Laniel's Regime Expected to Fall After Fort Loss

Vietminh Radio Hints De Castries Still Alive at Dien Bien Phu

PARIS (AP)—France was plunged into gloom today by her shattering defeat at Dien Bien Phu but the military vowed to keep battling the Communist-led foe in Indochina.

The loss of the bastion and its thousands of defenders on the eve of Indochina negotiations in Geneva raised speculation that Premier Joseph Laniel's government might fall.

In Saigon, Gen. Henri Navarre, commander of French forces in Indochina, issued a terse order of the day saying "the fight continues" despite the serious setback.

The Red leaders of the Vietminh won a resounding military and political victory in the savage 56-hour battle that engulfed the fortress. A rebel broadcast monitored in Hong Kong claimed the "commander of Dien Bien Phu" and about 17 companies of French Union troops fell into Vietnamese hands when the last defenses caved in.

The radio did not name Brig. Gen. Christian de Castries, but the reference to "commander" indicated the heroic leader had survived. The broadcast gave no word as to the fate of pretty 29-year-old Genevieve de Galard Terraube, French air force nurse who had been trapped in Dien Bien Phu since March.

The Communist radio in Peking claimed the attacking masses annihilated almost 2,000 French Union troops who tried to break out of Isabelle, an outpost three miles south of de Castries' headquarters bunkers.

It was not known what happened to the hundreds of wounded lying in dark dugouts in the heart of the fortress. The Communists had turned a deaf ear to all French pleas for a temporary truce to evacuate the casualties by air.

The French delegation to Geneva formally accused the Communists of stalling on Indochina negotiations until Dien Bien Phu could be seized.

In Paris, Premier Laniel and Defense Minister Rene Pleven were booed and hissed when they showed up at ceremonies celebrating the German defeat in World War II.

The burning issue of France's Indochina policy is expected to come before the National Assembly again next week. With deputies already demanding the scalps of

Cloudy Skies, Rain Forecast for Area

Partly cloudy skies tonight and Sunday with some chance of scattered light showers tomorrow is the weather forecast for the Pontiac area this weekend.

Scattered light frost tonight is expected along with a low of from 32 to 36 degrees. A high of from 33 to 37 degrees is due Sunday.

Friday's temperature ranged from a low of 38 to a high of 56. The reading at 8 a.m. today was 41 degrees, but by 2 p.m. in downtown Pontiac the mercury registered 49.

C. of C. and Kiwanis Club Back City School Tax Plan

Members of Pontiac Chamber of Commerce and Kiwanis Club Friday pledged their organizations' support of Pontiac Board of Education's proposed 10-year tax program.

The board met with representatives of 24 labor, business and civic groups to explain why the school system is asking for extra taxes. Glenn H. Griffin, board president, was chairman of the luncheon at Hotel Pontiac.

Both Milo J. Cross, Chamber president and Ralph T. Norvell, Kiwanis vice president, said their organizations will support the program.

The school board will ask voters June 14 to approve an extra 6.25 mills ($6.25 on each $1,000 worth of property) for three years and 8.75 for the following seven years.

The step-by-step program would hold the total school tax rate at an even $15.45 mills for the next 10 years — about four mills over this year's rate of

Scene Shifts to Mackinaw City

Wind Up Ground Breaking Ceremony for Span Today

MACKINAW CITY (AP)—The scene shifted today to Mackinaw City for the wind-up of the two-day ground breaking ceremonies heralding construction of the long awaited Straits of Mackinac Bridge.

Mrs. Charles T. Fisher Jr., wife of the president of the National Bank of Detroit, will handle a chrome-plated shovel to turn the first spadeful of earth of the southern approach to the $100 million bridge.

Sen. Charles Potter (R-Mich) also expects to be on hand for the celebration. He will head a host of dignitaries during the day-long celebration.

A parade is also planned. The ground breaking celebration at the other end of the bridge took place at St. Ignace yesterday.

There, Mrs. Prentiss M. Brown, wife of the chairman of the Mackinac Bridge Authority, scooped up the first shovel full of sod.

The soil will be placed in the cornerstone of the huge, five-mile bridge.

Snow and rain driven by winds estimated at 35 MPH got the St. Ignace celebration off to a slow start.

The poor weather in the morning forced the cancellation of the big event on the program — the burning and sinking of the old Gospel ship "Glad Tidings." The Arnold Transit Co. postponed the burning and sinking of the ship until Tuesday.

The afternoon program was highlighted by a parade through the downtown area. Gov. Williams ran into bad flying weather and was late in arriving.

14.20 — because a tax for old debt ends this year and another for building steps in 1957.

School men say the tax increase will build at least $9,000,000 worth of new schools and let the school system hold its standards at today's level without running in debt on day-to-day costs.

"We hope your organizations will support this program and do everything you can in the next few weeks," Griffin said. "Well need all the help we can get."

"If this program were not passed," he said, "we couldn't build. (Continued on Page 2, Col. 1)

British Order 2 Red Officials Out of Country

Charge Two Soviet Air Attaches With Attempt at Espionage

LONDON (UP)—Britain disclosed today it had caught two Soviet air attaches in "attempted espionage" and had given them 10 days to leave the country.

Maj. Ivan Pupyshv, 35, and Maj. Andrei Gudkov, 36, were no longer acceptable as members of the Soviet Embassy here, the Foreign Office announced. It handed Soviet Ambassador Jacob Malik Friday a request—tantamount to an order in diplomacy—for withdrawal of the majors.

No details of the attempted espionage were disclosed by the Foreign Office and it was not known whether any Britons were involved.

But it was learned that the activities of the two Russians did not relate to atomic energy. Since Pupyshv and Gudkov were assistant air attaches, there was speculation that they may have tried to steal secrets of Britain's new jet planes.

A Foreign Office spokesman emphasized the word "attempted" before the word "espionage" indicating the Russians did not get far with their spying.

The disclosure came on top of the Petrov case in Australia and the Khokhlov case in Germany. But informed sources said the information about this case did not stem from information given by the two Soviet agents who asked for political asylum.

The last similar case in Britain occurred in July, 1952, when the Foreign Office demanded the recall of Soviet Embassy Second Secretary Pavel Kuznetsov on charges of obtaining spy material from a Foreign Office wireless operator.

The Foreign Office said Malik had not yet informed Britain that the two air attaches have left the country.

Informed sources said Malik was not given information about the nature of the espionage charges since the Foreign Office is under no obligation to give such information.

The Foreign Office would not say whether Britons were involved in the espionage.

Levels of Lakes Reported Higher

Rainfall Has Dispelled Fear Water Would Be Down Again

The water levels in Oakland County lakes are higher now than a year ago at this time, according to County Drain Commissioner Ralph Main and Pontiac City Acting Water Superintendent Joseph W. Gable.

A heavier-than-average rainfall has allayed fears that lakes would be low again this year leaving docks high and dry and hindering swimming and proper sewage disposal, said Main.

The county only takes measurements on three lakes, the levels of which it controls. These are Pontiac, White and Union lake which are being held near last year's levels, Main stated.

Measurements taken by the city water department show Sylvan Lake is 92.8 feet above sea level now, compared with 92.5 a year ago.

The Clinton River also is a fraction of a foot higher at check points at Dawson Mill Pond, W. Lawrence street west of Cass avenue and the waterworks, Gable explained.

Dirksen to Ask Hearing Speed

Will Propose Plan for Monday Vote to Hasten Army-McCarthy Probe

WASHINGTON (UP)—Sen. Dirksen (R-Ill) said today he will ask the Senate Investigations subcommittee for a showdown vote Monday on a "concrete proposal which, if adopted, should end the McCarthy-Army hearings very soon."

Although Dirksen declined to supply any details in an interview, GOP members of the inquiry group canvassed with Republican Policy Committee members at a secret meeting last night the prospects of limiting further testimony in the spectacular probe primarily to Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) and Secretary of the Army Stevens.

One Republican senator, who asked not to be named publicly, said the informal decision was made to urge White House officials to bring pressure on Stevens to agree to some such compromise.

This senator said Stevens was balking at telescoping the hearings but predicted some compromise might be reached over the week end.

Army Counsel Joseph N. Welch, who turned down a similar proposal earlier in the week, would not indicate in advance the Defense Department's attitude toward any new move of this kind.

"I guess I'd better comment on that when it comes up Monday," he said.

But Sen. McClellan (Ark), senior subcommittee Democrat, served notice there is likely to be Democratic opposition to any sudden narrowing of the hearings which have brought Stevens to the witness stand on each of 12 days to reiterate charges against McCarthy and defend himself from the Wisconsin senator's counter accusations.

FBI Informer Discloses 170 Names at Red Hearing

DETROIT (AP)—The names of 170 Michigan persons identified by an FBI informer to congressional investigators as Communists were in the public record today.

Mrs. Bereniece (Toby) Baldwin, a petite, gray-haired grandmother, gave the names Friday to a House Un-American activities subcommittee. She gave a similar group a list of some 200 names two years ago. The new list added to that one.

Mrs. Baldwin identified the 170 as officers of Communist clubs in the Detroit, Flint, Pontiac and Ann Arbor areas in the late 1940s.

A paid informer for the FBI, Mrs. Baldwin joined the party in 1943. She worked herself into inner party circles and eventually became membership and dues secretary for the state-wide Communist organization. This gave her information as to who were members and who weren't.

In 1952 she unmasked herself and turned over her information to the Subversive Activities Control Board in Washington.

Since then she has been a star witness at congressional hearings. (Continued on Page 2, Col. 3)

President Gets Seaway Bill

Senate Moves Quickly to OK House Version; Expansion Talk Heard

WASHINGTON (UP)—The St. Lawrence Seaway, a notoriously slow legislative starter, wound up in a blaze of speed yesterday when the Senate completed congressional action and sent the measure to President Eisenhower.

An Atlantic-to-the-Great Lakes passageway for ocean-going ships has been a project favored by every U. S. President since World War I, including President Eisenhower. But the project was always blocked in Congress.

This year the Senate okayed the bill in January and the House, voting on it for the first time Thursday, approved a version with just minor differences.

The legislation allows the United States to join Canada in building and operating the seaway so ocean vessels can sail as far inland as Toledo, Ohio. A 27-foot-deep canal must be dug around a 46-mile stretch of the International Rapids, where ships are now limited to 14 feet. This would allow the ocean travelers into Lakes Erie and Ontario.

Even as seaway proponents were congratulating each other on their victory, some voices were heard talking about expanding the 105-million dollar project later.

Sen. Douglas (D-Ill) noted the measure does not provide for deepening the Detroit River so deep draft boats can move into Lakes Huron, Michigan and Superior.

Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn) declared the next step would be to extend the seaway "way up to Superior and Duluth, the twin harbors of Wisconsin and Minnesota."

Bulletin

GENEVA (AP)—French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault told the opening session of the Indochina conference today that the war in Indochina must be ended by internationally supervised cease-fire, followed by free elections.

Inspections Begin Monday

Police to Start Inspection of Vehicles Here Monday

Pontiac Police will launch the annual city-wide vehicle maintenance program Monday morning when crews will begin inspecting automobile safety devices for motorists.

Held in connection with Vehicle Maintenance Month during May as designed by the National Safety Council, the program is sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce Safety Committee in co-operation with the Pontiac Auto Dealers Assn.

Although the program is a week late in starting this year, according to Clyde R. Haskill, committee chairman, "a better turnout is expected this year." Haskill said the late start was caused by a shortage of policemen who will be conducting the checkup campaign.

"Pontiac's lower accident rate last year," said Haskill, "was directly helped by these checkups." The association and various service stations and garages again are contributing mechanics to help inspect the auto free of charge.

A reserved parking lane on West Huron street, alongside Oakland County Courthouse, will be roped off for this purpose. Signs have been placed in service. (Continued on Page 2, Col. 2)

Indochina Crisis Probable Cause for Special Call

Dulles States U. S. Is Not Sending GIs Under Present Conditions

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower met with his top strategy advisers for an hour and a half today in an unusual Saturday session.

Presumably a major topic was what the United States should do about the Indochina crisis.

Those who were called to the White House, members of the National Security Council, left by back doors and the President's office made no announcement of what decisions, if any, were reached.

Secretary of State Dulles laid down basic points of the administration attitude last night: It is considering defense commitments which "might involve the use of armed force" but under "present conditions" the United States has no intention of sending fighting men to Indochina.

Those attending the White House conference included Vice President Nixon; Secretary of State Dulles; Secretary of Defense Wilson; Admiral Arthur W. Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff; Allen W. Dulles, director of the Central Intelligence Agency; William M. Rand, acting director of the Foreign Operations Administration; and Arthur S. Flemming, defense mobilization director.

Dulles spoke in a nationwide broadcast last night a few hours after news of the fall of Dien Bien Phu reached Washington.

He expressed confidence that discussions now under way with 16 friendly nations—Britain and France among them—on the defense of Southeast Asia will result in a free world coalition that will rock Communist aggression there. But he cautioned:

"This common defense may involve serious commitments by us all. But free people will never remain free unless they are willing to fight for their vital interests."

So far as the United States is concerned, Dulles said that entering into such commitment is possible only on two conditions:

1. Congressional approval would have to be given. Congress, he said, "is a full partner" with the administration in any such enterprise.

2. Other free nations would have to join the pledge and share the burden. In Dulles' words, there would have to be "an adequate collective effort based on genuine mutuality of purpose in defending vital interests."

