Needy Families Aided by Sales of Goodfellows

Volunteer Newsboys to Deliver Food, Clothes on Christmas Day

You may have paid a nickel, a dollar or even more for this special, Dec. 7, 1957 edition of the Pontiac Press.

Whatever amount you paid, you and thousands of other Pontiac and Waterford Township residents like you have helped make Christmas, 1957, a little brighter for needy folk and their children.

You helped by buying this annual Goodfellow Edition, sold this afternoon and evening on main streets throughout the two communities.

Goodfellows—those are the volunteer newsboys conducting the sale—want to swell their collections this year, in order to deliver as many baskets of food as possible 18 days from now.

That's why the Goodfellow salesman urged you to spend—or rather, give—as much as you could for this newspaper.

The price was not set. It depended on how much you could open your pocket book, and your heart.

BAND TOGETHER

Stationed at busy Pontiac intersections today were more than 50 members of the Metropolitan Club, Spirit 6, an organization of policemen, firemen and postal employes banded together for the sake of the less fortunate.

They hoped to raise at least $3,000 by nightfall.

With that sum, club president could provide Christmas baskets for 150 Pontiac families and, at the same time, would have sufficient funds left over to operate an emergency program all year around.

COMES AS DONATIONS

Some of the money today was coming in as donations. One of the first checks contributed was from The Pontiac Press, for $100.

In Waterford Township, policemen, firemen and members of the Lions and Rotary clubs were conducting the drive, also with a $3,000 goal.

Helping them are several other groups, including auxiliary members of the Metropolitan Club, Spirit 62, who have been making and dressing dolls for needy children.

Fire Capt. Clayton Soncrainte, who is in charge of the Goodfellow sale, said persons with toys or other articles to contribute may take them to any of the three township fire stations.

Waterford also has a year 'round emergency fund, financed by surpluses from today's sale.

Rocket Experts Combing Debris of First Attempt

Vanguard Officials Say 'Lack of Thrust' Cause of Misfiring

FROM OUR NEWS WIRES

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. —Reliable sources said today that the Navy will make another attempt in January, if not sooner, to hurl a Vanguard earth satellite into outer space.

Undismayed by the failure of the first launching yesterday, missile experts combed the wreckage of the blowup in an effort to find clues that will insure success of the next test.

The first effort ended in a spectacular cloud of smoke when the 72-foot, three-stage rocket carrying a six-inch satellite toppled off its steel and concrete platform and burst into flames.

Project Vanguard officials explained that "lack of thrust" caused the misfiring. What caused the "lack of thrust" remained a key to the mystery.

Already on hand, said Vanguard executive J. Paul Walsh, is another complete three-stage Martin rocket, a twin of the one that blew up on an attempted vertical takeoff yesterday.

RESTS IN HANGAR

"We can move it out as soon as the launching stand is ready to accept it," Walsh said.

When that would be was another question. The Vanguard people

After Car Rammed Bus

DEATH CAR — The car in which a woman was killed this morning after a collision with a Greyhound bus is shown after the victims were removed to the hospital. Mrs. Mary McCormick, 63, the driver, was killed and her daughter injured when the car spun out of control and into the path of the bus.

Car Strikes Bus; Two Others Ram Disabled Truck

Victims Are Jay Olsen, Mrs. Mary McCormick; Two in Hospital

A Pontiac woman and a Waterford Township man were killed in two auto crashes during the past 24 hours.

The woman, Mrs. Mary McCormick, 63, of 52 Going St., was dead on arrival at Pontiac General Hospital of injuries received when her auto crashed into a Greyhound bus.

Her daughter, Anneretta Smith, 34, of 402 Irwin St., suffered back injuries and scalp lacerations and is in fair condition.

The huge bus, loaded with passengers, was enroute from Bay City to Detroit when the accident occurred at 8:30 this morning on Oakland Avenue, at Pensacola. None of the passengers was injured.

The Waterford accident claimed the life of Jay C. Olsen, 37, 7815 Elizabeth Lake Rd., while his wife Doris, 36, was injured in a second car.

Olsen was on route home, with his wife following behind in her car at 1:15 a.m. when the collision occurred.

He was thrown clear and then run over by his own careening car. He died an hour after admittance to Pontiac General Hospital.

Mrs. Olsen's auto also clipped the rear of the truck, swerved off the highway and hit a tree. She was hospitalized with cuts and shock but is in satisfactory condition.

The truck driver, Alex C. Nelson, 9414 Elizabeth Lake, Waterford Township, told state police he had left the vehicle while he walked to a telephone to summon aid. Police said the truck was lighted.

Colder Weather Tonight May End Wet Snowfall

Early morning rain in the Pontiac area turned to snow about dawn and by mid-morning streets and highways were covered with soft snow and slush which made driving hazardous.

While weather predictions held hope that the snow might stop this afternoon with falling temperature, Oakland County Road Commission reported 4 inches had fallen by noon and more was expected before the storm abated.

Road plows were on their second rounds this afternoon and reported roads treacherous because of the accumulated slush.

Prediction for tonight is partly cloudy and colder, with an expected low of 26 degrees.

The forecast for Sunday is mostly cloudy with a few snow flurries. Monday temperatures may be a little higher and skies will remain partly cloudy.

The mercury dropped to 33 early this morning for the lowest recorded temperature in downtown Pontiac preceding 8 a.m. The reading at 2 p.m. was 36.

Across the nation rain and a few patches of snow dampened large sections as clouds blanketed nearly all of the country except Southwest desert areas.

Temperatures were generally mild in warm moist air which covered most of the Eastern third of the country. But a cold air invasion from Canada dropped temperatures from the northern Plains and Great Lakes southward into the Southern Rockies and West Texas.

AFL-CIO and Teamsters Deny Plotting Labor War

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—Both the AFL-CIO and the exiled Teamsters Union disclaimed any intent today of starting a labor war in the wake of the truck union's expulsion on corruption charges.

The giant Teamsters organization was ousted from AFL-CIO membership yesterday by a 5-1 voting margin of convention delegates.

The action came after AFL-CIO President George Meany charged the Teamsters have never lifted a finger to clean up allegedly corrupt conditions that have swirled around President-elect James R. Hoffa and other high Teamster bosses.

But Meany said the federation's door will remain open for return of the Teamsters as soon as Hoffa is ousted.

"There is no plan at all for a war with the Teamsters and we hope it will never come," Meany said.

WON'T 'PLAY DEAD'

Hoffa said in New York, where he is being tried in Federal Court on wiretapping charges, the Teamsters intended to carry on as before, cooperating with whatever unions wanted to cooperate.

Einar O. Mohn, Teamsters administrative vice president, said here, "We don't intend to leave Atlantic City with chips on our shoulders—on the other hand we don't intend to play dead either, just because somebody doesn't like us."

Just how long the Teamsters remain ostracized from the main body of organized labor seemed to depend in large part on how Hoffa fares in his current trial on wiretapping charges, or pending federal perjury charges, and in a suit in Washington challenging his election to the Teamsters presidency.

The Washington case seeks to overturn Hoffa's election last October as Teamsters president succeeding retiring Dave Beck. A federal judge has enjoined Hoffa from taking office until charges he helped rig his own election are decided.

Exiling the Teamsters, with 1½ million members, cut down the AFL-CIO's over-all membership to 13½ million.

Pentagon Backs Publicity on Moon-Launching Flop

WASHINGTON (INS)—The Pentagon's information chief has defended the free flow of information on the disastrous U. S. attempt to launch its first earth satellite at Cape Canaveral, Fla.

Murray Snyder, assistant defense secretary for public affairs, issued his statement shortly after several newspapers and members of Congress criticized the detailed rescheduling of firing times.

The Pentagon was confident that its course of actior was proper. Officials felt that the American people were disappointed, but that they would have been angered if the information had been withheld.

However, the director of Project Vanguard, Dr. John P. Hagen, declared that future firings should not be so heavily publicized.

Birmingham Moon Builder Predicts Eventual Success

"It's a shame that the Vanguard rocket test failed—but I'm not surprised. Firing a satellite into outer space is a complex operation and we should not be discouraged after our first try."

That was the reaction today of an Oakland County resident who played a key role in the first U.S. effort to fire a satellite in outer space.

The speaker was E. H. Perkins Jr., of Birmingham, who, together with his father, E. Howard Perkins Sr., of Royal Oak heads the Detroit firm of Brooks and Perkins, Inc. Their magnesium firm constructed the coverings for a dozen man-made moons.

"There's no doubt that the satellite was damaged when the rocket fell over at Cape Canaveral," Perkins said. "However, that would not hold up another attempt to launch a moon because the Navy has many more satellites on hand."

Perkins stated that he knew nothing about reports that the Army would go ahead on its own and attempt to launch a moon with its Jupiter rocket. The Army has announced that it would use its own satellite for such a launching.

"I can't see why the Army would have to use a different satellite than the one we constructed for the Navy," Perkins said.

The first news that Perkins heard of the Vanguard failure was over the radio. He has received no communication from the government on the test firing.

"What dismays me is the amount of advance publicity that the test firing received. To get a moon up into an orbit is a complex

"There is no question in my mind," Perkins said, "that the U. S. will eventually have its moons orbiting around the globe.

Dutch Order Vessel to West New Guinea

THE HAGUE, Netherlands, (AP) — The Dutch Navy announced today it is rushing the submarine destroyer Drente to West New Guinea. The submarine destroyer Groningen is already on the way and the frigate Evertsen is in the area.

Their mission will include protection of KPM ships withdrawing from Indonesia, a Navy spokesman said. The Indonesian government has taken over KPM property and put armed guards on KPM ships in port to prevent their leaving.

The naval vessels will also be prepared to help evacuate Dutch citizens from Indonesia, the Navy said. The government in Jakarta has ordered out most of the 46,000 Dutch residents.

The order and the seizure were in retaliation for Dutch refusal to hand over to Indonesia West New Guinea.

Reds Jump on Vanguard Misfire With Glee

Drumbeat of Publicity Heralding 'Moon' Backfires

By INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE

The drumbeat of publicity heralding America's first—and futile—attempt to launch an earth satellite backfired today like a "sock on the chin by a Russian haymaker."

From London to Tokyo, and back to Washington, politicians, the press and the man on the street sank critical barbs into what a German World War II rocket expert termed "blowing the trumpet in advance . . . rather than afterwards."

EASIER TO BEAR

Observers in capitals around the globe agreed the fiery failure of the Vanguard satellite-carrying rocket at Cape Canaveral would have been easier to bear without the big publicity buildup.

The Communists jumped onto the misfire with glee The Soviet news agency Tass and Moscow Radio virtually broke all records in getting the news to their readers and listeners.

The Italian Communist newspaper L'Unita published a cartoon showing two American rockets so tall they reached the moon, but remained on the ground.

REACTION GRIM

Free world reaction was grim.

Dr. Vibul Thamavit, dean of the social administration faculty of Bangkok's Thamasat University, warned in Tokyo:

"With Russia putting up two Sputniks and the U. S. satellite exploding before it got off the ground, the reaction is likely to increase neutralism all over the world."

POLITICS INVOLVED

The bitter reaction to the advance publicity started in Washington and spread around the world with the news from Cape Canaveral. Some of it obviously was marked by political overtones.

RAPS PUBLICITY

Senate Armed Services Chairman Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.), who has criticized the flood of publicity for several days, declared the emphasis had been put "in the wrong place," adding:

"We couldn't have impressed anybody even if we had been successful in putting up a small satellite . . . It would have been better to make our two or three trials in the middle of the night, in secret."

Minnesota Democrat Hubert Humphrey said he was saddened and humiliated by the cheap and gaudy manner in which the administration has gone about the business of trying a last-minute rush to launch a satellite—and failing—after deliberately stretching out the program for economy reasons."

CALLS FOR REPORT

President Eisenhower's call for a full report on what happened failed to spare him from criticism at home and abroad.

IKE VEXED

A vexed and disappointed President Eisenhower today awaited a "what happened" report from the Defense Department on the failure to launch America's first earth satellite.

Within minutes after the project Vanguard rocket blew up at Cape Canaveral, Fla., yesterday, Acting Defense Secretary Donald A. Quarles was asked to prepare a full explanation of the misfiring.

White House News Secretary James C. Hagerty told newsmen that the report is not expected to reach the President's desk for at least a few days.

In response to questions, he also said that any decision on whether Eisenhower might discuss the satellite program in a nationwide radio-TV talk would be made after he reads the report.

Technical experts of the Navy, the Martin Co., and of every sub-contractor for the Vanguard rocket anxiously awaited the processing of data gathered during the ill-fated test.

These include:

1. Information on the Vanguard's stresses, pressures and temperatures in the launching attempt.

2. Engineering motion picture films of the 72-foot vehicle as it struggled unsuccessfully to lift itself into space

Walsh, who watched the attempted launching from a hangar at a respectful distance, said the big rocket actually started to leave the stand, and in two seconds of burning rose from two to four feet off the ground. Then it settled back onto the launching stand, into the furious, blazing heat of its own exhaust.

Everything aboard the two bottom stages that would burn went up in a whoosh of flame, Walsh said.

Fueling the intense flames that shot 50 to 100 feet into the air were tons of liquid oxygen, kerosene, nitric acid and unsymmetrical dimethyl hydrazine, all of them highly volatile.

"Thank God the third stage didn't blow up," said one of the Vanguard workers. "If the third stage rocket's solid propellant had been touched off, some of us might not be in such good shape today."

As it was, not one of the persons in the immediate area was hurt.

Walsh said that technically there had been a rapid burning rather than the violence of a real explosion.

He said that because it was not a high order of detonation there was no shock wave that might have inflicted further damage.

The rocket fell away from the control crews huddled in the nearby concrete blockhouse. The top part—the third stage, the 6.4 inch satellite sphere and the nose cone—hurtled to the ground a few yards away, untouched by the flames.

So sturdy was the tiny sphere that it never ceased sending out its weak radio signals.

Reporters asked if the Navy, now that for the moment it had failed with the Vanguard, was prepared to step aside for an Army launching attempt using the Jupiter-C missile and an Army-designed satellite.

Hagen said there were no plans to call in the Army, particularly since the Navy already has a "back up vehicle"—another Vanguard—standing by for launching as soon as possible.

C. H. Schooley, Defense Department information chief, said also that the Army only recently was given a supplementary activity in the satellite launching field, and that its program was not so far along as the Vanguard program.

Asked if the pressure of world opinion or other factors pushed the Navy into a launching attempt before one should have been made, Walsh said this definitely was not true. "We were ready," he said.

'War Might Have Been Prevented,' Diplomat Believes

Japanese Remember Dec. 7, 1941

On the 16th anniversary of Pearl Harbor many Americans still remember the names of Nomura and Kurusu, the Japanese envoys who talked peace with Cordell Hull in Washington at the very moment when Japanese bombs were falling on Pearl Harbor. In an exclusive interview one of the two diplomats, Kichisaburo Nomura, recounts Dec. 7, 1941, from his view.

TOKYO (INS) — A worn-out and tired Japanese ambassador fretted at 1:30 p.m., Dec. 7, 1941, in his embassy in Washington. He was already a half hour late for an appointment with U.S. Secretary of State Cordell Hull for another "peace talk."

Kichisaburo Nomura did not know, however, that at that very moment Japanese bombs were raining death on Pearl Harbor and the die of war was cast.

"I was late for the appointment," said Nomura today in Tokyo, 16 years later, "because the decoding of our last message to the United States was delayed.

"When I finally did speak to Hull, it was 2:20 p.m." That was 50 minutes after bombs began falling on Pearl Harbor.

Nomura said:

"I handed Hull our last note. It said that further talks to prevent war—talks that had gone on for many months—were useless."

Nomura said he did not know that when the note was drawn up a Japanese carrier task force was already steaming for Hawaii.

"And when I saw Hull I didn't yet know anything about Pearl Harbor being bombed."

The former Imperial Navy admiral said Hull took "one look at the note and denounced it as full of distortions and falsehoods. It was only later that I learned that when I walked in to see Hull, he already knew about Pearl Harbor.

"But he kept it silent from us — maybe he wanted to check reports to make sure it had actually happened."

It wasn't until 3 p.m. that same day, when Nomura and Saburo Kurusu, special envoy who accompanied him on the fateful visit to Hull, returned to the Japanese Embassy that an aide phoned them

"We have just bombed Pearl Harbor."

Nomura, who will be 80 Dec. 16, is now president of the Victor Record Co. of Japan.

"Pearl Harbor was a double shock to me," Nomura said, "because I had always admired the United States. I had many friends in your country and still do. Dec. 7 was a sad day in my life."

Nomura is not one of those Japanese who assign Pearl Harbor responsibility to the U.S.

"Our countries' policies were irreconcilable. War resulted. China was the crux of the dispute and I think Japan was dead wrong in invading China.

"I still think war might have been prevented. If I didn't think so, I never would have gone to Washington at the beginning of 1941."

Burn Classroom at Longfellow

School Is Hit Second Time Within 3 Weeks by Vandals

For the second time within two weeks, vandals set fire to the Longfellow School, 51 N. Astor St.

The blaze, reported to the Pontiac Fire Department at 10:53 a.m. this morning, completely gutted one second-floor classroom at the south end of the building.

A second fire set in a first floor classroom burned itself out without doing serious damage.

The vandals believed by police to be the same ones that set fire to the school Nov. 24, apparently gained entrance by breaking a window.

There was no estimate of damage, but Fire Chief John Schroeder said that the fire had been burning for some time and it was luck that it was confined to the one classroom.

Outside of the one room, it appeared that the school could be opened for Monday morning classes.

Pontiac Man Named to State Labor Post

LANSING (AP) — Neil M. McArthur, 33, of Pontiac, president of Local 19 of the Carpenters Union in Detroit, today was named deputy state labor commissioner.

McArthur's appointment to the $6,700-a-year job was announced by Commissioner Russell White, whose appointment last month to succeed John Reid touched off a political controversy.

White said McArthur replaces Joe Wolf, deputy under Reid.

The deputy's job is not a classified civil service position and it is customary for a new commissioner to choose his top aide.

operation, and it was hardly to be expected that we would be successful in our first attempt.

"All the hoopla on the rocket was built up to the point where everyone expected it to work."

Perkins doubts that it was one of his firm's satellites that was used in Florida test. "I understand from the news that the outer covering of the satellite was made of aluminum, and ours was of magnesium," he said.

He believes that the covering of the satellite was prepared by scientists in the Naval Research Lab in Washington. The Detroit firm was the only private firm in the country under contract to make the shell for the artifical moons.

35 Arrested in Raid on Detroit Blind Pig

DETROIT (INS) — Police revealed they arrested 35 persons in a 4 a.m. raid today on a blind pig and gambling establishment in a private home in Detroit.

Police said Mildred Martell, 31, and Fred Davila, 29, were charged with engaging in an illegal occupation. The others were seized as loiterers but must appear in court today.

Police seized seven cases of beer, five decks of cards, five pair of dice and $47 in cash.

Freed in Shooting of 'Phony' Hero Mate

MT. CLEMENS (INS) — A World War II Marine "war hero" who was shot to death last month by his wife in Macomb County was revealed today in court as a "four-star phony."

As a result of the disclosure, Mrs. Marie Kennedy, 33, was free on bond and admittedly stunned by the proof that her husband, John, had lived a lie.

Mrs. Kennedy admitted she shot her husband, a county deputy sheriff, to death Nov. 11 "because I was tired of being beaten up and threatened." Her story puzzled fellow deputies who said her husband was a "nice guy" and "well-liked" in the area.

Chief Assistant Prosecutor Roy M. Rogensues told the court the 42-year-old ex-Marine apparently altered his discharge record "to invent a wound he never suffered and an overseas record for places he had never seen."

The Day in Birmingham

'Men's Night' Approaches When They Go Shopping

BIRMINGHAM — Women and children are busy making last minute lists or passing out hints as the zero hour of Birmingham's Mens' Night approaches.

Following a long time custom, merchants will cater to the male shopper Monday with stores operating on a special 7 to 10 p.m. program.

It's strictly a shopping spree night for the men since others in the family are discouraged from taking part.

Stores this year again are offering the widest choice of attractive merchandise. Special services such as layaway plans for last minute pickup will be provided by many of the merchants.

Area police departments reported early this morning that salt crews were able to keep streets and roads in fairly good driving condition. Packed-down snow, they said, was being "chewed" by tires and salt and that while drivers should use extreme caution, road conditions were not particularly dangerous.

The senior choir and soloists of St. James Episcopal Church will present Bach's Christmas oratorial tomorrow. Given as a service of music, it will replace the customary 11 a.m. service and worship.

Hoffa Tells Jury He Hired Tapper

NEW YORK (AP)—James R. Hoffa told a grand jury that he hired a professional wiretapper to install microphones in his Detroit headquarters, according to a transcript of his testimony before the panel.

