Viet Fighting Increases

By The Associated Press

The heaviest action in nearly two months was reported across South Vietnam yesterday. But U.S. military spokesmen said it was too early to tell whether it was only a brief break in the war lull or the prelude to renewal of major enemy operations.

★ ★ ★

More enemy and allied casualties were reported since midnight Wednesday than in any such period since June 18, when the current lull in major sustained ground fighting began.

★ ★ ★

Allied communiques reported a sharp increase in ground fighting just south of the demilitarized zone, in the coastal lowlands south of Da Nang, in the Central Highlands, and in War Zone D northeast of Saigon.

Along with this, the Vietcong yesterday made the biggest terror attack in Saigon since the lull began and a commando squad successfully invaded a U.S. convalescent hospital at Cam Ranh Bay.

NO STEPUP SEEN

But a spokesman for the U.S. Command said the sharp increase in ground fighting "is not necessarily an indication of increased enemy-initiated activity."

★ ★ ★

Other U.S. officers said they see no indication that North Vietnamese troops are massing along the demilitarized zone for a large-scale attack, despite the heaviest fighting there in more than two months.

★ ★ ★

The Saigon government announced a major shakeup of generals in the South Vietnamese army today.

Two widely criticized division commanders were transferred. They had led the 5th and the 18th Divisions, which U.S. officials rated the least efficient units in the South Vietnamese army.

Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, U.S. commander in Vietnam, is known to have told Washington that these two divisions would have to be improved for the South Vietnamese army to have any chance of holding its own without help from American troops.

★ ★ ★

The series of transfers and promotions evidently was designed to meet such criticism and give the South Vietnamese army a better command structure.

★ ★ ★

In Washington, two Senate war critics are pointing out that despite Nixon's announced withdrawals, U.S. troop strength in Vietnam continues to rise and now stands at 4,500 more than when Nixon took office.

"Apparently we're going in the wrong direction," Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., told the Senate.

DECLINE TO START

"Why is it," asked Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., "in view of the announced withdrawal of troops we have more troops in Vietnam today?"

A week ago the Pentagon explained troop strength would start to decline in early August and would reach 515,000 by the end of August as stated after Nixon's June announcement.

★ ★ ★

Gore presented figures showing troop strength Aug. 2 of 537,000 compared with 536,000 a week earlier, 535,200 July 17, and 532,000 Jan. 18.

Sens. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., John G. Tower, R-Tex., and John C. Stennis, D-Miss., said they would ask the Pentagon for an explanation and present the figures to the Senate.

Asked Cousin to Take Rap, Reporter Says

'Teddy Tried to Shift Blame'

By The Associated Press

Columnist Jack Anderson says Sen. Edward M. Kennedy asked his cousin, Joseph Gargan, "to take the rap" for driving the car in which a young secretary drowned.

In his copyrighted column today, Anderson said Gargan "grimly said he would admit to driving the car."

"In the cold light of dawn, Kennedy decided to face the consequences himself, and then he filed his terse statement with the Edgartown police at 10 a.m.," said Anderson, who co-authors the column with Drew Pearson.

The Washington Post quoted Gargan as saying in Hyannis Port, Mass., there was "no truth whatsoever" to Anderson's story.

Anderson, attributing his story to "reliable sources" and Kennedy "intimates," said the senator had invited Mary Jo Kopechne to go for a midnight swim the night the car went off a narrow bridge.

The columnist described the swim as "a nocturnal adventure not uncommon on Martha's Vineyard."

"Nor are these summer night swims necessarily viewed as evidence of immoral conduct," Anderson added. He said Kennedy knew where he was going, but the car was going too fast and went off into the water.

Mary Jo drowned despite Kennedy's efforts to free her.

In his exhausted state, Kennedy conceived the idea of asking "Joe Gargan to take the rap for him," Anderson said.

Anderson said Kennedy summoned Gargan and "returned to the scene of the disaster to make certain that Gargan would be totally familiar with the circumstances surrounding 'his' unfortunate accident."

★ ★ ★

An inquest into the accident is being planned by Dist. Atty. Edmund Dinis, who said yesterday that he will call Sen. Kennedy as a witness.

The senator has said he would cooperate in any legal proceedings connected with the accident, and has canceled a European trip in order to keep himself available.

OVER 20 WITNESSES

Dinis said yesterday he hopes to begin the inquest within a week or 10 days. He added that he would call 20 or more witnesses, including all persons who might have had any knowledge of events before or after Kennedy's car plunged off a bridge on Chappaquiddick Island.

District Court attaches doubted that the inquest could be held as quickly as Dinis wants and suggested that it was unlikely to be opened until some time after Labor Day.

Meanwhile Dinis was advised that he will have to go to court if he wants an autopsy on the body of Miss Kopechne, who is buried in Plymouth, Pa.

The dead girl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kopechne of Berkeley Heights, N.J., have indicated they will oppose exhumation of the body, and Dist. Atty. Blythe H. Evans Jr. of Luzerne County, Pa., has assured them they will have a chance to make their stand in court.

KIN OF SLAYING SUSPECT — Relatives of John Norman Collins, 22, charged in the murder of Karen Sue Beineman, arrive at the Ypsilanti District Court building for his pretrial examination, which was recessed yesterday until next Thursday. Tax Bill Wins Big in House; Outlook Is Cloudy in Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House gave its huge tax reform and relief bill a big send-off by passing the measure 394-30, but the legislation was destined for a cautious reception in the Senate.

The Senate Finance Committee will give the bill a careful going over and plans to hear more than 100 witnesses, largely speaking for interests which face higher taxes if it becomes law.

These hearings won't start until after Congress returns Sept. 3 from its summer recess.

Chairman Russell B. Long, D-La., has promised to try to complete committee action by Oct. 31.

EXTENSIVE LEGISLATION

The bill passed yesterday by the House was the most thorough tax code revision in a generation.

It tightens the law in 27 different areas to produce ultimately $6.8 billion in additional revenue and would provide eventual tax relief calculated at $9.2 billion.

The greatest proportionate savings would be at the low end of the income scale and for widows, widowers and single persons 35 and older.

Predictions were that the reforms might be cut back sharply in the Senate committee.

But any reforms deleted in committee could be restored on the Senate floor.

Collins' Lawyers Named Public Defenders

From Our News Wires

YPSILANTI — A few cautious coeds are beginning to venture out into the night in this university city terrorized by a string of coed killings that began two years ago yesterday.

But uneasy residents settled down to wait a week to hear police evidence against John Norman Collins, charged in the seventh slaying.

After the pretrial examination was recessed until 9 a.m. next Thursday, the same two attorneys who had withdrawn as Collins' counsel earlier — Robert Francis and John M. Toomey — were appointed his court-paid attorneys.

The parents of the first victim in the grisly series, 19-year-old Mary Fleszar, were among the courthouse spectators yesterday, kept from the courtroom along with all but witnesses and thoroughly searched newsmen by security regulations.

REPEATS WORD 'CANADA'

Dutch mystic Peter Hurkos, who entered the coed killings earlier in the summer, stopped by Collins' rooming house yesterday and kept repeating the word "Canada" while sitting on the bed and touching the walls, ceiling and furniture. He did not elaborate.

While Collins waited for his continued pretrial examination, four Michigan investigators were in Phoenix, Ariz., to question Andrew J. Manuel, 25, a friend of Collins.

However, J. Pat Madrid, U.S. marshal at Florence, Ariz., where Manuel is held, said he will not allow anyone to speak to Manuel "and that includes law enforcement officials from Michigan and California."

California police have attempted to question Manuel about some killings in the Salinas, Calif., area where the abandoned trailer was impounded a week ago.

Manuel, being held on a federal fugitive warrant, indicated he would fight extradition.

Collins is charged with first-degree murder in the death of Karen Sue Beineman, 18, an Eastern Michigan University coed who disappeared July 23.

No one has been charged in the other killings, although police have said Collins has not been eliminated as a possible suspect.

Cavanagh Denies Lazaros Charge

By JIM LONG

Detroit Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh, in Oakland County Circuit Court yesterday, calmly denied any connection with a reputed Mafia leader on trial for extortion.

Moments later, as he left the courtroom of Judge Frederick C. Ziem, Cavanagh was confronted by Peter Lazaros, former Mafia rackets man, who indirectly had put the mayor in the position of defending himself.

★

Lazaros testified Monday that the defendent, Joseph Barbara Jr., had delivered bribes to Internal Revenue Service agents and Cavanagh in December 1967.

Barbara, 33, of Fraser is being tried on a charge of extorting $4,000 and a diamond ring from Lazaros' wife Delores, while Lazaros was in prison in early 1968.

Barbara, the president of the Tri-City Sanitation Co., Detroit, also has been accused of raping Mrs. Lazaros on two occasions while Lazaros was in prison. That case is still in the preliminary examination stage.

Lazaros approached Cavanagh in the corridor outside the courtroom and demanded that he mayor publicly answer charges about alleged bribes.

★ ★

Surrounded by newsmen and spectators who had crowded the courtroom and hallway, Cavanagh quickly replied to Lazaros, "I wouldn't talk to you in front of cameramen or anyone else," and walked away.

As Cavanagh walked away, Lazaros shouted that the Mayor was a "crook, a liar and a coward."

Cavanagh was on the witness stand for less than five minutes during which he was asked only three questions by Barbara's attorney, Ivan Barris.

The mayor had been subpoenaed to testify by Barris as a means of challenging the credibility of Lazaros, who has said he turned against the crime syndicate because Barbara raped his wife.

The brief exchange between Barris and Cavanagh went like this:

"Have you ever seen Barbara in your life?"

It looks like Pontiac area residents will enjoy another pleasant weekend.

Nixon to Air Welfare Plans on TV Tonight

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon invited Republican congressional leaders to breakfast at the White House today to talk over the broad-ranging domestic policies he will outline to the nation tonight.

In a 9 p.m. (Pontiac time) television address from his Oval Office, the President will put forward what the White House is billing as the most comprehensive statement on home-front programs since his state-of-the-nation pronouncement in mid-April. (The broadcast will be carried locally by Channels 2, 4 and 7.)

He is expected to outline a grand design for carrying out his oft-stated campaign pledge to get people off welfare rolls and onto payrolls.

Among the features of the plan Nixon will unfold is a federally backed minimum of $50 a month for all welfare recipients, in addition to whatever funds the states themselves will add.

The plan also reportedly includes payments for poor people who are not "on welfare" but are still working—in effect an income supplement.

Another feature of the package was believed to be a scheme whereby each head of a household receiving federal payments would automatically be considered in line for training and employment, and would be faced with a loss of benefits if he rejected jobs or job training efforts.

The session with congressional leaders was to map strategy for pushing the proposals—most of them for pushing the controversy — through the Congress and to arrange last-minute modifications to make them more palatable.

The address will deal with plans for standardizing welfare payments and guaranteeing a minimum family income, a companion plan to broaden federal manpower training programs and a restructuring of the Office of Economic Opportunity, which administers most poverty programs.

★ ★ ★

White House aides called in some governors and mayors Wednesday and yesterday to brief them on the plans before the President's speech.

Sought-After Traffic Light to Be Erected

BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — A commitment has been obtained from the Oakland County Road Commission to erect the long-sought traffic light at the critical Lone Pine-Telegraph Roads intersection.

Cost of the project is $59,000 which will be shared by the county and township.

★ ★ ★

Cost of the light installation is approximately double over the original estimate due to the need of construction of a left-turn lane at the intersection. The township had to supply the $29,000 because of the state's inability to provide the funds.

The intersection has presented severe traffic problems for several years, township officials said.

However, the problem has been accelerated recently since the opening of the township's new library near the intersection. The library has drawn considerably more traffic to the intersection.

The project is expected to be completed within six weeks.

Richard T. Hartzell, 2557 Warwick, was named assistant staff engineer for electrical operations at Pontiac Motor Division.

He previously was supervisor of product engineering. Hartzell joined Pontiac in 1958 following graduation from the University of Michigan.

James A. Preib has been appointed advertising and sales promotion manager for Abitibi Corp., 1400 N. Woodward.

He will be responsible for all advertising, promotional and public relations programs.

BINGHAM FARMS — Henry G. Bleeker, 32810 Bingham Lane, is the new general sales and marketing manager of the Ford Motor Co.'s Industrial Engines and Turbine Operations Division.

His last position was national programs manager for the Autolite Ford Parts Division.

Kuhn Tax Plea Will Be Heard by High Court

Michigan's Supreme Court will take up the issue of whether the state income tax is constitutional.

Pontiac attorney Richard D. Kuhn was informed yesterday by the high court that it has accepted his application to appeal the tax.

★ ★ ★

Kuhn, who has been fighting the tax in courts since 1967, said he now will file briefs in the case, but he has no idea how long it will be before the Supreme Court would decide the issue.

Only last week, Kuhn had questioned the long delay on the part of the Supreme Court in responding to his request to appeal the case.

'VERY PECULIAR'

He noted at that time that he had filed the application more than six months before, and added that he found it "very peculiar" that the Supreme Court had not given him an answer.

Kuhn went to the Supreme Court after the tax was upheld in rulings in Oakland County Circuit Court and the Michigan Court of Appeals.

He claims the tax law violates both the state and federal constitutions.

Specifically, he challenges the provisions setting different tax rates on individuals, corporations and financial institutions. He claims this is contrary to the 1963 Michigan Constitution's ban on a graduated income tax as to rate or base.

Reds Fire Moon Craft

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union lanched an unmanned spacecraft today on a journey to photograph and study the moon and nearby lunar space but gave no indication of a soft landing was planned.

Possibility of Life Disputed

Mars Data Splits Scientists

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — There is a possibility life could exist on Mars, a scientist who studied data from Mariner 7 says.

Other scientists say they have seen no evidence so far to support such a belief.

★ ★ ★

Dr. George C. Pimentel, a University of California chemist, told a news conference yesterday that a Mariner 7 instrument detected ammonia and methane near the Red Planet's south polar cap.

"We have to face the possibility they could be of biological origin," he said.

NO SIGN OF VOLCANISM

Ammonia and methane are found in living things on earth but also can be produced by volcanic action. Experts say they have found no sign of volcanism on Mars.

Pimentel was on a panel of experts who discussed findings radioed to earth by Mariner 7 after it skimmed within 2,000 miles of the polar cap last Thursday.

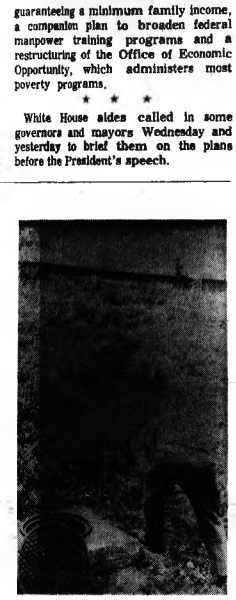

"I'm a chemist, not a biologist," he said, "but if these data are real, and I think they are, and if the gases are of biological origin, there is a reservoir of water ice at the south polar cap, protected from the sun by solid carbon dioxide clouds in the atmosphere, and thus the cap could be an area hospitable to life."

Dr. Gerry Neugebauer, California Institute of Technology physicist, said other instruments showed the cap to be carbon dioxide in the form of surface snow, not in the atmosphere.

★ ★ ★

He added that an infrared radiometer, similar to the infrared spectrometer whose readings were cited by Pimentel, showed no methane or ammonia.

Asked to resolve the conflicting readings, the two said their findings were only tentative and it would take months to reach definite conclusions.

Manhole Was Home

Toronto Home Was a Real Hole

TORONTO (UPI) — They gave Svetomir Kusmanovich a new home yesterday.

For the last three years, Kusmanovich, 54, has lived in a 6-by-10-foot manhole adjacent to a parking lot in downtown Toronto.

Because of his peculiar abode, his friends called him the rabbit.

Tuesday police discovered the rabbit. After a brief struggle, during which he allegedly threatened them with a five-foot iron bar, the police charged Kusmanovich with vagrancy.

He appeared in court yesterday, and the charge was withdrawn when the Salvation Army said it was giving him new accommodations.

WARM IN WINTER

Reporters who visited the manhole found only a mattress running with insects and a couple of bags of rotten food.

In winter, however, he must have been comfortable. Three steam pipes run through the hole.

Sydney Sykes, 70, the attendant of the adjacent parking lot, who has watched Kusmanovich pop in and out of the hole for three years, said his conscience prevented him from telling police.

Sykes said Kusmanovich had odd visitors and he said he thought he saw a woman drop in on him a few weeks ago.

No Sign of Life in Moon Soil

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Early experiments indicate there is no life in the moon soil collected by the Apollo 11 astronauts.

There is, however, a remote possibility that more extensive study in the months ahead could turn up lunar organisms.

★ ★ ★

That's the conclusion of a group of scientists who yesterday issued the first comprehensive report on preliminary study of the 50 pounds of rocks and dust.

Earlier piecemeal reports led to some speculation that lunar organic material had been discovered.

★ ★ ★

But the scientists said it is most likely the tiny amount of organic substance found in some rocks was of earthly origin—from the astronauts' space suits and the containers, rubber gloves and tools used to handle the materials.

Senate Seeking to Revive Loan Setup for Collegians

WASHINGTON (AP) — Efforts to revive a guaranteed loan program for college students in time to help those trying to enroll this fall are being pushed in the Senate.

Sponsors said chances for Senate passage of compromise legislation were good but that the outcome in the House was in doubt.

They are working against a deadline of next Wednesday, the day Congress begins a three-week recess. By the time it returns, most colleges and universities will be about to begin their fall terms.

A Senate education subcommittee approved the compromise bill late yesterday after holding an emergency public session in the morning.

The full labor committee planned to act on it today and sponsors hoped to win Senate passage later this afternoon.

The legislation will be attached as a rider and sent back to the House on a bill already passed by that branch to extend the Older Americans Act.

Sponsors are hopeful this strategy will make it possible for the House to accept the Senate amendment, clearing the measure to President Nixon.

This would get around an impasse in the House over a college student loan bill approved earlier in the week in the education and labor committee.

Its managers have been unable to call this up because of threats to try to add to it a controversial amendment seeking to deny aid to students who join in disruptions at their institutions.

Negotiators Hit Snag on Pan Am Contract

WASHINGTON (AP) — Negotiators trying to end a strike against Pan American World Airways ran into a snag today while attempting to nail down a tentative contract agreement.

The negotiations were recessed for six hours.

★ ★ ★

Assistant Secretary of Labor William J. Usery Jr., declined to speculate on the prospects for agreement when negotiations resume.

Usery said he believed the negotiators still had tentative agreement on what he termed the major issues.

Cavanagh Denies Receiving Mafia Bribe

"No, only in pictures and on television."

"Have you ever received money or anything of value from Barbara?"

"No, I have not."

"On Dec. 17, 1967, did you receive an envelope from Mr. Barbara?"

"No I did not."

Cavanagh told newsmen that he was testifying to "clear the record of an accusation made by Mr. Lazaros that is not only false but absurd."

After Cavanagh refused to talk to him, Lazaros remained and said that Cavanagh knew him long before he became mayor of Detroit in 1961.

★ ★ ★

He also said that Cavanagh received a $5,000 bribe at a party given by Robert Adell, a former Detroit fire commissioner.

"He represented men and the element I was involved with in gambling operations," Lazaros charged. "I have evidence that I hope the grand jury will take to prove the truth."

Information provided to state police since Lazaros' release from prison last October to appeal a $127,000 fraud conviction was instrumental in the calling of a grand jury in Oakland County.

As his attorneys tried to stop him from talking to newsmen, Lazaros, who has been under constant police protection since detailing Mafia activities, also said he was the one who had Cavanagh phone Atlanta, Ga., Mayor Ivan Allen Jr., on behalf of two men who wanted to obtain a restaurant license.

Lazaros said the two men had connections with the Mafia and would run a "clip joint."

In an apparent change of strategy by Barris, Cavanagh's testimony was given in the absence of the jury of seven men and six women. Barris explained that he merely wanted to make a record if he has to appeal the case to a higher court.

★ ★ ★

NO PROSECUTION QUESTIONS

No questions were asked of Cavanagh by Special Prosecutor Jack Bain, who later said he saw no reason to do so since the jury wasn't present.

The prosecution finished its case yesterday afternoon, calling Lazaros' father and mother to the witness stand.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Lazaros, 58, however, became hysterical and collapsed on the witness stand and had to be carried out of the courtroom. She was taken to Pontiac General Hospital where she was treated and released.

Neither she nor her husband, Nicholas, speak English.

FATHER 'THREATENED'

Speaking Greek through an interpreter, the senior Lazaros said that Barbara came to Lazaros' home (2610 Dalesford, Troy) shoved him, and threatened him with a throat-slashing gesture on the day that Lazaros and his wife went to the State Police to tell their story of the alleged rape and extortion.

After the prosecution finished its presentation, a routine defense motion by Barris for a directed verdict of acquittal was denied by Judge Ziem.

★ ★ ★

The first defense witness was Alex Phillos, 59, of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., a former business associate of Lazaros, and one-time owner of the Detroit Sausage Co.

Questioned by Barris, Phillos said that the relationship between Peter Lazaros and his wife was not as the pair had depicted on the witness stand.

He said that Mrs. Lazaros had once told him and his late wife that Lazaros had threatened to kill her and that Lazaros had not left her with any money when he went to prison.

The statements were in conflict with those given earlier by Peter and Delores Lazaros.

Phillos said that Lazaros had been blackmailing him because he knew "I was cheating on Uncle Sam."

Phillos said the Internal Revenue Service now has his case.

Soviets Retaliate, Expel U.S. Envoy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Russia has expelled a diplomat from the U.S. embassy in Moscow in retaliation for the U.S. ouster of an official of the Soviet United Nations delegation on a charge of spying.

The State Department, announcing the exchange of expulsions, disclosed also that the U.S. had protested to the Soviet government that the retaliatory action against embassy counselor Milton Kovner was "prejudicial to our relations."

The Soviet delegation member at the U.N. was named here as Igor L. Andreyev, a counselor of the Soviet mission at U.N. headquarters in New York.

The United States, press officer Carl Bartch said, told the office of U.N. Secretary General U Thant on July 14 that Andreyev had "engaged in activities in the U.S. which constitute abuse of the privilege of residence within the meaning of Section 13B of the headquarters agreement between the U.S. and the U.N."

Collins' Lawyers Named Public Defenders in Case

Tips and information possibly related to the killings continued to pile up today at the crime center established last week to coordinate the investigative effort.

In Ann Arbor, Washtenaw County Sheriff Douglas J. Harvey said three guns owned by Collins have been recovered from a man who said he bought the weapons from Manuel on July 26.

Prior to yesterday's hearing, Toomey and Francis had asked for a bill of particulars, a move to enable them to inspect the prosecution's evidence in the case. The prosecutor said he would oppose the motion.

Collins' legal bills will be paid by the county.

"This will give him the right to a lot of things, such as the court paying for independent blood tests, ballistic tests and fingerprint analysis," Francis said.

The lawyer described his client as a normal young man.

"He certainly understands what is happening to him in this case. He is not psychotic in my opinion, but seems to be a normal 22-year-old young man who is under stress."

Air Pollution Stirs a $15-Billion Suit

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Three auto manufacturers, a group of major oil companies, federal officials and the governors of 32 states were charged yesterday with imperiling the lives of the people of the United States in a $15-billion lawsuit over air pollution.

C. Jon Handy, a land developer, and William R. Bernstein, a researcher, filed a class action in federal District Court here on behalf of themselves and the people of the United States.

They claim General Motors, Ford and Chrysler automobile manufacturers are responsible for 90 per cent of air pollution.

Their petition asks the court to compel the governors, and Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Robert Finch to seek the aid of Atty. Gen. John Mitchell to force automobile and oil companies to utilize designs in manufacturing vehicles, and methods in the refinement of gasoline which would abate "the imminent peril to persons living in the country under smog conditions."

Public Prodded on Drug-Suit Claims

LANSING (UPI) — If you lived in Michigan any time between 1954 and 1966 and if you purchased any antibiotic drugs during that time, chances are you have a right to part of a $100-million price-fixing lawsuit settlement being offered by five major drug companies.

That was the essence of an announcement made by Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley at a news conference yesterday.

★ ★ ★

Kelley said that while the number of Michiganders eligible for part of the $100 million is in the millions, only 48 have filed claims thus far.

The lawsuit was filed by Michigan and a group of other states against the five drug companies earlier and was filed in such a way as to make residents of the state eligible for damages, Kelley said.

WIDELY USED

The three drugs, all classified as "broad-spectrum" antibiotics and all widely used, are Aureomycin, Terramycin and Tetracycline products.

The attorney general said it is estimated that an average family with small children would have spent $500 to $1,000 on the three drugs during the 12-year period.

He said if all consumers affected by the alleged price fixing were to file claims on the drugs they purchased, the $100-million settlement offered by the five companies "could be made to look like a piddling sum.

"I am advised that if a family had prescriptions from 1954 through 1966 for such common ailments as respiratory infections, intestinal infections, or skin infections, there is a good chance that they were purchasing antibiotics which are the subject of this settlement," he said.

IS IT SUFFICIENT?

The five companies have offered the $100-million settlement of the suits, and the federal courts now are attempting to determine if the $100 million offer is sufficient to cover damages.

The five drug companies involved are Chas Pfizer & Co., Inc., American Cyanamid Co., Bristol-Meyers Co., Olin Mathieson Chemical Corp., and the Upjohn Co.

★ ★ ★

Kelley said any Michigan resident who purchased any of the three drugs during the 12-year period may file a claim for damages by writing to the clerk of the U.S. District Court, Box 752, Bronx, N.Y. He said individual claims must be filed by Aug. 16.

★ ★ ★

The claim, which must be notarized, should include the name of the product purchased, the amount spent for it and the pharmacy from which it was purchased.

FILE CLAIM ANYWAY

"Where the consumer is absolutely certain that he has made such purchases, but is unable in the few days remaining before the filing date to obtain the necessary proof, he should consider filing his claim and using the time before he is required to show the proof to gather that evidence," Kelley said.

The $100 million will be divided between the public agencies who have filed the suit and the consumers who file for their share of it after all claims are in, Kelley said the amount of the awards will depend on the number of persons who file claims.

★ ★ ★

"We, in this office, stand ready to help any consumer who is in need of general information concerning the method of filing claims," he said.

For Wolverine Lake Village

Cityhood Vote Nov. 4

By LOIS FRIEDLAND

WOLVERINE LAKE — An election has been set Nov. 4 for Wolverine Lake Village residents to decide on cityhood. The date was approved formally yesterday by the Oakland County Board of Supervisors.

The petition for incorporation described the desired boundaries as including the entire village and 6½ miles of Commerce Township.

The township land, 90 per cent vacant, extends north and west of the village limits. It includes a small portion of Commerce Lake, approximately half of Reed Lake and portions of Mud and Hawk lakes. It then goes south to Pontiac Trail along the east boundary of Walled Lake.

Village Manager Clifford Cottrell, said, "the decision to seek an election was based on economics and changing times.

"Economically, our village is very desirable to other governmental units (for annexation). We have no indebtedness, no bond issues, and have had no tax increase for three years," he explained, adding that if steps were not taken to incorporate soon some other governmental body might try to take over the village.

Last January, Walled Lake voters defeated a proposal to annex part of Wolverine Lake and part of Commerce Township.

Assessed valuation of the two square mile village is $8 million. Approximately one third of that area is water.

Cottrell further explained, "Populations are catching up with us and everything is geared to the city concept of government. It is a much more workable form. If the electors vote for a city, we will be able to create the type of charter which will be in the 1969 vein rather than the 1800's township variety."

CHARTER COMMISSION

When voters decide on the cityhood question they also will vote for nine charter commission members. Those who wish to be commission candidates still can file petitions with the village to appear on the ballot.

Wolverine Lake has a tax base of 8½ mills, of which 1.38 mills goes to Commerce Township for services including fire protection, property assessment, of the township's area. If the proposed school and county tax collection and elections.

* * *

The village makes up about 14 per cent incorporation is approved in November that figure will be come nearly 25 per cent.

Consequently, Commerce Township Supervisor Robert Long is not happy with the proposed cityhood: "Our planning commission has been developing a master plan since 1967 and I think it contains very good plans for the future development of that area," Long said.

TOWNSHIP HAS PLANS

A small industrial area and a commercial center are scheduled in the proposed annexation area in the general plan, which will be presented to the township board for approval this fall.

"When an area subdivides it can become many small cities, as has happened on Woodward Ave. Every city wants to have its own industrial and commercial areas to create a tax base. So you may get duplications of services also. This is my main objection," Long commented.

