didn't approve of cutting down trees for mere decoration. Later, he accepted a Christmas tree that, it was carefully explained, had been chopped down to thin out a too-dense forest.

Are you suffering from the holiday blues. Your ailment is called cherophobia, which is "a morbid aversion to gaiety." On the other hand, if it is only the chill weather that has you downspirited, you are simply a victim of cheimaphobia, "fear of the cold."

Americans spent $125 million on guitars last year, five times as much as they did in 1955.

GOLDEN WEDDING

Young people getting married today may wonder what their chances are of celebrating a golden wedding anniversary. Well, the outlook is that one out of three couples will make it. But a generation ago, only one of five couples had so hopeful an outlook.

Are you getting a regular payment from your Uncle Samuel? Some 34 million Americans are.

SNUFF SAID

Does it surprise you to learn that 34 million pounds of snuff were sold in the United States last year? Snuff said on that subject.

It is hard to shock the average human being out of his appetites. In search of a new treatment for obesity, researchers tried electric shocks on a group of volunteers to set up an unpleasant association with food. It didn't work. None lost weight.

In remote parts of the South Pacific, it is reported that a wife can still be bought for the equivalent of $3 in cash. While this seems like a bargain, few of these wives have much of a trade-in value.

Photos Show Crushed Rock Coats Moon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Well, of course, there may be gold and diamonds on the moon.

Or deposits of valuable metals such as platinum, not to mention nickel, iron, copper, cobalt.

Or deep pockets of combustible gas (usable in space-going rockets).

Or subsurface layers of ice which could supply visitors from earth with drinking water and a source of oxygen and hydrogen.

All this is problematical. But one thing is certain.

★ ★ ★

The remarkable close-up photographs taken by Lunar Orbiter 2 in November prove beyond any doubt that the lunar surface is covered by enormous amounts of a material which human beings on earth have found to be immensely more useful than gold or diamonds or any other exotic minerals.

It is crushed rock — "the backbone," as one geologist has said, "of the construction industry."

In the course of its 4.5-billion-year lifetime, the moon has been bombarded many times by huge meteorites which smashed themselves and the moon's crustal rock into rubble.

This material, ejected from the lunar depths and piled high in crater walls and central peaks, has been sliding downhill ever since under the inexorable pull of gravity to form great terraces and rock "glaciers" ripe for exploitation by anybody that wants to go into the construction business on the moon.

It s more fun, of course, to imagine the moon as a treasure house of rarer stuff — metals and compounds which would be worth mining at great cost and bringing down to earth.

VOLCANIC LIFE

There has been speculation that if the moon has a volcanic life something like the earth's, valuable minerals may indeed have been spewed to the surface from the lunar interior.

The Lunar Orbiter pictures and other observations have established, geologsts say, that the moon does have a volcanic nature and is by no means the dead planet some scientists have depicted it as being.

This fact at least increases the possibility that something rich and rare and highly desirable is lying around waiting to be mined by lunar explorers of the future. But it doesn't prove it. Not all the costliest materials of earth are found around volcanoes.

★ ★ ★

In any case, Dr. Harold Mazursky of the U. S. Geological Survey at Menlo Park, Calif., who has been analyzing the Orbiter photographs for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA), is skeptical about what might be called the get-rich-quick motive for lunar research.

Nude Woman Is Found Slain

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) —The body of a nude woman was found in an orchard just north of Grand Rapids Sunday. State Police said she had been stabbed to death, apparently with an pick.

The woman was not immediately identified.

Santa and the Giant Fighter

By LUCRECE BEALE

(Synopsis — Billy makes friends with the dragon. He says if the dragon helps him to free the moon he can live in Santa Land forever. Together they stumble on the right words to open the moon box.)

CHAPTER THIRTEEN

Goko in a Rage

"It's the magic words!" shouted the dragon. "Your own name has opened the box!"

Billy watched joyfully as the box opened wide and the big yellow moon bulged into the cave.

"How will we get it out?" he wailed. "We are three miles beneath the ground and it would never fit into the Go-Bucket."

"We'll go the way the giant brought me down here," wheezed the dragon.

★ ★ ★

He was wheezing because the moon almost filled the cave and there was very little room to breathe.

WIDE STAIRCASE

He pointed to a wide staircase leading out of the cave. "Push it up there!" he gasped.

Billy clambered into a corner and pushed and shoved the moon through the opening to the stairs.

It was like trying to get a balloon through the eye of a needle. No matter how he pinched and twisted and tilted, edges of the moon kept bulging and swelling back into the cave.

★ ★ ★

Then the dragon put all his weight behind Billy and, wham! the moon plopped into the staircase.

SQUEEZED ONTO STEPS

Billy and the dragon squeezed onto the steps behind the moon.

The dragon stepped on a button and the staircase started moving. They shot up faster than the Go-Bucket had come down and before Billy could catch his breath they reached the surface.

The moon burst out of the hole and sailed off into the sky.

★ ★ ★

The dragon thumped his tail up and down. "Now do you think I can live in Santa Land?" he asked.

MUST GO ALONE

"I am sure of it," said Billy. "But you must make your way there alone for I am off to slay the wicked giant."

He put on the slippers the Harp Witch had given to Santa, waved goodbye to the happy dragon and strode away.

Meantime at the giant's castle all was pandemonium.

Goko had awakened just in time to see the moon setting beyond the sea.

CASTLE WAKENED

He howled the castle awake. He tramped through the halls bellowing and squalling and smashing furniture.

When the other giants heard him coming they hid under their beds. They locked themselves in closets. They climbed up the chimneys. They cowered under the piano.

★ ★ ★

It made no difference. Goko found them. He thrashed them with his club and bashed their heads together and threw them down the stairs.

They begged him to tell them what caused his displeasure.

IN DANGER

"Idiots! Bunglers!" he roared. "You have let the moon go free. Now my life is in danger for the Fairy Queen said I would be slain by the light of the moon."

"But, master," quavered a quivering mouse of a giant. "We can catch the moon when it sets again tomorrow!"

"And what of tonight?" screamed Goko. "The moon will shine the whole night long!"

★ ★ ★

"But, sire," sputtered a second trembling giant. "The Fairy Queen said a boy will slay you and there is no boy here!"

HUMAN BOY

"You are all boys!" shouted Goko. "You are pigeon-hearted, milk-livered pygmies, everyone!"

★ ★ ★

"Yes, your majesty," whimpered a twitching giant. "But the Queen said it would be a real live human boy and there's never been such a one in this land."

"True," snarled Goko, "and it will be your job to see there never is.

"Set guards at every door and window. You will get no food and no sleep until this day and night are over."

★ ★ ★

The giants nodded dumbly and stumbled away to guard the castle.

Tomorrow: Goko's boots

Burglar Literally Drops Into Store

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (AP) — A burglar literally dropped in on a robbery here. He rented an apartment above a grocery store, sawed a hole in the floor and dropped into the store.

He fled without a trace, leaving with some $2,000 from the store's safe.

Car Firms Ready Safety Rules Gripes

DETROIT (UPI) — Auto industry officials today prepared final drafts of their objections to technical details of 23 safety standards set by the National Traffic Safety Agency (NTSA) for 1968 cars.

Comments by industry leaders made it clear that the auto makers are seething with indignation at some of the standards which Henry Ford II, chairman of Ford Motor Co., labeled as "unreasonable, arbitrary, and technically not feasible."

The auto makers have until Jan. 3 to list their criticisms of the standards announced two weeks ago by William Haddon Jr., head of the NTSA.

The standards, with possible modifications based on industry criticism, are due to become final Jan. 31 and be compulsory for all 1968 models scheduled for introduction in Aug.-Sept. of 1967.

★ ★ ★

So far, Ford, American Motors, and Chrysler have voiced bitter denunciation of some of the technical requirements. General Motors has made no comment.

STRONG CRITICISM

None of the auto makers criticized the general objectives of the 23 standards. But they have strongly criticized the technical specifications set down for implementing them.

Ford, who voiced objections in the strongest language, even to the point of predicting a possible general shutdown of production lines if some of the standards were not changed, did not single out any particular standard.

But it was known that the auto companies considered some of the technical requirements as either impossible to meet in time for 1968 introductions, or impractical to implement.

★ ★ ★

Ford said that for some there was not even an engineering answer available.

American Motors Corp. vice president, Victor Raviolo, singled out several items. The windshield wiper standards, for example, require that the wipers be motor-driven and to operate at a "substantially constant speed."

★ ★ ★

AMC is the only American auto company still using a vacuum-driven wiper which wipes at a maximum of 90 times a minute, and a minimum 70 times a minute when the car is under acceleration.

★ ★ ★

Raviolo questioned whether the term "motor-driven" means AMC must change to electric motors or if not, whether a difference between 90 maximum and 70 minimum in the wiping times could qualify as "substantially constant speed."

Reward Offered

SAGINAW (AP)—A $1,000 reward has been offered for the arrest and conviction of the person who murdered Mrs. Ann McCrea, 75, of Saginaw last month. The reward was posted by Mrs. McCrea's family. She was found dead in her downtown home with 20 stab wounds in her body.

TEXAS COWBOY BOOTS

Parents May Get Strange Gifts

By BEA SWORDS

For weeks preceding Christmas, the kiddie cartoon shows have been invaded by people saying things like, "Ask your dad to get you this — bug him," and "All this dolly needs is you to love her."

Well, that's fine but has anyone considered the needs of parents?

What are the little people getting the big people for Christmas this year?

I spent some time at two area nursery schools discussing this problem with the small fry themselves.

At Bethany Baptist Church I arrived at cookie and juice time and presented my case.

★ ★ ★

"What are you planning to buy your mommy or daddy for Christmas," I asked one little boy. He looked at me as if I had lost touch. I discovered the error.

★ ★ ★

Pre-schoolers don't operate in a monetary society.

"What would you get your mother or dad if you could get them whatever you wanted?" That got results.

★ ★ ★

A small round-eyed Lisa said, "An angel, my mother says she would like one."

DOWN TO EARTH

Louis told her, "A red fire engine is better." "Couldn't it be green?" I asked. He frowned, "They're only red. If they are not they're not real."

Little boys, I found out are very shrewd thinkers. The majority cast their vote for trains and racing cars (real). I finally asked if perhaps the trains and cars were for them. They decided to take the fifth amendment on that.

Finally, one small Michael said, "Oh, no — no my mother would LIKE a race car."

Another said, "If I got my mother a real boat, she should let me ride in it sometimes though." It was a good point. I went to the next group.

"What would you get your mommy," I asked a little boy with cookie crumbs. "A fish," he said.

"A — A fish isn't good for mothers," his neighbor David offered. "A turtle," the crumbed one said desperately.

★ ★ ★

His friend apparently had the inside word on turtles too; he shook his head sagely, "Turtles neither, turtles die if you bring them inside."

The cookie muncher would not be put down, "Leave it outside," he cried.

I left them at this point.

At Maceday Cooperative Nursery School I arrived again in time for juice and cookies. I was given a tiny chair and a little girl next to me said, "I love you."

They listened gravely as I finished my talk.

TYPICAL FEMALE

"I would get my mommy a blue hat," Sandy said promptly. The girls were decidedly practical. They almost all agreed on clothing or purses or shoes.

Dawn decided her mother would like eye glasses, "Because she doesn't have any." I asked, "Does she wear them?" She gave a withering look.

★ ★ ★

A boy named John who spilled his grape juice disclosed that his dad was getting a jet.

One little boy saw me taking notes and decided that I was a representative of the man himself.

"I want — My name is Paul and I want a cash register and creepy crawlers and —."

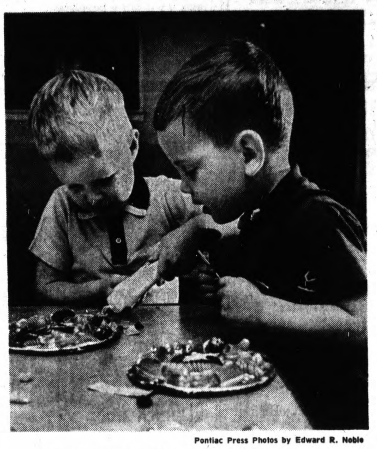
I had to interrupt him and explain the deal. "Oh," he said, "well, I would get my father some shoes — brown ones."

Our time was up; the class was over. They had all made macaroni wreaths for their parents. Some of the macaroni had fallen off.

Two little boys were treating the group to a round of shell macaroni as they struggled into their coats and hats.

★ ★ ★

Parents get accumulations of cherished macaroni wreaths, paper stars and papier-mache cows, but it would have been a real train or a turtle or a kitten — everybody knows.



Pontiac Press Photos by Edward R. Noble

Joey Akers and Joey Buck are deep in concentration as they glue macaroni on their Christmas wreaths. The boys are students at the Maceday Cooperative Nursery School at the Lakeland Presbyterian Church. Their parents are Mr. and Mrs. Charles Akers and the William Bucks, all of Breaker Street.

WOMEN'S SECTION

Brian Boadway smiles good naturedly as Kathi Rulkowski and Quaintance Miller examine his spray paint job on a macaroni wreath. The wreaths, gifts for the children's parents, are a project in their nursery class. Lucky parents are the William Boadways of Bridge Lake Road, the Frank Rulkowskis of Breaker Street and the Angus Millers of Whitfield Court.

To Boast About Cost Is Rude

By ELIZABETH L. POST of the Emily Post Institute

"A while ago the newspapers were filled with stories of Truman Capote's black-and-white ball.

To boast about the cost of one's clothes, the amount one pays for a party and the company one keeps, is exhibiting as poor taste as anything I can imagine. To say nothing of people offering the host hundreds of dollars in exchange for an invitation!

I have no objections at all to big elaborate parties, nor to publicity about them when they are given to benefit a charity or cause.

But to see our so-called "society" and "best people" make spectacles of themselves by openly reveling in the enormous prices they paid for their costumes, etc., is an affront to the less fortunate people all over the world — and an unforgivable breach of etiquette.

FORMAL PARTY

Dear Mrs. Post: How far ahead should a boy ask a girl to a formal banquet? Also, does he ask her what color dress she is going to wear so he can buy a corsage, or does he ask another girl to find out? Bob

Dear Bob: The girl will want to have time to plan her outfit for a formal party, so he should ask her at least 10 days ahead. She'll be delighted to tell him the color of her dress rather than relaying the message through another girl, so, by all means, ask.

REPEATING MISTAKE

Dear Mrs. Post: A friend told me recently that, if you are with someone who mispronounces a word and you use the same word while still talking to him, you should pronounce it in the same incorrect way to avoid seeming critical.

I can't believe that this is correct. Would you settle the argument, please? Barbara

Dear Barbara: You would just be compounding his error by mispronouncing the word. There is a chance that if you say it properly, he will catch it and say it correctly the next time.

New Styles Are Shelved With Canned Asparagus

NEW YORK (AP)—The Christmas canning season is here—full of canned dresses, canned nails, canned mini-panties, canned ties, canned air.

Yes, even canned air.

"We're canning just about everything that will fit," said Wilmer Wise, vice president of Franklin Simon, a New York department store.

KIDS RELATE

"Young people raised sitting on the back of a basket being pushed through a supermarket relate to things that are canned," Wise said.

"There is something ingenious and kooky about the appeal of a dress in a can," said Ben Wechsler, assistant to the president of Wippette Sportswear, Inc., which introduced Le Canned Dress in November.

"It's been a complete sellout in Canada, and we've sold 100,000 in six weeks. They're in London and Paris, too."

★ ★ ★

Wippette's president, Erwin Silver, says he picked up the idea more than a year ago when he saw stores selling canned air as a novelty and canned candles.

This fall he began canning his wrinkleproof nylon dresses to sell for $25. Matching stitch-brimmed hats cost another $7 and can be dropped into the same one-pound tin. New Models are on their way for spring.

You don't even need a can opener to get at the dresses—the lids pry off.

Fifth Avenue Cards, Inc., a card shop chain, has been selling canned greeting cards for about a year—empty cans with birthday tidings or whatever on the label at $1 apiece.

"Most of the things that come canned are teen-aged items — young, fun, giddy kinds of things," Wise said.

"What doesn't come in a can, we'll can right there," he added, pointing to a canning machine on the fourth floor. "We've canned marble eggs, scarves, handbags, jewelry, feather dusters, games—anything that will fit. "One day a woman called and said she heard we had a canning machine. She wanted to know if we would can her preserves. We didn't do it, but it ought to give someone an idea. Someone can open a shop saying 'We'll do your canning for you'."

If you do want to set up your own shop, Sears Roebuck & Co. has a tin can sealer for $16.99. A box of 100 No. 2 cans is $9.99, and No. 3's are $14.99.

She Is a 'Taker'

Gift Donation Criticized

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Now that Christmas is nearly here, I want to air something that has irritated me for a long time.

ABBY

It's people who don't send Christmas gifts anymore. Instead they send you a tacky card informing you that "a gift in your name" has been sent to THEIR favorite charity. That way they don't have to bother shopping for Christmas gifts, and all their "gifts" are listed as a deductible expense on their tax return. Pretty cute, if you ask me.

"WISE" IN NEW HAVEN

DEAR WISE: Sorry, but I disagree. I think one of the more civilized practices of recent years is to donating to charity instead o fsending extravagant gifts to people who already have more than they need.

Knowing that a contribution to a worthy cause had been made in my name would be "gift" enough for me.

He who takes but never gives may last for years, but never lives.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: Seven years ago I did a terrible thing. I had an affair with a man. His wife sued him for divorce, but they went back together again, thank God.

My wonderful husband forgave me, and we moved out of town. I have found God now and am leading a good life.

I am a teacher's aid at school. When school started last fall I found out that the wife of the man I had the affair with is our student counselor. She can ruin my whole life by telling the other teachers about my past.

Should we move again? The dear Lord knows I have suffered enough for my sins. I am getting very nervous over this. Please answer soon.

DESPERATE

DEAR DESPERATE: Hands off the panic button. Stay where you are for the present. In all probability she will not disclose your past because of her husband's role in it. Forget it and continue to lead the good life.

Miss Moon, Lee Carrick Take Vows

MRS. LEE CARRICK JR.

Katherine Moon, daughter of the James S. Moons of Bloomfield Hills and Lee Carrick Jr., son of Dr. and Mrs. Lee Carrick of Grosse Pointe were wed Saturday in St. James Episcopal Church, Birmingham.

The newlywed Mr. and Mrs. Lee Carrick Jr. (Katherine Moon) will make their home in Grosse Pointe after a honeymoon in the Virgin Islands.

★ ★ ★

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. James S. Moon of Bloomfield Hills and Dr. and Mrs. Lee Carrick of Grosse Pointe.

★ ★ ★

For the four o'clock ceremony, the bride chose street-length white silk worsted, styled with long sleeves and worn with a shoulder-length lace mantilla. She held a spray of white camellias.

Mrs. Richard G. Tate Jr. of Metamora attended her sister and Aldo Giglio of Detroit was best man.

How Long Should One Keep Receipts?

By MARY FEELEY
Consultant in Money Management

Dear Mary Feeley: Please tell me how long it's necessary to keep the following papers: Bank statements; real estate tax receipts; mortgage payment receipts on a house; canceled checks; cash receipts; income tax returns.

Mrs. P.L.R., Harvard, Ill.

Dear Mrs. R: There's no one hard - and - fast rule that applies to all the types of papers you mention. It's often necessary to use your own good judgment about the value of specific papers and to play it safe if in doubt.

MARY FEELEY

Taking the papers as you list them: You may want to keep bank statements that have been checked with your own checkbook balance for a year or possibly two. If you ever need to obtain an old bank statement, your bank can provide a facsimile for you.

In many states you cannot contest a bank statement if you do not do so within two years.

Keep your real estate tax receipts indefinitely — also your mortgage payments on the house. Anybody who owns real estate should have this year-after-year record of payments. There's always the possibility that somebody will fail to record a payment or lose such a record. The possibilites for litigation where property is concerned are endless. No use taking risk.

Canceled checks and cash receipts for utilities and other goods and services where monthly statements show proof of payment can be discarded yearly if not needed for income tax purposes. Canceled checks and receipts supporting income tax deductions—contributions, medical expenses, interest on mortgage, city, county and state tax — should be kept with each year's income tax returns.

Other checks and receipts where there is a question in your mind about the creditor's reliability, should be kept indefinitely.

As for income tax returns, the Internal Revenue Service points out that the statute of limitations is normally three years from the due date of the return. However, if for any reason the Tax Commissioner believes there was an omission in a return of up to 25 per cent of the gross income reported, he can ask for all your records even if the return is six years old.

If it appears to him that there has been an out-and-out intent to defraud the Government he can open or re-open the case at any time. So these returns should be kept for at least six years. No matter how honest you are, it's nice to have the answer at hand to prove it.

In addition to the papers you list, there are other important ones that should be kept: employment records, educational records, loan papers, guarantees on appliances and equipment, Social Security numbers, location of burial lots, insurance policies, armed forces service records, birth certificates, automobile title, investment certificates, signed wills, marriage records.

While it may sound as if you have to be a librarian in order to keep track, only two things are necessary to make this caretaker job simple:

Set up a simple filing system at home — just a few large properly labeled filing envelopes from the stationery store, and a desk drawer or box to put them in. Second, a safe deposit box at your bank.

The "keep forever" papers, such as property records, birth certificates, marriage records, etc., should go into this bank box. The papers and receipts which you might need to refer to from time to time you can keep at home.

Of course, if you can keep these home files in a metal box, so much the better, in case of fire.

Showers Are on Calendar for Susan

A recent linen shower and luncheon in the Bloomfield Open Hunt honored Susan Mary Foley, daughter of the Paul Foleys of New York City and Birmingham.

Hostesses were Mrs. Fred V. Davis and Mrs. Robert Lambert.

Miss Foley will marry Henry Thomas McElvery Jr., son of the senior McElverys of Old Greenwich, Conn., Dec. 30, in the Holy Name Church, Birmingham.

* * *

A shower in the home of Mrs. Stanley Swatland in Stamford, Conn. also honored the bride-elect, and Mrs. Milton Stuecheli of Birmingham had a recent linen shower and luncheon.

* * *

Campus friends of Miss Foley at Marquette University mailed shower gifts to her future home which will be in Wallingford, Conn.

* * *

Water Totally

A potted plant needs watering when the top soil is dry to the touch, and then it needs watering thoroughly. In this manner the entire root system is saturated.

The "little and often" method is not good enough, as the upper portion often receives too much water and the lower too little.

Unhappy Homes Can Stunt Child Growth

BALTIMORE, Md. — An unhappy home life can not only twist a child's mind, but it can also drastically stunt his physical growth. This astonishing observation was made recently by Dr. Gerald Powell, pediatrician affiliated with Johns Hopkins Medical Center.

According to Dr. Powell, 12 strikingly undersized children who were studied over a two-year period grew at a phenomenal rate when they were removed from their families by being admitted to the hospital.

* * *

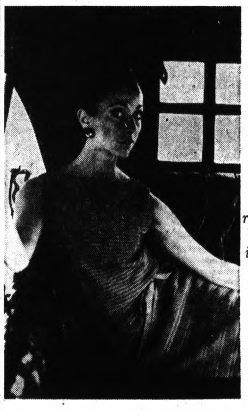
One 11-year-old boy who was the size of a child half his age when he entered the hospital began to grow at the rate of 1.2 inches a month during his hospital stay. Another youngster grew 17.4 inches in less than four years.

The growth of all these hospitalized children averaged three times the normal growth rate without any special medication.

* * *

Sometimes these children are mistakenly diagnosed as having a pituitary problem, the pituitary gland being the growth regulating organ of the body, the doctor said. However, all these youngsters showed signs not typical of glandular disorder: They all had markedly protuberant abdomens; 11 of the 12 had retarded speech; all had low IQ's and nearly all had a history of frequent temper tantrums. In addition, all came from families where marital strife, promiscuity, alcoholism, divorce were common.

The growth failure occurred despite the fact that the children on the whole, ate adequately. The stunting apparently occurred because of a starved psyche rather than starved or diseased bodies.



Pleated perfection comes from Koret of California by way of this Tricotta dress of Arnel® triacetate. Intricate ribbon pleating is worked into a smaller size for the long waisted bodice. It can be worn with or without the self belt.

Quick Clean-Up

To make quick work of picking up all those small toys and blocks of your children's, do it with a dust pan and broom. Carry them to the toy box on the dust pan. After the youngsters see you do it a time or so, they will be doing it themselves.

Chiefs still preside in 35 district councils in Gambia in West Africa.

MRS. L. R. KILBY

Marjorie Lynn Helfrich and Leonard Raymond Kilby of Cleveland Heights, Ohio were wed Saturday in the Orchard Lake Community Church Presbyterian. Their parents are Mrs. Wayne T. Helfrich, Point Street, the late Mr. Helfrich and the Vern L. Kilbys, Grosse Pointe Woods.

Mexican Honeymoon for L. R. Kilbys

After a trip to Mexico City and Puerta Vallerta, Leonard Raymond Kilby will return to Cleveland Heights, Ohio, with his bride, the former Marjorie Lynne Helfrich.

A reception in the Twin Beach Country Club followed their marriage, Saturday, in the Orchard Lake Community Church Presbyterian.

Parents of the couple are Mrs. Wayne T. Helfrich of Point Street, Commerce Township, the late Mr. Helfrich, and the Vern Kilbys of Grosse Pointe Woods.

Pearl and rrystal applique accented the bride's Empire gown and train of ivory Dulcette satin worn with floor-length veil of illusion.

Her bouquet of ivory roses and holly sprigs was caught with burgundy velvet ribbon.

Margaret Kilby was honor attendant with bridesmaids Betsy Roth of Beaverton; Mrs. Donald Kleindl and Mrs. Thomas Helfrich.

With best man, Richard Bernhard of Detroit, were the ushers David Slinger, Harper Woods; Thomas Mayle, Plymouth, and Robert Leidtke, Detroit.

The newlyweds are alumni of Alma College. He is a graduate student at Western Reserve University.

Sparkling Clean Easy to Achieve

Salt and pepper shakers and pepper mills can be made sparkling clean. Empty the contents, using a pipe cleaner to loosen any seasoning which may clog the sifter holes.

Soak the shakers in warm water and soap for a few minutes. Rinse, wipe and stand upside down on paper toweling for awhile, then refill with salt and pepper.

Why Grow Old?

By Josephine Lowman

One thing which worries women about reducing, beside skipping all those lovely rich items, is the fact that they often lose where they least want to.

For instance, many women wish to lose inches from their waist, hips and abdomen, but do not want to lose any in their bustline. This problem can be controlled to a certain extent.

★ ★ ★

When we lose weight, we lose all over, in the face, bust, abdomen, and so forth. However, exercises to increase your bust measurement, and those which will speed the loss of inches in your waist, abdomen and hips, help a lot. These should be done regularly every day all during your reducing period.

Isometric exercises are particularly valuable at this time for certain measurements because they build contour so rapidly. So, if you are going to lose weight but cannot afford to lose in your bustline, compensate with a few isometric exercises to increase your bust measurement.

This is a good one. If you have a smooth doorjamb, stand sideways in the door and place one hand on each side the jamb, fingertips a little higher than your eyebrows. Try to push your hands together, elbows straight. At the time of maximum effort hold the tension for six seconds. Then relax.

Do the same thing when your hands are at chest level and then again when they are below waist level.

Do not begin counting until tension is at its height. Remember also to use the professional photographer's count of a thousand and one to equal one second.

If you would like to have my "Isometric Exercises for Women" send 20 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for them. I selected these especially for women because they are corrective to the most usual feminine figure defects. Address to Josephine Lowman in care of The Pontiac Press.

Repeat Vows in Franklin on Saturday

The Martin Steve Suchiks (Linda June Jacobson) left for a honeymoon in Quebec after their marriage Saturday in the Franklin Community Church and a reception in Greenfield's of Birmingham.

Their parents are the Ernest O. Jacobsons, Walnut Lake Road, West Bloomfield Township, Mrs. Martin Suchik of Redford Township and the late Mr. Suchik.

KABUKI SLEEVES

Re - embroidered Alencon lace over English net fashioned the Kabuki sleeves and front panel of the bride's Empire gown of candlelight peau de soie with chapel train.

A petal headpiece held her veil of imported illusion and her bouquet held Eucharis lilies and holly.

★ ★ ★

Carolyn Suchik was maid of honor with bridesmaids Dennis Anne Robertson, Jean Jacobsen and Wendy Smith. Marcia Reimer was flower girl and Tommy Zielinski, ring-bearer.

With best man, Michael Moore, were the ushers Jerry Marszalek, Ross Robinson and Randy Jacobson.

★ ★ ★

The couple will reside in Des Moines, Iowa, where he is a senior at Drake University.

Pulls With Ease

When drawing threads for hemstitching or drawn work on closely woven materials, try rubbing white soap on the material in line with the threads to be pulled.

This makes the threads pull much easier, and prevents the continual breaking of them.

This happy giraffe Walker Chair from Playskool is a "ride 'em" toy for a young miss just beginning to walk. When she holds on to the back of the chair and pushes the giraffe, she gains confidence and coordination in learning to walk. Constructed of sturdy wood with blow-molded wheels and a nylon bridle, the chair also finds use as a TV viewing seat for preschoolers. All colors are non-toxic.

