After one of the best sales years in its history, GMTC Truck & Coach Division "anticipates a continuation of this high level of business activity in the new model period," the division's manager, Calvin J. Werner, said today.

In the 1962 model year, the division built 90,489 trucks and buses — a 34.4 per cent increase over the 1961 model period.

Harrelson Enters Plea of Innocent in Detroit

By JIM LONG and
RALPH HUMMEL

Pontiac Teamster President Leann Harrelson today pleaded innocent to indictments by a federal grand jury in Detroit. The grand jury today also indicted a former Pontiac teamster agent who now is a labor consultant.

The latest indictment was returned against Samuel J. Marrow, who was Pontiac Local 614 business agent in 1950 and 1951.

Marrow, 46, of Warren, was indicted on three counts that he acted as a labor relations consultant contrary to the Landrum-Griffin Act.

The government charged he acted as a consultant for Grinnell Brothers, a chain of retail stores in Detroit, and two Detroit trucking firms, the N. S. Corda and Co. and the A. and Z. Currence Co., while still on parole from a bribery conspiracy sentence.

JFK Plans State Visits Oct. 6, 28

DETROIT (U) — President Kennedy today passed up an appearance at the National Automobile Show industry dinner in Detroit Oct. 22, but will spend part of two days in October campaigning in Michigan.

Word of the President's inability to speak at the dinner, which will kick off the auto show at Cobo Hall, was relayed to Harry Williams, managing director of the Automobile Manufacturers Association.

"We are naturally disappointed that President Kennedy will not be able to attend," commented Williams. He added, "It is perfectly understandable in view of his heavy responsibilities and great demands on his time."

Democratic state headquarters in Detroit confirmed the President will make two quick visits to Michigan, one on Oct. 6 and the other later in the month, probably about Oct. 28.

The Oct. 6 visit will be a brief one, with the President in on a swing from Cincinnati to Minneapolis.

He is expected to land at Metropolitan Airport and tour the Detroit area briefly before heading for Flint and Muskegon.

On his later visit, he is expected to concentrate on the Detroit area and Macomb County.

Bill Is Passed 384-7 House OKs Cuba Measure

RUSSIANS ARRIVE — Soviet technicians and military men raised their arms and chanted songs upon their arrival in Havana, was taken during the first week in September. The magazine is now being published in New York.

Approve Force, if Necessary

WASHINGTON (U) — Congress has completed action on a resolution endorsing the use of force if necessary to prevent Cuba from becoming a military threat to western Hemisphere countries.

House adoption by a 384-7 vote Wednesday came after a full-scale debate on foreign policy and an unsuccessful effort by several members to have tougher language written in.

The Senate voted its approval last week, 86 to 1. President Kennedy is expected to sign the document. The administration already has endorsed its careful wording.

The resolution is intended as an expression of united support for whatever action Kennedy considers necessary. In essence, he would be free to determine when and how the United States should act to block the spread of Cuban communism.

The President has declared he will do "whatever must be done" to protect the interests of the United States and its allies in this hemisphere.

By passing the resolution Congress went on record as being determined to prevent the creation in Cuba of a military capacity that would endanger the United States.

Help is pledged anti-Communist Cubans who seek self-determination for their nation.

Republicans who took the fight through during debate wanted a more precise statement declaring that the Monroe Doctrine has already been violated in Cuba. The doctrine declared this hemisphere out-of-bounds for foreign powers.

A motion to send the resolution back to the Foreign Affairs Committee was defeated 251 to 146. All but three of its supporters were Republicans.

House debate reached a fevered pitch at times.

When Rep. L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., demanded an immediate blockade of Cuba and said "let the chips fall where they may," there was applause and cheers.

Rivers was echoed by a dozen colleagues who called for action rather than words that signify "in the opinion of Rep. Katharine S. George, R-N.Y. — just a platitude."

Sheriffs, Police Join Guard Against Negro at University

From Our News Wire

OXFORD, Miss. (AP) — Sheriffs and city policemen converged on the University of Mississippi campus today to join the guard against Negro James H. Meredith.

State police at the five gates to the campus carried gas masks and billy clubs and wore steel helmet liners.

More than 100 police cars stood parked around the gates—highway patrol cars, sheriff's cars and city police cars from the length and breadth of the state—and more were arriving.

The reinforced barrier of Negro numbered an estimated 400. Only the campus police carried guns.

As they did Wednesday when they turned back Meredith and federal marshals at the gates, the state officers wore no sidearms.

County and city officers arriving during the morning stepped out of their cars, then unstrapped the guns and put them in their cars.

Six police dogs remained in police cars about 200 yards inside the main gate.

Newsmen on the scene identified officers from such widely separated places as Harrison County on the Gulf Coast to the south and from Tupelo in extreme northeast Mississippi.

As classes opened for the day on the hilly, wooded campus, the students went about their business as usual. Newsmen spotted students going to classes, but saw none around the guard posts at the gates.

THEY ON MARCH

There were no indications that Meredith planned another attempt to enroll today. His attorneys said he was in Memphis, Tenn.

House said today President Kennedy has not been in touch with Gov. Barnett of Mississippi in connection with any phase of the Meredith case.

Wednesday night and would be in New Orleans, La., today for a news conference.

The state officers got their gas masks this morning. They tried them on, then left them out of their bags, wearing them over their shoulders.

On the bags worn by one of the officers were these words: "Property of U.S. Army."

No gas guns or bombs were in evidence.

Gov. Ross Barnett twice openly defied federal court orders in personally rejecting Meredith's attempts to enroll—was on the campus. He arrived by car shortly after 8 a.m.

Lt. Gov. Paul Johnson, who turned back Meredith and the federal marshals at the main gate to the campus Wednesday, also was reported in Oxford.

In Washington, Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., suggested today that the University of Mississippi get used to the idea of having a Negro in its student body.

"A Negro will be admitted to the University of Mississippi—no question about it," Hart told a news conference.

"The sooner they stop bettering down that blind alley, the better for themselves and the country."

Rusk Wants Security Unit

Caribbean Outfit Is Sought to Guard Against Cuban Action

NEW YORK (UPI) — U.S. officials said today that Secretary of State Dean Rusk was seriously considering proposals to create a special Caribbean security organization to guard against Cuban-based subversion or aggression.

They emphasized the idea was still in the discussion stage with Latin American representatives here and no decision was imminent. Rusk was said to feel, however, that such an organization within the broader framework of the hemispheric alliance might be an effective way to achieve three principal U.S. objectives:

—Tighter cooperative measures within the immediate area to check the travels of Castro agents and transfer of funds for subversion in Central America and the Caribbean.

—Increased coordination of surveillance in the region to detect and take action against any Cuban aggression.

—More effective collaboration between the United States and the countries most immediately threatened by Cuba, most of whom favor stronger economic, political and moral sanctions against the Castro regime.

To Be Cool Tonight, High of 62 Friday

Cooler temperatures are gradually creeping into the Pontiac area. Skies will clear tonight with a low of 46.

Friday will be partly cloudy and cool, the high near 62. Saturday's outlook is fair and warmer, the weatherman said.

"A Negro will be admitted to the University of Mississippi—no question about it," Hart told a news conference.

"The sooner they stop bettering down that blind alley, the better for themselves and the country."

1st Contribution Handed to UF

A check for $11,243 from employees and officers of Community National Bank was the first contribution this year to the Pontiac Area United Fund drive.

Walter K. Willman, former city manager and currently chairman of advance gifts in the drive, accepted the check yesterday.

It filled 38 of his section's goal of $85,817.15 in the UF commercial division.

The total drive goal is $706,125. Gordon McLeod, Community National Bank cashier, presented the check at a kickoff breakfast sponsored by the bank in its Club Over-draft.

Willman pledged the advance gifts section's drive would stay in high gear from its start yesterday until Oct. 16 when the general campaign is launched.

"Our section," he told the group, "consists between 200 and 300 individuals and commercial establishments from whom we have received pledges of $100 or more in the past."

Advance gifts activities should account for 45 per cent of the commercial division's goal of $190,000, Willman told his audience.

GOAL OVER '61

UF chairman Fred Haggard, who is heading the drive in addition to his work as chairman of the Oakland County AFL-CIO Council, pointed out that this year's UF goal is $3,025 over the 1961 goal of $672,500.

Whether this new goal is reached, he said, will be a test "of the progress of Pontiac."

He urged every worker on sectional divisional goals not to fail this test.

Also presented to the gathering were four subcommittees — Mrs. Joseph Fox, women's division; Bruce Annett, commercial division; Ted Bloom, industrial division; and William Freshour, arrangements chairman.

Let's Face the Issue

Let's put first things first. Let's put first things first. Supporters of Milton Henry are trying to make the current city mess a black-white affair.

COLOR HAS NOTHING TO DO WITH IT.

Let's repeat that: race, religion and color do not enter IN ANY WAY.

The question is very simple: Can the City Commission shield police records to the taxpayers, the public and The Press can only have access through one man — or someone he designates?

The answer is "NO."

But with the exception of Commissioner Taylor, the rest are still struggling away. You-as-a taxpayer don't care.

The Press doesn't care whether commissioners are black, white, Chinese, Eskimo or Indian. Unless circumstances change, the question of color will not be referred to in The Press again in this matter.

DOES THE COMMISSION PROPOSE TO MODIFY FREEDOM OF THE PRESS? DOES IT? Nothing else is involved.

Color has been dragged in as a smoke screen by Henry and Parker who face the increasing ire and wrath of an aroused community, with their commission disciplines tagging along behind them.

Already, we have elected parts or all of this from several dozen letters. Henceforth, reference to color will all be taken out.

LET'S stick to the facts. Let's stop the evasion.

If the Commission wants to battle the United States Constitution, the Federal statutes and the will of the people, it will find us arrayed against it steadily, everlastingly and until the laws of the land are recognized in Pontiac.

We'll concentrate on the freedom of the people and the freedom of The Press.

Hard Cuba Bill Urged by Solon

Broomfield Pressed for Tougher Stand on Castro Situation

The congressional resolution endorsing whatever means necessary to prevent the spread of communism from Cuba to other Latin American nations should have been stronger and should have been President Kennedy's resolution, U. S. Rep. William S. Broomfield, Oakland County, said today.

Broomfield's motion yesterday to recommit the resolution to committee for the insertion of stronger language failed to pass.

He was one of seven Republican Congressmen who voted against the resolution, which was requested by the Administration. It passed, 348 to 7.

Broomfield's changes would have lifted American determination to halt Communism in the Western Hemisphere to the 150-year-old Monroe Doctrine and would have included congressional support to unilateral action.

The approved resolution mentioned only authorization to work with other nations, Broomfield said.

"I wanted to urge the President that the American people support the Monroe Doctrine," Broomfield said today.

"I have been one of the strongest backers of President Kennedy's foreign policy measures," he added. "I wanted Congress to give him even more power to deal with Cuba."

Increase Approved in Special Forces

WASHINGTON (AP)—The army has been given approval to boost its antiguerrilla forces over the next five years, Deputy Secretary of Defense Roswell L. Gilpatric said today.

Gilpatric told a news conference the boost will bring these fighters to a total of 6,033—about a one-third increase over the present force.

He denied unofficial reports that the army had been authorized to raise the level of its special forces to about 15,000 men.

Gilpatric said the Pentagon has withheld approval of an air force bid to increase its "air commando" group from 4,000 to 5,500 men, perhaps 6,000 or 7,000.

Both the Army and Air Force had put in requests for what Gilpatric called "rather large buys" of equipment to support antiguerrilla operations.

PROPOSED HEALTH CENTER—This is the architect's rendering of a proposed $600,000 county health building in Royal Oak. Local funds already have been earmarked for the construction even though a site hasn't yet been decided. County officials say they have reason to believe that William Beaumont Hospital in Royal Oak will make a free site available on the hospital grounds. Tentative plans have been prepared by Bery-Kiel and Associates—architects of Oak Park.

Free Site for Med Center?

Oakland County may get a free site for its proposed, new $600,000 South Oakland Health Center in Royal Oak.

The buildings and grounds committee of the County Board of Supervisors was told yesterday that the William Beaumont Hospital board of directors was considering making a site on hospital property available to the county.

If the deal goes through, it will represent a savings of about $20,000 to the county, based on land values in the area.

The site would have to contain approximately six acres, according to the architectural firm of Bery-Kiel and Associates of Oak Park, which has prepared tentative plans for the building.

"We don't know yet what they (the hospital board) will offer," County Auditor Robert Lilly told the committee.

He said Owen Pickensman, Beaumont Hospital administrator, believes the board of directors will offer a free site to the county once the site can be fitted into the hospital's $2 million expansion plan.

The County Board of Supervisors has approved spending $400,000 toward constructing the new, larger health center over the next two years.

The remaining $200,000 will be sought in the form of a federal grant, said Committee Chairman Luther Heacock, supervisor from Birmingham.

Architects' tentative plans for the new center call for a two-story, modern building of glass, aluminum and concrete slab exterior.

It would be 133 feet long and 45 feet wide, and contain 5,000 square feet of floor space on each floor.

The building would house offices for dentists, visiting nurses, a veterinarian, tuberculosis control, sanitation department, laboratories and clinics as well as an auditorium with a 25-seating capacity.

The new building will replace the county's present South Oakland Health Center at 2401 E. Fourth St. in Royal Oak.

It no longer is deemed adequate by the county to cope with increased population in the southern part of the county.

The present building is in a congested area and doesn't lend itself to expansion, Heacock said.

APPROVE SITE

The buildings and grounds committee yesterday also approved a 3 1/2-acre site for a proposed $1 million office building at the County Service Center on Telegraph.

The site is situated southeast of the courthouse.

Croteau explained that he was given checks by Harrelson on two occasions, the first one being for $300 and the last for $200.

At that time Croteau said he was treasurer of a group known as Citizens for Honest Government, organized for the purpose of supporting the then police chief, Herbert Straley.

Croteau, an unsuccessful candidate for the city commission in the 1960 race, said the checks from Harrelson came about two weeks apart.

"I received the first check after a mutual friend phoned me and asked me to meet him and Harrelson in a bar," Croteau said.

"When I got there Harrelson said he was interested in our campaign to retain Straley and gave me the $300 check."

The advertisements asking for the defeat of the proposed amendment appeared in The Pontiac Press April 15 and 16, 1960.

The Grand Jury charges that the false entries in the town records were made on April 14 and 15, 1960.

Croteau said that while he wasn't sure when Harrelson gave him the checks he believed that it was before those dates.

Without this authority, he said, it is a violation of the Landrum-Griffin Act, as is the falsification of records.

If convicted, Harrelson could face a maximum of 12 years in prison and a $40,000 fine.

The Day in Birmingham

Bloomfield Twp. Board to Hear Rezoning Plea

BIRMINGHAM—The Bloomfield Township Board of Trustees will consider a request to rezone property on Woodward Avenue near Big Beaver Road for construction of a $18-million motel and restaurant Oct. 8.

Two Detroit-based firms, Al Green Enterprises Inc. and Motel Management, Inc., are seeking to build the motel-restaurant on property with 173 feet of frontage on Woodward Avenue between Big Beaver and Manor roads.

The property presently is zoned for office building development and the project's backers have been denied a change in that classification by Bloomfield Township Planning Commission.

The developers are appealing the decision to the Township Board. They contend that the property was zoned for general commercial purposes when it was passed.

The property was rezoned for office building development as part of zoning changes adopted by the township in June.

The developers plan call for a 16-unit motel and swimming pool plus a cocktail lounge and dining room.

The rezoning request has been presented to the board, but trustees have delayed action on it until their first meeting in October.

The Congregational Church of Birmingham will hold information meetings for prospective members at 8 p.m. Sunday and Sept. 30 at the church, 308 N. Woodward Ave.

Confirmation classes for high school students from the ninth through the twelfth grades also will begin Sunday at 6:30 p.m.

Classes will be conducted by Rev. Raymond A. Fenner with assistance of the church's Board of Deacons and Deaconesses.

City Residents Told Not to Rake Leaves Into Road

Clyde Christian, Pontiac Department of Public Works superintendent, has appealed to city residents not to rake leaves into the street this fall.

"This adds significantly to the already heavy tasks facing city crews in the leaf pickup program," Christian explained.

"Due to budgetary limitations this year," he added, "we need the assistance of all citizens to accomplish this sizable job before freezing weather arrives."

Leaves may be put in containers at the curb for pickup by rubbish crews on scheduled rubbish collection days.

They also may be hauled to the curb for pickup by rubbish crews in rear lots or off-street areas. A city ordinance prohibits burning leaves on paved streets.

World Troubles Vanish as Heavyweights Step Into Ring

By BOB CONSIDINE
CHICAGO — Whole forests were felled to provide the newspaper to tell the story of the Patterson-Liston fight.

It commanded more attention than the Soviet arms build-up in Cuba, the U.S.-Soviet clash in the U.N., the awesome master of the wall in Berlin and the aviation catastrophe off the coast of Ireland.

The crippling strike of the Chicago and Northwestern Railroad and Eastern Airlines' Flight Engineers, which cost millions, aroused less interest than the fiscal aspects of a skull-pounding demonstration. Much of the English and Spanish speaking worlds kept radio vigil through the night, listening to short-waved accounts of two men attending to a scord business that could very well have been declared unconstitutional along with bear-baiting.

Teletar, a magnificent end result to man's learning and imagination, was utilized to transmit pictures of a puffed lip.

Off that incredible man-made star bounced news of a brawl. A scordish man would have applauded with furry hands and guttural grunts.

Tens of thousands of white boxing fans cheered two Negroes in a fist-fight pit, while hundreds of white students at the University of Mississippi chanted "nigger... nigger!" at a Negro veteran who wishes to continue his education. Man altered the course of Mariner II, better than a million miles out in space.

But if the vessel had dented, integrated in the process it would not have won as rapid attention as the debate over whether an ex-convict named Liston would attempt to disintegrate an ex-juvenile delinquent named Patterson with eight-ounce Prager gloves.

Argentina, a country into which we have poured a great fortune and much hope, rent itself asunder with civil war, but didn't get as much of a tumble as the bawful look Liston shot at his drawy-looking opponent at the weigh-in.

Skirmishes in the backstreets of Algiers, with bullets whistling about, were no anything compared to the first blow struck with a padded fist at Comiskey Park.

The Macmillan government, under heavy pressure from the White House, laid down some specific rules to British shipping magnates to lay off carrying Soviet arms to Castro.

Murder Trial Slated for State Man in Ohio

BELLEFONTAINE, Ohio — Common Pleas Judge Richard Finebeck has set Tuesday, Oct. 23, for opening of the first-degree murder trial of Earl Ralph Jacobs, 25, of Adrian, Mich.

Jacobs is charged with slaying West Liberty Town Marshal Sherman Ricketts, 63, on June 23. The judge said a special venire of 75 prospective jurors will be summoned.

But the precise rules weren't as absorbing, apparently, as the codes that prohibited Liston from fighting Patterson as dirty as he used to fight cops.

FIGHT 'CAUGHT ON'

Yet every working stiff who ever covered a fight wanted to get this one and dip in his ear.

The fight "caught" from the start, probably because for a long time the men concerned have been traveling in orbits that would inevitably collide, no matter how many obstacles were constructed by haggles over money, boxing commissions, and the game's assorted counters.

Under the expert public relations work of a veteran boxing writer, Harold Conrad, the match took on the flavor of lighter-hearted ages in America: the Golden Era of Sports, as the 1920s were called, and the platinum days that led up to and immediately followed World War II.

It wasn't difficult to write the fight into an allegorical play, Liston, a sour soul with an ominous criminal record that barred him from fighting in almost any metropolis except Chicago, swiftness, and the game's assorted counters.

Patterson, benefiting by the comparison, was quickly identified as good. This was to be a contest between a Right vs. Wrong, St. George and the Dragon, David and that overrated bum Goliath, the biblical Primo Carnera.

Characters the fight game hasn't seen in 20 years wandered out of the woodwork for this one, to haunt the hotels, fight camps and Comiskey Park, mumbling about the happy days when only honest gangsters were allowed to own fighters, referees and commissions.

'Fallout Danger Overestimated'

Joint Committee Says Probe Reveals Effects Less Than Foreseen

WASHINGTON — A Senate House Atomic Energy Committee reports that estimates on fallout hazards "have apparently been somewhat too high."

The committee reported the findings yesterday after a series of hearings and a study of re-evaluations made by government and scientific groups.

The report estimates that fallout from "all weapons tests conducted through 1961 would have the same long-term genetic effect on the U.S. population as that produced during six months to 1½ years of radiation exposure from natural sources."

It noted testimony that the amount of Strontium 90 — which in large enough doses may cause bone cancer and leukemia — appearing in the diet "is only about one-half to one-third as high as previously indicated."

The report also noted that earlier estimates of exposure to Cesium 137, another radioactive product of fallout, has also been reduced.

As to the leukemia or bone cancer hazard from fallout, the subcommittee estimated that the possibility of these diseases resulting from all nuclear testing to date is comparable to the possibility of incurring diseases from six months to 3½ years of exposure to natural background radiation.

Professional Football Is Big Business Today

The first professional football game was played in this country in 1895 when the Latrobe, Pa., town team defeated Jeannette, Pa., 12-0. From this modest beginning the pro game has burgeoned today into a multi-million-dollar business embracing hundreds of players in two leagues.

The American Football League, a struggling but aggressive newcomer, has just opened its third season. More attention from our area centers on the National Football League, which is in its 43rd year.

PETE ROZELLE, the $60,000-a-year NFL Commissioner, thinks 1962 will see his league reach its first year of four-million paid attendance. A record 3,986,159 fans bought tickets last year to watch the league's 14 teams (of 36 players each) commit legal mayhem.

This has been a good year for the NFL since it has signed a two-year $9.8-million TV contract that will be worth $320,000 annually for each club. Also, it can breathe a little easier since acquited by a Federal court of charges made by the American Football League in a $10-million antitrust suit.

Until last Sunday's game between the Lions and the San Francisco 49ers nearly everyone's favorite to repeat as the league's most proficient pack of bone crushers was the Green Bay Packers, who last year froze out (it was 21 degrees) the New York Giants 37-0 in the championship game.

Hopes are running high now for our Lions. Having won their first two games, they are off to a fast start, and if they can continue the caliber of play they displayed Sunday, should be a solid contender.

Go get 'em, Lions—We'll be cheering you on.

Program for Dropouts Is Worthwhile Project

A frequently neglected job of working with youngsters who drop out of school is being taken up by Camp Oakland and the Oakland County Juvenile Court, under the direction of Probate Judges ARTHUR E. MOORE and DONALD ADAMS.

It's hard to find a more worthy cause than this. These teen-agers who leave school all too often wind up in the unemployment rolls, unable to find a decent job.

They're unequipped for making their way in the world, primarily because of their lack of education.

Camp Oakland, under the supervision of William Matus, steps into the breach. With a class for boys interested in auto mechanics, he begins the long process of equipping them for earning a living.

This is a field that needs more study and it is to the credit of the court that the need has been realized and something done about it.

Friend in White House Making Unions Happy

Not long ago, GEORGE MEANY, President of the AFL-CIO, expressed his gratitude to President KENNEDY for signing an executive order which makes it easier for the unionization of Federal employees.

Previously, the American Federation of Government Employees had been urged in a speech by Mr.

Meany that an all-out drive to organize the workers should be undertaken. Further, he pointed out that once the workers were organized they could elect congressmen who would vote them liberal benefits, such as pay and pension increases.

The President of the union was sound in his reasoning. Actually, he was prepared to make it easy for the men. He suggested that the unions would provide information programs and in turn the members should get out and work before the elections, carefully skirting the Hatch Act.

Mr. MEANY said that Labor considers this a "friendly" Administration.

We could only guess, but we would like to bet that the candidates who get the support of the Civil Service employees will be "friendly" to the administration.

The Man About Town

MAT Reports Significant Trade Data Provided Local Dealers

By HOWARD HELDENBRAND
With the government as well as most every other area of human endeavor issuing surveys, crop reports and business and economic analyses, the MAT feels that he is being derelict of duty by not providing something equally meaty.

Herewith, therefore, is Buying Demand Bulletin No. 1, covering certain items of retail trade. Dealers stocking such merchandise are advised that demand for the following has recently slackened, and are cautioned against excessive build-up of inventory:

|--------------------------|---------------------|
| Collars, celluloid       | Goggles, automobile |
| Covers, corset           | Hooks, button       |
| Cups, mustache           | Nails, shaving      |
| Firearms, muzzle-loading | Nails, horseshoe    |

Had a pleasant chat recently with Mrs. Gladys Montgomery of 29 Doremus, for 20 years connected with Oakland County Road Commission. Her hobby interest has centered on general gardening which she pursues on a 30x100 plot.

Understandably proud of the product, she attributes the excellence to the exclusively organic treatment of the soil—using no commercial fertilizer of any kind. She believes that the richness of flavor is better preserved by that method.

The beefsteak tomatoes averaged a whicker under 2 1/2 pounds.

Fred Huber
New York Central PR head, says that when and if the consolidation of the Central and Pennsylvania railroads is effected, hearings on which are now in progress, through trains of both lines would use the Pennsylvania station in New York.

Grand Central station, so dear to the hearts of countless Broadway-bound visitors, would be devoted exclusively to suburban train service. He added that were the merger approved, it would take a good two years to effect fully the huge job of unification.

A recent reference to a robin brought forth a bird of a midsummer story about a nest, later peopled by four babies, with which a pair of robins had begun light housekeeping in the back yard of

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Toby of 1027 Canterbury.

But so fierce was the parents' protective affection for their offspring, that approaching the vicinity of the nest became fraught with danger. The Mama and Papa took turns dive-bombing any intruders, to the point where the yard became uninhabitable—in fact, says the report, it became downright dangerous to move the lawn.

Hmmmm... You don't suppose, do you, that Mr. T was just slily frightening him, self out of a lot of grass cutting?

David Lawrence Says:

Postmen Get Raise... Will Steel?

WASHINGTON — It may sound like a paradox to point out a helpful inconsistency in government policy which has just emerged—yet it could turn out to be a lesson learned.

Just five and a half months ago, the President of the United States stirred up a controversy when he denounced steel—of a pay executives because they were in the line of business.

But today the President and the Congress have agreed that the government must raise both wages and prices in its own business establishments.

The international crises now are even more grave — the secretary of defense says they are "more serious than at any time since Korea."

NOT ENOUGH
The prices of certain postal services rendered have not been high enough to cover costs. So the government in its own biggest business operation — the Post Office Department — has determined to raise the price of its services so as to get the money to pay for them.

About half of the $603 million in revenues to be derived from the increased prices to be charged for carrying of mail will be used to pay wage increases for postal employees.

The other half goes to help meet the deficit. If there were no wage raises, the new revenues would have covered the entire $350 million deficit attributed to the cost of postal service to businesses and individuals.

But, as it is, that $297 million will be available for the deficit. This, in ordinary or private business, would be regarded as a substantial advance toward a profit position.

Now, there's no doubt that the price for the government's handling of the mail should go up as costs increase. Whether the price increases have been equitably distributed or the costs properly allocated may well be debated, but a price increase of some kind is justified — and a few weeks ago it looked like a stiffer hike would be made than has just been approved in Congress.

Also, there's no doubt that many of the federal employees both in the Post Office Department and elsewhere deserve higher wage rates.

They can belong to labor unions and the government help collect the dues for the unions, but there can't be any strikes.

So federal employees have to depend on political pressures to get an increase in wages through Congress.

The real question is whether the wage rise follows any "guidelines" and whether "productivity" will be increased.

But, even as the necessity for the wage-and-price increases is emphasized, so also is it significant that in this instance the spokesmen for the government, including the President, didn't raise a fuss over the economic consequences of what they are doing.

Does it mean that they at last recognize the validity of economic truth versus economic theory?

For workers who have no incentive to work hard become careless and inefficient. Also, a government that pays out more than it takes in loses the confidence of the public.

So an increase in the price of services rendered by the government does become essential, just as in private business.

It may be that the administration at last will recognize that "stability" has become a synonym for stagnation, and that price increases and wage increases must be allowed to find their own natural level in a constantly changing economy.

So what seems to be an inconsistency by the administration could turn out to be a lesson learned from which business may yet derive some encouragement.

Maybe steel can raise its prices next year, after all, when another demand arises for wage increases.

The Almanac

By United Press International
Today is Thursday, Sept. 27, the 27th day of 1962 with 95 to follow.

The moon is approaching its new phase.

The morning star is Mars.

The evening stars are Venus, Jupiter and Saturn.

On this day in history:
In 1779, John Adams was appointed to negotiate peace terms with Great Britain.

In 1940, representatives of Germany, Italy and Japan signed the Tripartite Pact, a 10-year mutual assistance agreement, in Berlin.

In 1950, former heavyweight boxing champion Joe Louis was defeated by Elmer Charles at Yankee Stadium in New York.

In 1961, Syria, in a revolt led by army officers, broke away from the United Arab Republic.

A thought for the day: Alexander Dumas the elder, French novelist and playwright, said: "Nothing succeeds like success."

And if the people that are talking about them would just stop talking and do more work, the world would be a better place in which to live.

Instead of criticizing, let us all look to God and pray more, for God is the Father of us all.

Mr. N. A. Waters

256 E. Wilson.

An aroused citizenry will really get busy and clean up the mess in Pontiac. We have a newspaper that is honest and unprejudiced, as we should have in a free country. Order shall be restored.

Don't file any of the letters in the U.S. House has in its files. K and Prada and we don't want one here. Let's thank God for that.

Now Ex-Resident

Apparently our city has to go to the dogs before people will take a stand on city government. Can't all our commissioners have their own minds? The little lambs that follow their shepherd need their heads examined. I live on the Southeast side and it sure is bad in places. The police department is doing a wonderful job and we need to keep up the raids. Vice runs wild around here. Before the mayor and his pal run this city they'd better be kicked out.

Mrs. Joseph Cool

22 Collingwood

Thanks to The Press for alerting itself on the commissioners' ruling. The rest of those commissioners are just panics.

Mrs. Lewis, we little people can do a lot by sticking together for our rights. Many Negroes feel Henry is doing more harm to their cause. The sooner he's out of office the sooner our city will regain its respectability.

Mixed Neighborhood

What right does the City Commission have in freezing out the news? When this happens we are no longer a free nation but heading toward communism. All these monies sent to freedom care radio networks have been wasted. The commissioners represent all law-abiding citizens. Michigan, including all cities needs a general housecleaning. George Romney as governor is the only solution. Throw the commission out and

Sports Staff Commended for Football Coverage

Bruce Kearns and his sports staff, including Chuck Abair, Don Vogel and Dick Pointer, are to be commended for their excellent coverage of Oakland County's high school football teams, area-wide collegiate football and professional football in "The Kickoff 1962."

This publication represents a tremendous effort to boost local and area-wide interest in football. Mr. Kearns and his staff tackled and mastered a task which newspapers in our largest cities do not attempt.

Congratulations also to the advertisers for their interest, support and unique presentations.

Topic of the Day — City's Resolution

Thank you for trying to help bring about greater equality for the Negroes and they certainly will get it. Henry and Parker will be well talked of because of what they are. These men have done so much good, yet you think of something they did wrong and make a mountain of it.

Through it all, Henry and Parker love you all just the same.

Why is everyone so upset about the City Commission? A policeman and his wife were on Crystal Lake Drive and he was shot after a chase but our press did not write about it. On the Orchard Lake deal there were no names and only one article.

Tells Importance of School Election

Vote in the Walled Lake School District election. School elections determine a large percentage of tax assessments. Examine your last tax statement. School taxes comprise over 60 per cent of our total. A large part of Walled Lake's school curriculum is from 5 or 6 townships other than Commerce. When there is a vote increase we taxpayers in Commerce are the hardest hit.

If school children worked harder and put out a little more cash they would appreciate it. Is the answer tuition for those living in other townships?

Astronomers Had Answer

It Was Humidity, Not Heat, Even Long Ago in Ancient Greece

WASHINGTON — The dog days of ancient Greece and Rome affect people today much as they did 3,000 years ago.

Early astronomers noticed that Sirius, the most radiant star in the sky, rose with the sun in mid-summer. They believed its heat intensified that of the sun.

Since Sirius is in the constellation of Canis Major, "the Large Dog," ancients called the hottest period dog days.

People are still inclined to follow the advice of the poet Hesiod: "When Sirius parches head and knees, and the body is dried up by reason of the heat, then sit in the shade and drink."

Weathermen have long known, of course, that summer's discomfort is caused not by a star but by a combination of heat and humidity, the amount of water vapor in the air.

By midsummer, oceans have lost their winter chill. Days are still long, and the sun beats down fiercely from high in the sky.

As temperatures rise, more moisture evaporates. The air becomes muggy. From every pond, ocean, river and stream, water is drawn into the air at the rate of 16 million tons a second.

CAUSE MISERY

Eventually it will return as rain, snow, or some other form of precipitation, but while it is retained it can cause considerable misery. The amount of moisture the air can hold varies according to temperature. The quantity of vapor present in proportion to the maximum possible is called the relative humidity.

Relative humidity often is higher in winter than in summer. But it is less noticeable because colder air can hold less moisture.

Thus a relative humidity of 50 per cent on a 90-degree day results in far greater discomfort from mugginess than a relative humidity of 50 per cent on a 50-degree day.

EVAPORATION SLOWER

Evaporation slows down on a muggy summer day as the air becomes more and more saturated. Cold drinks as well as people "perspire."

Humidity can be costly. It warps wood and swells leather, rusts iron and spreads mold. It makes people tired and tense.

Research has shown that sickness, death and crime increase in humid weather. It aggravates heart and respiratory diseases and ulcers.

If Its Engines Fail

Skybolt Can Function as a Bomb

By ALVIN R. WEBB JR.
CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — The newest addition to America's stockpile of military magic is a ballistic missile that could land a nuclear warhead on target even if its engines fail to fire.

This remarkable-sounding ability is the latest to be credited to the Skybolt, a two-stage rocket that is slumping up as one of the most versatile in the nation's growing space-age arsenal.

Actually, this trick involves a few mirrors of sorts. Skybolt is much like any other ballistic missile—a rocket-powered weapon designed to lob a nuclear payload in a great arc, at very high speeds, through the edge of space.

But Skybolt has one advantage —it is launched from high-flying B52 jet bombers. Thus, if for some reason the airborne crew should decide the Skybolt might malfunction it launched in the normal fashion, the rocket could quickly become a dandy bomb.

The emergency rocket-to-bomb plan for Skybolt was revealed by C. S. Perry, deputy director of the Skybolt System subdivision for the Douglas Co., shortly after the firm's fourth air-launched missile scored its "best success to date" Tuesday.

WORKED OK

The 35-foot, finned white rocket was released from the wing of a B52 just after the jet waltzed across Cape Canaveral at an altitude of about 40,000 feet. Four seconds later, the booster engine ignited on time and sent the Skybolt soaring to the edge of space.

The second stage also fired on time and, although the engines cut off a few seconds earlier than planned, the missile soared more than 600 miles across the Atlantic ocean. It was the first success in four launchings for the new rocket.

That is, more or less, the way Skybolt normally should work. In this manner, the missile will be able to hurl a one-megaton nuclear warhead a little better than 1,000 miles.

But, said Perry, if the Skybolt could not be fired in the normal fashion, the jet could fly on to the target itself and drop the missile like an ordinary bomb. The trick, he admitted, would be in getting the airplane past enemy defenses.

"That," said Perry humorously, "is one thing that the Polaris can't do." It was a friendly reference to the Navy's submarine-launched Polaris missile. "If the Polaris doesn't work, they might find it hard to drop it from the submarine," Perry said.

Actually, the Skybolt system has been called the air-going version of the Polaris. One uses the airplane and the other the nuclear submarine, but the idea is the same —to keep the missiles constantly on the move, well hidden and difficult to pinpoint with defenses.

Polaris already is operational, but Skybolt faces another two years of engineering before it meets the goal stated by Perry: "It's just another bullet you hang on that airplane, and it's got to act like one."

1 WEEKS BEHIND

Skybolt is expected to become operational in October of 1964. Perry said the success Tuesday left the program "only about two weeks behind schedule. And over a four-year development period—we're in the second year—that's not much."

The next critical step, he said, is to join the delicate guidance system especially developed for the Skybolt to the missile itself.

"We have put the guidance system through high-speed tests and heat ball out of it (to test its ruggedness) and we've flown it around in planes (to see if it could do what it is supposed to do-guidance)."

"Now we have to put it on the missile, but we don't expect any serious troubles."

One of the toughest jobs, Perry said, is building Skybolt to be rugged enough to make flight after flight through tearing winds and extremes of temperature. "This weapon's got to be around, out in the open, for years."