Dulles made a distinction between the long range problem of securing Southeast Asia generally against Red conquest and dealing now with the war which is actively under way in the Indochina State of Viet Nam.

He said efforts to work out an armistice in the Geneva conference could produce an acceptable settlement of the fighting. But he acknowledged the possibility that an unacceptable settlement, from the American point of view, might be made.

If there is an unacceptable armistice or a failure to agree on ending the fighting, he said, the need for an anti-Communist coalition would be "even more urgent."

Dulles recalled that the United States had gone into the Korean fight to support the military defense of a people already resisting armed assault and under a United Nations mandate. But he declared that the situation in Indochina "is far more complex."

Commission Is Expected to Discuss 1954-55 Budget at Monday Night Meeting

From Our Birmingham Bureau
BIRMINGHAM — City Manager Donald C. Egbert said yesterday the 1954-55 city budget will probably be under discussion at Monday night's City Commission meeting, following a closed session this morning.

As proposed, the budget totals $1,289,740 "in operating within the 18 mill levy, the resulting budget is not satisfactory," Egbert said yesterday.

Egbert said he is "not particularly happy to see any increase in the rate, if it can be avoided, but we must face our needs." The city does not desire to do any deficit financing, he added.

Substantial increases have been asked for by the fire department and library, and will be considered, Egbert said. Another major item is the need for street repairs, which the manager said cannot be delayed.

Influencing factors which in the last year have caused additional dipping into the operational funds of the city, have been the decrease in tax rate, an increase in millage to the library and the segregation of parking meter revenues.

At a surprise testimonial dinner last night, Dr. and Mrs. David W. Thornberry stepped into the spotlight. Unbeknownst to them, members of St. James Episcopal Church had planned a program based on the television program, "This Is Your Life," to honor their first resident minister and his wife.

Dr. Thornberry served as rector from 1905 to 1907. He and Mrs. Thornberry returned to Birmingham in 1944. Since that time he has acted as assistant to the Rev. Harold E. Towne.

Surprise guests attending were the Thornberrys' children: David R., archdeacon of the Episcopal Diocese of Southern Ohio; Mrs. Margaret Lottis of Cincinnati; and Mrs. Charles Coughlin of Berkeley, Calif.

Others were: Clarence H. Foster of Cadillac, who was best man at the honored couple's wedding; and Mrs. George Lerch of Virginia, Minn.

Winners of the six Birmingham Musicales scholarships have been announced. To attend the Interlochen Music Camp this summer are Joan Gassaway, oboe; John Kerley, saxophone and trombone; and Jane Ann Russell and Carolyn Shattuck, piano.

Joan also received the $25 memorial gift awarded to the outstanding musician among the applicants.

Pat Barkley, piano and Mary Jo Alligre, flute, will use their scholarships for the Michigan state music program.

Working on their advancement at Dodge Park near Milford this weekend are Boy Scouts of Troop B-1, Eugene Kempf, camping director, is in charge of the camp-out, along with three dads.

Troop Chairman Glenn Emery has announced that the troop is in need of a new scoutmaster. Anyone interested may contact him.

Honoring Mother's Day, Ladies Auxiliary No. 9 of the Metropolitan Club will hold a mother-daughter banquet at 6:30 p. m. next Thursday at Embassy Methodist Church. Reservations should be made with Mrs. Charles Reynolds by Monday.

At Monday's noon luncheon at the Community House, Rotary Club members will view a film entitled, "The New Paul Bunyan," shown by a representative of the Weyerhaeuser Lumber Co.

Following this week's city commission meeting, City Manager Donald C. Egbert will prepare plans to service the Troy Township property west of the Grand Trunk Western Railroad right-of-way, through Birmingham's sewer system.

Egbert will negotiate with Norman Barnard, the township supervisor, who requested the connection. Owners of the property will pay for installation, Barnard said. He said the Birmingham Development Co., one of the owners, has agreed to pay its share for additional relief sewers in the area.

Birmingham Musicales will be a co-hostess club when the Michigan Federation of Music Clubs meets Monday through Wednesday in Detroit at its 27th annual convention.

Members will take part in the traditional massed chorus concert Monday afternoon. Mrs. I. W. Robertson, of Binbrook road, is in charge of the formal banquet to be held Tuesday night.

Police to Launch Vehicle Safety Check

A yellow "O.K." windshield sticker will be furnished to motorists passing the inspection.

The inspection will consist of a brake, horn, muffler, lights and windshield wipers checkup. Courtesy warnings will be issued to motorists whose autos fail the inspection, according to Police Chief Herbert W. Straley.

After this week's inspections, several roving Police crews will continue the checkup during the rest of the month.

Establishments where the checkups also may be obtained are the following:

Braid Motors Sales, Central Lincoln-Mercury Sales, Jacobsen Hudson Sales, Jerome Motor Sales, Kimball Bros., Riemschneider Bros., C. Owens, Oliver Motor Sales, Pontiac Retail Store, Wilson GMC Co., Matthews Hargreaves Inc. and the Firestone Stores.

Service stations cooperating also are the Davis Texaco Service, Alder's Super Service, Cass Ave. Brake Service, Earl Liggett, Louis Soucy, D. R. McDonald, and Joe's Neighborhood Service Stations and the Foster Garage.

Berkley Man in Hospital After Being Hit by Car

Harold Gauthier, 45, of 2079 Harvard, Berkley, was admitted to St. Joseph Mercy Hospital last night, with head injuries suffered when he was struck by a car near his home. His condition is reported as good today.

Berkley police said today that Gauthier left a taxi and dashed across Harvard into the path of an eastbound car driven by Elmer Llewellyn, 33, of 1674 Cambridge. Llewellyn was not held.

Two Are Jailed in Store Breakin

Pontiac Youths Face Arraignment May 17 in Circuit Court

Two Pontiac youths waived examination on charges of breaking and entering in the nighttime, and are in Oakland County Jail awaiting Oakland County Circuit Court arraignment May 17. They were unable to furnish $500 bond each.

Sylvan M. Kelly, 17, of 140 Marian Ave., and Harry L. Pate, 19, of 164 Dresden Ave., are accused of breaking into the Lakeside Grocery at 6891 Williams Lake Rd. on April 30 and again May 2. In both breakins many cartons of cigarettes were taken.

Kelly and Pate were arrested shortly after the second breakin by Oakland County Sheriff's Deputies Thomas Brimhall and Lyle Walmsley. The deputies had been called to an accident at Williams Lake and Cooley Lake Rds. where a car had rolled over.

In the car they found about 160 cartons of cigarettes, and after searching for the occupants, the deputies, assisted by Sylvan Village Police Sgt. John Carmen and Patrolman Frank Stott, located Pate and Kelly coming out of a field about half a mile from the accident scene.

Yesterday Waterford Township Patrolman Millard Pender arrested Pate's brother, Lyle L., 20, of 124 E. Farnum, Royal Oak, for investigation of receiving stolen property.

Community Club Guests See Films of Fishing Trip

Howard Shelley of the Oakland County Sportsmen's Club showed his movies of a Canadian fishing trip Thursday at the annual Father and Son Banquet of the Weyerhaeuser Community Club. About 250 persons attended the event in Weyer Junior High School.

General chairman was L. R. Stanley and Arthur J. Law was master of ceremonies. The Rev. Charles Mahar of the Baldwin Avenue Methodist Church gave the invocation. Merlin Sanderson, accompanied by Richard Gould, led community singing.

Decorations and arrangements for preparing and serving the food were handled by Mr. and Mrs. George Gray, Mrs. John Emerson and William Simmons. Members of the Pontiac Board of Education will explain the new tax plan at the next meeting May 22 in Owen School.

ings and the recent Smith Act trial of six top Michigan Communists.

Mrs. Baldwin told the subcommittee that the party sent out its "most militant cadres" to "colonize" — organize — Communist cells in Michigan auto plants.

This, she said, was in line with a party directive to concentrate on big industry, particularly the auto industry.

Rep. Kit Clardy (R-Mich), chairman, sat as a one-man subcommittee in the absence of the other two members. Rep. Scherer (R-Ohio) returned to his home in Cincinnati after the three went to Washington Thursday to vote on the St. Lawrence Seaway. Rep. Moulder (R-Mo) became ill in Washington, delaying his return to Detroit.

All three are expected to be on hand when the subcommittee moves to Lansing Monday.

Because of the absence of the two members, Mrs. Baldwin was the only witness at the final Detroit session. One other, auto worker William E. Fletcher, was called, but his testimony was postponed when he informed Clardy he did not intend to be a "cooperative" witness.

Clardy announced that the subcommittee will return to Detroit Tuesday, May 25, for a one-day stand. He said about 20 witnesses will be heard at that time.

Robert Beauchamp Heads State School Press Group

Robert F. Beauchamp, Pontiac High School English and journalism teacher, was elected president of the Michigan Interscholastic Press Assn. at the annual meeting on the University of Michigan campus yesterday.

Some 1,300 high school journalists and their advisers from throughout the state gathered in Ann Arbor for the 27th annual session.

Two high school journalism teachers were honored with citations and gold pins for outstanding service in their field. They were Miss Florence Day, of Waterford High School and former Pontiac High School English teacher, and Miss Mattie Crump, of Saginaw Arthur Hill High School.

Sponsored by the university journalism department, the program included workshop sessions in various publication activities for the high school boys and girls.

Featured speaker for the general session was Arthur Garfield Hayes, noted New York attorney, whose topic was "Democracy Works." Students in reporting covered his address in a contest sponsored by the Michigan chapter of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism fraternity. The contest winner was T. Dean Palmer of Plymouth High School.

Pontiac High School publications staff members who were delegates to the session included the following:

The couple faces arraignment in Gratiot County Circuit Court Monday.

17,116 in County Get Polio Shots

Number of Volunteers Pleases Health Officials; 2nd Injections Due

Final figures showed today that Oakland County parents have let 17,116 first, second and third grade students take part in the Salk polio vaccine test.

The last of the youngsters taking part in the test were given their first shots Friday. Each will get three injections — the second a week after the first and the third shot four weeks after the first.

Dr. John D. Monroe, county health director, said he was very happy with the number of volunteers "in this program, the biggest one of its kind in the history of medicine."

"More than half the 33,000 children in the first three grades of our schools have come forward for this test," Dr. Monroe said. "This is a lot higher than we expected."

Dr. Monroe said he had not had a single report of any child having a bad reaction "that we can honestly say was caused by the injection."

Health department figures showed that Bloomfield Village School ranked highest in the county in the percentage of youngsters taking part in the test. There, 73 per cent of the first three grades — 91 of the 124 eligible children — were given injections.

Pontiac's two highest schools were Webster and Whitfield, where almost 58 per cent of the eligible youngsters took part. Webster had 250 volunteers from 427 children and Whitfield, 126 of 224.

Bagley had 212 of its 461 eligible students participating; Whittier, 92 of 201, and LeBaron, 122 of 277 children.

"Considering the size of this project and the short time we had to get ready," Dr. Monroe said, "everything went much more smoothly than we expected. Drs. Thomas Francis and R. F. Korns, of the University of Michigan Evaluation Center did a spot-check on a half-dozen clinics here and were very pleased."

Near-Perfect Guess Wins Defense Bond

T. Wesley Neddo, of 8761 Arlington Rd. Pontiac won a $100 defense bond for his nearly perfect estimate of the number of pennies in a model house display at the recent home builders show here.

The plexiglas model, in the Community National Bank booth, contained 1,738 pennies.

Neddo guessed 1,738.

The Pontiac Junior Chamber of Commerce sponsored the show.

Church Program to Emphasize Faith of Families

First Presbyterian Church will climax National Family Week with a Mother's Day service tomorrow and a dinner and program Wednesday.

The Rev. William H. Marbach, D. D., will preach on the theme, "The Christian Message and Motherhood" at the Sunday worship service. The choir will sing two appropriate anthems, "Mother Love" and "Bless This House."

"Faith of Our Families" will be the theme of the May Family Night Dinner Wednesday at 6:30 p.m.

The program is centered around a film on how to direct family worship. The purpose is a revival of the "family altar" that has contributed so largely to the spiritual life of America.

Hosts and hostesses were provided by the Parents Class which consists of nearly 100 adults for Bible study, as a part of the Church School. The program was arranged by Rev. Edward B. Auerbach.

Hosts and hostesses are: Mr. and Mrs. Charles Threlkeld, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Midwinter, Mr. and Mrs. Don Hansen, Mr. and Mrs. Duane Lemaux, Mr. and Mrs. William Hilderley, Mr. and Mrs. William Hermann, Mr. and Mrs. William Hudson, Mr. and Mrs. Max Doerr, Mr. and Mrs. Elwood May, and Dr. and Mrs. W. Chief Requests Public's Help

Urges City Cooperate in Keeping Trash From Pontiac Streets

Pontiac Police Chief Herbert W. Straley today asked citizens to make it unnecessary for police to enforce a city ordinance against littering streets and public places with trash.

"There should be no need," said Straley, "for officers to enforce this ordinance if citizens display the spirit of civic pride synonymous with 'Clean-Up, Paint-Up, Fix-Up' week now being sponsored here by the Pontiac Junior Chamber of Commerce."

"Streets littered with debris mar the potential beauty of our city. Anyone doing his part to prevent this can help make Pontiac a place to be proud of."

