GEMINI CORONA—This engineering concept by Aerojet General illustrates what will happen when the Gemini 5 second stage ignites. The first stage has shut down, and both sections are traveling at 6,000 miles per hour. The corona results in the millisecond after the second stage ignites, just before it starts to build its 100,000-pound thrust to move spacecraft into orbit.

Gemini Shot Is Set to Go as All Problems Resolved

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — A space agency official said today that all problems had been resolved and that "all systems are in a ready condition" for tomorrow's scheduled blast-off of the Gemini 5 spacecraft.

Astronauts L. Gordon Cooper Jr. and Charles Conrad Jr., are to rocket aloft on man's longest attempted manned space flight, an eight-day weightless whirl.

Dr. George E. Mueller, associate administrator for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, said that a spacecraft power supply problem had been resolved and "all systems are in a ready condition and the crew is ready to go."

The Titan 2 booster rocket is slated to lift off at 9 a.m. Eastern Standard Time tomorrow.

"There have been the usual or unusual — set of last-minute problems," Mueller said, "and I'm pleased to report we have been able to resolve them."

UP ALL NIGHT

This included the power system which had kept engineers up all night.

The Gemini Project director, Charles Mathews, said the fuel cell system was thoroughly tested and "it did not misbehave."

The problem "cropped up last night during a computer check at McDonnell Aircraft Co. in St. Louis, Mo., where the Gemini spacecraft capsules are built. The computer indicated the possibility of excessive leakage of gaseous hydrogen in the fuel cell."

Mathews said initial checks on the Gemini 5 vehicle indicated there was a problem, but that it apparently was caused by a fuel line connect and disconnect procedure.

NO DIFFICULTY
He added that continued checks showed there was no difficulty.

Cooper and Conrad attended a meeting on the status of the Titan 2 booster and then sat in on a mission review session.

At midmorning officials reported the fuel cell problem appeared to be cleared up.

There were unofficial estimates of a delay of 5 to 10 days if the system had to be replaced.

Engineers had calculated that a bailout rate as indicated by the computer would exhaust the Gemini 5 hydrogen supply in four or five days and force early termination of the mission.

Previous tests of the fuel cell system had not uncovered any malfunction, officials said.

A fuel cell system has never before been used on a U.S. man-in-space flight. It replaces conventional storage batteries which are heavier and bulkier.

88 POUNDS
Two 68-pound cells are in the Gemini 5 craft. Batteries weighing 12 times that much would be needed to support an eight-day mission. The cramped capsule cannot afford that weight luxury.

The box-like fuel cells mix liquid hydrogen and liquid oxygen to form water and, in the process, create electrical power.

Each fuel cell contains three sections. Hydrogen is piped into one chamber under pressure, oxygen into another.

As they filter into a third section, they are broken down into charged particles which produce electricity. When the minute particles of each gas meet, water is formed.

LIQUID FORM

52 Negroes Arrested in Mosque Violence; Eight Cut by Glass

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Violence broke out again today in the South Side riot zone as police stormed the headquarters of a Black Muslim group and arrested 52 Negroes.

Eight Negroes cut by flying glass were found inside the Black Muslim mosque. None had been hit by a bullet, but blood stained the floor.

The eight injured, and 44 others, were booked on suspicion of assault to commit murder and on suspicion of conspiracy.

The raid on the Black Muslims, a militant Negro group advocating supremacy of black races, broke an uneasy calm prevailing the last two nights in a 46-square-mile area where rioting has taken 34 lives in the pastweek.

About 100 police officers rushed to the mosque after an unidentified citizen reported weapons were being carried inside. Officers opened fire when a bullet from the mosque hit a police car.

LOCATE SHELLS

Police later said they found no weapons there but did discover discharged shotgun shells at the bottom of a nearby sewer hatch. They speculated this was an escape route from the mosque. They fired fear gas shells inside the sewer but did not search it.

Officers seized files and literature in the cult headquarters, including a chart they said showed how to short circuit burglar alarms. Contents of the files were not disclosed.

The mosque was the scene of a riot in April, 1962, which resulted in the death of one Black Muslim and the beating of several policemen.

The raid today came little more than 12 hours after a curfew (Continued on Page 2, Col. 4)

'Spy Case Overplayed'

LANSING (AP) — Gov. George Romney today said he thought the case of Margaret (Peggy) Allen, who charged that her role as a State Police spy had subjected her to pressure from state officials, had been "blown up way out of proportion."

"Nothing she said to me involved an effort on the part of legislators to keep her from testifying in the gambling case," Romney said. "She had already given her preliminary testimony when her role was made public."

Romney said there was every indication that the loss of her job as a stenographer for House Democrats was related to her involvement in the case.

"According to what she told me, this is the most serious aspect of the case," Romney said.

Despite persistent questioning by newsmen, Romney refused to say whether or not he thought there was any grounds for legal action against legislators or other state officials who might have "pressured" Miss Allen.

He said the determination of this question would be up to the attorney general. But he invited newsmen to draw their own conclusions from his remarks, which indicated he thought there was no ground for legal action.

Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley and the prosecuting attorneys of Oakland and Ingham County said yesterday they would start probing the case on the basis of sworn statements taken from Miss Allen.

Kelley's statement on the investigations came after Miss Allen, pretty 29-year-old brunette, met secretly with Romney and with Gov. George Romney yesterday.

Jet Crash Area in Lake Is Blocked Off

CHICAGO (UPI) — Government investigators blocked off a patch of Lake Michigan today in their search for clues in the mystery of a jet airliner which carried 30 persons to their deaths.

A fifth victim of Monday night's crash into the lake waters was identified. He was the plane's captain, Melville W. Towle, 42, of Wyckoff, N.J. Only six bodies and the portion of a seventh have been recovered.

Coast Guard Capt. Gerald Applegate said searchers believe they have the crash point pinpointed, in water 200 feet deep 18 to 20 miles offshore from North Chicago.

Murky weather delayed the start of the Navy's aerial search today. Applegate said investigators hoped to have two helicopters and a plane over the waters. There were no immediate plans to send down divers.

The Coast Guard yesterday retrieved tons of twisted debris from the United Air Lines flight 389, a giant Boeing 727 jet which dropped off radar scopes and disappeared into the lake in a ball of orange flame minutes before it was to land on a New York-to-Chicago flight.

A special "disaster team" of FBI agents flew here yesterday from Washington to join other federal agencies in probing the causes of the sudden crash.

Edward E. Slattery, a spokesman for the Civil Aeronautics Board, said investigators were considering the possibility that a bomb had been planted aboard the plane. He said such consideration was routine.

Biggest Battle of War for U.S.

DA NANG, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. Marines and 7th Fleet gunners hammered today at a reinforced Viet Cong regiment on the Van Tuong peninsula, about 60 miles south of Da Nang, in a battle they called the biggest American ground engagement of the war.

Maj. Gen. Lewis W. Walt, the Marine commander, said Viet Cong casualties will run into the hundreds.

"We're not through counting yet," Walt told newsmen.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A $1.7-billion emergency fund to help pay costs of the Viet Nam conflict was approved today by the Senate Appropriations Committee.

Of American losses—officially described as light—the general said "75 per cent of our casualties were people who got shot in the back. It is very, very treacherous terrain."

The Leathernecks attacked in full regimental landing force, some from landing craft and others from helicopters, and quickly established heavy contact with the Red enemy.

UP TO 2,000
Officers said the Viet Cong force, well-dug in, may number up to 2,000 men.

The battle site is on the South China Sea about 10 miles south of the Marines' Chu Lai beachhead, 52 miles south of Da Nang and 230 miles northeast of Saigon.

"The biggest thing we've ever had," a briefing officer said.

A reconnaissance company had reported sighting the Viet Cong concentration yesterday on the peninsula, which is dotted with a complex of villages.

Unofficial sources said two Marine tank corps tanks and one antitank weapons carrier were knocked out in the initial assault.

The action raged on into the night.

"I predict we'll have some tough fighting tomorrow," Walt said.

The Marine assault forces included a special landing detachment from 7th Fleet ships. These included the aircraft carrier USS Iowa, a cruiser, an attack transport and two destroyers.

MAXIMUM USE

Walt reported guns of the cruiser Galveston wiped out two Viet Cong companies trying to flee from a village.

He said he personally counted 17 Viet Cong bodies, all uniformed, in one rice paddy.

"I have never seen a better coordinated attack than I saw today," the general said.

WELL-FORTIFIED
He added that the Viet Cong were well-fortified and that they had camouflaged positions complete with trenches and concrete bunkers.

He said many of the Viet Cong were so well-concealed that numbers of the Marines charged past them, then were fired on from the rear.

The Marine briefing officer said the Viet Cong troops were well-armed with mortars, machine guns and recoilless rifles.

Unofficial accounts from the battlefield said the Marines came under withering fire when some elements landed from helicopters and charged up to take a hill.

The Viet Cong zeroed in on them with mortars and automatic weapons.

LBJ Aide Quered on Eisenhower Remarks

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House said today President Johnson "sees no difference between himself and former President Dwight D. Eisenhower" on U.S. policy in Asia.

Press secretary Bill D. Moyers made this statement in reply to a request for comment on statements by Eisenhower at a news conference here yesterday.

Eisenhower said at the conference that his decision 11 years ago to give aid to South Viet Nam involved no specific military commitment beyond those he said were involved in the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization pact and the Geneva Convention aimed at settlement of Vietnamese troubles.

He was questioned about the matter in connection with the recurrent debate as to whether U.S. honor is at stake in the Southeast Asia country.

Eisenhower's statements were interpreted in a published report as a general demurrer to Johnson's frequent suggestions that U.S. military actions in Viet Nam were a follow-through on a commitment given by Eisenhower in 1954.

POINTS TO LETTER

Johnson has laid stress on an Eisenhower letter to the late South Viet Nam President Ngo Dinh Diem offering to "assist the government of Viet Nam in developing and maintaining a strong, viable state, capable of resisting attempted subversion or aggression through military means."

Asked yesterday about that letter, Eisenhower said: "We were not talking about military programs, but foreign aid."

Moyers said that anyone in the White House who tried to provoke a division between Johnson and Eisenhower "would definitely not be around here very long" and others who did so would not be acting in the national interest.

He said that Johnson has the highest regard for Eisenhower's advice.

Drought Area Gets Aid Tag

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson today declared sections of New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Delaware as federal disaster areas.

The action cleared the way for emergency measures to counter the severe water shortage in those states.

Johnson announced a series of federal, state and local actions after a meeting of governors, mayors and the federal Water Resources Commission headed by Interior Secretary Stewart Udall.

One of the key agreements today would help resolve the water problem between New York City and Philadelphia.

This plan called for establishment of a "strategic water bank" with the 200 million gallons of New York reservoir water now released daily into the Delaware River as a "salt water buffer" for Philadelphia.

Showers Predicted Tonight, Tomorrow

The weatherman intends to give Pontiac area gardens, fields and lawns a good soaking.

He predicts scattered showers or thundershowers tonight and tomorrow, and again Friday.

Temperatures will be a little cooler tonight, the low dropping into the low 60s. Highs will reach 78 to 84 tomorrow and continue warm Friday.

West to southwesterly morning winds at 6 to 14 miles per hour will shift to north to northeast by evening, continuing to night.

Sixty-seven was the low recording preceding 8 a.m. today. By 2 p.m. the mercury had climbed to 87.

Wage Floor Boost Gets Unit Okay

WASHINGTON (AP) — A 50-cent increase in the present $1.25 minimum wage and extension of the wage law to 7.2 million more workers was approved today by the House Education and Labor Committee on a voice vote.

Chairman Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y., predicted the bill would pass both the House and Senate before Congress adjourns.

The bill would extend federal wage legislation to farm workers for the first time, bringing 1.3 million of them under it.

The original law applied only to production workers. Retail and service employees were added three years ago. Nearly 30 million workers are now covered.

The increase for those now under the $1.25 minimum would come in three annual steps, the first increase would be to $1.40 next July 1, then to $1.60 in 1967 and $1.75 on July 1, 1968.

START AT $1
The newly covered workers, except for those in farms, would start at $1 an hour next Jan. 1. The rate would go up to $1.15 six months later, to $1.25 on July 1, 1967, and then in annual steps to $1.40, $1.60, and beginning July 1, $1.75.

Farm workers, including migratory workers, and hired hands on farms employing four or more men, would start at $1.15 an hour next July 1, and go to $1.25 starting July 1, 1968. No further increases were recommended at this time.

Congress Breaks Aid Deadlock, Talks of Adjournment

WASHINGTON (AP) — Now that the long deadlock over foreign aid has been broken, congressional leaders are talking more confidently of going home some time in September. Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield says he is shooting for adjournment around Labor Day of the session that has seen enactment of more legislation than any other of recent years. All major proposals by President Johnson that have come up for a vote so far have won approval.

House Speaker John W. McCormack talks more conservatively of winding up business "perhaps from Sept. 18 on."

McCormack's date seemed to have more takers than Mansfield's. Some skeptics, pointing to high priority bills still on various rungs of the legislative ladder, say Congress can't get through until sometime in October.

But the agreement, reached Tuesday by House and Senate conferees on reconciling the two versions of the foreign aid authorization bill clears away one stubborn obstacle. The discussions had been going on intermittently since June 18. The agreement came during the conferees' 14th meeting.

Johnson's requests for foreign aid totaled $3.469 billion. The $3.36 billion figure finally approved includes $1.7 billion in military assistance abroad, the remainder in economic aid.

Both chambers are expected promptly to approve the compromise, which comes up for action in the House probably Thursday. The principal issue resolved was the duration of the authorization. The conferees finally took the House version — one year only — but the House negotiators agreed to support a longer-term authorization next time.

The authorization bill, however, only sets a maximum for the actual appropriation, which must be considered later.

Some members of Congress are uneasy about the U.S. decision not to try to deprive the Soviet Union, France and other countries delinquent in their United Nations peace-keeping assessments of their votes in the U.N. Assembly.

ANNUAL GESTURE

Every year someone makes the gesture of trying to eliminate or reduce U.N. funds in the appropriation bills. This year the effort may be pushed harder. The State Department appropriation, which contains the basic U.S. dues to the United Nations, already has been enacted, but funds for various U.N. agencies are in the foreign aid appropriation measure.

There is other unfinished business that could delay adjournment, including:

—A proposed new immigration law phasing out the national origins quota system. The House Committee may clear it today.

—A new farm program, now being debated in the House. Its chances were improved when the administration agreed to eliminate a controversial wheat certificate price increase that had been dubbed by opponents as a "bread tax."

—A sugar bill, on which the House Agriculture Committee starts work today. Such legislation, setting quotas for foreign and domestic suppliers, has repeatedly forced all-night or extra-day sessions when Congress is trying to adjourn.

—Aid for higher education. The House Committee is expected to clear the bill in time for House consideration next week.

—Elimination of the Taft-Hartley Act provision allowing states to legislate on the union shop. Passed by the House, this bill faces some 40 proposed amendments in the Senate. Some senators predict it will not be acted on until next year.

—Appropriations for the anti-poverty and other administration programs.

New Toys Await Nursery Children

AVON TOWNSHIP — When the youngsters return to the Rochester Cooperative Nursery School next month, they will find a host of new toys waiting for them.

A child-size doll carriage, a rocking boat, a stove and an ironing board are just a few of the items purchased this summer by the mothers who run the school.

There will also be new cabinets in which to keep their toys.

After being closed for the summer, the school will re-open next month at St. Luke's Methodist Church, 3900 Wallon.

The nursery school meets Monday and Wednesday mornings and Tuesday and Thursday afternoons for 4-year-olds and Tuesday and Thursday mornings for 3-year-olds.

FEW OPENINGS

Mrs. John R. Weamer of 180 Winry said there are a few openings still available for 4-year-old girls in the afternoon group and for 3-year-old boys and girls.

Parents who wish further information on the school can contact Mrs. David Hunt, 2181 Charnwood, Birmingham, or Mrs. Arthur Bartley, 290 Vreeland.

Mrs. Weamer said the school is open to children from all areas.

Park Behind School Is Up to Township

UTICA — Seven acres of land behind Sterling Junior High School will be turned into a park when the Sterling Township Board gives final approval.

The Utica Board of Education has approved Sterling's request for use of the area.

Plans are to turn it into a neighborhood park.

Tom Breen of the Utica schools said the land has not been in use and such a park would benefit both the schools and the township.

The board of education also approved plans for four new elementary schools.

Breen said the schools will be "flexible" with sliding walls to make the rooms larger or smaller.

Architects will now draw up plans for the schools.

Initiate Action on Paving Job

Project on Nine Mile Will Cost $25,000

FARMINGTON — The City Council has initiated action leading to the paving of Nine Mile from Farmington Road to the 1-96 ramp next spring.

The project will cost an estimated $25,000.

The Oakland County Road Commission will pay 50 per cent of the cost, the city at large 25 per cent and owners of abutting property 25 per cent.

Cost to the property owners will be some $3 per front foot.

PRIVATE ROAD

Councilmen have taken under advisement a proposal to accept a private road now owned by the Farmington Board of Education and Our Lady of Sorrows parish.

The road connecting 10 Mile and Shilawase between Farmington and Powers roads serves the board of education building, 10 Mile Elementary School and Our Lady of Sorrows School.

The two agencies involved have asked the city to accept right-of-way for the road, which they say should properly be under public jurisdiction.

They have agreed to improve the road to bring it up to city standards before dedicating it.

TRAFFIC STUDY

The council will withhold its decision until a traffic study can be made after school opens. City Engineer Frank Papke has been asked to prepare a report on the life expectancy of the road after improvements.

Dinan said the city would receive $300 to $400 a year in state gas and weight tax funds for the road's maintenance.

Union Accord May Enable Fair to Open

DETROIT (AP) — A marathon bargaining session resulted today in a "gentlemen's agreement" which may enable the Michigan State Fair to open on schedule this year after all, spokesmen reported.

A delay or even cancellation of the 1965 fair had been reported possible because of a dispute between fairgrounds officials and Local 98 of the Plumbers Union.

The union set up an "informal" picket line after the dispute began Aug. 10, and craft unions preparing the grounds for the scheduled Aug. 27 opening honored it. Fair Manager Walter Goodman indicated Tuesday the fair might not open.

Spokesmen now expected that under the tentative agreement with the craft unions, work on the booths and grounds may resume today.

The dispute centered around the union's demand that it control the number of plumbers hired at the fairgrounds.

Goodman said the fair was willing to hire union plumbers if control over the number of men to be hired remained in the hands of the fair authority.

FEATHERED FRIEND—Ten-year-old Rachel Zarcorian (left) and her cousin, Sandy Smith, 9, last week found a baby robin having navigational problems in White Lake Township. The youngsters took him under wing, so to speak, and are attempting to teach him to fly. So far, the tamed bird seems to prefer the security of a friendly hand. Rachel's parents are Mr. and Mrs. John Zarcorian, 3640 Woodview, West Bloomfield Township. Sandy's are Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Smith, 9980 Cedar Island, White Lake Township.

State Rains Bring Relief to Most Crops

LANSING (AP) — Scattered rains are continuing to bring relief to most growing crops in Michigan, says the Federal-State Crop Reporting Service.

The rain was too late to help some crops in areas where earlier moisture shortages were severe, the service said. Soil moisture continued short over most of the southern two-thirds of the state.

Northern Lower Michigan and the Upper Peninsula generally had adequate moisture supplies. About nine-tenths of the corn crop has tasseled. The corn continues uneven in height, especially in central counties. Pastures continue to supply below average amounts of feed at improved conditions have improved.

DRY AREAS

Rains in formerly dry areas improves the outlook for the third cutting of hay.

The oat harvest is about half completed. The crop is nearly harvested in the southern one-third of the state, but the harvest over-all is the slowest since 1961.

The tart cherry harvest is completed in the west central area but continues in the northwest. The summer apple harvest continues in volume.

The peach and tomato harvest is nearing a peak in the southwest. The harvest of early varieties of peaches is under way further north. Blueberries are being picked in volume.

Vegetables reaching volume harvest include carrots, celery, corn, cucumbers, cucumbers for pickles, lettuce and onions.

Free refreshments will be available for senior citizens on Old-Timers' Day at the Michigan State Fair Aug. 30. The fair opens Aug. 27, and closes Sept. 6.

Opening Sessions Sept. 9 in Walled Lake Schools

WALLED LAKE — Opening class sessions will be held Sept. 9 for students in the Walled Lake School District.

At the elementary level, kindergartners will attend the initial sessions on a shortened schedule.

Half of each of the morning and afternoon classes will report to their schools for one of the first two days.

Parents will receive letters indicating which sessions their children will attend.

All kindergarten pupils will follow the regular schedule beginning Sept. 13. The morning classes will meet from 8:25 to 11:05 a.m. and the afternoon groups from 12:10 to 2:55 p.m.

Other students in the district will begin full class sessions Sept. 9.

Hours for first through sixth graders will be 8:25 a.m. to 2:55 p.m.

To allow families new to the district to register their youngsters, elementary principals will open their offices from 7:45 a.m. to 3:45 p.m. beginning Monday.

Junior high principals also are urging students to register before the opening of school. Their offices now are open from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.

ALREADY REGISTERED

Former sixth graders who have attended local schools already are registered.

Regular school hours at Clifford H. Smart Junior High School will be 8:55 a.m. to 3:35 p.m. and at Walled Lake Junior High School 9 a.m. to 3:40 p.m.

All senior high students can purchase their textbooks and complete their orientation beginning Monday.

Rochester OKs School Budget

ROCHESTER — A $3,029,720 budget, based on a tax rate of 29.09 mills, was approved by the board of education Monday night.

The new budget represents an increase of $320,000 over last year's budget.

Schools Supt. Dr. William Early said the increase is the result of an additional enrollment of 400 students, operation of 22 new elementary classrooms and 12 new junior high classrooms at West Junior High School.

He said there are also nine added instructional areas at the faculty to service the new classrooms and a new salary schedule approved by the board last February.

MILLAGE RATE

The millage rate is up only 31 mills over last year. The allocated rate was increased from 8.28 mills to 8.59. The board will also levy 14 voted mills and 6.5 mills for debt, the same rates levied last year.

Dr. Early said the anticipated income to meet the budget totals $3,083,200, coming from both state and local sources. It includes a $10,000 grant from the Mott Foundation for the community schools program.

The money allocated for each department includes $2,234,320 for instruction, a figure which represents 76 per cent of the operating budget.

Other breakdowns are $95,400 for administration, $2,875 for health services, $151,000 for transportation, $322,850 for plant operation, $75,275 for maintenance, and $69,500 for fixed charges.

CAPITAL OUTLAY

Capital outlay will take $46,000, community services including the new community school program, $22,400, student body activities, $18,000 and contingency fund, $4,000.

Dr. Early said the district still has three teaching positions which it has not been able to fill.

and a business education teacher at the senior high school.

He said these positions had been filled but became vacant recently when the teachers were granted releases for various reasons.

Holly Patrolman Hurt Making Arrest

HOLLY — A fight, sparked by an attempt to make a routine arrest, netted a Holly policeman a broken leg early this morning.

John Kister, a reserve officer with the Holly police department, is expected to be off duty for at least six weeks while his leg heals.

As a result of the fight, two young men are being held in the Oakland County jail while police seek warrants against them.

Phillip M. McLaughlin, 21, and his brother, William J., 19, both of 118 College, were to be charged with assaulting an officer.

Holly police said Kister and his partner, Jerry Kram, attempted to arrest the elder youth for being drunk and disorderly about 2 a.m. on Corbin Street.

The fight started when Phillip resisted, they said.

School Picks New Principal

MILFORD—A former Huron Valley teacher who has been working in Pontiac was named principal of Bertha Baker Elementary School last night.

Douglas E. Nickola, 3619 Fruit, Highland Township, assumed his new administrative duties today.

Before going to Pontiac, Nickola taught elementary music here in 1960-61. Last year he served as assistant principal of Pontiac's Bagley Elementary School.

Nickola earned bachelor's and master's degrees in music from Michigan State University and has nearly completed requirements for a second master's, in school administration.

Nickola and his wife, Joan, have three children.

City, Grand Trunk Officials Attempting to Smooth Out Railroad Crossing Problems

City officials are working with the Grand Trunk Railroad in an effort to clear up problems of at least two crossings in the city.

At the regular City Commission meeting last night, City Engineer Joseph E. Neippling reported on the first of a series of meetings with railroad officials to ease the flow of traffic at the Jackson, Wessan and Saginaw crossings.

Motorists and commissioners have both vigorously complained about delays in crossing when safety gates come down and block traffic — but no train passes through the intersection.

Neippling said the problem at the Jackson and Wessan crossing was caused when switch engine operators failed to use a manual override device to contract the automatic signal device.

Grand Trunk officials told the city engineer that switch engines, which have no intention of using the crossing, sometimes trip the automatic signal device.

