

New Psychiatric Unit for Children Praised

The new $2,162,000 children's psychiatric unit at Pontiac State Hospital was labeled a "magnificent facility and significant achievement," at dedication ceremonies yesterday.

The one-story, four-winged structure has been named Fairlawn Center and is located on the western edge of the hospital grounds on Telegraph and Elizabeth Lake Roads.

Guest speaker for the dedication was Dr. H. W. Henderson, executive director of the Mental Health Division of the Canadian Province of Ontario.

He paralleled American efforts with Canadian in the field of mental health for children and said "the object is to insure all children have the opportunity to full development of their potential."

Dr. Henderson, after praising the structure, added that a good mental health program was more than fine buildings, but needed a dedicated staff and cooperation with other community services and volunteer associations.

TOUR OF FACILITIES

Many state, county and city officials were present at the dedication and tour of the facilities.

Fairlawn Center will serve the basic 10-county surrounding area as does the rest of the state hospital. It is the second of several new centers to be located around the state and constructed with state funds. A similar unit, Yorkwoods, was completed in Ypsilanti in 1965.

Fairlawn will serve 80 resident children and its school, special treatment and recreation areas will also serve some day-care children as well as 60 patients over 14 years of age, housed elsewhere on the grounds.

The center contains recreation areas, a swimming pool, gym, support facilities and many special treatment rooms.

Directing Fairlawn Center will be Dr. James W. Johnson.

Construction of the facility was a project supported by the Michigan Society for Mental Health, a United Fund agency. The Oakland County chapter is credited with playing a leading role in its construction.

Rocky's Emissaries Busy; McCarthy Calls for Debate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two emissaries for New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller are heading into the Midwest today in a bid to generate a Republican presidential draft.

Nonaligned party members generally doubt they'll succeed. But Rockefeller himself says he thinks the draft movement for him is gaining momentum—and says he's ready to run.

The governor, asked yesterday whether he's already jogging if not running, replied: "I haven't got my feet in concrete, I'll tell you that."

The emissaries are Sen. Thurston B. Morton, R-Ky., and William E. Miller, a 1964 Republican candidate for vice president.

Their first stop is Minneapolis, Minn., where Gov. Harold LeVander is an ally.

They're scheduled to be in Detroit on Saturday.

MUNCIE, Ind. (AP) — Sen. Eugene McCarthy is pressing for a debate with Sen. Robert F. Kennedy "under any form or any circumstance."

In effect, the Minnesota Democrat appeared to be inviting Democratic Gov. Roger D. Branigan and Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey as well as Kennedy to join him in a face-to-face debate before the Indiana primary May 7.

When McCarthy first proposed a debate with Kennedy, the New York senator countered that such an affair should include other candidates, such as Branigan and presumably Humphrey.

McCarthy, Kennedy and Branigan are on the Democratic primary ballot.

RUNNING AS STAND-IN

McCarthy told about 3,000 persons at Ball State University last night Branigan was running not only as a favorite son candidate in the primary but also as a stand-in for Humphrey, as well as having an eye on the vice presidential job.

He emphasized that Hoosiers should have an opportunity to see the candidates in action side by side so they could judge the personalities.

There seemed to be little difference between him and Kennedy on the broad campaign issues, he said.

Pontiac Awaits First Income Tax Payment

By BOB WISLER

City officials expect that next week will tell whether the city's income tax ordinance will bring in enough revenue to lift the city out of financial doldrums.

At the beginning of the year the city anticipated $1.6 million in revenue from the income tax. But, Edward Gallagher, finance director, has reported that the statistical basis for such anticipation is only an estimate.

He said April 30 is the due date for employers in the city to turn over quarterly payments of withholding tax col-

Demonstrations Hit 3 Campuses and GM Office

By Associated Press

Student protest groups demonstrated at three East Coast campuses and the main General Motors Corp. office building in Detroit yesterday. The demonstrations continued today at only one campus, that of Columbia University in New York City.

Columbia canceled evening classes yesterday and virtually sealed off its campus as militant students took over four buildings.

Tension continued high despite the release of an acting dean and two other administrators from a Hamilton Hall office, where they had been held hostage for 24 hours. There were no plans to cancel today's classes.

Officials asked city police to enter Columbia's grounds for the first time in three years.

A meeting between President Grayson Kirk and a delegation of Negroes from Hamilton Hall broke up at 4 a.m. with no apparent progress in resolving the dispute.

At issue in the protest — which involved only a few hundred of the 27,500 students — were the school's plans for a new gym in a nearby Harlem park and its tie with the Institute for Defense Analysis.

About 100 Wayne State University students picketed the Main General Motors Corp. office building in midtown Detroit, charging the giant automotive firm was prolonging the Vietnam war and U.S. racial strife by producing war material and operating facilities in apartheid South Africa.

The students, members of the Students for a Democratic Society, passed out leaflets as they marched on the sidewalk in front of the building.

A sit-in by some 300 Negro students behind chained doors at Boston University ended last night with a promise by President Ariand F. Christman to increase the number of Negro Students and teachers and to offer a course in Afro-American history.

The demands were made in a 12-hour demonstration by the university's Afro-American students society, known as Umjoka, a word meaning "unity" in Swahili.

Students at Trinity College in Hartford, Conn., ended a similar sit-in early yesterday when the administration agreed to meet demands for increased scholarship aid to Negro students.

Storm Alerts Cited

Since this is the season for tornadoes, the Oakland County Office of Civil Defense today issued a reminder that a new term was introduced two years ago to alert the public to the possible development of a twister.

Added to the familiar "tornado warning" is the less ominous designation "tornado watch" which is issued by the U.S. Weather Bureau when conditions are such that a tornado may materialize in a defined area.

Radio and television will keep listeners advised of the situation.

Civil Defense authorities suggest that on hearing a "tornado watch," persons should remain calm, make preparations to go to the best shelter, and not call the weather bureau for information.

WARNING ACTION

If a tornado is sighted in the area, and a "tornado warning" broadcast, they advise that persons in a home go to the southwest corner of the basement, taking along a flashlight, shovel and a battery-operated radio.

If the home has no basement, it is best to lie flat on the floor, away from any windows.

If driving an automobile in open country when a tornado is sighted, try to maneuver at right angles to its path. If there is no time to escape, lie flat in the nearest depression such as a ditch or ravine.

Gallagher said he expects that General Motors will bring in a check for the amount. It has collected on April 30 and the GM amount will determine more exactly what the city can expect in income taxes for the 1968 fiscal year.

The city is now in a position of being totally committed to the income tax and those expecting a court decision which would nullify the income tax apparently face a long wait.

Hanoi Answers U. S. Note

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — North Vietnam replied today to the latest U. S. proposals on the site for preliminary peace talks but the nature of the reply was not disclosed.

U. S. Ambassador William A. Sullivan was called to the North Vietnamese Embassy here to receive a formal note from the Hanoi government.

There were widespread rumors that both sides are approaching a compromise on Paris as the site for talks.

Frost Is Forecast for Area Tonight

Old Man Winter is back in Pontiac bringing residents light snow flurries and freezing temperatures.

The U. S. Weather Bureau forecasts clear and cold with frost and a low of 26 to 33 tonight.

Mostly sunny and a little warmer is the outlook for tomorrow. Saturday's forecast is for mostly cloudy, showers and not much change in temperature.

Morning winds westerly at 12 to 26 miles per hour will diminish tonight.

Precipitation probabilities in per cent are: today 30, tonight and tomorrow 10. The thermometer hit a freezing 32 at 5 a.m. today. The mercury edged up to 38 by 2 p.m.

Volcano Spews Ashes

LAGASIP CITY, Philippines (UPI) — Ashes from erupting Mount Mayon, the Philippines' picture-postcard volcano, choked seven deserted villages today.

The nation's first lady — Mrs. Ferdinand E. Marcos — flew to this town near the volcano about 200 miles southeast of Manila to help comfort 20,000 refugees.

Sullivan spent 30 minutes with North Vietnamese Charge d'Affaires Nguyen Chan in Chan's gray stone villa residence on the outskirts of the Laotian capital.

Sullivan refused all comment on the message from Hanoi.

The new Washington note may face tough going, however, since high administration officials say North Vietnam appears to be mounting a major campaign aimed at getting the United States to accept Warsaw as a site for peace talks.

That was their assessment of Poland's reported appeal to six embassies in Warsaw to exert influence in bringing preliminary peace talks on ending the Vietnam war to the Communist nation's capital.

The new note, according to U. S. officials, suggested a "mechanism" for breaking the two-week Hanoi-Washington deadlock. It would involve the use of third party services in arriving at a site agreeable to both adversaries.

There was immediate speculation that such a "mechanism" might have some connection with United Nations Secretary General Thant's repeated suggestions concerning Paris.

Yesterday, Thant said he thought either Warsaw or Paris would be a good place for the initial Hanoi-Washington "contacts." Earlier, he had mentioned Geneva and Paris.

The secretary general is aware that Warsaw is unacceptable to the United States, and that Hanoi does not want to go to Geneva. The effect of his suggestion, therefore, was to pinpoint Paris as a possible location.

Viet Troops Move to Cut Giant Red Supply Route

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnamese paratroopers have moved close to the A Shau Valley in a new operation to cut off North Vietnamese supply and infiltration routes, military spokesmen said today.

The move could be the start of a major allied push against the North Vietnamese valley stronghold, which stretches 25 miles along the border of Laos in the northwest part of South Vietnam.

Allied forces have not ventured into the valley in force in the two years since North Vietnamese troops overran a U. S. Special Forces camp and turned the valley into their biggest supply base in South Vietnam.

Under cover of round-the-clock pounding of the valley by U. S. B52 bombers, nearly 2,000 South Vietnamese paratroopers launched Operation Lam Son 216 last Friday.

It was not announced until today for security reasons.

SIGNIFICANT ACTION

A government communique, giving the first report of significant action, said the paratroopers destroyed 10 North Vietnamese three-quarter ton trucks and seized 330 pounds of dynamite 16 miles southwest of Hue on Highway 547.

North Vietnamese war materials and troops move down the Ho Chi Minh trail into the valley and are funneled along Highway 547 east to the Hue area.

Intelligence sources report 20 enemy battalions within striking distance of Hue. Aim of the South Vietnamese operation is to cut their major supply route.

The Vietnamese communique said troops of the 3rd Airborne Task Force moved into the valley on a search and destroy mission.

Contact with the enemy was said to be sporadic.

There was no mention of U. S. forces in the operation.

U. S. B52 bombers kept up their campaign in the valley today, attacking suspected troops concentrations, trucks, bivouac areas and bunkers.

Recent intelligence reports have told of troops and materials moving in the valley and of new roads being built.

U. S. Trade Deficit Is First Since '63

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States incurred its first trade deficit since 1963 during March, the Commerce Department reported today.

The report blamed strikes, threatened strikes and record imports for the development.

U. S. exports fell 11.5 per cent, from a seasonal rate of $2.7 billion in February to $2.5 billion during March, according to the report made public by the Census Bureau.

The level of goods imported rose by less than half of 1 per cent during March to $2,612,400,000, compared to $2,601,900,000 for February. The March total, however, was the second highest on record, exceeded only by a high of $2,615,400,000 for January.

Department economists blamed the 11-day New York Longshoremen's strike for reducing U. S. exports. They also cited the threat of a nationwide steel strike this summer as causing increased imports of steel and metals used in steel production.

Large imports of copper also reflected orders from U. S. manufacturers during the copper industry strike, which lasted into March.

School District Discipline Policy Is Under Attack in Lake Orion

LAKE ORION — Is being suspected of smoking a valid reason to suspend a student from school?

Does the practice of confining a recalcitrant student to a closet still continue, despite board denial?

Are teachers in some cases inviting students to quit school?

These were among charges hurled at the school board last night by nearly 50 irate parents and students.

The parental delegation was accompanied by two representatives of the American Civil Liberties Union who asked for a revision of the school discipline policy.

'GREAT IMPROVEMENT'

Schools Supt. Lewis Mundy said that, until this year, "We did have a serious smoking situation in (the high) school, but it has improved greatly."

He reported that the "suspension of smoking" policy was brought into effect because it had become almost impossible to catch a student actually smoking, though the lavatories might be filled with smoke.

Mundy cited state law which prohibits children under 18 from smoking as the main reason for the school crackdown. The possibility of fire hazard and health damage was also related.

"We will have to take a new look at our smoking policy," Mundy said, "but if any of you (parents and students) know of another way in which it might be enforced, I wish you'd let us know."

Charges by a student that he had been forced to admit to vandalism and make restitution to avoid expulsion — despite his alleged innocence — brought confirmation of similar incidents from other parents.

There were stories of misbehaving junior high students locked in closets Mundy said the practice once existed but denied that it still does.

Mrs. Eugene Wyman, 157 Hiram, while contending that there were cases of unfair treatment of students, noted, "We have some wonderful teachers and are proud of many of them, but there are a few..."

Few teachers were present at the meeting, but those who were noted that when suspicion of smoking involves the same student repeatedly, there is some indication that he might actually be smoking.

DISTRICT POLICY

The district's policy provides that the first "suspension" means that the student is brought to the office and warned; the second offense provides that the parents be called; and the third results in five days suspension.

Larry Fiebert, a member of the staff of the American Civil Liberties Union in Detroit, asked for an overhaul of discipline policy with offenses and punishments more clearly explained.

He said that in suspensions over five days, six rules should be followed:

- Parents and students should be notified of the charges.
- Parents and students have a right to a hearing.
- Parents and students have a right to provide counsel.
- Parents and students have a right to call witnesses.
- The student has a right to question the accuser.
- The student has a right to remain silent.

He abbreviated the requirements for suspensions under five days.

READ TO BOARD

A list of 10 alleged disciplinary infractions, which Fiebert said he had compiled from some 40 parental letters, was read to the board.

A complete investigation was promised by the board with the results to be made public.

signatures in opposition to the apartments.

Frank Laney of the Springhill Homeowners Association asked that the board not rezone the land.

The rezoning request had first received a tie vote from the planning commission. It later passed by a 5-4 count.

COUNTY GROUP OPPOSED

The county coordinating planning and zoning committee voted against rezoning, but after the 30-day limitation for such a vote had passed, its denial was considered invalid by the Township Board.

Sidney Weinberger of College Park Development Co. promised the construction of a row of single-family homes around the proposed complex so homes now backing up to the land would be screened by a further street of residential zoning.

He reportedly also offered to buy the home of anyone who thought his property would be devaluated as a result of the apartments.

He spoke of a pool and community house center for the complex. The project is planned for land south of three existing Weinberger apartment complexes on Walton.

The board also approved a rezoning request from Paul and Martin Fried for 18 acres at the southeast corner of Walton and Livernois. The site now is zoned for business to permit construction of an office and shopping center. It had been in the residential and apartment class.

Rezoning of a strip of land for apartments on the Sidney Lockhart property, on Auburn between Leach and Harvey was granted, clearing the way for the township's first trailer park.

The apartment buffer zone is required in township zoning laws in order to permit a variance for a mobile home site.

The board voted to proceed with chloriding township roads. It authorized the township DPW and engineer to work with the county Road Commission to clear up a drainage problem in Springhill Subdivision.

AVON TOWNSHIP — A 5-2 vote of the Township Board last night cleared the way for construction of 240 apartments and 30 town-house units south of Walton between Springhill and Stratford Knolls subdivisions.

Trustees Earl Borden and Philip Trimble voted against rezoning.

About 40 persons were present to cite objections involving increased traffic, overloaded schools and devaluation of residential property, and to present a petition bearing 1,600 township resident

Hearing Slated in Lake Orion

LAKE ORION — The likelihood of a 3.5-mill increase in village taxes has been presented to the Village Council along with the proposed 1968-69 budget.

A public hearing May 13 will determine whether taxes should be raised to 15 mills from last year's 11.5 mills or whether they will have to go even higher. The village charter provides a 20-mill limitation.

Village Manager John F. Reineck informed the council that even with a 15-mill levy, cuts would have to be made in the proposed budget.

As it now stands, based on a 15-mill levy, expenditures of $204,907 are $42,538 over proposed income.

The proposed budget includes $18,716 for operation of the police department and $1,950 for operation of the Department of Public Works.

SEEKING REPRESENTATION

Employees of both departments recently voted to seek union representation.

Street expenditures are figured at a total of $40,450, the water department at $19,368 and the cemetery at $19,526.

The assessed valuation of the village is $6,944,651, up $60,401 from last year. Reineck figures that each mill will bring in approximately $6,945 in revenue.

80 From Walled Lake High in OCC Vocational Courses

By BETTY ANN SCHULTZ

WALLED LAKE — What's happened to schools that students can graduate and already be basically trained as dentist's assistants, computer operators or short-order cooks?

It's called vocational education. Part of it is co-op programs, whereby students work in local businesses while still attending school.

Another part comprises such courses as engineering, shop and office practice, given within the schools.

Still another part — a new one for Walled Lake schools — is taking vocational education classes at Oakland Community College.

This school year, 80 Walled Lake High School seniors and juniors attended, as a pilot program, courses in food services, applied electricity and electronics, dental assisting, and medical office assisting at the Highland Lakes campus.

NEXT YEAR'S PLANS

Walled Lake's plans for next year call for 168 students taking the same courses

as this year plus data processing and automotive technology.

The estimated cost of the courses for 168 pupils is $9,072, paid by Walled Lake. Transportation by bus amounts to about $1,900.

"This is not really much," said Lester G. Carlson Jr., director of vocational education for Walled Lake.

He points out that the equipment, rooms and teachers OCC provides would be expensive for Walled Lake.

Students attend classes twice a week for three hours each. They earn college as well as high school credit.

Even with two semesters of a course, Carlson said, students should be qualified for employment in such positions as receptionist and assistant in a small medical office, dentist's assistant, baker's helper, short-order cook, data machine operator, or auto mechanic's helper.

Carlson noted that students going to OCC classes have improved attitude, attendance and grades in the academic courses.

Fire Victims to Have Happy Homecoming

ORION TOWNSHIP — The care and sympathy of a community towards one of its families can be a warm thing.

And if the hopes of many Orion Township and Lake Orion residents are realized, Mrs. Marion Chisholm will have a happy homecoming Saturday.

Mrs. Chisholm has been in St. Joseph Mercy Hospital since March 12, undergoing treatment for critical burns received when her rented home at 2210 Waldon caught fire and burned to the ground.

A daughter, Dorothy Jean Kenzie, 11, perished when she went back into the house — after jumping to safety from a second story window — reportedly to rescue a pet dog and her nine puppies.

Two other children — Jerry G. Kenzie, 12, and Bonnie L. Chisholm, 5 — also were hospitalized with burns, but they have been released. Along with three other children who were uninjured, they are living with a married sister, Mrs. Carl Sellers, at 1583 Giddings.

Mrs. Chisholm, who had been receiving government ADC support to help raise the six children still at home, had complained in a letter to The Pontiac Press just a week before the fire about the reluctance of landlords to rent to families such as hers.

The old house she lived in, a building on the former Scripps Estate, had been condemned and she had sought refuge in it primarily through the graces of the new Keating Development owners.

But that phase of her life may be over if a project undertaken by St. Joseph School's eighth grade class and the Orion Area Jaycees comes to fruition. The class raised $489 as a partial down payment on a home for the Chisholm family, added $11 from the class treasury and turned the sum over to the Jaycees who swelled the sum to $700.

MORE HELP SOUGHT

The Jaycees are now seeking additional donations and someone with a house suitable for a family of six willing to sell on a small down payment. All that is needed is the house.

Students of Lake Orion Intermediate School held a canned food drive for the family. Carpenter School, which most of the children attended, was a collection center for clothing, food and money.

Furniture offered by concerned residents was trucked by Jaycee members, under the direction of Clifton King, 1130 Bald Mountain, to the Sellers house where it awaits usage. When more clothing was offered than could be used, the Jaycee Auxiliary conducted a rummage sale and the proceeds were put into a fund for the family.

Jerry Knight, 18 S. Broadway, is chairman of the Jaycee house-hunting committee and Mrs. Donald DeLong, 961 Loretta, Lake Orion, and Mrs. John McGee are auxiliary chairmen still interested in receiving funds.

Mrs. McGee, who lives at 166 N. Detroit, Lake Orion, has offered her address as an information center.

Big Question in Rochester District

Why More Millage for Schools?

(EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the second of two stories on Monday's special millage and bonding election in the Rochester Community School District.)

By JEAN SAILE

ROCHESTER — "Why do the schools need more millage when assessments have jumped as much as 50 per cent here in the last two years?"

This is the question that seemingly comes first to Rochester Community School District taxpayers as they contemplate the upcoming millage vote on April 29.

The district is asking for a 4.5 operating millage increase in addition to a 7-mill renewal and 1 additional mill for debt retirement.

"Because the state requires that assessments be based on 50 per cent of market value as opposed to the old 20-plus per cent used in the area until two years ago, taxpayers want to know why the school board did not at that time reduce the tax rate.

Lund continued, "Furthermore, state aid is dependent on local tax base. The richer districts get significantly less money per pupil than do poorer districts. Thus, as our tax base increased from higher individual assessments, state aid was reduced."

State aid is approximately 45 per cent of the district's total revenue.

As to why costs have increased so greatly in a short time, the administration blames increases in wages of school employees.

Wages make up about 84 per cent of the district's current $4.6-million budget. A budget of $5.3 million is anticipated for next year.

WAGE INCREASES

"Collective bargaining (which began in 1966) combined with a realization by the administration that the salary structure was too low to attract and retain competent teachers; a commitment to improve our relative standing and a generally unfavorable 'supply and demand' market for teachers, caused very significant increases in the total wage costs the past two years."

In expenditures per pupil Rochester is just below the middle with an average of $412 in a survey of 10 comparable districts in the metropolitan Detroit area.

Asked what the district's plans are shown in the millage fall, Lund said that if the margin of deficit is small, a similar proposal would probably be presented again in June.

Areas mentioned for possible cutbacks are music, art, athletics, physical education, community programs, an increase in class sizes, and reduced subject offerings.

What can we do to avert this continual increase in local taxes?

Commies Ever Hard Bargainers

Remembering President Johnson's oft-spoken pledge to meet uncommittedly with representatives from North Vietnam to seek an end to the war, many see evidence of the old credibility gap in the current diplomatic haggling over a mutually satisfactory site for preliminary discussions.

It is not a matter of credibility but of responsibility. For it is not the Communists' peace-lovingness or good will that has moved them finally to agree to sit down and talk. It is the performance of America's fighting men and the rising cost to North Vietnam of a war that is going far from as successfully as it would like.

as urged by Senators McCarthy and Kennedy.

Any short-range gain of getting talks under way immediately could very well be paid for later in hardened North Vietnam demands.

For in dealing with the Communists, small points are as important as large ones. Negotiations over the placement of ash trays on the conference table can be as frustrating as negotiations over the withdrawal of troops.

Concessions have to be made eventually, of course. But nothing can be given away. Everything, down to the most inconsequential-appearing detail, must be hammered out in hard bargaining.

Americans, at least, should give their Government credit for sincerely desiring an end to that fighting and dying as quickly as possible — but only on terms that will guarantee the ending will be as permanent as possible.

Science Dictating Universal Tongue

For centuries, men have tinkered with the creation of a universal language. The 19th century in particular saw a whole raft of proposals, including the best known, Esperanto.

Not until our own time, however, have people other than linguists or philosophers been seriously concerned with the idea. As the world shrinks at the same time as knowledge expands, many believe that such a tool of international communication and understanding is becoming an urgent necessity.

In fact, in the opinion of a popular publication for language students, "If the linguists of the world do not choose, science may be forced to choose one of its own."

Within the next 10 to 20 years, the number of scientific publications in the world is expected to double, which means even more languages to be translated.

'Age of Exploration' Officially Ends Life

After 500 years of the Age of Exploration, the words "Terra Incognita" have been removed from the last remaining area on earth untrod by man.

The exploration of Antarctica has now been virtually completed as a result of an 815-mile traverse across the white continent by a nine-man party of scientists from the United States, Belgium and Norway.

"Our journey marked the culmination of a three-year onslaught on the last large unexplored region of Antarctica," reports Norman Peddie, a U.S. Department of Commerce geophysicist and leader of the expedition.

"There are now no major areas which have not been explored, although many of the details remain to be filled in."

He might have added that, with Earth now fully mapped, man in his ageless restlessness now eyes other worlds to chart.

LBJ's Choice Highly Personal

By RAYMOND MOLEY

In all the news and comment that has followed the President's announcement of his plan to retire, very little attention has been given to the purely personal and human motives for his decision. Perhaps that lack is due to the cynicism that marks our appraisal of the motives of all politicians.

These are not normal times. Grave issues disturb the public — perhaps more serious and inflammable than have ever been since the Civil War.

And since power centers in the President, he would have to bear the more crushing burden in a campaign for renomination and reelection.

His appearance would be greeted this year not by the normal cheering partisan throngs, but by angry demonstrations. And beyond that ordeal in the months to come he would, if elected, face four years with a Congress dominated by a divided party and possibly by a Republican opposition.

Thus, the price of the glory of another term would be excessive, and such glory as might come from vindication at the polls would be diminished by ultimate frustration and perhaps failure at the end. Such an ordeal might well be far beyond Mr. Johnson's physical capability.

EMOTIONAL, PROUD

He will be 60 in August. He has spent 37 of those years in the turmoil of politics. He has enjoyed high political office and honors well beyond any of his contemporaries. He is also an emotional and proud man.

None of the quieting and philosophical attitude of a Dwight Eisenhower, a Calvin Coolidge or a Herbert Hoover could protect such a nature as Lyndon Johnson's against the vicissitudes of a lengthened public life.

When he is attacked, he must counterattack. His impulse is to regard criticism as personal.

And in his resistance to opposition and criticism and abuse, he would try to spend far more of the vitality than is accorded to the normal individual. His health and his life itself might well be what he would pay for another term.

TRUE FRIENDS

All this must have been urged upon him by his family and his true personal friends.

They must have pointed out to him, and he must have realized, that those circumstances should dictate retirement. For he was approaching the fork in the road of his career.

The choice of going on to win reelection was cluttered with hazards to his physical constitution and his pride. The other option which he finally took was a lengthened life with his family, his friends and his assurance of an honored place in history.

It will be well to suspend cynicism and grant this man an honored departure from public life.

Perilous Pastime!

David Lawrence Says:

Fed Chief's Speech Worrisome

WASHINGTON — Businessmen, bankers and the public generally have been much concerned over the declaration made about a week ago by William McChesney Martin, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, that the country is "in the midst of the worst financial crisis we have had since 1931."

LAWRENCE

Some thought it an emotional statement, based upon the frustration that seems to confront government officials as to what to do next. Others felt it was opportune, as the situation had been drifting without preventive action.

While the speech could have an adverse effect on public confidence in the value of the dollar in terms of gold, most of the analysts seem to feel that Chairman Martin made his declaration with a specific purpose in mind—to get some action by Congress on the pending bill to increase taxes.

The problem, however, is so intricate that the treatment of one factor by itself cannot necessarily prevent financial complications.

The basic truth is that the administration has been reluctant to paint a picture of future trouble and has been content to exert pressure on Congress to do something about tax legislation.

The answer that comes back from the House leaders is that budget-cutting must come first, and little has been done in that direction thus far.

Many of the experts who look at the crisis from an economic and financial point of view think that the United States cannot much longer postpone revaluation of gold and that a higher price is inevitable.

The United States has been able to avoid such a decision by getting agreements with various countries to deal with the gold problem in a limited way. But it begins to be more and more apparent that the gold supply of the United States will eventually be drained away. Anticipation of such a contingency unquestionably prompted Martin's statement.