Polly's Pointers

Novel Gift Wrap

DEAR POLLY—To gift wrap large packages, such as suit boxes, luggage, etc., I buy gay red or green percale print to use as wrapping instead of fancy paper. Sometimes I use a plastic tablecloth.

These can always be put to other use later, and there is very little difference in price between inexpensive fabric and good gift wrapping paper in that size and quantity. Juvenile patterns make nice wrappings for bulky gifts for children.—MARIE

GIRLS — Have you ever wrapped children's gifts in comic sheets from the newspaper? Tie them with rope and tassels made from left-over knitting yarn.—POLLY

DEAR POLLY — How does one get out the fold line in knit or any prematress fabrics that are bought by the yard? I have steamed the fold line and pressed, dampened and pressed, and it is still there. Wouldn't it be wonderful if such fabrics came on large rolls instead of being folded on bolts?—AGNES

★ ★ ★

DEAR POLLY — When doing my Christmas shopping I always buy at least one extra gift box of ladies' handkerchiefs and one of men's, as well as a pair of conservative cuff links and a bottle of cologne.

I wrap these, put on tags minus name and have them ready for those unexpectedly needed gifts that might place one in an embarrassing position if not prepared.—VERONICA

DEAR POLLY—Costume jewelry makes a glittering addition to a table decoration or small tree. I arrange a few pieces of holly and two red candles in a dish, then clip earrings onto the holly leaves or branches for a very decorative effect.—A. T.

DEAR POLLY — When replacing some damaged vinyl tiles I was at a loss as to what to use to weight them down until the mastic had set. I hit on the idea of using a plastic scrub bucket full of water which applied uniform pressure that practically covered the nine-inch tiles. — MRS. M. K. W.

DEAR POLLY — When carrying a picnic lunch while traveling in a station wagon, take along some small folding chairs. It is not always possible to find a picnic table at the right time, so let down the car's tail gate to serve as your table and have the chairs to sit on.—MRS. C. M.

Interviewer Talks, She Hears News

NEW YORK (AP—The World Journal Tribune called Mrs. Gerard Nugent, mother-in-law of Luci Johnson Nugent, to confirm reports that the newlyweds are expecting a "blessed event."

The conversation went like this:

Reporter: "Mrs. Nugent, a New York Newspaper has reported that your daughter-in-law is expecting a baby next July."

Mrs. Nugent: "Why, that's wonderful news."

Reporter: "You hadn't heard before?"

Mrs. Nugent: "Why no, I hadn't."

Reporter: "When was the last time you talked to your son?"

Mrs. Nugent: "Sometime last week."

Reporter: "He didn't mention anything?"

Mrs. Nugent: "Nothing about Luci. I heard one of the beagles had pups."

Reporter: "Do you plan to call your son tonight?"

Mrs. Nugent: "No, I don't."

Reporter: "Don't you want to ask him?"

Mrs. Nugent? "No. You told me."

Reporter: "Mrs. Nugent, you sound like a lady who has had a lot of experience talking to the press."

Mrs. Nugent: "Only for the past year."

The reporter confirmed one fact anyhow — one of the beagles has pups.

No Deaths Reported

NEW YORK — Birth control pills, like all medicines, should be kept out of the reach of children, but none of the nation's 364 poison control centers has recorded a single serious illness or death among youngsters who have eaten their mother's oral contraceptives.

In reporting the absence of deaths or serious illnesses from birth control pills, experts at the National Clearing House for Poison Control in Washington accented the need to protect youngsters from medicines prescribed for adults. While the birth control pills have not added to the problem of fatal poisoning, a common medication like aspirin still takes a heavy toll of lives every year among children four years old and younger.

LARGEST SAMPLE

Dr. Alan F. Guttmacher, president of Planned Parenthood, told Women's Medical News Service: "Although we have the largest caseload in the United States of women on 'the pill' — and have gotten reports from time to time of small children taking the medication — we haven't had a single report of serious illness or death resulting."

JFK Book Settlement Sought

NEW YORK (AP) — Spokesmen for two publishers involved in the dispute with the Kennedy family over publication of the book, "The Death of a President," disclosed today that efforts are being made to settle the matter out of court.

The disclosure followed a statement by William Manchester, author of the book, denying that he had broken faith with Mrs. John F. Kennedy or that he had taken advantage of her confidence in him.

The book is about the assassination of President Kennedy.

"There are continuing efforts to patch things up," said a spokesman for Harper & Row, Publishers Inc., which plans to bring out the 300,000-word hardcover book in April.

* * *

"Every effort will be made to work things out," the spokesman said. "There are always the author's rights and her rights."

PERSONAL MATTERS

Asked if the aim might be to reach some understanding on the separation of deeply personal matter, which Mrs. Kennedy seeks to keep out of the book, from what is considered history, the spokesman replied: "I think that is pretty accurate."

A spokesman for Look magazine, which plans a four-part, 80,000-word serialization of the book starting with the Jan. 10 issue, said:

"Discussions between the lawyers representing the two sides in the dispute are continuing. They are not necessarily meetings per se. There's a telephone, you know."

* * *

The New York Times reported that in Washington, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., brother of the late president, charged that Manchester "now intends to go ahead in violation of the word of his agreement, the spirit of his arrangements and despite the pain he knows it will give Mrs. Kennedy."

NO COMMENT

Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., could not be immediately reached for comment on Manchester's first public statement in the dispute since Mrs. Kennedy filed a petition in Manhattan Supreme Court last Friday to block publication. He was at the Sun Valley, Idaho, ski resort for a Christmas vacation.

In his statement, issued through Look magazine yesterday, Manchester said:

"It has been said that my work is being published prematurely and that magazine serialization was not contemplated by the Kennedy family. This is not so. In the summer of 1966, authorization was given by the family for publication of the book in early 1967, to be preceded by serialization in Look magazine.

* * *

"It has been said that I have broken faith with Mrs. Kennedy; that I took advantage of her confidence in me and that I recorded too faithfully her words and emotions. I do not believe this to be so.

COOPERATION

"Mrs. Kennedy gave me 10 hours of interviews; I did not, indeed could not, have conducted these interviews without her voluntary cooperation. Mrs. Kennedy herself did not ask to see the manuscript and still has not. If she had, I would, of course, have given it to her."

Drinking Tied to Heredity

By Science Service

WASHINGTON—Drinking can run in the family.

According to a Finnish study, whether you drink, how much and how often is partly determined by heredity.

And if alcoholism is defined in terms of how much and how often, then a genetic element in alcoholism "seems highly plausible."

The study, at the Finnish Foundation for Alcoholic Studies, was based on 902 male twins born between the years 1920 and 1929 and a complex interweaving of their drinking habits, personalities, intelligence and arrest rates.

The researcher found no strong evidence of inheritance of a drinking personality. The frequency of indulgence seems to be independently inherited.

HIGHLY AFFECTED

The amount one drinks on a single occasion is also highly affected by heredity and, in fact, is the drinking characteristic most independent of the influences of environment.

A genetic drinker might drink in a "dry" house, as a genetic abstainer might abstain in a "wet" one.

Junior Editors Quiz on DRY ICE

QUESTION: Why is dry ice different from ordinary ice?

ANSWER: In our picture, a friendly worker at an ice plant has unwrapped a piece of dry ice and placed it alongside an ordinary piece. "Ordinary ice," he is saying, "is water in its solid state. When warmed, ice turns into water, and when this is heated enough, it turns into the gaseous state of steam. Molecules of water are also continually escaping into the air by evaporation.

But dry ice is a different thing. Instead of being a combination of hydrogen and oxygen, such as water, dry ice is carbon dioxide in its solid state. It is so cold that if you tried to suck some, it could kill you.

When warmed, dry ice does not change into a liquid, like ordinary ice, but turns directly into a gas. This means it is fine to use when shipping perishable foods; it keeps them cool without melting and without damaging wrappers.

It is made by compressing and cooling carbon dioxide gas into a liquid; when some of this evaporates, we have a kind of snow. When this is compressed by machinery, the result is dry ice in solid form.

Dry ice is often used for shipping frozen fish, since it doesn't thaw on the long journeys frequent in the industry."

★ ★ ★

FOR YOU TO DO: The gas carbon dioxide is formed by burning materials containing carbon. Find out more about carbon, a vital and basic element.

Portugal's Colonies Face Unending Strife in Africa

LONDON (UPI) — Peace may come briefly to Vietnam this Christmas, but for the men involved in the world's most secret war there will be fighting as usual.

In the steaming jungle outposts of Mozambique, on Africa's east coast, and Angola and Portuguese Guinea on the west coast, Portuguese troops will fight through Christmas and into another dreary year.

There is no end in sight to their guerrilla warfare against African nationalist "freedom fighters" trying to wrest Portugal's African provinces from colonial rule.

The new year sees the war on the Angolan front grind into its sixth year, its third in Mozambique and its fourth in Portuguese Guinea.

★ ★ ★

It is an unpublicized struggle. For six years Portugal has managed to keep the lid firmly on news reports by barring newsmen from the war zones.

OBITUARY NOTICES

The only news seeps out through the obituary notices published in the Portuguese press of the men who have died in far-away Africa; the wildly extravagant claims from the "freedom fighters" headquarters in independent African nations bordering the Portuguese overseas provinces; and the official Portuguese government statements denying those claims.

The stakes are immense.

The three colonial provinces have a land area of nearly one million square miles and a population of more than 12 million, of whom just over 500,000 are whites.

★ ★ ★

The provinces are more than 20 times the size of Portugal itself and almost one-third the size of the United States.

RAW MATERIALS

They are a rich source of raw material for Portugal, an impoverished land tucked away on the Iberian peninsula at the wrong end of a booming Europe.

While Britain and France have bowed to the "African winds of change" and granted independence to their former colonies, Portugal has stood firm.

The Portuguese claim their African lands are part of Portugal itself. They are provinces, not colonies. The natives are black Portuguese first and Africans second.

The official policy aims at a multiracial society where whites and blacks will work side by side and advance and develop together.

It's Roundup Time in Zone D

AP THANH LAM, South Vietnam (AP) — The paratroopers of the 173rd Airborne Brigade won't forget the big rodeo in War Zone D.

A battalion of the brigade's 503rd Infantry, moving through rain forests 50 miles northeast of Saigon, happened onto a well-hidden Vietcong camp at the edge of the Cay Gao rubber plantation.

Their normal search and clear routine was interrupted by mooing in the jungle. They found six critters tied to a shed just as Vietcong shooting broke out.

As soon as the firefight broke off and the enemy fled into the jungles, it was decided that the animals — used for hauling carts of weapons and supplies in the VC camp — should be rounded up and taken by helicopter to a friendly village of Chinese Nungs.

FIESTA

The big fiesta of the bulls was on.

It took a whole platoon from Charlie Company half a day to head off the critters at the pass and drive them to the landing zone. In the absence of bull whips, trail ponies and similar horse-opera gear, the paratroopers used web belts, rattan branches and ropes to make the dogies git along.

★ ★ ★

Weapons platoon drew the assignment of wrestling the bulls to the ground and tying them into cargo nets so they could be sling-loaded beneath the helicopters.

Those bulls were full of fight. The troopers tried to trip them, knock them down with football blocks, jump on their heads, pull their tails — anything to get them into the cargo slings.

TOSSED FOR LOSS

Spec. 4 James Blue of Dallas, who had done some rodeo riding down in Texas, got a hammerlock on one and wrestled it to earth. When Spec. 4 Dave Atkins of Houston attempted to saddle-bust one of the varmints by sitting between the horns, he was tossed for a 30-yard loss, and the runaway broke for freedom through the defense perimeter.

One paratrooper, a tenderfoot from the East, barely missed being gored. Another took a bad cut over the eye. Several were almost caught in the middle of a stampede.

Spec. 4 Ronnie Stute of Overton, Nev., and a couple of other sort of seven-blocks-of-granite formation in which paratroopers fell en masse on the angry bulls as soon as they could be brought down.

★ ★ ★

"If it wasn't for those Indians and Texans," conceded one novice rodeo performer, Spec. 4 Eddy Baggs of Jacksonville, Fla., "we never would have got those bulls out."

BRANDED

By nightfall, the remaining five bulls were throughly cowed and branded with the sword and wings emblem of the 173rd Airborne, conspicuously taped to the rear of each trussed animal.

The 335th Helicopter Company, appropriately nicknamed "the cowboys," fluttered in to airlift the moaning, groaning cargo off to waiting villagers of Bai Ham.

The Nungs immediately proclaimed a peace fiesta and demonstrated their enthusiasm by butchering two of the critters.

While the barbecue pit was being stoked in the village square, the other bulls were led off to become beasts of burden by the industrious Chinese refugees from North Vietnam.

The wranglers of the 173rd faded into the sunset without tasting rice wine or getting to kiss the pretty village schoolmarm. The war in the jungles called them back.

★ ★ ★

Lt. Larry J. Smith of Virginia Beach, Va., leader of the rodeo-qualified weapons platoon, summed up the paratroopers' moment of truth: "You expect to take a certain amount of bull in the Army, but this is a bit on the much side."

Slight Variation

KINSLEY, Kan. (AP) — The Kansas highway mileage marker at Kinsley lists the distance to Offerle at seven miles. The marker at Offerle lists the distance to Kinsley as eight miles.

How Do You Maintain Faith of a Ghetto Child?

By WHITNEY M. YOUNG JR.
Executive Director
National Urban League

Many, many years ago a little girl wrote a newspaper editor asking if there really was a Santa Claus. His reply, "Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus," has been invoked by writers ever since at this time of year.

YOUNG

It touches a chord in America which is really universal — the concern about maintaining faith and idealism in the face of reality and the harsh facts of life.

I thought back to that editor's reaffirmation of the preservation of childhood myths and dreams in the face of worldly intrusions and wondered how I might answer Virginia.

There are millions of little girls living in the black ghettos of our nation; millions of little girls desperately wanting to believe that the world is good and that they can hope for a better future.

★ ★ ★

What, I wondered, can I say to these children still in the time of youth when dreams and reality intermingle, and the hell of the slums gives way to the world of the imagination.

DESPITE UGLINESS

What can I tell them? How can I let them know that they must nurture faith and hope and beauty, despite the ugliness of their surroundings and the ugliness in the hearts of so many people waiting to grind them down and steal the sweet innocence of childhood's dreams?

What is there to say to a child whose Christmas night is spent not in anticipation of the morning's gifts, but in fear of the rats rummaging near her bed?

What can you tell a child whose Christmas dinner isn't the holiday feast of so many American Christmas dinners, but the meager leftovers of yesterday's meal, or meat bought with government food stamps or donated by a charity?

★ ★ ★

What can you tell this child, when the empty chair at the table symbolizes an absent father, or a father whose Christmas is spent in the death-filled jungles of Vietnam?

SHARP CUTBACKS

How can you explain to a child the meaning of sharp cutbacks in antipoverty funds or a congressional refusal to pass a civil rights bill?

Can you explain to her why she wears old clothing while other kids are dressed in their new holiday clothes?

How do you tell her she should wear her color with pride? How do you convince her that she has dignity and potential and should strive for a better life?

★ ★ ★

A letter to this Virginia is not so easy. And yet it is necessary. For these millions of children must look to a brighter future, one in which they can develop as individuals, one in which they can nurture a spirit of achievement and accomplishment.

Lynda May Visit Acapulco

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Lynda Bird Johnson is considering a pre-Christmas visit to the Mexican resort city of Acapulco, it was learned today.

★ ★ ★

The 22-year-old daughter of the President and Mrs. Johnson, if she decides to make the trip, would spend a couple of days in Acapulco later this week.

Lynda spent a brief holiday in Acapulco a year ago with her frequent escort, actor George Hamilton.

Top Scientist in Britain Is Going to U.S.

LONDON (AP) — A top British medical scientist said today he is leaving Britain to do cancer research in the United States because he will have more opportunity there.

He is Dr. Frank Kingsley Sanders, 49, director of the British Medical Research Council's virus laboratories at Carshalton, near London.

★ ★ ★

He said he is leaving next September to work in a laboratory built for him at the Sloan-Kettering Research Institute in New York.

"My motive for leaving is simply opportunity," said Sanders. "Money by itself should not be the main motive for any scientist to go anywhere. The important thing is that I will be able to have young graduates working with me in America."

STAFF OF 30

He has a staff of about 30 at Carshalton. He hopes to have two or three times that number in New York. His salary also will be more than doubled, rising from $12,600 to $27,000.

Fires in N. Y. Take 6 Lives

NEW YORK (AP) — Two women and four children died Sunday in two fires in Brooklyn and Queens.

Patricia Bataskoff, mother of three of the children, was honeymooning with her new husband at a Manhattan hotel.

★ ★ ★

Her children were Richard Della Salla, 4, his brother, John, 2, and sister, Barbara, 1. Also killed in the Bayside, Queens, fire was Mrs. Bataskoff's mother, Natalie Maeder, who was baby-sitting with the children.

Another Queens fire claimed the lives of Marjorie Jamieson, 36, and her daughter, Dianne, 7. Her husband was at work.

Ailment Fatal to No. 2 Man in Mississippi

LAUREL, Miss. (AP) — Carroll Gartin, lieutenant governor of Mississippi, died this morning after being admitted to a hospital with a heart ailment.

Gartin, 53, was taken to Jones County Community Hospital at 10 p.m. Sunday. He died at 3 a.m. today.

A candidate in the 1967 governor's race, Gartin was serving has third term as lieutenant governor. He had held the office since 1952.

He lost a bid for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination to Ross Barnett in 1959.

Gartin was chairman of the Mississippi Democratic Convention in 1956 and again in 1964.

Born in Meridian Sept. 4, 1913, he attended the University of Mississippi and Jackson School of Law.

18 Killed, 10 Hurt as Airliner Crashes in Colombia

AP Wirephoto

INSPECT WRECKAGE—Police and airport officials inspect the wreckage of a leased Colombian airliner that crashed yesterday while trying to land in a heavy fog in Bogota, Colombia. The plane, inbound from Miami, Fla., carried 54 passengers and a crew of six. Aerocondor Air Lines said the plane was leased as a replacement aircraft in Miami. It went down short of the runway.

By DANIEL HARKER

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — As "people started to scream and call for their children," a Colombian airliner crashed short of the runway while landing at Bogota in heavy fog Sunday, killing 18 persons and injuring 10.

Aerocondor Air Lines said the crash took the lives of nine Americans from Florida, five Colombians living in the United States and four other Colombians.

The airline said in Miami, Fla., where the flight began, that the Super-Constellation carried 54 passengers and 6 crew.

One survivor, Kay Tuttle, 23, of Crestline, Ohio, said passengers were told as they neared Eldorado Airport that the plane would land despite thickening fog.

She said the plane struck what she believed was dirt and swayed wildly from side to side.

"People started to scream and call for their children and the plane went into total darkness," Miss Tuttle said. The aircraft "seemed to break in two and many people were able to escape. I jumped out through an emergency exit."

She broke a leg.

"If the plane had caught fire we all would have been killed," she said.

The plane had been leased from Passaat Ltd. of Miami, which also supplied some of the crew. Airport officials said the aircraft hit before reaching the runway while making an approach. The injured were taken to Bogota's military hospital.

Aerocondor said the dead included James Powell of North Miami; his Colombian wife, Maria, and their son, Richard. Their daughter, Ana, survived.

The airline said other Americans killed were the pilot, Capt. Bob Taylor of Coral Gables; the copilot, T.H. Guthrie of Miami; the flight engineer, J. E. Engle of Miami; Juanita M. Bridge and William D. Bridge of Fern Park, Flora Biller of North Miami, and Kathryan Lee Keeler of Fort Lauderdale.

The airline's general manager, Capt. Gustavo Lopez, also was killed.

Bonn Chief Foresees a 'U.S. of Europe'

NEW YORK (UPI) — West Germany's new chancellor, Kurt Georg Kiesinger, says he envisions the creation of a "United States of Europe" someday.

A former Nazi party member, Kiesinger also foresees no possibility of another Adolf Hitler emerging in his nation.

The chancellor was interviewed in Bonn last week and the interview was broadcast nationally yesterday on U.S. television.

Kiesinger was adamant in denying that West German aspirations could jeopardize the free world. He also said his nation has no desire to manufacture or own cuclear weapons.

The newly elected chancellor said that if West European unity eventually did produce a United States of Europe, "We should leave open the question of a European nuclear force."

"We do not want a finger on the trigger," he added.

Saying there is no chance of a new Adolf Hitler emerging in West Germany today, he discounted the recent revival of nationalism. "We cannot abandon the right of self-determination, but we are proceeding toward reunification by peaceful means," he said.

The right-wing national democratic party, which polled nearly 8 per cent of the vote in recent provincial elections, has gone as far as it can, he added.

* * *

The chancellor hinted that West Germany might be able to ease the mounting tension between the United States and France and added that a United States of Europe would be a "real partner" to the United States.

WAS A SUSPECT

Speaking in English and German, Keisinger told the interviewer that he recently learned the Gestapo suspected him of "inhibiting anti-Semitic propaganda" during World War II.

He said that although he was a Nazi party member from 1933 to the end of the war, a de-Nazification court ruled that he "actively and effectively resisted national socialist terror . . . running the risk of losing his property, freedom and life."

When asked why he was not arrested by the Gestapo, Kiesinger replied, "I have just been lucky."

No Holidays for Cubans

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — It is work as usual on Christmas and New Year's for Cuba's sugar cane workers, as that nation strives for a record crop of its principal export commodity.

The workers will have their holiday meals in the sugar mills, said a Cuban radio broadcast heard in Miami.

Fidel Castro has set a 7.5-million-ton sugar production goal. The biggest harvest on record was 7 million tons in 1952. Last year's production, 4.5 million tons, fell 2 million tons short of the nation's target.

Vietnam Invaded— by U.S. Entertainers

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — The GIs in Vietnam are getting ready for a Christmas invasion, and some of it should be fun.

Bob Hope commands the largest task force of invaders, but the bare legs and jokes of his troupe will share the spotlight with Billy Graham, Francis Cardinal Spellman and several congressmen.

★ ★ ★

Evangelist Graham and the Roman Catholic archbishop of New York both have scheduled trips to military installations and will conduct some religious services.

Catholic chaplains, however, have called off their traditional Christmas Eve midnight Masses because of increased Vietcong terrorism, and the cardinal will celebrate his on Christmas Eve afternoon.

69 IN COMPANY

Hope left Los Angeles Friday with his 69-member fun company for his 15th annual Christmas tour and his 25th journey to entertain American servicemen.

After an international hubbub, Hope brought along Reita Faria of Bombay, India, who was named Miss World in a contest in London last month. She will appear in some skits with the ski-nosed comedian despite criticism from Indian opponents of the Vietnam war.

★ ★ ★

Miss Faria said her main job will be "to stand there and look pretty."

Hope's troupe also includes Phyllis Diller, Joey Heatherton, Anita Bryant, Les Brown and his band, and the Korean Kittens. They will perform in Vietnam, Guam, Thailand and the Philippines.

HANOI CHANGE

North Vietnam's Communist government announced it would admit Dick Gregory, the Negro comedian, to Hanoi to provide Christmas entertainment for American pilots held captive there but later said this was not possible because of American air raids in the Hanoi area.

The exact number of Americans held by the North Vietnamese is not known, but it is believed there are about 70.

Gen. Earle Johnson, U.S. Army chief of staff, also will be in Vietnam this week. But the average soldier will be a lot more interested in Chris Noel, a 26-year-old disc jockey who is in Saigon to attract attention for her program. Her 36-24-36 dimensions, mini-skirt eight inches above the knee, green eyes and blonde hair attracted considerable attention on the street Sunday. She will be on the armed forces radio all this week.

Author John Steinbeck also is visiting with troops and four members of Congress are expected to remain for the holidays — Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., and Reps. Joseph Y. Resnick, D-N.Y., George W. Grider, D-Tenn., and Lera Thomas, D-Tex.

Mrs. Thomas, who was appointed to complete the term of her late husband, reportedly plans to remain in Saigon as correspondent for a Texas newspaper.

Although both sides have proclaimed 48-hour cease-fires for Christmas and New Year's, some of the GIs will miss the visiting VIP's because they will be on watch-posts with eyes peeled for an unwanted Cong visitor.

No Regrets, Says Ex-Priest

Defector Will Return to U.S.

LUND, Sweden (UPI) — Ex-Catholic priest Harold M. Koch, describing himself as "an American with a great love for my country," has decided to return to the United States with no regrets after his tree-month defection to the Soviet Union.

Koch, 35, said yesterday in an interview he wanted to return to Chicago "after Christmas" to visit his ailing father, settle down and perhaps get married.

"I'm an American with a great love for my country," he said. "But when you love somebody you are apt to criticize. I only hope that I have not been too negative . . . I have only exercised my right to free speech and, since I believe every American has this right, I see no reason why I should not return."

The bespectacled former priest, who turned up in this university town Saturday, indicated that the Soviets had been reluctant to let him leave Moscow.

★ ★ ★

"I didn't just say, 'Well, I'm leaving'," he said. "It was not that easy. I had to state some sort of reason and said that my father was in poor health back in Chicago."

PRAYED FOR RETURN

In Chicago, Koch's parents said tearfully they had prayed their son would return home.

"I haven't corresponded with him," the elder Koch said. "I didn't even drop him a line, but this is a godsend."

Mrs. Koch said she had written to her son but "There was no indication he wanted to come home."

The Russians heralded Koch's defection last September. Koch told a Soviet television audience Sept. 13 that "a growing threat of fascism" in the United States and government persecution of opponents of the war in Vietnam had forced him to ask for political asylum. The television interview was sandwiched in-between two halves of a soccer game during a peak hour of transmission.

OUT OF SIGHT

After his video appearance, Koch dropped out of sight and lived in a small apartment in Moscow not far from the American Embassy.

"I was a guest of the Soviet Union and not a publicity stunt," he claimed.

Koch, who renounced his priesthood in 1963, said the Russians gave him a two-room apartment in the Soviet capital where he lived alone with a Siberian cat.

Ending 8th Year of Rule

'67 Looks Busy for Fidel

MIAMI (UPI) — The bearded man Cubans call "The Horse" steps into his ninth year on New Year's Day as ruler of the hemisphere's only Communist state.

Premier Fidel Castro closed out 1966 preparing for a big new propaganda and material effort to put Red guerrillas in power somewhere else in Latin America.

Beyond this hemisphere, Cuba's drive for new subversion is apparently also accelerating.

Cuban forces were reported building up rapidly in Africa's Congo-Brazzaville area and there were authoritative—although officially unconfirmed—reports that at least a "token" number of Cuban troops were in North Vietnam.

★ ★ ★

At home, Castro intensified Communist regimentation of life on the island, struggled with massive agricultural problems, tried to produce more sugar despite plummeting world sugar prices and set the stage for another big Red step in 1967.

GRIM ANNIVERSARY

That will be the expected convening of the first congress of the Cuban Communist party, probably early in the year.

This anniversary of Castro's Jan. 1, 1959 advent to power is a particularly grim one for Cuban exiles, streaming into the United States at the rate of 45,000 a year.

Their fears are mounting, their hopes seem to be fading. They are afraid that U. S. policy is going to make them "the Hungarians" of the new world.

As the year ends one may hear the question, "Has it really been that long since Castro took over Cuba?"

★ ★ ★

But exiles are not asking it. They don't need to.

The decision of the U. S. government in 1966 to grant them permanent resident status—thus easing the way for eventual American citizenship—has, ironically, made many exiles uneasy.

Shackled from waging war against Castro—there were only a few ineffective raid attempts against Cuba in 1966 — and blocked from forming a government in exile outside the United States, the exiles find themselves with nothing to do except to hope that "something" will happen in Cuba.

Tree Reigns Supreme at Christmas, Even on the Table

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

The way food is served is almost as important as its flavor. Too often, when we are hurried, we just want to get food on the table.

But when we entertain—particularly during the holidays—we want to put our best foot forward. So we think more about how to present the food.

The Christmas tree lends itself to interesting table settings. You can serve some foods on foil-covered tree forms or on Styrofoam trees. Or you can make the food itself take the shape of a tree.

If raw vegetables to eat with dips are on your menu for a cocktail party, attach them with toothpicks to a tree you have cut from white Styrofoam. If you can find red and green picks, your color scheme is assured.

Use a variety of fresh vegetables, including radishes, sweet peppers, cucumbers, tomatoes, celery, carrots, cauliflower, even slices of zucchini squash.

Set bowls of dip at the base of the tree. Those who are calorie conscious will bless you for this dip. Cottage cheese is the base.

Low Calorie Dip

1 pound container of cottage cheese
2 tablespoons milk
1 garlic bud, crushed
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon white pepper
1 teaspoon Worchestershire sauce
2 dashes Tabasco
3 tablespoons minced chive

Blend ingredients in a blender until mixture is creamy. Chill before serving. If a deeper green is desired, use green vegetable coloring.

For a cream dip, substitute 2 small packages of cream cheese and 3 tablespoons of mayonnaise for the cottage cheese and milk. A small onion finely grated may be substituted for the chives.

