Hoffa Vows Beck Was Responsible for 'Paper Locals'

WASHINGTON (INS)—James R. Hoffa swore today that it was Teamsters President Dave Beck, and not himself, ,who initiated the move which resulted in hoodlum-dominated "paper locals" coming into their union in New York.

Denying personal responsibility, Hoffa vowed he would launch a cleanup of those locals if he is elected to succeed Beck as president next month.

Hoffa's repeated claim that he could not "recollect" alleged meetings with Dio drew a charge from Senate Rackets Committee Counsel Robert F. Kennedy that the Teamsters' "crown prince" was "not being frank."

Hoffa conceded that he and Dio retained their warm friendship even after the gangster was indicted in the acid-blinding of labor columnist Victor Riesel and convicted for extortion.

Hoffa, beginning his fourth day of sparring with Senate investigators, said also he remembered meeting Dio in a New York hotel lobby two months ago.

Kennedy demanded to know what they discussed. The counsel also wanted to know whether Dio went up in the elevator with Hoffa, and visited in his room.

I DON'T RECALL

To all these questions, Hoffa fell back on the answer that has carried him through three previous days of accusations and wire taps: "To the best of my knowledge, I don't recall . . ."

Hoffa sometimes switched the wording of his stock answer, making it "to the best of my recollection, no."

After the Teamster had tossed this into Kennedy's lap a series of times, the spirited young counsel irately interjected: "Do you know you said that 111 times yesterday?"

Hoffa calmly explained that his Central Conference of Teamsters is a big organization and he just is unable to remember all that happens in his role as the head of it.

ADMITS CALL

The talkative Teamster conceded that Dio, on the day he was convicted of extortion last month, did

No End in Sight for News Strike

More Meetings Today; Buying in Detroit Area Being Affected

DETROIT (INS) — Detroit's newspaper strike rolled into its sixth day today with no hint for a quick settlement in sight.

Newspaper craft union representatives and officials of the Detroit newspaper publishers association scheduled more meetings for today.

The strike started Saturday when the News fired 67 mailers for "refusing to work." The Detroit Mailers Union, local 40, charged the News with "inhumane treatment of employes."

Although the Times and Free Press are not on strike, all three large dailies were closed down because of a publishers' agreement.

In other side effects of the newspaper strike, the Polish Daily News, a foreign-language newspaper in Detroit has increased its circulation from 42 thousand to 150 thousand.

The Daily News also has increased its number of English-language sections. It has about doubled its normal amount of advertising.

A survey of Detroit-area businesses revealed today the strike is affecting buying.

Store owners and operators said the full impact of the lack of advertising will be felt next week, if the strike continues.

Save One Youth After 2 Friends Fall Into Shaft

Boards Covering Hole Suddenly Give In; Three Scramble to Safety

TIMMINS, Ont. (AP)—Rescuers this morning uncovered the body of 15-year-old Ronnie Blakemore from a mass of debris wedged part way down a 1,400-foot mine shaft.

The body was found about 10 feet below the level where 16-year-old Bonar Scholes was rescued last night. The boys fell into the shaft while dropping stones to hear the echoes.

Three other teenagers scrambled to safety when timbers covering the hole collapsed.

The shaft, with 30 feet of water at its bottom, was blocked with earth, stones and rotted shoring from the 20-foot level for an unknown distance.

One of the dead boy's hands had been seen in the debris last night. It had been hoped an obstruction would provide an air-hole for him. But when his head and shoulders were uncovered today he was dead.

ONE DIGS

Only one man at a time could go down to dig for the Blakemore boy because of rotting supporting timbers. A companion helped put the earth into a container raised by a crane.

Both were protected from falling earth and rocks on their precarious perch by a wooden hood measuring 8 by 14 feet at its open ends. The cribbing had been built during the night by miners with ropes around their waists.

Scholes was saved after workers lowered by rope used their bare hands to remove the muck that had buried him waist-deep. Dr. W. G. Bissonnette of Timmins was lowered into the shaft to give the youth a sedative and feed him intravenously.

LIKE A TROJAN

"He behaved like an absolute Trojan," the doctor said. "He cooperated in every way when he was pulled up although he was only semiconscious and must have been suffering pain."

He was hospitalized.

The old Vipond gold mine is just outside this gold mining and paper center of 30,000 persons about 175 miles north of Lake Huron and 175 miles east of Lake Superior.

Scholes was buried to his waist in dirt that followed him down the 25-foot square shaft.

TIED TO ROPE

A rope was first placed around him to prevent another fall. After Dr. W. G. Bissonnette of Timmins was lowered by rope to administer a sedative and plasma, rescuers dug the boy free with their bare hands.

THREW STONES

One of the other boys, Maurice Gauthier, 14, said at first they threw stones from the lip of the mine but the stones just bounced off planking that partly covered the shaft.

To get better results, Gauthier

Brother Rushes for Aid as Washing Machine Kills Sister

The victim, Constance Pleimann, also 9, was keeping an eye on the wash for her mother, Mrs. Reathel Pleimann, at their home, 40550 Schoenherr Rd.

Constance apparently stepped into a puddle of water, at the same time touching the washing machine, Center Line State Police said there was a short circuit in the machine's wiring.

The victim's brother, Donald, ran to his mother, crying, "Sister is stuck on the washing machine in trouble." When Mrs. Pleimann reached her daughter, she was lying lifeless on the wet floor.

Would Extend Contract

Curtice Gives Reply to Price Cut Appeal

DETROIT—President Harlow H. Curtice of General Motors suggested today that the United Auto Workers union announce immediately a willingness to extend its GM contract intact for two years beyond next May 29, continuing the GM wage formula which relates wages to national productivity gains and to cost-of-living.

In a letter to UAW President Walter Reuther, Curtice said that "Your union, which represents over 1,500,000 employes . . . is in a position to make a real contribution to the economic stability in our country."

"This could be done," he said, "by announcing a sound policy regarding 1958 collective bargaining objectives instead of publicizing excessive demands which, if agreed to, could not fail to feed the fires of inflation."

Curtice emphasized that in making the contract extension suggestion, GM was not "at this time reopening the agreement for negotiation."

Last week Reuther proposed that auto manufacturers reduce prices of 1958 models by an average of $100 per car.

Curtice stressed that since prices on GM's 1957 cars were established, wage rates have increased by more than 11 cents per hour, five cent of which represents cost-of-living adjustments reflecting added inflation. Costs of most goods and services bought by GM have gone up appreciably, he added, "yet we have not increased the prices of our automobiles . . ."

Curtice said GM was convinced the contract extension would "have a most constructive effect, even beyond our industry."

"It would allay fears of costly strikes," he said. "It would encourage personal savings. It

Knockout in Sixth Round

Challenger's Dream Fades

By BOB MYERS

SEATTLE (AP) — Big Pete Rademacher's wild dream of stepping from the top rung of amateur boxing to the championship of the world was blasted and wrecked by Floyd Patterson last night as the king of the pros scored a knockout in the sixth round of their scheduled 15-round fight.

Seven times the talented Patterson, in the second defense of the title, put a game, but far outclassed Rademacher on the deck, and the last one, after 2 minutes, 57 seconds of the fatal sixth, was the clincher.

Patterson, the 22-year-old young man with speed and dynamite in either fist, stretched Rademacher, Uncle Sam's 1956 Olympic Games champion, on the canvas twice in the sixth, the last one for good.

Referee Tommy Loughran began the final count with Rademacher flat on his back.

Only as the count proceeded Pete rolled over, and managed to get to one knee. He was about to get the knee off the floor when the 10-toll was reached.

Loughran said it was a knockout but that even if Rademacher had beat the count, he would have stopped the affair.

The crowd, gathered under warm skies, was strictly a Rademacher crowd. He was raised in the apple country and he was also the rank underdog, the sentimental hope of performing a miracle in the ring.

It was not to be, however. As the critics had felt, there was nothing wrong with Rademacher's courage or ambition. He just wasn't a pro fighter to cope with a pro like Patterson.

'Fees Must Go' Say Waterford, Farmington Delegates

Justice Court System Criticized at Lansing Hearing

Deputy Secretary of State Billie Farnum, of Waterford Township; Waterford Township Justice Donald E. Adams, and Farmington Township Justice Allen C. Ingle were those who expressed their views at the hearing.

Representatives from more than a dozen statewide organizations were present. The committee, headed by Rep. Kenneth N. Sanborn (R-Mt. Clemens) is considering changes in the laws governing justice courts.

There was considerable agreement on one point in the testimony — that the fee system, which makes a JP's income proportionate to the number of cases handled, must go.

"Until you substitute salaries for the fee system, you'll never get away from the evils of justice courts," said Municipal Judge Francis E. Barron, of Howell, representing the state municipal judges association.

Ingle, who is head of the state and Oakland County JP associations, said something has to be done to "stop collection agency procedures" in garnishment cases.

'FILED IN BATCHES'

He told of garnishments being filed in batches in JP courts remote from the residence of those involved, and of instances in which justices were persuaded to write letters to debtors urging payment of bills under the threat of pressing court actions.

Adams called for exercise by the State Supreme Court and circuit courts of their constitutional powers to supervise the lower courts. He suggested non-partisan election of justices and establishment of the office of state coordinator of inferior courts.

A former president of the state JP organization, Adams is chairman of the state bar subcommittee on JPs.

POINTS TO CONSIDER

Farnum said the committee should decide on:

Statutory qualifications for JPs, perhaps with an educational requirement; whether JPs should have regular, eight-hours-a-day court hours; and a new pattern of compensation to substitute for the fee system.

If the public wants good services, he said, it must be prepared for the expense of salaried JPs, who would maintain regular hours and high court standards.

There was inconclusive discussion of the question of merging the present JP system into one, or several, county courts.

Referring to an Auditor General's survey two years ago that showed about one JP of every 10 investigated was faulty in the handling of funds, Adams said:

"The big majority of JPs are conscientious and the errors of others ought not to reflect on them."

There was discussion that some JPs deliberately find traffic violators guilty, in order not to lose police business and the fee that automatically comes with each case.

Justice George Edwards of the State Supreme Court observed: "If it's true that there are judicial officers who are deciding cases on the basis of income to themselves, this is a serious reflection on the quality of justice in Michigan."

Henry Attacks Police Methods

Officer Unable to Show Impounding Tag Cited in City Ordinance

The trial of attorney Milton Henry on charges of assault and battery against a police officer took a new turn yesterday, the third day.

Henry, acting in his own defense, attacked police procedure for towing cars as not in accordance with the city's ordinance.

ASKS FOR TAG

Noting that the ordinance allows an officer to impound a car by placing an impounding tag on it, he asked Lt. Claude Evans, head of the Pontiac police violations bureau, to produce such a tag.

Lt. Evans produced a parking violation ticket which he said was the only tag used by the department.

"Does it say anywhere on this tag (violation ticket) that it is an impounding tag and that the owner has 72 hours to appear at the police station to pay a $1 fine, as provided by the ordinance?" Henry asked Lt. Evans.

"No," was the reply.

Henry then moved dismissal of his trial, saying that his car had not been legally impounded and that he had struck Officer Clarence Smith in protection of his property.

Assistant City Attorney Sherwin Birnkrant had earlier restated his position that when an officer is acting in good faith in enforcing what he believes to be the law, no person has a right to interfere with the officer.

Municipal Judge Cecil B. McCallum refused a request by Birnkrant to answer Henry's arguments in open court. "Do it in your brief," he said.

Birnkrant argued that those in the courtroom and newspaper readers should be given an opportunity to hear the reply to Henry's interpretation of the law, but the judge overruled him.

McCallum then took Henry's motion under advisement and urged both attorneys to complete their presentations as soon as possible.

Birnkrant told the court he had one more witness to call and the trial will continue next Thursday at 9:30 a.m.

McCallum asked both sides to present briefs on the dismissal motion Thursday morning, but Birnkrant flatly refused.

"The people intend to follow usual procedures," he said. "We will file an answer after we have seen the defendandt's brief."

Is the tornado "season" over? When is the next "season" for these storms?

The tornado "season" is about over for the United States. These sudden, fierce, funnel-shaped storms begin to appear frequently in the spring and continue to occur into the summer months.

As the summer wears on they become less frequent and by fall they are obviously on the wane. Early winter sees very few of them.

What causes tornadoes is still something of a mystery. A theory is that the jetstreams account for them — that tornadoes are caused when high jetstreams dive to the earth and set up disturbances and unstable air masses.

This theory is not generally accepted, however, and is hotly disputed by some of the experts.

Pilots' Aircraft Smashed to Bits on Train Track

Maxwell, 31, was practicing landings when he lost power, brushed some trees and made a near-perfect forced landing — except for one detail. He landed on the Santa Fe right-of-way.

While he was checking his plane and his only injury, a scratched arm, he heard a train whistle. He and several bystanders were still trying to drag the two-seater off the tracks when a freight train, bound for Santa Ana, Calif., reached the scene.

Officers listed it as Corona's first train-vs.-airplane accident.

Plane Crashes During Takeoff

NEW YORK (AP)—Four of six crewmen were killed yesterday when a twin-engined Coast Guard amphibious plane crashed and burned while taking off from Floyd Bennett Field in Brooklyn.

The Coast Guard identified the dead as:

Lt. Cmdr. Claude S. Labaw of Hempstead, N. Y., the pilot; co-pilot Lt. Roland A. Faucher of Canton, N. Y.; Matthew R. Ross, aviation machinist's mate 3.C. of Canton, Ohio; and Gerald F. Fox, aviation electronics man 3.C. of Harmony, Pa.

Labaw and Ross were married. No ages were given.

One of the crew, Frederick E. West Jr., aviation electrician's mate 4.C. of Columbus, Ohio, walked from the scene of the crash. He was treated for shock.

The second survivor, John R. Lowell, who lives at the field, was taken by helicopter to St. Albans Hospital in Queens. His condition early today was described as serious.

The plane, a Grumman Albatross, was taking off on a routine flight when it fell at the end of the runway. The aircraft normally is used for search and rescue work at sea.

said, the youngsters ventured onto the boards to drop stones. The cover gave way under their combined weight, tossing them around amid falling timber and dirt.

Gauthier and Terry Scholes, 14, Bonar's brother, were able to get off the cover. Peter Burke, 14, scrambled to the side and caught hold just below the cover but couldn't climb over it. Blakemore and Bonar Scholes disapppeared down the dark abyss.

Gauthier then ran half a mile to the nearest highway and stopped a driver who notified Timmins police.

The first man on the scene easily hauled Burke up.

WORKERS ARRIVED

The rescue squad from nearby Hollinger mine was on the scene within 30 minutes of the accident, followed by a squad from the McIntyre mine. Vipond mine is on Hollinger property.

They set up lights around the opening where beams projecting inward had supported the planking.

Scholes was visible on the ledge but at first there was no sign of Blakemore and it was feared he might be deep down in the shaft. The workers shored up the shaft as they worked down to Scholes.

Joe Disley, Hollinger mines superintendent who directed rescue operations, said 25-year-old timbers would have to be reinforced as roped rescuers worked down the shaft.

Police held back a crowd of about 300 persons. Only Ronnie's father was allowed to join the workers at the shaft. His mother was comforted by neighbors outside the police cordon.

Two Injured in Accident Treated at St. Joseph

Injured in an accident yesterday were Dale L. Friedenstab, 20, of Almont, and Rosalie Sherman, 36, of 3057 Margaret St., Auburn Heights.

Both were treated for minor injuries at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital and released. According to Oakland County Deputy reports, the accident occurred on Telegraph Road at W. Maple road, in Bloomfield Township.

Tells How to Grow Four-Leaf Clover

"If you let four-leaf clover go to seed, the seed just produces three-leaf clovers," Mrs. Huffman claims. "However, if you pick the blossoms, the plants spread their roots and up come new four-leaf plants."

She has a bed of four-leaf clovers about 15 feet long.

French Actress Due to Testify

Confidential Libel Trial to Hear Big-Name Star Corinne Calvet

LOS ANGELES (AP)—French actress Corinne Calvet may be the first "big name" to testify in the Confidential magazine libel trial, which resumes today.

The defense has said it plans to call Miss Calvet as a witness after Fred Meade, who with his wife operated Hollywood Research, Inc., leaves the stand.

Miss Calvet was the subject of a Confidential story which she says is "absolutely untrue."

During the trial's one-day recess yesterday two more subjects of Confidential stories made emphatic denials. They are actress Mae West and Mrs. Josephine Dillon, Clark Gable's first wife.

Miss West said it was untrue that the late boxer Chalky Wright lived in her apartment for a year.

"How could Chalky live with me for a year?" she said. "At that time (1935-36) I lived at the Ravenswood Apartments in Los Angeles. Everyone would have known. The entire story is silly." She said he was her chauffeur for four months.

Edward Conroy, Miss West's attorney, said Wright came into his office in September 1955 and signed an affidavit in which he denied any misconduct with Miss West and said the Confidential story was completely distorted.

Gable's former wife said that the Confidential stories "have wiped me out completely" as a dramatic coach. She said her only regular income is $49 from Social Security.

The story published in July 1956 said Mrs. Dillon, now 72, was in financial difficulties and that Gable was unconcerned.

Former Confidential editor Howard Rushmore had testified for the prosecution that Francesca de Scaffa, whom he identified as the magazine's chief Hollywood information source, told him she had an affair with Gable to get the story about Mrs. Dillon.

"Impossible," said Mrs. Dillon. "Anyone who knows Clark knows that he wouldn't do a thing like that."

Gable and Mrs. Dillon were married from 1924 to 1930. Gable, 16 years her junior, had been Mrs. Dillon's student.

Throngs Cheer 41 U.S. Students in Red China

LONDON (AP)—Forty-one young Americans were almost mobbed by cheering Chinese youths when they arrived in Peiping today, the British news agency Reuters reported from the Red capital.

The Americans were among visitors at the Communist-organized World Youth Festival in Moscow and went on to Red China at the invitation of the Peiping government despite a U. S. State Department ban on travel there.

"Holding hands, hugging each other and singing youth songs, the delegates and their hosts went out of the station to their rest house.

Civil Rights Bloc Views New Compromise Plans

WASHINGTON (INS) — The civil rights bloc studied a batch of new compromise proposals today and expressed fear that "adjournment fever" might doom the measure before an agreement can be reached.

Democrats were still cool toward a Republican plan which would permit a judge to decide whether or not a jury trial is warranted for persons involved in voting violations.

The GOP was reported ready to retreat a bit further from its position and agree to jury trials in all but the most minor type of interference with the right to vote.

Another compromise being bandied about would permit jury trials in all voting cases except those involving election officials.

This plan was originally discussed by Republicans, but it was gaining considerable Democratic support. Some of its sponsors were saying the proposal will have enough backing to "break the logjam" early next week.

Meanwhile, there was serious concern among Republicans and Northern Democrats over the growing signs of congressional restlessness and absenteeism.

About 120 of the 433 house members failed to answer roll calls yesterday, and many more absentees were expected next week, as the Labor Day holiday approaches.

call and ask that Hoffa aid Mrs. Dio if she needed it.

Hoffa said he agreed to do this.

Kennedy, seeing a new opening, immediately claimed that such a bid for assistance indicated that Hoffa was one of Dio's closest friends.

Hoffa took issue with the adjective "closest." He agreed, however, that he "has been friendly" with Dio.

The Teamster heir apparent to the throne Dave Beck reluctantly abandons next month said that Dio merely wanted to know "would I look out and see if she (Mrs. Dio) was all right."

Kennedy demanded to know how many meetings there have been this year between Hoffa and Dio.

Hoffa replied: "I could have saw him one or two times."

Kennedy noted that Hoffa and Dio had visited in New York, Detroit and Miami.

Hoffa said: "I had a friendly relationship, yes."

Hoffa had difficulty recalling any business dealings he might have had with the gangster. He did recall, however, that Dio as an employe of Link Radio, set up a demonstartion in Chicago of a two-way radio system.

The demonstration, Hoffa explained, was held at a union meeting, attended by some employers.

Hoffa recalled also that Dio might have bought some lots in a Sun Valley, Fla., development started by Henry Lower, a business associate of Hoffa's. Kennedy wanted to know whether Hoffa suggested that Dio buy the lots, on which Teamsters were given discounts.

Hoffa said he didn't think he did, but added: "He may have asked me if it was a good arrangement or a good deal."

Hoffa suffered a complete lapse of recollection when Kennedy peppered him with a series of questions about whether he ever sent any Teamsters to New York or whether Dio sent his henchmen to Detroit to assist Hoffa.

Kennedy finally blurted out: "You're just not being frank about it. I asked you about something that happened two months ago, and you said I don't recall . . . I'll bet anybody in this country can remember if they had a conversation with Johnny Dio two months ago or if he came to their room."

Man Badly Injured in 8-Mile Accident

A Madison Heights man is near death at Mt. Carmel Mercy Hospital after being critically injured in an accident on Eight Mile Rd., near Evergreen St., this morning, according to Southfield Township Police.

Roger J. Archanbault, 20, of 1167 Brockton St., was injured when thrown from a car driven by Robert E. Moore, 22, of 50 E. Milton St., Hazel Park.

Police said Moore's car was hit by a cement truck backing from a driveway, driven by Paul Dunec, 37, or 6949 Berwin St., Garden City. Moore, going west on Eight Mile, then struck another westbound car driven by Larry Fisher, 23, of 11780 Maiden St., Detroit.

There were no other injuries. Sgt. William Reed, of the Southfield Township Police, said Archanbault's injuries were too numerous to be fully diagnosed as yet, but that he is in "very critical" condition and not expected to live.

Postpone Bus Strike

WINDSOR, Ont. (INS) — A strike of Windsor bus drivers that would tie up public transportation was postponed today at least until Sunday.

Education Board Fills New Post

Assistant Named to Aid School Superintendent in Waterford

A new assistant to the superintendent was added by the Waterford Township Board of Education last night in a special meeting.

Dr. Chandos Reed Rice was named to the newly created post of assistant to the superintendent in charge of instruction at $10,000 per year. The position will deal with curriculum development and evaluation and co-ordination of the elementary, junior high and senior high schools.

The board also authorized condemnation proceedings for a new elementary school. The 11-acre plot is located on Cass-Elizabeth Lake road near Cooley Lake road.

In other action, pay for instructors in the adult education program was raised from $10 to $12 per three-hour evening class.

Course fees for the program were raised from five to six dollars.

The new assistant superintendent received a B.A. degree from the University of Colorado and a Ph.D. degree from Northwestern University.

She has had many years of experience in teaching and curriculum work in school systems in Colorado, Michigan, Illinois, New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

In 1946-7 Dr. Rice worked in the teaching college at Columbia University and in 1953-4 served as a Fulbright lecturer in India.

would enable your members and our employes to plan with greater certainty for the future.

"There are elements of stability which would help counter inflationary pressures. For our part, we would continue to do all in our power to resist inflationary pressures and promote stability."

The GM contract with the UAW embodies a wage formula, first introduced in the precedent-setting five-year agreement in 1950, which "is neither inflationary nor deflationary." It provides for a cost-of-living allowance adjusted quarterly to protect the buying power of an hour's work of GM employes, and annual improvement factor wage increases to improve the buying power of an hour's work to assure employes of an improving standard of living.

Curtice said that relating wages "as closely as possible to productivity gains of the country" is the best economic policy for the nation.

"This is the way to a stable price level and a sound dollar," he declared.

Curtice said GM found it difficult to reconcile Mr. Reuther's professed concern over inflation with the UAW's announced 1958 bargaining objectives which include the "biggest wage increases in the history of the Union," a shorter work week with increased take-home pay, and many other added benefits.

"Even if these indicated demands were substantially reduced," he said "they would, if agreed to, still represent a major increase in our wage and benefit costs."

"Such cost increases throughout our economy, to the extend that they exceed productivity gains, would produce still greater inflationary pressures."

Mr. Curtice said GM could only conclude that the UAW proposal "is another publicity maneuver designed to divert public attention from the inflationary implications of your announced 1958 bargaining objectives in the automobile industry."

Newsmen to Go to Red China

State Department Plans to Allow 24 Reporters Behind Bamboo Curtain

HONG KONG (AP) — American correspondents granted U.S. permission to work in Red China today renewed visa applications in telegrams to Peiping. They had been told earlier the visas would be granted.

King Peng, information chief of the Communist Chinese Foreign Ministry, advised Americans here last month that visas would be approved as soon as the U.S. State Department granted clearance.

The Red China travel service said at noon today it had no word from the Communist capital on granting visas to the six Americans already waiting here to enter China. The service will handle travel arrangements for the reporters.

Secretary of State Dulles announced in Washington yesterday that the State Department ban on travel in Red China had been lowered to permit one correspondent from each of 24 news organizations to go to Red China.

Six American reporters waiting here encountered delay at the U.S. consulate, which said it had not received instructions from Washington. American passports now are stamped invalid for travel in Red China and the 23 passports belonging to correspondents will presumably be changed.

A majority of the newsmen reapplied for visas a month ago when the State Department indicated it might lift the ban. The visas must be renewed from month to month.

"If Red China will permit American newsmen to observe and report on happenings on the mainland, this could very well be the lifting of the Iron Curtain," Humphrey told newsmen.

"This could bring profound political repercussions. The next step might well be the release of American prisoners and a final settlement of the Korean War."

After the six-month experimental period is over, Dulles will decide whether the arrangement has worked out. Officials said the chief factor in his decision would be whether the newsmen were able to report freely.

Search Area Lake for Body of Woman

A Commerce Township woman, missing since Thursday evening, is believed by sheriff's deputies to have drowned in Orchard Lake.

Ruth Slosson, 58, of 2337 Union Lake Rd., rented a boat at Langdon Beach, 6050 Pontiac Trail, West Bloomfield Township, around 5:30 last night, according to the proprietor.

When he opened the beach this morning he noticed her car still there. The boat she had been in was found floating across the lake.

In the boat were a pocket book, thermos bottle, cigarette lighter, and fishing tackle. Deputy skin-diver Bill Jackson had not yet located her body by 12:30 p.m. today, after being in the water for over an hour. Friends told Orchard Lake Police they had not seen her since early yesterday.

Pontiac Wins Award for Car Inspection

Pontiac has won an award for excellence among Michigan cities of its size for its vehicle inspection program this year.

Clyle Haskill, safety committee chairman of the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce, received news of the award today from the Inter-Industry Highway Safety Committee, a sponsor of the national event.

A formal presentation program will be held at a later date, Haskill said.

Quake Hits Taipei

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — An earthquake jolted Taipei today causing buildings to shudder. The only damage appeared to be fallen plaster and a few cracked walls.