"It doesn't lend a nice, sheltered life like Minuteman," he said in comparing Skybolt with a new solid-fueled intercontinental ballistic missile now being stored in underground launching silos.

Eventually, Skybolt missiles aboard B52 bombers. Great Britain also is modifying its fleet of Vulcan jets to carry a pair of Skybolts each.

Road Deaths Down, Injuries Up in State

LANSING (AP) — Michigan's highway fatality rate has dropped 14 per cent but the rate of injuries has risen by the same margin over last year, the National Safety Council reported yesterday.

Heaviest Bird a Swan

WINNIPEG — The trumpeter swan, nearly extinct, at a maximum of 40 pounds, is said to be the heaviest flying bird on the North American continent.

Christmas observances were banned in Massachusetts from 1859-1861.

Safe Fireproof Not Thiel-proof, Public Warned

NEW YORK (UPI)—Americans lose millions of dollars to burglars each year because they don't know the difference between a "safe" and a "money chest."

When you order a safe, you get a container designed to resist fire, not criminals. A money chest is designed to foil burglars.

This information comes from Arthur P. Anderson, chairman of the planning and technical advisory committee of the Safe Manufacturers National Association. "Public misunderstanding of what a safe is designed to do is one factor behind the loss of many millions of dollars each year to burglars," Anderson said.

The dove will mercilessly peck an opponent to death.

Missile Launching Covers 350 Miles

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The Army's Pershing missile was launched successfully on a flight of about 350 miles in a test which exercised most of the ground support equipment to be used by troops in the field.

The missile was erected on its tank-like mobile field carrier on Wednesday night when the count-made mistakes in arithmetic in down reached 30 minutes before 1961.

State Motel Owners Meet Friday in Lansing

LANSING (AP) — The Michigan Motel and Resort Association will hold its annual trade fair and convention here Friday and Saturday.

H. H. Mobley, of Kansas City, executive vice president of the American Motor Hotel Association, will be the principal speaker. Events include election of officers and a panel on Michigan's tourist industry.

Sarawak Folk Under Britain

They Used to Be Called
'Wild Men of Borneo'
With Houses on Stilts

WASHINGTON — The "wild men of Borneo," in marked contrast to Americans, are about to move from high-density apartment dwellings into one-family huts.

The Sea Dyak people of Sarawak, British colony on Borneo, have lived for centuries in communal longhouses. Built on high stilts, the bamboo-type structure often houses a village's entire population.

Government planners hope to introduce a cash-crop economy to give each Dyak family its own thatch hut and farm plot.

The former headhunters have traditionally practiced collective ownership of housing, land and livestock, says the National Geographic Society.

FLYING SNAKES

Kidney-shaped Sarawak faces the South China Sea along the north-west coast of Borneo, third largest island in the world.

The steamy colony covers 600 miles of coast and reaches back 40 to 100 miles into mountainous rain forests — home of the orangutan, clouded leopard, a snake that can glide from trees, and a red-and-white flower, the size of a parasol.

Until 1946, Sarawak was the private kingdom of a British family of White Rajas. Sir James Brooke, a wealthy adventurer and traveler, was made the first Raja of Sarawak in 1841, after helping Borneo's Sultan of Brunai subdue rebellious tribes.

For more than a century, the Brooke rulers printed their own stamps, flew their own national flag, and maintained a private army and police force.

The gentle, brown-skinned Dyaks, once called the "wild men of Borneo," number about 200,000, the largest group in a varied population.

Others include the Chinese, most of whom keep shops or farms, Malays, Land Dyaks and a scattering of primitive tribesmen who worship jungle spirits and hunt with blow guns.

Rubber, rice, and pepper are the chief crops. Oil flows from jungle wells in eastern Sarawak.

Fishermen Donate

Catch to Hospitals

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—When a trio of Richmond fishermen go fishing they have a good-size rooting section pulling for them.

For several years R. C. Talbot, Dr. C. E. Neal Jr. and M. S. Moore have made a practice of donating almost all their fish to the Crippled Children's Hospital, the Sheltering Arms Hospital and the Masonic Home.

The people at these institutions have been eating well. The three fishermen make several offshore trips annually, bringing in hundreds of pounds of fine food fish from each trip.

WON'T WEAR SHORTS — Judy Rae Bushong, 16-year-old freshman suspended from Springfield High School in Ohio, near Akron, because she won't wear shorts in gym class, shows how high she would dare let her slacks come. Her father, a minister in the nondenominational Church of Soul's Harbor near Canton, says the scriptures forbid "nakedness" beyond that.

Antiaircraft Missiles Being Sold to Israel

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has agreed to sell Hawk antiaircraft missiles to Israel to strengthen its defenses against the growing military capability of neighboring Arab states equipped with arms supplied by the Soviet Union.

The deal is expected to be completed soon and the United States plans to train Israeli operators for the missiles in this country.

Officials disclosed the agreement in principle Wednesday night and described the Hawk as a purely defensive weapon which will be provided to Israel on a straight sale basis, not involving U.S. military aid.

For years, the stated policy of the U.S. government has been not to add fuel to the Middle East arms race. But, under this policy, the United States has sold limited quantities of military equipment to Israel and to the Arab states, declaring the arms were defensive in nature.

BUILDING UP SUPPLIES
Egypt and Syria have been building up supplies of Soviet arms, including jet bombers, during the past two years or so. Recently, U.S. officials said, Iraq obtained short range antiaircraft missiles from Moscow. Officials said this was the decisive event.

Michigan Benefits From Loan Grant

LANSING (AP)—The state of Michigan will be some $6,000 richer because Panhandle Eastern Pipeline Co. has asked for permission to borrow $80 million.

Panhandle asked the commission to approve issuance of $60 million in bonds and $20 million in stocks.

More than $43 million of this total, the pipeline company said, was needed to pay a refund to gas customers ordered by the federal government. Consumers Power Co., Michigan Consolidated Gas Co. and Michigan Gas Utilities are among those now sending out the refunds. The Michigan refund total tops $6 million.

About $1.5 million of the total, Panhandle said, will be used to build new facilities in Michigan.

The state will get $6.135 on approval of the borrowing, representing one-tenth of one per cent of the utility investment in Michigan.

Island Fireflies Glow Brilliantly

Jamaican Species So Much Brighter Than American Relatives

WASHINGTON — American fireflies can't hold a candle to their Jamaican relatives.

One species of firefly on the Caribbean island produces such a brilliant outburst that it can momentarily blind a nearby observer. It suggests the flash of a camera bulb.

Jamaican fireflies sometimes swarm in trees in such prodigious numbers that their glow is visible half a mile away.

Dr. Paul A. Zahl, of the National Geographic Society, saw a "fire tree" while studying the more than 50 species of fireflies in Jamaica.

GIGANTIC SPARKLER
Dr. Zahl describes the tree: "I slowly became aware of a great, diffuse luminosity in the darkness. As my eyes became more sensitive, I perceived thousands of stars . . . twinkling."

"The flashes were random, producing the effect of a giant sparkler . . . I might have been in a hydroplane deep in the ocean's black abyss, watching the lights of a school of luminous fishes, or in an airplane night-flying over a light-bewitched city."

The flashes of fireflies — actually beetles of the families Lampyridae and Elateridae — are simply courtship signals, a means of finding a mate in the darkness.

Larvae of fireflies, it is believed, remain in forest duff up to two years. Adults live only a few days, or at the most a few weeks, their sole function being to propagate. The adults of most species may eat no food at all.

The female does little flying; in some species, none at all. She selects a vantage on a leaf of grass or twig, then merely sits and waits.

If a flying male flashes nearby, she responds with her own light. The male may repeat the signal several times, the female reacting each time with her own. Thus he establishes range, closes in, finds her perch, and begins the courtship.

Fireflies seem to avoid both natural and artificial light. "Perhaps it jams their signals," Dr. Zahl speculates.

FLASHES COLD LIGHT

The strange cold light is produced not only by fireflies but by many bacteria, protozoa, fungi, coelenterates, crustacea, and fish.

The phenomenon is the subject of research in at least half a dozen major laboratories. If man learns to duplicate the process, it may lead to invention of a bulb or wall panel that emits light without wasting precious energy as heat.

The study of fireflies has supplied much of science's understanding of bioluminescence, or biologically produced light. A firefly's fuel is a substance called luciferin. It reacts with enzymes and chemicals to produce light.

Religious Groups to Pay for Tractors

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — British and German religious organizations have volunteered to contribute nearly $400,000 to the Agricultural Aids Foundation of Los Angeles to pay for small tractors and farm equipment for struggling young nations.

"Bread for the World," a Protestant organization in Germany, has allocated $60,000 for the work. The British Council of Churches' Inter-Church Aids and Service to Refugees, promised $336,000 to pay for 100 tractors. The Agricultural Aids organization is a non-profit agency founded eight years ago by the Southern California-Arizona Conference of the Methodist Church.

The trouble with the end of the month is that the bills make it seem like the end of the world. . . . If you still have your appendix and tonsils when you're 40, chances are you're a doctor. . . . Sen. Keating (of N. Y.) says he got an invitation to speak, and the writer added: "We'd all like to hear the dope from Washington." —Earl Wilson.

Junior Transferees Have Good Credit

ANN ARBOR (UPI) — The literature science and arts college of the University of Michigan has decided to give preference in accepting transfer students to those of junior rank.

The college, which studied the transfer situation for two years, determined that students who have completed two years of college provide broader evidence of sustained competence, can make the transition into their major field, would be unlikely to be making just another stop en route to another college unit.

Also, enrollment pressures are less severe at the junior-senior level than in freshman-sophomore classes, the college said.

Do-It-Yourself Geiger Counter Now on Market

NEW YORK (UPI)—Something new in do-it-yourself gadgetry: a plug-in Geiger counter for the home.

It keeps a round-the-clock guard against a sudden increase in radiation levels and, if this should occur, warns the householder with an audible signal.

For $30 or a little less, the radio hobbyist can build a transistor circuit which gives a loud click every time a radioactive particle strikes it.

A sudden increase in the radiation count is the signal to turn on your regular radio and check the news, according to Popular Electronics, which blueprinted such a counter in its July issue.

Delivered Papers While Law Student

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—Harold G. Johnson, 28-year-old Washington University School of Law graduate, supported his wife and four children for the past six years by working a St. Louis Globe-Democrat delivery route.

Johnson had been a Washington University student since 1955. Since 1956, Johnson got up at 3:30 a.m. to deliver newspapers until 7 a.m. Then he'd go to school and later collect subscription fees for the newspaper at night.

During the last year in school, Johnson also worked about 20 hours a week as an investigator and researcher for a law firm he has now joined.

Junior Editors Quiz on WHALING

QUESTION: Why did the whalem cry, "Thar she blows"?

ANSWER: High up where the masts of the old time whale-ships scraped the sky, there were hoops fastened for the lookouts. When (1) such a lookout saw the misty spout of a whale far off on the horizon, he shouted, "Thar she blows," meaning, "There's a whale spouting," as loud as he could, so everyone on the ship below could hear.

If the whale poked his whole head out of the water, the lookout cried, "Thar she breaches." Then the whalem lowered the 30-foot "whaleboats" which every whale ship carried and went off to attack the whale with harpoon and lance (2).

After the whale was killed, it was brought alongside the ship, and the heavy outer layer of "blubber" was peeled off (3).

It was taken aboard, chopped into smaller pieces and boiled in the "try-works" to extract the valuable whale oil, used in early days as fuel for lamps. Whalem chased two types of whales.

The sperm whale (4) was the more important, since it had more oil. The right whale (5) had many strips of "whale-bone" inside its mouth.

The animals used the strips to sieve out the small marine animals which were its food.

FOR YOU TO DO: Continue finding out about whales by getting the answer to this question: "What is the world's largest living animal?" Note: it will be neither of the whales shown in our picture.

Mail your question on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of The Pontiac Press.

Most Americans Prefer to Travel on Vacations

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Only one American in 10 would choose to stay home on vacation, University of Michigan researchers report. And the stay-at-homes seem to regard the travelers as "happy" or "lucky," they added.

An interim report of the 1961-62 National Travel Market Survey by the U. of M. Survey Research Center showed that the majority would prefer to spend their vacations touring the United States or visiting some specific spot in the country.

Most would prefer traveling by private automobile, said program director John B. Lansing and researcher William B. Ladd, although air travel is especially liked by people in upper income brackets.

Travel in most forms has been increasing steadily in popularity, they said.

The mile-long tunnel between Windsor, Ont., and Detroit can accommodate a thousand automobiles an hour.

Diefenbaker Takes Woes to Parliament

OTTAWA (AP)—Prime Minister John Diefenbaker took to the 23rd Parliament of Canada in its opening session today beset with towering economic troubles and facing demands for a motion of no confidence in his minority government.

However, two small opposition parties, holding the balance of power, appeared disposed to give him a temporary political reprieve.

Relations with the United States, an $13 billion American investment in Canada, and questions connected with the European Common Market all figured in the pre-session exchanges of fire.

URGENT MOTION
The call for a motion of no confidence—which would destroy Diefenbaker's regime if passed—came from Lester B. Pearson, leader of the Liberals, the largest opposition party.
He said he would offer the motion in his first speech to determine whether Diefenbaker's Conservatives have the support of the majority in the House of Commons.

The smaller opposition groups, the Social Credit and New Democratic parties, indicated they would not go along with Pearson. The New Democratic party issued a statement describing his demand as "irresponsible." It called for "a thorough explanation by the government of the economic situation and a legislative program to meet it."

'TOO SERIOUS'
Robert Thompson, chief of the Social Credit party, said, "Canada is in no serious a financial and economic crisis to play petty politics at this time." A party caucus backed him up.
Pearson retorted: "If Mr. Thompson wishes to avoid a general election, at the expense of supporting this government (on) policies which they themselves have opposed, that's their responsibility."

Pearson's drive to unseat the government thus appeared doomed by the mathematics of the lineup in Parliament.

Diefenbaker's party holds 116 seats. The three opposition groups have 136, comprised of 109 Liberals, 30 Social Credit, and 18 New Democrats.

To carry a motion of no confidence, a majority of 133 votes is necessary. If the 42 small-party votes go with the government's 116, the motion fails.

SEE BLOC VOTING
Canadian political analysts said tight party discipline is likely to insure bloc voting, without dissension, in all four groups.
The Conservative majority, an overwhelming 208 after the 1958 general election, was cut to 116 in the elections last June 18.

The election appeared to reflect anxiety over the position of the Canadian dollar, unemployment, the outward movement of capital investments, nine consecutive years of deficits in the international balance of payments, and five straight years of deficits in the federal budget.

'DO WE WANT IT?'
"Recent events have exposed many of the latent excesses in the style of living to which Canadians have become accustomed," said a $50 million from international sources.

Foreign exchange reserves, down to about $1.1 billion when the program was initiated, have risen by about $30 million. The Canadian dollar has become stronger.

The probability that Britain will join the common market raised further anxieties in Canada.

Diefenbaker said Canadian exports to Britain last year amounted to $309 million. Some $423 million of these, he said, enjoyed tariff preferences in Britain. Such preferences would be jeopardized if Britain joins the common market.

He attended the Commonwealth prime ministers' conference in London this month, where, he said, he sought to protect "Canada's legitimate interests."

HITS STAND
Pearson accused him of taking "a negative and sterile attitude" at the conference. Pearson said that had the Liberals been in power, he would have brought Canada closer to American trade policy.

"We would have made a formal declaration with the government of the U.S. of our decision to collaborate with the common market and with other free nations for the expansion of trade," he said.

President Kennedy's trade expansion bill, Pearson said, is "one of the most important and progressive trade initiatives ever taken in Washington."

Aid for Korea Was Too Much

Congress Is Critical;
'Little Nation Does Not Have Know-How'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Government auditors said today an overdose of U.S. aid to Korea from 1951 to 1961 boomeranged to stunt the Asian ally's economy and stir up corruption.

The General Accounting Office (GAO) issued the sharply critical, 178-page report as the Kennedy administration faces the most serious congressional attack in years on the foreign aid program.

The report said $1.2-billion worth of U.S. aid undoubtedly aggravated basic problems, weakened the "moral fabric of business practice" and stultified "the growth of the country's economy."

It charged that the main cause for these failures was that the level of aid — over $200 million a year — was "beyond the capacity of the Korean economy to absorb productively or of its government to administer efficiently."

The report said the Korean aid program appeared to have improved this year because it was substantially reduced.

Relate Mind Illness With Fingerprints

CHICAGO (UPI)—Research reported in the Journal of the American Medical Association suggests the possibility of spotting vulnerability to mental abnormalities through fingerprints.

The research, at Ypsilanti State Hospital in Michigan, showed the incidence of almost complete circles as well as arched lines appeared higher among schizophrenic patients than in a file of prints from mentally well persons.

The patients showed also tendency, rare in prints of normal persons, toward short, broken lines in the center of whorls.

Sun Might Unkind to Milady's Features

NEW YORK (UPI)—The female who worries about the lines she sees in her face in the bedroom mirror usually forgets about them when she goes to the beach. She doesn't cover up enough—or use tanning lotions.

But Old Sol can be mighty unkind, skin specialists report. Over a period of years, sunburn causes the skin to dry out and lose its elasticity.

The skin doctors report an increase in female patients, in their 20s and 30s, seeking dramatic remedies for the sunburned, weather-beaten and wrinkled skin which makes them look older.

It Pays to Have Right Classmate

TUCSON, Ariz. (UP)—A graduate student at the University of Arizona was assigned to write a term paper on a remote Brazilian jungle area.

He discovered the university library had no research material on the subject. After a frantic search the student borrowed several books from Stanford and the University of Illinois.

The books arrived but were written in Portuguese. Would it be possible to pass the course? The student found a Portuguese-speaking classmate and managed to complete his paper in time.

Issue Warrant for Murder

Pontiac Man to Appear in Court for Hearing in Shotgun Killing

A first degree murder warrant was issued today by the Oakland County Prosecutor's office against a 36-year-old Pontiac man in the shotgun killing of James E. Williams Tuesday evening.

Arrested Mayo, unemployed, was to appear in Municipal Court for a preliminary hearing on the charge.

Prosecutor George Taylor said the warrant was issued because it was believed that the shooting was premeditated.

Mayo is charged with killing Williams, 22, of 206 Reaburn St. on the pavement in front of Mayo's home, 435 Highland St.

Taylor said the argument between Mayo and Williams is believed to have started over a package of matches.

Mayo was apprehended by Pontiac police the following morning after the 7 p.m. shooting.

He did not resist arrest when he was picked up at a house at 430 Midway St. A 12-gauge shotgun was found at his Highland Street address.

Youth Aid Unit Picks Officers

Citizens Committee to Operate Under 1st Set of Bylaws

The Pontiac Citizens Youth Assistance Committee will operate under its first bylaws and will be directed by an executive committee, following a membership meeting yesterday in the Waldron Hotel.

Named president of the group, which assists a city-school-court program to fight juvenile delinquency, was James Scribner of 899 Hazel St., Birmingham.

Scribner is the owner of the Oliver Supply Co., 150 S. Telegraph Road, and president of the Westside Pontiac Kiwanis Club.

Other officers are First Vice President Walter K. Wilman, 566 W. Ivesville, former Pontiac city manager and presently a consultant on municipal affairs, and Second Vice President John W. Fitzgerald, 236 Cranbrook Court, Bloomfield Hills, editor of The Pontiac Press.

Elected corresponding secretary was Mrs. Charles Crawford of 4842 Westlawn, Waterford Township, former president of the Pontiac Federation of Women's Clubs and active in Pontiac General Hospital Auxiliary.

Picked for recording secretary was Mrs. Arnold Hillerman, 177 Chamberlain St., former president of the Pontiac Federation of Women's Clubs and Pontiac Sororists.

Miss Margaret Johnston, 30 Salmer St., coordinator of food services for Pontiac Public Schools, was selected as treasurer.

The bylaws defined the purposes of the group as being "to assist, review and stimulate citizen interest and concern in the problem of juvenile delinquency within the City of Pontiac so as to effect solutions to youth problems through citizen action."

Scribner, in accepting the presidency, said that during the current year and next year "one of our main targets for our committee will be to enlist the cooperation of all service clubs to help alleviate youth employment problems through jobs for the disadvantaged."

Argentina, where a new coalition government has been formed, resembles the young United States in many ways. Its 1,072,000 square miles amble across plains, prairies, and mountains. There are deserts, lakes, lofty glaciers, and primitive forests. The climate and products are much the same.

Soviets Launch New Unmanned Space Craft

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union has launched a new unmanned satellite into orbit around the earth, the Soviet Tass news agency said today.

Tass said the satellite was named, "Cosmos Nine" — the ninth in a series of unmanned Soviet space satellite efforts.

The new satellite "carries scientific instruments to continue the study of outer space," the official Soviet agency said.

Europe Cooling Off to Castro

By PETER KNOX
LONDON (UPI) — Cuba's Fidel Castro has few friends left in Western Europe but there would be little sympathy over here for any move to depose him by force. This comes from clarity in a survey of European capitals by United Press International.

The wave of enthusiasm which greeted Castro from Paris to Oslo when he swept into power in January 1959 is dead.

As Cuba has gone deeper and deeper into the Communist camp trade with Western Europe has fallen away, diplomatic relations have worsened, and press comment has become increasingly hostile to Castro.

On the other hand the survey showed that few responsible people among America's West European allies believe that the United States should attempt to throw over Castro by force.

There is an awareness of the new dangers created by the Russian arms and technical assistance agreement with Cuba, but it is generally thought that force would only complicate matters and strengthen Washington's enemies in Latin America.

Western European nations show a distinct desire not to become embroiled in the Cuban affair.

There is a good deal of opinion that the Monroe Doctrine is archaic, and outdated by America's own global commitments.

Still, the Europeans generally don't quarrel with it because of their own desire to stay clear of Western Hemisphere entanglements.

NO ARMS TO CUBA

All West European governments insist they are not supplying any arms to Cuba, and have no intention of starting to do so.

Shipping poses a tricky problem. It is understood that there have been indirect feelers put forward by the Americans about the possibility of a blockade by North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) allies on Cuba.

On this subject the indications are that the sea-faring European nations are against accepting any restrictions on trade with Cuba.

Norwegian officials, for instance, say they have no legal authority to intervene with merchant ships as long as they carry "ordinary cargoes."

A country by country rundown of the European attitude as surveyed by UPI reporters:

BRITAIN — The British press and people welcomed Castro to power in 1959, but his stocks have slumped to zero. Britain retains diplomatic relations but there have been some sharp exchanges between the two governments, especially in the wake of Cuba's takeover of the Shell Company which represented the bulk of British investment in the island.

British trade with Cuba has slumped by two-thirds to under 10-million pounds ($32.2 million) a year since 1959. The British press has consistently taken the view that the United States should handle Cuba cautiously.

When the new crisis flared this month the conservative Daily Telegraph said "to attempt to dislodge it (Cuban communism) by force could only make matters far worse."

Though the government does not comment officially, it seems to feel the same way.

FRANCE — Cuban-French relations are reported as "correct but not particularly cordial." Cuban nationalization of some French-owned businesses has caused strain but no break. French newspapers including the conservative Le Monde hailed Castro at first as "apote of Cuban independence." Now there is less enthusiasm, but there have been no editorials outrightly condemning the regime or calling for action against Cuba.

The French essentially regard themselves as sideline observers. Franco-Cuban trade has slumped sharply in the past year.

France has cut her exports because of increasing difficulties in obtaining payment. Over-all trade fell from over 25-million dollars in 1960 to six million last year.

WEST GERMANY — Germany maintains diplomatic relations with Cuba but in government circles there is a general lack of trust of Havana. The German press has never been enthusiastic about Castro, and there has been considerable sympathy here for the American position.

Some newspapers criticized President Kennedy for not making sure that the first Cuban invasion attempt was a success.

German trade with Cuba has fallen away from 44-million dollars in 1959 to under 15-million dollars last year.

Germany appears sympathetic to the U.S. request on shipping, and there may be a ban on Cuban ships under charter trading between Russia and Cuba.

SWITZERLAND — Diplomatic relations are maintained but are strained because of a dispute over Swiss Nestle Food group property in Cuba.

Swiss newspapers were never very enthusiastic about Castro. But there is no support for U.S. armed intervention. The Neue Zürcher Zeitung, for example, said recently:

"The repulsion of power influences alien to the hemisphere is today the collective task of all American republics and the U.S. cannot enforce it (the Monroe Doctrine) without violating the hallowed principle of nonintervention in the hemisphere."

Cuban trade is now about half of what it was pre-Castro.

ITALY — Italy maintains diplomatic relations with Cuba; there was some strain in 1959-60 over Castro's seizure of goods of some Italian residents, but this has been smoothed over. Press reaction has swung away from enthusiasm for Castro to condemnation of him as a dictator.

Commentators here see little chance that the proletariat which helped Castro will revolt easily against him.

The first invasion attempt on Cuba was believed in Italy generally to have been a blunder. Italian trade with Cuba has dwindled away mainly because of Castro's credit squeeze. From 13-million dollars in 1958 it has slumped to under five-million dollars last year.

Italian officials have expressed willingness to help America in controlling shipping to Cuba but don't like the idea of armed intervention.

SWEDEN — Diplomatic relations with Cuba have remained uninterrupted and there has been no special strain. Press reaction has swung from sympathy for Castro to condemnation of him for introducing communism.

NORWAY — Diplomatic relations are normal with Cuba. First reaction to Castro was very favorable because there was a major political row when it was discovered in 1958 that Norway was sending munitions to the Batista regime; now Castro is condemned editorially as a Communist.

Newspapers condemned the first invasion attempt on Cuba as "shortsighted," and most papers still urge caution on the United States, trade is on a small scale.

DENMARK — Diplomatic relations with Cuba are normal. Castro, first hailed by the Danes as a "Hero of Liberty" has been widely unpopular since the first executions without fair trial. Danish trade with Cuba has decreased sharply under Castro.

SPAIN — Spain has had stormy relations with Cuba, but still keeps a charge d'affaires there. Relations were nearly ruptured when Castro expelled Ambassador Juan Pablo Lojendio in 1960 for interrupting Castro in the middle of an anti-Spanish television trade and arguing with him.

Catholic Spain also is indignant over Cuban expulsion of priests and nuns. Some anti-Franco elements in Spain admire Castro, but generally Spaniards sympathize with American efforts to contain communism in Cuba.

PORTUGAL — Maintains diplomatic relations but they are decidedly cool. Portugal has cut its trade with Cuba and is highly critical of its Communist swing. The Portuguese press blames the present state of affairs on U.S. policy which it condemns as "ineffectual and half hearted."

AUSTRIA — Maintains diplomatic relations but there is little real contact between the two countries. The Austrian press has never supported Castro very actively and now rates him as a bad dictator. However, editorials see no purpose in a U.S. invasion. The independent Die Presse said recently, "It is certain that Latin America would never consent to war against Castro and many allies of the U.S. would never participate in a blockade."

HOLLAND — Has maintained uninterrupted diplomatic relations with Cuba although relations were strained over seizure of Royal Dutch Shell property. Castro is now generally regarded here as a Moscow puppet and there is general sympathy for the U.S. position.

BELGIUM — Diplomatic relations have been maintained and a few minor arguments over debts are being settled amicably. Trade has fallen away because of Cuba's lack of exportable goods and foreign exchange.

Radar Systems Ordered by FAA

Texas Company Gets $10-Million Contract for 66 Locations

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Aviation Agency ordered 66 new airport surveillance radar systems costing $10,045,935 yesterday for installation at military air bases.

The radars, to be built by Texas Instruments, Inc., Dallas, will have improved antennas capable of picking up airplanes that are close to each other and preventing the separate blips distinctly on the air traffic controller's scope.

They also will lack the so-called blind spots of earlier models. The new equipment will include "moving target indicator" circuitry which rejects stationary targets—such as buildings or hills—and displays moving targets only.

They will pick up airplane targets up to 60 miles distant, at altitudes up to 40,000 feet.

The equipment will be installed at 52 air force bases in the United States and 13 overseas. Deliveries will begin next July.

and will continue at the rate of about three a month.

Two units will be installed at the same room without interference. Each Other systems will be operated by the air force at Selfridge AFB earphones and the teacher may and Wurtsmith AFB in Michigan tune in any individual.

A method that allows any number of plane students to play in the same room without interference has been patented. Each hears his own instrument through the air force at Selfridge AFB earphones and the teacher may and Wurtsmith AFB in Michigan tune in any individual.

(4) Fiasco at Canaveral

From the start, America's Vanguard Project was conceived as a peaceful, scientific program. Since no military rocket was to be used, a group in the Navy set about designing a new booster. It was to be the most sophisticated and efficient rocket yet built. Pushed too fast, without adequate tests, the first Vanguard was hurriedly readied for launching at Cape Canaveral. In full view of the nation and the world, the countdown began on Dec. 6, 1957. The rocket roared, began to lift. Suddenly, after two seconds, its fuel exploded. The Vanguard tumbled, its protective nose cone breaking loose; then it toppled over in a mass of flames. America's bid to enter the space race was a humiliating failure.

By Don Oakley and Ralph Lane

Under mounting pressure for a U.S. space success, the government turned to the Army and Werner von Braun of German V-2 fame, who said he could have put up a satellite long ago with the proven Redstone missile. The go-ahead was given.

Mental Problems
High on Illness List

NEW YORK (UPI) — A 10-year study conducted among students at the University of Wisconsin shows emotional problems the third most common academic ailment. The most common: respiratory infections; next, skin diseases.

Dr. Alfred S. Evans and associates, reporting in "The Archives of Environmental Health," a journal for doctors, said the high incidence of emotional problems may be traceable to the greater likelihood of such problems occurring among university students.

Survivors on Raft Sing Glory, Glory Hallelujah

School Battlefield Closes in Kentucky

CORK, Ireland (AP)—The navigator of a ditched American airliner said today survivors sang "Glory, Glory Hallelujah" and recited the Lord's Prayer together as their raft bobbed about in 10-foot waves for five hours awaiting rescue.

Samuel T. Nicholson of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., said everyone "behaved magnificently. They were all game."

Navigator Nicholson told in an interview at Mercy Hospital how the Flying Tiger Superconstellation was ditched in the Atlantic Sunday with a loss of 28 lives among the 76 aboard.

"One engine failed when we were flying at around 21,000 feet," he said, "About five minutes later another engine failed and we began losing height rapidly. The passengers were then told that we would have to ditch."

"I fixed the position of the plane and before we ditched we knew that our radio messages for help were being received."

"My job was to go back to the rear door after we hit the sea and launch a raft."

"After the plane ditched I quickly got out of my seat. Water flowed in and was all over the carpet."

"I pulled open the rear door and a wave 10 feet high knocked me over. I got up again and threw the raft out but unfortunately the rope which was tying it to the aircraft snapped, and it floated away."

"I swam about 20 yards after it. Two soldiers were swimming near me. We reached the raft and I told them to try and look for the level to inflate the raft. I finally found it and inflated the raft."

"We climbed on quickly and started shouting to other people in the water to join us."

"We got three women and 40 men on that raft, and, remember, it was only supposed to hold 25."

"The airplane came down beautifully. There were several seats broken by the impact and that's what caused most of the leg and head injuries."

"The plane sank after about 10 minutes. Some of those swimming to the raft nearly got hit on the head by its tail as it went under the waves."

"We were five hours in the water. The waves were 10 feet high. It was dark, but we could see the stars. Then we heard an aircraft overhead and we knew that we had been spotted."

"We talked a lot back and forth, clinging together. We bailed the raft out and we sang some times 'Glory, Glory, Hallelujah'—and recited the Lord's Prayer in unison."

CAMPTON, Ky. (AP)—A colorful but stormy chapter in public education came to an end this spring when the doors to the battered old one-room Tar Ridge school were closed permanently.

Pupils ranging in age from 4 to 14 attended classes in the school at the same time.

For years, the favorite sport of older pupils was frightening away their teachers. As many as six teachers were employed at the school in one year.

The 100-year-old structure was the target of many a rifle bullet and shotgun blast.

The inside walls and floors show evidence of blood stains resulting from fights among the pupils and perhaps involving a teacher or two.

Mexican Trip Expensive

DETROIT (AP)—Jose and No-nita Rodriguez took a vacation in Mexico last year and it turned out to be a mighty expensive trip.

Jose, 25, a bartender born in Puerto Rico, tells this story: He and his Detroit-born wife, 23, bought a 1959 auto in 1961, paying $1,800.

They went to Mexico City in September of 1961, paying $20 at the border for auto insurance. They put the car in a garage where it was stolen and wrecked.

Rodriguez had the auto taken to a garage, collected $388 in insurance money and paid the garage as work progressed. But progress was slow. Many parts were needed from the United States.

The couple headed back to the United States by bus, paying $105. Rodriguez was detained for a week by the Mexican government because his visa said he had come by auto and he was going home by bus. His hotel tab was $32.

In December the garage asked an additional $260 for a new transmission and $70 for labor. Jose paid. He also kept up his payments to the finance company here.

In January he bought new Michigan license plates and sent them to the garage. In March the original visa expired and he was told his auto was illegally in Mexico.

Last June they drove to Texas to deliver an auto and took a bus to Mexico City. Their auto wasn't ready.

Rodriguez complained to the American embassy and his wife headed back to her job. Rodriguez stayed on, running up a $71 hotel bill. He transferred the auto papers to a friend who promised to drive the auto back this month.

Rodriguez returned late and his boss had replaced him at his job.

Then the friend said he couldn't get away to drive the car to Michigan. The papers were transferred to another man who said he would drive it to the border for $30 and $30 for gasoline.

Friday the Mexican government billed him for $139 for its work in the transfer.

What if the car on which he still owes the finance company $700—finally gets to the border?

"Let her sit there and rust," said Rodriguez.

Divides Brightness and Drabness

Tourists Show Bitterness Over East Berlin Wall

By BERT L. MARSH
BERLIN (UPI) — An American housewife stood in defiance on the sidewalk near "Checkpoint Charlie," glaring across the world's most infamous border. Her words, when she finally spoke, were spat out in bitterness.

"We ought to have knocked that wall down the minute they put it up," said Mrs. Ronald Davis of La Grange, Ill. "It never should have been allowed to stand. And now look where it's got us."

Mrs. Davis was one of 31 persons from six countries who toured East Berlin aboard a sight-seeing bus. Her reaction summed up the feelings expressed by most of those who took the three-hour, 13-mile ($3) tour.

The tour began outside the fashionable, glittering stores on Kurtfuerstendamm, West Berlin's showplace thoroughfare, and journeyed into the Communist sector.

The contrast between the sparkling prosperity of West Berlin and the gray drabness on the other side of the Wall started and depressed many of the visitors.

For this reporter, seeing Berlin for the first time, it seemed that the best-kept, cleanest and probably most expensive piece of real estate in East Berlin wasn't German at all.

It was a massive park area containing a modernistic memorial to the 50,000 Russians who died fighting in this troubled city in World War II.

The memorial could have been symbolic. It stands alone, beautifully-kept, amid unpainted ruins of what once was a proud capital, the eastern part where one million live and work.

East German hausfraus, who once had a flair for fashion regardless of their income, for the most part looked shabby.

RUBBLE ALL AROUND

In West Berlin the local government is proud that 90 per cent of World War II bomb damage has been cleaned up.

In the east, much of the rubble still stands.

An East German tourist office guide made a point of stressing that "plans" were under way to rebuild practically everything, but he declined to say when.

The East Germans apparently hide their pay telephones. We didn't see any.

The guide said he did not have a phone but when someone wanted to reach him they called someone else several blocks away, and that party sent his son running with the message.

in which Adolf Hitler committed suicide.

The bunker is not far inside the border. It looks like any other old, overgrown mound of earth and stones, covered with weeds and uncult grass. When we passed it, no one else was around. Nobody wants to tend it.

Reds Worship Lenin in Their Religion of Communism

By CARL PROFFER

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

I never met a Russian who seemed disturbed because church-going was not part of his life.

Most Russians have a new religion.

This is, of course, communism; not simply communism, but Soviet communism. The strong nationalistic element is an essential ingredient.

Many external parallels can be drawn between Soviet communism and Christianity.

The "Communist Moral Code" is very similar to the morality prescribed by the Bible.

Marx is the God of communism, the creator, but in the Soviet Union more emphasis is placed on the teachings of Lenin — he occupies a place somewhat analogous to that of Christ.

This may seem a strange comparison, but after seeing the dedication of Lenin in the Soviet Union it is not difficult to view it this way.

ENORMOUS EDITIONS

Lenin's words are as important for the Russians as are Christ's for a Christian. Enormous editions of Lenin's works are published; his writings can be bought on any street corner. Movies are made about his life; novels and short stories are written about him; a vast amount of poetry is dedicated to him.