Hoffa, president - elect of the Teamsters Union, is on trial in Federal District Court with two others on charges of conspiring here to have subordinates' phones in Detroit tapped to find out what they were telling official racket investigators.

The transcript, taken last April and read in court yesterday, showed Hoffa paid the wiretapper, Bernard Spindel of Holmes, N.Y., $8,429 for the job and that Spindel showed Hoffa and Owen B. Brennan, president of Detroit Teamsters Local 337, how to operate the equipment.

Hoffa denied before the grand jury that he authorized the tapping of telephones in the Teamsters Detroit building, according to the transcript. At one point he said:

"To the best of my knowledge there was no electronic equipment placed in any telephone in the Teamsters building and I authorized no one to do it."

Hoffa told the jury that Spindel visited him in Detroit in May, 1953, and said he had heard from friends in New York that Hoffa was having trouble with his telephone.

Hoffa had "certain suspicions" that his telephone wires were being tapped and discussed it with Spindel, the Teamster chief said.

Hoffa's testimony continued: Spindel found that the lines had been taped and worked to correct the situation.

Spindel installed microphones in the Detroit offices of Locals 337, 229 (of which Hoffa is president), 247, and 876, as well as the office of Frank Holland, described as second in command in Hoffa's absence.

Hoffa denied he knew Spindel before the wiretapper called at his office. The government has introduced testimony that Spindel has admitted Johnny Dio, labor racketeer, telephoned Hoffa from New York about Spindel and sent Spindel to Detroit to see Hoffa.

guard headquarters, who said he would have preferred less publicity.

Horn conceded, however, that news of any test would be almost impossible to withhold.

HOST OF REQUESTS

Snyder said last-minute announcements on the delays resulted from a host of requests from approximately 200 newsmen and photographers covering the event.

The information chief said: "I think the requests were appropriate in view of the great public interest, and the decision to supply the information justified."

Defense Department Information Director Herschel Schooley was dispatched by Snyder to the launching site to survey the operation.

But Snyder could not state whether Schooley alone made the decision to keep newsmen posted on new firing times or whether it was made jointly by naval personnel, scientists and information officers at the base.

'Odds Strong' Ike Will Attend

McElroy Hopeful About Eisenhower Going to NATO Parley

LONDON (INS) — U.S. Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy said today the odds are "quite strong" that President Eisenhower will attend the NATO summit conference in Paris Dec. 16.

McElroy, apparently taking note of fears expressed about the outlook for the Paris chiefs-of-government parley in light of the U.S. satellite-launching failure, told reporters when he arrived in London:

"It is not yet cetain (that Eisenhower will attend the Paris meeting). He will have to get final clearance from his doctors. But I would say the odds are quite strong he will be there."

Eisenhower has given every indication that he is very anxious to go to the Paris unity meeting, and the only thing which might halt him is an absolute veto from his physicians.

Western diplomats in Washington have openly expressed the opinion it will take all of Eisenhower's prestige in Europe to restore faith in the free world's ability to match Soviet science.

McElroy said he expected the U.S. to have missiles available somewhat earlier than expected.

McElroy flew into London for three days of talks with British Defense Minister Duncan Sandys and top Anglo-American brass. The two defense heads are directly concerned in deployment of promised American guided missiles in Britain late next year.

Crash Kills 4 Teens, Including Grid Queen

HAMBURG, Ark. (AP) — A high school football queen and three other teen-age girls were killed last night when an automobile crashed into a trailer truck on a rain-soaked highway.

Dead were Kay Carver, 17-year-old football queen of Hamburg High School; Myrtle Bunn and her cousin Jimmie Nell Ruff, both 17, and Fay Henderson, 18.

All were seniors.

They were traveling in a car apparently driven by Miss Henderson and were on their way to pick up Helen Blocker, a classmate, so the five could attend a banquet at nearby Crossett, Ark.

The banquet in honor of the Hamburg school's football team already had started when the collision occurred. Miss Carver was scheduled to speak on the banquet program.

Less than a quarter of a mile from the Blocker home, the car crashed into the big refrigerator truck. The truck driver, Jessie Harralson, 33, of Waco, Tex., suffered only slight injuries.

Sheriff B. A. Courson said apparently the girls' car made too wide a pass around a car that had stalled on the shoulder of U.S. Highway 82. He said it appeared that the driver of the car applied the brakes and it skidded, hitting the side of the trailer.

The car was stripped to its floorboards as it passed beneath the trailer. Courson described the automobile wreckage as the worst he had ever seen.

The sheriff said two of the bodies were pinned in the debris and the other two were found a few yards away. Three wreckers and a logging crane were needed to pry the vehicles apart.

School Supt. S. P. Portis of Hamburg said he and about 100 other persons at the banquet had finished dinner and were waiting for the girls to arrive so the program could start when news of the tragedy was received. The remainder of the banquet was canceled.

Portis said Kay's mother, Mrs. Charles Graham, told him:

Portis said the pretty, brown-eyed brunette was a popular student and had been a cheerleader. He said all four girls made good grades and all belonged to the school's glee club.

Drumbeat of Publicity on Vanguard Backfires

PRESS NOT INVITED

Even before the news reached Britain, the respected Manchester Guardian editorialized that "no doubt the Russians had trouble with their space vehicles—their wisdom lay in not inviting along the press to see it removed."

There were fears in Paris and other capitals the misfire bodes ill for the success of the NATO chiefs-of-government conference only nine days away.

The reaction of Italian political leaders was "sad disappointment," but they also "deplored" the publicity.

RATHER SMALL

Ironically Soviet Communist Party Boss Nikita S. Khrushchev said, "I am sure it will be launched sooner or later," but he couldn't help adding, "I don't know how good it is, but I think it rather small."

The deepest expressions of sympathy for the Vanguard scientists came from other scientists.

A. C. B. Lovell, director of Britain's Jodrell Bank radio telescope, noted, "It's easy to make too much of this disaster. We don't know how many failures the Russians had before launching."

Top Japanese rocket scientist Dr. Chuji Tsuboi said, "I don't think America should be disgraced by the failure—after all, research is a painstaking matter and haste makes waste."

Former German General Leo Zanssen, who headed the wartime Peenemuende rocket research station, said: "We had lots of failures at Peenemuende, but we kept our mouths closed about them—and we got our rockets off in the end."

F. U. Staats, president of the German Rocket Research Association, said the "psychological effect of the failure of the Vanguard rocket will be enormous, especially on the nations of Europe . . ."

One of the few defenders of the advance buildup was Rep. John E. Moss (D-Calif.), chairman of the House Government Information Subcommittee. He said that "whether we admit failure or employ silence, the rest of the world will not credit us with success until we put a satellite into space."

New Club for Teenage Drivers

Car Checked for Safety Gets You In

Beginning Monday, Pontiac teenagers will be able to join a national teen club. It's an "on-my-honor-club" since no meetings are held.

Membership requirements are that teens drive an automobile which has passed a safety check. The club is called the Safe-Teen Club.

Sponsors of the local organization is the Pontiac Association of Insurance Agents. Co-operating with them are the Pontiac Central High School department of driver education, the Pontiac Automotive Trade Association, and George Stewart, Mrs. Margaret Hill and Robert Flynn of the traffic and safety commitee of the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce.

Beginning Monday, teens may apply for membership at the school. The application form has a list of 10 items which must be safety checked by one of the nine local automobile dealers participating in the program.

The items to be checked are: Brakes, front and rear lights, steering, tires, exhaust system, glass, windshield, rear view mirror and horn.

If the auto is deemed safe by the dealer, teens will receive a black and red "safe-teen" luminous sticker for the auto's bumper. A membership card will also be issued to each teen whose auto passes the safety check. Written on the card is the club's motto, "We drive defensively, courteously—longer!"

If members are involved in an accident because of their auto's defective equipment, the auto will be stripped of the sticker and the member must forfeit his membership card.

The authorized safety check stations for Safe-Teens are: Jerome Motor Sales, 280 S. Saginaw St.; Cy Owens, Inc., 147 S. Saginaw St.; Matthews-Hargreaves, Inc., 34 Mill St.; General Motors Truck Retail Store, 675 Oakland Ave.; and Central Lincoln-Mercury Sales Inc., 40 W. Pike St.

Others are: Oliver Motor Sales, Inc., 210 Orchard Lake Rd.; Riemenschneider - Englehart, 232 S. Saginaw St.; R and R Motors Sales 724 Oakland Ave., and Wilson Pontiac-Cadillac, Inc., of Birmingham.

Britons Start Buying in Big Yule Spree

LONDON (INS)—Britons are already head over heels into the biggest, maddest Christmas spending spree in their history.

The Bank of England is busy rushing new notes into circulation and the public is spending them as fast as they are issued. With two and a half weeks to go before Christmas the total of notes in circulation is within a few million pounds of an all-time peak.

Retail traders consider if present trends continue sales will reach a record this Christmas. Shops all over the country report that they are very or extremely busy. Customers are reportedly spending freely and traditional Christmas lines are moving quickly.

Knows Many Cubans Would Like to Kill Him

Batista's Travels Closely-Kept Secret

HAVANA (AP)—Even President Fulgencio Batista's best friends don't know his route or destination when he sets out from the presidential palace.

Batista doesn't give his chauffeur directions for more than a few blocks in advance.

As he rides along, he keeps on giving fresh orders and routes.

The chauffeur doesn't know whether the chief executive is headed for "Military City" in nearby Camp Columbia; for his farm at Wajay, 15 miles west of Havana; or elsewhere.

All this is part of the precautions Batista takes to protect his own life. He is well aware of the fact that many Cubans would like to kill him.

Batista never sticks to a regular route or a time for leaving his office. Usually, the presidential palace is his headquarters Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

Saturdays' Sundays and Mondays often are spent at his home in Camp Columbia, surrounded by 3,000 or more of Cuba's armed forces, or at his farm near Wajay.

But Batista frequently shows up at the presidential palace on those days too.

The four-story palace is a virtual fortress. Troops and police with automatic rifles, grenades and pistols, with liberal supplies of extra bullets, patrol the area around it.

Song Writers Urged to Sing of New East

BERLIN (INS) — Song writers should be able to find just as much corn and as many cliches behind the Iron Curtain as in the West. In fact, it's their duty, says an East German Communist newspaper.

"Why should lyricists sing of love only on the pampas or the prairies, on the Amazon, in Frisco or in Hawaii?" complains East Berlin's "National Zeitung."

Composers ignore half the world, says the newspaper.

In a burst of lyricism, the newspaper declaimed "the western-inspired song writers seem to ignore that the fires of love burn also in the countries of the new east."

"If these song-writers would be able to swing around the world like Sputnik just once, perhaps they would notice that men love passionately also on the blooming fields of Turkmen, under the minarets of Samarkand or under the golden roofs of Peking."

City Public Works Crews Facing Snow Headaches

If you think you have a headache when Old Man Winter dumps that first snow here, just think of the Department of Public Works in Pontiac.

They have headaches too and they don't all come from having to move all that white stuff. Some come from complaints from citizens which the department can do nothing about, reports Joseph B. Jewell, DPW superintendent.

"Each year it never fails that citizens complain that when we clear the streets we push snow into their driveways," Jewell said. "We do this but there is no way we can help it."

Jewell has a complaint himself. "We can't shovel the streets when people park their cars on them all night.

"Supposing cars are parked on both sides of the street, like Johnson for instance, where can we push the snow?" he asked.

Awaiting the first big fall this winter, Jewell made his annual plea that citizens "be patient" in waiting for streets to be cleared. "We clear the trunk line and main arteries first and then move into the residential streets," he said.

Crews have readied the city's 9 plows, 4 graders and 3 salt spreaders for another seige of winter.

'George Humphrey' Sets Freight Mark

DETROIT (INS)—The freighter George M. Humphrey today set a new record for carrying iron ore on the Great Lakes by transporting a total of 873,957 gross tons from Superior, Wis. during the season.

The previous Lakes record was set in 1953 when the steamer Arthur M. Anderson carried 866,885 tons. National Steel Corp., which has Great Lakes Steel as a division, owns the Humphrey.

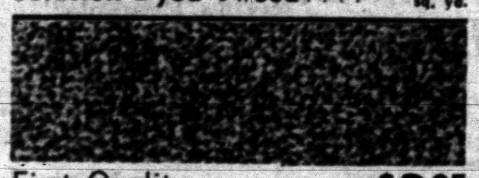

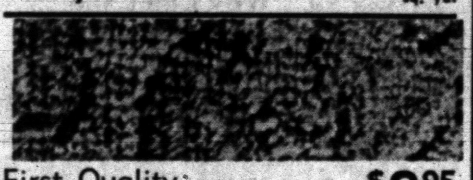

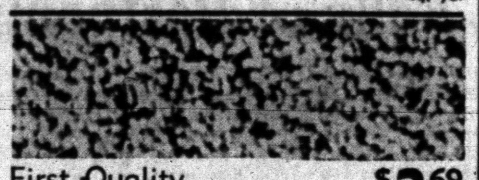

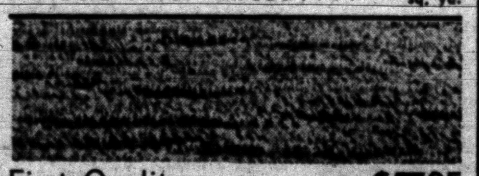

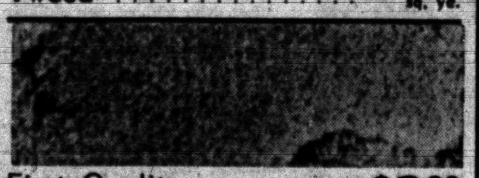

Gibraltar Area to Vote

DETROIT (AP) — Residents of the suburban Gibraltar school district will vote Tuesday on a four-million-dollar bond issue to provide a new high school and additions to elementary schools. If approved, the bond issue would increase taxes $8.50 for each $1,000 in assessed valuation.

It Seems to Me . . .

'Moon' Failure Not Important

A dud.

Our first Sputnik flopped dismally but no one can feign tremendous surprise. There was too much hysteria, double talk and all-over frenzy.

We were racing against — well, against what? Russia had already kicked a couple into the outer reaches and the world was smiling at our discomfiture. Who knows, that Russia's first rocket succeeded? In a land where there is absolute privacy and secrecy under pain of sure and instant death, the world can never tell whether Russia's first "moon" shot swiftly into space or whether the one we ultimately saw was the 21st.

By and large, this nation tops Russia at everything you can think of, and when the Reds actually steal our private thunder at anything at all, it hurts. As a matter of scientific achievement, The PRESS does not regard this first failure as very important. As one of our own Michigan scientists said: "This certainly isn't the end of the world."

That can't be denied.

It will be used as propaganda against us. Hostile nations will seize upon the opportunity to glory in our "embarrassment." Especially will the Russians chortle. They will make the most of it and milk it to the limit. We can look for no sympathy there. Red victories over us are so few and so far between that when one does occur, it's an epic event for communism.

The Press has lost no faith in the scientists we have here. We still believe in them completely. No nation ever wins every battle of every war.

Beating the Russians at almost anything you can conjure has been a cinch. One Sputnik and a free wheeling Russian puppy in outer space don't spell global or international doom.

Remember, these satellites aren't weapons. We are in no greater jeopardy than we were last September or New Year's afternoon. Probably our next "moon" will be handled more cautiously and with more care and precision. The scientists unfortunately felt the hot breath of public expectancy reaching down their necks. They sprinted when they should have walked calmly.

We are a people of great national pride. We have earned that right. Hence, an experience like this hurts us more than it really should. Other countries have had to accept a like fate for centuries.

Be ye of good cheer.

And in Conclusion . . .

Jottings from the well thumbed notebook of your peripatetic reporter:

Purely personal nomination for an especially lovely young woman: BARBARA SANFORD BRINEY. And I'm proud to add that she's a Pontiac PRESS alumna . . . . . I read in a New York paper that VIRGINIA GIBSON, a friend of mine who's on The Hit Parade Saturday nights, had trouble with a date because of her drinking. As usual, GINNY wouldn't touch a drop.

Mrs. Harlow Curtice and the Queen of Britain are look alikes. Her husband admits "they do look something alike," but I think it's startling. And they're both stunning looking . . . . . Sales Management Magazine in the current issue picks the five top "growth" companies in the United States: Continental Can, Dow Chemical, Reynolds Metal, Minnesota Mining and Chas. Pfizer Co. Three of the five, Dow, Minnesota and Pfizer use the advertising services of MacManus, John and Adams, the top hole outfit in Bloomfield Center. M. J. and A. is one of the fastest growing and most successful businesses itself . . . . . And while there's probably no connection, Walter Gehrke swears they have the best looking girls of any firm he knows. (Walt ought to visit The Pontiac Press.)

And speaking of advertising, all advertisers invested about three and a third billion dollars in newspaper space last year, which is more than in radio, television, magazines and outdoor advertising combined. Well, natch . . . . . Recently an ad ran in a New York paper asking for men that were 63-68 years old . . . . . Overheard at a supermarket: "The last adult western I saw was so adult the Indians' firewater had olives in it." . . . . . Who, anywhere, has a nicer personality than Dr. C. G. DARLING—and it's coupled with great ability. The Cheers and Jeers: the C's—Dr. DANA P. WHITMER for his fine work on the United Fund drive. The J's — BUDDY PARKER (repeat performance.)

Crisis in Indonesia

Angry at Dutch

Jakarta Regime Hopeful of Obtaining New Guinea

By JOHN H. MARTIN
INS Foreign Editor

The communist-backed Indonesian government now has declared an economic war on the Netherlands in an effort to obtain Dutch New Guinea.

The Jakarta regime has ordered closure of all Dutch consulates and the expulsion of some 50,000 Netherlands citizens. This probably foreshadows a complete diplomatic break between the two nations.

CARRY RED FLAGS

Workers carrying Communist flags have seized various Dutch business firms.

Under the expulsion plan only a few key technicians operating Dutch businesses will be allowed to stay. That is, if they wish to stay.

This extreme nationalism abetted by the Communists will be a severe blow to the already shaky economy of the infant Indonesian republic.

Hundreds of thousands of Indonesians are employed in about 300 Dutch firms in the country. It is estimated that 40 per cent of Indonesia's tax income is from these enterprises as well as 50 per cent of her foreign currency intake.

In 1949, when 300 years of Dutch rule ended, the Indonesians took over without having many persons skilled in techniques and administration required to run the complex archipelago with a population of more than 80 million persons.

With independence the government departments became staffed with people ill-fitted for their jobs, always underpaid, and sometimes both ignorant and indolent.

There definitely was a void that would take years to fill between the thin educated crust and the masses of the people.

But even if the Dutch failed to provide the foundations for independence, the Indonesians quickly tried to make bricks without adequate materials.

Big ideas for social and industrial change collapsed under the weight of government inefficiency or inexperience. Now, in their fury against the Dutch, the Indonesians propose to weaken further the business backbone of the islands.

The POWER of FAITH

by Howard Brodie

In quiet meditation at 21, Albert Schweitzer determined that he would live for science and art until he was 30, and then devote himself to the service of suffering fellow men. He became an eminent theologian, philosopher and musician. At 30 he gave up his careers and entered medical school. He raised funds for a hospital and went to French Equatorial Africa to serve those who needed him most. Instead of losing himself in the remote jungle he practiced a "reverence forlife" that has radiated inspiration throughout the world.

Days of All Faiths

Bible Sunday Based on Prayer

By DR. HOWARD V. HARPER

Tomorrow, among Protestants all over the world, is Universal Bible Sunday. Credit for the establishment of a day especially devoted to the Bible goes to the Church of England, which in its prayer book of 1549 introduced a prayer about the Bible in its service for the second Sunday in Advent.

In part, the prayer reads "grant that we may in such wise hear them (the Holy Scriptures), read, mark, learn, and inwardly digest them . . ." "Read, mark, learn, and inwardly digest" is a quotation frequently used, even by people who do not know it is a prayer they are quoting.

Indeed the Bible was the first book of any size ever to be printed after the invention of movable type. It was published in 1456 by Johann Gutenberg of Mainz, Germany. A few copies of the Gutenberg Bible are still in existence—mostly in museums, of course.

SOME PRINTERS' ERRORS

In the early days of printing there were some typographical errors which have their comic aspect even though the Bible is too sacred an object to be funny about. In 1702 an edition came out which is known to collectors as the "Printers' Bible" because of a misprint in Psalm 119, verse 161. It should read "Princes have persecuted me without a cause, "but some typeseter set "Printers" instead of Princes" and the mistake got by the proofreader.

In 1717 came the "Vinegar Bible," so called because at the head of the 20th chapter of Luke the title was made to read "The Parable of the Vinegar" instead of "Vineyard."

