Goodfellow Newspaper Sale Is On in Area

Don't let a good fellow's effort go bad. That's the slogan that Pontiac-area policemen, firemen and mailmen hope the public is heeding today for the 40th annual Goodfellow sale of The Pontiac Press.
The public-servants-turned-newsboys picked up some 8,000 special editions shortly before noon and headed for busy intersections and shopping centers, where papers went on sale for the price of any donation.
Sales today are in Pontiac, Waterford Township, Pontiac Township, Avondale and Highland Township.
All funds brought in by the Metropolitan Club members go to charity — for the purchase of clothing and fuel for underprivileged families.
Lt. William Nesbitt of the Pontiac Police Department, chairman of the city drive, said he's hoping the public will "dig deep."

Nixon Eyes Telecast for Cabinet Unveiling

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — President-elect Richard M. Nixon is considering a national television-radio appearance next week to announce his cabinet.
Sources close to Nixon said today he has not definitely decided on a format for announcing his cabinet choices. But they said such a radio-TV appearance was being given serious thought.
Nixon has said all cabinet choices will be announced in the coming week. The decision apparently depended on whether Nixon could line up an entire cabinet in time.
Sources close to the president-elect said last night Sen. Henry Jackson of Washington, a former chairman of the Democratic National Committee, had removed himself from contention as a possible Secretary of Defense.
NIXON ROCKY MEET
Jackson's decision coincided with a private meeting here of Nixon and Republican Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller

HAVE ONE ... OR SIX — It's all for a good cause, explains Pontiac postman Lt. William Nesbitt, chairman of Pontiac's Goodfellow sale of The Pontiac Press, as he offers a special edition. Other newsboys are (from left) Karl George, Pontiac postman; Captain Frank Randolph, Waterford Township police; Police Chief William Stokes of Waterford Township; Lt. Ernest Latimer, Waterford Township fireman; and Pontiac fireman Ray Wilson.

U.S. Orbits Satellite to Peer at Universe

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — An astronomical observatory rocketed into orbit today packing 11 telescopes intended to give man his first clear look at the stars and uncover clues to the origin of the universe.
The success "will open up a new arena in a large area of interest in the space sciences—investigating the whole universe," said Homer E. Newell, associate administrator of space science and applications for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration as Orbiting Astronomical Observatory 2 circled earth on its first orbit.
The 4,000-pound spacecraft rode atop an Atlas-Centaur booster that drilled it into a near-circular orbit ranging from 467 to 489 miles high—very close to the 480-mile-high circular path for which it was aimed.
Officials plan to activate the spacecraft's telescopes Wednesday after checking all spacecraft systems.
COMPLEX PROJECT
The $75-million satellite is the heaviest and most complex scientific spacecraft ever launched by the United States.
Operating above the obscuring blanket of earth's atmosphere, the observatory is designed to provide astronomers with their first unobstructed glimpse of the universe—exploring mysteries of the stars, galaxies, nebulae and interstellar gases.
OAO2 will concentrate on observing ultraviolet light, which could tell much about the heat and intensity of stars and thus provide clues to their age.
"The theory is to put stars of different ages in some order to deduce the evolution of the stars and the universe," said Dr. James S. Kupperian Jr., OAO project scientist.

Delegates' Seating Remains Unsettled
Paris Negotiators Establish Ground Rules

PARIS (AP) — U.S. and North Vietnamese negotiators have agreed on seven procedural issues for four-way peace talks, but they still can't agree on who will sit where.
U.S. officials said the seven points agreed on yesterday by Cyrus R. Vance, No. 2 man in the U.S. delegation, and his North Vietnamese counterpart, Ha Van Lau, are:
• The first four-way session will be restricted to conference procedure.
• Each group will have a speaker.
• They will meet in the same room previously used for U.S.-North Vietnamese talks at the Majestic Hotel.
• The allied and Communist sides each may bring 10-12 persons.
• Business can be conducted in English, Vietnamese and French.
• Tape recorders will be admitted.
BOTH SIDES SCORE
Vance and Lau each scored points in these procedural agreements, which left some leeway for individual definition.
The Americans see the speaker arrangement as two spokesmen on each of two sides, one each for Washington, Saigon, Hanoi and the Vietcong's National Liberation Front.
The shape of the conference table, although a seemingly trivial issue, is one which the rivals feel could be translated into a bargaining advantage later on. Consequently there has been no breakthrough on this point.
The South Vietnamese contingent is expected to arrive here by noon tomorrow, and supporters planned a gala airport rally to outdo the reception accorded the NLF group five weeks ago.

Fire Fatal to 4 Children

MOUNT CLEMENS (AP) — Four children died of smoke inhalation when their home caught fire late last night, Chesterfield Township fire officials said.
Their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Corbett Wall, and another child were injured.
The victims were identified as Karen Wall, 7; Christopher Wall, 6; Rebecca June, Wall, 3; and Michael Wall, 9.

Hong Kong Flu Hits Many Parts of U.S.
Waterford Twp. Is Voting Today on School Issues

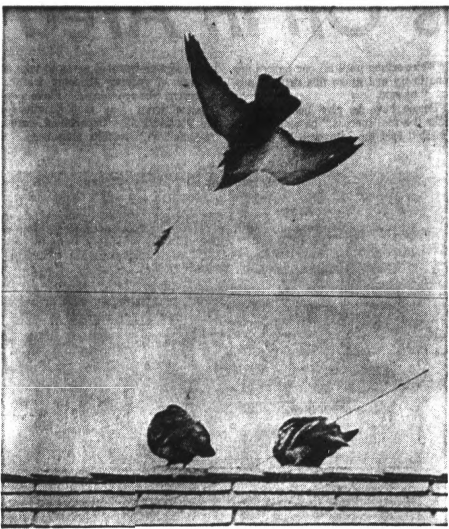

By the Associated Press
Absences from schools and jobs in several areas of the country are reported running higher than usual this winter because of a spreading outbreak of Hong Kong flu.
An Associated Press survey showed that although the disease has not yet hit its peak in many places, some firms and schools report absenteeism running as high as 30 per cent.
In New York City, for example, a Commerce and Industry Association survey of leading businesses showed that 40 per cent of those polled reported unusually high absenteeism.
Ten per cent of those firms said the high number of sick employees definitely was due to Hong Kong flu. The others said that the absenteeism was because of a flu-like disorder.
Of those firms reporting unusually high absenteeism, 10 per cent said the rate was 200 per cent higher than normal while the rest put the ratio at from 10 to 33 per cent higher than normal.
'I IN 5 WILL GET IT'
The city's health commissioner, Dr. Edward O'Rourke, predicted that 20 per cent of the population would be infected by the new strain of virus before the winter is over. In past years, he said, about 10 per cent of the population is affected by flu.
The National Communicable Disease Center in Atlanta, Ga., said Friday that 13 states, Puerto Rico and New York City already had reported outbreaks of Hong Kong flu and that new cases were expected.
Doctors at the center said chances of finding a vaccine which can fully prevent the disease remained doubtful.
One of the hardest hit areas has been Colorado. The State Health Department estimated 50,000 flu cases so far this year.
10 Poles Seek Asylum
ROSENNE, Denmark (AP) — A small Polish fishing vessel sailed into this Danish port today, and a fishermen's family of eight and two crew members asked for political asylum. A third crewman asked to return to Poland.
Waterford Township School District voters are going to the polls today to decide on a 9-mill school operating tax increase for two years and a $10.8-million bond issue for construction.
Revenue—$9 per $1,000 of state equalized property valuation from the tax hike would be used to restore curriculum and teaching positions cut back after a millage defeat more than a year ago.
The bond issue, which would not increase taxes, is to be used to build two schools and put additions on nine schools.
All registered voters may vote on the millage increase but only property owners may cast their votes on the bond issue. Polls close at 8 p.m.

You Have Until 8 P.M. to Cast Ballot in Waterford

Nixon Vows Support for States' Problems

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — President-elect Richard M. Nixon has assured Republican governors that they will get a sympathetic hearing on state problems in Washington.

'Instant Family': Quads Are Born

SAN FERNANDO, Calif. (UPI) — "When we got married we said we wanted four children," Jim Gallion said. "But we didn't expect this much at once."

Gallion's 22-year-old wife, Lorraine, gave birth yesterday to healthy quadruplets — three girls and a boy.

The children were born at San Fernando Valley Hospital and later transferred to County-USC Medical Center, where they were reported doing well.

Gallion, an $8,000 a year foreman in a sheet metal shop, and his wife already have two older children, James, 4, and Bruce, 2. The family lives in a two-bedroom home in nearby Sylmar.

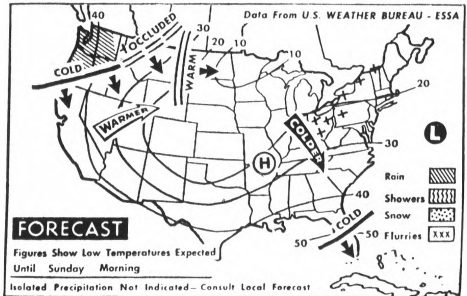

Gallion has one other problem. His colic had eight pups last week.

School Tax Proposal Gets Mixed Reaction in Lansing

LANSING (UPI) — A proposal for a statewide petition campaign to outlaw property taxes for school operating purposes and replace the revenue with a higher state income tax has triggered mixed reaction in the Michigan Legislature.

Rep. Roy Smith, R-Ypsilanti, who will spearhead the drive, said yesterday the proposition would remedy Michigan's growing school ills.

"It would place the burden of financing our schools on an ability to pay basis rather than on an antiquated system of property holdings," he said.

Chairman Harry A. DeMaio of the Senate Taxation Committee deride the proposal as an "unrealistic, unsound scheme," that would do more harm than good.

Sponsors of the plan said it would reduce property taxes by an average of 50 to 75 per cent, and hike the personal income tax from 2.6 to 6 per cent. The corporate income tax would jump from 5.6 to 11 per cent.

Forces supporting the petition campaign must obtain more than 200,000 valid signatures to get the plan on the ballot for voter determination. The earliest an election could be held is next spring.

Smith said petitions would be circulated as soon as the attorney general's office clears the form of the proposition. He said an effort would be made to secure the needed signatures by early next year.

Specifically the proposal would constitutionally prohibit the levying of local property taxes to finance school operations. It would not, however, ban real estate taxes for school construction.

WIDE-BASED RESTRICTION The restriction would extend from kindergarten through community college educational programs, Smith said.

"Financing of education is the most serious problem in Michigan today," Smith said.

"And it won't be solved in the Legislature. That's why I'm going to the people."

Students and outsiders, replied with obscenities and called the acting president a liar. Their demands, they said, are nonnegotiable.

"He's offering us tidbits," said Randall Bridges of the Black Students Union. "He's trying to divide us."

WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY Meanwhile, in St. Louis, all but a handful of white protesters at Washington University ended their sit-in early today after the faculty approved virtually all student demands.

The faculty of arts and sciences yielded to the white students principal demand that Reserve Officers Training Corps be eliminated. The first of two motions approved by the faculty removed the credit standing of four Army and four Air Force ROTC courses effective July 1, 1969.

About 25 militant Negroes continued their "lock-in" inside the school's accounting office. They declined to talk to newsmen.

They vowed they would remain until the university administration disciplined five school police who they say manhandled a Negro student Thursday.

OSHKOSH STATE In still other student unrest, about 150 chanting demonstrators pushed past two guards and smashed a glass door panel to enter the room where the Wisconsin's university system's Board of Regents was meeting yesterday.

The demonstrators, demanding reinstatement of 89 Negro students suspended from Oshkosh State University, interrupted the meeting for 20 minutes.

They withdrew after the regents agreed to appoint former Supreme Court Justice Ward Rector of Oshkosh to hear student appeals at the university beginning Monday.

PEARL HARBOR (UPI) — It is 27 years since the "day of infamy" when the bombing of Pearl Harbor plunged the United States into World War II.

A brief ceremony today on the USS Arizona Memorial was specially authorized by the Navy to allow a group of state legislators to pay their respects to the 2,409 Americans who died in the attack Dec. 7, 1941.

The gleaming-white Arizona Memorial rests above the famous battleship at the spot where she went down — the victim of a 500-pound bomb which dropped through her stack into the engine room.

The bodies of more than 1,000 of her crewmen remain entombed in the ship and oil still seeps to the surface from her rusting hull.

JOLTED THE WORLD The sneak attack jolted the world and enraged the American people. Three hundred and fifty-three Japanese war planes roared over Pearl Harbor in three waves. Forty-nine big bombers, each lugging a 1,600-pound armor-piercing bomb, came first. They were followed by 40 torpedo bombers and 51 dive bombers. Squadrons of zeros flew overhead and on the flanks for protection.

There were 97 ships in the harbor, which was an inferno in minutes. Of these, 46 were warships of destroyer size or larger. Eighteen of the warships were sunk or heavily damaged in the two-hour attack.

School Levy Vote Monday in Romeo Romeo voters will go to the polls Monday in a special election on renewal of a 4-mill school operating tax levy.

The election is the third for the district this year. In January voters turned down a proposed 8-mill package, 3 mills of renewal and 5 additional. However, both were approved in June, along with a $2.3-million bond issue for construction.

Schools Supt. T. C. Filippula said he is "hopeful" for passage of the renewal, though not expecting a large turnout.

At a recent joint meeting of the board of education and district principals, the superintendent said the four mills would be necessary to continue operating the schools on a basis similar to present operations.

The district, Filippula revealed, is faced with a projected $19,000 deficit by June 1969 and even with cuts in all areas would end up $10,000 in the red.

The system presently levies 27.61 mills for operating expenses and 8.98 mills for building.

Further Hearings on Chicago Likely WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of a House subcommittee probing disorders at the Democratic National Convention sees a need for further hearings which he says so far have shown Communists took part in the bloody August rioting in Chicago.

Missouri Democrat Richard Ichord said yesterday his special House subcommittee on un-American activities plans to examine the transcript of hearings held this week and in October.

6-Day Ordeal in Everglades

Plucky Pilot Finally Saved

HOMESTEAD, Fla. (AP) — Determination and a big Thanksgiving dinner kept downed pilot Wayne Waldrop Jr. going as he wandered in the jungle-like Everglades for six days before being rescued Friday by park rangers.

"I just made up my mind I wasn't going to die in the Everglades," said the gaunt, 26-year-old service station helper as he recuperated in a Homestead hospital.

Waldrop had a milkshake and some cookies Friday evening. It was the first food he had had since he crash-landed his rented plane 50 miles south of Miami in the Everglades on Nov. 29.

He was finally spotted by a ranger pilot, his clothes shredded by razor sharp sawgrass and his exposed body covered with hundreds of mosquito welts. He had slugged about 25 miles through knee-deep water.

Ranger Ralph Miele's sighting Friday afternoon came at a time when even 125 Escape Injury in Mine Collapse MADISONVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — Tons of rock and slate collapsed into the only entrance of a coal mine yesterday, but all 125 miners inside crawled out uninjured through a narrow crack in the earth.

The miners were going back to work in the mine today.

Austin Trammel, superintendent of the Island Creek Company's East Diamond Mine in the heart of the West Kentucky coal fields, said the collapse occurred several feet inside the entrance, leaving a hole just large enough for the miners to escape.

Trammel said there were many areas deep inside the mine where the workers could have retreated if there had been no way out.

BACK TO WORK The debris was being cleared and the mine was to be put back in operation sometime today, he said.

Wayne Waldrop Jr. — Tells of his ordeal.

Marionettes Delight Youngsters, Parents

By DIANNE DUROCHER
The wonderful world of the Chandler brothers, Marc and Chris, holds a special fascination for anyone who ever believed in Santa Claus, Pinocchio or Peter Pan. But their world of characters are real.

They are the Marchis Marionettes who will be performing daily for Pontiac Mall audiences through Dec. 26. The shows are at 1:30, 3:30, 5:30 and 7:30 p.m. in the south mall.

They have been entertaining people of all ages for the past week.

Mademoiselle Upanova is a graceful, brown-eyed duck with feathery wings who dances a ballet to "Swan Lake." As she toe-dances across the stage, the wide-eyed gaze of the children sitting on the green carpet below seems oblivious to Chris Chandler who adroitly moves the strings for her every motion.

CHILDREN CLAP

When she closes her eyes and bows at the end of her dance, the children clap enthusiastically. The adults who are edged around the carpet applaud.

Then there is the "pink pussycat," clad in a long evening gown, who sings a sultry version of "My Heart Belongs to Daddy" while reclining on a tiger skin couch.

Another marionette who delights the entire audience, is the buxom opera singer Madame Augusta Wind. She sings the "Italian Street Song" with flamboyance, concluding with her chest heaving a high note.

There are many other characters, but the favorite of the Chandlers is Granny Pinkerton, a white-haired, fragile looking old lady. The smile on her face is reassuring as she rises from the rocking chair and smiles at the audience.

HAPPY RESPONSE

Gleeful children and delighted grown-ups smile in return.

The Chandlers have operated as a team for the past 16 years and have staged marionette performances all over Europe and the United States. They make all of their own characters which are sometimes based on real people.

"I sculpture them out of clay, make a mold, then cast them in a rubber compound and Chris makes the costumes," explained Marc.

It takes about two months to make one marionette and about a year to make the characters for a complete show, Chris added.

MOVING PARTS

Most of the puppets are about two-and-a-half feet tall and have completely movable parts including the eyes and mouth.

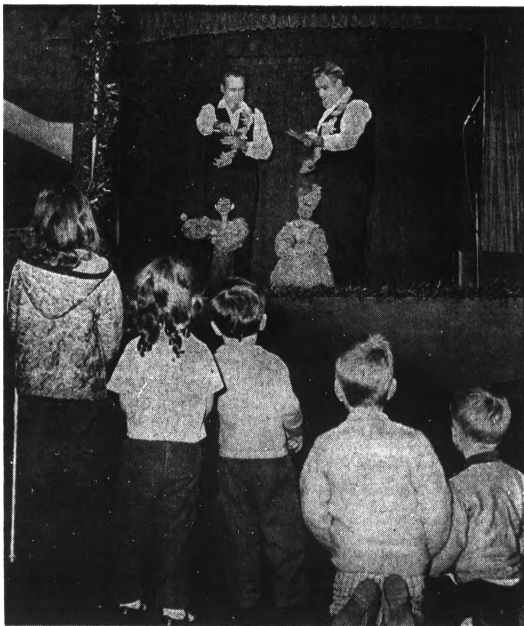

The brothers have a studio in Florida where they make the puppets. Bachelors, both men are originally from Toledo, Ohio.

The brothers enjoy entertaining.

"Half of our pleasure comes from watching the kids, their eyes open as wide as saucers and their laughter is sincere," Chris said.

In upcoming shows the marionettes will perform a "blues number" with a piano player named Casper and a vocalist called Cleo.

During the week of Christmas, a special circus show is planned for the children including clowns and elephants and trapeze artists. Grown-ups will be equally delighted by the performance, the brothers predict.

Dewey Would Abolish 'Fifth'

"We would get along just as well if we repealed the Fifth Amendment. We should require everyone to answer authorized questions. If he doesn't testify, then the judge and the court should comment on it."

"Some court decisions protecting defendants rights are a maze of artificial protections which do not protect anybody but the guilty."

"We have become a permissive society. It doesn't make any difference whether it's a mob or beating up for the sheer joy of it—larceny, arson are condoned. They go without punishment."

"We had better start restructuring our society or somebody else is going to start doing it over our heads. Liberty may not survive in chaos if government does not preserve order."

Were these statements those of the United States Supreme Court, Michigan State Supreme Court or for that matter, from any of our local judiciary?

Hardly. They came from a former crime buster who had the reputation of being one of the best ever.

Thomas E. Dewey made these remarks in an address before the Federal Bar Council recently. They make an awful lot of sense to us and since he is mentioned as a possible Nixon nominee to the U.S. Supreme Court we would like to add our support to the idea.

Pontiac Area United Fund Wins and Loses in 1968

In the windup of the 1968 campaign, the Pontiac Area United Fund may be said to have lost a battle but won a war.

The battle lost was the Fund's loss to meet its $1,130,000 goal by 5 per cent; the war won was the record-breaking total of $1,069,150 (3 per cent above last year) that was raised.

Needless to say, there is disappointment that the campaign didn't go over the top as did Detroit's Torch drive and those of many other Michigan cities. But the amount realized will enable the 55 social, health and welfare agencies to function adequately in their respective fields, though on a curtailed scale in some instances.

It is in order, however, to take a hard look at the results of the last two Fund campaigns, both of which fell short of their goals after a string of 17 successful ones.

The campaigns embrace one of the most populous and progressive communities in the Country and occurred during an unprecedented long period of national and local prosperity.

Then why the letdown?

Does the public believe that the annual campaigns whose goals necessarily increase slightly as agency costs increase contain some "water," and that the work of the establishment will not be impaired if its financial needs are not fully met?

Has the generally prosperous citizenry become self-satisfied in their own well-being and somewhat indifferent to the needs of the less fortunate?

On the first point, we can assure any doubters that the United Fund goals represent "bare bones" budgets of the participating agencies, sweated out well in advance of the campaigns by panels of hard-headed, public-spirited men and women of the community.

As for the second point, perhaps this is a good time for a little soul searching on the part of every individual within the area covered by the Pontiac United Fund. Has he or she, whether on the soliciting or contributing side of the campaign, delivered a full measure of personal effort and financial support?

These are questions that might well be pondered between now and the 1969 campaign, when not only the war but the battle must be won.

Meanwhile, The Press congratulates the Pontiac Area United Fund professional staff and volunteer leaders and workers on the creditable outcome of the recent campaign.

The U.S. Tariff Commission can verify the accuracy of that statement. What complicates this matter, and which will continue to complicate it, is that American workers are becoming sharply conscious of the number of jobs that are displaced by the surging increase of imports, and, through the various labor organizations, the workers are about to make a real issue of it.

In view of the low wage rates in other countries, surely a voluntary approach can be found which will be fair to all and which will not invite the imposition of quotas. Quotas can only mean retaliation by other nations, and they can become the road to misunderstanding.

Actually, if import and export values are calculated on the same basis, the difference is not as great as it seems. For the fiscal year 1969, which began on July 1, 1968, the Congress appropriated the smallest sum ever for foreign aid. The implications of that action must be quite clear. Congress believes that foreign aid should taper off sharply and finally be re-

The POWER of FAITH

By WOODI ISHMAEL

AS OTHERS PORTRAY THE CHRISTMAS STORY

The Madonna and the Three Wise Men—Africa

Christianity in Africa, other than in the coastal areas, does not date back much before the beginning of the 19th century. In Africa as elsewhere the task was one of visual communication, of telling the stories of Jesus in picture or sculpture. The African being a natural sculptor and wood carver, it followed that the Christian African artist would tell the story of Christmas in his own simple and beautiful technique.

The churches of Africa led the way in commissioning sculptors and artists to use their skills to tell the story of Jesus so the people would understand and relate to them. These artistic works also enrich our understanding of the basic religious truths.

The above drawings of the Virgin and Child and the Three Wise Men are bas reliefs carved by Lamudi Fakeye on the doors of the Roman Catholic Chapel at the University in Ibadan. They follow a very old African tradition of bas reliefs on wooden doorways. There are 10 panels on the doors, showing important scenes in the life of Christ. The simple dignity and reverence of the Wise Men in the bas reliefs impress us with the meaning of the first Christmas Morn.

Confident Living:

With Perseverance You Can Win

By NORMAN VINCENT
PEALE

Your chances of really getting somewhere in life can hinge on your reaction when some shattering setback hits you. Will you give up or will you keep on trying? It's as simple as that.

In a magazine article I read about the thrilling career of Pontiac Central High graduate Hayes Jones. Back in 1960 this man was the phenomenon of the year in high hurdles racing. He won race after race. He broke records. He was, in fact, sensational. Naturally he was picked for the Olympic Games held that year at Rome. There he ran in the 110-meter high hurdles amid worldwide expectations that he would carry off the gold medal.

But surprisingly he didn't. He finished third. It was a terrible disappointment. His first thought was: "So what? I might as well quit running." There would be no more Olympics for four long years. Besides he had already won all the other coveted high hurdles championships. Why subject himself to four more strenuous years of keeping in top form? The sensible thing was to forget it and get started in a business career.

Verbal Orchids

Mr. and Mrs. Frank VanCanton of Troy; 64th wedding anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland R. Vincent of 636 Meadow; 53rd wedding anniversary.

The South Lyon Herald entering its 90th year of publication.

Mr. and Mrs. Charley Keppeler of Milford; 53rd wedding anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Rosebush of Lake Orion; 50th wedding anniversary.

This was plain logic for sure, but Hayes Jones couldn't settle for it. "You can't be logical," he says, "about something you've wanted all your life."

So he started training again, three hours a day, seven days a week. And in the next couple of years he made some new records in the 60-yard and 70-yard high hurdles.

Came the night of February 22, 1964 at Madison Square Garden. Jones was competing in the 60-yard high hurdles. He had announced that this would be his last indoor race. Tension ran high; every eye was on him. And he won, tying his own previous all-time record.

