GM Production Jumps 50,000 Over Last Year

February 1959 Totals Rise; Pontiac Ranks 2nd in Output

General Motors Corp. produced almost 50,000 more passenger cars and trucks last month than during February, 1958, it was announced today.

A total of 314,970 vehicles rolled off assembly lines last month, compared with 266,273 a year ago. Of last month's total, 273,251 were passenger cars and 42,719 were trucks and coaches.

Pontiac Motor Division was in second place in terms of production last month, the corporation announced.

There were 38,233 Pontiac cars produced, 139,328 Chevrolets, 36,140 Oldsmobiles, 28,060 Buicks and 14,702 Cadillacs.

So far this year, there have been 77,138 Pontiacs produced, topping production during the first two months of 1958 by almost 11,000 vehicles and keeping the division in second place in terms of production within the GM family.

GMC Truck & Coach produced 7,342 vehicles last month, it was announced, and 15,584 so far this year. The division is running about 4,000 vehicles ahead of last year.

Ford Motor Co. announced its production was up, with 173,584 cars and trucks built last month, compared with 130,491 in February, 1958. Last month's production broke down into 127,815 cars and 24,692 trucks.

The favorable pace in the automotive industry was still gaining momentum as the one millionth passenger car this year was completed last week, approximately weeks ahead of its 1958 counterpart.

Chrysler Corp. reported its production was down, due to a glass shortage. The corporation announced 26,180 passenger cars and 7,619 trucks built last month, compared with 42,310 cars a year ago and 4,474 trucks.

Trail of Space Conquest

IT WENT THATAWAY — America's Pioneer space probe is following this sky trail toward the moon. The space vehicle is expected to miss the moon by 35,000 miles and continue on to swing into orbit around the sun. The drawing, of necessity, is not to scale.

Satellite Soars 66,000 Miles in First Hours

Army Rocket Launched at Midnight to Orbit Thursday or Friday

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gold-plated pioneer IV rushed more than one-quarter the distance to the moon early today on its journey toward an expected orbit around the sun.

The Army blasted the probe into space shortly after midnight. A few hours later, scientists said it surely would pass the moon and eventually become a satellite of the sun.

At 8 a.m. EST, officials estimated Pioneer IV had traveled 66,000 miles. Its speed at that point was 6,748 miles an hour.

The gold-plated cone already approached the maximum altitude achieved by the Army in its first attempt last Dec. 5. Then, Pioneer III reached 66,654 miles before falling.

Preliminary estimates indicated the space probe would fly past the moon about 2 p.m. EST Wednesday, missing it by 35,000 miles, and continue on toward the sun.

A maximum climbing speed of 24,890 miles an hour made it certain the probe, dubbed Pioneer IV, would continue into an orbit around the sun, the scientists said. But no estimates of the shape or size of the orbit were promised before Thursday or Friday.

By 4:30 a.m. the space probe, losing speed as it rose, was estimated to be 42,100 miles above the earth. Its speed then was estimated at 8,600 miles an hour.

Powered by a four-stage Juno II rocket, the probe was hurtled aloft from Cape Canaveral, Fla., 10½ minutes after midnight in a

What's Army's Chance of Hitting Moon? 10,000-1

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The Army says its lunar probe fired today never had better than one chance in 10,000 of making a direct hit on the moon.

Here's a rough example of the Army's problem:

You are on a golf tee (launching pad). The tee is on a spinning merry-go-round (earth). The green (moon) for which you will aim your shot is moving, too, at about 88 feet a minute.

Think you can make a hole in one?

It sounds impossible, but you haven't heard the half of it.

While the ball (satellite) is in the air, two huge magnets (gravity), one behind you and the other on the far side of the green, are pulling and tugging at the ball. You've got to allow for that, too.

If this sounds confusing, it may help you to know that it bothers the mathematicians also.

HALF OF 1 PER CENT ERROR

The Army figures on a launching error of one-half of 1 per cent. That would mean a probable error in arrival time at the lunar orbit of 3½ hours, or a miss of about 7,000 miles.

But there is always the chance of a lucky hit.

The probe was sterilized so that — just in case it should strike the moon — it wouldn't pollute it with the germs of the earth.

For an agonizing moment last night, it looked like the Juno II moon rocket had exploded on its launching pad.

When the firing button was pushed, hundreds of "bird watchers" on the ocean beach outside the missile test center saw a massive gush of reddish orange flame from around the base of the towering rocket.

The fire mushroomed outward and upward, mixed with smoke, and for perhaps two or thre seconds the rocket did not appear. Cries of dismay were heard.

SHOOTING FOR THE MOON —This Juno II rocket, with Pioneer IV a potential sun planet, zooms away from the launch pad at Cape Canaveral, Fla. early today.