Russia Also Detonates Bomb

New U. S. A-Test Fired

ATOMIC TEST SITE, Nev. (AP)—A blood-red fireball burst over the Nevada desert today as the United States touched off the 13th atomic explosion of the 1957 test series.

The flash of the blast at 5:30 a.m. was visible over a large area of the West.

Downtown buildings in Los Angeles were bathed in a flashbulb-bright glow. The flash was visible in San Francisco in spite of a heavy fog.

The Day in Birmingham

New Thefts Bring Warning Against Area Open Doors

BIRMINGHAM — Detective Lt. Merlin Holmquist today again warned residents to be sure doors and windows are locked securely before retiring or leaving the house.

Holmquist said the man crashed into a wall as he ran down a flight of stairs and was knocked out. Held a police prisoner in St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, he may possibly be released from medical care today, according to Holmquist.

Yesterday, Birmingham police received a call from Mrs. Maurice Wyss, 560 Wellesley Rd., saying $81 had been stolen from their home the previous night.

She told police that neither she nor her husband were aware that their home had been entered. Wyss called his wife from Detroit to tell her his wallet had been emptied. Mrs. Wyss found her own funds gone, too.

The resignation of Mrs. Alec D. (Elaine H.) Parnie has been accepted with regrets by the Birmingham School Board.

A member of the board for five years, Mrs. Parnie and her family will be moving to California shortly.

Her successor has not yet been named.

Could Use Funds for Monroe Reactor

WASHINGTON (AP)—One and a half million dollars approved by the Senate Appropriations Committee in research funds probably could be used for a proposed nuclear reactor at Monroe, most concerned congressmen agreed today. Full Senate action on the measure is expected today or Monday.

The money was labeled for fast breeder reactor research and was contained in the atomic appropriations bill.

Congressmen say the money could be used for a fast breeder reactor planned by Power Reactor Development Co. (PRDC), a private combine of utilities headed by Detroit Edison Co.

In what was considered a Democratic victory, the atomic authorization bill, signed by President Eisenhower Wednesday, deleted any mention of PRDC. The step made it impossible to earmark money for the Michigan plant in the appropriations measure.

But Rep. Rabaut (D-Mich) said in effect it meant the money could be used eventually by PRDC without the Senate giving approval to the project.

Waterford Plans to Halt Dumping

Waterford Township officials are taking action to halt trash and garbage dumping at a spot on a vacant lot on Dixie Highway, near the Dixie Pottery, in Drayton Plains.

Supervisor Elmer Johnson today ordered "no dumping" signs posted at the spot and said he will ask for police supervision of the area.

The lot is a low marshy area where broken concrete and fill dirt had been dumped in an effort to fill it in.

A large pile of trash, possibly from an industrial plant was unloaded at the spot and general trash and garbage dumping began.

The owner has requested police supervision and Johnson said every effort will be made to halt future dumping.

Japanese Introduce Green Tea Ice Cream

"O-cha" ice cream, as the Japanese call it, is made with powdered green tea and melted down into unflavored or lightly flavored ice cream, then refrozen.

Cottage of Milford Man Ransacked by Thieves

Frank Mason, of 10818 Hillway Dr., Milford, reported to state police yesterday that someone had broken into his cottage.

The cottage was ransacked, with furniture overturned and mirrors broken, and a wristwatch valued at $71.50 was stolen. Also reported missing were two cameras and some foreign coins.

Mike Wallace, TV's controversially blunt reporter, listed Pope Pius, Greta Garbo, Winston Churchill, Charles Lindbergh and Arthur Godfrey as the five persons he would most like to interview on television.

Eric F. Hyde

Chairman of the board of the Hyde and Bobbio Engineering Co., of Detroit, Eric F. Hyde, 70, of 708 Oakland Ave. died suddenly at his home yesterday morning.

A graduate of the University of Michigan Engineering School, he was formerly associated with the Albert Kahn organization and spent a year in Russia as their chief mechanical engineer.

A former vestryman of St. James Episcopal church, he was a member of the Detroit Rotary; National Society of Professional Engineers; the Engineering Society of Detroit and was past president of the Michigan Chapter of the American Society of Heating and Ventilating Engineers. He also was active in Boy Scout work.

Mr. Hyde is survived by his wife, Mary, a daughter, Mrs. Jane Hyde Pinckney of Penn Yan, N. Y.; a sister, Mrs. Alfred P. Dunn of Birmingham, and three brothers, the Rev. Stanley Hyde of Monroe, Harold J. of Farmington and Arthur K. of Birmingham.

The body will be at the Manley - Bailey Funeral home until the 11 a.m. service at St. James Church tomorrow. Burial will be in Greenwood Cemetery.

The family suggests memorial contributions to the St. James Memorial Fund or the Detroit Rotary Foundation.

Mrs. Carl W. Richter

A former resident of Birmingham, Mrs. Carl (Lillian E.) Richter of 22507 Shorewood Dr., St. Clair Shores, died at her home yesterday after a long illness.

She was a member of the Garden Club, Literary Club and St. John Lutheran Church, all of Rochester.

Besides her husband, she is survived by four children, Mrs. George Galbreath, Mrs. C. O. Christie, C. William Richter Jr. and Timothy G., and one sister, Mrs. George Ringsted.

Service will be at 3 p.m. tomorrow from Bell Chapel of the William R. Hamilton Co., with burial in White Chapel Cemetery.

Charl Bartsch

Service for Charl Bartsch, 39, of 5050 West Maple Rd., who was dead on arrival at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital following an accident Wednesday, will be at 10 a.m. Monday from Sparks - Griffin Funeral Home, Pontiac, with burial in Oak Hill Cemetery. The Rev. William LaFountain of the Ascension Lutheran Church will officiate.

Employe Fund Assets Rise

City Retirement Money Near $3 Million Mark, Report Announces

Assets amounted to $2,797,132 at the Dec. 31, 1956 close of the 11th year of the City of Pontiac Employees' Retirement System, the Board of Trustees has announced in its annual report.

During 1956 the system paid out to seven retiring employes $11,746, and lost four service retirants receiving $3,981 on an annual basis, due to death.

During the year, the system, and city employes under it, came under Social Security as the result of voter approval in August of the year.

Members of the system during the year paid into the system's savings fund $253,781, or five per cent deductions from their earnings prior to the coordination with Social Security. This deduction dropped to three per cent after that, until members' earnings reached $4,200 annually, at which time it reverted back to five per cent.

The system paid out $106,054 to members upon their termination of service to the city.

Total investments in bonds, U. S. certificates of indebtedness, and mortgages of the retirement system at Dec. 31, 1956 was $2,527,208. Redemption values of investments increased $44,058 during the year. Earnings on other investments was $21,363.

Delegates in Gunfight at Toastmasters Confab

DALLAS (AP) — Six delegates to the convention of Toastmasters International, a public speakers' organization, staged a gunfight in a hotel lobby yesterday.

It was all in fun, but there was a casualty just the same.

James M. Curley Renominated for Labor Post

BOSTON (AP)—James Michael Curley, nearly 60 years a Boston and Massachusetts political figure, was nominated yesterday in his 83rd year by a fellow Democrat, Gov. Foster Furcolo, to be Mashachusetts labor relations commissioner at $7,500 a year.

Last of the nation's political bosses, Curley recently wrote his life's story and entitled it, "I'd do it Again."

Son of an immigrant laborer who died when Curley was 12, Jim Curley left school early to work. He struggled up the political ladder from city councillor.

He served four terms in Congress, four as mayor, once as Massachusetts governor. Twice he went to jail—once because as a young man who took a mail carrier's exam for a friend, once as head of an organization accused of mail fraud.

Curley said he was an innocent figurehead and after serving five months President Truman pardoned him.

Old Theater Renovated

MADRID — The historic Zarzuela Theater in Madrid has been renovated at a cost of $600,000 into one of the most modern musical-comedy theaters in Europe. A resurgence of the legitimate theater in Spain also includes the reopening of the Royal Opera House, closed for 30 years.

To protect the life of the President and to suppress counterfeiters are the two statutory duties of the U.S. Secret Service.

Levittown Quiet on Racial Issue

State Troopers Still Patrol Area Occupied by Negro Family

LEVITTOWN, Pa. (AP)—For the second straight night, after more than a week of after-dark demonstrations against the coming of the first Negro family into this big new housing project, Levittown's Dogwood Hollow section was calm last night.

State police remained on patrol and two orders were strictly enforced: no more outdoor meetings of protest or other large gatherings; and for the time being no visitors to enter the area.

Maj. William Ruch, in charge of the state police detail, said his men will remain as long as the authorities consider it necessary.

Crowds up to 500 gathered in front of the home owned by William Myers Jr. for eight nights in a row. Stones were hurled at the Myers house and two picture windows broken. A number of persons were arrested.

Myers and his wife, at a news conference, told reporters that an assistant district attorney of Bucks County had offered to buy their home for $15,000. Myers said he paid $12,000 for it. He said he refused the offer.

Myers and his wife said also they had received many letters of encouragement and goodwill; that about 200 neighbors, including some from the Dogwood Hollow section, made welcoming calls; that some of these visitors brought gifts of flowers, food and trinkets for the house; and that many Levittowners had invited them to dinner.

Paul R. Beckert, the assistant district attorney and Republican candidate for district attorney in the November general election, confirmed Myers' statement.

Beckert said he called on Myers twice this week with the offer but emphasized that he was acting as a private attorney for a principal he declined to name.

"The primary purpose," Beckert asserted, "was to present a solution that would avoid any further violence or demonstrations.

"My action had nothing to do with politics or any political group. Nor was it motivated by any personal feelings on my part."

Hal Boyle Says:

Young Flier Wants to Create Museum in Sky

NEW YORK (AP)—Frank Tallman is a young flier with a soaring ambition—he wants to create a museum in the sky.

He is a leader in the small but growing number of enthusiasts who seek to salvage for posterity the remaining winged remnants of the early air age. But the airplanes he finds and rebuilds aren't destined, he hopes, for a dusty museum. He wants to put them back in the sky—at america's air shows—where they belong.

"I don't think it's quite enough to see the color and beauty of the past, unless it's out in the sunshine working," he explained.

Since then Frank has logged more than 6,000 hours in more than 75 types of aircraft, ranging from 1910 Bleriots to flying boats, gliders, bombers and jets. He was a Navy flier in the last war, has served as a test pilot, and is one of a comparative handful of U.S. airmen licensed to fly every type of plane.

But today his heart is with true relics of the days when the air was an opening ocean to man.

"I was in the tailend of the helmet and goggle era of the open biplane," he said. "And I believe the fun in flying was then—when you could see it, feel it, and smell it.

"The pleasure went out when they started putting on an oxygen mask, a hard hat, and an anti-gravity space suit—all worn in a pressurized cabin. When they took away the feel of the wind in your face, they took away most of the fun."

So far Tallman has collected only nine obsolete planes—the 1910 Bleriot is his earliest, a Grumman Wildcat his latest—but at that his collection is one of the world's largest.

Prize of his collection is a 1917 Sopwith Camel, the Spitfire of the World War I.

Tallman, who spent nine days last month flying his Sopwith Camel from Hollywood to an air show in the nation's capital, said he wouldn't take $15,000 for the plane, which cost only $8,000 back in 1917, delivered at the front.

Collecting and flying antique airplanes has one advantage over most other hobbies.

"You have to be sure before you take them up," Frank said cheerfully. "You only get to make one mistake."

Mounted Patrolman Pins Suspect Against Car

NEW YORK (AP) — A mounted patrolman galloped his hores along a 42nd Street sidewalk near 7th Avenue yesterday and used his steed to pin a robbery suspect against a parked car.

Patrolman Joseph Ippolito corraled Thomas Taylor, 19, of Manhattan, after the latter allegedly was involved in trying to steal an 85-pound bolt of goods worth $250 from a textile firm.

Also arrested was John Bronson, 19, of Manhattan. He was nabbed by Detective Harold Jacob.

Noted Night Club Owner Leaves Small Estate

The silver-haired Morrison, a widely known figure in entertainment circles, died last March 22 at the age of 57. He opened the Mocambo 16 years ago.

Commissioner Florence North appointed Morrison's widow Mary as administratrix of the estate. She has been operating the night club since her husband's death. He left no will.

The gun had more influence in changing the primitive ways of Indians than any other object brought by the white man, says Carl P. Russell, National Park Service Indian authority.

Communism in Syria

Blaming the Eisenhower Doctrine for Syria's current troubles, Foreign Minister BITAR declares that the doctrine aims to destroy Arab independence and deliver it to "Zionism and imperialism."

At Syria's request, stemming from an alleged American plot to which Syria says she will call U.S. Security Council attention, three U.S. Embassy officials have been withdrawn and our ambassador has been recalled. Similarly, the Syrian envoy has been requested to leave our shores.

Since Syria was given independence in 1946, the government has been dominated by the army. Naturally, therefore, any country which supplied arms, in this case Russia, would be looked upon with favor. This gives the Kremlin a made-to-order opportunity to create trouble in the Middle East.

The appointment of a new Syrian Chief of Staff, Lt. Col. MIZRY, known in neighboring Beirut as a "card carrying Communist," seems to confirm the fact that Syria has become a Russian pawn in the Middle East. Unless moderate forces can unite and resist, Syria's Army Intelligence Chief SERRAJ appears to have achieved his goal of a Communist government in Syria.

These developments followed a Syrian delegation's visit to Moscow. Charges of subversion, offers of economic and military aid and the fanning of fanatical nationalism all have a familiar ring.

Fortunately Syria's neighbors are alert to the threat and have accepted the Eisenhower Doctrine of assisting those who resist Communism. Perhaps even President NASSER of Egypt now may have awakened to the dangers of Soviet penetration.

It is to be hoped that the the Syrians have not given Russia the permanent foothold the Kremlin has been seeking in the Middle East.

Malayan Independence

After 133 years of British Colonial rule Malaya will be given its independence on August 31.

This federation of states will be the 10th nation to join the British Commonwealth and will have a constitutional monarch chosen by the heads of the nine states and two settlements.

However, the king chosen from nine sultans, 61-year-old TUANKA ABDUL RAHMAN will hold office as Paramount Ruler for five years only. The Chief Minister who will continue in office also is named ABDUL RAHMAN, but they are not related. Both were educated at Cambridge. Nine states of the federation already had limited monarchies and the two settlements, Penang and Malacca, have been governed by councils.

Malaya is to be congratulated on the orderly fashion in which it has proceeded toward independence. Communist terrorism was brought under control, an agreement obtained from Malaya's different population groups and then British approval.

The various races present a big problem. Of the 6.3 million population, Malays constitute 3 million, Chinese 2.3 million and the rest is made up of Indians, Pakistanis, Ceylanese, Eurasians and Europeans. More than a half dozen languages are spoken.

Chief Minister Prince ABDUL RAHMAN'S responsibility will be to keep harmony among these various groups. The Malays are fearful that in a few years the prolific Chinese will outnumber them. For more than 100 years the Chinese have dominated Malay commerce. By law, however, three out of four civil service jobs are filled by Malays.

The new Commonwealth of Malaya will be warmly welcomed into the world family of free nations.

Celebration: An event that's easy when you have such a worthy thing to celebrate.

In connection with this golden jubilee, copies of

Oakland Motor Car Company,

and was a worthy predesessor of

and their families.

In those days the primary effort of the editors was to get the names of most of the employes into every issue. This made necessary a paper of 12 pages.

We'll let you estimate what a massive volume each issue of The Warrior now would be if it included an item about every employe of the Pontiac Plant.

Away back in those days the suggestion plan had started, there were instructions about income taxes, the traffic problem was getting serious, the items got quite personal and often bared family skeletons, some mighty good looking gals were employed there, and the News pounded away on the old and still well-founded theory that of 3270 Sashabaw Road, reports some over five feet tall.

"Your job is your best opportunity."

Our dahlia plants also are looking up, as

Mrs. Alvin Martin

Under the personal direction of its ever efficient president,

John W. Hunt,

the members of the executive board of Clinton Valley Council of the Boy Scouts and their wives enjoyed a typical old-fashioned steak dinner Thursday evening at the Parke-Davis Farm near Rochester.

Known to most everybody in the north part of adjoining Oakland County, who has conducted a hardware store at Hadley for over a half-century, died this week at Evansville, Ind., while returning from a western vacation trip.

Charles J. Morton,

Confirming our own observation of a few days ago, of Rochester, on a northern vacation trip, writes me from Mackinaw City: "The bridge will be ready by Nov. 1, but its approaches will not."

MEMBER OF AUDIT BUREAU OF CIRCULATIONS

"Ah! Here It Is"

David Lawrence Says:

Ike Has Given Strong Leadership

WASHINGTON — There is something refreshing about President Eisenhower's naturalness and candor. He was asked, for instance, at his press conference this week if the record of Congress this year, which he regards as disappointing, might lead to his taking the stump for a Republican Congress next year in a sort of "modified give-'em hell campaign." His answer was this:

LAWRENCE

"Well, I think I will just have to pursue what is natural for me. I believe that anyone who does something that is unnatural and artificial for himself is not effective. Now, what I plead for are the programs that I believe to be good for America.

"And now it happens that I believe the Republicans have a better program than the Democrats and, to that extent, of course, I am going to be partisan, but primarily I am for the program."

The reference to a "give-'em hell campaign" was, of course based on the kind of stump speaking which Harry Truman boasted about in 1948, and there is still the illusion in many quarters here that name-calling gets somewhere with the American people.

Actually, in 1948, the Truman vote in most states ran far behind the vote for a Democratic Congress — one of the rare instances in which a President winning an election got fewer votes than the members of Congress of his own party.

Indeed, Truman would have lost but for the defection of the Republican farm vote in certain western states and in Ohio. This was due more to Republican errors than any virtues in Trumanism.

There isn't any need to imitate Truman, for there are dignified ways to deal with a hostile Congress. Eisenhower, to a remarkable degree, retains the esteem of the American people. He has no selfish interest in government or politics. He is not eligible for a third term.

REWARD—SATISFACTION

His reward can come only in the satisfaction that he has served the American people faithfully. The President's efforts to conciliate rather than to antognize Congress have been in conformity with his whole approach to problems of human conflict. For this reason, he has a real opportunity to carry to the American people his case for the enactment of a constructive legislative program.

Eisenhower needs only to go back to first principles and explain to the country why the American system of government cannot be effective if it is divided in a time of crisis. It is especially dangerous when a lack of responsibility is manifested.

After all, Eisenhower might well argue that, in the elections of 1956, the nation did place the responsibility for the legislative program in Congress on the Democratic party.

This is an inescapable fact and so simple that every voter who understands the principles of the Constitution can grasp it at once. For the President cannot by himself make the laws nor can he use any force except the force of public opinion to persuade Congress to pass the laws he recommends and is willing to sign.

REMARKS HAVE FORCE

There is a tremendous force in the impromptu remarks Eisenhower did make at his press conference especially when he expressed his disappointment at the lack of action by Congress on "a long list of recommendations" that he made last January. He said:

"Of course I am disappointed, because these things that I talk about are not pet projects of my own. I have no particular personal reason—other than that of a concern for all of the United States of America—for wanting them passed, but that reason is governing and controlling with me.

"As a matter of fact, it is the only reason I think anyone has a right to occupy the job I do if he does feel that way. And, therefore, for the sake of the United States, I am tremendously disappointed that so many of these bills have not been acted on, and in some cases they not even have held hearings.

Now, the details of them, there is no use going into now. They are long things. They apply to everything from the country's finances, the welfare of our people, mutual aid—and right down the line."

OTHERS MORE FORMAL

Other presidents, particularly Woodrow Wilson, have expressed in more formal language and style than this, but none more eloquently, the concept of Presidential leadership which is fundamental in the American governmental system.

The "hard-hitting," "give-'em hell" speeches, with bitter denunciation of personalities, may make good headlines and dramatic television shows but such techniques underestimate the intelligence of the American electorate.

For the President of the United States does not represent just a single state or congressional district or region, nor is he beholden to any pressure group.

Dr. William Brady Says:

No Reason for Women to Dread Middle Years

A professional man (not a physician) gave my morale a boost at a time when impediments in the way of teaching the truth were getting me down.

For too long, the professional man wrote, I have been meaning to write this appreciation . . .

"Something in the way you treat the matter of the critical period of a woman's life first amazed and then seemed to lift a great anxiety from my good wife's mind. You gave her a wholly new outlook upon the change of life.

"Her friends, her older friends, had led her to expect all sorts of dreadful things. Now if you think it is odd that I am telling you about this instead of the boss herself . . . "

It is not odd. It is just unusual for a busy professional man to bother—to say thanks, I mean, although it is also unusual, I regret to say, for a man to show such tender solicitude for the peace of mind of the mother of his grown children.

That so many young women dread the menopause as a "critical period" and call it "change of life" is a sad commentary on education in Yankee-land. It seems that it suits the book of the quacks, nostrum mongers, trick specialists and "clinic" racketeers to keep the credulous sex ignorant.

Middleaged men and women alike are subject to physical degeneration, which manifests itself in various ways. Maybe I bend too far backward, but I'd rather not say any more about these manifestations at present, except this:

If or when you find or fear that you are not so well or not so efficient or not so cheerful as you should be, no matter whether you are 35, 45 or 55, don't mess around, report to your physician for a health examination—not a "check-up" but a physical examination and whatever functional or laboratory tests your physician considers necessary.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped, self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

Readers Fire Back Retorts to Letters Panning Police

Taxpayer, you thought you made a point with your keen observation of 15 police officers attending the boxing match.

But if you will be more observing next time, you will find that those men you saw were unpaid special officers, donating their time for you so your so-called taxes won't be increased.

Also, Wondering, when you mention 8 police officers being in the restaurant at one time, you did not tell how many different police departments were represented. At 3 a. m. where else would a person buy a cup of coffee?

One Who Knows

Taxpayer should bow his head in shame! If he would have looked a little closer at the fights a week ago Tuesday, he would have noticed that all but two of the policemen he criticized were Police Reserve Officers.

Not only that, one of the regular officers was working on his own time. Did you know that these Reserve Officers put in many, many hours working for your city without pay?

Too bad Wondering isn't a little younger, they sure could use him! Did you ever stop to think that the policemen might have just gotten off work at 2 a. m. and were in the cafe on their own time?

Investigate Strip, Then Condemn It

I am interested in the reaction on the proposed drag strip by Judge Moore and Chief Straley. Before these two condemn this project, I think they should discuss it with officials of other states where this idea is now in operation.

California has at least one in operation and from what I have heard and read, it is most successful.

There's hardly any "dragging" on the roads which, in my opinion, would reduce auto accidents. Aren't we trying to do this? Oh, yes, isn't there one in operation in New Baltimore?

May I ask what A Citizen of Pontiac was doing that he could observe the employes of Baldwin Rubber "hour after hour"? And how was this possible while he was driving?

THOUGHTS FOR TODAY

And have no fellowship with the unfruitful works of darkness, but rather reprove them.—Ephesians 5:11.

Besides the guilt of sin and the power of sin, there is the stain of sin.—Nathaniel Culverwell.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Explains Common Teen Complex

Teenage girls are especiallly susceptible to Deborah's complex. But it also affects boys, as well as older folks. So study this case carefully and send it to any friends or relatives with Deborah's complaint. And see that all teenagers are equipped with the helpful sex booklet named below.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case V-365: Deborah D., aged 20, is a very attractive office secretary.

DR. CRANE

"Dr. Crane, I have a very serious complex," she confessed, "and it is making my social life unbearable.

"For I have a phobia about body odors. My mother says it is largely in my head, but I think she is just trying to shield my feelings.

"I now bathe so often that I hardly have time to do anything else while I am at home.

"And I am constantly shopping around for new deodorants or perfumes. But nothing seems to banish the odor. I can detect it in myself, so how much more repellent must it be to others.

"I'm at my wit's end. Am I crazy or what?"

"B. O." COMPLEX

"Well, it might be better if millions of Americans were a little more fearful about their 'B. O.'," I added, as a means of putting Deborah at ease.

Then I gave her a thorough medical examination. For sometimes a brain tumor will cause its victim to think she smells a constant odor.

But Deborah had nothing wrong with her medically. And she did not exude any unpleasant body odor at all.

Furthermore, she couldn't even define the type of odor which she said she was sure she exuded.

"When did this complex start?" I queried, for it is often helpful to "date" the onset of such a phobia.

"Well, it was when I was in eighth grade," she finally told me.

By deft questions I got her to go back into into her school days and found a very prim and proper school marm had given the girls a hygiene lecture.

This school teacher had a sex phobia and so colored Deborah's thinking that when Deborah entered puberty, she grew hypersensitive to any unusual odor of her body.

Deborah's case is not uncommon among patients who consult us psychiatrists for it develops from a natural self-consciousness when girls enter puberty.

Furthermore, if they ever indulge in auto erotic practices, then they often become even more self-conscious.

RANCID PERSPIRATION

Human beings exude two kinds of perspiration. The more odorous variety comes from the apocrine glands which lose a part of their own protoplasm as they secrete.

Since some people are more addicted to the apocrine type of sweat than others, and some races likewise give off more of the apocrine secretion, such persons must be doubly on guard.

Frequent bathing helps. But it is normal to perspire, so various commercial deodorants are also an aid.

But don't think you can continually drown "B. O." with perfumes, for the unpleasant rancid

If you haven't access to deodorants, a little mild soapsuds left to dry under the arms, will be a help. So, too, will a little baking soda, applied with the moistened fingertips.

But never become so self-centered that you become hypnotized by your own body odors, either real or imagined.

Extrovert your attention by joining the "Compliment Club" and learning how to converse gaily.

Meanwhile, send for the booklet "Sex Problems of Young People," enclosing a stamped return envelope, plus 20 cents (non-profit). It will help banish abnormal sex complexes like Deborah's.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 3c stamped self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

Borax King's Widow Leaves $40,000 Estate

OAKLAND, Calif. (INS) — The widow of the late "Borax King" Frank M. Smith, who made more than 30 million dollars from his Borax mines, left an estate of $40,000 in personal property and $2,4000 in annual income.

Three daughters and a son will share equally in the estate of Mrs. Evelyn E. Smith, who died June 8 at the age of 79. Her will was filed yesterday in Alameda County Superior Court.

Mrs. Smith once shared a one million dollar annual income with her husband, who made the "Twenty Mule Team" label a household word and wound up 24 million dollars in debt. He died in 1931, still trying to make another comeback.

Russian Reporters Take Life Easy; Their Stories Are Written for Them

Howard Handleman roams Europe as chief correspondent of International News Service. He has been reporting from abroad for more than 15 years in the Far East and Europe.