Then a strange thing happened. In those days in the old Garden, when runners had crossed the finish line they disappeared under a ramp before they could slow down and stop. Walking back into the stadium Jones stood for a moment with head bowed, acknowledging the applause.

Then 17,000 people, packing the Garden, stood in tribute. Jones wept. Many spectators wept too because a once-defeated man was still in it.

He entered the 1964 Olympics at Tokyo and ran the 110-meter high hurdles in 13.6 seconds, finishing first—winning his gold medal.

After that he went to work for an airline as a sales representative in Detroit. Presently he offered to help as a volunteer in the city's physical fitness program. His activities got spectacular results. Mayor Lindsay heard of it, and now Hayes Jones, on leave of absence from his airline job, is doing a two-year stint as New York City's commissioner of recreation.

In a recent speech to a crowd of young men he quoted some lines from a poem by Robert W. Service which all of us could do well to tuck into our minds.

It's the keeping your chin-up that's hard.

It's easy to cry that you're beaten—and die;

It's easy to crawl and scrawl;

But to fight and fight when hope's out of sight—

Why, that's the best game of all!

And although you come out of each grueling bout

All broken and beaten and scorched,

Just have one more try—

It's so easy to die.

It's the keeping-on-living that's hard.

Hayes Jones' story brings to mind some lines from Goethe:

"Austere perseverance, harsh and continuous, may be employed by the smallest of us and rarely fails of its purpose, for its silent power grows irresistibly greater with time."

By United Press International

Today is Saturday, Dec. 7, the 342nd day of 1968 with 24 to follow. This is Pearl Harbor Day.

The moon is between its full phase and last quarter.

The morning stars are Mars and Jupiter.

The evening stars are Venus and Saturn.

On this day in history: In 1808 James Madison won the United States Presidential election, defeating Charles Pickens.

In 1931 President Herbert Hoover refused to see a group of so called "hunger marchers" at the White House.

In 1941 Japan launched a sneak attack against American bases in the Pacific, bombing Pearl Harbor, the Philippines, Wake and Guam Islands and the British possessions on Singapore and Hong Kong, drawing the United States into World War II.

Driver Explains Cause for Delay in Parking Lot

In regard to the letter from Ray Craddock who was upset because a young blonde ruined his evening at PCH's Band-o-rama, I am that young blonde and feel Mr. Craddock made a mountain out of a molehill. When I arrived at my car I had to wait four or five minutes for other cars before I could get out.

I was home less than half an hour after the concert, whereas he claimed I held up traffic for that long. I would wager that if my car had belonged to a six-foot two-inch he-man instead of a young blonde teen-ager, Mr. Craddock would have been much less put out.

Reader Discusses Actions of Gov. Romney

Have read that our Governor got his raise, so all of you taxpayers take your belts up another notch for here goes another mill or two. I believe Michigan has been proven the highest tax state in the Nation, and our taxes will be higher before Romney is through with us. He spent our tax money going to Vietnam and also went campaigning for president until everyone socked it to him concerning the Detroit riot and he withdrew from the race. He hasn't been the same since he was brainwashed in Vietnam. We will have to take it unless he can brainwash Nixon to get a seat in his cabinet. If so, may the Lord help this country.

'Voice Disapproval of School Site Decision'

Citizens of Pontiac should be very dissatisfied with the board of education's decision to build the proposed super high school on the State hospital site. In snubbing professional advice recommending the Orchard Lake-Bagley location, the board has disregarded the tremendous need for helping to establish downtown redevelopment. The rejected central location would have been closer to both the majorities of the black and of the white communities, rather than on the City's periphery. Perhaps the promotion of better race relations is not uppermost in the board's mind.

If the board had acted in proper administrative procedure it would have commissioned the professional planning group to begin its study and make its recommendation as to the school site before the board made its decision prior to the millage vote in March, rather than afterwards. Despite the conclusiveness of the board's decision, I urge Pontiac citizens to register their disapproval of the board's action. It would be well worth a 15 per cent increase in cost and a one-year delay to select the more advantageous site, the one at Orchard Lake and Bagley.

Answers Complaint About Farm Hunting

In reply to the person who feels he should be able to hunt on a farm, no farmer has his farm in the soil bank. He can't afford to. These are people from the city who purchased a farm as a tax evasion or someone who is out of farming and working elsewhere. Other casual hunters are not allowed to hunt on farms as there is very little game on a farm, careless use of guns, and drunken men. You can hunt free on any State game area land. Ask your conservation man. There are thousands of acres where you can hunt free, so why blame the farmer?

SMART EVE XIV

Supervisors Appointed Road Commissioner

It's difficult to understand all the criticism directed at the road commissioner. Certain members of the board of supervisors have stated publicly that they were not satisfied with his past performance. Taxpayers pleaded with the Board at the Oct. 7 public hearing to remove the present road commissioner if they were not doing a good job, so money could be allocated to roads. And yet, at their very next meeting on Nov. 12, the Board unanimously reappointed Mr. Staman to another six-year term.

The fault does not lie with Mr. Staman, who wanted the job. It lies with the supervisors who gave it to him, knowing he had not done a good job for the taxpayers paying his salary. It looks like County officials don't really want someone in that job who will fight to get a share of local and state money for roads.

Question and Answer

Shortly after 10 a.m. Nov. 26 Grand Trunk had traffic on Huron backed up past the high school for seven minutes. Isn't there a law against this?

DISGUSTED

REPLY

Yes, Ordinance 1275 says the limit is five minutes. Lt. Randolph of Pontiac Police says if you have the tram number, date and time it was blocking traffic, you can sign a complaint and a warrant will be issued. Penalty is $100 fine, 90 days, or both.

I collect J. F. Kennedy coins, stamps, medals, etc. Could you tell me some place to send to get newspapers on his assassination?

In an earlier column on the question of President-elect Richard Nixon and what he can expect from Congress, I cited his views on matters such as appropriations and the multilateral nuclear treaty, and I wrote that it should not be too difficult to reach an accord with the Congress wherever necessary.

Now let's look at other areas of legislative activity that will arise in the course of the 91st Congress.

There is, for example, the question of the policy of foreign aid which the United States has been pursuing for 24 years, and on which we have spent, in round figures, about $150 billion.

For the fiscal year 1969, which began on July 1, 1968, the Congress appropriated the smallest sum ever for foreign aid. The implications of that action must be quite clear.

Congress believes that foreign aid should taper off sharply and finally be re-

Workers, Students Quiet Down

Italy Shapes New Coalition

ROME (AP) — Workers and students quieted down in Italy Friday as the nation's three main political parties prepared to join forces in a new coalition government.

Nailing down final planks of the new center-left platform, Premier-designate Mariano Rumor emerged from bargaining sessions and said, "It is my intention to end the negotiations Saturday."

Delegations from Rumor's Christian-Democrat party, the Socialist party and the Republicans were expected to report to their party directorates today to win approval of the program and a list of Cabinet members.

If all continues according to Rumor's plan, he should be able to present the program and Cabinet for Italy's 29th postwar government to President Giuseppe Saragat in three days.

CONFIDENCE VOTES

Then will come votes of confidence, first in the Senate and then in the Chamber of Deputies to determine whether six months of political uncertainty can be ended and the country placed on an even keel by Christmas.

Unrest generated by students and workers hastened the pace of the negotiations to deal with the problems behind their protests.

Italy's political troubles began in April when the Socialists, hurt by election losses, bolted the old center-left coalition that had governed Italy for five years under Premier Aldo Moro.

A minority caretaker government continued in power until Nov. 19 when it resigned in an attempt to force a new coalition. President Saragat gave Rumor a mandate Nov. 26 to try to form a new government.

STUDENT UNREST

Most of his negotiations took place in an air of unrest with student demonstrations, university occupations and labor strikes by Communist-led unions.

The Communists attempted to stir up popular will for an alternative to the center-left, but fearing a right-wing reaction by the military, they appealed for calm after student and worker demonstrations swelled to dramatic proportions Thursday.

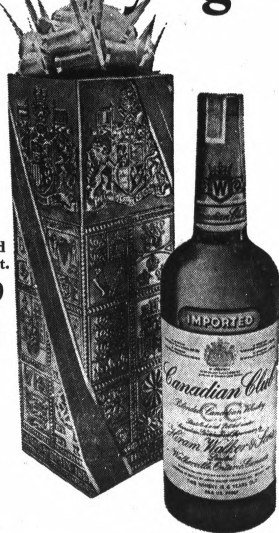

There were some student demonstrations Friday and in Naples police cleared a number of high schools that had been occupied by students. But major disorders seemed ended.

In an attempt to convince students it wasn't worth demonstrating against, Milan's La Scala opera announced its customary first performance to white dove and sprinkled anti-Vietnam leaflets from the balcony on what they called the "bourgeois" audience.

Last year they had released a white dove and sprinkled anti-Vietnam leaflets from the balcony on what they called the "bourgeois" audience.

County to Get Legal Opinion on Clerk's Pay

Legal counsel for the Oakland County Board of Supervisors will prepare opinions by Dec. 16 on whether the county can appropriate money on two matters. Both were made an issue of Thursday by Supervisor James Clarkson of Southfield.

Clarkson questions the legality of the county paying the widow of a presumed-dead County Clerk John D. Murphy an amount equal to pay checks Murphy would have received until his successor took office. Clarkson parallels the Murphy question by challenging the county's right to appropriate money for the Office of Economic Opportunity. He disputed unhappiness over such payments.

Corporation Counsel, Robert Allen, is to have opinions ready on both matters for the ways and means committee at its meeting Dec. 16.

CLARKSON'S MOTION

The Murphy matter was presented by Clarkson when he made a motion to allow Mrs. Clarkson to receive the pay checks up to the time Lynn Allen took over the job Nov. 26. Allen questioned the motion noting that Murphy's death was ruled on at a hearing Dec. 13 in Charlevoix County Probate Court.

If Murphy is declared dead as of late July when he was reported missing after a boating accident on Lake Michigan, Allen said, there is a probability the county and lease them to the county. The buildings he said, could range in cost from $75,000 to $125,000.

Joachim also reported that Circuit Court space on the first floor of the courthouse will be available in February. The three judges now housed at Lafayette, will be transferred to the courthouse at that time, he said.

REPORT TO AUDITOR

A report on the activities of the Aid to Dependent Children program and the county clothing store will be ready for the new board, auditor chairman Daniel T. Murphy told the Ways and Means Committee. He said usage of the store had quadrupled this year over last.

An attempt to end drainage problems at the Service Center will be undertaken with Pontiac. The city is reportedly considering construction of the Augusta Drain to serve the western half of the city. It's extension reportedly could eliminate ponding behind the Children's Village and drainage problems in a nearby Waterford Township residential area.

HOUSING BIDS

The buildings and grounds committee is studying bids it received this week to house temporarily children who will participate in the North Oakland Training Institute.

Plans for a permanent building are now under way, but it is the intention of the committee to provide mobile classroom units for the present. This facility, for which $1

Nixon Men Initiate Hunt for Managerial Personnel

WASHINGTON (UPI)—If you're listed in "Who's Who" or if you're a bank president, a labor leader, a corporation executive or a mayor, expect a letter soon from Richard M. Nixon.

If you're a cook or an 11-year-old boy from Cheyenne, Wyo., the answer is no. Don't bother applying to Harry Fleming for a $10,000 to $28,000 a year job in the Nixon administration.

Fleming, 29, is "director of staff search and selection" for President-elect Nixon. His job is to fill about 1,700 middle-management jobs in the new administration—those at the level of deputy assistant secretary of a cabinet department and below. Jobs above that level will be filled at Nixon's New York headquarters in the Hotel Pierre.

Fleming wants lots of applications and so he has sent a computer-written letter to 53,424 persons listed in "Who's Who in America" and other directories, asking for recommendations and including job applications.

In all, he expects to send 10,000 such letters to prominent persons in American life, culled from lists of labor leaders, mayors, college presidents and others.

Now the applications are arriving.

"So far, we've received 3,500," Fleming said at a news conference yesterday. "Today's mail brought in 1,500 to 2,000. I fully anticipate 25,000 to 30,000."

But, he says, many are from people obviously not qualified for the posts. Letters from cooks, for example, he said, are weeded out—along with those from "the 11-year-old boy in Cheyenne who wants to be assistant secretary of housing and urban development."

The letters sent over the signature of Nixon from "the office of the President-elect" ask the recipients to recommend "men and women who by their qualities of youthfulness, intelligence and creativity can make significant contributions to our country" by working for the Nixon administration.

'Provocative' Allied Action

Russia Hits NATO Air Watch

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet newspaper Pravda charged today that a new allied air watch on Soviet ships in the Mediterranean is a "typical provocation, fraught with danger."

U. of M. to Study Dearborn Site

ANN ARBOR (AP) — A faculty-student citizen committee has been formed to conduct a comprehensive planning study for the University of Michigan's Dearborn campus.

Assignment of the committee is to develop plans and recommendations for the continuing development of the Dearborn campus with a view to realizing its full potential for educational services, a U-M spokesman said. Prof. Richard E. Balzhiser of the College of Engineering will head the group.

Vladimir Yermakov, writing in the Communist party paper said the air watch was a "violation of the norms of international law which provides for freedom of navigation in open seas in peacetime."

He charged that the Naples-based service of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, commanded by U.S. Adm. Edward Outlaw, "threatens the security of the Mediterranean."

The accusation came one day after another Pravda writer attacked the United States for sending two destroyers from the Mediterranean into the Black Sea for a five-day cruise beginning today.

A spokesman of the U.S. Navy said,

Hart to Shift Focus of His Senate Probe

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Philip A. Hart's investigators will turn their attention from the auto repair industry to credit bureaus and collection agencies next week, it was disclosed yesterday.

The Senate Antitrust and Monopoly subcommittee, which the Michigan Democrat heads, ended three days of hearings Thursday on the high cost of auto repairs.

The subcommittee recessed until Tuesday when it is scheduled to begin an inquiry into credit and collection agencies.

Questions to be determined include the effect of credit rating systems on competition and whether any credit bureaus operate to unfair advantage of customers who have an honest dispute with a creditor.

Two Are Held in Shootings at Huron Bowl

Two young men are being held in the Oakland County Jail for investigation of attempted murder in a double shooting in Waterford Township this morning.

Waterford Township police said they are seeking warrants against Patrick M. Kelly, 18, of 923 Myrtle and Walter R. Glantz, 22, of 180 N. Roslyn, both of Waterford Township.

The incident occurred around 2:20 a.m. in the parking lot of the Huron Bowl Lounge, 2525 Elizabeth Lake, after a fight involving the men, police said.

Police said the shooting victims are both listed in satisfactory condition. Willis Coleman, 22, of 9625 Buckingham, White Lake Township, was taken to Pontiac General Hospital and Louis Vaccaro, 23, of 900 East Blvd. is at St. Joseph Hospital.

Recently a proteinlike substance extracted from bee venom was used successfully to destroy three strains for staphylococcal infection which were penicillin-resistant.

Youth Stabbed at Local Plant

A Waterford Township youth is in fair condition at Pontiac General Hospital after being stabbed in the shoulder during an argument in the Pontiac Motor plant yesterday.

Being held in the Oakland County Jail for investigation of felonious assault is William J. Robinson, 24, of Detroit. Robinson was taken into custody by plant protection officers and turned over to Pontiac police following the 4:10 p.m. stabbing of John R. Runyan, 18, of 4811 Motorway. Witnesses told police that the pair had been arguing since coming to work an hour before the incident.

News in Brief

Gary Simons, 22, of 2040 Sunderland, Waterford Township, reported to Pontiac police last night that he was robbed of $65 by two men in the parking lot across from the Fisher Body plant, 900 Baldwin.

OU Engineer School Gets Advisory Board

Oakland University's School of Engineering has established an eight-man Board of Visitors, composed of senior executives from industries in southeastern Michigan.

The board, which will assist in laying the groundwork for future engineering education at OU, will hold its first campus meeting Wednesday.

Engineering Dean John E. Gibson noted that the establishment of the board coincides with the year-long dedicatory program planned for OU's new $5-million Dodge Hall and initial expansion efforts under a $570,000 National Science Foundation grant to expand the school's graduate programs in engineering.

"To provide the maximum benefit to the citizens of the state it is essential that these programs have the benefit of the best thinking available from the industrial community of our region," Gibson said. "The Board of Visitors is designed to provide precisely this advantage."

Three Birmingham men were named to the board. They are

B. W. Bogan of 585 Suffield, vice president—special assignment in Chrysler Corporation's product planning and development staff; Dr. C. B. Sung of 31435 Fromm, vice president—engineering, Bendix Corp. Research Laboratories; and R. Jamison Williams of 1023 Yarmouth, director of development engineering, General Motors Technical Center engineering staff.

Also on the Board of Visitors is an Orchard Lake man, F. J. Winchell of 3463 West Shore, director of development engineering, General Motors Technical Center engineering staff.

New Board Head

KALAMAZOO (AP) — Roger Kidston of Kalamazoo was elected chairman of the county board of supervisors during a meeting of the 17 members here. Kidston succeeds James Bobb, also of Kalamazoo, who is chairman of the old 37-member board. Committee appointments are expected to be completed and announced Wednesday. Kidston said following his election.

Free-Trade Zone Symbol of Cambodia Goals

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (UPI)—A barren and largely empty tract of land in the picturesque port town of Sihanoukville has become a symbol of Cambodia's struggle to enter the world of developed nations against heavy odds.

The area is a free-trade zone which Cambodia's ruler, Prince Norodom Sihanouk, says "will become a little Hong Kong."

Laid bare by bulldozers and fenced in, the tract sits at a point where an uncompleted rail line meets the blue-green waters of the Gulf of Siam and port facilities which are in the process of being expanded.

The free-zone plan is a pitch for foreign investment, but where it is going to come from remains a question mark.

RED CHINA

The only definite possibilities Sihanouk mentions are the Communist Chinese, whose ships bring consumer goods to Sihanoukville and take away agricultural products and rubber, and France, whose influence and large community here make Cambodia the last French toehold in an area where France once ruled supreme.

Thus far, no projects have been started in the zone. A refinery nearby is being built with French and German help.

Scheduled for completion in January, it will have to wait at least another four to five months before completion of a rail line to carry its products inland.

Sihanouk has opened his bid for foreign investment to everyone—even private companies from the United States, whose diplomats were expelled from Cambodia in 1965.

GRIM MEMORIES

Foreign sources say one reason for the reluctance to invest is the memory of nationalization in 1964, despite new guarantees by Sihanouk.

Cambodia is considering joining both the World Bank and the International Monetary Fund to gain more foreign investment.

Although foreign sources describe Cambodia's economic condition as "precarious," this does not mean the economy is near collapse.

As an agricultural nation, Cambodia is self-sufficient in the commodities it needs to feed and clothe its people.

It exports rice each year and Sihanouk boasts that Cambodia, a nation of six million persons, produces three million tons of rice a year.

Cambodia faces a problem in finding jobs for technically trained graduates of its school system. Sihanouk says this is one of the goals of his free zone at Sihanoukville.

Perhaps the brightest outlook is for Cambodia's largely undeveloped tourist industry.

Pan American World Airways, which does not now serve Phnom Penh, has asked for landing rights and expressed interest in building hotels there and in Siem Reap, near the huge temple ruins at Angkor Wat.

MODERN BUILDING

Air France is already building a hotel at Siem Reap. The Cambodians are completing a tourist hotel of their own among the hills at Sihanoukville.

Sihanouk, who for the time being is determined to keep American government money out of Cambodia, makes clear the ban does not apply to American tourists.

"I want them," he says. "Their dollars do not smell of policy."

THE NATIVITY

Creches through the Centuries

AUSTRIAN—From Innsbruck, this creche, created during the middle 18th century is among the most important crib collection in the world at the National Museum in Munich, Germany.

The Christmas cribs, or manger scenes, that appear in churches and in many households at Christmas time, have a history that can be traced back for twelve centuries.

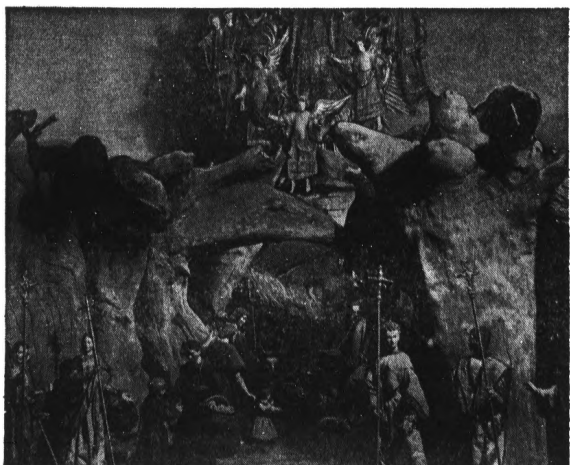

Since there weren't many books in Medieval Europe and since few people could read anyway, priests and religious leaders used the cribs to interpret the Bible through literal representation.

Saint Francis of Assisi created one of the earliest presepes, as the Italians call them—from the Latin word praesepe, meaning stable. He re-enacted the birth of Christ when he set up a single manger scene at the little town of Greccio, Italy in 1224. From this presentation, the idea of Nativity scenes spread throughout the world.

The Renaissance brought changes in the manger scenes. They became more elaborate and added many, quite irrelevant figures. During the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries, the presepe reached its height. Figures were made of wood, terra cotta, papier-mache, plaster, cork and faience. In many cases, the making of the Christmas Crib figures and their arrangement became important contributions to art.

The most elaborate Christmas presepe in Italy is the celebrated shrine of the Madonna della Grazie, built by the Capuchin monks. It is an 18-foot high grotto of Sardinia cork, with galleries giving a perspective of the mountains. The National Museum in Munich contains the most important crib collection in the world and the Metropolitan Museum in New York City has the noted Rossellino group, used before 1478.

In France the manger scene is called the "creche"; in Spain, the "nacimiento"; and in southern Germany, the "Krippe." In America, elaborate scenes can be found around Christmas time in Salem, North Carolina, Bethlehem, Pennsylvania and Baltimore, Maryland.

BAVARIAN KRIPPE—From the famous workshops of Oberammergau, Germany, Christmas mangers such as this one have been produced for centuries.

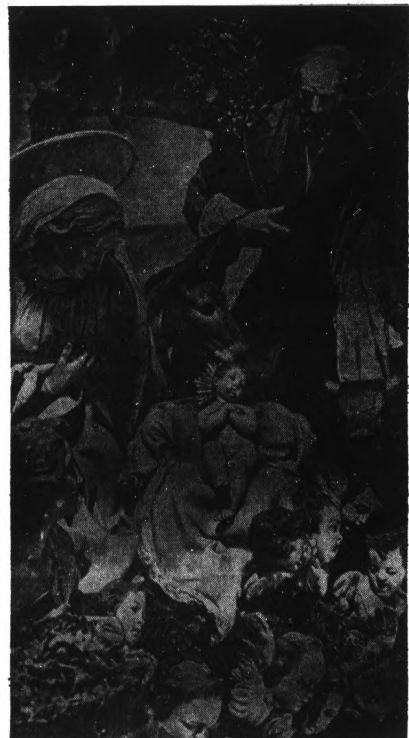

CONTEMPORARY "NATIVITY"—This cast bronze by French artist, Roland Coignard, was first shown at the Vatican Pavilion of the New York World's Fair, 1964-65.

FIFTEENTH CENTURY—These painted terracotta Florentine statues from the workshop of Antonio Rossellino can be seen at the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York City.

NAPLES—Italy has long been noted for its beautiful "presepes," like this example from the 16th century.

ELABORATE—Typical of the detail executed by the Italian artists, this crib was built in the 16th century in Naples.

Young people of Central United Methodist Church upon bearing a missionary in the Philippines needed a horse, decided to serve a pancake-sausage supper in Fellowship Hall of Central Church from 4 to 8 p.m. today to start a horse fund.

Contributions or proceeds will be used to buy the horse.

It seems there is a Methodist missionary and circuit rider in the Philippines who is waging a fight at great personal sacrifice to reach isolated people in the hills with medical supplies and the word of God.

The trail reportedly is long, tortuous and dangerous. No vehicle can climb these mountains and trails. The missionary must walk or ride a horse.

When Central Church young people heard of his problem, they vowed to get him a horse for Christmas.

Anyone wishing to help these teen-agers with the horse fund may buy a part of a wooden horse now on display at Central Church.

Mood of Castle Dweller Involves Mixed Emotions

By JODY HEADLEE

Home Editor, The Pontiac Press

What's it like to live in a castle? According to Mrs. Harry Stevens, the mistress of Adams Castle in Bloomfield Township, there are mixed emotions.

"There are days," said Mrs. Stevens, "when I feel like a queen—and then again—there are days when I feel like the scullery maid."

The magnificent example of an English country manor was built in 1927 by Harry Stormfultz of Stormfultz-Lovely Real Estate under the guiding hand of architect Richard Marr.

After the death of the senior Stormfultz, the property was sold to Dr. Harry Paysner who both rented and lived in the house until it was acquired by the Harry Stevens in 1965.