In 1631 a typesetter's absentmindedness brought about a real crisis in London. He left the word "not" out of the commandment about adultery. He ordered all copies destroyed and haled the publishers into court, where they were fined $300, a very heavy fine in those times.

A few copies escaped destriction and are now much prized by collectors. The edition is known as "The Wicked Bible," or sometimes "The Devil's Bible."

BIBLE SUPERSTITIONS

Many superstitions have accumulated around the Bible. Probably it is only to be expected that any object held in such reverent awe should be misused by the ignorant, and turned into an instrument of magic.

First of all it was used, and still is, to make oaths utterly and irrevocably binding. This use of it cannot be called superstitious. It is natural for man to consider he is most seriously committed when he takes his vow with his hand on some deeply meaningful religious object.

In medieval times, "turning the key" was an example of this. It was believed you could attach a key by a string to the Bible and then establish the guilt or innocence of an accused person by the following process: One person balanced the key on a finger tip and called off the names of all suspected persons while another read from the Bible. They key would fall when the name of the guilty one was pronounced. Ridiculous as it sounds, this test stood up in a London court as late as 1832.

Dr. William Brady's Mailbag:

Sure Way to Cheat Child: Serve Carbonated Drinks

Please say something in your column about giving small children carbonated drinks at mealtime instead of milk. (Mrs. S.C.)

Answer—I'm sorry for the kids. They are getting a bad start in life, being cheated out of the essentials of good nutrition, conditioned to cultivate the alcohol or drug habit later. Milk (fresh whole milk, skim milk or buttermilk) and the fruit juices or ades are the health beverages for growing children. For goodness sake, don't pervert their natural fondness for these beverages.

DR. BRADY

"The AMA no longer allows its name as indorsing fluoridation of drinking water. Why should you? (——, Biochemist)

Answer—I prefer drinking water containing 1 to 2 parts of fluorine per million to the same drinking water without fluorine.

"My husband, 6 foot 2 inches and I, 5 foot 2 inches, are a couple of fraidcats. He sometimes, I frequently, must address an audience. We both suffer . . . (Mrs. C. W.)"

Answer—Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for pamphlet Examination Jitters and Stage Fright.

"Is it possible for a doctor to determine the sex of an unborn child by listening to the fetal heart beat? (A.M. McW.)"

Answer—No. In any case, anybody's guess is as likely to be right as wrong. About half of all babies are boys or girls.

"Your teachings on chronic respiratory trouble have been most helpful to several members of my family who were severely afflicted with sinusitis. May your good work continue. (Mrs. R. D. J.)"

Answer—Thank you. Chapters on sinus trouble in Little Lesson No. 5, Call It CRI, for which send 25c and stamped, self-addressed envelope.

"Please explain the proper use of bidet in personal hygiene. (Rev. ——)"

Answer—A bidet is a form of sitz bath. Wherever a toilet bowl is installed, a bidet should be installed with hot and cold running water and means of flushing. Every one, particularly one subject to piles or other such trouble, should practice scrupulous soap and water washing after defecation. This would prevent much suffering. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for pamphlet, You Need Not Have Piles.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

The Country Parson

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Tells Folly of Postponing Wedding

Read Mabel's progress report after her marriage. Marriage can be a permanently happy, thrilling adventure if the two parties thereto will cooperate as a team. This involves budgeting and mutual attendance at church regularly, plus correct scientific sex techniques.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case W-366: Mabel D., aged 28, was very uncertain whether to marry or not marry.

So I gave her a psychological push into the wedding ceremony, for she was engaged to a man who had every prosepct of being a fine husband.

DR. CRANE

"Dr. Crane, marriage is simply wonderful," Mabel exulted when I met her a couple of weeks after she had returned from the honeymoon.

"As I look back, I can't understand what made me debate and procrastinate about our wedding.

"Now I regret not having eloped a year earlier, for what you have said of marriage is true. It is certainly grand."

TWO YEARS LATER

Maybe some of you readers may desire a later report, so I shall give it to you.

Two years after the wedding, I watched Mabel and her husband take their baby forward to the altar to be christened.

Both of them looked radiantly happy. But just in case you may think that looks may be deceiving, I'll report Mabel's private comment to me.

"Dr. Crane, marriage is still the most wonderful thing that has ever happened to me.

"Oh, I had some adjustments to make and we have argued and even quarreled briefly a few times.

"But we always have followed your advice and apologized before bedtime.

"And we have sincerely tried to be fair and honorable and to act as a team.

"The baby, of course, has drawn us even closer together, and we hope to have several more.

"But even without any children, I would consider my marriage the most exciting and happy experience in my whole life."

BUTTERFLIES?

"But what about those butterflies?" I asked. "Prior to your marriage you said you didn't get as much romantic thrill as you felt you should when he kissed you.

"Do you get plenty of thrills now? Or do you think you become stodgy and complacent in your love life after marriage?"

Mabel smiled and blushed self-consciously.

"Dr. Crane, I think those butterflies are largely a matter of stage fright," she said.

"For the thrills of a satisfied wife are far more extensive than the mere trembling of hands or breathlessness of a kiss.

"Marriage is an educational adventure for two people instead of a brief lark under a romantic moon.

"It is no longer a bubbling cascade but a swift, deep river that carries you along securely toward ever increasing happiness."

Actually, Mabel isn't quite correct. Marriage has no magic in itself for the two parties to the marriage must do the planning and sacrificing and celebrating to make it such a jolly adventure.

This requires brains, plus religious idealism. You must link up together with a local church and start attending religious services even the first Sunday of your honeymoon or your marriage will never attain the mountain-top experience.

And you must be as scientific in the bedroom as in the kitchen, for most divorces start in the bedroom, partly from a wife's sins of omission.

So send for the booklet "Sex Problems in Marriage," enclosing a stamped return envelope, plus 20 cents (non-profit).

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 3c stamped, self-addressed envelope and 30c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

Reader Doesn't Understand Coroner's Inquest Set-Up

Recently I read that the first coroner's inquest in four years was ordered by the Prosecutor. Later, I read that the inquest was cancelled.

This puzzled me, as I had believed that an inquest always followed a violent, or unnatural, death or any death where there was a reasonable suspicion attending the circumstances of death.

Should we be comforted that the record of our county is so unblemished or has another body assumed the duties of a coroner's jury? When and by whom is a coroner's inquest deemed necessary?

Saleslady Urges Shoppers' Patience

Now that the Christmas shopping season is here, I hope customers will try to have consideration for salespeople.

When you must wait longer than you'd like, please try to remember that there are many others buying goods and they are in just as much a hurry as you. Most of us work just as fast as we can and yelling at us only gets us flustered and more inefficient.

You have no idea how nice it is to run into pleasant, patient customers during the holiday rush, and Christmas could be a lot happier for everyone if all shoppers could be that way.

Two Discuss Safety Problem

I don't agree with the editorial that would do away with lights at Rapid and Raeburn streets. One has been changed to caution but I don't think a lot of drivers will recognize it. Does "Motorist" realize the danger people are in when they cross Saginaw in that locality? And what about people who must get off a bus and cross the street? Don't think about the tie-up. Think of the danger to people crossing.

Safety

Stop, look and listen before you cross the street. If you find you're tired, please slow down. Your stop lights are as a beacon, so heed them one and all. Make it a safe Christmas and New Year plus the year to come.

Says Police Should Take Them Home

On the way to the Osteopathic Hospital to see me, my wife and two small children, riding with my father-in-law in his truck, were stopped by a squad car. The driver was taken downtown, the truck was impounded and my crippled wife and children were left in the cold and it was dark. The police flatly refused to take them home. They called a taxi.

I thought police were supposed to protect people. Let's go to work and clean up here at home.

Good for Secretary Benson. It takes plenty of intestinal fortitude to stay on a job and fight for what you think is right when your own party members are shouting for your removal. Santa and the STRONG BOY

by LUCRECE HUDGINS BEALE

SYNOPSIS: Prince Richard seeking Santa Claus, joins a circus traveling North. The circus bills him as the Strongest Boy in the World.

Chapter Four
THE STRONG BOY

That night the circus opened in Mitzenpoo.

First there was the elephant act. Then the trapeze artists. Then the bareback riders.

Finally Mr. Maxim came into the ring. He wore white riding pants and a tail coat. He carried a long black whip.

"Ladies and gentlemen!" he announced. "I now present to you the Strongest Boy in the World!"

The band began to play and all the children in the audience cheered and the grownups twisted in their seats to see.

But there was no Strong Boy to be seen.

Richard clung to the seat. "I don't dare!"

"Of course you dare!" said the lion tamer giving Richard a shove. "You're the Strongest Boy in the World!"

The shove sent Richard sprawling into the tent. The band stopped playing and people stared at the boy in astonishment. Richard picked himself up and went slowly up to Mr. Maxim.

"What shall I do?" he quavered.

"Pick up one of those weights," whispered Mr. Maxim pointing to a pile of heavy bars. "See how heavy a one you can lift."

Richard leaned over and picked up a 100 pound bar. Instead of putting it down he laid it over his shoulder and picked up a 200 pound bar. He added this to the one on his shoulder and reached for the 300 pound bar.

While Mr. Maxim and the crowd looked on in stunned silence Richard added weight after weight to his shoulders.

Finally he had all the weights on his back and he turned to Mr. Maxim and asked, "What shall I lift now?"

Mr. Maxim looked frantically around. There was nothing left for Richard to lift. Mr. Maxim had a desperate idea. "Lift me!" he gasped.

The crowd stood and cheered. "Hooray! Hooray for the Strongest Boy in the World!"

Then a strange thing happened. A rooster escaped from a clown act and came squawking into the ring. He flew at Richard and pecked at his legs. Richard looked down in horror. He had never seen a rooster in his life. To him it was a baby dragon.

"Help!" he screamed.

He began to run round and round the ring carrying the ton of weights on his shoulders and Mr. Maxim on his head. The rooster followed squawking and pecking at his heels while the crowd roared with laughter.

Suddenly Richard dumped Mr. Maxim and the weights from his back and clambered under the seats and out of the tent. He never would have stopped running if Mr. Maxim had not raced after him and caught him on the edge of the circus grounds.

"Boy," said Mr. Maxim, "what have you to cry about? You're the best clown this circus has ever had. Why there's never been anything so funny as a Strong Boy pretending to be afraid of a chicken!"

"I wasn't pretending," sobbed Richard. "I was afraid. And I don't want to be a clown. I only want to get to the North Pole to see Santa Claus."

The boy is daft, thought Mr. Maxim, but we must keep him with the show.

He said, "The circus spends only one night in each town and each day we'll be one day closer to the North Pole. Stay with us and we'll get you where you want to go."

Richard was ashamed to think of himself as a cowardly clown but to be one was the only way he knew to get to Santa Land. So, shivering unhappily, he went back into the tent for the second show.

Able Revolutionary Leader

Sukarno Dislikes Dutch

By INTERNATIONAL NEWS

Indonesia's charming President Sukarno may not have made clear whether he prefers the free or the Communist world, but one thing there's no doubt about—he doesn't like the Dutch.

The handsome son of a Balinese mother and Javanese father has proven himself one of the most able revolutionary leaders in the world.

PROVES HIMSELF

But he still has to prove himself as the leader of a new nation trying to find itself despite battling rebels, financial problems, and an unstable government.

Now Sukarno's government is taking a final step against the Dutch in the dispute over Dutch New Guinea. Both the Indonesians and the Dutch claim the section of New Guinea.

In the developing dispute, the Indonesians now have ordered all 50,000 Dutch nationals still living in Indonesia expelled.

Sukarno has measured his career against the Dutch.

FARNS DEGREE

Although few natives learned to read under Dutch rule, Sukarno managed to receive a civil engineering degree and then went to work against the Dutch.

He was jailed in 1929, and then kept in jail or exile for 12 of the next 13 years. In 1942, the Japanese Army broke the Dutch rule and freed Sukarno.

He collaborated with the Japanese while keeping in contact with the anti-Japanese underground. At war's end, he was named president of the rebel republic and led the fight until the Dutch recognized Indonesia's sovereignty in 1949.

Sukarno is slender, handsome, kind-hearted and a spectacular orator who has the deep affection of his people. He has visited both the U.S. and Russia, and expressed admiration for both systems, although some say he gave more admiration in fact to the Communist economics system.

He divorced his first wife in 1942 and married a young girl who bore him two boys and three girls. In 1954, he took another wife.

Good Samaritan Steals Money, Later Returns It

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP)—Ross Castangalo, 26, found Robert C. Baer, 39, in a parked car, with carbon monoxide fumes being piped in from the exhaust pipe.

He disconnected the hose and called police. Baer recovered.

Yesterday, Castangalo called police again—to report he had taken $130 from Baer's wallet.

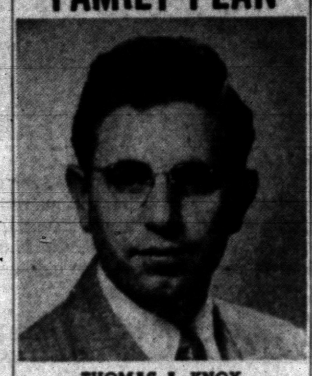

He was jailed but Dist. Atty. Louis Beynas ordered him freed money.

"I don't know what got into me," Castangalo said. "I guess I got mad because he was taking his life."

Catastrophes, such as hurricanes and accidents, took approximately 1,200 lives in the United States in the first half of 1927.

Japanese Party Visits Churches

Three members of the Socialist Party of Japan, and the wife of the leader of the group, are on a goodwill visit to the United States.

They are visiting cities across the nation, and since two of the four are Christians, church groups are conferring with them on their tour. Already they have met with such groups in Boston, New York, and Washington, D.C.

Leader of the party is Jotaro Kawakami, a Methodist layman and advisor of the Social Democratic Party. He is a member of the Lower House of the Japanese Diet. Mrs. Kawakami, who accompanies him, is also a well-known Methodist, and a daughter of Japan Methodism's first bishop, the late Bishop Hiraiwa.

The delegation includes also Eki Sone, a member of the Upper House of the Diet, and a former diplomatic officer in Washington; and Morito Morishima, of the Lower House, former consul-general in New York City.

In their meetings with governmental and church leaders in the U.S.A., the members of the group stress that they are not representing the government of Japan but rather their political party.

They are pleading for a cessation of atomic tests, for greater international efforts for world peace, and for greater freedom for Japan's trade—especially in non-strategic materials with China.

New Testament Parts Sent as Yule Cards

The Rev. John Y. Crothers, retired Korean Missionary, now minister of visitation in the First Presbyterian Church, Monrovia, Calif., gives each family called on a copy of an Illustrated Portion of the New Testament. So far he has given 54 copies, and 181 copies have been sold.

One lady was so pleased with her copy that she decided to send out Illustrated Portions instead of cards next Christmas. Why not? Matthew and Luke have the Christmas story, and none of the New Testament would have been written had it not been for the first Christmas.

National Church Council Calls for Disarmament

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP)—A national Christian gathering neared its close this week after calling for a harder push to achieve worldwide disarmament in the new age of rockets, nuclear weapons and satellites.

"We believe that the accelerating arms race which now grips our world may lead directly to a war which will destroy civilization," declared the General Assembly of the National Council of churches.

"Efforts must be redoubled to realize the final goal of worldwide denominations in the framework of the United Nations."

The church leaders, representing most major Protestant and Orthodox denominations in the country, also urged the nation to rededicate itself to eternal principles of compassion and justice.

"We believe our nation must react not defensively but in constructive policies and programs to demonstrate the values of our society in economics, political procedures and human values," the assembly declared.

It set forth specific recommendations on a host of issues but the general tone of the pronouncements was set against a background of timeless faith now shadowed by prodigious new forces unleashed by man.

"Men and nations are reacting variously, in fear and hope, frustration and boasting, apathy and frenzy," the statement said.

It added that Christianity, amid such confusion, still sees life steadily and whole and responds neither with complacency nor panic, but with confidence and appropriate action.

"God continues to rule over history with judgment and with grace."

In other special resolutions and actions, the assembly:

1. Called for more help to refugees.

2. Urged increased world trade.

3. Termed a menace to our liberties recent attempts of some local and state governments to "suppress . . . certain voluntary associations" by forcing them to name members—a blow dealt to some chapters of the National Assn. for Advancement of Colored People.

4. Protested that Negro delegates to the assembly have been refused service by some St. Louis restaurants and taxicabs.

5. Voted to admit four new denominations to the council. One of them is the Polish National Catholic Church of America—the first nominally Catholic church to join. They bring the total to 34 Protestant, Orthodox and Catholic denominations with 38 million members.

6. Denounced racial segregation as contrary to the teachings of Jesus and the gospel of love, and appealed to local churches and citizens to do more to end it in schools and elsewhere.

Churches Aid Builders

Eleven Protestant church sites are included in a master plan for a new suburban development in Florida following conferences between the developers and the Greater Miami Council of Churches. This is the first time community planners and a Florida church council have gotten together to anticipate and prevent zoning problems.

I know both how to be abased, and I know how to abound. Everywhere and in all things I am instructed both to be full and to be hungry, both to abound and to suffer need.

Says U.S. Churches Too Rich, Don't Give

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — The Rev. Dr. Donald Black of Philadelphia, head of the Foreign Missions Board of the United Presbyterian Church, says most American churches are so rich they remind him of the Biblical injunction about the camel and the needle's eye.

Members don't sacrifice and give of their money as they should to help Christian missions, he told the National Council of Churches Assembly.

"Indeed, it is easier for the camel to pass through the needle's eye than for American churches, all wealthy by comparison with others, to enter the kingdom of obedience," he said.

10 Prominent Clergymen to Advise AMC on Labor

DETROIT (AP) — American Motors Corp. said recently 10 prominent clergymen have accepted invitations to advise the company on human values in 1958 contract negotiations with the United Auto Workers Union.

The company previously announced it was seeking advice from a group of nationally known economists on the economic aspects of collective bargaining.

AMC's contract with the UAW expires next June 15.

Vice President Edward L. Cushman, in charge of AMC industrial relations, said, "Collective bargaining decisions must recognize economic realities but even more fundamentally should recognize human values."

Cushman said the following clergymen agreed to serve on the panel:

The Rev. Dr. Cameron P. Hall, executive director, department of church and economic Life, National Council of Churches, New York; the Very Rev. Monsignor George Higgins, director, department of social action, National Catholic Welfare Conference, Washington, D. C. and Rabbi Eugene Lipman, Union of American Hebrew Congregations, New York.

Also serving are the Rev. Marshall L. Scott, dean, Presbyterian Institute of Industrial Relations, Chicago; the Rev. Leo C. Brown, S. J., director, Institute of Social Order, St. Louis University; the Rev. G. Paul Musselman, secretary, division of urban industrial church work, the National Council, Protestant Episcopal Church New York.

Among others honored were Mayor De Lessep S. Morrison of New Orleans, and prominent figures in international trade, industry, communications and Brazilian-American relations. Dr. Moore was the only clergyman to be decorated. Dr. Ernai do Amaral Peixoto, Brazilian Ambassador to the United States, conferred the decoration in Washington.

Recalling Calm Strength Builds Re-creative Silence

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

For most people, this is the busiest time of the year. There are gifts to buy and wrap, cards to address and mail, parties to go to and visits to plan. It is a sad fact that Christmas may become, instead of a time of renewal of strength and power, a period of dissipation of creative energy.

DR. PEALE

I once knew a man, a very busy man with great responsibilities, who solved not only the Christmas problem, but also the continuing problem of energy dissipation. He made one room in his house into what he called his "silence room."

This room was small, but its one window looked out on a city park where he could see trees and flowers. The only furnishings were a table, a straight chair, a picture on the wall and a book on the table.

Every afternoon when he returned from his office, he would sit in that room, open the Book—a Bible—and turn to certain passages about peacefulness. He knew them by heart, but he liked to re-read them. Since thoughts are known to affect physical states, he conceived of the calm, sturdy, faith-filled words of the Bible as actually touching his whole being with healing power.

LOOKS TO MATTERHORN

The picture on his wall was an inspiring view of the Matterhorn, that great temple of snow-covered rock jutting up out of the Swiss Alps, towering above the picturesque village of Zarmatt at its base. He looked into the vast silences represented by the picture and quoted the great words of the 121st Psalm: "I will lift up mine eyes unto the hills, from whence cometh my help."

Then he would conceive of the healing quietness of God as filling his mind. This procedure, repeated regularly over many weeks, kept this man free of the prevailing tensions and anxieties experienced by so many.

You may not have such a "silence room" in your own home; indeed it may not be possible to create one. But in some way you and I will do well to find some means for developing inner questions. The importance of such discipline of mind and soul is emphasized by the fact that the United Nations has provided a "meditation room" at the United Nations headquarters in New York.