Rose Votes to Slow Boats on Big School Lot Lake

ROSE TOWNSHIP — The Township Board has voted 3-2 to slow down powerboats on Big School Lot Lake.

The action stemmed from a petition signed by residents who own property fronting the lake. They complained that excessive speeds of powerboats, particularly boats pulling water skiiers, were creating boat traffic hazards as well as a noise nuisance.

* * *

The State Natural Resources Department had determined that boating controls should be invoked on the lake after a July 2 public hearing.

Township Supervisor Milton Nelson said the resolution will not be adopted as an ordinance until probably the regular October township meeting. The Oakland County Sheriff's office will be responsible for enforcing the ordinance.

* * *

Township Wants No-Left-Turn Zone Here To Halt Telegraph Accidents

No Quick Relief Seen for Crowded Telegraph

BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — Motorists should not expect any appreciable relief in the rising amount of traffic problems on the township's six-mile section of Telegraph Road.

That is the word from township officials, who were advised by State Highway Department Director Henrik Stafseth Wednesday that only a few months could be shaved off the Telegraph improvement construction timetable.

* * *

Under present plans, construction of a four-lane expansion would not begin until 1973, with completion scheduled for a year later.

Stafseth told a township delegation in Lansing that it would take at least four years to complete land acquisition and plans for the project.

'WORST IN STATE'

Township Supervisor Homer Case, contends that police traffic records prove the Telegraph traffic problem is the worst in the state and should be given top priority.

"I am sure that if the legislature and Gov. Milliken pressured the Highway Department the commitment could be moved up considerably sooner than 1973," Case declared.

* * *

Case asked Stafseth and several top highway department officials at the meeting why Telegraph was left out of the department's five-year construction plan in 1964. The township had submitted a complete set of its own plans for the improvement project.

Stafseth explained that the federal government's decision to shift spending priority to interstate highways such as I-75 and I-696 was the prime reason.

PLANS LACKING'

He added that the original plans presented by the township and adopted by the state in 1967 did not include complete engineering and design specifications.

Highway Department sources said the federal defense budget has made less money available to the state for road improvements.

Stafseth told township officials that state appraisers would have to be used in the land acquisition negotiations.

Supervisor Case said the township would be willing to use its own appraisers in an effort to complete land acquisition sooner, but was told the procedure is for the Highway Department to assume responsibility for all land acquisition.

30 PCT. INCREASE

If the accident rate on the section of Telegraph running through the township follows the present trend through the balance of the year, the total will be approximately 30 per cent higher than a year ago, township police records show.

Personal-injury accidents have averaged 230 annually on Telegraph over the past three years. There already have been five fatalities on the highway this year, up four from last year.

The only Telegraph improvements immediately scheduled are road widening projects at two critical intersections — Long Lake Road and Maple — and the installation of a traffic light at the Lone Pine Road intersection, scheduled within six weeks.

The Maple and Long Lake Road projects are the only recommended improvements being carried out as a result of the township's original plans submitted to the state in 1964.

SEN. BEEKE HELPED

Mrs. Delores Little, township clerk, said the meeting with Director Stafseth and other highway department officials was arranged through State Sen. Lorraine Beebe, R-Dearborn, a member of the Senate's highway department committee.

"The Highway Department has a sympathetic attitude towards the Telegraph road problem here and recognizes that it is possibly the most critical sections of highway in the state," Mrs. Little said.

"Highway Department officials said they would do all they could to bring relief to the situation, but it is highly doubtful that little more than stopgap measures will be carried out until 1973. A widening of the highway to eight lanes is the only way the traffic hazards will ever be fully corrected," Mrs. Little said.

She added that possibly one reason that the township was left out of the five-year state highway department plan in 1964 was that the township didn't supply enough pressure on state officials.

"We do not intend to let that happen again," Mrs. Little declared.

Another meeting is scheduled for Sept. 4 at Township Hall. The township plans to invite Stafseth and other highway department officials, and merchants with businesses on Telegraph and legislators in another attempt to try to hasten improvement of Telegraph.

Springfield in Fight

SPRINGFIELD TOWNSHIP — Township Supervisor Nelson Van Natta is not one to quit a fight.

Van Natta is the latest Oakland County township official to wage what appears to be a losing battle against the Lakehead Pipeline Co.

The Ontario company is building an oil pipeline through Northern Oakland County, which extends from Chicago to Port Huron.

* * *

Most of the hostility against Lakehead has stemmed from its alleged "overbearing attitude" towards securing right of way access to private property.

COURT BATTLES

Numerous court battles have been fought by residents from Rose and Brandon townships and several in Macomb County in an attempt to keep Lakehead from placing the line across their property.

Van Natta said the township will not give Lakehead permission to cross a township road with the line until the company specifies construction time length and arrangements for financial settlement for damages.

* * *

Said Van Natta, "We know we cannot really prevent Lakehead from coming through the township. They can always throw an injunction at us. But we do want to make them more responsible and to at least do the job correctly."

Lakehead has construction crews working in the township on the line, but has not yet crossed any township roads.

UNPAID EASEMENTS

Van Natta said residents also are unhappy because the company has not yet paid property owners for easements along the right of way.

Concerning other township business, Van Natta said the Township Board has followed the recommendation of the Zoning Board and the Oakland County Planning Board and rejected a petition requesting authorization to develop a 120-acre mobile home park on Big Lake Road near Andersonville Road.

Three Freed by N. Viets Return to U.S.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Their new uniforms hung loosely on their thin, wracked bodies, and one of them lay in a stretcher.

But they were home and with loved ones at last.

★ ★ ★

Air Force Capt. Wesley L. Rumble, 26, of Claremont, Calif.; Navy Lt. Lg. Robert F. Frishman, 28, of Long Beach, Calif.; and Navy Seaman Douglas B. Hegdahl, 23, of Clark, S.D., arrived back in this country yesterday after having been released by the North Vietnamese who had held them as prisoners of war.

★ ★ ★

They had returned to the United States from the Far East, and during a stopover of the commercial jet in Frankfurt, Germany, they were given uniforms complete with all the decorations to which they were entitled.

BAGGY LOOK

But the three men had lost so much weight during their internment the uniforms looked baggy.

They were reunited with their families in the privacy of the jetliner in New York after the other passengers had left, and then all of them were transferred to a medical evacuation plane the Pentagon had arranged to bring them to Washington.

★ ★ ★

Frishman, acting as the spokesman for the three, offered to answer questions of the newsmen who had gathered at Andrews Air Force Base in the setting sun.

Separated by the fence, the newsmen shouted questions and Frishman answered. But most of the words were lost in the roar of the planes. He did reply, however, that they had received "adequate food, clothing and housing" during their capitivity.

TAKEN TO HOSPITALS

Then an ambulance came by to carry Rumble, reportedly suffering from dysentery, chills and fever, to the Andrews base hospital. A helicopter took Frishman and Hegdahl and their families to the Bethesda Naval Hospital where they will be examined and treated.

Frishman was accompanied by his wife, Janet, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry B. Frishman of Long Beach. Accompanying Hegdaul were his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Hegdahl of Clark. Following Rumble's stretcher were his mother, Mrs. Lyle C. Rumble of Orville, Calif., and his brother, Bruce, 17.

Frishman's arm hung at his side. It had been wounded, and North Vietnamese doctors removed the elbow joint. A reporter asked what his plans were.

"My plans are that I'm in the military, and I'll do anything they want."

*NY Mohawk Gets U.S. Post

Indian Commissioner Named

WASHINGTON (AP) — The search for a new commissioner of Indian affairs took the Nixon administration to a village in New York where Agwelius of the Mohawk tribe was picked for the job.

Agwelius, translated "Swift," also bears the name Louis R. Bruce. The village is Greenwich on the island of Manhattan, which the Indians lost to a fast dealing paleface 343 years ago.

It took six months for the administration to choose the new commissioner.

★ ★ ★

"I'm a lifelong Republican," Bruce said. "I would say I'm one of the few American Indian Republicans, judging by the length of time it took to pick a commissioner."

The Democrats set a precedent when former President Lyndon B. Johnson named Robert L. Bennett, an Oneida Indian, as commissioner.

INTERVIEW OTHERS

Secretary of the Interior Walter J. Hickel said he and his deputies interviewed among others a Sioux from South Dakota, two Navahos from Arizona, a Mescalero Apache and a Pueblo from New Mexico, a Chocktaw, a Klowa and a Chickasaw from Oklahoma and an Indian from Hickel's own Alaska.

Most of them were Democrats.

★ ★ ★

Bruce is a former public relations and advertising executive. The Interior Department said he is from Richfield Springs, N.Y., where he owns a dairy farm, but Bruce says his real address is Greenwich Village.

★ ★ ★

"I had some calls asking if I was a hippie Indian," Bruce quipped. "They think maybe there's a tribe living in the Village."

The son of a Mohawk chief, Bruce lived on a reservation in upstate New York until he went away to prep school. He remained active in Indian causes.

Bruce campaigned for Dwight D. Eisenhower in 1952 but later stumped against Eisenhower's policy of terminating federal jurisdiction over reservations, still a touchy topic among the Indians.

★ ★ ★

Last fall he campaigned for Nixon and says the Republican showing was not bad considering one thing.

"My God, they're all Democrats," he said.

We Applaud Harambee

A cooperative movement initiated by the blacks of Pontiac, a movement that may well be unique in the United States, is rapidly emerging from a dream concept into concrete reality.

TUCKER

The movement, known as Harambee, Inc. (a Swahili word meaning "Let us work together") was born 15 months ago by influential blacks as a nonprofit project to provide additional housing and upgrading of existing housing in the south-central area of the City.

Harambee was conceived as a project to improve living conditions for low-income and disadvantaged segments of the local population, irrespective of race, color or creed.

To date, this significant social enterprise has acquired three tracts of land, totalling 10 acres, on which housing construction is expected to begin within 90 days, providing living accommodations for 160 families.

Additionally, a 12-acre site has been acquired near the Lakeside Homes complex, and another of the same size at the foot of Lake Street, which it is planned to expand by acquisition of adjacent property. Highrise apartment structures are envisioned for the first location, complemented by commercial facilities, while 100 town house units and 75-90 single-family homes are blueprinted for the second.

★ ★ ★

Harambee, Inc. was gotten off the ground by joint participation of the Pontiac Study Committee and Metropolitan Detroit Citizens Development Authority, an organization founded by private citizens to bring about low-income housing through non-profit sponsors.

★ ★ ★

To push the development of its many-phased housing program, Harambee officials are working with the City in an effort to obtain Federal aid through the Neighborhood Development Program, a novel concept for urban renewal. Application for such assistance is expected to be submitted to the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Renewal within the month.

★ ★ ★

The Press commends the directors of Harambee, Inc., headed by President Charles Tucker, on the impressive progress made to date on their housing program and on its significant potential for community social and racial unity.

Reducing Diet?

David Lawrence Says:

Victory for ABM Is Fortunate

WASHINGTON — For many weeks now, the American people have been reading the initials ABM in the headlines, and it may well be wondered how many persons know what the controversy is all about. It has to do, of course, with the installation of an antiballistic missile system to help defend the United States.

LAWRENCE

Half the Senate wound up in a tie with the other half in a vote on the issue. Fortunately, the attempt to block passage of a bill giving President Nixon the power to build the defenses he deemed necessary was defeated.

Why do so many senators feel they know more about the subject than the men with military experience who serve in posts of high command in the Pentagon? Why is there a division inside both political parties?

In the crucial vote on Wednesday, 14 Republicans voted with 36 Democrats against the ABM. The President got 29 votes for his proposal from the Republicans, who were joined by 21 Democrats. The tie vote meant defeat of an Amendment which would have prevented construction of the ABM.

ANTIWAR VOTE?

But why the large vote against the President? The reason probably is that back home a vote against the ABM program was considered tantamount to a vote against the Vietnam war. Nothing, however, could be more misleading.

There are many people, to be sure, who think that the so-called "military - industrial" influence in government needs to be repressed. But this is an exaggeration.

★ ★ ★

When a vote in the Senate by his own party doesn't give full support to the administration in office, it is regarded abroad as a sign that the latter is failing and will somehow tumble.

The simple truth is that there is no "deterrent" in sight which can be used to intercept all the enemy's missiles. The only way to prevent a war is to convince the Soviets that the United States can, in retaliation, destroy a vast part of its adversary's domain.

ENOUGH WEAPONRY

Each side has enough weaponry to wipe out the other, and the advocates of the ABM system have said right along that the offensive force must be kept healthy and strong, no matter what it costs.

The appropriation requested for the antiballistic-missile system is only about $700 million. But this is part of a $20-billion military-procurement bill which contains provisions for other weapons that are under criticism. Hence the controversy in Congress is by no means over.

★ ★ ★

Many of the senators perhaps have taken their position in opposition to the administration because it is a spectacular way to indicate that they do not favor the Vietnam war. But this is a dangerous kind of politics.

Picking flaws in weapons was never before so noticeable in the Senate and House.

Unfortunately, the administration has not made its own case clear and has taken it for granted that most people understand why the ABM issue is so important in a nuclear age.

The narrow victory for the administration would be more meaningful if the objectives of the United States government — namely, to bring about a limitation of arms and to seek in that way to prevent a nuclear catastrophe — could be more plainly portrayed before the world.

Nixon Parts Iron Curtain

The Peoples of the world can live in peace despite differences in their ideologies and their governments.

This was the gist of the message which President NIXON brought back to America from his round-the-world tour, a journey smashingly topped off by the enthusiastic reception accorded him by Romanian Communist chief NICOLAE CEAUSESCU and the people of Romania.

NIXON

The message is hardly new, of course. Peacemakers have been preaching it for centuries without notable success. The trouble is, as it has always been, that too few governments allow their peoples to develop free and friendly contacts with the peoples of other countries.

★ ★ ★

No comparable trip by a Soviet leader to a nation in the Western orbit would generate such high hopes of a breakthrough to a new era of peace and cooperation between East and West, or at least parts of them. The reason is that the United States and its allies are bound to one another not by chains of coercion but by ties of mutual interest.

★ ★ ★

Any nation of Western Europe — France, West Germany, the little Netherlands — is free to welcome any foreign head of state it wishes without fear of adverse repercussions in Washington, much less the threat of occupation by American troops.

Whether or not the Romanians cleared things with Moscow before issuing the invitation to NIXON, there is the unmistakable impression that they were glancing back over their shoulders in that direction the whole time — half-defiantly, half-fearfully, like a girl going out on a date with a young man disapproved of by her parents.

★ ★ ★

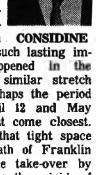

The President's unprecedented visit by an American president to a Soviet satellite cannot be called a rupture of the Iron Curtain. That rusty, outmoded old thing has, however, been given a good shaking.

With each such shaking it is that much less secure, that much less useful.

Bob Considine Says:

Last 30 Days Packed With Momentous News

NEW YORK — What man has wrought in the way of hard news in the past 30 days! The stories boggle the mind and leave even the deepest-domed editorialist at a loss for proper cliches.

CONSIDINE

It is difficult to remember when so much of such lasting importance happened in the course of a similar stretch of time. Perhaps the period between April 12 and May 8, 1945, might come closest. Packed into that tight space were the death of Franklin Roosevelt, the take-over by Harry Truman, the suicide of Adolf Hitler and VE day.

★ ★ ★

All infinitely momentous, of course.

But what of the landing on the moon, the first close look at Mars, the calamity of Ted Kennedy, the hint that we'll have no more Vietnams, and the ecstatic greeting given to President Nixon in Communist Bucharest?

WITHOUT DE GAULLE

Not to mention, for millions of others, the first steps of a France without De Gaulle, a now naked build-up to a possibly catastrophic confrontation between the Soviet Union and China. And, of course, the Mets. And Jets. (A British journalist, stationed in New York, wrote in his paper last Sunday that the biggest man in the American public mind today is Joe Namath, not any statesman, politician or movie star.)

Those stories could and in all probability will alter your life and mine and those of our children, if played out to their logical ends.

★ ★ ★

The Apollo 11 astronauts are about to be sprung from their splendid isolation at Houston and turned over to a nation — indeed, a world — that will never give them another moment's rest and privacy. They are marked for life, men apart, adventurers in the mold of every great explorer through the ages — and then some. Not since Lindbergh . . . and look what we did to him.

We are flirting with Mars as never before. Man will go there one day, sure as shooting. We haven't the hardware, yet, but it is taking shape in the form of a nuclear space engine at a place named Jackass Flats (Nev.).

Problems Await New Hospital Head

By L. GARY THORNE
City Editor

The voice of mission control for Michigan heart transplants has been retained as administrator for Pontiac General Hospital.

THORNE

Dr. Roger B. Nelson was the spokesman for the three successful heart transfers accomplished at University of Michigan hospital, which gains Nelson a novel measure of public recognition.

Dr. Nelson will commence to administer the local hospital Monday, earning $45,000 a year for his efforts. This is some $19,000 more than the hospital trustees saw fit to pay Harold B. Euler, recently forced into early retirement by the 11-member board.

While 45 grand may stagger some of us common folk, it would appear to be the going rate for an "executive director and consultant" bearing an MD degree and a couple three decades of administrative experience.

★ ★ ★

Heretofore the number two administrator at the U. of M. workshop, the 60-year-old Nelson has a difficult task. The task is so tough a few more heads may have to roll.

The man from Ann Arbor faces an administrative staff more than somewhat divided over the dismissal of Euler. Thus, a few more department heads may elect to depart rather than follow the new man.

★ ★ ★

This would not be unusual. In fact, whether the last chief got canned or not, a few always seem to flee when the new command takes over, be it Washington, Lansing or Pontiac.

The first order, of course, will be for Nelson to decide whether he wants an assistant administrator. He well might so decide, for a hospital spokesman has said Nelson will handle Euler's duties plus some more.

Securing the services of Nelson, who seemingly is well equipped to direct the Huron Street institution, would appear to complete the chapter and verse on who is going to head up the hospital.

★ ★ ★

The only remaining question is how much to pay Euler, which may be decided by a judge at a still later date. The hospital board has taken its stand and isn't going to back off. The City Commissioners are keeping their collective hands in their pockets.

The quality of medical care has never been an issue. Thus, those who still harbor a grievance can only wait until the next commission election, it being those gentlemen who appoint the guardians of the hospital.

Meantime, all hail the new chief!

'Why Give Kennedys Privileged Treatment?'

One angle of the Kennedy situation that has hardly been mentioned and certainly not explained is that six married men were having quite a party in an isolated area with six good-looking young women (not their wives). If six union or industry executives were caught in such a situation, they would probably be faced with the choice of either resigning or being fired. How come friends of the Kennedy clan receive such privileged treatment?

'Kennedy Should Get Benefit of Doubt'

I resent the implication that Sen. Edward Kennedy is either a murderer or a drunk. A man certainly is not in very good condition after escaping from a submerged car. It would be hard for anyone to make an underwater rescue and almost impossible for somebody who nearly drowned himself.

★ ★ ★

Just because he ran his car over the side of an unsided bridge doesn't mean he was drunk. Perfectly sober people will zig-zag across highway lanes or ram their cars into trees. I think a man of position should be given the benefit of the doubt.

Letters Question Judging of Parade Floats

Would the judges of the Paul Bunyan-Union Lake Village parade explain how a car with only a mannequin leg sticking out of the trunk took first prize for the best float? I wonder how the leader of the Horse Marauders 4-H Club explained to 25 children how their float, which obviously took much planning, money and hard work, went unnoticed.

NORMA M. JOHNSON

The Union Lake Jaycees and others who put together the splendid Paul Bunyan parade deserve a lot of credit, but the judges should hang their heads in shame. When so much is said against teen-agers, why wasn't more consideration given to the group of boys and girls of the Marauders 4-H Club?

Question and Answer

Would you please tell me the address of a paperback book company? My daughter loves to read and I'd like to buy her a few books on sex, beauty, grooming and things women should know. I'd like to be able to write for them, if possible.

MRS. P. W. B.

REPLY

We could give you addresses, but you've listed so many topics you'd have to write to a number of companies. We suggest you talk to the book manager of a local store which handles paperbacks and ask him to let you know what's available. The City Library could also be of help in suggesting books for your daughter. Either way it would be much easier than writing all the companies that put out books on the subjects you've mentioned.

Question and Answer

Could you tell me about the movie or movies that are going to be made from J. R. Tolkien's trilogy, "The Lord of the Rings?"

REPLY

George Allen & Unwin Ltd., the London, England, firm which handles movie rights for the book, says "at the moment the film contract is being actively negotiated, but until it is finalized" they cannot disclose any details.

Search for Nessie

The Grand Rapids Press

Yellow Submarine is the name of a surrealistic motion picture made recently by the Beatles. It's also a homemade gadget being used by Dan Taylor Jr., of Atlanta, to search for the Loch Ness monster. We really don't know whether there's a connection between the two.

★ ★ ★

In any case, Mr. Taylor, who is the latest in a long line of romantics who have sought to establish the existence of Nessie, has considerable logistic support from Field Enterprises, a University of Chicago biologist and the latest sonar equipment.

Last December, we recall, a team of British scientists detected a fast-swimming "object" in the Scottish loch. But there hasn't been any sober sightings of the monster since 1934 when a doctor produced a fuzzy photograph of a long-necked creature making waves in the lake.

No one really knows whether Nessie is a good or a bad monster. We're reminded, though, that a monster in the flesh is invariably less frightening than one that exists in the imagination, and as Snoopy says, that's a good thing to remember.

Rate Fight

The State Journal

Atty. Gen. Frank J. Kelley's fight against increased rates for Michigan's top utility companies and the struggle with Michigan Consolidated Gas Company in particular, is an issue which could have far-reaching impact on this state, and needs a close look.

★ ★ ★

Kelley has broadly been taking the position that the requests for rate increases which have been before the Public Service Commission (PSC) for several months are not justified. It is the traditional role of the public official fighting in behalf of the consumer.

But there are serious questions as to whether the attorney general's campaign will really serve that goal.

There is considerable evidence that the utility companies need the rate increases to attract investment capital for urgently needed expansions of facilities. It is disturbing to note that reputable investment experts are advising clients to avoid purchasing the stock of Michigan utility firms because of the stringent position taken on rate increases by state officials.

It has long been politically popular for public officials to oppose such increases in behalf of the consumers. In this instance, however, the public could end up as the loser.

The attorney general may get some political mileage out of the current court battle, but the consumer may end up paying for it later.

Raises for VP, Speaker Near; Pay Setup OK'd

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew and House Speaker John W. McCormack are in line for $19,500 pay raises. And Congress apparently is going to keep its automatic system for periodic boosts in its own salary.

Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., challenged the system Thursday night and lost.

* * *

The issue arose as the Senate acted on a bill to boost the pay of Agnew and McCormack to $62,500 a year.

The same measure provides $7,000 raises for the minority and majority leaders of the House and Senate, and for Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., the president protempore.

NO INCREASE THEN

Members of the House and Senate got $12,500 salary increases earlier this year to make their current pay $42,500. Agnew and McCormack got no increase then.

Their pay bill, cleared by the House on March 18, had been held up in the Senate since April 29, largely as a result of the dispute over the system of automatic congressional salary-setting.

* * *

Under the system, a federal commission sends recommendations to the White House every four years on the pay of top government officials, members of Congress and the judiciary. With the President's signature, those salary levels take effect automatically unless House or Senate vetoes them within 30 days.

Williams sought to scrap the procedure.

'ESCALATION'

"It is possible to escalate these salaries over and over every four years without having a roll call vote in the House or the Senate," said Williams.

He said that means everybody in the Senate can go campaigning and claim he opposed the latest congressional salary boost, with no roll call record to prove him wrong.

* * *

The Senate adopted Williams' amendment once, 49 to 36. Then Sen. Peter Dominick, R-Colo., sought to limit the pay raise to the vice president, and the whole issue was sent back to the Senate Post Office and Civil Service Committee.

The bill came back stripped of the Williams amendment, though Williams and Dominick claimed they had a commitment that the Senate would insist on eliminating the automatic salary revision system.

Sen. Gale W. McGee, D-Wyo., the committee chairman, said that wasn't so. The House, which now gets the bill again, would never stand for that, he said.

In essence Agnew's pay raise was in jeopardy if the Senate insisted on eliminating the automatic salary system.

* * *

Williams kept trying.

After his amendment was rejected, 50 to 47, Williams then proposed that the Senate vote a pay raise only for Agnew, but that was blocked, 68 to 25.

And the pay raise bill passed on a voice vote—while a half-dozen senators jumped to their feet to shout that they opposed it.

Michigan's U.S. senators split on the Williams amendment, with Philip Hart voting against it and Robert Griffin supporting it.

Direct Vote for President Gets Boost

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new lift has been given to a proposed constitutional amendment for election of the president by direct, popular vote, but a long, uncertain road still lies ahead.

Two developments Thursday buoyed the amendment's supporters: A poll of 27 less-populous states by Sen. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., showing their legislators favored the proposal; an agreement from the Senate Judiciary Committee to consider electoral reform Sept. 9, although not necessarily vote on it.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., chief Senate sponsor of direct election, said Griffin's poll hopefully would cause President Nixon to reassess his position. Nixon has said he feels the man with the most votes should win, but doubts such an amendment would be ratified by the necessary 38 states.

'VERY GOOD CHANCE'

Griffin's poll is significant, Bayh said, because it was taken in states likely to oppose direct election.

Griffin sent a copy of the poll to the White House and said it showed the amendment "stands a very good chance of ratification if Congress submits it to the states."

The House Judiciary Committee already has approved a direct election amendment and the House is expected to take it up next month.

* * *

In the Senate Judiciary Committee, however, Bayh said he expects "a real knock-down, drag-out fight" and doesn't know whether a majority can be mustered to support the proposal.

Some members favor a plan under which each state's electoral votes would be divided among the presidential candidates in proportion to the popular vote they received.

New Book Is a Mystery Buff's Delight

By MILES A. SMITH
AP Arts Editor

NEW YORK — Do you remember the name of the detective in Edgar Allan Poe's "The Murders in the Rue Morgue," "The Mystery of Marie Roget" and "The Purloined Letter"?

How many detective, mystery and suspense novels have sold more than a million copies, counting both hard cover and soft covers?

* * *

The earliest known film about Sherlock Holmes was made in what year?

Dedicated mystery buffs should be able to give these answers: C. Auguste Dupin; 151 and 1903.

They are just three of many fascinating tidbits to be found in "Who Done It?" by Ordean A. Hagen, just published by R.R. Bowker Co., with the subtitle "A Guide to Detective, Mystery and Suspense Fiction."

Nearly half the book's 834 pages consist of a giant bibliography of approximately 20,000 titles—novels and stories—giving author, title, year of publication and publishers.

It covers the period from 1841—Poe—to the present.

Some entries consist of a single title. For example: "Faulkner, William. Knight's Gambit. Random, 1949; Signet, 1956."

But many veteran professionals in the thriller field have scores of titles after their names. The list of John Creasey's works takes up more than seven pages.

PSEUDONYMS

Hagen also dug up the pseudonyms which the more prolific writers use. In Creasey's case there are 16—Gordon Ashe, M.E. Cooke, Norman Deane, Robert Caine Frazer, Patrick Gill, Michael Halliday, Charles Hogarth, Brian Hope, Colin Hughes, Kyle Hunt, Abel Mann, Peter Manton, J.J. Marric, Richard Martin, Anthony Morton and Jeremy West.

Hagen, who until his recent death was a librarian at the Chester Fritz Library at the University of North Dakota, estimated that about 40 per cent of the American reading public chooses detective, mystery and suspense fiction for leisure reading.

In his search for every possible title, the author ran into many puzzles because titles often have been changed.

One example: The original title of one Agatha Christie book was "4:50 from Paddington." It was serialized as "Eyewitness to Murder." When it was published in the United States it became "What Mrs. McGillicuddy Saw." Later it was made into a movie called "Murder, She Said," and was published under that title in soft cover.

Hagen incorporated some statistics on best sellers from "70 Years of Best Sellers" by Alice Payne Hackett, which was published by Bowker in 1967.

Of the 151 books in this field that have sold a million or more copies, 91 were written by Erle Stanley Gardner, followed by Richard Prather with 16, Ellery Queen 13, Mickey Spillane 12, Ian Fleming 11, Mrs. Christie 4, Dashiell Hammett 2 and John D. MacDonald 2. The first million-copy thriller was Mary Roberts Rinehart's "The Circular Staircase," first published in 1908.