The ordinance makes it a misdemeanor to litter streets, alleys, parks or other public places with dirt, ashes, filth or other substances.

It states that vehicles used for hauling should not be loaded above the side or end boards; that they should be constructed to prevent scattering of contents on the streets and covered when contents might be blown out by the wind.

Big 3 in Huddle Over Indochina

Fall of Fort Upsetting; First Parley With Reds Due Today at Geneva

By MA KHARRELSON

GENEVA (AP) — The Indochina peace talks were scheduled to start today as news of Dien Bien Phu's collapse brought the Western Big Three into last minute strategy huddles.

Announcement of the opening session was expected last night, but the fall of the French bastion upset the timetable. However, both Western and Communist quarters expressed belief the opening meeting would be held at 3 p.m. (9 a.m. EST) unless some unexpected hitch develops.

Britain, France and the United States held a series of meetings on conference strategy last night instead of contacting the Russians as expected.

Britain's Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden conferred with U. S. Undersecretary of State Walter Bedell Smith. Later Smith talked with France's Foreign Minister Georges Bidault.

All the major procedural questions apparently have been agreed upon. Eden and Russia's Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov will meet on alternate days.

It was understood that the opening session would be devoted primarily to getting the Indochina phase of the parley organized.

The initial procedure is expected to follow that of the Korean talks where the opening session lasted only a half hour.

Western delegates do not expect to get a clue to the Communist position until the second session. It was generally believed it would become apparent in the first major speech by the Communists whether there is any chance of an Indochina peace.

The fall of Dien Bien Phu naturally eliminated what was to have been a preliminary for discussion

Alfred J. Hansen co-chairman of this week's Pontiac Junior Chamber of Commerce clean-up drive, said, "This is the type of beautification project that we hope people will do now and continue to do."

—a cease-fire for the removal of sick and wounded.

There is another procedural issue slated for discussion before the delegates get down to brass tacks on Indochina. It involves the theory question of who will take part in the parley.

It was agreed that the opening meeting would include nine delegations—the Big Four Powers, Red China, Viet Nam, Laos, Cambodia and the Communist-led Vietnam.

Over Half of State's Area Covered With Forest Land

By GEORGE S. MCINTYRE
Chief, Conservation Department
Forestry Division.

LANSING (AP) — Forests, the backbone of several important Michigan industries, cover more than half the state's land surface area.

Of 36 million acres in Michigan, 19 million are forest area.

Forests rebuild themselves.

and as a "renewable natural resource," provide a continuous source of wealth and enjoyment.

In 1950, for example, more than 50 million dollars in lumber and wood products were taken from Michigan forests.

State forests, too, attract large numbers of hunters and fishermen, campers and naturalists and a veritable army of tourists. One recent estimate shows Michigan forests are valued by all commercial users at more than 500 million dollars annually.

Perhaps the most important value of forests from a human standpoint, however, is the vast but intangible recreational potential state forests provide.

The most extensive forest associations in Michigan are the aspen stands, covering about six million acres of the state, the northern upland hardwoods comprising hard maple, yellow birch, basswood, elm, beech and others, which cover about five million acres, and the swamp conifers which occupy about 1.5 million acres.

Aspen is used mostly as pulpwood in the manufacture of papers and cardboards and for crating and excelsior.

The northern hardwoods lend themselves to use in the furniture industry, as flooring and veneer, in building construction, for scientific equipment and toys and other novelties.

Swamp conifers, on the other hand, find their most important use as food sources for Michigan's deer herd. These include the cedar, spruce, bassam for and tamarack stands.

The problem of keeping this huge store of wealth green and fresh is a huge task, but is being met in many ways.

The public, for example, is alert to the need to prevent fires and to encourage reforestation through school tree planting programs, Arbor Day celebrations and other conservation measures.

Commercial enterprises, growing stands of trees for use as poles, pulpwood, and lumber, also recognize the need for over-all care of forests.

Such up-to-date practices insure a continuously green Michigan and a bright future for industries and individuals which count productive forest lands as a must in their lives.

Cowboy Suing for Damages Done by Cow

DENVER (AP) — Ferdinand J. Hallida, 30-year-old cowboy, sought $201,500 damages in Denver District Court yesterday, claiming a cow fell on him.

The Arvada, Colo., cowboy brought the action against the Rex Hixon Ranching Co., and its president, Rex Hixon of Hugo.

Hallida charged that the defendants "so recklessly and negligently handled and failed to control a large cow in attempting to throw it to the ground" that it fell on him and broke his left leg.

He charged the incident occurred Jan. 10, 1954 while he was working for Hixon as a cowhand.

Larger Deductions for Illness Expected

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Finance Committee reportedly has decided tentatively to allow income taxpayers a bigger deduction for medical expenses.

The provision, already okayed by the House, would permit deduction of medical costs above 3 per cent of income, instead of the present 5 per cent. The committee, now working on a house-passed tax overhaul bill, also was said to have agreed to double the ceiling on medical deductions, raising them to $2,500 for an individual and $10,000 for a family.

An estimated 8½ million taxpayers would benefit to the tune of about 80 million dollars a year, committee members said after a closed door session yesterday.

Counsel for FHA Must Defend Job

WASHINGTON (AP) — Burton C. Bovard, general counsel of the Federal Housing Administration nearly 14 years, has been given 30 days to show cause why he should not be fired.

Bovard has been on leave since April 16, when he refused to resign in a shakeup of top agency personnel that followed disclosures of alleged multi-million dollar abuses in a shakeup of top agency personnel.

Acting FHA Commissioner Norman P. Mason said yesterday

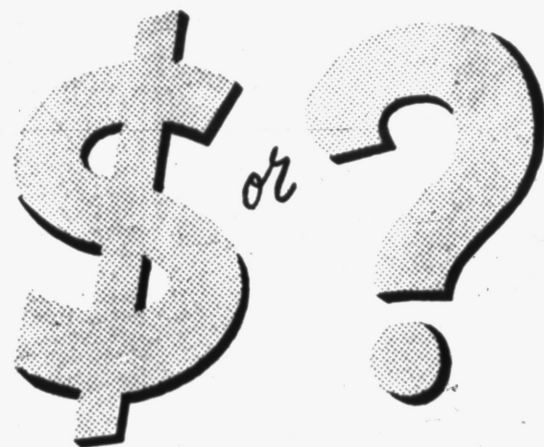

there was "no evidence of illegal activity" by Bovard, but that he is charged with failing "to carry out the functions of his office satisfactorily."

First commercial telephone exchange was installed in 1878.

How to Give 'Til It Hurts!

Before you respond to a solicitation of any kind, consider the following facts:

- ★ A "national" child's foundation raised $3,978,000 in five years. Eighty-two per cent went to the professional promoters.
- ★ In the name of a well-known veterans organization, $21,480,000 was collected. Only $3,837,000 was actually used for "welfare activities."
- ★ An organization working "in behalf of war widows" collected $2,531,000 of which only $317,000 was left for the relief of the widows and orphans after fund-raising expenses.
- ★ A solicitation for "asthmatic children" raised $762,060.94 in two and one-half years. Only $8,650 of this went into the work of the "Foundation." In other words, almost 99c of every dollar contributed was eaten up by the professional promoters.

Contrast the above figures with this important fact—the Pontiac United Fund spent only 2.5% for campaign expenses.

Cites Worth in Mayor Trade

Holly President Sees Civic Leaders Brought Closer Together

HOLLY — Exchange of mayors during the past Michigan Week brought communities and their leaders closer together, and accomplished a trade of ideas for community improvement, according to Worth Hitchcock, village president.

Hitchcock, with his wife, Dorothy, journeyed to Rockwood, and that community's mayor Howard Dittner, took Hitchcock's place in Holly for a day.

Both mayors spent the day viewing industries of the communities.

"They treated us royally," said Hitchcock, who said he sold Rockwood on Holly and they sold him on Rockwood, a town of about 1,100 citizens located a few miles southeast of Flat Rock.

At Holly, Dittner was shown the major industries, the Adelphi Mills, civic buildings, and was honor guest at a concert by the Holly High School band, according to Anders Hustvedt, village manager.

Dittner was accompanied by Hustvedt, Frank Gromack, president of the Board of Commerce, Emory Gooddy, secretary of the Board of Commerce, and Councilman Court Hall, who presented Dittner with an 18 inch model key to the village, was made by Percy Fry, high school shop teacher.

The group was invited to a supper by the Presbyterian Men's Guild, and a movie, which showed the making of a newspaper, was presented.

"He must have liked the village," said Hustvedt, "because he didn't leave until well after 9 p.m."

$550,000 Issue Up to Electors

Avondale Voters to Vote on Issuing School Bonds

AUBURN HEIGHTS — A rapidly expanding school population is sending the school electors of Avondale School District to the polls Monday to decide a $550,000 school building bond issue.

Money obtained from the bonds, if approved, will construct a junior high school, purchase a site in Auburn Heights and build an addition to Elmwood School. It will have ten classrooms and a large multipurpose room.

The issue will require four more mills for three years, through 1956, and after 1956 the rate will drop to 12 mills. The district is paying 13 mills now for the 1949 bond issue which built the present Avondale High School on Auburn road.

Half-day sessions face 400 students next fall, said Superintendent Ray Baker, unless the district can rent six more rooms. They are now renting six rooms costing $5,000 per year.

Housed in basement and temporary rooms now are 480 children; but the proposed elementary addition would help alleviate the situation, said Board of Education members.

Polls will be open from 7 a. m. to 8 p. m. in two precincts; electors living in precinct one, west of Adams road, will vote at Auburn Heights School; precinct two, east of Adams Road, will vote at the Elmwood School.

The school board will hold a special meeting following the close of the polls Monday night.

New Child Study Group II Elects Its Officers

WATERFORD TOWNSHIP — Members of the newly-organized Waterford Township Child Study Club Group II met at the home of Mrs. John Hackett on Lakewood drive this week and elected their officers.

New officers include Mrs. Jackson Byers, president; Mrs. Donald White, vice president; Mrs. Franklin MacDuff, second vice president; Mrs. Thomas Doremus, secretary; Mrs. John Thompson, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Donald Arsen, treasurer; and Mrs. Harold Zimmerman, historian.

There are 11 other members in the new group which was organized because the original group was believed to be too large.

A panel discussion on "Is My Child Ready for School?" was given at the meeting by members of Group I who are serving as an advisory committee for the new group. The panel consisted of Mrs. James DenHerder, Mrs. Erwin Greer, Mrs. Donald Redmond and Mrs. Donald Weaver.

State Officials to Visit Schools

To Study Overcrowded Conditions in Lapeer County Buildings

LAPEER — Two representatives of the State Department of Public Instruction will spend two days and an evening here beginning Monday to study conditions in overcrowded schools.

They will make a survey of conditions in 12 rural schools in Lapeer County that, according to county Superintendent R. A. Grettenger, have found numbers of pupils increasing so rapidly that they are forced either to build, send more students to other schools or reorganize with high schools or neighboring schools.

Grettenger has requested overcrowded schools to notify him so that he might set up a schedule whereby George Schutt and Jack Martin of the Department of Public Instruction can meet with school boards to make suggestions and answer questions.

On Monday at 8 p.m. Schutt and Martin will hold an open forum in the court house building to discuss schools in Lapeer County. They will make suggestions for individual schools which may apply to others.

Visiting Mayor Gets History of Clarkston

Robert Jones, vice president and cashier of the Clarkston State Bank presented the remembrance book to Noud. Mayor Russell Colson of Clarkston spent the day in Stanwood.

MILFORD — A musical play entitled "Grandma's Stories" will be presented Monday night at Bertha Baker School's multi-purpose room along with the regular PTA meeting beginning at 7:30.

Over 200 children in grades one through six will participate in the play, according to Miss Susan Brown, director.

Mrs. Lowell Newcomb will accompany the children on the piano. The first grade rhythm band will also play a few numbers. Teachers of Bertha Baker School have all cooperated in making costumes and scenery.

The PTA will install new officers during the business meeting under the direction of Mrs. George Johnson, Oakland County Council president.

Reflections

MOTHERS' DAY

by J. Lee Voorhees

A wild flower in a field lends beauty to that field. An orchid, exotic and lovely, symbolizes the unusual; a carnation grows and blooms under adverse conditions yet that spicy fragrance arises to give us joy, I like to think of a carnation as symbolizing motherhood.

Carnations lay no claim to more than they are. One does not coddle them nor give them tender care; however, they send forth their beautiful blossoms to nurture the soul of man. Our mothers lay no claim to more than they are and yet who gives more?

They walked through the shadow of death to give us life; they ask no special favors, except our love; they hold up their heads and go proudly on, secure in the knowledge that they, alone, hold a place in our hearts that no one else can ever fill. Pay homage to mother May 9th. She'll appreciate it.

Isle Royale Neglected

In a report to Congress, Michigan's Isle Royale Commission urges early action to develop this neglected national park in Lake Superior.

Plans for such development are in the possession of the Interior Department. The fact that nothing has been done about them is reflected in national park attendance records. In 1952 the average attendance at these parks was 1,472,559. But that year only 2,830 persons visited Isle Royale.

Yet this magnificent forested wilderness, only 45 miles northwest of the Keweenaw Peninsula, is the center of an 11 state area with a total population of 35,000,000.

There are two reasons for this small attendance—lack of adequate transportation from the mainland and very little accommodation on the island. At present the only means of reaching it is the Government supply boat with a capacity of only 16 passengers.