Business men and travelers will find similar rooms in many office buildings and hotels. But each of us has the ability to create a center of peace and quietness in our own minds. And this seems especially important at this season which has the tendency to become a hectic time.

PRACTICE CREATIVE SILENCE

So the next time you come home from Christmas shopping or a busy day at the office, try practicing the art of re-creative silence. Find a quiet corner at home where you will be free from interruption. Sit in an easy chair and relax, then close your eyes and deliberately recall peaceful scenes from your own experience, moments when you felt at perfect peace.

By the genius of re-creative memory you can recapture such moments. I like to call this the technique of memorized peacefulness.

I discovered this valuable method for keeping relaxed some years ago at Atlantic City. I was watching the sea wash up on the shore. The fleecy white clouds, blue sky and foam-crested ocean was a scene of peace and beauty. Closing my eyes, I suddenly realized that I was still seeing the same scene.

It occurred to me that if I could see it now, with my eyes closed, only a moment later, why not ten years hence? Why couldn't I recall this scene and this peace from memory? So I memorized that peacefulness to draw upon it when needed.

Perhaps God gives us such perfect moments of tranquility that we may draw upon them later when the stress of life becomes difficult to bear.

But of even greater value is the practice of filling the mind regularly with favorite Bible passages that convey thoughts of peace and strength. Close the Book and just sit and think about what you have read. The peace of God that passeth all understanding can become a real experience for you.

This daily exercise needn't take very long. But do it regularly and you will find new life and new vitality in the art of silence.

National Council to Debate Admission of 3 Churches

ST. LOUIS (INS) — Proposals to admit three additional communions to membership in the National Council of Churches appeared headed for debate today at the triennial general assembly in St. Louis.

All three churches nominated for inclusion with the 30 which now constitute the council had their origins in Europe and Asia.

The three nominated are the Polish National Catholic Church, the Armenian Apostolic Church and the Free Magyar (Hungarian) Reformed Church in America.

Little, if any, controversy is expected regarding inclusion of the Polish and Hungarian churches.

But protests have been received concerning admission of the Armenian group.

Dr. Ralph Waldo Lloyd, president of Maryville College and chairman of the constituent membership committee, said objections against the Armenian church stem from two sources.

Dr. Lloyd explained that the Armenian church—one of the oldest in the world—is regarded as heretical by many other Christians because of its doctrine involving the person of Jesus Christ.

The other point of objection centers on jurisdiction of the American branch by the church in Armenia, which is under Soviet control.

Dr. Lloyd said that the Polish National Catholic Church, with headquarters in Scranton, Pa., is entirely free of any European ties. He explained that the Magyar church, while it descends from the Reformed (Presbyterian) Church in Hungary, also is completely independent now in America.

Presbyterians Merge

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Two Presbyterian churches which will become one in May—the Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. and the United Presbyterian Church — have adopted a joint missionary budget for overseas work in 1958 of $11,366,000.

Methodist Missionary Returning to Retire

Miss Blanche Brittain, who first went to Japan as a missionary of the Methodist Church in 1929 is now en route from Hirosaki to San Diego, Calif. for furlough and retirement in the United States.

Miss Brittain was highly successful in Bible class work, as well as in her teaching at Sei Ai Girls' School in Hirosaki in northern Japan.

She also assisted greatly in expanding Christian work among women in the well known Hirosaki church and its six preaching stations.

She had previous teaching experience at the Kwassui Girls' School in Nagasaki, and taught for a year in Hakodate, Hokkaido, Japan's northernmost island at the Iai Girls' School there.

Urges Youths to Serve

WINOOSKI PARK, Vt. (AP)—The Very Rev. Francis E. Moriarty, president of Roman Catholic St. Michael's College, says there is a "terribly urgent" need for more youths to enter life-time religious vocations.

Helping Youth Is Church Area

Pennsylvania Council Aide Says This Stand Winning Support

"Helping the confused, undisciplined and unfortunate young people who come into conflict with the law is primarily a responsibility of the church," John M. Horner declared in an interview.

With five years of experience behind him as director of institutions of the Wyoming Valley Council of Churches in Pennsylvania, he reported that in that time the churches have won enthusiastic cooperation of the courts and local institutions dealing with youthful delinquents.

The first contact with such boys and girls is made when the Chief Probation Officer gives their names to the council worker, Mr. Horner explained. He then alerts a minister who immediately visits the family and subsequently appears in court with the young person and his parents. Frequently the youth is released on probation in the minister's custody for one year.

In cases of severe emotional disturbance or serious offenses, Mr. Horner reported that boys are sent to the Kis-Lyn School for psychiatric and personality study while girls go to a detention home.

The minister assigned to each boy or girl visits regularly and a team of four ministers makes monthly visits, carrying on personal counseling and conducting church-school classes in the cottages. Usually each youth is released in "his" minister's custody after serving his term.

Over fifty laymen and women have taught church-school classes for the youths since the program started, Mr. Horner said, and the churches are now planning to set up an arts and crafts project for them.

Rev. Benjamin Bohn to Assist at Baptism

A baptismal service will be conducted by Rev. Benjamin A. Bohn of the Crescent Hills Baptist Church, and Rev. Joseph I. Chapman in Bethany Baptist Church at 11 a.m. Sunday.

A special feature of the Christmas season at the Sunday School of Crescent Hills Church, will be a "Mitten Tree" on which children's mittens will be placed by members of the school.

They will be distributed at Christmas by a missionary, to needy children in the mission field.

The Crescent Hills church meets at the Monteith school on Crescent Lake near Hatchery roads. The worship service is at 10 a.m. followed by Sunday School at 11 a.m.

Abhors Word 'Xmas'

NEW YORK (AP)—With the Christmas season coming on, clergymen have cut loose on what they consider offensive accretions to the holiday. A major target: The use of "Xmas". "To put it mildly," says Erik Modean, long-time religious public relations man, "that abbreviation is abhorred."

U.S. Churches Too Afraid of Critical Public

ST. LOUIS (AP) — American churches in many cases were described today as being too public relations conscious — more eager to please the crowd than to please God.

The finding was part of a 6,500-word report on the "state of the churches" to the triennial general assembly of the National Council of Churches.

"Many churches, yielding to secular practice, have become public relations conscious. There is as much if not more concern for the attractiveness of the package and the effectiveness of the marketing techniques than for the quality of the product," the report said.

"Many in the churches as well as outside cannot understand why anything should be done which induces a hostile or even a critical popular response.

"But recently more churches are reminding themselves that they have a divine mission . . .

"As a consequence, churches are being subjected to criticism and abuse, but they are finding new power and confidence."

Ask Sainthood Rite for U.S. Martyrs

ERIE, Pa. (AP)—Basic documentation of a plea by U. S. Roman Catholic bishops for the mass elevation to sainthood of 116 American missionary martyrs has been published here by the Erie chancery office.

Prepared by a commission of church historians, headed by Archbishop John Mark Gannon, bishop of Erie, it presents accounts of the lives and deaths of the martyrs. Many of them died in the early American West.

Choir of 22 Seminarians in Christmas Broadcast

The Schola Cantorum of SS. Cyril and Methodius Seminary, Orchard Lake, will appear in its 20th consecutive annual Christmas Broadcast, Sunday, Dec. 22 over the Columbia Network.

The program will be heard over WJR in Detroit twice: in the morning from 11:05 to 11:30 a.m. and in the evening from 8:05 to 8:30 p.m.

The choir, composed of twenty-two seminarians studying for the priesthood, represent twelve States, Canada and Poland. Since 1938 the chorus has been short-waved to South and Central America and transcribed for the "Voice of America."

In the past five years this choral group has been heard frequently over "Radio Free Europe." Other projects include album recordings for RCA Victor and telecasts.

The Schola Cantorum broadcast will consist of Polish Carols, or Kolendy interspersed with a commentary on century-old Polish customs and traditions.

These Christmas selections are an expression of profound religious convictions which the Poles centuries ago have drawn from the birth of Christ at Bethlehem. Some date back to the 14th and 15th century when musical form was based on plain song.

This year's twentieth anniversary program will include a series of "pastoralki," or pastorals and children's Christmas songs.

Rev. Henry A. Waraksa, professor of Gregorian Chant and Polish Hymnology at Orchard Lake directs this choral group.

Besides conducting the Schola Cantorum in its many broadcasts and recordings, he is also noted for the musical arrangements and harmonic settings of Polish hymns.

Three Japanese Outline Hopes

Visiting Officials Tell Churches A-Weapons, Trade Key Issues

Cessation of nuclear weapons tests, promotion of trade and lifting of U. S. import restrictions were among the issues of concern to the Japanese people outlined recently at a luncheon in New York by three Japanese political leaders.

They were guests of the Far Eastern Office of the Division of Foreign Missions, National Council of Churches.

Spokesman for the group, Jotaro Kawakami, Socialist member of the Japanese Diet, has long been associated with the Christian church in Japan. With Mrs. Kawakami and party members Eki Sone and Morito Morishima, he is heading a good will visit to the United States which will include consultations in Washington, D. C.

"Japan's Socialist Party may be compared to Britain's Labour Party,' Mr. Kawakami explained, adding that it is the leading opposition party in the country and the one in which Christians are most strongly represented.

Problems concerning the return of islands the Japanese lost at the end of the war and commerce with Communist China will also be taken up with U. S. authorities, he said.

From New York and Washington the group continues its "pilgrimage" to Detroit, San Francisco and Los Angeles.

Buried with him in baptism wherein also ye are risen with Him through the faith of the operation of God, who hath raised Him from the dead.

St. Andrew's Members to Hear Prisoner of War

PETER KALINKE

Peter Kalinke of Birmingham, former prisoner of war in the Soviet Union, will speak at 8 p.m. Tuesday at a Chapel Fellowship Evening in St. Andrew's Episcopal Church, Drayton Plains.

Sponsored by the Woman's Auxiliary, the Fellowship Evening will honor the 33 new confirmands and the 60 new families which have become connected with St. Andrew's since last spring.

Born in Germany, Mr. Kalinke was a war correspondent with the German army before he was taken prisoner. He spent five years working in stone fields and mines.

In 1950 he escaped to West Germany where he studied and taught economics and political science. He came to the University of Michigan on a Fulbright scholarship.

For two years before moving to Birmingham, he worked with the U.S. escapees program helping displaced persons find homes and jobs.

Mr. Kalinke now works with the department of Christian Social Relations of the Episcopal Diocese of Michigan. He speaks to church and other organizations telling them how to get in touch with a refugee family in West Germany.

Mrs. A. E. Ledger, president of the auxiliary, is program chairman. Serving on the refreshment committee are Mrs. Darrell Kelley, Mrs. Arthur W. Meyer and Mrs. Arthur Petar.

Church Plans Center to Train Kenya Youth

NAIROBI, Kenya — Plans to set up an industrial training center for young Africans have been announced here by the Church Missionary Society of the Church of England. The training center will seek to meet the problem of youths who complete school at 13 but must wait until they are 16 before they can work.

The proposed project was hailed by Kenya civic and government leaders as a "true example of practical Christianity."

Wherefore be ye not unwise, but understanding what the will of the Lord is.

Arab Refugees Need Relief Aid

Money Promised Lags; Failure May Bring On Critical Situation

Critical repercussions may follow failure to support the United Nations relief work among Arab refugees, a Church World Service committee was told.

Speaking to the group, Dr. Tracy Strong, internationally known church-man, warned that the entire Middle East situation will worsen dangerously unless the United Nations Relief and Works Agency (UNWRA) is enabled to carry on its food and distribution program among the Arab refugees, now numbering more than 900,000.

"The United States has pledged 70 per cent of the money for a projected $23,000,000 UN fund for Arab relief," Dr. Strong reported.

He added that Great Britain has pledged 20 per cent and other nations 10 per cent, but that there is a lag in payments by the latter. This lag, he said, might hold up the entire program since Congress has made U.S. payments contingent upon those of other countries.

Since 1948, Dr. Strong noted, almost one million dollars in cash and four million in goods have been sent to the area by U.S. churches through Church World Service.

Churches Face Lack of Clergy

Shortage Gets Worse; Several Denominations Tackle Recruitment

A number of church denominations are becoming downright alarmed about a shortage of clergymen that promises to become more acute as the years go by.

"In the age-old archdiocese of Sens, France," he said, "there are 520 parishes and only 220 priests. In our own North Carolina . . . two of our priests have to cover 2,000 square miles.

"This is a problem to which we must address ourselves."

Two Protestant denominations already are addressing themselves to the problem.

The Lutheran Church of Finland has reduced by one year the period of study required for ordination in an effort to fill 80 pastoral vacancies, most of them in sparsely settled areas.

Henceforth, students at the faculty of theology of the University of Helsinki will be eligible for degrees after 4½ years of study. Present term is 5½ years.

The Christian Church (Disciples of Christ) has inaugurated an experimental program aimed frankly at the recruitment of ministerial students.

Two pilot guidance and recruitment conferences were held recently in California with 155 high school students, who had expressed interest in church careers, being tested for psychological fitness.

High scorers on the tests will receive church guidance in planning their scholastic careers with a definite commitment being sought when they are college juniors.

Better to Keep Christmas, Not Just Observe the Day

Better than the observance of Christmas Day is the idea of keeping Christmas.

Are you willing, for example, to forget what you have done for other people, and to remember what other people have done for you?

To ignore what the world owes you, and to think what you owe the world?

To put your rights in the background, and your duties in the middle distance, and your chances to do a little more than your duty in the foreground?

To see that your fellow-men are just as real as you are, to look behind their faces to their hearts, hungry for joy?

WHAT CAN YOU GIVE?

To own that probably the only good reason for your existence is not what you are going to get out of life, but what you are going to give to life?

To close your book of complaints against the management of the universe, and look around you for a place where you can sow a few seeds of happiness?

Are you willing to do these things even for a day? Then you can keep Christmas.

Are you willing to stoop down and consider the needs and the desires of little children?

To remember the weakness and loneliness of people who are growing old?

To stop asking how much your friends love you, and ask yourself whether you love them enough?

To trim your lamp so that it will give more light and less smoke and to carry it in front so that your shadow will fall behind you?

Are you willing to do these things even for day? Then you can keep Christmas.

Are you willing to believe that love is the strongest thing in the world—stronger than death — and that the blessed Life which began in Bethlehem nineteen hundred years ago is the image and brightness of the Eternal Love? Then you can keep Christmas.

And if you keep it for a day, why not always?

But you can never keep it alone.

AF Chaplain Reports Bibles Bring Results

LAKE CHARLES, La. — From Chaplain Billy G. Chapman, Lake Charles Air Force Base:

"On a recent temporary overseas assignment of 60 days it was my privilege to distribute nearly 300 Bibles.

"The Bibles were displayed on a literature table with a portable altar kit as a background. I had difficulty in supplying the demand. Three out of five men on that assignment picked up a Bible!

"The significant point is that the Bibles were used. The nature of several of the airmen's barracks was changed as the percentage of Bible readers grew.

"A number of conversions resulted and gambling, profanity and drinking dropped to a minimum. God has said, 'My Word shall not return unto me void.' I have tangible proof of this!"

German Scientists Say They Didn't Help Much

Believe Russians Developed Sputniks on Their Own

FRANKFURT (AP)—When the Russians smashed into Germany in 1945, they captured a number of Nazi scientists and put them to work on rocket research.

Among the most intriguing questions since the Soviets started shooting up Sputniks have been: How much help were these Germans? Was it their know how which put Russia ahead of the United States in the missile race?

ON THEIR OWN

Three German experts, back in their homeland, believe the Russians got where they are largely on their own.

One individual research station staffed by Germans didn't know exactly what the others were doing, the scientists said. Then, in 1951, the Russian barred virtually all German scientists from work on secret rocket projects altogether.

MAKE BIG STRIDES

Since 1952, when most of the Germans were released and sent home, the Russians obviously made major strides on their own, the three experts said.

But none was willing to say that Russia could not be overtaken. And former Maj. Gen. Leo Zanssер, who helped run the Nazi's V-2 rocket establishment at Peenemuende but did not work in the USSR, asserted:

"I do not believe the Russians are much ahead of the Americans, and all told are probably equal."

SERVED IN RUSSIA

The scientists who served in Russia were Gerhard Siegmund, 42, a rocket fuel expert who worked on the V-2 and wars in the Soviet Union from 1946 to 1952; Dr. Werner Schulz, 48, a rocket ballistics mathematician who came back about the same time; and Ferdinand Brandner, an aircraft engineer who worked on Soviet turbojet projects until 1956.

All thought the Russians may have shot their Sputniks into space with ordinary fuels. "I don't believe they have a superfuel," Siegmund said. He figured the Russians probably used a mixture of kerosene and oxygen —the same fuels that powered the Nazi V-2's.

Zanssер conceded the Russians might have improved fuels but expressed doubt that they are much more powerful than the V-2 mixtures developed at Pennemuende.

DEVELOPED V-2

The man who developed Germany's V-2 is Dr. Wernher Von Braun, now the U. S. Army's top missile man and most prominent in the group of German rocket scientists who are working in the United States.

His team is established at the Army's Redstone Arsenal at Huntsville, Ala., where a number—including Von Braun himself — have become American citizens.

Siegmund was captured in 1945 and in 1946, he was taken to Russia for work at a super secret rocket station.

LOCATED ON ISLAND

The station was located on a lonely island in a lake near Ostashkov — about halfway between Moscow and Leningrad. The lake formed a natural moat—the Germans couldn't get away and snoopers couldn't get in.

The station was strictly limited in scope. The scientists were not permitted to build rockets with thrust of more than one ton. So most of the research involved experiments with metals and small rocket models, which were tested in wind tunnels.

Late in 1951, Moscow issued an order which barred German scientists from doing any further work on secret rocket projects. But there was apparently one exception: A Moscow group that was working on guidance systems.

In the middle of 1952, most of the rocket scientists were sent home. Some went to Communist East Germany. Most of those who returned to West Germany are working either in rocket research or allied fields. Siegmund, for example, is co-owner of a research firm.

Tax on Stocks Called 'Dud'

Member of Study Group Says Intangibles Law Not Productive

LANSING (AP)—The chairman of a citizen tax study committee says Michigan's tax law on intangibles —such items as stocks, mortgages and bank deposits—is a "dud."

That was the appraisal of Frank Seidman, Grand Rapids accountant, after hearing a report on operation of the state intangibles law yesterday by Dr. Milton C. Taylor, Michigan State University economist.

As long as Michigan has no income tax, Seidman said, the intangibles law should be altered to produce more revenue and lessen the burden on property taxes.

Seidman is chairman of a citizen advisory committee named to help a legislative committee headed by Rep. Rollo G. Conlin (R-Tipton) to conduct a thorough-going study of Michigan's tax structure.

Taylor's report on the intangibles tax is the first of some two dozen surveys of various aspects of the tax picture which are being readied by 15 researchers from four state universities.

Some time next year the group expects to make some recommendations aimed at guiding state tax policies.

Seidman, stressing he was speaking as an individual rather than committee chairman, pointed out that the intangibles tax brought in about 23 million dollars last year while property taxes amounted to 563 million.

Junior Editors Quiz on THE BIBLE

QUESTION: What was the language of Jesus?

ANSWER: The Bible is so familiar to us that you may almost feel that Jesus spoke in Biblical English, but of course he did not. He spoke instead a language used in his own country—one that the common people could understand. This is generally considered to be Aramaic, one of a group of languages related to Hebrew and generally spoken throughout the Middle East at that time. And while some of the Bible was written in Greek, the books of Ezra and Daniel were written partly in Aramaic. Since those days, the Bible has been translated into hundreds of languages. The first translations usually were into Latin and Greek. The most widely known English translation is called the King James version because it was translated by a group of scholars while James I was the king of England.

$1,900 Item on Beck Books

State Trying to Prove Teamster Head Stole It From Union

SEATTLE (AP)—A $1,900 item in the books of an investment company became a crucial issue today as the state attempted to prove Teamster Union President Dave Beck stole that amount from the union.

The state focused attention on the matter yesterday in the grand larceny trial of the union leader when a work sheet from the books of the B&B Investment Co., owned by Beck, was brought into court.

It came up during testimony by Carl Houston, a tax accountant who prepared Beck's tax returns for 1956, the year the state alleges Beck kept the proceeds from sale of a union-owned Cadillac.

The work sheet, Houston said, showed cash receipts of the firm. One item showed receipt of $1,900 for sale of land by Beck and Callahan, another Beck firm.

The sheet also shows the $1,900 circled with a pencil mark trailing down to another line where it appears as "sale of car."

Considerable of yesterday's trial was taken up with wrangling by prosecution and defense counsel in the absence of the jury. The jury was out when the work sheet was discussed but the proceedings were recorded. Deputy Prosecutor Laurence Regal told the court the state will show that the $1,900 is the same money paid by Martin Duffy, a teamster for the car.