In all U.S. editions, the top-selling title of this genre is "I, the Jury," by Mickey Spillane, which at last count had sold 5,390,105 copies.

One section of Hagen's book is devoted to cross-indexing the more than 560 thrillers that have been made into movies, with comments on several dozen writers whose works often became films.

He found that "Perhaps more movies have been made from the Sherlock Holmes stories of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle than from any other author's." He counted 106 films about Sherlock, "including 17 versions of the Hound of the Baskervilles."

He is not very happy about Hollywood, agreeing with Mrs. Christie that it takes a well-plotted story, then changes, mutilates, and slaps a cliche title on it. He reports she was reluctant to sell her stories to the movies, and when she did part with some of them, "enjoyed immensely the bad reviews they got from the critics."

Another section classifies the thrillers according to subjects, from "Advertising" and "Amnesia" to "Universities and Colleges."

He lists 80 books that have children or juveniles as principal characters, among them Taylor Caldwell's "Wicked Angel," Graham Greene's "Brighton Rock" and Davis Grubb's "Night of the Hunter."

"There used to be a taboo about using children in mystery and detective stories," he comments. "If they appeared at all, it was only as victims of kidnaping and they were invariably returned safely to their parents at the end of the story . . . Nowadays children are not only kidnaped; they also are victims of sadistic killers, or vicious killers in their own right."

Junior Editors Quiz on POTTERY

QUESTION: What is faience and how was it made?

* * *

ANSWER: The young persons in our illustration are ancient Egyptian children and they are playing with two remarkable toys a pottery maker has made for them.

Over in the Nile river, the great lazy hippopotamus love to wallow, with fronds of the papyrus plant waving about them.

Our pottery maker got the idea of making some little pottery hippos. He used just the right clay to model them, covering this with a glaze which, after being fired in an oven, gave a beautiful, brilliant sapphire blue surface. He painted the shapes of the papyrus plants over the hippos, giving the feeling of the animals in their home rivers.

One little hippo shows the way the huge beasts sometimes open their mouths very wide — and the boy is imitating this, to his sister's amusement.

This kind of glazed pottery became widely used in the ancient world, for dishes and tiles as well as figures. It became especially well developed in the town of Faenza, in Italy, and from this came the name of faience.

Theatre Troupe Seen at Work and Play

James Housley, an independent artist traveling with the American Ballet Theatre, is shown behind-the-scenes at Baldwin Pavilion designing lantern slides for production backgrounds. The 8:30 performances, tonight and Saturday, will include a new ballet (unnamed); "Don Quixote," pas de deux; "Pillar of Fire" and "Theme and Variations." Sunday's performance, at 6:30 p.m., repeats the opening-night program, with the "Grand Pas—Glazounov," and the three-act "Coppelia."

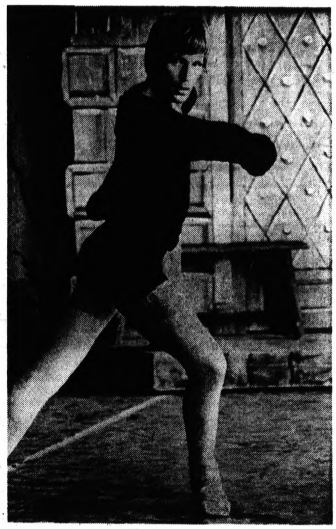

Lead dancer Karena Brock relaxes during rehearsal with knitting needles and yarn. The ballerina, formerly of Los Angeles, has been with the American Ballet Theatre six years. She is the wife of principal dancer Ted Kivitt.

Ballerina Diana Weber touches up her makeup in one of the several multiple-mirrored dressing rooms presently being completed beneath the Baldwin Pavilion. A $500,000 Kresge foundation grant to the Festival capital fund is allocated to this improvement and other adaptations of the stage house which will be completed by next summer.

Guest artists Kirsten Simone, prima ballerina of the Royal Danish Ballet, Copenhagen, and Erik Bruhn, director and star of the Royal Swedish Ballet in Stockholm, were caught at long range by our photographer, going through a "marking" rehearsal of "Miss Julie," getting ready for Thursday evening's performance. With each new orchestra, the traveling artists must check tempi with choreography.

The William Mitchells of Bloomfield Hills (extreme left and right) opened their home Thursday to members of the American Ballet Theatre now performing at Meadow Brook Festival. It was an afternoon geared to off-stage relaxing for the hard-working troupe. Shown from left to right between the hosts are ballerinas, Betsy Erickson, Paula Tracy and Stephanie Wolf.

Money Shower for Couple Is Proposed

By ELIZABETH L. POST
Of The Emily Post Institute

Dear Mrs. Post: I am the consultant in a bridal salon, and I have just been asked about a "money tree" shower for a bride. It seems that the bride and groom will be leaving for another part of the country right after the wedding and would prefer not to have a lot of gifts to transport.

I have never heard of this kind of shower and I cannot think of appropriate wording for a shower invitation.—Mrs. D. S.

★ ★ ★

Dear Mrs. S.: I do not like the idea of giving cash as a shower gift. The purpose of a shower is a sentimental one — to give a bride a personal memento from a friend as well as helping her fill her trousseau or household needs. A $5 bill hardly is a very personal reminder of a friend.

A "travel shower" to make their move easier, might be an alternative. Another suggestion is a "gift certificate shower" with gifts of certificates from stores in the area to which the couple are moving. This can be arranged by the hostess and seems less commercial than giving "cold cash."

Card Party, Luncheon Scheduled Wednesday

The annual card party luncheon of Countryside Improvement Association is to be held at Bay Pointe Golf Club at noon, Wednesday.

Mrs. Edwin B. Dryer is hostess for the event. She will be assisted by Mesdames: Ernest Fuller, Harley Melzian, R. D. Baker, and Harold Joyce.

Drug Abuse Is Topic

Waterford Charter chapter of the American Business Women's Association will hear Lt. Dave Putnam of the Waterford Police Department speak on "Narcotics and Drug Abuse." The meeting will take place Wednesday at Pontiac Country Club.

Danish Artists Perform in Meadow Brook Ballet

By JUNE ELERT

Ballet in performance is beauty in abundance. Color, movement, music and drama combine to delight the senses.

As in all art, there is in the finished product little trace of the labor that went into its making. All is perfection. Glamor takes over the stage, never relaxing until the final stylized bows are taken.

★ ★ ★

Rehearsal hours are a good deal more revealing. Here is where the work is done, where dancers sweat, attired in costumes that have more utility than beauty. Where thick stockings and baggy sweaters protect the muscles from chills. Makeup is at a minimum and breaks are occupied with personal concerns, writing letters, knitting, embroidering.

MOVEMENT

Still glamor prevails. Young men stride rather than walk—and, on impulse, one may swing a girl companion into the air and carry her about above his head until the thought that "It might get a bit bloody" persuades him to set her on her feet again.

Kirsten Simone and Erik Bruhn were taking advantage of an orchestra rehearsal "marking" the choreography for "Miss Julie." This technique of sort of "walking through" the ballet is simply to check the tempi with an unfamiliar orchestra. It saves the strength for performance.

The two guest artists have delightful Danish accents. Both call the Royal Danish Ballet in Copenhagen their "home company," though Bruhn is now director and star of the Royal Swedish Ballet in Stockholm.

★ ★ ★

Miss Simone's handshake is firm and her expressive eyes are friendly. Her ballet studies began at age 11. She was accepted into the Company at 16. A few years ago, she was appointed prima ballerina.

The ballerina's repertoire comprises a long list of the standard roles plus a number of less familiar parts including "La Sylphide," a Danish 19th century ballet by Bournonville.

Offstage, her interests are in artistic things: galleries, opera, drama, but, she said, "There is little time for hobbies." She spends a lot of evenings sewing elastic and ribbons to the couple of hundred pairs of point shoes she goes through in a season.

Open-air theatre is not unusual in southern Europe, she said. It was tried in Denmark, too, but the weather was against it and so it has closed.

★ ★ ★

Here, at Meadow Brook, she likes it, though there are some difficulties. The dampness makes the stage sticky sometimes and also breaks down the papiermache toes of the ballet slippers. For this one guest appearance with American Ballet Theatre Miss Simone brought about 25 pairs of slippers with her.

A trim 110 pounds and about 5' 2" tall, Miss Simone disclaims that dancing alone will maintain the figure. "Of course," she said, "If I ate everything I like, I would get fat."

The blonde star flew back to New York today following an exciting performance of "Miss Julie" Thursday evening at the Meadow Brook Festival. She will return to Copenhagen about Sept. 1 to prepare for the Royal Theatre's 9-month season, where, incidentally, her brother is also a principal dancer.

Ex-Marine Wages Nightly Battles

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I think there is something wrong with my husband. He was a Marine in World War II and was always very proud of that, but lately he has been sleeping in his uniform, with all his medals, cap and even his sword.

Should I watch him for other signs of peculiarness? He's not old enough to be getting senile.

WORRIED IN CLEVELAND

★ ★ ★

DEAR WORRIED: Don't try to diagnose your husband's case. He needs professional help. Get him to a doctor. In or out of uniform.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: A couple my husband and I have known for many years suddenly up and got a divorce. All their friends were shocked at the news because no one suspected they weren't getting along and there was certainly no hint of divorce. It still doesn't make much sense as there seems to be nobody else in the picture and this couple have married children.

Well, they are living apart now which creates some sticky problems for their friends. Would it be proper to invite them BOTH to the same party — but individually?

If not, and a choice is made, should the hostess ask the invited one to bring his (or her) own "date?" Or is it proper to pair up a not-yet-divorced person with another single person at the party?

This couple did a lot of entertaining when they were together and it doesn't seem right to ignore them now, but it's so awkward making a choice, and could be worse having them together.

Abby, you could make a fortune if you wrote a new book on divorce etiquette. There is so much of it today and nobody knows exactly what to do.

STUMPED IN PALO ALTO

DEAR STUMPED: When couples split up, unless their friends know positively that there would be no embarrassment or strain, it's best not to invite them to the same party. If one is invited without the other, it's better to pair him up with a "single" partner at the party, but don't suggest a not-yet-divorced person bring his own "date."

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: My husband has been missing in action in Vietnam for two years. I have two small children. I want to know what is the code of conduct for a wife in my situation?

My friends have been wonderful to me. And so have my parents, and his, too.

Am I free to date? I mean go out to dinner or maybe see a movie with another man? It has been two years now, and I am so tired being the odd one. I am not considered a widow, and yet I'm not really married, and I'm not single either.

I pray that my husband will return, but this can drag on for another two years, or maybe longer.

★ ★ ★

If you print this letter maybe other wives in the same situation will write in and give me a clue as to what to do. I don't want to give my name or address because someone in my husband's family might be hurt, but please print this and try to help me. WAITING

DEAR WAITING: I would say that you are married until you are officially notified that you are a widow. And I would conduct myself accordingly. If others in your boat have a better solution I hope they'll write to me so that I can share it with you.

It's How You Don't Play That Counts

By BETTY CANARY
NEA Writer

These are difficult times for those who blanch at the thought of any activity more strenuous than beating others in a race to the hammock. At this time of year, malevolent forces gather, determined to include you in a fast game of tennis.

Benevolent neighbors, always the first with whatever game the discount store is pushing (this year it's bocci or lawn bowling), struggle to include you in team sports "for your own good."

Getting Out of It is a game in itself (some play an offensive game while others use defensive tactics) and those actively engaged in this sport have shown great ingenuity in winning out against almost inconceivable odds.

★ ★ ★

While I do not wish to detract from their victories, I maintain that, although clever, crutches, back braces and imitation plaster casts do have limitations. With the use of such devices, life can soom become a mesh of lies.

JUST LIE

Not that I am against telling lies. After saying, "No, thank you," to a nice sweaty game of volleyball and twisting out of the iron grip of players (I must say volleyball players have terrific handclasps), there's not much else left but to lie.

★ ★ ★

I do suggest that plausible lies do very little good and tend to merely set you up later for a game of badminton. After all, broken legs and arms heal; gallbladder attacks either cease or an operation cures you for ALL TIME

Remarking how your doctor advises against team games because of your tendency to collapse when faced with a net usually calls for proof and necessitates falling to the ground with stunning force, then staying there long enough for the ants and gnats to set you to twitching convulsively. Those who have used this method of getting out of it say volleyball is easier.

★ ★ ★

All in all, the implausible lie is the best. Some for use during future games encounters are:

"C'mon, just one game?"

"Sorry. NASA said after that last dose of radiation I'd have to stay out of the sun."

"Are you too lazy for bocci?"

"Well! If YOU don't believe what Freud said about bocci players, I DO."

"WHY won't you play volleyball?"

"I'd love to but, confidentially, every time I jump, IT falls off."

★ ★ ★

Workable lies for all-around use include:

"Frankly, the Secret Service won't let me."

"My guru commands no activities this month — except, of course, eating my daily peck of avocados."

"Gee, I'm too tired. If ONLY I could get a night nurse for my sick gnu."

Early desert nomads wore layers of cotton to keep cool.

'Do Own Thing' Paris Reports

By JOAN DEPPA

NEW YORK (UPI) —Hemlines stay high. Hemlines drop.

Paris designers ended their fall and winter collections on a mixed hemline theme, leaving it to the individual woman to decide just where she wanted skirt lengths to go in the 1970s. It's a "do your own thing" decade ahead, say the high priests of French design. The woman of the next decade will do more experimenting with a much more varied wardrobe.

★ ★ ★

Only one Paris designer tried to dictate what women should wear. That was Yves St. Laurent, and judging from the reaction to his efforts to haul skirts way down and, in the opinion of some try to make women look like little old men, St. Laurent ran into open revolt.

The most applause and approving chatter went with the Marc Bohan of Dior and Pierre Cardin collections. Both designers made all sorts of hemlines but in two very distinct styles.

RETROSPECTIVE LOOK

Bohan's dresses, whether they are very short or a "new length" of 14 inches from the floor had a slightly retrospective look.

Cardin had even longer skirts and shorter ones than Dior's, Bohan, and plenty of lengths in between. But there was never so much as a backward glance.

Caradin announced that the "lunar era" had arrived and, women should dress to suit it. Then he unveiled a collection that showed he really wanted them to dress to suit themselves as long as they kept their eyes firmly on the future.

HEADS LOOK SMALL

In all, Paris projected several loud and clear messages:

The head should look small. Elaborate hairdos were almost nonexistent. Chignons, French twists, and short shingled hair prevailed in most salons. Dior showed short, curly hair with soft tendrils down the back of the neck and over the ears. Hairpieces were still used for evening, but less elaborately.

★ ★ ★

For daytime, the hair should be covered, usually with a pulled down knit beret or a tight fitting cloche. For evening too, the hair often was covered.

Jewelry was less important in Paris than in New York, where long strands of pearls bedecked everything With Paris, one important jewel was better than two matching pieces—in fact, sets of jewelry with earrings and necklace to match just about disappeared.

Horse Raiser, Soon a Racer

CLINTON, Minn. (UPI) — Mrs. Susan Haas, mother of two, has trained a horse for harness racing and, as soon as she gets her driving license, will be engaging in racing.

★ ★ ★

Having received her first horse when she was 11, she has been raising them ever since. She and her husband live on a farm near here and have 20 horses.

★ ★ ★

"Harness racing can be dangerous," admits the petite Mrs. Haas, "the racing bike could fall apart, or you can get crowded during a race and bumped, from one side or another. But, as in any sport, you need to be careful."

Support Eyed for Go-Go Girls

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — San Francisco, which claims to be the birthplace of the topless dancing fad in 1964, is considering passing a law ordering the girls to put bras back on.

Mayor Joseph Alioto told a news conference Wednesday that if the Board of Supervisors passes an ordinance against topless — and bottomless — performances, he will sign it.

★ ★ ★

"I expect the Board of Supervisors to consider the issue as soon as it can," he declared. "If the board sends me an ordinance, I'll sign it." And Supervisor Terry Francois said if the board gets such an ordinance proposal, "I have no doubt it will pass."

James A. Scatena, speaking for the Citizens Committee for Social Order, said his group of businessmen would demand that the city end such performances.

Cartons Are Usable

DEAR POLLY — I want to tell Mrs. D. D. S. Jr., that I am just back from visiting my daughter in Oregon. She has an herb "garden" in her kitchen window. It is made with those new plastic egg cartons. They also would be nice for starting flower plants for the garden or to take plants to shut-ins. — MABEL

★ ★ ★

DEAR POLLY and Mrs. D. D. S. Jr.—Our high school class used plastic egg cartons to fashion a "brick" wall as part of our prom decorations. We stapled several together and then put them on wooden forms, using the lids as well as the bottoms.

Two rough sections were put together and then two smooth sections to create alternating squares. They can be spray-painted any color. We draped paper flowers on our "brick" walls.—ANN

★ ★ ★

DEAR READERS—The following suggestions for the use of plastic egg cartons were sent to us by the president of the company which makes them. Our sincere thanks for his interest.

★ ★ ★

Mr. R. L. G. suggests their use for storing bulbs, for starting seedlings and for planting seeds after one cuts holes in each of the cells and then walks along shaking the carton. They could make wall decorations with the bottom halves stapled to an unfinished wall in patterns or completely cover it. Also the handyman could use these cartons for storage of nails, nuts and bolts.

★ ★ ★

The lady of the house can use them for jewerly boxes. Children use them in a sand box or hill of snow. These trays can serve for freezing ice-pops. The home sewer can file her sewing aids in them. They are useful for mixing paint to obtain various colors, and also used to store and deliver decorated Easter eggs.—POLLY

POLLY'S PROBLEM

DEAR POLLY — How can I remove rust from metal Venetian blinds? Can the slats be painted?—B. W.

★ ★ ★

DEAR POLLY — Pam wanted to know what to do to the leather straps on her beige linen skirt that had faded during dry cleaning. I believe the best way to restore them is with shoe dye.

I have found this popular shoe dye, when used as directed on leather (not plastic), works wonderfully well to restore scuffed items or to change the color. I do hope this works well for Pam.—MARY ELLEN

★ ★ ★

DEAR POLLY—When hemming a dress or skirt, instead of using rayon seam binding use a piece of lace edging about one-inch-wide and attach the same way. You will find it so soft and pliable and it has no puckers. I have just hemmed two summer cotton dresses this way and I am sold.—MRS. W.

German-U. S. Ties Stressed

Nixon Meets With Kiesinger

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon and West German Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger, who wind up two days of private talks here today, stressed the bonds between the two nations at a White House dinner Thursday night.

In a champagne toast, Nixon emphasized the importance of the United States and the Federal Republic of Germany having "the closest relations."

★ ★ ★

"Our recognizing that the survival of the Federal Republic as a strong and vital country in the heart of Europe is important in the highest degree to the survival of freedom in Europe and in the world," Nixon said.

Kiesinger said his country was indebted to the United States "and to many of those gathered at this dinner party who have made historic contributions over the past 20 years.

POLICIES HAILED

"We believe that the wise and determined policies of these 20 years and the efforts of the North Atlantic Alliance have secured the peace and freedom of our nation," Kiesinger said.

★ ★ ★

"We consider NATO to be more than a purely defensive alliance," Kiesinger said. "We think that the alliance affords us the opportunity as free partners with the United States and together with others to jointly work toward securing the peace."

★ ★ ★

Kiesinger also added words of praise for the lunar landing, saying the "amazing precision" of the complicated undertaking "fills statesmen with envy."

Among the 122 dinner guests hearing the praise was rocket scientist Wernher Von Braun, who predicted a day when "space tourists might travel to Mars with stewardesses serving martinis in the back."

★ ★ ★

Earlier Thursday Nixon and Kiesinger talked for almost an hour and a half on European security and East-West relations. Nixon later told newsmen he had a "very good talk" with the chancellor.

College Vote Set

In Bribery Case

Ex-Road Aide's Exam Stalled

LANSING (AP)—The preliminary examination of a former State Highway Department employe charged on several counts of bribery has been recessed until Aug. 18.

John Miller of Lansing and his brother, William Miller of Columbus, Ohio, were charged following an investigation of the highway department by Ingham County Circuit Judge Marvin J. Salmon, acting as a one-man grand juror.

★ ★ ★

It was alleged some $25,000 in bribes were exchanged in connection with the lease by the Highway Department of a Lansing garage owned by a firm formerly controlled by William Miller.

★ ★ ★

Ingham County Circuit Judge Sam Street Hughes already has spent nearly two weeks on the preliminary examination.

EXAM BY JUDGE

Under grand jury rules, the examination also must be conducted by a Circuit Court judge.

★ ★ ★

Leo Farhat, former special prosecutor for the grand jury, now assistant Ingham County prosecuting attorney, said most of the delay was caused by "legal wrangling."

★ ★ ★

Faulty Valves Slow Sun-Study Launch

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — A possible problem with a rocket steering system today forced the space agency to postpone for 24 hours—until Saturday—an attempt to orbit a new scientific satellite to study the sun.

The spacecraft, called OSO 6 for the sixth orbiting solar observatory, was scheduled to blast off at 2:52 a.m. (Pontiac time) today, but the launch was called off shortly after midnight when tests being conducted in California indicated that some valves in the second stage of OSO's Delta rocket might be faulty.

★ ★ ★

A space agency spokesman said the valves, which are in a nitrogen regulator system associated with small steering rockets used for course adjustments during launch, will be replaced with new valves being shipped from the West Coast.

OSO 6 is to be placed in a circular earth orbit 350 miles high.

★ ★ ★

The 640-pound spacecraft contains seven different scientific experiments to study high-energy radiation particles from the sun that cannot penetrate earth's atmosphere and thus cannot be observed from ground-based solar observatories.

★ ★ ★

A better understanding of this kind of radiation would help scientists predict when flares will burst from the sun and shed new light on how radiation storms spewed by these flares affect radio communications and weather on earth.

'O, Mother, Is That You?' . . . and It Was

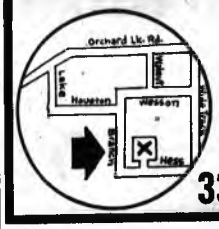

PORT HURON (AP) — A 2-year-old Port Huron boy dialed "0" for mother Thursday — and got her.

Little Michael Cooper, at home with his grandmother, wanted to talk to his mother, Mrs. Arthur Cooper, so he did the logical thing he picked up the phone.

★ ★ ★

He then dialed "0" and his mother, one of 20 operators working the switchboard, happened to answer the call.

The world's largest sedan?

That little thing? The largest? Well, certainly not in length. And, most assuredly, not in width.

But when you start counting the things you can get inside its tunks, that's quite another story.

Suddenly our little Squareback becomes the world's largest sedan.

Here are the cold hard facts:

The trunk on the largest conventional sedan measures 22 cubic feet. (And some of this room is taken up by a spare tire.)

The Squareback will carry four passengers and 31.2 cubic feet of things. And with the rear seat down you get a giant 48.9 cubic feet of carrying space.

How did we make it so big?

It's really not too complicated. Where most cars have an engine, we have a trunk. (Our engine is tucked behind the rear wheels where all good VW engines are tucked.)

And where most cars have a flashy rear deck, we have more car. (This is what makes a Squareback a squareback.)

But even with all this space, the Squareback is only 7½ inches longer than the bug.

Which makes the world's largest sedan also one of the world's smallest.

Computer Art Boosted

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP) — Lloyd Sumner's palette is a computer.

Sumner pioneered in computer art while earning a degree in mechanical engineering from the University of Virginia in Charlottesville, his home base.

* * *

The 26-year-old artist worked his way through college by taking a part-time job at the university's computer center, where he soon learned there is a nearly infinite variety of computer programs that can be translated in graphic form by a plotter.

He now makes a living by selling his ink line drawings in art galleries in several cities.

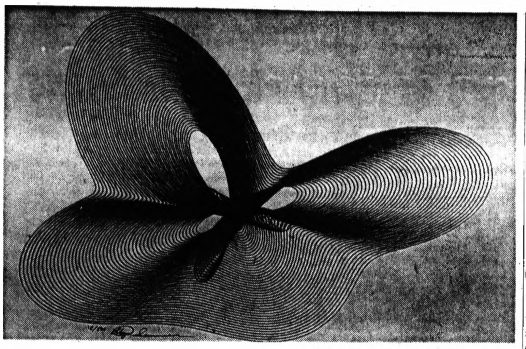

Sumner's technique consists of first sketching several ideas. Selecting a particular favorite, he then determines the proper mathematical formulas that will represent the elements of his final sketch. These are programmed into computer language, punched onto cards and read into a Burroughs computer housed at the university.

* * *

The computer in turn translates its instructions into directions—a plot tape—for a plotting device to follow in executing the drawing.

* * *

"The computer is my tool to produce a drawing too delicate, too esthetic, too intricate for my hand alone," Sumner explains.

'SELF PORTRAIT' — Plotting data fed into a Burroughs B5500 computer by artist Lloyd Sumner of Charlottesville, Va., produced this "Self Portrait" drawing. Sumner conceives mathematical formulas which provide the guide for this new computer art.

Expert Feels Drug Abuse Affects 500,000 in U.S.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An authority on drug addiction estimated yesterday that half a million Americans are directly affected by narcotic abuse and 100,000 or more are hard-core users.

The Senate Subcommittee on Alcoholism and Narcotics received the testimony from Dr. Stanley F. Yolles, director of the National Institute of Mental Health.

Yolles said there was no totally reliable data on the scope of drug abuse. But in the case of narcotic drugs, statistics based on reported cases by law enforcement agencies indicated there were about 65,000 active addicts of hard-core drugs, he said.

"A more plausible estimate is in the range of 100,000 to 125,000," he said.

Nonnarcotic drug abusers, Yolles said, probably range between 250,000 and 500,000. These persons use such drugs as barbituates, sedatives, stimulants and tranquilizers.

Marijuana use has been rapidly increasing in recent years, particularly among the middle and upper classes, Yolles said.

* * *

"A conservative estimate of persons in the United States, both juvenile and adult, who have used marijuana at least once is about 8 million and may go as high as 12 million," he said.

Bloodmobile Plans Monday 'Y' Visit

A Red Cross bloodmobile will be at the YMCA, 131 University, 2 p.m. to 8 p.m. Monday.

Donations may be used to replace blood used by a hospital patient, add to a group account or build up a self-account against future needs.

* * *

Red Cross officials report that blood collections have suffered a seasonal slump, yet the increasing number of warm weather accidents brings about a greater demand for blood.

A new drug called Konyne has been found an effective treatment for nearly all patients with what is known as bleeder's disease.

Blind Couple's Hunt for Home Is Fruitless

By ED BLUNDEN

Mr. and Mrs. James McClain of 69 S. Tasmania have to find a new house. The home they rented for 10 years has been sold.

But the McClains are having more than the usual difficulty finding a place in housing-short Pontiac . . . both of them are blind.

* * *

They've been trying to get a place for three months with no success. McClain said, "We had some places lined up but as soon as they find out you can't see, they change their mind."

His wife added, "It's disgusting . . . people think we're not human."

'NOT HELPLESS'

McClain pointed out the pair are well able to take care of themselves and their home. Mrs. McClain does her own housework, and her husband kept a garden until this summer.

"We're not helpless," he said, and pointed out the couple bowl in the blind bowling league at the Huron Bowl each season and do their own shopping.

* * *

"I go fishing with my friends, and they don't even treat me as if I was blind," McClain said.

The McClains live on welfare pensions and were paying $75 per month on their small and neatly kept home before the owners sold all their property in the city. They are able to pay more and feel the only reason they've been turned down by various landlords is because they are both blind.

NEVER MISSED PAYMENT

"We've never missed a rent payment in our 26 years of marriage," McClain said.

McClain said he would like to have a house rather than an apartment for two reasons — apartments are highly expensive and are too small for entertaining their many friends and relatives.

* * *

He said: "I don't like to talk a lot about being blind . . . people think you're trying to get sympathy. I don't want sympathy."

Three Injured in I-75 Crash

Three young Saginaw males were in fair condition in Pontiac General Hospital today after an early morning crash on I-75 near Clintonville Road in Independence Township.

* * *

The trio's car, southbound, left the road and rolled three times, sheriff's deputies said. Apparent cause of the 7 a.m. crash was the loss of a wheel.

Hospitalized for treatment and examination was the driver, William E. Sprague, 19, and two passengers, Tony Miller, 25, and Danny Bebertz, 19.

Proposals for new or increased taxes will be up for consideration in at least 38 of the 47 state legislatures holding regular sessions in 1969.