Nibble food that you have prepared ahead of time may also be served on a tree. Outline the edges with gold braid and the sides with green ribbon before attaching the appetizers.

Some of the food suggested below may be made early and frozen until the day of the party.

Fruited Ham Patties

1 pound ground fully cooked ham
¼ pound ground pork
1½ cups finely torn soft bread pieces
1 egg, beaten slightly
¼ cup milk
Butter or margarine, as needed for frying patties
⅔ cup (packed) brown sugar
¼ cup cornstarch
1 can (1 pound 4½ ounce) pineapple cubes
1 cup pineapple syrup
1 cup orange juice
½ cup vinegar
½ cup each drained red and green maraschino cherries
2 tablespoons Cointreau, optional

Combine first 5 ingredients; mix and chill. Shape into small patties using a level teaspoonful of mixture for each patty. (Freeze, if desired.) Panfry fresh-made or defrosted patties in butter or margarine over moderate heat until done and lightly brown on both sides. Keep warm.

Combine sugar and cornstarch in saucepan. Pour liquid from can of pineapple into measuring cup and add water as needed to make 1 cup. Add pineapple syrup, orange juice and vinegar to saucepan; mix well.

Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens. Stir in Cointreau. Combine patties, cherries and pineapple; mix carefully.

Spoon into heated serving dish. Drizzle sauce over mixture. Let guests spear patties and fruit as desired. Yield: About 70 small patties.

Sausage Whirls

Spread slices of favorite sausage meat (bologna, summer sausage, salami, cotto salami or New England brand sausage) with a thin coating of softened cream or sharp Cheddar cheese spread. Roll up tightly; wrap in waxed paper, foil or plastic film. Chill.

Sausage rolls will keep in the refrigerator 2 or 3 days if covered tightly with plastic film or foil.

To serve, slice rolls crosswise or on the slant into pieces ½ inch thick. Plunge a wooden pick into each piece.

Either a favorite cheese spread, a pate mixture or the following ham and cheese mousse may be molded in a tree-shaped pan.

Such pans are readily found in the stores at this season. If you don't want to buy such a pan, make one out of heavy aluminum foil and discard it after using.

The unusual part of the following recipe is the inclusion of a small amount of beer to dissolve the gelatin. It adds extra flavor and lightness to the mixture.

Make the mousse ahead of time, by all means.

Blue Cheese Ham Mousse

1 envelope unflavored gelatine
⅔ cup beer or ale
8 ounces blue cheese, crumbled
8 ounces (1 cup) cottage cheese
1 can (4½ ounces) deviled ham
½ teaspoon Tabasco
½ cup heavy cream

Sprinkle gelatine over beer in saucepan. Stir over low heat until gelatine is dissolved (do not boil). Set aside to cool.

Combine blue cheese, cottage cheese, deviled ham and Tabasco and beat with electric mixer or rotary beater until smooth. Stir in beer mixture. Whip cream and gently fold into cheese mixture.

Turn into Christmas tree cake pan or 4-cup mold and chill until firm. Turn out on serving platter and garnish with pimiento, stuffed olive slices, parsley, capers, carrot slices and pieces of ripe olives. Yield: 18 to 20 servings.

If you're passionately fond of liver pate and have a blender, here's another recipe you can serve molded in the form of a Christmas tree.

Chicken Liver Pate

1 medium onion, quartered
½ cup butter
1 pound chicken livers, rinsed and dried
3 tablespoons Chablis wine
2 tablespoons brandy
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon nutmeg
¼ teaspoon pepper, dash thyme, basil, and marjoram

Put onion in blender container, cover and process at low until chopped. Saute onion in butter until transparent, add chicken livers and saute until brown and liquid is reduced to ¼ cup.

Put all ingredients into blender container, cover and process at high until smooth. Use a rubber spatula to keep ingredients flowing into processing blades.

Empty into bowl and chill in refrigerator one hour. To shape, press into oiled 2-cup mold and remove immediately onto a serving dish.

Spread pate with a thin layer of aspic and garnish with pimiento. Cover garnish with another layer of aspic. Serve with French bread or crackers Yield: 2 cups.

ASPIC

1 teaspoon unflavored gelatine
½ cup clear consomme

Soften gelatine in consomme and dissolve over boiling water. Remove from heat and cool to room temperature.

And for those with a sweet tooth — or just for an interesting centerpiece — construct a table tree of puffed rice cereal and sugar syrup you cook and color green. This is molded as easily as popcorn balls.

Let your imagination be your guide for trimming this tree. The youngsters will love to help you.

Tannenbaum Treat

10 cups puffed rice
¾ cup light corn syrup
¾ cup sugar
3 tablespoons water
¼ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
½ teaspoon green food coloring
Thick green confectioners' sugar frosting
Flaked or shredded coconut
Large yellow gumdrop
Red cinnamon candies
Silver dragees.

Heat puffed rice in shallow baking pan in preheated moderate oven (350 degrees) about 10 minutes. Pour into large greased bowl.

Combine syrup, sugar, water and salt in saucepan. Cover and bring to a boil; uncover and cook to hard ball stage (260 degrees) or until a small amount of syrup dropped into cold water forms a hard ball.

Remove from heat; stir in butter and food coloring. Gradually pour cooked syrup over puffed rice, stirring until evenly coated. With greased hands, quickly press puffed rice mixture into greased 15x10 inch jelly roll pan. Cool.

Cut puffed rice mixture in pan into three triangles. Starting at each corner of one end, cut to the middle of the opposite end for one large triangle and two smaller ones. Remove triangles from pan.

Place thick lines of green frosting vertically down center of each side of large triangle. Attach smaller triangles upright to it, along frosting lines to form Christmas tree.

If necessary, hold a few moments until frosting is set. To decorate tree, spread frosting over cut edges; sprinkle with coconut. Attach large gumdrop to top of tree with frosting. Decorate tree with "ropes" of frosting and attach red cinnamon candies and silver dragees.

Liver Sausage Nut Balls

½ pound liver sausage
2 packages (3 ounce) cream cheese, room temperature
1 tablespoon minced onion
½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
3 drops Tabasco sauce
1 tablespoon Cognac, optional
1½ to 2 cups chopped cashew nuts or peanuts

Combine first 6 ingredients; mix and chill. Shape into small balls using 1 level teaspoonful of mixture for each ball. Roll in chopped nuts; chill. May be frozen, if desired.

★ ★ ★

Or prepare balls a day ahead, cover with plastic film or foil and store in refrigerator. Yield: About 65 to 70 balls.

Dr. Wayne G. Brandstadt Says:

Most Frostbite Cases Are Preventable

BRANDSTADT

Frostbite, the formation of ice crystals in and between your body cells, has been called a silent enemy because it often occurs when you no longer feel the cold.

Sometimes a person who works in the snow has trouble keeping his feet warm because he forgets that the temperature of the snow may be 15 or 20 degrees lower than the temperature around his head.

Furthermore, a 45-mile wind at 20 degrees may be more chilling than a 2-mile breeze at —40.

At high altitudes, less oxygen is available. This, too, increases the danger of frostbite.

Other factors that contribute to freezing are fatigue, panic, or injury with its associated shock.

PREVENTABLE

Most cases of frostbite can be prevented.

If you are working at temperatures that are below freezing you should avoid overexertion but, if your work makes you sweat, take off an outer garment.

Don't touch cold metal with your bare skin because metal, being a good conductor, gives up its heat readily and will freeze to your skin.

Don't smoke because this will constrict the small blood vessels in your skin and deprive it of needed circulation.

DON'T DRINK

On the other hand don't drink alcohol because this dilates these blood vessels and increases the rate of heat loss from your skin.

Although this is a seeming contradiction, your body's heat - regulating mechanism works best for your protection when it is not hampered by extraneous chemical influences.

Shivering and goose pimples are also part of nature's way of warding off cold injuries.

* * *

Your winter clothing should not fit too tightly. Several layers of lightweight clothing will give you more protection than a single heavy layer and an outer layer that is wind-proof is essential.

IMMERSION IN WATER

If, in spite of all precautions, you do suffer a frostbite you should rewarm the frozen part as rapidly as possible by immersion in water 104 to 107 degrees.

Avoid using a heating pad or rubbing the injured part. Take a hot nonalcoholic drink.

If, after thawing, blisters form, do not break them. The intact skin is a protection against infection.

* * *

If, however, the blister breaks, remove all loose skin so that it won't act as a shield for any infection that may have been introduced.

Movies, Appearances Led to False Image of Walt Disney

(EDITOR'S NOTE — Walter Elias Disney was a very special man, even in Hollywood, headquarters for offbeat types. AP columnist Bob Thomas writes knowledgeably about the famed movie innovator in five stories beginning today.)

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD — What kind of man was Walt Disney?

Everyone knows the public image. It shone forth every Sunday night on his television show as he genially introduced the entertainment that his studio had concocted. He was folksy, down-to-earth, the perfect picture of anyone's favorite uncle.

THOMAS

The Disney image was also projected in the films he made over a 40-year period. Almost invariably they were sunny, optimistic and wholesome — completely suitable for family audiences.

Rarely did he swerve from that formula. Parents gasped when a modern couple sipped martinis in a Disney film, "The Parent Trap." His venture into sexy scenes began and ended with a sequence in "Bon Voyage" when a Parician prostitute engaged Fred MacMurray in a bit of banter in front of his teenage son.

'A DISASTER'

"That was a disaster," Walt admitted later. "You should have seen the mail I got over it. I'll never do that again."

His public appearances and his movies tended to create a somewhat antiseptic image of Walt Disney. Behind the image was a human being, a man of rare talent but possessed with normal feelings and frailties.

He was no prude. His boyhood on a Missouri farm provided him with a realistic attitude toward sex. But he felt that it had no place on the screen.

"Sex is a very private matter for most people," he reasoned. "They feel uneasy and uncomfortable when they see it portrayed in public."

He was a taskmaster. He expected of his employes the same loyalty and zeal that he applied to the studio; when they failed him, he fired them.

QUICK WITH REWARDS

Yet Disney was quick to reward merit and achievement. Many of his employes continued on the staff for decades; one of them, Ub Iwerks, began cartooning with Walt in Kansas City in 1920.

Walt rarely relaxed. Occasionally he had a drink with key personnel after the day's work was finished. More often he would pack scripts and reports into his brief case and head for home, where he spent the evening reading or watching films.

★ ★ ★

Only twice did he seek interests outside his studio life; each time he was forced into it. During the early 1930s, he was on the verge of a nervous breakdown from overwork. "Find a hobby," his doctors told him.

He found a vigorous one: playing polo with such figures as Will Rogers, Spencer Tracy, Darryl Zanuck and Charles Farrell. But the hobby didn't last.

MODEL TRAINS

After World War II, Disney again approached the brink of exhaustion as he fought to reshape his product to the peacetime market. This time he took up the hobby of miniature trains, and he plunged into a home railroad with his usual vigor. Out of it came his ideas for Disneyland.

Like many great men, Walt Disney was a loner. He knew each day the loneliness of making command decisions that might require the outlay of millions and perhaps place his whole enterprise in jeopardy.

★ ★ ★

His personal life was solitary. He had a few close friends, mostly businessmen of a conservative nature. He and his wife Lillian seldom appeared at Hollywood parties. On rare occasions he attended a banquet, often to receive an award. But such gatherings made him uncomfortable, and he was always happy to leave.

His favorite retreat was the Smoke Tree Ranch near Palm Springs, where he liked to retire for long weekends whenever his work schedule permitted. There Lillian tended her flower garden while Walt rode horseback through the desert hills. He returned to the studio refreshed and brimming with ideas to please and delight the world's audiences.

Next: The source of the Disney genius.

Interest in Light Meter

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

One evening, on the ferry crossing the Rhine River from the Photokina fairgrounds to the heart of Cologne, Germany, I chatted with a young photographer.

★ ★ ★

He had flown in early that morning from Edinburgh, Scotland, to spend a day at the 1966 "World's Fair of Photography."

"I liked the looks of the new Linhof 220 camera," he told me, "but one item that impressed me greatly because it would be useful in my work right now is the new Gossen light meter with the attachments.

"I'm working in a commercial photography studio . . . assisting the professional on major assignments but also shooting and working in the darkroom. That attachment on the meter to determine enlargement timing could come in handy for me at this time. In fact, I ordered one."

★ ★ ★

TINY BATTERY

With a CdS cell powered by a tiny mercury battery, it measures exposures from 1-4,000 of a second to 8 hours; has an ASA range from less than 1 to 25,000; movie readings from 8 to 128 frames-per-second and still camera readings from f-1 to f-90.

The attachments convert the meter from normal use to specialized uses with telephoto lenses, in making enlargements and with microscopes.

The tele adapter changes the normal 30 degree field of view to either 15 degrees or 7.5 degrees for accurate measurement of a small section of the scene.

★ ★ ★

The enlarger adapter makes it a darkroom photometer. It is placed on the easel under the enlarger lens and calculates the exposure time necessary for printing.

MICROSCOPE

The micro adapter converts meter to read precise exposures through a microscope.

The Lunasix 3 thereby changes a light meter into an exposure meter system with a variety of uses in different photographic fields.

Talking of meters, I've previously mentioned another revolutionary innovation in exposure meters: the Zeiss Ikon Ikophot T.

This is the transistorized electronic meter which has eliminated moving coils and springs and is therefore a shockproof device.

WON'T UPSET

A sharp blow or even dropping it will not upset its working. When proper exposure is reached by turning a dial, the exposure scale lights up, making it easy to read.

Another new meter is the Bewi Super L, designed for convenient one-hand operation.

It has a CdS cell that makes exposure reading from 1-100 second to 1 hour by matching two pointers. In low light situations, a tiny flashlight is included so that the exposure scale can be seen.

★ ★ ★

The Soligor Spot Sensor, an exposure meter entry in the spot meter field, focuses on a 1 degree section.

PRESS BUTTON

Pressing a button in the trigger handle shows high or low scale and readings are made through a 100mm f-2.8 lens.

Getting away from exposure meters, let's return to the new camera which also impressed our young Scottish photographer.

At first glance, the Linhof 220 looks more like a movie than a still camera.

★ ★ ★

It has a slim white plastic body with a combined life-size viewfinder and rangefinder window at top and a pistol grip handle at bottom.

'IDEAL FORMAT'

This is an "ideal format" camera; that is, it takes 2¼ x 2¾ inch pictures on 120 or 220 roll films — 10 or 20 exposures respectively.

It has a 95mm f-3.5 lens, a hinged camera back and film inserts which can be preloaded.

Exposures are determined by an electric eye by matching a pointer visible in the viewfinder window. Either shutter speed or lens opening may be preselected in advance.

★ ★ ★

It is claimed that this camera has the handling ease of a miniature with advantage of a professional size negative.

Senate Strives to Meet Technological Age

By Science Service

WASHINGTON — In the quiet, stately hearing room, the scientists gathered to advise the senator about the technological revolution and its consequences.

All three agreed with the senator that legislators need more understanding of technology and its immense effects on modern human life. They wholeheartedly backed the bill to establish a select committee on technology and the human environment.

"We are living in a time of great scientific and technological revolution. It is perhaps the single most important happening in our world," said Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Me., author of the bill.

He was backed by three prominent scientific administrators, S. Dillon Ripley, Secretary of the Smithsonian Institution; Dr. James A. Shannon, director of the National Institutes of Health, and Roger Revelle, director of the Center for Population Studies at Harvard.

★ ★ ★

"For a century or more, we have been ignoring man's dependence on his environment, with consequences that we can not forsee but which will be of increasing importance to public policy," Dr. Ripley declared. "The interaction of technology and environment. . .is well on the way to becoming a sovereign issue of our time."

★ ★ ★

Dr. Shannon warned that "our society cannot escape the issues created by blight and polluted landscapes, economic developments, the physical and psychological hazards of present-day working conditions, dangerous environmental contaminants and complacency of present-day human interaction."

"It seems abundantly evident that our progress is developing mechanisms for coping with the effects of the technological revolution has never kept pace."

The way to conquer technology, Dr. Revelle offered, is through technology itself.

"To solve our problem we must not abandon our technology but use more of it. Once men start down the technological road, they cannot turn back."

Javits: Unify U. S., Soviets

NEW YORK (AP) — Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., has called for "the most titanic effort" to solve U.S.-Soviet differences because of what he sees as "the new spirit of relaxation between ourselves and the Soviet Union."

The Soviet Union has decisively beaten Communist China for leadership of the Communist nations and this has led to the new spirit, Javits said yesterday.

* * *

He said he had information that the Soviet Union is "ready to do business with the United States in every area."

The Middle East is the "No. 1 tinderbox of the world" and Arab-Israel hostility should be the leading item of discussion between the Soviet Union and the United States, Javits also told the American Israel Public Affairs Committee.

Arrested Girl in 5th Day of Hunger Strike

NEW YORK (AP) — An 18-year-old girl arrested in an anti-Vietnam war demonstration is "doing well" in the fifth day of a hunger strike, a jail officer said today.

Suzanne Williams has not eaten since she and 59 others were arrested Thursday in front of the armed forces induction center in lower Manhattan, a jail spokesman said. Water has been available in her cell at the Women's House of Detention.

The 60 were charged with disorderly conduct and Miss Williams was accused also of resisting arrest. She was taken into court in a wheel chair for her arraignment because she refused to walk.

An officer at the House of Detention said Miss Williams has been examined daily by physicians.

Hussein: Russia After Middle East Control

WASHINGTON (AP) — King Hussein of Jordan said today the Soviet Union has adopted a new policy aimed at gaining control of the Middle East.

"I think the Soviets are prepared to go very far in this matter almost to the point of a confrontation with the free world," he said.

In a copyright interview in U.S. News & World Report, the king said the Soviet Union wants control of the area's natural resources — particularly petroleum — and of communications routes such as the Suez Canal.

"In addition," he said, "if the Soviets were able to overrun the Arab world they would then have a direct link with Africa, which is also a very interesting target for them."

BUILDING INFLUENCE

King Hussein said, in answer to questions, that Communist China also was trying to build its influence in the Middle East.

The situation could lead to conflicts both between the Soviet Union and China.

"I believe the common objective of the Soviets and the Chinese is basically the same: to destroy everything really Arab," he said. "Once they have done this, then they will have to face the next step, and at that point they might fight with each ohter over their objectives."

Economic Forecaster Sees Clouds on Horizon for '67

WASHINGTON (UPI) — One of the nation's leading economists predicts that nation's economy—which found the going bumpy in 1966—will hit an even rougher road in 1967.

Gerhard Colm of the National Planning Association said yesterday in forecasts for the coming year that prices would continue to rise and that President Johnson ultimately would ask for both individual and corporate tax increases.

If tax boosts are accompanied by an easing of credit restrictions, Colm said, they will be good.

He forecast a slightly lower rate of economic growth, somewhat higher unemployment, a reformulation of wage - price guideposts by the government, and a continued rise in the cost of the Vietnam war.

"The road ahead for 1967 may be rougher than it was for previous years," Colm said. "There will be more bottlenecks, more labor disputes, more price rise.

ECONOMIC FACTORS

"Policy will be determined largely by the political developments in Southeast Asia and other parts of the world; by decisions at what level to continue economic and social programs that have been initiated; by the need to combat the threat of inflation and the balance of payments deficit by monetary, fiscal and price-wage policies, and particularly by the necessity to better balance these component parts of a comprehensive anti-inflation program; and finally by psychological factors of importance under conditions of uncertainty," he said.

* * *

"How the partly conflicting goals of policy will be reconciled in the political arena is a question which the economic crystal-ball gazer is even less equipped to answer than the political soothsayer."

Colm said it must be assumed that Vietnam spending will continue to rise beyond mid-1967, although at a somewhat lower rate than in the past.

He said a "great effort" will be made to reduce nonwar spending, with only a modest increase in existing Great Society programs.

Dying Ruby Wants to Prove He Was Not Part of Plot

(EDITOR'S NOTE — Gravely ill of cancer, Jack Ruby lies in a guarded room in Parkland Hospital, where both President John F. Kennedy and Lee Harvey Oswald died before him. Herewith is an exclusive picture of Ruby's thoughts in his last days, in what may be his last statement for history.

By BERNARD GAVZER

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Jack Ruby in his dying days still insists there was no conspiracy involved in his killing of Lee Harvey Oswald, named by the Warren Commission as the assassin of President John F. Kennedy.

Ruby, fully aware he is dying of cancer, wants to take any scientific test to prove for history there was no conspiracy.

★ ★ ★

"Jack has told me a dozen times or more he prays to be given a final lie detector test so people will be convinced that there was no plan on his part, or conspiracy of any kind, to kill Oswald," said Ruby's brother, Earl, a Detroit businessman.

"It is his last wish."

UNDERGOING TREATMENT

Earl Ruby and Elmer Gertz, Chicago lawyer and member of the legal team which on Oct. 5 won a reversal from the death sentence for Ruby, described Ruby's plea to do anything to erase any doubt that he acted alone in shooting Oswald.

They had seen Ruby an hour earlier in Parkland Memorial Hospital where Ruby, under guard, is undergoing treatment. This is the same hospital where the mortally wounded president and Oswald were taken.

★ ★ ★

Gertz and Earl Ruby were asked whether Jack Ruby has any regrets about killing Oswald and thus making impossible a trial, perpetuating for all time the feeling that the full story of the assassination will never be known.

"He has regrets, but they are not so much about Oswald," said Gertz. "These are regrets about the havoc caused to his people."

REFLECTED POORLY

Ruby, a Jew, is known to feel that his action reflected poorly upon the Jewish people.

★ ★ ★

"Jack reads the newspapers and magazines and watches television and is aware of the controversy about the Warren report and all the books and articles which are constructing incredible stories of a conspiracy in which he is claimed to have had a part," said Gertz.

★ ★ ★

"He says, 'How can they think I am hiding anything or protecting anyone else? There is nothing to hide; there was no one else.'"

As he lies gravely ill, he still maintains — according to Gertz and Earl Ruby — that "I never met or knew or saw Oswald until I saw him in jail, and I never knew Officer Tippit."

'SLAIN BY OSWALD'

The Warren report said Dallas policeman J. D. Tippit was slain by Oswald when Oswald fled to the Oak Cliffs sections of Dallas after assassinating Kennedy.

Gertz and Ruby said that Jack Ruby today acts like a man who wants to remain alive long enough to be convinced that others believe beyond question that he "acted out of overwhelming emotion and without malice and without premeditation."

★ ★ ★

They said Jack Ruby keeps referring to his movements the morning of Nov. 24, 1963, when drawn by curiosity, he entered the basement of the police and courts building, and, "on impulse and the purest of chance, shot Lee Harvey Oswald."

★

"And he is bewildered that it is not plain to every one that it was a million-to-one chance that he would stumble into a situation in which it was even possible that Oswald could be shot," said Gertz.

NO RECOLLECTION

Gertz and Earl Ruby said Jack Ruby has no recollection of the moment he shot Oswald.

"That is a complete blank in his mind," said Gertz. "When he goes over every detail of his movements, he comes to that point and it is a blank for him. He does not deny he killed Oswald,but he has no memory of it. He does remember going into the basement. Then the next thing he remembers is being grabbed by the police."

★ ★ ★

Gertz said one of the ironies of the case was that police were absent from the street, allowing Ruby to commit a minor traffic offense to get to the Western Union office.

"If Jack hadn't made an illegal turn on Main Street to go into a parking lot in order to be closer to the Western Union office," Gertz said, he couldn't have been in the basement at the precise moment police were transferring Oswald.

ILLEGAL TURN

"He was going east on Main and made the illegal turn rather than go around the block. He was going to the only Western Union office open that morning to send some money to an employe in need, and when he passed the ramp leading into the basement of the police and courts building, he saw a large number of newsmen there, and thought that Oswald had just been moved.

"He keeps going through these steps, telling how he went into the Western Union office and waited his turn to send the money order. The receipt for it was timed off at 11:17 a.m. then he walked at normal pace about 350 feet back to the ramp where he had seen all the people.

★ ★ ★

"He says he just started walking down the ramp."

Could Ruby have known Oswald was being transferred at that moment?

'NO ONE KNEW'

"No. He swears to this day he did not. And the fact is that no one knew," said Gertz.

"The transfer had been announced for 10 a.m. but no one knew — not anyone in the police or the press — because Capt. J.W. Fritz was still questioning Oswald. To say that someone informed Ruby of the time of transfer suggests that there was complicity on the part of the police or other law enforcement people.

"But the fact is that no one knew nor did anyone have any set time to make the actual transfer except for the announced time of 10 a.m. As the record bears out, the change in transfer time occurred when Capt. Fritz decided to interrogate Oswald again. Only Capt. Fritz knew when he would be through with the examination.

"When you reconstruct this, taking the time Jack left the Western Union office, and the time Oswald was shot, which the Warren Commission said was 11:21 a.m., you can see that there was perhaps only a period of 30 seconds, perhaps even less, during which Oswald could be shot by Ruby.

"Only the most disturbed mentality could think or believe there was a plan engineered so that an assassin would have an unset, unknown period of a few seconds in which to do his job. It would have to be a plan, also, in which there was no hope of escape."

Jack Ruby, himself, says — according to Gertz and Earl Ruby — "would I leave Sheba in the car if I planned to do such a thing?"

Sheba was his favorite dog. Many persons testifying about Jack Ruby's life said he treated his dogs as though they were his children. After he shot Oswald, his first concern was for Sheba.

George Green Wins Top Prize

Low Average Bowlers 1-2 in Pontiac Championship

By JERE CRAIG

George Green and Chuck Stout, two youngsters on the bowling lanes, gave a boost to low average bowlers Sunday by finishing one-two in the Pontiac Open Men's Singles Tournament finals at 300 Bowl.

Green, 1244 Mount Clemens, had a 113-pin spot thanks to a 146 average in 1965-66 and won the $800 first prize and trophy by shooting a 583 actual series for a 696 total. He is the lowest average bowler ever to win the annual handicap title.

Stout, 3020 Garden Court, had a 686 total aided by a 115-pin handicap. The Pontiac Northern High School senior closed with a 203 actual game to gain 10 pins on Green but still was one mark shy of the winner.

Stout, 19, won $500 and a trophy for second place. Close behind him was Tom Wiktorski who had a 683 series, including 614 actual pins. He earned $300.

Tom Augello added to his second and third place winnings of previous city tournaments with fourth place Sunday and $200. He had a 647 actual (the highest in the finals) and a 674 total.

The $150 fifth place check went to Mike Duncan with 658 (75 handicap pins).

MONEY WINNERS

In all, 124 men competed in the finals and earned at least $10 for their efforts. They were the survivors of yesterday morning's semifinals at Huron Bowl where Bill Bull led the way with 696.

Green, the new champion, works in the masking department at General Motors Truck and Coach. Now carrying a 155 average, he is 24 and bowls once a week in a Sunday night Mixed League at Huron Bowl. He had games of 180-210-193.

He just survived the 588 semifinal cut with a 593 series. His brother Bill, who didn't qualify for the tournament, encouraged Green to enter. It was his first city men's tourney.

It was also the first time for runner-up Stout, who admitted he was "awful excited" Sunday morning when he hit 637 in the semifinals.

* * *

Like Green, he is a once-a-week bowler and has a 152 average now while entering the tournament on last year's 145. He was persuaded into the tournament by his brother-in-law John Peek (who, also, failed to qualify).

Ironically, Stout is a member of the Lucky 4 team in a Saturday night Lakewood Lanes Mixed League. He does part-time work for Coca-Cola Bottling Co.

Neither the champion Green nor runner-up Stout had specific plans for their winnings other than banking it.

Fine turnouts witnessed the action at both Huron and 300. In addition to the top 12 finals prize checks, trophies were presented to the leading bowler at CITY CHAMPIONS — Champions were crowned yesterday in the Pontiac Open Men's Singles championship with George Green (center) emerging as the champion. Runnerup in the handicap division was Chuck Stout (left) with Neil Ricketts taking honors as the Actuals Invitational champ. The semifinals were held at Huron Bowl and the finals yesterday at 300 Bowl.

Dallas vs. Green Bay Next

Cowboys Not Overawed by Packer Power

Coach Landry Awaits West Division Champ After 17-7 Win

NEW YORK (AP) — Tom Landry and his Dallas Cowboys have a healthy respect for the Green Bay Packers but refuse to be overawed by the team they must beat Jan. 1 in the Cotton Bowl for the NFL title.

"I definitely think we have a chance to beat them," said Coach Landry after his Cowboys barely escaped with a 17-7 victory over the last-place New York Giants in their regular season finale Sunday.

* * *

"We had good success with them in two preseason games the last two years and played them a good game last year in regular season," said Landry. "Green Bay is a fine football team, so are we.

"Our job is not to make any errors because you know they don't make many mistakes," said Landry who led the Cowboys to an Eastern Conference title in its seventh year of NFL competition.

LITTLE LATE

"Everybody said my five-year plan was a little bit late," said Landry with a grin. He could afford to laugh because his Cowboys clinched the Eastern title Saturday when St. Louis lost to Cleveland. Their finale with the Giants was a meaningless game.

