14,600 Air Reserves Mobilized in Ship Crisis

AP Wirephoto

PUEBLO'S EQUIPMENT — External equipment on the U.S. Navy's patrol ship Pueblo is indicated by the numbers. Twin antennae (1) indicate direction of signals being monitored so other devices can home in on them. Long poles (2) support cables apparently for sending messages to submerged submarines. Radar equipment (3) apparently is designed for caroming signals off the troposphere. A convex antenna (4) probably is for listening in on aircraft radio conversations.

Ground Troop Call-Up Possible

WASHINGTON (AP) — On orders of President Johnson, responding to the crisis created by the North Korean capture of the USS Pueblo, the Pentagon today ordered 14,600 reserve airmen to report for active duty immediately.

Related Stories, Pages A-2, B-14, C-9

The total includes 14,000 Air Force and Air National Guard reservists and 600 Navy air reservists.

They could be held on duty for as long as two years.

A White House official raised the possibility of mobilizing some ground troops also, but Army National Guard or Army ground reserve units would be called to active duty.

How long it will take the air reservists' units to be combat-ready was not immediately determined.

The news of the call-up came as another possibility also was speculated on: that some move might be made through the United Nations to recover the Pueblo and the 83 Americans aboard.

The call-up was the first of its sort since October 1962 when 14,000 Air Force Reservists were summoned for a show of force during the Cuban missile crisis.

The reservists called in 1962 were never actually committed in any operations and remained on active duty only one month.

★ ★ ★

In 1961 the United States called up 150,000 men, mostly Army, but also some Air National Guardsmen, for the Berlin crisis. Those reservists were held about 10 months.

ACTION FOLLOWS BRIEFING

Johnson acted shortly after Clark M. Clifford, his choice to become the next Secretary of Defense, had told a Senate committee that a call-up of U. S. military reservists could come about as a result of Far Eastern developments including the seizure of the USS Pueblo by North Korea patrol boats.

Gardner Quits as Head of HEW

WASHINGTON (AP) — The resignation of John W. Gardner as secretary of health, education and welfare was announced by the White House today.

★ ★ ★

Gardner, 55, asked to be relieved of his Cabinet post on or before March 1. He joins a growing list of high-level officials leaving their government posts.

No successor was named immediately.

Gardner, a Republican, joined the President's Cabinet in July 1965.

★ ★ ★

In a letter released by the White House, Gardner said that when he came to Washington to take the HEW post he took a two-year leave of absence from the Carnegie Corporation and had "overstayed that leave half a year."

TO REJOIN FIRM

He said he now planned to return there as a consultant and would be working at "some special projects relating to the problems of the cities."

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara already is leaving the cabinet by March 1 to become president of the World Bank, and the resignation of U. N. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg has been expected early this year.

Published reports had indicated Gardner wished to disassociate himself from the President's policy on Vietnam and was displeased by cuts in the budget his department.

★ ★ ★

Gardner's office denied this Tuesday and said he had not submitted his resignation.

Ouster of Assessor, Board Urged in Avon

A demand for the removal of Avon Township assessor John Marmon and the township's three-man board of review was made last night by the Avon Township Committee for Fairer Taxes.

Headed by Robert Thor, 3238 Donley, a group of about 50 persons appeared before the Township Board to also ask a reduction by Feb. 1 of total millage so that no property owner would pay in excess of 20 mills.

Avon's current millage, including school taxes, varies between 43 and 48 mills.

The group also asked that a competent assessing firm be engaged to reassess all property in Avon Township.

The Committee for Fairer Taxes, which claims to represent from 200 to 600 residents, is composed largely of home owners in the southwestern portion of the township, though Thor claims a representative membership throughout Avon.

COURT ACTION THREATENED

The group has been active for about two years in dispute of township assessing practices and high tax bills.

There has been court action threatened at various times against the townships, but so far none has been taken, and Thor denied last night that his group would ncessarily seek court action to have its most recently presented demands met.

Thor's letter last night charged the assessor with "favoritism and incompetency . . . placing an unfair burden of taxation on the average taxpayers and relieving some favored taxpayers of their just share of the burdens of taxation."

Road Protest Group Asks Improvements

By JEAN SAILE

A protest group known as WHAR (Why Have Awful Roads?) has set out after the three-man Oakland County Road Commission, aiming in the end to have the road group elected rather than appointed.

An estimated 80 officials and residents from 10 townships met last night in Holly to organize a general protest over road conditions.

"Our roads didn't reach their present condition in the last 30 to 60 days and they're not going to be cured in the next 30 to 60 days," said Ben East, WHAR chairman.

East told the disgruntled officials and residents from a wide area of the county, that lasting road improvements might be some time in coming "but we haven't the slightest intention of letting it (the protest) stop here."

Representatives from Addison, Avon, Farmington, Independence, Orion and Pontiac townships joined citizens from Rose, Holly, Groveland and Springfield townships to form a countywide organization with the long-range goal of making the offices of road commissioner elective rather than appointive.

The goal adopted by the group was "to initiate and support legislation aimed at returning to the people a needed measure of democratic control over the County Road Commission, which at present is for all practical purposes answerable to no one."

One of the short-range goals was "to upgrade immediately the maintenance of these (rural) roads by more efficient and regular schedules of maintenance work and by the prompt repair of trouble spots."

Reasons for organizing adopted by the group were set forth in a prepared statement.

The WHAR statement charged that:

'NEGLECTED STEPCHILD'

"For at least 10 years the rural road system has been increasingly the neglected stepchild of the Oakland County Road Commission. The amount and quality of maintenance, apart from winter snowplowing, has declined steadily and almost no construction of gravel roads for replacement purposes has been carried out.

"In addition to serious inconvenience, the results have been dangerous traffic hazards in many cases, damage to vehicles that cannot be estimated, impaired services such as fire and police protection and ambulance service to rural residents, excessive maintenance costs to school bus systems, hardship to

Pontiac Hearing on Open Housing Produced Wide Variety of Opinions

BY BOB WISLER

The public hearing on a proposed open housing ordinance at this week's City Commission meeting produced a variety of opinions.

The most predominant was, according to those in favor, that there is a need for such legislation.

Arguments against ranged far and wide, but they seemed to hit on a few key areas — loss of rights, especially property rights; a possible loss in property value; and the belief that the majority knows best and should be able to decide the rules for the rest of the country.

Complete Ordinance, Page B-10

In some instances there were tinges of outright racism, an apparent lack of understanding, a lack of concern, distrust and even fear.

There was also evident a feeling, shared by many throughout the country, of genuine concern that various levels of government are too often dictating to the average citizen.

The combination and mixture of these feelings can often bring about a discomfort, a gnawing sense that the people no longer control their lives or events, but rather the events are controlling their lives, and they are unable to do anything about it.

STATUS QUO

This is the climate that produces a hunger for the status quo, a clinging to the "way things were" and a resistance to any change.

A belief in the inviolableness of a person's property, perhaps the only steady and unchanging tangible thing in a rapidly changing world, seems sacred.

"Nothing justifies confiscating a person's property rights," one man declared.

Wallace Fruit of 6114 Adamson, who called ex-Alabama Gov. George Wallace "the smartest man I ever talked to," said open housing laws take away property rights.

'BIG BROTHER'

Jean Mielke of 670 E. Walton warned of "Big Brother" and said the ordinance could become a monster.

Another saw it as the "opening wedge" of greater and greater government control. Still others incongruously linked open housing with socialism and communism.

Despite all the clinging to "property rights" and comments that abridging these rights is unconstitutional, the Constitution says little about property rights.

Article V of the Bill of Rights states that no person shall "be deprived of life, liberty or property, without due process of law; nor shall private property be taken for public use, without just compensation."

Car Carried Arsenal

MONROE (AP) — Police said the auto driven by Donald Kopacz, 32, of Lincoln Park contained a small arsenal when it was stopped on the Toledo-toDetroit Freeway.

Confiscated from the car, police said, were eight 22-caliber revolvers, two 32-caliber revolvers, four six-inch knives and one five-inch knife.

Kopacz was fined $475 Wednesday on 10 separate counts of transporting guns without first obtaining a purchasing permit.

OU Stunned by Cut to Per-Student Funds in Proposed Budget

Oakland University is again having serious troubles in getting money from Gov. George Romney.

The university is the only institution of 13 four-year colleges in Michigan to show a decrease in per-student appropriations in the governor's proposed state general fund budget, according to OU Business Director Robert W Swanson.

OU state operating appropriations currently average $1,058 per student compared to a proposed $993 for the 1968-69 fiscal year—a reduction of $65 per student.

Appropriations for the 13 Michigan colleges currently average $1,157 per student compared to a proposed $1,231—a $74 increase.

★ ★ ★

"I am stunned with the budget recommendation," said Chancellor Durward B. Varner.

ERROR IN CALCULATIONS?

"I can only assume there has been an error in the calculations or misconception of the nature and purpose of Oakland University, and I am anxious to have an opportunity to explore this possibility with the governor."

The university had requested $6.3 million in operating appropriations for next year, a $1.9-million increase over the current appropriation.

Romney suggested a $507,000 increase, or 26 per cent of what OU had requested. The total appropriation would then be $4.9 million.

★ ★ ★

"This represents an 11 per cent increase in total appropriations over the current year when we are expecting a 19 per cent increase in enrollment," Swanson said.

3 PCT. INCREASE

During 1967-68, the university received a 3 per cent increase of $133,000 when enrollment soared 26 per cent.

Cutbacks were thus necessary for the current year in freshmen advising program, library acquisitions, equipment and supply purchases, security coverage, third semester course offerings and maintenance of language laboratories.

"Drastic program revisions" would again be necessary this forthcoming year, Swanson said.

★ ★ ★

He said OU would "not have a dollar" to provide for increased enrollment, hire additional faculty, buy needed instructional supplies and library books, operate a new health center, maintain the Meadow Brook estate or expand the public safety department.

★ ★ ★

The $507,000 increase and more would be exhausted by increases in current faculty and staff salaries, fringe benefits, Social Security and retirements and inflationary costs and operation of a new engineering building, according to Swanson.

Pueblo Skipper 'Confesses'

Pentagon Denounces N. Korean Broadcast

SEOUL (AP) — The North Korean radio broadcast today what it said was the voice of Cmdr. Lloyd M. Bucher confessing that his U.S. intelligence ship Pueblo was spying in North Korean territorial waters when it was captured.

★ ★ ★

There were only minor variations from a written "confession" issued earlier which contained a hint the North Koreans may release Bucher and his crew.

★ ★ ★

The voice delivered the statement hurriedly in a monotone, stumbling over some of the words.

In Washington, the Defense Department already had denounced the purported confession as "a travesty on the facts." Assistant Secretary of Defense Phil G. Goulding said: "The style and wording of the document provide unmistakable evidence in themselves that this was not written or prepared by an American."

CRIMINAL ACT

The last two paragraphs of the statement said: "I and my crew have perpetrated such a grave criminal act, but our parents and wives and children at home are anxiously waiting for us to return in safety.

"Therefore, we only hope, and it is the greatest desire of myself and all my crew, that we will be forgiven leniently by the government of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea."

If, as Goulding suggested, the statement was written by the Koreans, their inclusion of these paragraphs could indicate they are ready to release the 83-man crew of the Pueblo. One suggestion in Washington is that the Communists will free the ship after they have had time to study its electronic gear.

Viet Volunteer Repeats Effort

GI Trying to Keep His Brother Home

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — A battle-scarred 19-year-old soldier is heading back to Vietnam for the same reason that brought on his earlier tour—to keep his older brother from having to serve there.

Spec. 4 Thomas Clark volunteered for the war zone 10 months ago so that the brother, Spec. 4 Gary Clark, 22, could remain in this country with his wife, who was expecting a child.

★ ★ ★

The younger Clark, who suffered a fragment wound in the shoulder and returned home on leave, now is volunteering for an extension because Gary again has orders to Vietnam.

"He wanted to stay but didn't want me to go back and risk my life again," Thomas said Wednesday. "I convinced him it was better for him and his family if I went."

ON LEAVE

Both brothers have been spending leave with relatives at suburban Soddy, Tenn.

On Tuesday night, Clark saw his older brother off to Oakland, Calif., where Gary, whose first child was born three months ago, is to await shipment to Vietnam.

"I knew how he felt about the baby and his family," said the younger brother, who is unmarried.

Thomas said he is seeking to return because of a Pentagon policy that allows only one brother at a time in a war zone. During Thomas' tour in Vietnam, Gary was stationed near Seattle, Wash.

OFFERED KOREA

He added that he understood the Army offered to let his brother go to Korea instead of Vietnam this time.

"But I think that is the same thing," he said. "I think it's still classified as a combat zone."

Hamlin Fete Is Expected to Draw 1,000

A high point in 25 years of public service will be reached tomorrow night by Delos Hamlin, chairman of the Oakland County Board of Supervisors.

About 1,000 friends, associates and admirers will be present at a banquet in his honor starting 7 p.m., at the New Raleigh House, Telegraph at 10 Mile, Southfield.

HAMLIN

Theme of the dinner is "A Silver Anniversary of Service," and it pays tribute to Hamlin's achievements which include serving as county board chairman for an unprecedented 12 straight years.

Hamlin, 63, began his career as a Farmington city councilman. He is a retired real estate developer and devotes most of his time in the interest of the county.

★ ★ ★

The board of supervisors has set aside tomorrow as "Delos Hamlin Day" and tickets for the banquet to honor him numbered almost a thousand early this week.

Among dignitaries expected to attend are: Lt. Gov. William G. Milliken, Sen. Philip A. Hart, Congressman William R. Broomfield, R-16th District; and Jack H. McDonald, R-19th District.

2 Die, 7 Hurt in Blast, Fire

BENTON HARBOR (AP) — A young brother and sister were killed and seven other persons injured today in an explosion and fire which damaged a family apartment home in nearby Benton Township.

Two-year-old Anthony Bickman was dead on arrival at the University of Michigan Burn Center at Ann Arbor and his sister, Linda, 5, died there several hours later.

Police said Willie Bickam and Leroy Taylor, heads of the two families which lived in the building, were driving home from work together when they heard an explosion and saw flames burst from the building.

U.S. Bombers Slam N. Viets at Khe Sanh

SAIGON (AP) — An armada of American bombers pounded North Vietnamese gun and troop concentrations threatening U.S. Marines in the Khe Sanh valley for the sixth straight day today in one of the biggest air campaigns of the Vietnam war.

Despite nearly 6,000 tons of bombs and record air attacks for the third day in a row against the dug-in North Vietnamese, enemy guns continued to hit at the Khe Sanh base and the three strategic hills the Marines control just to the northwest.

By noon today, the North Vietnamese had dropped another 20 mortar and rocket rounds on the Marine positions protecting the northwestern approaches to South Vietnam 16 miles below the demilitarized zone.

The day's barrage followed on the heels of perhaps 300 rounds of heavy artillery, rockets and mortars that Communist gunners slammed into the combat base and the adjacent peaks Wednesday night, killing seven Leathernecks and wounding another 77. Of the 77 wounded, 37 had to be evacuated.

★ ★ ★

The North Vietnamese fired their 152mm guns, their biggest artillery, at Khe Sanh for the first time.

U.S. officers continued to expect a big enemy offensive against Khe Sanh. But the heaviest ground fighting reported was on the central coast some 230 miles to the southeast, where troops of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division and the South Korean Capital Division reported 179 North Vietnamese killed in fighting Tuesday and Wednesday near Phu Cat.

Man Is Guilty in Kin's Slaying

A jury yesterday afternoon found Paul McDonald, 40, guilty of first-degree murder in the May 2, 1967, death of his mother-in-law.

Circuit Court Judge William R. Beasley set sentencing for Feb. 13.

McDonald, who lived at 3399 Shimmons, Pontiac Township, at the time of the shooting, has been held in Oakland County Jail since he was arrested in May.

Witnesses testified Mrs. Arthur Falls, 1315 Gettysburg, Avon Township, was shot in the chest by a 32-caliber rifle.

Mrs. Falls' husband and son, Gary, 22, testified that she was shot by McDonald in their presence.

Falls said he and Gary were working outside when McDonald approached their home and forced them at gunpoint into the house and down a flight of basement stairs.

As they were going down the stairs, Mrs. Falls was coming up, and McDonald shot the 49-year-old woman, they said. Mrs. Falls died instantly.

McDonald is being held without bond pending sentencing next month.

3 Senators Urge Probe of Teamster News Strike

From Our News Wires

LANSING — Three area Republican state senators called yesterday for a legislative investigation of the Teamsters union strike against the Detroit News.

★ ★ ★

The three, Sens. Robert Huber and George Kuhn of Birmingham and L. Harvey Lodge of Waterford, sponsored a resolution for creation of a special Senate committee to look into the strike. The resolution was referred to committee.

U.S. Sen. Robert Griffin, R-Mich., called for a similar congressional investigation Monday in a speech on the Senate floor.

Huber said published reports about the strike "infuriated" him.

"The problem of the Detroit newspapers is a Michigan problem," he said.

"It is time we find out why they have been plagued with four strikes since 1955 . . . and find out once and for all why the strikes occurred, what's behind them and what can be done to prevent them in the future."

Teamsters Local 372 went on strike against the News Nov. 16.

The Detroit Free Press, the city's only other major newspaper, suspended publication the next day.

Four "interim" newspapers were formed to fill the newspaper vacuum.

One never started, another folded and the remaining two were closed by strikes by the same Teamsters local.

Protest Group Seeks Better Roads, Elected Panel

BEN EAST
County WHAR Chairman

RFD mail carriers, loss of revenue to rural businesses and damage to basements and home from backup waters left lying on the roads."

The statement further claimed that, the number of rural residents is growing rapidly, resulting in accelerated use of these roads. In addition, parks, recreation areas, resorts and rural businesses have further increased the traffic load in many areas. The expanding rural population and the deteriorating roads are on a collision course. A better rural road program is imperative."

A decision to organize units on a township basis with an overall executive committee also was reached by the group last night. Membership dues, to meet secretarial and lobbying expenses, were approved.

TREASURER

Robert H. Warden of Holly was named treasurer.

A show of hands indicated that no one present believed an extra millage issue in their areas for the purpose of improving roads would carry at the present time.

★ ★ ★

"Let's find out just what is being done with the state gas and weight tax money which the road commission gets," said East "We may wind up having to seek extra millage, but first, if money is available let's try to get our hands on it."

★ ★ ★

The plight of smaller tax base townships such as Addison, Rose and Holly which have little money in their general funds was pointed out by several in attendance.

FUND ALLOCATION

New construction is handled by the county on a matching fund basis. The amount allotted by the county is expected to be matched by the local area. In most instances the local money comes from the township general fund, but in some areas additional millage for that purpose has been voted.

Said Orion Township Supervisor John Lessiter: "Last year we tried to get road money supplemented from the county's general fund, but it was voted down."

Sewer List Accepted by Bloomfield Twp.

BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — The Township Board held a public hearing last night on proposed special assessments for a sanitary sewer in Eastover Farms subdivision.

★ ★ ★

The board accepted the assessment roll and set a tentative date of March 11 for a hearing on the roll.

Court Clears Way for Novi Cityhood Vote

NOVI — The way has been cleared for this village to hold an election to try to become a home-rule city.

The decision on the appeal of the village Committee for City Incorporation with the State Court of Appeals was received yesterday.

The Appeals Court decision set aside the decision of Oakland County Circuit Court Judge William J. Beer, who last Sept. 19 reversed the decision of Circuit Court Judge James S. Thorburn.

Thorburn ruled on Dec. 17, 1966, that Novi could hold an incorporation election.

★ ★ ★

Although the village didn't have 500 people per square mile, stated Thorburn, the election meant no change of any boundaries and represented one type of incorporated entity becoming another type of incorporated entity.

Thorburn's decision came as a result of an appeal made by Novi Township.

The State Appeals Court ruled that "No judgment shall be set aside or vacated by any circuit judge except the one who made the judgment unless he is absent or unable to act . . . ."

The petitions for an incorporation election are still on file with the village clerk. They had brought about the setting of an election for last April 4 which was halted by the possibility of an injunction from Thorburn.

Road Commission Cites Fund Allocation, Costs

A letter sent earlier this month to Oakland County township boards puts forth what road commissioners call a few facts of life.

Signed by Frazer W. Staman, chairman, Sol D. Lomerson, vice chairman, and Paul W. McGovern, member, the letter points out that the State Legislature has recently determined that only 34 per cent of the gas-weight tax will be used for county roads. The remainder is to go to the cities and state.

The figure represents a 1 per cent decrease to townships from last year.

The letter also points out that the Legislature has decreed that 75 per cent of the funds coming to the counties is for primary road maintenance and improvement with the greater need cited as being for better access to freeways, work locations, shopping centers, recreation, etc.

★ ★ ★

The letter calls the $1.1 million received last year by the county "painfully inadequate."

SPENDING

"We spent approximately $1.7 million and made up the difference by transferring some primary road funds," the letter reports.

If any of this money were taken away and applied directly to the townships, the commission believes it would be unable to continue on its present 50 per cent matching fund basis for local improvements.

Costs cited by the commission are as follows:

- One grader and operator are necessary for every 50 to 75 miles of gravel road at an annual cost of at least $20,000.

★ ★ ★

- A dump truck and driver will be needed for every 30 to 50 miles of road at an annual cost of over $18,000.
- Supervision will cost at least $50 per mile per year.

★ ★ ★

- Adequate preparation of a road for paving and a 2½"x22' bituminous aggregate pavement will average over $100,000 per mile.

★ ★ ★

- Gravel delivered on the road costs from $2.00 to $3.00 per cubic yard, and it costs about $885.00 per mile just to add one inch of gravel.

★ ★ ★

- Ditching costs from $.50 to $1.00 per foot and that is only on one side of the road.

★ ★ ★

- Calcium chloride costs at least $320 per mile per year.
- Pavement repair or replacement costs about $3.00 to $7.00 per square yard.

★ ★ ★

- Such things as tree trimming and removal, grass mowing, signs, roadside cleanup, engineering and administration are also sizable cost items that cannot be avoided.

★ ★ ★

- All costs are going up over 5 per cent each year.

Ouster of Avon Assessor, Board Is Urged

Removal of board of review members was asked for alleged "incompetency and their efforts to discriminate and ridicule the taxpayers when they appear before them."

The letter also asked that no new sewers, water lines or drains be constructed in any part of the township without a vote of the people to be affected.

State law currently provides that such utilities may be installed without a vote on the basis of necessary health safeguards.

Thor asked in his committee letter that his group be allowed to approve any assessing firm hired by the township as well as any new appointments to the board of review.

Thor said he personally had not paid his 1966 taxes and would not pay his 1967 taxes as a form of protest.

LETTER IS FILED

After an announcement by Supervisor Cyril Miller that a county-level meeting of the legislative, ways and means and equalization committees had been called for purposes of seeking a constitutional amendment regarding assessing, Thor's letter was voted to be received and filed.

Miller said the county meeting would take place at 9:30 a.m. Feb. 7 at the courthouse.

In other business last night, the township voted to allow property owners in Avon Heights subdivision to withdraw from the township's Phase I sewer and water program. Petitions had been received from 40 of 70 lotowners in the area.

★ ★ ★

An ordinance controlling door-to-door solicitations in the township was approved.

Ballet Program Set for 10 Weeks in Troy

TROY — The parks and recreation department has announced the start of a new 10-week dance program in ballet.

Classes will be held for grades 1-3 from 3-4 p.m. and for grades 4-6 from 4-5 p.m.

★ ★ ★

They will take place at Niles School, 201 W. Square Lake, Tuesdays; Poppleton School, 1480 W. Big Beaver, Wednesdays; and Morse School, 550 Hickory, Fridays.

Children from all schools and districts may participate. The fee is 50 cents per lesson.

No Action Is Taken by Milford Council

MILFORD—Although the Village Council spent several hours at its last meeting discussing road, sewer and water system improvements, no specific action was taken.

The council did set Feb. 12 for an executive session to continue the discussion and possibly decide on some action, said Village Manager Joseph S. Brophy.

He reported that while roads are in fair condition, they will soon need more expensive work than general maintenance. The public trunk line sewers provide service for most of the village, but no lines are extended to the undeveloped areas.

Public water is available to residents, but it has high iron content, informed the manager.

The next Village Council meeting is Feb. 5 at 8 p.m., one week earlier than the regular date.

Slovak Tells of His Escape

By BETTY ANN SCHULTZ

WALLED LAKE — The 25-year-old Czechoslovakian swam seven miles of the Adriatic Sea to win his freedom.

When he reached the shore of Trieste, Italy — after five hours in the water and despite a noticeable tear in his swim trunks — he shouted, "Viva Italy! Viva Italy!"

Some Italians went by in a car, fearing to give a ride to this joyously raving man holding his torn swimsuit.

But the Italians immediately sent the police. They took the more excited than exhausted swimmer, Vlado Mazak, to a camp run by the U.S. Department of Immigration.

★ ★ ★

After several months in two camps and a Slovakian priests' home in Rome, a jet brought the Slovak to the U.S.

STORY TRANSLATED

Vlado Mazak, however, can only tell his story through his father John Mazak and his stepmother, Mary, owners and operators of Shady Lane apartments and cottages at 42820 14 Mile.

But since his arrival here in mid-December, he has been learning English from Mrs. Mazak. He hopes to soon join his father in tool and die work at an auto company.

In fact, it's because of Mr. and Mrs. Mazak's escape, also from Bratislava, Czechoslovakia, in 1950 — besides a longing to live in a free country — that Vlado jumped into the water off Yugoslavia last Aug. 8.

★ ★ ★

Vlado sits relaxed and smiling as he talks about the possibility of death by sharks in the Adriatic.

He says that he accepted the chance of dying but didn't panic while swimming because of his excitement over reaching freedom.

The bright-eyed refugee reported that he had been contemplating his journey for years, inspired by the appeals to come here sent annually by Mr. and Mrs. Mazak.

The appeals were in the form of affidavits swearing that Vlado would have a place to stay in the U.S.

Each year, Vlado would take the affidavit to the Czechoslovakian police and be refused even a passport for a three-to-six month vacation here.

Mr. Mazak pointed out that police were watchful of and somewhat tough on Vlado as well as remaining members of his family — his first wife, a daughter older than Vlado, and a son and another daughter younger than Vlado.

A passport for a two-week vacation in Bulgaria began Vlado's escape. Instead of going on to Bulgaria, the Slovak got off the train in Belgrade.

He took another train — in which he left all his travel possessions — and a taxi to the sea.

★ ★ ★

Mr. and Mrs. Mazak knew Vlado had escaped when he sent for plane fare when in Rome.

While Vlado is becoming Americanized, he can be assured of the understanding of his parents. Their escape was through waist-high snow.

Romeo Vote on 8-Mill School Tax Near

ROMEO — The first deficit budget in "many years" and cutbacks in several areas have led to a request for increased operating millage in this school district, according to Supt. of Schools T. C. Filppula.

★ ★ ★

Voters will decide Monday whether to approve a total of eight mills — three renewable and five new — for five years.

How large will the deficit run? "We think right now that if we hold the line it will be around $65,000. Previous estimates had ranged as high as $100,000," Filppula said.

The board of education, faced with the probability of being in the red at year's end, has pared spending in several areas, among them teaching supplies, transportation, field trips, and overtime work for administrators and teachers, according to Filppula.

"If the millage doesn't pass," Filppula continued, "we'll have to sit down and see what else can be cut."

AFFECTED AREAS

Areas likely to be affected, he said, include workshops and conferences, extra-curricular activities and maintenance. An increase in the average class size, presently pegged at 25-30, would also probably be necessary, he added.

Adding to the district's problems is a comparatively low equalized valuation in relation to the number of students. "We have $10,892 in equalized valuation per student," Filppula explained. "One district in Macomb County had $26,500, and another has $22,500."

The county average is about $12,900 and the state average about $14,500, he said.

The number of students in the district is steadily increasing too, raising the possibility of bonding issues for new classrooms in the next few years.

CITIZENS PANEL

A citizens committee has been studying the building problem to determine what action will be necessary, Filppula said, noting, "Our junior and senior high schools are just about at capacity."

★ ★ ★

The superintendent was optimistic concerning Monday's vote: "We're very hopeful. Indications are that there is a lot of interest in this election. There have been more applications received for absentee ballots than ever before.

If Your Home Is Valued at:	Your State Equalized Valuation Would Be:	8 Mills Would Increase Your Taxes by:	5 Mills Would Increase Your Taxes by:

Discord Remains After Birmingham School Pact

BIRMINGHAM — The steady singsong of contract negotiations is gone from this school district, but a discordant melody lingers on.

Spokesmen for the parties concerned have expressed fears that difficulties remain despite the recent settlement, which ended 10 months of talks between the board of education and the Birmingham Education Association (BEA).

All are happy that a contract has been reached. "I don't think there's a single soul in the Birmingham school district who isn't glad there's a contract," says Mrs. Endre Mayer, cochairman of the Association of Birmingham Citizens for Schools (ABC'S).

However, elements of the bitterness disclosed in an ABC'S survey of teachers in December remain, she said.

"We have a much deeper problem here," Mrs. Mayer emphasized, "and it's not going to go away with a contract."

'FIRST STEP'

Many teachers responding to the ABC'S questionnaire indicated resentment at alleged "lack of respect" of the administration for teachers and dissatisfaction with the curriculum.

"I think the contract was a first step," Mrs. Mayer said, "but it's a small one on a long trip. I think it passed because there were so many tired teachers."

Don Cameron, BEA executive secretary, concurred to some extent: "The teachers aren't happy with the contract in terms of the amount of money. They don't feel that the salary schedule is as high as it should be."

The new salary package, which totals about $442,000, provides for an average across-the-board raise of $480. Another $58,000 in fringe benefits and supplemental pay is included.

SALARY SCHEDULE

The schedule calls for a BA minimum of $6,300 and maximum of $10,375; an MA minimum of $6,800 and maximum of $11,500; and an MA plus 30 hours minimum of $7,100 and maximum of $11,900.

However, Cameron continued, the outlook is not all bleak. He pointed to "inroads" in "providing channels for communication," such as the allotment of four posts for teachers on the curriculum council and the recently established "problems committee," composed of administrators, teachers and citizens.

"The channels are there now, and I think it's up to both sides to take advantage of them," Cameron said.

Richard Zweiback, director of personnel administration and chief negotiator for the board of education, also was optimistic about the possibility of improved board-BEA relations in the future.

"In the process of going through negotiations, both parties have come to understand each other's position and the problems each group faces better than in the past," Zweiback explained.

He also viewed the BEA's ratification vote as evidence of improved conditions, commenting, "The fact that there was a 5-1 vote in favor indicates to us that there have been some changes of opinion."

Many teachers also stated in answering the ABC'S questionnaire that they would leave the district after the school year ends.

★ ★ ★

"Negotiations should start again in six weeks," Mrs. Mayer said. "They should start right away and show some promise, or we won't be able to keep teachers from going."

★ ★ ★

Cameron commented, "I feel that in the negotiations coming up, the best thing that could happen for the district is that settlement on a salary schedule comparable to those in other districts be reached before teachers go home (in June)."

Novi Hires Detroiter as Heating Inspector, Water Superintendent

NOVI — Roy C. Marr is the village's new sewer and water superintendent and plumbing and heating inspector.

He is a resident of Detroit and an employe at a Detroit plumbing business doing work in this area.

He was hired for $7,500 a year in the superintendent position and $2,500 a year in the inspector position.

The Village Council has also hired for $21,950 Johnson and Anderson engineering firm to make plans for an estimated $391,000 road improvement project.

To be paved are Nine Mile from Taft to Meadowbrook, Taft from the Northville city limits to Nine Mile and from 10 Mile north to the new high school, and a half-mile of Wixom Road from 12 Mile down.

Back Commission's 'Housing' Action

The Pontiac City Commission deserves a good deal of credit for standing up and squarely meeting the tough problem of open housing legislation.

They could have ignored it. They could have let it lie until after the April municipal election. But they didn't.

Commissioners began considering an open housing ordinance last fall. This week they voted 4-3 to introduce the ordinance and schedule it for final adoption at next Tuesday's commission meeting.

★ ★ ★

The four-man majority deserves special merit in our opinion for its courageous attempt to provide leadership in attacking a long-standing ill of our social structure. Fortunately, an attempt to sidestep the issue and place it on a ballot for the electorate to decide was defeated by the same four-man majority.

We are not opposed to a public vote as such, but feel the impetus for same should come in the form of referendum petitions from the public. For the commission to place it on the ballot, would simply undo the leadership displayed by the majority of commissioners.

Finally, the people themselves, who attended Tuesday's commission meeting, deserve special praise. They debated this emotionally charged issue with style and grace for more than three hours. The discussion didn't degenerate into a shouting match which is so often the case when such issues are debated.

While Tuesday's vote was only the first step in adoption of an open housing ordinance, we support the commission's decision and feel it is indicative of similar passage when the ordinance comes before commissioners for final adoption next week.

Highway Hazards Created by Bad Drivers

No other organization has done more to promote highway safety than the Automobile Club of Michigan. Its "Bring 'Em Back Alive" campaign has performed yeoman service in doing just that for the millions of motorists who jam Michigan's highways over the Memorial Day, July 4th and Labor Day holiday periods.

The Club's report for the first nine months of 1967 contains both cheering and chilling findings. Although the Labor Day weekend with its 48 highway fatalities set an all-time record, 3,700,000 Michigan drivers safely covered 466 million miles—a 5 per cent gain over the 1966 holiday — with less than one-thousandths of 1 per cent involved in fatal accidents.

For the January-September period, fatal accidents decreased by 13.4 per cent and injury accidents by 11 per cent comparably with 1966.

Significantly, a study of the 48 Labor Day fatalities showed that only a few more than half the 57 drivers involved in fatal accidents qualified as "normal" drivers.

Nearly 45 per cent had more than the so-called lifetime average of four points. Nearly 19 per cent had been called in by the Secretary of State or subjected to administrative action some time in their driving careers. The 10 worst drivers averaged 24.8 points each on driving records which, for the most part, went back only six years. One had 40 points.

★ ★ ★

Yet this type of driver represents only about 2 per cent of the driving public.

Clearly, then, highway hazard is attributable almost entirely to reckless and irresponsible drivers who not only account for the preponderance of accidents involving themselves but endanger the safety of the multitude of rational and responsible drivers.

It is this type of bad driver that the State, through increasingly tight regulation and law enforcement, must eliminate for the benefit of every good driver.

Woodsman Finds Bears' Interest Hard to Bear

A woodsman in the state of Washington is concerned over the way black bears gang up outside his cabin to watch television through his window — even when the well-known bear star "Gentle Ben" isn't performing.

★ ★ ★

The forester maintains it just isn't normal for a bear to stay up half the night watching the late, late show.

Of course, his visitors may be thinking the same thing about him.

After all, who should be able to bear up under it better than they — even though the program may not be a honey?

Senate Seniority: Wait Your Turn

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON — It takes chickens a long time to roost in the Senate. But by then they're old-timers. Three old-timers are leaving this year. But the men who succeed them are no kids.

MARLOW

The typical Senate newcomer plays it quiet a few years before trying to assert himself and even then it takes more years before he obtains real power by becoming chairman of one of the Senate's standing committees.

That's taken care of by the seniority system, religiously observed. Translated into simple English it means: Take your time and wait your turn.

It goes like this: A newcomer has to wait in line behind all the party's other senators who have been there longer. He starts out as the lov man on the committees.

★ ★ ★

Then as the years pass and one by one those ahead of him disappear because of death, resignation which seldom happens, retirement or failure to get reelected, he moves up until finally the chairman disappears and he becomes chairman.

MAJORITY RULES

As an example of what seniority means: In the Senate there are 16 standing committees. All the chairmen are Democrats because Democrats are in a majority in the Senate.

Waiting in their seniority line for the day when the Democrats lose their majority are the Republicans.

Of the 16 Democratic chairmen one, Sen. Carl Hayden of Arizona, is 90. He's been in Congress 56 years. Six others are in their 70s. Six are in their 60s. Two are in their 50s. Only one, Sen. Russell B. Long of Louisiana, is under 50. He's 49.

★ ★ ★

If the Democrats lose Senate control the top-ranking Republicans on these committees will be the new chairmen. As a group they are even older than the Democratic chairmen.

YOUNGEST 57

Seven are over 70, eight are in their 60s, and only one, Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel of California, is under 60. He's 57.

In recent weeks three old-timers on these commitees — all in their 70s — announced they were retiring from the Senate this year.

Lister Hill, Alabama Democrat, and chairman of the Labor and Public Welfare Committee, at 73 is giving up after 44 years in Congress, 30 of them in the Senate.

The next Democrat in line to succeed Hill is no chicken, either. He's Wayne Morse of Oregon, 67. But whether Morse takes over from Hill depends upon the Democrats' ability to retain a majority in this year's election and Morse's ability to win reelection.

REPLACEMENT OLDER

Bourke B. Hickenlooper of Iowa, 71, is retiring his post on the Foreign Relations Committee. But the man who becomes ranking Republican on this committee when Hickenlooper leaves is even older than he is. He is Sen. George D. Aiken, 75, of Vermont.

Frank Carlson of Kansas, ranking Republican on the Post Office and Civil Service Committee, is retiring at 75. Taking over will be a Hawaiian, Hiram L. Fong, 60.

An Interesting Point—

David Lawrence Says:

LBJ Has Publicity Advantage

WASHINGTON — Another example was given last night of how difficult it is for the party out of power to over come the advantage which an incumbent president has in television and newspaper space.

LAWRENCE

For President Johnson on Jan. 17 had an hour of television time on all three networks simultaneously. The Republicans, of course, have not picked their presidential candidate yet, but they were offered "equal time" on the same night by the Columbia Broadcasting Co. They were not in a position to put on their replies so quickly and accepted "equal time" for a program a week later.

It may well be assumed that President Johnson had a bigger audience by far than did the 17 Republicans in their rebuttal on Jan. 24. But the Republican speakers did make a deep impression.

One reason for this was the fact that they offered a variety of speakers—eight senators and nine representatives — each of whom talked approximately two minutes. Their speeches were succinct and to the point.

Mrs. Charlotte T. Reid, representative from Illinois, whose son is in Vietnam, deplored protests and disunity and dramatically called for support of the war by the American people so that the lives which have been lost in Vietnam will not have been "sacrificed in vain."

OBVIOUS IMPRINT

She made an obvious imprint on the audience of several hundred—mostly members of Congress and their wives—who were seated in the auditorium of the Senate Office Building. They applauded with an unmistakable earnestness.

The Republican speakers chosen for the program were for the most part from the younger group in Congress. All of the participants made it a point to use simple English to express themselves in words that listeners in the television audience could understand, since many persons are not intimately familiar with public affairs.

While former President Eisenhower started off the program with the statement that the times are as critical as any he has known, he did not deal with specific questions, as did other speakers who followed him.