START 'EM AGAIN — Work halted on a parking lot south of the Oakland County Service Center for three weeks will probably resume Monday. The County Board of Supervisors had balked at ratifying a contract for the construction, but approved it yesterday.

County OKs Parking Lot

Construction of a controversial $100,000 parking lot on the south side of the Oakland County Service Center should resume Monday.

County supervisors yesterday voted to allow construction to continue on the parking lot, climaxing a three-week dispute.

The lot had been approved by the 1967-68 board of supervisors. A new board has served since January, and only the board of auditors had approved the project.

* * *

On July 25, the new board ordered construction halted while it reconsidered the need for the 200-space lot, intended for use of the public.

Board of Auditors Chairman Daniel T. Murphy said the lot is expected to forestall parking problems and is included in the service center's master plan.

* * *

The dispute apparently centered on the new board's reluctance to use funds committed by the previous board.

* * *

The supervisors also voted yesterday to delay construction of a planned U.S. Army Reserve Center on county-owned property.

* * *

Army officials and the supervisors last year had agreed on a long-term lease of county property for the Reserve center, but it now appears that construction of the center will be late in starting.

* * *

Terms of the lease stated that if the Army did not begin construction by Aug. 31, the lease would be terminated.

* * *

Army officials said they had been unable to secure contracts fast enough to begin construction by then, however, and asked the present board to validate the lease despite the deadline violation.

* * *

It is expected that the reserve center would be completed in 16 months. It was to be located on a 3.8-acre site at Pontiac Lake and Watkins Lake roads in Waterford Township.

The first submarine circumnavigation was achieved between Feb. 24 and April 25, 1960, by the U.S. nuclear submarine Triton.

Money Goes Fast at New U.S. Mint

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — In America's newest — and the world's largest—mint there's a machine that rolls out 10,000 shiny copper pennies every minute. That's at a 166-per-second clip.

Nothing today coins money faster.

The conventional stamper now primarily in use at the nation's three mints hammers out five coins a second, or 300 a minute.

Philadelphia's new $37-million mint, which replaces one in use here since 1901, will be dedicated next Thursday, nearly two years later than expected. Labor disputes and problems in assembling the more sophisticated equipment caused the delay.

COINING PENNIES

Right now, the new mint is coining only pennies, but officials hope to have it hooked up for a two-shift production by the 600 employes within 90 days.

By the end of 1970, it will be making more than half of the nation's coins, something around 4.2 billion pieces, nearly three-fourths pennies. At full production, however, with three shifts every day of the year, the mint could produce over 8 billion coins. This compares with the nation's best minting year, 1966, when 9.5 billion were stamped out.

★ ★ ★

Eva Adams, director of the Bureau of the Mint, said, "The successful operation of this new plant, incorporating the latest coinage technology, will be a giant step into the future of coin production. It is the greatest single improvement in this century."

★ ★ ★

Last year the three mints produced 6.5 billion pennies, nickels, dimes, quarters and halves —2.35 billion at Philadelphia, 3.8 billion at Denver and 350 million at San Francisco. This year the total will pass 7 billion.

FOREIGN COINS

They also make coins for many foreign governments, starting this work in 1876, and minted 267 million for them in 1968. Among recent customers were Costa Rica, El Salvador, Panama, the Philippines, Israel, Canada and Liberia.

But about that fantastic penny maker? Nicholas Theodore, superintendent at Philadelphia, said the coins "just roll right around and out like they were shot from a gun."

★ ★ ★

"In addition to increased output, the coin roller eliminates the need for separate blanking, riddling and blank annealing operations," Theodore said. He noted other coins eventually would be made on the superm-achines.

★ ★ ★

"This mint is the most modern and the most efficient in the world," said Theodore, a 31-year-old lawyer and accountant. "We're tooled to make anything, including the nonsilver Eisenhower dollar should Congress authorize it.

UNIQUE LOCATIONS

"We will melt, cast, roll and coin, and also produce the clad metal for composite coins."

★ ★ ★

The building is uniquely located, just two blocks from historic Independence Hall. Across the street, on one side, is the Christ Church cemetery where Benjamin Franklin and four signers of the Declaration of Independence are buried. On the other side is a huge grassy mall, part of Independence National Park.

★ ★ ★

It is only several hundred feet from where America's first mint struck coins of the realm in 1792. Since that time, it is estimated, the United States has circulated nearly 100 billion coins, and almost a third of that total was made in the present decade.

And it is the only mint in the world where visitors, walking in off the street, can watch the making of a coin from raw metal to the finished product. A special 700-foot glass-walled gallery overlooks the entire production area and can accommodate 2,500 persons every hour.

300,000 TO WATCH

Theodore estimated over 300,000 will watch the minting process, described by taped voice, in the first year.

The new mint actually is a split, five-level factory, with 5½ acres of floor space. It covers a full city block, and is longer than two football fields.

★ ★ ★

The building itself cost $18 million (the rest is equipment), compared to the $2-million price tag for the one it replaces. The old mint will be out of business by December, and General Services Administration will dispose of it.

Theodore said the new plant "is as burglar-proof as any building can be."

INSPECTED BY TV

Trucks enter through huge steel crash-resistant doors. There the vehicle is inspected via closed-circuit television and the driver checked. It goes through another steel door to the sealed loading area. Here materials are taken off and coins put on for delivery to banks.

Visitors and employes must pass through metal-detection machines before they can get in or out of any production area—except in the gallery where no search is necessary.

★ ★

In all its history, through 177 years, there never has been a major robbery at the mints. Before the electronic detectors, the only losses were small thefts by employes.

There is plenty of coin in reserve today, with millions of dollars worth stored in the mints awaiting shipment orders from Federal Reserve banks.

'NO SHORTAGE'

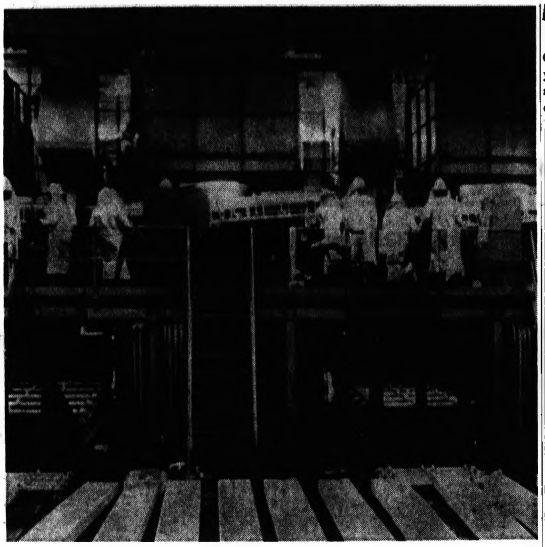

Theodore said, "There is no shortage of coins even though the demand keeps rising, mainly because of vending machines."

Philadelphia today mints only pennies, dimes and quarters. Denver, built in 1904, makes all five coins, including the nation's entire supply of half dollars, 100 million annually. San Francisco, in a 32-year-old building, mints pennies and nickels and all the special proof sets.

★ ★

Theodore said Philadelphia probably will start making the still-hoarded Kennedy halves once Congress makes it a sandwich-clad coin, composed of layers of copper and nickel like the dime and quarter. It now is 40 per cent silver.

The Philadelphia Mint's best production year was in 1966 when it made 3.8 billion coins.

MAKING MONEY—A casting operation, in which pure copper and zinc are melted together to produce 18-foot-long ingots from which pennies are made, is under way at Philadelphia's new United States Mint, which will be dedicated next week. The ingots are produced after the metal is melted in furnaces. The bars weigh 7,000 pounds each.

A Complete Mixture

What Is 'the Good Earth'

Time after time we hear the expression, "The good earth," but how does a good one differ from a bad? What is "earth" or "soil," anyway?

Soil is a mixture of tiny particles of stone with humus (organic) matter, plant foods, water, air, and microscopic organisms.

★ ★ ★

If the particles are large, the soil is sand or gravel — with little humus or food. Water runs through, receiving what dissolved nutrients are present. If the particles are fine, the soil is clay — drainage is poor, humus and air are scarce.

Woodsy soils are almost pure organic matter. Contrary to popular belief, they are not fertile and crops grow poorly. Peaty soils are much the same.

TYPES

Between these are the loams of moderate-sized particles, often in varied sizes, and with suitable amounts of humus, air, water, nutrients and soil life as indicated above. These are the "good" or productive soils. Those that lean toward the coarse side are sandy loams; toward the solid, sticky side are clay loams.

★ ★ ★

If you are curious about your soil, put a pint into a quart bottle, fill with water, shake and let it stand. The components will settle out into layers.

★ ★ ★

We also hear of "structure." This deals not with proportionate amounts of the above but their arrangement. First is the single-grain type — sand and gravel. Cultivation is easy but such soils dry out quickly. They are workable early in spring but droughty in summer.

★ ★ ★

Second is clay. The tiny particles of clay stick together, crust over and prevent rain from soaking in or draining through. Air circulation is also faulty. If dug or tilled when wet, the soil becomes lumpy.

MIXTURE BEST

Neither type is particularly desirable. What is needed is a mixture — a crumblike structure with both large, individual particles, and small ones clustered together. Then drainage is good but not excessive aeration exists, yet water and nutrients find places between the particles. So does life-giving humus.

This is why we spade sand and humus into heavy and clayey soils and humus into sandy ones. This is also the reason we hoe in ground limestone. It tends to make the soil crumbly as well as to correct excessive acidity.

American Chestnut Banished by Blight

By BILL GARDINER
AP Newsfeature

Ever taste chestnuts?

No, not horse chestnuts or buckeys. They're poisonous. But the seed from the tree chestnut tree is not and it's very tasty.

★ ★ ★

Possibly the most tasty of the four common varieties of chestnuts is the American. Others come from the European, Japanese and Chinese trees.

If you're not an "oldtimer," chances are you haven't had the good fortune of tasting an American chestnut. For these once plentiful trees were largely killed throughout the entire eastern United States between 1900 and 1935 by chestnut blight which was accidentally introduced to this country from the Orient.

FEW LEFT

The blight did such a good job killing the chestnut trees that there are now only two of the American variety known to be growing in Lenawee County.

One is along the Penn Central railroad tracks east of Hudson. The other is on Chase Road, about five miles east and north of Adrian.

★ ★ ★

But while the American chestnut has passed out of the picture much like penny candy and the 10-cent movie, a variety that is resistent to the blight was introduced to the United States in the mid-1800s.

It's the Chinese chestnut, and although somewhat smaller in size it produces a fair tasting nut.

NOT AS TASTY

"Not as good, however, as the American," says Don Hostetler of Onsted. "It's not as sweet a nut. It's almost tasteless."

Hostetler has 200 Chinese chestnut trees growing on his 40-acre nut farm located on the corner of Sheeler Road and Onsted Highway a mile and one half north of Onsted.

In addition, he has 50 English walnut trees besides numerous fruit trees, mostly one of a kind.

Don remembers well the former American chestnut.

★ ★ ★

"It was not only tasty, but popular around Thanksgiving," he said. "I can remember vendors on the street selling fresh roasted chestnuts, but not any more."

"I have one tree where the nut tastes almost like the American variety," he explained.

THERE'S HOPE

"Now I'm trying to develop another. When I get the second, I can isolate them and grow the new variety.

"One tree doesn't do much good," he continued. "Although a single tree has both male and female blossoms, they can not pollinate themselves. It takes pollen from two trees."

The nut on a chestnut tree develops at the base of the female blossom. It grows inside a bur which, when developed, is hard to handle. If the blossom is not pollinated only the bur develops.

★ ★ ★

"The spines on the bur are so sharp that even the squirrels leave it alone until it drops from the tree," Hostetler pointed out.

"It is then that I can begin harvesting them. It usually takes place around the first part of October."

NUT GROWERS

Hostetler is member of both the Northern and Michigan Nut Growers Association. Both organizations will be holding meetings in the state this fall.

The Northern Nut Growers will hold its annual convention at Michigan State University from Aug. 24 to 27. The Michigan Nut Growers will meet Oct. 5 at Hidden Lake Gardens near Tipton.

Part of their activities that day will include a tour of the Hostetler nut farm.

Driftwood Pictures Illustrate Book

Drifting along on another limb is "The Driftwood Flower Arrangement Book," by Merelle Soutar. The generous use of plates as well as over a 100 black and white prints which dominate this gem will be a source of inspiration for many a prize winning arrangement.

Driftwood is a material versatile enough either to blend into or to dominate any setting, depending on the desired effect.

★ ★ ★

It can form the backdrop to a floral triumph; used alone, its understated strength and craggy qualities can outperform other more overt forms of beauty.

The author has cast driftwood in myriad roles. Flower arrangers will find a complete course in the use of driftwood. Topics range from finding, selecting, and arranging driftwood with a variety of accompaniments for home or flower show, to hints for Christmas designs.

Advantages and Disadvantages to Sodding Your Lawn

Today almost anyone can have an "instant lawn." Sod cultivation has become widespread, and sod can be purchased in most areas. Are there advantages or disadvantages to sodding as compared to seeding the lawn oneself?

Actually, there are both advantages and disadvantages, but seldom are these monumental.

Remember, first of all, that it is the grass which counts in the long haul, — whether you seed or sod. So be certain you are getting perennial, long-lived, attractive species.

The Kentucky bluegrasses, fine fescues, and bentgrasses fill this bill, and they spread to make a dense turf.

PERMANENT

Some of the fine-leaf perennial ryegrasses are also permanent, but they do not spread. So when you buy seed examine the label; be sure the mixture is rich in "fine-textured" grasses. If you buy sod, verify that it is of select species without weeds.

Sod will cost considerably more than would seed needed for the same area. You pay someone else to start the seed nurse it along, handle and market it. But you save a bit of your own time. Only you can decide whether the cost of an "instant lawn" is justified.

* * *

Don't be misled that you can get by with any less soil preparation or care of the grass when you sod. Sod cannot succeed on a hard, packed soil any better than can seed. A loosened and fertilized soilbed is essential in either case.

Seedings must be watered regularly until the seedlings are up, usually taking two or three weeks with blends of Kentucky bluegrass and fine fescue. Watering can taper off thereafter.

MULCH

A mulch holds moisture, protecting the soil and bringing the seeding along rapidly. Sod takes about six weeks to become thoroughly rooted. You will have to water it from time to time to avoid letting the root-zone dry out.

What's in the lawnseed box is definite (the law requires ingredient listing on the label). You may not be so certain about sod. With either seeding or sodding native weed seed in the soil may cause weeds to show up in time. At lease these are known weeds.

* * *

Better buy sod only from a reliable supplier lest new exotic weeds be introduced into your lawn.

It makes little difference what time of day you water your lawn. True, at midday there may be some water wastage due to much evaporation then, but on the other hand that's also just the time of day when a cooling shower benefits newly sprouted seedlings.

There is no truth to the belief that water droplets act as magnifying glasses "burning" the turf.

Some slight justification exists for not watering in the evening. Damp grass is more prone to disease. However, if the soil is sufficiently moist for grass to grow, almost any lawn becomes damp at night from dew, whether watered in the evening or not.

Fortunately, hardy lawn species such as the Kentucky bluegrasses and fine fescues suffer very little from disease, especially in autumn and if properly fertilized.

A golf course manager may try to keep the foliage of his creeping bentgrass dry, even to the extent of poling dew from the green each morning. But lawn bentgrasses such as Highland Colonial seldom require this extra attention.

Strawberry Beds Need Maintenance

Immediately after harvest, strawberry beds may be renovated for a second or even a third fruiting year. Do this only if the plants are healthy and vigorous. First, mow off the plants about one half inch above the crowns. Then narrow the rows with a cultivator or a rototiller to about 10 inches wide.

It is best to leave this 10 inch strip at the edge where there are younger plants. If the plants are still too thick in the row (closer than 6 inches) thin out with a hoe. Fertilize with 15 pounds of 10-10-10 per 1000 sq. feet.

* * *

After broadcasting the fertilizer, brush it off the plants with a broom. Time this operation with a rain or irrigate if possible.

Control weeds with herbicides. Use 2, 4-D (Amine formulation only) at lowest rates suggested for lawns. This is effective on many annual seeds including established broad leafed weeds. Perennial grasses must be hoed out by hand. If the planting is weed free, Sesone or DCPA (Dacthol) may be used to prevent sprouting of new weeds. Apply to moist soil or irrigate after application.

Valuable Supply of Vitamin C

Recently the public relations department of Jackson & Perkins Company received a letter from a customer in Dayton, Ohio — who wrote to ask the New York rose growers which of the company's new roses had the highest vitamin C content.

After doing a double-take the staff did a bit of research on the subject — and found that roses — cooked, jellied, liquified, distilled and straight from the bush — have been treating man's aches and pains since the beginning of written history . . . and that even today, millions all over the world use roses as "preventive medicine."

Nation's Wealth

"The real wealth of our nation — food, minerals, and fiber — come from the soil, and conservation practices are prolonging the soil's usefulness for decades, even centuries." — John F Cunningham, Dean of Agriculture, Ohio State University.

Rooted cuttings of chrysanthemums will provide healthy blooming plants within one growing season.

Useful, Attractive Garden Walk Not Difficult Project

A garden walk can be both useful and attractive. It is the sort of project a homeowner can complete in a weekend or work on occasionally through the summer, since it is one you can start and stop easily.

The materials are varied in appearance, style and price. Some can be used in combination with others.

* * *

When most people think of a path through a garden, they think in terms of flagstone.

* * *

They are expensive but you can cut down on costs by using them as stepping stones instead of trying to make a solid path.

STABILITY

If you are just going to flop them on top of the ground, the thicker and heavier ones are better, more stable.

For a more formal walk, dig out enough earth for about two inches of sand to serve as a base. This will compensate for different thicknesses of stone.

* * *

Make wood forms for the walk before pouring the sand. If you want to make it a semi-permanent walk, the easy way is to sweep in a mixture of one part cement, two parts fine sand (or a readymix of about the same proportions) and, with the cracks filled, wet down with a fine spray of water.

For a really permanent walk, make a standard concrete walk for a base first — about four inches of gravel and a couple of inches of concrete.

STONES FIRST

Place the stones, sweep the dry mix into the cracks as mentioned above and wet down.

Bricks make an attractive walk and can be set in a bed of sand or in a concrete base just as flagstone.

Since they are regular in shape, they are easier to butt together for a smooth walk.

* * *

Wood makes a different and attractive path. Whatever wood you use should be treated with a preservative.

Redwood, cypress and cedar will be the most durable but you can make others durable by treating them.

SLABS

Two-inch slabs cut from logs can be set in sand or right in the soil for a quick and easy walkway. Old railroad ties, cut into blocks, can be used the way you would bricks.

If you plan to make your wooden path more lasting by setting the pieces in concrete, make certain the wood rests on gravel and not the concrete.

* * *

This will allow for better drainage and lengthen the life of the wood.

Gravel, crushed stone and other loose material can make an appealing walk. Mix colors and textures for effect. To keep the material from scattering, edge the walk with wood strips or bricks set in the ground. Make the path about two inches thick.

EDGING

Stones such as pebbles can be edged with a line of larger stones, since they do not scatter as easily.

With time, patience and a little energy, you can make your own paving material.

* * *

Use a concrete mix or make your own of one part concrete, two parts sand and three parts gravel.

Make forms out of 1x2 lumber, about 20 inches wide, 2½ feet long. Put the form on newspaper, fill with mix and smooth it off.

You can use the slab as is or break it for irregular shapes.

SAVE WORK

Or save work; dig wide, shallow holes (about two inches deep) where the path is and fill with concrete.

Quick Bloom Delights All

The prestarted Dutch hyacinths are held in the nursery until just before they are ready to sprout.

Then they are packed in a special planting mixture inside a small plastic pot and shipped.

* * *

Keep them near a window and the stalks rapidly grow to 7 to 8 inches tall and developed flowers and foliage.

There is no soil to spill. The container resembles a big salt shaker except that the bulb head protrudes.

You can tell the color of your hyacinth by the color of the bottom rim of the container.

Thin Fruit, Up Harvest

Handthinning will improve fruit size and quality if fruit is too thick on the tree after the normal June Drop.

Thin to one apple in each cluster if there is a heavy apple set.

If the fruit is relatively thin on the tree, clusters may be left. Pear should be thinned the same as apples.

Peaches should be thinned to an average of one every 8 inches on the branch. This should be done before the pit hardens which is about now.

Trees Purify Air Spoiled by Man

Trees are important in helping to keep the air clean. The respiratory activity of trees helps remove from the air carbon dioxide, emitted by vehicles and other contaminating sources, and liberates oxygen needed by man and animals.

Trees alone can't purify the air, but the more trees and shrubs there are, the more carbon dioxide can be absorbed and oxygen returned.

* * *

Trees may be used to screen out fumes from industrial areas. And in low-lying areas pine trees can be sown to help dissipate fog that might blanket highways.

Then there is the beauty of trees. They adorn private homes, line sun-baked streets, shade parks and enhance industrial sites.

'Middlemen' Help Lions Set 'Play Scale'

By BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

No matter how you try, you can't get rid of the "middle man."

The same holds true for the Detroit Lions, but the Lions are happy to have their three "middle men" and coach Joe Schmidt figures he can win with them.

* * *

Center Ed Flanagan, flanked on both sides by guards Bob Kowalkowski and Chuck Walton are the middle men on the offensive line who will begin the season as a unit for the first time.

Lions' line coach Chuck Knox is high on the three linemen.

"They're young, they have the desire and they've gained experience as a unit," said Knox. "We certainly feel that we can win with them."

FIFTH SEASON

Flanagan, 6-3 and 245, termed by many as the most under-rated center in the league, is in his fifth year at the position, which he took over almost immediately after leaving Purdue.

Kowalkowski, also 6-3 and 245, starts his fourth year at the guard spot. He was a future draft choice out of the University of Virginia in 1965 and was groomed almost immediately to fill the shoes of all-pro guard John Gordy.

* * *

Walton, starting his third season with the Lions, was the No. 3 choice in 1963, but went to Canada instead and to San Diego of the AEL. He returned to the Lions in 1967 and like Flanagan and Kowalkowski moved into a starting role immediately. He stands 6-3 and goes 250.

"You can't find guys with more heart and who are the competitors that they are," said Schmidt.

When Schmidt looked over the Kansas City lineup and realized that his offensive linemen would have to concede 30 to 40 pounds per man, Schmidt said, "That's all right. I'll just say go get 'em and they'll do the job. Believe me, if I didn't think they could do the job, they wouldn't be in there."

Flanagan, the "dean" of the "middlemen," feels this is the prime year for himself and the two agile guards.

"Bob and Chuck have worked hard, even in the off-season, and from the experience we've all gained since being rookies, I think we're going to have a good offensive line."

Veteran tackle Roger Shoals and sophomore Rockne Freitas make up the other interior line positions.

Shoals had an outstanding year in 1967, but was hampered with a leg injury much of 1968. He is 6-4 and goes 260. The Lions obtained Shoals from Cleveland in 1965 in a three-way deal involving the New York Giants.

Freitas is the biggest of starters on the offensive line at 6-6 and 270 and he moved into the position when Charley Bradshaw was injured last season and when the Texas attorney decided to retire this year.

ROOKIE RESERVES

Behind the starters in the interior offensive line, the Lions have been happy with the play of rookie tackles, Jim Yarbrough, 6-6 and 260 from Florida, and Jim Carr at 6-4 and 260 from Jackson State.

In 1967, the Lions were the 4th best pass protection team in the league.

* * *

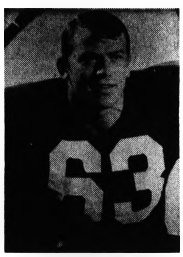

Last year, with injuries to Bradshaw, Shoals and the absence of John Gordy, injured and lost for the season, the Lions found themselves with a makeshift line, including the fact that Kowalkowski missed the early part of training because of his Army Reserve duties.

For the first time in several seasons, the Lions will start the season with the same interior line that finished the previous year's schedule and by the start of the regular season, as Schmidt sees it, "They should be working together real good as a unit."

* * *

With a stronger Bill Munson at quarterback, and health restored to running backs Mel Farr and Nick Eddy, along with the addition of outstanding rookie runners, the "middlemen" of the Lions have reason to see improvement in their play scale.

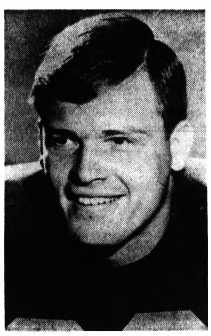

The team was scheduled to leave for Kansas City this afternoon. The game Saturday night will be telecast back to Michigan at 8 p.m.

Detroit Lions' Offensive Line Has Its 'Middlemen'

Two Q'backs in Preseason Injury Tales

By the Associated Press

This is the tale of two quarterbacks and their injuries — real and imagined.

Daryle Lamonica, who has led the Oakland Raiders to consecutive Western Division championships, has a sore passing hand. Denver's Marlin Briscoe, who became the first Negro quarterback in the American Football League, last season, is just plain sore.

* * *

Lamonica, who injured his right hand in last weekend's exhibition opener against Kansas City, threw well in the Raiders' workout at their Santa Rosa, Calif. training camp Thursday.

"The hand is okay now," he said. "It had been a little tender."

Lamonica will start for Oakland against the Baltimore Colts Saturday night. Briscoe, on the other hand, won't be working for Denver in the Broncos' game against Minnesota.

The Broncs placed their unsigned quarterback on the waived-injured list earlier this week—a step that didn't sit too well with Briscoe. That's because he says he's not injured.

* * *

"I wasn't wanted," said Briscoe. "They intended to use Pete Liske as their No. 1 quarterback and Steve Tensi as the backup man."

Briscoe said he considered himself a free agent—a step that didn't sit too well with Lou Saban, general manager and coach of the Broncos.

"Marlin Briscoe is not a free agent," said Saban. "He still is the property of the Denver Broncos.

PROPER WAIVER

"However, if Marlin feels that he is not injured, we will be pleased to oblige him by beginning the proper waiver procedure to make him a free agent."

Briscoe, who took over as Denver's No. 1 quarterback and threw 14 touchdown passes last season, said he is anxious to sign with another organization.

Meanwhile, Paul Robinson's, the AFL's top rusher and rookie of the year last season, signed his contract with the Cincinnati Bengals. Robinson, who gained 1,026 yards in his first pro season, was reportedly seeking a six-figure contract from Bengal boss Paul Brown but is believed to have signed for about $50,000.

* * *

Brown called the agreement very amicable. "We are very happy," he said. "We think he's a happy young man."

The Miami Dolphins became the first pro team to sign all their players. The Dolphins completed their satisfied list by adding veteran running back Sam Price and Chick McGeehan, a 15th round draft pick.

The New York Jets swapped their fourth round draft choice, Ezell Jones, an offensive tackle from Minnesota, to Boston for a future draft selection.

EXHIBITION TILTS

Two games tonight kick off a 12-game weekend schedule of action as the exhibition season moves into high gear. Dallas plays at Los Angeles and Washington faces Buffalo.

The Cowboys' game in LA will be the first test for Craig Morton, who has inherited the No. 1 quarterback job from retired Don Meredith. The rams plan to give plenty of work to running back Les Josephson, who missed all of last season with injuries.

Vince Lombari's Redskins hope to make it two in a row against the Bills, who still are waiting for O. J. Simpson to sign a contract.

F-Birds Head for Big Game as Underdogs

Tagged as underdogs, the Pontiac Firebirds leave this evening for Lackawanna, N. Y., in what is billed as a probable preview of the post-season championship in the Midwest Football League.

The Firebirds and the Lancers both won inter-divisional games handily last weekend.

* * *

Pontiac defeated Grand Rapids, 36-6, and Lackawanna whipped Lansing, 37-6, in their openers.

The Firebirds lead the Central Division with a 1-0 mark, while the Lancers, along with Dayton and Southwest Michigan (Benton Harbor) are tied in the Lakes Division with 1-0 marks.

FOUR QUARTERBACKS

Lackawanna, has size, speed and depth. The Lancers have four quarterbacks, two of whom play as defensive backs and running backs when not in signal calling service.

Former Dayton University star Bob Hussian is the starter at quarterback.

* * *

Last year, playing without a quarterback, both of whom were injured, the Firebirds lost a 6-0 encounter to the Buffalo area team on a pass interception in the closing minutes.

In Pontiac, the Lancers came back and won, 22-7.

The "big game" in the MFL, it will be televised Saturday afternoon in the Buffalo area.