Yet, it takes only a few words to prove that if these deficiencies were overcome, this island would be one of the most popular national parks with enormous benefit to Michigan's great tourist industry.

Actually Isle Royale is an archipelago of 200 islands. Its total area, 133,838 acres, is a veritable paradise for botanists and geologists. The main island is 45 miles long and nine miles wide.

Besides being the home of the Nation's largest moose herd, it abounds in lakes and streams famed for good fishing. Other abundant wild life includes many varieties of birds and beavers, coyotes and snowshoe rabbits.

We agree with the commission that the Government should act soon to make this primeval wilderness accessible and comfortable for many more vacationers.

Air Force Academy

Michigan residents are hopefully awaiting announcement of the selection of the site of the proposed new United States Air Force Academy. A decision is expected by May 15.

It is known that Fort Custer, near Battle Creek, was one of the sites favored by the inspecting group. It already is federally owned. Its size and location are satisfactory. Utilities are all installed.

Establishment of the academy at Fort Custer would be a sensible move. It would utilize a costly layout, instead of letting it stand idle. It would make unnecessary any big expenditure of money for a new site elsewhere.

It would be a welcome addition to Michigan's show places. It would bring Michigan some of the finest young men in the Nation. It would provide a splendid addition to the outstanding educational institutions already located in our state.

Social Security Changes

One of the seeming certainties of the current session of Congress is a revision of Old Age and Survivors Insurance legislation.

Altogether about 250 bills to revise our Social Security system have been introduced. At present, however, only two written by the Health, Education and Welfare Department are likely to get detailed study.

One of these bills embodying Administration proposed amendments to our Social Security system is now taking shape in the House Ways and Means Committee. The other bill which may get consideration would reshape the Public Assistance program of Federal grants to states for care of the needy.

Ways and Means Chairman REED said that his committee would try to report out the OASI amendments even if it did not have time to consider public assistance revision. No hearings have been held on the latter bill.

Six OASI changes are being proposed by the Administration: Coverage would be extended to 10,500,000 more persons. Minimum benefits would be increased from $25 to $30 and family benefits from $168.75 to $190.

The total of income taxable for Social Security would be increased from $3,600 to $4,200. For the purpose of computing average earnings, the four years of an individual's lowest income would be dropped. The amount a person could earn without losing OASI benefits would be increased from $75 a month to $1,000 a year.

Finally, time lost by total disability would be disregarded in figuring eligibility status and benefits.

Differing views of Social Security needs are held by various groups. But Congressional Quarterly reports the likelihood of considerable Democratic support for Administration proposals. In fact House Democrats already have urged revisions which closely follow those outlined by the President.

WE ARE not included among those who are signing up to make a tour of the planets if and when interplanetary transportation becomes available. It is our feeling that when you've seen one planet, you've seen them all.

GOP Looks North Seeking Upper Peninsula Man for State Ticket

By JACK I. GREEN
 LANSING—There's going to be an Upper Peninsula man on the Republican state ticket this year if both northern and southern Michigan party leaders have any say about it.

Not that this is going to be accomplished easily, but it's going to be done if at all possible.

Party strategists are mindful that there has been no Upper Peninsula resident on the ticket for the past four elections—and that Gov. Williams has won three of those contests by such narrow margins that a thumping northern county vote could have handed the prize to the Republicans.

Instead the Republicans carried six of the 15 Upper Peninsula counties in the last election and none by heavy margins.

Planning for 1954, Republican leaders are privately aware that Williams has gathered a lot of political credit to himself by his successful sponsorship of the Mackinac Straits Bridge.

Few Republicans opposed the bridge, but neither did the party leadership give much help until the bridge started looming on the horizon.

No the Republican Party recognizes it must make a renewed play for the Upper Peninsula vote and one of the best ways is to put a man from that area on the state ticket—a return to the old tradition that one of the nominations must go north of the straits.

The north country would have had a nominee two years ago, probably, if it had been able to settle on one candidate. But the boys got behind Albert J. Bruneau of Houghton for auditor general so late that the energetic John B. Martin had time to get in ahead and pick up the delegate votes needed.

This year northern Republicans appear determined to avoid that mistake. The Northern Michigan Republican Association will meet at Bikey Park next Friday and all reports are that the No. 1 business will be to settle on a favorite son.

Party gossip indicates that the favorite will be either Robert C. Kline Jr. of Sault Ste. Marie or John D. Morrison of Marquette.

Kline is a young attorney, war veteran and chairman of the Chippewa County Republican Committee. Morrison, a prosperous head of an accounting firm with offices in various western Upper Peninsula cities, was auditor general in 1946 and 1947.

Kline is known to be eager for a try at the state political stage. Morrison's exact wishes are not so clearly known. He left the Capitol voluntarily after his previous experience and indicated then that he wanted no more of state office. But he may have changed his mind.

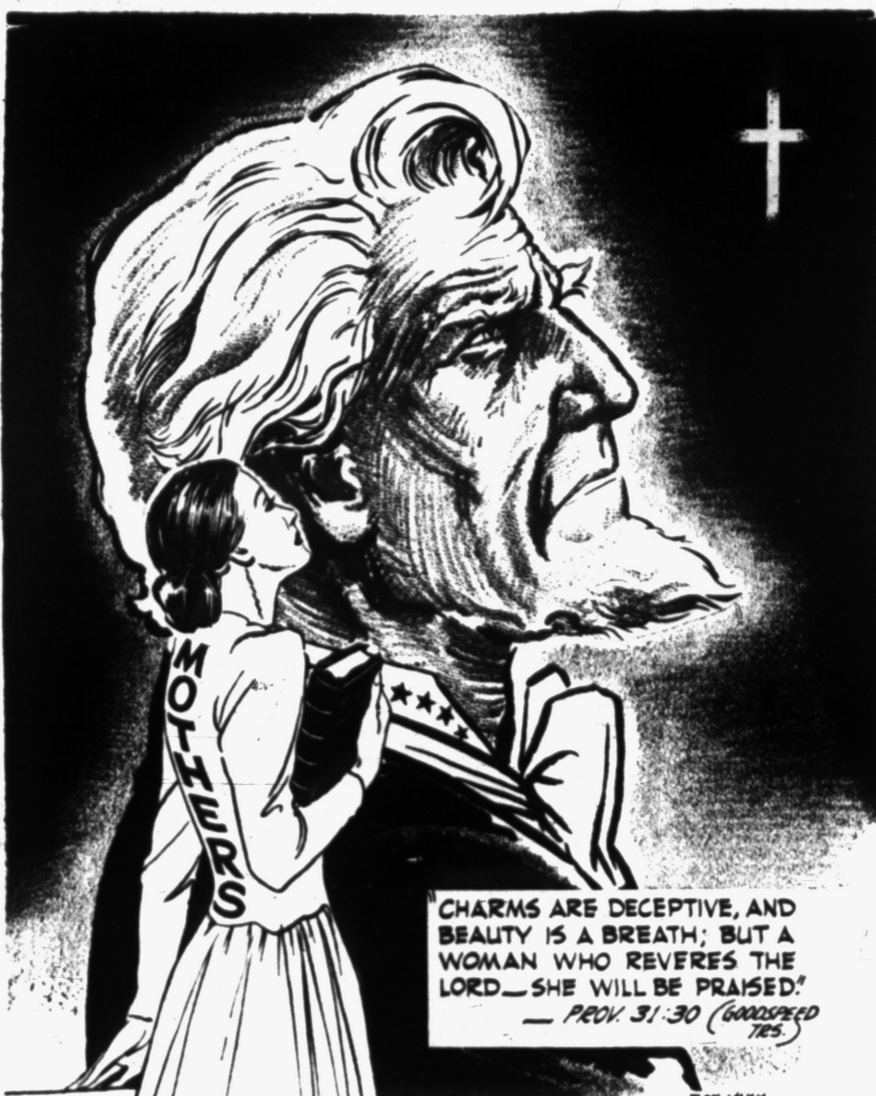

The problem of what job to offer the land beyond the straits is a tough one, however, for party leaders.

If either Secretary of State Owen J. Cleary or State Treasurer D. Hale Brake captures the nomination for governor there would certainly be one spot on the ticket open.

If neither of them wins, of course, both Cleary and Brake may want to hold on to their present posts again. That would leave no vacancies on the assumption that both Atty. Gen. Frank G. Millard and Aud. Gen. Martin also want to continue in public life—and that seems certain. Under certain circumstances, Martin might be glad to switch to the secretary of state position.

Thus, party strategists can make no commitment on what place, if any, may be open for an Upper Peninsula candidate, much as they may want one.

It would be extremely difficult to force a present office-holder out of a top post unless he was simply gaga with party loyalty. So it will depend on the primary.

Richard Fox Protests Summons Before the Un-American Activities Committee

(Letters will be condensed when necessary because of lack of space. Full name, address and telephone number of the writer must accompany letters but these will not be published if the writer so requests, unless the letter is critical in its nature.)

I am a ninth generation American and a third generation "Michiganian." There is hardly a county in the lower peninsula that doesn't have a relative of mine living in it, especially Kent and Ingham Counties, where they first settled.

Among my ancestors there is a Revolutionary War soldier, a veteran of the War of 1812, and several veterans of the G.A.R.

Thoughts of these men and their ideals of democracy, for which they fought to establish and preserve, have been racing through my head ever since one of Mr. Clardy's police agents forced his way into my father's house to serve a subpoena.

THOUGHTS FOR TODAY

Do they not err that devise evil? But mercy and truth shall be to them that devise good.—Prov. 14:22.

The use of great men is to serve the little men, to take care of the human race, and act as practical interpreters of justice and truth.—Theodore Parker.

Days of All Faiths

Second Sunday in May Was Set Aside as Mother's Day by President Wilson, 1914

By Rev. Dr. Howard V. Harper
 Probably no observance spread faster than the one proposed in 1907 by Anna Jarvis, of Philadelphia, who suggested a day in honor of mothers.

By 1911, Mother's Day was being celebrated not only in every state in this country, but also in Canada, Mexico, South America, Africa, China, and Japan.

In 1914 Congress authorized President Wilson to set aside the second Sunday in May as an official holiday in honor of mothers and motherhood.

Thus, although most of the day's activities are centered in church services, it is really a national rather than an ecclesiastical holiday. The original proclamation stated that the American flag should be displayed on Mother's Day.

There was a time in the history of this day when sentimental excesses turned many people against it. Ministers read the morning lessons from their mothers' Bibles and preached sermons that left hardly a dry eye in the congregation.

In most Protestant churches, Mother's Day has become the Festival of the Christian Home, and the emphasis extended to include not only honor to mothers but also a recognition of their responsibilities in building family life on a proper religious foundation.

May 11, 12, 13 are the festivals of St. Mammertus, St. Pancras, and St. Servatus.

In the wine-growing part of France occasionally a severe cold spell strikes just at this time of year, working great damage on the grapevines, which by this time are far developed. Scientists say the unseasonable frost is caused by air-currents blowing off a late breakup of polar ice in the north.

summoning me to the House Chambers of May 10, 1954.

The flagrant flouting of the Fourth Amendment by this committee agent angers me but the insinuation that I have knowledge of and may even have participated in un-American activities angers me more.

Says His Wife's Family Helped Runaway Slaves

My late wife used to recall her aunt, Dr. S. Gertrude Banks, and her mother, Mrs. J. G. Sibley, telling about hearing rapping on the door of their home at the north edge of Walled Lake, while they were still young. Their mother and father would let one or more runaway slaves in and mother would prepare a meal for them while father was hitching up the team.

He would be gone the rest of the night, returning early the next morning. No questions would be asked but they knew that the "underground railway" had carried more passengers to some Detroit "depot" with Canada the next stop.

I have a poem Dr. Bank wrote on that railway many years ago.

Mrs. O. H. Worries About Trichinosis After Eating Some Half-Cooked Bacon

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

 Trichinosis

I realized after I ate a large plate of bacon that it wasn't cooked enough. Now I am worried about possible trichinosis. Mrs. O. H.

Answer—Fortunately human infection with this parasite is rare in the United States today, but the federal government, recognizing that inspection of meat cannot detect the presence of trichinae in pork, warns all persons not to eat pork, ham, sausage or bacon, inspected or not, unless it has been thoroughly cooked. Trichinae in pork die after prolonged pickling—but not after present day quick curing. Smoking does not make trichinosis meat safe to eat.

Although the occasion will probably go unnoticed by Episcopalians, May 13, is the anniversary of their beginning in America.

On May 13, 1607, a party of 105 persons landed at what is now Jamestown, Virginia, and began to establish the first permanent colony on this continent.

With the group was Chaplain Robert Hunt, who therefore became the first resident Anglican clergyman in America and set up the first church.

Don't Compromise Morally; Wait for Marriage Vows

Marsha's case is appropriate for all high school classes on "Sex Hygiene" or "Marriage Problems." For it shows the hazards that you can encounter in modern society. Glib girls succumb just like Marsha, who had a college education. You don't dare play with fire, for moral erosion soon occurs.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case K-396: Marsha W., aged 24, is a private secretary.

"Dr. Crane, I met a man a year ago who was 35," she began. "He was a good talker and very attractive."

"He kept stopping at my desk thereafter to visit with me. I learned that he was married and had two children."

"But he said his wife didn't understand him, so they never got along harmoniously."

"He asked me for a date, but I refused because he was married. Then he asked me again, and I refused."