FREE REIN

"Mr. Stormfultz gave Mr. Marr a free rein," said Mrs. Stevens. "No expense was spared in building the house. And, since the fear of fire was most real in those days, many fire protection devices are built in."

"Note," she said, walking through the huge entrance foyer, "all the baseboards and door moldings are built of black Italian marble. The stairway is of white travertine marble as is the center of the floor."

The hand-carved, solid oak entrance door opens into a vestibule which is isolated by a metal framed glass door.

Lighting the main area is a massive hand-carved walnut and antiqued brass drop fixture featuring the acanthus leaf pattern. Picking up the red in the American oriental's pattern, the stairway's rail swag and the matching carpet add a dramatic contrast to the curving white marble staircase.

ORIENTAL MOTIF

A black lacquered, brass-appointed chest topped by a Chinese deity emphasizes the entrance hall's oriental motif.

French doors open into the black and white marble-squared banquet hall lighted by a shimmering crystal and silver chandelier. Serving the fruitwood-finished solid cherry banquet table are olive green cushioned French Provincial chairs. A hand-painted formal Colonial garden wallpaper graces the room's sidewalls.

From the French and Colonial-influenced dining room, the architectural mood swings to the Italian in the nearby fountain room floored in blue-green slate and molded tile. Marble columns support the room's arches painted a soft green. An Italian fountain planted with greens at its base adds the happy sound of running water to the room's atmosphere.

Injecting an Oriental note in the European room is the wall oil of a pagoda garden scene which is painted directly on the canvas-covered plaster.

Farm-Type Colonial House Stresses Comfort

The shrunken and so-called efficiency kitchen excluded everyone but Mom for a number of years.

No one liked it, but there wasn't much to do but put up with it, since it was an era when, for a number of reasons, the small kitchen had replaced the spacious kitchen of yesterday.

In keeping with the present trend toward the larger kitchen, either by itself or in combination with a family room, the House of the Week has presented a number of designs along that line.

A recent popular one included a kitchen-family room combination in the front part of the house, an arrangement preferred by some home owners.

This week, a typically Colonial farm-type home encompasses a kitchen-family room at the rear, a location many housewives insist on.

COMBINATION AREA
This combination area is 20' long, one part a food preparation center, the other a place for informal meals and get-togethers.

Connected to it is a porch almost the same size, with double doors for access. Because of its privacy (behind the two-car garage), it is likely to be well used for family living, eating and guest entertaining in suitable weather.

At the front of the house and to the right of the foyer are the living room and dining room, placed in line to give a vista of 33' but with partial separating walls to permit each to retain its identity.

The living room has an attractive fireplace set into the chimney wall which, on the other side, houses the kitchen's built-in oven and a separate barbecue.

BEDROOM WING
The three-bedroom wing is serviced by a large bath designed for dual use; it can be a hall bath or a master private bath by securing one of its two doors.

The lavatory previously mentioned is placed so that it also can be used from the bedrooms.

One of the exterior features of architect Rudolph A. Mat-

ern's design Z-70 is a long porch, another throwback to the era of large kitchens.

It is 30' in length, affords excellent weather protection for

Z-70 STATISTICS
Design Z-70 has a fireplace living room, dining room, combined family room-kitchen, laundry area, three bedrooms, bathroom, lavatory and center foyer, of 1792 square feet. To the right of the house is a two-car garage and, in back of that, a large porch accessible to the kitchen-family room. The plans call for a basement. Over-all dimensions, which include the garage, the front porch and the side porch, are 78'4" by 36'2".

the front entrance and provides a large greeting or farewell place for guests.

For anyone desiring to return the porch to its old-time use as a sitting area to watch the world go by, this one qualifies.

EXTERIOR
Exterior materials are narrow horizontal siding with vertical corner boards; shuttered double hung windows; flush boards on garage face and wood; and wood roof shingles.

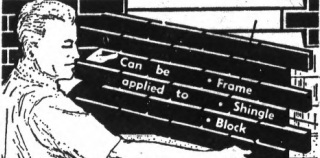

The latter, when local regulations permit their use, give a house of this nature an authentic farmhouse flavor.

These days, of course, the fire-retardant type of shingles is the proper choice.

Plenty of comfort and practicality in this one-story Colonial.

FLOOR PLANS—Informal family activities get the big play here, with combined kitchen-family room the focal point. On one side is a large porch for outdoor dining and relaxation; on the other is the service area, including laundry, lavatory and access to outside.

THREE-BEDROOM RANCH has many Colonial farmhouse characteristics, including the long front porch, under which are the entranceway and the shuttered windows of the living room and dining room. Design even reverts to wood roof shingles, in this case of the modern fire-retardant type.

THE SCENE STEALER

Holiday Decorating Easy With Carpet

Holiday decorating is as simple as snip, snip, snip with — surprise — colorful indoor-outdoor carpet.

Though not usually associated with ornamental decorations, indoor-outdoor carpet adapts easily to this new role. People who have attempted custom insets will testify that the versatile material is a pleasure to work with.

Custom insets are designs cut into indoor-outdoor carpet on a floor. After insets, it was a logical next step to fashioning this economical floor covering into all sorts of intriguing decorations.

Wild Colors
Brighten New Cookware

There's good news for husbands who would like to give their wives cookware for Christmas but are hesitant because they think it lacks glamor.

Cookware doesn't lack glamor anymore.

Today's pots and pans are no longer a necessary evil that must be hidden before dinner guests arrive.

Cookware designers have changed them from unsightly kitchen drudges into attractive and functional utensils that can sit with pride at any dinner table.

Color has come into cookware in a big way. Today, high-fashion aluminum cookware compares in decorative value with any kind of home furnishings gift.

The craze for color has prompted manufacturers to add a pineapple hue to their line. They are also coming out with colors called pimento, avocado and nutmeg.

Other colors include orange blaze, turquoise, copperstone, desert sand, dancing flame, harvest gold, various reds and blues, charcoal grey, apple green and white and black.

Convert your kitchen window to a pass-through by building a serving counter outside.

Indoor-outdoor carpet is uniquely suited as decoration material, because it is firm enough to hold a shape yet easy to manipulate with scissors or knife.

Armstrong Cork Company, originator of custom carpet insets, has come up with an idea for Christmas placemats.

TREE

The placemats feature a Christmas tree, but any seasonal symbol can be used. As the first step, trace an appropriate design out of a book or magazine onto grid paper.

(The technique to be followed is similar to that used for custom insets. The company offers a free demonstration brochure and custom inset patterns to persons who write to their offices in Lancaster, Pa.)

Next, secure the paper pattern to a piece of red carpet with masking tape. With a razor-edged knife, such as an X-Acto knife, cut through paper pattern and carpet.

After cutting out the tree, center it on the left edge of a rectangular section of green carpet that has been cut to standard placemat size with a pair of scissors. Slice along the outline of the right side of the tree with your knife.

The tree and placemat will now interlock evenly. Hold them in place with a long strip of masking tape applied to the back of the placemat where the two pieces join.

NAPKIN HOLDER

A napkin holder which repeats the tree motif. Simply cut out a tree and napkin ring from the carpet and fasten one to the other with a piece of tape.

Red and green are the traditional yuletide colors, but red and gold, green and gold, blue and green, or any other color scheme can be substituted.

Indoor-outdoor carpet comes in a wide enough range of colors to satisfy the most particular decorator.

There are other benefits to decorating with indoor-outdoor carpet. It isn't messy, prickly or difficult to locate.

TRADITIONAL

It combines well with the traditional decorating carpet. This type of indoor-outdoor carpet is made from the materials, like holly, pine cones and sprigs. Attractive wreaths can be created by attaching known to man, so wreaths (or greenery and red berries to doormats — another idea) will withstand the elements.

Also, bonded fiber shrugs off spills and resists stains. The list of decorating possibilities with indoor-outdoor carpet. For instance, children will enjoy looking bright and beautiful in devising tree ornaments in various designs and sizes.

Other shapes can be cut out of the carpet in festive colors and affixed to walls or doors with double-faced tape. The tape should not mar most surface finishes.

Winter Problem of Cold, Solved by Storm Doors

While this may be the season to be jolly, it's not always easy to laugh away the problems that winter presents.

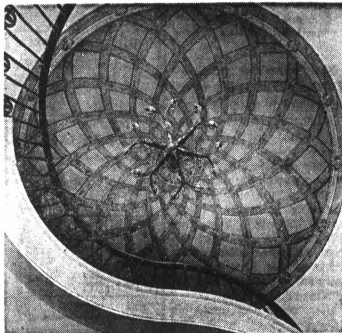

Like keeping cold air out of the house, for example.

This particular problem is getting lots of attention from homeowners. The solution, many have found, is the installation of aluminum storm doors.

Among the most popular types of storm doors are the jalousie models. They eliminate the need to remove the screen panel in winter and replace it with the glass panel.

The jalousie is made with a series of narrow slats of glass.

They are installed in frames that operate from a crank or lever which opens or closes the frames, depending on the season.

DOME DETAIL—In the solid masonry castle-like home of the Harry Stevens in Bloomfield Township, the work of talented artisans of the early 1800s is preserved. The detail work in the dome over the serpentine second floor hall and curving Italian marble staircase would have taken many months to complete, according to Mr. Stevens.

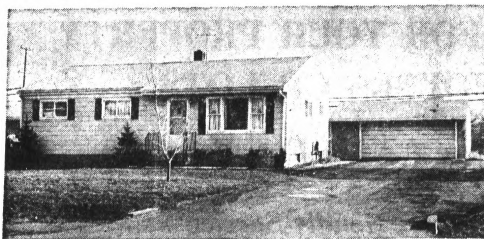

MARBLE ROOM—Italian marble makes up the walls and floor in the marble room of the Harry Stevens' home in Bloomfield Township. The intricately-molded plaster ceiling is finished with gold and silver leaf.

Exquisitely colored glass and scenes mark the leaded window glass arches in the room. Hand-carved solid oak gates lead to the adjoining living room.

Rid Home of Eyesore Furniture

Put your home on your the woman of the house than the holiday season to Christmas shopping list. most unhappiness. [re]furnish that unhappiness

There's no better opportunity away.

Eleanor Kandel, a home furnishings specialist for the Flexalum Division, of Alcan Aluminum Corporation, suggests that Mom might be happier if the family chipped in to get something she needs in the home rather than giving her the usual array of scarves, sweaters, jewelry, perfume and the like.

For example, wouldn't it be delightful for her to wake up in the morning and look at stylish aluminum venetians with their bright finishes rather than those old faded, soiled or wrinkled window coverings.

RUG

Or maybe she would like to replace that dark, wax-caked kitchen linoleum with handsome, easy to maintain vinyl flooring.

What about the living room rug? Is it worn in spots? Has the color and life gone out of it years ago? Maybe a new rug is the answer here.

Color and Lighting Principles
 By JODY HEADLEE
 Home Editor, The Pontiac Press
 "Creating an atmosphere in your home has nothing to do with art forms by local workman worked into the cement and asphalt."

"The essential qualities are there in any period. The furniture and draperies are not important. It's the color and the lighting that set the background and establish the mood."

To understand these basic principles of color and light and their effect on individuals, he suggests the interested public attend the upcoming Environmental Conference.

To be held at Oakland University, Dec. 14 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. the conference will feature Richard Kelly and Faber Birren, world leaders in the practical use of color and lighting.

"For instance," said Swenson, "take the kitchen. Undercounter lighting is a must for as the visual acuity declines, the irritation of the homemaker increases. Yet, how many homes have such lighting."

"The homemaker and the man of the house, the entire public needs to be informed and gain more experience in the basics that create a comfortable home, a youngster-oriented home, a youngster-oriented church..."

"In community planning, the public needs to be knowledgeably involved. They need more than just the privilege of paying the bill with higher taxes."

"With all the accent on urban housing, concerned laymen need to take a large look at the picture. More thought should be put into the planning."

"There should be a total integration of the actual structure

Sarah Runette of Birmingham and her big sister, Lisa, take one last slide down for the day. Sarah sports a one-piece jumpsuit in navy with coordinated striped shirt. Lisa's ski wear is another new look for the younger crowd. Her powder blue corduroy knickers are teamed with bright yellow shirt and blue jacket. Both girls wear pony fur boots.

Racer Look In First Place on Slopes

By JEANNE NELSON

Motion is THE key to this year's women's active ski wear as the racer look takes a predominate lead in fashion on the slopes.

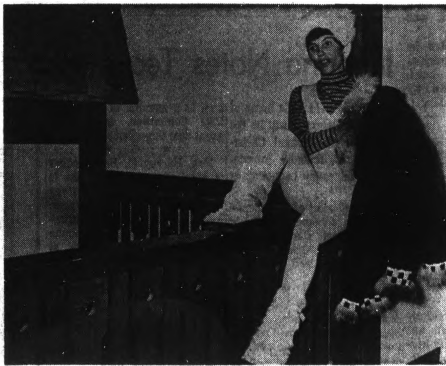

Those sleek-fitting jumpsuits are gaining more momentum with each season. But caution must be exercised here, since only those with near perfect figures should attempt them.

Every wrinkle and bulge is shown without mercy. The turtle neck under, must be smooth and lightweight to keep the feeling of unbroken line.

For those who qualify, it's a fabulous look.

For the less fortunate of figure, ski wear manufacturers have gone the limit with more variety in color, fabric and style than in any previous year. Matching pants, jackets and head gear are readily available, along with coordinated contrasts.

The racer look is accentuated with rally stripes down the pants and from crown of crash helmet down the middle back of the jacket.

Slim, trim, Mrs. Parker McLean of Oak Park, has the perfect figure for this beige one-piece jumpsuit from Sparhaus Don Thomas. With it, she has chosen a brown and white striped turtle neck shirt. Her beige-toned hat is dyed lynx. Both the coat-jacket and her boots are wolf trimmed.

Most jackets are longer, usually belted in one manner or another. Many feature quilting which has come back after a long absence. The quilting is seen as an over-all effect or used more sparingly in back or side panels.

Colors are bright for the most part and lines are trim. Dyed-to-match crash helmets, knitted racing caps, and fur toques lead the parade of head gear. Smart new ski goggles replace sun glasses and add a note of whimsy to helmets.

Zip front sweaters with unusual detailing are very attractive, but practical only in warmer climes than we know here. The European influence is seen in new jackets that are cut much shorter and narrower, but according to Marjorie Haffey, women's wear buyer for Sporthaus Don Thomas, they aren't catching on here. "Not enough freedom of movement," she claims.

Jackie Kennedy Onassis started it! We're talking about the newest ski pants look. This is a belled version with the regular tucked-in bottom covered by a flared overpanel.

The feeling is new, unusual and attractive.

En route clothes are become increasingly important as skiers take to the air for distant slopes. Most popular are fur jackets (many long enough to double as coats en route and still be practical on the downhill thrust.) Wolf is being used for these along with rabbit and fox.

Fur trimmed walking boots are natural go-togethers with this kind of ensemble. For easy packing, there are striped and patterned knitted mini shells. Sleeveless and cut with a scoop neck, they slide over tights and turtle neck shirts for an evening of fun after a day's skiing.

In a coming article, we'll discuss what's new in fashion for the sitting-around-the-fireplace bunch.

Mrs. H. Samuel Greenawalt of Cedar Hill Drive, Bloomfield Township, practices some positions on the exerciser. Her longer quilted jacket in rich navy nylon, is teamed with powder blue racing pants and blazing red crash helmet. Red fox cuffs on her boots complete the active ski look.

Christmas Sale Slated at Cranbrook Gallery

A one-of-a-kind sale of Christmas gift items is scheduled Dec. 13 at Cranbrook Academy of Art Galleries from 8 to 10 p.m. and Dec. 14 and 15 from 1 to 5 p.m.

All pieces are the work of the Academy's students. They include drawings and prints, paintings, small sculptures, jewelry, pillows, hand-woven scarves and ceramics.

The entire student body will serve as salesclerks. As customary, 20 per cent of the total sale is applied toward student-sponsored scholarships.

This 'Spoiled Child' May Need Medical Attention

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Is it normal for a five-year-old to tell adults, "I hate you, drop dead," and so forth?

This child is a neighbor. She curses like a male skinner and will throw anything she gets her hands on.

Yesterday she called me an insulting name for a female dog, so I shook my finger in her face. Then she threw a flower pot at me. Another time this little demon stabbed me in the back with a rake!

She sits in the yard and shouts dirty things at strangers who pass by. Her parents say, "Ignore her. She's just spoiled." Well, I have seen some spoiled children in my day, but I've never seen one like her.

Offering First May Be Very Best Solution

By ELIZABETH L. POST

Of The Emily Post Institute

Dear Mrs. Post: Am I unreasonable when I expect my grandchildren — college and high school age — to ask before they make a visit to my cookie jar or refrigerator? In my younger days when I visited my grandmother's I was expected to ask permission. — Mrs. A. H.

Dear Mrs. H.: Nobody, whether a relative or not, has a right to help himself to food or drink in someone else's house without an invitation. Unless you have a certain part of the ice box or a certain cookie jar set aside for them and have told them that they are free to dig in, your grandchildren should always ask your permission.

On the other hand, wouldn't you make more points with them if, when they arrived, you said, "The cookie jar is full" or "The Cokes are in the ice box"? Pound cake, since it has no icing, may be picked up and eaten from the fingers. However, one usually offers a fork when cake is served, for those who prefer to eat it that way.

Could there be something more seriously wrong with her? What is your advice?

DEAR CONCERNED: It would be a kindness to suggest to the child's parents that they take her to a doctor for some thorough testing to determine the cause of her anti-social behavior. A child who is as hostile as this one appears to be without provocation could be emotionally disturbed. And early treatment could help her.

DEAR ABBY: I recently married a man who was married before. (Our mates died.) I had many lovely household items, and so did he, so we consolidated them. I assumed that everything belonged to us.

Recently I had a dinner party and asked my husband if he minded if I used a cut glass bowl which came from his home. He informed me that I shouldn't, because if it were accidentally broken it would represent a $60 loss.

Abby, I was shocked. I would certainly be as careful with his things as my own. Now I feel as though I don't want to touch any of "his" things. I want to have a good relationship between us, but my having to ask him if I may "use" one of his possessions, and then being turned down, has caused me to wonder. What is your opinion?

DEAR HURT: There is more involved here than a $60 cut glass bowl, and if your relationship can't stand the strain of a heart-to-heart talk, it's even more fragile. Let him know how you feel and ask to have his side of it.

Perhaps that bowl is reminiscent of something he didn't want to be reminded of. Give him a chance to clear it up.

DEAR ABBY: That woman who complained because of her sagging bosom is just plain stupid, but she's typical of thousands of other women.

Who does a woman think she has to please? Her husband, her mirror, or strangers on the street? I'll bet her husband has never complained about sagging bosom nor is he looking for a more bosomy companion.

When will women learn to shut their mouths and use what they have to please their husbands, instead of trying to tell them what a man wants. No sensible man expects a woman of 50 to look like she did when she was 25. And no woman in her right mind expects her husband to stay slim and have all his hair after he's reached middle-age. We all change. So what?

Many an attractive, mature woman, by flapping her gums about how she's lost her "youth," and can't compete with younger, prettier women, has driven her husband into the arms of another woman. It never occurred to him, but if he hears it long enough, he can be convinced.

Life 'Big Drag' for This Swinger

By YOLANDA BENAVIDES

There she sat — the least likely companion to share a spot with such a flashy red dragster complete with bold yellow racing stripes.

Or for that matter, the slight, dark haired lass seems hardly the type daring enough to actually mount such a fiery steed and roar out the wheel-screaming time of 196 miles per hour.

But that, bumper-to-bumper expressway fans, is all part of a day's work for one Della Woods.

Like her fellow glamorous guides at the Detroit Auto Show, now in its last two days at Cobo Hall, Della is a gal whose competitive good looks have yet to be patented.

Dressed in red and white miniskirt, matching red top and black opaque stockings with patent mod heels, she looked more a fashion accessory than the racing master of the Bernella team featured at the week-long show.

The other half of the team, and equally valuable, is brother Bernie, mechanic and partner who is a year younger than his 27-year-old sister.

With the Christmas holidays less than a few cold weeks away, Della and Bernie will stay close to their parent's Squirrel Road home.

The familiar family setting will bring back fond memories of Della's first days behind the wheel-of her dad's tractor, no less.

Lynda Bird Shops for Robb, Baby

HONG KONG (AP) — Lynda Bird Robb purchased a monogrammed silk tie today for her Marine husband who is expected to join her in time for their first wedding anniversary, Monday after getting a week's leave from the war in Vietnam.

Their rendezvous point remained a secret. It was known that President Johnson's daughter holds a reservation for a Sunday night flight to Bangkok, Thailand, but there were reports Maj. Charles Robb was coming to Hong Kong.

Mrs. Robb also purchased baby clothes for the couple's daughter, Lucinda Desha. She said the child was too young to travel and is staying with her grandparents, President and Mrs. Johnson.

Lynda Byrd is staying at the closely guarded U.S. consul general's home. Secret Service men and Hong Kong police accompanied her on the shopping trip.

The Woods family moved to the then isolated farm area from Detroit when Della was about seven.

"It was really farm country then," she recalls, "and you learn fast enough when you live in the country that should your car break down you either fix it or walk ... So."

At 15, dad's tractor was forsaken for Della's first car — a souped-up 1953 Plymouth (thanks to brother Bernie's mechanical talents.)

With the exchange, Della and fellow Avondale High School chums took to the area's traditional unofficial drag strip — Woodward Avenue.

Competition along more professional tracks found her at the starting line of the 1964 Powder Puff Race at the Motor City Dragway near New Baltimore.

The fire red "Funny Honey," that shares this week's spotlight with Della has been her companion for the past year.

For those with a grease thumb, the 'Honey' is a fuel-injected Dodge Charger with a flip-up body that allows the driver easy entrance and exit and gives the mechanic more room to tinker. To stop—this fiery demon there's a parachute to break the wind.

Donned in white fireproof suit, massive helmet and goggles, Della makes her way along victory's path, to the discontent of many a male driver she notes.

"As a matter of fact they usually make it a point to tell you that they don't like being beaten by a woman," she says.

Aside from a grumbling male or two to combat with, what does one do when while soaring along, the engine just sort of falls off as it did just recently?

"You try not to panic and use everything you've got to keep from rolling," she nonchalantly smiles, as if giving baby's first bath instructions.

"Using everything you've got" requires split second work with one hand on a vibrating steering wheel, the other on the parachute handle to the upper right, and when you see the flames, reach for the fire extinguisher to the upper left.

The girl next door she 'ain't,' Della wholeheartedly admits.

"My mother isn't too surprised; I think she always knew I'd end up doing something a little different," she says.

Not Too Much Togetherness for Police Pair

LANSING (UPI) — Michael and Pam McCourt live under the same roof and work for the same employer. But they don't see much of each other. Michael, 28, is a patrolman with the Lansing Police Department. Pam, 25, his wife, is a policewoman. He works at night; she in the daytime. But the McCourts, married 18 months, don't mind. They enjoy their work and the few hours together between the time Pam comes home from work and Mike departs. "Once in a while, when he has a case in the Municipal Court, we will go to lunch together," said the pretty blonde policewoman.

WOODWARD AT SQUARE LAKE ROAD

Cut Back on the Fluids

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
CASE G-583: Margo T., aged 35, weighed 156.

But she was only 5'3" tall. And on her wedding day, she tipped the scales at 114. Which means Margo had slowly added 42 pounds of ugly blubber.

Her husband urged her to go on a diet while he tried to stop his tobacco habit, since his blood pressure was zooming. She agreed.

Because of the current opposition to the widespread use of dangerous drugs to lop off poundage, she wanted a drugless method.

So I suggested she try my dehydration diet, for it doesn't involve the use of any drugs. Drug-dieting usually prods the heart and makes it race fast. Yet your faithful heart is innocent of your obesity, for it is your stomach that should be penalized.

The simple trick about this dehydration diet is that you dry up your gastric juice and thus kill much of your hunger. Then your women can get along fairly comfortably on your 800 calories of food intake per day. Husbands can have 1,200.

But limit yourself the first day to a maximum of just one full glass (8 oz.) of total fluids (unless you are engaged in heavy work that produces excessive sweating).

The second day, you are entitled to two full glasses; then three glasses on the 3rd and each following day through the 10th.

You will thus be down 10 pounds in 10 days! Obviously, much of that 10 pounds will be water loss. But that's the "gimmick" that makes this diet work where others fail.

Actually, you can lose weight on any dieting plan that restricts your calories properly.

But on such diets, you shun cake and pie and half starve, yet your bathroom scales may show hardly ONE POUND loss in a week!

That is so discouraging that you then chuck the whole dieting plan.

But this dehydration diet quickly shows a dramatic and large weight loss, so your morale remains high.

Firm and Train Your Upper Arms

Here's an exercise that will firm and trim your upper arms. Stand erect with arms extended forward at shoulder level. Keeping arms perfectly straight, stretch right arm five times, as if you were reaching for an imaginary object.

Protect Plants From Trampling

To protect young plants from being trampled on by either dogs or children, set croquet wickets directly over the plants. You can do this by forcing a couple of these into the ground to form a wire arbor over them.