By HOWARD HANDLEMAN

BERLIN (INS) — Russian newspapermen covering the visit of Nikita Khrushchev to Berlin made me a little envious. I don't know how they do on hours and wages, and certainly there are occupational hazards we Western reporters never have to worry about. We can get fired but there is no Siberia for us.

The thing which make me a little envious is that work is so easy for a Russian newspaperman.

RUBBED ELBOWS

I rubbed elbows with some of them on the press platform the day Khrushchev arrived in Berlin. I asked one of them who had flown in from Moscow, what the visit was all about — what the purpose was. He replied:

"Ho, I don't know. I don't have to know. That is the government's business."

The seeds of envy were planted right then. I thought of all the time and effort any Western newsman devotes to the job of finding out what a story is all about.

NO WORRY

There was a young man from Pravda beside me on the platform. His job was like shooting sitting ducks. He didn't have to worry about the meaning of Khrushchev's speech. He didn't have to fret to figure out what Krushchev's real reaction was to the sight of goosestepping German soldiers. He didn't even have to try to count the crowd. All these things were what every Western reporter was working like mad to learn.

But the Pravda man knew that even if he did have some ideas about these questions he had better keep them to himself. Certainly it was not his job to write them.

In due time he would be told how Krushchev felt, what Khrushchev meant, how many Germans came out to hail him. In the Russian day of life judgments on such things are the business of the government, not the business of a reporter.

DID SOME WORK

But the reporter did have some work to do. He had to call Germans from the crowd over to the platform and interview them — or go through the motions of what the Russians call an interview.

He had no trouble getting people to talk. After all, he was a Russian, from Moscow, and they were mere East Germans. One by one they came. The young man from Pravda asked each the same question. It was loaded.

"Why did you come to the station today to see Nikita Krushchev?" he asked each one. That was an invitation to polish the apple if there ever was one. And the Germans were not slow to take advantage of the opportunity.

GERMANS VIED

Each German vied with the others to spill forth praise. Each German smirked and fawned. The answers must have looked wonderful in Pravda and may even have earned the reporter a raise, if Pravda gives raises.

A little old man was interviewed. He had tears of pride in his eyes. He stood at stiff attention. This was an honor. This was a day to remember. A Russian was asking him his opinion on a great event. He rose to the occasion.

"I wanted to see the great man, myself," he said, "and to hear him speak. He is the hope of all us working people."

A young woman said "It would be unthinkable for me to stay away when I have this glorious opportunity to see the great comrade Khrushchev himself — right here in Berlin." and so it went.

It was a little sickening to a Western reporter. It never is nice to see craven people crawling for crumbs of favor. The young man from Pravda worked hard. His pencil flew over his notebook. If seemed to me he didn't miss a word.

For him this was important, each word was a jewel. For in the strange and planned world of this man and his newspaper such abject efforts to curry favor are important. In that strange world such craveness is "Proof" that everybody loves the Russian masters and that socialism is conquering the world.

A Dog All His Own Can Aid Shy Child

Taking the dog out for a romp may do even more good for the master than the dog.

There's the case of a shy child. He keeps to himself in school. After school, he spends much time looking longingly out the window at the neighborhood children enjoying themselves.

Parents with this sort of problem might consider getting him a dog. Of course, the youngster must want such a pet and agree to take care of him.

Caring for a dog helps the youngster gain confidence in himself.

Caring for a dog also builds a sense of responsibility.

There's no better way to make friends than to appear with a dog. What youngster can resist stopping to pet the dog and chat with the master?

Those who don't have a dog will want to play with his dog. These are things from which childhood friendships are born.

A pet care club may be active in the neighborhood. If there isn't one, perhaps the parent of the shy child will start such a group.

Rabbits can run faster up hill than down because the hind legs are longer than the forelegs.

New Device Measures Radioactivity in Body

WASHINGTON (INS)—The Veterans Administration announced today it has developed a new and highly-sensitive counter to measure radioactive particles inside the human body.

The instrument, designed by Dr. Gerald J. Hine, a physicist in the VA Hospital in Boston, was said to mark a "breakthrough in existing limits of radiation detection."

The VA said the extreme sensitivity of the counter will enable scientists to probe deeper into the secrets of sickness by following body X-ray tracers introduced in amounts previously undetectable.

At Pontiac General Trustees Meeting

7 Hospital Committees Named

Standing committees of the 1957-58 Pontiac General Hospital Board of Trustees were made public at last night's monthly board meeting.

Chairmen of the different committees will be: James Clarkson, finance committee; Edward P. Barrett, building; William P. Babcock, personnel; Harold B. Euler, public relations; and Cecil J. Cosgrove, nominating.

The executive committee will consist of the four board officers: Willis M. Brewer, chairman; Mrs. B. B. Roush, vice chairman; Rev. Theodore R. Allebach, secretary; and James Clarkson, treasurer.

The seventh committee, joint conference, will be made up of Babcock, Barrett and Mrs. Roush.

Other action taken by the trustees included concurring with a finance committee recommendation that a new chest X-ray machine be purchased for $5,524 to replace an existing machine which has been in use at the hospital for 17 years.

VOTE EMERGENCY CHARGE

Board members also agreed that the hospital would not make an "initial" charge to non-patients or visitors who might require emergency treatment as the result of an accident while at Pontiac General.

Brinks, Inc., was obtained at $55 per month for the handling of cash between the hospital and the bank.

A recommendation that fourth year residents at Pontiac General be paid $425 a month was referred to the new Finance Committee. Trustees voted to ask the committee to study the proposal to facilitate drafting of the 1958 hospital budget.

Warren W. Simonds, acting hospital director, informed trustees that since Aug. 14 both the hospital and the annex had been operating at more than 80 per cent occupancy.

Excused from last night's two-hour session were board members Rev. Allebach, Barrett, Harold S. Goldberg, and Clarkson.

The September meeting of the board was set for the 19th.

The highest waterfall in the world, 15 times higher than Niagara, is Angel Falls in Venezuela. It was named for its discoverer, Jimmy Angel, an American prospector for gold and diamonds.

Peronist Followers Split on 1958 Election Policy

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—The split among Juan D. Peron's followers appears to be widening.

The issue: Should Peronistas remain loyal to the former Argentine dictator at all costs in the determination to bring him back from exile or should they forsake their hero temporarily in the hope of getting the next best thing — a pro-Peronist president elected next February?

This question has touched off bitter argument among the ex-strongman's partisans. They pulled some two million blank votes in a Constituent Assembly election July 28. That was far below their goal of five million and showed that Peron, exiled in Venezuela, had lost more than half his following since his overthrow almost two years ago.

Still, two million votes is a big bloc. It gives Peronistas a voice in picking Argentina's next president in an election scheduled Feb. 23.

The dilemma for Peronistas is whether to vote blank again Feb. 23 in a show of blind loyalty to "El Conductor," or throw their support behind a Peronista candidate.

Peronist sources say the leader of the blind loyalty school is John William Cooke, one of Peron's top henchmen, exiled in Chile. A top proponent of the other side is reported to be Alejandro Leloir, president of the Peronist party supreme council when Peron fell, now in prison. Cooke's group apparently enjoys the ex-dictator's blessing at present.

Examine Story of 'Lost' Airman

Pilot Lost in Mountains 54 Days Now to Spend Time at Survival Base

WASHINGTON (AP)—Lt. David Steeves will spend a couple of weeks at the Air Force survival school while findings of an inquiry into his 54-day disappearance in the California mountains are under study.

After that his future duties will be determined by the commander at Craig Air Force Base, Selma, Ala., Steeves' new regular assignment.

The Air Force announced the orders yesterday and at the same time gave out word that a "thorough but routine" investigation of the circumstances in Steeves' case has been completed at Bolling Air Force Base here.

A spokesman said results of that inquiry, which included medical and psychological checks, are still under study.

Steeves, bearded and apparently about 60 pounds underweight emerged from the mountains with an account of injury and hardship after being forced to bail out of his jet trainer over the Sierras.

The Saturday Evening Post has canceled an agreement to publish an article on Steeves' experiences, saying the writer assigned to do the story reported discrepancies. Steeves says he told the story as it happened.

The Air Force spokesman said the service has "no reason for either believing or disbelieving" Steeves' account.

Schools in New York Pushing Integration

NEW YORK (AP) — Supt. of Schools William Jansen says definite progress is being made in integrating New York City schools.

Jansen said yesterday after an executive session of the Board of Education that the school system is "meeting some disappointments and expected difficulties."

He said these included financial problems, the problem of staffing difficult schools and the problems created by public misunderstanding of the board's integration program.

He said progress should continue this year.

Jensen has been attacked recently as not doing all that he should to promote integration. Critics included civil leaders and some members of the board's Commission on Integration.

Phil Hart Using Bicycle to Get to Capitol Office

LANSING (AP) — Lt. Gov. Philip A. Hart, father of eight children, has taken to pedaling to his work in the state capitol.

A bicycle ride the four blocks from his residence helps keep him fit, Hart says, and it's cheaper and more convenient than driving the family car.

As lieutenant governor Hart does not have a state car assigned for his use.

No Accord Seen Over Economics

America, Brazil Want Watered-Down Policy for Uniting Hemisphere

BUENOS AIRES (UP)—The Inter-American Economic Conference today appeared well on its way toward abandoning any hope of reaching a strong general economic agreement.

The United States yesterday joined officially with Brazil in calling for a watered-down agreement far short of an over-all economic policy for the hemisphere.

It appeared a number of the 20 nations gathered here still would fight to salvage binding and strong articles of the original agreement. But in view of the storm of controversy surrounding it, there seemed little chance they would be successful.

In the announcement of its position, the United States noted the controversy raging about the proposed general agreement. It said a "simpler and more general" resolution appeared to be the only way out.

The United States indicated it felt the nations of this hemisphere were not yet prepared to act in concert on a forceful economic pattern.

"I am sure no government represented here would be prepared to sign a document which contained provisions inconsistent with the fundamental policies or attitudes of that government," said U.S. Delegate John Leddy.

The U.S. position already has some support. Leddy mentioned a 38-article Brazilian version of the agreement which is little more than a declaration of principles.

American Writer Backs Alphabet Reform

LONDON (UP) — Mrs. Clara S. Richter, a New York attorney and writer, has announced a new British-American campaign to save the alphabet reform fostered by the late George Bernard Shaw.

Mrs. Richter, a personal friend of the Irish dramatist who died in 1950 at 94, says she believes a man should be able to dispose of his estate in any lawful manner.

Shaw left a complicated will to further his project of uncomplicating the English language. He wanted it made easier to spell, speak and write. He thought the alphabet should have about 40 letters of invariable sounds.

His million-dollar will, which his executors struggled six years to interpret, provided that money be set aside to make preliminary studies of the problems of alphabet reform. Last January the Chancery Division of the high court set aside that portion of the will.

Since then, British exponents of alphabet reform led by Isaac Pitman, a member of Parliament and a grandson of the inventor of a system of shorthand writing, have campaigned to appeal the court decision.

Mrs. Richter announced here this week that she and fellow members of the American Theater Council have joined forces with Pitman. Mrs. Richter hired a firm of lawyers to undertake action here as a "friend of the court." The move would parallel Pitman's effort.

Shaw's will did not ask the executor to reform the English language, but merely to make a worldwide inquiry to determine how much time and money might be saved if the system of setting down English sentences were simplified. The Chancery Court held the plan was not feasible and directed the funds set aside for it be given to alternative benefactors named by Shaw, the British Museum, the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art and the National Gallery of Shaw's native Ireland.

Syria's Defense Minister Denies Reds Rule Country

DAMASCUS (UP) — Syria's acting defense minister has charged the United States raised a false threat of a Communist takeover in Syria in order to hide its own bid for greater Middle Eastern influence.

Khaled el Azem joined other Syrian officials in denying that Syria is falling under Soviet control as a result of leftist officers taking control of the army.

The United States knows Syria will not accept foreign influence, Azem told American reporters yesterday.

"You pretend we have become Communist and are under the influence of the Soviet Union. . . . You use this as a weapon and propaganda, hoping to frighten people who fear communism and who are afraid about their goods," the defense chief asserted. "You use it to force American and European public opinion to support American policy in the Middle East.

"If you told people frankly the real purpose, which is to replace British and French influence by your own and to guarantee the interest of oil companies and other monopolies, the American people would not help by giving you funds."

A statement read by Azem said the American people and President Eisenhower fail to understand the Arab mind and Arab aims. U.S. help to imperialism and Zionism "willingly or unwillingly . . . is preventing any understanding between the Arab and American peoples," he declared.

"In addition, you (Americans) want to dictate your will to all people and want them to follow the same policy. You want to dominate large and small countries."

Azem said Russia "wants Syria to be entirely free from the influence of the West as well as the Soviet Union itself."

In London, diplomatic sources said Syria's anti-Communist neighbors plan to isolate her in an effort to cordon off Soviet influence. The Arab neighbors are Lebanon, Jordan, Iraq and Turkey.

The informants said the United States and Britain have decided against any open intervention against the leftist trend.

Hammarskjold Cites Ideological Neutrality

Sees No U. N. Intervention in Present Syria Problem

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (INS) — Dag Hammarskjold said today the United Nations could not intervene in the Syrian problem because the world organization is "neutral in the ideological field."

The secretary general was asked at a news conference whether the U.N. could do anything to stop the Soviet Union "from trying to take over Syria."

In reply, he cited article seven of the U.N. Charter, which states:

"Nothing contained in the present charter shall authorize the United Nations to intervene in matters which are essentially within the domestic jurisdiction of any state . . ."

At that point he reminded reporters that "The U.N. is neutral in the ideological field."

At the same time, Hammarskjold seemed to hold out new hope for settlement of other Middle East problems, specifically many of those between Israel and the Arab states.

SITUATION QUIET

He pointed out the situation on the Israeli-Syrian frontier has been quiet since early July and reported he is making progress in trying to settle outside the debating halls a current Israeli-Jordan border problem.

Asked to give his assessment of prospects for a general Mid East peace, Hammarskjold replied:

". . . We are groping for the best road.

"One thing is obvious: The quiet in the field, which we now have to an astonishing degree, is a natural first step (toward peace).

"If this is maintained, we could come to the next step."

He did not say what this might be, but added that "There seems to be a road between the trees in the wood."

The secretary general, whose five-year term expires next year, declined to discuss whether he would seek re-election, but declared that "There isn't a man in the world who isn't expendable."

In reply to other questions, Hammarskjold said:

—The problem of limiting the supply of arms to the Middle East "is primarily one for those few countries which are in a position to supply arms" and the matter is one for "diplomacy of the classical type."

—The question of whether he would go to Hungary "remains open" but he would wait to see "what comes out of the debate" beginning Sept. 10 in the special Assembly session on Soviet aggression against Hungary.

—As a "practical" measure, it might be necessary to move the London disarmament talks to U.N. headquarters after the Assembly convenes.

—The 12th regular session of the 81-nation assembly opening Sept. 17 will start "under more favorable auspices" than the 11th meeting mostly because of the "greater hope" for Mid East solutions.

—It was "highly desirable" for the U.N. to find replacements for the 580 Indonesians pulled out of the 6,000-man emergency force in Sinai and the Gaza Strip.

Paroled War Criminal Ends Life in Japan

TOCHIGI, Japan (UP)— Shoichi Yanagida, former lieutenant colonel in the Japanese army and a paroled war criminal, hanged himself today.

Yanagida, 70, was warden of a prisoner of war camp in Burma during World War II.

After the war he was convicted of mistreatment of Allied prisoners and sentenced to 20 years imprisonment. He was paroled in July 1955.

Extra Session for Congress?

Sen. Magnuson Asks Winter Meetings to Eye Budget Legislation

WASHINGTON (UP)—Sen. Magnuson (D-Wash) today proposed a special session of Congress each November and December to be devoted almost entirely to federal budget legislation.

In a bill prepared for introduction in the Senate, Magnuson suggested requiring the President to submit his budget by July 15 each year, and making the government fiscal year correspond with the calendar year.

Under such a plan, he noted, the lawmakers would have 3½ months to discuss the budget with their constituents, then two months of intensive work to act on it.

At present the federal fiscal year begins July 1. The President submits his budget the preceding January, just after the opening of each congressional session.

Magnuson's bill would permit handling of emergency items in the November-December fiscal session.

It would confine the regular congressional session beginning in January largely to legislative matters, although deficiency money bills could be considered.

Only 11 Nations Ban Women From Voting

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UP) — U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold says there are only 11 countries where women will have no voting rights and are not eligible for election.

He lists them in an annual report to the U.N. General Assembly on women's progress in political rights.

The countries are Afghanistan, Iran, Iraq, Jordan, Libya, Liechtenstein, Paraguay, San Marino, Saudi Arabia, Switzerland and Yemen. Saudi Arabia and Yemen, Hammarskjold says, have no political rights for men either.

In Egypt, Guatemala, Monaco, Portugal and Syria, he says, women's rights are more limited than men's. But in 69 other countries the two sexes are on an equal basis. The list includes 10 Communist countries and 59 non-Communist.

Girard's Wife Will Avoid Trial

GI's Defense Lawyers Make Actual Decision, Reports Indicate

MAEBASHI, Japan (AP)—GI William Girard's Japanese wife will not attend her husband's trial on manslaughter charges starting next Monday, it was learned today.

Haru (Candy) Girard said the reason is that she feels too emotionally involved in the case and it would be better if she were not present.

It was understood, however, that Girard's defense lawyers made the actual decision.

Itsuro Hayashi, chief defense counsel, said recently on the subject of Mrs. Giard, "I'm looking for stronger-hearted witnesses, witnesses who will testify with facts, not emotions."

Candy, 28, has shod she is willing to tell the Japanese court trying Girard in the shooting of a woman brasspicker that Girard likes Japanese people and could not deliberately kill anyone. She has offered to serve any prison term given her husband.

Following a meeting of defense and prosecution lawyers here, the District Court reaffirmed a previous announcement that no pictures will be allowed inside the courtroom or courthouse. It was understood this was at Girard's request.

The internationally celebrated case will be covered by 17 foreign correspondents and 25 local reporters inside, and scores of others outside the guarded courtroom.

The opposing lawyers Wednesday discussed these and other final arrangements for the trial, including the witnesses they will summon.

Oceans Hold Heavy Hydrogen for Atom Age

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—If all the oceans were gasoline, they could supply only a tiny fraction of the energy that will be available in the age of thermonuclear power, says a leading atomic scientist.

Each gallon of water on earth contains enough heavy hydrogen to produce, theoretically, the amount of energy in 265 gallons of gasoline. This would supply the world's power requirements for a trillion years.

And there would be plenty of water left over, because if all this heavy hydrogen were extracted from the seas and burned in reactors, the volume of the oceans would be reduced only by a six-thousandth of present size.

These figures were given by Dr. Herbert York, director of the University of California's Livermore Laboratory in an address last night to an electronics show and convention.

Have Child Make Own Tooth Paste

Let the small fry whip up their own dentifrice. The ingredients for this do-it-yourself dodge are on your kitchen shelf: baking soda, cinnamon, allspice, nutmeg and cloves. Proportions are a half pound of soda per one teaspoon of spice.

Take an old mayonnaise jar, or any jar with a screw top, fill with the soda and spice and shake well to blend. Punch a large hole in the lid for easy pouring.

Hoffa's Halo Is Slipping as Senators Probe Past

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — James R. Hoffa—no matter what else happens to him—is not going to look like an unselfish, modest-living hero of American labor after the Senate Rackets Committee investigation.

His attitude toward the world seems to be: "They don't come too big for me." He sounded tough, cocky and forthright when—not knowing what he'd be hit with—he announced he'd answer the committee's questions.

It remains to be seen whether he also showed good sense. The chunky, 44-year-old Hoffa, Midwest boss of the Teamsters Union, is tough all right. But he's walking over ground full of boby-traps.

This committee has done a digging job on him: into his financial dealings, his associations, his plans and ambitious. It even has wiretapped recordings of his telephone conversations. And he took an oath to tell the truth.

Hoffa is being asked a lot of questions covering years. He has a remarkable memory — sometimes. But any witness under oath who makes a misstep—by stating as fact what turns out not to be—can wind up charged with perjury.

He faces no such problem if he says he can't remember matters about which he's asked. After three days of watching Hoffa have memory trouble, Sen. Ives (R-NY) commented on Hoffa's "convenient forgettery."

Yet if Hoffa had done what Dave Beck did—duck questions by taking the Fifth Amendment—he might have ruined 25 years of climbing up the union ladder to power just when the top prize is in sight.

Hoffa hopes to succeed the discredited Beck as president of the 1½-million-member Teamsters Union, biggest in the nation, at its September convention. Hoffa was bouncy Tuesday when he first faced the committee. After three days he looked strained.

The picture the committee is trying to paint of Hoffa is not pretty: a tieup with hoodlums and ex-convicts, led by Johnny Dio, and a drive to extend his power from the Midwest to control of New York Teamsters.

Beck used the Fifth Amendment to avoid telling this same committee about his admitted use of hundreds of thousands of dollars in union funds. He wrecked himself as a union leader. Since then he has come under charges of larceny and income tax evasion.

But the committee brought out that Hoffa had borrowed $120,000—of which he says he still owes $70,000—from various sources, including subordinates among the Teamsters, and $21,000 from his own local in Detroit.

In 1956, Hoffa said, he borrowed $25,000 from Harold L. Mark, a Detroit real estate dealer, who in turn had borrowed it from a Detroit Teamster local run by a close pal of Hoffa.

Most remarkable of all in Hoffa's financial dealings was his admission that until this year he never had a bank account but kept his money in a "safe place."

Chief counsel Robert F. Kennedy said some of those from whom Hoffa borrowed money — without interest or security—were men with long police records and some employers who dealt with Hoffa's union.

And when Kennedy asked if the members of his own local had been fully advised of his borrowing from it, Hoffa said he didn't know whether he had reported the transactions.

Flu May Strike 13 to 26 Million

Predict Asiatic Disease Epidemic Could Afflict That Many in U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Surgeon General Leroy E. Burney estimates that an epidemic of Asiatic flu this fall or winter might strike between 13 million and 26 million Americans.

In an interview yesterday, Burney said he figured that many might be stricken in event of an epidemic, even if a newly developed vaccine is widely employed.

About 60 million doses of the vaccine are expected to be available by Feb. 1. But the Public Health Service estimates the vaccine will be only about 70 per cent effective.

Burney said the outbreaks which have occurred in the United States so far have been mild, with few deaths, and "there is no reason to believe it will change."

The PHS announced yesterday that a new technique for diagnosis of Asiatic and other types of influenza has been developed. A spokesman said that technique might cut from six days to two days the time required to pinpoint the disease.

He added the time saved might be valuable in determining more rapidly whether an outbreak in a specific area had reached epidemic proportions.

The technique, the health service spokesman added, was developed at the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases by two researchers, John Vogel and Alexis Shelokov.

Fear 84 Airmen Have Asiatic Flu

LONDON (AP) — Eighty-four suspected cases of Asiatic flu from five U.S. Air Force installations in the London area are in a hospital at nearby Bushey Park.

"At the moment we have determined that it is a type of a strain of flu, under which Asiatic flu is classified— but we have not confirmed that it is in fact Asiatic flu," said an Air Force spokesman.

Another 120 American airmen at Burtonwood in the English Midlands also were hospitalized as suspected cases and others have been confined to quarters at additional installations.

Ex-Area Man Heads Drive in California

A former Oakland County resident, Pat I. Abare, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Abare, of 768 Geneva Rd., Waterford Twp., recently was named campaign chairman of this year's United Givers fund drive in Merced, California.

The United Givers is an organization similar to this area's United Fund.

Abare, assistant manager of the Crocker-Anglo Bank, is active in Marced civic affairs, serving on the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce, directing the men's chorus of the Kiwanis Club, and directing the youth choir of the First Baptist Church.

A 1940 Pontiac High School graduate, Abare attended Oberlin College, Ohio.

He has a wife, Alva, a son, Michael, and daughter, Patrice.

Trains Tooted Tunes

ST. LOUIS—In the old days of railroading, some engineers put blocks of wood in their locomotive whistles to give them a distinctive note. One of them used to play "Polly Put the Kettle On" as he was nearing his home crossing. Another played "Home Sweet Home" at midnight every New Year's Eve. City ordinances helped kill off this art.

Makes No Change in Quota System

Senate Passes Bill to Ease Immigration Restrictions

WASHINGTON (AP)—Legislation to ease present immigration restrictions somewhat was passed by the Senate Wednesday. It apparently is assured of House passage before Congress adjourns.

While some senators called the measure unsatisfactory and inadequate, they said they were convinced any effort to broaden it would only doom the plan in the House.

They pledged, however, to try next year to make more substantial changes in the McCarran-Walter Act, the nation's basic immigration law which was passed in 1952.

The bill contains none of the major administration recommendations made last January. It would not change the quota system or other basic immigration provisions.

Only brief debate preceded passage of the bill by a 65-4 roll call vote. The opposing votes were cast by Senators Ellender (D-La), Olin Johnston (D-SC), Russell (D-Ga) and Thurmond (D-SC).

The Senate bill, like a similar bill approved last week by the House Judiciary Committee, is designed primarily to provide relief in individual hardship cases and to make it easier to reunite families.

It also would revive 18,656 nonquota immigration visas that had gone unused when the 1953 Refugee Relief Act expired last Dec. 31.

About 14,000 of these visas would be available for refugees or escapees from Communist nations anywhere in the world or from political, racial or religious persecution in the Middle East.

The other 4,600 would be for the use of groups to which they were originally assigned by the Refugee Relief Act, mostly persons of German origin expelled from behind the Iron Curtain.

The bill also would permit an unlimited number of orphans, up to 14 years of age, to enter this country on a nonquota basis prior to June 30, 1959, if adopted by U. S. citizens.

Another section would permit foreign visitors to enter the country without being fingerprinted.

Claims Dems Slighted by Ike

Johnson made his protest in the Senate yesterday before that body confirmed Eisenhower's nomination of 10 delegates and alternates to the U. N. General Assembly.

Johnson permitted the entire slate to be approved by unanimous voice vote, however, after asking that in the future the alternate delegates be balanced politically.

Johnson conceded that previous Democratic administrations had named U. N. delegations largely from the Democratic party, but he said he was against that too.

The five delegates are U. N. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, Republican former senator from Massachusetts; Rep. Carnahan (D-Mo); Rep. Judd (R-Minn); President George Meany of the AFL-CIO; and Herman B. Wells, president of Indiana University.

