Milliken Unveils School Reform Plan

LANSING (AP) — Michigan Gov. William G. Milliken has unveiled a sweeping plan to revamp Michigan's school systems, including a proposal for a statewide property tax to eliminate the traditional district-by-district taxation system.

Milliken also proposed state aid to nonpublic schools yesterday in announcing results of a five-month study by his commission on educational reform.

Jerald Miller, tax expert for the governor, said he knows of no state that has a state property tax for its school systems.

The State Legislature begins a special session next Monday to consider Milliken's proposals.

"Under the present system," Milliken said, "some districts are limited to less than $500 a year on the education of each child, while in other districts, the figure is more than $1,100.

"We want to even things out. The commission does not think a child in one school district is worth only half as much as a child in another," said Milliken, who succeeded George Romney as governor in January when Romney became U.S. Secretary of Housing and Urban Development.

Michigan's school district system is at the mercy many times of the district voters, who must approve minimum millage for them to qualify for state aid.

As an example, the North Branch school system in northern Lower Michigan did not know whether it would open this fall until mid-September when voters approved millage.

Milliken said "Some districts have a tax rich base — expensive homes or substantial industry. Others have a very poor base.

"This base, the so-called state equalized valuation, ranges from $3,000 per child in some districts to $60,000 per child in others," he said.

He recommended a constitutional amendment that would lower the ceilings on local property taxes as a balance to the proposed state property tax.

Regarding aid to private and parochial schools, Milliken said "We believe very strongly that the existence and strength of nonpublic schools can contribute to education choice in Michigan and that education choices is in the public interest.

SCHOOLS IN TROUBLE

"Many nonpublic schools are in deep financial trouble. Many of them have closed and many more are destined to close unless they are helped," he said.

U. S. Rail Shutdown Eyed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The railroad industry, threatened with selective strikes by shopcraft unions, has countered with a threat of its own—a nationwide shutdown of rail service.

A spokesman for the four involved unions immediately protested that the industry's announcement was aimed at forcing government intervention in the wage and work rules dispute.

But Chairman John P. Hiltz Jr. of the National Railway Labor Conference—which represents management of the nation's 76 major railroads—said the move would be taken "both in the long-range public interest and as a matter of self-survival."

He said the shutdown would be called off if unions did not strike the seven railroads they have designated as the first to feel what the industry refers to as "whipsaw" work stoppages. The strike deadline is 11:01 p.m. (Pontiac time) Friday.

The unions' chief negotiator, William W. Winpisinger, said the strikes would go as scheduled unless the industry's announcement triggers President Nixon to invoke the Railway Labor Act and postpones the work stoppages for up to 60 days.

A dispute between signalmen and the railroads last April was the most recent threat of a nationwide rail shutdown, and this week's is the third in a little over two years.

During the April dispute— which was solved without government intervention—Secretary of Labor George Shultz forecast grim consequences to the economy.

He estimated a weeklong strike would put a million persons out of work in addition to the 137,000 railroad employes. A two-week work stoppage would raise it to 3 million.

TO HURT AUTO INDUSTRY

Among industries hardest hit by a strike would be automobile manufacturers, which depend on rail shipments of raw materials and distribution of their products, Schultz said.

If any section of the country would be deprived of adequate transportation by a rail strike, the Railway act provides the President can create an emergency board to arbitrate the union-management differences.

★ ★ ★

The board could spend up to 30 days investigating both sides of the dispute and another 30 days attempting to bring about an agreement. Meanwhile, union members would be required by law to continue working.

★ ★ ★

Hiltz said "the unprecedented divide-and-conquer tactics of the four shopcraft unions leave the railroads no alternative but to take unprecedented action themselves."

The unions have designated for strikes the Sante Fe, the Great Northern, the C&O, the B&O, Southern, Illinois Central and Erie-Lackawana.

ADC-Supported Children In for a Long, Cold Winter?

By JEAN SAILE

It could be a long, cold winter for many schoolchildren in families supported by Aid to Dependent Children (ADC).

Funds appropriated by the county Sept. 4 for emergency clothing needs are better than 80 per cent used, and there has been no provision for further funds this year or any for next year, records show.

★ ★ ★

The Oakland County Board of Supervisors had voted extra cash for emergency clothing purchases following yearlong protests by ADC mothers about the county clothing store. A study undertaken by local merchants supported the ADC mothers' claims that the store services were inadequate.

The board set $90,000 aside to be spent at the average rate of $30 per child for 3,000 children in the county.

There are about 5,500 school-age children on ADC rolls, according to Ora Hinckley, county social services director.

By last night, Miss Hinckley reported $76,871 had been spent at the average rate of $29.68 per child for 2,590 children. Before the cash was voted, another 1,000 children had been outfitted at the county clothing store. Miss Hinckley said the cost of that service is not yet available.

She said the ADC mothers are returning receipts for the purchases they made at private retail stores. A total of 859 families were benefitted.

★ ★ ★

The county's 1970 budget, in final form for presentation to the board of supervisors later this month, carries no provision for ADC clothing supplements.

The supervisors' finance committee has cut a Social Services clothing request of $350,975 and an auditors recommendation of $141,918 to $45,918.

Judge Orders Arrest of Groppi

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — A judge ordered the arrest today of the Rev. James E. Groppi who had invited students and welfare recipients to defy a restraining order and march into the Wisconsin Capitol.

His arrest order came from Milwaukee County Judge F. Ryan Duffy Jr., who directed that the Roman Catholic priest be picked up and brought before him for a hearing on possible probation violation.

Duffy had placed Groppi on two year's probation Feb. 12, 1968 after the civil rights activist was convicted of resisting arrest during an open-housing demonstration.

If the probation is revoked Groppi would be required to serve a six months term in the House of Correction which was stayed by the court at the time of sentencing.

GO HOME — Pontiac Schools Director of Physical Education, Athletics and Recreation Lee Haslinger (right of center) talks to Pontiac Northern High School student Rod McIlroy (left of center) and other white students outside the school this morning. Haslinger and other school officials urged black and white students to disperse when the two groups angrily confronted each other.

Whites Trigger PNH Ruckus

Angry white students touched off a disturbance at Pontiac Northern High School this morning when they confronted a group of black students who were waiting outside for classes to begin.

Most of the students had dispersed by 11 a.m., although some students lingered among uniformed police officers surrounding the building.

The blame for the outbreak was placed on the whites by Assistant School Supt. Richard Fell.

★ ★ ★

He said the students milled around outside the school before the opening of school at 8:30 a.m. when several white students approached some black students from behind.

Students said a police patrol car driving by at the time stopped, and the four officers in the car reportedly held off the youths before any fighting could begin.

More black and white students took sides after this incident and gathered on opposite sides of Arlene Street.

About 150 white students were barricaded for about a half-hour on East

Beverly Street by double rows of police officers while an estimated 75 to 100 black students milled in the school parking lot.

★ ★ ★

The white students were asked to disperse, but they circled the school, seemingly to approach the black students again from the rear.

Minor fist-fighting broke out when the two student groups met, but they were quickly separated by police.

One white student reportedly received a minor knife wound in the scuffle.

Some black and white students involved in the disruption today were bused to their own neighborhoods.

Northern High School closed last Friday as a result of racial outbreaks there Thursday in which several students were injured. Parents, teachers and plainclothes policemen have patrolled the halls this week, and school officials reported that tension seemed to have eased.

'MANY NOT FROM PNH'

According to school officials, many of the students at the school today were not from Northern, which has an enrollment of 2,100 . There were reports that some of the blacks arriving later were from Pontiac Central and Detroit.

★ ★ ★

Some of the whites were identified as students from Waterford Township, Lake Orion and Oxford schools, according to school authorities.

★ ★ ★

Doors at the school were locked to keep out the outside agitators. Classes were continuing, though some parents arrived at the school to take their children home.

Madison Junior High, which is adjacent to Northern, was locked from the outside and reported to be running smoothly, as were other city schools.

Hanoi Changing POW Policies?

WASHINGTON (AP) — North Vietnam's willingness to see wives of imprisoned U.S. servicemen is being viewed here as a hopeful sign Hanoi may be reevaluating its prisoner of war policies.

Pentagon officials also indicate belief the North Vietnamese move is a reaction to a Nixon administration campaign to focus international attention on the handling of American POWs.

★ ★ ★

This assessment came after North Vietnamese diplomats in Paris said yesterday they would receive a new group of American women seeking information about husbands missing in the war.

Only a few days earlier the North Vietnamese delegation had for the first time met with four other American wives from Dallas, Tex., trying to find out whether their husbands are dead or alive.

ENCOURAGING

While North Vietnam's attitude toward such private meetings may prove to be of no significance, any sign of movement on the POW problem is encouraging, Pentagon officials say.

★ ★ ★

"They have had an indefensible world position," commented one official involved in day-to-day dealings with POW matters. "It has been not only wrong but also not smart. Now they may be looking for a way to ease themselves out of the fire."

★ ★ ★

North Vietnam may be holding as many as 900 Americans, most of them fliers shot down during the air war. The number is uncertain because Hanoi steadfastly has refused to provide a name list—an act which violates international agreements.

The Pentagon's official list of captured men totals 413 but there are 919 names on the missing list and many of those are believed imprisoned.

GI Club Probe Brought Threats

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bribe offers and threats of death were received by Army personnel probing charges of rake-offs and kickbacks in operation of servicemen's recreation clubs, an officer testified today.

Lt. Col. William L. George said he received many anonymous threatening phone calls during the three months between the arrest of one sergeant and his conviction for stealing slot machine proceeds.

★ ★ ★

"One in particular which I remember most vividly happened about 2:30 in the morning and the caller said: 'You're dead, you bastard you,' and hung up," George told the Senate's permanent investigations subcommittee.

City Charter Vote Set for Dec. 18

Pontiac will hold a special election on Dec. 18, the City Commission decided last night.

The election will determine if voters want three changes in the City Charter — election of city commissioners on the basis of district only and reduction of age and residency requirement to 25 years and one year, respectively (presently 30 and five).

The issue on districts is whether the city should return to a system used prior to the 1964 election.

Since that time the city has used a modified at-large system whereby the top two vote-getters in each district face a citywide vote.

★ ★ ★

Petitions to bring about the election with over 6,200 signatures were gathered by the Pontiac Concerned Citizens Council (PCCC).

Some of the present districts have twice the population of others, and redistricting is expected after the 1970 census.

Rogers, Gromyko OK Further Talks

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers should know within about a month whether his "era of negotiations" debut with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko is producing results.

Rogers and Gromyko wound up their sessions here last night, agreeing to continue U.S.-Soviet discussions on a Middle East settlement. Assistant Secretary of State Joseph Sisco will carry these forward with Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin in Washington.

Rogers hopes that by late October, the United States and the Soviet Union will have agreed on enough groundwork to launch Big Four—U.S., Soviet, British and French—undertakings for a Middle East solution.

Another item discussed was President Nixon's still-unanswered bid to begin missile curb talks. Gromyko told Rogers Sept. 23 that Moscow would reply with a time and place "soon," but didn't say when.

DISPLEASURE TO GREET DELAY

If the Kremlin doesn't respond by the end of October, its delay will produce puzzlement and displeasure in Washington rivaling that prompted by the Soviets' silence last summer on the presidential plea.

Nixon, upon taking office, vowed to seek an "era of negotiation," rather than "confrontation," with the Communist world. Rogers' meetings with Gromyko provided the first high-level test. Gromyko heads today for Ottawa, then Moscow. Rogers returns to Washington tomorrow.

★ ★ ★

In private sessions totaling about 8 hours, including 1½ hours at Rogers' apartment last night. Rogers feels he has established good first-name relations with his Soviet counterpart.

But Rogers won't predict that personal friendship between diplomats will result in successful negotiations.

DOESN'T PRESS GROMYKO

Under the administration's non-confrontation policy of not pushing issues it considers irreconcilable at this time, Rogers did not press Gromyko on Vietnam or Soviet pressure on Czechoslovakia.

On the Middle East situation, Rogers has come to the conclusion that whatever agreement is possible with the Russians now will mark only one step in a long and difficult process.

★ ★ ★

His next planned step is to lay before the Big Four a U.S.-Soviet outline of how the major powers could work toward a permanent settlement.

After that he hopes for a start on the key ingredient—to bring the Arabs and Israelis to the negotiating table. His behind-the-scenes talks with the Middle East rivals found them far apart.

ADC Clothing Funds Run Low

needed to carry on the clothing store for the use of our Juvenile Department and our foster care program. There is no provision for further cash supplements for ADC children after the first of the year."

★ ★ ★

Hamlin did note, however, that an extra-large contingency fund of nearly $700,000 could be used to meet clothing needs next year if necessary. A majority vote of the board would be necessary to carry out the fund switch, he said.

Without county clothing supplements, an ADC mother is expected to dress her child from a $12 per month personal allowance. That fund was recently boosted $3 by the state, moving it up from the $9 level set in 1961 by the federal government.

★ ★ ★

This year the state added another $22 to the allotment, but Miss Hinckley noted, "That was this year's legislative appropriation. We don't know what will happen next year."

Neither do a lot of ADC parents.

ROBERT C. IRWIN

Schools, Parents Urged to Take Tough Stance

An appeal to parents to assert their authority and a demand for punishment of those responsible for recent fighting in Pontiac schools was issued by District 2 City Commissioner Robert C. Irwin last night.

Speaking at the city commission meeting, Irwin said "This community can't stand this . . . all thinking parents are going to have to stand up and reject it totally."

★ ★ ★

Irwin referred to violence which closed some Pontiac schools last Thursday, Friday and Monday. Centered at the two high schools, the racial fighting resulted in several minor injuries and three arrests.

The commissioner said he was at Central last Friday and observed the violence. Irwin said he had talked with both white and black parents and all agreed that those responsible should be punished.

CHILDREN 'BEING USED'

He said the children were being used by persons deliberately inciting violence and usurping parental authority. "I saw parents trying to speak to their youngster and being ridiculed by others (students)," he said.

Irwin said a conspiracy to disrupt the schools may have existed.

★ ★ ★

The Rumor Control Center of the Human Relations Commission reported 538 calls were handled in the four-day period.

The rumor center was organized almost two years ago to act in cases of civil disturbances. It operates continually, but in emergencies human relations commission members man up to 10 extra phones.

UP-TO-DATE DATA

Callers are given up-to-date information and any rumors are checked through appropriate agencies.

This was the first time the operation was put into full use.

Samuel A. Baker, human relations commission chairman, said in his report, "We would like to believe our center has made a significant contribution to our community in replacing rumors with truth.

"We trust the citizens will continue to utilize the facilities to eliminate rumors which, by our experience the last few days, can lead to widespread fear and unreasoned actions."

Apollo 12 Crewmen Set Long Moon Trek

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The Apollo 12 astronauts may stroll more than half a mile from their moon-landing craft next month.

Also, they plan to collect rocks with far greater scientific finesse than Neil A. Armstrong and Edwin E. Aldrin Jr., were able to employ on mankind's first lunar scavenger hunt.

★ ★ ★

Apollo 12 Commander Charles Conrad rates chances as "50-50" that he will be able to land close enough to an unmanned Surveyor spacecraft on the moon's Ocean of Storms so he and astronaut Alan L. Bean can bring pieces of it back to earth.

All this was revealed in an impromptu press briefing by Navy Cmdr. Conrad and Lt. Cmdr. Bean Tuesday following a dress rehearsal of their moon walk.

COUNTDOWN TEST

Meanwhile, the third Apollo 12 astronaut—Navy Cmdr. Richard F. Gordon Jr.—helped crews at the launch pad with a countdown rehearsal test for the scheduled Nov. 14 liftoff.

Gordon will remain in moon orbit in the Apollo 12 command ship while Conrad and Bean spend some 31 hours on the surface, including seven hours outside the lunar landing craft.

Mission rules will let the two crewmen wander 3,000 feet, or about two-thirds of a mile, to visit the Surveyor.

Their emergency oxygen supply, needed if their main backpacks fail, holds enough oxygen to keep them alive 15 to 20 minutes.

A color television camera that can beam live coverage of their lunar activities to earth has been built and "if it can be flight qualified in time, will be aboard," Conrad said.

The moon men plan to make two excursions outside the landing craft, each lasting about 3½ hours and separated by an eight-hour rest period.

First priority has been given to setting up an elaborate set of experiments, Conrad said.

Included is an advanced seismic device to record moonquakes, a sheet of aluminum foil to collect radiation partiles streaming from the sun, an experiment to measure the density and velocity of radiation near the lunar surface and a device to study the moon's magnetic fields.

Cleveland Mayor Wins Dem Primary

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Negro incumbent Carl B. Stokes defeated a self-styled law-and-order candidate by more than 31,000 votes yesterday in Cleveland's Democratic mayoral primary election.

But Stokes won his bid for nomination to a second two-year term only after overcoming a lead of more than 20,000 votes which Robert J. Kelly, an electoral newcomer, built up in white sections crucial to the mayor's Nov. 4 general election prospects.

The final unofficial count gave Stokes 92,219 votes to 60,899 for Kelly, a 48-year-old former city service director.

"We're going to really have to work against Ralph J. Perk," Stokes said of the Republican county auditor he will face in the general election.

U.S.-Romania N-Pact

BUCHAREST, Romania (AP) — The chairman of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission, Glenn T. Seaborg, signed a contract today under which the commission will hire out to the Romanian Nuclear Energy Committee a cobalt-60 bomb as radiation source for research purposes.

Before talks with Romanian experts, Seaborg was received by Romania's president and Communist party leader, Nicolae Ceausescu, the news agency Agerpres reported.

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — The Cranbrook Academy of Art galleries are preparing three new exhibitions opening Nov. 8 and continuing through Dec. 7.

Richard E. DeVore, head of the academy's ceramics department, will present his latest acrylic collages and ceramics.

Also exhibited will be "Towers," a survey of over 350 towers by architects, engineers, artists and fantasists, illustrated by architectural photographs, drawings, films and slides.

Another exhibition is "Lasers and Holograms," an experimental exhibition illustrating the significant changes technology is producing in today's art.

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — Registrations are being taken at the recreation office in Andover High School for the Bloomfield Hills School District fall 1969 adult evening program beginning this week.

Applicants may register daily from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday-Saturday and 7-9 p.m. evenings during the next two weeks.

By Pollution Unit Head

Pontiac Div. Statement Hit

Pontiac Motor Division was accused last night of promising a "pie in the sky" in its statements regarding air pollutants emanating from the coke fires of its foundry.

The accusation was made by Robert Parker of 791 First, chairman of the city's Air Pollution Committee. A report he had submitted to the City Commission was discussed last week, but Parker was out of town at the time.

★ ★ ★

At last night's meeting he continued his allegations and demanded a city ordinance be drawn up and prosecution begun against Pontiac Motor Division and others accused of air pollution in the city. He cited an ordinance used in Trenton and submitted copies of it to the commission.

A statement from the plant last week indicated work was proceeding on schedule in replacing the six coke ovens with electric, nonpolluting units. One was built and another started, it was reported.

Sometime next year the second one would be completed, thus allowing the phasing out of one old unit. Since five operate at one time, this would mean a 20 per cent reduction in smoke from the plant sometime next year. GM spokesmen did not give deadlines on total completion, but denied the target date was 1979 as Parker claimed.

At last week's meeting it was pointed out the State Legislature had created an Air Pollution Commission with power to enforce standards statewide. Fighting air pollution also needs expert handling, officials pointed out.

Sherwin Birnkrant, city attorney, observed "We could enact a thousand ordinances and it wouldn't bring any immediate relief without the staff to carry out enforcement."

Parker said Trenton had done it "and we can do it, but we have been passing the buck."

A meeting between the committee, city and Pontiac Motor officials on the subject is to be arranged, it was indicated.

Press Given Two Awards

The Pontiac Press has received two major awards from the International Newspaper Promotion Association.

In the classification of newspapers under 100,000 circulation, The Press won a first-place plaque and a second-place award.

★ ★ ★

The first-place award, chosen from 213 entries, was for in-paper promotional ads on the theme "people who read The Pontiac Press every evening have more to talk about the next day."

The second-place award was for ads honoring all-A students in local schools, and ads about a preelection page of candidate background information.

★ ★ ★

The awards were accepted by Bernard M. Salvatore, assistant advertising director in charge of promotion. Also winning awards were the Birmingham Eccentric and the Detroit News.

September Song for This Year Could Well Be a Drought Dirge

"How Dry We Are" might well have been the September song this year. A serious drought plagued Oakland County farmers and gardeners. Last September 3.05 inches of rain dampened the fields and flower beds as compared to last month's .65 inch.

Sunshine, though welcomed by housewives doing their autumn cleaning and outdoor-happy youngsters, toasted lawns an even deeper brown on 26 days during the month.

Rain clouds darkened the skies only two days with the remainder only partly cloudy. In September 1968, there also were 26 days of sunshine.

The high temperature reading last month fell on the eighth, a sizzling 90 degrees. The low, 42 degrees, was recorded Sept. 29. No threat of frost hindered late harvests.

Mean temperature for the past month was 64.9 degrees. September 1968 had a high of 86 degrees, a low of 45 degrees and a mean of 65.83.

NATIONAL WEATHER — Rain is predicted for tonight in the Southeast, the Pacific Northwest, the northern Rocky Mountain region and the Great Lakes vicinity. It will be warmer in the Midwest and cooler in the central Rockies.

Milliken Unveils Broad School Reform

His commission recommended that the State Legislature pay half of the salaries of lay teachers of secular subjects in the next two years in private and parochial schools.

★ ★ ★

Another proposed consitutional amendment also would abolish the eight-member state board of education, now elected by partisan ballot. In its place, Milliken's commission has proposed a state director of education, appointed by the governor and confirmed by the senate.

Milliken proposed a three-year timetable to reform the school systems. He called for votes on the constitutional amendments next August.

'DRASTIC ACTION'

Peter Oppewall, Democratic president of the board which Michigan proposes to abolish, termed the action "drastic and radical surgery, without precedent in the United States."

The superintendent of the state's public schools, appointed by the present eight-member State Board of Education, would be thrown out under the proposals.

★ ★ ★

Milliken's action, Oppewall said, would mean "he's reaching for authority to coordinate higher education as well."

The Michigan state board has little control over boards of the state's three principal universities. Oppewall said.

DETAILS LATER

Details of Milliken's reforms are to be spelled out in an address to the Legislature sometime after it returns Monday from a two-month absence.

Milliken is recommending that two per cent of the total public schools budget be earmarked for parochial and private schools. This year's budget is $848.6 million, but would soar to $1.04 billion next year under Milliken's plan.

Milliken recommended that the present system of intermediate school districts be abolished and replaced by 10 to 15 education regions, whose boundaries would be set by a special commission and subject to approval of the Legislature.

Among other things, the districts would be responsible for special education, technical education, transportation, data processing, central business services, curriculum consulting and budget review of local districts.

SAME LOCAL DISTRICTS

Milliken said local districts would remain basically the same, and the "control of the schools should remain as close to the people as possible."

Milliken is expected to seek an increase in the state's present 2.6 per cent state personal income tax. Increases in the 5.6 per cent state corporation tax and the 4 per cent state sales tax also have been considered but apparently rejected.

Milliken's proposal to eliminate the State Board of Education, it was understood, would require revising constitutional authority over the boards of the University of Michigan, Michigan State and Wayne State in Detroit.

The State Education Department director also would appoint regional directors, and sizes of regions would be set by a special apportionment commission subject to legislative review. No legislative change in the district boundaries would be permitted under proposed bills.

★ ★ ★

While the statewide property tax could mean higher property taxes in some areas, executive department experts say more than 75 per cent of the state's students go to schools in areas where taxes are expected to be less.

★ ★ ★

As the plan now is envisioned, it would offer a total property tax saving of $320 million based on an estimated 1971 total valuation of $40 billion.

School-Reform Plan Termed 'Very Radical'

LANSING (AP) — Sweeping changes proposed by Gov. William Milliken's Commission on Education Reform have been called "drastic surgery, without precedent anywhere in the United States."

State Board of Education President Peter Oppewall, whose position would be eliminated by the reforms, has called the proposals "very radical."

★ ★ ★

"We are not descending from the mountaintop with a tablet of commandments," Gov. William G. Milliken said recently of the proposals being developed by his Commission on Education Reform.

Legislators and educators Tuesday appeared to adopt that view as their first judgement of the commission's final report.

PAROCHIAID PROPOSAL

The commvssion proposed a token, $25-million parochiaid allocation, eventual state supervision of private and parochial schools, substitution of a statewide property tax for most local property millages and two constitutional amendments.

One would eliminate the State Board of Education and superintendency of public instruction, replacing them with a department director serving at the pleasure of the governor.

★ ★ ★

The other amendment would lower constitutional ceilings on local millages as a balance for the proposed new state property tax.

Both proposals would be submitted to voter approval at next August's primary election if approved by the Legislature.

NO INCOME TAX HIKE?

The commission report and Milliken's own public television address left unclear whether his legislative proposals would call for an increase in the state's 2.6 per cent income tax. Executive office staff members denied it would be recommended.

Disclosure of the commission report, apparently against Milliken's wishes, left some legislators and officials unprepared and uninformed.

Rep. Robert Waldron, GOP minority leader in the House, said he'd planned to hold a Thursday news conference, following general broadcast tonight of Milliken's address. Some television stations aired the speech Tuesday night.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Ira Polley, state superintendent of public instruction, whose job would be scrapped under Milliken's proposals, also declined to comment.

CONCENTRATION OF POWER?

Abolition of the state board, also proposed as part of a constitutional change, "seems to concentrate way to much power in one individual," Oppewall said, and "would remove that last link with the people."

Oppewall questioned whether Milliken's proposal could legally nullify elective positions of board members, some of whose terms run through 1977.

Sen. Anthony Stamm, R-Kalamazoo, also could not be reached. Stamm earlier said the property tax, a key feature of Milliken's plan, must be eliminated.

"True reform must eliminate the property tax as the basis of local contribution to education," Stamm said, adding he believed "Michigan's entire educational system could be financed exclusively through the collections from income taxes."

NUMEROUS SHORTCOMINGS

Democrats, meanwhile, found numerous shortcomings in the proposals.

Sen. Sander Levin, D-Berkley, termed the report's financial recommendations "cloudy."

★ ★ ★

"It takes more guts to add a tax than it does to take it off," the Senate minority leader said. "This report is not very gutsy in the area of taxes.

★ ★ ★

"What would be the precise type of property tax relief? What would be the other kind of tax system combined with it? I was hoping the commission would come up with some answers," Levin said, "But I don't see many."

House Speaker William Ryan precicted the State Legislature this year will appprove some form of aid to parochial and private schools, but vowed to try to change the parochiad formula recommended by the commission.

COMPLETELY UNACCEPTABLE

The executive secretary of the Michigan Education Association, Terry Herndon, and MEA President Douglas Ward said in a joint statement, "The diversion of public funds for private purposes is completely unacceptable."

Mrs. Harriett Phillips, chairman of the Citizen's to Advance Public Education, said, "We just can't accept what we call illegal diversion of public monies."

★ ★ ★

Norman Drachler, superintendent of Detroit public schools, said Milliken did not say how much the statewide property tax should be.

He said it would have to go down considerably to help Detroit.

★ ★ ★

Drachler also said no mention was made for capital expenditures for new buildings.

The Detroit superintendent also said Milliken did not mention what would happen to districts in debt. Detroit has a carry-over deficit of more than $20 million.

Teachers' Demands Backed at Rally

Clarkston Parents Want Schools Open

By NED ADAMSON

CLARKSTON—The board of education in this strikebound school district found itself in a somewhat unpopular position last night, following a confrontation before parents.

Nearly 1,000 persons attended a rally in the high school gymnasium last night to hear the school board's position regarding the stalemated teacher contract negotiations.

★ ★ ★

The general opinion reflected indicated that parents want their children back in school, regardless of the cost of the teachers' demands.

Most parents also appeared to be more in support of the Clarkston Education Association (CEA) the teachers' bargaining agent, than the board.

SALARY PACKAGE

The board maintains the salary package requested by CEA, based on a fact-finder's recommendation, would represent expenditures of $300,000 over its income, or a school operation tax increase of 25 per cent.

Acceptance of the fact-finder's recommendation would necessitate a millage increase of 5.84 mills for taxpayers or $117 annually based on a $20,000 house, one audience spokesman noted.

Several residents accused the board of manipulating figures "in order to make their case look good." Charles Barrie, assistant superintendent and one of the board's negotiators, answered a questioner's remark: "Are you implying that the fact-finder is a liar," by replying, "Yes, I would say so."

Dr. L. F. Greene, superintendent of schools, whose $32,000 annual salary was a sore point to many audience members, later retracted Barrie's statement.

CONTRADICTION

The CEA believes the difference between the school board's offer and the fact-finder's salary recommendations approximates $37,000 which would not create deficit financing as the board contends.

In a prepared statement following last night's meeting, CEA President Thomas Brown, said his organization is proposing an immediate resumption of contract talks without conditions to reach agreement and reopen the schools.

★ ★ ★

"We have done everything possible to meet the board of education halfway including reluctantly compromising on the fact-finder's recommendations in order to reach a settlement and avoid a strike," Brown said.

Floyd Vincent, assistant superintendent of schools, said the board and administration representatives will sit down and discuss the CEA proposal today.

NO ANSWER

"The board made it clear last night that it is willing to resume negotiations. Right now I cannot give you an answer to when and how we will react to the CEA's statement," Vincent declared.

A CEA spokesman said his group was compromised against by the fact-finder on 70 per cent of the issues. "As a matter of professional dignity we cannot concede everything," he said.

★ ★ ★

Some of the CEA's concessions included relief time duty in elementary schools, class size limitations, relief of nonprofessional duties such as collecting lunch money and severance pay.

The current obstacles to settlement include CEA demands for personal business leave days and board acceptance of the fact-finder salary recommendations which lists a range of $7,375 for a BA minimum to a master's maximum of $12,625.

INCREMENT

The fact-finder's salary recommendation also includes a longevity clause calling for a three per cent increment for each five years beyond the top step.

School board negotiators contend the economic impact of the personal days request would approach $13,000 in payment to substitutes if all teachers in the system took the full leave time.

★ ★ ★

The board also maintains that its current policy regarding leave time that includes provisions for personal illness, funerals, jury duty, hospital visitations, court appearances, legal and moral obligations, adequately covers any situation that might necessitate leave time during the year.

Parent: 'Are You Implying That The Fact-Finder Is A Liar?' Assistant Supt. Charles Barrie: 'Yes, I Would Say So.'

Meetings Slated on Consolidation Plan

FARMINGTON — Meetings to debate the proposed consolidation of the Farmington area begin this week in the four municipalities affected. Voters go to the polls Nov. 4.

The schedule is tomorrow in Sarah Fisher Home for Wood Creek Farms Village residents; Oct. 8 in East Junior High for Farmington Township residents; Oct. 13 in First Presbyterian Church for Quakertown Village residents; Oct. 15 in Farmington Junior High for city residents; and Oct. 22 in Dunckel Junior High again for township residents.

★ ★ ★

Speakers for and against consolidation will be solicited from the municipality where the meeting is being held.

Each side will be given 10 minutes to speak, followed by a five minute rebuttal by each in reverse order. A question-answer and discussion period will follow.

MODERATORS

The meetings will be moderated by members of the Joint Study Committee which has been meeting to discuss the question of consolidation.

According to state law, each of the four municipalities must pass the consolidation request by a majority vote in order for the motion to pass.

★ ★ ★

Approval in November merely would mean that charter commissioners, also elected on that ballot, may prepare a charter which must then be approved by the votrs before the actual consolidation takes place.

The nine commissioners, to be elected from a field of 28 on the ballot, will be divided among the municipalities according to the equal proportions formula; Farmington Township will elect five; Farmington City will elect two, and each village will elect one.

TROY — The Troy Public Library is to begin its Wednesday story-hour program hour today. Preschoolers 3-5 years old are invited to hear stories read by volunteer readers.

Two sessions will enable more children to participate in the program. The first session will last from 10:15-10:40 a.m. and the second session will follow from 10:45-11:10 a.m.

Disciplining Set in Birmingham School Walkout

BIRMINGHAM — A joint committee of school officials, administrators and board of education members moved yesterday to discipline students at Groves and Seaholm high schools, who walked out of classes here last week.

The estimated 350 students, most of whom were from Groves, left classes to march two miles to the school district's downtown administration building.

They will be suspended from classes for one day.

★ ★ ★

The decision to punish the students who demonstrated ostensibly in support of teachers who are working without a contract, but primarily to open communication channels to air student grievances, came as a surprise to many observers.

School officials had earlier termed the student example of self-direction and independence a healthy situation. There was also little indication that disciplinary action would be forthcoming at that time.

'COMPLIES WITH POLICY'

A school board spokesman said the action complied with a standard school district policy regarding class "skips." "The students' action constituted a skip and standard school procedure concerning such situations will be taken," the spokesman said.

Walled Lake Eyed for HUD Program

LANSING (AP) — Walled Lake is one of 20 Michigan sites being recommended for U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) assistance for low-cost, mass-produced housing.

★ ★ ★

The aid is being sought under HUD's "Operation Breakthrough" program. HUD is budgeting $20 million for construction in Michigan. It would lease the units, selling them later at their assessed valuation.

Gov. William Milliken said other sites are in Alma, Alpena, Battle Creek, Detroit, Flint, Grand Rapids, Kalamazoo, Monroe, Muskegon Heights, Port Huron, Saginaw and Sterling Heights.

He reported HUD officials estimated the contract awards will be made by late November.

160 NATIONWIDE

The Michigan site applications are among 160 nationwide.

"Michigan faces a serious housing shortage," Milliken said. "At the present rate, we are building nearly 40,000 fewer living units per year than are necessary to keep pace with the growing population.

★ ★ ★

"The active concern of our mayors and city managers about this crucial need has helped create our statewide breakthrough program," the governor said.

Milliken said Michigan organizations submitted more proposals than any other state in the eight-state north central region. These covered a wide selection of inner-city, rural and suburban types of building, he said.

Township Truck Driver Gets Honor

OAKLAND TOWNSHIP—The National Automobile Transporters Association has given B. T. (Bud) Tompkins of 5040 Orion, Oakland Township, its distinguished driver of the year award.

Tompkins received the highway safety award at a recent special luncheon of the association.

★ ★ ★

He began driving trucks in 1937 and since has driven more than 1.75 million miles — the equivalent of 70 times around the earth — without having a preventable accident. Tompkins has never received a traffic violation ticket in Michigan.

New Horizon Worker Packages Electronic Parts

. . . James Nothoff Stops To Give Directions To A Pretty Girl, Both Physically And Mentally Handicapped, Attempting To Retype A Simple List. In A Soft-Spoken Tone, He Repeats His Directions For The Third Time When She Finally Smiles Happily And Says That She Will Try . . .

By LOIS FRIEDLAND

FARMINGTON TOWNSHIP — White wood walls of an old converted barn deaden the noise of active hammers and clinking metal.

These are the sounds of New Horizons workers packaging products, building crates and bending wires — their daily jobs.

A normal small-factory atmosphere?

Walk through the open barn doors and people stare with wide-eyed gazes. Slurred voices record your presence — if noted at all — as you walk to the director's office located in the old tack room.

James Nothoff, director of the Farmington Township branch of New Horizons, explains that here moderately mentally or physically handicapped individuals are taught to handle certain routine jobs contracted from businesses.

Once trained, the handicapped workers are placed in jobs as janitors, aides and filing clerks to free more trained personnel for other jobs.

SLIGHTLY MODISH

The mustachioed Nothoff, who dresses with a slightly modish air, explains that New Horizons emphasizes the "behavior approach."

He calls his workers "clients" and considers their training therapeutic and educational but never as straight schooling.

★ ★ ★

"Our ultimate goal is to make them (the handicapped) self-supporting. We try to get them taking home a paycheck and earning their own keep. Sometimes this is their first success," he commented.

Arriving at a self-supporting job begins with much evaluation of ability. All workers hired at New Horizons are first tested and examined. Those found to have capabilities above — or below — the scope of the program are placed in more appropriate agencies.

ON-THE-JOB TRAINING

Once accepted, the client has on-the-job training at the Farmington Township building or the main center in Madison Heights.

Their work, which has been let to New Horizons on a bid basis includes simpler jobs such as mailing, collating, counting and boxing parts.

Most of the equipment used in such operations has been donated by area businesses.

"What may be obsolete to a businessman could still be used by New Horizons," said Northoff.

Walking through the workroom, Nothoff stops to give directions to a pretty girl, both physically and mentally handicapped, attempting to retype a simple list.

★ ★ ★

In a soft-spoken tone, he repeats his directions for the third time when she finally smiles happily and says that she will try.

"I find it difficult to do the training rather than sitting down and doing it myself. It's like thinking of 47 different ways of saying it until you hit on the right combination of words to make the worker understand," he said.

