Bloodhounds Help in Capture of Area Doctor

By JIM LONG and BETTY ANN SCHULTZ
Captured early today with the aid of bloodhounds near Port Austin, a fugitive Farmington Township doctor accused of killing a female assistant was to be returned to the Pontiac area this afternoon for arraignment.

Dr. Ronald E. Clark, charged yesterday with manslaughter, was apprehended by Huron County Sheriff's deputies after eluding them for six hours.

Clark was to be arraigned this afternoon before Farmington Township Justice of the Peace Byron Waller.

It was the second time that Clark, 56, of 30725 Grand River, had slipped by police while they were attempting to arrest him in the death of Mrs. Grace Neil, 43, of Livonia.

An autopsy revealed that the woman died of an overdose of sodium pentathol, commonly known as "truth serum."

Clark first evaded police at his office-home on Grand River, despite all-day surveillance of the building by officers from the Farmington Police Department who were waiting for a warrant before arresting him.

When police and Assistant Prosecutor Jack L. Bain arrived at the house, it was necessary for officers to kick in a rear door to gain entrance when no one answered their calls.

The only person in the house was a woman, who police identified as Mrs. Ann Klymowicz of Detroit, Dr. Clark's housekeeper.

She told investigators that she had not seen the physician all day, but police from Detroit's homicide squad said that they had observed the doctor in the house before noon.

PATIENT DIES MYSTERIOUSLY

Detroit police also are involved in the investigation of Clark after information came to them that a city resident being treated by the doctor had died under suspicious circumstances. The victim also was a nurse-attendant of the doctor.

The doctor's wife arrived at the clinic while police were searching the house and told them she did not know the whereabouts of her husband.

Earlier in the day, she told newsmen at the office that "All I know is that the people who were treated by my husband lived longer than if he hadn't treated them at all."

Authorities later learned that Clark had a cottage in the Thumb area and contacted Huron County Sheriff Merritt R. McBride to check on him.

COTTAGE LIGHTS GO OUT

McBride said that two deputies, Orville Schuette and Roger Ewall, saw lights in the house when they first drove by but on another pass the lights had gone out.

Crippling Blow to Open Housing

Senate Votes to Recess

LANSING (AP) — The Senate today approved a House resolution calling for a three-week legislative adjournment — dealing a potentially crippling blow to Gov. George Romney's open housing bill.

The resolution calls for adjournment from today until Dec. 12, five days after Romney is scheduled to leave on an overseas trip.

In approving the resolution, the senators ignored a plea by Romney that they return on Dec. 5 to give him an opportunity to push for passage of the controversial open housing measure.

Romney met today with Republican legislative leaders in an attempt to persuade the Senate to amend a resolution to cut the adjournment short. However, a GOP Senate caucus failed to produce enough votes to amend the House resolution.

Republican leaders reportedly felt there was little chance the House would go along with the amendment.

OPPOSITION VOICED

Another unsuccessful move was made by Democrats to amend the resolution on the Senate floor.

"Who do we think we're fooling," said Sen. George Fitzgerald, D-Grosse Pointe Park, "We've got some controversial matters here — open housing, court reorganization and some other matters."

"At least we ought to give the people a fair shake and not kill these things by avoiding them," he added. "I can't face either side in my district if I vote to postpone these issues."

The vote to adjourn was 17-11.

Romney, reportedly told GOP leaders yesterday that open housing is the most important measure ever to come before the Michigan Legislature.

TOUR DATE

The governor, a driving force behind the bill, has tentatively set Dec. 7 to be a tour of Europe and Asia, expected to last three weeks.

Romney told a news conference today that he had no plans to delay his overseas trip but expects to "persist" until open housing legislation is passed.

He said he believes the open housing bill "can be improved and passed here this year."

Majority House Republicans overruled Speaker Robert Waldron, R-Grosse Pointe, Wednesday and decided on the adjournment schedule. Waldron, chief sponsor of the housing bill, said he wanted to work at least through next Wednesday.

"But this does not mean we've given up on open housing for the special session," Waldron told a news conference. "The members wanted more work on the bill and a chance to go home and educate their constituents."

Waldron said he believes many citizens do not understand the implications of an open occupancy law.

State Pay Hikes OK'd

LANSING (AP) — Final legislative approval was given today to a bill appropriating $1,431,700 for pay raises for state civil service workers.

The $1.4 million figure represented a compromise between the $1.7 million approved by the Senate and the $1.6 million previously authorized by the House.

70 From 19th Briefed in D.C.

By BOB WISLER

Some 70 residents of the 19th U.S. Congressional District spent a jet-speed day in Washington, D.C., yesterday being briefed on various phases of the federal government.

They came away impressed with the scope of the government and the role played by it in everyone's daily life.

The occasion was the first in what U.S. Rep. Jack H. McDonald, R-19th District, hopes is a long series of yearly occurrences.

Working through local chambers of commerce, McDonald arranged for 19th District residents to spend the day listening to and questioning an impressive list of government officials.

Almost every field of government activity was touched on as the group was guided through three federal buildings by McDonald's staff.

Twenty-four persons from the Pontiac area attended.

Speaking to the group were U.S. Rep. Gerald R. Ford, R-Grand Rapids, minority leader of the House of Representatives; William B. Macomber Jr., assistant secretary of state; Howard J. Wharton, deputy assistant secretary of the Department of Housing and Urban Development; Dr. Albert L. Alford, assistant commissioner of education for the Department of Health, Education and Welfare and John Gentry, special assistant to the Undersecretary of Labor.

Giving alternate views of the nation's economy were James S. Duesenberry, member of the president's Council of Economic Advisers, and Louis J. Parasidis, associate director of the Office of Business Economics, Department of Commerce.

Those attending were enthusiastic over the results of the special briefings and the opportunity to see at first hand the federal government in action.

Skilled Will Make Big Drive at GM

DETROIT (UPI) — The International Society of Skilled Trades (ISST) announced today a program for concentrating on General Motors Corp. to win gains for skilled trades workers not included in contracts won by the United Auto Workers at Ford and Chrysler.

Joe Dunsenbeck, president of the ISST, said the program was ratified by representatives of skilled workers from more than 50 GM plants.

The ISST tried but failed to gain recognition as the bargaining representatives for skilled trades workers in the auto industry.

It has accused the UAW of sacrificing the interests of the skilled workers for the benefit of the majority production workers.

PRINCIPLE DEMAND

Principle demand of the ISST was that skilled workers be given the stock par-chase plan that was offered by GM in the late 1950s but rejected by the UAW.

"Experience has proved that each skilled man has lost as much as $15,000 because of UAW President Walter P. Reuther's rejection at that time," said a statement issued by the ISST.

The statement suggested that each skilled worker be given an option to elect stock participation in preference to the guaranteed income provision won by the UAW at Ford and Chrysler.

The provision provides that a worker who is laid off will receive up to 95 percent of his full pay for a full year, minus $7.50 a week.

NO BARGAINING POWER

The ISST has no bargaining power in negotiations with General Motors. The workers are represented by the UAW which will do the bargaining.

The ISST statement concluded: "The delegates pledged themselves and their constituents to do everything in their power to prevent a ratification of any contract at GM unless all of these things received primary attention."

"They are totally united in their effort to gain the stock plan for the skilled trades since this would give reward for skill and initiative."

Sleet, Icy Roads Feared for Tonight

There's a chance of hazardous driving in the Pontiac area this afternoon, if freezing rain or sleet forecast for late today arrives.

The weatherman reports temperatures today will hit near 38 to 45 and dip to 27 to 33 tonight.

Partly cloudy and a little warmer is tomorrow's prediction, and variable cloudiness and warmer is the outlook for Saturday.

Southerly morning winds at six to 14 miles per hour will increase to 14 to 24 miles this afternoon and diminish a little tonight.

Precipitation probabilities in per cent are: today 40, tonight 50, tomorrow 20. The low in downtown Pontiac preceding 8 a.m. was 19. The mercury climbed to 26 by 2 p.m.

Hunters Alerted to Traffic Woes

Deer hunters heading north for Saturday's opener should experience no more traffic difficulty than usual. Coming home Sunday will be a different story.

The State Highway Department office in Saginaw reported today that the two northbound lanes on the I-75 bridge over the Saginaw River will be open.

However, one of the two southbound lanes will be closed. Department workers are still making repairs on the bridge which was extensively damaged when struck by a freighter early in October.

Officials recommend that hunters returning home take old U.S. 23 from Kawkewin. This will take them through Bay City, south along the river and into Saginaw where they can take M81 back to I-75 south of the bridge.

Those driving south on U.S. 10 from Clare can leave the freeway at the Free-lan exit and take M47 into Saginaw and then turn on M81 or M46.

Another alternate is to take M15 out of Bay City.

Westmoreland Bid for Faster Buildup Seen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. William C. Westmoreland reportedly will press for earlier deployment of troops already authorized but won't ask for a bigger U.S. troop commitment in South Vietnam, sources say.

These same sources predicted Westmoreland's request will be agreed to today when the U.S. commander in South Vietnam meets with President Johnson at the White House.

2 Socialites, Bronson Will Discuss Fight

Two Bloomfield area society women, one the mother-in-law of Gov. Romney's son, Scott, were to meet today with Oakland County Prosecutor S. Jerome Bronson to explain their positions in a hair-pulling, shoe-wielding scuffle on Monday.

In the scuffle, reportedly over a car repair bill, Mrs. Walter Hill of 4241 Ardmore in Bloomfield Hills required six stitches to close a wound on her forehead inflicted by a shoe allegedly swung by Scott Romney's mother-in-law, Mrs. Will Kraus of 580 N. Cleary, Bloomfield Township.

The fight took place in Hill's office in Troy.

Also involved in the fight was Mrs. Kraus' daughter, Terry Stern, 22, who is the sister of young Romney's wife, Ronna, and who also is a former Miss Detroit World beauty queen, police said.

James P. Lawson, attorney for Mrs. Hill, said that they have already had a warrant issued against Mrs. Kraus for assault and battery and may attempt to increase the charge.

The incident was reportedly precipitated by an incident between Terry Stern and the Hill's 23-year-old son, Patrick, who is a student at Western Michigan University.

According to Mrs. Kraus, Patrick inflicted damage on the girl's car after she broke off an engagement.

Lawson said that the Hills had already agreed to have the car fixed, but that Mrs. Kraus had entered the Troy office Monday and demanded $364 in cash.

Mrs. Kraus will be arraigned tonight at 7:30 in Troy Municipal Court before Judge Charles Losey on the assault and battery charge.

"It gives you a different perspective," Charles Terry, a real estate agent and a member of the Chamber said. "Local problems don't seem so monstrously important in comparison."

The program was tightly arranged so that one knowledgeable speaker after another outlined recent events of his particular field of expertise.

Vietnam, the poverty program, the prospect of continuing prosperity and urban problems seemed to be the topic of special concern to the 19th District residents.

AGAINST LONG PAUSE

13-Inch Snowfall Hits New England

BOSTON (AP) — A violent storm dumped up to 13 inches of snow on parts of New England Wednesday, causing several deaths and a massive traffic jam in the Boston area.

Motorists were struck in Boston traffic for hours. Many left their offices at 5 p.m.—and at midnight had progressed only a few blocks.

Thousands of cars ran out of gasoline or stalled when their batteries died and many motorists abandoned their cars on the street.

Truckers Strike Detroit News

DETROIT (AP)—The Teamsters Union today struck The Detroit News in a dispute over wages.

President Clare Conner of Local 372 said 86 per cent of his members voted in favor of a strike Wednesday night after negotiations broke off with the newspaper.

Teamsters began picketing the News, an afternoon newspaper, at 12:01 a.m. today after their contract expired.

The local, also negotiating with The Detroit Free Press, has not struck that newspaper.

Conner said no sessions were scheduled with the News but negotiations were set to continue with the Free Press late today.

Pilot Perishes as X15 Plunges 50 Miles

EDWARDS AIR FORCE, Calif. (AP) — "I'm in a spin," a NASA spokesman said.

Those words from the calm-voiced pilot of an X15 rocket plane that plunged into the desert from an altitude of more than 50 miles Wednesday left investigators with a mystery.

Air Force Maj. Michael J. Adams went down to his death with the plane. Adams reported control troubles, but officials said that alone wasn't enough to cause the crash.

A National Aeronautics and Space Administration spokesman said Adams may have delayed pulling his ejection mechanism in a last-ditch effort to gain control. That delay may have cost him his life.

MALFUNCTION

"There was apparently some kind of control malfunction as the pilot attempted to pull out of the crash," a NASA spokesman said.

The winner will participate in the Michigan Junior Miss Pageant in January which is also sponsored by the Pontiac Jaycees.

NATIONAL FINALS

Some $250 in scholarships will be given to the local winner and $100 in scholarships will be awarded to the first runner-up.

Water Issue to Be on Ballot

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — The Bloomfield Hills City Commission has voted to put the question of using Detroit water on the ballot for the city's general election in April.

The same issue was defeated three times previously, the last time in March.

The city is now completely dependent on individual wells, said Clerk Robert Stadler.

Action on a possible open housing ordinance was delayed indefinitely in order to see if the state passes the pending legislation they have before them, said the clerk.

Herbert D. Doan, president of Dow Chemical Co. in Midland, has been selected as this year's recipient of Cranbrook School's annual Alumni Achievement Award.

He will receive the award at a formal banquet at Cranbrook House on Dec. 7. Doan is a 1941 graduate of Cranbrook and is also the grandson of the founder of the Dow Company, Herbert H. Dow.

BIRMINGHAM — A top auto industry executive yesterday urged students to "drop out and turn on," but with a twist.

"Drop out of the mold of hip-pie-emulating conformity and turn on the talents you'll need to adult life," American Motors Vice President William S. Pickett told the annual Youth Appreciation breakfast at the Birmingham Optimist Club.

"Today's young people, while believing they are expressing individuality, actually are playing a mad game of 'follow the leader,'" said Pickett.

"Unfortunately, their leaders and heroes leave a lot to be desired. The unkempt male locks, the scruffy clothes and the aversion to soap wash all are afflictions without true meaning."

The City Commission has authorized Attorney David Pence to meet with the attorneys from Bloomfield Township, Oakland County, and the Bloomfield Hills School District in an attempt to arrive at a decision on the cost of widening and paving Lahser, said Stadler.

"Bloomfield Hills maintains the secondary air road presently," explained Stadler, "but the road is the dividing line between the township and us," he said.

The controversy centers around complaints by residents and school officials that the road presents a possible safety hazard to school buses which use the road, he added.

Stadler also said that the city was seeking to prohibit school buses from cutting through the paved streets of Stillmeadow subdivision which he says are used as a shortcut for buses between Long Lake and Lahser.

Prof Says 3 Gunmen Killed JFK

NEW YORK (AP) — A new set of three Warren report claims that three gunmen in three different locations fired a total of four shots in the assassination of President Kennedy.

Joshua Thompson, a philosophy professor turned investigator, disputes the Warren Commission finding that Lee Harvey Oswald was the lone killer of the President.

Writing in the Dec. 2 issue of the Saturday Evening Post, Thompson says he based his conclusion on detailed analyses of the pictures of the assassination and testimony of certain witnesses.

In a statement, William A. Emerson Jr., the magazine's editor, said, "With painstaking care and formidable logic Thompson demolishes the Warren report by building a case for three assassins."

'CASE NOT SOLVED'

In an editorial accompanying the Thompson article, the Post said: "We declare once again that we believe the Kennedy mystery has not been solved, that the case is not closed."

Thompson, 32, who teaches at Haverford College, is a graduate of Yale University and Navy veteran. The article was extracted from his book "Six Seconds in Dallas" to be published Nov. 27 by Bernard Geis Associates.

Thompson said his "new evidence does not prove that the assassination was a conspiracy. Nor does it prove Oswald's innocence. It shows that the question of Oswald's guilt must remain—four years after the event—still unanswered."

In his "reconstruction," Thompson argues Kennedy was hit by the first and third shots fired at the presidential motorcade. He believes they probably came from the Texas School Book Depository but were not necessarily fired by Oswald.

Thompson claims the second shot came from a building to the rear of the motorcade—most probably the Dallas County Records building—and was the bullet that wounded Gov. John Connally.

No Meningitis Cases in Area Since Death

The Oakland County Board of Health said today no cases of meningitis have been reported since the death of a 10-year-old girl Sunday.

The contagious and often fatal disease can cause a great deal of unnecessary alarm, said Dr. Bernard Berman, county health director.

Dead from the disease is Audrey K. Bowksi, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Bowksi of 308 S. Telegraph.

Dr. Berman said the disease is not easily spread, but he urged county residents to be cautious and report to their physicians if symptoms are present.

He gave the usual symptoms as: sudden fever, intense headache, nausea (often with vomiting), stiffness and pain in the back of the neck and excessive nervous irritability.

GTW Slates Late Commuter

A new train will permit Christmas shoppers from Pontiac and Birmingham to return later from Detroit.

The Grand Trunk Western Railroad announced today that from Monday through Dec. 22 a late evening commuter would return from Detroit's Brush Street Station at 9 p.m. on weekdays and 6 p.m. on Saturday.

Previously, said officials, the latest return from Detroit was 6:20 p.m. The new train will arrive in Pontiac at 10 p.m.

The Grand Trunk also announced a special Thanksgiving Day train to Detroit leaving at 8:45 a.m. from Pontiac and arriving in Detroit at 9:45 a.m. The ticket office on West Huron will be open that morning.

Flint Paving Pact

LANSING (AP) — The State Highway Commission has approved a financial agreement with the City of Flint for paving M54 business route in Flint. Total cost of the project will be $283,500, with Flint paying $83,500 of the cost. The agreement is subject to approval of the State Administrative Board.

Highway Funds

LANSING (AP) — An advance payment of $140,000 in highway funds to the Kalamazoo County Highway Commission has been approved by the State Highway Commission.

The county commission said the money was needed because of a severe winter and usually severe spring road break-up. The payment is subject to State Administrative Board approval.

City's 3-GM Plants Back at Full Tilt

Pontiac's three large General Motors Division last Thursday. The plants are currently in operation with expired union contracts, thus enabling the individual locals to call the strikes without national UAW approval.

Union officials said the plant stoppages were ordered in protest to at least one working conditions and an alleged backlog of unsettled grievances. The first one hit was Pontiac's.

Union local officials said the strikes were not related to national contract bargaining, now under way.

Hounds Help Nab Farmington Doctor

When a search of the house failed to turn up the doctor, bloodhounds from the Conservation Department were brought to the scene about 3 a.m.

"We found him running about a quarter-mile from the house," said McBride. "We ordered him to stop but he didn't and Schuette fired one warning shot in the air. He stopped then."

McBride said that Clark was taken to Hubbard Hospital in Bad Axe, the county seat, because he was suffering from exposure.

IN SNOW SIX HOURS

"He had been out six hours in five-degree weather, walking around in six inches of snow," the sheriff said.

"He was in bad shape, but he'll recover."

Clark's cottage, according to McBride, is on the shore of Saginaw Bay about eight miles southwest of Port Austin and about 20 miles northwest of Bad Axe.

Police said that a car, a 1964 Buick convertible, registered to Mrs. Klynovic, was parked at the rear of the cottage.

TIRE TRACKS COVER STEPS

McBride said Clark apparently had covered his flight into the woods by walking in the frozen tire tracks made when he pulled the car up to the cottage.

Police in Farmington Township also impounded a car found at the clinic registered to a former employee of Dr. Clark, Mrs. Hannan Bowerbank, a 33-year-old widow, who died March 29 at her Detroit home.

According to McBride, Clark has refused to answer questions.

The investigation into Clark's practice was revealed yesterday when Dr. John Burton, Wayne County medical examiner, asked the State Medical Board to suspend Clark's license because of irregularities stemming from the death of Mrs. Neil and Mrs. Bowerbank.

He said both were being treated for heart conditions before their deaths.

Clark, according to Burton, has had his license revoked three times since 1956. Two of the revocations came after complaints of assault or molestation from women patients.

Parent-Teacher Coffee Klatches in Homes Promoted in Avondale

By JEAN SAILLE

It used to be that when teachers came to the home, the parent figured somebody was in for big trouble.

There's a new image developing on schools and their principal giving it a big impetus is Lowell Ruggles, principal of Avondale Senior High School.

He and two counselors, Mrs. Mary Labers and Charles Miles, turned up for an informal coffee klatch yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. William Bergin, 1644 Ledbury, Bloomfield Township. Present were about 18 neighbors whom Mrs. Bergin had invited to meet the school officials.

"Come armed with questions," Mrs. Bergin had told her neighbors.

It was the kind of a session that Ruggles attempts to schedule up to three times a week.

"When a neighbor invites you to her home, you're more apt to come, than you would to a school informational meeting," Ruggles believes. "A small group asks more questions than a large group."