The Lenin Museum in Moscow is a kind of holy shrine of Soviet communism. Pioneers (the Soviet version of the cub scouts and brownies) go there to take their oath of fidelity to "Lenin's Cause."

Theaters, factories, farms, and streets are named after him. Everywhere one looks there are pictures and statues of Lenin.

Very important for Russians is the sentence: "Lenin is with us." Sometimes it is expanded to, "Lenin was with us, Lenin is with us, Lenin will be with us."

In other words he is immortal. In fact, this word is frequently applied to him.

The Lenin Mausoleum is a shrine where incredible lines of people wait to see him.

The parallel with Christ is furthered by such things as the

"Lenin-child button," a lapel pin in the form of a red star with a picture of Lenin as a curly-haired child in the center.

Stories are often told on the radio of his special love for children (just like Christ). Young people are constantly urged to look to Lenin's writings for moral support whenever they have a personal problem.

On his birthday the radio broadcasts a kind of Nativity play. Young children are told the story of Lenin's birth in verse. Radio announcers and speakers talk of Lenin in a hushed tone of mixed piety, awe, and joy. Their devotion to him is unbelievable. This same devotion could never be paid to Marx. He was not a Russian.

The ecumenical council of the Communist religion is the Party Congress. In matters of dogma the decisions of the Congress are considered infallible and irrevocable.

Signs and posters all over read, "Long live the Historic Decisions of the 22nd Congress," "Glory to the 22nd Congress." Over and over the words are seen: "Whatever the Party promised it always fulfilled in reality."

There are radio programs and newspaper articles about the Congress decisions; special lectures are read on the same subject.

In order to keep communism in religious fervor burning there are many smaller congresses and party meetings.

The Komsomol Congress is one of these. The young people tell what they are doing to help turn the 22nd Congress decisions into reality.

There are all kinds of "triumphal gatherings" with endless speeches.

These "triumphal gatherings" could be looked upon as the Sunday service of communism. They manage to find an occasion for these at least once a week.

Sometimes they celebrate an important date in Soviet history, or (such ironic things as the anniversary of the signing of a pact of friendship with Hungary).

At these the music played is very solemn; they sing in chorus in the tone of an inspirational hymn, usually, a happy march-type hymn.

MARTYRS IN AMERICA

Communism, like Christianity, has its saints and martyrs. American Communists are looked upon as suffering martyrs. Currently, however, the most important martyrs are the Cubans — portrayed as heroic fighters against "imperialistic, monopoly capitalism."

Like every religion, communism must offer some reward to the faithful. The reward it extends is both material and spiritual.

The material reward is what the Communist dogmatists call the "superabundance" of all goods in the future.

The Communist replacement for heaven is the future. Communism, they say, is the happy future of all humanity; only with communism can all mankind be free and happy.

Of course, the Communists cannot offer freedom and abundance now, therefore they are constrained to refer constantly to the future.

And the people are told constantly, "Whatever the Party promises is fulfilled in reality."

Allies Protest Air Incidents

Near-Collisions Get West Up in Arms, Note Sent to Moscow

BERLIN (UPI) — The Western Allies will protest directly to Moscow if incidents like yesterday's serious near-collision in the Berlin air corridor continue, informed sources said today.

Previous protests over Soviet harassment of West Berlin flights have been lodged with the Russians at Berlin's four-power air safety center. But such protests are routine, and are rarely answered.

Soviet buzzing of three Western planes in the past two days has stiffened American, British and French determination to send a note directly to Moscow, the sources said.

Yesterday's incident was the most serious of the three. A Russian fighter roared head-on at a Pan American Airways DCB clipper carrying 84 passengers to Berlin.

The fighter veered to the left when only 150 yards away, narrowly missing the airliner, an American spokesman said.

On Tuesday, two Soviet fighters buzzed a U.S. Air Force C-119 transport and an Air France airliner in the 20-mile-wide air corridor between Berlin and Frankfurt, one of three air lanes linking Berlin to the West.

All three incidents have been protested to the Air Safety Center. The incidents increased fears that the Russians had started a serious harassment campaign to restrict Western access to Berlin and put new pressure on the Allied position here.

Nuclear Objectors Heading for Russia

GRAVESEND, England (AP) — A party of 12 objectors against nuclear weapons set off in the 48-foot ketch Everyman III today on a projected journey to Leningrad, in the Soviet Union.

At her masthead the Everyman III flew the banner of Britain's Committee for Nuclear Disarmament. The group included two Americans.

AMERICAN CAPTAIN

The vessel was skippered by 52-year-old Earle J. Reynolds, an American who is professor of anthropology at the Women's College of Hiroshima in Japan. He tried in 1961 to reach a Siberian port from Japan, but Soviet ships blocked his entry.

His compatriot in the crew is Neil Gaworth, 31, a secretary of the Committee for Nonviolent Action, sponsor of the trip.

LANDING UNCERTAIN

"We are not certain whether we will be permitted to land at Leningrad," said Gaworth. "We want to hold meetings there and distribute leaflets in support of our campaign for nuclear disarmament."

"We intend to get on shore in Russia one way or another, however, and after Leningrad we are hoping to go to Moscow." They expect to reach Leningrad in November by way of Ostend, Amsterdam, Hamburg, Copenhagen and Stockholm.

Pentagon Gets Routine Visit From Kennedy

WASHINGTON — President Kennedy visited the Pentagon today for what the White House described as a "routine command post exercise."

Press Secretary Pierre Salinger said Kennedy's visit to the defense headquarters "does not involve the movement of any forces."

Kennedy went to the Pentagon about 9:40 a.m. EDT.

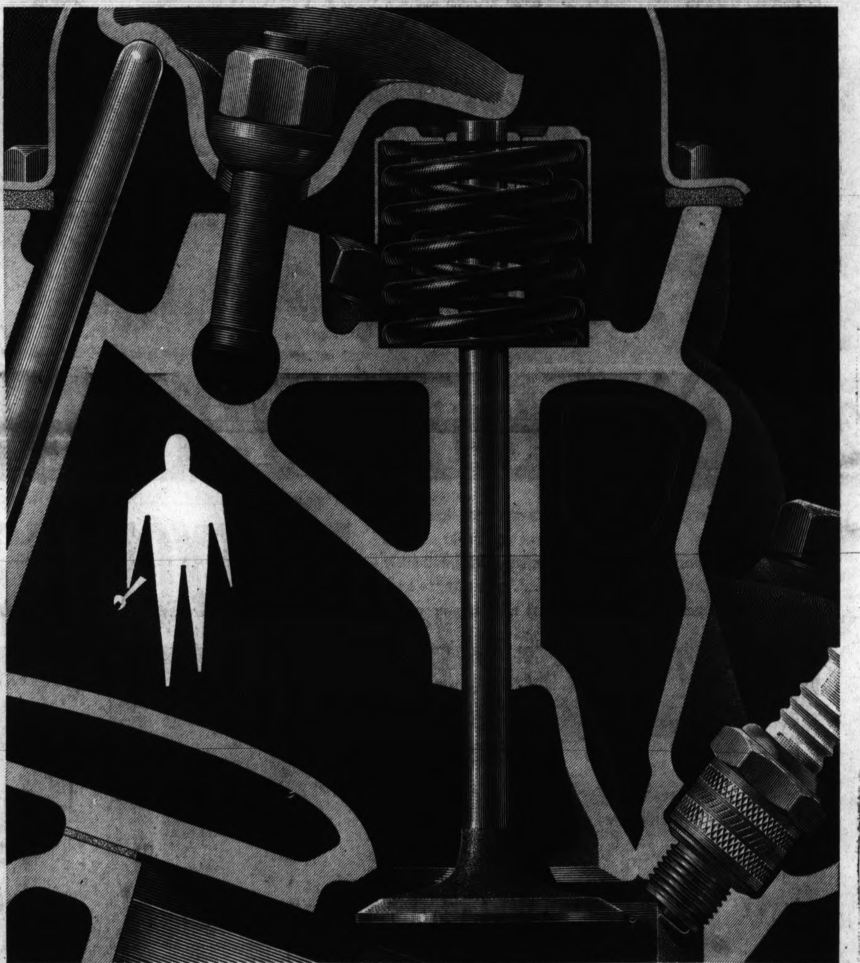

He then went to the war room of the Joint Chiefs of Staff where, Salinger said, he participated in routine exercises on international communications.

Salinger said this constitutes a test of the ability of the Defense Department to conduct operations under emergency conditions.

AP Editors Told Algeria Will Not Turn Red

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP)—Algeria will not get a great foothold in North Africa, largely because of the wave of Arab nationalism in North Africa, Richard K. O'Malley told the Associated Press Managing Editors Association.

"I don't think the Communists will ever get a great foothold in North Africa," O'Malley, chief of The Associated Press bureau in Paris, said Wednesday. "The Reds have done badly there, and elsewhere in the Arab world. And they also have not fared well in Iran."

O'Malley, who directs the AP coverage in North Africa, said he feels the United States was "very astute to recognize an independent Algeria, but not to recognize a government there."

"Which way Algeria will go remains to be seen," he said.

O'Malley said "total blood-chilling anarchy" prevailed in the metropolitan areas of Algeria for a good portion of the time.

He said violence continues to day in Algeria, caused by "uncontrolled elements," or small bands of Moslems who lived in the hills.

He said Ahmed Ben Bella is a good politician, but he is not a good politician as the army under Col. Houari Boumedienne backs him.

O'Malley described Boumedienne as "a man to be careful of. He is an admirer of Mao Tse-tung. He is a Communist. He doesn't like Caucasians."

He said the political future may determine which way Algeria will go, and he has a great deal of influence.

North Africans, he said, have a concept called "Maghreb," of merging Tunisia, Algeria and Morocco.

"I don't know if they will ever join, but if they do it could be a force for good or evil for us. These new nations will have a lot to say in the East-West struggle."

The editors Wednesday also heard a panel discussion of "Research and New Trends" in journalism. Appearing on the panel were Arville Schablen of the Milwaukee Journal, Sidney Goldish of the Minneapolis Star and Tribune, James Bellows of the New York Herald Tribune and Penn Kimball of Columbia University.

Schablen urged establishment of a research information center for collecting and processing research data and said newspapers may benefit directly from such a center.

"What determines how effective you are," Schablen said, "is how long the reader spends with your paper. He is going to spend more time with you only if you present needed news compellingly."

Today, the editors spent the morning attending a science and medical seminar at the University of Minnesota.

TWO PHASES

The science program was divided into two phases, one dealing with medical research into heart surgery and kidney transplants and the other gamma ray astronomy.

Dr. Richard A. Dewart, newly appointed head of the University of Chicago Medical School's surgery department and co-developer of the bubble oxygenator for open heart surgery, narrated a film on open heart surgery.

Dr. Robert A. Good, professor of pediatrics, and Dr. James C. Pierce, specialist in surgery, both of the University of Minnesota, described research work on the transplantation of kidneys, the phase included a film showing a kidney transplant on a dog.

GAMMA RAYS EXPLAINED

Dr. Cyrus P. Bamum Jr., professor of physiological chemistry, completed the medical research discussion by outlining the problems of nuclear acid and its relation to successful transplanting and open heart surgery.

Dr. John R. Winckler, professor of physics and one of the world's outstanding space physicists, explained the means by which gamma rays are used in the field of astronomy.

He showed a film of the launching of the satellite Explorer 515 which is used to measure the intensity of gamma rays. The 515 is now orbiting the earth doing such research.

Algerian Plans His Government

Ben Bella Expects to Organize Within Next Two Days

ALGIERS (UPI)—Ahmed Ben Bella, independent Algeria's first premier, planned his new government today and prepared to shepherd it into the United Nations tomorrow.

"I will immediately undertake the task you have conferred upon me, the formation of a government," he told the first Algerian National Assembly last night.

He announced he will go to New York, where for the first time in history the 11 nations of the U.N. Security Council agreed to sponsor a country's membership unanimously.

The National Assembly had just voted Ben Bella into office by an overwhelming margin.

Ben Bella, who had been in a French jail, announced he expected to have his new government ready within 48 hours.

TOUCH TASKS AHEAD

The 45-year-old onetime rebel, who spent most of the Algerian war in a French jail, announced he expected to have his new government ready within 48 hours.

He faced some monumental tasks. Among these were picking up the pieces of a shattered economy, coping with a disgruntled political opposition and pleasing a dangerously self-sufficient army.

Ben Bella started with a conciliatory gesture toward the opposition. After calling the results of the voting "a great honor," he said:

"I repeat the pledges we made on Nov. 1, 1954, and I can tell my brothers in the opposition that I shall be guided by that spirit of union and collaboration which must be our charter."

Ben Bella was referring to the beginnings of the Algerian revolution eight years ago.

Gather Up Dead in Spain Floods

BARCELONA, Spain (AP)—The up river beds dry from a long drought, then swept far beyond the banks. They crumpled miles and bore off cottages. Many persons died in their sleep as the floods leveled their homes. Others perished at work as factories collapsed.

Unofficial estimates placed the dead at between 350 and 400 from Wednesday's rain-triggered torrents. Officials said more than 333 bodies had been recovered and hundreds of persons were still missing. The injured totaled at least 1,000 and more than 1,500 were without homes.

The raging waters destroyed at least 55 factories and partly wrecked 50 others, leaving damage estimated at upwards of $8 million.

About 10,000 were left jobless by the floods, which laid waste a thickly populated industrial complex covering 130 square miles north and west of Barcelona, chief port of Spain.

SHANNON, Ireland (AP)—Four more survivors from a ditched American airplane—one a cheerleader, one a cheerleader, one a cheerleader, one a cheerleader—were brought ashore by helicopter today.

The four, together with the bodies of 12 persons who died in the Atlantic disaster 500 miles west of Ireland on Sunday, came from the Canadian carrier carrier Bonaventure.

Two helicopters flew in relays from the Bonaventure as she lay 36 miles from Shannon airport in the mouth of the Shannon River.

BROUGHT ASHORE

Those brought ashore were: Maj. Carl R. Elander of West Point, N.Y., and Seattle, Wash.; his honey-blond wife, Lois; and two Army privates, George V. Brown of Oshkosh, Wis., and Arthur L. Gilbreth of Big Bear Lake, Calif.

Mrs. Elander, 31, had a broken arm and dislocated shoulder in addition to her spinal injury but she smiled gamely as she told interviewers how she survived the ditching.

"An unknown man reached out his arm and pulled me into a life raft just as I felt I was going under," she said.

"There were 62 people crowded into a raft built for 25, most of them big heavy men. We were stacked three deep with me in the front and I couldn't move my legs or arms."

'KEPT CALLING'

"I kept calling out 'Dick,' and then I heard him answer—just in time. The raft was filling with water, with my face pressed in it. Suddenly Dick reached out, got hold of my head and supported it above the water. Except for that, I would undoubtedly have died."

He said he and his wife were bound for a holiday to Spain, Italy and Greece with two lifelong friends and next-door neighbors, Capt. John P. Devlin and his wife, Naomi, of Philadelphia.

"We never saw them again after the plane hit," Elander said. Gilbreth and Brown were both stretcher cases and were believed to be suffering from leg and internal injuries.

Mrs. Elander wore a gray bolero jacket made by a tailor in the crew of the Bonaventure and shoes borrowed from the carrier's skipper, Comdr. Frederick Freer.

38 DIED

"I must be the first woman they had ever accommodated on their ship," she said, "but the 1,200 men in the crew could not have been sick."

The 9,041-ton Swiss freighter Celerina proceeded toward Antwerp with 27 others aboard.

A total of 28 of the 76 aboard the Flying Tiger airliner, mostly service men and families bound for Germany, are known to be dead or missing and presumed dead.

The Celerina put 17 other survivors ashore Wednesday and they received medical treatment at Cork and Oxford, England. They were taken to Cork in a helicopter lift from the decks of the Celerina off the Irish coast. Some suffered from severe chemical burns caused by gasoline-fueled waters after the plane ditched.

Car-Crash Victim in Fair Condition

Kathy Hale, 35, of 305 Hospital Road, Waterford Township, is in fair condition today in Pontiac General Hospital where she was admitted last night following a head-on collision in Waterford Township.

Mrs. Hale was a passenger in a car driven by Beulah Phelps, 38, of 221 Hospital Road, Waterford Township which collided with a car driven by Donald B. Kuntz, of Warren, on Elizabeth Lake Road, near Hospital Road. The accident occurred when Kuntz, heading east, attempted to pass a car.

300 Caught, 75 Shot in Fidel Death Plot

HAVANA (AP)—About 300 persons have been rounded up and 75 shot in a purported plot to assassinate Prime Minister Fidel Castro and clear the way for an invasion, informed sources said today.

The informants said two counter-revolutionary groups were accused of plotting disorders in late August as a prelude to invasion and the overthrow of Castro's regime. Castro and other government figures were said to have been marked for death.

The two groups were identified as the anti-Communist Liberation Front known as the PAL and the Movement for the Recovery of the Cuban Revolution called the MRRC. The regime accused both of working with the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency.

Ambassador Kohler Introduced at Kremlin

Moscow (AP)—Foy D. Kohler presented his credentials to the Kremlin today as the new U.S. ambassador to the Soviet Union. In a brief speech he called it essential that the two governments work together to solve world problems.

N. N. Orgonov, deputy president of the Supreme Soviet, received the credentials in the presence of President Leonid Brezhnev, who is on a state visit to Yugoslavia.

NEW STYLING FOR '68'—This is the 1963 Oldsmobile "Super 88" Holiday sedan, one of 26 Olds models to go on display Oct. 4. It features exterior styling and roofline changes and more luxurious interiors common to most 1963 models.

structure design is also featured with new rooflines designed for the Dynamic and Super 88 Holiday sedans and the Starfire. New Oldsmobile models will be displayed in the Pontiac area at Jerome Motor Sales Co., 280 S. Saginaw St.; Houghten & Son, 523 N. Main St.; Rochester; and Haskins Chevrolet Olds, Dixie Highway at M15, Independence Township. Wolfram described the 98 models for 1963 as the most luxurious cars Oldsmobile has ever offered. "The flagship of the Oldsmobile fleet," he said, "is the new 98 luxury sedan. It is of six-wheeled design with a custom interior trim including built-in door arm rests containing controls for the electric windows (standard equipment)."

"Another new model is the 98 Custom sports coupe, combining the distinction of 98 exterior appearance with the excitement of bucket seats, power console and the outstanding maneuverability of the famous Starfire engine," he added.

All 1963 full-size Oldsmobiles are powered by 394-cubic-inch displacements Oldsmobile has ever offered, most efficiency on premium grade fuels.

New Hardtop Announced by Rambler

American Motors today unveiled a brand new hardtop model in its 1963 line of Rambler Americans.

The hardtop is an addition to the long-established stable of two- and four-door sedans and station wagons and a convertible.

The 1963 models will be displayed in dealer showrooms on Oct. 5.

Dealers in this area include Houghten and Son, 523 N. Main St., Rochester; Russ Johnson Motor Sales, 89 M24, Lake Orion; and Rose Rambler, 6145 Commerce Road, Union Lake.

Named the 440H to conform with new model labeling, the hardtop has a freshly designed roof panel with wide rear pillars and a large slanted rear window. Roof creases simulate a convertible's contours.

Standard on the 440H model is a 138-horsepower, six-cylinder engine, which is optional for the two models.

The new model designations are 220 (formerly the Deluxe), 330 (formerly the Custom) and 440 (formerly the Coupe).

The 440H engine offers a new power option in form of a twin-thrust carburetor, coupled with higher numerical rear axle ratios for greater engine responsiveness.

Standard engines for the 220 and 330 models are rated at 200 and 125 horsepower.

All 1963 American models have a newly designed grille, highlighted by narrow vertical bars. There are no major changes in over-all design.

Mechanical changes include a new "twin-stick" floor-shift over-drive transmission option, improved double-safety brake system as standard equipment.

Thomas A. Coupe, vice president of automotive sales, described the Rambler American as "the trimmest and most economical of all U.S.-built cars."

Corn Relish
Is Delicious, Easy to Make

Pamper your relish tray with this easy-to-make Golden Corn Relish. It's a tempting treat in which sweet pickle relish and pimiento coat. The tangy sweet-sour flavor will add zip to any meal.

To prepare it, simply open a can of your favorite vacuum-packed yellow whole kernel corn. Do a wee bit of mixing then let your refrigerator take over to chill and blend the flavors.

Nestle it in relish dishes along with crisp celery sticks and hard-cooked egg slices or your own favorite assortment of go-alongs. You'll have a relish tray hand-some enough to frame — and all the credit will be yours to claim.

Golden Corn Relish
One 12-oz. can vacuum-packed yellow whole kernel corn, undrained
1/2 cup sweet pickle relish
1 tablespoon diced pimiento
4 teaspoons vinegar
1 tablespoon sugar
1 teaspoon salt

Mix corn, corn, with pickle relish and pimiento. Combine remaining ingredients thoroughly; pour over corn-relish mixture. Chill several hours, or refrigerate occasionally. Serve on relish tray or as an appetizer. Yield: 1 1/2 cups relish.

Autumn Grapes Are Good in Salad

Juicy Flame Tokay grapes and nuts provide crispness in this fruit mold.

Prepare pineapple-orange gelatin as package directs and chill until partially set. Fold in pecans, halved and seeded Tokays and drained canned pineapple chunks. Chill until firm.

For salad, combine blue cheese, dairy sour cream and mayonnaise as dressing. Or serve the mold as dessert with a topping of blended whipped cream and honey.

Nice in Cream Sauce
Dice a canned pimiento and a hard-cooked egg and add it to a cream sauce to be served with fish. This sauce tastes good with a salmon loaf, tuna timbales, steamed or broiled filets.

Canadian Bacon Has Place in All Meals

Canadian-style bacon is cut from the smoked boneless loin of pork and is almost entirely lean meat. It may be roasted or baked in one piece or sliced and broiled, pan-broiled or pan-fried.

Popular on the breakfast menu, Canadian-style bacon is also a good choice for the main dish at luncheon or dinner. It is easily prepared and, being boneless, is particularly easy to carve.

Fully cooked, Canadian-style bacon is available in some markets and may be served cold or just heated through for serving hot.

To panbroil Canadian-style bacon, place bacon in frying pan which has been lightly brushed with fat. Do not add water. Do not cover. Cook over low heat, turning occasionally. Cook until lightly browned on both sides.

To roast or bake, place Canadian-style bacon on a rack in an open roasting pan. Roast in a slow oven (300 to 325 degrees F.) allowing approximately 1 1/2 hours for a 2-pound piece and 2 1/2 hours for a 4-pound piece.

BROILING
To broil, place Canadian-style bacon on broiler rack. Insert broiler pan and rack so that the bacon is 2 to 3 inches from the heat. Broil on one side until nicely browned, then turn and broil second side. The total time for broiling Canadian-style bacon is from 8 to 10 minutes for slices 1/2-inch thick and 8 to 10 minutes if they are 1/4-inch thick.

Canadian-style bacon can be served in combination with other foods to enhance their flavor. Corn, asparagus, green or baked bean casseroles are a few that are good partners for Canadian-style bacon.

For luncheon, a casserole combination of Canadian-style bacon and potato salad is a satisfying main dish. Use your favorite hot potato salad recipe. Cut 1/4-inch thick bacon slices in half.

Spoon hot potato salad into can-

Grapes in Sherbet
Sherbets take on added refreshing quality when Flame Tokay grapes, halved and seeded, are stirred into them. Soften the sherbet, then add the grapes and return to freezer. Serve garnished with a tiny bunch of "frozen" Tokays. Wash grapes and drain well on paper towels; when almost dry, dust with sifted powdered sugar.

ORANGE JUICE PUDDING CAKE—The concentrated orange juice used in this pudding-cake filters through the batter during baking to make a delicious sauce for the finished dessert.

Abundant Frozen Juice
Used in Cake Recipe

Word has come from the U.S. Department of Agriculture that concentrated orange juice is on their Fall list of plentiful foods. What nicer way to be of service to agriculture than to consume more of that delightful, health-giving beverage? Let's all plan to drink at least one glass of orange juice a day and down it with a pleasure bonus of righteous satisfaction.

But there are more ways to use orange juice than as a beverage. For example, here is a tricky Orange Juice Pudding-Cake that makes its own orange sauce as it bakes. Cut into the warm pudding cake, spoon the sauce over each helping and add a swirl of whipped cream if you must gild the lily.

Orange Juice Pudding Cake
2 cups sifted cake flour
3/4 teaspoon double-acting baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup plus 2 tablespoons sugar
1/2 cup shortening (at room temperature)
1/2 cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 egg, unbeaten
1 can (6 ounces) quick-frozen concentrated orange juice
1/2 cup sugar
1 tablespoon butter
1/4 cup hot water
1/4 cup chopped nuts

1. Measure sifted flour into sifter; add baking powder, salt, and sugar; plus 2 tablespoons sugar.

2. Stir 1/2 cup shortening just to soften. Sift in dry ingredients. Add milk and vanilla and mix.

Salad Dressing
Bastes Ham
During Baking

Nothing new under the oven? Yes, there is and it's something that will give that solid staple, baked ham, a whole new lease on life.

It's a recipe developed in a famous kitchen test which is called "Ham Romanoff." That's because home economists claim it certainly is fit for a czar!

The secret ingredient is Russian Dressing, right from the bottle. Here's how to make lip-smacking "Ham Romanoff."

Prepare your ham for baking, as usual. Make the glaze in a bowl by blending one-half cup of Russian Dressing, one-half cup of brown sugar, and one-quarter teaspoon of dry mustard. Brush the ham liberally with the glaze and place in the oven. Baste the ham from time to time as it bakes. The results? A beautiful ham—and a wonderful test.

Incidentally, this Russian Dressing idea is good for other meats, too. Just try it on spare ribs.

Hot Dogs Steal Recipe Limelight

By JANET ODELL
Pulsator Press Food Editor

Now that we're back from the Food Editors Conference and settled (?) down to the usual work, we have time to look over some of the material we got in New York.

We know we promised you some recipes. We hesitate to trust a list of ingredients to the tender mercies of Western Union. So today we'll offer you a couple of interesting ideas and will follow with others in the coming weeks.

Concy Island Hot Dogs have been around for a long time. Now you can prepare a new and different version of this dish and use it either as a supper dish or a novel cocktail hour d'oeuvre with tiny canned cocktail franks.

The sauce contains ground beef, tomato and canned whole kernel corn. We tested this concoction and liked it. Must try it on our family.

CHILI CORN CANNED SAUCE
1 lb. lean ground beef
1-1/2 cups finely-chopped onion
1 clove garlic, finely chopped
1 tablespoon melted shortening
1-1/2 teaspoons salt
4 to 5 teaspoons chili powder
1/2 teaspoon oregano
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1/2 teaspoon hot spicy sauce
One 8-oz. can tomato sauce

One 6-oz. can tomato paste
One 12-oz. can vacuum-pack yellow whole kernel corn, drained

Brown ground beef, onion, and garlic in melted shortening in heavy frying pan. Stir in seasonings, tomato sauce and tomato paste. Cover and cook over low heat 15 to 20 minutes, stirring occasionally. Add drained canned corn; beat thoroughly. Serve hot spooned over wieners in buns. Yield: 1 quart sauce or enough for 6 to 8 wieners.

Note: To serve as chili, add one 16-oz. can tomatoes along with the tomato sauce. Increase cooking time 5 to 10 minutes.

There were only a few women from Michigan in the Pillsbury Bake-Off, none from the Pontiac area. We talked with Mrs. Russell E. Brault of Manistique who was preparing Fancy Franks.

This is another hot dog recipe, but very different from the one above. Mrs. Brault's recipe bakes the frankfurters in a quick biscuit dough. They are first stuffed with cottage cheese.

Fancy Franks
8 strips bacon
5 wieners
4 teaspoons mustard, catsup or pickle relish cottage cheese
1-1/2 cups sifted all purpose flour
1 tablespoon sugar

3 teaspoons double-acting baking powder
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup milk
1 unbeaten egg

Fry bacon until crisp; drain. Reserve 3 tablespoons drippings. Sift wieners lengthwise, do not cut through. Spread 1/2 teaspoon mustard, catsup or pickle relish inside each wiener. Top with a tablespoonful cottage cheese; set aside.

Sift flour with sugar, baking powder and salt into mixing bowl. Add milk, egg and reserved drippings. Beat 2 minutes. (With electric mixer blend at lowest speed, then beat at medium speed. Or beat 30 strokes with a spoon.) Spread batter into greased 13x9x2-inch pan. Place stuffed wieners on batter, four along each end. If desired, spread catsup over cottage cheese. Crumple a strip of bacon over each wiener.

Bake at 375 degrees for 30 to 35 minutes. Serves 6-8.

Instant tea has become an important ingredient in a number of new recipes. One such is a baking sauce for broiled chickens.

1 cup strong tea, use heaping
1/2 cup instant tea
1/4 cup soy sauce
1-3 cup honey

Mix and stir above ingredients together until well blended. Spoon over chicken every few minutes while broiling.

Another interesting use is in ice cream. You'll find it makes a delicate, frosty tasting dessert, creamy with toasted almonds.

Instant Tea Ice Cream
With Toasted Almonds
1/4 cup instant tea
1/4 teaspoon allspice
1 cup water
1 cup evaporated milk, scalded
3 eggs, separated
1-1/2 cups sugar
1/4 teaspoon salt

1 teaspoon lemon juice
2 teaspoons grated lemon rind
1 cup heavy cream
1 cup toasted almonds, chopped
Combine tea, allspice, water and scalded milk. Beat egg yolks, 1 cup sugar and salt. Add tea mixture and cook over boiling water until thickened, stirring constantly. Cool. Add lemon juice and rind. Beat egg whites until stiff and beat in remaining sugar.

Whip cream until thick enough to hold a soft peak; fold egg whites, whipped cream and toasted almonds into cooled mixture. Pour into two freezing trays. Freeze until firm.

FANCY FRANKS — A Manistique woman won a trip to New York and a chance to compete in the Pillsbury Bake-Off last week with her main dish recipe for Fancy Franks. She stuffs wieners with cottage cheese that has been flavored with mustard and bacon. These are baked in a quick bread batter. Her teenagers love it.

Our Michigan Beans Get French Cooking

The French have long had a dish with cut-up lobster tails, sautéed oysters or clams.

Navy beans make a delicious side dish vegetable when prepared as follows: Sauté boiled beans in butter and season with nutmeg. When beans are very slightly browned, add enough heavy cream (or sour cream) to coat all beans. Sprinkle with crisp pieces of fried celery and serve at once.

Saute boiled beans in freshly melted marrow, or butter, for a few minutes. Sprinkle liberally with pepper and mix with whole, seedless white grapes that have been blanched in salted water.

French cooks claim that adding a carrot and a pinch of nutmeg or ginger (too salt) to the water in which navy beans are boiled not only adds flavor but improves their digestibility.

Luscious Parfait
Quick parfait from the pantry-shelf and freezer: mix drained crushed pineapple with undiluted frozen orange-juice concentrate and layer between scoops of vanilla ice cream in tall glasses. Garnish with sprigs of mint and fresh cherries with stems on.

In Russia, an American baker introduced the hot dog bun as a "goriache sobaki."

Pair Sundaes and Cookies

The ice cream sundae has long been a popular way of serving ice cream and fruit. During the summer months when fresh fruits are in such abundance, is a wonderful time to take advantage of their combination with ice cream. A col-

No recipe is really necessary for this creation, just a generous supply of ice cream in the freezer. Just pile slightly sweetened fresh sliced peaches on vanilla ice cream and sprinkle with plump, ripe blueberries. Since peaches and blueberries are available from this Peach and Blueberry Sundae can be enjoyed the year round.

For the perfect accompaniment try buttery good Caramel Pecan Squares. These tasty little bar cookies have a caramel flavor that is just right with Peach and Blueberry Sundae.

SUMMERY DESSERT — Fresh sliced peaches and plump juicy blueberries on vanilla ice cream make a wonderful fresh fruit sundae. Little caramel bar cookies taste just right with this dessert.

Fat Individuals Don't Really See Selves

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK—A new study of overweight indicates the fatty often is playing the role of the thin man. Or, thin woman.

Which means, as this study sees it, that many of the estimated 50 million Americans carrying an average excess of 10 pounds or more each, are kidding themselves. This excess adds up to 250,000 tons of "just plain fat," the study said. "Do the plump really want to be this — despite the overt remarks of their concern about their weight?"

Researchers headed by John H. Turtel, Ph.D., director of marketing and research for an advertising agency set out to find the answer. "One conclusion: 'Our data tells us that fat people do not really see themselves as fat,'" said the Turtel report.

The agency is the Edward H. Weiss and Co., which the report said "has been studying problems of overweight for some time" because of their relation to consumer purchase of food.

"One purpose of our research was to determine whether there are important psychological differences between overweight and average weight people (that) would give us clues to any hidden resistance to dieting," the report said.

Researchers conducted several studies among overweight and normal weight women, using "motivation research" methods.

METHODS

These included depth interviews by psychologists, the "cartoon projective" method in which the viewer tells a story about the cartoon—a method often used in personality testing, the "draw a person" test which is supposed to reflect in the result a self-image of the individual, and the "concept formation" technique in which lists of well-known personalities are submitted and the person interviewed is to tell what makes the people in the group alike.

In the "concept formation" test, list "A" was a list of faties, all internationally prominent; list "B" was an equally prominent list of average weight. Each person interviewed was told on how long it took for an answer.

"Compared with normal weight persons, the overweight person finds it much more difficult to recognize that one list is composed of 'fat people' and the other of 'average weight people,'" the study found.

The researchers concluded also that: "The overweight person presents the fascinating picture of some one who says one thing but unconsciously believes another. Overweight persons readily state they want to lose weight . . . yet these overweight women have never come to terms with themselves as fat people."

"The private picture they hold is of a relatively average weight woman . . . they tend to identify with thinner women. In fantasy, they play the role of a thinner woman."

"Our overweight subjects gave no indication of seriously considering a change in eating habits . . . In short, fat people find it hard to lose weight because they cannot readily see that they are FAT."

End Is Smooth

When cantaloupes are picked at the stage of full maturity known as "full-slip," the stem separates easily and cleanly from the melon, leaving a shallow saucer-like depression.

Q. What is the name of this cut of meat?
A. Veal Rib Chop.

Q. Where does it come from and how is it identified?
A. It comes from the rib section of veal (young beef) and contains rib-bone and rib-eye muscle. This cut is similar to beef rib steak.

Q. How is it prepared?
A. By broiling. First brown the chops in a small amount of fat. Then pour off the drippings and add a small amount of liquid. Cover tightly and cook slowly 45 minutes to 1 hour or until tender.

Q. Add Some Color
Pimiento-stuffed olives make a fine addition to green cabbage salad. Slice the olives and garnish the top of the slaw with them, then mix together at the table.

You can add as much as one cup finely grated cheese to one cup thin or medium white sauce.

Soybean Oil Production Could Meet Demands

When "and if science proves, Americans can reduce heart disease by switching to polyunsaturated fats only soybean oil could satisfy housewives' demand."

That's the appraisal of Dr. A. R. Baldwin, research director of Car-gill, Inc., who spoke recently to the Soybean Council of America on current consumer interest in the relationship between fat intake and heart disease.

"The polyunsaturated b a n d wagon is rolling," he said, "despite the fact that scientists and nutritionists generally agree the relationship has not been proved."

Many persons both in and out of medicine believe eating saturated fats increases blood cholesterol and that polyunsaturated fatty acids tend to reduce it, he noted. The same group holds that cholesterol, in turn, contributes to heart disease.

Soybean oil contains approximately 62 per cent polyunsaturated fatty acids whereas corn oil has 64 per cent, cottonseed oil 50 per cent, peanut oil 30 and olive oil 1 per cent. Dr. Baldwin said. Only source higher is safflower oil with 75 per cent, he noted.

"And of these six, only soybean oil is now or could be in the near future available in sufficient quantity to satisfy a widespread market demand," he claimed.

Most housewives, however, don't know that soybean oil in several forms provides an excellent source of polyunsaturates, he pointed out.

Virtually all salad oils, salad dressings and mayonnaise contain generous amounts of "unhardened" soybean oil, he said, and there are now on grocery shelves partially hydrogenated (or "hardened") salad and cooking oils also high in polyunsaturated soybean oil.

Spicy Gelatin

Spice a fruit gelatin mold with red cinnamon candies. Add ¼ cup candies to 1½ cups hot water and ¼ cup syrup from canned fruit cocktail. Add a package of lemon gelatin, stirring until dissolved. When partially set, stir in 1 cup drained canned fruit cocktail. Chill until firm and serve as dinner salad or refreshing dessert.