Says Car Production to Fall Short of Goal

DETROIT (INS)—Ward's Automotive Reports estimated today the auto industry will produce 6,158,000 cars by the end of this year, falling 42,000 short of its goal.

The statistical agency noted a "production softening" in passenger car output this month while truck operations continue at a high level.

The reports counted this week's domestic production at 144,574 cars and 22,559 trucks compared with 114,795 and 17,312 last week. Ward's said December car building has been cut 6.8 per cent below volume originally planned for the month.

The reporting service said that if December output runs on schedule the industry will end the year operating at 106 per cent of the 1956 level in passenger car assembly and at 98 per cent for trucks.

Immigrants who came to America in sailing ships often required seven to 12 weeks for the voyage.

Reflections

BE YOURSELF

J. L. VOORHEES

W. E. SIPLE

Be ambitious. But first, be yourself.

A friend dislikes playing bridge yet to please his wife he stumbles through an evening; his partners wish he had stayed home. Two other people abhor picnics with the inevitable ants, bugs, flies and insects, yet accept invitations as a friendly gesture; both families are miserable. A close friend of mine forces himself to read contemporary literature to hold up his end in social intercourse; he's bored until he speaks of physics, microbes and advances in medicine, then he sparkles.

If cards bore you avoid them; if picnics make your skin crawl with memories of insects, stay home; if novels leave you cold read the literature that interests you; be honest with yourself and those around you. Be yourself, all the time.

We Give Holden Red Stamps

Before investing money in any type of insurance policy, make it a point to know something about the insurance company and its solicitors. For example, any reliable agent will be glad to leave his policy proposal in writing with his name attached to it.

By and large, there is a high code of ethics among individuals selling insurance. Here in Pontiac we have virtually all the well known companies represented. You can buy with confidence from these people who make their homes in this community, pay taxes and otherwise contribute to our civic life.

They can be depended on to render honest, conscientious service at all times.

Dear Abby

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

"DEAR ABBY: I, for one, think men are too fussy these days. I am a widow and went to a get-together for widows and bachelors. There were 74 women and 9 men showed up.

ABBY

"One of these men said of all the 74 women there was not one worth looking at. So the next time I hear a bachelor say he can't find himself a good woman I am going to let him have it.

ANOTHER WIDOW"

DEAR WIDOW: Be careful what you let him have. Statistics show that there are far more women than men over fifty.

"DEAR ABBY: My husband is a TV repair man and everybody calls him Bob and they call me Mrs. X. This gripes me plenty. I don't think they should be so familiar with him. If they called me Betty I wouldn't think so much of it. What would you do in a case like this?

MRS. X"

DEAR MRS. X: If this annoys you—come right out and ask your friends to call you BETTY. You ought to be proud that your husband is so warm and friendly that people call him Bob right off the bat.

"DEAR ABBY: A good friend of mine has been making a fool of herself by showing up drunk at afternoon meetings. The first was the Brownie meeting (she has a troop) and the next was a visiting day at PTA. Needless to say her drinking has become the talk of the neighborhood.

"I have wanted to talk to her about it, but my husband says to mind my own business. Do you think it would be out-of-line for me to tell her people are talking and please try to take herself in hand?

A CLOSE FRIEND"

DEAR FRIEND: Your husband is wrong. The biggest favor you could do your friend (and her family) would be to tell her that she needs to contact the Women's AA group. There is no shame in admitting that you need help . . . and she needs it.

"DEAR ABBY: I am a girl of 17 but very matured for my age. I am in love with a man of 25 but I think he is in love with my mother who is divorced. My mother is very young looking and I know she is fond of my boyfriend.

Do you think I ought to ask them if there is anything going on between them? I would hate to make a mistake.

SEVENTEEN"

DEAR SEVENTEEN: If you are nothing more than a suspicion to go on, don't question them. Why give them ideas?

CONFIDENTIAL TO TRUDY: It will take more than a wedding ceremony to make "an honest woman" of you. If you've got the itch to be decent, start from scratch.

If you have a problem, write to Abigail Van Buren in care of The Pontiac Press. She will be glad to answer your letter. For a personal reply, please enclose a stamped self-addressed envelope.

Gold Star Mothers Meet

Discussing his Washington career and eight years' service in the Michigan State Legislature, Rep. Broomfield stated that 140 million dollars would be spent by the United States for the St. Lawrence Seaway and also that a million dollars a day is being spent for our national defense.

He added that the new Congress will place strong emphasis on education and answered questions from the audience.

At the Wednesday evening meeting members voted to provide a Christmas basket for a needy family and also to make holiday favors for veterans at the Oakland County Tuberculosis Sanatorium. The chapter's Christmas party will be a dinner at the DAV Home, Dec. 19. The "dads" have been invited to this affair.

Members who attended the state board meeting and luncheon held at the YWCA in Lansing included Mrs. Lauretta Stockwell, Mrs. Edna Olmstead, Mrs. Lola Erb, Mrs. Joe J. Doyle, and Mrs. Edna Matheny.

The group will have a luncheon and sewing meeting Thursday at the home of Mrs. Henry Hight on Whittemore street.

Iron on Both Sides

When laundering holiday table linens, remember that damask looks best if ironed on both sides—first on the wrong side, then on the right to bring out the luster.

Russia's Fashions Mask All Contours

PARIS (INS) — If there's something sexy about the Soviet woman, Russian fashions manage to camouflage it behind "top secret" styles that hide legs, curves and contours.

That is what Paris ready-to-wear fashion expert Albert Lempereur discovered during a 12-day visit to Moscow as president and delegate of the French ready-to-wear association.

He reported that skirts are midcalf length and cocktail wear consists of sex-appeal-hiding suits, not frivolous dresses with distracting low necklines and form-fitting silhouettes.

LATEST FROM PARIS

The French fashion expert headed a party of 12 to the recent Soviet festival to show unbelieving Russian women the latest thing from Paris for the average woman.

Lempereur said the average woman Russia's capital dresses like a French provincial housewife. He added:

"The first impression of today's women in the U.S.S.R. is conformity. They don't try to singularize themselves by wearing individual clothes. The cotton dress, mostly printed with dots or stripes or flowers, is a sort of uniform with them during summer.

"Some dresses look homemade. I don't remember having seen a hat on any woman, just a kerchief here and there.

"And they don't wear slacks or jeans as I thought they would, at least not on the street. Some of the teenage girls look charming and healthy. They like to wear their hair in two pigtails held together by one bow at the end."

He said the average Russian woman had a wool dress for winter, perhaps a suit and one coat. Women as well as men get along on a single pair of shoes.

Women's shoes have medium heels and are made of not very supple leather. Lempereur continued:

"I don't see any woman we would call 'chic' or elegant in Paris. But neither did I see them wearing clothes in bad taste. Possibly because of their simplicity of style, the dresses are not unesthetic.

"I didn't see a single evening dress or what we call 'cocktail dress' worn anywhere. For evening occasions, during the Moscow festival, some women appeared in suits, semi-classic and loosely fitted, worn with white or pastel blouse.

"A few women wore some gold jewelry but only after work and very modest pieces."

Encourage Curves, Increase Appetite

Exercises Help the Underweight

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

It is difficult for those of us who battle the bulges to believe that there are some women who are short on curves! However, there are many of them and they are most unhappy about the condition. They write that they feel like beanpoles rather than women, and extremely unfeminine with nary a bustle or bosom.

These women are usually underweight and of course a gain of 10 or so pounds will encourage the curves they crave. However, special exercises also can be of great help. These not only increase the appetite but can increase the calf and bust measurements. Exercise also is relaxing and most thin folks are tense.

Today I want to give you a few exercises which improve the defects most slim gals worry about.

Bust Development

1. Sit straight or stand tall. Bend both elbows and raise them forward to almost shoulder height. Grasp the forearm of the left arm with the right hand and the forearm of the right arm with the left hand. Push the elbows toward one another. Resist with the hands. Relax. Continue.

2. Stand tall. Raise the arms sideward, shoulder heigh. Take a weight in each hand. Move the arms forward (elbows stiff) until the hands touch. Return arms to sideward, shoulder-height position. Continue.

LEG DEVELOPMENT

1. Stand facing a chair. Place your hands on the back of the chair. Rise high on your toes. Keep the heels off the floor as you slowly bend your knees all the way down. (heels still off the floor) until you are again high on your toes. Lower heels to the floor. Continue.

This is splendid for calf development and thigh firming.

Many slim women wish to have more arm contour. Tennis, golf, swimming, ping pong and badminton are all good. Also do the following exercise:

Stand tall. Make fists and place the back of the wrists on the hips. Straighten the elbows and fingers and shoot the arms out sideward, shoulder height. Again make fists and place the back of the wrists on the hips. Continue. Grip HARD with the fists.

If you would like to have my Nine-day Gaining Diet and bust-development routines, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflets 7 and 41 to Josephine Lowman in care of The Pontiac Press.

Quiz Reveals if Parents Are Afraid of Teenagers

Try Answering These Ten Questions Posed in Hard-Hitting Article

By RUTH MILLETT

In a hard-hitting article in the November Cosmopolitan magazine, Sumner Ahlbum asks parents an embarrassing question: "Are You Afraid of Your Teenager?"

It's an article parents can't afford to miss, for it is a real eye opener. In case you think it can't apply to you, how about giving yourself a quick check as a parent.

One: Do you sometimes say "yes" after a definite "no" when your teenager pleads, "But all the other kids are going?"

Two: Would you rather clean the garage or mow the lawn yourself than face the unpleasantness that results from telling Junior to do the job?

Three: If you have planned to use the car yourself, and at the last minute Junior announces that he simply has to have it because he has a date, do you meekly toss him the keys?

Four: If Sis says she has to have a new formal because "all the girls" are getting new dresses for a dance, do you get her one even though it is an utter extravagance and she has a dress that has nothing wrong with it except that she has already worn it to a couple of dances?

Five: Is your teenager's allowance just a handout rather than a reward for his assuming the responsibility for a few chores?

Six: Do you go along with your teenager's conviction that his social life is more important than yours, and that when there is a conflict his plans must always come first?

INWARDLY CRINGE?

Seven: Do you inwardly cringe and wonder if he is right when your teenager tells you that your ideas are old-fashioned or that you are ruining his life by making him abide by a few family rules?

Eight: Are you afraid to tell your teenager that if his grades aren't satisfactory his social life will have to be curtailed and stick by your ultimatum when he brings home a poor report card?

Nine: When your teenager shows disagreement for a teacher or other person in authority, do you shrug it off with, "Kids today just don't stand in awe of anyone"?

Ten. Do you let your teenager get by with vague answers to your questions as to where he is going and with whom, and when he will be home?

Answering those questions honestly ought to give you a pretty good idea of whether or not you are afraid of your own teenager.

She Wants to Exclude Youngsters

How May Hostess Omit Them Without Offending Parents?

By EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: I want to give a party and am including some of our best friends who usually bring their small children when they come to spend the evening — principally because they have to make arrangements beforehand to leave them with someone.

"I am very much afraid they will bring the children to this party, and I don't want them to. It will spoil all my plans.

"But how can I tell them this without running the risk of hurting their feelings. Parents can be very touchy where their children are concerned."

Answer: Explain frankly, and in plenty of time so that the mothers can secure reliable babysitters, that much as you would like to be able to include the children, you cannot have them at this particular party.

"Dear Mrs. Post: Last week my daughter invited a young man to our house for the weekend. I went all out to make this weekend a pleasant one for him. When he returned home he sent me a small gift with his bread-and-butter note.

"My daughter insists that I write a thank-you note for the gift. I don't believe it is necessary as it was sent in payment, so to speak, for hospitality shown him. What is your opinion?"

Answer: The gift was the result of an impulse of friendship and in no way a sense of obligation, and therefore you should certainly write thank you for it.

"Dear Mrs. Post: When I have a definite date with a young man to go somewhere, and he arrives early and sits down and talks with the family, is it up to him, or me, to suggest after awhile that we'd better go?"

Answer: Either of you may suggest leaving, but it is usually up to the girl to do so.

Buys Plastic Liner as Ortonville Rink

ORTONVILLE — Community Activities, Inc. in Ortonville has purchased a 60 by 100 foot plastic skating rink liner that will be prepared for a skating rink.

It will be located one of two places; either behind the village firehall or an a school site prepared by the Study Guild two years ago.

Due to sandy soil conditions the rink which the Study Guild attempted to establish wouldn't retain water long enough to freeze smoothly.

Children in the village will soon have a lighted rink for winter fun. If this rink proves successful and is used to capacity, another plastic liner may be purchased, Community Activities announced.

Rochester Girl Wins Money for Erosion Photos

ROCHESTER — A 15-year-old Rochester girl has received a check as the second place award in the recent state soil and water conservation photo contest.

"We wish to congratulate you upon the excellent pictures submitted and hope you will enter the contest again next year," wrote the treasurer of the Michigan Soil Conservation Districts to Jane Booth in a letter accompanying the award.

Jane also won second place in this contest last year. The contest is open to all 4-H, FFA and Junior Grange members in the state.

An entry consists of two enlarged snapshots of soil and water erosion and two more snapshots showing the erosion corrected.

Jane's entries this year were taken on the grounds of the new Rochester High School. Her two shots of erosion showed the badly eroded baren soil on the grounds and hillsides of the school after the heavy spring rains and the same grounds and hillsides planted and held after the fall rains.

The program was climaxed by the presentation of the John Church Memorial Award to Linda Myers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Myers, of 4328 Elm Creek Rd.

This has an engraving of her name on the John Church Memorial plaque. The award winner is selected on musicianship, scholastic ability, cooperation and dependability.

Sutton also gave honorable mention awards to marching Ranks Nos. 36, 6 and 24, each consisting of six individuals. This was based on response to section leaders and cooperation.

Avon Players Open Christie Murder Mystery

ROCHESTER—"Witness for the Prosecution," the three-act popular murder mystery by Agatha Christie, was received enthusiastically on its opening night here Friday.

A cast of 18 members of the Avon Players Club presented the play in the Junior High School Gymnasium. There will be another performance tonight, with curtain time at 8:30.

The play, released only this season for amateur production, was a sell-out in London and New York and even now is being made into a movie with a star-studded cast. Jarvis Lamb directs the cast and Miss Joan Guillaume, a Rochester school teacher, is the assistant director.

Jan Danielson as the "Other Woman" and Jack Humphreys who plays the part of the defense attorney's staff member, Carter, are both new players this season. Also having important parts are Bob Wagner as council for the defense and Ray Danielson as the defendant.

Lapeer Welcomes Two New Citizens

LAPEER — Lapeer has welcomed two new citizens to America, two of the youngest ever admitted to citizenship. They are Edward, 6, and Mary, 5, adopted children of Dr. and Mrs. Charles E. Conaway.

The Conaways drove to Caro on Monday where an examiner for the Federal Court presented the final papers naturalizing the children and granting them citizenship.

Since both Tuscola and Lapeer counties comprise the 40th judicial circuit, it was decided several years ago to hold final naturalization ceremonies in Tuscola County Court House although the preliminary papers prepared in Lapeer County.

Yule Shoppers Popeyed at Odd Street 'Parade'

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP) — Christmas shoppers in downtown Charlottesville were popeyed—and curious — yesterday when a strange procession whizzed down the street.

First came a police car, siren screaming. Right behind it was a smoking garbage truck. Third in line was a fire engine—more sirens.

The explanation wasn't complicated. The police car was leading the garbage truck out to the city dump so it could get rid of its smoldering cargo, set afire by live ashes. The fire engine went along to put out the fire after the cargo was dumped.

Find Diamonds in Cement Block

Detroit Police Recover Gems After Man Tells About Robbery Plot

DETROIT (AP) — Police have found a cache of half a million dollars worth of diamonds in a concrete block buried in the backyard of a Detroit home.

Chief of Detectives Marvin Lane identified the stones as those stolen last month in the daring daylight robbery of a New York diamond salesman.

Homicide Bureau Detectives William Wrathell and Melvin Backman said they found the chunk of concrete containing the jewels behind the home of Stanley Novak, 27, and his brother Thomas L. Nowoseiski, 22.

The discovery came after Philip F. Depalma, 39, of Detroit walked into a Detroit police station Thursday and said he had information in the Nov. 19 teargas holdup of Max Monderer, 47, of New York, a diamond salesman.

Monderer was making a routine morning call when he was attacked. A shirtsleeved man suddenly stopped from a telephone booth in the building lobby and squirted tear gas into Monderer's eyes. The assailant grabbed a satchel Monderer said contained $500,000 worth of gems.

Lane said Depalma identified himself as the mastermind of the holdup but claimed the two brothers performed the actual stickup.

The three men were held for investigation of armed robbery. A fourth man, Gerhard W. Davis, 32, also of Detroit, also was held for investigation in the case.

Monderer identified Novak in a police lineup as a man he thought he saw in the building lobby the morning of the holdup.

Groucho's New Home Offers Comfort, View

By EARL WILSON

HOLLYWOOD—Groucho Marx was showing us through his new home high up over Beverly Hills—above the smog. "It doesn't look like much yet," he said, "but when it's finished, it'll look real lousy."

Actually it's pretty—and pretty expensive. There's a round, sunken bathtub for his wife Edna, an attractive room for his 11-year-old daughter Melinda, and a den and hideaway with kind of a magic bed, for Groucho. The head, or foot, of the bed can be raised or lowered with a push-button, and Groucho can have perfect ease while watching TV in bed.

WILSON

In the big comfortable living room looking out on the swimming pool and down on the lights of the city, was another TV set—and an instrument for turning off the commercials.

"Are you worried any about TV westerns?" I asked him.

"It's easier to be brave every week than it is to be funny every week," he answered. "What's happened is that there are three networks now instead of two."

Although his own show is going strong after 10 years, he said, "Any time they're tired of me I'd just love to go to the South of France for a couple of years."

"Are they ever going to get you to do another movie?" I asked.

"Never," answered Groucho. "Too rich."

THE WEEKEND WINDUP

Ingrid Bergman's biographer is sighing with relief. Her marital bust-up happened before the book went to the printer . . . Robert Merrill was unable to tie his bowtie during the Patrice Munsel TV'er, so went on with it dangling — and got praise for the "new tie style."

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Roger Price tells of a pal who's saving lots of money by doing his Christmas shopping early. At about four a.m., before the stores open . . . That's earl, brother.

Japanese Premier Sick After Ceremony

MANILA (AP) — Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi of Japan was reported much better today after becoming ill following a state dinner given by President Carlos P. Garcia.

The 61-year-old Prime Minister was confined to his bed this morning with stomach and intestinal trouble. He scheduled lengthy meetings with Garcia later today to discuss disputes between their two nations over World War II reparations, trade and travel curbs.

Kishi is visiting here as the last stop on a Southeast Asian tour. A spokesman said he would leave for Tokyo tonight as scheduled.

Both Husband, Wife Always Busy

Family Keeps On the Go Because of TV Series

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—You've heard of two-car families. Well, here's a three-series family — Barbara Hale and Bill Williams.

Bill, of course, was one of the cowpoke pioneers of television, loping across the screens as Kit Carson. That was in a long-ago era with Westerns were Westerns and not adult dramas dealing with neurotics and delinquents.

Now Bill has saddled up another series, this time a domestic comedy with Betty White, 'Date With the Angels. And his lovely wife Barbara is one of the stars of the CBS Saturday night whodunit Perry Mason.

"Yes, we're busy, all right," right," she said, "but doing two series has worked out pretty well for us. When Bill was doing Kit Carson, he was working a six-day week, and I was working six days in fims.

"Now it's only five days a week for us, so we have the weekends entirely to ourselves. Plus which, I have a day off after every six days of work, so I can tend to the shopping and other errands.

"Fortunately, my role in the Mason series is such that I don't have to study my lines at home. The only thing wrong with the whole setup is that I have to leave for the studio at 5:30 in the morning! But Bill's call is for 10, so he can see that our two oldest children get off to school.

"The important thing is establishing a regular routine for the children. They know exactly when we'll be home and when we won't."

Bill and Barbara have three children, and they're about as nice a family as you could imagine.

Cold Halts Clarkston Widening of M15

Work on widening M 15 from Clarkston north has been suspend until May because of winter weather conditions, highway commissioner John C. Mackie has announced.

The work consists of about a half mile of construction out of Clarkston, followed by a gap of about 1½ miles, then continued for about 8½ miles to the Genesee County line.

In the gap, a new roadway is being surveyed to improve on the present hilly alignment, Mackie said.