OUT OF ACTION

The Firebirds will be without the services of their two top receivers, Ron Bemis, who is in the Army Reserve, and Mickey Blazitz, who was injured in a

Tiger Stadium Fans Cheer Reliefer's Bird Act

THE PONTIAC PRESS
SPORTS
FRIDAY, AUGUST 8, 1969 C—1

Kaline, Ike Brown Homer as Bengals Prevail, 6-4

DETROIT (AP) — Tom Timmerman picked up an injured bird off the pitching mound and became an instant hero Thursday night.

But the rest of the Detroit Tigers showed no compassion all night as they shelled Minnesota for 13 hits, including nine hits and five runs in the first three innings, and hung on to beat the Twins 6-4.

* * *

Six different Tigers knocked in runs, with Al Kaline and Ike Brown hitting homers.

Timmerman, 1-1, who hadn't worked more than two innings since his call-up from Detroit's Toledo farm club, worked 4⅔ innings in relief of Earl Wilson to pick up his first major league victory.

LEAD CUT

The loss, coupled with Oakland's earlier win over Cleveland, sliced Minnesota's lead over the Athletics to 2 games in the West Division of the American League. Baltimore clobbered Kansas City 10-2 to remain 15 games up on the Tigers in the East.

Detroit was to open a fourgame series at Chicago beginning with a twi-nighter today. Mike Kilkenny, 1-2, and Joe Sparma, 5-8, were the likely Tiger starters to oppose Gary Peters, 7-11, and Joe Horlen, 7-12.

Tiger pitching coach Johnny Sain said Timmerman is part of a bullpen, "that works like hell."

"They (relievers) cooperate 100 per cent," he said. "They all can pitch and as they get to work more they'll get better. They've all got a lot going for them and I've got a lot of confidence in them."

Tiger relief pitching, which has been unreliable much of the season, has turned in some fine performances lately.

Soccer Foes in Tie

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israel's national soccer team battled the Argentinian club River Plate to a goal-less draw Thursday in an exhibition to mark the closing of the 8th Maccabiah Games. The dull match was watched by 45,000.

Curtain to Fall on Net Tourney

The final curtain on the 10th annual Oakland County Tennis Tournament has been slow to fall, but if all goes well Sunday the deed will be accomplished.

The last remaining event on the rain-hampered schedule finds the juniors battling for the singles title on the Oakland University course.

A quarter-final match is on tap for 9 a.m. pitting Lynn Katz, a member of the winning junior doubles team, against Mark Schneider. Both are from Southfield.

* * *

The winner of that one then goes against Rob Cowin, a sophomore at Birmingham Seaholm, in a match tentatively set for noon.

The finale is slated for approximately 3 p.m. and waiting patiently for the past two weeks to play again is Todd Beel of Birmingham, the 1968 runner-up.

Champions in all other events were crowned previously.

All's Well Now

Almost Quit Tigers Says Sain

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit pitching coach Johnny Sain said Thursday night he almost quit the team twice, including just after the Tigers won the World Series last year.

"But this is a fine organization, this is a fine town, and the fans are wonderful and that's partly why I'm still here," he said.

* * *

"Besides, I live and die with my pitchers and I have always hated to leave them behind when I went to another club."

Sain said he felt that on occasion management hasn't taken his advice concerning certain pitchers.

"When my advce isn't used and there are no results from what I'm doing here, then I figure it's time to leave," he said.

"I thought of leaving my first year here (1976) and also right after the World Series, but not now."

CROSSED FINGERS

Asked whether he and Manager Mayo Smith think alike regarding pitching matters Sain crossed his fingers at right angles and said, "This is how we are on that."

Sain said he has nothing to do with who pitches or when they pitch.

"I coach the pitchers and try to help them, but I don't advise Mayo on what he should do," he said.

"When I was in New York, (Manager) Ralph Houk would take my advice," he added. "But in Minnesota (Manager) Sam Mele did everything on his own and it's the same here."

Ted Kwalick Signs San Francisco Pact

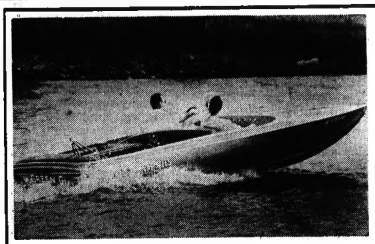

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — All-American Ted Kwalick announced Thursday night he had signed with the San Francisco 49ers.

Ending a long holdout in which he had been reported seeking $90,000 for three years, the tight end from Penn State declined to disclose final terms, but said he was "very happy" with the contract.

* * *

Kwalick said he would join the 49ers Friday in Seattle where they are scheduled to play the Cleveland Browns Sunday.

"But he will have to have morning, noon and night touring," Coach Dick Nolan said, and the staff will also be busy looking at other newcomers, including Stanford All American Gene Washington.

Dodgers' Pitching Thriving Again

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Pitching, a hallmark of three Los Angeles Dodger pennant drives this decade, is making its presence felt again this season.

Claude Osteen, who was a key part of successful quests in 1965 and 1966, feels he's pitching as well as ever after shutting out Pittsburgh 6-0 Thursday night on five hits.

* * *

The Dodgers picked up a half-game in the five-way National League West Division chase and trail pace-setting Cincinnati by two games, in fourth place. They face a stern challenge this weekend from East leader Chicago.

Bill Singer, 13-7, who has allowed only three runs in 24 innings since the All-Star break—without winning a game— goes for the Dodgers tonight in the opener of the series. Ferguson Jenkins, 15-9, is Chicago's starter.

OUT OF ROTATION

One of the keys to previous Los Angeles pennants will be missing, at least for a few weeks. Manager Walter Alston announced that Don Drysdale, troubled all season with a sore shoulder, will be removed from the starting rotation.

Rookie Alan Foster, 3-6, will replace Drysdale. Too much stiffness after pitching six innings with no decision Tuesday was the reason given for sidelining Drysdale.

* *

Osteen posted his 15th victory Thursday, which puts his second in the league behind Atlanta's Phil Niekro, with 16. Jenkins and Tom Seaver of New York also have 15.

"All of us have been working on changing speeds when we're pitching," Osteen said. "Each time out I'm learning more and more about it—and liking it more."

Osteen helped his own cause with a solo homer, his first in Los Angeles, which gave the Dodgers a 2-0 lead in the fifth. He drove in another run in the sixth with a single to cap a four-run rally. Bill Sudakis tripled in two runs.

* *

"I don't know if there's anything that makes a pitcher happier than hitting a home run in your own game," Osteen smiled.

Only one base runner got as far as second base against Osteen, as he pitched his second straight shutout. Manny Sanguillen doubled with one out in the second and took third on a groundout. Jose Pagan was gunned down trying for a double in the fourth. A double play nullified a leadoff single by Al Oliver in the fifth.

Other than that, Osteen stifled the Pirates who have a team batting average of .280.

NEW SKIPPER — Now at the helm of the Philadelphia Phillies is George Myatt, who moved up from his coach's post when Bob Skinner quit yesterday.

Skinner Quits Phillies

Allen Triggers Pilot's Exit

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Richie Allen, controversial slugger for the Philadelphia Phillies, now has the scalps of two managers to his credit.

Bob Skinner, grim-faced and his voice cracking at times, resigned Thursday after 14 months at the club's helm because of what he called lack of front office support in dealing with the moody Allen.

* * *

Coach George Myatt, 54, in his sixth year with the Phillies, was named temporary manager for the remainder of the season.

Gene Mauch, whom Skinner had succeeded in June, 1968, was fired after bench Allen.

"Now I know what Gene Mauch went through," Skinner said, biting off each word as the club's bosses — owner Bob Carpenter and General Manager John Quinn — stood silently to one side at a news conference.

FINE PAYED BACK

Skinner, visibly shaken, also revealed that he had learned that a fine he had imposed on Allen for missing two games in New York in June had been remitted by Carpenter.

Allen could not be reached for comment.

* * *

The first baseman, who earns a reported $80,000 a year, did not show up later Thursday night in Reading for an exhibition game between the Phillies and their Eastern League farm team.

The 37-year-old Skinner, a tall, dedicated man who believes in giving 100 per cent to the game he loves, said "a few days ago Allen came to me and told me the front office told him he didn't have to go to Reading with the team for tonight's game."

Quinn said Allen did not have permission to miss the game, however. He said Allen would be fined.

FIFTH PLACE

The Phillies are currently deep in fifth place in the league's six-team, eastern division, 24½ games out of first.

Skinner made it clear he didn't want to quit, that he liked the job and thought he was doing well.

* * *

"But I have too much pride," he said. "I am a winner, and I want to be with a winner, and you can't win this way.

"Allen has been a big factor in our losing and there is very definitely disharmony on the club."

* * *

Skinner said bluntly, "There is no way in my opinion that a manager can win in Philadelphia with lack of support."

* * *

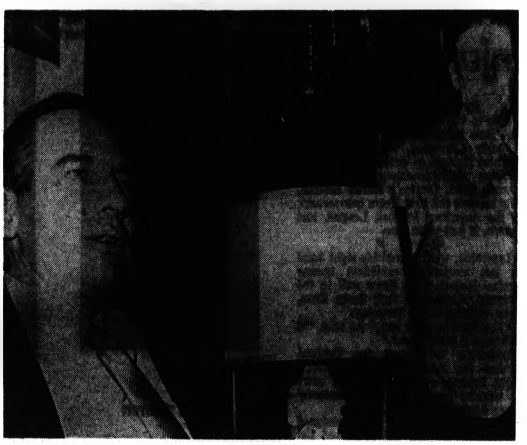

Carpenter, responding quietly and firmly, said he regretted Skinner's action and expressed the view the veteran of 12 major league seasons with Pittsburgh, Cincinnati and St. Louis would get another managing job.

* * *

"I am terribly sorry he feels this way," said Carpenter. "But if he feels this way, he did the correct thing. When you don't like what your bosses do, you should resign. That's the only fair thing to do."

Quinn disputed Skinner's view that he didn't have complete control of the players.'

"On the field he's the boss," Quinn said. "We never interfered, or told him who to play, or when."

MANAGER EXITS — Philadelphia Phillies' general manager John Quinn (right) listens as Bob Skinner tells the press he is resigning as manager of the club. Skinner said his departure was prompted by front office failure to back him up in dealing with slugger Richie Allen.

Cards Impressed by Young Padres

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals managed to win eight of 12 matches in their first season of competition against San Diego and yet they're impressed by the youthful Padres.

"They've been as hard for us to beat as any team in the league," veteran Lou Brock said after his fifth-inning sacrifice fly knocked in the run that gave St. Louis a 2-1 victory here Thursday night.

* * *

It was the Cardinals' fifth one-run victory over the Padres and their third by a 2-1 margin. It's enough to make San Diego down right welcome Pittsburgh which moves into town for a weekend series starting tonight. Joe Niekro, 6-8, is to oppose Bob Veale, 6-11, Pirate lefty.

"The Padres are right in concentrating on young players — They've got to get better," said manager Red Schoenienst after his Cardinals victory kept alive their faint hopes of overtaking Chicago in the National League's Eastern Division.

"I never did learn how to hit those two young pitchers of theirs," Brock said in reference to 21-year-old righthanders Clay Kirby and Al Santorini. Kirby, a former Cardinal, pitched eight string innings in a 3-2 San Diego victory here Wednesday night.

ONE PROBLEM

Santorini 4-11 alowed only six hits in six and two-third innings, Thursday night but he couldn't cope with Mike Shannon.

The veteran third baseman tripled home the first St. Louis run in the second inning and then singled to start the Cardinals' winning rally in the fifth. He advanced to second on an infield out, took third on a wild pitch and scored the winning run as Brock lofted a fly to deep center.

* * *

Meanwhile, righthander Mike Torrez 7-4 pitched a five-hitter for St. Louis and lost a shutout when Al Ferrara hit a second-inning homer. It was Ferrara's 11th of the season.

Torrez got out of jams with doubleplays in the third, fourth and fifth innings and weathered a threat in the sixth when the Padres put a runner at third with only one away.

eighth Thursday by striking out hitter Chuck Manuel after the bases were loaded with two out and the score 5-4.

The bird incident occurred at the start of the inning when the injured creature half flew and half ran onto the infield. Timmerman picked it up softly and handed it to an usher as the 17,000 fans cheered.

"Nothing ever surprises me any more," said Tiger Manager Mayo Smith of Timmerman's stint.

* * *

Consecutive singles by Kaline, Willie Horton and Bill Freehan in the first inning gave Detroit its first run. Then, in the second, Brown hit his second major league home run to make the score 2-0.

Detroit got three more runs off starter and loser Jim Kaat, 11-8, in the third. Kalins hit his 13th homer of the year. Then Horton, Freehan and Norm Cash singled to send home another rur and Don Wert followed with an RBI double.

WILSON DEPARTS

Rich Reese put the Twins back in the game in the fourth with a three-run homer off Wilson. It followed a single by Tony Oliva and a walk to Harmon Killebrew. After walking John Roseboro, Smith called for Timmerman.

"Yes, he thought he could pitch out of it," Smith said of Wilson. "But I didn't think so."

Minnesota scored again in the eighth on two-out singles by Reese—his fourth hit—Roseboro and Cesar Tovar.

The Tigers got an insurance run in their half on a single by Wert, a sacrifice by Brown, and Mickey Stanley's single.

Athletics Top Indians, 3-0

Rookie Allows 3 Hits En Route to Victory

CLEVELAND (AP) — Rookie George Lauzerique pitched hitless ball for the first six innings Thursday in hurling the Oakland Athletics to a three-hit, 3-0 victory over the Cleveland Indians.

Dave Nelson broke the 22-year-old right-hander's spell by leading off the seventh with a single. Ken Harrelson also singled after one out in the inning but the Cuban native stopped the Indians. He fanned Tony Horton, and Harrelson was out attempting to steal second.

* * *

Lauzerique, who needed relief help from Rollie Fingers in the eighth, now has a 3-1 record.

Dick Green's sacrifice fly in the fourth scored Sal Bando with what proved to be the winning run. The A's added two more runs in the fifth, Bando's single scored Bert Campaneris and Reggie Jackson also came home when Bando was caught in a rundown on the next play.

Davis Cupper in Semifinals of Net Meet

SOUTHHAMPTON, N.Y. (AP) — Allan Stone, an Australian tennis tourist, considers his semifinal Saturday with U.S. Davis Cupper Bob Lutz of Los Angeles in the Meadow Club Invitation $12,000 grass court tournament as a big $1,000 match.

"That's the difference it will mean between winning and losing," the 25-year-old Melbourne native said after he reached the round of four Thursday by beating South Africa's Terry Ryan 6-4, 6-3.

* * *

"I've been coming over here on my own for four years," he said. "Being a registered player and playing for prize money here this year I've earned $3,800 in a month since Wimbledon."

"This match with Lutz means the difference between getting $850 I've earned so far or getting $1,850 for winning the semifinal and keeping my chances alive for the big prize, $3,050."

Stone is seeded fourth, Lutz is No. 2 and had a close call in his quarter-final match before beating France's Georges Goven 11-9, 2-6, 7-5.

* * *

The remaining quarters will be played today. Top seeded Clark Graebner of New York faces Patricio Cornejo of Chile while Gene Scott of New York, Seeded No. 6 and the only pure amateur left in the tourney, takes on third seeded Bill Bowrey of Australia.

Tiger players received all but one vote on the first two rounds of the Most Valuable Player balloting.

Skipper Had Enough

Slugger Too Much for Skinner

By RALPH BERNSTEIN

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Bob Skinner has been living with his tongue in his cheek. He couldn't stand it.

Before that tongue choked him, he quit the one job he wanted more than anything in the world — managing a major league baseball team.

* * *

Skinner resigned Thursday as manager of the Philadelphia Phillies. He left apparently because he got tired of lying to people — his family, his players, baseball writers and more important himself. These were "white lies" to protect his ball club and his players.

The 37-year-old Californian had simply run out of excuses for the Phillies' star slugger Rich Allen.

QUICK WORDS

You could read what drove Bob Skinner out of baseball in his face. When you asked why did Allen do the things that he did, Skinner's face reddened. He would speak quickly, the words flooding as he extolled Allen's talent. He always avoided the question, however.

Last week Skinner was asked what kind of job he felt he had done with the Phillies this season. Did he expect to be back in 1970? Skinner's contract ran through this year.

"I've done a fine job and I think management agrees with me," he said. "I see no reason why I shouldn't be back next season. We have a young ball club that is going to get older and better and be a pennant contender in the National League. We have 10 rookies on this club and we are teaching them while they play."

Skinner obviously had no intention last week of quitting. What happened in the interim? Apparently, he decided he couldn't manage unless he could control 25, not 24 players. Allen seems to be a law unto himself with the Phillies.

Skinner's resignation brought to light the fact that Allen is getting back the money he was fined for failing to show up for a doubleheader June 24 in New York.

Allen also was suspended and missed 26 days and 29 games.

Skinner felt denuded and quit.

A similar fate befell Skinner's predecessor, Gene Mauch. Mauch and Allen tangled. Mauch was fired.

Skinner is a dedicated baseball man. He played 12 years in the National League with Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, and St. Louis. He played on two pennant winners. He played the game hard. He managed the same way. He couldn't understand why a player with the tremendous talents of an Allen, couldn't feel the same dedication.

* * *

In short, Skinner was frustrated where it came to Allen. Like Mauch, he tried everything to motivate Allen and came up emptyhanded.

Skinner experienced little trouble with Allen after succeeding Mauch in June, 1968. His troubles, however, began in spring training last March. Allen didn't agree to terms until camp was a week old. He arrived after the exhibition season started.

City Swimmers Make Big Splash in HCMA Meet

Several Pontiac swimmers earned medals in the ninth annual age group swimming meet earlier this week conducted by the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority.

Four 12-year-olds from Pontiac swim club — Jim Dauw, Gordon Markham, Jeff Dauw and John Irwin — placed second in the 160-yard freestyle relay, and the quartet of Mike and Dave Dauw, Dave Irwin and Paul Webster took second in the 10-and-under class of the 160-yard medley relay.

Kathy Irwin, 10, took third in the 40-yard backstroke of the 10-and-under class, while her brother, John, 12, took a third in the age 11-12 50-yard freestyle.

Boog's Hitting for Orioles Is Royals' Downfall, 10-2

BALTIMORE (AP) — Boog Powell slugged one of Baltimore's three homers and drove in four runs as the Orioles walloped the Kansas City Royals 10-2 Thursday night.

* * *

Dave McNally, 16-1, starting anew after having his 17-game winning streak snapped, hit a two-run homer and Brooks Robinson added a solo round-tripper.

* * *

Powell hit his 30th homer in the first off loser Dick Drago, 5-10, and stroked a bases-loaded single in the fourth off Mike Hedlund as the Orioles increased their lead to 9-2.

* * *

The four runs batted in boosted Powell's total to 101, matching the American League-leading mark of Minnesota's Harmon Killebrew before to the Twins' night game against

11TH STRAIGHT

Ellie Hendricks also contributed three RBIs as the Orioles beat the Royals for the 11th straight time since losing the first game between the two teams in May.

McNally allowed four of Kansas City's five hits in the first two innings, with the Royals scoring on two-out singles by Paul Schaal and Joe Foy in the second following two walks. The left-hander then retired 13 in a row before Bob Oliver singled in the seventh.

In Championship Playoffs

City Slowpitch Field Trimmed

The city slowpitch softball championship mill continues to grind and the field was narrowed considerably in the post-season Class A playoffs last night.

Moving ahead in the Class A American scramble last night were L. A. Predman with a 6-5 nod over Oxford Mattress. Designers Cabinet with a 10-8 verdict against Local No. 596 and Miracle Lounge with a 3-2 squeaker over Pontiac Press No. 1.

In a Class A national game, Timberlanes sent MGM packing in a 14-9 contest.

NEXT FOES

Designers Cabinet now goes against Miracle Lounge this evening at Northside with the survivor taking on the Fredman-Conn's winner Tuesday at Beaudette) next Wednesday at Northside. Congregation takes on Huron Gulf tonight with the winner moving into the finals against Timberlanes Monday night.

Down 3-1, Fredman came up with five runs in the top of the sixth in bouncing the Mattress squad. Gary Acker and Bruce Teamer collected two hits apiece for Fredman, while Jerry Stanton collected a pair, one a two-run homer, for Oxford.

BIG FRAME

A five-run third inning triggered Designers' win over Local No. 596. Harold Pittingill and Paul Knowles checked in with two hits apiece to spur the attack and the Designers were aided by six union errors. Joe Rainge, Larry Frazier and Bob Moore picked up two hits each for Local 596.

* * *

Lee Saunders' single sent pitcher Dick Jones across with the winning run in the last of the eighth inning as Miracle Lounge nipped Pontiac Press. The Pressmen had rallied for two runs in the top of the seventh to square the game at 2-2. Saunders, Bob Burt and Ken Coleman led the 11-hit Miracle attack with two safeties each while Sid Gregory checked in with a pair of singles for the Press.

PRODUCTIVE INNINGS

Timberlanes scored six times in the second and five times in the fifth in halting MGM. Jim Harrington clubbed a two-run homer for Timberlanes and teammate Jack Graham collected two hits and scored four times. Fred Hanzek rapped out four straight singles for MGM.

In industrial slowpitch, the Gophers downed the LJ's, 9-4, with Clifton Smith setting the pace with a homer and triple; Charley Board, Don Lootens and John Dyer picked up two hits each to lead the Tigers past the Filthy Few; and Jerry Ellison collected two singles, a double and a homer and teammate Steve Bradshaw added a homer as the Rejects walloped Valwood Realty, 16-4.

78 Will Try for Places in USGA Amateur Event

The current Michigan Amateur titlist and Golf Association of Michigan champion will be among a field of 78 teeing off Tuesday in a bid for four spots in the U.S.G.A. Amateur slated for later this month in Oakmont, Pa.

Peter Green of Franklin, winner of the Michigan Amateur in June, and R. Hunter McDonald of Birmingham, who captured the GAM championship a week ago, are among the big guns who'll battle for the four spots over 36 holes at Arbor Hills Country Club in Jackson.

RECORD ENTRY

A record 2,175 players have entered the national event and that list will be pared to 125 in the 37 sectional qualifying rounds across the country.

* * *

These 137 survivors will then join 25 exempt players for the 72-hole championship proper to be played at the Oakmont Country Club.

Heading the list of exempt players is defending champion Bruce Fleisher, who claimed the title last year at Columbus, Ohio.

* * *

Another is the lineup at Arbor Hills trying for one of the four spots is Lloyd Syron of Pontiac Country Club, the 1957 Michigan Amateur titlist.

Among others are Charles Kocsis of Royal Oak, Melvin Steens of Livonia, James St. Germain of Northville, Randy Moore of Walled Lake, David Cameron of Birmingham and Frank W. Groves of Orchard Lake.

Senators Beat All-Stars, 8-4

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Ken McMullen went 4-for-4, including a homer, and knocked in four runs as the Washington Senators scored an 8-4 victory over the International League All-Stars Thursday night.

The Senators scored two runs off Tidewater's Jon Matlack in the second, then iced it in the third with three more off Toledo's Gary Taylor. McMullen hit his two-run homer in the seventh.

Skeet Shooting Champ

State Meet Next in 'D'

A chance at a state title awaits the winner of a playoff in Class D junior baseball Saturday.

Regular-season American League champion Snack and Rack tangles with Cranbrook with the winner advancing to state tournament play against Dearborn Wednesday night.

Cranbrook, reaching the title game with a 6-5 verdict over Bloomfield Hills last night, will take the field in the finale Saturday at 7:30.

FIRST GAME

The game will be preceeded by a duel for the National League playoff title featuring Elmer's Ashland and P.P.O.A. The police nine moved up yesterday with a 3-2 win over McCullough Realty.

CLOUTS HOMER

A three-run seventh highlighted by Carl Charles' two-run homer enabled Cranbrook to down Bloomfield Hills. Charles delivered his homer after a single by Red Fonda. Jerry Iwanski, who also drove in two runs, walked and scored the winning run on Craig Herrick's single.

* * *

Bob Foreman led an 11-hit Bloomfield attack with three singles.

LEAD CHANGES

A walk, a couple of singles and a pair of errors produced three runs for P.P.O.A. in the fourth and wiped out a 2-0 McCullough lead. Roger Holland and Jerry Reddaman picked up two hits each for P.P.O.A. and Reddaman set McCullough down on only three singles.

Another Widget champion was crowned as Optimist No. 2 downed Aladdin Vending, 6-1, with Jack Adams and Don Oliver clouting homers in the top of the sixth to break a 1-1 tie.

* * *

In T-Ball, the Optimist Mets downed the Orioles, 10-1, to reach the finals against the Cubs.

The 1951 World Series was the first televised from coast to coast.

Tennis Action in Wightman Cup to Start

CLEVELAND (AP) — Julie Heldman of the United States faces Virginia Wade of Great Britain in the opening matches of Wightman Cup tennis play here Saturday.

The drawing, made Thursday night at the home of British Consul-General M.J. Marshall in suburban Shaker Heights, pits Nancy Richey of the United States against Britain's Winnie Shaw in the second and final singles match of the opening day.

* * *

Sunday singles play finds Britain's Christine Janes facing Peaches Bartkowicz of the U.S. and in doubles matches, Mary Ann Curtis and Valerie Ziegenfuss of the United States play Nell Truman and Mrs. Janes of Britain.

Miss Wade plays Miss Richey and Miss Heldman plays Miss Shaw in singles matches Monday. The final match has Miss Richey and Miss Bartkowicz playing Miss Wade and Miss Shaw.

Shrine Grid Game Making 1-Year Switch to Stanford

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The annual Shrine East-West football game is leaving San Francisco, at least for one game.

The 45th game will be played Dec. 27 in 87,000-seat Stanford University Stadium, officials of the sponsoring Islam Temple said Thursday.

The oldest of the college all-star games was moved from Kezar Stadium to Candlestick Park two years ago but city officials plan to install artificial turf in Candlestick during the fall.

* * *

The San Francisco 49ers whose home is Kezar, plan to move to Candlestick for the 1970 football season.

Ted Balliet, general manager of the game, said the attendance at Stanford would help determine whether the East-West game returns to the city. But in all likelihood, he said, the 46th game will be played in Candlestick, which seats 50,000.

* * *

John McKay of the University of Southern California will coach the West, assisted by Eddit Crowder of Colorado and Frank Kush of Arizona State.

Tom Cahill of Army will coach the East, assisted by Alex Agase of Northwestern and Earle Edwards of North Carolin State.

* * *

All proceeds go to the Shriners' Hospital for Crippled Children.

The first major league night baseball game that counted in the standings was played at Cincinnati on May 24, 1935.

Young Briton Leads GMO

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Peter Townsend, a young englishman who once lost his approved player card because of poor play, isn't concerned with that problem any more.

"I figure that if they pick up my card again, they're going to have to pick another 150," the dark-haired 22-year-old said Thursday after shooting a five-under-par 67 and grabbing the first round lead in the $100,000 Greater Milwaukee Open golf tournament.

* * *

"I've been playing pretty well for the last few months," Townsend said. "I'm about 98th on the money list. And there are about 250 or 300 players on the tour."

"If they pick up my card, they've got to get all the rest of them."

WINDY DAY

With most of the great names of the game by-passing this event to practice for next week's PGA championship, some of the lesser lights of the tour dominated the windy, first-day play.

* * *

Rookie pro John Miller was second with a 68, followed by Mike Nugent, Steve Opperman and South African Allan Henning, all at 69. At 70 were Jim Wiechers, Larry Ziegler and Bob Lunn. Of the leaders, only Lunn played in the afternoon, when the wind was at its highest.

* * *

The top attractions had their problems with the wind that gusted to 28 miles per hour.

Arnold Palmer came in with a 76, four over par on the 7,075-yard North Shore Country Club course. Defending champion Dave Stockton had a 77. Bert Greene, second in last week's Westchester Classic, took a 75. Gary Player had a 73.

Townsend's approved player card, which he must have to compete in regular tour events, was picked up for poor play in May of this year, along with 21 others. He was re-instated, on a probationary basis, a few days later.

Lead Shared in Canada Golf

Favored Knudson 5th in First Round of Play

VANCOUVER (AP) — Bob Cox of Richmond, B.C., and three-time winner Al Balding each carded six-under-par 66s Thursday to share the first-round lead in the $33,157 Canadian Professional Golfers' Association championship.

Cox, 29-year-old winner of the Alberta Open, rolled in a 15-foot putt for an eagle on the 460-yard, par-five 18th, and appeared to have sole possession of first place while Balding was still on the 6,754-yard Point Grey course, running out a string of seven birdies.

