

Swiss Plane Crashes on Cyprus, Killing 128

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Rescuers collected 128 burned, broken bodies today on the slopes of a hill where a chartered Swiss airliner crashed during a thunderstorm. The airline said two of four survivors died in a hospital, bringing the total dead to 128.

In one of the worst crashes in aviation history, the four-engine turboprop Bristol Britannia airliner crashed near Nicosia during the night as it attempted to land.

There were reports the plane had been hit by lightning.

Most of the dead were German and Swiss tourists returning from a trip to the Far East. The plane's crew included four Britons, all killed.

"This is the most terrible sight I've ever seen," said one of the first persons on the scene. "There are bodies all over the place, some of them in pieces."

The survivors were in the plane's tail section, the only part which remained somewhat intact.

"We kept looking but all we could find apart from those lucky few in the tail were dead people," the rescuer said.

WORKED IN DOWNPOUR

Greek and Cypriot policemen and soldiers, British airmen and U.N. Peace Force members worked in a downpour under spotlights beamed down by hovering U.N. helicopters.

The plane was flying from Bombay, India, to Cairo, Egypt, but was diverted to Nicosia because of bad weather.

The owner, Globair of Switzerland, said it heard from the air control tower in Nicosia that the plane was struck by lightning and burst into flames.

Evidence at the scene indicated the plane hit a bump in the ground, then bounced a few hundred yards into the slope of a hill less than 100 feet high.

SUDDEN FLASH

"I was watching the plane flying low with lights in all its windows," an airport employee said. "Then suddenly there was a flash and I could not see the plane any more."

"I thought it was another flash of lightning but it could have been the plane hitting the ground."

A helicopter took off and directed fire engines and ambulances to the scene.

Rescuers had to toil through muddy fields in the darkness to reach the site, where pieces of the wings and engines lay scattered in a square-mile area around the main sections of the broken fuselage.

BODIES BEING REMOVED — Rescue workers carry the body of a plane crash victim past wreckage of a chartered Swiss airliner that went down near the airport at Nicosia, Cyprus. It was one of the worst crashes in aviation history, leaving 128 dead. Two persons, seated in the plane's tail section, survived the tragedy.

Michigan Bell Tells Story of Rapid Growth in County

The picture of rapid telephone growth in Oakland County was put into sharper light today when the Michigan Bell Telephone Co. detailed construction expenditures it has made and has yet to make before the end of this year.

To meet demand for new telephone service and a rate of telephone usage that has reached landslide proportions, Michigan Bell will have spent more than $51 million in the larger communities of Oakland County by the end of 1967, according to company officials.

Charles B. Woodhead, public relations manager for the Pontiac district of Michigan Bell, said the two-year outlay for the county is well above 10 per cent of the total Michigan Bell will have spent in its entire territory, indicating the "phenomenal proportions of growth in this area."

The company recently revised its statewide construction program for 1967, boosting it to a record $194 million, about $7 million more than was spent in 1966, putting two record years back-to-back to meet demand.

Woodhead said Michigan Bell will spend $27 million in Oakland County this year following a 1966 outlay of $24 million for a two-year total of $51 million.

ACCELERATED GROWTH

In the four most populated communities in the county — Pontiac, Royal Oak, Birmingham and Southfield — Woodhead said Michigan Bell added about 28,000 telephones, an accelerated rate of gain such as the company has never before experienced.

Central office equipment to be added this year to serve Oakland County telephones will require an outlay of more than $8 million.

About $10 million will go for new outside plant facilities, such as exchange and long distance cable, and other equipment, and about $1.4 million will be spent for new buildings and alterations to house some of the added equipment.

Sun Glare Blurs Surveyor Photos of Moon Surface

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Surveyor 3's first glare-blurred pictures hint it may be resting in a lunar crater after a gentle touchdown in an area astronauts someday may explore.

While the three-legged craft kept its moon-scratching claw retracted, spacecraft controllers at Jet Propulsion Laboratory said photographs radioed during 10 hours after the landing yesterday showed less detail than those from Surveyor 1 last June. But they theorized this was due to sunlight reflected into the camera.

A spokesman said the horizon around the vehicle was about five degrees higher than it would be if Surveyor 3 had landed on a flat plain.

Diameter of the crater and the height of its rim were not known.

First operation of a scoop designed to extend from the spacecraft and dig in the lunar soil was scheduled for late tonight or early Friday.

An $825,000 gift in bonds to Oakland University from the late Ormond E. Hunt of General Motors Corp. was expected to be accepted today for OU by the Michigan State University Board of Trustees in East Lansing.

The donor's bequest will cancel the indebtedness on the OU's Hill House, a six-story women's dormitory which was opened for 200 coeds in the fall of 1964.

Hill House was the first of OU's six dormitories, all of which were built through self-liquidating revenue bond issues.

Hunt, a Bloomfield Hills pioneer automotive engineer who died Jan. 3 at age 83, purchased OU dormitory revenue bonds in the amount of $825,000 in 1964. The money was used to finance the construction of Hill House on the OU campus.

In his will, Hunt stipulated that upon his death the bonds would be given to MSU's trustees, the governing body of OU. He had received interest on the bonds.

'GREAT FRIEND'

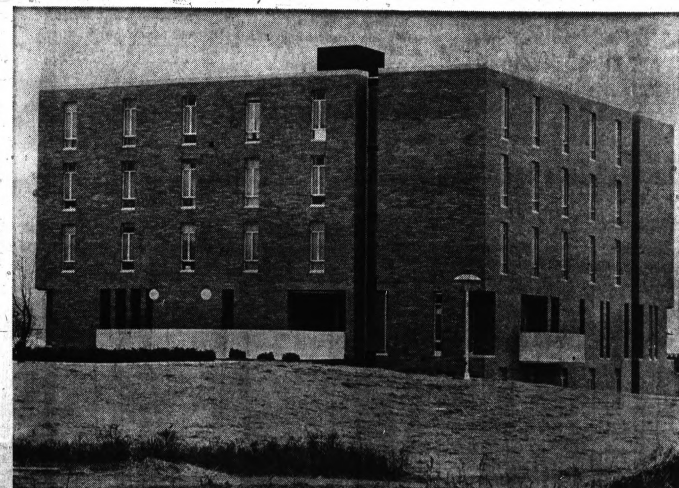

"Ormond Hunt was a great friend of young people in general and Oakland University in particular," Chancellor D. B. Varner said.

"On many occasions he expressed the view that Oakland University provided an opportunity for citizens of this community to join hands in the building of a distinguished educational institution in their own area."

"We are deeply indebted to Ormond Hunt, not only for his generous financial bequest, but for his continuing counsel and support during these formative years."

Hunt, a member of GM's board of directors, was a charter member of Oakland University Foundation's Chancellor's Club Committee until his death.

A leading developer of technical facilities at General Motors, he was executive vice president of GM at the time of his retirement in 1949.

Dog Quarantine Imposed in Area After Skunk Bites

Two bites by skunks found to be rabid have resulted in a temporary dog quarantine in the townships of Shelby and Washington and in the city of Utica.

Dr. Oscar Stryker, Macomb County health officer, said the quarantine would stay in effect "until we feel the situation is under control."

Prompted by a Romeo woman suffering a skunk bite Tuesday, the ban followed an earlier Shelby Township incident in which a dog was reportedly bitten.

Stryker said Mrs. Jessie Schmidt, 47, of 187 W. LaFayette, Romeo, is undergoing a series of 14 to 21 "very painful" shots as an immunity against rabies.

Dems Trying to Seat Powell Admit Facing Uphill Battle

WASHINGTON (AP) — Proponents of seating Adam Clayton Powell admit they'll face an uphill fight if the controversial Harlem Democrat comes to claim the seat to which he was overwhelmingly reelected last week.

Although any new showdown in the three-month-old wrangle will not come before next week at the earliest, 11 liberal Democrats made public Wednesday to behind-the-scenes drive to seat Powell.

But their appeal to fellow House members "to resolve this matter in accord with the spirit, and the letter of the Constitution" was coupled with an admission that few votes have switched since the House voted March 1 to exclude the flamboyant preacher-politician.

"It appears that a majority of the House is prepared to exclude once again," they said.

Head counts made by a number of House leaders, in order to detect changes since March 1, have revealed that most Democrats would vote now as they voted then. This would mean Powell again would be excluded, and another new election would have to be held for his New York 18th District seat.

New York election officials said, meanwhile, that it might be a week or longer before the certification of Powell's election could be on its way to the House clerk.

What happens then has not yet been decided. Powell's attorneys are reported split — some favoring delaying his appearance here until the courts rule finally on his suit to overturn the exclusion, and others wanting Powell to return here to fight for his admission.

Powell remains on his Bahamian fishing retreat of Bimini, keeping largely to himself and weighing possible courses.

PRaises STAND
The statement by the 11 congressmen praised "the vigorous and courageous stand of the House Democratic leadership in favor of honoring the April 11 election" and called on Republican leaders to continue the support they gave last month to a select committee's recommendation that Powell be seated but censured, along with loss of seniority and withholding of $40,000 of his future House salary.

SEATO Backs U.S. Viet Stand
WASHINGTON (AP) — The SEATO Foreign Ministers Council today supported the U.S. refusal to end the bombing of North Vietnam unless there is also a scaling down of military action by the Communist side in the Vietnamese war.

A communique issued by the council, concluding its 12th annual meeting, declared that "reciprocity is an essential element of any acceptable proposal for reduction in the fighting."

The seven-nation group — making up SEATO — the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization — France boycotted the conference — also issued a new warning against Communist dangers in the general area of Southeast Asia.

"Communist aggression, both overt and by subversion, infiltration and terrorism, accompanied by vicious propaganda, remains a major threat to the peace and security of the area."

Fire at Home Does $12,300 in Damage
Fire struck a Waterford Township home yesterday, causing an estimated $12,300 damage.

Using four pieces of equipment to battle the blaze at the J. W. Ford house, 2115 Watkins Lane, township firemen had the fire under control in about one-half hour.

However, they remained at the scene from 12:50 to 2:18 p. m.

Damage to the $13,000 one-story home was listed at $7,500. The contents, valued at $4,800, were destroyed, firemen said.

Nobody was at home at the outset of the fire. None of the fire fighters were injured.

Firemen believe the blaze may have started in or near a hi-fi set in the living room.

A neighbor first noticed the fire and promptly summoned the fire department.

U.S., British in Hassle on Sale to China
LONDON (AP) — The United States and Britain were reported in dispute today over sale to Red China of two British computers worth $14 million.

The Americans have complained they see the sale as a breach of the interallied system for preventing goods with a military potential reaching Communist countries.

British Foreign Office and Board of Trade officials, however, defend the transaction on the ground the computers have only a civilian value for the Chinese.

The two computers, manufactured by International Computers and Tabulators, already have been supplied.

Informants said the U.S. government, through its embassy in London, had long exchanges with the British in an attempt to block the sale. These followed successful American pressure last year which prevented export of a computer built by English Electric to a Chinese scientific research center in Peking.

The American argument on that occasion was that the English Electric computer, bigger and more advanced than the ICT machines, could have been used to speed Chinese development of an H-bomb.

Industrial Unit Is Top Fund Raiser in Drive

Frederick J. Poole, general chairman of the 1967 Pontiac Area United Fund campaign, today announced the appointment of Theodore B. Bloom as GM industrial chairman of the largest fund-raising division of the campaign.

Bloom, director of personnel, Pontiac Motor Division, since 1959, was also chairman of the GM campaign in 1962.

The Industrial Division includes employee solicitation of Pontiac Motor and General Motors Truck and Coach divisions, Fisher Body plant and Buick warehouse.

The combined total of employee and GM corporate gift last year reached $702,483 of the $1,042,107 raised during the drive.

The annual fund-raising effort which provides for operating expenses of the 55 agency affiliates is scheduled to begin in October and includes youth, family, child care, as well as health and research services.

It is estimated that in addition to the 5,000 volunteers working on the drive each year, an additional 4,000 GM employees assist with in-plant solicitation efforts.

In addition to campaign work, Bloom is a member of PAUP Planning Committee and served as chairman of the recent subcommittee on job classification and salary plan, a director of the United and supported Michigan Cancer Foundation and Urban League of Pontiac.

He is a director and past president of the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce, executive committee member of the Pontiac Committee on Alcoholism and 1963 chairman of the Oakland County United Negro College Fund.

Bloom, who has been associated with GM since 1942, is a native of Missouri and a graduate of the University of Missouri.

Naming of Babies Simple as A-B--Z

By JOE MULLEN

What's in a name? The answer is "not very much" as far as a new mother at Botsford General Hospital in Farmington Township is concerned because she would like to give her first born child 26 names, one for every letter of the alphabet.

In relation to the birth weight of the boy born to Mrs. William (Carolyn) Ryan of Dearborn Heights, the full alphabet of names would be five per pound.

The little 5-pound 2-ounce Ryan baby was born Sunday and his 26 names ranging from Abraham to Zachariah already were determined by his mother.

But a problem exists. The Oakland County clerk's office advised Mrs. Ryan that a maximum of three names is allowed on the birth registration.

She tentatively has settled on Timothy William Hugh but plans to see her attorney tomorrow when she arrives home from the hospital to find out what can be done to officially use all 26 names.

"I do a great deal of reading and just love all people," Mrs. Ryan explained. "This is why I am familiar with so many names and want to use them all."

An honor graduate of Southwestern High School in Detroit, Mrs. Ryan worked as a bookkeeper prior to her first visit to the hospital for maternity.

BIBLICAL SOURCE
Most of the boy's names selected have a biblical source, she said and the girl's name, ranging from Arya to Zinnia relate mainly to flowers. "I love gardening, too," Mrs. Ryan explained.

The 25-year-old mother would like to have four children, which would mean 104 names if her lawyer is successful in carrying out her wishes.

Editor Panel Cites Trial Data Setbacks

WASHINGTON (AP) — The cause of freedom of information lost ground in the past year, a committee of the American Society of Newspaper Editors reported today.

An advance was made on "the traditional battlefield against bureaucrats," said ASNE's Freedom of Information Committee, but the gain was more than offset by losses in free press-fair trial controversy.

The setbacks, described in a report addressed to the more than 500 newspaper editors opening ASNE's annual meeting today, were summarized in these terms by the committee headed by J. Edward Murray, managing editor of the Arizona Republic, Phoenix:

"These losses resulted from actions by the Supreme Court and the American Bar Association which, intentionally or not, scared a lot of policemen, prosecutors, defense counsel and especially judges into suppressing legitimate news of the criminal process."

PRETRIAL PUBLICITY

One of the "major developments," said the committee, was the Supreme Court's ruling that Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard had been denied a fair trial because of prejudicial pretrial publicity. In a retrial, Sheppard won acquittal.

The other was the issuance of the report of the American Bar Association's Committee on Fair Trial and Free Press. The report recommends blocking newspaper access to some criminal case news and enforcing the restraints with the threat of contempt of court.

The editors' convention will be addressed, before its adjournment Saturday night, by Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York, and Sens. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., and Mark O. Hatfield, R-Ore.

Murray's committee offered these further comments on the past year's contacts between press and government:

"President Johnson continues to hurt his image and his credibility by consistently trying to make the news sound or seem better than it is."

SOMETHING ELSE

"The war has escalated to the accompaniment of an almost unbroken succession of pronouncements that it was going in the opposite direction, or at least that something else was happening."

"Press relations (with the National Aeronautics and Space Agency) were generally satisfactory until the Jan. 27 Apollo tragedy in which three astronauts lost their lives."

NASA's information channels were not equal to the Apollo emergency, the report said. No official word came until one hour and 30 minutes after the fire started, and "although the agency knew within five minutes, it took two hours to learn that all three astronauts were dead.

'MISLEADING, INACCURATE'

"NASA information not only was late and sparse, but some of it was deliberately misleading, some of it inaccurate."

"NASA said all three astronauts died in their couches, that all three apparently died instantaneously, and that there had been no communication at the time from the spacecraft — all false."

The efforts of both press and bar to find cooperative agreements on the free press-fair trial issue, said the ASNE committee, will suffer if the bar association's committee report is permitted to become a final ABA position.

"Our own committee believes there are reasons to hope that this may not happen," the ASNE group said. It explained that the bar committee's chairman, Justice Paul C. Reardon, has called the report tentative and has given assurances that it intends neither direct controls for news suppression nor any increased use of the contempt power.

MUZZLES PRESS

But the ASNE report said members of the society had called on Justice Reardon and told him: "What is actually happening is that law enforcement officials, in case after case across the country, are withholding police and court news so that the press, and therefore the public can't find out what's happening."

"However politely the bar position is presented, we insisted, it adds up to muzzling the press by putting prior restraints on news sources and enforcing them with the threat of contempt."

The ASNE committee said some of its members favored a "hard-line" position on the issue, but the majority believed that further effort should be made to avoid "nationwide guerrilla warfare" between press and bar.

4-WAY COURSE

The committee recommended this four-way "middle course":

"1. Increased contacts between press and bar at the local level to improve understanding on both sides and to evolve practical working agreements which minimize the problem."

"2. Continued efforts by ASNE, in cooperation with other professional media groups, to modify the ABA proposals."

"3. A vigorous educational campaign by editors to take the case for the press to the public."

"4. Specific, all-out opposition by individual newspapers to any effort to restrict the responsible editor's prerogative to print what he thinks the public needs to know about law enforcement."

Battery Seen for Vehicles by Early '70

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — An executive of General Dynamics said yesterday an electro-chemical battery to run urban or commuter-type private autos.

Dr. Frederic De Hoffmann, vice president of General Dynamics and president of its General Atomic Division, said the zinc-air battery will be useful first on stop-and-go delivery vans and buses. He figures a potential range of 100 miles at a speed of 50 miles per hour.

Soon thereafter, he said, it is hoped to use the light-weight battery to run urban or commuter-type private autos.

And, says De Hoffmann, the experimental work on control fusion has reached the point where it is hoped that the fusing of nuclei of light elements, such as hydrogen, and the release of nuclear energy can be used for general electricity.

Dr. Hoffmann told the Edison Electric Institute that if and when this goal is attained, the world will have an abundant and almost inexhaustible source of fuel in the heavy hydrogen (deuterium) of the oceans and rivers.

100 MILES PER HOUR

M. F. Kent, vice president and general manager of the electric utility sales division of General Electric Co., said "soon we hope to have high-speed electrically powered passenger trains speeding along the Washington-New York - Boston corridor at 160 miles an hour."

On nuclear energy utilization, Kent said, five years ago one pellet of uranium fuel equalled one ton of fossil fuel, but now it produces the energy of two tons of coal, and breeder reactors eventually are expected to extract the energy equivalent of 50 tons of coal from the material in one pellet of nuclear fuel.

Teachers Vote to Keep DFT

DETROIT (AP)—The Detroit Federation of Teachers retained representation of the city's 10,000 teachers Wednesday by a 2 to 1 vote in an election called by the rival Detroit Education Association.

The federation, a labor union affiliated with the AFL-CIO, defeated the education association 6,410-3,708. The education association is affiliated with the National Education Association and the Michigan Education Association.

Federation president Mary Ellen Riordan called the victory "a mandate to continue our forward reaching program."

She said the union will resume contract negotiations with Detroit Public School Officials Thursday morning. The contract expires July 1.

The federation, which has represented Detroit's teachers for the last three years, had just begun negotiations March 17 when the DEA called for the referendum. Contract talks have been suspended ever since.

Mrs. Riordan said salary increases and reduction of class sizes are the most important goals for the union.

The federation is seeking salary hikes of $1,700 across the board. She said the average class size is 35.

Psychiatrists, Critics View Speck's Art

CHICAGO (AP) — The paintings of Richard Speck, created in prison with tips from a convicted bank robber, received their first public display amid a burst of comment from art critics and psychiatrists.

At the same time another psychiatrist, who interviewed Speck two dozen times before Speck went on trial for the murder of eight nurses, was fired from his position at Cook County Jail.

The psychiatrist, Dr. Marvin C. Ziporyn, said he had acted "within the ethics of my profession" in commenting on published excerpts of his reports on Speck.

The paintings, published Wednesday in Chicago newspapers, range from idyllic pastoral scenes to a sketch of a rearing white horse poised to stamp on a coiled rattlesnake.

GM Previews Mass Transit Plan

With modern mass transportation becoming one of the critical needs of metropolitan areas the world over, the concept presented by GMC Truck & Coach General Manager MARTIN J. CASERIO at the Second International Conference on Urban Transportation reflects both innovation and practicality.

CASERIO

Tailored to a specific Milwaukee area, General Motors' "Metro-Mode" operation would combine the flexibility of conventional pickup and delivery of passengers with a seven-mile, maximum-speed exclusive bus expressway linking the city's suburbs with its downtown center.

Elaborating on the proposed system, Caserio pointed out its enormous savings compared with other mass transit proposals, since the restricted bus road would require little more than grading and blacktopping, and construction of stations at expressway intersections.

"As a bonus," he added, "the busway would also be available for police cars, ambulances and other emergency vehicles, increasing its value to the community."

Since General Motors, the world's largest corporation, is motivated by sound economic realism free of the visionary impracticality so often found in revolutionary designs the merit of its developments speak for themselves.

The transit concept exhibited in Pittsburgh is the outgrowth of long and unified studies by the Corporation's experts in the fields of science, economics and engineering. There is reason to believe that the fruits of their research will find practical application in alleviating the traffic strangulation now threatening the life of the Nation's centers of population.

Extol American Ideals for Nation's Youth

Temperance—in the broad sense of the word—is a virtue more easily acquired in middle or old age than in youth. When the flesh grows weaker than the spirit, moderation and self-control come naturally.

Young people, on the other hand, are not supposed to be temperate; they are expected to be full of "the fiery vehemence of youth," as Sir Walter Scott put it, and possess "the will to do, the soul to dare."

President Johnson takes a slightly different view. He has proclaimed a Youth Temperance Education Week beginning Sunday. Nowadays, the President said in his proclamation, "false sophistication" makes some people refrain from advocating "the simple virtues of character that are the mainstays of any great nation—duty, sacrifice, fidelity, sound minds in healthy bodies, sincerity of the home, purity of ideals and love of country."

Such simple virtues seem out of favor among large numbers of high school and college-age youth, who consider themselves "alienated."

Resentful of authority, these young people have turned against the "establishment" and the "power structure" and elected to drop out of "the rat race."

KENNETH KENISTON of the Yale Medical School's department of psychiatry has written that alienation today "characteristically takes the form of rebellion without a program, of refusal of what is, without a vision of what should be."

Unfortunately, the behavior of the malcontents seems so deeply rooted in complexity as to resist adjustment to normal social standards.

Students Dress Attitude Holds Nostalgia for Prexy

At least one college prexy is sympathetic to student unrest over dress.

Harold Hughes, president of Grossmont Junior College in El Cajon, Calif., whose students are protesting regulations governing the kind of clothes they may wear, once led a similar revolt at Pacific University in Oregon back in 1927.

Today, when anyone who wears socks to class is considered hopelessly square, the demand of Hughes' generation seems quaint—permission for male students to attend classes without wearing ties.

LBJ Talks Filled With Main Points

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON — President Johnson has a habit of throwing in some different things into one speech, like packing a shopping bag, his main points some times get lost in the public mind.

While he has made a number of separate statements and speeches on the war in Vietnam, with varying effectiveness, at no time has he been able to make the war critics back up.

It's doubtful some of them would back up, no matter what he said.

His administration has harped on the American determination to see that the people of South Vietnam remain free to choose their own government in a democratic way.

This gets hoisted at, since after 13 years of direct U.S. help to South Vietnam, the people there haven't yet been able or allowed to choose the government they want through broad elections, although they are moving in that direction.

UNNOTICED THEME

But one of the steady, although perhaps often unnoticed, themes in the speeches of Johnson himself is this country's philosophy behind its decision to stop Communist aggression and expansion.

The philosophy is simply stated: to prevent the Reds from taking over all South-east Asia. This can be called a selfish American reason, and to a degree it is.

This country knows it couldn't survive in a world controlled by communism.

Another part of the reasoning is that if the effort isn't made to stop Red aggression wherever it occurs, then there is nothing to stop it anywhere.

In his speech to the Tennessee Legislature March 15, Johnson made the point: "We were prepared to stay the course in Vietnam, we could help to lay the cornerstone for a diverse and independent Asia, full of promise and resolute in the cause of peaceful economic development for her long-suffering people."

'CHOICE CLEAR'

And he added: "If we faltered, the forces of chaos would sweep victory and decades of strife and aggression would stretch endlessly before us. The choice was clear. We would stay the course. And we shall stay the course."

But this reasoning seems to get blurred in the sound of critical thunderclaps — or blessings depending on the vein — booming across the country because of the American involvement.

'Relax, Honey, I'll Dream Up Something!'

Vietnam War Is at Crossroads

WASHINGTON — The Vietnam War is heading toward a climax that could lead either to an early armistice or an intensification of the conflict.

Although the North Vietnamese government has rejected a Canadian proposal based on Premier Ky's plan that a buffer zone be established as a preliminary to peace talks, the United States has given its support to the idea.

Washington has further suggested that the Communist troops and the South Vietnamese forces, respectively, withdraw 10 miles from either side of the demilitarized zone so that peace negotiations can be conducted promptly.

The negative attitude of the Hanoi government could be motivated by an attempt to get a better deal or possibly to elicit some kind of statement about the future bombing policy of the American military forces.

The Canadian plan calls for international inspection as a safeguard.

The discussion comes at an appropriate moment because the North Vietnamese have placed two or three divisions in battle positions along or in the demilitarized zone and have mobilized other divisions to the west in Laos. This would seem to indicate that a major attack had been planned.

Secretary Rusk last Sunday referred to the fact that there are several approaches to the problem which involve efforts by U. Thant, secretary general of the United Nations, as well as by the Canadian government to move the negotiations forward toward an armistice.

When Rusk was asked whether the United States would stop the bombing if given an assurance by Hanoi that there would be peace talks, he answered: "Well, I think we need to know, for example, what those three divisions that are poised in the demilitarized zone are going to do if we stop the bombing. Are they going to attack our Marines that are six miles away?"

Secretary Rusk plainly reflected a confidence that the military situation, on the whole, is satisfactory from the viewpoint of South Vietnam.

Within the next few days it will be revealed whether North Vietnam will have second thoughts about some kind of pullback from the demilitarized zone. If it does, the way will be open to a cessation of bombing as well as a cease-fire agreement.