The Ann Arbor Construction Co. has the contract to widen the existing road from 20 to 24 feet. The cost is $330,279.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — Claud E. Fuller, 80, engineer, inventor and author and recognized authority on firearms, died Friday. He had more than 50 patents on inventions he had produced, many of them for brick-making machinery.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Dr. Joseph Earle Moore, 65, pioneer in venereal disease research and control, died Friday. Moore, professor of medicine and also professor of public health administration at Johns Hopkins Medical Institutions, received a medal of merit from the U.S. government in 1946.

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP)—Robert Royer, 55, head swimming coach at Indiana University since 1931, died Friday. He was also chairman of the swimming rules committee of the National Collegiate Athletic Assn.

Tiny Tot Gets Haircut

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Kenneth Ditty's hair was so long it was bothering everyone, including Kenneth. "I just had to do something," his mother explained. "The doctor said his long hair would fall out but it didn't." So Kenneth, 10 weeks old, got a haircut.

Wives May Use Hypnotic Record to Influence Men

LONDON—Wives who think they could improve their husbands if they could only make them listen may soon have a chance to prove it, London reports. They may do it by hypnotism.

Henry Blythe, a British hypnotist, has put out a record to teach hypnotism by phonograph. It explains to wives and husbands a technique for hypnotizing their partners. Blythe, whose record, "How to Stop Smoking," sells all over the world, he says, claims that wives and husbands can adapt his system to their own use, once they have learned it.

With her husband on a light hypnotic sleep a wife could murmur into his ear all the things he won't listen to when awake. A work-shy man could be persuaded to go out job seeking. A man who drinks and smokes too much could be made to stop.

Actor Learns Kicking Photog Doesn't Pay

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Actor Anthony Franciosa will be the guest of the city for 10 days, starting next Friday, because he kicked a newspaper photographer.

The date for starting the jail term was set yesterday after Municipal Judge Mark Brandler denied a motion for modification of his June 19 sentence on the assault charge: 10 days, a $250 fine, two years' probation.

Franciosa, 29, was accused of kicking photographer Bill Walker of the Evening Herald-Express after the cameraman had snapped a picture of Franciosa and actress Shelley Winters, 35, now his wife.

Roaches are inveterate travelers. Two familiar species — the straw-colored German cockroach and long black Oriental cockroach — have spread from their original homes to all parts of the world. A Florida species, having recently got the urge to move, has migrated as far north as Canada, westward to the Rocky Mountains, and southward into Central America.

Your Neighbor's House

No Upkeep in Walter Morris House

background for LIVING

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

Today's house is totally unlike any we have ever featured. It is truly a custom-built house, containing many construction ideas of the original owner who had to give it up after only six months. We think it will probably arouse some definite reactions. You'll like it or you won't.

The present owners, the Walter Morris' (and the builder-owner, William Goulding), are completely enthusiastic. The Gouldings who were transferred from this area to Ohio came back to visit recently and said they still liked all parts of the house.

Until a year ago the Morris family lived on East Iroquois road in Pontiac. There's Linda, 16; Robert, 14; and Pamela, 3. There are also two cats and a dog.

Mr. Morris was helping a co-worker build his new house on Willowood in Rochester. Next door was a brick and glass brick house that appealed to him. Situated on the extreme eastern edge of Oakland county, this area is semi-rural. The lots run an acre and a half.

Built by an engineer, this 30x65-foot house was planned for a minimum of upkeep. There is no painting to be done anywhere. No curtains are needed because the glass block walls admit light yet insure privacy. The floors are covered with vinyl asbestos plastic tile and need no rugs.

All inner partitions are free standing, do not support the truss roof, but are anchored to it. The ceilings throughout the entire house (except in furnace room, closets and lavatory) are corrugated, vinyl plastic. Above this are fluorescent lamps. This gives a clear overall lighting effect without any glare.

In the hallway, the Morris' have carried on a little experiment. With food coloring they tinted the light bulbs pink. Now one panel of the ceiling is pale pink. They are planning to do more experimenting with different colors in the living room.

The house is spacious, having four bedrooms, bath and a half, combined living and dining area, den, combined kitchen and wash area and furnace room. It is heated with oil. The chimney is prefabricated.

Underneath the center of the house there is a tunnel. This provides space for the heating duct, cold air return and electrical and plumbing materials. Four feet deep, it is also an admirable tornado shelter.

Nearly half of the exterior of the house is glass block. There are many single pane windows that open inward. All widow sills are Egyptian marble. The exterior block is multicolored, while the brick in the bedroom area interior is brown and elsewhere red.

A short brick wall marks off the slate patio, extending across half the house. The front door opens directly into the living room. Interior walls are paneled in plywood with pegged oak used in the living and dining room.

A corner sectional sofa closes in the front portion of the room. The matching chair has the same gold thread in the upholstery. Near the door is a tan chair. Centering this conversational area is a large round coffee table. It has a beige plastic walnut top with long brass handles on two sides. A matching magazine and lamp table stands in front of the window.

At the rear, in the dining area, there is a heavy wrought iron table with a gray top. An ivy design in metal decorates the tops of the matching gray chairs. One scenic painting hangs on the wall. A door to the back yard is in the rear wall of the house.

In the kitchen the work area is sectioned off with birch cabinets that match the paneled birch wall on one side. There is ample work space on top of these cabinets, as well as a double sink. On the far side of these cabinets the laundry equipment is lined up under the windows.

A broad Formica shelf is built all around under the window area. There is plenty of space to walk between the cabinets and the washer and dryer.

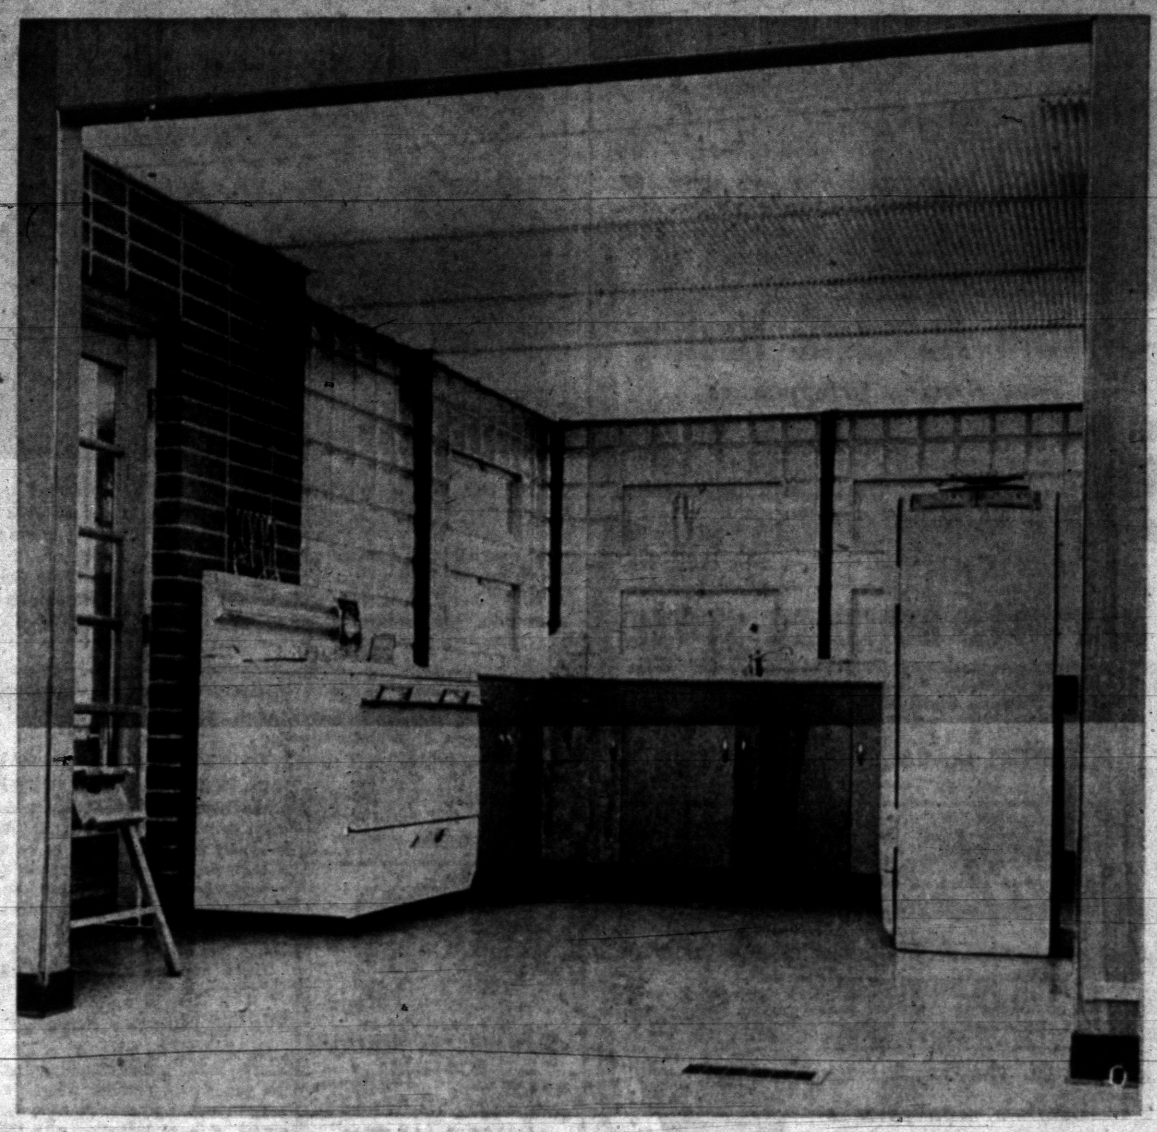

The den and Robert's room are paneled in cherry. The hallway and two other bedrooms have Philippine mahogany, while the fourth bedroom has yule wood paneling. The first bedroom is used as a study. Here the floor has brown and yellow tiles on it.

Linda's room has bleached mahogany furniture. Her bedspread is white. A marble shelf all around under the glass block wall makes a wonderful place on which to display treasures. (Note to mothers reading this: nothing showed the day we were there — evidently Linda had had instructions!) She is going to have some traverse draperies when her mother can find the kind Linda likes.

Robert's room has maple furniture and the master bedroom bleached birch. Mrs. Morris doesn't like early morning sun in her eyes and insists on draperies in her bedroom. Pammy shares this room.

The bathroom is green and yellow. Tile walls are yellow and fixtures and curtains are green.

The Morris' are accustomed, by now, to having guests come to view their house. It doesn't faze them. They know what they like and they have it. Next year they hope to add a breezeway and 3-car garage. It will house the family's boat as well as their cars.

KITCHEN-LAUNDRY AREA — The working areas are set off from the living areas only by a wide arched doorway. More than half the wall space is composed of glass brick with a Formica shelf installed below. The interior bricks are red. At the right the wall, like the storage cabinets, is birch plywood paneling. Beyond the cabinets is a complete laundry. It is a part of the kitchen, yet separated from the traffic lanes. The tile floor is a rosy shade.

LIVING AREA — This part of the main living room of the Walter Morris home is given over to a conversational group of furniture. The sectional sofa closes it off from the rest of the space. Clear glass windows are so placed to give a view of the front yard. The door at the left leads to the den. This tile floor is beige. Note the even lighting of the ceiling. Above the corrugated plastic ceiling there are fluorescent lights. The panels can be lighted separately. Mrs. Morris and Pamela are enjoying a magazine together.

How About an Office in Your Basement?

The basement of a home, if it has an outside entrace, is an excellent place for the office of a professional man or salesman who has his headquarters at home. It provides a convenient place for after-hour work and privacy for conferences with clients.

Constructing such an office is an easy job that can be completed in his spare time by the businessman himself. Use of Masonite hardboards is recommended in many places because it is easy to handle and the large panels go into place quickly. Also, the various plain and textured panels are ideal for numerous uses such as wall surfaces, wardrobes, and storage closets, room dividers and even desks.

The home office can be given a dignified and distinctive appearance by paneling it with two or more different types of hardboards. For instance, one wall can be finished with "Peg-Board" panels on which can be displayed literature and products connected with the business. Other walls can be given a wainscot treatment by paneling the top half with smooth-surfaced hardboard and the bottom half with a textured hardboard.

Hardboard panels, because they have no grain or knots, take and hold paint and other finishes well. A two-tone effect can be obtained when using the textured panels by applying a coat of dark paint, wiping with a lint-free cloth, and then applying a coat of lighter paint.

Because of its tough, smooth surface, hardboard is ideal for use on desk tops and other work surfaces as well as cabinets and walls.

Drawings showing how to build and furnish an office in the home can be obtained by writing a postal to the Home Service Bureau, Suite 2037, 111 W. Washington St., Chicago 2, Ill., and requesting free plan No. AE-336.

TREE TRIMS that glitter may be made from scraps of foil, colored paper and sequins. Santa with arms fitted in slots carries boxes suspended on threads. Pattern 436, which gives actual-size cutting guides is 25 cents. This pattern also is included in packet 48 with many more guides for Christmas decorations and cards all for $1. Orders under $1 add 10 cents service charge.

SNOW FIGURES at your door will bring Christmas cheer to the whole neighborhood. Pattern Packet 41 gives actual-size cutting and painting guides for this six-foot cutout which includes the lamp post. Hardboard is the material used and when painted in the gay colors indicated it will last years. Lighting directions come with the five large pattern sheets. Price $1.

May Pour Homes From Aircraft Hoses

Predicting that homes soon will be constructed of plastic materials funnelled from helicopters hovering over a building site, Henry H. Reichhold, president of Reichhold Chemicals, Inc., believes the plastic house will be "just one more development that will triple the volume of plastics and chemical industries in the next five years."

He foresees walls and foundations of plastics that will be poured through hoses from aircraft fitted with the type of equipment ordinarily used for cement mixing; and not only the houses but the driveways would be plastics.

"This may seem fantastic now," Reichhold says, "but so did spraying crops from the air when it was first suggested."

Other components of a dwelling, such as laminated plywood and, perhaps, even small assembled garages, could be dropped from the air, while extra cost of the use of planes would be more than offset by quick travel and speedy construction.

Treat Concrete Floor to Eliminate Dust

If the concrete floor of a garage or basement keeps yielding small particles of dust no matter how often the vacuum cleaner is used on it, something should be done to harden the concrete, which simply is powdering, or flaking off. Hardware stores sell hardening solutions.

After application, a special paint should be used. Finally, go back to using the vacuum cleaner to keep the floor free of the natural dust and dirt which lodge upon it. If the preventive work has been done correctly, there will be no more of the concrete erosion.

LINDA'S ROOM — Linda has bleached mahogany furniture in her corner bedroom. The bed with its bookcase headboard has a white candlewick spread. This is a light room although the single pane windows are high. The lower walls are made of brown Brikrete.

CUTOUTS TELL CHRISTMAS JOY — It's Christmas fixin'-up time, so this young homemaker gives the finishing touches to a pair of choir boys that her husband cut out of Masonite factory-primed Duolux panels which he got at a lumber yard. Using free patterns the dealer gave him, the handyman easily sawed the shapes and keyed them for color so his wife could decorate them. The same free plans, showing two dozen yule cutouts and ideas for festive decorations, may be obtained by sending a postal card to the Home Service Bureau, Suite 2037, 111 W. Washington St., Chicago 2, Ill., and requesting No. AE-318-A.

Masonry Can Be Coated With Several Paints

There are various types of coatings which will make masonry walls moisture repellent. When you wish to provide protection for the masonry without changing its color you employ one of the transparent coatings prepared for this purpose. You have several choices in colors and finishes. The oldest of these is house paint.

There are colorful cement-base paints which come in dry form and are based on Portland cement, lime and pigment. Mixed with water and applied to a previously dampened surface, they assume a form that is similar to concrete or mortar. Latex paints are also excellent if they are designed for exterior masonry.

Wrong Number Pays Off

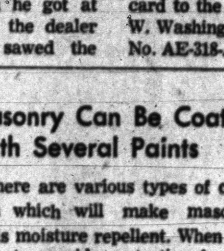

CLAREMORE, Okla. (AP) — Mrs. S. N. Bell, while house-hunting, got the wrong number when she called about a place. However, she struck up a conversation with the party at the other end, and the stranger got her a place to rent.

Study Panel Heating

The many desirable characteristics of panel heating have been disclosed by research work in the College of Engineering of the University of Illinois sponsored by The Institute of Boiler and Radiator Manufacturers. Panels automatically adjust the heat output rate around the outside walls, it was found. Ceiling panels have a higher fuel consumption than floor panels.

Twin-Bow Ranch Ideal for All Areas

TWIN-BOW RANCH — An outside planting area, enclosed by a three-bar wooden fence, is a lively exterior detail of this six-room ranch home. The owner can have the option of building the house either with or without a basement.

Pick your spot, anywhere on the map of America! This house will fit it to a T.

With a basement, it's ideal for all cold weather regions. Without a basement, and you can build it either way, it's ideal for warmer climates.

Moderately sized, the house can be built on an 80 foot lot. Designed in the ever popular ranch style, it is as convenient as it is practical.

For these reasons, plus others, it has been selected as HW-80 in the House of The Week series. Its design, its size and its comfortable living plan make it a popular home for the average American family.

There are six rooms, including three bedrooms and two baths in this plan. It was created by Architect Alan Wood Fraser, who sought to design a home equally popular with southern and western homeowners and still have the Long Island look which is in demand in the east and north.

PATIO COULD BE ENCLOSED

The patio in the rear is an example of Fraser's success in attaining true flexibility in his design.

In warmer climates, it can serve the year round as an outdoor terrace or as an outdoor living room.

In colder climates, the patio could be enclosed and converted into a family room just off the kitchen. Having many windows, the enclosed patio still would be ideal for summer living in northern regions.

Also, the patio could be enclosed at the time the house is built, or it could be enclosed later by the do-it-yourself homeowner. Further, a deep bow window or alcove could be added in the rear wall of an enclosed patio to augment the space in this area.

The two bow windows, while providing through ventilation, also create extra space which can be utilized in many interesting ways. With the bow windows, it's the house that has cross ventilation, not just any one room.

In the architect's optional plan for building the house without a basement, the utilities would fit into the area set aside for stairs in the with-basement plan.

A minor change in the plan would provide space for an alternate two-car garage. When this is done, the rear patio is doubled in size.

There is an option, too, in what can be done with the service center, or the laundry room. In warmer climates, the laundry room could be left unheated and a concrete floor could be put down. This would save considerable money.

Either way, the service center is sheltered and has direct access to the kitchen and the garage.

The three bedrooms are in a separate wing at the right. All bedrooms are large enough for twin beds. The smallest bedroom could have studio beds, doubling as a den for teenage children.

Each bedroom is "insulated" from other areas. The master bedroom has a closet wall between it and the next bedroom. The middle bedroom has its own closet and hall coat closet to serve as buffers from living areas. The back bedroom is separated from the dining room by a closet wall and a bathroom. One bath is equipped with a tub; the other has a stall shower.

Still another example of the plan's flexibility is to be found in the service center area. If no basement is required, the basement stairs could be changed to stairs going up to the attic. This would provide an extra storage area.

placed between the front door and the living room. The foyer is cross axis in its location and there is center hall circulation between the bedrooms and the living and dining rooms.

Kitchen equipment has been placed in an "L" shape and there is space for a dinette.

There is a large planting area at the front outside the living room window. Enclosing it is a three-bar wooden fence. A lamp-post at the garage end of the fence is a novel decoration.

Other exterior surfaces are of wood shingles. The chimney is brick and asphalt shingles have been used for the roof.

All windows in the house have metal frames and are built in so that the frames are completely hidden.

Such windows come in standard sizes, are available in all parts of the country; they are easy to install and are within a moderate price range.

STATISTICS 14

The overall dimensions of the House of The Week, HW-80, are 59 ft. by 37 ft. 2 inches. Including the garage and rear patio, it could be built on an 80 ft. lot. Its six rooms occupy 1,355 square feet. This excludes the garage and the service center. The garage would add about 210 square feet; the service center would add about 100 square feet.

Waterproof Secret Eludes Searchers

Scientists at the National Bureau of Standards in Washington are attempting to break down the complicated molecular structure of asphalt to determine what gives this mineral its amazing waterproofing qualities.

The waterproofing ability of asphalt is one reason asphalt shingles are chosen as the roofing material on a large majority of new homes.

Divider Provides Space to Display Boys' Hobbies

Would you like to put in order—once and for all—your boys' bedroom? Then use a room-divider of model airplanes, boats and cars.

This novel suggestion comes from Elaine Herman, home furnishing consultant for Monogram Models, Inc. She says that such a divider has many advantages. It's economical. It's easy to build. It gives a room a highly masculine tone. And, perhaps most important of all, it can give the boys a genuine feeling of pride in their room since they could select and build the models.