Captain Disputes Eastman at Hearing

Koren Raps Traffic Setup

By MAX E. SIMON

Police Capt. Joseph Koren, former commander of the now-defunct Traffic Bureau, turned on Public Safety Director George D. Eastman last night and took him to task for his traffic safety program.

Called as a witness against suspended Police Chief Herbert W. Straley, Koren told the Civil Service Commission he felt Eastman erred in abolishing the Traffic Bureau at the beginning of the year.

Traffic enforcement in the city has declined since Eastman's action, Koren declared.

The veteran of more than 18 years service in the department said Eastman did not talk over the move with him.

"I was bothered by it," Koren said. "But mine was to do, not to question."

Another reason for the traffic enforcement decline, the officer said, was a departmental training program during the first two months of 1959 which "pulled 25 men a day off the streets."

All members of the department received two weeks of training in January and February.

He also took issue with charges made by Eastman last Thursday before the Commission that Pontiac won traffic safety awards from the National Safety Council by using falsified statistics.

"I'd say the figures were correct," Koren declared, adding that many of the statistics were supplied by service groups, the Traffic and Safety Committee of the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce, schools and city departments.

Koren had been called to the stand to tell commissioners of an incident Dec. 15, at which time he was reprimanded by Straley for not being able to supply information on certain fingerprint files.

He said the reprimand was "mild" although Straley spoke in a "loud, sarcastic tone."

The officer said: "My feelings weren't hurt particularly, but it was upsetting."

FIVE OFFICERS CALLED

Koren was one of five policemen called before the Commission in the Straley removal hearing last night.

Others were Sgt. James F. Bale, Lt. George T. Scott, Patrolman Robert C. Gaines and Lt. William K. Hanger.

Bale, administrative aide to Koren, told commissioners he was in the captain's office when Koren was upbraided by Straley. "I didn't feel that the chief was showing conduct befitting an executive," he said.

A civilian clerk told him later she was embarrassed by what took place before her, Bale said.

Although he knew about the files, Bale said, he decided against intervening because he "didn't want to make matters worse."

Lt. Scott testified that Straley approached him while he was on duty at the front desk of the station Jan. 25 and, in a loud voice,

No Signs of Give-In at Lansing

LANSING (AP)—Chances of a timely solution to Michigan's cash emergency ebbed today.

Her Legislature remained locked in a seemingly hopeless impasse over borrowing. Gov. Williams was in California.

As expected, a Republican Senate solution cracked into a stone wall of Democratic opposition last night. It was doomed before it was completely hatched last Thursday, and its framers knew it.

When the roll was called after nearly three hours debate, the count was 22 Republicans for and 11 Democrats against. Twenty-three votes were required for approval.

About two dozen speeches totaling 20,000 words by 17 senators, some of them warning of chaos ahead, changed nothing. Nobody thought they would.

Meanwhile, the House stood by waiting for a second vote late today on a Democratic borrowing plan Republicans rejected on Friday.

There was no sign of give anywhere.

ZERO HOUR COMING

As the state's shrinking hoard of dollars trickled out of the treasury, due for complete exhaustion late next month:

Republicans stood pat on seeking a 100-million-dollar loan tied to a one-cent increase in the state sales tax for two years.

Democrats adamantly insisted on borrowing only 50 millions and without disturbing the existing three-cent sales levy.

Either plan, if cleared by the Legislature, would go to a statewide vote April 6.

Wayne County election officials said it would be too late to get either on the ballot unless a decision were reached by 5 p.m. today.

House Speaker Don R. Pears, (R-Buchanan), Sen. Frank Beadle of St. Clair, GOP majority leader, and Williams all said no retreat from their previous positions was in sight.

The three had conferred at dinner time.

GOVERNOR LEAVES

For a time, the governor sat on a sofa at the rear of the Senate chamber listening to the thunderous argument. He smiled when Sen. L. Harvey Lodge (R-Drayton Plains) called him a "dancing master."

County Senator Star of Debate

Lodge Takes Oratorical Honors in Rip-Snorting Cash Crisis Set-To

State Sen. L. Harvey Lodge (R-Oakland County) stole the show in the Senate last night as senators put on an old fashioned, fist-shaking debate over Michigan's cash crisis.

"We (Republicans) will be as hard to move as linemen for the Detroit Lions, U. of M. or Michigan State," declared Lodge.

"You were in the Governor's office and apparently got your instructions," the cigar-chewing senator shouted, squinting across the aisle at Democrats.

"The choice is up to you," Lodge said as he repeatedly pushed thick, horn rim glasses back on his forehead. "Will you be Jeffersonians or will you be Reutherians?" he asked.

Lodge's remarks came during the longest debate of the session so far, three hours. It ended when senators voted to kill a GOP plan to call an April 6 vote on a bonding plan tied in with a sales tax.