The U.S. balance-of-payments deficit — the excess of dollars flowing out of the country over those taken in from abroad — is expected to be worse for the first quarter of 1968 than for any previous quarter, with possibly one or two exceptions.

Probably if budget-cutting as well as tax increases were a concerted action and part of a general policy of restraining inflation, there would be no loss of public confidence in the dollar.

When nothing is being done, there is a risk that economic pressures will grow and crises around the world will arise.

Bob Considine Says:

Aiding Hard-Core Jobless Has Discouraging Aspects

NEW YORK — Some of the problems of employing the unemployed and the unemployed were listed in all their discouraging details at this week's National Conference of Christians and Jews meeting in New York.

Roger Sonnabend, the Boston Hotelman who serves with gusto and drive as a member of the executive board of the National Alliance of Businessmen, pulled no punches:

"Most of the $650 million the government spent last summer underwriting temporary jobs for youths, mostly Negro, went down the drain. It was largely worthless, Sonnabend said."

The average Negro job came to look upon his job as one of "you trying to buy peace from me?"

Private industry, spearheaded by Henry Ford II, who heads the NAB, has pledged 40,000 jobs for hard-core unemployed and unemployables this year. "But how many of these people will put up with the prejudices they'll meet at the supervisors' level; how many will drop out because it will be plain they have little chance of advancement in salary or position?" he asked.

Business, the unions, the churches and such organizations as the Conference of Christians and Jews, Urban League and others are intensely interested in reducing the army of Negroes who are unemployed, under-employed and working for wages that don't provide a proper living scale.

"We are mostly all concerned by the need to get on with this work; we all recognize its importance not only to the Negroes but to ourselves," Sonnabend said, "but the question is whether we can really do something about it, change men's minds and ancient systems of thought."

Sonnabend said that the private sector that has promised to provide jobs may be in for many rude awakenings and should be psychologically and philosophically prepared for handling the tasks.

Several months ago the tax increase was first proposed. While public opinion has not been favorable to such a measure, it probably would be more receptive if the administration told the people frankly that a crisis could ensue unless prompt action is taken.

He estimated that the average unemployed man who applies for such work has had no more than six years of schooling.

About half of them have police records (no bar to their eligibility).

SENSE OF ANTAGONISM

A great many of them, he predicted, will have emerged from broken homes or have deep domestic problems that have instilled in them a sense of antagonism toward society.

"They'll get the 'dead end' jobs in the shop. They'll get no incentives, unless American business takes a second look at traditional employment practices."

Ex-Red Tells of Laos Service

By RAY CROMLEY

VIENTIANE, LAOS (NEA) — The North Vietnamese captain, a loyal Communist party member, had volunteered for service in Laos. He was made an advisor and political commissar to Pathet Lao units. But though he was a veteran army officer and party member, he detected after several years in Laos.

In a three-hour talk with this reporter, he told his reasons for giving up his home and family, his Communist party membership, and his country:

"They told us it was our duty to help the Lao people drive out the American troops and bring freedom to the country," the captain said.

But when I came here, I saw no American troops. I found that I was not fighting Americans; I was fighting the Lao.

"Almost entirely it was North Vietnamese troops fighting Lao troops. We had Pathet Lao units. But they had no enthusiasm for what they

'Litter-Strewn Byways Reflect a Loss of Pride'

My sister, brother and I played a game, as children, where we counted either the horses or cemeteries on "our side of the road" while traveling in a car. Today, I imagine one could have a more spirited game by counting the piles of garbage dumped along the lovely back roads of our land. With dwindling prestige around the world, I guess it doesn't matter if trash-strewn byways are added to the list of abominations piled up by affluent Americans.

I'm ashamed. What has happened to man's pride in his land; but mostly of his pride in himself? What can be done to stop this slovenly practice? If someone knows of anyone who does this dirty trick, why not report it? Someone must care. Do you care enough to erase this blot on the landscape?

Comments on Hospital Visiting Change

I believe Mr. Euler, administrator of Pontiac General Hospital, is out of line on visiting hour changes. The patients eat during both periods of 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. and 4 p.m. to 8 p.m. There are other parking lots that are overcrowded and they aren't shut down. The City is losing money when the lot is closed. I believe Mr. Euler and other city officials should not take visiting hours away from patients.

Would public officials who fail to seek prosecution of an employee of theirs who took bribes be guilty of nonfeasance, misfeasance or malfeasance?

CURIOUS

REPLY

We talked with Asst. Pros. Plunkett, who said he knows of no statute that says all such cases must be prosecuted, but failure to do so could possibly amount to violation of duties of the office. All circumstances would have to be examined and the case judged accordingly.

were doing. We did not trust them in battle.

"As time went on, we put North Vietnamese troops always in front to do the fighting. We used the Pathet Lao for occupation duties after the battles were over.

"Even so, our Pathet Lao units grew smaller and smaller. One battalion I advised was typical. It was down to 215 troops in 1964, to 150 in 1966 and now it has shrunk to 80 men.

"Our Pathet Lao units have grown smaller because, as we lost men by death, injury and desertion, we have found it more and more difficult to get new men to replace them. We haven't been able to attract the native people to our side, even in those parts of Laos we occupy militarily.

"Politically, we have made little headway. We had to win by straight military means. As things have grown more difficult and as the local people have become less and less favorable to our presence, we have had to bring in more North Vietnamese troops.

"Now our mainline army in Laos is largely a North Vietnamese army. It is a mistake to think of the Pathet Lao as an army.

"But the troops from North Vietnam—those coming in to Laos to fight and those going out into South Vietnam—are deteriorating too. They're younger. Formerly, most of our troops were experienced men in their 20s. Many were 25 or even older. Now, great numbers are 17 and 18.

"There are a growing number of 16-year-olds. These men are much better armed than in past years. But they are green and inexperienced.

"We North Vietnamese are winning military victories in Laos. But the situation is hopeless. The people in Laos we've been able to attract are hopeless. We're not getting anywhere. The people are not with us."

It is easy for Americans to get discouraged about the progress of the war. The enemy is having his troubles, too.

Efforts to Cut Dollar Drain Run Into Trouble

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Johnson administration is running into trouble in its efforts to cut the international dollar drain this year by $3 billion.

Some government officials have already conceded privately the goal in some areas of the program will be extremely difficult, if not impossible, to meet.

But perhaps the sourest note in the entire picture is the deteriorating trade position which officials blame on inflation at home, strikes and the threat of strikes and what they call excessive wage settlements.

The net result is a sharp rise in imports and a decline in the trade surplus.

FRESH JOHNSON UNVEILED

President Johnson unveiled

his new balance-of-payments program on New Year's day in a fresh attempt to lick a perennial problem which produced a $3.57-billion deficit in 1967.

Although exact figures won't be available until mid-May, officials now look for substantial improvement in the deficit for the first three months of this year compared with the last three months of 1967.

But the deficit in the prior quarter was $1.85 billion and there's reportedly little chance it will drop to the quarterly level prevailing before devaluation of the British pound last November.

The quarterly drain during the first three quarters of last year ranged from $533 million to $638 million.

KEYSTONE OF PROGRAM
Johnson's new program called for congressional action on a variety of fronts but Congress has yet to complete work on even one of them.

Passage of the proposed 10 per cent income tax surcharge is the keystone of the entire program.

The House approved extension of the 5 per cent excise tax on airline tickets for international travel but deferred action on the major part of the travel program—a proposed tax on spending by U.S. tourists in other countries.

The government fared better administratively. Effective next week, foreign tourists will be eligible for a wide range of discounts on travel and accommodations—part of an attempt to attract more foreign tourists to help offset American spending abroad.

But trade is now the most worrisome aspect for government officials close to the balance-of-payments question. Lawrence A. Fox, director of the Commerce Department's Bureau of International Commerce, said the threat of a steel strike this year will add as much as $500 million to the dollar outflow through increased steel imports by companies stockpiling against a possible

Last Horse in Cavalry Is Rallying

PT. RILEY, Kan. (AP) — Old Chief's days of luxury are stretching on and on at Ft. Riley.

Illnesses may slow down the 36-year-old last surviving Army cavalry horse, but so far he's weathered them.

Last week Chief had an attack of colic and went through what his handler termed "a pretty rough time."

But, says Spec 5 Ronald Haley, 26, who has taken care of Chief for 3 1/2 months, "he's doing much better now. He's eating, walking and standing much better. But he sure had me worried last week."

TAKING IT EASY

As Haley spoke, the former cavalry mount was out in a pasture doing what he's been doing since 1933—taking it easy.

Haley said, Chief is alert and has a good appetite for a horse his age, which veterinarians say is equal to 106 human years.

Chief has lost about 150 pounds since the first of the year when he came down with acute arthritis, Haley reported. Since then he's also had three attacks of colic and went off his feed each time.

Foaled in 1932 near Scottsbluff, Neb., Chief arrived at Ft. Riley in 1941 and served in both the 10th and 9th Cavalry before he was retired 15 years ago.

The last of the many cavalry horses that saw service before mechanization, he will remain on the Army rolls until his death—eating, loafing and getting attention.

Hearing Set on 2 Public Worker Bills

LANSING (AP)—Sen. Oscar E. Bouwma, R-Muskegon, announced Wednesday that a public hearing would be held May 6 at Dearborn on two bills concerned with labor disputes involving police and fire departments and public employees.

One bill would require compulsory arbitration in police and fire department labor disputes. The other would create public employment relations panels and fact-finding panels for labor disputes involving public employees.

The hearing will be conducted from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at St. John Junior High School, Bouwma said.

Romney Names 2 to Commission on Crime, Courts

LANSING (UPI) — Judge Donald S. Leonard and Wayne County Prosecutor William L. Cahalan, both of Detroit, were named Wednesday to the Michigan Commission on Crime, Delinquency and Criminal Administration.

Gov. George Romney announced both appointments, which are for indefinite terms. Senate confirmation is not required.

Leonard, now executive judge pro tem of Detroit Recorder's Court, has served both as state police commissioner and Detroit police commissioner.

Cahalan is currently vice chairman of the National District Attorney's Committee on Riots and Civil Disorders.

Union Leader Is Hopeful of Breaking Bell Impasse

WASHINGTON (AP) — The union leader directing the eight-day-old nationwide telephone strike says chances look good for breaking the deadlock in wage talks.

More than 200,000 members of President Joseph A. Beirne's 7.5 per cent wage increase over 18 months. The company said at the time the union was demanding 10.5 per cent.

Telephone installers, who set the wage pattern in the industry, averaged $3.27 per hour before the strike, and other telephone workers averaged $2.79.

"Chances look good, but there are many knotty problems to resolve," Beirne said of talks with company officials.

LOCKED UP — "I think we can work out solutions, but until these knotty problems are fully worked out, we remain critically locked up in our discussions and the strike continues unabated," he said.

A few hours after Beirne's statement, the Federation of Telephone Workers of Pennsylvania, representing 13,000 employees, went on strike after negotiations on their new contract

Meter Maid Gives Governor a Ticket

GRAND RAPIDS (UP) — Gov. Romney got a traffic ticket yesterday — like anyone else who parks in the no parking zone in front of City Hall.

Romney was inside meeting with Mayor Chris Sonneveldt and city officials discussing urban problems when a meter maid, disregarding the size of the car and its impressive license number, issued it a $1 ticket.

A news wagon from WZZM-TV, parked behind the governor's car, was also favored with a ticket. WZZM News Editor Jack Hogan said he'll pay his ticket if Romney pays his.

Sanitation Workers

Detroit Faces Strike

DETROIT (UPI) — A strike by Detroit's sanitation workers could come within the next 10 days unless the city agrees to their wage demands, a spokesman for their union said today.

Joseph Ganaway, an international representative of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees Union, was to meet with representatives of the city's labor bureau today to discuss terms of a new contract. He said Council 77 of the AFSCME was asking for an across-the-board raise of 20 cents per hour.

The union members voted

Congressmen Find Rioting Top Concern of Their Constituents

WASHINGTON (AP) — The more billions to be expended on slum areas as a cure for urban rioting rather than the war or tax issues, some 50 congressmen report in a survey following an Easter vacation among their constituents.

LITTLE UNDERSTANDING
A New England congressman, who has supported civil rights and urban aid programs—and who asked not be identified—said: “The redneck Rotarian crowd in my district shows no understanding of the racial crisis that I refuse to listen to them.”

Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., reported as much division among whites as between Negroes and whites. “They want law enforcement and not appeasement,” said Rep. Robert L. F. Sikes, D-Fla., hand who writes and wires them. “They are disgusted with the office wants more laws and reputation of demands for more money because the white man abused the Negro’s grandfathers,” he said. “The man in the street, however, says enforce the law,” Aiken continued. “He has nothing good to say about the rioters.”

KING’S DEATH CITED
Rep. J. Edward Roush, D-Ind., said he sensed that the people in his district were determined to combat major domestic problems following the violence ignited after Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. was assassinated April 4.

“I sense a feeling of sadness in the whole thing,” Roush said. “People are saying, ‘What a terrible thing to happen in America.’”

“I believe it’s made them more sensitive to the fact there are problems to which we must address ourselves to in America,” Roush added.

He said that before King’s slaying and the April riots many people were calling for force to “clamp down on these people. Now I believe they are demanding not repression, but solutions.”

LYNCH LAW THREATENED
But Rep. W. R. Poage, D-Tex., reported an opposite reaction in his district. “We’re headed right toward lynch law if the people can’t get protection from public officials,” he said. “Ninety-five per cent of the people are concerned about the violations of the law and the police’s failure to enforce the law,” Poage said. “The government will either enforce the law or the people will enforce it through vigilantes, and the people don’t enforce the law very exactly or discriminately.”

“It was very discouraging,” said one Northeastern congressman who also asked not to be identified. “The man on the street, in the gas station—who normally doesn’t speak out—was saying about Negroes: ‘Do they want everything on a silver platter?’”

CHANCES DIM
“This is sure to be reflected in R-Mass., a supporter of urban Congress,” the congressman added. “Chances for new housing, job or education programs are almost nonexistent.”

“The liberal community feels impatient about the race crisis,” said Rep. F. Bradford Morse, a major concern among Americans. “They don’t know what to do.”

The Vietnam issue, most congressmen reported, is running a distant second to urban riots as a concern among Americans. Congress is considering a 10 per cent surcharge on income taxes.

Jim Clark Accepted the Risks—and Lost

And so now Jim Clark is gone, dead at 32, a victim of a terrible and mysterious crash at the Hockenheim Motor drome in West Germany. His Lotus-Ford careened off of control at 175 mph, somersaulted off the track and shattered against a tree. He was killed instantly.

The news came over the kitchen radio on Palm Sunday morning and in that moment it was as shocking as the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King. Probably because I had met Jim Clark on several occasions and was in the midst of reading his biography, “Jim Clark at the Wheel,” at the time of the tragedy. He seemed like a friend. Frankly, I never thought it would happen to Clark. Not because he was lucky or had some special gift of life out there in those SUPER-POWERED racing machines; rather, because he seemed like the complete professional—a man who could adjust to any emergency, a man who could overcome any adversity... a man who had so much skill behind the wheel that he knew exactly what he was doing every second of the way.

Cool and Calm at 150 MPH

In his book, Clark stated: “I am often asked what it is like driving a very fast car around a circuit, and how I feel at high speed. To a family man, driving a car along a road at 70 mph is relative to the traffic he is passing. He feels as though he is driving too quickly and in that context, maybe he is.

“But to ask a racing driver how he feels about driving 150 mph is something completely different. One of the integral parts of racing is being able to feel at home at high speeds.

“Now this may seem to be a very naive statement but think about it for a minute. On the circuit I am so at home that I never notice speed. I am too busy watching the dials and thinking that maybe the engine should be turning 3000 rpm more at a particular spot on the circuit.

“The fact I am traveling at 150 mph means absolutely nothing,” Clark was a professional in every sense of the word in the minds of millions, the greatest driver in history. The legendary Juan Fangio won more Grand Prix (Formula 1) championships. Stirling Moss was more daring and the fabled Spanish nobleman, Alfonso de Portago, who died in the Mille Miglia, the last of the great open road races, was far more colorful.

Clark was the master of the wheel than Jim Clark. The shy, dark-haired son of a Scottish sheep farmer, he did it all at the age of 32. He did it in an era when the slow-slurp race cars were on the verge of developing into airborne missiles. He became the youngest Grand Prix champion in history; he was the first to win seven Grand Prix races in one year; he was the first to win five straight on the Grand Prix circuit. He was also the first Briton to prevail at Indianapolis, winning the “500” in 1965.

A Pure, Natural Racing Talent

He wasn’t daring.

He wasn’t dashing.

But he was a pro. He knew exactly what he could obtain from man and machine, and pushed both to the ultimate. He raced because he loved it.

“People who race are motivated by many things,” he once said. “Some race because they feel they can make any money at it. Others race because it is the ‘done thing’ or because it might make them more attractive to the girls.

“There is also the driver who has a natural liking for racing, and a curiosity for what racing can offer him. I think I fall into this category. I know what the dangers are but once you start, you can’t stop.

“I guess you can say racing is like smoking. It gets into your blood and you have to carry on, no matter the consequences.”

Death is a part of auto racing. Every driver knows this and accepts the sport on its own terms. He feels it will never happen to him... because if he ever thought, even for an instant, what it would be like to hit a tree at 175 mph, as Jim Clark did, he would never get into the car. Actually, what it takes is a certain lack of imagination.

It is said that if a man drives hard enough and long enough, he will succumb to the inevitable.

The inevitable overcame Jim Clark.

At 32 he is dead.

But how many men—how many of us—go through an entire lifetime and never do the thing we really want to do?

Time, Book Firm Map Merger Plan

BOSTON (AP) — Little Brown & Co. 131-year-old Boston book publishing firm, announced today execution of a formal purchase agreement by which Time, Inc., will acquire the firm.

The announcement was made jointly by Arthur H. Thornhill Jr., Little Brown president and James A. Linen, Time, Inc., president.

The companies announced in January that Time, Inc., will issue 170,000 shares of its common stock to make the purchase.

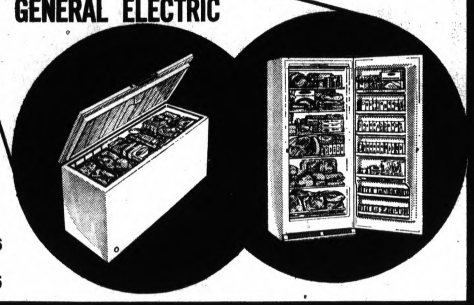

The agreement is subject to a favorable tax ruling by the Internal Revenue Service and to approval by Little Brown stockholders at a meeting in early June.

HUNGRY PACK—Debbie Saccomanno of Houston, Tex., does her duty at mealtime for her hungry wolf pack. Last week, the litter of six wolf pups was discovered on a 5,000-acre ranch southwest of Houston. The mother had been killed. The pups were dug up and delivered to the regional director of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Service who, with the aid of a biologist for the U.S. Bureau of Sports Fisheries and Wildlife, identified them as members of the "endangered species" of red wolf. Debbie, a volunteer worker at the Houston Herman Park Zoo, was enlisted to raise them.

McConnell, testifying before the Senate Armed Services Committee in February, said, "I don't agree with" and "I don't subscribe to" the NIE view.

Beards, Long Hair Banned by Army

By JERRY T. BAULCH

WASHINGTON—It's law now — the Army is banning beards and long hair for its soldiers. A neat mustache is okay. And your commander can't force you to have a shaved head if you don't care for the Yul Brynner look.

This is a big switch, for in the past the customs of the military have ruled. It has been up to each commander to set detailed rules for making his men have a "neat and soldierly appearance," the catch-all words used as the only guide in a field manual of recent vintage.

The Navy, Marines and Air Force already had laid down rules against beards and long hair.

Sometimes a man is allowed a beard if a doctor says he needs one for a health reason, like a skin ailment. And Navy men who go to polar regions get a dispensation.

But sometimes the rules aren't followed quite to the letter in some localities. In combat, take that hand-drawn mustache Col. Robin Olds sported as the top fighter pilot in Vietnam, but shaved off when he was assigned to the Air Force Academy.

The Army is the only service ruling that a man doesn't have to have a shaved head just because his C.O. says so.

As for the beard bit, one of the officers who wrote the new Army rule told me there's a practical side in addition to the appearance aspect: "A man with a beard would have trouble with a gas mask. But if a neat mustache helps his morale, then okay, it won't interfere."

FINAL WORDING

Gen. Harold K. Johnson, Army Chief of Staff, had a hand in editing the final wording of the new regulation, which says:

"It is the responsibility of commanders to see that military personnel present a neat and soldierly appearance. Commanders will establish a policy and standard in the area of personal appearance to insure that members of their command are neat and soldierly. Degrading and dehumanizing actions, such as requiring heads of soldiers to be shaved, are forbidden. However, a soldier may voluntarily have his head shaved."

(Johnson added the bit that a man can have a shaved head if he wants one.)

"The hair will be well-groomed, but short or medium length and neatly trimmed at all times. The face will be clean-shaven, with the exception that wearing of a neatly trimmed mustache is permissible."

No More Draft Changes

It's pretty certain now there won't be any more changes in the draft law this year, despite the grumbling about knocking out most graduate deferments and a petition by 25 congressmen for a random selection system.

Chairman L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., of the House Armed Services Committee, says he doesn't intend to hold any hearings on the draft this session, for all that is needed is to administer the law the way Congress intended.

Without hearings by Rivers' committee, it's next to impossible to bring draft legislation to the House floor.

The first to get the fancy chevrons — at a special Pentagon ceremony — was the Army's No. 1 enlisted man, Sgt. Maj. William O. Woodridge.

These Sergeants Are Super

If you see an Army sergeant with gold laurel wreath in the center of his chevrons, around the star, you'll know he's one of the new brand of super-sergeants. These are command sergeant majors. There are now slightly less than 200. Eventually there will be about 1,500.

Promotion Problems Galore

The House Armed Services Committee turned up a bushel of bugs in the military promotion systems, but apparently is going to let the services work out their problems without any new laws—at least for now.

The committee pointedly said it is going to retain its special promotions subcommittee to keep an eye on progress. There was a strong suggestion that Congress will step in if the services drag their feet in keeping enlisted men informed as to where they're going on the promotion ladder and if they don't figure out a fairer promotion system.

However, the committee went to great pains to point out that the services already are making many of the major changes it suggested to improve promotion opportunities for enlisted men.

The report pointed to studies and surveys being made by each of the services, including the big one by the Hubbell Committee, which had been expected to go to Congress early this year calling for a massive overhaul of the enlisted pay structure for all services.

State School Rolls Are Up

LANSING (AP) — Michigan has some 49,000 more youngsters enrolled in public schools this year than last, reports the State Department of Education.

Department figures, released today, showed a public school enrollment last September of 2,079,961, compared with 2,030,954 at the start of the 1966-67 school year.

The number of 12th graders increased by nearly 4,000 while the number of kindergartners dropped nearly 6,000, the department said. Special education programs increased their enrollments from 30,928 to 32,265.

Although the metropolitan districts in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties increased their public school enrollment by more than 20,000, their share of the total state enrollment dropped slightly—from 46.3 per cent to 46.1 per cent.

Costly Gardening

NEW DELHI (AP) — The wages of the 438 employees who maintain the presidential palace and adjoining gardens cost India's taxpayers $80,533 a year, official sources reported. The palace formerly housed British viceroys.

Space Summit

TOKYO (AP) — Some 430 space scientists from 30 countries will gather here May 9-21 for the 11th general meeting and the ninth symposium of the Committee on Space Research, TB 16 per cent, but cancer an agency of the International deaths increased by about 3 per cent.

Cigarettes Relax Skeletal Muscles

By Science Service

Cigarette smoking relaxes the skeletal muscles, those that get sorest after hard work, conclude University of Michigan researchers.

They used the large muscle of the thigh as representatives of skeletal muscles because the knee-jerk reflex associated with it is easy to monitor. Forty-five male college students between the ages of 19 and 29 were studied.

It was found that smoking a high-nicotine cigarette depresses the knee-jerk reflex by as much as 67 per cent, showing that the muscles were more relaxed.

City Awaits Tax Fund

and said that since the city and the city employees both desired the income tax they did not really attempt to defend the petitions.

After Beer's ruling, Cunningham and Coon filed a claim of appeal with the State Appellate Court protesting Beer's decision that prohibited them from being legal parties in the case. Since they were not legally involved in the restraining order they could not appeal Beer's decision upholding the tax.

The claim filed with the Court of Appeals gave the attorneys a legal privilege to later file a brief protesting Beer's decision. That brief has not yet been filed, Cunningham said yesterday.

day he definitely intends to file the brief protesting Beer's decision but could not until he had the transcript of the hearing before Beer.

He said the transcript was delivered to him Saturday. "We now have the opportunity to go over the transcript and formulate a legal brief," he said.

"Before receiving the transcript we did not have anything to legally base the appeal on," he said.

He said he had no idea when the court could schedule such a hearing.

Parties to the original suit—the city and the city employees, represented by Livingston—will have an opportunity to file an answering brief once Cunningham and Coon file theirs.

Pontiac Director of Law Sherwin L. Birnkranz said he does not expect any early hearing of the number of cases now being handled by the Appellate Court.

"It could be as much as three to six years before this case is finally settled," he said.

Livingston, has indicated in the past that he sees no basis for an appeal and probably would use whatever legal methods available to delay a hearing.

If the appeal by Cunningham and Coon is decided by the high court this year it will involve only the attorneys' right to enter the case and will not necessarily affect the validity of the income tax.

The court could rule that Beer did not err in his decision. Such a decision could be appealed to the State Supreme Court.

The Appellate Court also decided that Beer did err, in which event the case would be sent back to Oakland County Circuit Court, this time with Cunningham and Coon, as Mullin's attorneys, being allowed to intervene in the case.

Such a hearing could then result in a decision that the petitions were valid or it could result in another decision that the petitions were not valid.

In the latter case, the legality of the income tax would be even more firmly fixed than it is now. What would happen if a hearing would produce a decision that the petitions were valid is anybody's guess.

Persons with legal training refuse to speculate on what might happen in that event.

Head of SCLC Fears a Plot

'Forces of Evil Seek to Kill Off Our Leaders'

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The Rev. Ralph D. Abernathy, who succeeded the slain Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., as head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, has raised the question of a possible conspiracy aimed at picking off leaders of the civil rights movement and the poor people's campaign.

Abernathy, who launches the poor people's campaign next Monday, told newsmen yesterday that the "forces of evil have sought to defeat our movement and our crusade by killing off our leaders." He enumerated many slain civil rights leaders.

"Now the grave concern at this particular time on my part," he said, "is the fact that there may be a conspiracy taking place in this country to actually defeat our movement, defeat the thrust, by picking off our leaders one by one or three by three, as the case may be."

King was shot to death in Memphis, Tenn., where he was to lead striking garbage workers April 4 in a march.

The FBI has charged one man, Missouri prison escapee James Earl Ray, with criminal conspiracy in the slaying but has not named other alleged conspirators.

The poor people's campaign begins May 1 with a mass meeting in Memphis, followed by the placing of a gold star on the motel balcony where King fell mortally wounded and a three-day march from Memphis to Marks, Miss.

Marks is one of the poorest areas of the nation, Abernathy said. It will be the starting point for the southern caravan which heads for the nation's Capital May 6.

Abernathy will drive the first night May 13 in a shantytown in Washington, the location not yet chosen.

Meanwhile, participants will be streaming toward Washington from across the nation, with a huge demonstration set May 30.