Fresh Corn Comes Year 'Round Now

Fresh vegetables plus stewed tomatoes from the pantryshelf make a dish that is usually popular.

Corn and Tomato Scramble.
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 medium onion (cut into thin strips)
2 cups diced celery
¼ cup diced green pepper
1½ cups corn kernels (cut from 3 large fresh cobs)
1 can (1 pound) stewed tomatoes
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
¼ teaspoon tomato seasoning
In a large skillet melt the butter, add onion, celery and green pepper and cook gently until wilted; stir in corn. Add tomatoes, salt, pepper and tomato seasoning; simmer 10 to 20 minutes. Serve in sauce dishes if you like. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Note: After kernels are cut from corn, use back of knife to extract corn "milk." If tomato seasoning is not on hand you can season with a mixture of savory, all-spice and paprika.

Follow Custom Set by Dolly Madison

James Madison was the first president to give an inaugural Ball in Washington. His wife, Dolly, famous hostess of our early history, said: "The profusion at my table reflects the prosperity of America," and she served accordingly. Thoughtfully, she introduced bouillabaisse at afternoon receptions during cold weather, and was known to interrupt state conferences with punch and her famous seed cake.

French's test kitchens, in Rochester, N.Y., have produced this modern version of Dolly Madison's Seed Cake.

Old Fashion Seed Cake

2 cups sifted cake flour
¼ teaspoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup butter or margarine

1 teaspoon lemon extract
1 cup sugar
4 eggs
3 teaspoons caraway seeds
Sift together flour, baking powder, and salt. Cream butter with lemon extract. Add sugar very gradually, beating constantly. Add eggs, one at a time, beating well after each addition. Add the sifted dry ingredients and caraway seeds and mix until smooth. Pour batter into a greased and floured 9 x 5 x 3-inch loaf pan. Bake cake in a 300 degree oven 75 to 90 minutes, or until tester comes out clean.

If you prefer — prepare a package pound cake mix according to package directions. Add 3 teaspoons caraway seeds and 1 teaspoon lemon extract to the batter and bake as directed on package.

GOP Protests OK of Projects

House Subcommittees Approve $2.2 Billion in Flood Control Plans

WASHINGTON (AP) — More than $2.2 billion in new flood control and navigation projects was approved yesterday by House public works subcommittees amid Republican cries of "pork barreling."

The full committee, blocked by Rep. H. R. Gross, R-Iowa, from meeting while the House is in session, scheduled a meeting for tomorrow morning in an effort to get the bill before the House before Congress adjourns.

Rep. William C. Cramer, R-Fla., raised the "pork barreling" charge and was joined by Rep. John F. Baldwin Jr., R-Calif., who objected specifically to the $40-million Burns Creek Dam project in Idaho.

Baldwin, member of one of two subcommittees which reported on the omnibus bill, said it is "inexcusable" that the Burns Creek power and irrigation projects was approved without opponents having a chance to appear at a public hearing.

Rep. John P. Saylor, R-Pa., said the Corps of Engineers had reported to the Interior Committee earlier in the year that the flood control benefit of the project was "no dollars and no cents."

Opponents said inclusion of the project might jeopardize the whole bill.

It contains $336 million in navigation and beach erosion projects and $1.85 billion in flood control authorization for a grand total of $2.25 billion for 132 projects in 41 states.

U. S. Adoptions Up 114 Pct. Since '44

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Adoptions have jumped 114 per cent in this country each year since 1944-1960, reports the Children's Bureau.

The bureau said there was little interest in child adoption during the early depression years, but at 1960, present, some 100,000 children are adopted in this country each year.

Americans Use Lots of Water

Greatest Glutton of All Is Industry; Irrigation Ranks Second

WASHINGTON — Americans are using more water than ever to keep cool, clean and occupied.

Water consumption by factories, farms and homes has jumped more than 12 per cent in the past six years. The United States gulps its liquid assets at the rate of 270,000 million gallons per day (mgd).

The greatest water glutton is not the hot tennis player of suburban gardener but American industry.

Industrial cooling processes account for more than half the water consumed in this country. It takes 65,000 gallons of water to produce a ton of finished steel, 200,000 gallons for a ton of rayon, and no less than 600,000 gallons for a ton of synthetic rubber.

IRRIGATION SECOND
Irrigation farmers rank as second largest users of water, followed by individuals at work, play and home.

Billions of gallons go down the drains annually from such modern conveniences as showers, sprinklers, swimming pools, dishwashers, laundromats and garbage disposals.

Sheer waste takes a heavy toll. Even during New York's severe water shortage of 1949-50, engineers estimated that 200 million gallons a day dripped from leaky faucets and pipes alone.

Water-hungry America fortunately can draw on a nationwide rainfall averaging 30 inches a year, or ten million gallons for every man, woman and child.

However, more than 70 per cent is used by growing plants or returned to the atmosphere by evaporation and breathing. Storage lakes, reservoirs, and canals lose nearly half their water in vapor, says the National Geographic Society.

The Herculean task of supplying water to arid zones and cities where demand exceeds supply is being approached in several ways: Conservation measures, notably antipollution and the reuse of water; the building of larger aqueducts; and conversion of fresh water from the sea.

Infant Is Suffocated

DETROIT (AP) — A 5-month-old Detroit infant, Darryll Meeks, apparently suffocated in his crib last night, a plastic clothing bag containing a dress fell from a hook and covered his head.

The Pennsylvania Game Commission has raised, leg-banded and released more than 21,300 ducks in the state since 1951.

'Hills' Artist Looks Into Future With Paint Brushes

DETROIT (AP) — A mythical Telstar was put into space in 1962 — that's right, 1962. Its launching pad was in the Detroit suburb of Beverly Hills.

Even a year before that, its creator had designed a "moon rocket" which looks surprisingly like many of the contraptions being fired off Cape Canaveral — almost 15 years later.

The 1948 Telstar orbited only on drawing paper. And, of course, that rocket hasn't taken off its drawing board launching pad for what its designer foresees as a daily 12 p.m. passenger flight to the moon.

Chocolate-Drop Grapes Will Impress Guests

A unique candy-sweet dessert or tea-time treat. Stem large Malaga grapes and wipe with a clean dry cloth. Dip each grape in melted fondant and set aside to harden. Melt sweetened cooking chocolate over hot water; then cool until it begins to thicken again.

Dip each fondant-covered grape in the chocolate and place on waxed paper to harden. (If the chocolate becomes too stiff, re-melt over hot water; but be sure it's solid enough to stick to the fondant. Be careful that no water gets in the chocolate, or it will be spoiled for dipping.)

Two E. Germans Flee to Berlin Via Autobahn

BERLIN (AP) — Two East Germans made a daring escape yesterday by riding a motorcycle along the heavily guarded autobahn to West Berlin, western police reported.

The driver of the bike was an 18-year-old soldier, in civilian clothes. Police had no immediate details of his passenger.

The pair suddenly roared up to Dreilinden, the western allied checkpoint at the Berlin end of the autobahn connecting the city with West Germany.

The escapes were so excited they were unable to give police a coherent account of how they evaded the strict Communist controls on the highway.

a stove to cook the chicken while you're on route to the woods.

"Really," Radebaugh says, "couldn't build a bird house. But I seem to have a flare for knowing how things work or are going to work. Maybe I picked that up over the years as engineers pick ideas in or at the Pentagon, where I worked for the chief of ordinance during the war, helping design weapons of the future."

Stan Brame, a Detroit labor-management analyst and researcher, verifies Radebaugh's knowledge of "work know-how."

"I've seen most of his creations before they've ever gone to publishers," Brame says, "and I've suggested that this or that might look better if it were done this way. But Art says you couldn't engineer it that way, and I've had engineers back him up."

Radebaugh recalls with relish his sojourn at the Pentagon, where he ended up a major.

"The brass got a good laugh at first," he says of the futuristic weapons in and others put down on paper, "but before the war was over some of them were shooting."

Art was graduated from Sturgis High School into the depression of the early 1930s. A friend attending art school in Chicago wrote he'd been able to find enough work here and there to pay his way. With nothing else to do, young Radebaugh took off for the Windy City.

He enrolled in the art school, but found the bright lights more interesting than classes. He drove a bus for a spell, was a theater usher for a time, was part of a

PAINTED SIGNS

He also managed at art school to pick up enough know-how to paint signs.

Back home at Sturgis, after jobs of any kind got scarcer and harder to find in Chicago, Art managed to hook on with a neon sign company.

He dreamed up signs and laid them out and did the painting, and when one was sold he, a thimble and a neon tubing expert just up whatever was left above costs.

"Some weeks," he chuckles now, "I got as much as $30."

Like many another young man, then and now, Radebaugh had a passion for sleek cars and those coming off assembly lines in those days weren't so sleek.

"So," he said, "I got to playing around with an airbrush and lacquers and cut-out frieze paper patterns and came up with what turned out to be a new technique. I kept fooling around with it. After I got a regular, $25-a-week job with the Crescent Engraving Co. at Kalamazoo."

"One of the salesmen there got interested in its commercial possibilities, and talked me into letting him become my agent. I was pretty busy designing boxes for chocolate candy and the like when he came in one day in 1935 and announced he'd sold one of my futuristic car paintings to Motor Magazine for a cover for $400."

That car, back then in the 1930s, looked remarkably like those of the 1960s. Radebaugh's stippled has changed, too. For instance, he did 21 cars at $1,500 per car a catalogue in 1962.

But the car illustrating business isn't what it once was, and that. Now, Radebaugh's a lot more illustration is by photograph, while back some years ago "everybody wanted his car to look like a Cadillac — and that's where the artist came in, because he could stretch them out and sleek them up."

Radebaugh has "been able to draw ever since I can remember," and as he came along he mastered every medium of painting. And as most successful artist-illustrators do, he finally had a studio in New York, but automobiles being his specialty and he found himself spending more time in Detroit than on Broadway.

MOVES TO THE 'HILLS'

So that's why he moved to Detroit, where he has acquired an interest in the New Center Studios and keeps a studio for his personal use in Detroit's Penobscot building and another in Bloomfield Hills, but seldom uses either because of that out-of-this-world Ford and a studio into which he has converted his den.

In 1948 Radebaugh showed a sheet of what he likes to call his "imagined" to a representative of General Features, and thereby a hobby became one of profit. Rotogravure sections of most of the nation's newspapers began to blossom with pictures of things to come — like soldiers flying through the air under individual one-man helicopters — several years before this actually came true.

In the summer of 1967, Rade-baugh got together a series of sample panels dealing with space lands and submitted them to the Chicago Tribune-New York Daily News syndicate. They included some highly imaginative things like rockets to the moon and flying mail buses.

But only a few months later the Russians shot Sputnik I into space, giving sense to what Radebaugh had "imagined" and added that "we may see the day when last-surplus items will be fast-tracked for future use by rocketing them to wide-open, ultra-high storage in the sky."

The syndicate bought. The panels, usually taking up a quarter or a half of a comic page, carried over into this year and one of them shows men in space suits dropping off stores, refrigerators and the like at a warehouse-in-space.

Radebaugh suggested that "lack of atmosphere would permit many materials to be stockpiled without protective covering," and added that "we may see the day when last-surplus items will be fast-tracked for future use by rocketing them to wide-open, ultra-high storage in the sky."

Wonder-Boy Bernstein Becomes Famous Overnight

Editor's Note—Does Leonard Bernstein spread his talents too thin? That's one of the composer-conductor-piano-TV personality's problems, as detailed in this fourth article of a series.

By PHYLIS BATTLE

NEW YORK — Leonard Bernstein was 25 years old, fresh out of the Curtis Institute of Music. He held the job of an assistant conductor of the New York Philharmonic — a position long on drudgery and short on glamor, but gratifying for a young man who needed, each day, plenty of music and sufficient food to hold his talents together.

On the night of Nov. 14 of that year, which was 1942, Bernstein went to a party. He was having his first drink and settling down happily to pursue his favorite hobby, talking about music, when a phone call advised him that he might be wise to get plenty of rest that night.

Bruce Walter, the guest conductor for the Philharmonic's concert the following afternoon, was not feeling well and Bernstein might have to substitute at the podium.

Bernstein apparently didn't think there was much chance of that. Twenty-five-year-old assistant conductor just don't get the breaks. He went back to the party and stayed until 4.

At about eight o'clock the next morning, he was awakened in his one-room apartment near Carnegie Hall and told to get ready. Walter was really sick!

IN FOUR HOURS
With four hours to study the score — flummied, but never more excited — the wonder-boy prepared himself. There was no time to rent the traditional striped trousers conductors wear for afternoon concerts.

At the appointed hour, he rushed into his best gray flannel suit, hurried to the stage of Carnegie Hall, raised his powerful arms, and . . . became famous. The music critics on all the New York papers were ecstatic. The concert was carried nationwide on radio, so the other critics had an opportunity to make him wealthy with clippings too. The New York Times captured it all in one sentence:

"Mr. Bernstein advanced to the podium with the unfeigned eagerness and communicative emotion of his years. He showed immediately . . . his brilliant musicianship and his capacity both to release and control the players."

Since "All the world's a stage, and all the people merely players," it can truthfully be stated that Bernstein has been releasing and controlling the players ever since.

He was a celebrity. The world, generally, was taken by surprise. Not so, apparently, Leonard Bernstein.

In fame, one account of those days read, Bernstein "had come home at last."

And it promptly became the busiest big home ever seen in contemporary music circles.

HE WAS BUSY

In the year immediately following his "discovery," Bernstein led the Pittsburgh symphony in the premiere of his own "Jeremiah" symphony (which also won the prize as the outstanding new work of the year by the Music Critics' Circle); he saw the ballet he'd composed, "Fancy Free," become the smash sensation of the ballet theater's season (it was performed 161 times its first year; he traveled the country, guest-conducting 19 symphony concerts; and he wrote, with Harvard classmate Adolf Green and friend Betty Comden, a hit Broadway musical called "On the Town." At the end of his 26th year, he was wealthy and renowned in the concert, ballet and Broadway worlds.

Everyone seemed delighted to watch his fast progress except an old friend (and one of his first teachers and advisors), Conductor Serge Koussevitzky.

"Kousky," as Bernstein was to call him after long years of admiration, was furious at the idea of his frittering away his great musical talents on a Broadway musical.

The young man listened to a three-hour lecture by the elder maestro, and he thought about it seriously; later he told someone his reaction had been to think, "What am I? Nobody knows, least of all me. I guess

I want to do all the things that are fun."

But for awhile, the lecture kept him away from the theater. The late Mayor Fiorella La Guardia asked him to become music director of the New York City Symphony — a prestige job, completely without pay — and Bernstein quickly accepted.

Proving that money is of scarcely passing interest to him, as compared with music, he worked fiercely in that post for three years and the city symphony cracked as if it were the greatest orchestra in the country.

In the years that followed, instead of settling down, Bernstein took on more and more activities. He was unwilling to do anything that he'd tried before. He wanted new experiences . . . new music for his orchestras . . . new challenges.

Often he was tired. Today, at the beginning of a rehearsal of the New York Philharmonic, he appears to the bystander to be enormously tired.

But, as he has said, "I recoup fast. Music gives me as much as I give it — at LEAST. When a movement comes alive, you feel so proud that you've made a contribution."

In the years since his overnight glory, Bernstein has toured four continents, conducting great symphonies.

Always, he is greeted as though he were the local hero who'd made good — warmly caressed, hysterically braved, buoyed up!

In Israel, he is practically a national institution. In Russia, after his first concert, he could hardly take a step without being embraced.

And he has never stopped composing. Symphonies. Opera.

The artistic Broadway flop, "Candide," was his.

He wrote the wonderful "Wonderful Town" in four quick weeks.

The music for the film, "On the Waterfront," was a fast Bernstein creation.

He has composed choral works and ballets.

Understandably, many an envious composer insists that Bernstein should stick to his "greatest talent," conducting. Conductors of music he can find time to spare.

Since music of every kind gives Bernstein "goose pimples," it is then no surprise that he considers himself a "very, very lucky" man.

composing.

Bernstein (pronounced as in "fine," please), hearing echoes of these suggestions, told a reporter:

"If somebody says to me that I'm not as good a conductor as Toscanini, which is certainly true, I simply reply that after all, I'm a composer really — I'm not competing with Toscanini."

"If they say I'm not as good a composer as Travinisky, well, I'm really a conductor and so I'm not competing with him."

He doesn't want to feel he's competing with any other artist. He'd rather — wouldn't every-

Add up the Facts... Subtract the Fiction... THE ANSWER IS RAMBLER '63

Jackie Accepts General Grant's Wastebasket

STANFORD, CALIF. (UPI) — A tortoise-shell wastebasket given Mrs. Leland Stanford by Mrs. Ulysses H. Grant in 1887, has been accepted by Mrs. John F. Kennedy for her redecoration program at the White House.

The wastebasket is made from the complete shell and is lined with red satin.

The Stanfords became good friends of the Grants after 1865. Later, in Washington, the President's widow was helpful to Stanford, then a new senator from California.

A card pinned to the wastebasket—describes the curio as a "tortoise shell bag which always hung in General Grant's room at the White House and in his own home in New York, in which he placed wastepaper."

Realistic Account Frightens Youngster

MEMPHIS — In observing the centennial of the Civil War battle of Memphis, a local newspaper carried first-hand accounts of the famous event. Apparently they were a little too vivid for one youngster.

After reading one particularly exciting edition, the frightened boy ran to awaken his mother, waving the paper and clearly prepared to run for the hills.

"Mommy," he yelled, "are the Yankees really coming?"

WHAT'S AHEAD that's really new and different in cars for 1963? You'll get your best and most complete answer October 5th.

That's when the 1963 Rambler goes on display at Rambler dealer showrooms across the nation.

Then a lot of the fiction that has been coming out of Detroit will fade like fog under a morning sun.

On that day, you'll see the facts about Rambler — and you'll find them more exciting than all the rumors, guesses and speculation.

Facts vs Fiction

One such fiction would have you believe that the 1963 Rambler will be longer . . . thereby moving away from the compact-car concept that put Rambler into the top rank of car sales.

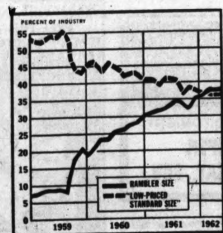

You'll be delighted with the facts, which are that the all-new Rambler Classic Six and 250 HP Rambler Ambassador V-8 are not longer. Nor is the Rambler American.

We can't help it if stolen glimpses have fooled some of the "experts." That New Shape of Quality, that stretch-out room for six 6-footers, that sleek low silhouette in Classic and Ambassador, do give an impression of greater length. But the tape measure doesn't lie! Rambler has not given up its birthright.

Rambler Size vs "Standard Size"

Another bit of Detroit folklore says that the market for Rambler-size cars is shrinking . . . while the big "standard-size" cars of the "low-priced" field are staging a comeback.

These facts show that Rambler-size cars became the largest single segment in the automobile industry in March, 1962, and have been entrenching their lead ever since. All the while, since September of 1959, the share of market of the so-called "low-priced, standard-size" cars has been dropping and dropping . . . and dropping.

Just as we predicted back in 1959!

Rambler Size vs "Medium"

There's a wise fiction around that more and more people are spending more and more money for the cars that have more and more size and horsepower in the "medium-price" field — a bracket above the so-called "low-priced, standard-size" cars. Facts take the wind out of such sales claims.

Fact: the "medium-price" field has shrunk from 40% of all cars sold in 1955 to about 25% in 1959 and to around 18% in June of this year.

Early in 1960, Rambler-size cars breezed past the "medium-price" field in sales, and now lead the "medium-priced" cars by more than two to one, 37.9% Rambler size to 18% "medium price."

The Rambler Philosophy

One interesting fiction is that for 1963 Rambler will veer from its long-time philosophy of never making changes for the mere sake of change alone . . . will come out with radically different cars in at least two Rambler series.

The facts are that 1963 will see dramatically beautiful new Rambler Classics and Rambler Ambassadors . . . strikingly new Rambler American hardtops . . . but every one incorporating all the quality, character, features and value that already have made Rambler the first choice of more than two million of the most satisfied car owners in America.

The Rambler philosophy hasn't changed a iota. The basic continuity of its functional usefulness will still be a self-evident fact for you to see when you walk into your Rambler dealer's, October 5th.

Look at Fiction's Record!

From the very first, the facts about Rambler have always confounded the fiction spinners.

They chuckled derisively at the prediction in 1959 that Rambler-size cars (then accounting for a scant 7% of the market) would become the top-volume cars in America.

Today they are the top-volume cars, with almost 40% of the market . . . more than any other size — or price segment.

Fiction declared that people wanted ever-bigger, more powerful, increasingly gas-thirsty cars. Facts proved that people wanted no such things — they wanted Rambler with big-car room, comfort and performance but with compact-car maneuverability, parkability and economy.

Just look at the Rambler record! 65,390 Rambler sales in 1956 model year . . . 154,372 in 1958 . . . 423,127 in 1960 . . . and for the 1962 model year the total will be 440,000 or more. See the chart below.

Usefulness to the User

For a long while there was a widely accepted fiction that an independent couldn't last in the automotive battle of the giants.

Rambler substituted success facts for that ancient fiction and American Motors became a major factor in American industry. It gave every customer an obviously better value in product and price . . . the most usefulness to the user . . . and Rambler moved right up into the top rank of the best-selling cars.

Today, these Rambler advantages are part of the American motoring language: Deep-Dip rustproofing . . . Double-Safety Brakes . . . Ceramic-Armored muffler and tailpipe . . . Cushioned Acoustical Ceiling of molded fiber glass . . . Adjustable, Reclining, Lounge-Tilt Seats . . . many others that are either Rambler exclusives, or are matched only in far higher-priced competitive cars.

Unit Construction Facts

For a full decade after Rambler introduced stronger, quieter and safer unit construction, every other car manufacturer clung to the idea that the best way to build an automobile was still oxcart style, with a body bolted to a frame.

Then, overnight it seemed, they discovered unit construction. The result? Not one new passenger car has been brought out in the last three years that hasn't copied Rambler's unit construction!

But for 1963, Rambler again moves years ahead with Advanced Unit Construction. For many years, while the others were trying to ignore Rambler's unit construction, our engineers were perfecting the techniques of this better way to build an automobile . . . bringing improvements that will be introduced in the 1963 Ramblers.

October 5th will reveal a "unit construction gap" between Rambler and its imitators comparable to the gap that existed when Rambler was America's only unit-constructed car!

Come See the FACTS, October 5th!

Here's what you'll find when you meet the new 1963 Rambler: The strongest, the safest, the quietest, the most comfortable, the longest-lasting, the most service-free, the easiest-handling, the best-performing and most value-filled Rambler ever built. PLUS the most beautiful Rambler ever built . . . with the New Shape of Quality evident in every line. PLUS such multi-thousand-dollar car features as Scena-Ramic curved glass side windows, Bucket Seats with Console, Twin-Stick Floor Shift with Instant Overtake. PLUS quality so high and prices so low that you'll not be able to match Rambler values in any other automobile showroom. And that's no fiction either!

'Hills' Artist Looks Into Future With Paint Brushes

DETROIT (AP) — A mythical artist retired as a commercial artist four years ago at the age of 32.

That's right, 1949. His launching pad was in the Detroit suburb of Beverly Hills.

Even a year before that, his creator had designed a "moon rocket" which looks surprisingly like many of the contraptions being fired off Cape Canaveral — almost 15 years later.

The 1949 Telstar orbited only on drawing paper. And, of course, that rocket hadn't taken off in its drawing board launching pad for what its designer foresaw as a daily 10 p.m. passenger flight to the moon.

Both were the creations of a sometime stage painter from Sturgis, Mich., who now is an internationally known designer-artist and who has made a hobby of looking into the future with his paint brushes.

Appropriately named, he is Art Radebaugh, who lives at 13825 Buckingham Road, Beverly Hills. Except for an occasional job he accepts and pattering around making pictures of what's to come.

Two E. Germans Flee to Berlin Via Autobahn

BERLIN (AP) — Two East Germans made a daring escape yesterday by riding a motorcycle along the heavily guarded autobahn to West Berlin, western police reported.

The driver of the bike was an 18-year-old soldier, in civilian clothes. Police had no immediate details of his passenger.

The pair suddenly roared up to Drellin, the western allied checkpoint at the Berlin end of the autobahn connecting the city with West Germany.

The escapes were so excited they were unable to give police a coherent account of how they evaded the strict Communist controls on the highway.

The Central American sloth is a warm-blooded mammal whose body temperature changes with its environment. Temperatures of males in captivity rise or fall as much as 12 degrees if the outside temperature changes.

a slave to cook the chicken while you're on route to the woods.

"Really," Radebaugh says, "I couldn't build a bird house. But I seem to have a flare for knowing how things work or are going to work. Maybe I picked that up over the years as engineers picked flaws in my automobile conceptions or at the Pentagon, where I worked for the chief of ordnance during the war, helping dream up weapons of the future."

Stan Brams, a Detroit labor-management analyst and researcher, verifies Radebaugh's knowledge of how things work.

"I've seen some of his creations before they've even gone to publishers," Brams says. "And I've suggested that this or that might look better if it were done thus and so. But Art says you couldn't engineer it that way, and I've had engineers back him up."

Radebaugh recalls with relish his sojourn at the Pentagon, where he ended up a major.

"The brass got a good laugh at first," he says of the futuristic weapons he and others put down on paper, "but before the war was over some of them were shooting."

Art was graduated from Sturgis High School into the depression of the early 1930s. A friend attending an art school in Chicago wrote he'd been able to find enough work here and there to pay his way. With nothing else to do, young Radebaugh took off for the Windy City.

He enrolled in the art school, but found the bright lights more interesting than classes. He drove a bus for a spell, once a theater usher for a time, was part of nightclub dance team for a while, and got a parttime job decorating lampshades, when hand-painted jobs were a livingroom must.

PAINTED SIGNS He also managed at art school to pick up enough know-how to paint signs.

Back home at Sturgis, after jobs of any kind got scarcer and harder to find in Chicago, Art managed to book on with a neon sign company.

He dreamed up signs and laid them out and did the painting, and when one was sold he, a tinsmith and a neon tubing expert split up whatever was left above costs.

"Some weeks," he chuckles now, "I got as much as $50."

Like many another young man, then and now, Radebaugh had a passion for sleek cars and those coming off assembly lines in those days weren't so sleek.

"So," he said, "I got to playing around with airbrush and lacquers and cut-out fisher paper patterns and came up with what turned out to be a new technique. I kept fooling around with it after I got a regular, $25-a-week job with the Crescent Engraving Co. at Kalamazoo."

"One of the salesmen there got interested in his commercial possibilities, and talked me into letting him become my agent. I was pretty busy designing boxes for chocolate candy and the like when he came in one day in 1935 and announced he'd sold one of my futuristic car paintings to Motor Magazine for a cover for $60."

That car, back there in the 1930s, looked remarkably like those of the 1960s. Radebaugh's stipend has changed, too. For instance, he did 21 cars at $1,500 per car for a catalogue in 1962.

But the car illustrating business isn't what it once was, at that. Now, Radebaugh says, much more illustration is by photograph, while back some years ago "everybody wanted his car to look like a Cadillac — and that's where the artist came in, because he could stretch them out and sleek them up."

Radebaugh has "been able to draw ever since I can remember," and as he came along he mastered every medium of painting. And as most successful artist-illustrators do, he finally had a studio in New York, but automobiles were his specialty and he found himself spending more time in Detroit than on Broadway.

MOVES TO THE 'HILLS' So that's why he moved to Detroit, where he has acquired an interest in the New Center School and keeps a studio for his personal use in Detroit's Penobscot building and another in Bloomfield Hills, but seldom uses either because of "that out-of-the-world Ford and a studio into which he has converted his den.

In 1946 Radebaugh showed a sheaf of what he likes to call his "imagining" — a representation of General Features, and thereby a hobby became one of profit. Rotogravure sections of most of the nation's newspapers began to blossom with pictures of things to come — like soldiers flying through the air under individual one-man helicopters — several years before this actually came true.

In the summer of 1967, Rade-baugh got together a series of sample panels dealing with space ideas and submitted them to the Chicago Tribune-New York Daily News syndicate. They included some highly imaginative things like rockets to the moon and flying mail boxes.

But only a few months later the Russians shot Sputnik I into space, giving some to what Radebaugh had "imagined" and at the same time obsoleting some of his already drawn "future" panels.

The syndicate bought. The panels, usually taking up a quarter or a half of a comic page, carried over into this year and one of them shows men in space suits dropping off stoves, refrigerators and the like at a warehouse-in-space.

Radebaugh suggested that "lack of atmosphere would permit many materials to be stockpiled without protective covering," and added that "we may see the day when food supplies will be fast-frozen for future use by rocketing them to wide-open, ultra-fried storage in the sky."

Wonder-Boy Bernstein Becomes Famous Overnight

Editor's Note—Does Leonard Bernstein spread his talents too thin? That's one of the composer-conductor-piano-TV personality's problems, as detailed in this fourth article of a series.

By PHYLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK — Leonard Bernstein was 25 years old, fresh out of the Curtis Institute of Music. He held the job of an assistant conductor of the New York Philharmonic — a position long on drudgery and short on glamor, but gratifying for a young man who needed, each day, plenty of music and sufficient food to hold his talents together.

On the night of Nov. 14 of that year, which was 1943, Bernstein went to a party. He was having his first drink and settling down happily to pursue his favorite hobby, talking about music, when a phone call advised him that he might be wise to get plenty of rest that night.

Bruno Walter, the guest conductor for the Philharmonic's concert the following afternoon, was not feeling well and Bernstein might have to substitute at the podium.

Bernstein apparently didn't think there was much chance of that. Twenty-five-year-old assistant conductors just don't get the breaks. He went back to the party and stayed until 4.

At about eight o'clock the next morning, he was awakened in his one-room apartment near Carnegie Hall and told to get ready. Walter was really sick!

IN FOUR HOURS

With four hours to study the score — stunned, but never more excited — the wonder-boy prepared himself. There was no time to rent the traditional striped trousers conductors wear for afternoon concerts.

At the appointed hour, he rushed into his best gray flannel suit, hurried to the stage of Carnegie Hall, raised his powerful arms, and . . . became famous. The music critics on all the New York papers were ecstatic. The concert was carried nationwide on radio, as the other critics had an opportunity to make him wealthy with clippings too. The New York Times captured it all in one sentence:

"Mr. Bernstein advanced to the podium with the unfeigned eagerness and communicative emotion of his years. He showed immediately . . . his brilliant musicianship as a 24 his capacity both to release and control the players."

Since "All the world's a stage, and all the people merely players," it can truthfully be stated that Bernstein has been releasing and controlling the players ever since.

He was a celebrity. The world, however, was surprised. Not so, apparently, Leonard Bernstein.

In fame, one account of those days read, Bernstein "had come home at last."

And it promptly became the busiest hit home ever seen in contemporary music circles.

HE WAS BUSY

In the year immediately following his "discovery," Bernstein led the Pittsburgh symphony in the premiere of his own "Jeremiah" symphony (which also won the prize as the outstanding new work of the year by the Music Critics' Circle); he saw the ballet he'd composed, "Fancy Free," become the smash sensation of the ballet theater's season (it was performed 161 times its first year; he traveled the country, guest-conducting 88 symphony concerts; and he wrote, with Harvard classmate Adolf Green and friend Betty Comden, a hit Broadway

Jackie Accepts General Grant's Wastebasket

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI) — A

tortoise-shell wastebasket given Mrs. Leland Stanford by Mrs. Ulysses H. Grant in 1867, has been accepted by Mrs. John F. Kennedy for her redecoration program at the White House.

The wastebasket is made from the complete shell and is lined with red satin.

The Stanfords became good friends of the Grants after 1865. Later, in Washington, the President's widow was helpful to Stanford, then a new senator from California.

A card pinned to the wastebasket—in Mrs. Stanford's handwriting—describes the curio as a "tortoise shell bag which always hung in General Grant's year."

The White House and in his own home in New York, in which he placed wastepaper."

Realistic Account Frightens Youngster

MEMPHIS (AP)—In observing the centennial of the Civil War battle of Memphis, a local newspaper carried first-hand accounts of the famous event. Apparently they were a little too vivid for one youngster.

After reading one particularly exciting edition, the frightened boy ran to awaken his mother, waving the paper and clearly prepared to run for the hills.

"Mommy," he yelled, "are the Yankees really coming?"

musical called "On the Town."

At the end of his 26th year, he was wealthy and renowned in the concert, ballet and Broadway worlds.

Everyone seemed delighted to watch his fast progress except an old friend (and one of his first teachers and advisors), Conductor Serge Koussevitzky.

"Kousky" as Bernstein was to call him after long years of admiration, was furious at the idea of his frittering away his great musical talents on a Broadway musical.

The young man listened to a three-hour lecture by the elder maestro, and he thought about it seriously; later he told someone his reaction had been to think, "What am I? Nobody knows, least of all me. I guess

I want to do all the things that are fun."

But for awhile, the lecture kept him away from the theater. The late Mayor Fiorello La Guardia asked him to become music director of the New York City Symphony — a prestige job, completely without pay — and Bernstein quickly accepted.

Proving that money is of scarcely passing interest to him, as compared with music, he worked fiercely in that post for three years and the city symphony crackled as if it were the greatest orchestra in the country.

In the years that followed, instead of settling down, Bernstein took on more and more activities. He was unwilling to do anything that he'd tried before. He wanted new experiences . . . new music for his orchestras . . . new challenges.

Often he was tired. Today, at the beginning of a rehearsal of the New York Philharmonic, he appears to the bystander to be enormously tired.

But, as he has said, "I recoup myself — at LEAST. When a movement comes alive, you feel so proud that you've made a contribution."

In the years since his overnight glory, Bernstein has toured four continents, conducting great symphonies.

Always, he is greeted as though he were the local hero who'd made good — warmly caressed, hysterically braved, buoyed up.

In Israel, he is practically a national institution. In Russia, after his first concert, he could hardly take a step without being embraced.

And he has never stopped composing. Symphonies. Opera.

The fantastically successful, prize-winning "West Side Story" was his.

The artistic Broadway flop, "Candide," was his.

He wrote the wonderful "Wonderful Town" in four quick weeks.

The music for the film, "On the Waterfront," was a fast Bernstein creation.

He has composed choral works and ballets.

Understandably, many an envious composer insists that Bernstein should stick to his "greatest talent," conducting. Conductors mention that he should do more composing.

Bernstein (pronounced as in "fine," please), hearing echoes of these suggestions, told a reporter:

"If somebody says to me that I'm not as good a conductor as Toscanini, which is certainly true, I simply reply that after all, I'm a composer really — I'm not competing with Toscanini."

"If they say I'm not as good a composer as Stravinsky, well, I'm really a conductor and so I'm not competing with him."

He doesn't want to feel he's competing with any other artist. He'd rather — wouldn't every one? — feel he's in a class by himself, active in all the forms of music he can find time to explore.

Since music of every kind gives Bernstein "goose pimples," it is then no surprise that he considers himself a "very, very lucky" man.

Add up the Facts... Subtract the Fiction... THE ANSWER IS RAMBLER '63

WHAT'S AHEAD that's really new and different in cars for 1963? You'll get your best and most complete answer October 5th.

That's when the 1963 Rambler goes on display at Rambler dealer showrooms across the nation.

Then a lot of the fiction that has been coming out of Detroit will fade like fog under a morning sun.

On that day, you'll see the facts about Rambler—and you'll find them more exciting than all the rumors, guesses and speculation.

Facts vs Fiction

One such fiction would have you believe that the 1963 Rambler will be longer . . . thereby moving away from the compact-car concept that put Rambler into the top rank of car sales.

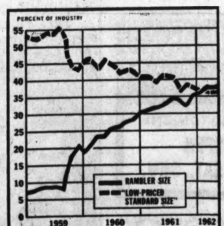

You'll be delighted with the facts, which are that the all-new Rambler Classic Six and 250-HP Rambler Ambassador V-8 are no longer. Nor is the Rambler American.

We can't help it if stolen glances have fooled some of the "experts." That New Shape of Quality, that stretch-out room for six 6-footers, that sleek low silhouette in Classic and Ambassador, do give an impression of greater length. But the tape measure doesn't lie! Rambler has not given up its birthright.

Rambler Size vs "Standard Size"

Another bit of Detroit folklore says that the market for Rambler-size cars is shrinking . . . while the big "standard-size" cars of the "low-priced" field are staging a comeback.