Sen. George Murphy of California, a former actor, who was the moderator of the TV presentation, made his introductions and comments with good showmanship.

There can be little doubt that those who watched the program thought that, on the whole, it was a very interesting and effective response to the State of the Union message of the President. But it may well be conjectured that the audience—a week after Mr. Johnson's address was delivered and over only one network—was just a fraction of those who heard the President.

Millions of people did not even know until afterwards that the program was on TV. No such advance publicity was given it as the Pesident enjoyed. This is not surprising, as presidents make more news and get far more space than their opposition.

In the newspapers, the attention given to the Republican TV program was relatively little. Mr. Johnson probably was noticed by even more readers the same morning when a picture appeared on the sports pages showing him receiving a baseball bat from a player who starred last October in the World Series.

Bob Considine Says:

Taxicab Ride Brightens Pat O'Brien's NY Visit

NEW YORK — Pat O'Brien's current trip to New York has been a success no matter what else happens. He emerged from the New York Athletic Club the other morning, faced with getting to the Brooklyn studios of NBC where he was rehearsing for a show, but was turned down by the first two cabs he flagged.

CONSIDINE

"Finally, I threw myself on the mercy of the third guy," Pat said. "I told him who I was and what a fix I was in and he agreed to take me.

"Well, said Pat, "there we were, big as life, tooling for Brooklyn when I look out across the water and there, like the great doll she is, stood the Statue of Liberty. I said to my driver, 'My god, isn't she beautiful. Think what she's meant to our country.'

"He never turned around," Pat said. "All the guy said was 'yeah, and now de Gaulle wants her back.'"

The reopening of Ford's Theater in Washington, with proper prayer, poem and prose, recalls a literary effort which flopped after a limited run but which had unforgettable overtones.

It was called "If Booth Had Missed," or some such title. Scene one, act one sees the horrendous ham, Booth, con the boob security man into letting him into the president's box then, once inside, he pulls out the derringer and blasts away.

He misses.

★ ★ ★

Booth is quickly seized, carried off, and, climaxing a fair trial, is hanged. The president, after bawling hell out of his daffy wife for dragging him out to a theater party on Good Friday, and dam' near gittin' him kilt, then embarks on the three years and 11 months left of his second term.

He runs into the same antebellum troubles that Andrew Johnson encountered and, in the end, barely escapes impeachment. In retirement, he is as forgotten as, well, Johnson. Andrew, that is.

Another American Cancer Society fund-raising drive is getting under way, this time under the chairmanship of Lawrence Welk. It will involve thousands of good-hearted volunteer workers, millions of contributors, and able doctors and research people who will use the approximately $50 million raised to continue the fight against this cruelest of the killers of man.

It must be wearisome to some constant souls who cough up a few bucks every year to be hit again this year by the timid cancer volunteer lady at the front door.

Cancer is like the war in Vietnam. It never seems to be solved, is frustrating, often makes no sense, costs exorbitantly, kills good people without substantial reason — can't be simply ignored. But there it is, and something must be done about it.

★ ★ ★

Part of the restlessness and sometimes rebellion of our youth can be traced to the hot breath of Gen. Hershey upon the backs of their necks.

GRIM DEADLINE

Their elders do not always understand that they too, are under a grim deadline. About one in every four of them will be hit by cancer in what's left of their lifetime. That's a higher conscription rate than the draft. And college doesn't help.

Voice of the People:

Reader Submits Views on President's Message

If it did not touch so many serious matters, the State of the Union message would be almost laughable. The Chief Executive says that because of the cost of the Vietnam war he will submit a "tight" budget of some $186 billion. This is $10 billion more than this year's spending. To call this budget tight is stretching things, especially when Mr. Johnson insists that most of the increases are mandatory.

★ ★ ★

Any ordinary citizen can easily think of many expensive Federal programs, such as farm subsidy, getting to the moon, urban renewal and public housing with rent subsidies, that should be reduced or postponed.

★ ★ ★

Spend more and tax more is the tone of President Johnson's message. This is an election year and we are witnessing a classic example of politics being placed ahead of the good of our country.

Vietnam Serviceman Gives View on War

Here we are in the service, proudly serving the country we love, while back home they're protesting. We disagree. We don't like it. While we fight, our people back home fight also. We fight and possibly die while they protest. We don't like war any more than anyone else. Why should we fight while they protest back home?

★ ★ ★

I'm here but someday I'll be home with my girl like the rest. While I'm here they protest. Why? Because war is no good. I agree. Some come overseas and some go home. Some are alive and some are not, and for those I'm very sorry. But we are to carry on their image, hoping to gain peace eventually.

Discuss Problems of School Bus Drivers

I am a school bus driver and wait for children at their stop if they are in sight and put forth some effort to get to the bus. Some well-meaning parents should drive a bus and see how long it would take to get to school if we waited for every straggler.

EXPERIENCED IN CHILD DELIVERY

School bus drivers have rules to follow and one is not to wait for stragglers. If they did, not only would children already on the bus be late, but others standing at their stops and those waiting for the next run would be delayed. There are times when a child is late and really trying to make the bus, and generally the driver will wait for him.

★ ★ ★

Those who drive children to school do a terrific job. They need our help and cooperation, not our criticism. Let's let our children know we are behind those drivers.

'Agree With Taxpayers on Side Streets'

I agree with taxpayers who live on side streets and don't receive services. People who work in the factories think a clean sweep of the white collars would do this town good. We work 45 to 50 hours a week so our families can live but by the time we receive a check it has been taxed two or three times.

Views Judge's Management of Accused Man

I believe a certain Oakland County judge should be impeached for his management of an accused suspect involving kidnaping—a federal offense—molesting and assault of two small children. The judge allowed the accused suspect to go free on $1,000 bond, which he later changed to $2,000 after much protest by concerned citizens.

★ ★ ★

The man suspected of these crimes is walking the streets with other innocent children at his mercy. When crime and violence are at an all-time high, what chance has anyone of defending himself and his family when our duly elected officials refuse to use the full extent of the law to protect all citizens?

MRS. DOROTHY LACHANCE

'Our City Needs Adequate Police Protection'

We cannot have adequate protection without an adequate police force. If Chief Hanger says we need 24 more men on the force, he is in position to know this is true. Let's remove some of the lesser things until the money is in sight, but give us our police protection.

J. HUTCHINSON
95½ MARK

As a new resident to the area, I'm not too well informed regarding Pontiac's police quota or salary. However, I recently witnessed the loss of three efficient, dependable policemen in the Pittsburgh suburb where we lived. These men left the force because of low pay and overwork caused by too few men on the force. Later, salaries were raised and additional men were hired, but after losing the services of three well-trained men.

★ ★ ★

Our police forces can't hope to attract and retain good men unless they are given a living wage and sufficient fellow officers to maintain the peace. I hope Pontiac does not learn this too late.

A CONCERNED NEW RESIDENT

Question and Answer

What legal procedure do you have to go through to protect your private property from those sno-sleds?

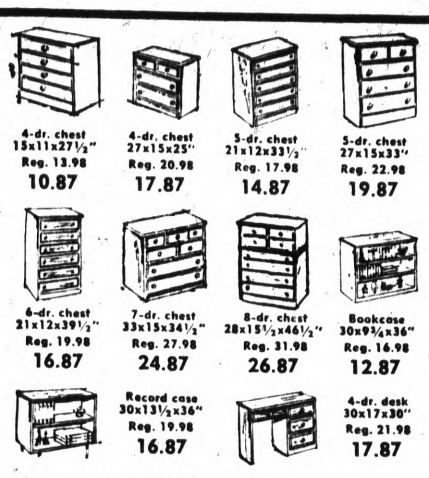

I WONDER

REPLY

Mr. Schmidt of the Prosecutor's Office tells us you should first check to see if your city or township has a local ordinance dealing with snomobiles. Because the problem is so new, there is no State law dealing with it. Otherwise it's trespassing, in which case you must first ask them to leave. If they refuse, you can sign a complaint and it would be a criminal case. If they leave, there is no cause for action unless damage has been done. In that case, you can sign a complaint for a civil suit.

City Hearing on Open Housing Produced Variety of Opinions

"The issue in the beginning of this country was never monetary value, but human dignity," Rev. Stanley Stefancic of the Unitarian Church of Birmingham, said Tuesday.

He said the evolvement of a debate on property rights verses human rights is "a sad commentary of the American Dream."

"It embarrasses me when people are willing to put property above human dignity," another clergyman, Fr. Frederick Klettner of St. Vincent de Paul Catholic Church, said.

A white resident of the integrated Herrington Hills subdivision for 10 years, David Woodling of 1178 Dudley, said: "The issue seems to be what comes first? Human rights or economic rights . . . They don't seem to be in conflict to me. There is no place in the Constitution that I have been able to find where a property owner is able to restrict on the basis of race."

Popular vote and majority rule were mentioned several times in the discussion. "I believe in a democracy. I believe the majority should rule," Fruit said.

But, Donald Bauder, director of the Michigan Civil Rights Commission in this area, said a basis of a democracy is "the protection of the minority, not only majority rule."

A referendum vote against the ordinance would only prove that a majority could deny a minority a right that is deserved, another said.

Charles Meisner of 476 Lynch said that in Germany in the 30s and 40s, in Russia in the 40s and 50s and in France during the Algerian War, "the majority ruled to the extent that they tried to obliterate the minority."

SELLING EXPERIENCES

Some persons related experiences in attempting to sell houses in neighborhoods which had become integrated. values went down, they said.

Woodling said a study done in Herrington Hills showed that values "seem to be equal" before integration and after.

Louis Wyman, a local real estate agent, said, however, that prices of houses in Herrington Hills have risen. "The prices are incredible."

James Power of 104 Victory, another real estate salesman, said property values have increased.

STUDY CITED

Mrs. Joan Perlman of 3120 Woodland Ridge, West Bloomfield Township, a member of Voice of Oakland County Action League, cited a "five-year study of 10,000 real estate transactions in seven cities."

The study, she said, showed that in neighborhoods which became integrated, 85 per cent of the values were equal to or exceed all-white neighborhoods of comparable condition.

In the 15 per cent with declining values, the declines did not drop below 10 per cent, she said.

★ ★ ★

The necessity of the ordinance was questioned. "I don't think there is any place in our city where colored don't live," Moelke said.

RIGHT TO LIVE

They have the right to live where they want without the ordinance, a man volunteered.

This was disputed. Rev. Stefancic said he had been working to secure homes for Negroes. "I know for a fact that these people are turned down because of race."

Bob Vackaro of 207 Mohawk, a Pontiac teacher, said many Negro Pontiac teachers and administrators haven't been able to find the kind of housing they want and can afford.

"Still they are part of our city and teaching in our schools."

GRADUATE STUDENTS

A Catholic chaplain at Oakland University said, "Graduate students who want to live in Pontiac cannot because they are black."

A woman living in district 5 said, "There are no Negroes in my neighborhood."

Two women said they lived in segregated neighborhoods. Carol Sweeney of 249 Orchard Lake said, "The unwritten law is that you don't sell your home to Negroes. White people perpetuate it and enforce it."

★ ★ ★

Negroes spoke strongly of their interest and love for the country, also Negro participation in the armed services.

IMPASSIONED SPEECH

Rev. Arlond M. Reid, a member of the Human Relations Commission, in an impassioned speech, outlined Negro participation in every American war.

"We loved America and were willing to die for it," he said.

Another woman said, "People say this isn't really my country, I'm from Africa.

"This is my country. I have never been to Africa in my life. And, I don't ever intend to go there. My husband fought for this country."

Throughout all there were pleas for understanding. "I think a lot of opposition comes from the fact that we don't know much about each other," Rev. Reid said.

"White people are scared of colored people. They'll find we are just as human as they are," a woman said.

Meisner asked that racism be stopped. "Let's cut it out now while we've still got the chance."

Bauder, the CRC director said "the first (referendum) petition that is filed will be filed on the basis of racist attitudes."

He urged passage of the ordinance to "move one step away from the racism that permeates our society."

In urging passage of the ordinance, a statement of the Pontiac Organization of Black Youth, read by Hubert Price Jr., vice president, said:

"We feel that open housing legislation is a step in the direction of ending that behavior which all black people find so humiliating.

"We are not so naive to believe that housing patterns in this community will change overnight . . . but let us begin."

Clarence Barnes, executive director of the Pontiac Area Urban League, said the discussion showed encouraging signs of "a sense of enlightenment, a sense of justice, a sense of compassion" and a "reason for hope."

John Arden of 924 Spence said witnessing the meeting was encouraging for him also. "Tonight I came here expecting to see a three-ring circus . . . maybe I'm looking at it (the open housing ordinance) a little more open-minded than I did before."

Klansmen Among 10 Jailed in Dixie Killing

HATTIESBURG, Miss. (AP) — Ten men were jailed Wednesday night on murder and arson charges stemming from the 1966 fire-bomb killing of a Negro civil rights leader.

They included a Laurel civic leader recently honored by his home town Jaycees, a state Ku Klux Klan chieftain and a lawyer who showed up to represent clients arrested earlier, then was jailed himself.

★ ★ ★

In the state indictments, issued secretly by the Forrest County grand jury, five men were charged with murder and arson and five others were charged with arson. Arraignment is scheduled today.

The white men were accused of the Jan. 10, 1966, attack with fire-bombs, tear gas and bullets on the home of Vernon F. Dahmer near Hattiesburg shortly before dawn.

FAMILY ESCAPED

Despite the flames, Dahmer shot back at his attackers, creating confusion that allowed his wife, daughter and two sons to escape. Dahmer died in a hospital of burns. He had been a leader in a Negro voter registration drive.

The five charged with arson included Sam H. Bowers Jr., 43, as imperial wizard of the militant White Knights of the Ku Klux Klan.

Bowers was free on bond in a conviction on a federal civil rights conspiracy charge in the 1964 murder of three civil rights workers near Philadelphia, Miss. No state charges were filed in that case.

Those charged with both murder and arson in the Dahmer slaying included Charles C. Wilsen, given the Laurel Jaycees' Distinguished Service Award last Monday. A past president of the Laurel Jaycees, he has been active in civic, Boy Scout and Parent-Teacher Association activities.

LAWYER JAILED

Nine men, all from the Laurel or Ellisville area, had been jailed when Travis Buckley, 33, showed up to represent Bowers and others. He was shown an indictment charging him with arson, then jailed with the others.

Buckley faces state kidnap charges at Pascagoula, Miss., in a related case. He was accused of abducting an ex-convict in a vain attempt to extorta false statement from him for use by the defense in a federal case involving the Dahmer slaying.

★ ★ ★

The others charged with both murder and arson included Charles R. Noble, 24; Cecil V. Sessum, 31; James F. Lyons, 35; and William T. Smith.

In addition to Buckley and Bowers, owner of a Laurel amusement company, those charged only with arson were Deavours Nix, 44; Howard T. Giles, 39; and Lawrence Byrd, 46.

AWAITING TRIAL

Bowers, Giles, Nix, Noble and Sessum are awaiting trial in U.S. District Court on civil rights conspiracy charges in the Dahmer slaying. The FBI identified all as Klan members.

Rights Program Chances Slim

WASHINGTON (AP) — Even its most ardent Senate admirers concede President Johnson's civil rights program has little chance of getting through Congress this year.

Johnson offered the package Wednesday in a special message asking Congress for measures to ban discrimination in housing, employment and federal jury selection.

★ ★ ★

He also urged protection for Negroes and whites who are helping Negroes try to exercise their civil rights.

It marked the third time around for a program first submitted in 1966 and reoffered last year.

GLUM VIEW

The House passed the package of measures in 1966, after modifying the President's open-housing proposal, but the legislation was strangled by a Senate filibuster.

Senate backers of the program take a glum view of its prospects now, partly because of the climate created by riots and other racial disturbances.

★ ★ ★

But the President told Congress action should not be delayed because "the air is filled with the voices of extremists on both sides."

Although his over-all civil rights program is in trouble, parts of it are making headway on a piecemeal basis.

Accused Police Officer Resigns

A Pontiac police officer who was accused by a city woman of fleeing the scene of an accident in which his car allegedly damaged hers resigned yesterday from the police ranks.

Patrolman Richard W. Blower sumitted his resignation to Police Chief William K. Hanger after meeting with supervisors earlier in the day, according to Capt. Harry Nye, patrol bureau director.

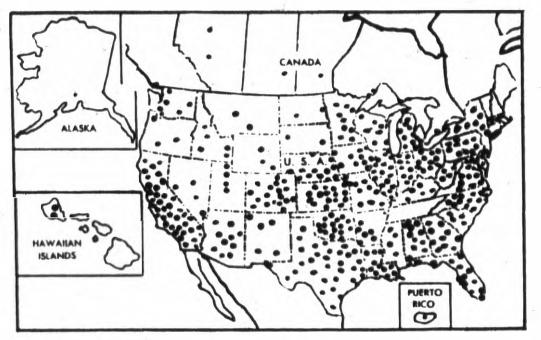

Blower had been suspended Tuesday after Pauline Walton of 161 Summit told police a car bearing a license number matching the number on a dealer's plate on his car twice backed from a service station at Baldwin and Oakland into her vehicle and then drove off.

The incident occurred about 2:45 a.m. last Thursday, police said.

Blower admitted being at the scene but denied knowledge that his car had been involved in a damage accident, according to Nye.

'Family-Style' Foundations Getting Attention

FLINT (AP) — How would you like to join the company of the Fords, Rockefellers, Guggenheims and Motts and form your own nonprofit foundation?

You don't have to be a millionaire to do it, and the tax exemptions can be attractive, to say the least.

★ ★ ★

Take the R. O. Hayes Foundation in nearby Grand Blanc Township, for example. The Hayes Foundation is not the largest foundation in the country, nor is it the smallest, according to Robert O. Hayes, president and executive director.

Unitl recently, however, it was rather widely unknown. What made it pop into prominence was an article in a national magazine about small foundations similar in tax status, if not in size, to the Rockefeller, Ford and Mott foundations.

ONE OF HUNDREDS

The R. O. Hayes Foundation is one of hundreds in the country formed under the direction of Americans Building Constitutionally, an Illinois-based outfit of which Hayes's father, Robert D. Hayes, is managing trustee.

The story uses the R. O. Hayes Foundation as an example of small foundations formed by ABC. It notes that the foundation made recent grants of $2 each to the Easter Seal campaign, the American Cancer Society and the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

★ ★ ★

ABC was founded to bring the foundation concept, used by the Kennedys and Johnsons and other wealthy families, to the "average well-off citizen."

It recommends that a man form a foundation with a stated purpose which relates to some degree with his work. The man may then make himself and his family principal directors, assign his assets to the foundation and try to arrange for his client fees or salary to be paid to the foundation instead of to him personally.

SMALL SALARY

Then he may arrange for the foundation he controls to hire him to do his regular work for the benefit of the foundation, and to pay him a relatively small salary, on which he pays income tax.

Thre are many advantages. The foundation may give him the use of his car, travel expenses and a large life insurance policy.

★ ★ ★

The Wall Street Journal reported the case of a doctor who benefited from ABC membership. He formed a foundation which collected his fees and in turn provided him with a house, car, retirement plan and insurance. The doctor's four children are attending college on educational grants from the foundation.

If a man's heirs are involved in the foundation, he can also protect his estate from inheritance taxes following his death.

Hayes says it is not difficult for any middle-income person to set up a foundation.

"He must determine, first of all, in his own mind something he would like to do for the benefit of mankind," he says. "This can touch anything in the world, but it is best if the purpose has some relation to the kind of work he does."

★ ★ ★

The official purpose of the Hayes Foundation is "to receive and disburse funds for the purpose of research and development in its broadest sense in management, human relations and industrial operations throughout the country for educational and public welfare purposes."

JOHNNETTI DRUMM

Waterford's Top Teen Is Typical Pupil

A Pierce Junior High School student, who teachers feel closely fits the description of the typical junior high pupil, has been named Waterford Township's Teen of the Week.

Selected for the honor was Johnnetti Drumm, 15-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Drumm of 2177 Crane, Waterford Township. She is a ninth grader.

Johnnetti quietly assists her teachers when asked and displays a warm and friendly personality, according to staff members.

Johnnetti especially enjoys algebra class and is interested in teaching the subject if she can arrange a college education.

She likes to cook and has ambitions to improve her culinary skills.

Last summer, Johnnetti attended Camp Oweki where she volunteered to serve as an aide for a unit of Camp Fire Blue Birds.

Teachers explain that many students are like Johnnetti in that they go about their tasks in a steady and a consistent manner out of the glare of the spotlight. They are the real core of the student body. Their efforts determine how good a school will be.

The staff said the honor was as a salute to Johnnetti and all the students like her who "we frequently hear little about."

2 Airports Near Detroit Bustling

DETROIT (UPI) — The two major airports near here are doing a booming business with a future that looks even brighter than the present.

Detroit Metropolitan Airport, which handles all the major commercial airlines, and Willow Run Airport, just 12 minutes further west along the I-94 freeway and a bustling freight airway, are sprouting expansion plans.

Metro now carries some five million passengers annually at its two terminal complexes, and has blueprint goals of serving 75 to 90 million persons per year by the 1980s.

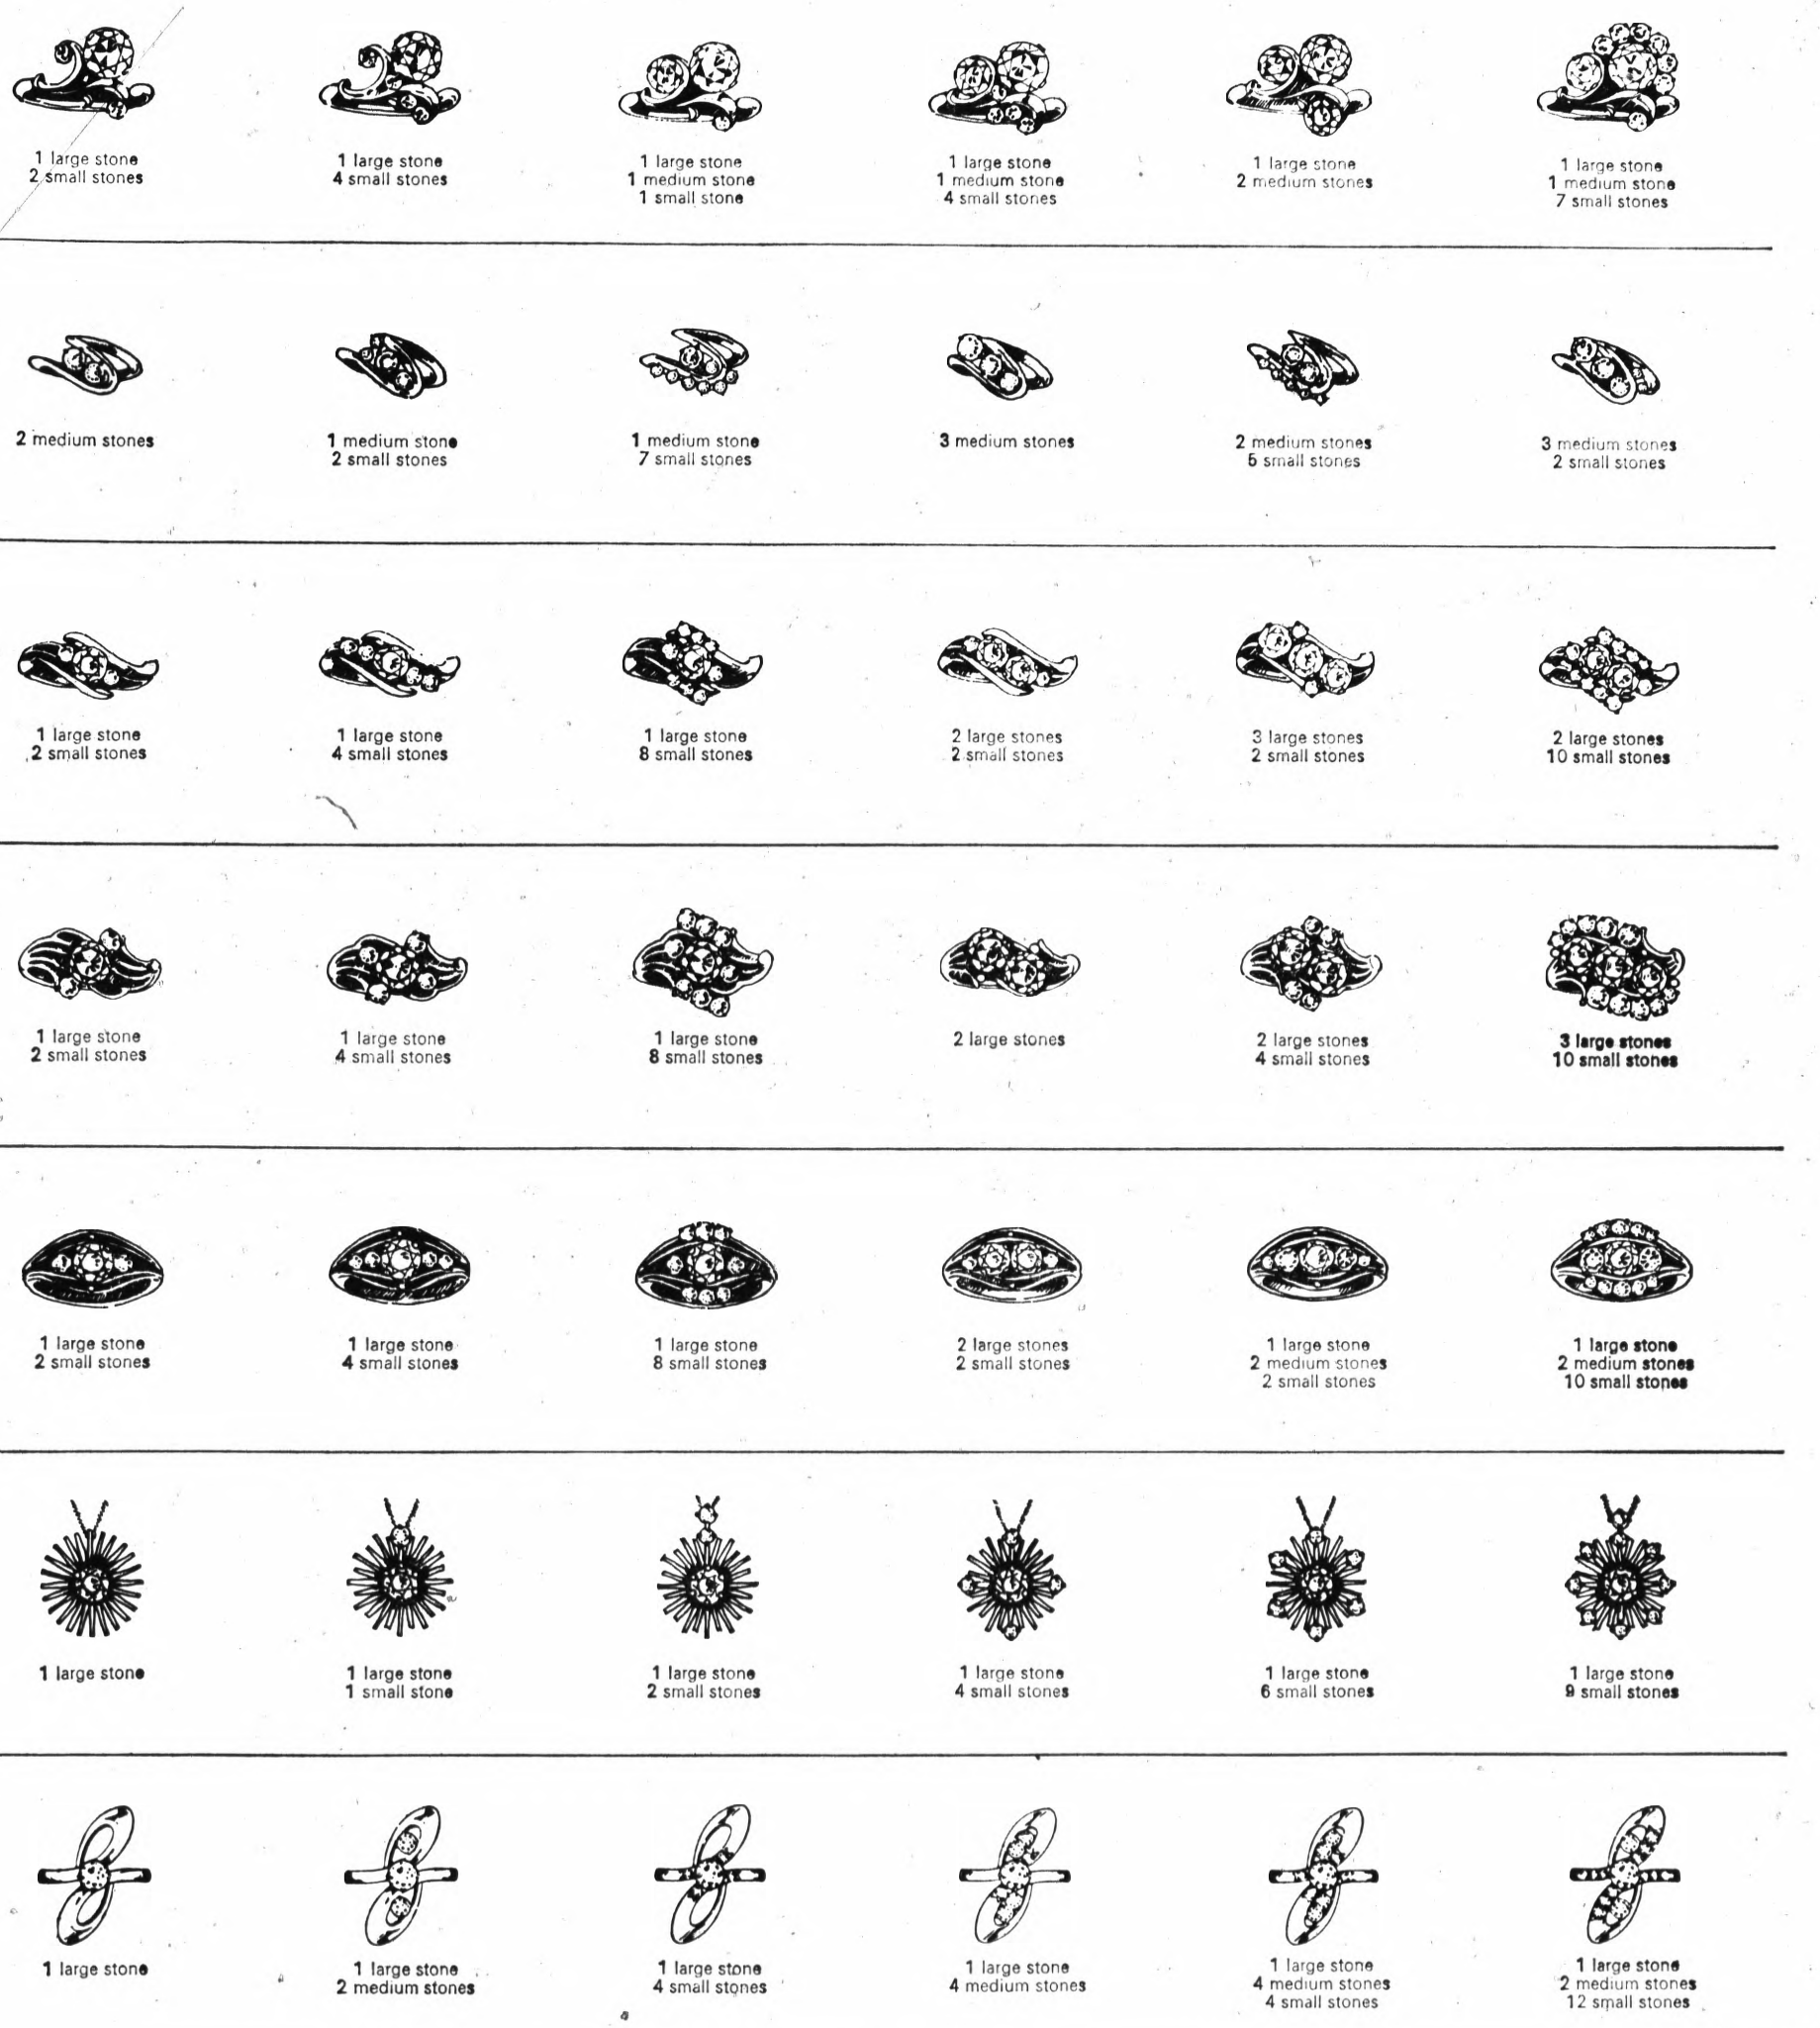

Willow Run, once thought a ghost airfield after the big commercial lines deserted it for the closer-to-Detrot Metro, has taken on a new face and is prospering as a general aviation air base.

★ ★ ★

Owned by the University of Michigan and, as such, exempt from property taxes, the airport leases space to Butler Aviation which rents, sells and services aircraft; a Detroit travel club; a couple of the major auto makers; the Weather Bureau; and a restaurant chain owner.

After 19 years as a passenger terminal, actual air activity for 1967 at Willow Run totaled more than any of the eight preceding years, he said.

The Guns of Judgment Day

Cliff Farrell's new Western thriller

From the Doubleday & Co. novel; Copyright © 1967, by Cliff Farrell. Distributed by King Features Syndicate.

Chapter 14

The man thrust a big hand over the counter. Dan Briscoe, a little taken aback by the warmth of the greeting, found his hand clamped in powerful strength and pumped vigorously.

"Me, I'm Obediah Willit, owner of the Flat Butte Great Southwestern Mercantile," the big man said.

"Offerin' everything needed for the comfort an' prosperity of man an' the health of beasts. From diapers fer the newborn to corn likker for them that needs to warm their bones on cold mornin's. From horse collars to horseplay.

"Married four times. Buried four wives, bless their souls. Fourteen children, an' 42 grandchildren. What kin I do for you, Mr.—Mr.—?"

★ ★ ★

Dan Briscoe grinned. "Driscoll is the name. Can't say I'm in the market for either diapers or horse collars at the moment, but—"

PRETTY GIRLS

"Give us time," Obediah Willit thundered. "Springwater Basin is brimmin' with purty gals, waitin' a likely man to marry up with, an' raise a family. I'll see to it that you meet some to look over."

"Sounds like I better keep goin' south on that stage before I get roped, throwed, hog-tied an' branded," Dan said.

The store owner guffawed, leaned across the counter and slapped him on the back. It was a blow meant to stagger him. Dan felt the strength of the beefy hand, but managed to brace himself and show no sign it was anything out of the ordinary.

★ ★ ★

Willit's curling brows pinched together. He was somewhat chagrined by his failure to impress him.

ASKS FOR KATE

"There does happen to be one young lady I want to get in touch with," Dan said. "Her name is Kathleen Royal."

Obediah Willit was wide-eyed. "Katey Royal? You know her?"

"Only slightly. Miss Royal left Flag late last night, saddleback, with a friend. I figured the stage would overtake them today, but it seems they rode on through."

★ ★ ★

Willit nodded. "They pulled in an hour or so ago. Alex Emmons was with her. He went up to Flag by stage to meet her an' side her back. Katey hates stagecoaches.

"Alex rode with her, horseback, to Flag a couple weeks ago to see her off on the train for the east. Left the horses there, while Alex came back by stage to take care o' things at the ranch."

ROYAL HOUSE

"She's here?" Dan asked. "In Flat Butte?"

"Nope. They went on out to Royal House. Both of 'em was plumb wore out after 60 miles in the saddle, with only a couple hours rest at the Turkey Crick roadhouse. I don't know why Katey was in such a hurry to git home."

"Royal House?"

★ ★ ★

"Man, you really air a stranger in these parts. I figured everybody in Arizona had heard o' Royal House. It's headquarters of Spanish Bell, which grazes stock on more'n half o' the basin. Royal House is only five miles out, not far off the south fork o' the stage trail."

DISAPPOINTMENT

Willit showed disappointment when he could read nothing from Dan's expression. "Air you in such a hurry to see Katey thet you aim to go out there tonight?" he asked.

"No," Dan said. "It'll wait until morning."

"Just what is it that'll wait?" Willit inquired.

"She lost a piece of jewelry in Flag," Dan said. "I happened to find it. Being as I was heading in this direction I thought I'd fetch it to her personally."

HUNTS FOR LODGINGS

"That's mighty kind o' you, Willit said. "Katey will be grateful."

★ ★ ★

"I was told I'd find lodging and board at the hotel."

"Sim ought to be able to fix you up. Sim Ricker's his name. Runs a shebang. If he happens to be filled up, come on back. I got a bunk in the storeroom where I can put you up for the night."

Obediah Willit again extended a big, enthusiastic hand. "Most folk around here call me Big Obie," he said. "If you're still around, come Sunday, show up at the meetin' house. I do some preachin' to help out the parson."

★ ★ ★

"I'll keep that in mind," Dan said.

RENTS ROOM

Dan rented a room for the night at Sim Ricker's notel. "Reckon you'll want to muck the dust off you," Ricker said.

"Cy Keeler's barbershop stays open stage nights to accommodate folks like you. He's got hot water an' tubs for a quarter. I saw you go into Obie's store. You a friend o' his?"

"I reckon," Dan said, remembering the handshakes.

★ ★ ★

"Everybody is. Obie Willit is salt o' the earth. He'd do anything to help you. In the 10 years he's been in the basin he's done mighty well. Got a smart for business, don't fool yourself. We needed a store like the one he's built. We used to have to send to Flag fer most things."

PAIR DISAPPEAR

Ricker added, aggrieved, "But there's some that wagon their supplies from Flag rather than do business here in Flat Butte."

It was evident he was speaking of Lavinia Shannon.

As Dan folded his long legs in the sheet-iron tub and enjoyed the feel of clean water, one discordant thought kept intruding. What had happened to Shep Sand and Gideon Marko? They had dropped out of sight since alighting from the stage.

He mentioned it casually as he paid the barber for a shave and use of the tub. "That heavy-set man and his friend who came in on the stage? We were talking about maybe playin' a little poker tonight. But, I can't locate 'em."

★ ★ ★

The barber didn't answer for a space during which he gave Dan a second look. He calculated his answer. "You mean Tom Smith an' that Jim Martin feller," he said "I can't rightly say where they went. Out to their claims, most likely."

'HOMESTEADERS'

"Claims? They're miners?"

"Nope. Homesteaders. Leastwise that's what they call themselves."

Dan spent more than an hour rolling five-card dice at Mack's Place at two bits a game, with Mack as his opponent.

As he pushed the leather cup aside after deciding he'd had enough, he said idly, "Just what sort of crops would a sod-buster raise in these parts?"

★ ★ ★

Mack was helping himself to a stein of beer at the bar spigot. He carefully scraped away the foam and took a deep draught. "You aim to join them homesteaders on the river?" he asked without looking directly at Dan.

"Depends. Just what do they raise?"