'COMMON SENSE'

"It's a common sense approach. You also try to make each failure a learning experience," Nothoff theororized.

Nothoff transmits his belief that each worker is important to himself and his society. Passing through the workroom, he'll ask questions, to draw out the workers' personalities. He treats his "clients" as friends in order to encourage them to think, make decisions and find their own level of creativity.

The employes have a 30 hour workweek. At the end of each day, they line up carrying their lunch boxes and punch out on the time clock.

Once a client has been sufficiently trained to handle a job out side of New Horizons' sheltered atmosphere, they are placed in regular businesses.

HANDLE JOBS BETTER

Many businesses are now discovering that well-trained, moderately retarded or handicapped persons can handle certain jobs better than normal adults.

The retarded or handicapped person's approach to life in general and to their jobs in particular is "uncomplicated." This attitude makes them happy doing simple repetitive work that many adults would soon try to avoid or "sluff off."

One manufacturer of electronics parts found that hiring mentally retarded assemblers actually reduced job turnover.

He explained, "In my place, I've got a lot of work that's repetitive."

★ ★ ★

Reassigning these jobs to New Horizons trained workers could leave more trained men open for more productive or more demanding work, Nothoff contends.

Input's a Good Word ---It Tells It Like It Is

By ED BLUNDEN

Beware, another piece of contagious slang is on the way.

We've all heard "sock it to 'em," "do your thing," "finalize," "bag," "gap," etc. until we're right up our tree.

Creeping into the jargon is "input."

BLUNDEN

I first heard it used about a month ago at a City Commission meeting. It was a stormy session with a lot of citizen participation (griping). Near the conclusion, a speaker said "These people have all given you their inputs."

It was a swell word. It covered the feeling, opinions and suggestions put forth, but added dimension.

LAYING ON THE LINE

Of course, I had been impressed the first time I heard someone say "tell it like it is." This told me the speaker was about to be utterly sincere and reveal heretofore undisclosed material.

But, use of the term soon became distorted. The usage had the most extravagant variation when one speaker said, "I'm not telling it like it is, I'm telling it like it's going to be, because it sure isn't that way now."

Catchy words and phrases in our media-oriented society quickly suffer overuse and exploitation. Thus we hear, "This is really good beer . . . and I'm telling it like it is."

The use of the word "input" at present centers around office forces. Thus after any type of briefing, hearing or staff meeting, members emerge with "valuable inputs."

GIVE ED A CHANCE

It's an absolute must that you work "inputs" into your conversation. It can be substituted for any exchange of information or opinion whatsoever . . . "Thanks for those inputs, boss, I won't do it again . . . we value your inputs, Ralph, but let somebody else talk . . ."

In fact, if you've read this far, you've gotten "valuable inputs" from this article.

This useful word will no doubt degenerate in usage, too. Soon we'll hear, "This is great beer because it has valuable inputs."

Sorry about that, but you better believe it.

7 Freed Green Berets Heading for Homes

TRAVIS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — Seven Green Berets, against whom charges of murdering an alleged Vietnamese double agent have been dropped, returned to the United States today and headed for their homes.

Col. Robert B. Rheault, 43, former commander of the Green Berets in Vietnam and the top-ranking among the men, said he hoped the incident "would be forgotten . . . "so long as people remember that we were exonerated."

* * *

An Army spokesman said they were released upon arrival for 30 days' leave.

Rheault said he, the five other officers and two enlisted men did not know Thai Khac Chuyen, their alleged victim. He insisted there was no evidence that the man had been killed.

'SECURITY REASONS'

Army Secretary Stanley R. Resor announced Monday the charges against all eight had been dropped after the Central Intelligence Agency, for security reasons, declined to let its agents testify. He said the CIA action precluded a fair trial.

* * *

With Rheault of Vineyard Haven, Mass., were Capt. Robert F. Marasco, 27, Bloomfield, N.J.; Maj. Thomas C. Middleton Jr., 29, Jefferson, S.C.; Maj. David Crew, 33, Cedar Rapids, Iowa; Capt. Leland J. Brumley, 27, Duncan, Okla.; Capt. Budge E. Williams, 27, Athens, Ga.; and CWO2 Edward M. Boyle, 26, of New York.

* * *

All had been charged with murder and conspiracy. Charges were held in abeyance for Boyle and Sgt. 1.C. Alvin L. Smith Jr., 41, of Naples, Fla.

Smith was aboard a separate flight to the United States, after his departure from Vietnam was delayed in processing.

Teacher Talks Bluntly

Man bit dog the other day. Or more accurately, a teacher lectured students on how they should conduct themselves academically—which is something of a switch.

"The task of students is to learn and to be instructed, not to decide what courses will be taught and who will teach them, and not to invest the university's money," says philosopher ERNEST VAN DEN HAAG of New York University, addressing a freshman convocation at DePauw University in Indiana.

★ ★ ★

Other blunt advice offered by van den Haag:

- "Students are not in a position to know what they should be taught; if they do know what they should be taught, then they have what they came for and they should leave the university."
- "The proper task of a university is teaching you to reflect, to analyze and see what actions and alternatives are available and should be taken. The place is not committed to action, but to prepare you to make future commitments."
- "The way to learn about poverty is not to be indignant but to study economics. If you are interested in preventing war, it doesn't mean a thing to 'make love, not war,' but it does mean something to learn how to prevent war by studying political science and history."

★ ★ ★

Perhaps the bluntest statement of all is VAN DEN HAAG's contention that the reason higher education is irrelevant to so many college students today is because "so many students themselves are irrelevant to college."

★ ★ ★

Americans are in the midst of an "educational escalation," he says. They erroneously believe that you can do anything better if you have more and more academic preparation. Hence the new wave of college students, half of whom shouldn't be in college.

VAN DEN HAAG says he favors a law that not only outlaws discrimination on the basis of sex, race and religion, but also on the amount of one's education.

"Discrimination on the basis of educational degree should be prohibited unless it can be shown it is relevant to the work to be done."

★ ★ ★

Interestingly enough, the professor was not jeered but was, in fact, enthusiastically applauded by his student listeners.

Self-Protection Laws Fought

Like most states, Illinois has witnessed a motorcycle population explosion, the number of registrations having doubled in Illinois from 50,000 to 100,000 since 1965.

And like most states, Illinois had a law requiring motorcyclists to wear crash helmets.

★ ★ ★

It had a law until motorcyclists successfully challenged it. The law has now been declared unconstitutional on the grounds that an individual cannot be forced to protect himself. (Michigan has enacted a new motorcycle-helmet law after a previous one was held unconstitutional.)

★ ★ ★

The ruling could open up a rather interesting legal Pandora's box, especially if it is repealed in other states or is applied to automobile drivers as well.

For instance, it could call into question the practice of some judges of suspending portions of fines or sentences of traffic violators who were wearing seat belts or, conversely, being a little harder on those who were not wearing their belts.

★ ★ ★

What about cases where contributory negligence has been alleged against persons who were injured in accidents because they did not have their seat or shoulder belts fastened?

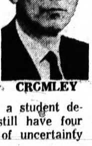
★ ★ ★

The whole issue revolves around the question of where one's safety ends and the rights of others begin.

It may not be constitutional to force a motorcyclist to protect himself. But it would seem that a second party who may be in an accident involving one so heedless deserves some protection from undue consequences regardless of who caused it.

Nixon Draft Plan Is Full of Loopholes

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA Washington Correspondent



CROMLEY

WASHINGTON — If Congress fails to amend the Selective Service law this session and President Nixon goes ahead with the new way of drafting young men he now proposes, he will be jumping from the frying pan into the fire.

A college freshman with a student deferment will still have four to five years of uncertainty ahead of him.

He won't know whether or not he is going to be selected for service until he graduates from college and spends his required year in the prime draft-age group.

★ ★ ★

A low draft call, or no draft call at all in a month in which the son of some high administration official has a high priority for call would make the whole draft system suspect, even though no wrongdoing was intended.

Critics would be certain the call was cut that particular month so that this particular young man would "escape."

CONFUSING SYSTEM

The "moving age group system" which Secretary of Defense Laird favors would have Selective Service local boards in such confusion that there would be myriad mistakes.

Each month the priorities would change. Through the Selective Service System this would require a huge quantity of extra paper work which would of necessity have to be done at high speed.

★ ★ ★

If a board acted slowly in reclassifying a young man whose deferment had just ended, for example, his drafting might be delayed for a year, a year later than a young man in another area whose board acted more quickly in his reclassification.

The date on which a board met, for example, could heavily influence when a young man would be drafted or conceivably, through a change in draft calls, whether he would be drafted at all.

ACCUSATIONS OF BIAS

This could lead to a board being accused of bias or corruption.

★ ★ ★

It would seem from analysis that the moving age group plan would provide so many loopholes for evasion, however much these loopholes were restricted by careful legal language, that there would be constant recrimination.

Clever lawyers would be busy advising their clients on evasion.

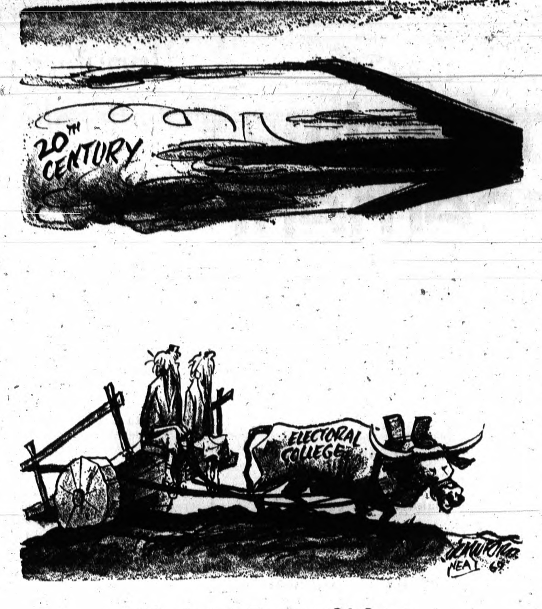
For example: A man, finding that he would be finishing school at a time, when because of his birthday and month, he would be near the top of the first priority induction group or near the top, could find ways to delay graduating for a month or two, in order to get classified as eligible at a time when his name would be at or near the bottom of the induction list, thus lowering his chances of being inducted.

JOB SHIFT MANEUVER

Or a man, deferred as a key worker but due to be shifted to a job in which he was not eligible for deferment, might get his company to hurry or delay the change to lessen his chances of being inducted.

The "moving age group system" further is technically so complicated to explain that neither young people nor their parents will be able to understand what is happening.

Lack of understanding inevitably leads to suspicion. In such a climate rumors and accusations will flourish even when no unfairness exists.



'It's Just A Figment Of Some Cartoonist's Imagination!'

David Lawrence Says:

Apathy to Strife in U.S. Puzzling

LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Many writers are trying to describe the mood of America today, but it is difficult to put in words the people's state of mind growing out of a variety of problems.

Thus, the protests against the violations of law and order are not always related to demonstrations against the Vietnam war or to racial troubles.

Racial friction, to be sure, is increasing rather than diminishing.

What is puzzling at the moment perhaps is the alleged apathy or indifference of many people to what is occurring.

The truth is there is no clear understanding of where responsibility for maintenance of law and order begins or ends.

IN LAST FEW DAYS

Within the last few days police and National Guardsmen were required to prevent further trouble when the Wisconsin legislature convened in special session.

Earlier in the week a Roman Catholic priest who is a civil rights activist had led 1,000 demonstrators who broke down the doors of the assembly chamber and occupied the room for 10 hours. But the significant words in the news dispatch were: "No arrests were made."

★ ★ ★

The public wonders whether state and city authorities are afraid of the demonstrators.

Certainly any such invasion of a state capitol constitutes an offense which is punishable.

WRATH AROUSED

The wrath of the members of the Wisconsin Legislature was aroused, and there were demands for the punishment of the participants.

The feeling throughout the country is that, unless severe measures are taken to deal with demonstrators who produce disorder, the disturbances will rise in number and intensity.

One of the most flagrant examples of indifference to law is the recent episode in which civil rights leaders, mostly Negroes, have demanded large sums of money in "reparations" from churches.

There is, to be sure, discontent about the war in Vietnam.

NATURAL DESIRE

While there is a natural desire for the war to be ended as early as possible, the risks in such a course are not readily understood.

There are plenty of grievances on the part of the electorate in every administration. Today the high cost of living, as inflation continues, is affecting households everywhere.

All these subjects may account for the different protest movements and worries as government — federal, state and local — is confronted with cumulative responsibilities to maintain order at home.

Bob Considine Says:

Nixon-Press Harmony Appears to Be Ending

CONSIDINE

NEW YORK—Last Friday's White House news conference, the first in three months, gave hints of an early ending to the honeymoon that has existed between President Nixon and the Washington press-TV-radio - newsweekly corps. The questions were much sharper; the mood much more barbed. The President, like most of his predecessors, didn't have a very good time.

It isn't easy to give positive, sure-shot answers in front of the cold red eye of the TV cameras, when a slip of the tongue or an error of judgment might produce extraordinary reactions — ranging all the way from a dip in the stock market to a rush on the banks to a thermonuclear war. One might pine for a less volatile way of having a President report to the nation.

★ ★ ★

But if a President was allowed the luxury of saying only what he wished to impart to the constituency, with no chance of pertinent inquiry and what amounts to cross-examination, we'd wind up in a heluva fix.

A mighty majority of our bygone chief executives would have nothing whatever to do with the press. When President Theodore Roosevelt invited a small group of Washington reporters to come into the White House and get out of the rain it was considered almost as audacious as his dinner invitation to George Washington Carver.

ALOOF OF REPORTERS

Woodrow Wilson was loftily aloof of reporters. Warren Harding knew only a handful of them, chief among them George Rothwell Brown, Steve Early and George Holmes. Calvin Coolidge didn't know anybody.

★ ★ ★

Herbert Hoover released his messages through a spook named "the White House spokesman." FDR enjoyed his jousts with an increasing band of White House correspondents he used to invite into his office. If one asked a question he considered too tough, FDR would tell him to go to a corner (in the oval office) and stand in it — for punishment. Much laughter ensued, and, of course, the question never got answered.

Harry Truman battled the press when he thought it needed it. Ike Eisenhower, who was at first astounded that any reporter should ask him a pointed question, did much to establish the White House news conference as it now is recognized.

Jack Kennedy got a great kick out of the give and take, and was the most articulate of them all. LBJ could charm or overwhelm individual members of the news media, in his office, but stiffened up when confronted by reporters in numbers.

President Nixon was remarkably self-assured and open-handed in his first brushes with the press on national TV. But something's now happening.

Recent School Incidents Discussed by Readers

Our son is in good health and although he suffered a bad cut, X rays showed no permanent damage. We thank God for that. Contrary to the article in The Press, he was not involved in a fight but was attacked without warning or provocation. He did not recognize his attackers and we do not believe they knew him. He just happened to be the one in their path of destruction.

We do not harbor resentment against black students at Northern High School and plead with other students and parents at both Northern and Central to go back to school without fear and distrust, but with the determination that no few people shall cause your place of learning to become a place of turmoil. God expects us to help ourselves by refusing to carry rumors or listen to gossip; by obeying school rules, our teachers and administrators.

★ ★ ★

It is true our young people are growing up in a world of unrest, but it is also true that there has never been a generation of students with more opportunity for an education. There is no reason why all black and white students cannot be friends if each will do his best to treat the other with the same kindness and courtesy with which he would like to be treated.

MRS. HOWARD R. DOW

In regards to the happening at Pontiac Northern on September 25, I would like to know when the white people in Pontiac are going to stand up for their rights. I feel we are discriminated against every day. Why didn't teachers contact the parents, because some of the teachers knew about this before it took place? Why are outsiders allowed to enter school with hammers and such in their possession? Why aren't these people hauled off for loitering? The public should be told what is going to happen to those who injured the white students. How can the schools allow our flag to be discriminated against at their assemblies while our boys are dying for that same flag?

'Commend Support Given Social Security'

I recently wrote to Congressman Jack McDonald regarding Social Security benefits. These payments are different from ADC, welfare and other programs we hear so much about. Many retirees have paid into this fund, along with employer contributions, since its inception in 1937. Those dollars paid in were mostly hard-earned ones, not the inflationary dollars of today. I received a reply from Congressman McDonald which stated we could expect some favorable action in the near future in this matter. We need more like McDonald in Washington.

Man's Nest

New York News

We don't often see eye to eye with United Nations Secretary General U Thant. But we are some 98 per cent sympathetic toward a report he released recently. It concerns this little earthly ball that mankind inhabits; man's nest, you might say, which he is fouling at ever-increasing speed.

★ ★ ★

Outstanding among United States articles used and then junked per year, according to the U Thant report are 7 million automobiles, 20 million tons of paper, 48 billion cans, 26 billion bottles and jars, 3 billion tons of waste rock and mill tailings ... We pollute our air with some 142 million tons a year of smoke and unhealthy fumes, and our industrial plants dump about 50 trillion gallons of hot water into ponds, lakes, streams and rivers and thereby kill or injure numerous fish.

It is estimated that about 1.2 billion acres of once cultivable land have been made barren by erosion or salt water inroads which could have been prevented.

★ ★ ★

Humans down the ages have managed to rub out entirely 150 types of birds and animals. About 1,000 types of wild animals are regarded as being in danger of becoming extinct because people either hunt them down unmercifully or neglect to protect them with sensible legislation and set aside adequate wildlife reservations.

Another statistic: By the year 2,000 the earth's population is expected to number 7 billion, or twice what it is now. The globe, however, is expected to remain the same size.

The food, shelter, fuel, and energy problems which this anticipated development will bring are easy to imagine, but will scarcely be easy to solve.

★ ★ ★

Here is where the United Nations comes in, with a plan which obviously is a U.N. natural.

The general assembly has called for a gathering of experts from all countries, in what is to be known as the United Nations Conference on the Human Environment, to convene in Stockholm, Sweden, sometime in 1972.

This conference will take up all the problems and dangers spotlighted above, and many more, discuss them at length, and make recommendations as to how man can reverse the age-old practice of fouling his own earthly nest.

Cost of the conference is estimated at about 1.9 million dollars. It is hard to imagine a better way to spend that amount of money; and we hope the United States government and its citizens will give the Stockholm meeting every possible encouragement and cooperation.

Revised Drain Proposal Is Approved

A revised proposal for the $2.2-million Levinson Drain to serve Pontiac's southeast area plus two neighboring townships was approved by the City Commission last night.

The drain would serve the South Boulevard-Opdyke area in the city and portions of Pontiac Township to the east and Bloomfield Township to the south.

Joseph E. Neipling, director of public works, reported a reapplication for the project was necessary because officials of Pontiac Township have never signed the original petition. If two communities approve a drain project, the third community involved is obliged to go along, according to state law, Neipling said.

The reason Pontiac Township officials have not signed the petition was unknown to Neipling, he said. However, none of them had voiced open opposition to the project.

COST TO BE SPREAD

According to state law, the County Drain Commissioner will spread the cost according to the benefit to each community even if one government has not signed the petition request, he said.

The state attorney general's office had requested a reapproval of the project after noting the lack of signatures. Engineering work is completed and the project near construction, Neipling reported.

In other business the commission sent a resolution to the State Public Service Commission objecting to the closing of a street for the Grand Trunk Railroad. The West Boulevard crossing was closed last summer after a fatal traffic accident.

The railroad is seeking permanent closing of the street and plans to install a humping (train assembly) operation at that point which will mean almost continual use of the tracks.

FIGHTING MOVE

The city has been fighting the proposed move for months seeking cooperation from the state and railroad in providing the city with a crossing of the railroad somewhere in the vicinity to help with the east-west traffic flow. A meeting of the commission, railroad and state officials has been asked, but thus far never arranged.

In other business the commission:

- Again delayed approval of a beer and wine takeout license for Perry Drugs at Baldwin and Ypsilanti. The approval was delayed one week to allow nearby residents to again speak to the commission. The license was delayed for 90 days after protests by a neighborhood committee and District 4 Commissioner F. Jack Douglas. Douglas reiterated his opposition last night.
- Heard proposals for two municipal parking lots on West Huron. Public hearings were set for 8 p.m. Oct. 21 for proposed lots on the north side of Huron between Mark and Dwight and on both blocks bordering Dakota. Cost of the first was placed at $74,000 and at $129,000 at the second with the city to pay about 28 per cent of the total.
- Authorized bids for a pedestrian overpass on Baldwin at New York for schoolchildren. Cost estimate is $40,000. Engineering reports for crossings at Montcalm at Burt and Perry across from Jefferson Junior High School also ordered.
- Set a public hearing for curb and paving in the alley west of Woodward between Nebraska and Earlmoor for Oct. 14. Projected cost is $21,000 with $14,300 to be assessed benefiting property owners.
- Received the assessment roll for a sanitary sewer on the north side of Walton from Stirling to 250 feet west of Arlene and set a hearing for Oct. 14.
- Rezoned the north side of Perry, adjacent to Perry Plaza, from light to heavy commercial to allow a specialty drive-in grocery store.
- Called for bids on a new ladder truck for the fire dept. The cost is estimated at $57,000 and delivery is not expected for two years.

City Affairs

Commission Backs Tax-Free Bond Status

The Pontiac City Commission offered it collective opinion on state and national legislation last night in a resolution concerning the tax-free, municipal bond controversy.

The commission urged the U.S. Congress to drop its consideration of a bill to remove the tax-free status of the bonds and the State Legislature to remove the 6 per cent return ceiling on them.

* * *

The resolution said the issue threatens construction of essential facilities such as sewers, hospitals, schools and water supplies and would place a greater burden on the taxpayers.

District 4 Commissioner F. Jack Douglas voted against the resolution. He said the removal of tax-free status was designed to cut loopholes in the income tax laws.

"Do you realize there are millionaires who do not pay a dime in tax," Douglas said. He also objected to raising the 6 per cent state limit on bond issues saying it just brings more profit to people with money to invest.

District 1 Commissioner T. Warren Fowler defended the method of financing improvements. "If there's no profit, there's no investment and you would have no industries and no labor."

District 2 Commissioner Robert C. Irwin said allowing an increase in the interest rate would encourage investors to leave the corporate investments and go into the bond market.

District 5 Commissioner Robert F. Jackson warned of the "backlog danger." He pointed out since federal legislation was proposed (It passed the House and is in committee in the Senate), bond buyers have held back.

Grafts Saved Her Life

White Skin for Black

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Pauline Price awoke screaming, her nightgown ablaze.

She ran into the yard, a human torch. Neighbors stifled the flames with a blanket, but half her skin was burned away that night of April 24, 1964. A graft offered her only hope for life.

* * *

Mrs. Price is a Negro. When she came out of surgery, almost half her skin was white.

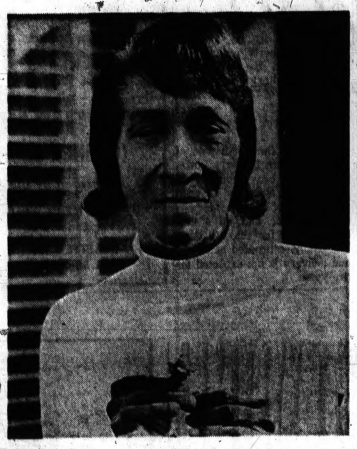
Doctors had covered 40 per cent of her body with the only skin available at the time, from a white male corpse.

FIRST RNA CASE

Mrs. Price was the first human to receive grafts of skin treated with ribonucleic acid (RNA) as a way of combatting the process that makes the body reject foreign tissue.

Dr. Weldon Jolley, Loma Linda University microbiologist who orginated the technique, says he since has used it in seven burn cases and it prolonged life in all but two.

* * *



AP Wirephoto

Mrs. Pauline Price

Surgeons under the direction of Dr. Louis L. Smith of Loma Linda used as much as possible of what remained of Mrs. Price's skin to repair burns that showed, on her neck and arms and legs. But there wasn't enough for the rest of her body.

So 40 per cent of the grafted skin came from a white man who died shortly after she entered the hospital. She now has large patches of white skin on her torso, front and back.

Mrs. Price, 46, a tall, slender domestic worker, says she has lived happily, grateful to be alive. She says she has overcome resentment she felt upon learning white skin had replaced black.

NO ATTENTION PAID

"I was self-conscious about it for a long time," she said in an interview. "I was afraid of what my friends would think. But it turned out they didn't pay any attention at all. Like me, they're just happy I'm alive."

Mrs. Price spent five months in the University of Southern California-County Medical Center, four of them under sedation to ward off pain.

* * *

"When the bandages finally came off and I found that about half of me was white, I'll admit I was worried some," she recalled. "But after they told me I had been dying and that the white skin was all that was available, I learned to live with it. I usually wear long-sleeved turtleneck blouses and sweaters and it's hardly noticeable at all."

* * *

Mrs. Price said racial prejudice was not the cause of her worry. "It was the discoloration," she said, "nobody wants to be two colors."

HEAT UNBEARABLE

The only aftereffect Mrs. Price feels is "I just can't stand heat. I used to work in a laundry but I had to give that up because anything over 80 degrees makes me feel like I want to jump out of my skin. Now I do baby sitting, or take care of elderly folks, whatever I can get."

* * *

Mrs. Price says the fire started after she went to sleep smoking a cigarette. "I still smoke," she says, "but you can bet I don't smoke in bed."

* * *

After five years, Dr. Jolley says he still cannot account for the success of treating burns with skin soaked in a solution of RNA, one of the substances in the nucleus of cells which govern the manufacture of new tissue. It seems to inhibit tissue inflamation.

GENERAL STATEMENT OF THE CONDITION OF THE SCHOOL DISTRICT

The School District of the City of Pontiac provides a comprehensive education program for all pupils. A good level of instructional materials, well-qualified teachers, and adequate physical facilities are provided so that each pupil can receive a good education. All pupils have full-day sessions. Provision is made for special services to those children who are handicapped or who have special educational problems.

Continuous efforts are made to continually improve the educational program for youth. These efforts include in-service education for teachers, modernization of curricula, good educational supplies and equipment, skilled assistance to teachers, and a variety of experimental practices which are designed to provide more efficient learning. The School District makes a special effort to provide high quality teachers in classrooms.

This report is published as required under Act No. 269, Public Acts of 1955.

Efficiency Report Set

A management consultant firm will be invited to appear before the County Board of Supervisors Finance Committee to tell what the firm can do for increased efficiency of county government and what the cost will be.

Finance Committee Chairman George Grba, D-Pontiac, who earlier this year told the committee he'd been promised free service by two consulting firms, reported yesterday that both were now unable to comply.

★ ★ ★

"It's amazing a county of this size can't afford $40,000 to $50,000 which I'm told it (the study) will cost," Grba said. He noted that estimates by County Auditor Chairman Daniel T. Murphy put the figure nearer $120,000.

"Let's put it out for bids and then we can decide," Grba said. His committee agreed.

FORMER STUDY

Delos Hamlin, R-Farmington Township, reported that the last time the county had such a study made was about 25 years ago. A Chicago firm was employed for $10,000, he said.

"The firm made such a lot of recommendations that the board (the then board of supervisors) was sure it was a Communist plot and turned them all down," the former board chairman recalled.

★ ★ ★

"Since then," he said, "every recommendation made has been carried out."

Murphy, who is county administrator, said he'd be in favor of such a study, "if only to learn whether we're overstaffed in the Health Department."

CONSOLIDATION

Hamlin pointed out that a reasonable conclusion of such a study might be the lumping of the drain commission, public works and road commission duties in one office.

He noted state legislation would be required for such action.

In other business the committee accepted the bid of Steve Kruchko Co. Inc. of Waterford Township in the amount of $101,700 for mechanical alterations at the old Board of Education building on the Service Center.

Carl O'Brien, D-Pontiac, who earlier had refused to vote for the bid, reconsidered when county administrators informed him a 150-day limit had been placed on the job. Kruchko had failed to include that information in his bid.

The committee also recommended the infusion of $176,000 into the drain board fund — a fund running low at $20,000 and committed for nearly half a million dollars in preliminary drain construction costs.

School Board Cites Osmun

Monroe M. Osmun, who resigned as a member of the Pontiac Board of Education in June, was honored during an executive dinner meeting of the board last night for his contributions to the school district.

Osmun served for 23 years as a member of the board, seven years of which he was the board's chairman.

★ ★ ★

Schools Supt. Dr. Dana P. Whitmer presented him with two plaques, each expressing appreciation for "giving his time and energy, above and beyond the call of duty, to the maintenance and improvement of education for the young people of Pontiac."

Cambodia Gives Meg a Red-Carpet Welcome

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Two hundred young girls in red silken sarongs knelt and strew rose petals at the feet of Britain's Princess Margaret yesterday as she walked a red carpet into Cambodia.

The princess came to Cambodia with her husband, the Earl of Snowdon, on a private visit but the head of state, Prince Norodom Sihanouk, provided a dazzling welcome of Oriental pageantry at Phnom Penh airport.

★ ★ ★

Thousands of schoolchildren waved Union Jacks and the elephant flag of Cambodia as the princess drove into the Cambodian capital to begin her five-day stay.

The high point of the visit will be a journey to Angkor, where massive 11th and 12th century stone temples were lost for centuies in the green jungles.

Margaret's visit is similar to the pilgrimage to Angkor made by Jacqueline Onassis, widow of President John F. Kennedy, nearly two years ago.

For the British princess' arrival, Sihanouk assembled his Cabinet and the entire diplomatic corps with the exception of the Viet Cong ambassador, who for unexplained reasons did not attend.

★ ★ ★

Both the North Vietnamese and Communist Chinese ambassadores were introduced to the visiting royal couple.

South Vietnam, 60 miles to the east of Phnom Penh, and Laos to the north are involved in wars.

★ ★ ★

As the rose petals spilled at her feet, Margaret was told by Prince Sihanouk that the welcoming girls were part of Cambodia's Buddhist tradition.

New Service May Solve Problem of Moving Family Autos

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — How does a businessman, who perhaps has two or three cars in the family garage, cope with a coast-to-coast move?

Large corporations often are faced with this dilemma when personnel are transferred long distances. The Chesapeake and Ohio - Baltimore and Ohio Railroads think they have the answer with a new service called auto-trans.

★ ★ ★

It is a plan for transporting the family car — or cars — by rail and is based on the premise that most people would prefer to fly when making long-distance moves.

"Auto-trans is an experimental venture but we know the need for the service is here, in today's highly mobile society," said John Moag, marketing executive in charge of the new program.

85,000 ANNUALLY

"Census bureau figures show that an average of 85,000 people move annually between the East and West Coast cities which auto-trans covers."

Moag predicted a wide appeal to large businesses with cross-country chains of plants and offices, whose costs for moving personnel are skyrocketing. He said the service is being offered on a subcontract basis to private moving firms and to individuals as well.

★ ★ ★

"Our new service will substantially reduce these costs for moving employes' automobiles," Moag said. He added that it also would save time for the persons being moved and eliminate the fatigue of driving long distances.

Service will be provided initially by the R&O-C&O on a coast-to-coast basis via St. Louis in cooperation with the Southern Pacific Railroad. Eastern stations will be New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington. Los Angeles and San Francisco will be the West Coast terminals.

★ ★ ★

Moag said service would be extended to other cities "as demand warrants."

Japan exported a record total of 2.1 million tons of mandarin oranges in 1968.

Agnew to Protesters: Give Peace a Chance

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew told young antiwar protesters Tuesday to "Give peace a chance" and that "You do not give peace a chance by running from a responsibility of mankind."

In Grand Rapids to dedicate a new city-county office complex, Agnew was met during his speech by more than 30 youths, who identified themselves as members of the Students for a Democratic Society.

★ ★ ★

Agnew insisted that if this country is to get out of the Vietnam war, it must do so without the type of "simple solution that will bring us to catastrophe in a few years."

He insisted that peace "is what we want. But we cannot have peace until all men are free."

5 ARRESTED

Before his arrival, police said they arrested five persons, including a young woman, after a clash between protesters and law officers.

The protesters indulged in sporadic chanting during Angew's brief remarks.

His remarks about the war came at the conclusion of an eight-minute prepared address which he devoted mostly to a discussion of President Nixon's "new federalism."

He said the President's proposal is a "return of resources and responsibility to the states and cities. It is a pledge of federal cooperation and a call for state and local creativity."

MARCHED TO SITE

The band of protesters gathered in a nearby park and marched to the dedication site. Several other sign-carrying pickets were already among the crowd.

Four counterpickets appeared later, bearing signs praising the vice president as "one of the good guys."

★ ★ ★

Officials said one of those arrested was a young woman who scuffled with several police.

Agnew described the new office complex as one which will "permit the people of Grand Rapids to propose and package their destiny . . . on their terms . . . for their children."

MILLIKEN'S WELCOME

Gov. William Milliken welcomed Agnew to Michigan and insisted that local government "must be kept strong if we are to solve the problems which confront us."

★ ★ ★

House Minority Leader Gerald Ford of Grand Rapids introduced the vice president as representing "the finest in public life" as the vice president appeared flanked by seven Secret Service men.

DOUBLE-RING CEREMONY — Vice president Spiro T. Agnew came to Grand Rapids yesterday, ringed by Secret Service men, to dedicate the new city-county building. Agnew's party was, in turn, ringed by antiwar pickets. Their activities prompted him to depart from his prepared speach and air his war views.

China Celebrates; Thousands Hail Mao

TOKYO (AP) — Communist China's top five leaders stood on the red walls of Peking's Forbidden City today above a half million Chinese shouting: "Long live Chairman Mao!"

Towering over the 20th anniversary celebration of the nation he founded was Communist party Chairman Mao Tse-tung, 75, whose appearance again belied widespread rumors that he was either dying or dead.

★ ★ ★

Mao smiled, waved and shook the hands of dignitaries as thousands of marchers turned the vast square below him into "a sea of red flags," Peking Radio said. Mao did not address the crowd.

The square is part of the walled Forbidden City, once the site of the Imperial Palace and now the nation's seat of government.

AIDES AT SIDE

Standing at Mao's side was his officially designated successor, Defense Minister Lin Piao, who also has been reported critically ill, Premier Chou En-lai and Politburo members Chen Po-ta and Kang Sheng, Peking Radio said.

Chou, Chen and Kang rank just below Mao and Lin in Communist China's hierarchy.

Lin, 62, delivered the keynote address, a nine-minute appeal for unity, loyalty to Mao, and continuing struggle against "American imperialism and (the Soviet Union's) social imperialism."

Quoting from Mao's works, Lin said: "If others don't attack us, we will not attack others. If others attack, we shall counter-attack." He made no mention of the two nuclear tests the Atomic Energy Commission says China detonated in the past week.

AID FOR ARABS

Lin pledged that Communist China will support the "people's struggle throughout the world," including the Arab "struggle against imperialism and neocolonialism." The crowd interrupted his address with frequent applause and cries of "Long live Chairman Mao!" Peking Radio said.

The broadcast said Mao was "in very good health" and moved about during the 2½-hour ceremony, chatting with the leaders standing with him atop the Gate of Heavenly Peace.

★ ★ ★

In a preanniversary speech, Chou said China is making nuclear weapons for defense only and "would never commit aggression against others."

Speaking before 5,000 persons at a reception Tuesday, he said China's goal is a ban on all nuclear weapons, but China must be prepared for any nuclear war or "blackmail" waged by the United States or the Soviet Union.

RUSSO-U. S. FRENZY

He also said the Soviets and the Americans are "engaged in frenzied arms expansion and war preparations."

The oviet Union sent China a message of congratulations, but addressed it to "the chairman of the People's Republic," a post vacant since Liu Shao-chi was dismissed in disgrace in April.

★ ★ ★

The Soviet news agency Tass said the message urged normalization of Chinese-Soviet relations and urged "the solution of disputed (border) questions by peaceful means, through talks and consultations."

Earlier in the day, an editorial in Peking's People's Daily and Red Flag said, "We stand for the settlement of border conflicts between countries by negotiations."

Short on Information

Mrs. Knauer Disappoints Food Editor

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

CHICAGO — With Virginia H. Knauer, special assistant to the President for consumer affairs, billed as one of our principal speakers on Tuesday, we food editors thought we would have the latest authoritative word from Washington. What a let-down. Mrs. Knauer not only failed to spell out her program or give decisive answers to questions, but her attitude was patronizing.

Actually, the only bits of information we gleaned from her talk were that cereal producers are using up their old stocks of paper before converting to the new limited range of package sizes, and she likes Ralph Nader.

Oh, yes, a third item: she believes that the public should have access to the test results on products given to the Army and Navy, but even she can't get a copy of the report.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Knauer was brought to Chicago by the North American Blueberry Council. At their meeting they served blueberry champagne, developed by a winery in New Jersey from a concentrate originated by Paw Paw blueberry growers. It tastes a bit like cold duck. Other new blueberry products are in the testing stage.

New packages were the subject of several meetings. In the near future, you may be able to put a plastic container of fish in the oven. A new plastic container for Armour's hams has been seven years in the making.