Open-Housing Talk Set

St. Michael Catholic Church's early this year but nullified human relations council will hold a public meeting at 8 p.m. May 5 to discuss the city open-housing ordinance. Robert P. Jackson, District 5 city commissioner, said today.

Jackson said speakers who will appear include Mayor William H. Taylor Jr., former city commissioner Leslie H. Hudson, and Donald Baader, area director of the Michigan Civil Rights Commission.

He said the meeting will offer the public an opportunity to learn about the ordinance passed by the City Commission Transportation Day.

2nd Meeting Argued for Riot Commission

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The National Riot Commission continued to be the center of controversy today, this time over whether it should meet again to "refocus" public attention on its sweeping recommendations.

Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York, the Republican vice chairman of the panel, told newsmen here yesterday that because the recommendations had been ignored by Congress, the commission would meet again.

He said he had been in contact with Gov. Otto Kerner of Illinois, the Democratic chairman of the commission, and "it's now a question of when to call another session."

But Kerner, who will become a federal judge when he completes his term as governor next January, issued a statement at Springfield, Ill., denying that he had any plans to call the commission together again.

"In response to lingering inquiries regarding the future of the national advisory commission on civil disorders," the governor said, "I reiterate that the commission has fulfilled its mission as outlined by the President and no further meetings are being contemplated on the part of the chairman."

2ND CALL IN MONTH

The exchange marked the second time this month that Lindsay has called for further meetings of the commission. On April 10 he indicated that such meetings were imminent; but Kerner said then any meeting would be two or three weeks off.

Originally, the blue ribbon commission had planned to disband after it issued its report last March, calling for a minimum income for every family in place of welfare programs and a massive effort by government to provide better housing, schooling, and jobs for the urban poor.

Revolt on DST Fizzles in State

Six Counties Shun
Campaign in Berrien

ALLEGAN (UPI) — An attempt to form the nucleus of a time rebellion in seven Western Michigan counties apparently died Wednesday.

Representatives of Allegan, Barry, Cass, Kalamazoo, St. Joseph and Van Buren counties refused to go along with Berrien County's plans to stay on standard time when the nation goes to daylight time this Sunday.

The time question came up at a meeting of District 4 Michigan State Association of Supervisors. Berrien, which has passed two resolutions saying it would disregard the switch to fast time, hoped to win recruits from the neighboring counties in order to force attention on the issue.

The representatives of the other counties in the meeting at the Allegan County courthouse all expressed their displeasure at the prospect of pushing clocks in western Michigan ahead one hour; but they refused to join Berrien in a secession.

REVERSED ITSELF

Van Buren County, which had earlier decided to take action similar to Berrien, later reversed itself and will go on daylight time also.

As a result, O. D. Proseus, chairman of the Berrien County Board of Supervisors, said he will recommend that the board consider rescinding its resolutions calling for no daylight time in the county.

The board scheduled a meeting for Friday to consider the question, amid indications that there could be a floor fight over the matter. The Friday meeting was originally scheduled for next week but was pushed up so the question could be dealt with before the time change occurs.

His Behavior Is Extremely Rude to All

By ELIZABETH L. POST

Dear Mrs. Post: Two or three other couples sometimes go with my husband and me to a regular Saturday night dance. Every time we do this, my husband dashes off soon after we get there and dances with women from other tables. He says it is important for his business to be friendly with as many people as possible.

I get furious and say he has no right to go off and leave us for most of the evening. What do you say? — J. W.

Dear Mrs. J.W.: If your husband feels that he must occasionally dance with a customer's wife, he may excuse himself for a few minutes to do so, provided he does not leave a woman sitting alone at your table.

But it is quite another thing for him to use this as an excuse to escape from his own party for the better part of the evening. Such behavior is extremely rude to you and the people with you.

Dear Mrs. Post: I recently received an invitation to a church wedding and also an invitation to the reception which followed. R.S.V.P. was not printed on either of the invitations. Was I obliged to answer? — Lynne

Dear Lynne: An invitation to a reception should say R.S.V.P., but even if it doesn't, you should reply, since those giving the reception must know how many guests to expect.

The Al Vels of Troy announce the engagement and Aug. 24 vows of her daughter, Yvonne Mann to Gary Sabourin, son of the A. F. Sabourins of Tennyson Street. Miss Mann who is also the daughter of the late Jesse Mann is a graduate of Wayne State University. Her fiance holds degrees from Michigan State University and University of Florida School of Law.

Arts Council Sees Dancing

At the quarterly meeting of the Pontiac Area Community Arts Council Wednesday evening, members saw a program of modern dance. Mrs. Leavolia Garis, physical education teacher at Jefferson Junior High School, presented a group of her students.

Mrs. Garis also reported on plans to offer modern dance courses to more girls this summer.

During the business meeting of the group at the YWCA, Mrs. Noel Loveland was elected recording secretary.

Former city commissioner Leslie H. Hudson presented several plans to the council concerning beautification of the city and expanding of the Moses Wisner Home property.

The Community Arts Council is nearing the end of its first year as an organization. Created at the request of Mayor William J. Taylor Jr., it is receiving favorable attention throughout the state.

Its biggest achievement, to date, is the publishing of two Cultural Calendars, listing events for northern Oakland County.

Mayor Taylor spoke briefly at last night's meeting.

Cranbrook Shows List Art Posters in Galleries Exhibit

An exhibition of the List Art Posters is currently on display in Cranbrook Academy of Art Galleries, through May 5.

Teen-agers and the younger "oldsters" will find enjoyment in these popular posters with wild colors executed in patterns that seem to dissolve and revolve before the eyes, those that are frankly sentimental and the sophisticated reproductions that carry such famous names as Chagall, Vaserey, Albers and Stella.

The List Art Posters program was established in 1963 to stimulate the creative use and appreciation of the poster as an art form. The program commissions major artists to design posters for important events sponsored by cultural institutions.

Continuing exhibitions in the Galleries for this period are "Metal: Germany" and the works of students of Brookside School Cranbrook, Cranbrook School, Kingswood School Cranbrook and the Young People's Art Center, which is sponsored by the Galleries.

Galleries hours are from 1 to 5 p.m. Tuesdays through Sundays, except for major holidays. There is an admission.

Inform Your Wife 'Picnic Is Over'--- It's Time for a Full-Fledged Banquet

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: We have been married for over one year, and I can't remember the last time Eve cooked a hot meal for me. She is so busy with her bridge club, garden club, and book club that she doesn't have time to cook.
She comes home at 6 p.m. and serves me a cold meat sandwich with some potato chips on a paper plate, and that is supper!

ABBY

I give her a generous allowance for groceries, but there is never anything to eat in the house. We have no children yet, so if I get mad enough, I could just pick up and leave. Any suggestions?

EVE'S HUSBAND
DEAR HUSBAND: The next time you're served a cold meat sandwich and potato chips on a paper plate, tell Eve that the "picnic" is over. And also tell her that at one time EVE was the only woman in the world, but times have changed, so she'd better turn over a new leaf.

DEAR ABBY: My son is 23 years old, already has his years in the service behind him, and is now making a good living in a body and fender business in partnership with his brother. I should add that my son has supported himself since the age of 15 and is a very good boy who never gave me any trouble.

He has a girl I'll call Jane. They have gone together for three years and want to get married soon. Jane has just turned 21. The problem is Jane's mother. She won't let Jane get married until my son OWNS a home of his own and has $2,000 in the bank. Abby, my son has a real nice apartment completely furnished and ready for Jane to move into. He has a good car (paid for) and he doesn't owe a cent.

They love each other, and I can't see where Jane's mother has any right to put such a big stumbling block in their road. I would like your opinion.

THE BOYS MOTHER
DEAR MOTHER: A 21-year-old girl doesn't need her mother's legal consent to marry, so if Jane is willing to wait until the man she marries meets her mother's qualifications, perhaps Jane isn't mature enough to marry anyone yet.

DEAR ABBY: Your recent column on who should say "grace" when a clergyman is a guest will be a great help to hosts who may be faced with that dilemma. But you would do the clergy a tremendous service if you were to print this, which is also related to the saying of "grace".

Plan Members' Show for Local Artists

The 20th annual Members' Show of the Pontiac Society of Artists will be held in the First Federal Savings of Oakland building.

The opening reception will be Sunday from 2 to 7 p.m.

Judging entries this year will be Sally Saunders of the Birmingham Art Gallery; James Black, nationally known potter and Frank Stefanes, award-winning artist.

The members will have dinner together, after the judging Saturday, at tables set among the exhibited works. Mrs. C. M. Thiede is chairman of the show.

grams for civic groups and service organizations: Any lay person can offer the invocations and benedictions at such meetings, so please don't feel that you must ask a clergyman. We are frequently "invited" to break into our busy days to rush downtown to some hotel just to say a short prayer that could have easily been said by anyone. Thank you.

Respectfully, INDIANA PASTOR

Two Ingredients, Water Make Large Dessert

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

Do you need a dessert in a hurry? The name of today's recipe may sound inelegant, but the cake is delicious, says Mrs. Howard Perkins of Southfield.

Dump Cake calls for only three ingredients. It's best served warm with a small scoop of ice cream. Mrs. Perkins often gets it ready, except for the water, early in the day. Water goes on just before baking.

Mrs. Perkins makes her own cake mixes, using five pounds of both flour and sugar at one time. She stores the dry mixture in one-pound coffee cans.

DUMP CAKE

By Mrs. Howard Perkins

2 cans apple pie filling
1 package spice cake mix
1½ cups warm water

Spread half the cake mix in a 9x13 ungreased pan. Pour pie filling over dry mix. Put remaining dry mix on top of filling. Pour on water and do not stir.

Bake in 350-degree oven for one hour or one hour and 10 minutes. Cut into squares and serve warm with ice cream. Makes 12 to 15 servings.

Students Will Model Attire Made in Class

Possibly the most popular classes in Waterford Township Community School Services are the sewing classes. Over a thousand women and teen agers have participated in the 76 classes during the current school year. They keep 14 teachers busy.

The Bishop method is used; this is a demonstration method that starts the students on simple items like housecoats and progresses through fitting, tailoring and working with double knits.

Each spring, there is a fashion show and tea to mark the close of the year. Students model what clothing they have made. About 50 will participate this Sunday.

Mrs. Robert Dika of Williams Lake is general chairman of the fashion show. Mrs. C. R. Greve is Bishop sewing coordinator.

Any interested person may attend the 2 p.m. event in Mason Junior High School Cafeteria.

Pontiac Press Photo

Mrs. J. H. Ashton, Cass-Elizabeth Road (left) and Mrs. Jess H. Troyer, Draper Street, have taken seven sewing classes together and are modeling the three-piece double knit suits they made. Both will participate in the fashion show of Bishop classes Sunday from 2 to 4 p.m. in Mason Junior High School. The event is open to the public.

Low-Cal Choices for Dining Out

If it's lunch or dinner at a restaurant and you're dieting, safe choices for appetizers include tomato, clam or sauerkraut juice, fruit cup or one-half grapefruit or a shrimp cocktail with lemon juice, clear consommé or bouillon.

Main dishes might be any roasted or broiled meat or chicken, fish or main dish salad. For desert choose fresh fruit, small serving of ice cream or gelatin.

Tips on Furnishing First Home

But the young family has Many couples on a limited income are discouraged from making any large investments in new furniture, advises Margaret Boschetti, home furnishings specialist at Michigan State University.

First, the young family may consist of a couple with one or more children or a newly married couple in the process of establishing a home. They are usually inexperienced consumers with undecided taste preferences and little or no knowledge of what to consider in selecting furniture. Also this family unit is likely short on resources — time, money and energy. Quite often young families can blend the possibility of several moves "hand-me-downs" with an until the husband becomes well-assorted of inexpensive con-ly. But the young family has Many couples on a limited income are discouraged from making any large investments in new furniture, advises Margaret Boschetti, home furnishings specialist at Michigan State University.

Young couples can rent furnished apartments and fill in with inexpensive pieces such as cushion seats, card table, nettes and temporary bookshelves. For the family that may be making several moves, Miss Boschetti says that neutral colors are a good choice. Larger pieces with de-emphasizing colors will work well with accentuating accessories.

During child-bearing years, young homemakers should buy furniture that will withstand the punishment of lively youngsters, advises Miss Boschetti. Fabric-backed vinyls and firmly woven hard fabrics are good selections in upholstered pieces. All pieces should be easy to clean, resistant to soil, wear and moisture. Flexibility is another consideration. Sometimes small chests fit nicely in a hallway or living room, or patio furniture could be used as an apartment dinette.

Role Parent Plays in Teen Motivation

By MURIEL LAWRENCE
DEAR MRS. LAWRENCE: Though our 16-year-old boy has a good brain, he is not applying it to school work. Yet he knows that he is already competing for acceptance by a good college with thousands of other boys.

He postpones getting at his homework until late at night when he's too tired to do his best with it. One of his teachers recently told me that he lacks "motivation." He had to be tutored in math last summer and his marks are sagging again...

ANSWER: If we parents show too much interest in operating a child's toy, he will withdraw his own interest from it. And he will do exactly the same thing with his brain. If we show too much interest in it by discussing it with his teachers, pushing him at homework and generally carrying on as though his brain were our brain, he will renege his own interest in it and quit using it.

"Genuine motivation can only start from within. All wishes drives and needs arising out of a social situation alone may be considered secondary." Those are statements made by Dr. Simon I. Wenkart, an eminent psychoanalyst in a new book entitled "Motivations in Play, Games and Sports."

And they hold true whether the child is playing a game of Chinese checkers against one competitor — or whether he's playing this new game of "college acceptance" against thousands.

It is time we recognize this social-based motivation of ours not merely as secondary but as dangerous, too, for the kids can't stand the pushing.

Symphony Features Mozart Works

By BERNICE ROSENTHAL

Concerto Contest winners were featured Tuesday night at the fourth regular concert of the Pontiac Symphony Orchestra at Pontiac Northern High School. Under the direction of Felix Resnick, the orchestra gave its most sophisticated and polished performance of this, or perhaps any, of its 14 seasons.

Most community orchestras shy away from playing Mozart, because of the control, precision and accuracy required.

Moreover, most conductors, even famous ones, play "at" Mozart, rather than to get down into the music and interpret it with the right combination of lightness, lyricism, flowing line and meanness.

Mr. Resnick has a feeling for Mozart, a devotion to a faithful interpretation of the master's spiritual requirements.

The Overture to "The Marriage of Figaro," although understandably a trifle slow in tempo, was a delight to hear.

The impish, merry wit of the music came through clearly, not only in the overture, but also in Mozart's Horn Concerto which followed.

Exquisite accompaniment and support was provided by the orchestra for the soloist, concerto winner Peggy Boyles, whose French Horn playing is sure, controlled and masterful.

There is certainty in her attacks and releases, no small feat for any French Horn player, fine control of her instrument, smoothness and sensitivity in her interpretation.

The third movement, for all its difficulty, emerged with the lightness, humor and carefree naivete of an artistic performance.

Catherine Dyni, winner in the piano division, was heard in the first movement of Mendelssohn's Concerto in G-Minor. Miss Dyni has excellent technique, buoyancy and virtuosic style.

Her apparent nervousness in playing with an orchestra contributed to a somewhat harsh tone and lack of rubato touch in the lyric passages.

WINNER

In spite of technical insecurity, LeAnn Toth, violinist winner in the string division, performed St. Saen's "Introduction and Fandango" with maturity.

Her full round tone and the small interpretive refinements showed the creative influence of her teacher, Mischa Mishakoff.

The broad colorful "Introduction and Wedding Procession" from "Le Coq d'Or" by Rimsky-Korsakoff was an interesting and exotic change of pace for the orchestra.

Mr. Resnick's fine control of wind and percussion, on most occasions, was made obvious when, in excerpts from "Music Man," he pulled out all the stops and let them take over in a noisy, joyful conclusion.

The orchestra's final concert of the season, which will feature Skitch Henderson will be heard at Meadow Brook's Baldwin Pavilion May 26.

Now sweep doubt a redistribution of fat at the arms forward-upward until middle age. Even scientists do they are in front of you, palms facing you and fists still clenched.

Many people blame it on men- opause when the output of the female hormone, estrogen, less- ens. However, when this loss is replaced by administering estro- gen, it is not slimming. This may even increase weight be- cause it encourages fluid reten- tion. Also, men are subject to the middle age spread just as women are.

The most usual change is dis- tribution which shows in the thickening of the waistline and fatty deposits on the abdomen. Also, many women find that their thighs suddenly bulge or back. Then cut out the sleeves leaving only a strap over the shoulders.

Presidential Candidates Appear 'In a Tie'

Myron H. Ackerman, president of The Men's Tie Foundation, announced that the Democratic and Republican candidates for President of the United States are sure to begin their presidential barnstorming in a tie.

With this year's presidential election being the most closely watched contest the country has ever had, the foundation is presenting each candidate with a wardrobe of fashionable and attractive neckties to help enhance his sartorial image. In this age of mass media this is the most important. Not only our own voting population but the entire world is watching the daily move of each of the announced candidates.

"WITH IT" "Knowing politics isn't enough these days. One also has to be an expert on the psychological import of the most appropriate attire for specific occasions," says Ackerman. "Veteran politicians will tell you that being properly attired is an important part of the total image and therefore, a strong vote getter. "The days of politicians wearing gimmick costumes and Indian headaddresses are gone. The image the candidate must relate to his public is that of being responsible, alert and conscientious.

"One can place confidence in those who reflect their assurance through good grooming."

The neckwear worn by most of the candidates falls mainly into the categories of silk stripe variations, conservative patterns, mubby weaves for the casual-outdoor look and solids in a variety of handsome, but usually "quiet" colors. The neckwear wardrobe presentation will encompass these favorites in the latest width, style and shape.

These ties will coordinate with black, brown, blue and grey, which are the basic colors most politicians wear in their ver-

tile wardrobes for campaigning engagements such as;

• TV Appearances — Stripes are used most often for television audiences. Although color is now widely in use there must also be consideration for the millions of viewers who are watching on black and white sets.

Knowing a necktie with a subdued pattern or stripe comes across camera with a rather bland or weak impression, politicians give special attention to their neckwear selection before going "on camera."

• College Campus Groups — Stripes prevail as the favorite of the collegiates and wisely the politicians follow suit.

• Outdoor Rallies — A brighter

color or sharper pattern is necessary for the "out in the open" mood and "regular guy" effect.

• Strategy and Fund Raising Meetings — Solid color or center motif neckties imply the very conservative mood which these get-togethers suggest. A serious sartorial tone helps to get the message across at this time and occasion.

• Ladies' Groups — Patterned neckwear is a favorite with the ladies and is the natural choice when it's... One Man, Alone... before all the feminine voters.

• Small Group Appearances — The nubby weaves come into their own and give the casual, intimate, but informal air.

• Formal Affairs — Of course, it's as specified, white tie and tails or black tie and tuxedo. And then there is an endless variety of whistle stopping, picnic hopping and "happenings," each occasion requiring a different tie mood.

The first recipients of the tie wardrobe will be Richard M. Nixon from the Republican party, and Eugene McCarthy and Robert F. Kennedy from the Democrats. Further presentations will be made as other candidates announce themselves.

Even though politically the Democratic Donkey and the Republican Elephant are polls apart The Men's Tie Foundation has both parties tied together in sartorial harmony through the presentation of a neckwear wardrobe of equal ties to each of the announced Presidential candidates.

Dogcatcher's Tip:
'Don't Be Afraid'

STOW, Ohio (AP) — "You just bring in the dog with kind words," declares Mrs. Danae Nigh, 31-year-old mother of three and Stow's new woman dogcatcher.

Mrs. Nigh, who answers complaint calls and patrols the streets looking for strays, carries an aerosol can of dog repellent but so far hasn't had to use it. "The whole secret is not to be afraid of dogs," she says.

But besides the sweet talk, she uses a rope with a hook on the end and handles it like a leash. If there are a number of dogs in a pack, she captures the female first and ties her to the truck, then goes after the males.

Robert Hills Repeat Vows

Newlyweds, the Robert R. Hills (nee Mary Helen Unbehaun) were feted Saturday at the Rotunda Country Inn, prior to their departure for a wedding trip to Cape Cod.

The daughter of the Charles W. Unbehauns of Orchard Lake and son of Mrs. Charles C. Hill of Birmingham and the late Mr. Hill were married earlier that morning in the chapel of Orchard Lake Community Church.

Carrying a bouquet of Stephanotis, white chrysanthemums and pink roses, the bride was attired in a wool day-length sheath. She was attended by Peggie Spicer.

Winton Leaym was best man with Raymond Hill and Charles Unbehaun as ushers.

Argentina's population doubled during its heaviest period of immigration from Europe, between 1895 and 1914.

The engagement of their daughter, Jacqueline Kay, to Johnny Robert Redd, is announced by the Stanley Fikes of Cloverton Street. They will wed May 25. Parents of the prospective bridegroom are the Robert Redds of Coats Road, Orion Township.

The George Jacobs of Beaudette Street announce the engagement of her daughter, Dannie L. Thompson, to Edward Stephens, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Stephens of Branch Street. August vows are slated. Miss Thompson's fiancé is a freshman at Lawrence Institute of Technology.

Mr. and Mrs. Dean Leitch of Pauline Street announce the engagement of her daughter, Karen Dawn Wilcoz, to Orey Frank Gadoway. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Orey Gadoway of Saranac, N.Y. The couple, who will wed Aug. 18, attends Andrews University, Berrien Springs.

Wide Variety in Art Forms for All Tastes

What is contemporary art? Is it huge soup cans or geometric shapes? Or is it paintings by Picasso, Mondrian, or Klee? More important, will contemporary art fit into your home?

The Picture and Frame Institute answers a resounding yes to all these questions. Contemporary art is bigger-than-life pictures of everyday items, and it is abstract designs. It is also true-to-life paintings of landscapes, still-lives, and people by famous artists and less well-known ones.

Contemporary art is so varied that you're sure to find examples to suit your home and taste, and reproductions are available at prices to fit any budget.

When choosing contemporary pictures for the home, select pictures that appeal to you whether color, subject, or mood of the picture influences your choice.

While pictures should blend with room decor, they need not be from the same period as furnishings. Contemporary pictures are suitable in any room setting, so long as they blend with colors already present in the room. Mats and frames provide the link between pictures and furnishings.

Put Tools in Order for Spring Cleaning

You'll have to bow to neglecting your courage, check, dustion soon and spring clean, your tools. Get rid of those that in the meantime, while col- are work-worn, for they're a waste of your time and energy. Those still in their prime should be refurbished.

Now here's a check list to guide you.

There are two kinds of brooms: one made of fiber and one made of broomcorn. The fiber model costs more but lasts longer. If you've been storing your broom, bristle side down, bristles are bowed which cuts down on their efficiency.

Invest in a new one and then store it hanging from a nail or propped in a corner, handle end down. Help prolong the life of the bristles by giving them a quick dunk in a bucket of water occasionally.

RENEW MOP
Don't be fooled by the appearance of your mop. Most mops which are made of yarn are long-lived and unless they're shedding, badly are easily reconditioned. Just soak overnight in a bucket of hot water laced with a pinch of detergent and a cup of washing soda.

The washing soda emulsifies greasy, waxy or oily accumulations, so following a morning-after rinse your mop will look like new. Hang by the handle to dry. Trim any stray ends of yarn so you won't splash baseboards when mopping floors.

Still the best dust and polishing cloths are the remains of old wool dresses and shirts. Next best are soft cottons, salvaged from diapers and T-shirts.

Since these are often hard to come by in this age of synthetic fabrics, reclaim whatever you have on hand by soaking them overnight in the washing soda and detergent solution and rinsing them out next morning.

Brushes are important because they'll gather and hold dust instead of scattering it. See that they start off clean by treating them to a brief washing soda soak. Rinse and shake to straighten the bristles or fibers.

Brushes twisted in wire should be hung to dry; those set in wood blocks should be dried with bristle side down so the water won't soak into the wood. All should be hung on hooks when drying.

And here's a remedy for shedding bristles. Apply lacquer to the base of the brush with an oil can and then let the lacquer harden.

Make sure you have plenty of sponges on hand. Unless used to clean rough surfaces, they'll give you long and dependable service with a minimum amount of care.

And one last checkpoint. If you have only one pail, do invest in a second, so that you'll have one for the cleaning solution and one for fresh rinse water. It'll save you a lot of steps.

UM Alumnae to Hear Speaker on 'Retardation'

Dr. William Cruikshank of University of Michigan and former Birmingham resident, will be the speaker at this year's final meeting of Birmingham Alumnae of University of Michigan.

The director of the University's new Institute for the Study of Mental Retardation will speak on "Learning Disabilities and their Implications."

The 12:30 p.m. luncheon meeting on Tuesday will take place in the Birmingham home of Mrs. Robert Reld with Mrs. F. A. Henny and her committee serving.

Try Tuna Trick

Try this quick tuna surprise sandwich for lunch. Prepare frozen prebaked waffles according to package directions. Spread tuna salad on each waffle and one for fresh rinse water. It'll save you a lot of steps. Broil about 2 minutes or until cheese is melted.

Frills and Furbelows Are Tops in Fashion

Not since the days of Scarlett O'Hara has frilliness been so in fashion.

In fact, this summer, girls will be girls again after several seasons of wearing psychedelic Mod dresses in box-like shapes and shiny fabrics. Now the fashion word is "frills."

Ruffles and lace and soft-air fabrics will be much in evidence on spring and summer cottons. The National Cotton Council reports that frills and such show up on date dresses, mid-calf length formals and

Japanese Mat Inspires Idea

Interior designers have turned to the Japanese Tatami mat for their latest inspiration. The Japanese sleep on the floor on their mats.

In the Americanized version, a low platform is built in the bedroom and covered with the same carpet used on the floor. The platform is then topped with a latex foam mattress, which is resilient and comfortable even without springs. It makes an elegant, different looking bedroom display.

3rd Ship Runs Aground in Cement Firm Channel

ALPENA (UPI) — The 525-ton coal from Toledo, Ohio, to the tug freighter Fred A. Manki cement company, ran aground in the Huron Portland Cement Co. channel. The Manki was aground in Wednesday afternoon, the third almost the same spot where the ship to touch bottom in the U. S. Gypsum ran aground private channel so far this March 30 and the Iglehart went shipping season. aground on April 3. The commercial tug Iglehart was anchored in Amherstburg, was dispatched Thursday Bay today rather than from Amherstburg, Ont., to help attempt to enter the channel free the ship, carrying a load of and become stuck.

Romney Greet's Oil, Gas Men

DETROIT (AP) — Gov. George Romney welcomes oil and gas production men from eight states and Canada today for a three-day meeting of the Eastern District of the American Petroleum Institute. Stated to address the group along with Romney are Frank N. Icard of New York, president of the Institute, and Harold M. McClure of Alma, president of the Independent Petroleum Association of America.

People in the News

By the Associated Press
For 62 years, in positions ranging from bus boy to maître d'hôtel, Peter Tambini served the members of the New York Lawyers Club. On Wednesday the members served him.
The occasion was Tambini's retirement. He and his wife sat in the club's handsome, two-story dining room as Harold R. Medina, 80-year-old retired judge of the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, and Whitney North Seymour Sr., former president of the American Bar Association, equipped themselves with napkins and a tray and waited on the table. Milton M. Bergerman, club president, noticed there was a quorum of the organization's board of governors among the 250 persons attending the luncheon in Tambini's honor. A quick vote was held, and Tambini, 76, went back to his home in Brooklyn a lifetime honorary Lawyers Club member.