"Now that's a good question, mister. You reap what you sow, so the Good Book says."

Dan eyed him. "Does anybody in these parts ever give a direct answer to a question?"

★ ★ ★

"Depends on who does the askin'," Mack responded. "Buenos noches, friend. I'm closin' up now."

TAKES PRECAUTION

The lights went out in Mack's Place by the time Dan had crossed the street on his way to the hotel. Just as they had gone out in the barbershop, just as they had been dimmed in Obie Willit's store after his departure.

Dan braced the back of the chair under the knob of the door, before turning in.

He felt a trifle foolish, childish. But, somehow, he slept sounder because of that added protection against intruders who never came.

Scientists have developed a method to tell whether fish or meat has ever been frozen by blasting with ultra high frequency sound waves.

Cut Your Own Taxes—4

Don't Let the IRS Computer Deter You

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the fourth of a series on how to legally cut the amountof income tax you pay.)

By RAY DE CRANE
NEA Publications

The many national stories that have appeared about Internal Revenue's computers, labeling them as the Brain and the Monster, have probably served to frighten many completely honest taxpayers.

Don't let the computer deter you from claiming every possible legal deduction on your income tax return.

This is your legal right. International Revenue expects you to claim no more — and no less — than your individual circumstances call for.

The computer speeds up the processing of returns, it simplifies checking mathematical accuracy and it spots questionable entries.

But it has no way of discovering the fact that you may have been entitled to medical, charitable, interest and tax deductions you failed to report or feared entering on your return.

COULD BE BEST YEAR

With the new medical insurance deduction available to you for the first time this year, this could be the ideal year for you to itemize all your deductions instead of setting for one of the lesser standard deductions.

Even the unmarried or the newly married who hesitated itemizing in the past because of the absence of mortgage interest and real estate taxes may find it to their advantage to itemize this year.

(NEXT: When joint, when separate returns.)

Navy Doctor Removes Live Shell From Wounded Marine

SAIGON (AP) — The young navy doctor's most pressing problem was not the enemy mortar and rocket shells that were slamming into the combat base, at Khe Sanh. Rather it was a metal object protruding from the abdomen of a wounded Marine.

The object was part of the warhead of an 82mm Communist mortar shell, which might explode at any time. A piece of metal nearly 3.5 inches across and 4 inches deep, it had buried itself in the abdomen of Pfc. Robert Mussari, 19, of Scranton, Pa., during a Communist attack Sunday morning.

★ ★ ★

"I could hardly believe my eyes when they brought him in," said the doctor, Lt. Edward Feldman, 26, of Forest Hills, N.Y.

"I pulled back part of the big field dressing and saw a metal pipe just sticking out of his abdomen. There had been some bleeding, but the shell must have been scorching hot when it hit him. It had partly cauterized the wound, and bits of his skin, tissue and bandage were stuck to it like glue.

RECALLS OPERATION

"When I finally grasped what the problem was, I remembered the famous operation nearly two years ago in Vietnam in which a live shell had been removed from a soldier in a field operation.

"When I read about it then in the States, I never dreamed I would have to do the same thing."

★ ★ ★

When Mussari was hit, other Marines carried him to the battalion aid station. But the medical tents were on fire and the electric power had been cut by the shelling.

Feldman and his assistant, Chief Hospitalman Richard Asquith, 35, of Atlantic Beach, Fla., and their crew of Navy corpsmen quickly shifted the emergency operating center to a large sandbagged bunker.

ROBERT MUSSARI

GIVEN MORPHINE

Huddled in the far corner of the dark bunker, Feldman quickly gave Mussari morphine to kill the pain. He sent someone to get a Marine engineer who might know how to handle the shell with the least chance of setting it off.

Staff Sgt. Ronald Sniegowski, 30, of San Clemente, Calif., reached the bunker within minutes. But Sniegowski, with only a small part of the metal showing, was unable to determine positively what it was.

★ ★ ★

He suspected it was part of a delayed action shell that normally blows up 2½ hours after impact. An hour and three quarters already had gone by.

Feldman ordered Asquith to clear all the other wounded and all of the corpsmen not needed out of the bunker.

SANDBAG WALL

"Then I had them build a little wall around Mussari, sandbags five layers high," Feldman explained. "I remembered from the earlier story how the Army doctor had made a window in a wall of sandbags to operate through and I wanted to do that, too, by making a hole in the wall of the bunker. But there just wasn't time and shells were still landing outside."

★ ★ ★

Asquith, a Navy veteran of 16 years serving his third tour in Vietnam, posted himself at the bunker entrance to keep everybody out.

Corpsman Roger Tillotson, 23, of Potomac, Ill., took four flashlights, clamped them together and held the light on Mussari.

★ ★ ★

"Like everybody else," said Feldman, "I was wearing a helmet and field jacket. But I was going to have to lean over the sandbags to operate on this man on the ground and I was afraid the helmet might fall off and hit him. So I took it off and I took the flak jacket off, too. If anything happened, it wasn't going to help me at that range and I needed every possible freedom of movement.

"I cut away the bandage, skin and tissue. I wanted to remove every obstruction so we could lift the shell straight up and out. it was not really difficult. Only nerve-racking because we didn't know what we had. Also, I had to go slow so as not to cut any of the great blood vessels. I am not sure, but I think the operation itself took only 5 to 10 minutes."

"Finally, it was loose. I looked at Ski—that's what we called the sergeant—and I started to lift the shell out by the projection, holding down the torn tissue with my left hand. Ski held and stetdied the base as it came up, then he took it all and carried it outside. What a relief. It was almost an anticlimax."

Feldman said Mussari was conscious all through it.

★ ★ ★

"The morphine dulled the pain and shock," Feldman added. "It was wonderful how calmly he took it. He didn't know how bad it was, but he knew he was seriously wounded, and he behaved magnificently from first to last."

Later, Mussari was evacuated by air.

Brain Probed for Killer Impulse

Heart-Stopping Link Is Sought

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (AP) — Medics are looking for ways to block brain impulses, triggered at times by fear or panic, which can switch off a healthy human heart and cause sudden death.

Studies on how to short-circuit the killer impulses are under way at the University of Oklahoma Medical Center.

★ ★ ★

The fatal brain impulses can be brought about by several factors, said Dr. Stewart Wolf, director of the neurosciences section of the Oklahoma Medical Research Foundation.

"Drowning victims," he said, often are found to have no water in their lungs. "The patient just died of a turned-off heart as a result of fear or panic . . . the same could be true of those who died from snakebites." He added that only 15 to 20 per cent of snakebite fatalities have had enough venom to kill them.

"Heart attacks occur most frequently," Wolf said, "in those emotionally upset, those depressed, or those at the end of their rope, shunned by a tight society, with no place to turn.

"Sudden death may be due to a combination, which may include heart damage, chronic emotional states such as dejection and discouragement or other factors, such as overwhelming or sudden fear."

★ ★ ★

Wolf said "we know it is possible to activate in animals the brain mechanism which turns off the heart. You can do it in a number of ways. We are experimenting in various methods of blocking the mechanism."

"The uncertainty of when it's going to happen," he added, is the biggest hurdle facing the researchers.

NO METHODS YET

"It's too early to get into the methods," Wolf said. "There isn't any pill . . . there are maneuvers we can use in animal work which we can't use in humans at this time. We're working with animals to try to develop a practical way to do it with humans."

Last week a Yale University medical school researcher told an Oklahoma City symposium that a device to help control heart activity through stimulation of parts of the brain will be tried on humans within a year.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Jose M. R. Delgado said the device will be similar to the pacemaker, which now can be implanted in the chest cavity to regulate the heartbeat with electrical impulses. He said the brain device will be implanted under the skin of the head and could be activated by an outside radio. He said the device initially will be used to learn which areas of the brain control which activities of the heart.

★ ★ ★

"We must reverse the long-held general opinion that the heart controls the brain," Delgado said. "We're finding it is the brain which controls blood pressure, hypertension, heart rate, heart rhythm and electrocardiogram activity."

Protests Seen at Dem Parley

EAST LANSING (AP) —Former Michigan Democratic Chairman Zolton Ferency predicted Wednesday night that Negroes would protest and demonstrate at the Democratic National Convention in Chicago this summer unless more is done in civil rights.

★ ★ ★

"The black people are not going to tolerate the two major parties meeting in an election year and not having anything to say about the problem," Ferency told a group of students at Michigan State University.

Pointing out that the Democratic convention will be held in the International Amphitheatre in a Negro area on Chicago's South Side, Ferency said, "They (the Negroes) are going to demonstrate, they're going to raise hell, they're going to petition."

This Neighbor Invades Home Every Day

By ELIZABETH L. POST

Dear Mrs. Post: I have a neighbor who comes over every day or so and walks in without knocking. This irritates my husband no end. He says we have no privacy in our own home.

If the neighbor is wrong, how can I let her know? She is a warm and friendly person and I would not want to hurt her. I always knock before entering her house, but she hasn't taken the hint.—Lenore

Dear Lenore: Everyone is entitled to as much privacy as he desires in his own home. If your neighbor is as friendly as you indicate, she will understand if you say "We love having you drop in as often as you can, but you have startled John so a couple of times that we wondered if you would mind giving us a warning knock?"

Another approach might be to lock your doors for a week or two, until the knocking or ringing habit is established, explaining that you were nervous about leaving the house open all the time.

FORK

Dear Mrs. Post: I have been a follower of your table etiquette for many years, but the other day I changed your rules and wonder if I was all wrong. I had a luncheon for four ladies and served a chicken salad, buttered rolls and coffee and cake.

I had no use for knives on the table so I put the fork on the right side instead of the left. Was that all right? —Irene Burke

★ ★ ★

Dear Mrs. Burke: The fork belongs on the left, no matter how many pieces of silver are on the table. The better solution is to put the knife on the table even though there is no need for it. The place settings simply look more balanced if there is a piece of silver on either side.

MRS. DOUGLAS OWEN

Today's Woman

Achieving a Balance

By JEANNE NELSON

Planning and executing a successful conference is a little like building a house. The strongest foundation can topple if the colorful "optionals" become a burden.

A complementary meshing of the two keeps Mrs. Douglas Owen (Dottie) of Oakland University clipping along at a racer's pace.

★ ★ ★

As assistant director of the University's Continuing Education Division, Conference Department, she breezes through the daily conflicts of basic needs versus indulgences all within a framework of an immovable budget.

★ ★ ★

"Just keeping pace with my boss, Priscilla Jackson, keeps my motor nerves running," says Dottie. The Conference Department is equipped to handle about 37 of these events a year with many of them emanating from industry and area communities.

★ ★ ★

To date, the department has been awarded five citations for creativity, among them the "Widows and Divorcees" conference, from which emerged the present seminar course being offered by the Division in its spring program.

Once a need is evident, (usually through a marketing technique) the gears start into motion. A date is set, facilities reserved and food service established. An authoritative committee is formed to outline the program and select major speakers.

Brochures are designed and bids for printing taken, along with the compiling of mailing lists.

★ ★ ★

Asked about the source of conference subjects, Mrs. Owen admitted that often a chance remark sparks an idea and the merit behind it is uncovered in short order.

BACKGROUND

A job like this takes efficiency and Dottie is quick to credit her stint in the USNR WAVES program for developing this attribute. Also standing her in good stead for her career is the B. S. degree in home economics she earned at Purdue University.

★ ★ ★

Beginning her sixth year in the conference job, she foresees an ever-expanding program, perhaps with individual building facilities and a greater profit potential for the now self-sustaining department.

★ ★ ★

Married to her childhood sweetheart from Glasgow, Ky., Dottie and her husband live on Old Perch Road, Avon Township with their "fat cat." Leisure time permitting, she is active in the Rochester League of Women Voters which she helped to organize and this area's American Association of University Women.

Slate Special Meeting on Community Affairs

Representatives of the member clubs of the Pontiac Area Federation of Women's Clubs are invited to attend a special meeting Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in the Commission Chambers of the Pontiac City Hall.

Joseph A. Warren, city manager, will give a report of the Pontiac Area Planning Council. Announcement of plans for the Federation's cosponsored 1968 Salute to Youth program will be given by George Caronis, executive secretary of the Pontiac Citizens' Committee on Youth.

Francis M. Webster, chairman of the Finance Study Council, Board of Education, will speak on "The Citizens of the Pontiac School District Look at Their Schools."

A question and answer period will follow.

A midsummer wedding is planned by Patricia A. Smith and Carl R. Roselli. The bride elect, a graduate of Mercy School of Nursing of Detroit, is the daughter of the Garnet Smiths of Crocus Street. Her fiance, who graduated from Lawrence Institute of Technology, is the son of the Sam Rosellis of Tex Avenue.

Your Husband Needs an Impartial Judge in This

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am 26 and Henry is 33, and here is my story:

ABBY

We moved in with Henry's parents right after we got married ("Only until we find a place of our own," he promised). Well, it's been four years, and here I sit with two lovely children and a closet full of unwrapped wedding presents.

My in-laws are very nice, and some people think I've got it easy with Henry's mother to do all the cooking, and a built-in baby sitter for the children, but I am miserable, Abby, Henry's mother has her own way of doing things, and I help her as much as she lets me, which isn't much. And it's still her house.

Every time the subject of moving comes up, Henry's father says, "Why move and pay rent when you can live here for free? We have plenty of room." (It's true, but I would rather have one room of my own.)

The children are getting spoiled by their grandparents and I feel trapped. Please help me.

NO NAME, PLS

DEAR NO NAME: Face it. You are married to a man who isn't ready to give up the comfort and security provided by his parents. And unless you can help him grow up sufficiently to make him want to leave the nest, you can expect to be there indefinitely.

In other words, he needs the counsel of a wise and impartial friend. This could be a clergyman, doctor, or marriage counsellor.

DEAR ABBY: I used to think you made up all the letters in your column because I couldn't believe that people could be so dumb, but here I am, with a problem of my own that sounds like it couldn't be true, but it is.

I am 23 and have been married for five weeks to a swell guy I've known for a year. This is my second marriage and I have three small children.

★ ★ ★

My husband never said anything about his being married before, but now I find out that he has been married twice and has five kids whom his mother is taking care of. I found out only yesterday and I am ready for a nervous breakdown.

When I told my husband I knew about the five kids, he said he was glad, as he didn't know how much longer he could keep it from me. Then he said as long as I knew, would I mind taking his five kids to raise as his mother was not in good health.

★ ★ ★

Abby, I do waitress work 10 hours a day, and I have enough with my own three and I can't raise eight kids. All the love I had for my husband is dead. Do I have grounds for divorce?

SHOCKED

DEAR SHOCKED: Talk to a lawyer. You might even have grounds for an annulment.

★ ★ ★

CONFIDENTIAL TO "DREAMS A LOT": Don't complain. At least you're sleeping!

Problems? Write to Abby, care of The Pontiac Press, Dept. E-600, P.O. Box 9, Pontiac, Mich. 48056. For a personal reply, inclose a stamped, seld-addressed envelope.

Borrow Now Without Disturbing Savings

By MARY FEELEY
Consultant In Money Management

Dear Miss Feeley:

I have a savings account from which I receive an interest check, which is compounded quarterly at the rate of 4½ per cent. I find I will have to withdraw $1,000 of this money next month. I'd like to recover my interest loss on this money and was considering buying certificates of deposit — which pay five per cent.

Do you consider this wise, or if not, why?

Mrs. F.T., Ft. Lauderdale, Fla.

Dear Mrs. T.:

There's certainly nothing wrong with earning five per cent, and a lot of people like the idea of certificates of deposit. Of coures, in order to get that full earning rate, the amount of money you put into certificates is unavailable for the specified length of time — though some banks pay this rate for short periods starting with one month, depending on how much money is involved.

Usually the minimum figure is $1,000 and can be increased in multiples of $500.

But how about a passbook loan, instead of taking what you need out of regular savings? This type of loan can generally be had at mutual banks and commercial banks. You can get it at a lower interest rate than any other kind of loan since you're borrowing your own money.

In the meantime, your savings remain intact and continue to draw the full amount of interest undisturbed.

★ ★ ★

Dear Miss Feeley:

I am a widow 56 years old and have approximately $80,000 earning five per cent. I can look forward to about another $10,000 in five years from the sale of our business.

I am presently employed in an office and will have a very small amount of retirement in addition to Social Security which I can draw at age 60.

Since I have a few physical problems that might interfere with my office, work, here's my question:

In case I cannot continue to work, would I be able to stop work now and be able to live on what I have? I know this is hard to say — depending on standard of living, length of life, etc. — but would you venture an educated guess?

Mrs. F. K., Madison, Wis.

Dear Mrs. K.:

If you stop working now, you could figure on a monthly income of about $330 from this investment. Then after you realize that $10,000 from the sale of your business, you will be receiving about $4,500 a year if you have this total invested earning five per cent a year.

★ ★ ★

If you decide to wait until you are age 60 to retire, then you'll be able to add your Social Security benefits plus the small pension.

Polly's Pointers

Travels Prepared

DEAR POLLY — I always keep an old set of work clothes in a plastic bag in the trunk of my car. When on trips, or a visit with out-of-town relatives, I have the necessary clothes for an unexpected chore.

I also take a small supply of dry wood split up for kindling and some lighter fluid when we go on a vacation. They come in handy for those times when we stop to cook and eat in roadside parks.—MELVIN

POLLY'S PROBLEM

DEAR POLLY — My Dacron polyester fiber filled pillows are soiled and I would like to know if they can be washed. I have been unable to get any information from the store where they were bought.—M. W. T.

DEAR POLLY — I have a helpful suggestion for N. G. who wants to know how to clean clam shells. When I was in New Orleans several years ago I bought some uncleaned shells and the lady at a seaside shop told me to soak them in pure liquid bleach for several hours or overnight, then rinse them in water, using a fairly rough sponge for scrubbing.—JAN

DEAR READERS — This is only recommended for white shells as the bleach would, doubtless, remove any color from colored ones.—POLLY

DEAR POLLY — We find many uses for the cardboards that come in freshly laundered shirts. We find that they are fine for greeting card lists. They are easier to handle than many sheets of paper and all the names and addresses can be seen at a glance.

★ ★ ★

We put a green ink dot beside each name as we write the address on the envelope. Next year we will use a red dot and so on.

Our budget is also made out on such a cardboard. It is easy to find in a hurry as I keep it under my desk blotter. There are no pages to turn and I can quickly see what I have hand-lettered. There is also room to list each day's expenditures.—MRS. C. A.

Quest of New Mrs. America Is Under Way

Arrival of the new year has opened the quest to find Mrs. America of 1969, a charming lady who will reign for one year as the nation's No. 1 homemaker.

From Mrs. America Pageant headquarters in Chicago, Mrs. Amilee Thompson Marley, managing director, has declared the 30th annual national contest under way. Entries are now being accepted for the 51 state and District of Columbia competitions, which will precede the national finals next Aug. 14 thru 23 in the Twin Cities of Minneapolis-St. Paul, Minn.

PRIZES

The winning lady will succeed Marlene Cochran of Shawnee Mission, Kans., as Mrs. America. A three-week tour to South America on the Chilean national airline, Lan, awaits the 1969 champion as part of the $15,000 in prizes she will receive, including $4,000 in cash, a $500 wardrobe, and a week's vacation in Florida with her husband.

Sponsors this year include the Quaker Oats Company, Beeline Fashions, Inc., and the Savings Bonds Division of the U.S. Treasury Dept. The latter has annually for the past 10 years picked one of the finalists at the pageant as Mrs. U.S. Savings Bonds, to travel a year representing the department.

A postcard to the Mrs. America Pageant, 333 N. Michigan Ave., Chicago, Ill., 60601, will bring full information. The contest is open to all married women 21 to 55 years of age.

The winner of this state will follow Mrs. Marshall J. Hungerford of Jackson as Mrs. Michigan. Mrs. Hungerford, (Marian Irene), mother of three, will aid in the search for her successor. She said that participation in the national finals has added a new dimension to her life and interested her more than ever in civic and charity endeavors.

Mrs. Hungerford is keeping in touch with many of the friends she made among the other state winners and plans to visit and recevie as many as possible with her husband.

Benefit Party Is Scheduled

A card party sponsored by the women of St. Alfred's Episcopal Church is planned Feb. 6 at 8 p.m. at the church on M-24 between Lake Orion and Oxford.

Merchants of the two communities have donated items to be given away as table and door prizes. Refreshments will be served.

Mrs. Earl Reinhardt, chairman of the affair, or Mrs. Paul Tilly, both in Lake Orion, may be contacted for tickets. The public may attend.

Double Ring Ceremony

Filkowskis Repeat Vows

First Congregational Church was the setting recently for vows spoked by candlelight between Andrea G. Allen and Walter J. Filkowski.

For the double ring ceremony, the daughter of the Thurley E. Allens of Ironstone Drive, Avon Township, was attired in a satin afternoon length sheath with a daisy-appliqued cage.

DAISY HEADPIECE

Complementing her attire was the matching daisy headpiece that secured her veil. The bride's bouquet was made up of chrysanthemum daisies with yellow rose buds.

Constance Joslyn attended the bride as maid of honor with Craig Allen as best man. Curt Allen ushered.

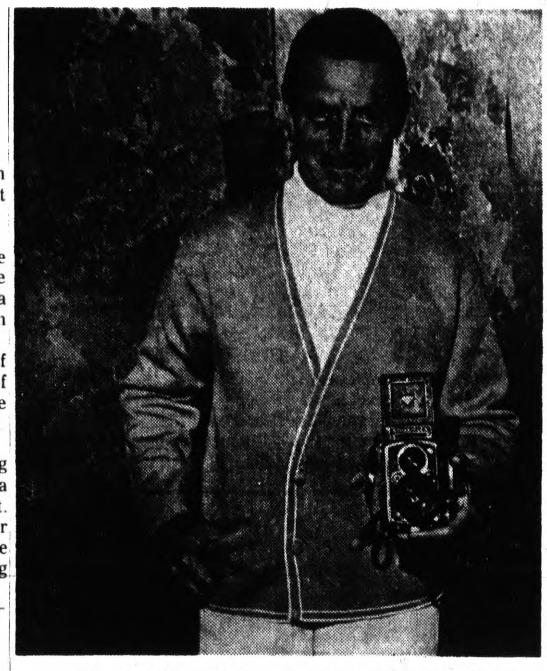

★ ★ ★

Following a reception at the Elks Club in Rochester, the newlyweds departed for a honeymoon trip to southern California.

Case No. E-560

Mothers to Blame Too

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE E-560: When I was stationed at Smith College in the 1920s, a new fad was just being launched.

DR. CRANE

It involved the use of cigarettes by women.

And, like most fads, it was aided by silly society mothers from New York City.

For they'd come up to Northampton, bearing cartons of cigarettes for their daughters.

The girls would then practice smoking in the tearooms of the city, much to the disgust of male patrons.

Those girls would be holding cigarettes in one hand and then waving off the smoke with their free hand.

They dropped ashes in the sugar bowls and on the table tops as well as the chairs.

★ ★ ★

Male members of the faculty, plus the businessmen of the town, thus shunned the tearooms in order to avoid ashes in their food.

"Why did you bring that carton of cigarettes to your daughter?" I asked the wife of a famous New York banker.

"Oh," she said, "we mothers must be pals of our daughters, don't you think?

"And I don't want my daughter to regard me as out of touch with the times or an old fogey!"

But such mothers were nitwits!

Children expect their parents to set a good example and to support the age-old rules of conduct that have proved to be correct.

It definitely does NOT create higher respect for parents when they stampede like stupid sheep into blindly following all the asinine innovations of faddists.

HAND IN HAND

Bad children usually have bad parents!

And we have had a lot of bad parents of the female gender during the intervening years since this Smith College episode.

Here in Chicago, for example, society mothers have taken their high school girls to gynecologists to be fitted with diaphragms and taught other contraceptive techniques.

Many of these high school girls routinely carried contraceptives in their purses when they went out on dates!

And now the shift has gone to the "pill."

★ ★ ★

What is true of Chicago, is also true of other large cities and even some of the smaller towns, though smaller towns usually have a higher moral code than the big cities!

If you society mothers fail to teach Biblical virtues to your daughters but actually abet their promiscuity, then you are dangerous accessories to the divorce and maladjustments of those same daughters.

Sexual promiscuity and a decline in virtue, helped undermine the pristine virtues of Rome's famous Republic.

Smart people take sides and when a thing is wrong, they don't compromise with it.

"When you see a wrong," urged Abraham Lincoln, "then hit it!"

He didn't say caress it or become so broadminded that your brain is too porous to hold a conviction.

Plan to Study Abortions

DETROIT (UPI) — The "critical" lack of reliable data on abortions in Michigan will be the target of the Michigan Council for the Study of Abortion, the newly-formed group announced Wednesday.

The public's general ignorance concerning the medical and legal problems relating to abortion, and the feeling that there ought to be one group which could foster research and studies in that area was the main basis for the council's organization, the Rev. Carl Bielby, vice president of MCSA, said at the first meeting ere.

★ ★ ★

A bill to liberalize abortion was introduced into the Michigan Legislature last year following Colorado lawmakers' adoption of a freer abortion code.

However, the council emphasized that it was not taking a pro or con stand on abortion, but merely sponsoring investigative research into the legal, medical and social aspects of the problem.

IMPARTIAL

"We are not a lobbying group," Rev. Bielby said, "and we have no position on abortion."

★ ★ ★

But he noted that the council would have regular contact with the Legislature, and would send the lawmakers periodic reports of their findings on the state's abortion problems.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Rosalind Wood, MCSA president, said they would presently unknown facts about abortion in this state — such as how many are performed annually, the medical and non-medical personnel involved and the mental health effect of in-hospital abortions as opposed to back alley, underworld abortions.

Cheap Fire Protection

A good home extinguisher is the cheapest fire insurance you can get. If you are putting off buying one because of doubts about types and their uses, here are some answers to questions on extinguishers:

Q: What type extinguisher is most useful and practical for home use?

A: Fire protection specialists recommend a 2½ lb. dry chemical type. It can be handled easily by a housewife.

* * *

Q: How much does an extinguisher cost?

A: Prices vary from $8 to $16.

Q: Will the dry-chemical type leave a mess or give off polsonous fumes?

A: The dry extinguishing agent is a fine powder which spreads like a thin film over a room. It can be easily vacuumed up and is non-toxic.

LOCATION

Q: Where should the extinguisher be kept?

A: The kitchen and workroom areas are most likely to need protection. But mount it away from the expected hazard.

Q: How can I tell if I'm buying a good extinguisher?

A: Look for UL (Underwriters' Laboratories) or FM (Factory Mutual) label which assures you of a good product.

Birth Rate Moving Up

VIENNA (UPI) — Romania is in the midst of a population explosion, one consequence of a government decree last year making abortion illegal.

★ ★ ★

In the ten years of legal abortion prior to the ruling Romania's birth rate fell steadily until the nation's population itself began to register a decline.

★ ★ ★

This alarmed the government in Bucharest, according to reports here, because it wants to become the most heavily populated nation in southeastern Europe. At the moment it has 20 million people, about the same number as Yugoslavia.

Dr. Alexe Cristea, director of the Brancovenesc Hospital in Bucharest, has appealed for more midwives. He said the birth rate in his hospital alone was five to six times higher than in 1956.

Your first year at college will start off with a smashing success if you take along plenty of bulky cardigans. Smart enough to be worn to class, out on a date or just lounging around the dorm. Try it in your own school colors or a dashing combination of meadow green and light natural kniting worsted. Free instructions are available by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to the Needlework Editor, Dept. E-600, The Pontiac Press, P.O. Box 9, along with your request for Leaflet C 422.

Junior Editors Quiz on FENCING

QUESTION: How did the art of fencing develop?

ANSWER: There was a time when men carried swords and settled personal quarrels by duelling, one antagonist often killing the other. As law and order became more widespread, duelling ceased, but the skill which had been developed by so much swordplay turned into the sport called fencing.

When you fence, you wear a mask so your face will not be damaged. The swords used, called foils, epees or sabers, have blunted points. To score a point, you do not injure your opponent, but merely touch a certain part of his body with your weapon.

Rules for foil, epee and saber fencing are slightly different. For example, in foil fencing, if you attack you have the right of way while your opponent parries. Then he gets the right of way and attacks. With epee, both fencers can attack at the same time. With the sabre, you can score a point using either the edge of the blade or the tip.

Fencing is a thrilling sport, but don't try it unless you have the right equipment and the right instruction, for it can be dangerous.

Abortion Case Trial Ordered

Two men arrested on information provided by a Birmingham woman have been ordered to stand trial on charges of conspiring to perform an abortion.

The pair stood mute to the charges at their arraignment before Oakland County Circuit Court Judge Frederick C. Ziem.

The accused, Samuel Bricker, 51, of Southfield and Hugh McDonald, 71, of Detroit, were released pending their trials when Ziem continued their bonds at $5,000 each.

No trial date was set.

They were arrested by State Police Oct. 2, 1967, after a policewoman went to Bricker's apartment and identified herself as Mrs. Tabalea Drader.

Mrs. Drader, 1743 Shipman, had contacted police after receiving a telephone call asking if she wanted an abortion.

Ex-Boxer Free of Traffic Charge

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Lou Nova, 47, actor and former heavyweight boxer, is free of charges that he impeded freeway traffic by driving 50 miles an hour in a 65 m.p.h. zone.

The judge ruled there was "no clear violation of the law" and no proof Nova was driving too slowly.

Appeal Ruling Likely Soon on Detroit Riot Slayings

DETROIT (AP)— One Detroit police officer faces a first-degree murder trial and the county prosecutor is trying to bring two other patrolmen to trial in connection with the slaying of three Negro youths at the Algiers Motel during last July's devastating racial riot.

Patrolman Ronald August, free on bond, is to go on trial some time in June for the shotgun slaying of Aubrey Pollard, 19, one of the three slain youths.

The Wayne County Prosecutor's office has appealed a Recorder's Court ruling that there was not sufficient evidence to bring another patrolman, Robert N. Paille, to trial for murder in the fatal shooting of Fred Temple, 18.

★ ★ ★

Asst. Prosecutor James Garber said Wednesday he expects a ruling shortly from Recorder's Judge Geraldine B. Ford on the appeal.

Garber said the prosecutor's office is also trying to get conspiracy charges reinstated in the case against Paille, Melvin Dismukes, a private guard, and Detroit Policeman David Senak.

The charges were dismissed by Recorder's Judge Frank G. Schemanske but have been appealed to Judge Gerald W. Groat.

August was named as a conspirator but not a defendant in the case.

Dismukes, also free on bond, is awaiting trial for felonious assault in connection with the beating of two occupants of the Algiers Motel annex where the three youths were found slain July 26. Dismukes is a Negro while August, Paille and Senak are white.

THIRD DEATH

No charges have been filed in the death of the third youth, Carl Cooper, 17.

Judges Groat and Ford are acting as appellate judges in the two cases because they were the presiding Recorder's Court judges at the time the prosecutor's office appealed the dismissals ordered by Schemanske and Judge Robert E. DeMascio, who ordered the murder charges against Paille dropped.

Snake venom, which may be fatal if it reaches the blood stream, is harmless when swallowed.

Ypsilanti Lawyer Faces Tax Claim

DETROIT (AP) —Alfred A. Sullivan, an Ypsilanti attorney and former owner of a contracting firm, was arraigned in federal court Wednesday on a charge of failing to file income tax returns on $11,260 earned in 1961 through 1964.

If convicted, the 44-year-old father of four and former owner of the Willow Contracting Co. could be fined up to $40,000 and get four years in prison, or both.

Fair-Housing Vote Upheld

FLINT (UPI)—Circuit Court Judge Anthony Mansour yesterday turned down a request from a civil rights group which was trying to block a referendum on the city's new open-housing law.

★ ★ ★

Mansour turned down the Flint chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP).

The group had asked for a court order to block a vote on the law.

Mansour ruled that a public vote on the ordinance did not violate the 14th Amendment to the U. S. Constitution as the NAACP had contended.

★ ★ ★

The referendum is scheduled to take place Feb. 20.

In asking for the court order, the NAACP said a vote on the law would be discriminatory to the rights of the people involved in the measure.

Moderate Detroit Negro Group Accepts Grant

DETROIT (AP)—A moderate Negro group has accepted one of two $100,000 Ford Foundation grants offered through the New Detroit Committee, after a more militant group turned down its grant saying there were too many strings attached to the money.

The Rev. Roy A. Allen, head of the Detroit Council of Organizations, announced Wednesday that the council had voted unanimously to accept the grant.

The money is to be used for rehabilitation programs in Detroit's riot-scarred Inner City.

The Rev. Albert Cleage Jr., who leads the militant Federation of Self-Determination and says he espouses black separatism as a condition that already exists, announced on Jan. 5 he would not accept an identical grant from the committee.

COOPERATION ASKED

The committee, created by Detroit Mayor Jerome Cavanagh and Gov. George Romney after last July's riot and headed by Joseph L. Hudson Jr., a department store magnate, asked Cleage's group and Allen's to cooperate in their programs.

The committee also stipulated that none of the money be spent for political candidates and that expenditures be accounted for.

Allen said he didn't think there were too many strings attached, adding that his financial report would be made public anyway.

★ ★ ★

Allen said the money would be used to open two new offices in addition to the one the council now has on Grand River Avenue. One office will be located on the east side on Mack Avenue and the other on 12th Street on the west side.

Through the offices, Allen said, the group will contact and help people in the inner city and will act as liaison between inner city Negroes and city agencies.

CLEAGUE'S GROUP

Cleage's group aims at building a self-sufficient black community and wants total black control over the rebuilding of the Negro ghettoes.

Allen's group, on the other hand, stresses the need for abolishing poverty and for helping the poor, both Negroes and whites.

Rep. Ford to Prod LBJ on Debates

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Republican leader Gerald R. Ford planned to challenge President Johnson to debate the GOP presidential nominee—but time ran out before he could do it on nationwide radio and television Tuesday night.

Ford's challenge was not included in the prepared text of his speech—part of the Republican answer to President Johnson's State of the Union message—but he intended to climax the presentation with it.

House Kills Coroner Bill

LANSING (AP) — A bill to abolish the office of coroner in certain counties was itself in need of a coroner today, after being killed by the House during a brief session Wednesday.

The bill, requiring that elected coroners in counties over 100,000 population be replaced by medical examiners who would be doctors, met apparent death after the House refused to accept the compromise version written by a House-Senate committee.

Any county now may replace coroners with medical examiners. As originally introduced by Sen. Sander Levin, D-Berkley, the coroner bill would have require all counties to do so.

The Senate passed an amended version applying only to counties over 100,000 and the House rejected the concept of mandatory replacement entirely.

Text of City Fair-Housing Act, Near Final OK

City commissioners Tuesday night gave preliminary approval to a proposed open housing ordinance for Pontiac.

A final vote is scheduled for next Tuesday's City Commission meeting.

If approved, the ordinance would become law not less than 10 days after its passage.

The proposed ordinance which received preliminary approval is as follows:

An ordinance to prohibit discrimination by reason of religion, race, color or national origin in the sale, rental or dealings, concerning real property located in the City of Pontiac; to prohibit the inducement to sell real property by representation that the religious, racial, color or national origin composition of the neighborhood has changed; to prohibit the use of threats, intimidation, coercion, extortion or conspiracy to induce any person owning an interest or leasing an interest in real property to convey such interest to any person because of his religion, race, color or national origin; and to provide penalties for violation thereof.

THE CITY OF PONTIAC ORDAINS:

Section 1. No owner of real property, lessee, sublessee, real estate broker or salesman, builder or supplier of building materials, lender, financial institution, advertiser, or agent of any of the foregoing shall discriminate against any other person because of the religion, race, color or national origin of such other person in regard to the sale, rental of, or dealings concerning real property located in the City of Pontiac.

Section 2. The provisions of this ordinance shall not apply to the rental of a room or rooms in a single dwelling unit, the remainder of which dwelling unit is occupied by (1) the owner or members of his immediate family or (2) a lessee of the entire dwelling unit or members of his immediate family.

★ ★ ★

(EDITOR'S NOTE— District 6 commissioner Commissioner James H. Marshall said he would vote for final approval if the proposed ordinance's section 2 is changed to read:

The provisions of this ordinance shall not apply to: (1) the rental of a room or rooms to three or less persons in a single dwelling unit, (2) a duplex dwelling, (3) a three-apartment dwelling, provided that, in each of the three instances, the remainder of the subject dwelling is occupied as a home by the owner or a member of his immediate family, or by the lessee of the entire structure, or a member of his immediate family.)

★ ★ ★

Section 3. Nothing in this ordinance shall require anyone owning or possessing an interest in real property to offer the property to the public at large before selling or renting such interest; nor shall this ordinance be deemed to prohibit owners or possessors of an interest in real property or their agents from giving preference to prospective tenants or purchasers for any reason other than religion, race, color or national origin.

Section 4. Nothing in this ordinance shall be construed as a limitation to the right of access by an individual to remedies before the Michigan Civil Rights Commission or before the Courts of this State on an individual basis, or to prohibit the cooperation between the City of Pontiac and the Michigan Civil Rights Commission.

Section 5. Nothing in this ordinance shall be interpreted as limiting, impairing or in any way repealing the functions or existing powers of the Human Relations Commission of the City of Pontiac.

Section 6. No person, firm, partnership, association or corporation shall induce directly or indirectly, or attempt to induce directly or indirectly, the sale, rental or listing for sale or rental of real property by representing that a change has occurred or will or may occur with respect to the religion, racial, color or national origin composition of the block, neighborhood or area in which the property is located; nor shall any representations be made to any prospective purchaser or tenant that any block, neighborhood or area has, will or might undergo a change with respect to the religion, race, color or national origin composition of the block, neighborhood or area for the purpose of discouraging the purchase of property in a particular area.

Section 7. No person, firm, partnership, association or corporation by threat, intimidation, coercion, extortion or conspiracy shall induce or attempt to induce any person owning an interest or leasing an interest in real property in the City of Pontiac to sell, rent or lease, or not to sell, rent or lease, such real property to any person because of such person's religion, race, color or national origin.

Section 8. Any person violating any of the provisions of this ordinance shall, upon conviction thereof, be punished by a fine not to exceed ($100) or imprisonment in Oakland County Jail, not to exceed 90 days or both such fine and imprisonment at the discretion of the court.

★ ★ ★

Section 9. The sections of this ordinance are declared to be severable; and, if any section thereof is declared illegal or void for any reason, it shall not effect the remainder of the ordinance.

Section 10. This ordinance shall take effect 10 days from and after the date of its passage by the City Commission of the City of Pontiac.

'Intelligence Collectors' Face Risks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — This is an era of the ever-present snoop and the ever-airborne alert and every once in a while something happens to remind the world that eternal vigilance and electronic prying have their penalties.

Both the Russians, with their equipment-laden "fishing trawlers" cruising the world's oceans, and the United States are constantly engaged in various forms of surveillance.