If these are not available, heavy wire arches can be made also from number 6 smooth wire.

Gifts Requested for PSH

Each year, the public is asked to help make Christmas a bit happier for patients at Pontiac State Hospital. The following letter comes from Ted A. Panaretos, community relations director:

"Is there an instance so pleasant as the moment we open our gifts Christmas morn?"

"We, at Pontiac State Hospital, guess not and we strive very hard to see to it that every one of our 2100 patients experience the Christmas morning thrill of unwrapping 'their' gift from a 'friend'."

"Inquires from the public as to appropriate gifts for our patients has brought about the enclosed list."

"Of immediate need are new Christmas cards and stamps for our patients to mail out — or exchange within the hospital. Another suggestion is the need for decorations to brighten the hospital wards."

"Traditionally at Pontiac State Hospital during Christmas time (only) we ask that our patients receive new and unused gifts. A hand-me-down gift merely makes the patients feel that they are second choice and second class citizens."

SEND WRAPPINGS

"We ask that donations be unwrapped and appropriate gift wrapping paper and ribbon accompany contributions. The hospital's psychiatric attendant nurses association will see to it that gifts are selectively wrapped for the special needs of the 'individual' patient."

"Christmas gifts should be mailed to Ted A. Panaretos, community relations director, Pontiac State Hospital, Pontiac, Mich. 48053. For further information call 338-7241 and ask for community relations department."

Hollywood Is Concerned About MGM Power Switch

GMTC EMPLOYEES
FEDERAL CREDIT UNION
939 Woodward — Pontiac

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "It's a funny thing about this town," said a veteran MGM studio official. "People are ready to bury you while you're still breathing."
Dire predictions concerning the state of MGM's health have been made because of recent symptoms. Long wracked by struggles for power within the corporation, MGM is finally due for a change of management. Financier Edgar M. Bronfman won control of MGM, and a new president is being sought to succeed Robert H. O'Brien. How the switch in power will affect the Culver City studio is a matter of great concern in the film capital. This concern intensified with the news that the studio had disbanded its casting, makeup and music departments. It seemed like a drastic move for MGM, once the best-staffed studio in Hollywood.

A studio official explained: "MGM is tailoring its operation to fit the production schedule for the coming year. There will be increased activity in independent productions to be released through MGM. The independent producers will be able to select their own personnel to handle casting, music, etc."

"NOT DEAD YET"
"The studio now employs 1800 full-time employees, compared to 2,000 to 2,500 during peak periods. So you can see the studio is not dead yet."

But it is obviously ailing. MGM's management has still not decided what to do with the sprawling studio which once put forth a feature movie per week. Its huge sound stages remain empty and almost unused. In the past few years television series like "Dr. Kildare" and "The Man From Uncle" kept some of the stages occupied. But MGM had no series on the networks this season.

During his years as president of MGM, O'Brien fostered a plan to sell off the Culver City real estate and create a brand-new studio in the Conejo Valley, 40 miles north of Los Angeles. Property was optioned and plans sketched out, but little has been heard about the plan in recent months.

The reason is obvious. MGM still has other problems to settle before it can build a new studio.

The problems were visible in the recent financial statement for fiscal 1968. Profits were down a third, from $14,029,000 to $9,409,000. MGM Records dropped from a $2-million-profit to a $4-million deficit. Film rentals fell almost $2 million to $21½ million. TV network sales dropped a half-million to $12 million. The drop in all divisions was precipitous in the second half of the fiscal year.

Studio officials have announced a program of film projects that may keep the stages busier. They also point to renewed TV activity, including one series, "The Courtship of Eddie's Father" and a pair of two-hour features which serve as pilots for potential series.

But the real future of the studio will be largely determined by the events in the East. If a new president and a stable management can for the company, the studio establish a longrange program may thrive once again.

Junior Editors Quiz on VALENTINE'S DAY

QUESTION: Why do we celebrate Valentine's day?

ANSWER: In ancient days, messages and gifts were exchanged by the Egyptians and Romans, expressing a feeling of good will. In Roman days, before the time of Christianity, there was a feast on February 15 called the Lupercalia. Young men and women drew names from a box, and in this way, found partners for the festival. The partners exchanged gifts and usually went on seeing each other afterwards.

During the Roman occupation of England, this custom was introduced and became very popular. With Christian times, the church decided to adapt this to Christian practice, and changed the date to February 14, calling it St. Valentine's Day, because a Roman bishop of that name had been martyred on that day in the year 270.

St. Valentine's Day has been celebrated ever since, although the old custom of sending gifts has changed to the use of Valentine cards.

We, of Junior Editors, have long wished for a chance to tell all our readers how we appreciate them and enjoy the messages and questions they send us. So we take advantage of this question, even if we are a bit early, to send our own particular Valentine to every one of you.

(You can win $10 cash plus AP's handsome World Yearbook if your question, mailed on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of this newspaper, is selected for a prize.)

TOO MANY HANDS — There are too many hands in this battle for the basketball Friday night, but neither Mark Crane (left) of Flint Central nor Anthony Styles of Pontiac Central are about to move aside for the other contestant. Both backcourt players played well, hitting for some key baskets and passing off for several others. Clayton Burch of PCH moves in from the right to help Styles on this occasion. Flint's Indians prevailed on the scoreboard, rallying for an 89-75 decision.

Successor Will Inherit Problems

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — About all that is known about the man who will replace William D. Eckert as Baseball Commissioner is that he will be a man from inside the game. The owners are not about to repeat their "unknown soldier" adventure.

But the question is, which member of baseball's inner circle would want the job, which is growing more difficult by the moment.

Among those mentioned to replace Eckert, who was dismissed Friday in a shower of public good will after a special owners' meeting, are Michael Burke, the dynamic boss of the New York Yankees; Joe Cronin, the portly president of the American League and Robert Cannon, now a judge and formerly attorney for the players. But consider the problems that will haunt the next man, who may not be chosen for several months.

STRIKE THREAT

For openers, he faces the most serious threat of players' strike in the game's history. And neither side seems in much of a mood to compromise as was made abundantly clear Friday.

Second, he would have to operate for an unspecified amount of time while an outside research group made a study that could lead to vast changes in the organization of the game, possibly eliminating the commissionership.

All that is certain is that right now the game seems to be in for a winter as turbulent and contentious as any pennant race it has ever known.

For the record, Eckert resigned, saying that "a baseball man can more effectively do the job," but it was clear that he had been asked to quit by owners who could no longer hide from themselves the fact that he was not what the game needed.

Shy, self-effacing, almost painfully inarticulate, the 59-year-old former Air Force general seldom took a strong public stand on the problems that arose during his tenure though he was proud of the fact that he led in expansion of the majors and raising television revenues.

CROWDS DROP

And the game's attendance has declined by near 2 1/2 million admissions in the three tie-breaker and the Tigers years he has been in office while professional football has been steadily on the rise.

Players and owners seem more anxious to make their pension-fund dispute a bitter test of wills than to settle it.

Friday, for instance, the owners waved the red flag in front of the angry ball by adopting a new category for players' roster, called the temporary inactive list.

This allows a club to take an ill or non-baseball injured player off its active roster for a minimum of 21 days and suspend his salary.

Only two players may be so listed at once, but a player may be returned to the list at any time.

CZAR LEAVING — William D. Eckert made the news yesterday by resigning as commissioner of the major leagues. Eckert made the announcement at a news conference in San Francisco. He will vacate the post as soon as a successor is named.

Wings Captain Out of Action

Detroit (AP) — Alex Delvecchio, graying captain of the Detroit Red Wings and the team's second leading scorer, will miss his first regular season game in four years tonight when the Wings take on the Bruins in a National Hockey League game at Boston.

Delvecchio, who was 37 last Wednesday and is in his 18th NHL campaign, suffered bruised ribs when he checked heavily into the boards in Detroit's 4-2 victory over first place New York Thursday night. He didn't play at all in the third period and is scheduled to miss Sunday's game at New York.

Delvecchio has scored 27 points in 21 games, on 12 goals and 15 assists. He is considered one of the "iron men" of the league and has missed only 26 of a possible 1,086 games. Last time he was sidelined was in 1964-65 when he sat out two games with a broken jaw.

Meanwhile, the Wings announced that Bruce MacGregor is expected to play this week-end. He missed Thursday night's game with a bruised left knee.

Seals in 2nd After Victory

By the Associated Press

The Seals, Oakland variety, are doing their balancing act with a hard rubber puck instead of a soft rubber ball and it has them sitting pretty but precariously in second place in the National Hockey League's West Division.

By virtue of Friday night's 4-0 victory over Philadelphia, the Seals flapped past idle Los Angeles. They have 19 points to 18 for the Kings and trail pace-setting St. Louis by nine points.

Carol Vadnais' first period power play with Philadelphia's Larry Zedel in the penalty box started the rout and was all goal for Gary Smith needed. But Joe Szura, Norm Ferguson and Gary Jarrett gave him some insurance by scoring within a 5 1/2-minute span midway through the final period.

Cage Scene Shifts to U. of M. Tonight

EAST LANSING — Michigan, Ohio State tried and failed, State hopes it has better luck now Notre Dame gets its against Toledo than Michigan chance to upset the mighty did. Western Michigan hopes the UCLA Bruins in college basketball. Wolverines are fierrier than ball tonight.

BUCKEYES ROUTED

The Spartans won the country's top college team, demolished the Buckeyes 84-73 at Columbus, Ohio, Friday night with towering Lew Alcindor getting 19 points and dominating the backboard with 21 rebounds.

The agile 7-foot-2 Alcindor and his teammates move into South Bend, Ind. tonight to help the Irish dedicate a new 12,000-seat athletic center on the Notre Dame campus.

Ohio State delighted a capacity crowd of 13,497 by taking a 53-40 lead, but the Bruins soon tied it at 27-27 and pulled away for their 18th straight, two for this season, and their 63th triumph in 66 games.

"Just the presence of Alcindor on the floor is a great, great thing," said Johnny Wooden, the UCLA coach. Fred Taylor, the Buckeye coach, agreed wholeheartedly.

Livonia Five Halts Thurston Hot New Haven Romps Past Dryden's Cardinals

Plymouth Romps Past Livonia Vikings, 72-52

Inter-Lakes League quintets ventured into nonleague activity Friday night only to see the circuit lose prestige as only Livonia Stevenson could prevail.

The football kingpin Spartans trounced Detroit Thurston (1-1) to balance their log at 1-1 with a 67-39 verdict.

Plymouth, who conquered Stevenson Tuesday, made it two in a row against I-L competition by pounding Walled Lake, 72-52. Farmington dropped a 66-41 decision at Livonia. Bentley when it faded in the last period.

Staying in the county, newcomer Southfield Spartans made a 71-56 loser to Oak Park. Big opening and closing periods overcame Lathrup's surge in the middle.

Neither Waterford Township (1-0) nor Pontiac Northern (0-0) were in action.

BIG MARGIN

Farmington's Falcons had an 11-point spread over Bentley for less than seven minutes remaining, but the Livonia cagers pulled out the victory.

Four Lathrup Chargers were through in his dual role of Park had a quartet who out-Celtics with 36 points, 17 in pointed them, 62-47, and that the first quarter for a personal was the final difference. Donahigh, and Jim Barnes added 14 ways led the Redskins and all scorers by notching 20 points.

He also had 17 rebounds as superior shooting, making six seven more shots than the Chargers.

The contest was tied at 46-all, but the Redskins hit for nine points in a row to assume command.

Dryden's Cardinals were more than gracious hosts to New Haven Friday night in a winning basket as Armada Southern Thumbs League liftdiff for both teams.

The Cardinals were downright generous to a fault as they were the victims of a 112-73 beating at the hands of the tall, accurate shooting Rockets.

Ex-Celt Coach Back on Bench

bach was back on the Boston bench on Friday night, and the Celtics provided him with a warm welcome.

Auerbach found himself forced into the coaching chores as a replacement for Ailing Bill Russell, and the Celtics responded with a 132-118 victory over the Detroit Pistons.

Auerbach handed the coaching chores to Russell three years ago so he could concentrate on running the front office for the National Basketball Association.

Without Russell coming through in his dual role of Park had a quartet who out-Celtics with 36 points, 17 in pointed them, 62-47, and that the first quarter for a personal was the final difference. Donahigh, and Jim Barnes added 14 ways led the Redskins and all scorers by notching 20 points.

Russell's understudy at center, was making his first appearance for Boston since his purchase from Chicago last Tuesday.

He also had 17 rebounds as superior shooting, making six seven more shots than the Chargers.

The contest was tied at 46-all, but the Redskins hit for nine points in a row to assume command.

John King's layup with 20 seconds to play proved to be the key shot for the Cardinals as Armada slipped past Almont, 65-61, in conference game.

Capac trimmed Richmond, 81-60, and Anchor Bay ripped past Memphis, 64-46, to complete the opening night card.

HOT SHOOTING

New Haven connected on nearly 60 per cent of its field goal tries against the shorter Dryden quintet. The 112 points are a record for the Dryden gymnasium as well as a probable New Haven scoring mark.

Four players — Elie Sims (26 points), Roy Lee (25), Jim Walanis and Scott Bell (21 each) accounted for 93 of the markers. Tim Calhoun added 10 for New Haven.

Dryden received a 20-point effort from Greg Howard and 17 by Gary Winslow. The winning Rockets made 46 field goals while Dryden managed 29 baskets and still lost by 39 points.

The fourth quarter was an uphill struggle for Almont, but the Raiders finally caught up. Armada on Dennis Garner's layup with 32 seconds to play, but King came up with the tie-breaker and the Tigers years he has been in office while professional football has been steadily on the rise.

Zahn Wins; St. Louis Sharpshooter Second

NEW YORK (AP) — Wayne Zahn of Atlanta won his second Professional Bowlers' Association national championship in three years Friday night by running away with the title from a field of 23 other top ranking pin stars.

Zahn was virtually unbeatable as he rallied from a temporary lapse late Thursday and early Friday when he relinquished the lead to Dave Davis of Phoenix, Ariz., the defending champion of the $80,000 event.

At the finish, Zahn was 441 pins ahead of Nelson Burton Jr. of St. Louis in second place. Zahn won 15 and lost nine of his 24 games of match play.

In fact, it was the fight for second place that kept the Madison Square Garden crowds on edge. After Zahn disposed of Davis, the fight for second raged between Burton, the Ringer of Hartford, Wis., and, for a time, Bob Strampe of Detroit and Dick Weber of St. Louis. Jim Godman of Hayward, Cal., was third.

Sunday Battle of Cellar Teams

Lions' Bill Munson Slated for Duty Against Falcons

ATLANTA (AP) — Bill Munson is expected to start at quarterback Sunday for Detroit but the Atlanta quarterback situation remains unsettled as the Lions meet the Falcons in a battle of losers.

The Lions, who earlier in the season of the National Football League, Atlanta, meanwhile, is firmly entrenched in last place in the Coastal Division with a 2-10 record.

Last week, as Detroit became Philadelphia's lone victim in a 12-0 loss, rookie Greg Landry quarterbacked the team in place of Munson who was suffering from an ailing neck and shoulder.

But Munson, although not perfectly healthy, is ready for the Falcon game.

Atlanta Coach Norm Van Brocklin started Randy Johnson at quarterback last week against Baltimore but finished up with Bob Berry. Neither was impressive as the Falcons lost 44-0.

The Chicago Bears' attack has been blunted by injuries, but still they are aiming at the playoffs. Their target Sunday — quarterback Jack Concannon, who returned to action last Sunday in 23-17 victory over New Orleans and once again will need the running of Brian Piccolo and Ron Bull to offset Los Angeles' vicious pass rush.

Piccolo rushed for 112 yards and Bull for 82 against New Orleans. Los Angeles dumped quarterback Joe Kapp five times in smashing Minnesota 31-3 last Sunday and lead NFL in reaching quarterback, 45 times. Roman Gabriel gain will direct the Rams' offense.

A Cleveland victory or a St. Louis loss will give Cleveland the Century Division championship, and the Browns figure to have an easier time against Washington than St. Louis will have against New York.

Cleveland has won seven straight this season and holds nine consecutive victories over the Redskins, who will be faced with the problems of stopping Bill Nelsen's passing and Leroy Kelly's running.

Sonny Jurgensen, sidelined by injury in a loss to Dallas on Thanksgiving Day, will start at quarterback for Washington.

New York is out of the playoff picture, Dallas already having clinched the Capitol Division, but a victory would give the Giants the first better-than-500 season since 1963. St. Louis must win, but if Cleveland does, too, the Cardinals are out of the playoffs. Jim Hart and Charley Johnson probably will share the quarterbacking duties for the Cardinals.

The only thing Dallas has a stake against happens Pittsburgh is a chance to set a club record for victories in a season. The Cowboys' previous best season was 10-3-1 in 1966.

Souchak Trails by Four Strokes

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP) — Mike Souchak of Oakland Hills fired a 68 yesterday to move into a tie for third place after two rounds of the $50,000 Club Pro Tournament.

Souchak has a 36-hole total of 138, four strokes back of leader Chuck Malchaski of Chicago.

Bob Rosburg of St. Louis is second with a 137.

Tied with Souchak are John Cook, Manuel de la Torre, Howell Fraser, Al Mengert and Ernie Vossler. Malchaski posted a 68 yesterday to go with a first round 66.

The field was cut from 200 to 95 for the final 36 holes.

A LIVING TRIBUTE
Many kind and compassionate people live their entire lives without the thought of their stricken and less fortunate brethren. One of the finest acts that can be performed in behalf of such an individual is a donation to a charitable institution in their name.

The funds given in memory of a loved one unlock the door to the quest of man's greatest enemy... "Disease".
Donations to these charitable organizations may be made through your funeral director, clergyman or simply by check in an addressed envelope in care of your local postmaster.

THINK ABOUT IT!

HAPPINESS

Wise men wrote in our Declaration of Independence: "... among men's unalienable rights are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness..." Let's think about the "pursuit".

Many people frantically, and sometimes tragically, pursue happiness over twisted, tortuous roads but never find it. Perhaps the Declaration of Independence would be better worded if it stated, "... the right to EARN happiness..." Happiness can never be found, no matter how wild the pursuit, if it is not earned.

Perhaps one of the biggest stumbling blocks in pursuing happiness is selfishness. Somewhere in the past, and often in childhood, the first stumbling blocks are laid in a pattern. As the pattern takes form, self-centered thoughts, selfish expectations and demands, cause happiness to be elusive. Remove the stumbling blocks of selfishness and the road to happiness is straightened around. It is the best way to find happiness because the block removal is the best way to earn it.

Chrysler Exec Foresees a Record Car Sale Year

NEW YORK (AP)—Lynn Townsend, Chrysler Corp. chairman, predicted today that new automobile sales in the United States will hit a record 9.6 million this year and that 1969 will be at least equally good.

Townsend made his forecast before the biennial business conference of the Manufacturers Hanover Trust Co., saying that "without question" 1968 will be "the greatest year in the history of our business."

The current record of U.S. sales, including imports, was 9.1 million in 1965. "Some time in the late 1970's," Townsend continued, "the auto industry to be selling about 13 million cars a year."

"The strong performance of the automobile industry in the first two months of the 1969 model year is only one of many factors that make us optimistic about sales in the month ahead."

"Consumer confidence is still strong and the Survey Research Center at the University of Michigan finds no evidence that people expect to reduce their expenditures for big-ticket durables like cars."

The Chrysler chief, who lives at 5991 Orchard Bend, Bloomfield Township, said the growth of the automobile business in the United States, while large, has been more than matched by growth in other parts of the world in recent years.

He predicted worldwide demand for cars and trucks will rise from a current level of approximately 25 million units a year to about 35 million by the end of the 1970's.

Our aim in this tabloid is to bring to everyone in the Pontiac area an awareness of the functions of the Chamber of Commerce. The Chamber's goal is the economic stability of the Pontiac area. The Pontiac Area Chamber seeks to develop the industrial, commercial and financial resources of the area, for without these the Chamber believes there can be no area development. At the same time, however, it gives full accent to those civic, social and cultural activities which help to build and maintain a happy, progressive area. The Chamber seeks to insure the economic stability of the area, and, by so doing, to strengthen its civic and social structure.

With these thoughts in mind, then what do we mean when we say "Pontiac Area"? Specifically, we are speaking of Pontiac, Waterford, Independence Township and the northern part of Oakland County. It became apparent long ago that Pontiac City was not sufficient unto itself, and by the same token, that the surrounding area was not sufficient unto itself. Each needs the other, and each benefits from the other. Moreover, there is a community of interest between the city and the entire northern section of Oakland County.

In the hope of fostering a sense of unity and cooperation between the City of Pontiac and the entire northern section of Oakland County, the name of the Pontiac Chamber was changed to the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce. To emphasize the strength of total area action, the board of directors of the Chamber was expanded this year to include representatives from the outlying areas such as Waterford, Clarkston and Lake Orion.

The Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce is the only chamber in northern Oakland County which maintains a full-time staff; and which participates in programs and projects affecting the total economic structure.

In the weeks, months and years ahead the efforts of the Pontiac Area Chamber will be directed toward the uniting of every businessman in Northern Oakland County behind the one organization which can channel their forces into a total area effort to bring about a complete community and a stable economy.

I would also like to thank those Chamber members who supported this tabloid through their advertisements.

Earl A. Kreps,
Manager
Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce

December 7, 1968

Dear Area Residents and Businessmen:

Every year the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce presents an annual report of its past and current programs and activities to its membership. This year our report is being published in this special supplement in an effort to better inform you, of our aims, purposes, and our scope of involvement.

The Chamber is the only organization in the Pontiac area with such a broadly diversified membership including all types of business and professional groups.

We work effectively with community and civic organizations, service clubs, and with all levels of government — city, village, township, county, state and federal. It is with these groups that we work to initiate or support legislation affecting individual business and professional interests and curriculum improvements in secondary and higher educational institutions. Employment, community and civic committees, and the development of industrial parks are also included in our sphere of concern.

Today, many social programs are being supported by tax dollars at all levels of government. Many of these programs are ill conceived, mismanaged and wasteful. They are undertaken by the government as a result of the business and professional community's lack of interest.

The Chamber of Commerce is striving to reverse this trend. It is the consensus that business involvement locally will produce more meaningful social and economic change with less cost. To be more effective the Chamber must be able to employ staff for research and data accumulation. It is important that alternate solutions be offered when urging change in current or proposed programs.

I ask for your support of the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce. With the support of more dues paying members our involvement will be greater. We need each other and our community needs us.

E. Eugene Russell

1895 marked the founding of the Pontiac Board of Trade by Joseph Sawyer, a local real estate operator. He felt the city needed some form of centralized authority and that this authority should act together with the local business community to promote the city's welfare.

He appointed a Board of Directors and named himself president. Sawyer furnished the Board's first office space on the Crofoot block and he paid all the expenses as well. The offices were later moved to the Howland Theatre on West Pike Street until the area became available on East Huron Street.

In 1910 the Board changed their name to the Pontiac Commercial Association.

The Association initiated an Industrial Committee for the interests of local industry and also a project to construct a paved road to Bay City by way of Flint and Saginaw. During President Taft's tour of Pontiac the Commercial Association entertained him.

By action of the Board of Directors the Pontiac Commercial Association changed its name to the Pontiac Board of Commerce on July 14, 1915.

1916

A group of citizens known as the Galbraith Homes Co. purchased the home belonging to Dr. Galbraith on East Huron Street and permitted the Board of Commerce to use it as their headquarters.

1923

1923 was the year the Board of Commerce defined itself as an organization which centralized the general activity of the city industrial and commercial lines and in civic betterment. In addition to their other property holdings, the Board owned a cafe in town for the use of their over 1,000 members.

As a means of advertising the Pontiac-Oakland County area the Board published a booklet, "Pontiac — Heart of the Lakes Region," and distributed it to the surrounding areas.

Early in the year the Galbraith Homes Co. deeded the 17 East Huron Street property to the Board of Commerce. The property could not be mortgaged or sold without the written consent of a majority of 7 men selected from the Board. The Board paid a nominal rent to the company.

The building housed offices for the Retail Merchants, Junior Chamber of Commerce, Better Business Bureau and the Board, itself. The building was used both day and night for meetings, dinners, lectures and exhibitions.

In December the Board printed 10,000 booklets promoting the "Attractions of the City of Pontiac." The booklet was designed to attract business, industry, and residents to the Pontiac area. It contained 32 pages of pictorial material.

Also in December, the Board ratified a property option for a new hotel to be built on the site of the Board property on East Huron. The property was sold for $125,000. The Board received $25,000 in cash and $100,000 in preferred stock. The Board was given office space in the new hotel.

The Board of Commerce established its own Credit Bureau and in one year it had 300 members. Their services were extended to business and professional men in Rochester, Orion and Clarkston and their card file consisted of over 49,000 entries.

A newly-opened Traffic Bureau Division worked with business and industry to insure proper shipping, rate scale and claim service on products sent or received by rail.

The Board also adopted a 15-point Code of Ethics for Business Conduct which called for fair dealing, fair labor practices and a constant search for knowledge, in addition to other points.