Promoter of such sessions in Norfolk, Ohio, before joining the Avondale school system in September 1964, Ruggles believes there's never enough communication between the school and parents. He feels better understanding results from the get-togethers.

Yesterday's questions centered around Avondale's extended day plan at the high school, but Ruggles reports each session is different.

"Sometimes the questions will all be 'How's my boy doing? Is he skipping classes?' Other times the parents are most interested in college. 'Which one? How does he prepare? How does he get in? How about scholarships?'" Ruggles said.

"Another meeting may be a discussion of teachers. We avoid personalities, but we talk about practices. These things have to be said," the mild-mannered administrator explained.

SCHOOL SCHEDULE

Yesterday's discussion opened with a mother asking, "How long do I have to keep getting up at 6 a.m. to get my son off to school? When the Grant Graham Elementary School opens (sometime in March probably) will the high school go back on regular schedule?"

Ruggles said the present program would likely continue in effect until the new high school is built.

"Actually it is a program, not a stop-gap measure," he revealed. "The junior high could be used to accommodate grades 5, 6, 7 and 8, freeing the elementary for the kindergartens and first four grades. That should accommodate our enrollment for some time to come, with the only new building necessary being that of a high school."

He said the new high school is planned to accommodate 2,000 students.

SCHOOL CAFETERIA

"The Hive," Avondale's cafeteria which because of the extended day sessions no longer serves lunches — only snacks — came in for some comment with parents asking about foods and supervision available.

"Do any students cut classes to go to the cafeteria?" one mother asked.

"There is some problem," Ruggles admitted, but he said juniors and seniors were actually more conscientious this year than last.

"Where can you go at 7 a.m.?" Ruggles asked. "They know they'll be finished shortly after noon, and they know they've got the afternoon free."

PROBLEM CITED

A lack of maturity in judgment was attributed to the ninth and tenth graders who have been known to take advantage of the arrangement.

And so it went — a dissemination of information — a talking of parents into confidence — plans for the future which include a better counseling system, according to Mrs. Labers and Miles — actually a sharing of responsibility. "This is the way it should be," Ruggles stated.

W. Bloomfield Supervisor Calls for Paving Meeting

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — Township Supervisor John N. Doherty has invited representatives of groups calling for the paving of Inkster from 15 Mile to 14 Mile to meet with him and the Oakland County Road Commission.

A letter read last night from the Meadow Lake Farms Property Owners Association on Inkster asked: Is the township willing to help pay for the paving and when?

The township's share of the paving costs would be 25 per cent, according to the matching fund program with the county.

Bloomfield Township has already agreed to pay its 25 per cent. The two township boundaries run through the middle of the section of Inkster in question.

The board's reply is that it recognizes the need for paving of this stretch residents said was in extremely poor condition.

NO FUNDS AVAILABLE

The board also emphasized that it now has no funds for the paving and when it does have the money, it will completely discontinue the project.

The one mill the township assesses for roads expires this year.

The supervisor reported that the township has plans for a future millage vote but won't make them public until further study.

Doherty added that he plans to approach subdivision associations with a proposal in the next several months.

One resident, Stuart Crane, 4918 Broomfield, asserted that he favors a special assessment.

Another resident announced that, ac-

Hobby Show Saturday

HIGHLAND TOWNSHIP — A hobby and craft and a used book sale will be held Saturday from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. at the Township Hall, 206 John.

The Friends of the Highland Township Library are conducting the show and sale.

cording to authorities, the paving would cost about $10,000.

In other action, the board authorized planning consultants, Vilcan and Leman, Southfield, to study the southwest corner of the township, now undeveloped.

The study, to be done in several months will cost about $2,000. It is "critical" because of all the proposed plans for the area, said Mrs. Margaret Evans, a member of township board and the planning commission.

The board also heard that the township firemen have joined the International Association of Firefighters, which will serve as a bargaining agent for the firemen.

The board will be sending a statement to Orchard Lake declaring that the township will pay the city $28,000.

This represents the settlement when Orchard Lake became a city and seceded from the township.

The amount is figured on the basis that the city had owned 10 per cent of the township assets. The city has stated that the amount should be $40,000.

Garbage Pact Change Asked

OXFORD — A request to adjust its garbage pickup contract with Chester Bushman of Bushman Disposal Service has been received by the Village Council.

Bushman said his pay of $305 biweekly is not enough to make the job profitable. His three-year contract with the village runs until next May.

The council has voted to take the matter under advisement with a decision likely at its next regular meeting Nov. 28.

Bushman services more than 600 stops in the village. He asked that adjustment of pay be made or that he be relieved of the contract after the first of the year.

Except for one change limiting Ox-ford's portion of engineering and administrative costs to 25 per cent, the council has approved an agreement with the Oakland County Department of Public Works to proceed with plans for the Paint Creek Arm of the Clinton-Oakland Interceptor.

FHA APPLICATION RETURNED

Councilmen officially have been informed that the Federal Housing Administration is returning the village application for $600,000 to build a lagoon sewage disposal system.

"Lack of money" was the reason given.

The return caused little concern in that the village is actively engaged in participation in the county's Paint Creek Interceptor.

To Avon Township Board

Water, Sewer Plan Offered

AVON TOWNSHIP — An internal water and sewer program, estimated to cost $8 million and adding 37 miles of sanitary sewers and 58 miles of water mains, was presented to the Township Board last evening.

The report was made by the Waterford Township engineering firm of Johnson and Anderson, Inc., as requested under Avon's Phase I development program. The township now has 12 miles of Sanitary Sewers and 20 miles of water mains.

A financial study of methods of construction and paying for the project was asked of William Hettiger, township financial consultant from the Detroit firm of Stratton Associates.

Hettiger, in outlining various methods of construction, noted that a contract with the Oakland County Department of Public Works may be the answer. He reviewed the fact that Avon's application for a federal grant on the project has made no headway.

The sewer program, encompassing the 12 sections in the northwest corner of the township including the Sargent Creek Arm of the Clinton-Oakland Interceptor, would cost $3 million as proposed, the Johnson and Anderson report showed.

WATER PROGRAM

The water program would include 28 central sections of the township and would cost $5 million as planned. The system would include mains, hydrants, well exploration, chemical treatment, new wells, two elevated storage tanks, telemeter controls and a service building, according to the report.

Hettiger in explaining the operation of the systems noted that Avon would undoubtedly collect the fees and pay the county under a contractual agreement, if the DPW program is followed.

The Phase I program was initiated by the township in order to be ready to use the Clinton-Oakland Sewer Interceptor when it is complete about two years from now.

Board members are now reviewing the plans.

In other business, yesterday's special meeting saw the introduction of a land development ordinance in line with the state's new Plat Act which will become effective Jan. 1.

The board also asked for more information from Fleet Ambulance Service before making any decision on a subsidy program for the service. Fleet, which moved into the area when private funeral directors discontinued their ambulance service, has noted that it is losing approximately $1,000 a month in the Avon-Oakland-Rochester area.

OES Smorgasbord Set

Chief of DPW Quits in Utica

UTICA — Julio Moscone of 11062 Russell, superintendent for the Department of Public Works here, has submitted his resignation to the City Council. The notice was accepted.

Moscone has been superintendent for two years and has been employed by the city for 13 years, said Clerk Eunice Keopitz.

The council has passed a resolution calling for $835,000 to be assessed to property owners east of Deshawn and north of Hall for the installations of sanitary sewers.

In other action the council has set Dec. 12 as the date for a public hearing concerning the rezoning of property on Utica Road near the St. Lawrence Church from residential to multiple, said the clerk.

The request was made by owners Nicholas Pittiglio and Joseph Pellomo. The hearing will be at 8 p.m. in the Municipal Building.

Surplus to Avert Deficit for Schools

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — The recently adopted budget for West Bloomfield School District for the 1967-68 school year shows that the schools will spend $32,877 more than the revenue expected for this year.

This deficit in the $2,204,658 budget, however, is being headed off by $84,669 left over from last year, according to estimates.

The district was left in the black last year because it underestimated taxes to be collected, explained Supt. Lell Hogen.

In addition, the district spent 99.98 per cent of last year's budget, the superintendent said.

Rising expenditures this year are due to increases in salaries and the expanded instructional program, said Hogen. The district also expected more from state aid funds than it now plans to receive. This is because the district had originally anticipated 200 more students than were finally registered, Hogen said. State aid is based on enrollment.

Waldon Speed Limit Cut Pushed for Safety at Clarkston Schools

CLARKSTON — The probability of a reduction in the speed limit along Waldon near the Clarkston School complex and enforcement of the new limit appear to be the answer to safety problems.

A progress report of the board of education safety committee, activated after a young student was struck by a car this fall, promoted lowering the current 35-mile-per-hour limit.

The report was made to the Clarkston Board of Education following a dinner served by junior high school home economics students and a tour of the junior high facility by board members.

The date of 8 p.m. Nov. 28 was set for the sale of $2.5 million in school bonds recently approved by the Michigan Municipal Finance Commission for construction of a second junior high school.

Tentative date for opening the bids was placed at Dec. 14.

Asst. Supt. Floyd Vincent reported on a survey of other area schools in regard to fencing procedures. The board has a request from a Sasabaw Elementary School neighbor that a fence be erected between her property and the school.

Optimists Optimistic About Youth

Now being observed is Youth Appreciation Week, sponsored by the Optimist Clubs of America and proclaimed locally by Mayor William H. Taylor Jr.

Presentation today by the Pontiac club of a dozen awards to outstanding youth representatives of area high schools climaxes observance of the week.

Featuring the recognition ceremony, five of the group will speak on the subject of "What's

At a time when the social climate is accented by various forms of rebellion and misconduct displayed by a minority of our youth, it is refreshing to see emphasized the virtues exemplified by the great majority of young people.

We congratulate the students saluted by the local Optimists, and commend the club and the national affiliation on their timely salute to youth.

Inflation Grips Our Northern Neighbors

Ministers of Canada's federal and provincial governments meet today in Ottawa to consider ways of cooling off the overheated national economy. The two-day conference is expected to focus on proposals for a tax increase, tax reform and reduced spending at all levels of government.

Although Canada is not involved in a war, inflation there has been more severe than in the United States. Wages are 7 per cent higher than a year ago, and prices have climbed by 4 per cent. Moreover, the average rate of interest on long-term government bonds rose to 6.45 per cent in mid-October.

sented to Parliament immediately in the form of a supplementary budget. Failure to approve the measure would force the government to resign.

In this country, fiscal and monetary power is decentralized. The administration can propose tax and spending changes, but Congress can vote them down without fear of being dissolved. In addition, the Federal Reserve System has sometimes followed policies not favored by the White House.

Unlike the Johnson administration in the United States, the Pearson government in Canada can be sure of quick legislative approval of anti-inflationary measures. For example, a tax increase probably would be pre-

The fate of President Johnson's proposal for a 10 per cent surcharge on income taxes illustrates the difference between economic planning in the United States and Canada. The surcharge has been pronounced dead in this session of Congress, and it is certain to face rough going, regardless of its merits, in the presidential election year of 1968.

Merchant Marine on Course for More World Trade

The most extensive effort ever undertaken by private enterprise in the United States to promote and expand U.S. foreign trade is being carried on by the American Merchant Marine. The program is coordinated by the Committee of American Steamship Lines (CASA) made up of 13 U.S.-flag shipping companies sailing to every corner of the world on regular schedules over essential routes.

These shipping companies are working together to bring foreign marketing opportunities to businesses, big and small, throughout the United States. One part of the program is a series of Trade Expansion Workshops to be held over the next few months in nine major American cities.

Manufacturers and businessmen in and around these cities will have an opportunity to visit individually with top management from CASA lines who have experience and knowledge to ex-plot markets in 130 foreign countries and overcome difficulties in developing them.

Some 1,300 marketing specialists representing the participating lines in 450 major world ports are available to provide information to the businessman interested in expanding sales of his products in every quarter of the globe.

Last year, on a worldwide basis, foreign trade was worth $200 billion and the United States' share was $55 billion. At this time, it is imperative that the U.S. enlarge its share of the expanding opportunities for trade with foreign nations. A continuing deficit in our balance of payments and dangerously dwindling gold supply make this a national objective of first importance.

The American-flag Merchant Marine is giving this Nation a global helping hand at a time when it is most sorely needed.

What Makes Stassen Run-'n' Run?

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON — If anyone has an incurable presidential itch, it's Harold Stassen. He's been scratching for years, and he is not through yet, although most people thought he was years ago.

Hopeful Stassen is like a rubber band. He's been stretching it all his life.

From the exercise he got, you'd think he'd be in wonderful physical condition. He's been running for something since he was 22. For a while he was so successful, back in the 1930s, he was called the "Boy Wonder" of American politics.

1959 for the mayor's job in Philadelphia. He was downed both times.

Tuesday he announced he would make another stab at the presidency in 1968.

Few men have outmatched his eagerness. William Jennings Bryan was a little more successful, at least in trying. He won the Democratic presidential nomination three times — 1896, 1900 and 1908 — only to lose in the elections.

But those two would-be presidents, Stassen and Bryan, not only couldn't hold a candle to Norman Thomas, they couldn't hold a match to him although Thomas, who got the Socialist party's presidential nomination six times, was different from Stassen and Bryan.

He almost certainly knew from the beginning that, in all the times he ran, a Socialist had no chance. He must have been running for the principle of the thing.

But all this doesn't answer the question: What makes Harold run? Maybe he doesn't know himself. He has an explanation, though. He said Tuesday he wants to give voters a wider choice.

He said he will be a "peace" candidate, referring to the war in Vietnam. When he announced his candidacy in 1965 he said, "I should like

He's not a boy anymore. He's 60. But he never hung up his sweatshirt. He tried for the Republican presidential nomination in 1948, again in 1952 and again in 1954. He never had a chance any of those times.

Meanwhile, maybe just to keep in shape for the big event later or because he was just anxious for something, he tried in 1958 for the governorship of Pennsylvania and in to see the Republican party take the lead in trying to modernize the United Nations."

But he doesn't always stick to the same line. Early in 1952 he said he was the most likely compromise candidate if a deadlock for the nomination developed between Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and Sen. Robert A. Taft. In May 1952, he was saying Gov. Earl Warren of California was a likely compromise candidate.

But his worst political boo-boo came in 1956 when he was in the Eisenhower administration and suddenly told a news conference, in an effort to block the renomination that year of Vice President Richard M. Nixon, that his own private polls showed Nixon would be a handicap to the reelection of President Eisenhower.

He suggested Christian A. Herter, governor of Massachusetts, as Eisenhower's running-mate. Herter called Stassen's performance comic opera. Herter nominated Nixon. Stassen, after a brief talk with Eisenhower, recanted it.

The road was all down hill after that. Yet, at 22 he was elected a county attorney in Minnesota and at 31 was elected governor. He was twice reelected.

Welfare Funding Tied to Politics

WASHINGTON — Could history repeat itself? Attempts this week in the House of Representatives to try to give local city machines control of the disbursement of federal grants bear a strange resemblance to the way politics paid off in the presidential election of 1936.

In that year, nine counties with the highest "relief" applications throughout the country contributed majorities big enough to swing the electoral votes of nine of the biggest states.

These, together with only one-half of the "solid South," provided the minimum necessary to elect FDR as president.

ing more than 100 separate programs which deal with various manpower problems and the development of human resources.

In the federal government the responsibility has been divided among five different Cabinet officers.

The states claim that the results are inefficiency, duplication, overlapping and delay.

The problem is made more complex when the state governments find it necessary to "Match" federal funds and yet cannot exercise authority over just how each project shall be operated.

The controversy is not likely to be settled altogether by what the House of Representatives does, because the same issues will arise in the Senate when it is confronted with the action expected to be taken this week by the lower house.

Was Thai Dinner Given for the Wrong Jackie?

THE SCRIBTUBLE EAST—The menu for the informal dinner given to Jacqueline Kennedy by Foreign Minister Thanat Khoman on the night she left Bangkok would have foundered Jackie Gleason.

As far as memory serves, there was soup with small ears of corn afloat on a mound of rice, a breaded lobster that somehow retained its antennae, a king-sized felt mignon with vegetables of unknown origin, a predominant cucumber salad, sweets, champagne and a large basket of fruit.

Some folks could make a meal of that. But what was unique about the 25,000-calorie snack was that it was all served simultaneously.

Each guest faced about a square yard of dishes — his own — all ready to be consumed. It can be serving, but you know what they say about a Thai meal: Eat it and you're hungry again 30 days later.

work of poles and wires across its own lofty roof calculated to trap and destroy any British chopper that might try to use it as a helicopter beachhead.

The Bank of China is much more than a bank. It mounted loudspeakers to a Bangkok demonstrators with martial music and recitations from "The Thoughts of Mao."

In its thick, spooky interior is, among other services for Hong Kong's Chinese Communist hierarchy, a fully equipped hospital.

There's a lot of jealousy in the U.S. Air Force, as in every other calling, but I've yet to hear a fellow officer or enlisted man put a knock on Col. Robin Olds, the leading MIG killer of this war with four.

"He's the most outstanding combat leader I've ever known," Lt. Col. George Halliwell told us in Bangkok the other night as he headed home after flying 100 missions over North Vietnam with the "Wolfpack" of the 5th TAC Fighter Wing.

"He leads the troops. He was always in there first on the toughest missions."

Olds' Negro vice commander, Col. Chappy James, can create by the hour on him. The two were closer than the twin engines of their F4C's during Olds' tour here.

Olds has been assigned to the Air Force Academy as commander of cadets.

James, whose equally towering son attended the academy and is now at the University of Arizona and ready to enter the Air Force, will soon be sent to Eglin Air Force Base, Florida, to help break the newest of the F4 Phantoms—the Model B2—to snob.

WHAT'S AT STAKE

An idea of what's at stake politically can be gleaned from the fact that federal grants-in-aid in 1950 amounted to only $2.5 billion, while currently such appropriations are running at an annual rate of $17 billion.

Much of this money is spent locally. Hence, from a political standpoint, it is important for leaders in the major cities where the largest portion of the funds is disbursed to have a voice in, if not control of, the distribution.

In recent years, there has been criticism because of the tendency of the federal government to bypass the state governments and deal with the municipal or county authorities. State governments have been expressing opposition to these procedures.

It has been pointed out that, during the last five sessions of Congress, more than 50 federal laws have been passed creating

Positive Action Needed to Maintain Our Position

There is no doubt in my mind that one year, five years, ten years from now, we will face the battle of world communism. America is the No. 1 world power today. We won't be long if we continue to sap our resources by pouring billions into Vietnam. To maintain our position of strength, it is necessary to stop this drainage of manpower and finances immediately and without losing face with our allies.

We must establish the boundaries of South Vietnam as the curtain between the free world and world communism, then notify Russia, China and North Vietnam that the continuance of enemy troops crossing this line will result in severe retaliation on our part.

We should spell out to them that if their troops continue to infiltrate into South Vietnam one of six specific major targets in North Vietnam will be hit with an atomic bomb; that they should evacuate all six targets to save the civilians since no further notice will be given; that we will continue to hit additional targets until the infiltration stops.

War will either stop or escalate into the third world war. If war is inevitable, let it be now and not ten years from now when our position as a world power might be challenged. As a veteran of World War II, I would rather fight side by side with my son to defeat world communism than have our boys dying for a cause that is helping communism by weakening our economic structure.

By so doing, we would not lose face with the free world and certainly the people of America would support a president whose actions would indicate a desire to end and not prolong a war that cannot accomplish anything. The threat of falling atoms just might prove to be a far more peaceful way out than a decade of fighting.

Views on Waterford School Millage Vote

Waterford wants 7 1/2 mills more voted on November 20 for school operating. We need sewers all over the Township. What good is education without health?

Expenses could be cut by eliminating counselors (their function is to keep principals from contact with parents); gym which is expensive to build and maintain; physical education instructors; shower rooms (expensive to build, operate, and are unsanitary); music (only a minority have talent for instruments). If they still cannot operate the schools, give the parents the books and we'll teach our children the same and in less time.

WATERFORD RESIDENT

The Waterford school millage increase will only cover the cost of maintaining our present level and will not improve the fine program we now have. If it is rejected, drastic cuts will be required and it will be the children who suffer. They cannot vote for it. It is the obligation of everyone who has been provided a good educational opportunity to help provide one for today's children by a favorable response in Monday's election.

DONALD REDMOND
2170 FORTRESS, DRAYTON PLAINS

In the matter of school buildings, our Waterford Township Board of Education is putting too much emphasis on the frills and furbelows and overlooking the quality of academic instruction.

If the proposed millage increase is approved, voters who don't vote will probably be the first to squawk loudest and longest about the inevitable tax increase. We are already fully saturated with school taxes.

ARTHUR F. SASSER
289 S. HOSPITAL, UNION LAKE

Many taxpayers in Waterford Township are probably not aware of the main consequence of not approving the 7 1/2 millage increase on Nov. 20. It will mean half-day sessions for elementary students and shortened days for secondary students. These conditions could cause many of our teachers to transfer to districts where the financial picture is more liberal.