* * *

Newcomer Neil Green of Calgary waited in the clubhouse for five hours after finishing early with a four-under-par 68, only to find he was in third place, one stroke ahead of Bob Panasiuk of Tecumseh, Ont. Panasiuk also eagled the 18th to stay at 69, one shot ahead of heavily-favored George Knudson of Toronto.

Knudson, seeking his third straight title, looked ready to set the pace Wednesday when he shot a 66 in the pro-am event in his first look at the course.

He was tied at 70 with Ed Engelhardt of Calgary and Gary Bowerman of Toronto.

Reggie Smith's 2-Run Single Helps Red Sox

BOSTON (AP) — Reggie Smith rifled a two-run single with two out in the ninth inning Thursday, bringing the Boston Red Sox from behind to a 5-4 victory over the Seattle Pilots.

* * *

Starting pitcher Fred Talbot homered in the top of the ninth to give Seattle a 4-2 lead, but Talbot and relievers Bob Locker and John O'Donoghue couldn't protect it.

* * *

George Scott led off the ninth with a double, bringing on Locker who got the first out. But then Dick Schofield singled, scoring Scott and Mike Andrews followed with another single.

O'Donoghue came on and got the second out, but shortstop Ray Oyler bobbled Carl Yastrzemski's grounder, filling the bases. Smith then delivered his game-winning blow.

EARLY LEAD

The Pilots jumped to a 3-0 lead in the first.

Tommy Harper led off with a line single off the left field wall. Steve Hovley and Wayne Comer followed with two line singles for one run. Tommy Davis grounded a sharp single to right for another tally, and Jim Pagliaroni grought home the third run with a sacrifice fly.

* * *

Frank Sessoms of Darlington, S.C., current GT national points leader, finished third after running out of gas on the 350th lap of the 400-lap event. Lund drives a 1969 Cougar, Baker a 1969 Firebird and Sessoms a 1968 Camaro.

* * *

Lund, leading the GT in money winnings this year with more than $17,000, picked up $850 for his winning effort. Second place paid $500 out of a purse of $6,500 and third paid $400.

* * *

Finishing fourth was Al Straub, Louisville, Ky., in a 1969 Mustang, and Phil Wills, Nashville, Tenn., was fifth in a Camaro.

The Tigers had the highest fielding percentage in the American League in 1968.

N-Test Diggings Turn Up Early Culture

AMCHITKA ISLAND, Alaska (AP)—An archeologist says work being done in preparation for an underground nuclear test on Amchitka Island has turned up evidence of a culture which predates the Aleuts.

Roger Desautels said Wednesday that he and his crew had found artifacts of a "definitely pre-Aleut culture," some 9,000 years old. Aleuts are the natives of the Aleutian Island chain.

Desautels told newsmen who toured the Atomic Energy Commission that indications had been found of a "white culture not associated with the Alaska mainland."

He said there was evidence it was associated with the culture which existed thousands of years ago on the Northern Japanese Islands. And he said his diggings showed these people had lived on Amchitka about 9,000 years ago.

HUMAN REMAINS

Desautels, a consultant for the Atomic Energy Commission, said human remains, sea shells and animal bones were found at a depth of 6 to 8 feet.

Desautels and his four helpers are pushing to finish work on a half a dozen sites near "ground zero" for the Milrow test, an underground blast expected to be just over one megaton in strength, and scheduled for fall.

The archeologist said he had found 79 sites, but is concentrating on the ones in the vicinity of the test hole.

Meanwhile another scientist on the island, Dr. Melvin L. Merritt, said he thinks "a lot of worries have been exaggerated" in connection with the test, which he said is slated for "early October."

Merritt, an effects evaluation expert, said it was "obvious there will be some damage to the ecology." But he emphasized that the damge was expected to be small, and said, "Frankly, the test is to determine effects."

* * *

Merritt said the "greatest danger to wildlife is just people." He said the AEC is trying to do as little as possible to disturb the ecology of Amchitka, a narrow, 42-mile long island which is part of the Aleutian Islands National Wildlife Refuge.

* * *

The Milrow test is a "calibration" test to determine the suitability of using Amchitka to set off even larger underground explosions.

Amchitka was the choice after the AEC decided that its Nevada test site "would not be adequate for certain anticipated higher-yield tests."

NASA Official Foresees 2-Year Flights to Mars

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Dr. Thomas O. Paine, administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, foresees in the next decade or so 12-member space crews making voyages to Mars and back — taking two years or more.

Now that Americans have walked on the moon and are preparing to do so nine more times in the Apollo program, Paine told the National Press Club Wednesday: "We have opened a frontier that we will never see the end of. Indeed, it is an endless frontier."

* * *

In a separate Washington speech Wednesday, the NASA associate administrator, Dr. George G. Meuller, said America stands "at what is undoubtedly the greatest decision point in the history of this planet." The question, he said, is: "Will we press forward to explore other planets or will we deny the opportunities of the future?"

If the nation continues to move ahead, the first 12-man expedition could leave for Mars by 1979.

MOON COLONY

Then, by the end of 1989 Mueller said, it is possible that "men, not merely Americans, will have established the first colony on the moon and the first permanent base on Mars."

Paine said the key to traveling to the deeper reaches of space would be final development of nuclear engines for spacecraft and atomic-power generators for space stations.

Cleric's Claim Laughed Off by Graham

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — Dr. Billy Graham laughed off yesterday a theologian's charge that he and President Nixon sought to install in the United States a "tamed religion" that is uncritical of Nixon policies.

"I don't have any comment at this time," the evangelist said, but added he may later.

* * *

Writing in the interdenominational liberal journal "Christianity and Crisis," the Rev. Dr. Reinhold Niebuhr described Graham as "a domesticated and tailored leftover from the wild and woolly frontier evangelistic campaign." He contended Graham was a "key figure" in what he called the formation of the "Nixon-Graham doctrine."

Dr. Niebuhr, a retired Union Theological Seminary professor, tied Nixon's Sunday services in the White House to this doctrine, saying it defied church-state separation.

150 City Boys to Attend Camp Near Lake Orion

More than 150 boys from southwest Pontiac will leave for a week at Camp Agawam near Lake Orion this Sunday, it was announced by William Jackson, director of Harambee, Inc.

The program is sponsored by Harambee, the Clinton Valley Boy Scout Council, Pontiac Area United Fund, the Black Cultural Center, the Pontiac Department of Parks and Recreation and the Pontiac Area Executives Council and several area businesses.

Boys, ages 11 to 15, will take part in activities such as swimming, games, group discussion and a family night campfire, Wednesday.

The boys will also participate in activities that range from archery to problems of drug addiction.

CAMP DIRECTOR

The camp director will be George Pulliam, a new district Scout executive. However, Jackson pointed out that the program will not consist of traditional Scout activities, but the emphasis will be on outdoor adventure and activities meaningful to the children from the southwest part of Pontiac.

The week at camp is a visible indication that many groups are willing to work together to create programs that meet the demands of Pontiac's young people, according to Jackson.

The bus leaves Hayes Jones Community Center at 1:30 p.m. Sunday and returns 2:45 p.m. Aug. 16.

The boys are to get medical examinations at Hayes Jones Center from 9 to 11 a.m. this Saturday.

Booklet Tells Poverty Story

A fact book on the Oakland County Commission on Economic Opportunity (OCCEO), its purpose, its programs and the people it serves, has been printed.

Anyone wishing a copy should contact OCCEO at 1 Lafayette, Pontiac.

OCCEO serves the low-income population of Oakland County. It provides a variety of programs to help the poor lift themselves from poverty — through education, job training, work experience, family and financial counseling and other supporting programs.

OCCEO serves as a catalyst, involving local leadership — government officials, representatives of public and private agencies, of business, labor, education, churches, minority groups, civic groups and individuals — poor and nonpoor together, in a coalition approach to solve the problems which cause and perpetuate poverty.

Who are the poor in Oakland County? According to the OCCEO Fact Book, they are the ill, the aged, the unskilled, the undereducated and illiterate, and single parent families with young children.

Few communities in the county are without some poor, others have up to 23 per cent of their families living in poverty.

What are the problems of the poor in Oakland County? There are problems of poor housing or lack of housing; unemployment and low paying, dead-end jobs; medical, dental, and mental health problems; lack of transportation, credit difficulties, drug addition and alcoholism, the OCCEO Fact Book states.

Earl Cheers Leslie's Climb Up the TV Success Ladder

By EARL WILSON

HOLLYWOOD — Leslie Uggams has climbed up here by her own giant steps and her only ladder was her talent.

The road curved and the tires snarled as we rode up to the beautiful 12-room $100,000 house, high up in the exclusive Doheny Estates. We strolled out onto the patio and looked 'way down there at the poor people. Even the smog isn't allowed up this high.

WILSON

"With you in a minute!" In a white voile blouse over a chocolate brown bikini, the mistress of the mansion urged me toward the large pool, now hers, but built by Mickey Hargitay for the late Jayne Mansfield before Jayne went pink and heart-shaped.

"I found the house first!" (Her husband Graham Pratt was pouring us coffee and having breakfast yogurt.)

"I told Graham, 'I think I've found the house.' He saw the pool and the den, that's built like a ship, that Nick Adams made out of an old garage, and he liked it. Dionne Warwick's moving down the street. Ricardo Montalban lives around here. My mother's coming out next week. Can you imagine how mama's going to love this!"

I found it rather beautiful that this Negro girl, taking over the Smothers Brothers' TV spot for CBS Sept. 30, should suddenly become a VIP in this community that she's never even lived in before.

'Bonnie and Clyde' Master Discusses Film

Director Offers New Look at Old West

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLWOOD (AP) — A new look at the Old West will be offered by Arthur Penn, the man who directed "Bonnie and Clyde." The movie western may never be the same.

THOMAS

Penn's "B&C" proved the most influential film in recent times, helping to popularize startling camera effects and bringing freshness to the ancient cops-and-robbers tale. Now he's at work on "Little Big Man," which Stuart Miller is producing for CBS's movie subsidiary, Cinema Center Films.

* * *

"I'm not trying any different techniques with this picture," said the affable, youngish-looking (he's 46) Penn. "The story is being told in a rather straightforward manner. I think it would be folly to try to improve on techniques of the western: too many masters have already had a go at it."

The script, written by Calder Willingham from Thomas Berger's novel, is something else again. It is related by the 121-year-old Jack Crabb (Dustin Hoffman) who claims to have been the only white survivor of the Battle of Little Big Horn. His other adventures include being reared by Indians after his capture at 14, hunting buffalo with Bill Cody, witnessing the murder of Wild Bill Hickok, etc.

"I don't think of this picture as a western," said Penn. "It's more of a picaresque tale of one man's life on the frontier, told from an ironic point of view.

"One thing this film will do is show the Indian's side in the West. There has been so much nonsense about the Indian in westerns that it's time someone showed how he was wronged by history. Custer's Last Stand offers a good opportunity.

* * *

"Most history books are all wrong about Custer. This stems from the fact that his widow had an official biography written soon after his death, and the facts were twisted to favor her late husband.

* * *

"We have done a lot of research on Custer and have come up with some interesting questions. The big one was why a military commander with 250 troops would attack a force of 11,000, of which perhaps 6,000 were warriors. It made no sense from a military point of view.

'AMBITIOUS MAN'

"Obviously Custer was a very vain man, an ambitious man, and he was intensely jealous of U.S. Grant, who had come out of the Civil War as the big hero. The Democratic National Convention was to be held six days after the battle, and it's very possible that Custer hoped for a dramatic victory that would bring him the nomination for president."

Penn is taking the "Little Big Man" company to Little Big Horn in Montana to stage the massacre on the actual battle grounds. Then the troupe will move to Calgary to finish the film in snow country.

* * *

The film seems like a change of pace for Penn, whose other films include "The Miracle Worker," "The Chase," "Mickey One" and the forthcoming "Alice's Restaurant." But he reminds that his first movie was a western, "The Left-Handed Gun," starring Paul Newman as another frontier legend, Billy the Kid.

OCCEO Sets 1970 Priorities

Community development has been placed at the top of 10 major priorities for the year 1970 adopted by the Oakland County Commission on Economic Opportunity (OCCEO).

The priorities were adopted recently after 58 public hearings held in 21 county communities.

* * *

OCCEO Director, Edward P. Revis, pointed out that the hearings were a way the 51-member commission would be able to be certain that county citizens were getting the programs they need and want.

* * *

The following programs were listed by the OCCEO in sequence of importance:

- Community Development — Educational programs inform the public on governmental structure and how to present neighborhood problems to the correct unit of government and correct them.

* * *

- Senior citizens — assistance willl be provided to already existing groups to muster resources to rehabilitate and educate disabled seniors who wish to work. County agencies will be asked to aid in forming a program structure.
- Employment and training — A skills center is to be launched through a local coalition of county government, industry, the Michigan Employment Security Commission and the OCCEO.

* * *

- Day care — The OCCEO-formed corporation will handle older children after school hours and provide transportation. Head Start programs will be coordinated.

* * *

- Transportation — The OCCEO will work with other agencies toward providing a countywide system. The Volunteer Transportation Corps will be continued and expanded.
- Housing — A building program will be started and funding sources will be sought to provide low-income family housing. A county nonprofit housing corporation has filed incorporation papers for this purpose.
- Education — An effort will be made to extend Head Start to more school districts and for primary school follow-up programs. Attempts will be made to reduce or eliminate prices for school fees and hot lunches for the poor.
- Health — Stress will be placed at getting services to the poor, especially in remote areas. A halfway house for alcoholics is an objective as well as decentralization of the county health and food stamp programs.
- Recreation — The OCCEO will provide technical assistance to local programs with emphasis on all ages.
- Consumer education — Problems of the poor relative to purchasing, planning and saving will be explored with agencies and business. Consumer information will be disseminated and attempts will continue to establish a credit union for the poor.

Ignorance Not Bliss for Welder

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — Ignorance of how to use an acetylene torch frustrated a burglar who tried to get into the safe in a baking company office here.

* * *

It seems he used a "welding" tip instead of a "cutting" tip when applying the torch. He welded the safe closed.

The Gourmet Adventures of Jayson's

Most everyone loves ham! And one of the nicest features of that succulent, clove-studded ham you have for dinner of what's left — whether it's on the bone or not — and all the different and delicious meals you can create from it. You needn't limit yourself to ham-and-cheese sandwiches, after all. Why not use ham in a favorite recipe calling for leftover meat? Just vary the ingredients a little and you've made a new specialty. Try ham stuffed Cabbage Rolls and Cheese for a change-of-pace breakfast or brunch; Ham Pie, zesty with onions, green pepper, and tomato for a late supper. Of all the convenience foods available today there is probably no other meat to be found in such a variety of ways.

Don't limit yourself to just your favorite food, try something different prepared by Chef Frank Padrock of JAYSON'S, 4195 Dixie Highway at Hatchery Rd., Drayton Plains, 673-7906. But Is It Commercial?

Sales Increase Doesn't Ad Up

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — During the past 10 years, several European countries have banned cigarette advertising on radio and television, a step now being contemplated in the United States.

WEST

In each of these countries, according to a recent survey, cigarette consumption has increased since the advertising stopped.

* * *

It may be argued, of course, that the increase would have been even greater had the advertising continued.

Statistically, however, a case can be made to support the thesis that withdrawing the commercials stimulated cigarette sales.

EXECUTIVES HUDDLE

And if that happened to tobacco products, one cannot help but wonder whether it might not happen to other types of products as well.

Even now, I imagine, advertising executives huddled together in their sanctum sanctorums along Madison Avenue discussing the phenomenon.

You might think a situation without commercials would strike fear into the hearts of the admen. But these intrepid messengers of the medium are not easily daunted.

Let us now look in on one of the conferences to see how things are going . . . .

"All right, men," says an agency VP, "We have completed our campaign for the Blackhead Electric Tweezers Co. Sixteen weeks of hard-hitting radio and TV spots with saturation coverage in prime time. What do the figures show?"

"Sales of electric tweezers are up 6.9 per cent," says the account executive.

* * *

"That's great," says the VP. "At what point during the campaign did the sales chart begin to take off?"

"Well, actually, electric tweezers sales dropped off during the first week of the campaign and continued to decline for the next 15 weeks. The first upswing didn't come until the week after the campaign ended."

'JINGLE DID IT'

"Hmmmmm. How are we going to explain that to the client."

"It was our jingle that did it."

"You mean the jingle had a delayed impact?"

"Sort of. After hearing it for 16 weeks, people had reached the point where the jingle was driving them out of their skulls. Then, when we took it off the air, they felt such a strong sense of relief they went out and bought electric tweezers to show their gratitude."

* * *

"Beautiful," beams the VP. "When our client hears about this, he is certain to give us a fat new contract."

Aussies Warn Men Migrants

Immigration Appeal to Women Is Urged

CANBERRA, Australia (AP) — Thousands of lonely men who migrated to Australia are doomed to life without women, according to the New Citizens Council of Australia.

In its journal, the council says up to 1,000 more men than women migrate each month to Australia. It reports that the population ratio is approaching three men to one woman.

* * *

It claims men are lured from other countries to join the work force without being told by the Immigration Department that they are expected to remain "celibate colonists."

"Jobs, houses and sunshine are the real competition," the article says.

It adds that migrant men unable to find wives become alcoholics or gamblers. Or they could become psychologically unbalanced and "spend the rest of their life in mental agony."

The journal urges the government to launch an immediate drive in European countries to attract young women, adding: "If the government should ever see fit to relax Asian immigration it would be a good idea to concentrate mainly on girls."

An Immigration Department spokesman said in reply that the government concentrates on family migration which has shown an almost even relationship between male and female migrants.

North-South vulnerable

Opening lead—♥A

By OSWALD AND JAMES JACOBY

East was one of those players who like to preempt with very weak hands when the vulnerability is favorable them.

South was aware of this and considered making some sort of slam try. After all, South was looking at 21 high-card points and nine sure winning tricks. Finally, South decided to settle for game only and just bid four spades.

★ ★ ★

It was West's turn to think. He had very good defense against spades but West was sure that South's long study had been about bidding more than four spades and not about whether to bid or to pass, so West decided against a double. He considered going to five hearts as a sacrifice but finally concluded to try to find a way to defeat the spade contract.

He opened the ace of hearts and looked around for some way to get his partner into the lead. If he could do that, a heart return would allow him to get in one of his small trumps and beat the hand.

His partner had bid four hearts without the ace or king. Could he have the ace of clubs?

★ ★ ★

The answer was that East could not have that card because he had played the jack of hearts at trick one. This wasn't necessarily a request for West to shift to a diamond, merely a request to West not to shift to a club.

West read it and made the unusual shift to the king of diamonds. South took his ace. He would have had to be clairvoyant to hold off!

Then South led his six of spades. This wasn't a good idea. West ducked, won the next spade and led his last diamond. The Deschapelles Coup had worked and East was in. Furthermore, East knew enough to lead a heart. South had shown up with all the important spades so that West could not overruff a diamond.

OCC Will Aid Wayne College

Wayne County Community College (WCCC) will be able to operate this fall, thanks to assistance being offered by Oakland Community College.

The OCC Board of Trustees last night approved a plan to provide WCCC with a project director and secretary to oversee and direct implementation of an educational program for the new college's 1969-70 academic year.

★ ★ ★

WCCC will also use course outlines furnished by Oakland Community College.

OCC will receive 10 per cent of Wayne's tuition collections and state aid payments for services performed in assisting in initiating the educational program.

WILL BE REIMBURSED

OCC will also be fully reimbursed, through state funds to Wayne, for the salary for the project director's services.

All of the teachers, counselors and instructors employed will be selected, designated, employed and paid by Wayne County Community College, under the agreement.

★ ★ ★

The board authorized the appointment of Dr. Harvey Hershey, present director of community relations and community services for OCC, as director of the Wayne County Community College project.

★ ★ ★

WCCC will open this fall in 18 centers in that county, 12 of which will be directed by OCC. The new community college anticipates 3,000 students attending 500 classes this fall.

APPROPRIATION OKAYED

In other action last night, the OCC board approved an appropriation of $335,934 for a set of three instructional programs to be phased into operation over the next 6 to 10 months.

The programs, described by Dr. Derek Nunney, OCC vice president in charge of instruction, will concentrate on individualized instruction for OCC students.

★ ★ ★

One program to be initiated is foundational studies, which will include extensive use of carrel-arcades, or small individual instruction areas, supervision by paraprofessionals and a "youth-tutor-youth" program.

Each of the three campuses will also have an instructional center to coordinate activities designed for remediation and enrichment of the students.

★ ★ ★

The third program will include expansion of vocational education, including the bringing in of additional consultants to review plans for the Auburn Hills Vocational Technical Building and other parts of the applied sciences program.

The board last night also awarded a $93,000 contract to the Schiller Construction Co. of Detroit, low bidder for construction of office and classroom partitioning at the Orchard Ridge Campus, Farmington Township.

The only other bidder for the project was A. J. Schima Co. of Dearborn, which bid $127,000.

Wants Own Sex Education Policy

Board Balks at Guide

Waterford Township school board members apparently want to set their own guidelines for the teaching of sex education and not have them dictated by the state.

That was the thinking of two board members at last night's board meeting.

★ ★ ★

The State Legislature has requested that school districts not start any new sex education programs until the State Department of Education develops some guidelines.

"I feel that the concept of education should be the prerogative of the school district and not handed down by the Legislature," Board President Philip M. Hampton said. He was supported by Trustee Eldon C. Rosegart.

TO ANNOUNCE POLICY

Hampton promised that the board will publicly announce its policy on sex education in a couple weeks.

Nevertheless, acting Supt. Dr. John Pagen indicated that new sex education programs, including a proposed one at Silver Lake Elementary School, wouldn't begin until state guidelines are examined and programs are discussed with adults.

★ ★ ★

Response from the school officials came after Gerald O. Bowman, chairman of Parents for Moral Education in Waterford Township, asked if they would abide by the Legislature's request.

The school board also:

● Promised to see if some 10 elementary children in Lakeland Estates subdivision would be eligible for bus service to Our Lady of The Lakes school.

● Heard an objection to the appointment of a new director of building, grounds and transportation and director of personnel and employe relations.

Elmer Peters of the school district's maintenance department said maintenance employes feel one of their own should have been named building director instead of Robert Woodruff, who was a general supervisor at Pontiac Motor Divsion.

★ ★ ★

He also complained the creation of the new position of director of personnel was wasting money. Richard Higginbotham, principal of Crary Junior High School, was named to that post last night.

Pagen explained that Woodruff was the best man available and that Higginbotham would be taking over some of Pagen's old duties and some of a resigned associate superintendent.

The board also:

● Approved new administrative contracts of Roy J. Alexander as assistant superintendent for instruction from secondary coordinator; Lois Blanchard as assistant principal at Pierce Junior High School from materials center coordinator; Michael G. LeMense, assistant principal at Pierce from the school counselor; and Burton Bronson, supervisor of music education from Birmingham Schools.

● Accepted the resignation of Miss Pearl Turo as principal of Monteith School. She came to the school system in 1946.

● Approved an application to apply for $21,000 of state funds to operate computerized instruction program for adult basic education.

On all of the job appointments school officials claimed final salaries would not be determined until after a new contract was negotiated with teachers.

School-Lunch Cost Up

Waterford Township senior high school students will be getting a lesson in economics this coming school year. The chapter is called inflation.

Nealy 2,000 of the students who eat lunch at school will find that lunches have gone up from 35 to 40 cents when they return to school next month.

The board of education approved the increase last night to make up a lunch program deficit of about $4,000 last year and to provide for rising food prices. The schools use government commodities.

A school official said the increase is not expected to put much hardship on juniors and seniors since about 90 per cent of them work.

★ ★ ★

Last year the school district took in about $382,183 for the lunches and faced expenditures of about $386,216.

3 Homes Hit by Fire Bombs

A young girl escaped without serious injury in one of three fire-bombings of homes on the east side of Pontiac last night, according to police and firemen.

★ ★ ★

Kelly Ann Wright, 9, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dolph D. Wright of 121 Vernon, was in the bathroom of the home at 12:13 a.m. when a fire bomb came through the window, police said. She was slightly burned on the right arm.

★ ★ ★

The fire was extinguished with only slight damage to the home.

Another residence about three blocks away at 412 Valencia was hit at 12:34 a.m. by a fire bomb through a front window. Only slight damage resulted to the residence of the Kenneth Morgan family.

★ ★ ★

The third home similarly hit is at 9449 Thors in Herrington Hills subdivision about a mile away, police said. About $250 damage resulted in the 1 a.m. incident at the home of the Darold Hiller family.

★ ★ ★

Police and fire officials were investigating the incidents today.

Knifing Suspect Is Committed

Found Unfit for Trial in Attack on OU Coed

A former Huntington Woods man charged with attempted murder in the stabbing of an Oakland University coed 2½ years ago was committed to Ionia State Hospital for the Criminally Insane yesterday.

Oakland County Circuit Judge Frederick C. Ziem ordered that Roger B. Shaw, 25, be institutionalized until such time as authorities feel he can stand trial.

★ ★ ★

Shaw was charged in the knifing of Janice E. Leveranz, now 22, of Rochester with a 6-inch ceremonial dagger.

The incident occurred in a car in an Oakland University parking lot in January 1967.

FLED COUNTRY

Before his trial began, Shaw fled the country, and was arrested only last April in Sydney, Australia, on a charge of vagrancy.

Australian officials deported him to Honolulu, where FBI agents arrested him on a fugitive warrant as he got off the plane.

★ ★ ★

Judge Ziem ruled on the committment after hearing Pontiac psychiatrist Dr. Abraham Tauber testify that Shaw was suffering from a chronic paranoic schizophrenic mental disorder.

Assistant Prosecutor John Davey said he would go along with the report from Tauber and another from officials who examined Shaw at a state forensic medicine center.

Gunmen Get $145 in Waterford Holdup

Two men wearing green work uniforms escaped with more than $145 in the holdup of a Waterford Township gas station early this morning.

★ ★ ★

Attendant Fred Evans of Mayo Service Station, 3128 W. Walton, told police one of the men stuck a gun in his back and demanded all his money at about 5:15 a.m.

★ ★ ★

The two then fled without incident.

★ ★ ★

Hospitalized was Jame B. Coe, 5, of 2390 Walnut. Driver of the car involved was Lorrine E. Zaremba, 49, of 141 W. Hopkins, according to Pontiac police. The child apparently darted in front of the car, police said.

In Memoriam 2

IN LOVING MEMORY of Clarence W. Monhler who passed away June 21, 1968.
I do not need a special date.
To bring you to my mind.
For the day I do not think of you,
Is very hard to find:
It is forgotten here without you,
In a sad and weary way,
Like you've never called away.
Sadly missed and dearly loved by Wife Edith and children.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Sky-Diving Buffs to Jump in the Open

LYON, Wis. (UPI) — Nine male members of the Milwaukee Sky Divers Club plan to parachute into a nudist camp Sunday—naked.

* * *

The exhibition of raw courage, club President Ray Maguire, 31, said yesterday, will be the second nude sky dive made by club members. A nude dive was made last year but kept under wraps, he said.

* * *

Maguire said no female members of the club would make the jump because "We couldn't talk them into it." He said the men would wear boots and helmets, and would drop into the Running Bares Nudist Resort.

* * *

Walworth County Sheriff William Cummings said that if he sees any naked bodies suspended from billowing parachutes he will arrest them on charges of indecent exposure or disorderly conduct. Maguire said the jump would go on anyway.

'LEGAL JUMP'

"It's a legal jump because we'll be landing in the camp," Maguire said. "Besides, we'll be coming in high enough that people on the ground outside the camp won't be able to see us with the naked eye."

* * *

Mrs. Ada Margetts, owner of Running Bares, said she has a standing agreement with parachuting clubs in the area allowing them to land in the camp any time they give her 30 minutes notice.

* * *

Last Sunday, nine fully clothed members of the East Troy Sky Knights Club dropped in when they found their regular landing spot clouded over. They were fully clothed, she said, but some shed their garments and joined resort guests in swimming and volleyball.

As for the nude sky diving, Mrs. Margetts—known as "Little Ma"—said if "they're brave enough to do it, it's fine with me. But I hope they don't land somewhere else than on the club grounds.

"It could be embarrassing to them."

Closed-Circuit TV Proposed for U.S. House

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. John Dellenback, R-Ore., wants a closed-circuit television system in the House so members can follow the debate from their offices.