Democrats too had their say as some 15 senators made speeches—some of them more than once.

"Republicans believe in fertilizing the top of the tree and letting it drip down" Sen. Philip Rahoi (D-Iron Mountain) said. "But Democrats believe in fertilizing the roots."

Bond Issue Vote Taking Place

Waterford Residents Today Decide School Fund Proposals

Waterford Township School District voters are going to the polls today to either approve or reject a proposed $5 million bond issue for school construction, plus an additional five mills for school operating expenses.

The bond issue would provide funds for the construction of a second high school, elementary school buildings, additions to present elementary schools and to the Maintenance and Board of Education buildings. Additional school sites would also be purchased with the funds.

"If both proposals are approved, there will be no increase in an individual's annual school tax, providing his assessed valuation is not increased," Supt. William Shunck said.

Due to the increase in the state equalized valuation in the school district, debts from previous school bond issues are being paid off faster than anticipated, he said.

According to the latest census reports, there will be more than 1,300 kindergarten pupils enrolling in Waterford Township schools next September, and there already is an immediate space problem, Shunck said.

Five precincts have been set up in the following schools:

Drayton Plains, 3000 Sashabaw Rd.; Donelson, 1200 W. Huron St.; Waterford Center, 1021 Airport Rd.; Waterford Village, 4241 Steffens St., and Pontiac Lake School, 2115 Williams Lake Rd.

There are approximately 18,000 registered voters in the district.

Lenten Guideposts Features Middle-Aged Cinderella

Husband's Faith Helps Singer Wrest Fame From Adversity

By ROBERTA SHERWOOD
As Told to Ann Kramer

For some time I had known that my husband, Don Lanning, wasn't well. When finally I did get him to a doctor for an examination, the news was grim. Immediate lung surgery was necessary.

"How much could a man take?" I said to myself.

Miss Sherwood

I'd been married to Don 15 years. More than a husband, he was my friend, companion, counselor. I admired him especially because life hadn't been easy for him.

In the twenties, he had been a talented and popular actor, yet during the Depression when it was impossible to find roles, he cheerfully turned to another field and opened a restaurant. That's how we first met.

My sister and I, who for years had toured the country as an act, were out of work and desperate. I went to see Don and offered him a double—my sister danced and I sang—for the price of a single.

He joked about a bargain, but took us on and was wonderful to work for. After that, whenever I was in New York, I saw him. In 1939 we were married.

After our marriage, Don moved to Miami. He leased a small lounge at a beach hotel and I sang there nightly.

But when he became ill, the hotel manager told us they were taking the concession from us.

'WHY?'

Suddenly I rebelled against fate. Why should this happen to a man who'd lived a decent life, who had never dissipated, who had brought only kindness and consideration to those around him? And why, at least, didn't the hotel give us a break—?

"There's no room for sentiment in this business," Don said. "Honey, you've got to see their side of it, too."

That he could, at such a crucial moment, still be fair and objective silenced me. What I needed was some of his strength!

I certainly needed it when Don went to the operating room. In my mind, so deep I was scarcely aware of it, I was singing to him the songs he loved; the songs of the Bible Belt where I had trooped as a girl.

"Prayer is the key to heaven," I sang.

Then I added my own special prayer. "Dear God, keep Your Arm around him . . ."

Don came out of surgery with his left lung gone, but his wonderful spirit intact. During his convalescence, I would spend the days with him, then hurry home to cook dinner for our sons, put them to bed, greet the sitter, dress, and rush off to my nightly singing engagement.

It was an ordeal. But I remembered hearing an actress say once, "God broadens the back to bear the burden." Gratitude for Don's recovery made me strong enough.

HUB OF THE HOUSE

After a battle with himself, Don realized it was foolish to push himself beyond his endurance. Now he spends most of his time lying down. But his room is the hub of the house. "Grand Central Station," the kids call it.

"You've always been wonderful to me and the boys," I said reassuringly, "now let me take over."

But I wasn't nearly as confident as I sounded. The thought of job-hunting in Miami made my blood freeze. Miami is a playground, a place of tinsel and rhinestones and gorgeous platinum blondes. How could I compete with them?

To face it honestly—I was 41, and had put on pounds. There was no way to hide my middle-age spread. Yet I could sing, and I felt that people understood the message put into my songs.

But who would give me a chance?

THE RUN-AROUND

Managers I'd counted on gave me the run around. It was Don who held fast to his faith.

"Roberta, you've spent 30 years trouping and learning," he said. "It won't go to waste."

Murray Franklin's cafe is small. He didn't know me well, and certainly he owed me nothing. But it was he who finally gave me a job.