Dallas did pull it out on a six-yard run with an intercepted pass by defensive end George Andrie, a 41-yard TD pass from Craig Morton to Bob Hayes and a 10-yard field goal by Danny Villanueva.

* * *

The Giants managed to score once on a two-yard plunge by Joe Morrison but messed up other scoring opportunities while many of the crowd of 62,735 warbled a final chorus of Good Bye Allie (Coach Allie Sherman who has eight years to go on a 10-year contract).

Dallas played without Don Meredith, its No. 1 quarterback, splitting the game between Jerry Rhome and Morton. Defensive tackle Bob Lilly also missed the game with a pulled hamstring, suffered in practice earlier in the week.

"Meredith checked out pretty good Wednesday," said Landry. "He had headaches on the plane Friday and again Saturday. They said don't use him unless we had to. I would have given a lot of thought to it before I would have used him, even if we hadn't clinched.

INJURED ANKLE

"Lilly will be all right, I hope. Chuck Howley turned his ankle late in the game but we think he will be all right."

How do you go about beating Green Bay?

"If we can run on them we've got a chance," said Landry. "We've got to take some of their (pass) rush away."

Landry said the great improvement of halfback Dan Reeves and guard Tony Liscio were the big additions that made the club a winner. Of course, he also paid tribute to Hayes, Meredith and the rest of the team.

Packers Defeat Rams, 27-23

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Vince Lombardi, the successful coach of the champion Green Bay Packers, is not a man to rush into things.

After the powerful Packers defeated the Los Angeles Rams Sunday 27-23, Lombardi said he would not begin to think about his next opponent until today, which at least gave him a full night off from football.

* * *

The Dallas Cowboys, of course, are next for Green Bay in the National Football League championship at Dallas Jan. 1.

The Packers can vacation until the day after Christmas.

The Rams have it longer — next July, in fact.

"This was a bad way to end the season," said the Rams' young coach, George Allen, "but we can go all the way next year."

The Rams ended the 1966 war with a record of 8-6. It was the first time they had finished with that many wins and as high as third — or even had a winning season — since 1958.

Unfortunately, with Green Bay in front 27-9, many left the stadium before the Rams rallied with two touchdowns to close the gap.

There was a touch of Ram fantasy in the closing minutes.

On fourth and yards to go, the ball on the Rams' 38, the kicking team came on and Jon Kilgore dropped back to punt.

Instead he lofted a throw to his defensive back, Claude Crabb, for 47 yards to Green Bay's 15, and two plays later quarterback Roman Gabriel circled right-end for a touchdown.

'FEETBALL' — They belong to someone, but the legs of Mel Phillips are the only ones which can be identified in this pileup of players in the Baltimore-49ers game at San Francisco yesterday. Somewhere in this pile is Jimmy Orr, who took a pass from John Unitas. The Colts won the game, 30-14.

Colts in Runnerup Bowl After Victory Over 49ers

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Johnny Unitas fired Baltimore into the Runner-Up Bowl and left San Francisco coach Jack Christiansen disappointed over the 49er season and vowing changes will be made for 1967.

* * *

The Colts quarterback hit Ray Berry with an 11-yard throw, and then connected on throws of 18 to John Mackey, 61 to Jimmy Orr and 31 to Willie Richardson, as the 49ers fell 30-14.

* * *

Lou Michaels booted three conversions, after the first was blocked by Roland Lakes, and also kicked a 43-yard field goal. So the Colts stay in business to go to the Miami Bowl facing Philadelphia on Jan. 8.

San Francisco, assessed a dozen penalties during the rugged battle, hit only on touchdown plays of 59 from John Brodie to Dave Parks and 23 to Kay McFarland.

"This season has been a big disappointment," Christiansen observed. "The merger upset a few people on our team and we never got untracked during training and the early games of the regular season.

"Some people were also late to training camp and that may have had some bearing on our slow start, but it's hard to tell.

State Netters Travel South

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Mrs. Jean Hoxie arrived Sunday with 10 of her top Hamtramck, Mich., tennis hopefuls for the 17th annual Orange Bowl tournament.

The group included Peaches Bartkowicz, No. 1 rated U.S. 18-and-under player. Emily Fisher of Bloomfield Hills also is in the group and bidding to defend the title she won last year.

Emily Fisher Receives Top Tennis Rating

The Southeastern Michigan Tennis Association has announced its state ratings for 1967 and Emily Fisher of Bloomfield Hills tops the girls' 16-and-under class.

The 14-year-old Kingswood School sophomore won several big tournaments this past summer, including a Junior Chamber of Commerce girls' national title.

Her younger sister Mary rates No. 3 in the 12-and-under class.

The famous Bartkowicz sisters — "Peaches" and "Plums" — from Hamtramck dominate the other feminine state rankings.

"Peaches" (who is the leading junior girls netter in the world) is top-rated both in the women's and girls' 18-and-under state events. "Plums" is No. 1 for girls' 14-and-under and 12-and-under.

Miss Fisher is second to "Peaches" among the women.

Actuals Title to Ricketts

Neil Ricketts reigns as Pontiac's best actual bowler from this year's Pontiac Men's Open Championship.

The first-time entry, who carries a 196-average for Veterans' Disposal in the Huron Bowl Classic, consistently rapped the 300 Bowl pins Sunday for a 636 series to win the Actuals Invitational championship.

The General Motors Truck and Coach division sales distribution worker opened with a 200, edged up to 208 and closed strongly with 228 to slip past Airway Lanes pro Jim Rutkowski, who finished at 630.

RUTKOWSKI

Rutkowski — a 204 bowler for Insta-Matic Safety in the Detroit All-Star Classic — was in charge after two games. He rolled a big 268 to start and came back with a 200 before slumping to 162.

There were only eight men among the 105 invitees (men with 185-or-better average or 612 actual or better in the qualifying) who solved the lanes for 600 series.

In addition to Ricketts and Rutkowski, Jack Meinhart had 612, Ed White 611, Bill Bull 606, Joe Roerink 603, Joe Myers 602, and Bob Gormong 600.

Ricketts won $5 and a trophy while Rutkowski collected $25. The champion, however, failed to qualify for the men's handicap portion of the tournament while Rutkowski earned $10 for reaching the finals although not having any handicap pins.

Second Straight Shutout

Wings Go Big, 5-0

DETROIT (AP) — "On our club, everybody goes or nobody goes," said Detroit Red Wing defenseman Gary Bergman.

And Sunday night everybody went as the Red Wings shut out New York 5-0 in National Hockey league action.

* * *

The victory over the league leaders didn't pull the Red Wings out of the cellar, since Boston downed Montreal 3-1, and that kept the Bruins two points ahead of Detroit.

Chicago downed Toronto 3-1 and climbed into a first-place tie with New York.

"Lately we've been putting everything together," Bergman said. Goalie Roger Crozier has "been great. He's defying them to put the puck past him. When he's like that they can't get an aspirin tablet past him."

SECOND STRAIGHT

Crozier, who notched his second shutout in a row and fourth this season, said, "The whole team played well."

The pattern of the game showed early. Crozier made two great, acrobatic saves and the action moved to the other end of the ice.

Gordie Howe shot and Ed Giacomin blocked it, but Alex Delvecchio scored on the bouncing rebound. That was all the Red Wings needed to win, but they slammed in four more shots on the bombarded Giacomin.

* * *

Andy Bathgate snagged the puck out of a scramble in front of the Detroit net and raced ahead, then passed to Bruce MacGregor who went in alone on Giacomin and scored from about one foot out.

In the second period, Pete Mahovlich fired from left wing and Giacomin blocked it, but MacGregor zoomed in from right wing and snapped the rebound past Giacomin.

In the third period, Bert Marshall tried a slap shot that broke his stick, Ted Hampson took a shot that Giacomin blocked, Howe took a poke at it and Delvecchio converted the rebound for his second goal.

BEST GAME

"Bert Marshall and Gary Bergman, as a team, probably played their best game," said Manager-Coach Sid Abel. "Leo Boivin had a good game, too."

Detroit outshot New York 44-22, but much of the credit went to the defense.

Detroit's defensemen generally broke up the New York plays and cleared the puck after Ranger shots.

New York had trouble getting the puck out from in front of Giacomin, who time after time saw Wings jabbing at the puck when his defense couldn't clear it.

* * *

John McKenzie and Ron Schock scored third period goals for Boston. Montreal scored first on Claude LaRose's goal, but Boston tied it up 44 seconds later on a power play. Ted Green's shot from the point deflected off Montreal defenseman Terry Harper into the net.

Stan Mikita, Ken Wharram and Doug Mohns all scored for the Black Hawks. Mikita also gained an assist.

Red Kelley scored the only Toronto goal.

The Red Wings are off until Wednesday, when they play at Chicago.

GRANDSTAND SAVE—Detroit Red Wings' goalie Roger Crozier makes a spectacular save in deflecting a shot (arrow) by New York Ranger Orland Kurtenback who tries to come in for the rebound but is blocked by Detroit's Leo Boivin. The Wings won the game, 5-0.

Asian Sports Games Reach Final Stages

BANGKOK (AP) — Marred by a bloody basketball brawl, the fifth Asian Games reached its final full day of competition today.

The 12-day regional Olympics conclude Tuesday with several cycling and tennis finals in the morning and a soccer final between Iran and Burma during the afternoon closing ceremony. There will be no evening contests.

* * *

Japan, established as Asia's sporting giant, has already collected 70 gold medals. It has won at least one gold in all of the 11 sports in which there have been finals.

In the three remaining sports — basketball, field hockey and soccer — the Japanese have a chance today to win bronze medals.

Defending champion Pakistan and Olympic champion India, traditional field hockey rivals, will meet in the final of that event.

The Japanese swept all the 28 gold medals in the swimming competition, and won additional gold, silver or bronze awards in the other 10 sports.

WORST DAY

Japan added only one gold medal to its collection Sunday, its worst day since winning its first gold in the current games Dec. 10.

* * *

South Korea brought its gold medal count to 11 Sunday—second behind Japan — when its bike squad won the team 200-kilometer massed start road race and weightlifter Lee Hyung-Woo won the middle heavyweight contest.

The day's other gold medals went to Iranian heavyweight weightlifter Manoucher Boroumand in the heavyweight category and Thai cyclist Paipote Roongtonkit who took individual honors in the 200-kilometers massed start road race.

Jurgensen on Target but Eagles Win

WASHINGTON (AP) — Washington quarterback Sonny Jurgensen broke two National Football League season passing records Sunday in the Redskins' 37-28 loss to Philadelphia.

He established records for passes attempted and passes completed.

* * *

Jurgensen attempted 436 passes during 1966, breaking the previous mark of 420 set by Baltimore's John Unitas in 1961 and St. Louis' Charley Johnson in 1964.

He also completed 254, snapping the record of 242 set by John Brodie of San Francisco last year.

Jets Help Buffalo Make 'Big Play'

Patriots Staging Boston Tea-r Party

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Patriots were crying in their cups — instead of laughing en route to the bank — today as the old familiar song rang anew: Wait 'till next year.

"The pain is going to linger a long while," Boston Coach Mike Holovak said after the Patriots' collapse in the final game of the American Football League season.

"In my six years as coach of the club, we've won the Eastern title once, and four times we've lost it on the final weekend."

The Patriots had nobody but themselves to blame for blowing the Eastern crown, a shot at the AFL title, and then a crack (with $15,000 per man to the winner) at the National League champ in the first Super Bowl.

Needing a victory or a tie to win the division title, the Patriots went into New York and were upset 38-28 by the Jets Saturday. Then Buffalo nailed down the championship by whipping outclassed Denver 38-21 Sunday.

HORROR SHOW

Holovak figured — and correctly so — that Buffalo would handle Denver easily. However, he watched the second half of a weekend horror show, by television, at home.

★ ★ ★

"It still hurts," he said softly in reference to the New York game which wrecked Boston title hopes.

"We beat Buffalo twice during the season, and here we are watching them win the championship," he said.

★ ★ ★

"It's difficult to believe. Our defense fell apart at New York. I figured that if we scored 28 points, we would win. I never figured they would score 38. Who could?"

"This is the story of my life," said quarterback Babe Parilli, a veteran of 13 pro campaigns. "I'm snake bit. I can get so close, but not the whole thing. Maybe when I'm coach . . ."

Rookie Passes Dolphins Past Houston, 29-28

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — John Stofa, a quarterback acquired in desperation, brought the maiden season of the Miami Dolphins to a rousing climax Sunday by firing them to a 29-28 victory over the Houston Oilers.

The win, fashioned by Stofa in the final 38 seconds with a 14-yard touchdown shot to Joe Auer, spared the Dolphins from solitary confinement in the American Football League's Eastern Division cellar.

They'll share that place with Houston.

Kansas City 11 Wins Finale

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Rookie halfback Mike Garrett believes his Kansas City Chiefs are ready to take all the marbles.

"We're ready to win the whole thing. We're set," said the little scooter after the American Football League Western Division champs beat San Diego Sunday 27-17.

"This was our best team effort since we clinched the division title two weeks ago."

Garrett twisted and zigzagged for 161 yards on 25 carries and scored the Chiefs' final touchdown against the third-place Chargers.

Denver Errors Also Important in Bills' Title

38-21 Victory Lifts Defending Champs Into Playoff Clash

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — The Buffalo Bills, who two days ago faced a third down and 10 situation in defense of their American Football League crown, have made the key first down — but not without the knowledge that from here on in there will be no outside assistance.

"We're going to have to be sharper than we have been to beat Kansas City," Coach Joe Collier admitted after Sunday's 38-21 victory over Denver brought the Bills their straight Eastern Division title. "Knasas City's got a tough club — a well-rounded club.

★ ★ ★ ★

"They're one of the top clubs in the league offensively and defensively and they have good special teams. We played one of our best games when we beat them in Kansas City — and that's what it'll take to beat 'em again."

The Bills did not play one of their best games against the Broncos despite the score. And before even getting the final shot at the title they needed an 11th hour reprieve provided by the New York Jets.

The Jets knocked off front-running Boston 38-28 Saturday and left the Patriots with an 8-4-2 record. That gave the Bills an opportunity to clinch their third straight title with a 9-4-1 record if Denver would cooperate.

SPUTTERING ATTACK

While the Bills could be faulted for their sputtering attack, not one could fault the Broncos for their cooperation.

Playing their final game under Coach Ray Malavasi, the Broncos gave the Bills as many assists as Oscar Robertson gets on a good night. They lost the ball three times on interceptions, gave it away twice on fumbles and chipped in with a short punt and an aborted onside kick attempt.

That was enough for the Bills, who spread their scoring among six men as they moved into the AFL championship game against the Chiefs here on Jan. 1, with the winner taking on the National League Champions either Green Bay or Dallas — in the first Super Bowl game.

Jack Kemp, the Buffalo quarterback who engineered the victory over Denver despite completing only nine of 23 passes for 147 yards, didn't feel the Bills had played as poorly as the statistics would indicate.

★ ★ ★

"Denver was loose," Kemp pointed out. "They had nothing to lose. "They were going all out, blitzing without worrying, coming all the time.

"I think we have a good chance against Kansas City. They're a good team with no particular weaknesses, but I think we are too — and you can say the same for Green Bay and Dallas, too."

Mikes-WOLL in Showdown

Loop Parochial Title Is at Stake

The big game's at hand for the Lakers of Waterford Our Lady and the Mikemen of St. Michael.

The two will square off tomorrow night on the Lakers' floor at 8 o'clock with the lead in the Macomb Parochial League at stake.

St. Michael heads the pack at present with a 5-0 record, but Waterford Our Lady is only a half game back at 4-0.

There are a lot of games remaining on the schedule, but this one carries a lot of weight for both teams.

★ ★ ★

The Lakers, Mikemen and St. Frederick shared the title last year with 9-3 records, and the three were preseason choices to battle for this year's crown.

LOST TWICE

St. Frederick, however, has lost twice in six league outings and may be out of the race. The Rams journey to Emmanuel Christian tomorrow evening for a nonconference encounter.

★ ★ ★

A couple of other league games will have Detroit St. Rose (0-5) at Richmond St. Augustine (1-4) and Ancbor Bay Catholic (1-4) at Marine City Holy Cross (2-2).

The Eaglets of Orchard Lake St. Mary will be looking for their seventh straight victory of the season and sixth in league play when they travel to Ferndale to meet St. James tomorrow evening.

In other Northwest games, Royal Oak St. Mary (3-2) journeys to Detroit to meet St. Rita (1-4), while St. Francis de Sales (1-4) entertains Highland Park St. Benedict (0-5).

In other games, Birmingham Brother Rice will be looking for its fifth straight win in a visit to Detroit Cathedral, while Utica St. Lawrence plays host to Detroit Nativity and Redford St. Mary visits Royal Oak Shrine (4-1).

Post-Season Bowl Scenes to Shift Again

By the Associated Press

The post season college football bowl season moves from Houston to El Paso, Tex., and Montgomery, Ala., this week as Florida State meets Wyoming in the Sun Bowl and two all-star squads clash in the Blue-Gray game on Saturday.

In the Bluebonnet Bowl at Houston last Saturday, Texas blanked Mississippi, 19-0 with slight Chris Gilbert starring for the Longhorns.

At El Paso, Wyoming, which lost only to Colorado State during the regular season, and Florida State, 6-4 after finishing a rough schedule, battle in a nationally televised game that can be seen on NBC at 4 p.m. EST.

The Blue-Gray game will also be televised, on CBS at 2 p.m., EST. Top seniors from colleges around the country will participate. Virgil Carter, Brigham Young quarterback, will call the signals for the Blue, while Baylor's Terry Southall does the job for the Gray.

Gilbert, a sophomore tailback, ran for 156 yards against a highly regarded Mississippi defense, a record for the Blue Bonnet Bowl.

Gump to Have Surgery

MONTREAL (AP) — Lorne (Gump) Worsley, goalie for the Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League, underwent surgery Sunday for the removal of a cartilage from his right knee.

Falcons Falter in NFL Finale

ATLANTA (AP) — The Atlanta Falcons' first National Football League season ended on a sour note, but Coach Norb Hecker says he believes "we had a very successful year."

Pittsburgh whipped Atlanta 57-33 Sunday, biggest point total posted against the Falcons in their NFL debut.

"We didn't play very well defensively against the Steelers," Hecker said. "But I thought we had a good year.

★ ★ ★

"We didn't set any won-lost goal, but we wanted to improve all the time, and I think we did."

Despite the loss in the finale, Atlanta won three games during the season to equal the most victories scored by an expansion team in its first season.

"Beating St. Louis and knocking a contender out was our high spot of the season," Hecker said. "Our lowest point was getting beaten 44-7 by San Francisco."

The Falcons were never in contention against Pittsburgh but they scored more points than they had managed against any other foe.

"We made a lot of mistakes against the Steelers," added Hecker, whose team's fumbles and pass interceptions set up 27 Pittsburgh points.

GOOD NUCLEUS

"But I think with a few improvements here and there, we have the nucleus for a pretty good team next year," he said.

Linebacker Tommy Nobis, named the Falcons' most valuable player, agreed.

★ ★ ★

"Everybody is looking forward to next season," Nobis said.

"We started to find ourselves at the end of the season, and I'm sure we'll be a lot better next year. We were always the underdog this fall and that makes it tough," added the rookie from Texas.

Local Quintets Battle in W-O

Schedule to Dwindle After Tuesday

A handful of local basketball teams will get in their final licks tomorrow night before taking time out for the Christmas vacation.

League games are on tap in the Wayne-Oakland, a loop that has produced a couple of surprises, and in the Dakland A where things are normal.

Holly and Bloomfield Hills have been the surprises in the young W-O season, while Warren Fitzgerald and Cousino are winning as expected in the O-A.

Picked to finish somewhere near the bottom in the W-O, Holly has rolled up three wins in a row and now shares the lead with Clarkston and Northville.

★ ★ ★

Bloomfield Hills, cochamp last year, was a preseason choice to remain a contender but the Barons have dropped two of three in league action.

TUESDAY SLATE

On the Tuesday schedule, Holly visits Milford (0-3), Brighton (0-3) entertains West Bloomfield (1-2) and Clarenceville (1-2) journeys to Hills (1-2).

★ ★ ★

Clarkston (3-0) entertains Northville (3-0) Friday.

A full slate is on tap in the O-A with Warren Fitzgerald (3-0) at Avondale (1-2), Warren Cousino (3-0) at Madison (2-1), Rochester (1-2) at Lake Orion (0-3) and Troy (0-3) at Clawson (2-1).

The O-A squads also have games set for Thursday and Friday before taking their holiday break.

Among the nonconference games slated for tomorrow, Waterford (2-2) visits Lapeer (2-2) and Oxford (2-1) entertains Warren Woods.

Elsewhere, Deckerville goes to Harbor Beach OLLH, Harbor Beach visits North Huron, Millington is at Reese, Marlette at North Branch, and St. Charles visits Utica Stevenson.

Arch-Rivals Pull Rug From Fifth-Rated '5'

By The Associated Press

Just when the New Mexico Lobos persuaded folks to sit up and take notice, neighboring New Mexico State came along and pulled the rug out from under them.

New Mexico finished second by a second in the family squabble that left the Lobos crying foul and probably sent their No. 5 college basketball ranking tumbling, too.

★ ★ ★

"The timer took the game away from us," said Lobo Coach Bob King after his club lost on the road to New Mexico State 62-61 in overtime Saturday.

★ ★ ★

The Lobos led 61-60 and had the ball with four seconds left when Ben Monroe was called for charging. Ernie Turner of State, now 4-4 sank two free throws after time ran out to sink the Lobos.

"The game was definitely over when the foul occurred," King said, "and everybody knew it."

★ ★ ★

"I don't think there's any question about it," challenged Lou Henson, New Mexico State coach. "The foul occurred and the buzzer sounded."

The Lobos were not the only ones among the nation's Top Ten to run afoul.

★ ★ ★

Kentucky, No. 4, and Brigham Young, No. 7, each lost twice last week and second-ranked Texas Western was beaten by New Mexico.

THREE WINS

Hoping to take advantage of such bungling, Louisville, No. 3, won three games; North Carolina, No. 5, won twice; Houston, No. 9, rolled to three victories and Cincinnati, No. 10, won twice.

Top-ranked UCLA and eighth-ranked Michigan State were idle.

Gale Sayers Gives Ma, Pa Good Display

CHICAGO (AP) — Roger Sayers and Mrs. Sayers of Omaha, Neb., decided to see their son play a professional football game in the flesh.

Gale Sayers didn't disappoint Mama or Papa Sunday as he flashed the Chicago Bears to a 41-28 victory over the Minnesota Vikings.

The Sayers had reason for enjoying it for the 197 yards the son gained running Sunday gave him a season total of 1,231 and made him the first halfback to win the NFL rushing title since Steve Van Buren of Philadelphia in 1949.

Sayers also set an NFL combined net yardage season record of 2,440 — he totaled 339 Sunday by tacking 142 through kickoff returns and pass receiving onto his 197 rushing.

Waterford Third Clio Posts Mat Win

Waterford's Skippers came up with a pair of individual championships Saturday but wound up third in their own Invitational Wrestling Tournament.

Clio captured the title for the second year in a row, picking up 97 points to finish eight ahead of Livonia Bentley. Utica (38) was fourth, Lake Orion placed seventh and Kettering's Captains were last in the eight-team field.

The Skippers' Alsup brothers, Joe, a junior, and Eric, a sophomore, picked up victories in the finals.

Joe decisioned Jim Uhleski of Clio in taking the 133-pound title, 13-0, and Eric pinned Bob Dow of Livonia Bentley in claiming the 145-pound crown in 3:37.

Daryl Potter picked up a third-place finish for the Skippers in the 154-pound division.

Lake Orion's Chris Shell downed Bob Belnapp of Bentley to take first in the 112-pound class.

Vikings Suffer Loss

Rochester Tops Romeo

A slow start proved costly for Walled Lake's Vikings who dropped their third game of the season in a 59-48 loss to Highland Park Saturday night.

★ ★ ★

In another game, Rochester's Falcons (2-3) handed Romeo its fourth loss in a row, 64-54.

Highland Park jumped off to a quick 12-0 lead and Walled Lake spent the rest of the game in an unsuccessful catch-up attempt.

Charles Dixon was the spark-plug for the Parkers with 20 points. The winners held a 29-17 lead at intermission.

★ ★ ★

Gus Maragos, hitting well from outside, tossed in 15 to pace Walled Lake (1-3), while teammate Greg Fogle added 11.

Trailing most of the game, Romeo rallied to take a 54-52 lead with four minutes left, but the Bulldogs failed to gain another point while Rochester poured in 12 more to sew up the win.

Don Golding led the Falcons (2-3) with 23 points and Jim Burton contributed 17.

Rick Schapman picked up 17 to spark the Romeo attack, while Dwight Ford and Clyde Cushingberry tossed in 13 apiece.

Rochester led at halftime, 23-20.

Cincinnati Five Tames Broncos; U. of D. Wins

By the Associated Press

The Cincinnati Bearcats, ranked 10th in The Associated Press basketball poll, proved too much for Western Michigan Saturday.

★ ★ ★

The Broncos fell behind 16-1 at the start before dropping a 74-48 decision.

Detroit whipped St. John's of Minnesota 95-74.

Cincinnati's Dick Haucke, playing only 21 minutes, topped the Bearcats with 20 points. Undefeated Cincinnati now has a 5-0 record. The loss was the third in five games for Western.

★ ★ ★

Sophomore Jerry Swartzfager came off the bench to spark Detroit in its victory over St. John's. He scored 23 points after entering the game late in the first half with the Titans trailing 26-22.

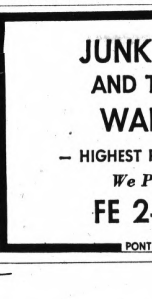
PROPER BILLIARDS
by Jim Lidey

No. 7—SHOTS OFF RAIL

Up to now, our instructions have concerned favorable position for the cue ball. A not-so-favorable position occurs when the cue ball is on or near the rail or cushion.



Shooting off the rail is one of the most difficult shots in pocket billiards.

The following procedure is the most successful for rail or cushion shots:

★ ★ ★

Place your left hand (if you are right-handed) over the cue stick, in a flat position, guiding *it between your index and fore-*fingers.

Spread your thumb to the right, and your ring and little fingers to the left. This will give you the proper balance.

★ ★ ★

Be sure your right hand is holding the cue stick as level as possible because if the rear of the stick is elevated, you will be applying English without realizing it. This unwanted English tends to cause object ball to miss the pocket most of the time.

By OSWALD AND JAMES JACOBY

"How was I to know?" asks a Jackson, Mich., reader. "South held off until the third spade lead and discarded clubs from dummy. Then he ran off dummy's diamond suit. He discarded clubs on the third and fourth diamond and I let two hearts go.

JACOBY

I can count to nine and I saw that if South held both ace and queen of hearts he had nine top tricks. On the fifth diamond my partner chucked a spade and South a heart. I let the three of clubs go whereupon South made three club tricks and his contract."

West really had no way to know in the ordinary bridge game but he should probably have hung onto all his clubs on the theory that South was trying to coax him to throw a club away.

In the expert bridge game West would have had no problem at all. That is if East were right up on his toes and not just following suit and discarding.

There is a general play known as the suit preference signal in which a low card shows a low suit and a high card a high suit.

Expert East would play the jack of spades at trick one. When that held he would continue with the king and the queen. This alone should have been enough to tell West that East held the ace of hearts and not the ace of clubs. East could have played the queen of spades before the king to show the club ace.

However, when it came time for East to discard on the fifth diamond he could have really confirmed this heart ace. He would discard the nine of spades! This discard of the highest spade would confirm the previous suit preference signal and expert West would have had no further problem.

What do you do?

A—In spite of the fact that your partner has asked for aces we recommend a pass. You overbid when you jumped to three no-trump. Apparently your partner has one spade, four hearts, five diamonds and three clubs and your king of spades will be worth very little at a slam contract but will be valuable in no-trump.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Instead of responding one diamond your partner responds one spade. What do you do now?

Police Probe Break-In at Covert Bank

COVERT (AP) — South Haven State Police hoped to determine today how much money—if any—was taken from the Van Buren State Bank Branch at Covert Sunday.

Police said thieves broke through a brick and concrete wall to gain entrance to an outer bank vault. It was not immediately known if the inner vault had been entered.

★ ★ ★

Evidence at the scene led police to believe they are looking for more than one suspect.

Bank branch manager Ruth Eisenlohr said that if the bandits cracked the inner vault they could have gotten away with some $19,000. The bank has no alarm system, she said.

A cleaning woman discovered the break.

OUT OUR WAY

Astrological Forecast

By SYDNEY OMARR
For Tuesday

"The wise man controls his destiny . . . Astrology points the way."

ARIES (Mar. 21 - Apr. 19): If overly aggressive you arouse antagonism. People around you tend to be irritable . . . mainly due to fatigue. Steer clear of legal controversy. Take care with appearance.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 - May 20): Privacy necessary today. Realize being alone is not same as being lonely. Receptive attitude best . . . listen and observe. Obtain clue from ARIES message.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20): Romance may appear stormy. This occurs because of sudden actions, disagreements. Best policy is sense of humor. If journey appears to be postponed, don't jump to conclusions.