At breakfast with the United Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Association we saw a delightful way of using fresh produce and flowers for a centerpiece. The flowers were chrysanthemums. Grouped in pyramid form around the base of the flower container were eggplant, string beans, squash, citrus fruit, radishes, onions, apples and green peppers. Baby's breath and parsley were tucked into the arrangement.

NEW PRODUCTS

Some of the new food products I tasted Tuesday were a smoky Hawaiian barbecue sauce and frozen meatballs from Chun King; maple walnut pancake syrup; Irish tea from a new collection of Beiglow; a variety of highly seasoned corn chips; French fried Brussels sprouts and a hot dog Reuben sandwich.

All the major food companies seem to be expanding into lines other than food. Both Green Giant and General Mills are going into the restaurant business. Neither is franchising the restaurants; both are operating them as part of the corporation. Green Giant is thinking of going into the frozen meat business; General Mills is already in toys, games, jewelry, clothing and home decorating kits.

★ ★ ★

General Mills introduced the fourth revised Betty Crocker cookbook after dinner, Tuesday. Their meal was a delight to the eye as well as the palate. It was served in the Arts Club of Chicago which would be sort of comparable to eating in the Pontiac Creative Arts Center. Varying sized, brightly colored plastic boxes made up the centerpieces.

Also announced was a new cookbook for homemakers with limited eyesight, "Cooking with Crocker Mixes." Set in large type, it is available without cost by writing to Betty Crooker, General Mills, Minneapolis, Minn.

Even the food companies have succumbed to the craze for collectibles. The R. T. French Company had a display of containers and packages from way back. They also had reproductions of food and women's pages of newspapers of 50 years ago.

Their new products include colorful salad onions, imitation bacon, cheese seasonings, mustard with onion bits and hickory smoke-flavored Worcestershire sauce.

My taste buds don't know which flavor to expect next.

MRS. KNAUER

Wife, Doormat for Years; Now Wants to Change

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Your answers to other people's problems are so wise, maybe you can help me with mine, though I believe it's hopeless.

My husband and I have been married for 27 years, raised three children, and now we have grandchildren. He traveled for a living and made little effort to hide his cheating. He calmly told me (when I caught him) that it meant "nothing."

I have offered him his freedom a dozen times, but he always refused it, saying he loved only me.

★ ★ ★

He has never wanted friends. Never knew a neighbor. I have raised the children alone, covering up for him, helping him in his office. We are financially well off, but what good is the money?

I am 5 feet tall and weigh 105 pounds and am told repeatedly that I look like a sister to my daughters. My husband has gained 50 pounds since our wedding and doesn't even think of dieting.

He keeps talking about how crazy he is about blonde hair. (My hair is as dark as yours, Abby. In fact people say we look alike.)

Please don't tell me I've been a doormat. I know that. What else have I been doing wrong?

HAVE BEEN MISERABLE

DEAR MISERABLE: You may not have tried hard enough to improve your miserable lot. No man will give up his cake if he can have it, too. And for 27 years yours has been having a ball in a bakery.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: Never in my whole life have I been so confused about a problem as I am now.

A few weeks ago, my roommate came home from the hospital after minor surgery, and was sleeping peacefully after having taken pain pills and a sedative. Her boyfriend of long standing was just about to leave when I got the shock of my life!

He tried to get involved with me in a very private way. Need I say anything more?

Should I tell my sick, but recovering friend? It would hurt her beyond words, yet I think she ought to know what kind of "man" he is.

Maybe ignorance is bliss, but for me to have such knowledge is a very painful burden. Help!

CONFUSED

DEAR CONFUSED: The word from here is "Mum." The heel will probably confess it to his girl friend fearing that you might tell on him. But even if he doesn't, this is not the kind of information one passes on to a friend.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: I recently learned that my husband's grandmother was very much offended by the letter I wrote thanking her for our wedding gift. It seems that everyone in the family calls her "Nanna" but not being aware of this, I addressed her as "Mrs. Smith" in the salutation, and twice again in the body of the letter!

Abby, she never asked me to call her "Nanna." In fact, I don't recall that she ever asked me to call her anything.

Quite frankly, since I have seen her only a few times I thought the formal "Mrs. Smith" would be more appropriate — and anything more familiar would be a bit presumptuous.

Why can't people read a "thank you" letter and appreciate its sincerity and promptness without trying to find something wrong with it?

CAN'T WIN

DEAR CAN'T: Some can. But not Nanna.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: The man who keeps worrying about his son's long hair should be more concerned about what's inside the boy's head — not out! The modern generation wants to be "modern." So what do they do? They start wearing their hair the way men wore it 200 years ago!

The Spanish have an old saying, "The cloth does not make the monk." So why should I worry about the way the next fellow wears his hair?

MARTIN IN NEW ORLEANS

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: Thanks for the letter from "BITTER," who asked if she could take legal action against the dirty rat who told his wife EVERYTHING in order to relieve her of all the anguish he had caused her.

It's the best laugh I've had since my husband decided to relieve ME of all the anguish he'd caused me for the same reason.

★ ★ ★

She sounds like the same ding-a-ling my husband had his romp with, except SHE threatened to sue ME for calling her "a lady of ill repute" — only I didn't use such refined language.

What do these gals expect from their back alley intimacies with married men who use them with no intention of leaving their wives? It would be interesting to hear from some of these ladies. All of us "relieved-of-anguish" wives could use a good laugh.

WE'VE CRIED ENOUGH

★ ★ ★

CONFIDENTIAL TO MOTHER OF FOUR DAUGHTERS: Yes, I tell mothers to teach their daughters how to cook, iron, and keep a neat house. But I tell them also that there is something even more important in marriage.

Girls should know how to cuddle a man, entertain him, listen to him, laugh with him, forgive him, and make his home a "happy" place to come home to. I have heard from hundreds of divorced women who whine, "——But I always kept a spotless home, and I was an excellent cook, and the dirty rat left me."

Request Answer From Relative to Invitation

By ELIZABETH L. POST
Of the Emily Post Institute

Dear Mrs. Post: My widowed mother-in-law and unmarried sister-in-law live together. Whenever holidays come around I have always tried to include them in our parties, since I feel sorry for them being alone. Well, the last several holidays when I invited them, this is the response I got, "We can't tell you now because if the weather is nice we want to go to Michigan (they have other relatives there), so you will just have to wait."

I tried explaining to them once that I would like to know before the last minute, because there are others I would like to ask if they couldn't come. I am hurt and feel they are using me as second choice. I think they should either accept the invitation, or refuse, saying they have planned something else. Am I justified? — Mrs. T.S.

★ ★ ★

Dear Mrs. S.: Your mother-in-law and her daughter show little appreciation for your hospitality. The next holiday season, invite them once more (for your husband's sake, and because of your children) but make the situation quite clear. Simply say, "I must have an answer by the 15th or I will assume you are going to Michigan. At that time I would like to ask Dot and Bill to take your place.

Symphony Women Plan Teas to Boost Interest, Membership

By SHIRLEY GRAY

Women's Association work is never done. They raise money for the Detroit Symphony by various and sundry stratagems, they sponsor music appreciation lectures so that even the gal who starts out unable to tell a harp from a harpsichord will know the score by the end of the season, and, during the month of October, they woo new members.

The first of six "Bring - A - Friend" new member teas is set for Tuesday. Mrs. Leonard T. Lewis of Bloomfield Hills is hostess for the 2 p.m. gathering.

★ ★ ★

Chairman for the day is Mrs. Robert Fife of Bloomfield Hills, whose crew of willing and able helpers includes Mesdames: Bernard Craig, John F. Noonan, John L. Denman, Irwin R. Rector and Richard A. Fisher.

Others are Mrs. Robert Goodyear, Mrs. Chet Wisniewski, Mrs. George E. Miller and Mrs. Byron Gerson.

Mrs. Albert S. Crawford, the former Mrs. Vernon L. Venman of Birmingham, is general chairman of the area membership teas, which will also be held in Detroit, Grosse Pointe, Grosse Ile and Dearborn.

HOLIDAY IN MEXICO

The Dale F. Carneys of Bloomfield Hills are back in town, cooling off, after a week of blistering 110-degree temperatures in Acapulco. Other than the weather, the trip was great, reports Mrs. Carney.

★ ★ ★

With the Carneys was their teen-aged daughter, Michelle, and their son David, of Ann Arbor, with his wife, Marge. Also along were the Jack Fosters of Bloomfield Hills and their daughter, Mary Jo.

★ ★ ★

Maurice and Marianne Barnett are finally settled in Scottsdale, Ariz., the packing, moving, and living out of suitcases behind them.

New Fall Fashions Due at Luncheon

New fall fashions will be featured at a show to be given in conjunction with a ladies luncheon at Spring Lake Golf and Country Club Thursday.

Bridge players and fashion buffs interested in attending may call the club for reservations. Luncheon will start promptly at noon.

Table prizes are from the International Bazaar at Seattle, which was built during the World's Fair there and is still operating.

Penthouse Fashions, Independence Commons is supplying fall-winter styles.

One of the most fascinating, yet simple, looks of the new fur season is this Fredrica natural jaguar frenchcoat. The beauty is in the shaping. Big collared. Skinny. Short. Reined in at the waist with a figure-eight belt of jaguar and leather. The safari hat is also jaguar.

All Washed Up

LOUGHBOROUGH, England (AP) — "They're my wages," truck driver Derek Loade shouted when he saw the scraps of paper scattered among the clothes his wife was pulling out the washing machine. Bank employes pieced together the contents of the pay envelope Loade had left in a pair of overalls and gave him new bills.

Salt sprinkled on woolen carpets or rugs before vacuuming helps destroy moths. It will also brighten the carpet and remove collected or imbedded soil.

Casual campus wear begins with Perma-Prest, ivy-style slacks. Tattersall pattern, left, is teamed with a virgin wool, V-neck pullover featuring saddle shoulders and rib knit finishing, and a tapered shirt with chambray button-down, long-pointed collar in a polyester-cotton blend. Glen plaid slacks, right, pair with a brush mohair blend cardigan and a mock turtle orlon acrylic knit shirt with contrasting ribbing. All available in country shades of green, blue, gold and brown from Sears.

Contemporary styling from Sears in a fully lined designer suit of 100 per cent wool features a deep center vent and slanted flap pockets. The four-button model combines wide lapels, canted sleeves and shaped waist. The four-inch silk tie is in a new basketweave pattern complementing the wide spread collar, Perma-Prest shirt in autumn colors.

Their First Day Traumatic for Mothers

By BETTY CANARY
NEA Writer

Etiquette books are filled with sound rules about not digging into your hominy grits with a knife and the good ones have chapters covering wedding invitations and how much to tip the butler after a weekend at Mrs. Rich's estate. But here we are in the first semester of the school year and what, I ask, have the noble, knowledgeable rule-givers done about that?

★ ★ ★

Thousands of mothers are facing up to it for the very first time and not knowing how to behave.

★ ★ ★

I observed some on the first day of school. Three were crying; four lurked on the lawn until recess; one brought the teacher a list entitled Things to Remember about Paul. Why didn't someone tell them the way to leave a child? (Shake hands with teacher with one's right hand and, at the same time, with the left hand, give child a deft thrust into room.)

FINE POINTS

It's nice to know the fine points on accepting gracefully a child's first drawing. (Holding paper carefully, turn it around and around and say, "It's so colorful! Wasn't this fun?" Do not EVER say, "What a pretty kitty!" or "Such a NICE tree," because things are never what they seem to be.)

Then there's the first time the child announces he is never going to school again, although, heaven knows, nobody can really give us a rule on how to act here. (Just remember how wonderful life can be without his throwing a ball against the house and singing, "Oh! You! Pretty Chitty Bang Bang!" the livelong day. You'll think of something.)

We need pointers on how to behave at school meetings. In theory, parents and teachers come together to discuss ways and means of improving school conditions. In reality, these meetings are usually long discussions on whether or not the fall festival money should buy new roll-away bleachers for the gym or new saw horses to block off the playground during the fall festival.

A parent must go to the meetings so his child's room can win the attendance award. During the meetings, do not ask about reading programs or the quality of school lunches. This marks one as inexperienced or, at the least, stupid.

She Tries Harder

LEEDS, Ala. (AP) — Uniform No. 14 of the Leeds Little League team belongs to a 10-year-old 4 foot 2 slugger — Amanda Courson, better known as "Tiger" to her teammates.

Amanda plays third base, has a batting average of .667 and has hit two home runs. "Most girls don't think they can make the team," she says, "and the ones that do have to try a little harder."

Small rubber-headed tacks placed on the underside of a drop leaf table where the leaves touch the table legs will protect the legs from scratches and mars.

Future Farmers Retain Ban on Female Members

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — One male stronghold girls still haven't penetrated is the Kentucky Association of Future Farmers of America. At the organization's 40th convention, some members proposed that the all-male group admit girls. But despite strong support, the measure was defeated 144-131.

Association President Lanny Harlow felt that discussion of a subject like genetics in a vocational agricultural class might prove embarrassing to members of a mixed class. And "How can girls do the heavy, dirty work involved with farm machinery?" he asked.

* * *

For girls there is the Kentucky Association of Future Homemakers of America, a strictly female organization, Harlow commented. Each group should keep its sex exclusiveness, he added, as mixing the sexes in either organization is bound to prove distracting and therefore weaken both.

By ANNE TAYLOR
AP News Feature

There are few financial exercises more revealing than to sit down and figure out your net assets. Honestly done, it puts you face to face with realities. It focuses fuzzy thinking. It helps you to plan.

Despite this, very few people take the time and effort to do the job. In fact, very few people really can say they handle their personal bookkeeping in an orderly, efficient manner.

* * *

There is one group of people to whom this indictment does not apply, and I refer to farm families. I think that if urban dwellers took a tip from rural families there would be a lot less bill juggling — and fewer arguments as well.

In the city — and don't forget that the vast majority of Americans live in or near cities — there is more of a tendency to play it by ear. And when the ear hears a sour note, there is a tendency also to simply take out a loan.

This can be trouble, especially in these days of easy credit. If you keep poor records, it is entirely possible to awake one day to the awful realization that you are broke and will have to lower your standard of living.

BIG ITEMS

Your home is very likely your biggest asset, financially and otherwise. Be realistic in your appraisal, nobody is going to pay you for your emotional ties to the house. What are similar houses selling for in the neighborhood?

Make a separate list of furnishings. If you were to sell them today, how much could you ask and receive for them? Don't attach the current list price to your year-old washer even if it is good as new. To a buyer, it's a used machine.

How much can you get for your automobile? Rather than guess, take the car to a dealer and ask him. And keep informed on prices by checking the classified ads in this newspaper.

* * *

Now make another list for your clothing, and while you're at it, decide on what you can give away. It would be nice if you could eaily sell used but serviceable clothing. The fact is you generally have to give it to charity.

* * *

Just as there generally is miscellaneous equipment around the house, there should also be a miscellaneous column in your inventory: toys, iceskates, gardening equipment, golf clubs . . .

SECURITIES, CASH, INSURANCE

Now list the values of the various pieces of paper that you hold in your strongbox or safe deposit vault.

What is the cash value of your life insurance policy? This is determined easily from a chart that accompanies your policy and which lists the dollar and cents value of each $1,000 of insurance for specific age or time periods.

* * *

How much money do you have in the bank? In your checking account? How many U.S. Savings Bonds have you accummulated through the payroll deduction plan? What is their current value . . . and that of your stocks, mutual funds and other bonds?

* * *

The pleasant part of the job is now over. Next your liabilities.

* * *

The biggest item, once again, is likely to concern your home mortgage; the second may be the loan on your automobile. List only the outstanding balances.

You may also have other long-term loans. Passbook loans, or loans on oyur savings account, are common. Also common are loans on inurance policies.

* * *

Your short-term borrowings undoubtedly will be more numerous although not as large as your long-term debt, especially since credit has become a way of life. List them all: department store credit, credit cards, credit union loans.

* * *

The final piece of arithmetic is to subtract your liabilities from your assets — and hopefully not the other way round. Date your inventory and file it, and at the same time next year go through the same process.

Flower Talk

ARTIFICIAL FLOWERS

The use of artificial flowers is not a new thing. The Egyptians formed their famous floral wreaths from thin plates of horn, stained in different colors with silver or copper coated leaves. The Romans made their artificial flowers from wax, and many of the crowns of victory awarded at ancient Olympic games in Rome were made of silver and gold leaves.

Later in the States, flowers were made from many different types of feathers. Today, however, with the new plastics and ways of arranging flowers, it is hard to determine which flowers are real and which ones are artificial.

Always buy the best products when purchasing artificial flowers, because the cheap ones are not good.

Case No. K-595

Jealousy Is at the Root

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE K-595: Teresa G., aged 23, is jealous of her mother-in-law.

"Dr. Crane," she began, "Tom's mother keeps interfering in our marriage.

"She tries to show me how to cook the foods Tom likes.

DR. CRANE

"And she telephones us every day, for she lives in the same town.

"Why doesn't she leave us alone?

"Dr. Crane, she makes me so furious I just wonder if our marriage will last."

TRIANGLE FEUDS

The triangle is the most dangerous geometrical figure for marriage.

The circle (ring) usually culminates the courtship and marks the wedding ceremony.

But it is the triangle that often causes the divorce.

And marriage triangles are of several types, such as the feuding between wife and mother-in-law.

But another triangle may involve the wife and an outside paramour.

* * *

Sometimes, too, a daughter may subtly compete with her mother for the attention of the man in the house.

When wives grow unduly jealous of their mother-in-law, that very fact often indicates their original attraction to their mate was based largely on sexual infatuation rather than on true love.

For in true love, you are most concerned with the best interests of your sweetheart.

And if his mother can help you prepare more savoury food to please him, why be jealous? Unless you are thinking of yourself! Your vanity is hurt because you imagine you don't rate top billing.

So you are selfishly worried about your own status in the eyes of your mate, and not properly concerned with his own best interests!

Jealousy also is a basic sign of a sexual inferiority complex.

For a jealous woman fears she cannot hold her man against outside competition!

And this often goes back to the boudoir, where she fails to obtain the erotic satisfaction which she craves.

Men unwittingly abet this form of jealousy for they often are not medically instructed in how to satisfy a wife, so they often leave her frustrated, tense and jittery.

Then she begins to think:

"Perhaps something is wrong with me, because I don't enjoy marital relations or become satisfied therein.

* * *

"So maybe I am organically inferior (infantile uterus; sterility, etc.)

"For if I am inferior, then maybe my husband will feel far more attracted to some other woman who is entirely normal.

"Therefore, I better watch him, lest he enter into a clandestine affair."

This is the subconscious reasoning that often leads to abnormal jealousy.

And it shows how the wife's major attention is on herself instead of being unselfishly devoted to her mate's best interests.

You can remove that ugly discoloration from the teapot by filling the pot with strong boiling bluing water and let it stand a few hours. Wash in the usual way.

Soviet Bomber Report Heats Spending Talk

WASHINGTON (AP) — A report the Soviets are developing a brand new bomber drew angry counterfire as the House headed into debate over a $21.35-billion military spending bill.

Rep. L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., made the statement of a new Soviet bomber Tuesday in defending the bill's provision for development of an Advanced Manned Strategic Aircraft as the U.S. bomber of the 1970s.

★ ★ ★

The chairman of the powerful House Armed Services Committee said a report by other members that there is no evidence the Soviets are interested in such a bomber is inaccurate.

Saying he has access to classified information the other members don't, Rivers stated "We have every reason to believe Russia is well on the way toward developing a brand new bomber—I'm telling you this on my own responsibility."

NO EVIDENCE

The spending critics said Pentagon witnesses told the committee in closed session there was no such evidence.

★ ★ ★

"If he has been cleared for that kind of information, he has a duty to review it with the committee before he reviews it with the press," said Rep. Robert L. Leggett, D-Calif. "For that reason I tend to discredit what he said."

★ ★ ★

Rivers made the bomber comment at a hearing at which the House Rules Committee cleared the military spending bill for four hours debate—over objections it should get at least 10.

"We're arming ourselves to the teeth and the gills, and one day we're going to choke on it," said Rep. Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., D-Mass., in contending spending critics should get five hours speaking time of their own. "I don't know how we can expect to get peace in the world."

★ ★ ★

But Rivers, the bill's floor manager, said critics will be given every opportunity to try to cut $2.2 billion from the measure and promised debate will be extended into Friday if it can't be finished Thursday.

The bill, which the Senate debated most of the summer, is the spending authorization for the Safeguard antimissile system, planes, ships, tanks and other military hardware.

Replace Lost Oil

Skin that becomes dry and seems to have lost its elasticity is often the result of dieting. Even a few weeks on a diet devoid of fats and oils can cause a deficiency that may cause your skin to become extremely dry. The solution is twofold — add some olive oil to your diet and some pure baby oil to the surface of your skin to alleviate the dryness and help restore the natural elasticity that makes your skin smooth and young looking.

170 Viet Civilians Escape Reds

SAIGON (AP) — Seventy-nine Vietnamese civilians escaped from a Vietcong village to an American patrol base north of Saigon and South Vietnamese infantrymen rescued another 91, the U.S. Army announced today.

The Army said the villagers had been forced to produce food for enemy troops while the villagers went hungry. Some of the refugees attended a Roman Catholic Mass at the American base and received communion for the first time in five years.

★ ★ ★

The Army said they had been held captive in the village of Duc Bon, 70 miles northeast of Saigon. It had a population of 400 before the exodus of the 170 civilians.

"Last night," an Army spokesman said, "Enemy soldiers, in a concerted effort to cut off the increasing flight of Duc Bon's population, rounded up and tried to move one quarter of the villagers to a new location."

SQUAD INTERCEPTED

He said South Vietnamese infantrymen intercepted a Vietcong squad herding 91 civilians through the countryside, scared the enemy troops off with a volley of gunfire and rescued the civilians.

★ ★ ★

Spokesmen said the 79 other civilians had fled during the past 10 days to Landing Zone Mary, a patrol base of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division three miles south of the village of Duc Bon.

The civilians have been turned over to South Vietnamese authorities in the provincial capital of Song Be, 80 miles northeast of Saigon.

★ ★ ★

The Army said one group of 27 villagers who turned up at Landing Zone Mary Tuesday included 17 children.

'WENT HUNGRY'

"The spokesman for the group told the American infantrymen that they had for a long time been forced to produce food for local Vietcong and North Vietnamese army regular forces, while they themselves went hungry," an Army communique said.

Capt. Herbert E. Barnes of Orlando, Fla., an intelligence officer, said: "When our interpreter told them, 'You are safe now,' their faces turned to smiles."

★ ★ ★

Elsewhere, three enemy arms caches were found by South Vietnamese troops 11 miles west of Saigon. The finds strengthened speculation that the Communist command is stepping up infiltration efforts in the capital.

Pacific Ocean 'Drained' for New Map of Its Floor

By National Geographic Society

WASHINGTON — The world's largest ocean lies restlessly on a bed of dragon teeth, slashing ridges and jagged cracks.

A new map of the Pacific Ocean floor, reveals the great basin as though drained of seawater. the dramatic view accompanies the October issue of National Geographic magazine.

Printed in full color on the reverse side is the Pacific of people: the countries, trust territories, and other political divisions of the islands and surrounding continents. Both maps — 25-by-19 inches and identical in scale — represent 60 per cent of the Earth's circumference.

The magazine commissioned Austrian artist Heinrich C. Berann to paint the unusual, almost three-dimensional map. It was based on research by Dr. Bruce C. Heezen of Columbia University's Lamont-Doherty Geological Observatory and Marie Tharp, now of the Naval Oceanographic Office.

★ ★ ★

The Pacific map shows the same sort of satellite-view panorama of a waterless ocean that was so spectacular in the maps the same team produced of the Indian and Atlantic ocean floors.

The vast empty seas of the Pacific are swept away, exposing a third of the Earth's surface never seen by man. Where only infrequent islands pierce the surf, a wild and rugged terrain stretches over 64 million square miles of the ocean floor.

PIN-WORMS
A FAMILY AFFAIR

Fidgeting, nose-picking, a tormenting rectal itch are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms...ugly parasites that medical experts say infest 1 out of every 3 persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it.

To get rid of Pin-Worms, they must be killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P-W tablets do . . . and here's how they do it:

First—a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then — Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredient goes right to work—kills Pin-Worms quickly and easily.

Don't take chances with dangerous, highly contagious Pin-Worms which infect entire families. Get genuine Jayne's P-W Vermifuge . . . small, easy-to-take tablets . . special sizes for children and adults.

School Unit Is Able to Meet at City Hall

The Pontiac City Commission chambers will be the scene of tomorrow night's regular Pontiac Board of Education meeting, at 7:30 p.m.

★ ★ ★

The board voted, 4-3, at a special meeting yesterday to move the location of board meetings because of crowded conditions at board offices in recent weeks.

★ ★ ★

Board President Russell Brown told the audience of about 40 persons that the city fire marshal had established a 100-person capacity for the board meeting room.

'LARGER CAPACITY'

As many as 400 persons have attended recent meetings of the board there.

★ ★ ★

Brown claimed the city chambers has larger capacity and also a public address system which would allow everyone in the room to hear the discussion. However, city officials today pointed out that the chamber has 100 seats — about the same capacity as the school board room.

★ ★ ★

Board member Dr. Robert Turpin took exception to moving. He said that the physical location of board meetings was not the problem causing disruption at recent sessions.

"I feel we should make do with what we have here and concentrate on trying to repair the board's relations with the community," he said.

MEETING SUGGESTION

Christopher Brown and William Anderson agreed with Dr. Turpin by voting "no" with him against the proposal.

★ ★ ★

Turpin also suggested that if meetings must be moved, they could be held in different junior high schools in the city, in an attempt to bring the board to the people.

★ ★ ★

His suggestion was not discussed.

Tomorrow night's agenda includes discussion of school district desegregation; discussion of Equality of Educational Opportunity report recommendations; and a proposed contract with the Urban League in connection with Project 100 for 1969-70.

'LOOK, MOM, NO CAVITIES' — That's what 7-year-old Sara Lowry of Columbus, Ohio, seems to be saying from inside an outsized tooth display at the Center of Science and Industry in the Ohio capital. Some of the teeth light up to show the things that can happen to teeth.

For School Administrators

Bargaining Unit OK'd

The Pontiac Administrators and Supervisors Association was recognized unanimously by the Pontiac School Board at a special meeting yesterday as exclusive bargaining unit of all administrators below assistant supervisor.

All principals, assistant principals, community school directors, directors, assistant directors, supervisors, assistant supervisors and coordinators are included in the newly recognized group.

★ ★ ★

The board had unofficially recognized the group for annual negotiations in previous years.

Smith Carson Jr., assistant principal of Central High School and president of the new group, said the association wanted to be recognized permanently. He said he felt it would help to pull administrators and supervisors closer together.

★ ★ ★

The recognition means that the association will be able to use the services of the State Labor Mediation Board as does the teachers' group, Pontiac Education Association.

POOL USE OK'D

In other action last night, the Pontiac Swim Club request to use the Northern High School swimming pool without rental charge was approved by a 5-2 vote.

★ ★ ★

The board's two black members, Dr. Robert Turpin and Christopher Brown, voted against the proposal because of the audience raised questions about the club's acceptance of black members.

★ ★ ★

Board member John Irwin, who said he was president last year said the club presently is all white. He added, however, that any members of the community with children who swim well are welcome to join.

Dr. Turpin and Brown earlier had voted to table the item until the discrimination charge against the Swim Club is investigated.

★ ★ ★

The club encourages competitive swimming and sponsors an amateur aquatics swim meet.

Pollution Plan Delay Won by Power Firm

LANSING (AP) — The State Air Pollution Control Commission has given Consumers Power Co. another year's extension to complete plans to eliminate air contamination from its plants throughout the state.

The commission authorized the extension Tuesday after the utility gave a progress report saying it was on or ahead of schedule at all elements of its program.

Consumers previously had been given an extension until the end of this year.

Donald Grant, in charge of Consumers air and water quality control, said good progress is being made toward pollution abatement at main generating plants at Muskegon, Comstock and Essexville as well as other units.

HITCH IN PLANS

One problem, Grant said, is a hitch in plans to discontinue supplying steam heating service to the City of Kalamazoo by the end of the year. The utility still has to receive authorization from the State Public Service Commission.

The commission went on record as approving elimination of the service.

Doyle Borchers of the National Air Pollution Administration in the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, discussed a proposal with the commission to set up an air quality region for the Detroit metropolitan area.

The first step, the federal spokesman said, will be to define the geographic area of the region. A meeting is planned to discuss the proposal. A Nov. 3 date was set. The location has not yet been determined but it probably will be in Detroit.

Under the plan, air quality standards would be set for the entire Detroit Metropolitan are

The commission took under advisement and made no decision on a request from Wally's Auto Salvage, near Iron Mountain, for permission to continue burning junk cars for salvage.

Moon Bears Hint of Sun Scorching

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP) — A space researcher who has studied close-up color photographs taken of a minuscule segment of the moon's surface says the pictures indicate a huge explosion on the sun scorched the moon and could have affected the earth.

Prof. Thomas Gold, director of Cornell University's Center for Radiophysics and Space Research, believes there was a gigantic explosion on the sun that raised its heat intensity to as much as 100 times the present level.

* * *

Gold believes the explosion caused elements on the moon's surface to melt, combine and then cool into a glass-like glaze.

He made his comments in a scientific article after looking at 17 color "stereo" photographs taken by the Apollo 11 astronauts. The pictures show glassy patches, ranging in size from half a millimeter to one centimeter.

IN SCIENCE WEEKLY

The article is in the Sept. 26 issue of Science, weekly publication of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

Gold said the explosion must have occurred in recent geologic times—probably not more than 30,000 years ago and certainly not more than 100,000 years ago.

The flash heat and resultant glassy particles had to be fairly recent, in scientific terms, Gold said. If the explosion happened more than 100,000 years ago, he contends, the micrometeorites that bombard the lunar surface would have destroyed the glaze.

Gold said further proof of the relative recentness of the solar explosion lies in the fact that the glaze particles have not been covered by the lunar soil, which is redistributed by the meteorite pounding.

ATMOSPHERE SHIELD

Gold theorizes that the solar explosion would have notably affected the upper atmosphere on earth, Venus and Mars, but that the earth's atmosphere would have protected the surface.

"The heat delivered to the ground (of earth)," Gold said, "is not likely to have been enough to cause any permanent effects .The temperature rise of the ground due to such a flash would be about a thousand times less on the earth than on the moon."

* * *

He said scientists could possibly explain some geological changes on earth, keeping in mind the probable solar explosion.

Solar flares on the sun's surface are fairly common—but not in the intensity referred to by Gold.

The photographs revealing the glazed surfaces were taken, the astronauts reported, in small craters measuring about 2 to 4 feet across.

* * *

"The glazed areas are clearly concentrated towards the top surfaces of protuberances," he said.

* * *

"Points and edges appear to be strongly favored for the glazing process. In some cases, droplets appear to have run down an inclined surface for a few millimeters and congealed there."

* * *

Gold discounted the idea that the glassy patches could have been formed by the rocket of the descent stage of the Apollo 11 spacecraft. He also expressed disbelief in theories that the patches were created by the impact of meteors that caused the craters in which the sparkling patches were found.

CLOSE-UP CAMERA

Astronauts Neil A. Armstrong and Edwin A. Aldrin took the color photographs with a camera designed to give a close-up color picture of fine detail.

Gold said the pictures show the lunar surface in better detail than Aldrin and Armstrong could have been able to see with the naked eye since they were taken from only a few inches distance.

TWO FACES OF GOLDIE — Goldie Hawn, the smart blonde who only acts dumb on television's "Laugh-In," is embarking on a career in the movies after this season. She made one film this summer and is set for two more. Some observers in Hollywood predict she'll become as big a star as Marilyn Monroe.

Last Season on 'Laugh-In'

Film Career Ahead for Goldie

By GENE HANDSAKER

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Rubbery-faced, giggly Goldie Hawn, the smart blonde who only acts dumb on television's "Laugh-In," leaves the show after this season for a career in movies.

This summer she did one film, "Cactus Flower," with Ingrid Bergman and Walter Matthau, and found it "a very exciting experience."

* * *

She's set for a second for producer Mike Frankovich, "There's a Girl in My Soup," and producer Billy Wilder is scheduled to write another for her, as he did for Marilyn Monroe with "Some Like It Hot."

Some observers predict, indeed, that Goldie will become as big a star as the late Marilyn.

DANCED IN CHORUS

One is Goldie's agent-partner, Art Simon, who discovered her dancing in the chorus on an Andy Griffith television special three years ago. He and Miss Hawn have formed a company that will produce two Goldie specials for NBC and eventually, they hope, movies.

Simon says Goldie is leaving "Laugh-In" because "in the framework of the show, I don't think she has had the opportunity to present the talent she really has."

* * *

But Goldie is grateful for her three seasons on "Laugh-In," an "enormous thing that really shot off my career."

Around the show's stage, she's known as cooperative and unaffected. Producer Paul W. Keyes says her leaving is "like losing your right arm. She's going to be a big star."

SHAPELY

The shapely Goldie, 5 feet 6 and 114 pounds, is 23. She was born in Washington, D.C., where her father, Rutledge Hawn, is a musician in society orchestras. He is also a descendant of Edward Rutledge of South Carolina, youngest signer of the Declaration of Independence.

At 3, Goldie started ballet and at 10 performed with the Ballet Russe. Later she ran a dancing school for 150 youngsters in Washington and still later was a go-go dancer—clothed—at "fine clubs" while living with four other girls in a tiny Manhattan apartment.

* * *

Go-go is the same kind of wild gyration performed by "Laugh-In's" kookie comediennes. Goldie asked the producers to excuse her from that this year—"I didn't like to see myself up there dancing; I thought it was tasteless"—and they complied.

* * *

Miss Hawn launches her movie career married—this summer—to a film director, Gus Trikonis, 30, who soon starts a film in Germany. Goldie describes him as not as outgoing as herself but full of fun.

* * *

At their "nice little house in Studio City," she takes care of the roses, cooks and cleans on weekends and rests up for the next week's shooting. She and Trikonis have no immediate plans for a movie together.

Where would she like to be 10 years from now?

Watchers Mourn Echo II

WASHINGTON — Backyard astronomers sometimes find themselves absentmindedly looking for Echo II, although the famous satellite has been "dead" since June 7.

Nothing has replaced the 135-foot plastic space balloon. There are no plans for orbiting a similar vehicle.

Launched in January 1964, the communications satellite spun around the Earth more than 28,000 times before succumbing to the solar radiation pressure and atmospheric drag that pushed it toward the Earth in an inevitable death spiral.

BUSHMEN DEIFIED IT

While traveling millions of miles, Echo II delighted many watchers and awed others. A Smithsonian Institution scientist who had lived among African Bushmen reported that even these simple people saw Echo II and included it in their roster of gods.

* * *

Many amateur trackers regarded the big space balloon as a personal friend. When the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory broke the news of the satellite's impending death, it was swamped with letters of regret and sorrow.

Jimmy and Bobbe Are Wed After a 'Speedy' Courtship

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Composer Jimmy Van Heusen could write a song about his marriage . . . to a very slow tempo.

Back in 1935 when he was a song plugger and piano player for Irving Berlin, he met a lovely young singer. "She's a very good-looking chick," he told himself.

WILSON

And then with the crazy abandon of song writers, those "very fast workers," he hastened to marry her 34 years later—just the other week.

His five Oscars for melodies are second now to his bride who freed him from bachelorhood at the age of 56, bouncy blonde Bobbe Brock Perlberg Van Heusen, of Hollywood and Palm Springs.

"Bing Crosby's jealous of me," says Jimmy, who's written so many of Bing's songs and is his dear friend.

* * *

"They used to be sweethearts. I think he's still in love with her."

* * *

"Of course not!" scoffs Bobbe, former wife of the late producer William Perlberg, and once part of the Brox Sisters, a top singing act.

* * *

"Look at this letter Bing wrote her in 1927!" Jimmy produces a copy laughingly. "It's a love letter and it's cute as hell.

"On Paul Whiteman's stationery. Phone number—CHICKERING 2110! He sent her a picture of himself and cut out the other two guys in the act. And he's got on bell bottoms."

"Read it," Bobbe smiles, tolerant of her husband's romanticism. "It's not a love letter."

* * *

But it is charming. Bing was with the Rhythm Boys . . . bored a little . . . "sick of the town and appurtenances thereto . . . only able to find solace in rum" . . . about to go into the Paramount Theater . . . "Odzooks! It's most disconcerting."

Forty-two years ago . . . when Bing was 23.

A Rosy Outlook

The long-range market for real estate can hardly be anything but rosy, in view of the expectation that the world population will double by the year 2000. Durable homes, incorporating such quality material as real ceramic tile, undoubtedly will appreciate in value as the population increases and the demand for housing zooms.

Dr. Sabin Seeks Cancer Link

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Dr. Albert B. Sabin, who developed oral polio vaccine, has begun a government-financed attempt to determine whether viruses cause cancer in humans.