But twice this we Americans were reminded of just how risky a business it is.

Over Greenland, a U.S. B52 carrying four hydrogen bombs crashed on the icepack near Thule airfield, and the stage was set for another embarrassing search for missing nuclear weapons.

When the North Koreans seized the U.S. "intelligence-collecting" ship USS Pueblo on Monday, diplomatic alarm bells rang in the world's capitals.

EAVES DROPPING

In June, the Israelis, in the midst of their war against the Arabs, attacked the USS Liberty and, at a cost of 34 lives, America was revealed as eavesdropping on coded battlefield communications of both the Israeli and Egyptian armies.

Perhaps U.S. policy makers, although they are momentarily embarrassed when they are found out, now consider such risks as part of the game and part of the price in a high-tension world where U.S. forces must stand guard along the Communist periphery.

Bus Fares Hiked

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)— The Grand Rapids Transit Authority has authorized a five-cent hike in adult fares—to 35 cents—for the financially ailing City Coach Lines. The higher fare, effective Feb. 1, was an alternative to a proposed $125,000 subsidy and will bring in an additional $96,000 a year, according to Ira Jackson, bus line manager.

Waterford JCs Start 3 New Projects

Pontiac Press Photo

PROJECT UNDER WAY—Lt. David Putnam of the Waterford Township Police Department points out various areas of the township to Jaycees Charles C. Wood (right) and Mike Halfpenny. The Waterford Township Jaycees are working closely with the police department in conjunction with a crime study project the group has begun. Halfpenny is chairman of the crime study committee, while Wood is president of the Jaycee chapter.

The Waterford Township Jaycees, in conjunction with National Jaycee Week, have formed three committees related to township governmental affairs. Waterford Jaycees feel these will be among their most outstanding projects of 1968.

The new committees are community survey, crime study and governmental inspection.

Headed by Bill Maxfield, the community survey project is a public opinion survey being conducted this week.

An opinion questionnaire was distributed yesterday to approximately one of every 10 households in the township.

★ ★ ★

Residents' opinions are being sought on all aspects of public services and facilities in the township, according to Maxfield.

OTHER QUESTIONS

Additional questions concern taxation, open housing, school construction and the right of public employes to strike.

Organized because of the alarming increase in crime throughout the U.S., the crime study committee is charged with evaluating the crime status in the township.

Comparisons will be made with surrounding communities of similar population and similar features. The results, hopefully, will relate a comprehensive analysis of crime with consideration given to population increase and police manpower, according to Jaycee officials.

★ ★ ★

Committee Chairman Mike Halfpenny said that the monies involved in the four major areas of crime in the township — breaking and entering, larceny, malicious destruction of property and automobile theft — amounted to more than $250,000 last year.

LARCENIES UP

Halfpenny also noted that larcenies over $50 last year increased 38 per cent over 1966.

Of particular concern to the Jaycees is the relationship between juvenile arrests and juvenile crime in the township since 1965.

The Jaycees contend that a 36.5 per cent decrease in juvenile arrests has been accompanied by a 39.4 per cent increase in malicious destruction of property, "normally considered a juvenile offense."

★ ★ ★

"The fact that the juvenile division of the township police department was reduced from two men to one early in 1966 makes these statistics particularly alarming," said Halfpenny.

INSPECTION PROJECT

Headed by Phil Williams, the governmental inspection project is involved with a study of all major aspects of governmental activities in the township.

A prepared format, provided by the U.S. Jaycees, gives an impartial evaluation of such activities as education, health, police, fire, public works, public utilities, welfare, parks and recreation, according to Waterford Jaycee officials.

Completion of the project is aimed at pinpointing possible deficiencies in township government.

★ ★ ★

By coordinating the efforts of these three committees, the Jaycees hope to develop an in-depth study of the role of township government in meeting the needs of a growing population.

COMMUNITY IMPROVEMENT

"As Jaycees, we feel that these projects are the type of organized activities required of us, as citizens, to improve our community," said Charles C. Wood, president of the Waterford Township Jaycees.

"By comparing public opinion with the facts as we can obtain them, additional projects may be started in the areas of public education or governmental change," added Wood.

"For, as concerned citizens, the Jaycees must continually work to make Waterford Township a better place in which to live," he said.

★ ★ ★

The three projects are among 71 projects and assignment areas undertaken by the Waterford Township Jaycees.

OTHER PROJECTS

Among the group's popular projects are the Junior Miss Pageant, junior golf, the Junior Champ track and field meet, the Christmas shopping tour for children from needy families and the Easter egg hunt.

Other projects sponsored by the organization are shooting education, the Speak Up for Waterford speech contest, a teen-age rodeo and a Halloween party.

Last year, the chapter played host to the Michigan Jaycees State Junior Champ meet. The team fielded from this event went on to capture the national championship.

★ ★ ★

A few of the Jaycees' community service projects involve voter registration, the Jay Shop at Pontiac State Hospital, and the annual Christmas tree pickup.

SPORTS SHOW

The Waterford Township Jaycees also sponsor the North Oakland County Home and Sports Show annually.

The chapter's current membership consists of 91 men between the ages of 21 and 35 plus 14 associate members.

★ ★ ★

The present annual operating budget is slightly more than $11,000.

Band Concert Set Sunday at Kettering

The 88-piece Waterford Kettering High School Symphonic Band will present its annual winter concert at 3 p.m. Sunday in the school gymnasium.

The band will perform music ranging from traditional to light popular, according to George S. Fetter, director of bands.

Selections to be presented are "Hosts of Freedom," a march by K. L. King; "Hungarian Folk Suite," by Bela Bartok; "Seascape" by Alfred Reed; "Finale from the 5th Symphony" by Shubert; "March in B Flat Major" by Prokofiev; "The Battell" by William Byrd; and "Walt Disney Overture" by Frank Erickson.

One of the highlights of the concert will be a baritone solo by senior Robert Gohl. A member of the band since his sophomore year, he will perform "Seascape."

★ ★ ★

Tickets are 70 cents for adults and 35 cents for students. Elementary school pupils will be admitted free.

Tickets will be available at the door.

Dog Owners Offered Clinics in Waterford

Waterford Township dog owners are invited to attend clinics this Sunday and Feb. 11 and Feb. 25, Officer Elwyn Meredith of the township animal welfare department said today.

Meredith said the dog clinics will start at 1 p.m. and continue to 4 each Sunday at the Oakland County Garage.

Purpose of the clinics is to give dog owners the opportunity to inoculate their pets against rabies and to purchase 1968 licenses.

Township dog licenses this year are priced at $2 for male and spayed dogs and $3 for females.

★ ★ ★

The fees will double after the Feb. 29 deadline to buy licenses.

Cost for the rabies vaccination at the clinics will be $2, according to Meredith.

TWIN FALLS, Idaho (AP) — Henry Gettert waited until he was 50 to get married because "I told myself I wouldn't get married until I could support a wife."

The anniversary actually falls a few days earlier, but the Getterts are combining the milestones in a single celebration.

Jupiter Spot May Be Organic Dye, Researchers Say

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Calif. (AP) — The great red spot on the planet Jupiter that has puzzled astronomers since it was discovered in 1831 may be organic dye, scientists at Ames Research Center said today.

Experiments at the National Aeronautics and Space Administration facility led to the conclusion, two researchers said.

Cyril Ponnamperuma and Fritz Woeller said the most obvious chemical explanation of the red spot may well be millions of square miles of red organic dye drawn into a vortex by a giant meteor crater or some other geographical feature in the solid hydrogen surface of Jupiter.

They said the planet's atmosphere may be largely red dye with an upwelling at the vortex through dense surrounding white clouds, creating the red spot.

Child Cruelty Trial Ordered

Oakland County Circuit Judge Clark J. Adams yesterday ordered an Independence Township man and his housekeeper to stand trial on a charge of cruelty to children.

Standing mute at their arraignment on the charge were Paul M. Maczko, 57, and Mrs. Florence Lewis, 29, both of 9052 Ortonville.

★ ★ ★

Adams did not set a date for the trial. Meanwhile they are free on bond.

The couple is accused of making four of Mrs. Lewis' five children live in a small building behind Maczko's home. During their preliminary hearing in October, Mrs. Lewis' 9-year-old son, Frederick, said that Maczko once chained him to a younger brother in a garage.

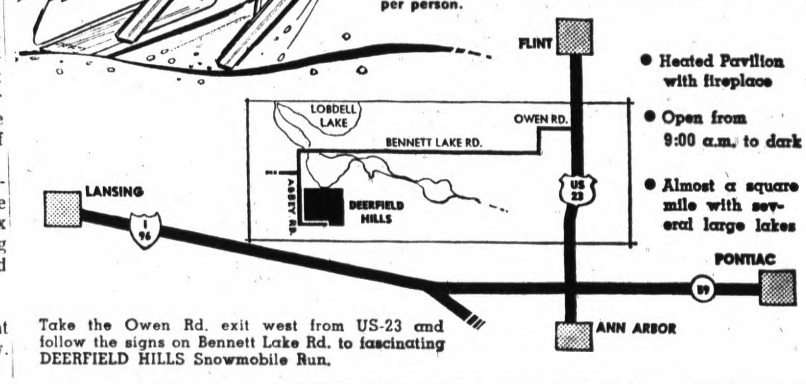

Bookie Takes Over Historic House

LONDON (AP) — A London appeals committee overruled the outraged citizens of Westminster and decided Wednesday that the home of 18th century poet and painter William Blake may be turned into a betting shop.

Bookie Andrew Gordon wanted to open a betting shop where Blake once lived near the House of Commons for 19 years. His application was at first turned down by the Westminster Betting Licensing Committee, which heeded the protests of 25 residents and decided the house wasn't a suitable site for putting a bob on a horse.

But Wednesday the Inner London Session Appeals Committee granted the license. David Fairbairn, lawyer for the local residents, said: "It is going to be difficult for people to try and conjure the visions of William Blake while being surrounded by gentlemen, however respectable, in a betting shop."

Thieu: No Halt to Bombing Until Aggression Is Stopped

SAIGON (AP) — President Nguyen Van Thieu said today the bombing of North Vietnam can be stopped only after the North Vietnamese halt "all their aggressive activities."

Commenting on nearly three years of raids against North Vietnam by U.S. warplanes, Thieu said the bombing is "the response to the whole apparatus of Communist aggressive activities, including Communist infiltration across the borders as well as guerrilla attacks, subversion, sabotage and terrorism. . .

"Therefore, the bombing of North Vietnam can be stopped only after North Vietnam has stopped all their aggressive activities. . ."

Thieu, in a broadcast and televised speech, told a joint session of the Senate and House of Representatives that U.S. and South Vietnamese views are not always identical even if they are allies. But he said the "position of President Johnson on peace negotiations, as stated in his San Antonio speech last September and his State of the Union message on Jan. 17 seems to me very realistic in requesting solid guarantees before the bombing of North Vietnam could stop."

REASONABLE HOPES

Johnson, in his State of the Union address, said the bombing "would stop immediately if talks would take place promptly and with reasonable hopes that they would be productive." North Vietnam rejected this, saying the United States would have to stop the bombing without any conditions before it would talk peace.

Thieu said he has already "actively explored the avenues which may lead to fruitful negotiations with the North Vietnamese authorities."

12 Vie for Awards in Jaycees' Contest

The Waterford Township Jaycees' annual "Speak Up for Waterford" oratory contest will be held at 7:30 p.m. today at Crary Junior High School 501 N. Cass Lake.

The event is open to the public. No admission will be charged according to Norris J. Kinneberg, contest chairman.

Twelve students from township secondary schools are entered in the competition — eight in the senior high school division and four in the junior high school division.

Junior high schools represented are Crary and Pierce. The senior high school contestants are from Our Lady of the Lakes, Waterford Mott, Waterford Kettering and Waterford Township.

Each contestant in both divisions will talk a maximum of 10 minutes on the subject, "Educational Opportunities of Waterford."

The senior division winner will receive a $50 government bond and a plaque. The winner of the junior division will be awarded a $25 government bond and a plaque.

The runner-up in each division also will receive a plaque, said Kinneberg.

CIVIC WORKERS — Pontiac Area Jaycee President James H. Gallagher Jr. (left) and Internal Vice President James Peterson are crusading for civic-minded men interested in bettering themselves and their community. The membership drive is sparked by this week being National Jaycee Week.

Pontiac Area Jaycees Seek Men to Fight Citizen Apathy

Pontiac Area Jaycees members are advertising for help this week from young men who want to fight citizen apathy.

The plea during this annual National Jaycee Week is as follows: "We need people who care about themselves and are interested in bettering their community, regardless of their job or station in the community."

Men between the ages of 21 and 35 are invited to join.

"If we can get more interested persons of this area involved with the Jaycees, we can get more involved in all phases of community improvement," said Pontiac Jaycee President James Gallagher Jr. "The prime purpose of the Jaycee movement is leadership training through community development. I would hope we could get more policemen, teachers and other interested citizens to meet with us," Gallagher said.

JAYCEE PROJECTS

In the past year the Pontiac Jaycees have handled the decorating of the Community Mental Health Center at Pontiac State Hospital. Other projects include youth programs as the annual Christmas shopping expeditions planned for many youths from needy families, junior champ, junior golf, the Easter egg hunt, the mystery treat and midget football.

The Jaycees also sponsor the Pontiac and the Michigan Junior Miss pageants.

"The Pontiac Jaycees are concerned and involved with many phases of community life," added Gallagher, who pointed out Jaycees were on the Pontiac Area Planning Council, the City Citizens' Finance Committee, the School District Finance Study Committee and the Human Relations Board.

Any person interested in joining the Jaycees should contact a Jaycee or the Jaycee office at 33 W. Huron for information.

The current membership drive ends with a meeting of all interested persons at Fortino's Steak House at 8 p.m. Feb. 7, when the Jaycee movement will be outlined in detail.

The Pontiac chapter currently has 110 members. The chapter was formed in 1924. Chapters were later originated in Clarkston, Waterford Township, Lake Orion and Rochester.

Japanese Vessel Sinks After Crash

TOKYO (AP) — An 89-ton Japanese fishing vessel sank and its crew of 12 was missing after a collision off Kyushu, southwestern Japan, with the 7,638-ton American freighter Beatrice Victory early today, the Maritime Safety Agency said.

★ ★ ★

A spokesman said the Beatrice Victory, owned by the U.S. Department of Commerce, appeared undamaged and remained in the area to search for the missing crewmen of the fishing craft.

The Japanese craft was identified as the No. 22 Junwa-Maru.

Crash Saves Town Truck

OLD TOWN, Maine (AP) — David Brown crashed the town's new $6,500 dump truck through the closed doors of the municipal garage Wednesday to get the vehicle out of the burning building.

★ ★ ★

Brown, a mechanic, was servicing the truck when the fire was discovered.

Another city employe operating a snow blower nearby ran into the burning building and drove out a $20,000 road grader.

Fair-Housing Push Urged

LANSING (UPI) — A group of 21 state legislators yesterday urged the New Detroit Committee (NDC) to undertake a statewide public education campaign on a proposed open-housing law.

Rep. James E. Bradley, D-Detroit, said the fair-housing proposal was defeated during a special session of the Legislature last month because "of the flood of misinformation distributed" prior to a vote on the measure.

The NDC, a group of influential citizens organized to rebuild Detroit after the city's bloody riots last July, so far has led the campaign for a statewide open-housing law.

"A broad and general public education program spearheaded by the New Detroit Committee could concentrate on presenting the facts of fair housing to all the people of Michigan," Bradley said.

★ ★ ★

Bradley sent a letter to NDC Chairman Joseph L. Hudson saying he felt there was greater support for the open-housing proposal than a month ago.

County Mental Health Improvements Seen

By ED BLUNDEN

Despite crises and setbacks in the county's mental health program last year, officials connected with the projects have forecast an improved, enlarged and more efficient service this year.

In the last meeting of the Oakland County Community Health Services Board, a glowing picture of ever-increasing care for the mentally retarded and disturbed was painted.

This was in spite of the fact that at the same meeting it was announced that the acting codirector of the programs was resigning.

Dr. Donal L. White, assistant psychiatric director, announced he was quitting effective March 8. His resignation came on the heels of the resignation of Dr. Robert E. Walden, director of the county programs, on Jan. 2.

★ ★ ★

After Walden quit, Dr. White and John Madole, administrative board officer, had been in charge of the several county programs.

With Dr. White leaving, only Madole is left of the top three officials.

However the board, made up of appointed citizens and public officials, is carrying on a search for individuals trained in psychiatry and administration to lead the program, labeled a pioneer effort in the state.

Dr. Walden left after a long controversy, mainly centered around his leadership. The controversy emanated principally from Oakland Training Institute (OTI) in Berkley.

★ ★ ★

Ten of a staff of 12 threatened to resign, but withdrew their resignations at about the same time Dr. Walden's resignation was tendered.

'PERSONAL REASONS'

Dr. White, Walden's assistant, said his own resignation was purely for personal reasons.

He said he was accepting a post as superintendent of the outpatient clinic at the Southern Arizona Mental Health Center in Tuscon, Ariz.

In remarks concerning his resignation, Dr. White added, "I've seen all I can stand of snow and ice."

★ ★ ★

The board accepted the resignation with regret, and Dr. White was commended for his service.

OPTIMISTIC FORECAST

Paul N. Averill, chairman of the board, gave an optimistic forecast for this year in development of mental health programs in the county.

The Mental Health Services Board is operating with a $2.2-million budget for this fiscal year.

The board was created after a 1963 state law (Public Act 54) enabled counties to set up separate mental health agencies. Prior to this most programs were carried out by existing public health authorities and hospitals.

★ ★ ★

Oakland County's program has apparently moved ahead faster than elsewhere and their effort has been termed "pioneering" by mental health experts.

PROBLEMS MET

However, at OTI in Berkley, where key programs were being initiated and worked out with 40 mentally retarded children, difficulties were encountered.

Four directors quit OTI in 15 months and then almost the entire staff threatened to quit.

However, the board acted to appoint Mrs. Rita Charron, a woman active in state and local programs with the mentally retarded, as a consultant to OTI.

★ ★ ★

She has been able to make adjustments at the institute to bring harmony.

REPORT TO BOARD

In her report to the board she explained some of the past difficulties, which included the information that some highly trained persons had been given more or less menial tasks at OTI.

Mrs. Charron reported that a better utilization of personnel was being put into effect.

She also said goals had been established and that a training and information program for the staff was under way.

★ ★ ★

Another recent addition to the staff is Charles H. Martinez as public relations director. He formerly worked for Fruehauf Corp. in Detroit. He replaced the former director who quit in the midst of the OTI crisis.

'CHANGE OF ATTITUDE'

Averill, as board chairman, said he noted "a change of attitude" at OTI and predicted this would help the entire program.

For 1968 he sees better counseling to the mentally handicapped and their families; increased referral services; better prevention and information programs; and better follow-up services for mental patients.

He described 1967 as a year for stabilization of programs and 1968 as a year of advancement when plans go from the drawing board stage to operational.

★ ★ ★

In general he sees a better total effort to help the mentally handicapped in Oakland County during this year.

New Names for Mental Ills

By Science Service

As though medical nomenclature were not confusing enough, the America Psychiatric Association has names for mental disorders, as set forth by the World Health Organization.

★ ★ ★

The move brings U.S. terminology in accord with the Eighth Revision of the International Classification of Disease and spurs the effort toward a world-wide uniform nomenclature for psychiatric disorders.

★ ★ ★

Some psychiatrists will object to the change. "Schizophrenic reaction," for example, which implies psychological causes, will be changed to "schizophrenia," implying a biological disease. But many psychiatrists do not view this mental illness as primarily biological.

★ ★ ★

Also, the United States will drop its distinctions between acute and chronic disorders. All mental illnesses will now fall into three categories: psychosis, neurosis and other nonpsychotic disturbances, and mental retardation.

Open Housing Vote Is Sought

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — A group which spearheaded a recount of the recently approved school millage vote in Grand Rapids has announced its support of a petition drive for a referendum on the city's new open housing ordinance.

Mrs. Kenneth Morford, president of the Parents and Taxpayers Organization, said "No one is against open housing in this move," but that the group feels the public should vote on the issue.

Tougher Calls Sounded for Return of U.S. Ship

WASHINGTON (AP) — New and harsher calls for tough U.S. action—including use of air and sea power if necessary—followed initial diplomatic failures to retrieve the captured ship Pueblo from her North Korean captors.

Two senators said Wednesday the United States might be forced to use nuclear weapons if the Pueblo incident touches off a war with North Korea.

★ ★ ★

And at least one senator who has strongly opposed U.S. war policy in Vietnam, Sen. Frank Church, called seizure of the Pueblo and the 83 Americans aboard "an act of war."

The Idaho Democrat said "the ship must be returned at once, with all Americans aboard. Our national honor is at stake here."

CAUTION URGED

Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield and Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, counseled a cautious U.S. response to the incident.

Mansfield said the United States shouldn't "go off half-cocked" militarily."

★ ★ ★

The warnings of possible nuclear intervention if the incident explodes into war were sounded by two members of the Senate Armed Services Committee, Sens. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., and Strom Thurmond, R-S.C.

Jackson, contending the U.S. commitment in Vietnam is occuping most of its available ground forces, said of North Korea: "If they make an all-out attack on South Korea, some kind of use will have to be made of tactical nuclear weapons."

Thurmond agreed with that assessment, adding: "We will use any weapons if necessary to protect America and her people."

Their comments came on a Metromedia television interview.

★ ★ ★

From Capitol Hill and elsewhere, there came these comments following the Soviet rebuff of a U.S. request for help in getting the ship returned:

● Michigan Gov. George Romney, campaigning in New Hampshire for the Republican presidential nomination, said the Pueblo's seizure is "right in line" with warnings he said he heard overseas of Communist pressure aimed at influencing the course of the Vietnam war.

LACKS INFORMATION

"On the basis of my talks with the world leaders in the last couple of months, they (the Communists) are going to bring pressure on us in different parts of the world in order to try to influence the outcome in Vietnam, Romney told a Manchester audience.

But Romney said he didn't want to discuss what action should be taken to get the ship back because he didn't have enough information.

● California Gov. Ronald Reagan, who's been discussed as the possible GOP candidate, said in Los Angeles that President Johnson should order warships into Wonsan Harbor, North Korea, to rescue the Pueblo if she isn't released within 24 hours.

Reagan said the seizure is "the most disgraceful thing to happen in my memory in America."

● Sen. William B. Spong Jr., D-Va., urged Johnson to "take all necessary steps to secure the immediate return of the ship, its equipment and the members of its crew."

● Sen. George Murphy, R-Calif., said he was disappointed by the Johnson administration's reaction. He said if the decision were up to him he would tell the North Koreans to release the Pueblo in 12 hours or the Strategic Air Command would be sent "to impress them with the seriousness of the situation."

● Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., said the United States must bring about the prompt release "take all steps" including the use of force, if necessary, to of the Pueblo and her crew.

Miami Blasts Hit Shippers of Cuba Items

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Plastic explosive tucked into the mail slots of three businesses exploded early today within 22 minutes, police said, shattering a garage and two companies that ship packages to Cuba.

Police Sgt. Russ Leasburg was injured slightly while investigating the first blast when a second explosive detonated at the same spot, Lt. James H. Knight said. Knight said the timing of the second explosive apparently was accidental.

★ ★ ★

Last Saturday a group calling itself "Cuban Power" said it exploded a bomb in a B25 airplane loaded with similar packages to Cuba and parked at Miami International Airport.

The group later issued a warning, signed "Ernesto" and captioned "War Communique No. 1," threatening further bombings—including planes in flight — "unless such shipments to Cuba were halted."

PRIVATE SHIPMENTS

The packages—mainly food and clothing—are shipped to relatives by exiles here. The U.S. government will accept only medicine and letters for mailing to the Cuban island, so private companies ship other merchandise that is exempt from the American embargo.

A service station on the Ohio Turnpike provides for drivers of refrigerated trucks and trailers liquid nitrogen, which helps to maintain freezing conditions in the trucks.

Arms Agency Extension Seen

LBJ Makes Request; Hearings Next Week

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress is considered certain to approve President Johnson's request to extend for three years the life of the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency.

His request Wednesday came less than a week after the agency achieved a long-sought goal — agreement with the Soviet Union on a complete draft of a proposed treaty to halt the spread of nuclear weapons.

★ ★ ★

The House Foreign Affairs Committee called for hearings to begin next Thursday on Johnson's proposal. They will end the following week, with House passage of the bill expected shortly thereafter.

A committee source saw no likelihood of any extensive opposition to the proposal, which would carry a $33-million price tag over the three-year period.

SEES APPROVAL

In the Senate, Democratic leader Mike Mansfield also anticipated approval and foresaw no significant difficulties.

In letters Wednesday to the residing officers of the House and Senate, Johnson said arms control was "the most urgent business of our time."

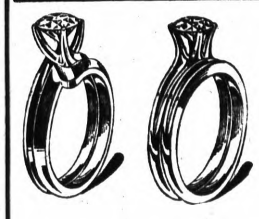

★ ★ ★

He said the arms-control agency had played an important role in installation of the Washington-Moscow hot line and in a treaty aimed at barring nuclear weapons from outer space.

"Now the energy and perseverance of the agency has brought us close to the next great step forward: A treaty banning the spread of nuclear weapons," Johnson wrote.

The agency, with a staff of 200 and a budget of $9 million for the current fiscal year, was established in 1961. It is an independent unit of the federal government, although housed in the State Department.

Frequent Serving of Chicken Helps to Balance Budget

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

Week in, week out, chicken continues to be a good buy. It is definitely a budget food. I have even seen chicken wings for five cents a pound.

The easiest way to prepare chicken is by baking. All you have to do is to salt the pieces, place them skin side up in a shallow pan and spoon melted butter over them. Bake at 375 degrees for about an hour.

With this basic recipe, you can add your own variations. One of them might be this tarragon version.

TARRAGON BAKED CHICKEN

- 2 broiler-fryer chickens, quartered
- 2 teaspoons salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- ¼ cup butter or margarine, melted
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- 2 teaspoons dried leaf tarragon

Sprinkle chicken with salt and pepper. Place skin side up in shallow baking pan. Combine melted butter, lemon juice and tarragon; spoon over chicken.

Bake in 375 degree oven 50 to 60 minutes, brushing occasionally with pan juices. Garnish with lemon slices. 8 servings.

Braising chicken is also an easy method of cooking. But don't stop with simple braising. Add Almond Dumplings to the pot and you'll have a special meal.

BRAISED CHICKEN WITH ALMOND DUMPLINGS

- 3½ pound broiler-fryer chicken, disjointed (save back-bone, ribs and giblets for soup)
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1 cup diced onion
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 2 cups water
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 3 tablespoons water
- ¾ cup dairy sour cream

Brown chicken in butter in large 12-inch skillet over moderate heat. Add onions; cook until soft but not brown. Dissolve salt in 2 cups water and add to skillet. Cover and simmer about 40 minutes until tender.

Remove chicken pieces to serving platter and keep warm. Bring liquid in pan to boil; drop in dumpling mixture by heaping teaspoonsful. Cover and lower heat. Simmer five minutes.

Remove dumplings with slotted spoon and add to chicken platter. Blend flour with 3 tablespoons water; stir into pan. Cook five minutes until thickened. Stir in sour cream and pour over dumplings and chicken. Yield: 4 servings.

Almond Dumplings

- 1½ cups fine butter cracker crumbs, 36 crackers
- ¼ cup finely chopped or ground blanched almonds
- ½ cup milk
- 3 eggs, beaten
- 3 tablespoons melted butter or margarine
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ⅛ teaspoon white pepper
- ⅛ teaspoon ground nutmeg

★ ★ ★

Prepare crumbs, a little at a time, in an electric blender or crush with rolling pin between two sheets of waxed paper. Combine with remaining ingredients in order given. Mix well. Yield: about a dozen dumplings.

If there is only an hour before dinner, you still have time to fix curried chicken. This recipe makes use of a gravy mix.

SLIGHTLY CURRIED CHICKEN

- 2½ to 3 pound broiler-fryer cut up
- 2 tablespoons oil
- 1¼ cups water
- ½ teaspoon curry powder
- 1 envelope (1¼ oz.) chicken gravy mix
- 1 tablespoon chopped pimiento
- 1 tablespoon chopped parsley
- 2 tablespoons chopped peanuts

★ ★ ★

Using skillet, brown chicken pieces well in oil. Add 1 cup water and curry powder. Cover and simmer 40 minutes or until tender. Remove chicken to platter; keep warm.

Stir contents of gravy mix envelope into remaining ¼ cup water. Add to liquid in skillet along with pimiento and parsley. Bring to a boil, stirring. Serve gravy over chicken and sprinkle with nuts. 4 servings.

SLIGHTLY CURRIED CHICKEN

Citrus Sauce Is Pear Topping

Saucy Pears, dressed with a citrus sauce, just fit the bill whenever foods may be a little on the rich side. Have the pears spoon eating ripe so they are tender and sweet since the pears are not cooked in this dessert.

Few fruits have as romantic backgrounds as do pears. They have been made famous by chefs who acclaim their virtues and have been praised by gourmets, ancient and modern, for their buttery, juicy meat, their aroma and delicate flavor.

Saucy Pears

- 6 fresh Anjou, Bosc or Comice pears
- 1 cup orange juice
- 1 tablespoon grated orange peel
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- 1 teaspoon grated lemon peel
- ½ cup water
- ½ cup sugar
- Dash of salt
- 2 tablespoons cornstarch
- ½ cup chopped nuts
- ½ cup whipping cream
- 1 tablespoon sugar
- ½ teaspoon vanilla extract

Chill pears. Combine orange and lemon juice and peel, water, sugar, salt and cornstarch in saucepan. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly until thickened. Cool.

Peel pears and core from bottom. Place pears in serving dish and spoon sauce over them. Sprinkle with chopped nuts. Whip cream with sugar and vanilla. Serve over pears. Makes 6 servings.

Mixer Best for Beating of Pound Cake

A new version of pound cake adds cream and is mixer-made.

Mixer Pound Cake

- 2¼ cups sifted cake flour
- ½ teaspoon baking powder
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 1 cup (½ pound) butter
- 1⅓ cups sugar
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- ¼ teaspoon mace
- 4 large eggs
- ¼ cup light cream

On wax paper sift together flour, baking powder and salt. In a medium mixing bowl, cream butter, sugar, vanilla and mace.

★ ★ ★

Add eggs one at a time; with electric mixer at medium speed, beat 1 minute after each addition. Add flour mixture in 2 additions, alternately with cream; with electric mixer at low speed, beat ½ minute after each addition.

With mixer at medium speed, beat batter 2 minutes. Turn into buttered and floured 9 by 3 inch loaf pan.

Bake at 325 degrees until a cake tester inserted in center comes out clean — 60 to 70 minutes. Place cake in pan on wire rack for 10 minutes; turn out on rack; turn right side up; cool.

Roll Hot Muffins in Cinnamon and Sugar

For a real eye opening breakfast serve these spicy cinnamon muffins with fried cream of wheat cereal and juicy peaches.

Cinnamon Muffins

- 1¼ cups sifted flour
- 3 teaspoons baking powder
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- ½ cup Quick cream of wheat cereal
- 1 egg, lightly beaten
- 1 cup milk
- ¼ cup melted butter or margarine
- ¼ cup granulated sugar
- 1 teaspoon ground cinnamon

Sift together flour, baking powder and salt, add sugar and cereal. Combine egg, milk and melted butter. Make a well in flour mixture, pour in milk mixture all at once. Stir quickly and lightly, until just mixed but still lumpy.

Fill 12 well-greased muffin cups two-thirds full. Bake in a hot oven (425F.) 25 minutes or until done. Combine sugar and cinnamon, sprinkle on waxed paper. Roll hot muffins in mixture until completely coated. Serve hot. Makes 12 muffins.

- 2 cups onion strips, ½-inch wide
- 2 cups celery crescents, ¼ inch wide
- 1 cup fat-free chicken broth
- ½ teaspoon sugar
- 2 cloves garlic, crushed
- 3 tablespoons cornstarch mixed with ¼ cup cold water
- 1 tablespoon strong soy sauce
- 1 pound large (about 16) cooked shrimp (peeled, deveined and sliced lengthwise to reatin shape)
- 1 can (1 pound) bean sprouts, drained
- Cooked Rice and Chinese noodles

In a 10-inch skillet over moderately low heat, heat the oil; add onion and celery; cook about 5 minutes, stirring several times. Add chicken broth, sugar and garlic; cover and simmer about 5 minutes.

Add cornstarch mixture and soy sauce; cook and stir constantly over moderate heat until thickened and clear. Mix in shrimp and reheat; mix in bean sprouts and reheat. Shrimp and sprouts will thin sauce a little; if still too thick, add a little broth.

Serve with extra soy sauce, over cooked rice; top with Chinese noodles. Makes 4 servings.

Lunar-Landing Hopes Brighten

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — One year after three U.S. astronauts died in the tragic Apollo 1 fire, America's man to the moon team has bounced back from that staggering shock. Now space officials visualize a "fighting chance" to land men on the moon by 1970.

Hopes to achieve the national goal of a manned lunar landing in this decade—battered in Apollo 1's aftermath by disclosures of serious hardware deficiencies—appear brighter now than during those depressing weeks following the accident.

★ ★ ★

One important milestone was passed last Nov. 9 when the first unmanned Saturn 5 rocket of the type that will propel astronauts to the moon was successfully launched.

Many hurdles remain between now and the day U.S. spacemen set foot on the moon, but "we have a very good fighting chance" to make the 1970 goal, says Dr. Kurt H. Debus, director of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Kennedy Space Center here.

IMPORTANT TEST

"It all depends on the next few flights," he said.

An important test occurred this week, when a towering Saturn 1 rocket hoisted the first unmanned Lunar Module into earth orbit for a 6½-hour test of spacecraft engines. Future Lunar Modules are to disconnect from Apollo cabin sections in orbit around the moon to carry astronauts to and from the lunar surface.

★ ★ ★

Launching the bug-shaped craft was the same Saturn 1 rocket that was on a nearby launch pad when Air Force Lt. Cols. Virgil I. Grissom, Edward H. White II and Navy Lt. Cmdr. Roger B. Chaffee died in the Apollo 1 blaze last Jan. 27.

Repercussions from the fire still are reverberating in Washington where a critical Congress cut more than half a billion dollars out of NASA's request for $5.1 billion for operations in the current budget year.

OPENLY CRITICAL

Enough funds were left to complete the man-to-the-moon flight, but the financial squeeze prevented NASA from planning America's space goals beyond the initial lunar landing.

Several congressmen still remain openly critical of NASA management, but officials of the space agency and North American Rockwell Corp., where Apollo spaceships are built, said they have satisfied demands from Congress relating directly to the Apollo 1 fire, as well as suggestions from a blue-ribbon NASA review board which probed the tragedy.

★ ★ ★

These included recommendations to severely restrict and control the amount of combustible materials in Apollo spacecraft, quicker escape methods in the event of launch pad emergencies, improving safety procedures and equipment, better emergency training for personnel, and enforcing rigid inspection at all stages of wiring installation.

Investigators of the tragedy said a bruised or broken wire most likely triggered the blaze and also reported finding "many deficiencies in design and engineering, manufacture and quality control."

IN SPACECRAFT

"Fire is being designed against" at the launch pads and in future Apollo spacecraft, Debus said, including the moon ship being built to carry the first three-man Apollo crew—Navy Capt. Walter M. Schirra Jr., Air Force Maj. Donn F. Eisele, and Walter R. Cunningham, a civilian. Their mission, a flight of up to 10 days in earth orbit, is to take place about August.

In one big change, NASA contractors working on Apollo hardware at the Kennedy Space Center now report directly to KSC, rather than NASA's Manned Spacecraft Center at Houston, Tex. Under the old system, which existed at the time of the Apollo 1 fire, contractors followed recommendations of Houston even when KSC launch experts suggested otherwise, harming relations between both centers and contractors as well.

★ ★ ★

North American Rockwell Corp., which came under heavy criticism from Congress for poor workmanship in building Apollo spacecraft, brought in experts from outside the industry to help straighten out its problems.

The moon ship being built for Schirra, Cunningham and Eisele —now in final systems check-out at Downey—has a new quick-escape hatch which can be opened in three seconds during an emergency.

GREATLY REDUCED

The number of combustable materials has been reduced by 79 per cent, and the spaceship's resistence to fire is now being assured by flame tests with a similar moon ship at NASA's Manned Spacecraft Center.

Their space suits will have 10 times the fire resistence of those worn by the Apollo 1 crew, NASA officials said. Exposed wiring has been hidden by protective covers. Aluminum oxygen lines with solder joints that could melt in a fire have been replaced by more heat-resistent stainless steel tubing.

★ ★ ★

A pure-oxygen atmosphere will continue to be used in orbit, at the request of astronauts, because trying to switch to a more earth-like air mixture could force nitrogen into a pilot's blood stream under certain conditions, causing bends. Project officials have left open the choice of using air or pure oxygen for ground tests.

★ ★ ★

"Out of the Apollo 1 disaster has come a better spaceship," one NASA official observed. "Grissom, White and Chaffee did not die in vain. Because of their sacrifice, the lives of other spacemen may have been saved. As good test pilots, the Apollo 1 crew would have wanted it that way."

Tax Vote Slated by School District

MONROE (AP) — A vote on an operating millage proposal for the Bedford Public School District has been set for March 16. Size of the millage has not been decided.

★ ★ ★

Last Dec. 23, Bedford voters approved a four-year, 5.25-mill proposal to eliminate an operating deficit, but rejected a 14.5-mill proposal for operations.

Architect Is Hired for New High School

An architect was hired last night by the Pontiac Board of Education to work on preliminary plans for a new 4,500-student high school.

The firm of O'Dell, Hewlett & Luckenbach of Birmingham will develop preliminary feasibility studies on site location, utilization and construction cost estimates.

A site near Pontiac State Hospital has been suggested as the location for an estimated $18.7-million school by the school board's Finance Study Council.

The board of education, however, has not officially decided upon a site.

★ ★ ★

Funds for the new school are included in a $23-million bond issue which will be put before the voters March 25.

NO INCREASE

It has been estimated that the $23 million of bonds could be paid over approximately 18 years without increasing the current 4-mill debt service, which is part of the school district's tax of 22.35 mills.

Pontiac School Affairs

The 4-mill debt service tax does not expire for about 20 years, Schools Business Manager Vern Schiller reports.

In a separate election issue on March 25, voters will be asked to decide on an operational tax increase of 6.25 mills (6.25 per $1,000 of assessed property evaluation).

★ ★ ★

A new high school would replace the 54-year-old Central High School, which could then be converted into a junior high school.

THREE HOUSES

Pontiac's school board has decided that the 4,500-student high school will be divided into three houses of 1,500 students each.