CANCER (June 21 - July 22): You are now drawn two ways at once. Try to harmonize domestic and business activities. Be analytical. Lean toward concession to family member.

LEO (July 23 - Aug. 22): Stick to principles. Some may try to tell you their views on new fashions . . . but if you act merely to please others . . . there is disappointment. Adhere to resolutions.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 - Sept. 22): Your home, family, close friends have value you cannot measure. Know this and don't trade the real for tinsel. Obtain hint from LEO message. Stand tall!

LIBRA (Sept. 23 - Oct. 22): If others take initiative . . . let them. Best not to battle or oppose. If you ride with the tide . . . greater benefit is ultimate result. This formula could solve dilemma.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 - Nov. 21): What starts out as party . . . could end in controversy. Know this and be on guard. Don't look for trouble. If you maintain dignity there is gain. Otherwise, you invite loss.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 - Dec. 21): Finish rather than start. Don't leave loose ends. Study SCORPIO message. Argument results if you push, force or try to dominate. Accent FRIENDLY ATTITUDE.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 - Jan. 19): Place spotlight on security. Don't take unnecessary chances. Those who urge otherwise are not fully informed. Be determined to carry through on basic policies.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 - Feb. 18): Not wise to travel unless absolutely necessary. Don't waste time, energy. Do discard rumors, deal with facts. Demand proof before committing yourself.

PISCES (Feb. 19 - Mar. 20): If versatile, you gain. Guard money interests. Have alternative methods at hand. Keep communication lines open. Strive for greater degree of expression.

★ ★ ★

IF TUESDAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY . . . you are sensitive to feelings of others . . . many come to you with their problems. Learn to be more selective in your choice of friends. Then you advance rather than regress.

★ ★ ★

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Cycle high for ARIES, TAURUS, GEMINI. Special word to SCORPIO: Get basic chores completed early.

Budget Can Cause New Soviet Strains

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

Ivan Ivanovich has had a bit of bad news.

The Russian man in the street suspects he must put aside some of his dreams.

He will be given to understand "the U.S. imperialists" in Vietnam are mostly to blame. He also will get the idea that Red China is partly to blame, too, and he will resent that even more.

Those who know Russians well say that when the Soviet regime announces an increase in the military budget, Ivan can only feel a pang of dismay. This reaction is instinctive. Higher up the social and educational ladder there is more sophisticated knowledge of what goes on. This generates a clash between intellectual elements and the conservative faction of the Communist bureaucracy, and division along these lines appears to extend all the way up to the summit of the leadership.

BIG DEFENSE HIKE

Thus, the Soviet budget announced last week can cause new strains.

The budget includes the biggest increase in defense spending in four years and the highest military spending rate in more than a decade.

★ ★ ★

The government concedes there will be shortages in some raw materials, which probably means military industry will get a bigger share.

There may be fewer television sets, radios, refrigerators and the other things Ivan was buying or planning to buy.

SOMEBODY MUST PAY

Ivan will suspect that gradually things will cost more, too, despite a government effort to keep the lid on retail prices. It is decreed now that industry must be profitable. Somebody has to pay.

Recent visitors to the Soviet Union report a widespread awareness that high party and government leaders are concerned about worsened relations with Red China.

★ ★ ★

The ordinary Russian, these sources report, sees Red Chinese attitudes as rank ingratitude for past help. He is aware, also, that the Soviet army quartermaster corps sends much material and supplies to units along the 4,000-mile Soviet-Chinese frontier, probably more than is sent to the Vietnam Communists.

What Ivan doesn't know, though he might suspect it, is that what goes to Vietnam can easily be disguised in the Soviet budget. Only a percentage is charged to defense. The rest is assessed against budgets of various industries.

MILITARY EXPENDITURES

This is true of military expenditures in general, so that the total military budget in reality is probably 50 per cent more than the announced 14.5 billion rubles for 1967. The government values the ruble at $1.11.

The pressure for more military spending is awkward. The leadership has been trying to raise living standards. The plan has been to boost the over-all minimum wage to 60 rubles a month by 1970, to double collective farmers' incomes, which are the country's lowest, and to boost industrial wages by 20 per cent. All this is expensive in a country with a labor force of 100 million whose government bears all the cost.

★ ★ ★

The party and government have been wooing intellectuals, trying to show them that what ever is being done is to their benefit.

For example, teachers, professors, academicians and the like may hire out as consultants to industry, thus raising their incomes as much as 50 per cent.

INFLUENTIAL SECTOR

The technologists' sector in the Soviet Union is big and influential now. It includes the managerial class, the economists, engineers, scientists, technicians. It has shown it wants a larger share of the results of its work.

Lower down the scale, the kolkhozniks or collective farmers will suspect a slowdown in efforts to raise their standards by increasing their output and individual incomes. An increased military budget means new strains on the agricultural sector, which also produces for defense purposes.

Industrial workers may be affected, too. The average cash wage for them is somewhere near the equivalent of $120 monthly, though, as real wages in comparison with the West, it is much less in terms of consumer goods.

The things Ivan Ivanovich wants are high priced. A television costs a month's wages, a refrigerator more than that. He has been buying things on the instalment plan through credit extended by state stores, but perhaps that will be slowed down, too. Instalment buying in 1965 reached about three billion rubles worth, and since there is a shortage of quality goods, there is additional danger of inflationary pressure.

Prices probably will be going up in any event.

Ivan is not interested in figures. He knows from public announcements that something is being done and that the money will come from his pocket. It must make him sad.

Ban May Be Lifted on Research Drug

By Science Service

WASHINGTON — Experimental human testing of dimethyl sulfoxide (DMSO) may be resumed after a year's ban on research with the controversial, so-called wonder drug.

After reports little more than a year ago that DMSO, a by-product of paper pulp, could cure almost any disease, there was a rash of poorly controlled, hazardous experimentation across the country.

The Food and Drug Administration, which took the compound off the market and prohibited further human tests at that time, is reconsidering its position and is expected to permit clinical trials by researchers who obtain prior permission to carry out their projects.

During the year's blackout, a few scientists have continued human, tests with special permission.

In Cleveland, doctors have reported marked success and no adverse side effects in treating patients with scleroderma, a heretofore incurable disease involving connective tissues of any part of the body, very frequently the hand.

Sitter's on the Way

Muscovites Can Live It Up

MOSCOW (AP) — Moscow will get its first baby sitter service next year.

Parents in the Soviet capital now have to rely on relatives or friends if they want to go out and leave the children at home. The custom of neighboring girls working as baby sitters is little known here.

★ ★ ★

With the organization set up, a telephone call will solve the problem. A sitter will come and stay until parents get back.

This is only one of several innovations aimed at making Moscow life easier.

ON CALENDAR

Starting next year the Muscovite will be able to call for —

A pianist to play at a wedding party.

An interior decorator to give advice on improving the appearance of the family apartment.

★ ★ ★

A student to tutor a child having trouble with school work.

A dressmaker to alter clothes to conform to the newest style.

Someone to look after the flowers and pets while the family is on vacation.

COOKING SERVICE

A cook to prepare food for parties.

A nurse to care for sick relatives.

A small jazz orchestra for private dances.

Leningrad, Riga and Kiev already have such services. They are reported to be great successes.

★ ★ ★

The paper Evening Moscow, which announced the new services, said it has received many calls from readers which show how great the need is.

SLAYING SITE — Two Indiana state troopers stand at the spot on Interstate 74 near Greensburg, Ind., where a trooper was slain in a gunfight early yesterday. Behind troopers, a group of persons stands in a culvert where a deputy sheriff's bullets killed James W. Sprinkle, 29, of Covington, Ky.

Trooper Killed; Hunted Teen Gives Up

GREENSBURG, Ind. (AP) — A teen-ager hunted in the slaying of a state trooper held an elderly farm couple captive more than five hours before surrendering Sunday without resistance.

James Lee Collins, 18, Erlanger, Ky., was jailed on a preliminary charge of first-degree murder.

A companion, James W. Sprinkle, 29, Newport, Ky., died in the gun battle which killed trooper William R. Rayner, 30, Greensburg.

Lawrence B. Ernstes, 78, and his wife, Christine, 76, said they were confronted by the youth when they returned home from church.

When the couple's son, Henry, 52, and his wife, Ruby, 52, stopped by 5½ hours later, the Elder Mrs. Ernstes signaled that something was wrong. The daughter-in-law darted from the house, ran down the road and flagged one of the dozens of police cars combing the area.

Collins and Sprinkle were absent without leave from the Louisville, Ky., Community Guidance Center, a supervisory institution for parolees. Authorities said they were in a stolen car with Sprinkle driving when Rayner stopped them early Sunday on Interstate 74 about three miles east of here.

David Blodgett Jr., 38, of Greensburg, a deputy sheriff with the trooper, said as Rayner approached the auto of foot, Sprinkle stepped out and began firing at both officers. The trooper fell.

Blodgett, who was not hit, said Sprinkle and Collins fled on foot in opposite directions and he shot Sprinkle. "He fell dead in a drainage ditch alongside the highway," the deputy said.

FINDS SHOTGUN

Ernstes said Collins met him and his wife outside their home, holding a shotgun he had found inside. He was wearing some of Ernstes' clothes.

The couple was ordered into the house, Ernstes said. When he refused Collins struck him with his fist, then prodded him with the shotgun.

"I think he was pretty nervous," Mrs. Ernstes said.

"His own clothes were wet and dirty," she added. "He did everything possible to help his appearance. He even scraped mud off his shoes."

Ernstes said Collins acted tough at first, but "finally came around after an hour. I pointed out the difference in our ages, and said to him. 'Surely you don't need a gun to defend yourself against us.' "

The youth then unloaded the shotgun and put it down, Ernstes said.

Mrs. Ernstes cooked bacon and eggs. "He ate well," she said.

Ernstes said the youth told him, "Listen, old man, you've treated me nice. Come dark, I'll slip away. You won't be the worse for it."

Castro: War Shows Reds' Will to Resist

HAVANA (AP) — Prime Minister Fidel Castro declared last night that Communists in Vietnam are showing the world that it is possible to resist and conquer "imperialist aggression."

Addressing a graduating class of 425 agricultural and ranching technicians at Havana University, Castro said, "Few small countries like ours, also threatened only 90 miles away by the imperialist monster, can appreciate the extent of the Vietnam example."

He accused the United States of intensifying the Vietnam war by bombing residential areas of Hanoi, a charge repeatedly denied by U. S. officials in Washington and Saigon.

"Our own embassy located in the center of Hanoi informed us that only a few hundred meters from the embassy, bombs fell from capitalistic planes," he said.

Castro praised the students for their study and labor as "volunteer workers" in agriculture, but sharply criticized "pampered youths" who do not have a Socialist revolutionary conscience and are unwilling to work for the masses.

Row Ends in Killing of 3 Missouri Teens

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — Police said a scuffle early yesterday ended in the fatal shooting of three 17-year-old high school pupils. A fourth pupil was critically wounded.

Maj. F. J. Vasel said Richard Otis, 21, of Eureka, Mo., was charged by the prosecuting attorney's office with three counts of second-degree murder.

Two brothers, aged 14 and 15, were held by juvenile authorities pending further investigation.

Vasel said the victims, each shot once with a 25-caliber automatic pistol, were Michael Tinsley, Joseph Michaels and Gary Ratliff.

Steve Schroeder, 16, is hospitalized with a bullet lodged in his liver, police said.

The youths attended Roosevelt High School in St. Louis.

The shooting occurred during a party at a remote clubhouse near the Meramec River in South St. Louis County.

Vasel said there was evidence that the youths at the party had been drinking beer.

He said several girls reportedly left after the shooting.

Vasel said one of the juveniles and Daniel McNamee, 18, of Pacific, Mo., who was questioned and released, reportedly argued with some of the students Saturday at the clubhouse.

Police said the juvenile told them the clutch on his motorcycle was damaged by one of the students who rode the bike but, apparently, a settlement was reached.

McNamee and the youth were invited back to the party and told they could bring friends, police said.

McNamee, the youth and his brother and Otis attended the party.

Vasel said witnesses told him Otis argued with at least one of the four victims outside the clubhouse and was knocked to the ground before the shots were fired.

Police said Otis told them he was carrying the pistol because he had been rabbit hunting earlier Saturday.

FIRST HAND REPORT

Bob Hope and U.S. fighting men in Vietnam during last year's visit here.

Bob Hope's annual tours of battlefronts and action-ready outposts is a legend in The Armed Services. This year America's favorite comedian will write a daily dispatch during two weeks of his trip through southeast Asia.

Trade Moderately Active

Stock Market Losses Deepen

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market losses deepened early this afternoon following a sharp decline by General Electric which unsettled the list. Trading was moderately active.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was down sharply, losing 10.69 to 796.49.

Weakness in GE spread to other blue chips which are influential in the closely watched Dow average.

A weekend statement by GE president Fred J. Borch that the company's 1966 earnings would fall somewhat below last year's record level was linked with the weakness in GE stock.

WALL STREET SURPRISED

The GE statement came as a surprise to Wall Street.

Delayed by an accumulation of orders, GE plunged 5 points to 80½ on an opening block of 17,400 shares. It trimmed the loss to around 4 points later.

The market was mixed and cautious up to the GE opening. Then many other stocks declined sympathetically.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off 1.6 at 294.7 with industrials off 4.0, rails off .1 and utilities unchanged.

Prices were mixed in active trading on the American Stock Exchange. API Instruments rose about 2 points. Up a point or more were Anderson Electric, Gulf Sulphur, New Hampshire Ball Bearing and Republic Foil. Down about 2 points were Conductron, Leasco Data Processing and Solitron Devices. Louisiana Land lost 1.

Martin Critical of Board Move

'Meeting Should Be Either Open, Closed'

Wednesday's meeting of officials of Pontiac State Hospital and the Oakland County Community Mental Health Services Board should be clearly designated an open or closed session, the hospital's medical superintendent said today.

Dr. Donald W. Martin was critical of the board's calling a closed session but then inviting members of the Michigan Society of Mental Health.

"I will attend the meeting only if it is clearly understood if it is closed or open," Dr. Martin said.

He had no objection to a closed workshop session aimed at ironing out differences between the hospital and the board over a proposed federal grant of $250,000 to the hospital but wants other agency representatives to attend if the meeting is declared open.

* * *

The Michigan Society for Mental Health has gone on record as siding with the board in its reluctance to sign an agreement with the hospital that would assure the hospital's receipt of federal funds.

* * *

Other organizations including the Oakland County Chapter of the Michigan Association for Emotionally Disturbed Children and the County AAUW have urged the board to sign the agreement that would release some of the board's mental health jurisdiction to the hospital.

'Hidden' Money, Keys Are Stolen

An estimated $195 in "hidden" cash and a set of keys to the building were taken early yesterday from the Trojan Bar, 72 Auburn, according to Pontiac police.

Investigators were told the money was stolen from a hiding place sometime after closing time. No signs of forcible entry were found, police said.

WHO'S GOT A MITTEN?—The youngsters at Oakland County Children's Village will have a tree full of new mittens as a result of the generosity of Mrs. John Davidson's class of first graders at Webster Elementary School. Adding another pair to the class' mitten tree—an alternative to exchanging gifts— are Alisa Ely, 59 Waldo, and Orrin Whitcomb, 86 E. Troqoois.

Vandals Hit School; Damage Extensive

Vandals caused extensive damage in a break-in at Waterford Kettering High School it was reported to township police this morning.

Several windows were broken and items were strewn on floors, but little was reported missing.

About $2 in change reportedly was taken from the school's bookstore.

The vandals broke a window in the auto shop to gain entry to the building. They then ransacked the principal's office, assistant principal's office, records room and bookstore, gaining admission to each by prying open doors with a crowbar, school officials said.

A desk was tipped over in the assistant principal's office. No classrooms were vandalized.

A corridor was shut off for awhile this morning for police investigation.

The school is located at 2800 Bender.

VANDALS STRIKE — Howard R. Bennetts, assistant principal at Waterford Kettering High School, inspects some of the damage done by vandals during a break-in at the school reported to township police this morning. Extensive damage resulted, but not much was reported stolen.

2 Hospitalized After Car Crash

A head-on car crash in Troy early yesterday hospitalized two persons. The injured, both passengers, are in William Beaumont Hospital, Royal Oak.

Terry L. Guess, 17, of Warren, driver of one of the cars, was treated for head lacerations and released, while his passenger, George Weiss, 18, also of Warren is in satisfactory condition with multiple lacerations of the face, according to hospital spokesmen.

* * *

Edwin Leon, 46, of Detroit, the other driver, was treated and released. His passenger, Violet Wright of 31 Wellington, Troy, is in good condition with lacerations of the forehead.

Troy police said the accident occurred on Livernois south of 16 Mile.

Recount in Shelby Changes Nothing

Shelby Township supervisor-elect Kirby Holmes remains the only successful Republican candidate for office as a result of the Nov. 8 election.

A recount of votes in four other races has failed to alter the results significantly. Democrats each picked up one vote while the Republicans lost one.

* * *

A malfunction in a precinct 7 voting machine has raised a new question, however, as Mrs. Ruth Brandes and Ronald McDowell consider the possibility of further investigation.

Closest of the votes was that between Ronald McDowell (R) and Trustee Floyd Parrott (D). Parrott's previous margin of nine votes has now been widened to 11, as certified by the recount.

City Man Suicide

The death yesterday of a city man at his home has been ruled a suicide following investigation by Pontiac police.

Alfred E. Orange, 34, of 4 Foster took his own life, police said, by hanging himself from a door with a length of telephone cord about 3:45 p.m.

'Out of Gas' Ruse

City Robbers Victimize 6

At least six men were victimized in the city this weekend, according to Pontiac police. Four of the victims were held up by men who pretended their cars "had run out of gas," police said.

Charles Alexander, 20, of 635 E. Mansfield and Bob Heatley, 18, of 307 N. Perry told police they were approached last night outside a market at 84 Auburn.

Alexander said he and Heatley took into their car two men who asked for a ride to a service station to get gasoline.

The victims said they were forced to drive to a nearby alley, where their passengers drew knives, robbing Alexander of $14 and Heatley of $5.

The same trick was used Saturday night at the same place on two other men, police were told.

LOST $72, LIQUOR

Michael McKnight, 22, of 324 Judson, and Joseph Husereau, 22, of 42 Park said they lost a total of $72 and two bottles of liquor to two knife-bearing bandits who also used the "ran out of gas" ruse.

A city man who said he was walking past a Hughes Street address early yesterday surrendered $235 to two men with a revolver, police were told.

Charles Kendrick, 22, of 32 Mathews said the robbers chased him in a car about 4:30 a.m., cornered him, and threatened, "Give us all your money and everything in your pockets or we'll kill you."

* * *

'LET'S GO FOR A RIDE'

Body said his assailant told him, "Let's go for a ride," forced him to drive to a dead-end street, then took the money and fled.

Family Service Booklet Is Out

Family Service agencies warn of mass society's threat to individual rights in a recent Pamphlet, "The Rights of the Individual Family in a Mass Society."

The booklet was released by Family Service Association of America, to which three Oakland County family service agencies belong.

They are the Catholic Social Service of Oakland County, Family Service of Oakland County and Jewish Family and Children's Service. The pamphlet is available through these agencies.

The agencies emphasize that, despite excellent extensive programs, the individual family still can get lost. Direct services require individualized programs, they add.

The 48-page pamphlet also describes the key position family service agencies take in helping families meet mounting pressures of mass society.

Enterprise at Viet

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — The Enterprise, only nuclear-powered attack aircraft carrier in the world, rejoined 7th Fleet ships Sunday operating off North Vietnam, and launched raids on bridges, truck convoys, supply routes and fuel tanks, the Navy announced today.

Detroiter Hurt in Area Crash

A Detroit woman is hospitalized with possible internal injuries as the result of a three-vehicle accident at the intersection of John R and Avon Roads, Avon Township.

Listed in fair condition at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital is Mrs. Henry M. Velasquez, 33.

She was injured Saturday when the car in which she was riding collided with a tank truck after turning onto John R, then struck a parked car. Driver of the truck, John J. Kosteck of Rochester, escaped injury.

3 Die in Lapeer

LAPEER (AP) — Death has taken three persons of prominence in Lapeer. They were Samuel Danforth, 70, a retired livestock dealer, who died today and Mrs. Roy Moore, 75, whose family has operated a hardware store here since 1908, and Mrs. Ray Patton, 80, both of whom died Sunday. All had long been in failing health.

New Law on 'Out of Business' Sales

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — If you advertise here that you are "Going out of business" - you better go out of business.

The city council passed an ordinance requiring firms having "quitting business sales" to obtain a 30-day license costing $50.

If the firm continues after that time to stay in business, it must pay the city $10 a day until the business actually closes permanently.

The National Guard operates 50 per cent of the Nike Hercules missile sites around key cities in the United States.

People in the News

Edward W. Brooke, the only Negro elected to the U.S. Senate in the last 80 years, says he would like to be like the late New York Democrat, Sen. Herbert H. Lehman.

"I had the greatest respect and admiration for him," Brooke said, "especially when he said 'I serve my country best when I serve my conscience.'"

Brooke, Republican senator-elect from Massachusetts, was presented the Herbert H. Lehman medal of the Jewish Theological Seminary of America in New York yesterday.

Japanese Princess Wed in Tokyo

Japanese Princess Yasuko, niece of the emperor and eldest daughter of Prince and Princess Mikasa, and Tadateru Konoe, grandson of the late Prime Minister Prince Fumimaro Konoe, leave Tokyo today for a two-week honeymoon in Europe.

Konoe, 27, and the princess, 22, were married yesterday in a centuries-old Japanese imperial court ceremony held in a downtown Tokyo hotel.

Stricken Actress Suffers Relapse

MANSFIELD

Actress Jayne Mansfield has suffered a relapse of pneumonia and is under a doctor's care at her California home today, spokesmen for the actress reported.

Miss Mansfield had a temperature of 103 degrees yesterday her doctor reported.

The blonde actress was stricken with pneumonia shortly after her son Zolton, 6, was mauled recently by a lion and underwent several operations. He is recovering.

King Saud Ends Exile in Greece

Ex-King Saud of Saudi Arabia has ended his exile in Greece and is now setting up quarters in Cairo, a city once declared off-limits to him by Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser.

Saud, 65, and his entourage of 45 wives, children and staff moved into a hotel overlooking the Nile yesterday for "an indefinite stay."

★ ★ ★

Nasser granted permission to the ailing former monarch to live in Egypt after he said he wanted to "perceive the sacred Moslem practices and raise my children in a sound Islamic way."

The Egyptian president had accused Saud of engineering an assassination plot against him several years ago.

Cleaner Traps Dirt

Dust-Drudgery Aid

Ask the average homemaker what gift she would like most for Christmas and chances are she might reply: "A permanent maid."

Not a maid, but the next best thing to one — a device that lessens household drudgery — is being offered by General Electric this Christmas.

The unit, an electrostatic air cleaner, miraculously traps up to 95 per cent of airborne dirt, dust and pollen in the home.

Consider the far-reaching implications of the air cleaner near elimination of tedious dusting of books, bookshelves, picture frame, and boat models; far less vacuuming of draperies, fabric-covered walls, and lampshades; less curtain-and-window washing; longer life for upholstery and fabric furnishings.

★ ★ ★

Best of all, the precious time devoted to drudgery is now free for the homemaker's own personal use — whether it be other more important tasks, or just a chance to relax quietly.

NO CHANCE TO SETTLE

With the new electrostatic air cleaner in operation, nearly all the airborne dust which usually coats the tables, chairs and molding is quietly, electrostatically removed before it has a chance to settle.

Even particles of smoke, soot, and kitchen grease are filtered out. Air also refreshingly free of pollen and dust particles which aggravate hay fever and allergy sufferers.

The cleaner air will lower redecorating costs, simply because furnishings will look better longer.

★ ★ ★

Although the idea of electrostatic air cleaning is not new, the gift has a new feature.

DUST IS TRAPPED

The dust is trapped by a low-cost filter pad, which is almost as easy to change as a vacuum cleaner bag.

Furthermore, an automatic signal on the unit indicates when the filter pad should be changed.

Resembling an oversized paper tissue, this pad, made of fine fiberglas, can be tossed out and a new one inserted.

★ ★ ★

The electrostatic air cleaner is a trim, flat little box affair that may be attached to the forced warm-air furnace. If you have central air conditioning or a heat pump, it may also be attached to these units.

Rash of Broken Bones in Family

OSWEGO, Kan. (AP) — Dr. I. J. Waxse is getting the breaks literally — and in his own family. He set the broken arm of his son, Joe, who is a member of the Oswego high school football squad.

★ ★ ★

A few days later he had to set the broken arm of Mrs. Pauline Whitbreak, the doctor's sister and the receptionist in his office.

FOLD FOLD FOLD

Hand-Made Ornaments Prove Easy to Make and Eye-Catching

Just about everyone loves an old-fashioned Christmas tree. Among the most delightful decorations on a traditional tree are hand-made ornaments.

★ ★ ★

Following are instructions for easy-to-make yet eye-catching ones of paper. All that's needed are glue, scissors, a stapler, ruler, needle and thread, and paper.

Some of the most effective ornaments can be made from plain white bond. Construction and foil papers can carry out your favorite color scheme.

To make fluffy Christmas tree, bell, heart or star:

★ ★ ★

1. Trace pattern and cut out. Measure pattern at widest point, double the amount and cut out squares of that size. Cut twelve squares of lightweight paper, six of heavy.

2. Fold square in half, place pattern on top with side marked "fold" directly on fold of square. Cut very carefully. When all have been cut, open them flat.

3. Place all the cut-outs directly on top of each other, and staple along crease three times, at top, middle and bottom. Unfold each segment into equal spaces.

4. Run a thread through the top, knot and hang.

To make segmented ball:

1. Cut nine circles, each having a diameter of 4 inches. Fold in half.

2. Open flat and stack, aligning creases. Staple three times directly on crease, at top, middle and bottom.

3. Alternate top and bottom, fasten outer edges with a drop of glue about ½ of the way down (or up).

4. Suspend as above.

Man Is Jailed in City Shooting

Charged With Attempt to Murder His Wife

A Pontiac man was jailed on a charge of attempted murder early yesterday following the gunshot wounding of his wife at their home.

Jimmie L. Day, 29, of 95 E. Howard was arrested by Pontiac police about 12:30 a.m.

His wife, Patricia, 30, struck with a 22-caliber rifle bullet in the left leg, was treated at Pontiac General Hospital and released.

She told investigators her husband came to the door of the home, fired one shot through the door, then forced his way inside and fired a second shot at her.

★ ★ ★

Police said they arrived at the house to find Day in the living room with a loaded 22-caliber rifle in his hands.

He offered no resistance when arrested, police said.

New Mustang Club Meets Tonight at 8

The Beattie Ford Mustang Club will hold its first meeting since organizing earlier this month at 8 tonight at Beattie Motor Sales, Inc., 5806 Dixie, Waterford Township.

★ ★ ★

The meeting is open to the public.

★ ★ ★

Officers recently elected are Mike Morrow, president; Bill Gamble, vice president; Mrs. Jerry Sidock and Mrs. Jerry Pelkey, secretaries; and Joseph Righter, treasurer.

Ice Fisherman Thanks Trio for His Life

CADILLAC (UPI) — A Cadillac man, complaining of frozen feet and an unforgettable experience, today credited three young men with saving his life after he nearly drowned.

★ ★ ★

Weikkp Raisanen said he was ice fishing in the Cadillac River Saturday when he fell through the ice into the 20-degree water.

Authorities said John Thompson, 23, and Gerry Shetenhelm, 22, were fishing nearby when the accident occurred.

"We rushed over there to do everything we could," Thompson said. "We couldn't stand on the ice, or go in after him. So we made a human chain—lying across the ice."

★ ★ ★

Thompson said they were hoping a motorist driving around the lake would see them there.

AID CAME

After several cars and 25 minutes passed, aid came when Doyle Nelson stopped. "He had enough extra strength that they could pull the man out," authorities said.

Woman Discovers $1,700 Is Missing

A Pontiac woman reported to city police this weekend the disappearance of some $1,700 from her home.

Mrs. Billie Stratton, 46, of 150 Washington said she discovered the money missing last night.

★ ★ ★

The cash and checks were kept in a cedar chest in Mrs. Stratton's bedroom, police were told.

Burglars Hit Area School

More than $1,600 in equipment and $40 in change were stolen Saturday in a break-in at Our Lady of the Lakes High School, 5495 Dixie, Waterford Township.

Pontiac State Police said the burglars gained entry to the school by breaking glass surrounding a door.

★ ★ ★

Reported missing were a $700 graflex projector, a slide projector, a tape recorder, two victrolas, two microphone head pieces; four microscopes, a microviewer, four kits of blood-typing equipment and hypodermic syringes and needles.

The change was taken from a milk vending machine, according to State Police.

Exam Is Near for Suspect in City Holdups

A former Pontiac man is held on bonds totaling $60,000 pending his examination Wednesday on three charges of armed robbery.