James J. Wadsworth, U. S. deputy to the U. N., heads the five alternates. The others are Miss Irene Dunne, former motion picture actress; Mrs. Oswald B. Lord, New York; Genoa S. Washington, Chicago attorney; and Philip M. Klutznick, Lake Forest, Ill., attorney. Klutznick is the only Democrat in the alternate group.

Probe Israeli Clash With Jordan Patrol

AMMAN (AP)—U.N. truce observers today were investigating a border clash between Israeli and Jordanian patrols in which Jordan said three Israeli soldiers were killed.

A Jordanian military spokesman said a six-man Israeli patrol entered northwest Jordan near Azzoun yesterday and opened fire on the Jordanian patrol. Two other Israeli patrols joined the clash and refused to observe a U.N.-ordered cease-fire, the spokesman said.

The patrols withdrew at noon, he added, without inflicting casualties on Jordanian forces.

Bob Considine Says:

IGY Shows Man Folly of Nuclear Warfare

NEW YORK (INS) — The superb scope and infinite wonder of International Geophysical Year, and the stirring way in which man has responded to its challenge, is reason in itself for a ament talks now taking place in London.

If man can dream of launching a midget moon into space, and cause it to circle our earth in precisely 90 minutes, he should at long last realize he's too fine an animal to waste time and money devising ways of destroying himself.

If man can build a redoubt at the frozen bottom of the earth, and brave the endless antarctic winter, he can learn to live in more temperate zones without perpetual recourse to war as a means of settling his disputes.

If man can ascend more than 100,000 feet in a balloon, and successfully dare the sun's cosmic rays to do him, which they couldn't, he can learn to rise above a way of life in which a great percentage of his daily toil is but tribute to Mars.

If man can descend into and map the appalling world below his seas, harness raging rivers, suck oil from the heart of the earth, make bursting atomic nuclei light his lamp and drive his ship, he must know in time that he is put in the world to play a greater role than to have his body fertilize a field of battle.

If man can cope with epidemic, respond to human suffering, fight disease and ignorance and prejudice with purpose and skill, he must—as the eons pile as high as a roof—conclude he is, indeed, made in the image and likeness of God.

Surely, the Russians must feel as strongly in need of peace as we. Our atomic bases are so situated through the world that we could erase any target on the colossal map of the U.S.S.R. in a matter of hours.

We offer to let them see what we are doing. We ask that they reply in kind. Until now, they have refused, as incapable of comprehending open-handedness as the open sky.

"See here," the President said to Bulganin over a drink, following one of the sessions of the Geneva Conference in '55, "You know, of course, that the prevailing winds of the world, above the equator, move from west to east."

Bulganin puzzled for a time as the translation sifted into him, looked up in his foxy grandpa manner and said, "You mean that we in the East would get the dust from your atomic bombs and ours, in any battle over Europe."

It was before the day of talk of a "clean" bomb.

"Precisely," the President said. Bulganin gave himself time to think and then said, in effect, "Do you forget that the winds eventually circle the earth and will blow the dust of the bombs on you?"

"I know that," Ike nodded. "What I am saying is that we have it in our power to destroy each other, and all that lies in between us. But others would survive such a useless war . . . the free nations that lie below the equator, much of Africa and South America and Asia and Australia, New Zealand."

Bulganin was silent for a long time and then he said three times, in Russian, "We must do something — we must do something — we must do something."

He hasn't, or perhaps he is on the way out of power because he tried to do too much. The important thing is that we are sure the Russians are beginning to see the light and are prepared to take a first step timid, but a step — toward taking man off a rack of his own senseless design.

We should keep our fingers crossed (and our hands clasped in prayer) that this is not another mockery.

To continue to prepare for a war which could destroy the earth, in a year solemnly dedicated to a keener understanding of this sphere on which we crawl, is an affront to reason and the major contradiction of the last million years.

State Guardsmen Battle Against Dust

CAMP GRAYLING (AP) — Michigan National Guardsmen, coming out of two days and two nights of field maneuvers in the wilds of Camp Grayling, agreed that dust was the worst weapon thrown at them by the mythical enemy.

The Guardsmen lined up for shower baths. Many got rid of battle dust by bathing in nearby Lake Margrethe.

Numerous minor casualties were reported from the mock battle exercises. Most of them were scratches, cuts and sore feet.

Hay Wagon, Car Collide Killing 12-Year-Old Girl

YALE (AP) — A 12-year-old girl who had been riding on the front fender of a car was killed yesterday when the car collided with a hay wagon.

Judith Ann Brozowski, 12, of Avoca, in St. Clair County, was perched on one fender and her brother Richard, 10, was sitting on the other of a car driven by Jack A. Burgess of Avoca.

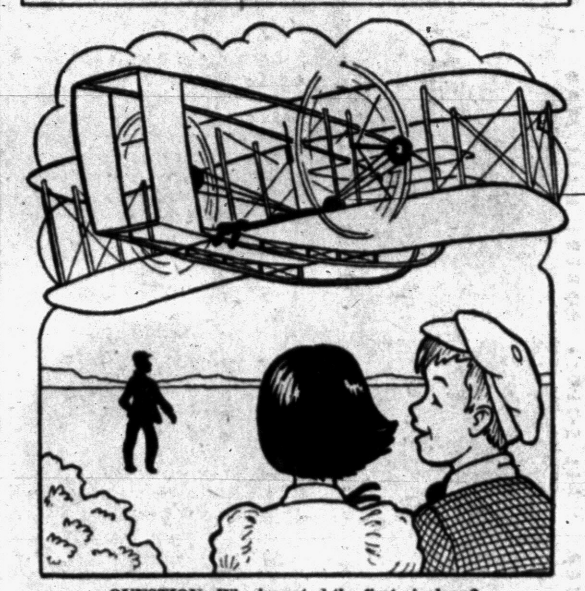

Burgess told deputies he did not see the hay wagon which was parked on the side of the road.

Too Much Liquor

INDIANAPOLIS (INS) — A survey of forty thousand Hoosiers who have daily direct contact with young people blames too much liquor and narcotics and not enough religion and discipline as chief contributors to juvenile delinquency.

Junior Editors Quiz on AIRPLANES

QUESTION: Who invented the first airplane?

ANSWER: Most people think that the Wright brothers, Orville and Wilber, invented the first airplane. However, the first plane to fly under its own power was launched by John Stringfellow, an Englishman, in 1848.

In 1842, Stringfellow and another Englishman, William Benson, built what is considered the first steam-driven airplane. But this craft never got off the ground. Stringfellow continued to experiment with similar models and in 1848 succeeded in completing a model which attained a height of 120 feet under its own power. However, none of Stringfellow's later models could be made to fly.

Stringfellow's experiments helped answer many questions about flight and several persons tried to invent a machine which would carry a passenger. However, it was left to the Wright brothers to accomplish this feat. On Dec. 17, 1903, after years of unsuccessful attempts, Orville finally made a short flight of 120 feet at Kitty Hawk, N. C.

Baruch Holds Optimistic Outlook for Future

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
INS Staff Writer

Bernard M. Baruch—now 87 and wise to the ways of the world—holds an optimistic philosophy on life today.

In his opinion the dominant yearning of our time is to be freed of the threat of a breakdown of our whole civilization.

He thinks this yearning—this goal of millions upon millions of free peoples—can be attained. If it is attained, it could mean peace, tranquility and good times all over the world.

The silver-haired Baruch who, over the years, was adviser to seven Presidents of the United States, gave his philosophy and viewpoint on the world situation in a series of lectures he delivered at his own beloved alma mater, the City College of New York.

Baruch in his time has made countless speeches, granted many interviews, testified at Congressional hearings and has been quoted on all kinds of topics ranging from the cost of living to the atomic bomb.

THINKING OF A LIFETIME

But in his lectures at City College (in 1954) he gave the essence of his thinking based on a lifetime of experience.

"I would have preferred to talk in less troubling times and not when there is so much concern over the threat of war and of a possible economic downturn," said Baruch.

"Nowadays it seems to be taken for granted that it is the government's duty to prevent another depression. This represents quite a change from the old attitude that depressions are unavoidable calamities which had to be left to run their tragic course.

"That old 'nothing can be done' philosophy never did appeal to me. I have never believed that man had to lie down humbly before anything, whether flood, fire, famine, disease, drought, earthquake—or the effects of man's own stupidities, including that most incredible folly of all—war.

"Still I do not believe that one can ignore economic or natural laws without paying for it.

"Every excess has its aftermath—its hangover. Each abuse must be paid for in some readjustment. Often, in fact, we push ourselves to a breakdown, which requires a bitterly prolonged curative period, when that breakdown could have been avoided so easily.

"Just think how inexpensive it would have been to have prevented Hitler from breaking loose, compared to what has happened since. . . ."

Baruch went on to say that there are grave doubts whether civilization, as we know it, could survive another cyclic breakdown.

"I, for one, do not see us doomed to remain prisoners of this cycle of breakdown and buildup," he said.

"Utopia? That lies beyond us. . . .

"However, I do believe that if we employ the intelligence and experience which is ours, we can transform the more erratic soarings and collapse in human affairs into gentler rises and dips.

FILL AND LEVEL

"The valleys of economic depression can be filled up and the peaks of speculative inflation leveled. The dangers of aggression can be minimized while we strengthen that part of the world which is still free and even carry the challenge of peaceful achievement beyond the slave curtain.

"Progress without relapse can be ours."

Baruch pointed out that we in America have sought our goal of equality for all, not by pulling everyone down to the same level but by giving everyone an opportunity to rise.

The profit motive, he said, was born of idealism and nourished by freedom. He added:

"Only if men's labors show a profit can society and each individual member have the means for material progress. To produce at a loss means less to share.

"Put me down as old-fashioned, if you will, but I still believe that a profitable enterprise contributes more to civic virtue than an unprofitable one."

Baruch, who as U.S. delegrate to the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission, presented the now famous "Baruch Plan" for control of nuclear weapons, had this to say about atomic energy:

"To free atomic energy for its fullest constructive potentialities, one must put a controlling chain on its possible diversion to destructive purposes. . . .

"Some persons would disregard the nature of atomic energy in the hopes of getting so-called agreement with the Soviets. But no agreement which ignores the nature of nuclear energy can prove anything but a catastrophic delusion.

"If the needed controls are unacceptable to any nation, that does not mean we should accept less than what is needed.

"IF THERE IS TO BE PEACE..."

"Either we can bring nuclear energy under control or we cannot. If we cannot, why deceive ourselves by agreements which have no meaning?

"If there is to be peace, we and the Soviets must indeed come to some disarmament agreement."

Less Tobacco Used

NEW YORK—American smokers consumed just about as many cigarettes in 1956 as they did three years before, but the cigarettes took 6.5 per cent less tobacco. The industry estimates that filter tips displace some tobacco. In 1956 twenty-eight per cent of the cigarettes had filters.

A group of junior "bookworms" will gather tomorrow to receive their awards for participating in the Dinosaur Reading Club sponsored this summer by the Pontiac City Library.

Diplomas will be presented to 120 children who absorbed plenty of knowledge during the summer months by reading 12 or more books.

Champs of the club are Janis Quarles, 292 S. East Blvd., and Rosemary Serra, 290 S. East Blvd., each of whom read 150 books. Second, with 98 books, is Sandy Canpanaro of 294 S. East Blvd.

Third among the top book readers was Tommy Quarles of 292 S. East Blvd., with 90 books. There was a tie for fourth with 59 books each for Stephanie Bennett of 212 E. Rundell St. and Dawn Hemming of 50 Clarence St.

Dinosaur Reading Club pins will go to those children who read at least three books. All the children, Miss Pope said, must report on their books to receive credit.

The party for the club members will be held Friday at the Adah Shelly Branch Library, 251 E. Rundell St., between 2 and 4. Miss Laura Cobb will read some favorite stories to the children who will be served with plenty of ginger ale, ginger cookies, and jelly beans.

Money Mounts in Pot-O-Gold to $2,200

Another $100 added to the pot puts the Pot-O-Gold prize money at the $2,200 mark. Unless you don't mind someone getting in ahead of you to collect the loot, better get started right now on the new puzzle below.

The new puzzle contains a series o squares which are alphabetically lettered and a corresponding list of sentences with two clue words. Each of the words is numbered. The object is to select the word which you think best fits the clue sentence. You then place the number of that word in the square which has the same letter as the clue sentence.

In other words, you will read the clue labeled A and decide which of the two words makes the most sense in the sentence. You then write the number of that word in the puzzle square marked A.

Do the same with all other squares. Read all the clues carefully and be sure the right numbers are in the right squares.

Answers will be delivered to the Press Judges by Mr. Ziem after the final deadline.

9. There is only one correct solution to the POT-O-GOLD puzzle, and only that correct answer can win. The decision of the judges is final and all contestants agree to abide by the judges' decision. All entries becoming the property of The Pontiac Press and none can be returned.

10. Completed puzzles must be addressed to POT-O-GOLD, POST OFFICE BOX 58, Pontiac, Michigan. Winners will be notified either by telephone or in the mails.

"Yes, I think you should take this hat to New York for the Press trip," says Mrs. Clark Easley of Williams Lake (center) to Mrs. Edgar Collick of Clarkston. Mrs. Arthur Meyer of Williams Lake (left) hasn't quite decided if this is the thing to take. If you are undecided what to include in your wardrobe read our story today.

Tips to Keep You Looking Sharp on Pontiac-to-Broadway Tour

By JUDITH L. CLEMENCE

Women's Editor, Pontiac Press

We hear you're heading for that wonderful theater tour of New York City, where you'll dine in such places as the famous Leone's restaurant and see the top Broadway play, "My Fair Lady."

Our informants also tell us that on the opening night you'll have a get-acquainted buffet supper in the Diamond Horseshoe at the Paramount Hotel.

Are you in doubt about what to pack in your suitcase? If you are, maybe we can give you a few hints. First of all, don't over-pack. You're flying, and that calls for a weight limit.

HOT WEATHER AHEAD

There'll be lots of hot weather in New York in September, so for the women we'd suggest transition cotton dresses and medium - weight suits. Remember, basic dresses and suits can be dressed up or down, so they're best. The little black dress (this year brown is favored in New York) is always a good bet.

Pontiac Press Photo

Pondering over her wardrobe for the Pontiac Press New York trip, Sally Godoshian of North Anderson street can't quite decide which dresses to pack. We hope our story today will help her choose the proper wardrobe to take.

With it take costume jewelry for town wear. Dress that same dress (whether silk, cotton or wool) up with simple pearl necklace, bracelet and earrings. (Usually two items such as bracelet and earrings are a better combination).

For a completed costume look you'll want a hat. If your luggage doesn't exceed the limit, you may carry any size in a hat box. (But if you wear it to the theater, please remember those behind you — they won't want to crane to the left and right of you.)

A cocktail - length dress, minus hat, will be fine for the opening buffet. But, your suit will do just as well. You'll want dress shoes for this occasion, and for the theater, but don't forget comfortable shoes for those walking and sight-seeing tours you'll be taking.

Don't forget your gloves! Short wrist-length are best for daytime, but you might like elbow-length for evening wear. These are used with push-up sleeve coats, suits, and evening dresses.

If you have a theater coat or a stole, you'll find them useful at dinner and the theater. But, by all means, don't think you have to wear one. Your fall coat will do.

Take blouses that can be washed and drip dried (like dacron) unless you plan to have them laundered for you. A light-weight lounging robe and slippers after a day's whirl will suit you fine.

CASUAL CLOTHES

John Riley, assistant advertising manager and George Trumbull of the editorial staff will be accompanying you. They tell us they're going to take casual clothes, such as slacks and sport jackets, and two business suits. Formal attire will not be needed.

Our best to you. We hope you feel elegant as you travel along Broadway, and that you'll be looking forward to a trip next year.

1695 House Offers Food for Thought

Smithsonian Exhibit Shows Colonial Life Was No Cinch

By ANNETTE DAVIS

(For Jane Eads)

WASHINGTON — If you've ever thought of housekeeping as an endless chore, you should visit the recently opened exhibit depicting everyday life in early America at the Smithsonian Institution.

In the four-room clapboard house which was erected in the Natural History Museum you can get a good idea of what the housewife did in colonial days.

The house, built in 1695, was given to the Smithsonian by Dr. and Mrs. Arthur M. Greenwood who rescued it from destruction in 1927 in Everett, Mass. Until recently it served as a library on the Greenwood property in Marlboro, Mass.

Now it is furnished just as it would have been in the days when the colonists occupied it.

ONE REMINDER

There's a cauldron hanging in the fireplace as a reminder that quick meals are today's innovation. Soups, stews and chowders, the main fare of the day, simmered for hours.

Usually the meats had already been smoked or salted and pickled in order to preserve them. For seasoning, the housewife added herbs which she had steeped in pottery jars.

There were no bakeries in the rural districts so baking was another necessity. The Colonial housewife baked in a brick oven built into the fireplace, without the help of a thermostat. She also cultivated her own yeast.

HOARDED SUGAR

One of her most important jobs was doling out the family ration of sugar. Sugar was a great luxury and was purchased in the store in loaves. One 10 pound loaf was supposed to last a family a year. The housewife carefully cut the loaves into lumps for table use with a large iron sugar breaker.

But one task may have been simpler than it is today. There was no elaborate table setting. China was scarce so food was served in large wooden platters or in shallow pans. Forks, too, were rare and most of the food was eaten with spoons.

If anything had to be cut at the table, the husband pulled out his pocketknife.

"Now let me see. What shall I take on the Pontiac Press trip to New York?" Mrs. Lorenz Vasbinder of Spokane drive asks. Judging from the look on her husband's face, he is a not too willing model for Mrs. Vasbinder's wardrobe.

Newlyweds Will Reside on Coast

Immanuel Baptist Church of Los Angeles was the setting for the wedding of Celia C. Frick and Donald C. Bushfield.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Frick of Los Angeles, and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Bushfield of Ruth street are the bridegroom's parents.

For her Aug. 17 wedding the bride chose a scoop-neck gown of white appliqued chiffon with nylon net and a fingertip veil held in place by a pearl diadem. She carried a white orchid-centered bouquet of lily-of-the-valley.

Margaret Deister, as maid of honor, wore a street-length dress of pale pink taffeta trimmed in velvet and carried a bouquet of dark pink roses. Bridesmaids, Judi Frick and Joyce Frick, sisters of the bride, were gowned like the honor attendant in gowns of blue taffeta. Kathy Huckelberry was the flower maid.

Charles E. Cluff was the best man while Robert Hall, Stanley Chapin, John Dirks and Charles Jenkins seated the guests.

The young couple will live in Covina, Calif., where they are both students in California Baptist Theological Seminary.

Joy Depends on How You Think, Not What You Have

Mind Matters More Than Matter

By ANNE HEYWOOD

A philosopher I knew used to say about mind and matter: "What is matter? Never mind. What is mind? No matter."

But when I was 11, I had an experience which convinced me that mind controls matter.

We had had a delightful casserole dinner that day. When I asked what it was, I was told "stewed rabbit."

OUCH!

Now I happened to be very fond of bunnies, and of the Peter Rabbit books, so I became violently ill on the spot.

That was learning it the hard way. But all through the years, I have seen the effect of our minds on our bodies and our affairs.

If, for example, on the way to a job interview you give an old lady a seat in the bus, you feel so good and so glowing that it changes your whole approach to the interview. Chances are you get the job!

Or suppose it's the end of a long, hard day, the boss has been mean, and you have come home exhausted. Then your favorite man calls to ask for a dinner date — and you're fresh as a daisy, just like that!

Again, suppose you're doing a good job — you think — when the boss tells you that aren't satisfied and that you're on a trial to see if you improve. Chances are, you'll get so jittery you can't even spell.

On the other hand, if you're plodding along, doing the best you can, and the boss gives you an unexpected raise and a few well-chosen words about how pleased they are with you, you'll work twice as hard!

Think of this the next time you find yourself scoffing at "that inspirational stuff," assuring yourself that life is grim and earnest and that the way you feel about it has nothing to do with the case.

FEELING IS KEY

The way you feel about it has more to do with your life, happiness and success than any other single thing.

If you'd like to get a new slant to your general outlook on life, send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope, and I'll send you a list of good philosophical books.

Foot Note:

Smart secretaries keep an aerosol can of cooling spray in the desk drawer, to soothe hot feet on summer days. Spray goes right through nylons, dries in a jiffy. Also handy for footsore shoppers, housewives and tourists.

Keep Masonry Dry

Water - resistant coatings are being made for masonry. They repel moisture but keep the masonry's original appearance. They may be pale varnishes, solutions of waxes or silicone compositions, and can be used on either stone or brick surfaces.

It Removes Paint

Most paints and enamels can be applied over other paints and enamels, and also over shellac and lacquer. But beware of using lacquer over paint, enamel or varnish. The lacquer will act as a paint remover and lift the first coat.

Odd Name—but Good Cookies!

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

It's another cookie recipe today. But you're probably looking ahead to school and those thousands of lunches you'll have to pack or serve at home. Cookies are always welcome.

Rose Marie Cudnohufsky's recipe is for a rich molded cookie. With it she won a blue ribbon at the 4H Fair. A fifteen-year-old member of the East Orion group, Rose Marie likes to cook. She is also a pianist.

SNICKERDOODLES
By Rose Marie Cudnohufsky

Mix:
1 cup soft shortening
1½ cups sugar
2 eggs
Sift and stir in:
2¾ cups sifted flour
2 teaspoons cream of tartar
1 teaspoon soda
½ teaspoon salt

Chill at least an hour. Roll into balls the size of small walnuts. Roll each ball in a mixture of cinnamon and sugar (2 tablespoons sugar and 2 teaspoons cinnamon should do all the cookies).

Place two inches apart on a greased cookie sheet. Bake at 400 degrees for 8-10 minutes. Remove from the oven while still soft. Makes about 5 dozen cookies.

Inconsistent Kindness May Confuse Child

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Sam's mother was in the yard talking to a neighbor when he came pumping up the drive on his bike. Instead of braking at the patch of lawn his father had sowed the day before, he rode right over it.

His mother blew up. She said that for a 9-year-old boy he didn't show the sense of a 3-year-old.

She said, "I don't make coconut cakes for babies—so just don't expect any for lunch."

Later she regretted humiliating him before the neighbor. So she placed a piece of cake at his place at the table. When he ignored it, she said, "Aren't you going to eat your cake?"

Glaring at her, he shouted, "No, I'm not!" Grabbing the remainder of his sandwich, he went outside to finish eating it.

She thought, "Oh, I wish I understood him! Why is he always so stubborn when I try to be nice to him?"

APPEARED INCONSISTENT

But Sam didn't know she was trying to be nice to him. She'd told him nothing of her regret at calling him a "baby" before the neighbor. So the action that had been motivated by her reasonable and kindly feeling appeared inconsistent, arbitrary and mean to him. Quite understandably, he rejected it.

Children misjudge our intentions as often as we misjudge theirs. If we don't put their misjudgments right, we can soon lose touch, not just with them but with ourselves as well. That's bad.

Then, like Sam's mother, we begin to share the child's distrust of what we've done. We resent him for his failure to appreciate us. Uncertainty begins to infuse all our dealings with him.

The child-centered "experts" have thrown us off the track by telling us it's important to know why Sam rejected the cake. It isn't important at all. What's important is knowing why we offered it to him.

He tells us why he turned it down in response to learning that he got it, not out of thoughtless inconsistency, but out of our genuine regret for embarrassing him.

He takes responsibility for what he felt after we have taken it for what we felt.

Best Way to Clean White Linen Shoes

Summer jobs around the home often extend to cleaning shoes. White linen shoes take a step-by-step process for best results. Scrub off mud and surface dirt first.

Then rinse with a cloth wrung in clean warm water. Follow this with a whitening polish meant for fabric shoes. After shoes dry away from heat, brush off excess white powder.

Make Chicken Soup

Buy thrifty chicken back and necks — if there is a shop that sells chicken parts near you — and use to make good strong stock for chilled summer soups. Clarify the stock before combining.

Widow Wants Friendship, Not Friend's Husband

By RUTH MILLETT

A widow says she wishes she could convince her women friends of that.

She writes: "Why will a friend or acquaintance suddenly develop a fear of a widow? One can know a friend for years and suddenly there is a coolness.

"Surely, if one has known a woman for years as a person of character and integrity that woman isn't going to turn into a siren just because she has lost her husband and is a woman alone.

"A widow's loneliness is greater than she can express, and if she ever needs the loyalty and trust and affection of her friends it is when she is trying to build a new life for herself.

"If a woman never showed other than a friendly interest in her friend's husband, her attitude isn't going to change just because she is a widow.

"The type of woman who will make a play for a friend's husband would have done so during her own husband's lifetime. Furthermore, the few husbands (and they are in the minority) who think a widow is fair game are the type no wife can trust alone with any woman.

WOULD KEEP FRIENDSHIP

"No widow with common sense wants to infringe on her friends' privacy with their husbands. All the widow wants is to keep her old friends, occasionally to be invited to their homes, included in some of their parties — not to be dropped completely from their lives.

"According to statistics, today's wife has a good chance of being tomorrow's widow. Because so many women do outlive their husbands, I, as a woman already widowed, feel it is important to all women that women develop a greater sympathy and understanding of a widow's unfortunate position in life.

"But above all, I wish widows could convince wives that we don't want their husbands — just their own loyal and continuing friendship."

Try Head, Shoulder Routine

Exercise to Relieve Tense Nerves

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN
(The Friday Question Box)

Q. "Whenever I get tense I have a tight feeling at the back of my neck and shoulders. I understand this is from nervous tension. Is there any exercise which will help relax these muscles?"

A. Yes, there are many good ones. Most people feel tension in these spots. Do the following: Make large circles with your shoulders, letting the arms hang limply at the sides. Circle back for a while and then forward.

Next make circles with the head. Relax and roll the head first in one direction and then in the other. Make the circles complete.

To relieve tension make circles with the head. Relax and roll the head first one direction and then in the other.

Another: Drop the head forward so that the chin touches the chest. Slowly raise the head and lower it backward as far as you can. Continue raising and lowering head.

Q. "Is it possible for a woman who has just reached adult age to grow two or three inches taller?"

A. I do not know how you are classifying "adult age." People do grow taller sometimes at a much later age than one would think. Usually full growth is reached by the age of 25.

Q. "Could you tell me in your column what to do? I have a problem which usually is taken as a joke but I think is quite serious. I think it is very noticeable and my sister agrees. The calf of my right leg is an inch larger than the calf of my left leg."