Subsequent negotiations might be prolonged indefinitely, just as they were in Korea, but the immediate result would be a halt of both the bombing and the fighting on the ground.

Certainly there are indications that some decisive steps are in the offing.

Bob Considine Says:

Protest Over Execution Is Only the Beginning

SAN FRANCISCO — Sixty more men are caged in the death house at San Quentin swallowing either the gas chamber, the stroke of Gov. Reagan's clement pen, or California's sickened renunciation of capital punishment.

The execution last week of a murderer named Aaron Mitchell brought to the prison gates a weeping and enraged mob whose membership ranged the spectrum of protest all the way from the clergy to the shaggiest kook from the nearest Hippieville.

The bell in an Episcopal spire tolled farewell to the dying man, whose screams were heard outside the walls. The TV cameras panned in tight for more shades of the man's poor mother, dissolved in tears and swash with protestations that her son deserved to live.

All those opposed to both capital punishment and the actor who is taking a crash course in how to play governor, after so many years of supporting roles, duly noted that, during the horrendous happening at San Quentin, Reagan was hammering it up on the mound and throwing out the first ball of the California Angels baseball season.

If Mitchell's death broke a logjam which is traced to the legislation and indecision of former Gov. Pat Brown, California is in for a kind of anarchy.

NOT LARGE ENOUGH

If the death march of the remaining 60 is now launched, the area around San Quentin will not be large enough to hold the protesters. They will converge on that place from all points of the U.S. and probably from abroad.

Whenever a Negro dies the protests will take on a special fervor, for civil rights will be blended with legalized life-taking until it will be difficult — particularly when Martin Luther King addresses the assembly — to distinguish where one begins and the other ends.

Reagan's role as governor of a great and thriving state is as improbable as any he ever played on the Late Late Show. But he is not a man who will sit in Sacramento and see his state compared to Belsen or Dachau.

As one of the best California newspapermen, Dick Nolan, points out in Sunday's San Francisco Examiner & Chronicle, the people must either vote capital punishment off the books or share the conscience born of legalistic slaughter.

In the meantime, Reagan probably will not interfere with the verdicts of the courts and the decisions of the condemned's peers.

It could come down to a grisly numbers game. How many before the deluge? How much is enough? And a feverish field day for those honestly or psychotically opposed to a state penalty and those who fear that the lifting of the death penalty will serve only to encourage more and more murder.

Favors Reductions in Governing Spending

I am opposed to a state income tax. Two and one-half per cent is proposed now, how long will it stay at that level? Senator Huber and Representative Sharpe have stated the proposed tax will not be adequate for more than two years.

How much will it cost to collect this tax? Rather than increasing taxes and the size of government, why not reduce government spending? We need more individual responsibility and less government — not more taxes.

Every year there are many complaints of dogs running loose, the warden is harassed by phone calls and at times spends hours chasing a lone dog. Why not require dog owners to sign an affidavit to the effect that they have a suitable run for their dog before a license is issued. The warden can systematically check each licensed residence and if the run is not in evidence issue a violation or a summons, thus putting the dog problem in a sensible and easily enforceable position.

I join the line of protesters, minus long hair, beard and weird garments. I protest paying taxes to support schools as lounging places for half-wits who are wasting time "searching for their true selves," and who wish to indulge themselves in their whims and fancies at someone else's expense.

Schools and colleges are a privilege that costs the taxpayer dearly, and for the ones who really want an education it is worth the price. The ones who use educational facilities as a sounding board for their own egos and who think they are above all law of decency should pass through college the quick way — in the front door and out the back. Then we could afford to educate the ones who really want to learn.

Steaks May Be Rare on Flights to Moon

CHICAGO (AP) — The thick, juicy steaks featured on luxury jet plane flights might be missing, or at least much smaller, on future passenger space flights to the moon or planets.

Researchers in the University of California's department of nutritional sciences, Berkeley, have determined that a person placed in a simulated weightless state excretes more calcium from his body on a protein diet than on a carbohydrate diet.

"We found that the amount of calcium excreted in the urine varies with the amount of protein ingested," Dr. Sheldon Margen said today in an interview at the annual meeting of the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology. "When there was no protein in the diet the calcium excretion decreased."

Margen said the reason has not been determined in the California studies, and he emphasized there is no evidence that the calcium excreted represented bone loss.

"It could be due to a kidney function alteration," he said. "When the excretion of calcium declines, the excretion of potassium rises."

A higher excretion of calcium also has been found in the urine of some astronauts on space flights. Medical studies have not determined whether this represented loss of body bone nor has the cause been pinpointed. The astronauts' diets contained both protein and carbohydrates.

Open Housing March Halted

Louisville Police Jail Protesters, Hecklers

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Police quashed a demonstration for an open housing ordinance by hauling every one of about 100 marchers to jail Wednesday night.

The arrests apparently removed doubts about the city's action on its temporary ban against night marches by the demonstrators. Earlier Wednesday, a federal judge rejected a petition on behalf of the demonstrators to remove the case from state to U.S. District Court.

Police twice fired tear gas pellets into a crowd of more than 700 hecklers, at times forcing them two blocks away from demonstrators.

A police captain said the hecklers appeared angrier than during other of the almost nightly demonstrations. Police arrested a total of 113 persons, including some hecklers for throwing rocks, scuffling with police or failing to obey orders to move out.

DRAG SINGERS
Moments after marchers arrived in the south end, Police Chief William Bindner helped drag away the first of the right advocates who sat down to sing freedom songs.

Some of the Negroes cried "police brutality!" as officers put them into patrol wagons and took them to jail. Several demonstrators were scraped and bruised.

The Rev. A. D. Williams King said he and others on the committee on open housing were considering a drive-in. This tactic, he said, involved having about 200 autos drive through busy intersections at a maximum speed of 10 miles an hour. King is a brother of Dr. Martin Luther King.

The Rev. Mr. King is free on bond after being charged with disorderly conduct in a previous march. He was not among the marchers Wednesday night as some of the leaders said they would bow out to "confuse police who are singling us out for arrest."

One newsman and a city detective were hit by rocks thrown by hecklers Wednesday night.

Parental Liability Ceiling Raised by State Senate

LANSEING (AP) — Parents would be liable for up to $1,500 in damages for malicious destruction of property or bodily injury caused by their minor children, under a bill passed by the Senate Wednesday.

The bill, sponsored by Sen. James Fleming, R-Jackson, would boost the ceiling for such damages recoverable in a civil action from the current maximum of $500.

The measure passed the Senate 31-3 and was sent to the House despite protests from a few senators that the ceiling was too high, and imposed an unfair liability on parents.

Sen. Roger Craig, D-Deerborn, objected that parents should not be held liable financially for actions of their children over which the parents had no control.

'WITHOUT FAULT'
Sen. Basil Brown, D-Highland Park, protested that the bill made parents "liable without fault."

The Senate also passed and sent to the House a bill which would require the State Highway Department to furnish certification of relocation of persons displaced by highway construction if they relocated outside boundaries of a local governmental agency.

The law now requires the governing body of a city or village involved to certify in writing that occupants of dwellings acquired for highways are relocated in suitable housing or offered such housing before the dwellings are ordered torn down.

The certification is made to the Highway Department for submission to the State Administrative Board.

Spacesuit Design a Factor in Work

By Science Service
SUNNYVALE, Calif. — The Lockheed Missiles and Space Co., which has spent four months studying the problems of working on the moon, reports that it takes 3.22 times as long to tighten a bolt while wearing a pressurized spacesuit as it does in shirt sleeves.

Reducing gravity to the moon's one-sixth-normal added still another 26 per cent to the original time.

Lockheed's nine test subjects, all of whom had previous pressurized experience, threaded and tightened hex nuts and wing nuts and operated push-pull connectors while wearing Apollo A4H space suits.

The A4H was replaced in the Apollo program in June 1965. The current operational suit, three models later, has considerably improved shoulder, hip and wrist joints.

Nevertheless, lack of maneuverability is a severe problem.

Dirksen Predicts Redistricting Showdown

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate in "a matter of weeks" will face a showdown on the controversial subject of legislative reapportionment, predicts Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen.

Dirksen told newsmen Wednesday he expects two more states to submit soon petitions calling for a constitutional convention to consider whether states should be allowed to apportion one legislative house on a basis other than population.

That would bring to 34 — the necessary two-thirds required by the Constitution — the number of states petitioning for the convention in the aftermath of the Supreme Court's "one man-

Plan Stirs Fears of Purge of LBJ Foes in Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — The shadow of suspicion that President Johnson might be tempted to try to purge some of his congressional critics in 1968 apparently is bolstering efforts to repeal the Presidential election campaign financing law.

Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., trying to reverse the Senate's 48-42 vote for repeal a week ago, has come up with revisions of the act which permits citizens to check off $1 of their income taxes to be divided between the major parties.

The repealer was added to a tax bill which has been before the Senate nearly three weeks and must go back to the House — which hasn't voted on the campaign finance issue — before it can become law.

One of Long's new proposals would turn over control of the $30 million that could be raised for each party to the presidential nominee or to his agent instead of to the party organization.

OPPONENTS' SUSPICION

Since Johnson can have the 1968 Democratic nomination for the asking, some opponents say privately the President would have the promise of funds available after Sept. 1, 1968, which to influence the earlier nomination of senatorial candidates.

Some critics of Johnson's Vietnam policies fear the President might try, as Franklin D. Roosevelt did in 1938, to purge dissenters in party primaries.

one vote" edict. If required all legislative bodies to follow strict population guidelines for districting.

In a two-hour floor debate, Sen. Joseph D. Tydings, D-Md., said Congress should not consider calling a convention until at least five more states petition.

He warned that such a convention could involve other moves to change the Constitution.

PLEDGES MARCH
But Dirksen pledged "I shall march in here" to demand a convention as soon as two more petitions are received.

A proposal to force reapportionment of state congressional districts moved forward in the House, with the way cleared for floor action on a measure setting district guidelines.

Sent to the floor by the House Rules Committee was a measure that backers said could affect some 297 congressional districts in 22 states.

The bill provides that until 1972, the largest district in population in each state might exceed the smallest district by no more than 30 per cent. After that, the difference might be no more than 10 per cent.

The Senate spent much of its session in a continuing debate over the administration's bill to restore business tax incentives.

The measure — caught in a three-week battle over attempts to use it as the vehicle to repeal the presidential election campaign financing law — had still another extraneous amendment tacked onto it.

Adopted 55 to 19 was a rider by Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., to reduce livestock imports from 900 million pounds to 600 million pounds a year.

Bedsore-Curing Drug Reported

By Science Service

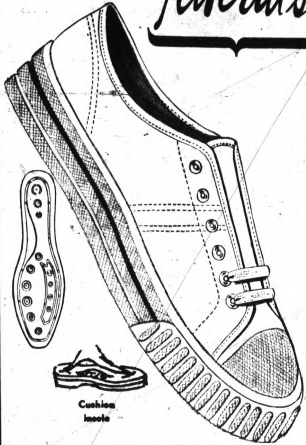

BALTIMORE — An unnamed new drug that cures bedsores is reported by Dr. Malcolm C. Spencer, assistant professor of dermatology at Northwestern University's Medical School.

The antibiotic neomycin is one of the principal ingredients, but there was "significant" improvement in most of the others.

trypsin and chymotrypsin are the main elements in the preparation.

It was used in the form of an ointment and as a lotion on 51 cases of bedsores. Two of every three patients were cured, and there was "significant" improvement in most of the others.

'Manila Pact Should Be Made Public'

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — The American public should be informed of what U.S. foreign policy commitments were made by President Johnson at last year's Manila conference, onetime Republican presidential candidate.

Al Landon said Wednesday, Johnson has indicated that "foreign policy decisions have been made that could prove momentous." Landon told a Washburn University forum, against Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1936.

"We have a right to know what commitments were made at Manila," he said, "and how lasting they will be. The President hasn't talked about it, but it looks as though he intends to build an American umbrella in Southeast Asia that could be there for a long, long time."

the amount Danny found in a jar during a science class hunt in March 1966. He turned the mislabeled cash over to city officials and advised his find as the law requires, but no one was able to claim it.

State High Court Upholds 1-Man Grand Jury System

LANSING (AP) — The Michigan Supreme Court Wednesday upheld the constitutionality of the state's one-man grand jury system—a ruling Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley hailed as "a historic victory for law enforcement in Michigan."

The Supreme Court unanimously rejected an appeal by Colasides who was convicted March 27 for contempt of Wayne County's one-man grand jury, George E. Bowles.

Circuit Judge Charles Kaufmann sentenced Colasides to six months imprisonment for refusing to answer questions put to him by Bowles after he had been granted immunity from prosecution.

The Supreme Court had agreed to release Colasides from Wayne County jail pending a decision on his appeal.

CONVICTION UPHOLD
But the court upheld the conviction, saying, "We find the statute meets all the requirements of the Michigan Constitution of 1963 and the Constitution of the United States."

"The decision represents an up-to-date judicial approval of the legality of the most effective weapon we now have with which to fight corruption and organized crime," said Kelley.

"With care and concern, the court has combed the grand jury statute and found it meets the test of constitutionality."

In his appeal, Colasides contended that Bowles went beyond the scope of his authority when he raised questions about pocket-sized black books seized by a previous grand jury.

LEGAL EXTENSION

But "We conclude that the Bowles grand jury is not an illegal extension of the preceding grand jury," ruled the court in an opinion written by Judges Theodore Souris and Michael O'Hare.

The books, seized at the Grecian Gardens, a Detroit restaurant operated by Colasides, listed names similar to those of Detroit police officers and sums of money, giving rise to allegations of payoffs.

The books had first been seized by Grand Juror Edward Piggins, but Bowles renewed the investigation into their contents when he succeeded Piggins in 1966.

"However deficient the state's one-man grand jury statute may once have been, when measured against now recognized standards of due process, appellant has failed to persuade us that as now written it denies due process," the court continued.

COUNSEL PERMITTED
"A witness called to the presence of the grand jury is entitled to the presence and assistance of counsel. No longer does the statute permit the grand jury to search out criminal conduct generally."

"Instead, the complaints have to be specific to the common intent of the scope of the inquiry."

The court also pointed out that the statute now requires all witnesses to be questioned in the presence of the grand jury. This requirement was to forestall abuses of witnesses by Detroit police officers and sums of money, giving rise to allegations of payoffs.

Colasides had contended that the grand jury's tenure was illegally extended, that grant of immunity was faulty, and that, accordingly, his rights under the 5th Amendment were violated. The amendment guarantees the right to refuse to testify against one's self.

Ousted Priest: Theologians Must Be Free

WASHINGTON (AP) — A young priest-professor whose dismissal from his Catholic University teaching post has sparked faculty and student protests says Catholic theologians must be free to pursue religious truths.

"The issues in this dismissal are greater than any one man," said the Rev. Charles E. Curran. "Both Catholic theology in America and Catholic university education are in question."

LIBERAL WRITINGS

He told a news conference his liberal writings on Catholic moral theology and his liberal attitude toward birth control probably caused his dismissal. He said no charges had been made against him.

Father Curran, 33, picked up support Wednesday as fellow faculty members and students began boycotting classes over the Board of Trustees decision to terminate his teaching contract when it expires Aug. 31.

power, India wants a guarantee from the United States and the Soviet Union that it would be defended in the event of nuclear attack.

This position was outlined to President Johnson Wednesday by J. K. Jha, an emissary of Prime Minister Indira Gandhi of India.

Jha said "pressure has been gathering, and one might say understandably so" among some Indians to have their country become a nuclear power so as not to be helpless against attack by Red China. But this is a view opposed by the Indian government, he said.

India has said that before it signs the proposed international treaty to prevent further proliferation of nuclear weapons there must be a guarantee that the non-nuclear nations will be defended if attacked by a nation that has such weapons.

JOINT TREATY

The treaty is to be submitted eventually to the Geneva disarmament conference. A spokesman for the State Department said Wednesday the United States was hopeful it and the Soviet Union will be able jointly to present a draft of the treaty to the conference when it convenes next month.

Sears Lab Tests Prove Kenmore Detergent
5 Ways Better Than Other Brands Tested

- 1 Better because Kenmore removes dirt more thoroughly! Kenmore has twice as much CMC (Carboxymethyl Cellulose) which suspends dirt in rinse water, so your laundry comes dazzling clean!
- 2 Better because Kenmore Detergent has Soda Ash to attach stubborn grease spots and stains.
- 3 Better because super-concentrated Kenmore lets you use ½ less detergent per wash. An average family gets over 97 washings!
- 4 Better for your wash because it outperformed other brands tested in hard or soft water, and in any water temperature.
- 5 Better for your washer because the extra low suds content allows freer spin, better rinsing, and eliminates suds buildup problems.

Scientist Questions Value of Telescopes on Moon

By Science Service LONDON—Doubt concerning the value of placing optical telescopes on the moon has been cast by Dr. Ira S. Bowen, retired director of Mt. Wilson and Palomar Observatories.

Dr. Bowen's criticism of putting telescopes on the moon runs counter to the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's plans to construct large optical instruments there.

Most earth-based observing programs are now limited by the night sky background, Dr. Bowen told the Royal Astronomical Society meeting here.

Dr. Bowen noted that the zodiacal light in space is about as intense as the night sky glow, which limits the length of earth-based photographic exposures.

Outside the earth's atmosphere, whether in orbit or on the moon, background illumination from zodiacal light is only a factor of two less than night glow.

There will be a gain in image size of the moon, Dr. Bowen said, but it will be difficult to attain because of mirror changes due to temperature fluctuations.

The world record attendance at a basketball game was set in Germany, in 1951, when 75,000 persons turned out to see the exact shape of the 200-inch mirror on Mt. Palomar when the Harlem Globetrotters play in the Olympic Stadium in Berlin.

Cosmotron's End Mourned

By Science Service

MIAMI BEACH — The American Chemical Society held a wake here recently to mourn the death of a machine.

The dear departed was the three-billion-electron-volt particle accelerator — cosmotron — at Brookhaven National Laboratory, Upton, N. Y., cut off in the midst of interesting experiments by an economic decision of the Atomic Energy Commission.

As if to emphasize their grief, the chemists awarded their 1967 prize for nuclear applications in chemistry to Dr. Gerhart Friedlander for work he did with the cosmotron before it was shut down last December.

"It is ironic," he said, "that this area of research should be deemed worthy of an award by the ACS" when the AEC has cut off funds to the facility.

There are many questions that might have been answered by use of the cosmotron, Dr. Friedlander said, including some about the process of nuclear fission, the source of energy of the A-bomb and the nuclear power plant.

Prisoners Get Word: Tend to Knitting!

CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP) — The "Bull Pen," one of the most unusual casinos anywhere, has been bulldozed.

Warden Carl Hocker had the gambling hall — a room off the maximum security yard at the state prison — demolished last week. He said it was a bad influence on inmates.

"It was just like raising a window shade in a dark room," related Hocker, a prison captain at San Quentin in California before taking command of the Nevada Penitentiary less than three months ago.

"The dismal fact is you had women on relief sending money to their husbands to gamble."

ACTIVITIES PROMOTED
Hocker is promoting handicrafts, bridge, chess, athletics, plain hard work and knitting to take up the slack.

Knitting? "It's common in many prisons," Hocker explained. "I wouldn't want to look some of these boys in the face and call them sissies."

Games in the Bull Pen, run by the inmates, ranged from poker to blackjack to craps.

The crap s-to-crocheting switch apparently encountered little resistance.

INMATES PREPARED
"They were prepared for it," Hocker said while admitting a hard-core group of inmates resented the change. He notified the prisoners upon his appointment that he would abolish the casino.

Each inmate who held gambling chips was credited on his prison money account for their value.

Award Given

DETROIT (AP)—George Lee Core, a freshman at Wayne State University, Wednesday became the first recipient of the annual National Foundation Merit Award for Medical Students. Core won the $250 prize for presenting the best paper on a topic related to birth defects.

Stopping to say hello to the chairman of this year's Meadow Brook Music Festival, Mrs. James O. Wright, (left) is Mrs. John H. Ostrander, Loch Leven Lane, a worker in Waterford Township. Others at the speakers' table are Mrs. Francis McMath, Bloomfield Village (center) and Mrs. Edward H. Lerchen, Bloomfield Hills. Committee women from the Detroit Metropolitan area met Wednesday to start this year's ticket drive.

Meadow Brook Music Festival

Women Have the Tickets

Nearly 200 women met Wednesday morning at Oakland University to receive instructions for this year's ticket sale of Meadow Brook Music Festival tickets.

With the season just 10 weeks away, committees all over Detroit Metropolitan area are getting into high gear. Already, 1,000 season tickets have been sold.

Mrs. James O. Wright serves with her husband as general chairman. General area chairmen are Mesdames Richard H. Campbell, Edward H. Lerchen, Francis McMath and Walter F. Skinner.

For the first time, the season which runs from June 29-Aug. 20 will be a full eight weeks. Subscribers may buy season tickets for the entire season or for either four-week series.

Concerts will be given Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday evenings.

Because the management of the festival is determined to keep admission prices as low as possible, $500,000 must be raised elsewhere to finance the season.

The eight-week season ticket costs $22.50 for the pavilion, $12.50 for the lawn; the four-week series tickets are $12.50 and $7. Children will be admitted for half price, up to 12 years.

Pontiac chairman and co-chairman are Mesdames Donald Dawson and Richard C. Poole. Their committee includes Mesdames James G. Aldrich, W. L. Belaney, E. Duane Bigsby, Richard M. Fitzgerald, Ferdinand Gaensbauer, Robert Gash, James W. Gell, and Glenn H. Griffin.

Others in Pontiac are Mesdames George A. Harkless, Thomas Henson, James L. Howlett, Robert C. Irwin, Ted Koella, Victor M. Lindquist, Donald W. Martin, W. E. Neff, Ralph T. Norvell, Irving A. Schlyestone, and Miss Hortense Riddick.

She Prefers Attendants in White

By ELIZABETH POST
Dear Mrs. Post: The niece of a friend of mine is being married in August. She is planning to have all the attendants wear white.

Is this a new custom? I always thought white was reserved for the bride.
—Theresa K.

Dear Theresa: This is no rule against white bridesmaid's dresses, but the bride who chooses white for her attendants is running the risk of having them detract from the effect of her own dress.

If she wishes them to wear white, the dresses might be relieved by a sash or trim of another color. This can make a beautiful wedding, especially if the reception should be outdoors against a background of green.

Dear Mrs. Post: We had a distinguished guest at the dinner table one evening and at one point during the dinner he turned his head and blew his nose, and I mean really blew it.

I maintain if a good healthy blow is necessary, a person should leave the table.

I think it's a disgusting habit and during a meal can be nauseating. —Eve K.

Dear Mrs. K.: I agree with you a hundred per cent. Prolonged or hearty nose-blowing is thoroughly objectionable, especially at the table.

If a light blow or a delicate wipe won't suffice until the meal is over, one should excuse oneself and go to another room to take care of the situation.

WOMEN'S SECTION

Hippy Life Drag to Wife-- Let Him Follow Own Advice

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I know you are not a fashion editor, but maybe you can help me. There is continual friction between me and my husband over the length of my skirts. I will be 50 this year and have four grown children and four grandchildren.

ABBY

I have a nice figure, work in an office and wear my skirts to the middle of my kneecap.

My husband, who is a business executive, says I am too modest and old fashioned, that I should "get with it" and wear my skirts shorter like the fashionable women do.

I think teen-agers look cute with short skirts, but after 40 a woman should have a little more dignity about her.

Should I shorten my skirts to please my husband? Or should I leave them the way they are and get an argument from my husband every week?

"SMITTY" IN TORONTO

DEAR "SMITTY": Tell your husband you'll shorten your skirts if he'll let his hair grow down to his shoulders, wear skin tight trousers, and a turtleneck sweater to his office. Then you can "get with it" together.

DEAR ABBY: I am a high school student. Last weekend my very best girl friend slept over. The day after she left my mother missed about $12 worth of her good cosmetics. I didn't want my mother to think my friend had taken them so I said I had "borrowed" them and left them somewhere.

Now I am being punished, but I would almost rather take the punishment than have my mother think my girl friend was a thief. Abby, I turned the house upside down looking for those cosmetics, and they are just gone!

Should I tell my mother I had nothing to do with it, and it just had to be that girl? Or should I take the punishment and let it go?

BEING BLAMED

DEAR BEING: If you can catch your girl friend with the evidence, do so and give her a chance to return the stolen goods. If you can't, tell your mother that you didn't take her cosmetics and that you lied to protect a friend who may not have deserved it.

Jeff Henry, choreographer and dancer from the National Theatre School in Montreal, and Margaret McKerrrow, director of the Children's Theatre at the University of Michigan, will be headliners at an invitational conference Friday at Oakland University.

Sponsored by the University's new Project for the Advancement of Creativity in Education (P.A.C.E.), Dr. Adeline Hirschfeld, director, announced that leading teachers, administrators, educators and others interested in the use of creative drama in the schools have been invited.

DEMONSTRATION
Miss McKerrrow, official U.S. delegate to the International Children's Conference in Prague last year, will give a demonstration of extemporizing (the acting out of stories and situations to enrich the educational experiences of children) during the morning session.

Official welcome will be extended by Dr. Lowell R. Eklund, dean of the Division of Continuing Education.

MARGARET MCKERROW

The P.A.C.E. project, financed by a federal grant, is a service for creative and sociodramatic supplementary education currently being developed by Oakland University and the Troy School District.

Thirty carefully selected volunteers are now in training under a faculty of 20 experts and will be certified as special substitute teachers upon completion of their course at the University.

At the request of individual teachers, they will function in three selected schools this fall, leading extemporizing activities in the classroom for one hour a week.

If the pilot study proves as successful as planned, the program will be expanded into other interested school systems in Oakland County.

Evaluation studies have shown that youngsters who work this technique of improvised drama show a marked improvement in language skills, speaking, listening, reading motivation and communication.

Dampen Slightly
Buttons on starched collars of men's shirts will be easier to close if the tab of the collar is dampened slightly.

Foot Exercise Improves Ankles

An excellent exercise for improving ankles is to press feet against the far end of the bathtub and then "walk" up the wall, from bottom to rim.

This is easier to do when the tub is filled with warm soothing soapsuds that relax the bather's muscles while exercising.

Unit Adds New Names to Roster

The Xi Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma International Society met Tuesday evening in Haven Hill Lodge for a dinner and initiation of new members.