He said other business too often keeps members away from the floor.

* * *

He said he will introduce the authorizing legislation Monday and in a letter to other members invited support. He said his most recent cost estimate for the system was $254,625.

* * *

The house always has balked at electronic or photographic surveillance of its proceedings. A subcommittee on reorganization reported to members earlier this week it had been unable to agree on proposals to open committee sessions, and possibly the House itself, to broadcast coverage.

* * *

Dellenback's proposal contemplated no outside broadcasts. Instead, the telecasts would be carried to receivers installed in each member's office, in committee rooms, and in other Capitol offices.

Donn F. Eisele, one of three Apollo 7 astronauts who orbited earth for 10 days last October, has married Miss Susan H. Hearn, treasurer-comptroller of a Cape Canaveral bank.

The ceremony was performed privately Saturday by Judge Anthony J. Hosemann of the Brevard Court of Record at a Cocoa Beach motel.

Eisele, 39, divorced his first wife last month. His bride is 30. They plan to make their home in Deer Park, Tex., near the Manned Spacecraft Center.

Agnew Establishes Scholarship for Greek Youths

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew announced today he has established an annual scholarship for youths from his father's hometown in Greece to attend an institution of higher learning in that country.

The scholarship competition will be open to any boy or girl of high school level in the Gargalianoi area. The recipient will receive up to $1,600-a-year for tuition and other expenses for a four-year course.

Preliminary selections will be made by local Greek authorities in conjunction with the joint Greek-American binational center in Athens, with the final choice to be made by the Gargalianon Society of Chicago, composed of former residents of the town.

A Look at TV

Star-Swap Shows Status

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

HOLLYWOOD — A game people play at the top of the TV ladder is called "trade-out."

It goes like this: Johnny guest-stars in a Lucy episode; Lucy appears in a Carson specials in a Nabors special. Carol frolhour; Jim is the very special guest on a Burnett show.

MISS LOWRY

The device is a simple swap deal, no money is involved, and it can only be played by TV VIPs, usually with a stake in their own shows. Thus, it has become something of a status symbol.

* * *

But there are dangers. Too much can bore the audience by overexposing the superstars, and those extra jobs can wear down a star already toiling long hours on his weekly show. Andy Williams, with a new variety show coming up, recently publicly kicked over the traces and declared that except for real top-drawer talent he was not interested in trading guest-shots.

ECONOMIC SENSE

The practice makes economic sense, however, since it helps hold down budgets while big stars help build higher Nielsen ratings. Performers and agents have adopted the device, and more than one star of his own special during the coming season wangled it by collecting enough promissory notes to round up a really star-studded cast for a salable one-shot.

* * *

But even if a performer can't play the game, television's financial rewards are considerable. Many, if not most, variety and dramatic shows hold to a top guest-star price of $7,500.

* * *

"When a variety show is forced to pay $10,000 or more, it's got to be a secret deal," said a producer of variety hours. "Agents can only negotiate successfully from strength. The price can range from $1,500 for someone who is eager for prime-time exposure. Most Las Vegas comics get $2,500 to $3,000. A class B performer would rate about $5,000."

* * *

The dramatic shows also like to top out at $7,500. Producers are reluctant to talk about pay schedules because every agent would demand tops for his client. It is reliably reported, however, that "The Virginian" has a $5,000 top while "The Name of the Game" sweetens the pot a bit more. Some shows with lower budgets use lesser luminaries for $2,000 to $2,500 per episode.

$60,000 POSSIBLE

Stars of some movies-for-TV have been paid $25,000. One producer said that if he could persuade Henry Fonda or Glenn Ford to do a TV movie, he would pay $60,000 for a couple of weeks' work.

Viet Fighting Increases

By The Associated Press

The heaviest action in nearly two months was reported across South Vietnam yesterday. But U.S. military spokesmen said it was too early to tell whether it was only a brief break in the war lull or the prelude to renewal of major enemy operations.

★ ★ ★

More enemy and allied casualties were reported since midnight Wednesday than in any such period since June 18, when the current lull in major sustained ground fighting began.

★ ★ ★

Allied communiques reported a sharp increase in ground fighting just south of the demilitarized zone, in the coastal lowlands south of Da Nang, in the Central Highlands, and in War Zone D northeast of Saigon.

Along with this, the Vietcong yesterday made the biggest terror attack in Saigon since the lull began and a commando squad successfully invaded a U.S. convalescent hospital at Cam Ranh Bay.

NO STEPUP SEEN

But a spokesman for the U.S. Command said the sharp increase in ground fighting "is not necessarily an indication of increased enemy-initiated activity."

★ ★ ★

Other U.S. officers said they see no indication that North Vietnamese troops are massing along the demilitarized zone for a large-scale attack, despite the heaviest fighting there in more than two months.

★ ★ ★

The Saigon government announced a major shakeup of generals in the South Vietnamese army today.

Two, widely criticized division commanders were transferred. They had led the 5th and the 18th Divisions, which U.S. officials rated the least efficient units in the South Vietnamese army.

Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, U.S. commander in Vietnam, is known to have told Washington that these two divisions would have to be improved for the South Vietnamese army to have any chance of holding its own without help from American troops.

★ ★ ★

The series of transfers and promotions evidently was designed to meet such criticism and give the South Vietnamese army a better command structure.

★ ★ ★

In Washington, two Senate war critics are pointing out that despite Nixon's announced withdrawals, U.S. troop strength in Vietnam continues to rise and now stands at 4,500 more than when Nixon took office.

"Apparently we're going in the wrong direction," Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., told the Senate.

DECLINE TO START

"Why is it," asked Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., "in view of the announced withdrawal of troops we have more troops in Vietnam today?"

A week ago the Pentagon explained troop strength would start to decline in early August and would reach 515,000 by the end of August as stated after Nixon's June announcement.

★ ★ ★

Gore presented figures showing troop strength Aug. 2 of 537,000 compared with 536,000 a week earlier, 535,200 July 17, and 532,000 Jan. 18.

★ ★ ★

Sens. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., John G. Tower, R-Tex., and John C. Stennis, D-Miss., said they would ask the Pentagon for an explanation and present the figures to the Senate.

Asked Cousin to Take Rap, Reporter Says

'Teddy Tried to Shift Blame'

By The Associated Press

Columnist Jack Anderson says Sen. Edward M. Kennedy asked his cousin, Joseph Gargan, "to take the rap" for driving the car in which a young secretary drowned.

In his copyrighted column today, Anderson said Gargan "grimly said he would admit to driving the car."

"In the cold light of dawn, Kennedy decided to face the consequences himself, and then he filed his terse statement with the Edgartown police at 10 a.m.," said Anderson, who co-authors the column with Drew Pearson.

The Washington Post quoted Gargan as saying in Hyannis Port, Mass., there was "no truth whatsoever" to Anderson's story.

Anderson, attributing his story to "reliable sources" and Kennedy "intimates," said the senator had invited Mary Jo Kopechne to go for a midnight swim the night the car went off a narrow bridge.

The columnist described the swim as "a nocturnal adventure not uncommon on Martha's Vineyard."

"Nor are these summer night swims necessarily viewed as evidence of immoral conduct," Anderson added. He said Kennedy knew where he was going but the car was going too fast and went off into the water.

Mary Jo drowned despite Kennedy's efforts to free her.

In his exhausted state, Kennedy conceived the idea of asking "Joe Gargan to take the rap for him," Anderson said.

Anderson said Kennedy summoned Gargan and "returned to the scene of the disaster to make certain that Gargan would be totally familiar with the circumstances surrounding 'his' unfortunate accident."

★ ★ ★

An inquest into the accident is being planned by Dist. Atty. Edmund Dinis, who said yesterday that he will call Sen. Kennedy as a witness.

The senator has said he would cooperate in any legal proceedings connected with the accident, and has canceled a European trip in order to keep himself available.

OVER 20 WITNESSES

Dinis said yesterday he hopes to begin the inquest within a week or 10 days. He added that he would call 20 or more witnesses, including all persons who might have had any knowledge of events before or after Kennedy's car plunged off a bridge on Chappaquiddick Island.

District Court attaches doubted that the inquest could be held as quickly as Dinis wants and suggested that it was unlikely to be opened until some time after Labor Day.

Meanwhile Dinis was advised that he will have to go to court if he wants an autopsy on the body of Miss Kopechne, who is buried in Plymouth, Pa.

The dead girl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kopechne of Berkeley Heights, N.J., have indicated they will oppose exhumation of the body, and Dist. Atty. Blythe H. Evans Jr. of Luzerne County, Pa., has assured them they will have a chance to make their stand in court.

Tax Bill Wins Big in House; Outlook Is Cloudy in Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House gave its huge tax reform and relief bill a big send-off by passing the measure 394-30, but the legislation was destined for a cautious reception in the Senate.

The Senate Finance Committee will give the bill a careful going over and plans to hear more than 100 witnesses, largely speaking for interests which face higher taxes if it becomes law.

These hearings won't start until after Congress returns Sept. 3 from its summer recess.

Chairman Russell B. Long, D-La., has promised to try to complete committee action by Oct. 31.

EXTENSIVE LEGISLATION

The bill passed yesterday by the House was the most thorough tax code revision in a generation.

It tightens the law in 27 different areas to produce ultimately $6.8 billion in additional revenue and would provide eventual tax relief calculated at $9.2 billion.

★ ★ ★

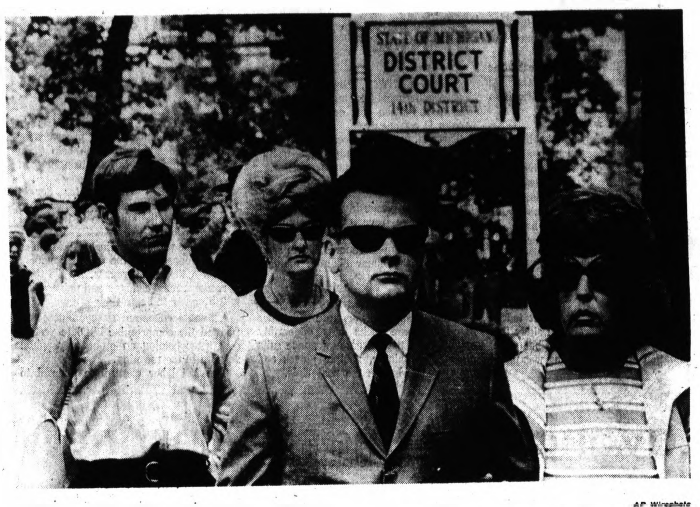

The greatest proportionate savings would be at the low end of the income scale and for widows, widowers and single persons 35 and older.

The revenue-increasing provisions include repeal of the 7 per cent investment credit, trimming the oil depletion allowance from 27½ per cent to 20 per cent, reduction of other tax advantages for the petroleum industry, and abolition of the fastest method of real estate depreciation except for residential building.

★ ★ ★

Predictions were that the reforms might be cut back sharply in the Senate committee.

But any reforms deleted in committee could be restored on the Senate floor.

Collins' Lawyers Named Public Defenders

From Our News Wires

YPSILANTI — A few cautious coeds ventured out into the hot summer night early today in this university city terrorized by a string of coed killings that began two years ago yesterday.

But uneasy residents settled down to wait a week to hear police evidence against John Norman Collins, charged in the seventh slaying of a young girl near here.

After the pretrial examination was recessed until 9 a.m. next Thursday, the same two attorneys who had withdrawn as Collins' counsel earlier — Robert Francis and John M. Toomey — were appointed his court-paid attorneys.

The parents of the first victim in the grisly series, 19-year-old Mary Fleszar, were among the courthouse spectators yesterday, kept from the courtroom along with all but witnesses and thoroughly searched newsmen by security regulations.

REPEATS WORD 'CANADA'

Dutch mystic Peter Hurkos, who entered the coed killings earlier in the summer, stopped by Collins' rooming house yesterday and kept repeating the word "Canada" while sitting on the bed and touching the walls, ceiling and furniture. He did not elaborate.

While Collins waited for his continued pretrial examination, four Michigan investigators were in Phoenix, Ariz., to question Andrew J. Manuel, 25, a friend of Collins.

Police said Manuel and Collins traveled to California in a house trailer which Manuel rented and allegedly failed to return. But an FBI spokesman in Detroit said they would not be permitted to question him until extradition was formally requested.

Manuel, being held on a federal fugitive warrant, indicated he would fight extradition.

California authorities also want to talk to Manuel about three girls killed on the West Coast while Collins and Manuel were there.

★ ★ ★

Collins is charged with first-degree murder in the death of Karen Sue Beineman, 18, an Eastern Michigan University coed who disappeared July 23.

She was the latest of seven young women slain in the area in the last two years.

Cavanagh Denies Lazaros Charge

By JIM LONG

Detroit Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh, in Oakland County Circuit Court yesterday, calmly denied any connection with a reputed Mafia leader on trial for extortion.

Moments later, as he left the courtroom of Judge Frederick C. Ziem, Cavanagh was confronted by Peter Lazaros, former Mafia rackets man, who indirectly had put the mayor in the position of defending himself.

★ ★ ★

Lazaros testified Monday that the defendent, Joseph Barbara Jr., had delivered bribes to Internal Revenue Service agents and Cavanagh in December 1967.

Barbara, 33, of Fraser is being tried on a charge of extorting $4,000 and a diamond ring from Lazaros' wife Delores, while Lazaros was in prison in early 1968.

Barbara, the president of the Tri-City Sanitation Co., Detroit, also has been accused of raping Mrs. Lazaros on two occasions while Lazaros was in prison. That case is still in the preliminary examination stage.

Lazaros approached Cavanagh in the corridor outside the courtroom and demanded that the mayor publicly answer charges about alleged bribes.

★ ★ ★

Surrounded by newsmen and spectators who had crowded the courtroom and hallway, Cavanagh quickly replied to Lazaros, "I wouldn't talk to you in front of cameramen or anyone else," and walked away.

As Cavanagh walked away, Lazaros shouted that the Mayor was a "crook, a liar and a coward."

Cavanagh was on the witness stand for less than five minutes during which he was asked only three questions by Barbara's attorney, Ivan Barris.

The mayor had been subpoenaed to testify by Barris as a means of challenging the credibility of Lazaros, who has said he turned against the crime syndicate because Barbara raped his wife.

The brief exchange between Barris and Cavanagh went like this:

"Have you ever seen Barbara in your life?"

Nixon to Air Welfare Plans on TV Tonight

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon invited Republican congressional leaders to breakfast at the White House today to talk over the board-ranging domestic policies he will outline to the nation tonight.

In a 9 p.m. (Pontiac time) television address from his Oval Office, the President will put forward what the White House is billing as the most comprehensive statement on home-front programs since his state-of-the-nation pronouncement in mid-April. (The broadcast will be carried locally by Channels 2, 4 and 7.)

He is expected to outline a grand design for carrying out his oft-stated campaign pledge to get people off welfare rolls and onto payrolls.

Among the features of the plan Nixon will unfold is a federally backed minimum of $50 a month for all welfare recipients, in addition to whatever funds the states themselves will add.

The plan also reportedly includes payments for poor people who are not "on welfare" but are still working—in effect an income supplement.

Another feature of the package was believed to be a scheme whereby each head of a household receiving federal payments would automatically be considered in line for training and employment, and would be faced with a loss of benefits if he rejected jobs or job training efforts.

The session with congressional leaders was to map strategy for pushing the proposals—most of them for pushing the controversy — through the Congress and to arrange last-minute modifications to make them more palatable.

The address will deal with plans for standardizing welfare payments and guaranteeing a minimum family income, a companion plan to broaden federal manpower training programs and a restructuring of the Office of Economic Opportunity, which administers most poverty programs.

White House aides called in some governors and mayors Wednesday and yesterday to brief them on the plans before the President's speech.

Traffic Light Sought-After to Be Erected

BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — A commitment has been obtained from the Oakland County Road Commission to erect the long-sought traffic light at the critical Lone Pine-Telegraph Roads intersection.

Cost of the project is $59,000 which will be shared by the county and township.

★ ★ ★

Cost of the light installation is approximately double over the original estimate due to the need of construction of a left-turn lane at the intersection. The township had to supply the $29,000 because of the state's inability to provide the funds.

The intersection has presented severe traffic problems for several years, township officials said.

However, the problem has been accelerated recently since the opening of the township's new library near the intersection. The library has drawn considerably more traffic to the intersection.

The project is expected to be completed within six weeks.

Richard T. Hartzell, 2557 Warwick, was named assistant staff engineer for electrical operations at Pontiac Motor Division.

Kuhn Tax Plea Will Be Heard by High Court

Michigan's Supreme Court will take up the issue of whether the state income tax is constitutional.

Pontiac attorney Richard D. Kuhn was informed yesterday by the high court that it has accepted his application to appeal the tax.

★ ★ ★

Kuhn, who has been fighting the tax in courts since 1967, said he now will file briefs in the case, but he has no idea how long it will be before the Supreme Court would decide the issue.

Only last week, Kuhn had questioned the long delay on the part of the Supreme Court in responding to his request to appeal the case.

'VERY PECULIAR'

He noted at that time that he had filed the application more than six months before, and added that he found it "very peculiar" that the Supreme Court had not given him an answer.

Kuhn went to the Supreme Court after the tax was upheld in rulings in Oakland County Circuit Court and the Michigan Court of Appeals.

He claims the tax law violates both the state and federal constitutions.

Specifically, he challenges the provisions setting different tax rates on individuals, corporations and financial institutions. He claims this is contrary to the 1963 Michigan Constitution's ban on a graduated income tax as to rate or base.

Possibility of Life Disputed

Mars Data Splits Scientists

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — There is a possibility life could exist on Mars, a scientist who studied data from Mariner 7 says.

Other scientists say they have seen no evidence so far to support such a belief.

★ ★ ★

Dr. George C. Pimentel, a University of California chemist, told a news conference yesterday that a Mariner 7 instrument detected ammonia and methane near the Red Planet's south polar cap.

"We have to face the possibility they could be of biological origin," he said.

NO SIGN OF VOLCANISM

Ammonia and methane are found in living things on earth but also can be produced by volcanic action. Experts say they have found no sign of volcanism on Mars.

Pimentel was on a panel of experts who discussed findings radioed to earth by Mariner 7 after it skimmed within 2,000 miles of the polar cap last Thursday.

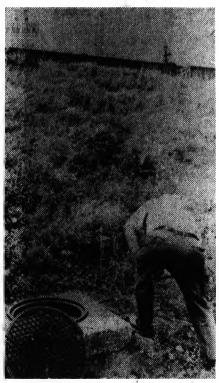

"I'm a chemist, not a biologist," he said, "but if these data are real, and I think they are, and if the gases are of biological origin, there is a reservoir of water ice at the south polar cap, protected from the sun by solid carbon dioxide clouds in the atmosphere, and thus the cap could be an area hospitable to life."

Dr. Gerry Neugebauer, California Institute of Technology physicist, said other instruments showed the cap to be carbon dioxide in the form of surface snow, not in the atmosphere.

★ ★ ★

He added that an infrared radiometer, similar to the infrared spectrometer whose readings were cited by Pimentel, showed no methane or ammonia.

Asked to resolve the conflicting readings, the two said their findings were only tentative and it would take months to reach definite conclusions.

Manhole Was Home

Toronto Home Was a Real Hole

TORONTO (UPI) — They gave Svetomir Kusmanovich a new home yesterday.

For the last three years, Kusmanovich, 54, has lived in a 6-by-10-foot manhole adjacent to a parking lot in downtown Toronto.

Because of his peculiar abode, his friends called him the rabbit.

★ ★ ★

Tuesday police discovered the rabbit. After a brief struggle, during which he allegedly threatened them with a five-foot iron bar, the police charged Kusmanovich with vagrancy.

He appeared in court yesterday, and the charge was withdrawn when the Salvation Army said it was giving him new accommodations.

WARM IN WINTER

Reporters who visited the manhole found only a mattress running with insects and a couple of bags of rotten food.

In winter, however, he must have been comfortable. Three steam pipes run through the hole.

★ ★ ★

Sydney Sykes, 70, the attendant of the adjacent parking lot, who has watched Kusmanovich pop in and out of the hole for three years, said his conscience prevented him from telling police.

Sykes said Kusmanovich had odd visitors and he said he thought he saw a woman drop in on him a few weeks ago.

No Sign of Life in Moon Soil

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Early experiments indicate there is no life in the moon soil collected by the Apollo 11 astronauts.

There is, however, a remote possibility that more extensive study in the months ahead could turn up lunar organisms.

★ ★ ★

That's the conclusion of a group of scientists who yesterday issued the first comprehensive report on preliminary study of the 50 pounds of rocks and dust.

Earlier piecemeal reports led to some speculation that lunar organic material had been discovered.

★ ★ ★

But the scientists said it is most likely the tiny amount of organic substance found in some rocks was of earthly origin—from the astronauts' space suits and the containers, rubber gloves and tools used to handle the materials.

Senate Seeking to Revive Loan Setup for Collegians

WASHINGTON (AP) — Efforts to revive a guaranteed loan program for college students in time to help those trying to enroll this fall are being pushed in the Senate.

Sponsors said chances for Senate passage of compromise legislation were good but that the outcome in the House was in doubt.

They are working against a deadline of next Wednesday, the day Congress begins a threeweek recess. By the time it returns, most colleges and universities will be about to begin their fall terms.

A Senate education subcommittee approved the compromise bill late yesterday after holding an emergency public session in the morning.

The full labor committee planned to act on it today and sponsors hoped to win Senate passage later this afternoon.

The legislation will be attached as a rider and sent back to the House on a bill already passed by that branch to extend the Older Americans Act.

Sponsors are hopeful this strategy will make it possible for the House to accept the Senate amendment, clearing the measure to President Nixon.

This would get around an impasse in the House over a college student loan bill approved earlier in the week in the education and labor committee.

Its managers have been unable to call this up because of threats to try to add to it a controversial amendment seeking to deny aid to students who join in disruptions at their institutions.

Tentative Agreement Drafted in Air Strike

WASHINGTON (AP) — Negotiators drafted a tentative, shaky agreement today in the strike against Pan American World Airways, then set to tie up the loose ends.

Assistant Secretary of Labor William J. Usery Jr. said any final action was awaiting a review of the night's negotiations by Teamsters union officials who flew in this morning from New York.

"We hope it's still tied together when they're through," he said.

Usery had advised reporters as early as 7 a.m., (Pontiac time) to be prepared for an announcement at any time.

Cavanagh Denies Receiving Mafia Bribe

"No, only in pictures and on television."

"Have you ever received money or anything of value from Barbara?"

"No, I have not."

"On Dec. 17, 1967, did you receive an envelope from Mr. Barbara?"

"No I did not."

Cavanagh told newsmen that he was testifying to "clear the record of an accusation made by Mr. Lazaros that is not only false but absurd."

After Cavanagh refused to talk to him, Lazaros remained and said that Cavanagh knew him long before he became mayor of Detroit in 1961.

★ ★ ★

He also said that Cavanagh received a $5,000 bribe at a party given by Robert Adell, a former Detroit fire commissioner.

"He represented men and the element I was involved with in gambling operations," Lazaros charged. "I have evidence that I hope the grand jury will take to prove the truth."

Information provided to state police since Lazaros' release from prison last October to appeal a $127,000 fraud conviction was instrumental in the calling of a grand jury in Oakland County.

★ ★ ★

As his attorneys tried to stop him from talking to newsmen, Lazaros, who has been under constant police protection since detailing Mafia activities, also said he was the one who had Cavanagh phone Atlanta, Ga., Mayor Ivan Allen Jr., on behalf of two men who wanted to obtain a restaurant license.

Lazaros said the two men had connections with the Mafia and would run a "clip joint."

In an apparent change of strategy by Barris, Cavanagh's testimony was given in the absence of the jury of seven men and six women. Barris explained that he merely wanted to make a record if he has to appeal the case to a higher court.

NO PROSECUTION QUESTIONS

No questions were asked of Cavanagh by Special Prosecutor Jack Bain, who later said he saw no reason to do so since the jury wasn't present.

The prosecution finished its case yesterday afternoon, calling Lazaros' father and mother to the witness stand.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Lazaros, 58, however, became hysterical and collapsed on the witness stand and had to be carried out of the courtroom. She was taken to Pontiac General Hospital where she was treated and released.

Neither she nor her husband, Nicholas, speak English.

FATHER 'THREATENED'

Speaking Greek through an interpreter, the senior Lazaros said that Barbara came to Lazaros' home (2410 Dalesford, Troy) shoved him, and threatened him with a throat-slashing gesture on the day that Lazaros and his wife went to the State Police to tell their story of the alleged rape and extortion.

After the prosecution finished its presentation, a routine defense motion by Barris for a directed verdict of acquittal was denied by Judge Ziem.

★ ★ ★

The first defense witness was Alex Phillos, 60, of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., a former business associate of Lazaros, and one-time owner of the Detroit Sausage Co.

Questioned by Barris, Phillos said that the relationship between Peter Lazaros and his wife was not as the pair had depicted on the witness stand.

He said that Mrs. Lazaros had once told him and his late wife that Lazaros had threatened to kill her and that Lazaros had not left her with any money when he went to prison.

The statements were in conflict with those given earlier by Peter and Delores Lazaros.

Phillos said that Lazaros had been blackmailing him because he knew "I was cheating on Uncle Sam."

Phillos said the Internal Revenue Service now has his case.

Powell Firm Gets Pact for Center

The E. E. Powell General Contracting Co. of Waterford Township yesterday was awarded the contract to build the $2.3-million county service center building, by a 20-2 vote of the Oakland County Board of Supervisors.

Supervisor Christian F. Powell, R-West Bloomfield Township, officially informed the board he had divested himself of all interest in the Powell Co., owned by his brother.

Supervisor William M. Richards, D-Royal Oak, one of 10 supervisors who voted against awarding the contract to the Powell Co. when the matter first came before the board last month, said Supervisor Powell's action had removed the objectionable "conflict of interest" issue.

The two supervisors casting dissenting votes on the contract award to the low bidder Powell were James M. Brennan, D-Berkley, and Niles E. Olson, D-Orion Township.

Collins' Lawyers Named Public Defenders in Case

No one has been charged in the other killings, although police have said Collins has not been eliminated as a possible suspect.

Tips and information possibly related to the killings continued to pile up today at the crime center established last week to coordinate the investigative effort.

Prior to yesrerday's hearing, Toomey and Francis had asked for a bill of particulars, a move to enable them to inspect the prosecution's evidence in the case. The prosecutor said he would oppose the motion.

Collins' legal bills will be paid by the county.

"This will give him the right to a lot of things, such as the court paying for independent blood tests, ballistic tests and fingerprint analysis," Francis said.

The lawyer described his client as a normal young man.

"He certainly understands what is happening to him in this case. He is not psychotic in my opinion, but seems to be a normal 22-year-old young man who is under stress."

Air Pollution Stirs a $15-Billion Suit

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Three auto manufacturers, a group of major oil companies, federal officials and the governors of 32 states were charged yesterday with imperiling the lives of the people of the United States in a $15-billion lawsuit over air pollution.

C. Jon Handy, a land developer, and William R. Bernstein, a researcher, filed a class action in federal District Court here on behalf of themselves and the people of the United States.

They claim General Motors, Ford and Chrysler automobile manufacturers are responsible for 90 per cent of air pollution.

Their petition asks the court to compel the governors, and Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Robert Finch to seek the aid of Atty. Gen. John Mitchell to force automobile and oil companies to utilize designs in manufacturing vehicles, and methods in the refinement of gasoline which would abate "the imminent peril to persons living in the country under smog conditions."

For Wolverine Lake Village

Cityhood Vote Nov. 4

By LOIS FRIEDLAND

WOLVERINE LAKE — An election has been set Nov. 4 for Wolverine Lake Village residents to decide on cityhood. The date was approved formally yesterday by the Oakland County Board of Supervisors.

The petition for incorporation described the desired boundaries as including the entire village and 6¼ miles of Commerce Township.

The township land, 90 per cent vacant, extends north and west of the village limits. It includes a small portion of Commerce Lake, approximately half of Reed Lake and portions of Mud and Hawk lakes. It then goes south to Pontiac Trail along the east boundary of Walled Lake.

Village Manager Clifford Cottrell, said, "the decision to seek an election was based on economics and changing times.

"Economically, our village is very desirable to other governmental units (for annexation). We have no indebtedness, no bond issues, and have had no tax increase for three years," he explained, adding that if steps were not taken to incorporate soon some other governmental body might try to take over the village.