At that time, I couldn't help being bitter toward the men who might have offered me work, but didn't. Yet now, looking back, I see so clearly the pattern God had chosen for me.

Murray Franklin's cafe is across the street from the Roney Plaza. For years, Walter Winchell had made the Roney his winter quarters.

"If only Walter Winchell would see you!" Don said.

STANDING ROOM ONLY

Mr. Winchell did. The rest of my story reads like that of a middle-aged Cinderella. Within a month of the mention in Winchell's column, there was standing room only at Murray Franklin's.

Then came an offer from the Late Commissioner Stopped Toll Roads

Time has lent weight to the often unpopular stand the late Charles M. Ziegler took on the subject of turnpikes.

If anyone can be credited with halting plans for turnpikes in Michigan, it's the former State Highway Commissioner, who died Sunday in Lansing.

During his late years in office, Ziegler consistently thwarted plans of the Michigan Turnpike Authority (MTA) to build its initial toll road, from Rockwood south of Detroit past Pontiac to Saginaw.

CHARLES M. ZIEGLER

Oakland County, badly in need of a new north-south artery, looked on as the battle raged.

The MTA said it was ready to go, if only Ziegler would promise not to build a free road in competition.

Ziegler wouldn't make any promises, saying Oakland County would have the free road as soon as funds became available.

Besides clashing with each other, Ziegler and the MTA ran into hot opposition from communities that didn't want any kind of expressway—free or toll—running through their backyards. The bitterest opposition came from the exclusive residential areas south of Pontiac and west of Birmingham.

Ziegler had not committed any funds to an Oakland County expressway before leaving office in mid-1957. But he did manage to get bonds sold to turn Northwestern Highway into an expressway across western Oakland County.

This move was sufficient to make financiers turn thumbs down on a turnpike.

Five months later, the new Highway Department administration announced Oakland County would get its free expressway, but only through diversion of funds that would have gone for the improvement of Northwestern.

Ironically, Ziegler's route plans were scrapped and the new road will follow the proposed turnpike route between Pontiac and Flint.

Oakland County will have its first 37-mile section of free expressway between Pontiac and Flint by 1962, State Highway Commissioner John C. Mackie has promised.

Meantime, toll roads in other states are falling into disrepute. The accelerated federal highway program has produced free roads that cut sharply into their revenues, causing a steep rise in tolls in many cases.

This could have been the case in Oakland County, where Michigan's first toll road would have been built, save for the efforts of Charles M. Ziegler.

Files $25,000 Suit Against City Hospital

A former Pontiac man, George Fulkerson, has filed suit in Federal Court in Detroit for $25,000 damages from Pontiac General Hospital and Dr. H. L. Newton.

Fulkerson, now a used car dealer in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., said he was treated at the hospital in March, 1957, after accidentally slipping his right arm through a pane of glass at his home.

He said the hospital failed to take X-rays and that a piece of glass was left in his wrist, eventually severing a nerve and tendon.

Fulkerson filed the suit two weeks after settling one out of court. He asked $200,000 damages from ex-prize fighter Chuck Davies and the owners of Rips Bar, 998 W. Huron St., Waterford Township. He said Davies injured his vision in a fight outside the bar three years ago.

In the settlement, Davies was cleared of blame and didn't have to pay damages.

Mooney Asks Appeal of 10-Day Jail Sentence

Arthur C. Mooney, suspended Waterford Township High School teacher, appeared with his attorney Carlton S. Roeser in Oakland County Circuit Court yesterday to have an appeal of a jail sentence added to the court calendar.

Mooney, 50, of 1651 Grimshaw St., Commerce Township, is appealing a 10-day jail sentence imposed by West Bloomfield Township Justice Elmer C. Dieterle who found him guilty of driving with a revoked driver's license.

Mooney is also appealing a drunk driving charge, and is awaiting trial on two counts of furnishing beer to minors and gross indecency.

Birmingham Youth Starts Jail Sentence

A 19-year-old Birmingham youth is serving a 10-day sentence in Macomb County jail after being found guilty yesterday of illegal possession of alchoholic beverages, carrying a fictitious, altered driver's license and driving with a defective muffler.

The defective muffler led to the arrest Sunday of Thomas R. Cram of 3750 South Blvd., Birmingham, on Ryan road in Shelby Township, Romeo State Police reported today.

Upon investigation troopers found he had a bottle of vodka in his car and was carrying an altered photographic copy of his driver's license.

Cram was arraigned yesterday before Justice Francis Castellucci in Mount Clemens and was sentenced to pay a total of $55 in costs and fines or spend 10 days in jail. He also was placed on a year's probation, police said.

Unable to pay the fine, Cram, a commercial artist, went to jail.