The famed Cincinnati, Ohio, virologist will use skin samples taken from long-isolated, inbred communities of peoples in the United States and abroad, including descendants of the Good Samaritan who, in Biblical times, showed compassion for a fallen stranger.

* * *

"No one has yet demonstrated that human cancer can be caused by viruses," Sabin said in an interview. "But naturally occurring cancers and leukemia in lower animals have been found to be caused by viruses."

Sabin plans to collect 100 skin cultures as well as 85 extracts of malignant tumors from the bones and soft tissues of hospital patients.

UNDER WAY

"We shall put each sarcoma (tumor) extract on each of the 100 skin cultures and watch for the appearance of little tumors," Sabin said.

After a year of planning, the study is begging under way with about $125,000 a year in funds from the National Cancer Institute. The program could last three or four years, depending on results.

* * *

The skin volunteers are carefully selected.

"It is important to obtain the skin from isolated people who hopefully may not have been exposed to the special viruses that are the target of the studies," an institute spokesman said.

Sabin said that "this and other types of studies are vital if we are to gain the greater understanding of human cancer that is required for its ultimate control."

Here is another example of loser-on-loser technique from the new Solomon-Wilson book.

North has a multiple choice at his first turn to bid. Some people would double two diamonds. There are others who would try two no-trump.

★ ★ ★

North's choice of a raise to two spades meets with our approval. South's jump to four spades is a slight overbid but a three-spade call would undoubtedly lead to a further bid by North. Anyway, we find South struggling with the spade game.

West opens the king of diamonds and shifts to a trump. South is unhappy about this. He is sure that West is sitting with the ace of hearts in back of dummy's king and sees that repeated trump leads by the defense will make it impossible for him to ruff his third heart in dummy.

There is more than one way to skin a cat and South found another way to make his contract.

He started by playing three rounds of trumps and the king-queen and 10 of clubs. He overtook the 10 with dummy's jack and left the ace as a Resignation of City Attorney Ellis Van Hoesen also was disclosed four days after the action took place. No reason was given for the resignation or delay in the announcement.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Those around you are more cheerful than in recent past. You are encouraged. Spirits are lifted. What seemed remote becomes a distinct possibility.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Needed changes occur. You may find yourself resisting. But key is to know when to let go of past. There are minor obstacles. These are overcome if you exhibit determination.

Suit Over Refund

DETROIT (AP) — Seeking to block any misspending of a $15,368 refund from a health insurance company covering policemen, three Detroit officers have sued the city and the Detroit Employees Benefit Board. The suit said the refund was made because of the high standard of health maintained by the police officers, and asked that the court order the city to spend the funds only for policemen.

Keeping Track of Luggage May Be Hardest Part of Moon Trip

CLOUDCROFT, N.M. (AP) — Planning a trip to the moon? If Dr. Krafft A. Ehricke is right, it's going to involve six space ships and something like seven days of your time.

And don't forget to keep an eye on your baggage during those transfers.

* * *

Dr. Ehricke, chief scientific adviser for advanced programs at North American Rockwell, outlined his moon-travel plan this week to the International Academy of Astronautics, which is holding an international orbiting laboratory and space conference.

A typical flight to the moon as Ehricke envisions it would begin at an earth spaceport such as Cape Kennedy. There, a craft would rocket travelers to a rendezvous with an orbiting space station.

* * *

The travelers, and hopefully their luggage, would take a short ride by space taxi to the station.

The station would be a giant craft boosted into space by a nuclear rocket engine and cruising endlessly on a 13-day, egg-shaped orbit, passing behind the moon and then returning to sweep around the earth and back to the moon again.

* * *

The lunar travelers would relax in large, comfortable quarters aboard the station for the flight to the vicinity of the moon. There, another tiny taxi would leave a spacecraft orbiting the moon and rendezvous with the main station.

* * *

Passengers would transfer to the taxi for a short trip to the moon orbiting craft. From there they would catch a flight on a lunar lander.

The entire trip would take at least a week.

Ehricke said his plan would reduce the cost of space travel, because the vehicles could be used again and again.

The space shuttle station would be more than a luxury liner. It would include laboratories and be used to ferry supplies to other shuttles and moon stations. Most of its occupants probably would be scientists.

The shuttle would look like a 400-foot pencil with an oversized eraser and would contain living quarters, laboratories and control rooms.

* * *

Along the body of the pencil would be a nuclear power plant, maneuvering rockets, and docking terminals for the space taxis. The "eraser" might rotate slightly to create an artificial gravity.

The physicians of London incorporated in 1518.

Red China Is Failing at the 20-Year Mark

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

News Analysis

Twenty years old today, the Chinese People's Republic is like a young rebel, resentful of the whole world, full of defiance, down at the heels and unhappily insecure.

Measuring achievements against the lack of them, historians are likely to judge the Communist regime in its first two decades as a monumental failure of modern times, even though it has brought the enormous, overpeopled land to the point where its growing nuclear arsenal makes it a contender for major power status.

National Day celebrations opened to an ominous overture: what was probably China's 10th nuclear weapons test in five years. This is an achievement in terms of world power politics, but it is of doubtful value to a nation of 750 million or more that is dreadfully poor.

There have been other achievements—in oil, for example. China was an importer before the revolution. Now her Taching oil fields supply more than half her needs. She has made some progress in industrialization, but so swollen is her population that most of it must be engaged in raising food, and still the population growth outruns production. The regime can claim to have kept the nation together as it never had been held together in the past, but at a high cost.

MORE PRONOUNCED

The failures are more pronounced. From a promising start in the first five years of "people's republic," China retrogressed to a state of internal political and economic chaos.

On Oct. 1, 1949, the victorious Mao Tse-tung, having swept Chiang Kai-shek's forces from the mainland gazed with moon-faced solemnity from the Gate of Heavenly Peace in Peking and promised a bright future for his people. Mao's "new democracy" would guarantee freedom of thought, speech, press, assembly and all basic rights to all "the people."

* * *

There is a kicker in Communist promises. "The people" in Communist language means those who conform to party dictates. All the rest are potential "enemies of the people."

China did make some progress attacking mountainous problems, mobilizing all the people in a desperate effort to make production keep pace with population. The first Five-Year Plan, instituted in 1950, seemed a success. But Mao was impatient, and he proceeded to break more promises.

COLLECTIVIZATION

He announced collectivization of all the land, depriving China's 500 million peasants of property and flying into the face of tradition. Heavy pressure enforced the collectivization despite widespread resistance, and by 1957 it was almost complete. Then Mao acted again.

His "Great Leap Forward," an attempt to push socialization ahead of schedule, proved a major disaster. Coupled with natural calamities such as floods and plagues of locusts, it would result in bringing China to her lowest point under communism by 1961.

The "leap" had heavy political repercussions, too, which badly damaged Mao's prestige. At Lushan in 1959, stubborn party opposition resulted in his surrendering his post as chairman of the government, retaining only his party chairmanship. Mao was successful, however, in having Marshal Peng Tehhuai fired as defense minister and replaced by the saturnine Marshal Lin Piao.

It was then that the cracks in the alliance with the Soviet Union began to be obvious.

3 HARD YEARS

China underwent three extremely hard years from 1959 to 1962. There were food shortages, famines in some areas, severe shortages of consumer goods.

The second Five-Year Plan was a failure. Political tension was high, and Mao himself was in danger. President Liu Shao-chi appeared to have the backing of influential generals, among them enemies of Lin Piaon for efforts to create a more rational system.

Recovery was slow and painful, but there had been some by 1965, when Mao and his allies began planning for a new upheaval that would get rid of the threats of his pre-eminence.

Like a sudden hurricane, Mao's "great proletarian cultural revolution" hit China in 1966. He enlisted the country's indoctrinated youth for a campaign of reckless violence against the institutions of the party, the government, education, science and particularly culture, the fountainhead of ideology.

ENEMIES DISGRACED

What it left, after three years of violence, was a prospect of wreckage of the party and government machinery as it had existed before. Rule now was not so much by the party as by Mao's "revolutionary committees." His enemies had been disgraced. Many of them were dead. Liu Shao-chi was stripped of all his offices and denounced as "traitor, renegade, scrab and China's Khrushchev."

It left, also, a wider gap than ever between China and its one-time closest ally, the Soviet Union. The split radiated outward causing division around the world in the Communist movement.

What is in prospect? Mao is 77, probably ailing. His anointed heir, Lin Piao, is also ailing. There appears to be deep division between the Maoists, who are the theoreticians of revolution, and the more practical ones of whom Chou En-lai, Communist China's first and only premier, may be a leader.

Detroit Eyed for Hiring Plan

DETROIT (UPI) — The controversial "Philadelphia Plan," bitterly opposed by building trades unions, may be put into effect in Detroit to force minority group representation on federally assisted construction projects.

Detroit is one of nine cities to which the plan may be extended, the U.S. Department of Labor has announced.

A hearing will be scheduled in Detroit in the near future so all concerned parties may testify.

Under the plan, builders are required to submit "affirmative action" plans for hiring blacks and other minority Americans when they enter bids on federal projects costing more than $500,000. If the bid fails to meet minority hiring standards for the area, it will be rejected.

Lobster Is Elegant

One of the easiest ways to present a canape or hors d'oeuvre to guests is to give them a mound of something to spread on a bowlful or platter of something else.

This is easy on the hostess. The people who were invited like it, too. It's casual and informal and makes everybody feel a part of the party.

So, for goodness sakes, give the guests something worthwhile to spread. Something, for instance, like this delicate and flavorful mixture of South African rock lobster meat combined with butter and cream cheese and egg and pleasant seasonings.

ROCK LOBSTER SPREAD

3 pkgs. (8 oz. ea.) frozen South African rock lobster tails
1 cup soft sweet butter
1 pkg. (3-oz.) cream cheese
2 tablespoons drained capers
⅓ cup minced celery
1 dill pickle, minced
1 hard cooked egg, sieved
Celery pieces, carrot slices, radish slices, saltines, strips of pumpernickel

Drop frozen rock lobster tails into boiling salted water. When water reboils, boil for 2 to 3 minutes. Drain immediately and drench with cold water.

★ ★ ★

With scissors remove underside membrane. Remove meat and chop finely. Mix rock lobster meat with remaining ingredients and mash until well blended. Shape mixture into a ball.

Serve with a spreader. Spread on celery, carrots, radishes, saltines or pumpernickel.

★ ★ ★

Can be prepared ahead of time and chilled. Remove from refrigerator ½ hour before serving time to allow ball to soften to spreading consistency. Yield: about 3 cups.

Hot Drink Has Zesty Flavor

This savory hot drink was served at the Food Editors Conference. It combines canned chicken broth with tomato juice cocktail, onions and spices, and is a zesty, warming beverage perfect for a chilly day.

For an unusual treat, serve the bracing drink in demitasse cups as dinner guests come in from the cold. Or, have big mugs of the nutritious steaming hot drink on hand for the children after play on a frosty afternoon.

COLD WEATHER BRACER DRINK

2 cans (13¾ fl. oz. each) chicken broth
½ cup chopped onions
3 cups tomato cocktail or tomato juice
1 teaspoon lemon juice
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1 clove garlic, crushed
¼ teaspoon celery seed
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper, optional

Bring chicken broth to a boil, add chopped onions and simmer 3 to 4 minutes. Add remaining ingredients and return to a boil. Serve hot. Makes about 12 4-oz. servings.

Type of Liquid Tells Method

The secret of making smooth gravy is to blend flour thoroughly with fat or with cold liquid before combining it with hot liquid. To make a gravy from drippings containing only fat and browned crusty bits, stir flour directly into drippings and add liquid later.

When drippings contain a considerable amount of hot meat juices, make gravy by blending flour with water, then add to drippings.

Add Berries to Colonial Bread

They must have been few and far between amongst the early settlers, but legend has it that one poor man had a lazy wife. He often had to do his own cooking and one day came up with a delicious cornmeal and molasses bread. He ate it with relish while muttering about his wife under his breath: "Anna, damn her."

When blueberries were added to the recipe, the bread became Blueberry Anadama.

The colorful language that christened this bread was male and hearty. The bread is that, too.

BLUEBERRY ANADAMA BREAD

¼ cup yellow cornmeal
1 cup boiling water
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
¼ cup molasses
1 egg, well beaten
1 package active dry yeast
¼ cup lukewarm water
3 cups all-purpose flour (about)
2 cups fresh or frozen dry-pack blueberries, rinsed and drained

Stir cornmeal into boiling water. Stir in butter, molasses and egg. Dissolve yeast in lukewarm water. When cornmeal mixture is lukewarm, stir in dissolved yeast.

Beat in flour until a stiff dough is formed. Knead dough on a heavily floured board until smooth and elastic. Let rise in a warm place until double in bulk.

★ ★ ★

Punch down and roll dough to a 10-inch square. Sprinkle blueberries over dough pressing them into dough. Roll up like a jelly roll. Tuck ends of roll under to seal ends and put seam side down into a well greased loaf pan 9x5x3.

Let rise until double in bulk in a warm place. Bake in a preheated moderate oven (375 degrees) for 45 to 50 minutes. Turn out and cool on a rack.

Cool thoroughly before cutting. Serve spread with butter. Yield: 1 — 9x5x3" loaf.

BLUEBERRY ANADAMA BREAD — A bread for the man in your life: Blueberry Anadama. Guaranteed to make him proud he chose you to bake for him.

ROCK LOBSTER SPREAD — A good way to spread the pleasure is to offer guests a spread made with the meat of the South African rock lobster. This is no ordinary way to make people feel wanted!

Slippery Spoon

Before attempting to measure such liquids as syrup or molasses, always coat the measuring utensil with cooking oil. Syrups and molasses then slide out easily.

Spoon that meringue on a lemon pie around the edge of the filling, then spread over the center so the entire filling is covered.

Addition of Beer Enhances Many Foods

There are many ways in which beer can be used in the preparation of your favorite foods. Simply substitute the new low calorie beer for other liquids in your special recipes.

If your family is bored with ordinary meat loaf, here is a delectable way to add zing to a quick and easy dish.

Lite Meat Loaf

1 12 oz. bottle or can beer
1 pkg. dry onion soup mix
4-6 slices bread crumbs
2 eggs
¼ cup catsup
2 tablespoons prepared mustard
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 lbs. ground beef

Combine all ingredients except beef in large mixing bowl. Mix by hand or with an electric mixer until smooth. Add beef and stir with spoon until all ingredients are completely mixed together. Place in foil-lined loaf pan (9x5x3) and bake 1 hour at 350 degrees. Serves 6-8.

Sugar Uses Are Varied

What should you sprinkle on poultry before roasting to allow the bird to brown, to retain surface moisture and to reduce dryness?

What should you add to the cooking water of asparagus to keep the natural flavor of the vegetable?

What should you coat a souffle dish with to discourage the contents from sticking and to allow the souffle to rise to its greatest height?

You were right if your answer to all three questions was sugar.

★ ★ ★

But did you also know that the sugar industry in America started 175 years ago, when Louisiana became the first state to grow sugar cane profitably? Or that sugar beets weren't grown successfully until 1891 — in Utah, and then in California and Nebraska? Or that today, our average sugar consumption per person is 99 pounds a year?

But fewer than 33 pounds are actually purchased for use in cooking or as a sweetener; most of the sugar we consume comes in commercially prepared foods — soups, breads, cakes, salad dressings, ice cream, soft drinks, candy and many other convenience foods.

★ ★ ★

These and other interesting, offbeat, facts about sugar come to light in a new booklet, "Why Sugar." The booklet contains 80 items about sugar, from its uses in cooking to the part it plays in industry, agriculture and even in the development of the United States as a nation.

★ ★ ★

Nutty Addition

Prepare a package of frozen small onions with cream sauce according to label directions. Stir in two tablespoons sherry and ¼ cup chopped, toasted walnuts. Serve immediately.

HUDDLEWICH — Ronnie Bull, hard-hitting Chicago Bear running back, whipped up this sandwich at the Newspaper Food Editors Conference in Chicago. Shred or grate 2 large unpeeled apples. Combine with ¼ teaspoon cinnamon, 2 tablespoons dark brown sugar and 1¼ cups crunchy peanut butter. Spread on 12 slices rye or pumpernickel bread. Top half the slices with thin wedges of tart apple. Cover with remaining bread slices to make 6 sandwiches.

Oakland University: A School on the Grow

By JIM LONG

Oakland University started classes 10 years ago with a student body of 570 and two buildings.

★ ★ ★

Since then the student body has grown tenfold. And the campus has 19 buildings valued at nearly $30 million.

★ ★ ★

There's nothing to indicate the boom will stop in the near future.

Projected figures indicate that by 1975 the student body is expected to increase by another 5,000.

Then too, $40 million more in buildings is planned for the next five years to keep up with the ever-increasing enrollment and learning programs.

Even then, the Michigan State University affiliate will have only scratched the surface.

★ ★ ★

Located on a 1,400-acre site in Pontiac and Avon townships, the university complex presently, and even for the near future, utilizes only about 100 acres. Any expansion to another part of the remaining 1,300 acres would come after 1975.

The property originally was the estate of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred G. Wilson.

GIFTS TO MSU

The Wilsons, now both dead, turned the property over to Michigan State University in 1957, along with a gift of $2 million. The property then was valued at about $8 million.

★ ★ ★

Only a few months before they announced the $10 million gift, the Wilsons had been approached by the Oakland County Planning Commission with the idea of using the property for an institution of higher learning.

★ ★ ★

From Oakland University's inception, Durward B. Varner has played a major role as chancellor in the school's development.

He is highly respected for his leadership. The students recently staged a peaceful demonstration asking Varner to stay at OU after they heard reports he was being considered for the presidency of Michigan State University.

DEGREES FOR 2,187

During his tenure, Varner has seen 2,110 students receive bachelors' degrees and another 77 fulfill requirements for their master's degree.

Despite its success, Oakland University has made it clear that it will not dwell on the past.

★ ★ ★

Varner has noted that the anniversary year will be devoted to a study of the "University in Crisis," to examine current problems in higher education.

As has been the case with Varner, he wants to make a good thing better.

Velvety Orange Filling in Meringue Swirls

Fine food is the keynote of hospitality . . . and nothing pleases guests more than delicious home baking. Whether you're having people for a casual evening visit or an elaborate dinner party, Florida Orange Swirls rate a blue ribbon.

The swirls turned up on the menu at the Age of Aquarius Brunch hosted by the Florida Citrus Commission for the Newspaper Food Editors Conference this year at the Drake Hotel in Chicago. And when you are entertaining the country's top-notch food editors, you just know that the food has to be wonderful.

★ ★ ★

The swirls are crisp meringues, just the same fancy kind you are served in a fine restaurant. They're filled with a velvety orange cream made with whipped cream.

FLORDIA ORANGE SWIRLS

Meringue:

3 egg whites
¼ teaspoon cream of tartar
¼ teaspoon salt
¾ cup sugar

Beat egg whites until foamy; add cream of tartar and salt; beat until stiff, but not dry. Gradually add sugar, beating until very stiff.

★ ★ ★

Cover baking sheet with heavy brown paper or aluminum foil. With spoon or pastry bag, pile meringue into 6 rounds about 3-inches in diameter on covered baking sheet. Make a 2-inch depression in center of each. Bake in 275-degree oven, 1 hour. Cool.

Orange Filling:

3 egg yolks
2 tablespoons sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
⅓ 6-ounce can (6 tablespoons) frozen Florida orange juice concentrate, thawed, undiluted
1½ teaspoons grated orange rind
1 cup heavy cream, whipped
6 Florida orange sections

Beat egg yolks in top of double boiler. Add sugar, salt and undiluted orange concentrate. Cook over boiling water, stirring constantly, until thickened. Remove from heat; add orange rind and chill. Fold in whipped cream.

Spoon into meringues. Chill 12 to 24 hours. To servel garnish with orange sections. Yield: 6 servings.

Wheat Germ Adds Delightful Taste

Wheat germ, now available nationally in the cereal section of food stores, is the germinating part of the wheat seed. It is one of the most nutritious of foods.

It is a rich source of good quality protein; vitamins of the B-complex, such as thiamine, niacin and riboflavin; iron, phosphorus, potassium, and is the rich natural source of vitamin E. In addition, it contains other important nutrients in token and trace amounts.

Wheat germ is eaten as a cereal, per se, with milk or cream and sugar, or it can be mixed into other cereals, hot or cold. For example, many homemakers stir a tablespoon of wheat germ per serving into oatmeal, after the latter cereal has been cooked.

GOOD ADDITION

The homemaker can also add the high nutrition and pleasing, nut-like flavor of the "heart of the wheat" to many dishes she prepares. She may add it to pancakes, French toast, scrambled eggs, omelets, sausage patties or muffins for breakfast.

At lunch, she can add it to sandwich spreads, hamburgers, soups and salads, and ice cream balls or slices.

For dinner courses, it can be added as an extender to meat and seafood loaves; used as a breading for chicken, chops, cutlets and fish fillets, or contribute its nutrition and texture to cakes, crumb pie shells, brownies, cobblers and other desserts.

Meanwhile; there are recipes for wheat germ cookies, yeast or or quick breads, ice cream pies, casseroles, ham loaves, crepes Suzette, apple pandowdy and cheese cakes, among other occasional fare. (Wheat germ cookbooks are available).

★ ★ ★

Wheat germ, vacuum-packed in jars to preserve its freshness ("the better the food the quicker it spoils"), can be purchased in two forms — the regular, toasted flaky cereal, and a sugared honey product, which has a nugget-like texture.

Interestingly, the two kinds are interchangeable in recipes, even in hamburgers and meat loaves. Wheat germ should be kept in the refrigerator after the vacuum is broken and until the jar is used up.

FISCH SCHNITZEL HOLSTEIN — Substitute crispy, protein rich fish steaks for more costly veal when making Schnitzel. Add pickled beets and home fried potatoes and a dessert of stewed fruits for a delicious meal at only 50 cents per serving.

Fish Recipe Has Start in Austria

Thrifty housewives can find dozens of ways to cut kitchen costs. Here's one recipe that wins raves, even from confirmed meat and potatoes enthusiasts. The trick is to substitute crispy, protein-rich fish steak for more costly veal when making a national favorite, Schnitzel. The approximate cost of this entree per serving is 24c — certainly a delicious way to economize.

FISH SCHNITZEL HOLSTEIN
(Fish Cutlest with fried eggs)

4 frozen breaded fish steaks
2 tablespoons chopped green pepper
2 tablespoons chopped onion
1 tablespoon margarine
1 can (8-ounce) tomato sauce
¼ teaspoon Tabasco
4 slices Swiss cheese
4 fried eggs

★ ★ ★

Prepare fish steaks as directed on package. Saute green pepper and onion in margarine. Add tomato sauce and Tabasco. Arrange Swiss cheese on fish steaks and heat in oven just until cheese melts.

Spoon tomato sauce onto heated serving dishes, cover with fish steaks and top each with a fried egg.

★ ★ ★

Serve with red cabbage or pickled beets and home fried potatoes, with a compote of stewed fruits for dessert. Makes 4 servings.

Pine Nuts Give Unusual Touch

An interesting addition gives fine flavor to broccoli.

Broccoli Plus

1 package (10 ounces) chopped broccoli
2 tablespoons butter
¼ cup pine nuts

Cook the broccoli according to package directions; drain. Add butter and pine nuts; stir over low heat until butter melts and pine nuts are hot. Makes 3 servings.

Only Six Types

Although there are about 200 kinds of sausage and ready-to-serve meats, all of them can be classified into six types according to processing method: fresh; uncooked but smoked; cooked and smoked; just cooked; cooked meat specialties; and dry sausages.

If you like rich, strong coffee, use a fine grind and a coffeemaker that does well by this grind.

MOTHER GOOSE APPLE PIE — Simple apple pie . . . is a time honored first cooking lesson. This version is a crisp with no crusts. Illustration from "The Volland Edition of Mother Goose," published by M. A. Donohue & Co.

Crustless Apple Pie Lesson in Simplicity

If your children are Mother Goose fanciers, they are doubtless familiar with Tommy. He would ride a cock horse to Banbury Cross to see what he could buy . . . and included among his purchases was a two-penny apple pie.

Well, apple pies cost more now. And here's a really simple version your youngsters may enjoy making themselves.

Mother Goose Apple Pie is most delicious and a snap to make. It requires no crust and the pie has crisp crumbs of sugar, nutmeg, and cinnamon mixed throughout with the apple pieces. The pie comes to the table warm with whipped cream or ice cream.

* * *

The pie mixture is combined with West Indies molasses, and the mellow molasses taste is perfection with the apples and spices.

West Indies molasses is the concentrated juice of sugar cane, aged and blended. Because it is a primary sweetener, not a molasses produced as a by-product of sugar making, it contains no sulphur dioxide or any chemical preservatives.

MOTHER GOOSE APPLE PIE

6 cups sliced cooking apples (4 large apples)
½ cup sugar, divided
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
⅛ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon cinnamon, divided
5 tablespoons West Indies molasses, divided
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
¾ cup sifted all-purpose flour

Pare and core apples; cut into ⅛-inch thick slices. Mix together ¼ cup of the sugar, nutmeg, salt and ¼ teaspoon of the cinnamon. Alternate apples and sugar mixture in a greased 9-inch pie plate. Spoon 4 tablespoons of the molasses over top.

Mix together remaining ¾ cup sugar, 1 tablespoon molasses, ¼ teaspoon cinnamon, butter and sifted flour to a crumb consistency. Sprinkle evenly over casserole.

Bake in 375 degree oven 50 minutes. Serve warm with whipped cream or ice cream if desired. Yield: 6 servings.

Wise Cook Uses Olives to Enhance Many Dishes

Olives are a relish, right? But it seems almost a shame to squander them on relish trays once you've discovered their versatility.

It's a wise cook who slices and chops olives into salads, casseroles, sauces or soups for a bit of color and dash of taste well-suited to all cuisine.

Home economists have these serving suggestions.

● Use olives in coleslaw. Top home-made or commercially prepared slaw with sliced olives.

● Baking powder biscuits take on new dimensions when you add grated cheddar cheese to your favorite recipe. Form the biscuits. Then press an almond-stuffed green olive into the top. Bake as usual. Olive muffins are a great companion to salads.

● Curried ripe olives are a breeze to fix. To your favorite Italian dressing add curry powder to taste. Pour mixture over drained ripe olives. Refrigerate for several hours, then drain and serve the olives as snacks.

Ever heat cooked corned beef in a barbecue sauce and serve over bread or rolls for open sandwiches?

Sandwiches Are Way to Use Leftovers

Looking for a way to stretch leftovers into a meal that the family will enjoy?

Try these hot sandwiches, completed with zesty American blue cheese. They're easy to fix and most of the ingredients are pantry shelf staples.

You can use slices of roast beef, ham or lamb. The salt-and-pepper of blue cheese broiled on top the meat filling gives these sandwiches that epicurean flavor needed for a good change-of-pace in menu planning.

BLUE CHEESE MEAT SANDWICHES

1 cup coarsely cut cooked beef (ham or lamb)
3 tablespoons mayonnaise
½ teaspoon soy sauce
6 slices toasted white bread
1 cup medium white sauce
1 hard cooked egg, chopped
1 tablespoon minced onion
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup American blue cheese (about 3 ounces crumbled)

Blend meat with mayonnaise and soy sauce. Spread mixture on toast slices. Arrange toast in bottom of 13½ by 8½ by 2¾ inch baking dish.

* * *

Heat white sauce until hot; stir in egg, onion and salt. Pour sauce over toast slices. Sprinkle blue cheese on top. Bake at 350 degrees 15 to 20 minutes or until cheese melts. Serve at once. Makes 6 servings.

Junior Editors Quiz on WORMS

QUESTION: What causes worms to crawl out of the ground when it rains?

★ ★ ★

ANSWER: If you call someone "You little worm" (we hope you are never impolite enough to do so) you are implying that the person addressed is a squirmy bit of nothing.

Yet, although the worm looks like nothing, it is much more complicated inside than the average person realizes. It has a mouth, a brain — even if only a tiny one — nerve cords, a digestive system and amazing collection of 10 hearts.

If you were to tell Bill in our picture about a worm's brains he'd say, "Okay, so why didn't they use them to stay in their burrows when the rain was driving so hard last night?"

What bill fails to realize is that, like the higher animals, an earthworm has to breathe air. Underground, an earthworm can get his air from the many tiny air pockets in the soil. But driving, soaking rain tends to fill up these pockets with water, so the earthworm seeks the surface to get his quota of air.

On the surface, however, the unfortunate little worm is often trapped. His skin is very sensitive. Daylight and the colder upper air often prove fatal.

(You can win $10 cash plus AP's handsome World Yearbook if your question, mailed on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of this newspaper, is selected for a prize.)

'Air Pollution Being Abated'

By DAVID W. CHUTE

DETROIT (UPI) — It's costing the public about $2 billion a year, but the battle against air pollution is slowly being won, says Charles F. Heinan, chief engineer on pollution controls for Chrysler Corp. However, he warns the battle is not over yet.

★ ★ ★

He estimates the $2 billion a year cost will continue for at least the next 10 years, perhaps even longer.

Heinan sets the cost figure for cleaning up the air at $1.5 billion a year by nonautomotive sources, including government, and another $500 million by the auto industry to put antipollution controls on cars. But the consumer foots the bill eventually in the form of higher prices or taxes. Heinan figures it costs about $50 per car.

'7 PCT. REDUCTION'

Already, he says, a 7 per cent reduction since 1957 has been recorded in the fallout of particulates from factory smokestacks in 58 urban centers of the country.

During that same time, ironically, Heinan says a slight increase in particulate fallout was noted in rural areas.

★ ★ ★

As for automobiles, he says the chief problem now is in getting some of the older cars off the road. These cars were not equipped with exhaust emission controls but they still represent the largest car population on the nation's highways.

As the older cars begin to fill the junkyards, Heinan says the newer cars with lower pollutant emissions will become the majority until, eventually, virtually all cars on the road will have low emission levels.

BY 1980

"In a few years certainly by 1980, we will have reached the clean-air level that existed in the 1940s, despite the enormous increase in car population since that time," he said.

STEADY LEVEL

"This level will be essentially steady for a considerable length of time, at least until 1990, even counting on a still further great increase in the number of cars on the road."

★ ★ ★

This, Heinan says, would be true even without any stiffer emission standards than are now contemplated for the auto industry.

And he indicates that by that time, further developments in emission control technology will be able to maintain or even reduce pollution levels still further.

★ ★ ★

But how about the possibility that new cars with pollution controls will, with wear, begin losing their antipollution efficiency and start spewing out more pollution than standards allow.

Heinan says data from the state of California on 1969 cars showed that with only normal maintenance, cars, on the average, still met the hydrocarbon emission standards after 50,000 miles of use.

Smoking Can't Be Treated as Simple Addiction

(EDITOR'S NOTE — Here is the third in a 14-part series on how to stop smoking and not gain weight. The Newspaper Enterprise Association series offers a double-pronged solution to the problem. It is written by Julius Fast, novelist, medical editor and mystery writer.)

By JULIUS FAST

Dr. Daniel Horn, director of the U.S. Public Health Service Clearing House for Smoking and Health, worked with CBS to produce a National Smoking Quiz in 1968 and from his efforts six different kinds of smokers were discovered.

★ ★ ★

The tremendous importance of this work is that it shows that smoking is not a simple addiction, though addiction plays a part in hooking the smoker.

Once hooked, however, other factors come into play, particularly psychological factors, and these bind the addiction tightly to the victim so that, even though the addiction itself is comparatively mild, the habit, curiously enough, is much stronger, too strong, in many cases to break.

Two categories listed by Dr. Horn follow:

The Craving Smoker—

He doesn't come alive in the morning until he has his cigarette for a pick-me-up.

You've seen him in the movies if you aren't married to him. Bogart played him in the old Sam Spade-type pictures.

★ ★ ★

He sits on the edge of his bed when he wakes up, fog-eyed and half-dead as he fumbles for the bedside pack after a night of withdrawal, and he draws in his first lungful of smoke gratefully, lets the smoke linger there and then exhales it through his nose as he returns to consciousness.

He can, as all these types can, be a she as well as a he.

CHAIN SMOKER

This smoker lights one cigarette from the stub of the last.

In Dr. Horn's words, "a craving for the next cigarette begins to build up the moment he puts out the last one."

★ ★ ★

This type of smoker is not only physiologically addicted to cigarettes, he is also psychologically addicted.

He buys his cigarettes in cartons and checks each night to make sure a cigarette is available for the morning.

The 'Stimulated Smoker'

This one smokes for the lift, the kick he gets from the cigarette, and he is not truly awake till he's had his breakfast cigarette.

Characteristically, he can become the chronic drinker or eater when cigarettes are given up, getting his "charge" from food or drink instead of nicotine.

★ ★ ★

You've seen him after that breakfast cigarette as his eyes focus and his body tones up while the smoke drifts out of his nostrils.

The cigarette stimulates him and brings him to his full potential. Without it he's vaguely uncomfortable and less than complete.

Gold Mines Reopened

Ghost Town Gets New Life

VANDERBILT, Calif. (AP) — In the 1890s, when this desert town was home to 2,000 lusty miners and Wyatt Earp's brother Virgil ran the Gold Bar Saloon, they scooped more than $1 million in gold from the barren hills.

It was easy pickings getting gold near the surface in the days when Las Vegas, 60 miles north, was just a water hole.

But, when miners reached the underground water level, the digging got tough for crude equipment of the times. With the depression of 1896, Vanderbilt shut down. Since then, except for a futile try in the 1930s, the jagged 4,000-foot hills have not known the chatter of mining tools.

But now, with modern equipment and new processes for extracting gold from chemical compounds, Vanderbilt is alive again.

Where old-timers crushed the ore and recovered pure gold, the new miners use a chemical brine to process sulfides of gold.

Of course, it's not quite the same. Jack Jordan, 38, boss of the operation, travels by auto rather than horse, carries a briefcase and is responsible to a board of directors.

* * *

He's backed by 40 California investors, many in the computer and electronic fields, who set up a $2.3-million operation.

"The old-timers weren't dumb," Jordan said. "They knew the gold was there. They just couldn't get it."

MAP WAS RIGHT

Jordan's firm, Heavy Metals Corp., has drilled a 13-foot-diameter shaft to a vein just where old maps said it would be.

The vein, Jordan said is 7 to 12 feet in diameter, 600 feet long, and since it was tapped in early September has been yielding ore assaying $50 a ton.

* * *

That is enough to make a profit even though the U.S. price ceiling of $35 an ounce has virtually killed gold mining in the once booming West.

In many of California's gold mine areas, there's still plenty of gold but you can't get it out and make a profit at $35 an ounce. Several old mines have become tourist attractions.

COPPER, SILVER

Jordan says his firm hopes to extract $50 million to $100 million worth of gold. The mining operation also will yield copper and silver.

The 12 miners at the digs are, unlike the old-timers, family men. They live in house trailers, set amid weird-looking joshua trees overlooking a barren valley. Nearby are the collapsing remains of the old ghost town. When the processing mill opens this winter, the crew will increase to 30.

* * *

About the name, Vanderbilt, Jordan said, "The town was named after Cornelius Vanderbilt, the railroad magnate. He never was here. The people just said they were going to be rich like Vanderbilt."

AP Wirephoto

GOLD DIGS — Modern gold miner Jack Jordan examines gold ore that has been extracted from abandoned mines in the ghost town of Vanderbilt, Calif. At right a modern earth-mover is used to haul ore out of the shaft. Jordan and his firm, Heavy Metals Corp., use maps of old-time miners to guide them to the ore.

Government Should Unorganize Kids

By JEAN SAILE

Few kids are nonjoiners.

Nonjoiners are watched with a worried eye, because they are unusual.

* * *

But the kids who do join activities, as any mother knows, pick them because the meeting spot is beyond walking distance from home.

Mothers — and sometimes, fathers — drive them.

MRS. SAILE

PROGRAM CONSIDERED

Presumably because of an increasing number of atrophied leg muscles, county government is considering a program to improve Junior's physical fitness.

Supervisors are discussing a $125,000 recreation program, the emphasis to be put on physical activity.

* * *

If I know government, this physical conditioning is going to be so organized that it's going to wind up with me driving my kid some place to exercise.

Personally, I have trouble getting him out of a chair in front of the television set and out to the kitchen to eat.

ALL CHOKED UP

I get all choked up to think that government, too, is worried about my problem.

The average kid — that's who they're going to help — and no kids are any more average than mine, for heaven's sake.

* * *

What government fails to realize is that the average kid is already so organized he barely has time to eat. Sports, teen clubs, youth clubs, various lessons, you name it.

Today's adage is "An organized kid requires less parental watching."

FREE TIME

What government could provide is a little free time, and a place, other than the street or my living room, to get out from under.

And the place should come equipped with a listener.

I'm too busy being a chauffeur to listen for very long at any one time.