Elliot D. Moorman is the first Negro to be elected class president in the 221-year history of Princeton University, Princeton, N.J.
The 18-year-old freshman from Newark was chosen to head next fall's sophomore class, it was announced yesterday.

Citizens Panel in Detroit to Study Police Recruiting

LANSING (AP) — Detroit Mayor Jerome Cavanagh said Wednesday his administration has set up a citizens' committee to study the city's police recruiting policies with a view toward getting more Negro officers.
He said the committee would review recruiting policies, including "the relevance of written tests" now given police applicants and the fact that police training often does not start until several weeks after the applicant has passed the test.

Cavanagh said Detroit's present proportion of Negro policemen — about 5 1/2 per cent — is "significantly below" those of some other major cities.

He said the committee would review recruiting policies, including "the relevance of written tests" now given police applicants and the fact that police training often does not start until several weeks after the applicant has passed the test.

Suburb Gun Buyers Not Hotshot Potshots

BR DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — One upshot of the recent riots here is a wave of gun-buying out in the suburbs.

Being a suburbanite myself, I view this armaments rush with mixed emotions (two parts apprehension and one part consternation).

I certainly wouldn't say a suburbanite shouldn't buy a gun to protect himself, his family, his home and his rhododendrons.

There is always a possibility that violence will erupt again and that some of it will spill over into the suburbs. Before a suburbanite moves to arm himself, however, he should consider some statistics I have compiled. Then he should carefully weigh the potential threat against the hazards of gun ownership.

CHANCES REMOTE

These figures are necessarily approximate, being based primarily on things I have read and my own observation of suburban life. They do show, however, that the chances of a household gun being used for the purpose for which it was purchased are rather remote.

If past performance charts remain valid, out of every 100 suburbanites who purchase a gun the following percentages will prevail:

- 76 per cent will forget to buy bullets.
- 28 per cent will buy the wrong size bullets.
- 33 per cent will forget to load the gun.
- 29 per cent will forget how to load it.
- 18 per cent will be too nervous to load it.
- 14 per cent will forget where they put the bullets.
- 41 per cent will discover that their wives have put the bullets somewhere else.
- 9 per cent will forget where they put the gun.
- 37 per cent will forget how to release the safety catch.

- 9 per cent will use the gun to frighten away intruders.
- 3 per cent will use the gun to frighten away strange noises they thought were intruders.
- 3 per cent will actually fire the gun.
- 2 per cent will miss.
- 1 per cent will hit the wrong person.
- 4 per cent will accidentally shoot themselves while cleaning the gun.
- 2 per cent will be delivered shot by their wives.
- 25 per cent will sell the gun a year later for 80 per cent less than they paid for it.

Hughes Gaming Licenses OK'd

CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP) — Howard Hughes has cleared his first hurdle toward in becoming Nevada's biggest gambling casino operator.

The State Gaming Control Board unanimously recommended Wednesday that two new gambling licenses for the industrialist be approved.

The applications for Hughes to buy the Stardust Hotel-Casino for $30.7 million and the lease of the gaming operation at the Silver Slipper for $5.3 million will come before the state gaming commission for final action April 30.

One member of the board, Keith Campbell, said it would be a near-monopoly of casinos.

If the commission approves the licenses, Hughes will own six casinos which account for 14.3 per cent of Nevada's gross gambling revenue—the amount lost by casino patrons at slot machines and gambling tables.

New Caledonia Attracts Scientists and Sightseers

WASHINGTON — Biologists view New Caledonia. "Where can I find a better life? All the weekends on the boat, fishing; the beautiful seas and the sunshine; the wonderful climate."

Halfway between Fiji and Australia, New Caledonia echoes the French Riviera. Noumea, the capital, is called the "Paris of the Pacific," with its French boutiques and sidewalk cafes.

Food-loving residents take three-hour lunch breaks, enjoying the island specialty — flying fox bats cooked in red wine.

Travelers are also discovering the diverse charms of New Caledonia and its nearby dependencies — the Isle of Pines, Ouvéa, Lifou, and Mare.

Though New Caledonia attracts visitors today, it once young Frenchmen have settled repelled them, writes Olaf Ruhen in the National Geographic's new book, "Isles too many pressures," explained of the South Pacific."

Scientists aren't the only ones who consider New Caledonia fascinating, the National Geographic Society says. Many young Frenchmen have settled repelled them, writes Olaf Ruhen in the National Geographic's new book, "Isles too many pressures," explained of the South Pacific."

Dunk Raised Doughnuts in Syrup

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

DEAR CECILY: According to my father, no one in the world can make raised doughnuts like Doris Taylor of Derby Line, Vermont. When the spirit moves her, Doris whips up a batch of doughnuts and delivers them to Daddy (her neighbor) with the greeting, "Thought it about time you had some raised doughnuts."

When she was young, Doris's favorite dessert was her grandmother's raised doughnuts — crispy on the outside and light on the inside. And her favorite way of eating them was the Vermont way — dunking them in maple syrup.

"I was always getting the dickens for dribbling syrup on the table, but it was worth it!" Doris says.

Doris has been using the family recipe for doughnuts for years and years. When her daughter was younger, she would whip up batches of them for teen-age after-skating parties.

I'm sending you her recipe because I think it deserves wide fame.

Vermonters eat these doughnuts right after they're fried — no reheating the next day. But Daddy, being a displaced Bostonian, is very happy with reheated doughnuts. In fact he thinks they taste even better the next day. — Miss M.

DEAR MISS M: We tried Doris Taylor's recipe and her doughnuts were a huge success at our house. But no dribbling on the table!

We supplied out eaters with big paper plates for the maple syrup dunking and clean-up time was easy. Many thanks to you for passing along this fine recipe. — C.B.

DORIS TAYLOR'S RAISED DOUGHNUTS

2 cups milk, scalded
1/3 cup sugar
1 tablespoon salt
2 envelopes active dry yeast
1/2 cup warm water
1 egg, slightly beaten
1/2 cup shortening, melted and cooled
7 cups (about) sifted regular flour
Shortening for deep-fat frying
Into the scalded milk, off heat, stir the sugar and salt to dissolve; cool to lukewarm. In a large mixing bowl dissolve the yeast in the warm water; stir in the lukewarm milk mixture, the egg and the melted 1/2 cup shortening. Gradually stir in enough of the flour to make a soft dough.

Turn out onto a well-floured board or prepared pastry cloth. Knead for 5 minutes. Place dough in a lightly greased bowl; turn to grease top.

Cover with a clean towel. Let rise in a warm place until doubled — about 1 hour.

Turn out onto a lightly floured board or prepared pastry cloth. With prepared stockinet-covered rolling pin, roll out to 1-inch thickness. Cut out with a floured doughnut cutter (2 1/2 or 2 3/4 inches); reroll leavings of dough and cut out. Leave cut-out "holes" as is.

Sesame Toast Is Crunchy, Tasty

Hard to stop nibbling this toast — it's that good!

SESAME TOAST

1 loaf (1 pound) firm type thinly sliced bread (20 slices)
1/4 pound (1 stick) butter, at room temperature
Sesame seeds
Do not remove crusts from bread; use ends of loaf. Spread 1 side of each slice with the soft butter; sprinkle each slice with about 1/4 teaspoon sesame seeds; cut each slice into 4 layers on 2 large cookie sheets. Bake 1 sheet at a time on middle rack of a 325-degree oven until toast is crisp and browned — about 25 minutes. Cool; store in a tightly covered tin box.

Cover and let rise in a warm place until doubled — about 1 hour.
Fry doughnuts and "holes" in deep hot (375 degrees) shortening, without crowding and turning once, until cooked through and brown — 2 to 3 minutes. Drain on brown paper towels. Makes about 2 1/2 dozen doughnuts and 2 1/2 dozen "holes."
Serve at once with plenty of maple syrup for dunking — the doughnuts need the maple syrup because they are not sweet.

YANKEE DOUGHNUTS — They get dunked in maple syrup. Have paper plates on hand and stacks of paper napkins for dribblers!

Thick Dressing Is Pectin Based

Imitation Store-Bought Dressing
1 package (1 1/2 ounces) fruit pectin (the kind used for jams and jellies)
1/4 cup sugar
2 teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon dry mustard
1/2 teaspoon paprika
1/2 cup cider vinegar
1 1/2 cups salad (not olive) oil
1 can (10 1/2 ounces) condensed tomato soup, undiluted
1 teaspoon minced onion
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1 clove garlic (peeled, halved and inserted with a toothpick)

Into a medium mixing bowl, in the order given, turn all the ingredients except the garlic. With a rotary beater (hand or electric) beat until thoroughly blended.

Turn into a quart jar and add garlic. Chill. Garlic may be left overnight, then removed. Makes about 3 1/2 cups. (This dressing will not separate.)

MARKET BASKET

WELSH RAREBIT SANDWICHES — Using one can Cheddar cheese soup, prepare Cheddar cheese sauce as directed on can. Place 2 tomato slices on each of 6 pieces of buttered hot toast. Sprinkle with Bae'O's (all-vegetable bontrae bits with bacon flavor). Pour cheese sauce over each sandwich. Sprinkle with paprika or garnish with parsley. Makes 6 servings.

Avocado Halves Are Good as Appetizer Course

A tangy sauce makes a perfect accompaniment for avocado.

First-Course Avocado

1 medium ripe avocado, chilled
1 tablespoon olive oil
1/2 tablespoon each cider vinegar and chili sauce
1/4 teaspoon salt
Pinch of white pepper
Just before serving, cut avocado in half lengthwise; do not peel. Twist apart and remove seed; place each half on a bread-and-butter plate.
In a small container, with a fork, thoroughly beat together the remaining ingredients; spoon dressing — 1 tablespoon for each — into avocado cavities.
Serve at once with teaspoons for scooping out pulp and dressing. (A half-tablespoon now comes in a measuring spoon set; if this isn't at hand, remember that 1 1/2 teaspoons is the equivalent of 1/2 tablespoon.)

CALIFORNIA SALAD—California is salad country and this salad is made with the state's own artichokes stuffed with green peas and mushrooms. It could be the main course of a light meal.

Stuff Potatoes, Keep Chilled Until Dinner

Home-stuffed potatoes usually get a warm welcome.

Home-Staffed Potatoes
6 large baking potatoes (3½ pounds)
¾ pound butter
1 container (8 ounces) commercial sour cream
1 teaspoon salt and ¼ teaspoon white pepper
Paprika

Bake potatoes in a 400-degree oven until tender—about 1 hour.

Cut in half lengthwise; scoop out pulp reserving shells; put pulp through ricer into a large bowl; at once mix in butter until melted, then sour cream, salt and pepper. Spoon back into shells. Flatten and ripple with flat side of fork tines; sprinkle with paprika. Cover and refrigerate.

Reheat in 400-degree oven until piping hot and browned—30 to 45 minutes. Makes 12 small servings.

Salad of Cooked Peas Fills Artichoke Cups

California is Salad Country and because artichokes are grown in such abundance along the California coast, an ordinary California salad might well have an artichoke in it. An artichoke, after all, is the kind of beautiful, imposing and sizable vegetable that epicureans are made of.

ARTICHOKES STUFFED

WITH GREEN PEA SALAD

4 artichokes, prepared as directed and chilled
1½ cups mayonnaise
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon each; pepper, dill weed, oregano, dry mustard
1 package (10 ounces) frozen green peas with sauteed mushrooms, cooked according to package directions, drained and cooled.
2 hard-cooked eggs, chopped
¼ cup sweet pickle relish

2 tablespoons chopped onion pimiento strips
Combine mayonnaise, lemon juice and seasonings; set aside. Combine peas and mushrooms, chopped egg, pickle relish and onion. Add enough mayonnaise dressing to moisten, about ½ cup.

Stuff the prepared artichokes. Chill until ready to serve. Garnish with strips of pimiento and serve with remaining mayonnaise dressing. Makes 4 servings.

To Prepare artichokes: Wash. Basic Cooking Directions artichokes. Cut off stems at base and remove small bottom leaves. If desired, trim tips of leaves and cut off about 1 inch from top of artichokes.

Stand artichokes upright in deep saucepan large enough to hold snugly. Add ¼ teaspoon salt for each artichoke and 2 to 3 inches boiling water. Cover and boil gently 35 to 45 minutes or until base can be pierced easily with fork. (Add a little more boiling water if needed.)

Turn artichokes upside down to drain. If artichokes are to be stuffed, gently spread leaves and remove choke (thistle portion) from center of artichokes with metal spoon.

Fill Tiny Cups to Make Tarts

Afternoon tea, as you can see, Means tempting foods and friends to see. A pleasant custom of England old, Filled with conversation and recipes unfold.

Lemon Cheese Tarts

40 vanilla wafers, finely rolled (about 1¼ cups crumbs)
¼ cup butter or margarine, softened
Grated rind from one lemon
1 (8-ounce) package cream cheese, softened
½ cup granulated sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
1 egg
1 tablespoon lemon juice
12 maraschino cherries, well-drained

Blend together first two ingredients with half of lemon rind. Reserve 3 tablespoons crumbs mixture; divide remainder into 12 standard-sized cake pans. Press firmly against bottom and sides with a spoon.

To make filling: cream together cheese, sugar and salt. Add egg; beat well. Beat in lemon juice; stir in remaining rind. Spoon into lined cake pans; sprinkle with reserved crumbs.

Bake in a preheated moderate oven (350 degrees) 50 to 55 minutes or until golden. Turn off heat; cool in oven 20 minutes. Cool completely in pan on wire rack.

Remove paper liners and garnish with maraschino cherries. Makes 12 (2¼x1½-inch) tarts.

CRISPY SAUSAGE CASSEROLE—Crispy Sausage Casserole is a quick and easy meal that combines flavorful fully cooked smoked sausage links with cheese and macaroni. It's so pretty, so good and costs so little.

Put Smoked Sausage in Quick Casserole

Casseroles are the delight of busy homemakers, the amateur chef or any cook in a hurry. Tempting Crispy Sausage Casserole is one of the best. It's simple to fix, failure-proof and economical.

Crispy Sausage Casserole is a great short-cut dinner. It's made from ingredients available in most kitchens and fully cooked smoked sausage links or frankfurters. It's a hearty casserole with a sizzling good flavor, too.

A crisp, refreshing fruit salad goes best with a piping hot Crispy Sausage Casserole. Try pineapple and apple slices or crisp salad greens with a favorite dressing.

Crispy Sausage Casserole

½ cup chopped onion
½ cup chopped green pepper
1 small clove garlic, minced
¼ cup butter or margarine
1 can (10½-ounce) condensed cream of mushroom soup
2 cups shredded pasteurized process Swiss or Cheddar cheese
¼ cup milk

1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
2 packages (¾ pound each) smoked sausage links (or 1½ pounds frankfurters cut into thirds)
1 package (7-ounce) elbow macaroni, cooked and drained
½ cup corn flakes

Saute onion, green pepper and garlic in 2 tablespoons butter or margarine until tender. Add soup, cheese, milk and Worcestershire sauce; stir and heat until cheese melts.

Add remaining sausage and macaroni to cheese sauce; mix. Pour into greased shallow 2 quart casserole. Top with reserved sausage.

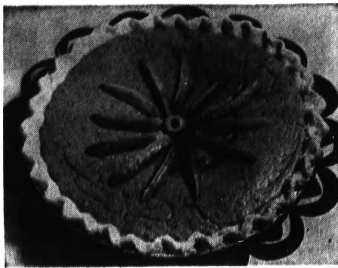

Melt remaining 2 tablespoons butter or margarine; add corn flakes and stir until evenly coated. Sprinkle corn flakes around edge of casserole.

Place in moderate oven (375 degrees); heat to serving temperature, about 30 minutes.

Storage Affects Keeping Quality of Potatoes

Home storage methods can affect the quality of potatoes. A few days exposure to light will cause the potato's surface to turn green and the discoloration may cause a slightly bitter flavor.

The experts recommend storage in a cool, dark place—not the refrigerator. For long term storage (over two weeks), the temperature should be 45 to 50 degrees Fahrenheit; for short term storage, 50 to 70 degrees, advises the New York State College of Agriculture and Home Economics.

DEVILED ROUND—This appetizer brimming with spicy deviled ham and other handy ingredients is an all-around family snack.

Deviled Ham Stars in Pie

The season for our great American pastime of snacking is always open! Awaiting tryout now for your snack team is... Deviled-Round. It's a delicious sizzler made with American ease, Italian flavor, and French flair.

When hungry snackers appear after school, dance, or party give this tasty recipe a try. Handy have-around ingredients make a Deviled-Round. Fill a pie crust pizza shell with an egg smooth quiche mixture of canned soup, spicy deviled ham, and a touch of oregano. Then bake into a savory-puff, garnish, cut and serve warm.

Deviled-Round
1 10-oz. pkg. pie crust mix
5 eggs, slightly beaten
3 4/5 oz. cans deviled ham
3/4 cup condensed tomato soup
3/4 cup condensed cheese soup
1/2 teaspoon dried oregano leaves
1/4 cup cornflake crumbs
Prepare pie crust according to package directions. Roll out on floured surface to a 15" circle. Fit into a 12" (5/8" deep) pizza pan, fold edge to form a standing rim.

Generously prick bottom with a fork. Bake at 425 degrees F. for 15 minutes to brown, cool slightly to firm pastry.

Stir remaining ingredients together until smooth and evenly blended, turn into baked shell. Bake at 350 degrees F. about 35 minutes until firm.

Cool slightly, serve in wedges while warm. Makes 12-14 servings. Garnish with pickle slices, olives, green pepper or cherry tomatoes.

Lemon Leaves Used in Food

Plant a few lemon seeds in a pot of rich dirt and you will have new house plants that are not only pretty to look at, but flavorful too.

For instance, tie a few leaves in a muslin bag and add to appeasement while cooking. Gives a zesty, spicy flavor that is truly appreciated. And a leaf or two gives a delicate, delicious flavor to white cake. Place them in the bottom of the pan and pour the cake batter on top of them.

Decorating Table With Fruit Always OK

Next time you pass the produce department in your local market, take a look at the latest in home accessories.

Fresh citrus fruit is the newest rage in home decorating. The colors are compatible with nearly every decorator color and will complement virtually any interior motif.

A favorite fresh citrus centerpiece or arrangement can be duplicated almost any season of the year.

Combine fresh oranges, lemons, grapefruit, and tangerines with a half-dozen Bird of Paradise for an arrangement which could appropriately be called a "California garden centerpiece."

Another suggestion is an informal arrangement in a basket or bowl. This way the fruit can still be eaten without disturbing the decoration.

There are as many ways of creating home excitement with fresh citrus as there are arrangements of flowers. The citrus also provides a clean, refreshing fragrance as well as color.

Put sunshine into your home decor as well as your diet! The 622-foot Tower of the Americas is designed to accommodate 1,750 HemisFair visitors every hour.

Pretty Spring Desserts Are Always on the Light Side

Pontiac Press Food Editor

Springtime calls for desserts that are light. Just as we want fruit cake during winter holiday periods, so we plan and enjoy more frivolous desserts now.

Did you ever hear of Profiteroles? That's the French word for cream puffs. If you have made them, you know how easy the recipe is. And you never have to worry about having too many for they keep beautifully in a tight container or in the freezer.

These puffs are filled with a marvelously smooth coffee ice cream and topped with a warm or cold mocha sauce.

PROFITEROLES WITH MOCHA SAUCE

1/4 cup butter or margarine
1/2 cup boiling water
1/2 cup all-purpose flour
2 eggs
Coffee Frozen Custard
Mocha Sauce

Put butter and water in small saucepan. Bring to boiling point. Combine flour and salt; add all at once. Mix well. Cook, stirring constantly, until mixture forms smooth, compact mass. Remove from heat.

Add eggs, one at a time, beating vigorously after each addition. Drop by teaspoons well apart on greased baking sheet.

Bake at 400 degrees for 30 minutes or until golden brown and set. Cool. Makes 3 dozen tiny pastry puffs, enough for 12 servings.

For Profiteroles, cut pastry puffs in half crosswise. Put together with Coffee Frozen Custard. Serve with Mocha Sauce and puffs of whipped cream or frozen whipped topping.

Coffee Frozen Custard:

1/4 cup sugar
1 tablespoon instant coffee powder
Dash of salt
1/2 cup water
1/4 cup light corn syrup
2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
1/2 cup cold water
2 cups instant non-fat dry milk crystals

Put butter and water in small saucepan. Bring to boiling point. Combine flour and salt; add all at once. Mix well. Cook, stirring constantly, until mixture forms smooth, compact mass. Remove from heat.

together sugar, instant coffee powder, salt, 1/2 cup water and corn syrup in saucepan. Bring to a boil and boil 2 minutes.

In a cup, sprinkle gelatin over 1/2 cup cold water to soften. Stir instant milk crystals into whole milk; blend in softened gelatin and hot coffee syrup. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until gelatin dissolves.

Remove from heat. Stir in flavoring. Turn into refrigerator trays and freeze until firm. Beat until smooth. Spoon into pastry puffs.

Mocha Sauce:

Melt 4 squares (1 oz. each) unsweetened chocolate in 1/2 cup strong coffee. Add 1 1/2 cups undiluted evaporated milk slowly; stir until slightly thickened and well blended. Add 1/2 teaspoon salt and 1/2 cup sugar (to taste); stir until sugar dissolves.

Remove from heat; stir in 2 teaspoons vanilla. Serve warm or cold. Makes 12 servings.

BERRY PATCH CHEESE PIE

1 1/4 cups fine vanilla wafer crumbs
6 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted
1 package (8-ounce) cream cheese
1/4 cup sugar
1 No. 2 can (2 cups) strawberry pie filling 1/2 package (1 1/2 teaspoons) gelatin
2 tablespoons cold water

Combine crumbs and melted butter or margarine; press firmly onto bottom and sides of buttered 9-inch pie plate. Chill till set.

Meanwhile soften cream cheese and whip until smooth. Add sugar and fold in strawberry pie filling, reserving a few berries for the top of pie.

Soften gelatin in 2 tablespoons cold water and heat over water until dissolved. Cool. Add to strawberry mixture; spoon into chilled crust. Garnish with reserved strawberries. Chill till serving.

A new brownie mix makes delicious refrigerator cookies. The package contains a separate envelope of coconut frosting mix which becomes an ice cream sauce in the following recipe.

GERMAN CHOCOLATE REFRIGERATOR COOKIES

1 package German chocolate brownie mix with coconut frosting mix
1 egg
1 to 2 teaspoons water
1/2 cup finely chopped nuts

Mix Brownie Mix, egg, water and nuts thoroughly. Shape into roll, 9 inches long and 2 inches in diameter. Wrap in waxed paper, chill until firm, at least 1 hour.

Heat oven to 350 degrees. With sharp knife, cut cookies into thick slices. Place on ungreased baking sheet. Bake 6 to 8 minutes. Cool slightly before removing from baking sheet.

If desired, serve cookies with ice cream. Spoon Coconut Sauce (below) over ice cream. Makes about 6 dozen cookies.

Coconut Sauce: In small saucepan, heat 1/2 cup light cream; blend in Coconut Sauce. Remove from pans and cool.

How long is it since you've made cupcakes? Delicately flavored orange cupcakes with pastel frosting and gumdrop flowers become part of the party decorations.

Make the "flowers" ahead of time, for they actually improve with age.

NOSEGAY CUPCAKES

1/2 cup butter
1 cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
1 teaspoon grated orange peel
2 eggs
2 cups sifted enriched flour
1 tablespoon baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup milk
1/4 cup orange juice
1 box (5 1/2 oz.) fluffy white frosting mix, prepared Food coloring
24 Gumdrop Flowers and Leaves

Cream butter and sugar together until light and fluffy. Blend in vanilla and orange peel. Beat in eggs, one at a time. Sift together dry ingredients.

Thoroughly blend flour mixture into creamed mixture alternately with milk and orange juice, beginning and ending with flour. Pour into paper-lined muffin cups 3/4 full.

Bake in preheated 350 degree oven 25 to 30 minutes, or until done. Remove from pans and cool.

Tint prepared frosting with food coloring. Frost cupcakes on each cupcake.

Invert 6-inch diameter bowl on serving plate and frost the bowl with remaining frosting. Arrange cupcakes over frosted bowl, placing close together.

Gumdrop Flowers and Leaves: 24 large fruit-flavored gumdrops

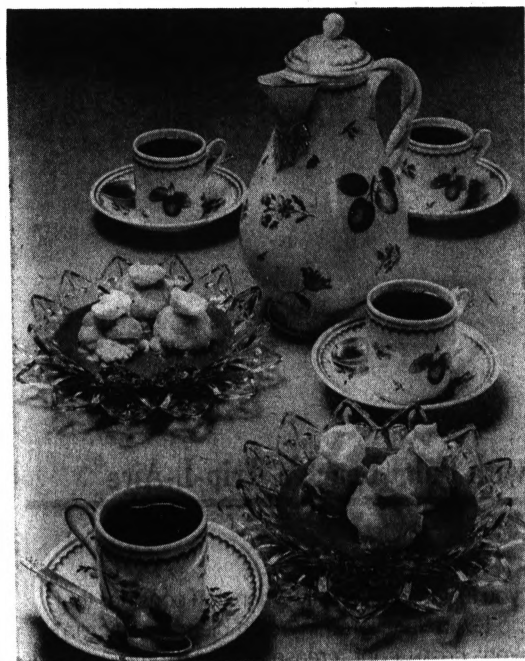

Sugar

Roll out gumdrops on sugared surface, into thin strips, about 7-inches long and 1-inch wide. Coil into rose shape, pinching one side together. Secure with half a toothpick. Roll out green gumdrops and cut into petal shapes.

Remove from pans and cool. Tint prepared frosting with food coloring. Frost cupcakes on each cupcake. Invert 6-inch diameter bowl on serving plate and frost the bowl with remaining frosting. Arrange cupcakes over frosted bowl, placing close together.

Now another Fantastik!

New aerosol cleans like regular Fantastik, disinfects, too!

Cream Eggs, Add Nuts

If you've been staring at a bowl of psychedelic - hued eggs and wondering how to use them, take heart... here's a delicious way to put them to use.

Prepare a sauce using canned cream of chicken soup thinned with milk or cream. Spice the sauce with curry powder and add the shelled, chopped, hard-cooked eggs plus 1/4 cup toasted walnuts for every two eggs. The walnuts provide the extra flavor and crunch!

Serve piping hot over cooked asparagus on thick squares of cornbread.

Beef 'n' Cheese on Waffled Rye

When it's a soup and sandwich luncheon with fresh fruit for dessert, make the sandwich something special by toasting it in your wafflemaker.

Fill slices of round rye bread with a slice of canned corned beef and one of process American cheese, then brush the bread generously with melted butter and pop it into the wafflemaker to take on the characteristic waffle texture.

Serve the savory sandwiches with mugs of your favorite soup. Add crunchy relishes, and let the table centerpiece of fresh fruit be the dessert.

Corned Beef and Cheese Waffles

1 can (12 oz.) corned beef, chilled and sliced
4 slices process American cheese
8 slices rye bread
Melted butter or margarine

Heat waffle iron to same temperature as for waffles. Place a slice of corned beef and one of cheese on 4 slices of bread. Top with remaining bread slices and brush well with melted butter. Bake sandwiches as you would waffles, until browned and cheese is melted, about 5 minutes. Makes 4 servings.

BETTY WHITE

"So now you can buy Fantastik three ways: Regular spray, thrifty refill and new aerosol."

"Ladies, Fantastik Disinfectant Spray Cleaner has all the tremendous cleaning power of regular Fantastik."