William Graves, 25, was ordered held by Municipal Judge Cecil B. McCallum following Graves' arrest by Pontiac police at a city home last Thursday.

An alleged accomplice, C. Leroy Key, 23, of 239 State, is held in Phoenix, Ariz., on a charge of unlawful flight to avoid prosecution.

Pontiac police have been told that Key has refused to waive extradition to this state.

★ ★ ★

Key and Graves are charged with three holdups in Pontiac last October.

McQueen Shakes Up Hotel by His Motorcycle Dodoes

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Steve McQueen, the $750,000-a-picture-and-50%-of the profits film star, who was once an Indiana farm boy, dismayed some of the proud residents of the Sherry-Netherland by parking his borrowed motorcycle under the canopy . . . and then using the sidewalk along Fifth Avenue as a get-off point for a short motorcycle sprint around the block in the rain and snow flurries.

"Want to ride with me, Earl?" Steve asked this intrepid reporter, who intrepidly replied: "NO!"

WILSON

Changing later from his motocycle suit to a dinner jacket, Steve limousined to Cheetah with his wife, ex-dancer Neile Adam to a charity costume ball . . . but soon left, elbowing his way out of crowds of fans closing in on him.

Steve, here for the premiere of "The Sand Pebbles," explains his motorcycling and his success by saying: "I'm people . . . I'm very common."

★ ★ ★

Gina Lollobrigida had a recurrence of her Mexican ailment (not really a relapse, her friends said) and cancelled an appearance for Italian flood victims which she sincerely wanted to make . . . Kathryn Crosby hid herself away in the Sherry determined to write 50 pages of her book, "Bing and Other Things."

Johnny Bennett's afraid Dean Martin'll break his New Year's resolution, which is "not to drink while he's sleeping."

THE MIDNIGHT EARL . . .

SECRET STUFF: Garry Moore's reported being held on the TV bench for something big . . . A beautiful actress wants to dump her beau, but fears violence . . . Girls seem to be getting more backless as well as more frontless. Danger ahead!

Joe E. Lewis, recuperating, will be at the Miami Beach Eden Roc next month, "so I can commute to Hialeah" . . . MGM's decided to go ahead with Irving Berlin's blockbuster film, "Say It With Music" . . . Will Bing Crosby's son Phil make Las Vegas showgirl Georgi Edwards his third wife? . . . Sylvia Syms, opening at L'Intrigue, had Sarah Vaughan and Morgana King visiting onstage with her.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH—Page Morton says she didn't realize how bad New York's air pollution was till she saw a bird bath with a ring around it.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Monte Feuerstein read that a satellite obeyed commands 100,000 miles away—and figures his wife must be giving the orders.

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "More people would try to be successful if those who were already successful looked as though they were enjoying it."

EARL'S PEARLS: Appearances are deceiving. The dollar bill looks the same as it did ten years ago.—Arnold Glasow.

Phyllis Diller insisted she could do the new dances as well as the kids: "I went to the Whiskey a Go-Go, had two whiskeys, and fell flat on my go-go." That's earl, brother.

Adviser Dies

OAK PARK (AP) — Service for Willie M. Graves, 76, legal adviser to the Detroit chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP), will be held Tuesday in Detroit. He died Saturday in Grace Hospital following a long illness.

St. Louis Site of Airport Blast

Meant for a Plane, Detective Theorizes

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — A homemade bomb that exploded in the terminal building of Lambert-St. Louis Municipal Airport Saturday night probably was designed to destroy an airplane, a St. Louis County detective said Sunday.

"We're pretty certain someone was going to put it on a plane and then chickened out," said Detective Hugh Hodges.

James Williams, a custodian, found the bomb — four sticks of dynamite wired to two batteries and an alarm clock — near the Ozark Airlines counter under a row of seats.

More than 1,000 persons were evacuated within 10 minutes and passengers on incoming flights were told to remain aboard their planes.

★ ★ ★

No one was injured when the device exploded, shattering seven large window panes, destroying a display case and several chairs.

2 PREVIOUS THREATS

Maj. F. J. Vasel said his detectives and the FBI were told there had been two previous bomb threats at the airport last week.

★ ★ ★

A pungent odor in the terminal Sunday was attributed to a tear gas bomb by assistant airport manager Ken Muchmore but after an investigation, police said a faulty refrigeration system caused the unpleasant smell.

State Student Rhodes Scholar

CHICAGO (AP) — University of Michigan senior Mark Killingsworth, 20, of East Lansing, has been chosen as a recipient of a Rhodes Scholarship. The scholarship covers two years of study at Oxford University, England.

Killingsworth is one of four college seniors chosen from the Great Lakes district, which includes Michigan, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin and Kentucky.

Rules Eyed to Bar Mafia

DETROIT (AP) — The Wayne County Board of Supervisors is considering stiffer licensing regulations designed to bar the Mafia and other hoodlum elements from Detroit's waterfront.

★ ★ ★

The proposed regulations were drawn up by a special committee appointed to review tentative rules for the waterfront. Named to the 10-member committee were waterfront business labor and port officials. The committee proposes that an applicant's "general reputation in the community" be one of the considerations in granting a license to engage in waterfront activities.

★ ★ ★

New rules were urged by several officials after it was revealed that Mafia hoodlums were planning to establish a stevedoring company.

Latest Wedding Is a Family Affair

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Charles Dodson and Lorraine Mennuti were married eight years ago. A year later, Dodson's brother, William and Josephine Mennuti, sister of Lorraine, were wed.

Today Dodson's second brother, Gerald, is on his honeymoon with the younger sister of the Mennuti girls, Diana Mary.

They were wed Saturday night.

Russian Fair Will Draw U.S. Firms

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Next May, for the first time, the United States will participate officially in an international trade fair in Russia.

According to a U.S. Information Agency announcement during the weekend, 16 U.S. companies have agreed to exhibit food processing, packaging and distribution equipment at Moscow's Sokolniki Park Fairgrounds May 16-29.

The iron and steel industry is a dominant factor in Luxembourg's economy. It employs half of all industrial workers and accounts for 75 per cent of its industrial production.

Hearings Set on Aeronautics

Research, Progress Due Senate Review

By Science Service

WASHINGTON — The quality of aeronautical research and development in the United States will be examined by the Senate Aeronautical and Space Committee in a series of hearings starting after Congress reconvenes Jan. 10.

The senators hope to learn whether current R & D efforts in the field are enough to meet the national need; if policy planning machinery as it now exists is adequate to properly relate the government and private sectors; and what Congress, the Executive, and private industry might do to make sure national aeronautical goals are met.

The relationship between various agencies and industry will also be examined. "In short," a committee staffer put it, "are we doing well enough now, or should we change?"

Historically, it has been the job of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration to discover innovations, and bring them to the attention of the Department of Defense and private industry which would develop them.

★ ★ ★

That program has been changed in the case of the supersonic transport, which will be developed under the aegis of the Federal Aviation Agency.

LOOK BEYOND

"We're looking beyond the SST," the spokesman said, "trying to find out just what kind of organization would best do the job."

Chairman Clinton P. Anderson, D-N. Mex., points out that the aviation industry contributes heavily to both the gross national product and to the trade balance — with more than one billion dollars in favorable trade in 1964.

"Hardly any industry is more dependent on a sizable and sustained R & D effort to maintain a competitive edge," he adds.

★ ★ ★

The committee, when it meets in the last week of January for the R & D hearings, will be basically unchanged from that of last session. Five members were up for reelection; all won.

PROPORTION

There is a chance, in view of overall Republican gains, that the proportion of Democrats and Republicans in the group may change slightly.

If so, the change would affect none of the most important members from either side of the aisle.

About the first week in March, the committee will turn to consideration of the NASA budget.

The Russian navy has 350 motor torpedo boats.

New Findings on Sun Rotation

By Science Service

BEDFORD, Mass. — The sun rotates about 1 per cent faster than was previously thought, according to a new study by the Air Force Cambridge Research Laboratories.

Earlier measurements of the sun's rotation rate were made by observing the movement of long-lived sunspots, which are mostly large and circular.

Shorter-lived sunspots, which may be smaller and elongated, were observed to move faster.

Glue May Replace Hammer and Nails

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Construction workers of the future may find themselves using the "interlocking glue finger" instead of hammer and nails.

The first experiment at the University of Kentucky's new $82,000 civil engineering testing chamber seeks a method of joining building rafters without nails.

A series of wedgelike, interlocking wood fingers absorb much of the pressure ordinarily placed upon nails, and are fastened together by glue.

There were 898 tornadoes in the U. S. last year.

Tree Stealer Out on a Limb

DEARBORN (AP) — Stealing Christmas trees doesn't pay — especially when you try a getaway in a police cruiser with policemen as chauffeurs.

A 16-year-old Dearborn youth found this out—the hard way — Sunday night.

★ ★ ★

With pals parked in rear darkness in a white car, police said the youth sneaked around to the front of a supermarket, grabbed a tree and scampered back.

★ ★ ★

But, meanwhile, a white Dearborn police cruiser had pulled up in the rear and the sneak-thief's pals had vamoosed.

'LET'S SCRAM'

Panting, the 16-year-old ran up in the darkness and said, "Let's get out of here before the cops come." The cops, it turned out, were in the front seat.

★ ★ ★

The tree went back, youth-delivered. The youth was police-delivered into custody of his parents.

Brezhnev Gets High Honors on 60th Birthday

MOSCOW (AP) — Leonid I. Brezhnev received praise and honors today given no Soviet leader since the fall of Nikita Khrushchev 26 months ago.

The Kremlin's emphasis on collective leadership since the fall of Khrushchev was dropped for Brezhnev's 60th birthday today.

The general secretary of the Soviet Communist party was accorded honors far exceeding those usual even for a top official.

Normally only Pravda, the Soviet Communist party paper, is issued Monday. But all national newspapers published special editions with a large portrait of Brezhnev in the center of the front page.

Izvestia, the government's afternoon paper, came out this morning to honor Brezhnev.

All papers also carried a glowing tribute to Brezhnev signed by the party's ruling Central Committee, the government Council of Ministers and the Presidium of the Supreme Soviet.

They also published the text of the decree awarding Brezhnev the country's highest honor, the title Hero of the Soviet Union, which carries with it the Order of Lenin and a gold star medal.

These were presented today in a Kremlin ceremony by President Nikolai V. Podgorny.

Brezhnev's portrait was shown on television for five minutes Sunday night as the announcement of the award and a congratulatory message were read. This was unprecedented in the post-Khrushchev era.

The congratulatory message included such phrases as, "Tireless and manifest activities to the good of our homeland."

"Outstanding services to the Communist party and the Soviet state" and, "Great services against the Nazi invaders" during World War II.

The present Soviet command has stressed collective rule in contrast to the personality cults of Khrushchev and Stalin.

In recent weeks, however, Brezhnev has been singled out as the top man with praise in speeches by other leaders.

Honored for Vaccine

Truman Award to Salk

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Dr. Jonas E. Salk was given the 1966 Harry S. Truman commendation award Sunday night for his aid to humanity through discovery of the Salk polio vaccine.

The award, given by the Bonds for Israel Committee, went previously to Gen. Lucius D. Clay and Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey.

Former President Truman, in a letter read at the dinner, expressed hope that another Jonas Salk might soon come forward to free humanity "from the most virulent of all diseases, the disease of war."

Salk, director of a research laboratory in San Diego, Calif., told the dinner audience, "the world belongs to each new generation.

"We must realize the potentialities of a generation that already, at this stage in its youth, knows more than we do, and gives promise of learning more than we could if we were to try to start all over again."

Kidnap-Killing in Utah Probed

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (AP) — Utah authorities are investigating the Saturday kidnap-slaying of a young Kearns, Utah, service station attendant and the disappearance under similar circumstances of a Salt Lake City attendant Sunday night.

The service stations where both part-time attendants worked had been robbed.

★ ★ ★

Hunters discovered the nude body of Steven Shea, 18, early Sunday along a desert road near Timpie in western Utah. He had been stabbed five times.

A motorist found the station where Shea worked open and the attendant gone.

Police said Mike Holtz, 18, of Salt Lake City was reported missing after a motorist ran out of gas and found his station unattended and robbed.

Holtz' partly eaten lunch and a hot cup of coffee were on a counter near the station's empty cash register.

Soviet N-Test

WASHINGTON (AP) — Seismic signals originating from the central Soviet Union equivalent to a nuclear blast in the low-intermediate range have been recorded by the Atomic Energy Commission, indicating another Soviet underground nuclear test.

Romney Wondering if Johnson Will Run

WASHINGTON (AP) — Michigan's Gov. Romney said yesterday he is "beginning to wonder" whether President Johnson might decide not to seek reelection in 1968.

Also on a political note, he declared that his refusal to support the Republican presidential nominee in 1964 would present no serious obstacle to his nomination in 1968.

But as to whether he actually will seek the nomination, Romney said, "I don't know, I don't know."

The GOP front-runner in the 1968 speculation repeatedly dodged questions on the need for a tax increase. However, he said most experts on this subject feel "we should have had a tax increase a year ago. And that failure to deal with the fiscal and budgetary situation a year ago has been very costly."

On another subject, the Michigan governor said he may go to South Vietnam for a firsthand look at the situation for a full understanding of the war.

'NO SIMPLE ANSWER'

"I don't think there is any simple panacea to the conflict in South Vietnam," he said. "I don't know of any more complex type of military combat than we are engaged in. . .it is unbelievable, when you go there and see it.

Regarding the likelihood of Johnson running in 1968, Romney said ". . .circumstances might develop as a result of which he (Johnson) would decide not to run."

In response to other questions put to him at a Washington interview, Romney offered these views:

● He doesn't have "anything to repent of in 1964" when he refused to support Barry Goldwater for president.

● If he decides to run it will make no difference whether President Johnson or someone else is his potential opponent.

● He doesn't feel he can go into specifics on the Vietnam war without having more information on it. But "I think there are alternatives that ought to be considered. . .at the proper time I will discuss the matter in a specific manner. . ."

● "There is a credibility gap at home, there is a credibility gap abroad. . .officials responsible for activities at home and abroad have been making statements that weren't borne out . . ."

● ". . .there has been an effort to do too much too soon through federal spending. One of the great fallacies. . .of our period is that you can solve problems with government money."

● He thinks that if Gov. George Wallace of Alabama is a third-party candidate for the presidency in 1968 it will hurt the Democrats rather than the Republicans.

FIVE DIE IN CRASH FIRE—Firemen fight a raging fire today caused when a fuel truck and two automobiles collided on the east side of Indianapolis, Ind. At least five were killed following the explosive collision when the fire broke out and engulfed six more vehicles. Two others were reported severely burned and were removed to hospitals. (See story, page A-2.)

Pontiac Recalls 16,245 Autos

Pontiac Motor Division today notified owners of 1967 model Tempest, LeMans and GTO automobiles produced before Oct. 18 at the divison's home assembly plant to return the vehicles to dealers for inspection for possible misaligned steering shafts. Including those still in dealer inventory, 16,245 cars will be checked.

Pontiac said a possible misalignment in some of these vehicles occurred on the assembly line. The assembly process was changed in mid-October.

Misalignment could cause a binding condition in steering, which, even though not noticeable, would subject the steering shaft to abnormal stresses and if continued for a long period of time could cause a failure.

If these stresses are severe enough, the steering shaft could break at low car mileage, particularly when the vehicle is being parked or being turned at slow speeds.

A Pontiac Motor Division statement said its continuing concern is to assure the integrity of its cars and the comfort and safety of all who use them and to pursue that responsibility both before and after a car is sold.

This is in keeping with the stated policy of General Motors.

Governors Ask to Aid '68 LBJ Campaign

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic governors want President Johnson to let them help make the decisions on how to run the 1968 presidential campaign.

This was the nearly unanimous verdict of about a score of state executives who heaped their political woes on the absent President's shoulders at the National Governors' Conference in White Sulphur Springs, W.Va., last week.

Privately, the governors complained to each other that politically Johnson is a one-man band who doesn't even invite them to sing in the background chorus.

There is likely to be some pointed conversation about reorganization of the Democratic National Committee at a projected post-Christmas meeting between the President and a delegation headed by Gov. Harold E. Hughes of Iowa.

Snow Flurries, Cold Will Linger Awhile

Button up your overcoat and wear your boots tonight, Snow flurries will accompany colder temperatures, with the low to fall between 20 to 26.

Tomorrow will be more of the same, predicts the weatherman, as temperatures hover in the 20s with cloudy skies bringing snow flurries.

Prior to 8 a.m. the low temperature in downtown Pontiac was 16. By 1 p.m. intermittent sunshine coaxed the mercury to a wintery 22.

Jesus Labored Hard as Humble Carpenter

(EDITOR'S NOTE — First article in five-part series.)

Associated Press Religion Writer
By GEORGE W. CORNELL

In a steady rhythm, the ax rose and fell, biting into the base of the tall sycamore. Every two strokes, one swinging sideways and the next slicing downward, sent a fat chip flying. He rarely missed.

It was an instinctive skill, born, shaped and seasoned into Him by upbringing and years of toil. He was a "naggar," as His native Aramaic termed it, a joiner, builder and worker of wood.

Breathing hard, Jesus stepped aside as the tree swayed with that slow, cracking groan, as if in a final desperate protest against the gash tearing at its heart, and then it fell with a roar and lay silent.

The sun rode low, past the eighth hour. He trimmed off the limbs and lifted one end of the log, levering it on His bare back until He got it balanced across His shoulders behind His head, and then He started home.

It was good timber, cut after the autumn's last growth when the sap was down.

★ ★ ★

A craftsman respected his materials. That was far more than the oppressors of Israel did for its people, even when they were pliantly submissive.

"If they do this when the wood is green," He would later observe, "what will happen when it is dry?"

When revolt did come, Caesar would crush it with massive destruction. Already many had died, and thousands of Jews, including children, had been shipped to Rome as slaves.

Tradition says that for about 20 years, from the time Jesus became a "son of the Torah" at

GI to Receive Highest Award

WASHINGTON (AP) —Army Lt. Walter J. Marm Jr., whose family had wondered what kind of soldier he would make, receives the nation's highest award for heroism today.

★

Sixteen relatives and members of Marm's family were to be present today when Secretary of the Army Stanley R. Resor presents him the Medal of Honor for courage during the battle of Ia Drang in November 1965.

Marm, 25, of Washington, Pa., is credited with kiling 18 North Vietnamese soldiers firing on his platoon at the foot of Chu Pong Mountain. He was wounded in the battle.

"To tell you the truth, I didn't know what kind of soldier Joey would be," Marm's father, Walter J. Marm Sr., said when President Johnson signed the citation last Nov. 16.

"He'd never been in a fight in his life," said the retired Pennsylvania state policeman. "I never knew him to be mad at anybody. I wanted to teach him how to box, but he just wasn't interested."

School Work at Stake in Romeo Vote

Voters in the Romeo School District are being asked today to approve a $560,000 bond issue to build additional classrooms.

If approved, the issue would increase the average home owner's tax bill by $7.95 a year, according to school officials, basing the figure on a $3,000 assessed home in Washington Township.

★ ★ ★

Sought are 13 additional classrooms, a library, art center and instructional materials center for the new Indian Hills Elementary School in Washington Township.

Romeo's student enrollment jumped from 2,909 students last year to 3,114 this year. A citizens' advisory committee currently is working on long-range needs for the district.

HONOLULU (Special)—Well, here I go again . . . the USO and I are celebrating our 25th anniversary. I've been with them almost as long as I have with Dolores, my better half. The only difference is that she never sends me overseas at Christmastime.

I almost didn't make it this year. On the way to the airport, we took a shortcut through the sunset strip and ran into a Honda stampede . . the weirdies were doing their Christmas picketing early. I lost 10 minutes combing their hair out of my eyes.

The USO told me not to worry about going to Vietnam, as there is a cease-fire in effect this year. I didn't have the heart to tell them that I've been shot at in peacetime . . .

HOPE

When I first started this gig in 1941, our allies, Russia and China, were helping us fight Germany, Italy and Japan.

We seem to have chosen up new sides. If we can ever get this thing finished, we might have nothing but allies.

It's hard to believe I've been doing this sort of thing for 25 years . . . seems like I've been

Stocking Stuffers, Extras Important to Holiday Fun

By JEANNE NELSON

Whether you call them stocking stuffers or just little extras small gifts are important to the fun of Christmas. So let's get started.

For the children there are boxes of crayons and maybe a coloring book or two. The bundle would be under $1. A package of marbles would only cost 29 cents and a see-through bag of plastic soldiers 59 cents.

For 79 cents there are fashion doll outfits and a pair of high heeled shoes for a little miss would be under $1. Knee socks of 100 per cent Orlon for toddler size up to high school can be found for $1 and under.

Bubble bath for boys and girls will cost only about 89 cents. For little girls there are matching necklace and ring sets under $1. The boys will have fun with a cap pistol about 59 cents. Get school children a number of supplies; pens, pencils, notebooks, paste, scissors, all for under $1.

★ ★ ★

Mom would appreciate the purse packet of extra hose. This runs about $1.37 a pack. And holiday paper napkins with matching coasters might please the hostess for about $1.50.

$1 OR LESS

Attractive earrings can be bought for less than 75 cents. The latest record for a teen would cost less than $1. Within the $1 price range, you can get several different colored hairbands, barrettes and ponytail holders.

Warm wool ski bands in a variety of colors are available for about $1. Giant "Mom" and "Dad" coffee cups will cost about 49 cents each.

Note paper with a floral border is under $1. Cosmetic cases for handbags will only cost about 79 cents.

★ ★ ★

Add a goldfish or another species to the collection for less than 80 cents. An attractive money clip would be under $2.

Jesus Toiled Long, Hard as Carpenter in Nazareth

13, until He was 33, He had worked at His trade, handed down from the old woodworker, Joseph, who had died shortly after the young man's bar mitzvah, his coming of age.

★ ★ ★

He evidently had taken over support of the family, including His mother Mary, and it was hard but worthy labor.

'LOW ESTATE'

They were of "low estate," as she once described it, poor but devoutly responsible.

Under pressures of making ends meet, He watched against waste. In later days, Scripture notes that He twice had His men gather up scraps of food "that nothing may be lost."

He was a saver, in the deepest sense.

★ ★ ★

He was familiar with patched clothes, pointing out that the patch ought to be shrunk like the garment or it would rip loose.

NECESSITY OF BORROWING

He also understood the necessity of having to borrow bread from a friend's house to feed an unexpected hungry guest, even though the hour was late and it troubled the friend to have to dress and come down to unbar the gate.

Nevertheless, "Ask, and it will be given you," Jesus advised. "Seek, and you 2ill find; knock, and it will be opened unto you."

From the valley, sinking now in shadows, it was a long, hard climb up the mountainside to Nazareth.

★ ★ ★

He struggled along under the weight of the tree trunk, its bark digging pits across His sinewy back, gnats swarming about His face.

EMPLOYER'S DUTY

Somethimes, probably, he snaked the logs up the mountain by burro, or hired cutters for it.

In subsequent remarks, He showed keen familiarity with an employer's duty to laborers, and of the forethought essential to construction contracts.

"For which of you, desiring to build a tower, does not first sit down and count the cost . . . ?

★ ★ ★

"Otherwise, when he has laid the foundation and is unable to finish, all who see it begin to mock him, saying, 'This man began to build and was not able to finish.' "

MORE PAY THAN EARNED

He also maintained, in a parable regarded as depicting His own great-hearted ultimate rule, that a householder had a right to pay his men more than they earned, to full needs of the scantily employed as much as the full-time jobholders.

"Do you begrudge My generosity? . . . the last will be first, and the first last."

The woodworking shop in usual tools of that region and period — wedges, knives, awls, drillbits worked with a bow string, measuring rods, plummets, set-squares, bronze nails and the multipurposed adze.

★ ★ ★

Here the raw timber was split, planed into boards and made into tables, threshing floors and cabinets, or carved into wheels, yokes and ploughs—farm items for which Jesus was especially noted, according to ancient legend.

STRENUOUS LABOR

It was strenuous labor of the deft hand and accurate eye, of sweat, straining muscles and aching fatigue, of callused palms, throbbing bruises and the sweet sleep which only heavy exertions can bring.

Jesus turned out dependable workmanship; He was highly regarded, increasing in "favor with God and man," as Scripture puts it.

Such a reputation among fellow townsmen indicates he was a fair dealer, reliable in filling orders, considerate in His charges, prompt in paying for supplies.

On business in the marketplace, the identifying mark of His trade was a woodchip stuck behind an ear; dyers wore a colored cloth, weavers a large bone needle thrust in front of their tunics. Scribes carried a pen.

OTHER JOBS

Besides handcrafting items, woodworkers also built houses, erecting frames, securing limestone and basalt from quarriers for walls, laying rooftrees to hold up the reed wattling packed with clay to form flat rooftops.

Out of practiced experience, Jesus could speak later of the foolhardiness of building a house on sand, where it would collapse from flood and winds, instead of on rock, where it would withstand the elements.

Although generally esteemed, He had a singularly independent turn of mind, calling Him beyond His own clan livelihood.

It was a mission which He asserted He could not do "on My own authority," regardless of how wise or able.

". . . I seek not My own will but the will of Him who sent me."

Distractions tugged at Him, coaxing Him to use His capacities for personal aggrandizement.

He was tempted, Scripture says, an affectionate, proficient, vital man, fond of children and home life, tempted to push his own interests, yet foregoing it to give Himself to others.

"This is My beloved Son in whom I am well pleased," came the divine confirmation to Jesus at the age of 33, to the carpenter who carried the heavy trees up the mountainside and who said, "My yoke is easy, and My burden is light."

DOMINANT CHORD

To ease that burden for others, at the anguished pith of existence, was the dominant chord within him; to bring rest to "all who labor and are heavy-laden" — even though it would mean shouldering a rougher tree—the cross.

Yet the woodworker always loved wood, the smell of it, the touch, the scaffolding it gave to the human habitat.

Heaven itself, as He once described it, was like a tree nourished in the good earth, like a tiny seed springing up until it became a great sheltering monarch, a homing place for all the creatures of the air — one that would never fall to a man's ax.

And at the last, the crack carpenter of Nazareth, the man of the hard arms, the quick hands and sure eye, said He still had a construction project to work on. "I go to prepare a place for you." It would be a "house of many rooms," firmly anchored, well-proportioned, built by a professional.

Accord Terms Remain Secret

City, Employe Groups Set Separate Sessions

Terms of the tentative wage-increase agréement reached between the City of Pontiac and three employe groups remained secret today as police, fire and public works personnel prepared for separate ratification meetings tonight.

★ ★ ★

The pay increase, which will reportedly eat up most of the city's existing $750,000 general fund surplus, also awaits approval of the City Commission.

The Commission is expected to give consideration to the measure at an informal meeting tonight.

The only official comment from state-appointed negotiator Harry N. Casselman is that the settlement "does not meet" all demands, but "deals fairly" with employes and Pontiac taxpayers.

★ ★ ★

Pontiac police, whose sick-call boycott Nov. 1-3 triggered the fact-finding hearing into the dispute, were reluctant to express immediate approval of an agreement.

WAIT FOR DETAILS

"It's nice to hear we've gotten together on this thing," one officer commented, "but nobody's going to be real satisfied until the details are announced."

Members of the Pontiac Police Officers Association (PPOA) are scheduled to hear the terms of the agreement at a 7 o'clock meeting tonight.

The PPOA's initial wage demand included a $1,276 annual increase and longevity benefits.

★ ★ ★

Association representatives reportedly turned down a $750 a year boost by the city during negotiations Thursday.

★ ★ ★

The salary figures will also be voted upon by members of the Pontiac Fire Fighters Association and public works employes in Local 100 of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes.

Death Claims Supervisor in Oakland Twp.

Francis J. Voll Sr., 68, an Oakland Township supervisor for the last 13 years, died yesterday morning at his home.

He had lived in Oakland Township the past 36 years at 4240 Collins and was owner of the Goodison Planing Mill there during World War II.

Service will be at 1 p.m. Wednesday at the William R. Potere Funeral Home, Rochester. Burial will be in Paint Creek Cemetery, Oakland Township.

A Rochester Lions Club memorial service will be at 8:30 tonight. Memorial service by Rochester Chapter 165, OES, and Rochester Lodge No. 5, F&AM, are scheduled for 8 and 8:30 p.m. Tuesday, respectively.

Mr. Voll, a member of the supervisors' powerful ways and means committee, was active in the Oakland Township Farm Bureau.

CLUB MEMBERSHIP

He was a past president of the Rochester Lions Club and a member of City of Straits Lodge 452 F&AM, Detroit.

Surviving are his wife, Caddie; two sons, Frank Voll Jr. and Graham Voll, both of Rochester; eight grandchildren; a brother; and a sister.

County Official Will Head Road Group

Oakland County Road Commissioner Sol D. Lomerson has been elected president of the Association of Southern Michigan Road Commission.

Lomerson is a past chairman of the Oakland County Road Commission.

The election was held at the association's annual conference last week in Grand Rapids.

Fuel Truck, Cars Hit; 5 Die in Indianapolis

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — An explosive collision of a fuel truck and two automobiles, followed by a roaring fire that engulfed six vehicles, left at least five dead today on one of Indianapolis' busiest streets.