A. Very few people have calves which are exactly the same size. Also the spot at which you measure the leg can make a difference. You should measure it exactly the same place on each leg.

I do not think this is a serious problem or nearly so noticeable as you believe. However, do the following exercise, using the smaller, or left leg! Place your hand on the wall for support and rise high on the toe of your left foot. Slowly lower feft heel to the floor. Continue. Let your right leg hang.

Q. "I am 15 years old, 5 feet 6½ inches tall and weigh 131 pounds. My bust measures 38, waist 25 and hips 35 inches. Am I overweight or is my figure out of proportion?"

A. No, you have a most attrative figure. You are not overweight but you should not weigh any more.

If any of you would like to have my leaflet "Your Stiff Neck," which deals with the problem discussed today send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 18 to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Hose Colors Complement Fur Trims

Many rich browns appear on the fall horizon in ready-to-wear—from taupe and coppery shades through earthy tobacco and blackened browns. New stockings run the gamut from pure gold, through reddish and deep fur browns.

In fact, playing up the rich elegance of the brown family, as well as bowing to the overwhelming influence of fur used on everything—some of the new nylons are even called by descriptive fur names. For instance, there's golden sable, honey sable, red fox, nutria, mink, black mink—and iridescent leopard.

The brownish nylons, in addition to giving a beautiful cossembles in the brown family, also complement the many fur-trimmed outfits being shown for fall.

Furs of all kinds are used with a lavish hand—as trim on both daytime and evening dresses, suits, coats—as linings — and as hats, belts, blouses and coiffeur trims. There are real fur shoes and leather shoes dramatically lined with fake fur. There are even entire suits and costumes made of fur.

Playing right along with the fur theme — some of the brown stockings have a silvery or frosted appearance which gives them the same subtle shadings as found in the glisten of expensive furs.

Mold does not make a jam or jelly unsafe to eat. If the mold is slight, the molded portion can be removed and the rest of the product will be all right for use, provided the flavor is not affected.

Uninvited 'Stranger' Must Be Removed

Vacations bring strange, new encounters.

Somewhere one of the family may pick up a tick. And someone has to remove it.

The American Medical Association says to remove the tick immediately and as gently as possible. If fingers are used, the tick should be handled with a small piece of paper.

Then gently use a disinfectant or soap and water on the area.

Tip for Canners

The open-kettle method is not recommended for canning fruits and vegetables. As the food is transferred from the kettle to the jar, bacteria may enter and cause the food to spoil. For vegetables, the temperature obtained in open-kettle canning its not high enough to kill all the spoilage organisms that may be in the food unless it is cooked for an excessively long time.

Mix up some pancake batter — without sugar, please. Add some minced drained clams (home steamed or canned). Bake as usual.

Motor Trip Is In-Law Mixup

Man Against Wife, Sister's Mate Going Even With Children

By EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: My sister's husband and 14-year-old son are planning on taking a motor trip to Canada for a week. I thought I would like to go along with my 13-year-old daughter. But my sister cannot go and neither can my husband.

"I would very much like to make the trip with them as I feel I need a change. My sister is urging me to go. However, when I mentioned this to my husband he was shocked that I would even think of such a thing and refuses to let me go on the grounds that it would be highly improper. "I am very much surprised at his attitude and think he is being very narrow minded. Will you please give me your opinion?"

Answer: I do not think anyone will criticize you for going on the trip you describe, but if your husband feels strongly about this you should not go.

"Dear Mrs. Post: When serving cocktails at home before a dinner party, should I serve appetizers? Some of our friends provide quite an asortment of them, but I think when dinner follows immediately, there is little excuse for filling up on snacks beforehand. What is usually done in fashionable houses??"

Answer: In best appointed houses, one cocktail apiece and nothing edible is served immediately before the announcement of dinner. The intention is to sharpen the appetite for the foods and wines at dinner, not to dull it.

"Dear Mrs. Post: When a widow starts going out with other men, don't you think she should remove her wedding ring? It seems to me that this could be very embarrassing to a man whose friends might get the impression that he is going out with a married woman."

Answer: She does not need to take her wedding ring off until she is engaged to another man. If this bothers him, she could wear it on her right hand to show that she is no longer married.

Cedar-lined clothes closets require no paint or varnish to preserve them. An occasional wiping with a damp cloth keeps them attractive.

Pot-O-Gold Answers Appear Here

The following are correct answers and explanations for the Pot-O-Gold puzzle which appeared in last week's Pontiac Press.

A. (2) DEPENDING. A family with a large seashore house is likely to have relatives DEPENDING on them for vacations; the relatives can rely on a vacation spot at little expense. Descending implies that they would come suddenly, without warning, which is improbable; the house may already be filled with visitors.

B. (3) CARTON. The murderer is unlikely to have sat down "at the scene of the crime" to write a letter, carelessly leaving a Carbon, but he might have brought something along in a CARTON which he left behind, and which might be traced to its source, and then to him.

C. (5) CHORE. A CHORE, or task, might be irksome because it is difficult, or merely because it is a Bore. An irksome CHORE includes both possibilities.

D. (7) TENSION. "May force a drastic change" suggests TENSION: the doctor has insisted that the man slow up in his activities. A Pension surely will force (rather than "may force") a change in his mode of living. Even if his income is not seriously reduced, his life is different in that he no longer goes to business.

E. (10) DELUGED. Backward peoples are overwhelmed, or flooded, with anti-American propaganda, usually by the Communists. Whether they are Deluded — deceived — by it is less certain.

F. (12) GUSHING. A girl who is always GUSHING at parties is too effusive, in an affected way. Because she is unsure of being liked, she tries too hard to please everyone. Blushing often has a purely physical cause; or a girl may Blush easily because she is prim, rather than self-conscious.

G. (13) CONCERNS. A failing business firm would want to examine everything that has a bearing on its resources; it might be that a bold expenditure would be more helpful than a retrenchment that only Conserves, or saves its assets.

H. (15) MILLSTONE. A burden or handicap offers a challenge to an ambitious man and spurs him on to his best efforts, in order to overcome it. Milestone is a particularly eventful point in his career; it could even by the goal he set out for. Having achieved it, a man might prefer to relax.

I. (18) RAIDING. In RAIDING a house, there is the possibility of shooting, and police would wish to clear the vicinity of bystanders. Razing a house usually requires scaffolding; any material which falls during the course of pulling down the house will not fall below it, and pedestrians are perfectly safe.

J. (19) DEPORTMENT. It would not be sufficient if the sales manager's Department was well run, if he were not well liked. His general bearing and behavior — his DEPORTMENT — would be an important factor in his getting a vice-presidency.

K. (21) GULLY. On a hot, humid day, narrow ravine between hills would get no breeze and would be very uncomfortable. A Galley, the kitchen on a boat, might be swept by ocean breezes, and except when food was being cooked, by quite cool.

L. (24) EVALUATING. A "first step" in arranging emigration from refugee centers would be EVALUATING — determining the value of — men of technical skills; in many countries, they are the most wanted as immigrants. This first step helps in Evacuating, (getting them out) of the camps and finding countries ready to receive them.

M. (25) QUAVERING. A QUAVERING voice is weak and timid and would not be heard very well in a courtroom. A Wavering voice is hesitant; the witness might be uncertain of what he wanted to say, but the words could very well be loud enough so that the judge would not need to ask the witness to speak louder.

N. (28) RUPTURE. It's the break-up of her marriage that a divorcee often looks back on with regret. The Rapture has clearly long since gone, but in her loneliness, the divorcee feels that the parting was a mistake.

O. (30) WEARY. For many people, a hot night means a sleepless one, and office workers who haven't slept would come in looking WEARY. It would be not only their Bleary eyes — dim and lacklustre — but a tired look all over.

P. (32) CONFINES. The political hopeful wouldn't be too upset when the local committee Consigns, or assigns, him to his own war during a campaign; but if it CONFINES, or limits, his activities to such minor activities, it does little to further his own career politically.

Q. BUBBLING. A sudden bit of luck puts some people in a ferment of excitement; "sudden" luck implies unexpected, and is likely to get a high-spirited response. Babbling is idle chatter; this doesn't convey the sense of excitement that a "sudden bit of luck" would bring.

R. (35) PRESCRIPTION. A doctor doesn't rely on a Description of odd symptoms; he takes various tests as well, to determine what is wrong. The ailing patient, magnifying his odd symptoms, would worry that the doctor couldn't find a PRESCRIPTION to cure him.

S. (37) RELIEF. Many Americans have seen at first hand, or read about, the low standards of living in orintal countries, so they are not beyond Belief. But the teeming millions, the high birth rate, plus various superstitions that impede progress, sometimes make building a higher standard seem a hopeless task, beyond RELIEF.

T. (40) IMPOSSIBLE. An Impassable obstacle is one that cannot be overcome. The IMPOSSIBLE is something that cannot be done, but the man determined to succeed usually has an instinctive motto that nothing is IMPOSSIBLE.

FANCY BRIDGE WORK—Without good roads at both ends, the new Mackinac bridge wouldn't be worth much. Shown above is an aerial view of $1,429,000 in approach work on the south side of the bridge on U. S. 23, U. S. 27, and U. S. 31. Below is $2,500,000 work on improvements on the north end of the span, a four lane divided highway connecting with U. S. 2, at the bottom of the picture.

He Takes Work Out of Paperwork

By PETE LOCHBILER

Paperwork pleases Gerald A. Terrien about as much as it does anyone else.

Which would be hardly at all, except that Terrien has added zest to his desk job by trying to take some of the "work" out of paperwork.

The coordinator of Oakland County's justice courts has come up with such a good system that the state recently ordered its adoption by justice courts all over Michigan.

Now Terrien has added another wrinkle to his pet project, a "mistake proof" receipt for his multi-purpose form — an innovation that he expects the state will also make official someday.

Terrien was concerned with the numerous reports required of each justice of the peace. It may be surprising to learn that even a speeding ticket is of much concern to many people.

Every time there is a conviction, the justice must report it to the county clerk, county prosecutor, county board of auditors and the secretary of state.

In addition, he sends another report to the county's growing central files and keeps a final one for his own docket.

That's a lot of reports. County justices who once upon a time had to make out each report separately — on up to 10 or 20 convictions a day — found the paperwork staggering.

So it was with considerable zeal that Terrien went to work simplifying the whole thing.

By rearranging the items each report must list (there can easily be three or four dozen separate entries involved in every case) and binding the reports together in a carbon copy booklet, Terrien simplified justice court paperwork into an easy, quick system.

The justice completely fills out the top report, which is his copy. By means of the carbon paper, each item of information is passed on to the additional copies or else blacked out on all or some of them, depending on which items are to be included and which are not.

In filling out his own report, the justice has automatically filled out all the others, saving time and energy.

This system was adopted in Oakland County two years ago. This spring the State Legislature, impressed with the system's efficiency, decided it should be adopted on a state-wide basis, effective Sept. 27.

At about that time, Oakland County will be employing another device in its justice court records. This one has been designed by Terrien as an aid not only to the justice and the county, but also to the law or traffic violator who is paying a justice court fine.

At the bottom of the booklet's top sheet will be the receipt for the violator's fine and costs.

"Anyone paying a justice court fine in Oakland County after next month," Terrien said, "should be sure that he gets this kind of receipt — sees it being torn off along the perforated line."

This caution is for the fine-payer's own protection, said Terrien. Identical control numbers listed on all the reports and on the receipt itself are designed to prevent such ills as overcharging, failure to report fines collected to the county, or untrue charges that the fine never was paid.

Pontiac Press Photo

PLANNING TO PAY A FINE? — If so, take a good look at the slip of paper county justice court co-ordinator Gerald A. Terrien is demonstrating at the bottom of the picture. It will be your official receipt, and it's important to note the receipt is being detached from the permanent court records of your case. When you get this receipt, you can rest assured, Terrien says, that your fine will always be properly turned in to the county and there'll always be a carbon copy record that you paid it.

Tree Disease Kills 123 Elms

City Forester Fears More Will Be Lost Before Summer Ends

The destructive Dutch Elm disease has clamed 123 Elms in Pontiac so far this summer, Donald E. Nagel, city forester, reports. He expresses fear that more will be lost before summer is over.

Nagel said, "I think our work indicates we are reaching a control point on city Elms," but added there has been an increase in the disease on privately-owned Elms.

He once again urged citizens to have all Elms sprayed by commercial tree spraying firms.

"Although we cannot spray or cut out diseased private trees," Nagel explained, "we will take twig samples and send them in free for analysis to determine whether the disease exists."

There have been 52 city and 71 private Elms killed this summer. Last summer 184 trees were destroyed by the beetle-spread disease in Pontiac.

Highway Police Impound Municipal Judge's Car

RENO (AP)—The Nevada highway patrol, cracking down on motorists with expired license plates, towed away from its downtown parking space a vehicle operated by Municipal Judge Harry D. Anderson.

Anderson explained he rents the car by the year, and had just forgotten to pick up a new plate from the agency.

TV Religion Follow Soap Commercials?

NEW YORK (AP) — Religion on television, says the Rev. Everett C. Parker, can learn a lesson from the soap salesman.

The vast viewing audience, he explains, tunes in both types of program in the same frame of mind.

"The housewife doesn't become a repeat buyer of some product just by being told a high-pressure story over and over," says the cleric, who has been a specialist in the field of broadcast religion for 25 years.

"She is smart enough to judge for herself, and make up her own mind.

In religious programing, the Rev. Mr. Parker makes two main points:

CONTENT BASIC

"No matter how much surface success a program may seem to have, from the standpoint of truly reaching the audience, it is a failure if it is sectarian in purpose. Its religious content must be basic and universal.

"The other important point is to present religion as a way of life, and not try to kid people by answering little specific problems of everyday life."

The Rev. Mr. Parker, director of communication of the General Council of the Congregational Christian Churches and Yale Divinity School lecturer, is currently on TV as originator, coproducer, writer and actor in Off to Adventure, a religious series aimed primarily at children.

PARENTS LISTEN

The program is sponsored by the National Council of Churches of Christ in the U. S. A., and the current 13-film cycle is appearing weekly on 78 television stations, eventually will be on 200.

"If you say something clearly and worthwhile to children, the parents will listen too," says the Rev. Mr. Parker, who criticizes the general run of juvenile programs on "insulting their intelligence."

The Off to Adventure fall-winter series takes its viewers on a social-cultural tour of Japan. An earlier series explored the life of American Indians, and subsequent projects will visit other sections of the globe.

"There is a religious message in every program," says the minister, "but we don't specifically teach the Bible.

"For example we show that in the non-Christian family the father is the boss, but in the Christian family every member has a share of responsibility and respect."

Stewart Fails Rank of Brigadier General

WASHINGTON (INS) — The Senate Armed Services Committee has pigeonholed the promotion of movie actor James M. Stewart to brigadier general in the Air Force Reserve.

The action was taken by an 11 to 2 vote after the committee had debated the matter behind closed doors for more than two hours yesterday.

In explaining the action, committee chairman Richard B. Russell (D-Ga), said Stewart had only two weeks of active duty from the time of his retirement from the Air Force in 1945 until his promotion came to the Senate last February.

Russell said the action was taken "without prejudice" and with the knowledge that the question of Stewart's advancement in rank will come before the promotion board again next year, probably in January.

The evangelist told 17,000 persons at Madison Square Garden last night that the church must take a more militant stand against juvenile delinquency and slums and for adequate housing for lower income groups.

Graham said gambling was one vital local problem that should be the concern of the church here. "We have a growing gambling problem here and the church must not only face it, but must do something about it," he said.

The evangelist said Broadway theater people and others in the entertainment business made "decisions for Christ" since May 15, when the crusade began.

Saginaw Boy's Cave Collapses, Suffocates Him

SAGINAW (AP)—A 13-year-old boy died in the cave he was digging here yesterday when it collapsed on him. He was Howard Foreman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Foreman of Saginaw.

The sheriff's office said young Foreman had dug about four feet into the side of a sand hill near his home when it caved in on him.

Gordon Bovine, 13, who was outside the cave taking sand from Foreman, tried to dig him out while another youth, John Wilson, 11, went for help.

Archie McClure, who lives on a neighboring farm, answered Wilson's call for help and dug the boy out but he was dead.

Coroner William Shay attributed death to suffocation.

He Can Now Take Her Chocolate Covered Ants

NEW YORK (INS) — The company that introduced French fried grasshoppers and roasted bumble bees to the United States, as delicacies, announced a new product today: chocolate covered ants.

For fussy persons who must know where the ants they eat come from, the company disclosed they are imported from South America. The country, though, is a trade secret.

Earn-at-Home Swindles Gouge Millions in Nation

WASHINGTON (AP) — It sounds so easy. Earn anywhere from $50 a week to $20,000 a year as your own boss. No selling, no risk. Just work a few hours a week and rake in the profits . . .

That's the come-on in a new multi - million - dollar wave of swindles, keyed to the theme of making extra income at home.

LOOK FOR HOOK

Whether it's a scheme for raising mushrooms in the cellar or investing in automatic vending machines that peddle everything from lipsticks to hot meat pies, federal authorities warn:

"Look for the hook before you swallow the bait."

The National Better Business Bureau says doubtful earn-at-home ventures are gouging the U.S. public to the extent of 500 million dollars a year. Chairman John W. Gwynne of the Federal Trade Commission (FTC) callsit "particularly vicious" because the victims are usually in desperate need of a few dollars to pad out skimpy incomes.

SAVINGS LOST

Many risk—and lose—their lifetime savings in the hope of finding security.

The catalog of shady promotions runs the gamut from that old familiar standby, the envelope-addressing racket—which the sucker undertakes, at his own expense, to sell the gyp firm's sleazy merchandise—to raising bullfrogs for cash in your own backyard.

"There's big money in bullfrogs! We buy what you raise."

The joker, says the BBB: After you pay for instruction on how to breed and raise bullfrogs, the promoter refuses to buy. Your home-grown croakers, he says, are "not in a healthy condition for marketing."

SECRET FORMULAS

For pure gall, however, it is hard to beat the get-rich-quick genius who offered to sell his secret formula for "renovating" neckties as a way to earn extra money at home.

For $2, he advised: Take a pair of scissors, cut out the soiled section of the necktie, then sew the two pieces together. Simple?

"It's the biggest racket confronting us today in the field of earn-at-home swindles," said FTC attorney William S. Hill.

SELL MACHINES

"Unscrupulous promoters sell junky vending machines for $50 to $100 apiece with a promise they'll be installed at sure-fire sales locations. All the owner has to do is keep the machines filled with merchandise—candy bars, cigarettes, razor blades and so on—and carry a big sack to collect profits of $400 to $500 a week.

The FTC released excerpts from actual letters written by victims of the flourishing vending-machine racket:

1. A Tampa, Fla., woman who supports an invalid husband on her small earnings: "I'm really ashamed to say I was taken in hook, line and sinker . . . I beg of you to help me get my money returned."

2. A Philadelphia man: "All they told us is false. The highest our machines ever paid was $8 and we haven't even got back our $50 of our initial investment in over three months."

3. A Florida victim: "I find if the 15 machines gross $45 a month that is all you can expect from them."

Needless to say, the legitimate vending-machine industry is cooperating with federal, state and local authorities in cracking down on high-pressure frauds.

The National Automatic Merchandising Assn. (NAMA) says the tremendous growth of the industry into a $1,900,000,000-a-year colossus since the end of World War II has inevitably attracted fast-talking promoters.

The association recently cautioned that even with the best machines, operated by skilled technicians, the average profit for every $100 in sales is only $3.43 before taxes.

Big-time operators unquestionably make money, however, NAMA, in its 1957 directory, says one company operating 936 robot vendors averaged $665 in gross profits for machines annually. And a smartly styled cigarette vendor, costing around $230, may average $224 per year.

Such de luxe machines, which to vend hot food may cost as much as $3,900 each, are a far cry from the flimsy contraptions peddled by so-called "blue sky" sharpies.

What bedazzles prospective victims is the thought of getting in on an industry that has mushroomed fantastically in the last few years.

Pointing out that the odds against success are "extremely high," the Better Business Bureau says 19 out of 20 persons who invest in do-it-yourself vending machines have lost their shirts.

Less than five per cent made any money at all, a BBB survey showed, and "none reported making the profits promised or predicted by the promoters."

Harry A. Babcock, 64, chief of the FTC's bureau of investigation, says earn-at-home swindles are "the cruelest, most reprehensible rackets in the books."

"It's a cruelty that makes me want to go out and collar the crooks with my own hands," he said.

Sandburg Stops at Jazz Spots for Inspiration

CHICAGO (INS)—Carl Sandburg, who has been in Chicago for three days to gather material for a new poem, concluded his tour by visiting a jazz spot.

During a two-hour stay at one spot Sandburg especially liked a modern version of "The Battle Hymn of the Republic" and asked the five-man combo for a second rendition.

The poet called Dixieland and New Orleans jazz the "only real American music" and remarked to the musicians:

"I'm glad you boys are strong enough to stick with the melody."

Earlier, Sandburg visited Frank Lloyd Wright's Robie House which may be demolished to make room for a seminary dormitory. He said:

"As a structure the house is a poem,
In the realm of music it is a concerto;
To tear it down would be an irrevocable loss,
Like smoke on the horizon with wind blowing it away never to have it again."

Columbia Happy to Sign Producer Charles Schnee

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD (INS) A contract Harry Cohn just signed that makes Columbia Studios very happy is with Charles Schnee, who for six years was one of MGM's top film producers.

Schnee won't be lonesome on the Columbia lot, because George Sidney and Joe Pasternak, also formerly a part of MGM, are already working there.

Charlie takes over his new job in November after he finishes "Party Girl" with Robert Taylor and Cyd Charisse for MGM. However, he will make pictures for his own independent company, but will have access to Columbia's stars and properties.

His first picture will be an original story dealing with foreign intrigue and international politics.

Red Skelton is off to Barcelona tomorrow with his friend and business associate Bo Roos. He heads straight for Spain, where he hopes to negotiate a deal for three mechanical puppet shows. He'll then proceed to the Tivoli in Copenhagen to get some other concessions for children.

What's he going to do with them? Well, let me tell you. He is among a number of others bidding for concessions in the new CBS amusement park at Ocean Park.

Meanwhile, nine-year-old Richard Skelton, his son who is suffering with luekemia, is still in a state of remission, which means that there is no further progress of the cancerous blood disease. The little boy just loves Honolulu where he and his sister, Valentina, and Georgia (Mrs. Skelton) are enjoying a vacation.

Saturday Helen Hayes arrives in town to visit her son, James MacArthur, who is starring in "The Light of the Forest" for Walt Disney.

Helen will stay only four days because she is due in New York to prepare for rehearsals for her new play, "Time Remembered," by Jean Anouilh.

All of us are happy that Helen plans to return to Broadway, because our first lady of the stage is first lady in the hearts of her many fans, of whom I am proud to be one.

The irrepressible Bob Hope played golf with President Eisenhower at Burning Hills Golf Club in Washington. The President won just as vice-president Richard Nixon did last week when he played with Robin.

Said Bob as they were leaving, "Isn't it bad enough that Uncle Sam takes all my money without you fellows taking me, too?"

On the way to the airport, Bob said police cars with sirens screaming drove past him, and when he reached the airport he asked what V.I.P. was being escorted in such fashion.

"Sophia Loren," was the reply. What Bob said is very funny, but not for a family column.

Jock Mahoney wandered off his U-I reservation to the Paramount lot today to have lunch with his pretty wife, Maggie, who has an acting job there.

Rock Hudson has to put on 10 pounds which he lost on the "A Farewell to Arms" location before he starts "Twilight for the Gods."

I am glad to say we are going to see wonderfully talented Margaret Lindsay on the screen again. She goes into "Teach Me How to Cry" for Ross Hunter.

Carrier Gets Nowhere After 40,000 Miles

NEWBERRY, S. C. (AP)—Willie L. Mills, who recently retired as a rural mail carrier, estimates he traveled 400,000 miles in his 36-year delivery career.

Mills began with a horse and buggy on a 24-mile route, ended up with an automobile and a 50-mile circuit.

Resort Areas Planned

HONOLULU — A new $36,000,000 major resort area in Hawaii, on the Island of Maui, is being planned. The 395-acre development will be along Kaanapali beach, hitherto undeveloped. The first step in the project will be construction of a 100-room hotel, starting this year. By 1965 there are to be 11 hotels, with 2,000 rooms.

Swedish Population Up

STOCKHOLM — Sweden's population at the start of this year was officially estimated at 7,341,122, an increase of 51,010 over the year before. City dwellers increased by 55,752 during 1956 while the rural population declined by 4,742.

Some 350 of Britain's stately homes will be open to the public, for pay, this summer.

Fair Weather Predicted Over Most of Nation

More pleasant weather was the outlook today for broad areas east of the Mississippi River and in the Far West but rain clouds hovered over other sections of the country.

Thunderstorms extended from the upper Mississippi Valley southwestward into the central Plains during the night, with some areas hit by severe storms. A few funnel clouds were reported in the Sioux Falls, S.D., area, which was hit by an inch of rain. Tornadic winds lashed the North Platte, Neb., district.

Fair weather prevailed in most areas from the southern Plains to the Great Lakes region and eastward to the Atlantic Coast.

Social Security Payments Higher Than Collections

WASHINGTON (INS) — Social Security payments are running higher than collections for the first time in the program's history, but a spokesman calls the situation a 'growing pain" that will be overcome.

Large numbers of farmers and women under 65 qualified for benefits in the past year and brought on the temporary deficit earlier than expected. It will continue into 1960.

SHORTAGE EXPECTED

Acknowledging the shortage, the Social Security Administration insisted the deficit was anticipated and "will have no significant effects on the long-run actuarial balance of the system."

A spokesman explained: "That is, for the long-range future the system will have sufficient income from contributions, based on the tax schedule now in the law, and from interest earned on investments to meet all future payments . . ."

Collections will rise sharply in 1960 when the combined rate of contribution by employers and employes steps up to five per cent.

At the beginning of the program 20 years ago, the rate was two per cent. It is now four per cent and is scheduled to go up at five-year intervals to a maximum of eight per cent in 1975.

With liberalization of the program every election year since 1950, some 10 million Americans now are receiving seven and one-half billion dollars a year in benefits from the Social Security fund.

Approximately 90 per cent of the 65 million paid workers in this country are eligible for old age benefits up to $108.50 a month for a single person and $162.50 for a retired couple.

Contributions in the fiscal year ended last June 30 were 125 million dollars short of benefits and administrative costs. The shortage will increase to about 750 million dollars in the fiscal years before the contribution rate goes up in 1960.