"More than that, new aerosol Fantastik contains a disinfectant! So for the bathroom, baby's room, the kitchen—anywhere in the house—you can clean and disinfect at the same time."

Willie Horton Injured in Bengals Loss to Cleveland, 2-0

Tigers Manage Only One Hit Off Tribe Ace

CLEVELAND (AP) — An injury to slugger outfielder Willie Horton overshadowed the end of the Detroit Tigers' nine game winning streak Wednesday night.

The muscular Horton suffered a concussion in a seventh inning collision with shortstop Ray Oyler during Detroit's 2-0 loss at the hands of the Indians. Horton, batting .308 with two homers and eight runs batted in, missed 43 games last year, because of an Achilles heel injury. His loss was a major factor in Detroit's second place finish.

He was to undergo extensive tests today to determine the seriousness of the injury. But it's a sure bet he will not see action in the four-game weekend series with the New York Yankees, starting Friday.

Dr. Eduardo Colgado diagnosed Horton's injury shortly after the powerfully built outfielder was carried from the field on a stretcher following the collision. Dr. Colgado said he detected no fracture in his preliminary examination.

HIT BY PITCHER

Horton slammed into Oyler as both players were chasing down a pop fly off the bat of Indians' pitcher Steve Hargan, who shutout Detroit on one hit.

"I think I hit him with either my shoulder or the back of my head," said Oyler, who was stunned by the collision but stayed in the game. "I'm supposed to go out until he calls me off. I didn't hear anything."

Manager Mayo Smith said he is not blaming anyone.

"It's hard to hear out there," the Detroit manager said. "It's up to the outfielder to catch all the balls he can. The infielder goes back until he hears someone holler."

Hargan, winning his first game after two losses, outdueled Detroit's Joe Spina to post the first one-hitter in the majors this season. It was the first one-hitter Hargan ever pitched.

"I don't think my arm is strong yet," he said. "I'm not able to throw my curve. I only threw a couple all night. You need a curve against left handers."

LONG HIT

Jim Northrup got the lone Detroit hit, leading off in the third inning. Oyer forced Northrup, was sacrificed to second by Spina, and then was picked off by Cleveland catcher Duke Sims.

Dick McAuliffe walked leading off in the seventh but was erased in a double play and Mickey Stanley walked leading off in the eighth, but was left stranded at second.

Cleveland scored its first run in the second when Tony Horton walked and scored all the way from first when McAuliffe threw the ball into left field trying for a doubleplay on Vic Davallio's bouncer.

Hargan scored the other run in the seventh, getting a triple when Horton and Oyler collided. Leon Wagner's pinch single brought him home.

The Tigers were off today and then move on to New York Friday. Earl Wilson or Mickey Lolich will pitch against the Yankees Friday.

Big 10 Race Starts

CHICAGO (AP) — The 73rd Big Ten baseball pennant chase opens this weekend with Michigan State, Ohio State and Minnesota favored in the 90-game race.

Coach Danny Litwhiler of MSU says his team is the best in the last five years because of power, pitching and speed.

"I look for another tight race," he says.

MSU Golfers Trim 'M'

ANN ARBOR (UPI) — Neither rain, nor snow, nor sunny weather over the University of Michigan golf course Wednesday could prevent Michigan State, paced by Dick Hill's low 75, from taking a Big Ten golf match from the Wolverines, 719-730.

INJURED TIGER — Detroit left fielder Willie Horton is carried from the field in Cleveland last night after suffering a concussion in a seventh-inning collision with shortstop Ray Oyler while the two were chasing a short fly ball off the bat of Tribe pitcher Steve Hargan. Oyler remained in the game. Cleveland won, 2-0.

NEW BADGER — Robert Knight, 27, is the new basketball coach at University of Wisconsin. Knight, who compiled a 51-21 record during the past three years at Army, succeeds John Erickson, who is taking general manager post of the Milwaukee team in the National Basketball Association.

Army 'General' With Badger '5'

MADISON, Wis. (UPI) — Wisconsin tapped the Army Wednesday for a general to command its basketball team.

Bob Knight, for three years head coach at the U.S. Military Academy, was the choice of the University of Wisconsin Athletic Board to succeed John Erickson, who resigned to become general manager of the new Milwaukee National Basketball Association team.

Knight, 27, was one of seven finalists for the job. His Army teams compiled a 51-21 record and were 20-5 last season.

A 1962 graduate of Ohio State University, Knight played three years of varsity basketball, including 1960 when the Buckeyes won the NCAA championship.

Three outstanding anchor men could prove to be the difference in the distance medley relay.

Dave Galloway of Waterford, Jack White of Mt. Clemens and Steve Gonsalvis make their teams favored in this event.

Groves and Ferndale, the overall favorites, have outstanding one mile relay teams, and Ferndale with Bailey Reed could be strong in the 800 relay.

Owen Resigns Post With Catholic League

DETROIT (AP) — Ralph Owen, director of the Detroit Catholic League, largest parochial high school athletic league in the nation, resigned Wednesday, effective in August.

He said he has no immediate plans but never considered the position "a life time job." He has been director since 1961. No successor has been named.

Orioles Down Twins, 7-3

Cold Heats Old Argument

ST. PAUL-MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — An old heated argument about a rigid subject broke out anew Wednesday when the Baltimore Orioles defeated the Minnesota Twins 7-3 in a baseball game with an icy wind.

The topic is nothing new. Virtually every year since Calvin Griffith moved the old Washington Senators here in 1961 and dubbed them the Twins, there has been a warm discussion about how cold it should get before baseball games are postponed.

After postponing Tuesday's Orioles - Twins game here, the Minnesota management decided to play despite the cold.

Players donned thermal underwear and wore windbreakers under their baseball shirts, trying to get some protection from the biting wind.

"I had on everything I could think of, and I still got cold," Twins' outfielder Bob Allison said. "You just shouldn't have to play baseball in this kind of weather."

BRUTAL COLD

"I think the cold affected all of us," Orioles' Manager Hank Bauer said. "It was pretty brutal... that wind was something."

"Your hand is real slick, and you can't grip the ball when it's this cold," Twins' relief pitcher Ron Fernald said.

The game was decided by two things: A two-run triple by Oriole starting pitcher Jim Hardin to highlight a three-run Baltimore sixth which broke a 3-3 tie, and a lucky bounce of the ball that favored the Orioles.

The Twins loaded the bases with two out in the last of the sixth. Bauer brought in Eddie Watt to pitch to Cesar Tovar, and the count went to 2-2. Then Watt uncorked what would have been a wild pitch to let in a run.

But the ball struck a thin stretch of concrete just below the cushioned area on the backstop and bounced right back to catcher Elrod Hendricks, who did not take only a couple of steps in pursuit of the ball. Hendricks had an easy job at the third base runner, Ted Uhlenhuth, at the plate to kill the threat.

The 4th annual Waterford Relays are scheduled for Saturday with 2 schools expected to participate.

The event to be held on the new all-weather grass top track, will begin with the field events at 1:30 p.m. and the running preliminaries at 2:00 p.m.

The finals will begin at 7:00 p.m. with the 800 relays as the first event.

Along with many of the Oakland County schools, non-county entries include Cle, Davison, Flint, Ann Arbor, Farmington, Monroe, Mt. Clemens, Port Huron Northern and Wayne John Glenn.

State Player Enters Golf Quarter-Finals

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP) — All age brackets were represented as the North and South Amateur Golf Tournament moved into quarter-final play today.

Colleagues Jack Lewis (20) of Wake Forest University and Florence, S.C., and Jim St. Germain (21) of Eastern Michigan and Northville, Mich., upheld the prestige of the younger set.

Former champions Bill Hyndman (52) of Huntington Valley, Pa., and Dale Morey (49) of High Point, N.C., and Dr. Ed Updegraff (46) of Tucson, Arizona, were the old guard standard bearers.

Jim Gabrielsen of Atlanta was in a class by himself at 26.

From the intermediate ranks there was Bill Harvey (37) of Greensboro, N.C., and Charlie Harrison (36) of Atlanta.

Each won a pair of rainsoaked matches over the 7,000 yard No. 2 course of the Pinehurst Country Club Wednesday to set up these pairings:

Harvey-St. Germain, Lewis-Morey, Hyndman-Gabrielsen, Updegraff-Harrison.

Seven of the 16 men playing the fourth round Wednesday afternoon had to qualify last Saturday in a special round for non-exempt players. The only one of the seven to survive was St. Germain, playing his first North and South.

St. Germain, says he has been hitting the ball very well and adds "If the putt will drop I'll be tough."

St. Germain on Wednesday defeated Pat Foy Brady of Raleigh, N.C., 1 up

Hyndman beat Stan Thompson of Midland, Mich., and the University of North Carolina, 5 and 4.

THIRD ROUND
Bill Harvey, Pinehurst, N.C., defeated Bob Source, Littleton, Colo., 2 and 1.

Jack Lewis, Wake Forest, N.C., defeated Jim St. Germain, Northville, Mich., 2 and 1.

Bill Hyndman, Huntington Valley, Pa., defeated Pat Foy Brady, Raleigh, N.C., 1 up.

Jim Gabrielsen, Atlanta, Ga., defeated David Cameron, Detroit, 2 and 1.

Ed Updegraff, Tucson, Ariz., defeated Raymond Koppel, Winston-Salem, N.C., 1 up.

Jim St. Germain, Northville, Pa., defeated Stan Thompson, Chapel Hill, N.C., 5 and 4.

Charlie Harrison, Atlanta, Ga., defeated Roger Adams, Harrisonville, Ohio, 4 and 3.

Nelson, Harrisonville, Ohio, 4 and 3. N.C. defeated John Birmingham, Pittsburgh, 4 and 3.

Charles Harrison, Atlanta, Ga., defeated John Farnsworth, Dallas, Texas, 1 up.

Dick Siderover, Winston, Conn., defeated Bobby Koppel, Raleigh, N.C., 1 up.

Oakland Nips Yankees in 11th Inning

OAKLAND (AP) — John Donaldson's two-out single in the 11th inning drove in Bert Campaneris with the winning run Wednesday night as the Oakland Athletics nipped the New York Yankees 4-3.

Campaneris and Reggie Jackson had opened the 11th with walks against reliever Dooley Womack. After Campaneris stole third, Sal Bando forced Jackson. Then Ramon Webster was walked intentionally, loading the bases.

Womack struck out Danny Carter but Donaldson's hit broke it up.

The A's tied the score in the sixth when Rick Monday reached first on an error, raced to third on pinch hitter Floyd Robinson's single and came in when Jackson and Bando walked. That erased a 3-2 Yankee edge built in the top half of the sixth. Mickey Mantle, who had homered for New York's first run, walked and raced to third on Tom Tresh's double. Then Roy White drove both runs in with a first-pitch single against reliever Tony Pierce.

HURLS 2-HITTER

ANAHEIM (AP) — Clyde Wright pitched a two-hitter Wednesday night and Paul Schaaf drove in three runs helping the California Angels to a 6-1 victory over Washington.

Schaaf broke a 1-1 tie with a third-inning homer off loser Joe Coleman, 1-1. Then, in the seventh, Schaaf ripped a two-run single off reliever Dennis Higgins. Wright, 1-0, settled down after

Reliever Face Preserves Win

Pittsburgh Rolls, 4-3; Cards Blank Reds, 7-0

PITTSBURGH (AP) — It hasn't taken Larry Shepard long to learn the perils of managing in the major leagues.

His Pittsburgh Pirates have lost three games already carrying leads to within a strike of victory. And, for a brief moment again Wednesday night, he thought he would see No. 4.

"I never thought we'd get it in," Shepard said after Elroy Face nailed the final three outs and the Pirates beat Los Angeles 4-3 despite an offense that consisted mostly of walks and Dodger errors.

The Bucs, who are swinging at a .228 clip, won the game with three unearned runs. Two of them resulted from Willie Davis dropping a fly ball in deep center and another when Zolito Versalles kicked a grounder. Loser Claude Osteen also issued six walks in 5-2-3 innings.

Bill Mazeroski's bases-loaded sacrifice fly in the sixth inning, his second of the game, sent home the winning run.

It was the first win at Forbes Field for Jim Bunning since the Pirates got him from the Phils. But he acknowledged it as just another game and was more concerned with a pulled groin muscle.

He got that throwing a curve to Jim Lefebvre in the eighth and it was the pull that forced him out of the game.

Sweep in Sight for Montreal

By the Associated Press
The Montreal Canadiens tonight can become the first team in eight years to sweep two straight National Hockey league playoff series. The last time, it brought them the Stanley Cup. This time, it will only get them a week's rest.

While the Canadiens try to wrap up their semifinal set against the Black Hawks in Chicago, the Minnesota North Stars take on the Blues in St. Louis.
That best-of-7 expansion series game, the Canadiens are tied 1-1. The eventual winners will meet for the Stanley Cup.
"We're playing our best hockey of the season right now," said Montreal Coach Toe Blake, whose club eliminated Boston in four straight games and has taken the first three from Chicago.

BENCH STRANGER

"Superior bench strength is the big reason. And Jean Beliveau is playing his best Stanley Cup hockey for us since 1965, when he scored a dozen goals in 10 games."

Beliveau, the rangy center and captain of the Canadiens, is one of four holdovers from the 1960 team that breezed through Chicago and Toronto in eight games for Montreal's fifth straight Stanley Cup. He has scored seven goals in the same number of games in the current playoffs.

"When you have skating you have everything," Beliveau said, "and our team really skates. If we are moving well and you make a mistake, somebody is right behind you to pick up the puck."

"Another thing, we never have any trouble with the morals. I think that may be the main reason for our success. We don't have any trouble on this club."

"All we're doing," said Blake,
"is looking for another win against Chicago. Listen, those Hawks are a pretty good club and you just don't go around talking about a four-game sweep against the Black Hawks."

Coach Billy Reay of the Hawks thinks Montreal can be beaten.

6 Pros Remain Michigan Bowler Fazio in Net Tourney Loser in Masters Final

BOURNEMOUTH, England
(AP) — The world's first open tennis tournament entered the quarter-final stage today with the barriers between professionals and amateurs fast breaking down.

Six men out of the last eight in the British Hard Courts Championships were pros, but one famous professional—Pancho Gonzales of Los Angeles—was out, humbled by 24-year-old British amateur Mark Cox.

The defeat of Gonzales
Wednesday exposed the possible weakness of the pros. They are out of touch with hard courts and they are not used to playing five-set matches.

BOURNEMOUTH, England (AP) — Results in the British hard court open tennis Championships Wednesday.

Men's Singles
Second Round
Mark Cox, Britain, defeated Pancho
Gonzales, Los Angeles (pro) 6-4, 6-2, 4-6, 6-3, 6-2.
Roy Emerson, Australia, (pro) defeated
David Lloyd, Britain, 6-1, 6-4, 10-8, 6-3.
John Newcombe, Australia, (pro) defeated
Keith Aldridge, Britain, 6-4, 5-7, 5-7, 6-2.
Women's Singles
Adrienne Panopoul, Spain, (pro) defeated
Luis Ayala, Chile, (pro) 6-1, 6-4, 6-3.
Karin Kloss, Australia, (pro) defeated
Cynthia Garner, South Africa, 6-4, 6-3.

CINCINNATI (AP) — Lanky Pete Tountas staged a dramatic comeback Wednesday to win the American Bowling Congress
Masters Tourney Championship by whipping Buzz Fazio in two successive matches.

The 29-year-old kegler from Tucson, Ariz., knocked into the losers' division of the double elimination tournament by Fazio, avenged the earlier setback by nudging Fazio in the final series 847-843.

TAKES LEAD

Fazio, a 60-year-old Detroit pro who had won the winner's division of the tourney, but dropped the first four-game block to Tountas, jumped out to a 50-pin lead after the first two games of the final set.

Fazio rolled 208 and 233 compared to Tountas' 181 and 210.
But Tountas, a Greek immigrant, rallied to shoot 232 and 224 to Fazio's 199 and 208. Toun-tas put together four-straight strikes late in the final game.

and that proved to be the deciding edge.

The championship was worth more than $4,000 to Tountas who posted a 9-1 record in the tourney in which eliminations started Monday. Fazio, clearly the favorite of the crowd, went 6-2.
Tountas beat Fazio in the first four-game block by 882-821.

Jim Stefanich of Joliet, Ill., who dropped a series to Tountas earlier in the night that decided the top man in the loser's track-et, finished third in the tourney.
Bill Johnson, last year's tourney runner-up from New Orleans, wound up fourth, and Dave Soutar of Detroit placed fifth.

Tony C. Eyes Return

BOSTON (AP) — Tony Conigliaro's hopes of a possible baseball comeback as a pitcher are up in the air at the moment.

Conigliaro told newsmen Wednesday that doctors have warned him not to undergo any heavy physical activity at this time because it might detach the retina of his injured left eye.

He indicated that this put a question mark on his thoughts of trying to return to baseball as a pitcher.

But the Boston Red Sox outfielder's father, Sal, said at his Swampscott home that he didn't believe this necessarily ruled out the possibility for the future.

"Naturally he wasn't thinking of pitching this year anyway," the elder Conigliaro said. "But what constitute's 'heavy physical activity'?" He was still able to work out for a good hour just today at Fenway Park throwing to Red Sox pitching coach Darrell Johnson."

HIT IN FACE

Tony C. was injured last Aug. 18 when hit high on the cheekbone by a pitch by Jack Hamilton of the California Angels.

The slugging outfielder missed the rest of the season and the World Series because of blurred vision.

He attempted to come back this spring, but his eyesight deteriorated and he finally had to give up the attempt. A new eye examination last month indicated he was through as a hitter, but there has been speculation he would try a comeback attempt on the mound — a position at which he starred all through little league, pony league and high school ball.

Pace Tapers Off

Quarry, Jim Ellis

OAKLAND (AP) — Two heavyweight title contenders, Jerry Quarry of California and Jimmy Ellis of Kentucky put in easy finishing drills today for their 15-round fight Saturday night for the World Boxing Association championship.

Recognition is an important word with both boxers. It means not only the WBA championship but recognition as the best in the world in the absence of Cassius Clay.

The nationally televised fight is the final of the WBA series to determine a successor for Clay's vacated title.

Coast Coach Resigns

LOS ANGELES (AP) — John Arndt, basketball coach and athletic director at Loyola University of Los Angeles, resigned Wednesday to join a sporting goods firm.

Blooper League Meeting Slated for Waterford

Managers or representatives of teams wishing to enter the Waterford Township Blooper League should plan to attend the season's first organizational meeting in Room 109 at Schoolcraft Elementary School at 8:00 p.m., Tuesday, April 30.

Rules and scheduling will be discussed and player contracts will be distributed at this session. Deadline for team entries is May 7.

Ups Net Streak

Clarkston's tennis team ran up its 17th straight victory in dual competition yesterday by blanking Milford, 5-0.

The win raised the Wolves record in Wayne-Oakland League play this season to 2-0 and their overall mark to 3-0.

Clarkston's victories: Singles — Tom Butler (C) def. Jim Beck, 10-6; Kirk Beattie (C) def. Almon Struble, 6-2; Dave Kelly (C) def. Dale Ray, 6-1; 6-1; Oregon Butler (C) def. Randy Simons, 6-2. Doubles — Kim Beattie-Mark Erickson (C) def. Terry Raglin-Jim Lee, 6-1, 6-0; Mark Waterbury-Alan Griffin (C) def. Tom Heasley-Jeff Horton, 6-1, 6-0; Al Ventimiglia-Bill Butler (C) def. Dale Brown-Chris Snyder, 6-1, 3-1.

Chicago Posts 1st Soccer Triumph

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
John Kowalk of the North American Soccer League's Chicago Mustangs is making up for lost time.

Out of the Mustangs' lineup for their first two games because of an injury, Kowalk made his initial appearance Wednesday night, scoring two goals in Chicago's first victory of the season, a 4-1 triumph over the Atlanta Chiefs.

The other league games scheduled for Wednesday, San Diego at Baltimore and Oakland at New York, were postponed because of rain.

English Team Wins

MANCHESTER, England (AP) — George Best, Manchester United's star wing, scored in the 38th minute Wednesday and gave his team a 1-0 victory over Real Madrid in the first leg of their competition for the European Cup of soccer winners.

Former State Boxers to Be Feted Tonight

Former world heavyweight champion Joe Louis, Boxing Commissioner Charles P. (Chuck) Davey, and old-time heavyweight contender Homer Smith are among five noted sportsmen who will be honored by the Veteran Boxers Association Ring 32 tonight.

Also to be honored at the second annual banquet of the Detroit Area boxing group are Robert C. Bennett, M.D., chief examining physician, Michigan Athletic Board of Control, and John May, head of the Detroit Department of Parks and Recreation.

Louis is coming here from Los Angeles for the affair at Carl's Chop House, will receive a scroll extolling his deeds as one of the world's greatest ringmen.

Davey, now head of his own insurance agency, once was a leading contender for the world heavyweight crown.

BOWLING

Trophy winners were numerous in the recent Twosome Tournament at North Hills Lanes.

A youth bowled with an adult in each of four divisions in the third annual event.

Taking the major age (16-18) age division title were Les Little John and Art Pearson with a total of 1464.

Pearson also posted the best single score for the tournament a 741 (268-233-230) — and he teamed with Dave Foster to place runner-up in the major division.

In the junior event (age 13-15), Mike Sovey joined Rocky Kimball for a 1467 total. Nick Palaian and Harold Palaian rolled a 1298 to take the prep division, while the sub-prep (9 and under) crown went to Doug Hoefler and Calvin Hoefler with a 1297 total.

City Glass Service continues to lead the way in the North Hill Classic. Frank Nash of Bank of Rochester checked in with the top series of the evening — 700 (245-237-218).

Huron Bowl wound up first in the Huron Bowl Ladies Classic with The Vineyards placing second. In the final outing, The Vineyards came through with a high team game score of 526.

Among the top scorers in the Ladies Classic were Evelyn Remback 577 (200-214), Bonnie Nugent 569 (205), Eula Vich 561 (210) and Loraine Cloutier — 187 triplicate.

Frank Doll rolled a 636 and Chuck Riharb a 627 to set the pace in the Knights of Columbus Men's League at Airway Lanes.

Games of 213-234 and 159 (606) gave Ray Postal the top series in the Jimmy Day series in the Jimmy Day series in the Jimmy Day series.

Bill Wilton rolled a 229, Ben McKerricher a 219 and Ralph Allen a 200.

Murney Bell's 617 was one of the best in the Airway Mixed last Thursday. Jerry Larsen posted a 625 and Ken Armstrong a 608.

LOOP CHAMP
M. G. Collision reigns as the champion in the St. Michael's Thursday Night League at West Side. In the final, Al Norman posted the high series (616) and St. Schack came through with the high game (234).

Mike Clancy led the way in the Saturday Juniors & Preps at Savoy Lanes with a 588 (172-212-203). Tom Fisher rolled a 582, Mark Davis posted a 575, Roger Strait a 569 and Dan Romine a 544.

Albert Probert and Larry Ruthenberg are the hi-lo double champs in the Pontiac Motor Tempet at Airway Lanes. In the final action, John Lingos rolled a 704 (245), Gonzales Santa Cruz a 692 (258-244) and Porbert a 676.

Sonny Tompkins' 664 (244-211-209) led the way in the Wood Splitters Mixed at Airway Lanes. Alex Popraska rolled a 589, Steve Bilbey a 573 and Clyde Tippett a 572.

A 743 (275-266-222) by Tony Plachia led the way in the North Hill Friday Nighters League. George Ehlman and Lou Koprince collected 688s while Herm Schroll came through with a 657.

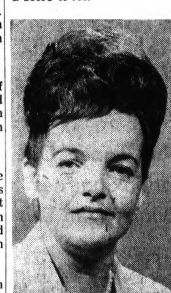

Professional football's 1967 coach of the year, George Allen of the Los Angeles Rams, will be the speaker at Alma College's third annual All Sports Reunion tonight, in Lansing.

Allen was a right end on the 1943 Alma football team.

SINGLES QUEEN — Rita Groleau of Troy won the recent Pontiac Women's Bowling Association tournament's handicap singles division with a score of 761.

NO HANLIPAC — Norma Conley of Clarkston is the PWBA's actual all-events champion with a 1674, including a 657 which was the high actual series in the tournament.

Canoe Clinic Slated at OU

If you're thinking of shooting the Rifle River in a canoe this summer, you'll get some lifesaving tips on Friday, May 10, at Oakland University.

The program will include a slide presentation and a demonstration of canoe techniques. There will also be a chance for audience participation.

The clinic is being co-sponsored by the university and the American Red Cross. George Wibby, director of ARC Safety Services, and his staff members, Lou Partich and Bill Mackey, will serve as instructors and demonstrators.

The public is invited and admission is free.

'Forward Pass' Strong Choice in Derby

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — well aware that his charge is the current future book favorite to win the Kentucky Derby. But says Forrest, "They don't run cinches in racing."

Colts' Moore Turns to TV

BALTIMORE (AP) — Lenny Moore, one of the greatest runner-pass catchers football has ever known, will become a telecaster of National Football League games.

The 12-year veteran will retire from the Baltimore Colts to join the staff of Columbia Broadcasting System.

That same day Alley Fighter Grass, was in need of some relaxation. In the past few days he has lost five stakes winners either temporarily or permanently through injuries.

Forward Pass and Santa Anita Derby winner Alley Fighter headed a field today of nine Derby eligibles in Keeneland's $25,000-a-d-e Blue Grass Stakes, a 1 1/2-mile test which has produced five of the last six Derby winners.

"I hope I have it," Forrest said of the May 4 Derby, "but we'll have to wait and see."

Repair Needed by Taj Mahal

May Be Sinking Into Sacred Jumna River

AGRA, India (AP) — The magnificent Taj Mahal, the peerless monument to love which is India's major tourist attraction, may be sinking ever so slowly into the sacred Jumna River.

Mogul Emperor Shah Jahan's memorial to his second wife is in no immediate danger of crumbling, but some experts in the Department of Archaeology say prompt remedial action is needed.

The Taj first developed cracks in portions of its massive underground foundation several years after its completion, about 1654.

An Englishman, Capt. Joseph Taylor, made repairs in 1810, according to local records. Additional repairs were logged in 1874.

CRACKS ENLARGING

A recent check showed the tilt of the Taj's four minarets has increased, with one leaning nearly nine inches. Cracks in upper reaches of the huge marble dome are reported enlarging as well.

The Indian Express has called for immediate action to check the damage.

"Will the architect of the Taj pay such a high price for selecting the site so near the river?" the newspaper asked. "Posterity will never forgive us if we fail to do our duty in preserving it and passing it down to future generations as it has been passed down to us."

Whatever cracks there may be in the 300-year-old monument, it is still a work of art. Whether viewed at the break of dawn, in the glaring sun of midday or in the sheen of a full moon, the Taj lives up to every expectation of the tourist.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE

A good portion of the $3.6 million in foreign exchange which India earned from tourists last year must be credited to the Taj.

Special air, rail and bus service is provided from New Delhi to Agra, a distance of 120 miles, and efficient guide service is readily available. Beggars and peddlers are pretty well kept away.

Shah Jahan had the Taj built as a sepulcher for his second—and favorite—wife, Mumtaz Mahal, Exalted of the Palace. She bore 14 of the emperor's children, dying while giving birth to his eighth son, in 1630 while the shah was waging a battle campaign nearby. The shah invited designs for the monument and finally selected one by Ustad Isa, a Persian.

SKILLED CRAFTSMEN

The emperor brought in skilled craftsmen from France, Italy, Persia and Turkey, and threw 20,000 laborers into the construction. It took about 22 years. One Indian government publication estimates the original cost at $70 million.