Schools Supt. Dr. Dana P. Whitmer has said the house plan would provide a "very rich educational program" with independent programs and sharing of common facilities, such as auditorium and cafeteria.

Whitmer said a number of residents have been asking why Pontiac all of a sudden needs more money when the district has had a substantial surplus of funds in the past.

★ ★ ★

He attributed it to a cutback of about $500,000 and using up of the entire $1-million cash reserve in the current budget.

FOR BALANCE

"If we are to balance the next budget and maintain educational programs and services, we will have to put back into it $1½ million plus additional money for normal increases in expenditures," the superintendent emphasized.

A budget cutback in programs and services was necessary to accommodate teacher salary demands, Whitmer reiterated.

At the end of the last fiscal year, the district had a balance of over $1 million left over compared to an expected $317 this june.

★ ★ ★

This year's expenditures are estimated to exceed revenues by about $930,000.

VOCATIONAL CENTER

In other business, the board approved an agreement with Oakland Schools Intermediate District for Pontiac to operate a vocational educational center.

Under a 20-year agreement, Pontiac will construct, furnish, staff and maintain the center it will own on a site approved by and with funds from Oakland Schools.

They're Guilty ---Aw, Shucks

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — Gevonnie Craig, 38, and Robert Landson, 37, found guilty of possessing undersize oysters Wednesday by a justice of the peace were given a choice: Pay a $50 fine each or shuck the oysters—all 13 bushels.

★ ★ ★

They shucked. The results of their labor, seven gallons of oysters, were donated to a home for crippled children.

Escapee Held in 200 Thefts

NEW YORK (AP) — An escaped mental patient, suspected of 200 burglaries, was recaptured Wednesday night by the four detectives who had caught him in the first place.

"My God, not again!" cried John DiGaglia, 35, as the four picked him up outside a Bronx housing development.

★ ★ ★

DiGaglia, who escaped from the Bronx State Hospital Jan. 5, was charged with escaping from a detention facility. He has a previous record of 20 burglary convictions.

Waterford Twp. Planners Clear 4 Zoning Requests

Four rezoning requests, recently acted on by the Waterford Township Planning Commission following separate public hearings, will be considered at a future meeting of the Township Board.

Three of the requests were recommended for denial by the planning commission. The other proposal received a favorable recommendation.

In addition, a rezoning request for about 600 apartment and town-house units was tabled, a special approval request was turned down and another was tabled.

Recommended for rejection by the planners were:

- A request to rezone property at 2875 Williams Lake from single family residential (R1A) to local business (C1) for a beauty shop.
- A request to rezone property on Walton Boulevard near Signet from R1A to C1 for a business office and a display area.
- A request to rezone property on LaSalle near Tilden from single family residential (R1B) to C1 for a beauty shop.

Recommended for approval was:

- A request to rezone property at Hospital and Pontiac Lake Road from R1A to multiple dwelling (R2) and C1 for apartments and a store.

A special approval request to allow a pony on R1A-zoned property at 2554 Bender was denied.

NEAR MALL

Tabled to learn more about property ingress and egress plans was a request to rezone a 43.8-acre piece of property near Marion and Pontiac Mall from R1A to R2 for the aforementioned apartments and town-house units. The applicant is Robert Serota.

Tabled pending a township attorney's opinion was a special approval request to allow the construction and operation of a candy processing, distribution and retail business on general business-zoned property on Pontiac Lake Road near M59. The applicant is Ross Fine Candies, Inc.

Soviet Paper Chills U.S. Link

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet government newspaper Izvestia declared yesterday President Johnson was wrong when he said there has been some progress in U.S.-Soviet relations.

Commenting on Johnson's State of the Union message, Izvestia said the war in Vietnam had produced a worsening of relations between the two great powers. It described these relations now as "frigid."

Johnson the newspaper said, "wanted, it seems, to create the impression that the war in Vietnam does not hamper efforts in favor of peace and the relaxation of international tensions."

"The picture drawn in his speech has little in common with reality."

★ ★ ★

Izvestia noted that Johnson gave no details and did not spell out the questions in which progress allegedly had been made.

It cautioned against what it called "playing hide-and-seek with matters affecting the fate of countries, of general peace."

The article, written by Izvestia's Vikenti Matveyev said: "The Soviet government stated, and states, that on the poisoned soil of aggression, the fruits of peaceful cooperation cannot be grown.

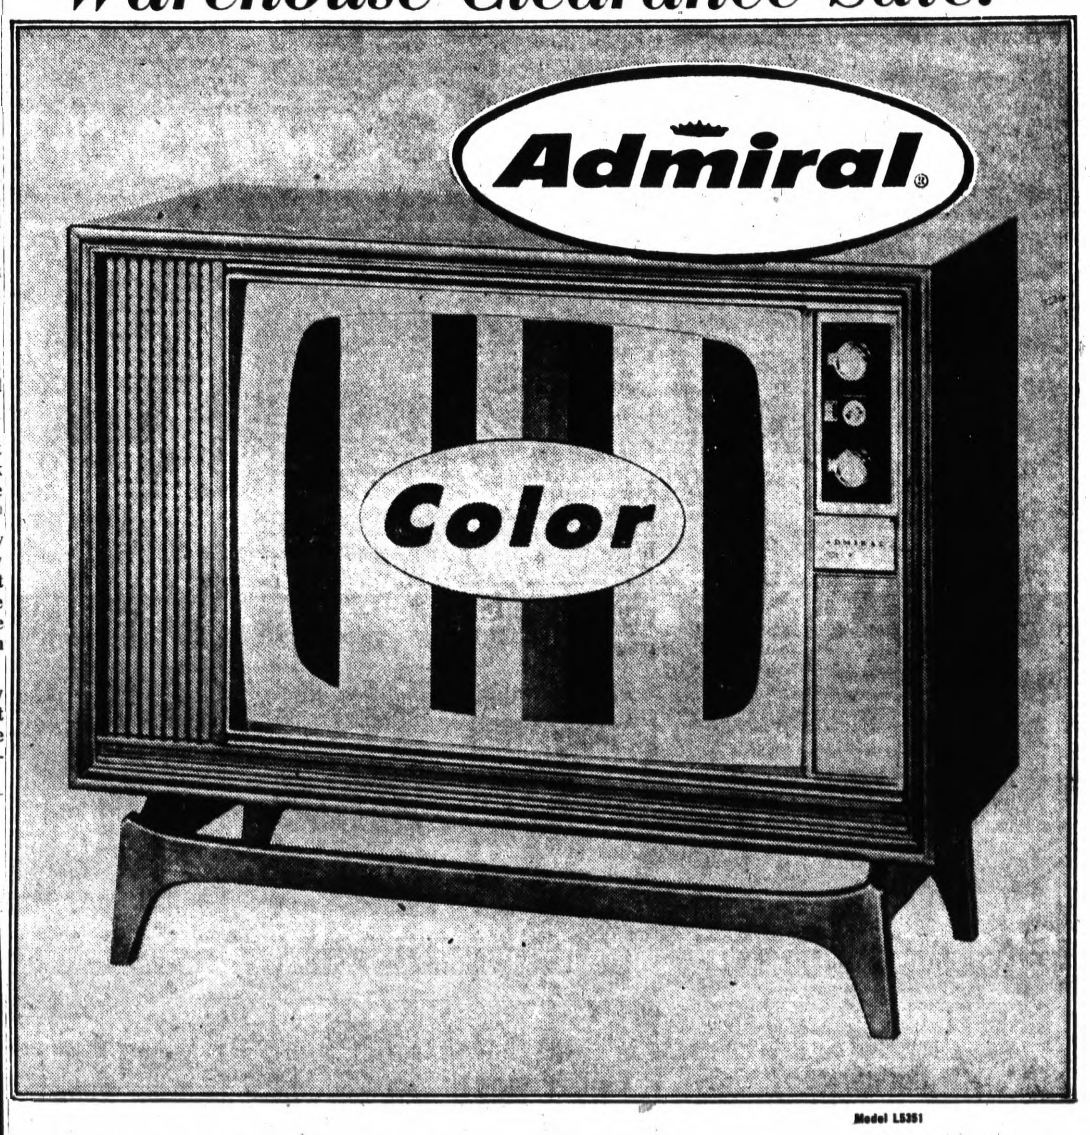

"We firmly stand on the view that the great powers cannot arrange their relations at the expense of the rights and interests of other countries.

Europe Headlines Ship Capture News

LONDON (AP) — North Korea's capture of the U.S. Navy ship Pueblo dominated the front pages and editorial columns of Europe's newspapers again today. Most papers advised the United States to proceed with caution.

Commentators in Britain and West Germany advised the United States to explain what the Pueblo was doing in a hostile area and to clarify other facets of the incident.

★ ★ ★

The Communist press in both North Vietnam and the Soviet Union accused the United States of a provocation. The South Korean press denounced the seizure, and the semi-government Korea Herald called it "a serious breach of international law amounting to an act of war."

Kin of Pueblo's Crew Hope for the Best

By the Associated Press

"Norman always told us, 'Don't worry about me. I can take care of myself,' and we're trying our best to follow his wishes," says the mother of a crewman aboard the U.S. Navy intelligence ship Pueblo.

Mrs. Norman W. Spear of Portland, Maine, added that she hoped the government would not act hastily in its effort to free her son's ship but would make the lives of the crewmen the first consideration.

★ ★ ★

"Let's keep it cool," counseled Oliver M. Langenberg, of St. Louis., Mo., whose son, Peter, is also a crew member on the ship seized Monday by North Korean forces.

In cities and towns around the country, families who said they had relatives aboard the ship voiced hopes Wednesday for the safety of the men and their swift return without a major blow-up.

BLOW TO FAMILY

For Vincenzo Strano of Hartford, Conn., whose son Angelo, 21, is on the ship, the anguish was compounded when he learned that his second son, James, 19, had been killed in action in Vietnam.

He vowed he would now do everything he could to get Angelo back.

"He's my only son," Strano said. "I'm going to do all in my power to get him out of the Navy and bring him home."

Mrs. Mara Law of Tacoma, Wash., also has two sons in the service, PO 3.C. Charles Benton Law Jr., 26, aboard the Pueblo, and Marine Sgt. Larry Law, 22, who has completed a year in Vietnam.

"Both my boys, when they enlisted, knew they would have to take chances like this," she said. "I just hope for the best. I hope we get all the 83 men back safely without having to go to war."

The wife of Cmdr. Lloyd Bucher, skipper of the ship, refused to credit a North Korean claim that her husband had made a confession. "I don't believe it," she said.

Mrs. Rose Bucher added that she was grateful to the Defense Department for its quick denouncement of the claim that Bucher admitted being on a spying mission.

She spoke to newsmen in San Diego, Calif., where she and her two sons, Mark, 15, and Mike, 13, had gone in anticipation of the Pueblo's return this spring.

WIFE CONFIDENT

Mrs. Bucher said she was confident the Navy would do all possible to ensure the safety of her husband and the crew adding, "Now all I can do is hope and pray for his safety."

Charles M. Kisler, father of PO 3.C. Earl Kisler, said in St. Louis, "I do feel that the people in Washington and the military are doing the best they can with what they've got in the present situation."

★ ★ ★

And the mother of PO 3.C. John W. Grant of Jay, Maine, said her son was captured on his 21st birthday. Mrs. Stella Grant said her son had last written from Japan on Jan. 12 saying he was going to sea for 40 days.

A list of the crewmen aboard the ship was released by the Pentagon but did not contain home towns.

Prisoner Wants Out —Pay Is Too Low

MEMPHIS,Tenn. (AP) — A Shelby County penal farm prisoner is seeking freedom on grounds that he is being compelled to work out a fine at $2 per day in violation of the federal minimum wage law.

Billy Earl Johnson, 23, based his petition for a writ of habeas corpus on the fact that he is being paid under the required $1.40 per hour minimum while working out $491 in fines and court cases.

Johnson was sentenced to six months on the farm after pleading guilty to illegal use of a credit card and passing bad checks. His term ended Dec. 21, but he remains in custody because he could not pay the fine.

GU Dean Hits Supersonic Air Transport

America's commitment to spend billions of dollars to develop a supersonic transport may prove to be a wasteful investment in sonic booms, the dean of Oakland University's School of Engineering said today.

GIBSON

Dr. John E. Gibson told the West Pontiac Kiwanis Club at a luncheon:

"The U.S. government has committed itself to spending $2 billion to $4 billion for the revolutionary new mode of air transportation while the supersonic transport has not been shown to be economical and it will cause sonic booms."

An article by Gibson in a recent edition of Harper's magazine on supersonic transport was introduced into the U.S. Congressional Record and debated on the floor of Congress in Washington, D.C.

Installation of the safety devices, expected to be completed within the next few weeks, will cost an estimated $16,500, the company said.

Federal Fund Cuts Threaten Universities' Research

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defense and space agency spending for research at universities is being sliced by 20 per cent this year. A private government memo says the cuts threaten programs and jobs at some schools.

Other government agencies also are reducing research spending, putting an additional squeeze on the academic community.

★ ★ ★

Universities that exultantly rode the government research roller coaster to a $1.6-billion crest are beginning to tremble on the ride downhill.

Faculty and staff hiring in some areas is near a standstill.

Graduate admissions for next September probably will be cut.

Some schools are hunting more intensively for private money.

ACTIVITY CUT

Shirley A. Johnson Jr., director of research at the University of Denver, said, "If we feel a cut here we'll just have to decrease our activities." His school did $3.27 million in Defense Department business last year and also has seven space agency contracts.

"We're hurting in the graduate education area," said James J. Brophy, academic vice president at Illinois Institute of Technology, where government research finances one-third of the entire academic program.

★ ★ ★

Defense officials expect private schools with little or no endowment—Denver and IIT, for example—to be hurt more than state universities such as Michigan and California, or heavily endowed private schools like Stanford and Harvard.

The Defense Department talked with officials at 33 schools to measure the impact. The private memo reported:

- "The cuts have just not hit them yet but are only beginning to be felt."

- Schools "realize it is going to get worse and will probably peak next spring when contract decisions will be made."
- There is general agreement on Priorities: Post doctoral fellowship intake in school year 1968 will be reduced . . . no investment will be made in major pieces of equipment and technicians will be let go . . . the number of graduate students admitted will be down this year . . . some faculty members' summer salaries will not be covered as in the past by grants and contracts . . . the more affluent universities who believe that the trend will change in '69 will commit some of their own private resources to tide them over during this period."

The government spent about $1.6 billion for college and university research in 1967. Overall research and development obligations totaled $17.5 billion —but they're being cut about $1 billion in the 1968 budget year.

DEFENSE SUPPORT

Defense Department research support to schools is dropping from $284 million in 1967 to about $225 million this year.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration cut its sustaining university program from $30 million to $10 million, and lopped about $9 million from the $87 million in program research that went to universities in 1967.

In addition to the research cutback, colleges and universities also face a $208-million deferral in spending for new campus construction by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

★ ★ ★

The Defense Department is either slowing the effort or shortening the contracts for projects it would continue full-tilt if it had the money.

Projects affected by the NASA cutback won't be abandened — they have phase-out money appropriated in earlier years.

1969 HOPES

Both agencies hope President Johnson's fiscal 1969 budget will provide money to reaccelerate the programs and that Congress will abstain from budget slicing. Some congressmen have frequently criticized research programs, leveling charges of poor administration, duplication, concentration of dollars at a few schools and waste on studies they regard as unneeded.

The National Institute of Health, which poured 600 million into colleges and universities in 1967, is holding at that level for 1968. But with rising costs, it expects to get about seven per cent less research per dollar.

★ ★ ★

The Bureau of the Budget, acknowledging it knows little about what is happening on campus, is setting out to trace research dollars in the hope of learning what effect their presence — or absence — is having.

Concern has been voiced periodically about what might happen when federal research money declined but until now the discussion has been mostly theoretical.

NAVAL RESEARCH

A prime example of a program cutback is the Office of Naval Research's handling of nuclear and high-energy physics. ONR spent $9.8 million on the program in 1967, cut back to $6.6 million for 1968 and will drop to $3.3 million in 1969.

ONR has contracts at 18 schools and, a Navy spokesman said, "We hope some agencies may pick up the ball."

★ ★ ★

The Atomic Energy Commission finances 90 percent of all high-energy physics research. But when budgets are tight, says Dr. Spofford G. English, AEC general manager for research and development, "It's difficult for the commission to fill in all the gaps created."

AEC spending on high-energy physics at universities is increasing from $18.5 million in 1967 to $20 million this year, but the National Science Foundation, which sent $394 million to the campus in 1967, is standing pat on that figure.

Thus, Princeton University, which is heavily engaged in high-energy physics, must turn to the AEC. Said Raymond Woodrow, director of the office of research and project administration, "We have high hopes that the AEC may pick it up, but obviously we have assurances."

From the standpoint of graduate students, Woodrow told a reporter, the cutback in research fellowships is more important than the project in dollars.

★ ★ ★

NASA, which gave 750 predoctoral three-year fellowships in 1967, is giving 75 this year. The National Science Foundation is cutting its training fellowships from 1,200 to 700. National Defense Education Act fellowships are being halved to 3,000.

"The extent to which we could increase university money to pick up grad students who would otherwise be supported by, say, a NASA fellowship, is very small," said Woodrow.

State Servicemen Killed in Vietnam

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two Michigan men are listed as killed in recent action in Vietnam, the Defense Department anounced Wednesday. Killed were Army Pfc. Kenneth B. Dean, husband of Peggy A. Dean of Albion, and Marine Lance Cpl. Rick D. Deeds, son of Mrs. Patricia L. Syer of Newport.

Listed as dead as a result of nonhostile action is Navy Machinist's Mate 2.C. Eugene T. Fraley of Lansing.

Call-Up News Affects Trade

Wave of Selling Hits Market

NEW YORK (AP) — A wave of selling hit the stock market early this afternoon following news that President Johnson had ordered a call-up of certain Air Force and Navy air reservists and planes.

★ ★ ★

Before the news came, the market had staged a technical rally despite the worrisome news of the North Korean seizure of the Navy intelligence vessel, Pueblo.

The market was advancing after a record series of 12 straight daily declines in the Dow Jones industrial average. Stock was relatively cheap and buying came in regardless of the poor atmosphere. On the domestic front lackluster auto sales in the first 20 days of January caused a downward revision in estimates of auto sales for the current quarter.

By shortl after noon, the ticker tape on the New York Stock Exchange was running eight minutes late in reporting transactions.

GAIN WIPED OUT

The Dow Jones industrial average wiped out a gain of 3.41.

At noon the Dow industrials were down 1.62 at 860.61.

In typical war-scare fashion, buying increased in most commodity future markets following news of the reserve call8up.

The Associated Press average at noon was still up .9 at 315.3, with industrials up 1.3, rails up 1.1 and utilities off .4.

★ ★ ★

The news also jolted prices on the American Stock Exchange. A solid early advance on the Amex was riddled with losses. Mohawk Dat aSciences sank 5 points. Mary Carter Paints "A" and Gulf American fell more than a point, D.Kaltman nearly a point, Continental Materials a fraction. A numbe r of lower-prced issues clung to fractional gains.

Some Collegians Start Over for Education at St. John's

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — Randy Runyon would have been a Harvard senior this year. But he's not.

He's a St. John's freshman.

With little more than a year standing between him and a Harvard degree, he chose to start college all over again at the tiny nonsectarian college in Annapolis, Md.

★ ★ ★

He's not the first student to make this surprising move.

The same thing happens at the college's new western campus, which snuggles in New Mexico's Sangre de Cristo Mountains.

NO TRANSFER STUDENTS

Linda Carithers, who was a junior on the dean's list at the University of New Mexico, wanted to transfer to the little college which refuses to accept transfer students.

Like Randy, she "flunked" herself into the freshman class.

★ ★ ★

Why would good students take this great leap backward?

Randy Runyon did it because he says he wanted to go forward.

"Backward and forward depend on where you want to go," he says.

NEED FOR EDUCATION

"College should give you an education as well as a degree. I was getting a degree but not an education.

"I was getting professional training, but an education is something different. Education should prepare you to deal with all of life, how to make sense of what's going on around you and how to appreciate what is written and said about it.

★ ★ ★

"I want to be educated as a human being, not trained as a physicist or an historian. That can come later."

Randy did not leap blindly. He thought about it for more than a year.

FINANCIAL PINCH

"It was a big decision, especially financially. Both my wife, Diana, and I have National Merit scholarships, but mine expires soon. It'll be very hard going.

"But," Randy continued, "it's worth it.

"The experience at St. John's itself is worth it. There is real intellectual excitement here, a joy to learning. The students are here because they want to be. If a student doesn't enjoy it, he leaves.

"At Harvard very few people enjoy their studies. They endure them for the sake of a degree. And Harvard is probably a lot better than most places."

ENTER AS FRESHMEN

Each year a substantial number of students in good standing at the most distinguished colleges in the country apply for admission to the freshman class at St. John's.

But why does St. John's refuse to accept credits earned at other colleges?

★ ★

"We have a single, all-required curriculum," explains President Richard D. Weigle.

"We are not an educational cafeteria. We do not have course offerings. We have a program. Our program has a beginning and that is where all students must begin.

PROGRAM BUILDS

"Like the acts of a play, each year of the St. John's program is built on the one before.

"We refuse to compromise the integrity of our program even though we are well aware of the difficulties which face a student who wishes to transfer. He must make a great sacrifice of time and money. Happily, our scholarship funds can help to ease the financial problems."

★ ★ ★

The college is as stubborn about its size as it is about its program.

Responding to the pressure to expand, St. John's doubled its enrollment without changing its size.

It started a whole new college 2,000 miles away.

In 1964, a small band of faculty and administrators set out from Annapolis, where the college has been located since 1696, and established a colony campus in Santa Fe. In 1965, St. John's was both the third oldest and third newest college in the country.

NEAT INTERIOR — Model Nancy Ann Townsend shows how the Chevrolet Caprice coupe has accommodated the shoulder harness, which is required equipment on all hardtop passenger cars built after Jan. 1. For convenient out-of-the-way storage while entering or leaving the car, two spring-type clips (arrows) fitted into the roof railing hold the folded harness neatly above the window.

Dogs Go to Attack School

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Fifteen German shepherds are going to school in an uncompleted office building here, learning the canine share of work in a nationwide detective and protection agency.

★ ★ ★

Most are already trained and on the job, just coming back for refresher courses.

They come when the floor is free of workmen and John R. Young, head of canine security for the John T. Lynch Co. in this area, is available.

The skyscraper floor is used because it resembles a warehouse, where dogs are most frequently assigned.

★ ★ ★

Each dog has his own trainer and companion. They walk guard together. Where possible, dog and handler live together.

CAREFUL SCREENING

Both man and dog are carefully screened, Young says.

"It's just like giving a man a gun," says the 30-year-old who has been working with dogs since he was 17. "Usually we find no need for guns. We carry night sticks and handcuffs — and use a dog."

The dogs are trained to attack only on command, and only on command of the master.

★ ★ ★

"A well-trained dog will not attack somebody who is standing still," the expert advises. He will just watch and bare his fangs.

More Improvements Seen for Veteran Benefits in '68

By JERRY T. BAULCH
Associated Press Newsfeatures

WASHINGTON — This could be an even bigger year than 1967 in improving veterans' benefits if Rep. Olin E. Teague, D-Tex., gets his way—which is likely. As chairman of the House Veterans Affairs Committee he has the most powerful voice in Congress in this area.

BAULCH

His mind is still open on details, Teague says, but his committee is thinking about trying to raise disability payments for service-connected causes, giving more help to widows of men who die in military service or as a result of it, and pepping up the VA housing program.

And Teague figures Congress is going to have decide just how far it must go to meet the "crisis" problem of dwindling space in the nation's military cemeteries.

Members of Congress are getting a flood of mail on this and many bills have been introduced providing a variety of solutions.

What will emerge for veterans during 1968 could swing in large part on recommendations by the 11-man U.S. Veterans Advisory Committee which toured the country last year. It got grass-root views from veterans groups and others about needed changes in veterans' benefits.

★ ★ ★

The committee's report to VA Administrator William J. Driver will be the basis for proposed legislation by President Johnson. But Teague plans to have members of the committee go before his own committee before it dives into its stack of legislation.

WENT INTO DETAILS

My column a couple of weeks ago went into details of the bill the House passed on the last day of the 1967 session to overhaul the pension system for non-service connected disability. It would not change rates but would raise the amount of income a person could earn and still qualify for benefits.

Teague says he's confident the Senate will also approve the measure. Meanwhile, he's looking toward other changes in veterans' benefits.

One priority item would provide the first increase since 1965 for service-connected disability payments. These rates were not touched in the cost-of-living increases voted last year for non-service connected disability pensions.

★ ★ ★

Teague hasn't set his eye on any specific amount but is thinking about something around an 8 per cent increase.

EDUCATIONAL BENEFITS

He's also thinking about setting up a program of educational benefits for widows of men who die of service-connected causes.

Another of Teague's ideas, but more complicated, is to allow dependents of men who die of service-connected causes after getting out of uniform the same military medicare benefits as those of men who die in service or in military retirement.

"It just doesn't seem right that the widow of a retired colonel can get medical care but the widow of a GI who dies of injuries received in Vietnam can't just because her husband was out of service," Teague said.

★ ★ ★

Teague wants to look into the VA home loan program because veterans are finding difficulty getting loans under it because of the tight money market.

FUNERAL COSTS

In connection with the military cemetery problem, Teague said his committee will investigate reports that many families are having to pay as much as $700 over government allowances toward funeral costs of their men killed in Vietnam.

Teague wants to find a "reasonable and moderate" ground for providing cemetery space for veterans, suggesting that it may be impossible to keep the door wide open.

The problem is nationwide, and at Arlington National Cemetery even strict limitations have left only 4,800 of its 150,500 burial plots unused.

Red Wings Snap Winless Streak by Dumping Black Hawks

AP Wirephoto

DOWN, BUT NOT OUT — Goalie Ed Giacomin of the New York Rangers lies sprawled on the ice near the net after helping defenseman Harry Howell (3) stop a rush by the Boston Bruins during the first period of their game in New York last night. Giacomin injured his knee on the play but was able to resume action. New York won, 2-1.

Detroit Bombards DeJordy in Posting 4-2 Decision

CHICAGO (UPI) — Don't send flowers to the Detroit Red Wings yet.

The Wings, cellar dwellers in the National Hockey League's Eastern Division race, snapped their string of eight winless games Wednesday night by defeating the Chicago Black Hawks 4-2.

★ ★ ★

SIXTH OF SEASON

Bergman's goal, his sixth of the season, came just hours after he was named to the mid-season NHL All-Star second team.

The Wings bombarded Dejordy, blasting 44 shots at the net, 19 of them in the second period.

The Black Hawks opened the scoring on a power-play goal by Kenny Wharram at 6:44 of the first period but rookie Gary Jarrett tied it up at 14:57.

The Wings were forced to come from behind again in the second period after Dennis Hall put the Hawks ahead 2-1 with a shot that slipped past Detroit goalie George Gardner at 5:04.

Norm Ullman connected with the tying goal midway through the period, and Bergman iced the win in the final stanza.

ADDS FINAL GOAL

Bruce MacGregor added the Wings' final goal at 11:52 with assists from Jarrett and Doug Roberts.

★ ★ ★

Gardner was called on to make 41 saves as the Wings picked up their second win in six games with the Hawks this season. Chicago also has won two with two games tied.

The loss extended the Hawks' losing streak to four games and its winless string to seven games.

With the season approaching the two-thirds mark, only four points separate the first five teams in the Eastern Division and Detroit is still in contention.

OTHER GAMES

The fifth-place New York Rangers tightened the screws a bit more Wednesday night by edging the front-running Boston Bruins 2-1. Not only are the Rangers four behind Boston, but they also have a game in hand.

Toronto, tied for second place with Chicago, also failed to take advantage of Boston's setback by losing on their own ice 2-1 to the Western Division-leading Philadelphia Flyers.

This leaves Boston with 54 points, two more than Chicago and Toronto. Montreal, which was idle, has 51 points, New York has 50 and Detroit 43.

★ ★ ★

The situation is far different in the expansion Western Division as Philadelphia's first-place advantage jumped to nine points over the Los Angeles Kings, who dropped a 4-1 decision to last-place Oakland. In the other games played Wednesday night, the St. Louis Blues defeated the Minnesota North Stars 5-2.

PAIRED UP—Playing action ceases but fight action picks up during this second-period situation between the New York Rangers and Boston Bruins last night in New York. Officials move about trying to separate the combatants. Among the battlers are (lower left) white jerseyed Ed Westfall of Boston and Ron Stewart of N.Y.; Rod Gilbert of Rangers tangling with Fred Stanfield (upper left) and John Bucyk (9); Rangers' Orland Kurtenbach with John Harbour (upper center) of Bruins; and at right are Bruins' Dallas Smith (20) and Rangers' Reg Fleming (9). Officials are John Ashley (2), Claude Bechard (22) and Bob Meyers.

'Anti-Feud' Bill Is Introduced

Legislator After Protection for U.S. Amateurs

WAHSINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Jack McDonald, R-Mich., Wednesday introduced a bill to give athletes court protection from penalties assessed by either the National Collegiate Athletic Association NCAA or the American Amateur Union (AAU).

The measure, which is similar to a bill introduced last week by Sen. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., would allow an athlete to seek a court injunction against a penalty levied by either the NCAA or AAU for participation in a rival event.

Violation of the injunction by either organization could be punishable by a fine of $1,000 or imprisonment for six months.

"It is a matter of deep concern when young men and women who have spent years training can be barred from important athletic events because of a bitter, petty organizational rivalry," said McDonald.

Nine boxers from Pontiac are entered in the tournament and only three were listed on the card for the first night of boxing. The others will be in action next week.

Fighting in the novice division, welterweight Ray Gonzales and light-heavyweight Morris Davis posted TKO's and middleweight Larry Musgrave gained a split decision in his bout against Gary Stewdorger of Grand Blanc.

Next fights in the IMA ring at Flint are slated for Tuesday. Pairings will be announced Monday.

Off-Court Setbacks Rough on T-Hawks

No sooner do the Pontiac Tomahawks find encouragement in one phase of their development than setbacks occur elsewhere.

Coach Bob Duffy and the team officials were brightened last Saturday when the T-Hawks gave one of their strongest displays of shooting, rebounding and defense in a 137-113 victory over the Chicago Bombers.

That appeared to be the club's third victory in its initial North American Basketball League campaign. But yesterday word was received to the contrary.

Commissioner Harry Bomers has upheld a protest by Columbus that the Tomahawks used Bill Buntin illegally in the Nov. 22nd game and that the 121-118 victory for Pontiac should be overruled.

Also, the Tomahawks suffered another jolt Wednesday when the Detroit Pistons recalled 6-8 forward "Sonny" Dove. The rangy ex-All America from St. John's was a key rebounder and scorer for the Pontiac pros.

HOME SUNDAY

The Tomahawks will entertain Battle Creek at 5 p.m. Sunday on the Northern High School court with two youngsters being admitted free for every paid adult admission.

Several bicycles will be given away, and a special exhibition is planned by members of the Pontiac Table Tennis Association. An attempt is being made to play at least one match against a leading Battle Creek player.

The NABL commissioner has also thrown out all the wins and losses recorded in games played with the now-defunct Muskegon Panthers. Pontiac didn't play the defending champions prior to their folding last month.

Holland defeated Battle Creek last night, 126-120, leaving the current standings:

Millrose Games Lure Top Miler, Vaulter to NY City Tonight

NEW YOK (UPI) — A sub four-minute mile and a 17-foot pole vault will be the goals of Villanova's Dave Patrick and Bob Seagren of University of Southern California tonight in the 61st Millrose Games indoor track and field event at Madison Square Garden.

★ ★ ★

Patrick, Villanova's tireless middle distance running star, and Seagren, the nation's premier pole vaulter, head a cast of 700 athletes competing in the meet which kicks off New York's major indoor track season.

Stars from the U. S., Canada, Australia, Finland and West Germany will compete in the affair—the last Millrose competition in the old garden.

Outstanding foreign athletes competing in the meet include Australian Ralph Doubell, Canadians Bill Crothers and Dave Bailey, Germany's Heinfried Engel and Finland's Risto Ivanoff.

SE Conference Wants Balance for All Sports

TAMPA, Fla. (UPI) — Southeastern Conference officials denied today they want to tear down the minor sports programs at those schools which have excelled in activities other than football and basketball.

"We're merely trying to equalize these programs within the conference," a spokesman said in defense of a proposal to limit the number of grants-in-aid which can be made for track, tennis, golf and other minor sports.

STRONG PROGRAMS

"One of these days, we hope that all of our schools will have strong well-rounded athletic programs" the spokesman added. "It's just that, for now a few have gotten so far ahead of the others that we're seeking better balance."

As it now stand, although there is a limit of 140 on the total number of football and basketball players who can be on scholarship at any school at one time, there are no limits per grants to other sports.

A proposal before the 10-school conference's 35th annual meeting now in session here, would set such a limit.

Top Cage Performer Dropped From Squad by Wayne State U.

DETROIT (AP)—Reggie Piggee, the leading scorer, rebounder and playmaker for the Wayne State University basketball was dropped from the team Wednesday after missing three games.

A university spokesman said Piggee, who averaged 22.8 points and 15.9 rebounds a game, hasn't showed up to practice or play since Jan. 13.

The spokesman said Piggee was still in school, carrying a full course load, and that he works from midnight to 8 a.m.

Central Heads North for 'Prestige' Contest

Streaking Pontiac Central can reestablish some of its lost prestige in the Saginaw Valley Conference basketball race Friday night when it visits title-contending Saginaw.

The Chiefs' image was tarnished when they surprisingly dropped their first four SVC games to Flint Central, Arthur Hill, Bay City Central and Midland. The four along with Saginaw's Trojans comprise the top five quintets in the standings.

★ ★ ★

Saginaw has a 4-1 mark and is tied with Flint C for the runner-up spot behind Midland's 5-1 record.

PCH has won its last two SVC games and could move into fifth place should Midland down BC Central (2-3) as expected, providing the Chiefs (2-4) can upset Saginaw.

Last year the PCH quintet handed Saginaw one of its two defeats as it tied for the SVC title. The Trojans have been at the top of the league standings for the past three campaigns.

BALANCE

Coach Ken Gray has built a 71-18 mark during his five seasons at the helm. This winter the Trojans feature a balanced attack that involves eight players primarily.

They don't boast exceptional height. Ray Richardson, the 6-3 post player, and 6-2 jumper Larry Pershay are responsible for the backboards. George Forster is a 6-0 forward who features a flashy jump shot.

★ ★ ★

Saginaw won its first three games this season, then lost to Midland on a last-second shot. It has reeled off three more consecutive victories and PCH is hoping to stop that string of wins.

The Chiefs are also on a three-game victory drive and have won four of their last five starts to go 5-4 for the season. Improved defense has been a big factor.

Central's shooting accuracy and ball-handling still hasn't reached the sharpness of a title contender; but the Chiefs would be happy to spoil Saginaw's hopes.

GET CHANCE

This and the visits to Pontiac next month by both Saginaw title hopefuls (Arthur Hill is 4-2) are the only chances the Central quintet coached by Fred Zittel will have at making its presence known in the championship race.

★ ★ ★

The recent spurt by PCH can be attributed individually to improved performances by Alton Wilson, Rudy Churchwell, Walter Causey and especially Clayton Burch.

Zittel, however, would prefer a more unified team effort on offense by the time PCH enters district tournament play.

U. S. Takes 1st Games' Medal

Bronze Award Goes to Colorado Skier

INNESBRUCK, Austria (AP) — The United States has its first medal of the World Student Winter Games—a bronze—and only a missed gate kept the Americans from getting a gold.

Bill Marolt of Colorado University picked up the bronze Wednesday. The 24-year-old veteran Alpine skier from Golden, Colo., finished third in men's slalom with a combined time of one minute, 52:10 seconds.

★ ★ ★

Larry Keenan of Whitewater State College in Wisconsin appeared headed for first place and a gold medal in the event until he missed a gate 10 gates from the finish on his second run.

Through Wednesday, Russia led with 16 medals—five golds, six silver and five bronze. Japan Followed with 3-3-4, and Czechoslovakia was 2-2-1.

Sullivan Award Voting Led by Randy Matson

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — It took quite a man to prevent a gal from being named the amateur athlete of 1967 — a Matson.

The 22-year-old world record holder from Texas A&M won the ballotingannounced Wednesday by the Amateur Athletic Union, but the unusual aspect of the athletes gave the 6-foot, 6½-inch, 260-pound "he-man" his closest competition.

THREE WOMEN

Matson received 787 points in balloting by more than 1,000 amateur sports experts with tennis player Billie Jean King of Berkeley, Calif., second, teenage swimmer Debbie Meyer of Sacramento, Calif., third and figure skater Peggy Fleming of Colorado Springs, Colo. Fourth, Mrs. King had 579 points, Miss Meyer 528 and Miss Fleming 486.

★ ★ ★

The Sullivan Award has been won by only two women athletes since it was inaugurated in 1930 — diver Patricia McCormick in 1956 and track star Wilma Rudolph Ward in 1961.

Matson, only human being to put the 16-pound shot more than 70 feet and holder of the pending world mark of 71 feet, 5½ inches, has been named the last three years to the AAU All-America track and field team.

In addition to his pending world mark in the shotput, Matson holds the unofficial American record of 213 feet, 9¼ inches in the discus throw.

Matson is expected to be a strong contender for a gold medal in the shotput at the 1968 Olympic Games in Mexico City.

The gals had some pretty fair credentials going for them, too, even against as formidable a representative of the stronger sex as Matson.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. King, who stands almost as tall as Matson's chest when she's wearing three-inch heels and weighs half of what he does, won both the Wimbledon and U.S. tennis championships; the 15-year-old Miss Meyer is the holder of four world swimming records and the 19-year-old Miss Fleming holds numerous world figure skating titles.

Andover Ends Victory String of Laker Skiers

One unbeaten streak ended Wednesday and another continued as Bloomfield Hills Andover's ski teams swept the Mt. Holly High School Ski Meet.

The Barons' boys upset swift-moving West Bloomfield, 246.7-252.7, with Southfield placing third. tI was the Lakers' initial defeat of the season.

Andover's girls, meanwhile, remained undefeated by downing West Bloomfield and Southfield rather decisively. Andover needed 165.9 seconds for its top three girls to get down the icy slalom course twice.

The Lakers' coeds were 11 seconds slower despite placing second and third individually. BHA's Marlen Jarosz, "Tink" Rimsnider and Barb Goode commanded the other three places among the top five and Southfield's Mary Little took sixth.

Similarly, West Bloomfield had first (Tom Carter) and third (Larry Walter) among the boys; but Andover placed 2-5-8-9 (Jeff Smith, Scott McLean, Dave Lau, Jeff Bruns).

Southfield had a fourth by Ted Brackett and also blocked the Lakers out of sixth and seventh to assist the Barons' surprise victory.