Continuing activities of the Board were: the Credit Bureau, Traffic Dept., Junior Chamber of Commerce, general office service for members, industrial expansion and area advertising programs. The Board worked for greater railway facilities, a new and modernly equipped hotel and rapid transit system between Pontiac and Detroit in 1926.

When General Motors' employees transferred from Chicago, the Board worked to secure housing for them. They supported a move for police women and the passing of bond issues favorable to the city.

Early in the year the Board members began a city-wide solicitation for members and funds. In about a week $55,498 was obtained. New member registration pushed the number on their rolls to 1,000.

In 1927 the Board spent $5,000 in advertising on radio station WJR. $10,000 was spent nationally in advertising the city of Pontiac.

Two of the Board's major projects for 1927 were the establishment of a municipal airport and a community center in Pontiac. The community center was to house a swimming pool, bowling allies and other sports facilities for public use.

The need for a City Plan which would project the civic, educational, and social needs of Pontiac and Oakland County was discussed by the members, but it failed to materialize.

The Board of Commerce in cooperation with the County Farm Bureau sponsored a semi-annual agricultural convention in Pontiac. The Board also investigated all forms of solicitation, customer complaints and bad business practices.

They approved plans for a $750,000 hotel and a pageant to portray the early days of Pontiac.

As a result of Board efforts the Jewett Radio and Phonograph Co., the American Standard Tool Works and the Michigan Glove Co settled in Pontiac.

The Pontiac Municipal Airport opened in 1928. The Board of Commerce broadcasted a weekly half-hour radio program and distributed 10,000 booklets in an effort to develop interest in the Pontiac area and the Board's projects.

In 1928 the population increased 14% to 74,496, there was a 28% increase in payrolls and 1,700 new homes were built in Pontiac. The Oakland Motor Car Company added to the city's economy by beginning a $10 million expansion program that year.

The Board worked to bring the Pontiac Foundry and Machine Co., the EVP Paint Co., and the Englander Co. to town.

Taking advantage of Pontiac's newly established airport, the Board of Commerce sponsored the First Annual Air Tour of Pontiac. The planes, beginning at Pontiac, circled the state and stopped at all the major cities for tours.

An information booth was installed at the corner of Saginaw and Huron Streets in June to assist tourists, newcomers and residents in locating places of business and recreation. From July 3 to September 7 the booth registered 14,801 questions.

The Board's major project for the year was the second Annual Air Tour of Michigan. 46 planes took off from Pontiac Municipal Airport and visited 19 Michigan cities. The Board made $1,000 profit.

The Board closed the Traffic Bureau because of curtailed business activities which reduced its income and the need for its services.

The Board of Commerce and the Junior Chamber of Commerce campaigned jointly for memberships in 1932. The memberships were $10 a year and the combined budget for the two organizations was $9,000.

The Board adopted a three-point program to broaden its efforts in the Pontiac area. 1. Mercantile — The Board encouraged cooperative action between merchants and began a "Buy in Pontiac" campaign. 2. Industrial — The Board worked to create a better understanding among industrial, mercantile and professional businessmen. 3. Civic — The Board sponsored moves for better housing, city beautification, constructive participation in government affairs and action for legitimate tax readjustment.

In 1936 the Board of Commerce underwent a major reorganization. It was no longer strictly a business organization. Men's and women's clubs and other local organizations were offered membership for $10 a year. The Board offered three types of memberships: sustaining, for individuals and firms, affiliated and participating. Sustaining and affiliated memberships were $25 a year.

The Traffic Bureau reopened in 1936, but it serviced only those firms which supported it. The Bureau intended to build a complete tariff file, arrange for direct contact with state and national traffic organizations and be in a position to render a specialized traffic service to merchants and manufacturers, who were members, and did not maintain a traffic department themselves.

The Board's Convention Committee brought 8,000 conventioners to the city that year.

The Board sponsored a three-day mortgage clinic to aid prospective home owners and a three-day festival to help local merchants promote their spring merchandise. Window displays and a fashion show highlighted the festival.

Saluting the Pontiac Motor Company and their new 1937 models, the Board of Commerce sponsored a "Hats Off to Pontiac" parade through the center of town and elected Miss Pontiac from local contestants.

A suit was filed against the Board of Commerce foreclosing the mortgage on their property on East Huron Street. The Board, suffering from financial difficulties for the past several years, was $41,000 to $55,000 in debt. Young businessmen were able to secure an option from the receivers for the recovery of the property which expired on Aug. 31, 1939.

The Board of Commerce became the center for a variety of agricultural group's activities. The Board assisted these groups in promoting the 1937 4-H Agricultural Exposition in Pontiac.

Since its reorganization, 30 local groups joined the Board of Commerce.

In April the Board began a "Get Out the Vote" campaign, urging local citizens to vote in the municipal elections. Out of 70,000 residents only 5,000 voted in the primary.

Clarence J. Smazel, an expert in civic research and information analysis, was employed to gather and analyze civic data on which future Board programs for the next six months would be based.

In June, the Board called for a 30-day bargain period during which time all goods and services would be sold at a lower price. This move was part of a national sales crusade, "Sales Mean Jobs," to fight unemployment.

A plan to save the Board's property by selling $50,000 worth of stock failed in July, 1938 when local businessmen refused to invest in the stock. On July 15 the property was sold at an auction to the First National Bank of Pontiac, the First National Bank of Detroit and the Pontiac Commercial and Savings Bank.

That year the Board also sponsored a community playground project, an apprenticeship training program for distributive education occupations in cooperation with the schools, and opened a new advertising education council in the city.

The Board joined the Better Business Bureau in campaigning against door-to-door solicitors in 1939. The Newcomer Welcoming Committee of Pontiac joined the Board in April as an affiliate member. That same month the Traffic Bureau was closed again because it was operating at a $1,000 debit annually.

"Keep Us Out of War," was voted as the topic most on people's minds in a Board of Commerce poll in 1939.

1940

By action of the Board of Directors the Board of Commerce changed its name to the Chamber of Commerce on March 5, 1940. The Chamber together with the Retail Merchants Association sponsored four successive breakfast meetings for local businessmen. James L. Gillon, sales expert from the University of Detroit, was the speaker at the breakfasts.

The Chamber moved to a suite of seven offices in the Waldron Hotel.

In October the Chamber stopped nine rackets, prosecuted 116 patrons of business and investigated 46 cases of alleged fraudulent advertising. Pontiac was awarded the "Safest City in America" award due to the efforts of the Safety Committee. A Speaker's Committee was opened to provide speakers on topics of local interest.

Pontiac area businessmen, acting through the Chamber of Commerce and the Retail Merchants Association had an amendment inserted in a proposed price control bill in the Senate.

1944

A dinner was held at the Elks Club by the Chamber and the Elks to honor the Pontiac team for winning the Saginaw Valley Championship in football. The group announced a project to begin a $50,000 drive for a sports stadium in Pontiac. On Sept. 22, 1944 the Wisner Memorial Stadium was dedicated.

1948

The Chamber launches a "Keep Pontiac Ahead" program and draws up 11 principles to support this drive. $35,000 in dues was raised for the Chamber and new memberships pushed the number to 1,000.

1949

In 1949 the Chamber sponsored Business-Industry-Education Day, Fire Prevention programs, a drive for Wisner Recreational Facilities, the United Fund campaign, a move for a civic auditorium and a Clean Up, Paint Up campaign to improve the Pontiac area.

The December meeting of the Chamber of Commerce was a sales clinic designed to help local sales people to do a better job. Elmer Wheeler was the speaker.

The Safety Committee held its annual free safety inspection in the spring. Several thousand cars were inspected for defective equipment. The Committee also sponsored a slide and lecture series on safety presented in Pontiac area schools.

The Chamber worked to promote short-term parking space in Pontiac. The Chamber's Government Affairs Committee successfully worked for the passage of Proposal No. 3 for a Balanced Legislature.

The Chamber sponsored its annual programs for vehicle inspection, safety and fire prevention, retail sales promotions and dues and memberships.

1956

The Chamber members vote to change the Chamber of Commerce to the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce. The Chamber sent a delegation to Washington, D.C. to win official recognition of the Pontiac-Oakland County region as a standard metropolitan area.

1957

A weekend trip aboard the S.S. South American on the Great Lakes was sponsored by the Chamber for Pontiac area residents. The Chamber initiated a letter drive to oppose the federal aid to education bill before the Senate.

1958

At a Chamber of Commerce banquet, General Motors was recognized and lauded for their enormous role in the economics of the city of Pontiac.

The Chamber receives the Pontiac Area Urban League award for the person or organization contributing most to racial and religious understanding in the community.

Industrial Affairs Committee members attended the Great Lakes States Industrial Development Conference in Columbus, Ohio, to initiate plans for a local Industrial Development Conference.

The Board arranged successful Business, Industry, Education workshops with the Michigan Bell Telephone Co. and Pontiac Central High School.

The Board worked with the Oakland County Electronics Association to round up TV sets for various needy county institutions.

Board Education Committee members visited GM Technical Center to learn the educational program of General Motors.

Local automobile dealers and the Board worked together in a "You Auto Buy Now" campaign.

In July the Board held a Water Follies Summer Festival to highlight the water attractions of Oakland County.

The Chamber saluted the Michigan State University Oakland which was to open that Fall. Durward B. Varner, chancellor of MSUO was the speaker.

Twenty-two Pontiac area business and professional leaders flew to Washington, D.C. for a three-day convention with the U.S. Chamber of Commerce.

In September, 1960 the Chamber sponsored a course in "practical politics" which was intended to give a basic know-how to persons interested in working for a political party.

The Pontiac Area Chamber sent six men to attend an industrial development workshop in Romeo for community representatives from 7 counties. The workshop was sponsored by the Michigan Department on Economic Development and the Romeo Area Improvement Association.

The following month Chamber members took part in a workshop at the Devon Gables Inn. The workshop, sponsored by the Michigan Chamber of Commerce, gave four Lansing experts an opportunity to present the facts of state's financial and legislative position in 1960. The experts challenged the local chambers to take stands in local business and to become a real voice of business.

The Chamber aired its first film, "Pontiac Story of Progress and Promise," on Feb. 1, 1961 as the highlight of the centennial year.

Dr. Carl S. Winters, noted authority on juvenile delinquency and former chairman of the Michigan State Crime Commission, was the main speaker at the annual Chamber of Commerce banquet in January.

The Michigan Retailers Association and the Chamber of Commerce together sponsored a "Business Information Breakfast for all area businessmen and merchants, whether or not they are Chamber members. The breakfast was designed to bring businessmen up to date information on subjects directly affecting them.

In September the Chamber petitioned the Civil Aeronautics Board in Washington for authorization of direct airline flights from Pontiac to Chicago and Cleveland.

The Chamber launched its annual drive for new members in March with hopes of adding 200 members to their rolls. The 4th Annual Fire Safety Institute was held at the Pontiac State Hospital with Ted Peters, captain of Delco-Remy Corporation plant fire department, as the main speaker.

The Chamber sponsored free eye tests for drivers in 1963 in addition to their free annual car inspection.

Early in the year the Chamber of Commerce and the Michigan State Chamber of Commerce co-sponsored a breakfast conference for area businessmen concerning major state and federal legislation for 1966. The four State Chamber officials discussed the proposed legislation and the effects it would have on the business community. Approximately 75 local businessmen participated in the morning conference.

On Oct. 17 the Chamber, with the unanimous approval of its directors, urged that a city ordinance prohibiting public housing be repealed. This action was taken so that it would throw the matter open for discussion. The ordinance prohibited the commission from discussing the possibility of public housing.

So Pontiac Motor got together with Clarence E. Barnes, former executive director of the Urban League (another organization concerned about people) and started "Operation Opportunity."

Through this "Operation Opportunity" they set out to disprove a tale that certain people were "unemployable." In two months they created 216 new jobs for 216 previously unhappy people. Now these people had jobs and they knew that someone did care about them. So they had hope.

Clarence T. Barnes

To make sure that this new plan worked, Pontiac Motor and the Urban League set up a three point insurance policy. First, Pontiac would act as the responsive party, the big industry seeking to kill the dragon of unemployment among the people.

Second, the Urban League would work between Pontiac Motor and the people in order to reach the people and create job applicants. The third and last point of this policy was a nine-member follow-up committee with Mansfield C. Samples, Pontiac Fisher Body Plant employee, in charge. This committee worked with the new employees to help them to adjust and to make the most out of their opportunity. This program was good and it did help fight unemployment as you will see in Chapter II.

Before Pontiac Motor and the Urban League began "Operation Opportunity" there was an unhappy young man in the town of Pontiac named Charles T. Moss.

Now Charles graduated from Central High School in the town of Pontiac in 1967, in the month of June with things ahead of him looking pretty dark. He studied drafting and architectural drafting in school and they soon became one of his "loves."

But he could not get any jobs in which he could use his drafting creativity.

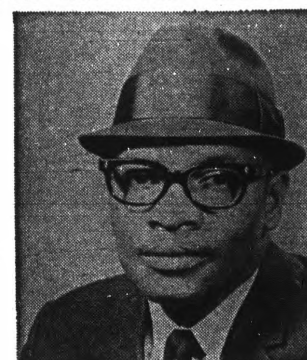

The only job he could get was that of a shoeshine boy. Charles was an ambitious fellow, though, and before long he was a shoemaker. He liked making shoes because it was creative; he got a chance to design as well as create. By designing and making shoes he learned a lot about human dignity and respect. He was making something that other people needed with his own talent and ability.

Charles was still unhappy though, so he quit his job as a shoemaker and became a meat market clean-up boy. But the same thing happened as before. He worked hard and advanced quickly. He was soon a boner apprentice. Moving on again, he became a display assistant in a department store, in this town of Pontiac. He was there a mere year when he left as display manager.

Charles had many brothers and sisters, eight to be exact, and a mother who worked very hard to support them. So Charles needed to find a more challenging job that would pay him more, too.

He did have a dream one night of working with an architectural firm, but, alas, it was only a dream that he hoped would someday come true.

As he was walking through town the next day he noticed a sign tacked to a tree. The sign was about the "Operation Opportunity" program at Pontiac Motor. Charles went to find out more.

PREFACE

'Tis the season to be jolly, to gather together and laugh over good food and drink. 'Tis also the season to remember the past and make resolutions for the future. As the hands of the clock near twelve this December 31, Pontiac area businessmen and industrialists and the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce can recall the past year as one in which a challenge for social action was met.

Their resolution will be to continue the work they started until words like unemployment, hopelessness and despair become things of the past to be remembered on New Year's Eve — like a story.

Come to think of it, as New Year's Eve fast approaches a story does come to mind. It's a long story with a lot of action and many characters, just right for a long winter's night.

CHAPTER I

This story begins, in 1967, in the month of September, to be exact, when a big company named Pontiac Motor decided that they weren't happy just making cars by the thousands and being No. 3. They decided to do something for the people around where they lived.

CHAPTER II

C'mon move up around the fire, friends. It's cold and snowy outside and I don't want you to catch a cold for Christmas. Besides, I still have lots of story left to tell.

Christmas Carol

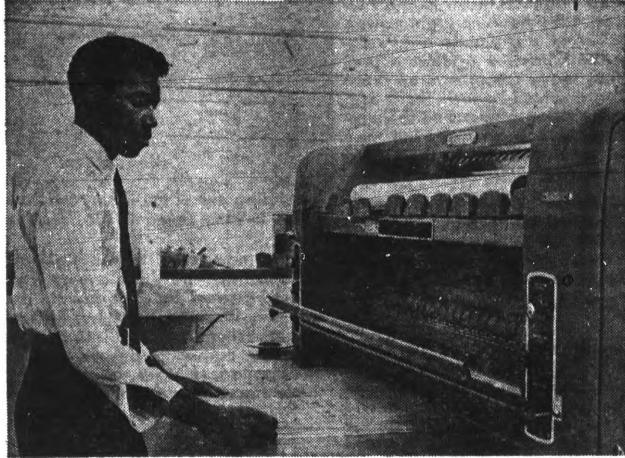

He was told that the program was to help the Negro citizens who couldn't get jobs. With his education and past work experience he really didn't qualify. However, Charles was an interested and creative Negro citizen without a job. Pontiac Motor hired him and placed him in the methods and procedures division of their Product Engineering Department. Charles learned quickly and soon became a blueprint machine operator.

Now Charles was happy. He, too, had hope. He was getting a chance to be creative and better himself at the same time. He said, in fact, "This is one of the best opportunities of my life."

Michigan Employment Security Commission, Pontiac Branch; Richard C. Fell, Assistant superintendent in charge of business and staff personnel, Pontiac School District; Kenneth Huffman, supervisor of apprentice and manpower programs for the school district; former, "unemployables" into skilled, experience workers with long-range marketable skills.

This transformation is a result of six weeks of prevocational education which includes counseling and work

Charles T. Moss, here at his blueprint machine at Pontiac Motor Division, is an example to the community of the success that can be achieved by those who have the desire to work plus the help and the interest of local businessmen and industrialists.

CHAPTER III

Before I continue with this story I want to tell you about the new character in Chapter III. It is the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce, an organization that works with businesses and industry to make the community a better and a more prosperous place to live.

Now Charles Moss wasn't the only one who noticed the sign on the tree that day. Many other people in the town of Pontiac did too. One such person was E. Eugene Russell, president of the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce. While reading the notice he remembered a meeting at the Kingsley Inn (in the town of Bloomfield Hills) where nine men spoke to 80 representatives of Pontiac area business and 40 representatives of Pontiac area industry about launching a community-wide program to fight this unemployment problem.

These ten men are important leaders in Pontiac area communities. They are Gary P. Drew, labor relations representative for Pontiac Motor Division; T. B. Bloom, former Director of Personnel, Pontiac Motor Division; Clarence Barnes, former executive director of the Pontiac Area Urban League; Mansfield C. Samples, chairman of the follow-up committee for Operation Opportunity; Raymond R. McKee, owner of McKee Management Service, Inc., Dearborn; Merrill Walls, manager of employment service,

John A. Wangler, assistant director, community services, community education, Oakland Community College; and Edward Revis, director of operations for the Oakland County Commission of Economic Opportunity.

These men realized that Pontiac Motor's "Operation Opportunity" was a good program not only for the "unemployables", but also for the communities surrounding this town of Pontiac.

Eugene remembered that Mansfield Samples was there too. He (Samples) told the businessmen to help the unhappy, unemployed people to help themselves. They need hope. This struck Eugene as a very good idea so he planned a luncheon at the Elks for March 15, 1968.

He invited J. William Byrd, manager of defense and industrial education at the Educational and Technical Services Division of Philco-Ford Division to speak to the Pontiac Area businessmen about Project TEAM. Project TEAM is a program, sponsored by Philco-Ford, to make sampling experience designed for each specific trainee. Next, the trainee goes into on-the-job training for employers subcontracted for the responsibility of specific skill training by Philco-Ford. When this training is finished and the trainee has reached a marketable level he becomes a full-fledged employee.

Eugene is interested in programs like "Operation Opportunity" and Project TEAM because he knows there are about 5,000 people without jobs in Oakland County. These people will never be employed if the businessmen and industrialists do not work with Eugene and the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce and help them find jobs.

This is the end of the story, but the beginning of the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce's fight against unemployment. With the help of business and industry the fight will not end until unemployment becomes extinct in this Pontiac area.

Chamber Attempts to Teach Public of Unethical Practices

"Good morning, Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce," says Mrs. Emma Olson, secretary, as she automatically picks up the phone.

"Hello, I'd like to speak to the Better Business Bureau."

"I'm sorry, there is no Better Business Bureau in Pontiac, but the Chamber does have a Business Ethics Board," Emma suggests.

"Well, I'd like to register a complaint. I bought an ironing board cover from X company several months ago, but when I went to use it today I discovered that it didn't have any fasteners. I can't get it on my ironing board and the company has closed their office in this area. What should I do?" the distressed caller asks.

Mrs. Olson, better known as "Emma," proceeds to assist the caller as she does with the dozens of other callers she gets every day.

When these people call, Emma either suggests that they send a written statement of their complaint to the Chamber or attempts to assist them with any problem they may have of a civic-business problem.

The Business Ethics Board of the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce aims to promote the highest standard of ethics in the Pontiac area business community. They also work for increased protection against fraudulent business practices.

Although the Board accepts complaints and channels them to the correct person, they have no legal power. If a number of complaints are registered at the Chamber against a person or firm, these complaints are sent to the Board which reviews them and tries to settle the problem with the person or firm. If their attempts fail they can refer the complaints to the Office of the Prosecuting Attorney.

The Chamber attempts to assist those who need legal help, but often suggests that the caller seek the legal advice available at the Oakland County Legal Aid, or at the Oakland County Bar Association.

Because the Board has no legal power they do not hunt up and seek out unethical business practices. Instead, the Board acts as a teacher to educate businessmen and the public of these unethical practices, as well as assist them when the need arises. Therefore, it is the public who determines whether or not to support a business. The Board believes that the entire community working together against this problem is much more effective than a single group working alone.

Anyone unsure of a person's or firm's reputation can usually get the needed information by calling the Chamber. There, files are kept on those firms or persons about whom complaints have been made. Information is also available on whether the person or firm is a Chamber member and if a solicitor is registered with the Chamber. The Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce does not recommend supporting solicitors if they are not registered at the Chamber.

Emma has received calls and complaints on everything imaginable. In the first 8 months of 1968, 6,160 calls were registered at the Chamber. 4,600 of those calls concerned business ethics.

"People call to complain about dry cleaners who have damaged their clothing and to ask where they can get an artificial limb for free," she recalled.

Their most unique "case" involved a very young couple who complained that "people were picking on them because they were so young and married."

"I have to admit," said Emma, "I really didn't know what to do for them."

Answering one of the many calls the Chamber receives daily concerning business ethics is Mrs. Emma Olson, secretary to Mr. Earl A. Kreps, Chamber manager.

One man called to complain about his apartment building, saying that he agreed to rent the apartment "as is" with the throw rugs left by the former tenant. When he moved into the apartment the carpeting, drapes and kitchen appliances were intact, but the throw rugs were missing. When asked about his contract the man recalled that the rugs were not listed as separate items under contract to him. He therefore, lost his right to the rugs. Many people, according to Emma, make their mistake by either not reading the fine print in a contract or by not understanding what that print means.

Pontiac Area Chamber Opens Placement Referral Office to Get Jobs for Unemployed

The Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce struck another blow at unemployment in the Pontiac area with the official opening of their Placement Referral Office in the Consumers Power Building on November 4, 1968.

The project is a direct result of a cooperative effort between the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce, the Greater Detroit Board of Commerce, and Pontiac Motor Division to match people with jobs and jobs with people.

The office, located in Room 400, is staffed by three competent former unemployables from the Pontiac area who have backgrounds similar to those of the job applicants. This similarity between the interviewer and the applicant enables the interviewer to communicate and to understand the problems facing the job applicant.

The Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce Placement Referral Office staffers were trained in the techniques of recruiting, interviewing and following-up on the applicants by Lloyd F. Brown, director of Field Activities and manager of the Greater Detroit Board of Commerce Placement Referral Office. Brown and fellow staff members, Lorenzo Shelton and Thomas Wooden, shared their knowledge and experiences with the Pontiac staffers in an effort to help transform the unemployables into worthwhile, dependable workers and citizens.

Although the project is presently being financed by the Pontiac Motor Division on a monthly basis, the Chamber hopes that in the future area businessmen, industrialists, and merchants will join with them in providing a wide variety of jobs that will utilize the applicants' abilities and at the same time offer a challenge to him.

Other groups working with the Chamber for the success of the project are the Office of Economic Opportunity, the Urban League, the Pontiac Organization of Black Youth, church groups, and Harambee, a non-profit Negro organization working principally in housing and redevelopment of the area.

Mr. Earl Kreps, manager of the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce, said of the project:

"We hope to create a close and lasting relationship between the business community and our local social action organizations. It will be through the strength and intent of this relationship that we be able to utilize our human resources at a full 100% capacity."

Pontiac Market "Out-Front"

BY E. EUGENE RUSSELL

REPRINTED FROM MARKETS OF AMERICA

Beginning with the early days of Chief Pontiac, an "out front" position has been synonymous with the word Pontiac. This has included through the years not only strong leadership and outstanding accomplishments, but a long list of diversified products, goods, and services of superior quality. One of our community's most valued products is the Pontiac automobile produced by the General Motors Corporation.

This type of heritage leaves no room for mediocrity or second best. Pontiac by tradition is committed to staying "out front."

As a total community, this "out front" position is reflected through visionary leadership that has met head on virtually every problem that confronts an urban community. With "out front" community spirit, problems have merely become challenges which provide an opportunity for the involvement of our community.