MANUAL SWITCH
The railroad men said there

is a manual override switch which the trainmen should use if they do not intend to cross the highway.

Grand Trunk officials said they had scheduled a meeting with their personnel in an attempt to get them to use this manual device.

At the Saginaw crossing, a high speed signal-sensing device is causing the problem, Neippling said.

ACTIVATES DEVICE
However, when a slow moving train approaches, this also activates the device and the gates close, Neippling said.

After a short time, when a train fails to appear and while motorists wait at the crossing, another automatic switch which operates on an elapsed time basis, raises the gates.

This device works in such a manner that if after setting off the high speed switch, a train has not reached this switch in a specified time, the device assumes a mistake has been made and raises the gate.

Then, the slow moving train reaches the normal automatic switch and the gates close again — occasionally on the car of a thoroughly confused motorist.

MORE MEETINGS
The city engineer said no solution for this problem has yet been reached, but further meetings and study were scheduled.

Mayor William H. Taylor Jr. suggested if the city could control the speed of the trains, the high speed switch wouldn't be needed.

City Manager Joseph Warren told the commission the city has the power to set speed limits for trains traveling within the city.

Neippling is scheduled to report back following future meetings with railroad officials.

OTHER ACTION
In other action last night, the commission heard a report from Warren on the Cemetery Endowment Fund.

The city operates two cemeteries, Oak Hill and Otsewa Park. Last year, about $42,000 was taken from the general fund to maintain the two parks.

Total budget for the cemeteries was approximately $103,000, Warren said. They were about 60 per cent self-supporting.

About $25,000 was added to the cemetery endowment funds bringing the total of these funds to nearly $250,000, the city manager said.

AID OPERATION
In the 1965 budget, some earnings on the investments of the endowment funds will be used to help operate the cemeteries, thus lowering the outlay from the general fund, Warren said.

This has not been done in the past.

Public hearings were also scheduled on several matters.

Set for hearing on Sept. 7 at 8 p.m. is a petition to rezone two lots, one south of 723 Portland and the other south of 724 Wing, to commercial.

OTHER HEARINGS

Also set for Sept. 7 is a hearing on the request to rezone from manufacturing-1 to residential-3 a plot of land east of Woodward, across from St. Joseph Mercy Hospital.

This plot will be used for two large apartment complexes planned by Charles Laags and Dr. John R. Yivisaker.

Set for public hearing on Aug. 31 are recommendations for curb, gutter, grade and gravel on portions of Madison and Bennett Court.

Estimated cost on the projects is $6,600 and $7,020, respectively.

GRADE, GRAVEL
Also set for Aug. 31 is a hearing for grade and gravel on an alley east of Joslyn near LeBaron with a cost estimate of $2,180.

The hearing on a recommendation that the city vacate an alley near Montclair and Portland was set for Sept. 21.

Following public hearings last night, the commission approved resolutions that the city vacate an alley parallel to Oakland near Monticello and a section of First at Highland.

Also, the commission passed resolutions to prepare the assessment roll is for street improvements on portions of University, Spruce, Lookout and Kettering.

For these four projects, the estimated cost to property owners is $5 per front foot.

The commission deferred action on street improvements on portions of Clara and Fuller after protest petitions were received from homeowners.

Pontiac Officials to Attend Silver Lake Level Hearing

City officials will be at Oakland County Circuit Court Sept. 7 to attend a hearing to establish the level of Upper Silver Lake, which abuts the west side of Pontiac.

The hearing will be presided over by Judge Phillip Pratt. City Engineer Joseph E. Neippling said at the City Commission meeting last night that the level of this lake is of direct concern to Pontiac.

The Clinton River flows from the lake, he said, and a change in the level could affect the dry weather flow of the river.

If a decrease in the flow occurred, this, in turn, could hamper the operation of the sanitary sewage disposal plant, he added.

Neippling and David B. Ewalt, director of the city's parks and recreation, will attend the meeting.

Hay Fever Sufferers Face Miserable Season

The hay fever season has officially opened, and by all accounts it should be a memorable one. Widespread drought in many parts of the United States has ripened the ragweed and will help to scatter the pollen.

Scientists say it is this ragweed pollen—not goldenrod—that causes most of the hay fever and asthma suffered from mid August to the first Autumn frost.

The Allergy Foundation of America estimates that 20 million Americans—a tenth of the population—get hay fever or asthma, or both together, every year. The affliction is no joke to the sneezing, itching sufferers. Hay fever can induce serious infections of the nose, throat and sinuses. And it often leads to asthma which caused some 5,000 deaths in this country last year.

Hay fever sufferers are advised not to swim in chlorinated pools, and not to inhale smoke or drink alcohol (which stops up nasal passages).

Hay fever shots help some persons, provided the series is started well in advance of the season. Allergists are currently experimenting with "one shot" immunization.

Hard at work in the entire field of allergies is the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases, one of the National Institutes of Health. This year it has made 453 research grants totaling $12.2 million—fifteen times the effort of a decade ago.

For the present, however, the best way to be sure of avoiding a hay fever attack is to be where the ragweed isn't—possibly some of the Mountain States and along the Pacific coast. However, don't take the trip on our say so.

New Device Induces Rodents to Cheese It

The irresistible sounds of fabled Pied Piper helped rid the town of Hamelin of its rats and mice, but today it's unbearable noise that's being used to chase unwanted rodents.

According to The Insider's Newsletter, the besieged Hamelin would have welcomed a new device that is guaranteed deadly to rats and mice, but safe for other animals and humans.

The soon-to-be-marketed machine, which can be used in homes or barns, emits a super-high-frequency noise that only rodents can hear when it's turned on.

At first, the nerve-racking sound makes them sick and dizzy, then they start fighting among themselves and end up with nervous breakdowns. The rat-riders' developers claim that the rodents that don't destroy themselves make rapid exodus from the premises.

That's all well and good. But what's to prevent a few generations of rats biologically developing immunity to the racket, much as our older generation of humans has to the Beatles?

Travel in S. Viet Nam Is All Up in the Air

You'd hardly look for an application of the "It's an ill wind..." homily amid the war-weakened economy of South Viet Nam, but there it is and flying high.

Because of hazards and disruption of surface travel resulting from Viet Cong guerrilla attacks, the government-controlled commercial airline is doing a land-office business.

With a motley fleet of aircraft, Air Viet Nam last year boosted its freight tonnage 50 per cent on flights throughout Viet Nam and to Hong Kong, Bangkok and Singapore.

The company's average domestic rate of 4.7 cents a mile is about 20 per cent lower than equivalent rates in the U.S. But despite disproportionate expense of chartering planes because of shortage of its own, Air Viet has operated in the black without government subsidy for four years. This year it expects to exceed last year's record earnings of $500,000.

Flying under wartime conditions is predictably difficult. Because civilian travel is banned at night, all flights must be crammed into daylight hours. At the Saigon Tan Son Nhut airport, the company's planes must queue up on runways and wait their take-off turn with long lines of Vietnamese Skyraiders and U. S. jet fighters revving up for missions against the Reds.

But true to the history of warfare, embattled and impoverished South Viet Nam proves to be no exception to the rule that life and business go on as usual.

Crisis Set Aside by Move in U.N.

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON — One crisis at a time. The Johnson administration, busy with war in Viet Nam, wanted to crisis with the Soviet Union in the United Nations. So it backed down, to nobody's surprise.

It had moved toward this position for months. The dispute over the Soviet Union's back door had the U.N. General Assembly in knots. One U.S. official explained: The world situation is too dangerous to have an inactive assembly.

The decision, of course, was made by President Johnson. It was publicly stated Monday by Arthur J. Goldberg, new U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, in his maiden speech to the world organization.

This was one year to the day after the Communist world warned that the Soviet Union and its allies would walk out of the United Nations if they lost their votes in the General Assembly for being behind on peace-keeping assessments.

This was after the United States had firmly demanded the Soviet Union pay up. If the Communists had walked out, the United Nations would have been left a shell. The United States never forced the issue to a showdown.

FACES CRITICISM

Johnson faces criticism from some Republicans, but not all, and it started quickly. "It's a sad day for the United Nations," was the instant reaction of Sen. Bourke B. Hickenloper of Iowa, senior Republican on the Senate's Foreign Relations Committee.

The 114-nation assembly had been deadlocked a year over the question of whether the Soviet Union should lose its voting right. The United States had pushed about as far as it thought safe to go without risking a U.N. crackup.

Perhaps some of the American indignation was window-dressing. Goldberg said Monday this country had found that a "consensus" of the U.N. members was the organization to get on with its work.

But this couldn't have been a recent discovery. Last January the U.N. president, Alex Quaison-Sackey of Ghana, had said just that. So Goldberg was really saying the United States finally decided to make the best of a bad situation.

Earlier this year the Red Chinese satellite, Albania, tried to force an American-Russian showdown, both these giants joined forces to stop it. Since Goldberg's statement as the American representative was cut and dried, prepared in advance, it gave no insight into how he will operate as the late Adlai E. Stevenson's successor.

Disastrous Status Quo!

David Lawrence Says:

14th Amendment 'Fraud' Cited

WASHINGTON — The so-called 14th Amendment, which has been the source of authority for many court decisions and much legislation in recent years dealing with highly controversial questions involving states' rights, LAWRENCE has been challenged as to its validity by the State of Kansas.

Its attorney general, Robert C. Londerholm, has just filed a brief with the Supreme Court of the United States alleging fraud in putting through the amendment.

The truth is that the 14th Amendment was never ratified in a lawful manner, but the Supreme Court of the United States has constantly avoided or evaded taking any case that would require a ruling on the legality of the process used in its "ratification."

Secretary of State William Seaward — whose office then had the duty to "proclaim" an amendment when its ratification had been completed — did so on July 20, 1868, with respect to the 14th Amendment, but in language that expressed doubt and reservations as to the validity of the ratification.

Then Congress did an unprecedented thing — it passed a joint resolution directing the secretary of state to promulgate the "ratification." He complied at once.

IN HIS BRIEF

The Kansas attorney general, in his brief, points out that of the 37 states in the union when the so-called 14th Amendment was submitted by Congress to the states in June 1866 for approval or disapproval, legal adoption required that three-fourths — or 28 states — ratify the amendment. Ten states, therefore, could block it.

But by Feb. 1, 1867, Londerholm declares, 17 states had ratified and 11 had rejected it. And, as he says in his brief, "The 14th Amendment was thus defeated."

Although the war was over and the ratification in 1868 by the Southern states of the 13th Amendment, abolishing slavery, had been accepted as valid, these same states were suddenly declared out of the union by Congress in a law passed on March 2, 1869, known as the "First Reconstruction Act."

They were notified that, until they ratified the 14th Amendment, they wouldn't be "readmitted" to the union.

Congress ordered new legislatures to be assembled. Military coercion was applied as troops were sent in some cases into the legislatures themselves.

Corruption was rampant in choosing members of the legislatures, especially nonresident "carpetbaggers." In one case, a general presided over the legislature.

Whenever cases involving this issue have been filed with the Supreme Court for hearing, the court has invariably said that it was a "political question."

Just recently, however, in accepting reapportionment cases, the high court delved into what it previously had held also to be a "political question." Indeed, some of the dissenting justices called attention to that precedent.

So it may be that the high court, to be consistent, now has to open up the "political question" enveloping the "ratification" of the 14th Amendment.

If the Supreme Court doesn't take the Kansas case, the American people have a right to demand that the 14th Amendment be passed by a two-thirds vote of both houses of Congress, and be resubmitted promptly for legal ratification by three-fourths of the state legislatures or state constitutional conventions.

Bob Considine Says:

Is Man Falling Behind in Race to Reach Stars?

CAPE KENNEDY — If man is reaching for the stars, as the masters of space rhetoric gathered here for the Gemini 5 shot are likely to say, he's better hurry.

The stars, or at least some of them, are racing away from him faster than his machines can follow.

"Two years ago, we were convinced that the universe consisted solely of galaxies, stars and planets," says Cambridge's eminent young astrophysicist and mathematician Fred Hoyle. "This was taken for granted."

"But thanks to radioastronomy, 'quasars' (quasi-stellar sources of radio waves) have just been discovered."

"They are neither stars (they are too big for stars) nor galaxies (they are too dense and too compact for galaxies)."

MOST DISTANT

"The most distant 'quasar' is 7,000 million light years away. It radiates 100 million times as much energy as the sun, and it is speeding away from us at the rate of 90,000 miles per second."

"They have been given this name because no one is capable of defining them. Perhaps they are galaxies dying or being born 7,000 million years ago, for their light needed 7,000 million years to reach us."

It's things like this that must make astronauts ask, "Is this trip necessary?"

The best space man is capable of in earth orbit is five miles per second. He's not going to overtake many quasars until there is some miraculous breakthrough in propulsion and in life supporting gear.

NEXT STEP

Within man's present scope of imagination it would appear that the next step in space propulsion will be the atomic engine.

The breakthrough has been made on the seas: eventually it will come in the air and beyond the air.

A Polaris submarine needs nuclear refueling only once a year. In time, some way will be found to shield a spaceman from the deadly atomic engine without burdening his spaceship with 50 tons of lead.

When that day comes, he'll be able to maintain high speeds in outer space and no longer be dependent on gravitational pull. But those high speeds will fall lamentably short of the 186,000 miles per second velocity of light.

We've come so far, but we have so far to go...

Voice of the People:

'Streamlining Religion' Would Solve World Ills'

The world is in a mess! Many believe that the only solution is a mass return to religion and this idea has merit; yet we are not going to accomplish this universal transformation because religion today is outmoded. The main trouble with religion is that it requires too much of our time. Today is the time of excerpts, condensations and digests. Let's streamline religion in the same manner.

The 60-minute Sunday morning service could be condensed and thereby made more acceptable to potential Christians by either eliminating or reducing the length of the "Prelude" and dropping the "Call to Worship." The "Invocation" could be greatly speeded if the minister simply indicated that each should undertake his own entreaty on the way home from church or on the golf course. Music could be stereo excerpts; a "pastoral prayer" printed in a bulletin and read silently by the congregation while listening to the music; and time involved with "bringing in the sheaves" could be saved by employing a proven scheme—payroll deduction.

A good minister should be able to develop a theme in three to five minutes with a sermonette, and a simple "amen" would seem an adequate benediction. The time involved would be greatly reduced and more people would flock to the fold. Then, the great masses of Christians could start remedying the world's ills.

'Politicians Forgo Meaning of Economy'

As soon as the tax was raised from 3 per cent to 4 per cent our Lansing politicians raised their salaries, expense money and their pensions. If Mr. Romney can get a personal income tax, they will raise their salaries, etc. and what is gained? Stop them now and save money. The word "economy" is still in the dictionary but not in the minds of the politicians in Lansing.

'We Could Win Viet Nam War If We Tried'

I think the war will continue in Viet Nam, as it keeps business booming. The President has declared war on poverty in U.S.A. How well we could use the millions being wasted in Viet Nam. I think we could win that war in one week if we tried—and without using atomic bombs or high-powered missiles. Why don't we do it and get it over with? We have sent committees to Viet Nam seeking some solution and also sent men to the U.N. to try to get other countries to help bring about peace.

Comments on Union Organized Factories

I don't believe L.J.N. worked in a factory before the unions organized the workers. Men had to come to work early to make up their stock, make more up at lunch time, and had no relief. They were not paid for this work. There was no seniority, paid holiday and vacation, and no retirement.

There are some union officials that abuse their trust, but we have that in Washington and Lansing also.

Fair to Have Socialist Home Study Course

One of the outstanding features of the Socialist Labor Party exhibit at the State Fair in Michigan will be a home study course on "The Science of Socialism." This will be a carefully planned study from which the serious student can obtain a basic understanding of the principles of scientific socialism and the DeLeonist program for the Socialist reconstruction of society.

Our Wild Ones

The Hong Kong Asia Magazine

A rising wave of juvenile delinquency is engulfing Asia in the wake of economic and social change. Like industrialization our wild ones are a big-city phenomenon. Rural frustrations may breed their own restless juvenile delinquency as the centers of population. Strange and ironic in a region which prides itself on the cohesive virtues of its ancient family system, as well as on its religious and customs, juvenile delinquency has caught governments and communities napping.

In Tokyo three teen-agers, apparently inspired by a scene in a TV detective story, pulled six during daylight robbery in a three-hour spree.

Another young trio murdered a Hitachi City taxi-driver, then drove off with his car to pursue more devilism. Six highschool students stole seventy-two cases of ammunition to get powder for their illegal "44's" pistols. Five youths beat a fellow student to death in a schoolboy argument. Some two million offenses all over Japan were committed by youths aged thirteen to twenty-one in 1963. Japanese youths are apparently just as self-destructive. More than 4,000 teen-agers commit suicide every year—an unusually high rate compared with world averages.

In Hong Kong "ah feis" or "teddy boys" have lately become a major problem for government, community and church. Last September, a peak month, 18.4 per cent of all prosecutions for serious crimes was of minors. Organized gangs fight with knives, iron bars and bicycle chains. Others crowd districts at night, extorting money from schoolchildren, robbing old women and occasionally beating up passersby. Hong Kong judges increasingly prescribe "canings"—beatings with a hollow, jointed reed—as punishment for hooligans.

In Malaysia the picture is better. Although more than half Malaysia's eleven million teens are under twenty, misdeeds committed by youths below seventeen make up less than one per cent of all crime.

In Manila an aggressive police drive, coupled with social welfare work, has broken the teen-age gangs that in the late 1960s fought in the streets and terrorized whole communities. Even so, young criminals between sixteen and twenty-one make up more than one third of Manila's prison population. Just as serious a nuisance and only a little less widespread

European Teens Mixed in Reaction to U.S. Youth, Schooling

(Editor's Note: This is the third in a series on a project known as Youth For Understanding, and the experiences of European who spent a year in Michigan homes.)

By STUART GROSS
Of The Saginaw News.

The Associated Press

ABOARD THE M. S. AURELIA — American youth and American education came in for some bouquets and brickbats at the hands of 450 European teenagers, members of Youth For Understanding, returning to their homes aboard this ship.

These youngsters have completed a year's living experience in American homes, high schools, churches and communities in 18 states. The majority spent their year in Michigan.

There was no clean-cut description of an American teenager or American high school emerging from the discussion groups, held daily aboard the ship. Individual experiences varied.

But here are some of the observations made by these youngsters:

• The American teen-ager

Bird Feathers Nest With Lighted Cigarette

WATKINS GLEN, N.Y. (AP) — A startling sight tried to feather his nest with a lighted cigarette brought firemen to the home of Richard Sheesley.

Firemen said the bird apparently had picked up the cigarette from a street and dropped it into the nest under Sheesley's porch roof. The fire was doused quickly.

is rushing toward the adult world, and there is a question in the minds of these Europeans if he'll be ready for it when he arrives.

• The eagerness of the American teen-ager to jump into marriage right after high school is a major surprise to the Europeans.

• The American teen-ager has the ability to make an on-the-spot decision, and in the eyes of the Europeans these decisions generally are right. The American teen-ager gains through personal experience, whereas European teen-agers make mature judgments on advice of parents.

• The American teen-ager experiments with sex out of desire to belong to a certain group at school or in the community, and this conformity is necessary to belong.

If there was any envy shown by the European teen-agers it was contained in two points — the learning by personal experience, and the ability of the American teen-ager to accept responsibility and make decisions.

There were some who criticized the American parent

Dress Was Low-Cut; So Are TV Programs

AMSTERDAM, Holland (UPI) — The newspaper De Telegraaf reproved viewers who criticized television announcer Mrs. Aegthe Scherphuis for wearing a low-cut dress.

Commented the newspaper, "If Mrs. Scherphuis' dress was too low, she was just adapting herself to the average level of Dutch television programs."

for lack of discipline. But those who voiced this criticism in discussion groups, said the Rev. Robert Gilliam of Newton, Iowa, a group leader, also complained their own parents were too strict.

Nicholas Schreiber, Ann Arbor High School principal and shipboard program director, detected what he termed a note of "sensationalization" in the report on American youth.

There was general acknowledgment the American school is far less formal than the European school, the American teacher attempts to make the classroom discussion interesting, and the American teacher is a friend to the students.

CAN'T UNDERSTAND
"I can't imagine," said one European girl, "an American student understanding how we must stand up when the teacher enters the room and can't sit down again until he tells us we can."

The Europeans found advantages and disadvantages to the curriculum.

In Europe only 20 per cent of the students are selected by test for high school and thus eligible for college education. They take an average of 13 subjects a year.

They said for those students who have their careers well in mind, the American system of permitting students to elect their own subjects and concentrate on them by carrying four or five academic hours a year, is good. They wish they had that opportunity.

But for those students who are not set on careers, the Europeans concluded their system of a broad, general education with 13 subjects would be better.

Irvin Wolf, former Detroit Denby High School principal, it."

said: "We want you Europeans to understand that because we do it this way in America, we don't believe it necessarily is the way your country should do

Bishop Pike Hits Charge of Heresy

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Rt. Rev. James A. Pike, Protestant Episcopal bishop of California, is once again embroiled in a theological battle within his church, but he says he is confident his fellow bishops will exonerate him of heresy charges.

Bishop Pike, replying to charges that he disbelieves in the Virgin birth and the Trinity and incorrectly sought to ordain a woman as a deacon, described his critics as "among conservatives in the church."

At a later point in a news conference Tuesday night, Bishop Pike declared, "There is a close tie between church conservatism and the radical right and segregation."

The bishop said he expects to be upheld in his position when the church's 200-member House of Bishops of the United States meets Sept. 7-9 in Glacier National Park, Mont.

REQUESTED DISMISSAL

He was charged with heresy by 14 Arizona priests who requested Pike's dismissal. The request was contained in a letter to Arizona Bishop Joseph M. Harter, who forwarded it to the ruling bishops.

The charges were aired in an article in the Episcopal magazine, "The Living Church."

"I don't think the charge of heresy will get beyond Glacier," said Pike, who is in charge of the vast diocese of California, an area extending from Sacramento in Northern California to San Luis Obispo, halfway between Los Angeles and San Francisco.

"Those who are accusing me of heresy — and only some of the names are known to me by their owner's reputations — are among the conservatives in the church," he said.

CONSIDERED LIBERAL

Bishop Pike is considered a liberal, both within the church and political circles.

Two of the heresy charges, regarding the Virgin Birth and the Trinity, are based upon his own published book, "A Time for Christian Candor," and statements made four years ago.

The latest case involves Deaconess Phyllis Edwards, 48, a San Francisco widow whom Pike said he intended to ordain in the higher position of perpetual deacon, which no woman now holds.

Bishop Pike said he based his intention upon wording in church law which apparently permitted women to be ordained to the position. He said the matter properly can be decided by the bishops' meeting at Glacier.

Regarding the Trinity and Virgin Birth, the bishop said "literal belief in the Nativity narratives, which form a layer of material in two of the later Gospels, is not required to be affirmed by our church."

He said this is made clear by the "doctrine in the Church of England" and by "The Faith of the Church," which he coauthored and which was distributed by the Episcopal Church.

5 State Solons Get ACA 'Zero'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Both senators and three congressmen from Michigan were given zero ratings, from a conservative point of view, yesterday by the Americans for Constitutional Action (ACA).

The conservative group cited Sens. Patrick McNamara and Philip Hart, both Michigan Democrats, as having a totally unacceptable voting record in the Senate for the past two years.

Democratic representatives John Conyers Jr., Charles C. Diggs Jr. and Lucien Nedzi all received similar zero ratings by the ACA.

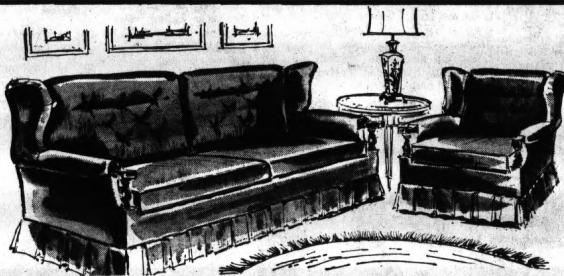

Perfect ratings to nine Republican congressmen and one Democratic congressman were a sharp drop from 22 senators and representatives awarded top ratings two years ago, according to Charles A. McManus, ACA executive director.

Medicare Used to Bilk Elderly

Racketeers Posing as Social Security Agents

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Racketeers posing as representatives of the Social Security Administration are defrauding elderly Americans by pretending to sign them up for Medicare coverage, it was disclosed today.

Federal authorities said they had received complaints about the racket from New York and Texas. They believe Medicare con men may be at work in other states as well.

Here is how the racket works:

The crook shows up at the home of an elderly person and introduces himself as a Social Security field agent. He says he's there to explain the Medicare program.

After giving the intended victim a certain amount of authentic information about the new law, and perhaps showing him an official brochure (readily available at any Social Security office), the glib-talking visitor says he will be glad to take care of the enrollment paperwork.