These facts show that Rambler-size cars became the largest single segment in the automobile industry in March, 1962, and have been entrenching their lead ever since. All the while, since September of 1959, the share of market of the so-called "low-priced, standard-size" cars has been dropping and dropping . . . and dropping.

Just as we predicted back in 1959!

Rambler Size vs "Medium"

There's a wistful fiction around that more and more people are spending more and more money for the cars that have more and more size and horsepower in the "medium-price" field—a bracket above the so-called "low-priced, standard-size" cars.

Facts take the wind out of such sales claims.

Fact: the "medium-price" field has shrunk from 40% of all cars sold in 1955 to about 25% in 1959 and to around 18% in June of this year.

Early in 1960, Rambler-size cars breezed past the "medium-price" field in sales, and now lead the "medium-priced" cars by more than two to one, 37.9% Rambler size to 18% "medium price."

The Rambler Philosophy

One interesting fiction is that for 1963 Rambler will veer from its long-time philosophy of never making changes for the mere sake of change alone . . . will come out with radically different cars in at least two Rambler series.

The facts are that 1963 will see dramatically beautiful new Rambler Classics and Rambler Ambassadors . . . strikingly new Rambler American hardtops . . . but every one incorporating all the quality, character, features and value that already have made Rambler the first choice of more than two million of the most satisfied car owners in America.

The Rambler philosophy hasn't changed an iota. The basic continuity of its functional usefulness will still be a self-evident fact for you to see when you walk into your Rambler dealer's, October 5th.

Look at Fiction's Record!

From the very first, the facts about Rambler have always confounded the fiction spinners.

They chuckled derisively at the prediction in 1959 that Rambler-size cars (then accounting for a scant 7% of the market) would become the top-volume cars in America.

Today they are the top-volume cars, with almost 40% of the market . . . more than any other size—or price segment.

Fiction declared that people wanted ever-bigger, more powerful, increasingly gas-thirsty cars. Facts proved that people wanted no such things—they wanted Rambler with big-car room, comfort and performance but with compact-car maneuverability, parkability and economy.

Just look at the Rambler record! 65,390 Rambler sales in 1956 model year . . . 154,372 in 1958 . . . 423,127 in 1960 . . . and for the 1962 model year the total will be 440,000 or more. See the chart below.

language: Deep-Dip rustproofing . . . Double-Safety Brakes . . . Ceramic Armored muffler and tailpipe . . . Cushioned Acoustical Ceiling of molded fiber glass . . . Adjustable, Reclining, Lounge-Tilt Seats . . . many others that are either Rambler exclusives, or are matched only in far higher-priced competitive cars.

Unit Construction Facts

For a full decade after Rambler introduced stronger, quieter and safer unit construction, every other car manufacturer clung to the idea that the best way to build an automobile was still old-fashioned style, with a body bolted to a frame.

Then, overnight it seemed, they discovered unit construction. The result? Not one new passenger car has been brought out in the last three years that hasn't copied Rambler's unit construction!

But for 1963, Rambler again moves years ahead with Advanced Unit Construction. For many years, while the others were trying to ignore Rambler's unit construction, our engineers were perfecting the techniques of this better way to build an automobile . . . bringing improvements that will be introduced in the 1963 Ramblers.

October 5th will reveal a "unit construction gap" between Rambler and its imitators comparable to the gap that existed when Rambler was America's only unit-constructed car!

Come See the FACTS, October 5th!

Here's what you'll find when you meet the new 1963 Rambler: The strongest, the safest, the quietest, the most comfortable, the longest-lasting, the most service-free, the easiest-handling, the best-performing and most value-filled Rambler ever built. PLUS the most beautiful Rambler ever built . . . with the New Shape of Quality evident in every line. PLUS such multi-thousand-dollar car features as Scena-Ramic curved glass side windows, Bucket Seats with Console, Twin-Stick Floor Shift with Instant Overtake. PLUS quality so high and prices so low that you'll not be able to match Rambler values in any other automobile showroom. And that's no fiction either!

Romney Labels Blast 'Much Ado About Nothing'

By The Associated Press
George Romney, Republican gubernatorial nominee, has explained his connection with Americans for Constitutional Action and accused Democrats of "trying to make much ado about nothing."

Romney said he had, as reported by columnist Drew Pearson, made a $100 donation to Americans for Constitutional Action in 1960, but that he had done so at the request of a personal friend, Ben Moreell, a retired admiral, a director of Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp. and chairman of ACA.

The GOP nominee said Moreell asked a donation in a letter which said purposes of the organization were to defend constitutional government and prevent excessive power concentration in government, business and labor.

SWAINSON CHALLENGES

Gov. John B. Swainson, who is seeking re-election on the Democratic ticket, challenged Romney Tuesday to clarify his position with respect to Americans for Constitutional Action. Swainson said its leaders "include John Birchers and other extremists."

"The people of Michigan," Swainson said, "have a right to know what the Republican candidate believes in and what he stands for."

Romney concentrated his campaign in the Detroit area, pumping hands in a manufacturing plant, two office buildings and a shopping center.

A retinue of 17 newsmen followed the GOP nominee, several of them representing national organizations and television networks.

Aides said out-of-state reporters were not being encouraged to cover Romney's campaign and he was standing by a decision not to seek the 1964 Republican nomination for president.

At Lansing, meanwhile, Swainson, in a speech before the State Bar of Michigan, blasted what he called "hysterical campaigns of character assassination" against judges by "aspiring politicians, nervous office-holders and editorialists."

ORDER BACKED

He cited as an example legislative impeachment threats last summer against State Supreme Court justices who ordered quick reapportionment of the Michigan Senate.

That order subsequently was stayed by a U.S. Supreme Court justice until the top federal court can hear arguments and rule on it. Without mentioning his name, Swainson took what appeared to be an indirect verbal swipe at Romney, criticizing a proposal which Romney made — that two methods of Senate apportionment be put to the voters.

They would have been asked to decide whether Senate districts should be apportioned on a strict population basis or on a formula giving 50 per cent weight to population and 50 per cent weight to area.

The latter plan finally was written into a proposed new constitution by a convention in which Romney was a delegate. The new document will be voted on next April.

Swainson said the State Supreme Court clearly had held that districts based on anything but population would violate the "equal protection clause" of the federal constitution, and added: "DANGEROUS FALSEHOOD"

"To broadcast the false and anti-Democratic notion that people have a right by their vote to do anything — even something which violates the (federal) constitution — is not only inaccurate, it is dangerous."

Romney received an invitation from the executive board of United Auto Workers Union Local 326 at Flint yesterday to address its general membership meeting Oct. 14. The union added that if he did not care to appear on Sunday it would call a special weekend meeting at a time to be fixed by him.

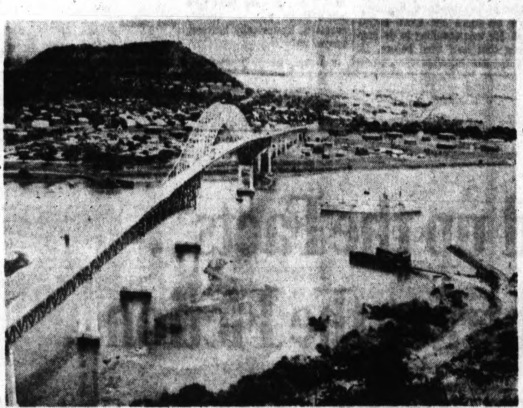

Romney, who holds an office equivalent to that of a bishop in the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints (Mormon), has refrained from campaigning on Sunday.

Local 326's executive board action followed presentation of a petition signed by some of the local's members asking Romney to address them. Marshall Steele, 326 president, said Romney would have been invited had the petitioning members "bothered to ask the local."

In inviting Romney, however, Steele said the union would ask UAW Regional Director E. S. Patterson to appear on the same program "to present the union's side in the governorship race."

UAW President Walter P. Reuther and some other UAW leaders have announced their support of Swainson.

Here's Clever Way to Beat Tickets

MIAMI (AP)—A state trooper who stopped a woman driver for speeding asked to see her driver's license.

Noting the license specified the driver must be wearing glasses, he asked, "Where are they?" and was told by the woman that she was wearing contact lenses.

After taking a closer look, the trooper noticed the woman's eyes were brown but the license said blue and demanded an explanation.

The woman used her finger to slide aside her tinted lens, revealing a blue eye. The trooper was so flabbergasted he let the woman go without writing a ticket.

Janet Leigh Says She's Found 'Real Thing'

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD — "We seemed to know almost from the start that this was the real thing," said Janet Leigh of her recent, sudden marriage to stock broker Bob Brandt.

The actress was speaking at the Beverly Hills mansion she once shared with Tony Curtis. It is across the street from the Pickfair where the romance of Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks once flourished.

"It's moving," Janet reported, sitting beside the pool in a nicely cut bathing suit.

her hair in curlers. "I've had it with the big house."

"Bob has a smaller house on an acre and a half up Benedict Canyon. He lived in the pool house of what was originally a big estate, and it's charming and comfortable. It's a little small for his ready-made family (she has two children by Curtis) so we are building on three bedrooms and two baths."

The swiftness of their marriage

—her fourth, his third—looked Hollywood by surprise, but Janet admitted she had been thinking about it for three months. She has known her husband four months.

"It didn't take us long to realize that we were right for each other," she said.

Janet began thinking marriage, but there was a complication: she was still legally wed to Tony. She found out what legal steps were necessary and called him in to

Bad Actor Turns Balcony Scene Into 'Tragedy'

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP)—A chipmunk stopped the show at a movie theater here amid the screams and squeals of a lady shoppers audience.

The little rodent made its appearance in the balcony Wednesday after the show had started.

The ladies promptly charged for the exits, the lights went on, and the projector stopped. One woman incurred a bloody nose in a fall down some stairs.

The chipmunk disappeared. And the show started again.

—"he was very nice to," she said. "I intend to make a picture now and then, but I'm not all steamed up for a career. I never have been."

Then a Mexican divorce and marriage in Las Vegas. Life can be easy, the Hollywood way.

But it wasn't quite as easy as they hoped.

"We had hoped to go off quietly to Las Vegas and announce it afterward," Janet said, adding, "Ho ho! we no sooner got there than the phone started ringing. Bob was a little surprised."

"He knew there might be a little fuss, but he didn't realize what he was getting into."

But she added that he was understanding and is aware of the demands of her career.

Congress Often Mum About Where Its Money Ends Up

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congress, which criticizes executive agencies for withholding information from the public, often is much less than frank about its own activities.

This is particularly true of official travel, or junketing or other expenses of the members. The practice is more prevalent in the Senate than in the House. It is almost impossible to find out how much money a senator spends. Unlike the Senate, the House makes available at all times the staff payrolls of its members, including the names of individuals and their salaries.

The House also publishes annual

SPECIAL

ally a statement of foreign travel spending by its members and committees, but the document lacks details and is long outdated when made available.

Executive agencies sometimes take the position that this privilege may be invoked by agencies only if he authorizes it.

DELAYS COMMON

Although Congress has erected few, if any, direct roadblocks in the path of the public's right to know what's going on, the problem is one of getting access to congressional documents. They frustrations, difficulties and delays often plague newsmen trying to find out what's going on in the way of congressional junketing or the expenditure of public funds. The information may no longer be news when finally obtained.

For example, the law requires an annual accounting by all congressional committees and legislative branches on expenses incurred while traveling on official business, either inside or outside the United States.

But the accounting does not have to be made and published until after the first 60 days of each calendar year. By that time the information can be a year old.

Even then it seldom is complete. Spending is listed under general headings—travel, lodging, meals and miscellaneous. Supporting vouchers explaining the details are not available.

The accounting requirements cover spending of appropriated U.S. money as well as foreign funds known as counterpart monies. The latter is money of foreign nations, obtained by the United States in exchange for goods or services, usually under the foreign-aid program. It is available by law to congressmen traveling on official business.

There is no way of knowing how much it costs executive agencies to take care of traveling congressmen. The cost of military transportation and the expenses of embassies abroad are charged to the Defense and State departments, which don't disclose details.

When it comes to payrolls and office expenses, any newsmen may look at House payroll records and find out who is on a member's payroll and his salary. He also may find out whether members are actually using their annual $1,800 stationery allowance for office supplies or are drawing it in cash, as the law allows.

NEED COOPERATION
On the Senate side of the Capitol, records dealing with senatorial payrolls and expenses aren't available unless the individual senator cooperates.

Aside from the official financial activities of its individual members behind closed doors, later publishes tens of thousands of pages of transcript.

In another area, the public may never know the exact cost of the new House Office Building being erected at an announced estimated cost of $10 million. The reason is that plans are altered frequently.

As an example, the original plans didn't provide for a swimming pool for members. The late Speaker Sam Rayburn—for whom the new building is named—ruled that out. After he died the blue-prints were revamped to provide a pool. They may be changed again to provide a separate pool for women members and employees.

When the overall cost of the new building becomes known—it will be an historical rather than a news item.

Drug Firm Plans Appeal

LANSING (AP)—The Super-X Drug Corp. denied a retail drug license by the State Board of Pharmacy yesterday, has decided to appeal the state board's decision.

Super-X spokesmen said they were "astounded" by the pharmacy board's decision and "are convinced that the Michigan courts will reverse the action of the board and issue the Super-X license with no further delay."

The state board's decision was made in an executive session shortly after the board had heard a protest of a public hearing attended by some 700 independent drug store owners.

The protest, applauded by the assembly of druggists, was delivered by Edward F. Draugelis, a Plymouth attorney, and Charles MacLean, the attorney for the Michigan State Pharmaceutical Association.

The board's decision was based on the grounds that "the management of Super-X has not fulfilled the requirements of the pharmacy laws of the State of Michigan due to the dispensing of barbiturate and emphysematous without a prescription signed by the physician, dentist or veterinarian, which is in violation of the dangerous drug act."

David M. Moss, director of the State Board of Pharmacy, said that an inspector had obtained affidavits stating that the drug store in Battle Creek owned by Super-X, a subsidiary of the Kroger Co., had sold barbiturate-type drugs without a signed doctor's prescription.

Super-X further stated that "at the time of the inspection in question, the inspector for the pharmacy board with full knowledge of these facts, mentioned the incidents to the Super-X manager but indicated that a passing grade had been received by the drug store."

In presenting arguments at the hearing against the issuance of a license, MacLean cited a resolution passed by the Michigan State Medical Society House of Delegates Sept. 22. The resolution, titled "Ownership and Licensing of Pharmacies," reads as follows:

"Whereas, it has come to the attention of the Michigan State Medical Society that a national grocery store chain is attempting to procure licenses to operate pharmacies in connection with chain groceries through the technique of acquiring ownership of an existing corporation which is protected under the 'grandfather' clause of the Michigan statute governing the ownership of pharmacies, and

"Whereas, the medical profession believes strongly that it is not to the public interest, and does, in fact, present a definite threat to the health and welfare of the public to permit drugs to be dispensed to the public through pharmacies so owned and operated, therefore be it

"Resolved: That the Michigan State Medical Society oppose on record as vigorously opposing any extension of the practice of licensing the sale or dispensing of drugs by and through corporate pharmacies which are not principally owned and operated by registered pharmacists."

The attorney representing Super-X at the public hearing, W. Gerald Burns of Detroit, said Super-X will maintain its stores as separate stores, with separate managers, and would have registered pharmacists as managers and assistant managers.

Super-X, in addition to the Battle Creek Drug Store, has built stores in Plymouth, Ypsilanti, Mount Clemens and Saginaw. Only the Battle Creek store is open.

Walled Lake to Decide on School Bond Issue

WALLED LAKE — School Supt. Clifford H. Smart today warned that the Walled Lake School District faces drastic cutbacks in services if district voters again defeat a $2.1-million bond issue Monday.

"The board of education has not determined all the areas that will be affected," said Smart, "but we must have new facilities or be faced with parttime sessions next year."

In Monday's special election, the board is asking taxpayers to approve the bond issue to finance an extensive school construction and renovation program.

The same issue was defeated by a narrow 24-vote margin in a Jan. 23 election.

Two other proposals included on the January ballot—a request to build a $600,000 auditorium and a two-mill operational tax proposition—will not be included in Monday's election.

The two-mill tax hike was passed in a subsequent election in April.

The bond issue for the auditorium, turned down by an overwhelming majority of voters in January, has been eliminated from the building plans.

Otherwise, the improvements and additions requested by the board next week are nearly identical to those defeated earlier.

"The school district's needs are the same today as they were in January," stated Smart.

In order to alleviate overcrowded conditions, Smart said, the board plans include construction of a new elementary school and a new school district service center, plus additions and renovations at two present elementary schools, the junior high school and senior high school.

Smart said the building plans are based on recommendations by a citizens committee which made a year-long study of the district's needs.

He stated that the district now needs seven more elementary school classrooms. Next year it will be short 14 elementary rooms if the bond issue is defeated, he said.

Elementary school children presently are attending classes in the junior high school. With increased enrollment in 1963-64, there will be room for elementary pupils in the junior high, he explained.

NEWS OF THE AREA

At this time there are 135 more students in the senior high school than it was built to accommodate, according to Smart.

New buildings in the program would include an elementary school of about seven classrooms on district-owned land on Keith Road opposite Westmore subdivision and administration offices, maintenance garage and a central stockroom built at a site to be determined later.

Other new facilities requested are three new classrooms at Wixom Elementary school, a seven-classroom addition to Gingary Elementary School and eight classrooms and a library at the high school.

Walled Lake Junior High School, oldest building in use in the district, would receive a new vocational shop, new cafeteria facilities, renovation of the gymnasium and improvement of its heating plant and water system.

The gymnasium would be made into a two-station teaching area where two classes could be held at once. Shop classes could be moved from an old garage where they now are held, Smart said.

Approval of the bond issue, Smart said, would mean tax increases ranging from $1.52 to $2.13 per $1,000 of assessed valuation for property owners in the school district.

Listing each political unit independently, the superintendent said the following increases would be in effect on each $1,000 of assessed valuation:

Walled Lake — $2.36, Commerce Township — $2.39, Farmington Township — $2.53, Novi Township — $2.56, West Bloomfield Township — $2.58, White Lake Township — $1.52, and Wixom — $2.23.

Announce 48 Semifinalists in Merit Scholarship Test

The National Merit Scholarship Corp. today announced the names of 48 area high school seniors as semifinalists in the 1962-63 merit scholarship competition.

They became semifinalists through outstanding performances on National Merit Scholarship qualifying tests, the first step in the eighth annual merit program.

Each semifinalist now moves a step closer to winning a four-year merit scholarship to the college of his choice.

Approximately 11,000 students qualified as semifinalists from schools throughout the country.

Among them are William C. Cox of Pontiac Central High School and Barbara E. Baldwin of Pontiac Northern High School. Rochester high semifinalists are Sharon L. Frost, Frederick J. Lupke, Thomas R. Schultz and Edward J. Williams.

From Bloomfield Hills High School are Charles R. Bailey, Fred S. Fink, Thomas Hoopergardner, Frankie A. Hutton, John P. Shipley and James N. St. John.

FROM KINGSWOOD

Brenda K. Ballman, Winifred A. Burgess, Sandra Lee Eakins and Julie A. Graham are semifinalists from Kingswood School.

Birmingham Seaholm High School representatives include Janice L. Boughner, Thomas D. Brooks, John M. Brown, Edward B. Champlin, Hyla M. Clark, Charles L. Holtz, Michael A. Jochim, Patrice J. Keough, Claudia L. Kestler, Jerry A. Lohla, Bennett Root Jr., David E. Sanders, William Thygeson, George E. Ward, Edward F. Weller and John H. Weston.

From Marian High School in Birmingham is Jennifer J. Sisson. From Wylie E. Groves High School, Birmingham, are Dennis D. Clark, Karen A. Kalayjian, John M. Mathis, Jane E. Meinhardt, Melville C. Stewart and Robert W. Symke.

Others include Caroline Richmond, Clarkson High School; James M. Clifford, Farmington Senior High School; Sharon L. Kelley, Holly Area High School; Michael W. Pratt, Lapeer High School; Sandra K. Bidwell and Raymond L. Holcomb, Troy High School.

Walled Lake High School semifinalists are Mary E. Loft, Richard A. Strait and Neal S. Watkins, while qualifiers from Romeo High School include Robert E. Aune, Patricia Stefanski and Carol A. Totsch.

Donald R. Ferrier and Gilbert Robertson represent Waterford Kettering High.

Cityhood Urged for Rochester

Petitions Bearing 150 Signatures Filed With County Clerk

ROCHESTER — Petitions bearing over 150 signatures requesting a special election on cityhood for the village of Rochester now are in the hands of the Oakland County Clerk.

Neil Rosso, representing the Rochester Steering Committee for City Incorporation, filed the petitions yesterday.

The committee will relax now, for a while, as the government agencies handle preparations for setting up the special election.

Before other steps can be taken the state will appoint personnel to conduct a census of the area, which the committee also petitioned for.

Upon completion of the census the County Board of Supervisors will hold the petitions inactive for 30 days and then conduct hearings on them.

At the end of this period, a special election will be set up, providing all the petitions are in order.

If errors should be found, petitioning will have to be conducted again, according to the clerk's office.

When the proposal is presented to the people in the areas concerned they will decide whether or not to incorporate the village and increase taxes from 1.8-16 square miles to 4½ square miles including a portion of Avon Township.

The proposed boundaries include Park Davis & Co.'s 833-acre Partridge Farm, east of town.

The existing western and southern boundaries of the village are retained in the city plan. Tienken Road would become the new northern boundary and Dequindre Road would enclose the city on the east.

Metro Phone Service Available in County

Michigan Bell Telephone Co. new Detroit metropolitan area telephone service will be made available Monday to residential customers in 29 Oakland County communities.

Last night it paved the figure down to $3 million, deciding this would be enough to remedy the present overcrowding situation and to handle the six per cent annual enrollment growth for at least five years.

Before setting the bond issue figure the board discussed the situation of the schools.

It was pointed out that in the elementary schools five sections, or classes, contain more than 40 students.

In the junior high school 17 sections have over 35 students, and at the high school there are six sections with over 40 students in each.

The board decided that 30 students in a room was the maximum for a good teacher-student relationship.

Board members agreed to individually assist in presenting the issue to the public. They plan to speak to local groups and explain the necessity of adding more classrooms in the system.

An explanatory brochure also will be sent to parents of school children.

Clarks on Honeymoon to Niagara, Smokies

HOLLY — Now on a honeymoon trip to Niagara Falls and the Smoky Mountains are Mr. and Mrs. James O. Clark, who exchanged nuptial vows in a recent ceremony at the Davesburg Methodist Church.

The Rev. Warren L. Lear officiated at the candlelight service.

The bride, the former Shirley E. Szymanski, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. LaCost of 723 Richard Drive.

Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Stanley F. Clark of 12540 Rattale Lake Road, Davisburg.

For her wedding, the bride chose a gown of silk tulle with a train and a wide collar. The fitted bodice featured a scalloped neckline accented with seed pearls and sequins. The bouffant skirt extended into a full-length train.

The bride carried a cascade bouquet of white snow drifts, peonies, carnations and Stephanotis. Her veil of silk tulle was secured by a Swedisch wedding cake crown of seed pearls and crystals.

Maid of honor for her sister was Diane Szymanski of Holly. Bridesmaids were the bridegroom's sisters, Mary Jo Clark of Davisburg, and Barbara Kay Schultz of Holly.

Mrs. James O. Clark

Coin Exhibit Set Sunday

ROCHESTER — Coins of all kinds will be on display when the Rochester Coin Club shows its numismatic wares from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sunday at the Elks Temple, 204 W. Third St.

Coin dealers and collectors from throughout the United States and Canada will fill the 22 display tables with their exhibits.

Visitors will be handed a questionnaire on coins as they enter. This is to be filled with answers found on the various collections.

In addition to early American, gold and silver coins the club will display proof coins, paper money, tokens and medals. Educational exhibits will also be featured at the show.

According to Club President George Hildebrandt, 920 W. South Blvd., Avon Township, collectors and novices alike will enjoy the many unique and interesting displays.

One of the displays, for example, traces the history of the American eagle on U.S. coins.

The odd and curious medallions of exchange also will be featured, such as a collection of elephant tank trophies.

Trophies will be awarded for the best member and nonmember exhibits and a grand award ribbon will be given for best of show.

Other categories to be judged are U.S. copper, silver, and gold coins, ancient coins, foreign coins, U.S. paper money, medals and decorations and the odd and curious.

Junior members of the club will sell older and doughnuts during the show. The public is cordially invited to attend. No admission will be charged.

Regular meetings of the Rochester Coin Club are 7:30 p.m. on the second and fourth Mondays of each month at the North Hill Bowling Lanes, 150 W. Tienken Road.

Programs include a film, exhibits, lectures and coin comparing.

Recently the club donated 14 books on U.S. coinage history to the Avon Township Public Library. Other projects of this nature are conducted by the club.

Jaycees Boost Registrations

INDEPENDENCE UNIT — A telephone campaign launched this week by area Junior Chamber of Commerce members aimed at boosting the number of registered voters will be followed up by a series of special registration sessions beginning tomorrow.

Township Clerk Howard Altman will be in a mobile trailer on Main Street in Clarkson tomorrow and Oct. 5 from 4 to 6 p.m.

On Saturday he will be in the same location to take registrations from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. That afternoon his trailer will be situated at the Clarkson Shopping Center, M-10 and US 10, where nonregistered voters may sign up between 1:30 and 5 p.m.

The registration schedule for Oct. 6 calls for the trailer to be at Walden Road and Westliff Street from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. and at the intersection of Sashabaw and Maybree Roads from 2 to 5 p.m.

Registrations will be taken at the township hall during regular office hours, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Monday and Oct. 8, the final day to register for the Nov. 5 election, the clerk's office will remain open until 8 p.m.

To Mark 'Rally Day' at Special Service

KEEGO HARBOR — "Rally Day" will be observed here Sunday at the Trinity Methodist Church with a special service and a pot-luck dinner.

A combined Sunday school and morning worship service will be held at 10 a.m. Sunday school programs are scheduled and the children will present a special program.

Those who attend are asked to bring table service and a dish to pass. The dinner will be held in the church's Fellowship Hall.

TO FAME A LIGHT—This is the type chair that is still used in taming wild animals, according to the owner of the old bentwood chair, Richard Tull. He rediscovered 40 of the light-but-sturdy little chairs at the Pontiac Business Institute. They were still in use after more than one-half century.

40 Little Thonet Chairs Found at Local School

By HERB HEINTZELMAN

Rediscovered: Forty virtually indestructible little bentwood chairs, still in use after 66 years, in the lower lounge of the Business Institute in Pontiac.

A nostalgic sight to almost every adult and many children, the Thonet chairs (pronounced to-day) "came to light" when the secretary-treasurer of the Institute, Richard Tull, read a feature story about the chairs in a recent national magazine. He knew the chairs had been in constant use since the local school opened in 1896, and he began checking the background history. Tull found that down through the last 100 years, lion-tamers have used the Thonet chair exclusive of all others.

The obvious reason no other chair has been made light or strong enough to be held in one hand and poked into the face of a fierce growling lion.

It all started on the outskirts of a beechwood forest in Poland in the middle of the last century, when Michael Thonet conceived the idea of bending wood into various shapes by steam.

Steaming made the wood pliable to conform to molds, and drying made it strong.

SOLVES PROBLEM
The real miracle performed by Thonet was to solve what remains industry's greatest problem—the marriage of the craftsman and the machine.

Thonet introduced the first type of mass-production of the chairs, adding settees, tables, mirror frames, rockers, stools and children's furniture.

Tull plans on having six or eight refinished and the seats upholstered in old-print tapestry for his own use.

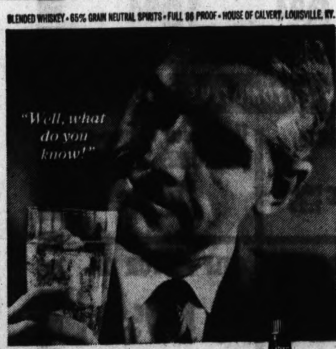

He will probably then sell the remaining chairs to history-interested people, appreciative of old things that can still be used 100 years later.

U. of M. Gives Aid for Student Loans

LANSING (U)—The University of Michigan has deposited $30,000 with the Michigan Higher Education Authority, aimed at helping student loans, reports Dr. Lynn S. Bartlett, state superintendent of public instruction.

This only brings the total to $37,200, Bartlett said. Under the program however, he said, the deposits will secure more than a half a million in student loans. Any loans are guaranteed on a 10-1 basis by Michigan banks.

Northern Michigan University has volunteered $1,000, Bartlett said. Bartlett said the donations were needed because the legislature failed to provide the money to set up the fund.

Solon Returns Bobby's Attack

Virginia Republican Parries Jab With a Swipe at President

WASHINGTON (U-P) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, following the lead of his big brother, took a political jab of his own at Rep. Joel T. Brophy, R-Va., and got one back — a swipe at practically the whole Kennedy clan.

At a National Press Club luncheon yesterday the senator introduced Miriam Ottenberg, a reporter for the Washington Evening Star and author of "The Federal Investigators," and said she would make a good candidate for the Senate from the District of Columbia.

"She gets more legislation through than a fellow who lives across the river in southern Virginia," he added without mentioning Brophy by name but leaving nobody in doubt about his target.

At his news conference recently President Kennedy also took a shot at Brophy, saying he reads a lot about the congressman but sees little legislative results.

Brophy replied to the President by saying his congressional record is better than Kennedy's. He came back at the younger Kennedy yesterday in the same vein.

He said it is significant that Kennedy compared Miss Ottenberg's record to his "rather than to the congressional record of his big brother Jack."

Search Is Renewed for Alcatraz Trio

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A piece of prison denim has sparked a renewed search for three convicts who escaped from Alcatraz last June 12.

Two skin divers searched the cold, choppy waters off the western shore of the island yesterday but their efforts were futile.

A fisherman hooked the denim, identified as prison-made, four days ago.

The convicts, all bank robbers, were Frank Lee Morris, 36, and the Anglin Brothers, John, 34, and Clarence, 28.

Mississippi Negro May Realize Dream

By United Press International James H. Meredith had a boyhood dream to study law at the University of Mississippi.

But Meredith's dream may become a reality. A federal court has ordered that he be admitted to the university at Oxford, Miss.

However, Meredith, now a 29-year-old Air Force veteran, doubts that he will pursue a legal career. He is inclined to major in political science and possibly enter politics "later on."

A soft-spoken man with a thin mustache and neatly cropped hair, Meredith was born and grew up on a farm near Kosciusko, Miss., a small rural community 75 miles from the state capital at Jackson. His youth was spent in the cotton fields with his brothers and sisters.

He left home after the 11th grade to complete high school at St. Petersburg, Fla., where he lived with an uncle. Soon after graduation, he joined the Air Force in 1951.

Meredith served nine years in uniform, spending most of his duty in Kansas, Nebraska and Indiana, where he met his wife Mary June, 24, of Gary, Ind. He also was stationed in Japan.

Discharged in 1960 as a staff sergeant, Meredith enrolled at Jackson (Miss.) State College, an all-Negro school. He asked for a transfer to the University of Mississippi in January 1961.

MEREDITH

"I feel every citizen has a right to be educated in his own state," he said. "You lose contact with your state if you move out."

He waged his legal battle, he said, "to help open greater educational opportunities" for Negroes in Mississippi.

Meredith's wife now is a senior at Jackson State and their son, John Howard, 2, is living with Meredith's parents in Kosciusko where he owns some farm land.

Canada Delays Space Launch

24-Hour Postponement Results From Series of Minor Mishaps

POINT ARGUELLO, Calif. (AP) — A planned launching of a Canadian spacecraft was called off early today after a series of last-minute delays.

The shot has been postponed for at least 24 hours.

The craft, a satellite to probe the ionosphere, is the first designed and built by a nation other than the United States and the Soviet Union.

Troubles which struck the Canadian spacecraft were minor, but time consuming.

First came a pressurization leak. It turned out to be in ground equipment, not in the spacecraft. Then passing trains delayed the launch further.

Then, 2 minutes and 13 seconds before launch time, the mission was scrubbed because of what was termed "failure of assurance that the booster destruct system was operable."

A spokesman for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said, "We weren't sure that we could blow the booster up if the bird went off course. And there wasn't time left to check it out."

The Canadian experiment is a joint test with the United States, which supplied the Thor booster and the Agena B second stage and the use of Point Arguello's launch pad. Point Arguello adjoins Vandenberg Air Force Base.

Needlework Guild Honored

Area Unit Wins Award; Starts Garment Drive

Section presidents and directors of the Needlework Guild of America, Birmingham-Bloomfield Branch, gathered for a luncheon meeting Wednesday at the Bloomfield Open Hunt Club.

William L. Clark, executive director of Big Brothers of Oakland County, presented an official certificate of merit to the guild at the meeting. It is a certificate approved by the Big Brothers of America for individuals or organizations who have done meritorious services for the Big Brother agencies.

Mr. Clark reported that not only has the Needlework Guild given generously of clothing after the ingathering but also has regularly made financial contributions to the Big Brothers of Oakland County's clothing fund.

This certificate was particularly authorized by clothing committee chairman of the Big Brothers of Oakland, John Sterling of Birmingham.

Now is the time the guild members begin contacting their donors, reminding them of the annual ingathering, display and distribution of garments and household linens. The goal of the guild is to provide clothing for needy families.

NEVER ENOUGH
According to Mrs. James O. Wright, president of the organization, some 22 agencies are being served and there are never enough garments or shoes collected to meet all of their requirements.

Mrs. Louis Colombo Jr., chairman of volunteers in the children's division of the Pontiac State Hospital, told guild members what wonderful help the guild is to the patients and what NEW garments mean to a boy or girl who is used to hand-me-downs in the past.

DISPLAY ON OCT. 18

Guests included Rev. Louis C. Gillette of Birmingham who started the Big Brothers in Oakland County, and his mother, Mrs. John Gillette, guild board member of Big Brothers.

The ingathering and display of the garments collected will be Oct. 18 at the Birmingham Unitarian Church, Woodward and Lone Pine Road.

Officers will be elected at the annual meeting 10 a.m. following a 9 o'clock coffee hour.

New section presidents introduced were Mrs. E. H. Graf and Mrs. Ralph Woodburn. New directors are Mrs. John Archangel, Mrs. William B. Baresford, Mrs. Robert Gillette, Mrs. George Huffman, Mrs. Howard Lawrence, Mrs. Gerald McGinty, Mrs. Gordon Shira, Mrs. Charles Straight, Mrs. Frank Audette, Mrs. Frederick Betts, Mrs. James Hobbs, Mrs. H. L. Kohler, Mrs. F. Levensch, Mrs. Alan Pearce, Mrs. Richard Statton and Mrs. Milton Schimpke. Agencies served are Oakland County Juvenile Court, Family Service of Oakland County, Oakland County Social Welfare, American Red Cross of Oakland County, Birmingham Community House, St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Big Brothers of Oakland County, Pontiac State Hospital, Visiting Nurses of Oakland County and Camp Oakland, included for the first time this year is the Michigan Children's Aid of Oakland County.

Rev. Louis C. Gillette (left), vicar of Nativity Episcopal Church, Birmingham, looks on as William L. Clark, executive director, Big Brothers of Oakland County, Inc., presents a certificate of merit to Mrs. James O. Wright of Birmingham, president of the Birmingham-Bloomfield branch, Needlework Guild of America. Mrs. John W. Gillette (right) of Birmingham was a guest at the Wednesday luncheon meeting in Bloomfield Open Hunt Club. She is a Guild member and serves on the board of the Big Brothers.

Abby's on Her Side

Mom's Right, You're Wrong

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am 15 and am having mother trouble. I am treated like a slave around the house. I have to do all the dishes and clean my room throughly every day. I am made to hang up all my clothes the minute I take them off. What are mothers off? Once I decided not to do anything right, hoping my mother would get disgusted and do it herself, but she made me do it over again.

Now I have to look after my little brothers because the doctor said my mother needs more rest. I have my school work to do and would like to get out of the house to with my friends once in a while.

My mother reads some letters out loud to me from your column. Please be on my side so I can read your answer to her.

DEAR SLAVE: I'm afraid this is another one your mother is going to read out loud to you:

Anything you can do around the house to lighten your mother's burden, you should do willingly. You are getting excellent training in housekeeping, personal neatness and child care.

Appreciate your mother and her efforts to make a tidy, well-organized young lady of you. You will never live long enough to repay her. And, unfortunately, neither will she.

DEAR ABBY: Our Daddy is in his second childhood. He is 51 and the woman he is dating is 27, and people are talking. We are two sisters, 24 and 26, both happily married. Mamma died two years ago.