A partial list of the many "out front" advisory groups assisting our City Manager, Mayor, and Commission team are the following:

1. Pontiac Area Planning Commission
2. Pontiac Board of Education
3. Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce
4. Downtown Merchants' Association
5. Citizen's Improvement and Advisory Committee
6. Pontiac School District Committee on Human Relations
7. Pontiac Finance Study Committee
8. Pontiac Housing Study Committee
9. Pontiac's Human Relations Commission
10. Metropolitan Detroit Citizen's Development Authority
11. Citizen's Committee for Pontiac's Positive Progress
12. (Thirty) Fraternal and social clubs

All plans are being guided by leading professional consultants retained by the City of Pontiac Board of Education.

tion. University resources are also making major contributions in Pontiac's "out front" development and marketing plans of the future.

One of the most dramatic effects on the Pontiac community could be the comprehensive planning studies conducted by Prof. C. Don Davidson of the University of Detroit's School of Architecture.

These studies have generated constructive debate within the community and can be the catalyst to bring about new understanding of future urban problems and Pontiac's true potential as a regional market center. More than this however, these studies offer realistic solutions through innovations of architecture and planning techniques that optimize human values. They are economically feasible.

It is expected that the University of Detroit planning proposals together with the new education complexes being designed by Dr. David Lewis of Carnegie Institute of Technology will contribute much to the "out front" movement now in progress, for the future of the Pontiac area.

Pontiac's strong market condition is better understood by the following facts:

Many industries in the Pontiac area utilize the Port of Detroit (28 miles to the S.E.) to enter the strong Canadian domestic markets and ship via the St. Lawrence Seaway to foreign ports of call all over the world. Export items include automobiles, trucks, buses, plastics, machine tools, automation equipment, electronic gear and hundreds of other commercial, industrial and domestic products.

According to the latest reports being conducted by Dr. Constantinos A. Doxiadis, in conjunction with the Detroit Edison Company, it is clearly evident that the City of Pontiac figures prominently as a regional market center because it is within the core area of the Midwest Megalopolis that is developing.

It does not seem to matter from which perspective one might view the many alternatives projected by the Doxiadis report: Volume 1 and 2 of "Emergence And Growth Of An Urban Region," Pontiac is the heart of this great economic center.

Pontiac is a true core city with radial arterial transportation systems that place it within 45 minutes of every market in the entire southeastern Michigan region and is destined to be the center of the heaviest concentration of population within the core of the Midwest Megalopolis.

Oakland County is considered by most expert demographers to be the fastest growing county in the Midwest. The tremendous growth of this county in population almost staggers the imagination when one realizes it will almost double during the next ten years, reaching a population of 1,400,000 by 1978. Projections indicate that Oakland County will continue its rapid growth to more than 2,000,000 people by 1990.

The Central Business District of Pontiac has 27 acres of Urban Renewal land already cleared for which development plans are now being completed. It will place strong emphasis on vertical structures and will combine the automobile, intercity bus, commuter train, and nearby jet airports into a convenient system of transportation to permit greater mobility.

The concept will optimize the use of the automobile within the Central Business District area while creating the most desirable environment for the pedestrian. This will be achieved by complete separation of the automobile and other transportation systems from the pedestrian. Recognizing that the only immediate break-through in transportation will be a better method of coordinating existing carrier systems, Pontiac will continue to be designed as the major focal point and collector exchange for future rapid transit systems.

The education explosion has opened new frontiers for the "learning" industries. Many such industries including publishers, audio-visual, EDP, communications and many others have only recently come to realize that Pontiac is one of the greatest educational-learning markets existing today.

specialty is water usage and waste pollution control, serving engineering consulting and contracting firms as well as industrial firms.

Vulcan Laboratories serves commercial and industrial water users in the midwest United States and in Ontario, Canada.

Vulcan has 15 industrial field specialists and 8 consulting engineering offices to meet customer needs in these areas.

Vulcan Laboratories is also a member of Associated Laboratories, Inc. This latter organization is a national group of independent water treatment companies extending across the United States. Through this association, Vulcan is able to present complete and uniform water treatment programs anywhere in the nation.

Furthermore, such industries have found excellent co-operation with the school administrators in implementing new methods and techniques.

Through the co-operative efforts of local industry, travel bureaus and the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce, many thousands of tourists and foreign officials have toured Pontiac's automobile and truck plants. They have utilized the beaches, marinas, ski slopes, and park areas nearby finding them enjoyable for family vacationing.

By 1970 there will be fine accommodations for trade groups of several hundred persons, dealer meetings, sales clinics, political conventions, and entertainment.

We believe the "Marketing Concept" offers many tools in analyzing and merchandising our community advantages. By having an awareness to the "Systems Approach" each business and community function will gain as a "Sub-System" and "Profit Center" while the total system is "tuned" to the intangibles such as universal values, human dignity and a good place to work, play and live.

Vulcan Laboratories Expands

Vulcan Laboratories, Inc., moved from their Brush Street headquarters to expanded facilities at 408 Auburn, Pontiac in January, 1968. The new building increases their office, laboratory and manufacturing floor space by 120 percent and it is a key factor in Vulcan Laboratories' planned expansion program.

Established in 1953, Vulcan Laboratories is important in the field of research development and application of water treatment for commercial and industrial use. In the new and enlarged laboratories, the company will be able to broaden its research and development program to include additional areas of application.

The increased manufacturing area will permit the company to serve the increasing demand for custom-formulated chemicals and proprietary products for effective and economical water treatment programs.

The new facility will also house Hydro Research Laboratories, an independent subsidiary of Vulcan Laboratories. Hydro Research Laboratories is a consulting and fact finding organization of engineers and chemists whose

MacManus Addition 'Designed for People'

When MacManus, John & Adams, Inc., international advertising agency, moved to Bloomfield Hills from Detroit in 1952 they had 100 employees and made provision for a 25 per cent increase in space needs.

Today, however, the agency has nearly 1,000 employees and space is at a premium. As a result, Ernest A. Jones, Chairman of the Board of MacManus, John & Adams, announced a major expansion program in October, 1968.

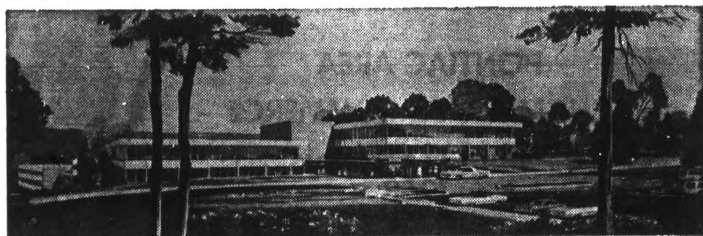

The new building will add 100,000 square feet of space to the 35,000 square feet in the present headquarters building. It will be adjacent to and connected to the present structure and will house nearly 500 of the agency's employees.

MacManus, John & Adams presently uses four different buildings in the area. Both the present and the new quarters will be leased from the Wajim Corporation.

hardly begun to use television as an advertising medium and the word 'computer' was not even in our vocabulary. Now we find ourselves designing special facilities for this and other modern machines. But it is still a 'people' business and our staff is still the first consideration in design."

The consolidation in the new facilities will provide more convenient and efficient operations. The new unit will house the agency's executive offices, account groups, marketing, media and research activities, and the financial, administrative, personnel and public relations departments. The present agency building will be completely renovated. It will house the creative, broadcast, traffic and production and sales departments.

MacManus, John & Adams is currently billing well over 100 million dollars annually in this country and abroad. In addition to the employees at the headquarters location in Bloomfield

The new addition is scheduled to be completed in May, 1970.

MacManus, John & Adams was one of the nation's first advertising agencies to move into a building specifically designed for its operations. Like the original building, the new addition will be tailored to advertising's needs.

New Sheraton Being Built In Pontiac

One of the most valuable services offered by the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce is assisting business and industrial researchers in locating sites for their new buildings. The Chamber accomplishes this by giving vital information and statistics in order to coordinate the business's aims with the area's opportunities.

It was in this manner that the Chamber assisted Sheraton Motor Inns in their search for a location for their new $2.5 million motor hotel now being built on Woodward Ave. at the southern edge of Pontiac.

According to Charles L. Langs, builder, developer and owner of the project, the hotel will be completed in July, 1969.

The building's exterior should be completed with roofs on by Christmas.

The new hotel will have 158 rooms with hospitality and bridal suites. An attached multi-purpose facility building will contain a large restaurant for 150 diners, a luncheon shop for 70, a cocktail lounge and piano bar and banquet rooms with a meeting capacity of 350.

Within the complex there will be health room facilities with exercising and massaging equipment and a sauna bath.

An indoor swimming pool and indoor and outdoor terraces will be additional features of the complex.

E. Eugene Russell, president, Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce called the new hotel a "well-founded investment" and a sign that area business men have confidence in the economic future of the city.

The motor hotel is expected to provide a meeting place for many civic gatherings which previously had been held outside the city.

Jude Fusco & Associates of Ferndale is the architect for the project.

New Staging Building Pushes MCOM Opening to Fall '69

The Michigan College of Osteopathic Medicine at 900 Auburn Road in Pontiac broke ground on Sunday, Nov. 24, for a staging building that will advance the college's opening date by at least one year.

The staging building, valued at $500,000, is scheduled for completion early next fall. It is a general purpose building measuring 15,000 square feet that will be used temporarily by basic science faculty and 16 students to test and refine an innovative curriculum designed by the faculty and educational consultants.

The facility is referred to as the staging building because it will permit the opening of the college in advance of the completion of more elaborate facilities that are now in the final stage of planning.

In accordance with the advanced master development plan which was designed to include four teaching and research laboratories in units of 16 students each, 16 students with a the establishment and support of the College. The fee is paid in annual installments over a 10-year period.

A national development fund campaign was reorganized in the fall of 1968 to produce $1 million per year for ten years for the College. Those behind this fund campaign will attempt to marshal further support within the profession, the osteopathic hospitals, guilds, auxiliaries, friends, suppliers and foundations.

$125,000 in state funds has been provided for planning, including site selection analysis, and the production of the 20-year master plan developed by the architects. Further state support will be sought for the future expansion of the medical school.

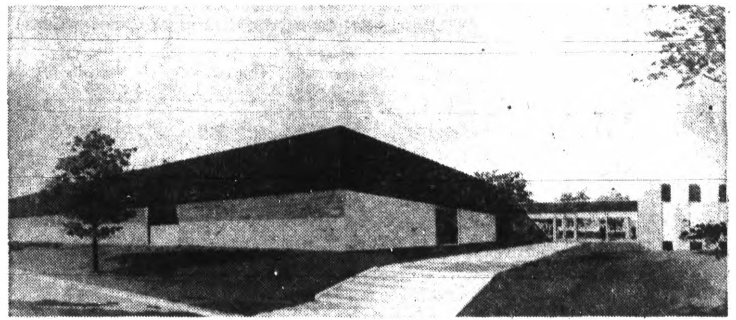

The early opening date of the College, achieved by means of the staging building and the founding class of 16 students, will advance the date when the school can qualify for federal funds.

The College was formally chartered will be evaluated by a university or other professional testing group and any desirable improvements that can be identified will be made.

The developing of this college in Pontiac will be a boon not only to Pontiac but to the entire state. Formerly, the 2,000 members of the profession in Michigan had to obtain their doctorates out of state. The College will also complement the already existing educational and medical facilities in the Pontiac area.

Pictured above is the architect's rendition of the Michigan College of Osteopathic Medicine's Staging Building which will be connected to the already completed Development Center Building. The new structure is scheduled for completion in the fall of 1969.

Kingsley Reports 3rd Expansion Since Founding

Evidence of the rapid growth of the Pontiac area and northern Oakland County can be observed in the numerous expansion programs taking place throughout the area.

An example of this growth and expansion is the program being undertaken by F. N. Takis, owner of the Kingsley Inn at 1475 Woodward Ave. in Bloomfield Hills.

The $2.5 million hotel, which can sleep 300 and entertain 1,000 in their dining facilities, has been open since 1958 and is now undertaking its second expansion. It is actually the Inn's third expansion since its original beginning as a restaurant.

The new $1 million annex will contain 68 new rooms and a large banquet hall. Both the exterior facade and the interior will be completed in a Mediterranean style complementary to the present building.

Looking ahead to the future already, Takis has plans for eventually increasing the banquet hall space.

Second only to the advertising firm, MacManus, John & Adams, Inc., the Kingsley Inn is the largest commercial enterprise in the Bloomfield Hills community.

The hotel and its new facilities will be a boon not only to travelers, but also to the local businessmen and industrialists. With such facilities available nearby, businessmen can now increase their present level of activities.

In addition to its 170 rooms, restaurant and banquet hall, the hotel contains a barber shop and beauty salon, sauna steam baths, six conference rooms, a travel agency, five cocktail lounges and a 24-hour coffee shop.

Fortis N. Takis immigrated from Greece to the United States at the age of 14 and has been a Bloomfield Hills restaurateur for many years.

bachelor's degree from an accredited college or university will be enrolled in the Michigan College of Osteopathic Medicine in the fall of 1969. By completing one unit in advance of the others, the college can move into its educational role at an earlier stage.

This small, early-enrollment group will permit greater flexibility and experimentation in the development of faculty, team teaching, evaluation of the innovating curriculum and physical environment scheme.

The College is being financed by a combination of private, state and federal funds.

In 1965 the Michigan Association of Osteopathic Physicians and Surgeons adopted a policy of levying $2000 against each physician toward under Michigan law by the State Board of Education in 1964. Under that charter it may become active as a privately financed, non-profit school of osteopathic medicine. The College does, however, favor a policy of joining in the mainstream of the publically supported higher education system.

In accordance with the avocation by state officials and independent consultants, the College is exploring affiliation possibilities in the state with the knowledge that there are many kinds and degrees of university affiliation in operation today.

The College curriculum was developed by Dean Myron S. Magen, D.O., and Associate Dean Jon Kabara, Ph.D., with the help of other faculty members in consultation with leading educators. The new techniques and curriculum

Closing The Gap —

Youthpower Helps Teens To Help Themselves

Out-of-school Pontiac area youths had a special employment agency operating for them last summer, thanks to the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce, the Pontiac Area Jaycees and A. E. Little, manager of Manpower, Inc., in Pontiac.

Together these organizations opened Youthpower, Inc., an employment agency staffed by volunteer youths with the purpose of getting employers and prospective employees in the 15-21 age bracket under a program designed to help youths find summer jobs.

Because Youthpower is a non-profit organization all arrangements for salaries and payment are taken care of between the employer and the employee.

Little, who has operated the Manpower, Inc., office at 1338 W. Wide Track in Pontiac since 1965 under a franchise arrangement, said he suggested the Youthpower concept to the Chamber of Commerce and Jaycees because of a concern for employing youths during the summer. Little's cooperation in the program actually cut into his own Manpower business during the summer.

The youthpower program was developed by the parent Manpower organization and first operated in Milwaukee, Wisconsin in 1964.

Elmer L. Winter, President of Manpower, Inc., an international firm dealing in temporary help and business services, headquartered in Milwaukee, thought this organization was well suited to helping youngsters find jobs.

Instead of providing an adult staff to find jobs for the younger people, Winter felt it would be of greater benefit to young people if Manpower provided technical assistance to get the program going, then allowed them to run the program themselves.

That's the way it happened, and that summer nearly 1,300 Milwaukee teens and youths were placed in jobs through Youthpower.

The program was such a success that it was expanded in 1965 to provide services in Green Bay, Wis., and Chicago, Ill. It has placed 18,000 youths in jobs since 1964.

By 1966 Youthpower was operating in nine cities. Their numbers rose to nineteen in 1967 and approximately seven more cities were added in 1968.

"Youthpower is operated on business principles similar to Manpower procedures however, because it is a non-profit operation there are no billing or payroll functions involved," Little said.

An office at 1 S. Saginaw, Pontiac, was in operation from June 8 to August 23. The office was outfitted with furniture, telephones, and office equipment and had one full-time paid adult administrator, in addition to the volunteers.

The volunteer staff registered, screened and checked references on applicants, accepted and screened work orders, matched and assigned workers to jobs and followed up each case to insure that each job was handled to the satisfaction of the employer and the employee.

The adult administrators chosen to supervise these operations attend a three-day training seminar at Manpower, Inc., headquarters in Milwaukee.

The Jaycees and individual contributions accounted for the funds needed to cover the operating costs.

SUMMER 1968 SIZZLED WITH SUCCESS

The Detroit Tigers, sun-bathing, and Youthpower, Inc. kept Pontiac area youths and teenagers quite busy this past summer.

Youthpower, a successful employment program launched by the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce, the Pontiac Area Jaycees and A.E. Little of Manpower, Inc. placed 417 young people in jobs this summer. This was 72% of the total Youthpower applicants.

Although the organization concentrates on filling temporary jobs 30 permanent positions were filled, also.

Chart I lists the job types, the number of jobs filled in each type, and the percentage of the total jobs filled.

Chart II shows the total number of applicants in each age bracket which received work and the percentage of the total number of applicants. It also displays the number in each age bracket that received work and the percentage of that group which received work. Note the total amount of jobs filled in each group.

Chart III shows more jobs filled than the total number working because many of the young people held more than one job.

Out of 810 applicants registered at Youthpower, 422 were males. From that figure approximately 54 percent found work. The females totaled 388 registered applicants and approximately 46 percent found work through Youthpower.

Youthpower handled 37 different jobs descriptions this summer. They ranged from general maintenance work to library pages. Two to the exceptional work orders were for girls to be trained as dental hygienist and a podiatric technician. Chart III lists each job de-

Of the 587 jobs filled by Youthpower, the overall average rate per hour paid by employers was $1.50. The total income grossed by the youths working from June 8 to August 23 was

According to the latest national statistics, of the 25 cities which ran a Youthpower program in the United States last summer, Pontiac ranked number 7 in the total number of jobs filled. It also ranked number 6 in the percentage of jobs filled to applicants registered and number 12 in the total number of young people registered.

With these statistics in mind, the volunteer staffers at Youthpower considered the program an overwhelming success in this area. The program was however not without problems.

Transportation was the greatest problem for the applicants. Most of those applying for positions lived in the city, while the majority of the jobs were outside the city proper.

Another problem was that out of the 587 work orders filled, only 20 percent of the requests came from local businessmen. Also, there was a very poor response in registration from the West Bloomfield, Clarkston, and Auburn Heights areas.

MILLIKEN LISTS SAFETY NEEDS AT REGIONAL MEETING

Vitally needed legislation for traffic safety was outlined by Lt. Governor William G. Milliken at the annual Governor's Regional Traffic Safety Conference on April 12, 1968.

The daylong session co-sponsored by the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce, included lectures and workshops on a multitude of traffic safety problems including an explanation of VASCAR.

Milliken offered his list of needed legislation to some 150 concerned citizens, government officials, and law enforcement officers at a noon luncheon.

He favors laws that would:

- Create a medical advisory board to set up health and eye requirements for drivers.
- Expand the vehicle checklane act.
- Toughen implied consent legislation.

- Institute a statewide system to pinpoint traffic accident locations quickly.
- Increase the regulation of commercial driving schools.
- Identify on a license the class of vehicle to be used by that driver.
- Strengthen ability to care for accident victims.
- Increase citizen involvement.

Milliken also contended that to effectively develop a traffic safety program it was necessary to examine the relationship of traffic accidents to other problem areas.

He added that maturity, emotional health, religious outlook and ethnic background are "problems that people face every day that are directly related to traffic accidents."

"The best hope for traffic safety is to identify further specific needs and to establish priorities for them and then to seek legislative action on them," said the lieutenant governor.

VASCAR, a simple computer designed to detect the speed of a moving car, was explained by Cpl. Jay Kennedy of the Selective Enforcement Section, Safety and Traffic Division of the State Police.

VASCAR means "visual average speed computer and recorder." The computer, which fits in a police car, allows the user to compute the speed of and car going toward or away from him at any angle whether the user is in a moving or stopped car.

An experimental computer has been tested in Michigan since May 1967.

The State Police have allocated money for another 25 units but are waiting for an answer to a request for federal money to buy an additional 75 units before purchasing any.

Col. Fredrick E. Davids, director of the State Police, reviewed traffic statistics for the past year, saying 1,304 persons had been killed on Michigan highways as of 7 a.m. yesterday. He added that there were 299,004 reported accidents in 1967 in which 2,123 persons were killed.

"It's the personal responsibility of each driver and his working up to it which is going to set Michigan back on the right track," he said.

The conference split into six workshops after lunch covering areas of new 1968 traffic laws and priorities of 1969, Michigan's reorganization of lower courts, trucking regulations and the actions of the Office of Highway Safety Planning.

The importance of women's organizations as persuaders and action stimulators to create interest in traffic safety legislation was pointed out at an all-women's workshop.

Marty McReynolds, chairman, Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce Traffic Safety Committee, was general conference chairman while Gary Robinson, member of the Traffic Safety Committee was chairman of the day.

State Rep. Loren Anderson, R-Waterford Township, demonstrates the operation of a motorcycle to Pontiac area youths (l-r) Earl Manns, Ralph Funk, and Kathy Jahnke at the Teen-age Traffic Safety Conference at Pontiac Central High School. The motorcycle being demonstrated belongs to Anderson.

Traffic Safety Emphasized to Teens At Conference

Some 320 Pontiac area teen-agers gave up their Saturday morning to attend the ninth annual Pontiac Area Teen-Age Traffic Safety Conference at Pontiac Northern High School last April.

The lectures and discussion, led by local safety authorities, were sponsored by the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce Traffic Safety Committee in an effort to make the teens more familiar with traffic safety.

Emerson K. Mitchell, general service manager for Pontiac Motor Division, spoke to the teen-agers on the design for safety. He emphasized that safety has been a prime objective in both the design and production of cars since the beginning of the automobile industry.

"But intensive efforts are also needed in the area of driver education and the design and construction of our roads," he added.

Mitchell brought his comments to life with two short films about several General Motors safety aids, such as seat belts being tested by human-like dummies in mock crashes.

Following Mitchell's presentation the students divided themselves into five discussion groups on the different areas of teen-age traffic safety.

One of the largest groups discussed "Motorcycles — A pleasure or a problem?" Leading this discussion was State Representative Loren Anderson, R-Waterford Township, an advocate of driver education programs for motorcyclists. The group of students discussed the merits of such a program and concluded that it would be worthwhile.

Others attended a discussion on "Is driver education doing the job for you?" The students generally agreed that driver education was very necessary, but that improvements could be made in the present program.

The students suggested more and better planned on-the-street experience versus the current method of learning to drive primarily on a special driving range. Also mentioned was more time in the classroom to talk out various traffic situations.

The "police and the teen-age driver" relationship was also discussed by many of those attending the conference. Several expressed a belief that there was a double standard for the driving patterns of adults and teens, favoring the elders.

Students added that a better relationship between themselves and the police was sorely needed.

In another discussion group, the students agreed that the effect of the federal program on the Traffic Safety for Teen-Agers was good.

The final group delved into the problems of teen-age traffic violators and the court. It was pointed out that since May 1965, all persons regardless of age came under the point system.

'27 City Plan Failure Is Today's Problem

The idea of community planning is nothing new to the Pontiac Area. It was first proposed in the form of a City Plan by the Board of Commerce (Chamber of Commerce) members in 1927.

The purpose of their City Plan was to project the civic, educational and social needs of the Pontiac area and Oakland County. Supporting this proposal were studies by these members which predicted the growth of Pontiac into a major business and industrial center during this century. These men were acting on the belief that the city would need to plan then, in 1927, for the future of Pontiac, which was still decades away.

There was much discussion of the City Plan, but the people were unwilling to support it. As a result, some of their predictions have come true in the form of slums, educational system tie-ups, traffic and parking problems.

This issue of city planning has remained in the shadows for many years because of selfish, political maneuvering. There were several meetings being held, but nothing substantial was ever accomplished until the Detroit riots began in the summer of 1967.

It was then that people began to wonder "what went wrong?"

One year later in May, 1968, the Oakland County Planning Commission sponsored a conference on city planning titled, "Planning for People." To the surprise of George N. Skrubbs, Oakland County Planning Commission director, and Donald A. Kalmbach, commission chairman, more than 500 people attended the conference, resulting in a standing room only crowd. According to Skrubbs almost every faction of society was represented.

The majority of the conference consisted of three two hour workshops which were concerned with specific aspects of city planning. Complementing these workshop sessions was the luncheon speaker, Edwin O. George, president of Detroit Edison Co., who discussed a study his company was undertaking.

This independent study included portions of Ohio and Canada, in addition to the Detroit area. It indicated that this area is destined to become one of the major centers in this country and perhaps a new city, about the size of Detroit, would have to be built to relieve some of the pressure which is already too high. The Detroit Edison

Co. will use the results of this study to formulate company plans 30 years in the future.

George emphasized that today industry must be interested in society, industries must study people and their environments in order to project the needs of industry in the years ahead. In short, they must plan for people.

The conference attempted to lay bare the facts about city planning to the public; calling for action now before our problems multiply to such an extent that we will be unable to cope with them.

This same cry was heard back in 1927, but nothing was done then. So far very little has been accomplished since May, 1968, also.

We, as citizens of the Pontiac area must open our eyes to the problems before us and accept them as challenges to a better world. We cannot ignore them; the days of isolationism are over. Today when one country devalues their money standard, it affects the rest of the world.