"But he persisted and finally I had dinner with him. Then I went to a movie with him later on. And now I have succumbed to him entirely."

"He said he was going to divorce his wife and marry me, but he hasn't done so and I am panicky, for I am going to have a baby."

A baseball player who belittled his own teammates would be a poor sport, don't you think?

Well, marriage is a team affair, so any husband who goes around telling tales about his wife is likewise a poor sport.

And the same is true of wives who criticize their husbands before strangers.

Marsha should have labelled him immediately for what he was by that very fact alone. I'm passing this suggestion along to you other young women so you will be forewarned.

Don't go out with men who are married! And a married man who talks about his wife behind her back, is a double hazard.

Furthermore, beware of the moral erosion that takes place by listening to such repeated requests for a date.

Do you readers think this man will really divorce his wife and marry Marsha? If you do, you are inexperienced.

Why should he marry her? She has given in to him completely already so there isn't anything more she can offer.

And she didn't exact a wedding ring at the start, so men rarely buy you a wedding ring afterwards.

If a man is going to marry you, he'll buy you a ring before you live together.

And if you are foolish enough to be a common-law wife without benefit of clergy, you have little or no future leverage to get a man in the mood to buy a ring and go through a wedding ceremony.

So be forewarned. Marsha's case is a tragedy for her and will be a tragedy for her baby unless she lets it be adopted into some good home so it will not suffer the social censure of growing up without a father.

This man will immediately flee back to the protection of his wife and hide behind her skirts, as such husbands usually do.

It is high time you teen-agers became aware of the dangers that confront you.

Free love and trial marriage went out of style thousands of years ago, so don't let any glib talker try to make you think it is old-fashioned to use "horse sense" and wait for the wedding band.

Woman Wonders Where to Find Part-Time Job Making Draperies

She Should Advertise in the Paper

Also Is Advised to Consult Yardgoods Saleswomen

By ANNE HEYWOOD

"I sew beautifully," a woman writes, "especially draperies, which have always been my specialty."

"I do all of our own, and I pride myself on the fine details and finishing. I have made them for friends also, and they have loved them."

"But none of my friends can afford to pay for my services, and I wonder if there is any way I could get a part-time job sewing, but just draperies."

"I am not so good at slipcovers, or dresses, or anything, really, except drapes."

"Do you have any idea where I might find a job?"

First, let me say that you are very wise to specialize. Many women make the mistake of trying to do everything, and end by doing nothing well.

I suggest that you put an ad in your local paper.

There may be firms, or individuals, looking for just exactly such a service as yours, but they will never know it if you don't advertise.

Word your ad in some such way as this: "Fine drapes made professionally: four hours per day, your premises or mine, fees moderate."

Next, call on the salesgirls in your favorite shop, or at department store fabric counters. You might show them a photograph of draperies you have made, tell them you do it reasonably, and see if they might recommend you when they have a customer who asks about such a service.

You might also write a brief, business like letter to the leading draperies in your city. You should find them listed in your classified telephone directory.

Say something like this: "May I come in and talk with you about the possibility of making draperies for you or your clients on a part-time basis? My fees are reasonable, and my work is excellent. I would be glad to show you samples of my work."

"Perhaps if you find yourself snowed under, with a seasonal rush and deadlines, I might be of help to you."

Then give your phone number. If you will keep at it, there's no reason why you shouldn't have a lucrative part-time business.

Drapes Affect Look

If the windows in your living room are narrow, hang the draperies so that they extend out over the frame. Hanging them within the frame, of course, will make too wide windows look narrower.

Now More Than Ever.

She Should Give Up—Now

Boy's Parents Veto Girl

By ELIZABETH WOODWARD

A girl likes to snuggle down into the comfy, warm feeling that her boy friend's family likes her. It's not enough to know that he loves her to pieces—his relatives must love her, too.

But a girl can afford the luxury of such sentimental notions only when she knows his family well. If they live somewhere else and she's never met them, she's just an idea to them—a vague, formless creature they may, or may not, have heard about. It's silly to expect them to go all out for a girl they've never seen.

It's equally silly to count on their enthusiastic approval when they refuse to take their son's girl friend seriously. And such is the case when, from their point of view, son is too young, too unsettled, too low on the ladder to be in anything but puppy love.

It's downright painful for a girl to bump up against real opposition from his family. Maybe they have nothing against her personally. They just have plans, traditions and ways of thinking that don't include her.

Such opposition is a real challenge to a girl in love. She refuses to face the fact that the cards would be equally stacked against any similar girl her boy friend liked. She is blithely sure she can overcome any and all barriers—if she just knew how.

Here's a girl who's facing some pretty rockbound traditions. She writes that she's being judged for something she can't help.

"Dear Miss Woodward: His family is terribly strict and they want him to break off with me because they want to pick the girl for him to marry."

"She must be someone with the same racial background, the same religion—someone they've known forever—the daughter of family friends."

"We've been going together for two years and have talked of marriage, but because I'm only 17 we have decided to wait for two more years so I can graduate and we can save for our future."

"He is 22 and must be home at 10:30 each night or else he is locked out and must either sleep in his car or impose on friends. I try to respect his family's wishes so we end our dates at 9:30."

"We've talked it all over without finding any real solution. He could leave home, which I don't want him to do."

"He could join the service, but I'd hate to be the one to push that idea because I wouldn't be able to see him at all. We could break off—but neither of us wants that."

"Is there any way I can prove to his family that I'm just as good a girl friend and future wife for their son as any girl they could pick out?"

"I can't understand how his whole family can judge me when they've just met me once—and their main criticism is the fact that my racial background is different from theirs."

It would be interesting to know how your own family feels about the young man in question.

Are they convinced that he would make the perfect husband for you? Are they even aware that you're thinking about marriage with him? Do they like him wholeheartedly—with all his differences? Have there been any conflicts at home because of those differences?

Your own family's attitudes and ways of thinking are familiar to you—and would be valuable help in getting your own thinking straightened out.

My own angle is this: You're 17 and it's too soon to be thinking about marriage when you're so far from its accomplishment. If he can't convince his family to accept you—you can't. Marriage with a boy whose family ties are very strong—and whose family doesn't approve of you—would be lifelong misery.

My recommendation is to break it off clean and now. You're still in school—you've chances and time to find someone else.

A letter tells me: "My daughter and I visited a relative in the hospital recently. She had undergone a serious operation but was recovering nicely. My daughter took her a box of candy and I gave her a box of cookies."

"As soon as she saw them, she said, 'I can't have candy or cookies.' I felt quite put out over this remark but said nothing, and when it was time for us to go we took the packages with us."

"Now I understand we are being criticized for doing this. Don't you think this was the right thing to do under the circumstances? I would appreciate hearing from you."

Answer: If you had said, "If you really can't eat these, I will take them home and bring something you can eat if you will tell me what this is," that would have been quite all right. Although her own reply was tactless, your taking the gifts and walking off with them was certainly not good manners.

Dear Mrs. Post: I am going to be married soon and would like to know if it would be proper to send my cousin, who lost her father two months ago, an invitation to my wedding. There seems to be a difference of opinion about this and I would like to know what is correct.

Answer: Even though your cousin may not feel able to go to your wedding, you certainly should send her an invitation, because otherwise she will feel neglected—in fact, shut out!

Dear Mrs. Post: My doctor has cured me of a very serious illness. I would like to send him a basket of fruit or a flowering plant in addition to paying my bill.

Should this be sent to office or house, and should it include his wife, who is a stranger to me?

Answer: Since his wife is a stranger to you, sending it to him alone at his office would be preferable.

Paper Showers Become Popular

Many young people today plan a paper shower for a prospective bride, if several parties are planned in her honor.

Popular work-saving items usually included are: a variety of paper plates in several designs and sizes; paper towels, wax paper, shelf paper, monogrammed matches, note paper, playing cards and decorative prints which the bride can have framed later. Paper baking cups and dishes also will prove useful, as will a good supply of paper table mats and napkins.

To carry out the theme of the shower, the hostess can use an all-paper table service. For decorative purposes she can make miniature umbrellas out of paper plates.

This is done by cutting a two-inch wedge out of a nine-inch plate, overlapping cut edges, fastening with cellophane tape and sticking a pipe cleaner through the middle for a handle.

A cluster of these makes an attractive centerpiece, while umbrellas made from smaller paper plates can be used for place cards.

Mary Ann Johnson Wed

In a candlelight ceremony Friday evening at First Methodist Church, Mary Ann Johnson became the bride of Warren E. Baker Jr.

The Rev. Easton Hazard of Wilson Avenue Methodist Church performed the ceremony at 8 o'clock.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Everett E. Johnson of South Jessie street, and the Warren E. Bakers of Rochester are the bridegroom's parents.

Mary Ann chose a gown of imported Chantilly lace over satin with a V-neckline. The long sleeves ended in points over the wrists and inserts of pleated tulle highlighted the lace skirt which fell into a chapel train of tulle.

A matching lace cap held her illusion veil, and white roses, shattered carnations and stephanotis were centered with a white orchid for her bouquet.

Mrs. Loren Seaman attended her sister as honor matron. Other attendants were Jacqueline Menzel and Mrs. Lyman Kendrick. All wore waltz-length frocks of pale pink Chantilly lace and tulle and carried bouquets of pale pink Azaleas.

Mr. Kendrick was best man and the bride's brothers, Floyd Stanton and Charles Johnson, and the bridegroom's cousin, Forest Baker Jr., seated the guests.

Flower girl Jean Tripp of LaPeer wore a pink floor-length gown and carried a basket of petals. Mrs. Morton Jorgenson sang the wedding recital accompanied by Ray Ebey.

Old Bible Cities Again in News

Israel-Jordan Clashes Geographically Linked to Scripture Stories

WASHINGTON — Bible names echo today in the gunfire along Israel's burning borders.

Strange towns spring into the news, but strange as they sound, they are closely linked to places known to millions of Scripture-reading Americans.

Many recent incidents have occurred near Jerusalem and Bethlehem, cities familiar for their roles in Jewish history and in the life of Christ, says the National Geographic Society.

To most newspaper readers, Wadi Fukin, Khirbet Deir, Nablun and Hama may be a confusing jumble of letters with one meaning: friction between Israel and Jordan.

But by geography these villages, just a few miles southwest of Jerusalem, are tied to the land of Judaea, once occupied by the tribes of Judah and Benjamin.

For centuries Judaea has been a country of shepherds, their flocks dotting the rugged highlands. It has also been a land of stonewalled vineyards and olive groves and rivulets lined with pink oleanders. It is much the same today. The soil surrounding the modern, strife-torn towns is soil trod by the great Hebrew prophets.

Nearly 2,000 years ago somewhere not far away Mary "went into the hill country with haste, into a city of Judaea," to visit her cousin Elizabeth. And nearby her son, Jesus, was born, carried on his ministry and was crucified.

Skirmishes today have also flared along the rim of the Gaza strip, a narrow extension of Egyptian-occupied land pointing up the Mediterranean coast. To the east is the Negev, southern extremity of Israel. Shots have been exchanged at the Beeri and Shuva settlements, Qisufim and Rafa.

Recruitment of Protestant chaplains for the armed forces is proceeding so well that the U. S. Navy is thinking of raising minimum qualifications for candidates.

THE MOTHERS OF MEN

Two of our neighbors' children were discussing Mothers Day. One said "that's the day when mother is boss of the family." The other replied, "If that's so, then everyday is Mother's Day." And it is, but not for that reason.

Every day is father's day also and the rearing of a family does not depend upon which one is the boss but rather upon how well parents cooperate in the sacred task of homemaking.

The future of civilization rests with the home. Not politicians but parents held in their hands the controls that will determine our destiny.

Not blind fate or dame fortune, but fathers and mothers are the determinants of our tomorrow.

Their responsibility is far greater than it once was. The early American home was a little world in itself. The members of the family lived, labored and loved within sound of their own dinner bell. In God's out of doors and within the four walls of the house, body, mind and soul were disciplined for the coming days when the children would themselves become parents.

Today the members of the family are apart more than they are together. Outside influences neutralize the impact of the home. But this loss of companionship is not wholly responsible for present day youth problems.

There is also the lack of discipline, the fruitage of the trend in child psychology, and the lowering of the standards of morality on the part of parents.

Parental example is a decisive factor in a child's life. A father's bad habits weaken his hold upon his offspring. The same is true of mothers. They lose their feminine charm together with their influence for good when they ape such a father—wearing his clothes, smoking his tobacco, drinking his highballs and swearing his oaths.

On this day, however, we should turn our thoughts from these to the good, gracious, Godly mothers of men. They are in the majority.

Their devoted hands still "rock the cradle that rules the world." How fortunate are their children. Their faith in womankind "beats with the blood and trusts in all things high."

These are the mothers we honor today. And the highest honor we can pay them is not expressed in telegrams or flowers, but in sober, upright, Godly lives.

Words fail; flowers fade; gifts are soon forgotten, but a mother's secret hope for the goodness of her children outlives them all.

Confident Living

Prayer Is Spiritual Force Greater Than the H-Bomb

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

We are hearing much about the H-bomb and its power to destroy life. We need to hear more about a spiritual H-bomb and its power to remake life.

I call it a bomb, for its action can be swift and revolutionary—though spiritual change more often perhaps takes the form of growth. In either case the result is dramatic.