* * *

Somebody young — old enough to know when to keep his mouth shut — young enough to sympathize, and incapable of pushing even one single activity.

You might describe him as "a friend."

IN WALKING DISTANCE

And this listener should be stationed within walking distance of home.

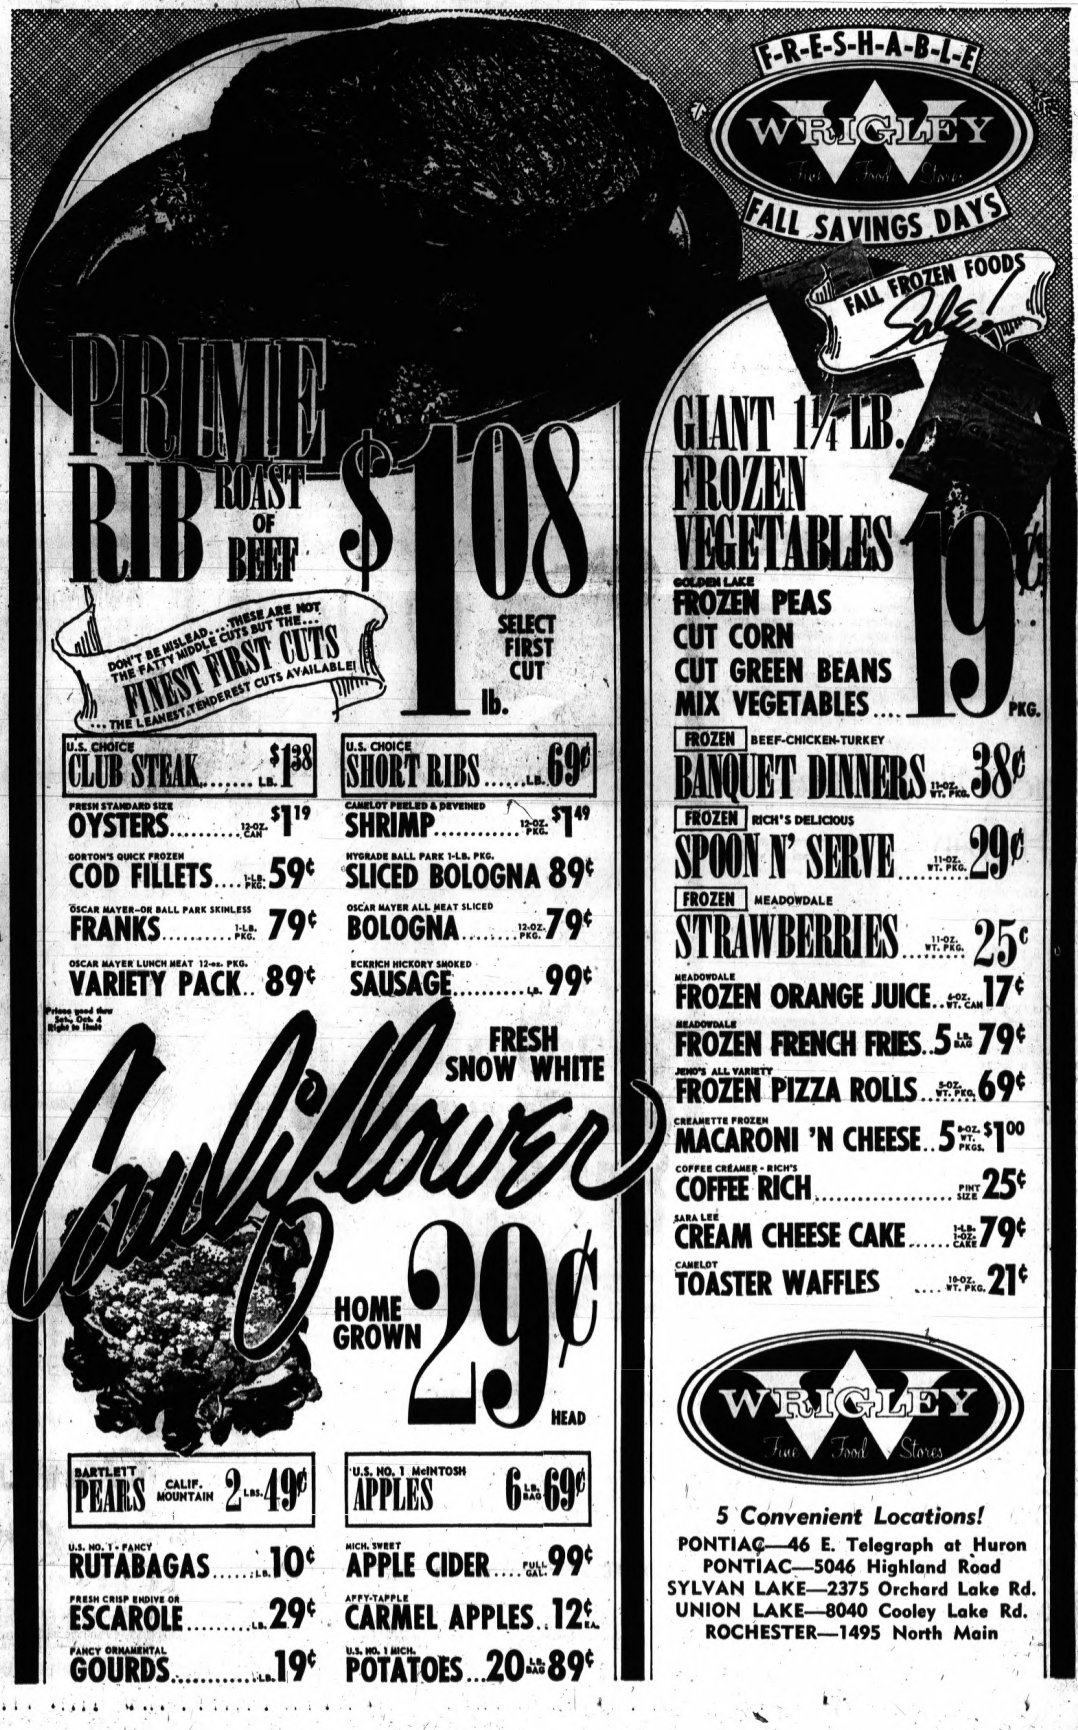
And his office — or his vacant lot or his empty store — should not be called "a drop-in center for kids." It should just be.

* * *

Who knows? This nonorganization might be so successful that the next thing the government will undertake will be the nonorganization of adults.

And if WE all started taking each other on individual merit, rather than by category, it could affect our thinking muscles.

And that, you must admit, has possibilities — for physical fitness, that is.



County Board to Get Budget Later in Month

By JEAN SAILE

A controversial 1970 county government budget — pared to just under $30 million — will probably go to the board of supervisors later this month.

The budget will face a public hearing at the Oct. 9 session of the board, according to the committee clerk's office.

* * *

As prepared by the County Board of Auditors in conjunction with the board's personnel practices and finance committees, the budget is a thinner model than the $31-million tentative figure discussed last spring. It is still $4.1 million above that allowed county government this year.

And as finance committee members point out, it proposes an expenditure of $14 million for salaries next year compared to $11.6 million set aside this year.

NEW POSITIONS

The increase would finance 73 new positions, and allow an additional $1 million for the present 1,492 county employes.

Most administrators have been recommended for $2,000 raises with nine positions, including five for physicians, recommended for $3,000 raises. Elected officials are to receive an additional $1,500.

The personnel practices committee in its recommendation notes, "Based on comparative salaries and the highly competitive employment market in which the county finds itself — and considering that Oakland has the highest per household income of any county in the state ($13,451), ranks among the top 1 per cent in county per capita wealth in the United States and ranks a close second in the smallest amount per capita ($36.18) spent for total county government functions in the state, the salary adjustments in the recommendation are not only less than extravagant, but are necessary . . ."

The finance committee's accompanying resolution reports that the provision of financing the salaries is not be construed as an endorsement for "the recommendations contained therein."

The budget — for $29.9 million — requires 5.16 mills of property tax to finance it plus another $9 million in county revenue from anticipated state income tax returns and other revenue.

The fact that there is only 5.16 mills of the property tax available to county government, as opposed to 5.28 mills this year, is also taken note of in the finance committee resolution.

* * *

For the second year in a row, the Tax Allocation Board has narrowed the county's slice of the 15-mill tax pie and increased those funds earmarked for schools. This year the reduction transferred nearly $500,000 out of county government coffers.

* * *

"These millage reductions over the past two years have precluded the use of almost $1 million of new revenues per year, which normally could have been used in financing the county's rapidly expanding needs for additional services and to meet the rising costs of present services in today's inflationary spiral," says the finance committee resolution.

BUILDING FUND

The budget provides for initiation of a five-year building program fund, to be paid for by one-tenth of a mill — $402,613 in 1970. It sets aside $400,000 for a county road matching program which should permit $1 million in new road construction next year.

The Oakland County Office of Economic Opportunity is allotted $39,325 and $800,000 is earmarked for the employes' retirement system as required under the organization.

* * *

Nearly $700,000 has been left in a contingency fund to be used by supervisors as they see fit, and as emergencies rise during the year.

Of the total budget, 36.20 per cent is devoted to health and welfare — easily the most costly services offered by county government. For the $32.46 county government is estimated to cost each resident next year, $6.81 of that sum will fund health programs and $4.94 will fund welfare programs.

Racial Ills Alertness a Help in Kalamazoo

KALAMAZOO (AP) — The status of race relations in Kalamazoo was described yesterday as one in which most citizens are willing to provide equality of opportunity without discrimination.

But despite these efforts, the Michigan Civil Rights Commission reported, "minority group citizens perceive Kalamazoo and its principal institutions as perpetuating patterns of discrimination."

* * *

The commission said in a 54-page report that its investigation into the racial picture earlier this year showed there is an awareness of racial problems and a willingness to do something about them.

"But it also found resistance —some of it expressed openly, some expressed anonymously through harassing phone calls and letters," the commission added.

NOT ALL RACIAL

The commission said it found problems not exclusively racial in nature which nevertheless affect minority people.

Lack of adequate programs for youth was cited as an example, including a seeming inability to keep a teen center open and a plan to relocate the YMCA in an area not easily reachable to most minority youth.

The commission said it also found an almost total lack of awareness of the existence of Kalamazoo's growing population of Mexican-Americans.

Investigations and a public hearing were conducted by commissioners and staff members this year. The commission findings included:

● Stable employment in the area with an increasing need for skilled and technical labor—but insufficient effort to train minority workers for these higher level jobs.

● De-facto segregated schools reflecting the city's segregated housing pattern, with a potential for increased student tension due to a lack of fair disciplinary and school closing policies. Also a serious shortage of minority teachers and administrators.

* * *

● Residential segregation with minority families concentrated in areas containing the highest concentration of deteriorating and dilapidated housing and most overcrowding.

● A police department that tries hard to recruit and train its personnel to conduct itself in a professional manner, but a reservoir of discriminatory feelings by some police officers and a belief on the part of many minority citizens that law enforcement generally is discriminatory.

SOME RECOMMENDATIONS

To improve the law enforcement situation, the commission recommended that adequate funds be provided by the city for recruitment and training, with an emphasis on increasing the number of minority group policemen and on training the entire department "to handle tension situations in a professional, nondiscriminatory manner."

The commission said there a only six Negroes and no Spanish-surnamed men on the police force.

FANS LAUD BRAVES — It was a night for back-slapping in Atlanta last night as fans pour onto the field (top) to congratulate Atlanta's Braves after they clinched the National League Western Division championship with a 3-2 decision over Cincinnati. Braves' slugger Henry Aaron (below) is surrounded as he moves toward the dugout. The Braves now meet the New York Mets in a three-out-of-five series to determine who'll represent the National League in the World Series.

Sizzling Braves Win Title

ATLANTA (AP) — It took Atlanta's longest winning streak to do it, but the Braves have won the National League West Division championship.

The Braves, who streaked to 17 victories in their last 20 games including 10 in a row, killed San Francisco's slim chances of tying for the title with a 3-2 vitcory over Cincinnati Tuesday night.

★ ★ ★

Atlanta ends its regular season against the Reds Thursday night and opens the best-of-5 series with the East Division champion New York Mets here Saturday with the National League pennant at stake.

Rico Carty, who hit .387 during the Braves' surge that began Sept. 9, drove home the winning run with a sacrifice fly in the seventh inning, capping a two-run rally.

KNUCKLEBALLERS

Ace knuckleballer Phil Niekro gained his 23rd victory, relieved over the final two innings by veteran knuckleballer Hoyt Wilhelm, who retired six Reds in a row, three by strikeouts. It was Niekro's sixth straight victory over the Reds this season.

Wilhelm said after the game that he was "a little nervous" when he began warming up. "In a game like that, you've got to be."

★ ★ ★

Wilhelm, 46, logged his fourth save —he's won two—since the Braves picked him up on waivers last month.

Pinch hitter Mike Lum opened the seventh with a single to center and Ralph Garr, batting for Niekro, drew a walk, sending Cincinnati starter Gary Nolan to the showers and bringing on Wayne Granger.

Lum was forced at third on Felix Millan's bunt but Tony Gonzalez made it 2-2 with his fourth straight single, scoring Garr.

Hank Aaron walked to load the bases and Carty, who missed the entire 1968 season with tuberculosis, drilled the fly ball to right that scored Millan with the winning run.

Atlanta, playing before a partisan crowd of 43,974 that cheered constantly, took a 1-0 lead in the third on Niekro's single, Millan's sacrifice bunt, an infield hit by Gonzalez and Aaron's single to left.

Win Brings Celebration in Atlanta

ATLANTA (AP) — A strip joint owner stopped the show, shouting, "The Braves win, the Braves win."

Playboy Bunny Patti said she was happy for a "great bunch of guys."

★ ★ ★

Lunch counter customers and bus riders clustered over radios, grinning and cheering.

Fans crowded the stadium field, mobbing the players, throwing confetti, setting off firecrackers.

The Atlanta Braves had just clinched the National League West Division pennant with a 3-2 victory over Cincinnati, their 10th straight win.

The Braves finish the season Thursday night and then go into the playoffs against the East Division champion New York Mets Saturday.

FINAL OUT

"It was great," said W. J. Padgett seconds after Hoyt Wilhelm got pinch-hitter Alex Johnson on a grounder to short for the final out Tuesday night. "What else can you say?"

That summed up the reaction of thousands of other Braves fans, at the stadium and elsewhere.

"It's the greatest thing that's ever happened to the Southeast," said strip club owner Buck Sessions. "I died a hundred deaths during those last three outs."

Atlanta Alderman Jack Summers declared, "I feel like we just won the World Series. I think we're going to make it."

One fan said she had followed the Braves in both Atlanta and Milwaukee, where they played from 1953 until moving to Atlanta in 1966.

"I'm delighted," said Mrs. Mary Burkhardt. "I moved to Atlanta from — would you believe — Milwaukee a month ago. I loved them up there and I love them here."

LEW SLOWED — Milwaukee Bucks' towering rookie Lew Alcindor sits in a wheelchair after arriving in Milwaukee from Wichita, Kan., Monday. Alcindor, 7-feet-1½-inches, suffered a sprained ankle in an exhibition game Sunday night. He rode the wheelchair from the plane to a car.

No Lead Big Enough Says OSU's Hayes

CHICAGO (AP) — The days of sitting on a two or three touchdown lead are gone in college football, take it from no less an authority than Woody Hayes of Ohio State who commands the nation's No. 1 team.

Hayes, whose Buckeyes rolled over Texas Christian 62-0 in their opener last Saturday, told Chicago Football Writers Tuesday that "During a game you don't know how big is big enough."

★ ★ ★

Hayes referred to Purdue's opener against the same TCU team a week before when the Boilermakers rambled to a big lead and had to hold off TCU for a 42-35 victory.

High geared offenses in the college game have developed from the beginning of platoon football to extension of the games by stopping the clock after every first down.

OPENS DOOR

It all makes for more excitement, bigger crowds but also opens the door for lopsided victories by teams loaded with talent.

"Platoon football offenses are reaching their maximum potential," said Hayes. "The quarterback is in the game totally and not just a drop back passer.

"College coaches experimented and were not afraid to run the quarterback as you can see in the triple option offense. More and more quarterbacks employ the run-pass option. There are ramifications to the new offenses and the big scoring is not necessarily a drop in defensive football," added Hayes.

John Coatta, whose winless Wisconsin Badgers appear on the verge of a breakthrough because of their potent offense, attributes the big scoring to the greater skills of the players.

"The kids today all run, catch and throw the ball so well that it is difficult for the defense to keep up," said Coatta. "If you have a wealth of material, you can put good players on defense. But if you're short of manpower, the better players go on offense because you must score to win."

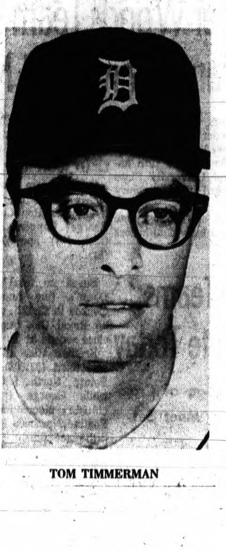
Rookie Helps Tigers Nail Down No. 2 Spot



TOM TIMMERMAN

Mickey Lolich After 20th Win in 1969 Finale

BALTIMORE (AP) — What do Mike Kekich, Fritz Peterson, Mel Stottlemyre, Mike Kilkenny and Tom Timmerman have in common?

They all have complete-game victories over the Baltimore Orioles in running up a five-game losing streak for the American League's Eastern Division champions, their longest of the season.

★ ★ ★

Timmerman, 4-3, a 10 -year minor leaguer making his first major league start, held the Orioles to seven hits Tuesday night as the Detroit Tigers won 4 -3 and clinched second place in the Eastern Division.

Mickey Lolich, seeking an elusive 20th victory, gets his last chance tonight when the Tigers close the season against Baltimore. He has lost 10.

Jim Palmer, 15-4, is scheduled to start for the Orioles.

Loser Dave McNally, 20-7, was routed during a three-run, seventh-inning rally which featured Don Wert's two-run single.

DOUBLE PLAY

After Mickey Stanley had been doubled off second on Cesar Gutierrez' liner to Dave Johnson, the Tigers came roaring back.

McNally walked Jim Northrup and Willie Horton, then was kayoed by Bill Freehan's double, which scored Northup. Wert greeted reliever Dick Hall with his two-run single.

Stanley and Wert had two safeties to pace the Tigers' nine-hit attack.

★ ★ ★

The Orioles almost came back in the ninth as Don Buford singled in Mark Belanger, but Timmerman got Paul Blair on a popup to Freehan.

Manager Earl Weaver played his Oriole regulars for only the fifth time in 16 games since they clinched the division title Sept. 16.

Decals Becoming Difficult to Obtain

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Gold football decals that appear on some Michigan football players' helmets are symbols of excellence in past games.

And the way U-M rolled to victories in its first two games, some players were awarded as many as six at one time.

★ ★ ★

But coach Bo Schembechler says "those things are going to be a little tougher to get now."

The Wolverines had little trouble crushing Vanderbilt 42-14 and last week thrashing Washington 45-7, but this Saturday they take on Missouri, rated ninth in the country.

"The Missouri defense is one of the best in the country," Schembechler said this week at a news luncheon.

"They play their secondary so tight they're line linebackers," he said. "... Their defense hasn't been scored on by rushing yet."

That might prove a problem to U-M, which has ground out 729 yards rushing in two games. Junior quarterback Don Moorhead and sophomore tailback sensation Glenn Doughty have accounted for 560 of that.

SLOW STARTER

"Missouri has always been a slow starting team," Schembechler said. "And they may be again. They're starting to get better already."

He said the Tigers have good field goal kicking and punting return games.

"We'll have to defense their punt returns. It's aa real fine weapon for them," he said.

The former Miami of Ohio coach said there is not much that can be done against their field goal attempts, which may come from anywhere inside the 50-yard-line.

The Tigers, who beat the Air Force Academy in their first game and downed Illinois last week, were 7-3 last season and went on to upset Alabama 35-10 in the Gator Bowl.

Ex-Kettering Player Cut for Three Weeks

Former Kettering gridder Jim Haviland, who started at the cornerback spot for the Miami Hurricanes in their 16-14 loss to Florida State, will be lost to the team for at least three weeks.

Haviland suffered a shoulder injury late in the game. He is expected to return for the Houston game Nov. 1.

Delvecchio's Goal Wins for Detroit

BARRIE, Ont. (AP) — Alex Delvecchio scored the last goal of the game in the second period to give Detroit a 3-2 victory over the Los Angeles Kings in a National Hockey League exhibition contest Tuesday.

Pete Stemkowski and Hank Monteith accounted for the Red Wings' other goals.

Bob Lemieux and Bill Flett scored Los Angeles' two goals.

Pistons' Coach Wondering...

DETROIT (UPI) — A year ago, Bill Van Breda Kolff was wondering how he'd survive a season of squabbles with Wilt Champerlain.

Ahh, sweet memories.

Now Van Breda Kolff must be just wondering how he can survive the season as coach of the Detroit Pistons.

★ ★ ★

Van Breda Kolff left the Los Angeles Lakers after the Boston Celtics had beaten them in the seventh game of the National Basketball Association playoffs.

He now begins the first of two years as coach of a team which finished sixth in the seven-team NBA East last season — and the Pistons didn't corral a single draft choice of note — again.

As if that wasn't enough of a problem, he faces the prospect of losing his best player soon to the rival American Basketball Association.

Dave Bing, who led the NBA in scoring two years ago, has signed an estimated half-million-dollar contract with the Washington Caps, starting in 1971-72, after his contract with the Pistons runs out.

"I don't think that will affect his play here," Van Breda Kolff said. "I've seen him play since high school and he only knows one way to play — all out."

Center Walt Bellamy, acquired in the trade which sent Dave DeBusschere to New York and almost gave the Knicks the key to the playoffs, is as good as there is. Critics tack a "when he wants to be" onto that sentence.

Happy Hairston will get Van Breda Kolff some points and pull down a few rebound (18-point average and nearly 1,000 rebounds last season) while Terry Dischinger and McCoy McLemmore do a capable job on the other side.

Eddie Miles ranks among the best guards, and Jimmy Walker, the former Providence flash who has disappointed in the past, has a "new attitude" again. Howard Komives, obtained in the DeBusschere deal, can also come off the bench and swish a few.

Nets Drop 2 Cagers

BROOKVILLE, N.Y. (UPI) — Wilbur Frazier, a 6-9 center, and Elvin Ivory, 6-8, were cut Tuesday from the New York Nets squad as the club prepared for its Oct. 17 American Basketball Association opener.

Club Sags on Field, at Gate

Long Road Ahead for Young Padres

SAN DIEGO (AP)—Baseball fans in San Diego apparently won't come out to watch a loser, but E. J. "Buzzie" Bavasi can't blame them. He wouldn't either.

★ ★ ★

"These people in San Diego want something to root for," Bavasi, president of the San Diego Padres said. "I as a fan, can't see people rooting for a club that wins one out of every four days.

★ ★ ★

"But if we can win as often as we lose, you'll see an appreciable difference in the audience."

The Padres, last in the National League's West Division, have completed their home schedule at 50,000-seat San Diego Stadium, playing before 613,302, an average of 8,177 a game.

Bavasi said it was too early to determine the club's financial deficit, but he said a season attendance of 800,000 was required to break even.

San Diego County has about 1.4 million people.

Bavasi said he and C. Arnholt Smith, majaority owner of the team, would not look to another city if attendance doesn't increase in 1970.

"We would have to take a dim view of the future if we didn't pick up next year," Bavasi said. "If we don't do a lot better at the gate we'll have to think which direction to go. By that I don't mean Ft. Worth, Buffalo or New Orleans.

★ ★ ★

"What I mean is right now our direction is headed toward the minor leagues to develop our players. Now, if we don't come up with the resources to do this, we'll have to take what good players we have and sell them to get enough cash to sign young players or free agents.

"Right now we think we can do it through our own minor league system."

But without good attendance revenue the Padres will be in a bind.

DRAFT FIRST

"If we don't draw well there's no way we're going to sign ballplayers, particularly now when we're finishing last and we draft first. We don't have the money now and we're in trouble.

★ ★ ★

"We'll do something about it," Bavasi said. "We've got to go out and borrow and beg money to sign these ballplayers because now is the time to do it. Four years from now, when we're fourth or fifth, we won't be first in the draft.

★ ★ ★

"We need the money now but we don't have it because we haven't drawn well enough.

"We've had a frugal operation. We've had to cut down here and there. But if it hadn't been for the excessive charge ($10 million) for the franchise, we'd have been all right. We'd have made a few dollars.

★ ★ ★

"I thonght it was an excessive charge and wanted no part of it. But Mr. Smight said he had promised the city major league baseball and the price wasn't going to interfere — and it didn't."

Giants Miss Fifth Straight Bouquet

San Francisco Finishes Second in W. Division

Perry Stops Redlegs With 14 Strikeouts for 6-1 Win

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—"The turning point of the season was when Atlanta failed to lose," sighed San Francisco Giants' Manager Clyde King at the conclusion of the Great Race Tuesday night.

The second-place Giants failed to grasp the bouquet for a fifth straight season when the Braves clinched the National League West Division title with a 3-2 triumph over Cincinnati Tuesday night.

★ ★ ★

A few minutes later, the Giants took the field and sealed runnerup honors as Gaylord Perry struck out 14 San Diego Padres in a 6-1 victory, his 19th of the season.

"Naturally, I'm disappointed we didn't win it," said King, "but it isn't because we didn't try. We've won 11 of 16 games, but the Braves have been unbelievable with 10 straight and 17 of 20.

PLAYED WELL

"If we were something like 6-11 down the stretch it would be different, but we played good ball," the skipper stressed. "I can't complain because I'm grateful we did so well despite all our injuries.

"Nothing that's happened has changed my opinion of this club," Clyde continued. "We kept hustling all the way. Look at tonight. We could have fallen flat on or face, but we went out and did a job."

★ ★ ★

Though the Giants learned the bad news prior to the game they jumped on loser Al Santorini, 8-14, for three runs in the first inning. Bobby Bonds belted a two-run single and scored on the same play when two Padres erred.

Bonds scored again in the fourth after walking and stealing second and third. The two runs pulled him ahead of Pete Rose for the league lead, 119 to 118. The steals were Bonds' 44th in 47 attempts.

★ ★ ★

Willie McCovey went hitless, but boosted his RBI lead to 125 with a run-scoring grounder in the seventh. King said it would be up to McCovey whether he played in the second game of the series today.

"We're going to take a look at some of the young players," explained the manager, "but I'd like to see Willie win the home run and RBI titles. It'll be up to him."

King also disclosed that Juan Marichal, 21-11, would not pitch the season finale Thursday, virtually sewing up the league earned run average title for the great right-hander at 2.10.

Break With Tradition

Two Backs Share Grid Laurel

By the Associated Press

College football tradition, it's wonderful. Rutgers and Princeton, 1869; Notre Dame almost every year since.

But this week The Associated Press decided to break with tradition and name two players as College Backs of the Week—quarterbacks Mike Phipps of Purdue, a 28-14 winner over ... Notre Dame, and Rich Policastro of Rutgers, a 29-0 victor over ... Princeton.

★ ★ ★

Phipps became the first quarterback in history—at least since the forward pass and accurate record-keeping became a part of the tradition—to lead his team to three consecutive victories over Notre Dame.

The 6-foot-3, 206-pound senior from Columbus, Ohio, completed 12 of 20 passes for 213 yards and one touchdown and scored once himself.

"The big difference was Phipps," said Ara Parseghian of Notre Dame, who has lost only eight of 51 games at the helm of the Irish, three of them to Phipps and Co. "He made the big play on every one of their touchdown drives. He has great poise, great touch and great leadership. He has to rank among the best quarterbacks in the country."

ANKLE INJURY

In his first two seasons, despite an ankle injury as a junior, Phipps completed 206 of 412 passes, 14 of them for touchdowns.

Against Notre Dame a year ago, Phipps was 16 of 24 for 194 yards and a TD. In 1967, it was 14 of 34 for 238 yards and two scores.

Coach John Bateman of Rutgers goes overboard on Policastro, a 5-10, 178-pound senior from Highland Park, N.J.—about 1½ miles from Rutgers Stadium.

"There's no better quarterback in the U.S.," Bateman told the New York Football Writers Tuesday. "He sets up real fast, has very fine release, doesn't get jittery with people coming in on his permiter and uses his pocket very well.

"He's a thinking man's quarterback. He does everything that goes into being a quarterback, and the team respects him."

Against Princeton, amidst the pressure of college football's centennial game and with Rutgers on NCAA television for the first time—Policastro hit on 24 of 35 passes for 260 yards and a touchdown. He also scored one.

In two games this season, Policastro has completed 37 of 52 for a brilliant 71.2 per cent. Since he became a starter midway through 1968, he has thrown 17 scoring passes in seven games.

GRIDDER HONORED — Ohio University split end Todd Snyder, going through the cafeteria line at the Athens, O., campus, was named college Lineman of the Week by the Associated Press for his efforts as OU battled Minnesota to a 35-35 standoff last Saturday. The 6-2, 185-pound senior hauled in a one-game school record of 12 passes, good for 122 yards and three touchdowns.

School Record Equals Line Honor

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) — "I'm surprised, really," said Ohio University's ace receiver Todd Snyder. "I've never had an honor like this before."

The 6-foot-2, 185-pound split end learned Tuesday he had been named College Lineman of the Week by The Associated Press for his stellar performance against Minnesota.

★ ★ ★

"I think Cleve deserves much of the credit," Snyder said. "He was on target almost all day."

Cleve is Cleve Bryant, Ohio U.'s star quarterback, who completed 18 of 27 passes for 194 yards against the Gophers as the two clubs battled to a 35-35 standoff.

Snyder hauled in 12 passes, including the game-tying 14-yard touchdown strike in the final period while surrounded by three defenders.

★ ★ ★

His receptions, a school record, added up to 122 yards and he gathered in pitches of seven and five yards for two more touchdowns.

THREE TDs

"I'm particularly pleased with the three touchdowns because it matched my entire production last year," the 20-year-old senior said.

★ ★ ★

Minnesota Coach Murray Warmath called the Bryant-Snyder duo "the best combination I ever saw." Describing Snyder, he said "his hands remind me of a vacuum cleaner or an octopus with suction Cups."

★ ★ ★

And Paul Giel, a former Minnesota grid star, said "three of Snyder's catches were the greatest I have ever seen."

Snyder staged his heroics against a Minnesota zone defense but he caught nine passes in the second half while double-teamed most of the time.

"It's a great thrill but it would have been so much better if we could have won the game."

Snyder, whose father Jim coaches the basketball team at Ohio U., holds nine records at the school with 79 pass receptions for 1,407 yards in his first two seasons.

A sports administration major, Snyder has pro football aspirations and most coaches feel he can't miss. "I'd like a shot at pro ball—it's been my dream."

Colleges Put Greater Punch in Grid Attack

Coach Alex Agase, whose Northwestern Wildcats also are seeking their first victory of the season, agreed with Hayes and Coatta and added that the games are 30 per cent longer than they used to be.

GREATER SKILLS

"The kids are more developed and they have greater skills," said Agase. "I disagree, however, with the belief that the better players are put on offense.

"Where they play is dictated by quickness," he continued. "You can't coach quickness. A kid has it or he hasn't got it. Therefore, there are times you must use the quick kid on defense. The bigger and slower men go on the offensive line. An offensive lineman doesn't have to run. He blocks and that's only taking a few steps.

"It all boils down to speed and you use it where you need it." said Agase. "You can teach them to block, tackle and learn to think. But you cannot teach speed."

Bloomfield Lahser Wins 4th in Soccer

Bloomfield Hills Lahser's soccer team, behind the defensive efforts of goalie Pat Hall, posted its fourth straight win Tuesday by defeating Birmingham Groves, 4-0.

★ ★ ★

The latest win moves Lahser's overall record to 4-1.

Barry Kovach led the Knight scoring with two goals followed by John Cvengroes and Daryll Gracey with one each.

Namath Talks of Retiring

Might Not Be Back After This Season

BOSTON (AP) — Quarterback Joe Namath of the New York Jets' said in a television interview Tuesday night he expects to retire from professional football at the end of the 1969 season.

Namath, interviewed by Pat Collins on WBZ-TV's 11 p.m. Eyewitness News show, said his problems with knee injuries have grown and this season they're the worst they've ever been.

★ ★ ★

Namath said he and his doctors have decided upon an operation on the left knee at the end of the season, and that he probably will be finished with football after that.

"Does that mean you're all through at the end of this season?" Miss Collins asked.

★ ★ ★

"I can practically guarantee that," Namath replied.

WBZ-TV said the interview was taped earlier in the evening at Namath's Bachelors III Club in Park Square.

MINNEAPOLIS-ST. PAUL (AP) — Ted Uhlaender's run-producing single with two out in the ninth inning gave the Minnesota Twins a 4-3 victory over the Chicago White Sox Tuesday.

With one out in the ninth, rookie Rick Dempsey singled. After Tony Oliva flied out, Harmon Killebrew walked and Uhlaender won the game with a single over second base.

Jim Holt hit his first major league homer in the eighth, tying the score for Minnesota. George Mitterwald homered for the Twins in the sixth.

Jim Perry, seeking his 21st victory, was removed for a pinch hitter in the sixth to rest for the upcoming playoffs with Baltimore starting Saturday. Reliever Jim Kaat was the winner.

Harper Woods Team Wins Oakland University Meet

Taking two of the top 10 places, Harper Woods Notre Dame streaked to a slim victory yesterday in the fifth annual Oakland University Class A invitational cross-country meet.

Rick Schott of Grosse Pointe North claimed individual honors with a time of 9:25.8, but the Notre Dame crew displayed the best balance in the victory.

LEAD VICTORY

Doug Brown placed second for Notre Dame, followed by teammates Ron Champing (5), George Coppens (14), Greg Geck (15) and Don Jurivich (51).

Defending champion Hazel Park was well off the pace in 10th place at 54:48.3. Schott's time was a little more than seven seconds slower than the record 9:45 set by Hazel Park's Warren Krueger last year.

Ingemar Cuts Weight, Eyes Ring Return

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Ingemar Johansson, of Sweden, former world heavyweight boxing champion, has gone into training "to knock off 50 pounds overweight and perhaps talk about a comeback."

The 35-year-old Johansson, who won the crown from Floyd Patterson and then lost it again to him, weighs 265 pounds.

★ ★ ★

"It is not exactly an ideal fighting weight," Ingo admitted.

He added, "It's all because I lived a happy playboy life too long. Drinks and dinners, but that's all over now. In three weeks I'll be in good shape again."

★ ★ ★

Ingemar, who lives a millionaire's life in Switzerland with occasional pleasure trips to his homeland, is not impressed by the present standard of boxing in Europe.

★ ★ ★

"Look, Henry Cooper is European champion and that's nearly a scandal. I swept the floor with him long ago. And I can do it again," Ingemar said.

He has talked with promoter Bertil Knutson about a comeback in the ring, but no plans have been made as yet.

AA York Pirates to Move Club

YORK, Pa. (AP) — Roy Jackson, owner of the York Pirates in the Class AA Eastern League, announced Tuesday he would not operate next year in York.

One More Week for Ken Hodge

LONDON, Ont. (AP) — Ken Hodge of the Boston Bruins will have to be content to sit out at least one more week before taking part in scrimmage sessions, general manager Milt Schmidt of the National Hockey League club said Tuesday.

★ ★ ★

Hodge underwent an appendix operation two weeks ago but returned to training camp to begin light skating this week.

ROK Flanker Leads Scoring

Royal Oak Kimball, which was moved up to the number five ranking in the Associated Press state class A grid polls this week, also has the distinction of having Oakland County's leading scorer.

Tom Brown, a senior end, currently leads the county with a total of 46 points. With just three games played, Brown's point average figures out to 15 and one-third per contest, more points than some schools have managed to score thus far.

★ ★ ★

Brother Rice, another 3-0 area school, has senior halfback Steve Jones following close behind with 42 points, while fullback Bob Reid of Bloomfield Hills Andover holds down third with a 36 point total.

Mike Webster, a senior back from Waterford Our Lady of Lakes, is only four places removed from the lead with 34 points.

Rochester High School, which has only won one of three games so far, has nonetheless rolled up enough points to place a man in fifth place on the scoring list.

FIVE TIMES

Steve Blair, a junior halfback, has crossed the goal-line five times and ran one conversion for a total of 32 points.

Further on down the list we find Tim Teasley of Roeper, Anthony Thomas of Cranbrook and John Wallace of Cranbrook who have made the Oakland County top scoring list despite having played only two games this season.

★ ★ ★

In the Saginaw Valley Conference scoring race, only one local area boy has managed to tally enough points to make the league standings.