BAITS HOOK

He baits the hook by saying that persons over 65 can obtain a special discount on Medicare insurance premiums by signing up early and paying in advance.
In fact, he's ready to collect the advance premiums then and there.

If he succeeds in obtaining money with this story, he simply pockets it and disappears.
The older is not only defrauded of money which he perhaps can ill afford to lose, but also is misled into thinking that he has signed up for Medicare coverage.

"It is an unspeakably vicious racket," said a Social Security official.

To guard against it, he said, all Americans over 65 should bear in mind the following:

• Participation in the basic hospitalization insurance feature of Medicare is free. Not a dime is required to sign up.

Those who are already on Social Security benefit rolls will automatically receive enrollment cards in the mail before the Medicare benefits go into effect next July 1. Others should enroll in person at the nearest Social Security office.

• Enrollment for voluntary supplementary insurance against doctors' bills and certain other medical expenses will begin Sept. 1. Enrollment cards will be mailed to those now on Social Security. Others may sign up at Social Security offices.

The premium is $3 a month once the coverage begins on July 1, 1966. These premiums will be deducted from their Social Security retirement checks, or paid by mail. There are no discounts for prompt enrollment.

KEY THING

"The key thing to remember," said an official, "is that no bona-fide Social Security representative will ever try to collect money from any older person for Medicare enrollment."

"If the caller asks for money, you can be certain that he's a fraud artist. Just call the nearest FBI office and report him."
Posing as a Social Security representative is a federal crime punishable by prison sentences of up to three years and fines of up to $1,000.

State Not an Arid Region

The Big Problem in Water-Laden Texas Is Proper Diversion

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Easterners who are suffering through their fourth straight summer of drought may think they're living under a Texas-type hardship. But the popular conception of Texas as an arid region is false.

Texas as a whole has more than it can use. The eastern portion of the state, for example, gets more than 50 inches of rainfall a year. The average rainfall at Beaumont, near Houston, is 55 inches per year. Houston averages 45 inches, Dallas 35 and San Antonio 28.

Almost 800 miles to the west, though, around El Paso, the fall is less than 10 inches annually. Therein lies the Texas water problem.

HAD ITS SHARE

Texas has had its share of droughts. The state was hit especially hard by the seven-year drought of the 1950s. It was then that bottled water sold in Dallas for 50 cents a gallon, or seven times the cost of oil, long a basic pillar of Texas economy.

Texans tried everything from thousands of dollars paid to rainmakers to less expensive prayers.

By the time drought-breaking torrents fell in the spring in 1957, intensified water development began. Texas found it had plenty of water, but was not using it properly.

Plans were drawn for scores of large dam-reservoir projects, many to cost over $50 million, to keep river water in Texas instead of letting it run off into the Gulf of Mexico.

There are today 138 major dams built or under construction in the state, with the 44 largest reservoirs having a collective surface area when full of 2,300 square miles, almost twice the area of Rhode Island.

PLENTY OF WATER

Texas has so much water that 40 million acre-feet meander through its rivers to the Gulf every year. There are more than 7,500 named streams, rivers and tributaries in the state, flowing in 80,000 miles of channel. An acre-foot is 325,851 gallons.

Water experts believe that huge dams alone will not solve the water problem. They say that transbasin diversion — transfer of water by canal or pipeline from one river basin to another — is needed.

Diversion is especially crucial in Texas because of the disparity in annual rainfall across the state. The Texas Water Commission says yearly rainfall decreases about one inch for every 17 miles from east to west. The most dramatic diversion proposal is for a 419-mile canal from the Sabine River on the Texas-Louisiana border to the Lower Rio Grande Valley.

COST OF CANAL

The U.S. Bureau of Reclamation estimates that the canal, to be about 50 miles inland from the Gulf Coast, would cost $511 million and annually divert 3,358,000 acre-feet of water from east Texas to more arid regions to the west.

Work is nearing completion on another diversion project in the Texas Panhandle, a $103-million dam-pipeline complex on the Canadian River to supply municipal water to 11 west Texas cities. The pipeline system is 322-miles long, the longest such waterway ever built by the Reclamation Bureau.

Most large river projects in Texas are under the direction of the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers. The corps has spent $588 million on water development in the state since 1940, and is authorized to spend $292 million more. But authorities estimate that as much as $4 billion is needed in the next 40 years if the state needs.

FIRST BIG DAM

The first big dam was built across the Colorado River at Austin in 1889. It since has been rebuilt and now is one element in a chain of six dams forming the "highland lakes" in the Texas hill country not far from President Johnson's LBJ Ranch.

They are considered a model of their kind, and provide flood control, municipal water and electric power.

But water planners hope to rectify the state's climatic imbalance by:

—Storing water in many large reservoirs for use when needed;

—Diverting water from a portion of the state that has an abundance to regions needing more.

SURFACE WATER

More Texas cities are depending on surface water stored in reservoirs for municipal supply rather than on wells that tap underground sources.

the present 2.5 million acre-feet a year to 13 million.

We know a man who never thinks about anti-freeze until the first frost.

He never comes to our August top coat sale, either.

Nothing will ever convince him that now is the time to get ready for cold weather.

Not even the price tags on our great selection of famous label coats (labels like Eagle and Ronald Bascombe, just to name a couple).

Not even the choice he'd have ... of styles, colors, patterns, and sizes. (Not even Osmun's expert tailoring, or individualized charge plans.)

Oh, well.

We're certainly glad you're not that way. You must know that the coat you buy now will cost up to $20.00 more in a couple of months. So come to Osmun's right away.

And on the way home, play it safe. Stop and get some anti-freeze.

Said More Safety-Conscious

'Boaters Aid Water Toll Cut'

Boaters using Oakland County's more than 400 lakes are probably more concerned about safety this year than they have been during any preceding summer since the recent "boating explosion" began.

This belief is expressed by Lt. Donald Kratt who directs the Water Safety Division of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

Boaters have contributed a great deal to the decrease in water accidents recorded by the county this far this year, Kratt said.

"In addition, nonboaters and boaters alike are standing up for their rights. They are calling the authorities when they see violations of the state water laws," the deputy said.

There have only been 28 boat accidents so far this year, compared with 42 recorded through the same period last year.

NOT TRUE PICTURE

Although the number of drownings already exceeds the total for last year, Kratt said the figures do not actually represent the true picture in regard to lake patrol activity.

Eight of the drownings occurred prior to May 30, the traditional opening of the water sport season, Kratt said.

Many of the eight were freak accidents which he feels shouldn't be included in the total of water accidents, he said.

The county has a record of 20 drownings to date. Only 18 were recorded last year.

PATROL IS BUSY

Although boaters seem to be more safety conscious, Kratt and his 40-man water patrol are busy.

Nearly 400 tickets have been written so far this summer.

And there are almost two months left in the water sports season.

Fifteen persons have been arrested for drinking violations. And Kratt considers this the number one problem on the lakes.

DRIVING TOO CLOSE

"We have a good many problems with boaters driving too close to swimmers or docks to drop off or pick up water skiers," Kratt said.

"The boat operator must maintain a 100-foot safety distance when approaching persons in the water or dock areas," he added.

Kratt said his men were vigorously enforcing all water laws, particularly safety rules.

"We are being very strict with boaters who don't have the proper safety equipment on board — such as life jackets, a fire extinguisher and the proper lights," he said.

Kratt added that his men were watching for boats which were not marked properly.

"We feel that good enforcement is strict enforcement," the officer said.

Aussies Aid Malaysia

CANBERRA (AP) — Australia will provide about $21 million additional defense aid to Malaysia during the next two years. Treasurer Harold Holt announced this in presenting his federal budget to Parliament Tuesday and said the assistance would be in the form of equipment and training aid.

Alaskan Has a Home

Where Buffalo Room

DELTA JUNCTION, Alaska (UPI) — Richard Limbocker has a home where the buffalo roam.

A 1,500-pound bison roamed into his basement yesterday.

The beast apparently fell through a coal chute. Fish and game officials borrowed a wrecker to hoist the animal out.

Wood impregnated with plastic and treated with gamma rays looks like wood and can be worked with woodworking machines, but is so hard as to be practically abrasion-proof.

Milliken Sets Talks

LANSING (AP) — Lt. Gov. William Milliken says he will hold office hours Aug. 24 in Emmet and Charlevoix counties. He will be available to meet groups and citizens in the morning at the Emmet County courthouse at Petokey and in the afternoon at the Charlevoix County courthouse.

Workshop Is Slated on Juvenile Crime

The Oakland County Juvenile Officers' Association, in conjunction with Probate Court, will hold an all-day workshop Sept. 15 at Southfield Civic Center.

All police officers in the county are invited to attend the seminar, according to J. R. Hodson, intake officer at Juvenile Court and president of the association.

The program will include discussion of new legislation, Juvenile Court procedure, matters of handling detention and the bad-driver point system which now affects 16-year-olds.

"It is an attempt to expose to the various police departments methods of handling juvenile offenders and court procedure," said Sgt. David Putnam, juvenile officer of the Waterford Township Police Department.

Judge Clarence Reed Jr. of

Southfield Municipal Court will officially open the program by welcoming those in attendance and introducing the various dignitaries and participants.

Registration will be held at 8:30 a.m. Four sessions — two in the morning and two in the afternoon — will follow.

Luncheon also will be served at the Civic Center.

Officers planning to attend the program should contact James Davis of the Beverly Hills Police Department. Total fee is $2.50.

General chairman of the event are Lt. Claude Bracy of the Royal Oak Police Department's youth bureau and Sgt. Richard Overmyer of the Southfield Police Department's youth bureau. Further information can be obtained by contacting Sgt. Overmyer or Lt. Bracy.

Poet Succumbs at 40

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Jack Spicer, 40, author of several volumes of unorthodox poetry, died Tuesday. He at one time had taught at the University of Minnesota and was a frequent lecturer.

Oral Driver's Tests Offered

Given for Those Who Don't Read English

Oral driver's license examinations will be given in Pontiac starting Friday and every Friday thereafter to applicants who do not read English.

The tests are principally aimed at Spanish speaking residents of the area.

The examinations must be arranged for through an appointment made with the Driver's Licensing Bureau of the Office.

The plan was worked out by Secretary of State James M. Hare, Rep. Robert Slingerland, D-Lake Orion, and Sheriff Frank Irons.

Slingerland said the problem was brought to his attention by Thomas Chavez who teaches English to Spanish-Americans. According to Chavez there are about 3,000 Spanish-speaking residents in the Pontiac area.

FROM SOUTH

Clarence Barnes, executive director of the Pontiac Urban League, told Slingerland that the oral tests would be helpful to many poor-reading Negroes who have moved to the area from Southern states.

Richard M. Cook, assistant secretary of state, said that there are many people who do not read English well enough to answer the multiple choice questions on the written portion of the test, but do know the 50 or so words that appear on highway signs and are good safe drivers.

Apparent Low Bidder Told in R20 Plan

The Bank of America is the apparent low bidder for the sale of $3,105,000 in preliminary loan notes for Pontiac's R20 Urban Renewal Project.

The bids were opened yesterday, but the city commission deferred action on the sale until next week's meeting.

Three bidders, Bank of America, Community National Bank and the Morgan Guaranty Trust Co. of New York, all offered the same interest rate—2.38 per cent.

However, Bank of America offered an $82 premium, $2 more than Community National's $80, and $9 above the $73 proposed by Morgan Guaranty Co.

The funds from the sale will be used to pay off the outstanding notes on the old R-20 loan, and to operate the project for the next six months.

Live Bomb Unearthed

JPSWICH, England (UPI) — A woman archeologist, digging at the site of a 1,300-year-old burial ship yesterday, unearthed what she thought was a rare metal object. Police identified it as a live mortar bomb.

Whole Show Is Too Expensive

Ring Curtain Down

BY ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter has announced that when she turns 18, in four months, she is getting married, and she wants "the whole show," as she puts it. She says the girl's father is supposed to pay for everything. Her father makes $5,600 a year. There are three other children in our family, all younger.

We are buying a $12,000 home and have a 30-year mortgage with 23 years left to pay. How much do parents owe their children?

Should we borrow money to put on "the whole show"? I think if our daughter wants that kind of wedding, she should go to work, save her money and put it on herself.

I would like to add that when I got married, I didn't even get a wedding present from my folks. I knew they couldn't afford it. I asked for nothing, expected nothing and got nothing. But I loved them and I knew they loved me, too.

What makes young people today think that everything they want they have coming to them?

JUST PLAIN MA

DEAR MA: Your question is a good one. Young people who have been waiting on and handed money for nothing develop the something-for-nothing attitude. Apparently your daughter hasn't been taught that a family is a team, and each member has to pull his share of the load and make a few sacrifices if necessary.

If a girl is old enough to multiply, she's old enough to add. Tell her you can't afford "the whole show" and ring down the curtain on the whole subject.

DEAR ABBY: What is a girl supposed to do when her boyfriend acts very, very affectionate to her in private, but like he never saw her before when they are in public?

SALLY
DEAR SALLY: Rejoice! It's better than having him act very, very affectionate in public, and like he never saw her before in private.

Golf League Has a Picnic

The Ladies Tuesday Tee Golf League held its annual picnic following a round of golf Tuesday.

Mrs. LeRoy Johnson opened her Hammond Lake Drive home for the occasion.

Winners for the day included Mrs. Glen Hickson and Mrs. Bertha Lampkin, first place winners; Mrs. Donald Vanline and Mrs. Robert Taft, second place winners; and Mrs. Thomas Zielinski and Mrs. John Donley, third place winners.

DEAR ABBY: I am a man in my mid-40's, and I have always wanted to carry a cane even though I am in good physical condition and do not need one to aid my walking.

Is there any etiquette involved in this? Is it proper for a man to carry a cane only for "Appearance's" sake? Or do you think it will look like an affectation?

DEAR WANTS: Many men carry canes for "appearances." It lends a touch of elegance, providing the man is well-groomed, handsomely attired, and can carry a cane with grace. If you fit that description, get a cane.

DEAR ABBY: I'm sure the woman and her husband who ask the waitresses a lot of personal questions must have been sitting at my station.

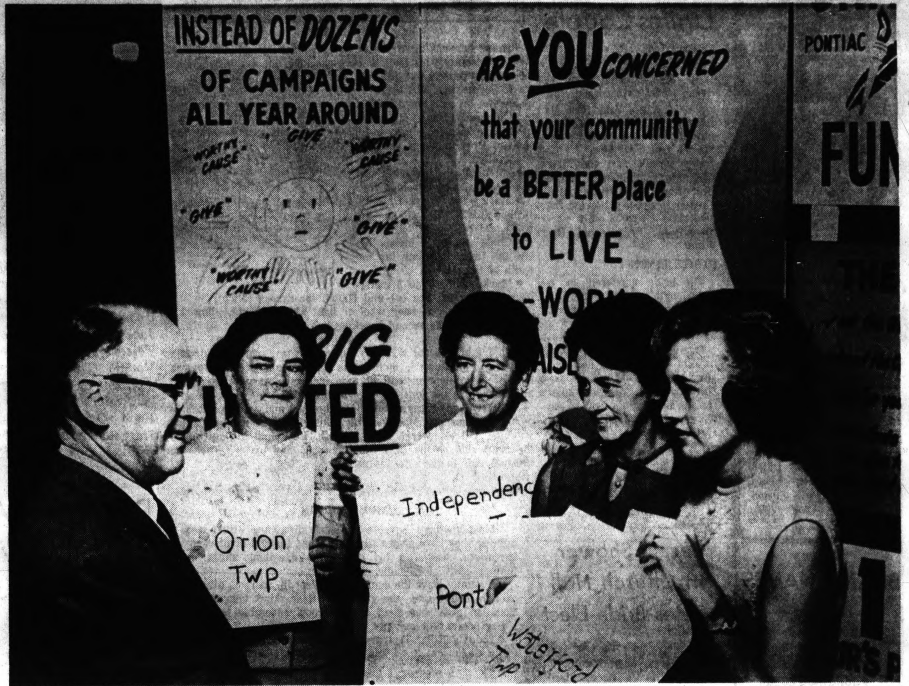

You wouldn't believe how many people come in and ask "What kind of accent do you have?" "Did you marry a G.I.?" "Since you didn't marry a G.I., where did you meet your husband?"

I don't mind answering a few questions from a nice little old couple who just want to make conversation.

But once in a while you get a real pill, and the only way to stop him is to put him the question and replying, "I met my husband in California. Where did you meet your wife?"

This usually causes a stunned silence. But it always works.

Golf at Orchard Lake

Two new faces emerged as finalists in the recent Orchard Lake Country Club championship women's golf tournament.

Mrs. Theodore H. Guething of Birmingham defeated Mrs. Robert E. Leahy, Birmingham, the defending champion, in the semi-finals and went on to win the champion's title from Mrs. Charles R. Weir of Bloomfield Hills. Mrs. Weir defeated last year's runner-up Mrs. William L. Mosher Jr. of Bloomfield Hills in the semi-finals.

With one exception Mrs. Leahy and Mrs. Mosher have divided the club championship between them for the past 12 years. Both semi-final matches were close, with Mrs. Guething beating Mrs. Leahy on the 18th hole and Mrs. Weir beating Mrs. Mosher after one extra hole.

Winner of the championship consolation match was Mrs. Frederic M. Adams over Mrs. Robert L. Henning, both of Birmingham.

A flight winner was Mrs. Taylor Paisley of Franklin over Mrs. Thomas Purdy, Orchard Lake.

Mrs. Thomas W. Miner of Birmingham won over Mrs. A. O. Thalacker, Bloomfield Hills, in the B flight match. Winner of the consolation match in B flight was Mrs. Robert C. Trees, over Mrs. Norman J. Ellis, both of Birmingham.

Double-Ring Ceremony Unites Couple

A recent double-ring ceremony at Kirk-in-the-Hills Presbyterian marked the vows of Agnes Ann Rice to Richard Lee Kimmel of Bensenville, Ill.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Reginald I. Rice of Middle Bell Road were hosts at a garden reception following the afternoon ceremony performed by Dr. Harold DeWitt.

BEIGE LINEN

The bride appeared in a floor-length gown of beige linen and carried a bouquet of white orchids and ivy.

Donna M. Baintott of Columbia, Mo. attended her cousin and Jay M. Kane of Northlake, Ill. was best man for the bridegroom, son of the Forrest E. Kimmels of Terre Haute, Ind.

After a week's honeymoon in San Francisco the couple will be at home in Bensenville.

Recent Shower in Church Hall Fetes Bride-Elect

Claudia Jean Cook who will wed Charles Scott Lambert, Saturday, in the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, was honored at a recent shower in the church hall.

The hostesses, Mrs. Roland Curtis and daughter Cynthia, welcomed some 40 guests at the party.

Mrs. William Matheson gave a recent shower in her home on West Brooklyn Avenue, with Elaine Hertel as co-hostess.

Parents of the engaged pair are the Claude E. Cooks of Victory Drive, Mrs. Yvonne Lambert of Genes Drive and Jacob Lambert of High Street.

SEW SIMPLE

By Eunice Farmer

Thank heavens for a son in college, it sure keeps me on my toes! My son and his friends were checking out my instructions for cuffing trousers and told me I needed to be up-dated.

It seems that the correct width of the cuffs today is 1 1/4 inches not 1 1/2 as it was. Also, the trouser legs should be tapered to 16 inches or less.

Please keep these easy-to-follow instructions with your sewing notes. Most mothers and wives have to do this little job eventually.

● Rip out the original cuff and press the trouser legs flat.

● Mark the correct FINISHED LENGTH (a) on the trousers.

● Chalk mark 1 1/4 inches below the first chalk line for the width of the cuff (b).

● Mark another line 2 inches below the second line (c) and cut off the excess fabric.

● If fabric is a short wool or light weight fabric, allow 3 inches below the second marking line.

Fold fabric to the WRONG side of the trousers on the chalk line (b). Fold down 1/2 inch of the cut edge and press. For the light weight fabric instead of a 1/2 inch turn, it will be double all the way to the finished edge of the cuff.

This will give extra weight to the cuff and will result in a neater appearance. Machine stitch this fold to the trousers. This stitching will be covered with the cuff. Last, fold the cuff up to the right side on the first chalk line (a) and press. Tack the finished cuff to the side seams only.

JUMPER SHIRTS

Most mothers have wool skirts that are either too tight or they have grown tired of them. Instead of discarding them, they can be made into excellent shifts or jumper shirts for young daughters.

I usually leave the center back pleat in, there is always enough length, since the girls wear their skirts very short. You can give your girls a new school ensemble for just a few hours time and not a penny in cost.

Today's Tailor Trux pressing board is awarded to Mrs. Carla Sedgwick, St. Louis, Mo., for this economical suggestion.

Dear Eunice Farmer:

I have a woven skirt that I would like to make reversible, what is the best way to hem it?

Carol J.

Dear Carol J.:

There are two easy ways of treating the hems of reversible skirts. First, you may fringe the hem to make it equally attractive on both sides. The most popular finish is to bind the edges in wool braid. This is usually done in a contrasting color and most skirts of this type are made in a wrap-around pattern.

TIP TO TEENS

Get out some of your old circular felt skirts that have been collecting dust for the past few years and create a great new Poncho. These are the rage today in all sportswear and are most attractive.

You can bind the edges with braid or use a heavy yarn fringe. Since the waistband of the skirt must be removed, and it wouldn't fit close to your neckline, you can knit yourself a contrasting turtle neck dicke. There's still time to do this before the first football game—and won't your mothers be proud of you.

Majorettes Win First Place

Showers Honor Mamie D. Noel

Honoring Saturday bride-elect Mamie Diane Noel at recent showers were Mrs. Carl Sturgis of Power Drive, West Bloomfield Township, and Mrs. Andrew Noel Jr. of Clayburn Street.

The Edward J. Szots of Westbrook Street will host the rehearsal dinner for their son Edward and his fiancée, Thursday, at Morey's Golf and Country Club. Her parents are the Andrew J. Noels of Alberta Street, Pontiac Township.

The girls include Patricia Clancy, Laura Shell, Melaine Lynch, Cathy Austen, Linda McLean, Patricia Connell, Peggy Colton, Rita and Michele Wibley and Lynette Coffey.

TWO DIRECTORS

The group is under the direction of Mrs. Mary Mattson and Mrs. Ward Neddo.

Working Wives

Working wives in the U.S. number some 14,500,000. Their earnings amount to about $35 billion a year.

Mid-November vows are planned by Carol Lee Turner, daughter of recent Pontiac residents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack J. Turner Jr. of Telegraph Road, and Ronald Chester Anderson, son of the Chester A. Andersons of Brown Road, Orion Township. Her fiancé attended Flint Junior College.

The James Gilliams of Sebek Street, Oxford Township announce the engagement of their daughter, Pat to John D. Trojonauski, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Trojonauski of Pocahontas Street, Oxford Township.

Receives Mudge Award for Library Services

KATHERINE HARRIS

Katherine Harris, reference services director at Detroit Public Library, was awarded the Isadore Gilbert Mudge citation for her distinguished contributions to reference librarianship.

The award was presented at the membership meeting of the American Library Association during the association's 84th annual conference in Cobo Hall, Detroit.

The daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James H. Harris, Katherine received her early education in Pontiac when her father was superintendent of the Pontiac Public School System.

Engagement Announced

The Samuel Platters of Walton Boulevard, Avon Township, announce the engagement of their daughter Roberta Marie to C. Robert Cook of St. Joe, Ind.

The bride-elect is a graduate of the Cincinnati Bible Seminary and her fiancé of the Johnson Bible College.

An Oct 22 wedding date has been set.

Cotton Gloves Like Snakeskin

Cotton gloves that look like real reptile skin are a new highlight of the current fashion rage for reptile.

These snake-skin-embossed gloves, in a choice of lengths and colors, are machine washable in soap or detergent suds.

"INTELLIGENT DIRECTION"

The citation commended Miss Harris "For her intelligent direction of reference services of the Detroit Public Library and her reference work in other libraries in Michigan, both public and college, her inspired teaching and informed writing which have widened the concept of reference services throughout the country and her leadership."

Miss Harris served as president of the Reference Services Division of the association in 1959 and 1960.

VASSAR GRAD

A graduate of Vassar, Miss Harris received her library science and master's degrees from the University of Michigan.

She served as reference librarian at Michigan State University; assistant librarian, Pontiac City Library; and as head of the circulation department at Ann Arbor Public Library.

Before joining the staff of Detroit Public Library, Miss Harris was head of the art department at Kalamazoo Public Library.

Holidays, Houseguests

By SIGNE KARLSTROM
Mr. and Mrs. William T. Gossett returned early this week after attending the American Bar Association annual meeting at Miami Beach, Florida.

At the same time their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Basil W. Denning and their three children, Jennifer, Wendy and David of Surrey, England arrived to spend a few weeks with the Gossetts. The Denning's first visited in Canada.