Last January, Walled Lake voters defeated a proposal to annex part of Wolverine Lake and part of Commerce Township.

Assessed valuation of the two square mile village is $8 million. Approximately one third of that area is water.

Cottrell further explained, "Populations are catching up with us and everything is geared to the city concept of government. It is a much more workable form. If the electors vote for a city, we will be able to create the type of charter which will be in the 1969 vein rather than the 1800's township variety."

CHARTER COMMISSION

When voters decide on the cityhood question they also will vote for nine charter commission members. Those who wish to be commission candidates still can file petitions with the village to appear on the ballot.

Wolverine Lake has a tax base of 8½ mills, of which 1.38 mills goes to Commerce Township for services including fire protection, property assessment, of the township's area. If the proposed school and county tax collection and elections.

* * *

The village makes up about 14 per cent incorporation is approved in November that figure will be come nearly 25 per cent.

Consequently, Commerce Township Supervisor Robert Long is not happy with the proposed cityhood: "Our planning commission has been developing a master plan since 1967 and I think it contains very good plans for the future development of that area," Long said.

TOWNSHIP HAS PLANS

A small industrial area and a commercial center are scheduled in the proposed annexation area in the general plan, which will be presented to the township board for approval this fall.

"When an area subdivides it can become many small cities, as has happened on Woodward Ave. Every city wants to have its own industrial and commercial areas to create a tax base. So you may get duplications of services also. This is my main objection," Long commented.

Rose Votes to Slow Boats on Big School Lot Lake

ROSE TOWNSHIP — The Township Board has voted 3-2 to slow down powerboats on Big School Lot Lake.

The action stemmed from a petition signed by residents who own property fronting the lake. They complained that excessive speeds of powerboats, particularly boats pulling water skiiers, were creating boat traffic hazards as well as a noise nuisance.

* * *

The State Natural Resources Department had determined that boating controls should be invoked on the lake after a July 2 public hearing.

Township Supervisor Milton Nelson said the resolution will not be adopted as an ordinance until probably the regular October township meeting. The Oakland County Sheriff's office will be responsible for enforcing the ordinance.

Trustees Carlton Turner and Terry Sheltis voted against the resolution while Nelson, Treasurer Esther Downing and Clerk Mildred Jones, gave it the necessary votes for approval.

Township Wants No-Left-Turn Zone To Halt Telegraph Accidents

No Quick Relief Seen for Crowded Telegraph

BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — Motorists should not expect any appreciable relief in the rising amount of traffic problems on the township's six-mile section of Telegraph Road.

That is the word from township officials, who were advised by State Highway Department Director Henrik Stafseth Wednsday that only a few months could be shaved off the Telegraph improvement construction timetable.

* * *

Under present plans, construction of a four-lane expanston would not begin until 1973, with completion scheduled for a year later.

Stafseth told a township delegation in Lansing that it would take at least four years to complete land acquisition and plans for the project.

'WORST IN STATE'

Township Supervisor Homer Case, contends that police traffic records prove the Telegraph traffic problem is the worst in the state and should be given top priority.

"I am sure that if the legislature and Gov. Milliken pressured the Highway Department the commitment could be moved up considerably sooner than 1973," Case declared.

* * *

Sase asked Stafseth and several top highway department officials at the meeting why Telegraph was left out of the department's five-year construction plan in 1964. The township had submitted a complete set of its own plans for the improvement project.

Stafseth explained that the federal government's decision to shift spending priority to interstate highways such as I-75 and I-696 was the prime reason.

PLANS LACKING'

He added that the original plans presented by the township and adopted by the state in 1967 did not include complete engineering and design specifications.

Highway Department sources said the federal defense budget has made less money available to the state for road improvements.

Stafseth told township officials that state appraisers would have to be used in the land acquisition negotiations.

Supervisor Case said the township would be willing to use its own appraisers in an effort to complete land acquisition sooner, but was told the procedure is for the Highway Department to assume responsibility for all land acquisition.

30 PCT. INCREASE

If the accident rate on the section of Telegraph running through the township follows the present trend through the balance of the year, the total will be approximately 30 per cent higher than a year ago, township police records show.

Personal-injury accidents have averaged 230 annually on Telegraph over the past three years. There already have been five fatalities on the highway this year, up four from last year.

The only Telegraph improvements immediately scheduled are road widening projects at two critical intersections — Long Lake Road and Maple — and the installation of a traffic light at the Lone Fine Road intersection, scheduled within six weeks.

The Maple and Long Lake Road projects are the only recommended improvements being carried out as a result of the township's original plans submitted to the state in 1964.

SEN. BEEBE HELPED

Mrs. Delores Little, township clerk, said the meeting with Director Stafseth and other highway department officials was arranged through State Sen. Lorraine Beebe, R-Dearborn, a member of the Senate's highway department committee.

"The Highway Department has a sympathetic attitude towards the Telegraph road problem here and recognizes that it is possibly the most critical sections of highway in the state," Mrs. Little said.

"Highway Department officials said they would do all they could to bring relief to the situation, but it is highly doubtful that little more than stopgap measures will be carried out until 1973. A widening of the highway to eight lanes is the only way the traffic hazards will ever be fully corrected," Mrs. Little said.

She added that possibly one reason that the township was left out of the five-year state highway department plan in 1964 was that the township didn't supply enough pressure on state officials.

"We do not intend to let that happen again," Mrs. Little declared.

Another meeting is scheduled for Sept. 4 at Township Hall. The township plans to invite Stafseth and other highway department officials, and merchants with businesses on Telegraph and legislators in another attempt to try to hasten improvement of Telegraph.

Springfield in Fight

SPRINGFIELD TOWNSHIP — Township Supervisor Nelson Van Natta is not one to quit a fight.

Van Natta is the latest Oakland County township official to wage what appears to be a losing battle against the Lakehead Pipeline Co.

The Ontario company is building a natural gas pipeline through northern Oakland County, connecting a network of storage fields from Chicago to Port Huron.

Most of the hostility against Lakehead has stemmed from its alleged "overbearing attitude" towards securing right of way access to private property.

COURT BATTLES

Numerous court battles have been fought by residents from Rose and Brandon townships and several in Macomb County in an attempt to keep Lakehead from placing the line across their property.

Van Natta said the township will not give Lakehead permission to cross a township road with the line until the company specifies construction time length and arrangements for financial settlement for damages.

* *

Said Van Natta, "We know we cannot really prevent Lakehead from coming through the township. They can always throw an injunction at us. But we do want to make them more responsible and to at least do the job correctly."

Lakehead has construction crews working in the township on the line, but has not yet crossed any township roads.

UNPAID EASEMENTS

Van Natta said residents also are unhappy because the company has not yet paid property owners for easements along the right of way.

Concerning other township business, Van Natta said the Township Board has followed the recommendation of the Zoning Board and the Oakland County Planning Board and rejected a petition requesting authorization to develop a 120-acre mobile home park on Big Lake Road near Andersonville Road.

'Middlemen' Help Lions' 'Play Scale'

MARK OTHER PAGES

By BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

No matter how you try, you can't get rid of the "middle man."

The same holds true for the Detroit Lions, but the Lions are happy to have their three "middle men" and coach Joe Schmidt figures he can win with them.

* * *

Center Ed Flanagan, flanked on both sides by guards Bob Kowalkowski and Chuck Walton are the middle men on the offensive line who will begin the season as a unit for the first time.

Lions' line coach Chuck Knox is high on the three linemen.

"They're young, they have the desire and they've gained experience as a unit," said Knox. "We certainly feel that we can win with them."

FIFTH SEASON

Flanagan, 6-3 and 245, termed by many as the most under-rated center in the league, is in his fifth year at the position, which he took over almost immediately after leaving Purdue.

Kowalkowski, also 6-3 and 245, starts his fourth year at the guard spot. He was a future draft choice out of the University of Virginia in 1965 and was groomed almost immediately to fill the shoes of all-pro guard John Gordy.

* * *

Walton, starting his third season with the Lions, was the No. 3 choice in 1963, but went to Canada instead and to San Diego of the AEL. He returned to the Lions in 1967 and like Flanagan and Kowalkowski moved into a starting role immediately. He stands 6-3 and goes 250.

"You can't find guys with more heart and who are the competitors that they are," said Schmidt.

When Schmidt looked over the Kansas City lineup and realized that his offensive linemen would have to concede 30 to 40 pounds per man, Schmidt said, "That's all right, I'll just say go get 'em and they'll do the job. Believe me, if I didn't think they could do the job, they wouldn't be in there."

Flanagan, the "dean" of the "middlemen," feels this is the prime year for himself and the two agile guards.

"Bob and Chuck have worked hard, even in the off-season, and from the experience we've all gained since being rookies, I think we're going to have a good offensive line."

Veteran tackle Roger Shoals and sophomore Rockne Freitas make up the other interior line positions.

Shoals had an outstanding year in 1967, but was hampered with a leg injury much of 1968. He is 6-4 and goes 260. The Lions obtained Shoals from Cleveland in 1965 in a three-way deal involving the New York Giants.

Freitas is the biggest of starters on the offensive line at 6-6 and 270 and he moved into the position when Charley Bradshaw was injured last season and when the Texas attorney decided to retire this year.

ROOKIE RESERVES

Behind the starters in the interior offensive line, the Lions have been happy with the play of rookie tackles, Jim Yarbrough, 6-6 and 280 from Florida, and Jim Carr at 6-4 and 260 from Jackson State.

In 1967, the Lions were the 4th best pass protection team in the league.

* * *

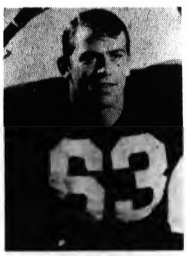

Last year, with injuries to Bradshaw, Shoals and the absence of John Gordy, injured and lost for the season, the Lions found themselves with a makeshift line, including the fact that Kowalkowski missed the early part of training because of his Army Reserve duties.

For the first time in several seasons, the Lions will start the season with the same interior line that finished the previous year's schedule and by the start of the regular season, as Schmidt sees it, "They should be working together real good as a unit."

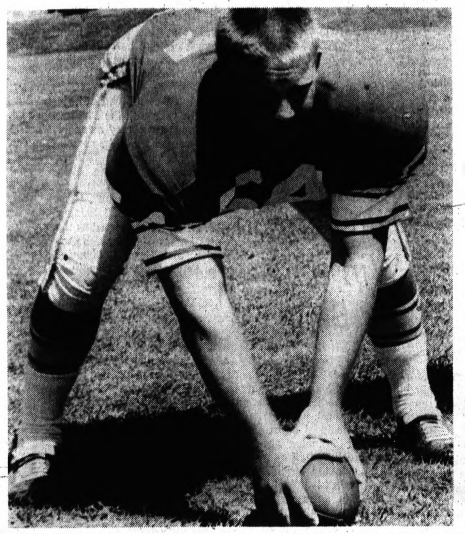

* * *

With a stronger Bill Munson at quarterback, and health restored to running backs Mel Farr and Nick Eddy, along with the addition of outstanding rookie runners, the "middlemen" of the Lions have reason to see improvement in their play scale.

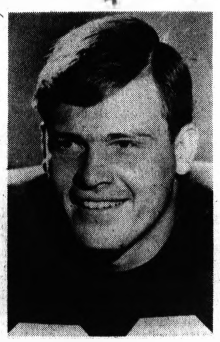

The team was scheduled to leave for Kansas City this afternoon. The game Saturday night will be telecast back to Michigan at 8 p.m.

Detroit Lions' Offensive Line Has Its 'Middlemen'

Two Q'backs in Preseason Injury Tales

By the Associated Press

This is the tale of two quarterbacks and their injuries — real and imagined.

Daryle Lamonica, who has led the Oakland Raiders to consecutive Western Division championships, has a sore passing hand. Denver's Marlin Briscoe, who became the first Negro quarterback in the American Football League, last season, is just plain sore.

* * *

Lamonica, who injured his right hand in last weekend's exhibition opener against Kansas City, threw well in the Raiders' workout at their Santa Rosa, Calif. training camp Thursday.

"The hand is okay now," he said. "It had been a little tender."

Lamonica will start for Oakland against the Baltimore Colts Saturday night. Briscoe, on the other hand, won't be working for Denver in the Broncos' game against Minnesota.

The Broncos placed their unsigned quarterback on the waived-injured list earlier this week—a step that didn't sit too well with Briscoe. That's because he says he's not injured.

* * *

"I wasn't wanted," said Briscoe. "They intended to use Pete Liske as their No. 1 quarterback and Steve Tensi as the backup man."

Briscoe said he considered himself a free agent—a step that didn't sit too well with Lou Saban, general manager and coach of the Broncos.

"Marlin Briscoe is not a free agent," said Saban. "He still is the property of the Denver Broncos.

PROPER WAIVER

"However, if Marlin feels that he is not injured, we will be pleased to oblige him by beginning the proper waiver procedure to make him a free agent."

Briscoe, who took over as Denver's No. 1 quarterback and threw 14 touchdown passes last season, said he is anxious to sign with another organization.

Meanwhile, Paul Robinson's, the AFL's top rusher and rookie of the year last season, signed his contract with the Cincinnati Bengals. Robinson, who gained 1,026 yards in his first pro season, was reportedly seeking a six-figure contract from Bengal boss Paul Brown but is believed to have signed for about $50,000.

* * *

Brown called the agreement very amicable. "We are very happy," he said. "We think he's a happy young man."

The Miami Dolphins became the first pro team to sign all their players. The Dolphins completed their satisfied list by adding veteran running back Sam Price and Chick McGeehan, a 15th round draft pick.

The New York Jets swapped their fourth round draft choice, Ezell Jones, an offensive tackle from Minnesota, to Boston for a future draft selection.

EXHIBITION TILTS

Two games tonight kick off a 12-game weekend schedule of action as the exhibition season moves into high gear. Dallas plays at Los Angeles and Washington faces Buffalo.

The Cowboys' game in LA will be the first test for Craig Morton, who has inherited the No. 1 quarterback job from retired Don Meredith. The rams plan to give plenty of work to running back Les Josephson, who missed all of last season with injuries.

Vince Lombardi's Redskins hope to make it two in a row against the Bills, who still are waiting for O. J. Simpson to sign a contract.

F-Birds Head for Big Game as Underdogs

Tagged as underdogs, the Pontiac Firebirds leave this evening for Lackawanna, N. Y., in what is billed as a probable preview of the post-season championship in the Midwest Football League.

The Firebirds and the Lancers both won inter-divisional games handily last weekend.

* * *

Pontiac defeated Grand Rapids, 36-6, and Lackawanna whipped Lansing, 37-6, in their openers.

The Firebirds lead the Central Division with a 1-0 mark, while the Lancers, along with Dayton and Southwest Michigan (Benton Harbor) are tied in the Lakes Division with 1-0 marks.

FOUR QUARTERBACKS

Lackawanna, has size, speed and depth. The Lancers have four quarterbacks, two of whom play as defensive backs and running backs when not in signal calling service.

Former Dayton University star. Bob Hussian is the starter at quarterback.

* * *

Last year, playing without a quarterback, both of whom were injured, the Firebirds lost a 6-0 encounter to the Buffalo area team on a pass interception in the closing minutes.

In Pontiac, the Lancers came back and won, 22-7.

The "big game" in the MFL, it will be televised Saturday afternoon in the Buffalo area.

OUT OF ACTION

The Firebirds will be without the services of their two top receivers, Ron Bemis, who is in the Army Reserve, and Mickey Blazitz, who was injured in a

Tiger Fans Cheer Reliefer's Bird Act

Kaline, Ike Brown Homer as Bengals Prevail, 6-4

DETROIT (AP) — Tom Timmerman picked up an injured bird off the pitching mound and became an instant hero Thursday night.

But the rest of the Detroit Tigers showed no compassion all night as they shelled Minnesota for 13 hits, including nine hits and five runs in the first three innings, and hung on to beat the Twins 6-4.

* * *

Six different Tigers knocked in runs, with Al Kaline and Ike Brown hitting homers.

Timmerman, 1-1, who hadn't worked more than two innings since his call-up from Detroit's Toledo farm club, worked 4⅔ innings in relief of Earl Wilson to pick up his first major league victory.

LEAD CUT

The loss, coupled with Oakland's earlier win over Cleveland, sliced Minnesota's lead over the Athletics to 2 games in the West Division of the American League. Baltimore clobbered Kansas City 10-2 to remain 15 games up on the Tigers in the East.

Detroit was to open a fourgame series at Chicago beginning with a twi-nighter today. Mike Kilkenny, 1-2, and Joe Sparma, 5-8, were the likely Tiger starters to oppose Gary Peters, 7-11, and Joe Horlen, 7-12.

Tiger pitching coach Johnny Sain said Timmerman is part of a bullpen, "that works like hell."

"They (relievers) cooperate 100 per cent," he said. "They all can pitch and as they get to work more they'll get better. They've all got a lot going for them and I've got a lot of confidence in them."

Tiger relief pitching, which has been unreliable much of the season, has turned in some fine performances lately.

Curtain to Fall on Net Tourney

The final curtain on the 10th annual Oakland County Tennis Tournament has been slow to fall, but if all goes well Sunday the deed will be accomplished.

The last remaining event on the rain-hampered schedule finds the juniors battling for the singles title on the Oakland University course.

A quarter-final match is on tap for 9 a.m. pitting Lynn Katz, a member of the winning junior doubles team, against Mark Schneider. Both are from Southfield.

* * *

The winner of that one then goes against Rob Cowin, a sophomore at Birmingham Seaholm, in a match tentatively set for noon.

The finale is slated for approximately 3 p.m. and waiting patiently for the past two weeks to play again is Todd Beel of Birmingham, the 1968 runner-up.

Champions in all other events were crowned previously.

CASH CHECKS IN — Detroit's Norman Cash stretches his toe toward home plate as Minnesota catcher John Roseboro tries to grab the ball bare-handed in a bid to make a tag in the third inning of last night's game in Detroit. Cash came home from second base on a double by Don Wert. Tigers won, 6-4.

Soccer Foes in Tie

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israel's national soccer team battled the Argentinian club River Plate to a goal-less draw Thursday in an exhibition to mark the closing of the 8th Maccabiah Games. The dull match was watched by 45,000.

All's Well Now

Almost Quit Tigers Says Sain

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit pitching coach Johnny Sain said Thursday night he almost quit the team twice, including just after the Tigers won the World Series last year.

"But this is a fine organization, this is a fine town, and the fans are wonderful and that's partly why I'm still here," he said.

* * *

"Besides, I live and die with my pitchers and I have always hated to leave them behind when I went to another club."

Sain said he felt that on occasion management hasn't taken his advice concerning certain pitchers.

"When my advice isn't used and there are no results from what I'm doing here, then I figure it's time to leave," he said.

"I thought of leaving my first year here (1976) and also right after the World Series, but not now."

CROSSED FINGERS

Asked whether he and Manager Mayo Smith think alike regarding pitching matters Sain crossed his fingers at right angles and said, "This is how we are on that."

Sain said he has nothing to do with who pitches or when they pitch.

"I coach the pitchers and try to help them, but I don't advise Mayo on what he should do," he said.

"When I was in New York, (Manager) Ralph Houk would take my advice," he added. "But in Minnesota (Manager) Sam Mele did everything on his own and it's the same here."

Ted Kwalick Signs San Francisco Pact

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — All-American Ted Kwalick announced Thursday night he had signed with the San Francisco 49ers.

Ending a long holdout in which he had been reported seeking $90,000 for three years, the tight end from Penn State declined to disclose final terms, but said he was "very happy" with the contract.

* * *

Kwalick said he would join the 49ers Friday in Seattle where they are scheduled to play the Cleveland Browns Sunday.

"But he will have to have morning, noon and night touring," Coach Dick Nolan said, and the staff will also be busy looking at other newcomers including Stanford All American Gene Washington.

OCC Will Aid Wayne College

Wayne County Community College (WCCC) will be able to operate this fall, thanks to assistance being offered by Oakland Community College.

The OCC Board of Trustees last night approved a plan to provide WCCC with a project director and secretary to oversee and direct implementation of an educational program for the new college's 1969-70 academic year.

★ ★ ★

WCCC will also use course outlines furnished by Oakland Community College.

OCC will receive 10 per cent of Wayne's tuition collections and state aid payments for services performed in assisting in initiating the educational program.

WILL BE REIMBURSED

OCC will also be fully reimbursed, through state funds to Wayne, for the salary for the project director's services.

All of the teachers, counselors and instructors employed will be selected, designated, employed and paid by Wayne County Community College, under the agreement.

★ ★ ★

The board authorized the appointment of Dr. Harvey Hershey, present director of community relations and community services for OCC, as director of the Wayne County Community College project.

★ ★ ★

WCCC will open this fall in 18 centers in that county, 12 of which will be directed by OCC. The new community college anticipates 3,000 students attending 500 classes this fall.

APPROPRIATION OKAYED

In other action last night, the OCC board approved an appropriation of $335,934 for a set of three instructional programs to be phased into operation over the next 6 to 10 months.

The programs, described by Dr. Derek Nunney, OCC vice president in charge of instruction, will concentrate on individualized instruction for OCC students.

★ ★ ★

One program to be initiated is foundational studies, which will include extensive use of carrel-arcades, or small individual instruction areas, supervision by paraprofessionals and a "youth-tutor-youth" program.

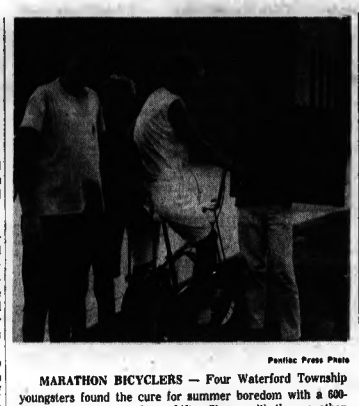

Each of the three campuses will also have an instructional center to coordinate activities designed for remediation and enrichment of the students.

★ ★ ★

The third program will include expansion of vocational education, including the bringing in of additional consultants to review plans for the Auburn Hills Vocational Technical Building and other parts of the applied sciences program.

The board last night also awarded a $93,000 contract to the Schiller Construction Co. of Detroit, low bidder for construction of office and classroom partitioning at the Orchard Ridge Campus, Farmington Township.

The only other bidder for the project was A. J. Schima Co. of Dearborn, which bid $127,000.

Wants Own Sex Education Policy

Board Balks at Guide

Waterford Township school board members apparently want to set their own guidelines for the teaching of sex education and not have them dictated by the state.

That was the thinking of two board members at last night's board meeting.

★ ★ ★

The State Legislature has requested that school districts not start any new sex education programs until the State Department of Education develops some guidelines.

"I feel that the concept of education should be the prerogative of the school district and not handed down by the Legislature," Board President Philip M. Hampton said. He was supported by Trustee Eldon C. Rosegart.

TO ANNOUNCE POLICY

Hampton promised that the board will publicly announce its policy on sex education in a couple weeks.

Nevertheless, acting Supt. Dr. John Pagen indicated that new sex education programs, including a proposed one at Silver Lake Elementary School, wouldn't begin until state guidelines are examined and programs are discussed with adults.

★ ★ ★

Response from the school officials came after Gerald O. Bowman, chairman of Parents for Moral Education in Waterford Township, asked if they would abide by the Legislature's request.

The school board also:

● Promised to see if some 10 elementary children in Lakeland Estates subdivision would be eligible for bus service to Our Lady of The Lakes school.

● Heard an objection to the appointment of a new director of building, grounds and transportation and director of personnel and employe relations.

Elmer Peters of the school district's maintenance department said maintenance employes feel one of their own should have been named building director instead of Robert Woodruff, who was a general supervisor at Pontiac Motor Division.

★ ★ ★

He also complained the creation of the new position of director of personnel was wasting money. Richard Higginbotham, principal of Crary Junior High School, was named to that post last night.

★ ★ ★

Pagen explained that Woodruff was the best man available and that Higginbotham would be taking over some of Pagen's old duties and some of a resigned associate superintendent.

The board also:

● Approved new administrative contracts of Roy J. Alexander as assistant superintendent for instruction from secondary coordinator; Lois Blanchard as assistant principal at Pierce Junior High School from materials center coordinator; Michael G. LeMense, assistant principal at Pierce from the school counselor; and Burton Bronson, supervisor of music education from Birmingham Schools.

● Accepted the resignation of Miss Pearl Turo as principal of Monteith School: She came to the school system in 1946.

● Approved an application to apply for $21,000 of state funds to operate computerized instruction program for adult basic education.

On all of the job appointments school officials claimed final salaries would not be determined until after a new contract was negotiated with

School-Lunch Cost Up

Waterford Township senior high school students will be getting a lesson in economics this coming school year. The chapter is called inflation.

Nealy 2,000 of the students who eat lunch at school will find that lunches have gone up from 35 to 40 cents when they return to school next month.

The board of education approved the increase last night to make up a lunch program deficit of about $4,000 last year and to provide for rising food prices. The schools use government commodities.

A school official said the increase is not expected to put much hardship on juniors and seniors since about 90 per cent of them work.

★ ★ ★

Last year the school district took in about $382,183 for the lunches and faced expenditures of about $386,216.

3 Homes Hit by Fire Bombs

A young girl escaped without serious injury in one of three fire-bombings of homes on the east side of Pontiac last night, according to police and firemen.

★ ★ ★

Kelly Ann Wright, 9, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dolph D. Wright of 121 Vernon, was in the bathroom of the home at 12:13 a.m. when a fire bomb came through the window, police said. She was slightly burned on the right arm.

★ ★ ★

The fire was extinguished with only slight damage to the home.

Another residence about three blocks away at 412 Valencia was hit at 12:34 a.m. by a fire bomb through a front window. Only slight damage resulted to the residence of the Kenneth Morgan family.

★ ★ ★

The third home similarly hit is at 949 Thors in Herrington Hills subdivision about a mile away, police said. About $250 damage resulted in the 1 a.m. incident at the home of the Darold Hiller family.

★ ★ ★

Police and fire officials were investigating the incidents today.

Knifing Suspect Is Committed

Found Unfit for Trial in Attack on OU Coed

A former Huntington Woods man charged with attempted murder in the stabbing of an Oakland University coed 2½ years ago was committed to Ionia State Hospital for the Criminally Insane yesterday.

Oakland County Circuit Judge Frederick C. Ziem ordered that Roger B. Shaw, 25, be institutionalized until such time as authorities feel he can stand trial.

★ ★ ★

Shaw was charged in the knifing of Janice E. Leverane, now 22, of Rochester with a 6-inch ceremonial dagger.

The incident occurred in a car in an Oakland University parking lot in January 1967.

FLED COUNTRY

Before his trial began, Shaw fled the country, and was arrested only last April in Sydney, Australia, on a charge of vagrancy.

Australian officials deported him to Honolulu, where FBI agents arrested him on a fugitive warrant as he got off the plane.

★ ★ ★

Judge Ziem ruled on the committment after hearing Pontiac psychiatrist Dr. Abraham Tauber testify that Shaw was suffering from a chronic paranoic schizophrenic mental disorder.

Assistant Prosecutor John Davey said he would go along with the report from Tauber and another from officials who examined Shaw at a state forensic medicine center.

Gunmen Get $145 in Waterford Holdup

Two men wearing green work uniforms escaped with more than $145 in the holdup of a Waterford Township gas station early this morning.

★ ★ ★

Attendant Fred Evans of Kayo Service Station, 3128 W. Walton, told police one of the men stuck a gun in his back and demanded all his money at about 5:15 a.m.

★ ★ ★

The two then fled without incident.

Shot Kills Woman

Janet Sue Cuivahouse, 25, of 8970 N. Enton, Independence Township, was found dead at her residence at about 5:30 a.m. today from an apparent self-inflicted gunshot wound, Pontiac State Police said.

Boy, Hit by Car, in Fair Condition

A Pontiac child was in fair condition in Pontiac General Hospital this morning after being struck by a car about 1 p.m. yesterday on West Hopkins near Baldwin.

★ ★ ★

Hospitalized was Jame B. Coe, 5, of 2390 Walnut. Driver of the car involved was Lorrine E. Zaremba, 49, of 141 W. Hopkins, according to Pontiac police. The child apparently darted in front of the car, police said.

In Memoriam 2

IN LOVING MEMORY of Clarence R. Mosher who passed away June 21, 1968.
I do not need a special date.
To bring you to my mind;
For the day I do not think of you,
is very hard to find.
It is lonesome here without you,
in a sad and weary way;
I like how not been the same,
Since you were called away.
Sadly missed and dearly loved by wife Edith and children.