Perry Humphrey, a senior quarterback from Pontiac Central has hit paydirt three times for 18 points, just half the amount of points the Saginaw Valley scoring leader Del Williams of Flint Northwestern, has at 36.

Finley Reports Club Profits Show Decline

OAKLAND (AP) — Charles O. Finley, owner of the Oakland Athletics, said the club will show "a substantial profit" this year, the Oakland Tribune reported Tuesday.

Finley reports he made more than $690,000 in profits before taxes last year and said he made "not quite as much as last year, but a substantial profit."

The Athletics' attendance was down nearly 50,000 this year from the 837,466 in 1968 to 773,332 this season.

"I've never complained about our attendance," Finley said. "I've been somewhat disappointed, but I still appreciate the fact it would be necessary to establish and prove ourselves. I feel we've done both this year."

★ ★ ★

Finley said the two years of profit in Oakland come after eight losing years when the team was in Kansas City.

"Next year we shouldn't have any difficulty hitting one million in attendance."

Hawks vs. Flint

FLINT (AP) — An exhibition hockey game has been scheduled Oct. 8 between the Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey League and the Flint Generals of the International Hockey League. The game will be played at Flint's new $5.3 million IMA Sports Arena.

For F-Bird Game

Route to Lansing Field

For Pontiac Firebirds' fans driving to Lansing for the Central Division game with the Lansing All-Stars at Lansing Sexton High School here is the suggested route:

Take M59 to I-96 toward Lansing; take Kalamazoo Street exit to Michigan Ave., turn left and drive toward the Capitol Building.

A left turn is a must at the Capitol, and then take two rights to get back on Michigan Ave., to the rear of the Capitol. Stay on Michigan Ave., until it runs into the school. The field is behind the school.

Tickets can be purchased locally at VFW Post 1370. They are $2 for adults and $1 for students. Kickoff is 7:30 p.m.

Angels Rehire Phillips, Look for Bat Support

Phillies' Richie Allen Would Fill Hitting Bill, Says California Pilot

ANAHEIM (AP) — Wanted: A .350 hitter who clubs the long ball.

Inquire: California Angels, Anaheim. Good trade possibilities.

Rehired Tuesday as the Angels' manager for 1970, Lefty Phillips made clear what he needs for the next season.

"We must come up with a good hitter," Phillips told a news conference, specifically naming only the Philadelphia Phillies' Richie Allen as a candidate for a halo.

★ ★ ★

"We must sacrifice probably some of our pitching and perhaps at some other position," Phillips said.

The 50-year-old Phillips, a long-time scout and coach with the Los Angeles Dodgers in 1968, became "interim" manager of the Angels last May 27 when affable Bill Rigney was fired.

At that time, the club stood last in the American League's Western Division with an 11-28 mark after 10 straight losses. When the announcement of Phillips' retention for 1970 came, his club had clinched third place with a 71-88 mark—an even 60-60 during his tenure.

TOUGH JOB

"Lefty walked into a tough job," said Gene Autry, the club's principal owner. "He made the changes we felt were necessary and brought respectability to the team. With his record, we felt he was entitled to come back."

Asked if he could handle the controversial Allen should the Angels be able to land him, Phillips said: "I think a change will help him a lot. I'm no super manager, but I'd certainly accept him and his shortcomings and try it from there." Allen has asked to be traded from Philadelphia where he frequently has been in disagreements with the manager and management.

★ ★ ★

Phillips signed a one-year contract and Autry said, "We haven't even talked salary. There was so much prophesying as to his future, we decided yesterday to go with him again."

Autry said the reason Rigney was let go was because "we felt he was too easy on the ball players. . .even though he was one of the greatest guys in the world."

There had been some criticism among veteran players over the appointment of Phillips. But, asked about morale on the club during his months as manager, Lefty replied:

"This ball club hustled 100 per cent during the season. I know you can't satisfy all 25 men. A lot of people won't recognize their own shortcomings and some people were not happy about not playing. . .This club had as good morale as any club in baseball."

OCC Harriers Place Third

The Raiders (3-4) of Orchard Ridge wound up third yesterday in a quadrangular cross-country outing.

Delta College set the pace with 43 points, followed by Monroe (51), Orchard Ridge (63) and Schoolcraft (67).

Doug Derr of Schoolcraft set the pace with a 22:56 clocking, while Delta's Bob Sigsby and Bill Deckett placed second and fourth, respectively. Rich O'Connell wound up sixth at 23:46 for the Raiders.

Vikings' Kapp Leading Passers

NEW YORK (AP) — Joe Kapp and Gene Washington of Minnesota and Calvin Hill, Dallas rookie, took over the most important statistical departments in the second week of the National Football League seasons.

★ ★ ★

Kapp, who rode the bench in the losing opener, came back with seven touchdown passes, tying the league record, and moving out front as the top passer on the strength of only one game, according to league statistics released today.

Washington gathered in two of Kapp's touchdown bombs of 83 and 42 yards among seven catches for 172 yards went out front among the receivers with 13 for 324 yards.

Hill had another big day, running for 141 yards and two touchdowns against New Orleans for the rushing lead with 208 yards.

Ben Hawkins, Philadelphia wide receiver, zoomed into the scoring lead with four touchdowns of Norm Snead's passes in the Eagles' victory over Pittsburgh. Hawkins season total is five touchdowns for 30 points.

Other individual leaders are Don Cockroft of Cleveland in punting with a 45.2-yard average, Doug Hart of Green Bay with two interceptions, Lem Barney of Detroit in punt returns with a 27.3-yard average and Clint Jones of Minnesota in kickoff returns with a 36.5-yard average.

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

By John Carter

Here's a football fact that may surprise you . . . The coach who had the most undefeated - untied teams in pro or major college football in the last 50 years was not any of the coaches you might think of first — but it was Bernie Bierman who had a total of six unbeaten - untied regular - season teams — two at Tulane (1929 and 1931) and four at Minnesota (1934, 1935, 1940, 1941).

★ ★ ★

Very few fans — even the real good ones—can come up with the answer to this question . . . See if you know the real first names of each of these players who were voted a spot on the All - Time baseball team in the recent balloting — Pie Traynor, Honus Wagner, Mickey Cochrane, Babe Ruth and Lefty Grove? . . . What are their real first names? . . . Here's the answer . . . It's Harold Traynor, John Wagner, Gordon Cochrane, George Ruth and Robert Grove.

★ ★ ★

Here's quite a football oddity . . . Washington State University got more points than their opponents last season—yet won only 3 of 10 games! . . . Washington State totaled 189 points during the year while their opponents totaled only 188 against them, but Washington State's record was 3 wins, 6 losses and one tie!

I bet you didn't know . . . that as "polyglas" belted tires proliferate, the tire buying public is faced again with a vast difference in performance and quality. It's the same old story, you need professional advice. See one of our Pros.

'Big 4' Helps Houston Halt Enemy Aerials

NEW YORK (AP) — Houston's use of four defensive tackles has paid off with the best pass rush in the American Football League.

After the first three games, the Oilers have dumped the quarterback 11 times for 103 yards while showing the way in both total defense and pass defense, according to league statistics released today.

The Oilers have allowed only 211 yards per game and have restricted the opposition to 114 yards per game in the air. Kansas City is best against the rush with a 60-yard average.

Great Lakes: New Fish Management Plan

A tentative new zone management plan programmed to cover sport and commercial fishing in the state's Great Lakes waters in 1970 has been unveiled by the Department of Natural Resources.

The object of the plan is to boost the recovery of fish stocks in the big lakes.

★ ★ ★

The plan, subject to change, maps out areas to expand the potential of sport fishing along the Great Lakes, and calls for close controls over the state's commercial fishing industry consistent with the reduced pressure which depressed fish populations can stand for netting operations.

As such, it divides Michigan's Great Lakes waters into three distinct areas — sport fishing development zones, rehabilitation zones, and commercial fishing zones.

OFF LIMITS

The first of these would be largely off limits to commercial fishing — completely so in lakes Michigan and Huron — in an effort to promote sport fishing along the shoreline where there is the greatest potential for it.

Selection of these zones, covering such waters as Keweenaw Bay and those stretching from Grand Traverse Bay to Little Traverse Bay, also reflects efforts by local communities to expand sport-fishing services and facilities along their shores.

Under its plan, which comes up for final Commission action in Lansing Oct. 9-10, the DNR would intensify plantings of trout and salmon to increase angling opportunities in the sport fishing development zones.

★ ★ ★

Within the rehabilitation zones, which largely cover off-shore waters of the Great Lakes, commercial fishing would be regulated to give remnant populations of perch, walleyes and herring a chance to rebuild.

Controls in these waters would also protect lake trout and add to the program to restore self-supporting populations of these fish in lakes Superior and Michigan.

As proposed for rehabilitation zones, large-mesh commercial gill nets would be banned generally, and small-mesh gill nets would be limited to waters 40 fathoms or deeper in lakes Michigan and Huron. For Lake Superior, the dividing line for small-mesh gill nets would be waters 50 fathoms or more.

PERCH PROTECTED

Besides the protective gill netting restrictions already outlined, the DNR's plan calls for taking perch and walleyes off the commercial fishing list in the three upper Great Lakes, except for a portion of Saginaw Bay in Lake Huron where perch would remain open to commercial netting.

Herring, another species virtually in total collapse in Michigan's Great Lakes waters, would be completely protected in lakes Michigan and Huron.

In Lake Superior where herring populations are more abundant, these fish will remain open to commercial fishing except during their spawning season.

★ ★ ★

Sturgeon, classified nationally as an endangered species, would be off limits to all commercial fishing throughout Michigan's Great Lakes waters.

DNR Fish Chief Wayne Tody reported the commercial catch of perch in Lake Michigan has plunged from about 2.5 millions pounds only four or five years ago to 80,000 pounds this year.

He pointed to charts which showed that Lake Michigan's production of herring and walleyes has suffered a similar drastic decline.

★ ★ ★

The three species — perch, walleyes, and herring — have declined to a point in lakes Michigan and Huron where they are providing "no one" a valuable fishery, emphasized Tody.

The third and final areas designated under the DNR's new plan are commercial fishing zones where netting operations can be continued without jeopardizing the lake trout restoration program, or remnant populations of walleyes, perch, and herring.

GENTLE REMOVAL — Dr. Ralph Farnsworth, veterinarian at the St. Paul (Minn.) Como Park Zoo, uses a string-like saw to cut off the antlers of the zoo's bull elk. It was a painless operation for the huge animal. Elk normally shed their antlers in late fall and grow a new set in the spring, but for protection of other animals in the same pen, the massive rack was removed early.

Ski Flying Slide Takes Shape

IRONWOOD (AP) — A ski flying slide, the only one of its kind in the western hemisphere, is rapidly taking shape atop Copper Peak, in the vast Ottawa National Forest, 12 miles north of Ironwood.

When completed early this winter, the 120-meter slide is expected to permit leaps of over 500 feet — more than 160 feet greater than the present North American ski jumping distance mark.

★ ★ ★

Ski flying is distinguished from the more familiar ski jumping by the tremendous distances involved.

The largest American ski jump is 90-meters, such as the Pine Mountain jump at Iron Mountain. The present distance jumping record of 338 feet was set on such a jump in 1967.

EUROPEAN SPORT

While ski flying is little known in the United States, it is well established in Europe and Scandanavia where international meets draw up to 50,000 spectators.

Sky fling facilities now exist in Planica, Yugoslavia; Kulm, Austria, Vickersund, Norway, and Obertsdorf, Germany but this is the first venture into this heart-stopping sport in the United States and, by a ruling of the Federation of International Skiing, governing body for international ski competition, will remain so.

★ ★ ★

The first international meet at Copper Peak has been set for Feb. 27-March 1, 1970. A large field of international jumpers is expected to enter.

Construction of the slide itself began Sept. 3, after a two-month delay in the delivery of the corten steel used for the supports and scaffolding.

The slide will tower 241 feet above the top of the 350-foot Copper Peak, at its highest point.

From the observation deck, which will be open year around, a veiw of the Ottawa National Forest, Lake Superior and the Porcupine Mountains, far to the northeast, will be opened up.

CHAIR LIFT

An 800-foot chair lift will carry jumpers, officials and sightseers from the base of the hill to the top. The elevator will complete the trip to the observation deck.

★ ★ ★

An estimated 200 tons of steel will be used in constructing the slide. The support legs for the tower alone will weigh 20 tons each.

Copper Peak is being financed through local fund drives and substantial grants and loans from various governmental and development agencies intersted in seeing this area more fully develop its tourism potential.

Biologist Tells Anglers They Shouldn't Worry

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — Muskegon River anglers needn't be panicked by the report that "great numbers" of Chinook salmon died in Muskegon Lake of "thermal shock."

John Trimberger, district fish biologist for the Department of Natural Resources, says the number actually was "insignificant" in terms of the total fall run of Chinooks in the Muskegon, which hasn't really started yet.

★ ★ ★

He was able to check out "about 30" and that's a long way from a disaster.

Entering the warm water of Muskegon Lake from cooler Lake Michigan, the too-anxious fish could not find tolerable temperatures and sufficient oxygen at the same depth, mostly because they arrived too early.

The main run, which is controlled largely by temperatures, isn't apt to happen until the water cools off both in the Lake Michigan shallows and Muskegon Lake.

★ ★ ★

Chinook are already jumping in the upper waters of the Muskegon River although they don't seem to be biting too well. Two 20-pound Chinook were caught Saturday at Od Croton Dam, 30 miles upstream, which is as far as the fish can go.

It does not appear that the main run has arrived, although it is expected any day.

Even if things are not right then, a serious spawning run of salmon could whip through that lake in half an hour if they want to — and they'll want to.

Steel Head trout, which usually run a little later, have never had any trouble in Muskegon Lake and the main swarms of salmon aren't apt to, either.

Seven Million Trees Available

Nearly seven million young pine trees are being offered at approximate production costs by the Department of Natural Resources for reforestation plantings this fall or next spring on idle private lands in Michigan.

★ ★ ★

Listed for sale are small white pine, jack pine, red pine, and white spruce trees priced between $12 and $25 per thousand.

★ ★ ★

Shipments of young conifers already ordered for this fall will get under way as soon as the first hard frosts hit to make the stock safe for lifting from nursery beds. This fall's deliveries will then continue through the end of October, according to present DNR plans.

★ ★ ★

Order blanks and price lists covering the DNR's planting stock are available free from its Forestry Division in Lansing. They also may be obtained from offices of DNR field foresters and county extension agents.

Trading Is Slow

Market Continues Decline

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market continued its steady decline in slow trading this afternoon, as brokers said many investors were waiting to see where the bottom lies.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon slumped 3.89 to 809.20.

* * *

Losses led gains by better than 200 issues. "Everybody is watching this 800 DJI level to see if the market will hold there again," commented one analyst. "If it does hold, we can expect a new wave of buying, especially by bargain hunters, since there is an enormous amount of cash around."

In the past week, funds have been dressing up their portfolios forr the third quarter by e changing large blocks. But even block trading appeared down today, observed another analyst. The third quarter ended Tuesday.

Some profit taking existed in the issues that have been flying high in the past two weeks.

* * *

These include:

Xerox at 99, off ¾; Control Data 140¾ off 1⅛; IBM 343¾, off 1½; and Polaroid 129⅜, off ⅛.

* * *

The Associated Press 60-stock average at noon wass off .7 at 284.4, with industrials off 1.0, rails off .5, and utilities off .1.

Sales Test Is Ahead for U.S. Car Makers

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — A test is coming later this year between the never-to-be-underestimated sales skills of the automotive manufacturers and a public that has become a bit suspicious and financially tightfisted.

CUNNIFF

For 50 years or so the remarkable sales efforts of the car makers — involving high pressure, low pressure, psychology, sex and, it has been claimed, outright deceit — generated a mania for wheels among Americans.

* * *

A car became not only a transport vehicle that opened up brand-new pastimes and created new needs, but it became a symbol of success even when simply an inert pile of metal parked outside a house.

Each year the new models evolved as regularly as the seasons, and as far into the future as any auto man could peer, all that could be seen was a succession of more "seasons."

SALES INCREASE

Almost every year the sales figures increased, and now the big three auto makers are sprawling enterprises employing hundreds of thousands of workers. Financially they are more powerful than some industrial nations.

Each year, this year included, the industry's leaders projected what appeared to be astronomical sales figures, but in more instances than not they reached them. This year the forecast is for 9.5 million car sales—and a sales test.

* * *

The obstacles come from different points in time. Of immediate danger to forecasts is that prices have been increased at the very time that consumer resistance may be stiffening. Every important measure of consumer confidence is falling now. People are watching their money.

Even though sales of the 1970 models shot off the mark—in September alone sales totaled 645,000 units, or 80,000 more than in September 1968—doubts are growing that the pace can be maintained.

1970 IN DOUBT

Already some authorities on the industry are forecasting a decline in sales right through the end of 1969. And 1970 remains in doubt, an economic riddle.

Some forecasters foresee the economic boom continuing in 1970, and that carries with it the suggestion that car sales could boom, too. But the official government view is different. It calls for a slowdown, and if that happens car sales will become sluggish, also.

Just as important as the financial and economic considerations, almost any auto man will concede, is the increasingly critical view that Americans take of their new cars, no matter how throaty the engine or resonant the door. Once they ran their hand over the paint; now they lift the hood.

Moreover, despite their affluence, many Americans are realizing that cars can be expensive to operate. Garage charges continue to rise. So do insurance rates, taxes, parking tickets.

At 11 cents a mile—the government estimate—you could cross the continent by air for less than it could cost by automobile, a shocking realization for those who continue to regard their vehicles as metal slaves that work for nothing.

Will all these factors—deterioration of consumer confidence, a probable downturn in the economy, the increasingly critical attitude of buyers—hinder the auto makers significantly?

You couldn't tell it from their own forecasts, which call for sales of 13.5 million cars and trucks in the year 1975. Nor do the independent surveys and forecasts call for any great lessening of demand.

The National Industrial Conference Board, for example, foresees a continued bullish market in the 1970s, basing its conclusions on the prospect of increasingly younger and richer families.

WILL BE THERE

Based solely on population and financial prospects, the market certainly will be there. But it is unlikely that ever again will it be the docile, receptive, uncritical market of years gone by.

The sales ingeuity of the car people is going to be tested. Just because, statistically, the market is there doesn't mean they'll get it. But neither can anyone ever underestimate the marketing skills of Detroit.

Resolution Hit as Destroying Unit's Function

What are the duties of an ad hoc committee?

County Supervisor Harry Horton, R-Royal Oak, says they are only those items for which the special committee was formed in the first place.

Horton charges that a resolution to come before the board of supervisors tomorrow destroys the function of the ad hoc committee on roads.

* * *

The resolution formed in the ad hoc committee, would authorize the committee to concern itself with improvements to Telegraph Road as well as to M275 and M150 — problems which have already been tacked on to the original resolution of last February which called solely for M59 widening west of town and work towards a better disbursement of gas-weight tax.

"They're going to get too many things going and accomplish nothing," Horton said.

News in Brief

According to city police, robbers yesterday morning made off with more than $500 from the Progressive Oil Co., 477 S. Saginaw, while the gas station attendant was servicing an auto.

...Education'—Milliken's Text

LANSING (AP) — Following is the text of the televised speech by Gov. William Milliken explaining the proposals advanced by his Special Commission on Educational Reform:

I am here to talk about our schools, our children, and our state's future. The greatest current challenge to our future is the challenge of education.

'I am convinced — as I have never been convinced at any other time on any other issue— that what we do in regard to education and its fundamental reform will have more to do with the quality of life now and in the years to come than any other thing we can do.

Plan Drafted

Five months ago, I named a governor's commission on educational reform and asked it to draft a plan for rapid and responsible reform in elementary and secondary education. The commission, of which - I served as chairman, has developed a plan which will be the basis for my recommendations to the Legislature shortly after it convenes early this month for its fall session on education reform.

In presenting these proposals, I am absolutely determined not to pull any punches, nor in any way evade my responsibility as governor of this state in fighting for necessary reforms — no matter how controversial they may be.

* * *

I am ready to fight for reform and for the children of this state. I invite you to join me in this battle.

Our children are the ones who pay the price when we short-change education. For their sake and for those who will pick up the torch for future generations, I believe we must have reform from the highest level of state authority to the individual classroom.

Small steps will not solve giant problems.

REVAMP OF SYSTEM

I intend to submit to the Legislature a far-reaching set of recommendations which will completely revamp this state's educational system. I believe it will be the boldest, most imaginative, and most innovative educational plan ever placed before the legislature. It cannot be otherwise. We can't have total reform with timid proposals.

We can no longer continue the waste of human and financial resources now occurring in our outmoded educational system . . . nor can we any longer tolerate the reckless course that is the alternative to reform — a course that already has us frustrated by an inequitable tax system, thwarted by an inadequate system of distributing funds and burdened by an antiquated educational system that needs to be overhauled from top to bottom.

* * *

These recommendations stem from the best thinking of the distinguished citizens who served on the commission, augmented by a comprehensive review of a vast amount of research material . . . by testimony from group representatives and concerned citizens at a series of public hearings and by important contributions from members of the commission's advisory council.

The commission's report is not a study to be put on the shelves; it is a blueprint for action to be put on the legislative agenda.

Objectives

With shortcomings of the present educational system in mind, we set out to design a new structure. Our objectives were these:

- To assure to each child, no matter where he may live or what his circumstances may be, an equal educational opportunity.
- To assign appropriate administrative and educational responsibilities to state, regional, and local levels.
- To provide a rational budget process.
- To devise means of testing the system and the students.
- To distribute equitably the tax burden.
- To help preserve in an appropriate and constitutional manner the educational diversity, choice, and public value offered by nonpublic schools.

Our recommendations clearly show that problems which have evolved over the past 100 years cannot be corrected in a single year. These reforms just will be phased into our education system, following a closely prescribed timetable, over a three-year period. They call for basic changes. They deal with causes rather than symptoms. They are intended to rebuild the foundation rather than repaint the walls.

Administration

First and highly important, we need reform of state administration. The organization of public education at the state level is a classic case of arrested development. No single person or institution can be blamed for this. Control and authority on the state level are divided among the governor, the State Board of Education, the superintendent of public instruction, and the Legislature. It's hard to think of a less-workable structure — a huge institution powered by several engines, not all of them pulling the same direction.

Take for example, the State Board of Education. Its members are nominated almost as an afterthought by both political parties, brought into office on the tide of presidential gubernatorial elections, forced to function in a political unit which may be partisan, and given only limited powers to fulfill the requirements of their office. With such handicaps, the board is bound to fail. And fail it has as an effective governing body.

* * *

The commission has no quarrel with these office — holders. who are trying to do the best they can under the circumstances. But such a board, however, gifted its members, just cannot meet the crisis in educational leadership existing in Michigan.

To clearly fix responsibility for operation of the department of education, the commission recommends that the existing board structure and the position of state superintendent be abolished by constitutional amendment and replaced by a state director of education appointed by the governor, subject to Senate confirmation.

DISTRICT REVISIONS

The commission also proposes basic reform in the organization of school districts.

Under the present system, the state has a network of intermediate school districts. At one time in the state's history, these districts served a useful purpose. But over the years, most have become almost useless, in terms of power and functions. Therefore, I am recommending that these intermediate districts be abolished and replaced by ten to fifteen education regions. Their boundaries would be set by a special commission and subject to approval of the Legislature.

* * *

Among other things, these districts should be responsible for special education, technical education, transportation, data processing, central business services, curriculum consulting, and budget review of local districts.

These revisions would play a vital role in equalizing educational opportunity in assuring problems and in providing adequately trained personnel for highly technical functions. They would assume burdens which most local districts are ill — equipped to carry. By using modern business massage — ment techniques, we can save tax dollars and improve the education of children.

NEIGHBORHOOD ROLE

Underneath existing intermediate districts are local school districts. These local districts operate the schools in your neighborhood. They are run by local boards elected by the voters. For the most part, these boards are composed of conscientious, hard - working citizens responding to needs of the community. This system is basically sound. Control of the schools should remain as close to the people as possible. But improvements must be made.

Right now, there are school districts in this state not operating any schools. There are over one hundred districts offering only an elementary program, and there are between 100 and 200 districts which, because of their size and other factors, cannot operate their schools effectively.

* * *

In order to increase the effectiveness of the local district system, we recommend greater consolidation of districts.

Financing

What about the financing of our schools? The answer is that school financing has been drafting from bad to worse, and the time for basic reform is long overdue.

Your state constitution places the primary responsibility for education in the hands of state government.

* * *

We now have a very wide range in the quality of education among the various districts. The lives of Michigan citizens have grown too intertwined; we have become too dependent on each other to impose second or third-class education on any of our children. We want to bring the quality of education up—far up — in those districts where children are not now receiving an even break.

Some districts have a rich tax base—expensive homes or substantial industry; others have a very poor base—perhaps a rural district or a community where incomes are low and the homes are modest. This base, the so - called state equalized valuation, ranges from $3,000 per child in some districts to $60,000 per child in others.

DISTRICT DISPARITY

You can see what happens. In districts where the tax base is high—where property is expensive or where valuable factories are located—school authorities can keep the actual rate of taxes low while raising substantial funds for schools. But in districts where the tax base is low, tax rates are high in order to run the schools.

Under the present system, some districts are limited to less than $500 a year on the education of each child, while in other districts, the figure is more than $1,100.

* * *

We want to even things out. The commission does not think a child in one school district is worth only half as much as a child in another. Furthermore, the commission believes that property tax relief is essential.

For that reason, we are recommending a constitutional amendment that will, in effect, reduce the current heavy reliance on the property tax to raise money for schools. The state would collect that part of the property tax used for operating the schools. The state would levy a uniform property tax in all districts which would be below the existing statewide average operating millage.

LESS PROPERTY TAX

I'm sure you wonder whether this change would result in an over-all increase in property taxes. The answer is no; in fact, over-all, it would mean property tax relief. In most instances, it would lower property taxes. In a few cases, where districts are neglecting their educational responsibilities, the property tax would go up.

The net result of this would be a giant leap toward equality in school financing. That astonishing range of payments which I referred to earlier would be drastically narrowed. We would eliminate the feast - and - famine quality marking so much of our educational system.

* *

There is another element of school financing which must be used just as effectively in one district as it is in another.

Obviously, this can never be fully assured. But we can move in that direction by adopting a school budget system based on the classroom-unit approach. This approach takes into account the ratio of students to teachers, teacher salaries, overhead costs, and other factors that have an important effect on the quality of education. Some of these things relate, for example, to the growing problem of classroom discipline.

LOCAL CONTROL

Let me emphasize at this point that none of the proposed changes will destroy local control of the schools. Local authorities are the ones who should hire teachers, negotiate with employees, determine what is to be taught and how it is to be taught. But at the same time, local authorities can and should be relieved of some of the housekeeping and administrative jobs that can be handled more efficiently on a regional level.

The only things that local districts will lose if these proposals are adopted are frustration and waste.

Evaluation

One of the critical failures in our present system is that we don't know how effectively our tax money for school is being spent. We simply do not have any way today of telling how one school is performing in comparison with others.

We spend a lot of time and energy testing children within the same classroom, but not classrooms within the same school or schools within the same districts or districts within the entire system.

* * *

To correct this situation — to inject method and order into a system that is now based largely on hunch — the commission recommends that the Legislature allocate funds immediately to develop and administer a statewide educational evaluation program. Such a program would establish tests for all children in the state—at several grade levels, but especially in the early grades where it is so important to find out how well a child is learning.

The advantages are obvious. If a child is tested and found to be failing, corrective steps are taken. In the same way, with a statewide system of testing, we can find out if whole schools are failing, determine why they are failing, and take the necessary steps.

Parochiaid

Whether I raise it or not, the controversial issue of aid to nonpublic schools inevitably will be raised in the Legislature this fall. The commission believes, therefore, that it would be remiss if it failed to help position this issue for reasoned consideration in the contest of total education reform. The commission's abiding concern has been for children, wherever situated. Our recommendations can be no less comprehensive. And we are, therefore, advancing proposals for discussion and decision by the Legislature — which is the body that will determine whether aid to nonpublic schools would be sound public policy.

We believe very strongly that the existence and strength of nonpublic schools can contribute to educational choice in Michigan and that educational choice is in the public interest.

* * *

Many nonpublic schools are in deep financial trouble. Many of them have closed, and many more are destined to close unless they are helped.

The primary consideration in the debate over public aid to nonpublic schools must be the children. The commission believes that sound public policy requires the people of Michigan to recognize a measure of responsibility for providing all children with an education in nonreligious subjects.

SALARY SUPPORT

For that reason, the commission recommends that the Legislature approve salary support for certified lay teachers of secular subjects in nonpublic schools. This support would be granted according to the following plan: 50 per cent of such teachers' salaries during the next two years, and 75 per cent during the following school year. But we are recommending that in no event would this aid to nonpublic schools be allowed to exceed 2 per cent of the total school budget in Michigan.

Under this plan, nonpublic schools would be subject to the same evaluation and quality controls as public schools. We also recommend that the Legislature appoint a committee to determine and reduce the effects of this aid on racial, ethnic, or other segregation in these schools.

* * *

Time does not permit me to outline additional details of these proposals tonight, but you will be reading and hearing more about them in the weeks ahead.

Under our system of government, they can be adopted only after the widest public debate and legislative consideration.

The Interim

The interim period, from now until educational reform can become fully operational in 1972, must be used to the fullest extent possible to improve the educational process so that no time will be unnecessarily lost.

We recommend that the Legislature, during its fall session:

- Pass a state-aid act for the next school year providing substantially greater educational opportunity and more equitable property tax rates.
- Pass needed revenue measures, based on ability to pay. I will have some specific recommendations to the Legislature early this month on this point. On the basis of surveys and on the basis of personal contacts, I believe the people of Michigan are willing to pay more if they are convinced they will get more. Meanwhile, it is important to come to an early determination on the amount of property tax relief that will be enacted and on the cost of the package so that we will know how much new revenue will be needed.
- Pass resolutions enabling the people to vote in August of 1970 on the necessary constitutional amendments.

Furthermore, I will have a number of specific proposals on:

- Teacher certification, evaluation, training, and incentives;
- An extensive pupil testing plan;
- Neighborhood education centers, street academies, and other means of meeting educational problems in inner cities, with particular reference to dropouts;

Fuller use of existing school facilities;

- New approaches to technical training, including possibilities for contracting with business and industry for job training;
- Specialized bilingual programs for Spanish - speaking students, who are part of the second largest minority in Michigan.

Unity Plea

Educational reform will require time, which makes it imperative that we begin immediately. The Legislature, acting for the people, will make those decisions which determine the future course of education in Michigan and will make quality education not only our highest goal but also our best investment. We know that each lawmaker will follow the dictates of his conscience and reason. We ask only that each reflect, as we have, on how his decision will influence the future lives of all our children.

* * *

There are those who say I am risking my own political future on this package. I say that this is not a partisan issue and that failure to enact educational reform would jeopardize our children's future.

There are those who may say the plan represents a power - grab by the state. It is not! The power is with the people who have given the state constitutional responsibility for education and who now need a way to better hold the state accountable.

There are those who may say this plan will take too much out of hands of local districts. It will not. It will strengthen their hands by freeing them to concentrate on educational essentials.

REACTION SOUGHT

This week, I will meet again with the commission's advisory council to get its reaction and to get any suggestions refinement of the proposals before they are submitted to the legislature. I also invite your reaction, as I have been seeking the reaction in recent days from legislators from both parties.

Neither Republicans nor Democrats can claim to possess solely the formula for educational reform. That formula will be so complex that it will take all of the intelligence and resources we have — working together — to devise it.

* * *

This is a collective struggle— one in which the factors uniting us are far greater than those dividing us.

This times demand unity of action.

Not all of you will agree with every aspect of this program, but this is one time when we must put individual differences behind in order to accomplish a major objective designed for the benefit of all our citizens.

BACKING NEEDED

The governor of Michigan needs your support. The Legislature of Michigan needs your support. The schools of Michigan need your support. And, most of all, the children of Michigan need your support. Nothing is more vital to the future welfare of this state. We must now appeal to legislators and to you. For it is in their hands — more than the governor's — and your hands — more than mine — that the success of education reform now rests.

* * *

If ever you want to do something for your state; if ever you want to do something for your schools; if ever you want to do something for your children, — you will support educational reform.

Dem Ryan Questions Parochiaid Plan

LANSING (UPI) — Democratic House Speaker William A. Ryan said yesterday Gov. William G. Milliken's proposal to supplement salaries of only lay teachers in parochial schools could be unconstitutional.

* * *

"This could be in violation of the 14th amendment. It could deny certain teachers equal protection of the law," said Ryan, who is pushing a parochiaid plan of his own.

Ryan said a teacher teaching math or science was still a teacher regardless of religious connections with any church.

* * *

Under Milliken's blueprint as outlined in his educational reform plan, lay parochial school teachers would receive salaries supplemented 50 per cent by the state during the 1970-72 school years and 75 per cent in the 1972-73 school year. Total money paid out to the teachers could not exceed 2 per cent of the Michigan education budget.

$25 MILLION

Milliken recommended $25 million be paid to teachers in the 1970-71 school year.

Ryan said the plan penalized parochial schools which economized by hiring members of religious orders as teachers, who are traditionally paid much less than others.

* * *

"It only discourages efficiency in the system," he said.

Ryan labeled the 2 per cent plan an "ill-conceived."

"You can't have a school community educating 14 per cent of the students and paying 14 per cent of the taxes but only receiving 2 per cent back," he said. "That's a sure sign they'll be out of business in just a few years."

MAY STILL LEAVE

The speaker said unless nonpublic schools receive more money than $25 million, the state's 300,000 parochial students will continue to leave their own schools for the public system.

He said he thought Milliken did not intend to phase out the parochial schools by 1973, "but that will be the effect of it."

The speaker said he would support Milliken's plan if the governor broadened it to cover maintenance personnel and certain operational expenses such as utilities.

School Appeal Decision Near

The Waterford Township Board of Education is expected to decide tomorrow about appealing an Oakland County Circuit Court ruling that the board restore full-day classes by Nov. 3.

Only two courses of action appear to be open by the school board — either conform to the Circuit Court order or appeal the ruling to a higher court.

* * *

It is likely the board will choose to appeal since school officials have said it is impossible to return some 18,500 students of full-day classes in the time given.

Time-consuming activities include hiring some 125 teachers, redistribution of supplies, rescheduling of classes and rearranging of bus transportation for about 8,500 students, according to school officials.

EXPLANATION LIKELY

In a related item, school officials are expected to publicly explain why elementary pupils were put on half-day sessions and why gym and music are still included in the curriculum.

The board meeting is scheduled for 8 p.m. at the school board offices, 6020 Pontiac Lake at Airport Road.

Card of Thanks 1

THE FAMILY OF MR. JOE L. CLAY remembers with thanks and graditude the many friends that was with us in our hour of bereavement. Their presence, their donations, and their willingness to stand by and with us, was heart warming. A special thanks to the neighbors and friends that worked so hard and diligently in my home to prepare such a plentiful, beautiful and tasty feast for all. Our hearts was warmed deeply. Our thanks to all of you. Mrs. Lena Powell.

In Memoriam 2

IN MEMORY OF MY beloved husband, Emil J. Flury Jr., who passed away 1 year ago today, Oct. 2.
My heart is heavy,
My body is weak;
I miss you so my lovely sweet,
But time will come some sweet day;
When I will be with you again to stay;
Rest in Peace, Darling.
Sadly missed by your wife Dorthy Flury.

IN MEMORIAM 2
IN MEMORY OF OUR FATHER, Emil J. Flury Jr.
We don't know why,
We'll never understand;
Why the Lord took our Dad,
To us he did no wrong;
To us he was strong,
But why him we'll never know;
Because Dear Dad, we loved you so.
Sadly missed by your children, William, Jack, and Rick Flury.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF Waldo E. Zuehlk, who passed away Oct. 1, 1967.
It broke our hearts to lose you,
But you did not go alone;
For a part of us went with you,
The day God called you home;
God gave us strength to bear it,
The courage to take the blow;
But what it meant to lose you,
No one will ever know;
When evening shadows are falling,
And we sit here all alone;
To our hearts there comes a longing,
If you could just come home.
Sadly missed by wife Junita and children, Chris, Dick, Wanda, Sharon, and Karen.

Lone Mariner Hailed in Bahamas

Bearded mariner Bill Verity was hailed as "a history-making sailor" yesterday in the Bahamas even though his 22-foot boat had to be towed into Nassau by a lighthouse tender.

★ ★ ★

Verity was greeted by a police band, a beauty queen, and the chairman of the Bahama Tourist Board, Clifford Darling, who presented him with a plaque lauding his solo sail across the Atlantic from Ireland.

He landed at San Salvador 17 days ago.

Deposed Sudanese Leader to Leave Country

Former Sudanese Premier Mohammed Ahmed Mahjoub, one of several of Sudan's government officials detained since last May's army coup, will be allowed to leave for London next week for treatment of a "grave heart crisis," the authoritative Cairo newspaper Al Ahram said today.