ARRIVING SUNDAY

On Sunday Mrs. Fred Karaman of New York (the former Tibi Gossett) and her daughter Heather will arrive. Mr. and Mrs. Karaman have recently returned from a trip to Beirut.

HOUSEGUESTS

Mr. and Mrs. Ben D. Mills have had as their houseguests Mr. Mills sister and brother-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. J. R. Rackley. Dr. Rackley is vice president of education at Penn State University at State College, Pennsylvania.

On Saturday the Mills entertained for dinner honoring the Rackleys at Bloomfield Hills Country Club and last Friday Mrs. F. C. Reith honored them at a dinner at Oakland Hills Country Club.

On Sunday they were all guests of Dr. and Mrs. Albert E. Quanton Jr. at Rockwell Springs Trout Club in Castalia, Ohio.

HOME AGAIN

Mrs. Paul McKenney and Mrs. Carl Moe have returned home after spending some time at Colonial Inn in Harbor Pointe. Mrs. M. M. Burgess returns tomorrow from Harbor Pointe. She has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Thomas Torgerson and her three children who are spending most of this month there.

Pair to Wed in the Fall

Mr. and Mrs. Harold R. Brion of Silver Bell Road, Oakland Township, announce the engagement of her daughter Patricia Sue Langford, to Kenneth Raymond Reed, son of the Raymond Reeds of Hessel Street, Avon Township. The bride-elect is also the daughter of Ross Langford of Troy.

September vows are planned.

Claims Bride From Windsor

Off on a wedding-trip to Miami Beach are Florentino J. Barron Jr. of Maybee Road and his bride, the former Sheila Ellen McMillan.

A reception in the Ball-Hi Motor Hotel followed the afternoon rite performed by Rev. Roland Ganesse in the Assumption Catholic Church, Windsor, Ont.

An Empire gown of re-embroidered Alencon lace and white silk peau de sole for the daughter of William S. McMillan of Windsor and the late Mrs. McMillan was styled with sweep train.

She wore a lace mantilla and carried white rosebuds, miniature white carnations and honeysuckle.

With Sandra Row, honor maid were the bridesmaids Dolores Barron and Mrs. George Fraser.

The bridegroom, son of Mrs. Phillip H. Schwartz of Maybee Road, Independence Township, and Florentino J. Barron of Waco, Texas, had Floreal Gonzalez for best man.

Charles Gosh and George Fraser seated the guests.

The bride was graduated from Assumption University with a bachelor of arts degree.

Sheila Ellen McMillan and Florentino J. Barron Jr. were wed recently in the Assumption Catholic Church, Windsor.

Their parents are William S. McMillan, Windsor, Ont., and the late Mrs. McMillan, Mrs. Phillip H. Schwartz of Maybee Road and Florentino J. Barron of Waco, Texas.

Lora Green Is Wed

MRS. R. L. JONES

Alencon lace motifs and a horizontal tucking enhanced a white organza sheath gown for Lora Geneva Green who chose the Perry Street Church of Christ for her recent marriage to Robert Lindon Jones.

She carried white popcorn pompons, pink roses and Stephanotis for the rite performed by Pastor Boyd Glover, followed by reception.

Parents of the couple who left for a honeymoon in Colorado are the Hubert Greens of Hamilton Street, Mrs. Ernest Jones of Detroit and the late Mr. Jones.

Honor matron was Mrs. John O'Rourke of Canoga Park, Calif. Mrs. Robert Sigler was bridesmaid. From Detroit were Edwin McKinney, best man, and James Iseler, who ushered with Richard Crowe of Royal Oak.

The bride attended Central Michigan University. Her husband holds a master's degree from University of Michigan.

Does Baby Need a 'Strait-Jacket'?

A little "strait-jacket," which slips loosely over baby's body, will keep those lively hands away from the spoon at feeding time.

This plastic cover-all, which allows baby plenty of room to move freely, can be sponged off with warm soap or detergent suds after each feeding.

Leaving the First Church of the Brethren after their recent vows before Rev. Leonard Blackwell, and reception, were the James Bennett Wrights (Judith Gayle Clayton). Their parents are the Edward L. Claytons, Mrs. Mary Wright, South Lapeer Road, Orion Township, and James H. Wright, West Howard Street. A lace panel and tiered ruffles on a chapel train accented the bride's gown of white organza over taffeta worn with illusion veil.

Stretch a Dollar as Far as a String

By MARY FEELEY
Consultant in Money Management

Is this the year your vacation plans—and money—went down the drain? Summer is moving along—and with your two weeks off coming up, what are you going to do with it?

Maybe the washing machine went kaput, or the dryer died of old age, or the children developed cavities. So you don't have much of a bank balance to work with.

Well, cheer up. Maybe it'll be the best summer you ever had. Or anyway, different. Instead of a formal, well-planned vacation, you'll settle for an impromptu trip.

Here's one approach that might intrigue the family and stretch out the few dollars you have available.

SEE SOMETHING NEW

Get a map of your area. Tie a pencil to a piece of string. Hold the end of the string firmly to the dot that marks your home town. Then swing the pencil around in an arc representing, say 200 miles . . . or even 300 miles if you think you can afford it.

Consider this circle your "exploration area." And I'll bet you'll find there's a lot of strange territory within that circle.

Maybe it will encompass the state capital, a national park, an historic site, some interesting industrial establishments, sizable woodlands, a stream or surely some picnic areas—places your family might like to see but never really found time to explore.

If you have a family of four, allow from $25 to $40 a day, depending on how rough you can rough it.

There are ways of making a little money go a long way when you're feeling leisurely and the pressure of the daily job is off. For instance, take along some jugs for keeping liquids hot or cool and a picnic basket.

Stop along the way and pick up bread, fruit, milk, pastry for breakfast. You might stop and shop at local stores for lunch too. Don't burden yourself with long-time food planning.

If you decide on a "Go and Stay" vacation either at a national park or a state park in your area, you can rent camping equipment.

The basic needs for the family, I'd say, could run about $50 to $60 for a 10-day outing. If you choose "cabin living" accommodations, then figure from $9 to $15 per day for sleeping facilities.

These prices hold pretty well for most of the places you'll be likely to consider. And keep in mind that by staying put, you'll save car expenses.

What concerns me most is that you shouldn't give up the family vacation, no matter what financial emergencies you may have had these past few months. Do something. And never let the children get the idea that it necessarily takes a lot of money to have some fun.

What Mother Should Tell You If You're Getting Married

Don't risk disappointment by having a friend attempt to photograph your wedding. Photographs can't be taken over again. In years to come your wedding picture story will recall the happy moments. Don't trust it to an amateur.

Professional portraits are not as expensive as most brides think. For picture cost is about the same! As paying for your own film, flash bulbs and having prints made.

Visit two studios before you decide on a photographer—compare quality and price but don't be talked into black and white. It's obsolete. Look into a mirror. Much of your beauty is color.

If your wedding is within 4 months make your appointment soon as professionals take only one wedding a day and most are already booked for months. Kendale Studios, who have been photographing weddings for 25 years, has a complete 1/2 w. four extra-soft newspaper glossy, car wedding sign, album and information sheet for newspaper.

The Strain of Trying to Be Fair Is Unfair

By MURIEL LAWRENCE
DEAR MRS. LAWRENCE: My 8-year-old boy says I'm unfair if I don't scold his little brother like I scold him when they do something wrong. They are not allowed to leave our front yard after 5 o'clock because of the heavy street traffic. Yesterday they did this and went over to another child's house. The older boy got wild because I didn't scold his 4-year-old brother, too. I tried to tell him that it's because he is older that I expect more sense from him but . . .

ANSWER: Why don't you ask him if he wants to be treated like a 4-year-old?

As he knows the advantages of being a little boy, you don't have to list them for him.

But its disadvantages haven't occurred to him so you'll have to remind him of them, saying: "I'll be glad to treat you like Buddy if that's what you really want."

It means, of course, you'll have to go to bed at 7:30 instead of at 9 o'clock. We'll have to take your bike away and give you a tricycle like Buddy's. I don't know how you can squeeze into 4-year-old clothes but you'll have to try.

Had you thought about the afternoon rest hour you'll have to take? It's fine with me if you want to be treated like a 4-year-old boy but I want to be sure you know what you're getting into . . .

Had you not been rattled by the child's charges of unfairness, I'm sure that this sensible response to them would have occurred to you.

Our anxious, rattled response to a youngster's charge of unfairness should be of interest to us.

Like the notion that we are obligated to deliver absolute love to children, the notion that we are obliged to deliver absolute fairness to them causes us much trouble.

Nobody on this earth has ever received perfect justice from anybody else. We just don't know enough about the things that go on in other people to judge them with flawless accuracy.

The best judgment we can make is only an approximation of perfect justice. If we know this, we don't get rattled when kids accuse us of unfairness. As we've long since outgrown the grand ambition to be admired as a perfectly fair parent, the charge of unfairness goes in one ear and out the other, thus enabling us to use the gray matter which exists between our ears to face our 8-year-old with the absurdity of his wish to be a 4-year-old.

In Charge of Wedding Presents

By The Emily Post Institute

Q: A friend has asked me to take charge of arranging her wedding presents which will be brought to the assembly room of our church for guests to view.

Never having done this before, I haven't the remotest idea of how to go about it.

Can you give me any help?

A: Tables covered with plain white damask tablecloths or sheets are placed along the sides of the room.

They may be decorated with white ribbons or artificial flowers, and the sides may be draped with tulle net or pleated cheesecloth.

Very valuable gifts are better put in close contrast with others of like quality — or others entirely different in character.

Colors should be carefully grouped. Two presents, each lovely, can be completely destructive of each other if the colors clash.

Pieces that "jar" when appearing together should be placed as far apart as possible, perhaps even moved to other surroundings.

Sometimes china is put on one table, silver on another, glass on another, but a more attractive arrangement is made by combining textures and shapes.

A badly designed piece of silverware should not be left among beautiful examples, but be placed among articles that do not reveal the lack of fitness in direct comparison.

Of course, avoid grouping duplicates.

PROTECTING FURNITURE

Q: Will you please tell me what I can say to a guest sitting in a delicate straight-back chair when he tilts it back so that all his weight is on the two back legs?

A: You can say, "Oh, please don't lean back on that chair. The legs are weak and you may hurt yourself if it gives way under you."

The Emily Post Institute booklet entitled, "Formal Wedding Procedure," includes details on the wedding procession and receiving line and other helpful information.

To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Emily Post Institute, in care of The Pontiac Press.

Pentagon Finds Letter-Writers Now Mostly Back Viet Policy

By ELTON C. FAY
AP Military Writer
WASHINGTON — The Pentagon reported today that more than half the letters it gets on Viet Nam endorse the U.S. commitment there — a sharp turnaround from last spring. Officials said that as recently as April the Defense Department received in one week 93 letters classified as favorable to the American position and 177 letters classified as unfavorable. As the war intensified during the spring and early summer, officials said, the trend began to reverse. Near the end of May the count in one week was 45 in favor and 42 against. Since then the favorable letters have outdistanced the unfavorable ones. Last week's mail, officials said, brought 72 favorable letters and 67 unfavorable ones. The letters are not in any formal poll, but they are considered significant by the Pentagon. Each is acknowledged in a personal reply that usually is signed by an assistant secretary of defense or service secretary. Many replies are accompanied by official speeches, statements or excerpts from remarks by President Johnson or Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara. Recently received letters range from one that tells McNamara "we need you even though it must be frustrating most of the time" to another declaring that "U.S. policy in Viet Nam is one that is as rotten as any of Hitler's." One citizen, obviously aware of the many protests over Viet Nam policy, told McNamara: "The more criticism you receive indicates the better job you are doing."

BODIES REMOVED—Firemen and volunteers gather at the opening of a 27-foot shaft on Oak Island, N.S., yesterday to remove the bodies of four men overcome by gas while hunting a legendary pirate treasure on the fabled island.

Search for Pirate Treasure Ends in Death for 4 Men

OAK ISLAND, N.S. (AP) — A six-year, $200,000 hunt for a legendary pirate treasure has ended in death for Robert Restall, his son and two others.

The four men died Tuesday on tiny Oak Island, off Nova Scotia's south coast. They were overcome by gas in a shaft 27 feet deep, one of about 200 bored by treasure seekers in the past 170 years.

Two treasure hunters who escaped from the shaft thought the men were overcome by "swamp gas." Others theorized that a gasoline pump engine over the mouth of the pit had filled the hole with carbon monoxide.

A fifth man was pulled unconscious from the pit. Two others climbed to safety before they were overcome.

THE VICTIMS

The dead were Restall, 59, of Hamilton, Ont., his son, Robert Jr., 24, Cyril Hiltz, 22, Martin Point, N.S., and Karl Graesser, about 40, a mineralogist from Massapequa, N.Y.

Restall was convinced he had found the key to the network of tunnels and shafts where legend says Captain Kidd and other pirates hid treasure worth between $30 million and $200 million.

"I talked to him last night," said Peter Beamish, a teacher from Andover, Mass., who was treasure hunting himself. "He was really excited. He was sure he had it this time."

The legend had fascinated Restall since he was a school boy, friends said. He moved onto the island in 1959, obtaining search rights from the island's owner, Mr. Chappell of Sydney, N.S. He had spent almost $200,000 on the search, much of it his own.

100 FEET Restall's plan was to drive a shaft 100 feet down and another horizontally to the spot where he believed the treasure was.

Rescuers said Restall apparently entered the shaft first and was overcome by pump fumes.

His son, attempting to rescue him, also was overcome. Graesser, Hiltz and Andrew DeMont, Gold River, N.S., followed. Gordon Hiltz, a brother of the dead man, and Leonard Keizer, Gold River, descended part way but climbed out when they became dizzy.

Edward White, a vacationing fireman from Clarence, N.Y., was lowered into the shaft by students from Phillips Exeter Academy who were camping on the island. White put a rope around DeMont, and the boys and Beamish pulled them out, then revived DeMont.

After police, firemen and a doctor arrived the pit was pumped out. Jim Ketzner, Gold River, was lowered into the pit and recovered the bodies.

According to legend, the pirates in 1704 constructed an underground "money pit" that was flooded from the sea to protect their treasure.

The treasure hunt began in 1956, when three boys discovered a depression in the ground and dug down 10 feet to an oak platform. Hundreds have searched in the years since. One was President Franklin D. Roosevelt, who came to the half-square-mile island in 1908 with John W. Shields of Oklahoma City. They found nothing.

GOLD COINS

Chappell said he doubts there is a treasure although "there have been stories about finding gold coins and links of gold chains."

"But I never saw them, and I don't think I talked to anyone who did," Chappell said.

Too Tall for Tank Top

CATTERICK, England (UPI) — Soldier David Barbraham, who signed up for nine years' service in the hope of becoming a tank driver, was ruled ineligible yesterday. At 6 foot, 7-1/4 inches tall, 19-year-old David's head sticks out of the hatch over the driver's seat.

MOON IN HIS DESTINY — Edward Mukuka Nkoloso (left), Zambia's space program minister, talks over the phone and gives instructions to his aide during a busy day preparing for his country's space effort. Nkoloso has many troubles getting his small African country's program off the ground. Applications for some $2 billion in loans have not come through, and his space team has evaporated due to absenteeism, drunkenness and going into show business. His female astronaut is pregnant.

Zambia Set for Moon Try; Just Lack Cash, Ship, Fliers

LUSAKA, Zambia (AP) — You have no idea what problems you run into when you're trying to put the first African on the moon.

The finances are slow, the would-be astronauts are balky, and there's a matter of biology, too.

Zambia is a small country in the heart of Africa. Its minister of space research, as he describes himself, is Edward Mukuka Nkoloso.

"We are delaying our plans to plant the Zambian flag on the moon," Nkoloso says.

ONLY TEMPORARY

The toothless little space enthusiast, flutters around in a faded, torn red and green cloak.

His 10-man team of astronauts has revolted against his tortuous space training program.

"After the worldwide television showing and press publicity of our astronauts in training I received thousands of letters from foreign countries," he said. "But my spacemen thought they were film stars."

"They demanded payment and refused to continue with our program of rolling down hills in oil drums and my special tree-swinging method of simulating space weightlessness."

Zambia's No. 1 space girl, Matha Mwamba, completed the full course of 50 hill rolls and tree swings, but now she is pregnant. She has returned to her parents who have, according to Nkoloso, talked her out of continuing her space training.

"Two of my best men went on a drinking spree a month ago and haven't been seen since," he said. "Another of my astronauts has joined a local tribal song and dance group. He says he makes more money swinging from the top of a 40-foot pole."

Dejected though he is, Nkoloso has not entirely abandoned his ideas to get the first African on the moon. Government sources say, however, that President Kenneth Kaunda of Zambia has asked him to curb his enthusiasm.

Despite his setbacks, Nkoloso maintains he could have the Zambian flag on the moon in a couple of years if the money were forthcoming. He has new plans for a rocket to replace one "recently sabotaged by foreign elements." He wouldn't elaborate on that.

Indonesia Shock Troops Reportedly Quash West Irian Uprising

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — Official sources said today special Indonesian shock troops put down an armed uprising in the vicinity of Manokwari on the north coast of West Irian Province last week.

The sources — who refused to be identified — also said that dissidents in other parts of West Irian sabotaged an aviation fuel depot and threw rocks at the homes of Indonesian officials.

West Irian — the former Dutch colony of West New Guinea — became an Indonesian province in May 1963 after seven months under a United Nations interim administration. A Dutch-Indonesian agreement calls for a U.N.-sponsored plebiscite to be held in 1969 to determine whether the West Irian people wish to remain Indonesian or set up a separate independent state. For some time reports from West Irian said that discontent and unrest prevailed among the local population because of the behavior of some Indonesian government officials now ruling the province.

The sources said that the special shock troops which were sent to West Irian from Jakarta chased the rebels in the jungles surrounding Manokwari. The sources added most of the rebels have surrendered but others are still at large. Their number was not given. Some

The Republic of Senegal in West Africa is about the size of South Dakota. It covers 76,000 square miles and has an estimated population of 3.2 million.

Boy Plays With Gun... 10 Hospitalized

CHICAGO (UPI) — An 11-year-old boy playing with his father's shotgun poked the weapon out of a window yesterday and pulled the trigger. Ten persons attending a weiner roast for underprivileged children were injured.

Two of the injured were Roman Catholic nuns who had been teaching the children in a "Project Head Start" day school.

The boy fired a 410-gauge shotgun at the playground of the Holy Angels Church on the near South Side. Standing at a third floor window of his home across from the church, he got off one shot.

"It was my dad's gun. I was just playing," he told apprehending officers.

Police Sgt. John Pratas said the nuns, children, and two volunteer workers were hit by pellets or brick fragments from shots that ricocheted off the church building.

All were hospitalized but Fratapes said none of the 10 hit was seriously hurt.

The nuns were identified as Sisters Eva Marie Ronces, 23, and Donna Marie Sironi, 24, of the teaching order of St. Francis. Sister Eva was hit in the arm and on the upper hip by buckshot and Sister Donna was struck on the neck.

The Federal Trade Commission in 1963 issued 454 cease and desist orders against violators, a new record topping the 407 orders of 1962.

Blast Kills 2 in Sioux City

SIoux CITY, Iowa (AP) — Two persons were killed and a third was injured in an explosion and fire today in a building housing an ammunition reloading shop.

The two-story brick building was just off the downtown Sioux City business district.

India Calls Off Pakistan Talks

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — India called off peace talks with Pakistan Foreign Minister Z.A. Bhutto today because of the fighting in Kashmir.

Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri told Parliament Bhutto had been asked not to come to New Delhi Thursday because of the "serious deterioration" in India-Pakistan relations.

Bhutto was coming to discuss the cease-fire agreement for the Rann of Kutch, a barren border area 800 miles southwest of Kashmir where Indian and Pakistani forces fought in April and May.

Shastri said India stands by the Kutch agreement, despite demands within the country that the government repudiate it.

FOREIGN JURISTS

The agreement calls for the two nations to submit their dispute over the Kutch to a tribunal of foreign jurists, a formula which Shastri's opposition says means surrender of Indian territory.

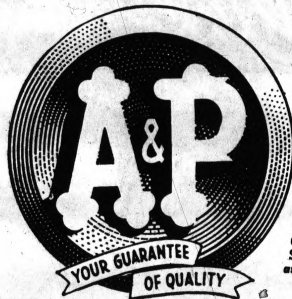

The agreement requires discussions between the Indian and Pakistani foreign ministers at this time. India's cancellation of the talks appeared to put the whole Kutch settlement in jeopardy.

The Indian government put a $105 bounty today on the heads of guerrillas fighting the Indian army in Kashmir. Government officials announced that amount — a small fortune in this part of the world — would be paid any individual or village providing information leading to the capture of a guerrilla.

Newsmen in Srinagar were shown captured equipment that officials said included Pakistani grenades, American-made rockets and numerous articles made in Communist China.

In New Delhi, however, Defense Minister Y. B. Chavan told Parliament there was no evidence that American military equipment given Pakistan under the U.S. aid program has been used in Kashmir.

Wants Shriver to Quit One Job

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., renewed his campaign today to force Sargent Shriver to give up one of his jobs. — Peace Corps director or head of President Johnson's antipoverty war.

As the Senate moved into the third day of debate on a proposed $1.65-billion war-on-poverty authorization for the current fiscal year, Javits pushed an amendment to bar Shriver from holding any other federal job as long as he is director of the Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO).

Earlier this year, Javits succeeded in getting the Senate to go along with his contention that his friend, Shriver, should be shorn of one of his jobs. But the amendment, tacked onto the Peace Corps bill, was eliminated in a House-Senate compromise bill.

During long debate and bitter voting, the Senate narrowly refused to restore the absolute veto power over poverty projects for the nation's governors. And it handily beat back an attempt to trim the program by $553 million.

Timbertown Festival

SAGINAW (AP)—Gov. George Romney is scheduled to lead the parade kicking off Saginaw's annual Timbertown Festival tonight. The week-long observance recreates Saginaw's history as a lumbering center in the late 1800s.

2 State Men Unhurt in Plane Accident

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—A twin-engine Beechcraft carrying two Michigan men spun out of control while making a landing at Burke Lakefront Airport near downtown Cleveland Tuesday. The pilot, Douglas Tarbet, 23, of Livonia, and the plane owner, R. T. Sheehan, of Plymouth, escaped injury. Sheehan operates R. T. Sheehan Co. in Plymouth. There was slight damage to the left wing of the propeller-driven aircraft.

Birth Curb Law Use Developed

LANSING (UPI)—The State Health Department called in several planning experts yesterday but heard only two suggestions on how to improve on the proposals for implementation of new birth control laws.

At a short public hearing chaired by Dr. Hermann A. Ziel Jr., chief of the Maternal Health Section, the department presented six proposed rules and regulations to govern issuance of birth control information to married and unwed mothers.

The bill as signed by Gov. Romney July 21 gives the department broad authority to make family planning advice available to "medically indigent women."

Only limited funds for local pilot programs will be available this year.

The department proposed that:

• Family planning services be provided only on the request of "the individual woman and in accordance with her own needs, desires and beliefs." And that they be provided for women desiring pregnancy as well as those wishing to prevent or postpone it.

• Family planning services be made available when the physician thinks it "desirable for the woman's physical, mental and social health."

• Medical indigency be interpreted broadly "according to specific criteria established locally" — especially if the patient is receiving welfare benefits or if the costs of the services "would cause a hardship."

• "No effort shall be made to suggest or persuade any medically indigent woman to request or not request family planning services."

• Notification — written or oral — of the availability of the services "shall state that receipts of public health services is in no way dependent upon a request or nonrequest for family planning services."

U.S. Staking Claim on Oswald's Rifle

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government moved today to guarantee its ownership of the rifle used to kill President John F. Kennedy.

An advertisement placed in a Dallas newspaper announced the federal government's intent to seize the rifle plus a pistol which belonged to assassin Lee Harvey Oswald.

The guns have been in FBI care since the assassination, and a bill now before Congress would give the attorney general authority to declare the weapons — and other evidence used by the Warren Commission — essential to national security, and thus government property. The government's right to the weapons has been challenged by gun collector John King. He says he paid $10,000 to Oswald's widow, the former Marina Oswald, for the guns.

A Justice Department spokesman said the government seeks administrative forfeiture of the guns on the ground Oswald falsified documents in purchasing them. This, he said, would give the government a basis for objecting to turning the weapons over to King — at least until the bill is passed by Congress.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Republican Policy Committee has asked for a ceiling on immigration from the Western Hemisphere.

Traditionally, the countries of North and South America have been allowed unlimited immigration into the United States, and a pending bill to revamp the U.S. immigration program would continue this policy.

The Republicans endorsed the bill Tuesday, but said they would offer an amendment to limit immigration from the Western Hemisphere to 115,000 a year.