'Fun of Halloween Causes Extra Work'

I am also a grandmother who got the same "tricks" as the Lady in Milford on Halloween. My screens are full of holes from this kind of fun. My husband and I are not well and we worked 24 hours to clean up the mess. If my children had done this, they would have some red seats to sit on.

Question and Answer

The Press ran an article from the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics stating a family of 4 needs $9,000 to live comfortably, 30 per cent more than a moderate living standard would have cost in 1959. This 30 per cent increase refers only to food for selected group. Can you give the actual cost of living increase since 1959?

JOHN NICHOLSON
CLARKSTON

REPLY

Mr. Bryan of the U.S. Labor Statistics in Detroit checked with the Chicago office and gave us these figures: the cost of living index shows 117.1 pts. for September, 1967, as opposed to 102.0 in September, 1959. This is an increase of 14.8 per cent.

Rule Changes Reviewed on War Objector Status

By JERRY T. BAULCH
Associated Press Newsfeatures

WASHINGTON — The widespread anti-draft demonstrations taking place now are increasing demands for conscientious objector status, so it's a good time to look at two little-publicized rule changes which Congress wrote into the new draft law.

One of these alters the definition of eligibility for such a classification. This stemmed from concern that a 1965 Supreme Court decision was leading some men to believe they could qualify by being sincere in most any kind of belief to qualify.

To narrow the definition, Congress knocked out of the 1948 version of the law these words: "Religious training in this section means an individual's belief in a relation to a Supreme Being that involves duties superior to those arising from any human relationship."

Congress wanted to make clear this time that valid objections to war in any form must be based on religious training and belief. And it wrote into the new law that the term "religious training and belief" against participating in war does not include "essentially political, sociological or philosophical views or a merely personal moral code."

The other change in the law relieved the Justice Department of the task of holding hearings on appeals from local draft boards' denial of claims for conscientious objector status. Congress found that this system merely created delays.

NORMAL APPEALS SYSTEM

So appeals now are being handled just like those from any other classification, through the local boards up through the normal appeals system.

However, the Justice Department is continuing to process 2,700 cases it was investigating when the new law went into effect. In these, the department tries to determine the sincerity of the registrant and furnish the selective service appeal board with an advisory report, which is not binding on the board.

Li. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, head of the Selective Service System, recently cautioned the boards to make certain that "registrants claiming conscientious objection, as all other registrants, understand their appeal rights beyond the appeal board." This can go up to the President.

However, if the board decision is unanimous, the registrant has to ask his state selective service director to appeal to the President for him. If the state director rejects the request, the registrant can ask Hershey to appeal for him.

Conscientious objectors are just in three classifications: available for noncombatant military service; available for civilian work contributing to national health, safety or interest; already performing such civilian work.

No Holiday Fare

Don't plan on flying home for Christmas at reduced military fares.

Most airlines say they do not intend to make the fares available during the Christmas-New Year period, Dec. 15 to Jan. 3.

The airlines believe regular fare passengers can fill most of the seats and there will be few standby seats available. But the Army has given its commands permission to release early those men with enough leave time coming so they can beat the Dec. 15 deadline and take advantage of the reduced fares.

Many bus companies already have eliminated the special military fare, but the railroads still offer them.

Pay Study

Another pay increase for servicemen is almost certain and drastic new changes in the pay system are being considered.

The Hubbell report which has been in the formation for several months is now ready for review by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara.

The Army, Navy and Air Force Times, an unofficial but authoritative weekly service newspaper which has been following the study play by play, says these are the major recommendations:

- Switch to a salary system from the present one of basic pay and allowances.
- Some pay scales for married and single men, except for extra allowances for lower-grade enlisted men with dependents.
- Establishment of a system of vested rights to amounts credited toward retirement. A man would get a cash payoff if he left before retirement eligibility.
- Widows of retirees to get lump-sum payments from any amount remaining in their husbands' accounts when the man died.

Junior Editors Quiz on MEMORIALS

QUESTION: Who designed the Lincoln Memorial in Washington?

ANSWER: As early in 1867, people began talking about the need for a national memorial to Abraham Lincoln. In 1811, Congress created a commission to work out plans for one. The commission chose the site and accepted a design by the architect Henry Bacon.

For simplicity, for dignity, for impressiveness, the Lincoln Memorial would be hard to equal. A large building of gleaming white marble is surrounded by 36 columns, patterned after the Greek Doric design. These represent the 36 states comprising the Union at the time Lincoln was President.

The memorial was dedicated May 30, 1922. At this time the Union had increased to 48 states, and 48 state seals are displayed on the building.

Inside, an enormous statue, carved by Daniel Chester French, shows a seated Lincoln, brooding and thoughtful, gazing out across America. The statue is flanked by sections containing tablets engraved with the Gettysburg Address and the Second Inaugural Address.

Equal Antipoverty Aid Asked for Poor Whites

WASHINGTON (UP) — Two and social need, together with government economists said to increasingly exclusive definitions of these groups . . .

NONWHITE PROBLEM

They said there was "a tendency, considered acute in the South, to identify poverty as a nonwhite problem, and for the white community to consider programs in these areas to be aimed almost exclusively at the Negro community."

The economists, Alan R. Bird and John L. McCoy of the Agriculture Department's Economic Research Service, also said some programs discriminated against those barely above the poverty line and favored the urban poor over those in rural areas.

They called for an overhaul of program standards to preclude "the erroneous identification of antipoverty and welfare programs as Negro programs."

They suggested the government offer incentive or compensation payments to owners of rural property and businesses so they might relocate "on a par with disadvantaged urban property owners in response to disadvantageous changes in community economic conditions."

In a report titled "White Americans in Rural Poverty," Bird and McCoy said poor whites suffer because of the "emergence of many special programs to cater to 'target groups on the basis of economic

Soviet Purge Story Reveals 2 Kinds of Horror

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

AP Special Correspondent

"Enemies," said her interrogator, "are not people—we're allowed to do what we like with them."

And so, for one Soviet woman, began what she called a "symphony of madness," not only for herself but for hundreds of thousands of her compatriots — years of fantastic horror, cruel, suffering, inhuman torture, presided over by Stalin's secret police, the NKVD.

But there is another kind of horror in this stark account of the great Soviet purge. It is that so many of Stalin's victims, even in the depths of their torment and degradation, still idolized Stalin, still refused to blame him for the ocean of insanity which engulfed a vast nation.

The author of "Journey into the Whirlwind," published by Harcourt, Brace & World, Inc., Eugenia Semionovna Ginzburg, herself blamed Stalin.

But unlike Stalin's daughter Svetlana Alliluyeva, Mrs. Ginzburg would not place blame on the Communist party or the Soviet system for the terrible hell she describes through the eyes of one who suffered through 16 years of it.

GRIPPING STORY

Mrs. Ginzburg's story is one vastly more gripping than even the one told by Mrs. Alliluyeva, and in many respects probably far more important as a historical document.

It is the story of what one woman saw, what one woman suffered, against the background of a whole nation in terror. Multiply her story by hundreds of thousands, and the mind is staggered at the scope and savagery of Stalin's megalomaniacal blood purge.

Mrs. Ginzburg was a teacher and an editor of the newspaper Red Tartary in Kazan, capital of the Tartar Republic.

A member of the Communist party herself, she was the wife of a high-ranking Communist official, and at the time her husband was sent into hell began in 1937, the 30-year-old mother of two children.

In her epilogue, Mrs. Ginzburg notes triumphantly that she "lived to see" the 20th Communist party congress, the one at which Stalin was denounced by Khrushchev.

She was "rehabilitated" only in 1955. Many others were "rehabilitated," but many of them were already long dead.

There can be little question, in this 50th jubilee year of Communist power in the Soviet Union, that a document of historical significance has been reproduced which—in spite of Mrs. Ginzburg's own admission of it—will stand for a long time as a powerful indictment of the Soviet system.

Ruling Is Due on 2 Arrested in Drug Raid

Two Pontiac residents charged with a total of nine drug counts are scheduled to appear in city Municipal Court Nov. 30 for a decision as to whether their case will be bound over to Oakland County Circuit for trial.

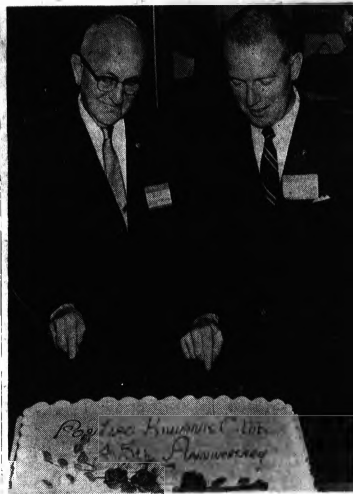

The suspects, Gayle Soles, about 38, and Oscar Morgan, about 38, were arrested Aug. 29 in a raid at a home at 897 Franklin Road, which they reportedly occupied.

Cofacated in the raid, ordered by Oakland County Prosecutor S. Jerome Broussard and carried out by Pontiac police personnel, were 500 Tinsal capsules and 500 additional pills suspected to be barbiturates, according to the prosecutor's office.

Miss Soles was originally charged with two counts each of illegal possession of barbiturates, illegal sale or barbiturates and conspiracy to violate the hypnotic drug law, plus a charge of keeping barbiturates in an illegal container.

Morgan was charged with two counts of conspiracy to violate the hypnotic drug law.

Each count carries a maximum one-year sentence.

Hazing Victim Mum on Secret Fraternity

Gerald Yates, the Birmingham high school sophomore who was hospitalized and nearly died from a paddling in an initiation ceremony for an outcasted secret fraternity, will reveal no names to police or school officials.

Birmingham police said that Yates would reveal only that the fraternity called KST included about 15 members and that the initiation consisted of being paddled 2,000 times.

He said he would not join the fraternity.

Yates who is to stay another week in William Beaumont Hospital, Royal Oak received the beating Oct. 14 during a "Hell Week" ceremony and did not report it to his parents until two weeks later when he was hospitalized, said police.

Doctors said that he nearly died because of widespread infection caused by the killing of cells in his skin.

"We are terribly disgusted over the incident," said Birmingham Superintendent of Schools Dr. John B. Smith. "I've never heard of something like this happening anywhere."

He said that four years ago seven or eight boys were suspended for belonging to fraternities which are outlawed by state law.

A court case is still pending involving our attempt to suspend several girls a couple of years ago for belonging to a similar type of organization.

"We are working with the principal and police on the Yates case, but so far there is no evidence. We only know that three fraternities, KST, MSCP and TAO, and one sorority, DTD, exist," said Dr. Smith.

Gl's in Korea Protest for KP

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Gl's in Korea are griping to their congressmen because the Army won't let them perform KP (it says here).

That extraordinary tale was told yesterday by Rep. Samuel S. Sora, D-N.Y., who asked the Army to investigate a system which forces servicemen to pay Korean nationals to perform kitchen duties for them.

The Federal Government now spends about $4 billion for support of colleges and universities, in support of research, construction facilities, loans, scholarships and jobs.

Rape Suspect Held in Theft

A Madison Heights man out on bond in a statutory rape case was reportedly arraigned yesterday in Troy Municipal court on an armed robbery.

Julian L. Amos, 24, is a suspect in the holdup of an attendant of a Clark Gas Station at 1610 John R. Troy, Tuesday night at 10:10 p.m.

The attendant, Cornelius Verburg of Hazel Park, told Troy Police that the driver of a car pointed a gun at him and demanded his money.

Warren Police later arrested Amos in his car in Madison Heights and discovered $37 in bills and a toy pistol under the front seat of his car. This was pointed to the amount taken, said police.

Prof Says Cat May Provide Space Clue

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — The way a falling cat maneuvers to land on its feet may offer U.S. astronauts clues to handling themselves in gravityless outer space, a Stanford University professor believes.

As a test, Prof. Thomas R. Kane, an expert in engineering mechanics, tried to do an about-face while standing on a platform floating almost frictionless in a cushion of air jets.

Kane bent forward and rotated his upper body at the waist. The table spun 180 degrees, and Kane had executed a perfect about-face in a sort of two-dimensional free fall. Astronauts in space—and falling cats—experience free fall in three dimensions.

Police Shed New Light on Riot Death

DETROIT (AP) — New light reportedly has been shed on the mysterious death of one of three young Negro men shot to death in Detroit's Algiers Motel at the height of last July's race riots.

Police were reported to have information that the victim, Carl Cooper, 17, was shot to death by two civilian Negro men before a party of police and National Guardsmen entered the motel annex in a search for snipers last July 28.

Norman Lippitt, attorney for the Detroit Police Officers Association, said he was told by seven homicide detectives that one of the civilians, armed with a shotgun, shot Cooper in a vendetta over a private matter after saying to him, "You held back on me."

Assistant Wayne County Prosecutor Avery Weisswasser said authorities have a woman witness who contends she saw the two civilians enter the annex with a shotgun the night of the killings.

MOTION HEARING

The information in Cooper's death came to light Wednesday during a hearing on a motion by Prosecutor William Cahan to reopen the pretrial examination of a policeman charged with murder in the deaths of the other youths at the motel.

Previously, police had come up with no explanation for Cooper's death, except that he purportedly was dead before the raiding party arrived.

Poet Dines Out on 80th Birthday

NEW YORK (AP)—The poet Marianne Moore went out on the town Wednesday night to celebrate her 80th birthday. She had steak, wine and a cake with one candle for each decade.

It was a quiet evening with friends at the Coffee Club, a private club on West 45th Street — "a nice convivial evening," one of the party said.

Miss Moore turned down an invitation to be guest of honor at a dinner at the Plaza Hotel in favor of a small gathering in the heart of New York, which she calls "the region of the blessed."

Shirley Temple Black Supports Efforts to Revive 'Childhood'

By PATRICIA McCORMACK
NEW YORK (UPI) — Shirley Temple Black, says this nation needs wholesome legends in greater quantity.

She wants to expand the list beyond "Keep America Beautiful," "Be Physically Fit," and such.

For a starter, Mrs. Black might add "Let's Bring Back Childhood."

Ella L. Leshan, New York child-raising expert, outlines the modus operandi in "The Conspiracy Against Childhood" Athenaeum.

"This is a terrible time to be a child," she says.

"It appears that in all our efforts to provide advantages we have actually produced the busiest, most competitive, highly pressured and over-organized generation of youngsters in our history — and possibly the unhealthiest," she said.

POSES QUESTIONS

Among questions posed by Mrs. Leshan, currently parent consultant at the Peggly Nursery School in New Rochelle, N.Y., are the following:

—Why are we asking babies to read before their eyes, to say nothing of their minds, are capable of this kind of skill?

—Why, on the other hand, do today's youngsters have the freedom to date at 10, smoke at 12, drink at 16?

—Why are our preadolescents expected to assume workloads that would defeat most adults?

Communication or the Lack of It Is to Blame

By ELIZABETH L. POST

The constant barrage of newspaper articles about hippies, and the discussions of WHY these youngsters have rebelled against their parents and society, prompts me to write this article.

There seems to be little argument from anyone — parents or children — that one of the basic problems is lack of communication. In many cases every material luxury has been provided, but true companionship.

Thoughtful sympathy which patiently seeks to understand the point of view of a child, and at the same time tries to make clear to him the grown person's point of view, is true companionship.

One advantage which parents of yesterday had over those of today — fathers especially — was unhurried time which they were free to spend at home and to share with their children. Under typical modern conditions, very few mothers — and still fewer fathers — can put all interfering demands aside to devote enough time to develop close companionship among the members of the family.

Even in those hours which are called "leisure," we are constantly on the go. EFFECTIVE USE

Yet perhaps the flowering of companionship doesn't require time so much as effective use of time. Undistracted attention for half an hour is worth more than several hours broken by disturbing interruptions.

Love is obviously the first requirement. But if we are to be completely trusted, love is not enough. There must be sense as well as sentiment; there must be discipline, practiced as well as recognized; there must be standards of quality by which the behavior of child and parent both are measured.

To see no flaw in your child because you love him is not proof of love, but lack of good sense. Unintelligent outpourings of praise give him an inflated sense of his own importance which will quickly be deflated by his other extreme, the overcritical parent who finds flaws in everything he does, and belittles every effort because it does not measure up to the parental standard of perfection is equally unfair. It is, in fact, likely to give him a defeatist attitude that will rob him of initiative and of belief in himself and his work.

To break a promise to a child not only inflicts a disappointment, but shatters his belief in your word, undermining his own sense of honor. Therefore, if you make a promise you must keep it. If you are not absolutely sure that you can keep a promise, you must not make it in the first place.

Better to Be Sure Than Uncertain When It Comes to Future of Child

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: The teacher called me for a conference because of an essay class assignment. It was entitled "My Father," and it went like this:

"My father is the worst father in the whole world. I am ashamed of him. He left us when we were small and my mother had to work to feed us. I hate him."

Abby, my daughter was four years old when her father left us, and she hasn't mentioned him in all these years. She is a moody child but I think it is just her nature. My other children seem happier and better adjusted.

Well, this teacher suggested I take my daughter to a psychiatrist. I don't believe too much in psychiatry. I went to one after my husband left me, and many hundreds of dollars later all I got out of him was the sage advice that I should "adjust" to the situation and make the best of it.

I don't want an emotionally disturbed child on my hands, but I can't afford to pay a psychiatrist just because a teacher says she thinks my child needs one. What should I do?

CONCERNED
DEAR CONCERNED: Ask your family doctor for his recommendations, after telling him the background. Far better to investigate psychiatric help for your daughter and be told she doesn't need it, than not to seek it when she does.

DEAR ABBY: The letter from "WORRIED MOTHER" who is concerned about telling her 11-year-old son the facts of life, sounds like many parents with whom I have talked.

After teaching elementary school for 17 years, I have found that the parents of 11-year-olds who think they are going to tell their children something new in revealing the facts of life, have a lot to learn themselves. Sincerely yours,

DAVID S. MILLS, PRINCIPAL
DOW, ILLINOIS

DEAR ABBY: I am an only child and have been married a few years. All of a sudden, after 25 years of marriage, my parents say they can no longer put up with each other's "foolishness" and they want a divorce.

I think they are being very foolish and it upsets me terribly, but I don't know how to help them solve their problem. Incidentally, don't suggest that I try to get them to see a marriage counselor because they wouldn't, not if it was the last thing they did together.

FORLORN

DEAR FORLORN: Have your parents asked for your help with their problem? I'll bet they haven't, because when two people agree that they've had "enough" of each other, as far as they're concerned, there's no problem.

Women's Clubs Name Winners of Nursing Grants

Winners of five nursing grants, made by the Oakland County Federation of Women's Clubs were announced by Mrs. Harry Vernon of Westland. Street, nurses' scholarship chairman, at a recent meeting of the organization at Michigan Christian College.

Nancy Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Jones of Holly, and Carolyn May Holmes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marion Holmes of Lakewood Drive, are using their grants for study at Hurley Hospital in Flint.

A Ferndale winner is Mr. and Mrs. George W. Thornton's daughter, Marian who is studying at Burgess School of Nursing in Kalamazoo.

Henry Ford School of Nursing has been chosen by Diane Wroubel, daughter of the Marshall Wroubels of Clawson.

Debra Ann Schmidt, daughter of the Francis C. Schmidts of Berkeley, has selected Wayne State University as her school.

SPECIAL PROJECTS

Each year the 25 clubs in the Oakland County Federation raise as much money as possible to encourage girls graduating from high school to enter the field of nursing.

Each club has a special fund raising project for this purpose and the county organization sponsors several such efforts.

The only problem I see here is yours. It's the inability to solve a non-existing problem between your parents.

The Causes of Bankruptcies Are Varied

By MARY FEELEY
Consultant in Money Management

Over 90 per cent of all bankruptcies filed in the year ending in June, 1967, were filed by individuals who had discovered that a dollar is just so big and will cover just so much credit.

And who are the individuals who account for this increase of MARY FEELEY, consultant in money management, has been in the bankruptcy business for almost 20 years.

Among the top third, according to various surveys, are those who went under because of excessive medical expenses.

Next come those who underwent a change in marital status and thereby split the income, so that the old rule of divide-and-conquer triumphed. Poor judgment on the part of young families and irresponsible use of credit (which was made too easy) account for the rest of this top third.

But how many of these eventual bankrupts actually sought, with an easy conscience, the law's permission to get out from under their debts?

In a description of a "composite bankruptcy petitioner," Suzanne Matson of the New York State College of Home Economics, Cornell University, who has conducted a study on the subject, presents him this way:

"About 28 to 30 years old, married about four years. Two children. Wife not employed outside the home — or if so, bringing in very little income. Threatened with garnishment of wages or loss of job."

This "composite" petitioner had tried to find a way out of debt when the burden reached its peak a year or more before he resorted to filing bankruptcy.