Georgia Governor Gets Unicycle for Birthday

Georgia Gov. Lester Maddox finally has a cycle he can ride backward while he faces forward—a unicycle.

MADDOX

The one-wheeler was presented to the governor—along with a red, white and blue cake—on his 54th birthday yesterday in Atlanta.

"I'll tell you," said the delighted Maddox who shines at riding bicycles backwards, "my next term in office I'll ride this into the door."

The one-wheel, no handlebars unicycle is the sixth cycle Maddox has received since taking office three years ago, but the others were ordinary two-wheelers.

Fired Czech TV Exec to Live in Britain

Jiri Pelikan, who was fired as director-general of Czechoslovak television after the Soviet invasion and was sent as counsellor to the embassy in Rome, has chosen freedom in Britain, the Times of London reported yesterday.

★ ★ ★

The newspaper said Pelikan regards himself as a temporary exile who can campaign more effectively abroad than at home for a humane form of communism.

Island 'Invasion' Planned

Irish Stew Over Hippies

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — Swami Vishnu Devananda stood on his head with joy. His two hippie companions cried: "This is wild! This is beautiful!" Irish tempers boiled.

The object of the hippies' delight was St. Patrick's Island in Dublin Bay. Locals call it a "rats' paradise." The hippies want to make it a paradise for the love generation if they can dig up $48,000 to buy it.

★ ★ ★

But Irishmen in the coastal village of Skerries say they prefer rats to the "long-haired and unwashed" and promise a fight to keep the island from being "desecrated."

Swami Vishnu Devananda, operator of a chain of yoga centers in the United States and Canada; Sidney Rawle, clad in white pajamas and an Arab cloak; and Frank Harris, in a Japanese fisherman's coat, toured the island today.

After cries of delight, Rawle said: "We have decided in principle to buy it." All they need is the principal—cash.

Vishnu Devananda has put up a $4,800 deposit. The British real estate agent who owns the isd land, Herbert Marriott, has given the hippies eight weeks to come up with the remaining $43,200.

★ ★ ★

"They will be stopped," said Raymond Burke, vice chairman of Dublin's County Council Planning Authority. "They will never get permission to build on the island."

★ ★ ★

"Nobody in Ireland wants the hippies here," said Burke's mother.

★ ★ ★

An Irish pubkeeper in London said he planned to put up $24,000 to keep the island in Irish hands and bar the hippies.

Rawle was unconcerned.

★ ★ ★

"I think the people of Skerries are going to be very happy when they get to know us," he said. "It's not intended to use this place as a haven for drug addicts or sex-starved hippies. We want a place to meditate."

A Look at TV

Old Shows Are Revisited

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — With all the new shows in position in the network schedules, there is time to look at the old ones, back for another season.

"Mod Squad's" trio of young undercover operatives is still solving crimes and salvaging human wreckage weekly on ABC. Tuesday nights episode suggests that Michael Cole, Clarence Williams III and Peggy Lipton—unknowns 12 months ago—have grown comfortably into their roles, are more assured and work well as a team.

★ ★ ★

The story was a bit on the sticky side: The squad took on a bright, homeless Mexican boy, then found he was under suspicion as a burglar. But they pulled off his redemption and led him away from a life of crime.

Red Skelton, in his 19th consecutive season in weekly television, obviously purveys a brand of nonsense that never stales.

FORMAT UNCHANGED

The format of the CBS show, unchanged over the summer, had some eye-filling dancing and some easy-to-take singing by the Lettermen. But it was the Skelton turns that made the show. Red, as usual, opened the hour with his monologue—a batch of beach jokes on everything from smog to bikinis. In the big sketch, Red and guest star Walter Brennan kidded the classic Western by playing rival sheriffs. It wasn't as funny as screams from the studio audience indicated but it had some funny moments during a high-stakes poker game.

★ ★ ★

CBS's "60 Minutes" bimonthly news show started with a painful but thought-provoking report on some of the 250,000 wounded U.S. fighting men from the Viet nam war—amputees in an Army rehabilitation hospital.

The segment showed a brutal face of war, yet the gallant attitudes of many of the shattered young men demonstrated hope and determination. Several said they were glad to have made the sacrifice; most had plans for busy active lives.

PANHANDLING PROFIT

It was followed by an off-beat closeup of some young dropouts who adopted panhandling as a profitable way of life. Concealed cameras showed them begging passersby for dimes and quarters. One estimated he received an average of $8 an hour by asking for bus fare home.

Finally there was a report on a visit to the Soviet Union last summer by 13 students and their language teacher from an Atlanta, Ga., all-Negro high school. The students loved the people, enjoyed the sights, hated the food and felt they had benefitted by the experience.

It was a rewarding hour.

Yearbook Nude 'Did It for Rice'

Outstanding Seniors Bare Personalities

HOUSTON (AP) — "I did it for Rice," says the comely coed whose nude photograph appears in the university's 1969 yearbook.

The publication, called The Campanile, is due out Thursday with a picture of Marilyn Penelope Johnson in the altogether and, for good measure, a smaller one of Dennis Rex Bahler also unclad.

★ ★ ★

Both 22, they were among 15 seniors chosen as outstanding students by the student body.

Miss Johnson is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Bruce Willard Johnson of Quincy, Ill., and Bahler's parents are Dr. and Mrs. Dean R. Bahler of West Lafayette, Ind.

WAS HER IDEA

"We tried to capture some sort of their personality," Campanile co-editor Gary Grether said. "Penelope suggested a nude shot of herself because that is the only time a person is shown as her true self."

Miss Johnson is now a graduate student at State University of New York in Buffalo seeking a doctor's degree in English.

"I did it for Rice and the Rice community," she said. "But I don't want to talk about it because that puts it into a class of a publicity stunt."

Bahler's full view catches him clothed, but there is a one-inch by half-inch inset showing him nude.

★ ★ ★

He had no public comment.

Coeditor Conrad Boeck said there is "definite artistic value" in the photographs.

Dr. Frank Vandiveer, acting university president, said he deeply deplored what the editors were publishing, but defended their right to publish it.

The student senate has editorial control over the yearbook.

North U.P. Fall Color Is Near Peak

LANSING (AP) — The Michigan Tourist Council reports fall foliage should reach a color peak in the northern part of the Upper Peninsula this weekend.

Near maximum color is expected in the Houghton-Hancock and Marquette areas.

★ ★ ★

Peak color for the remainder of the Upper Peninsula is expected the weekend of Oct. 11-12.

Some trees already are turning in the northern part of the Lower Peninsula.

★ ★ ★

The tourist council at Lansing has free maps and directions for 24 suggested autumn color tours throughout the state.

Lana's Album Going Topless

NEW YORK (AP) — Australian pop singer Lana Cantrell says her next album, "The Sixth of Lana," will have a cover photograph of half of Lana without any clothes on.

The photograph, from the waist up, was taken from the side and Miss Cantrell, 24, had her arms demurely crossed in front of her.

She said she didn't really regard it as a nude picture—"I'm completely covered by my arms."

"I was sort of shy about it at first," she said, "but I'd known the photographer for years, and there were just the two of us in the studio."

TV Tape-Playback Unit Shown

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — "SelectaVision," a tape-player designed to attach to any standard color television set and play back recorded color programs, was unveiled in a laboratory model here Tuesday by RCA.

★ ★ ★

The player, which employs a laser beam to broadcast full-color recorded programs on inexpensive tape of the type used to wrap and display supermarket meats, is planned for marketing in 1972 at a cost of less than $400, RCA said.

★ ★ ★

Tapes will cost less than $10 for a half-hour program, and the company has started work on an original library of 100 taped programs on sports, education, art, theater, comedy and others in a broad range of interests.

★ ★ ★

All tapes will be made in color but may be viewed on black and white sets, as is presently done with commercial color broadcasts, RCA said.

EASY TO OPERATE

The player will be "as compact and easy to operate as a phonograph," the company said.

★ ★ ★

Robert W. Sarnoff, RCA president, described the SelectaVision player as potentially the most important development for the home since color television.

It is also likely that existing home movies can be converted to SelectaVision tapes, the company said.

HER LOT IS A SAD ONE — It may be hilarious to some people, but Mrs. Alice Case, a 66-year-old widow, sees nothing funny about her one-bedroom house having been built on the wrong lot in Capistrano Beach, Calif. The mistake was discovered a year ago, just as the house neared completion, and a legal hassle since has kept Mrs. Case from moving in. She's sitting in the empty lot that belongs to her.

Possible Cancer-Virus Link Is Found

NEW YORK (UPI) — After a line of human cancer cells had been cultured in a laboratory for 15 months, viruses popped up among them. Cancer science has to ask, could this be its long-sought goal — a direct association of a human cancer with causative viruses?

Science has little doubt that at least some human cancers are caused by viruses. They cause cancers in an assortment of "biological systems" and there is no reasons to believe the human system is exempt. Yet no human cancer virus has yet been identified.

* * *

And that despite years of monumental trying, in cancer laboratories around the world. There have been a number of claims which proved to be false and so at this stage the scientists who found viruses in their laboratory cultures of human cancer cells are making no claims.

They're reporting what happened in their laboratory, in "Cancer," the technical journal of the American Cancer Society, thereby inviting other scientists to follow the same experimental trial and see if they come to the same viral end.

RARE CANCER

Dr. John W. Smith, Donald Pinkel and Stanley Dabrowski, working in the virology laboratory of St. Jude Children's Research Hospital, Memphis, Tenn., began with the cells of a Wilms' tumor removed surgically from a 15-month-old boy.

It is a rare and unusual cancer which arises in the kidney, almost always in very young children. In recent years cancer science has learned how to cure it in a high percentage of cases.

These cells they cultured in laboratory dishes. In all there were 40 passages, that is, one culture succeeding another, and in the course of them the cells began changing shape which, in their opinion represented a "spontaneous transformation."

* * *

If it was, it could represent an outside force at work — a virus. Science now suspects the existence of "slow-acting viruses" which remain dormant in cells for years before manifesting themselves.

VIRUS FOUND

At the 40th passage the electron microscope revealed a small virus enclosed in a double membrane. It was present in 1 to 10 per cent of the cells, depending on which culture dish they came from.

* * *

The scientists were confident the virus hadn't gotten into their cultures from the culture mediums or other possible laboratory contamination and besides this particular virus had never been detected in their laboratory before.

* * *

"Obviously, the significance of this observation remains to be determined," they said, having provided the detail that will permit other scientists to join them in trying to determine it.

The Appalachian Trail is more than 2,000 miles long.

Hot, Cold World Spots Noted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Death Valley, Calif., gets pretty hot, but it is not as sizzling as Azizia, Libya.

Authority for this assertion is the Environmental Science Services Administration (ESSA) publication Climates of the World.

On July 10, 1913, the temperature got up to 134 degrees in Death Valley. But on Sept. 13, 1922, Azizia zoomed to a new record — 136 degrees.

Other temperature extremes reported in Climates of the World include:

Tirat Tsvi, Israel, 129 degrees; Cloncurry, Queensland, Australia, 128; Seville, Spain, 122; and Rivadavia, Argentina, 120.

SWELTERING 58

On Oct. 20, 1956, at Esperanza, Palmer Peninsula, Antarctica, the temperature rose to a sweltering 58 degrees.

That's Antarctica for you — hot or warmish one place, paralyzingly cold another.

* * *

The lowest temperature ever recorded by man was minus 127 degrees at the Soviet Vostok Antarctic station on Aug. 24, 1960.

By comparison, Greenland is warm. The coldest day thus far reported from Greenland was Jan. 9, 1954, when the temperature at Northice fell to 87 degrees below zero.

PRECIPITATION EXTREMES

Climates of the World also reports precipitation extremes. The wettest place on earth appears to be Mt. Waialeale, Kauau, Hawaii, where annual rainfall averages 460 inches.

The driest place is Arica in Chile's western desert. During most of the year no rain at all falls at Arica. But Climates of the World credits it with an annual fall of three hundredths of an inch.

* * *

Says Essa:

"Next time the summer gets you down (it never gets over 134 degrees in North America) think of something cool, like the minus 127 degeres recorded at Vostok, Antarctica.

"Or when it rains (nowhere in North America does the average annual rainfall exceed 262.1 inches) think of Arica, Chile, where it pours an average of thre hundredths of an inch of rain per year."

Car Output Slow-Up Seen for Rest of 1969

DETROIT (AP) — Despite a fast breaak from the 1970 model starting gate, the nation's auto industry has settled down to a relatively slow production gallop for the remainder of the calendar year.

* * *

Industry sources say September sales figures are expected to be higher than for the same month of 1968, but these are somewhat distorted because the new models were introduced earlier this year.

For the remainder of the year, estimated production figures range from a decline of 5.5 per cent to as much as 8 per cent in comparison with last year.

Ward's Automotive Reports forecasts a 40,000 drop in production for the months of October, November and December from the year - ago output of 2,523,000 cars.

BY MID-NOVEMBER

Most industry sources insist it is too early to tell how the buying public will act in the coming months, but they expect to have a good reading on 1970 sales prospects by mid-November.

Early predictions of 9.6-million on new cars sales during the 1970 model year have not been revised as yet. If the figure is reached, it would just about equal the 1969 model sales.

Some economic surveys have injected a note of conservatism in the auto industry outlook. The University of Michigan Survey Research Center reported Monday, for example, that consumers are growing increasingly pessimistic about the economic outlook during the third quarter.

October production of 910,000 units is planned, down 25,000 from the number of cars built last year.

Fourth - quarter production schedules also have generally been trimmed because of a larger inventory of old models remaining in dealers' hands than there were a year ago.

Interest-Limit End Is Sought

Oakland County Board of Supervisors will be asked tomorrow to support state legislation to remove temporarily the interest limits on public corporation bonds.

The legislative committee, meeting yesterday, recommended the passage of a law which would enable construction of the county's proposed $9-million jail and the completion of drain and sewer projects.

* * *

The law, as proposed, would allow the county to set its own maximum interest rate on municipal bonds. Buyers have refused to purchase the bonds at the current 6 per cent interest limit.

Tuesday Events in State Capital

By the Associated Press

THE GOVERNOR

Asked for a state property tax to support his school education plan and also urged some funds be diverted for aid to nonpublic schools.

Reported Michigan has asked for the federal development of mass produced housing in 36 sites in the cities of Alma, Alpena, Battle Creek, Detroit, Flint, Grand Rapids, Kalamazoo, Monroe, Muskegon Heights, Port Huron, Saginaw, Sterling Heights and Walled Lake.

THE STATE AIR POLLUTION COMMISSION

Gave Consumers Power Co. another year to complete plans for abatement of air contamination.

MICHIGAN CITIZEN TO ADVANCE PUBLIC EDUCATION

Promised they would make a court fight out of the issue of diverting any state funds for nonpublic schools.

THE LEGISLATURE

Was in recess until Oct. 6.

To the moon and back

To get to the moon you would have to undergo some of the most grueling tests for reliability, ruggedness and dependability . . . acceleration from 0 to 24,600 MPH, powerful pressure changes, extremes in temperature and shocks to rattle every bone in your body . . . you and your equipment must survive them all. And it's exciting that the very same Speedmaster watch we carry was selected without any modifications by NASA for all manned space missions. This recognition, truly a reward for excellence, makes us proud to be your authorized Omega jeweler. Come in . . . see this handsome, 2 button, 4 dial, Omega Speedmaster chronograph. The only watch worn by the men on the moon. Price $195.

Gov. William G. Milliken

Milliken Unveils School Reform Plan

LANSING (AP) — Michigan Gov. William G. Milliken has unveiled a sweeping plan to revamp Michigan's school systems, including a proposal for a statewide property tax to eliminate the traditional district-by-district taxation system.

Milliken also proposed state aid to nonpublic schools yesterday in announcing results of a five-month study by his commission on educational reform.

Jerald Miller, tax expert for the governor, said he knows of no state that has a state property tax for its school systems.

The State Legislature begins a special session next Monday to consider Milliken's proposals.

"Under the present system," Milliken said, "some districts are limited to less than $500 a year on the education of each child, while in other districts, the figure is more than $1,100.

"We want to even things out. The commission does not think a child in one school district is worth only half as much as a child in another," said Milliken, who succeeded George Romney as governor in January when Romney became U.S. Secretary of Housing and Urban Development.

Michigan's school district system is at the mercy many times of the district voters, who must approve minimum millage for them to qualify for state aid.

As an example, the North Branch school system in northern Lower Michigan did not know whether it would open this fall until mid-September when voters approved millage.

★ ★ ★

Milliken said "Some districts have a tax rich base — expensive homes or substantial industry. Others have a very poor base.

"This base, the so-called state equalized valuation, ranges from $3,000 per child in some districts to $60,000 per child in others," he said.

He recommended a constitutional amendment that would lower the ceilings on local property taxes as a balance to the proposed state property tax.

Regarding aid to private and parochial schools, Milliken said "We believe very strongly that the existence and strength of nonpublic schools can contribute to education choice in Michigan and that education choices is in the public interest.

SCHOOLS IN TROUBLE

"Many nonpublic schools are in deep financial trouble. Many of them have closed and many more are destined to close unless they are helped," he said.

U.S. Rail Shutdown Eyed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The railroad industry, threatened with selective strikes by shopcraft unions, has countered with a threat of its own—a nationwide shutdown of rail service.

A spokesman for the four involved unions immediately protested that the industry's announcement was aimed at forcing government intervention in the wage and work rules dispute.

But Chairman John P. Hiltz Jr. of the National Railway Labor Conference—which represents management of the nation's 76 major railroads—said the move would be taken "both in the long-range public interest and as a matter of self-survival."

He said the shutdown would be called off if unions did not strike the seven railroads they have designated as the first to feel what the industry refers to as "whipsaw" work stoppages. The strike deadline is 11:01 p.m. (Pontiac time) Friday.

The unions' chief negotiator, William W. Winpisinger, said the strikes would go as scheduled unless the industry's announcement triggers President Nixon to invoke the Railway Labor Act and postpones the work stoppages for up to 60 days.

A dispute between signalmen and the railroads last April was the most recent threat of a nationwide rail shutdown, and this week's is the third in a little over two years.

During the April dispute— which was solved without government intervention—Secretary of Labor George Shultz forecast grim consequences to the economy.

He estimated a weeklong strike would put a million persons out of work in addition to the 137,000 railroad employes. A two-week work stoppage would raise it to 3 million.

TO HURT AUTO INDUSTRY

Among industries hardest hit by a strike would be automobile manufacturers, which depend on rail shipments of raw materials and distribution of them products, Shultz said.

If any section of the country would be deprived of adequate transportation by a rail strike, the Railway act provides the President can create an emergency board to arbitrate the union-management differences.

★ ★ ★

The board could spend up to 30 days investigating both sides of the dispute and another 30 days attempting to bring about an agreement. Meanwhile, union members would be required by law to continue working.

★ ★ ★

Hiltz said "the unprecedented divide-and-conquer tactics of the four shopcraft unions leave the railroads no alternative but to take unprecedented action themselves."

The unions have designated for strikes the Sante Fe, the Great Northern, the C&O, the B&O, Southern, Illinois Central and Erie-Lackawana.

ADC-Supported Children In for a Long, Cold Winter?

By JEAN SAILE

It could be a long, cold winter for many schoolchildren in families supported by Aid to Dependent Children (ADC).

Funds appropriate by the county Sept. 4 for emergency clothing needs are better than 80 per cent used, and there has been no provision for further funds this year or any for next year, records show.

★ ★ ★

The Oakland County Board of Supervisors had voted extra cash for emergency clothing purchases following yearlong protests by ADC mothers about the county clothing store. A study undertaken by local merchants supported the ADC mothers' claims that the store services were inadequate.

The board set $90,000 aside to be spent at the average rate of $30 per child for 3,000 children in the county.

There are about 5,500 school-age children on ADC rolls, according to Ora Hinckley, county social services director.

By last night, Miss Hinckley reported $76,871 had been spent at the average rate of $29.68 per child for 2,590 children. Before the cash was voted, another 1,000 children had been outfitted at the county clothing store. Miss Hinckley said the cost of that service is not yet available.

She said the ADC mothers are returning receipts for the purchases they made at private retail stores. A total of 859 families were benefitted.

★ ★ ★

The county's 1970 budget, in final form for presentation to the board of supervisors later this month, carries no provision for ADC clothing supplements.

The supervisors' finance committee has cut a Social Services clothing request of $350,975 and an auditors recommendation of $141,918 to $45,918.

Senators Told of GI Club Graft

WASHINGTON (AP) — A gift lion, costly furniture and more than $1 million were part of a flood of illegal profit skimmed by top-ranking Army sergeants from the enlisted men's clubs they ran in Germany, senators have been told in sworn testimony.

Testimony before Sen. Abraham Ribicoff's investigative subcommittee by a former Army investigator also charged Sgt. William O. Wooldridge— once the Army's top enlisted man—was a leader in a small band of fellow sergeants engaged in a systematic conspiracy to loot the clubs.

★ ★ ★

Investigator Irvin E. Beard also accused the Army of hiding the facts to avoid embarassing Gen. Harold K. Johnson, who, as Army chief of staff, had named Wooldridge the Army's first sergeant major.

Rain Chance Seen Tonight, Tomorrow

Students Watch Northern Demonstration

Whites Blamed for PNH Ruckus

Angry white students touched off a disturbance at Pontiac Northern High School this morning when they confronted a group of black students who were waiting outside for classes to begin.

Most of the students had dispersed by 11 a.m., although some students lingered among uniformed police officers surrounding the building.

The blame for the outbreak was placed on the whites by Assistant School Supt. Richard Fell.

Several minor scuffles occurred between students, but no injuries were reported. There were about 75 black students and about 150 to 200 white youths.

According to school officials, many of the students were not from Northern, which has an enrollment of 2,100. There were reports that some of the blacks arriving later were from Central High School in Pontiac, and Detroit.

Some of the whites were identified as students from Waterford Township, Lake Orion and Oxford schools, according to school authorities.

Police at the scene formed a barricade between the white and blacks, keeping them apart and preventing any major fights.

Doors at the school were locked to keep out the outside agitators. Classes were continuing, though some parents arrived at the school to take their children home.

Hanoi Changing POW Policies?

WASHINGTON (AP) — North Vietnam's willingness to see wives of imprisoned U.S. servicemen is being viewed here as a hopeful sign Hanoi may be reevaluating its prosoner of war policies.

Pentagon officials also indicate belief the North Vietnamese move is a reaction to a Nixon administration campaign to focus international attention on the handling of American POWs.

★ ★ ★

This assessment came after North Vietnamese diplomats in Paris said yesterday they would receive a new group of American women seeking information about husbands missing in the war.

Only a few days earlier the North Vietnamese delegation had for the first time met with four other American wives from Dallas, Tex., trying to find out whether their husbands are dead or alive.

ENCOURAGING

While North Vietnam's attitude toward such private meetings may prove to be of no significance, any sign of movement on the POW problem is encouraging, Pentagon officials say.

★ ★ ★

"They have had an indefensible world position," commented one official involved in day-to-day dealings with POW matters. "It has been not only wrong but also not smart. Now they may be looking for a way to ease themselves out of the fire."

★ ★ ★

North Vietnam may be holding as many as 900 Americans, most of them fliers shot down during the air war. The number is uncertain because Hanoi steadfastly has refused to provide a name list—an act which violates international agreements.

The Pentagon's official list of captured men totals 413 but there are 919 names on the missing list and many of those are believed imprisoned.

Long Walk on Moon in Offing

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The Apollo 12 astronauts may stroll more than half a mile from their moon-landing craft next month.

Also, they plan to collect rocks with far greater scientific finesse than Neil A.

Related Story, Page C-10

Armstrong and Edwin E. Aldrin Jr., were able to employ on mankind's first lunar scavenger hunt.

Apollo 12 Commander Charles Conrad rates chances as "50-50" that he will be able to land close enough to an unmanned Surveyor spacecraft on the moon's Ocean of Storms so he and astronaut Alan L. Bean can bring pieces of it back to earth.

All this was revealed in an impromptu press briefing by Navy Cmdr. Conrad and Lt. Cmdr. Bean Tuesday following a dress rehearsal of their moon walk.

COUNTDOWN TEST

Meanwhile, the third Apollo 12 astronaut—Navy Cmdr. Richard F. Gordon Jr.—helped crews at the launch pad with a countdown rehearsal test for the scheduled Nov. 14 liftoff.

Gordon will remain in moon orbit in the Apollo 12 command ship while Conrad and Bean spend some 31 hours on the surface, including seven hours outside the lunar landing craft.

Mission rules will let the two crewmen wander 3,000 feet, or about two thirds of a mile, to visit the Surveyor.

Their emergency oxygen supply, needed if their main backpacks fail, holds enough oxygen to keep them alive 15 to 20 minutes.

A color television camera that can beam live coverage of their lunar activities to earth has been built and "if it can be flight qualified in time, will be aboard," Conrad said.

The moonmen plan to make two excursions outside the landing craft, each lasting about 3½ hours and separated by an eight-hour rest period.

First priority has been given to setting up an elaborate set of experiments, Conrad said.

Included is an advanced seismic device to record moonquakes, a sheet of aluminum foil to collect radiation partiles streaming from the sun, an experiment to measure the density and velocity of radiation near the lunar surface and a device to study the moon's magnetic fields.

On Electoral Reform

City Charter Vote Set for Dec. 18

Pontiac will hold a special election on Dec. 18, the City Commission decided last night.

The election will determine if voters want three changes in the City Charter — election of city commissioners on the basis of district only and reduction of age and residency requirement to 25 years and one year, respectively (presently 30 and five).

The issue on districts is whether the city should return to a system used prior to the 1964 election.

Since that time the city has used a modified at-large system whereby the top two vote-getters in each district face a citywide vote.

★ ★ ★

Petitions to bring about the election with over 6,200 signatures were gathered by the Pontiac Concerned Citizens Council (PCCC).

Some of the present districts have twice the population of others, and redistricting is expected after the 1970 census.

Rogers, Gromyko OK Further Talks

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers should know within about a month whether his "era of negotiations" debut with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko is producing results.

Rogers and Gromyko wound up their sessions here last night, agreeing to continue U.S.-Soviet discussions on a Middle East settlement. Assistant Secretary of State Joseph Sisco will carry these forward with Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin in Washington.

★ ★ ★

Rogers hopes that by late October, the United States and the Soviet Union will have agreed on enough groundwork to launch Big Four—U.S., Soviet, British and French—undertakings for a Middle East solution.

Another item discussed was President Nixon's still-unanswered bid to begin missile curb talks. Gromyko told Rogers Sept. 23 that Moscow would reply with a time and place "soon," but didn't say when.

DISPLEASURE TO GREET DELAY

If the Kremlin doesn't respond by the end of October, its delay will produce puzzlement and displeasure in Washington rivaling that prompted by the Soviets' silence last summer on the presidential plea.

Nixon, upon taking office, vowed to seek an "era of negotiation," rather than "confrontation," with the Communist world. Rogers' meetings with Gromyko provided the first high-level test. Gromyko heads today for Ottawa, then Moscow. Rogers returns to Washington tomorrow.

★ ★ ★

In private sessions totaling about 8 hours, including 1½ hours at Rogers' apartment last night. Rogers feels he has established good first-name relations with his Soviet counterpart.

But Rogers won't predict that personal friendship between diplomats will result in successful negotiations.

DOESN'T PRESS GROMYKO

Under the administration's non-confrontation policy of not pushing issues it considers irreconcilable at this time, Rogers did not press Gromyko on Vietnam or Soviet pressure on Czechoslovakia.

On the Middle East situation, Rogers has come to the conclusion that whatever agreement is possible with the Russians now will mark only one step in a long and difficult process.

★ ★ ★

His next planned step is to lay before the Big Four a U.S.-Soviet outline of how the major powers could work toward a permanent settlement.

After that he hopes for a start on the key ingredient—to bring the Arabs and Israelis to the negotiating table. His behind-the-scenes talks with the Middle East rivals found them far apart.

ROBERT C. IRWIN

Slum Aid Program Slashed by Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration has slashed $215 million from the Model Cities program—a 42 per cent cut in funds for rehabilitating some of the nation's worst urban slums.

The White House will allow only $300 million instead of the $515 million that had been ticketed in April to move at least 60 Model Cities projects from the planning stage to program grants during the current fiscal year ending next June 30.

Although Congress set up the program in 1966, this is the first year for implementing the plans to attack all the causes of poverty within a slum area through one integrated program.

★ ★ ★

The Model iCties cutback, stems from the President's order of $3.5 billion in governmentwide budget reductions to fight inflation.

There are a total of 460 communities in 45 states, the District of Columbia and Puerto Rico participating in the program.

Two HUD programs that provide interest subsidies to low-income homeowners and to builders of low-rent apartments are the next biggest losers after Model Cities. Their combined outlays will be cut from $39 million to $20 million.

150 COMMUNITIES AFFECTED

An additional $20 million will be pared from grants for water, sewer and other neighborhood facilities, budgeted originally at $166 million.

★ ★ ★

Model Cities was the keystone of former President Lyndon B. Johnson's urban policies. The idea was to funnel all the renewal that federal-local money could buy into target slum neighborhoods.

REQUIREMENT DROPPED

The Nixon administration last spring dropped the requirement limiting a Model Cities neighborhood to 10 per cent of a city's population.

Critics charge the expansion will dilute the program and make it meaningless.

President Nixon also pared $75 million from Johnson's request for $750 million in new appropriations for Model Cities, thus dimming the long-term outlook for the program.

HUD sources say the Bureau of the Budget is resisting plans for large-scale expansion in the future because the program has yet to prove itself.

'EASY TO CUT'

"The Budget Bureau finds this one of the easiest places to cut," said one HUD source.

The latest slash follows the administration's already controversial plans to curtail another urban renewal program known as neighborhood development or NDP. (Pontiac has two applications for NDP aid pending.

NDP is a type of speeded up urban renewal that many locales had hoped to incorporate into their Model Cities project.

Richard E. DeVore, head of the academy's ceramics department, will present his latest acrylic collages and ceramics.

Also exhibited will be "Towers," a survey of over 350 towers by architects, engineers, artists and fantasists, illustrated by architectural photographs, drawings, films and slides.

Another exhibition is "Lasers and Holograms," an experimental exhibition illustrating the significant changes technology is producing in today's art.

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — Registrations are being taken at the recreation office in Andover High School for the Bloomfield Hills School District fall 1969 adult evening program beginning this week.

Applicants may register daily from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday-Saturday and 7-9 p.m. evenings during the next two weeks.

Schools, Parents Urged to Take Tough Stance

An appeal to parents to assert their authority and a demand for punishment of those responsible for recent fighting in Pontiac schools was issued by District 2 City Commissioner Robert C. Irwin last night.

Speaking at the city commission meeting, Irwin said "This community can't stand this . . . all thinking parents are going to have to stand up and reject it totally."

★ ★ ★

Irwin referred to violence which closed some Pontiac schools last Thursday, Friday and Monday. Centered at the two high schools, the racial fighting resulted in several minor injuries and three arrests.

The commissioner said he was at Central last Friday and observed the violence. Irwin said he had talked with both white and black parents and all agreed that those responsible should be punished.

CHILDREN 'BEING USED'

He said the children were being used by persons deliberately inciting violence and usurping parental authority. "I saw parents trying to speak to their youngster and being ridiculed by others (students)," he said.

Irwin said a conspiracy to disrupt the schools may have existed.

The Rumor Control Center of the Human Relations Commission reported 538 calls were handled in the four-day period.

The rumor center was organized almost two years ago to act in cases of civil disturbances. It operates continually, but in emergencies human relations commission members man up to 10 extra phones.

UP-TO-DATE DATA

Callers are given up-to-date information and any rumors are checked through appropriate agencies.

This was the first time the operation was put into full use.

★ ★ ★

Samuel A. Baker, human relations commission chairman, said in his report, "We would like to believe our center has made a significant contribution to our community in replacing rumors with truth.

"We trust the citizens will continue to utilize the facilities to eliminate rumors which, by our experience the last few days, can lead to widespread fear and unreasoned actions."

Cleveland Mayor Wins Dem Primary

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Negro incumbent Carl B. Stokes defeated a self-styled law-and-order candidate by more than 31,000 votes yesterday in Clevealnd's Democratic mayoral primary election.

But Stokes won his bid for nomination to a second two-year term only after overcoming a lead of more than 20,000 votes which Robert J. Kelly, an electoral newcomer, built up in white sections crucial to the mayor's Nov. 4 general election prospects.

★ ★ ★

The final unofficial count gave Stokes 92,219 votes to 60,899 for Kelly, a 48-year-old former city service director.

"We're going to really have to work against Ralph J. Perk," Stokes said of the Republican county auditor he will face in the general election.

ADC Clothing Funds Run Low

needed to carry on the clothing store for the use of our Juvenile Department and our foster care program. There is no provision for further cash supplements for ADC children after the first of the year."

★ ★ ★

Hamlin did note, however, that an extralarge contingency fund of nearly $700,000 could be used to meet clothing needs next year if necessary. A majority vote of the board would be necessary to carry out the fund switch, he said.

Without county clothing supplements, an ADC mother is expected to dress her child from a $12 per month personal allowance. That fund was recently boosted $3 by the state, moving it up from the $9 level set in 1961 by the federal government.

★ ★ ★

This year the state added another $22 to the allotment, but Miss Hinckley noted, "That was this year's legislative appropriation. We don't know what will happen next year."

Neither do a lot of ADC parents.

September Song for This Year Could Well Be a Drought Dirge

"How Dry We Are" might well have been the September song this year. A serious drought plagued Oakland County farmers and gardeners. Last September 3.05 inches of rain dampened the fields and flower beds as compared to last month's .65 inch.

Sunshine, though welcomed by housewives doing their autumn cleaning and outdoor-happy youngsters, toasted lawns an even deeper brown on 26 days during the month.

★ ★ ★

Rain clouds darkened the skies only two days with the remainder only partly cloudy. In September 1968, there also were 26 days of sunshine.

The high temperature reading last month fell on the eighth, a sizzling 90 degrees. The low, 42 degrees, was recorded Sept. 29. No threat of frost hindered late harvests.

Mean temperature for the past month was 64.9 degrees. September 1968 had a high of 86 degrees, a low of 45 degrees and a mean of 65.83.

By Pollution Unit Head

Pontiac Div. Statement Hit

Pontiac Motor Division was accused last night of promising a "pie in the sky" in its statements regarding air pollutants emanating from the coke fires of its foundry.

The accusation was made by Robert Parker of 791 First, chairman of the city's Air Pollution Committee. A report he had submitted to the City Commission was discussed last week, but Parker was out of town at the time.

★ ★ ★

At last night's meeting he continued his allegations and demanded a city ordinance be drawn up and prosecution begun against Pontiac Motor Division and others accused of air pollution in the city. He cited an ordinance used in Trenton and submitted copies of it to the commission.

A statement from the plant last week indicated work was proceeding on schedule in replacing the six coke ovens with electric, nonpolluting units. One was built and another started, it was reported.

Sometime next year the second one would be completed, thus allowed the phasing out of one old unit. Since five operate at one time, this would mean a 20 per cent reduction in smoke from the plant sometime next year. GM spokesmen did not give deadlines on total completion, but denied the target date was 1979 as Parker claimed.

At last week's meeting it was pointed out the State Legislature had created an Air Pollution Commission with power to enforce standards statewide. Fighting air pollution also needs expert handling, officials pointed out.

Sherwin Birnkrant, city attorney, observed "We could enact a thousand ordinances and it wouldn't bring any immediate relief without the staff to carry out enforcement."

Parker said Trenton had done it "and we can do it, but we have been passing the buck."

A meeting between the committee, city and Pontiac Motor officials on the subject is to be arranged, it was indicated.

Press Given Two Awards

The Pontiac Press has received two major awards from the International Newspaper Promotion Association.

In the classification of newspapers under 100,000 circulation, The Press won a first-place plaque and a second-place award.

★ ★ ★

The first-place award, chosen from 213 entries, was for in-paper promotional ads on the theme "people who read The Pontiac Press every evening have more to talk about the next day."

The second-place award was for ads honoring all-A students in local schools, and ads about a preelection page of candidate background information.

★ ★ ★

The awards were accepted by Bernard M. Salvatore, assistant advertising director in charge of promotion. Also winning awards were the Birmingham Eccentric and the Detroit News.

Milliken Unveils Broad School Reform

His commission recommended that the State Legislature pay half of the salaries of lay teachers of secular subjects in the next two years in private and parochial schools.

★ ★ ★

Another proposed constitutional amendment also would abolish the eight-member state board of education, now elected by partisan ballot. In its place, Milliken's commission has proposed a state director of education, appointed by the governor and confirmed by the senate.

Milliken proposed a three-year timetable to reform the school systems. He called for votes on the constitutional amendments next August.