A massive base of sandstone was constructed, topped by a marble platform 313 feet square. On it was erected the central mausoleum with an entry archway 90 feet high and a dome 60 feet in diameter. Slender marble minarets 130 feet tall were built on the platform's four corners, but because of the over-all size of the structure, the minarets do not look so tall.

The entire Koran, the Moslem holy book, was transcribed on the outer walls of the mausoleum, the script in black marble inlays. The letters get progressively larger in ascending rows, and to a person standing on the ground they all appear to be the same size.

Two smaller red sandstone mosques flank the mausoleum, and a high wall was built around the 42 acres of gardens. There is a three-story gateway on one side; opposite is the Jumna River. The Taj is symmetry to perfection, with one small flaw. While Mumtaz Mahal's tomb is centered beneath the great dome, the son of Shah Jahan cut costs and did not build another mausoleum for his father. He buried him in a tomb on one side of Mumtaz Mahal's.

Indian folklore has it that Mumtaz Mahal, near death, made the emperor promise he would raise over her grave a mausoleum worthy of the love she gave him in their 18 years of married life. That he succeeded, no one would dispute.

ENOCH POWELL

Tory Powell Steers Hard to the Right

LONDON (AP) — Enoch Powell, the man at the center of Britain's race row, is a cold-eyed intellectual intent on driving the Conservative party hard to the right.

His gaunt white face and downturned mouth are as grim as the industrial area of Wolverhampton that he represents in the House of Commons.

Although a way-out Tory of almost feudalistic views, Powell has gained a strong following among the workers as well as the upper classes in the English Midlands. They call him "Nock-er."

Powell, 56, is still sifting through the huge pile of letters — mostly "for," he claims — sent him after his speech last Saturday. In it he called for the gates to clang shut on colored immigration into Britain and for colored people already here to be encouraged to go home.

Conservative party leader Edward Heath fired Powell from the party's high command, not because of his recommendations but because of the tone of the speech, which Heath and most major newspapers said was inflammatory and racist.

But Powell said he was right — "the response from people up and down the country proves that."

Powell, the new hero of the workers, has a most unworkable background.

FOUGHT IN WAR

At the outbreak of World War II he was professor of Greek at the University of Sydney, Australia. He returned to Britain, joined the army as a private, and in five years was a brigadier.

After the war Powell turned down the chair of Greek at Durham University, turned to politics and won the Wolverhampton seat for the Conservatives.

In 1958, he took his first journey into the political wilderness, quitting Harold Macmillan's government in protest against the level of spending.

He returned in 1960 to become minister of health and became the party's spokesman on transport when the Conservatives went into opposition in 1964.

A year later he bid for leadership of the party but only got 15 votes to 150 for Heath. But Heath still regards Powell as a potential rival as well as a threat to the policy of moderate conservatism which Heath and most other leaders of the party espouse.

Laser Beams Seen Risky to Workers

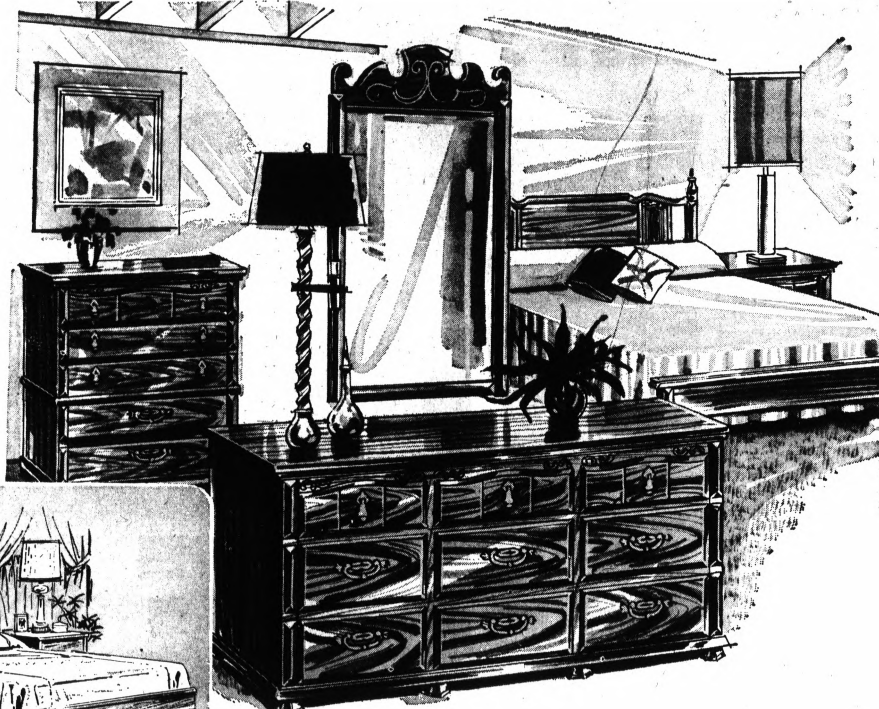

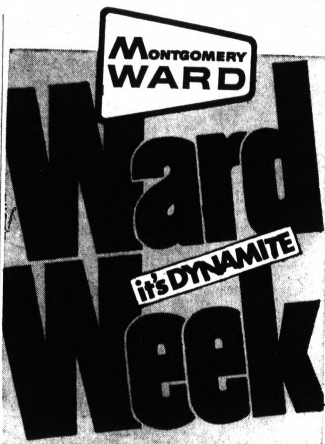

By Science Service

Potential risk to thousands of industrial employees is seen unless industry shoulders responsibility for the safety of those who work with lasers.

A Massachusetts survey sponsored by the U.S. Public Health Service is the basis of the estimate that 10,000 employees in the United States are exposed to eye damage and burns from the intense light beams.

The study does not reveal that any individual worker has been hurt by laser exposure, but indicates that 60 per cent of laser workers face possible risk.

The Massachusetts survey compiled information on the use of 267 lasers in 43 establishments. About 10 per cent of the nation's laser operations are done there.

Looper 'Bugs' U.S. Forests

Spray Sought to Kill
Destructive Insect

MARBLEMOUNT, Wash. (UPI) — The hemlock looper is one of the most destructive bugs to be found in the woods and, unless the U.S. Forest Service can come up with the right "spring cocktail," it might just take over much of the Mount Baker National Forest in the next two years.

In a 600-acre area on Bacon Creek, a tributary of the Skagit River, loopers already have stripped the needles on the hemlocks and left them dying.

And the webs of the worms and the worms themselves are rapidly spreading outward over an adjacent 1,000 acres.

A survey made last winter also shows that large numbers of eggs have been laid in five other forest areas, and the possibility is great that these widely scattered tracts will explode with infestation this summer.

If the bugs are not stemmed this year, entomologists estimate that 320,000 acres of trees may be damaged by the fall of 1969.

$35 MILLION
This would cause a loss of an estimated 1.75 billion board feet of timber with a stumpage value of around $35 million.

It is no wonder that foresters are greatly concerned. But so are those persons who do not want to see birds and animals and fish sacrificed through use of pesticides.

Therefore, the U.S. Forest Service is attempting to find a spray that will kill the loopers but not harm other forest creatures.

The looper, known scientifically as lambda pinivora, is one of the most destructive defoliators of trees in North America.

EATS ANYTHING
It eats the needles of the western hemlock and sitka spruce during its larval stage, usually preferring mature trees, but it will devour almost anything green during a serious epidemic.

This is what frightens the foresters, for not only is the relatively less valuable hemlock at stake but also forests of prime Douglas fir and other trees.

The Forest Service battle plan calls for an initial aerial spray project to test two chemicals which may be effective against the looper. These are zectran and malathion.

In the past, the looper has been controlled with DDT, but this chemical appears to be harmful to fish and game; so an attempt is being made to find an equally effective substitute.

TEST SPRAY SET
The test-spraying will be done this summer from a helicopter to provide closer central control over the accuracy of the application.

Three separate areas of about 1,000 acres each will be dosed with different formulas of the chemicals. One area will get 2.4 pints per acre of zectran, another one pint per acre of zectran and the third 13 ounces per acre of malathion.

Previous tests show that zectran has more oral effect on mammals than either malathion or DDT, but in low concentrations, the effects are neither dangerous nor long-lasting.

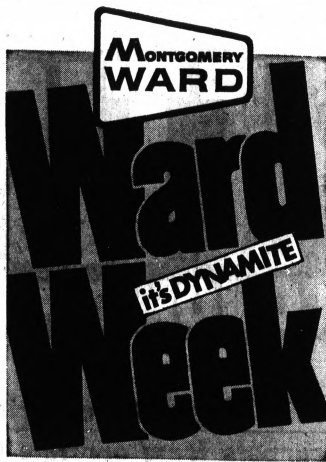

Effects of this chemical concoction are negligible. Zectran is described as "exceptionally safe" for rainbow trout.

SAFE TO MAMMALS
Malathion is safe both orally and dermally to mammals, but in heavy doses it can have an adverse effect on fish, especially chinook salmon fingerlings.

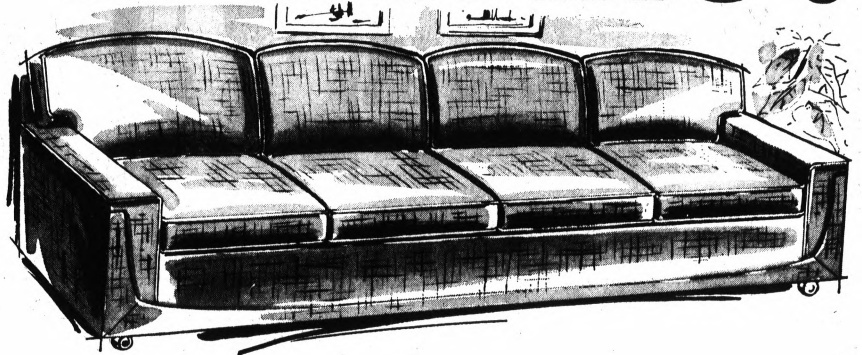

The tests will be conducted around July 8 when the looper eggs are hatched.

Negro Pair Forms Group to Aid Teens

ROYAL OAK (P) — Two young men, born 24 years ago in an old, all-Negro shanty town in Royal Oak Township, "are out to destroy the myth that society is completely against the black man."

They have formed a group to teach that lesson to teen-agers in the area.

The two, Jefferson Hicks and Dorrie Reid, offer themselves "as proof that the black man can be successful."

Hicks, who won all-state honors as a starting guard on Ferndale High School's 1963 state champion basketball team, is an assistant buyer for the J.L. Hudson Co., and is completing work on a master's degree in business administration at Wayne State University.

Reid, who became a champion sprinter for the University of Michigan, is a teacher and part-time coach in the Ferndale school system.

ON THE MOVE

The two of them have teamed with three other township residents, Oliver Ford, Clarence Ford and Isaiah Adams, to form "Young Men on the Move," an organization dedicated to helping teen-agers along the same road to success that they traveled.

The group is starting small, by forming a summer basketball clinic with hoped-for appearances by Detroit Pistons stars Dave DeBusschere and Dave Bing.

But still in the dream stage are bigger and better things, like building a complete shopping center to be used as a training ground to get teen-agers interested in and accustomed to the everyday business world.

Working under the motto "Business is our only Business," Hicks and Reid are out to instill in township teen-agers the idea that the "greatest freedom anybody can have is the freedom to make of yourself what you want," and that the business world offers the means to success.

'CAN BE SUCCESSFUL'

"We are out to destroy the myth that society is completely against the black man," Hicks said. "We offer ourselves as proof that the black man can be successful."

Reid added, "The person in the ghetto is the prisoner of his own mind. Young children especially must be given the opportunity to see that there is opportunity. That is what we are trying to do."

The basketball program, although not as grandiose as the shopping center, is an integral part of the plan.

"We will not just be building basketball players," Hicks said. "We will be building men. We will be teaching them to compete for what they want."

"Sports was the key to the future for me," Reid said.

The group is currently planning several fund-raising drives, including a candy sale, raffle and a cabaret dance, designed to raise $15,000 by August.

The $15,000 will then be invested in some type of business, with the profits to be used as a continuing fund to provide college scholarships and to finance other projects of the group.

The shopping center is only one possibility. The stock market is being eyed, and so are a drugstore, a men's or women's clothing store, the entertainment business or real estate.

TRAINING GROUND

Besides being a source of funds for other projects, the business venture could serve as a training ground and employment opportunity for youths—not only on the stock boy or clerk level, but eventually on the executive level also, according to Hicks.

One building and investment company has already shown an interest in the shopping center idea, Hicks said.

Some of the five originators of the plan are considering the possibility of eventually leaving their current jobs to make a full-time career with "Young Men on the Move."

Reid emphasized that the project is not confined to township residents.

'Lost' Matter Is in Evidence

Finding Would Mean
a Closed Universe

By Science Service
WASHINGTON — According to some cosmologists, 90 per cent of the universe is missing. Since Einstein's relativity theory proclaimed that space is curved, it has become widely accepted among those who study the subject that the universe curves until it meets itself. This idea of a closed universe is opposed to one that expands and will expand forever.

According to Einstein, it is mass that makes space curve. The more mass, the more curvature.

But cosmologists have computed that in order to curve enough to close the universe, there must be a minimum critical density of mass. And counting all the mass they have been able to measure, that density is only about a tenth of the critical value in the stars and galaxies within reach. Some 90 per cent was missing.

The remaining possibility was that there is a significant amount of matter in the vast reaches of space between galaxies. But none had been detected directly.

DIRECT EVIDENCE

The first direct evidence that such matter exists, in the form of extremely diluted hydrogen gas, has now been obtained from a rocket-borne experiment.

If confirmed — and only two measurements have been made so far — the finding would mean a closed universe.

That would mean that the now-expanding galaxies are gradually slowing down in their outward rush.

Eventually — in some 70 billion years — all the matter in the universe will have fallen back again into one great fireball of matter and radiation, which is how the cosmos is believed to have started about 10 billion years ago.

NOT REALLY INVOLVED

Relativity itself is not really involved in the controversy, since curved space could exist in either a closed or an open universe.

In the latter, space could be curved first one way, then another, to extend indefinitely.

The evidence for a high amount of intergalactic matter was obtained during an Aerobee rocket flight from White Sands, N. Mexico, last September by scientists at the Naval Research Laboratory.

Instruments on board measured the cosmic X-ray background glow in two wavelength bands—very soft X ray and medium hard X rays.

VERY HOT PLASMA

The two measurements indicate that the X rays are emitted by a thin but very hot — 800,000 degrees Centigrade — plasma in intergalactic space.

Such a plasma — a gas in which the electrons and protons are separated — should also radiate at other wavelengths besides the two measured, and equipment is now being readied at NRL for another flight aimed at detecting such radiations.

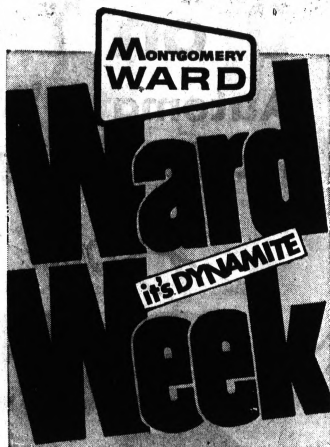

The report on the possible discovery of the missing intergalactic matter was made by Dr. Richard C. Henry at the dedication of the Naval Research Laboratory's E.O. Hulbert Center for Space Research.

Dr. Henry, who earned this Ph.D. last year from Princeton University, is a National Science Foundation associate at NRL.

The new center is headed by Dr. Herbert Friedman, a coauthor of the report with Gilbert Fritz, John Meekins and E. T. Byram.

Rare Sparrow at Space Port May Die Out

By Science Service

WASHINGTON — In the marshes around America's space port, Cape Kennedy, live the last few specimens of a bird that is apparently closer to extinction than even the much-mourned whooping crane.

While the whooper might make a gradual comeback if protected and left alone, the dusky seaside sparrow is as good as dead unless man steps in to lend an active hand.

The melodious little dusky is believed to exist nowhere in the world except the salt marsh areas surrounding Kennedy.

Now, however, he has fallen victim to control measures originally designed to keep down Florida's voracious mosquitos.

There's no question that the mosquitos need keeping down. In the mid-1950s millions of them were driving area residents to distraction, until the Brevard County Mosquito Control District took action.

DIKES HELP

A series of 3-to-4-foot-high earth dikes was constructed, running for miles over the comparatively dry marshland to accumulate rainwater and flood out the insects, which need mud flats to complete their life cycle.

Unfortunately, the dikes also have flooded out the duskies. The various marsh grasses in which the birds make their nests have simply been drowned over all but a tiny area.

As a result, after almost a month of painstaking searching, University of Wisconsin graduate student Brian Sharp has found only 17 male birds. He believes there are probably few — if any — more than that.

Since the dusky is monogamous, there would be a similar number of females, which means that the total population could be less than 40.

MORE NUMEROUS

By contrast, there are 58 known whooping cranes, 12 of which are living carefully unbothered lives in captivity.

"He really puts on a show of bravado," says Sharp of the bird, "flying around his own little territory to make sure no other dusky males have invaded it. What he doesn't realize is that he is challenging nonexistent rivals."

The dusky's numbers have been dwindling only four years ago, the Interior Department's "rare and endangered species" list showed as many as 200 of the birds in the marsh, and possibly up to 500.

Meanwhile, Sharp says, the dusky is "singing away as though he doesn't know he is becoming extinct."

NOT AN EYECATCHER

The bird is not an eye-catcher, with his dark grayish-brown wings and back and black-striped white breast, especially compared to the spectacular egrets and herons that share the marshland.

The water birds, in fact, have been flourishing since the flooding began. There are 22 species of duck on the island, according to Sharp, and their numbers are increasing.

The future of the dusky looks dim. "They should have thought of him when they were first planning the dikes," says Sharp bleakly.

He emphasizes that the Mosquito Control District officials are being quite helpful, even lending him a helicopter for his work. "They'd hate to have an extinction on their record," is his wry comment. But there just aren't any obvious things to do.

WILL STAY UP

No one is about to tear down the dikes, which took more than a year to build and cost hundreds of thousands of dollars. Had there been a little foresight, indicates Sharp, a dry strip might have been left for the birds.

There is one glimmer of hope. Inland from Merritt Island and Cape Kennedy is the St. Johns River, running north toward Georgia. In 1962, a survey located 10 duskies there, and a few birds were sighted or re-sighted a few days later.

The marshy area where the birds might live is much larger than that on Merritt Island, and conditions there are more suitable for the kinds of grasses in which the dusky characteristically likes to nest.

Two Profs Cite Stellar ClustersFindings of Theory on Galactic Formation

By Science Service

WASHINGTON — Many cosmologists believe that the universe began with a bang — the explosion of what has been called a cosmic fireball.

This fireball would have been extremely small and extremely dense. Its explosion would have been powerful enough to set off the expansion of the universe which still — by all reliable observations — continues.

If you believe this theory, as Prof. James Peebles of Princeton University pointed out at the meeting here of the American Physical Society, there is a new handle on the way the universe evolved.

You can begin to calculate a thing that has puzzled astronomers for years — when and how the galaxies were formed. And in calculating a theory of galactic formation, Prof. Peebles and his colleague, Prof. Robert H. Dicke, concluded that leftovers from the formation process may still be floating around the universe in the form of small, globular clusters of stars.

The big-bang theory, say Profs. Peebles and Dicke, can answer the question: Which came first, galaxies or stars?

EVOLUTIONARY SCALE

The answer is galaxies, and the theory tells furthermore where on the evolutionary scale galaxies could begin to form.

Since big-bang proponents believe that the amount of matter and energy in the universe was the same at the beginning as it is now, the primeval fireball would have been very hot — about 10 billion degrees C.

In this situation no organized matter could exist; electromagnetic radiation would dominate the situation.

Some of this radiation is supposed to remain to this day — cooled by expansion of the universe to a temperature only three degrees above absolute zero.

AT THIS TEMPERATURE

At this temperature it appears in the radio part of the spectrum — at centimeter and millimeter wavelengths — although originally it was gamma rays.

Discovery of radiation that fits this three-degree prediction is what has lent credence and active scientific interest to the big-bang theory in recent years.

Possible three-degree radiation was first recognized in 1964, and observations that are still going on have gradually filled in more and more of the necessary detail.

Most of the primeval radiation, however, would have been converted into matter. Ultimately the galaxies would have formed as giant gas clouds. Stars within them would evolve afterwards.

COULD FORM

The theory predicts, say Profs. Peebles and Dicke, that the universe would have to cool to a temperature of 4,000 degrees for the formation of galaxies to begin. At this temperature gas atoms could form and associate into clouds.

By a calculation that balances pressure due to heat in the gas against the gravitational attraction of the gas atoms for each other, they come to a maximum diameter for the beginning clouds of 30 light years and a mass 100,000 times that of the sun.

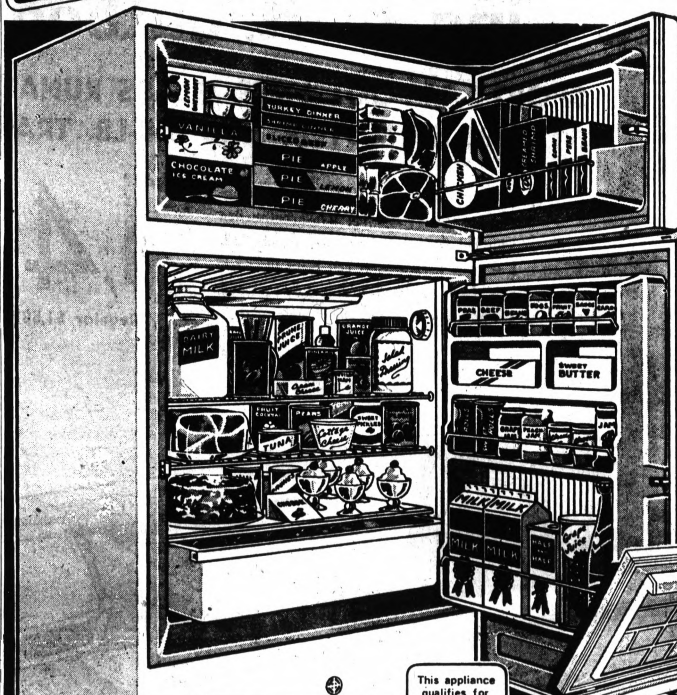

This is smaller than present galaxies by a long way, but Profs. Peebles and Dicke reason that these gas cloudlets would have been associated by further gravitational attraction into large masses — the modern galaxies — in which individual cloudlets would have lost their identities.

But the halo that surrounds our galaxy at least represents primeval clouds that escaped this melding together.

Most of the mass of the sun's galaxy is concentrated in a thin flat plane. Outside this plane, forming roughly a sphere, is a much thinner halo in which globular clusters of stars are prominent. There are between 200 and 300 such clusters associated with the galaxy.

State Traffic Safety Title Is in Danger

If Michigan can cut last year's highway death total by five a month from April on, this state may keep its 1967 title as "Safest of the Big Eight States," according to Automobile Club of Michigan.

"Michigan drivers, after leading the nation in traffic safety during 1967, are 44 deaths ahead of last year's first quarter," states Auto Club General Manager Fred Rehm.

For the first three months of 1968, 420 persons have died in Michigan traffic as compared with 276 for the same period last year.

From a record 2,226 deaths in 1966, however, Michigan reduced its 1967 traffic fatalities to 1,888, a drop of 11 per cent. (Both figures are taken from a nationwide compilation. Michigan State Police figures, which take into account delayed and late-reported deaths, are higher.)

Rehm added that Michigan also reduced traffic injuries by 2.3 per cent in 1967.

NATION UNCHANGED

In comparison, the nation as a whole remained unchanged — both in injuries and deaths, according to a statewide traffic study to be released soon by Auto Club. In 1967, Michigan had 4.7 deaths per 100 million miles traveled while the nation averaged 5.5.

The study, called "Portrait of a Year," probes more than 1,600 injury accidents which happened last summer throughout the Lower Peninsula. It will be a companion study to Auto Club's 1966 study, titled "How To Bring More Back Alive!" which covered 20 per cent of the year's traffic fatalities.

The rest of the "Big Eight States" were far behind Michigan's 1967 highway record.

Here's how Michigan stacked up in comparison with the seven other largest states (in terms of auto registration):

Michigan, down 11 per cent; Ohio, down 3 per cent; Illinois, down 1 per cent; Texas, down 1 per cent; California, down less than 1/2 per cent; Indiana, up less than 1/2 per cent; New York, up 1 per cent; and Pennsylvania, up 7 per cent.

LOW-POPULATION

In fact, Rehm points out, Michigan was behind only such low-population states as Alaska, down 31 per cent; South Dakota, down 16 per cent; Utah, down 16 per cent; and Nevada and Arizona, both down 14 per cent.

In the cities category, Flint and Grand Rapids led the nation in traffic fatality percentage reduction for most of 1967, with 28 and 24 per cent reductions, respectively, in their category.

However, Rehm said that traffic deaths began to climb before the end of 1967 and have continued climbing since.

TRAVEL UP

He pointed out that travel was up 8.4 per cent in January and 12 per cent in February this year as compared with 1967. Deaths dropped 4 per cent in January and jumped 35 per cent in February in 1968 as compared with these months in 1967. Mileage figures are not yet known for March 1968; however, highway deaths are up 13 per cent in Michigan for this period as compared with 1967.

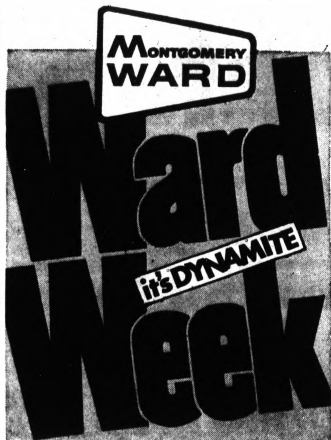

"Other Auto Club studies have shown that the primary element in whether accidents increase or decrease is the driver," said Rehm.

"More and more motorists are becoming aware that just one mistake can turn even a good driver into a dead one — a fact that was brought home by our earlier studies," he added.

He said that this awareness is the product of many education, research, promotion and action programs. He cited the new State Police Vehicle Check Lane program, the publicity given traffic safety by federal involvement in the field, and the "Bring 'Em Back Alive!" program, aided by unprecedented cooperation from the communications media.

RELAXATION

"The backsliding," Rehm said, "apparently is due to relaxation by drivers once the initial burst of concern and publicity passed last summer."

Americans Feel Money Crisis

Situation May Worsen if New Measures Fail

(EDITOR'S NOTE — Robert Dietsch is a veteran reporter of the U.S. and international business community. He is business writer for Scripps-Howard Newspapers.

By ROBERT DIETSCH

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Americans are fast learning that international finance is much more than an exercise in higher arithmetic and the mysterious workings of central bankers.

The Free World money crisis brought on by lack of confidence in the dollar and a gold-buying stampede already has hurt the U.S. consumer in the pocketbook. And if new arrangements to shore up the dollar don't work out, Americans will be hit even more.

Consider what has already occurred and what is likely to happen in the next few weeks as a result of the crisis —

• The Federal Reserve Board, in an effort to slow inflation and thus keep American goods at a better price advantage in world trade, raised a key lending rate.

It now charges 5½ per cent interest on loans made to member banks instead of 5 per cent.

All other interest rates are expected to move higher as a result, including home mortgages.

Even today, FHA-guaranteed home mortgage rates are at their all-time average high of 6.81 per cent. Therefore, home buyers soon will be paying higher interest than ever before.