An amendment to limit hemisphere immigration was proposed while the bill was being considered in the Judiciary Committee. It was defeated 21 to 11.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dr. William H. Pickering, head of the Ranger and Mariner space photography programs, says the United States should start naming the features of Mars.

Pickering told the National Space Club Tuesday that this would be the first step in the real mapping of Mars. The features showed up in pictures taken by Mariner 4.

Pickering also told the club that "we cannot rule out the possibility that life forms may be found on Mars."

But July Payrolls Rise Anyway

Business in Vacation Mood

Vacation seems to be the word for July business in the Pontiac area.

Despite July being considered a vacation month, industrial payrolls edged about $600,000 ahead of the previous month's $18,562,140, almost reaching the all-time high of August 1955 when industrial payrolls totaled $19,529,624.

Bank debits dropped to $145,129,912 for July from the previous month's $150,916,537, but were still well ahead of a year ago.

This might indicate, either many people are out of town or tightening the purse strings for the seasonal layoffs for model changes in August and September.

Postal receipts slumped to $164,924 from the previous month but still remained slightly ahead of a year ago.

LEVELED OFF

Building permits were down from a year ago and from the previous month, although residential unit permits seem to have leveled off at around 17 or 18 per month.

Gas consumption was down from the previous month but ahead of a year ago in July. Electrical energy followed the same pattern.

Water consumption in July stood at 554,637,000 gallons — up from both the previous month and July 1964.

Bus patrons continued their downward trend, dropping to 50,283, compared with 60,358 in June this year and 55,156 a year ago in July.

The number of air patrons, outbound, jumped to 38 compared with the previous month's 27. A year ago there were 43 for the month of July.

Plastic Shoes at Mackinac

New Footwear for Horses

MACKINAC ISLAND (AP) — Something new is afoot on Mackinac Island—plastic horseshoes.

The resort island's famed horses, more than 450 of them, may wear the modern footwear next year if an experiment now under way proves successful.

Currently, most of the horses on Mackinac — where private motor cars are banned—wear rubber-coated shoes or something comparable to prevent the horses from slipping on the blacktop roads.

"But the rubber-coated shoes don't seem to be holding up this year," said island veterinarian Rex Orr.

"Large chunks break off and they are worn down to the iron core in seven or eight days."

Orr went to a St. Louis plastics firm and brought back 30 pairs of specially made plastic shoes for the experiment.

Heavy Rain Blamed for Midland Blackout

MIDLAND (AP) — Heavy rain which caused a short circuit in an insulator was blamed for a power blackout which hit a large section of Midland Tuesday, including the Dow Corning Corp. chemical complex. Midland's downtown business area and the northwest section of the city were without power for nearly 50 minutes. The Dow plant was blacked out for 17 minutes.

You are cordially invited to attend the

Many's Feat Stirs Memories

Atlantic Crossed by Seafarers in Weird Boats

NEW YORK (AP) — Robert Manny's feat of crossing the Atlantic alone in his 13½-foot sailboat, the Tinkerbell, evokes the memory of a number of similar crossings by intrepid seafarers.

The following account of previous successful crossings is condensed from an article by John H. Ackerman, the Sunday editor of the New Bedford (Mass.) Standard-Times.

Perhaps the most unusual such crossing was that of Capt. Thomas Crapo who sailed with his wife from New Bedford in May 1877, in a 19-foot, 7-inch long "Whaleboat."

The Crapos sailed from New Bedford May 28. They stopped at Vineyard Haven, called in at Chatham, then set sail due east. Forty-nine days later, their craft — named the New Bedford — ran alongside a moored fishing boat to Penzance, England, and made fast.

SAIL IN DORY

The previous year in Gloucester, Alfred Johnson announced he was going to sail for England in a dory.

Johnson had a dory built to his thinking: 20 feet long overall, 16 feet on the keel; 5½ feet wide at the deck and decked over save for a hatch forward and a steering well aft.

Johnson battled his way through fog and storm to Abercastle, Wales, in his dory, the Centennial.

He then sailed to his announced port of call, Liverpool.

HANDS FROZEN

A Gloucesterman named Howard Blackburn, his hands frozen to the oars and a dead dory male lying in the bow, rowed his dory for five days and five nights to refuge on the Newfoundland coast.

He lost his fingers, toes, and part of his right heel. He later took a trip to the Klondike, then sailed from Gloucester, Mass., to Gloucester, England.

With only stumps for hands, he navigated across the sea and in 59 days was off the Scilly Isles and went on to Gloucester.

He repeated his feat a few years later in another craft, just 25 feet over-all, and sailed for Lisbon June 9, 1901. Thirty-eight days later, he was off the mouth of the Tagus River.

FOLDING BOATS

Folding boats have figured in at least two solo crossings of the Atlantic.

In 1957, Dr. Hannes Lindemann, a German adventurer-physician sailed a folding boat across the ocean from Las Palmas in the Canary Islands to the Virgin Islands.

The craft has a wooden frame over which a rubberized fabric is stretched. Sail, rudder and leeboards convert it into a small sailboat.

Before Lindemann, one other man, also German, crossed in a

LOST IN STORM

Somewhere north of Puerto Rico, he was lost in a hurricane while he was headed for the United States.

One of the smallest craft ever to cross the Atlantic was a 14-foot, 6-inch "sneakbox" built of cedar-covered canvas designed to be folded into a compact package.

The Sapolio was sailed by Capt. William A. Andrews.

BOUND FOR SPAIN

He left Atlantic City, N.J., bound for Palos, Spain, in the summer of 1892. Andrews made it to Angra in the Azores and finally landed at Palos.

A veteran Norwegian seafarer, Ole Brude designed a lifeboat 18 feet long, 8 feet deep and 8 feet wide. This steel egg had just one opening, a small watertight hatch amidships.

With three companions, Brude sailed from Alesund, Norway, in August 1904. Storms lashed at their steel egg, but she stayed afloat. After 85 days the quartet sighted Newfoundland.

Ann Davison, a widow, crossed the Atlantic in a 23-foot sloop, Felicity Ann, taking 85 days from the Canaries to Dominica. Her husband had been lost in a similar voyage with her earlier.

WEIRD VEHICLE

A weird vehicle that nearly drowned its two passengers was the Half Safe, an altered World War II amphibious jeep which Elmore and Ben Carlin sailed from Halifax to North Africa in 1959.

The boat completed the trip with stops at the Azores, the Madeiras and the Canaries — the smallest power-driven craft to cross the western ocean.

The voyage of two New Jersey shellfishermen, George Harbo and Frank Samuelson, is still unique. The two rowed across the Atlantic Ocean in a clinker-built 18-foot double-end. They rowed from New York City to the Scilly Isles, covering 3,075 miles in 55 days.

Mothers to Celebrate

Bat Brigade Beats Bullies

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP)—All is tranquil in little Franz Park, and the baseball bat-wielding mothers who made it that way will soon put away their weapons.

Friday, there will be a municipal "Franz Park Day." Mayor A. J. Cervantes will turn on a new lighting system at the park.

The militant mothers will be celebrating their victory in chasing the vandals and rowdies from the park, located in a quiet residential neighborhood in South St. Louis.

Back in June, the park had been taken over by rowdies. Neighbors said teen-agers smashed beer bottles on the playground.

RIPPED DOWN FENCES

Vandals tore up flagstones, ripped down fences and uprooted playground equipment.

During the day, children fled from the abuse of older youths. Playground counselors were afraid to show up at the place.

Approximately 30 women then armed themselves with baseball bats and started to patrol the park.

Right off, one of them encountered a teen-ager intent on bullying the youngsters. She routed him with one round-house swing.

'BEEN WONDERFUL'

"It's been just wonderful ever since," Mrs. John R. Guffy, one of the leaders, said today.

"I don't know where the summer's gone. The children have been able to swim and play. The adults have had the benefit of things like ceramics classes. Even the teen-agers used the volleyball courts and pitched horseshoes."

"We'll continue to have meetings through the winter. And we'll be there when the park system opens next spring to keep an eye on things."

"But I think everything is under control now. Why were we even having two teen-age bands? Friday night to show the teen-agers how much we appreciate their cooperation since order was established."

ATTRACTED ATTENTION

"But I don't think anything would have been accomplished without the bat brigade and all the attention it attracted."

"Anyhow, it's been a wonderful summer after a bad start."

"All I said was:
Show me a filter that really delivers taste and I'll eat my hat."

Celebrities Who Light Up in Front of Cameras Hurt the Cause

By TOM NOLAN
Newspaper Enterprise Associates
(Last of two parts)

WASHINGTON — Tears welling, his voice choked, actor Sammy Davis Jr. announced on a national television show that he would dedicate his next song to his late friend singer Nat ("King") Cole, who had just died of cancer.

Cole's death had been hard on Davis. The two had been very close for a number of years.

Now, in front of an audience of millions, the stars told and Sammy broke down.

To regain his composure, he reached into his pocket, pulled out a cigarette and lit up. After a few quick puffs Davis began to sing.

SETBACK

But in those few seconds of dragging on a cigarette, Sammy Davis Jr. had done as much damage to U.S. efforts to alert the public to the health hazards of cigarette smoking as his friend Cole might have done good had he lived.

"After his first operation, Nat (King) Cole wrote us," says a Public Health Service official.

"He offered to help us in any way he could. He said he had started smoking when he was 14, and that he wanted to do something which might prevent kids that age from smoking today."

"The next week he was dead."

MAJOR DRAWBACK

Worry of FALSE TEETH

Slipping or Irritating?

Don't be embarrassed by loose false teeth slipping, dropping or wobbling when you eat, talk or laugh. Just apply a little FASTERITE to your plates. This pleasant powder gives a remarkable sense of added comfort and security by holding plates more firmly. No gumming, gnawing, biting holes or staining. It's alkaline (non-acid). See FASTERITE at any drug counter.

one of the major drawbacks to efforts to curb smoking in this country and in Britain: Too many well-known people smoke in front of the mass media cameras.

"Every time somebody like Davis lights up in front of millions of Americans on television, he becomes a living testimonial to tobacco," explains one PHS doctor.

Paradoxically, the "Famous Name Syndrome" is about the most effective advertising health officials have going for them. Explains one doctor:

"When an Ed Murrow or a Nat 'King' Cole dies of cancer, it's plastered on the front pages of every newspaper in the country. We can't ask for better publicity."

Yet this "publicity" seems to be of little help to the anti-smoking campaigners.

CONSUMPTION ON RISE

In England, where the Royal College of Physicians reported nearly three-and-a-half years ago that smoking caused eight out of 10 lung cancer deaths, cigarette consumption is rising roughly 5 per cent a year.

In the U.S., where former Surgeon General Luther Terry announced some 20 months ago that cigarette smokers had a 70 per cent higher mortality rate than nonsmokers, cigarette consumption has hit an annual all-time high of $33 billion.

Lung cancer deaths in both countries are also climbing. PHS reports that between 1958 and 1963, lung cancer deaths in America rose 22 per cent.

"These figures are a bit misleading," says a PHS official. "The people who are dying of lung cancer today mainly represent the smokers who took up the habit 20 or 30 years ago. Today's new smokers won't crop up in the mortality statistics until some time in the future."

BLUNT WARNING

PHS scientists bluntly warn that cigarette smoking may kill as many as 180,000 Americans this year.

With their uneasy ability for self-deception, American and British smokers alike continue to rationalize their way around the habit. Some favorites:

• The Other Fellow Syndrome: "I know the health hazard is real, but it really doesn't apply to me."

• The Government Syndrome: "If smoking were really that bad, the government would ban it. Since they haven't, it must be O.K."

• The Famous Name Syndrome: "If Mickey Mantle and Arnold Palmer advertise cigarettes, they must be all right." (Both Mantle and Palmer once endorsed brands of cigarettes.)

In Britain, efforts are being made to reach the confirmed smoker.

RECENT STEPS

Recent steps include the banning of smoking in two out of every three subway cars.

Mobile vans tour rural areas with literature and films and anti-smoking commercials appear on television.

smoker is generally regarded as a "lost cause."

"Let's face it," says a health expert, "the two-pack-a-day smoker reinforces his habit some 40 times a day. The only thing he does more often is breathe."

AIM AT TEENS

Main effort in the U.S. is aimed at convincing teenagers not to take up the habit.

"We want to make smoking a criterion for the 'out' group," is the way one doctor puts it.

In this area, the health experts need help from teachers and schools. "I don't care if a teacher smokes," says a PHS official, "as long as he's man enough to admit to his students that he's hooked and that he's having a real problem quitting. That way, he could be more help to us than if he doesn't smoke."

Adds another: "Every school should have a long-range anti-smoking plan. If they have only these one-shot, quickie programs — like showing the cancer film in the gym on a rainy day — forget it! They'd be better off with no program at all."

$35,000 Suit Results From Fall in Church

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—Mrs. Lena Schoenberger of Bay City filed suit for $35,000 in Circuit Court here Tuesday against Bishop Allen J. Babcock of the Catholic Diocese of Grand Rapids as the result of injuries allegedly suffered at a Harbor Springs church. The bishop was named as owner in trust of the church. The plaintiff claims she suffered permanent injuries Aug. 6, 1964, in a fall on steps at Holy Childhood Church.

People in the News

By the Associated Press

The president of the American Medical Association, Dr. James Z. Appel, predicts that "quite a few" doctors will refuse to participate in the federal Medicare program.

He says the doctors will protest the program by refusing to complete the forms to be required by the federal government. This, he says, would make it impossible for the Social Security system to make payments to the doctors.

Appel, interviewed yesterday in Lancaster, Pa., said: "I have not heard one physician tell me that he will not take care of patients over 65, but quite a few will ignore the required government forms."

Barry's Recovery 'Slow but Steady'

Barry Goldwater, who underwent surgery last month to correct an old spinal injury, is beginning to make a slow but steady recovery.

Harry Rosenzweig, Arizona Republican committee chairman and a close friend of the 1964 GOP presidential candidate, said yesterday in Phoenix that Goldwater is taking short walks and looks forward to limited activity in four to six weeks.

Rosenzweig said Goldwater, former senator from Arizona, "is in good spirits and is taking it easy to hasten his recovery."

'8,000 Miles by Hitchhiking'

DETROIT (AP)—A freckle-faced Detroit high school senior reports he hitchhiked 8,000 miles last month to visit a pen pal in the remote Central American village of Orange Walk, British Honduras.

"I was the first American to visit there in six years," said Kenneth Kaczorowski, 17. "All kids were kind of scared of me."

Kaczorowski said he made the trip to visit Estilito Loria, with whom he has corresponded for eight years. He said he spent $240 on the journey.

"The kids would stare for a while, then start to ask me how many people were in the city where I lived and how many kids I went to school with," Kaczorowski said.

"The adults were just as curious about the United States, but in a different way. They would ask me if I thought they would be shied away from because they're darker than us if they came over here to work."

Mississippi Referendum OKs Voting Changes

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Gov. Paul B. Johnson's plan to ease constitutional requirements for voter registration was approved Tuesday by Mississippi voters.

The 2-1 vote was an endorsement of Johnson's course of moderation in dealing with the federal government.

With 1,530 of 1,899 precincts reported, the vote was 113,972 to 44,084.

Only two of the larger counties — Adams (Natchez) and Lauderdale (Meridian) — opposed it. The Ku Klux Klan is active in both areas.

OPENS DOOR
Approval of the amendment officially opens the door to heavy Negro registration by local authorities.

The amendment deleted requirements that voters have good moral character, the ability to interpret the U.S. Constitution and the ability to define citizenship. The amendment will permit the legislature to add additional requirements later.

The Justice Department and civil rights leaders had attacked the state's requirements for voters on grounds they were used to discriminate against Negroes.

When the legislature voted earlier this summer to hold the referendum on the amendment, some lawmakers conceded that Negroes had been victims of discrimination.

Gov. Johnson said the vote "is evidence of the desire of the people of this state to continue a positive approach to all our problems."

He said it was a vote of confidence in "a courageous legislature for what we consider to be the best approach to a very serious program."

By approving the changes, Lt. Gov. Carroll Garlin said, "We've become the masters of our own fate, designers of our own destiny."

When the legislature approved the referendum, State Atty. Gen. J. T. Patterson ruled that county voter registrars could immediately use the liberalized requirements. Registrars in 40 of the state's 82 counties did so. The others waited until the special election.

NO REFERENCE

The amendment makes no reference to the federal voting rights law, but backers felt it Mississippi lowered its requirements it might get fewer registrars under the new federal act.

Over 30,000 Negroes were eligible to vote in the election. Under state law, 4,524 Negroes registered in the past week by federal registrars in two counties were not eligible to vote because they had not been on the books the required four months. The amendment was opposed by ultraconservative groups and some who felt the substitution of nondiscriminatory educational standards would be preferable to abolishing most of the requirements.

Child-Raising Costs an Average $24,000

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

A family with an annual income of $8,000 spends about $24,000 to raise a child to age 18. Twenty years ago a family earning $5,000 a year could bring a youngster up for $9,000—and faced less danger of winding up with a beatnik.

Do you know what fruit product is used most often in the American home? It's coffee, old bean.

India is one of the world's hungriest nations. It is estimated that three out of four of her 483 million people get less than the 2,500 daily calories needed for good health.

BLOOD PRESSURE
The price of freedom: Since Japanese women have been granted more equal rights, medicines have found an increase in high blood pressure among them. But they still outlive the average Japanese man, 72.8 years to his 67.6.

The price of peace in a cold war era: Secretary of State Dean Rusk figures the United States has spent $600 billion on defense since the end of World War II.

Who litter up our city streets? A survey found that men are worse offenders in this respect than women. Women are kept so busy cluttering up their bathrooms that they don't have time to litter up the streets.

Our quotable notables: "It is only in the upper-class level that each husband sits next to the other man's wife"—Louis Kronenberger.

Prosperity note: America has only about 6 per cent of the world's population—but more than 22 per cent of its drug stores.

South Viet Nam may have had nine or 10 changes of government in the last few years, but Bolivia may hold the record for political restlessness. That country has had some 179 revolutions. By the time an official learns where to hang up his coat and hat he may be out of office.

Money on the hoof: Five thoroughbred racers have won a million dollars or more in purses. Calumet was the first to achieve this goal in 1951. The others were Round Table, Nashua, Carry Back and Kelso, who this year may become the first in history to pass the $2-million mark.

Sign on back of pest control truck: "Drive carefully — and leave the exterminating to us."

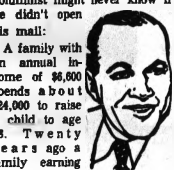

TICKLISH TOAD
I suppose that you, like most people, have gone through life wondering how to tell a male toad from a female toad. A reader informs me this is a sure-fire way: When tickled, the male sits and croaks, but the female just sits and sits. Frankly, I always thought that frogs croaked, not toads.

Quips from our contemporaries: "Newest fad is the banana and coconut diet. You won't lose weight, but after two weeks you can climb any tree in America" — Catholic Digest.

Life is getting lovelier all the time: A whisky-scented soap made in bottle-shaped bars is being sold in Austria. Du Pont may become the postman's best friend. It is marketing something called "dog-stopper," a new push-button aerosol which fends off angry dogs by spraying them with a harmless white foam.

Lads who marry in haste may pay alimony at leisure. The divorce rate is three times as high among couples under 25 as it is among those in older age brackets.

It was Fyodor Dostoevsky who observed: "Inability to love is the definition of hell."

Plan Casserole for Patio Meal

Pontiac Press Food Editor

Entertaining on the patio? You're not planning a meal from the grill and you want something different.

There are any number of interesting casseroles that will fill the bill. You're in the mood for something more sophisticated than tuna fish and noodles.

When a Michigan State coed won the crown as Miss 1965 National College Queen, she had to cook a main dish. Her Shrimp Oriental Casserole is one suggestion for your patio party.

By using mushroom soup mix for the cream sauce, you can keep preparation time to about 15 minutes. Twenty minutes in the oven will finish the dish.

Shrimp Oriental Casserole

2 tablespoons chopped green pepper
2 tablespoons margarine
1 envelope cream of mushroom soup mix
1 cup water
1/4 cup milk
1/2 cup cubed cheddar cheese
2 cups cooked wild rice
1/4 pound cooked shrimp
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1/2 teaspoon dry mustard
1/2 teaspoon black pepper
1/2 teaspoon onion salt
1/2 teaspoon curry powder
Dash of paprika

Saute green pepper in margarine. Make cream mushroom soup according to package directions using the 1 cup water and 1/4 cup milk.

Add green pepper to soup; stir in about 1/4 cup of the cubed cheese. Mix in rice, shrimp, lemon juice, Worcestershire sauce, dry mustard, pepper, onion salt and curry powder.

Put mixture into a 1 1/2-quart casserole. Top with remaining cheese and sprinkle with paprika. Bake uncovered in a 350-degree F. (moderate) oven for 20 minutes. Makes about 4 servings.

A quiche is a main dish custard pie. Usually it contains bits of bacon or ham. But in this version, it calls for dry roasted peanuts. This dish is excellent for a brunch too.

Peanut Quiche
2 tablespoons margarine
1/2 cup sliced scallions
4 eggs
1 tablespoon flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup light cream
1 cup milk
1 cup (1/2 pound) lightly packed grated sharp Cheddar cheese
1/2 cup finely chopped dry roasted peanuts

Fresh Fish Salad

Flaked cooked fresh salmon and finely chopped celery make a delicious luncheon salad; mix lightly with salad dressing — any kind you like — and serve on salad greens with gherkins.

1 9-inch unbaked pastry shell

Melt margarine in a saucepan; add scallions and cook until tender. Remove from heat. With rotary beater, beat together eggs, flour, salt, light cream and milk until well blended. Stir in cooked scallions.

Sprinkle grated Cheddar cheese and chopped peanuts over the bottom of unbaked pastry shell. Pour egg mixture over cheese and peanut layer.

Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees) 35 to 40 minutes, or until a knife inserted in center comes out clean. Cut into thin wedges and serve immediately. Makes 10 servings.

Crisp bacon bits do add excellent flavor to our third recipe, Bacon 'n' Eggs Casserole. The youngsters may like this one better than the other two.

Bacon 'n' Eggs Casserole
8 slices bacon, cut into bite size pieces
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
1 cup milk
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
Dash garlic salt
3 eggs, hard cooked and sliced
4 ounces egg noodles, cooked
4-ounce package shredded Cheddar cheese

Fry bacon pieces until crisp. Drain on paper toweling.

Prepare white sauce by melting butter in heavy saucepan. Add flour and blend. Then add 1/2 cup cold milk, mixing well; then add 1/2 cup hot milk. Worcestershire sauce, salt, pepper, and dash of garlic salt. Mix well and continue stirring over low heat. Cook until it becomes slightly thickened.

Arrange half of sliced eggs in bottom of casserole. Add a layer of cooked noodles, then shredded Cheddar, and half of the white sauce. Sprinkle with half of the bacon and then repeat procedure, ending with bacon pieces on top.

Bake in a 350 degree oven for 30 minutes. Serve immediately.

Freeze Blueberries

Blueberries are among the easiest fruits to freeze. Put on a cookie sheet and place in the freezer — uncovered — until the berries are hard. Transfer berries to a vapor-proof, moisture-proof container. By using this method, blueberries are individually frozen and will pour easily.

Brown Fryer, Bake in Foil

Cut a three-pound fryer chicken into serving pieces and rub each piece with the inside of a lemon quarter, squeezing out juice as you rub. Season with 1/2 teaspoon onion salt, lifting the skin and salting well underneath. Sprinkle with 1/4 teaspoon freshly ground black pepper and place in covered dish in refrigerator to marinate overnight.

To cook, put one teaspoon butter in heavy skillet and brown chicken pieces lightly, greasing chicken down and then moving it about to avoid sticking. As pieces brown, put them in a broad, flat casserole. The next step is very important.

Into the brown, crusty remainder that sticks to the bottom of the skillet, pour one-half cup of boiling water and scrape until all is blended and the skillet bottom is clean. Add 1/2 teaspoon salt and 1/2 teaspoon sugar.

Pour over browned chicken in casserole. Tightly cover casserole with aluminum foil and place it in 350 degree oven, bake for 40 minutes. Remove foil and let bake 10-15 minutes longer until chicken is a deep golden brown. Makes 4 servings.

Pack Raisin Tarts

Picnic Raisin Tarts are perfect travelers. Combine 1 cup California raisins with 1 cup broken pecans, 1/2 cup brown sugar (packed), 1 tablespoon flour, 3 beaten eggs, 1 cup dark corn syrup and 1 teaspoon vanilla. Pour into 10 pastry lined 2 1/2-inch tart pans. Bake in moderately hot oven (375 degrees) 30 minutes. Makes 10.