Usually, he took one or more of these steps: contacting his creditors; consulting a debtrefinance installment or loan contracts.

Why didn't one of these work? Perhaps his creditors wouldn't afford the operational cost of carrying him indefinitely.

State Police Stalk One-Eyed Bear

LORDSBURG, N. M. (AP)—The New Mexico State Police were called in after a touring family realized their little girl's Teddy bear had been left behind at a rest stop.

The New Mexico State Police Headquarters Newsletter reported the bear hunt thus: "Grimaced State Police stalked a one-eyed bear through a rest area near Lordsburg. They apprehended the furry animal — put him in a carton and mailed him to the little girl of a vacationing family, who had left the stuffed friend behind at a picnic table."

Visit of Small Black Squirrel Creates Havoc in House

By JUNE ELERT

For sheer excitement, a lion in the streets has nothing on a squirrel in the kitchen!

I had just returned from the grocery store with a neighbor, Bea.

All three kids came bounding out of the house to meet us, yelling to me to "call the police—there's a squirrel in the house!"

He seemed comfortable in the location he had chosen and reluctant to leave. We attribute this to the proximity of the dining facilities set aside for Max. Max is our combination people-cocker spaniel.

"Get a stick, Bob. Billy, bring a big board up here. We'll poke him out — block his way so there'll be nowhere for him to go but out. Open the storm door."

Bobby got down on his knees and poked around in the back corner. The visitor objected vocally and Bobby drew back and put his cheek down on the floor to get a better view.

"Come on, Bob," I said, impatiently. "Let's get him out of there. Poke him again. Try and sweep him toward the door."

"I can't. He jumped up on the unit."

"Somebody get up on top of the 'frig. Here, I'll get the broom."

"Shut up, Max."

"Billy, get a chair," I yelled, seeing Bill trying to climb straight up the porcelain face of the refrigerator. "You'll pull it over on top of yourself."

"No, I won't. I've climbed up here before."

"Get a chair! You're heavier now."

"Ok, Ok, don't get so excited."

Armed with the broom, I waited, while Bill wriggled into position on top of the unit and tried to push the frightened animal off his perch.

With one bound, the squirrel hit the floor in the space between the barricade and the open doorway. A second leap took him over the board amid a flurry of squeals and shouts.

"Where'd he go?" Bea was on all fours on the seat of a chair in the dining room.

"I see him, he's under there."

"Look out, he's coming back."

"He's under the davenport."

"Bobby," I ordered, "Call the police. I'll watch him."

"He's in the corner under the table."

"Bill, stand on the davenport and try to sho him back to the kitchen."

"Who-o-o-sh!" This too was successful. Back he went again under the refrigerator.

"Mom, the police cars are all tied up."

"Well, call the Animal Rescue League. Maybe they can tell us what to do."

"Mom, they said to try to coax him into a shopping bag and then throw the bag outside."

An open-mouth bag was laid on the floor and some crackers broken and sprinkled gingerly into the area.

"Let's try again. Bobby, you poke at him. Bill, hold the boards. Karen, get back out of the way."

Broom poised like an experienced curler, I waited again to turn back any sudden frontal attack. Again the lithe and clattering varmint jumped the board right in front of me while

I screamed and threw up my unit. "Aha, now I can get at him. Watch out, now, I'm going to sweep him out there."

Ignoring the disgusted looks of my sons, I retrieved my weapon and dashed after the squirrel into the living room.

IN COLD STORAGE

"Look out, here he comes again." Like the Red Sea, the way was opened and in a series of unbelievable bounds, he melted again into his chosen corner behind the refrigerator.

"Well," I said, "Let ME try it from the top."

I hoisted myself up on top of there.

Someone handed me the broom and I let it swing down behind the refrigerator, and, backside to the moon and horribly conscious of the thinness of the curtains on the windows behind me, I made several passes at the little black squirrel.

He jumped back up on the "Aha, now I can get at him. Watch out, now, I'm going to sweep him out there." Scolding and clattering, the squirrel bounded off his perch as the broom touched him, and I'll swear he made a move toward the barricade — then changed his mind.

Turning leisurely, as if he had simply tired of the game, he kicked up his heels and made a graceful exit through the back door.

Why Grow Old?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Q. What can be done when a husband snores so loudly that his wife gets no sleep? I have used all sorts of inhuman means in my irritation. This problem and it is ruining my health from lack of sleep.

A. You can buy a small hat to attach to the pajama top. The idea is that the snorer will become uncomfortable when lying on his back and turn onto his side. As you probably know, people snore more and louder when lying on their back. The following letter has just come to me.

"A soft word turns away snorers. I feel so sorry every time I read about those who have a snoring partner that I wish with your feet separated. Keep the knees stiff throughout the exercise. Bend over and touch your fingertips to your knees. Now raise your trunk, bend your elbows and pull back with your trunk and your elbows, head back. Feel the pull over the diaphragm. Continue slowly, giving plenty of time for the pull-back.

Q. I have very fine hair. Should I use brush rollers or plain rollers?

A. By all means use plain rollers. When we first married 25 years ago, I pushed my husband on his side, shouted at him, held his mouth closed, and used all sorts of inhuman means in my irritation. "They all failed. But for many a long year now I have used the gentle method and it always works!"

Well, I must say that is a delightful way to solve the problem.

Q. Your exercises I have tried for hips and legs are wonderful. Now will you please give me a good one for the midriff? I need slimming there, too.

A. Do this one. Stand erect with your feet separated. Keep the knees stiff throughout the exercise. Bend over and touch your fingertips to your knees. Now raise your trunk, bend your elbows and pull back with your trunk and your elbows, head back. Feel the pull over the diaphragm. Continue slowly, giving plenty of time for the pull-back.

Q. I have very fine hair. Should I use brush rollers or plain rollers?

A. By all means use plain rollers. When we first married 25 years ago, I pushed my husband on his side, shouted at him, held his mouth closed, and used all sorts of inhuman means in my irritation. "They all failed. But for many a long year now I have used the gentle method and it always works!"

Six Beauties Hit by 'Bug' Before Contest

LONDON (AP) — A fresh wave of illness hit six beauty queens today, only hours before the new Miss World is chosen.

A doctor said five of the girls—Miss Denmark, Miss Finland, Miss Lebanon, Miss New Zealand and Miss Italy—appeared to be suffering from the same kind of stomach upset.

"We hope they will be fit for the contest tonight," said a spokesman but he added that Miss Lebanon and Miss New Zealand had to be listed as doubtful starters.

The illness spread after organizers had expressed hope that all but one of the girls—Miss Greece—would be fit. Miss Greece has tonsillitis.

A London bookmaker, William Hill, made svelte South African Disa Duivestein, 21, and shapely British model Jennifer Lewis, 20, joint 6-1 favorites.

Miss South Africa has been on the sick list, but was up and about at rehearsals this morning.

A panel including actor Richard Chamberlain and actress Maureen O'Hara will pick the winner at London's Lyceum ballroom before midnight.

The winner gets $7,000 plus a year of travel. Second prize is $1,400 and third $700.

Love Can Help Overcome Self-Contempt

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

DEAR MRS. LAWRENCE: Within the past five years my husband has seen five psychiatrists (one for four years) who did not help him. He cannot work because he has no self-confidence. And blames this on his never getting beyond the fifth grade.

He is so sure that everyone makes fun of his bad spelling that he can't make out a job him. For self-contempt is a kind application. We have no children because he feared he couldn't support them. He is not sure that it's too worthless to go on living. At which point we may need a mental hospital.

On the other hand, self-loathing people sometimes pull themselves out of the hell they're in. So, were I you, I'd stand by. Though I doubt that psychiatrists would suggest this, I do. I suggest it because all love is risky. So, when we love, I'm for standing by, regardless of risks until whatever is going to happen, happens.

And also because of the fact that self-loathing people sometimes discard the self they loathe and find a new self. Theologians call this struggle toward the new self "the dark night of the soul."

Thus, we can go down, down, down into the ultimate hell of our self-hate — and suddenly, for no reason we can understand, are DONE with it. Psychiatrist C. J. Jung describes what happens this way: "It is of acid that rots our self until as though at the culmination of there's nothing left of it but the fitness the destructive powers are converted into healing ones." And that is truth.

Actually, what's sick about people like your husband is that they will not be part of the earth. They think they're especially constricted by bad education, black skins or ugly boils like the Bible's Job.

What they won't see is that all life begins in constriction. Babies are constricted by their mothers' bodies until they decide to get out and get born. Even seeds are confined within husks which have to rot under the merciful cruelty of winter's frost before they can get born.

So it may just be necessary for your husband to so hate his old, constricting self that it rots — and is freed to find a new one.

Never apply perfume directly on your clothing as perfume usually stains and often is impossible to remove.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert St. Clair of Rosetta Court, Pontiac Township, announce the engagement of their daughter, Joyce Marie, to Michael Joseph Dziesinski. He is the son of the Leo Dziesinskis of Alpena. May vows are planned.

Make an Easy Shank

DEAR POLLY — I have a quick and easy way for sewing on a button so it has a shank. After fastening the thread in the spot where the button is to be located, sew through the holes of the button once or twice and then insert a very large pin (I use a corsage pin) or a darning needle between the top of the button and the loop made by the sewing thread.

DEAR POLLY — How does one clean the "other side" of double sliding windows that have only a two-inch separation between them? —MRS. D. W.

DEAR POLLY — My Pointer is one I learned the hard way. When I buy any new appliance or anything that has a warranty, I tape the warranty to the appliance (under the ironing board for the iron) any place where it does not show.

Now, when I need a warranty, I know where to find it. —MRS. S. M. R.

DEAR POLLY — I have a suggestion to help Mrs. E. R. A. whiten a stained bathtub. Rub toothpaste on the stain or ring, let it set for a few minutes and then use any cleaner to wash it off with the stains —MARY

DEAR POLLY — Mrs. E. R. A. should try using cream of tartar with her scouring powder to whiten her bathtub. —KATH-ERAN

Highway Revenue Bills Signed by Romney

LANSING (AP)—Gov. George Romney has signed into law a package of bills which it is estimated, will raise an additional $61 million a year in highway revenues.

The five bills include a gasoline tax increase from six to seven cents a gallon effective Jan. 1, license plate price increases effective with the sale of the 1968 plates, a new distribution of the highway taxes with more money going to municipalities and a reduction in the Mackinac Bridge toll from $3.75 to about $1.50.

The $60 million in added income is expected to start reaching state coffers when the bills become fully effective in 1969.

"With the signing of these bills," Romney said, "Michigan is assured of continued progress in building and maintaining a modern, adequate system of highways."

BRIDGE TOLL CUT

"Equally important is the reduction in the Mackinac Bridge toll from 35 to 34 per cent. The executive office estimated the cities and villages will share $58.67 million in 1968 and $71.07 million in 1969 under the new formula. They will split an estimated $48.78 million this year.

Estimates of the money to be given the state's major cities, with the three figures the shares of 1967, 1968 and 1969:

Ann Arbor, $287,394; Detroit, $12,749,169; Flint, $16,859,706; Grand Rapids, $2,156,695; Lansing, $1,941,228; Marquette, $1,111,353; Pontiac, $200,301; Saginaw, $984,324; Traverse City, $167,911; Warren, $1,187,329.

Two bills aimed at improving inter-governmental cooperation at a local level also were signed.

One gives general authority for intergovernmental agreements, including agreements with units of government in neighboring states and Canada.

The other permits transfers of responsibility from one local government to another by contractual agreement.

Romney also signed a measure appropriating $21,875 to the widow of the late Rep. Joseph Kowalski of Detroit, to cover the balance of his legislative salary.

Paper Readers More Likely to Plan Families

ANN ARBOR (AP) — People who read newspapers and are relatively well-informed are more likely to practice family planning than those who do not, a population expert says.

Dr. Dudley Kirk, professor of demography at Stanford University, says this conclusion, drawn from a worldwide study of fertility, offers encouraging hope for control of the world's population.

Speaking at a conference on fertility and family planning at the University of Michigan Wednesday, Kirk cited newspaper circulation as the most significant of 12 factors found related to national fertility figures by United Nations demographers.

"Information, health and education items were found to be more closely correlated with fertility than economic, industrial and urban development," he said.

ENCOURAGING

"This is encouraging, Kirk said, because in countries where population is growing too rapidly it is easier to improve the spread of information and education and health than to speed up the rate of economic and industrial growth.

Highly industrialized countries, and those with higher educational levels usually have a lower population growth rate all these methods, the methods than underdeveloped lands.

Kirk said the U.N. study shows that many countries are nearing a "threshold of development" at which birth rates naturally start to decline.

This natural decline has school enrollment is 80 per cent already been shown by 30 Negro, to disband and divide its nations, including the United States and industrialized Euro-wealthier districts. The Negro population, whose population growths are now "under control," less than one per cent, according to statistics of the civil rights group.

NAACP Begins School Drive

Desegregation Efforts Push for Redistricting

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People has announced the start of a new school desegregation campaign aimed at the district lines that prevent children of poor families from attending well-financed and well-equipped city and suburban public schools.

Officials of the NAACP said Wednesday it had begun the first of a series of cases, primarily in the North, seeking to make equal educational opportunities for all children the responsibility of states.

NAACP General Counsel Robert L. Carter said he is concerned with the amount of money a school district can afford to spend on each pupil, as well as the degree of integration. He said a poor district cannot make education "a viable tool for Negro kids."

Carter said at a news conference that it will be up to the states to decide how to provide equal educational opportunity, and he added:

"Whether this be by abolishing district lines, merging of districts, drastic revision of the state formula governing aid to education, or a combination of these methods, the methods are available. They must be utilized."

The first direct move in the NAACP campaign was a request to the Wyandanch school district on Long Island, whose school enrollment is 80 per cent

Negro, to disband and divide its nations, including the United States and industrialized Euro-wealthier districts. The Negro population, whose population growths are now "under control," less than one per cent, according to statistics of the civil rights group.

Granite State Can't Meet Big Demand

SALEM, N.H. (AP) — A Salem paving contractor confirms that it has come to the point that you can hardly get any granite in the Granite State.

The demand for New Hampshire's famous natural product so exceeds the supply that Andrew S. Donovan, vice president of the Manchester Paving Co., Inc. of Hooksett, submitted to the town of Salem recently a side-slip contract with a stipulation he would not be able to put in the specified granite curbing until next spring.

"It isn't that there is any shortage of granite in New Hampshire, Vermont and Massachusetts quarries," Donovan said. "The cutters just can't keep up with the demand. As fast as they cut it, contractors are buying it up." Donovan says the heavy demand for granite is due mostly to the unprecedented construction of interstate highways and bridges.

FBI Balking on New Anticrime 'Strike Force'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The FBI and its parent agency, the Justice Department, are at odds over the department's new "strike force" concept for fighting organized crime.

As a result, the FBI has refused to join fully the new anticrime force practically the only civilian federal investigative the past year in Buffalo, N.Y., which resulted in 14 indictments affecting 31 defendants.

WORK TOGETHER

Under the strike force concept, seven federal investigative agencies work together on an intensive drive against organized crime in a selected area for a year or two.

Although Justice Department officials refused to discuss the disagreement, it is known they feel their job would be much easier if the FBI participated fully in the new technique.

FBI participation so far has been passive. It has not assigned agents to work on the strike forces but has made available its vast intelligence sources.

Technically, at least, the attorney general could order FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover to assign agents to the strike force, but Clark is said to be reluctant to do so. Although the FBI is part of the Justice Department, it operates practically as an autonomous agency.

LIKES TO WORK ALONE

Insiders familiar with FBI operations say the bureau's opposition to participating fully in the plan is based on three premises:

—The FBI traditionally likes to work alone and take the credit—or the blame—alone.

—The FBI over the years has sought to keep separate the investigating and prosecuting functions of the Justice Department. The bureau does the investigating; the department does the prosecuting.

—The bureau is not convinced that the intensive work of the strike forces—spread possibly over an 18-month or two-year period—would be lasting. It feels that once a drive is completed the target area may slip back under control of the local crime syndicate branch. Department officials are known to feel, however, that the key to a successful fight against organized crime is continual surveillance.

The strike force idea is said to have originated about a year ago in the Justice Department's organized crime and racketeering section. It was given a year's trial under the title, "the Buffalo Project."

The Buffalo force had representatives from the Treasury Department's alcohol and tobacco tax division, Bureau of Narcotics, Secret Service, Internal Revenue Service, Intelligence and audit divisions, Bureau of Customs and the Labor Department's racketeering division.

Local and state agencies also participated. The operation was coordinated by the Justice Department's criminal division.

LBJ Sees Vets Teaching Poor

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson proposes sending former U.S. fighting men into the battle against ignorance.

The President called Wednesday for creation of a veterans' teachers corps that would concentrate on improving education in the nation's slum areas. He called the thousands of servicemen returning to private life each month "the seed of the future—a very tremendous national resource." As men who have already served their country, he said, veterans are especially equipped to teach the meaning of freedom and liberty to youngsters.

Johnson made his proposal at a White House reception for 500 leaders of veterans' organizations. He told Veterans Administration officials at the dinner to enlist returning veterans "in this challenging new assignment."

Johnson, a onetime teacher, told the group the first thing he'd like to do on vacating the presidency is go back into the classroom himself.

Trusted Trustees Not Trustworthy

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Inspector William Garlington handed this assignment to the police auto theft division: Find a car with the license number UUP 997.

"It's one of our unmarked cars that trusty prisoners drove to the police garage to have serviced," Garlington explained Wednesday.

Eisenhower spoke Wednesday at a "People-to-People" board of trustees meeting where he announced the election of former U.S. Ambassador George V. Allen as chairman of the program.

By National Geographic Society
WASHINGTON -- The world's largest living thing, the giant sequoia of California, may hold the secret to eternal life.

Scientists have yet to find a giant sequoia dying of natural causes. The trees fall because of calamities such as a woodsman's ax or soil erosion, but not as the result of pests or old age.

Even California's largest forest fire on record, which recently blazed through 138 acres of Sequoia National Park did not surprisingly little permanent damage to the big trees.

Almond Brittle Cake Has Broiled Topping

Almond brittle, long a favorite among brittle fanciers, is the special topping for a tender

Bread Is the Base of Stuffing for Your Thanksgiving Fowl

If oysters are too expensive for your budget, make the stuffing with egg plant.

MOCK OYSTER STUFFING

¼ cup minced onion
¼ cup minced celery
¼ cup (1 stick) butter
1 quart peeled and diced egg plant (1 medium)
¼ cup water
¼ teaspoon salt
2½ cups coarsely crumbled salted crackers
3 cups seasoned dried bread cubes
2 eggs, slightly beaten
¼ cup milk or broth
¼ teaspoon poultry seasoning
Cook onion and celery in butter over low heat. Simmer egg plant in water and salt for 10 minutes. Pour both mixtures over crackers and bread cubes. Add eggs, milk and poultry seasoning. Mix gently. Use to stuff a 10 to 12 pound turkey.

Chestnuts, an old time favorite ingredient in turkey stuffing, are available. Try some.

APPLE-CHESTNUT STUFFING

¼ cup chopped celery
¼ cup chopped onion
½ clove garlic, minced
¼ cup butter
2 cups chopped apples
2 cups cooked chestnuts
3 cups fresh bread cubes
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon brown sugar
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon pepper
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
Dash of cloves

Saute the celery, onion, and garlic in the butter until limp. Add remaining ingredients and mix lightly but thoroughly. Makes 7 cups stuffing.

white cake for "Almond Brittle" dessert if you wish. Or, for a late snack, serve it with mugs of hot chocolate.

Diced roasted almonds are available in most markets. To make them at home, dice natural almonds (whole almonds with their skins on) with a chopping knife. Place them on an oiled cookie sheet and roast them at 400 degrees for 5 minutes, stirring occasionally.

Don't be concerned if the almonds don't look quite done when you take them out; they'll continue roasting and turn light golden brown within a few minutes.

Almond Brittle Cake
¼ cup shortening
1½ cups sifted cake flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
Granulated sugar
¼ cup milk
¼ teaspoon vanilla
2 egg whites
¼ cup diced almonds, roasted
¼ cup brown sugar (packed)
3 tablespoons honey
1½ tablespoons melted butter or margarine
Cream shortening slightly in mixing bowl. Sift in flour, baking powder, salt and ¾ cup granulated sugar; add milk and vanilla. Mix until moistened, then beat 2 minutes (use low speed of electric mixer or 300 strokes by hand).

Beat egg whites until foamy; gradually beat in 3 tablespoons sugar, beating until stiff peaks form. Fold into cake mixture. Pour into greased 8-inch square pan. Bake at 375 degrees 25 to 30 minutes.

Combine remaining ingredients. Spread over hot cake. Place under broiler 1 minute or until bubbly on top. Cut into squares; serve warm. Makes 1 (8-inch) cake.