Area businessmen, industrialists, and merchants are by trade competitors, but unless they gather together for the singular purpose of making improvements in this area materialize, they will eventually have no business to be concerned about. When the pride in a city begins to falter, so also does the business.

One of the most effective mediums for action in this area is being ignored by many businessmen and merchants. That medium is the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce. The chamber should be the core of the business community; a representative of thought and ideas, of all businessmen, but it isn't. Those who belong to the Chamber have witnessed much growth and accomplishment, especially in the area of social action.

If we had the support of the majority of the businessmen in the Pontiac area, the Chamber could help bring about the changes we so painfully need. Pontiac could become a truly exceptional city, with great promise for the future. It takes involvement, intent and purpose. The Chamber has all three.

Area Businessmen Take Step Forward on Washington Trip

Are you wondering what the Federal government is doing for you and for your community? Seventy businessmen and merchants from the 19th Congressional District took a day off to find out.

The Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce and U.S. Rep. Jack H. McDonald (R) arranged for area businessmen to spend a day listening to and questioning government officials in Washington, D.C. about legislation and programs affecting the Pontiac area.

The 19th District delegation attended conferences led by U.S. Rep. Gerald Ford, (R)-Grand Rapids, minority leader of the House of Representatives; William B. Macomber, Jr., assistant secretary of state; Howard J. Wharton, deputy assistant secretary of the Department of Housing and Urban Development; Dr. Albert L. Alford, assistant commissioner of education for the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, and John Gentry, special assistant to the Undersecretary of Labor.

The nation's economy was discussed with varying viewpoints by James S. Duesenberry, member of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, and Louis J. Paradiso, associate director of the Office of Business Economics, Department of Commerce.

Although Vietnam, the poverty program, urban problems and the economy were discussed, it was the credibility gap between President Johnson and the legislators and between Washington and local government that Rep. Ford emphasized. Concerning federal spending he remarked:

"We just can't believe the figures we are getting from the Treasury Department or the White House."

When the day ended, the 19th District delegation left Washington satisfied. It gave them some new insights into the problems on their local level and their relative simplicity compared to those tackled in the nation's capital.

Perhaps, most important of all, it gave the businessmen and merchants a chance to talk about their problems and ideas directly with lawmakers and politicians.

It was a step forward in eliminating the credibility gap.

Goodfellow Newspaper Sale Is On in Area

Don't let a good fellow's effort go bad. That's the slogan that Pontiac-area policemen, firemen and mailmen hope the public is heeding today for the 40th annual Goodfellow sale of The Pontiac Press.

The public-servants-turned-newsboys picked up some 2,000 special editions shortly before noon and headed for busy intersections and shopping centers, where papers went on sale for the price of any donation.

Sales today are in Pontiac, Waterford Township, Pontiac Township, Avondale and Highland Township.

All funds brought in by the Metropolitan Club members go to charity — for the purchase of clothing and fuel for underprivileged families.

Lt. William Nesbitt of the Pontiac Police Department, chairman of the city drive, said he's hoping the public will "dig deep."

"We're selling until all our papers are gone to try and make this drive a success," he said.

"People have to give generously to make it a real success," he emphasized. Nesbitt said the sales will be concentrated in well-traveled areas to take advantage of holiday shopping traffic.

Persons who are unable to make a contribution today may mail donations to the Pontiac Police Department, care of "Goodfellows," Nesbitt announced.

Nixon Eyes Telecast for Cabinet Unveiling

PAIRM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — President-elect Richard M. Nixon is considering a national television-radio appearance next week to announce his cabinet.

Sources close to Nixon said today he has not definitely decided on a format for announcing his cabinet choices. But they said such a radio-TV appearance was being given serious thought.

Nixon has said all cabinet choices will be announced in the coming week. The decision apparently depended on whether Nixon could line up an entire cabinet in time.

Sources close to the president-elect said last night Sen. Henry Jackson of Washington, a former chairman of the Democratic National Committee, had removed himself from contention as a possible Secretary of Defense.

NIXON ROCKY MEET

Jackson's decision coincided with a private meeting here of Nixon and Republican Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, another man talked about as potentially a defense chief or new Secretary of State.

Nixon, flying back to New York today, was not expected to reveal his cabinet picks until Tuesday, at the earliest.

However, Lt. Gov. Robert Finch of California made no secret of the fact that his longtime friend had offered him a cabinet job — perhaps as secretary of health, education and welfare. He did not pinpoint the job.

Finch said Thursday that Nixon was considering a major overhaul of cabinet departments sometime after taking office Jan. 20.

ROLE FOR ROMNEY?

One report said that Michigan Gov. George Romney will be appointed secretary of transportation in the Nixon cabinet.

In today's editions, the Detroit Free Press said it has learned Romney, who HAVE ONE . . . OR SIX — It's all for a good cause, explains Pontiac police Lt. William Nesbitt, chairman of Pontiac's Goodfellow sale of The Pontiac Press, as he offers a special edition. Ernest Latimer, Waterford Township fireman; and Pontiac fireman Ray Wilson.

U.S. Orbits Satellite to Peer at Universe

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — An astronomical observatory rocketed into orbit today packing 11 telescopes intended to give man his first clear look at the stars and uncover clues to the origin of the universe.

The success "will open up a new arena in a large area of interest in the space sciences—investigating the whole universe," said Homer E. Newell, associate administrator of space science and applications for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration as Orbiting Astronomical Observatory 2 circled earth on its first orbit.

Officials plan to activate the spacecraft's telescopes Wednesday after checking all spacecraft systems.

COMPLEX PROJECT

The $75-million satellite is the heaviest and most complex scientific spacecraft ever launched by the United States.

Operating above the obscuring blanket of earth's atmosphere, the observatory is designed to provide astronomers with their first unobstructed glimpse of the universe—exploring mysteries of the stars, galaxies, nebulae and interstellar gases.

OA02 will concentrate on observing ultraviolet light, which could tell much about the heat and intensity of stars and thus provide clues to their age.

"The theory is to put stars of different ages in some order to deduce the evolution of the stars and the universe," said Dr. James S. Kupperjan Jr., OA0 project scientist.

The 4,000-pound spacecraft rode atop an Atlas-Centaur booster that drilled it into a near-circular orbit ranging from 467 to 489 miles high—very close to the 480-mile-high circular path for which it was aimed.

campaigned vigorously for Nixon after opposing him briefly for the Republican party's presidential nomination, has been ruled out for the post of secretary of commerce.

In the transportation post he would succeed Alan Boyd. Taking over as Michigan governor would be Lt. Gov. William G. Milliken.

The morning newspaper said Romney had been passed over for the job as secretary of the interior in favor of Montana Gov. Tim Babcock who lost his bid for reelection this year.

Winton M. Blount, 48-year-old Montgomery, Ala., businessman and president of the national Chamber of Commerce, was reported to be in line for the job of postmaster general.

Delegates' Seating Remains Unsettled

Paris Negotiators Establish Ground Rules

PARIS (AP) — U.S. and North Vietnamese negotiators have agreed on seven procedural issues for four-way peace talks, but they still can't agree on who will sit where.

U.S. officials said the seven points agreed on yesterday by Cyrus R. Vance, No. 2 man in the U.S. delegation, and his North Vietnamese counterpart, Ha Van Lau, are:

- The first four-way session will be restricted to conference procedure.
- Each group will have a speaker.
- They will meet in the same room previously used for U.S.-North Vietnamese talks at the Majestic Hotel.
- The allied and Communist sides each may bring 10-12 persons.

Business can be conducted in English, Vietnamese and French.

Tape recorders will be admitted.

BOTH SIDES ROSE

Vance and Lau each scored points in these procedural agreements, which left some leeway for individual definition.

The Americans see the speaker arrangement as two spokesmen on each of two sides, one each for Washington, Saigon, Hanoi and the Vietcong's National Liberation Front.

The shape of the conference table, although a seemingly trivial issue, is one which the rivals feel could be translated into a bargaining advantage later on. Consequently there has been no breakthrough on this point.

The South Vietnamese contingent is expected to arrive here by noon tomorrow, and supporters planned a gala airport rally to outdo the reception accorded the NLF group five weeks ago.

Crash and Kill 7 Teens

ST. CLAIR, Mo. (AP) — A grinding crash of a car and a crane-carrier killed seven teen-agers in the car at an intersection of U.S. 66 just east of St. Clair, Mo., near St. Louis, last night.

The driver of the truck was not injured.

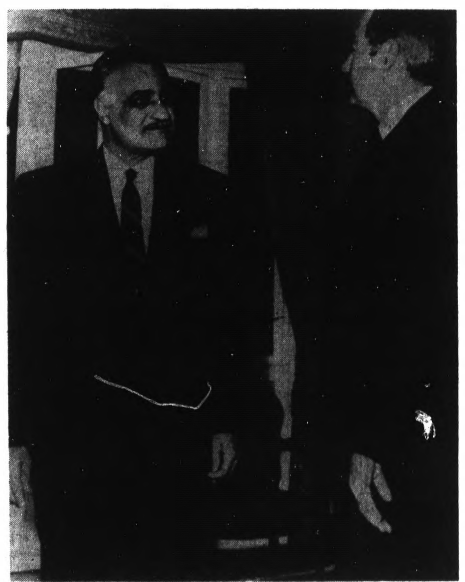

Troopers said the car skidded off a side road onto U.S. 66 and into the path of the truck.

MOUNT CLEMENS (AP) — Four children died of smoke inhalation when their home caught fire late last night, Chesterfield Township fire officials said.

Their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Corbett Wall, and another child were injured.

The victims were identified as Karen Wall, 7; Christopher Wall, 6; Rebecca June, Wall, 3; and Michael Wall, 9.

Hong Kong Flu Hits Many Parts of U.S.

Absences from schools and jobs in several areas of the country are reported running higher than usual this winter because of a spreading outbreak of Hong Kong flu.

An Associated Press survey showed that although the disease has not yet hit its peak in many places, some firms and schools report absenteeism running as high as 30 per cent.

In New York City, for example, a Commerce and Industry Association survey of leading businesses showed that 40 per cent of those polled reported unusually high absenteeism.

Ten per cent of those firms said the high number of sick employees definitely was due to Hong Kong flu. The others said that the absenteeism was because of a flu-like disorder.

Of those firms reporting unusually high absenteeism, 10 per cent said the rate was 200 per cent higher than normal while the rest put the ratio at from 10 to 33 per cent higher than normal.

'I IN 5 WILL GET IT'

The city's health commissioner, Dr. Edward O'Rourke, predicted that 20 per cent of the population would be infected by the new strain of virus before the winter is over. In past years, he said, about 10 per cent of the population is affected by flu.

The National Communicable Disease Center in Atlanta, Ga., said Friday that 13 states, Puerto Rico and New York City already had reported outbreaks of Hong Kong flu and that new cases were expected.

Doctors at the center said chances of finding a vaccine which can fully prevent the disease remained doubtful.

One of the hardest-hit areas has been Colorado. The State Health Department estimated 50,000 flu cases so far this year.

Waterford Twp. Is Voting Today on School Issues

Waterford Township School District voters are going to the polls today to decide on a 9-mill school operating tax increase for two years and a $10.8-million bond issue for construction.

Revenue—$9 per $1,000 of state equalized property valuation—from the tax hike would be used to restore curriculum and teaching positions cut back after a millage defeat more than a year ago.

The bond issue, which would not increase taxes, is to be used to build two schools and put additions on nine schools.

All registered voters may vote on the millage increase but only property owners may cast their votes on the bond issue. Polls close at 8 p.m.

Low Temperature of 12-17 Expected

School Tax Proposal Gets Mixed Reaction in Lansing

LANSING (UPI) — A proposal for a statewide petition campaign to outlaw property taxes for school operating purposes and replace the revenue with a higher state income tax has triggered mixed reaction in the Michigan Legislature.

Rep. Roy Smith, R-Ypsilanti, who will spearhead the drive, said yesterday the proposition would remedy Michigan's growing school ills.

"It would place the burden of financing our schools on an ability to pay basis rather than on an antiquated system of property holdings," he said.

Chairman Harry A. DeMaso of the Senate Taxation Committee deride the proposal as an "unrealistic, unsound scheme," that would do more harm than good.

TAX HIKE

Sponsors of the plan said it would reduce property taxes by an average of 50 to 75 per cent, and hike the personal income tax from 2.6 to 6 per cent. The corporate income tax would jump from 5.6 to 11 per cent.

Forces supporting the petition campaign must obtain more than 200,000 valid signatures to get the plan on the ballot for voter determination. The earliest an election could be held is next spring.

Smith said petitions would be circulated as soon as the attorney general's office clears the form of the proposition. He said an effort would be made to secure the needed signatures by early next year.

Specifically the proposal would constitutionally prohibit the levying of local property taxes to finance school operations. It would not, however, ban real estate taxes for school construction.

WIDE-BASED RESTRICTION

The restriction would extend from kindergarten through community college educational programs, Smith said.

"Financing of education is the most serious problem in Michigan today," Smith said.

"And it won't be solved in the Legislature. That's why I'm going to the people."

SF State Concessions Fail

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Rejecting partial concessions, strikers at San Francisco State College vow they'll enlist more faculty help in the fight to close the campus.

The college ended its first week of classes under semantist S. I. Hayakawa as the acting president acceded Friday to 6 of 15 demands of the Black Students Union and the Third World Liberation Front, composed of non-Negro minority groups.

Hayakawa announced creation of a black studies department. A controversial Negro instructor, Nathan Hare, was named department head.

But militant students, supported by an increasingly larger group of faculty, students and outsiders, replied with obscenities and called the acting president a liar. Their demands, they said, are nonnegotiable.

"He's offering us tidbits," said Randall Bridges of the Black Students Union. "He's trying to divide us."

WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY

Meanwhile, in St. Louis, all but a handful of white protesters at Washington University ended their sit-in early today after the faculty approved virtually all student demands.

The faculty of arts and sciences yielded to the white students principal demand that Reserve Officers Training Corps be eliminated. The first of two motions approved by the faculty removed the credit standing of four Army and four Air Force ROTC courses effective July 1, 1969.

About 25 militant Negroes continued their "lock-in" inside the school's accounting office. They declined to talk to newsmen.

They vowed they would remain until the university administration disciplined five school police who they say manhandled a Negro student Thursday.

OSHKOSH STATE

In still other student unrest, about 150 chanting demonstrators pushed passed two guards and smashed a glass door panel to enter the room where the Wisconsin's university system's Board of Regents were meeting yesterday.

The demonstrators, demanding reinstatement of 89 Negro students suspended from Oshkosh State University, interrupted the meeting for 20 minutes.

Attack on Pearl Harbor

Rites Mark Fateful Day

PEARL HARBOR (UPI) — It is 27 years since the "day of infamy" when the bombing of Pearl Harbor plunged the United States into World War II.

A brief ceremony today on the USS Arizona Memorial was specially authorized by the Navy to allow a group of state legislators to pay their respects to the 2,409 Americans who died in the attack Dec. 7, 1941.

The gleaming-white Arizona Memorial rises above the famous battleship at the spot where she went down — the victim of a 500-pound bomb which dropped through her stack into the engine room.

The bodies of more than 1,000 of her crewmen remain entombed in the ship and oil still seeps to the surface from her rusting hull.

JOLTED THE WORLD

The sneak attack jolted the world and enraged the American people.

Three-hundred and fifty-three Japanese war planes roared over Pearl Harbor in three waves. Forty-nine big bombers, each carrying a 1,600-pound armor-piercing bomb, came first. They were followed by 40 torpedo bombers and 51 dive bombers. Squadrons of zeroes flew overhead and on the flanks for protection.

There were 97 ships in the harbor, which was an inferno in minutes. Of these, 46 were warships of destroyer size or larger. Eighteen of the warship were sunk or heavily damaged in the two-hour attack.

School Levy Vote Monday in Romeo

Romeo voters will go to the polls Monday in a special election on renewal of a 4-mill school operating tax levy.

The election is the third for the district this year. In January voters turned down a proposed 8-mill package, 3 mills of renewal and 5 additional. However, both were approved in June, along with a $2.3-million bond issue for construction.

Schools Supt. T. C. Filippula said he is "hopeful" for passage of the renewal, though not expecting a large turnout.

At a recent joint meeting of the board of education and district principals, the superintendent said the four mills would be necessary to continue operating the schools on a basis similar to present operations.

The district, Filippula revealed, is faced with a projected $119,000 deficit by June 1969 and even with cuts in all areas would end up $10,000 in the red.

The system presently levies 27.61 mills for operating expenses and 8.98 mills for building.

Further Hearings on Chicago Likely

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of House subcommittee probing disorders at the Democratic National Convention sees a need for further hearings which he says so far have shown Communists took part in the bloody August rioting in Chicago.

Missouri Democrat Richard Ichord said yesterday his special House subcommittee on un-American activities plans to examine the transcript of hearings held this week and in October.

6-Day Ordeal in Everglades

Plucky Pilot Finally Saved

HOMESTEAD, Fla. (AP) — Determination and a big Thanksgiving dinner kept downed pilot Wayne Waldrop Jr. going as he wandered in the jungle-like Everglades for six days before being rescued Friday by park rangers.

"I just made up my mind I wasn't going to die in the Everglades," said the gaunt, 26-year-old service station helper as he recuperated in a Homestead hospital.

Waldrop had a milkshake and some cookies Friday evening. It was the first food he had since he crash-landed his rented plane 50 miles south of Miami in the Everglades on Nov. 29.

He was finally spotted by a ranger pilot, his clothes shredded by razor sharp sawgrass and his exposed body covered with hundreds of mosquito well. He had slugged about 25 miles through knee-deep water.

Ranger Ralph Miele's signing Friday afternoon came at a time when even Wayne's mother had given him up for dead.

Despite his ordeal Waldrop was listed in good condition.

"He had eaten a big Thanksgiving dinner just the day before he went into the hospital."

125 Escape Injury in Mine Collapse

MADISONVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — Tons of rock and slate collapsed into the only entrance of a coal mine yesterday, but all 125 miners inside crawled out uninjured through a narrow crack in the earth.

The miners were going back to work in the mine today.

Austin Trammel, superintendent of the Island Creek Company's East Diamond Mine in the heart of the West Kentucky coal fields, said the collapse occurred several feet inside the entrance, leaving a hole just large enough for the miners to escape.

Trammel said there were many areas deep inside the mine where the workers could have retreated if there had been no way out.

BACK TO WORK

The debris was being cleared and the mine was to be put back in operation sometime today, he said.

Dewey Would Abolish 'Fifth'

"We would get along just as well if we repealed the Fifth Amendment. We should require everyone to answer authorized questions. If he doesn't testify, then the judge and the court should comment on it."

"Some court decisions protecting defendants rights are a maze of artificial protections which do not protect anybody but the guilty."

"We have become a permissive society. It doesn't make any difference whether it's a mob or beating up for the sheer joy of it—larceny, arson are condoned. They go without punishment."

"We had better start restructuring our society or somebody else is going to start doing it over our heads. Liberty may not survive in chaos if government does not preserve order."

Were these statements those of the United States Supreme Court, Michigan State Supreme Court or for that matter, from any of our local judiciary?

Hardly. They came from a former crime buster who had the reputation of being one of the best ever.

Thomas E. Dewey made these remarks in an address before the Federal Bar Council recently. They make an awful lot of sense to us and since he is mentioned as a possible Nixon nominee to the U.S. Supreme Court we would like to add our support to the idea.

Pontiac Area United Fund Wins and Loses in 1968

In the windup of the 1968 campaign, the Pontiac Area United Fund may be said to have lost a battle but won a war.

The battle lost was the Fund's failure to meet its $1-130,000 goal by 5 per cent; the war won was the record-breaking total of $1,069,150 (3 per cent above last year) that was raised.

Needless to say, there is disappointment that the campaign didn't go over the top as did Detroit's Torch drive and those of many other Michigan cities. But the amount realized will enable the 55 social, health and welfare agencies to function adequately in their respective fields, though on a curtailed scale in some instances.

It is in order, however, to take a hard look at the results of the last two Fund campaigns, both of which fell short of their goals after a string of 17 successful ones.

The campaigns embrace one of the most populous and progressive communities in the Country and occurred during an unprecedented long period of national and local prosperity.

Then why the letdown?

• Does the public believe that the annual campaigns whose goals necessarily increase slightly as agency costs increase contain some "water," and that the work of the establishment will not be impaired if its financial needs are not fully met?

• Has the generally prosperous citizenry become self-satisfied in their own well-being and somewhat indifferent to the needs of the less fortunate?

On the first point, we can assure any doubters that the United Fund goals represent "bare bones" budgets of the participating agencies, sweated out well in advance of the campaigns by panels of hard-headed, public-spirited men and women of the community.

As for the second point, perhaps this is a good time for a little soul searching on the part of every individual within the area covered by the Pontiac United Fund. Has he or she, whether on the soliciting or contributing side of the campaign, delivered a full measure of personal effort and financial support?

These are questions that might well be pondered between now and the 1969 campaign, when not only the war but the battle must be won.

Meanwhile, The Press congratulates the Pontiac Area United Fund professional staff and volunteer leaders and workers on the creditable outcome of the recent campaign.

Questions That Face 91st Congress

By EVERETT DIRKSEN

In an earlier column on the question of President-elect Richard Nixon and what he can expect from Congress, I cited his views on matters such as appropriations and the multilateral nuclear treaty, and I wrote that it should not be too difficult to reach an accord with the Congress wherever necessary.

Now let's look at other areas of legislative activity that will arise in the course of the 91st Congress.

There is, for example, the question of the policy of foreign aid which the United States has been pursuing for 24 years and on which we have spent, in round figures, about $150 billion.

For the fiscal year 1969, which began on July 1, 1968, the Congress appropriated the smallest sum ever for foreign aid. The implications of that action must be quite clear. Congress believes that foreign aid should taper off sharply and finally be reduced to a token amount. Moreover, we have helped nations from whom we have received little or no real cooperation, and Congress, under such circumstances, has certainly been restive about all foreign aid.

There is every reason to believe that President-elect Nixon is rather pragmatic about all this and that he has his feet on the ground, as usual. Certainly, he and the Congress can find much common ground in the field of foreign aid.

One issue of a controversial nature will be that of foreign trade. Our imports of meat—especially beef—dairy products, steel and textiles have taken a substantial share of the American market, and all signs indicate that these imports will increase.

Actually, if import and export values are calculated on the same basis, which is either FOB or CIF—cartage, insurance and freight—it is necessary to add 10 per cent to the value of imports to ascertain their true value. If that is done, we will find that we actually have a deficit in our trade balance, and that becomes a considerable complication. The U.S. Tariff Commission can verify the accuracy of that statement.

What complicates this matter, and what will continue to complicate it, is that American workers are becoming sharply conscious of the number of jobs that are displaced by the surging increase of imports, and through the various labor organizations, the workers are about to make a real issue of it.

In view of the low wage rates in other countries, surely a voluntary approach can be found which will be fair to all and which will not invite the imposition of quotas. Quotas can only mean retaliation by other nations, and they can become the road to misunderstanding.

The POWER of FAITH

The Madonna and the Three Wise Men—Africa

Christianity in Africa, other than in the coastal areas, does not date back much before the beginning of the 19th century. In Africa as elsewhere the task was one of visual communication, of telling the stories of Jesus in picture or sculpture. The African being a natural sculptor and wood carver, it followed that the Christian African artist would tell the story of Christmas in his own simple and beautiful technique.

The churches of Africa led the way in commissioning sculptors and artists to use their skills to tell the story of Jesus so the people would understand and relate to them. These artistic works also enrich our understanding of the basic religious truths.

The above drawings of the Virgin and Child and the Three Wise Men are has reliefs carved by Lamidi Fakaye on the doors of the Roman Catholic Chapel at the University in Ibadan. They follow a very old African tradition of bas reliefs on wooden doorways. There are 10 panels on the doors, showing important scenes in the life of Christ. The simple dignity and reverence of the Wise Men in the bas reliefs impress us with the meaning of the first Christmas Morn.

Confident Living:

With Perseverance You Can Win

By NORMAN VINCENT
PEALE

Your chances of really getting somewhere in life can hinge on your reaction when some shattering setback hits you. Will you give up or will you keep on trying? It's as simple as that.

DR. PEALE

There would be no more Olympics for four long years. Besides he had already won all the other coveted high hurdles championships. Why subject himself to four more strenuous years of keeping in "top form"? The sensible thing was to forget it and get started in a business career.

But surprisingly he didn't. He finished third. It was a terrible disappointment. His first thought was: "So what? I might as well quit running." The sensible thing was to forget it and get started in a business career.

Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland R. Vincent of 636 Meadow, 53rd wedding anniversary.

The South Lyon Herald entering its 90th year of publication.

Mr. and Mrs. Charley Keppeler of Milford, 53rd wedding anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Rosebush of Lake Orion, 59th wedding anniversary.

This was plain logic for sure, but Hayes Jones couldn't settle for it. "You can't be logical," he says, "about something you've wanted all your life."

So he started training again, three hours a day, seven days a week. And in the next couple of years he made some new records in the 60-yard and 70-yard high hurdles.