'DRASTIC ACTION'

Peter Oppewall, Democratic president of the board which Michigan proposes to abolish, termed the action "drastic and radical surgery, without precedent in the United States."

The superintendent of the state's public schools, appointed by the present eight-member State Board of Education, would be thrown out under the proposals.

★ ★ ★

Milliken's action, Oppewall said, would mean "he's reaching for authority to coordinate higher education as well."

The Michigan state board has little control over boards of the state's three principal universities, Oppewall said.

DETAILS LATER

Details of Milliken's reforms are to be spelled out in an address to the Legislature sometime after it returns Monday from a two-month absence.

Milliken is recommending that two per cent of the total public schools budget be earmarked for parochial and private schools. This year's budget is $848.6 million, but would soar to $1.04 billion next year under Milliken's plan.

★ ★ ★

Milliken recommended that the present system of intermediate school districts be abolished and replaced by 10 to 15 education regions, whose boundaries would be set by a special commission and subject to approval of the Legislature.

Among other things, the districts would be responsible for special education, technical education, transportation, data processing, central business services, curriculum consulting and budget review of local districts.

SAME LOCAL DISTRICTS

Milliken said local districts would remain basically the same, and the "control of the schools should remain as close to the people as possible."

Milliken is expected to seek an increase in the state's present 2.6 per cent state personal income tax. Increases in the 5.6 per cent state corporation tax and the 4 per cent state sales tax also have been considered but apparently rejected.

Milliken's proposal to eliminate the State Board of Education, it was understood, would require revising constitutional atuhority over the boards of the University of Michigan, Michigan State and Wayne State in Detroit.

The State Education Department director also would appoint regional directors, and sizes of regions would be set by a special apportionment commission subject to legislative review. No legislative change in the district boundaries would be permitted under proposed bills.

★ ★ ★

While the statewide property tax could mean higher property taxes in some areas, executive department experts say more than 75 per cent of the state's students go to schools in areas where taxes are expected to be less.

★ ★ ★

As the plan now is envisioned, it would offer a total property tax saving of $320 million based on an estimated 1971 total valuation of $40 billion.

Input's a Good Word ---It Tells It Like It Is

By ED BLUNDEN

Beware, another piece of contagious slang is on the way.

We've all heard "sock it to 'em," "do your thing," "finalize," "bag," "gap," etc. until we're right up our tree.

Creeping into the jargon is "input."

BLUNDEN

I first heard it used about a month ago at a City Commission meeting. It was a stormy session with a lot of citizen participation (griping). Near the conclusion, a speaker said "These people have all given you their inputs."

It was a swell word. It covered the feeling, opinions and suggestions put forth, but added dimension.

LAYING ON THE LINE

Of course, I had been impressed the first time I heard someone say "tell it like it is." This told me the speaker was about to be utterly sincere and reveal heretofore undisclosed material.

But, use of the term soon became distorted. The usage had the most extravagant variation when one speaker said, "I'm not telling it like it is, I'm telling it like it's going to be, because it sure isn't that way now."

Catchy words and phrases in our media-oriented society quickly suffer overuse and exploitation. Thus we hear, "This is really good beer . . . and I'm telling it like it is."

The use of the word "input" at present centers around office forces. Thus after any type of briefing, hearing or staff meeting, members emerge with "valuable inputs."

GIVE ED A CHANCE

It's an absolute must that you work "inputs" into your conversation. It can be substituted for any exchange of information or opinion whatsoever . . . "Thanks for those inputs, boss, I won't do it again . . . we value your inputs, Ralph, but let somebody else talk . . ."

In fact, if you've read this far, you've gotten "valuable inputs" from this article.

This useful word will no doubt degenerate in usage, too. Soon we'll hear, "This is great beer because it has valuable inputs."

Sorry about that, but you better believe it.

7 Freed Green Berets Heading for Homes

TRAVIS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — Seven Green Berets, against whom charges of murdering an alleged Vietnamese double agent have been dropped, returned to the United States today and headed for their homes.

Col. Robert B. Rheault, 43, former commander of the Green Berets in Vietnam and the top-ranking among the men, said he hoped the incident "would be forgotten . . . so long as people remember that we were exonerated."

* * *

An Army spokesman said they were released upon arrival for 30 days' leave.

Rheault said he, the five other officers and two enlisted men did not know Thai Khac Chuyen, their alleged victim. He insisted there was no evidence that the man had been killed.

'SECURITY REASONS'

Army Secretary Stanley R. Resor announced Monday the charges against all eight had been dropped after the Central Intelligence Agency, for security reasons, declined to let its agents testify. He said the CIA action precluded a fair trial.

* * *

With Rheault of Vineyard Haven, Mass., were Capt. Robert F. Marasco, 27, Bloomfield, N.J.; Maj. Thomas C. Middleton Jr., 29, Jefferson, S.C.; Maj. David Crew, 33, Cedar Rapids, Iowa; Capt. Leland J. Brumley, 27, Duncan, Okla.; Capt. Budge E. Williams, 27, Athens, Ga.; and CWO2 Edward M. Boyle, 26, of New York.

* * *

All had been charged with murder and conspiracy. Charges were held in abeyance for Boyle and Sgt. 1.C. Alvin L. Smith Jr., 41, of Naples, Fla.

Smith was aboard a separate flight to the United States, after his departure from Vietnam was delayed in processing.

Efficiency Report Set

A management consultant firm will be invited to appear before the County Board of Supervisors Finance Committee to tell what the firm can do for increased efficiency of county government and what the cost will be.

Finance Committee Chairman George Grba, D-Pontiac, who earlier this year told the committee he'd been promised free service by two consulting firms, reported yesterday that both were now unable to comply.

★ ★ ★

"It's amazing a county of this size can't afford $40,000 to $50,000 which I'm told it (the study) will cost," Grba said. He noted that estimates by County Auditor Chairman Daniel T. Murphy put the figure nearer $120,000.

"Let's put it out for bids and then we can decide," Grba said. His committee agreed.

FORMER STUDY

Delos Hamlin, R-Farmington Township, reported that the last time the county had such a study made was about 25 years ago. A Chicago firm was employed for $10,000, he said.

"The firm made such a lot of recommendations that the board (the then board of supervisors) was sure it was a Communist plot and turned them all down," the former board chairman recalled.

★ ★ ★

"Since then," he said, "every recommendation made has been carried out."

Murphy, who is county administrator, said he'd be in favor of such a study, "if only to learn whether we're overstaffed in the Health Department."

CONSOLIDATION

Hamlin pointed out that a reasonable conclusion of such a study might be the lumping of the drain commission, public works and road commission duties in one office.

He noted state legislation would be required for such action.

In other business the committee accepted the bid of Steve Kruchko Co. Inc. of Waterford Township in the amount of $101,700 for mechanical alterations at the old Board of Education building on the Service Center.

Carl O'Brien, D-Pontiac, who earlier had refused to vote for the bid, reconsidered when county administrators informed him a 150-day limit had been placed on the job. Kruchko had failed to include that information in his bid.

The committee also recommended the infusion of $176,000 into the drain board fund — a fund running low at $20,000 and committed for nearly half a million dollars in preliminary drain construction costs.

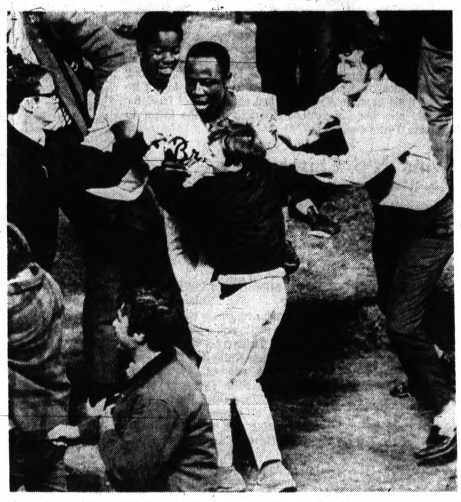
FANS LAUD BRAVES. — It was a night for back-slapping in Atlanta last night as fans pour onto the field (top) to congratulate Atlanta's Braves after they clinched the National League Western Division championship with a 3-2 decision over Cincinnati. Braves' slugger Henry Aaron (below) is surrounded as he moves toward the dugout. The Braves now meet the New York Mets in a three-out-of-five series to determine who'll represent the National League in the World Series.



Mets Next for Atlanta

Sizzling Braves Win Title

ATLANTA (AP) — It took Atlanta's longest winning streak to do it, but the Braves have won the National League West Division championship.

The Braves, who streaked to 17 victories in their last 20 games including 10 in a row, killed San Francisco's slim chances of tying for the title with a 3-2 vitcory over Cincinnati Tuesday night.

★ ★ ★

Atlanta ends its regular season against the Reds Thursday night and opens the best-of-5 series with the East Division champion New York Mets here Saturday with the National League pennant at stake.

Rico Carty, who hit .387 during the Braves' surge that began Sept. 9, drove home the winning run with a sacrifice fly in the seventh inning, capping a two-run rally.

KNUCKLEBALLERS

Ace knuckleballer Phil Niekro gained his 23rd victory, relieved over the final two innings by veteran knuckleballer Hoyt Wilhelm, who retired six Reds in a row, three by strikeouts. It was Niekro's sixth straight victory over the Reds this season.

Wilhelm said after the game that he was "a little nervous" when he began warming up. "In a game like that, you've got to be."

★ ★ ★

Wilhelm, 46, logged his fourth save —he's won two—since the Braves picked him up on waivers last month.

Pinch hitter Mike Lum opened the seventh with a single to center and Ralph Garr, batting for Niekro, drew a walk, sending Cincinnati starter Gary Nolan to the showers and bringing on Wayne Granger.

Lum was forced at third on Felix Millan's bunt but Tony Gonzalez made it 2-2 with his fourth straight single, scoring Garr.

Hank Aaron walked to load the bases and Carty, who missed the entire 1968 season with tuberculosis, drilled the fly ball to right that scored Millan with the winning run.

Atlanta, playing before a partisan crowd of 43,974 that cheered constantly, took a 1-0 lead in the third on Niekro's single, Millan's sacrifice bunt, an infield hit by Gonzalez and Aaron's single to left.

Win Brings Celebration in Atlanta

ATLANTA (AP) — A strip joint owner stopped the show, shouting, "The Braves win, the Braves win."

Playboy Bunny Patti said she was happy for a "great bunch of guys."

★ ★ ★

Lunch counter customers and bus riders clustered over radios, grinning and cheering.

Fans crowded the stadium field, mobbing the players, throwing confetti, setting off firecrackers.

The Atlanta Braves had just clinched the National League West Division pennant with a 3-2 victory over Cincinnati, their 10th straight win.

The Braves finish the season Thursday night and then go into the playoffs against the East Division champion New York Mets Saturday.

FINAL OUT

"It was great," said W. J. Padgett seconds after Hoyt Wilhelm got pinch-hitter Alex Johnson on a grounder to short for the final out Tuesday night. "What else can you say?"

That summed up the reaction of thousands of other Braves fans, at the stadium and elsewhere.

"It's the greatest thing that's ever happened to the Southeast," said strip club owner Buck Sessions. "I died a hundred deaths during those last three outs."

Atlanta Alderman Jack Summers declared, "I feel like we just won the World Series. I think we're going to make it."

One fan said she had followed the Braves in both Atlanta and Milwaukee, where they played from 1953 until moving to Atlanta in 1966.

"I'm delighted," said Mrs. Mary Burkhardt. "I moved to Atlanta from — would you believe — Milwaukee a month ago. I loved them up there and I love them here."

LEW SLOWED — Milwaukee Bucks' towering rookie Lew Alcindor sits in a wheelchair after arriving in Milwaukee from Wichita, Kan., Monday. Alcindor, 7-feet-1½-inches, suffered a sprained ankle in an exhibition game Sunday night. He rode the wheelchair from the plane to a car.

No Lead Big Enough Says OSU's Hayes

CHICAGO (AP) — The days of sitting on a two or three touchdown lead are gone in college football, take it from no less an authority than Woody Hayes of Ohio State who commands the nation's No. 1 team.

Hayes, whose Buckeyes rolled over Texas Christian 62-0 in their opener last Saturday, told Chicago Football Writers Tuesday that "During a game you don't know how big is big enough."

★ ★ ★

Hayes referred to Purdue's opener against the same TCU team a week before when the Boilermakers rambled to a big lead and had to hold off TCU for a 42-35 victory.

High geared offenses in the college game have developed from the beginning of platoon football to extension of the games by stopping the clock after every first down.

OPENS DOOR

It all makes for more excitement, bigger crowds but also opens the door for lopsided victories by teams loaded with talent.

"Platoon football offenses are reaching their maximum potential," said Hayes. "The quarterback is in the game totally and not just a drop back passer.

"College coaches experimented and were not afraid to run the quarterback as you can see in the triple option offense. More and more quarterbacks employ the run-pass option. There are ramifications to the new offenses and the big scoring is not necessarily a drop in defensive football," added Hayes.

John Coatta, whose winless Wisconsin Badgers appear on the verge of a breakthrough because of their potent offense, attributes the big scoring to the greater skills of the players.

"The kids today all run, catch and throw the ball so well that it is difficult for the defense to keep up," said Coatta. "If you have a wealth of material, you can put good players on defense. But if you're short of manpower, the better players go on offense because you must score to win."

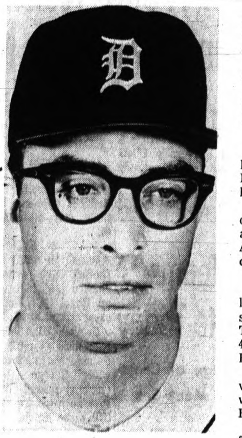
Rookie Helps Tigers Nail Down No. 2 Spot



TOM TIMMERMAN

Mickey Lolich After 20th Win in 1969 Finale

BALTIMORE (AP) — What do Mike Kekich, Fritz Peterson, Mel Stottlemyre, Mike Kilkenny and Tom Timmerman have in common?

They all have complete-game victories over the Baltimore Orioles in running up a five-game losing streak for the American League's Eastern Division champions, their longest of the season.

★ ★ ★

Timmerman, 4-3, a 10 -year minor leaguer making his first major league start, held the Orioles to seven hits Tuesday night as the Detroit Tigers won 4 -3 and clinched second place in the Eastern Division.

Mickey Lolich, seeking an elusive 20th victory, gets his last chance tonight when the Tigers close the season against Baltimore. He has lost 10.

Jim Palmer, 15-4, is scheduled to start for the Orioles.

Loser Dave McNally, 20-7, was routed during a three-run, seventh-inning rally which featured Don Wert's two-run single.

DOUBLE PLAY

After Mickey Stanley had been doubled off second on Cesar Gutierrez' liner to Dave Johnson, the Tigers came roaring back.

McNally walked Jim Northrup and Willie Horton, then was kayoed by Bill Freehan's double, which scored Northup. Wert greeted reliever Dick Hall with his two-run single.

Stanley and Wert had two safeties to pace the Tigers' nine-hit attack.

★ ★ ★

The Orioles almost came back in the ninth as Don Buford singled in Mark Belanger, but Timmerman got Paul Blair on a popup to Freehan.

Manager Earl Weaver played his Oriole regulars for only the fifth time in 16 games since they clinched the division title Sept. 16.

Decals Difficult to Obtain at Michigan

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Gold football decals that appear on some Michigan football players' helmets are symbols of excellence in past games.

And the way U-M rolled to victories in its first two games some players were awarded as many as six at one time.

★ ★ ★

But coach Bo Schembechler says "those things are going to be a little tougher to get now."

The Wolverines had little trouble crushing Vanderbilt 42-14 and last week thrashing Washington 45-7, but this Saturday they take on Missouri, rated ninth in the country.

"The Missouri defense is one of the best in the country," Schembechler said this week at a news luncheon.

"They play their secondary so tight they're line linebackers," he said. ". . . Their defense hasn't been scored on by rushing yet."

That might prove a problem to U-M, which has ground out 729 yards rushing in two games. Junior quarterback Don Moorhead and sophomore tailback sensation Glenn Doughty have accounted for 560 of that.

SLOW STARTER

"Missouri has always been a slow starting team," Schembechler said. "And they may be again. They're starting to get better already."

He said the Tigers have good field goal kicking and punting return games.

"We'll have to defense their punt returns. It's aa real fine weapon for them," he said.

The former Miami of Ohio coach said there is not much that can be done against their field goal attempts, which may come from anywhere inside the 50-yard-line.

The Tigers, who beat the Air Force Academy in their first game and downed Illinois last week, were 7-3 last season and went on to upset Alabama 35-10 in the Gator Bowl.

Delvecchio's Goal Wins for Detroit

BARRIE, Ont. (AP) — Alex Delvecchio scored the last goal of the game in the second period to give Detroit a 3-2 victory over the Los Angeles Kings in a National Hockey League exhibition contest Tuesday.

Pete Stemkowski and Hank Monteith accounted for the Red Wings' other goals.

Bob Lemieux and Bill Flett scored Los Angeles' two goals.

Ex-Kettering Player Out for Three Weeks

Former Kettering gridder Jim Haviland, who started at the cornerback spot for the Miami Hurricanes in their 16-14 loss to Florida State, will be lost to the team for at least three weeks.

Haviland suffered a shoulder injury late in the game. He is expected to return for the Houston game Nov. 1.

Pistons' Coach Wondering . . .

DETROIT (UPI) — A year ago, Bill Van Breda Kolff was woundering how he'd survive a season of squabbles with Wilt Champerlain.

Ahh, sweet memories.

Now Van Breda Kolff must be just wondering how he can survive the season as coach of the Detroit Pistons.

★ ★ ★

Van Breda Kolff left the Los Angeles Lakers after the Boston Celtics had beaten them in the seventh game of the National Basketball Association playoffs.

He now begins the first of two years as coach of a team which finished sixth in the seven-team NBA East last season — and the Pistons didn't corral a single draft choice of note — again.

As if that wasn't enough of a problem, he faces the prospect of losing his best player soon to the rival American Basketball Association.

Dave Bing, who led the NBA in scoring two years ago, has signed an estimated half-million-dollar contract with the Washington Caps, starting in 1971-72, after his contract with the Pistons runs out.

"I don't think that will affect his play here," Van Breda Kolff said. "I've seen him play since high school and he only knows one way to play — all out."

Center Walt Bellamy, acquired in the trade which sent Dave DeBusschere to New York and almost gave the Knicks the key to the playoffs, is as good as there is. Critics tack a "when he wants to be" onto that sentence.

Happy Hairston will get Van Breda Kolff some points and pull down a few rebound (18-point average and nearly 1,000 rebounds last season) while Terry Dischinger and McCoy McLemmore do a capable job on the other side.

Eddie Miles ranks among the best guards, and Jimmy Walker, the former Providence flash who has disappointed in the past, has a "new attitude" again. Howard Komives, obtained in the DeBusschere deal, can also come off the bench and swish a few.

Nets Drop 2 Cagers

BROOKVILLE, N.Y. (UPI) — Wilbur Frazier, a 6-9 center, and Elvin Ivory, 6-8, were cut Tuesday from the New York Nets squad as the club prepared for its Oct. 17 American Basketball Association opener.

Club Sags on Field, at Gate

Long Road Ahead for Young Padres

SAN DIEGO (AP)—Baseball fans in San Diego apparently won't come out to watch a loser, but E. J. "Buzzie" Bavasi can't blame them. He wouldn't either.

★ ★ ★

"These people in San Diego want something to root for," Bavasi, president of the San Diego Padres said. "I as a fan, can't see people rooting for a club that wins one out of every four days.

★ ★ ★

"But if we can win as often as we lose, you'll see an appreciable difference in the audience."

The Padres, last in the National League's West Division, have completed their home schedule at 50,000-seat San Diego Stadium, playing before 613,302, an average of 8,177 a game.

Bavasi said it was too early to determine the club's financial deficit, but he said a season attendance of 800,000 was required to break even.

San Diego County has about 1.4 million people.

Bavasi said he and C. Arnholt Smith, majaority owner of the team, would not look to another city if attendance doesn't increase in 1970.

"We would have to take a dim view of the future if we didn't pick up next year," Bavasi said. "If we don't do a lot better at the gate we'll have to think which direction to go. By that I don't mean Ft. Worth, Buffalo or New Orleans.

★ ★ ★

"What I mean is right now our direction is headed toward the minor leagues to develop our players. Now, if we don't come up with the resources to do this, we'll have to take what good players we have and sell them to get enough cash to sign young players or free agents.

"Right now we think we can do it through our own minor league system."

But without good attendance revenue the Padres will be in a bind.

DRAFT FIRST

"If we don't draw well there's no way we're going to sign ballplayers, particularly now when we're finishing last and we draft first. We don't have the money now and we're in trouble.

★ ★ ★

"We'll do something about it," Bavasi said. "We've got to go out and borrow and beg money to sign these ballplayers because now is the time to do it. Four years from now, when we're fourth or fifth, we won't be first in the draft.

★ ★ ★

"We need the money now but we don't have it because we haven't drawn well enough.

"We've had a frugal operation. We've had to cut down here and there. But if it hadn't been for the excessive charge ($10 million) for the franchise, we'd have been all right. We'd have made a few dollars.

★ ★ ★

"I thonght it was an excessive charge and wanted no part of it. But Mr. Smight said he had promised the city major league baseball and the price wasn't going to interfere — and it didn't."

Wage-Control Warning Told

Unionists Say Nixon Vague on Price Curbs

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Labor sources said today President Nixon told construction union leaders at the White House Tuesday to restrain in wage increases or face the possibility of federal controls.

The account of Nixon's statement was reported to AFL-CIO leaders at a convention here after the President met with his newly created commission to study inflation in the construction industry.

* * *

Four AFL-CIO officials who are members of the White House commission flew from the convention to the Washington meeting.

A report to labor sources here said Nixon told the union leaders their most important job is to restrain wage hikes that have been running at an annual rate of more than 15 per cent in the construction industry this year.

'ONLY ALTERNATIVE'

If they fail to persuade their union members to hold down wage hikes, the only alternative is controls, Nixon was quoted as telling the union leaders.

The report said Nixon apparently was vague as to whether such controls would cover both wages and prices in the construction industry.

* * *

President George Meany of the 13.6-million member AFL-CIO, which opens its biennial convention Thursday, has said organized labor would accept federal controls if Nixon declared a national emergency, and if such controls were applied to wages, prices, profits, interest rates, corporate salaries and all other forms of income.

While many officials of the 17 AFL-CIO building trades unions concede privately that some wage hikes in the construction industry have been excessive, they expressed strong opposition to any government policy that would attempt to put the controls on wages alone.

Sales Test Is Ahead for U.S. Car Makers

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

CUNNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — A test is coming later this year between the never-to-be-underestimated sales skills of the automotive manufacturers and a public that has become a bit suspicious and financially tightfisted.

For 50 years or so the remarkable sales efforts of the car makers — involving high pressure, low pressure, psychology, sex and, it has been claimed, outright deceit — generated a mania for wheels among Americans.

* * *

A car became not only a transport vehicle that opened up brand-new pastimes and created new needs, but it became a symbol of success even when simply an inert pile of metal parked outside a house.

Each year the new models evolved as regularly as the seasons, and as far into the future as any auto man could peer, all that could be seen was a succession of more "seasons."

SALES INCREASE

Almost every year the sales figures increased, and now the big three auto makers are sprawling enterprises employing hundreds of thousands of workers. Financially they are more powerful than some industrial nations.

Each year, this year included, the industry's leaders projected what appeared to be astronomical sales figures, but in more instances than not they reached them. This year the forecast is for 9.5 million car sales—and a sales test.

* * *

The obstacles come from different points in time. Of immediate danger to forecasts is that prices have been increased at the very time that consumer resistance may be stiffening. Every important measure of consumer confidence is falling now. People are watching their money.

Even though sales of the 1970 models shot off the mark—in September alone sales totaled 645,000 units, or 80,000 more than in September 1968—doubts are growing that the pace can be maintained.

1970 IN DOUBT

Already some authorities on the industry are forecasting a decline in sales right through the end of 1969. And 1970 remains in doubt, an economic riddle.

Some forecasters foresee the economic boom continuing in 1970, and that carries with it the suggestion that car sales could boom, too. But the official government view is different. It calls for a slowdown, and if that happens car sales will become sluggish, also.

Just as important as the financial and economic considerations, almost any auto man will concede, is the increasingly critical view that Americans take of their new cars, no matter how throaty the engine or resonant the door. Once they ran their hand over the paint; now they lift the hood.

Moreover, despite their affluence, many Americans are realizing that cars can be expensive to operate. Garage charges continue to rise. So do insurance rates, taxes, parking tickets.

SHOCKING REALIZATION

At 11 cents a mile—the government estimate—you could cross the continent by air for less than it could cost by automobile, a shocking realization for those who continue to regard their vehicles as metal slaves that work for nothing.

Will all these factors—deterioration of consumer confidence, a probable downturn in the economy, the increasingly critical attitude of buyers—hinder the auto makers significantly?

* * *

You couldn't tell it from their own forecasts, which call for sales of 13.5 million cars and trucks in the year 1975. Nor do the independent surveys and forecasts call for any great lessening of demand.

The National Industrial Conference Board, for example, foresees a continued bullish market in the 1970s, basing its conclusions on the prospect of increasingly younger and richer families.

WILL BE THERE

Based solely on population and financial prospects, the market certainly will be there. But it is unlikely that ever again will it be the docile, receptive, uncritical market of years gone by.

The sales ingeuity of the car people is going to be tested. Just because, statistically, the market is there doesn't mean they'll get it. But neither can anyone ever underestimate the marketing skills of Detroit.

NASA Picks Firms in Moon-Rover Try

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (AP) — The National Aeronautics and Space Administration has selected two firms to continue competitive negotiations on a contract calling for four moon rovers.

The space agency said Tuesday that the Bendix Corp. of Ann Arbor, Mich., and the Boeing Co. of Huntsville were selected to continue the project.

NASA said it expects the first operational rover to be ready in early 1971. The 400-pound, four-wheeled vehicle will provide transportation for astronauts and their equipment, with room for lunar samples.

Britain's Mails No Longer Public

LONDON (AP) — Britain's post office steps out on its own today as a public corporation after 300 years under government control. A post office official explained it has become "such a vast and complex organization it is now unsuited to be part of the civil service."

The post office has a staff of 400,000, handling $19.2 billion worth of business annually. The chairman of the new corporation will be Viscount Hall, a Laborite who gave up positions on the boards of 14 companies to take the job.

Critic of Haynsworth Begins Own Probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — The leading Senate opponent of Judge Clement F. Haynsworth's Supreme Court appointment has sent his own investigator to South Carolina to probe Haynsworth's real estate and stock records.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., disclosed in advance of the Senate Judiciary Committee's closed session today that he had despatched the investigator. It had been virtually certain any move to approve the nomination in committee today would be set back a week.

* * *

Bayh said he ordered his own man to Haynsworth's home state when the judge and his stockbroker, Arthur McCall of Greenville, had supplied real estate and stock records going back only to 1964.

The Indiana senator wanted to see the records dealing from 1957 when Haynsworth was appointed a deferal district judge.

NOT ENTHUSIASTIC

"If there are things there that need to be answered, he ought to be the one to answer them," Bayh said of the investigator.

In spite of any postponment of action on the nomination, all indications pointed to committee approval of Haynsworth, although not all his supporters were enthusiastic.

* * *

"I'm beginning to pick up tremendous resentment," said a Republican member of the judiciary committee who asked not to be quoted by name.

Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania said he probably would vote to report Haynsworth to the floor.

'NOT PREPARED TO SAY'

"But," he added, "What I do afterward I am not prepared to say yet."

The Republican whip, Robert Griffin of Michigan, took pretty much the same tack, saying he had not made up his mind yet but probably would vote to report the nomination.

Griffin, however, was understood to be concerned about a published report over the weekend that Haynsworth had been involved with Robert Baker, the controversial former Senate Democratic secretary, in a land deal in South Carolina.

People in the News

By the Associated Press

Gov. John A. Burns says Hawaii has a different outlook on life than states on the U.S. mainland.

BURNS

"We are an island people—a free people—of all races, colors, creeds and cultures," he told the American Bankers Association yesterday in Honolulu.

"We are an amalgamation, a fusion, of East and West. We are a golden people."

Lone Mariner Hailed in Bahamas

Bearded mariner Bill Verity was hailed as "a history-making sailor" yesterday in the Bahamas even though his 22-foot boat had to be towed into Nassau by a lighthouse tender.

★ ★ ★

Verity was greeted by a police band, a beauty queen, and the chairman of the Bahama Tourist Board, Clifford Darling, who presented him with a plaque lauding his solo sail across the Atlantic from Ireland.

He landed at San Salvador 17 days ago.

Deposed Sudanese Leader to Leave Country

Former Sudanese Premier Mohammed Ahmed Mahjoub, one of several of Sudan's government officials detained since last May's army coup, will be allowed to leave for London next week for treatment of a "grave heart crisis," the authoritative Cairo newspaper Al Ahram said today.

Georgia Governor Gets Unicycle for Birthday

Georgia Gov. Lester Maddox finally has a cycle he can ride backward while he faces forward—a unicycle.

The one-wheeler was presented to the governor—along with a red, white and blue cake—on his 54th birthday yesterday in Atlanta.

"I'll tell you," said the delighted Maddox who shines at riding bicycles backwards, "my next term in office I'll ride this into the door."

The one-wheel, no handlebars unicycle is the sixth cycle Maddox has received since taking office three years ago, but the others were ordinary two-wheelers.

Fired Czech TV Exec to Live in Britain

Jiri Pelikan, who was fired as director-general of Czechoslovak television after the Soviet invasion and was sent as counsellor to the embassy in Rome, has chosen freedom in Britain, the Times of London reported yesterday.

★ ★ ★

The newspaper said Pelikan regards himself as a temporary exile who can campaign more effectively abroad than at home for a humane form of communism.

Old Shows Are Revisited

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — With all the new shows in position in the network schedules, there is time to look at the old ones, back for another season.

"Mod Squad's" trio of young undercover operatives is still solving crimes and salvaging human wreckage weekly on ABC. Tuesday nights episode suggests that Michael Cole, Clarence Williams III and Peggy Lipton—unknowns 12 months ago—have grown comfortably into their roles, are more assured and work well as a team.

★ ★ ★

The story was a bit on the sticky side: The squad took on a bright, homeless Mexican boy, then found he was under suspicion as a burglar. But they pulled off his redemption and led him away from a life of crime.

Red Skelton, in his 19th consecutive season in weekly television, obviously purveys a brand of nonsense that never stales.

FORMAT UNCHANGED

The format of the CBS show, unchanged over the summer, had some eye-filling dancing and some easy-to-take singing by the Letterimen. But it was the Skelton turns that made the show. Red, as usual, opened the hour with his monologue—a batch of beach jokes on everything from smog to bikinis. In the big sketch, Red and guest star Walter Brennan kidded the classic Western by playing rival sheriffs. It wasn't as funny as screams from the studio audience indicated but it had some funny moments during a high-stakes poker game.

★ ★ ★

CBS's "60 Minutes" bimonthly news show started with a painful but thought-provoking report on some of the 250,000 wounded U.S. fighting men from the Vietnam war—amputees in an Army rehabilitation hospital.

The segment showed a brutal face of war, yet the gallant attitudes of many of the shattered young men demonstrated hope and determination. Several said they were glad to have made the sacrifice; most had plans for busy active lives.

PANHANDLING PROFIT

It was followed by an off-beat closeup of some young dropouts who adopted panhandling as a profitable way of life. Concealed cameras showed them begging passersby for dimes and quarters. One estimated he received an average of $8 an hour by asking for bus fare home.

Finally there was a report on a visit to the Soviet Union last summer by 13 students and their language teacher from an Atlanta, Ga., all-Negro high school. The students loved the people, enjoyed the sights, hated the food and felt they had benefitted by the experience.

It was a rewarding hour.

Yearbook Nude 'Did It for Rice'

Outstanding Seniors Bare Personalities

HOUSTON (AP) — "I did it for Rice," says the comely coed whose nude photograph appears in the university's 1969 yearbook.

The publication, called The Campanile, is due out Thursday with a picture of Marilyn Penelope Johnson in the altogether and, for good measure, a smaller one of Dennis Rex Bahler also unclad.

★ ★ ★

Both 22, they were among 15 seniors chosen as outstanding students by the student body.

Miss Johnson is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Bruce Willard Johnson of Quincy, Ill., and Bahler's parents are Dr. and Mrs. Dean R. Bahler of West Lafayette, Ind.

WAS HER IDEA

"We tried to capture some sort of their personality," Campanile co-editor Gary Grether said. "Penelope suggested a nude shot of herself because that is the only time a person is shown as her true self."

Miss Johnson is now a graduate student at State University of New York in Buffalo seeking a doctor's degree in English.

"I did it for Rice and the Rice community," she said. "But I don't want to talk about it because that puts it into a class of a publicity stunt."

Bahler's full view catches him clothed, but there is a one-inch by half-inch inset showing him nude.

★ ★ ★

He had no public comment.

Coeditor Conrad Boeck said there is "definite artistic value" in the photographs.

Dr. Frank Vandiveer, acting university president, said he deeply deplored what the editors were publishing, but defended their right to publish it.

The student senate has editorial control over the yearbook.

North U.P. Fall Color Is Near Peak

LANSING (AP) — The Michigan Tourist Council reports fall foliage should reach a color peak in the northern part of the Upper Peninsula this weekend.

Near maximum color is expected in the Houghton-Hancock and Marquette areas.

★ ★ ★

Peak color for the remainder of the Upper Peninsula is expected the weekend of Oct. 11-12.

Some trees already are turning in the northern part of the Lower Peninsula.

★ ★ ★

The tourist council at Lansing has free maps and directions for 24 suggested autumn color tours throughout the state.

Lana's Album Going Topless

NEW YORK (AP) — Australian pop singer Lana Cantrell says her next album, "The Sixth of Lana," will have a cover photograph of half of Lana without any clothes on.

The photograph, from the waist up, was taken from the side and Miss Cantrell, 24, had her arms demurely crossed in front of her.

She said she didn't really regard it as a nude picture—"I'm completely covered by my arms."

"I was sort of shy about it at first," she said, "but I'd known the photographer for years, and there were just the two of us in the studio."

Prejudice Claimed in Hawaii

Irish Stew Over Hippies

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — Swami Vishnu Devananda stood on his head with joy. His two hippie companions cried: "This is wild! This is beautiful!" Irish tempers boiled.

The object of the hippies' delight was St. Patrick's Island in Dublin Bay. Locals call it a "rats' paradise." The hippies want to make it a paradise for the love generation if they can dig up $48,000 to buy it.

★ ★ ★

But Irishmen in the coastal village of Skerries say they prefer rats to the "long-haired and unwashed" and promise a fight to keep the island from being "desecrated."

Swami Vishnu Devananda, operator of a chain of yoga centers in the United States and Canada; Sidney Rawle, clad in white pajamas and an Arab cloak; and Frank Harris, in a Japanese fisherman's coat, toured the island today.

After cries of delight, Rawle said: "We have decided in principle to buy it." All they need is the principal—cash.

Vishnu Devananda has put up a $4,800 deposit. The British real estate agent who owns the isd land, Herbert Marriott, has given the hippies eight weeks to come up with the remaining $43,200.

★ ★ ★

"They will be stopped," said Raymond Burke, vice chairman of Dublin's County Council Planning Authority. "They will never get permission to build on the island."

★ ★ ★

"Nobody in Ireland wants the hippies here," said Burke's mother.

★ ★ ★

An Irish pubkeeper in London said he planned to put up $24,000 to keep the island in Irish hands and bar the hippies.

Rawle was unconcerned.

★ ★ ★

"I think the people of Skerries are going to be very happy when they get to know us," he said. "It's not intended to use this place as a haven for drug addicts or sex-starved hippies. We want a place to meditate."

Meanwhile, in Honolulu, Hawaii, hippies are uptight about the treatment they're getting from the natives.

TV Tape-Playback Unit Shown

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — "SelectaVision," a tape-player designed to attach to any standard color television set and play back recorded color programs, was unveiled in a laboratory model here Tuesday by RCA.

★ ★ ★

The player, which employs a laser beam to broadcast full-color recorded programs on inexpensive tape of the type used to wrap and display supermarket meats, is planned for marketing in 1972 at a cost of less than $400, RCA said.

★ ★ ★

Tapes will cost less than $10 for a half-hour program, and the company has started work on an original library of 100 taped programs on sports, education, art, theater, comedy and others in a broad range of interests.

★ ★ ★

All tapes will be made in color but may be viewed on black and white sets, as is presently done with commercial color broadcasts, RCA said.

EASY TO OPERATE

The player will be "as compact and easy to operate as a phonograph," the company said.

★ ★ ★

Robert W. Sarnoff, RCA president, described the SelectaVision player as potentially the most important development for the home since color television.

It is also likely that existing home movies can be converted to SelectaVision tapes, the company said.