Peeling Easier if Scoring Done

If you want to remove sections of rind, one at a time, from citrus fruit, use a small sharp knife to score the fruit. After scoring, you should be able to peel off each section. Rind removed this way, may be cut into even strips for use in candying the citrus peel.

Green Pepper Colors Eggs and Hash Ring

If you have trouble pleasing your family at mealtime, give them the ring around — "Ring Around Scramble," that is. This dish, perfect for mid-day lunches or evening suppers, is a delectable combination of corned beef hash and eggs.

It's quite a change from the usual baked hash and poached egg combination that is so popular.

Canned hash is called for in this recipe and it is baked in a ring mold with green pepper rings for added color and flavor. When the hash is baked and unmolded it yields an attractive top of scalloped green rings.

The hash ring is filled with a zesty combination of scrambled eggs. The eggs are mixed with the usual milk and seasoning but are spiced up a bit with chopped green pepper. This use of green pepper helps to blend the flavor of the hash and eggs in this main dish.

When scrambling eggs, the cooking temperature is most important. Eggs are a high protein food and should be cooked with care over moderate heat. Too high temperatures or extended cooking times will cause the eggs to be dry and tough. Perfect scrambled eggs are cooked only until set and still moist.

Ring Around Scramble

1 medium green pepper
2 cans (15½ oz. each) corned beef hash
2 tablespoons butter
6 eggs, slightly beaten
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
¼ cup milk

Slice green pepper into rings and cut rings in half. Place cut rings in bottom of well greased, 1 to 1½ quart ring mold. Press corned beef hash into ring mold on top of green pepper rings. Bake in preheated 400-degree oven for 30 minutes.

While hash is baking, chop enough of the remaining green pepper rings to make ½ cup.

Do Make Pizza With Leftovers

If your family loves pizza, don't miss the trick of turning leftovers into their favorite treat. Meat loaf, roast beef, wieners, sausage, tuna, salmon or shrimp may be used this way.

Make biscuit dough and pat it lightly into a large size pizza. Spread with leftover meat or fish. Top with ketchup. Add bits of cheese. Season lightly with thyme and paprika. Place on a buttered cookie sheet and bake in a hot oven until the dough is lightly browned and cooked through and the cheese is melted and bubbly.

RING AROUND SCRAMBLE — Scrambled eggs with chopped green pepper fill a ring of baked hash. This main dish requires little effort or time to prepare. It is a high protein combination.

Q. What's the name of this cut of meat?

A. Veal round steak, or cutlet.
Q. Where does it come from?
How is it identified?

A. It comes from the center portion of the leg, called the round, from the young of beef (veal). Veal round steak has the same muscle structure as beef round, except it's smaller, has less marbling. The color, also is different since veal is light pink. The texture of the lean is very fine, somewhat firm.

Q. How is it prepared?
A. By braising or pan-frying. These cooking methods for this cut will enhance color as well as make the flavor, which is delicate, more pronounced.

For both reasons, veal is often coated with flour, dipped in egg, finally in crumbs. This also helps prevent drying out which happens easily in meat cuts with little or no fat. For braising, brown first, add a small amount of liquid, cover tightly and cook slowly. For frying, use lard or drippings, brown and brown occasionally until tender, temperature.

Broiler Meals Are Timesavers

Want dinner in a hurry? Then plan a broiler meal. Complete meals cooked in a broiler are easy to prepare and are so tasty.

Broiling is a quick and simple way to prepare such meat cuts as tender beef steaks (rib, T-bone, sirloin, tenderloin, porterhouse and club), ground beef patties, ground lamb patties, lamb chops and leg steaks, pork chops, ham slices and calves' and young beef liver.

When choosing steaks and chops for broiling, have them cut at least three quarters of an inch thick. Slash fat edge to prevent curling during broiling.

Thick cuts of meat and meats to be cooked well done should be placed farther from the heat than thin cuts or those cooked rare or medium. The distance varies from two to five inches from the heat for all cuts of meat.

Leftover cooked vegetables or canned vegetables may be heated in the lower part of the broiler pan under the rack and thereby seasoned in the process with the flavorful meat drippings. Peas, green beans, lima beans, corn and sliced carrots are good choices.

Tomato halves, whole cooked carrots, onion slices, mashed potato patties and cooked sweet potato slices may be brushed with butter or margarine and broiled on the rack with the meat for the last ten minutes or so.

Fruits, too, take kindly to the broiler. These usually are added during the last ten minutes of broiling and are dotted time for holiday preparations with butter and sprinkled with brown sugar before cooking.

Free Folder on Yule Food Now Ready

In Christmases past, old world cooks began preparing holiday specialties months in advance. When the happy day finally arrived, the cupboard was bursting with all kinds of cookies, cakes, candies and sweet breads for kaffeeklatsches and family feasts.

One helpful item to put on top of your idea list this Christmas is the Pan-American Coffee Bureau's new free recipe folder, "Coffee 'Round the Christmas Tree."

The pretty-as-a-Christmas-card folder features delicacies enjoyed with coffee at Yuletide celebrations all over the world—from Dutch Speculaas cookies for Saint Nicholas' Day on Dec. 6 to the Latin American King's Ring for Epiphany on Jan. 6.

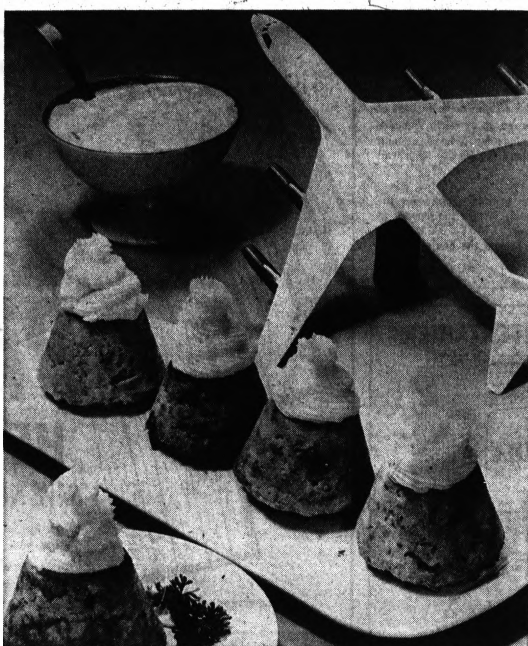

Though many of the foreign recipes have strange-sounding names like Lussekatör (Swedish buns), Schnecken (petite Pennsylvania Dutch sweet rolls) and Doce de Cafe (Brazilian Coffee Fudge), all of them have been tested and adapted to please American tastes.

Since holiday entertaining calls for your finest coffee, there is a helpful reminder of the proper brewing ratio. You will also want to try the new delicious hot coffee drink, "Mugs O'Cheer," and the two versions of Coffee Egg nog included in folder.

The customs and recipes in "Coffee 'Round the Christmas Tree" are illustrated with photos and sketches.

For your free copy, write to: Pan-American Coffee Bureau, P. O. Box 1900, Long Island City, New York, 11101.

It would be a good idea to get in an early request so you will have the recipe folder in time for holiday preparations before the traditional Christmas rush.

Creative Cooking Is Rewarding

It's not just for fun that young mothers search for young fun ideas to bring into food preparation.

If they can keep the young-sters happy and nourish them at the same time, life is more pleasant and lots easier for everybody.

Catch hold of soaring imaginations by making everyday food into something different and special.

Take their favorite canned tuna fish. Start it into its new space-age role by adding exciting flavor in the form of Angostura bitters, that aromatic blend of many different herbs and spices. Bind it together with eggs and bread crumbs and bake in custard cups.

Congratulations: You've engineered a "rocket" that needs only a snow-white nose cone to complete the illusion. Get ready for take-off. And watch how the young people do a job of refueling themselves.

Angostura Tuna Rockets
2 cans (6½ oz. ea.) chunk tuna, drained or 1 can (1 lb.) salmon, drained, boned and flaked
2 cups soft bread crumbs
2 tablespoons minced onion
2 eggs, well beaten
1½ cups milk
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 tablespoon Angostura aromatic bitters
1 envelope instant mashed potato granules

1 can (10½ oz.) condensed cream of celery soup
7 hard cooked eggs
Mix together fish, bread crumbs, onion, eggs, 1 cup of the milk, salt, pepper and Angostura. Spoon mixture into well-buttered custard cups. Bake in a preheated moderate oven (350 degrees) for 40 to 45 minutes.

Prepare potatoes as directed eggs. Yield: 6 servings.

on package. When molds are ready, unmold, put a rosette of potatoes on top of each croquette, using a pastry bag with a star tip pipe. Serve the roasted potatoes with rockets. Add remaining milk to celery soup, stir in 1 chopped hard-cooked egg and heat. Use as gravy. Serve garnished with the remaining sliced hard-cooked eggs. Yield: 6 servings.

Two Stuffings Will Please All

Interesting suggestion: serve more than one kind of stuffing with your Thanksgiving turkey. Tuck the family favorite into the turkey body cavity and cranberry-pecan or another variety into the neck opening. Let diners guests sample both. Kitchen-tested recipes for Farm, Inc., Norwalk, Conn.

Pumpkin Puree Gives Soup Unusual Flavor

If you want to start your meal with a real conversation piece, serve pumpkin soup for the first course. This is a smooth creamy soup with a delicious elusive flavor. Try it.

SOPA DE CALABAZA FRIA (Chilled Pumpkin Soup)
1 medium pumpkin (about 3 pounds)
1½ quarts chicken stock (5 bouillon cubes and water)

1 teaspoon sugar
1 teaspoon monosodium glutamate dash white pepper

toasted bread croutons

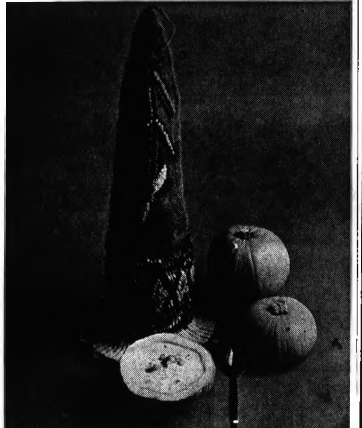

In a saucepan, mix pumpkin puree, salt, monosodium glutamate, sugar, pepper, curry powder, nutmeg and saffron. Add 1 cup light cream.

Bring pumpkin mixture to a simmer and cook 23 minutes, stirring constantly to prevent scorching. Remove from heat. Cool at room temperature. Chill in refrigerator.

When ready to serve, blend in one cup chilled light cream and ¼ cup heavy cream. Whip remaining ½ cup cream. Serve soup in chilled bowls or cups. Top with 1 heaping teaspoon whipped cream. Garnish with toasted croutons. 6 servings.

Heat chicken stock to boiling. Add pumpkin. When stock returns to boil, cover saucepan, reduce heat and simmer 25 minutes. Drain pumpkin.

U.S. Thwarting Red Plans for Key Area

DAK TO, South Vietnam (UPI) — The earth in the thickly jungled hills surrounding this stronghold has been splashed with French, American and Vietnamese blood in 13 years of fighting to control one of South Vietnam's most strategic areas.

American commanders feel they are winning the current battle swirling around Dak To, ending another Communist attempt to divide South Vietnam in the middle.

"We have hit him head-on and we think we have frustrated his plans," said Gen. William C. Westmoreland, commander of U.S. forces in Vietnam, during a recent tour of the battle area.

His troops have dominated the area in the Central Highlands since 1965 when the Army 1st Air Cavalry Division took it as part of its first Vietnam campaign.

The "Flying Horsemen" rushed into the area, hurriedly setting up supply routes as they went, and finally defeated the Communists in a bloody battle in the Ia Drang valley to the north of Dak To in November 1965.

It was a crushing blow for the Communists who had captured the stronghold only a few months before from the South Vietnamese.

The area was also the scene of a bitter fight that cost demoralized French troops 2,000 killed in one of their last battles before leaving Vietnam in defeat in 1954.

The first significant Communist challenge since the victory at Ia Drang valley began Nov. 2 when North Vietnamese troops, estimated by U.S. intelligence to number 6,000, struck with full force.

They were expected.

Elements of the 4th Infantry Division and the 173rd Airborne Brigade, tipped in advance by a Communist defector and reconnaissance patrols, met them as they came.

The fighting has cost the North Vietnamese at least 700 confirmed dead. American losses are set at 100 dead and 584 wounded.

Duels Have Honor Role

By National Geographic Society | National Assembly. M. Defferre who planked his opponent on the legal in Uruguay, illegal in the arm, called the affair "grotesque, ridiculous and old-fashioned."

No less a personage than Uruguay's Chief of State was involved in South America's latest affair of honor. President Oscar Gestido approached the brink of a duel with a political opponent.

Earlier in 1967, Gaston Delferre, the mayor of Montevideo, crossed swords with Rene Riquelme. The practice spread here, a member of the French Old-fashioned it was, for duels originated among Germanic tribes more than 1,500 years ago as a legal means of establishing guilt or innocence, the National Geographic Society says. The theory behind a "judicial combat" was that Providence would favor the contestant who was right and assure his victorious sword with Rome's victory. The practice spread throughout medieval Europe.

American troops control most of the valleys of the hill area, leaving the jungle-shrouded hilltops where movement is limited and air attacks frequent.

The Communist aim is to choke off the northern part of South Vietnam so it can be swallowed up by North Vietnam.

The Central Highlands is the place for it because South Vietnam is narrow there. It is where the Ho Chi Minh trail feeds in supplies from the North.

Dak To, a Special Forces camp 10 miles from where the Laos and Cambodian borders meet, is now the stopper at the supply trail's outlet.

The Communists have not yet broken the bottleneck and it appears they probably won't.

For Luring 'Lucky Breaks'

Positive Thinking Is Actor's Secret

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Ted Hartley is going about a film career in the same way he won a post as naval aide at the White House: with positive thinking.

"There was absolutely no logic to my being appointed aide to President Eisenhower in 1957," he recalls. "There were other Navy officers with more seniority and better qualifications. But I was fascinated with the power structure of Washington and I wanted to observe it from the inside, so I put in my application. A couple of weeks later, I was told to report to the White House."

THOMAS

Hartley was even less qualified to become an actor; his only previous experience in dramatics had been playing a female role in an Annapolis production. Yet his film career has been progressing, and he has his best role so far in the Cinema epic, "Ice Station Zebra." At age 34, the ruggedly handsome Hartley is thinking of writing his memoirs. Born in Omaha, Neb., and reared in Des Moines, Iowa, he has packed a lot of living into his lifetime.

FASCINATING LIFE

Among his experiences:

Becoming the nation's youngest pilot at 13; forming a fast friendship with Lady Aslor during a cruise to England; bobbing with the Kennedy's and other Washington society; carrying messages between Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip during a White House dinner; serving as naval aide at the U.S. Embassy in Moscow; breaking his back when his Cougar jet crashed on the carrier Midway off Formosa.

He managed to survive the injury, but it was enough to get him discharged from the Navy. For lack of anything else to do, he bought a travel agency in Corpus Christi, Tex., where he was discharged.

"The business didn't prosper, but at least I got some free trips out of it," said Hartley. "One of them was an inaugural flight to Paris, and I stayed over for a couple of days, coming back on a later jet."

The only other passenger in the first-class section was a loquacious Hungarian who turned out to be Nick Salgo, an associate of tycoon Charles Bluhdorn of Gulf & Western. Salgo offered the young man a job, and Hartley sold his travel agency to become an acquisitions man for Gulf & Western.

Hartley did so well that he was lured away by another acquisition-minded firm and sent to its Nevada headquarters. But the business life paled on him, and he left the $30,000 post for the nebulous career of a writer in Hollywood.

"Then the idea of acting presented itself," he related. "I first became interested when Rita Garn took me to sessions of the Actor's Studio in New York. I was offered a one-day role as a minister in 'Peyton Place,' and I decided to take a flier. I must have done all right, because I stayed 3½ months."

Since then he has appeared in "Walk, Don't Run," "Murderer's Row" and "Barefoot in the Park," and there's no telling where he might go from here.

Stammering Soviet Spy Interviewed

MOSCOW (UPI) — The stammering Kremlin spy accused of penetrating American and British espionage headquarters smiled today and said he really wouldn't mind doing it all over again.

Harold (Kim) Philby, the upper-class Englishman said to have served Moscow while heading Britain's anti-Soviet spy network, emerged for the first time from Soviet espionage shadows and talked with Western newsmen in a Moscow hotel.

Philby seemed pleased with himself.

Faced with British charges that he stole enough secrets to earn the title as the 20th century's greatest spy, Philby wagged a finger only once with a correction.

He said it most certainly was not true that he began spying in 1934, as reported in London. It was in 1933, he said happily. And why?

DURING DEPRESSION

Philby, stammering still at times, said he became a communist agent during the great depression.

"The dilemma of the working class people was frightful," he said.

"That's why I did it — I would do it again tomorrow," he said.

WHERE THERE'S A WILL... Danny Watson, 75, retired postman, drinks a glass of beer while riding his pony, Dolly, outside the Black Lion pub two miles from his Hetersgill, England, home. He used to get driven to the pub by motorist friends, but the recently enacted British law enabling police to give drunkometer tests to motorists and giving stiff punishment to the offenders cut down use of the auto to pubs at night. Watson got around the problem by buying Dolly and riding her to his favorite drinking spot.

Dems' Social Security Bill Political--GOP's Williams

WASHINGTON (AP) — A based more on political factors than on sound financing, Senate Republican leading opposition to a Democratic-backed Social Security bill charges it is Finance Committee against the bill proposing the biggest cash benefit increases in Social Security history, told the Democrats a full Senate debate began Wednesday.

"You want to boost all of the benefits you're giving the people before the election year and then put on the taxes to pay for them after the votes are counted," Williams referred to a provision under which total benefits would be hiked by $3.5 billion next April, and by another $5.8 billion in 1969, and financed by a hike in maximum annual payroll deductions from the current $200.40 annually to $352 next year and $422.40 in 1969.

BENEFIT VS. TAXES

Williams and other Republicans on the committee contend the tax increases next year — election year — would not be sufficient to cover the proposed hike in benefits.

But Chairman Russell B. Long, D-La., of the finance committee maintained the financing plan is conservative. He said the proposed increases in benefits and taxes would mean a $2.2 billion surplus in the Social Security fund.

Although Williams and the five other Republicans on the finance committee voted against the bill in committee, a GOP split appeared to be developing over at least some aspects of the bill.

Sen. Winston L. Prouty, R-Vt., endorsed the bill's proposal for increasing minimum monthly benefits 49 per cent from the current $44 to $70. He said he and some other Republicans have fought for this increase for years.

Senate Ignores Protests, OKs State Police Reserve

LANSING (AP) — A broadly worded bill authorizing a State Police reserve was approved by the Senate Wednesday despite protests that the measure opens the door for creation of a vigilante group.

The bill was placed on the special session agenda by Gov. George Romney who said the need for such a force, made up of retired or former state policemen, was pointed up by last summer's Detroit riots.

Approved 267 and sent to the House, the bill authorizes the state police director to recruit, equip and train a special state reserve force to serve as an auxiliary in times of emergency.

Selection of members would be left up to the director, but membership would be limited to Michigan residents over 21 who would have the authority of a regular state police officer during a period of active duty.

SENSE OF URGENCY

"This legislation is the kind resulting from a sense of urgency and a sense of need to do something even if you don't know what to do," said Sen. Roger Craig, D-Deerborn. The bill had been backed by several senators who have called for legislation to combat "crime in the streets."

Passage followed an emotional plea by Sen. George Fitzgerald, D-Grosse Pointe Park, that the measure be sent back to committee or at least laid over until amendments spelling out power limitations could be attached.

"To take a lot of well-meaning amateur policemen and put them out in the street without proper training is creating a problem on a problem," he said. "We're creating a monster here and we don't know what the consequences will be."

EXTENT OF TRAINING

The sponsor of the bill, Sen. John Toerpe, R-Cadillac, said the bill would establish a reserve made up of retired and former state policemen and others who would be trained only in communications and dispatch work.

These he said would be used only to help state or local police when their ranks had

Your Life Pretty Dull? Try These Adventures

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Now and then life wears a mask of tire-some sameness.

Everyday actions become irksome by their repetition.

"I'm bored with it all," the soul exclaims inwardly in shallow self-pity.

It helps at such times to put life in perspective by drawing up a list of possible adventures that might make the world more exciting. You may never perform these postponed pleasures, but it is fun to consider them.

THINGS TO DO

For example, now in the shady side of 50, I find that, for one reason or another, I have yet to—Build a confederate or paint a flagpole.

Hold a ladder for a fireman while he rescues a kitten stranded in a tree.

Find a buried treasure.

Prove to my wife's satisfaction that the longest distance between two points is the shortest way home.

Catch a mouse in a trap.

Come in first in the rat race.

Put together a jigsaw puzzle that has more than 12 parts.

Walk a chalkline.