Came the night of February 22, 1964 at Madison Square Garden. Jones was competing in the 60-yard high hurdles. He had announced that this would be his last indoor race. Tension ran high, every eye was on him. And he won, tying his own previous all-time record.

Then a strange thing happened. In those days in the old Garden, when runners had crossed the finish line they disappeared under a ramp before they could slow down and stop. Walking back into the stadium Jones stood for a moment with head bowed, acknowledging the applause.

Then 17,000 people, packing the Garden, stood in tribute. Jones wept. Many spectators wept too because a once-defeated man was still in it.

He entered the 1964 Olympics at Tokyo and ran the 110-meter high hurdles in 13.6 seconds, finishing his gold medal.

After that he went to work for an airline as a sales representative in Detroit. Presently he offered to help as a volunteer in the city's physical fitness program. His activities got spectacular results.

Now Hayes Jones, on leave of absence from his airline job, is doing a two-year stint as New York City's commissioner of recreation.

In a recent speech to a crowd of young men he quoted some lines from a poem by Robert W. Service which all of us could do well to tuck into our minds.

It's the plugging away that will win you the day. So don't be a piker, old pard!

It's the keeping-your-chin-up that's hard.

It's easy to cry that you're beaten—and die.

It's easy to crawl and crawl.

But to fight and fight when hope's out of sight—

Why, that's the best game of all!

And although you come out of each grueling bout

All broken and beaten and scared,

Just have one more try—

It's so easy to die.

It's the keeping-on-living that's hard.

Hayes Jones' story brings to mind some lines from Goethe: "Austere perseverance, harsh and continuous, may be employed by the smallest of us and rarely fails of its purpose, for its silent power grows irresistibly greater with time."

Driver Explains Cause for Delay in Parking Lot

In regard to the letter from Ray Craddock who was upset because a young blonde ruined his evening at PCH's Band-orama. I am that young blonde and feel Mr. Craddock made a mountain out of a molehill. When I arrived at my car I had to wait four or five minutes for other cars before I could get out.

I was home less than half an hour after the concert, whereas he claimed I held up traffic for that long. I would wager that if my car had belonged to a six-foot two-inch he-man instead of a young blonde teen-ager, Mr. Craddock would have been much less put out.

Reader Discusses Actions of Gov. Romney

Have read that our Governor got his raise, so all of you taxpayers take your belts up another notch for here goes another mill or two. I believe Michigan has been proven the highest tax state in the Nation, and our taxes will be higher before Romney is through with us. He spent our tax money going to Vietnam and also went campaigning for president until everyone socked it to him concerning the Detroit riot and he withdrew from the race. He hasn't been the same since he was brainwashed in Vietnam. We will have to take it unless he can brainwash Nixon to get a seat in his cabinet. If so, may the Lord help this country.

'Voice Disapproval of School Site Decision'

Citizens of Pontiac should be very dissatisfied with the board of education's decision to build the proposed super high school on the State hospital site. In snubbing professional advice recommending the Orchard Lake-Bagley location, the board has disregarded the tremendous need for helping to establish downtown redevelopment. The rejected central location would have been closer to both the majorities of the black and of the white communities, rather than on the City's periphery. Perhaps the promotion of better race relations is not uppermost in the board's mind.

If the board had acted in proper administrative procedure it would have commissioned the professional planning group to begin its study and make its recommendation as to the school site before the board made its decision prior to the millage vote in March, rather than afterwards. Despite the conclusiveness of the board's decision, I urge Pontiac citizens to register their disapproval of the board's action. It would be well worth a 15 per cent increase in cost and a one-year delay to select the more advantageous site, the one at Orchard Lake and Bagley.

Answers Complaint About Farm Hunting

In reply to the person who feels he should be able to hunt on a farm, no farmer has his farm in the soil bank. He can't afford to. These are people from the city who purchased a farm as a tax evasion or someone who is out of farming and working elsewhere. Other reasons hunters are not allowed to hunt on farms are there is very little game on a farm, careless use of guns, and drunken men. You can hunt free on any State game area land. Ask your conservation man. There are thousands of acres where you can hunt free, so why blame the farmer?

SMART EVE XIV

Supervisors Appointed Road Commissioner

It's difficult to understand all the criticism directed at the road commissioner. Certain members of the board of supervisors have stated publicly that they were not satisfied with his past performance. Taxpayers pleaded with the Board at the Oct. 7 public hearing to remove the present road commissioner if they were not doing a good job, so money could be allocated to roads. And yet, at their very next meeting on Nov. 12, the Board unanimously reappointed Mr. Staman to another six-year term.

The fault does not lie with Mr. Staman, who wanted the job. It lies with the supervisors who gave it to him, knowing he had not done a good job for the taxpayers paying his salary. It looks like County officials don't really want someone in that job who will fight to get a share of local and state money for roads.

Shortly after 10 a.m. Nov. 26 Grand Trunk had traffic on Huron backed up past the high school for seven minutes. Isn't there a law against this?

Yes. Ordinance 1275 says the limit is five minutes. Lt. Randolph of Pontiac Police says if you have the train number, date and time it was blocking traffic, you can sign a complaint and a warrant will be issued. Penalty is $100 fine, 90 days, or both.

Robinson was taken into custody by plant protection officers and turned over to Pontiac police following the 4:10 p.m. stabbing of John R. Runyan, 18, of 4811 Motorway.

Witnesses told police that the pair had been arguing since coming to work an hour before the incident.

OU Engineer School Gets Advisory Board

Oakland University's School of Engineering has established an eight-man Board of Visitors, composed of senior executives from industries in southeastern Michigan.

The board, which will assist in laying the groundwork for future engineering education at OU, will hold its first campus meeting Wednesday.

Engineering Dean John E. Gibson noted that the establishment of the board coincides with the year-long dedication program planned for OU's new $5-million Dodge Hall and initial expansion efforts under a $570,000 National Science Foundation grant to expand the school's graduate programs in engineering.

"To provide the maximum benefit to the citizens of the state it is essential that these programs have the benefit of the best thinking available from the industrial community of our region," Gibson said. "The Board of Visitors is designed to provide precisely this advantage."

Three Birmingham men were named to the board. They are said following his election.

THE NATIVITY

Creches through the Centuries

AUSTRIAN—From Innsbruck, this creche, created during the middle 18th century is among the most important crib collection in the world at the National Museum in Munich, Germany.

The Christmas cribs, or manger scenes, that appear in churches and in many households at Christmas time, have a history that can be traced back for twelve centuries.

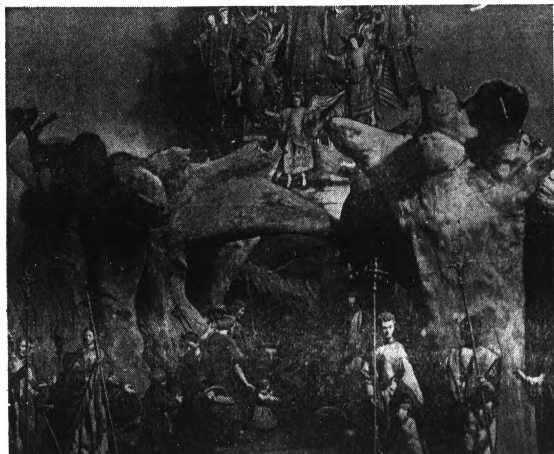

Since there weren't many books in Medieval Europe and since few people could read anyway, priests and religious leaders used the cribs to interpret the Bible through literal representation.

Saint Francis of Assisi created one of the earliest presepses, as the Italians call them—from the Latin word praesepe, meaning stable. He re-enacted the birth of Christ when he set up a single manger scene at the little town of Greccio, Italy in 1224. From this presentation, the idea of Nativity scenes spread throughout the world.

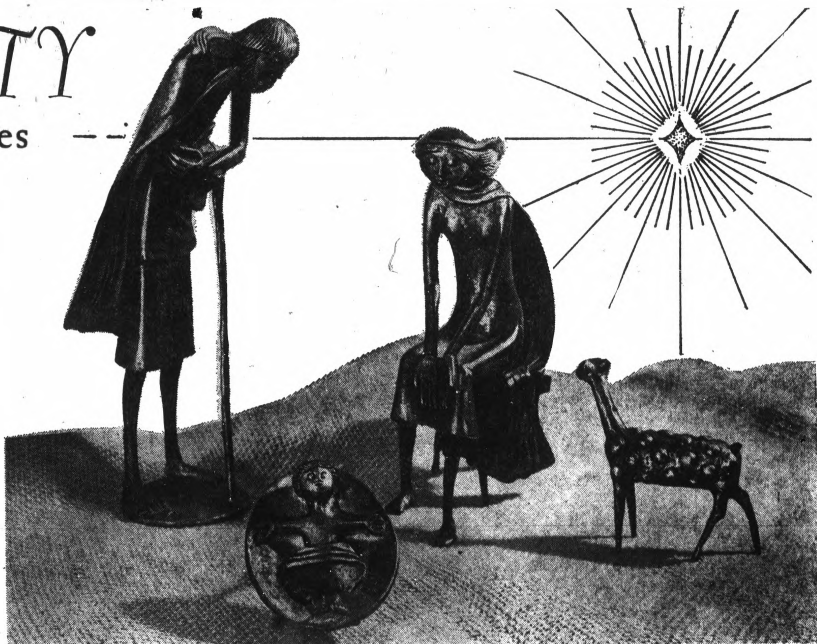

The Renaissance brought changes in the manger scenes. They became more elaborate and added many, quite irrelevant figures. During the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries, the presepe reached its height. Figures were made of wood, terra cotta, papier-mache, plaster, cork and faience. In many cases, the making of the Christmas Crib figures and their arrangement became important contributions to art.

The most elaborate Christmas presepe in Italy is the celebrated shrine of the Madonna della Grazie, built by the Capuchin monks. It is an 18-foot high grotto of Sardinia cork, with galleries giving a perspective of the mountains. The National Museum in Munich contains the most important crib collection in the world and the Metropolitan Museum in New York City has the noted Rossellino group, used before 1478.

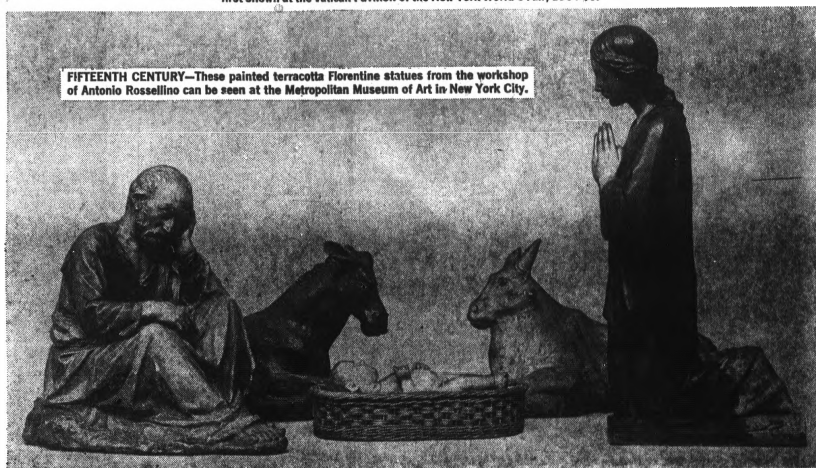

In France the manger scene is called the "creche"; in Spain, the "nacimiento"; and in southern Germany, the "Krippe." In America, elaborate scenes can be found around Christmas time in Salem, North Carolina, Bethlehem, Pennsylvania and Baltimore, Maryland.

BAVARIAN KRIPPE—From the famous workshops of Oberammergau, Germany, Christmas mangers such as this one have been produced for centuries.

CONTEMPORARY "NATIVITY"—This cast bronze by French artist, Roland Coignard, was first shown at the Vatican Pavilion of the New York World's Fair, 1964-65.

FIFTEENTH CENTURY—These painted terracotta Florentine statues from the workshop of Antonio Rossellino can be seen at the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York City.

NAPLES—Italy has long been noted for its beautiful "presepe," like this example from the 16th century.

ELABORATE—Typical of the detail executed by the Italian artists, this crib was built in the 16th century in Naples.

Teen-Agers Buy Horse for Missionary

Stories of teen-agers getting for the price of a contribution purchased. Checks are payable to the purchaser's name is written to Christmas Horse Central project meet every Sunday afternoon at the church.

Young people of Central United Methodist Church upon hearing a missionary in the Philippines needed a horse, decided to serve a pancake-sausage supper in Fellowship Hall of Central Church from 4 to 8 p.m. today to start a horse fund.

Contributions or proceeds will be used to buy the horse.

It seems there is a Methodist missionary and circuit rider in the Philippines who is waging a fight at great personal sacrifice to reach isolated people in the hills with medical supplies and the word of God.

The trail reportedly is long, tortuous and dangerous. No vehicle can climb these mountains and trails. The missionary must walk or ride a horse.

When Central Church young people heard of his problem, they vowed to get him a horse for Christmas.

Anyone wishing to help these teen-agers with the horse fund may buy a part of a wooden horse now on display at Central Church.

Parts of this horse are offered

Sarah Ruetette of Birmingham and her big sister, Lisa, take one last slide down for the day. Sarah sports a one-piece jumpsuit in navy with coordinated striped skirt. Racer Look In First Place on Slopes

By JEANNE NELSON

Motion is THE key to this year's women's active ski wear as the racer look takes a predominate lead in fashion on the slopes.

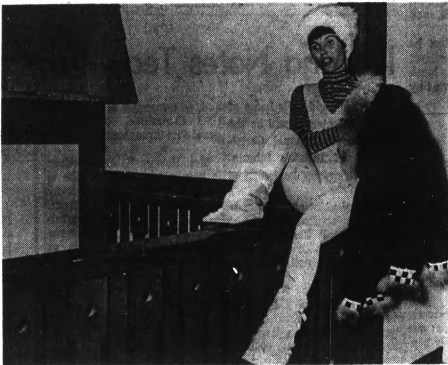

Those sleek-fitting jumpsuits are gaining more momentum with each season. But caution must be exercised, here, since only those with near perfect figures should attempt them.

Every wrinkle and bulge is shown without mercy. The turtle neck under, must be smooth and lightweight to keep the feeling of unbroken line.

For those who qualify, it's a fabulous look.

For the less fortunate of figure, ski wear manufacturers have gone the limit with more variety in color, fabric and style than in any previous year. Matching pants, jackets and head gear are readily available, along with coordinated contrasts.

The racer look is accentuated with rally stripes down the pants and from crown of crash helmet down the middle back of the jacket.

Slim, trim, Mrs. Parker McLean of Oak Park, has the perfect figure for this beige one-piece jumpsuit from Sporthaus Don Thomas. With it, she has chosen a brown and white striped turtle neck shirt. Her beige-toned hat is dyed lynx. Both the coat-jacket and her boots are wolf trimmed.

MAKE OVER PAGES

Mrs. H. Samuel Greenwald of Cedar Hill Drive, Bloomfield Township, practices some positions on the exerciser. Her longer quilted jacket in rich navy nylon, is teamed with powder blue racing pants and blazing red crash helmet. Red fur cuffs on her boots complete the active ski look.

Most jackets are longer, usually belted in one manner or another. Many feature quilting which has come back after a long absence. The quilting is seen as an over-all effect or used more sparingly in back or side panels.

Colors are bright for the most part and lines are trim. Dye-to-match crash helmets, knitted racing caps, and fur toques lead the parade of head gear. Smart new ski goggles replace sun glasses and add a note of whimsy to helmets.

Zip front sweaters with unusual detailing are very attractive, but practical only in warmer climates than we know here. The European influence is seen in new jackets that are cut much shorter and narrower, but according to Marjorie Hafley, women's wear buyer for Sporthaus Don Thomas, they aren't catching on here, "Not enough freedom of movement," she claims.

Jackie Kennedy Onassis started it! We're talking about the newest ski pants look. This is a belted version with the regular tucked-in bottom covered by a flared overpanel.

The feeling is new, unusual and attractive.

En route clothes are become increasingly important as skiers take to the air for distant slopes. Most popular are fur jackets (many long enough to double as coats in route and still be practical on the downhill thrust.) Wolf is being used for these along with rabbit and fox.

Fur trimmed walking boots are natural go-togethers with this kind of ensemble. For easy packing, there are striped and patterned knitted mini shells. Sleeveless and cut with a scoop neck, they slide over tights and turtle neck shirts for an evening of fun after a day's skiing.

In a coming article, we'll discuss what's new in fashion for the sitting-around-the-fireplace bunch.

This 'Spoiled Child' May Need Medical Attention

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Is it normal for a five-year-old to tell adults, "I hate you, drop dead," and so forth?

This child is a neighbor. She curses like a mule skinner and will throw anything she gets her hands on. Yesterday she called me an insulting name for a female dog, so I shook my finger in her face. Then she threw a flower pot at me. Another time this little demon stabbed me in the back with a rake!

She sits in the yard and shouts dirty things at strangers who pass by. Her parents say, "Ignore her. She's just spoiled." Well, I have seen some spoiled children in my day, but I've never seen one like her.

Offering First May Be Very Best Solution

Of The Emily Post Institute

Dear Mrs. Post: Am I unreasonable when I expect my grandchildren — college and high school age — to ask before they make a visit to my cookie jar or refrigerator? In my younger days when I visited my grandmother's I was expected to ask permission. — Mrs. A. H.

Dear Mrs. H.: Nobody, whether a relative or not, has a right to help himself to food or drink in someone else's house without an invitation. Unless you have a certain part of the ice box or a certain cookie jar set aside for them and have told them that they are free to dig in, your grandchildren should always ask your permission.

On the other hand, wouldn't you make more points with them if, when they arrived, you said, "The cookie jar is full" or "The Cokes are in the ice box"? Pound cake, since it has no icing, may be picked up and eaten from the fingers. However, one usually offers a fork when cake is served, for those who prefer to eat it that way.

Could there be something more seriously wrong with her? What is your advice?

CONCERNED

DEAR CONCERNED: It would be a kindness to suggest to the child's parents that they take her to a doctor for some thorough testing to determine the cause of her anti-social behavior. A child who is as hostile as this one appears to be without provocation could be emotionally disturbed. And early treatment could help her.

DEAR ABBY: I recently married a man who was married before. (Our mates died.) I had many lovely household items, and so did he, so we consolidated them. I assumed that everything belonged to US.

Recently I had a dinner party and asked my husband if he minded if I used a cut glass bowl which came from his home. He informed me that I shouldn't, because if it were accidentally broken it would represent a $60 loss.

Abby, I was shocked. I would certainly be as careful with his things as my own. Now I feel as though I don't want to touch any of "his" things. I want to have a good relationship between us, but my having to ask him if I may "use" one of his possessions, and then being turned down, has caused me to wonder. What is your opinion?

HURT

DEAR HURT: There is more involved here than a $60 cut glass bowl, and if your relationship can't stand the strain of a heart-to-heart talk, it's even more fragile. Let him know how you feel and ask to have his side of it.

Perhaps that bowl is reminiscent of something he didn't want to be reminded of. Give him a chance to clear it up.

DEAR ABBY: That woman who complained because of her sagging bosom is just plain stupid, but she's typical of thousands of other women.

Who does a woman think she has to please? Her husband, her mirror, or strangers on the street? I'll bet her husband has never complained about sagging bosom nor is he looking for a more bosomy companion.

When will women learn to shut their mouths and use what they have to please their husbands, instead of trying to tell them what a man wants. No sensible man expects a woman of 50 to look like she did when she was 25. And no woman in her right mind expects her husband to stay slim and have all his hair after he's reached middle-age. We all change. So what?

Many an attractive, mature woman, by flapping her gums about how she's lost her "youth," and can't compete with younger, prettier women, has driven her husband into the arms of another woman. It never occurred to him, but if he hears it long enough, he can be convinced.

Life "Big Drag" for Swinger

By YOLANDA BENAVIDES

There she sat — the least likely companion to share a spot with such a flashy red dragster complete with bold yellow racing stripes.

For that matter, the slight, dark haired lass seemed hardly the type daring enough to actually mount such a fiery steed and roar out the wheel-screaming time of 100 miles per hour.

But that bumper-to-bumper expressway fans, is all part of a day's work for one Della Woods.

Like her fellow glamorous guides at the Detroit Auto Show, now in its last two days at Cobo Hall, Della is a gal whose competitive good looks have yet to be patented.

Dressed in red and white miniskirt, matching red top and black opaque stockings with patent mod heels, she looked more a fashion accessory than the racing master of the Bernella team featured at the week-long show.

The other half of the team, and equally valuable, is brother Bernie, mechanic and partner who is a year younger than his 27-year-old sister.

With the Christmas holidays less than a few cold weeks away, Della and Bernie will stay close to their parents' Squirrel Road home.

Lynda Bird Shops for Robb, Baby

HONG KONG (AP) — Lynda Bird Robb purchased a monogrammed silk tie today for her Marine husband who is expected to join her in time for their first wedding anniversary, Monday after getting a week's leave from the war in Vietnam.

Their rendezvous point remained a secret. It was known that President Johnson's daughter holds a reservation for a Sunday night flight to Bangkok, Thailand, but there were reports Maj. Charles Robb was coming to Hong Kong.

Mrs. Robb also purchased baby clothes for the couple's daughter, Lucinda Debra. She said the child was too young to travel and is staying with her grandparents, President and Mrs. Johnson.

Lynda Byrd is staying at the closely guarded U.S. consul general's home. Secret Service men and Hong Kong police accompanied her on the shopping trip.

The Woods family moved to the then isolated farm area from Detroit when Della was about seven.

"It was really farm country then," she recalls, "and you learn fast enough when you live in the country that should you car break down, you either fix it or walk... So."

At 15, dad's tractor was forsaken for Della's first car — a souped-up 1953 Plymouth (thanks to brother Bernie's mechanical talents.)

With the exchange, Della and fellow Avondale High School chums took to the area's traditional unofficial drag strip — Woodward Avenue.

Competition along more professional tracks found her at the starting line of the 1964 Powder Puff Race at the Motor City Dragway near New Baltimore.

The fire red "Funny Honey," that shares this week's spotlight with Della has been her companion for the past year.

For those with a grease thumb, the "Honey" is a fuel-injected Dodge Charger with a flip-up body that allows the driver easy entrance and exit and gives the mechanic more room to tinker. To stop this fiery demon there's a parachute to break the wind.

Donned in white fireproof suit, massive helmet and goggles, Della makes her way along victory's path, to the disconcert of many a male driver she notes.

"As a matter of fact they usually make it a point to tell you that they don't like being beaten by a woman," she says.

Aside from a grumbling male or two to combat with, what does one do when, while soaring along, the engine just sort of falls off as it did just recently?

"You try not to panic and use everything you've got to keep from rolling," she nonchalantly smiles, as if giving baby's first bath instructions.

"Using everything you've got" requires split second work with one hand on a vibrating steering wheel, the other on the parachute handle to the upper right, and when you see the flames, reach for the fire extinguisher to the upper left.

The girl next door she ain't, Della wholeheartedly admits.

"My mother isn't too surprised; I think she always knew I'd end up doing something a little different," she says.

Chrysler Exec Foresees a Record Car Sale Year

NEW YORK (AP)—Lynn Townsend, Chrysler Corp. chairman, predicted today that new automobile sales in the United States will hit a record 9.6 million this year and that 1969 will be at least equally good.

Townsend made his forecast before the biennial business conference of the Manufacturers Hanover Trust Co., saying that "without question, 1968 will be the greatest year in the history of our business."

The current record of U.S.

sales, including imports, was 9.3 million in 1966.

"Some time in the late 1970's," Townsend continued, "we expect industry to be selling about 13 million cars a year."

OPTIMISTIC FACTORS

"The strong performance of the automobile industry in the first two months of the 1969 model year is only one of many factors that make us optimistic about sales in the month ahead."

"Consumer confidence is still strong and the Survey Research Center at the University of Michigan finds no evidence that people expect to reduce their expenditures for big-ticket durables like cars."

The Chrysler chief, who lives at 5991 Orchard Bend, Bloomfield Township, said the growth of the automobile business in the United States, while large, has been more than matched by growth in other parts of the world in recent years.

He predicted worldwide demand for cars and trucks will rise from a current level of approximately 25 million units a year to about 35 million by the end of the 1970s.

2 Policemen

Are Fined for Failure to Act

DETROIT (UPI)—Two Detroit policemen who witnessed the beatings of Negro teenagers by off-duty officers were fined for failure to act.

Commissioner Johannes Spreen said the two were not charged with failure to act but rather with a full-trial bar hearing.

Patrolman John A. Serocki and Patrolman John E. McDonald, who were each fined $500, the amount of the suspension on Nov. 13 and their reinstatement Dec. 6, were suspended. The fines were levied because the two were not directly involved in the disturbance.

Nine policemen were suspended after the incident between off-duty officers and Negro teenagers, each of whom were charged with disturbing the peace, social functions at the Veterans Memorial Building in November. Two have been ordered to stand trial on criminal assault charges and the remaining five will go before a police trial board next week.

"The failure of these officers, Serocki and McDonald, to take proper action and to make proper reports contributed to an already aggravated situation," Spreen said.