Accused Beater Free on Bond

16-Year-Old Area Boy Charged With 4 Others in Robbery, Assault

Gregory R. Clover, 16-year-old Waterford Township youth accused of taking part in a gang beating of a 52-year-old White Lake Township man Jan. 31, was free on a lowered $5,000 bond today awaiting trial on a charge of unarmed robbery.

Probate Judge Arthur E. Moore last week waived Juvenile Court jurisdiction over him.

Yesterday Clover, of 415 Manning St., appeared with his attorney, Robert G. Isgrigg, for arraignment before Oakland County Circuit Judge H. Russel Holland on a charge of unarmed robbery. Isgrigg announced Clover wished to stand mute to the charge, so Judge Holland entered a plea of innocent and ordered the case set down for trial.

Clover and four other township youths are accused of beating and robbing Herman Westpfahl, of 5901 Cooley Lake Rd. of $55 after luring him to a dark street. The four companions pleaded guilty last Tuesday to robbery unarmed. They will be sentenced March 16.

Judge Holland yesterday lowered the $10,000 bond on Clover when Isgrigg protested it as being "extremely excessive" for "a boy with no juvenile record of any kind or any police record."

Meanwhile, Clover's four companions are in the county jail under the original $10,000 bonds awaiting sentence.

Narcotics Suspect Mute in Court

A 44-year-old Royal Oak Township man, picked up by Pontiac Police vice officers in a narcotics raid last month, yesterday stood mute when arraigned before Oakland County Circuit Judge H. Russel Holland on a charge of sale of narcotics.

William Barksdale of 10689 Foxton Ct., alleged operator of the dope pushing ring, was freed on a $1,000 bond to await trial. Judge Holland entered a plea of innocent for him.

Five others nabbed in the Valentine's Day raid in the city are awaiting pre-trial examination in Pontiac Municipal Court. Ths has been rescheduled now for March 11.

The five are all free on $500 bonds each.

Police Captain Criticizes Traffic Safety Program

asked: "Why are you spreading rumors about me leaving?

"He didn't wait for an answer," Scott said, "but turned on his heels and headed back for his office."

The lieutenant testified he followed Straley into the chief's room to learn the meaning of his question.

"I told the chief that Eastman that morning had told me about his leaving," Scott said, "and that it was common knowledge around the department.

"He relented a bit and calmed down," Scott stated.

Gaines, the public safety director's aide, told of overhearing Straley say over the phone, on Jan. 25. "That (Capt. Oliver) Lemeaux is telling everyone I should be in Jackson Prison. Yes, my doors are open and I don't care who hears me in this — — — joint."

Gaines said the door of Straley's office was open and anyone in the hall could hear him use profanity.

It was the only time, Gaines said, he heard Straley swear around the department.

Hanger said he overheard the same statements made by Straley.

He recited difficulties he has had in obtaining a police overcoat from the time he was promoted to lieutenant in January of 1957.

From the date of his promotion until he was given a plainclothes assignment, on Nov. 4, 1958, he did not receive a police coat, Hanger asserted.

"I finally bought myself a civilian-type suburban jacket," Hanger said, "It was that or freeze."

The lieutenant denied he was ever insubordinate to Straley. He said he had criticized the chief, but such criticism was an expression of "intellectual honesty."

Before the five officers took the stand, Eastman wound up his testimony before the Commission.

Straley was disinclined to be cooperative, he said, and difficult to talk to. He said Straley was "resentful of honest criticism and not receptive to direction from another person."

The public safety director said that by Nov. 12 the department was in a "chaotic condition requiring drastic action." That day Eastman stripped Straley of command and took over himself.

The morale of the department improved for a short while but is now at "low ebb" because of the hearing, Eastman said.

The hearing will resume at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the City Commission chambers. City Manager Walter K. Willman is expected to testify.