Panel to Consider Obscenity Issues

By JED STOUT

WASHINGTON (UPI)—In Garden City, Kan., last September, an unsuspecting householder opened the mail and was asked the unsolicited question, "Do you believe in naked love?"

Accompanying the question was a brochure picturing portions of the filmed, explicit show to be had for $16 in black and white—double that for color—if the answer was "yes."

In this case, the answer was "no." But some Americans do say "yes" and their answers are supporting a shadowy multi-million-dollar market for the peddlers of this and other types of erotica.

For an annual take estimated at anywhere from $2 million to $2 billion, these peddlers sell movies, slides, books, magazines, various devices, and even records, to satisfy the grossest tastes.

They'll also provide for a price, and in some cases on credit, guides to homosexual hangouts, lists of adults whose preferences in sex run from wife-swapping to whippings, from unadorned pictures of men to nostrums guaranteed "to make the person of your choice really love you."

HAZY RULINGS

What to do has seemingly all but baffled the Supreme Court. Its obscenity rulings over the past 30 years are, to many of the judges in lower courts, a misty haze in which they're at a loss for a solid definition of obscenity.

Congress now has stepped into the center of this emotional controversy and authorized appointment of an 18-member commission which its sponsors hope will help clarify the issue.

The commission, whose members are to be appointed by President Johnson in the coming weeks, will have at least until Jan. 31, 1970, to do a massive job of sorting out the conflicts between laws and ethics and a society bent on change.

Just what the investigation will entail cannot be known precisely until the commission members are appointed and it is formed into a working unit. It is expected to have an annual budget of about $250,000.

COMMITTEE GOALS

The law that brought it into being on paper does envision research studies by the commission and others towards:

- Synthesizing the conflicting views of psychologists, ministers, police and sociologists on what, if any, harm obscene material has on individuals, particularly children.

- Balancing desires to restrict the flow of objectionable material with constitutional guarantees of free speech and free press.

- Analyzing Supreme Court rulings with an eye to possible development of a common standard that could be used to judge what is or is not obscene.

- Determining with more precision the nature and extent of the business enterprise that brings the obscene and offensive to market through the mails, and in drugstores and magazine shops.

The first of these tasks appears to be the hardest and most significant of the commission's undertakings, for the presumption of harm in exposure to such material is the basis for most anti-obscenity laws.

What commission sponsors hope is that with a determination that harm may come from exposure to obscenity, materials like that received by the Garden City householder may then be exempted from the amendment's protection.

U. S. Sifting Unusual Ideas for Answer to Jungle Wars

SAIGON (AP) — American science and technology have come up with some way-out answers to fighting Vietnam's guerrilla war but officers would like them to go still farther.

Items being tested or soon to be tested include lightweight body armor capable of stopping a .30-caliber armor-piercing bullet, a 10-pound electronic navigation computer for infantrymen, and radar beacons to guide bombers to the rescue of infantrymen caught in deep jungle ambushes.

Among the notable failures so far are attempts to give GIs greater firepower by doubling the size of their M16 rifle ammunition clips and to build a device that accurately detects hidden artillery positions. Hidden artillery has resulted in several thousand Marine casualties along the demilitarized zone.

Armor for infantrymen has always been a problem in Vietnam. The 12-pound flak vest most commonly worn will stop shrapnel but not bullets. The material of the jacket is of such a close weave that some Marines call them pressure cookers.

ARMY'S VEST

The Army version under test has ceramic plates in a loosely woven material that allows body heat to escape. The 10-pound jacket will stop medium machine-gun bullets.

The position locator, as the navigation system for infantrymen is called, still has a few bugs to be ironed out. Carried on an infantryman's back, the set's computer electrically feeds in compass bearings and the number of steps taken by its wearer and feeds out map coordinates of present position.

Theoretically an infantryman can follow a long twisting circular course over hills and rough ground and find less than a few yards' error when he arrives. The beacon is to be tested by the Marines in conjunction with their all-weather bomber, the

AS Intruder. Special Forces camps, fixed Marine positions and moving units alike could use the radar beeper to guide in strikes day or night and in any weather. In deep jungle minutes and lives often are lost during ambushes because allied bombers cannot figure out quickly just where the "friendly" are.

'RAT FINK'

The "rat fink" already is in use with the Army's tunnel rats, infantrymen who crawl into and scout out Vietcong tunnels.

A light electronic pack allows a man on the surface to follow a tunnel rat's movements with a direction finder. With this information men on the top can more effectively destroy the big center rooms the Vietcong spread through their underground complexes.

A similar wrinkle is being tested with scout dogs, roaming in front of infantrymen like bird dogs. A transmitter on the dog's back beeps until the dog stops and points at a hidden enemy. Then it gives a steady tone to lead in attacking infantry.

Also undergoing field tests is the Stoner system, based around a rifle similar to the M16 now in use but subject to frequent jamming. The Stoner, developed for the Marines, uses the same basic parts for light and medium machine guns, automatic rifles, regular rifle and grenade launcher.

NEW BARBED WIRE

New barbed wire is of tough steel with razor-sharp barbs making it even dog-and-cat-proof. Bagalore torpedoes destroy conventional barbed wire but are said to be relatively ineffective against the new brand.

Flame-resistant flying clothes, being tested by Army and Marine airmen, promise to save many fliers. An Army pilot testing a suit was shot down in flames recently. The fire melted the nylon straps on his helmet and his seat cushions but gave him what amounted to a bad sunburn over his body, the Army reports.

Also being tested are ballistic helmets for airmen. They "sag" under glancing hits, deflecting bullets from the wearer's head. For the heavily laden infantryman pitched into a swampy river when a small boat overturns, the Army has come up with a life preserver that folds to about the size of a cigarette pack.

'INSTANT BRIDGE' Another item is nicknamed the walk-on-water bridge. Made up of sheets of plastic 7 feet by 10 or 15 and a couple of inches thick, the bridge sections can be rolled and carried easily by infantrymen. For a river crossing, the sheets are unrolled and hooked together. Anchored on the opposite shore, they permit battalions to cross as long as they stay in single file.

What they don't have concerns those testing new equipment. One Army officer said in discussing antineutrino projects: "We'll look at any way-out system anyone can come up with. We've looked at some pretty weird stuff so far." None has proven out in the field.

Another failure so far is a de-tor to warn helicopters when they are being shot at. When other choppers flew too close, the detector gave out its warning even without any bullets in the area.

An electronic device to warn pilots who become targets for Russian surface to air missiles is successful. Details are classified, but the detector touches off a light and sounds a warning in the pilot's earphones. Pilots then take evasive maneuvers which the SAMs cannot follow. SAMs have not been a serious problem for American pilots in the Northern air war.

British Birds of Airports Shellshocked

By Splence Service
LONDON — Britain, a notorious land of bird-lovers, now has inflicted on its feathered friends shellshock in the purple grass.

In an effort to drive them away from airfields, it is also buzzing the flocks with snarling model airplanes, assault by hungry falcons and fake cannon fire.

Birds like airports in Britain, as elsewhere, because they have large areas of short grass, which provide plants and insects that a number of species eat.

But airports hate birds — birds break plane windshields, clog engines, cause crashes. Birds, attracted by the food, quickly get used to the noise of aircraft.

Some birds may be so little disturbed that they breed in airport grass. Lapwings, for example, commonly do; the greatest hazard to them is the mowing machine.

PURPLE DYE

Ideas tried in the past to frighten off the flocks include dyeing the grass purple (birds are supposed not to like this color) and buzzing birds with radio-controlled model aircraft.

At a recent conference here, the Minister of Agriculture announced that the flying of falcons is the most effective visual bird-scaring method; but falcons are hard to get, can't be flown in bad weather and planes can run into them as well as other birds.

The birds are a persistent nuisance. They even get used to automatic scyllene guns that produce intermittent bangs. Signal cartridges — Very lights — can be used to scare them but the best device of this kind is called a "shellcracker."

This throws an explosive charge which goes off about a hundred yards from the pistol and can be aimed at the flocks. Birds, like human beings, are susceptible to surprise.

DISTRESS CALLS

Shellcrackers are used to back up the broadcasting of distress or alarm calls through a loudspeaker which induce the birds to fly away. But this can backfire. Some birds do not have distress calls.

Others, such as gulls, fly towards the loudspeaker and circle over it until the distress call is cut off. Although they then disperse, the flights of investigation may be a nuisance.

Mobile equipment is used for the broadcasts. The vehicle carrying the equipment can go near the birds and, if the broadcasts are not successful, the operator gets out and fires his shellcrackers.

A year's test of this combination by the Royal Air Force showed good results. Starlings appear to be able to resist distress calls to a certain extent but gulls, on the other hand, put up with shellcrackers even better than they do distress calls.

Kerigan of 1565 N. Cranbrook, Bloomfield Township, will direct a volunteer staff of 500 businessmen in the drive.

Dolphins Attack

MOSCOW (UPI) — "Tens of thousands" of dolphins attacked a Soviet fishing launch off the Norwegian coast, Radio Moscow said today. The crew of the launch fought off several mass attacks with bothshots and oars, the report said. None of the crew was injured, nor was the vessel damaged.

Report Raises Stink in Britain

Is Tide of Garbage
Threatening Nation?

LONDON (UPI) — A recent government report on garbage collection in London and elsewhere in Britain has raised an almighty stink.

The report said, in effect, that the city and the rest of the nation was in danger of sinking almost perceptibly beneath an ever increasing tide of garbage.

London's independent-minded garbage collectors rejected the report but city fathers are striving to do something about it.

Garbage collection in London, and throughout Britain, is a public service financed by "rates" (local taxes), and is the responsibility of each of the city's boroughs.

Despite the report's criticism, garbage is still collected only once a week in most of the city's suburbs, thus attracting dogs, cats and tramps. But downtown, where restaurants and hotels abound, it is collected daily.

VERY INDEPENDENT

British garbage collectors are among the most independent in the world, and few housewives dare cross them. One who did paid for it.

Angered by one man's refusal to collect her garbage because her can was faulty, she dumped the contents on him. Many Britons applauded.

But she was fined for assault and garbage collectors in her neighborhood went on strike.

The garbageman in London still carries some of the social stigma of the chimney sweep but he is fairly well paid by British manual labor standards.

6-HOUR DAY

Most average about 20 pounds ($56) a week, working six hours a day, and often get tips at Christmas time. Showers and protective clothing are provided by the city.

One London schoolteacher recently quit the profession and became a garbageman because he could make more money.

The service is a bargain. The average London household pays only about two pounds ($5.60) a year in taxes for garbage collection.

In one new London housing estate, they've done away with the garbageman altogether.

Under the system, invented by a Swedish engineer, vertical chutes carry garbage from apartments to underground pipes through which it is sucked to incinerators by means of a vacuum created by turbines. The heat generated by the incinerator provides the power for the turbines.

Reactor Boom May Falter on Red Tape

By Science Service

CHICAGO—The nuclear power industry — booming at the moment — is heading for a fall unless procedures for licensing new plants are streamlined, an industry spokesman warned here.

Theodore Rockwell III, head of MPR Associates, Inc., said he was afraid industry and government would end up in a fruitless hassle over how much safety to build into reactors if the red-tape problem gets any worse.

Nuclear power is rushing ahead; estimates are that 165 new plants will be built in the next 12 years. But it takes an average of 10 1/2 months to issue a building permit, according to Peter A. Morris, director of the Atomic Energy Commission's division of reactor licensing. The chances are that time might increase.

Morris and Rockwell were members of a panel of reactor safety and licensing sponsored by the Atomic Industrial Forum.

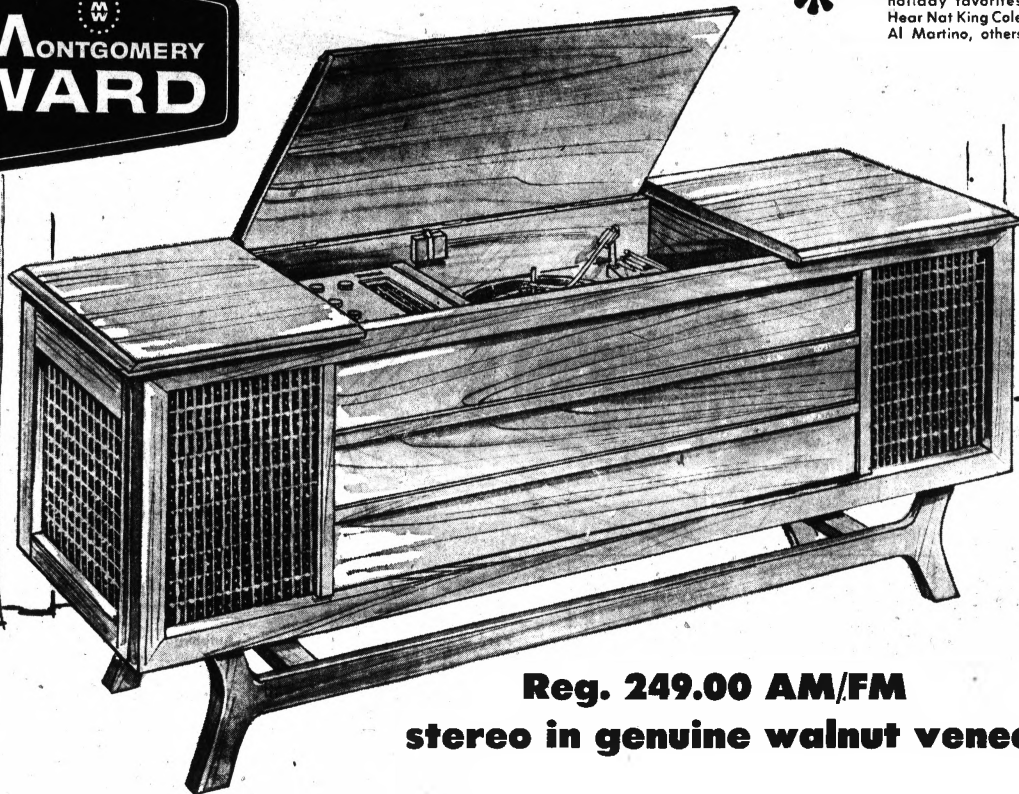

Both government and industry panel members were bothered by the prospect of construction deadlines being disputed by delays in licensing.

The problem is serious; said Harvey Brush of the Bechtel Corp., because utilities are basing their plans for the next ten years on nuclear power. Failure of licenses to come through on time could be fatal for local industries if their power requirements cannot be met.

'FBI Digging for Bodies on Farm in N.J.'

DEERFIELD TOWNSHIP, N. J. (AP) — The FBI has been digging on a chicken farm here and all involved parties are remaining tight-lipped about what they are looking for.

The FBI and U.S. attorney at Newark refused all comment, including any confirmation of the digging.

However, the Philadelphia Bulletin published a report today saying the FBI was searching for the bodies of two Philadelphia brothers who disappeared on Feb. 16, 1960.

Earlier this year, the FBI found the remains of two bodies on a one-time chicken farm in Jackson Township, near Lakewood, about 50 miles northeast of Deerfield Township in Cumberland County. The FBI said it believed the Jackson Township site was a gangland burial ground.

REGAN MONDAY

State police at Bridgeton said that the digging at a farm at Parvins Mill Road and Dog Alley has been going on since Monday.

The 25-acre farm belongs to Henry Pianin, a clothing shop worker. He bought the farm in 1950 and raised chickens and vegetables but quit six years ago to take the clothing job.

Contacted by telephone this morning, Mrs. Pianin told the Associated Press: "We have nothing to say right now," and hung up.

Pianin told reporters Tuesday "I can tell you this — I'm not involved in whatever they're digging for."

ARCHEOLOGY TECHNIQUE

The FBI agents staked out about five acres of the farm with three-foot-high sticks with white rags attached. They were digging with shovels and a back hoe and using a device resembling a mine detector. A 10-foot-high mound of dirt was left from their efforts Tuesday, but they reportedly came up with only a rusty spring and an auto fender.

WWII Hero Has Answer to Hate Notes

SUNNYVALE, Calif. (UPI) — Donald Kay dislikes writing letters, but he says he won't lay down his prolific pen until the Vietnam war ends.

Until then, the 44-year-old decorated veteran of World War II and Korea will continue writing notes of sympathy to bereaved persons who have lost loved ones in Vietnam.

Kay spends several hours each week scanning newspapers for the names of servicemen killed in combat and writing their families a note which reads:

"From a grateful fellow American who prays your son's sacrifice will not have been in vain. May the Lord give you the strength to see you through your darkest hours."

Kay, a civil engineer who once earned the Distinguished Flying Cross for a World War II mission over Maribor, Yugoslavia, started his campaign two years ago when he learned of anonymous hate letters sent to relatives of dead Vietnam servicemen.

'Cosmos Began With a Bang'

WARD

By Science Service
WASHINGTON — The history of the universe is a reverse image of human history.

For the cosmos, things happened extremely fast at the beginning and are still slowing down.

Human culture, on the other hand, got off to a very slow start and lasted many centuries during the Stone Age, but has recently speeded up considerably, will the Space Age treading on the heels of the Atomic Age.

The transition from one period to another, whether for the universe or for humans, is not sharp and clearly defined but extends over a period of time.

This applies even though the age of the cosmos is measured in billions of years while that of man is measured in millions.

MIRROR PICTURE

The mirror picture of cosmic and human evolution was drawn by Dr. George Gamow of the University of Colorado at Boulder to explain the latest addition to his theory of the history of the universe, reported in Science the weekly journal of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

Dr. Gamow believes that the universe began with a "big bang" some nine billion years ago, with all of the light elements being formed then as the result of thermonuclear reactions of primeval matter, a mixture of protons, neutrons, electrons and light quanta.

These reactions occurred during minutes, days or possibly even years, Dr. Gamow said in a telephone interview, but on a very short time scale. The universe during this first stage was very hot and brilliant.

During the second stage, which began about a million years later, the universe expanded and cooled and became very dark as the temperature dropped. Toward the end of this period, stars and galaxies began to form, this third stage bringing light again to the universe.

BEYOND RETURN

The fourth stage, where the universe is today, consists of no other expansion in which the galaxies have become so far separated they are beyond the point of return.

The final stage will be the thermal death of the universe, probably some 50 billion years in the future, when all will be dark and still.

This will also be a gradual transition, Dr. Gamow said, because the brightest stars will burn out first, with the fainter stars remaining.

Dr. Gamow's report to Science explains the second interesting period in the history of the universe, about one million years after the big bang.

TEMPERATURE DROP

At this time, his recent calculations have shown, the temperature was about 3,000 degrees Kelvin, a drop of some 7,000 degrees from the first stage.

This was at the time when the expanding universe changed from one in which radiation dominated to one in which matter — stars and galaxies — had the upper hand.

Computer Turns Out Evidence Against Operator

NEW YORK (AP) — A computer programmed to catch motorists who ignore traffic tickets whirled a while and came up with one of its own Wednesday — a computer operator.

After being fed license numbers and data on outstanding traffic tickets, the computer reported that Monroe Winkler, 28, of Queens, had received 27 parking summonses and a play-street violation during the past two years.

Winkler, an advertising agency computer man, was fined $370 by Traffic Court Judge Evelyn Richman. He pleaded innocent to the play-street violation and trial was set for Nov. 21.

Winkler said he thought he had only one unanswered summons.

Marital Fights Prompt Ills

By Science Service

WASHINGTON — Husband-wife fighting does more than create unpleasantness. It offers risk of promoting arthritis in the woman and ulcers in the man.

Investigators at the University of Michigan have found these two diseases significantly correlated with marital hostility after a study of 97 couples.

Though the illnesses also turn up in couples who don't often fight, they are considerably more common to hostile marriages, report Drs. Sidney Cobb, John R. P. French and Guttorm Norstebø of Michigan's Institute for Social Research.

Quite possibly, hostility contributes to the woman's arthritis through her resentment and depression and to the man's ulcer through his unmet need for emotional support, the researchers noted.

Why men and women get different diseases from the same battles is so far unexplained. It could be due to cultural differences between men and women in the expression of hostility, said Dr. Cobb.

MAN'S ARTHRITIS

Mall Booth to Show Work of Retarded

Dream Cycle for Women at Menstruation

By Science Service

BOSTON — Women appear to go through a dreaming cycle that follows their menstrual cycle, dreaming less just after menstruation and more just before, according to research at the Boston State Hospital.

The cycle seems especially pronounced in women who complain of premenstrual tension. There was close to an hour's difference in the time women spent dreaming between the early and late part of their periods, reports Dr. Ernest Hartmann, an assistant professor of psychiatry at the Tufts University School of Medicine and director of the sleep and dream laboratory at the hospital.

The greatest amount of dreaming seemed to come during time several of the women complained of premenstrual tension, says Dr. Hartmann.

He suggests tentatively that if women could sleep longer during the critical premenstrual days, the effect might be to reduce tension.