• The Johnson administration — in a move to persuade Congress at long last to enact higher taxes — has agreed to stiffer budget cuts in non-defense programs. This means a slowdown in great society spending, perhaps on highway construction, on educational projects which directly help many families.

• The Congress, in turn, seems more amenable to higher taxes. Higher taxes, of course, mean less money in everybody's pocket.

• The money and dollar crisis undoubtedly figured in President Johnson's decision to send only a limited number of additional troops to Vietnam. The exact total hasn't been revealed, but it undoubtedly will be far below Gen. William Westmoreland's request for 206,000 more men.

• American tourists in Europe got a shock last weekend when they had trouble cashing traveler's checks and paying for goods and transportation in dollar bills. Who would have thought only a month ago that any European shop, hotel or bank would have turned down a chance to get dollars?

• Now that the U.S. and six of its major European allies have decided no longer to buy gold from anyone except other governments, gold mining firms and foreign individuals holding gold will have to sell their metal on the open market.

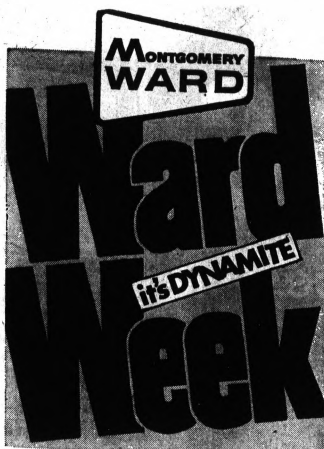

Chances are, however, the open market price will be higher than the official price — which stays at $35 an ounce. Result — gold used in jewelry and dental repair work will be more expensive and prices are likely to increase. So may prices of goods in which gold is used.

• If the Free World's money crisis isn't resolved in the long run, gold buying may again reach panic proportions, foreigners may again turn up their noses at the dollar and the world's revised monetary arrangements may go up in smoke altogether.

If this should happen, Americans would again be affected directly. Many countries would be reluctant to accept money from other nations (including, perhaps, the U.S. dollar). Travel, trade and international banking would be curtailed and disrupted.

• U.S. tourists would find it more troublesome to cash checks and get credit. Their hotel and restaurant bills probably would be more expensive.

• American companies doing business abroad — and practically all large U.S. firms which import foreign goods — would find it harder to finance their purchases, and probably find imports more expensive.

North Viets Brazenly Hold Key Valley

SAIGON (UPI) — For more than two years, North Vietnamese troops have brazenly held a small but immensely important hunk of South Vietnamese territory called the A Shau Valley.

It remains in Communist hands today, perhaps the only area of South Vietnam undisputedly controlled by the North Vietnamese.

The Americans have been powerless to do anything about A Shau except pound it unmercifully with bombs.

In spite of the fantastic amounts of bombs dropped there over the past 25 months, A Shau continues to be a major North Vietnamese base for the infiltration of men and supplies into South Vietnam's northern provinces, knifing across the Laotian border like a thorn in the side of the American military command.

Since the lessening of Communist pressure on Khe Sanh in recent days, attention has focused on the North Vietnamese stronghold at A Shau, particularly as a result of a tremendous increase in the number of B52 raids in the valley area.

HALF OF B52 RAIDS

In the past week, more than half of the B52 raids in Vietnam have been launched against Communist troops concentrations, weapons positions, antiaircraft sites, bunkers, truck parks and ammunition and supply storage areas around the A Shau Valley.

On one day last week, all raids of the big eight-engine stratofortresses were against targets within A Shau.

The increased bombing has followed reports of several significant developments in the A Shau region in recent weeks.

For the first time in the war, North Vietnamese armored vehicles — either tanks or armored personnel carriers — have been detected in the A Shau Valley by U.S. reconnaissance planes, according to informed sources.

Late last month, a unit of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division ran into a North Vietnamese force employing armored vehicles about 25 miles northwest of Hue. It was the farthest inland that Communist armor had been sighted.

The A Shau Valley is a terminus of a Communist supply route that winds about 50 miles across South Vietnam's Thua Thien Province, ending just south of the imperial capital of Hue.

U.S. military sources said early last month that the road is capable of supporting heavy truck convoys and armored vehicles at relatively high speeds.

The North Vietnamese reportedly used steel matting — presumably some of which came from the old U.S. Special Forces airstrip overrun two years ago — to form a carpeting above the road bed in two parallel strips.

Obviously the only way A Shau can be returned to allied control is to send in troops to take it back. Thus far, however, the U.S. military command is gambling that intensified bombing will disrupt the Communist operation at A Shau and make unnecessary a ground assault on the valley and the great losses that would certainly follow.

Undergraduate College Math Enrollment Up

By Science Service

Undergraduate mathematics programs in U.S. colleges and universities have had significant changes during this decade, including an increase in the proportion of students taking advanced courses.

Undergraduate mathematical science enrollments in four-year colleges in 1965 increased 44 percent over those in 1960, which is about the same rate as general undergraduate enrollments for these periods, according to a survey by the Conference Board of the Mathematical Sciences.

It showed that two opposing trends are apparently balancing each other — a proportionate decline in elementary courses and a proportionate increase in the more advanced courses. Nevertheless, nearly half of the enrollments in 1965-66 were in courses below the level of calculus.

Experienced in Rebuilding Cities

British May Ease Urban Woes

(EDITOR'S NOTE—The British are coming—to help America solve its urban crises. The new town planners are bringing with them lessons learned in rebuilding English cities after World War II and they hope to apply what they've learned to some of the riot-ridden cities in the United States. The emphasis is on well-planned housing for the poor.)

LONDON (AP) — The British architects who designed Washington are trying to show the American how to find new ways to rebuild urban ghettos in the United States.

The Washington they designed is not the U.S. capital, but Washington, County Durham, one of the planned new towns for rehousing workers in Britain's bleak industrial north.

The planner was Lord Llewellyn Davies, now designing another new town for 25,000 people outside London. The reasons he and other British architects have learned during 20 years of erasing the ravages of wartime blitz and Victorian industrial blight are being applied by his firm to Detroit, Los Angeles, Watts, and Toledo. New York's Harlem may also be on his docket.

Other leading British architects are exporting this nation's large fund of town-planning experience in subsidized housing to other American cities and Western Europe. They expect to be in heavy demand if President Johnson's public-private housing proposals are enacted.

HOUSING EXPLOSION

In the United States, postwar housing has exploded in the middle-class suburbs and largely bypassed the cities. The urban rot is an acknowledged factor in the long hot summers in many of the cities. American state governments put up factories to attract new industries. In Britain, they move the people, and the factories follow. Then the new town corporation leases land to industry at a profit.

In their crowded island with its high land prices, the British have had to learn how to rehouse people without literally putting them on top of each other. The tall apartment blocks of some American public housing are extremely rare here. The average Englishman wants his own house and garden, and he usually gets it. The British have found that at a low rent they can only make this an economic proposition and a pleasant place to live by planning for it.

On key to the planners' art is handling population density. The average American suburb has about 12 to 20 people per acre, less than one-fifth normal urban density. British new towns compromise on 45 to 55 people per acre, a little less than the figure adopted by British planners working in the United States. They find that grouping people at about 65 to 70 per acre avoids suburban sprawl, which eats up open space.

They find that transferring the new town idea to the decaying American city makes it possible to re-create a sense of community togetherness. Two- and three-story row houses are ingeniously arranged in varied clusters. The clusters are set on diagonal streets and around central grass courts for children to play. In white mothers can watch from the kitchen window. Scattered through the clusters are houses composed of one-room efficiencies for single and retired people—"to keep them in the community, too," Llewellyn Davies said.

URBAN PROBLEM SOLVING—British city planners Walter Bor (left) and Lord Llewellyn-Davies study a model of a new town they are creating in England. They think it may help solve America's urban crises.

LBJ Seeks to Preserve Potomac

WASHINGTON — Chief on both sides of the river, the President said:

"That great river, coursing through Maryland, Virginia, and West Virginia, cradles much of our early history. Five million people live within 50 miles of its shores, and its legend beckons millions more to preserve the historic stream in from every part of the Nation. For the Potomac is truly the Congress to protect 67,000 acres American River."

Now, President Lyndon B. Johnson proposes to establish the Potomac National River to preserve the historic stream in its natural setting. In asking for the Potomac is truly the Congress to protect 67,000 acres American River."

Even copper from the Lake Superior region found its way down the Potomac. Powhatan, who monopolized the metal, tried to keep other Indians from trading with the settlers at Jamestown.

The early fur traders found that these Indians scorned toys and trinkets, demanding hatchets, knives, and clothing. Competition often was unscrupulous. One trader sailed up the Potomac early one spring and spread the false word that his chief rival had been lost at sea. The early bird got most of the season's pelts.

George Washington was intimately associated with the Potomac. He waded into the chill waters in the spring herding run, and his catch more than once spelled the difference between profit and loss at Mount Vernon.

In 1785, the Potomac Co., with Washington as president, was organized to develop the upper river as a gateway to the west. In the course of blasting a canal through rock on the Virginia side, several workmen perished.

"TOO EXTRAVAGANT"

The superintendent laconically reported that the men had "used the powder rather too extravagantly."

James Rumsey, a friend of Washington, served for a time as the Potomac Co.'s general manager, but resigned to give full attention to his invention—a jet-propelled steamboat.

On Dec. 3, 1787, Rumsey demonstrated his boat on the Potomac at Shepherdstown. While a cheering crowd watched, the vessel steamed up and down the river with no visible means of propulsion. A jet of water, discharged from the stern by a steam pump, pushed the boat.

Opening lead—K

By OSWALD AND JAMES JACOBY

The opening event of each national bridge championship is a nationwide charity game in which players all over the country play the same hands. These hands are predealt by computer, and since each player is competing against his own group, the top score for the country is likely to go anywhere and usually does go to some small town.

This does not mean that the hands aren't tests of expert skill. Board No. 7 found East vulnerable and North-South not vulnerable, with West invariably starting with a spade pre-empt.

When West started with four spades, South would double for business. South would leave the double in and, assuming any reasonable defense, West would make his own eight tricks and go down two for minus 500.

He would be unhappy, because 500 is more than the value of a nonvulnerable game, but it would not be a total loss.

West will open the king of spades and, while South won't like this slam contract, he should make it.

The play isn't really very complicated. He must win the spade lead and play a trump. West will show out and South will have to decide to end-play West if he wants to make his contract.

The end play develops if South plays dummy's ace and king of hearts and times the whole play so that he will ruff two of dummy's hearts and eventually play out all dummy's trumps in order to wind up with the jack of spades and ace-deuce of clubs in dummy and three clubs to the queen in his own hand.

Markets: Business and Finance

Mart Rallies in Brisk Trading

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market rallied in brisk trading early today.

Gains outnumbered losses by nearly 2 to 1 and market indexes showed good gains. The market was strong from the opening. Some sizable block trades changed hands.

Xerox rose 5 1/2, Polaroid and Eastman Kodak about 2 each. Gains of a point or better were made by Ampex, Commercial Credit, General Dynamics, United Aircraft, Raytheon, IBM, and Westinghouse Electric and Textile. Fractional gains on heavy volume were made by Occidental Petroleum, Benguet, American Petroleum, Riegel Paper, Belco Petroleum, Chrysler and Bethlehem.

Steels, motors and rubbers were mixed, with most changes small. Chemicals and airlines were mostly higher. Latest reports on prospects for picking a site for the Vietnam peace talks appeared somewhat more encouraging, especially in view of the new note sent by the United States to Hanoi in an effort to end the deadlock.

Among early losers were: Marathon Oil, unchanged at 47 on 50,000 shares; McDonnell Douglas, unchanged at 47 1/2 on 25,000 shares; and

On Wednesday the Associated Press Average of 60 Stocks rose 1/4 to 323.6.

The New York Stock Exchange

NEW YORK (AP)—New York Stock Exchange closed with gains.

DETROIT (AP)—(USDA)—Eggs prices paid per dozen by first receivers (including shell) for Grade A, 23 1/2; for Grade B, 22 1/2; for Grade C, 21 1/2.

DETROIT (AP)—(USDA)—Prices paid per dozen for No. 1 live poultry (including processing charges) for broilers and fryers, 19-21; for broilers and fryers, 19-21.

A Look at TV

News Awards Confused
 By Rick Du Brow
 HOLLYWOOD (UPI) - The annual hilarity that accompanies the release of television's Emmy award nominations has been noted time and again.
 This year, however, it has been disturbing to see how the news-documentary field - television's most significant area - has been involved unfortunately again in the hocus-focus of the proceedings.
 To begin with, the news-documentary people - who have the normal journalistic distaste for affection - find themselves nominated in no less than five high-sounding categories:
 Regularly scheduled news programs; coverage of special events; news documentaries; cultural documentaries and "other news and documentary achievements."
 The nominations in these five categories total almost 80, enough to make any down-to-earth newsmen blush.
 NOT IN THE LEAGUE
 And a careful perusing of the nominations would convince any fair-minded observer that most of them are definitely not in the league of exceptional achievement - which theoretically is the only standard being considered.
 One obvious problem is that four networks - ABC, CBS, NBC and National Educational Television - are guaranteed a certain number of nominations (by themselves, no less) in these categories.

New Psychiatric Unit for Children Praised

The new $2,162,000 children's psychiatric unit at Pontiac State Hospital was labeled a "magnificent facility and significant achievement," at dedication ceremonies yesterday.

The one-story, four-winged structure has been named Fairlawn Center and is located on the western edge of the hospital grounds on Telegraph and Elizabeth Lake Roads.

Guest speaker for the dedication was Dr. H. W. Henderson, executive director of the Mental Health Division of the Canadian Province of Ontario.

He paralleled American efforts with Canadian in the field of mental health for children and said "the object is to insure all children have the opportunity to full development of their potential."

Dr. Henderson, after praising the structure, added that a good mental health program was more than fine buildings, but needed a dedicated staff and cooperation with other community services and volunteer associations.

TOUR OF FACILITIES

Many state, county and city officials were present at the dedication and tour of the facilities.

Fairlawn Center will serve the basic 19-county surrounding area as does the rest of the state hospital. It is the second of several new centers to be located around the state and constructed with state funds. A similar unit, Yorkwoods, was completed in Ypsilanti in 1965.

Fairlawn will serve 80 resident children and its school, special treatment and recreation areas will also serve more day-care children as well as 60 patients over 14 years of age, housed elsewhere on the grounds.

The center contains recreation areas, a swimming pool, gym, support facilities and many special treatment rooms. Directing Fairlawn Center will be Dr. James W. Johnson.

Construction of the facility was a project supported by the Michigan Society for Mental Health, a United Fund agency. The Oakland County chapter is attributed with playing a leading role in its construction.

F111s Still Fly in U.S.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Air Force's swing-wing F111 fighter-bombers are continuing to fly training missions in the United States despite crashes that have destroyed three of the eight sent to Southeast Asia.

Rocky's Emissaries Busy; McCarthy Calls for Debate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two emissaries from New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller are heading into the Midwest today in a bid to generate a Republican presidential draft.

Nonaligned party members generally doubt they'll succeed. But Rockefeller himself says he thinks the draft movement for him is gaining momentum—and says he's ready to run.

The emissaries are Sen. Thurston B. Morton, R-Ky., and William E. Miller, the 1964 Republican candidate for vice president.

Their first stop is Minneapolis, Minn., where Gov. Harold LeVander is an ally.

They're scheduled to be in Detroit on Saturday.

MUNCIE, Ind. (AP) — Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy is pressing for a debate with Sen. Robert F. Kennedy "under any form or any circumstance."

In effect, the Minnesota Democrat appeared to be inviting Democratic Gov. Roger D. Branigan and Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey as well as Kennedy to join him in a face-to-face debate before the Indiana primary May 7.

When McCarthy first proposed a debate with Kennedy, the New York senator countered that such an affair should include other candidates, such as Branigan and presumably Humphrey.

McCarthy, Kennedy and Branigan are on the Democratic primary ballot.

RUNNING AS STAND-IN

McCarthy told about 3,000 persons at Ball State University last night Branigan was running not only as a favorite son candidate in the primary but also as a stand-in for Humphrey, as well as having an eye on the vice presidential job.

He emphasized that Hoosiers should have an opportunity to see the candidates in action side by side as they could judge the personalities.

There seemed to be little difference between him and Kennedy on the broad campaign issues, he said.

Demonstrations Hit 3 Campuses and GM Office

By Associated Press

Student protest groups demonstrated at three East Coast campuses and the General Motors Corp. office building in Detroit yesterday. The demonstrations continued today at only one campus, that of Columbia University in New York City.

Columbia canceled evening classes yesterday and virtually sealed off its campus as militant students took over four buildings.

Tension continued high despite the release of an acting dean and two other administrators from a Hamilton Hall office, where they had been held hostage for 24 hours. There were no plans to cancel today's classes.

Demonstrators remained in the hall and in the ransacked office of President Dr. Grayson Kirk in Los Memorial Library.

POLICE CALLED IN

Officials asked city police to enter Columbia's grounds for the first time in three years.

A meeting between President Kirk and a delegation of Negroes from Hamilton Hall broke up at 4 a.m. with no apparent progress in resolving the dispute.

At issue in the protest — which involved only a few hundred of the 27,500 students — were the school's plans for a new gym in a nearby Harlem park and its tie with the Institute for Defense Analysis.

The current protest began Tuesday at noon.

PICKETS ASSAIL GM

About 100 Wayne State University students picketed the Main General Motors Corp. office building in midtown Detroit, charging the giant automotive firm was prolonging the Vietnam war and U.S. racial strife by producing war material and operating facilities in apartheid South Africa.

The students, members of the Students for a Democratic Society, passed out leaflets as they marched on the sidewalk in front of the building.

A sit-in by some 300 Negro students behind chained doors at Boston University ended last night with a promise by President Arland F. Christianer to increase the number of Negro Students and teachers and to offer a course in Afro-American history.

Storm Alerts Cited

Since this is the season for tornadoes, the Oakland County Office of Civil Defense today issued a reminder that a new term was introduced two years ago to alert the public to the possible development of a twister. Added to the familiar "tornado warning" is the less ominous designation "tornado watch" which is issued by the U.S. Weather Bureau when conditions are such that a tornado may materialize in a defined area.

Radio and television will keep listeners advised of the situation.

Civil Defense authorities suggest that on hearing a "tornado watch," persons should remain calm, make preparations to go to the best shelter, and not call the weather bureau for information.

WARNING ACTION

If a tornado is sighted in the area, and a "tornado warning" broadcast, they advise that persons in a home go to the southwest corner of the basement, taking along a flashlight, shovel and a battery-operated radio.

If the home has no basement, it is best to lie flat on the floor, away from any windows.

If driving an automobile in open country when a tornado is sighted, try to maneuver at right angles to its path. If there is no time to escape, lie flat in the nearest depression such as a ditch or ravine.

Pontiac Awaits First Income Tax Payment

By BOB WISLER
City officials expect that next week will tell whether the city's income tax ordinance will bring in enough revenue to lift the city out of financial doldrums.

At the beginning of the year the city anticipated $1.6 million in revenue from the income tax. But, Edward Gallagher, finance director, has reported that the statistical basis for such anticipation is only an estimate.

He said April 30 is the due date for employers in the city to turn over quarterly payments of withholding tax collected from employees working in the city.

Gallagher said he expects that General Motors will bring in a check for the amount it has collected on April 30 and the GM amount will determine more exactly what the city can expect in income taxes for the 1968 fiscal year.

The city is now in a position of being totally committed to the income tax and those expecting a court decision which would nullify the income tax apparently face a long wait.

proved by the City Commission in October to take effect Jan. 1.

However, a petition drive spearheaded by income tax foe Cecil C. Mullinix of 571 Lowell was filed with the city clerk at the end of the year, and that apparently signalled a referendum vote on the income tax.

The City Commission had decided to set a referendum election on the matter when Winston L. Livingston, a Detroit attorney representing a city policeman and fireman, secured a temporary restraining order from Oakland County Circuit Court restraining the commission from scheduling the election.

Livingstone maintained in court that the petitions turned in by Mullinix were invalid because of irregularities in the forms.

On Jan. 3, Circuit Court Judge William J. Beer ruled that the petitions were defective and invalid. In his ruling he upheld the city income tax stating that a referendum election was not necessary.

He also ruled against a plea by Mul-linix' attorneys to allow their intervention in the case.

The suit ruled on by Beer in the legal sense involved only the city and Livingston and his clients.

Mullinix' attorneys, Robert D. Cunningham and Robert D. Conn, argued unsuccessfully that since Mullinix filed the petitions they, as his attorneys, should be able to defend their validity.

ERROR CLAIMED

They contended that Beer erred in not allowing them to be a party to the suit. (Continued on Page A-15, Col. 1)

DIGGING FOR THE DEAD — Rescue workers hunt the bodies of three men killed in a cave-in yesterday at Oteo, Neb. The men, along with two others who were saved, were dig-

U. S. Offers Talk Formula

WASHINGTON — The United States is understood to have suggested to Hanoi a formula for letting a third party try to arrange a mutually acceptable site for initial peace talks.

Officials said today that a note delivered to North Vietnam through its embassy in Laos earlier this week went beyond the mere request for some formal diplomatic reply to U.S. proposals of 15 possible sites for the talks.

Thus far Hanoi has rejected the American proposals only in propaganda broadcasts and not through diplomatic channels.

The new Washington note may face tough going, however, since high administration officials say North Vietnam appears to be mounting a major campaign aimed at getting the United States to accept Warsaw as a site for peace talks.

That was their assessment of Poland's reported appeal to six embassies in Warsaw to exert influence in bringing preliminary peace talks on ending the Vietnam war to the Communist nation's capital.

The new note, according to U.S. officials, suggested a "mechanism" for breaking the two-week Hanoi-Washington deadlock. It would involve the use of third party services in arriving at a site agreeable to both adversaries.

There was immediate speculation that such a "mechanism" might have some connection with United Nations Secretary General Thant's repeated suggestions concerning Paris.

Yesterday, Thant said he thought either Warsaw or Paris would be a good place for the initial Hanoi-Washington "contacts." Earlier, he had mentioned Geneva and Paris.

The secretary general is aware that Warsaw is unacceptable to the United States, and that Hanoi does not want to go to Geneva. The effect of his suggestion, therefore, was to pinpoint Paris as a possible location.

Some officials expressed the belief there might be an early break in the deadlock, but most administration authorities remained very cautious and shied away from making any predictions.

Frost Is Forecast for Area Tonight

Old Man Winter is back in Pontiac bringing residents light snow flurries and freezing temperatures.

The U.S. Weather Bureau forecasts clear and cold with frost and a low of 26 to 33 tonight.

Mostly sunny and a little warmer is the outlook for tomorrow. Saturday's forecast is for mostly cloudy, showers and not much change in temperature.

Morning winds westerly at 12 to 25 miles per hour will diminish tonight.

Precipitation probabilities in per cent are: today 30, tonight and tomorrow 10. The thermometer hit a freezing 32 at 5 a.m. today. The mercury edged up to 39 by 12:30 p.m.

Volcano Spews Ashes

LEGASPI CITY, Philippines (UPI) — Ashes from erupting Mount Mayon, the Philippines' picture-postcard volcano, choked seven deserted villages today.

The nation's first lady — Mrs. Ferdinand E. Marcos — flew to this town near the volcano about 200 miles southeast of Manila to help comfort 20,000 refugees.

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnamese paratroopers have moved close to the A Shau Valley in a new operation to cut off North Vietnamese supply and infiltration routes, military spokesmen said today.

The move could be the start of a major allied push against the North Vietnamese valley stronghold, which stretches 25 miles along the border of Laos in the northwest part of South Vietnam.

Allied forces have not ventured into the valley in force in the two years since North Vietnamese troops overran a U.S. Special Forces camp and turned the valley into their biggest supply base in South Vietnam.

Under cover of round-the-clock pounding of the valley by U.S. B-52 bombers, nearly 2,000 South Vietnamese paratroopers launched Operation Lam Son 218 last Friday.

It was not announced until today for security reasons.

SIGNIFICANT ACTION

A government communique, giving the first report of significant action, said the paratroopers destroyed 10 North Vietnamese three-quarter ton trucks and seized 330 pounds of dynamite 15 miles southwest of Hue on Highway 547.

North Vietnamese war materials and troops move down the Ho Chi Minh trail into the valley and are funneled along Highway 547 east to the Hue area.

Intelligence sources report 20 enemy battalions within striking distance of Hue. Aim of the South Vietnamese operation is to cut their major supply route.

The Vietnamese communique said troops of the 3rd Airborne Task Force moved into the valley on a search and destroy mission.

Contact with the enemy was said to be sporadic.

There was no mention of U.S. forces in the operation.

U.S. B-52 bombers kept up their campaign in the valley today, attacking suspected troops concentrations, trucks, bivouac areas and bunkers.

Recent intelligence reports have told of troops and materials massing in the valley and of new roads being built.

Mexican Police Quiz King Suspect

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Police in northwest Mexico say they are questioning a U.S. citizen who they said resembles James Earl Ray, wanted on a charge of slaying Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

L. Robert Fletcher of the judicial police investigation office in Caborca said the man carried a U.S. passport issued to Daniel David Kennedy, Jr.

In Baltimore, Mrs. Pearl E. Kennedy said an FBI agent told her Mexican authorities were holding her son. She said, "There is just no connection. He doesn't even look like him."

Agents of the Sonora state police were en route to Caborca to return the man to Hermosillo, the state capital, Fletcher said. He added that FBI agents were on their way to Hermosillo from Arizona.

But in Phoenix, John Mull, in charge of the FBI in Arizona, said he had heard nothing from Mexican authorities and none of his agents were en route to Hermosillo.

School District Discipline Policy Is Under Attack in Lake Orion

LAKE ORION — Is being suspected of smoking a valid reason to suspend a student from school?

Does the practice of confining a recalcitrant student to a closet still continue, despite board denial?

Are teachers in some cases inviting students to quit school?

These were among charges hurled at the school board last night by nearly 50 irate parents and students.

The parental delegation was accompanied by two representatives of the American Civil Liberties Union who asked for a revision of the school discipline policy.

'GREAT IMPROVEMENT'

Schools Supt. Lewis Mundy said that, until this year, "We did have a serious smoking situation in the (high) school, but it has improved greatly."

He reported that the "suspicion of smoking" policy was brought into effect because it had become almost impossible to catch a student actually smoking, though the lavatories might be filled with smoke.

Mundy cited state law which prohibits children under 18 from smoking as the main reason for the school crackdown. The possibility of fire hazard and health damage was also noted.

"We will have to take a new look at our smoking policy," Mundy said, "but if any of you (parents and students) know of another way in which it might be enforced, I wish you'd let me know."

Charges by a student that he had been forced to admit to vandalism and make restitution to avoid expulsion — despite his alleged innocence — brought confirmation of similar incidents from other parents.

There were stories of misbehaving junior high students locked in closets Mundy said the practice once existed but denied that it still does.

Mrs. Eugene Wyman, 157 Hiram, while contending that there were cases of unfair treatment of students, noted, "We have some wonderful teachers and are proud of many of them, but there are a few . . ."

Few teachers were present at the meeting, but those who were noted that when suspicion of smoking involves the same student repeatedly, there is some indication that he might actually be smoking.

DISTRICT POLICY

The district's policy provides that the first "suspicion" means that the student is brought to the office and warned; the second offense provides that the parents be called; and the third results in five days suspension.

Larry Fiebert, a member of the staff of the American Civil Liberties Union in Detroit, asked for an overhaul of discipline policy with offenses and punishments more clearly explained.