Huskies Host Stevenson 5 Friday Night

Followers of the Pontiac Northern basketball squad may be scratching their heads this week if they aren't really close to the team members.

Particularly is they are relying on an unrevised schedule.

That Jan. 23 game (Tuesday) with Pontiac Catholic wasn't played. It will be next Tuesday since the Huskies inadvertantly scheduled three non-tournament games this week and that's contrary to the state athletic association rules.

The trip (tomorrow night) to Livonia Stevenson for an Inter-Lakes League battle with the Spartans also is off; that is, there's no trip. The game has been shifted to PHN's court.

NORTHERN'S "third" contest this week will have the Huskies entertaining Ann Arbor Saturday night.

Waterford's third of four straight home games will find Walled Lake moving in for an I-L contest. Farmington, the runner-up in the I-L, and Kettering both are idle this week.

The Huskies, unbeaten in the I-L, will be entertaining a Stevenson unit tomorrow that was expected to battle for second place and maybe even the top spot. It has size and experience, with everyone back from last season, and gave PNH a close battle at Livonia last winter.

The Spartans began by winning three of their first four this season but now are 4-6 and a disappointing 1-2 in the loop outings.

Northern (5-2) has developed generally as expected, losing only at Highland Park and Pontiac Central both in overtime. They are on a three-game winning streak, including an impressive 61-38 decision last Friday over previously once-beaten WKHS.

Ann Arbor's Pioneers are 1-7 entering their game tomorrow night at Kalamazoo Central. They lack size; center-forward Bern Cunningham at 6-1 is the tallest regular. Captain Don Davis is a 5-9 guard and leads the scoring.

Waterford broke a five-game skid by beating Stevenson last week. The Skippers (3-5) should upend Walled Lake (2-5) and begin to challenge Farmington for the runner-up spot.

A victory would square WTHS' league mark at 2-2 and leave it one game behind surging the Falcons (3-1). Walled Lake has a fine individual performer in Greg Fogle but is still seeking its initial I-L win this season.

The Vikings could end their slump (five out of six) at the expense of the erratic Township quintet.

USRR Says Nyet to Open Tennis

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Tennis Federation protested Wednesday against opening the Wimbledon tournamet to both amateurs and professionals.

Illiador Kulev, president of the federation, sent a letter to the British Tennis Association asking it to reconsider its decision.

Long Island Heading Poll

By the Associated Press

Undefeated Long Island University moved into first place in The Associated Press' small-college basketball poll today, shading twice-beaten Evansville by one point in the voting by a national panel of 14 sports writers and broadcasters.

The Blackbirds, No. 1 for the first time this season, hurdled both Evansville and Kentucky Wesleyan in taking over the top position from the Purple Aces. The Panthers from Owensboro, Ky., dropped to third.

Major League Players Okay $10,000 Minimum

NEW YORK (UPI) — Major league baseball players who already signed for 1968 at a minimum $7,000 salary, can expect a $3,000 automatic increase.

John Gaherin, adviser to the club owners on player relations, revealed Wednesday night that the Major League Baseball Players Association has accepted the owners' offer raising the minimum salary to $10,000 — pending the approval of the complete package.

★ ★ ★

Gaherin also made known some aspects of the owners' negotiations with the players' association while firing counter-charges against its executive director, Marvin Miller, who has charged the owners with stalling tactics.

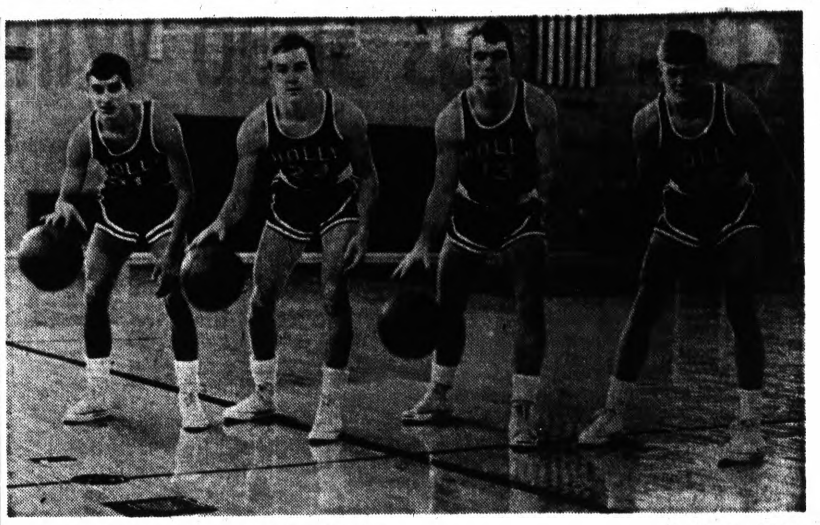

Earlier this week, Miller sought the aid of the Federal Mediation Service in an attempt to settle the two group's differences.

★ ★ ★

The players had asked for a $12,000 minimum salary and apparently are willing to settle for $10,000 in 1968 and $11,000 in 1969.

Orion Facing Major Hurdle

Dragons Meet Rochester Five

O-A League Coleader Romeo Plays at Home

Lake Orion faces a major hurdle tomorrow night in the Dragons' quest to retain a share of first place in the Oakland A basketball race.

Rochester's fast-improving Falcons invade Lake Orion seeking revenge for an earlier four-point setback. Romeo, coleader with Orion, plays at home against Avondale.

★ ★ ★

Madison goes to Troy and Utica is at Clawson as the second round of league play gets under way.

Northville and West Bloomfield are expected to hold the 1-2 positions in the Wayne-Oakland circuit. The front-running Mustangs go to Milford and West Bloomfield plays at Holly.

Bloomfield Hills Andover goes to Clarkston and Brighton is at Clarenceville in the other tussles.

★ ★ ★

Lake Orion fans have been forced to sit on the edges of their seats in four of the Dragons' games. Orion took three of these and owns a 6-1 league mark and is 7-1 over-all.

KEY PLAYER

Bill Foss is the key player, averaging 17.1 points a game. And he will be the player Rochester will have to halt.

The Falcons, 4-3, can get back in contention by beating the Dragons. Still on the Rochester schedule is Romeo which downed the Falcons by three points in an earlier meeting.

Troy, 5-2 and conqueror of Orion, is waiting in the wings.

Romeo is not expected to have much trouble with Avondale, 1-6. The Bulldogs rolled over the Yellow Jackets, 70-52, in the first meeting.

★ ★ ★

Mark Giegler is back in harness for Milford and scoring at a 24.3 clip, but his presence isn't expected to boost the Redskins to an upset over Northville.

Holly's Broncos seem to consistently get in foul trouble and this could be their undoing agaist West Bloomfield's give-and-go offense.

Clarkston downed Andover in overtime the first time the teams met. The host Wolves have been improving on offense with each game and are favored to move up in the standings.

16 Pro Golfers Under Par 72 at New Course

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Four professionals shot three-under-par 68s Wednesday as the shotmakers, playing in the pro-amateur prelude to the $100,000 Los Angeles Open, found the new Brookside Park course a fair test.

Sixteen players battered par 36-35—71, led by Mason Rudolph, Howie Johnson, Dave Hill and Charles Coody.

Defending champion Arnold Palmer made the trip in 37-36-73, and Billy Casper had 34-38-72.

Pasadena welcomed the tournament when the Professional Golfers Association refused to continue it at Los Angeles' Municipal Rancho course.

Wheel Comes Off; Italian Racer Flips

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The high-speed crackup that hospitalized Italian driver Ignazio Giunti at Daytona Beach Wednesday was caused by a wheel coming off, according to a spokesman for the Alfa Romeo factory team.

Giunti suffered an arm injury and facial lacerations when his type 33 Alfa Romeo lost the wheel at a reported 130 miles an hour and flipped end-over-end and rolled over five times. Hospital officials said the 26-year-old driver was in good condition and that "there are no fractures."

Pontiac Press Photo

FACING DRAGONS—Senior Gene Bauer, a 5-11 guard, and his Rochester teammates will be looking for an upset when they journey to Lake Orion tomorrow night to meet the Dragons who share first place in the Oakland A League with Romeo. The Falcons will be looking for some scoring punch from Bauer, whose shooting tailed off after the team's first five games.

Heated Battle Continues in County Scoring Race

The possibility is slight, but there may be a couple of scoring trophies this season.

With the season past the halfway mark, three players are within three tenths of one point of each other in the battle for the scoring championship.

Setting the pace with a mark of 24.3 built through only three games is Milford's Mark Giegler, whose shooting eye wasn't dulled by his layoff because of a leg injury.

Deadlocked at 24 points apiece are Jim Merchel of Hazel Park and Tim Megge of Orchard Lake St. Mary.

In nine games, Merchel has tossed in 216 markers, while Megge has sent 240 points through the hoop in 10 contests.

FOURTH PLACE

Jack Zwemer of Detroit Country Day has moved into the No. 4 spot with a mark of 22.4 through nine games.

★ ★ ★

Midland's Dave MacDonald continues to set the pace in the Saginaw Valley Conference. In eight games, he has a mark of 24.2. Dwight Pinnix holds down the second spot at 21.4.

Jays Defeat PNH

Southfield Tankers Set Pace

Southfield swimmers Greg Ortega and Mike Burt, re-arranged some of the weekly individual standings in the county last night in leading the Blue Jays to a 67-38 victory over Pontiac Northern.

Ortega was a double winner in the 50 and 100 freestyles, setting a varsity record in the 100 in 50.9 to take over the top spot in this event in the county.

His 23.0 in the 50 is also the county's best this year.

Mike Burt, a strong contender for state honors in the 400 freestyle won the event against PNH in 4:05.6.

Northern's lone double winner in the meet was Mike Harroun in the butterfly and the freestyle relay.

The weekly statistics of top county times are provided by Mike Lane, swimming coach at Bloomfield Andover High School.

SHOWDOWN — University of California basketball coach Rene Herrerias speaks during a news conference called by the 11 white players of the school's racially-torn basketball squad. The five Negro players had been invited but did not attend. Herrerias called for a 4:30 p.m. practice and declared, "If only the whites show up, that will be my team."

2nd Half Surge Spurs Broncos

OXFORD, Ohio (AP)—Reggie Lacefield fired an early second-half spurt with 10 points to lead Western Michigan past Miami here Wednesday night 91-71 and send the Broncos into a three-way tie for first place in the Mid America Basketball Conference.

* * *

The Broncos outscored the Redskins 25-8 in the opening 10 minutes of the second half as they built up a 28-point lead at one point while coasting to the victory.

Western Michigan now stands 4-1 in the MAC along with Bowling Green and Toledo.

Golden Bears All Work Out for Next Tilt

BERKLEY, Calif. (AP) — White and Negro basketball players practiced together Wednesday averting a split that threatened to spread through the University of California's entire sports program at Berkeley.

All 16 members of the Golden Bear squad — 11 white and five Negroes — heeded Coach Rene Herrerias' orders to report to Harmon Gymnasium and settle down to preparations for the next agme — against Air Force at Colorado Springs, Feb. 2.

"I'm satisfied I have a ball club," said Herrerias in expressing confidence that the team's racial problems were solved.

SUSPENSION

"We are here because we want an education and we want to participate in sports," said Bob Presley, the high scoring, 6-foot-10½ Negro center whose brief suspension last week brought on the controversy.

The reasons for Presley's suspension were not disclosed. But when he was restored to good grace, white members of the team charged that Herrerias had been subjected to pressure by the university administration.

The white players, threatening to quit unless Herrerias was given a free hand, said race was not a factor in the incident. They accused Presley of skipping practice, being hostile toward teammates and critical of the coach.

Presley contended he was penalized for refusing to cut his bushy Afro-style hairdo.

Ski Victories for Waterford

Skippers Successful in Starting Trip

Special to The Press

MANCELONA — Waterford High School's ski team began a three-day northern swing Wednesday with a dual victory over Bellaire at Schuss Mountain.

The boys combined for a 1:17.2 victory while the girls coasted to a 2:49.2 triumph. Each school ran the steep, icy slalom course twice and the giant slalom run once.

Gary Edwards of WTHS took first in both boys' events. Also scoring were Mike Warra, Jim Nye and Bob Ralston (3-4-7) in slalom, and Tom Bryan, Nye and Les Slocum (3-4-7 again) in giant slalom.

Julie Crary, Debbie Morris, Cathy Benson and Sue Nye enabled the Skipper girls to sweep the top three places in both events, with Misses Crary (slalom) and Benson (GS) placing first.

Today the Skippers will join West Bloomfield's skiers in a triangular meet at Bear Mountain against Grayling.

U.S. Skier 5th in Megeve Race 'Hurt' by Snow

MEGEVE, France (AP) — Billy Kidd, the United States' best Olympic hope, finished fifth Wednesday in the Megeve giant slalom that failed to attract many of the world's top skiers because of the weather.

★ ★ ★

Frenchman Georges Mauduit and Bernard Orcel took the first two places in times of two minutes, 2.90 seconds and 2:02.95 respectively in the tuneup for next month's Winter Olympics at Grenoble.

★ ★ ★

Kidd of Stowe, Vt., seemed distracted by his poor visibility in a swirling snowstorm over the hard, fast course and was clocked in 2:05.37.

★ ★ ★

France's Jean Claude Killy, along with other top skiers, elected to pass the event as only the U.S. and France entered top teams.

OCC OPPONENTS—Eddie Pruitt (left) and Harold Reiser are both playing basketball for Oakland Community College; however, tomorrow night they will be intense rivals on the court. Pruitt, a former Pontiac Central prep player, is a regular on the Highland Lakes campus quintet that will be attempting to gun down Reiser and his Auburn Hills campus teammates. The former Hazel Park standout was a key man around the backboards as the Nikes won the first meeting.

Oakland Community College's two campus quintets will clash Friday night as part of a basketball triple-header at Hazel Park High School.

Following the Southeastern Michigan Association League game between Southfield and the Vikings' varsity teams (and the preliminary junior varsity game), Auburn Hills will meet Highland Lakes in a state Community Junior College AC tilt.

It is a key ont for the Nikes. They are 5-4 in the race and another defeat would practically kill their chances for second place in the top standings.

Five schools are battling for the honor of being runner-up to powerful Saint Clair Junior College's unbeaten Skippers in the Northeastern Division.

Highland Lakes, meanwhile, is burdened with a 1-7 divisional record and battling to avoid slipping into the basement. Auburn Hills downed the Highlanders, 113-107, in their initial meeting.

LINEUPS

However, coach Lynn Reed of the Highland Lakes squad has lost three regulars to books, injuries and training rules since that meeting. The Nikes' Don Nichols, meanwhile, managed to keep the same lineup most of the time.

The Highlanders will enter the game 3-10 over-all after losing to Alpena CC Tuesday night. Auburn Hills is 10-5 following its 103-90 victory over Monroe CC last night.

With the conference's leading scorer Glenn Lenhoff pumping in 37 points in the second half and making 19 of 29 field goal attempts for a school record 51 points, the Nikes overcame a bad first half to pull away from Monroe.

The foul-plagued contest saw three Auburn Hills' starters foul out. Lenhoff, former Southfield prep star, set a new school mark with 13 successful free throws.

Falcons Deal End to Vikings for Defender

ATLANTA (UPI) — Tight end Billy Martin, a home state boy and Atlanta Falcons crowd pleaser, was traded Wednesday by the National Football League club to the Minnesota Vikings.

In return, the Falcons got Jerry Shay, a 23-year-old 245-pound defensive lineman, who was on the Vikings taxi squad most of last season after being the team's No. 1 draft choice in 1966.

★ ★ ★

Martin, 25, a native of Gainesville, Ga., and an All-America at Georgia Tech, had been a starter most of the two years he spent with the Falcons after coming to the team in the expansion draft from the Chicago Bears.

Late last season Atlanta acquired several flankers and ends and Martin found himself playing less-and-less. During his two years with the club he caught 44 passes for 512 yards and three touchdowns.

Impressive Win for City C Champ

Defending City Class C men's recreation basketball champ Coulacos Insurance continued to impress this season with a 73-52 victory last night over the Pontiac Police.

Local 596 got 26 points from Willie Peck and 19 from Jerome Craft in coasting past Local 653, 77-55, in the other game.

Four of the seven players were in twin figures in Coulacos' victory. Bob Becker led the way with 19 and Larry Hayward had 16. Coulacos had 31-22 advantage from the field.

Local 596 outscored Local 653, 46-16, in the middle stanzas to register its easy triumph.

Vikings Get First Choice

NFL Draft Rules Set

NEW YORK (AP) — Commissioner Pete Rozelle has announced the ground rules and order of selection for professional football's second common draft of collegians.

The 26 pro teams will wellect 462 college players in 17 draft rounds next Thuesday and Wednesday here. Cincinnati, the American Football League's new expansion team, will have 42 picks—the most for any team—while the New York Giants of the National League will have the fewest number of choices — 11.

★ ★ ★

The first pick belongs to Minnesota as a result of the trade which sent quarterback Fran Tarkenton to the Giants last year. After the Vikings make their choice, Cincinnati makes its initial selection.

The Bengals will have the first and last picks in each round as well as a second choice at the end of the second, third and fourth rounds. Cincinnati also gets all AFL choices except Miami's in the sixth round. The Dolphins were the first AFL expansion team two years ago.

Rozelle said each team would have 15 minutes for its selections in the first two rounds and five minutes for each selection after that.

The teams will draft in reverse order of won-lost percentage based on the combined standings of the two leagues last season except for Oakland of the AFL and Green Bay of the NFL.

The Super Bowl opponents will take the last two picks in each round before Cincinnati makes its bonus choice.

FIFTH CHOICE

But the Packers, who under those rules would choose 27th in the opening round, won't have to wait that long. They own New Orleans' first pick as a result of the Jim Taylor deal last year and will choose fifth behind Minnesota, Cincinnati, Atlanta and San Diego. The Chargers are that high because they got Denver's No. 1 choice in the trade for Steve Tensi.

Trades have provided Green Bay with four picks over the normal 17. Cleveland also has 21, Miami 20, Philadelphia 19, New York Jets, St. Louis, Baltimore, Chicago and San Francisco 18 each.

Five teams—Atlanta, Dallas, Detroit, Oakland and Minnesota—have a regulation 17 picks. San Diego, Kansas City, Denver and Washington will pick 16 each, Boston, Buffalo, New Orleans and Pittsburgh 15 apiece, Houston and Los Angeles 14 each and the Giants 11.

Aften Minnesota, Cincinnati, Atlanta, San Diego and Green Bay kick off the drafting, Miami, Buffalo, Pittsburgh, Detroit, Washington, St. Louis, Philadelphia and San Francisco follow in the order.

The New York Giants will draft 15th but voided their opening round choice by being elevated to first and trading that pick to Minnesota. Then come Chicago, the New York Jets, San Diego, Kansas City, Dallas, Cleveland, and Kansas City again, this time using Houston's first pick acquired in the Pete Beathard trade.

Baltimore, Detroit using a pick acquired from Los Angeles in the Roger Brown trade, Oakland and Green Bay finish the first round. Then Miami gets Cincinnati's first bonus pick as part of the John Stofa deal.

Detroiters Coast

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) —Detroit College of Business built up a 10-point lead midway in the first half and then coasted to victory over Davenport College of Grand Rapids, 93-81, Wednesday night in a nonconference basketball game.

Pressure Mounting for Holy Cross '5'

By the Associated Press

As if Holy Cross didn't have enough trouble with a game against UCLA Friday night, now the Crusaders have heaped upon themselves added pressure.

"They'll (the Bruins) come into Madison Square Garden quite loose now that they've lost," Holy Cross Coach Jack Donohue said earlier this week.

★ ★ ★

"And if we win Wednesday night against Colgate, we'll be on a two-game winning streak. That can hurt us with pressure," he quipped.

PRESSURE

For what it's worth, the pressure is there now after the Crusaders breezed by Colgate 98-81 Wednesday night for only their seventh victory in 12 games.

★ ★ ★

The pressure is also building for Louisiana State, which stomped Clemson 104-81 for its 10th victory against two losses, despite a meager 33 points by Pete Maravich. The triumph was the third straight for the Tigers, who must face nationally ranked Southeastern Conference foes Kentucky twice and Tennessee and Vanderbilt once each in their next four games.

In other games on a light college basketball night, West Virginia trimmed Penn State 77-63; Temple nudged Rider 75-73 and Penn upset LaSalle 57-45 in a Philadelphia doubleheader; Western Michigan hammered Miami of Ohio 91-71, and Marshall tumbled Ohio U. 82-73.

SWAMPED

Also St. Peters swamped Siena 98-72, TCU routed visiting Austin 117-78, host DePaul belted Illinois Wesleyan 93-77, and Evansville whipped Southern Illinois 52-45 at home.

Donohue, who coached UCLA's Lew Alcindor in high school, will be facing the All-America in college for the first time and few people give him and his Crusaders much chance.

"Unless we play real well Wednesday night," he said, retaining his sense of humor, "they may be favored."

Holy Cross was impressive against visiting Colgate, particularly 6-foot-4 Keith Hockstein, who scored 26 points and grabbed 10 rebounds. Naceo Giles added 19.

★ ★ ★

LSU was equally impressive, although its home court fans left unhappy because Maravich, the nation's leading scorer, fouled out after only 7½ minutes of the second half. His point total was 12 below his season average.

★ ★ ★

When he fouled out, the capacity crowd howled and sent paper wads and cups raining onto the court. But his loss didn't affect his teammates who turned a 51-42 halftime lead into a rout.

★ ★ ★

Ron Williams scored 20 points and added eight assists as West Virginia, playing at home, won its fourth straight.

★ ★ ★

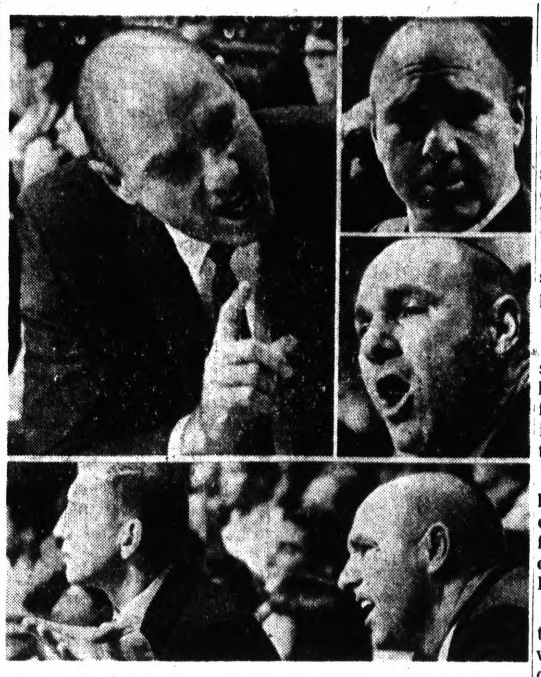

John Baum's tap-in of a missed free throw with two minutes left gave Temple a 72-71 lead and Rider never caught up.

Flags' Port Huron Future Shaky

PORT HURON (AP) — The owner of the Port Huron Flags says he "is not interested in owning a hockey club anywhere but in Port Huron," but added the future of the International Hockey League team may be shaky unless it makes the playoffs.

★ ★ ★

John F. Wismer made the statement in answer to rumors he was considering moving the franchise to Flint, which has indicated interest in an IHL team.

Wismer is the brother of the late Harry Wismer, who once owned the New York Titans, forerunner of the New York Jets of the American Football League.

"I have not discussed moving the franchise nor have I spoken with anyone in Flint, and no one has contacted me about such a move," said Wismer.

★ ★ ★

Earlier, IHL Commissioner Andy Mulligan said Flint is among other cities up for consideration in a move to expand the league to eight teams. Mulligan aded that a possible roadblock for Flint is bad weather which could delay construction of a new arena to house a team.

Wismer said the Flags will have to make the IHL playoffs if the club is to break even financially.

BREAK EVEN

Wismer reportedly hasn't made money on the club since 1962 when he brought the IHL franchise to Port Huron, but has at least broken even.

The Flags are currently in sixth place and need a fourth place finish to make the playoffs. They have won 17, lost 20 and tied seven, giving them a total of 41 points.

The Flags are not out of the running for the playoffs, however, because of a four-team logjam in the middle of the standings.

Toledo is fifth with 42 points, Columbus fourth with 43 and Fort Wayne third with 45.

French Drivers in Slim Lead

MONTE CARLO (AP) — Gerard Larrousse, a 28-year-old Parisian, carried the hopes of France as the grueling Monte Carlo Rally enters the decisive stages tonight.

Not since 1961, when Maurice Martin won in a Panhard, has over-all victory in the event gone to a French driver in a French car.

TOUGH TASK

And tonight it will be a tough task for Larrousse and co-pilot Michel Callewaert in their Franch Alpine.

They are the men to beat and they have only 14 seconds advantage over their nearest rival, the Porsche of Vic Elford and David Stone of Britain.

★ ★ ★

A second German Porsche, driven by Pauli Toivonen and Mart Tinkkanen of Finland, was in third place, 49 seconds further back.

★ ★ ★

In fact, all the leading 10 cars are in striking distance of Larrousse as the surviving 60 cars set out for the final 319 miles, which is in 11 stages and six speed tests in the mountains above Monaco.

★ ★ ★

Any slip by any competitor would be costly at this stage.

★ ★ ★

The best British car hopes rest with the Mini-Coopers of Rauno Aaltonen of Finland, Paddy Hopkirk of Ireland and Tony Fall of Britain, placing fourth, sixth and seventh, 2:27, 4:56 and 5:00, respectively, behind Larrousse.

Pat Moss, in a Lancia Fulvia, placed 13th over-all, and seemed set to win the Coupe des Dames in her first competition drive for the Italian factory.

Weather predictions for tonight's run were freezing, but visibility clear with cold, packed snow in places with northern winds.

Des Moines Six Ties Muskegon

By the Associated Press

The last-place Des Moines Oak Leafs came from behind to wrest a 2-2 tie from the league-leading Muskegon Mohawks in International Hockey League action Wednesday night.

In the only other game, the Toledo Blades swept past the Port Huron Flags, 5-2.

Opening lead—♥ 2

By OSWALD & JAMES JACOBY

West took a long while to select his opening lead. He went over the bidding carefully and finally came to the conclusion that his partner's spade raise had been based on four good trumps and little else.

JACOBY

Then he started to work out the North-South holdings. Obviously, South held minimum high card strength with probably a six card suit, three spades and doubletons in each minor.

That would give North one spade, two hearts and five cards each in diamonds and clubs.

A trump lead was indicated to stop dummy's potential ruffing power and West almost had the ace of hearts out of his hand and on the table. It was lucky that he reconsidered and led the deuce of hearts instead.

With the ace of hearts lead South would have had no trouble making five or six odd, depending on whether West cashed a spade at trick two.

The deuce of hearts lead was an entirely different proposition. South couldn't draw trumps because West still held the ace. If he led a spade West would win, lead his ace of trumps and take two more spade tricks.

South saw all this and also saw an extra shot or two in his locker. He played out his ace and jack of diamonds, entered dummy with a high club and led a high diamond. East ruffed and South overruffed.

Then South led a second club. He thought about taking the club finesse but decided that it was wrong and he would go down two—if he tried to make the hand that way.

Also, he would still make his contract if East had started with only two trumps so South rose with dummy's remaining high club and led a fourth diamond.

East ruffed that also, and South had lost a game contract that would have made against any lead but the one that West had selected.

♥♣CARD Sense♠♦

Q—The bidding has been:

West	North	East	South
	2 ♥	Pass	3 ♥
Pass	3 ♠	Pass	4 ♦
Pass	5 ♣	Pass	?

You, South, hold:
♠ 5 4 ♥ K 10 7 ♦ A 8 5 4 ♣ Q 6 3 2

What do you do now?

A—Bid either five or six hearts. We rather favor the jump to six, but if your partner is an overbidder, the more conservative five heart call would be preferable.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Instead of bidding five clubs, partner jumps to six hearts over four diamonds. What do you do now?

Astrological Forecast

By SYDNEY OMARR
For Friday
"The wise man controls his destiny . . . Astrology points the way."

ARIES (Mar. 21 - Apr. 19): You have inkling of what to do in order to achieve best results. But final answer is delayed. Later you get indication from one in authority. Don't force issues. Be patient.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 - May 20): Your feelings are heightened. Tendency is to go to extremes. Take care in relations with opposite sex. You could say, do things you actually do not mean—don't get carried away.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20): Finish what you start. Don't fall prey to subterfuge. Some conditions are subject to sudden change. Family members react in eccentric manner. Stay on course.

CANCER (June 21 - July 22): Communication from fellow workers, associates is apt to be blurred. Means you need to clarify meanings. Some who appear aggressive merely want attention, a compliment.

LEO (July 23 - Aug. 22): Curb extravagance. You've been spending too freely. Take stock. Accent quality, simplicity. You do not have to impress with fabulous gifts, trips. Give yourself — that's sufficient.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 - Sept. 22): What was secure may change. Move with the times —go with the tide. Don't hang on to situation that is outmoded. Message becomes crystal clear before day ends.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 - Aug. 22): Not easy to keep a secret today. Know this. Don't become involved in clandestine plot. One who advocates skirting the law has already been discovered, though he doesn't know it.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 - Nov. 21): Money situation is favored — but some friends want too much too soon. Communicate—learn by doing. Don't take persons, situations for granted. Day to experiment and gain.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 - Dec. 21): Some of your aims are disputed. But cycle is high—circumstances favor your unique efforts. Open mind to valid suggestions, advice from family. Strive for greater harmony.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 - Jan. 19): Separate fact from illusion. Tendency today is to be abstract. Wise course is to know difference between actuality and wishful thinking—this is important.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 - Feb. 18): Accent today on what you desire—your hopes, wishes are tested. Learn what is available, what is out-of-reach. Accept knowledge. Avoid brooding. Work in positive manner.

PISCES (Feb. 19 - Mar. 20): Be sure of legal clearance before taking important step. Spotlight on career, prestige, ambition. Be wary of one who changes his mind. Be positive of procedure.

IF TOMORROW IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you have powerful personality. This could be leading factor in taking you to top executive post. Changes due at home are based on move made last year.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Cycle high for SAGITTARIUS, CAPRICORN, AQUARIUS. Special word to SCORPIO: be flexible. Give full play to intellectual curiosity.

You are reading this ad for only one of two reasons, you are hunting for a job or you have one, and are looking for a better one. Either way look longer. My company hires about once every 5 years, we have moved enough men up the ladder, so that we need new salesmen. We are a big company, Dunn and Bradstreet rated.
This is one of the hottest things that ever hit the Detroit area. No credit check, no turn downs, no canvassing. I cannot promise you the moon, because I don't own it, but I can promise you one of the best positions east or west of the Rockies, I have got that. I can also promise you that you can make more money with my company than you have ever made before, no matter what you have been doing, or what you have been selling. I promise you that you will never work as hard as you have worked before.
If you want something for nothing, answer another ad, but if you want a real good position, call me. If you have never sold anything before, that's O.K. I won't have to unlearn you, we can start from scratch, if you are a top notch salesman now, I have a real good position. Now just an ordinary down to earth salesman can make over $14,000 per year, no traveling, no gimmick, no tall tales, no way out yonder promises.

TRIUMPH OVER CONFORMITY!

The New Triumph TR-250

What gives the new TR-250 its sportier-than-thou attitude? — 6 Cylinders. This 2½-litre "six" is the latest in a long line of race-proven Triumph engines. Delivers more power, more torque, more reliability on the road or in a race. — Independent Rear Suspension. An extra on other cars, standard on the TR-250. Provides better traction and high cornering power at all times. — 4 Forward Gears. All synchromesh, of course. For drivers who know how to get the most out of an engine. — Disc Brakes. Big 10.7 inch disc brakes up front for fast, swerve-free stopping. — Rack-and-Pinion Steering. The ultimate in positive, precise control. — Reflective Safety Striping. Gives the canvas top a look that functions. When their lights hit you, they'll know it's a TR-250. — Red Band Rapid Ply Tires. More tread life, greater fuel economy, better performance at all speeds. Wide-profile to maintain a more stable foot print. — There's more to the TR-250 than meets the eye. Or, than we've told you. Ask Grimaldi's Imported Car Co. to show you.

W. Rockefeller Leaves Press in Dark at Confab

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller held a 30-minute conference Wednesday with three governors from Morocco, but newsmen who were present were unable to report a thing they said.

The governor and the touring visitors—Govs. Omar Benchemsi of Safi, Mohamed Maazouzi of Rabat and Mohamed M'Rabet of Nados—conversed in French, a language Rockefeller said he learned from a Swiss nursemaid "who couldn't speak a word of English."

"This time, I'm one step ahead of the press," Rockefeller said.

State Gets Funds for Dunes Park

WASHINGTON (AP) — Michigan Department of Conservation has been awarded $291,975 from the Interior Department for further development of Warren Dunes State Park, 16 miles south of St. Joseph, U.S. Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., reported Wednesday.

The funds will be used to construct a concession building, bathhouse, shower, restroom building and other improvements.

A Look at TV

'Laura,' Lee Fail to Shine

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK — Lee Bouvier made her heralded television debut in ABC's ''Laura'' Wednesday night. It was not, alas, a particularly memorable two hours.

Miss Bouvier—Jacqueline Kennedy's sister and in private life Princess Radziwill—played the title role, a girl in the center of a group of terribly civilized, unpleasant, lying characters.

★ ★ ★

Her lack of professional acting experience was quite evident throughout since the character of Laura remained a sort of blur from beginning to end — one never felt much about the character, pro or con.

The adaptation from the old hit movie was a slow-moving drama in which the five principals seemed to roam constantly around beautifully furnished rooms, pouring and sipping drinks, and talking, talking, talking. All except Laura, who actually had few lines, which Miss Bouvier delivered in the tentative, almost cautious manner of the star of a high school play.

OTHERS HAD TROUBLE

She was not, however, the only one who had trouble in the framework of an implausible murder story. George Sanders was stuck in the role of a middle-aged bon vivant whose protege she had been. Farley Granger was the amoral young gigolo to whom Laura was attracted while he was having an affair with her aunt. Arlene Francis, as the aunt, was not treated kindly by the cameras but did succeed in making her unpleasant character seem faintly human. Robert Stack played the detective in the wooden, expressionless style he first adopted for ''The Untouchables.''

As soon as we learned at midpoint that the murdered girl was not Laura, the show settled down to permitting the main characters to tell lies. The revelation of the murderer at the end of a very long two hours seemed to come as an anticlimax.

★ ★ ★

Miss Bouvier's family connections and her recent decision to become a professional performer caused unusual interest in her initial television appearance. It is unfortunate that she took the plunge in a starring role, since it takes time and experience to convert even a devoted amateur into a professional.

"Laura" was not any great shakes as a suspense tale. Miss Bouvier did not emerge as a latter-day Sarah Bernhardt. But it was still interesting to watch her debut. And "Laura" was a great fashion show. Miss Bouvier's costumes, from negligees to street clothes, were high fashion.

Teen Warriors Chalk Protest in Indonesia

JAKARTA (AP) — Indonesia's children warriors, armed with pieces of chalk, took to the streets Wednesday for the third straight day to protest what they call high living costs and corruption.

Hundreds of children, most in their early teens, swarmed down the main streets. Slogans demanding the government take quick steps to stop the inflation were written on automobiles.

★ ★ ★

Singled out for particular attention was the military. Military trucks and jeeps were covered with chalked slogans.

The boys and girls, many wearing the traditional white uniforms of the anti-Sukarno demonstrators two years ago, marched again to the offices of Acting President Suharto. They were turned back by helmeted troops that blocked the roads.

★ ★ ★

The demonstrations are being staged by the High School Action Front of Jakarta, called Kapi. The larger and more influential University Students Action Front, Kami, has not moved yet.

Scores Flee Store in Oregon Mix-Up

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — More than 400 employes and scores of customers fled from a Portland department store Wednesday when they smelled a strong gas. But fire investigators couldn't find any leaks.

A call from a nearby freight company explained what had happened.

★ ★ ★

The company said one of its trucks, which was carrying a chemical that is added to odorless natural gas to give it a detectable smell, had a leak. As the truck drove by, the store's ventilation system sucked the strong-smelling gas additive inside.

Paroled Slayer Is Heart Victim

NORTH, S.C. (AP) — Fred Poole, paroled last Thursday after serving 18 years of a life prison sentence for murder, died of a heart attack this week at the home of a relative.

Poole, 76, was sentenced in the 1943 slaying of a farmer after six years as a fugitive. He was listed as the FBI's No.1 fugitive much of that time.

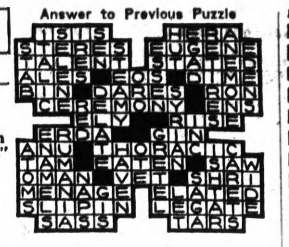

A BEAT BEAR—This model of Smokey the Bear seems so tired from taking a stand on forest fires, he's taking a seat himself. Smokey was rolled from the recent snow accumulation by the kids living on Astor Street.

'Broadway for Peace' Show Stolen by a Cookie Recipe

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Carl Reiner's recipe for cream cheese cookies was a cultural smash at the Doves' big Broadway for Peace 1968 show at Philharmonic.

Right in there with Barbra Streisand's diamond lorgnette and Leonard Bernstein's flowered Austrian vest with silver buttons.

"First you take a stick of butter . . . ¼ of a pound," said Reiner, the m.c., smacking his lips.

Leaving us hanging, he salaamed to Harry Belafonte, Robert Ryan, Alan Arkin, Joel Grey, Paul Newman, Joanne Woodward, Tommy Smothers, Betty Comden and Adolph Green, then got back to the important stuff.

WILSON

"It makes the most fantastic cream cheese cookies in the world," the dinner-jacketed sophisticated super-slick, m.c. said. "Next a small package of cream cheese, a cup of sugar, a cup of flour . . ."

Aw, obscenity! The benefit again!

"You who paid $200 for your seats aren't going to get your money's worth!" he told the down-fronters. "There is no such show."

★ ★ ★

Tony Randall came out to introduce Leonard Bernstein. ("Piano player: Needs practice.") Bernstein spoke of the "absurdity of our position in Vietnam." I asked Randall how he felt about entertaining GIs.

"My antagonism to the war is only for the obscenity obscenity obscenity who sends them over there. I'm going to Vietnam Feb. 9," he said. "I was a GI myself for four years."

"Then," resumed the master chef, "take nine walnuts finely chopped, blend all this in a bowl, put small dollops on a cookie sheet with a clean wet finger, put in a 350-degree oven, and when it gets to turning brown, it's absolutely unforgettable."

★ ★ ★

"How many would that serve?"

"About 20 cookies. Enough to serve one, if it's me," smiled Reiner. Peace, it's glorious.

THE MIDNIGHT EARL . . .