For example, let me tell you about a couple who came forward to speak to me after a church service recently. They were charming people in their early forties, and they were positively glowing with joy and enthusiasm.

"This is the happiest moment of our lives," they told me. And then they went on to tell me their story. They lived in a western state. For some time things had been going from bad to worse in their lives.

The husband had lost his grip on himself and his work. He had become unhappy and filled with fear. As a result, he had started to drink heavily and alcoholism was gaining on him.

One day they were driving in their car. As usual, they were quarreling. The radio was on and they could hear a voice saying, "It makes no difference how bad a situation is, I can tell you with absolute certainty of a way in which it can be corrected."

Impatiently the man reached to turn the dial, but his fingers halted.

"I will guarantee absolutely," the voice went on, "that if you listen to this and do it, it will improve your situation."

They drove on, quiet now, listening to the talk. It wasn't much of a talk really—and I ought to know, because I was the speaker. But it stressed the great fact that God can change a human life.

When the program ended, the man turned off the radio and they drove the rest of the way home in silence. He went upstairs without speaking. Presently he came down to find his wife in the kitchen. He sat there with her, drumming his fingers on the table.

"Mary," he asked, "do you believe that stuff?"

"What stuff?"

"That stuff on the radio about God changing people. Do you believe it?"

She came and sat opposite him. "Wasn't that the way we were brought up?" she said. "Didn't we hear that in church when we were children? Our trouble is that we've grown too far away from it, that's all."

He got up, went into the living room and began to read the newspaper. Nothing more was said. But before they went to bed that night, he turned sheepishly to his wife and said, "You may think I'm crazy, but let's pray together."

"And they did pray, much the same prayers as when they were children. They prayed the next night and the next, for it brought them a strange new peace."

On Sunday they went to church and they have gone every Sunday since.

Harvard Head Cites Failure

Says Lack of Religion in Education Creating Social Turmoil

NEW YORK — American education's failure to recognize the role of religion in human life has been partly responsible for this country's present "social turmoil" which presents "a serious threat to freedom of thought," Dr. Nathan M. Pusey, president of Harvard University, said here.

Dr. Pusey spoke at a conference sponsored by Union Theological Seminary on "The Relation between Religion and Freedom of the Mind," in connection with the biennial program of neighboring Columbia University.

"Only with an awakening to God's purpose is there likely to be an enduring desire and the courage to stand for freedom," he said.

Dr. Pusey said that "freedom is the real goal of education," but he warned that "it will not be won without an understanding of religious experience."

"Indifference to religion in the world of education—whatever the situation may have been a generation or more ago—would now seem to be a luxury we can no longer afford," he said.

While describing the current situation as "disturbing," Dr. Pusey said that this is only a "surface aspect." There are "bits of evidence to suggest that beneath this ambiguous surface strong constructive forces are at work," he said. "Indeed they may be marshalling for a new advance."

Japan Building Bombs

TOKYO — Japan's leading economic journal today quoted Japanese government officials as saying 35,000 napalm bombs to be produced here for the U. S. Air Force "apparently are for shipment to Indochina."

Takes Control in Revolt as President Chaves Steps Down

ASUNCION, Paraguay (U-P)

Gen. Alfredo Stroessner, Paraguayan armed forces commander, appeared to hold top power in this revolt-torn nation today following the resignation of aged President Federico Chaves.

Chaves, 74, stepped down yesterday, three days after units of the army broke into open armed rebellion.

Stroessner virtually took over as chief of state Thursday.

Chaves, president since 1950, retired to his home.

Tight censorship and a breakdown in normal communications blocked other direct word on the outcome of the confused struggle for political control in the landlocked South American country.

Diplomatic reports reaching Buenos Aires said, however, that new outbreaks of shooting occurred after Chaves resigned.

Passengers arriving on an Argentine Airlines plane from Asuncion yesterday said the situation was unsettled with at least three armed groups operating in the capital.

The rebellion was said to have started within the 1st Cavalry Division Tuesday. Ten persons, including Police Chief Robert I. Petit, were reported killed.

Radioactive Japs

to Leave Hospital

TOKYO — Eight Japanese fishermen—now radioactive only in their toe nails—will be allowed to leave Tokyo National Hospital in a week to 10 days, their doctor said today.

The eight were members of the 23 men crew of the "Lucky Dragon" fishing boat which was showered with radioactive coral ash by the March 1 H-bomb test blast at Bikini.

When the crewmen were first hospitalized after the blast, much of their body surface was radioactive to some degree.

New Post for Diplomat

WASHINGTON — Sen. Bridges (R-NH) has termed unfair and ridiculous reports that he has blocked a new diplomatic post for John J. Muccio, who was U. S. ambassador to Korea during the fighting there.

"I'm not opposed to him and I'm not favoring him," Bridges told the Senate yesterday. He added: "If his name comes up now I'm going to scrutinize him very carefully."

Affectionate Pup Runs to Owner, Closes Hearing

BIRMINGHAM (U-P)—A black and white terrier whose heart knew the way home helped Judge Ralph Parker decide who owned the friendly dog yesterday.

With two families claiming him, the dog climbed upon the lap of Colin Hardeman, 11, and gave him a slumpy, cold-nosed kiss while Colin was testifying in the witness chair.

Judge Parker ruled that the dog was Sport, a pet of Colin, and not Tippy, a dog that belonged to Harvey Baker, 15.

It took a two-hour hearing to decide a dispute between the Hardeman and Baker families over whether the dog was Sport or Tippy. Both pets looked alike and disappeared about the same time. Then Sport—or Tippy—came into the Baker yard and was claimed as Harvey's missing pet.

The dog showed equal affection for both families at the trial until he kissed Colin in the witness chair. Then Judge Parker ruled: "A dog never forgets its original owners."

Bitterly disappointed Harvey Baker was promised another puppy when Tippy's mother has her next litter.

16 Auto Workers Convicted, Fined

International Member Gets 15 Days in Prison on Court Contempt

IRON MOUNTAIN (U-P)—Sixteen members of the CIO United Auto Workers were convicted late Friday on contempt of court charges in connection with the union's 113-day strike at the Kingsford Chemical Co. here last summer.

Ivan Brown, UAW International representative, was sentenced to 15 days in prison.

The 15 others received fines ranging from $25 to $250. Circuit Judge Herman Dehnke ordered that the fines be paid within three days and without other sources.

The contempt charges stemmed from violations of an injunction issued to restrain the union members from violence during the strike.

State's Attorney General Eugene Townsend had accused the union members of obstructing railroad traffic and the public roads and of overturning automobiles while picketing the plant.

The 16 defendants were found guilty of 32 charges in the 44-count indictment.

The Boston Red Sox could feel a little easier today about picking up their paychecks. They knew they were back working for a living.

When the Bostonians outlasted Washington 7-6 last night it marked their first victory in two weeks and their first official action of any kind since a week ago today. Bad weather has caused eight postponements in Boston so far.

The Red Sox took advantage of the occasion to celebrate. The victory lifted them out of the American League cellar over Baltimore to seventh place. They blasted three runs in the first inning, their first in nine days, and they scored more runs than in any previous game.

But one of the Red Sox' best reasons for feeling happier about life was the presence of Ted Williams on the Boston bench.

The slugger, who broke his collarbone on the first day of spring training, is working himself into shape and will make the club's first western swing starting Tuesday in Chicago.

Last night the Red Sox didn't use any pinch hitters. Sammy White's three-run homer in the third inning helped Boston to a 7-0 lead and the Senators just failed to catch up.

Cincinnati took over first place from Philadelphia in the National League. The Redlegs swamped St. Louis 10-4 while the Phils were bowing to Brooklyn 3-1. Chicago beat Milwaukee 3-0. The New York Giants were rained out at Pittsburgh.

In the only other American League action the New York Yankees won their second straight shutout, this one by Tom Morgan, as they beat Philadelphia 2-0 on successive home runs in the seventh by Mickey Mantle and Yogi Berra.

A three-run home run by Hobie

Landrith capped a five-run spree for the Reds against Gerry Staley in the second inning at Cincinnati. In the seventh inning Landrith and Johnny Temple worked a double steal with Temple swiping home for the third time this season.

Don Newcombe called a halt to the Phillies' six-game winning streak.

Warren Hacker turned in the Chicago shutout in his first starting assignment of the season. He allowed five hits including three doubles. The Cubs scored their three runs on six singles off Bob Buhl in the first six innings.

23-Point Splurge Puts Tittle in Top AL Spot

By BEN OLAN
NEW YORK (AP)—Ray Jablonski, sophomore third baseman of the St. Louis Cardinals, has wrested the National League batting lead from Chicago's Ransom Jackson and now paces the Senior Circuit with a .386 average.

Jablonski, a .268 hitter in his rookie season, collected 13 hits in 32 times at bat last week for a pickup of 11 points. Meanwhile, Jackson only came up with five safeties in 24 trips and slumped to second place at .382.

In the American League, freshman Bill Tittle of Detroit had 5-for-10 last week and moved into the No. 1 position with a .404 mark. The Tigers' outfielder gained 23 points. The records include Friday's games.

Hank Sauer of the Cubs advanced to third place among the National League batsmen with a .375 average. The veteran outfielder also took over the lead in home runs with nine.

Clutch-hitting Johnny Temple of Cincinnati is fourth with .372 followed by Don Mueller of New York, .370, Duke Snider of Brooklyn, .368 and Stan Musial of St. Louis, .365.

Billy Goodman of Boston climbed from fourth to the runner-up spot in the American League at .362. He's followed by Johnny Groth of Chicago and Bobby Avila of Cleveland, .351 each and Jackie Jensen of the Red Sox with .346.

Roy Sievers, the outfielder Washington obtained from Baltimore last winter, slammed three home runs last week and tops the American League in that department with five. Chicago's Minnie Minoso has driven in the most runs, 21.

American League pitching honors are held by Bob Lemon of Cleveland, Steve Gromek of Detroit, Ed Lopat of New York and Philadelphia's Bob Trice. Each has won four games and lost none.

Skippers' Nine Falls, Bluejays Climb Into 2nd

Dryden, McCormick Star in Friday's Inter-Lakes League Tests

COUNTY BASEBALL
Southfield 5, Walled Lake 1.
Farmington 5, Waterford 1.
Rochester 4, Romeo 1.

Waterford fell from its 1st place tie in the Inter-Lakes Conference baseball race Friday, while defending champion Southfield pulled into a tie for 2nd with the Skippers.

Wayne Dryden was the fly in the Waterford ointment as he stopped the Skippers with 6 hits and fanned 10 in posting a 5-1 win. Score was tied, 1-1, until the Farmington 6th.

Then with 2 out and 2 on, a walk loaded the bases. An infield error brought in one run. Then Dryden poked what would have been a home run, but he missed second base.

He was retired and credited with a single, but the hit drove in 3 runs. Losing pitcher Barry Fell collected half the Waterford hits with a double and two singles.

At Walled Lake, Tom McCormick halted the Vikings on two hits to give Southfield a 5-1 triumph. He struck out 15, walked 6 and had 3 hits himself. Jim Simmons' triple with 2 on, highlighted a 3-run rally in the 4th inning. Rochester nosed out Romeo, 8-7, in a non-league contest.

Paul Giel Still Headache to UM Sports Teams

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UP)—In football or in baseball, that guy Paul Giel means nothing but trouble for the University of Michigan.

Giel, operating at halfback, carried Minnesota to victory over Michigan in football last fall.

As a pitcher, he bounced the Wolverines out of the Big Ten baseball led Friday with a four-hitter that lifted Minnesota to a 3-2 triumph.

However, it took a 9th-inning homer by John Walfrid to provide Giel with the margin of victory after Michigan had bounced back from a 2-0 deficit to knot the score.

Fuchs Predicts 60-Foot Shot Put Will Be Reached

By WILL GRIMSLEY
NEW YORK (AP)—Herculean Jim Fuchs, once king of the shot-put, predicted today that the 60-foot shot put will be the next major track goal to be exploded, and "probably in the next few weeks."

"But I won't be the one to do it," the former Yale University athlete and 1932 Olympic team member added. "I haven't had a chance to get in shape. I hope to try a comeback before the 1936 Olympics but I've been too busy recently on my job."

"The man who does it will be either Parry O'Brien or Stan Lampert. Both are awfully close."

Fuchs himself has put the shot over the 57-foot mark more times than any man alive but his best effort, 58 feet, 10 1/2 inches, formerly a world record, already has been surpassed by both O'Brien and Lampert. He has 31 efforts of 57-feet-plus to his credit.

O'Brien, Olympic gold medalist, is the present recognized world record holder with a throw of 59 feet 2 1/2 inches. But the Southern Cal athlete produced a prodigious put of 59 feet, 9 1/2 inches in the Drake Relays last month and shortly afterwards at Asbury Park, N. J., Stan Lampert recorded 59 feet, 5 7/8 inches.

With the spring season hitting its peak both O'Brien and Lampert, onetime New York University muscle man, will get a lot of chances. Lampert, for instance, has a try today in the Metropolitan track and field championships here.

Kansas Ace Ready Santee Wants to Run Against British Star

LAWRENCE, Kan., (AP)—Wes Santee of Kansas, who tries for an intercollegiate 2-mile record in a triangular meet today, hopes for the "privilege" of meeting the conqueror of the 4-minute mile, England's Roger Bannister, soon.

Bannister ran the mile in 3:59.4 at Oxford, England, Thursday.