Committee chairmen reported to the group on their progress.

The publicity and publications committee has not only managed press and radio publicity for the chapter but has completed its fourth year of editing a monthly newsletter, Xilights, which has gained state and national recognition.

The Scholarship Committee has aided in providing for needy students.

Supplying clothing for patients at Pontiac State Hospital is the job of the personal growth and services committee.

Mrs. Ronald Chandler was in charge of making the arrangements for the dinner, assisted by Mrs. Alger Conner, Mrs. William Cheal, Mrs. Walter Greenacre, Mildred Ginnell, Florence Gullstrand and Vera Mae Adams.

The gay pattern stitched upon the fabric in her lap reflects the twinkling appearance of Carolyn Hall (Mrs. C. A.) of Beverly Hills. Although she is known primarily as a painter, Mrs. Hall's complementary talents in stitchery will be displayed at a one-man show at America House-Michigan, on East Maple in Birmingham from Friday through May 5.

Workshop Program Explores Entertaining

Perhaps Just Cold, Hard Truth Can Win

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

She was not quite 16. So when she was arrested along with the boy she had run off with in a stolen car, her case was heard by a Children's Court judge.

At least it was scheduled to be heard that day he permitted me to share his bench with him. But it was not heard. It had to be postponed because she collapsed into a dead faint when it was called.

And somehow you knew it was going to happen. You knew it, because as she took her first step into the courtroom beside the custodian, all the defiance, all the resistance went out of her face. And you knew that you, the judge, the chief probation officer, the rows of empty seats in front of her were all losing their outlines for her, dissolving, dissolving into nothing.

You knew this to be absolutely true in that instant before she found her compassionate darkness and slumped to the courtroom floor.

Was it fear of punishment that made consciousness unbearable? If you think so, you are wrong. If you think so, and are the parent of a teen-aged child, you just may be tragically wrong.

For what struck her down was neither confrontation with punishment nor fear of it. What smashed her to the courtroom floor was realization, shock at the realization that it had been her own choices which had brought her to that place.

I am writing this column for several parents who have asked me how to put controls on the reckless behavior of their teen-aged children.

We can't control it. Not any more can we control it. For freedom is all now for reasons about which we can do nothing and responsibility for its consequences a disagreeable subject nobody mentions. And as this is a social fact, there's no out for us parents of reckless teen-aged children but the cruel truth:

Time and so-called progress have made them responsible for their own safety before they are equipped to take it.

So I see nothing to do but try to make this premature responsibility as clear to them as God gives it to us to make it. I see no answer to the teen-aged son who insists on speeding his car but, "All right. Take your own life over now. Your safety is up to you."

I see no response to the teen-aged daughter who insists on risking her sexual safety but, "O. K. But I can have nothing to do with what you are doing. You are all alone in what you are doing — and God help us, that's how it has become."

Sometimes the truth can control them.

Lady Coach Read Books to Prepare

MENOMONEE FALLS, Wis. (AP) — Although she herself has never played basketball, Miss Jane Bender has for the past nine years been coach for seventh and eighth grade boys' basketball teams in the local recreation department league.

A guidance counselor at Pilgrim Park Junior High School, she started her coaching career in 1957 when the boys in the sixth grade class she taught formed a team. She became interested in the game, began to learn about it and soon was coaching the boys. She read books on basketball rules and strategy and began going to other basketball games.

Miss Bender is a registered Wisconsin Interscholastic Athletic Association official, which means she could work as a referee. "Nobody knows the fenseness that builds up before and during a game," she says. "Unless you have sat on a bench, you can't appreciate what coaches go through. You live every moment with those boys, and every mistake they make, you make. I don't see why all coaches don't end up with ulcers."

Coordinated covers for waste baskets, lamp shades and other bathroom or bedroom accessories are obtained easily and inexpensively by surfacing them with new self-adhering material by Magic-Cover. Vinyl film surface by Goodyear is durable and easy to keep clean with a damp cloth or mild soap and water. Material is 18" wide and has a suggested retail price of 98 cents a yard.

Pregnancy No Excuse for Pardon

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa (AP) — "Pregnancy cannot be allowed to become a sanctuary for illegal activities," a judge has ruled in turning down a request by a woman prisoner for a writ of habeas corpus to win freedom for her unborn child.

Mrs. Richard Schnor, 26, Cedar Rapids, jailed here since March 15 for parole violation and passing a false check, contended she was pregnant and that authorities were holding her unborn child illegally.

The prosecution retorted it was Mrs. Schnor — not the sheriff — who was holding the child and they would gladly release the infant if Mrs. Schnor would produce it.

District Judge William R. Eads said Monday if he granted the writ, it would set a precedent that could result in freedom for major female criminals if they were pregnant.

Mrs. Schnor, mother of three children, was ordered by the judge to finish her term for forgery in the Iowa Women's Reformatory.

Why Grow Old?
By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Are you going to let it happen again? Are you going to let summer slip up on you before those five or 10 pounds overweight you may have slip off of you?

All you have to do in order to put the pressure on is to think of the swim suits and all lightweight clothes and less restraining undergarments you will want to wear and look attractive.

I will tell you a secret. I am not going to let it happen to me! I gain weight very easily and have eight pounds to lose. I have written myself a letter and am now on my own Nine Day Reducing Diet.

It's pretty sad when one has to follow one's own advice!

Even if you have much more than five to 10 pounds to lose, this short diet will give you an encouraging start on a longer reducing trek. Women who are very much overweight are especially uncomfortable in hot weather.

The heart has to work harder to pump the blood through the blood vessels in those extra pounds. Then there are all sorts of summer discomforts such as prickly heat and chafing which make the overweight woman miserable. Here is your medicine for tomorrow, Friday:

BREAKFAST
One egg

Fresh fruit saladTwo tablespoons cottage cheese
One glass skimmed milk
One thin dry slice of whole wheat toastDINNER
Baked fish, medium portion
One-half cup cabbage, lightly cooked
One-half cup spinach or greens
One glass skimmed milk
One orange

Each morning measure and put aside two teaspoons of butter or margarine to use as you wish in seasoning vegetables or on bread and egg.

If you missed the first part of the Nine Day Diet or would like to have it in booklet form, send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it. Address to Josephine Lowman in care of The Pontiac Press.

Beauty Bath Is Questionable

Calpurnia, Caesar's wife was forbidden by her husband to use the famous Roman baths. So, on special occasions in her private bath at home she indulged in a tub of exotic fruit juices, which she believed would give her skin a delicate pink glow, a special scent and softness.

Her bath recipe: 20 pounds of crushed strawberries plus two pounds of crushed raspberries.

Even Calpurnia's extravagances cannot compare with today's beauty recipe of hot running water and antibacterial soap which contains hexachlorophene to provide all-day freshness and skin protection. Strawberries are better for eating than bathing anyway.

This evening at 7:30 p.m. in LeBaron School the Pontiac Association for Childhood Education will present its annual historical program.

Singing, dancing, skits and literature portraying the events in Michigan's history will be featured, using the fourth grade social studies curriculum as a base.

The LeBaron choir, directed by Rosamond Haerle, will present a medley of Michigan songs.

Francis Bibbs and Phyllis Steinbart will present the Harrington fourth graders, while the Whittier boys and girls will be directed by Iris Wilson.

Others assisting the program will be Mrs. Terry

Cantrell, Gay McDonald, Mrs. Ralph Gardner, Mrs. Robert Peterson, Mrs. David Rooks and Kenneth Kuester.

Dust Will Be Flammable

Every housewife knows that gasoline and other flammable liquids can explode and burn violently.

But few recognize the explosive properties of organic dusts such as flour, vacuum cleaner sweepings, or sawdust. Don't throw flour on a kitchen grease fire.

Don't toss dust sweepings on an open fire. Instead, wrap and place in a trash burner. Ignite when the wind won't blow the dust.

Winter-Dried Skin Refresher

Besides adding a decorative touch to the dressing table with a new beauty jar, the makers of petroleum jelly have also developed a zingy new technique for the plumper moisturizing of winter-parched complexions.

That old standby in the medicine chest—petroleum jelly—is a complexion aid. Put your skin in perfect shape after a hard winter. Model demonstrates, sporting a new short haircut by Vidal Sassoon.

- First off, warm up a teaspoon of petroleum jelly. An egg poacher is great for this. Or, rest a teaspoon of its on a bowl of very hot water.
- Warm up a towel, too.
- Remove makeup while petroleum jelly warms.
- Then apply the comfortably warm petroleum jelly to the face and throat. Massage it in.
- Bury your face in a hot towel.
- Relax a few minutes.
- Then, remove the towel and tissue off the excess petroleum jelly. Enough lubricant will remain to protect the skin from moisture loss and give it a soft, smooth, lavishly moist feeling.

"A Touch of Beauty," a comprehensive new booklet about skin care, is now being offered by Chesebrough-Pond's Inc.

This illustrated booklet summarizes dermatologists' views about the relationship of moisture to young-looking skin and gives specific recommendations for helping restore normal moisture balance to skin that has become overly dry.

OTHER TIPS
In addition to a section on the how-to of complexion care, the booklet notes that knees are news and tells how to cope with knee-revealing short skirts.

"A Touch of Beauty" also offers tips on foot-care, techniques for protecting hands that come in frequent contact with household cleaning products, and suggestions for skin protection during the summer.

The booklet can be obtained by sending 10 cents to cover mailing and handling costs to Chesebrough-Pond's Inc., 485 Lexington Avenue, New York, New York 10017.

The report, from the University of California at Los Angeles, was based on a study supported by the Injury Control Program of the National Center for Urban and Industrial Health in the U. S. Public Health Service, and the National Safety Council.

Seats with well-padded backs 28 or more inches high, along with well-padded, arm rests and a harness or lap belt were recommended as the safest.

Such seats cost more but considering that a school bus is used for 10 years or more, the experts figure the higher initial investment is money well spent.

Following a business meeting at 11 a.m., the luncheon and program are planned. Luncheon chairman is Mrs. Grady Robertson.

Leather-Like
"Expanded and supported" plastic is made of vinyl, backed with cloth and urethane foam, for use as upholstery on furniture.
It has a leather-like appearance, is tear resistant, and can be sponged off with soap or detergent suds.

Keep Umbrella Free From Dust
When storing an umbrella in a closet or wardrobe, you can protect it keeping it free of dust by slipping it into a large mailing tube.
Punch a hole through one end of the tube for the parasol end to come through. Tie a stout cord around the top, finish with a loop for hanging. This keeps the umbrella out of the way and protected.

Polly's Pointers

Use a Broiler Pan

DEAR POLLY — I never seemed to have the proper container for cooking chicken in the oven after it had been browned on top of the stove. Finally I hit on the ideal of using the broiler pan and rack on the oven shelf.

This will accommodate two or three chickens, and they come out properly cooked and grease-free. — MARJORIE

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY — There are little balls of fuzz all over my acrylic carpet after I vacuum it. Does anyone know why this happens and what I can do to remedy it? — Mrs. R. M. B.

DEAR POLLY — I bought some aluminum foil on sale and then found that the roll was too long for my dispenser. After a few days of fumbling around for the foil in a drawer,

I took a sharp knife and cut through the roll to make it the right size for my dispenser, with another short roll left over.

This latter has proved to be a perfect size for using to cover a jar or bowl that needs only a small piece. I always hated to tear such a piece off one end of a wide roll. My little roll stays in a plastic bag with an elastic band around it so it is neatly in place without being torn by other things in the drawer. — ANITA

DEAR POLLY — I suggest that Harriet dampen a cloth with rubbing alcohol and rub it over the marks carbon paper left on her light-colored wool material. This worked well for me when I had a similar experience. — IRENE

DEAR GIRLS — I found the rubbing alcohol removed light carbon stains but that a commercial spot-remover fluid worked better for deeper ones. As the "ink" is transferred to the cloth, be sure to refold the cleaning cloth as you are not rubbing the ink back onto the fabric.

As with any spot-removal Pointer, do try this on an inconspicuous place first. I find that the underneath side of a deep hem is a good place to experiment on a dress. — POLLY

Camp Fire Candy Is Recipe Ingredient

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor
There's a lot of candy crunching going on in the area right now as the Camp Fire Girls wind up their annual candy sale. Candy is to eat, but it is also to use in recipes. Here are two suggested by the local office. Others are to be found in the boxes of candy.

BLONDE TOFFEE BROWNIES

1½ cups sifted flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup butter or margarine
1 cup granulated sugar
½ cup (packed) brown sugar
2 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup crushed toffee candy

Sift flour, baking powder and salt together. Cream butter or margarine. Add both sugars and cream well.

Add eggs and vanilla; beat until fluffy. Blend in dry ingredients. Stir in crushed candy.

Spread over bottom of well-greased 13x9x2-inch baking pan. Bake in 350 degree oven for about 30 minutes. When cool, cut into bars 3" long and 1" wide.

If desired, frost when cool with white or chocolate butter frosting, before cutting. Sprinkle more candy bits on top. Yield: About 3 dozen.

TOFFEE-MOCHA MAGIC

1 pint whipping cream
½ cup sugar
2 tablespoons instant coffee

1 loaf angel food cake
1 cup crushed toffee candy
1½ cups flaked coconut

toasted
Chill candy in refrigerator to make it easier to crush.

Combine cream, sugar and coffee; whip till stiff. Rub brown crumbs off cake; cut lengthwise in four even layers.

Add crushed candy to whipped cream mixture; and spread between cake layers.

Cover top and side of loaf with the remaining whipped cream. Sprinkle with toasted coconut. Chill.

Cut in slices and serve. Makes 10 servings.

Working Girls Featured in Latest Article

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Lynda Bird Johnson reported Wednesday that big city lights often lure single girls to come to work in the large metropolis, but disillusionment soon sets in.

After interviewing young women in New York and San Francisco, the president's 23-year-old daughter reported that the working girls agree that one of "the most disturbing difficulties" is picking a proper roommate.

GREAT PROBLEM

"The whole problem is so booby-trapped with dangers that extreme caution is needed," Lynda said in the current issue of McCall's Magazine.

Lynda's survey was hardly typical of her own life as a White House working girl.

She also found that many of the single working girls interviewed believed "all girls should wait three or four years after school to get married."

"The great thing about staying single for a while is that you cultivate your own personality; you have your own life, and it will give you something to bring into marriage," one young woman told Lynda.

She asked the girls such questions as "why do girls leave home to go to the city? Why are girls willing to endure smog, noise, crowds and myriad other annoyances and dangers?"

COMMON THEME

"Underneath all the various answers there seems to be a common theme: adventure," Lynda said.

She also revealed some of the loneliness the girls face and said they try to lick the problem through "political clubs, churches" and other organizations and meeting people at museums, parties and bars.

She said the girls agreed "there is a constant temptation to date older men who are likely to have some money."

One girl told her "that you don't really appreciate having $35 spent on you for dinner."

Lynda said the girl suggested that in such circumstances she could suggest to her date "why don't we just buy a pizza and a bottle of wine and sit on one of those benches on the East River."

Tie in a Nylon

To launder white shoelaces without tangling or loss, put them into an old nylon stocking, tie it at both ends, and drop it into the washer with a "white load."

Mr. and Mrs. Mark J. Fetter of Home Street announce the engagement of their daughter, Nancy Louise to Timothy Charles Brown. His parents are the John C. Browns of Preston Street. He attended Oakland Community College. September 9 vows are planned.

June vows are planned for Helen Allison Carrick and Thomas Franklin Lemons Jr. They are attending University of Michigan where she is a sophomore and he is a graduate student. Their parents are the Robert W. Carricks of Otter Drive and Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Lemons of Roanoke, Va.

Best at Right Temperature

One prime requisite of the "perfect hostess" is to serve delicious food at just the right temperature, and an electric warming tray is a useful accessory. The surface provides a "hot spot" to keep cooked foods that way, and a warming drawer is ideal for rolls, pies, or plates.

After use, just wipe the tray surface with a sudsy cloth; the drawer can be immersed in hot soap or detergent suds. This adds up to minimum care for such a versatile automatic servant.

To reheat yesterday's vegetables, place them in a wire strainer and set over today's boiling potatoes.

Summer White

A cool approach to the hot season ahead: white jewelry. The white lines include earrings that look like pinwheels, necklaces that look like spirals of frozen custard, and the dangling types that spread out to a bib shape.

Add dollops of moldwood to an expanse of fabric, and you have one of Nettle Creek's newest headboards — at its handsomest, of course, when combined with a Nettle Creek bedspread such as this spectacular-in-scale floral called Obi. The quilted cotton bedspread is spectacular in coloring, too, in combinations predominantly red, green, gold, brown. Moldwood-crowned upholstery headboards — twin, double, oversize — may be ordered plain, quilted or tufted in a variety of fabrics, from $96.50 to $350. Line available locally.

As Tourist Attraction, Congress Proves a Dud

By DICK WEST
United Press International
WASHINGTON — It is generally agreed that Congress is creeping along this year at an even slower pace than usual.

I don't know what effect this might have on the welfare of the nation, but it is imposing a hardship on the tourists.

WEST
When tourists, whose numbers seemingly double every year, visit the U.S. Capitol they naturally want to see Congress in action.

However, the odds against fulfilling that wish are distressingly small.

With luck, good timing and patience, a tourist stands a fair chance of seeing Congress in session. But seeing Congress in action is another matter.

Only at infrequent intervals thus far has a Senate session that might be loosely construed as action. Nor has the average House session been much livelier.

LEGISLATIVE ROULETTE
What a visit to the Capitol boils down to is a game of legislative roulette.

A tourist gets in line and gambles that his turn in the gallery will come when something interesting is taking place on the House or Senate floor.

Unless a visitor happened to hit the Senate chamber this week when Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., was eulogizing the marigold as a candidate for national flower, he might as well have stayed at home.

This situation strikes me as being somewhat unfair.

LONG DISTANCES
Citizens who travel long distances and expend goodly amounts of time, money and energy to observe the legislative process at first hand deserve a better shake.

It is, I suppose, too much for Congress to declare war, or for the House to expel one of its members, or for Dirksen to eulogize the marigold every hour on the hour merely to accommodate the tourists.

There is, however, a way to make their visits more stimulating. I got the idea from the Smithsonian Institution.

The Smithsonian has on display a 280-ton steam locomotive of the type that has all but disappeared from the American scene. Recently it wired the exhibit for sound.

TAPE RECORDING
Visitors to the museum can now hear an authentic five-minute tape recording of the clang, chug and hiss the engine used to make when it pulled into a station.

I propose that the Senate chamber be similarly wired. When nothing noteworthy is happening, a tape recording could be played for tourists, enabling them to hear the clang, chug and hiss that senators make under a full head of steam.

TAXI SERVICE — Vietnam-style taxi service may have its points, but this lad, being toted by Navy Hospital Corpsman W. R. Matthews of Charlestown, Ind., seems to have some doubts. The youngster is being ferried to a Marine function near Da Nang.

A Junior Editors Quiz About CONGRESS

QUESTION: Why do we need both a Congress and a president?

ANSWER: After a successful Revolution, the new United States of America found itself in need of a definite, clear-cut plan of government.

In the summer of 1787, our founding fathers worked out a Constitution which it was decided would be the Supreme law of the land. Under this, the rights of the states were protected, but a strong federal or central government was also established.

From their experience, the framers of the Constitution were afraid of giving all the federal power to one individual or department. They divided the powers between three equal and independent governmental branches.

One of these, the executive department, was to be controlled by a president who would act as chief of state and chief of the armed forces, and who would have the responsibility of enforcing the laws.

Another branch, the Congress, was to be in charge of federal money and was to make all the laws.

Still another branch was the Supreme Court, which was empowered, after 1803, to pass on any law which might be questioned, to be sure it agreed with the Constitution.

Livonia Man Nets $10,000 by Using Suggestion Box

DETROIT (AP) — If you're on drums to help them pass one who uses the work suggestion box to dispose of cigarette butts, the thought of Detroit's other company levels.

Suggester of the Year might spur you to approach the idea bin with a different gleam in your eye.

For 52-year-old Frank Gawlik has won more than $10,000 from Kelsey-Hayes Co. for 85 ideas he's had in the past 10 years.

Gawlik, of suburban Livonia, was named Suggester of the Year by the Detroit chapter of the National Association of Suggestion Systems (NASS).

Accepted or not, suggestions are becoming a big business. NASS officials said in honoring Gawlik.

Gawlik's awards pale beside the $72,000 once given by International Business Machines Inc. to two repairmen who suggested a method to eliminate some magnetic tapes in computers.

NASS said that 243 members of the association awarded some $24.5 million for 575,062 ideas in 1965, the last year for which figures are available.

Industry believes it saved $100 million because of the ideas.

The federal government, too, awarded nearly $5 million last year for employees' suggestions which resulted in a saving of $20 million.

General Motors Corp., the nation's most generous idea buyer, last year paid out $10.2 million for suggestions.

Another time Gawlik repaid some balancing weights year.

State Official, Others Urge Legalizing of Wiretapping

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of Michigan's Crime Commission and officials from Massachusetts and New York called Wednesday for legalization of wiretapping, with court consent, to help police fight organized crime.

They rejected the proposal urged by President Johnson to ban all wiretapping except that in the interest of national security, although they said they agreed wiretapping by private persons should be outlawed.

SF Spinster Dumps 'Ted' to Protest Tax

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Dorothy Shinder, protesting taxation, staged the Great San Francisco Tea Party Wednesday, using empty boxes marked "tax."

Miss Shinder, a spinster who contends unmarried persons should not be taxed more than married ones, disguised herself as an Indian (like her Boston predecessors), boarded a boat, and said to about a dozen like-minded spinsters: "When I give the signal, you dump the boxes in the bay. But wait until the camera gets you." She meant the television and news cameras, for which the whole thing was performed.

Just then a booming voice from the pier at Fisherman's Wharf asked, "What in the hell do you think you're doing?"

The voice came from a port official who advised Miss Shinder there was a $500 fine for dumping refuse in San Francisco Bay. Fishermen answered her appeal and fished the bobbing boxes from the water.

The Coast Guard boarded her boat for a "routine check" and cited its master for failing to have a bell aboard and failing to have a certificate of numbers, the sea-going equivalent of driving without a license.

'Accident Rate Ghastly' for State Civil Servants

LANSING (AP) — Michigan's on-the-job accident rate for state workers was described as "unbelievable and ghastly" Wednesday by the state civil service director.

Franklin Dewald told the Michigan State Safety Conference he hopes a new state safety program will cut such accidents by 30 per cent.

Dewald said a study of state accident fund workmen's compensation programs showed the state's on-the-job accident rate was 41.8 per million man hours, compared with 28.4 for the construction industry and 20.1 for municipal employees.

He reported that the cost of workmen's compensation to the state increased 230 per cent in the last 10 years and last year exceeded $1.1 million.

ONE IN 12

Accident fund records indicate, Dewald said, that one out of 12 state employees was injured on the job last year. Only one of the 19 principal departments—the State Highway Department—had a formal safety program in past years, Dewald said.

The new state safety program includes:

- A formal accident reporting system for all departments starting in July.
- Formation of a state employee safety steering committee.
- Basic safety training programs to be conducted in state service by officials of the U.S. Department of Labor Bureau of Safety.

Students Ham It Up Pig Is Elected Campus Queen

MURFREESBORO, Tenn. (AP) — With five pretty coeds to choose from, students at Middle Tennessee State University elected a pig as May Queen on a write-in vote.

Paula Mae Pigg, one month old, 15 pounds, and measuring 26-22-20, got 796 votes to 112 for the nearest human challenger in Wednesday's election.

There was talk of a runoff, or a new election on the grounds that Paula Mae is not a student, but the other contestants withdrew from the race after learning they had been beaten by a pig.

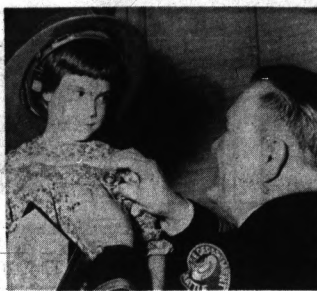

Traditionally the May Queen reigns over the annual junior-senior prom.

STUDENT APATHY

A group of student leaders said they entered the pig in protest to student apathy toward the elections and prom.

Miss Kitten McCreary, second in the voting, said the five coeds withdrew because "We don't feel the student body should be taught a lesson at the candidates' expense."

"We were all treating it lightly, but after the pig got 700 votes, we felt it had gone too far,"

ON THE WARY SIDE — Roberta Wittmeier, 4, is a little bit wary as Seattle Fire Chief Gordon Vickery pins a department auxiliary badge on her dress yesterday. Roberta was cited for the quick-wittedness that saved the life of her mother recently. When Roberta couldn't rouse her mother, who was sleeping on a smoldering couch, she called the telephone operator who, in turn, relayed the little girl's plea to the fire department, which got there in time.

Weatherman Looks Ahead.

SUITLAND, Md. — If you have a choice, spend the next 30 days in the central Atlantic Coast states.

That's where the Weather Bureau's extended outlook predicts the nice weather will be warm and dry.

The outlook from now until mid-May calls for temperatures to average below seasonal normals west of the continental divide with the coolest area over the southern plateau.

Above-normal temperatures are predicted for the eastern two-thirds of the nation except for New England where they will be near normal.

The most unseasonable warmth is expected over the southeastern quarter of the nation.

Negro Cleric to King: Stay Out

CHICAGO (AP) — Civil rights, more than 5,000 persons and Equality sponsored a march encouraged them not to join the last September during which the National Guard was called in to maintain order.

"We asked a lot of them if they want to live in Cicero," the Rev. Mr. Mitchell said, adding the response came down to: "Hell, no!"

The Rev. Henry Mitchell, minister of the North Star Missionary Baptist Church, made the comment at a news conference Wednesday at which he also suggested that King "get the hell out of here."

The minister, whose church is in a West Side slum area one block from an apartment King uses as a Chicago operations base, said marches led by King and his associates in white neighborhoods last summer "created hate."

King was unavailable for comment. He was getting a physical checkup at an Atlanta hospital.

INVITED BACK

However, a spokesman for King's Southern Christian Leadership Conference said, that the SCLC has been invited back to Chicago by a group of more than 50 civil rights organizations. He added that the SCLC does not think the Rev. Mr. Mitchell has a great following in Chicago.