Frank Sinatra, up from Acapulco, heard his son and Jack E. Leonard at the Copa. The crowd begged him to sing. "I'm not in shape," he said. Jack E. heckled: "Were you ever?" . . . Gretchen Wyler flew from Miami to Mexico for the long-planned divorce from Shepard Coleman. . . Carol Channing and Tallulah Bankhead, birthdaying Jan. 31, will give a party at Le Pavillon for John O'Hara, likewise . . . Joseph Norbans' dtr. Wendy was London-trained by the Countess of Halsbury.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: This is really the land of opportunity — where everybody has a chance to grow up and become a taxpayer.

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "The greater the obstacle, the more glory in overcoming it."

EARL'S PEARLS: Tolerance is sometimes the uncomfortable suspicion that the other fellow may be right, after all.

Comedienne Joan Rivers (Mrs. Edgar Rosenberg), who had a baby, got a wire from Rodney Danderfield: "Your jokes may be new — but your delivery is not original." . . . That's earl, brother.

(The Hall Syndicate, Inc.)

Approximately 84,000 of the 3.629 million babies born in the United States in 1966 died during the first year of life, an all time low of a death rate of 23.4 per 1,000 births.

Alaska Dem Denies Misusing Loan

WASHINGTON (AP) — An Alaska Democrat who received a big government disaster loan after his motel was flooded says a Republican congressman's allegations about a subsequent land transaction consist of "politically motivated half-truths."

L. Donald Pruhs, who received the largest Small Business Administration loan in Fairbanks after a major flood there last August, said Rep. H. R. Gross, R-Iowa, need only to check records "to learn the truth."

Gross told the House Wednesday that shortly after receiving an SBA loan of $894,000, Pruhs bought $203,100 worth of land in Arizona.

"Where did the money come from for the Arizona deal?" Gross asked.

TRACTS BOUGHT

The Iowa Republican said Pruhs' SAB loan was approved in the first week of October and that on Oct. 19 he made a $3,000 cash downpayment on 160 acres in Yuma County, Ariz. Gross added that Pruhs paid $10,500 down on a 640-acre tract on Nov. 28, with another $24,500 payment due on this purchase by Feb. 1.

Vernon Wright, recorder of deeds in Yuma County, agreed with Gross' statements in a telephone interview with the Associated Press.

Pruhs said the value of his land purchases was "considerably below $203,000" but gave no specific figure in comments to a newsman in Seattle, Wash., after Gross' speech.

"My wife and I bought 160 acres, ourselves, as an investment and put $3,000 down, but I was only one of several Fairbanks businessmen in the deal for the other 640-acre tract, and the $10,500 down payment was made by the group, not just by me," Pruhs said.

'JUST POLITICS'

Accusing Gross of half-truths, Pruhs said: "This is just politics in a political year, and an effort by the Republicans to blow something up out of all proportion."

Pruhs, a member of the Democratic State Central Committee in Alaska, said, "Mr. Gross needs only to check the escrow instructions recorded in Yuma County to learn the truth."

★ ★ ★

The AP reported last week that Pruhs got his $894,000 loan to repair his flood-damaged Golden Nugget Motel, while Republican Gov. Walter J. Hickel received half of the $1.2 million loan he sought for his motel, the Travelers Inn, damaged in the same flood.

★ ★ ★

Gross has urged a congressional investigation of the situation.

Prison to Sell Canning Tools

JACKSON (AP) — Canning quipment, unused since 1966, when Southern Michigan State Prison phased out operations in which 4½ million pounds of fruits and vegetables were processed annually, will be auctioned Friday morning.

The auction will be restricted only to men, since women are prohibited within the prison walls.

Mouth cancer killed 7,000 Americans last year, with 90 per cent of the cases occurring in people over 45 years of ago.

Ex-Editor's Fine Upheld

SALEM, Ore. (UPI) — The Oregon Supreme Court yesterday unanimously affirmed the contempt-of-court conviction and $300 fine of a former college newspaper editor who refused to tell a grand jury her surces for a story on campus marijuana use.

Annette Buchanan, who published the article as managing editor of the University of Oregon newspaper in 1966, said she would appeal to the U. S. Supreme Court.

Miss Buchanan, now Mrs. Michael Conard, published an interview by eight anonymous students on marijuana smoking and refused to name them after she was subpoenaed to appear before the Lane County Grand Jury.

The Oregon court held the "asserted privilege" to protect news sources did not take precedent over a person's duty to testify in court in the absence of legislative statute protecting reporters.

Miss Buchanan's attorney Arthur Johnson, argued at the Dec. 4 state supreme court hearing that the constitutionally protected right of freedom of the press was "clearly involved."

Roads Protest Group Seeks Elected Officials, Improvements

By JEAN SAILE

A protst group known as WHAR (Why Have Awful Roads?) has set out after Commission, aiming in the end to have the road group elected rather than appointed.

An estimated 80 officials and residents from 10 townships met last night in Holly to organize a general protest over road conditions.

"Our roads didn't reach their present condition in the last 30 to 60 days and they're not going to be cured in the next 30 to 60 days," said Ben East, WHAR chairman.

East told the disgruntled officials and residents froma wide area of the county, that lasting road improvements might be some time in coming "but we haven't the slightest intention of letting it (the protest) stop here."

★ ★ ★

Representatives from Addison, Avon, Farmington, Independence, Orion and Pontiac townships joined citizens from Rose, Holly, Groveland and Springfield townships to form a countywide organizatin with the long-range goal of making the offices of road commissioner elective rather than appointive.

★ ★ ★

The goal adopted by the group was "to initiate and support legislation aimed at returning to the people a needed measure of democratic control over the County Road Commission, which at present is for all practical purposes answerable to no one."

One of the short-range goals was "to upgrade immediately the maintenance of these (rural) roads by more efficient and regular schedules of maintenance work and by the prompt repair of trouble

Reasons for organizing adopted by the group were set forth in a prepared statement.

The WHAR statement charged that:

'NEGLECTED STEPCHILD

"For at least 10 years the rural road system has been increasingly the neglected stepchild of the Oakland County Road Commission. The amount and quality of maintenance, apart from winter snowplowing, has declined steadily and almost no construction of gravel roads for replacement purposes has been carried out.

"In addition to serious invonvenience, the results have been dangerous traffic hazards in many cases, damage to vehicles that cannot be estimated, impaired services such as fire and police protection and ambulance service to rural residents, excessive maintenance costs to school bus systems, hardship to

U. S. Shuns Force for Ship

WASHINGTON (AP) — Administration souces say that despite two diplomatic setbacks, peaceful means rather than force remain the immediate U. S. policy in trying to win return of the captured ship Pueblo from North Korea.

A second urgent effort to enlist Soviet help in freeing the U. S. Navy intelligence ship and 83 Americans aboard from their captors may be made soon despite an initial cold shoulder from Moscow, White House informants said.

President Johnson and top strategists weighed diplomatic alternatives late into last night while the nuclear-powered American aircraft carrier Enterprise hovered within striking distance of North Korea.

In addition, the Air Force reportedly moved to jet fighter squadrons from Okinawa to South Korea to bolster the small force of 18 fighter bombers already at Osan and Kusan-dong.

CLIMAX OF PROGRAM — Harriet C. Stinson, home economist from Consumers Power Co., completes her demonstration of recipes at last night's Pontiac Press cooking school. Probable Leak in Lost H-Bomb

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. nuclear scientists in Greeland assume that one or more of four missing hydrogen bombs ruptured in Sunday's B52 crash, strewing uranium or plutonium over an icy bay, sources report.

The report followed Wednesday's official disclosure that pieces of at least one of the weapons had been found at the crash site seven miles southwest of Thule Air Force Base.

"Since there is radiation on the ice and on the parts we are assuming that at least one of the bombs ruptured," an official said.

★ ★ ★

The radiation—detected on the boots of scientists their dogsled drivers and other helpers —was characterized as negligible.

The Pentagon says it is alpha radiation which does not penetrate the skin. The only precaution necessary for men working in the area is to wash their footgear after work.

Ouster of Assessor, Board Urged in Avon

A demand for the removal of Avon Township assessor John Marmon and the township's three-man board of review was made last night by the Avon Township Committee for Fairer Taxes.

Headed by Robert Thor, 3238 Donley, a group of about 50 persons appeared before the Township Board to also ask a reduction by Feb. 1 of total millage so that no property owner would pay in Avon's current millage, including school taxes, varies between 43 and 45.

The group also asked that a competent assessing firm be engaged to reassess all property in Avon Township.

The Committee for Fairer Taxes, which claims to represent from 200 to 600 residents, is composed largely of home owners in the southwestern portion of the township, though Thor claims a representative membership throughout Avon.

COURT ACTION THREATENED

The group has been active for about two years in dispute of township assessing practices and high tax bills.

There has been court action threatened at various times against the townshhip, but so far none has been taken, and Thor denied last night that his group would necessarily seek court actinn to have its most recently presented demands met.

Thor's letter last night charged the assessor with "favoritism and innfir burden of taxation on the average taxpayers and relieving some favored taxpayers of their just share of the burdens of taxation."

Pontiac Hearing on Open Housing Produced Wide Variety of Opinions

BY BOB WISLER

The public hearing on a proposed open housing ordinancea t this week's City Commission meeting produced a variety of opinions.

The most predominant was, according to those in favor, that there is a need for such legislation.

Arguments against ranged far and wide, but they seemed to hit on a few key areas — loss of rights, especially property rights; a possible loss in property value; and the belief that the majority knows best and should be able to decide the rules for the rest of the country.

In some instances there were tinges of outright racism, an apparent lack of understanding, a lack of concern, distruct and even fear.

There was also evident a feeling, shared by many throughout the country, of genuine concern that various levels of government are too often dictating to the average citizen.

The combination and mixur of hs feeeeings can ofnte bring abou a discomfor, atinwggnasns fort, a gnawing sense that the people no longer control their lives or events and they are unable to do anything about it.

STATUS QUO

This is the climate that produces a hunger for the status quo, a clinging to the "way things were" and a resistance to any change.

A belief in the inviolableness of a person's property, perhaps the only steady and unchanging tangible thing in a rapidly changing world, seems sacred.

"Nothing justifies confiscating a person's property rights," one man declared.

WALLACE Fruit of 6114 Adamson, who called ex-Alabama Gov. George Wallace "the smartest man I ever talked to," said open housing laws take away property rights.

'BIG BROTHER'

Jean Mielke of 670 E. Walton warned of "Big Brother" and said the ordinance could become a monster.

Another saw it as the "opening wedge" of greater and greater government control. Still others incongruously linked open housing with socialism and com-munism.

TE ALL THE CLINGING TO "propert rights" and comments that abridging these rights is unconstitutional, the Constitution says little about property rights.

★ ★ ★

Article V of the Bill of Rights states that no person shall "be deprived of life, liberty or property, without due process of law; nor shall private property be taken for public use, without just compensation."

OU Stunned by Cut to Per-Student Funds in Proposed Budget

Oakland University is again having serious troubles in getting money from Gov. Romney.

The university is the only institutionof 13 four-year colleges in Michigan to show a decrease in per-student appropriationsin the governor's proposed state general fund budget, according to OU Business Director Robert W. Swanson.

OU state operating appropriations currently average $1,058 per student compared to a proposed $993 for the 1968-69 fiscal year—a reduction of $65 per student.

Appropriations for the 13 Michigan colleges currently average $1,157 per student compared to a proposed $1,231—a $74 increase.

★ ★ ★

"I am stunned with the budget recommendation," said Chancellor Durward B. Varner.

ERROR IN CALCULATIONS?

"I can only assume there has been an error in the calculations or misconception of the nature ad purpose of Oakland University, and I an anxious to have an opportunity to explore this possibility with the governor."

The university had requested $6.3 million in operating appropriations for next yar, a $1.9-million increase overthe current appropriation.

Romney suggested a $507,000 increase, or 26 per cent of what OU had requested. The total appropriation would then b3 $4.9 million.

★ ★ ★

"This represents an 1 per cent increase in total appropriations over the current year when we are expecting a 19 per cent increase in enrollment," Swanson said.

3 PCT. INCREASE

During 1967-68, the university received a 3 per cent increase of $133,000 when enrollment soared 26 per cent.

Cutbacks were thus necessary for the current year in freshmen advising program, library acquisitions, equipment and supply purchases, security coverage, third semester course offerings and maintenance of language laboratories.

"Drastic program revisions" would again be necessary this forthcoming year, Swanson said.

★ ★ ★

He said OU would "not have a dollar" to provide for increased enrollment, hire additional faculty, buy needed instructional supplies and library books, operate a new health center, manitain the Meadow Brook estate or expand the public safety department.

★ ★ ★

The $507,000 increase and more would be exhausted by increases in current faculty and staff salaries, fringe benefits, Social Security and retirements and inflationary costs and operation of a new engineering building, according to Swanson.

Pueblo Skipper 'Confesses'

Pentagon Denounces N. Korean Broadcast

SEOUL (AP) — The North Korean radio broadcast today what it said was the voice of Cmdr. Lloyd M. Bucher confessing that his U.S. intelligence ship Pueblo was spying in North Korean territorial waters when it was captured.

There were only minor variations from a written "confession" issued earlier which contained a hint the North Koreans may release Bucher and his crew.

★ ★ ★

The voice delivered the statement hurriedly in a monotone, stumbling over some of the words.

In Washington, the Defense Department already had denounced the purported confession as "a travesty on the facts." Assistant Secretary of Defense Phil G. Goulding said: "The style and wording of the document provide unmistakable evidence in themselves that this was not written or prepared by an American."

CRIMINAL ACT

The last two paragraphs of the statement said: "I and my crew have perpetrated such a grave criminal act, but our parents and wives and children at home are anxiously waiting for us to return in safety.

"Therefore, we only hope, and it is the greatest desire of myself and all my crew, that we will be forgiven leniently by the government of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea."

★ ★ ★

If, as Goulding suggested, the statement was written by the Koreans, their inclusion of these paragraphs could indicate they are ready to release the 83-man crew of the Pueblo. One suggestion in Washington is that the Communists will free the ship after they have had time to study its electronic gear.

Viet Volunteer Repeats Effort

GI Trying to Keep His Brother Home

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — A battle-scarred 19-year-old soldier is heading back to Vietnam for the same reason that brought on his earlier tour—to keep his older brother from having to serve there.

Spec. 4 Thomas Clark volunteered for the war zone 10 months ago so that the brother, Spec. 4 Gary Clark, 22, could remain in this country with his wife, who was expecting a child.

★ ★ ★

The younger Clark, who suffered a fragment wound in the shoulder and returned home on leave, now is volunteering for an extension because Gary again has orders to Vietnam.

"He wanted to stay but didn't want me to go back and risk my life again," Thomas said Wednesday. "I convinced him it was better for him and his family if I went."

ON LEAVE

Both brothers have been spending leave with relatives at suburban Soddy, Tenn.

On Tuesday night, Clark saw his older brother off to Oakland, Calif., where Gary, whose first child was born three months ago, is to await shipment to Vietnam.

"I knew how he felt about the baby and his family," said the younger brother, who is unmarried.

Thomas said he is seeking to return because of a Pentagon policy that allows only one brother at a time in a war zone. During Thomas' tour in Vietnam, Gary was stationed near Seattle, Wash.

OFFERED KOREA

He added that he understood the Army offered to let his brother go to Korea instead of Vietnam this time.

"But I think that is the same thing," he said. "I think it's still classified as a combat zone."

Hamlin Fete Is Expected to Draw 1,000

A high point in 25 years of public service will be reached tomorrow night by Delos Hamlin, chairman of the Oakland County Board of Supervisors.

About 1,000 friends, associates and admirers will be present at a banquet in his honor starting 7 p.m., at the New Raleigh House, Telegraph at 10 Mile, Southfield.

HAMLIN

Theme of the dinner is "A Silver Anniversary of Service," and it pays tribute to Hamlin's achievements which include serving as county board chairman for an unprecedented 12 straight years.

Hamlin, 63, began his career as a Farmington city councilman. He is a retired real estate developer and devotes most of his time in the interest of the county.

★ ★ ★

The board of supervisors has set aside tomorrow as "Delos Hamlin Day" and tickets for the banquet to honor him numbered almost a thousand early this week.

Among dignitaries expected to attend are: Lt. Gov. William G. Milliken, Sen. Philip A. Hart, Congressman William R. Broomfield, R-16th District; and Jack H. McDonald, R-19th District.

U.S. Bombers Slam N. Viets at Khe Sanh

SAIGON (AP) — An armada of American bombers pounded North Vietnamese gun and troop concentrations threatening U.S. Marines in the Khe Sanh valley for the sixth straight day today in one of the biggest air campaigns of the Vietnam war.

Despite nearly 6,000 tons of bombs and record air attacks for the third day in a row against the dug-in North Vietnamese, enemy guns continued to hit at the Khe Sanh base and the three strategic hills the Marines control just to the northwest.

By noon today, the North Vietnamese had dropped another 20 mortar and rocket rounds on the Marine positions protecting the northwestern approaches to South Vietnam 16 miles below the demilitarized zone.

The day's barrage followed on the heels of perhaps 300 rounds of heavy artillery, rockets and mortars that Communist gunners slammed into the combat base and the adjacent peaks Wednesday night, killing seven Leathernecks and wounding another 77. Of the 77 wounded, 37 had to be evacuated.

★ ★ ★

The North Vietnamese fired their 152mm guns, their biggest artillery, at Khe Sanh for the first time.

U.S. officers continued to expect a big enemy offensive against Khe Sanh. But the heaviest ground fighting reported was on the central coast some 230 miles to the southeast, where troops of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division and the South Korean Capital Division reported 179 North Vietnamese killed in fighting Tuesday and Wednesday near Phu Cat.

Man Is Guilty in Kin's Slaying

A jury yesterday afternoon found Paul McDonald, 40, guilty of first-degree murder in the May 2, 1967, death of his mother-in-law.

Circuit Court Judge William R. Beasley set sentencing for Feb. 13.

McDonald, who lived at 3399 Shimmons, Pontiac Township, at th e time of the shooting, has been held in Oakland County Jail since he was arrested in May.

Witnesses testified Mrs. Arthur Falls, 1315 Gettysburg, Avon Township, was shot in the chest by a 32-caliber rifle.

Mrs. Falls' husband and son, Gary, 22, testified that she was shot by McDonald in their presence.

Falls said he and Gary were working outside when McDonald approached their home and forced them at gunpoint into the house and down a flight of basement stairs.

As they were going down the stairs, Mrs. Falls was coming up, and McDonald shot the 49-year-old woman, they said. Mrs. Falls died instantly.

McDonald is being held without bond pending sentencing next moth.

3 Senators Urge Probe of Teamster News Strike

From Our News Wires

LANSING — Three area Republican state senators called yesterday for a legislative investigation of the Teamsters union strike against the Detroit News.

The three, Sens. Robert Huber and George Kuhn of Birmingham and L. Harvey Lodge of Waterford, sponsored a resolution for creation of a special Senate committee to look into the strike. The resolution was referred to committee.

U.S. Sen. Robert Griffin, R-Mich., called for a similar onday.

Huber said published reports about the strike "infuriated" him.

"The problem of the Detroit newspapers is a Michigan problem," he said.

"It is time we find out why they have been plagued with four strikes since 1955 . . . and find out once and for all why the strikes occurred, what's behind them and what can be done to prevent them in the future."

Teamsters Local 372 went on strike against the News Nov. 16.

The Detroit Free Press, the city's only other major newspaper, suspended publication the next day.

Four "interim" newspapers were formed to fill the newspaper vacuum.

One never started, another folded and the remaining two were closed by strikes by the same Teamsters local.

BEN EAST
County WHAR Chairman

RFD mail carriers, loss of revenue to rural businesses and damage to basements and home from backup waters left lying on the roads."

The statement further claimed that, ing rapidly, resulting in accelerated use of these roads. In addition, parks, recreation areas, resorts and rural businesses have, further increased the traffic load in many areas. The expanding rural population and the deteriorating roads are on a collision course. A better rural road program is imperative."

A decision to organize units on a township basis with an over'all executive committee also was reached be the froup last night. Membership dues, to meet secretarial and lobbying expenses, were approved.

TREASURER

Robert H. Warden of Holly was named treasurer.

A show of hands indicated that no one present believed an extra millage issue in their areas for the purpose of improving roads would carry at the present time.

★ ★ ★

"Let's find out just what is being done with the state gas and weight tax money which the road commission gets," said East "We may wind up having to seek extra millage, but first, if money is available let's try to get our hands on it."

★ ★ ★

The plight of smaller tax base townships such as Addison, Rose and Holly which have little money in their general funds was pointed out by several in attendance.

FUND ALLOCATION

New construction is handled by the county on a matching fund basis. The amount allotted by the county is expected to be matched by the local area. In most instances the local money comes from the township general fund, but in some areas additional millage for that purpose has been voted.

Said Orion Township Supervisor John Lessiter: "Last year we tried to get road money supplemented from the county's general fund, but it was voted down."

No Action Is Taken by Milford Council

MILFORD—Although the Village Council spent several hours at its last meeting discussing road, sewer and water system improvements, no specific action was taken.

The council did set Feb. 12 for an executive session to continue the discussion and possibly decide on some action, said Village Manager Joseph S. Brophy.

He reported that while roads are in fair condition, they will soon need more expensive work than general maintenance. The public trunk line sewers provide service for most of the village, but no lines are extended to the undeveloped areas.

Public water is available to residents, but it has high iron content, informed the manager.

The next Village Council meeting is Feb. 5 at 8 p.m., one week earlier than the regular date.

Sewer List Accepted by Bloomfield Twp.

BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — The Township Board held a public hearing last night on proposed special assessments for a sanitary sewer in Eastover Farms subdivision.

The board accepted the assessment roll and set a tentative date of March 11 for a hearing on the roll.

Removal of board of review members was asked for alleged "incompetency and their efforts to discriminate and redicule the taxpayers when they appear before them."

ASK PUBLIC VOTES

The letter also asked that no new sewers, water or drains be constructed in any part of the township without a vote of the people to be affected.

State law currently provides that such utilities may be installed without a vote on the basis of necessary health

Thor asked in his committee letter that his group be allowed to approve any assessing firm hired by the township as well as any new appointments to the board of review.

★ ★

Thor said he personally had not paid his 1966 taxes and would not pay his 1967 taxes as a form of protest.

LETTER IS FILED

After an announcement by Supervisor Cyril Miller that a county-level meeting of the legislative, ways and means and equalization committees had been called for purposes of seeking a constitutional amendment regarding assessing, Thor's letter was voted to be received and filed.

Miller said the county meeting would take place at 9:30 a.m. Feb. 7 at the courthouse.

In other business lst night, the township voted to allow property owners in Avon Heights subdivision to withdraw from the township's Phase I sewer and water program. Petitions had been received from 40 of 70 lotowners in the area.

An ordinance controlling door-to-door solicitations in the township was approved.

Court Clears Way for Novi Cityhood Vote

NOVI — The way has been cleared for this village to hold an election to try to become a home-rule city.

The decision on the appeal of the village Committee for City Incorporation with the State Court of Appeals was received yesterday.

The Appeals Court decision set aside the decision of Oakland County Circuit Court Judge William J. Beer, who last Sept. 19 reversed the decision of Circuit Court Judge James S. Thorburn.

Thorburn ruled on Dec. 17, 1966, that Novi could hold an incorporation election.

★ ★ ★

Although the village didn't have 500 people per square mile, stated Thorburn, the election meant no change of any boundaries and represented one type of incorporated entity becoming another type of incorporated entity.

STEMMED FROM APPEAL

Thorburn's decision came as a result of an appeal made by Novi Township.

The State Appeals Court ruled that "No judgment shall be set aside or vacated by any circuit judge except the one who made the judgment unless he is absent or unable to act . . . ."

The petitions for an incorporation election are still on file with the village clerk. They had brought about the setting of an election for last April 4 which was halted by the possibility of an injunction from Thorburn.

Road Commission Cites Fund Allocation, Costs

A letter sent earlier this month to Oakland County township boards puts forth what road commissioners call a few facts of life.

Signed by Frazer W. Staman, chairman, Sol D. Lomerson, vice chairman, and Paul W. McGovern, member, the letter points out that the State Legislature has recently determined that only 34 per cent of the gas-weight tax will be used for county roads. The remainder is to go to the cities and state.

The figure represents a 1 per cent decrease to townships from last year.

The letter also points out that the Legislature has decreed that 75 per cent of the funds coming to the counties is for primary road maintenance and improvement with the greater need cited as being for better access to freeways, work locations, shopping centers, recreation, etc.

★ ★ ★

The letter calls the $1.1 million received last year by the county "painfully inadequate."

SPENDING

"We spent approximately $1.7 million and made up the difference by transferring some primary road funds," the letter reports.

If any of this money were taken away and applied directly to the townships, the commission believes it would be unable to continue on its present 50 per cent matching fund basis for local improvements.

Costs cited by the commission are as follows:

- One grader and operator are necessary for every 50 to 75 miles of gravel road at an annual cost of at least $20,000.

★ ★ ★

- A dump truck and driver will be needed for every 30 to 50 miles of road at an annual cost of over $18,000.
- Supervision will cost at least $50 per mile per year.

★ ★ ★

- Adequate preparation of a road for paving and a 2½"x22' bituminous aggregate pavement will average over $100,000 per mile.
- Gravel delivered on the road costs from $2.00 to $3.00 per cubic yard, and it costs about $885.00 per mile just to add one inch of gravel.

★ ★ ★

- Ditching costs from $.50 to $1.00 per foot and that is only on one side of the road.

★ ★ ★

- Calcium chloride costs at least $320 per mile per year.
- Pavement repair or replacement costs about $3.00 to $7.00 persquare yard.

★ ★ ★

costs about $3.00 to $7.00 per square yard.

★ ★ ★

- Such things as tree trimming and removal, grass mowing, signs, roadside cleanup, engineering and administration are also sizable cost items that cannot be avoided.

★ ★ ★

- All costs are going up over 5 per cent each year.

Slovak Tells of His Escape

By BETTY ANN SCHULTZ

WALLED LAKE — The 25-year-old Czechoslovakian swam seven miles of the Adriatic Sea to win his freedom.

When he reached the shore of Trieste, Italy — after five hours in the water and despite a noticeable tear in his swim trunks — he shouted, "Viva Italy! Viva Italy!"

Some Italians went by in a car, fearing to give a ride to this joyously raving man holding his torn swimsuit.

But the Italians immediately sent the police. They took the more excited than exhausted swimmer, Vlado Mazak, to a camp run by the U.S. Department of Immigration.

★ ★ ★

After several months in two camps and a Slovakian priests' home in Rome, a jet brought the Slovak to the U.S.

STORY TRANSLATED

Vlado Mazak, however, can only tell his story through his father John Mazak and his stepmother, Mary, owners and operators of Shady Lane apartments and cottages at 42820 14 Mile.

But since his arrival here in mid-December, he has been learning English from Mrs. Mazak. He hopes to soon join his father in tool and die work at an auto company.

In fact, it's because of Mr. and Mrs. Mazak's escape, also from Bratislava, Czechoslovakia, in 1950 — besides a longing to live in a free country — that Vlado jumped into the water off Yugoslavia last Aug. 8.

★ ★ ★

Vlado sits relaxed and smiling as he talks about the possibility of death by sharks in the Adriatic.

He says that he accepted the chance of dying but didn't panic while swimming because of his excitement over reaching freedom.

The bright-eyed refugee reported that he had been contemplating his journey for years, inspired by the appeals to come here sent annually by Mr. and Mrs. Mazak.

The appeals were in the form of affidavits swearing that Vlado would have a place to stay in the U.S.

VACATION REFUSED

Each year, Vlado would take the affidavit to the Czechoslovakian police and be refused even a passport for a three-to-six month vacation here.

Mr. Mazak pointed out that police were watchful of and somewhat tough on Vlado as well as remaining members of his family — his first wife, a daughter older than Vlado, and a son and another daughter younger than Vlado.

A passport for a two-week vacation in Bulgaria began Vlado's escape. Instead of going on to Bulgaria, the Slovak got off the train in Belgrade.

He took another train — in which he left all his travel possessions — and a Mr. and Mrs. Mazak knew Vlado had escaped when he sent for plane fare from in Rome.

While Vlado is becoming Americanized, he can be assured of the understanding of his parents. Their escape was through waist-high snow.

Romeo Vote on 8-Mill School Tax Near

ROMEO — The first deficit budget in "many years" and cutbacks in several areas have led to a request for increased operating millage in this school district, according to Supt. of Schools T. C. Filppula.

★ ★ ★

Voters will decide Monday whether to approve a total of eight mills — three renewable and five new — for five years.

How large will the deficit run? "We think right now that if we hold the line it will be around $65,000. Previous estimates had ranged as high as $100,000," Filppula said.

The board of education, faced with the probability of being in the red at year's end, has pared spending in several areas, among them teaching supplies, transportation, field trips, and overtime work for administrators and teachers, according to Filppula.

"If the millage doesn't pass," Filppula continued," we'll have to sit down and see what else can be cut."

AFFECTED AREAS

Areas likely to be affected, he said, include workshops and conferences, extra-curricular activities and maintenance. An increase in the average class size, presently pegged at 25-30, would also probably be necessary, he added.

Adding to the district's problems is a comparatively low equalized valuation in relation to the number of students. "We have $10,892 in equalized valuation per student," Filppula explained. "One district in Macomb County had $26,500, and another has $22,500."

The county average is about $12,900 and the state average about $14,500, he said.

The number of students in the district is steadily increasing too, raising the possibility of bonding issues for new classrooms in the next few years.

CITIZENS PANEL

A citizens committee has been studying the building problem to determine what action will be necessary, Filppula said, noting, "Our junior and senior high schools are just about at capacity."

★ ★ ★

The superintendent was optimistic concerning Monday's vote: "We're very hopeful. Indications are that there is a lot of interest in this election. There have been more applications received for absentee ballots than ever before.

Discord Remains After Birmingham School Pact

BIRMINGHAM — The steady singsong of contract negotiations is gone from this school district, but a discordant melody lingers on.

Spokesmen for the parties concerned have expressed fears that difficulties remain despite the recent settlement, which ended 10 months of talks between the board of education and the Birmingham Education Association (BEA).

All are happy that a contract has been reached. "I don't think there's a single soul in the Birmingham school district who isn't glad there's a contract," says Mrs. Endre Mayer, cochairman of the Association of Birmingham Citizens for Schools (ABC'S).

However, elements of the bitterness disclosed in an ABC'S survey of teachers in December remain, she said.

"We have a much deeper problem here," Mrs. Mayer emphasized, "and it's not going to go away with a contract."

'FIRST STEP'

Many teachers responding to the ABC'S questionnaire indicated resentment at alleged "lack of respect" of the administration for teachers and dissatisfaction with the curriculum.

"I think the contract was a first step," Mrs. Mayer said, "but it's a small one on a long trip. I think it passed because there were so many tired teachers."

Don Cameron, BEA executive secretary, concurred to some extent: "The teachers aren't happy with the contract in terms of the amount of money. They don't feel that the salary schedule is as high as it should be."

The new salary package, which totals about $442,000, provides for an average across-the-board raise of $480. Another $58,000 in fringe benefits and supplemental pay is included.

SALARY SCHEDULE

The schedule calls for a BA minimum of $6,300 and maximum of $10,375; an MA minimum of $6,800 and maximum of $11,500; and an MA plus 30 hours minimum of $7,100 and maximum of $11,900.

However, Cameron continued, the outlook is not all bleak. He pointed to "inroads" in "providing channels for communication," such as the allotment of four posts for teachers on the curriculum council and the recently established "problems committee," composed of administrators, teachers and citizens.

"The channels are there now, and I think it's up to both sides to take advantage of them," Cameron said.

Richard Zweiback, director of personnel administration and chief negotiator for the board of education, also was optimistic about the possibility of improved board-BEA relations in the future.

"In the process of going through negotiations, both parties have come to understand each other's position and the problems each group faces better than in the past," Zweiback explained.

He also viewed the BEA's ratification vote as evidence of improved conditions, commenting, "The fact that there was a 5-1 vote in favor indicates to us that there have been some changes of opinion."

Many teachers also stated in answering the ABC'S questionnaire that they would leave the district after the school year ends.

★ ★ ★

"Negotiations should start again in six weeks," Mrs. Mayer said. "They should start right away and show some promise, or we won't be able to keep teachers from going."

★ ★ ★

Cameron commented, "I feel that in the negotiations coming up, the best thing that could happen for the district is that settlement on a salary schedule comparable to those in other districts be reached before teachers go home (in June)."

Back Commission's 'Housing' Action

The Pontiac City Commission deserves a good deal of credit for standing up and squarely meeting the tough problem of open housing legislation.

They could have ignored it. They could have let it lie until after the April municipal election. But they didn't.

Commissioners began considering an open housing ordinance last fall. This week they voted 4-3 to introduce the ordinance and schedule it for final adoption at next Tuesday's commission meeting.

★ ★ ★

The four-man majority deserves special merit in our opinion for its courageous attempt to provide leadership in attacking a long-standing ill of our social structure. Fortunately, an attempt to sidestep the issue and place it on a ballot for the electorate to decide was defeated by the same four-man majority.

We are not opposed to a public vote as such, but feel the impetus for same should come in the form of referendum petitions from the public. For the commission to place it on the ballot, would simply undo the leadership displayed by the majority of commissioners.

★ ★ ★

Finally, the people themselves, who attended Tuesday's commission meeting, deserve special praise. They debated this emotionally charged issue with style and grace for more than three hours. The discussion didn't degenerate into a shouting match which is so often the case when such issues are debated.

While Tuesday's vote was only the first step in adoption of an open housing ordinance, we support the commission's decision and feel it is indicative of similar passage when the ordinance comes before commissioners for final adoption next week.

Highway Hazards Created by Bad Drivers

No other organization has done more to promote highway safety than the Automobile Club of Michigan. Its "Bring 'Em Back Alive" campaign has performed yeoman service in doing just that for the millions of motorists who jam Michigan's highways over the Memorial Day, July 4th and Labor Day holiday periods.

The Club's report for the first nine months of 1967 contains both cheering and chilling findings. Although the Labor Day weekend with its 48 highway fatalities set an all-time record, 3,700,000 Michigan drivers safely covered 466 million miles—a 5 per cent gain over the 1966 holiday — with less than one-thousandths of 1 per cent involved in fatal accidents.

★ ★ ★

For the January-September period, fatal accidents decreased by 13.4 per cent and injury accidents by 11 per cent comparably with 1966.

Significantly, a study of the 48 Labor Day fatalities showed that only a few more than half the 57 drivers involved in fatal accidents qualified as "normal" drivers.

Nearly 45 per cent had more than the so-called lifetime average of four points. Nearly 19 per cent had been called in by the Secretary of State or subjected to administrative action some time in their driving careers. The 10 worst drivers averaged 24.8 points each on driving records which, for the most part, went back only six years. One had 40 points.

★ ★ ★

Yet this type of driver represents only about 2 per cent of the driving public.

Clearly, then, highway hazard is attributable almost entirely to reckless and irresponsible drivers who not only account for the preponderance of accidents involving themselves but endanger the safety of the multitude of rational and responsible drivers.

It is this type of bad driver that the State, through increasingly tight regulation and law enforcement, must eliminate for the benefit of every good driver.

Woodsman Finds Bears' Interest Hard to Bear

A woodsman in the state of Washington is concerned over the way black bears gang up outside his cabin to watch television through his window — even when the well-known bear star "Gentle Ben" isn't performing.

Of course, his visitors may be thinking the same thing about him.

Senate Seniority: Wait Your Turn

By JAMES MARLOW
(AP) News Analyst

WASHINGTON — It takes chickens a long time to roost in the Senate. But by then they're old-timers. Three old-timers are leaving this year. But the men who succeed them are no kids.

MARLOW

The typical Senate newcomer plays it quiet a few years before trying to assert himself and even then it takes more years before he obtains real power by becoming chairman of one of the Senate's standing committees.

That's taken care of by the seniority system, religiously observed. Translated into simple English it means: Take your time and wait your turn.

It goes like this: A newcomer has to wait in line behind all the party's other senators who have been there longer. He starts out as the low man on the committees.

★ ★ ★

Then as the years pass and one by one those ahead of him disappear because of death, resignation which seldom happens, retirement or failure to get reelected, he moves up until finally the chairman disappears and he becomes chairman.

MAJORITY RULES

As an example of what seniority means: In the Senate there are 16 standing committees. All the chairmen are Democrats because Democrats are in a majority in the Senate.

Waiting in their seniority line for the day when the Democrats lose their majority are the Republicans.

Of the 16 Democratic chairmen one, Sen. Carl Hayden of Arizona, is 90. He's been in Congress 56 years. Six others are in their 70s. Six are in their 60s. Two are in their 50s. Only one, Sen. Russell B. Long of Louisiana, is under 50. He's 49.

★ ★ ★

If the Democrats lose Senate control the top-ranking Republicans on these committees will be the new chairmen. As a group they are even older than the Democratic chairmen.

YOUNGEST 57

Seven are over 70, eight are in their 60s, and only one, Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel of California, is under 60. He's 57.

In recent weeks three old-timers on these committees — all in their 70s — announced they were retiring from the Senate this year.

Lister Hill, Alabama Democrat, and chairman of the Labor and Public Welfare Committee, at 73 is giving up after 44 years in Congress, 30 of them in the Senate.

The next Democrat in line to succeed Hill is no chicken, either. He's Wayne Morse of Oregon, 67. But whether Morse takes over from Hill depends upon the Democrats' ability to retain a majority in this year's election and Morse's ability to win reelection.

REPLACEMENT OLDER

Bourke B. Hickenlooper of Iowa, 71, is retiring his post on the Foreign Relations Committee. But the man who becomes ranking Republican on this committee when Hickenlooper leaves is even older than he is. He is Sen. George D. Aiken, 75, of Vermont.

Frank Carlson of Kansas, ranking Republican on the Post Office and Civil Service Committee, is retiring at 75. Taking over will be a Hawaiian, Hiram L. Fong, 60.

An Interesting Point—

David Lawrence Says:

LBJ Has Publicity Advantage

WASHINGTON — Another example was given last night of how difficult it is for the party out of power to overcome the advantage which an incumbent president has in television and newspaper space.

LAWRENCE

For President Johnson on Jan. 17 had an hour of television time on all three networks simultaneously. The Republicans, of course, have not picked their presidential candidate yet, but they were offered "equal time" on the same night by the Columbia Broadcasting Co. They were not in a position to put on their replies so quickly and accepted "equal time" for a program a week later.

It may well be assumed that President Johnson had a bigger audience by far than did the 17 Republicans in their rebuttal on Jan. 24. But the Republican speakers did make a deep impression.

One reason for this was the fact that they offered a variety of speakers—eight senators and nine representatives — each of whom talked approximately two minutes. Their speeches were succinct and to the point.