Tigers Flex Batting Muscles in Dumping Twins

HIGH-STEPPING HANK — Detroit Tiger pitcher Hank Aguirre displays some fancy footwork trying to avoid the tag by Minnesota Twins catcher Earl Battey in the second inning of game at Tiger Stadium last night. Battey dropped the strikeout pitch but recovered in time to tag Hank. Tigers won, 7-4.

Horton Clouts 2 Home Runs in 7-4 Victory

Wert, Al Kaline Also Connect; Aguirre Posts 12th Triumph

DETROIT (AP)—The Tigers stole a page from the Minnesota Twins' power book—the one on hitting home runs—and gave Hank Aguirre the biggest victory of his career Tuesday night.

Willie Horton got back in the hitting groove and drove in four runs with a pair of homers, and Al Kaline and Don Wert each added a solo shot in a 7-4 triumph over the Twins.

The two teams square off again tonight with Denny McLain pitching for the Tigers and Jim Kaat for Minnesota.

"I made myself a promise that if I ever came close to being with a winner, I was going to wear myself out trying to win that pennant," said Aguirre, now 12-8.

"I've never played for a pennant-winning team," Aguirre added. "The closest I came was when I was with Indianapolis. I won ten games and Cleveland called me up. Indianapolis then went all the way."

"I've never wanted to win a game more. It's the only thing that's been on my mind since Sunday. I kept saying to myself that it was a big series and it was up to me to get the team on the right foot," Aguirre continued.

"I was so tight before the game tonight I asked Bill Freeman to tell me some jokes," he added.

HITTING AGAIN

Manager Charlie Dressen's smile was a little broader than usual and he explained it by saying, "Willie's hitting again." Horton took over the American League lead in home runs with 25 and runs batted in with 81.

"I'm just trying to get my hits," he explained, in typical Horton fashion.

Dressen said the series with the league leaders didn't mean too much because there were still a number of games remaining.

But the players have a different attitude.

Colts' Booter 'Out of Cage'

By BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

"Just like letting a tiger out of a cage."

That's what Baltimore Colt publicist Harry Holmes has to say about veteran Lou Michaels who was given the chance by coach Don Shula to move into the defensive end position vacated by all-time great Gino Marchetti who has retired.

Michals has been one of the best place-kicking specialists of the NFL, spending most of his years with the Pittsburgh Steelers and seeing limited field action.

Now in his third year with the Colts, Michaels has worked hard, according to Holmes, for a chance to take over Marchetti's role.

"He certainly is out to prove he has earned a starting job and looked real good last Sunday when the Colts defeated the Cardinals," Holmes said.

Friday night when the Colts met the Detroit Lions in Tiger Stadium, Michaels will be in a starting role.

"He was so excited about playing regularly, he missed two extra points in the Cards' game," said Holmes. "and his teammates really needed him, asking him if he was trying for extra points or onside kicks."

GAUBATZ STARTS

The Lions may get some needing themselves from the Colts' new middle linebacker Dennis Gaubatz.

Gaubatz has been the starting berth vacated by the retirement of 12-year veteran Bill Pellington and according to Holmes, "Denny sure looked great all over the field against the Cardinals knocking down passes and stopping running plays."

With the addition of Gaubatz and the acquisition of John Campbell from Minnesota, the Colts' linebacking problems seemed to be strengthened enough so that coach Shula is keeping No. 1 draft choice Mike Curtis, 6-2 and 225 at fullback.

rather than making the switch to linebacker as originally planned.

The Lions however are now faced with a problem at linebacker, a position which was for many years the strongest area on the team.

Joe Schmidt is being kept out of early exhibition play by coach Harry Gilmer and Schmidt's understudy, Wally Hilgenberg is now out of action with an injured leg.

Wayne Walker is thus being considered for the middle linebacker's spot, with the possibility that rookies Avery Sumner and John Flynn may see action in the corner.

The Detroit Lions reduced their roster to 52 players yesterday by placing quarterback Sonny Gibbs on waivers.

Hayes Jones Appearing Today in Feud Hearings

From Our News Wires

WASHINGTON — A Senate committee focused attention today on charges that the Amateur Athletic Union manages international track meets improperly, resulting in poor American showings abroad. It was part of an investigation of the long AAU-NCAA feud.

The Senate Commerce Committee called veteran track and field stars Hayes Jones (Pontiac), Bobby Morrow and Harold Connolly to tell about their experiences on AAU-arranged trips abroad.

Also on today's witness list was Jesse T. Hill, athletic director and longtime track coach at the University of Southern California.

The committee is interested in determining what financial interest the AAU and other athletic organizations have in controlling amateur athletes.

Sen. Warren G. Magnuson is hoping Senate hearings will pave the way for voluntary settlement of the war between the National Collegiate Athletic Association and the Amateur Athletic Union.

The Washington Democrat said today: "I have some hope this testimony is going to open so filled with personalities, feuding and stonewalling they will settle this themselves."

"They ought to take a look at themselves after this, and go home and work out some sensible agreement between them, and stop this silly feud."

"You wonder how it can be possible for a fight to go on so long without any resolution."

The two athletic organizations have been warring for years, each claiming overlapping control of young athletes.

The Michigan State University joined today in the WDGA last year and became a winner right away by taking the group's match play championship.

She missed several WDGA weekly events this season while playing in national tournaments, but she did find time for three outings with the WDGA and won them all.

Now, she is trying to hang onto her match play title at Country Club of Detroit.

She was paired in the second round today with another winner, Mrs. John Hume of Birmingham who captured the WDGA's medal play championship earlier in the season at Birmingham Country Club.

SLIM VICTORY

Joyce squeaked past Margaret Watkins of Country Club of Detroit yesterday by sinking a six-foot birdie putt on the final hole.

Mrs. Hume had an easier time as she knocked off Helen Grinnell of Detroit Golf Club, 4-3.

Mrs. Keith LeClair of Barton Hills, winner of the 1959 tournament, ousted Mrs. Dorothy Thompson of Oakland Hills, 7-5.

Mrs. LeClair was slated to meet Mrs. Robert Gamble of Lochmoor today.

Final Round Results

Joyce Kazmierski, Grosse Ile, del. Margaret Watkins, Country Club of Detroit, 5 up; Mrs. John Hume, Jr., Red Run, del. Helen Grinnell, Detroit GC, 4-3; Mrs. Robert Gamble, Lochmoor, del. Lady Golfers Wade Through 9 Holes

Yesterday's next-to-last weekly round of golf for the Silver Lake Ladies League may have made many of the women happy the season will end next Tuesday.

The women sloshed through nine holes with Madeline Castleberry tying for two honors. She shared the low gross score of 47 with Bobbie Cruickshank and divided low putt honors with Rachel Levely.

Mrs. Cruickshank had the low net for the first flight, a 38.

Interim Coach Holding Reins at Farmington

Farmington High School has appointed Dick Tyler interim football coach, succeeding Jack Hayes who has left the system to teach at Jackson Community College.

Tyler, 30, a 1963 Farmington graduate who captained the basketball team and played football, had assisted Hayes for six years.

Hayes had a 35-43-4 mark for 11 years at Farmington.

Tyler attended Heidelberg College in Tiffin, Ohio, and Eastern Michigan University. He has a BA degree in history and an MA in school administration from the latter school.

Married and the father of three children, Tyler lives in Farmington.

In addition to coaching football, he will continue as director of adult education and summer school, audio-visual aids director and high school attendance counselor.

Physical Exams Set for Gridders, Harri

The examinations will be given at Dr. Wexels' Clinic on General Motors Rd. Football equipment will be issued at the high school 8 a.m. Saturday and Monday.

Roger Reynolds Fans 13 in Tourney Play

Pontiac's Town & Country softball team moved out in front in the state Class C District No. 4 tournament last night with a 2-0 victory over Waterford's Bob & Larry Bar at Beaudette Park.

The two meet again this evening at Beaudette at 8 in the second of the two-game knockout series. A third game, if necessary, will be Thursday at 8 p.m.

Roger Reynolds tossed a two-hitter and center fielder Jerry Wedge clouted a solo home run to give Reynolds all the help he needed.

Wedge added the second run in the sixth when he walked, moved to second on a passed ball, to third on an infield grounder and to home on another passed ball.

Reynolds yielded a single to Dean Perko in the first and another to Mary Hollek in the fifth. He struckout 13 batters.

In sole possession of second place, seven games back of Minnesota.

Three other teams are tied for third, all a game back of the Tigers. Aguirre spoke for the Tigers when he said:

"No sense looking to see who is in back of us. There's no money back there."

FIRST LOSS

Wert and Kaline hit their homers in the third inning off rookie Jim Merritt and started him on his way to his first setback in three decisions.

Horton hit his first one leading off the fourth and capped a four-run fifth inning with a three-run blast. Kaline singled home the first run of the fifth, then retired to rest his ailing foot.

Aguirre kept Minnesota at bay until the eighth when a combination of Twins power and the heat got to him.

A double by Zoilo Versalles, a walk—the first given up by Aguirre in three games—and singles by Tony Oliva, Earl Battey and Don Mincher sent home three runs.

Terry Fox came on and struck out pinch-hitter Jim Hall.

The Twins added another run in the ninth on a double by Versalles and a single by Frank Quilici. Fox then struck out the next two batters to end the game.

Gates Brown went hitless in four trips but leaped high to spear Battey's liner against the screen in left in the fourth inning for the fielding gem of the night.

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—The Michigan State at Notre Dame football game Nov. 20 is a sellout—the fourth—for a home Notre Dame game this season, ticket manager Bob Cahill said Tuesday.

Angels' Hurler McBride Hits Bottom With Trip to Minors

NEW YORK (UPI)—Classy Ken McBride, once among the top drawer American League pitchers, took the bad news like the thoroughbred he is, always has been and probably always will be.

He didn't flinch, but an eye or break down Tuesday night when Angel manager Bill Rigney closed the door of his private office in the clubhouse and asked him whether he'd be willing to go to San Jose of the California State League.

McBride knew it was San Jose or nothing.

"I don't feel that bad," he said when he came out. "I've lasted a year longer than I thought I would. I've expected this for a couple of months. It's part of life. I've had my ups and downs and it can't be sunny every day."

Rigney tried to break the news gently to the 30-year-old McBride after the Angels dropped a 6-1 decision to the Yankees.

He explained the Angels had obtained two new pitchers, Jack Sanford from the Giants and Jim Coates from Seattle, so two pitchers had to be dropped. Rookie Ed Sukla was the other one and he took the long walk into Rigney's office right after McBride.

The Giants sold Sanford to make room for reactivated Orlando Cepeda.

"I've had to let a lotta ballplayers go in my time, but I can't remember any of them taking it better than McBride did," said Rigney later.

After McBride emerged from Rigney's private office, he returned to his locker and finished getting into his street clothes.

DOESN'T KNOW

"Rig was very good about it," he said, "but I don't know if I'll go to San Jose. He wants me to go down there, get about three or four starts and then maybe they'll bring me back here. But I don't know. I'm going back to Los Angeles with the club on Thursday and talk to Fred (general manager Fred) Haney."

Teammate Jimmy Piersall listened as he tied his shoelaces a few feet away.

"Hey Mac," he called over to McBride, "don't feel so badly. At least you were spared the embarrassment of being released by the Mets. Imagine anyone being released by the Mets? I was."

McBride smiled but didn't reply.

Ballplayers have one rule about being let go or being sent down to the minors. They like to be the first to know and they also like to hear it first-hand. They don't particularly care to read about it first in the newspapers or hear it on radio or television.

It's sort of like the neighborhood grocer telling you your wife is about to sue for divorce.

McBride didn't exactly get the news first from Rigney Tuesday night.

During the fifth inning, the Yankees posted word on their electrical scoreboard that the Angels had just obtained both Sanford and Coates.

McBride was in the bullpen but was paying attention. He got the message. Loud and clear.

Light-Hitting Dodgers Maintain Lead

By the Associated Press

If there's any single accomplishment of the Los Angeles Dodgers, that's it.

In fact, the Dodgers have accomplished so much with singles, they've withstood virtually all attempts at their overthrow as leaders of the National League.

They pushed back another onslaught Tuesday night with a 4-2 triumph over Philadelphia. The victory kept the Dodgers one-half game ahead of the second-place Milwaukee Braves, who defeated St. Louis 4-1.

The Dodgers knew in the second inning they had to win to retain their lead. The Braves' earlier victory had put them one percentage point in first place.

BATTLED BACK

But ferocious as they are, Walt Alston's one-base bombers battled back. They already had scored a run in the first inning on singles by Jim Gilliam and Jim Lefebvre, a walk to Ron Fairly and a hit batsman, but by the bottom of the seventh they trailed 2-1.

Then, with one out John Roseboro, now hitting .215, singled, and pinch runner Willie Crawford beat an attempted force at second.

After Maury Wills popped up,

Gilliam singled home Crawford with the tying run and Lefebvre, a .239 hitter, singled in pinch runner John Kennedy. The Dodgers added a run in the ninth when Wes Parker, .342, singled and eventually scored as Kennedy, .198, singled.

All told, Los Angeles had 16 hits — all singles. That was nothing unusual, however, since the Dodgers have the fewest extra base hits and the third most singles in the league.

They have hit only 59 home runs, compared with 157 for the Braves and even 63 for the New York Mets. Of their 973 hits, the Dodgers have managed just 227 extra base blows, 25 fewer than the Mets.

STILL LEADING

But all of that singular hitting has kept Los Angeles in first place since the second week of the season for all but 14 days, including the three-day All-Star break.

They haven't fallen from the top for a month, and now all they have to do is maintain their single collection for less than seven more weeks.

Elsewhere in the NL Tuesday San Francisco edged New York 3-2, Cincinnati downed Chicago 6-4 and Pittsburgh outlasted Houston 8-6.

Denny Lemaster stopped St. Louis on three hits while Felipe Alou rapped four hits, igniting both Milwaukee scoring innings. Hank Aaron clouted his 27th homer in the fifth.

The Cardinals had only one hit until Tim McCarver singled in the eighth and Dai Maxvill doubled him home.

MAYS OUT

Ken Henderson, giving Willie Mays a rest, scored in the third inning on Willie McCovey's single, then doubled across the Giants' two other runs in the fourth. Bob Bolin checked the Mets on three hits in 6-3 innings of relief.

Local Dog Show Has Record Entry

The Pontiac Kennel Club keeps growing in stature with each show.

Less than five years ago, PKC members were happy if they drew over 500 dogs for their annual summer and winter bench and obedience shows.

Suddenly, the entries started moving up. The club topped 600 and then went to 746 last year. This Sunday's show at the Watford Township High School's athletic field has drawn a record 815 dogs and 827 entries.

Highlight of the event will be naming the winner of The Pontiac Press Best-in-Show Trophy. Over 775 of the dogs will be in the running for this award.

The remainder will compete in the obedience which jumped to 51 entries this year.

The judging will get under way at 9 a.m. and will conclude about 6 p.m. Obedience dogs will start at 10:15 a.m. and continue until after 3 p.m. except for a break about noon.

Junior showmanship competition is scheduled for 2 p.m. German Shepherds again top the entry list with 46. Thirty-nine Doberman Pinschers and 28 Great Danes will be shown. There will be 29 Boxers in the ring.

This is an unbench show which means that the dogs can be removed from the grounds as soon as they are eliminated from competition.

Some of the more unusual breeds that have been entered include Borzoi, Shih Tzu, Bouviers des Flandres, Lhasa Apso, Brussels Griffons, Irish Wolfhounds and American Foxhounds. Single entries have been received for Schipperke, Samoyed, Great Pyrenees, Vizsla and Australian Terrier.

Mrs. A. Alfred LePine, Carrollton, Ohio, will judge the best-in-show.

Selecting the group winners that will compete for the top honor will be Percy Roberts, Noroton Heights, Conn., toy and non-sporting; Herman G. Cox, Fort Worth, Tex., sporting and working; Mrs. Edith Nash Helmsman, Round, and Mrs. LePine, terrier.

Area Sailor Taking Aim at North American Crown

New Jersey's Barnegat Bay will be covered by lightning Saturday and Dr. Leo Wasserberger of Cass Lake expects to be in the middle of it.

Dr. Wasserberger is the state lightning class sailing champion following his triumph Aug. 1st on Tawas Bay at East Tawas, and he will leave tomorrow night for the North American class championships next to the Atlantic Ocean.

Crewing for the 35-year-old Pontiac bachelor-orthodontist will be regulars Bob Wood of Bloomfield Hills and Dave Peters of Adrian.

Dr. Wasserberger sails a 19-foot racing sloop named Pitygph II (pronounced Tiger) which has 188-square-feet of sail.

The lightning craft is kept at the Pontiac Yacht Club and he and Peters will tow it by trailer to the New Jersey bay.

TRIANGLE
The best Bay Head Yacht Club will lay out a triangular course a mile-and-a-half on each side. Approximately 100 boats are expected to compete.

Each will sail three elimination heats of 10 1/2 miles each following two time-up races. Then the top 30 finishers will sail for the championship. Registration of boats will begin Thursday and the tune-up races Saturday.

The competition will last through the following Friday. Dr. Wasserberger then will return home for a week before going to the world's championships.

The latter are on the Bay of Naples, Italy. He qualified for them by winning the second flight of the North American competition last year at San Diego, Calif. But he won't compete as a skipper.

Instead, Dr. Wasserberger is going to crew for Connecticut sailor Bud Olson. They became good friends two years ago at the Peruvian World championships. The shipping expense for moving their crafts to Naples was too much for both to enter this year.

Warm-Up Field Trial
The German Shorthair Pointer Club of Michigan has scheduled a shooting dog warm-up trial Sunday beginning at 9 a.m. at the Highland recreation area. Additional information can be obtained by calling 625-3141.

STRINGER FULL — Mr. and Mrs. Paul Livingston (left) of Birmingham and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Shelton of Pontiac hold a string of walleyes they caught on a recent fishing trip to Grassy Narrows Lake and the English River northeast of Kenora, Ont. The four anglers also caught pike and lake trout.

Duck Hunting Still Cloudy Problem

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cut the bag limit and many hunters will pack their guns away in disgust, a House committee pondering the problem of ducks was told Tuesday.

Don't cut the limit and there won't be any ducks left to shoot, other witnesses testified.

Nothing very concrete came out of the House Merchant Marine subcommittee session except to show disagreeing opinions as to just how critical the supply of wild ducks looms for hunters this year.

The Department of Interior is expected to announce soon regulations for fall and winter hunting and it has been widely rumored it intends to cut the number of shooting days allowed and also reduce the daily bag limit.

RECORD LOW

The Bureau of Sports Fisheries and Wildlife reportedly contends the reduction is needed because the breeding population of ducks is at a record low level.

Deer Hunters Apply to Try Fort Custer

Applications for permits to hunt deer with bow and arrow or shotgun at Fort Custer military reservation are available from the Conservation Department.

Archers will have 16 days, from Oct. 21 to Nov. 5, to hunt deer of either sex under special permit. The shotgun season will be Nov. 26-Dec. 5.

Applications can be obtained from General Services Section, Department of Conservation, Lansing.

There will be 500 archery permits issued for each of two periods: Oct. 21-28 and Oct. 29-Nov. 5. There will be no daily quotas on the number of bow hunters.

The deadline for applying is Sept. 15.

Rules for shotgun hunting for deer of either sex at Fort Custer will be the same as last year. The daily hunter quotas will be 100. The application deadline is Oct. 15.

Over 500,000 Gain From Food Project

Over 500,000 children in Project Head Start this summer have benefited from the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Special Milk Program and donated foods.

If you want a savory filling for miniature cream puffs to be served as an appetizer, you can use blue cheese mixed with cream cheese and a little sherry.

Cover Grilled Steaks With a Raisin Relish

Jiffy raisin relish enhances smoky grilled steak. Bring to boil 1 cup water mixed with 1 (12-ounce) bottle chili sauce. Pour over 2 cups raisins, 1 tablespoon instant minced onion and 1 teaspoon chili powder. Let stand 1 hour. Makes 3 cups.

Hmm... Bread Smells Good

Here's a recipe for brioché-type bread that is light and airy for the day you feel like baking with yeast.

Light Bread

¾ cup milk
¾ cup butter or margarine
¾ cup warm water
1 package active dry yeast
3 eggs, slightly beaten
1 tablespoon sugar
1 teaspoon salt
4 to 5 cups unsifted regular flour

Scald milk; remove from heat; add butter and stir to melt; cool to lukewarm.

In a large mixing bowl, dissolve the yeast in the water. Stir in eggs, sugar, salt and milk mixture. Stir and work in enough flour to make an easily handled dough.

On a lightly floured board or pastry cloth, knead until smooth — 8 to 10 minutes. Place in greased bowl; grease top; cover and let rise in a warm place until doubled — about 45 minutes. Punch down.

Divide in half and shape into 2 loaves. Brush tops with extra melted butter. Place in greased baking pans (9 by 5 by 3 inches). Cover and let rise until doubled — about 30 minutes.

Bake in a moderate (375 degrees) oven until brown — about 40 minutes. Turn out and cool on wire rack.

Sliced radishes marinated in vinegar seasoned with salt and sugar make an excellent relish.

DILLY DILLY DIP — It's cool, quick and refreshing. Delicious with crisp, crunchy cauliflower, radishes and carrot and celery sticks.

Summer's Dip

Cool, Quick, Refreshing

"How about a dip?"

These words echo about all summer long and no matter what the interpretation the end result's the same. Refreshing, cool and quick.

Typically cool and quick is Dilly Dilly Dip. A smooth flavored blend of dairy sour cream and tangy Worcestershire sauce, it's heightened in flavor, color and texture by dill pickles, green pepper, red pimiento and green onions.

When Dilly Dilly Dip makes its debut at your outdoor party, serve it with a flair. Halve a green pepper; remove the seeds and white lining.

Dip cut edges in paprika, coating well. Pour in the dip just to the rims so the bright red of the paprika shows.

Serve well chilled with crisp and crunchy cauliflower, radishes, celery and carrot sticks.

Dilly Dilly Dip

¾ pint dairy sour cream
3 tablespoons thinly sliced green onions
2 tablespoons finely chopped pimiento
2 tablespoons finely chopped green pepper
¼ cup minced kosher dill pickles
1 tablespoon lemon juice
½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper

Combine all ingredients well; chill. Serve as sauce for cooked fish, baked potatoes or as a dip for crackers or raw vegetables. Makes 1½ cups.

NOTE: Dip may be served in halved green peppers (seeds and white lining removed).

Ready for a repeat performance? Serve the same dip as a sauce for fried fish or baked or boiled potatoes.

Try Cabbage Casserole

Most cooks look upon cabbage as a sturdy kind of vegetable. But, when touched with the magic wand of new ingredients it turns into a Cinderella.

Make this wonderful transformation yourself with this meatless recipe.

Potato Chip Surprise

1 medium head of cabbage — cut finely
2 cups tomato juice
2 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoons margarine
½ teaspoon black pepper
1½ cups grated American cheese
2 cups rolled potato chips

Cook the cabbage in open kettle or pan about 6 minutes, or until it changes color. In a buttered casserole place alternate layers of cabbage, grated cheese, and potato chips until the casserole is about ¾ full.

Mix the flour and tomato juice, add the seasoning and pour over the cabbage, cheese, and potato chips—the last layer should be rolled potato chips.

Bake 30 minutes at 375 degrees. Just before serving sprinkle a mixture of rolled potato chips and grated cheese over the top... place in the broiler and heat until the cheese melts.

Ground Beef Ideas Found in Booklet

Editors Oppose Trial News Bill

Back Voluntary Curbs on Media Coverage

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two newspaper editors have advised Congress to rely on voluntary restraints rather than pass legislation curbing the publication of news about criminal cases not yet decided.

The two, Sam Ragan, executive editor of the News and Observer and the Raleigh Times, Raleigh, N. C., and Alfreid Friendly, vice president and managing editor of the Washington Post, were joined by the Justice Department Tuesday in opposing a bill introduced by Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., aimed at insuring unprejudiced trials.

Ragan is the immediate past president of the Associated Press Managing Editors Association; Friendly is chairman of the press bar committee of the American Society of Newspaper Editors.

Both of the editors told a Senate Judiciary subcommittee that special committees set up by newspaper organizations are searching for the best ways to balance the guarantees of free press and fair trial.

NOT INCOMPATIBLE

Ragan said he does not regard a free press and a fair trial as incompatible, but rather, "it is my belief that there cannot be a fair trial without a free press."

Friendly argued that forbidding lawyers, police and prosecutors from saying anything that might prejudice a future trial might "easily become a means to lower an iron curtain behind which prejudiced or corrupt police and courts could enjoy invulnerability."

Morse was the only witness in favor of his bill on the opening day of the hearings.

"When it comes to much of the press, radio and television serve merely as conduits for what one side or the other wants told about its case."

PREJUDICIAL DATA

Morse said the bill was aimed at prejudicial information given to newsmen by others and would not affect what they might uncover on their own.