We don't object to Daddy's seeking companionship, but don't you think he could find someone nearer his own age? Could he be mentally off? We are too embarrassed to discuss this with our pastor.

DEAR CONCERNED: Perhaps your Daddy is a "young" 51 and the woman he's dating is a mature 28. When two "grown-up" people are mutually attracted, age is only a number.

Be glad your father isn't camping on your doorstep, moping and growing lonelier and more miserable with the years.

DEAR ABBY: I am 12 years old and all my life I have wanted to be a doctor. My only trouble is I can't stand the sight of blood. I get sick at my stomach just looking at the needle the doctor is going to give me a shot with. I can't bear to put a fish hook through a worm and I get weak in the knees when I watch my father clean fish. Does a person outgrow this feeling or do you think I ought to teach school?

DEAR BRUCE: You'll never know until you try. Take biology in school. If you can dissect a frog without getting jumpy, you've outgrown it.

UNLOAD YOUR PROBLEMS ON ABBY. For a personal reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to ABBY, care of The Pontiac Press.

For Abby's booklet, "How To Have A Lovely Wedding," send 50 cents to ABBY, care of The Pontiac Press, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Alcoholism Discussed at Meeting

Members and guests of the Pontiac Business and Professional Women's Club met Tuesday for a talk and film on alcoholism.

Mrs. Francis Zanakis, from the Alcoholism Information Center was guest speaker. She told the 28 members and two guests present that alcoholism is the third public health problem today. She explained some of the programs available to schools, churches, and service clubs to assist those afflicted.

After her talk a film, "To Your Health," was shown. Guests attending were Mrs. John Whelan of Queensland, Australia, and Mrs. Beatrice Clark.

Open Gifts at Shower

Mrs. Clay T. Power of Summit Avenue opened nursery gifts Wednesday in the home of Mrs. William Center of Lincoln Avenue. Mrs. John Crowe was cohostess.

Among the 26 guests were the honoree's aunt, Mrs. Sybella Stevens, Mrs. Henry Powers, Mrs. Bernard McManigal, Lake Orion, Mrs. Richard Sandberg, Warren and Mrs. Earl Bellote, Waterford Township. From Clarkston were Mrs. Walred J. Sandberg and Mrs. Donald C. Asten.

No Offense Meant; Forget It

By the Emily Post Institute

Q. A good friend of mine is going to be married shortly. The other day she was telling me of her wedding plans and said that she would like me to be one of her bridesmaids if I could afford it.

I resented this very much and think it was most improper and an insult for her to have referred to my financial status. Will you please tell me if I am right in feeling as I do?

A. Although your friend was very tactless, I am sure she was only trying to be considerate and meant no offense to you.

Q. A very dear friend of mine is going to be married in two weeks. The wedding will take place in the morning with a breakfast following at one of the hotels. I have a very pretty black dress that I had intended to wear.

Someone has just told me that black is bad luck at a wedding. Will you please tell me if this is true?

While not bad luck, black is not a very suitable color for a wedding because it adds a somber note to a joyous and festive occasion.

However, there is no impropriety in a guest wearing a black dress if it is relieved with color, either in accessories or trimmings. Members of both families and closest relatives should not choose black.

The Emily Post Institute offers readers booklets on a variety of subjects concerning etiquette. If you would like the booklet entitled "Manners in Public," send 10 cents in coin and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to the Emily Post Institute, care of The Pontiac Press.

Club Sets Luncheon Program

The Village Woman's Club of Bloomfield Hills is having a luncheon program for its members to present class activities for the year, Tuesday and Wednesday noon in the clubhouse.

Dramatizing the importance of these classes, June Wisbey and Dorothy Reid, of the Vanguard Theater group, will present a skit.

Present at the meetings which will be identical for purposes of greater attendance, will be the chairmen of the class groups already formed. Planning this special program are Mrs. Norman Ellis and Mrs. Carl Bluman.

Reservations may be made at the clubhouse.

Announce Daughter's Betrothal

Capt. and Mrs. Arnold W. Eggen, USN Norfolk, Va., announce the engagement of their daughter Sharon Kay to R. Bradley Gale of Vinewood Avenue.

Her fiancé is the son of former Pontiac residents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert I. Gale now of Kailua, Hawaii.

The bride-elect is a junior at the College of William and Mary, Williamsburg, Va. and a member of Gamma Phi Beta Sorority.

Mr. Gale has completed two years of study at Webb Institute of Naval Architecture, Glen Cove, N.Y. and attends University of Michigan majoring in naval architecture and aeronautical engineering.

WCTU Meets for Dinner

Members of the Pontiac Women's Christian Temperance Union gathered for cooperative dinner Tuesday in the home of Mrs. E. J. Sweeney on Bradford Street.

Mrs. Ralph Osborne gave devotions on "The Compassion of Christ." Mrs. Frances Zanakis of the Alcoholism Information Center spoke.

All officers were re-elected with the exception of the vice president who is Mrs. Floyd Durhaugh.

Lap robes for service men will be made at the next meeting on Oct. 20.

DAR Chapter Gathers

Fourteen members of General Richardson Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, attended the DAR regional meeting Wednesday in the First Methodist Church, Royal Oak.

Ezra Parker Chapter, Royal Oak, was hostess to some 116 members from 13 other chapters in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties.

Four national officers were present, besides nearly all of the state officers of Michigan DAR to present plans for the year's program and coordinate activities of all the groups.

ON THE STUDENT ROSTER
at Olivet Nazarene College, Kankakee, Ill., are Kenneth Roth, son of George Roth, Hatcher Road, a senior majoring in chemistry; Charles Stallons, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Stallons of North Jessie Street, education senior and John Story, son of the Samuel M. Story, Oxford, theology freshman.

ASSUMING THEIR RESPECTIVE DUTIES are Mrs. Parbury Schmidt, Mrs. John F. Gregory, Mrs. Howard L. Beer, Mrs. Harold Sader, Mrs. Schwartz, Mrs. William Baresford and Mrs. Frederick J. Dykstra.

SUN B. BOWERS, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lytle C. Bowers of Pleasant Avenue, is a freshman at Beaver College, Glenside, Pa.

Betrothal Announced by Parents

Mr. and Mrs. Percival F. A. Francis, Kirkway Drive, Bloomfield Township, announce the engagement of their daughter Elizabeth Jeanne to Edward E. Burns, son of Mrs. Edward E. Burns of Detroit and the late Mr. Burns.

The bride-elect is attending the Ann Arbor school of practical nursing, and her fiancé is a senior at the University of Michigan.

DELEGATES DELIVER GIRLS STATE REPORT

July Fitzpatrick and Barbara Graybill, delegates from Girls State, reported on their experiences to the members of Cook Nelson Auxiliary Monday evening. Guests were the VFW Ladies Auxiliary.

Following the program tea was served.

What Youngsters Are Thinking

Teens' Average Allowance Now Runs $3

By EUGENE GILBERT
President, Gilbert Youth Research, Inc.

Whatever the experts in Washington may think of the nation's economy, America's teen-agers clearly are experiencing a slight recession.

According to our latest cross-section survey, fewer teen-agers receive an allowance today than 18 months ago, and the average amount per week has dropped more than 13 per cent.

Still, the weekly stipend is considerably higher than it was when we made a similar survey six years ago, and four out of every 10 teen-agers we questioned said they felt parents generally were too lenient about giving their children money. (Though less than two out of 10 were willing to include their own parents in this category.)

Today 62 per cent of the teen-agers boys and 58 per cent of the girls said they received an allowance.

The average was $3 a week. In March 1956, 67 per cent of the boys and 72 per cent of the girls received allowances averaging $3.47 a week.

Of the 301 boys we questioned, the average weekly allowance was $3.76 and 29 per cent of them, the largest group, said they received between $4 and $5.

LITTLE SUPERVISION
Eighteen months ago 25 per cent of the boys received between $5 and $6 a week—a dollar more than today. Now only 3 per cent receive that much.

Similarly, the 478 girls in our survey reported an average weekly allowance of $2.55. In 1961 one-fourth of them received between $2 and $3 a week, but today only 17 per cent get that much and most 30 per cent receive between $1 and $2.

Eighteen months ago only 1 per cent received $1 or less a week; today 29 per cent are in that category.

However much their parents give them, 69 per cent of the teen-agers felt they shouldn't be surprised in the spending of it any more than as though they had earned it themselves.

Some, like 16-year-old Joe Godfrey of Topeka, Kan., disagree. "Too many teen-agers smoke and drink nowadays because their parents don't know what they do with their money," he said.

Surprisingly enough, as many as 14 per cent of the group (19 per cent of the boys and 11 per cent of the girls), felt teen-agers shouldn't get an allowance at all.

EARN IT

Most of them, 63 per cent, said they should be required at least to earn their pocket change by doing odd jobs at home.

Incidentally, only 2 per cent hold part time jobs during the school term, though 33 per cent (38 per cent of the boys and 29 per cent of the girls) have summer jobs.

We asked how much they felt was a fair amount for a weekly allowance and about one-fourth replied $1 to $5. Only 1 per cent said the amount should depend on family income.

Apparently today's teens don't like to receive handouts (most feel an allowance is their due) any more than parents like to give them.

LOANS IN ORDER

Only 26 per cent said their parents should give them extra money when the allowance runs out, though 81 per cent (92 per cent of the boys and 75 per cent of the girls) felt a small loan would be in order.

Margaret McAtee, 17, of Ramsey, N. J., noted that "an allowance is to learn how to spend money wisely, how to stretch it."

On the other hand, 17-year-old Carol Bookin of North Billerica, N. Y., believed parents should help out for a pinch. "As long as the money is paid back."

More than half the students, 52 per cent, said teen-agers shouldn't be allowed to buy things on time payments. "Most teen-agers tire of the obligations as other events arise," commented Howard Thompson Jr., 18, of Miami, Fla.

And 73 per cent said they shouldn't be allowed to have their own charge accounts, many explaining that the temptation to overspend was too great.

Just as 18 months ago, school lunches and amusements topped the list of uses to which allowance money was put.

Nearly eight out of 10 felt teen-agers shouldn't have to buy their own clothes, though 42 per cent felt they should be given a separate clothing allowance for this purpose.

Among the boys, most felt $1 to $3 a week should cover the cost of clothes. The girls felt they would need $3 to $5.

He Can't Be Fired

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE N-64: Donald K. aged 20, is the discouraged college senior who wonders what chance a poor guy has in this age of giant industrial plants.

"Dr. Crane," he added, "I don't have any money, so I must depend on my own hands and brain."

"But what chance do I have of making a big income?" The late Glenn Franks once said:

"The salesman is the spark plug of civilization."

And that is not only true, but the salesman has far more job security and chance of a big income than any other worker. Here's why:

First, he may have 500 "employers" instead of just one.

For when he has recruited 500 satisfied customers, each of them is a "boss."

But if one dies or moves away or gets laid off, his income doesn't drop suddenly from maybe $100 per week to zero.

No, indeed, for he still has 499 "employers" in the form of his other satisfied customers. And with a little cold canvassing, he can again recruit a new customer to bring his total back to that 500-mark.

But what happens to the young fellow who takes a salaried office or factory job?

He has just ONE boss. So if that employer dislikes him or dies or retires from the firm, he may be out of a job entirely.

10-Year-Old Girl's Dying Wish Realized; Book Gets Published

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON (U.S.)—The dying wish of a gay and courageous child came true today.

The strangely moving book that 10-year-old Suzanne Reynolds has worked on against time was put on sale this morning in scores of British bookshops. In many, it was an immediate sellout.

TIME TO FINISH

Suzanne died of cancer. But not before she finished her life's work. She finished writing "Snowy and the Christmas Foal" the day before she died after a last desperate operation to save her life.

Her mother, Eileen Reynolds, said "It's exactly as she wrote it. No alterations. Just a punctuation here and there. She would have been so proud."

With a tear in her voice the mother added, "She never grumbled or spoke of being unwell. She only talked of her pony and cat, and the fairy stories she sat up at night to write."

COURAGE CITED

Sir Cecil Waleley, one of Britain's most eminent surgeons commented: "At such times, let us remember the courage of the gay and beautiful child who gave us 'Snowy and the Christmas Foal.'"

In a foreword to the book, Sir Cecil said:

"Suzanne's story is for children and my words shall be to them. Always try to be especially thankful when you are well and strong, and please, do what you can to help and to heal those who cannot run about and play."

'AN INSPIRATION'

A spokesman for the Imperial Cancer Research Fund said "It's a pleasant, refreshing and very moving book by a little girl who should be an inspiration to us all."

All money from the book goes to fight cancer.

Animals were Suzanne's friends. When other children went out to play — even before she was confined to bed — she stayed behind to write and write.

FASTER AND FASTER

As the dreaded disease spread, Suzanne wrote faster and faster. It was as if she had to finish the book in a hurry, for she never knew she was dying.

Suzanne's principal character was a pony named Snowy. Snowy wanted a foal, but didn't seem to be able to produce one. Then one Christmas Eve — she did. The child drew from real life, for she owned a pony named Jinny.

Suzanne also illustrated her book.

Her book begins: "It was Christmas Eve. Farmer Brown said: 'I wish we could have got Mary the pony she wanted.' Suzanne died in late February."

Tint Wall in Oils

Fashionable colors, such as avocado and honey beige, can be readily applied to wood paneling on interior walls. According to the Southern Pine Association, the desired hue can be achieved simply by tinting the finish with oils. Such finishes are transparent and do not obscure the wood grain.

Stops Grounds

Keep a thimble in your coffee can in addition to the measuring spoon. Use it as a cap on the center tube of the percolator when putting the dry coffee in the strainer basket. There will be no grounds in the coffee.

Of Course You Wash Electric Blankets

Keep the luster and good looks of your electric blanket by washing and drying it in your own home laundry equipment. While today's electric blankets are invariably machine washable, there are some older blankets that require special care. So be sure to check the manufacturer's label on the blanket for particular directions first. Once the washability is determined, it is a simple washing project.

For the washing of an electric blanket requires no more time or effort than that needed for the caring of a regular type blanket. Certainly there is no need to feel skeptical about washing electric blankets because of the wiring inside. The wiring, say the experts, is so well insulated that soap and water cannot touch it.

Begin by placing the blanket in your washer with cold or warm water and a light duty liquid detergent or specialty product. When you're ready for drying, pre-heat your dryer at normal temperature for about five minutes.

A towel or two may be inserted in your dryer to act as a buffer. It is also a good idea to tie or sew up the plug inside a corner of the blanket or a washcloth.

Place the electric blanket in the dryer and allow it to tumble for about twenty minutes.

This will dry the electric blanket most of the way, but for best results, hang your electric blanket on a line to complete the drying process, preferably lengthwise over two parallel clotheslines.

To restore blanket texture to new appearance, lay it on a smooth surface and brush thoroughly with your hands to get complete fluffiness and smoothness. Then finish up by simply pressing the binding at either end with a cool iron. Avoid ironing any other portion of the blanket.

To store, fold the blanket carefully lengthwise and then from top to bottom. Be sure to be as neat as possible in the folding.

Speaking of storage, by the way, the best possible way to do this, the experts agree, is to keep the blanket in the original packaging. If not this carton, use an old sheet and wrap the blanket, placing it flat on a shelf or in a drawer.

ADVICE

Here are some other important do's and don'ts in washing and drying your electric blanket.

... For best results, place your electric blanket in the washer and dryer by itself.

... Never put your electric blanket in the wringer. This type of treatment could play havoc with the electrical wiring system inside.

... Avoid knotting or twisting unnecessarily in the washing and drying process, particularly when placing the electric blanket in the washer or dryer.

... Make sure that your dryer is at a high temperature level when you place the electric blanket in it. This allows you to take the blanket out in minimum time.

... Above all, never dry clean your electric blanket or use cleaning solvents, which damage insulation of wire.

Correct That Posture

Stand Up, Question Mark!

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

The woman who has truly beautiful posture always stands out from the crowd because she is so unusual. She has a grace which is charming, she appears self-confident and she always seems youthful, no matter what her age. Stamping can give the impression of age even in a fairly young person.

Pin your hopes on a straight spine if you wish to take this attribute of youth down the years with you. A straight spine gives you a lovely back, lifts the bust and positions the head in a queenly way. Yet so many women are round-shouldered.

If you have had the habit of slumping for years, the muscles of your chest will have shortened and your back shoulder muscles will have lengthened and weakened. You will have to stretch, slowly, the chest muscles and strengthen those back muscles with special exercises.

It also is important to become aware of the way you sit and stand during the day. If you can sleep without a pillow, this also is helpful. At least try to use a small pillow rather than an over-size one.

The following exercise is corrective to round shoulders and also gives the upper arms a good stretch. Stand erect with your arms in front of you, hands clasped loosely and your feet comfortably separated.

As you bend your trunk forward to right angles to your legs, swing your arms out at the sides and backward and pull back, palms toward the back of the room. Keep your head up. Now raise your trunk and again clasp your hands in front of you. Continue. Do this slowly.

If you would like to increase your bust measurement, you may want my booklet, "Your Bust." If so, send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Josephine Lowman in care of The Pontiac Press.

Another: Lie on the floor on your back. Bend both knees and place your feet flat on the floor, arms resting on the floor at your sides. Place a small pillow under your head. Now roll your head back, lifting your shoulders from the floor, but keeping your hips on the floor. Return shoulders and head to starting position and continue, slowly.

If you would like to increase your bust measurement, you may want my booklet, "Your Bust." If so, send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Josephine Lowman in care of The Pontiac Press.

front" that is a blessing to everyone. It keeps proper distance between parents and children and establishes the limits which the young need made for them.

What encouraged your daughter to interfere in your quarrel was not the quarrel but your fear of it. The young have few noses for the smell of resentments that linger on in fathers and mothers after unfiled quarrels.

They will use the resentments to insert a deeper wedge between their parents if it seems to promote the child's advantage.

A daughter who wants some favor from her father will rush in to support his objection to our church work — and get what she wants by winning his gratitude.

But such unhealthy family quarrels are not caused by healthy quarrels between parents. They are caused by the sickly, unfiled quarrels between two adults who have chosen to swallow their bile in the name of some ideal of themselves as "peace lovers."

No, I'm afraid I can't advocate quarrels running off to a locked bedroom every time they get mad at each other in order to spare their children the truth that they can get mad.

The only people such parents fool are themselves.

You're Not Alone

Forget Faults; Find Best Features

By ALICIA HART

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

If your figure is less than perfect, you have lots of company. So don't fret about it. Just admit the problem exists, do your best to correct it, and wear clothes that will minimize the fault if it's one that can't be corrected.

If you're tall, don't try to hide the fact by slouching. Stand up straight and make the most of your height by wearing bold prints, unusual colors, wide belts and narrow, trim pants.

The short girl has the advantage of being able to wear all the delicate, feminine things that get lost on taller women. She can wear tiny white collars, a small flower, dainty jewelry and short, embroidered gloves. But she must avoid the pitfall of becoming fussy in her attire rather than charmingly feminine.

The gal who is too plump should exercise and eat sensibly to dissolve the bulges. And in the meantime, should wear neat, slimming clothes that have no elaborate frills.

FIGURE FACTS

Here are a few tips on styling tricks that fool the eye: Two-piece suits and dresses of contrasting colors, wide belts and large collars all cut height.

Vertical stripes, solid color dresses, princess lines and short hemlines make the short girl seem taller.

Horizontal lines, bulky fabrics and full skirts give roundness to the angular figure. So the plump girl should avoid them. Slim, easily-fitted skirts in plain colors are for her to help them down the appearance of the hips.

V-necklines make the face and neck appear longer and round or square necklines make the face look rounder.

Choose the tricks that will best camouflage your figure faults and play up your good points. Keep your hair well-styled, shining and clean. Bring drama to your eyes with colorful eye makeup and, most of all, keep your complexion clean and fresh.

Female Alcoholics Keep Secret

By FRANK BATTALONE
NEW YORK — Women, as a sex, are more deceptive than men.

There probably are two reasons, the first natural, the second sociological.

A woman can be instinctively wily and, when necessary, secretive because it is her natural job to protect her family at all costs.

And, on the sociological level, women are subconsciously forced to be deceptive about whatever activities they pursue which the men of the times do not approve.

Oddly, in this generation of "equal status" for the sexes, most women — and almost all men — still hold the basic attitudes of past generations concerning the qualities of "ideal" womanhood.

Women, no matter how far they stray from this ideal, will lie and evade to maintain a pretense of having the old-fashioned virtues.

Tragic evidence of this comes to light in a report which states that — of an estimated 5 million alcoholics in the United States — at least half are believed to be women.

Most of these women could be helped. But they will not reveal themselves.

They drink so secretly that, according to a California doctor, they have been known to keep the truth from their own husbands for periods of from 14 to 17 years.

'MAN'S SPORT'

Drinking is, of course, still considered a man's sport.

If a man drinks a great deal, he is considered no less "manly." In fact, regrettably, in many circles, the man who can "hold his booze" is looked upon as more of a masculine entity than the tototaller.

There are few areas left in which men are, socially, expected to behave differently from women; the consumption of alcohol is one of them.

As a result, some men incline to boast of their drinking capacity, while most women refuse to admit they take more than a dainty dosage of pretty aperitifs.

Dr. Seligman, head of the California Rehabilitation Center reports (in "Science Digest") that women are "far less ready to admit" that they drink excessively — even to concede they drink at all — than men are.

"Of course," in searching for the truth, the doctor says, "you don't begin by just asking the lady if she is an alcoholic. This will only get you injured answers."

If they suspect a female may be a problem drinker, and want to help, there are certain physical giveaways that can help doctors trace the true source of trouble when a dignified-looking woman comes in, complaining of vague but chronic ills.

'HANDS TREMBLE'

Her hands may tremble. She's likely to be a heavy smoker. Often she'll have a shiny, reddish swelling on the palms of her hands. And — unlike lady alcoholics of "Dickensian fame, who were buxom, hoydenish, fishwife types with brandy blossoms on the cheeks — the lady alcoholic of today is probably pale and thin.

"Our patients today are more usually seriously undernourished . . . they look anemic even when they are not."

Doctors have found that the best way to discover the truth about a lady's excessive drinking is to talk to her husband. If he knows her condition, he is "apt" to tell the truth — either from a desire to help her, or to punish her.

But there is a very good chance he doesn't know — not only because women are deceptive, but because a lady may become an alcoholic only after her husband loses interest in her well-being.

Moose Women Hold Meeting

The meeting of the Women of the Moose, Chapter 360, was held Monday at the Moose home on Mt. Clemens Street. The program was presented by the star recorders with Mrs. Michael Blahut as chairman.

Assisting her were Mrs. Richard Cavalier, star recorder, Mrs. Ferman Huston, past recorder, and Mrs. Harold Finn, present recorder. Mrs. Stephen Sapelak was enrolled.

A Penny Supper is planned for Oct. 7.

Athletes Face Olympic Ban

CHICAGO (AP) — The International Olympic Committee today cracked down hard on "state amateurs" subsidized by their governments and on college athletes receiving scholarships based on athletic ability.

It banned 10 types from future Olympic games. Rigidly applied, the new rule would "disqualify about half of the American Olympic team," said Avery Brundage, International Olympic president.

The International Committee sent a summary of the new amateur rule to National Olympic Committees and International Federations with a covering letter that stated "these rules are designed to eliminate all athletes who have been placed in the Armed Forces or who have been given jobs of any kind for little or nothing to do but train for sport, to college boys who have been given scholarships because of their athletic ability."

WHAT ABOUT REEDS?

Brundage declined to speculate on what effect the new simon pure amateur rules would have on the teams of Soviet Russia and other Communist nations. It will be up to the National Olympic Committee to enforce them, he said.

An amateur was defined by the I.O.C. as an athlete "who participates and always has participated in sport as an avocation without material gain of any kind. He does not qualify."

"(A) If he has not a basic occupation designed to insure his present and future livelihood:
"(B) If he receives or has received remuneration for participation in sport.

"(C) If he does not comply with the rules of the International Federation concerned, and the official interpretations of this rule No. 26."

Brundage said that it will be up to the Amateur Athletic Union in the United States to enforce the new rules, thereby giving it another powerful weapon in its current battle with the National Collegiate Athletic Association over control of track and field. Along with the strict new amateur rules, the I.O.C. liberalized its views on "broken time" and authorized National Olympic committees to make a contribution to dependents of athletes in hardship cases where the absence of a wage earner would cause suffering.

In his covering letter Brundage told national committees around the world:

STATE AMATEURS

"Adverse criticism of the Olympic Games has been limited. Most of it has been because of the alleged presence of so-called 'state amateurs' (competitors given special subsidies for athletic prowess by government) and of competitors given scholarships and other benefits because of their athletic ability, neither of which are amateur and both of which are thereby ineligible."

Angler Mixes Blood Donating, Casting Practice

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—Charles Kennerly of Little Rock, an avid fisherman, donated a pint of blood and practiced casting at the same time.

He said he was trying to demonstrate how easy it is to give blood. The University of Arkansas Medical Center, where he donated, blamed for the stunt with a written release signed by Kennerly.

He said he had given blood 23 times. The Arkansas Heart Association said it was having trouble getting people to give blood for open heart operations.

Ferris Eleven Coach's Dream Come True

By The Associated Press
Ferris has been a coach's dream so far in the new 1962 football season — strong offense, strong defense.

Sam Ketchum's Bulldogs piled up 61 points for a 30.5 average in their two victories. And Ferris is still undefeated upon Michigan, Michigan State, Kalamazoo and Wayne State haven't opened their schedules.

Fighter Still in Coma

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Alejandro Lavarate, 25-year-old Argentine heavyweight who was knocked out in a fight here last Friday night, still hasn't regained consciousness.

Dr. J. DeWitt Fox, who performed two emergency operations to relieve pressure on the boxer's brain, says it appears that the coma will be prolonged.

Casper Favored 12-1 in Sahara Invitational

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Nearly 600 of the country's top golfers — both professional and amateur — teed off today in the $30,000 Hotel Sahara Invitational golf tournament.

With neither Jack Nicklaus or Arnold Palmer in competition, the pre-tournament favorite's role went to Billy Casper, Jr., Apple Valley, Calif., already a triple winner on the circuit in 1962. Local odds-makers quoted Casper at 12-1 for the four-day tournament.

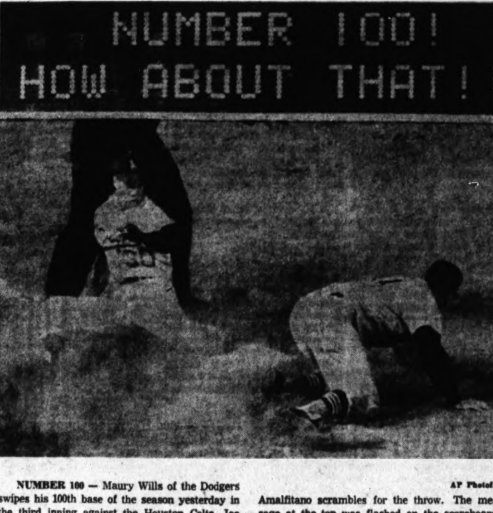

Phil Rodgers, now playing out of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., is the defending champion, having finished with a highly respectable 18-under-par 139 in 1961. He won the 1961 Los Angeles and Tucson opens.

The initial two rounds will be played on both the Paradise Valley Country Club and Municipal golf course. The pros will be cut to the low 60 for the final two rounds at Paradise on Saturday and Sunday.

Olin Dutra Elected to PGA Hall of Fame

DUNEDIN, Fla. (AP) — Olin Dutra, 61, a golfing great of the 1930s, has been elected to the Professional Golfers' Association Hall of Fame, PGA President Lou Strong announced today.

Dutra, a California pro at Anaheim, who made up eight strokes in the last 36 holes to beat Gene Sarazen for the 1934 USGA open title, became the 31st man to be named to the club of retired golfing stars. He beat Frank Walsh 4 and 3 to win the national PGA championship in 1932.

LA Romps but Giants Win

Dodger Magic Number Drops to 3

By The Associated Press

The front-running Los Angeles Dodgers have reduced their magic number to three and suddenly changed the National League pennant picture with a four-star production replete with two cannonballs, a crafty juggler and a scene stealer.

The stumbling Dodgers, who had lost six of eight games and half of their four-game bulge over pursuing San Francisco, broke out of their slump Wednesday night with a 17-hit attack that overwhelmed Houston 15-1 and left the second-place Giants two lengths behind with four games to play.

The cast included: Cannonballs — Frank Howard and Tommy Davis, the former playing the chief executioner by driving in five runs, and the latter stroking three hits and boosting average to .346.

Juggler — Johnny Podres, the sore-shouldered pitcher who scattered eight hits en route to his 15th victory.

Scene stealer — Maury Wills, who stole his 100th base and now has pilfered more bases than any team in the majors.

The Giants kept pace with a 6-3 triumph over St. Louis as Tom Haller drove in four runs with a homer and double and Orlando Cepeda accounted for the clincher with a bases-empty homer.

The Dodgers now need any combination of three victories and/or San Francisco defeats in the final four games to clinch the NL flag.

The Dodgers have one game left with the Colts, then wind up with a three-game series against St. Louis. San Francisco plays the Cards once more, then tackles Houston three times.

THREE HITTERS

Elsewhere, Earl Francis and Bob Friend combined for a three-hitter as Pittsburgh edged third-place Cincinnati 1-0 in 11 innings.

Milwaukee made New York the longest team in modern major league history by beating the Mets 6-3 and Philadelphia whipped the Chicago Cubs 6-5 on Wes Covington's three-run homer.

The Colts pulled out front in the first inning on consecutive singles by Al Heist, Jim Pendleton and Johnny Temple, but Podres (12) settled down and was touched for only five more hits before he was taken out for a rest after seven innings. Jack Smith and Larry Sherry finished up.

The Dodgers, meanwhile, chased George Brunet (2-4) with two runs in the second inning and a pair in the third. Then Howard took over, hitting a three-run homer in the fourth inning — his 31st homer — and a two-run single in the fifth as the Dodgers made it 15-1.

Wills provided the expected daring on the basepaths when he and Davis executed a double steal in the third inning. Wills sliding into third ahead of Hal Smith's throw for his 100th steal. Davis cracked a tie for the batting lead with Cincinnati's Frank Robinson, who went 0-for-4 and dropped to .302.

Hoopie's Startled by His Own System

By MAJOR AMOS E. HOOPIE
Upset Champion

Egad, friends, what a memorable football Saturday this will be! The projected results of some of the leading encounters startle even me, a man long accustomed to extraordinary reversals of form. But I have painstakingly rechecked my work sheets and can find not one single reason for changing my bold stand.

The amazing upsets are: Illinois will defeat Washington. Stanford will thump Michigan State. Southern Methodist will triumph over Southern California. The Air Force Academy will subdue Penn State.

How, you may ask, did I arrive at such outstanding predictions? I'm sorry, dear readers, but years ago, out of compassion for my bookmaking friends, I promised never to disclose the details of the infallible Hoopie System.

Truly, the socio-psychological, astrophysical action of the system is beyond the ken of most people. But the mathematical formula is understood.

Suppose we apply the latter to the Washington-Illinois game. From the Illinois 26,610 student body subtract Washington's 24,160 enrollment. To this figure add the Washington faculty of 2,351 and subtract Illinois' 2,365.

All right, throw them out. With that out of the way, you take the founding dates of the schools: Washington is 1861, Illinois is 1867. Subtract one from the other and that leaves you with six, which is the exact score by which Illinois will win—6-0—bar-rum!

Like most good things, the Hoopie System is simple. Just the other day neighbor Baxter told me I was the simplest per he knew. (Ed. Note: Better think that one over, Major.)

A pleasant week-end to you. Go on with the forecast.

15 Games Set for Post-Season

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The National College Athletic Association certified 15 post-season football games Tuesday.

NCAA members are subject to penalties if they participate in bowl games not certified.

Under NCAA rules for post-season games, the sponsoring committee must include at least two representatives of NCAA member institutions, competing schools must receive at least one-third of the total stadium seats and at least 75 per cent of the gross receipts, and game officials must meet the approval of both schools.

If all 15 bowl games certified are played, it will be the greatest number since legislation governing them was adopted in 1961. Fourteen were played last year, although 15 were certified.

THE LIST

The certified games: Mineral Water Bowl, Excelsior Springs, Mo., Nov. 24; Prairie View, Prairie View, Tex., Dec. 1; Aviation, Dayton, Ohio, Ohio, Cement, Alintown, Pa., and Gotham, New York City, all Dec. 8; Liberty, Philadelphia, Dec. 15; Bluebonnet, Houston, Dec. 22; Gator, Jacksonville, Fla., and National Trophy, Washington, D.C., both Dec. 29; Sun, El Paso, Tex., Dec. 31; and the Cotton at Dallas, Orange at Miami, Rose at Pasadena, Calif., Sugar at New Orleans and Tangerine at Orlando, Fla., all Jan. 1.

Detroit Loses Key Game

Tigers Eye 4th With 3rd Place Almost Settled

Angels Spoil Chance for Climb, Bunning's 39th Win, 8-5

DETROIT (AP) — All season the Tigers have displayed an inability to win the important game, the one that could help them move up.

Even with the pennant clinched by the Yankees and the season in the who-ears stage, the trail continues.

"Damn it, there goes third place," said manager Bob Schefling after the slumping Los Angeles Angels knocked off the Tigers 8-5. "We can't finish third. We'd have to win all three of our games while the Angels lose all four of theirs."

A victory yesterday would have put the Tigers just a game behind the third-place Angels. Instead, they go into their final series with the pumsher Kansas City Athletics three behind.

The loss also cost the Tigers a game to the fourth-place Chicago White Sox, who now hold the final money spot by 1½ games.

In other AL games, 15-year-old left-hander Dave McNally made a brilliant major league debut, firing a two-hitter as Baltimore trimmed the Athletics 3-0 in the opener of a two-night doubleheader, but Kansas City gained a split by taking the second game 6-2.

The Yankees applied the crusher to the Senators with seven runs in the third inning, and a whacky lining it was. New York collected seven hits off Don Rudolph during the spree, including a double and single by Hector Lopez, but there also was a pop fly by Mantle that fell for a double while three Senators looked on, another routine pop to shortstop that went for a sacrifice fly, a wild pitch, a walk and an error.

Ralph Terry pitched the first five innings for the Yankees, left with a 3-1 lead, and got his third victory. He's lost 12.

McNally, just up from Elmira of the Class A Eastern League, allowed a double to Bobby Del Greco in the third inning and a single to Ed Charles in the fourth, then retired the last 17 A's in a row. The young Oriole southpaw walked twice.

Grande Pena threw an eight-hitter as Kansas City gained a split. The A's built a 3-0 lead off Robin Roberts and closed out with three more runs off Steve Barber in the ninth. Norm Siebern and John Wojcik led the winners' 16-hit effort with three each.

A six-run uprising against Earl Wilson and Dick Radatz in the eighth inning ended the White Sox to take the Red Sox. Rookie Derson Jones pushed Chicago ahead with a two-run pinch double, then singles by Floyd Robinson and Sherm Lollar plus a wild pitch delivered four more runs.

White Sox right-hander Ray Herbert added more luster to his first year in the majors with his 18th victory. He turned in an eight-hit job and batted in a pair of runs with a homer and sacrifice fly.

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Angels' 8-5 victory over the Detroit Tigers yesterday ended the Tigers' hopes for a third-place finish in the American League.

EYE 3RD WIN — Starting linemen Bill Strauss, left, and Dave Sanders will be trying to pave the way for Birmingham Seaholm ballcarriers when the Maples seek their third straight triumph at Hazel Park tomorrow night.

DETROIT (UPI) — University of Detroit football coach John Idzik, embittered by his team's opening 27-0 loss to Boston College and plagued with injuries, today announced three lineup changes for the Titans' second encounter Saturday night at Xavier University.

Idzik said he planned to start 215-pound tackle Frank Fielder at right tackle in place of Benton Harbor sophomore Bob Rice.

Warren spot Gary Wilkie, starter at left half last week, will move to the second team fullback spot to replace the injured Jim Cavanaugh.

"Xavier is a hard-hitting football team and if we sit around and watch the game like we did in Boston we'll get beat again," Idzik said.

Mrs. Miller Captures Final WMGA Tourney

Mrs. C. J. Miller won the final Women's Metropolitan Golf Association tourney Wednesday at Sunnybrook with an 80.

Mrs. C. L. Zahn and Mrs. D. T. Graham tied for runner-up with 83.

Only 3 Places Set in American Loop

By The Associated Press

With the pennant again safely stowed away by the New York Yankees, let us now look at some interesting odds and ends to be cleaned up before the American League closes up shop for 1962 on Sunday.