The deficit means that the Treasury has to borrow that much more money from some other sources. The law requires that the fund—now totaling 23 billion dollars—be invested in government securities.

A Treasury spokesman said the development "was not new or unexpected" and "does not create any critical problems."

Careful Drivers to Get Lower Insurance Rates

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Nationwide insurance announces it is forming a subsidiary company that will reward the careful driver.

The new firm will be known as Trans-America Insurance Co. Applications for licenses will be filed soon.

"We plan to develop a rating system that takes into consideration the driving record—good or bad— of the individual," said Murray D. Lincoln, president. The better ecord a driver has, the less his insurance would cost."

He said an active and vocal public demand for insurance rates that will reward the careful driver caused formation of the company.

Slate 'South Pacific' for Farmington Circle

"South Pacific," Pulitzer prize-winning musical generally regarded as tops of the Rodgers and Hammerstein shows, will be presented at Music Circle from Aug. 26 to Sept. 1. The tent theater is located on the grounds of Botsford Inn, Grand River at Eight Mile Road, in Farmington Township.

Sara Dillon and Jack Dabdoub will be starred in the bittersweet romance of the war days on a South Sea island.

Between now and 1959, Iraq will invest $121,900,000 to develop mining, trade and power.

Oxford, Orion Open Sept. 4, 5

Oxford

Oxford Area Community Schools will open for elementary and junior high students on Wednesday, Sept. 4, and on Thursday, Sept. 5, for high school students.

Juniors and seniors not yet registered may do so this week and next. Tenth graders will register Aug. 22 and 26. Ninth graders will register Aug. 27, 28, and 29. and eighth graders will register Sept. 4. The high school book store will be open Aug. 27, 28, and 29.

Elementary school students will enroll at 9 a.m., Sept. 4, and remain for a half day. School buses will make their regular morning runs that day and return students at noon.

Students not enrolled in area schools last year may enroll between Aug. 26-30, at the Daniel Axford School.

No kindergartens will operate at Thomas and Lakeville this year. Thomas beginners will be sent to Daniel Axford School while those in the Lakeville area will be sent to Leonard. These children will, however, report to their local school for registration until transportation plans can be formulated.

Lakeville sixth graders, previously sent to Oxford, will be enrolled at Lakeville this year. Leonard seventh and eighth graders will attend Oxford. The Arnold school will not be operated this year. These students are asked to register at the school nearest their home.

A rental textbook policy will be inaugurated for all elementary children. Grades one thru six will pay a fee of $3.00 for all text and workbooks. Kindergartners will pay $1.50.

A vocal music program for all elementary children will be initiated. Mrs. Robert Harrison, who will teach the Leonard kindergarten in the morning, will conduct the music classes at the outlying schools.

High School football candidates are to report at 8 a.m., Friday, Aug. 29, at the high school gym for physical examinations and issuing of equipment.

Orion Township

Students, with the exception of the kindergarten who will report on Sept. 9, will begin school on Sept. 5, with a full day session. The bus and cafeteria will be in operation that day.

High school students not yet registered have until Aug. 24 to do so. After that day they cannot register until Sept. 9.

Junior high, all 7 and 8 grade students of the district, and 5 and 6 grade of Blanche Sims, who are new to the system should register before Sept. 5. Hours are 8 a.m. to noon; and 1 to 3:30 p.m. The book store is open these same hours until Sept. 5.

Blanche Sims new students kindergarten-4 grades can be registered until Aug. 30. Their hours are 8-12 a.m.; 1-4 p.m.

Proper and Webber, kindergarten-6 grades may register until Aug. 30, at the respective schools, 8 - 12 a.m. and 1 - 3:30 p.m.

Carpenter 1 - 6 new students should register the same hours, but kindergarten students should be registered at Proper.

It is important officials stressed, that students new to the district, or who have transferred, who were not registered in the spring, be registered so classes and buses will be scheduled for them before school starts.

SGT. AND MRS. BILL FRANKLIN

Couple to Reside in Utica

On Northern Honeymoon

DRAYTON PLAINS — Following their candlelight marriage in First General Baptist Church, Pontiac, Saturday, M. Sgt. Bill Franklin and Mrs. Franklin proceeded to northern Michigan for their honeymoon. They will reside on Shelby road, Utica, upon their return.

Before her marriage, the bride was Elaine Faith Willson, daughter of Mrs. Grace A. Wilson, 4230 Joyce St., Drayton Plains. The bridegroom, of the U.S. Nike Base, Utica, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Willie Franklin of Muncie, Ind.

The bride chose for the ceremony, a gown of Chantilly lace and tulle, with a lace skull cap edged in pearls. She wore a single strand of pearls and matching earrings and her bouquet was a cascade arrangement of roses and carnations.

Attending the couple were Janet Maitrott of Rochester and Sgt. Francis Kelley. Ushers were Sgt. James Howard and Robert Kirby.

Safety Leaders Attend Parley

3 Pontiac Officials Join Flint Conference to Plan Accident Prevention

Three Pontiac officials attended the Governor's Regional Safety Conference yesterday in Flint.

Making the trip for the all-day affair were Police Chief Herbert W. Straley; Clyle R. Haskill, chairman of the Safety Committee of the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce; and Capt. Joseph Koren, Police Traffic Bureau head.

Speakers included Secretary of State James Hare who commended the group on its accomplishments since its meetings of two years ago in which a number of safety recommendations were formulated.

Hare noted state traffic deaths have dropped from 2,004 in 1955 to 1,747 in 1956, with 1,550 predicted for this year. He said the goal should be to continue the 10 per cent decrease each year.

As a result of the conference two years ago, Hare noted, 200 state police troopers were added by the Legislature and maximum speed limits were set for state highways. Also, driver training is now required of those under 18 who want a license.

He said the greatest need now was for the establishment of local safety councils in all Michigan communities.

Other speakers included Gerald Shipman, chairman of the State Safety Commission. He said major goals of the Michigan Citizens Safety Committee, of which he is a member, are the adoption of the uniform traffic code and the legal use in all courts of chemical tests for drunkenness.

Haskill was named chairman of one of the five discussion groups into which the conference was divided—the session on urban problems. The other four were rural problems, public support, legislation and driver education.

Slate Schools Reunion

The annual reunion and picnic of the White Lake Center and Granger Schools will be held all day Saturday, Aug. 31, at Dodge Park, Highland. All former teachers, pupils and their friends have been invited to attend.

Plans Hi-Fi Record of National Anthem

NEW YORK (AP) — A plan has been proposed to make a single, high-fidelity, long-play record of "The Star Spangled Banner" featuring about a dozen versions played by famed orchestras.

Under the plan the recording would be made available free to the nation's 150,000 schools, and for an as yet unspecified fee to all radio and television stations.

The project was announced yesterday by Louis Schweitzer, owner of FM radio station WABI, New York, who claims current recordings of our national anthem mostly are antiquated.

He said that top hi-fi recording firms have expressed interest in the venture. Individual recordings of the song would be played by orchestras that the firms have under contract.

Radar Fires Flash Bulb in Photographer's Pocket

Stith came here to make pictures of the 107th Antiaircraft Brigade of the Virginia National Guard in training. He stopped to look at a gun range and its radar tracking units.

Suddenly, he let out a yelp. A radar beam had exploded a flash bulb in his pants pocket.

Indict Man, 29, in Costello Case

Grand Jury Accuses Vincent Gigante of Try to Kill Gambling King

NEW YORK (AP) — Vincent Gigante, 29, has been indicted as the man who tried to kill gambler Frank Costello.

He is expected to plead innocent today in an arraignment in General Sessions Court.

A New York County grand jury took only one hour yesterday to hear testimony before indicting Gigante. Five witness including Costello and several detectives were heard.

If convicted on the indictment of attempted murder in the first degree, Gigante can be sentenced to 12½ to 25 years in prison.

The 67-year-old Costello would not disclose what he told the grand jury. His skull was nicked May 2 when a gunman shot at him as he entered the lobby of his Central Park West apartment building.

Costello has insisted in public statements that he did not know who shot him.

Other witnesses presumably appearing before the grand jury were Philip Kennedy, a model agency executive who was with Costello when he was shot, a cabdriver who drove Costello just before he was wounded and an elevator operator and a doorman at Costello's building.

A Hundred Cows — A Hundred Acres

Farmer Gains Eye of Experts

CHELSEA (AP)—On 100 acres dairy farmer Richard Power keeps 100 milk cows.

For example, the Power farm in Washtenaw County was scheduled host to the State Farm Management Tour of Michigan State University. Farmers from all over the state go on these tours.

MSU's extension farm management specialist, Everett M. Ellwood, says the Powers farm shows how a dairy farmer can meet the problem of limited land by undertaking specialized milk production.

There are two advantages to Powers' plan, he says.

The Powers farm, five miles south of here on M92 has a 100-cow comfort stall barn.

A farmer 20 years, Powers prefers his barn system to "loose housing" of the herd. He says it gives him better control over feeding, among other factors.

Powers buys all his hay and grain. He depends on his crop land for only silage and green chop forage.

A feed mill keeps his bulk bin filled, so he is saved the bother of placing orders and watching supply. His feed buying system also means he requires that much less farm machinery.

In the summertime, when the cows are kept outside, they are fed green crop from self-unloading wagons.

Powers cools his milk in an 800-gallon bulk tank. This summer he plans to use a smaller portable tank to move the milk from the milking barn to the big cooling tank.

The couple will reside at Cass Lake.

When athletics become infested with lewdness, it's time to revolt against the festering core or to do away with sports. And it seems unlikely in America that athletics would be the one to go.

We refer to a new publication on the stands, which amidst its licentious columns, presents a big spread on football for 1957.

What is more exasperating is the fact that the writer, Fran Wallace, one of the best football minds in the country, would allow his talents to be used in such a magazine.

This writer had slight contacts with Wallace while doing public relations when Wallace was with Colliers before it folded. His football articles were supreme.

We offer no crusade against the magazine. Let those who want to read its contents buy it, but why drag football into its den of depraved pages.

Youngsters shell out millions of dollars to purchase athletic publications to read about the great sports figures and their sports idols. We could hardly imagine a parent giving a boy of 12, with dreams of becoming the star quarterback at Podunk U., fifty-cents to buy this magazine to get the forecast on his favorite team.

The publication may feel it is absolved by supplementing its title with the phrase "entertainment for men." But the fact remains that there are as many sports fans among the boys as there are among the men, and it has no right to lure the youth to its pages by capitalizing on one of this country's greatest character builders, football.

DITTOS FROM THE PRESS BOX

A tug of war seems to be going on between Birmingham and Cranbrook over a prospective football player for the 1957 season. Onhis Press football questionnaire Maple grid coach Carl Lemle has listed among the top newcomers, Ed Estes, 5-foot-9, 160 pound halfback.

Likewise, Fred Campbell of Cranbrook has exactly the same information about the same boy on his questionnaire.

It seems that young Estes and his family moved into the area last spring from East Lansing. His older brother played baseball at Birmingham, but apparently there is a difference of coaches' opinions as to where Ed will be going to school.

It won't be long before we know for sure as prep gridders get ready to report to their respective training camps.

Olympic Champ Hits Canvas Seven Times

Patterson Kayos Rademacher in 6th

By JACK HEWINS

SEATTLE (AP) — Floyd Patterson, the cool destroyer who holds the world heavyweight championship, cut down powerful Pete Rademacher last night and turned to dust the big guy's dream of stepping from the amateur peak to the pinnacle of the pros.

Giving away 15 pounds — the champion weighed 187 to Rademacher's 202 — Floyd decked the courageous challenger seven times before Pete took the full count at 2:57 of the sixth round.

But, to the consternation of thousands who regarded this as a mismatch, Patterson was the first man to hit the canvas. Midway in the second round Rademacher crossed a right to the champion's jaw. Floyd seemed to slip as he sagged, but he went all the way down and the knockdown counter at ringside had reached the tally of four when he got back up.

Referee Tommy Loughran waved off the count, ruling it no knockdown but later in his dressing room Floyd said he was bowled over by the punch.

The professional began to show his superiority over the Olympic titlist in the third round, leaping from a crouch to spear Rademacher with a straight right that sent the big guy sprawling.

He took a nine count and was back on his feet at the bell, but the crowd of 16,961 had its tipoff on the outcome.

It was delayed in round four while Floyd moved easily around big Pete, stalking him and looking for an opening for a payoff punch. He found the range in the fifth.

Loughran went to Rademacher's corner after the bell to ask Pete if he was all right and got a smiling nod. But Pete appeared tired and hurt, and the few blows he landed in the sixth lacked sting. He clinched, and as Loughran moved in to separate them Patterson poured home a left and then a right. It was the next-to-last knockdown.

Patterson threw a left and this time as Rademacher struggled wearily to his feet the referee waved Patterson away. Most ringsiders thought Loughran was stopping the fight, but the referee said the count had reached 10 and it was a knockout.

After the battle Rademacher offered no alibis and Patterson was high in his praise for the challenger who had dreamed up this fight and made it real. Rademacher is the first man ever to step from the amateur ranks directly into a heavyweight championship fight.

"He has all the qualifications of a future great fighter," Floyd said.

"When somebody is chopping at you with an axe you have to go down eventually," grinned Rademacher, holding a chunk of ice to a slightly puffed eye. Asked if he felt fighting for nothing was worth the effort, he said:

"Very definitely."

The bout drew a gross gate of $243,030—far short of the anticipated full-house $400,000. Rademacher's backers — a group of Georgia businessmen — put up Patterson's guarantee of $250,000 and took both fighter's share of the gate — 60 per cent of the $209,556 net or just under $125,500.

Patterson said this would be his last fight in 1957. Asked if he would fight again now that he has become a professional, Rademacher said that was something he would decide "later."

"He is," said Loughran of Rademacher, "the most courageous fighter I have ever seen."

Loughran, who was sole judge, scored the first two rounds for Rademacher and gave the rest to Floyd. The Associated Press card agreed, except for calling the first round even.

Round by Round Action

Round One

There were no introductions from the ring when the fight started. Rademacher moved in, backing Patterson away but neither landed a blow immediately. Patterson made one lunge which Rademacher easily eluded. Rademacher landed a long left hook which Patterson partially deflected with his right glove. Burly Pete bulled Patterson in to the ropes but the champion slipped away and threw one of his leaping punches which was short of Rademacher's chin. They were sparring, the champion backing away, occasionally leaping in on his challenger but still unable to find a target. Rademacher, grim faced and tense as the round began in comparison with the champion's calmness, seemed to relax a bit as the round progressed.

The round appeared even.

Round Two

Rademacher moved swiftly across the ring to meet Floyd as he came out of his corner. Patterson eluded Rademacher's straight lefts, and was fighting out of a crotch. Rademacher drew a round of applause with a left that whistled past the champion's chin, and in a fast exchange Floyd landed a hard right to the challenger's jaw. Rademacher was puffing after the exchange of blows and landed sharply with a right and Patterson went down and Referee Loughran ruled it no knockdown. Later it was ruled a knockdown. Rademacher swarmed to the attack and Floyd covered in his crouch, shooting out an occasional left as Rademacher bombed his shoulders. Rademacher missed a hard right and a counter-ring right by Floyd glanced past the challenger's nose. Rademacher had a slight edge in the round.

Round Three

Pete moved to midring, this time awaiting Floyd's arrival. They sparred a moment and then Pete landed a sharp right uppercut. Floyd pounded the challenger's stomach at close quarters, and took a light left to the cheek as they stepped back. Floyd with a flurry of blows capped by a whistling left hook buckled Rademacher's knees but the challenger grabbed and was able to cover. Now it was Floyd swarming to the attack, and a left hook staggered Rademacher but the big fellow came back quickly. Suddenly, Patterson threw a straight right to Rademacher's chin and put the challenger down for a nine count. Pete was unhurt and took the count deliberately, clambering back to his feet just before the bell.

Round Four

They met at the center of the ring as Rademacher came slowly out of his corner. He was keeping his distance trying to see an open shot and landed a heavy right hook. Patterson seemed not to mind the blow, and moved in to land rights and lefts. Pete tied up Patterson when the champion tried to swarm him and bulled Patterson into a corner. Floyd came out fighting, forcing Rademacher back to midring. Patterson caught Rademacher's hard right with his glove, and landed to the body and jaw with a quick right-left combination. Rademacher moved in close, trying to punish Patterson around the body, but hitting only elbows and gloves.

Patterson's round by a close margin.

Round Five

They circled each other at midring. A spot of blood had touched Patterson's white trunks, but neither fighter showed signs of wear. Rademacher landed sharply with a right to the body and again Patterson smashed home that right to the jaw, stretching Rademacher full length for another nine count. Again Patterson landed the right and again Rademacher went down, while the referee counted nine. Patterson moved in hammering the audacious amateur, and a three blow combination put him down in the corner for a third nine-counter. Rademacher went down a fourth time when Floyd's right cross hit him in the back of the neck as he was wheeling away. Gamely he returned, swinging at the man who was punishing him. When the gong sounded Rademacher still was uncut and he smiled at the champion as they passed on the way to their corners.

Patterson's round.

Round Six

Referee Tommy Loughran asked Rademacher if he was OK, and the challenger said yes. The round started slowly, Patterson appearing content to spar and wait for his burly opponent to do the leading. Rademacher did lead, and landed two nice but light left jabs. Patterson appeared reluctant to throw a big blow. Rademacher's arms appeared heavy and in a clinch Patterson landed a knockdown blow while Loughran was separating the two. He took a nine count. Pete climbed up again and tagged the champion with a good left. Rademacher was plainly in trouble and winced whenever hit. He went down again from a sharp left and although he was conscious and on his feet as the count hit nine, Referee Tommy Loughran stopped the bout, waving Patterson away. Loughran then said the count had reached 10, and it was a knockout.

NEAR THE END — Pete Rademacher goes down for the last time in the sixth round. He was knocked down seven times during the fight including three times in the deciding 6th.

Referee Loughran Tells Pete to Quit Fighting

At the same time he said heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson could become as great as Jack Dempsey.

Of Rademacher, Tommy said: "The fellow needs experience the same as any amateur does on turning pro. He hits hard and has the heart of a lion. He could do well with the contenders. But he is 28 and at his age it would be foolish to start."

Rademacher was counted out the seventh time he was knocked down by Patterson. In the fifth he was down four times.

"He was hurt then and I wanted him to quit but he wouldn't hear of it," Loughran told newsmen. "In the sixth he was down for the full count of 10 but even if he had got up, I would have stopped it."

Tommy, who acted as referee and sole official said, "Patterson is a great fighter. He could go down in history as another Jack Dempsey."

Loughran figured Rademacher made a serious mistake in the second round by not going all out after having Patterson on the deck.

"I think he was worried about having the stamina for 15 rounds so he made the mistake," Tommy said.

Champ Surprised at Knockdown

'Did Not Underestimate Him'—Floyd

SEATTLE (AP) — Heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson, knocked down for only the second time in his pro career before stopping amateur king Pete Rademacher last night, gave his foe full credit.

"I don't remember going down, so obviously it was a knockdown," the 22-year-old Floyd said in his hot, crowded dressing room at Sicks' Stadium.

"Most everybody underestimated him," Patterson said of the 22-year-old Rademacher. "Fortunately, I didn't."

The general opinion was that Pete would be fortunate to last two rounds against the poised pro. Instead he knocked him down for an official count of four in the second and wasn't stopped until the sixth.

"I underestimated his punching power but not his ability," Floyd declared. "He's fresh from winning the Olympic heavyweight title, and eager. He has the qualifications of a future great fighter but he lacks experience."

Patterson said he was surprised by the knockdown but didn't feel he was in any trouble. He appeared unmarked as he dropped his hands in a bucket of ice water, and talked calmly.

"Rademacher was a much harder puncher than Jackson but he doesn't have the stamina."

Told he appeared disgusted when Rademacher went down for his fourth count of nine in the fifth stanza, Patterson replied:

"Why should I have been disgusted. I wasn't going down!"

Floyd said Rademacher stung him after the second round but didn't again connect with a really stiff punch.

"I was catching him often but not catching him flush," he said of the six knockdowns that preceded the finisher.

Patterson was knocked down only once before in his career on a sneak right hand by Jacques Crecy-Royer early in his career while he still was a light-heavyweight.

Asked the reason Rademacher's good early showing didn't surprise him, Patterson replied:

"He was an Olympic champion. I was an Olympic champion once too and I know how tough they have to be."

Patterson's manager, Cus D'Amato, appeared almost as happy over the fact that Rademacher fought back as he was about his tiger's knockout victory.

"He showed he was more clever and smarter than anyone thought," D'amato said of Pete.

CHAMP SURPRISED — Heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson was somewhat stunned when he was floored and took a count of four in the second round of his fight against Rademacher. The challenger connected with a right cross, but Patterson got up to give Rademacher a beating.

Fabius Top Contender for Labor Day Race

If Bardstown is as ready as Fabius then Calumet Farm will have a powerful one-two punch in the $100,000-added Washington Park Handicap Labor Day.

Title Dreams Fizzle

'Hit With Ax'—Says Pete

SEATTLE (AP) — "When somebody's chopping at you with an axe, it's bound to get you."

Pete Rademacher, the Olympic heavyweight champion, thus explained his knockout at the hands of the professional champion of the world, Floyd Patterson, in their title match last night.

Pete, his big, bruised hands soaking in a bucket of ice, was unmarked despite the seven times he hit the canvas, the last time for the full count.

Rademacher, his dreams of capturing the heavyweight pro title on his first outing vanished, said he hadn't decided what would be next on his schedule.

"I would like to fight Patterson again," Pete said, "but that's a decision that I won't make for a couple of weeks. Of course, I'll have to work up to it the next time, if there is a next time."

Pete won the Olympic title in Melbourne, Australia, and almost singlehandedly promoted last night's fight with Patterson, marking the first time that an amateur heavyweight king had stepped into the ring in a title fight against the pro champion.

Rademacher, who decked the champion in the second round, said the punch had a lot of beef behind it.

"The knockdown didn't surprise me as much as it did Floyd," Rademacher said. "I saw the opening and poured it home. It was a right to the side of the head."

"Floyd told us after the fight it hurt him," George Cheremes, Rademacher's trainer, chimed in. "It was a dandy punch.

"Pete fought the fight we wanted him to fight, but Patterson was just too strong — and fast — for him."

"His strongest punch is a short right hand to the head. Those were the shots that got me over the long haul. Each one took a little more out of me."

"It was a little more difficult to get up after each knockdown," Pete said. "Those punches just took too much out of me."

Same Lary but Now He Wins

SPORTS

THIS IS THE END — Floyd Patterson connects with a hefty right hook to the face of Pete Rademacher and a second later landed again to send the challenger to the canvas at 2:57 of the 6th round. Rademacher was knocked down seven times. He went down three times in the fifth and three times in the sixth.

Buhl and Musial Sidelined

Injuries Play Role in NL Scene

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Injuries moved smack dab into the middle of the National League pennant picture today with right-hander Bob Buhl, a 16-game winner for first-place Milwaukee, and Stan Musial, the batting ace for second-place St. Louis, hit by shoulder miseries.

Adding to the Braves' woes, outfielder Wes Covington has been sidelined for "four or five days" because of a pulled heel tendon—with shortstop Johnny Logan, outfielder Billy Bruton and first baseman Joe Adcock already on the injured list.

Buhl, who has won seven straight in Milwaukee's climb to the top although bothered by an inflamed shoulder for a month, returned to Milwaukee for treatment last night as the Braves, playing like champions, plunked third-place Brooklyn 7½ games behind with a 6-1 victory at Ebbets Field.

Musial, the bat leader at .340, gave way with what a preliminary examination revealed as a torn muscle suffered while batting in last night's 6-5 victory at Philadelphia which kept the cards within 6½ games of first.

Team trainers said Musial may be out several days — "perhaps weeks." An X-ray examination was scheduled today for the 36-year-old star, who is gunning for a seventh bat title while padding a league record for consecutive games played.

In the other NL games, Pittsburgh beat Cincinnati 8-3, the Redlegs' 10th successive defeat and the longest slump of the year in the league. The New York Giants defeated Chicago's Cubs 6-2 with Willie Mays 3-for-4, including his 28th home run, for a runner-up bat average of .332.

It was a breeze for the Braves, with Hank Aaron's 35th home run a three-run first inning shot that was all Lew Burdette needed for his 12th victory. The veteran right-hander tossed a seven hitter and walked but one in winning his first as a starter in Brooklyn since 1954. He hadn't beaten the Brooks anywhere in four decisions since July 13 of last year.

Sal Maglie lost it for a 6-6 record, giving up five hits and four runs in his five frames. The Braves had 11 hits in all—three each from Red Schoendienst, who hit his 14th home run, Ed Mathews and Bob Hazle, who has a crisp .500 average in 52 at bats as Bruton's stand in.

The Pirates smacked 15 hits and scored five in the fourth that nailed the Redlegs for Bob Friend's ninth victory against 16 defeats. Don Gross lost it for a 4-8 record—his eighth consecutive defeat after winning eight straight in a string which began in 1955.

Hank Sauer also homered for the Giants as Ray Crone gained a 6-7 record, although needing relief help after shutting out the Cubs on five hits for seven. Walt Moryn doubled in one of the Chicago runs, extending his hit streak to 19 games.

Frank Reaches Peak With 4-0, 4-Hit Victory

Faces Only 29 Orioles in 3rd Straight Win; Maas vs. Nats Tonight

DETROIT (AP) — If Frank Lary is doing anything differently than when he was in the midst of the worst losing streak of his pitching career, he doesn't have any idea what it might be.

Lary picked up his third straight triumph yesterday, shutting out the Baltimore Orioles 4-0 on a sparkling four-hitter. It was his best effort of the campaign.

The gritty Alabaman didn't walk a batter and faced only 29 Orioles —two over the minimum—as quick double plays wiped out the only scoring chances the Baltimore club had.

Singles by Bob Boyd, Billy Goodman and Tito Francona arrived with machine-gun like rapidity in the fourth inning but the Orioles failed to score when Frank Bolling turned Bob Nieman's grounder into a double play.

Bolling had nine assists for the afternoon and added one putout. Earlier in pre-game infield drills he had been struck in the mouth by a bad-hop grounder and it was not certain that he would be able to play.

"They sure gave me a lot of work today," said the popular second baseman. "Maybe they figured I'd be a little shell-shocked."

Outfielder Al Pilarcik opened the Oriole eighth with his club's fourth hit but after Gus Triandos flied out, Lary turned pinch-hitter Joe Ginsberg's roller into another double play to end the inning.