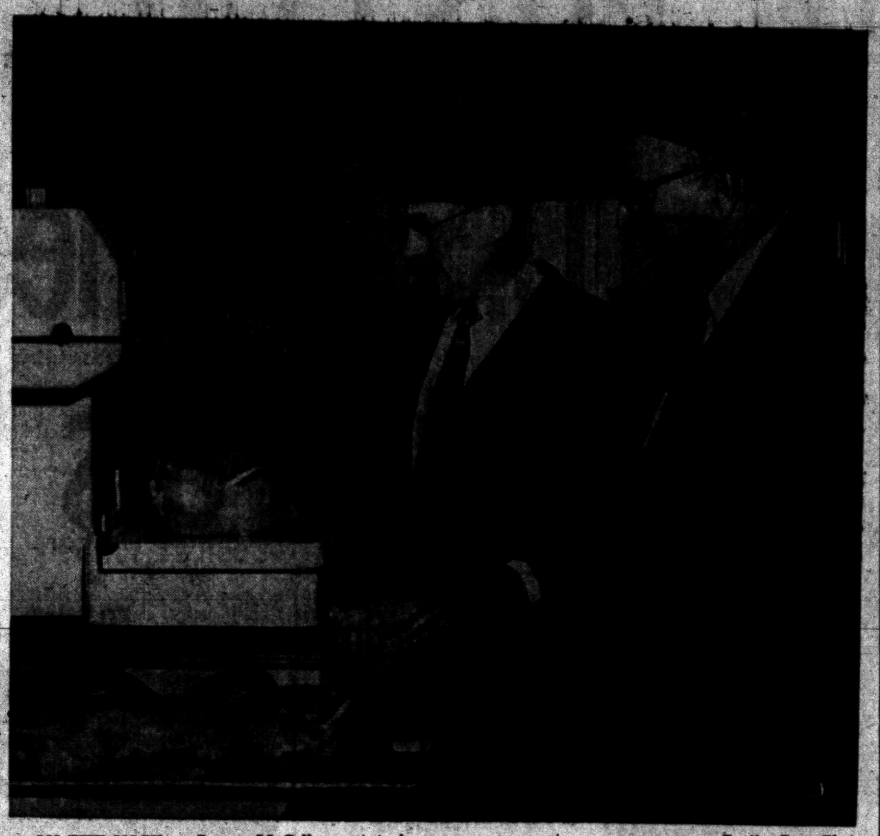

SAFE DRIVING TIP

Careless passing is one of the greatest causes of highway accidents.

It is impossible to see beyond a hillcrest or a curve, so you can never safely cross into the other lane at these points.

Naturally, says the Chicago Motor Club, it is irritating to follow slow-moving traffic near the crest of a hill. But the good driver will accept the delay rather than risk an accident. In the illustration, the impatient driver is about to pay for his carelessness.

ON THE NOSE — James McCollum, state inspector, and Police Sgt. Walter A. Baerwolf (right) test the weight of chickens at a local supermarket. Both men are in the limelight as the city observes Weights and Measures Week. Their major job is to make sure the scale shows accurate weights.

Weights, Measures Men Save You $150 Yearly

When you last filled the car's gas tank at 33 cents a gallon did you stop to wonder whether you were really getting your $4.80 worth?

How do you know when you bought that hamburger at 59 cents a pound that you were actually given 2½ pounds by the butcher?

If you're the average consumer, you don't think much about it.

Someone else is doing it for you.

Locally, the men who are making sure you get what you pay for are James McCollum, state sealer for Oakland County, and Police Sgt. Walter A. Baerwolf, Pontiac sealer of weights and measures.

They are in the spotlight this week as Pontiac celebrates Weights and Measures Week. This event is being marked by hundreds of city, county and state weights and measures departments as well as commerce and industry all over the nation.

The two local weights and measures men have been honored in an official proclamation signed by Mayor Philip E. Rowston.

They will be guest speakers at various service club events throughout the week. Displays in downtown stores tell of their important role in the economic life of Pontiac.

"Few activities are more basic to our business system than accurate weights and measures," Sgt. Baerwolf said. "Our civilization would quickly grind to a halt without them. It is almost impossible to name anything we wear, use or eat that has not been weighed or measured once or many times in its production or distribution."

He pointed out that the public has a huge investment in the accuracy of scales used by a city's merchants.

If these are incorrect by only a few cents on each purchase, the net loss to buyers can reach staggering sums.

There's another side of the picture, too. Weights and measures inspection and enforcement often saves merchants from giving away their entire profit—or more—by scales which are "slow."

If a scale has friction in it, it may not show as much on the dial as there is weight in the pan. The National Assn. of Scale Manufacturers reports there are many cases in which honest merchants have gone bankrupt, literally giving away their businesses in overweight, without ever knowing their scales were wrong.

Scales in Pontiac are tested for accuracy two or three times a year and unannounced spot checks made frequently, Sgt. Baerwolf said.

Although the overwhelming majority of merchants are unscrupulously honest, Sgt. Baerwolf said, occasionally a fraudulent practice is uncovered.

Those engaged in fraudulent practices are prosecuted and forced to toe the line.

McCollum is one of 61 inspectors in the state Foods and Standards Division, who enforce state food laws and weights and measures regulations. He has been named state chairman of the week's observances by all state weights and measures officials.

He said the average family has "a financial stake estimated at $150 per year in savings by weights and measures enforcement."

"The next time you make a purchase at a store, take a look at the scale on which the parcel is weighed," he said. "You'll notice a small seal on it. This is your protection against getting less than you pay for."

Sgt. Baerwolf's section last year inspected 1,461 scales and 425 gasoline pumps of which 45 pumps were condemned, checkweighed 73,768 miscellaneous packages of which 1,072 were condemned, 2,368 sacks of potatoes of which 316 were condemned.