For openers, there's the rivalry duel between the Yankees' Mickey Mantle and Boston's Pete Runnels for the batting title to heat things up as the clubs play out the string.

And then there's the possibility of some wholesale changes in the standings. Of the 10 teams, only the Yankees in first, Kansas City in ninth and Washington in last are set. Of most importance is the battle among Los Angeles, Chicago and Detroit.

ASSURED PAYDAY
Minnesota's rumpier Twins can drop no lower than third, thus are assured of a share of the World Series money, but the Angels, White Sox and Tigers still are fighting for a cut of the loot that is distributed among the first four finishers.

As of now, Minnesota is six games off the pace, Los Angeles 11, Chicago 10 and Detroit 11½.

In the next echelon, Cleveland, Baltimore and Boston are bunched within a two-game span. Mantle, on a real tear the past month at a .452 batting clip, inched closer to Runnels Wednesday. Mickey was 2-for-4 as the Yanks thrashed Washington 9-5, boosting his average to .322, while Pistol Pete went hitless in four tries in Boston's 9-3 loss to Chicago and fell to .326.

In other AL games, 15-year-old left-hander Dave McNally made a brilliant major league debut, firing a two-hitter as Baltimore trimmed the Athletics 3-0 in the opener of a two-night doubleheader, but Kansas City gained a split by taking the second game 6-2.

The Yankees applied the crusher to the Senators with seven runs in the third inning, and a whacky lining it was. New York collected seven hits off Don Rudolph during the spree, including a double and single by Hector Lopez, but there also was a pop fly by Mantle that fell for a double while three Senators looked on, another routine pop to shortstop that went for a sacrifice fly, a wild pitch, a walk and an error.

Ralph Terry pitched the first five innings for the Yankees, left with a 3-1 lead, and got his third victory. He's lost 12.

McNally, just up from Elmira of the Class A Eastern League, allowed a double to Bobby Del Greco in the third inning and a single to Ed Charles in the fourth, then retired the last 17 A's in a row. The young Oriole southpaw walked twice.

Grande Pena threw an eight-hitter as Kansas City gained a split. The A's built a 3-0 lead off Robin Roberts and closed out with three more runs off Steve Barber in the ninth. Norm Siebern and John Wojcik led the winners' 16-hit effort with three each.

A six-run uprising against Earl Wilson and Dick Radatz in the eighth inning ended the White Sox to take the Red Sox. Rookie Derson Jones pushed Chicago ahead with a two-run pinch double, then singles by Floyd Robinson and Sherm Lollar plus a wild pitch delivered four more runs.

White Sox right-hander Ray Herbert added more luster to his first year in the majors with his 18th victory. He turned in an eight-hit job and batted in a pair of runs with a homer and sacrifice fly.

Salk Vaccination Urged by Swainson

LANSING (AP)—Every person in Michigan not now protected should have the Salk polio shot, says Gov. George W. Swainson. Swainson said the halt in the use of the type three oral Salk vaccine does not prevent the use of the Salk vaccine, which he described as 100 per cent safe and effective. "Ample Salk vaccine is available," the governor said. "It is now being blended with other products for immunization against diphtheria, whooping cough and tetanus."

Warns Japan on Trade With Commie Lands

WASHINGTON (AP)—Assistant Secretary of State W. Averell Harriman cautioned Japan on Wednesday that any expanded trade with Communist countries "may be used later as a fulcrum of pressure against you."

Speaking at a luncheon meeting of the Japanese-American Society, Harriman expressed hope the Japanese government will recognize the danger and will not permit its trade to be used for political purposes.

Governor Cares Little About Image

Voters Back Segregationist Barnett

By United Press International
Gov. Ross Barnett had established a solid reputation as a sharp trial lawyer with a "folksy" technique when he rode the race issue into the governorship, his first elective office.

Barnett, who apparently remains solid backing from the segregationist-dominated electorate of Mississippi, cares little that his national "image" is as long as he has the support of Mississippians.

He firmly believes that most of his constituents want segregation preserved.

A demonstration of what the sentiment might be came Tuesday when Barnett emerged from the state office building where he had just turned away the bid of Negro James Meredith to register at the University of Mississippi.

He was roundly cheered by the crowd. In contrast, the state college board, which had, under pressure of the federal courts, agreed to register Meredith, was greeted with cold silence.

IN NATIONAL SPOTLIGHT

Barnett held the national spotlight in 1960 when he appeared before the Democratic national convention to speak out against the party's "socialist" platform. He later led his state in a bolt of the party to support a slate of pro-segregation electors in the presidential election.

Barnett, 64, broke into politics in 1951 when he bid for the governorship. He lost, but in 1959 the mushrooming racial issue, underlined by the Little Rock school crisis, provided the platform on which he beat a "moderate" candidate.

His folksy campaign, based on his promise that any voter who wanted to see Gov. Barnett had only to "kick on the door," simulated his courtroom manner in which he often would chat with jurors about mutual acquaintances.

Barnett, raised on a farm in Standing Pine, Miss., is not a polished speaker but he apparently speaks the language of the electorate and never fails to win applause when he promises to defend "constitutional rights" and "continuation of the southern way of life."

AP Photos

DRAWN CHEERS—Gov. Ross Barnett waves to a cheering crowd earlier this week as he enters the University of Mississippi college board meeting to await the arrival of Negro James Meredith. Barnett aroused a similar demonstration when he emerged from the state office building after turning away the bid of Meredith to attend the university.

That Albury Bunch Really Takes Over

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—Alburys dominated the trial when George Albury, 16, was convicted in criminal court of breaking and entering. Assistant County Solicitor W. V. Albury was one of the prosecutors. Raymond Albury was defense attorney and Willard Albury served as a juror. The four Alburys are not related.

Tentative plans call for the sending of seven iron-propelled space ships to Mars within the next 15 years. These would have an estimated speed of two million miles per day in space, making the trip in about 20 days.

Ford to Name Freighter for McNamara

DETROIT (UPI)—Ford Motor Co. today announced it was naming one of the ships in its fleet in honor of the secretary of defense.

Robert S. McNamara, former Ford president who left the company to join President Kennedy's Cabinet, will have his name on the newest ship in the firm's fleet.

Ford said the renaming of the former SS W. McGeen will be done in special ceremonies later this year at the company's Rouge plant.

More Cars, More Extras, More Power in 1962

By BEN PHILGAR
AP Automotive Writer

DETROIT — The 1962 automobile model year, drawing to a close this week, was a "more year" — more cars, more horsepower, more extras.

Unofficial figures show that 6,686,735 cars were built, a 24 per cent jump from 1961, and second only to 1955.

Sales have been unusually good and dealers probably will have 220,000 or less of these cars on hand when all of the 1963 models go on sale.

The carryover is small, especially so for such heavy production.

General Motors took all of the production honors in accounting for about 34 per cent of all cars built, an all-time high for any corporation.

Chevrolet and Cadillac set individual records. Buick Special showed the greatest year-to-year percentage increase for any car.

Pontiac showed the greatest percentage increase for any division.

After a four-year economy cycle, 1962 proved to be the comeback year for such items as V8 engines and dual exhaust systems. Power steering and power brakes reached an all-time peak.

Engines of 301 horsepower or more increased from 8.6 per cent of the total in 1961 to 10.2 per cent.

Production at the low end of the horsepower scale dropped sharply. In 1961, engines of 80 to 100 horsepower accounted for 14.5 per cent of all those built. This group slid to 7.2 per cent in the 1962 model year.

The 136-138 horsepower range continued to be the most popular, but it dropped from 21.6 to 20.4 per cent of total production.

Part of the horsepower increase was accounted for by the resurgence of V8 engines. These power plants showed a sharp increase at all companies except General Motors. For the industry as a whole the V8 installation rate rose from an eight-year low of 52.9 per cent in 1961 to 56.1 per cent. As recently as 1957 it was more than 80 per cent.

SIX CYLINDERS
Six cylinder engines were installed in 41.4 per cent of the cars and four cylinder engines, available only in the Pontiac Tempest and Chevy II, accounted for 2.5 per cent of all installations.

Dual exhausts also showed a turn-around after six years of steady decreases. The installation rate went up from 7 per cent to 10.4 per cent. In 1956 it was 40, rise in the V8 percentage and despite glowing predictions from probably a smaller model total, General Motors.

Power steering was installed on 70 per cent of all standard sized cars and 45.7 per cent of all cars. Power brakes were used on 47.6 per cent of all standards, 55.9 per cent of total production.

Manual transmissions with four forward speeds and a floor mounted shift lever, popularly known as "four on the floor," were installed in 188,000 cars, 91 per cent of them General Motors units. The biggest single user was the Corvair, with roughly 112,000 units.

The 11 compact cars accounted for 35 per cent of the 1962 model run. The year previously 10 compacts made up 33 per cent of the total. The newcomer was the Chevy II.

For 1963 the outlook is for continued increases in power, another

Peru Is Divided in Three Ways

Politics, Geography, Culture Split Long, Narrow Coast Nation

WASHINGTON — The military junta that recently took power in Peru heads a nation profoundly divided by politics, nature and culture.

Geography, however, is the basic divisive force in Peru. The country is split into three great natural regions, the National Geographic Society says.

COAST IS DESERT

The long, narrow coastland is a desert, broken only by irrigated valleys of Andean streams flowing to the Pacific. Ports, main cities and cotton and sugar plantations are found there.

Great mountain ranges, rising to peaks of 20,000 feet, form a massive central barrier, extending north and south throughout Peru's 1,400-mile length.

In the highlands, Indians farm terraced plots and graze sheep, cattle, llamas and alpacas.

A stone-walled, thatched-roof shepherd's hut at an elevation of 17,100 feet in southern Peru is believed to be the world's highest permanent habitation.

East of the Andes are forested foothills and parts of the Amazon flood plain. Travel is all but impossible except on rivers in the steaming rain forests.

Descendants of Spanish colonists dominate the coastal region and the capital, Lima. Strict rules and rituals govern their society.

A man entering a group, for instance, shakes hands formally all around when arriving and again when leaving. Even a casual street meeting calls for a handshake.

Close friends preface handshakes with the abran, a hug alternating with hearty backslapping.

The mestizo, Peruvians of mixed Spanish and Indian lineage, gradually are penetrating the old society as they succeed in business. Mestizos often grow luxurious mustaches to set themselves apart from the Indians, who have scant facial hair.

Dog's Got It Made, Has Financier

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — Around the neighborhood, Boomerang is known as the dog with the unusual charge account.

Every afternoon, when he hears a bell tinkle, the 6-year-old cocker spaniel deliberately stretches himself on the street in front of an oncoming vehicle.

The driver stops, looks over the flavors of ice cream he's selling, and selects a cup for the dog. He then jots down the transaction in a little book.

At the end of each week, Boomerang's owner, Joe Eganette, shows up to settle the account.

Ashtrays Find Way Into Surgery Room

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Rubber tires, the small variety used for novelty ashtrays, have found a role in surgery and anesthesiology, according to Children's Hospital of Los Angeles.

The hospital reported doctors there are using the six-inch diameter tires as pads or cushions during operations on children. While anesthetic is being administered, the tires are placed under the head or shoulders of the patient to achieve good air passage in the respiratory system.

Rebel at Renaming Street in Florida

AUBURNDALE, Fla. — A move by a group of residents to give Pilakalaha Avenue a less tongue-twisting name brought instant response from those who want to retain such Indian names in Florida.

Mayor Fred Jones said, "What would Florida be without Tallahassee, the Caloosahatchee River, and towns like Istachatta?" Auburndale would fold without a Pilakalaha Ave., goeth the mayor.

Jones said for those who couldn't pronounce the name "PK Ave." would get them there.

Protest Royal Hunt

LONDON (AP)—A protest meeting of 200 members of the League Against Cruel Sports passed a resolution yesterday condemning 13-year-old Prince Charles for shooting a stag on the Scottish moors.

Edward Hemingway, chairman of the league, said that Charles' father, Prince Philip, had spoken out recently against people who shot African big game as status symbols.

"What else is he seeking to do here except achieve a status symbol for his son?" asked Hemingway.

Dies of Crash Injuries

SOUTH BEND, Ind. — Dennis Velthouse, 20, Dowagiac, Mich., died in Memorial Hospital yesterday from injuries he suffered in a one-car crash east of Niles, Mich., Sept. 17. His car ran off a curve and rolled over in a field.

Overseas investment in Britain has increased during the last nine years by $5.6-billion.

Cadillac Joins Massive Trend

'63 Models of Auto Are Made to Appear Longer, Wider

DETROIT (AP)—Cadillac showed today it has joined the "massive trend" for 1963, making its new models appear both longer and wider.

The cars were displayed at a national press preview here and at the nearby General Motors Technical Center in Warren.

Actual length has been stretched only one inch, to 223 inches, but special front fender treatment helps to give the illusion of length. The fenders protrude some 4 inches from the V-shaped grille. The hood line has been squared off. The traditional fin remains prominent.

The two-door models have a shortened roof line which allows a rear deck 7 inches longer than in 1962.

The biggest mechanical change is a new cast iron engine using thin wall casting techniques. The 300-cubic-inch engine is the same size and develops the same 325 horsepower, but is lighter weight and more efficient.

Correcting lights, introduced in 1962, have been enlarged. These throw a beam at a 45-degree angle when the turn signal is activated and are useful in lighting a path around corners.

Harold G. Warner, Cadillac general manager, said his division should see a sales record of 152,400 cars this year. The present record is 131,564 in 1960. Warner said 1963 should be even better.

Cadillac will offer 12 models, one less than in 1962. Only one of the short deck sedans, 7 inches shorter than the rest of the line, is being offered. The short deck cars first were offered in 1961 when the industry trend appeared to be toward much smaller cars.

The Cadillacs will go on sale Oct. 5.

ADEN (AP)—A "Liberal Revolutionary Army" announced today it has seized power in the kingdom of Yemen.

Source in neighboring Aden said the new ruler, Imam Mohammed Al-Badr, was assassinated Wednesday.

Radio Aden also announced the coup but declared the Imam had been deposed, not assassinated.

Apparently, the rebels are friends of President Nassar's United Arab Republic, with which the primitive tribe kingdom once had a loose federation.

The radio at Sana'a, the Yemen capital, broadcast the statement of the coup throughout the morning. Interpreting it with U.A.R. army music.

Nassar and his program of Pan-Arabism are known to have supported by some military men in Yemen, Saudi Arabia and other Arab states.

Sana'a radio said the "Liberal Revolutionary Army" had "got rid of tyranny" and proclaimed the monarchy a republic. It made no mention of an association with the U.A.R.

But the rebels apparently were intent on keeping any of the royal family from fleeing.

The agreement will be submitted to De-Sta-Co stockholders for approval.

De-Sta-Co makes metal parts and products. Dover, produces hydraulic and electric elevators, oil well equipment and other products.

U.S. Bonds Rise Slightly

NEW YORK (AP)—U.S. treasury bills and short term bonds attracted most of what interest there was.

In trading in corporate bonds, the New York Stock Exchange weakness developed in the railroad section, and industrials were on the heavy side. More utilities showed pluses than minuses.

Candidate Foley to GOP Men:

Explain Income Tax Stand

A Democratic candidate for the State Legislature from Oakland County today challenged Oakland County Republican representative to "come out in the open" and campaign on a resolution calling for placing before America a constitutional amendment that would abolish the federal income tax.

"They have been strangely silent about this issue recently," said John F. Foley of Birmingham, candidate for the legislature from the Third District, "although they were exceedingly vocal about it last February in Lansing."

Foley said the resolution was introduced in the legislature by the county's four Republican legislators—Lloyd L. Anderson of Waterford Township, Raymond L. Baker of Berkley, William Hayward of Royal Oak and Henry M. Hogan Jr. of Bloomfield Township—and four other Michigan Republicans.

Hogan, Foley's opponent, today said that the resolution was not a state issue and was not relevant to the campaign.

IMPORTANT FACT
Hogan said the important part of the proposed 23rd amendment to the nation's Constitution was its provision that the federal government get out of "business, professional, commercial, financial or industrial enterprise."

"There are figures to show that if the government were to get out of private business, there would be no need for the income tax," Hogan added.

The 23rd amendment also would include a provision to repeal the 16th Amendment authorizing the income tax and to prevent Congress from levying taxes on personal incomes, estates or gifts.

Hogan said the resolution was cosponsored by Anderson and himself and called upon Congress to place before the people such an amendment.

Hogan said he did not think the American people would ever ratify such an amendment.

LET VOTERS KNOW
But Foley asked, "Are they really that reactionary? If they are, why not let the voters know about it?"

On getting the government out

Cranbrook Institute to Open New Wing

The first footfalls of the public will echo in the halls of a new wing at the Cranbrook Institute of Science this Saturday.

The $200,000, three-story Skilling wing will be open to visitors at 2 p. m. that day.

It is the third addition to the institute since it opened in 1930.

The wing was built from a $200,000 grant by the Skilling Foundation. An additional $25,000 gift from Mrs. Robert M. Skilling of Bloomfield Hills provided necessary equipment.

A total of 4,000 square feet of exhibition level provide three halls for illustrating the principles of physics.

Leader Named for Romney City Volunteers

Theodore J. Hubert, vice chairman of last year's Pontiac Centennial and former operations supervisor for Sears, Roebuck & Co., was named today to head the Pontiac area membership drive for Volunteers for Romney.

Hubert's appointment was announced by Clarence Kimball, chairman of Oakland County Volunteers for Romney.

Kimball also announced the opening of Pontiac offices at 21 N. Saginaw St. and 10 Bagley St. for the volunteer group.

Lieutenants to enlist the aid of citizens who want to work for the election of Republican gubernatorial candidate George W. Romney are being appointed by Kimball.

Kimball said the volunteer group hopes to increase the Republican plurality of 30,000 in the last election to 100,000 this year by getting inactive Republicans to vote and swinging Democratic voters to the Romney camp.

Some Mental Illness Blamed on Religion

HAMMONTON, N.J. (AP)—Organized religion must accept some responsibility for causing mental illness in certain people, the director of the Academy of Religion and Mental Health contends.

Dr. George C. Anderson told a seminar on mental health at Ancon State Hospital near here that religion may lead persons into emotional illness by placing undue stress on perfectionism.

On the other hand, Dr. Anderson said, all great religions contain certain eternal truths that help develop character, selflessness and charity—all signs of mental and spiritual health.

32-Megaton N-Blast Set Off by Russians

STOCKHOLM (UPI)—The Soviet Union detonated a 32-megaton nuclear weapon in the atmosphere today near its Arctic testing ground of Novaya Zemlya, the Stockholm Institute of Geodesy announced.

It said the blast, 16th in the current series, took place at 3:03 a. m. (EST) about 43 miles south of the site of last Tuesday's 30-megaton blast at Oakland Hills Memorial Center.

In the last 10 years India's consumption of nitrogenous fertilizers has increased by 380 per cent and the country's irrigated area has been expanded 38 per cent.

The soft drink and candy industries will spend $215 million for advertising in 1962.

Colleges to Eye Space

HOUSTON (UPI) — Since NASA announced plans to establish a manned space flight center here, Rice Institute and the University of Houston have undertaken research projects for the space agency, and Texas A&M, 90 miles north, decided to set up an engineering course in space technology.

An active or relay type of communications satellite is to be built for experimental use and is to be in orbit next summer.

CUBANS SEEK TO ENLIST — Young Cuban exiles seeking to volunteer for the U.S. Army or Navy crowd around a desk at Cuban relief headquarters in Miami, Fla., yesterday where they then be tested each day for admission to the Army or Navy.

Ed McKenzie Coming Back to WXYZ (TV)

DETROIT (AP) — Ed McKenzie, a one-time WXYZ disc jockey who blew the whistle on "payola" in 1959, is returning to the Detroit entertainment scene on WXYZ-TV, Mondays through Thursdays.

McKenzie departed WXYZ March 10, 1959, after complaining he was being rejected to play "junk" on a so-called "formula" radio program of the station. Therefore he had a "free-wheeling" selecting his own music.

In November 1959 McKenzie disclosed in a national magazine article what became known as "payola," the custom of some radio stations of paying disc jockeys to play and plug certain records.

McKenzie's report led to a congressional investigation of "payola."

JFK Names Negro to U. S. Trade Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy today nominated A. Leon Higginbotham Jr., a Philadelphia lawyer, to the Federal Trade Commission, Higginbotham. If confirmed by the Senate, will be the first Negro to serve on a federal regulatory agency.

Higginbotham has been president of the Philadelphia branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People since 1959. He also is a member of the Pennsylvania Fair Employment Commission.

Kennedy named Higginbotham to succeed William C. Kern for a seven-year term. Both Higginbotham and Kern are Democrats. Kern's term expired yesterday.

Higginbotham, 44, has practiced law in Philadelphia since 1954, specializing in civil and appellate law. He was admitted to the Pennsylvania bar in 1953 and served for a while as an assistant district attorney for Philadelphia County.

Most of Shakespeare's plays were first presented at the Globe Theater in London. It was built in 1598 and destroyed by the Puritans in 1644.

On Your Feet, There! It's Jacqueline

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — You can put this down in your etiquette and protocol papers: you've supposed to hop to your feet when Jackie Kennedy comes into an auditorium, theater or meeting—even though you're comfortably seated and have your girle or belt loosened.

The Four Hundred says so—so does the 2500 that went to the Lincoln Center while the opening a few nights back.

As Jackie walked to her chair at Philharmonic Hall, there was a great bustle, scraping and shuffling.

"Do you think we ought to stand?" I heard a man behind me ask.

"Well," replied his wife, "in the presence of royalty . . ."

She stood up. So did everybody else . . . "Rocky" and "Bob" and "Hunt" (Huntington Hartford) and "Henry" (Henry Morgan). I was immediately on my feet—also on the feet of a woman next to me who had her shoes also . . . We did our British friends about curtsying to royalty but let's face it, we give an "American curtsy" to our First Family. I'll bet we give even do it when Caroline Kennedy starts hippy-hopping in.

Kim Novak was served notice by Director Dick Quine: "Now that our Paris summer lark is about over, you gotta marry me or forget me."

Hey, there! The Waldorf privately says the new American lady's "the world's tallest hotel" (50 stories), actually isn't—cause it's 100 feet shorter than the Waldorf.

Tony Curtis assures me he and 17-year-old Christine Kaufmann are in no hurry to marry even though Janet Leigh did. Christine's entered June Taylor dancing school: Tony's working over his Facel-Vega and getting ready to shoot "Mr. Cogswell" in Hollywood.

THE MIDNIGHT EARL IN N. Y. . . .

Roberts Wagner told a London reporter, "It's hard for a successful actress not to get spotted. Eddie Fisher bought Lita Taylor a $50,000 bracelet. She admired it, but an hour later the cat was playing with it." —Midtown movie marquee sign: "Mr. Hobbs Takes a Vacation" with "Jessica" . . . Duke Ellington's son Mercer will become a Manhattan disc jockey.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: Television reviewer Hank Grant says he stays healthy by getting eight hours sleep a night: "Not counting the hours I watch TV."

WISH TD SAID THAT: An intellectual is a fellow who says a Brigitte Bardot movie and wonders which hotel the towel came from.

EARL'S PEARLS: It's great the way suburban highways have been speeded up. Get into the right lane and you'll be in Manhattan in 30 minutes—whether you want to be or not. . . . That's earl, brother.

Flint Local Asks Romney to Set Speaking Date

FLINT (AP) — The executive board of United Auto Workers Union Terrestrial Local 326 has invited Republican gubernatorial candidate George Romney to address its next membership meeting Oct. 14.

Some members of the UAW local sent petitions to Romney urging him to appear before its members.

Marshall Steele, local president, said in a letter to Romney that he was cordially invited to appear at the membership meeting.

Steele said that if the petitioning local members "had bothered to ask the local" Romney would have received the same invitation.

Noting that Oct. 14 was a Sunday and that Romney has stated he does not campaign on Sunday, Steele asked the GOP nominee to pick his own weekday evening for a special membership meeting.

On Mission to U. S.

CHICAGO (UPI) — Eleven Christians from 10 countries plan a three-month "Mission to America" evangelistic effort. The leaders, from Africa, Asia, Latin America and Europe, will spend six to eight days in each Methodist church or organization to which they are invited.

Yugoslavs Joke Though Belts Tightening

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — Just off Marx and Engels Square the shops are selling Elvis Presley records, the cafes are dishing out whipped-cream cakes and the customers gaily invent political jokes.

There may be an occasional mention of austerity, but on the surface it's hard to find.

Through the eyes of visitors from other Communist countries, it does not seem to exist. To them Belgrade is a shopping and dining mecca.

BACKGROUND

SPECIAL REPORT

OF THE NEWS

However, the belt tightening is there.

It started last spring when the Yugoslav economy started to lose momentum, and the country's foreign debt approached the $1-billion mark. President Tito's government ordered cuts in imports and moved to reduce industrial costs.

Plant executives felt the austerity. Trips they had planned abroad were canceled. Expense accounts were reduced. Factories had to find raw materials in Yugoslavia or soft currency areas, instead of importing from the hard-currency West.

AUTO IMPORTS STOP

Some imported cosmetics disappeared from the shops. The import of foreign autos was halted.

On the whole, however, austerity has meant nothing to the great mass of Yugoslavs. Shops are still filled with clothing, toys, leather goods, furniture and countless consumer items. Markets still provide plenty of meat and vegetables — the most varied and plentiful diet in Eastern Europe.

Many Yugoslavs can afford only to window-shop. Monthly industrial wages are around $50. But the glittering show windows on Belgrade's tree-lined boulevards promise a better life.

Food, despite a 6 per cent cost of living increase between December and April, remains relatively cheap. Restaurants and sidewalk cafes are crowded. On Saturday nights the better ones.

Inmates Encouraged to Become Creative

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Nebraska Penitentiary inmates who aspire to become authors or composers are getting a chance to try to market their products.

Warden Maurice Sigler has authorized the convicts to submit original material — such as songs, poetry and novels — to publishers.

A few restrictions apply. Material must be moral and in good taste. No real-life penitentiary incidents or personnel may be mentioned.

Turns Moving Chore Into 1-Man Lawn Party

BRADENTON, Fla. (AP) — A Bradenton man informed neighbors of a scheme he devised which may revolutionize the lawn moving industry.

The happy schemer places cocktail glass holders under lawn parties at intervals around his yard, then places an iced drink in each.

He says the cocktail stakes are placed so that as he rides around on the power mower, he is never without refreshment.

with gypsy violinists or jazz combos, lack room for all the fun-loving Serbians. The twist is catching on.

Visitors from the booming West may not be impressed, but visitors from the East are. Yugoslav Communists — who split with the Russians in 1948 — enjoy watching the Russian, Bulgarian and Romanian tourists.

MODERN BUILDINGS

The Eastern Europeans gaze at modernistic concrete and glass buildings going up in Belgrade alongside the heavy stone buildings left over from the Austrian-Hungarian empire.

Pretty Yugoslav girls, in Italian beehive hairdos and chiefly dressed by East European standards, catch the eyes of the Iron Curtain visitors.

Soviet and Bulgarian athletes here this month for the European track and field championships went on shopping sprees, carrying home boxes of Yugoslav shoes and shirts.

A major reason things are so much better here is the $1.8 billion worth of economic aid given to Yugoslavia by the United States following the Moscow-Belgrade break. Surplus agricultural products worth $30 million pulled Yugoslavia out of a food crisis caused by last year's drought.

There has been another drought this year, and Yugoslavia will want more farm surplus products.

A picture of Tito gazes down from the wall of every shop, every restaurant, every public place in Yugoslavia.

Yugoslavs may criticize their government, or complain about taxes.

TITO POPULAR

With austerity, Tito might seem vulnerable. He has half a dozen country lodges. But Yugoslavs willing to talk to Western visitors say he is rarely attacked in conversation. He seems popular, even beyond the Communist party.

At the most, Yugoslavs make good-natured jokes about Tito. Political joking is an old habit in the Balkans.

The Soviet Union and the United States do not escape the jokes. One of the latest: Who is the perfect Bolshevik? The one who has the choice of taking Mrs. Khrushchev to dinner, or Mrs. Kennedy — and picks Mrs. Khrushchev.

GMTC Optimistic at Outlook for '63

After one of the best sales years in its history, GMC Truck & Coach Division "anticipates a continuation of this high level of business activity in the 'new model period,'" the division's manager, Calvin J. Werner, said today.

In the 1962 model year, the division built 90,400 trucks and buses — a 34.4 per cent increase over the 1961 model period.

Harrelson Faces Judge Today for Arraignment

By JIM LONG and RALPH HUMMEL

Pontiac Teamster president Leuan Harrelson was to be arraigned today in Detroit Federal District Court on charges of embezzling union funds and making false entries in Local 614 financial records.

Harrelson was indicted yesterday by a federal Grand Jury on two counts of embezzling and two counts of falsifying union books to cover the actual use of the funds.

The 44-year-old Harrelson was to appear before Federal Judge Wade H. McCreary.

The Teamster president was charged by the Grand Jury with giving Maurice Croteau, a Pontiac businessman and county social welfare department board member, $500 for political purposes and then making false entries in the financial records.

Croteau, the owner of a catering service and market at 1750 Edison St., said today that he had accepted the funds in good faith, believing that they had been authorized by the union membership.

The grand jury charged that Harrelson entered the use of the funds in the union's records as payment for catering services.

TO PAY FOR AD

Croteau, 55, of 112 Marquette St., said that he received the money in the form of checks in 1960 to apply toward newspaper advertisements opposing a proposed city ordinance that would have given the city manager power to dismiss the police chief.

Croteau explained that he was given checks by Harrelson on two occasions, the first one being for $300 and the last for $200.

At that time Croteau said he was president of a group known as Citizens for Honest Government, organized for the purpose of supporting the then police chief, Herbert Straley.

Croteau, an unsuccessful candidate for the city commission in the 1960 race, said the checks from Harrelson came about two weeks apart.

"I received the first check after a mutual friend phoned me and asked me to meet him and Harrelson in a bar," Croteau said. "When I got there Harrelson said he was interested in my campaign to retain Straley and gave me the $300 check."

ASKED FOR RECEIPT

"The next time he came to my office and gave me the second check," Croteau said. "He asked for a receipt and I gave him one on our catering stationery. I haven't seen him since."

The advertisements asking for the defeat of the proposed ordinance appeared in The Pontiac Press April 15 and 16, 1960.

The Grand Jury charges that the false entries in the Union records were made on April 14 and 15, 1960.

Croteau said that while he wasn't sure when Harrelson gave (Continued on Page 2, Col. 3)

Werner, a vice president of General Motors Corp., credited "the popularity of our commercial vehicles and the steady business activity throughout the trucking industry" as contributing greatly to this sales upsurge.

"More specifically," he said, "we feel much of our sales momentum has been generated by the universal acceptance and lasting quality of our V6 and Twin-Six models."

"We have, for example, received reports of these engines running as much as 270,000 miles without an overhaul. And we have found truck operators quick to admit that our V-type gasoline truck engines are far ahead of anything in the industry."

Looking at the broad trucking sales picture, Werner predicted that industry-wide sales this year would exceed one million trucks.

"With continued consumer confidence and a dynamic economy," he added, "we see no reason why this level should not be maintained in 1963."

He promised, "You may be sure that we are going all out to increase our market penetration."

CHEVY TRUCKS

For the 1963 model year, Werner revealed, the GMTC Division has been assigned assembly of several models of Chevrolet trucks to augment the production capacity of the Chevrolet plants.

"We are now building all of Chevrolet's heaviest-duty trucks and all diesel models, utilizing available production facilities and experienced truck building personnel," he said.

While the responsibility for the sales of these trucks remains with Chevrolet, Werner said that the added assembly volume "should materially improve the operating efficiency of our own GM operations."

"Naturally," he added, "this will provide more work in the Pontiac area and contribute to the stability of our production schedules."

During the 1962 model year, Werner said, schedules were well ahead of 1961 level due to sharply increased marketing activity.

As an example of this trend, he cited August records when the division delivered 7,728 trucks and buses domestically.

This was the best sales month in two years and represented a (Continued on Page 2, Col. 4)

Dixie Officers Get Helmets, Gas Masks

Mississippi U. Guards Have Caged Dogs in Readiness Near Gates

OXFORD, Miss. (AP)—Mississippi officers guarding the gates of the University of Mississippi against Negro James H. Meredith were issued helmets and gas masks today.

The officers tried on the gas masks, then left them out of their bags, wearing them over their shoulders.

They wore steel helmet liners and carried billy clubs.

Six police dogs were caged in cars near one of the gates.

Gov. Ross Barnett—twice openly defiant of federal court orders in personally rejecting Meredith's attempts to enroll—was on the campus, arriving by car about 5 a.m.

As they did Wednesday when they turned back Meredith and a cordon of federal marshals, the officers wore no armor.

No gas guns or gas bombs were in evidence.

There were no indications that Meredith planned another attempt to enroll today—it would be his fourth try at knocking down a century of segregation policy at Ole Miss.

The 29-year-old Negro was reported to be at Memphis, Tenn., but he had a news conference scheduled for this afternoon at New Orleans, La.

While the federal government wrestled with the decision of whether to send in troops to back up federal court orders for Meredith's enrollment in the 114-year-old Deep South school, Lt. Gov. Paul Johnson backed Meredith near the main gate to the campus yesterday.

In Washington, Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., called Mississippi's actions a kind of insurrection. He told the Senate preservation of the federal union is at stake.

Talking to Neighbors

Rusk Seeks 'Anti-Cuba' Unit

NEW YORK (UPI)—U.S. officials said today that Secretary of State Dean Rusk was seriously considering proposals to create a special Caribbean security organization to guard against Cuban-backed subversion or aggression.

They emphasized the idea was still in the discussion stage with Latin American representatives here and no decision was imminent.

Rusk was said to feel, however, that such an organization within the broader framework of the hemispheric alliance might be an effective way to achieve three principal U.S. objectives:

—Tighter cooperative measures within the immediate area to check the travels of Castro agents and transfer of funds for subversion in Central America and the Caribbean.

—Increased coordination of surveillance in the region to detect and take action against any Cuban aggression.

—More effective collaboration between the United States and the countries most immediately threatened by Cuba, most of whom favor stronger economic, political and moral sanctions against the Castro regime.

SEEN TOO FORMAL

The United States and some Latin American nations feel that a proposal by Panamanian Finance Minister Gilberto Arias that 10 central American and Caribbean nations form a "NATO-type" military alliance would provide too formal a structure. They fear it might split the broader inter-American alliance into two blocs.

But they think a less rigid and stylized Caribbean security arrangement would not run this risk and might be of considerable effectiveness in drawing the anti-subversion and counter-aggression line tighter around Cuba.

Rusk has been discussing this and other ideas with groups of Latin American representatives here this week in preparation for the meeting in Washington of hemispheric foreign ministers.

He has had no success in persuading Brazil, Mexico and a number of other countries to consider increased diplomatic and economic sanctions against Cuba.

He has found considerable contentment among Castro's neighbors for more effective cooperation to counter any subversion or possible first steps toward aggression.

In Houston, some Americans took positive action of their own. The angry captain of the Yugo-slav freighter Drac stood helplessly as a statue on the bridge of his ship, rain dripping off the bill of his cap.

But no matter how hard he scowled or stared, longshoremen refused to cross a picket line of housewives, children and Cuban refugees yesterday and refused to load American flour aboard the ship that carried Russian grain to Communist Cuba.

CAPTAIN UPSET

The captain refused to identify himself. But he was visibly miffed because the surplus flour was not being moved on board so it could be shipped to the United Arab Republic.

Just what will happen to the 13,000 tons of flour is not certain. It would take 13 days to load the cargo if and when workmen to do the job can be found.

The stevedores who refused to load the ship were members of the International Longshoremen's Association.

To Be Cool Tonight, High of 62 Friday

Cooler temperatures are gradually creeping into the Pontiac area. Skies will clear tonight with a low of 55.

Friday will be partly cloudy and cool, the high near 62. Saturday's outlook is fair and warmer, the weatherman said.

Morning northerly winds at 10 to 20 miles per hour today and tonight will gradually diminish Friday.

Only 7 Oppose Move Showing American Unity

Resolution Approves JPK Discretion on How, When to Act

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congress has completed action on a resolution endorsing the use of force if necessary to prevent Cuba from becoming a military threat to western Hemisphere countries.

House adoption by a 384-7 vote Wednesday came after a full-scale debate on foreign policy and an unsuccessful effort by several members to have tougher language written in.

The Senate voted its approval last week, 86 to 1. President Kennedy is expected to sign the document. The administration already has endorsed its careful wording.

The resolution is intended as an expression of unified support for whatever action Kennedy considers necessary. In essence, he would be free to determine when and how the United States should act to block the spread of Cuban communism.