5 Former Champs in State Open Field

BY BILL CORNWELL

Five former champions, headed by favored Wally Burkemo of Franklin Hills, led a star-studded field of 162 hopefuls into the 1st round of the Michigan Open golf tournament today at Edgewood Country Club.

Michigan's finest collection of professional and amateur golfers began touring Edgewood's luxurious 6,400-yard layout at 7:16 this morning in quest of the state championship.

Burkemo, at this point in his career boasting the state's soundest game, is favored to win the crown for the 3rd time. Wally 1st won the title in 1950 at Adrian's Lenawee course, then repeated in 1955 at Washtenaw.

Although the odds lean heavily toward Burkemo, chances are that if Wally doesn't come through, another ex-champ will walk off with the top prize.

Long-hitting Chick Harbert, Meadowbrook's veteran pro, is always a dangerous threat in this show. Harbert has won the state diadem four times, a feat topped only by Al Watrous of Oakland Hills who owns five crowns.

Other past champs who must be reckoned with are Mike Dietz, who claimed the title in 1952 at his own Indianwood links, Horton Smith of Detroit Golf Club, and big John Barnum from Grand Rapids.

If the former champs don't sweep the honors, there's plenty of up-and-coming stars to be considered. Leading the youth battalion is 26-year-old Gene Bone of Pontiac, who assists Warren Orlick at Tam O'Shanter.

Farmington's Jimmy Johnson, defending Michigan PGA king, Bob Gajda of Forest Lake and Eldon Briggs, the perennial contender from Lansing, would surprise no one by winning this event.

Only five times in the 37-year history of the Open has an amateur won the state title, but there are several outstanding "simon pures" taking aim at it today.

BURKEMO

Heading the amateur threat is Pontiac's Lloyd Syron, Glenn ohnson of Grosse Ile, husky Gene Woodard and lanky John Kurach. Pontiac has another amateur power in Mike Andonian, twice a winner of the state Publinx crown.

Jack Fleck, ex-U.S. Open champion, is the state's top absentee in the pro ranks. The Rochester pro is passing up his 1st crack at the title.

One thing is certain — the defending champion won't repeat. Pete Cooper, who annexed the crown last year at Indianwood, has since vacated his post at Knollwood in favor of Lakeland, Fla.

The Oakland County area was represented when today's firing started. Among the area contenders were Paul Bada, Pontiac city champ; Jim Brafford, Jay Law, Al Krol, Tex Ellison, Paul Van Loozen, Gerry Prieskorn, Pete Jackson and Tim Baldwin.

Eighteen-hole rounds are scheduled today and Saturday. The field will be cut to the low 50 players at the halfway mark and the survivors will go 36 holes in the Sunday windup.

Bone Cools Off Some — Still Earns New Car

Would all of you taxpayers like to know how to get a car you can't afford without paying for it?

This is obviously simplifying the matter, of course, but that's exactly what young Gene Bone of Pontiac did Thursday at Edgewood Country Club.

Bone helped himself to a brand new 1957 automobile yesterday after he and his three partners — Stan Long, Earl Nygren and Frank Wickham — won the pro-am best-ball tourney in an 18-hole playoff with Max Evans and company.

The Bone squad had a low net score of 58, two strokes better than the Evans foursome.

Evans and his party of Burt Hendrickson, Charles Stimac and Art Green tied the Bone team for 1st place with a 60 Wednesday to force yesterday's match.

Bone, 26-year-old assistant pro at Tam O'Shanter, cooled off a little bit following Wednesday's red-hot 66, but he still carded a very respectable par 71. He posted rounds of 35-36 and picked up five birdies along the way.

Long, amateur from Red Run, made the most sensational shot of the day and at the same time got Bone off to a flying start by holing out an 80-yard wedge shot on the 403-yard 1st hole for an eagle two.

Evans, Jack Fleck's right-hand man at Rochester Golf and Country Club, fired a four-under-par 67 Thursday, one stroke lower than his effort the day before. He went out in 35, came home with 32 and notched six "birds."

Bone, beaming from ear to ear, had no objections to accepting the car when Edgewood pro Jack Hoffman handed him the keys. The auto was offered as a reward for the winning pro in the best-ball pro-am event, a preliminary to the Michigan Open golf tournament which began today at Edgewood.

Gene wasn't content to stop there, however. He also won the driving contest, outdistancing 17 other contestants with a blast of 290 yards, to pocket $100.

The only thing that prevented Bone from completely stealing the show was Paul Hahn's fabulous demonstration of trick shots. Hahn amazed the audience with his golf wizardry in a performance on the 1st tee.

Hometown Pro Leads Open

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Manuel De La Torre of Milwaukee, who stands 97th on the 1957 PGA golf earnings list with earnings of less than a thousand dollars, today led the field into the second round of the $35,000 Milwaukee Open Golf Tournament.

Trailing the 35-year-old pro from the nearby Milwaukee country club are 16 of the nation's 18 top money winners. Their goal is the $6,000 first prize.

De La Torre, who has been a pro since 1947 without attracting much attention outside of Wisconsin, toured Tripoli Golf Club's 6,355-yard layout in a 5-under-par 65 yesterday for a slim one stroke lead.

Right behind him with 66s were Bo Wininger of Odessa, Tex., and Jackie Burke Jr., of Kiamesha Lake, N.Y.

Applying pressure with 67s were Howie Johnson of Houston, Tex., Walker Inman of Pensacola, Fla., Al Besselink of Grossingers, N.Y., Don Whitt of Alameda, Calif., and San Francisco's Bob Rosburg.

Logart Fights Byars Tonight

Cuban 'Welter' Risks No. 3 Rating in Bout at Detroit's Olympia

DETROIT (AP) — Cuban welterweight Isaac Logart risks his No. 2 ranking tonight against up-and-coming Walter Byars of Boston in a 10-round bout at Detroit's Olympia Stadium.

Logart, who says he is two years younger than the 24 years the record books indicate, has a wide edge in experience over the light-punching Easterner. In 61 professional fights, Logart has won 50, lost six and fought two draws.

He is a solid 11-5 favorite to defeat the 25-year-old Byars, the ex-Marine who has had only 21 pro bouts. Byars has been brought along rapidly and has won 16 of his 21 fights. He will be out to break a two-fight losing streak, having dropped decisions recently to Tony DeMarco, the No. 1 challenger to Carmen Basilio's title, and Virgil Akins.

The fight tonight will be nationally televised and broadcast at 9:00 p.m., EST, NBC-TV.

Stone Blanks Grill, 6-0, as Jewelers Take Crown

Shaw's regular season winner in the City Baseball League, lived up to its role of favorite last night in the Class A final playoffs at Wisner Field.

The Jewelers, behind the three-hit pitching of Les Stone, shut out Griff's Grill yesterday, 6-0, to win the city championship.

Griff's won the 1st game of the best-of-five series last Sunday, but Shaw's bounced back to win the next three and settle the issue convincingly.

Stone had flawless control. The lanky southpaw didn't walk a man and struck out nine. He gave up singles in the 1st, 3rd and 7th innings.

The Jewelers launched an eight-hit attack against right-hander Jim Jones and Stone aided his own cause with two hit and two RBI's. Terry Thomas knocked in a pair of runs and Warren Scheibner made two safeties.

Victory qualified the Jewelers for the state baseball tournament during the Labor Day weekend at Battle Creek.

Aussies Look Like Runaways

BROOKLINE, Mass. (AP) — Australian tennis forces today threatened to monopolize the National Doubles Tournament unless U.S. Davis Cup veterans and a sturdy English pair stemmed the tide.

The first and third Aussie platoons were set for quarter-final tests at the Longwood Cricket Club.

Ashley Cooper and Neale Fraser, the second-seeded pair from Down Under, who breezed effortlessly through earlier matches, were pitted against England's Mike Davies and Bob Wilson.

In the other feature of men's competition, the unseeded Aussie Tandem of Mal Anderson and Bob Howe met Ham Richardson and Vic Seixas, the No. 1 and 3 ranked American players.

May Settle Fight Dispute Monday

NEW YORK (INS) — Sugar Ray Robinson says if his television dispute with the International Boxing Club is settled Monday, he will be able to go through with his fight with Carmen Basilio Sept. 23.

The middleweight champ and IBC president James Norris have been summoned to a conference Monday by the New York State Athletic Commission which hopes to clear up the TV question.

Robinson called off his title defense against the welterweight king Tuesday, stating that Norris had broken an agreement by signing with Theatre Network Television — a closed-circuit TV outfit — without consulting him.

Wins Stock Car Title

Moody, piloting a 1957 Ford, won the event yesterday in two hours and 22 minutes. He collected over $2,000 for his victory.

Second place went to Charles George of Los Angeles, who also drove a '57 Ford.

Trans-America Pace at Hazel Park Tonight

HAZEL PARK — The fanciest field yet to see action in the Transamerica Pace at Hazel Park, will go to the post tonight in the $10,000 feature eighth race.

This is the first stake race of the season for Hazel Park. It has drawn eight entries of which six of the horses have won one or more legs on the Transamerica which have been raced earlier at nine member tracks.

The event was started to provide top competition for the nation's older horses, and it is raced in series at Harness Tracks across America.

The winners accumulate points toward the $50,000 finale to be held at Roosevelt Raceway, September 27th.

Rote Starts Against Eagles Tonight

ROTE'S TURN TONIGHT — It will be Tobin Rote's turn tonight to start at the quarterback position for the Detroit Lions against the Philadelphia Eagles in Toledo. On the alternating plan of coach George Wilson, Rote and Layne will take turns starting at quarterback. Layne started against the Browns last week.

Wilson Sets Up Alternate Plan at Quarterback

Detroit Lions Favored to Win 2nd Exhibition Game in Row

By BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

TOLEDO — The 1-2 quarterback punch of the Detroit Lions, Bobby Layne and Tobin Rote, is being heralded as the best in the National Professional Football League, but who is number one and who is number two will depend on the game.

Coach George Wilson said he would go according to his plans to alternate the two signal callers by the game. Thus, the number one man tonight is Rote when the Lions tangle with the Philadelphia Eagles in the Glass Bowl at Toledo.

Layne started the opener against the Browns, and by the alternating setup, he will then be starter against the Washington Redskins, a week from Saturday in Birmingham, Ala.

Rote had seven outstanding years as an aerial artist with the Green Bay Packers before coming to Detroit. During this time he attempted 1854 passes and completed 826 for a total of 11,535 yards and 88 touchdowns through the air.

Last year his 308 attempts, 146 completions and 18 touchdowns were the best in the NFL.

In the Browns' game, Rote and Layne, in sharing the duties, completed 15 of 29 passes for 288 net yards, while the ground game netted only 90 yards.

Another position where duties are expected to be split is at fullback, between John Henry Johnson and Tom Tracy. Both performed well in the Cleveland game, but it was Tracy who surprised the Lions and the fans with his 4th period running which netted him two touchdowns.

The Eagles are expected to be stronger for this game than the opener which they lost, 17-10 to the Colts. Reason for this is the addition to the lineup of Billy Joe Barnes, star of the All-Star game, and Clarence Peaks, who were out with injuries. Detroit is 15-point favorite.

Game time is 8:30 in Toledo and a crowd of 14,000 is expected to watch the Elks' sponsored contest.

In other NFL action over the weekend: tonight Los Angeles versus New York at Los Angeles; tomorrow the Cards meet Green Bay in Austin, Tex.; Cleveland meets Pittsburgh at Akron; and Chicago Bears meet the Baltimore Colts at Cincinnati. Sunday the 49ers meet Washington at San Francisco.

Yanks Back in Form Against KC 'Cousins'

By INTERNATIONAL NEWS

The New York Yankees, with former Athletic Harry Simpson in the starring role, got back into form against their Kansas City cousins yesterday winning their 1st of three-game series 11-4 to increase the Yank lead to 6½ games over idle Chicago.

Boston pounded out 14 hits to wallop Cleveland 11-3 and Detroit's Frank Lary stunned Baltimore with a 4-0 shutout in the other American League action.

Simpson strode to the plate with the score tied at 2-2 and blasted a grand-slam homer to hang the defeat on Wally Burnette. Yogi Berra added fuel to the fire later with a round tripper and Joe DeMaestri hit one for the losers.

Baseball Party Honors Boys' Club Athletes

Players from 12 teams in the Pontiac Boys' Club Intramural Baseball League were feted at a baseball party at the Pontiac Federal Savings & Loan Bank building last night.

A total of 125 players, parents and guests attended the affair. Members of the championship teams of the senior and junior leagues were presented individual trophies by retired Tiger pitcher Steve Gromek and former State Senator George N. Higgins. Another guest was former club director Bill Coulacos.

Gromek conducted a question-and-answer session following the award presentations. The bank sponsors the league each year.

Pete Green 7th in Jaycee Field

(Special to The Pontiac Press)

COLUMBUS, O. — Pete Green of Birmingham led the Michigan contingent into the 3rd round of the 72-hole International Jaycee Junior golf tournament today at the Ohio State University course.

Green fired a 79 Thursday, giving him a 36-hole total of 154 and leaving him nine strokes off the lead. He is tied with four other youths for 7th place.

Sparrow Heads for Home, Pro Cage Action

Helps Army 9 Hang Up Win Records; Hurts Left Shoulder

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Sparrow, West Huron street today proceeded to New York, where they expect to meet their son, Guy. Guy, one of Pontiac's outstanding athletes, is heading for home after nearly a year in Germany with the U.S. Army. He was expected to land Saturday.

The former PHS and University of Detroit cage star, now signed with the Knickerbockers, is anxious to get back in action with the pro squad. But his debut will be delayed several weeks, it is expected, because of an injury suffered in a 5th Regiment baseball game, recently. The shoulder is in a cast, his mother said today. Injury is diagnosed as a "separation."

Guy, hurler for the 5th Regiment nine, won his 7th game, to give his club a record of 32 straight wins. Sparrow allowed only six hits, Stars and Stripes reports.

Mineweaser, the Amateur and Pro

Remember the Sports Stars of Yore?

A fellow who certainly has had the athletic background many an oldtimer would be proud of yet he is only 32 years old is Pontiac's Dick Mineweaser.

A look at Dick's sports experience makes you wonder how he did it all in such a short time.

He went on to become one of the greatest ever to play sports at St. Michael, starred at Michigan State, took a crack at pro baseball, won a college letter in tennis, did YMCA work and kept active in many other fields as a participant and follower. Valleyball, tennis and golf keep him in shape.

Dick, whose older brother Bob has been coaching the Shamrocks for the last 14 years, played at St. Michael from 1939 through '42.

The 1941 football team went unbeaten and untied in seven games to gain the 2nd Division Catholic League title. That team is still considered by most to be the outstanding in SM history.

Joe Conti was the coach then in all sports. Jerry Thuenick who played the opposite end from Dick, and Lou Janka were other stars. The season was climaxed by 23-6 trouncing of St. Phillip's of Detroit at the U. of D. stadium.

Dick won letters three years in football although he was only 16 as a senior. St. Mike never lost a home game during his career. The 1941 piled up 177 points against 12 for opponents with Mineweaser tallying six touchdowns and some extra points.

He won a freshman letter at Michigan State before leaving to join the Red Sox farm system. He quit after 39 games and went back to State and picked up where he left off. That would be impossible now with the strict NCAA rules.

Dick played under ex-big league star Heinie Manush at Scranton. He had starred previously for the General Motors team that reached the national amateur semi-finals before joining the pros.

"Everything worked out for the best I think," said Mineweaser looking back at the baseball failure that sent him back to college.

Dick joined the insurance field in 1953 and hopes to make it his career. He recently was named a member of the Million Dollar Roundtable for selling a million dollars worth of insurance with Equitable.

Feller in Baseball First at Ann Arbor

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Bob Feller, the former fireball ace of the Cleveland Indians, was to perform what was billed as a "baseball first" today at the Babe Ruth World Series.

At least, there is no record of a first pitch being tossed out from a helicopter hovering above the diamond. That's exactly what the schedule called for Feller to do before today's semifinals.

After Rapid Robert's history-making pitch from aloft, Pensacola, Fla., was to take on Lyndhurst, N.J., in the opener of the semifinal doubleheader.

'Backyard' Fruit Growers Slate Open Meeting Tomorrow

Show Progress of MSU Test

18 County Residents Seek to Aid Discovery of All-Purpose Spray

By SYLVIA de STEIGER
Garden Editor

Is there one spray which can be used by the "backyard" grower effectively for all types of fruit trees?

The answer to this question is being sought and 18 Oakland County families have been using their own trees as guinea pigs for an experiment under the direction of a Michigan State University entomologist.

Tomorrow morning a meeting, open to anyone interested in the progress and results of the test, will be held at one of their homes.

Each of the 18 county participants have been requested to bring the sprayers or dusters they have been using since the beginning of the experimental fruit sprays program last April, according to Wayne B. Siefert, assistant county agricultural agent.

The co-operators in the experiment have between two to 40 trees each.

DEMONSTRATE EQUIPMENT

Demonstrations on how to operate approximately 15 varieties of sprayers and dusters, from the commercially used to the type attached to the garden hose, will be given.

Professor Alfred Dowdy, who is conducting the experiment in Oakland, Wayne and Macomb Counties, will also attend the meeting to discuss the chemical aspects of the program.

Dowdy conducted a similar test on a much smaller scale last year in Wayne County. This year, sprays of six manufacturers which claim their product to be all-purpose as well as several of Dowdy's own mixtures are being tested throughout the three counties.

The meeting will be held at 10 a.m. at the home of Stanley Kipp, 1123 Doris Rd., Pontiac Township.

Siefert said he has sent 180 letters inviting area residents interested in non-commercial fruit production.

"Some people who have fruit trees try to keep away bugs and disease from the trees but they either don't try enough by not spraying them sufficiently or they are discouraged because of poor results because they haven't used the correct materials," Siefert explained.

DISCUSS PROBLEMS

"This meeting has been planned to clear up some of these problems," he added.

Since the beginning of the fruit-bearing season, a planned series of visits for members of the program has been conducted to each other's homes to discuss the progress, results, and problems on the materials being used.

Results have noted some trees, which previously had never given sufficient fruit, are now overloaded. Other trees, which have been sprayed by other materials, have not produced the desired amount of fruit.

It is hoped by the end of the summer the study and survey will be completed. Then Michigan State University will recommend certain sprays for fruit trees of the "backyard grower."

These are the Oakland County residents participating in the program excluding the eight from Wayne and six from Macomb County:

Mrs. Wayne Cook, Waterford Township; Mr. and Mrs. Wally Wehr, Farmington; W. H. Allen, Milford; Ralph Hoxie Jr., Alex Hatos, both of Birmingham; Isador Smellewski and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph H. Whitmill, both of Avon Township.

Rochester residents are: Mr. and Mrs. Howard Sanders, Mr. and Mrs. George Trevethan, John Creswell, and Mrs. Marjorie Booth.

Others include: Lyle Abel, West Bloomfield Township; Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Guthrie and Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Kipp, both of Pontiac Township and Mr. and Mrs. James Crossman, Wasson Lee and Garry Tennant, all of Ortonville.

Best to Prune Old Shade Tree in Midsummer

If older shade trees look as sad as weeping willows a lift with midsummer pruning may make them appear and feel more cheerful.

Most trees can be pruned at virtually any season but pruning done now gives results that can be seen and directed as work proceeds.

How many branches should be removed in a good sized tree? That depends on the care and condition of the tree.

Mature trees gracing the newly built home frequently require removal of hundreds of dead branches. These may range from the size of a lead pencil to some that are quite large and decidedly dangerous.

Dead or dying branches that overhang roof, garage, walk or driveway not only obscure the home with a view but pose a threat to break off during violent summer storms. Regular cleanup of such deadwood will pay big dividends in added beauty and safety on the home grounds.

DO SOME YOURSELF

The amateur tree doc shouldn't get too enthused over the do-it-yourself aspects of big tree pruning. He probably can handle the job if offending branches can be reached from ground level. Otherwise, he'll be wise to call in the professional tree man who knows how to climb and get around in towering trees safely.

'Pudding' Makes Mulch for Weedy Gardens

Tests Show Dew Use

WASHINGTON (INS) — Don't underestimate the value of dewfall in humid areas.

New Agriculture Department tests show that dew—once considered useless because it seemed to evaporate away—actually supplies one-fifth of the water used by crops at an Ohio Experiment Farm.

IN VINEYARD HEAVEN — Sam Felice, 5939 Andersonville Rd., Waterford, relaxes at a table located in his grape arbor where the Felice family eats many of their meals. This fall, the fruit from the vines will be pressed for delicious wine.

Sam Felice Has Unique Irrigation System

Area Grocer Plants Italian Style; Produces Bigger, Better Foods

By REBA HEINTZELMAN
Of Our Waterford Bureau

The Italian beans belonging to Sam Felice, 5939 Andersonville Rd., are of the "Jack-in-the-beanstalk" variety, which were grown from tiny seedlings and planted outdoors in April.

Felice first allows the plants to grow to a height of six feet, tied to stakes for support. Then he trains them to wind around string, forming neat trellises in the garden. His secret for growth is a 3-12-12 fertilizer.

GARDENER 21 YEARS

For 21 years, Sam has been growing outstanding vegetables on his 50-foot square piece of ground, but the quantity as well as quality that has been produced makes the spot famous throughout the area. His seasonal bean crop averages from 8 to 10 bushels.

Besides pole beans, Felice grows Italian tomatoes that are more solid than the usual variety. These are also tied up on 6-foot stakes, and grow far beyond their supports.

Some of the tomatoes are of a tiny pear-shaped variety that have a flavor all of their own. These too are all grown from flats and set out in early spring.

WIFE STUFFS SQUASH

She digs out the inside of the squash and stuffs them with a mixture of ground pork, veal, onions and breadcrumbs. The squash is then baked and sliced crosswise for individual servings.

Born near Naples, Italy some 60 years ago, Felice came to America with his bride and settled in Michigan where they have lived for 33 years. They have two children, Mike, 32, and Lorraine, 35.

Besides the unusual garden, the Felice family enjoy an outdoor grape arbor, which has a nostalgic air of southern Italy. Here in the summer every meal is served outdoors, and wine is pressed from the fruit in the fall.

The Felice irrigation system is tops. He had his land graded in a slight down-hill slope. At the high side there is a pipe running the full length of the garden with outlets established between each vegetable row.

When the water is turned on it runs down-hill between the rows automatically watering each plant.

ACTUALLY A GROCER

Although Felice owns a small grocery store on the front part of his property, he says he never sells any of his garden produce to his customers.

"What my family can't eat, we give to our friends," Felice said. And friends of the old world Felice family are innumerable in Waterford.

Flowers, Vegetables Also Get Virus Disease

By WAYNE B. SEIFERT
Asst. County Agricultural Agent

Unlike most plant diseases, yellows is one virus which infects a wide variety of plants from many families. Specifically known as aster yellows, its general symptoms are a yellowing and dwarfing of the plant.

Probably its best known symptoms are in asters. When the virus invades these plants the new growth is a yellow color and extremely stunted. Blossom produced after the first symptoms appear are always yellowish green. Wilting rarely or never accompanies the invasion by this virus.

In marigolds and chrysanthemums, the disease is not particularly fatal, but again the yellowing of the new foliage and severe dwarfing is easily seen. Changing the flower color to white or green usually develops.

Many other garden annuals and perennials show the same general symptoms. Vegetable crops are damaged to the point of being useless. Celery shows the symptoms as yellow stunted central leaves. Carrots usually go to seed when infected and the fleshy roots, in addition to being woody and small, are usually covered with roots, giving a hairy effect.

Wild plants like thistles are commonly infected. They are often seen in pasture fields as plants with yellow plumes of leaves on the top. How does it spread? The virus actually infects a plant sucking leaf hopper first.

The hopper doesn't become a "typhoid Mary" until about three weeks after it has fed upon an infected plant. These source plants are usually perennial weeds, like thistles. After these insects become infective, they remain so for the rest of their lives. These hoppers are good flyers which are easily carried by wind.

How can hoppers be controlled? Rarely by spraying, unless large fields are involved. Florists and nurserymen often build cheesecloth or screen fences around plantings of asters and other flowers. In flower gardens, no control measure is effective except pulling and burning infected plants as soon as they are seen.

Fine radish crops can be grown for September and October harvest. The danger of radish worm is past.

FERTILIZED

Chrysanthemums, particularly those blooming in late September, produce buds due to shortening of the days. The critical period is now, around August 25. An additional fertilization at this time should help produce more and larger flowers on those plants. A double spoonful of garden or lawn fertilizer placed in a trench near the clump should be sufficient.

Many varieties grow so tall they usually fall over at blooming time. Knowing buds will begin in late August we can have plants at any fraction of the height of the normal plants. This treatment in no way influences the size or color of the flowers.

Plants pinched back to six-inch stubble early in July will produce stems only about 70 per cent as tall as those not pinched. If the pinching is done on August 1, the clumps are about 45 per cent as tall. Yet they have the same heavy flower clusters and beauty as unpinched plants.

Many back yard peach and plum trees are heavy with fruit this year. We are experiencing a mild drought just when added water will give them the extra size and taste all like to have. One heavy soaking weekly until harvest time would be beneficial.

New, Different Flowers Scientifically Developed

Once upon a time new flowers were "discoveries" that grew like Topsy—they were accidental differences some gardener or seedsman happened to notice among the normal plants.

There is still a certain amount of the chance discovery sort of introduction, but by and large the new flowers one has in his garden are now laboratory products.

The way the seedsmen sets about this modern way of making new things is to consider the flaws in present varieties and then put a calculated program in effect to remedy those flaws.

Suppose a flower is beautiful in certain regions but is subject to heat damage in other areas. The plant breeder decides he wants to make this beauty available to gardens in hot summer climates.

There are several courses open to him.

1. Plant large populations of that flower under extremely hot conditions and search for individual plants in the group that stand the heat better than others.

2. Cross the flower with other related species which do have heat resistance and then select among the offspring for plants that have the beauty of the one and the heat resistance of the other.

3. Select plants that escape heat by coming into bloom much earlier than the rest of the group, getting their blooming period over with before the peak heat of the season.

To accomplish these ends and many others, the modern plant scientist uses chemicals to change the basic composition of the plant. Greenhouses provide controlled conditions and extra generations to speed up the work.

He uses microscopes to peer into the innermost secrets of the make-up of the flower, and theoretical genetics to know in advance what is a possible project and what is a waste of time.

The discovery of hybrid vigor in corn a number of years ago led to a whole new vista. It opened up in all kinds of plants and gradually, the adaptation of this inbreeding and hybridizing technique to other species took place until now we have some really startling things to see in flowers as well as in vegetables and field crops.