The advantage of separating the bedroom with a divider is readily apparent to any mother who has wrestled with the disorder in an all-purpose room for a pair of active boys. With the room divided, toys, books and homework papers are kept separate from clothes, bedding and baseball bats.

To begin with, let the boys pick the models to be used. Airplanes, boats, cars — whatever they pick, the boys are the ones who will live with the models. They also should be the ones to assemble them out of kits and discover the fun of model building.

The educational value of a wall of models probably is greater than the average parent thinks, Monogram points out. The exciting miniatures can stimulate young imaginations into an active interest in aviation and other fields.

Once enough models are assembled to provide a definite division in the room, put them on small plywood platforms suspended between two poles which extend from the ceiling to the top of a pair of desks placed side by side.

To complete the division, back a chest of drawers up to the desks to make the bedroom side of the wall. Stagger the shelves of models in an attractive pattern on the vertical poles.

The model wall divider also has these advantages over a solid room divider: It's more economical because it requires no structural changes and can be done by a family without outside help. It permits a flow of air and light between the two sections and retains the identity in spacious appearance of one room.

84 Permits Issued by City

New Post Office Makes More Than One Half of November Total

A building permit for the construction of the new Post Office on West Huron street made up more than half of the November total of $1,034,161 in 84 permits approved by the City of Pontiac.

The permit was for $585,130 and was one of three for new commercial buildings for the city. The other two were for gas stations.

The November total compares with 127 permits totaling $1,311,129 issued the previous month. Including in this total were permits for 23 new homes totaling $180,900.

There were permits for 12 new residential garages, 39 residential alteratins and repairs permits, and installation off six tanks amongst the total.

'Peg-Board' Table Good for Train

Extra appeal is easily added to a model train as a Christmas gift by building a table that has flexibility of track arrangements and wiring underneath with access to the top at any point.

The table top is a 4' by 8' panel of Masonite ¼" "Peg-Board." Tracks are fastened to it by wiring some of the ties through the perforations. All wires are strung under the top with leads coming up through the holes. A lip around the table is part of the framing and protects the train in case it jumps the track.

Directions for making the table can be obtained by writing a postal to the Home Service Bureau, Suite 2037, 111 W. Washington St., Chicago 2, Ill., and requesting plan No. AE-328. The plan also shows how to put up a ¼" "Peg-Board" panel on the wall for storing model train accessories.

Hardboard Gives Table New Decorative Top

A beaten up card table top can be restored by covering it with a plastic - finished hardboard panel having a surface resistant to grease, dirt, alcohol and even boiling water. It's available at lumber yards in plain colors, genuine woodgrain reproductions or marble patterns.

Cut to size, the panel may be fastened to the old surface by means of contact cement, or if the old top is flexible, to the table framing after the old surface has been removed. Paint the edges or add a suitable molding.

Three-Panel Screen Has Many Uses

A three-panel screen with play-and-educational functions is worth having in a child's room. In addition to its conventional uses, the screen can provide a blackboard surface, one panel for a bulletin board and a third for a snapshot gallery.

It should be smaller than the ordinary screen—4' high and each panel 15" wide. Make it from 1 by 2-inch hardwood lumber of good quality and sufficient Masonite to cover the frame. Build each section separately and then hinge them together.

The special sections will be in the upper portion of each panel. Set aside the top foot of each. Use "Peg-Board" in the section to serve as a bulletin board. Seal another special section and cover it with chalkboard paint. Outline the third special area and label it "art gallery" with glued die-cut letters.

Prime and paint the framing and panels.

If there are two youngsters, both sides of the framework may be covered to give the screen dual use.

United States Improves on Ancient Forestry

At least 5,000 years ago, great cargoes of timber were shipped from Lebanon to Egypt. The cedars of Lebanon also furnished some of the biggest beams for the great palaces of the Achaemenid kings at Persepolis in Persia, as well as wood for King Solomon's temple. If the ancients had practiced forest renewal, dozens of tree crops could have been grown in the intervening centuries. Instead, the land was denuded.

In contrast, the United States provides 40 to 50 per cent of the world supply of timber but grows more than it cuts at a progressively higher rate.

Some of the new bathroom fixtures to be displayed in model homes will include silent flushing and non-sweating toilets, square tubs, small sized receptor tubs for showers, and the new dental lavatories, which are designed specifically for brushing teeth.

THE BRICK HOUSE — The Walter Morris' of Willowood, just this side of Dequindre road, have an unusual house. Nearly half of the exterior walls is glass block. The rest is multicolor Brikrete. Single-pane aluminum windows are set into the glass block. There is no painting whatever to be done on this house (a pity, says Mrs. M.; she likes to paint). Although it is difficult to distinguish in the picture, there is a low Brikrete wall enclosing a slate patio at the front of the house. The builder and original owner of the house was William Goulding. Because his job was transferred, he had to move out of his "dream" house only six months after it was completed. The Morris' have lived here about a year.

'Steep' It for a Change

Ever prepare "steeped" coffee? To make it, pour boiling water over the coffee and let it stand over low heat about 10 minutes. Be sure to keep the heat so low that the water doesn't simmer. Throw in a tablespoon or so of cold water and the grounds will settle. Then strain and serve at once.

NEWS VIEWS

It seems like only yesterday that folks were complaining about the heat, and here it is almost close enough to Christmas to hear sleighbells. Seems like they're making the years shorter these days. We figure there just isn't any busier or more exciting time in the whole year. It's a time of big dreams and hopes for all the youngsters . . . a time of list making . . . of gifts to buy . . . cards to send . . . packages to wrap.

Some folks say Christmas is a little on the commercial side these days. And it seems in some ways they're right. But it's also a time when most of us are thinking about how we can please others. It's a season of goodwill, and behind the tinsel the true meaning of Christmas is just as strong as ever. It is, and it should be, a happy time for everyone.

Then there was the snoopy lad who found a Santa Claus costume in his father's closet and decided . . . "Gee, the old man must have killed him and hidden his clothes in here."

Fortunately, St. Nick is very much alive . . . and always will be, whenever December rolls around. It's good to have someone like that to depend on . . . and remember, when you want satisfaction and square-dealing in your real estate transactions, you can depend on us—not just in December, but every month and every year! Cure 'Haunted House' With New Wiring

Do you live in a haunted house? Simple arithmetic may help you drive the ghosts away.

By haunted, we mean a house where "something" is making fuses blow with irritating frequency. Or where lights blink mysteriously for no apparent reason—and electric appliances often perform in weird fashion.

How can arithmetic rout the phantoms?

First make a check list of all electrical appliances in your home. This done, estimate the number of watts needed to operate each of them.

And don't get the idea that just because an appliance is small in size it needs little electricity whereas large appliances such as refrigerators and washing machines need much more electricity.

"HAUNTED" CHECK LIST

Electric blanket	160 watts
Washer	700 watts
Toaster	1,000 watts
Vacuum cleaner	650 watts
Electric iron	1,000 watts
Water heater	2,000 watts
Deep freezer	300 watts
Refrigerator	250 watts
Total	6,060 watts

The addition, as you see, comes to more than 6,000 watts and we haven't even counted the usual lights, the television set and several other appliances.

Now let's go down to the basement and try to find out why your house is "haunted."

The main switch and the fuse box form the heart of any wiring system and they're located near the spot where the power cable comes into your home.

Meters come first in today's wiring system but in this house the system had been installed in the 1930 sequence, meaning that the power cable came down into the basement, went to the main switch and then over to the meter and down into the fuse box.

The name plate of the main switch read "2 wire, 30 amp. 110 or 120 volts." This also was typical of wiring installed 25 years ago, and told us that only two wires came in from the power line. Three wires are considered necessary today.

SAFETY POWER LOAD

The information on the name plate indicated that the quantity of current these wires could safely carry were 30 amperes — 100 amperes is considered adequate today — at a pressure of 120 volts.

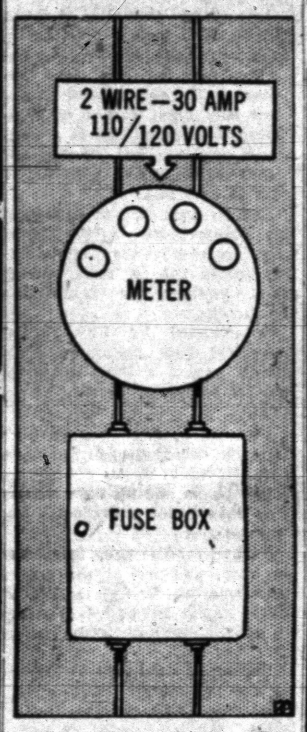

Volts multiplied by amperes will show the total wattage or electric power that should safely be coming into the house at any one time. In this case the 120 volts multiplied by 30 amperes came to 3,600 watts.

Against a need of more than 6,000 watts, the wiring system was inadequate.

The phantom had been found.

If you wish to find out whether your house is haunted, too, merely multiply the amperes and volts labeled on the main switch; then estimate the number of watts needed to operate all of your appliances.

It's a simple way to figure how much electric power you need. If you need more power than you're getting, an electrical contractor or your local utility company can help you revamp the wiring system.

OUTDATED — This illustrates a wiring system in the 1930 sequence, with two wires coming from the power line. Three wires are considered necessary in today's wiring systems.

Take Pains to Choose Right Architect for You

Choosing an architect may present a problem to the newcomer in a community or to a family building its first home. But it shouldn't be hard to solve. First, you might want to contact your local chapter of the American Institute of Architects, the national organization for registered architects. The chapter office can fill you in as to names, addresses, types of work done by various architects.

When you've contacted an architect, talk over your home needs and desires. You'll find that all good architects insist on quality materials. From a few preliminary sketches and discussions, you can tell almost immediately whether you've found the right architect for you.

This Is Basketball Ballet

'Hud' Ray Leads Pontiac Cagers to Opening Win

'Goose' Has 20 Points, 21 Rebounds as Chiefs Top Detroit Quintet

By BILL CORNWELL

Pontiac High's 6-foot-6 center pumped 20 points through the hoop and grabbed 21 rebounds as the Chiefs opened their 1957-58 season with a 55-45 victory over Detroit Catholic Central here Friday night.

The towering Ray, who answers to the nickname of Goose, has only eight games of eligibility this season. He is a mid-year graduate and gaining all-state notice in one semester is not an easy task.

Spearheaded by Ray, Pontiac controlled both backboards. The Chiefs snared a total of 49 rebounds compared to only 17 for Central.

Big Jim Skinner also made a sizeable contribution to Pontiac's bounds. Dick Whitmer added eight points and his clever passing made him the Chiefs' top play-maker.

Pontiac set the pace from start to finish and led at the end of each quarter. It took a 13-point flurry in the 3rd period, however, to put the stubborn Shamrocks out of contention.

The score was 16-10 at the end of the 1st quarter, 28-21 at halftime and 47-35 entering the 4th period. Pontiac boosted its lead in the early minutes of the final stanza and coasted home as coach Art Van Ryzin emptied his bench in the last minute.

Three of Rays eight field goals were tip-ins of missed foul shots and another was a crowd-pleasing two-handed dunk shot on a rebound.

Charley Barge turned in a standout performance at guard for the Chiefs. He scored eight points and his scrappy ball-hawking and sharp floor play were vital factors in the success of Pontiacs defense.

Forward Bob Morris and big Ed Skrzycki, 6-foot-4 center, sparked the Shamrocks with 12 and 11 points, respectively. It was also the season opener for Central, which has a return date with the Chiefs Jan. 31 at Pontiac.

The Little Chiefs were not as fortunate as their big brothers, dropping a 46-39 decision in the junior varsity preliminary. Henry Robertson for Pontiac and Central's Bill Downs each tallied 14 points.

Eaglets Down St. Fred in 2nd Overtime Period

A clutch field goal from 15 feet out by guard Ed Maciejewski of Orchard Lake St. Mary brought to an end one of the most exciting games played here in several years as the Eaglets nipped St. Frederick 50-48 in a "sudden death" overtime period at St. Fred last night.

It was the opening night of play in the Suburban Catholic League and the 1st game of the new season for the Rams but it will take a lot of doing to match this latest local battle for thrills.

The outcome was a bitter pill to swallow for losing coach Gene Wright and his Rams. They blew a 40-30 lead early in the final quarter despite the efforts of Tom Derocher to carry the attack.

He dunked in 24 points for his evening's work and was actually responsible for the two overtimes.

Derocher's two-pointer in the final second of regulation play saved St. Fred the 1st time and he did it again in the three minute overtime before the axe fell.

However, it was not a case of St. Mary always having the upper five points of the game and later led 36-30 going into the final eight minutes before the roof fell in.

St. Benedict trounced St. Rita 81-29 in another SCL contest. Larry Gacki almost matched the losers with 25 points.

Cranbrook Falls to Maples, 64-40

The Cranes were trounched by a tall Birmingham quintet 64-40 last night to open the season on a winning note for the Maples.

Coach John Petrakis cleared the bench of 14 players of which 10 got into the scoring column, led by Bob Stephenson's 15 points and Chuck Gibson's 10.

John Studebaker and Bob Klein each hit 13 for Cranbrook. At intermission, Birmingham led 36-16 and it was 56-23 after three periods.

Falcons Trip Romeo, 56-30

By CHUCK ABAIR

Rochester's Falcons dedicated their new $400,000 gymnasium in impressive style by walloping supposedly strong Romeo by a 56-30 count before a capacity crowd and some well known sports personalities last night.

Lake Orion blasted Oxford to the tune of 76-29 and Walled Lake won its second straight under new coach John Shadford, downing Wayne 46-39 in some of the other feature games in this sector.

Ex-Tiger Steve Gromek, MSU asistant grid coach Doug Weaver and Red Wing publicist Fred Huber were among the guests who saw Rochester pile up an early lead and coast along to a surprisingly easy second victory.

The Falcons wasted little time getting used to the new court after Bruce Ennis opened the festivities with a jump shot. The scoreboard read 13-5 after the opening period and 26-13 at halftime as Romeo could never hit with any consistency on the large floor.

Carl "Peanuts" Montross connected on 7 of 17 shots and added a foul for 15 points and turned in an outstanding floor game to pace the winners. Reserve Reid Olszak topped the losers with eight, six on three successive field goals in the final quarter.

A total of 29 players saw action as both coaches emptied their benches in the final minutes. Ten of the 14 Falcons got in the point column.

Jim Drake, who dominated area honors in football, was the individual star. His 29 points matched the Oxford team total. He had three more field goals than the Wildcats with 14.

The Vikings bounced back from a 21-19 first half deficit to clinch the issue in the last quarter.

Eastern Michigan League favorite Ferndale started its season strong by socking Southfield 63-36 paced by Earl McNeal's 15 digits while Farmington was bowing to Livonia Bentley, 62-53. Dave Catherman and Dan Machan hooped 13 points apiece for the Fitzgerald, rated tops in the Oakland B along with Lake Orion, began hostilities with a 41-38 squeaker over Royal Oak Kimball led by Frank Birdwell with 18. Bob Harris tallied 12 for Kimball. Mawson won its second, drubbing Oak Park, 69-34.

South Central Conference contingents Ortonville and Imlay City divided. Ortonville led only in the 1st quarter in dropping a 58-55 verdict to Linden. Charlie Graves topped the Blackhawks with 18.

Jim Ward swished the nets for 30 points in Imlay's 61-54 win over Goodrich in a game that was tied at halftime.

Prep Stars Will Be Feted

Area high school football players and their coaches will be honored next Thursday night when the MSU Oakland County Alumni Club holds its annual banquet at Devon Gables.

Monte Charles, who guided Southfield to the Inter-Lakes Conference crown and an unbeaten season, will receive his award as Oakland County Coach-of-the-Year.

Honors will also be extended to members of The Pontiac Press All-County football team. The 1957 coach-of-the-year and all-county selections were announced by the Press last Saturday.

Hugh (Duffy) Daugherty, the Spartans' head football coach, and his staff will attend the honor banquet. Daugherty will show films of this year's Notre Dame-Michigan State game to finish the program.

Tom Rex of Franklin, banquet co-chairman with Harold Vogler of Birmingham, reports that ticket purchases indicate a large turnout of area gridders and coaches.

Tickets for the occasion are still available and may be obtained by writing to Box 137, Birmingham, or calling Rex at MA 6-1951 or Dick Mineweaser, FE 4-7064.

Sponsored by the MSU-Oakland County Alumni Club, the affair begins at 7 p.m.

W-O Kingpins Score Easy Victories

The kingpins of the Wayne-Oakland conference, Northville, Holly and Clarkston, scored easy victories last night while Milford was being nipped by Clarenceville 45-43.

League favorite Northville whipped W. Bloomfield 56-37 with Clayton Pethers hitting for 19. Bill Yahne 16 and Dick Biery 15.

Holly and Bloomfield Hills each had nine players in the scoring column but the Broncos outscored the Barons by a wide 70-49 margin.

George McDaniel led the Holly attack with 23 points, while Amos Bradsher collected 13 and Darrell Kinney 10. Randy Barrett topped the Hillsmen with 13 points.

Holly started strong with 23 points in the first quarter and a shooting mark of 41 per cent for the night.

Clarkston held a 33-31 halftime advantage and then rolled to a 67-58 win over Brighton.

All-county guard of last year, Leroy Parks, poured in 29 points for the Wolves with Bob Porrit getting 12 and Bill Holes 12.

Milford had the edge in field goals but Clarenceville sunk 21 free throws to 13 for the Redskins. After three periods Milford led 32-29 but with only 30 seconds left Clarenceville led 43-38.

At this point Pat Kelley made a free throw and rebounded the second attempt to score and make it 43-41.

Browns Can Wrap Up Title in Detroit

Victory Means Division Crown for Cleveland

Lions Also to Watch Outcome of 49er-Colt Game on Coast

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Cleveland Browns occupying the driver's seat in the Eastern Conference of the National Football League, can wrap up the division title Sunday with a tie or victory over the Detroit Lions.

The Browns-Lions game at Detroit highlights a pivotal weekend in NFL circles with intriguing possibilities offered if Detroit can upend mighty Cleveland. The Browns probably will be without the services of their injured first-string quarterback, Tommy O'Connel.

The Detroit players also will be awaiting the outcome of the Baltimore Colts-San Francisco 49ers game at Frisco. The Colts, leading the Western Conference, can clinch at least a tie for the championship by winning even if Detroit keeps pace with them.

On the other hand, Detroit and San Francisco victories can throw the western race into a three-way tie.

The New York Giants hoped to keep their Eastern crown hopes alive by defeating the Pittsburgh Steelers today. If the Giants lost, they would be eliminated no matter what Cleveland does against Detroit.

A Giants' triumph and a Browns setback would call for a championship showdown contest a week from Sunday when the two teams clash in New York.

In other games Sunday the Chicago Bears meet their cross-town rivals, the Chicago Cards; the Green Bay Packers visit the Los Angeles Rams; and the Washington Redskins entertain the Philadelphia Eagles.

These encounters involve the bottom three teams in each conference with nothing at stake except prestige and a chance to improve their positions in the standings.

Detroit's offense will hinge on the passing arm of Bobby Layne while Cleveland, unbeaten in its last six games, will rely on the hard-running of rookie Jimmy Brown and the talented toe of Lou Groza. The teams have met five times previously with the Lions holding a 4-1 edge.

Baltimore puts a four-game winning streak on the line against San Francisco, which upset the Giants last Sunday. A passing duel between the Colts' Johnny Unitas and the 49ers' Y. A. Tittle is expeced.

Territorial Rights Big Argument

Majors End Annual Meeting

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — Baseball's major leagues, fussing over who gets the New York territory vacated by the Giants, have pitched the problem to a committee of four—two from each loop.

The postponement of a decision on the territory fight at yesterday's final session of the majors annual meeting was regarded as a National League victory.

Amendments to baseball law proposed by each league were withdrawn at the meeting presided over by Commissioner Ford Frick. The Americans sought to establish exclusive rights in the New York area with the exception of Brooklyn. The Nationals wanted to add the borough of Queens to that of Brooklyn as open territory for future entry.

An amendment has not been offered but the current plan of the Nationals is to make available for future entry all five New York boroughs and Long Island.

The controversy stems from the National League Giants moving to San Francisco and the Dodgers shifting to Los Angeles.

Frick told a news conference he hoped for a solution that would not be restricted "to one geographical area, like New York for instance, because baseball is growing and there will be a lot of changes in the future."

Named to the committee were Roy Egan, attorney for the Chicago White Sox; Frank Lane, Cleveland general manager; Gabe Paul, Cincinnati Redlegs vice president, and Dick Meyer, executive vice president of the St. Louis Cardinals.

They will begin work this month and report to the next majors meeting in New York City in February.