The Rev. Mr. Mitchell said King's marchers "don't represent the mass of the Negro people, who prefer to live in their community." He told reporters a group he heads has contacted

Fat-Dissolver Offers Hope to the Obese

By Science Service
MIAMI BEACH — A mysterious substance that dissolves stored fat in the human body may someday slim down obese people, or make compulsive eaters thin.

The hormone-like substance, called a lipid mobilizer, breaks down fat and moves it to the liver, where it is made available to the body for energy. The mobilizer itself is then excreted.

Dr. Eli Seifter of the Albert Einstein College of Medicine at Yeshiva University, New York, reported findings to the American Chemical Society here yesterday. He is experimenting with the mobilizer to determine if injections of it might damage the liver.

If current experiments on rabbits—using mobilizer reclaimed from cow and pig pituitary glands—show no damage, human experimentation may be possible.

Dr. Seifter found that "starving" persons had the highest proportion of the lipid mobilizer in their urine. These included diabetics who cannot utilize sugar so draw on their own fat, and women in the second trimester of pregnancy, when the fetus is drawing fat from the mother's body.

Lindsay Wants 'Sweet City' NY

Tells City Employees to Be Nice to Everybody

NEW YORK (AP) — Over the years New York City has been declared, officially, to be everything from "A Summer Festival" to "Fun City."

Unofficially, it has been called other things too, most of them unprintable.

Now comes Mayor John V.
Lindsay, determined to dispel the unprintables with a campaign to promote "Sweet City."

He means sweet as in nice.
Lindsay wants everybody to be nice to everybody, at all times and in all circumstances.

CITY EMPLOYEES

"Courtesy begins in the home," declared Lindsay, and that's where he started. The first target of his courtesy campaign was his official family, the employees of the city.

Mind your telephone manners,
Lindsay urged those on the city payroll, speaking especially to employees who deal directly with the public.

Don't let yourself be goaded into anger, he advised. Be as helpful as possible.

An Associated Press survey reveals that the idea, if not exactly soaring, is at least off the ground.

'YOU'RE KIDDING'

Informed of the survey's results, Lindsay replied: "You're kidding!"

It's true, though. For example, there was a telephone call to the Transit Authority that in bygone days might have set off a less than gentle exchange.

"I'd like to buy a subway train," the caller said.

"I think that could be arranged," the TA official replied politely. "But you'll have to lay your own tracks."

Illinois A-Site Now Rights Battleground

WESTON, Ill. (AP) — Tiny Weston, put on the map last year when it was selected as the site for a giant atom smasher, has become a battleground for civil rights advocates.

This is how things stand more than three months after the hamlet, 35 miles west of Chicago, was selected by the Atomic Energy Commission for the $375-million nuclear reactor.

The facility, to have the power of 200 billion electron volts, is expected to bring 2,000 technicians and scientists into the village.

A village with some 400 residents, none Negro, Weston is surrounded by cornfields. Many of its prefabricated homes have been vacated by people who failed to make their mortgage payments.

NAACP LEADER
Whatever its description, Sydney Finley of Chicago, midwest director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, believes Weston and its environs discriminate against Negroes.

"The facts speak for themselves," Finley said in an interview. "Negroes are being discriminated against in the western suburbs" of Chicago.

Finley has been impressing his opinion on state legislators in hopes that they will push for an open-occupancy law rather than face the possibility of losing the $375 million atom smasher.

"Yes, we're using the leverage that the Weston situation presents to get a state open-housing law," said Finley.

'OUR MONEY TOO'
"This is operating within the American framework. After all, this is our tax money, too."

AEC officials say it will be at least eight years before the smasher is in operation. The agency's appropriation for next year, including whatever money will be allocated for Weston, is still before Congress.

Very little housing of any kind is available in Weston and most people drawn to the federal project, either to work on its construction or after its completion, would probably have to live in surrounding towns.

Small communities like Aurora, Batavia, Geneva, St. Charles, West Chicago, Wheaton and Naperville are within easy driving range — 10 to 20 miles — of Weston. But these places have their problems too, Finley says.

CLAIMS COLLUSION
"We contend there is wholesale collusion between the public officials and the real estate industry in Du Page and Kane counties to keep Negroes out," he said. "There are 861,000 residents of Du Page county and less than 600 of them are Negroes."

Mrs. Emily Gibson of Aurora, president of the city's NAACP chapter, said, "The really professional people don't come to this area. There are no Negro doctors, dentists or attorneys, and maybe only 25 or 30 Negro schoolteachers. It all boils down to one thing, lack of housing."

"We have to come up with an answer for low income housing," said Mayor Albert McCoy of Aurora. "That's where we're really hurting. It's difficult for minorities to find housing, especially low income housing."

Burling Hines, a Negro reporter for the Chicago Daily News, investigated the housing opportunities in the Weston area and wrote a more optimistic report.

Hines said he visited four really firms in Glen Ellyn, Wheaton and Naperville. He said real estate salesmen showed him a number of homes.

ALL STYLES
"They came in all styles—ranch, split level, slab construction and cottage, ranging in price from $16,000 to $30,000, roughly in the general area of my shopping price," he said.

"As a result of my experiences, I feel that a middle-class member of a minority group can buy a home in the Weston area — if he has ample cash and is willing to limit himself."

"In those areas where conditions are more stressful the communities can adopt an ordinance," said Sen. W. Russell Arrington of Evanston, Republican majority leader.

With Arrington, who holds immense power in the Illinois legislature, expressing this view the chances of passing an open-occupancy law appears dim.

Rep. William Pollack of Chicago, GOP majority leader in the House, said:

"I don't think a bill will pass. I'm still opposed to the idea. The government mustn't take away one of the few freedoms the people still have."

Roads Bureau Chief Tells Problems

WASHINGTON (AP) — When Francis C. Turner got his first federal job as a junior highway engineer in 1929, the federal government was spending about $125 million yearly on highway construction.

Today Turner, 56, presides over the biggest highway construction program in history as director of the Bureau of Public Roads, with $4 billion in yearly highway aid to the states.

Despite the huge increase in funds, Turner said today there isn't enough money available to do everything needed to keep the nation's traffic flowing smoothly and safely.

He spoke of the bureau's new plan to help cities relieve downtown traffic congestion by increasing street capacity and safety.

ATTACKS WORST AREAS

"We can't hope to get enough money for all this," Turner said. "It wouldn't be a wise use of resources to try to do the entire job in the city so we adopted this scheme of attacking the worst places."

Turner says urban congestion and improvement of the nation's primary roads are the major problems facing the bureau.

Sworn into his $27,000-a-year post only last month, Turner sees no lessening in highway construction activity after completion of the federal interstate system, now scheduled for 1973.

"The problem gets bigger all the time," he said in an interview. "People continue to travel. There's a greater demand for good roads. Incomes are going up and the opportunity to travel on business and pleasure is increasing."

LITTLE CONSTRUCTION

But Turner said there will be little construction of new highway routes in the future.

"We already have a road from any point in the nation to any other point," he said. "But the demand will be there to upgrade what we have, especially in the urban areas and on the primary system in the country."

Turner, a native of Dallas, Tex., graduated in engineering from Texas A&M University in 1929. Before his appointment as director, he was chief engineer for the bureau.

When Turner joined the government, it cost an average $100,000 to build one mile of first class highway — which meant two lanes in those days.

TODAY'S COST
Today's four-lane interstate system costs about $1 million a mile on the average.

1937: End of Photo Era

By IRVING DESFOR

AP Newfeatures
BEAUMONT Newhall, photographic historian and director of George Eastman House, shrine of photography in Rochester, N.Y., looks back 30 years and finds that 1937 was an epochal year in American photography.

Appropriately enough, his appraisal appears in the May 30 anniversary issue of Popular Photography magazine.

In 1937, he recalls, a new type of photojournalism was being practiced by new picture magazines, Life and Look. . . the documentary approach was established in films by a small group of pioneers and in still field by Farm Security Administration photo teams. . . traditional "pictorialism" was losing ground and being replaced by realistic photography.

On the technical side, the invention of dye-coupling multi-layer color films was revolutionizing color photography. . . film speeds started to climb. . . semiautomatic cameras opened new paths to more picture takers. . . the magic of strobe light was developed.

FIRST MAJOR EXHIBIT

In 1937, Newhall assembled the Museum of Modern Art's first major photographic exhibition, a retrospective collection summarizing photography's first hundred years.

Among the contemporaries represented in that historic exhibition entitled, "Photography 1839-1937," were Edward Steichen, Paul Strand, Edward Weston, Ansel Adams, Margaret Bourke-White and Ylla, the woman photographer noted for her animal pictures.

In 1937, practically all news photographers used bulky 4x5 Speed Graphic cameras which rapidly.

Their skill with the big camera is exemplified by the tragedy of the Hindenburg explosion at Lakehurst, N.J., in May.

SHOCK OF EXPLOSION

Despite the suddenness and danger of the airship's explosion, the event was recorded in remarkable news pictures.

However, the gradual shift to smaller cameras started that year with the exodus from Nazi Germany of journalists like Alfred Eisenstadt.

They advanced the technique of available light photography with miniature cameras with professional perfection.

Another refugee from Nazism, Laszlo Moholy-Nagy, came to Chicago in 1937 bringing another new approach to photography: the experimental.

END OF ERA

"Looking back, it is now obvious that the end of 1937 marked the end of one era of photography," Newhall sums up, "and the beginning of another."

Another feature of Popular Photography's 30th anniversary issue is a guide to collecting "Photographies," the rich photographic treasures dating from the 1830s to the 1930s.

Jacquelyn Balish, who started collecting 10 years ago, describes the types of old photographs and photographic items which can be picked up in flea markets, antique shops and shops, in attics and old book stores and in junk shops.

They are still available, she says, from 10 cents to a few dollars each.

INCENTIVE TO STUDY

Besides enjoying the old photographs themselves, collecting is an incentive to studying reference books and historical lore dealing with photography's past. It could be a basis for a better understanding of photography of today.

It may also provide a clue as to the type of pictures to take now which will be worth looking at in the future.

Chinese in Indonesia Feel Effects of Hate

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — Communist China, once Indonesia's great friend and ally, has become a symbol of hate here, and the million or so Chinese aliens in this country are feeling the effects.

An officially sponsored anti-Peking life has combined with traditional anti-Chinese sentiments among Indonesia's Moslem people to create an atmosphere of tension for the Chinese.

This situation developed following the 1965 coup d'etat attempt organized by the pro-Peking Indonesian Communist party, PKI. Communist China was accused of having a hand in it.

The coup was smashed by army forces led by Gen. Suharto, now acting president. The collapse of the Red movement triggered a massive anti-Communist campaign throughout Indonesia in which hundreds of thousands were slain. The PKI was destroyed and its remnants were driven underground.

RED EQUATION
Since then, Chinese aliens, most of whom owe their allegiance to Peking, have become virtually equated with Communists.

Stern regulations limit the activities of Chinese and subject them to special taxation. They have been banned from trading, their chief livelihood, in such outlying areas as Sumatra. In Jakarta they have been denied permanent residence.

Boycott of Chinese goods is being fostered and Chinese-owned shops are liable to closure by the military.

Peking has been linked with the distribution here of pamphlets in Chinese characters, urging local Chinese to resist the Suharto government.

PEKING TIRADES

Accounts of Peking's tirades against Suharto's "new order," labeling it reactionary and fascist, are carried by the official news agency Antara and reprinted in newspapers.

Reports of Red Guard extremism, particularly against Chinese Moslems, are used by Moslem groups here to warn against communism.

Diplomatic relations with Peking are close to the snapping point. There are demands from military and anti-Communist student and Moslem organizations that the last threads be cut. Foreign minister Adam Malik has indicated that the ties will continue at least until a settlement has been reached on the question of repatriating Chinese who want to go back to the mainland.

"What do we do with one million Chinese?" Malik has asked.

Some 8,000 have left aboard Chinese ships and planes, but Peking now insists that Indonesia provide transportation. The position of Jakarta officials is that they have neither the means nor the money, and that likely to be allowed to take nobody had invited them to come. They should leave as they came.

One military official commented recently:

"Long ago the Chinese came to Indonesia emptyhanded and

SWIRL NUT SPONGE

Special Cooking for Passover

By JANET ODELL

Pontiac Press Food Editor
With Passover occurring next week (April 25-May 2), Jewish homemakers are planning special menus.

Our Passover fact sheet tells us that Passover is a joyous spring festival. It lasts for eight days to commemorate the flight from Egypt and the liberation of the Israelites from slavery.

In homes where the traditional kosher kitchen is kept, dishes, utensils and silver usually used are put away. Special Passover items are brought out.

Any form of leaven such as baking powder, baking soda and yeast is forbidden, also legumes.

"Matzo," matzo "meat," matzo meal cake flour and potato flour are used.

The seder on the first two nights of the holiday is the most important meal and for this the menu is traditional and elaborate.

Symbolic foods include matzo, lamb, a roasted egg, bitter herbs, charoses (apples, nuts and wine), sweet herbs and salt water.

Gefilte fish is a traditional Jewish dish usually served as a first course. But for anyone who likes fish, it can also become a delicious salad, using the kind that comes in a jar.

Gefilte Fish in Lettuce Shell
1 large head of iceberg lettuce
1 two-pound jar of gefilte fish
2 cooked carrots
3 hard cooked eggs, chopped
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
1 tablespoon lemon juice mayonnaise for Passover lemon slices and parsley sprigs.

Remove core from lettuce. Cut out lettuce leaving a shell about 1/2 of an inch thick. Wrap and chill lettuce.

Drain fish. Put gefilte fish and carrots in a bowl and mash until smooth and well blended. Stir in hard cooked eggs, parsley, lemon juice and enough mayonnaise to hold mixture together.

Spoon mixture into lettuce shell, packing it tightly. Place lettuce on a platter and surround with crisp lettuce leaves, lemon wedges and parsley sprigs.

lemon. Chill until ready to serve.

At serving time, cut head of lettuce with fish into serving size wedges, using a serrated edged knife. Makes 6-8 servings.

Many food processors pack their products especially for Passover. Chunky apples with cherries, raspberries, strawberries, pineapple or apricots are among them.

They are used in the following recipes.

FRUIT TREATS SWIRL NUT SPONGE

6 eggs
1 1/2 cups sugar
1/2 cup hot water
1 lemon, juice and grated rind
3/4 cup potato starch
1/2 cup ground walnuts
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup chunky apples with fruit, any flavor Separate eggs, beat yolks until very light and fluffy. Gradually add sugar, continue to stir until light. Stir in water, lemon juice and rind.

Fold in potato starch and nuts.

Beat egg whites stiff with salt, fold in.

Line the bottom or a 9" x 5" loaf pan with foil. Fill with batter. Streak fruit treats over batter, marble gently with knife.

Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) about 1 1/2 hours. Invert, cool completely before re-

FRUIT TREATS PASSOVER ORANGE CAKE

1 jar (15 oz.) chunky apples with fruit, any flavor

5 eggs

3/4 cup sugar

1/2 cup salad oil

1/2 cup orange juice

1 teaspoon grated lemon or orange rind

3/4 cup matzo cake meal

1/2 cup potato starch

1 teaspoon salt

Beat egg yolks with 1/4 cup sugar until light and fluffy.

Beat in oil, juice and rind.

Sift matzo cake meal and potato starch with salt, fold in thoroughly. Beat egg whites stiff with remaining sugar, fold in gently. Pour into ungreased 9" or 10" tube pan.

Spread 1/2 cup fruit treats over batter, swirl gently with a knife. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) about 50 minutes, until cake is well browned and firm to the touch.

Invert pan over cake rack to cool cake completely; with flexible spatula separate cake from and remove sides and bottom of pan. Serve garnished with remaining fruit.

Marinate Carrots in a Zippy Sauce

All in all, the carrot is a wonderful vegetable. The sweet and tender, well-scrubbed carrots which reach our produce counters all year around do not actually need paring or scraping.

Wash them, brushing well with a vegetable brush; cut off the top and bottom and slice. Chill and eat raw if you want the very last unit of vitamin A, or cook until just crisp-tender in no more boiling water than is needed to keep them from sticking.

FRESH CARROTS IN VINAIGRETTE SAUCE

12 medium-size fresh carrots

Vinaigrette Sauce

Wash, pare and cut carrots into lengthwise quarters. Cut each quarter in half, crosswise. Place carrots in 1-inch depth boiling salted water in saucepan.

Cover and cook 10 minutes or until crisp-tender. Drain well.

Add vinaigrette sauce to cover carrots. Cover and refrigerate about one hour. Serve as cold vegetable or salad.

Vinaigrette Sauce

1/2 cup olive or salad oil

1 teaspoon salt

1 teaspoon paprika

1/2 teaspoon powdered mustard

1/2 teaspoon basil leaves
1/2 teaspoon ground black pepper
1/2 clove garlic
1 tablespoon fresh chives
1 tablespoon pickle relish
1 tablespoon finely chopped fresh green pepper
1 1/2 tablespoons cider vinegar
1 tablespoon fresh lemon juice
Combine all ingredients. Stir.

Yeast is on the market in both compressed cake form and granulated form in small envelopes. Yeast cakes need to be refrigerated. Granular yeast does not.

MARKET BASKET

Bake Biscuits in Two Layers

Roll baking powder biscuit dough into an 8x16-inch rectangle. Cut in half to make two 8-inch squares. Place one square in bottom of 8-inch baking dish, and spread with a mixture of:

2 cups ground cooked ham

1/2 cup finely chopped salted peanuts

1/2 cup sour cream
Top with the other square of dough. Brush melted butter or two 8-inch squares. Bake at 450 degrees F. for 15 to 20 minutes. Serve hot. Makes 4 servings.

A dab of sour cream adds a good touch to a serving of deep-dish apple pie.

GOLDEN GIFTS FROM CALIFORNIA — There is fresh, brilliant color and flavor in this simple spring salad or vegetable-dish combining the golden orange of California oranges with the emerald gold of Brussels sprouts.

Sprouts and Oranges Are Colorful Spring Duet

California, our Golden State, golden emerald sprouts for sends from its high desert and coastal valleys, golden gifts for spring.

Sometime during the Middle Ages the copious generations of wild cabbages propagating through the north of Europe bred a family beauty . . . the Brussels sprout. A very surprising thing!

Considering its galumping great cousins . . . tough and strong and often smelly . . . the Brussels sprout emerged strangely delicate and exquisitely formed, like a perfect small rose.

Offered on market days in Brussels by the Twelfth Century, the Brussels sprout was considered a vegetable costly and showy enough to ornament the tables of prosperous noblemen and Buergermeisters.

Brussels sprouts traveled from Belgium, through France, Germany, Italy and England, before Nineteenth Century gardening books show cultivation in America.

American sprouts now flourish along a narrow strip of California's Pacific Coast, close to the sea mists that nurture them.

Frozen in their prime and shipped throughout the United States and Canada, still showy . . . but no longer costly, every day is market day for California Brussels sprouts.

For our spring recipes the golden oranges join with the Board Defers Rezoning Bid for Township

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — The Township Board last night deferred a request to rezone 31 acres of land at Lone Pine and Orchard Lake roads from residential to multiple.

Action was deferred for 30 days, according to Supervisor John Warren, because the owner of the property, Irwin Cohn of Detroit, is in violation of the zoning ordinance in other sections of the township which must first be cleared up.

Another request to rezone the corner of Maple and Orchard Lake roads from residential to multiple and office was approved by the board.

In other action, the board decided to prepare the rolls for a special assessment district for water in the Sylvan Manor Subdivision in spite of several objections.

The objections did not reach the 20 per cent required by law to stop action, according to Warren.

He said it will take four to six weeks to prepare the rolls which will give the residents the 30 days they requested to make further investigations.

Objections to a special assessment sewer district for the Rome Park subdivision did not reach 20 per cent which prevents further action by the board.

"I don't know what we're going to do at this point," said Warren, "because I understand they have a pollution problem over there."

JERRY BREWER

Rochester Girl's Design in Leaflet on Children's Art

ROCHESTER — A design developed by 8-year-old Jerry Brewer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Brewer, 920 W. Third, graces the brochure advertising the current Children's Art Show at Northland shopping center.

Sponsored by the Oakland Art Education Association, the show, which will continue through Monday, features elementary and secondary art.

The Rochester collection was prepared by Mrs. Dorothy Whipple, head of the elementary art department, in cooperation with consultants Mrs. Sue Preston and Julius Kusey and elementary art intern Miss Rhea Hakes.

From Rochester, Birmingham

He was captain of the varsity basketball team and selected All-Conference for three years. He was also a member of the varsity track team.

Cameron will graduate from Seaholm High where he has maintained a 3.5 average. He received a commendation in the National Merit Scholarship competition.

ALL ABOARD — Mrs. Laverne Crooks, 1126 Grace, Avon Township, and Kathy Marshall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Marshall, 6501 Houghten, Troy, prepare to spin Bruce Loveless, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Loveless, 3739 Mildred, Avon Township, who will serve as Barker of the Siles PTA School Fair from 3 to 6 p.m. Saturday. The merry-go-round was purchased with proceeds of a previous PTA project.

Farmington to Install Walk Near School

FARMINGTON — Next fall, children on Arundel won't have to walk on a muddy road to get to school — they'll have a brand new sidewalk.

The City Council agreed to install a sidewalk leading to Long-acre School after receiving a number of complaints from parents in the newly annexed Woodcroft Subdivision.

City Manager John Dinan said that because it is a community problem, the Council decided to bear the cost of construction but attempt to get some financial support from the PTA and the home owners association.

He said there had been a problem of location because of lawns and shrubbery along the route. The four-foot wide walk will be located five feet off the roadway and 10 feet off the property line.

Plans are to construct the asphalt sidewalk later in the summer after water and sewer lines to service the new area are installed.

COST IS $1,000

Estimated cost of the project is $1,000.

In other action recently, the council reelected Wilbur Brotherton as mayor and Howard W. Thayer as mayor pro tem.

Utica School Board Sells $8.5 Million in Bonds

UTICA — The sale of $8.5 million of its voted $15.5 million in school bonds has been accomplished by the board of education at a cost of 4.01 per cent interest.

Farmington Club Slates Art Exhibit

FARMINGTON — The Farmington Artists Club will hold its annual spring exhibit tomorrow through Sunday at the First Farmington Savings and Loan, 22725 Orchard Lake.

The exhibit will be open from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. tomorrow and Saturday and from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Sunday.

Oil paintings, acrylics, watercolors, tempera, pastels and sculpture will be exhibited for the first time.

Featured guest artist will be Emily Fox, currently president of the Palette and Brush Club of Detroit.

The symbol of the 4-H clubs is a green four-leaf clover with a white H in each leaf — for head, heart, hands, and health.

The board has accepted the low bid of First of Michigan Corp.

The money will be used to build three new elementary schools, a junior high school in Sterling Township, seven research centers to existing elementary schools, a swimming pool at the new Adlai Stevenson High School, a warehouse, and to purchase new sites.

A budget estimated at about $8.5 million for the 1967-68 school year was adopted for purposes of presentation to the Macomb County Tax Allocation Board.

A school spokesman said the budget would not be firm until June at the earliest.

In other business, Frank Pischel of the administrative staff was elevated to assistant superintendent in charge of business.

CHIEF E. W. ANDERSON

Utica Names Police Chief

UTICA — A new police chief has been appointed here. Sgt. Edward W. Anderson has been elevated to chief, succeeding his brother, Hazen, who suffered a stroke Nov. 13.

Anderson has been acting chief since his brother's illness.

The Utica force comprises seven officers. A sergeant replacing Anderson is expected to be appointed next month.

Missionary Will Speak at Church

INDEPENDENCE TOWNSHIP — A noted missionary and teacher, Dr. Frank C. Laubach, will speak at Seaholm United Presbyterian Church, 6331 Maybee, at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow.

Dr. Laubach is called "apostle to the illiterates" and developed the "each one, teach one" method.

He is noted for his work in the Philippines with tribes with no written language. He is scheduled to carry on a literacy campaign in Vietnam later this year.

Milliron Succeeds Graves as Mayor of Keego Harbor

KEEGO HARBOR — Councilman Fred Milliron Jr. has been elected mayor of the city for the coming year.

Milliron, a member of the council for two years, succeeds William Graves.

Gene Yates, a member of the council for one year, was chosen mayor pro tem.

The council also has appointed Vernon B. Edward to an indefinite term on the Oakland County Board of Supervisors.

Edward was recently defeated by one vote in his bid for reelection to the council.

LIBRARY AGREEMENT

In other action, the council signed an agreement with Pontiac for use of its library. Keego Harbor formerly belonged to the North Oakland County Library Contract System which went out of business.

Under the agreement, Keego Harbor residents will be able to use the Pontiac library. For the service, Keego will turn penal fines over to Pontiac and pay the difference between that amount and what two-tenths of a mill would produce on the state equalized valuation.

That will amount to a little more than $100, according to City Manager Gary Dickson.

The council also established rates for use of its landfill site on Portman Road and voted to require a permit for use of the dump.

In the past, there has been no charge. The rates will be $1 for a carload, $1.50 for a pickup truck or trailer, $3 for a truck and $4 for a stump.

Permits must be obtained from city hall.

Dickson said the land-fill will be strictly for debris and that no garbage will be permitted.

The council was also notified that sewage rates for the Evergreen-Farmington Disposal System have been reduced by five cents per 1,000 cubic feet of total adjusted sewage water consumption.

The new rate, which was effective the first of the year, will be 50 cents.

Temporary Use of Dump OK'd

WHITE LAKE TOWNSHIP — Township residents will have a place to dump their trash for the next 90 days because of action taken by the Township Board.

The board has signed a 90-day agreement with Marlow's Dump on Rose Center Road for use by residents.

Under the agreement, the board will pay $150 a month, the same rate it paid for use of the dump on Cedar Island Lake Road which is closed for at least three months.

In other action, the board approved pay raises for six part-time patrolmen. The 50-cent-per-hour increase brings their pay up to $2 per hour.

FIRE RUN HIKE Supervisor James Reid said the patrolmen requested the raises at a special meeting last week.

An increase from $30 to $35 per fire run was also approved for the township's volunteer firemen.

The increases were included in a preliminary $170,000 budget submitted to the County Tax Allocation Board last week.

Tunnel-Probing GI Nearly Didn't Make It to Payday

By TOM TIEDE
HOBOWOODS, Vietnam (NEA) — It was near the end of the month, payday and for Sgt. Les Armstrong, father of three, the check would be somewhere in the neighborhood of $500. It figured to a dollar an hour. He worked all day every day. Most soldiers here do. Sometimes, of course, he had made his salary swabbing his rifle bolt clean or rinsing underwear in a tin bowl. But this day it was different. This day he made his living nearly dying. Armstrong's unit, the 196th Light Brigade, was on a sweeping jungle search for enemy and the 25-year-old staff sergeant from Malden, Mo., was picking his weary way through the unfriendly thicket. INTERRUPTION Midway in the morning, his journey was interrupted. "Sergeant?" "Yessir," Armstrong replied. "Over here. Got a job for you."

The soldier quick-timed up a small patch near which several officers were standing. Their faces were angled and their eyes fixed on a small patch of discoloration. EXAMINATION Armstrong stepped around the dead piece of earth and examined it closely. It was the size of a civilian briefcase and though roughly camouflaged with bramble, it was outlined with traces of shovel markings which left thin ridges in the middle of the path. "Trap door?" somebody asked. Armstrong nodded. "Better check it out, sarge." Complying, the NCO grabbed the end of a small stick and dug it into one of the ridges. He had done it innumerable times before. TUNNEL OPENING Usually, the lid would pop up to reveal a Vietcong tunnel opening.

Not this time, however. Armstrong grunted with the stick but the small block of ground would not pry open. He removed the stick and tried another direction. Still no movement. "Dammit," the sergeant said. He grabbed the sod and gave a yank. It didn't budge. He squeezed his fingers into the ridges to get a firmer grip. It moved a little but it quickly snapped shut. Somebody was under the earth; pulling down the lid. But before anyone could react to the realization, the sod suddenly shot up into Armstrong's face. A VC guerrilla appeared in the hole and tossed a round ball which hit the startled sergeant in the chest and bounced away. "Grenade!" Armstrong leaped backwards as the grenade exploded. He felt his hip torn open. He fell in a rolling motion which concluded with his rifle pointing directly at the fleeing VC.

He caught sight of the guerrilla again and squeezed off a burst. The gun jammed. Armstrong borrowed a gun and sprayed the nearby trees. He found the guerrilla later, a thin hump of bones dressed in silk and instantly dead from the impact of the rifle shells. Then he felt the dull throbbing of his perforated hip. "It hurt, sarge?" somebody asked. Armstrong smiled faintly. "That's what they pay me for," he said.

Havana Club: Haven for Anti-Fidel Yanks

HAVANA (AP) — On the prado near Old Havana is a fading building where a handful of aging Americans sit in leather chairs waiting for time to pass. Their solitude is unchallenged by the tread of young British and Canadian diplomats playing squash two floors overhead—or by the rumble of the Cuban army trucks outside.

The scene is the American Club, a hangover from earlier days and a paradox in modern Cuba. It is a sort of symbol of the two kinds of Americans who live in Communist Cuba today:

those who support Prime Minister Fidel Castro and those who don't.

Except for the few club members, almost everyone fits the category of supporters.

DIFFICULT TO VERIFY

Exact figures on the number of native-born Americans in Cuba more than eight years after the Castro revolution are difficult to verify here. The best estimate seems to be 100-150.

Any figures are suspect. Some of the Americans no longer consider themselves U.S. citizens. For others, time and their activities have invalidated their passports and clouded their legal status.

The Swiss Embassy, representing U.S. interests in Cuba since the United States broke diplomatic relations with Castro in 1961, has about 1,000 persons registered as Americans. But, an official says, practically all of them are Cuban-Americans waiting for the resumption of the Mexican airlift to New Orleans.

The U.S. State Department, it is believed here, keeps careful check on the Americans remaining in Cuba. At least 95 per cent of them are revolutionaries, a Western diplomat estimates.

'WANT TO BE HERE'

"These people are here because they want to be," he says. "They believe in the revolution and are working for it."

Some have been in Cuba since shortly after Castro came to power.

An American woman who has been here six years works for a government legal division she says is negotiating old U.S. claims against Cuba. Her husband is economics editor of the Communist party paper Granma.

Another works in the English section of Radio Havana, the government voice that beams propaganda overseas in eight languages.

MOST PUBLICIZED

Perhaps the most publicized case involves Robert F. Williams. He fled to Cuba in 1961 after being indicted in his home town of Monroe, N.C., for kidnapping a white couple during a racial disturbance. Once here, he began broadcasting for Radio Havana and continued until mid-1966. Then he was reported in Peking doing the same thing for the Chinese.

Occasionally U.S. citizens drift into Cuba as interim guests. One of these was Philip S. Foner, a history professor at Lincoln University in Pennsylvania — widely quoted in the Cuban press as saying socialism is the only solution for white and Negro workers in the United States.

One case is mentioned by a diplomat who said an American could enter his country if he produced a valid U.S. passport. But, the diplomat added, in view of the American's record here, it seemed unlikely he could get his passport renewed without answering embarrassing questions in Washington first.

2 Views of a Train Ride

By LOIS MANDIBERG

Moods are different at opposite ends of the train. Locked in separate compartments, the engineer in front and the conductor at the end view the passing world from different angles.

Riding the Grand Trunk freight caboose to Durand and the locomotive back to Pontiac, I was offered a unique two-sided view—otherwise titled 'life at both ends of the line.'

Locomotive riding offers foresight, gained from watching the steady rush of passing rails which form a hypnotic center-line splitting the continual panoramic view.

Trees run to meet the locomotive and pass quickly out of sight and trucks brake wildly at crossings to avoid being smashed after failing to notice warning lights.

Caboose riding is quieter, more relaxing, sitting on a bunk smoking, occasionally stepping out on the back stoop to see the receding world go by, and watching the truck calmly start up again as the lights flash off.

The conductor, seated at a table in a wooden room which looks like it's been transported from a home, wrote up the daily report. An ear-piercing whistle warned everyone that brake pressure was being built up. The train was about to move.

SOME JOITS

A small peep meant the "jockey," as the conductor often calls the engineer, has set the brakes. There was a mild jolt—then a rougher one—as the train picked up speed.

The brakeman, who has checked the train from the outside, as it passed him, jumped on and everyone relaxed.

The conductor, smoking a cigarette, told how men in the rear car must continually check all cars in view to see they appear to be running properly.

He said they get used to the rumbling and the jolts as the slack between cars is picked up, but grasping his cigarette holder, he professed he would never live near a railroad track.

'HIGHBALL'

Pointing to a woman waving the 'highball' or 'everything's okay' sign, he explained that she was always out there waving no matter what time the train went by.

After a while, the conductor and brakeman climbed up on cushioned bunks surrounded by windows built at the very top of the car.

As the train went around curves, the conductor peered out the windows at the cars ahead checking that everything looked normal and called all results to the engineer on their citizen band radios.

Traveling back in the locomotive was like riding in a passenger car, only keyed to the steady vibrating of the engine rather than the traditional chug-chug sound a traveler hears when seated further back on a train.

The continual view which gradually blends into sameness mesmerizes the traveler until he is jolted back into awareness by the train's whistle.

The engineer manipulated the air pressure and speed by pushing a throttle forward and gradually slowed the train to a stop at the station.

The iron machine, panting like an exhausted dog as the brakes begin to work, slowly stopped back in Pontiac.

Cong Said Facing Manpower Shortage

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Vietcong may have reached the point of no return in replacing troops lost in the Vietnam war, says a high U.S. official.

"We feel we are rapidly approaching — if we are not already there — the crossover point" at which the Vietcong will begin to feel the pinch of a military manpower shortage, said David G. MacDonald, director of the Agency for International Development mission in Vietnam.

He told the House Foreign Affairs Committee Wednesday his assessment included recruitment of South Vietnamese to the Vietcong cause and infiltration of troops from North Vietnam.

MacDonald's appraisal of the Vietcong came shortly after Secretary of State Dean Rusk told a Southeast Asia Treaty Organization foreign ministers meeting that the United States has endorsed a plan for expanding the demilitarized zone between North and South Vietnam.

POLICY CRITIC

And in a switch likely to please President Johnson, one of the critics of his policy of bombing North Vietnam — Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I. — reportedly now supports U.S. demands that North Vietnam ease its military activity in return for a bombing halt.

An aide to Pastore said the Rhode Islander's change came in reaction to Hanoi's unyielding stance in the face of U.S. peace overtures.

Rusk said the United States has offered to halt all military actions in and above a 26-mile expanded demilitarized zone as a first step toward initiating peace talks. The proposal was initially made by Foreign Minister Paul Martin of Canada.

Hanoi radio already has termed the Canadian proposals — which also call for international control of the expanded zone — an imperialist trick.

S. VIET BACKING
Robert J. McCloskey, State Department press officer, said later the U.S.-Canadian proposal — already endorsed by South Vietnam — would not necessarily mean a cessation of U.S. bombing of North Vietnam.

MacDonald also told the House panel the Saigon government will control 60 per cent of the rural areas of South Vietnam by year's end. He said this compares with an estimate of 52.3 per cent at the end of 1966.

County Treasurer Merits Award for Persistence

By JOE MULLEN

When the powers of tenacity, or, if you prefer, "stick-to-it-iveness," are given out, Oakland County Treasurer James E. Seeterlin merits consideration.

Seeterlin decided 12 years ago to enroll in night classes and further his formal education that had terminated with a high school diploma in 1944.

His goal was to earn a university degree by the time he was 40.

After a dozen years of trudging off to night classes while holding demanding jobs and raising nine children, Seeterlin is just two months away from attaining his goal. He is now 40 and on schedule.

The county treasurer, so dedicated to the pursuit of knowledge that he may next go after a master's degree, feels strongly that young people should continue their educations despite the sacrifice involved.

JOINED AIR FORCE

"When I graduated from Pontiac High School in 1944, military service was the next step and plans for further education seemed unimportant," Seeterlin recalled.

He went into the Air Force shortly after finishing high school and was trained as an aircraft mechanic. His nearly two years of military service included six months of overseas duty in Munich, Germany.

Returning to civilian life, Seeterlin was a member of the Oakland County Board of Supervisors and driver and later a dispatcher for a trucking firm.

He married the former Evelyn Sanford and the Seeterlin children began arriving.

GROWING RESPONSIBILITIES

Growing responsibilities helped prompt the night school start in September 1953 at Wayne State University. He will graduate in June with a BA degree in political science and history.

Seeterlin's political career began 10 years ago this month when he was elected clerk of Waterford Township.

He held this post until April 1963 when he outgrew Township Supervisor Elmer Johnson and became the new supervisor of the large charter township.

Democrat Seeterlin was challenged by Republican Johnson for the top township job in the November 1964 election. Seeterlin retained the post, winning a new two-year term.

ALWAYS AVAILABLE

While serving as Waterford Township supervisor Seeterlin gained the reputation of being an available troubleshooter. He shunned the advice that an unlisted telephone number would shut off nuisance night calls and stayed in the phone book.

The calls came for such problems as lack of water pressure at 3 a.m. and Seeterlin would personally investigate the problem.

As Waterford Township supervisor, Seeterlin automatically was a member of the Oakland County Board of Supervisors and visitors to become Oakland County treasurer.

He was appointed to succeed Charles A. Sparks who served as county treasurer for 38 years until his death in October 1965.

Seeterlin's interest in politics dates back to when he was a small boy on a Waterford Township farm.

As a youth, the county treasurer had a demanding chore school schedule that undoubtedly helped build the level of drive he needed to persist in the long night school program.

DAY'S ROUTINE

"I was up at 5 a.m. each day to do some farm chores before going off to school," he said. After-school chores were also part of his schedule.

He became so proficient as a farm hand that he won the state cow milking championship at the 1939 Michigan State Fair.

The Seeterlins live at 4597 W. Walton in a five-bedroom frame house.

His oldest child, Sue, 18, recently married Thomas Kidwell and has moved to North Carolina. The eight children at home range in age from three months to 14 years.

ASSIGNED CHORES

"The older boys and girls have regular chores to perform around the house," their father explained.

Seeterlin is active in numerous civic, fraternal and church organizations.

He has been chairman of the Waterford Lions Club White Cane program the past four years, holds membership in the Waterford Eagles and Goodfellows and is a life member of Community Activities, Inc.

She Adds Style to Post Office

Mail carrier. The words conjure up a weatherbeaten man, bundled in pants, boots and a worn hat, with a bag hanging from a shoulder as he walks his route.

The same words depict to many Auburn Heights residents a perpetually tanned woman swinging along the street in a stylish skirt and jacket, post office cut, with a bag slung over her shoulder.

Mrs. Aca Sabisch, a grandmother of three, is making her daily rounds.

The first woman mail carrier in Pontiac, blonde-haired Mrs. Sabisch has been working for the postal department almost 12 years.

"A friend of my husband heard about an opening so I went and applied. It seemed like they didn't want woman carriers then as there were very few who were only subs on rural routes."

WORKING AS A SUB

But Mrs. Sabisch got a job working as a sub on rural routes which lasted for almost six years.

That period ended when she became a temporary carrier in Pontiac.

"They stuck me with everything to see if a woman could take it. I had to work split shifts, parcel posts, and unloading semitrucks," she recalls.

The men were pretty cool at first until after they saw she was really working and not trading on her femininity, she said.

LIKE A SISTER

"Now they're used to me because I've been around so long. They treat me like a sister," she explained.

Mrs. Sabisch confessed, "you must like people to enjoy this job. The biggest share of them are nice. Only occasionally you deliver mail to someone who's been aggravated and decides to take it out on the next person who comes along—yep."

"People may resent you at first but then they get to know you. Their problems tend to become yours after awhile," she commented.

She has been known to get out of her truck to warm up a child's icy hands in midwinter while he's waiting for the school bus.

TOOK A RIBBING

This mother's own three children, — two are married and one's in Vietnam — used to tease her about being such a "good looking" mail carrier.

"My husband gets a kick out of it," she said.

Last July Mrs. Sabisch took over a route in Auburn Heights.

She said she enjoys her current route because she walks from door to door in the morning and drives her mail truck in the afternoon.

CLOSER CONTACT

"On a foot route you come in closer contact with people. You seldom see people when mounted," explained this carrier who has 415 stops on her route.

"It's a challenge — especially since people originally didn't want me because I'm a woman," Mrs. Sabisch said when asked why she enjoys her job.

Another pet interest is the Council of Governments proposed for the six-county area of southeastern Michigan. It would include over 300 cities, counties, school districts and townships and its goal is to better resolve common problems.

'LIKE TO BE ONE'

"Two persons will represent Oakland County on the Council of Governments when it is established," Seeterlin said. "I would like to be one of them."

With the demands of his job, family obligations and the night school routine, Seeterlin has little time for recreation but he enjoys an occasional round of golf and periodic trips up north with the kids where they have plenty of room to run.

South Sea Potion May Be Advanced Sleeping Drug

By Science Service
WASHINGTON — The South Sea Islands used to make by chewing up and spitting out the roots of the kava plant seems to be an advanced kind of sleeping drug — possibly a useful addition to the drug arsenal of the Western World, prepared in a different way of course.

No extensive clinical trials have tested the drug's effect on humans. But Dr. Hans J. Meyer, professor of pharmacology at the University in Freiburg, Germany, reported last week without dulling or clouding the mind. He said he thinks sleep is induced by this muscular weakness, making kava more reminiscent of real physiological sleep than any other existing drug, natural or synthetic.

Dr. Meyer reported to an international conference on mind-altering drugs held in San Francisco that the active compounds in kava have a specific depressant effect on the brain stem but not the higher nerve centers, leaving animals relaxed but mentally alert.

Actually the active principles in kava have been something of a mystery. The Western World first discovered kava (Piper-methysticum) when Captain Cook traveled the South Seas. Two botanists on his ship carried back descriptions of the plant and in the early part of the 20th century, its active compounds were supposedly isolated. But the studies became "relatively harmless" compounds which have persisted to induce sleep.

Dr. Meyer told the conference. Taken to excess they will bring on temporary paralysis, but on the basis of his research, all the effects of kava are due to through not death, he said.

Israelis, Arabs Dispute Land

Demilitarized Zones
Main Tension Source

BEIRUT (UPI) — Syria and Israel fought a day-long jet, tank and artillery battle April 7 because an Israeli farmer plowed a few feet of arid border land.

The bitter clash — worst outbreak of border fighting in the Middle East since Israel invaded Egypt during the 1956 Suez crisis — cost seven lives and millions of dollars of wrecked military hardware.

It also highlighted the main source of tension on the embattled 47-mile border between Syria and Israel: Israel is trying to cultivate land Arabs claim is theirs.

This disputed land lies in three demilitarized zones which cover about two-thirds of the Syrian-Israeli border.

AGREED TO MOVE

When the United Nations finally arranged an armistice between the Arabs and the Jews, the Syrians agreed to move out of the zones provided they remain under international supervision pending a formal peace treaty.

But the peace treaty never came because the Arabs refused to recognize the Jewish state.

Now, nearly two decades after the armistice was signed, the Arabs and the Jews are still officially at war.

And the demilitarized zones, which seemed workable as a temporary expedient, have become a festering political sore.

UNCLEAR LINE

Israel now claims sovereignty over the demilitarized zone through which runs an unclear demarcation line.

The Jews have established several farming settlements in the western half of the demilitarized zones, and the Syrians charge, are gradually extending their cultivation east and taking over land the Arab claim.

In this respect, most of the United Nations officials charged with maintaining peace along the tense frontier seem to sympathize with the Arab view.

The double of an artificial bid to ask for the lead of the suit is fine when you use it as you should. Here is a hand from a match between England and Italy in which this bid should have produced a big swing for England.

The bidding in the box shows one of the artificial Italian systems at its faciest. As a partial explanation of the bidding, North's two hearts guaranteed four hearts and South's two spades bid was a game force and implied better spades than hearts.

I don't know exactly what North's four club bid was all about—probably some sort of

Festival Honors Top Director

Waterford Schools Ask for FM Permit

Drunk Driver Focus of Contab

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD — Following a practice begun last year with Robert Wise, the Directors Guild of America is now running a retrospective festival of the films of the latest winner of its annual award, Fred Zinnemann.

Since the Guild's award has always coincided with the Oscar for best direction, the custom works out nicely. And seldom has a victory been so popular, Zinnemann being more or less a director's director.

The selections for the festival demonstrate the versatility of the Vienna-born director.

First comes "The Search" (1948) which would have been important if only for introducing Montgomery Clift to the screen. But it was more than that — a poetic study of the displacement of war, and perhaps the first important postwar film made by Americans in Europe.

Another vital introduction in 1950 — Marion Brando in "The Men." In 1952, "High Noon," which raised the Western to its highest art and established Gary Cooper as a film immortal. "The Member of the Wedding" 1952, a financial flop but cherished by some critics.

"From Here to Eternity" 1953, a modern classic which gave Zinnemann his first Oscar. "The Nun's Story" 1958, his sole venture into religion and a rare spiritual experience. "The Sun-downers" 1960, in which Robert Mitchum proved that he can be a fine actor. "A Man for All Seasons" Zinnemann's dip into the costume picture while avoiding the deadliness of costume pictures.

Zinnemann has directed only 16 features, starting with "The Kid Glove Killer" in 1942 after he graduated from the MGM shorts department. Others included a good wartime film, "The Seventh Cross"; the over-produced "Oklahoma!"; a fine contemporary drama, "A Hatful of Rain"; and his 1963 mistake, "Behold a Pale Horse."

A wide variety of work. But all his films have a common ingredient: humanity. Very often the story concerns a man pursuing his own conscience against big odds — Pruitt in "Eternity" taking on the whole U.S. Army, Gary Cooper trying to marshal public opinion against invading outlaws, Sir Thomas More defying the marital whoring of Henry VIII.

Zinnemann's slight stature and almost inaudible voice belie a will of iron.

Zinnemann once defied the Columbia Studio dictator, Harry Cohn, who wanted to cast a contract player, Aldo Ray, as Pruitt in "From Here to Eternity." The director insisted on Clift.

"I'm president of this company!" Cohn shouted. "You can't give ultimatums."

"I'm not giving you ultimatums," Zinnemann replied. "I want to make a good picture, and I don't see how I can make this picture without Monty Clift." He won his point.

The Federal Communications Commission in Washington, D.C., today acknowledged receipt of an application from the Waterford Township Board of Education for a permit to construct and operate a noncommercial educational FM radio station on 88.1 megacycles.

If approval is granted, the 10-watt station will be situated at Waterford Kettering High School.

School officials previously estimated it would cost $14,500 for the facility and equipment and another $6,000 for remodeling expenses.

ANN ARBOR (AP)—The red-nosed lush weaves out of his favorite saloon, rolls in behind the wheel of his car and turns the key.

Nothing happens.

A tamper-proof breath meter installed in his car has decided the motorist had had too much to drink and won't let the car start.

Or perhaps police take the offender out on a lonely stretch of road where there are no buses and let him walk home. They do in Turkey.

If these, dear drunk driver, aren't enough to make you stay in the saloon all night and off the highway, there are more.

They were among suggestions Wednesday at the University of Michigan at a symposium on how to reduce traffic accidents.

Bernard H. Fox of the U. S. Public Health Service, Arlington, Va., who made the two proposals above, also said that a breath-meter in a car could be used to regulate the speed of the car handled by a tipsy driver.

Fox suggested several other ways of controlling the intoxicated motorist.

Such as: special license plates or window markers for convicted drunk drivers; colored driver's licenses for persons under 21 who might try to falsify their ages for drinking; notices on liquor and beer bottles telling the maximum legal blood alcohol.

Fox also had more benevolent suggestions for dealing with the drunken driver.

Why couldn't the community

figure out the cost of "a proposal to have a person call a central station and be carried (with the car driven by an extra driver) home, and compare with the cost in reduced accidents," Fox asked.

"Let them consider the employment benefits, improvement in the local economy and savings of life, limb and sorrow."

The United States has 60 per cent of the world's automobiles. New York, California and Florida rank first, second and third in number of foreign travelers arriving by sea and air in 1965.

Lindbergh Rebuffs LBJ Bid

WASHINGTON (UPI) — He was "The Lone Eagle" when he was the toast of the world 40 years ago, and "The Lone Eagle" he has remained.

Charles A. Lindbergh has quietly but firmly turned down a White House request that he attend the Paris Air Show next month, the 40th anniversary of his historic flight from New York to Paris.

The request was made last December by then White House press secretary Bill D. Moyers, it was learned Monday.

Moyers was said to have told Lindbergh that President Johnson felt it would be in the national interest for the famed aviation pioneer to attend the air show.

The show is viewed unofficially as a prestige contest between the United States and Russia.

Lindbergh's well-known dislike of publicity may be why he refused to make the trip.

Moyers indicated that Johnson might make a personal attempt to get Lindbergh to change his mind.

But Lindbergh was said to have told Moyers he hoped he would not be put in a position of having to turn down the President.

Lindbergh's solo flight from New York to Paris May 20-21, 1927, is the theme of the U.S. pavilion at the air show. It depicts the progress of American aviation since then.

Alaska Celebrates Success Folly That Flowered

A rain of abuse fell on W. H. Seward when he decided to buy Alaska from Russia for $7,200,000 in 1867. The eloquent secretary of state was vindicated, however, as a wealth of natural resources began to reveal one of the biggest real estate bargains in history. Alaskans celebrate that bargain now, 100 years later, in a year-long observance. Included is the Alaska '67 Centennial in Fairbanks, combining the heritage of the past and the wealth of the present to tell the success story of the nation's biggest state.

One of the principal sources of income is commercial fishing, including processing of Alaska king crab such as these, taken during the winter months.

'Noise Isn't Pain Killer'

By Science Service

GARDEN CITY, N. Y. — "White noise" is not the anesthetic dentists have been led to believe.

In fact, it may lower a patient's pain threshold, unless he told the sound will help, according to a three-year study of 138 children.

Psychological suggestion is the key to whatever success sound has had as an anesthetic, concludes Dr. George Stricker from Adelphi University, here, and Jack Hewitt of the Eastman Dental Dispensary in Rochester, N. Y.

The study contends claims that noise fed into the ears — usually a drowning hum called white noise — acts as a physiological deterrent to pain.

Building, Growing Pains Go On as Brasilia Turns 7

BRASILIA, Brazil (UPI) — Box after box of concrete and glass march in rows down to the edge of nothing on a street named W-3.

Peer down from a plane and Brasilia looks like an urban-renewal project in search of a city.

It is all freeways and shopping centers, parks and playgrounds and big, boxy apartment houses and roads that go clover-leafing around and around and come out everywhere.

For Brasilia has no center, no downtown. And all around is the vastness of central Brazil, 575 miles from Rio de Janeiro and the sea.

"You can't meet a friend on a corner because the streets have no corners," is the common joke. "Your wife can't go shopping downtown because there is no downtown."

This is Brasilia, a city of 250,000. It is the federal capital built from scratch for the sole purpose of becoming the seat of Brazil's government.

Brasilia is seven years old today. It was the dream of then-president Juscelino Kubitschek.

It is a city still at building pains with its share of growing pains.

Workers are putting the last touches to the $7-million U.S. Embassy, a glassy box suspended from concrete arcs.

Brasilia is a city where, by decree of the architects, people will live in glass houses whether they like it or not.

The cathedral, the only uncompleted structure in the original plan, stands with its massive concrete ribs poking five stories into the sky like stacked hockey sticks.

Architect Oscar Niemeyer wanted to roof the spaces between the ribs with glass. Problems cropped up. Insurance companies questioned it. And there is the problem of expansion of glass by the sun.

"Besides," said Archbishop Don Jose Newton de Almeida, "an all glass church in this climate would be a stove."

Some things just didn't go right.

A 14-story office building juts into a freeway right-of-way because somebody goofed on a survey. Work has stopped on the building while contractors and city authorities argue over who is going to have to move what.

In the envelope was a check for nearly $1,500. Clark died, a "GODSEND."

"The money was a Godsend," he says, "but the thoughtfulness behind it — it can't be measured. It's just — just overwhelming."

Enclosed with the check was a note, typed on plain white paper, reading:

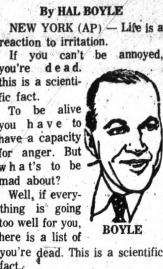

"Through the years you have extended to us many generous deeds of kindness beyond the call of duty. Now we want to show you our appreciation.

"We extend our best wishes to you and to all in your family."

Signed "Your Friends," Elizabeth is doing well, Clark has been told. Through a strict diet, she is able to keep the infection to a minimum.

Eventually, she may have to take treatment from an artificial kidney machine. Improvement in the blood purifying machine now make it possible for a patient to take the treatment at home. If this becomes necessary for Elizabeth, Clark will receive instructions for the operation of the portable unit.

Dye's Linkage With Infection Being Probed

By Science Service

BOSTON — Bright-red carmine dye has been identified as a source of a micro-organism called Salmonella Cubana, which has caused infection in several United States hospitals as well as in Exeter, England.

Widely used in food, cosmetics, candy and drugs, the dye caused the death of one baby at the Massachusetts General Hospital. The infant became infected with Salmonella cubana meningitis and got blood poisoning. Twenty other patients were sickened.

Further cases were reported from the University of California Medical Center, San Francisco.

The Food and Drug Administration has begun investigation from the hospital cases, which include seven in California, one in Oregon and three in Ohio. FDA officials have instructed the manufacturer to tighten control procedures.

Carmine dye is not always contaminated with salmonella, the investigators explain. It has been used for many years as a stool marker without evidence that salmonellosis resulted.

A SINGLE LOT

The outbreaks in both Boston and San Francisco have been traced to a single lot of dye. Other lots have been found sterile.

The infecting organisms may have survived because of too low temperature during processing, or too short a time at high temperature. Another possibility is contamination after the heating process.

Recent FDA restrictions on synthetic dyes because of laboratory evidence of potential cause of cancer have increased the relative importance of carmine, which is a natural substance and does not have to be re-recorded as artificial coloring matter on food packages.

It is estimated that 90 per cent of the red dyes used in food, drugs and cosmetics are synthetic, and that carmine accounts for between 5 and 10 per cent.

RECOMMENDED

Despite the fact that carmine was dropped from the National Formulary in 1950, the dye is still recommended for diagnostic tests in a number of popular textbooks.

Closing of Mental Hospitals Urged

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Let the mentally ill roam free?

Yes, says a prominent psychiatrist. Dr. Werner Mendel has coauthored after five years of research that all psychiatric hospitals should be closed.

"Mental illness is never well-treated in a psychiatric institution," says Mendel, director of adult inpatient services in the psychiatric unit of Los Angeles County General Hospital. "They would be better treated in their own homes, with occasional brief therapy in community centers."

Mendel testified before a state assembly subcommittee on mental health services, which last December reported that current practices in committing patients to state mental hospitals infringe upon civil liberties and urged a tightening of procedures.

The report was followed by these major actions:

1. State Assemblyman John Burton of San Francisco introduced a bill limiting commitments to persons found to be dangerous to themselves or others. Current practice permits commitment of anyone found to be mentally disturbed, whether dangerous or not.

2. In an economy move, Gov. Ronald Reagan ordered elimination of 2,832 of 22,078 jobs in the Department of Mental Hygiene, and a legislative aide called for closing three of the state's 10 mental hospitals, which now house about 25,000 patients.

RIGHT WAY

Mendel, an associate professor of psychiatry at the University of Southern California, says the Burton bill is a step, but only a step, in the right direction.

"We are not good at predicting which persons are potentially dangerous," he said in an interview. "The so-called danger from psychotics is an old myth. It is true that some have poor controls, but statistics show that the general public is far more dangerous — look at the slaughter on our highways."

"Would you lock up everybody preventively?"

The governor's payroll cut-back brought protests from various state employes unions which may delay movement toward reducing mental hospital facilities.

But Mendel believes that eventually all psychiatric hospitals will be abolished.

"Aside from the saving of millions of tax dollars, the patients themselves will benefit," said Mendel.

"Our studies of 3,000 psychotic patients over a period of five years indicate that the shorter the hospital intervention, the more likely the patient is to function adequately outside the hospital.

"Of the 2,936 admitted with a diagnosis of schizophrenia 75 per cent were able to return to the community regardless of whether they remained in the hospital 1, 7, 30, 60 or 90 days or a year."

"Does a patient ever require hospitalization? A review of the patients not admitted showed that 85 per cent functioned satisfactorily outside of the hospital setting without any hospital intervention."

"The other 15 per cent were hospitalized briefly, largely because they had no homes to go to, no families to help them."

OLD DAYS

"In contrast with the old days when we accepted everyone who was brought to County Hospital by relatives or police or who applied for admission themselves, we now admit only 35 to 40 per cent of the 1,500 a month who come to our doors. We find the others can be treated at home."

"The average stay is five days, compared with months or years for some committed under earlier procedures. The only reason the average stay is this long is because we have hospitals in existence. If we didn't have hospitals we would find better ways to take care of the few who have no place else to go, probably in emergency centers."

"With new psychiatric drugs and techniques there simply are no catatonics, no severe cases that do not respond to treatment, except for those who have been in hospitals so many years that nothing can help them. Even these few cases should not be in mental institutions — they should be treated with drugs at home or in medical, not psychiatric, wards."

"We have found that taking a patient into a psychiatric hospital further complicates his disease organization and in no way prepares him for resuming his life in the community."

A CONVENIENCE

"Hospitals are primarily a convenience for the physician who chooses to organize his life in such a way that he finds it useful and efficient to collect patients in one place where they await his treatment."

"We persist in conceptualizing the psychiatric treatment center as a hospital, we continue to staff it with nurses and we budget and build in the tradition of hospitals. Such an approach interferes with the treatment of patients who are behaviorally disorganized and mentally ill."

"No mental patient has ever gotten well in a hospital. It makes little sense to utilize the resources of a psychotically disorganized patient to adapt to the artificial environment of a hospital rather than utilizing those to adapt to the real world outside to which he must eventually return."

Mendel believes the major reason for putting mental patients in hospitals is social.

NO SUPPORT

"The patient is admitted because he is unable to find support in the community — a place to live, a clinic which will see him on a regular basis, a source of income, a family who will tolerate him, a community that will allow this 'strange' individual to remain in its sphere of visibility."

Mendel said treatment could be better carried out by specially trained workers intervening in the patient's environment.

"But what if the family won't put up with the patient?"

"If the home is so stressful that the patient has to leave it," said Mendel, "why not put him up in a motel near the center where he goes for treatment. That certainly would be cheaper than maintaining hospitals — just compare the rates of hotels with hospitals and you'll see what I mean."

Robbins Trying to Qualify Two Cars

Son Is Carrying Father's Hopes for '500' Championship

ROYAL OAK (AP)—Marshall Robbins, 55, slips out of a finely tailored business suit and into oily coveralls, a misanthropic mind: Indianapolis, Memorial Day, victory in the 500.

"We're all more determined than ever to win it for my father," he says.

The father was Jim Robbins, a millionaire industrialist and sportsman who put 19 cars into the 500-mile automobile racing classic from 1951 on.

Victory came near on a few occasions, but never into his arms, and Robbins was killed, along with his wife and son, in a plane crash last Sept. 28.

The surviving son, Marshall, says:

"After the crash, a lot of folks figured the Robbins family would get out of automobile racing. But we don't give up easily."

Now Marshall heads the Robbins racing team, making him

the youngest team leader in American competition.

The No. 1 driver will be 32-year-old Lucien Bianchi. Young Aldo Andretti also has been lined up on a long-term basis, Robbins said.

The team will attempt to qualify two cars for the Memorial Day race at Indianapolis.

"It was the only thing I had ever tried to win and couldn't," Robbins said.

Jim Robbins started as a mechanic at Indianapolis in the late 1940s.

"He first took me there when I was seven or eight years old and I went around the pits and tried to absorb as much knowledge as I could," Marshall recalls. "I guess I got the bug, just like he did."

For the elder Robbins, fascination with the "bug" grew and grew. In 1951, his car finished second. Later his cars were sixth, ninth, 10th three times, 11th and 12th at the finishes.

A Robbins car won the 1950 race, but Jim Robbins refused to take credit for the victory—he had purchased, only 20 minutes before the race, the car to Johnny Parsons drove to victory.

"We always seemed to run into some little mechanical problem," Marshall Robbins said.

"In 1955, for example, we got the pole with Jerry Hoyt driving but some minor problem developed into a major problem and we were unable to finish." Then came the black year, 1966.

Both Robbins cars were wiped out in the first lap pileup after the handling of Billy Foster and Cale Yarborough.

Later in the year, the plane

crash that killed three members of the Robbins family.

And then, only a day or two later, Foster was killed.

"That would have been the time to throw it in," Marshall said.

"But we're in this business for keeps. My father succeeded at everything but the Indianapolis 500—and we're pledged to win that for him."

Tigers Facing Old Nemesis in Night Tilt

Detroit Batters Seeking to End Southpaw Jinx

Lefty George Brunet Has Halted Bengals Seven Straight Times

DETROIT (UPI)—There's only one obstacle between the Detroit Tigers and first place in the American league today—it's the devilish California Angel George Brunet.

The Tigers took an early season day off Wednesday and while they were resting they moved into a second place tie, just a half game behind the New York Yankees.

The Yankees aren't scheduled to play today so that leaves the way clear for the Tigers to grab a good seat for the rest of the season's show.

All they have to do is beat Brunet.

SEVEN STRAIGHT The Tigers' victories over Brunet have been about as numerous as their World Series victories in the past couple years. There haven't been any. They beat him once in 1965 and since then have lost to the stocky left-hander seven straight times.

Last year Brunet, a 32-year-old veteran who has spent most of his life on a yo-yo and to from the minors, stopped the Tigers five times.

This year, in the season opener, he had them shut out until the ninth inning when Gates Brown hit a two-run homer.

But if this is truly the year for Detroit, tonight's game would be the time for the Tigers to break the Brunet spell.

The Tigers will be working without their runs-batter-in leader of last year, Willie Horton, and first baseman Norm Cash is still a question mark. Horton is nursing a foot injury and Cash has a minor eye sore.

STRONG AVERAGES But the Tigers still have some strong early season averages in their lineup. Al Kaline's mark of .370 is the tops among the regulars. He has 10 hits, including three homers, and has driven in five runs.

Catcher Bill Freehan, off to a fast start in an attempt to improve on his feeble .234 mark of last season, is hitting .350 and is leading the team in runs batted in with six.

Jim Northrup is hitting a solid .345 with 10 hits, tying him for the team lead in that department with Kaline.

Joe Sparras has been selected to do the Tiger hurling in tonight's game with the Angels. After an impressive spring training season, Sparras was nicknamed for nine hits and a pair of earned runs in four and one-third innings in his first start against Minnesota.

GAM HONOR — The outstanding Achievement presented by the Michigan Golf Association went to Pete Jackson, Oakland Hills CC member who won the GAM championship last season. Jackson is a former Seaholm High golfer.

GAM Honors Ex-Local Preps

By BRUNO L. KEARNS Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

Oakland Hills Country Club dominated the spotlight in the 1967 honor roll lineup announced by the Golf Association of Michigan at a luncheon in Detroit yesterday.

The No. 1 ranking went to Oakland Hills member Hunter McDonald a 26-year-old transplanted Scot who leaves today to play in the North-South Amateur in Pinehurst, N.C.

The "Outstanding Achievement" award of the GAM went to Oakland Hills' Pete Jackson, last-year's champion of the GAM closed tournament at Franklin Hills.

Jackson, a former Birmingham Seaholm golfer who once teamed with Pete Green when the Maples won the Pontiac Press High School Invitational for three successive years, did not have enough points to qualify for the honor roll.

"That's my next goal," said Jackson, "I think I'll play more this year to try to make the honor roll."

EIGHTH TIME

Green, an Orchard Lake CC member, made the honor roll for the eighth time and was rated No. 5 behind McDonald, Bud Stevens, Tom Draper and John Grace, a college freshman at Houston University.

Behind Green in the ratings were Cliff Taylor of Spring Lake CC, Bill Albright of Detroit Golf Club, Don Stevens of Plum Hollow, Chuck Kocis of Red Run and Jim St. Germain of Meadowbrook.

For Draper and Kocis, this was the 16th time for each on the honor roll list.

PRESS MEDALIST St. Germain, a former Northville High golfer who took medal honors three years ago in the Press tourney, is also attending Houston. He is a sophomore.

Guest speaker of the GAM luncheon was Mike Souchak new head pro at Oakland Hills who lauded his two club members McDonald and Jackson for their honors.

"The Michigan Golf Association and Detroit District are probably the most outstanding golf groups in the country," said Souchak, "and I'm very proud to be associated with golf in Michigan and to be at Oakland Hills."

McDonald, who did not win any major tournaments last year, received his No. 1 ranking by his outstanding finishes in such tournaments as the GAM, State Amateur, British Open, North-South Amateur and others.

He was 10th on the Honor Roll listing of 1966, before taking No. 1 spot this year.

Cager Leans to U. of D.

All-Stater Haywood Close to Decision

The most sought after basketball player in Michigan since Dave DeBusschere is 6-9 Spencer Haywood, All-State and All-American player from Pershing High School.

Spencer indicated yesterday that he has weighed all the offers of the colleges and may decide on enrolling at University of Detroit.

Haywood admitted he has traveled to many other camps, including Tennessee, Vanderbilt, Michigan, Michigan State, Dayton, New Mexico among others.

"It's a tough decision to make," said the 225-pound cager, "but I want a school where I can be happy."

Coach Bob Callahan of U. of D. said, "We've met with the boy several times and we feel his future lies in the city where he's made his reputation."

SUCCESSFUL RESCUE — A girl listed only as 'K. Switzer of Syracuse' (left) is on the verge of being tossed from the Boston A.A. Marathon yesterday by race official Jock Semple, but coming to her rescue is Thomas Miller of Syracuse who moved in to knock Semple out of the running. However, Miss Switzer didn't finish the 26-mile, 385-yard race.

2 Gals Steal Spotlight in 'All-Male' Marathon

AP Wirephoto

RECORD TIME—New Zealand David C. McKenzie crossed the finish line in a record time of 2:15:45 yesterday in the 71st annual Boston A.A. Marathon. McKenzie lost his No. 8 somewhere along the 26-mile, 385-yard course.

Pint-Sized Foreign Ace Posts Record in Marathon

BOSTON (AP)—Little Dave McKenzie of New Zealand was hailed as a giant killer and a top Olympic contender today after a record-smashing triumph over the third, known as Heartbreak Hill, and actually closed to within 30 yards.

The 5-foot-4, 120-pound McKenzie crushed Japanese hopes for a third straight BAA triumph, breezing to victory in 2 hours, 15 minutes and 45 seconds Wednesday.

FAST PACE

McKenzie helped set a blistering pace for 18 miles and then pulled away as he headed into the third of three hills. Yutaka Aoki tried to make up ground on the third, known as Heartbreak Hill, and actually closed to within 30 yards.

However, McKenzie pulled away for his sixth straight marathon triumph, fourth since Jan. 28 and ninth in 11 overall starts.

The bid for the lead took so much out of Aoki that Tom Laris, 26-year-old former Ivy League two-mile champion at Dartmouth, overtook him for second place in 2:16:48.

BOSTON (AP)—Two members of the fair sex and another long-haired runner who had spectators fooled all the way spiced the 71st running of the traditionally all-male Boston A.A. Marathon.

Just as she did a year ago, Roberta Gibb of Winchester, Mass., jumped out of the brush to join the field about 300 yards from the starting line and completed the 26-mile, 385-yard grind.

Miss Gibb, a freckle-faced 23-year-old redhead, was greeted with a roar of approval by the steel-oaked crowd as she crossed the finish line with an unofficial clocking of 3 hours, 27 minutes, 17 seconds.

She was about an hour behind the winner and about midway in the field of 600.

The time was a little off her 3:21.5 clocking of a year ago when she first created a furor by entering the race and outdistancing many of the male runners.

JUST FUN

Asked whether she wanted to be an official contestant she said: "It doesn't matter. It's just fun to race."

The other female runner, K. Switzer of the Syracuse, N.Y., Harriers, started in the middle of the pack despite efforts to stop her.

Meet officials tried to remove Miss Switzer from the race when they saw her, but three teammates formed a human barricade around her.

She did not finish the race, however.

Meet Director Will Cloney said it would not be necessary to disqualify Miss Switzer because she obtained her entry paper falsely, never took the required physical examination, and thus was not really ever entered.

"I'm terribly disappointed that American girls force their way into something where they're neither eligible nor wanted," Cloney said. "All rules throughout the world bar girls from running more than a mile and a half."

LONG HAIR

Spectators thought there was another girl running unofficially, but at the finish the long-haired one turned out to be a 14-year-old boy identified as Rocky Chamberlain of Newcomb, N.Y.

His parents reported at his home that the lad admires the Beatles, and wears long hair to emulate their style.

Northern Michigan Getting All-Stater

MARQUETTE (UPI)—Bill Zhulke, All-State basketball player at Ishpeming High School, has announced he will enroll at Northern Michigan University this fall.

Hills Netters Win

Bloomfield Hills tennis team rolled to its second straight win of the season yesterday with an easy 6-1 triumph over Southfield.

Country Day Playing Host in Invitational Track Meet

An expected 15 schools and estimated 200 trackmen Saturday will attempt to grab the spotlight away from the featured performer of the first two Detroit Country Day Independent School Invitational Track Meets.

The host school at 13 Mile and Lasher in Birmingham in particular has been in the background as far as performances are concerned, finishing fifth and sixth in its first two meets.

The real standout was Country Day's all-weather track since rainy weather plagued the first two endeavors. These were won by Allendale School of Rochester, N.Y., and University School of Milwaukee.

Three state schools have entered teams. In addition to Country Day, Leelanau and Gross Pointe University School will not have to cross state boundaries to participate.

Many of the contestants are due to arrive Friday night to be fed at the school, then stay with the families of the host school's students.

Gains 1st Hole-in-One

Bob Rickard of Walled Lake scored the first hole-in-one at Kensington Park this season when he knocked his 5-iron shot into the cup on the 125-yard, 17th hole Tuesday. He carded a 101 for the round.

The competition Saturday will start at 9 a.m. with the finals expected to begin at 1 p.m. An awards banquet and dance is slated for Saturday night.

Lorenzo Wright, a gold medalist from Wayne State in the 1948 Summer Olympics and currently a track coach in Detroit, will be the principal speaker.

The 15 schools accepting their invitations to the meet are from seven states. In addition to Michigan they are Ohio, New York, Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana and Kentucky.

Central Michigan Makes Top 10 List

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Grambling College, a team with impressive hitting and pitching credentials, ranks No. 1 in the first college division baseball poll conducted by the newspaper, Collegiate Baseball.

The Louisiana team, coached by the school's president R. W. E. Jones, won 18 of its first 19 games.

Others in the top 10, announced Wednesday, in order are: Southern Connecticut, Occidental, Calif.; Pembroke State, N.C.; Georgia Southern; Northern Arizona; Grand Canyon College, Ariz.; Parsons, Neb.; Central Michigan and Marietta, Ohio.

LEAPING AHEAD — Bob Davenport of Country Day tests the pole he'll use Saturday when he and his teammates entertain 14 other independent schools.

Athlete Dies in Canoe Mishap

ALMA (UPI)—A daredevil attempt to go over a dam in the rain-swollen Pine River in a canoe Wednesday cost the life of Al Borgman, 21, of Charlotte, a senior at Alma College who drowned when the small craft capsized.

A companion, John Wootton, from Houghton Lake, was pulled from the swift-flowing waters by another student, Pete Miller, a sophomore from St. Clair.

Wootton and Borgman, an all-conference football tackle at Alma, had bet several other students they would be able to negotiate the six-foot waterfall police said.

As they approached the dam, they lost control and capsized.

Divers and police dragged the river early today in an attempt to recover Borgman's body.

Both he and Wootton were considered accomplished canoeists.

TOP LINEMAN Borgman, one of the state's finest linemen at Charlotte High School before going to Alma, was selected to both the offensive and defensive squads of the all-Michigan intercollegiate Athletic Association team after the last season.

He also was voted most valuable player on the team by his fellow players.

Borgman, a senior, would have graduated in June.

Kansas Meet Has Speedsters

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — Texas Southern's world record-equaling 440 team and Jim Rynn of Kansas, the world's premier miler, will lead an unprecedented assault on the meet records at the 42nd Kansas Relays Friday and Saturday.

The meet opens today with the 10,000-meter run and six freshman-junior college events. Finals will be held in seven events Friday, trials in many others, with 19 finals Saturday, including Rynn's Glenn Cunningham Mile. A total of 1,113 athletes from 116 schools or teams are entered.

Rochester, OLSM Squads Collect Track Victories

Bob Woodruff and Laurey Kessel turned in double victories yesterday in pacing Rochester to a 91-27 track victory over Clawson.

Kessel won the hurdles, taking the lows in 21.8 seconds and the highs in 16.3. Woodruff grabbed the 100 (10.4) and 220-yard (23.7) dashes.

Christopher brothers Mike and Mark totaled 114 points, setting a school record with a pole vault in leading Orchard Lake St. Mary to a 66-52 win over Detroit St. Gregory.

Mike won the long jump (16-11) and low hurdles (23.2).

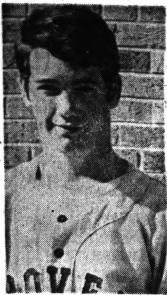

while Mark took the 100 (11.2) and 220-yard (24.5) dashes.

In another meet, Tom Harbourne picked up 16 1/2 points in leading Clarenceville past West Bloomfield, 74-44.

Harbourne won the long jump (18-11), the high (16.9) and low (22.4) hurdles and ran a leg on the 880-yard team.

West Bloomfield's Bob Hautau set a school record with a pole vault.

Victory Lifts Warriors in Battle With 76ers

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Having demolished the specter of a shutout the San Francisco Warriors tonight battle to square accounts with the Philadelphia 76ers in their final National Basketball Association playoff series.

"It was a personal thing for us to fight back," declared 6-foot 11-inch Nate Thurmond.

"Boston took only one game from the 76ers and as a matter of pride we want to do better than the Celtics, perhaps even win the championship, which is possible now."

Thurmond proved the strong tower in the Warriors 130-124 triumph over the 76ers at the Cow Palace Tuesday night after the Eastern champs had won the first two games in Philadelphia.

Warrior shooting came to life and Coach Bill Sharman hopes his club maintains its collective shooting eye before the capacity throng at the Cow Palace tonight.

Coach Alex Hannum of Philadelphia, on the other hand, adjusted defenses to avoid repetition of the 55 points by Rick Barry and 28 by Jim King which rattled the 76ers in the third game.

A day before the game, all reserved seats were sold with only a few grandstand ducats remaining to go on sale at noon today. That assured a crowd of 15,000.

Although they play most of their home games Civic Auditorium, where there'll be closed circuit television of the game tonight, the Warriors played one exhibition and three regular season games at the Cow Palace.

They also have beaten Los Angeles and St. Louis before playoff games.

Backer Taking Golfer to Court in Money Row

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—A suit charging professional golfer Joe Campbell with failure to share monies won on the 1965 and 1966 PGA circuits was filed Wednesday by Jack Comer, proprietor of the Deane Hill Country Club.

Comer, who said he entered the partnership with Campbell in 1965, claimed in chancery court that Campbell had gross winnings of approximately $100,000 in the two-year span.

Comer said it was agreed that all winnings by Campbell or the club, above expenses would be divided equally, except for the first $5,000 in 1966, which was reserved to Campbell.

The suit charged that Comer received only $2,000 of the 1966 earnings and there was no division of the 1965 winnings.

Palmer Sizzles in Golf Tuneup

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Arnold Palmer is on the way to his greatest year in golf, money-wise at least, which explains why no one else was even mentioned when the favorite was established in the $100,000 Greater Dallas Open.

The tournament, with Palmer an entry for the first time in six years, started today over the 6,777-yard Oak Cliff Country Club Course, where Palmer showed he was still winging merrily on when he fired a two-under-par 68 in the pro-amateur Wednesday.

Palmer has played in 10 of the 13 tournaments this year and placed fourth or better in seven of them. He has won two—Los Angeles and Tucson. More important he has won $81,285, of which $73,273 is official money.

Arnie is the all-time money winner with $687,723. This is about $225,000 more than second-place Billy Casper has earned.

Spartan Kicker Ace on Mound

EAST LANSING (AP)—Dick Kenney, Michigan State's football field-goal kicker turned baseball pitcher, gave up only two scratch singles Wednesday as the Spartans took two seven-inning games from Albion, 7-0 and 7-2.

With two out in the fourth, Albion's Gene Muenchhausen hit a blooper over first base which first baseman Tom Binkowski and second baseman Steve Rydal lost in the sun and let fall for a single and the first hit off Kenney in the opener.

the second set of tires is your first real choice!

Now it's just you and all the tires in the world. For a starter, one of them is the only family-car tire certified safe at 100 mph. The Dunlop Gold Seal.

The same one has Dunlop patented Safety-Shoulders.

Lean into a corner, and the patent holds you on. Roll up and over a center line or shoulder, and the patent holds you without a lurch.

The same one has what tire men call a low profile. That means a 15% larger footprint area. More of the Gold Seal's wide tread is always on the road for better traction, greater safety, more miles of wear.

And this same one has the Dunlop water-ejecting tread pattern. That speaks for itself in the wet.

Doesn't that sound like a choice tire for a change?

Upgrade when you replace. Dunlop quality costs no more and is the pride of the Dunlop World Organization... more than 100 Dunlop factories, located in 28 countries, spread over 5 continents, employing over 100,000 people.

U.S., Red Tolls Dip for Week

Yank Casualties Are
Lowest in 2 Months

SAIGON (AP) — The number of Americans killed in combat in Vietnam dropped last week to the lowest level in two months, U.S. military headquarters announced today.

The headquarters said 147 U.S. servicemen were killed in the week ending last Saturday, compared with 177 in the previous week. It was the lowest total since the second week in February when 107 Americans were killed.

A total of 1,142 Americans were wounded last week, the headquarters said. This was 203 less than the previous week's 1,345 wounded.

Communist casualties also fell off last week. U.S. spokesmen reported that 1,511 Vietcong and North Vietnamese were killed, compared with 1,715 a week earlier.

SPORADIC CLASHES

The decrease on both sides reflected generally small-scale ground action through last week. Only sporadic scattered clashes were reported.

South Vietnamese casualties last week remained at about the level of the previous week. The government's military headquarters said 287 government soldiers were killed in action and 14 were missing, compared with 284 killed and 69 missing the week before. Vietnamese headquarters does not announce the number of its wounded.

Casualties among other allied forces last week were 21 killed and 91 wounded, compared with 16 killed and 73 wounded in the previous week. These include Australians, New Zealanders, Filipinos and South Koreans.

U.S. troop strength in South Vietnam last week was reported to be 436,000 men, unchanged from the previous week. U.S. officials estimated the strength of enemy forces — Vietcong and North Vietnamese — at 285,000, 2,000 less than the previous week's estimate.

Teen Injured as Bicycle Is Struck by Car

A 16-year-old bicyclist was injured yesterday when struck by a car in the entrance driveway of a restaurant in the 800 block of North Perry.

Leslie Mark Kay, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Kay of 57 W. Longfellow, is in satisfactory condition at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital.

He suffered a fractured leg, according to hospital authorities.

Driver of the car, Donna Jean Gamble, 17, daughter of Mrs. Eileen Gamble of 4741 Greenville, told police the car had failed as she backed out of the driveway.

Wristwatch, Rings Stolen

Jewelry valued at more than $450 was stolen from a Pontiac home, it was reported to city police late yesterday.

Walter Burt, 52, of 516 S. East Blvd. told officers two wedding rings and a wristwatch were taken from a bedroom dresser.

Investigators said entry was made through a garage door leading into the house.

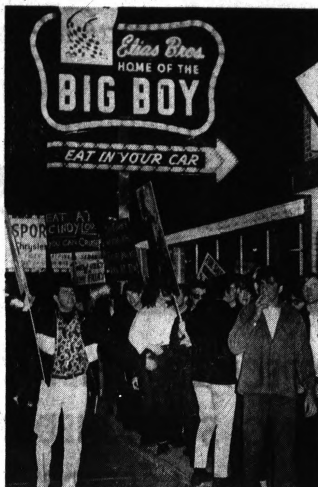

Escorts Brother's Body

Sad Homecoming for Soldier

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Spec. 4 Roby James, 20, stepped off a plane Wednesday night and silently embraced his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl James, and brother Billy Joe, 8. He returned from Vietnam as escort for the body of another brother Spec. 4 Kenneth James, 18.

An Army representative knocked at Mrs. James' front door here last week. She met him with a single question: "Which one?"

Kenneth James went to Vietnam last May.

ANGRY TEENS — Royal Oak youths demonstrate for the second straight night against newly instituted "cruising" policies at five drive-in restaurants in that city. A joint order issued by five Woodward Avenue drive-ins prevents cars from entering unless a parking vacancy exists. Police arrested one youth on a disorderly conduct Tuesday night, but reported no trouble last night. The cruising order was signed by Big Town, Elias Bros. (two drive-ins), Maverick's and the Totem Pole.

Recreation Studies Proposed for County

Plans for a $33,500 dual study program aimed at helping determine needs and locations for open space and recreation areas in Oakland County were proposed yesterday.

Speaking at a joint meeting of the County Planning Commission and the County Parks and Recreation Commission, George N. Skrub, county planning director, suggested that the studies be launched as soon as possible to meet a Dec. 31, 1967 target date for completion.

A question arose on funding of the two programs and it was agreed that the chairmen and directors of the two commissions meet and attempt to resolve this issue by May 2.

One of the studies proposed as a basis for the county recreation program approved last year at the polls would cost $20,000 and the other $13,500.

Won't Serve, Says Cassius

LOUISVILLE (AP) — Heavyweight champion Cassius Clay said today he will not wear an Army uniform "under any circumstances."

Clay said that it would be a denunciation of his Muslim religion.

"No, I am not going 10,000 miles from here to help murder and kill and burn another poor people simply to help continue domination of white slave masters over the darker people the world over," he told a news conference.

The 25-year-old boxer is scheduled for induction April 28 in Houston, Tex.

Dow Earnings Up

MIDLAND (AP) — The Dow Chemical Co. reported first quarter records for the period ended March 31. Net income totaled $30.8 million, or $1.03 per share. This compares with the $27.9 million, or 93 cents per share, earned during the first quarter of 1966.

Because of porpoise's tender skin, they often suffer rope burns from their capture net and are given antibiotics to ward off infection.

To eradicate parasites and fungus, every newly captured specimen is placed in a special tank and treated with ultraviolet rays and a copper sulphate solution.

Roby James signed up only a few days ago for a second six-month tour of duty in Vietnam, he told his parents.

"Will you have to go back?" asked Mrs. James.

"I just don't know," he replied. "It might keep Billy Joe from going some day."

Diggs Slugged by Miami Thief

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Rep. Charles C. Diggs Jr., D-Mich., was beaten and robbed Wednesday night outside a downtown Miami bar where he had gone during an airplane layover on a flight to Miami, police said.

The 44-year-old Detroit representative said he walked out of the bar without having a drink because it looked like a tough place, officers said.

He told police he was accosted by a man who stuck out his hand and when Diggs "reacted like a politician" the man slapped him.

Diggs said he was robbed of $150 in cash, watch and a diamond ring.

The congressman declined to say whether he was going to Miami to confer with his newly reelected colleague, Adam Clayton Powell.

Police said Diggs was not injured seriously and apparently planned to continue his trip to Miami today.

Community Club Elects Its Officers

Mrs. Gordon R. Allison of 49 E. Walton has been elected president of the Baldwin-Walton Community Club, it was announced today.

Other officers elected include Vice President Mrs. Wayne Harrison, Secretary Mrs. Leslie H. Hudson, Treasurer Mrs. Robert Grant and Historian Mrs. Norman Bolton.

In addition, club members named a 12-person board of directors and appointed four committee chairmen.

Gobblers Are Named Right

MADEIRA, Minn. (AP) — It isn't always the cook who stuffs the turkey. Sometimes the turkey stuffs himself, workers who dress the birds in Doughboy's processing plant here have discovered.

From the gizzards employees have recovered such items as pennies, spark plugs, a still-running 1947's wristwatch, rings, nails, tacks, nuts, bolts, cuff links, buttons, parts of watches and other jewelry.

The other study would cost $13,500 and presumably will be borne by the parks and recreation commission.

Conducted by the U. of M.'s School of Natural Resources, it would be a field inventory aimed at identifying all significant potential recreation areas in the county and interpreting recreation demand in relation to potential sites.

Officials of the Huron Clinton Metropolitan Authority were present at the meeting but made no funding commitment.

W. ROBERT CARR

Their Work's a Little Fishy

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Curator Warren Zeiler and his four assistants have a very specialized job at the world's largest tropical marine aquarium here, and much of it is done waist-deep in water.

It is their task to keep 10,000 specimens in the aquarium healthy and happy.

Because of porpoise's tender skin, they often suffer rope burns from their capture net and are given antibiotics to ward off infection.

To eradicate parasites and fungus, every newly captured specimen is placed in a special tank and treated with ultraviolet rays and a copper sulphate solution.

Also surviving are two sisters, Mrs. Alice Rawley of Pontiac and Mrs. Frances Steele of Woodland Hills, Calif., and four brothers, Ralph D. of Pontiac, Arthur G. of Hollywood, Calif., Perc R. of Miami, Fla., and Edward A. of Buffalo, N.Y.

A graduate of Albion College, Carr also attended Ferris Institute, majoring in math.

For several years he taught school at Walpole Lake and later at Swartz Creek. He had been a member of First Methodist Church, Pontiac.

After moving to Burbank, Carr owned and operated a grocery store before he retired.

Navy Document Censored

'Big Brother' Directive Killed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department has killed a Navy "big brother" directive, it was learned today.

The directive advised civilian employees to seek "wise and mature counsel" before linking up with persons or organizations of a political or civic nature.

A Senate Constitutional Rights subcommittee became interested in the directive weeks ago, and raised questions about it.

The document was issued under the Navy's security program and was headed, "SUGGESTED COUNSEL TO EMPLOYEES."

It said: "A number of our citizens unwittingly expose themselves to unfavorable or suspicious appraisal which they can and should avoid."

This may take the form of an inadvertent remark; an unwise selection of friends or associates; membership in an organization whose true objectives are concealed behind a popular and innocuous title; attendance at and participation in the meetings and functions of such organizations even though not an official member; or any of numerous other clever means designed to attract support under false colors or serving to impress an individual with his own importance."

Therefore, the directive said, "it is advisable to study and seek wise and mature counsel prior to association with persons or organizations of any political or civic nature, no matter what their apparent motives may be in order to determine the true motives and purposes of the organization in question."

The Navy document did not specify to whom the employees should turn for the "wise and mature counsel." Presumably, such counsel was available from the Navy.

Unwittingly led

The directive said that "the simple principles of good citizenship require that all enthusiasm for well sounding functions be tempered with the wisdom of full knowledge of the real forces and aims behind them, so that well meaning citizens will not be unwittingly led into aiding and promoting forces which are contrary to their own basic beliefs."

The Pentagon looked into the need for this directive, at the request of the Senate subcommittee.

When asked what action it was taking, the Pentagon issued this terse statement: "The Department of Defense has taken action to cancel the directive, effective immediately."

1-Man, 1-Vote Foes to Wait

LANSING (AP) — Senate Republicans agreed Wednesday to delay for a week consideration of a move to cancel court rulings requiring one-man, one-vote apportionment of both houses of state legislatures.

A resolution asking Congress to call a constitutional convention to adopt an amendment canceling the 1964 U.S. Supreme Court ruling requiring such apportionment is before the Senate Business Committee.

Committee chairman Robert Vander Laan, R-Grand Rapids, said Monday the Republican-sponsored resolution would.

COULD BE TOOL

There has been speculation Republicans might use the controversial resolution as a negotiating tool in winning necessary Democratic votes for Republican Gov. George Romney's fiscal reform plan.

Romney told newsmen Tuesday he does not favor consideration of the appointment question "at this time."

The Romney fiscal reform package, including a state income tax, is pending before both houses.

James Phares, 19, husband of the victim, told police he found the body of his wife, Judy Ann, when he returned home from his night shift job at a machine plant in nearby Utica.

Phares said he grabbed a gun in the couple's bedroom and searched the house but found no suspects in the slaying.

Mrs. Phares, mother of an 18-month-old daughter, was last seen last night by her mother-in-law, police said.

Where'd That Country Go?

Map Maker, Make Me a Map---Again

NEW YORK (UPI) — When your tattered tourist atlas reads Madagascar and customs officials curiously insist it's the Malagasy Republic, don't shoot the map maker — he's doing the best he can.

He's turning out updated maps with almost the regularity of newspapers, and still can't keep up with the new countries shifting borders and changing names in an age of social and political unrest.

"But in disputes like the one between Chile and Argentina, we try to stick with a neutral course."

SILLY MOVE!

"In Antarctica, despite all the disputes over who possesses what, we feel that nobody can claim it — that's silly."

For its English language maps, Hammond's obtains place names from the U. S. Board on Geographic Names, an advisory council of geographers who advise the government.

"In spelling foreign names, we try to stick with newspapers' style, or give alternate spellings," he said.

U.P. Wins Grant

MARQUETTE (AP) — The Upper Peninsula Committee for Area Progress in Marquette has won a $125,000 federal grant for an 18-month program to explore juvenile delinquency in the Upper Peninsula.

Many countries are discovering that national parks are a creative resource, the National Geographic says. In Kenya, for instance, tourists attracted by lions, elephants and other big game spend about $25 million a year. Annual park maintenance costs only $400,000.

Lunar Surface Is Mobile Rock

By Science Service.

WASHINGTON — The moon is largely covered with a two-to-three-yard deep layer of broken rock that has some of the physical properties of slightly damp sand.

This layer is apparently moved around by pressure waves from the impact of meteorites and large fragments thrown out of craters, according to a U.S. Geological Survey scientist.

Dr. E. M. Shoemaker presented that picture of the lunar surface, based on Surveyor 1 spacecraft findings, to the American Geophysical Union's 48th annual meeting here.

About a 35-degree slope is the steepest possible in this debris, he said.

A similar layer of broken material has been observed in the craters in the Atomic Energy Commission's nuclear test site at Yucca Flats, Nev. The material slowly slumps into the craters as it is agitated from succeeding blasts nearby, just as the lunar debris is moved by meteorite impact, Dr. Shoemaker declared.

"Give it time and even a crater a depth of three yards.

According to cartographers, the facts in that 18-year-old atlas in the bookstore at home are more than 40 per cent wrong, and Junior can become somewhat confused when he tries to find countries like Mali, Malawi and Lesotho — or wonders why Alaska is called a territory.

Since 1959, 39 new countries have appeared, 34 have changed their names and 32 changed their boundaries.

In addition, 2,500 towns and communities have appeared, disappeared or just switched names.

Volcanoes have created new islands, bodies of water have grown, shrunk — or started fresh behind a new dam to alter hundreds of square miles of landscape.

EXPLAINS PROBLEM

Caleb D. Hammond, president of Hammond Inc., one of the world's largest map making firms, explained the problem with rueful succinctness: "In the map business you don't have to be crazy, but it helps."

"Ours is a job of continual revision — of continually completing a map and then starting over to bring it up to date," he added.

Hammond, a genial man in his mid-forties, is the third generation successor to the Maplewood, N. J. firm founded by his grandfather in 1900.

Today's commercial maps of the world must be much more detailed than those of even 25 years ago, Hammond said.

GO EVERYWHERE

"People go everywhere nowadays. We no longer can just highlight the out-of-way spots."

"Our greatest change in the last 25 years is accuracy," he explained. "Aerial photography during World War II and after has added immensely to detail. And in the last 10 years, more accurate surveying of the earth's topography has given us more accurate figures."

Despite the highly touted picture taking by satellites, Hammond said, photo mapping by airplanes is still the most practical.

"We use some satellite photos, but their accuracy is still in the future," he said. "They will be very helpful over large areas to map."

HOW TO DO IT

If the rapidly changing political lines on the globe are map makers' number 1 problem, numbers 2 and 3 are what hasn't been charted — and how to obtain what has been.

Hammond said no commercial map firm does its own surveying and, "like reporters," must obtain up-to-date geographic facts where it can.

"The Air Force is mapping areas of the world it considers potential trouble spots," he said, "but many sections of the United States still are not accurately mapped."

Much of the U.S. government aerial maps and other charting data are tied up for security reasons.

WIDE RELIANCE

To get up-to-date information on Communist countries, for instance, Hammond must rely on a variety of government and private sources, which have included some unexpected strokes of luck.

"One day a Russian walked into our office carrying a new eight-foot-long map of the Soviet Union and offered to sell it to us. We photographed it and gave it back to him," Hammond said. "He must have been very hungry."

To add to map makers' woes, many boundaries are continually in political dispute.

"Normally we go along with the government on political boundaries," Hammond said.

128 Killed in Cyprus Plane Crash

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Rescuers collected 126 burned, broken bodies today on the slopes of a hillcock where a chartered Swiss airliner crashed during a thunderstorm. The airline said two of four survivors died in a hospital, bringing the total dead to 128.

In one of the worst crashes in aviation history, the four-engine turboprop Bristol Britannia airliner crashed near Nicosia during the night as it attempted to land.

There were reports the plane had been hit by lightning.

Most of the dead were German and Swiss tourists returning from a trip to the Far East. The plane's crew included four Britons, all killed.

"This is the most terrible sight I've ever seen," said one of the first persons on the scene. "There are bodies all over the place, some of them in pieces."

The survivors were in the plane's tail section, the only part which remained somewhat intact.

"We kept looking but all we could find apart from those lucky few in the tail were dead people," the rescuer said.

WORKED IN DOWNPOUR

Greek and Cypriot policemen and soldiers, British airmen and U.N. Peace Force members worked in a downpour under spotlights beamed down by hovering U.N. helicopters.

The plane was flying from Bombay, India, to Cairo, Egypt, but was diverted to Nicosia because of bad weather.

The owner, Globeair of Switzerland, said it heard from the air control tower in Nicosia that the plane was struck by lightning and burst into flames.

Evidence at the scene indicated the plane hit a bump in the ground, then bounced a few hundred yards into the slope of a hillcock less than 100 feet high.

SUDDEN FLASH

"I was watching the plane flying low with lights in all its windows," an airport employee said. "Then suddenly there was a flash and I could not see the plane any more."

"I thought it was another flash of lightning but it could have been the plane hitting the ground."

A helicopter took off and directed fire engines and ambulances to the scene.

Rescuers had to toil through muddy fields in the darkness to reach the site, where pieces of the wings and engines lay scattered in a square-mile area around the main sections of the broken fuselage.

BODIES BEING REMOVED — Rescue workers carry the body of a plane crash victim past wreckage of a chartered Swiss airliner that went down near the airport at Nicosia, Cyprus. It was one of the worst crashes in aviation history, leaving 128 dead. Two persons, seated in the plane's tail section, survived the tragedy.

Mile From Haiphong

Bombing Near Port

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Navy warplanes attacked a thermal power plant just over a mile from Haiphong today, the U.S. command announced.

It was the closest raid so far to North Vietnam's major port and second city.

A U.S. spokesman said two power plants were hit by warplanes from the U.S. 7th Fleet carrier Kitty Hawk just before noon.

One plant was located 1.1 mile from Haiphong, the other 2.1 miles from the port city.

Yesterday, American pilots flew through the heaviest defenses ever thrown up over North Vietnam, downed

Talks With HUD Encourage Taylor

A second meeting with Housing and Urban Development (HUD) officials in Washington produced "encouragement," but we're still got a lot of work to do," Mayor William H. Taylor Jr. said today.

Taylor, James L. Bates, director of planning and urban renewal, and Roy B. McAfee, housing director, flew to Washington yesterday in another attempt to obtain federal approval of a proposed high-rise housing project on Pontiac's East Side.

HUD officials have withheld approval on the project because of what they feel to be an excessive per-unit cost placed on the apartments by developer Charles L. Langs.

The most recent proposals submitted to HUD by Langs estimated cost per unit at about $16,650.

"The people we talked to yesterday cited other projects in the country costing between $15,200 and $15,700," Taylor said.

"I think we can probably reach agreement with them if we're able to cut back our costs closer to those figures."

Taylor said HUD officials suggested trimming what were termed "luxury items" from Langs plans.

Implied Consent Measure Passed by State House

LANSING (AP) — The House yesterday passed the most controversial issue it has tangled with so far, sending a much-amended implied consent bill to the Senate.

The bill provides that results of chemical tests on suspected drunken or impaired drivers can be admitted in court as evidence and that an arrested suspect would lose his license if he refused the test.

Implied consent has failed to get through the Legislature the last several years.

Yesterday's House vote was 72-31, with 52 Republicans and 20 Democrats supporting the bill.

These were major provisions of the House-passed bill:

- Anyone who accepts a license enabling him to drive in Michigan is assumed to have consented, by implication, to chemical tests of his blood, breath, urine or saliva and to use of the test results in court.
- Withdrawal of blood for a test must be by a doctor, nurse or medical technician and "in a medical environment."
- A person may choose a breath test.
- Only a person arrested for drunken or impaired driving can be required to take a test, and he must, if able to comprehend, be told of his right to refuse it and of the consequences.
- If a policeman certifies to the secretary of state that an arrested person refused the test and that there were reasonable grounds to assume he was intoxicated, the person's license would be suspended automatically for from three to 24 months.

Dog Quarantine Imposed in Area After Skunk Bites

Two bites by skunks found to be rabid have resulted in a temporary dog quarantine in the townships of Shelby and Washington and in the city of Utica.

Dr. Oscar Stryker, Macomb County health officer, said the quarantine would stay in effect "until we feel the situation is under control."

Prompted by a Romeo woman suffering a skunk bite Tuesday, the ban followed an earlier Shelby Township incident in which a dog was reportedly bitten.

Stryker said Mrs. Jessie Schmidt, 47, of 187 W. LaFayette, Romeo, is undergoing a series of 14 to 21 "very painful" shots as an immunity against rabies.

Bodies of 2 Infants Found Near Utica

By JEAN SAILE

The bodies of premature twin babies were found last night at the foot of an embankment on Ryan Road, two miles west of Utica in Shelby Township.

Taken to St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Mt. Clemens, for an autopsy which was to be conducted this morning, the bodies were those of a boy and a girl.

Shelby Township police said the infants were wrapped in a newspaper, bed-sheets and a plastic cleaning bag.

They were discovered at 6:55 p.m. by two boys returning from the public fishing site on Ryan between 22 Mile and Hamlin.

The two, Philip McDougall, 16, of 3501 Denson, Utica, and Donald McAllister, 17, of 36150 Ryan, Shelby Township, ran a short distance down the road to Shelby Fire Hall No. 2 on Ryan and reported the find to Sgt. Earl Radtke.

POLICE NOTIFIED

He notified police and Sgt. Alfred Hogerman and Officer Steve Surchik met the boys at the scene.

Dr. Oscar Stryker, Macomb County health examiner, was summoned and ordered the autopsy.

It was the belief of officers that the infants could have been there for at least 24 hours.

Police Chief Robert Smith said his department is proceeding on an investigation of clues contained in the body wrappings.

Detective Glen McAlpine has been assigned to the case.

UAW Faction Wants 30 Pct. Benefits Hike

DETROIT (AP) — At least one United Auto Workers faction is demanding a wage and fringe benefits gain of 30 per cent over the next three years as part of the union's 1967 contract goals.

The 30 per cent "package" was proposed in leaflets handed 3,000 union delegates meeting today. The leaflets outlined a four-point program and bore the names of 10 local union presidents and at least one member each from eight other locals.

There was little doubt that delegates would shunt aside the four-point program as such, in favor of a broader, more flexible approach proposed by UAW President Walter P. Reuther who says any new contract must carry a guaranteed annual income.

The four-point program proposes optional retirement at full pension after 30 years service, regardless of age; company-paid group auto insurance; a 35- or 37½-hour workweek; and whatever money is left from 30 per cent going for wage increases.

Robert Weissman, president of a 3,600-member local at Twinsburg, Ohio, called the four-point program which he supports should provide a wage increase of at least 5 per cent a year, after the other three demands are met.

JOB SECURITY

The UAW's year-old independent parts and supplier council, representing workers in supplier plants, appealed to negotiators to pay special attention to job security.

The council, representing some 350,000 UAW members, also said it wants applied to independent parts makers the same provisions won in all new contracts with the automotive big four — General Motors, Chrysler, Ford and American Motors.

Sunlight Blurs Surveyor Photos

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Surveyor 3's first glare-blurred pictures hint it may be resting in a lunar crater after a gentle touchdown in an area astronauts someday may explore.

While the three-legged craft kept its moon-scratching claw retracted, spacecraft controllers at Jet Propulsion Laboratory said photographs radioed during 10 hours after the landing yesterday showed less detail than those from Surveyor 1 last June. But they theorized this was due to sunlight reflected into the camera.

A spokesman said the horizon around the vehicle was about five degrees higher than it would be if Surveyor 3 had landed on a flat plain.

Diameter of the crater and the height of its rim were not known.

First operation of a scoop designed to extend from the spacecraft and dig in the lunar soil was scheduled for late tonight or early Friday.

HOWARD HILL

Highway Chief for State Quits

LANSING (AP) — State Highway Director Howard Hill announced his resignation yesterday and said the decision had nothing to do with an investigation of alleged irregularities in the highway department.

Hill, 60, has been chief of the state's largest department since 1955.

He previously had been managing director of the department for seven years and deputy director for engineering for one year.

Investigators from the attorney general's office have been looking into charges of overpayments on some contracts, favoritism for some contractors, and other allegations.

Reached in Washington, where he is conferring with officials of the Bureau of Public Roads, Hill told the Associated Press his resignation was not prompted by the current probe.

Michigan Bell Tells Story of Rapid Growth in County

The picture of rapid telephone growth in Oakland County was put into sharper light today when the Michigan Bell Telephone Co. detailed construction expenditures it has made and has yet to make before the end of this year.

To meet demand for new telephone service and a rate of telephone usage that has reached landslide proportions, Michigan Bell will have spent more than $51 million in the larger communities of Oakland County by the end of 1967, according to company officials.

Charles B. Woodhead, public relations manager for the Pontiac district of Michigan said the two-year outlay for the county is well above 10 per cent of the total Michigan Bell will have spent in its entire territory, indicating a "phenomenal proportions of growth in this area."

The company recently revised its statewide construction program for 1967, boosting it to a record $194 million, about $7 million more than was spent in 1966, putting two record years back-to-back to meet demand.

Woodhead said Michigan Bell will spend $27 million in Oakland County this year following a 1966 outlay of $24 million for a two-year total of $51 million.

ACCELERATED GROWTH

In the four most populated communities in the county — Pontiac, Royal Oak, Birmingham and Southfield — Woodhead said Michigan Bell added about 28,000 telephones, an accelerated rate of gain such as the company has never before experienced.

Central office equipment to be added this year to serve Oakland County telephones will require an outlay of more than $8 million.

About $10 million will go for new outside plant facilities, such as exchange and long distance cable, and other equipment, and about $14 million will be spent for new buildings and alterations to house some of the added equipment.

Dems Trying to Seat Powell Admit Facing Uphill Battle

WASHINGTON (AP) — Proponents of seating Adam Clayton Powell admit they'll face an uphill fight if the controversial Harlem Democrat comes to claim the seat to which he was overwhelmingly reelected last week.

Although any new showdown in the three-month-old wrangle will not come before next week at the earliest, 11 liberal Democrats made public Wednesday a claim the seat to which he was overwhelmingly reelected last week.

But their appeal to fellow House members "to resolve this matter in accord with the spirit of the Constitution" was coupled with an admission that few votes have switched since the House voted March 1 to exclude the flamboyant preacher-politician.

"It appears that a majority of the House is prepared to exclude once again," they said.

VOTE SAME

Head counts made by a number of House leaders, in order to detect changes since March 1, have revealed that most members would vote now as they voted then. This would mean Powell again would be excluded, and another new election would have to be held for his New York 18th District seat.

New York election officials said, meanwhile, that it might be a week or longer before the certification of Powell's election could be on its way to the House clerk.

What happens then has not yet been decided. Powell's attorneys are reported split — some favoring delaying his appearance here until the court rule finally on his suit to overturn the exclusion, and others wanting Powell to return here to fight for his admission.

Powell remains on his Bahamian fishing retreat of Bimini, keeping largely to himself and weighing possible courses.

PRaises STAND

The statement by the 11 congressmen praised "the vigorous and courageous leadership in the House Democratic leadership in favor of honoring the April 11 election" and called on Republican leaders to continue the support they gave last month to a select committee's recommendation that Powell be seated but censured, along with loss of seniority and withholding of $40,000 of his future House salary.

Naming of Babies Simple as A-B--Z

By JOE MULLEN

What's in a name? The answer is "not very much" as far as a new mother at Botsford General Hospital in Farmington Township is concerned because she would like to give her first born child 26 names, one for every letter of the alphabet.

In relation to the birth weight of the boy born to Mrs. William (Carolyn) Ryan of Dearborn Heights, the full alphabet of names would be five per pound.

The little 5-pound 2-ounce Ryan baby was born Sunday and his 26 names ranging from Abraham to Zachariah already were determined by his mother.

In fact, Mrs. Ryan had another list of 26 names ready in case the baby was a girl.

PROBLEM EXISTS

But a problem exists. The Oakland County clerk's office advised Mrs. Ryan that a maximum of three names is allowed on the birth registration.

She tentatively has settled on Timothy William Hugh but plans to see her attorney tomorrow when she arrives home from the hospital to find out what can be done to officially use all 26 names.

"I do a great deal of reading and just love all people," Mrs. Ryan explained. "This is why I am familiar with so many names and want to use them all."

An honor graduate of Southwestern High School in Detroit, Mrs. Ryan worked as a bookkeeper prior to her first visit to the hospital for maternity.

BIBLICAL SOURCE

"Most of the boy's names selected have a biblical source," she said. "The girl's names ranging from Arya to Zinnia relate mainly to flowers. I love gardening, too," Mrs. Ryan explained.

The 25-year-old mother would like to have four children, which would mean 105 names if her lawyer is successful in carrying out her wishes.

2nd Incumbent in School Race

A second incumbent, Russell L. Brown, will run in the Pontiac Board of Education election June 12.

Brown, 57, has filed a non-nominating petition for a second four-year term, Vernon L. Schiller, schools business manager, said. Monroe M. Osmun will also seek reelection.

Four years ago, Brown unseated incumbent Rev. J. Allen Parker in the school board election. Brown is now the board's vice president.

A social studies and mathematics teacher at Bloomfield Hills Junior High School, he has more than 30 years of experience in education.

At one time he was a junior high school principal in St. Clair County. Brown lives at 483 Lynch.

Fire at Home Does $12,300 in Damage

Fire struck a Waterford Township home yesterday, causing an estimated $12,300 damage. Using four pieces of equipment to battle the blaze at the J. W. Ford house, 2115 Watkins Lane, township firemen had the fire under control in about one-half hour.

However, they remained at the scene from 12:50 to 2:18 p.m.

Damage to the $13,000 one-story home was listed at $7,800. The contents, valued at $4,500, were destroyed, firemen said.

Nobody was at home at the outset of the fire. None of the fire fighters were injured.

Firemen believe the blaze may have started in or near a hi-fi set in the living room.

Michigan Bell Tells Rapid Growth Story

More than $7 million will be expended on station equipment — the purchase of telephone instruments and the costs to install them.

LARGEST EXPENDITURES

Woodhead said the largest expenditures for central office expansion will be made in Pontiac, Royal Oak, Birmingham, Southfield and Farmington where about $3 million will be spent. This is for central office equipment only. Woodhead emphasized, as another $5 million or more will be required for associated outside plant equipment.

The $4.4-million construction expenditure to be made in Pontiac alone, more than half the total for the four communities, Woodhead said, is based on forecasts of a continuation of high demand and usage.

More than 1,700 telephones were added in Pontiac in 1966 bringing the total to more than 45,000 customers served by the Pontiac "Federal" and "West" central offices.

Part of the heavy demand placed on telephone facilities, Woodhead said, stems from the increasing number of customers requesting better grades of service and using their telephones more.

ONE-PARTY LINES

He said that nearly 83 per cent of the Pontiac subscribers have one-party lines compared with the statewide average of 65 per cent.

"Just three years ago," Woodhead said, "only 73 per cent of Pontiac's customers had one-party lines."

He attributed most of the increased usage to new service offerings, such as Metro-Calling and Econo-Unit service, coupled with reduced prices and expanded calling privileges.

Woodhead said the calling burden on the Federal central office will be lightened this year with a transfer of some subscribers to the new Pontiac North office. Another transfer to reduce overloading will place some Federal customers in the West office.

The first Roman Catholic priest to serve in Congress was Gabriel Richard, who served as a delegate from Michigan in the 18th Congress from 1823 to 1825.

Frederick J. Poole, general chairman of the 1967 Pontiac Area United Fund campaign, today announced the appointment of Theodore B. Bloom as GM industrial chairman of the largest fund-raising division of the campaign.

Bloom, director of personnel, Pontiac Motor Division, since 1959, was also chairman of the GM campaign in 1962.

The Industrial Division includes employee solicitation of Pontiac Motor and General Motors Truck and Coach divisions, Fisher Body plant and Buick warehouse.

The combined total of employee and GM corporate gift last year reached $702,483 of the $1,042,107 raised during the drive.

The annual fund-raising effort which provides for operating expenses of the 55 agency affiliates is scheduled to begin in October and includes youth, family, child care, as well as health and research services.

It is estimated that in addition to the 5,000 volunteers working on the drive each year, an additional 4,000 GM employees assist with in-plant solicitation efforts.

In addition to campaign work, Bloom is a member of PAUF Planning Committee and served as chairman of the recent subcommittee on job classification and salary plan, a director of the United Fund supported Michigan Cancer Foundation and Urban League of Pontiac.

He is a director and past president of the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce, executive committee member of the Pontiac Committee on Alcoholism and 1965 chairman of the Oakland County United Negro College Fund.

Cosmotron's
End Mourned

By Science Service

MIAMI BEACH — The American Chemical Society held a wake here recently to mourn the death of a machine.

The dear departed was the three-billion-electron-volt particle accelerator — cosmotron — at Brookhaven National Laboratory, Upton, N. Y., cut off in the midst of interesting experiments by an economic decision of the Atomic Energy Commission.

As if to emphasize their grief, the chemists awarded their 1967 prize for nuclear applications in chemistry to Dr. Gerhart Friedlander for work he did with the cosmotron before it was shut down last December.

"It is ironic," he said, "that this area of research should be deemed worthy of an award by the ACS" when the AEC has cut off funds to the facility.

There are many questions that might have been answered by use of the cosmotron, Dr. Friedlander said, including some about the process of nuclear fission, the source of energy of the A-bomb and the nuclear power plant.

Prisoners Get Word: Tend to Knitting!

CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP) — The "Bull Pen," one of the most unusual casinos anywhere, has been bulldozed.

Warden Carl Hocker had the gambling hall — a room off the maximum security yard at the state prison — demolished last week. He said it was a bad influence on inmates.

"It was just like raising a window shade in a dark room," related Hocker, a prison captain at San Quentin in California before taking command of the Nevada Penitentiary less than three months ago.

The dismal fact is you had women on relief sending money to their husbands to gamble."

ACTIVITIES PROMOTED
Hocker is promoting handicrafts, bridge, chess, athletics, plain hard work and knitting to take up the slack.

Knitting? "It's common in many prisons," Hocker explained. "I wouldn't want to look some of these boys in the face and call them sissies."

Games in the Bull Pen, run by the inmates, ranged from poker to blackjack to craps.

The craps-to-crocheting switch apparently encountered little resistance.

INMATES PREPARED
"They were prepared for it," Hocker said while admitting a hard-core group of inmates resented the change. He notified the prisoners upon his appointment that he would abolish the casino.

Each inmate who held gambling chips was credited on his prison money account for their value.

DETROIT (AP)—George Lee Core, a freshman at Wayne State University, Wednesday became the first recipient of the annual National Foundation Merit Award for Medical Students. Core won the $250 prize for presenting the best paper on a topic related to birth defects.

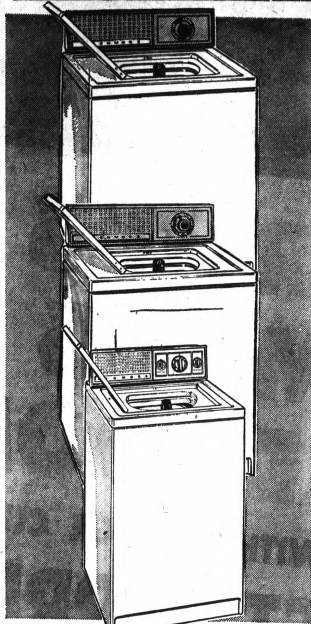

States and cities in the nation spent about $20 million for pollution controls in 1966, with industry believed to have spent 15 or 20 times as much.

Decoupage Is Subject

Pontiac branch of Woman's National Farm and Garden Association met recently in the Hammond Lake home of Mrs. Ferdinand Genshauer.

Mrs. Helen Smart traced the history of the art of "decoupage" from its 17th century Japanese introduction to the western world. She displayed examples of her work.

Social chairman was Mrs. Cecil McCallum, assisted by Mesdames Milo Cross, Vernon, Abbott, Norman Kujala, A. Floyd Blakeslee, M. F. Macaulay, Joseph Warren, Leamon Hunt and Robert Castell.

A recent graduate of Western Michigan University is Laura J. Bryan, daughter of the Carroll A. Bryans of Highland Road. She earned a B.A. degree and will continue working toward an M.A. in library science.

Beauty Bath Is Questionable

Calpurnia, Caesar's wife was forbidden by her husband to use the famous Roman baths. So, on special occasions in her private bath at home she indulged in a tub of exotic fruit juices, which she believed would give her skin a delicate pink glow, a special scent and softness.

Her bath recipe: 20 pounds of crushed strawberries plus two pounds of crushed raspberries.

Why Grow Old?

Are you going to let it happen again? Are you going to let summer slip up on you before those five or 10 pounds overweight you may have slipped off of you?

All you have to do in order to put the pressure on is to think of the swim suits and all lightweight clothes and less restraining undergarments you will want to wear and look attractive.

I will tell you a secret. I am not going to let it happen to me! I gain weight very easily and have eight pounds to lose. I have written myself a letter and am now on my own Nine Day Reducing Diet.

It's pretty sad when one has to follow one's own advice!

Even if you have much more than five to 10 pounds to lose, this short diet will give you an encouraging start on a longer reducing trek. Women who are very much overweight are especially uncomfortable in hot weather.

The heart has to work harder to pump the blood through the blood vessels in those extra pounds. Then there are all sorts of summer discomforts such as prickly heat and chafing which make the overweight woman miserable.

Here is your medicine for tomorrow, Friday:

BREAKFAST
One egg
One thin dry slice of whole wheat toast
Black coffee

LUNCHEON
Fresh fruit salad

Two tablespoons cottage cheese

One glass skimmed milk
One thin dry slice of whole wheat toast

DINNER
Baked fish, medium portion
One-half cup cabbage, lightly cooked
One-half cup spinach or greens
One glass skimmed milk
One orange

Each morning measure and put aside two teaspoons of butter or margarine to use as you wish in seasoning vegetables or on bread and egg.

If you missed the first part of the Nine Day Diet or would like to have it in booklet form, send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it. Address to Josephine Lowman in care of The Pontiac Press.

The LeBaron choir, directed by Rosamond Haerle, will present a medley of Michigan songs.

Francis Bibbs and Phyllis Steinhart will present the Harrington fourth graders, while the Whittier boys and girls will be directed by Iris Wilson.

Contrell, Gay McDonald, Mrs. Ralph Gardner, Mrs. Robert Peterson, Mrs. David Rooks and Kenneth Kuester.

Dust Will Be Flammable

Every housewife knows that gasoline and other flammable liquids can explode and burn violently.

But few recognize the explosive properties of organic dusts such as flour, vacuum cleaner sweepings, or sawdust. Don't throw flour on a kitchen grease fire.

Don't toss dust sweepings on an open fire. Instead, wrap and place in a trash burner. Ignite when the wind won't blow the dust.

Son Is Carrying Father's Hopes for '500' Championship

ROYAL OAK (AP) — Marshall Robbins, 25, slips out of a finely tailored business suit and into oily overalls, a mission in mind: Indianapolis Memorial Day, victory in the 500.

"We're all more determined than ever to win it for my father," he says.

The father was Jim Robbins, millionaire industrialist and sportsman who put 19 cars into the 500-mile automobile racing classic from 1951 on.

Victory came near on a few occasions, but never into his arms, and Robbins was killed, along with his wife and son, in a plane crash last Sept. 26.

The surviving son, Marshall, says:

"After the crash, a lot of folks figured the Robbins family would get out of automobile racing. But we don't give up easily."

Now Marshall heads the Robbins racing team, making him

the youngest team leader in American competition.

The No. 1 driver will be 32-year-old Lucien Bianchi. Young Aldo Andreotti also have been lined up on a long-term basis, Robbins said.

The team will attempt to qualify two cars for the Memorial Day race at Indianapolis.

"It was the only thing dad ever tried to win and couldn't," Robbins said.

Jim Robbins started as a mechanic at Indianapolis in the late 1940s.

"He first took me there when I was seven or eight years old and I nosed around the pits and tried to absorb as much knowledge as I could," Marshall recalls. "I guess I got the bug, just like

were sixth, ninth, 10th three times, 11th and 12th at the finishes.

A Robbins car won the 1950 race, but Jim Robbins refused to take credit for the victory—had he purchased, only 20 minutes before the race, the car Johnny Parsons drove to victory.

"We always seemed to run into some little mechanical problem," Marshall Robbins said.

"In 1955, for example, we got the pole with Jerry Hoyt driving but some minor problem developed into a major problem and we were unable to finish."

Then came the black year, 1966.

Both Robbins cars were wiped out in the first lap pileup after the handling of Billy Foster and Cale Yarborough.

Later in the year, the plane

crash that killed three members of the Robbins family.

And then, only a day or two later, Foster was killed.

"That would have been the time to throw it in," Marshall said.

"But we're in this business for keeps. My father succeeded at everything but the Indianapolis 500—and we're pledged to win that for him."

Tigers Facing Old Nemesis in Night Tilt

Detroit Batters Seeking to End Southpaw Jinx

Lefty George Brunet Has Halted Bengals Seven Straight Times

DETROIT (UPI) — There's only one obstacle between the Detroit Tigers and first place in the American league today—it's the devilish California Angel George Brunet.

The Tigers took an early season day off Wednesday and while they were resting they moved into a second place tie, just a half game behind the New York Yankees.

The Yankees aren't scheduled to play today so that leaves the way clear for the Tigers to grab a good seat for the rest of the season's show.

All they have to do is to beat Brunet.

SEVEN STRAIGHT

The Tigers' victories over Brunet have been about as numerous as their World Series victories in the past couple years. There haven't been any. They beat him once in 1965 and since then have lost to the stocky left-hander seven straight times.

Last year Brunet, a 32-year-old veteran who has spent most of his life on a yo-yo and to from the minors, stopped the Tigers five times.

This year, in the season opener, he had them shut out until the ninth inning when Gates Brown hit a two-run homer.

But if this is truly the year for Detroit, tonight's game would be the time for the Tigers to break the Brunet spell.

The Tigers will be working without their runs-batter-in leader of last year, Willie Horton, and first baseman Norm Cash is still a question mark. Horton is nursing a foot injury and Cash has a minor eye sore.

STRONG AVERAGES

But the Tigers still have some strong early season averages in their lineup. Al Kaline's mark of .370 is the top among the regulars. He has 10 hits, including three homers, and has driven in five runs.

Catcher Bill Freehan, off to a fast start in an attempt to improve on his feeble .234 mark of last season, is hitting .359 and is leading the team in runs batted in with six.

Jim Northrup is hitting a solid .345 with 10 hits, tying him for the team lead in that department with Kaline.

Joe Sparrma has been selected to do the Tiger hurling in tonight's game with the Angels. After an impressive spring training season, Sparrma was nixed for nine hits and a pair of earned runs in his first and one-third innings in four starts against Minnesota.

GAM HONOR — The outstanding Achievement presented by the Michigan Golf Association went to Pete Jackson, Oakland Hills CC member who won the GAM championship last season. Jackson is a former Seaholm High golfer.

GAM Honors Ex-Local Preps

By BRUNO L. KEARNS

Sports Editor, Pontiac Press
Oakland Hills Country Club dominated the spotlight in the annual Michigan Golf Association luncheon which released its honor roll of players.

The No. 1 ranking went to Oakland Hills member Hunter McDonald, a 25-year-old transplanted Scot who leaves today to play in the North-South Amateur in Pinehurst, N.C.

The "Outstanding Achievement" award of the GAM went to Oakland Hills' Pete Jackson, last year's champion of the GAM closed tournament at Franklin Hills.

Jackson, a former Birmingham

Seaholm golfer who once teamed with Pete Green when the Maples won the Pontiac Press High School Invitational for three successive years, did not have enough points to qualify for the honor roll.

"That's my next goal," said Jackson. "I think I'll play more this year to try to make the honor roll."

EIGHTH TIME

Green, an Orchard Lake CC member, made the honor roll for the eighth time and was rated No. 5 behind McDonald, But Stevens, Tom Draper and John Grace, a college freshman at Houston University.

Behind Green in the ratings were Cliff Taylor of Spring Lake CC, Bill Albright of Detroit Golf Club, Don Stevens of Plum Hollow, Chuck Kocis of Red Run and Jim St. German of Meadowbrook.

For Draper and Kocis, this was the 19th time for each on the honor roll list.

PRESS MEDALIST

St. German, a former Northville High golfer who took medal honors three years ago in the Press tourney, is also attending Houston. He is a sophomore.

Guest speaker of the GAM luncheon was Mike Souchak, head coach at Oakland Hills who coached his two club members McDonald and Jackson for their honors.

"The Michigan Golf Association and Detroit District are probably the most outstanding golf groups in the country," said Souchak, "and I'm very proud to be associated with golf in Michigan and to be at Oakland Hills."

McDonald, who did not win any major tourneys last year, received his No. 1 ranking by his outstanding finishes in such tournaments as the GAM, State Amateur, British Open, North-South Amateur and others.

He was 10th on the Honor Roll listing of 1966, before taking No. 1 spot this year.

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Grambling College, a team with impressive hitting and pitching credentials, ranks No. 1 in the first college division baseball poll conducted by the newspaper, Collegiate Baseball.

The Louisiana team, coached by the school's president R. W. E. Jones, won 18 of its first 19 games.

Others in the top 10, announced Wednesday, in order are: Southern Connecticut; Occidental, Calif.; Pembroke State, N.C.; Georgia Southern; Northern Arizona; Grand Canyon College, Ariz.; Parsons, Neb.; Central Michigan and Marietta, Ohio.

Country Day Playing Host in Invitational Track Meet

An expected 15 schools and estimated 200 trackmen Saturday will attempt to grab the spotlight away from the featured performer of the first two Detroit County Day Independent School Invitational Track Meets.

The host school at 13 Mile and Lasher in Birmingham in particular has been in the background as far as performances are concerned, finishing fifth and sixth in its first two meets.

The real standout was Country Day's all-weather track since rainy weather plagued the first two endeavors. These were won by Alleandale School of Rochester, N.Y., and University School of Milwaukee.

Three state schools have entered teams. In addition to Country Day, Leelanau and Gross Pointe University School will not have to cross state boundaries to participate.

Many of the contestants are due to arrive Friday night in time to be fed at the school, then stay with the families of the host school's students.

Bob Rickard of Walled Lake scored the first hole-in-one at Kensington Park this season when he knocked his 5-iron shot into the cup on the 125-yard, 17th hole Tuesday. He carded a 101 for the round.

Athlete Dies in Canoe Mishap

ALMA (UPI) — A daredevil attempt to go over a dam in the rain-swollen Pine River in a canoe Wednesday cost the life of Al Borgman, 21, of Charlotte, a senior at Alma College who drowned when the small craft capsized.

A companion, John Wootton, from Houghton Lake, was pulled from the swirling waters by another student, Pete Miller, a sophomore from St. Clair.

Wootton and Borgman, an all-conference football tackle at Alma, had been several other students they would be able to negotiate the six-foot waterfall police said.

As they approached the dam, they lost control and capsized.

Divers and police dragged the river early today in an attempt to recover Borgman's body.

Both he and Wootton were considered accomplished canoeists.

TOP LINEMAN

Borgman, one of the state's finest linemen at Charlotte High School before going to Alma, was selected to both the offensive and defensive squads of the all-Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Association team after the last season.

He also was voted most valuable player on the team by his fellow players.

Borgman, a senior, would have graduated in June.

RECORD TIME — New Zealander David C. McKenzie crossed the finish line in a record time of 2:15:45 yesterday in the 71st annual Boston A.A. Marathon. McKenzie lost his No. 4 somewhere along the 26-mile, 385-yard course.

Miss Gibbs, a freckle-faced 23-year-old redhead, was greeted with a roar of approval by the sleek-skinned crowd as she crossed the finish line with an unofficial clocking of 3 hours, 27 minutes, 17 seconds.

She was about an hour behind the winner and about midway in the field of 600.

Japan swept the first four places with newcomers last year.

"It was very cold and my calf muscles got very stiff, but I was not overly tired at the finish," McKenzie said. "The hills didn't bother me. I just wanted to stay out in front."

U.S. Red Tolls Dip for Week

Yank Casualties Are
Lowest in 2 Months

SAIGON (AP) — The number of Americans killed in combat in Vietnam dropped last week to the lowest level in two months, U.S. military headquarters announced today.

The headquarters said 147 U.S. servicemen were killed in the week ending last Saturday, compared with 177 in the previous week. It was the lowest total since the second week in February when 107 Americans were killed.

A total of 1,142 Americans were wounded last week, the headquarters said. This was 20 less than the previous week's 1,162 wounded.

Communist casualties also fell off last week. U.S. spokesmen reported that 1,511 Vietcong and North Vietnamese were killed, compared with 1,715 a week earlier.

SPORADIC CLASHES

The decrease on both sides reflected generally small-scale ground action through last week. Only sporadic scattered clashes were reported.

South Vietnamese casualties last week remained at about the level of the previous week. The government's military headquarters said 287 government soldiers were killed in action and 14 were missing, compared with 284 killed and 69 missing the week before. Vietnamese headquarters did not announce the number of its wounded.

Casualties among other allied forces last week were 21 killed and 61 wounded, compared with 16 killed and 73 wounded in the previous week. These include Australians, New Zealanders, Filipinos and South Koreans.

U.S. troop strength in South Vietnam last week was reported to be 138,000 men, unchanged from the previous week. U.S. officials estimated the strength of enemy forces — Vietcong and North Vietnamese — at 285,000, 2,000 less than the previous week's estimate.

Teen Injured as Bicycle Is Struck by Car

A 16-year-old bicyclist was injured yesterday when struck by a car in the entrance driveway of a restaurant in the 800 block of North Perry.

Leslie Mark Kay, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Kay of 57 W. Lafayette, is in satisfactory condition at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital.

He suffered a fractured leg, according to hospital authorities.

Driver of car, Donna Jean Gamble, 17, daughter of Mrs. Eileen Gamble of 4741 Greenview, Utica, told police the car's brakes failed as she backed out of the driveway.

Wristwatch, Rings Stolen

Jewelry valued at more than $450 was stolen from a Pontiac home, it was reported to city police late yesterday.

Walter Burt, 52, of 516 S. East Blvd. told officers two wedding rings and a wristwatch were taken from a bedroom dresser.

Investigators said entry was made through a garage door leading into the house.

Escorts Brother's Body

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Spec. 4 Roby James, 20, stepped off a plane Wednesday night and silently embraced his parents. Mrs. James and brother Billy Joe, 8, he returned from Vietnam as escort for the body of another brother Spec. 4 Kenneth James, 18.

An Army representative knocked at Mrs. James' front door here last week. She met him with a single question: "Which one?"

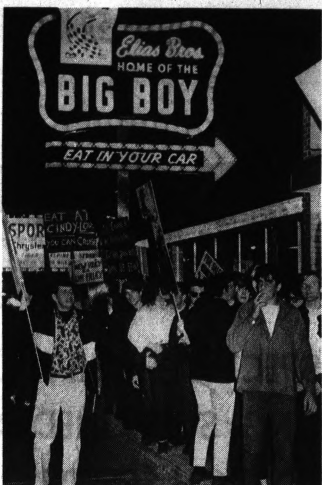

Kenneth James went to Vietnam last May.

"He had been wounded four times," said his mother, "before the fifth one killed him. He had such plans for Kenneth. He was so young, we just can't believe it."

Roby James signed up only a few days ago for a second six-month tour of duty in Vietnam, he told his parents.

"Will you have to go back?" asked Mrs. James.

"I just don't know," he replied. "It might keep Billy Joe from going some day."

ANGRY TEENS — Royal Oak youths demonstrate for the second straight night against newly instituted "cruising" policies at five drive-in restaurants in that city. A joint order issued by five Woodward Avenue drive-ins prevents cars from entering unless a parking vacancy exists. Police arrested one youth on a disorderly charge Tuesday night, but reported no trouble last night. The cruising order was signed by Big Town, Elias Bros. (two drive-ins), Maverick's and the Totem Pole.

Recreation Studies Proposed for County

Plans for a $33,500 dual study program aimed at helping determine needs and locations for open space and recreation areas in Oakland County were proposed yesterday.

Speaking at a joint meeting of the County Planning Commission and the County Parks and Recreation Commission, George N. Skrubbs, county planning director, suggested that the studies be launched as soon as possible to meet a Dec. 31, 1967 target date for completion.

A question arose on funding of the two programs and it was agreed that the chairmen and directors of the two commissions meet and attempt to resolve this issue by May 2.

One of the studies proposed as a basis for the county recreation program approved last year at the polls would cost $20,000 and the other $13,500.

Skrubbs said that the $20,000 survey would involve 1,000 in-depth sample interviews that would provide detailed information on patterns of outdoor recreation resulting in an overview of how residents perceive Oakland County in recreational terms.

1-Man, 1-Vote Foes to Wait

LANSING (AP) — Senate Republicans agreed Wednesday to delay for a week consideration of a move to cancel court rulings requiring one-man, one-vote apportionment of both houses of state legislatures.

A resolution asking Congress to call a constitutional convention to adopt an amendment cancelling the 1964 U.S. Supreme Court ruling requiring such apportionment is before the Senate Business Committee.

Committee chairman Robert Vander Lean, R-Grand Rapids, said Monday the committee would consider the Republican-sponsored resolution today.

COULD BE TOOL

There has been speculation Republicans might use the controversial resolution as a negotiating tool in winning necessary Democratic votes for Republican Gov. George Romney's fiscal reform plan.

Romney told newsmen Tuesday he does not favor consideration of the apportionment question "at this time."

The Romney fiscal reform package, including a state income tax, is pending before both houses.