The measure would make it a contempt of court punishable by a $1,000 fine for a federal employee or for a defendant or his attorney to give out for publication any information not properly filed with a court, if it might affect the outcome of any pending criminal litigation.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Fred M. Vinson Jr. raised legal and constitutional objections to Morse's bill and also contended that specific guidelines issued by Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach last April should be given further trial before any legislation is passed.

Vinson testified that news media, on the whole, have received the guidelines "in the spirit of responsible citizens."

Friendly said that he has heard of no objections on the part of the press since Katzenbach's guidelines were issued.

Diver Suffers Bends, Is Treated 275 Miles Away

MILWAUKEE (AP) — A Chicago man was rushed 275 miles to a hospital here for emergency treatment in a decompression chamber today after suffering bends while skin diving in the Straits of Mackinac.

A spokesman said Patrick Delaney, 35, was in satisfactory condition and probably would be released later today.

The Coast Guard said Delaney was diving around the wreckage of the freighter Cedarville, which sank in a straits collision. A Coast Guard plane picked up Delaney at Cheboygan, Mich., Tuesday night and rushed him here.

'Not Fully Informed by Defense Department'

House Committee to Keep Tabs on Pentagon Moves

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Armed Services Committee has told the Pentagon it is making special plans to keep its eye on things even after Congress adjourns.

Chairman L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., named three special subcommittees to "travel all around America" to keep the committee informed on problems involving tactical air support, military construction and retirement.

Rivers made the announcement at a hearing Tuesday where senior Republicans and Democrats complained bitterly they weren't being fully informed by the Defense Department.

Rivers and others said the first they heard of the Pentagon's definite decision Friday to keep some Navy personnel in uniform beyond their enlistments was when they read it in the newspapers.

'DISGRACEFUL'

"This thing is plain ridiculous," said Rivers, "it's not even ridiculous, it's disgraceful."

Secretary of the Navy Paul H. Nitze took the blame.

In the rush of matters, it slipped his mind, he said, but "I should have been on the telephone to Mr. Rivers that evening."

The committee seemed to prefer to blame Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, with whom it has been feuding over congressional vs. executive authority in military matters.

Rep. Melvin Price, D-Ill., noted the Atomic Energy Act requires the Atomic Energy Commission and the Defense Department to keep the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee "currently and fully informed."

"Any more incidents like this and there will be a demand" to put a similar requirement in the National Security Act to keep the Senate and House Armed Services Committees "fully and currently informed," Price said.

Rivers told Nitze, testifying on Rivers' bill to give all servicemen whose enlistments are involuntarily extended a 25 percent increase in base pay:

"I would advise you and everyone within sound of my voice it would be good if you'd take us in your confidence. You'd get more."

Must Encourage Beginner

Parental Approval Vital to New Student

By LESLIE J. NASON, Ed. D.
The child beginning school already has a fairly well-established drive to learn. He has learned to walk and talk and eat. Now he must learn new things—and it is important that his drive be nurtured and encouraged. If it isn't, he will lose interest in school and eventually become a dropout.

Each child should have the satisfaction of at least a little immediate success. In answer to a parent's question, "What did you learn today?" he should be able to proudly relate some small gain.

The drive to learn cannot be established by pressure from adults. Push a first-grader too hard and he will either give up entirely or resist. Parents must encourage their children to do their own striving for learning.

REWARD THEM
Reward them by showing interest and giving approval for each success, however small. This is what is done when children are learning to walk, talk and to eat properly. It is even more important when a child starts to school.

The more the child learns, the stronger is his inner drive to learn more. In short, successful learning rewarded by parental approval begets more successful learning.

she must get acquainted with each child and guide his learning in a way that will help him develop and maintain his will to learn.

It is understandable that it may take the teacher a longer time with the less outgoing children. In some cases, parents may discover wrong attitudes in a child that the child successfully hides from his teacher.

Even a brief conference with the teacher may establish a co-operative working arrangement that will correct the situation before it becomes too serious. What happens in the classroom, particularly at the beginning, either bolsters or squelches the child's drive to learn. Good teachers have always made this their first order of business.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE
Jacoby senior starts off today's discussion by asking Jim what he thinks of the bidding of today's hand.

Jim: "Very interesting. East preferred to open his weak five-card club suit rather than his strong four-card heart suit. South merely overcalled with one spade. He saw no reason to try to trap his non-vulnerable opponents. North's raise to two spades was quite sound and East selected a three heart bid in preference to a takeout double. This encouraged West to defend at five hearts and North chose to pass since he was perfectly willing to stand for a five spade bid by his partner. South's spade bid was somewhat of a gamble and he would have been better advised to double five hearts and take the sure profit. How did he come out at five spades?"

Oswald: "He made it all right. West opened a heart. South ruffed and played three rounds of trumps. West was in with the third lead and in spite of the fact that his partner had discarded the deuce of clubs on the second spade and the three of clubs on the third spade, West led a club anyway."

Studio Moguls Lost to Director

Story Behind Successful 'Hawaii' Mutiny

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HONOLULU — Out here they're still talking about "Hawaii" mutiny.

Some islanders believe this one puts other mutinies to shame. The Bounty? A trilling affair and who needed all those breadfruit trees, anyway? The Caine? Much ado about some stolen strawberries.

Now the mutiny on "Hawaii" was another matter entirely. There was no Bligh, no Queequeg. It was simply a clash between high-powered corporate thinking and the gentle spirit of Polynesia. The pawn: an investment of 10 to 20 million dollars.

FROM SURVIVORS
Here is the picture of the mutiny I drew from the survivors: After filming in Norway, New Zealand and Hollywood, the "Hawaii" company came to Oahu with high hopes and budget to match. Back at the office, the movie's backers watched the budget climb higher and higher. Finished film was returning to Hollywood at a sluggish rate.

United Artists and Mirisch Brothers brass arrived at the classic solution for such affairs: fire the director.

George Roy Hill was being sacked, said the bosses. Arthur Hiller, who was waiting in the plush bullpen of a Waikiki hotel, was to replace him.

A STAR SPEAKS
Said star Max Von Sydow: "There were three problems — we ran into a lot of rain; working on the sailing ships consumed a lot of time; and the number of unprofessional actors required time and patience on George's part."

"There was never a question about the quality of the film," added Julie Andrews. "When the trouble arose, we asked to see what had been shot, and we found it excellent."

But the corporate minds saw the tab pushing from $10 million to $12 million and perhaps beyond. They decided Hill must go.

IMPOSING FIGURE
An imposing figure among the amateur actors recruited for "Hawaii" is Jocelyn Lagarde, a 300-pound Tahitian who was signed to play the Hawaiian Queen Malama. She knew no English before the film, and Hill had directed her with infinite care.

When she heard the director was fired, she issued the edict: no Hill, no Malama. She would sail home to Tahiti.

Maui Tsunalea, a Fijian who portrays her son in the film, agreed that he would quit the movie if Hill were canned. Hawaiian extras also threatened to balk, and the casting workers who hired them resigned their jobs.

Now the bosses were caught in the middle. Reshooting with a new native cast might shoot the budget up to $20 million. They acquiesced. Hill was rehired, and Hiller flew back to the mainland.

EVERYONE HAPPY
When Hill reported to the set the day afterward, he was greeted with applause and kisses from his loyal cast. Last Sunday, the natives tendered him a lulu, complete with roast pig, poi, raw octopus and hula dances. For years, they will be talking around beach fires about the mutiny that was a success.

Pernell Trades Gun for Sword

Ex-Star of 'Bonanza' Is King in 'Camelot'

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — Adam Cartwright has traded his six-gun for the sword Excalibur, and he is hanging around with Sir Lancelot and Queen Guinevere, instead of Hoss and Little Joe.

Sound confusing? Not to actor Pernell Roberts, who for six seasons starred as the eldest son of rancher Ben Cartwright on the "Bonanza" television series.

"This week he opened as King Arthur in the St. Louis Municipal Opera's production of "Camelot."

"I'm having a wonderful time," he said after his opening night performance before a crowd of 10,000. "I'm enjoying myself, working at my craft, taking pride in my work."

For the first few moments after Roberts' appearance on stage, the observer looks around for Paw and the boys. But Roberts' interpretation of King Arthur soon erases his cowboy image.

Roberts said he left "Bonanza" after his contract expired "because I wasn't happy in my work." This season, Paw, Little Joe and Hoss will continue without him, explaining to viewers that Adam has "gone East."

Gone East he has. He opened as King Arthur in Kansas City, then played Pittsburgh and Berkeley, Calif., before winding up the summer season with his three-week stint in St. Louis.

Roberts is not quite satisfied with his singing in Camelot though it has drawn critical praise. It is his first real singing role and he handles tunes such as "I Wonder What the King Is Doing Tonight," "Camelot" and "How to Handle a Woman" with a deep, rich voice.

"I guess I'll never be quite satisfied with my own work," Roberts said. "I'm constantly working at it, and a performer can always find areas where he can work harder."

How does it feel being away from his cowboy role for the first time in six years? "I'm quite satisfied."

Senators Ask 'More Villagers Fleeing Cong'

Taylor Cites Increased Brutality of Tactics

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Commerce John Connor urged Tuesday to designate the northern portions of Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota as an upper Great Lakes development region eligible for aid under a bill recently passed by Congress.

The measure — the Public Works and Economic Development Act — is now before President Johnson for his signature.

The request for the designation was in a letter from Democratic Sens. Pat McNamara and Philip A. Hart of Michigan, Gaylord Nelson and William Proxmire of Wisconsin and Walter F. Mondale of Minnesota.

Noting that Johnson is expected to sign the bill soon, the six senators asked Connor to act as soon as is practical in declaring the 80-county area a development region.

They said that under the new act, the secretary of commerce may, if sufficient data is available, designate a development region and invite the states concerned to form a commission that would present an action program to Congress.

The act provides up to $750 million yearly for public works grants and loans to help communities, counties and groups of counties improve their economic potential.

After Disc Slip, Film Star Braced Up by Life of Ease

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Robert Horton got his back in a brace—and the way he tells it, he was lying in bed, and reached for a breakfast cereal (this was at his Park Ave. apt.) and he sprained his disc, he had to cancel interviews, photo sessions, and it was just a coincidence it was on one of the hottest days of the year. (Go ahead and put that one—I wish I'd thought of it!)

Sixteen-year-old Roslyn Rothchild Donner of Philadelphia just made her 24th Atlantic crossing by the way, and she's got a record, since she's not a starlet, a bride, one of the most beautiful I've seen. Her story reads like a publicity stunt, but it isn't.

"My mother, Helen Rothchild, who has been a widow—three times—her husbands died of exhaustion—sent me to London when I was graduated from the Lincoln College Preparatory School in Philadelphia, to help her favorite non-profit charity, 'The Dr. Shiny Teeth Club.' My mother is very interested in healthy teeth."

"The first night there I met Charles Edwin Donner, 45, a multimillionaire, who distributes Shell Oil, has trucking, warehouses, garages, the Everest Film Co., etc. We got married May 6. He commutes to Philadelphia from London about twice a week."

"What did he see in me? I'm 19-23-35... though my mother says not 39, but 40. We're going around the world now. I wanted a film career but he persuaded me to wait." I asked Roslyn now she manages to get drinks since she's 16.

"Since I was 13," she said, and I could see why, "nobody has ever asked me whether I was under age. There must be something about me." There is: 39-23-35.

THE MIDNIGHT EARL... Johnny Carson's "Tonight" show emanates from Hollywood at the same time ABC's "Nightlife" moves there, early next month. The battle's on. At Vostin, Pat Lawford and Billy Talbot, "Secret Stuff: The dirt of a Show Biz great gained so much weight, she looks double... But Mahalia Jackson shed 100 lbs... Boote Beat: Dale Robertson at Danny's, Jack Palace at Arthur.

The Cunard liner, the Franconia, is experimenting with a gambling casino on its Mediterranean cruises... The wash room at the Rolling Stone discotheque features a blackboard and chalk. The sign reads: "We don't want to repress creative talent, so if you must write, write here."

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: David Burns knows how Casey Stengel hurt his hip: "He probably caught some dampness from being in the cellar for so long."

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "With the extensive poverty program today, the fastest way to get rich is to be poor."—Bob Orben

EARL PEARLS: A teen-ager bought a foreign car so small, according to Monte of Cheers, he couldn't get his hair in. "Enjoy yourself," a friend told Groucho Marx at a party (relates Lou Brecker). "I always enjoy myself," Groucho replied, "it's other people I sometimes have a problem enjoying..." That's earl, brother.

Crime Show Cutback Ordered

LONDON (AP) — Britain's commercial television companies were ordered today to cut out all crime programs between 8 and 9 p.m. on weekdays.

Lord Hill, chairman of the government's Independent Television Authority, also ordered the 14 commercial program companies to use fewer American programs in the peak viewing hour.

An ITA spokesman said Lord Hill's chief objective was to get more prestige and light entertainment shows during the peak viewing period.

CAIRO (AP) — President Gamal Abdel Nasser is flying to Saudi Arabia "within the next few days" for talks with King Faisal in an attempt to end the civil war in Yemen, the newspaper Al Ahram reported today.

Editor Mohamed Heikal, who is considered Nasser's spokesman, said Faisal had invited the Egyptian leader to meet him. The two countries support opposite sides in the war which has divided Yemen's four million people since 1962.

Faisal told an interviewer in Jiddah, the Saudi Arabian capital, that he would discuss with Nasser only the basic elements of a possible solution to the Yemen war.

MOSCOW (AP) — The Communist party party Pravda said today that the causes of tension between Turkey and the Soviet Union have been eliminated.

Commenting on the visit of Turkish Premier Suat Hayri Urganulu, which ended Tuesday.

Trapped Miner Rescued After 12 Hours in Pit

EBENSBURG, Pa. (AP) — A coal miner was rescued unharmed early today after being trapped 900 feet underground for about 12 hours.

William Ferguson, 64, of Ebensburg, operator of a continuous mining machine, was caught in a roof fall Tuesday at a mine near this western Pennsylvania town.

A physician said Ferguson was unharmed but he was admitted to a hospital for observation.

Two other miners working with Ferguson escaped without injury when the roof collapsed four miles from the mine entrance.

5th Victim Identified Block Off Jet Crash Site

CHICAGO (UPI) — Government investigators blocked off a patch of Lake Michigan today in their search for clues in the mystery of a jet airliner which carried 30 persons to their deaths.

A fifth victim of Monday night's crash into the lake waters was identified. He was the plane's captain, Melville W. Towle, 42, of Wyckoff, N.J. Only six bodies and the portion of a seventh have been recovered.

Coast Guard Capt. Gerald Applegate said searchers believe they have the crash point pinpointed, in water 200 feet deep 18 to 20 miles offshore from North Chicago.

Murky weather delayed the start of the Navy's aerial search today. Applegate said investigators hoped to have two helicopters and a plane over the waters. There were no immediate plans to send down divers.

The Coast Guard yesterday retrieved tons of twisted debris from the United Air Lines flight 389, a giant Boeing 727 jet which dropped off radar scopes and disappeared into the lake in a ball of orange flame minutes before it was to land on a New York-to-Chicago flight.

A special "disaster team" of FBI agents flew here yesterday from Washington to join other federal agencies in probing the causes of the sudden crash.

Edward E. Slattery, a spokesman for the Civil Aeronautics Board, said investigators were considering the possibility that a bomb had been planted aboard the plane. He said such consideration was routine.

The increase for those now under the $1.25 minimum would come in three annual steps, the first increase would be to $1.40 next July 1, then to $1.60 in 1967, and $1.75 on July 1, 1968.

The newly covered workers, except for those in farms, would start at $1 an hour next Jan. 1. The rate would go up to $1.15 six months later, to $1.25 on July 1, 1967, and then in annual steps to $1.40, $1.60, and, beginning July 1, $1.75.

Farm workers, including migratory workers, and hired hands on farms employing four or more men, would start at $1.15 an hour next July 1, and go to $1.25 starting July 1, 1968. No further increases were recommended at this time.

"This should prove that we are not just a rubber stamp for President Johnson," Powell said. "We have gone far beyond what he recommended."

Johnson had called for extension of coverage to 4.6 million additional workers, but had made no recommendation for a wage increase.

Gunfire Breaks LA Riot Calm

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Police gunfire riddled a Black Muslim mosque in the predawn darkness today in South Los Angeles' riot-smashed Negro district. Police and National Guardsmen sealed off a four-block area.

Eight Muslims cut by flying glass were found after police stormed into the building. None was hit by a bullet. Blood from their cuts stained the floor.

Twenty-five Negro men arrested in the mosque, including the eight injured, were booked on charges of suspicion of assault with intent to commit murder.

Several other Negroes identifying themselves as Muslims were picked up near the mosque for questioning. They said they were answering a trouble call from the mosque.

Police said no weapons were found in the building after earlier reporting a number had been confiscated. Officers said the weapon fired at police must have been carried out through the mosque's back door where abandoned shoes and coats were found.

The gunfire broke an uneasy calm prevailing for two nights in the Negro district where rioting erupted one week ago and cost 34 lives.

CURFEW LIFTED

The police sweep on the mosque came little more than 12 hours after a curfew was lifted.

The Black Muslims advocate total separation of white and black races and supremacy of the black.

About 100 officers moved on the mosque in response to a nearby resident's report that weapons were being carried into the structure.

A shot fired from the mosque hit a police car. The officers took cover. Then they opened up with a barrage of fire and then stormed the building.

CALL FOR HELP

The police asked for National Guard reinforcements. The Guard sealed off a four-block area with road blocks.

The Muhammad's Mosque of Islam No. 27 at 56th St. and Broadway is the sect's Los Angeles headquarters and the only mosque in the city.

Among those arrested outside the building were three unarmed Negroes who identified themselves to police as Black Muslims. Sgt. R. S. Herrera said they told him they were answering a call for help because the mosque was under fire.

Sniper fire broke out a block away as officers led prisoners to a bus. Police riddled a second building with bullets but the sniper escaped.

Power Trouble May Not Delay Gemini Launch

Space Engineers Feel Problem Liked; Shot Still Due Tomorrow

CAPE KENNEDY (AP) — A space agency official said today that all problems had been resolved and that "all systems are in a ready condition" for tomorrow's scheduled blastoff of the Gemini 5 spacecraft.

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Engineers wrestled with a troublesome spacecraft power system today, said they felt they had the problem licked and that prospects were bright for tomorrow's scheduled blastoff of astronauts L. Gordon Cooper Jr. and Charles Conrad Jr.

The launching of the Gemini 5 spacecraft on man's longest planned space journey is scheduled for 9 a.m. Pontiac time.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said preparations were aiming toward that time while engineers continued to wring out the power problem.

Cooper and Conrad attended a meeting on the status of the Titan 2 booster rocket and then sat in on a mission review conference for the eight-day flight.

The difficulty arose last night at the McDonnell Aircraft Co. plant in St. Louis, where Gemini spacecraft are made. Computer runs indicated that excessive leaking of gaseous hydrogen might occur in spacecraft fuel cells.

Tests were conducted on the Gemini's fuel cells and qualified sources reported some "boiloff" of hydrogen occurred, although the space agency said there was no indication of an actual problem on the launch pad.

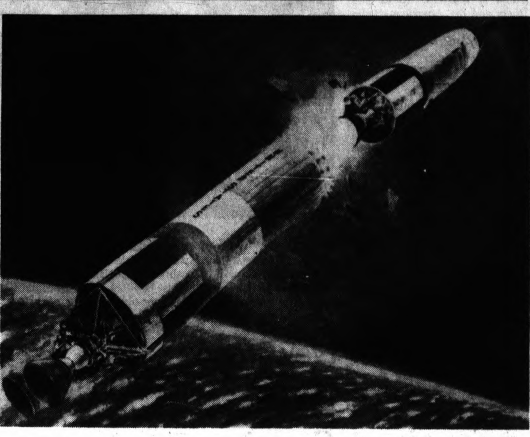

GOOD CHANCE

The tests continued throughout the night and morning and officials reported at midmorning that the trouble appeared to be clearing up and that there was a good chance no postponement would be necessary.

There were unofficial estimates of a delay of 5 to 10 days if the system had to be replaced.

Engineers had calculated that a boiloff rate as indicated by the computer would exhaust the Gemini 5 hydrogen supply in four or five days and force early termination of the mission.

GEMINI CORONA—This engineering concept by Aerojet General illustrates what will happen when the Gemini 5 second stage ignites. The first stage has shut down, and both sections are traveling at 6,000 miles per hour. The corona results in the milliseconds after the second stage ignites, just before it starts to build its 100,000-pound thrust to move spacecraft into orbit.

Romney: Steren Spy Case Blown Up Out of Proportion

LANSING (AP)—Gov. George Romney today said he thought the case of Margaret (Peggy) Allen, who charged that her role as a state police spy had subjected her to pressure from state officials, had been "blown up way out of proportion."

"Nothing she said to me involved an effort on the part of legislators to keep her from testifying in the gambling case," Romney said. "She had already given her preliminary testimony when her role was made public."

"According to what she told me, this is the most serious aspect of the case," Romney said.

Despite persistent questioning by newsmen, Romney refused to say whether or not he thought there was any grounds for legal action against legislators or other state officials who might have "pressured" Miss Allen.

DETERMINATION

He said the determination of this question would be up to the attorney general. But he invited newsmen to draw their own conclusions from his remarks, which indicated he thought there was no ground for legal action.

Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley and the prosecuting attorneys of Oakland and Ingham County said yesterday they would start probing the case on the basis of sworn statements taken from Miss Allen.

Kelley's statement on the investigations came after Miss Allen, pretty 29-year-old brunette, met secretly with Kelley and Gov. George Romney yesterday.

Kelley said he would cooperate with Oakland County Prosecutor S. Jerome Bronson, Ingham County Prosecutor Donald Reisig and state police in checking her statements, made under oath. "To determine if there is a case for prosecution."

The investigation would take "a matter of a few days," he said, adding that no warrants or subpoenas would be issued. He said he did not know whether it would be necessary to talk to the state officials named by Miss Allen.

Kelley and Romney said she named names. But they would not identify persons named in the pressure charges.

SHUNS NEWSMEN

Miss Allen was carefully screened from newsmen yesterday at her own request, Bronson said.

Miss Allen was the star witness in the Steren Assembly Club gambling conspiracy trial, which ended with 20 convictions in Marquette last week. She has charged that six officials at the state level "intimidated" her for leading a double life.

She posed as a "girl out on the town" the night state police raided the Madison Heights club. While working with state police, she retained her position as stenographer for House Democrats. She was not rehired this year.

Enemy Losses Are Estimated in Hundreds

Up to 2,000 Reds Facing Leathernecks in Big Ground Battle

DA NANG, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. Marines and 7th Fleet gunners hammered today at a reinforced Viet Cong regiment on the Van Tuong peninsula, about 60 miles south of Da Nang, in a battle they called the biggest American ground engagement of the war.

Maj. Gen. Lewis W. Walt, the Marine commander, said Viet Cong casualties will run into the hundreds.

"We're not through counting yet," Walt told newsmen.

Of American losses—officially described as light—the general said "75 per cent of our casualties were people who got shot in the back. It is very, very treacherous terrain."

The Leathernecks attacked in full regimental landing force, some from landing craft and others from helicopters and quickly established heavy contact with the Red enemy.

UP TO 2,000

Officers said the Viet Cong force, well-dug in, may number up to 2,000 men.

The battle site is on the South China Sea about 10 miles south of the Marines' Chu Lai beachhead, 52 miles south of Da Nang and 230 miles northeast of Saigon.

"The biggest thing we've ever had," a briefing officer said.

A reconnaissance company had reported sighting the Viet Cong concentration yesterday on the peninsula, which is dotted with a complex of villages.

Unofficial sources said two Marine tank corps tanks and one antitank weapons carrier were knocked out in the initial assault.

The action raged on into the night.

"I predict we'll have some tough fighting tomorrow," Walt said.

MAXIMUM USE

"We made maximum use of the sea," the briefing officer said. "We made great use of naval gunfire."

Walt reported guns of the cruiser Galveston wiped out two Viet Cong companies trying to flee from a village.

He said he personally counted 17 Viet Cong bodies, all uniformed, in one rice paddy.

"I have never seen a better coordinated attack than I saw today," the general said.

WELL-FORTIFIED

He added that the Viet Cong were well-fortified and that they had camouflaged positions complete with trenches and concrete bunkers.

He said many of the Viet Cong were so well-coordinated that numbers of the Marines charged past them, then were fired on from the rear.

The Marine briefing officer said the Viet Cong troops were well-armed with mortars, machine guns and recoilless rifles.

Unofficial accounts from the battlefield said the Marines came under withering fire when some elements landed from helicopters and charged up to take a hill.

The Viet Cong zeroed in on them with mortars and automatic weapons.