Patent Goes to Cold Probe for Surgery

By Science Service

WASHINGTON A probe that can be used for surgery at temperatures as low as 200 degrees below zero C. was one of the 1,236 patents granted by the U.S. Patent Office this week.

The cryosurgical probe was developed cooperatively with doctors at several hospitals and is expected to be in use for freezing and removing diseased tissues within six months.

It is the invention of Drs. John G. Daunt, now at Stevens Institute of Technology, Hoboken, N.J., and Stephen F. Malaker, president of Malaker Corp., High Ridge, N.J., the firm producing the device.

The probe is lightweight and easy to handle. It can be cooled to several temperatures below current probes, making it possible to treat such diseases as Parkinson's or Menier's.

The probe consists of a hollow tube of insulating material, such as glass or tetrafluoroethylene plastic, within which is enclosed a metal tube.

The probe tip, formed of highly conducting copper or other metal, is attached to the end of the inner tube through which the liquid refrigerant passes.

Other patents granted were for:

A two step process to give cotton fabrics crease resistance whether they are wet or dry has been patented by four researchers of the Department of Agriculture. Key to the method is the use of an alcoholic solution of anhydrous ammonia and epichlorohydrin, but only after it has aged.

In the first step, the cotton fabric is treated with water containing from 10 to 20 percent by weight of the products resulting when the alcohol solution has aged at least three months, at room temperature.

The wet cellulose is then heated for from 3 to 10 minutes at a temperature of about 100 degrees C.

In the second step, the fabric is treated with sodium hydroxide at a concentration of 5 to 10 percent in water, then heat-treated for from 5 to 10 minutes at the same temperature.

The problems of providing a suitable atmosphere for humans and other animals in such closed systems as submarines, space vehicles and bomb shelters has become more and more pressing in recent years.

An apparatus for producing oxygen and nitrogen in the proportions to which man is accustomed on earth has been devised by Thomas I. Taylor of Levita, N.J., who assigned his patent right to Isomet Corp., Palisades Park, N.J.

The intensifier allows less of the dangerous radiation to produce an effective result.

Germany's Rightist Party—Most Formidable Since WW II

HANNOVER, Germany (AP)—An attractive 24-year-old blonde stood at the rostrum and declared: "We decisively reject the allegation that Germany bears the sole blame for the World War..."

A roar of approval rose from the 1,400 predominantly male delegates at the third congress of the National Democratic Party—NPD—the most formidable rightist party to emerge in West Germany since World War II.

The young woman, who was reading from the newly adopted party platform, seemed to personify the image of the party that the NPD wished to convey to the world as it set sail for the 1969 national election: a young girl of ideals seeking to kindle a healthy sense of national pride.

NPD opponents were more apt to shudder at the display of emotional nationalism by a party they regard as a haven for unrepentant ex-Nazis.

PARTY PLATFORM

The party platform, the first in the NPD's three-year history, says:

"The prerequisite for the higher development of humanity is idealism."

Former chairman—and ex-Nazi—Wilhelm Gutmann said the program "should open the gate to the Bundestag," the lower house of the federal parliament which the NPD hopes to enter in 1969 with 40 to 50 of the 496 seats.

The party has won 48 seats in six of West Germany's 10 state parliaments during the last year and claims a membership of nearly 30,000 with an average age of 41.2 years. Its highest percentage of the vote was 8.8 per cent in Bremen last month.

FOREIGN POLICY

The party's foreign policy platform contains Gaullist strains in such points as:

• "Europe must stand equal and independent between East and West."

• "NATO is ripe to be disbanded and replaced by an 'alliance of free and equal partners in a European security system.'"

• "All foreign troops must be withdrawn from German soil in order to allow the country to reunite."

Other statements of policy:

• But Bundeswehr should be converted into a national army with its own commander in chief and general staff.

• "The soldier must again enjoy the respect due him in our society."

• Foreign incursions into Ger-

Although the party has been accused of anti-Semitism, the platform contains no racist pleas. Such statements could lead the federal government to ban the party as undemocratic.

Mention of abhorrence of mass murder and war crimes was added to the leadership's draft midway through the congress, and it was generalized to apply to "all times and all peoples."

Like West Germany's two ruling parties, the Christian Democrats and the Social Democrats, the National Democrats do not

quests of 1945.

The Nationalists go a step further and lay claim not only to the former German territories under Polish and Soviet control, but also to the Sudeten region of Czechoslovakia. The NPD does not, however, advocate recovery of the territories through the use of force.

Present-day Germany is characterized in the NPD platform

"But," the party asserts, "the policy of partitioning the world through American and Soviet imperialism is destined to fail if Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger's home state of Baden-

Württemberg, the NPD is independence in the German people."

The first test of how well the new NPD platform succeeds will be next April's election in which the NPD is expected to run in the state election as a

F-Birds Gain 9th Victory in MFL Race

The Firebirds went 60 yards after recovery of a fumble by Jon Izer with a pass from Harrington to Schapman for 24 yards making the score 12-0. John Motzer then converted.

A minute later Mike Pryor intercepted a pass and the drive started from the Pontiac 46. Sturdy Marty Malatin kept his footing for large chunks of yardage and then Harrington hit Jim Stewart with a short flare.

Stewart, who was obtained from Lansing this year, zigzagged from one side to the other before completing his 40 yard touchdown pass-run and Motzer made it 20-0.

Lansing then came to life. Veteran quarterback Emu Kielke, the Y.A. Title of the MFL started throwing on every play. With substitutes in the Pontiac defense, Kielke connected with Roger Hayes and the play covered 72 yards and the TD.

Because of the passing, the clock stopped on almost every play.

The fired up Lansing star was immediately cooled when on the ensuing kickoff, Dale Fry got great blocking and skated down the sidelines 80 yards for the touchdown.

T-Hawks Shuffle Lineup for Debut

Following through with a promised shakeup of the roster after last week's 20-point defeat in the opener at Holland, Pontiac Tomahawk coach Bob Duffy has alerted four players for duty Saturday night against Grand Rapids.

Duffy was hoping to improve Tomahawks' floor play and shooting for their North American Basketball League home debut.

Saturday's home opener at Northern High School against the Tackers — who moved into the prominent contending role in the Western Division by easily dumping Muskegon, the defending champion, in their opener — will be designated Central-Northern night to cap their big sports week of the fall.

Both Paul Long and Sonny Dove were optioned by the Pistons to Pontiac in time for last week's game and they featured the Tomahawks' attack. They were on the big club's roster this week but could return for Saturday's contest since both players were enthused with the chance for playing time with Pontiac.

Meanwhile, Duffy Tuesday at practice signed flashy guard Dave Gaines, a 6-2, 176 pound scoring whiz from LeMoyne (Tenn.) and the Harlem Globetrotters, whose speed and springy legs should make him a crowd pleaser.

ADDITIONS
Also added to the playing list for Saturday was Saginaw's Ernie Thompson who missed the opener due to a lack of practice.

Arnie and Ken Nevels, brothers who starred at Dillard University, will be dressing for the first time, too.

In an effort to improve the offensive rebounding and pivot play, Tomahawk officials are attempting to swing a trade for more bench strength with height.

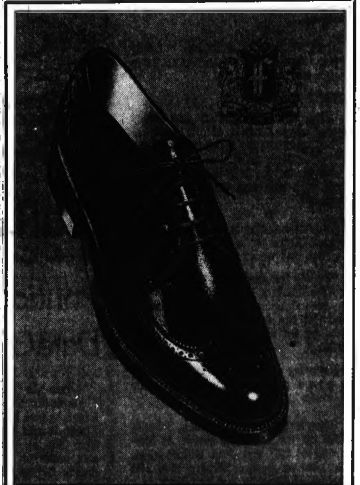

Jim Patterson (6-7 from Miami of Ohio), Dick Deik (6-6, University of Detroit), Joe Mad-drey (6-5, Niagara) and Marty Letzmann (6-4, Wayne State) comprise the front court in addition to Thompson.

Lou Hyatt (6-2 from U. of D.) and Manny Jackson (6-2, Illinois) are available, again, as backcourt performers.

Tickets will be $2 (adults) and $1 (students) except for OCH and PNH students who will be able to buy tickets for 50 cents during their football game Saturday afternoon.

Season ticket sales continue at the Pontiac Football Company's downtown office (12 North Saginaw) and the VFW Hall (398 S. Saginaw) at $15 per adult and $7.50 per student. The season ticket is for 12 games and is the only reserved seating available to Tomahawk fans.

Pontiac is in the Eastern Division with Columbus (0-2) who will be here next Wednesday night, plus Battle Creek and Lansing (both 1-0).

Red Lights Up Victory Cigar*Auerbach Appears as Celtic Coach

By United Press International Red Auerbach got another chance to light his famed victory cigar Thursday night.

The former Boston Celtic coach, who retired last year to concentrate on his duties as general manager, was back on the bench Thursday night because player-coach Bill Russell got caught in the snowstorm, which hit Boston, and missed the Celtics' game with San Francisco.

Auerbach, even without Russell in the game, showed he still had the winning touch by coaching the Celts to a 113-116 victory over the Warriors in the second game of a doubleheader.

In the first game in which referee Norm Drucker missed the first quarter because he also got caught in the snowstorm, THE VIC GAVE THE Celts a 11-2 mark in the Eastern Division while the 76ers are second at 11-3 and the Pistons are third at 9-5.

Would You Believe-- Lions Rushing Leaders

NEW YORK (AP)—The Detroit Lions, struggling along below 500 with a 3-4-2 record in the Central Division of the National Football League, lead the league in rushing with an average of 194 yards per game.

The weekly statistics from the NFL, released Wednesday, show the Lions also rank among the leaders in defense with a second in both total defense, 249 yards per game, and pass defense, 121 yards.

Baltimore's big scoring spurge against Atlanta last Sunday sent the Colts into the lead in total offense with a 387-yard average and pass offense with 275 yards per game.

Hoople Gives Support to Do-or-Die Old Grads

By MAJOR AMOS B. HOOPLE

The Peerless Predictor

Egad, friends, this is the week old grads will be talking about for the next 12 months. The schedule is loaded with interstate and intrastate rivalries that always bring out the crowds and the best in the gladiators.

Getting together to settle their annual differences are such traditional foes as Southern California and UCLA, Tennessee and Mississippi, Texas and Texas Christian, Washington and Washington State, Missouri and Nebraska, Northwestern and Illinois, Oklahoma and Kansas, Oregon and Oregon State and Utah and Utah State.

These are the games in which past performances and season records mean nothing. It's "do or die" for Old Alums. Mater and the devil take the hindmost—unkump!

has some gill-eel predictions for you—kaff-kaff!

Employing the same secret Hoopie mathematical progression which correctly forecast Penn State's stunning upset of North Carolina State last Saturday, I predict that of the nation's four major unbeaten eleven—UCLA (7-0-1), Indiana (8-0), North Texas St. (6-0-1) and Wyoming (9-0)—two will feel the lash of defeat.

Watch for Southern California to bump UCLA in a real Hollywood-type wiff-hanger, 22-21, and for the power-packed U. Texas-El Paso to outlast the Wyoming Cowboys in a free-no, scoring affair, 28-26—hak-kaff!

Tennessee will move a step closer to the Southeastern throne by trouncing Old Miss, 24-13. And North Texas State will retain its undefeated status by turning back Tulsa, 25-21, in Missouri Valley competition.

In the tight Big Ten race, Indiana will clinch a Rose Bowl berth by whipping Minnesota, 21-6, while its neighbor Purdue, also undefeated in the Big Ten but prohibited from going to the Rose Bowl two years in a row, will thrash Michigan State, 35-14—harrumph!

Now on with the forecast.

Spartans Work Inside for Tilt

EAST LANSING (AP)—Chilly weather forced the Michigan State football workouts indoors Wednesday as the Spartans prepared for Purdue.

The offense ran through plays against a freshman lineup in Jensen Fieldhouse. The defense scrimmaged against a reserve unit trying out Purdue plays. Defensive linebacker and tackle Charlie Bailey, who earlier had been figured out of action because of a knee injury, returned to the workouts and may see game action against the Bollermakers.

Badgers Disregard Standings

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—You can seem to be a critical penalty, said Coatta. "They've hurt the starting nod against Michigan-Bucks Ryan's ability as a roll out passer, but has had a reserve quarter-back success moving the back most of the season, has re-team.

So, in effect, says Wisconsin Coach John Coatta.

"Our guys don't even think about last place," Coatta said of his battered Badgers. "We're just looking for a victory."

Wisconsin will limp into the Michigan contest with a 0-7-1 record. The Wolverines are 3-5 over-all and 2-3 in the Big Ten. The Badgers and Iowa are deadlocked in last place with 0-4-1 splits.

Despite the record, Coatta said his Badgers have enough desire and ability to snap their losing streak with a triumph over Michigan.

CLOSE LOSSES
In the last five games, Wisconsin has been outscored by a total of only 13 points.

After falling to Pittsburgh 13-11, the Badgers came back and injured two weeks ago in the tied Iowa 21-21. They then lost Northwestern game, returned to Northwestern 17-13, to Indiana 14-9, and to Ohio State 14-9.

Garvie Crow, a blocking fullback, noted that three of the back who pulled a leg muscle in last four touchdowns scored the victory over Illinois Saturday. Wisconsin came after day, also worked out for the penalties were assessed against varsity but Elmitt said he was not certain whether he would "Somewhere there's always play."

Cold, Cold, Cold at 'M Practice

BOWLING

Pat Sweeney surged into a tie for the top average in the Huron Bowl Classic last Friday by thumping the pins for a 223-232-287-721 for Herk's Auto Supply. This is the second best series reported for men in the Pontiac area this fall and left Sweeney tied with Bill Bull and Joe Myers. Myers' 735 for V-K Contracting at Huron still is No. 1 on the list.

Bull, who bowls for Moose Lodge No. 182, had a 255 (85) for last week's second high game. Mitch Stepp of Gallagher Music posted 245-669.

Bill Crawford led all of the 300 Bowl Classic scorers last Thursday, rolling a 256-225-684. Don's Market swept its opponent and now leads the race by 11 points.

Bob Young had 225-617, while 238s were registered for Paul Sewell (607), Larry Burgin and Ed Lovell. Gary Hintz had a 231.

The Howe's Lanes Friday night Senior Classic reported

Packers' Back on Ailing List

NEW YORK (AP) — Elijah Pitts, Green Bay halfback, is out for the season, having been placed on the "reserved as injured" list of the National Football League.

If the Packers should try to reacquire Pitts prior to the end of the season, including postseason play, Pitts could be claimed by any other NFL club on non-recallable waivers.

However, Vince Lombardi of the Packers, fully conversant with the rules, would not be likely to risk such a valuable property.

Hull Hits 15th Goal in Hawk Win

By the Associated Press
"I'm just glad," Glenn Hall once said, commenting on Bob Hull's powerful shots, "that I only have to face them in practice."

But that was before the National Hockey League expanded. Now goalies Hall, a longtime Chicago teammate of Hull's, is just another target for the Golden Jet.

Hull fired his 15th goal of the season Wednesday night helping the Hawks beat St. Louis and Hall for the second time this week, 4-1.

Elsewhere in the NHL Wednesday, Mike Walton's three-goal hat trick powered Toronto to a 4-2 victory over Boston and moved the Maple Leafs into undisputed possession of first place in the East Division. Pittsburgh blanked Philadelphia 5-0, Montreal dropped Minnesota 5-1 and Oakland whipped Los Angeles 4-1.

Hall yielded a first-period goal to Stan Mikita and then held off the Hawks until midway through the third period when Hull blazed a 20-footer past him.

The elder Hull scored two goals against Hall last Sunday as the Hawks beat the Blues 5-2.

Walton, playing in place of the injured Dave Keon, scored two goals in the first period, one of them just 36 seconds after leaving the penalty box, and completed his hat trick in the middle session.

The three goals gave the 22-year-old center seven for the season in 15 games matching his total for 31 games with Toronto last year.

The victory gave the Leafs a two-point edge over idle New York and Detroit in the NHL's East race.

Montreal ended a five-game winless streak as Dick Duff and Henri Richard did the heavy work against Minnesota.

Duff had a goal and three assists and Richard scored once and set up two others for the Canadiens. Yvan Cournoyer, who notched his eighth goal, Ralph Backstrom and Ted Harris were Montreal's other scorers. Wayne, Connolly hit for the North Stars.

Hank Bassen, playing his first game in 2½ weeks, blanked Philadelphia, ending a four-game flyer winning streak.

Bassen kicked out 27 shots and Billy Dea, Ab McDonald, Bob Dillabough, Keith McCreary and Art Stratton scored Pittsburgh's goals.

Oakland's victory over Los Angeles broke a 15-game winless skid. During the month-long span the Seals had lost 12 games with just three ties.

The Kings took a 1-0 lead early in the first period on a goal by Terry Gray, but after that it was all Oakland. Larry Cahan, George Swarbrick, Charlie Burns and Art Erickson were the Seals' marksmen.

He says, "West opens the queen of spades. South wins with the king and leads the ten of diamonds. How must East defend?"

The answer is, "He has to win the second diamond. Otherwise South can win two spades, one heart, two diamonds and four clubs."

He asks, "Doesn't East take a chance if he wins the second diamond? Suppose South has the last missing diamond?"

"I suppose there is some way for West to show that he started with three diamonds. Is there?"

"Yes," says Marshall. "There is a general defensive convention that a defender should show an odd or even number of cards in a suit by playing high-low (echoing) with an even number and low-high with an odd number. He doesn't do this all the time but only when it is more important to inform his partner than his opponent."

"I see," replies the student. "West plays the deuce of diamonds first and when he follows to the second diamond, East knows that West started with three diamonds. If West started with two diamonds he would play high-low, and if East would duck the second diamond as well as the first."

Note that if South had held one less spade and one more diamond, the defense would be helpless anyway because South could take the two diamonds and go after clubs; but if South held three diamonds and only four clubs the double duck would beat him.

Job Worries Over for Vet

CINCINNATI (AP) — Willie Paul Williams, job worries are over. The 29-year-old Vietnam veteran was discharged by the Marines 90 days early so he could take care of his mother who is incapacitated with a permanent back injury. Williams arrived home Sept. 24 and started looking—but the best he could do was a dishwashing job even though he had been trained for warehouse work in the Marines. His troubles lasted until the Cincinnati Enquirer published a story about his plight Wednesday. "I have so many job offers now. I didn't know which one I should take," Williams said. He said he had decided to accept the offer of Gibson Greeling Card Co.

Delta College Looks to Hike of Property Tax

BAY CITY (AP)—A member of the Delta College Board of Trustees says the only way the young college will be able to cope with expanding enrollment will be a property tax increase. "We have to do something by next year or our house may fall in," said Dr. F.J. Chapin, a trustee from Bay City. Chapin said he opposed a tuition hike and thinks there is little likelihood of additional state aid. The board Tuesday ordered a study of the situation by its property and finance committee, including whether it has the charter authority to increase millage without letting the people vote on it. The college, which serves Bay, Midland and Saginaw counties, now has 2,750 full-time students. Enrollment projections indicated this figure would double within the next few years.

Foresters to Set Woods on Fire

Washington U. Plans Strictly for Research

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI) — With the blessings of Smokey the Bear, scientists at the University of Washington College of Forest Resources are going to set the woods on fire.

The burning will be purely for research purposes. The Science-minded foresters want to find out significant information leading to more productive forests through effective fire and disease control methods.

The also want to study the effects of forest fires and slash burning in connection with air pollution.

One part of this three-phase test by fire will measure wind currents and heat intensities within wood areas as factors in the spread of forest fires.

Another will probe for practical controls for prevalent root and butt-rot tree diseases.

OUTDOOR LAB

The fires will be burned on the college's outdoor laboratory in the shadow of Mt. Rainier.

Two fires will be in a concentrated slash pile. Another will cover 30 acres of slash under conditions similar to an industrial logging operation.

Dr. Leo J. Fritschen, forest meteorologist, and Dr. Charles H. Driver, forest pathologist, will head the study team that includes 20 scientists and technical experts from the college of forest resources, the university's department of atmospheric sciences, and the air resources division of the department of engineering.

Also participating will be representatives of the U.S. Forest Service and the Washington State Department of Natural Resources.

FINANCING

A U.S. Forest Service grant will help finance the experiments.

Dr. Driver said study of diseases will have "serious implications" for future forests because of the high incidence of diseases in intensively managed stands of forests.

His research team will test the effectiveness of controlling disease, especially those caused by fungi, through burning.

Within three months after the burn, the area will be reforested and observations of new seedlings will be continued for at least five years.

POLLUTION EFFECT

In the climatology study, Dr. Fritschen said the principle goal is to measure the effect of slash burning as a air pollution factor and to develop scientific data on forest fire behavior in connection with controlling forest fires.

Among the equipment to be used in the atmospheric study will be a light plane equipped for measuring visual air quality, a mobile atmospheric laboratory for field work and time-lapse sequence and motion picture cameras.