Mrs. Charlotte T. Reid, representative from Illinois, whose son is in Vietnam, deplored protests and disunity and dramatically called for support of the war by the American people so that the lives which have been lost in Vietnam will not have been "sacrificed in vain."

OBVIOUS IMPRINT

She made an obvious imprint on the audience of several hundred—mostly members of Congress and their wives—who were seated in the auditorium of the Senate Office Building. They applauded with an unmistakable earnestness.

The Republican speakers chosen for the program were for the most part from the younger group in Congress. All of the participants made it a point to use simple English to express themselves in words that listeners in the television audience could understand, since many persons are not intimately familiar with public affairs.

While former President Eisenhower started off the program with the statement that the times are as critical as any he has known, he did not deal with specific questions, as did other speakers who followed him.

Sen. George Murphy of California, a former actor, who was the moderator of the TV presentation, made his introductions and comments with good showmanship.

There can be little doubt that those who watched the program thought that, on the whole, it was a very interesting and effective response to the State of the Union message of the President. But it may well be conjectured that the audience—a week after Mr. Johnson's address was delivered and over only one network—was just a fraction of those who heard the President.

Millions of people did not even know until afterwards that the program was on TV. No such advance publicity was given it as the Pesident enjoyed. This is not surprising, as presidents make more news and get far more space than their opposition.

In the newspapers, the attention given to the Republican TV program was relatively little. Mr. Johnson probably was noticed by even more readers the same morning when a picture appeared on the sports pages showing him receiving a baseball bat from a player who starred last October in the World Series.

He emerged from the New York Athletic Club the other morning, faced with getting to the Brooklyn studios of NBC where he was rehearsing for a show, but was turned down by the first two cabs he flagged.

CONSIDINE

"Finally, I threw myself on the mercy of the third guy," Pat said. "I told him who I was and what a fix I was in and he agreed to take me.

"Well, said Pat, "there we were, big as life, tooling for Brooklyn when I look out across the water and there, like the great doll she is, stood the Statue of Liberty. I said to my driver, 'My god, isn't she beautiful. Think what she's meant to our country.'

"He never turned around," Pat said. "All the guy said was 'yeah, and now de Gaulle wants her back.' "

The reopening of Ford's Theater in Washington, with proper prayer, poem and prose, recalls a literary effort which flopped after a limited run but which had unforgettable overtones.

It was called "If Booth Had Missed," or some such title. Scene one, act one sees the horrendous ham, Booth, con the boob security man into letting him into the president's box then, once inside, he pulls out the derringer and blasts away.

He misses.

★ ★ ★

Booth is quickly seized, carried off, and, climaxing a fair trial, is hanged. The president, after bawling hell out of his daffy wife for dragging him out to a theater party on Good Friday, and dam' near gittin' him kilt, then embarks on the three years and 11 months left of his second term.

He runs into the same antebellum troubles that Andrew Johnson encountered and, in the end, barely escapes impeachment. In retirement, he is as forgotten as, well, Johnson. Andrew, that is.

Another American Cancer Society fund-raising drive is getting under way, this time under the chairmanship of Lawrence Welk. It will involve thousands of good-hearted volunteer workers, millions of contributors, and able doctors and research people who will use the approximately $50 million raised to continue the fight against this cruelest of the killers of man.

It must be wearisome to some constant souls who cough up a few bucks every year to be hit again this year by the timid cancer volunteer lady at the front door.

Cancer is like the war in Vietnam. It never seems to be solved, is frustrating, often makes no sense, costs exorbitantly, kills good people without substantial reason — can't be simply ignored. But there it is, and something must be done about it.

Part of the restlessness and sometimes rebellion of our youth can be traced to the hot breath of Gen. Hershey upon the backs of their necks.

GRIM DEADLINE

Their elders do not always understand that they too, are under a grim deadline. About one in every four of them will be hit by cancer in what's left of their lifetime. That's a higher conscription rate than the draft. And college doesn't help.

Voice of the People:

Reader Submits Views on President's Message

If it did not touch so many serious matters, the State of the Union message would be almost laughable. The Chief Executive says that because of the cost of the Vietnam war he will submit a "tight" budget of some $186 billion. This is $10 billion more than this year's spending. To call this budget tight is stretching things, especially when Mr. Johnson insists that most of the increases are mandatory.

★ ★ ★

Any ordinary citizen can easily think of many expensive Federal programs, such as farm subsidy, getting to the moon, urban renewal and public housing with rent subsidies, that should be reduced or postponed.

★ ★ ★

Spend more and tax more is the tone of President Johnson's message. This is an election year and we are witnessing a classic example of politics being placed ahead of the good of our country.

Vietnam Serviceman Gives View on War

Here we are in the service, proudly serving the country we love, while back home they're protesting. We disagree. We don't like it. While we fight, our people back home fight also. We fight and possibly die while they protest. We don't like war any more than anyone else. Why should we fight while they protest back home?

★ ★ ★

I'm here but someday I'll be home with my girl like the rest. While I'm here they protest. Why? Because war is no good. I agree. Some come overseas and some go home. Some are alive and some are not, and for those I'm very sorry. But we are to carry on their image, hoping to gain peace eventually.

Discuss Problems of School Bus Drivers

I am a school bus driver and wait for children at their stop if they are in sight and put forth some effort to get to the bus. Some well-meaning parents should drive a bus and see how long it would take to get to school if we waited for every straggler.

EXPERIENCED IN CHILD DELIVERY

School bus drivers have rules to follow and one is not to wait for stragglers. If they did, not only would children already on the bus be late, but others standing at their stops and those waiting for the next run would be delayed. There are times when a child is late and really trying to make the bus, and generally the driver will wait for him.

★ ★ ★

Those who drive children to school do a terrific job. They need our help and cooperation, not our criticism. Let's let our children know we are behind those drivers.

'Agree With Taxpayers on Side Streets'

I agree with taxpayers who live on side streets and don't receive services. People who work in the factories think a clean sweep of the white collars would do this town good. We work 45 to 50 hours a week so our families can live but by the time we receive a check it has been taxed two or three times.

Views Judge's Management of Accused Man

I believe a certain Oakland County judge should be impeached for his management of an accused suspect involving kidnaping—a federal offense—molesting and assault of two small children. The judge allowed the accused suspect to go free on $1,000 bond, which he later changed to $2,000 after much protest by concerned citizens.

★ ★ ★

The man suspected of these crimes is walking the streets with other innocent children at his mercy. When crime and violence are at an all-time high, what chance has anyone of defending himself and his family when our duly elected officials refuse to use the full extent of the law to protect all citizens?

'Our City Needs Adequate Police Protection'

We cannot have adequate protection without an adequate police force. If Chief Hanger says we need 24 more men on the force, he is in position to know this is true. Let's remove some of the lesser things until the money is in sight, but give us our police protection.

J. HUTCHINSON
95½ MARK

As a new resident to the area, I'm not too well informed regarding Pontiac's police quota or salary. However, I recently witnessed the loss of three efficient, dependable policemen in the Pittsburgh suburb where we lived. These men left the force because of low pay and overwork caused by too few men on the force. Later, salaries were raised and additional men were hired, but after losing the services of three well-trained men.

★ ★ ★

Our police forces can't hope to attract and retain good men unless they are given a living wage and sufficient fellow officers to maintain the peace. I hope Pontiac does not learn this too late.

A CONCERNED NEW RESIDENT

Question and Answer

What legal procedure do you have to go through to protect your private property from those sno-sleds?

I WONDER

REPLY

Mr. Schmidt of the Prosecutor's Office tells us, you should first check to see if your city or township has a local ordinance dealing with snowmobiles. Because the problem is so new, there is no State law dealing with it. Otherwise it's trespassing, in which case you must first ask them to leave. If they refuse, you can sign a complaint and it would be a criminal case. If they leave, there is no cause for action unless damage has been done. In that case, you can sign a complaint for a civil suit.

City Hearing on Open Housing Produced Variety of Opinions

"The issue in the beginning of this country was never monetary value, but human dignity," Rev. Stanley Stefancicic of the First Methodist Church of Birmingham, said Tuesday.

He said the evolvement of a debate on property rights verses human rights is "a sad commentary of the American

"It embarrasses me whn people are willing to put property above human dignity," another clergyman, Fr. Frederick Klettner of St. Vincent de Paul Catholic Church, said.

A white resident of the integrated Herrington Hills subdivision for 10 yars, David Woodling of 1178 Dudley, said: "The issue seems to be what comes first? Human rights or economic rights . . . They don't seem to be in conflict to me. There is no place in the Constitution that I have been able to find where a property owner is able to restrict on the basis of race."

Popular vote and majority rule were mentioned several times in the discussion. "I believe in a democracy. I believe the majority should rule," Fruit said.

But, Donald Bauder, director of the Michigan Civil Rights Commission in this area, said a basis of a democracy is ' the protection of the minority, not only majority rule."

A referendum vote against the ordinance would only prove that a majority could deny a minority a right that is deserved, another said.

Charles Meisner of 476 Lynch said that in Germany in the 30s and 40s, in Russia in the 40s and 50s and in France during the Algerian War, "the majority ruled to the extent that they tried to obliterate the minority."

SELLING EXPERIENCES

Some persons related experiences in attempting to sell houses in neighborhoods which had become integrated. Prices went down, they said.

Woodling said a study done in Herrington Hills showed that values "seem to be equal" before integratinn and after.

Louis Wyman, a local real estate agent, said, however, that prices of houses in Herrington Hills have risen. "The prices are incredible."

James Power of 104 Victory, another real estate salesman, said property values have increased.

STUDY CITED

Mrs. Joan Perlman of 3120 Woodland Ridge, West Bloomfield Township, a member of Voice of Oakland County Action League, cited a "five-year study of 10,000 real estate transactions in seven cities."

The study, she said, showed that in neighborhoods which became integrated, 85 per cent of the values were equal to or exceed all-white neighborhoods of comparable condition.

In the 15 per cent with declining values, the declines did not drop below 10 per cent, she said.

★ ★ ★

The necessity of the ordinance was questioned. "I don't think there is any place in our city where colored don't live," Moelke said.

RIGHT TO LIVE

They have the right to live where they want without the ordinance, a man volunteered.

This was disputed. Rev. Stefancic said he had been working to secure homes for Negroes. "I know for a fact that these people are turned down because of race."

Bob Vackaro of 207 Mohawk, a Pontiac teacher, said many Negro Pontiac teachers and administrators haven't been able to find the kind of housing they want and can afford.

"Still they are part of our city and teaching in our schools."

GRADUATE STUDENTS

A Catholic chaplain at Oakland University said, "Graduate students who want to live in Pontiac cannot because they are black."

A woman living in district 5 said, "There are no Negroes in my neighborhood."

Two women said they lived in segregated neighborhoods. Carol Sweeney of 249 Orchard Lake said, "The unwritten law is that you don't sell your home to Negroes. White people perpetuate it and enforce it."

★ ★ ★

Negroes spoke strongly of their interest and love for the country, also Negro participation in the armed services.

IMPASSIONED SPEECH

Rev. Arlond M. Reid, a member of the Human Relations Commission, in an impassioned speech, outlined Negro participation in every American war.

"We loved America and were willing to die for it," he said.

Another woman said, "People say this isn't really my country, I'm from Africa.

"This is my country. I have never been to Africa in my life. And, I don't ever intend to go there. My husband fought for this country."

Throughout all there were pleas for understanding. "I think a lot of opposition comes from the fact that we don't know much about each other," Rev. Reid said.

"White people are scared of colored people. They'll find we are just as human as they are," a woman said.

Meisner asked that racism be stopped. "Let's cut it out now while we've still got the chance."

Bauder, the CRC director said the first (referendum) petition that is filed will be filed on the basis of racist attitudes."

He urged passage of the ordinance to "move one step away from the racism that permeates our society."

In urging passage of the ordinance, a statement of the Pontiac Organization of Black Youth, read by Hubert Price Jr., vice president, said:

"We feel that open housing legislation is a step in the direction of ending that behavior which all black people find so humiliating.

"We are not so naive to believe that housing patterns in this community will change overnight . . . but let us begin."

Clarence Barnes, executive director of the Pontiac Area Urban League, said the discussion showed encouraging signs of "a sense of enlightenment, a sense of justice, a sense of compassion" and a "reason for hope."

John Arden of 924 Spence said witnessing the meeting was encouraging for him also. "Tonight I came here expecting to see a three-ring circus . . . maybe I'm looking at it (the open housing ordinance) a little more open-minded than I did before."

Klansmen Among 10 Jailed in Dixie Killing

HATTIESBURG, Miss. (AP) — Ten men were jailed Wednesday night on murder and arson charges stemming from the 1966 fire-bomb killing of a Negro civil rights leader.

They included a Laurel civic leader recently honored by his home town Jaycees, a state Ku Klux Klan chieftain and a lawyer who showed up to represent clients arrested earlier, then was jailed himself.

★ ★ ★

In the state indictments, issued secretly by the Forrest County grand jury, five men were charged with murder and arson and five others were charged with arson. Arraignment is scheduled today.

The white men were accused of the Jan. 10, 1966, attack with fire-bombs, tear gas and bullets on the home of Vernon F. Dahmer near Hattiesburg shortly before dawn.

FAMILY ESCAPED

Despite the flames, Dahmer shot back at his attackers, creating confusion that allowed his wife, daughter and two sons to escape. Dahmer died in a hospital of burns. He had been a leader in a Negro voter registration drive.

The five charged with arson included Sam H. Bowers Jr., 43, as imperial wizard of the militant White Knights of the Ku Klux Klan.

★ ★ ★

Bowers was free on bond in a conviction on a federal civil rights conspiracy charge in the 1964 murder of three civil rights workers near Philadelphia, Miss. No state charges were filed in that case.

Those charged with both murder and arson in the Dahmer slaying included Charles C. Wilsen, given the Laurel Jaycees' Distinguished Service Award last Monday. A past president of the Laurel Jaycees, he has been active in civic, Boy Scout and Parent-Teacher Association activities.

LAWYER JAILED

Nine men, all from the Laurel or Ellisville area, had been jailed when Travis Buckley, 33, showed up to represent Bowers and others. He was shown an indictment charging him with arson, then jailed with the others.

Buckley faces state kidnap charges at Pascagoula, Miss., in a related case. He was accused of abducting an ex-convict in a vain attempt to extorta false statement from him for use by the defense in a federal case involving the Dahmer slaying.

★ ★ ★

The others charged with both murder and arson included Charles R. Noble, 24; Cecil V. Sessum, 31; James F. Lyons, 35; and William T. Smith.

In addition to Buckley and Bowers, owner of a Laurel amusement company, those charged only with arson were Deavours Nix, 44; Howard T. Giles, 39; and Lawrence Byrd, 46.

AWAITING TRIAL

Bowers, Giles, Nix, Noble and Sessum are awaiting trial in U.S. District Court on civil rights conspiracy charges in the Dahmer slaying. The FBI identified all as Klan members.

Rights Program Chances Slim

WASHINGTON (AP) — Even its most ardent Senate admirers concede President Johnson's civil rights program has little chance of getting through Congress this year.

Johnson offered the package Wednesday in a special message asking Congress for measures to ban discrimination in housing, employment and federal jury selection.

★ ★ ★

He also urged protection for Negroes and whites who are helping Negroes try to exercise their civil rights.

It marked the third time around for a program first submitted in 1966 and reoffered last year.

GLUM VIEW

The House passed the package of measures in 1966, after modifying the President's open-housing proposal, but the legislation was strangled by a Senate filibuster.

Senate backers of the program take a glum view of its prospects now, partly because of the climate created by riots and other racial disturbances.

★ ★ ★

But the President told Congress action should not be delayed because "the air is filled with the voices of extremists on both sides."

Although his over-all civil rights program is in trouble, parts of it are making headway on a piecemeal basis.

Accused Police Officer Resigns

A Pontiac police officer who was accused by a city woman of fleeing the scene of an accident in which his car allegedly damaged hers resigned yesterday from the police ranks.

Patrolman Richard W. Blower sumitted his resignation to Police Chief William K. Hanger after meeting with supervisors earlier in the day, according to Capt. Harry Nye, patrol bureau director.

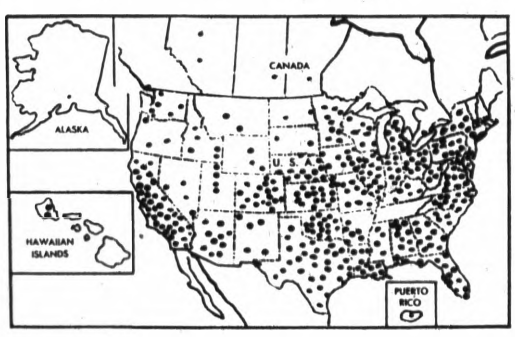

Blower had been suspended Tuesday after Pauline Walton of 161 Summit told police a car bearing a license number matching the number on a dealer's plate on his car twice backed from a service station at Baldwin and Oakland into her vehicle and then drove off.

The incident occurred about 2:45 a.m. last Thursday, police said.

Blower admitted being at the scene but denied knowledge that his car had been involved in a damage accident, according to Nye.

The Guns of Judgment Day

Cliff Farrell's new Western thriller

From the Doubleday & Co. novel; Copyright © 1967, by Cliff Farrell. Distributed by King Features Syndicate.

Chapter 14

The man thrust a big hand over the counter. Dan Briscoe, a little taken aback by the warmth of the greeting, found his hand clamped in powerful strength and pumped vigorously.

"Me, I'm Obediah Willit, owner of the Flat Butte Great Southwestern Mercantile," the big man said.

"Offerin' everything needed for the comfort an' prosperity of man an' the health of beasts. From diapers fer the newborn to corn likker for them that needs to warm their bones on cold mornin's. From horse collars to horseplay.

"Married four times. Buried four wives, bless their souls. Fourteen children, an' 42 grandchildren. What kin I do for you, Mr.—Mr.—?"

★ ★ ★

Dan Briscoe grinned. "Driscoll is the name. Can't say I'm in the market for either diapers or horse collars at the moment, but—"

PRETTY GIRLS

"Give us time," Obediah Willit thundered. "Springwater Basin is brimmin' with purty gals, waitin' a likely man to marry up with, an' raise a family. I'll see to it that you meet some to look over."

"Sounds like I better keep goin' south on that stage before I get roped, throwed, hog-tied an' branded," Dan said.

The store owner guffawed, leaned across the counter and slapped him on the back. It was a blow meant to stagger him. Dan felt the strength of the beefy hand, but managed to brace himself and show no sign it was anything out of the ordinary.

★ ★ ★

Willit's curling brows pinched together. He was somewhat chagrined by his failure to impress him.

ASKS FOR KATE

"There does happen to be one young lady I want to get in touch with," Dan said. "Her name is Kathleen Royal."

Obediah Willit was wide-eyed. "Katey Royal? You know her?"

"Only slightly. Miss Royal left Flag late last night, saddleback, with a friend. I figured the stage would overtake them today, but it seems they rode on through."

★ ★ ★

Willit nodded. "They pulled in an hour or so ago. Alex Emmons was with her. He went up to Flag by stage to meet her an' side her back. Katey hates stagecoaches.

"Alex rode with her, horseback, to Flag a couple weeks ago to see her off on the train for the east. Left the horses there, while Alex came back by stage to take care o' things at the ranch."

ROYAL HOUSE

"She's here?" Dan asked. "In Flat Butte?"

"Nope. They went on out to Royal House. Both of 'em was plumb wore out after 60 miles in the saddle, with only a couple hours rest at the Turkey Crick roadhouse. I don't know why Katey was in such a hurry to git home."

"Royal House?"

★ ★ ★

"Man, you really air a stranger in these parts. I figured everybody in Arizona had heard o' Royal House. It's headquarters of Spanish Bell, which grazes stock on more'n half o' the basin. Royal House is only five miles out, not far off the south fork o' the stage trail."

DISAPPOINTMENT

Willit showed disappointment when he could read nothing from Dan's expression. "Air you in such a hurry to see Katey thet you aim to go out there tonight?" he asked.

"No," Dan said. "It'll wait until morning."

"Just what is it that'll wait?" Willit inquired.

"She lost a piece of jewelry in Flag," Dan said. "I happened to find it. Being as I was heading in this direction I thought I'd fetch it to her personally."

HUNTS FOR LODGINGS

"That's mighty kind o' you, Willit said. "Katey will be grateful."

★ ★ ★

"I was told I'd find lodging and board at the hotel."

"Sim ought to be able to fix you up. Sim Ricker's his name. Runs a shebang. If he happens to be filled up, come on back. I got a bunk in the storeroom where I can put you up for the night."

Obediah Willit again extended a big, enthusiastic hand. "Most folk around here call me Big Obie," he said. "If you're still around, come Sunday, show up at the meetin' house. I do some preachin' to help out the parson."

★ ★ ★

"I'll keep that in mind," Dan said.

RENTS ROOM

Dan rented a room for the night at Sim Ricker's hotel. "Reckon you'll want to muck the dust off you," Ricker said.

"Cy Keeler's barbershop stays open stage nights to accommodate folks like you. He's got hot water an' tubs for a quarter. I saw you go into Obie's store. You a friend o' his?"

"I reckon," Dan said, remembering the handshakes.

★ ★ ★

"Everybody is. Obie Willit is salt o' the earth. He'd do anything to help you. In the 10 years he's been in the basin he's done mighty well. Got a smart for business, don't fool yourself. We needed a store like the one he's built. We used to have to send to Flag fer most things."

PAIR DISAPPEAR

Ricker added, aggrieved, "But there's some that wagon their supplies from Flag rather than do business here in Flat Butte."

It was evident he was speaking of Lavinia Shannon.

As Dan folded his long legs in the sheet-iron tub and enjoyed the feel of clean water, one discordant thought kept intruding. What had happened to Shep Sand and Gideon Marko? They had dropped out of sight since alighting from the stage.

He mentioned it casually as he paid the barber for a shave and use of the tub. "That heavy-set man and his friend who came in on the stage? We were talking about maybe playin' a little poker tonight. But, I can't locate 'em."

★ ★ ★

The barber didn't answer for a space during which he gave Dan a second look. He calculated his answer. "You mean Tom Smith an' that Jim Martin feller," he said "I can't rightly say where they went. Out to their claims, most likely."

'HOMESTEADERS'

"Claims? They're miners?"

"Nope. Homesteaders. Leastwise that's what they call themselves."

Dan spent more than an hour rolling five-card dice at Mack's Place at two bits a game, with Mack as his opponent.

As he pushed the leather cup aside after deciding he'd had enough, he said idly, "Just what sort of crops would a sod-buster raise in these parts?"

★ ★ ★

Mack was helping himself to a stein of beer at the bar spigot. He carefully scraped away the foam and took a deep draught. "You aim to join them homesteaders on the river?" he asked without looking directly at Dan.

"Depends. Just what do they raise?"

"Now that's a good question, mister. You reap what you sow, so the Good Book says."

Dan eyed him. "Does anybody in these parts ever give a direct answer to a question?"

★ ★ ★

"Depends on who does the askin'," Mack responded. "Buenos noches, friend. I'm closin' up now."

TAKES PRECAUTION

The lights went out in Mack's Place by the time Dan had crossed the street on his way to the hotel. Just as they had gone out in the barbershop, just as they had been dimmed in Obie Willit's store after his departure.

Dan braced the back of the chair under the knob of the door, before turning in.

He felt a trifle foolish, childish. But, somehow, he slept sounder because of that added protection against intruders who never came.

Cut Your Own Taxes—4

Don't Let the IRS Computer Deter You

By RAY DE CRANE
NEA Publications

The many nationsl stories that have appeared about Internal Revenue's computers, labeling them as the Brain and the Monster, have probably served to frighten many completely honest taxpayers.

Don't let the computer deter you from claiming every possible legal deduction on your income tax return.

This is your legal right. International Revenue expects you to claim no more — and no less — than your individual circumstances call for.

The computer speeds up the processing of returns, it simplifies checking mathematical accuracy and it spots questionable entries.

But it has no way of discovering the fact that you may have been entitled to medical, charitable, interest and tax deductions you failed to report or feared entering on your return.

COULD BE BEST YEAR

With the new medical insurance deduction available to you for the first time this year, this could be the ideal year for you ti itemize l your deductions instead of settling for one of the lesser standard deductions.

Even the unmarried or the newly married who hesitated itemizing in the past because of the absence of mortgage interest and real estate taxes may find it to their advantage to itemize this year.

But don't let the Monster frighten you away fro claiming every deduction that is your due.

This Neighbor Invades Home Every Day

By ELIZABETH L. POST

Dear Mrs. Post: I have a neighbor who comes over every day or so and walks in without knocking. This irritates my husband no end. He says we have no privacy in our own home.

If the neighbor is wrong, how can I let her know? She is a warm and friendly person and I would not want to hurt her. I always knock before entering her house, but she hasn't taken the hint.—Lenore

★ ★ ★

Dear Lenore: Everyone is entitled to as much privacy as he desires in his own home. If your neighbor is as friendly as you indicate, she will understand if you say "We love having you drop in as often as you can, but you have startled John so a couple of times that we wondered if you would mind giving us a warning knock?"

Another approach might be to lock your doors for a week or two, until the knocking or ringing habit is established, explaining that you were nervous about leaving the house open all the time.

FORK

Dear Mrs. Post: I have been a follower of your table etiquette for many years, but the other day I changed your rules and wonder if I was all wrong. I had a luncheon for four ladies and served a chicken salad, buttered rolls and coffee and cake.

I had no use for knives on the table so I put the fork on the right side instead of the left. Was that all right? —Irene Burke

★ ★ ★

Dear Mrs. Burke: The fork belongs on the left, no matter how many pieces of silver are on the table. The better solution is to put the knife on the table even though there is no need for it. The place settings simply look more balanced if there is a piece of silver on either side.

MAKE OVER PAGES

Achieving a Balance

By JEANNE NELSON

Planning and executing a successful conference is a little like building a house. The strongest foundation can topple if the colorful "optionals" become a burden.

A complementary meshing of the two keeps Mrs. Douglas Owen (Dottie) of Oakland University clipping along at a racer's pace.

★ ★ ★

As assistant director of the University's Continuing Education Division. Conference Department, she breezes through the daily conflicts of basic needs versus indulgences all within a framework of an immovable budget.

★ ★ ★

"Just keeping pace with my boss, Priscilla Jackson, keeps my motor nerves running," says Dottie. The Conference Department is equipped to handle about 37 of these events a year with many of them emanating from industry and area communities.

★ ★ ★

To date, the department has been awarded five citations for creativity, among them the "Widows and Divorcees" conference, from which emerged the present seminar course being offered by the Division in its spring program.

★ ★ ★

Once a need is evident, (usually through a marketing technique) the gears start into motion. A date is set, facilities reserved and food service established. An authoritative committee is formed to outline the program and select major speakers.

Brochures are designed and bids for printing taken, along with the compiling of mailing lists.

★ ★ ★

Asked about the source of conference subjects, Mrs. Owen admitted that often a chance remark sparks an idea and the merit behind it is uncovered in short order.

BACKGROUND

A job like this takes efficiency and Dottie is quick to credit her stint in the USNR WAVES program for developing this attribute. Also standing her in good stead for her career is the B. S. degree in home economics she earned at Purdue University.

★ ★ ★

Beginning her sixth year in the conference job, she foresees an ever-expanding program, perhaps with individual building facilities and a greater profit potential for the now self-sustaining department.

★ ★ ★

Married to her childhood sweetheart from Glasgow, Ky. Dottie and her husband live on Old Perch Road, Avon Township with their "fat cat." Leisure time permitting, she is active in the Rochester League of Women Voters which she helped to organize and this area's American Association of University Women.

Slate Special Meeting on Community Affairs

Representatives of the member clubs of the Pontiac Area Federation of Women's Clubs are invited to attend a special meeting Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in the Commission Chambers of the Pontiac City Hall.

★ ★ ★

Joseph A. Warren, City Manager, will give a report of the Pontiac Area Planning Council. Announcement of plans for the Federation's cosponsored 1968 Salute to Youth program will be given by George Caronis, executive secretary of the Pontiac Citizens' Committee on Youth.

Francis M. Webster, chairman of the Finance Study Council, Board of Education, will speak on "Their Schools."

A question and answer period will follow.

A midsummer wedding is planned by Patricia A. Smith and Carl R. Roselli. The bride elect, a graduate of Mercy School of Nursing of Detroit, is the daughter of the Garnet Smiths of Crocus Street. Her fiance, who graduated from Lawrence Institute of Technology, is the son of the Sam Rosellis of Tex Avenue.

Your Husband Needs an Impartial Judge in This

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am 26 and Henry is 33, and here is my story:

We moved in with Henry's parents right after we got married ("Only until we find a place of our own," he promised). Well, it's been four years, and here I sit with two lovely children and a closet full of unwrapped wedding presents.

ABBY

My in-laws are very nice, and some people thing I've got it easy with Henry's mother to do all the cooking, and a built-in baby sitter for the children, but I am miserable, Abby. Henry's mother has her own way of doing things, and I help her as much as she lets me, which isn't much. And it's still her house.

Every time the subject of moving comes up, Henry's father says, "Why move and pay rent when you can live here for free? We have plenty of room." (It's true, but I would rather have one room of my own.)

The children are getting spoiled by their grandparents and I feel trapped. Please help me.

NO NAME, PLS

DEAR NO NAME: Face it. You are married to a man who isn't ready to give up the comfort and security provided by his parents. And unless you can help him grow up sufficiently to make him want to leave the nest, you can expect to be there indefintely.

In other words, he needs the counsel of a wise and impartial friend. This could be a clergyman, doctor, or marriage counsellor.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: I used to think you made up all the letters in your column because I couldn't believe that people could be so dumb, but here I am, with a problem of my own that sounds like it couldn't be true, but it is.

I am 23 and have been married for five weeks to a swell guy I've known for a year. This is my second marriage and I have three small children.

★ ★ ★

My husband never said anything about his being married before, but now I find out that he has been married twice and has five kids whom his mother is taking care of. I found out only yesterday and I am ready for a nervous breakdown.

When I told my husband I knew about the five kids, he said he was glad, as he didn't know how much longer he could keep it from me. Then he said as long as I knew, would I mind taking his five kids to raise as his mother was not in good health.

★ ★ ★

Abby, I do waitress work 10 hours a day, and I have enough with my own three and I can't raise eight kids. All the love I had for my husband is dead. Do I have grounds for divorce?

SHOCKED

DEAR SHOCKED: Talk to a lawyer. You might even have grounds for an annulment.

★ ★ ★

OU Dean Hits Supersonic Air Transport

GIBSON

America's commitment to spend billions of dollars to develop a supersonic transport may prove to be a wasteful investment in sonic booms, the dean of Oakland University's School of Engineering said today.

"The U.S. government has committed itself to spending $2 billion to $4 billion for the revolutionary new mode of air transportation while the supersonic transport has not been shown to be economical and it will cause sonic booms."

An article by Gibson in a recent edition of Harper's magazine on supersonic transport was introduced into the U.S. Congressional Record and debated on the floor of Congress in Washington, D.C.

Gains Outnumber Losses

Mart Stages Ragged Recovery

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market staged a ragged technical recovery early today despite worrisome news, foreign and domestic.

Gains outnumbered losses by about 150 issues on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones Industrial Average rose 1.39 to 863.62.

The North Korean seizure of the Navy intelligence vessel, Pueblo, still cast a pall over morale but, after a record series of 12 straight daily declines in the Dow Industrials, investment buying came into the market to take advantage of relatively cheap stock.

★ ★ ★

Gains of 2 points or better were scored by Control Data, Schenley, and E.G. & G.

★ ★ ★

Up a point or more were Sperry Rand, U.S. Smelting, Boeing, Raytheon, General Foods, Polaroid, and New York Central.

Steels, motors, and rubbers were mostly lower. Lackluster on 39,600 shares.

Benguet was up ● at 10● on 29,000 shares.

Opening blocks included:

McDonnell Douglas, unchanged at 52¼ on 21,300 shares; Sperry Rand, up 1¼ at 52 on 15,300 shares, and General Motors, off ¼ at 79 on 5,200.

On Wednesday the Associated Press Average of 60 Stock lost 1.0 at 314.4.

Red Wings Snap Winless Streak by Dumping Black Hawks

AP Wirephoto

DOWN, BUT NOT OUT — Goalie Ed Giacomin of the New York Rangers lies sprawled on the ice near the net after helping defenseman Harry Howell (3) stop a rush by the Boston Bruins during the first period of their game in New York last night. Giacomin injured his knee on the play but was able to resume action. New York won, 2-1.

Detroit Bombards DeJordy in Posting 4-2 Decision

CHICAGO (UPI) — Don't send flowers to the Detroit Red Wings yet.

The Wings, cellar dwellers in the National Hockey League's Eastern Division race, snapped their string of eight winless games Wednesday night by defeating the Chicago Black Hawks 4-2.

★ ★ ★

SIXTH OF SEASON

Bergman's goal, his sixth of the season, came just hours after he was named to the mid-season NHL All-Star second team.

The Wings bombarded Dejordy, blasting 44 shots at the net, 19 of them in the second period.

The Black Hawks opened the scoring on a power-play goal by Kenny Wharram at 6:44 of the first period but rookie Gary Jarrett tied it up at 14:57.

The Wings were forced to come from behind again in the second period after Dennis Hall put the Hawks ahead 2-1 with a shot that slipped past Detroit goalie George Gardner at 5:04.

Norm Ullman connected with the tying goal midway through the period, and Bergman iced the win in the final stanza.

ADDS FINAL GOAL

Bruce MacGregor added the Wings' final goal at 11:52 with assists from Jarrett and Doug Roberts.

★ ★ ★

Gardner was called on to make 41 saves as the Wings picked up their second win in six games with the Hawks this season. Chicago also has won two with two games tied.

The loss extended the Hawks' losing streak to four games and its winless string to seven games.

With the season approaching the two-thirds mark, only four points separate the first five teams in the Eastern Division and Detroit is still in contention.

OTHER GAMES

The fifth-place New York Rangers tightened the screws a bit more Wednesday night by edging the front-running Boston Bruins 2-1. Not only are the Rangers four behind Boston, but they also have a game in hand.

Toronto, tied for second place with Chicago, also failed to take advantage of Boston's setback by losing on their own ice 2-1 to the Western Division-leading Philadelphia Flyers.

This leaves Boston with 54 points, two more than Chicago and Toronto. Montreal, which was idle, has 51 points, New York has 50 and Detroit 43.

★ ★ ★

The situation is far different in the expansion Western Division as Philadelphia's first-place advantage jumped to nine points over the Los Angeles Kings, who dropped a 4-1 decision to last-place Oakland. In the other games played Wednesday night, the St. Louis Blues defeated the Minnesota North Stars 5-2.

'Anti-Feud' Bill Is Introduced

Legislator After Protection for U.S. Amateurs

WAHSINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Jack McDonald, R-Mich., Wednesday introduced a bill to give athletes court protection from penalties assessed by either the National Collegiate Athletic Association NCAA or the American Amateur Union (AAU).

The measure, which is similar to a bill introduced last week by Sen. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., would allow an athlete to seek a court injunction against a penalty levied by either the NCAA or AAU for participation in a rival event.

Violation of the injunction by either organization could be punishable by a fine of $1,000 or imprisonment for six months.

"It is a matter of deep concern when young men and women who have spent years training can be barred from important athletic events because of a bitter, petty organizational rivalry," said McDonald.

Three Pontiac Boxers Score

Pontiac made a clean sweep in the Golden Gloves preliminaries last night in Flint with a pair of technical knockouts and a split decision.

★ ★ ★

Nine boxers from Pontiac are entered in the tournament and only three were listed on the card for the first night of boxing. The others will be in action next week.

Fighting in the novice division, welterweight Ray Gonzales and light-heavyweight Morris Davis posted TKO's and middleweight Larry Musgrave gained a split decision in his bout against Gary Stewdorger of Grand Blanc.

Next fights in the IMA ring at Flint are slated for Tuesday. Pairings will be announced Monday.

Easy for Wayne State

DETROIT (AP)—Terry Cupples scored 22 points and snagged 10 rebounds to lead Wayne State University to a 96-70 victory over the Coast Guard Academy Tuesday night. Ken Zobel led the losers with 19.

The Tartars leading 51-32 at halftime, never were in trouble as they ran their record to 6-9. The Academy is now 4-5.

Off-Court Setbacks Rough on T-Hawks

No sooner do the Pontiac Tomahawks find encouragement in one phase of their development than setbacks occur elsewhere.

Coach Bob Duffy and te team officials were brightened last Saturday when the T-Hawks gave one of their strongest displays of shooting, rebounding and defense in a 137-113 victory over the Chicago Bombers.

That appeared to be the club's third victory in its initial North Americnn Basketball League campaign. But yesterday word was received to the contrary.

Commissioner Harry Bomers has upheld a protest by Columbus that the Tomahawks used Bill Buntin illegally in the Nov. 22nd game and that the 121-118 victory for Pontiac should be overruled.

Also, the Tomahawks suffered another jolt Wednesday when the Detroit Pistons recalled 6-8 forward "Sonny" Dove. The rangy ex-All America from St. John's was a key rebounder and scorer for the Pontiac pros.

HOME SUNDAY

The Tomahawks will entertain Battle Creek at 5 p.m. Sunday on the Northern High School court with two youngsters being admitted free for every paid adult admission.

Several bicycles will be given away, and a special exhibition is planned by members of the Pontiac Table Tennis Association. An attempt is being made to play at least one match against a leading Battle Creek player.

The NABL commissioner has also thrown out all the wins and losses recorded in games played with the now-didn't play the defending champions prior to their folding last month.

SE Conference Wants Balance for All Sports

TAMPA, Fla. (UPI) — Southeastern Conference officials denied today they want to tear down the minor sports programs at those schools which have excelled in activities other than football and basketball.

"We're merely trying to equalize these programs within the conference," a spokesman said in defense of a proposal to limit the number of grants-in-aid which can be made for track, tennis, golf and other minor sports.

STRONG PROGRAMS

"One of these days, we hope that all of our schools will have strong well-rounded athletic programs" the spokesman added. "It's just that, for now a few have gotten so far ahead of the others that we're seeking better balance."

As it now stand, although there is a limit of 140 on the total number of football and basketball players who can be on scholarship at any school at one time, there are no limits per grants to other sports.

A proposal before the 10-school conference's 35th annual meeting now in session here, would set such a limit.

Top Cage Performer Dropped From Squad by Wayne State U.

DETROIT (AP)—Reggie Piggee, the leading scorer, rebounder and playmaker for the Wayne State University basketball was dropped from the team Wednesday after missing three games.

A university spokesman said Piggee, who averaged 22.8 points and 15.9 rebounds a game, hasn't showed up to practice or play since Jan. 13.

The spokesman said Piggee was still in school, carrying a full course load, and that he works from midnight to 8 a.m.