The state sealers last year checked 20,615 scales of which 2,719 were condemned and 16,854 gasoline pumps, with 1,489 ordered out of service.

This is the 160th anniversary of the first weights and measures law enacted by Congress on March 2, 1799.

Award Contract to Raze Lansing's Old City Hall

LANSING (UPI) — Lansing's old city hall, built in 1896, will be razed to the ground to make room for a new and modern building.

The Lansing City Council last night approved awarding of a contract to tear down the building to the Burton Lumber and Wrecking Co. of Flint, low bidder at $18,750.

The ornate Indiana limestone building opposite the state Capitol will be replaced by a $3,500,000, ten-story structure to house the circuit courts and the city water and light board.

Supreme Court Receives Report

Dissension, Inadequacy Found in Trombly's Court

LANSING (UPI)—An investigator for the Michigan State Supreme Court says he found "widespread dissension, inadequate administrative policies and lack of respect for authority" in the Juvenile Division of Macomb County Probate Judge Joseph V. Trombly's court.

Meredith H. Doyle, administrator of the high court, made the report in the wake of an announcement by Chief Justice John R. Dethmers that Trombly was taking a leave of absence until May 1.

Dethmers said Probate Judge Donald T. Anderson of Kalamazoo County would take over Trombly's post.

Trombly is hospitalized in Detroit for a checkup. He gave Dethmers no reason for taking a leave.

Doyle's investigation of operations in the Macomb court was ordered by the Supreme Court 10 days ago.

In the report, Doyle said Trombly was in a "highly emotional" state when interviewed.

The report quotes Trombly as saying he wanted the two-months leave for a vacation and to campaign for the Macomb County Circuit Court.

Cases in Trombly's Juvenile Division, the report said, appeared to be handled with speed comparable to a "mass production basis."

Doyle's report added:

"It also appears there is widespread dissension among the personnel of the Juvenile Division, inadequate administrative policies and a lack of respect for authority.

"All of these are detrimental to sound judicial administration and, in my judgment, should be corrected summarily."

Doyle talked to some 30 persons in the Macomb court. He brought back to Lansing a resolution by the executive committee of the Michigan Probate Judges Assn. saying retirement proceedings would be started against Trombly if Dethmers agreed.

Dethmers had no comment.

The retirement law says proceedings to determine a judge's mental or physical competency can be instituted by the president of the association.

The president, Judge Vallie W. Dussia of Monroe County, was one of five committee members who agreed to the resolution. Two members were absent.

Joins Pontiac General

St. Joseph's Hits Welfare Rates

St. Joseph Mercy Hospital today joined Pontiac General Hospital in blasting county and state welfare practices.

The hospital reported it lost $112,399 last year because county and state agencies paid less than actual cost for treatment of indigent patients.

On the county rate of $33 per patient day, the hospital lost $62,556 said sister Mary William, hospital administrator, and on the state rate of $19 a day, the hospital lost $49,842.

The county rate is set by the Oakland County Department of Social Welfare for county welfare patients. The state rate is set by the Legislature for child patients being treated under the Sick and Afflicted Children's Act.

Sister Mary William endorsed the stand of James Clarkson, chairman of the Pontiac General Board of Trustees, that the deficits at the city's two main hospitals are the responsibility of the state and county.

"This responsibility is not being met," she said, urging that the governmental rates be brought more in line with the average $40-a-day it costs hospitals to treat patients.

"This is a serious problem that must be settled in fairness and justice to the service expected from the hospitals by the community," she said.

Clarkson has announced that Pontiac General may set restrictions on welfare care if the county and state do not act to erase the deficits.

He said Pontiac General lost $37,406 on state-aid patients last year and $75,078 on county welfare patients.

He said that the hospital lost a staggering $320,000 total on patients who couldn't, or wouldn't, pay their own bills, including $56,827 lost on claims that weren't honored by the Social Welfare Board.

Sister Mary William said the comparable total at St. Joseph was $310,193, but that the hospital had no breakdown on the cost of patients turned down by the Welfare Department.

Clarkson said that Pontiac General was a "dumping ground" for indigent patients from all over the county and charged that many of the patients represented in the $56,827 loss had been referred to Pontiac General by other hospitals which feared to take a chance losing money on them.

He charged that the same "dumping" policy was reflected in the loss of approximately $50,000 incurred in emergency treatment for non-Pontiac residents who didn't pay their bills.

Patients whose ability to pay is doubtful are being sent from all over, to Pontiac General to take advantage of the hospital's policy of never turning away a patient, he charged.

Sister Mary William denied there was any policy at St. Joseph's to send patients away because of financial status.

"We have always tried to bear our share of indigent patients," she said.