Santee had his sights today on the intercollegiate 2-mile mark of 8:58.4 set by Wisconsin's Don Lash in the Princeton invitational race in 1936. That was the only event Santee was scheduled to run in a meet involving Kansas, Drake and Arkansas.

The lean, unorthodox looper from a ranch near Ashland, Kan., insists he's ready for a meeting with Bannister and John Landy of Australia, and, as a matter of fact, any and all comers.

The difficulty, however, is getting the world's three fastest milers together at the same place on the same day, Santee, a Kansas University senior, is scheduled to report for officers training in the Marines at Quantico, Va., about June 13.

Santee holds the American record of 4:02.4, set at Compton, Calif., in June, 1933. He owns the four fastest miles by an American.

can. Landy has done the mile in 4:02.

Bannister said yesterday he "would be more interested in beating Santee alone than in achieving a faster time for the mile."

Santee said that he'd "welcome the chance to meet Bannister."

Santee suggested the only date open on his calendar before the Marines grab him will be about the time of the Compton, Calif., relays June 4.

Boros Retains Lead in Rich Ardmore Open

Harrison, Barber Are Threatening; Burkemo 4 Strokes Off

By WILBUR JOHNSON
ARDMORE, Okla., (AP)—Julius Boros, 1932 National Open champion, and E. J. (Dutch) Harrison, a time tested veteran and host pro, hold the spotlight today in the third round of the rich Ardmore Open golf tournament.

Boros, the Mid Pines, N. C., sharpshooter, refused to yield to pressure applied by Harrison and Jerry Barber, the tiny mite from Lacanada, Calif., in yesterday's second round. He emerged the leader in this rich tournament.

Harrison and Barber shot four birdies over this tough par 34-36-70 Dornick Hills Country Club golf course, for a three-under-par 67, the best score of the second round.

Harrison's sub-par round placed him a stroke behind the solid-hitting Boros whose opening 68 combined with his second round 69 gave him the advantage at 137. Harrison had 71-67.

Barber's fine second round performance pushed him into a challenging spot with a 3-hole total of 142.

However, there was no certainty that the two leaders would meet each other at the pay window after Sunday's final round. Chief competition came from a group of 141 shooters including Bob Wining of Oklahoma City, Walter Burkemo, National PGA champion from Franklin, Mich., Leo Biagetti, Sandusky, Ohio; and Bob Duden, Portland, Ore.

This tournament, dreamed up almost overnight about four years ago by the Turners (Waco and Opie) has progressed to a predominant event in golfdom.

The current listed value of $15,000 by the co-sponsoring PGA, is a misnomer because the Turners plan to give away about $50,000 before the firing is over.

They're doing a pretty good job. Already, the give-away program for eagles, birdies, hole-outs and lowest rounds has reached approximately $10,000, and the promise is that it will be more before the climax.

Hayes' Home Built in 1837; Old as State

By HAZEL A. TRUMBLE

It's not only the house that causes the passerby to slow down and take a second and then a third look—it's the setting, too.

A split rail fence meanders along the back yard separating the green, clover grass lawn from the acres and acres of rolling countryside; a red barn (serving temporarily as a garage) although old in line has a brand new coat of paint and nearby an aged, but able, apple tree is offering its annual bouquet—this is the country home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hayes, at 395 Granger Rd., west of Oxford.

The house, a typical Michigan homestead era farmhouse, originally was built in 1837—the same year that Congress recognized Michigan as a state.

One hundred and seventeen years later, the young Fred Hayes decided it was worth a renovation job. They carefully preserved the old lines, but gave it all new siding, new windows and a roof plus a new and level floor.

"Never let anyone tell you these old homes can be redone for a song. It takes more than a song. But the compensatory factors are in the fun you have doing it, the sense of achievement you experience and finally, the fact that you have what you want in the end," said Fred Hayes, a manufacturer's agent whose office is in Birmingham. Known as "Hazy Acres," it is the "something-to-look-forward-to" at the end of each busy day for not only Hayes, but for the attractive, avelte and blonde Doris Hayes. She has a fashion shop in Oxford.

TRUMBLE

Pierre, a dapper French poodle with a cosmopolitan personality, welcomes everyone at the door but the cat.

The exterior of the gracious home is done in yellow with white trim and green shutters. A reclaimed brick chimney climbs one wall. The large porch running along the back of the house serves as an outdoor summer room. This is accessible through French doors opening off the living room.

Although each room in the Hayes' home is a conversation provoking area, the living room is a picture of traditional beauty at its best.

By the use of color, deft manipulation of warm and friendly materials with just the right touch in accessories, calico teams with copper, brass and several wrought iron pieces.

Early American disciples, Mr. and Mrs. Hayes studied the architecture of this period to select authentic furnishings.

For their living room, measuring 27 by 18 feet, they tore out a partition between what once was the kitchen and the dining room. They also removed the ceiling and allowed their new room to stretch up to a free and open-beamed ceiling.

Ivory colors the beams lining the pitched roof-ceiling with two large, pine cross-beams in natural finish. A small documentary print paper covers the between-beams sections.

"Those beams are not just there for looks," pointed out Mr. Hayes. "They're the secret of straight walls and keeping this old house together."

Paneled in pine are the two end walls. The side walls are plastered and painted soft green. Bisecting the beam ends is a

BEFORE AND AFTER THE FACE LIFTING—When Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hayes of 395 Granger Road, Oxford, first saw their 117-year-old Michigan farmhouse, it looked like the picture at the above left. A complete dismantling job followed. They replaced the old siding, the roof and the floors. The structural framework was in excellent condition, however, and by employing ingenuity and hard work they today have a lovely country home painted a soft yellow, trimmed in white and shuttered in green. A natural setting for this Early American styled home is the high slope on which it is situated; full grown trees shade the house and the back lawn has a split rail fence, giving it another authentic note of that era in Michigan history. The young Hayes caution would-be home reproducers to remember that it can't be done for a "song," but do point out that it is fun and in the end you can have the kind of a home you want.

the two end walls reaching to the pitched roof. Mrs. Hayes selected a small documentary print paper for the ceiling. Ivory colors the exposed ceiling beams and the two cross beams are in solid pine. Random width Tennessee ledgerrock is used for the fireplace and two walls in this room are painted a green with furnishings in red and yellow calico quilted for sofa upholstery and occasional chair covering. Pine with a glowing patina is used for the furnishings of this room. For floor covering, Mr. and Mrs. Hayes selected an all wool woven carpet simulating braided rugs. White ruffled nylon cottage curtains dress the windows with a cornice ruffle of the red calico.

PINK TO DEER PURPLE—An upstairs bathroom found its niche in what had once been a small sloped-ceiling bedroom in the Hayes' home. A rectangular window, just above the pink tub, was dressed in tiny flower-sprigged dimity with a frame ruffle and glass curtains. Its wide sill invites bath accessories. All the towels and linens are in deep purple with pink monograms.

Build Your Own Swimming Pool

Many Have Built Them
at Costs Ranging From $100 to $200

No longer the exclusive property of millionaires, hotels and movie stars, the swimming pool now is found in more and more middle-class yards.

According to expert estimates, some 10,000 pools are installed each year throughout the nation. There isn't much doubt about it—a swimming pool is a definite luxury. But those who have made the investment rarely have regretted it.

Depending upon your income, you can have a pool made by experts at prices which start at $400.

This amount will get you a ready-made plastic liner, installed on a wooden frame, which fits into a hole of 12 by 27 feet.

Custom-built concrete and steel jobs cost considerably more—usually about $4,000, including filtration systems.

Many families, however, have built their pools themselves at costs as low as $100 or $200. The job isn't child's play, but results in fun and neighborhood prestige both are great.

If you'd like to try it, you won't lack advice. Besides what you get from neighbors, you can take your pick from several instruction booklets which are offered by magazines and many pool equipment and building supply dealers.

Usually best is a standard rectangular pool, but designs for clover-leaf and tear-drop styles are equally plentiful.

Even if you can't afford a pool, you can bring the beach to your home with a plastic playpool for the children. These can be purchased in various sizes for roughly the same price as a lawn chair.

BENCH PATTERN 346
TABLE PATTERN 347

BLUE BIRD HOUSE PATTERN 277

This bench is made of identical units and may be extended to accommodate a large group by merely adding sections. Begin with one or two which may be bolted together later with the table within the reach of all.

These pieces should be made of the cheaper cuts of lumber as they are of simple design. The table and bench units are made from standard widths cut to the right lengths with a hand saw. The table top is an exception and a compass saw costing about a dollar is used for this. All units are put together with hammer and nails. Paint the joints to avoid rot and the finish may be painted or some natural stain. Order patterns by numbers and enclose 25c for each. The Lawn and Garden Packet contains five patterns of other practical outdoor pieces. Price of packet is $1 postpaid. Write to Workshop, Pontiac Press.

The Hayes kept the old stairwell in the two-story section of the house. It is open, finished in pine and carpeted in brown to complement the pine.

The den, also paneled in pine, has a Grandma Moses covered sofa. One end of the room has a complete wall of built-ins with the center section for TV and recorder equipment. All of the furniture is in maple. Cork tile covers the floor.

A shower-bathroom is adjacent to the den and is done in yellow and gray tile. One section of the wall is papered in a gay bath scene.

Through a pair of bright red shutter doors, you enter the white wood-paneled kitchen. One wall is papered in a diminutive print of red and green on white. Black Hitchcock chairs and a drop leaf maple table are used for furnishings. An old pine spoon rack and a grouping of imported baskets give wall decor to this room.

In the upstairs bedroom section, Mrs. Hayes chose delicate pink and deep purple.

"Two of my favorite colors, and they are certainly at home in bedrooms and bathrooms," Mrs. Hayes said.

The hallway paper has white figures etched on a pink background with the large sloped-ceiling bedroom in pink and the two short walls in a miniature purple and pink pattern. The accompanying bathroom is in pink with deep purple towels lending accent notes.

In less than two years, the Hayes have brought their more than a century-old house to this point. Future plans, already on their own sketch board, include a large activity room and a two-car garage.

One of the leading manufacturers of chain-link fencing points out that painting of ordinary fences costs at least 18 cents per square foot. Aluminum, they say, saves this expense plus the tedious task of painting.

Manufacturers claim germ protection for aluminum fencing. If small children "mouth" it or cut themselves on it, possibilities of infection are cut down. It is sterile.

The chain-link fence, also available in barbed-wire form, can be used for all outdoor fencing purposes, including flower trellises, tennis courts and baseball backstops.

But legal experts caution that the fence must stand entirely on the builders property. Otherwise his neighbor has the right to sue for encroachment—a costly and unnecessary business.

Basement Ceilings Offer Fire, Dust Retardants

A basement ceiling can have three advantages. It acts as a fire-retardant, protecting joists and woodwork for sufficient time for possible control of a fire.

It keeps dust and drafts from sifting up through floors. It improves the appearance of the cellar and therefore the value of the house.

Random width Tennessee ledgerrock forms the fireplace which centers one end wall. An arrangement of Hayes' guns hangs above the mantel.

For floor covering, they selected a true Colonial, woven-wool rug in many colors. It has the look of braids but is a loomed carpet.

Living room furnishings are in pine waxed to a fine patina finish. Red calico with a tiny yellow print is quilted for the long, down-filled sofa. This same material is used to upholster two occasional chairs and a lampshade and it forms the ruffled cornice curtains over each window's white, ruffled cottage curtains.

Accessories are in thumbnail ruby glass, brass, copper, wrought iron and collector's item pictures.

BEDSIDE STAND PATTERN 302

Enough clear pine for a pair of these stands with thin plywood for drawers and backing will cost about eight dollars at the nearest yard. For the skilled craftsman with power tools, a glued-up stock in any of the hardwoods in cabinet-makers' grade is recommended as more suitable material for this design. The lines are modern yet harmonize with a wide variety of furnishings. A painted, stained or natural wood finish may be used. The proportions are just right for lamp, radio, books and magazines. The utility drawer is eight inches deep and is of the simple block-front construction. This pattern is included in the Bedroom Furniture Packet at $1. Or 302 may be ordered separately at only 25 cents. Write to Workshop, Pontiac Press.

Editors Boosting Quality of Home

Papers and Magazines Given Credit for Getting Information to Public

MIAMI — The American home buyer is getting better quality today because of unified effort of builders to provide it.

The exchange of ideas, techniques and experiences within building industry ranks has resulted in improved quality in private dwellings.

These better values have been Sparked by the National Assn. of Home Builders, the magazine and newspaper columns that serve both the home builder and buyer, the nation's architects, and the major building trades unions.

The 10,000 members of the American Institute of Architects, representing most of the architectural volume of the nation, have been a great force for home improvement through both their national organization and groups at the local level.

Through stimulation of training for apprentices and insistence on better workmanship and construction techniques, the building trades have made a notable contribution to the cause of better housing.

There is one group that is exceedingly important. This is the more than 1,000 editors who write daily, weekly and monthly pages for newspapers and magazines. A thousand people who probably are more influential than any other group in upgrading home building concepts. These are the "thought leaders" who cull the news and developments, pick out what is important and informative, and serve it up to the American public in an attractive and readable form.

Weekend Leisure!

You'll Enjoy a Lot More With Outdoor Gadgets

According to a rather large school of writers, spring and summer weekends are times of unbridled leisure.

American families who aren't out traveling spend two delightful days lolling on porches, lawns and terraces.