Billboards Boost Fishing and Safety

TRAVERSE CITY (AP)—Billboards are popping up across Michigan proclaiming: "You're in Coho County."

They're the idea of Jack Dingeman, Traverse City billboard proprietor who set up series of signs in 30 locations around Michigan.

The idea is to help promote safety and to keep Michigan beautiful, he said. Seven Coho salmon fishermen lost their lives in a Lake Michigan storm this year, and one of Dingeman's signs warns: "Good Luck: Coho fishermen. Heed small craft warnings."

Football Pays the Way for Good Music

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Football drawn is helping pay the way for good music.

Ownes of the St. Louis Cardinals of the National Football League handed over a $45,562 check to the St. Louis Symphony representing proceeds from an exhibition football game played here with the Detroit Lions.

Stanley J. Goodman, president of the Symphony Society, said "we deeply appreciate the generosity of the Football Cardinals."

Charles Bidwill and his brother William (Bill) Bidwill arranged the benefit games for the Symphony two years in a row.

Goodman said the Bidwill brothers "have shown both a pioneering and a generous spirit in their support of the Orchestra whose cultural leadership is so essential to the city."

"This is the only football benefit for a symphony orchestra in the country," he said.

The Bidwills came to the rescue two years ago when the Symphony faced financial problems threatening a shutdown.

Fed Chairman Cites Need for Tax Boost

CHICAGO (AP) — Chairman William McChesney Martin of the Federal Reserve Board said today the nation needs a tax increase "as quickly as it is possible to get it."

Martin, who has long favored higher taxes to stem inflation, hinted that the Federal Reserve is ready to tighten money if necessary to restrain inflation but he said money policy can't do the job alone.

"Whatever course monetary policy may follow," he said, "there will still be prospects for trouble unless and until our government's finances are brought into better control."

Martin said he finds it hard to believe that disagreements over spending cuts could be allowed to stalemate any action to cut spending or increase taxes.

"We need restraint on both sides of the federal ledger, and we need it as quickly as it is possible to get it," he said.

Martin made the remarks in a talk prepared for the 47th annual meeting of the American Petroleum Institute.

Martin said the immediate problem is to cap inflationary pressure and the inflationary psychology which have already had a disruptive influence on the economy.

The most effective and necessary means to restrain further inflation, Martin said, are a cut in federal spending and an across-the-board tax increase.

He said he realizes there are sharp disagreements in Congress and the administration over how much spending should be cut and how it should be done.

"But I find it hard to believe that disagreement of this kind could be allowed to stalemate any action to cut spending or to increase tax revenues," he said.

One Fire Boosts City's Damage Total 150 Pct.

One fire—the Ellis Trucking over the same period last year, damage, according to fire of nearly half of the total estimate 1966 even without the Ellis Co. year—711—were about 40 per cent of the total alarms responded to—1,874.

Co. blaze of Oct. 1—is primarily responsible for an increase of 150 per cent in estimated fire damage in the City of Pontiac through October of 1967.

The Ellis Co. fire, blamed by authorities on arsonists and reportedly connected with a loot-fire spree at the firm the same night, caused at least $500,000 damage.

Fire Chief Charles Marion described the estimate as "conservative."

Despite the fact that the 1967 estimate would surpass that of Actual fires in the city this year, the total is 2,110 alarms.

Bloodhounds Help Nab Area Doctor

By JIM LONG and BETTY ANN SCHULTZ
Captured early today with the aid of bloodhounds near Port Austin, a fugitive Farmington Township doctor accused of killing a female assistant was to be returned to the Pontiac area this afternoon for arraignment.

Dr. Ronald E. Clark, charged yesterday with manslaughter, was apprehended by Huron County Sheriff's deputies after eluding them for six hours.

Clark was to be arraigned this afternoon before Farmington Township Justice of the Peace Byron Walter.

It was the second time that Clark, 56, of 30735 Grand River, had slipped by police while they were attempting to arrest him in the death of Mrs. Grace Neil, 43, of Livonia.

An autopsy revealed that the woman died of an overdose of sodium pentathol, commonly known as "truth serum."

Clark first evaded police at his office-home on Grand River, despite all-day surveillance of the building by officers from the Farmington Police Department who were waiting for a warrant before arresting him.

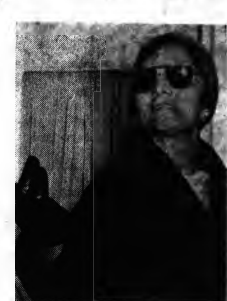

When police and Assistant Prosecutor Jack I. Bain arrived at the house, it was necessary for officers to kick in a rear door to gain entrance when no one answered their calls.

The only person in the house was a woman, who police identified as Mrs. Ann Klymowicz of Detroit, Dr. Clark's housekeeper.

She told investigators that she had not seen the physician all day, but police from Detroit's homicide squad said that they had observed the doctor in the house before noon.

Authorities later learned that Clark had a cottage in the Thumb area and contacted Huron County Sheriff Merritt R. McBride to check the home.

McBride said that two deputies, Orville Schuette and Roger Ewalt, saw lights in the house when they first drove by but on another pass the lights had gone out.

Potential Blow to Open Housing

Senate to Vote on Recess

LANSING (AP) — Lawmakers today prepared to deal what could be a serious blow to Gov. George Romney's political prestige and a statewide open occupancy law.

The Senate was to vote on a House-passed resolution calling for a three-week adjournment, beginning today, of the current special legislative session.

A "yes" vote on the measure, predicted by majority Senate Republicans, would force postponement of action on the housing bill which Romney has given his full support.

Romney, reportedly told GOP leaders yesterday that open housing is the most important measure ever to come before the Michigan Legislature.

Republicans, Ryan said, "are just setting themselves up as sitting ducks, and they're going to come back and say the pressure has just built up too much."

Rep. Raymond Hood, D-Detroit, noted that there are only nine weekdays between Dec. 12, the scheduled date of reconvening, and Christmas.

No School Pact in Birmingham

Birmingham teachers decisively rejected yesterday a contract which had been tentatively agreed upon by the bargaining teams. The vote was 550 to 120.

The reason for the rejection is reportedly based on a provision in the contract which would have the second year salaries on a proposed millage election.

"On the basis of meetings recently and agreements between the board of education and Birmingham Education Association (BEA) bargaining teams, we thought the package might be accepted," said Board Administrative Assistant Walter Piel.

DOCTOR'S OFFICE — Police staked out the office of Dr. Ronald E. Clark in Farmington Township from noon yesterday until 4 a.m. today when Clark was reported apprehended in Michigan's Thumb area.

Hunters Alerted to Traffic Woes

Deer hunters heading north for Saturday's opener should experience no more traffic difficulty than usual. Common home Sunday will be a different story.

The State Highway Department office in Saginaw reported today that the two northbound lanes on the I-75 bridge over the Saginaw River will be open.

However, one of the two southbound lanes will be closed. Department workers are still making repairs on the bridge which was extensively damaged when struck by a freighter early in October.

Officials recommend that hunters returning home take old U.S. 23 from Kawkawlin. This will take them through Bay City, south along the river and into Saginaw where they can take M81 back to I-75 south of the bridge.

Those driving south on U.S. 10 from Clare can leave the freeway at the Free and exit and take M47 into Saginaw and then turn on M81 or M46.

Another alternate is to take M15 out of Bay City.

The governor, a driving force behind the bill, has tentatively set Dec. 7 to begin a tour of Europe and Asia, expected to last three weeks.

But majority House Republicans overruled Speaker Robert Waldron, R-Grosse Pointe, and decided on the adjournment schedule. Waldron, chief sponsor of the housing bill, said he had wanted to work at least through next Wednesday.

"But this does not mean we've given up on open housing for the special session," Waldron told a news conference. "The members wanted more work on the bill and a chance to go home and educate their constituents."

Waldron said he believes many citizens do not understand the implications of an open occupancy law.

House Democrats fought the resolution, which finally passed 84-32.

"That long a recess is going to be harmful for the bill's passage," said House Minority Floor Leader William A. Ryan, D-Detroit.

Asked if he thought the governor's absence might make a difference in a vote on the housing bill, Waldron said: "We have a very competent lieutenant governor (William Milliken) who's just as much in favor of the bill as the governor."

Valachi Figure Missing

FORT LEE, N.J. (AP) — Ralph Wagner, the 34-year-old ex-convict of Joseph Valachi and reputed Cosa Nostra boss Vito Genovese, has been missing since Oct. 19, police report.

According to federal authorities, it was Wagner who tipped off Valachi that Genovese planned to have him killed, when the three shared a cell in a federal penitentiary in Atlanta, Ga.

The tentative contract for 1967-68 called for a BA minimum of $6,300 with a maximum of $10,275; and an MA minimum of $6,800 with a maximum of $11,400, said Piel.

CONTINGENT ON MILLAGE

The 1968-69 proposal would be contingent upon the passage of an operating millage which the board would call before June 10, 1968.

If the millage were to pass prior to Sept. 1, 1968, teachers would get the following scales for the second year: BA $6,850 to $10,850; MA $7,500 to $12,400.

70 From 19th Briefed in D. C.

By BOB WISLER

Some 70 residents of the 19th U.S. Congressional District spent a jet-speed day in Washington, D. C., yesterday being briefed on various phases of the federal government.

They came away impressed with the scope of the government and the role played by it in everyone's daily life.

The occasion was the first in what U.S. Rep. Jack H. McDonald, R-19th District, hopes is a long series of yearly occurrences.

Working through local chambers of commerce, McDonald arranged for 19th District residents to spend the day listening to and questioning an impressive list of government officials.

Almost every field of government activity was touched on as the group was guided through three federal buildings by McDonald's staff.

Twenty-four persons from the Pontiac area attended.

Speaking to the group were U.S. Rep. Gerald R. Ford, R-Grand Rapids, minority leader of the House of Representatives; William B. Macomber Jr., assistant secretary of state; Howard J. Wharton, deputy assistant secretary of the Department of Housing and Urban Development; Dr. Albert L. Alford, assistant commissioner of education for the Department of Health, Education and Welfare; and John Geary, special assistant to the Undersecretary of Labor.

Giving alternate views of the nation's economy were James S. Duesenberry, member of the president's Council of Economic Advisers, and Louis J. Parasidis, associate director of the Office of Business Economics, Department of Commerce.

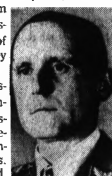

Those attending were enthusiastic over the results of the special briefings and the opportunity to see at first hand the federal government in action.

Former Wife Identifies Man in Panama as Nazi Chief

BERLIN (AP) — A press spokesman for the West Berlin City Justice Department confirmed today that the divorced wife of former Nazi Gestapo Chief Heinrich Mueller said "That's him" when shown a picture of a man being held on suspicion in Panama.

City prosecutor Gerhard Splitzer, reached earlier by telephone, said he could not confirm West Berlin newspaper accounts of the identification by Sophie Mueller.

MUELLER

The press spokesman, asked to comment on the newspaper accounts, declared: "I can confirm that Mrs. Mueller said, 'That's him.'"

Mrs. Mueller could not be reached for comment directly.

Splitzer said only that he had been in Munich to see Mrs. Mueller, 67.

The Panama mystery man claimed he was a 61-year-old U.S. citizen, Francis Willard Keith, born in Webb City, Mo., but Panamanian authorities said his German-accented English was barely intelligible.

His fingerprints were flown to West Berlin for comparison with those of Mueller, who was reported alive in Hitler's bunker just before the fall of the Nazis in 1945.

The chief of Panama's Department of Investigations, Hector Valdes, said there was a strong resemblance between the man arrested Tuesday and photographs of Mueller.

West Germany's Justice Ministry said the suspect was identified as Mueller by a Belgian informant who also said a Belgian graphologist had confirmed the suspect's handwriting was that of the former lieutenant general in Heinrich Himmler's SS Elite Guard.

Valdes said he personally arrested the man in a Panama City restaurant and described him as a peddler of ties, honey and liquor who had lived in Panama for eight or ten years. Valdes called him "half crazy."

Sleet, Icy Roads Feared for Tonight

There's a chance of hazardous driving in the Pontiac area this afternoon, if freezing rain or sleet forecast for late today arrives.

The weatherman reports temperatures today will hit near 38 to 45 and dip to 27 to 33 tonight.

Partly cloudy and a little warmer is tomorrow's prediction, and variable cloudiness and warmer is the outlook for Saturday.

Southerly morning winds at six to 14 miles per hour will increase to 14 to 24 miles this afternoon and diminish a little tonight.

Precipitation probabilities in per cent are: today 40, tonight 50, tomorrow 20.

The low in downtown Pontiac preceding 8 a.m. was 19. The mercury climbed to 27 by 1 p.m.

Simply combine diced apples and celery with plump raisins; toss with a dressing made from crunchy peanut butter, mayonnaise and whipped cream.

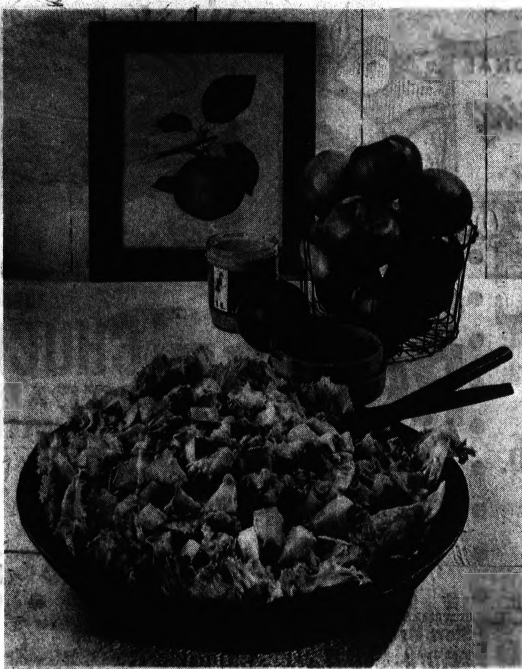

As this salad is best served after chilling, it's perfect to make ahead and bring to the table at the last minute. For individual servings, place generous scoops on lettuce cups.

Green Pepper Colors Eggs and Hash Ring

If you have trouble pleasing your family at mealtime, give them the ring around — "Ring Around Scramble," that is. This dish, perfect for mid-day lunches or evening suppers, is a delectable combination of corned beef hash and eggs.

It's quite a change from the usual baked hash and poached egg combination that is so popular.

Canned hash is called for in this recipe and it is baked in a ring mold with green pepper rings for added color and flavor. When the hash is baked and unmolded it yields an attractive top of scalloped green rings.

The hash ring is filled with a zesty combination of scrambled eggs. The eggs are mixed with the usual milk and seasoning but are spiced up a bit with chopped green pepper. This use of green pepper helps to blend the flavor of the hash and eggs in this main dish.

When scrambling eggs, the cooking temperature is most important. Eggs are a high protein food and should be cooked with care over moderate heat. Too high temperatures or extended cooking times will cause the eggs to be dry and tough. Perfect scrambled eggs are cooked only until set and still moist.

Ring Around Scramble
1 medium green pepper
2 cans (15½ oz. each) corned beef hash
2 tablespoons butter
6 eggs, slightly beaten
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
½ cup milk

Slice green pepper into rings and cut rings in half. Place cut rings in bottom of well greased, 1 to 1½ quart ring mold. Press corned beef hash into ring mold on top of green pepper rings. Bake in preheated 400-degree oven for 30 minutes.

While hash is baking, chop enough of the remaining green pepper rings to make ½ cup.

Do Make Pizza With Leftovers

If your family loves pizza, don't miss the trick of turning leftovers into their favorite treat. Meat loaf, roast beef, wieners, sausage, tuna, salmon or shrimp may be used in this way.

Make biscuit dough and pat it lightly into a large size pizza. Spread with leftover meat or fish. Top with ketchup. Add bits of cheese. Season lightly with thyme and paprika. Place on a buttered cookie sheet and bake in a hot oven until the dough is lightly browned and cooked through and the cheese is melted and bubbly.

RING AROUND SCRAMBLE — Scrambled eggs with chopped green pepper fill a ring of baked hash. This main dish requires little effort or time to prepare. It is a high protein combination.

Almond Brittle Cake Has Broiled Topping

Almond brittle, long a favorite among brittle fanciers, is the special topping for a tender white cake for "Almond Brittle Cake."

treat warm with ice cream for dessert if you wish. Or, for a late snack, serve it with mugs of hot chocolate.

Diced roasted almonds are available in most markets. To make them at home, dice natural almonds (whole almonds with their skins on) with a chopping knife. Place them on an oiled cookie sheet and roast them at 400 degrees for 8 minutes, stirring occasionally.

Don't be concerned if the almonds don't look quite done when you take them out; they'll continue roasting and turn light golden brown within a few minutes.

Almond Brittle Cake
½ cup shortening
1½ cups sifted cake flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ cup granulated sugar
¼ cup milk
¼ cup brown sugar (packed)
3 tablespoons honey
1½ tablespoons melted butter or margarine

Cream shortening slightly in mixing bowl. Sift in flour, bak-

Peeling Easier, if Scoring Done

If you want to remove sections of rind, one at a time, from citrus fruit, use a small sharp knife to score the fruit. After scoring, you should be able to peel off each section. Rind removed this way may be cut into even strips for use in candying the citrus peel.

Bread Is the Base of Stuffing for Your Thanksgiving Fowl

If oysters are too expensive for your budget, make the stuffing with egg plant.

MOCK OYSTER STUFFING
¼ cup minced onion
¼ cup minced celery
¼ cup (1 stick) butter
1 quart peeled and diced egg plant (1 medium)
½ cup water
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cups coarsely crumbled salted crackers
3 cups seasoned dried bread cubes
2 eggs, slightly beaten
¼ cup milk or broth
¼ teaspoon poultry seasoning

Cook onion and celery in butter over low heat. Simmer egg plant in water and salt for 10 minutes. Pour both mixtures over crackers and bread cubes. Add eggs, milk and poultry seasoning. Mix gently. Use to stuff a 10 to 12 pound turkey.

Chestnuts, an old time favorite ingredient in turkey stuffing, are available. Try some.

APPLE-CHESTNUT STUFFING
½ cup chopped celery
¼ cup chopped onion
½ clove garlic, minced
¼ cup butter
2 cups chopped apples
2 cups cooked chestnuts
3 cups fresh bread cubes
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon brown sugar
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon pepper
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
Dash of cloves

Saute the celery, onion, and garlic in the butter until limp. Add remaining ingredients and mix lightly but thoroughly. Makes 7 cups stuffing.

Q. What's the name of this cut of meat?

A. Veal round steak, or chulet.

Q. Where does it come from? How is it identified?

A. It comes from the center portion of the leg, called the round, from the young of beef (veal). Veal round steak has the same muscle structure as beef round, except it's smaller, has less marbling. The color, also, is different since veal is light pink. The texture of the lean is very fine, somewhat firm.

Q. How is it prepared?

A. By braising or pan-frying. These cooking methods for this cut will enhance color as well as make the flavor, which is delicate, more pronounced. For both reasons, veal is often coated with flour, dipped in egg, finally in crumbs. This also helps prevent drying out which happens easily in meat cuts with little or no fat. For braising, brown first, add a small amount of liquid, cover tightly and cook slowly. For frying, use fat or oil, dredge, brown and turn occasionally until tender, temperature.

Marital Fights Prompt Ills

By Science Service
WASHINGTON — Husband-wife fighting does more than create unpleasantness. It offers risk of promoting arthritis in the woman and ulcers in the man.

Investigators at the University of Michigan have found these two diseases significantly correlated with marital hostility after a study of 97 couples.

Though the illnesses also turn up in couples who don't often fight, they are considerably more common to hostile marriages, report Drs. Sidney Cobb, John R. P. French and Guttorm Norstebø of Michigan's Institute for Social Research.

Quite possibly, hostility contributes to the woman's arthritis through her resentment and depression and to the man's ulcer through his unmet need for emotional support, the researchers noted.

Why men and women get different diseases from the same battles is so far unexplained. It could be due to cultural differences between men and women in the expression of hostility, said Dr. Cobb.

MEN'S ARTHRITIS

Dream Cycle for Women at Menstruation

By Science Service
BOSTON — Women appear to go through a dreaming cycle that follows their menstrual cycle, dreaming less just after menstruation and more just before, according to research at the Boston State Hospital.

The cycle seems especially pronounced in women who complain of premenstrual tension.

There was close to an hour's difference in the time women spent dreaming between the early and late part of their periods, reports Dr. Ernest Hartmann, an assistant professor of psychiatry at the Tufts University School of Medicine and director of the sleep and dream laboratory at the hospital.

The greatest amount of dreaming seemed to come during the time several of the women complained of premenstrual tension, says Dr. Hartmann.

He suggests tentatively that if women could sleep longer during the critical premenstrual days, the effect might be to reduce tension.