Police Inspector John Foran said he believed the five bodies were all that would be found in the twisted, charred wrecks. Two persons reportedly were severely burned and removed to hospitals.

The semitrailer truck jackknifed and two autos crashed into the truck which instantly exploded in a gush of flame, Ralph Smith, 19, an eyewitness, said.

The billowing fire engulfed the truck and five autos, burning so intensely that first fire companies at the scene were driven back and had to call for help.

Traffic was backed up for miles.

DANGER PERSISTS

Children from a nearby school, swarmed around the blazing wreck, worrying police almost as much as the danger of exploding fuel tanks on the passenger cars.

Danger in the area persisted after firemen brought the fire under control. Thousands and gallons of blazing fuel had poured into a storm sewer and smoke came from manhole covers almost a mile away.

Three of the dead apparently were a man, a woman and a young child in a station wagon.

One of the survivors was the tanker driver but he was reported near death at Marion County General Hospital with severe burns.

Soviet Interest in Trade Told

New Attempt to Ease U. S. Curbs Planned

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Johnson administration plans another attempt early next year to persuade Congress to ease restrictions on trade with the Soviet Union and Communist nations of Eastern Europe.

The Soviet government apparently favors removal of East-West trade barriers, according to four congressmen who conferred with Soviet trade officials.

★ ★ ★

"They indicated a very real interest in expanded trade with the United States," Rep. Thomas Ashley, D-Ohio, told a Moscow news conference Sunday.

He and Reps. Thomas M. Rees, D-Calif., James Harvey, R-Mich., and Chester L. Mize, R-Kan., reached Moscow after a two-week tour of Eastern Europe.

'ARTIFICIAL BARRIERS'

"The Soviet view as presented to us is that trade between this country and the United States could increase a great deal if it were not for artificial barriers put up by our side," Ashley said.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., told a New York City audience that he had information that the Soviet Union "is ready to do business with the United States in every area."

★ ★ ★

The administration asked the 89th Congress to lift present restrictions on East-West trade, but the legislation died in the House Ways and Means Committee. Present plans call for its reintroduction after the 90th Congress convenes Jan. 10.

The legislation would end existing tariff discrimination, which averages 50 per cent but reaches 400 per cent or more on some items, on imports from Communist countries except Poland and Yugoslavia.

Quarrel May Delay U. N. Adjournment

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — A new quarrel over U.N. peace-keeping operations threatened today to delay adjournment of the General Assembly's 22nd session.

The Soviet Union and France warned Saturday night that a new crisis might result if the assembly adopted a Canadian resolution setting guidelines for the special committee on peace-keeping operations. The two countries said the resolution was illegal.

★ ★ ★

A conciliation commission of 11 nonaligned countries sought to head off a showdown. One member said the commission wanted Canada to withdraw the resolution. Another said it was trying to work out amendments acceptable to all.

Birmingham Area News

Commissioners Asked to Weigh Parking Study

BIRMINGHAM — City commissioners tonight will be asked to consider a traffic study in connection with a possible parking structure in the area bounded by Bates, Martin, Henrietta and Townsend streets.

Proposed by Reid and Cool, traffic engineering consultants, the study would determine the maximum parking structure capacity which can be accommodated by the existing streets, traffic controls and street improvements required and the need for on-street storage space for cars entering the parking facility.

If approved, the study would require about 60 days and would be undertaken as soon as possible, according to the consultants.

The problem of traffic on Willits will also be taken under consideration by the commission.

★ ★ ★

Based on reports from the Engineering and Police Departments and the traffic consultant, City Manager R. S. Kenning will recommend that the commission take steps to temporarily close Willits between Baldwin and Greenwood to westbound traffic.

PLAN SUBMITTED

An evaluation of the plan would be submitted to the commission after a trial period.

★ ★ ★

A study of the traffic problem was undertaken after numerous residents complained of speeding, of traffic using Willits as a by-pass and of the traffic safety and noise of vehicles at the two right angle bends between Baldwin and Greenwood.

Madagascar was sighted in the 1500s by Diego, a Portuguese captain whose ship had become separated from a fleet bound for India. Some Arab settlements had already been established on the island.

Johnson Calls In Experts for Budget Talks

Summoned to the President's home near Johnson City, 65 miles west of here, were Budget Director Charles L. Schultze, Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman and Director James E. Webb of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

For the current year, Johnson proposed budgets of nearly $7 billion for agriculture and $5.1 billion for NASA.

The budget the President now is working on, for presentation to Congress next month, covers the 12 months starting July 1.

FINAL DETAILS

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara will be at the ranch Tuesday, presumably to help nail down some of the final details of the new defense budget, expected to total nearly $70 billion.

* * *

The total budget will likely run around $135 billion.

The budget, however, is just one of two major documents Johnson is preparing for Congress. The other is his State of the Union message — a broad outline of his goals and plans for the country's future.

Johnson also faces in the next few weeks a decision on whether to increase taxes. Some economists believe a tax hike is needed now to bring federal income and spending into closer balance and to dampen inflationary pressures.

Others, however, feel an increase in taxes now, when some economic indicators are turning mushy, would only promote a recession.

Other problems facing the President include the future of his "Great Society" programs, including social welfare and other domestic efforts; the question of the military draft and future defense projects.

* * *

The President and Mrs. Johnson and daughter Lynda arrived at the ranch Friday.

* * *

Johnson and his wife attended Episcopal church services Sunday in Fredericksburg, 15 miles west of the ranch. Then they toured a frontier museum in that old German community and went to see a house built in 1856.

Libya, situated on the north central coast of Africa, occupies an area of about 680,000 square miles. It is about 2½ times the size of Texas.

It Seems to Me . . .

Prime Study in Paradoxes Offered by United Nations

Just as I begin to lose faith in the United Nations, I'm invited down there for a current briefing with a hundred others across the Nation. They hold six or eight of these sessions every fall. Each time I come away refreshed, uplifted and once more enlisted in the ranks of the "believers."

★ ★ ★

The UN is so unwieldy.

And it's so bunglesome.

You cringe every time you recall that the smallest nation among the 122 members has one vote apiece. That's precisely what they allot the United States.

★ ★ ★

There are 77 nations there that definitely rank as "have-nots." Think of it — 77. These nations are asking — yes, begging — for assistance in every imaginable way. Nothing except the United Nations can drive these grim facts home so convincingly.

We just happen to be lucky enough to live in the greatest nation in the world. We have 40% of the world's gross national product. This always softens the knowledge that we pay 40% of the U. N. costs. The lesser developed countries are desperate for aid, for help, for assistance and even a kindly word.

★ ★ ★

The late JOHN F. KENNEDY once said:

"If we cannot help the many who are poor, we cannot save the few who are rich."

This is a challenging statement and deserves acceptance and recognition around the world—and especially in the United States.

★ ★ ★

Finally, you find yourself confronted by the ancient and unanswerable dictum:

"Can the Lord build a rock so big He can't move it Himself?"

Friends, that's about where the United Nations stands. In this facetious query you'll see some sort of parallel for the existence of the United Nations. Sometimes I think we can't do with it—and then more reasons pop up to prove we can't do without it.

★ ★ ★

Unhappily, in recognition of our assistance, no one ever falls on his knees with paeans of praise and thanksgiving. No, it's mainly a labor of love but it's something we can't justly push aside. But that's the way it is, and we must accept it accordingly and go forward from there.

Foreign Languages . . .

High school students are rapidly becoming aware of the way our globe is shrinking. They're taking foreign languages as they never have before.

Figures for 1964 disclose that nearly three million were studying foreign languages then and the number has probably passed that comfortably today.

This is wise.

It will pay dividends.

Once, South America and Europe were "far, far away." Today it's a question of a few hours. Business and social relations are increasing mightily and the trend will accelerate. More than 25% of our high school students are taking a foreign language. This is an increase of 100% over 1948.

Spanish and French head the list. They should. Our relations with South America increase amazingly. Probably Spanish should top the list. French is the dominant language in Europe, even though its importance has declined.

Personally, I believe a foreign language should be compulsory. Any high school graduate today should be able to speak, write, understand and read one outside language efficiently.

And in Conclusion . . . .

Jottings from the well-thumbed notebook of your peripatetic reporter:

Ducks cruise at 45 miles an hour but when they go past me in a a blind it's usually at 445. . . . . Overheard: "People will believe everything you tell them if you whisper it." . . . . . Mystery Zillionaire HOWARD HUGHES is out of that Boston clinic where he took a whole floor to insure privacy. He left for Las Vegas in three private railroad cars. He is truly the mystery man of all America — and some say the wealthiest. The story of the girl he married is a thriller in itself and I'd tell it if I had more space.

★ ★ ★

Trusted scouts advise me Elizabeth Sullivan rates as one of the attractive girls in the area. . . . . Crossing the Atlantic in a small sailboat without a motor is tried about 50 times a year. An average of about three fail. . . . . Rodale's Prevention magazine suggests drunk-o-meters be attached to all steering wheels and if you can't "blow clean" the ignition won't turn on. . . . . I found a 1955 calendar with the 12 months and to my amazement suddenly discovered the days of the weeks and the months were precisely the same as 1966.

Bon Appetite

David Lawrence Says:

Public Must Face Facts on War

WASHINGTON—Realism is often defined as a facing up to the facts. And that's what the American people need to do in order to understand the Vietnam war and its possible consequences.

LAWRENCE

The first and most important fact is that, while the battle area itself is a small country, North Vietnam could not fight the war without the help of the Soviet Union and Red China. Yet nobody in the United Nations or our own government is laying out the facts to the world or urging that "sanctions" and trade embargoes be imposed so that the majority, instead of a minority, may rule in the entire Vietnam territory.

The latest analysis of the status of the war in Vietnam came a few days ago from Sen. John C. Stennis, Democrat, one of the most conscientious members of Congress. He is a judicial-minded man who weighs facts carefully.

Here are some of the things Sen. Stennis said to the Chamber of Commerce in his own state on Dec. 13 in a speech which didn't get nationwide reporting:

"This war has already cost us 6,000 American lives and billions of American dollars and the end is not yet in sight . . . .

"The Allied forces in South Vietnam — South Vietnamese, American, Korean and other friendly forces — now number about one million men. They are opposed by a combined Vietcong and North Vietnamese force of less than 300,000. However, this does not tell the entire story.

FACES DEFEAT

"The enemy refuses to recognize the fact that he faces defeat. We are faced with a tough, disciplined, well-trained and determined enemy who is still full of fight. He believes that time is on his side and that we will become discouraged and war weary and will pull out rather than continue to pay the high price.

"In short, there is every indication that the Communists have no intention of abandoning the fight or seeking peace through negotiations.

Sen. Stennis declared that it now has become necessary for the executive branch of our government to "formulate the long-range policy that is necessary to win this war" and to enunciate it so the American people and the world will be fully informed.

He added that the enemy "should also be clearly advised of our long-range policy and objectives and of the fact that we are determined to win."

Sen. Stennis believes that, "whatever the cost," the United States and its allies "must stay in Vietnam until peace is achieved."

Bob Considine Says:

War Offers Contrasts That Can Be Startling

ABOARD USS KITTY HAWK OFF VIETNAM — This carrier cost a few hundred million dollars. Its deck is so huge it could hold three football fields and still have room enough to accommodate a tennis court.

CONSIDINE

Monsoon weather pressed closely to the sternly defended targets of North Vietnam this night, so there would be no blazing launchings from this floating arsenal.

The ship was quiet, except for the 14 different movies being shown in 14 different sections.

The jets crowded here represent millions of dollars worth of electronic gear—incredible instrumentation designed to see, hear and think better than the ablest pilot aboard. Another has a camera that cost just under one million dollars.

★ ★

I kept thinking of something I had read a couple of days before — translation of a diary found on a dead North Vietnamese soldier.

LEECHES EVERYWHERE

". . . Right from the first minute we set foot in this jungle and mountain area we encountered our worst enemy, the jungle leeches.

"Alas, they are everywhere and jump on the first man they see.

"In spite of our precautions to cover every part of the body they still succeed in attacking us. When I feel an itch on my foot, I pull my shoe off and see that my foot is covered with blood. Horrible.

". . . We take a bath in the Lam River and prepare to move to the unit tonight. Everyone is ready to carry two baskets on a pole. After a meal at 1500 hours each man receives a pressed rice ball for the night march."

The contrasts are startling in this war. On the Kitty Hawk, computers are employed to ferret out tiny flaws in the most sophisticated black boxes ever put in planes.

5,000 CALORIES A DAY

In one shop the men dress in white and sometimes wear gauze masks while working on incredibly sensitive gear calculated to find and kill furtive infiltrators like the diarists quoted above — and destroy his rice ball to boot.

Kitty Hawk pilots average 5,000 calories a day, but combat keeps most of them underweight.

". . . I have a terrible stomache all day today. As I rest in a civilian house I look at the mirror and, my God, I cannot recognize myself because I did not look that bad a month ago.

"Now my cheekbones are so prominent that I look like a walking skeleton. This evening I have a bowl of rice soup.

". . . I fall asleep and dream that I arrive at home, safe, and am greeted by Kan, my wife. I am so happy, but then there is a bump in the road and the dream is gone."

Questions LBJ's Cutback on Building, Highways

Why is President Johnson cutting building of homes to a standstill when a new generation really needs them and a way of achieving easy credit? Yet, this same government can build Ky of Vietnam a mansion costing nearly $500,000.

★ ★ ★

Why is it we're cutting our highway program when we need better highways more than ever before? This same government can build a superhighway across Thailand. Maybe "Freedom Highway" will be its name since they get it free.

Relates Family's Experience With Mail

Why do we have such poor service through the Pontiac Post Office? A letter from General Motors on Tuesday telling our son to report for an exam on Friday was delivered the following Tuesday. A business letter from Royal Oak was delivered one week late, to the wrong street and address. A letter placed in the Pontiac Post Office Sunday evening was delivered one week and two days later, along with a second letter mailed the following Sunday to see why the first was not answered.

★ ★ ★

These three letters caused a great business and financial loss to our family.

Discusses Oakland County Republicans

Thanks to reporter Jim Long for a fine, factual report on the 'power struggle' developing within our Oakland County Republican party. We sympathize with Senator Huber's idea that the current group does not properly reflect the county's true feelings.

★ ★ ★

Mr. Farnum spoke publicly on behalf of party unity and urged the differing philosophies to work together in compromise. In practice under his leadership, the sincere, hard-working though conservative group comprises some 30 to 45 per cent of the delegates restricted to less than 10 per cent voice among the elected committeemen.

★ ★ ★

If this is Mr. Farnum's concept of 'unity' and 'compromise' then we well accept the need for Senator Huber's efforts.

'Pray for Peace and Keep Women Home'

In regard to women being drafted, think of today's responsibilities of having children, doing the family chores, etc. And where would the single, working girls—full of powder, paint, wigs and false eyelashes—fit in Vietnam? If they had any intentions, there are always the Wacs, Wafs, Waves and Marines.

★ ★ ★

The woman's place is in the home, although if we were in Vietnam we wouldn't have to worry about cooking, washing, grocery bills, collecting trading stamps, etc.

★ ★ ★

Let's pray for peace and hope the time won't come when we have to send our girls off to war.

RESIDENT ON STATE STREET

Question and Answer

If space capsules can have windows strong enough to stand all that pressure and heat, why can't submarines have windows, too?

F. P.

REPLY

The answer we received from Capt. John H. Dinnen, USN, Director of Internal Relations Division, is that windows can be put in submarines, and research vehicles such as "Trieste" do have windows which, in connection with special lighting features, serve a particular purpose. However, the effort and expense of placing windows in submarines are not considered worthwhile, because there is little or no visibility at lower depths. Windows serve no important function in the primary mission of the submarine, but instead would reduce the damage factor and integrity of the submarine's pressure hull.

Effective Force

The San Diego Union

A report by the Organization of American States that international communism has stepped up plans to overthrow independent governments underlines the need for firm and watchful resistance.

Much of the burden falls on the press of North and South America. Indeed, the news media may be facing its severest test in finding and presenting facts on which sound judgments can be based.

★ ★ ★

An effective organization for promoting the necessary communication and exchange of information is the Inter-American Press Association, composed of representatives from newspapers in the Western Hemisphere.

The IAPA has become an effective force for keeping truth alive. It has improved its effectiveness by granting scholarships to talented journalists in the Americas. Altogether, 116 students have benefitted from $276,000 in financial aid supplied by the group.

★ ★ ★

Reporting and interpreting substantive problems of the hemisphere is a difficult but not impossible task. In recent years the press has grown steadily more active, despite opposition in some instances from dictatorial and totalitarian regimes.

Today, with the atheistic Communists openly outlining their basic strategy for revolution, the role of the press in hemispheric relations is more exacting than ever. But the opportunities likewise are great. Public interest in Latin American affairs is growing.

Apathy and ignorance are among the greatest enemies of democracy. The press helps dispel both.

The IAPA serves this common cause of the Americas.

Seats for GIs

Buffalo Evening News

A correspondent wonders what can be done to relieve flight delays for servicemen homebound on leave.

This is a problem that is attracting national attention, and deservedly so especially in consideration of Vietnam-bound men whose waiting at airports for passenger seats — sometimes for many hours — cuts into precious leave time.

Commercial airlines generally offer half-fare rates on a standby basis for servicemen, with preference for them over college students and other youths.

Provision for regular confirmed reservations is made now in emergency leave cases, and the Defense Department, in discussions with the airlines, is considering proposals to establish priorities among servicemen using the standby half-fare option.

These apparently would not benefit men about to be shipped to Vietnam or other overseas areas.

With all due respect for the reservation headaches faced by the airlines and their efforts to give servicemen a special break, it shouldn't be too hard to devise a regular confirmed-reservation plan at these discount rates for men who must travel long distances to their homes before going off for a year or more in Vietnam.*

Jefferson Turkey Had Little 'Cents'

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

When Thomas Jefferson was in the White House, his Christmas turkey cost 75 cents. Ducks then sold for 30 cents each.

BOYLE

During his first year as president, Theodore Roosevelt didn't allow a Christmas tree in the White House. As a conservationist, he didn't approve of cutting down trees for mere decoration. Later, he accepted a Christmas tree that, it was carefully explained, had been chopped down to thin out a too-dense forest.

Novel Gift Wrap

DEAR POLLY—To gift wrap large packages, such as suit boxes, luggage, etc., I buy gay red or green percale print to use as wrapping instead of fancy paper. Sometimes I use a plastic tablecloth.

These can always be put to other use later, and there is very little difference in price between inexpensive fabric and good gift wrapping paper in that size and quantity. Juvenile patterns make nice wrappings for bulky gifts for children.—MARIE

GIRLS — Have you ever wrapped children's gifts in comic sheets from the newspaper? Tie them with rope and tassels made from left-over knitting yarn.—POLLY

DEAR POLLY — How does one get out the fold line in knit or any premapress fabrics that are bought by the yard? I have steamed the fold line and pressed, dampened and pressed, and it is still there. Wouldn't it be wonderful if such fabrics came on large rolls instead of being folded on bolts?—AGNES

★ ★ ★

DEAR POLLY — When doing my Christmas shopping I always buy at least one extra gift box of ladies' handkerchiefs and one of men's, as well as a pair of conservative cuff links and a bottle of cologne.

I wrap these, put on tags minus name and have them ready for those unexpectedly needed gifts that might place one in an embarrassing position if not prepared.—VERONICA

DEAR POLLY—Costume jewelry makes a glittering addition to a table decoration or small tree. I arrange a few pieces of holly and two red candles in a dish, then clip earrings onto the holly leaves or branches for a very decorative effect.—A. T.

DEAR POLLY — When replacing some damaged vinyl tiles I was at a loss as to what to use to weight them down until the mastic had set. I hit on the idea of using a plastic scrub bucket full of water which applied uniform pressure that practically covered the nine-inch tiles. — MRS. M. K. W.

DEAR POLLY — When carrying a picnic lunch while traveling in a station wagon, take along some small folding chairs. It is not always possible to find a picnic table at the right time, so let down the car's tail gate to serve as your table and have the chairs to sit on.—MRS. C. M.

Interviewer Talks, She Hears News

NEW YORK (AP)—The World Journal Tribune called Mrs. Gerard Nugent, mother-in-law of Luci Johnson Nugent, to confirm reports that the newlyweds are expecting a "blessed event."

The conversation went like this:

Reporter: "Mrs. Nugent, a New York Newspaper has reported that your daughter-in-law is expecting a baby next July."

Mrs. Nugent: "Why, that's wonderful news."

Reporter: "You hadn't heard before?"

Mrs. Nugent: "Why no, I hadn't."

Reporter: "When was the last time you talked to your son?"

Mrs. Nugent: "Sometime last week."

Reporter: "He didn't mention anything?"

Mrs. Nugent: "Nothing about Luci. I heard one of the beagles had pups."

Reporter: "Do you plan to call your son tonight?"

Mrs. Nugent: "No, I don't."

Reporter: "Don't you want to ask him?"

Mrs. Nugent? "No. You told me."

Reporter: "Mrs. Nugent, you sound like a lady who has had a lot of experience talking to the press."

Mrs. Nugent: "Only for the past year."

The reporter confirmed one fact anyhow — one of the beagles has pups.

No Deaths Reported

NEW YORK — Birth control pills, like all medicines, should be kept out of the reach of children, but none of the nation's 364 poison control centers has recorded a single serious illness or death among youngsters who have eaten their mother's oral contraceptives.

In reporting the absence of deaths or serious illnesses from birth control pills, experts at the National Clearing House for Poison Control in Washington accented the need to protect youngsters from medicines prescribed for adults. While the birth control pills have not added to the problem of fatal poisoning, a common medication like aspirin still takes a heavy toll of lives every year among children four years old and younger.

LARGEST SAMPLE

Dr. Alan F. Guttmacher, president of Planned Parenthood, told Women's Medical News Service: "Although we have the largest caseload in the United States of women on 'the pill' — and have gotten reports from time to time of small children taking the medication — we haven't had a single report of serious illness or death resulting."

Top Scientist in Britain Is Going to U.S.

LONDON (AP) — A top British medical scientist said today he is leaving Britain to do cancer research in the United States because he will have more opportunity there.

He is Dr. Frank Kingsley Sanders, 49, director of the British Medical Research Council's virus laboratories at Carshalton, near London.

★ ★ ★

He said he is leaving next September to work in a laboratory built for him at the Sloan-Kettering Research Institute in New York.

"My motive for leaving is simply opportunity," said Sanders. "Money by itself should not be the main motive for any scientist to go anywhere. The important thing is that I will be able to have young graduates working with me in America."

STAFF OF 30

He has a staff of about 30 at Carshalton. He hopes to have two or three times that number in New York. His salary also will be more than doubled, rising from $12,600 to $27,000.

Fires in N. Y. Take 6 Lives

NEW YORK (AP) — Two women and four children died Sunday in two fires in Brooklyn and Queens.

Patricia Bataskoff, mother of three of the children, was honeymooning with her new husband at a Manhattan hotel.

★ ★ ★

Her children were Richard Della Salla, 4, his brother, John, 2, and sister, Barbara, 1. Also killed in the Bayside, Queens, fire was Mrs. Bataskoff's mother, Natalie Maeder, who was baby-sitting with the children.

Another Queens fire claimed the lives of Marjorie Jamieson, 36, and her daughter, Dianne, 7. Her husband was at work.

Ailment Fatal to No. 2 Man in Mississippi

LAUREL, Miss. (AP) — Carroll Gartin, lieutenant governor of Mississippi, died this morning after being admitted to a hospital with a heart ailment.

Gartin, 53, was taken to Jones County Community Hospital at 10 p.m. Sunday. He died at 3 a.m. today.

A candidate in the 1967 governor's race, Gartin was serving has third term as lieutenant governor. He had held the office since 1952.

He lost a bid for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination to Ross Barnett in 1959.

★ ★ ★

Gartin was chairman of the Mississippi Democratic Convention in 1956 and again in 1964.

Born in Meridian Sept. 4, 1913, he attended the University of Mississippi and Jackson School of Law.

Jets Help Buffalo Make 'Big Play'

Patriots Staging Boston Tea-r Party

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Patriots were crying in their cups — instead of laughing en route to the bank — today as the old familiar song rang anew: Wait 'till next year.

"The pain is going to linger a long while," Boston Coach Mike Holovak said after the Patriots' collapse in the final game of the American Football League season.

"In my six years as coach of the club, we've won the Eastern title once, and four times we've lost it on the final weekend."

The Patriots had nobody but themselves to blame for blowing the Eastern crown, a shot at the AFL title, and then a crack (with $15,000 per man to the winner) at the National League champ in the first Super Bowl.

Needing a victory or a tie to win the division title, the Patriots went into New York and were upset 38-28 by the Jets Saturday. Then Buffalo nailed down the championship by whipping outclassed Denver 38-21 Sunday.

HORROR SHOW

Holovak figured — and correctly so — that Buffalo would handle Denver easily. However, he watched the second half of a weekend horror show, by television, at home.

★ ★ ★

"It still hurts," he said softly in reference to the New York game which wrecked Boston title hopes.

"We beat Buffalo twice during the season, and here we are watching them win the championship," he said.

★ ★ ★

"It's difficult to believe. Our defense fell apart at New York. I figured that if we scored 28 points, we would win. I never figured they would score 38. Who could?"

"This is the story of my life," said quarterback Babe Parilli, a veteran of 13 pro campaigns. "I'm snake bit. I can get so close, but not the whole thing. Maybe when I'm coach . . ."

Rookie Passes Dolphins Past Houston, 29-28

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — John Stofa, a quarterback acquired in desperation, brought the maiden season of the Miami Dolphins to a rousing climax Sunday by firing them to a 29-28 victory over the Houston Oilers.

The win, fashioned by Stofa in the final 38 seconds with a 14-yard touchdown shot to Joe Auer, spared the Dolphins from solitary confinement in the American Football League's Eastern Division cellar.

They'll share that place with Houston.

Kansas City 11 Wins Finale

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Rookie halfback Mike Garrett believes his Kansas City Chiefs are ready to take all the marbles.

"We're ready to win the whole thing. We're set," said the little scooter after the American Football League Western Division champs beat San Diego Sunday 27-17.

"This was our best team effort since we clinched the division title two weeks ago."

Garrett twisted and zigzagged for 161 yards on 25 carries and scored the Chiefs' final touchdown against the third-place Chargers.

Denver Errors Also Important in Bills' Title

38-21 Victory Lifts Defending Champs Into Playoff Clash

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — The Buffalo Bills, who two days ago faced a third down and 10 situation in defense of their American Football League crown, have made the key first down — but not without the knowledge that from here on in there will be no outside assistance.

"We're going to have to be sharper than we have been to beat Kansas City," Coach Joe Collier admitted after Sunday's 38-21 victory over Denver brought the Bills their straight Eastern Division title. "Knasas City's got a tough club — a well-rounded club.

★ ★ ★

"They're one of the top clubs in the league offensively and defensively and they have good special teams. We played one of our best games when we beat them in Kansas City — and that's what it'll take to beat 'em again."

The Bills did not play one of their best games against the Broncos despite the score. And before even getting the final shot at the title they needed an 11th hour reprieve provided by the New York Jets.

The Jets knocked off front-running Boston 38-28 Saturday and left the Patriots with an 8-4-2 record. That gave the Bills an opportunity to clinch their third straight title with a 9-4-1 record if Denver would cooperate.

SPUTTERING ATTACK

While the Bills could be faulted for their sputtering attack, not one could fault the Broncos for their cooperation.

Playing their final game under Coach Ray Malavasi, the Broncos gave the Bills as many assists as Oscar Robertson gets on a good night. They lost the ball three times on interceptions, gave it away twice on fumbles and chipped in with a short punt and an aborted onside kick attempt.

That was enough for the Bills, who spread their scoring among six men as they moved into the AFL championship game against the Chiefs here on Jan. 1, with the winner taking on the National League Champions either Green Bay or Dallas — in the first Super Bowl game.

Jack Kemp, the Buffalo quarterback who engineered the victory over Denver despite completing only nine of 23 passes for 147 yards, didn't feel the Bills had played as poorly as the statistics would indicate.

★ ★ ★

"Denver was loose," Kemp pointed out. "They had nothing to lose. "They were going all out, blitzing without worrying, coming all the time.

"I think we have a good chance against Kansas City. They're a good team with no particular weaknesses, but I think we are too — and you can say the same for Green Bay and Dallas, too."

FIRST SCORE—Wray Carlton (30) Buffalo Bills' fullback goes through a big hole in the Denver line to score from the two yard line in the AFL contest in Buffalo yesterday. No. 80 behind Carlton is former Detroit Lion, Danny LaRose, who plays the defensive end post for Denver. Buffalo won the game, 38-21.

Mikes-WOLL in Showdown

Loop Parochial Title Is at Stake

The big game's at hand for the Lakers of Waterford Our Lady and the Mikemen of St. Michael.

The two will square off tomorrow night on the Lakers' floor at 8 o'clock with the lead in the Macomb Parochial League at stake.