He said that in suspensions over five days, six rules should be followed:

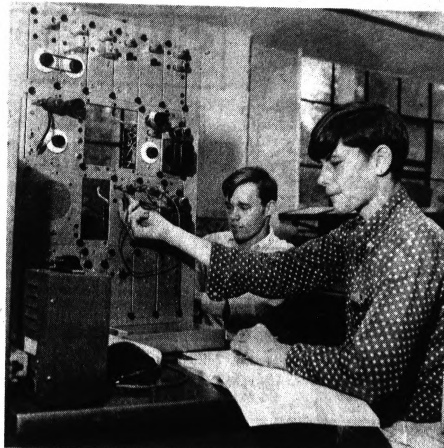

- Parents and students should be notified of the charges.
- Parents and students have a right to a hearing.
- Parents and students have a right to provide counsel.
- Parents and students have a right to call witnesses.
- The student has a right to question the accuser.
- The student has a right to remain silent.

He abbreviated the requirements for suspensions under five days.

READ TO BOARD

A list of 10 alleged disciplinary infractions which Fiebert said he had compiled from some 40 parental letters, was read to the board.

A complete investigation was promised by the board with the results to be made

80 From Walled Lake High in OCC Vocational Courses

By BETTY ANN SCHULTZ

WALLED LAKE — What's happened to schools that students can graduate and already be basically trained as dentist's assistants, computer operators or short-order cooks?

It's called vocational education. Part of it is co-op programs, whereby students work in local businesses while still attending school.

Another part comprises such courses as engineering, shop and office practice, given within the schools.

Still another part — a new one for Walled Lake schools — is taking vocational education classes at Oakland Community College.

This school year, 80 Walled Lake High School seniors and juniors attended, as a pilot program, courses in food services, applied electricity and electronics, dental assisting, and medical office assisting at the Highland Lakes campus.

NEXT YEAR'S PLANS

Walled Lake's plans for next year call for 168 students taking the same courses

as this year plus data processing and automotive technology.

The estimated cost of the courses for 168 pupils is $8,972, paid by Walled Lake. Transportation by bus amounts to about $1,900.

"This is not really much," said Lester G. Carlson Jr., director of vocational education for Walled Lake.

He points out that the equipment, rooms and teachers OCC provides would be expensive for Walled Lake. Students attend classes twice a week for three hours each. They earn college as well as high school credit.

Even with two semesters of a course, Carlson said, students should be qualified for employment in such positions as receptionist and assistant in a small medical office, dentist's assistant, baker's helper, short-order cook, data machine operator, or auto mechanic's helper.

Carlson noted that students going to OCC classes have improved attitude, attendance and grades in the academic courses.

JAMES T. SUTTON

Ortonville Marine Killed in Vietnam

ORTONVILLE — Lance Cpl. James T. Sutton, USMC, was killed in action April 17 in Quang Tri province, South Vietnam. He was 20.

His body will be brought to the C. F. Sherman Funeral Home.

Surviving are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George T. Sutton, 1933 Oakfield; two sisters, Sheryl and Paula Jo, both at home; and three grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Sutton of Pontiac and Mrs. C. J. Sutton of Port Charlotte, Fla.

Sutton, a 1966 graduate of Brandon High School, was employed by the Truck and Coach Division of the General Motors Corp. before entering the Marine Corps in October 1966. He was sent to South Vietnam in April 1967.

Learning-Disability Film Slated Tonight

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — "Why Billy Couldn't Learn," a film which depicts children of average or higher intelligence who are having trouble in school, will be shown tonight at 8 at the Warren Abbott Junior High School, 3380 Orchard Lake.

The public is invited to the showing, sponsored by the West Bloomfield chapter of the Michigan Association of Children With Learning Disabilities.

OXFORD TOWNSHIP — The Thomas chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star will serve a chicken dinner from noon to 3 p.m. Sunday at Oakwood OES Hall, 5855 Oakwood.

Avon Rezones Land for Apartment Units

AVON TOWNSHIP — A 52 vote of the Township Board last night cleared the way for construction of 240 apartments and 30 town-house units south of Walton between Springhill and Stratford Knolls subdivisions.

Trustees Earl Borden and Philip Trimble voted against rezoning.

About 40 persons were present to cite objections involving increased traffic, overcrowded schools and devaluation of residential property, and to present a petition bearing 1,600 township resident signatures in opposition to the apartments.

Frank Laney of the Springhill Homeowners Association asked that the board not rezone the land.

The rezoning request had first received a tie vote from the planning commission. It later passed by a 5-4 count.

COUNTY GROUP OPPOSED

The county coordinating planning and zoning committee voted against rezoning, but after the 30-day limitation for such a vote had passed, its denial was considered invalid by the Township Board.

Sidney Weinberger of College Park Development Co. promised the construction of a row of single-family homes around the proposed complex so homes now backing up to the land would be screened by a further street of residential zoning.

He reportedly also offered to buy the home of anyone who thought his property would be devaluated as a result of the apartments.

He spoke of a pool and community house center for the complex. The project is planned for land south of three existing Weinberger apartment complexes on Walton.

The board also approved a rezoning request from Paul and Martin Fried for 18 acres at the southeast corner of Walton and Livernois. The site now is zoned for business to permit construction of an office and shopping center. It had been in the residential and apartment class.

Rezoning of a strip of land for apartments on the Sidney Lockhart property, on Auburn between Leach and Harvey was granted, clearing the way for the township's first trailer park.

The apartment buffer zone is required in township zoning laws in order to permit a variance for a mobile home site.

The board voted to proceed with chloriding township roads. It authorized the township DPW and engineer to work with the county Road Commission to clear up a drainage problem in Springhill Subdivision.

Hearing Slated in Lake Orion

LAKE ORION — The likelihood of a 3.5-mill increase in village taxes has been presented to the Village Council along with the proposed 1968-69 budget.

A public hearing May 13 will determine whether taxes should be raised to 15 mills from last year's 11.5 mills or whether they will have to go even higher. The village charter provides a 20-mill limitation.

Village Manager John F. Reineck informed the council that even with a 15-mill levy, cuts would have to be made in the proposed budget.

As it now stands, based on a 15-mill levy, expenditures of $204,907 are $42,538 over proposed income.

The proposed budget includes $18,716 for operation of the police department and $1,950 for operation of the Department of Public Works.

SEEKING REPRESENTATION

Employees of both departments recently voted to seek union representation.

Street expenditures are figured at a total of $40,450, the water department at $19,368 and the cemetery at $19,526.

The assessed valuation of the village is $6,944,451, up $60,401 from last year. Reineck figures that each mill will bring in approximately $6,945 in revenue.

Big Question in Rochester District

Why More Millage for Schools?

(EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the second of two stories on Monday's special millage and bonding election in the Rochester Community School District.)

By JEAN SAILE

ROCHESTER — "Why do the schools need more millage when assessments have jumped as much as 50 per cent here in the last two years?"

This is the question that seemingly comes first to Rochester Community School District taxpayers as they contemplate the upcoming millage vote on April 29.

The district is asking for a 4.5 operating millage increase in addition to a 7-mill renewal and 1 additional mill for debt retirement.

Because the state requires that assessments be based on 50 per cent of market value as opposed to the old 20 plus per cent used in the area until two years ago, taxpayers want to know why the school board did not at that time reduce the tax rate.

Schools Supt. Douglas Lund explained: "Rapidly increasing school costs required the school board to maintain the tax rate. Without this source of revenue, the administration would have been compelled to seek a higher millage earlier."

Lund continued, "Furthermore, state aid is dependent on local tax base. The richer districts get significantly less money per pupil than do poorer districts. Thus, as our tax base increased from higher individual assessments, state aid was reduced."

State aid is approximately 45 per cent of the district's total revenue.

As to why costs have increased so greatly in a short time, the administration blames increases in wages of school employees.

Wages make up about 64 per cent of the district's current $4.6 million budget. A budget of $5.3 million is anticipated for next year.

WAGE INCREASES

"Collective bargaining (which began in 1966) combined with a realization by the administration that the salary structure was too low to attract and retain competent teachers; a commitment to improve our relative standing and a generally unfavorable "supply and demand" market for teachers, caused very significant increases in the total wage costs the past two years."

Friends of Troy Library Meet Tonight

TROY — The Friends of the Troy Public Library will have their annual meeting and election of officers at 7 p.m. tonight at the First Presbyterian Church of Troy, 4230 Livernois.

A dinner honoring Rev. and Mrs. Norman Reuter has been planned.

Rev. Reuter, a member of the Friends board of directors, has been transferred out of state. Guest speaker for the occasion will be Robert Walsh of Republic Steel Corp., whose topic will be "You and Your Children."

In expenditures per pupil Rochester is just below the middle with an average of $612 in a survey of 10 comparable districts in the metropolitan Detroit area.

Asked what the district's plans are should the millage fail, Lund said that if the margin of defeat is small, a similar proposal would probably be presented again in June.

"Should the margin be substantial, the board . . . would then, of necessity, seek a reduction in the program primarily through the employment of fewer staff personnel."

Areas mentioned for possible cutbacks are music, art, athletics, physical education, community programs, an increase in class sizes, and reduced subject offerings.

What can we do to avert this continual increase in local taxes?

Answered Lund, "Contact your state and national elected representatives and inform them that you feel the present method of supporting schools principally by taxing property within the district is unjust and must be revised."

NEW BOOKS — The West Bloomfield Township Library gets five new books from its Friends group in honor of the past five presidents of the Friends, including Mrs. Richard Burton (left), first president from 1959 to 1961, who has since moved to Detroit, and Mrs. Joel Warren, president from 1961 to 1963, who lives in the township. Other past presidents include Mrs. Laurence Clark, West Bloomfield Township; Mrs. Dalton Sifton, Bloomfield Hills; and Mrs. William Evans, West Bloomfield Township.

Students Will Model Attire Made in Class

Possibly the most popular classes in Waterford Township Community School Services are the sewing classes. Over a thousand women and teen agers have participated in the 76 classes during the current school year. They keep 14 teachers busy.

The Bishop method is used; this is a demonstration method that starts the students on simple items like housecoats and progresses through fitting, tailoring and working with double knits.

Each spring, there is a fashion show and tea to mark the close of the year. Students model what clothing they have made. About 50 will participate this Sunday.

Mrs. Robert Dika of Williams Lake is general chairman of the courses. Mrs. C. R. Greve is Bishop sewing coordinator.

Any interested person may attend the 2 p.m. event in Mason Junior High School Cafeteria.

Pontiac Press Photo

Mrs. J. H. Ashton, Cass-Elizabeth Road (left) and Mrs. Jess H. Troyer, Draper Street, have taken seven sewing classes together and are modeling the three-piece double knit suits they made. Both will participate in the fashion show of Bishop classes Sunday from 2 to 4 p.m. in Mason Junior High School. The event is open to the public.

Low-Cal Choices for Dining Out

If it's lunch or dinner at a restaurant and you're dieting, safe choices for appetizers include tomato, clam or sauerkraut juice, fruit cup or one-half grapefruit or a shrimp cocktail with lemon juice, clear consommé or bouillon.

Main dishes might be any roasted or broiled meat or chicken, fish or main dish salad. For dessert choose fresh fruit, small serving of ice cream or gelatin.

Announce Betrothals

Mr. and Mrs. John L. Hyland of Bawtree Avenue, West Bloomfield Township, announce the betrothal of their daughter, Linda Mae, to David L. Manning. They will wed July 27.

Parents of the prospective bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Garold Manning of Hanley Street.

A June wedding is planned by Patricia Zavac and Ronald H.

The couple are students at the University of Toledo and Brooks Institute of Photography, Santa Barbara, Calif., respectively.

Their parents are Mr. and Mrs. Emery Zavac of Toledo, Ohio and Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Austin of Steep Hollow Drive, Street.

Brahmanism is another name for Hinduism.

Tips on Furnishing First Home

EAST LANSING — Furniture is perhaps one of the biggest concerns of the young family because they want to have the appearance of "being a family." But the young family has to take many factors into consideration before purchasing new furniture, advises Margaret Boschetti, home furnishings specialist at Michigan State University.

First, the young family may consist of a couple with one or more children or a newly married couple in the process of establishing a home. They are usually inexperienced consumers with undecided taste preferences and little or no knowledge of what to consider in selecting furniture.

Also this family unit is likely short on resources — time, money and energy. Quite often young couples have to consider the possibility of several moves until the husband becomes well-established in his profession.

Many couples on a limited income are discouraged from making any large investments such as owning a home or purchasing major furnishings. And, Miss Boschetti agrees, this is a wise decision.

Young couples can rent furnished apartments and fill in with inexpensive pieces such as cushion seats, card table, dinnettes and temporary bookshelves.

For the family that may be making several moves, Miss Boschetti says that neutral colors are a good choice. Larger pieces with de-emphasizing colors will work well with accentuating accessories.

With a creative touch, many young families can blend "hand-me-downs" with an assortment of inexpensive contemporary furniture to harmonize with their surroundings or temporary dwelling.

During child-bearing years, young homemakers should buy furniture that will withstand the punishment of lively youngsters, advises Miss Boschetti. Fabric-backed vinyls and firmly woven upholstery are good selections in upholstered pieces. All pieces should be easy to clean, resistant to soil, wear and moisture. Flexibility is another consideration. Sometimes small chests fit nicely in a hallway or living room, or patio furniture could be used as an apartment dinette.

Presidential Candidates Appear 'In a Tie'

Mr. and Mrs. William R. Winslow of Birmingham announce the engagement of their daughter, D'Esta Louise to Paul Raymond Riethmeier, son of the Raymond M. Riethmeiers of Rochester. August 24th vows are slated for the couple. Miss Winslow attended Northern Michigan University and her fiance is a junior at Lawrence Institute of Technology.

Myron H. Ackerman, president of The Men's Tie Foundation, announced that the Democratic and Republican candidates for President of the United States are sure to begin their presidential barnstorming in a tie.

With this year's presidential election being the most closely watched contest the country has ever had, the foundation is presenting each candidate with a wardrobe of fashionable and attractive neckties to help enhance his sartorial image. In this age of mass media this is most important. Not only our own voting population but the entire world is watching the daily move of each of the announced candidates.

"WITH IT"

"Knowing politics isn't enough these days. One also has to be an expert on the psychological import of the most appropriate attire for specific occasions," says Ackerman. "Veteran politicians will tell you that being properly attired is an important part of the total image and therefore, a strong vote getter."

"The days of politicians wearing gimmick costumes and Indian headresses are gone. The image the candidate must relate to his public is that of being responsible, alert and conscientious.

"One can place confidence in those who reflect their assurance through good grooming."

The neckwear worn by most of the candidates falls mainly into the categories of silk stripe variations, conservative patterns, nubby weaves for the casual-outdoor look and solids in a variety of handsome, but usually "quiet" colors. The neckwear wardrobe presentation will encompass these favorites in the latest width, style and shape.

These ties will coordinate with black, brown, blue and grey, which are the basic colors most politicians wear in their versatile wardrobes for campaigning engagements such as:

- TV Appearances — Stripes are used most often for television audiences. Although color is now widely in use there must also be consideration for the millions of viewers who are watching on black and white sets.
- Knowing a necktie with a subdued pattern or stripe comes across camera with a rather bland or weak impression, politicians give special attention to their neckwear selection before going "on camera."
- College Campus Groups — Stripes prevail as the favorite of the collegiates and wisely the politicians follow suit.
- Outdoor Rallies — A brighter

color or sharper pattern is necessary for the "out in the open" mood and "regular guy" effect.

- Strategy and Fund Raising Meetings — Solid color or center motif neckties imply the very conservative mood which these get-togethers suggest. A serious sartorial tone helps to get the message across at this time and occasion.
- Ladies' Groups — Patterned neckwear is a favorite with the ladies and is the natural choice when it's... One Man, Alone before all the feminine voters.
- Small Group Appearances — The nubby weaves come into their own and give the casual, intimate, but informal air.
- Formal Affairs — Of course, it's as specified, white tie and tails or black tie and tuxedo.

And then there is an endless variety of whistle stopping, picnic hopping and "happenings," each occasion requiring a different tie mood.

The first recipients of the tie wardrobe will be Richard M. Nixon from the Republican party, and Eugene McCarthy and Robert F. Kennedy from the Democrats. Further presentations will be made as other candidates announce themselves.

Even though politically the Democratic Donkey and the Republican Elephant are polls apart The Men's Tie Foundation has both parties tied together in sartorial harmony through the presentation of a neckwear wardrobe of equal ties to each of the announced Presidential candidates.

Dogcatcher's Tip:
'Don't Be Afraid'

STOW, Ohio (AP) — "You just bring in the dog with kind words," declares Mrs. Dana Nigh, 31-year-old mother of three and Stow's new woman dogcatcher.

Mrs. Nigh, who answers complaint calls and patrols the streets looking for strays, carries an aerosol can of dog repellent but so far hasn't had to use it. "The whole secret is not to be afraid of dogs," she says.

But besides the sweet talk, she uses a rope with a hook on the end and handles it like a leash. If there are a number of dogs in a pack, she captures the female first and ties her to the truck, then goes after the males.

New Anesthetic Found Effective for Longer Time

By Science Service

One shot of an experimental local anesthetic relieved leg pain in a horse for three weeks, reports Dr. Seymour Ehrenpreis of Georgetown University School of Medicine. Local anesthetics now used on people might relieve similar pain only about four hours.

The drug is a derivative of the widely used anesthetic lidocaine. It has been altered to enhance its binding power with nerve receptors. Once bound to the receptor, it blocks the activity of the nerve.

The drug has also been tested on the nerves of squids, lobsters, and rats. Toxic effects now are being studied.

Dr. Ehrenpreis believes the substance might prove useful in conditions of continual pain or irritation now dealt with by cutting a nerve, and possibly in calming irregular heart beats.

Looper 'Bugs' U.S. Forests

Destructive Insect

MARBLEMOUNT, Wash. (UPI) — The hemlock looper is one of the most destructive bugs to be found in the woods and, unless the U.S. Forest Service can come up with the right "spring cocktail," it might just take over much of the Mount Baker National Forest in the next two years.

In a 600-acre area on Bacon Creek, a tributary of the Skagit River, loopers already have stripped the needles on the hemlocks and left them dying.

And the webs of the worms and the worms themselves are rapidly spreading outward over an adjacent 1,000 acres.

A survey made last winter also shows that large numbers of eggs have been laid in five other forest areas, and the possibility is great that these widely scattered tracts will explode with infestation this summer.

If the bugs are not stemmed this year, entomologists estimate that 500,000 acres of trees may be damaged by the fall of 1969.

$35 MILLION

This would cause a loss of an estimated 1.75 billion board feet of timber with a stumpage value of around $35 million.

It is no wonder that foresters are greatly concerned. But so are those persons who do not want to see birds and animals and fish sacrificed through use of pesticides.

Therefore, the U.S. Forest Service is attempting to find a spray that will kill the loopers but not harm other forest creatures.

The looper, known scientifically as lambda picealis lugubosa hult, is one of the most destructive defoliators of trees in North America.

EATS ANYTHING

It eats the needles of the western hemlock and sitka spruce during its larval stage, usually preferring mature trees but it will devour almost anything green during a serious epidemic.

This is what frightens the foresters, for not only is the relatively less valuable hemlock at stake but also forests of prime douglas fir and other trees.

The Forest Service battle plan calls for an initial aerial spray project to test two chemicals which may be effective against the looper. These are zectran and malathion.

In the past, the looper has been controlled with DDT, but this chemical appears to be harmful to fish and game, so an attempt is being made to find an equally effective substitute.

TEST SPRAY SET

The test-spraying will be done this summer from a helicopter to provide close central control over the accuracy of the application.

Three separate areas of about 1,000 acres each will be dosed with different formulas of the chemical. One area will get 2.4 pints per acre of zectran, another one pint per acre of zectran and the third 13 ounces per acre of malathion.

Previous tests show that zectran has more oral effect on mammals than either malathion or DDT, but in low concentrations, the effects are neither dangerous nor long-lasting.

Effects of this chemical concoction are negligible. Zectran is described as "exceptionally safe" for rainbow trout.

SAFE TO MAMMALS

Malathion is safe both orally and dermally to mammals, but in heavy doses it can have an adverse effect on fish, especially chinook salmon fingerlings.

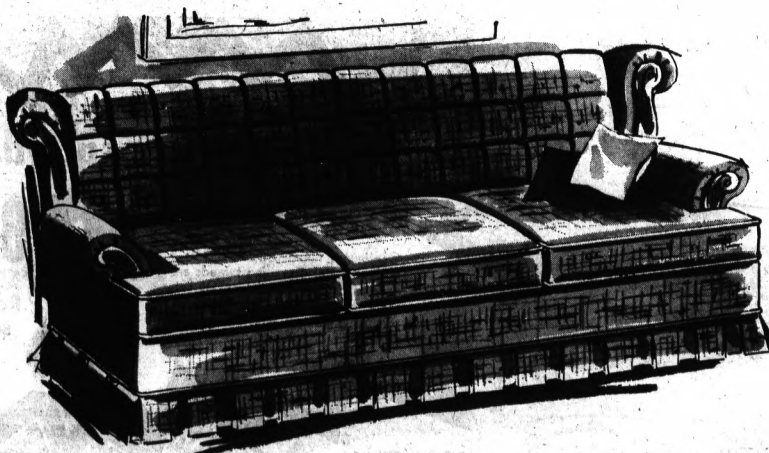

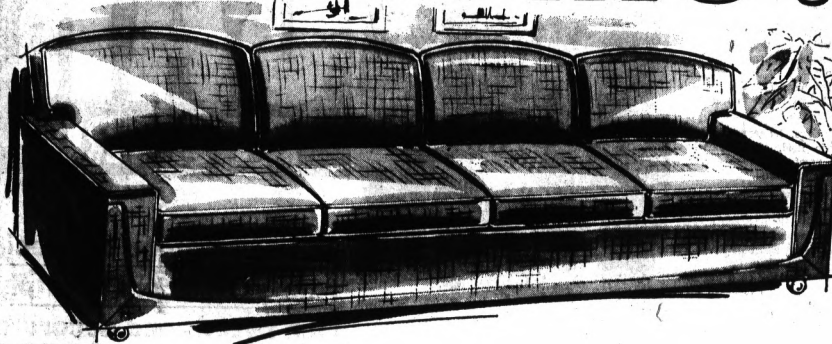

The tests will be conducted around July 8 when the looper eggs are hatched.

Major Inflation Feared

Prices Skyrocketing in Saigon

SAIGON (AP)—For the third week in a row, retail prices in Saigon went up last week. U.S. economists said major inflation later this year.

A weekly price list compiled by the economists showed that retail food prices were up three per cent last week, and nonfood items were up two per cent.

Food prices have risen six per cent in the last month and other prices four per cent.

Food prices are down from the skyrocket levels they reached immediately after the Vietcong's lunar new year offensive less than two months ago but are up an average of 12 per cent over pre-offensive levels.

Over-all prices have increased three and a half fold since the beginning of 1965, and food prices almost four fold in the same period.

The predictions of dangerous inflation later this year are based on the anticipation that government spending will be expanded greatly as a result of the 'Detroit Facing Money Crisis'

Cavanagh Appeals for Right to Boost Tax

LANSING (AP)—Detroit Mayor Jerome Cavanagh warned a House committee Wednesday that his city faces "payless paydays and massive layoffs" unless it is authorized to boost the rate of its municipal income tax.

Some Detroit House members, who face reelection bids this year, said privately however that Cavanagh's appeal was a ploy for raising the one per cent resident income tax to two per cent had little support.

Rep. James Del Rio, D-Detroit, said meanwhile that four of Detroit's seven city councilmen have expressed opposition to the tax increase. He did not name them, although the Mayor asked him to.

Cavanagh told the House Taxation Committee, which is considering the Detroit-only income tax measure, that his city's $460.7 million gross budget for fiscal 1968-69 includes $28.9 million in income from new sources of revenue.

He said Detroit's property and income taxes are already at the legal limit and sales taxes, which can only come from a substantial new tax, which obviously means the higher income tax.

"Frankly, gentlemen, without the increased income tax, Detroit's municipal government is doomed to payless paydays and massive layoffs which will contribute negatively to an already tense and apprehensive atmosphere in Detroit, Cavanagh told the 13-member committee.

He estimated another one per cent of income tax on resident Detroiters and corporations would yield a maximum $40 million a year, the city's present one per cent resident and one-half per cent nonresident levies.

Goldilocks the Culprit?

PORTLAND, Wis. (AP)—The Dodge County sheriff's office is wondering who's been eating Casimir Kott's food, sitting in his chair and sleeping in his bed.

It apparently wasn't Goldilocks.

The intruder who used Kott's Crawford River cottage near there disappeared with Kott's appliances, dishes, blankets and other furnishings.

Kuhn: State Acts to Speed Tax Constitutionality Case

By JIM LONG

The constitutionality of Michigan's state income tax may be reviewed in the Michigan Court of Appeals soon, rather than expected.

Richard D. Kuhn, a Pontiac attorney who is challenging the tax act, said today that he has been contacted by the state attorney general's office to help speed the case along.

Kuhn claims that the tax act violates provisions of the state and federal constitution requiring due process of law, equal protection under law, and the uniformity of taxation of graduated income taxes and legislative acts embracing more than one object.

The case was taken to the Appeals Court after Kuhn lost the first round in Oakland County Circuit Court.

If necessary, Kuhn says he will take the case to the Supreme Court.

The one big question stemming from the lawsuit is: if Kuhn should win, will it be necessary for the state to refund all the money so far collected from the income tax.

Kuhn thinks so, and has paid his own state income tax under protest as a condition of establishing a refund claim if the court upholds his complaint.

In addition to Kuhn's lawsuit, at least four groups, one in Birmingham, are circulating petitions to have the income tax question placed on the November ballot.

One of the organizations, the U.S. Republican Party of Michigan, headed by Richard Durand, GOP chairman in the 14th Congressional District, claims to have 150,000 of the 250,000 signatures required to place the amendment on the ballot. The deadline for filing the petitions is July 8.

Kuhn said that as a result of his conversation with the attorney general's office, his case may be heard sometime next month as he had planned, rather than next fall.

According to Kuhn, the state attorney general's office had indicated earlier that the hearing would be delayed until September.

"I've never been able to understand why they've said Kuhn: 'You'd think that they would be just as interested in getting this settled as I am.'"

The regular 11-cent-per-share dividend for the second quarter of 1968 was announced yesterday by Garlock directors.

Re-elected board president was John A. Riley, advertising executive of The Pontiac Press. Riley begins his third term as head of the board.

Other officers re-elected were Herbert N. Stoenburg Jr., vice president; Ivan M. Forbes, secretary; and Edward Derbabin, treasurer.

Pontiac Osteopathic is governed by an 11-member board of trustees.

Q—To settle a neighborhood argument, please tell me where my money goes when I buy stock in the open market? Does any of it revert to the company?—E.L.

A—Except for brokerage fees and taxes, the money you pay for your stock is forwarded to the investor who formerly owned it. Your broker takes care of this as part of the paper work that has been making recent headlines and that put the New York and American Exchanges on several short trading weeks not too long ago.

The company receives its money only once—when it sells the shares publicly in return for funds to operate its business. This initial sale usually takes place through a process called underwriting.

Since your objectives are set for many years ahead, I would concentrate entirely on growth, buying only those issues which seem capable of moving ahead faster than the economy as a whole, in those industries where the growth factor is strong. I would include such stocks as American Home Products; Continental III. National Bank & Trust; IBM; Marathon Oil; Pough; Sears, Roebuck and others regularly mentioned here.