Johnson Will Get Report on Shipping Strike Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson gets a report today on negotiations in the East and Gulf Coast maritime strike. Agreement has been reached with one union, but two other unions still are at odds with the shipping firms.

The strike has tied up about 100 merchant ships on the Atlantic and Gulf coasts for 64 days.

Marine engineers and ship owners reached complete agreement late Tuesday. It is subject to ratification by the union's membership. The key dispute has been over the number of men to be assigned to automated ships.

But the International Organization of Masters, Mates and Pilots and the American Radio Association were still at odds with the American Merchant Marine Institute — representative of eight shipping firms.

NO REPORTS

Spurred by presidential pressure, they talked into the night Tuesday. There were no reports on what progress, if any, had been made.

Johnson has directed Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz to report to him by 5 p.m. today. He said he wanted a quick return to operation for the idle merchant ships.

Wirtz announced Tuesday that 24 hours of nearly continuous talks had led to the complete agreement between the Marine Engineers Beneficial Association and the institute.

He gave no details, but said: "It represents complete acceptance of the President's recommendation."

URGES SETTLEMENT

Johnson had called for settlement on all issues except automation of ships. He said that should be left over for Wirtz and AFL-CIO President George Meany to work on with the goal of settling down industrywide guidelines.

Earlier, sources had said the engineers union was willing to accept the plan with a six-month, no-strike pledge, but that the institute was shooting for a four-year, no-strike promise.

The engineers and the ship owners had been reported in early agreement on wages and fringe benefits.

Engineers-institute agreement had been expected to lead the way to settlement for the other two unions, but sources said they still hadn't come to terms on wages and benefits.

4 Killed, 4 Injured

on Detroit Freeway

DETROIT (AP) — Four persons were killed and four injured on Detroit's John Lodge freeway Tuesday night when their car swerved and struck a utility pole.

Police said the victims were Cleveland Chaney, 60; Carline McGilberry, 36; Charlie Mae Mills, 19; and Pauline Chaney, 38, the driver, all of Detroit.

Newsman Ends Sea Crossing

ODYSSEY ENDS — Cleveland newspaperman Robert Manry waves back to a crowd lining the shore at Falmouth, England, to greet him last night as his 13½-foot sailboat is towed to dock. The 47-year-old Manry completed a 3,200-mile solo voyage across the Atlantic from Falmouth, Mass. It was the smallest sailboat known to have made the eastward Atlantic crossing nonstop.

Gunfire Stirs Riot Area

away — broke a restive calm that prevailed the first night the curfew was lifted in the riot zone.

Before the shooting outbreak, the 46-square-mile Negro trouble district experienced its first night in a week of "the closest thing possible to normal life." There was even a football game.

The riot death toll, however, rose to 34 with the death last night of a 47-year-old Negro woman. She was cut down by National Guard fire Saturday as she crashed a roadblock.

The death figure was one short of the toll in the 1943 Detroit race riot — worst in recent times.

CHICAGO RIOT — Thirty-eight lives were lost in a 1918 Chicago riot.

Still-wary Watts residents worked to put their daily living in order. The National Guard withdrew some of its troops and the outside help flowed in.

Torches fired 536 buildings in Watts, destroyed 201, and caused damage conservatively estimated at $175 million. Loot accounted for untold additional millions.

City and federal economic opportunity officials met yesterday and promised that Los Angeles' anti-poverty program would be instituted as soon as possible. They indicated a swift solution would be found to solve the stalemate in the makeup of the City Youth Opportunities Board.

ASKS ASSESSMENT — Gov. Edmund G. Brown ordered a state assessment of public damage and said he would ask federal aid in rebuilding. Federal funds would be available under a law covering damage to publicly owned buildings and utilities and streets and highways.

A group of Negro labor leaders proposed a five-point community action program including a 50,000-worker community peace and rebuilding corps, job placement, slum clearance, hospital construction and federal assistance.

President Johnson dispatched Undersecretary of Commerce Leroy Collins to Los Angeles to meet with Gov. Brown and Mayor Samuel Yorty. Brown requested Collins because of the latter's "enviable record in easing tensions in American communities."

Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. said he hoped to visit the riot district to see what he could do. The Nobel Peace Prize winner said he wanted to spark "reconciliation and future cooperation between the races."

CURFEW HELPED — Gov. Brown ordered the 8 p.m.-to-6 a.m. curfew lifted last night after three nights of dark-to-dawn restrictions had helped police and guardsmen quell the burning anarchy. Rifle and shotgun-toting officers and troops patrolled the zone throughout the night, with guardsmen stationed on almost every corner.

A veteran Watts patrolman, Bill Sanderson, said: "It didn't seem at all tense. It seemed to me that people were living the closest thing to normal life. But it was much quieter than it used to be. People were in their houses and not sitting on front porches as they usually do. Maybe it was because of cooler weather. Maybe it was because they were all rioting out."

Lifting of the curfew was criticized by Dr. H.H. Brooks, Negro chairman of the United Civil Rights Committee, as premature because of "continued rumbling."

There were some arrests during the night but the pace was far below that of past days. More than 3,500 persons suspected of looting, arson, murder and other riot-connected crimes are in custody.

FAMILY TROUBLE — One death occurred in the zone yesterday but police said it resulted from a family argument. They reported an officer was called to a residence and a woman grabbed his shotgun. It discharged and she fell dead, they said.

One Negro was shot in the stomach when he and two other men were spotted running from a car. Guardsmen ordered a halt and one captured, two died. The troops opened fire and the one Negro fell; the third man escaped.

Washington officials said Los Angeles and Chicago had passed up a summer-long federal program aimed at preventing racial trouble. The officials said Yorty was not interested in the President's Council on Equal Opportunities projects but did not flatly reject it.

Yorty denied it. He said he did not recall being contacted by the agency.

Expect Auto Sales to Climb

Chrysler Head Opens Preview of '66 Cars

BOSTON (AP) — Chrysler Corp. President Lynn A. Townsend said today the auto business has been great in the past year with all signs pointing to more of the same with 1966 models.

Townsend aired his views in a speech opening Chrysler's four day national press preview of its new cars and truck lines.

"We at Chrysler feel there is every reason to expect automobile sales to continue at a high level in the months ahead," Townsend said.

"Our long range forecasters, with the aid of electronic computers, tell me that in 1970 the industry could sell 10.5 million cars at retail. They also tell me unusually favorable conditions could produce 12 million sales in 1970 and even under the most unfavorable conditions, it should result in nothing less than 9 million sales."

CAR SALES

A total of 8.7 million new car sales are expected this year.

Townsend said Chrysler had spent about $300 million in producing its 1966 car line to the public. It was the same amount Chrysler spent last year.

In his prepared talk, he made no prediction on what figure he thought new car sales would hit in 1966 and he made no mention of price increases.

In an apparent answer to recent congressional questions as to whether the industry is doing all possible in the field of auto safety, Townsend said, "we at Chrysler have always been dedicated to the engineering and building of safe automobiles."

SAFETY ITEMS

Referring to 17 safety items the General Service Administration has announced must be on all 1967 models cars purchased by the federal government, Townsend said all but one of them would be available on 1966 models, either as standard equipment or as options.

The 17 range from padded dashboards to impact resistant steering wheels.

The only one Chrysler will not have is a dual brake system available now on Cadillac and on American Motors cars. Townsend indicated satisfaction that the firm's present brakes were doing the job.

2 Youths Die as Car Rolls Near Millington

FLINT (AP) — Two young men were killed Tuesday night when the car in which they were riding rolled over a few miles from Millington.

The victims were identified as Donald K. Monroe, 20, Millington, and David H. Christianson, 19, Vassar.

Cranbrook Schedules New Classes, Exhibits

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — New classes, exhibits and programs are on the September calendar for the Cranbrook Institute of Science.

For junior members of the institute, natural history expeditions have been scheduled for Sept. 11, 18 and 25 and Oct. 2 and 9.

Adults can choose from among five courses to be offered this fall.

Identification of Michigan

Gemini Shot Still Is Slated for Tomorrow

system had not uncovered any malfunction, officials said.

A fuel cell system has never before been used on a U.S. manned space flight. It replaces conventional storage batteries which are heavier and bulkier.

68 POUNDS

Two 68-pound cells are in the Gemini 5 craft. Batteries weighing 12 times that much would be needed to support an eight-day mission. The cramped capsule cannot afford that weight luxury.

The box-like fuel cells mix liquid hydrogen and liquid oxygen to form water and, in the process, create electrical power.

Each fuel cell contains three sections. Hydrogen is piped into one chamber under pressure, oxygen into another.

As they filter into a third section, they are broken down into charged particles which produce electricity. When the minute particles of each gas meet, water is formed.

LIQUID FORM

To maintain the gases in a liquid form, hydrogen must be kept at 423 degrees below zero and oxygen at 297 degrees below zero.

Pressure to push the fuels into the third chamber is provided by heating the supercooled fuels, converting them to a gas. Sources said that apparently the hydrogen was "heating" at a faster rate than scheduled and the excess gas was escaping through a vent, thus using the hydrogen too fast.

If the fuel cells should fail in flight, the astronauts would have enough battery power to remain in space three to four hours before returning to earth.

Cooper and Conrad, meanwhile, prepared to make final preparations for the flight, the longest ever attempted by man.

Before the fuel cell problem, mission director E. E. Christensen had given the green light for the launching. The decision came after flight controllers conducted a review of all elements of the flight and the astronauts received their final major physical examinations.

"They're fit, ready and rarin' to go," said Dr. Charles A. Berry, director of Gemini medical operations, after supervising a 4½-hour exam of Cooper, Conrad and the backup team of civilians, Neil A. Armstrong and Elliot S. Sizoo Jr.

Berry reported Cooper, Conrad and Armstrong had completely recovered from a flu-like illness which kept them close to their quarters Aug. 3 and 4.

Describing it as the "first set battle the Marines have fought in Viet Nam," he said it was a success because it was based on "good intelligence and a good target to go after."

FROM VILLAGERS

"At least a fraction of that good intelligence came from the Vietnamese people," he said.

Walt said, "We chose the place and the time of the battle; we didn't react."

His latter reference was to the fact that the Marines had taken the initiative and had not struck back as a reaction force after being hit by the Viet Cong.

SEVERAL MOVES OPEN

The briefing officer said the peninsula force could try to stay and fight, break out or re-inforce from the west.

By reinforcing, he meant that Viet Cong units known to be in the countryside west of the peninsula might try to move in to join the battle.

The Viet Cong have been strong in the region for the past two years.

'No Fines Day' Set Tomorrow at Libraries

Tomorrow's your lucky day, if you've got a book long overdue.

It's been declared "No Fines Day" at the main city library and both branches, according to city librarian Phyllis Pope.

"This is a good opportunity for people to return books with no fines and no questions asked," said Miss Pope.

Last year's "No Fines Day" some books were returned that the city library had given up as lost, she said.

The downtown library will be open tomorrow from noon until 8 p.m.; the Adah Shelly branch from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m.; and the East Side branch from 1 to 6 p.m.

Ground-Breaking Set for New College

The ground-breaking for the new Michigan College of Osteopathic Medicine will be held at 1:30 p.m. tomorrow on the 164-acre school site at Auburn and Opdyke.

Sen. Carl O'Brien, Rep. Arthur J. Law, and city and medical officials will be on hand for the ceremonies.

The planned college, which will cost more than $40 million to complete, will be ready for classes in 1970.

When in full operation, the school is expected to graduate 100 physicians and surgeons annually.

New Assessor by Next Week?

Pontiac may have a new city assessor by this time next week.

Mayor William H. Taylor Jr. said that the city commission has been interviewing candidates for the job for several weeks.

"We hope we can make an announcement on the matter in about one week," he said.

There are six men under consideration for the post, according to City Manager Joseph A. Warren.

Listed as contenders by Warren are James E. Kephart Jr., Pontiac's acting assessor; Fred A. DeBuscher, deputy assessor for St. Clair Shores; and James E. Calder, assessor for Sault Ste. Marie.

Also under consideration, according to the city manager, are Wilbur M. Meier, Southfield assessor; Leonard A. Watchowski, assessor for Center Line; and Walter Lahde, Ann Arbor assessor.

The vacancy in the assessors office was created by the recent retirement of Edward C. Bloer.

Insecticide Discovered to Battle Elm Disease

Research chemists of Shell Chemical Co. have discovered a new systemic insecticide said to help in the battle against Dutch elm disease.

Authorized by the federal government to market Bidrin, the manufacturer reports that correctly applied it kills the elm bark beetle with little or no danger to humans, domestic animals, birds or other wildlife.

Highly toxic, the material is not available to the general public.

It is handled only by foresters, arborists, horticulturists and tree experts who have completed training programs.

The insecticide is injected into the sap system in specified dosages. When the European bark beetle begins to feed, it is killed before it can transmit the fungus infection to the tree.

NO HELP

"Once a tree has been infected," said Howard Martin, "Bidrin will be of no help."

Martin is the regional supervisor of plant industry, Michigan State Conservation Department, Lansing.

At the present time, Dr. James Butcher of the Michigan State University Entomology Department is conducting a research project to determine the effectiveness of Bidrin on Michigan elm trees.

Until the project is completed, however, neither MSU nor the Michigan State Conservation Department recommend the use of Bidrin for Dutch elm disease.

Said More Safety-Conscious

'Boaters Aid Water Toll Cut'

Boaters using Oakland County's more than 400 lakes are probably more concerned about safety this year than they have been during any preceding summer since the recent "boating explosion" began.

This belief is expressed by Lt. Donald Kratt who directs the Water Safety Division of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

Boaters have contributed a great deal to the decrease in water accidents recorded by the county thus far this year, Kratt said.

"In addition, nonboaters and boaters alike are standing up for their rights. They are calling the authorities when they see violations of the state water laws," the deputy said.

There have only been 28 boat accidents so far this year, compared with 42 recorded through the same period last year.

NOT TRUE PICTURE

Although the number of drownings already exceeds the total for last year, Kratt said the figures do not actually represent the true picture in regard to lake patrol activity.

Eight of the drownings occurred prior to May 30, the traditional opening of the water sport season, Kratt said.

Many of the eight were freak accidents, which he feels shouldn't be included in the total of water accidents, he said.

The county has a record of 20 drownings to date. Only 18 were recorded last year.

PATROL IS BUSY

Although boaters seem to be more safety conscious, Kratt and his 40-man water patrol are busy.

Nearly 400 tickets have been written so far this summer.

And there are almost two months left in the water sports season.

Fifteen persons have been arrested for drinking violations. And Kratt considers this the number one problem on the lakes.

DRIVING TOO CLOSE

"We have a good many problems with boaters driving too close to swimmers or docks to drop off or pick up water skiers," Kratt said.

"The boat operator must maintain a 100-foot safety distance when approaching persons in the water or dock areas," he added.

Kratt said his men were vigorously enforcing all water laws, particularly safety rules.

"We are being very strict with boaters who don't have the proper safety equipment on board — such as life jackets, a fire extinguisher and the proper lights," he said.

Kratt added that his men were watching for boats which were not marked properly.

"We feel that good enforcement is strict enforcement," the officer said.

Aussies Aid Malaysia

CANBERRA (AP) — Australia will provide about $21 million additional defense aid to Malaysia during the next two years. Treasurer Harold Holt announced this in presenting his federal budget to Parliament Tuesday and said the assistance would be in the form of equipment and training aid.

Alaskan Has a Home Where Buffalo Roam

DELTA JUNCTION, Alaska (UPI) — Richard Limbocker has a home where the buffalo roam.

A 1,500-pound bison roamed into his basement yesterday.

The beast apparently fell through a coal chute. Fish and game officials borrowed a wrecker to hoist the animal out.

Wood impregnated with plastic and treated with gamma rays looks like wood and can be worked with woodworking machines, but is so hard as to be practically abrasion-proof.

Milliken Sets Talks

LANSING (AP) — Lt. Gov. William Milliken says he will hold office hours Aug. 24 in Emmet and Charlevoix counties. He will be available to meet groups and citizens in the morning at the Emmet County courthouse at Petoskey and in the afternoon at the Charlevoix County courthouse.

Workshop Is Slated on Juvenile Crime

The Oakland County Juvenile Association, in conjunction with Probate Court, will hold an all-day workshop session Sept. 15 at Southfield Civic Center.

All police officers in the county are invited to attend the seminar, according to J. R. Hodson, intake officer at Juvenile Court and president of the association.

The program will include discussion of new legislation, juvenile court procedure, matters of handling detention and the bad-driver point system which now affects 16-year-olds.

"It is an attempt to expose to the various police departments methods of handling juvenile offenders and court procedure," said Sgt. David Putnam, juvenile officer of the Waterford Township Police Department.

Judge Clarence Reed Jr. of

Southfield Municipal Court will officially open the program by welcoming those in attendance and introducing the various dignitaries and participants.

Registration will be held at 8:30 a.m. Four sessions—two in the morning and two in the afternoon—will follow.

Luncheon also will be served at the Civic Center.

Officers planning to attend the program should contact James Davis of the Beverly Hills Police Department. Total fee is $2.50.

Oral Driver's Tests Offered

Given for Those Who Don't Read English

Oral driver's license examinations will be given in Pontiac starting Friday and every Friday thereafter to applicants who do not read English.

The tests are principally aimed at Spanish speaking residents of the area.

The examinations must be arranged for through an appointment made with the Driver's Licensing Bureau of the Office.

The plan was worked out by Secretary of State James M. Hare, Rep. Robert Slingerland, D-Lake Orion, and Sheriff Frank Irons.

Slingerland said the problem was brought to his attention by Thomas Chavez who teaches English to Spanish-Americans. According to Chavez there are about 9,000 Spanish-speaking residents in the Pontiac area.

FROM SOUTH
Clarence Barnes, executive director of the Pontiac Urban League, told Slingerland that the oral tests would be helpful to many poor-reading Negroes who have moved to the area from Southern states.

Richard M. Cook, assistant secretary of state, said that there are many people who do not read English well enough to answer the multiple choice questions on the written portion of the test, but do know the 50 or so words that appear on highway signs and are good safe drivers.

Apparent Low Bidder Told in R20 Plan

The Bank of America is the apparent low bidder for the sale of $3,105,000 in preliminary loan notes for Pontiac's R20 Urban Renewal Project.

The bids were opened yesterday, but the city commission deferred action on the sale until next week's meeting.

Three bidders, Bank of America, Community National Bank and the Morgan Guaranty Trust Co. of New York, all offered the same interest rate—2.38 per cent.

However, Bank of America offered an $82 premium, $2 more than Community National's $80, and $9 above the $73 proposed by Morgan Guaranty Co.

The funds from the sale will be used to pay off the outstanding notes on the old R-20 loan, and to operate the project for the next six months.

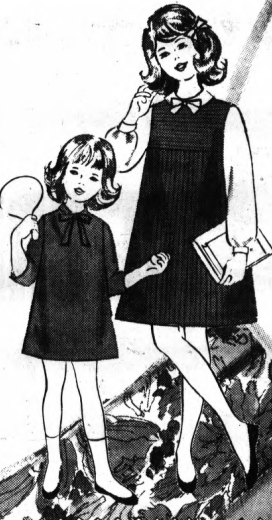

Live Bomb Unearthed

IPSWICH, England (UPI) — A woman archeologist, digging at the site of a 1,200-year-old burial ship yesterday, unearthed what she thought was a rare metal object. Police identified it as a live mortar bomb.

Indonesia Shock Troops Reportedly Quash West Irian Uprising

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—Official sources said today special Indonesian shock troops put down an armed uprising in the vicinity of Manokwari on the north coast of West Irian Province last week.

be identified — also said that dissidents in other parts of West Irian sabotaged an aviation fuel depot and threw rocks at the homes of Indonesian officials.

West Irian — the former Dutch colony of West New Guinea — became an Indonesian province in May 1963 after seven months under a United Nations interim administration. A Dutch-Indonesian agreement calls for a U.N.-sponsored plebiscite to be held in 1969 to determine whether the West Irian people wish to remain Indonesian or set up a separate independent state.

For some time reports from West Irian said that discontent and unrest prevailed among the local population because of the behavior of some Indonesian government officials now ruling the province.

The sources said that the special shock troops which were sent to West Irian from Jakarta chased the rebels in the jungles surrounding Manokwari. The sources added most of the rebels have surrendered but others are still at large. Their number was not given. Some

Zambia Set for Moon Try; Just Lack Cash, Ship, Fliers

LUSAKA, Zambia (AP) — You have no idea what problems you run into when you're trying to put the first African on the moon.

The finances are slow, the would-be astronauts are balky, and there's a matter of biology, too.

Zambia is a small country in the heart of Africa. Its minister of space research, as he describes himself, is Edward Mukuka Kholoso.

"We are delaying our plans to plant the Zambian flag on the moon," Kholoso says.

ONLY TEMPORARY

The toothless little space enthusiast, flutters around in a faded, torn red and green cloak.

His 10-man team of astronauts has revolted against his tortuous space training program.

"After the worldwide television showing and press publicity of our astronauts in training I received thousands of letters from foreign countries," he said. "But my spacemen thought they were film stars."

"They demanded payment and refused to continue with our program of rolling down hills in oil drums and my special tree-swinging method of simulating space weightlessness."

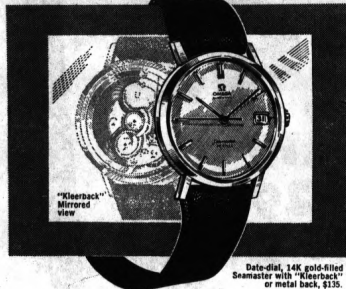

Zambia's No. 1 space girl, Matha Mwamba, completed the full course of 50 hill rolls and tree swings, but now she is pregnant. She has returned to her parents who have, according to Kholoso, talked her out of continuing her space training.

"Two of my best men went on a drinking spree a month ago and haven't been seen since," he said. "Another of my astronauts has joined a local tribal song and dance group. He says he makes more money swinging from the top of a 40-foot pole."

Dejected though he is, Kholoso has not entirely abandoned his ideas to get the first African on the moon. Government sources say, however, that President Kenneth Kaunda of Zambia has asked him to curb his enthusiasm.

Despite his setbacks, Kholoso maintains he could have the Zambian flag on the moon in a couple of years if the money were forthcoming. He has new plans for a rocket to replace one "recently sabotaged by foreign elements." He wouldn't elaborate on that.

Light-Hitting Dodgers Maintain Lead

By the Associated Press

If there's any single accomplishment of the Los Angeles Dodgers, that's it.

In fact, the Dodgers have accomplished so much with singles, they've withstood virtually all attempts at their overthrow as leaders of the National League.

They pushed back another onslaught Tuesday night with a 4-2 triumph over Philadelphia. The victory kept the Dodgers one-half game ahead of the second-place Milwaukee Braves, who defeated St. Louis 4-1.

The Dodgers knew in the second inning they had to win to retain their lead. The Braves' earlier victory had put them one percentage point in first place.

BATTLED BACK

But ferocious as they are, Walt Alston's one-base bombers battled back. They already had scored a run in the first inning on singles by Jim Gilliam and Jim Lefebvre, a walk to Ron Fairly and a hit batsman, but by the bottom of the seventh they trailed 2-1.

Then, with one out John Roseboro, now hitting .215, singled, and pinch runner Willie Crawford beat an attempted force at second.

After Maury Wills popped up, Gilliam singled home Crawford with the tying run and Lefebvre, a .238 hitter, singled in pinch runner John Kennedy. The Dodgers added a run in the ninth when Wes Parker, .242, singled and eventually scored as Kennedy, .196, singled.

All told, Los Angeles had 10 hits — all singles. That was nothing unusual, however, since the Dodgers have the fewest extra base hits and the third most singles in the league.

They have hit only 59 home runs, compared with 157 for the Braves and even 83 for the New York Mets. Of their 973 hits, the Dodgers have managed just 227 extra base blows, 25 fewer than the Mets.

STILL LEADING

But all of that singular hitting has kept Los Angeles in first place since the second week of the season for all but 14 days, including the three-day All-Star break.

They haven't fallen from the top for a month, and now all they have to do is maintain their single collection for less than seven more weeks.

Elsewhere in the NL Tuesday San Francisco edged New York 3-2, Cincinnati downed Chicago 6-4 and Pittsburgh outlasted Houston 8-6.

Denny Lemaster stopped St. Louis on three hits while Felipe Alou rapped four hits, igniting both Milwaukee scoring innings. Hank Aaron clouted his 27th homer in the fifth.

The Cardinals had only one hit until Tim McCarver singled in the eighth and Dal Maxvill doubled him home.

MAYS OUT

Ken Henderson, giving Willie Mays a rest, scored in the third inning on Willie McCovey's single, then doubled across the Giants' two other runs in the fourth. Bob Bolin checked the Mets on three hits in 6-3 innings of relief.