St. Michael heads the pack at present with a 5-0 record, but Waterford Our Lady is only a half game back at 4-0.

There are a lot of games remaining on the schedule, but this one carries a lot of weight for both teams.

★ ★ ★

The Lakers, Mikemen and St. Frederick shared the title last year with 9-3 records, and the three were preseason choices to battle for this year's crown.

LOST TWICE

St. Frederick, however, has lost twice in six league outings and may be out of the race. The Rams journey to Emmanuel Christian tomorrow evening for a nonconference encounter.

★ ★ ★

A couple of other league games will have Detroit St. Rose (0-5) at Richmond St. Augustine (1-4) and Ancbor Bay Catholic (1-4) at Marine City Holy Cross (2-2).

The Eaglets of Orchard Lake St. Mary will be looking for their seventh straight victory of the season and sixth in league play when they travel to Ferndale to meet St. James tomorrow evening.

In other Northwest games, Royal Oak St. Mary (3-2) journeys to Detroit to meet St. Rita (1-4), while St. Francis de Sales (1-4) entertains Highland Park St. Benedict (0-5).

In other games, Birmingham Brother Rice will be looking for its fifth straight win in a visit to Detroit Cathedral, while Utica St. Lawrence plays host to Detroit Nativity and Redford St. Mary visits Royal Oak Shrine (4-1).

Post-Season Bowl Scenes to Shift Again

By the Associated Press

The post season college football bowl season moves from Houston to El Paso, Tex., and Montgomery, Ala., this week as Florida State meets Wyoming in the Sun Bowl and two all-star squads clash in the Blue-Gray game on Saturday.

In the Bluebonnet Bowl at Houston last Saturday, Texas blanked Mississippi 19-0 with slight Chris Gilbert starring for the Longhorns.

At El Paso, Wyoming, which lost only to Colorado State during the regular season, and Florida State, 6-4 after finishing a rough schedule, battle in a nationally televised game that can be seen on NBC at 4 p.m. EST.

The Blue-Gray game will also be televised, on CBS at 2 p.m. EST. Top seniors from colleges around the country will participate. Virgil Carter, Brigham Young quarterback, will call the signals for the Blue, while Baylor's Terry Southall does the job for the Gray.

Gilbert, a sophomore tailback, ran for 156 yards against a highly regarded Mississippi defense, a record for the Blue Bonnet Bowl.

Local Quintets Battle in W-O

Schedule to Dwindle After Tuesday

A handful of local basketball teams will get in their final licks tomorrow night before taking time out for the Christmas vacation.

League games are on tap in the Wayne-Oakland, a loop that has produced a couple of surprises, and in the Oakland A where things are normal.

Holly and Bloomfield Hills have been the surprises in the young W-O season, while Warren Fitzgerald and Cousino are winning as expected in the O-A.

Picked to finish somewhere near the bottom in the W-O, Holly has rolled up three wins in a row and now shares the lead with Clarkston and Northville.

★ ★ ★

Bloomfield Hills, cochamp last year, was a preseason choice to remain a contender but the Barons have dropped two of three in league action.

TUESDAY SLATE

On the Tuesday schedule, Holly visits Milford (0-3), Brighton (0-3) entertains West Bloomfield (1-2) and Clarenceville (1-2) journeys to Hills (1-2).

★ ★ ★

Clarkston (3-0) entertains Northville (3-0) Friday.

A full slate is on tap in the O-A with Warren Fitzgerald (3-0) at Avondale (1-2), Warren Cousino (3-0) at Madison (2-1), Rochester (1-2) at Lake Orion (0-3) and Troy (0-3) at Clawson (2-1).

The O-A squads also have games set for Thursday and Friday before taking their holiday break.

Among the nonconference games slated for tomorrow, Waterford (2-2) visits Lapeer (2-2) and Oxford (2-1) entertains Warren Woods.

Elsewhere, Deckerville goes to Harbor Beach OLLH, Harbor Beach visits North Huron, Millington is at Reese, Marlette at North Branch, and St. Charles visits Utica Stevenson.

Falcons Falter in NFL Finale

ATLANTA (AP) — The Atlanta Falcons' first National Football League season ended on a sour note, but Coach Norb Hecker says he believes "we had a very successful year."

Pittsburgh whipped Atlanta 57-33 Sunday, biggest point total posted against the Falcons in their NFL debut.

"We didn't play very well defensively against the Steelers," Hecker said. "But I thought we had a good year.

★ ★ ★

"We didn't set any won-lost goal, but we wanted to improve all the time, and I think we did."

Despite the loss in the finale, Atlanta won three games during the season to equal the most victories scored by an expansion team in its first season.

"Beating St. Louis and knocking a contender out was our high spot of the season," Hecker said. "Our lowest point was getting beaten 44-7 by San Francisco."

The Falcons were never in contention against Pittsburgh but they scored more points than they had managed against any other foe.

"We made a lot of mistakes against the Steelers," added Hecker, whose team's fumbles and pass interceptions set up 27 Pittsburgh points.

GOOD NUCLEUS

"But I think with a few improvements here and there, we have the nucleus for a pretty good team next year," he said.

Linebacker Tommy Nobis, named the Falcons' most valuable player, agreed.

★ ★ ★

"Everybody is looking forward to next season," Nobis said.

"We started to find ourselves at the end of the season, and I'm sure we'll be a lot better next year. We were always the underdog this fall and that makes it tough," added the rookie from Texas.

Arch-Rivals Pull Rug From Fifth-Rated '5'

By The Associated Press

Just when the New Mexico Lobos persuaded folks to sit up and take notice, neighboring New Mexico State came along and pulled the rug out from under them.

New Mexico finished second by a second in the family squabble that left the Lobos crying foul and probably sent their No. 5 college basketball ranking tumbling, too.

★ ★ ★

"The timer took the game away from us," said Lobo Coach Bob King after his club lost on the road to New Mexico State 62-61 in overtime Saturday.

★ ★ ★

The Lobos led 61-60 and had the ball with four seconds left when Ben Monroe was called for charging. Ernie Turner of State, now 4-4 sank two free throws after time ran out to sink the Lobos.

"The game was definitely over when the foul occurred," King said, "and everybody knew it."

★ ★ ★

"I don't think there's any question about it," challenged Lou Henson, New Mexico State coach. "The foul occurred and the buzzer sounded."

The Lobos were not the only ones among the nation's Top Ten to run afoul.

★ ★ ★

Kentucky, No. 4, and Brigham Young, No. 7, each lost twice last week and second-ranked Texas Western was beaten by New Mexico.

THREE WINS

Hoping to take advantage of such bungling, Louisville, No. 3, won three games; North Carolina, No. 5, won twice; Houston, No. 9, rolled to three victories and Cincinnati, No. 10, won twice.

Top-ranked UCLA and eighth-ranked Michigan State were idle.

Gale Sayers Gives Ma, Pa Good Display

CHICAGO (AP) — Roger Sayers and Mrs. Sayers of Omaha, Neb., decided to see their son play a professional football game in the flesh.

Gale Sayers didn't disappoint Mama or Papa Sunday as he flashed the Chicago Bears to a 41-28 victory over the Minnesota Vikings.

The Sayers had reason for enjoying it for the 197 yards the son gained running Sunday gave him a season total of 1,231 and made him the first halfback to win the NFL rushing title since Steve Van Buren of Philadelphia in 1949.

Sayers also set an NFL combined net yardage season record of 2,440 — he totaled 339 Sunday by tacking 142 through kickoff returns and pass receiving onto his 197 rushing.

Waterford Third

Clio Posts Mat Win

Waterford's Skippers came up with a pair of individual championships Saturday but wound up third in their own Invitational Wrestling Tournament.

Clio captured the title for the second year in a row, picking up 97 points to finish eight ahead of Livonia Bentley. Utica (38) was fourth, Lake Orion placed seventh and Kettering's Captains were last in the eight-team field.

The Skippers' Alsup brothers, Joe, a junior, and Eric, a sophomore, picked up victories in the finals.

Joe decisioned Jim Uhleski of Clio in taking the 133-pound title, 13-0, and Eric pinned Bob Dow of Livonia Bentley in claiming the 145-pound crown in 3:37.

Daryl Potter picked up a third-place finish for the Skippers in the 154-pound division.

Lake Orion's Chris Shell downed Bob Belnapp of Bentley to take first in the 112-pound class.

Vikings Suffer Loss

Rochester Tops Romeo

A slow start proved costly for Walled Lake's Vikings who dropped their third game of the season in a 59-48 loss to Highland Park Saturday night.

★ ★ ★

In another game, Rochester's Falcons (2-3) handed Romeo its fourth loss in a row, 64-54.

Highland Park jumped off to a quick 12-0 lead and Walled Lake spent the rest of the game in an unsuccessful catch-up attempt.

Charles Dixon was the spark-plug for the Parkers with 20 points. The winners held a 29-17 lead at intermission.

★ ★ ★

Gus Maragos, hitting well from outside, tossed in 15 to pace Walled Lake (1-3), while teammate Greg Fogle added 11.

Trailing most of the game, Romeo rallied to take a 54-52 lead with four minutes left, but the Bulldogs failed to gain another point while Rochester poured in 12 more to sew up the win.

Don Golding led the Falcons (2-3) with 23 points and Jim Burton contributed 17.

Rick Schapman picked up 17 to spark the Romeo attack, while Dwight Ford and Clyde Cushingberry tossed in 13 apiece.

Rochester led at halftime, 23-20.

Cincinnati Five Tames Broncos; U. of D. Wins

By the Associated Press

The Cincinnati Bearcats, ranked 10th in The Associated Press basketball poll, proved too much for Western Michigan Saturday.

★ ★ ★

The Broncos fell behind 16-1 at the start before dropping a 74-48 decision.

Detroit whipped St. John's of Minnesota 95-74.

Cincinnati's Dick Haucke, playing only 21 minutes, topped the Bearcats with 20 points. Undefeated Cincinnati now has a 5-0 record. The loss was the third in five games for Western.

★ ★ ★

Sophomore Jerry Swartzfager came off the bench to spark Detroit in its victory over St. John's. He scored 23 points after entering the game late in the first half with the Titans trailing 26-22.

PROPER BILLIARDS
by Jim Lidey

No. 7—SHOTS OFF RAIL

Up to now, our instructions have concerned favorable position for the cue ball. A not-so-favorable position occurs when the cue ball is on or near the rail or cushion.

Shooting off the rail is one of the most difficult shots in pocket billiards.

The following procedure is the most successful for rail or cushion shots:

★ ★ ★

Place your left hand (if you are right-handed) over the cue stick, in a flat position, guiding it between your index and forefingers.

Spread your thumb to the right, and your ring and little fingers to the left. This will give you the proper balance.

★ ★ ★

Be sure your right hand is holding the cue stick as level as possible because if the rear of the stick is elevated, you will be applying English without realizing it. This unwanted English tends to cause object ball to miss the pocket most of the time.

Market Wary; Prices Irregular

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market was cautious and prices were irregular today. Trading was moderate.

Key stocks showed gains and losses of fractions to about a point.

* * *

After last week's spotty performance, the market is probably laying the groundwork for a traditional year-end rally which almost always finds prices higher on Dec. 31 than they were on Christmas Eve, brokers said.

Du Pont and United Aircraft lost 1½ each. Gains of about 1½ were posted for Boeing and Polaroid. Up around a point were Goodyear, Xerox and M-G-M.

SLIGHT DIPS

Fractional losses were shown by Chrysler, Bethlehem, Union Carbide, Eastman Kodak, RCA, Texaco and other leading issues.

Brunswick opened on 15,400 shares, up ⅛ at 8.

On initial blocks of 5,000 shares, American Telephone was unchanged at 53¾; Douglas Aircraft eased ⅛ at 47; and Ford was unchanged at 39¾.

On Friday, The Associated Press average of 60 stocks dipped .3 to 296.3.

* * *

Prices were irregularly higher on the American Stock Exchange. Fractional gains were made by Ipco Hospital Supply, Barnes Engineering, Molybdenum and Creole Petroleum. Down fractionally were Genisco Technology, Louisiana Land and Falcon Seaboard Drilling.

Man Is Jailed in City Shooting

Charged With Attempt to Murder His Wife

Wednesday's meeting of officials of Pontiac State Hospital and the Oakland County Community Mental Health Services Board should be clearly designated an open or closed session, the hospital's medical superintendent said today.

Dr. Donald W. Martin was critical of the board's calling a closed session but then inviting members of the Michigan Society of Mental Health.

"I will attend the meeting only if it is clearly understood if it is closed or open," Dr. Martin said.

He had no objection to a closed workshop session aimed at ironing out differences between the hospital and the board over a proposed federal grant of $250,000 to the hospital but wants other agency representatives to attend if the meeting is declared open.

* * *

The Michigan Society for Mental Health has gone on record as siding with the board in its reluctance to sign an agreement with the hospital that would assure the hospital's receipt of federal funds.

* * *

Other organizations including the Oakland County Chapter of the Michigan Association for Emotionally Disturbed Children and the County AAUW have urged the board to sign the agreement that would release some of the board's mental health jurisdiction to the hospital.

'Hidden' Money, Keys Are Stolen

An estimated $195 in "hidden" cash and a set of keys to the building were taken early yesterday from the Trojan Bar, 72 Auburn, according to Pontiac police.

Investigators were told the money was stolen from a hiding place sometime after closing time. No signs of forcible entry were found, police said.

Recount in Shelby Changes Nothing

Shelby Township supervisor-elect Kirby Holmes remains the only successful Republican candidate for office as a result of the Nov. 8 election.

A recount of votes in four other races has failed to alter the results significantly. Democrats each picked up one vote while the Republicans lost one.

* * *

A malfunction in a precinct 7 voting machine has raised a new question, however, as Mrs. Ruth Brandes and Ronald McDowell consider the possibility of further investigation.

Closest of the votes was that between Ronald McDowell (R) and Trustee Floyd Parrott (D). Parrott's previous margin of nine votes has now been widened to 11, as certified by the recount.

City Man Suicide

The death yesterday of a city man at his home has been ruled a suicide following investigation by Pontiac police.

Alfred E. Orange, 34, of 4 Foster took his own life, police said, by hanging himself from a door with a length of telephone cord about 3:45 p.m.

WHO'S GOT A MITTEN?—The youngsters at Oakland County Children's Village will have a tree full of new mittens as a result of the generosity of Mrs. John Davidson's class of first graders at Webster Elementary School. Adding another pair to the class' mitten tree—an alternative to exchanging gifts— are Alisa Ely, 59 Waldo, and Orrin Whitcomb, 86 E. Iroquois.

Vandals Hit School; Damage Extensive

Vandals caused extensive damage in a break-in at Waterford Kettering High School it was reported to township police this morning.

Several windows were broken and items were strewn on floors, but little was reported missing.

About $2 in change reportedly was taken from the school's bookstore.

The vandals broke a window in the auto shop to gain entry to the building. They then ransacked the principal's office, assistant principal's office, records room and bookstore, gaining admission to each by prying open doors with a crowbar, school officials said.

A desk was tipped over in the assistant principal's office. No classrooms were vandalized.

A corridor was shut off for awhile this morning for police investigation.

The school is located at 2800 Bender.

VANDALS STRIKE — Howard R. Bennetts, assistant principal at Waterford Kettering High School, inspects some of the damage done by vandals during a break-in at the school reported to township police this morning. Extensive damage resulted, but not much was reported stolen.

2 Hospitalized After Car Crash

A head-on car crash in Troy early yesterday hospitalized two persons. The injured, both passengers, are in William Beaumont Hospital, Royal Oak.

Terry L. Guess, 17, of Warren, driver of one of the cars, was treated for head lacerations and released, while his passenger, George Weiss, 18, also of Warren is in satisfactory condition with multiple lacerations of the face, according to hospital spokesmen.

* * *

Edwin Leon, 46, of Detroit, the other driver, was treated and released. His passenger, Violet Wright of 31 Wellington, Troy, is in good condition with lacerations of the forehead.

Troy police said the accident occurred on Livernois south of 16 Mile.

'Out of Gas' Ruse

City Robbers Victimize 6

At least six men were victimized in the city this weekend, according to Pontiac police. Four of the victims were held up by men who pretended their cars "had run out of gas," police said.

Charles Alexander, 20, of 635 E. Mansfield and Bob Heatley, 18, of 307 N. Perry told police they were approached last night outside a market at 84 Auburn.

Alexander said he and Heatley took into their car two men who asked for a ride to a service station to get gasoline.

The victims said they were forced to drive to a nearby alley, where their passengers drew knives, robbing Alexander of $14 and Heatley of $5.

The same trick was used Saturday night at the same place on two other men, police were told.

LOST $72, LIQUOR

Michael McKnight, 22, of 324 Judson, and Joseph Husereau, 22, of 42 Park said they lost a total of $72 and two bottles of liquor to two knife-bearing bandits who also used the "ran out of gas" ruse.

A city man who said he was walking past a Hughes Street address early yesterday surrendered $235 to two men with a revolver, police were told.

Charles Kendrick, 22, of 32 Mathews said the robbers chased him in a car about 4:30 a.m., cornered him, and threatened, "Give us all your money and everything in your pockets or we'll kill you."

* * *

'LET'S GO FOR A RIDE'

Body said his assailant told him, "Let's go for a ride," forced him to drive to a dead-end street, then took the money and fled.

Detroiter Hurt in Area Crash

A Detroit woman is hospitalized with possible internal injuries as the result of a three-vehicle accident at the intersection of John R and Avon Roads, Avon Township.

Listed in fair condition at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital is Mrs. Henry M. Velasquez, 33.

She was injured Saturday when the car in which she was riding collided with a tank truck after turning onto John R, then struck a parked car. Driver of the truck, John J. Kosteck of Rochester, escaped injury.

3 Die in Lapeer

LAPEER (AP) — Death has taken three persons of prominence in Lapeer. They were Samuel Danforth, 70, a retired livestock dealer, who died today and Mrs. Roy Moore, 75, whose family has operated a hardware store here since 1908, and Mrs. Ray Patton, 80, both of whom died Sunday. All had long been in failing health.

Family Service Booklet Is Out

Family Service agencies warn of mass society's threat to individual rights in a recent Pamphlet, "The Rights of the Individual Family in a Mass Society."

The booklet was released by Family Service Association of America, to which three Oakland County family service agencies belong.

They are the Catholic Social Service of Oakland County, Family Service of Oakland County and Jewish Family and Children's Service. The pamphlet is available through these agencies.

The agencies emphasize that, despite excellent extensive programs, the individual family still can get lost. Direct services require individualized programs, they add.

The 48-page pamphlet also describes the key position family service agencies take in helping families meet mounting pressures of mass society.

Enterprise at Viet

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — The Enterprise, only nuclear-powered attack aircraft carrier in the world, rejoined 7th Fleet ships Sunday operating off North Vietnam, and launched raids on bridges, truck convoys, supply routes and fuel tanks, the Navy announced today.

New Law on 'Out of Business' Sales

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — If you advertise here that you are "Going out of business" - you better go out of business.

The city council passed an ordinance requiring firms having "quitting business sales" to obtain a 30-day license costing $50.

If the firm continues after that time to stay in business, it must pay the city $10 a day until the business actually closes permanently.

The National Guard operates 50 per cent of the Nike Hercules missile sites around key cities in the United States.

People in the News

Edward W. Brooke, the only Negro elected to the U.S. Senate in the last 80 years, says he would like to be like the late New York Democrat, Sen. Herbert H. Lehman.

"I had the greatest respect and admiration for him," Brooke said, "especially when he said 'I serve my country best when I serve my conscience.'"

Brooke, Republican senator-elect from Massachusetts, was presented the Herbert H. Lehman medal of the Jewish Theological Seminary of America in New York yesterday.

Japanese Princess Wed in Tokyo

Japanese Princess Yasuko, niece of the emperor and eldest daughter of Prince and Princess Mikasa, and Tadateru Konoe, grandson of the late Prime Minister Prince Fumimaro Konoe, leave Tokyo today for a two-week honeymoon in Europe.

Konoe, 27, and the princess, 22, were married yesterday in a centuries-old Japanese imperial court ceremony held in a downtown Tokyo hotel.

Stricken Actress Suffers Relapse

Actress Jayne Mansfield has suffered a relapse of pneumonia and is under a doctor's care at her California home today, spokesmen for the actress reported.

MANSFIELD

Miss Mansfield had a temperature of 103 degrees yesterday her doctor reported.

The blonde actress was stricken with pneumonia shortly after her son Zolton, 6, was mauled recently by a lion and underwent several operations. He is recovering.

King Saud Ends Exile in Greece

Ex-King Saud of Saudi Arabia has ended his exile in Greece and is now setting up quarters in Cairo, a city once declared off-limits to him by Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser.

Saud, 65, and his entourage of 45 wives, children and staff moved into a hotel overlooking the Nile yesterday for "an indefinite stay."

★ ★ ★

Nasser granted permission to the ailing former monarch to live in Egypt after he said he wanted to "perform the sacred Moslem practices and raise my children in a sound Islamic way."

The Egyptian president had accused Saud of engineering an assassination plot against him several years ago.

Bobby, Family Testing Idaho Slopes

Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., and his family are on a skiing holiday for their Christmas vacation in Sun Valley, Idaho.

Kennedy, his wife, Ethel, and seven of their children were on the ski slopes before noon yesterday shortly after Mass.

Baltimore Archbishop in Hospital

Lawrence Cardinal Shehan, Roman Catholic archbishop of Baltimore, has entered a Baltimore hospital for what was described as a routine medical checkup and rest.

An archdiocese spokesman said yesterday a sensitive area in the cardinal's mouth had been irritated by a heavy speaking schedule. The area was treated by radium earlier this year to remove a growth.

A Stone's Throw

WEST PLAINS, Mo. (AP) — Art Webb collected a $15 bounty for killing a seven-month-old coyote while he and his wife were on a weekend trail ride on a ranch near here. He killed the coyote by throwing a stone at it.

Last year 50 countries accounted for 93 per cent of all American exports to the non-Communist world.

Cleaner Traps Dirt

Dust-Drudgery Aid

Ask the average homemaker what gift she would like most for Christmas and chances are she might reply: "A permanent maid."

Not a maid, but the next best thing to one — a device that lessens household drudgery — is being offered by General Electric this Christmas.

The unit, an electrostatic air cleaner, miraculously traps up to 95 per cent of airborne dirt, dust and pollen in the home.

Consider the far-reaching implications of the air cleaner: near elimination of tedious dusting of books, bookshelves, picture frame, and boat models; far less vacuuming of draperies, fabric-covered walls, and lampshades; less curtain-and-window washing; longer life for upholstery and fabric furnishings.

★ ★ ★

Best of all, the precious time devoted to drudgery is now free for the homemaker's own personal use — whether it be other more important tasks, or just a chance to relax quietly.

NO CHANCE TO SETTLE

With the new electrostatic air cleaner in operation, nearly all the airborne dust which usually coats the tables, chairs and molding is quietly, electrostatically removed before it has a chance to settle.

Even particles of smoke, soot, and kitchen grease are filtered out. Air also refreshingly free of pollen and dust particles which aggravate hay fever and allergy sufferers.

The cleaner air will lower redecorating costs, simply because furnishings will look better longer.

★ ★ ★

Although the idea of electrostatic air cleaning is not new, the gift has a new feature.

DUST IS TRAPPED

The dust is trapped by a low-cost filter pad, which is almost as easy to change as a vacuum cleaner bag.

Furthermore, an automatic signal on the unit indicates when the filter pad should be changed.

Resembling an oversized paper tissue, this pad, made of fine fiberglas, can be tossed out and a new one inserted.

★ ★ ★

The electrostatic air cleaner is a trim, flat little box affair that may be attached to the forced warm-air furnace. If you have central air conditioning or a heat pump, it may also be attached to these units.

Rash of Broken Bones in Family

OSWEGO, Kan. (AP) — Dr. I. J. Waxse is getting the breaks literally — and in his own family. He set the broken arm of his son, Joe, who is a member of the Oswego high school football squad.

★ ★ ★

A few days later he had to set the broken arm of Mrs. Pauline Whitbreak, the doctor's sister and the receptionist in his office.

Hand-Made Ornaments Prove Easy to Make and Eye-Catching

Just about everyone loves an old-fashioned Christmas tree. Among the most delightful decorations on a traditional tree are hand-made ornaments.

★ ★ ★

Following are instructions for easy-to-make yet eye-catching ones of paper. All that's needed are glue, scissors, a stapler, ruler, needle and thread, and paper.

Some of the most effective ornaments can be made from plain white bond. Construction and foil papers can carry out your favorite color scheme.

To make fluffy Christmas tree, bell, heart or star:

★ ★ ★

1. Trace pattern and cut out. Measure pattern at widest point, double the amount and cut out squares of that size. Cut twelve squares of lightweight paper, six of heavy.

2. Fold square in half, place pattern on top with side marked "fold" directly on fold of square. Cut very carefully. When all have been cut, open them flat.

3. Place all the cut-outs directly on top of each other, and staple along crease three times, at top, middle and bottom. Unfold each segment into equal spaces.

4. Run a thread through the top, knot and hang.

To make segmented ball:

1. Cut nine circles, each having a diameter of 4 inches. Fold in half.

2. Open flat and stack, aligning creases. Staple three times directly on crease, at top, middle and bottom.

3. Alternate top and bottom, fasten outer edges with a drop of glue about ½ of the way down (or up).

4. Suspend as above.

Fun Pictures Traditional Family Fare

Family fun pictures are a Christmas tradition in many, many homes. Lately, with the introduction of simplified operation and easy-to-use equipment, the photos are getting more professional and more exciting. Flash bulbs are used (even by camera-shy Mom) and color is "in."

Now for the next step . . . movies. Many who once considered motion pictures either too expensive or too complex — or both — are now producing handsome, heart-warming, high-ly-personal home movies.

With new equipment and instant-loading Super Eight film most of the technical problems have disappeared.

If you are branching into the field of Hollywood-at-home you may be interested in these tips from Argus, the camera people . . . Plan ahead.

You have fifty feet of film, enough for a bit over three minutes of shooting time. That is longer than it sounds! So don't cut your individual scenes short. The minimum length should be seven or eight seconds; count to fifteen, and you will be just about right.

READ BOOKLET

● Read the booklet that comes with your camera very carefully. You will find that many problems have been presolved. For example, one new Argus camera features a red light which lets the subject know when the action should start. Just like TV.

Another new boon is a built-in light meter which automatically balances ground and sky light, eliminating a problem which has annoyed photographers for years.

● Introduce the camera to your subjects. Rehearse them briefly. Tell them what you plan to cover, how long it will take.

● Get a story line. For example, you can build a whole film around Christmas by starting off with mother, late on Christmas Eve, piling packages under the tree. Then show her, sleepy-eyed, as the children race for their gifts early the next morning.

Following scenes could include Mom getting the small fry ready for church, greeting guests, cooking and serving the dinner, cleaning up, and — finally (with a clock in the background) — collapsing.

With such a working outline, you can show the important events and people that made the day memorable, and still have a continuity and a star. A real heroine!

With simplified equipment, and a bit of imagination, you may win the Neighborhood Oscar.

Soviet Budget for '67 Okayed

MOSCOW (AP) —The Supreme Soviet gave unanimous approval today to the state budget and economic plan for 1967. It called for the highest level of Soviet military spending in more than a decade.

The Soviet Union increased its defense budget by some 8 per cent this year to a total of 14.5 billion rubles.

A ruble equals $1.11 at the official exchange rate.

The total Soviet budget for 1967, slightly revised since it was presented Thursday, calls for a total revenue next year of 110,245,925,000 rubles and expenditures of 110,015,201,000 rubles. Both are records.

SESSION ENDS

The Supreme Soviet ended the session, that opened Dec. 15, without acting on any major changes in the Soviet hierarchy.

★ ★ ★

Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky, the Soviet defense minister long rumored ill, did not attend any of the parliamentary sessions. Unconfirmed reports before the session said the Supreme Soviet would approve Malinovsky's retirement, but he apparently kept his post.

★ ★ ★

Such changes are made by the Central Committee of the Soviet Communist party in secret session and approved later by the Supreme Soviet.

Ice Fisherman Thanks Trio for His Life

CADILLAC (UPI) — A Cadillac man, complaining of frozen feet and an unforgettable experience, today credited three young men with saving his life after he nearly drowned.

★ ★ ★

Weikkp Raisanen said he was ice fishing in the Cadillac River Saturday when he fell through the ice into the 20-degree water.

Authorities said John Thompson, 23, and Gerry Shetenhelm, 22, were fishing nearby when the accident occurred.

"We rushed over there to do everything we could," Thompson said. "We couldn't stand on the ice, or go in after him. So we made a human chain—lying across the ice."

★ ★ ★

Thompson said they were hoping a motorist driving around the lake would see them there.

AID CAME

After several cars and 25 minutes passed, aid came when Doyle Nelson stopped. "He had enough extra strength that they could pull the man out," authorities said.

Raisanen complained of his cold feet. "They're stiffer than boards," he said.

But Raisanen also said he has a heart condition.

"And compared to what could have happened, cold feet aren't too bad," he said.