To which most of us answer, "baloney!"

There's plenty of back yard looting, to be sure. But a well-kept yard doesn't get that way by accident.

Grass grows, weeds threaten, gardens need tending, hedges need trimming and dogs still menace the garbage can. Mixed with the lolling are scores of chores.

Fortunately, though, new devices constantly appear to keep these chores at a minimum, or make them easier to handle.

For the task of sprinkling the lawn, for instance, several types of sprinklers — usually inexpensive — enable you to do the job while seated in your lawn chair.

Many shut off by themselves, and one type pulls itself around, moving on a stainless-steel tape, without tipping or stopping.

Ordinary hoses can be wound or unwound quickly from lightweight reels which attach to the wall or side of the house near the faucet. By attaching a timer-valve, you can walk away and leave them and they'll stop spouting at a preselected time.

There are several ways to deal with the refuse problem.

One is an underground garbage can (the lid is flush with the ground) which thwarts dogs and cats and keeps down smells. Another is the rustproof incinerator, which burns green refuse, too, and does away with fire hazards.

To keep pets from damaging bushes and flowers, a new liquid compound gives off an odor that can't be smelled by humans, but is hated by dogs and cats. The compound isn't poisonous.

Large covers of polyethylene plastic will save your shrubbery and outdoor furniture from dust and damage by the elements.

Small, non-rusting picket fences — sold in foot-high sections — will provide decorative protection for lawns and gardens.

These, of course, are only a sampling. Mole killers, weed sprayers, hedge trimmers, pruning shears and sturdy patio brushes are equally inviting and time-saving.

A quick trip through the stores will turn up many others that may make that picture of "lazy living" seem slightly less fantastic.

Adjust Toilet Float

When a flush tank does not deliver sufficient water for a thorough flushing action, try removing the cover from the tank and bending the rod to which the ball float is attached upward.

The higher the float on the end of the rod is raised, the higher will be the water level in the tank.

A day-time play area for youngsters converts readily into a social room for the older members of the family at other hours.

The secret is to arrange for this functional change both quickly and easily. Cleverly conceived multi-purpose built-in furniture, cabinets and storage facilities of Douglas fir or West Coast hemlock hold the key to the two-shift operation.

In some of these modern rumpus rooms, for instance, built-in seats along one or more walls have full storage space beneath upholstered seat pads. Small doors, forming the seat fronts, open up at floor level so that a great variety of children's toys and games can be cleared from the floor and stored.

The bulky, electric train tracks can be ingeniously affixed to a large wood panel, which can be hinged to the wall and let down for play time, then tipped back up to become a wall section when the second shift comes to play.

A built-in storage cabinet along a short wall, when made of lovely grained fir or hemlock, can add beauty and charm to the rumpus room. If built with a shelf top, it provides open storage for breakable bric-a-brac out of reach of the little ones.

These cabinets can be designed to provide safe storage for card tables, paraphernalia for adult games, and even snack bar supplies. Cabinet doors can be equipped with concealed locks which respond only to selected point pressure, or door knobs can be installed out-of-reach of children.

If a rumpus room is built in the Home Planning Is Intricate Job

Get Family to Decide on Desirable Features Before Building
 Planning a new home is more complicated than it seems. There's more than meets the eye to the problem of selecting the right house. Here are some suggestions taken from the recommendations of leading realtors, architects and home designers:

1. Take a poll of family preferences and prejudices. Then submit the factors to a vote. Do this before experts are called in to draw up blueprints.
2. Decide which are the essential requirements the entire family needs in a house.
3. Determine the number of rooms. Many home planners today suggest that it's the total of living space which is important, rather than actual count of rooms. The multipurpose room has many advocates.
4. Consider convenience and comfort. This applies especially to the kitchen. Home economists have proved that housewives spend more time in the kitchen than they do anywhere else in the home.
5. Most people prefer a house to an apartment because of the privacy in the single family dwelling.

But be sure that privacy will not be invaded as a result of bad placement of the house on the lot. Reasonable seclusion still makes for good neighbors!
 6. Learn about the community you have selected. Does it suit your living habits and standards? A house is a long-time investment.
 7. By all means, don't try to plan a house by yourself. Architects and skilled builders are just as professional as dentists and doctors.
 8. Work with a budget and reconcile it with family preferences and basic requirements.

Houses to Get Styles

New Models Each Year Seen for Building Field

Style has long been a controlling factor in the women's clothing industry and the automobile industry, with new models each year making previous styles obsolete.

One field where style has had its effect, but a long-range style trend heretofore, is that of family housing. Now it has been predicted that the next advance in the new home building industry may well be a myriad of variations, with the builder hiring architects to guard his costs while competing for good design.

The development of new types of building materials may prove to be a factor in exerting pressure for better, simpler and more attractive home designs in many interior details as style increases in importance.

Curves and lines and surfaces and finishes and colors all play their parts in styling the new home or in remodeling the old one. Such new type materials as wallpanels for surfacing walls and ceilings open up new possibilities in all of these elements of design for both residential and commercial new construction and remodeling.

Prefinished wallpanels can be cemented directly to almost any type of flat, smooth and dry wall or ceiling surface through the use of special adhesives.

They are available at most building supply dealers, are supplied in a wide variety of plain colors, in tile patterns, in lined patterns and in such finishes as woodgrain, marble, granite and leather to fit any sort of color scheme or architectural style.

Large, Brisk Fire Is Better for Fireplace

A large brisk wood fire in a fireplace is better for the chimney than a small smoky fire. Volatile resins, sap and gums, vaporized in burning wood, condense in a cold chimney and form creosote-like tars on the sides of the flue. These can ooze through masonry cracks and stain the chimney. A brisker fire will heat the flue enough to carry such tars off in the smoke.

Right Brush Needed to Paint Properly

You can't do a good paint job unless you have the right size and type of brush for the task in hand.
For painting large areas, a brush that is 4 1/2 to 5 inches wide will speed work and produce good results.
For narrow stripes, such as those on windows, use a round one-inch sash brush.
For trim and most woodwork, you'll find a 1 1/2 to 2-inch brush handiest.

Thin Shellac Properly

Never use anti-freeze alcohol to thin shellac. Only high-grade denatured alcohol is successful. Your paint dealer will advise you.

Tracks Prevent Scrapes

If you have a small garage and have difficulty getting the car in without scraping something, paint tracks on the floor to use as a guide.

SITTING BEDROOM—By substituting a sofa-bed parallel to the wall, covering the whole window wall with chintz drapery (which reveals or conceals air conditioner and television) and using a light color scheme for walls, floor and furniture, the designers have created the feeling of spaciousness in the new sitting bedroom (above).

Check New Systems

Don't Forget Heating Unit When Developing Plans for Remodeling a House

If you are planning to modernize your home this year be sure to include the heating system in your remodeling program.
This counsels the National Warm Air Heating and Air Conditioning Assn., which points out that occupants of older dwellings can have all the indoor comfort advantages of up-to-date heating as well as can those folks who build or buy new homes.

During the past few years the warm air heating industry has made remarkable strides in the development of new systems and new equipment.

These new heat plants will produce greater indoor comfort at less cost than ever before, states the association. This is the result of stepped-up research in residential heating by the industry—both in the laboratory and in the field—due to the new heating problems which have been created by new methods of designing and building the modern house.

Even though they may have been originally designed to meet new house heating requirements, these newer heating plants have demonstrated that they can provide correspondingly excellent comfort benefits when installed in older structures.

An interesting example of how the results of designing heating equipment to meet the problems of new home construction have provided added advantages for the owners of older homes is found in the amount of floor space taken up by a furnace.

Higher costs of construction today make space and its effective utilization the most important element in modern house planning. As a result, today's furnace is built much more compactly in order to take up little of this higher cost space.

The modern furnace occupies only half the floor space of its counterpart of 10 years ago—and will still produce as much heat at a greater savings in fuel.

When installed in the older house... which generally contains much more space per dollar investment than the new dwelling... the modern, compact furnace actually adds to the space value of the older house.

Many an owner of an older house who has had a modern warm air furnace installed in some out-of-the-way corner of his basement has been pleased to find that he has suddenly gained an entire new expanse of living area for use as a recreation room, hobby shop, or other home enjoyment facility—a space which he never had before.

Not only has the space-thrift concept of modern housing design influenced the actual size of the warm air heating unit, but it has changed the location as well.

Time was when anyone knew that the place to look for a warm air furnace was in the basement. Not so anymore. Because of the increase of basementless house construction over the past few years, new furnace models have been perfected which can be located in a corner of a utility room, in a closet, under a trap door in a crawl space, or in the attic.

Even though the older home may have a basement—traditional location of the furnace—the owner of this house may find that he can take advantage of these new locations for which the modern furnace has been designed.

He may find it more convenient to have his furnace installed in some part of the house which, up to now, has had no use whatsoever. Thus, he can free his basement entirely from the heating system and use it for some supplemental living purpose such as a TV room, an extra bedroom, a special rainy-day rumormongers room for the kids, or a work room.

In addition to newer designs in equipment, new warm air distribution systems, automatic controls and methods of control have been developed by the warm air heating industry that will provide day-in, day-out even temperature comfort at lesser operation costs.

Brick Fire Is Better to Keep Chimney Clean

A large brick wood fire in a fireplace is better for the chimney than a small smoky fire. Volatile resins, sap and gums, vaporized in burning wood, condense in a cold chimney and form creosote-like tars on the sides of the flue. These can ooze through masonry cracks and stain the chimney. A brisker fire will heat the flue enough to carry such tars off in the smoke.

The Boy Scout movement had its beginning in the British Isles in 1908.

Utility Company, Union in Accord

Consumers Power Co. Accepts Work Contract for 5,000 Employees

Consumers Power Co. and the CIO Utility Workers Union announced in a joint statement today that they have agreed on a new working contract covering the company's operating, maintenance and construction employees. There are about 5,000 employees in these classifications.

The agreement, with wage increases retroactive to March 1, incorporates the recommendations made by Gov. Williams after union and company negotiations deadlocked. It is subject to ratification by union locals in many parts of the Lower Peninsula.

Employees who have been receiving $1.80 or less per hour will receive an increase of six cents per hour. Those who have been getting more than $1.80 but less than $2.14 will get an increase of seven cents per hour, and those whose hourly wage has been $2.14 or more the increase will be eight cents an hour.

Another paid holiday, Washington's Birthday, will be added to those holidays previously in effect.

Employees with 25 years of service will receive four weeks of paid vacation per year.

Other changes include the liberalization of group medical, hospital and surgical insurance in several respects.

The new agreement runs to March 1, 1955.

Buyers Hesitant to Incur Debts

U. S. Says Consumers Lack Faith in Future, Durable Goods Suffer

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government's latest job figures indicated today the main trouble with the nation's economy may be a lack of business and consumer confidence in the immediate future.

Business and consumers alike are investing heavily in the long-term future. The booming construction industry is an indication of that. Business is spending heavily on new plants and equipment, consumers are continuing to buy new homes.

But a Labor-Commerce Department survey on April employment showed yesterday that major trouble spots in the economy are the factories, the mines and the transportation field.

This report said April employment was 60,600,000, up nearly half a million from March and that unemployment had dropped about 260,000 from March to an April total of 3,465,000. This conforms to seasonal experience.

However, the number of factory jobs continued to drop last month, with a decrease of 250,000 from March and 1,350,000 below a year ago. Mining employment was 23,000 under March and 100,000 under last year. There was a 15,000 gain in transportation employment in April, but the level still was 200,000 below a year ago.

A top government economist reasons the situation this way:

Consumers, worried about how things will go in the next year or so, are reluctant to take on short-term debts. This affects sales of such things as autos, refrigerators, TV sets and so on.

Manufacturers of such items, noting slackened demand, are keeping stocks low. This is depressing factory activity and jobs.

This in turn has lowered demand for coal, steel and other raw materials, reducing employment in those industries.

Lower factory output and production of raw materials then have affected the transportation industry, where there have been heavy railroad layoffs.

The rest of the economy seems to be thriving.

The Labor-Commerce report showed an encouraging employment pickup in farming, trade, construction and other seasonal activities.

Teamsters Hearing Postponed to May 17

A hearing to determine whether officers and members of Teamsters Local 614, AFL, should be held in contempt of court for disobeying a temporary restraining order scheduled for May 10 has been postponed to May 17.

The postponement was ordered by Circuit Judges Frank L. Doty, H. Russell Holland and George B. Hartrick so that members of the April term jury panel could finish hearing scheduled criminal cases.

Members and officials of the union had been restrained by an April 27 court order from interfering with the operation of Pontiac Cab Co. from its offices at 438 Orchard Lake Ave. and a cab stand on W. Pike St.

An order to show cause why the officials and members shouldn't be held in contempt for disobeying the order was filed May 5 and scheduled for hearing Monday.

Three Hurt Friday in Two-Car Crash

Three persons were injured early Friday evening in a two-car collision at Wessen and Lull Sts., Pontiac Police said.

Admitted to Pontiac General Hospital were Samuel Templeton, 22, of 378 Howard McNeill St., driver, with fractured ribs and collar bone; and his wife, Mattie, 17, with a broken leg. Templeton's nephew, Arvey, 4, of 45 Hibbard Ct., was treated and released. Driver of the other car, Sammy Vaughns, 31, of 73 1/2 Crawford St., told police that Templeton failed to heed a stop sign on Lull.