Consider the new hybrid petunia Red Satin. The flowers are a non-fading scarlet-red, a most difficult color in this class. The plants are long-blooming and very generous of flowers.

Most significant, the height and breadth of the plant has been controlled so it stays compact and ball-shaped right through the year without the need of pruning or the prospect of over-grown, gangling stems to destroy the symmetry of the flower border.

When one marvels, at the full double, giant flowers of Crackerjack Marigold, the big, gaily striped blooms of Ortho Polka Zinnia, the colorful Carnival Petunia or the Extremely early Mardi Gras Snapdragon he is looking at scientifically planned improvements, not just chance discoveries.

Briton Pays U.S. Taxes

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Allen V. Jay, called for jury duty, was asked if he had been a citizen of Virginia for 12 months.

He replied that he wasn't even a citizen of the United States, but a Briton.

Jay said he had received poll tax bills for several years and paid them rather than quibble.

Allow Tot to Have Part in Preparing Supper

If the late afternoon seems endless as a tot awaits the return of his brothers and sisters from school, let him set the table.

It is easy to work out a place-mat pattern.

Help the youngster paste paper patterns of a knife, fork, and napkin properly on a square mat. Then mount it where the child can see whether he's putting the utensils on the table correctly.

The child may be better behaved at meals if he has a special part in helping prepare them.

Gainers Few in Stock Mart

NEW YORK (AP)—Stock market prices continued to slip in dull trading early today.

Pivotal issues were off from fractions to around a point but there were a few small gainers.

Losses in the neighborhood of a point or so were taken by Lukens Steel, Douglas and United Aircraft, Kennecott Copper and Gulf Oil.

Opening blocks included Allegheny Corp. off ⅛ at 8⅜ on 4,300 shares; American Cyanamid off ¼ at 42 on 1,000; and General Motors off ⅛ at 42⅝ on 3,000.

Union Carbide, Sinclair and American Tobacco made small gains. American Telephone was steady.

Sentence Pair to Death for Killing Six in Bar

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Two men were sentenced to death and a third to life in prison yesterday for murder at the Club Mecca.

Six persons died last April 4 when the neighborhood tavern suddenly erupted in flames. Trial evidence showed two of the men sloshed a can of gasoline into the place and set it afire. They had been thrown out earlier because of unwelcome attentions to a woman customer.

Clyde Bates, 36-year-old former convict, and Manuel Chavez, 25, were sentenced to death. Manuel J. Hernandez, 18, who drove the getaway car, drew the life term.

Traffic Deaths in State Running Behind 1956

LANSING (AP) — Joseph A. Childs, Michigan State Police commissioner, says state traffic deaths this year are running behind the corresponding 1956 figure.

Through Wednesday, Childs said, fatalities totaled 894 as against 1,087 on the same date a year ago. He said the figures were provisional and could be raised by delayed deaths and tardy reports.

START OF A NEW TIRE — June Black displays her unique skill as the only tire sculptress in the United States. The 32-year-old artist, employed in an Akron tire factory, is molding a tread design into a quarter-section model of an automobile tire, which she has shaped in clay. Following a tread pattern worked out by specialists in the engineering department, she sculpts the design, accurate to a hundredth of an inch. The clay form is then used to make plaster casts, which, in turn, are used to make metal molds for the actual manufacture of the tire. The sculpting technique makes design changes easier, according to Mrs. Black.

'Battle for Children' Ends in Berlin

The West Berlin school holidays ended yesterday and so did the competition between Communists and Westerners in the divided city to see who could entice more children out of each other's territory for summer vacations.

WAY AHEAD

With a police state and the censored press at their disposal, the Communists are way ahead this year—on paper. But the facts are a little different.

The most convincing proof that the Reds lost is that West Berlin parents, who live with a knowledge of communism, sent only 300 children away for red-tinged holidays.

But West Germans more removed from the facts of communism, have sent 50,000 kids this summer to East Germany, where, along with food and fresh air, they get subtle doses of propaganda.

REAL PROBLEMS

Behind the propaganda blasts flying back and forth across Brandenburg Gate, there are some real problems for children and their parents.

West Berlin kids, though they live in a relatively prosperous healthy city, are marooned on an urban island 110 miles behind the Iron Curtain. They can't be sent into the country unless their parents accept Communist bids or pay for the expensive trip to West Germany.

East Berlin and East German kids on the other side live in a grey, dull world where a nine-year-old is rationed to two pounds of meat and eight quarts of skimmed milk per month. He needs a vacation in the free, properous West.

CAN'T ENJOY IT

But the East German children have little chance to enjoy it. Fearing that contacts with the West arouse too much unrest among its youth, East Germany forbade college and high school students to travel West—on pain of being thrown out of school.

The result is a flourishing if small trade in smuggling East German children to the West through Berlin—with the connivance of the U.S. Air Force.

Since the border between East and West Berlin is open, kids can be brought West without anyone knowing it—and once there they are taken up by West Berlin's program for sending needy children out of the city during the summer.

Among the 23,000 children sent from Berlin for free holidays in West Germany this summer, there are 3,000 kids from the East, aged 8 to 17.

The U.S. Air Force's "Kinderlift," now in its fifth summer, flew out 2,300 children—most of them smuggled into Berlin from the East for a few weeks.

The Berlin city government has its own small-scale children's airlift. This year 800 children whose parents are political prisoners or have other political troubles in East Germany were flown out.

S-P Losses Higher in Second Quarter

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Studebaker-Packard Corp. has reported a second quarter loss of $4,311,845 greater than the $2,498,357 for the first quarter. However, it was down sharply from an indicated loss of $21,154,283 in the second quarter of 1956.

The auto manufacturing firm, which is operated by Curtiss-Wright Corp. under a management agreement, reported a loss of $6,810,202 on sales of $105,086,040 for the first half of 1957.

Studebaker-Packard president Harold D. Churchill said yesterday it was a considerable reduction from the first six months of 1956 when the company lost $35,465,456 before special charges on sales of $181,612,836. The company listed these special charges for the first half of 1956 at 60 million dollars.

Churchill also said Studebaker-Packard intends to add a smaller, economy car series with a new design to its present Scotsman line.

He gave no details when it would be introduced or what type of car it would be. He said the decision was made because of the high demand for the Scotsman, which he said "exceeded production."

2. Short ordered Berger to make sure 4.2-inch mortars were aimed at the correct target before resuming fire.

3. Berger checked twice with the fire direction center before ordering the firing resumed.

Short testified that he ordered the first cease-fire when he saw what he thought were mortar shells falling short of their target.

Maj. Robert O. Phillips, overall control officer for the exercise, later testified that Berger, who was Short's assistant, questioned the order. Phillips said he told Berger, whom he held responsible for all artillery activity in the exercise, to check with Short by telephone.

Short said the 41-year-old Philadelphia, Pa., veteran of 16 years artillery service then called and said the mortar shells were on their proper target. Short declared he told Berger to check again.

"I did not order him to resume firing as I wanted to give him the opportunity to recheck," he said.

Lt. Billy G. Walker, who told the court he was Berger's telephone operator during the demonstration, said he checked twice with the fire control center at the defendant's orders. He said he was assured each time that the mortars were firing on the assigned target.

Last week Lt. Rosser D. Moody, Toano, Va., testified that he had mistakenly transposed the firing data used by the mortar company. He testified at his trial on the same charge and was acquitted.

Short testified that almost immediately after his conversation with Berger, "the first round fell." He said several others also fell before the second cease-fire order could be carried out. Four men were killed and 13 others injured.

Predict Building of 6 Million Cars

DETROIT (AP) — Ward's Automotive Reports says that barring strikes or parts shortages the U.S. automobile industry will build 6,244,7000 cars in 1957.

The estimate is higher than any heard in industry quarters since most industry leaders began revising their early estimates downward last spring. Ward's says the estimated output volume would make 1957 the third most productive year in auto industry history.

The agency also predicted Ford Division will finish 1957 with around 1,550,000 units, or about 50,000 units ahead of Chevrolet.

"Ford Division," it says, "will end its '57 model year with a rush in September. After that Chevrolet will be unable to close the margin on its chief competitor even though Chevrolet programming in October-December is greater than Ford's."

Ward's said Ford Motor will account for 31.5 per cent of industry output; Chrysler 20.5 per cent; General Motors 44.8 per cent, its lowest since the 1932 figure of 41.5 per cent, and American Motors and Studebaker-Packard 3.2 per cent.

Ernest Brown Wants Mohammedan Name

JERSEY CITY, N.J. (AP)—Ernest Brown will appear in Hudson County Court Sept. 17 on a petition to change his name. His proposed new name: Nasir Ibnu-d-Din. Brown's petition said he has embraced Islam and wants a name "in accordance with the tenets of his religion."

He's Getting Early Start on Mayoral Campaign

Bibby, 34, an insurance man, inserts the advertisement in Dallas newspapers once a week.

"Eight years from now — when I'm older and smarter — I want to run for the mayor's post," Bibby said.

He estimates the ads will cost him $3,200 in eight years. Friends have put up most of the money thus far.

Market Expected to Strengthen Soon

NEW YORK (INS) — Iron Age states that a pre-fall pickup in steel orders indicates the market is getting set for a major strengthening in the middle of September.

The national metalworking weekly said that from a consumer point of view, the mild flurry of orders reflects a desire by many users to protect their inventory position. With many consumers operating at a rock bottom level, they are insuring themselves against the effects of a major surge of automotive buying.

Just when the auto industry will come into the steel market for its 1958 model runs holds the key to the market situation. Automakers are stretching out model runs of successful 1957's and many may not tip their steel buying hands until more than a week after Labor Day.

The weekly said oil companies have eased up a little on their pipe orders and oil country goods are being affected. Orders from the oil companies, however, are expected to strengthen about the time the general steel market gets going in September.

Car Production to Hit Seven-Week High

DETROIT (AP) — Passenger car production this week should total 124,154 units, a seven-week high, Automotive News said.

The trade paper says the increase from last week's 117,598 car assemblies will result from increases by all members of the Big Three, plus the return of American Motors to assembly operations.

This week's truck output is expected to come to 21,740 against last week's 20,059 units.

Automotive news said Canadian factories are expected to build 9,045 cars and trucks. Last week they built 8,659 vehicles.

The modern building will be of brick and masonry design, according to Forest Brown, branch manager of the company.

The company has branch offices and warehouses in 10 other cities in Michigan in addition to its master warehouse in Detroit.

Discover Body in Car Trunk

Police Probe Murder of Cafe Operator With Long String of Arrests

PITTSBURGH (AP)— Police in Wheeling, W. Va., and Pittsburgh were trying today to learn who killed a Wheeling cafe operator in gangland fashion by stuffing him into the trunk of his expensive auto.

The decomposed body of Nick Miller, 46, also known as Nick Vosovick, was found yesterday. His 1957 $6,000 car was parked on a residential street in Wilkinsburg, 10 miles from midtown Pittsburgh.

Miller, who had a long string of gambling arrests and who had served time in Ohio and West Virginia, was last seen Saturday night when he left his wife and two children in Wheeling. He told friends he was going on vacation for a few days.

Coroner William D. McClelland said an autopsy failed to disclose the cause of death.

Detective John Mennillo in Wheeling said it was possible Miller was slain by racketeers. He said he also was seeking to learn the whereabouts of an ex-convict friend of Miller's who came to Wheeling last week with a "beautiful red-haired companion."

"Miller's friend introduced him to the girl and I'm told he fell for her," he said.

Miller was married and had three children. He operated the Pirate Cafe in Wheeling with a brother, Milan.

Michigan State Campus Map Done in Braille

EAST LANSING (AP) — Visitors and students who are blind soon may "visually" explore the Michigan State campus with their fingertips.

Reproduced in miniature as raised surfaces in paper-thin copper are over 100 buildings and a large part of the 50 miles of sidewalks and 20 miles of roadway which thread the campus.

Railroad tracks are symbolized by parallel raised lines crossed by fine lines representing the ties. The outlines of the buildings will be felt as solid raised portions topped with plastic duplicate.

Member of the Tower Guard, sophomore women's honor society, and students in the Landscape Architecture Club, joined in the project.

Carl S. Gerlach, associate professor of landscape architecture and urban planning, said the braille map may be the only one of its kind.

Plane Crash-Lands Killing 4-Year-Old

Drowned was Phillip Ludwig, son of the pilot, Dr. John P. Ludwig, 43, of Jackson, co-owner of Beaver Lodge on the island.

Coast Guard officials said Ludwig and a third passenger, Richard F. Woodfield also of Jackson, atempted to keep the little boy above water while waiting for a Coast Guard patrol boat to pick them up, but that the boy drowned.

The patrol boat carried the three back to the island, but the boy never recovered consciousness, his father said.

The plane radioed Coast Guard headquarters that it was about to ditch because of mechanical trouble shortly after leaving Charlevoix and refueling. It was en route from Jackson to Beaver Island.

Seek Truck Believed to Have Started Fires

HOPE VALLEY, R.I. (AP)—State police today were searching for a diesel-operated truck believed responsible for starting 29 fires along Connecticut and Rhode Island highways.

The blazes were set off yesterday along Route 165 in Connecticut and Route 3 in Rhode Island. The most serious was in th eHopeville Point State Forest in Connecticut, where 40 acres were destroyed.

LOUIS NYE

Allen's Stooge Has Versatility

Does Many Characters in Addition to Famous Gordon Hathaway

By DICK KLEINER

NEW YORK (NEA) — Critics of television frequently charge that the newest of the entertainment media doesn't breed its own stars.

But nobody can deny that it develops amazingly talented "second bananas" — men like Sid Saesar's Carl Reiner and Jackie Gleason's Art Carney.

And Nye does so many other characters on the Allen show, many of them under heavy makeup, that chances are you don't recognize him half the time he's on.

This comedy streak in him is a late-flowering facet of the man. He was, for many years, a radio actor. He called himself "an emotional juvenile," and generally played highly charged roles. He was also a competent "double," a radio term meaning that he could and did play two parts on the same show.

A FUNNY FEELING

"All this time," he says, "I had a feeling, inside, that I was funny. To myself, I thought that I was a funny guy. So what I'd do would be to play benefits. I'd do monologs, whatever came into my head.

"One time, I did one of these monologs and a Broadway columnist was there. He write me up for a whole column. I was so scared somebody would offer me a job as a comedian that I ran home and hid."

Nye, during this period, had no confidence in himself as a funny man. There was something inside him, wanting to come out, but he would have died of fright on a nightclub floor.

"Now," he says, "I could do a nightclub. But there's no longer the great need there once was. Before, I wanted to, but I couldn't. Absolutely could not face it."

What changed him, more than anything else, was the Army. He began to do little things in the recreation hall at Camp Crowder, Mo. He did sad monologs and funny monologs and patriotic monologs. (At one time, he had a partner for some of these — Carl Reiner.)

BROADWAY SHOWS

He came out and went into Broadway shows, like "Inside U.S.A." and the sensational flop, "Flahooley." And then he began to do some TV work.

About five years ago, he worked an ABC-TV show called "Talk of the Town." At that same time, Steve Allen was doing the old amateur songwriter show, "Songs for Sale."

Allen and Nye exchanged fan letters. Then they met on an elevator and Steve said, "You'll be hearing from me." As soon as Allen got his "Tonight" show, he kept his word. He and Nye have been working together, off and on, ever since.

Nye is married to Anita Leonard, the songwriter who composed "Sunday Kind of Love" and the current hit, "Graduation Ring." They have a 3½-year-old son.

While Nye leads a comfortable life, he admits to the urge to have his own show, "provided I find something that I would fit into."

Meanwhile, he goes on with Steve Allen. The strange thing about this relationship is that there is no contract. He waits until Allen calls him, otherwise he doesn't go on (and doesn't get paid).

Bow, Arrow Hunters Accused of Theft

SAN DIMAS, Calif. (AP) — A charge of grand theft has been filed against two bow and arrow hunters accused of setting up a do-it-yourself butcher shop in a farmer's pasture.

The sheriff's office said the pair killed and butchered one calf and wounded another.

Taken into custody were Robert E. Jackson, 19, Azusa, and Donald N. Jensen, 23, Claremont. Detectives Harold Graves and William Carlberg said they traced the arrows to a man who said he made them for Jackson.

The officers said the butchered calf was recovered from Jackson's dee pfreeze.

Father Knows Best

Bob Young's Show Wins Host of Staunch Friends

By ERSKINE JOHNSON

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — "It's so refreshing to have a family on TV with a father who is normal instead of being a comedian."

Those words in a fan letter to Robert Young go a long way in explaining the TV success of "Father Knows Best."

Those enduring Young acting charms have won Bob an Emmy, but he and his TV family have been winning more and more fans every year for three years.

Now going into its fourth year, "Father Knows Best" is the TV show, you may remember, that was cancelled by its sponsor after only 26 weeks. But there was such a deluge of mail from irate fans — "We were even accused of hiring people to write letters," grins Bob — that another sponsor took a chance.

"Father Knows Best" was born as a radio show for Robert Young in 1949 to the horror of many a Hollywoodsman who wondered why boyish-looking, handsome Bob was "risking" his career as a movie romantic to don slippers and play the father of teenagers.

Movie heroes the same age as Bob were dyeing their gray hair and pressing their wrinkles with make-up in 1949 to preserve their "youth." Some still are.

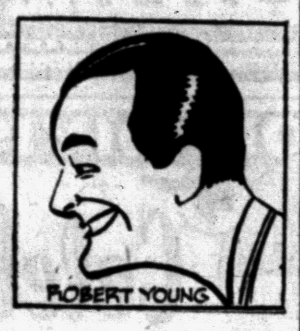

But Bob, with four growing daughters, decided "Father Knows Best" was the best idea for him as a result of "my natural inclinations."

As he told it to me:

"I never thought of myself as a leading man in motion pictures although I played them. I thought of myself as more of a 'young character actor.' I wanted a radio series because it was easy, lucrative and fun. But I couldn't sing or tell jokes or swashbuckle in an adventure show. I never represented the virile, heaving-chest movie hero type, anyway.

"I was the head of a happy family and becoming the head of a happy family in 'Father Knows

Still boyish looking at 50, with one married daughter, another in college and two in their teens, Bob laughs:

"When I was 30 I looked 20. The greatest day in my life was when a producer told me I was too old for a part. I almost kissed the guy."

Bob Young is all over the TV channels these days and nights, too, in old movies dating back to the early '30's.

"Some of 'em," he admits, "give me the creeps. It's funny—in those days three movies a year were my limit—you couldn't risk more for fear of over-exposure. Now I do the equivalent of 10 features a year for a weekly show."

Bob's partner in "Father Knows Best," who produces the show, is Eugene Rodney. He has an idea, too, about the show's success: It's because of the slick writing, believable plots and the cast—and "Father" Young. As Rodney says he told him one day:

Outlook for TV Bright

WASHINGTON — The industry says there will be upwards of 50 million television receiving sets in use in United States homes by the beginning of 1958.

French Colonies Large

PARIS — France's overseas territorial possessions contain more than 4.5 million square miles, which is more than 20 times the size of the mother country, according to recent surveys.

Rich Brazilians Spend Money With Free Hand

By EARL WILSON

One of them, owner of a ranch that is "just miles and miles of miles and miles," needed a plumber to fix his powder room. But as there was no plumber in a couple hundred miles, he flew one in. The plumber and all his equipment landed at one of the rancher's six private airports.

WILSON

The plumber's bill was a paltry $500. When this rancher calls for a taxi, he doesn't mean a taxi but a plane to fly him to the next country.

Howard Hughes would admire some of these gentlemen. Much more conservative is millionaire Victor Costa. Visiting New York recently, he made a tieup with CBS-TV. He also inspected the Bronx Zoo to look at its bird collection.

I was invited to his home and spent two hours looking at his personal collection of 9,000 birds ranging from cockatoos and birds of paradise to lowly American cardinals.

"How many people do you employ to take care of this hobby?" I asked him.

"About eight," he thought.

Hollywood may not like this—but some of the Brazilian movie houses are filled with fleas.

So with the coming of Cinemascope, the local wits began referring to movies as "Bugascope."

Extravagant as they are with some things, the Brazilians are very thrifty with glassware. Many bars serve martinis, properly chilled and with the olive, in an ordinary shot-glass.

Tokyo Police Smash Large Call Girl Ring

TOKYO (AP)—Tokyo police have made what they called their first arrest of a call girl ring.

Also rounded up were 24 girls. Most of the girls were typists, students, office girls, department store sales girls and girls from good families who were just curious or out for a thrill, police said.

The call girl system was not popular in Japan until antiprostitution laws were passed and red-light districts began to shrink.

Nothing Can Shake Up Native New Yorkers

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK (INS)—In a New York city playground, just below my window, a girl child in small red pants has just proven her right to be a good and worthy and impenetrable N.Y.C. citizen.

She has just coasted down a shiny aluminum slide and felt it shake, slip its standard and fall to the cement even as her rear raced to the bottom. She has sat there a moment, feeling for a hurt—turned slowly and glanced over her shoulder at her metal playpath, now flat on its back.

And finally, not in dismay but rather in annoyance, she has risen, brushed off the possible dust created by this disorientation, and walked—not ran—to the next slide.

The attitude of this child to an event which probably would have shocked any five-year-old west of New York into whinnies, could be summed up in two words . . . "Well, REALLY."

Nothing of earth—or slide—shaking proportions appears to disturb the average New Yorker who, from babyhood on, has seen everything. Or enough, anyway, not to be unduly alarmed if a black cat crosses his path—and turns out to be a panther.

New York is the only city in the world where a man can go on a window-shopping tour with a leopard and not cause talk. Unless, of course, it is a "hot," or stolen, leopard.

In this case, the fellow is in for trouble.

On the surface, New Yorkers are most blase about strange people and animals, or combinations of the two, on the street—and I have seen elephants stroll down Broadway so little regarded that you would assume everybody in eyeshot was born a sahib. And a jaded one, at that.

Underneath, however, where the New Yorker's blood is warmer and his heart lies, he is a man with great reverence and admiration for animals; which quite probably is a natural reaction to shuffling endlessly with too many two-footed creatures and finding them basically unlovable.

He is a great booster of zoos and circuses, a scratcher of dogs' ears and an eternal listner for bird calls. When a sunny Sunday comes, New York's zoos are jammed, and her leashed pets get a citywide ovation, and even her pigeons—the grounded ones—are spoken of rather highly.

When news comes out of the zoos (e.g. the death of a gorilla, the birth of an aardvaark, the stiff neck of a giraffe), New Yorkers read about it avidly, talk about it incessantly and express sorrow or joy or whatever other emotion is suitable.

Bear Interrupts Talk on What to See in Park

WEST GLACIER, Mont. (INS)—National Park Service Ranger Robert Jasperson was lecturing 100 tourists when a grizzly bear strolled into the campfire circle.

50 Million U.S. Phones

NEW YORK — There are more than 50 million telephones in the U. S. out of 85 million in the world. England ranks second with about six million.

Ferde Grofe Attacked in Car

Club-Swinging Man Hits Noted Composer, Wife; Is Apprehended

CHICAGO (AP)—Ferde Grofe, 65, nationally known composer, his wife Ann, 49, and Philip Maxwell, 56, promotion director of the Chicago Tribune, were attacked by a club-swinging man as they sat in an automobile in front of the Hotel Sherman early today. All escaped injury when they fled from the car.

The man, identified by police as James Hudgens, 48, Granite City, Ill., was captured by police after a short chase.

Maxwell said after he had parked in front of the hotel Hudgens jumped into the rear seat of his car. He was carrying a board with two nails in it and began swinging at the Grofes and Maxwell, who were seated in the front seat. They jumped from the car, Maxwell said, and he halted a passing police squad car.

Meanwhile, Grofe and his wife took refuge in a cocktail lounge and Grofe said he kept Hudgens out of the lounge by bracing his foot against the revolving door.

Police said Hudgens earlier had created a disturbance in the Hotel Sherman lobby after he had demanded $160 from the hotel cashier. Lt. Charles Pierson said Hudgens had told him he had lost all his money in a card game and the players had taken up a collection for him and a "Mr. Stevens" had left $160 for him with the cashier at the Hotel Sherman. Pierson said Hudgens related he thought Maxwell was Stevens when he saw him parked in front of the hotel. He was held without charge for further questioning.

Attorney Named for Abel

Traitor or Foreign Spy?

By INTERNATIONAL NEWS

Attorney James B. Donovan draws a line between traitors and professional espionage agents, and thus he is going to defend Soviet Col. Rudolf Ivanovich Abel.

He was asked to defend Abel, a Russian who is charged with espionage and conspiracy, by Brooklyn Federal Court Judge Matthew T. Abruzzo on recommendation of the Brooklyn Bar Association.

And the association's recommendation, undoubtedly, was based on Donovan's sturdy abilities as a lawyer and his unusual knowledge of the profession of spying and the ins and outs of international crime.

The square-faced, strong-jawed, 41-year-old lawyer served during World War II on the personal staff of Maj. Gen. William J. Donovan, then director of the cloak-and-dagger office of strategic services. The two men are not related.

After the war, he was an assistant to the late U.S. Supreme Court Justice Robert H. Jackson during the prosecution of Axis war criminals at Nuremburg.

On hearing he had been picked for the job of defending Abel, Donovan interrupted his holiday at Lake Placid, N.Y., and returned to New York to tell newsmen:

"A careful distinction should be drawn between the position of the defendant and people such as Alger Hiss and the Rosenbergs . . ." He pointed out the nature of a secret agent's work is "always dangerous and unrewarding," but, "nevertheless, there are many statues of Nathan Hale in the United States."

Donovan was graduated from All Hallows Institute, Fordham College and the Harvard Law School. He married a Brooklyn girl, Mary Elizabeth McKenna, in 1941, and joined the law firm of Townley, Updike and Carter in Manhattan.

Then came his war service, and, in the course of time, four children. Now the Donovan family lives in Brooklyn, and he is a partner in the firm of Waters and Donovan.

Senate Unit OKs Funds for Reactors

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Appropriations Committee has approved an Atomic Energy Commission money bill containing starter funds for three power reactors the administration doesn't want to build.

The committee yesterday approved an appropriation of $2,323,632,500—24 million dollars more than the House granted but 132 millions less than President Eisenhower originally requested.

The AEC weapons program accounts for about 80 per cent of the funds involved. Other AEC construction projects also are included.

Eisenhower signed an earlier authorization measure Wednesday with a statement indicating he did not regard it as requiring the AEC to construct the reactors, only to conduct studies and like preliminaries.