The President has declared he will do "whatever must be done" to protect the interests of the United States and its allies in this hemisphere.

By passing the resolution Congress went on record as being determined to prevent the creation in Cuba of a military capacity that would endanger the United States.

Help is pledged anti-Communist Cubans who seek self-determination for their nation.

Republicans who took the get-tough-line during debate wanted a more precise statement declaring that the Monroe Doctrine has already been violated in Cuba. The doctrine declared this hemisphere off-limits for foreign powers.

A motion to send the resolution back to the Foreign Affairs Committee was defeated 251 to 140. All but three of its supporters were Republicans.

House debate reached a fevered pitch at times.

When Rep. L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., demanded an immediate blockade of Cuba and said "let the chips fall where they may," there was applause and cheering.

Rivers was echoed by a dozen colleagues who called for action, rather than words that signify, in the opinion of Rep. Katharine St. George, R-N.Y.—"just a pious hope."

DETROIT (AP)—President Kennedy today passed up an appearance at the National Automobile Show industry dinner in Detroit Oct. 27, but will spend part of two days in October campaigning in Michigan.

Let's Face the Issue

Let's put first things first. Let's quit ducking. Supporters of Milton Henry and the Rev. J. Allen Parker are trying to make the current city mess a black-white affair.

COLOR HAS NOTHING TO DO WITH IT. Let's repeat that: race, religion and color do not enter in ANY WAY.

The question is very simple: Can the City Commission shield police records so the taxpayers, the public and The Press can only have access through one man — or someone he designates?

The answer is "NO." But with the exception of Commissioner Taylor, the rest are still struggling away. You—as a taxpayer don't count.

The Pontiac Press doesn't care whether commissioners are black, white, Chinese, Eskimo or Indian. Unless circumstances change, the question of color will not be referred to in The Press again in this matter.

DOES THE COMMISSION PROPOSE TO MODIFY FREEDOM OF THE PRESS? DOES IT? Nothing else is involved.

Color has been dragged in as a smoke screen by Henry and Parker who face the increasing ire and wrath of an aroused community, with their commission disciplines tagging along behind them.

Already, we have deleted parts or all of this from several dozen letters. Henceforth, reference to color will all be taken out.

LET'S stick to the facts. Let's stop the evasion.

If the Commission wants to battle the United States Constitution, the Federal statutes and the will of the people, it will find it arraigned against it steadily, everlastingly and until the laws of the land are recognized in Pontiac.

We'll concentrate on the freedom of the people and the freedom of The Press.

1st Contribution Handed to UF

A check for $11,243 from employees and officers of Community National Bank was the first contribution this year to the Pontiac Area United Fund drive.

Walter K. Willman, former city manager and currently chairman of advance gifts in the drive, accepted the check yesterday.

It filled 10 per cent of his section's goal of $88,815 in the UF commercial division.

The total drive goal is $706,125. Gordon McLeod, Community National Bank cashier, presented the check at a kickoff breakfast sponsored by the bank in its Club Over-draft.

Willman pledged the advance gifts section's drive would stay in high gear from its start yesterday until Oct. 16 when the general campaign is launched.

"Our section," he told the group, "contacts between 300 and 300 individuals and commercial establishments from whom we have received pledges of $100 or more in the past."

Advance gifts activities should account for 45 per cent of the UF commercial division's goal of $300,000, Willman told his audience.

Road Deaths Down, Injuries Up in State

LANSING (AP) — Michigan's highway fatality rate has dropped 14 per cent but the rate of injuries has risen by the same margin over last year, the National Safety Council reported yesterday.

Heaviest Bird a Swan

WINNIPEG — The trumpeter swan, nearly extinct, at a maximum of 40 pounds, is said to be the heaviest flying bird on the North American continent.

Christmas observances were banned in Massachusetts from 1639-1681.

Safe Fireproof Not Thief-proof, Public Warned

NEW YORK (UPI)—Americans lose millions of dollars to burglars each year because they don't know the difference between a "safe" and a "money chest."

When you order a safe, you get a container designed to resist fire, not criminals. A money chest is designed to foil burglars.

This information comes from Arthur F. Anderson, chairman of the planning and technical advisory committee of the Safe Manufacturers National Association.

"Public misunderstanding of what a safe is designed to do is one factor behind the loss of many millions of dollars each year to burglars," Anderson said.

The dove will mercilessly peck an opponent to death.

Missile Launching Covers 350 Miles

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The Army's Pershing missile was launched successfully on a flight of about 350 miles in a test.

It was the 40th test launching for Pershing, which is scheduled to be deployed in Western Europe next year. Thirty-two of the flights were raised successful.

A record of 2.5 million taxpayers made mistakes in arithmetic in 1961.

Fat Individuals Don't Really See Selves

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK—A new study of overweight indicates the fatty often is playing the role of the thin man. Or, thin woman.

Which means, as this study sees it, that many of the estimated 50 million Americans carrying an average excess of 10 pounds or more each are kidding themselves. This excess adds up to 250,000 tons of "just plain fat," the study said.

Do the plump really want to be thin—despite the overt remarks of their concern about their weight?

Researchers headed by John H. Tarnir, Ph.D., director of marketing and research for an advertising agency set out to find the answer.

One conclusion: "Our data tells us that fat people do not really see themselves as fat," said the Tarnir report.

The agency is the Edward H. Weiss and Co., which the report said "has been studying problems of overweight for some time," because of their relation to consumer purchase of foods.

"One purpose of our research was to determine whether there are important psychological differences between overweight and average weight people. That would give us clues to any hidden resistance to dieting," the report said.

Researchers conducted several studies among overweight and normal weight women using "motivation research" methods.

METHODS

These included depth interviews by psychologists, the "cartoon projective" method in which the viewer tells a story about the cartoon—a method often used in personality testing, the "draw a person" test which is supposed to reflect in the result a self-image of the individual, and the "concept formation" technique in which lists of well-known personalities are submitted and the person interviewed is to tell what makes the people in the group alike.

In the "concept formation" test, list "A" was a list of fat, all internationally prominent; list "B" was an equally prominent list of average weight. Each person interviewed was timed on how long it took for an answer.

"Compared with normal weight persons, the overweight person finds it much more difficult to recognize that one list is composed of 'fat people' and the other of 'average weight people,'" the study found.

researchers concluded also that: "The overweight person presents the fascinating picture of someone who says one thing but unconsciously believes another. Overweight persons readily state they want to lose weight... yet these overweight women have never come to terms with themselves as fat people.

"The private picture they hold is of a relatively average weight woman... they tend to identify with thinner women. In fantasy, they play the role of a thinner woman."

"Our overweight subjects gave no indication of seriously considering a change in eating habits... In short, fat people find it hard to lose weight because they cannot readily see that they are FAT."

Chocolate-Drop Grapes Will Impress Guests

A unique candy-sweet dessert or tea-time treat. Stem large Malaga grapes and wipe with a clean dry cloth. Dip each grape in melted fondant and set aside to harden. Melt sweetened cooking chocolate over hot water; then cool until it begins to thicken again.

Dip each fondant-covered grape in the chocolate and place on waxed paper to harden. (If the chocolate becomes too stiff, re-melt over hot water; but be sure it's solid enough to stick to the fondant. Be careful that no water gets in the chocolate, or it will be spoiled for dipping.)

Remember that wine cooked in food accents the salt, so be careful to add salt last and taste to be sure.

Q. What is the name of this cut of meat?
A. Veal Rib Chop.

Q. Where does it come from and how is it identified?
A. It comes from the rib section of a young (yearling) beef and contains rib bone and rib eye muscle. This cut is similar to beef rib steak.

Q. How is it prepared?
A. By braising. First brown the chops in a small amount of fat. Then pour off the drippings and add a small amount of liquid. Cover tightly and cook slowly 45 minutes to 1 hour or until tender.

Add Some Color

Pimiento-stuffed olives make a fine addition to green cabbage salad. Slice the olives and garnish the top of the slaw with them, then mix together at the table.

You can add as much as one cup finely grated cheese to one cup thin or medium white sauce.

Soybean Oil Production Could Meet Demands

When and if science proves Americans can reduce heart disease by switching to polyunsaturated fats only soybean oil could satisfy housewives' demand.

That's the appraisal of Dr. A. R. Baldwin, research director of Cargill, Inc., who spoke recently to the Soybean Council of America on current consumer interest in the relationship between fat intake and heart disease.

"The polyunsaturated beta-d-omega is rising," he said, "despite the fact that scientists and nutritionists generally agree the relationship has not been proved."

(Many persons both in and out of medicine believe eating saturated fats increases blood

cholesterol and that polyunsaturated fatty acids tend to reduce it, he noted. The same group holds that cholesterol, in turn, contributes to heart disease.

Soybean oil contains approximately 62 per cent polyunsaturated fatty acids whereas corn oil has 64 per cent, cottonseed oil 50 per cent, peanut oil 30 and olive oil 7 per cent, Dr. Baldwin said. Only source higher is safflower oil with 78 per cent, he noted.

"And of these six, only soybean oil is now or could be in the near future available in sufficient quantity to satisfy a widespread market demand," he claimed.

Most housewives, however, don't know that soybean oil in several forms provides an excellent source of polyunsaturates he pointed out.

Virtually all salad oils, salad dressings and mayonnaise contain generous amounts of "unhardened" soybean oil, he said, and there are now on grocers' shelves partially hydrogenated (or "hardened") salad and cooking oils also high in polyunsaturated soybean oil.

Spicy Gelatin

Spice a fruit gelatin mold with red cinnamon candies. Add ¼ cup candies to 1½ cups hot water and ¼ cup syrup from canned fruit cocktail. Add a package of lemon gelatin, stirring until dissolved. When partially set, stir in 1 cup drained canned fruit cocktail. Chill until firm and serve as dinner salad or refreshing dessert.

Fresh Corn Comes Year 'Round Now

Fresh vegetables plus stewed tomatoes from the pantry itself make a dish that is usually popular.

Corn and Tomato Sauté
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 medium onion (cut into thin strips)

2 cups diced celery
1 cup diced green pepper
1½ cups corn kernels (cut from 3 large fresh cobs)

1 can (1 pound) stewed tomatoes
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper

¼ teaspoon tomato seasoning
In a large skillet melt the butter; add onion, celery and green pepper and cook gently until wilted; stir in corn. Add tomatoes, salt, pepper and tomato seasoning; simmer 10 to 20 minutes. Serve in sauce dishes if you like. Makes 4 to 5 servings.

Note: After kernels are cut from corn, use back of knife to extract corn "milk." If tomato seasoning is not on hand you can season with a mixture of savory, all-spice and paprika.

End L. Smooth

Follow Custom Set by Dolly Madison

James Madison was the first president to give an Inaugural Ball in Washington. His wife, Dolly, famous hostess of our early history, said, "The profusion of my table reflects the prosperity of America," and she served accordingly. Thoughtfully, she introduced bouillon at afternoon receptions during cold weather, and was known to interrupt state conferences with punch and her famous seed cake.

French's test kitchens, in Rochester, N.Y., have produced this modern version of Dolly Madison's Seed Cake.

Old Fashion Seed Cake

2 cups sifted cake flour
¼ teaspoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup butter or margarine

1 teaspoon lemon extract

1 cup sugar

4 eggs

3 teaspoons caraway seeds

Sift together flour, baking powder, and salt. Cream butter with lemon extract. Add sugar very gradually, beating constantly. Add eggs, one at a time, beating well after each addition. Add the sifted dry ingredients and caraway seeds and mix until smooth. Pour batter into a greased and floured 9 x 5 x 3-inch loaf pan. Bake cake in a 300 degree oven 75 to 90 minutes or until tester comes out clean.

If you prefer—prepare a package pound cake mix according to package directions. Add 2 teaspoons caraway seeds and 1 teaspoon lemon extract to the batter and bake as directed on package.

Walled Lake to Decide on School Bond Issue

WALLED LAKE—School Supt. Clifford H. Smart today warned that the Walled Lake School District faces drastic cutbacks in services if district voters again defeat a $2.1-million bond issue Monday.

"The board of education has not determined all the areas that could be affected," said Smart, "but we must have new facilities or be faced with partitioning sessions next year."

In Monday's special election, the board is asking taxpayers to approve the bond issue to finance an extensive school construction and renovation program.

The same issue was defeated by a narrow 24-vote margin in a Jan. 23 election.

Two other proposals included on the January ballot—a request to build a $400,000 auditorium and a two-mill operational tax proposition—will not be included in Monday's election.

The two-mill tax hike was passed in a subsequent election in April.

The bond issue for the auditorium, turned down by an overwhelming majority of voters in January, has been eliminated from the building plans.

Otherwise, the improvements and additions requested by the board next week are nearly identical to those defeated earlier.

"The school district's needs are the same today as they were in January," stated Smart.

In order to alleviate overcrowded conditions, Smart said, the board plans include construction of a new elementary school and a new school district center, plus additions and renovations at two present elementary schools, the junior high school and senior high school.

Smart said the building plans are based on recommendations by a citizens committee which made a year-long study of the district's needs.

He stated that the district now needs seven more elementary school classrooms. Next year it will be short 14 elementary rooms.

NEWS OF THE AREA

At this time there are 155 more students in the senior high school than it was built to accommodate, according to Smart.

New buildings in the program would include an elementary school of about seven classrooms on district-owned land on Keith Road opposite Westacres subdivision and administration offices, maintenance garage and a central stockroom built at a site to be determined later.

Other new facilities requested are three new classrooms at Walled Lake Elementary school, a seven-classroom addition to Gungahy Elementary School and eight classrooms and a library at the high school.

Walled Lake Junior High School, oldest building in use in the district, would receive a new vocational shop, new cafeteria facilities, renovation of the gymnasium and improvement of its heating plant and water system.

The gymnasium would be made into a two-story teaching area where two classes could be held at once. Shop classes could be moved from an old garage where they now are held, Smart said.

Approval of the bond issue, Smart said, would mean tax increases ranging from $1.32 to $2.53 per $1,000 of assessed valuation for property owners in the school district.

Estating each political unit independently, the superintendent said the following increases would be in effect on each $1,000 of assessed valuation:

Lake Orion Unit Sets School Bond Vote

$2 Million Seen Tentative Total

Board of Education Selects Dec. 11 as Date for Election

LAKE ORION — The board of education last night set Dec. 11 as the date of a special election on an estimated $2-million bond issue for school expansion.

A proposal requesting a tax hike of 5.4 mills also will be on the ballot.

The board decided the issue, the third in six years, was necessary due to present and anticipated overcrowding in the schools.

The exact amount of the bond issue and the school construction it would finance has not been determined although 19 rooms are needed in the district, according to Supt. A. A. Reed.

However, this will be announced after consultation with an architect, according to the board.

It is definite that a new junior high school would be built with the funds and several additions would be made to elementary schools in the district.

The board met Tuesday with a citizen's committee which recommended a bond issue of $3 million.

Last night it pared the figure down to $2 million, deciding this would be enough to remedy the present overcrowding situation and to handle the six per cent annual enrollment growth for at least five years.

Before setting the bond issue figure the board discussed the situation of the schools.

It was pointed out that in the elementary schools five sections, or classes, contain more than 40 students.

In the junior high school 17 sections have over 35 students, and at the high school there are six sections with over 40 students in each.

The board decided that 30 students in a room was the maximum for a good teacher-student relationship.

Board members agreed to in-dividing the district into two sections to speak to local groups and explain the necessity of adding more classrooms in the system.

An explanatory brochure also will be sent to parents of school children.

Announce 48 Semifinalists in Merit Scholarship Test

The National Merit Scholarship Corp. today announced the names of 48 area high school seniors as semifinalists in the 1962-63 merit scholarship competition.

They became semifinalists through outstanding performances on National Merit Scholarship qualifying tests, the first step in the eighth annual merit program.

Each semifinalist now moves a step closer to winning a four-year merit scholarship to the college of his choice.

Approximately 11,000 students qualified as semifinalists from schools throughout the country.

Among them are William C. Cox of Pontiac Central High School and Barbara E. Baldwin of Pontiac Northern High School.

Rochester high semifinalists are Sharon L. Frost, Frederick J. Lupke, Thomas R. Schultz and Edward J. Williams.

From Bloomfield Hills High

School are Charles R. Bailey, Fred S. Fink, Thomas Hoopengardner, Frankie A. Hutton, John P. Shipley and James N. St. John.

Cranbrook School contestants are Elliott S. Andrews, Charles A. Bigelow, Richard E. Katzman, John T. Parsons, Robert J. Riley, John M. Russon and Carl E. Youngstrom.

From Kingswood

Brenda K. Ballman, Winifred A. Burgis, Sandra Lee Ekins and Julie A. Graham are semifinalists from Kingswood School.

Birmingham Seaborn High School representatives include Janice L. Boughner, Thomas D. Brooks, John M. Brown, Edward B. Champlin, Hyla M. Clark, Charles L. Holitz, Michael A. Jorbin, Patricia J. Keough, Claudia L. Keeler, Jerry A. Lohla, Bennett Root Jr., David E. Sanders, William Thygeson, George E. Ward, Edward F. Weller and John H. Weston.

From Marian High School in Birmingham is Jennifer J. Sisson.

From Wylie E. Groves High School, Birmingham, are Dennis D. Clark, Karen A. Kalayjian, John E. Matulis, Jane E. Meinhardt, Melville C. Stewart and Robert W. Symke.

Cityhood Urged for Rochester

Petitions Bearing 150 Signatures Filed With County Clerk

ROCHESTER — Petitions bearing over 150 signatures requesting a special election on cityhood for the village of Rochester now are in the hands of the Oakland County Clerk.

Neil Rosso, representing the Rochester Steering Committee for City Incorporation, filed the petitions yesterday.

The committee will relax now, for a while, as the government agencies handle preparations for setting up the special election.

Before other steps can be taken the state will appoint personnel to conduct a census of the area, which the committee also petitioned for.

Upon completion of the census the County Board of Supervisors will hold the petitions inactive for 30 days and then conduct hearings on them.

At the end of this period, a special election will be set up, providing all the petitions are in order.

If errors should be found, petitioning will have to be conducted again, according to the clerk's office.

When the proposal is presented to the people in the area concerned they will decide whether or not to incorporate the village and increase its size from 1,916 square miles to 4 1/2 square miles including a portion of Avon Township.

The proposed boundaries include a parkway, a 65-acre 65-acre Parkdale Farms, east of the existing western and southern boundaries of the village are retained in the city plan, Tienken Road would become the new northern boundary and Dequindre Road would enclose the city on the east.

Metro Phone Service Available in County

Michigan Bell Telephone Co. new Detroit metropolitan area telephone service will be made available Monday to residential customers in 29 Oakland County communities.

Raymond H. Strom, district manager for Michigan Bell, said the optional service, known as metro-calling service, will be offered on that date to customers in the following Oakland communities:

Plymouth, Auburn Heights, Berkley, Beverly Hills, Bloomfield Hills, Bloomfield Township, Clawson, Commerce, Drayton Plains, Ferndale, Franklin, Hazel Park, Huntington Woods, Keego Harbor and Lake Arbor.

Also Lathrup Village, Madison Heights, Oak Park, Orchard Lake, Pleasant Ridge, Rochester, Royal Oak, Royal Oak Township, Sylvan Lake, Troy, Walled Lake, Waterford, West Bloomfield Township and Wolverine Lake.

Strom said metro-calling service enables subscribers, for a set monthly rate of $10.95, to dial many calls as they wish throughout the Detroit metropolitan area during specified time periods with out additional charges.

The service is in effect from 6 p.m. to 9 a.m. on Monday through Saturday, all day Sundays, and three holidays — Thanksgiving, Christmas, and New Year's.

Strom said about half the phones — 1.7 million — in Michigan are included in the 1,200 square-mile metropolitan area, which is located generally within a 25-mile radius of downtown Detroit.

Metro-calling service includes a private line and unlimited calling privileges within each subscriber's local calling area. The usual charges apply for additional telephone services, such as extensions.

The new service, also being introduced Monday, to 27 Macomb and Wayne County communities, and Wayne County communities, will be offered on this year, to Detroit and 22 other suburbs.

Pine Knob PTA Plans Open House at School

CLARKSTON — The Pine Knob Elementary School Parent-Teacher Association will hold an open house at the school Monday from 7:30 to 9 p.m.

Parents will have the opportunity to visit their children's classroom, see some of the work being done and talk with teachers. Refreshments will be served.

Walled Lake High School semifinalists are Mary E. Lott, Richard A. Strain and Neal S. Watkins, while qualifiers from Romeo High School include Robert E. Aune, Patricia Stefaniak and Carol A. Totsch.

Donald R. Ferrier and Gilbert Robertson represent Waterford Kettering High.

Southfield High School semifinalists are James W. Arney, Robert L. Kollen, Robert J. Shiller and Mylee S. Stern.

Jaycees Boost Registrations

INDEPENDENCE TOWNSHIP — A telephone campaign launched this week by area Junior Chamber of Commerce members aimed at boosting the number of registered voters will be followed up by a series of special registration sessions beginning tomorrow.

Township Clerk Howard Altman will be in a mobile trailer on Main Street in Clarkston tomorrow and Oct. 5 from 4 to 6 p.m.

On Saturday he will be in the same location to take registrations from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. That afternoon his trailer will be at the Clarkston Shopping Center, M-16 and US-16, where nonregistered voters may sign up between 1:30 and 4 p.m.

The registration schedule for Oct. 6 calls for the trailer to be at Wadon Road and Wealthy Street from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. and at the intersection of Sashabaw and Maybee Roads from 2 to 5 p.m.

Registrations will be taken at the township hall during regular office hours, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Monday and Oct. 8, the final day to register for the Nov. 6 election, the clerk's office will remain open until 9 p.m.

Theater Chief Will Address Musicales Unit

ROCHESTER — Bruce Millan, of the "Millan Children's Theater," will speak 8 p.m. Tuesday at the Rochester Tuesday Musicales meeting in Avondale Senior High School auditorium.

Millan will discuss experiences of his touring company.

The company consists of professional adult actors who stage children's plays, which are written especially for youngsters.

The theater group will give two performances of "The Inevitable Indian Chief," Saturday, Oct. 26, in the Avondale Senior High School auditorium.

Students of St. Andrew's School will sing numbers from the forthcoming play at the Tuesday meeting. The Young People's Choir of St. Paul's Methodist Church will also sing.

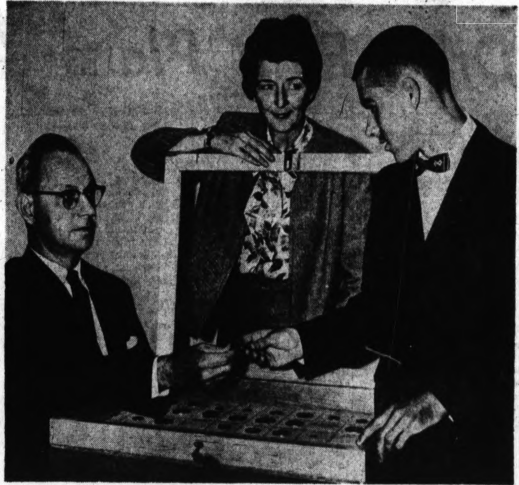

The meeting is open to the public, and guests and prospective members are cordially invited.

To Mark 'Rally Day' at Special Service

KEGOO HARBOR — "Rally Day" will be observed here Sunday at the Trinity Methodist Church with a special service and a pot-luck dinner.

A combined Sunday school and morning worship service will be held at 10 a.m. Sunday school promotions are scheduled and the children will present a special program.

Those who attend are asked to bring table service and a dish to share. The dinner will be held in the church's Fellowship Hall.

EXAMINE COINS — Showing some of the foreign coins he will have on display at the Rochester Coin Club show Sunday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. at the Elks Temple. The temple is at 204 W. Third St., Rochester.

Larry DeLowe (right), looking at them are George J. Hildebrandt, club president, and Mrs. John C. Bigham, secretary. The temple is at 204 W. Third St., Rochester.

In Rochester

Coin Exhibit Set Sunday

ROCHESTER — Coins of all throughout the United States and Canada will fill the 22 display tables with their exhibits.

Visitors will be handed a questionnaire on coins as they enter. This is to be filled with answers found on the various collections.

In addition to early American, gold and silver coins the club and its guests will display proof coins, paper money, tokens and medals.

Educational exhibits will also be featured at the show.

According to Club President George Hildebrandt, 920 W. South Blvd., Avon Township, collectors and novices alike will enjoy the many unique and interesting displays.

One of the displays, for example, traces the history of the American eagle on U.S. coins.

The odd and curious mediums of exchange also will be featured, such as a collection of elephant tusks.

Trophies will be awarded for the best member and nonmember exhibits and a grand award trophy will be given for best of show.

Other categories to be judged are U.S. copper, silver, and gold coins, ancient coins, foreign coins, U.S. paper money, medals and decorations and the odd and curious.

Junior members of the club will sell older and doughnuts during the show. The public is cordially invited to attend. No admission will be charged.

Regular meetings of the Rochester Coin Club are 7:30 p.m. on the second and fourth Monday of each month at the North H-11 Bowling Lanes, 150 W. Tienken Road.

Programs include films, exhibits, lectures and coin comparing.

Recently the club donated 14 books on U.S. coinage to the Avon Township Public Library. Other projects of this nature are conducted by the club.

To See Graham Film

DAVISBURG — "Decade of Decision," an hour-long film about evangelist Billy Graham, will be presented at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the First Baptist Church, Church of Davisburg, 12201 Andersonville Road. The event is open to the public.

Clarks on Honeymoon to Niagara, Smokies

HOLLY — Now on a honeymoon trip to Niagara Falls and the Smoky Mountains are Mr. and Mrs. James O. Clark who exchanged nuptial vows in a recent ceremony at the Davisburg Methodist Church.

The Rev. Warren L. Lear officiated at the candlelight service.

The bride, the former Shirley E. Symanski, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. LaCoste of 723 Richard Drive.

Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Stanley F. Clark of 12540 Rattale Lake Road, Davisburg.

For her wedding, the bride chose a gown of silk tulle de soie with embroidered imported rose point lace. The fitted bodice featured a scalloped neckline accented with lace and accented with seed pearls and sequins. The bouffant skirt extended into a fan-shaped train.

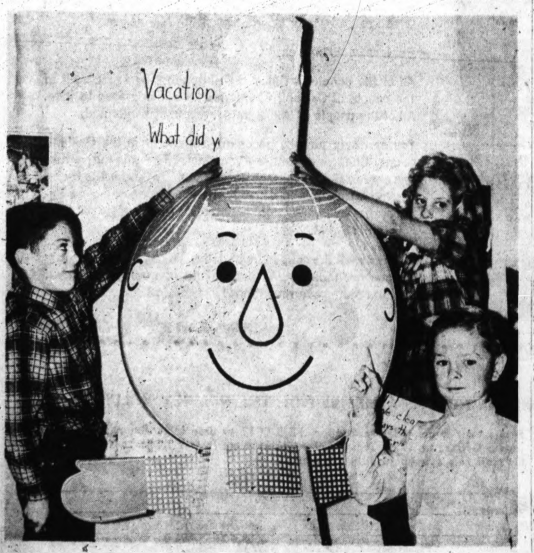

The bride carried a cascade bouquet of white snow drifts, pomegranates and Stephanotis. Her veil of silk illusion was secured by a Swarovski crystal crown of seed pearls and crystals.

Maid of honor for her sister was Diane Symanski of Holly. Bridesmaids were the bridegroom's sisters, Mary Jo Clark of Davisburg, and Barbara Kay Schultz of Holly.

Marilyn Bailey of Holly was flower girl.

John R. Clark of Davisburg was best man for his brother. Ushers were John Barton, Gary Riddle, William Severy and Darrell Kinney, all of Holly. Ring bearer was Brian Well of Drayton Plains.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlors. The couple will reside in Holly following the honeymoon.

FAIR ATTRACTION — "Mr. Balloonsland," mascot of pupils at Sashabaw Elementary School, gets spruced up by three friends as he prepares to welcome visitors to Saturday's Sashabaw School Fair sponsored by the school's Parent-Teacher Association. The fair will be held from 2 to 6 p.m. Saturday at the school playground. Maybee and Cecilia Ann roads, Independence Township. The pupils shown here are (from left) Terry Meyers, Julia Miller and Howard Bliss.

He Can't Be Fired

Salesman Sitting on Top

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE N-43: Donald K. aged 20, is the discouraged college senior who wonders what chance a poor guy has in this age of giant industrial plants. "Dr. Crane," he added, "I don't have any money, so I must depend on my own hands and brain."

"The salesman is the spark plug of civilization."

And that is not only true, but the salesman has far more job security and chance of a big income than any other worker. Here's why:

First, he may have 500 "employers" instead of just one.

For when he has recruited 500 satisfied customers, each of them is a "boss."

But if one dies or moves away or gets irate, his income doesn't drop suddenly from maybe $100 per week to zero.

No, indeed, for he still has 499 "employers" in the form of his other satisfied customers. And with a little cold canvassing, he can again recruit a new customer to bring his total back to that 500-mark.

But what happens to the young fellow who takes a salaried office or factory job? He has just ONE boss. So if that employer dislikes him or dies or retires from the firm, he may be out of a job entirely.

So his salary can drop from $100 per week to zero, all in a few seconds.

Or maybe his firm may merge with a larger organization. Then the employees of the smaller outfit may be out of a job.

Again, suppose that boss has a son or favorite nephew who now comes into the firm after you have worked faithfully for 10 or 15 years and have hoped to succeed the boss.

That son or nephew may be pushed in ahead of you, despite your longer seniority and maybe greater ability.

So the fellow who works for just ONE boss is always in danger. And his salary usually cannot be jumped unless the salaries of those above him are likewise raised.

But what about the salesman? His earnings depend upon himself. Even if the sales manager back at the home office may grumble, the salesman still gets his greater income if he sells the goods.

"Yes," you may admit, "but suppose the boss wants to insert his son or nephew into the firm as a top executive?"

Even so, that son or nephew cannot take the place of a star salesman, for the customers belong primarily to you, the salesman, and NOT to your firm.

MATCH MERCHANDISE
For in this age of matched merchandise, you seldom have much edge over your competitors. For instance, gasoline and insurance and bread are almost identical in quality and price.

What causes us to buy one brand vs. the other is usually the salesman!

And a salesman who is mistreated, can switch to a rival firm in that area and take most of his customers with him!

The boss knows this, so he seldom tries to penalize a good salesman unfairly.

In fact, even in depression times, the salesman is the spark plug of the factory's output, for you dare not lay off good salesmen unless you want your firm to go bankrupt quickly.

But salesmanship is a real profession, like law or medicine, as I'll explain more fully tomorrow.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

Have You Tried This?

Miracle Brownies Are Made With Cocoa

Pontiac Press Food Editor

Have you ever wanted to make brownies, then found you had no chocolate in the house? File Mrs. John Mack-er's recipe for Miracle Brownies away and it won't matter, if you have cocoa on hand.

Mrs. Macker's is now in the Pontiac area. Cooking is her vocation. She enjoys sewing when she has leisure time.

MIRACLE BROWNIES

By Mrs. John Macker

1 cup sifted flour

1 cup sugar

7 level tablespoons cocoa

1/2 teaspoon salt

1/2 teaspoon baking powder

3/4 cup soft shortening

2 eggs unbeaten

1 teaspoon vanilla

1 tablespoon white corn syrup

Mix together in a bowl flour, sugar, cocoa, salt and baking powder. Add rest of ingredients and mix well.

Add 1/2 cup broken nut meats, if desired.

Pour into greased 8x8x2

pan. Bake at 350 degrees 25-

30 minutes or until cookie dough shrinks from sides of pan. This will be tender in the center. Cool and cut into squares.

This Homecoming Men Dream About

By RUTH MILLETT

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

A woman, Marceline Cox, says

"When he returns home at night

every man worth his salt deserves to have a chair that exactly fits his contours, is free of newspapers, unironed clothes, children's toys, and is always found in the same place — even if it has to be bolted to the floor to keep it

There's probably not a husband alive who wouldn't say

"Amen" to that — and most could probably think of a few more things a homecoming husband would appreciate just as

A driveway free of tricycles, bicycles, wagons, balls, bats, and other toys that a man has to remove before he can get into his

A GOOD DINNER

A good dinner that is either ready to go on the table immediately or in a few brief minutes, and that notifies of what's cooking

by some delicious aroma.

The evening paper — in order — not torn apart or scattered all over the living room by the member of the family who got the first crack at it.

A wife who has been home long enough to have everything under control, even if she had to break up a bridge game to do it.

THEIRS.

A real welcome from his wife, who is obviously delighted to have him back home and isn't too absorbed in whatever she is doing to go to meet him with a smile and a little happy-talk before he has to hear any depressing news.

There's just one catch. The man who gets that kind of a welcome home night after night has no excuse at all for bringing a grouch home with him.

10-Year-Old Girl's Dying Wish Realized; Book Gets Published

By EDDY GILMORE
LONDON (AP)—The dying wish of a gay and courageous child came true today.

The strangely moving book that 10-year-old Suzanne Reynolds had worked on against time was put on sale this morning in scores of British bookshops. In many, it was an immediate sellout.

TIME TO FINISH
Suzanne died of cancer. But not before she finished her life's work. She finished writing "Snowy and the Christmas Foe" the day before she died after a last desperate operation to save her life. Her mother, Eileen Reynolds, said "It's exactly as she wrote it. No alterations. Just a punctuation her and there. She would have been so proud."

With a tear in her voice the mother added: "She never grumbled or spoke of being unwell. She only talked of her pony and cat, and the fairy stories she sat up at night to write."

COURAGE CITED
Sir Cecil Wakeley, one of Britain's most eminent surgeons commented: "At such times, let us remember the courage of the gay and beautiful child who gave us 'Snowy and the Christmas Foe.'"

In a foreword to the book, Sir Cecil said:
"Suzanne's story is for children and my words shall be to them. Always try to be especially thankful when you are well and strong, and please, do what you can to help and to heal those who cannot run about and play."

'AN INSPIRATION'
A spokesman for the Imperial Cancer Research Fund said "It's a pleasant, refreshing and very moving book by a little girl who should be an inspiration to us all." All money from the book goes to fight cancer.

Animals were Suzanne's friends. When other children went out to play — even before she was confined to bed — she stayed behind to write and write.

FASTER AND FASTER
As the dreaded disease spread, Suzanne wrote faster and faster. It was as if she had to finish the book in a hurry, for she never knew she was dying.

Suzanne's principal character was a pony named Snowy. Snowy wanted a foal, but didn't seem to be able to produce one. Then one Christmas Eve — she did. The child drew from real life, for she owned a pony named Jinny.

Suzanne also illustrated her book.
Her book begins:
"It was Christmas Eve. Farmer Brown said 'I wish we could have got Mary the pony she wanted.' Suzanne died in late February."

But she lives on — in childhood's magic words.

Fashionable colors, such as avocado and honey beige, can be readily applied to wood paneling on interior walls. According to the Southern Pine Association, the desired hue can be achieved simply by tinting the finish with oils. Such finishes are transparent and do not obscure the wood grain.

carnival will feature pony rides, a hay wagon, indoor and outdoor games, variety store, cakewalk, dollwalk, bake sale and fish pond. Refreshments will be available during the 2 to 6 p.m. program which will conclude with a ham dinner. Cochairmen are Mrs. John Matas and Ralph Allen.

Garden Unit Meets at Keller Home

The Pine Lake Branch, Woman's National Farm and Garden Association, gathered at the home of Mrs. Kimble Keller of Pineview Drive Thursday. Mrs. Clarence W. Suhr was cohostess.

Members participated in the program "International Flower Arranging" by showing trends in Oriental, Greek Classic, Williamsburg and American Contemporary. Mrs. Russell Kock was chairman. Mrs. Henry Aubert, Mrs. Jack Brigham and Mrs. Jim Hedges were welcomed as guests.

Five members attended a recent workshop on dried flower arrangements at Birmingham Young Women's Christian Association in a program sponsored by the Michigan Division, WNF&G.

Elegant fabrics, splendid silhouettes in fabulous copies of famous designer coats

The most beautiful wool fabrics, the most exciting new shapes in a marvelous collection of coats priced remarkably low right at the very beginning of the season! See airy souffles, smooth meltons, textured failles, soft fleeces, nubly tweeds and boucles. See the muffled look, the contoured shapes and curved seams copied from expensive designer fashions. Shown, just a few of the many styles in reds, blues, greens, browns as well as black. All from famous makers, all carefully detailed . . . many hand-tailored. These are unusual coats, unusual values even for Zuielback's Suburban. Please come early to pick your favorite in mine or petite sizes!