Other actions at the joint meeting of the majors incuded:

1. Repeal of the bonus rule in effect for the past five years.
2. Creation of a four-year draft that gives more liberty to minor league players.
3. Raising of the waiver price on players from $10,000 to $20,000.
4. Increasing moving expenses for ball players.
5. Raising the minimum major league yearly salary from $6,000 to $7,000.

The action on the bonus rule and the four-year player draft ratified similar decisions of the minor leagues at their convention here last Thursday.

American League owners wanted to make the bonus action retroactive, but the National League voted to require continuation of bonus contracts now in effect. Frick sided with the National on the grounds that it was a contactural obligation that could not be voided. The majors list 21 bonus players at present.

Armada and Almont Win

Three players combined for 40 points as Armada whipped Brown City 53-44 while Almont was tripping Capac in the Southern Thumb League last night.

Terry Wills clicked for 15, Dorence Dunham had 13 and Modoligin 12 to spark Armada. Jerry Synder and Bob Fisher hit 12 apiece for the losers.

Almont held the edge all the way but had to hold off a determined late rally in its 49-40 victory.

MSU Beats UD, 71-59

By BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

DETROIT—Fired up University of Detroit and highly favored Michigan State battled in close quarters for more than three periods before the Spartans broke loose and scored a 71-59 victory last night in Detroit.

A crowd of 8,000 roaring fans watched the two teams stay within a basket of each other until the final five minutes of play when jumping Johnny Green broke the narrow 53-52 margin for MSU with three straight baskets.

This pushed State ahead by seven points and although the Titans moved within three points twice they could not catch the Spartans even though Green fouled out with 2½ minutes left.

U. of D. held the lead for most of the first half with little Mike Walsh hitting for long set shots, but then junior guard Dave Scott struck for eight straight points for the Spartans.

His last basket of the first half came with only three seconds to play after he grabbed a bad Titan pass and went all the way for the lay up.

With the score tied at 29-29 the strategy of holding the ball for the last shot backfired for U. of D. as Scott grabbed the loose ball and scored to take a 31-29 intermission lead.

The lead exchanged hands four times early in the second half before MSU took a 41-39 lead and never fell behind. At this point U. of D. lost its poise by throwing the ball away five straight times.

The Spartans pushed to their widest margin of nine points before the Titans closed the gap for a short spell.

Green was handcuffed in the first half as he was able to get only seven rebounds and five points, but he still finished as the top scorer for the night with 19 points and 16 rebounds.

Haase had 17 rebounds and he and Walsh got 14 points each.

"We couldn't have worked harder for any game," said Spartan coach Forddy Anderson afterward. Coach Bob Calihan said, "we played our best but we ran out of gas in the last few minutes."

Pistons Beaten by Nats, 118-91

Yardley Again Leads Detroit Scoring With 34 Points

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — The Syracuse Nationals took undisputed possession of second place in the Eastern Division of the National Basketball Assn. last night with a 118-91 walloping of the Detroit Pistons.

The game was close only in the first period from which the Nats emerged with a 27-23 lead. A 38-point fourth period left the Pistons trailing wearily.

Larry Costello led Syracuse with 20 points while Dolph Schayes got 17 of his 18 points in the first half and Togo Palazzi all of his 18 in the second half.

Chief Tankers in Fast Start

Pontiac High's 1957-58 swimming team started its new season on a proper note Friday night in the West Huron pool with a 52-40 win over Ypsilanti Central.

Chiefs collected six firsts to four for Ypsi and would have had another but for a disqualification in the medley relay. "For an opening meet the boys didn't look bad," Coach Robert Boyce pointed out. "None of the times was outstanding, but we're happy to win. Team worked hard and deserved to win."

PHS winners were Denny Roberts (40-yard freestyle, 21.0); Jim Gibbs (10-yard backstroke, 1:08.5); John LaMotte (diving); 160-yard freestyle rel. 1:22.5 (Cummins, Roberts, Ruth, Hoekman); Gid Robarge (100-yard orth. breaststroke, 1:16.3). Bill Schvill of Ypsi was the only double winner (100-yard breast, 1:16.0 and 120-yard ind. med., 1:24.1). Other Ypsi first —McDonald (200-yard freestyle, 2:30.3); med. relay by disqualification.

Redlegs Continue Trades

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) —Gabe Paul, Cincinnati general manager, who tried and failed to build the pennant winner on sheer power alone, apparently had become convinced that pitching helps a little, too.

Making good on his promise to sacrifice power for mound strength, the determined young boss of the Redlegs added his fifth new pitcher in three days last night.

He acquired southpaw Harvey Haddix from the Philadelphia Phillies in exchange for outfielder Wally Post. It was the fifth major player transaction of the baseball convention which ended last night.

The trade was Cincinnati's third in three days and each of the transactions brought the Redlegs at least one pitcher. Paul began slowly, purchasing lefthander Bill Wight from Baltimore Wednesday night.

"We're not through yet," promised Paul, "I've learned the hard way that power alone doesn't win pennants. The addition of Haddix, Schmidt and the young fellows is just the beginning. We still need pitching, but I think we're on the right track."

The Cincinnati - Philadelphia trade was the one major deal of the day. However, the Chicago Cubs and the San Francisco Giants made a minor transaction involving a pair of pitchers.

The Cubs acquired Fernando Rodriguez, 36, a relief pitcher who last year was with Minneapolis of the American Assn. They sent Tom Poholsky, 29, a right-hander who lost seven out of eight decisions with the Cubs last season, to the Giants' new Phoenix club in the Pacific Coast League. Rodriguez had a 6-5 record at Minneapolis last year.

The American League, which failed to complete a deal since pulling off two major trades in the first two days of the meeting, came close to making another major trade last night, one between Cleveland and Detroit.

General Manager Frank Lane of the Indians had offered first baseman Vic Wertz, outfielder Gene Woodling, catcher Jim Hegan and pitcher Hank Aguirre to the Tigers for their star shortstop, Harvey Kuenn.

General Manager John McHale, after deliberating many hours, rejected Lane's offer. The Indians' dynamic GM said he was still hopeful of luring second baseman Bobby Richardson and pitcher Johnny Kucks from the New York Yankees. He has offered the American League champions pitcher Ray Narleski for the pair.

Layne Cleared of Charge

DETROIT (AP) — A jury of 11 women and one man deliberated 24 minutes yesterday before acquitting dapper Detroit Lions quarterback Bobby Layne of a drunk driving charge.

Layne said the ordeal was "worse than any football game I ever played."

Conviction could have meant two days in jail.

The handsome 200-pounder, in a soft drawling voice, told the jury he had about six highballs before police arrested him at about 2:10 a. m. Nov. 17. He denied that the whisky impaired his driving ability and said, "I don't count my drinks. I would say that I had about six, but I was not under the influence to the point where it hurt me."

One woman juror, leaving the courtroom, remarked, "Bobby ought to give us women a big kiss for letting him off."

The jury took two votes—eight to four for acquittal the first time and, after a short discussion, made it unanimous.

Layne's car was ordered to the curb by Patrolmen Lemmie Pratt and Donald Osborne because, they testified, it was weaving and the headlights were turned off. Pratt said Layne poked him in the ribs during an ensuing discussion and various police witnesses who saw him said the Texan's speech was slurred and his face flushed.

Britain Moves to Hold Colony

Troops Are Rushed to Honduras After Talk of Union With Guatemala

BELIZE, British Honduras (AP) — British troops have been rushed into this Central American colony in the wake of official charges that a leading politician here had discussed union with neighboring Guatemala.

Troops were flown in from Jamaica yesterday to reinforce the regiment stationed at this Caribbean capital. Another company landed in the frigate Ulster and a second British Navy ship was reported cruising nearby.

The 60,000 people of this 8,867-square-mile jungle colony were taking calmly a sudden surge of developments in a long campaign for independence.

The campaign has been led by George Price, head of the Peoples' United Party, which won last April's elections to a new Legislative Council. London-appointed Gov. Colin Hardwick Thornley then named Price to the Council's executive committee but removed him from the committee yesterday.

Price was a member of a delegation which went to London recently to discuss the constitutional future of British Honduras and seek financial aid.

The British colonial secretary charged in the House of Commons that Price and other PUP members of the delegation talked in London with the Guatemalan envoy about the possibility of cutting loose from Britain and associating the colony with Guatemala.

'Theater Square' May Develop

Big New York Hotel Swap Might Lead to Changed Times Square

NEW YORK (AP)—A major hotel swap may lead to conversion of an entire Times Square block into an entertainment center featuring sidewalk cafes, music, and gay marquees.

The planned project was announced yesterday after disclosure that the Sheraton-Astor Hotel on Times Square had been exchanged for the Ambassador Hotel on Park avenue.

The Sheraton-Astor was sold for around 12 million dollars to Webb & Knapp. In exchange, the Sheraton Corp. acquired an option to buy the Ambassador Hotel for about 10¾ million dollars. Final transfer of the properties will become effective shortly after the first of the year.

Zeckendorf noted that Webb & Knapp's subsidiary, Zeckendorf Hotels Corp., will, after exchange of hotels, own both ends of the block from 44th to 45th streets between Times Square and Eighth avenue.

The Shubert organization owns the remaining properties on 44th and 45th streets—seven legitimate theaters.

If plans develop, Zeckendorf said, the entire block will be named "Theater Square" and designed to be "the gayest spot in the world, rivaling even Piccadilly Square in London."

Zeckendorf said the marquees would radiate hot air in the winter and cool air in the summer and would provide music the year around to the sidewalk cafe customers.

Advanced Car Designs Bring Service Trouble

By DAVID J. WILKIE
AP Automotive Editor

DETROIT (AP)—Design and engineering advances in the newest model automobiles have brought new servicing problems as well as convenience and comfort to the motorist.

Some of the servicing operations have to be handled by the experts trained at the factories.

PRESENT PROBLEMS

They would present more than the usual problems to the self-employed mechanic or the do-it-yourself enthusiast.

Wholly new to automobile repair shop workers is the servicing of fuel injectors, air suspension systems and air levelizers. And for some filling station shops the new "X" frames present lift problems for grease and oil jobs and under-the-car repairs.

Servicing fuel injectors is mainly a technical problem. It requires training and knowledge of their design. To that extent the problem is complex only where there is a lack of such knowledge.

Somewhat different is the handling of the air suspension and air levelizing units. They operate automatically. Any shifting of weight brings the levelizer into action.

ISSUE DIRECTIONS

The auto makers introducing air suspension generally are issuing directions for safe handling of the units in the repair shop. They caution against turning on ignition or opening any doors when the car is on a hoist or when any wheel is off the ground. Either of these actions will activate the levelizer.

They also recommend that the battery ground strap be disconnected to prevent leveling action when the car is being towed with front or rear wheels off the ground.

The service workers also are cautioned against raising the rear end of a car with rear shock absorbers disconnected. This, they are told, could result in a separation of the rear air-spring assemblies and other possible damage to the system.

The systems are not all alike. In some instances a switch may be tripped to lock out the automatic leveling feature, but in many instances even the car owner is not entirely familiar with its operation.

In some cases the car makers are suggesting use of hardwood blocks or other support for the front or rear of the car when it has to be raised for towing.

The new "X" frame adopted by several makers presents a problem to servicemen mainly where the vehicle is lifted by frame-contact hoists. It is not as serious as the problem of handling air suspension systems. But all filling station shops are not equipped to handle cars so designed.

The hazards involved in servicing newly-developed equipment are thoroughly explained in the owners' manuals that go with new cars. The car makers are urging new car buyers to read these manuals immediately upon getting delivery.

Many car buyers never open the guide books until trouble develops.

Waterford Property Tax Up $1 Per $1,000 Valuation

On Monday morning, approximately 40,000 tax statements will be mailed to Waterford Township residents, according to Treasurer Mrs. Dorothy Olson.

For more than a month, Mrs. Olson and her assistants have been working on the tax rolls. Taxes will be payable Dec. 10 to Jan. 20.

Total tax rate this year will be $69.48 per $1,000 valuation, as against $68.48 last year. This increase is due to the increase in the state equalizing figure, according to Supervisor Elmer Johnson.

According to State law, the local treasurer's office will not be permitted to collect any tax payments after a Feb. 28 deadline.

From that time on, a resident must make payments at the County treasurer's office and there will be a 4 per cent penalty imposed for delayed payments.

According to Mrs. Olson, if all tax payments were made on the date due, the amount would exceed 2½-million dollars for Waterford Township. However, the average collections total about 86 per cent of the statements mailed to tax payers.

In a break-down of where Waterford Township's alloted 14.9 mills, is distributed, 5 mills goes to the county, 8.2 to the school district, and 1.7 will be for township operation.

For the third consecutive year, Waterford Township school district's taxes will continue at the same level, according to superintendent William Shunck.

In February, 1954, an additional were approved by voters, along with 12.4 mills for building operations, or bond debt retirement. This was spread over a five year period, and has one more year to be run.

Christmas Toys, Games Spurt to Set Record Sales

There is some disagreement among the industry's leaders about this but there is unanimity about one thing: The late buying rush will mean a real shortage of certain items the last week or so before Christmas.

The season got off to a disappointing start. In July when manufacturers booked Christmas orders, the wholesalers sat on their hands. Their hesitancy stemmed from uncertainty about the economic outlook, plus the fact that at that time there appeared to be no sure-fire "hits." By Sept. 1, manufacturers shipments were running well behind 1956.

But late orders, booked this fall, have overwhelmed many companies. Overtime shifts are common at many plants; some are working 24 hours a day.

Benjamin F. Michtom, board chairman of Ideal Toy Corp., the nation's largest doll and plastic toy manufacturer, estimated industry sales for 1957 about 6½ per cent ahead of last year. The Boy Manufacturers Assn. estimated an 11½ per cent gain with volume approaching 1½ billion dollars.

More conservative was Robert B. M. Barton, president of the 74-year-old Parkers Bros., the country's biggest games publisher. Until last week Barton felt the industry couldn't match last year's totals. Then an astonishing volume of late orders forced a revision of his estimates.

"Never have I seen such an amazing late boom," said Barton. "Our orders in the last two weeks of November were 50 per cent higher than the same period of 1956."

The advent of Sputnik gave a terrific boost to space toys of all kinds. Ideal, along with other manufacturers, expanded production of its missile and satellite toys. Re-issuance of the Shirley Temple doll, first introduced by Ideal in the depression, has been a big hit.

Busy with Cleanup in Villa Rica

Bury Blast Victims Today

VILLA RICA, Ga. (AP)—Today was a day of funeral processions and cleanup operations in this northwest Georgia town where 12 persons were killed and more than 20 injured in a thunderous natural gas explosion Thursday.

Funeral services were scheduled for four victims here today and for another victim in Atlanta. Six other blast victims were buried yesterday. The twelfth victim will be buried tomorrow.

Workers meanwhile were completing the job of cleaning up the remains of four stores and a dentist's office shattered in the explosion and charred by the fire that raced through the ruins.

There was no estimate of the damage but the destroyed buildings were reported insured for more than $200,000. The cause of the blast remained a mystery.

"We know it was caused by escaping gas," said Mayor C. M. Griffin. "But I don't think we will ever know for certain the exact details."

The three men investigating the gas leak died in the explosion.

WHAT'S ON THE MOON? — With all the talk going around about man reaching the moon, the question is: What will he find when he gets there? Scientists, who have studied the moon over a distance of 240,000 miles for centuries, describe it as a rugged, dusty, lifeless globe. It has none of the earth's life giving qualities not even air. In man's earliest observations, light and dark areas were detected. Dark areas were believed to be water. These areas were given the name "maria," or seas. Later investigation revealed them to be dry plains. Some of the maria (see Newschart) are of tremendous size. Light areas on the moon are mountain ranges. Among the most impressive sights, easily discernible through even low-powered telescopes, are the craters. Scientists are not in agreement as to what caused them. Some believe they are the result of impact of meteors; others believe they were formed by volcanic activity in the centuries before the moon cooled. The moon is subjected to extreme temperatures. In the center of the light side, it reaches 214° degrees, about the boiling point of water. Away from the sun, it drops to 250 degrees below zero.

Bid to Settle Revolt Stalled

U.N. Political Committee Fails to Solve Algerian War With France

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Efforts to settle the Algerian revolt were tossed to the U.N. General Assembly today in a deadlock.

The Assembly's Political Committee failed last night to agree on any plan for solving the three-year-old rebellion against France.

The committee rejected a watered-down resolution proposing settlement efforts by private talks. The vote was 37-37 with six abstentions—thus failing to get a required majority.

The proposal was expected to come up in altered form in the Assembly some time next week. A two-thirds vote is needed there.

The United States and other Western powers had supported the resolution. The French, who deny U.N. jurisdiction over what they claim is an internal matter, did not vote. French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau said he was extremely satisfied with the result.

In its original form, the resolution sponsored by 17 Asian-African nations had demanded U.N. recognition of the right of Algerians to self-determination and called for direct negotiations between the French and Algerian Nationalists.

Before the ballot, amendments by Canada, Norway and Ireland were adopted to remove the self-determination reference — a red flag to the French—and call for negotiations.

Put a PROPER PRICE on your home . . . that's the way to sell it quickly. Ask TOO MUCH and you frighten people away! Ask TOO LITTLE, and before you know it, it's been grabbed up by someone who resells it for a big profit. There's no SUBSTITUTE FOR EXPERIENCE in selling real estate . . . and WE HAVE THE EXPERIENCE! Cairo Buildings Tumble Daily

Hardly a Day Passes When Some Aged Walls Don't Give Way

CAIRO (INS)—Ancient Cairo is tumbling down—literally.

Hardly a day passes without the roar and thud of another old building collapsing, most times with the screams of the dying and injured.

The biggest single disaster claimed 25 lives, with another 45 seriously injured. That was an eight-story apartment building, erected only five years ago.

The owner, immediately arrested, was charged with permitting the use of inferior construction material and building without a license.

During a single week, six buildings in Cairo's old section collapsed. Loss of life this year alone from tumbling buildings has been placed at more than 100.

Harried building inspectors are rushing about the city, condemning structures that show cracks and warning their occupants to "evacuate."

Egyptian officials blame the mounting series of building disasters on the sheer age of some buildings in the old city, a half-dozen sporadic recent earth tremors which have shaken foundations and weakened upper structures, and illegal construction practices by some guilty owners and contractors.

City Sends Cards to Reinstate Voters

More than 400 Pontiac voters stand to have their names removed from election rolls unless they comply with a notice sent them this past week by the city clerk's office.

Clerks reported that cards were mailed to 448 voters whose records show they have not voted in the city in the past four years. If they do not return the attached card in 30 days they will be removed from the records.

There were 386 similar cards sent out last year. There are 37,625 registered voters in Pontiac.

School Superintendent Back at Work Monday

LANSING (AP) — Recovering from illness brought on by fatigue, Dr. Lynn S. Bartett, state superintendent of public instruction, will be back at his desk Monday, an aide reports.

Bartlett, 53, fainted while attending services at St. Mary Cathedral here Tuesday night. His physician diagnosed the ailment as fatigue brought on by a heavy work schedule and a bout with the flu several weeks ago.

Fran's Heart Will Break Without Pals Kukla, Ollie

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — Not long ago when Fran Allison went into a drug store without her puppet chums, Kukla and Ollie, a little girl exclaimed to her mother, "It's the dragon's girl friend, Mommy. But how did she get out of television?"

Well, she's not out of television. Although the team of Kukla, Fran and Ollie is not appearing together presently on the home screen, they're all working — and they miss one another.

The tall, slim Miss Allison recently appeared in "Pinocchio," a TV musical based on the well-known fairy tale about a wooden puppet who became a real boy. And she's regularly featured as Aunt Fanny on the Breakfast Club over ABC radio.

What are her hopes of reunion with Burr Tillstrom's puppets, Kukla and Ollie, who have appeared recently on the Perry Como show and in an anniversary spectacular?

"If I thought I wouldn't be working with Kukla and Ollie again, I'd be heart-broken."

"Kukla, Fran and Ollie" had such a large following that rumors persist of its eventual return to television.

While nothing positive can be reported yet, it seems unlikly that Miss Allison will be "heart-broken."

Warns Families About Children With Same Sex

LONDON (INS)—Families with children of the same sex—all boys or all girls—may face serious adjustment problems.

So said the British medical publication, Family Doctor, which has aired its views on the problem. The journal added:

"The trouble with the one-sex family is that it tends to get right out of balance so that it cannot fit into a world in which the sexes are equally distributed.

"A child may reach 20 regarding the other sex as some strange species from the zoo. Then he or she is quite likely to remain single, or make a disastrous marriage."

The journal cited the case of a family of four boys. They formed a clan, with father at the head. Mother lost all real authority. They did not understand women.

Another case of five girls of another family was quoted. They were like harem inmates. Father's job was merely to pay the bills.

The answer to the problem, said the Family Doctor, is in the hands of the parents. It advised:
