PRESIDENT DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER

Thousands Welcome Ike

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower took things easy today, his first full day at the Executive Mansion since returning from seven weeks in a Denver hospital.

The President will open a business office early next week in downtown Gettysburg, Pa., about four miles from his country home.

Plans are for the President and Mrs. Eisenhower to go to their Gettysburg farm Monday. Eisenhower is expected to stay there until around the first of the year, working gradually toward a full schedule of activities.

Eisenhower appeared to be feeling fine into yesterday as he returned to Washington and a rousing civic welcome.

"I am happy," the smiling President told airport greeters, "that the doctors have given me at least a parole if not a pardon, and I expect to be back at my accustomed duties, although they say I must ease my way into them and not bulldoze my way into them."

That "parole if not a pardon" expression in Eisenhower's brief off-the-cuff remarks touched off more speculation about the President's 1956 plans.

Quite possibly it meant no more than what the Chief Executive's doctors have been saying—that they won't know for some weeks whether his recovery from his Sept. 24 heart attack will be complete.

And so, if health is a major factor in Eisenhower's thinking about whether to seek a second term, it doesn't seem likely he will be in a position to announce his intentions until his physicians decide whether the "parole" has advanced to a full "pardon."

The three doctors who accompanied Eisenhower on the flight from Denver reported he suffered no fatigue whatsoever from the five-hour trip.

The President, accompanied by Mrs. Eisenhower from Denver, radiated cheerfulness as the couple stepped from their airplane to be greeted by a host of welcomers headed by Vice President Nixon.

Riding in a plastic-topped limousine to the White House, he waved time and again to the cheering thousands who lined his route to welcome him home.

He spent last night quietly with his family—including the three young grandchildren, who were waiting to greet him at the executive mansion.

* * *

The White House gleamed with lights both downstairs and up and on the porticos last evening, the way Mrs. Eisenhower likes it.

"First time the lights have been on like that since the President and Mrs. Eisenhower went to Denver back in August," said a guard at the White House gate. "It does look cheerful."

Eisenhower went to Denver Aug. 14 for an extended work-and-play vacation, and it is there that he suffered his heart attack.

U. N. Delegates Doubt Progress

Soviet 'Tough' Attitude Hamstrings Activity on Pressing Issues

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Disheartened by the Big Four deadlock at Geneva, U. N. delegates held little hope today for any settlement of East-West issues before the current General Assembly.

* * *

As the foreign ministers' talks furnished evidence of a toughened Soviet foreign policy, diplomats here voiced doubt the current session would make headway on disarmament, membership or any other controversial questions.

References to the "spirit of Geneva" which highlighted U.N. speeches earlier this year have been noticeably absent the past few days.

Only the Soviet bloc members still invoke the "spirit" when they want to emphasize a difficult point.

DELAY DEBATE

With this in mind, the U. N.'s top political committee sidetracked debate on the arms question until the Big Four had a chance to thrash it out.

Delegates were also apprehensive that the freeze in Geneva might have a chilling effect on negotiations here for admission of new members.

Noise Increase May Create New Helmet Industry

OTTAWA, Ont. (AP)—A National Research Council scientist predicts "fishbowls" on our heads to keep out the sounds of civilization.

* * *

Dr. R. J. Thiessen, head of the acoustics branch, told a meeting of the Ottawa Science Assn. last night that the deafness rate in industry has risen sharply during the last 25 years. Homes also are becoming noisier because of household appliances, television and radio.

* * *

If the noise rate continues its upward curve the only effective safeguard will be the plastic space helmets of science fiction, he said.

Earplugs and "muffs" won't work, he added.

Man, 101, Makes Good of Productive Boast

ENID, Okla. (AP)—B. F. Geist, a retired carpenter who died yesterday at the age of 101, once boasted that "I've multiplied and replenished the earth pretty well." There can be no denying that.

Since that statement 11 years ago, his descendants increased from 79 to 116. They include two sons, four daughters, 42 grandchildren, 63 great grandchildren and five great-great grandchildren.

No Traffic Jams on County Roads, Sheriff Reports

Although motorists were reported backed up bumper to bumper for eleven miles out of Mackinac City this morning, Oakland County Sheriff's deputies reported no unusual concentration on County roads.

The Mackinac City tieup is being caused by deer hunters hoping to be in the Upper Peninsula for opening of season Tuesday.

"We've had no complaints of traffic tangles, and none of our patrol cars have reported lineups," Sheriff Frank Irons said today.

State Police reported cars stretched ouf seven miles along U.S. 23-27 and four miles along U.S. 31. Another three-mile line jammed the ferry docks.

Officers said five ferries operating on a 24-hour basis were transporting "a mile of cars" across the straits every half hour.

The jam-up was not as bad as last year, State Police said, since many hunters were able to arrive early because of the long Veterans' Day weekend.

Brazil Appoints Interim Leader

Congress Seats Ramos as New Coup Topples Luz Presidency

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — All threat of opposition to Brazil's new temporary president collapsed early today.

Carlos Coimbra da Luz, ousted temporary chief executive who took refuge Thursday night aboard the Brazilian cruiser Tamandare, ordered the vessel back into Rio de Janeiro harbor today and said it was his final official act.

The air minister, Maj. Gen. Eduardo Gomez, who rushed to Sao Paulo, Brazil's ranking industrial city, to organize a last-stand resistance to the administration of the new temporary president, Nereu Ramos, ordered the air force to halt its opposition.

Congress named 66-year-old Ramos temporary president after a coup yesterday led by Gen. Henrique Teixeira Lott had toppled Luz. Ramos thus became Brazil's third chief executive in four days.

Brazil returned to normality after a bloodless, 24-hour coup won by the army against the open but passive opposition of the navy and the air force.

There was no fighting. The only shots fired in anger came from the fortress in Rio de Janeiro harbor. It fired five or six rounds Friday morning to warn navy ships not to make a break for the open sea.

Police lifted censorship at 9 a.m. All business houses, except banks, reopened. Banks were ordered closed until Tuesday.

A government statement said Luz will be permitted to land when the cruiser Tamandare returns, perhaps late today. It was reported some of Luz's associates who boarded the Tamandare with him would be arrested.

Molotov Agrees to Discuss Big 4 Armament Plan

Dulles Optimistic About Possibility of Reaching Some Accord at Geneva

GENEVA (AP) — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov dropped their bitter debate over arms reduction and controls today and began trying to patch up some kind of agreement on a final Big Four disarmament declaration.

The conciliatory tone in today's Big Four session was in stark contrast to the acid argument of two previous sessions, in the course of which Dulles and Molotov accused each other, either directly or by implication, of practicing bad faith.

Today Dulles suggested work be started on "a common statement" reflecting the debate, which he said had been "useful and informative." He remarked that he would not be so optimistic as to say that either side had affected the thinking of the other but he thought there was a better understanding of differing points of view.

Dulles said he felt confident that "even though we do not reach a large measure of formalized agreement, certainly the exchange of viewpoints which has occurred here will be instructive and will help representatives in the United Nations subcommittee" on disarmament.

Molotov began his comments on the achievements of the badly split disarmament debate with what appeared to be a needling reference to his efforts to get Western agreements to some kind of generalized renunciation of atomic arms. In his words he had hoped to get an agreement here "to end the arms race."

Otherwise Molotov said he thought the four could state that they recognize the need to continue to seek agreement on a comprehensive program for disarmament which could promote international peace and security.

British Foreign Secretary Harold Macmillan, Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov and Secretary of State Dulles had nothing further to say on the disarmament issue.

* * *

Despite the confusing tangle of arguments between Russia and the West, the broad outlines of a new Western approach to global disarmament are coming into focus at this Big Four conference.

* * *

Molotov has turned down current Western proposals and has given the Big Three ministers no encouragement that their prospective new program will ever get anywhere. The three Western ministers are equally adamant in their opposition to the proposals put forward by Molotov.

The Western Allies and Molotov have agreed that somehow, someday the burden of armaments and the fear of atomic war ought to be reduced, if not abolished. And Secretary of State Dulles, British Foreign Secretary Harold Macmillan and French Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay indicated last night they expect to come up with a new set of proposals in a few months.

Gas to Be Replaced?

Use of Atomic Energy in Vehicles Foreseen

DETROIT (AP)—Industrial atomic energy expert Walker L. Cisler says the atom will be used for automobile fuel in the future.

"It is not unreasonable to think that atomic fuel can be converted into liquid for cars."

But Walker, president of Atomic Energy Associates, a group of top industrial officials working with the industrial atom, said, "it is necessary to mobilize industry to utilize atomic power. There are many men thinking, experimenting and working on atomic power for industrial use now, but it is a long row to hoe."

Cisler said the world now has "only a couple of hundred years worth of "fossil" energy left, such as coal and gas.

"When atomic power is further developed," he said "the whole world will look toward it for a new and almost inexhaustive source of power."

He said atomic sources of fuel in the world are 23 times greater than that of "fossil" fuels.

Cisler said the nation will have a "considerable" number of reactor plants within the next 10 years.

5 Die as Bomber Rams Destroyer

Sailors Injured as Crash Switches 'Mock' Attack to Fiery Explosions

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Sailors brushed by death said today miracles saved them when a make-believe attack by a Navy bomber turned into a real and deadly crash aboard the destroyer Hopewell yesterday.

The Skyraider bomber struck the U. S. warship's superstructure and exploded in a sheet of flame a few feet from an ammunition magazine.

Five men were killed—three on the bomber and two at their work in the destroyer's office. Five others of the Hopewell's crew of 200 were burned.

But the ammunition didn't explode. "I don't know why it didn't," said Cmdr. Mark M. Gantar, the skipper.

Gantar also credited the courage of his crew and the crews of the destroyers Yarnal and Ingersoll with saving his ship.

The other destroyers helped fight blazing gasoline from the bomber—sprayed over the ship and running in streams into the ammunition magazine and engine room.

The Skyraider was making a simulated attack on the Hopewell in maneuvers of U. S. and Canadian naval units 80 miles west of San Diego.

It roared down upon the destroyer, only 100 feet above the sea—then, Gantar said, "kind of slid off like it was out of control."

The three airmen killed were identified as:

Lt. Cmdr. M. S. Essary, 40, pilot, of Coronado, Calif.

R. E. Stewart, 21, radar man, of Punxsutawney, Pa.

Brent Montgomery Phillips, 24, radar man, of Jamaica, N. Y.

Names of the destroyer's dead were withheld.

Tiny Phonograph Made by RCA at a Cost of 50c

NEW YORK (INS) — A tiny, hand-operated phonograph, manufactured at a cost of 50 cents or less, has been unveiled by the Radio Corporation of America as a fantastically new and simple way to reach Iron Curtain peoples.

RCA Board Chairman Brig. Gen. David Sarnoff supervised the first public demonstration of the compact, ruggedly built device at an Overseas Press Club luncheon.

Sarnoff said similar models currently are being field-tested by the Voice of America. The phonographs are unbreakable and could be air dropped "by the millions."

The phonograph, built mainly of sturdy plastic, spins at the rate of 78 RPM, the most common speed of phonograph turntables throughout the world, according to RCA experts.

The unbreakable seven inch records which will accompany the machines can be manufactured at a cost of about five cents. Sarnoff said that if toy industries took over mass production of the tiny hand-operated phonographs the cost could be trimmed to about 20 cents.

House Approves Bill to Purchase Two Hospitals

GOP Leaders Predict Senate Will Down Plan to Help Children

Two Oakland County institutions remained in the "eye" of a whirling hurricane of bitter words today as the Legislature remained split into factions over providing emergency care for mentally retarded children.

Caught in the center of the controversy are the Farmington Children's Hospital and the Oakland County Tuberculosis Sanatorium, on Cooley Lake Road.

The House, meeting in a 10-hour session yesterday, passed by a 60-33 vote a bill providing 1,650 emergency beds at a cost of $4,812,508.

It provided for the purchase of the children's hospital at a cost of $75,000 and the tuberculosis sanatorium at two million dollars.

In addition, it authorized the state to step up its program of family care and contractural care in private and county hospitals by 100 each.

Republican leaders in the House promptly predicted the House plan would be rejected by the Senate again when it meets Monday.

It was the proposal to buy the Farmington and Oakland hospitals which touched off one of the bitterest fights in legislative history.

The Senate twice rejected the House proposal. A compromise program developed by a conference committee of both houses was approved by the Senate but rejected by the House.

Learning that the House had defeated the report of the conference committee, the Senate pushed through a bill almost identical to the conference report.

Then it recessed indefinitely, leaving the House either to accept the bill or nothing.

There was some doubt that the

Sheppard, Lawyer Labels 'Actual Killer' Story False

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A Columbus attorney, middle man between an unidentified informant and the Sheppard family, has labeled as farcical a letter purporting to name the "actual killer" in the sensational Sheppard murder case.

The letter came to light in New York City yesterday when the Daily News published a copyrighted story saying an unnamed letter-writer accused a fellow-camper of the murder.

In Columbus, Atty. Webster S. Lyman Jr., said the published account jibed with the facts as given to him by the informant a month and a half ago, but that he now believes the entire version to be a farce. Lyman was not involved in the Sheppard trial.

Through it all, Dr. Samuel Sheppard, husband of the murdered woman spent another day of his life sentence in Ohio Penitentiary. The 31-year-old osteopath was convicted last December of the July 4, 1954, murder of his wife Marilyn in their Bay Village home, near Cleveland on the shores of Lake Erie.

Lyman said last night he believes the man who informed him of the letter's contents sold it to the newspaper.

Briefly, here is Lyman's story:

An unidentified man — not an Ohioan—called him and said he had the contents of a letter to offer to the Sheppard family in exchange for a "favor."

Lyman did not see the letter, but

Doubled Traffic Fatalities Predicted for City

A grim prediction that Pontiac may count twice as many traffic fatalities this year as last has heralded the arrival of dangerous, poor-visibility winter driving conditions.

Records show that the number of traffic accidents is decreasing this year, as compared with last year.

But the number of persons injured is climbing. With this comes the gloomy forecast that the number of fatal accidents on city streets will probably be doubled.

The increase is caused by the greater severity of accidents, when they do occur, Police Chief Herbert W. Straley said.

He listed speeding and not paying attention while driving as the two main factors in the increase.

"The fact that there are fewer accidents is of dubious credit to the city as long as the number of injuries and deaths is increasing," the Chief said.

He termed "deplorable" the fact that 11 persons have been killed so far this year, compared with five persons killed through October 1954.

Two of the deaths were included in October's report of the police Traffic and Safety Bureau.

The report lists 139 accidents occuring last month, in which 73 other persons were injured, 29 of them severely, 44 of them slightly.

This brings the year's total of accidents up to 978 as compared with 1,089 accidents during the same period last year. But the number of persons injured so far in 1955 is 501. Only 462 persons were injured through October 1954.

Pointing to last year's six traffic fatalities, Chief Straley said, "we have 11 deaths already and the worst weather is yet to come.

"It is regretable, but we'll probably double last year's number of fatalities," he said.

LATEST THING ON THE HIGHWAY — Mary Duran, of 282 S. Sanford, holds a 1956 license plate alongside its inch-and-a-half larger 1955 countrepart. The new tags will go on sale Monday at 11 area Secretary of State offices.

Come Early, Bring Title Is License Plate Advice

"Come early . . . and don't forget your title certificate."

Such was the advice given yesterday by Willis M. Brewer, manager of the Pontiac Secretary of State's office, whose staff will issue the first of an expected 55,000 new license plates Monday.

Brewer, who heads the area's largest issuing agency, said yesterday that the most common mistakes made by plate-buyers are waiting until the last minute and forgetting to bring their certificates of title.

The lines, when they form, will be the longest in local history, Brewer said, mainly because of a "substantial increase" in the number of car and commercial vehicle owners.

The manager estimates that the office will sell 55,000 of the 1956 plates, more than 5,000 more than last year. The new tags will be white with green numerals and letters, and will be 1½ inches narrower in width.

The new dimension was adopted by Michigan this year in a move among states to set up a uniform license plate size.

The office, located at 53 N. Parke street, is open between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m., and from 1 a.m. to 12 noon on Saturdays.

Legion Leader Returns Home

Battle Creek Welcomes Wagner After Address at Gettysburg

BATTLE CREEK (AP) — Battle Creek turned out today to honor the new commander of the American Legion—J. Addington Wagner, a 41-year-old Battle Creek attorney.

Wagner came home to the cheers of 7,500 at Kellogg Field last night, following his recent election as Legion commander at Miami and a major address at a Veterans Day ceremony yesterday at Gettysburg, Pa.

Approximately 1,800 were expected to participate today in a Battle Creek homecoming parade for Wagner, and another 1,000 are scheduled to attend a testimonial banquet tonight.

Admiral Arleigh Burke, chief of naval operations, is slated to address the banquet.

In his address at Gettysburg National Cemetery, Wagner dwelt on the dangers of the cold war, and the new hazards to world security present in the Israeli - Egyptian tension.

"Free men everywhere," Wagner said, "must have learned by this time that Communists cannot be trusted."

He added that in his opinion Russia is likely to provoke a full scale war in the East if the balance of power between Israel and Egypt is upset.

New Charges Made by GOP Over Acheson

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Senate Republican Policy Committee staff says it views magazine articles by Dean Acheson and Alger Hiss as signaling a drive to "capture" the 1956 Democratic presidential nomination for a "left winger."

Meanwhile, Democratic National Chairman Paul M. Butler said last night "a desperate Republican party has already indicated the kind of false charges it would hurl" in the campaign ahead.

There was no indication that Butler, speaking to a University of North Carolina Young Democratic rally at Chapel Hill, was referring to the GOP Policy Committee staff "memorandum" which was made public in Washington yesterday.

That memo, which said individual senators on the committee were not necessarily responsible for statements it contains, asserted:

"The left wing Democrats have opened the campaign of 1956 with two magazine articles—published almost simultaneously—by Alger Hiss and Dean Acheson. . . . The appearance of the articles suggests that the two friends are together again. Their efforts are a clear signal that a determined effort will be made to capture the Democratic nomination for a left winger."

Neither Acheson nor Hiss could be reached immediately for comment.

Will Enroll 500,000

First Volunters Signed for West German Army

BONN, Germany (AP) — A new West German Army was founded today.

Standing under a 10-foot replica of an Iron Cross—the ancient symbol of German military might—Defense Minister Theodor Blank handed callup papers to the first 101 volunteers for the 500,000 man force.

They were the first of the men who will be enrolled in the next three years into 12 army divisions, 1,300-plane tactical air force and a coastal navy.

The Germans donned their new uniforms just over five years from the time Western allies decided to rearm West Germany to bolster the Atlantic Alliance against the threat of Russian aggression.

Industrial Leaders Join to 'Advertise' Michigan

DETROIT (AP)—A group of Michigan's top industrial leaders, comprising the Michigan Economic Development Commission, has laid down plans to spend $125,000 to entice industry into Michigan through an all-inclusive advertising campaign.

* * *

"This is a piddling amount to spend," said Dan Gerber, chairman of the commission and president of Gerber's Baby Foods of Freemont, told the group yesterday.

"A total of three million dollars a year is being spent to lure industry away from our state. Let's spend $125,000 to not only keep it here, but bring in more."

The plan to spend the money came from the commission's public relations advisory committee. It recommended that the Legislature be asked to appropriate the money.

'WE ASK TOO LITTLE'

"If we want to get this money," said Gerber, "we've got to . . . sell the Legislature on the effective job we can do. But the amount we're asking is like a starter on a generator. It's small compared to what we spend on our tourist industry."

Gerber told the group each member of the Legislature would be sent a letter asking for support on the project and that considerable lobbying would be done if necessary.

Broken down, the $125,000 would be spent this way:

National advertising in newspapers, magazines and periodicals, $65,000; retaining a New York public relations firm to get Michigan publicity on a national scale, $25,000; television advertising, including a film to be sent to TV stations on Michigan for free use, $15,000.

A supplement in the New York Times (16-24 pages) describing all aspects of Michigan, $12,000; travel show displays, $8,000.

Senate to Consider House Plan Monday

House would muster a quorum when it convened yesterday afternoon. But 86 members showed up for roll call and more came in.

NO TIME LOST

Reps. Richard C. Van Dusen (R-Birmingham) and Robert E. Waldron (R-Grosse Pointe) lost little time in introducing a series of bills almost identical to the conference committee report turned down earlier by the House.

The bills called for leasing the Ft. Custer Hospital, greater expansion of the family and contract care programs, expansion of construction at two state hospitals and planning money for a new 2,500 bed hospital in Southeastern Michigan. The program would cost some $1,500,000.

Waldron said:

"The House has reached agreement on 90 per cent of a program but refused to pass something that is vital to the state because the program did not include purchase of the two hospitals.

"I urge you to pass 90 per cent of the program. Then we can talk about the other 10 per cent."

A BANKRUPT PROGRAM'

Democratic leaders charged Republican strategy was to pass part of a program," send it to the Senate and then go home.

When the first bill came up for debate, Reps. George W. Sallade (R-Ann Arbor) and Ed Carey (D-Detroit) filed an amendment to include the Farmington and Oakland hospitals.

Sallade, calling the Senate bill "a bankrupt program," said the Ft. Custer Hospital was the least adequate of all the hospitas.

Van Dusen called Democratic efforts to push across their own program "the rankest kind of political obstructionism."

Other Republicans protested that the amendment, if passed, would accomplish nothing except to prolong the inter-chamber fight.

* * *

The amendment passed by a 57-38 vote, with two Republicans joining a small block of Republican "Young Turks" who had supported purchase of the two hospitals from the first.

When the bill came up for a final vote, it received the votes of all Democrats present and nine Republicans.

Republicans voting in favor of the measure were: Reps. Willard I. Bowerman Jr., Lansing, Thomas M. Burns, Saginaw, Louis C. Cramton, Lapeer, Harry T. Emmons, Byron Center, James Boulette, Iron Mountain, Theodore F. Hughes, Berkley, Glenn Hunsberger, Grand Rapids, Sallade and Richard G. Smith, Bay City.

Sheppard Lawyer Reveals Letter

was told verbally of its contents. He said they sounded "real" at the time, and he forwarded the information to William J. Corrigan, Sheppard's chief defense attorney in Cleveland.

Lyman said he had nothing further to do with the case until questioned yesterday.

LEFT CRUISER

The attorney said the informant told him the letter said the alleged murderer was a camper in the Lake Erie area who came ashore the night of the murder from a cabin cruise on the lake. The man, according to the letter, left the cabin cruiser early in the morning and returned about daybreak spattered with blood.

* * *

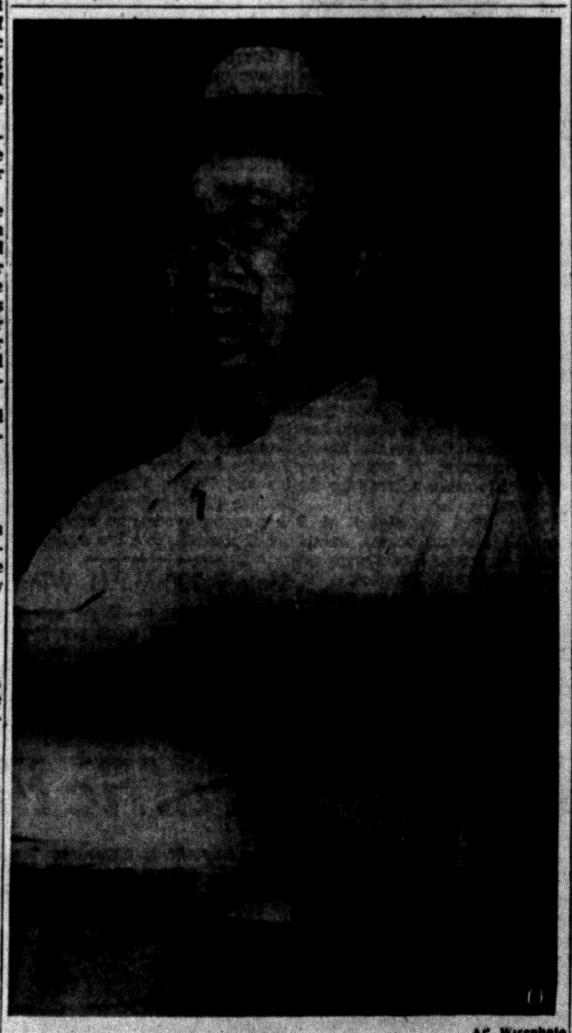

The next day, Lyman was told, the man informed his companions he had been in a fight in a house and had given a man and a woman a severe beating. The alleged murderer was said to have bushy hair.

This tale matched roughly the testimony given at the Sheppard trial. Sheppard, in maintaining his innocence, had insisted the murderer had bushy hair.

* * *

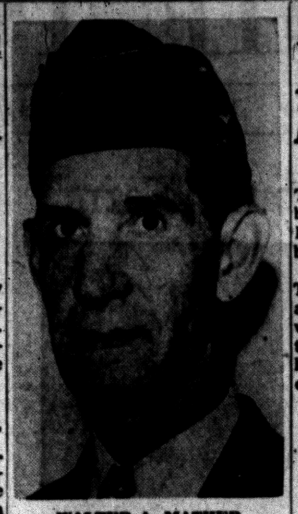

Mrs. Richard Sheppard, sister-in-law of the convicted osteopath said on being told of Lyman's "farce" statement, "It's a disappointment. I'm still sure Dr. Sam will be cleared some day."

A series of appeals by Sheppard's defense counsel have been turned aside. The latest is pending in the supreme court of Ohio.

Ask Mayors to Testify

WASHINGTON (INS)—The Senate's Juvenile Delinquency Investigations subcommittee headed by Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn), has invited mayors of 20 Florida cities to testify next week at a hearing in Miami.

The Day in Birmingham

Big Business Building New Structures in City

BIRMINGHAM — The "Roaring Twenties" may soon be replaced by the "The Roaring Fifties" if Birmingham's building boom can be used as a criterion.

Actually, Building Inspector Tom C. Brien says building figures are not necessarily "up" over previous years, but admittedly says the central business district will have taken on a noticeably different appearance by spring.

For one, the new tri-level B. Siegel Co. branch store is soon due to get under way at the southeast corner of Maple and Bates, N. M. Schostak, owner of the property believes.

Directly across Maple from the Siegel site, work has already started on expanding facilities of the Detroit Wabeek Bank and Trust Co. To be completed by early spring are alterations of the banking room, a new two-story addition to the rear, and a new store front.

CITE FEATURE

W. E. Smith, assistant vice president in charge of the office said safety deposit boxes, a new feature, cash vaults and a banking room will form the addition.

Other changes include a larger, more modern lobby, and 18 teller cages, instead of the present six. Previously announced is a move by Kay Baum, Inc. into the Leonard building, off the north side of Maple, west of Pierce, providing four times more floor space for the women's store.

Interior alterations are moving along so rapidly, said Aaron Kershenbaum, the opening has tentatively moved ahead a month, to February 1.

* * *

The east side of Pierce Street at Martin will take on added colonial airs with construction of a new, one-story red brick building to house three retail stores.

FINISH FIRST OF YEAR

Work by Jay Kogan Const. Co. should be completed around February 1. The stores will be leased by Samaly Corp. of Detroit.

East Maple Avenue will have its first shopping center by early spring, with the opening of four new stores immediately west of the Kroger Store, toward Hunter. Owner Carl Barton said the buildings have not yet been leased.

By the first part of December, the present Wrigley super market will be replaced by a new store on Hunter Boulevard, near Webster. Almost double the size of the present building, the market will have 175 customer parking spaces, a canopied walk, and automatic doors.

Shoppers will find a much larger frozen food and meat department, and expanded produce section, and larger bakery. Herman Ziolkowski will continue as manager.

NORTH WOODWARD SHOPS

North Woodward avenue will also see changes, what with an expansion of the Jacobson's Home Decorative shop, to be completed by spring. At the Willits corner immediatey south of Jacobson's, work has been started on a Peter Pan Snack Shop, with a February or March opening date seen by Henry Stella, owner.

One of 17 in a chain, it will be a replica of one nearly completed at Maple and Telegraph Bloomfield Township.

It will be almost entirely of glass construction, with a high ceiling and brightly colored Peter Pan murals lining the walls. Booths and counters will seat 150, ample parking and carry-out service will be provided and the shop will remain open until 9 each night, said Stella.

* * *

Hospitalized with injuries received in a two-car collision at the Hunter-Haynes intersection yesterday was Donald Foster, 28, of Detroit. He suffered a cervical fracture and is in fair condition at William Beaumont Hospital.

Foster was a passenger in an auto driven by Raymond C. Ballard, 41, also of Detroit.

Police ticketed the other driver, Mrs. Marjorie R. Grauer, 40, of 2577 Derby Rd., for failure to yield the right of way to through traffic at an intersection.

Open house will be held at 8 p.m. Monday for parents of Walnut Lake school youngsters, to meet teachers and hear what work each class is doing. Audio-visual means will be used by some teachers as a medium of explanation.

Special guests will be Frank Colpitz, speech correctionist, and two mother librarians. Pupils in the sixth-grade class of Mrs. Esther Gollihers have made mobiles depicting their impressions of school and education, to hang in the halls for the occasion.

Destitute Miner Loses 3rd Son in Auto Wreck

DENVILLE, N.J. (AP)—A sick and destitute miner has lost his third son from automobile crashes.

Ralph Jenkins, 21, died in St. Clare's Hospital Thursday night. His family, unable to pay for nursing care, had maintained a round-the-clock vigil at his bedside since he was critically injured Sept. 16.

The father, Joseph Jenkins, remained at the family home, sick from asthma and out of work for two years.

The youth had been in a coma since the auto driven by his brother, Gifford, 22, went out of control and smashed into a tree a mile from the home. Gifford was slightly injured.

Another brother, Robert, 24, was injured then.

The first death had come Aug. 30, 1951, when Arthur, 37, lost control of his motorcycle and was tossed to his death.

VETERANS' DAY

J. L. VOORHEES

M. E. SIPLE

Nov. 11th, 1918. From anxiety to bedlam, tears to joyous shouts, air saturated with honking horns, screaming whistles, clanging bells, "Over There," "Tipperary," as massed humanity surged over sidewalks, flooded into streets. Streamers fluttered, confetti came down like rain. Offices closed. Stores locked doors. Street cars stopped. Happy, laughing, singing, marching, dancing people became a sea of wildly celebrating persons. The war was over.

We pay homage to the Buddies who paid the supreme price that we could celebrate. We thank God that love of country so filled their hearts that they were willing to put their lives on the altar of patriotism, face and chase a ruthless enemy to utter rout that we may have a free America.

Lift up your eyes to the sublime blue of heaven, give those boys a sincere thanks; they gave us all we hold precious.

Carpenter Given Electric Chair

Jury Condemns Slayer After Bizarre Five-Day Trial in Chicago

CHICAGO (AP)—The bizarre five-day trial of cop-killer Richard Carpenter was ended last night by a quick verdict condemning him to death in the electric chair.

* * *

In an hour and 15 minutes of deliberation, a jury of eight men and four women found the 26-year-old gunman guilty of murdering detective William J. Murphy as the officer tried to arrest him for robbery Aug. 15.

After killing Murphy, 34, the trigger-happy Carpenter shot and wounded another policeman and held a terrorized family captive for 23 hours during one of Chicago's biggest manhunts.

He also is charged with murdering a radio disc jockey last year.

Carpenter, who marked his trial by staging a hunger strike, screaming, rolling on the courtroom floor and fighting his guards, heard the verdict quietly and without emotion.

But he returned to his old-type behavior while he was being led from the courtroom. Despite leg-irons and handcuffs, he kicked and scuffled with bailiffs until they overpowered him and took him away to his cell.

* * *

The gunman refused to talk with newsmen after the trial.

Murphy's widow said she felt "justified" over the verdict.

One of the slain detective's partners, John Bosquette, said, "I'll be glad when he hits the seat (of the electric chair). It should make another fellow think before he tries to take a policeman's life."

Detective James Pittacora, another partner of Murphy, said he would "like to shake every one of" the jurors' hands.

* * *

Carpenter's two court-appointed defense attorneys immediately entered a motion for a new trial. Hearing on the motion was set for Nov. 22.

Free Loading Wasp Blamed for Collision

ALTUS, Okla. (AP)—A hitch-hiking wasp drew the blame for an auto accident yesterday in which an Altus man and his wife wound up in the hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel H. Bell were driving east on U.S. 62 when a wasp flew in the car window. Bell attempted to swat the flying stinger out the window. He looked up in time to spot another car bearing down on him.

Lt. Clyde Autry of the highway patrol said when Bell swerved back to his side of the road, his car turned over. The couple suffered severe bruises and lacerations.

Kefauver Reopens Dixon-Yates Probe

By JOE HALL

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn) summoned two administration officials for questioning today on a new point in the row over the Dixon-Yates power contract.

* * *

An aide to Kefauver, who is acting chairman of the Senate Antitrust and Monopoly subcommittee, said the group will try to find out whether there was an effort to interfere with the testimony of a witness in Securities and Exchange Commission proceedings on financing the now-defunct contract.

* * *

In a one-day reopening of its hearings on the power controversy, the committee called to the witness stand Robert McDowell, director of SEC's division of corporate regulation, and Asst. Atty. Gen. Warren Olney III, head of the Justice Department's criminal division.

Spirit of Geneva Dealt Hard Blow by Molotov

There shouldn't be any doubt as to who is responsible for the near fatal blow dealt the so-called spirit of Geneva at the Big Four Foreign Ministers Conference.

Russia's V. M. Molotov indicted himself as the guilty party when on his return from Moscow he flatly repudiated the directive from the summit conference. That directive called for the reunification of Germany by means of free elections and within the framework of a European security pact.

The Soviet foreign minister rejected all proposals advanced by the West for carrying out the directive. At the same time he insisted on his own plan which would sidetrack German unification in favor of a European security plan which would wreck all Western defense arrangements.

Russia's spokesman was equally intransigent in his attitude toward the other items on the agenda, the Iron Curtain and disarmament, and the deadlock now appears complete. As is the old Russian custom, he showed no interest in settling anything except on his terms.

★ ★ ★

In some quarters Molotov's position is taken to mean that Russia dares not even imply any relaxation of the iron grip in which its satellites are held. Because it is a system maintained by force, any suggestion that it could be altered by free elections is a risk the Kremlin will not take.

★ ★ ★

Despite this shock to the Geneva spirit, there are at least two advantages for the West in this disappointing situation. When the conference curtain drops, responsibility for failure will fall inescapably on Russia. In addition, it will be clear to everybody in West Germany that neutralism amounts to dangerous compromise with the Communists.

FBI Chief Sees Danger in Apathy Toward Crime

Probably no one knows more about crime in the United States than FBI Chief J. Edgar Hoover and he is alarmed by what he considers national indifference to it.

Basis of his concern is the fact that since 1950 our population has increased only seven per cent while crime has jumped 26.7 per cent.

Calling crime a national disgrace, Hoover predicted in an article written for the North American Newspaper Alliance, that it will increase in the next 10 years by 22 per cent. In the same period he points out the population will grow only 15 per cent.

Crystalizing the facts of the situation Hoover said that in the first six months of this year a major crime was committed in the United States every 13.9 seconds. In an average day there were 35 murders, 255 felonious assaults, 51 rapes, 3,714 larcenies, 607 car thefts and 1,405 burglaries. Total major crimes passed the 2,000,000 mark by 36,000 in 1952. The total for 1954 reached 2,267,250.

★ ★ ★

Mr. Hoover is on sound ground in pointing out that crime should be the concern of every law-abiding citizen. It should be that not only on the basis of good citizenship but because it costs the Nation millions of dollars yearly.

Our Honored Guests

Any fear among American friends of Guatemala of a possible Communist resurgence in that country should have faded after President Carlos Castillo Armas' Detroit visit.

During his press conference there the leader of the revolt which ousted Guatemala's Red regime told newsmen he wasn't afraid of what is left of the Communists. In fact, he said if he hadn't been confident of the stability of "my government I would not have made my two week trip to the United States."

President Castille Armas and his wife, Dona Odilia, are touring the country as the Nation's honored guests. Besides New York and Detroit stops, the trip was highlighted by a visit to President Eisenhower in Fitzsimons Army Hospital at Denver.

President Castillo Armas has earned the warm welcome he has received here. In the 16 months since he took the helm in Guatemala much has been accomplished. He has restored a measure of political and economic stability and, as a result, has won confidence both at home and abroad.

★ ★ ★

Among other things he has fostered growth of schools, promoted highway construction, and agricultural reforms and restored workers' guarantee. Castillo Armas was frank in saying he came here to strengthen U. S.-Guatemala ties of friendship.

There is every indication that his mission is successful.

The People's Business

Hospital Hassle

Politics and Pride Keeping State Problem Unsolved

By JACK I. GREEN

LANSING—Worthy programs to find housing for mentally retarded children are caught tragically in one of the bitterest and most amazing political fights in Michigan history.

• • •

It is bitter because men's tempers have worn thin and men's jaws have become fixed in grim stubbornness to win out.

It is amazing because it is not a fight over a great principle, or—possibly—even a small one but a fight over whether the state shall buy two small half-empty hospitals.

Both chambers of the Legislature have agreed on programs which would provide 1,750 beds for 1,221 mentally retarded children waiting admission to state hospitals—some of them for four or five years.

• • •

One would think that this much could be put into effect and the question of buying two hospitals for another 650 beds could be settled separately.

MUST HAVE THEM

But a combination of House Democrats and five "Young Turk" Republicans says we must have the hospitals now and the Republican-dominated Senate says we shan't buy them, or at least not now.

And there it is stuck—and there it has been stuck for a week.

• • •

Now the tragic thing about this scrap is that both sides appear to be entirely sincere. Both sides are determined to do something for these unfortunate children—but determined to do it their way.

In the background is a maze of cross-currents which account for the deadlock.

In the House, the Republican leadership is weak at its best. Operating with only the barest majority, it has suddenly found itself undercut by the defection of the so-called "Young Turks, a varying number of young Republicans who can sit at the same table with the Democrats without getting a stomach ache and who regard their own leaders as a bunch of mossbacks.

• • •

These Young Turks combined with the Senate leadership last spring to whip the House bosses and put over Michigan's arterial highway law. This gave them a taste of power.

Probably no one will ever know just how much a part the wily Democratic floor leader, Rep. Ed Carey of Detroit, has played in gently stroking the Young Turks until they will purr his tune.

• • •

But it is obvious that the Young Turks are sincerely convinced that they, too, are doing what is best for the Republican Party in the long run and that on this issue their old allies in the Senate are doing harm to the party—and to the child mental cases.

So it is not, as Gov. Williams says, "callous" disregard of the unfortunate nor, as some Republicans say, a Williams plot to wring Republican necks, but a combination of old animosities, pride, party loyalties and a sincere difference of opinion over the road to a common goal.

Readers Say Iodin Restores Hair Color, but Columnist Still Has to Be Convinced

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

I have always had thin, dry, lifeless hair. Used many hair preparations, but it never seemed to grow an inch. Since taking Iodin Ration for 1½ years, my dark brown hair has little gray, is thicker, longer and has more luster. I only wish I had learned about the Iodine Ration years ago . . . (Mrs. F. N.)

I feel that Iodin Ration has helped me physically — I have gained weight and held it in the past two years, something I never was able to do before. My husband says my hair, instead of getting grayer, is changing back to its natural dark color . . . (Mrs. R. E. L.)

Let me assure you there is no doubt about it — "iodin ration" brought the color back and gave new life to my hair . . . (Mrs. H. C. M.)

Answer—All right. Have it your own way. I'm still from Missouri. All I can promise is that a suitable daily ration of iodine can do no harm, unquestionably good. This does not apply to any form of iodine or iodide in medicinal doses. For instructions send stamped, self-addressed envelope and ask for the pamphlet The Iodin Ration.

I hope this note will find you in tip top shape just bubbling over with the best of health. It is to say thank you, thank you, thank . . . (Mrs. C. R.)

Answer—All right, all right, let's not—bubbling over? How would you feel if your neck were so stiff you dassen't do a roll in a month and your sacroiliac so lame you could bowl only half a game— from juggling a bed with one hand while commanding your boss to stand clear with the other? Bubbling over, is it?

My sister it trying to persuade me to move to California. Yet she, her four children and her husband hardly recover from one round of colds when another starts. Here in Maine we don't have . . . (W. L. M.)

Answer—People in California are just as careful to avoid drafts, wet feet, insufficient clothing, sudden change of weather and the like as they are in Maine —but maybe not so careful to keep out of one another's conversation spray range. Send 25c and stamped, self-addressed envelope for CALL IT CRI — a booklet which may teach your sister how to protect her family from such frequent infection. In many households this Little Lesson has reduced the frequency of respiratory infections to a minimum.

A pleasure to tell you how much mother has improved since I sent for your pamphlet on Adult Tetany. Stamped, addressed envelope inclosed is for your pamphlet on Examination Jitters for my young sister . . . My husband has a lot more pep since he started on the Iodin Ration. If he gets out of control, do I hide the bottle — or just hide? (Mrs. C. W. P.)

Answer—Just keep your rolling pin handy.

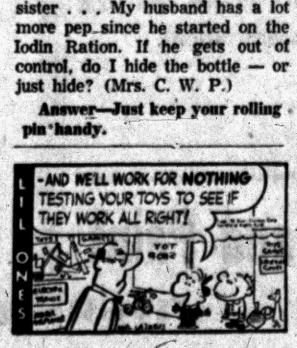

I have been taking quinine as you advise, whenever grip, flu or the CRI is prevalent and it has apparently kept me from getting it . . . (Mrs. S. T.)

Answer—A good many families have had similar experience. All I know is that quinine prophylaxis can do no harm if used as I describe in Little Lesson 5, CALL IT CRI, for which send 25c and stamped, self-addressed envelope.

This booklet deals with the common respiratory infections (cri), winter cough (chronic bronchitis), sinus trouble, bronchectasis, asthma, tonsils, adenoids, croup, home made fool proof cough medicine etc.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long, pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped self-addressed envelope is sent to the Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Mich.

Churches Begin Financial Campaign; Many Revive Old Custom of Tithing

By DR. HOWARD V. HARPER

The second Sunday in November, called Stewardship Sunday, has come to be the day on which many Protestant churches begin their annual financial campaign for the support of next year's program.

By general agreement, all other organizations and publicity-supported agencies have left the month of November to the churches. This is to assure one period during the year when no other campaign is competing with the churches for gifts, or for the workers who go out and solicit those gifts.

The word Stewardship has become prominent in church language in recent years as the result of a new emphasis on an ancient religious teaching, which says that man does not actually own any of the material things he customarily calls his possessions but only takes care of them for God, who made everything and therefore owns everything.

This principle, to all who belief in God as Creator, must apply to a man's money as well as to all other property. From this point on it is an inescapable conclusion that a man's relation to God is that of a caretaker or "Steward" to the Master by whom he is employed.

In this year's Stewardship Sunday theme, "Thank God through your Church," the National Council of Churches is simply saying that the Christian Steward, having been charged with responsibility for the handling of God's property, shows his gratitude by allocating a proper share for the program of God's church.

* * *

In connection with this new emphasis many churches are reviving the old custom of tithing, that is, setting aside one-tenth of one's income for religious purposes. Others do not go so far as to suggest the exact percentage but do teach that one's giving to the church should be in a definite relation to one's income rather than in relation to the usual minimum church budget. Whatever the specific teaching may be, the underlying thought is that giving is in response to blessings received.

ST. CLARE'S SISTER

Wednesday, November 16—"How hardly," said Jesus, "shall they that have riches enter the Kingdom of Heaven," meaning, of course, that man's preoccupation with his possessions is almost impossible to break through.

And certainly that is the way it usually is. But there was a time at the beginning of the 13th Century when almost the whole Italian town of Assisi was a shining exception to the rule. First St. Francis, then St. Clare and her sister St. Agnes — all of them born wealthy—blithely turned their backs on money and position, and soon half the socialites of the community were with them in barefoot poverty.

And what is more they were all happier than they had ever been before. If anyone ever found the Kingdom here on earth it was this band of voluntary paupers who gave up riches for the joy of the Lord.

St. Agnes of Assisi, honored today in the Roman Catholic calendar, left home in 1212 to follow St. Francis. Only 16 days earlier her older sister, Clare, had left for the same purpose. When Agnes went it was more than their father, Count Faverone, could stand. He sent his brother, with a company of soldiers, to bring her back.

When his best attempts at persuasion failed, Agnes' uncle flew into a rage and drew his sword to strike her down. Legend says that his arm withered and the sword clattered to the floor.

Next the soldiers grabbed the girl by the hair and started to drag her home, but according to the story, her body became so heavy they were unable to move her. Whatever the facts about this skirmish, the point is Agnes did successfully resist all attempts to bring her back to her father's home.

Case Records of a Psychologist

Many People Harness Moral Idealism by Writing Letters of Encouragement

Do you have a favorite easy chair? Then place an end table beside it. Keep a pen thereon, plus paper, stamps and envelopes. And some greeting cards are also desirable. Then harness your good resolves by sending off a "League of the Golden Pen" letter. Hell is paved with good intentions but Heaven is paved with good deeds. So start being a good street paver for Heaven now.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case P-384: For 35 years I have taught a weekly Bible class.

But the past two years my duties have doubled, for now I teach a 9:30 Sunday school class at St. John's Church in my section of Chicago.

* * *

Then I head to the Chicago Loop where I teach another class at the Chicago Temple at 12:30 that same Sunday noon.

And many of the members of my two classes have asked for something specific and tangible that they could do.

"We wish to harness our moral idealism," one married girl recently expressed it. "So what would you recommend, Dr. Crane?"

SPECIFIC HELPFULNESS

So I launched Dr. Waugh's "League of the Golden Pen" and asked for volunteers from each class who would agree to send off one such encouraging letter each week.

The next Sunday, I devoted 15 minutes to a testimonial meeting at which time I asked the class members to tell to whom they had written.

One man said he had sent a letter to a grammar school teacher whom he had enjoyed as a fourth grader many years ago.

"I had never thought to thank her for her helpful influence," he told us. "But she changed me from a bad boy who played hookey, and set me on the right track.

"So I sent her a letter to express, even though many years belatedly, my deep appreciation.

"And she wrote me an immediate reply, saying she was now 83 years of age and living by herself in one room with a little gas plate to cook on.

"Her arthritis was getting worse and she felt especially blue on the day when my surprise letter arrived.

* * *

"I don't get many letters anymore," she said, "so it was a real surprise just to have the postman leave something for me downstairs.

"'And I can't thank you enough for your generous letter. You know, I taught school for nearly 50 years, but this is the first letter of thanks I have ever received from any of my thousands of pupils.

"'So I shall cherish it the rest of my life. It buoyed up my morale that dreary morning until it seemed as if the sun were shining, although the damp cold clouds still overcast the sky outside.'"

ACT TODAY

"What can I do," you may ask," to help spread a little more of God's psychological sunshine to other people?"

Well, sit down and write a long overdue letter to somebody who has helped you in the past but whom you failed to thank adequately.

* * *

So act today. Don't delay. Spread sunshine while you may. The grave will soon stop our good deeds here on this earth.

So cheer the souls of discouraged folks by a note of praise and you'll feel happier, too.

For generosity is like the poor widow's barrel of meal. It never gets depleted. The more you give the more is there available for you and others.

* * *

So start with your children. Or your mate. And spread compliments to your co-workers or even the casual acquaintances who sit beside you en route to work each day.

Hell is paved with good intentions, but Heaven is paved with good deeds, so do something helpful now.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane, in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 3c stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

Voice of the People

Foresees Dismal Future for Common Americans

Letters will be condensed when necessary, name, address and telephone number of the writer must accompany letters but these will not be published if the writer so requests unless the letter is critical in its nature

I am commenting on a well-worn subject; the future security of the common people of America.

Being neither Democrat, Republican, Socialist nor radical, and not taking an active interest in the voting, which never turns out the way you want it to, anyway, I wish to state that the average American has a very slim chance of ever getting any further than three meals a day, rent, a few clothes on his back, and maybe if he's lucky, a home and a car.

Other than that his health and peace of mind have to suffer, as he cannot afford dental care because of its high cost, or a doctor's care except in case of emergency.

Yes, notwithstanding the public's general knowledge of its country's needs, the politicians up in Washington emphasize the need for sending Care packages to the starving in Europe, while on their own doorstep sit the ragged urchins of American.

The public cannot help it. Their vote is honestly cast. Their religious efforts to eliminate poverty and suffering are ever present in the work of organizations. These are mostly privately supported.

But there is not enough individual attention paid by their comfortable lawmakers in the Senate who never see the dire poverty of the nation. They never see the false security caused by easy credit to conjure a way to benefit the people.

By people, I mean John, Joe, Mary . . . not one person or company as large as Ford or General Motors Corporations.

Russia Can Afford Block to See if West Falters

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—There was a rough awakening this week for those who thought Russia's milder manner in 1955 was due to weakness or that the "Spirit of Geneva" was anything more than nice talk.

When the Russians earlier this year shifted from the longstanding verbal brutalities of Stalin to a friendlier tone, there were some in this country who interpreted this as a sign Moscow needed to relax tensions.

* * *

They thought internal problems were forcing the Russians to cut down on the arms race. It would have been more realistic to look upon the change in the Russian manner as simply a shift in tactics—as many did.

The iron stand taken by Russia this week at the Big Four foreign ministers conference in Geneva was not that of a weak country, anxious to bargain or make concessions, but that of a strong and self-confident country.

* * *

The Russians yielded nothing to the West, and Russia has been frozen for years. If anyone yields now, there is nothing to indicate it will be the Russians. They're doing all right, it seems.

* * *

The Russians have the West worried with the inroads they've been making in the Middle East. The West, which seemed sound asleep there, may have to make big and costly efforts to overcome Russian initiative in that area.

* * *

Or, the West may have to make concessions elsewhere, perhaps in Europe to make the Russians back up a bit, if they will. As for Germany, right now it's a stand-off between Russia and the West.

The Western powers are, and have been, anxious to get Germany united and tied into the Western alliances. The Russians want the Germans, if they ever are permitted to unite, tied in with Russians.

At the moment the West has West Germany on its side, the Russians have East Germany. From their viewpoint, there's no practical reason for permitting German unification now. In fact, they may gain by waiting.

The best friend the West has in West Germany is Chancellor Konrad Adenauer. He's old and sick and may die or have to leave office soon. Not even all of Adenauer's West Germans want military alliance with the West.

* * *

The Russians can afford to stand stiff, yielding nothing on Germany, until Adenauer leaves the scene and his successors take over. In their desire for German unity, they may be willing to sever their Western ties and deal directly with Moscow.

The Russians paved the way for their doing just that when they recently established diplomatic relations with the West German government for the first time since the war.

The failure of the Geneva conference to get agreement between the West and Russia on anything of importance will be described as the end of the "Geneva spirit."

The correct question at this point is: What Geneva spirit?

What's ahead? Perhaps the best the two sides will be able to do, in the foreseeable future, is avoid war unless perhaps the West is willing to yield a bit. There is no sign the Russians have intention of yielding on any major point.

'Porchlight Parade' Aids Stricken Family

By REBA HEINTZELMAN

MILFORD—One week after fire destroyed their home, members of the William Combs family have more food, clothing and furniture than they had before the fire struck, according to the father.

SQUAD AIDS FAMILY — Three "Redskins" at Milford, Jerry Gonaldson, Gary Himes and George Eton, carry items for the burned-out William Combs family of Milford, given in a 100-mile-area porchlight drive Thursday night.

Fire leveled the Combs home at 1525 Burns Rd. last week, and since that time, Mr. and Mrs. Combs and their six children have been living with neighbors and relatives in the area.

Twenty-eight Redskin football players, under the direction of coach Richard Yater, covered Highland, Clyde, White Lake and Milford in a campaign to raise supplies for the stricken family. Four trucks and two cars were used to transport beds, household furniture, stoves and a washing machine.

* * *

Church and school groups throughout the area have worked together, and the response has been overwelming, according to Yager.

Porch lights were turned on in Milford Thursday night, indicating that residents had supplies to give when the football squad began their house to house collection campaign.

Over $300 in cash has been collected from individuals, organizations and a check for $50 was donated from the Community chest fund.

LA Second in the Output of Apparel

New York Alone Makes and Sells More Clothing

Los Angeles today ranks as the second largest apparel manufacturing center in the world, according to a report recently published by the Market Planning Division of the National Credit Office.

* * *

It now takes the lead over Chicago, Philadelphia, Boston, St. Louis, Paris and London, and is second only to New York, both in number of firms, unit production and dollar sales.

This report, made by the Dun and Bradstreet subsidiary, compares figures during the 10-year period between 1939 and 1949, and brings to light the overwhelming growth of California market in this comparatively short time.

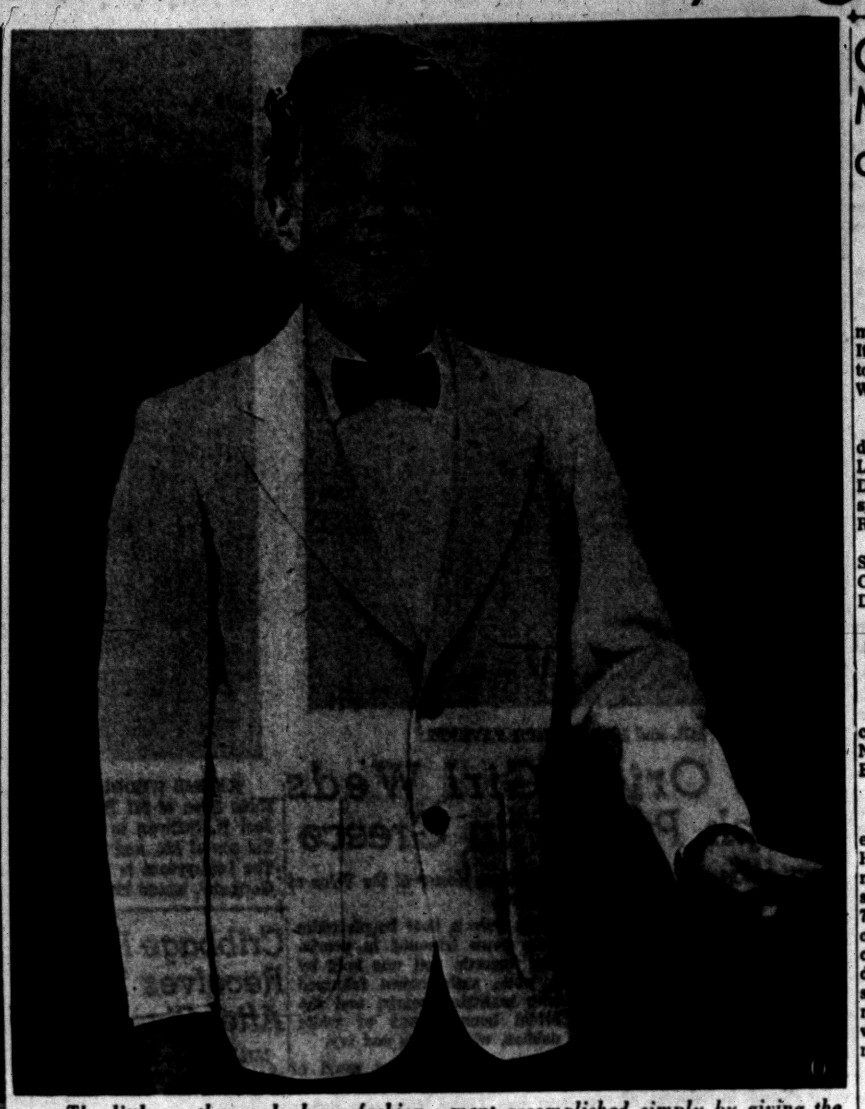

In fact, it is just since 1946 that Los Angeles has outdistanced Chicago, which has dropped to third place. This survey includes the country's 12 leading markets.

* * *

The report divides the women's apparel industry in three broad classifications, based mainly on fabric content. Sportswear, which represents the largest group of California manufacturers, is placed in both the dress and in the coat and suit category.

Ready to go . . . this bright, right playtime outfit is for on-the-go activities. The youthful two-for-the-money duo is by Betty Brooks Co. of California. Pearl buttons are used to accent the yokeline and patch pockets of the striped cotton, Italian-type overblouse which can be worn "in" to show the buttoned hipbone pockets of the poplin pedal pushers with pert striped cuffs. With a nose for fashion, a tiny burro, from the pack train that goes through the Painted Desert of Disneyland's Frontierland, appraises the outfit. Styles by California Fashion Creators will be previewed beginning Monday.

The little gentleman look—a fashion trick which turns small boys, and not so small, from rowdies into little gentlemen—is an easy, no-nerve-fraying achievement accomplished simply by giving the boy an opportunity to wear this "just like Dad's" sports coat by California's Palomino Sportswear Co.

Mr. Thomas, who lived in Rome until this year, and who now is living in Birmingham, is teaching painting at the Detroit Institute of Arts.

Although she now is living in France, Miss Jeffries, a sculptor, formerly resided in Birmingham, and Miss Strengell is head of the weaving department at Cranbrook.

Miss Wescher, a painter from Santa Monica, Calif., is another of the five modern artists whose work will be shown during the three-week exhibition.

The demi-jacket is a multi-purpose, waist-length fleece shortie by Mary Ann of California. The fully-lined style boasts the season's approved bulky look, deep push-up raglan sleeves and wider collar. It is one of the fashions to be shown beginning Monday at the press week sponsored by the California Fashion Creators.

The future looks perfect with this pretty, practical sub-teen raincoat by California Slickerette Co. This adaptable style is as fashion-right for a sports car of the future — streamlined as Disneyland's Tomorrowland where it is pictured — as for today's usual jalopy of the sub-teen set. It is fashioned on full lines to be worn with or without the belt. The wide collar converts into a hood.

Quit Mourning About Past Loves

By ELIZABETH WOODWARD

You're not dating him any more? You broke that all off? You see him around now and then, but he seems utterly unaware of you? And there you are eating your heart out for him? Loving him to pieces though it's not doing you one speck of good?

* * *

It is really the dear departed that you love so violently? Or is it the memory of yourself being loved by him that you love?

Could it be that you can't forget him because you really don't want to forget how you felt, how you acted, what you did while you were on special terms with him?

In many a girl's case, I suspect it's only too true that she can't forget being in love. The specific object of those affections is really secondary.

You'll see what I mean in this girl's case. She writes:

"Dear Miss Woodward: How can you forget someone you love? I recently broke up with a boy after going steady with him for over a year. There wasn't any real explanation and we're still friends. I see him in school every day.

"But my trouble is that every move I make, every place I go, everything I do seems to be like relieving the many wonderful things I did with him.

"Should I give up the hope completely that he will be back—that he was just tired of going steady but still likes me?

"Or can you tell me how to forget, if it's possible. I really think I've unsuccessfully tried everything."

Answer: Not quite everything. You haven't tried getting very impersonal with yourself. You haven't tried to take a detached look. You're wallowing in flock of memories of the way you felt about everything while you were going with him.

You adore thinking about it. Every move you make these days reminds you of the way you felt last year. Every place you go stirs up memories of the time you were there before.

You'd suffer a lot less if you'd start thinking about other things. Plunge yourself into school activities. Whip up some steam over your girl friends. Focus your attention on some boy who shows an interest in you.

Let all of those people and things occupy your mind. It will keep you very busy thinking about the present, not harping on the past. You'll be so busy that you'll forget how you were way back last year.

Here's another girl who is remembering the dreams she dreamed and the plans they made together, and is teasing herself into not believing it when her mind tells her it's all over.

"Dear Miss Woodward: We talked about marriage, children and a home of our own while we went steady for those five months, then he wanted to break up. I asked him why but all he would say was that he thought it would be for the best.

"He said he still wanted to go with me but not steady—when there was something special to do he'd call me. And that was nearly a month ago and he hasn't called me yet.

"Personally I think it's his mother. His parents, but most of the time just his mother, went with us on a lot of our dates. She has him wrapped around her finger.

"He told me I should go out with other fellows, but I don't want to. I don't think he's going out with other girls.

"I love him very much and I'd do anything to get him back. Maybe he thinks I should make the first move?"

Answer: It's not likely that he expects you to do anything but accept his decision. If he had regretted it, he would have called you by now. If he had expected to keep the pot boiling he'd have cooked up something special to do.

Close that chapter with a decisive snap. Date it and tuck it away in your past among the other dreams you dreamed. Start going out with other young men—new expectations in new directions.

Stubbornly refuse to make any move toward him. Blunt your desire to see him by chance by revolving in new circles. Rigidly keep yourself from jumping every time the phone rings. Sooner than you think that haunting slate will be washed clean.

You'll find yourself no longer churning over him. You'll be able to smile sentimentally when you just happen to think about the way things were when you knew him.

3-Piece Costume Blends Casualness, High Fashion

David Goodstein's three-piece costume, is one of the season's great successes, combining as it does the typical American air of casualness with all the current high fashion news.

The jacket with its gently bloused back has a waistband that shaped to sit lower toward the hipbone. The skirt, with double darts at the top of each gore, has a high-cut front pleat.

Make the tuck-in blouse in a fabric that contrasts in texture with that of the jacket and skirt repeating the outer fabric as trim, or keeping it monotone. It has a back neck closing as well as a side zipper which insure excellent fit. Choose tweed, worsteds, novelty wools for the jacket and skirt, jersey for the blouse.

Bust	Waist	Hips	Sizes
34	24	35 inches	10
35	25	36 inches	12
36½	26½	37½ inches	14
38	28	39 inches	16
40	30	41 inches	18

Size 12 requres 1⅛ yards of 54-inch wool jersey for blouse. Skirt requires 1½ yards of 54-inch material and jacket requires 1½ yards of 54-inch material.

Volunteer Jobs Show Off Talents

By ANNE HEYWOOD

When you have a good product to sell, it is important that you have some showcase, some way of bringing it to the attention of potential buyers.

* * *

This holds true for yourself, too.

If you want a job, particularly a part-time job, the first step is to find some way to bring your skill to the attention of potential employers. And, especially with part-time jobs, this is sometimes difficult to do.

Take, for example, Mrs. G. L.

"I am a good typist and a good receptionist," Mrs. G. L. writes. "For more than a year, I tried to get a part-time job along those lines. But our town has almost no part-time work, so I was turned down everywhere.

VOLUNTEER JOB

"I kept thinking, 'If they would just give me a chance to show my stuff, I know they'd hire me.' But how to begin? Finally I gave up and settled for a volunteer job.

* * *

"I loved the work," she continued. "It was for a big, busy organization. I handled the reception desk, plus filing and typing for four hours a day, five days a week. I loved it and they loved me.

"Within three months, they offered me a permanent paid job on their staff—and part-time, at that!

"If I had only done this a year before!"

* * *

Many volunteer jobs, it has been my experience, do eventually lead to paying jobs. But, it doesn't pay to enter them with this in mind. It is just a case of entering the volunteer field wholeheartedly, to serve, to maintain your skills and to keep busy.

PAYING JOBS

The woman who does this, more often than not, finds it leads to a paying job. Sometimes it comes with the same organization, sometimes in comes through other people you meet on the job.

* * *

But whatever you do, if you want a part-time job and cannot find a paying one, don't just give up. Go into an unpaid job and give yourself a real showcase!

Fete Waterfront Work of Jesuit

Rev. Dennis J. Comey Honored by News Guild for Labor Relations

PHILADELPHIA (RNS) — The Rev. Dennis J. Comey, S. J., the "waterfront priest," received the annual "Page One Award" of the Newspaper Guild of Greater Philadelphia for his work in labor relations.

* * *

Father Comey is the founder-director of St. Joseph's College Institute of Industrial Relations, a school where employers and workers freely exchange ideas and study mutual concerns.

He also serves as official arbitrator for the Port of Philadephia in waterfront disputes.

As guest speaker at the Newspaper Guild's dinner, Father Comey said:

* * *

"A social revolution has brought about concern for the worker's health, his family's well-being and his old age security. Instead of merely economic thinking in the labor-management field, we now have a high degree of ethics and social concern and relationships that are better than ever before in history."

Board of 18 Deacons Will Assist Minister

The annual Thanksgiving Communion Service will be Sunday morning at 9 o'clock in Bethany Baptist Church.

Besides the regular choirs, a duet will be sung by Mrs. George Kannath, soprano and Robert J. Williams, tenor. Elda Sutter will play the organ chimes New members will receive the Right Hand of Fellowship into full membership at this time.

The Rev. Fred R. Tiffany, pastor, will give the communion meditation, "The Hinges of Destiny Swing on Little Decisions." He will be assisted by the board of 18 deacons.

No 'Different Gospel' for World Peoples

PRETORIA, S. Africa (RNS)—Dr. Geoffrey H. Clayton, Anglican archbishop of Capetown, told a large gathering including Prime Minister J. G. Strydom that "it would be intolerable to suppose there can be a different gospel for every race."

The archbishop made the statement in laying the foundation stone for the new nave of St. Alban's Cathedral here.

* * *

"The gospel for South Africa cannot be different from that for England, the Netherlands, or the United States," Dr. Clayton said. "There is only one Christian gospel, and if there are to be differences in the Christian Church it is better they be based on our understanding of the truth than on race.

College Students Show Big Move Toward Religion

Religious leaders report signs of a religious awakening on the nation's college and university campuses.

* * *

A report submitted this week to the Methodist Interboard Committee on Missionary Education says, "There is no doubt that on most college campuses across the country there is an unmistakable revival of interest in religion."

Delegates to the annual meeting of the Ohio Baptist Convention in Toledo last week were told that campuses are now the most fertile missionary fields in the world.

The Rev. Howard R. Moody, director of student activities for the convention, said colleges "offer a new frontier for missionary work."

* * *

Mr. Moody, who spends most of his time at Ohio State University, Columbus, said that the tensions, insecurity and loneliness of students make them reach out for something enduring.

Group Purging Obscene Books

Minnesota Druggists Launch All-Out Drive Against Bad Magazines

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (RNS)—Minnesota druggists are launching an all-out campaign to purge "obscene and indecent literature" from their magazine and book racks.

Actually, "most drug stores have been culling out this material for years," Henry M. Moen, executive secretary of the Minnesota State Pharmaceutical Assn., said.

But they'll redouble their efforts, putting up window decals and signs on their newsstands, telling the public they are participating in the "anti-obscene literature" drive and asking public cooperation in the project.

The program grew out of a resolution passed at the group's state convention in May.

Although the association has not drawn up its own list of "objectionable" books and magazines, Mr. Moen said, lists compiled by the National Organization for Decent Literature have been made available to druggists as a guide.

"The program is strictly voluntary, but we expect that most of our members will cooperate," Mr. Moen said. "We're going to do everything that's humanly possible to eliminate this material."

Fishermen Hold Prayer Services Weekly on Docks

NEW BEDFORD, Mass. (RNS)—Boot-clad workers hold a prayer service every Wednesday morning at the Coastal Fisheries plant here.

* * *

The odor of fish and the commercial atmosphere does not distract from the 30-minute period devoted to God. Instead, the surroundings and mutual interests of the men and women fish cutters point up an air of brotherhood and common purpose.

"There is more harmony and a better work relationship than ever before," said John C. DeMello, plant manager. "Plant morale has improved considerably."

The services were started by Alfred V. Nanfelt of nearby Middleboro, owner of the plant.

"It has been a blessing," he said, describing how a number of employes indicated such interest in the services that they became a weekly event. The revivals are held on company time for those who wish to attend.

At his first try, the business failed. It happened in Columbus, Ohio while he was driving home, praying that he seemed to hear God saying "Turn the business over to Me and I will make it succeed, You don't need to go broke."

He prospered. God's share of the business, 51 per cent, is distributed through the Stanita Foundation. Tam's religious partnership with God is legally recorded on incorporation documents in Ohio. His will specifieds that half of the business will go to God on Tam's death.

Miami Store Women Start Dry Campaign

MIAMI, Fla. (RNS) — Women employees of downtown department stores here have formed a group called Christ-like Christmas Parties, Inc., to campaign against the use of alcoholic beverages at company holiday celebrations.

* * *

They asked other sales people, clerks and secretaries to join in the crusade and urge their bosses to keep liquor away from office parties.

They said some employers had protested that the women wanted to make a religious party out of an office celebration.

"Well,, if they're using a religious holiday as the excuse to have a party, why not make it a religious party?" the women asked.

"Since Christmas is Christ's birthday, the parties ought to be planned to please Him."

* * *

The group said they hoped the Miami Chamber of Commerce would join them in urging non-alcoholic celebrations this year.

Confident Living

Christian Attitude, Prayer Maintains Poise Decisions

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

What advice would you give to a young wife who discovered that her absent husband was living with another woman? Such unhappy situations are presented frequently to those who try to help in human problems.

* * *

This young woman, wife of an American soldier, told me that a few years ago her husband had been sent to serve in Germany. A year later, when she was permitted to join him there, she flew to Germany filled with happy anticipation at the thought of seeing her husband again.

DR. PEALE

What she found there, however, rudely destroyed this dream. Her husband had been living with a German girl. The shock of this discovery broke her health. Eventually, unable to tolerate the situation in which she had been placed, she returned to the States and slowly began to regain her health.

In the meantime, it seems that her husband's way of life in Germany made him the center of a scandal, as the result of which he was sent back home in disgrace. He asked his wife to take him back and she agreed, though not without painful self-struggle and with many misgivings.

Sometime later, he received a letter from the German girl in which she said she had made arrangements to follow him to the States. He showed the letter to his wife.

"What am I to do?" was the question she asked of me.

Some might answer that such a situation is more than flesh and blood can take. With that feeling I am in full sympathy, but we are more than flesh and blood. We are children of God to whom are offered insight and strength of a spiritual nature.

CREATIVE APPROACH

"You married your husband for better or for worse," I reminded her, "and this is the worse. But that does not mean that you ought to run away from this problem, but rather to meet it creatively."

And the creative approach as outlined was first to acquire through prayer and right thinking a controlled emotional reaction. That is not easy, of course, but then the mastery of a deep human crisis never comes easy. But self-control can be achieved, and mental quietness is vital to the solution of any problem, for we must think cooly and rationally. So many people "think" with their emotions rather than with their intellects. This accounts, no doubt, for the many wrong decisions and disastrous results.

The next consideration involved the conservation of the true value in the three personalities involved: her husband, the German girl, and herself. The other two, acting negatively and wrongly, had created this sad situation. Could she, by thinking and acting creatively redeem it and them, and also preserve her own domestic life?

On this level of approach I urged her to consider the advantages she had over her rival. The wife always has a head start over the other woman; long years of a common experience, many deep moments of unforgetable fellowship in sorrow and joy, the coming of children, and the fact that their relationship is sacred, and not furtive and clandestine.

Also, on the wife's advantage side is the higher level concept that even an erring husband has of his wife as against the other woman. Moreover, I pointed out that her personality still possessed the original attractiveness which caused her husband to love her in the first place. If she had grown careless as to appearance, mental alertness, charm and vivacity, she must do a personality revamping job on herself.

In addition, she was urged to show some real spunk and let the German girl know in no uncertain terms that she was through, and should she appear in America she was going to encounter a real battle.

So many of these situations can be corrected if a husband or wife, like this woman, will just do some sound, unemotional thinking and employ a simple strategy. And, of course, uppermost in this strategy is to lift the whole issue to a spiritual level. By the use of prayer, plus an honest checking to keep your attitudes Christian at all times, you can maintain poise and receive guidance in every ticklish decision. The absence of hate and resentment made possible by spiritual motivation keeps the mind clear and sets in motion spiritually recreative forces.

* * *

The young wife was a resolute lady. She did not minimize the fact that she had a tough job trying to remake the shattered character of her mixed-up husband. And she knew that she would experience no little difficulty in conditioning her own spirit to deal with the matter on the upper level that was suggested. She said, "It took a powerful lot of praying and believing," but she accomplished it, and today she has a home built upon a substantial basis.

Red Frost Ruins Geneva 'Harvest' Hopes -- Bidault

(The most important question at the Geneva Foreign Ministers Conference is whether the Russians will support their professed peaceful intentions with deeds—to help solve the explosive issue of German reunification, European security and disarmament. International News Service assigned Georges Bidault, brilliant former French premeir and foreign minister who had met the Russians across the conference table many times, to Geneva to get the answers to the questions the world has been asking about the Russians.)

By GEORGES BIDAULT
Former French Premier, Foreign Minister and Defense Minister

(World Copyright, 1955, by International News Service. All rights reserved. Reproduction in whole or part strictly prohibited.)

GENEVA (INS)—The conference of the Big Four foreign ministers, now proceeding on the shores of Lake Geneva, faced the task of turning into reality those hopes the chiefs of government thought they saw blossoming when they met in last summer's sunshine.

At the moment, we must wonder whether the awaited harvest has not been ruined by the first autumnal frost.

For this Geneva conference bears a striking resemblance to all of the Big Four meetings I have known—in particular the Berlin Conference of January 1954.

The identical remarks fly toward the same deaf ears, and the same seeds of diplomacy are strewn in vain over the same sterile, stony ground.

But there is one strange turnabout. Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov, now in Geneva and entrusted with a difficult task, has been challenged behind his back in his own country.

This turnabout and its consequences apparently have brought Mr. Molotov nothing but satisfaction. However, it is a fact that the same Soviet newspaper Pravda, which for 35 years reverenced his glory, has now mentioned Mr. Molotov twice in a manner to which the Soviet plenipotentiary is not accustomed.

What did this rap on the knuckles mean, and what did his almost-simultaneous and lightning trip to Moscow mean?

It could have been part of the optimism which for the past 10 years he has been spreading so abundantly and so ineffectually over every international meeting.

More likely, it could have been a new twist of procedure with the appearance of concession that would reopen a discussion of the "areas of lesser tension" and Disarmament.

In any case, it did not refer to the first item on the Big Four agenda—th unificationot Germany and European security.

In a speech which was one of the most violent and most indifferent to truth that he ever has given, Molotov struck a blow of such brutality that it sufficed to demonstrate—if there were still the need—the complete uselessness of discussing justice nad goodwill with men whose doctrine has long been based entirely on a consideration of the ratio of opposing forces.

In substance, Molotov said:

That the question of free elections was not yet ripe (after 10 years!).

The future is ours, says Molotov, who has always thought so. It is ours because we are advancing in the direction of history (a direction that could have been reversed by the absence of American lend-lease supplies to the Soviet Union).

It is ours because elections bother us less than they do you.

What this battle-tried statesman is saying in his public remarks, what he is telling the west amounts to this:

Because you failed to set the price for the relaxation of international tension, we have it free. And we know that, because of your public opinion, your insistance on elections, because of the failure to unite Europe, because of the setbacks you have suffered and the weakening of your willpower.

He is saying to the Western nations — you are not ready to blow on the flame of hope and peace you have lighted among your peoples. Consequently, we are not worried.

Time works for us, he is saying. You cannot offer the Germans any more than you have already offered them. What remains is ours. It is from us that you will have to get the rest.

RUSSIANS 'FIX' PRICE

When the Germans understand that you can not do anything more for them, they will come seeking from us, Molotov says . . . and the price will be fixed by us.

On that day, which will eventually come, there will be a new German-Russian meeting. You will then perhaps realize at least all of the mistakes you have made from one end of the world to the other when you thought you could deal with Communists as you would with the petite bourgeoisie.

Thus at Geneva, nothing is settled about Germany. The problem isn't ripe, says Molotov.

Then will there ben nothing at all at Geneva?

It is possible, but highly unlikely. The wish to avoid failure — that is to say, a parting of the ways without having something to put into a communique — is very strong in the democratic countries, and even in the other country.

The West could learn a lot from the East. It is not because the West is necessarily less intelligent. But the liberty in the West creates a taste for change and a hostility to perseverance.

In the disarmament problem, we can introduce the question of the areas of lesser tension. And in relation to these areas, or in relation to anything at all, the problem of collaboration between the two German states can be revived.

Let us read again, for instance, what Molotov says in his highly-significant speech:

"There are many common questions, in the field of commerce, traffic between East and West Germany and others, in which a concerted solution would be of advantage to all Germans."

He adds that by this means German reunification could be achieved later through free elections.

I interpret what he says this way: Tomorrow things will be easy for us, so today we are going to stick a monkeywrench in the machinery.

I confess that I see only one way to avoid a parting of the ways without a conclusion and, at the same time, avoiding a reckless conclusion.

That way would be to make it clearly understood at last that relaxation of international tensions means disarmament, and disarmament means control.

Hiawatha Facts Were Racy Before Henry's Revision

* * *

Every school child knows that line—it's from Hiawatha—the epic Indian poem by Henry Wadsworth Longfellow.

It was 100 years ago today that Hiawatha was first published.

And it's of special interest to Michigan because the figure of Hiawatha and the legends were taken from the folk lore or the Ojibwa Indians of Michigan.

Prof. Richard M. Dorson, head of the Hiawatha Centennial Committee and an expert on folklore, tells of the background of the Poe, Longfellow dug out his basic material from the Indian legends collected by Henry Rowe Schoolcraft, Indian agent at Sault Ste. Marie, who married a half Indian girl and gave his name to a county.

But the original Indian hero Schoolcraft wrote about had the name of Manabozho. Longfellow wanted a more poetic-sounding name and instead used the name of Hiawatha, who was an actual Iriquois Indian who helped to found the powerful six nations.

When Schoolcraft published his legends, he also used the name of Hiawatha because it was well known and would sell books. Also, Dorson reports, Longfellow took considerable liberties with the material supplied by Schoolcraft.

The Indian tales collected by Schoolcraft were sometimes raw and racy and Manabozho was not only a folk hero who created the world but also was a rogue and a trickster.

"For the sake of his poem, Longfellow followed the form of the petic and romantic noble savage. And the image has persisted to this day," Dorson said.

Detroit's 'Safest Mile' Claim Gets Challenge

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — Mayor Joseph N. Langan has challenged Detroit's claim that the Detroit-Windsor tunnel is the "safest mile in the world."

* * *

Langan says the title belongs to Bankhead Tunnel under the Mobile River—although his tunnel falls short of the mile mark, being 3,109 feet.

"Bankhead Tunnel never has had an accident of any kind in its 15-year history," Langan said. "And it apparently handles an even larger traffic flow, since 37 million cars have passed through it.

"I was surprised to read a newspaper article that the Detroit River tunnel was the 'safest mile in the world,' despite having had two fatal accidents in carrying 47 million cars over the last 25 years between Detroit and Windsor, Ont."

* * *

The Detroit-Windsor Tunnel was completed in 1930 at a cost of 25 million dolars; the Bankhead Tunnel in 1941 at a cost of $4,129,000.

Ex-Cell-O, UAW Sit for Strike Settlement

DETROIT (AP)— Federal mediator Malcolm G. House called negotiators for the Ex-Cello-O Corp. and the CIO United Auto Workers into a meeting today in a new effort to settle a 60-day strike of the firm's Detroit plants.

Strikes at three other Michigan and Ohio plants of Ex-Cell-O have been ended by contract settlements.

A dispute over alleged wage inequities was reported to be the only major stumbling block to accord on contract covering 3,500 Detroit employes. Both the union and company have agreed on economic aspects of a new three-year contract covering all Ex-Cell-O plants and carrying benefits estimated to be woth 23 cents hourly for each worker.

DETROIT (AP) — Believed to be the only person ever to survive a 152-foot leap from Ambassador Bridge into the Detroit River, Mrs. Margaret Coon, 36-year-old mother of seven, was dismissed from a Detroit Hospital Friday. She went off the center span of the bridge Oct. 5.

Veterans' School Hits Peak Capacity

The Michigan Veterans Vocational School at Pine Lake near Doster, is enjoying its highest enrollment in history. Nearly all departments are full. Vacancies in the departments are being filled, by new enrolees, as they occur.

There is a growing demand for graduates of the institution and it is impossible to meet this demand.

Both disabled and non-disabled men are given training and the vocations being taught are watch repair, cabinet making, radio and television office machine repair, printing, furniture upholstery, machine and architectural drafting, machine shop and business education.

Two facts are especially gratifying to the institution. One is, that employers of the graduates ask for others as they need them and another is that even the severely disabled, when well trained, are able to find employment.

Garfield Papers Located in Ohio

MSU Professors Find Diaries and Other Data of Former President

EAST LANSING (AP)—A number of diaries and personal papers of former President James A. Garfield have been discovered at Mentor, O., through the literary detective work of a couple of Michigan State University professors.

* * *

The valuable documents have been presented to the Library of Congress by Abram Garfield of Cleveland, only living son of the 20th president.

Profs. Harry Brown and Frederick Williams of the MSU history department, trying to run down Garfield papers, discovered the writings in a desk in a vault at the old Garfield home at Mentor. Included in the collection were four diaries kept by Garfield between 1848 and 1859.

The two professors said the Garfield diaries cover the time when he was a college student, a college president, a civil war officer, member of Congress and President.

* * *

"The diaries contain much of interest and value to students of American History," the professors said. "Garfield was one of the best educated and informed men ever to achieve the Presidency."

State Will Salute Trucking Industry

A state salute to the trucking industry has been proclaimed for the week of November 13-19 by Governor G. Mennen Williams who yesterday issued a statement setting the period aside as "Truck Transportation Week."

In his proclamation, the Governor called upon citizens to "consider the great accomplishments of our truckers and the system they represent."

"The business of transporting vitally-needed goods and commodities, as well as military supplies," Williams said, "has fallen to a greater degree than ever on the shoulders of the trucking industry."

"That industry," he praised, "has undertaken this mammoth task with economic intelligence, with diligence, and with an efficiency that can be characterized as typically American."

Bonding Costs Cut for Postal Workers

More than 200 Pontiac postal employes will be relieved of paying bonding costs from their own pockets under a new "blanket" plan announced recently by Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield.

According to Summerfield, the Post Office Department will seek bids from authorized surety companies to provide a single-package bonding program by January 1.

Bonding costs currently range from less than a dollar a year for low-salaried employes to approximately $100 for those in upper-income positions.

Summerfield pointed out that, besides eliminating bonding expenses for employes, the plan will save the department at least $300,000 in paperwork.

Ohio Will Study Layoff Pay Plan

Double Compensation for Unemployed Help Puzzles Legislators

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — An Ohio legislative committee has begun a study to determine whether the state's laws need to be changed to permit an idled worker to draw both layoff pay from his company and unemployment compensation.

* * *

The CIO United Auto Workers union has insisted that Ohio's unemployment compensation law i sufficiently broad to permit bot types of assistance. But a UAW sponsored proposal to spell this ou was overwhelmingly rejected by voters Tuesday.

There was some contention among committee members that Ohio law requires deductions of supplemental income, by whatever name it is called or however it is received, from unemployment compensation.

The committee, appointed by the state Legislative Service Commission, decided at a meeting yesterday to invite representatives of the Ohio Bureau of Unemployment Compensation and the Attorney General's office to its next meeting "to answer several questions."

CAN BUREAU RULE?

Authority to set the meeting date was delegated state Sen. Fred H. Danner (R-Akron), committee chairman.

One of the questions to be asked, committeemen indicated, is whether either the bureau or attorney general's office can rule under present law that layoff pay would be legal, without deductions from unemployment compensation.

Some legislators argued that the Ohio CIO council was of the opinion an administrative ruling would outlaw jobless pay when it initiated the proposal defeated Tuesday. The CIO United Auto Workers have insisted this was not the case and that petitions which forced the referendum were started in circulation in 1953.

* * *

The proposal also was coupled with one to raise unemployment compensation.

Texas, Friend, Means, 'Hello, My Friend'

WASHINGTON (INS) — Don't cringe when a Texan mentions his home state. He's only trying to be friendly.

The very word "Texas," in fact, means "hello friend." Or at least it did hundreds of years ago when one member of the Caddo Indian tribe would greet another by saying "Teysha," the "howdy pardner" of its day.

The fact that Texas gets its name from a salutation puts it in a class by itself, if it wasn't there already. No other state or U. S. territoy can trace the origin of what it calls itself back to a word of greeting.

Most state and territorial names are derived from Indian tribes, from places, rivers and persons of "nobility or rank," according to John P. Harrington of the Smithsonian Institution's Bureau of American ethnology.

Writing in the institution's annual report, Harrington points out that "our state names are almost entirely a product of chance. A haphazard aggregation has grown into official usage, as irregularity as the typical American city grows into shape."

In some cases, the origins are so hazy that Harrington admits he can't find them. It seems that the word "California," for instance, first shows up in a 16th century Spanish novel as the name of an island, but where the author got the name is not known.

On the other hand, Alabama, Arkansas, Idaho, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Missouri, Oklahoma and the Dakotas are all descended from the names of American Indian tribes.

The state of Michigan gets its name from the Indian, meaning "great lake" or "great water." The red men had applied that name to the lake, before the white men adopted it for the territory bordering that lake.

Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia owe their titles to a pair of English queens, while Delaware, the District of Columbia, Georgia, Louisiana, Pennsylvania, Washington and the Carolinas can all be traced back to famous men.

Only two states are in any way derived from words describing their geography. Montana comes from the Latin word meaning mountainous. Pennsylvania honors William Penn's father with its first syllable and the state's "Sylvan" woodlands with the other four.

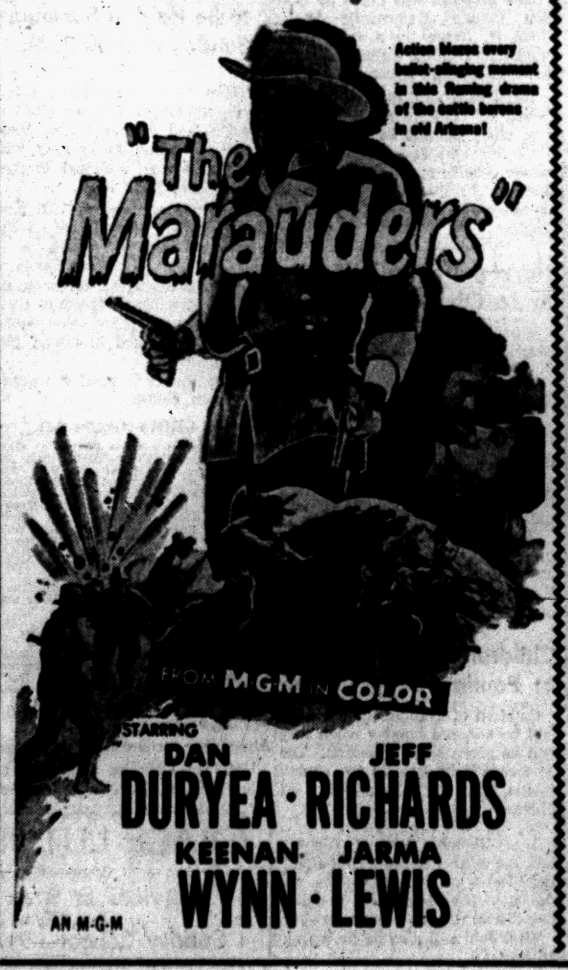

Colorado, Connecticut, Minnesota, Mississippi, Nebraska, Ohio, Oregon and Wisconsin were named after rivers. The rivers got their names from all sorts of things—a Spanish word meaning red in Coorado's case and a Spanish word meaning hurricane in Oregon's.

Like Texas, Florida also has an exclusive claim to fame. It is the only state whose name refers to the day of its discovery—Easter Sunday, known in Spanish as "Pascua Florida."

Despairing Father Dies in Wake of Son's Murder

CHICAGO (UP) — A despairing, heart-broken father, whose two young sons and a companion were brutally murdered less than a month ago, died yesterday.

* * *

The cause of Anton Schuessler's death was described by a physician as "apparently a heart attack." He suffered the attack, the doctor added, while being given a routine electrical shock treatment for a depressed state of mind.

But police and friends of the 42-year-old father of the slain boys agreed that he died of a broken heart.

* * *

Schuessler's wife, Eleanor, 37, prostrate at the news of her husband's death in a rest home in suburban Des Plaines, sobbed: "It's all the kilers' fault. They killed the boys and now they've killed Tony. I had everything to live for and now I've got nothing."

The Schuessler's only children, John, 13, and Anton Jr., 11, and their neighborhood chum, Robert Peterson, 14, were found brutally murdered on Oct. 18 at the Robinson Woods forest preserve.

The boys had disappeared from their Northwest side home on Sunday, Oct. 16 after leaving home to attend a loop movie.

* * *

Schuessler went without sleep in the search for the boys. After the burial of his sons he closed his North Side tailor shop and said he would devote all his time in helping police search for the sadistic slayers.

Thus far police have found no tangible clues in connection with the slayings. Police have questioned some 100,000 persons and have pursued every lead. Rewards for the capture of the slayers total $33,350.

* * *

Schuessler, with Malcolm Peterson, 40, father of Robert, canvassed neighborhood taverns and bowling alleys and tramped through the underbrush where the boys' bruised and naked bodies were found for possible clues.

Schuessler refused to give up the search despite orders by his physician to take a complete rest. Coroner Walter E. McCarron said his deputies had told him a week ago that the grief-stricken Schuessler was "just fading away."

* * *

He entered the private rest home on Thursday. His wife said his nerves were "shot."

* * *

[illegible] superintendent of the rest home, described the treatment given Schuessler as "a very normal and routine procedure." He said four doctors worked nearly three hours in an unsuccessful attempt to revive him.

Legion Leader Raps UNESCO

American Legion Chief Gives Bombastic Talk Against Its Loyalty

WASHINGTON (UP) — National Commander J. Addington Wagner of the American Legion blasted UNESCO this week as "the international sancutary of impractical one-worlders, red-tinged radicals, and apparently deserters from the ranks of loyal Americans."

Wagner denied, however, in a speech prepared for the Legion's District of Columbia department, that the veterans organization proposed United States withdrawal from the United Nations agency at the recent Legion convention in Miami, Fla.

UNESCO, the United Nations Educational, Social and Cultural Organization, has been a target of key Legion officials although a Legion committee which studied the agency reported to the Miami convention that accusations against UNESCO were unfounded.

Nonetheless the convention voted in favor of abolishing the U.S. National Commission for UNESCO and urged a congressional investigation to determine whether the agency has been violating Senate and House resolutions by spreading "world government" propaganda in American schools.

In the ensuing controversy, former President Truman, himself a Legionnaire, defended UNESCO and said its Legion critics didn't know what they were talking about.

Wagner contended that Americans of doubtful loyalty are on the UNESCO staff and he charged that the agency "has tried to peddle its global-minded concpets to the one group in America most likely to be persuaded by its propaganda—our school children."

Jazz Expert-Preacher Honored by Alma Mater

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UP)—Sound another high note for the Rev. Alvin L. Kershaw, the Oxford, Ohio Episcopal minister whose knowledge of jazz music won him $32,000 on the $64,000 question television show.

He was named the University of Louisville's "alumnus of the year" yesterday and will be honored at the homecoming football game next week.

Youthful Actor Breaks Wrist in Garage Fall

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Ten-year-old Tim Hovey, who starred in the movie "The Private War of Major Benson," broke his wrist yesterday in a fall from his grandparents' garage.

A playmate with a garden hose squirted water on the young actor, causing him to fall. The injury will keep him out of a new picture next week.

'Let U. N. Man Middle East!'

Stevenson's Idea Gets Cautious Support From Washington Officials

WASHINGTON (UP) — Adlai E. Stevenson's proposal for United Nations policing of inflamed Arab-Israeli borders got a cautious reception today from Washington officials.

Speaking in Charlottesville, Va., last night, Stevenson said the way to avoid armed clashes in the tense Middle East was to "keep the troops of these antagonists apart."

"I wonder," he said, "if the United Nations could not undertake patrol duties in the areas of tension and collision.

"Certainly both sides would respect United Nations patrols where they do not trust each other.

* * *

The State Department declined to comment on Stevenson's proposal, made in a network broadcast spech before a capacity audience of 3,300 at the University of Virginia.

* * *

Sen. Morse (D-Ore), a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said he thinks Stevenson's proposal has merit "and should be weighed and analyzed carefully" by the administration and the Foreign Affairs Committees of Congress.

Sen. Aiken (R-Vt), another Senate Foreign Relations committeeman, said in a separate interview he believes U. N. action in the present situation "could prevent all-out war or it could precipitate one." He added:

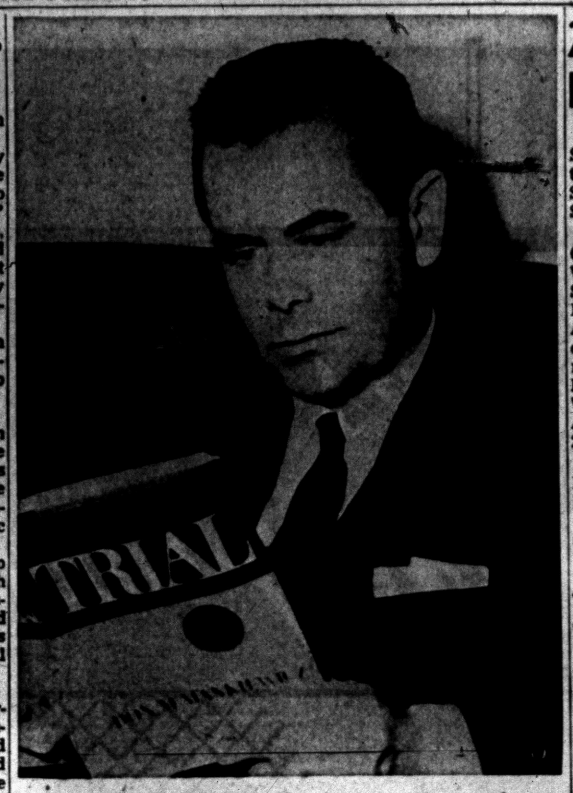

"If the United Nations undertakes to police the situation there—and I'm not saying it should be done—I believe the troops should be recruited from the small nations. If it were handled that way, the chances of the situation's developing into an all-out war would be much less."

Morse said he believes "mixed troops" and not those of a single nation should be used for any patrol duty.

Stevenson, who is expected to announce next Tuesday he will seek the 1956 Democratic presidential nomination, did not spell out how he believes the proposed U. N. patrol should be set up.

Hollywood Headlines:

Interview With Godfrey? Heavens, How Shocking!

By BOB THOMAS

NEW YORK (UP) — Manhattan memos:

One thing that's hard for a Hollywood reporter to get used to: the ethereal nature of some New York TV stars.

* * *

For instance, when this innocent asked about an interview with Arthur Godfrey, the shocked reply was: "Oh, he never talks to anyone."

Except maybe the unemployment office? . . . .

* * *

Marilyn Monroe, girl producer, may get into the TV field. She dropped the hint that her Marilyn Monroe Productions might dip into the TV market, though it's doubtful if she would be in the productions. . . .

New York TV circles exhibit little concern about the move of many shows to California. Industry workers say the main reason for the westward trend is the lack of facilities here. . . .

* * *

Show time: Best of the new plays is "Diary of Anne Frank." It's beautifully staged with humor and humanity and, ornamented by a gem of a performance by Susan Strasberg . . . . "Will Success Spoil Rock Hunter" has a lot of good laughs, especially for Hollywood ears. Although brightened by Orson Bean and Jayne Mansfield, it's mighty slim stuff. . . .

"Damn Yankees" and "Fanny" are the musicals, together with the long - running "Pajama Game." Gwen Verdon of "Yankees" is the sexiest dancer since Salome. . . . Wonderment: Why a motionless musical like "Silk Stockings" has lasted a year and still draws standees. . . .

* * *

You'd think there would be some notice outside the theater when a star like Ezio Pinza is out of a show. The announcement was merely made from the stage before "Fanny" began. . . .

"No Time for Sergeants" is about as funny as a show ought to be. The latrine scene is the biggest laugh on the stage since Ensign Pulver walked onstage in a billow of suds in "Mister Roberts". . . .

Oddest sight to a California boy: Looking out the hotel window and seeing something flaky in the air during a rainstorm. Too big for smog. It must have been snow.

2 Dogs to Share as Benefactors in Widow's Will

DETROIT (UP) — Bobby, a blind and deaf mongrel, and a little white chested black pup no one has gotten around to naming have been bailed out of the dog pound.

The dogs had been taken to the pound after their owner, Mrs. Ida L. Furrow, a 67-year-old widow, died.

Then it was discovered that Mrs. Furrow had bequeathed a friend, Mrs. Faye Davis, $500 for lifetime care of the dogs. Mrs. Davis also shared in $50,000 in real estate willed by Mrs. Furrow to several friends.

Mrs. Davis took the dogs to a veterinary hospital for a checkup, a bath and a big meal before setting out to buy a pair of dog houses.

Background for LIVING

Your Neighbor's House

Family Finds Ideal Suburban Home

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

The Carl Hastings have lived in their new home on Long Lake a mere three weeks, but you would think it was longer. The inside of the house is complete except for the recreation room.

Young Sharon has by now become accustomed to catching the school bus where it stops across the golf course. Mr. Hastings is used to driving out of the city towards home. And Mrs. Hastings beams with contentment when she shows off her new house.

When Morey's Golf course was subdivided, the Hastings' house was one of the first on Golfside drive to be built and finished. Former Detroit residents, the Hastings had long known this part of Oakland County as a good recreational area. They were delighted to find a permanent home in the same section.

The two-level home on the south shore of Long Lake is constructed of Marion red brick with cream trim. The upper part of the rear is made of board and batten. The doors of the double garage are painted the same red as the bricks. In front, on the lake side, there are several giant trees to lend beauty and shade.

There is a small tiled vestibule just inside the door opening from the street side of the house. To the left is the den and the door leading to the ground level. Straight ahead is the main section of the house.

Mrs. Hastings is fond of green and has used it extensively in the main rooms. The wall-to-wall wool carpeting with its scroll design and the painted walls are a restful shade of gray-green. The furniture is traditional mahogany.

A drop-leaf table is placed in front of the dining room windows so that while eating, the family can enjoy the green stretches of the golf course and a glimpse of Union Lake beyond.

On one wall there is a large mirror flanked by brass wall candle holders. Two of the chairs have multicolored striped satin covers with emerald green velvet backs. The rest of the chairs have needlepoint seats—green and white striped—made by Mrs. Hastings.

Oyster white fortisan draperies cover the dining room windows and may be pulled across the entire width of the living room window wall. All are floor length.

The living room is a formal room, with a baby grand piano holding a place of honor in front of the windows. The armchairs on either side of the brick fireplace are upholstered, one in soft pink, the other in gray. The upholstery on the sofa has a thread of gold running through it.

We should like to say a word about the lamps in this room. They are especially lovely. One, looking very much like an antique, has a handsome silver base and a white shade. The pair on the tables flanking the sofa have crackle glass bases mounted on brass and trimmed inside with gold. Their rectangular white shades have a simple geometric design in gold at the top. A third lamp has a green opaque base mounted on metal.

Out in the hallway leading to the bedroom is a linen closet with louvered doors and a sliding door coat closet. At the other end of the house there's a screened porch.

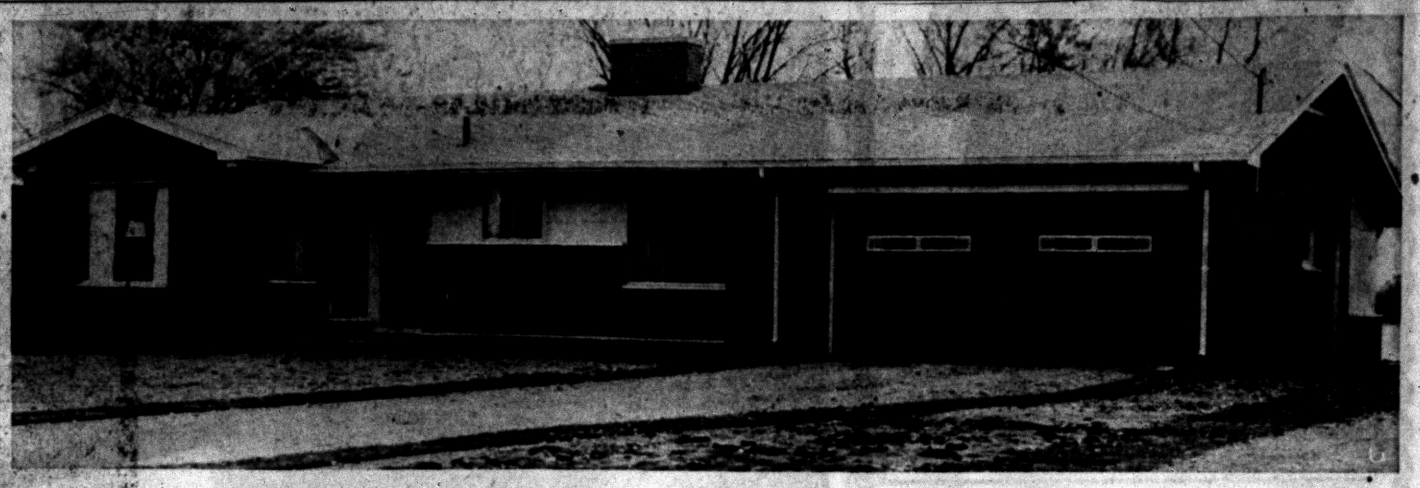

The bath on this floor is done in gold and rust. The carpet is gold, the tile rust, with peach above. There's a built-in vanity around the rust sink, complete with planter full of greenery. The curtains and shower curtains are black, gold and rust.

The den-TV room has the same outlook as the dining room. The deep turquoise walls match the turquoise in the tweed rug, while the draperies with their scenic design pick up both the turquoise and the tan of the rug, as does the tweed sofa. Besides the TV set, this room has open shelves for books and knick-knacks, closed cupboards below.

Mr. Hastings has his pet chair, a red leather affair, in this room. Mrs. Hastings' chair is the ultimate in comfortable seating. This charcoal gray armchair which picks up one of the colors in the sofa is cushioned with foam rubber.

The kitchen is another turquoise room, with three walls and sateen curtains the same shade. The wall behind the small round table is papered in a gay fruit, flower and butterfly design in turquoise, rose and red. There's the usual counter stove and built-in oven, a double sink, birch cabinets and a counter with a bulletin board.

FORMAL DINING ROOM — The dining room is an extension of one end of the living room. The drop-leaf table, when not in use, folds away, leaving ample walking space. The red brick fireplace has brass fittings.

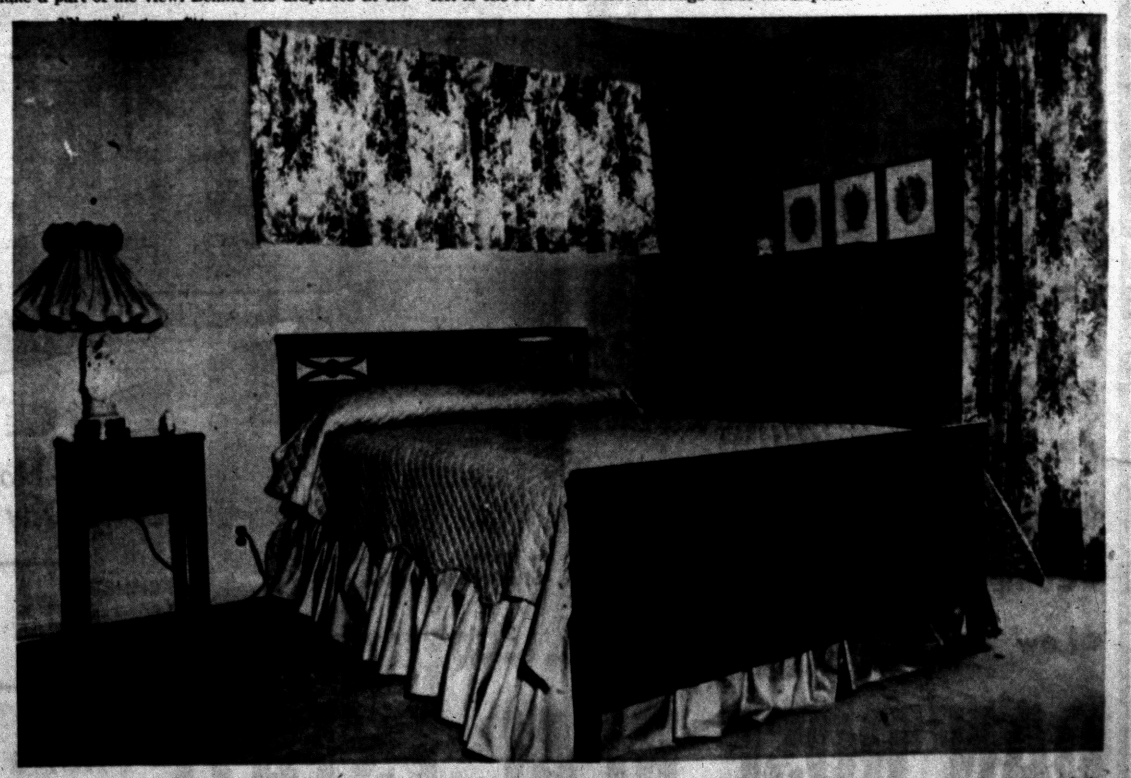

HAPPILY AT HOME — Mrs. Carl Hastings is so happy in her new home that her enthusiasm is contagious. One of the beautiful lamps that are a feature of the living room is shown in this picture. The crackle glass base has a gold design painted on the inside. The gold is repeated in the scroll decoration at the top.

QUIET CHARM — On gloomy days Mrs. Hastings draws the draperies; on bright days she opens them to make the lake a part of the view. Behind the draperies at the far end of the room there is a door leading to a second story porch. The chair at the left is one for which Mrs. Hastings made needlepoint.

AS SEEN FROM THE LAKE — The two-story construction of the Hastings home is apparent only on the lake side. The door gives easy access to the recreation room. It's protected from the elements by an overhang.

ROYAL COLORS — An unusual color scheme of purple and gold distinguishes the owners' bedroom. All surfaces are plain in color, except for the draperies which are flowered. The formality of the decoration is in harmony with the traditional furniture.

COMPACT KITCHEN — Birch cabinets and turquoise blue walls make Mrs. Hastings' kitchen a bright spot in her new home. While washing dishes, she can look out over the wide expanses of a golf course and off in the distance to a lake.

Carl Hastings Like Suburban Living

Purple and gold is the unusual color scheme of the master bedroom. Walls and nylon-rayon carpeting are dull gold. One full wall is given over to closets. There's nine feet of storage space available.

The traditional mahogany furniture is a gold background for the quilted chintz spread in pale purple. An armchair is covered in royal purple corduroy, accented with a round gold pillow. The draperies are white sateen with purple and blue flowers and gold inlay.

This house has a complete ground floor. It includes a room for the oil burner, a large laundry room, a storage room, a large recreation room, Sharon's bedroom and a bathroom.

The recreation room is not yet finished. There's a nice, large fireplace, a whole wall of windows facing the lake and lots of just plain room. A door leads to the outside so that swimmers can come in to dress without dirtying the upstairs.

Sharon's room also faces the lake. It's a room fit for a fairy princess, all done in pink and blue. The walls are painted gray with a blue cast to it. The rug is gray.

All the furniture is painted pink, even the radio. The sheer curtains are pink rayon with a gold line in the material. The bedspread is pink and quilted, while the ruffles below are pink, baby blue and silver striped. Sharon's slipper chair is covered in pink and white checked plastic.

The Hastings are looking forward to their first winter in the country. They know they have lots of work to do to make their home just the way they want it to be by next summer. But they anticipate doing those things. A new home—a new location—give the Carl Hastings family a new look.

This subdivision is being developed by Multi-Lakes Realty Company. Harold Young of Royal Oak built the Hastings house.

Fine Selling Point for Older Home Is Good Bath

An essential factor in selling or renting older homes is interior attractiveness, especially in bathrooms.

Builders are concentrating on the installation of colored bathroom fixtures as prime movers in the sale of new homes. To compete with contemporary homes on the real estate market, older houses must spruce up; add color, spaciousness and convenience.

Cramped bathrooms with antiquated fixtures, unsightly piping and worn flooring are conspicuous eyesores in older homes. With the wide variety of streamlined, colorful bathroom products now available, remodeling is a valuable and wise investment.

For example, modern lavatories, toilets and bathtubs are made in many pleasantly-matching pastel shades. Vanity dressing tables, for bath or bedroom installation, come with custom built storage cabinets and vary in shape.

Installation of colored fixtures in older bathroom together with proper lighting, ventilation and attractively-tiled, painted or wall-papered walls will add eye appeal, convenience and luxury.

When Cleaning, Remove Dust From All Surfaces

When patching plaster, applying veneers and doing dozens of other home maintenance chores, instructions always include "be sure to remove all dust."

Nothing is nearly so good for that purpose as the ever-dependable vacuum cleaner. It quickly and thoroughly whisks away all damaging dust and dirt, and when damaging dust and dirt are whisked away by the vacuum cleaner they stay whisked away!

New Navigation Device Resists Water, Hard Use

A new piloting instrument for small boat navigators is made of Bakelite rigid vinyl sheet to resist salt water spray and rough handling. Practically all instruments needed for offshore piloting are combined on two sides of a 7½x10-inch card with a rotating disk. Compass card markings and printing in three colors are protected from rain, salt spray, engine oil, gasoline and grease by the clear overlay of the rigid vinyl sheet.

Charting a course, course correcting, and other piloting are done with a rotating compass card on one side, which may be calibrated as a deviation card for the individual boat. The same side also acts as a star clock, star compass, course protractor, or pelorus and can give both latitude and longitude to within one degree with the aid of a watch and chart.

The reverse side enables the navigator to estimate time, speed or distance traveled. This side also illustrates the 7-10 Rule, shows bearings in points about a vessel, and lead line markings. The Rules of the Road in rhyme are illustrated on the back of the rotating disk through a cutout window. Instrument accuracy is maintained because Bakelite resists changes in size or shape under widely varied weather conditions. Full instructions are printed on a separate sheet.

Losses of about $25 million a year are incurred because of the death or serious injury of livestock being shipped to the meat packing centers.

NEW BRICK MODEL — An attached carport large enough for two cars is a feature of the new homes going up just off Lochaven road, south of Elizabeth Lake road. Three bedrooms, a large living room at the rear of the house, 80-foot lots, and many elective features are included in these homes. Prices start at $14,950. The homes are being offered by the John Chiera Company of Birmingham.

Kitchen Cabinets Combine Charm, Durability Appeal

Today's wood kitchen cabinets are made with the same precision and care that go into the making of fine furniture, according to interior stylists.

The emphasis on quality, they point out, is due to the emergence of the kitchen in post-war years as the hub of the home — a family room with charm and appeal rather than a drab work center.

* * *

Because in many modern homes all or part of the kitchen can be viewed from other rooms, naturally-finished wood cabinets strike a harmonious relationship with wood present in other furniture.

The wood lends mellowness and warmth in contrast to the hospital white appearance of older kitchens.

But there is more to the similarity than meets the eye, the decorators maintain.

Factory-made wood cabinets and base units are as well engineered in construction as fine furniture items. Quality materials are used, and quality control measures are in effect throughout the production process.

Cabinet frames are made with selected, kiln-dried hardwood lumber. Components are joined with tight mortises and tenons and glued with adhesives stronger than the wood fibers themselves.

Drawers and trays slide out effortlessly and are fitted into hardwood grooves and runs. Cabinet doors are made of beautifully-grained wood, with hinges either semi-concealed in contemporary fashion or visible in a choice of striking designs.

* * *

For built-in wall ovens and surface cooking units, wood cabinets are readily available with openings accurately pre-cut for installation of the built-ins.

The similarity to furniture construction means that wood cabinets are no more susceptible to warping and sticking than are fine desks, bureaus and buffets. In addition, wood in the kitchen assures freedom from chipping, discoloration or rust.

* * *

All cabinet surfaces are smooth and flush, with no crevices to collect dust or food particles. The resiliency of wood and precision construction aid in cutting down kitchen noise.

Modernize House Before Starting Sale

Real estate brokers urge that older-homes-for-sale be modernized before being placed on the market.

A few hundred dollars spent to improve the building, they advise, often can mean an increase of as much as 20 per cent in the final selling price.

1. Old-fashioned kitchens and bathrooms immediately alienate any affection a woman could have for an otherwise attractive house. Put in modern plumbing, have easily cleaned ceramic tile installed on walls and floors, drainboards and work surface.

* * *

2. Brighten the exterior with a new coat of paint.

* * *

3. Sagging structures, such as old porches, may make an otherwise sound house look derelict. Give that porch a lift.

* * *

4. Modernize the basement. Families with an eye on an older house for purchase may be wooed and won if the children see the cellar areas converted into a rumpus room. Durable ceramic tile makes an excellent floor for this area.

* * *

5. Spruce up the grounds. A gravel driveway with a "beard" of grass or weeds makes the whole surrounding look neglected.

Dish Club of Month Club Growing Fast

Two musicians and a designer recently got together to form the nation's newest club-of-the-month. The club's theme is "brighten up your kitchen" and its idea is to add an element of surprise and anticipation to the housewife's life.

* * *

"Dish Towel-of-the-Month," organized by pianist-composer Nathan Price, concert singer Nancy Reid and fabric designer Marion V. Dorn, offers its members one colorful, printed dishtowel each month, fadeless, tested and coordinated to the owner's kitchen color scheme, for a total annual postpaid membership fee.

The towels, which will feature such designs as flowers and vegetables and animals in quaint and unusual arrangements, and at Christmas, of course, a Christmas tree, are made up with an eye not only toward their decorative value as towels, but for use singly or in sets as curtains or aprons, according to the ingenuity of the receiver.

* * *

Prospective members are asked to write their kitchen's predominant color, of, if they are repainting, their anticipated color, as aqua, lemon, pink, brick, celledon, red, kelly green, blue, black and white etc.

More New Homes Offered in Waterford Township

Centrally Located Work Area Eases House Chores

"I can't be in two places at once" is the frequent remark of many a harassed mother as she tries to cope with varied duties at the same time. In effect, however, she can be in several places simultaneously without anything more magical than a plan that brings her chief activities together.

* * *

In a new plan by a leading interior designer this is done by giving mother a center she can keep the family's clothes in order, prepare meals and see that the children are happily and safely occupied. She can readily switch from one activity to another without the strain and effort of shuttling between widely scattered parts of the house.

In one area of this center are located all the equipment, supplies and storage needed for sewing, washing, drying and ironing clothes. Adjacent is a roomy play area, with long ledge-like table. Mother has free contact with the play area from both the clothes-tending area and the kitchen, which has an open doorway and a look-through opening alongside.

A gate to control toddlers can shut off either the kitchen or one end of the play area.

The practicality of this work-and-play center goes beyond the layout. Walls, ceilings, cabinets and posts and beams all are covered with Marlite paneling, a decorative hardboard with baked plastic finish. The smooth, hard surface, resistant to soil, moisture and wear, comes clean with damp wiping and never needs redecorating.

* * *

The plank panels on the walls and blocks on the ceiling have tongue-and-groove edges for neat joints. Accenting large expanses of yellow and white, the cabinets and hollow posts and beams are faced with plastic finished panels in natural walnut pattern.

* * *

When not holding a portable sewing machine, the table on casters, which has a snagproof top and edges of Marlite, can be rolled elsewhere for other purposes.

Mirror Placement Helps TV Watching

A decorative plate glass mirror can solve one of the most difficult furniture-arrangement problems of the average living room—that of "how can we all watch TV?"

June Cabot, a home arts consultant, suggests that the sofa be placed opposite the TV set, and that a framed mirror—a decorative asset of any case—hang over the sofa. TV programs can then be viewed even from beside the set, by watching the mirrored reflection.

"The picture is reversed, to be sure," Miss Cabot said, "and a chair beside the set is not the 'best seat in the house.' But when family and friends are watching.

Look for a Three Bathroom House Within Five Years

Look for the three-bathroom house in less than five years!

* * *

It's a new fast-growing trend right now and if present economic conditions continue it's likely to develop still faster. Builders and manufacturers of building materials alike look forward to the day of the moderate priced three-bath room home with real confidence.

They say it will be an important added stimulus to new-home buying in the years ahead. No sooner has the two-bathroom trend been fulfilled when builders, manufacturers, and consumers, too, have set their sights on the practical three-bathroom plan.

Statistics show the new trend is not just artificially stimulated. With bigger families enjoying a more active home life, the need is apparent. With incomes continuing to increase, the ability to meet this new need in improved living standards is evident, too.

* * *

In most homes this is how the baths wil lbe located; the master bath near the parents' bedroom; a children's bath in the children's wing; and a guest bath, or powder room, located so that it can also service the family recreation room.

An estimated 55 million acres of U.S. farm land have been released for food crops because of the widespread shift to tractors instead of horses.

Anti-Fire Hints May Avert Tragic Tale in Home

An estimated half-million dangerous fires break out annually in American homes. Adding tragic irony to the havoc they create is the fact that ordinary precaution and good safety habits would have prevented practically all of them. Here are some good pointers:

* * *

1. Select materials carefully when building or remodeling. Finishing baths and kitchens with ceramic tile, for instance, will give them surfaces that are fireproof and will not soak up grease. A built-in range is safest when set in a ceramic tile counter.

* * *

2. Inspect chimneys and flues at least once a year, and correct defects immediately. Always use a metal screen in front of a fireplace. Check the smoking habits of yourself and your family—many disasters result from carelessness in smoking in bed.

* * *

3. Examine your whole set-up for electricity carefully. Are you overloading circuits? Do you run cords under rugs? Do you yank extension cords loose? Does your wife leave the electric iron on when she answers the telephone?

* * *

4. Check your general housekeeping. Clutter can be a cause of fire, and can feed it fast once it starts. Don't keep oily or paint-soaked rags around—get rid of them. Dispose of old papers and magazines. And be especially careful in storing flammable liquids, such as gas and kerosene.

Easy Way Out

When the finish on a floor has become beat-up it doesn't mean that you have to resand the floor. You may get better results by resanding but removing the old finish with a liquid varnish remover and then simply applying a new coating of varnish or shellac will make a good deal of difference and can be a good deal less complicated than a complete refinishing operation requiring sanding.

Plate Glass Replacing Color Church Windows

Stained glass is being replaced by uncolored plate glass in the design of many of today's modern church buildings, says Frank J. Sohn, architectural consultant for Libbey-Owens-Ford Glass Company.

The primary reasons, Sohn says, are economy, for polished plate costs far less than stained glass, and a popular preference for "natural" coloring and decoration by a nation accustomed to homes and offices with glass walls, picture windows and sliding window walls.

Many spots on floors and furniture than won't come off with water will disappear if wiped with a liquid wax.

Adhesive Ceramic Tiles Slicing Decorating Costs

A new adhesive method of installing ceramic tile has cut costs way down. Real tile, always economical because of its durability and lack of upkeep required, but now its use is even more practical.

* * *

The waterproof adhesive is applied by the tile contractor over the dry wall and the tiles are pressed into place. Countertops and floors, can be surfaced with ceramic tile by the adhesive method. Homemakers thinking of remodeling with tile but hesitant because of mistaken ideas of costs should check with their local contractor about the adhesive method.

BRAIDED RUG

The original of the oval braided rag rug shown above was known as "The Rug That Grew Up with the Family." When first used it was scarcely large enough for a table for two. It grew a little at a time. It was planned to be ten feet long and eight wide. The first or center row was, therefore, made two feet long or the difference between the length and width of the finished rug to be. In the early stages it was rather long and narrow but each winter it grew until it reached the planned size. Space is not available here to tell you of the vast deal of rug-making lore contained in the pattern used for making this rug, so we suggest that readers send 25 cents for a copy which may be returned for refund if not found abundantly useful.

Reduced Building Boom

Although there's a withdrawal from the super-boom heights, building is still at aggressive levels and is likely to remain there for a long time. Some feared the descent would be sudden and perilous.

But it looks as if all readjustments will be wisely handled. This rebounds to the consumer's benefit because builders will have to step-up efforts to reach the market.

It's safe to predict that quality materials, creative design, and "package plans" will be even more emphasized. Ceramic and quarry tile will continue to be in top demand for baths, kitchens and terraces. Kitchens will be more integrated with living areas. And builders will continue their "package plans" whereby complete kitchens, or all-tiled laundries with washer and dryer, or even a new car in the garage will be included in the overall price.

Check Out the Builder

Here's how to select a good builder for your new home: 1. Check with you r local banker. He's aware of building reputations. 2. Lumber yards and material dealers are another source of information. 3.

Townspeople Paint Town Main Street in New Color

TIBURON, Calif.—This old seaport town sparkles again! And it's all because housewives, actors, artists, merchants, labor union members and contractors joined forces and—in 31 hours—completely refurbished a decaying Main Street.

* * *

On a recent Saturday morning, more than 200 volunteers from all walks of life climbed onto scaffolding and ladders. By Sunday afternoon, they had completely painted, decorated, landscaped and restored Main Street's store fronts and home exteriors. Some of the surfaces had not had a coat of paint for over thirty years.

* * *

In the background, colorful yachts rode at anchor. But, in the foreground, such famous artists as John Falter, of Saturday Evening Post cover fame, began painting half a dozen murals on the sides of buildings. Others applied well selected, colorful coatings in accordance with the plan of Mrs. Constance Field, well known color consultant and interior decorator, and her husband Palmer Field. Nine paint-colors were chosen for the bakery, the bootery, the antique shop, the boat works, the dressmaker's and the rest so they could take on new life with the miracle of paint.

* * *

years ago when the Fields visualized the painting of the main street of this city in attractive, well-coordinated colors that would give it new beauty as well as the charm and character of its sailing days.

OLD SAILING PORT

Waterfront Tiburon, incidentally, dates from masted-ship days, when the old sailing vessels used to come to Waterspout Point and fill their water casks. Many of San Francisco's ferry boats were built here. The "Eureka," that still plies the Oakland-San Francisco run, was launched here in 1890.

The Fields first obtained the interest of the merchants and civic-minded citizens, then enlisted the aid of the artists and others of the community. Labor gave enthusiastic support and cooperation. All the paint required for the community project was donated. Contractors lent the scaffolding and supplied skilled men to do the required fine trimming work. A Marin County contractor volunteered a professional crew for two days.

* * *

When the story of the plan was published in the Bay Area papers, volunteers turned out in great numbers. Teams were formed under well-briefed captains. To the delight of the leaders, not one single person who had volunteered failed to show up. Furthermore, many helpers from neighboring towns arrived unexpectedly early the first day.

Mrs. John Wiley, first resident to volunteer, broke the traditional bottle of champagne over metal scaffolding. Admiral F. I. Entwistle of Mare Island Naval Yard put on the first brushful of paint. Bagpipers piped the workers to their places and, throughout the two days, there was band music that accented the festive spirit that prevailed.

Ladies served a lunch in the street and workers lined up in relays for helpings of everything from chili concarne to coconut cake. Boy Scouts did a "Tom Sawyer" fence, with the Cub Scouts doing the lower areas and the older boys attending to the upper reaches. Garden - minded women put in flower boxes and shrubbery.

* * *

More Waxes Added to Everyday Living

At least once today, in all probability, you have walked on—or touched — a surface coated with wax. Quite possibly, at this very minute, you are carrying or wearing something that has been treated with a wax compound.

Your shoes, for instance, have probably been coated with a "shoe polish." The essential ingredient of such a polish is a wax, dispersed in a thinner. To this, a coloring ingredient is usually added.

In our surrounding world, the largest surface areas on which a wax compound is used are the floors. On land, wax is used on the floors of homes, offices, public buildings and stores. In the air, you find it in passenger planes. On the sea, it helps protect the passage-ways of ships, the cabin floors. Below the sea, it's used in the spotless maintenance of submarines. Waxed floors really get around.

A waxed floor that's walked on by Americans on Monday may be walked on, a few days later, by South Americans, Europeans or Asians. No matter who walked over it, they would all leave the same spots, scuffs and scratches—if it weren't for the protective wax finish.

Here's Kitchen Helps to Make Work Easier

Autumn is a fine time for hikes in the country. For many homemakers, though, the kitchen is where they'll do most of their seasons's walking. This isn't as should be. To make the most of kitchen space and thereby save yourself steps, observe these rules:

1. Refrigerator, range and sink should form a compact unit.
2. You should have easily cleaned materials like ceramic tile on floors, walls and counters.
3. Storage shouldn't all be located in one place, but shared in areas adjacent to the three major appliances.

Do It Bit by Bit

Over the years you can fix up your summer cottage so it will be livable during the winter months, too. This steady investment will add high value to your total real estate. Banks and loan agencies take a more favorable view when home - owners are improvement - minded.

It Can Be Used

An inverted umbrella frame is handy for drying folded towels, napkins and other newly-ironed small pieces. But first, wipe the umbrella with a sudsy cloth.

BUSY ROOM DIVIDER — Modern room dividers can have beauty as well as remarkable versatile utility. Here is an unusual room divider designed for an open-area home and made of west coast hemlock, finished in natural neutral color. It forms backing for L-shaped davenport, provides storage for linens and china on dining area side, surface for planters, lamps and books, and storage units for card tables and games. It looks as rich as any piece of furniture.

Slums and Blight Result From Poor Planning Ideas

Federal Housing and Home Finance Administrator Albert M. Cole says in a current magazine, "The trouble is that slums and blight are not like invasions or hurricanes. They stealthily edge us out of our good homes and neighborhoods. Most of us are apt to think of slums as something that has already happened—not as something that is happening to us today."

Homeowners are now at the mercy of the planning mistakes made half a century ago. The lots are too small and the houses too big. Some are gradually being broken up into "light housekeeping" units and apartments—without the new playgrounds and garages needed to accommodate all the new children and cars. As the renters crowd in, neighborhood morale moves out. Paint peels, porches sag, blight begins.

Yearly, because jobs change or neighborhoods do, some 30 million pull up stakes and move away. New neighborhood or old, change, depreciation, blight, eventually slums, threaten all. It may take more time, but bad over-all planning, neighborhood neglect, the run-down house next door will ruin suburb as well as city, the article states.

* * *

Home owners can do a great deal to protect their homes and property. Through the 1954 Federal Housing Act, there are ample funds to fight blight and slums.

Use only recommended types of soaps, detergents, water softeners, or bleaches in clothes washers and dishwashers.

Experts Eliminate 'Wavy' Lines in Glass Surface

The wavy, almost wrinkled, appearance of some windows when seen from outside the house is due to poor parallelism in the surface of the glass, according to glass technical experts.

This wavy-line reflection is eliminated, however, in plate glass produced by a new "twin grinding" method, for each surface of the glass is ground simultaneously and with very high precision. The result is clear, distortion-free picture windows which reflect with almost photographic accuracy.

Bright 'Eisenhower Toile' Fabric Records History

NEW YORK (INS) — President Eisenhower has been the inspiration for many things—including a fabric design.

* * *

Designed by New York Decorator Elizabeth Draper, the "Eisenhower Toile" is a history in pictures of the highspots of the President's life. Included are the following scenes:

His childhood home at Abilene, Kans.; West Point, the Denver home in which the President was married, Columbia University where he served as president, his dream home in Gettysburg, insignia of invasion forces, battle flags of conquered nations, seal of the President, the White House, and his hobbies of painting and golf.

Between the various scenes, are interwoven the official flowers of those states which have special meaning to "Ike."

There's the Bluebonnet of Texas, the Columbine of Colorado, the Rose of Washington, D. C., the Laurel of Pennsylvania and the Sunflower of Kansas. The fabric of special appeal to "Ike-Likers" is printed in ten colors on 36-inch, all cotton fabric and retails for about $3.75.

* * *

For those who like historic fabrics but don't want the Eisenhower motif, another pattern tells the pictorial story of the printing and dyeing industry. It's available in a 40 inch repeat cotton in green, red, blue and grey.

New Houses Planned for More Flexible Life

Today's homes are better because the rooms, or living areas, are planned for flexibility. That is, the same area may be used, with few easy changes, for a multitude of purposes. For instance, kitchens now also serve as laundries, nurseries, dining centers. The living room, if properly surfaced, can be changed into a game room for the family and its guests.

What makes today's multiple function possible is the wise and ingenious use of basic yet versatile materials like ceramic tile which can withstand any family wear and still keep its beauty forever. And because of real tile's tremendous variety in shapes, sizes, colors and textures, virtually any room design can receive its complement in tile.

When You Start Building That New Home--Be Cautious

WASHINGTON — If you're not actually building or starting to buy a brand-new home, you'd probably like to remodel, repair or repaint your present living quarters. Perhaps you can afford to pay cash for all the work and materials you'll need, but most of us are not in that fortunate position.

* * *

Rather than let the house deteriorate while you save up to pay cash, it's usually advisable—and cheaper—to borrow money to have the work well done. And, if remodeling will mean greater convenience, more comfort and added enjoyment for you and your family, it may be well worth while to pay interest and enjoy your improved home.

There are several satisfactory ways to obtain a loan to finance the project. When you start making your plans, however, just make sure that you are dealing with responsible people. In most cases—in both the financial and the contracting fields—there is no need for such a warning. But—just as there can be a rotton apple in every barrel—there can be shysters currently operating in your community who prey on the American homeowners' desire for better living quarters and then disappear before their fraudulence can be discovered.

In several areas, for instance, Better Business Bureaus have reported the operation of swindlers who offer an "everlasting weather coating." They claim every asset for this exterior wall-coating, making such statements as "beautiful finish, never - have - to - paint again, stops cracks, insulates." Yet the workmen have to work fast, according to a magazine, "to get all of it on before it starts to peel off. The unfortunate owners, who find themselves with leprous-looking homes, face the job of removing this worthless product before they can paint again."

WATCH THE CHISELER

Sometimes such unscrupulous operators approach a home owner with a proposition to repaint—or remodel—or re-roof his house at a very "low figure." The reason they can give a cut-rate, they explain, is that they want his house to serve as a demonstration in the neighborhood. Furthermore, the owner is promised a commission on every job sold in the neighborhood as a result. All too often, such trusting home owners find that they have been taken in by a ruse, that they are obligated to pay a premium price for a worthless job and that there are no "commissions."

In many cases, these sharp-practice operators will hoodwink home owners into signing the tract and several other papers. "The catch" warns a magazine, "is that he slips in a completion certificate. With it, the victim approves the work in advance and the con-man can collect the loan even if he never does any of the work!"

"1. Refuse to listen to the blandishments of doorbell-ringing high pressure salesmen.

* * *

* * *

"3. If you don't know a good local contractor, ask the local lumberyard for the names of reliable men. If you plan to do the work yourself, buy your materials from a local dealer.

* * *

"4. Remember that a guarantee is only as good as the company that gives it.

* * *

"5. Borrow from a local financial institution—one that you know and that knows you.

* * *

"6. Shop for the lowest interest rate.

* * *

* * *

Swedish Design Invading Lamps

NEW YORK (INS) — Scandinavian furniture designers are famous for introducing odd shapes and new ideas onto the American scene—and that includes the lamp department.

* * *

In the new effects category, Gullberg of Sweden has designed "ribbon" lamps that produce a softly diffused light by using two layers of linen or plastic ribbon, one around the bulb and one acting as a shade.

The white ribbon, about an inch wide, is mounted on a plastic-coated wire frame, edge to edge so that there are no spaces between strands, to box in the bulb. Then an outer layer of ribbon, this time with wide spaces between the strands, serves as a lampshade. The result is soft light coming from a delicate looking lamp.

Some of the more intereting shapes, all intended for modern-decorated rooms, include cones, Japanese lanterns, and a wide variety of "hour glass" shapes—those that start out wide at the top, narrow somewhere near the center for a "belted" look, and then widen at the base.

* * *

One ultra-modern wall lamp featured two curved, interlocked sheets of plastic, giving the lamp a two-toned effect—red and white or black and white.

Damp Spots on Bricks Due to Wall Leaks

One of the little problems you sometimes encounter in a brick veneer home are damp spots along the base of interior walls.

Now if these damp areas only occurred in winter we could blame it on condensation but when they appear at different times throughout the year we've got to look for something else. In most cases they are just due to leaks in the exterior wall.

In case you are interested, there is a space of about one inch between the brick exterior siding and the house sheathing. The sheathing is covered over with waterproof paper to prevent dampness that might come through the brick reaching the interior wall surfaces but sometimes the dampness becomes too much for this paper to cope with.

What happens is that water gets through the brick siding and then becomes trapped in the space between siding and sheathing. Naturally, this will occur at the base of the wall. In time, if the water remains in this cavity, it will start getting through into the interior wall.

The first thing you do in this situation is to drill some ½" holes near the base of the brick siding. These holes go through the siding and they allow any water trapped behind the bricks to flow off.

The holes should be spaced every 12 inches or so and should slant upward. They should be placed, naturally enough, just above the sill of the house so that they will open out into that cavity between brick and sheathing.

Give them a slight upward slant. After these weep holes are installed, go over the brick siding to see if you can find the spot where water is getting through. Chances are it will be an uncaulked joint where siding needs some other material but it can be due also to poor mortar joints between bricks.

Prevent Table Warping

Do . . . if necessary to apply a plastic top to a solid wood table, ask your dealer whether a special backing is necessary on the underside of the wood to prevent warping.

Gulls Influence Building's Style

NEW YORK — Sea gulls have attained the position of a force in contemporary American architecture, according to no less an authority than Architectural Record, a sternly professional magazine for architects and engineers.

Sea gulls and high winds in Jacksonville, Fla., were the two reasons why the huge new building of the Prudential Insurance Co. of America there has no exterior sunshades on its sunny south side, says the magazine.

* * *

"Nice strong concrete eyebrows, for example, would withstand the winds," says Architectuaral Record, "but would prove a strong attraction for our feathered friends (?). This bird consideration was one of the strong reasons for keeping all exterior projections to a minimum; it even vetoed a suggestion to stock the reflecting pool with goldfish.

"As an outstanding piece of architecture and because it is close to highways and rails it will be admired during its lifetime by scores of millions of people who will not know that sea gulls caused it to have that clean-shaven look."

Buy Furniture Like Investment

Before you go down to your store to shop for furniture, there's one thing you should understand: furniture should be bought as an investment. Buying furniture should involve careful evaluation from the long-range point of view — what will it be worth to you five or ten years hence? That's why you want to buy furniture with a future.

* * *

Quality sounds like an obvious thing to ask for. It's not. Too many shoppers sacrifice quality for the sake of a "good buy." You want quality furniture because — unlike your car — it won't depreciate.

So buy sound construction and you won't have to worry about trading in the living room sofa when it's five years old. Brand names and the reputation of your store are your guarantees of quality.

Good design is also a good investment because it will never become obsolete. Good design doesn't belong to any "period." It looks equally well in a modern or traditional background.

So unless you definitely have your heart set on French Provincial or Early American, look for pieces whose inherent beauty will make them at home in any surrounding. Shop for furniture that is not expensive, is in good taste, and will look as well in your second home as it does in your first.

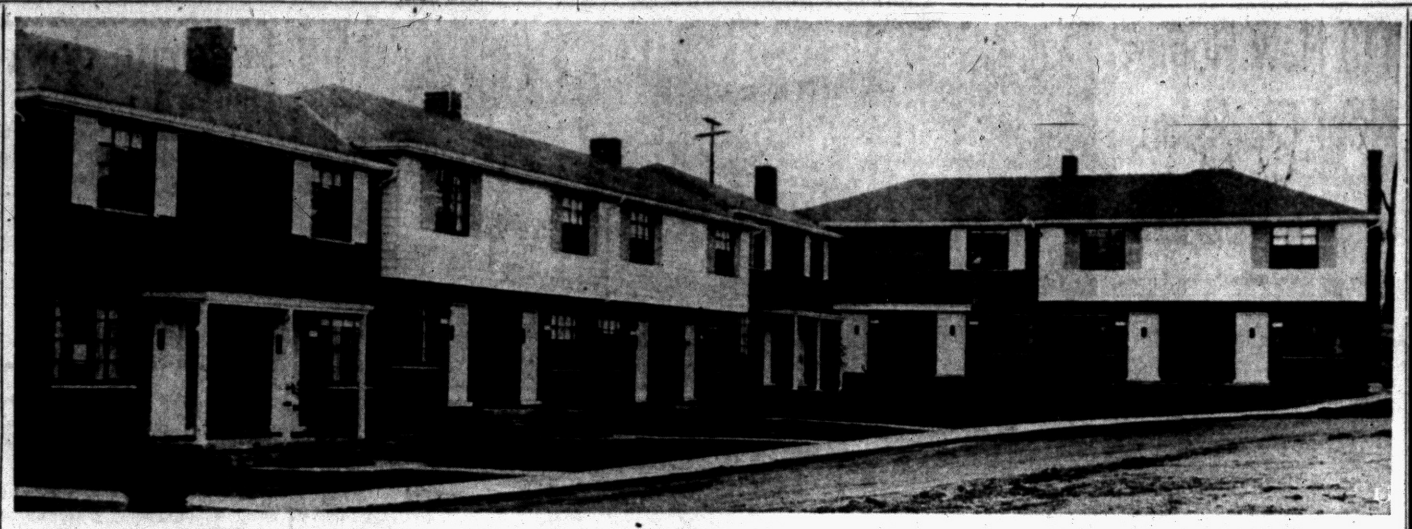

Adaptability is as important as construction and looks. For no matter how sound or handsome a piece of furniture is, it is worthless to you unless it works.

* * *

So look for pieces that will serve different purposes according to your changing needs and surroundings.

It's Nice to Be Nice

Many neighbors are discovering there is profit in being neighborly. Not only can neighbors share the cost of building fences, but they can plan their landscaping between the homes for a unit of design. Popular western red cedar fences blend with shrubbery between two homes but as an integral part of the planning.

JAMES K TERRACES — New rental units on Pontiac's west side are found in the James K Terraces, located at the corner of James K and Voorheis. These five-room apartments are completely modern in every detail and include such features as new electric ranges and refrigerators and gas incinerators.

New Terraces Now Complete

Twelve new rental units have been opened to Pontiac residents with the completion of James K. Terraces. Located at the corner of James K and Voorheis road, the red brick and clapboard buildings are an innovation in the neighborhood of one family homes.

Each of the apartments contains living room, dinette, and kitchen with eating space on the first floor. There are two bedrooms and a bath on the second floor. The full basements have room for oil furnaces, gas hot water heaters and laundry equipment.

Give Ground Cover to Aid Cement Floor

In older houses, where the basement is not floored, a great deal of moisture may come from the ground. Even though clay types of soil do not appear overly damp on the surface, they often contribute much moisture to the air of the basement by evaporation.

Under these conditions—where the floor is damp or of dirt construction—cementing the floors will help in reducing such destructive moisture. Concrete, itself, is not necessarily a good moisture barrier. Consequently, it is advisable to cover the ground with a coated roofing felt before the concrete is applied.

An alternate and inexpensive remedy involves covering the entire dirt floor with 55 lb. roll roofing. All joints should be lapped about three inches. It is not necessary to seal these joints if the ground underneath is smooth and the joints do not gap open.

The evaporation of moisture from this area will be greatly reduced as long as the vapor barrier remains intact. If boards are laid where the floor is usually walked on, this treatment should last for several years, after which it may have to be replaced.

What Makes Glass?

Advice From Local Builder Best Before Building Home

By DAVID G. BAREUTHER
AP Real Estate Editor

How much will it cost to build a house you see illustrated with floor plans? If you could figure out an accurate answer to this question — an answer that would apply to every house in every location — you'd have something worth perhaps as much as a recipe for synthetic uranium.

* * *

About the only way you can find out exactly how much it will cost to build a house is to go ahead and build it. But even then you can't apply that knowledge to another house. A second house will cost you more or less than the first one. The variables involved are amazing.

Whether a builder may have his wife and mother-in-law on his payroll for income tax purposes, or any other purpose, can affect his overhead and the cost of a house. His sons and cousins, working for him at nonunion wages can have an opposite effect on the cost. If he can get good prices in buying materials and get conscientious production from his workmen, his costs can go down. If the weatherman betrays him, or strikes disrupt his schedule, up go the costs again.

"But builders know," you may argue, "how much it costs per square foot or cubic foot to build a house." The answer to that is, what house? Perhaps a builder has just completed a small house for about $10 per square foot. You admire his work, but you can't get along with that one bathroom. You need two, plus an extra powder room-lavatory. Well, bathrooms are the most expensive rooms in a house and so they boost that square foot average.

LOOK FOR THIS

You want nothing but Grade A, No. 1 white pine lumber used throughout. You want a slate roof, like Dad put on his house in the 1920s. You want three coats of plaster on metal lath, matched hardwood parquet floors laid on heavy plywood subflooring, blond mahogany woodwork and all the fine equipment you've seen advertised. All for $10 per square foot.

Your builder scratches his chin, thinks you'll be lucky to do it for $20 per square foot, and asks, "Where do you want this house built?" You point out the lot—a pretty piece of ground neatly concealing the top of an underground Rock of Gibraltar!

The best way to estimate the cost of a proposed house is to show your plans to a local builder who has built similar houses in your immediate locality. It doesn't mean anything that the same house was built for $1,000 less, or $1,000 more in some town a few hundred miles away. And it means less if that house was built six months or a year ago.

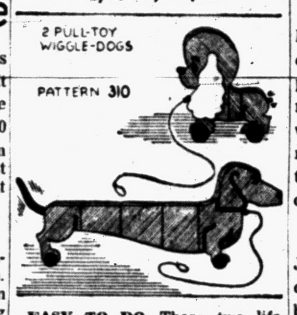

COSTS VARY

Building costs change from season to season, from town to town. A survey by the Dow Service in New York shows that building costs in general went up an average of 2½ per cent throughout states east of the Mississippi and in eastern Canada since last spring. That's an average of $500 on a $20,000 house.

In 24 out of 85 cities surveyed, it costs more to build a house than in New York. But in 61 places it's cheaper—as much as 36 per cent cheaper in Greenville, S. C.

Is that bad? The most conservative bankers, who stake the funds to finance new houses, say no. New homes offer so much more livability and so many more people are in a position to afford them and enjoy them than back in 1941—or 1929—that the bankers consider these homes sound investments.

Workshop Patterns

EASY TO DO—These two lifelike toys are fun to make and fun to play with. No difficult mechanism is needed to give them their characteristic wiggle. All that is needed is a few scraps of wood, some thread spools, a small piece of canvas, glue and a little paint. The short-tailed puppy is sure to be the darling of any toy collection. Two designs on one pattern. Just trace the parts onto the wood, saw out, assemble and paint. Price of the pattern is 25 cents. Also send for toy packet containing an assortment of full-size patterns for wooden toys; all with painting directions in natural tones to give a realistic effect to each finished toy. Price of toy packet is $1. postpaid.

Tape Record Replay Embarrasses Revelers

Noisy neighbors who go in for late, sleep-disturbing parties can create a delicate problem in any peace-loving city or suburban community. But science has come up with a solution which may insure reasonable quiet without alienating the friendship of the family next door.

* * *

It's the modern tape recorder. Just make a tape recording of the disturbance when it gets out of bounds and, choosing the moment with the care of a diplomat, play it back for the neighbors. It should make your point and help get the situation corrected without the need of a high board fence or the exchange of angry words.

110 New Homes Near Clarkston

Priced from $15,250, the homes are offered by K.L.K. Building Company in cooperation with Rose-Hill Realty Company. Down payment to veterans is $800.

Lots are half-acre size, with frontage running from 100 to 200 feet. Buyers have a choice of five exterior designs. The homes offer nearly 1,200 square feet of living space.

People Will Buy Anything if You Let Them Loose

NEW YORK (INS)—Gold plate objects are not uncommon, but a gold plated can opener . . .?

That's one of the newest "conversation piece" items for the home, and there's no trick to it. It doesn't do anything but open cans and sells for $99.95.

Its red handle is trimmed with red velvet ribbon, which ties into a bouncy little bow. The top of the brushes banded with white fabric, on which are embroidered red, yellow, blue and green flowers. Then, seeming to grow out of the top of the brush, are clusters of fake flowers.

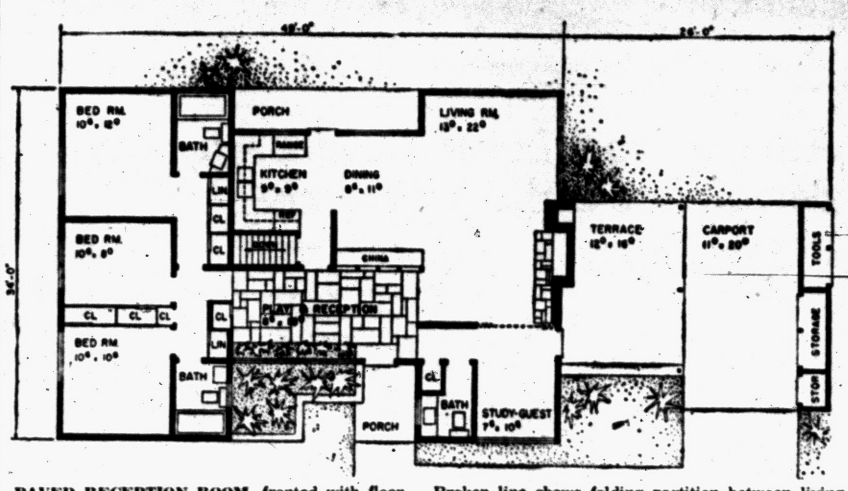

Another item you can be sure you won't find in every home is an ottoman that looks as if it were built for a giant. It's a huge, four-foot square, muslin-covered piece of furniture with mahogany legs that can seat eight normal-sized people. The price tag reads $450.

Did You Know This?

If trussed rafters are used in the construction of your new home, you can have your room partitions placed wherever you want them. Or the partitions can be omitted altogether for open planning of such areas as living, dining, cooking and recreation. With trussed rafters, the interior partitions do not have to help support the roof.

SLEEK LINES — A low-pitched roof covered with white marble chips, vertical V-grooved siding gaily painted or stained natural, a stone chimney and stone planting boxes are keys to the smart design of this house.

House of the Week Offers Line Simplicity, Usefulness

The design of houses, somewhat like that of automobiles, becomes more streamlined, more efficient for upkeep, more suitable for family use as experience reveals the many details that work out the best.

* * *

In contrast to automobiles, houses must be designed in proportions to remain attractive over a lifetime or more. Simplicity becomes the key to beauty in a house, rather than ornate trimmings changeable in yearly models.

The House of The Week, Design T-150, shown here, exemplifies the trend. Here you have the low-pitched roof, vertical V-grooved siding to be painted in striking colors or stained natural, a massive stone chimney and stone planting boxes, and a spacious interior lighted by big windows and introduced to you as soon as you step into a reception room that is 18 feet long.

CONVERTIBLE STUDY

A study, convertible to guest room use, gives this house a four-bedroom capacity. Two bathrooms are located at each end of the bedroom hall in the quiet sleeping wing of the house. An extra lavatory, adjacent to the study-guest room, is strategically situated near the reception hall for use as a powder room, as well as being convenient to the terrace door for children coming in from play.

Every room in this house is essentially a dead-end room — an important factor for privacy. You can look at this plan and visualize yourself seated in any room and see why there will be no traipsing past you. It is easier to pass from room to room through the reception area.

Advantages and glamor of open planning are cleverly blended with maximum privacy in this plan. The reception room, living room and dining room are actually one big room divided merely by a trellis and china cabinet. A sliding partition also merges the study with living room, when desired. And the kitchen, too, is open from one side of the dining room.

BEAMS EXPOSED

A high ceiling in the living room is achieved by leaving the roof beams exposed and paneling or plastering between them. This is made possible by the economical roof design which permits less framing than would be required in a high-pitched roof.

Walter T. Anicka, the architect, specifies a built-up tar and gravel roof covered with marble chips for heat reflection and insulated below with fiberglas. This white marble roof adds a striking note to the appearance of the house, especially if used in contrast to stained vertical redwood or cedar siding on exterior walls. Panels of stucco or flush painted siding would contrast smartly above and below the study windows.

To further the economy of construction, only stock materials are specified. Windows and other millwork of ponderosa pine would fit in advantageously.

* * *

FIREPLACE ALSO

A barbecue fireplace, using a flue in the same chimney with the living room fireplace, is located on the covered terrace. This terrace, 12 by 16 feet, merges with the carport for a continuous pavement 23 feet wide, when the car is not parked.

In addition to the covered porch adjoining the kitchen on the garden side of the house, this terrace provides a shaded place for outdoor dining and relaxation.

EXTRA STORAGE

Federal Housing Administration requirements call for additional above-ground storage space when a basement is omitted. Sufficient extra storage space is afforded in this plan along a side of its sheltered carport.

In the many areas where electric heat is economically expedient through the use of electric radiant baseboards and other forms of radiant heating, the space occupied by the stairs shown in this plan can be added to the kitchen. In areas where gas and oil are preferred, this stair space can provide adequate room for modern heating equipment with a separate vent or chimney.

Since basement construction provides usable space at about $1 per square foot in most places, the architect has designed this house for either a partial or full basement.

The house covers 1,468 square feet, with the terrace and carport adding 472 square feet.

Tricks With Glass Defeat 'Smallness'

Some imaginative homeowners are overcoming the curse of smallness—small bedrooms, baths, dens and other areas—with novel "glass expansion" tricks. Among their techniques:

A "window" of frosted patterned glass mounted about two inches from one wall. The glass can be cross-hatched window-fashion with wooden strips or left unadorned. Tube lighting behind the "window" will illuminate the room as though from out-of-doors, and will give an illusion of greater size.

A large framed mirror or mirrored wall will reflect the carpet, walls and furniture before it, making a room seem twice as large. This is especially true if the mirror is of "twin ground" glass which reflects without distorting.

A patterned glass window, door or divider which opens on another room, allowing each room to "borrow" light and dimension from the other.

Install Wall Mirrors as House Is Being Built

Some major decorating jobs—the installation of mirror-paneled walls in hallways, for example—can best be done while a house is still in the course of building.

An early decision about mirroring will make the painting of one wall unnecessary, and may even save the cost of plastering or otherwise 'finishing' the wall.

Psychological Barrier!

Ex-KU Ace Cunningham Believes Mile Will Be Run Under Present 3:58 Mark

Australian John Landy's record outdoor mile of 3:58 set June 21, 1954 in Turku, Finland, will someday be broken by the 1st miler during which he spoke to more who can "mentally clip off the seconds," Dr. Glenn Cunningham said yesterday before speaking to a Washington Junior High assembly.

Cunningham, former Kansas University star who established himself as one of the greatest milers of all time during the 1930's, was speaking for the Michigan Temperance Foundation on the topic of "Clean Living in the Race of Life." His tours for the foundation took the famed athlete to 17 states and six Hawaiian Islands last year during which he spoke to more than one million children.

"I have always felt that athletic performance is more mental than physical and I believe that there are a lot of boys that can better Landy's record as soon as they knock down the psychological barriers," Cunningham said.

The 46-year-old ex-miler still holds four mile records that stand today. His best effort was in 1938 on an indoor track when he galloped to a 4:04.4 mark.

"I would say that Wes Santee is United States' greatest amateur miler today, but I wouldn't venture a guess who is the greatest in the world. I guess we would have to give that honor to Landy because of his record," Cunningham declared.

Asked what he thought of U. S. chances in the approaching Olympics, Cunningham said: "We know that Russia has some outstanding athletes and I believe we would be dissappointed if they didn't, but I don't think they will rung away with the Olympics as some people believe."

"I believe that we should never take the Olympics out of the ranks of amateurism by financially helping our athletes," Cunningham stated. "We must remember that the express purpose of the Olympics is to promote international goodwill, and not always so important is who wins as to the show of sportsmanship that exists at the games," he said.

UM Goes All Out Today in Important Contest

ANN ARBOR (INS)—Michigan's Wolverines, tied for 2nd place in the Big Ten standings with Michigan State, go all-out today for their 5th conference victory in six games, as they face a potentially dangerous Indiana football team at Ann Arbor.

Even in the event of a Michigan victory, Michigan State can keep pace with the Wolverines by beating Minnesota at East Lansing. Both Michigan State and Michigan go into today's games with identical 4-1 records.

Michigan, however, has a chance to win the Big Ten title and with it the opportunity to represent the conference in the Rose Bowl by beating Ohio State Nov. 19 in its final game. Michigan State, which plays one less Big Ten game this year than the Wolverines, concludes its season against Minnesota.

Indiana has lost three Big Ten games but is not underrated by the Wolverines who recall that they were upset, 13-8, last year by the Hoosiers.

Michigan, however, has two of the best pass receiving ends in the nation in Ron Kramer and Tom Maentz, and two brilliant passers in quarterbacks Jim Van Pelt and Jim Maddock.

WINNING DASH — Here's what proved to be the most important play in Friday night's finale for Pontiac High Chiefs at Wisner stadium. Freeman Watkins, lugging the ball, (22) above, was just about to hit the goal line in the 2nd period on a 10-yard dash. Other players (Flint Northern) are unidentified. Chiefs won a surprising upset, 20-19.

AP Mentions Kramer, Morrall on Honor List

OSU's Cassaday, Irish Jim Mense Also Given Consideration —

By TED SMITHS

NEW YORK (AP)—The Associated Press All-America football team will not be announced until Dec. 2 when reports from all regular season games will be in hand, but based on performances up to now, AP regional boards feel that following players are at least good bets to be on the first or second team:

Ron Beagle, Navy's great end.

Bill Walker, Maryland end.

* * *

* * *

Jon Arnett, USC halfback.

Hardiman Cureton, UCLA guard.

Jim Mense, center for Notre Dame and a suberb linebacker.

Two or even three more big games remain for most of the teams on which these men play and much can happen between now and the end of the season to change their status. But as matters now stand these 12 men form the solid nucleus of an All-America team.

* * *

Close behind them come such stalwarts as Bill Meigs, Harvard guard; Hugh Pitts, TCU center; Ron Kramer, Michigan end; John Witte, Oregon State tackle; Frank Tamburello, Maryland quarterback; Freddy Wyant, West Virginia quarterback; Paul Hornung, Notre Dame quarterback; and Tommy McDonald, Oklahoma halfback.

Costa Too Fast for Joey Lopes

NEW YORK (AP) — If Carmelo Costa wants to box Sandy Saddler for the featherweight title, Sandy will be glad to accommodate him.

* * *

Charlie Johnston, the champ's manager, saw Costa win a unanimous decision over Joey Lopes of Sacramento, Calif., last night at Madison Square Garden. Then he offered to let Saddler box not one but three leading challengers, one a month, until the division is cleaned up.

* * *

Lopes, the loser on 6-3-1 cards by all three officials, wasn't impressed by the slick Costa who had outpointed him March 18.

"Saddler will murder him," said Lopes. "He (Costa) doesn't belong in the same ring with the champ.

Nail Wins Remsen and $95,600 Purse

* * *

The lightly campaigned son of Nirgal, owned by Mrs. Anson Biglow, beat Elmendorf Farm's Prince John, winner of the $282,370 Garden State, by 2 lengths. The purse of $69,425 boosted his total earnings to $171,950, a big hunk of which came from winning the Belmont Futurity on Oct. 8.

Mikes Batter Oxford 11; Rams Drop Close Battle

St. Michael's Shamrocks wound up their 1955 football season on a note of triumph with a comeback victory at Oxford and St. Fred's Rams turned in one of their best performances of the year while bowing at Clarkston in their finale.

Mikes spoted Oxford 7-0 advantage, then rallied behind Dan Dropps to win going away, 26-7. Shamrocks' star halfback scored two touchdowns in the North Siders' 6th win in nine games.

Wildcats scored in the 1st quarter on a 19-yard push requiring five plays, Doug Chartrand going over from the four. Clyde Groves plunged for the extra point, but Oxford never saw pay-dirt again.

Mikes moved in the 2nd quarter when Dropps tallied to complete a 64-yard drive. Dropps converted from placement and the score was 7-7 at halftime.

St. Mike iced the contest with two 3rd-period touchdowns. Dropps galloped 55 yards for the 1st tally and passed to end Duane Priebe for the point. Moments later Jerry Keesling recovered a fumble on the Oxford 30 and the Mikes scored in four plays with Mike Lyons going over from the six.

A 45-yard touchdown sprint on an intercepted pass by Dave Swayne handed Clarkston's Wolves a hard-fought 12-7 victory over St. Frederick. Win enabled the Wolves to finish their season with a 7-2 record.

Gene Wright's Rams held a 7-6 halftime advantage. Dick Doyon set up the touchdown, which he also scored near the end of the 1st period, by dashing 45 yards on a fake punt to the Clarkston 25. Tom Derocher's pass found Doyon for a 25-yard touchdown. Doyon converted.

St. Fred and Clarkston then battled to a scoreless standstill for two periods. But midway in the last quarter Swayne snared Derocher's aerial and romped 45 yards for the winning touchdown.

CBS Faces Ban From NCAA on Proposed TV

KANSAS CITY (AP)—A legal hassle appears to be in prospect as a result of the CBS television network's announced intention of transmitting its telecast of today's Illinois-Wisconsin football game to Iowa in the face of a ban by the National Collegiate Athletic Assn.

The NCAA announced in Kansas City yesterday that the District Four telecast of the Big 10 game would not be released in Iowa because "the unauthorized telecast of the Iowa-Minnesota game last Saturday by station KRNT-TV of Des Moines, Iowa, violated the understandings in effect between the NCAA and the CBS television network," and because CBS had failed to give assurance against future violations.

Get 3 TDs in First Half for 20-19 Victory

Early Start Puts PHS Out in Front; Staves Off Late Flint Drive

By BILL CORNWELL

Pontiac's Chiefs struck for three touchdowns in the 1st half, then staved off Flint Northern's desperate last-quarter rally to nose out the Vikings, 20-19, in Friday night's season finale at Wisner Stadium.

Victory over their long-time rival in a battle of the "also-rans" enabled Chiefs to escape the Saginaw Valley Conference cellar and push Northern into last place.

It was Pontiac's 1st Valley win and 3rd of the season in nine games. Last night's triumph also helped salve a disappointing season for Ed Graybiel and his charges.

Two speedsters, Charley Robinson and Freeman Watkins, gave Chiefs a 20-6 halftime lead. Robinson broke loose for two long scoring runs and Watkins tallied with intermission only 57 seconds away.

Pontiac started fast, scoring on its 2nd play. Northern fumbled on its 2nd play from scrimage with Ted Wiersema recovering for PHS on the Flint 32. After Bob Casteel lost 11 yards attempting to pass, Robinson raced 43 yards to score. Casteel booted the point.

Robinson's 2nd touchdown was even more sensational. Vikings punted and PHS took over on its own 16. On the 2nd play of the 2nd period Charley romped 75 yards for a TD. Casteel converted again and it was 14-0.

Andy McDonald's gridders posted their lone touchdown in the 1st half on a 69 yard, 12-play drive with Arden Relerford scoring on a 14-yard sprint.

Pontiac took the ensuing kickoff and rolled 61 yards in a dozen plays to tally its last touchdown, and the eventual deciding margin. Watkins went over on a 10-yard dash.

Guard Tom Lambertson set up Northern's final marker by recovering a fumble on the PHS 37. The visitors scored in just three plays, Relerford going over from the five. Fullback Larry Arnold kicked the conversion.

An excellent halftime program was presented by Pontiac's combined junior high school marching bands. The 200 musicians saluted the rival schools and also sounded a Veterans Day theme. Another intermission feature was the introduction of the PHS cross-country team.

Northern	0	6	0	13	—19

Center Line Grabs Jug

By GEORGE TRUMBULL JR.

A rampaging Center Line powerhouse strengthened its claim for top honors in state Class B ranks last night as it shellacked Inter-Lakes League champion Van Dyke, 44-13 as the curtain dropped on the 1955 county area gridiron campaign.

Junior halfback John Skirchak recorded five touchdowns to run his total to 20 for the season as the Bi-County champions closed out a perfect 9-0 season and snapped a Abe winning skein in the traditional battle for the Brown Jug.

Two of Skirchak's counters were on passes from Larry Bielat. Bielat made good on 12 out of 20 attempts last night to set a season's total of 79 completions out of 140 attempts.

In an afternoon encounter, Cranbrook closed out its most successfull season since 1939 but only after staving off a stubborn Fitzgerald eleven for a 12-7 victory.

Fitzgerald climaxed a 42 yard march in the 1st period to score on a 7 yard pass play from Norm Pruitt to Ron Dannis with Al VanOvermeer converting.

Cranbrook marched to both its rewards in the 3rd stanza with Bob Machus going 60 yards for the 1st and Pontiac's George Gary intercepting a Pruitt pass on the Fitzgerald 23 and going in for the score.

Holly needed but one TD to down Lake Orion 6-0 in a defensive battle last night at Holly. A 35 yard pass play in the 2nd period set up the winning marker when John Wheeler tossed to end Steve Miele in the end zone.

With six minutes remaining in a contest at Northville, Mustang Bud Bell went 75 yards on a Statue of Liberty play to give his team a hard-fought 14-12 squeaker over West Bloomfield. Gary Holman got the other TD.

Lakers made good in the 1st and 3rd quarters on touchdowns by George Law and a pass from Ralph Goodhower to George Ray.

Pete Carrizalas scored 3 times, Fred Fuhr twice and Don Hamilton once as Eastland pounded out an easy 39-6 triumph over Roseville. The loser's lone tally came on a 48 yard pass play, to Ron DeMeulenaere.

Maples Blast Bears 43-0 in Tuneup for Acorn Tilt

Birmingham's mighty Maples tuned up for their traditional Thanksgiving Day clash with Royal Oak by routing hapless Berkley, 43-0, at Birmingham High School Stadium Friday night. It was Birmingham's annual Dad's Day game.

Carl Lemle's EML champions reeled off six touchdowns and a safety to dispose of the Bears and preserve their unblemished record. Victory was Birmingham's 8th straight.

Later in the 1st period quarterback Bill Swaney pitched a 49-yard touchdown pass to Jim Traa. Tackle George Huffman booted both extra points. Halfback Bill Wedge went six yards in the 2nd stanza to give the Maples a 20-0 half-time lead.

Star halfback John Appleford sparked 2nd-half play with two TD's. He tallied in the 3rd period on a 4-yard run and Huffman converted. Fullback Wayne Geggie got into the act in the 3rd by bucking over from the five after end Don Haugh recovered a fumble. Huffman again converted, making it 34-0.

Maples were credited with a safety in the 4th period when an errant pass from center went into the end zone where it was downed by Berkley for an automatic two points. Then Appleford tallied his 2nd TD with a 16-yard jaunt to complete the scoring. Bob Isbell kicked the point.

In two Eastern Michigan League windups Friday night, Ferndale held East Detroit to a 6-6 tie and Port Huron trimmed Hazel Park, 20-7. Royal Oak's Acorns trounced Highland Park in a Border Cities game, 45-12.

Titans Squeeze by Villanova, 6-0

DETROIT (INS) — A 22-yard pass, Jim Lobkovich to Billy Russell, scored the winning touchdown last night as Detroit's Titans edged out a 6-0 victory over Villanova's Wildcats before 14,350 fans in the Motor City.

Miami Dumps Bucknell for 4th Victory, 46-0

MIAMI (INS) — University of Miami won its 3rd straight victory and fourth win of the season last night by dumping Bucknell's football team, 46-0, before 30,240 fans in the Orange Bowl last night.

Miami backs Jack Losch and Terry Steward scored 90 and 76 yard touchdowns respectively. Losch's run was the longest ever made by a Miami player.

Abes Dominate All-League 11

The fact that the Van Dyke Abes walked away with the Inter-Lakes League crown this past season is readily seen in the 1955 edition of the I-L loop all-league team selected by the players of the six league schools.

The Abes placed five boys on the honor team, 2nd place Waterford 2, Walled Lake 2 and Southfield and Farmington one each. Berkley failed to show on the 1st team.

The chosen eleven are: ends, Jerry Kruskie of Waterford and Chuck Brown of Van Dyke; tackles, Bernard Miscevich of Southfield and Don Hughes of Van Dyke; guards, Al Nestor of Waterford and Dennis McBride of Farmington; center, Larry Bahor of Walled Lake; backs, John Walker of Walled Lake and Roy Abbott, Tom Thorpe and Ken Burchett all of Van Dyke.

Sooners Shun Bowl Thoughts

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The mighty Oklahoma Sooners, boasting the longest current winning streak in college football, forgot about the Orange Bowl today to concentrate on winning their eighth consecutive Big 7 title.

The No. 1-ranked Sooners, who became assured of going to the Orange Bowl last week by whipping Missouri for their 26th straight victory, played Iowa State at Norman in one of the top games on the national program.

An Oklahoma victory, coupled with a Nebraska defeat by Colorado, will give the Sooners the conference title.

Maryland, the No. 2 team behind Oklahoma in The Associated Press football poll, had a date with Clemson, and a victory would assure the Terps of at least a tie for the Atlantic Coast Conference championship. The ACC, like the Big 7, has a contract with the Orange Bowl.

* * *

However, the league representative is determined by a vote, so the winner doesn't necessarily have to make the trip to Miami.

The other bowl promoters kept anxious eyes on the results of major games.

* * *

The Rose Bowl, for example, could be half filled if Michigan State got past Minnesota and Indiana upset Michigan. This would automatically send the Spartans westward with a 5-1 league record. The best the Wolverines could do then would be 5-2, even if they beat Ohio State next week. If Michigan wound up with a victory over Indiana, then went on to lick the Buckeyes, it would be in.

* * *

UCLA, the favorite to clinch the Pacific Coast Conference Rose Bowl assignment, had a date with so-so Washington.

After today, each has two games to play. Even if UCLA loses one along the way, the Bruins will get the nod because they beat Oregon State.

* * *

The Cotton Bowl could wind up with the victor of the Texas-Texas Christian game in Austin. With Texas A&M, the Southwest Conference leader on probation and not permitted to play in post-season games, the second-place club in the league will act as home team in the Cotton Bowl should the Aggies win it.

That makes the battle between TCU and Texas a pivotal one because second place was at stake.

Yale was out to clinch the Ivy League title against Princeton, while Army and Navy hoped to rebound from losses of a week ago.

Notre Dame, getting bigger with each passing week, paid a call on North Carolina, Georgia Tech, stunned for the second time this season last week, figured to fatten up at the expense of Alabama.

Teacher Finds Stolen Earrings on Student

NEW YORK (AP)—Mrs. Julie Hale, a Bronx school teacher, looked startled when 14-year-old Lydia Morales appeared in her classroom wearing handsome diamond earrings.

Mrs. Hale's home had been robbed last month of $800 in jewelry including a $300 pair of earrings.

In Bronx magistrate's court yesterday, Lydia's mother, Mrs. Bertha Morales, was held in $2,000 on a charge of criminally receiving stolen property.

Mrs. Morales said she bought the earrings for $20 from a man she did not know, and gave them to the girl to wear to school.

Winds Blow Himalaya Climber to His Death

The party leader, Raymond Lambert, said they buried Gauchal the day he died, Oct. 28, at 20,800-foot altitude.

Jolt Ejects Motorist, Then Car Rams Train

A. J. Seeton, 30, was thrown to the street when his car collided with another vehicle as he drove to work.

He sat on the pavement and watched his car make a right hand turn, speed toward the railroad tracks, and then ride the rails straight into the oncoming freight train.

The only injuries were to the car which was demolished.

"I saw the car coming flying back toward me in little pieces," Seeton said.

Education Week Ending With Praise by Whitmer

With American Education Week in its final day, Dr. Dana P. Whitmer, local superintendent of schools, praised Pontiac residents for their "warm response" to the many school programs and commended teachers and PTA leaders on "a job well done."

"I have gone into a number of schools this week, and everywhere found people enjoying the programs and leaving with an increased understanding of children and their educational needs," he said.

Whitmer spoke enthusiastically of the Pontiac White House Conference on Education — focal point of the week—which Tuesday attracted more than 500 parents and educators for conferences and group discussions on a number of phases of the community's educational problem.

"At the conference, parents, educators and experts in the different fields consulted, all seeking practical solutions to school problems," Whitmer said. "Such consultations caniot help but result n better schools for our children."

"When the written reports coming out of the conference reaches the school board, we intend to go over them very carefully for guidance in our own planning."

Whitmer added a special word of praise for members of the Pontia Council of PTAs, sponsors of the conference which was the first of its kind in the city.

"I know both the PTA Council leaders and many teachers worked very hard to make the conference and the week's programs the success they proved to be," he concluded. "I am sure all would agree with me that the results justified their efforts."

Inmates Get Vacations

BELFAST (AP) — Long term prisoners in Belfast jail—excepting murderers—are going to get summer vacations for morale improvement. For five years the prisoners have been paroled for Christmas at home and all have reported back to the jail, so authorities have decided to try a one-week vacation for most felons serving more than three years.

November Total to Hit 750,000

Sales Race Expected to Boost Production to 8 Million Units

By DAVID J. WILKIE
AP Automotive Editor

DETROIT (AP) — The nation's auto makers have increased their production schedules for November to more than 750,000 units; they will try for as many or more assemblies in December.

The scheduling is the highest ever set for the closing months of the year. If the projected volume is reached, 1955 car output will come to eight million units.

The 1½ million cars projected for November-December assembly will be exclusively 1956 models. All the major producers will operate their plants overtime to maintain high level output.

The fact all manufacturers in 1956 model production gives reasonable assurance the year's production total will fall little, if any, short of the eight million goal.

The higher prices suggested by the manufacturers show increases of from $10.90 to $550 over the 1955 tags. There had been some speculation the competitive battle, with its consequent high production and essential high sales volume, would result in continuing high discounts by the retailers.

SOME SPECULATION

Some industry analysts say the larger discounts are being confined at present to the 1955 model cars some dealers still have on hand. Others speculate that it's too early in the new model season to expect sharp price discounts.

Certain it is, however, that the assembly plants once again are roaring along at near the year's top levels. It is just as certain, too, that the high production pace will be carried over well into the 1956 calendar year.

It would not be accurate to say all industry sources see 1956 output as matching that of the present year. Every car maker's sales manager has said he will increase his customer total next year and that a greater volume of output will be required.

Some of this undoubtedly must be charged off to enthusiasm. But many production forecasters fell far short on their 1955 appraisal. Now they are reluctant to say flatly whether next year's total will or will not equal that of the present year.

Right now, fairly authoritative estimates put the 1955 sales total at around 7,600,000 passenger cars. Most car retailers made less per unit on this unprecedented volume. To cope with the tremendous outpouring of the assembly plants, most retailers had to increase their unit sales.

MUST MAINTAIN PACE

They will have to do it again through most of 1956 to keep in the running.

From the manufacturers' standpoint, 1955 probably will be most profitable in their peacetime history. General Motors' preliminary financial reports indicate the year's earnings will top one billion dollars; Ford has said 1955 will show greater profits than any other year in its history; Chrysler's figures for this year's first nine months showed net of more than 70 million dollars compared with slightly less than 3¾ million dollars in the same 1954 period.

Two Crash Victims in Pontiac Hospital

Suffering a fractured skull, Mrs. Alice J. Anderson, 29, of 1458 Opdyke Rd., is in fair condition, a hospital authority said.

She was hurt when the car driven by her husband, Leslie Anderson, was in a collision at Mount Clemens and Opdyke Rds.

The other driver, Bessie L. Frisch, of Waterford Township, was uninured, Sheriff's Deputies said.

Being treated for a possible concussion, John J. Ferzacca, 21, of Detroit, is also reported in fair condition.

Judge Orders Teeners to Write Drink Essay

BURLINGTON, Vt. (AP)—Three Burlington High School students will spend their weekend writing an essay each on "The Evil Effect of Intoxicating Liquor"—by court order.

The teen-agers had pleaded guilty in municipal court to obtaining beer although under legal age. They were ordered yesterday by Judge Edward A. Costello to write the essays and present them in court Monday.

The papers must be signed by the high school principal.

Movie Moguls Discover a Cowgirl – in Brooklyn

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: "The man who didn't want his wife to work has been succeeded by the man who asks about her chance of getting a raise."—Imogene Fey.

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—We used to kid the movies about being illogical—but now TV has converted a beauty from Flatbush, Brooklyn, into a cowgirl.

★ ★ ★ ★

Miss Jackie Loughery made the jump from subway-riding to range-riding. Not long ago, Jackie was a model, toting her hatbox as she swung through wild and woolly Manhattan shooting down wolves and fresh guys with a fiery glance or sharp word.

JACKIE

No Flatbush Floozie, Jackie had gone to the St. Francis Xavier Academy for Young Ladies.

"I'd never ridden a horse in my life," says Jackie. "After all, we don't have a lot of broncos back where I come from in Brooklyn.

Then Jackie happened to win the "Miss United States" title for '53 at Long Beach.

There came a picture contract and a husband, Guy Mitchell, the singer — and then she was asked to play a cowgirl in a filmed TV series, called "Judge Roy Bean."

★ ★ ★ ★

"The first day I took a lesson riding, I fell on my head," Jackie says.

"I have a double for the tough parts," adds Jackie. "She fell on her head, too, and went to the hospital."

To keep everything western, I had Jackie tell me about it at my wild west apartment—over on Wild West End Avenue.

★ ★ ★ ★

"My parents kept a good watch over me," says Jackie. "I was going to go into the Copacabana chorus when I was 17, but they wouldn't let me. They didn't approve of me coming home to Brooklyn at 4 o'clock in the morning."

THE WEEKEND WINDUP . . .

"DON'T PRINT THAT!" Marlene Dietrich rejected the lead in Columbia Pictures' "Pal Joey," so studio execs wouldn't let their wardrobe dept. help with her cafe costumes. Marlene sewed on the beads and feathers herself . . . A famed actress, about to be scorched by a scandal magazine, asked the editors one favor—to use flattering pictures of her.

The crew of Warner Bros.' "Serenade," most of whom got sick on location in Mexico, call their stomach ailment "Montezuma's Revenge" . . . Shiela Bond and Stubby Kaye are filming a TV pilot, "The Gopher."

Daily Double: Choreographer Bob Alton and Louise Paget at The Spindletop . . . Hollywood cops stopped Mervyn LeRoy's $11,000 Lincoln Continental and explained, "We know you weren't speeding—we just wanted to look at the car." . . . B'way veteran Don de Leo was signed for "The Amazing Adele" . . . Mort Siegel, formerly of RKO, was named to head Sol Lesser's foreign operations dept.

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP)—Hugh F. Donnelly expects to get to work on time Monday in the general storekeeper's office of the New York Central Railroad in East Rochester. He commutes.

He was reelected Tuesday to the $1,300-a-year post in the city of 15,197 in Albany County. The railroad transferred him here the same day.

The Central let him off several hours early yesterday so he could get to the city council meeting. The meeting night was switched from Thursday to Friday.

Donnelly lives in a Rochester hotel. His family remains in Watervliet. He says he hopes the transfer is not permanent.

Things could be worse, Donnelly opined. He has a railroad pass. Otherwise, the commuting could be expensive.

Silvers Clobbers Berle in Video Ratings Contest

By JACK O'BRIAN

NEW YORK (INS)—Talk about mixed emotions: Phil Silvers hadn't the heart to make a celebration of his momentous feat—the first performer to clobber Milton Berle—his good friend—in the Trendex ratings since Uncle Miltie went on the air . . .

Silvers' CBS-TV soldier comedy racked up a 25.2 rating Tuesday night while Berle's first half-hour registered 17.6. . . .

Berle's second half-hour edged the competing "Navy Long" 21.9 to 18.5, which still left Berle in the Trendex lurch for the full hour, 21.8 to 19.8.

Perhaps part of the splendid rise of Silvers' show can be laid at the door of Jackie Gleason's first (and best) senses of humor. Coleman Jacoby and Arnie Rosen, now fashioning some of Phil's TV funnies. . .

Ironic—Berle's best show of the season got his worst rating of all time, the answer being simple enough: Your rating is not as good as the show that came before, and that one was Uncle Miltie's worst.

MORE LIKE BENNY

Johnny Carson derives his style more from Jack Benny than Gobel . . . Carson had better watch out: His comedy "style" depends too much on precisely opposite replies than the one expected. . .

If that simple gimmick is adhered to, the public will be able to analyze every joke and there will go the surprise, and the surprise element being the trigger for laughter, there also will go Johnny Carson.

"You Are There" simply isn't there for us any more since it went on film and grew teddibly greasepainty and theatrical.

Goodson-Todman (What's My Line and other panel programs) have a brand new giveaway they expect will be on the CBS-TV afternoon air shortly.

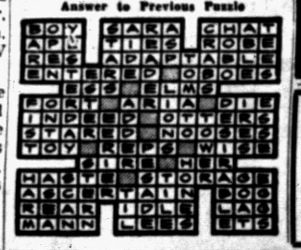

Eve (Miss Brooks) Arden may get the movies' "Aunt Mame" role based on the hilarious best-seller. Very good casting.

Bandits Steal $250,000 of Non-Cashable Checks

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Two gunmen intercepted a loan company messenger enroute to a bank and escaped with a quarter of a million dollars in checks. But they can't cash them.

James Farrell of the Pasadena Savings and Loan Co. said all the checks were marked "for deposit only."

Douglas Tells Visiting Red Newsmen He's Impressed by Soviet Lawmen

WASHINGTON (AP)—Justice Douglas of the Supreme Court today told a group of seven visiting Russian journalists that in his recent visit to their country he was greatly impressed with the "quality" of Soviet judges and lawyers.

Douglas spent 20 minutes with the group, after which a court spokesman related to American newsmen what had taken place. The American newsmen were not permitted to attend.

* * *

The spokesman, Bannington Whittington, said that Douglas told the Russians his visit was a pleasant one, the people were friendly, and generally he was allowed to go where he pleased. An interpreter helped the journalists and Douglas to understand each other.

* * *

Douglas replied that one of the things he greatly regretted was that he could not speak the Russian language. He said he studied the language for several months, but gave it up when he felt he was not getting anywhere. Douglas commented that he felt Americans should increase their study of the Russian language.

Whittington said Douglas told the journalists that the problems of ordinary people in Russia are pretty much the same as those of the ordinary people in the United States.

People in Russia are always in a hurry and want to get the job done, the same as people in the United States, he said, adding that maybe a similarity of geographical latitude, a factor in climate, was responsible in part.

Douglas told the journalists that he wished there could be a continuous exchange of groups of people between the two countries and said he especially would like to see exchange visits by groups of engineers, educators and doctors.

The journalists visited the Supreme Court chamber, then left for a luncheon at a downtown hotel. Tomorrow and Sunday they will tour Washington and visit Mount Vernon.

Williams Denies Ok on Flint Payroll Tax

LANSING (AP)—Gov. Williams hs refused to approve a proposed which would levy a so-called payroll tax.

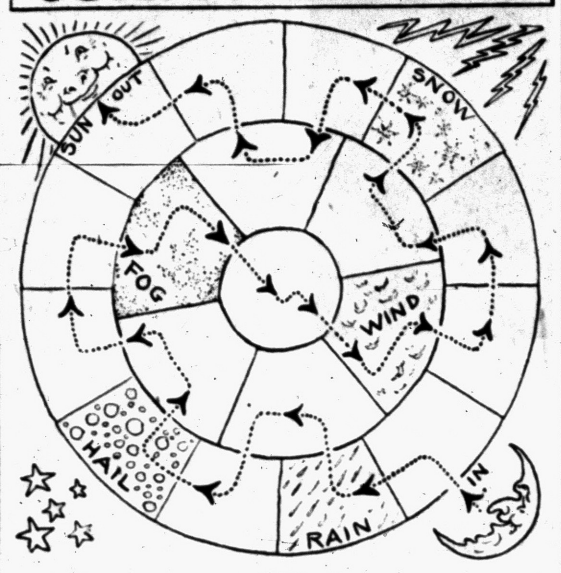

Williams said he acted on the advice of the attorney general's office that the tax was not legal.

The governor is required by law to give his consent before a charter amendment may be submitted to the voters.

The tax would have levied one per cent on salaries, wages, commission and other compensation and profits of residents and nonresidents working in Flint.

Every day we hear or read about the weather. Now here's how you can play a game about it.

Since all of us want to find the sunshine, that is what we are going to do in this game.

Paste this picture on thin cardboard and color it with crayons or paints. Make the fog gray, the hail white against a dark blue sky and the snow the same. The space for the wind is brown and the rain gray. All the other spaces can be bright colors. The sun, of course, should be yellow.

Use small buttons for markers and a penny to toss so you can find out the number of moves. Heads mean two moves and tails one move.

Start at the moon every time. Every time you land on a weather spot you must go back to the moon. Rain sends you back for rubbers, hail for a bucket to put stones in, fog for a flashlight, wind for a warm scarf, snow for a sweater. Each of these delays sends you back one space.

When you reach the sun space you must have just the right number of moves to take you out into the sunshine. The first one to reach the sun is the winner.

Egypt May Buy Italian Planes

Announced Agreement Sets Arms Purchase From NATO Nation

ROME (AP) —The Middle East Arms race took a new twist today with a report by authoritative sources that Egypt has a contract with an Italian firm for 30 Vampire jet fighters.

If the fighters are delivered—under an agreement reportedly signed six months ago—it would mean Egypt was getting arms from a NATO member as well as from the Communist bloc.

It seemed reasonably certain pressure would be brought on the Italian government to block delivery of the Vampires to check a dangerous arms build-up where Egyptian and Israeli guns are glaring at each other.

The Western Powers favor holding down arms deliveries to both sides, through fear of a major Arab-Jewish conflict.

Egypt already is receiving large shipments of weapons from Communist-government Czechoslovakia via Russian Black Sea ports. This deal is reported to cover 200 Soviet-built MIG jet fighters and 100 Russian-made tanks plus a half dozen submarines, all at cutrate prices.

LANSING (AP) — Michigan's first speed limit since 1927 became law Friday with Gov. Wiliams' signature—but you needn't fear the traffic cop until Feb. 3.

The measure, effective 90 days after the Legislature approved the speed controls, limits drivers to 65 miles an hour in the daytime and 55 miles at night.

Establish a traffic safety center at Michigan State University and arm it with a six-months' grant of $177,500.

It Wasn't Water

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP) — When a pool of water collected in a residential section police began looking for a water leak. Instead they found two cases of beer and two gum dispensing machines blocking a storm sewer opening. Checking further they found a nearby service station had been burglarized the night before but the operator hadn't missed the merchandise.