Whereas Pontiac General provided 8,539 patient-day services for welfare patients last year, St. Joseph's provided 7,854, she said.

Losses reflect the fact that more service was given state-aid patients at St. Joseph than at Pontiac General, she said.

The Day in Birmingham

Library Board Questions Need of Public Decision

BIRMINGHAM — Citing a State of Michigan act established in 1919, Baldwin Public Library Board members last night asked commissioners if a vote of the people is necessary to approve a bond issue of the $151,800 expansion program of the library.

The state ruling permits a municipality to float a bond issue without a public vote if the total does not exceed one-quarter of one per cent of assessed valuation.

Commissioners turned the problem back to City Manager L. B. Gare for a report next Monday night at the regular meeting.

In other Commission business the salary increase for the municipal judge was raised from $1,875 to $5,000. The associate judge's salary also was increased from $450 to $1,200.

Both positions are on a part-time basis with the new salaries becoming effective in July.

Three hearings of necessity dates are to be established for the paving of Purdy, Ann, and Landon streets. Considered separately will be replacement of the present 27-foot wide paving on these streets. Some sections of the streets will be widened to 37 feet in heavy traffic zones.

The third hearing will be on the acquisition of land for better construction of intersections.

Dr. Walter E. Cole, minister of the First Congregational Church of Detroit, will speak after the potluck supper scheduled for 6:30 p.m. Thursday at the Congregational Church of Birmingham.

Friday, the church's supper club will meet at 6:45 p.m. James Flack will speak on the Civil War era with William Price showing slides.

Wilson C. Homer

Service for William C. Homer, 65, of 760 N. Glengary Rd. will be held 2:30 p.m. Thursday from Covenant Baptist Church in Detroit. Burial will be in Woodlawn Cemetery.

The body is at William Vasu Funeral Home on N. Woodward avenue in Royal Oak.

A Chevrolet dealer in Detroit for more than 30 years, Mr. Homer died yesterday in St. Clair Hospital, Detroit.

A former president of the Detroit Automobile Dealers Assn., he was a veteran of World War I.

He also was a member of Covenant Baptist Church, the Detroit Athletic Club, Detroit Golf Club, American Legion, Palestine Lodge F & AM, Detroit Commandery Number 1 Knights Templar, and the University of Michigan Club of Detroit.

He is survived by his wife, Tenerife; two daughters, Mrs. Janet Scott and Mrs. Katherine Robinson, both of Birmingham; two brothers; one sister and nine grandchildren.

9 Children Die in Bus Tragedy

Drown When Vehicle Taking 60 to Georgia School Flips Into Pond

TIFTON, Ga. (UPI)—A school bus hit a rut in a road and overturned in a farm pond today, drowning at least nine children. Rescuers said possibly two or three other bodies may be found in the half-submerged bus.

The bus, carrying approximately 60 Negro children, plunged into the pond about 8 a.m., on the farm of Raleigh Coarsey, a mile southwest of Brookfield. The scene is about eight miles from Tifton in south Georgia.

Two white men, Carl Lowry and Charlen Ahrens, helped pull several children from the bus after breaking windows on the side remaining above water. Those who were unconscious were laid on the side of the bus. When other help arrived, artificial respiration saved 10 or 12 of these children.

Witnesses said the bus was traveling about 30 miles an hour when it careened into the pond.

Several white persons gave artificial respiration to the victims and three doctors were on the scene within a short time. Even the nine who appeared dead when removed were given treatment for 20 or 30 minutes before rescuers ceased efforts to revive them.

The bus was taking the children to Wilson High School in Tifton.

R. L. Mack, principal of the school, said he feared at least two or three children were still in the bus.

Officials credited the two white men with keeping the death toll as low as it was. All windows in the bus were closed when it left the road. As soon as the men broke the windows, the children fought to get out. Witnesses said more of the children probably could have been saved if they had windows.

Twelve children were brought not struggled for positions at the out of the bus for artificial respiration. Three were revived and taken to a hospital with a good chance to live. Five were soon found to be beyond resuscitation and after working for more than an hour the doctors gave up hope for four others.

The scene was soon thronged with 1,000 or more persons. Automobiles were parked for a mile along the country road.

Whites and Negroes worked tirelessly together in the rescue and resuscitation efforts.

In addition to students of Wilson High, the bus also carried pupils of the Negro industrial elementary school in Tifton. Most of the dead were smaller children.

Her Husband's Faith Helps Singer's Fame

Copacabana in New York. I hesitated, for it meant being separated from my family. But Don said firmly, "This is what you've waited for all your life; you'd be letting us all down if you refused."

Opening night, my agent paced nervously back and forth, while I went out to face what he called a tough New York audience.

Years of suffering and joy went into that opening night performance. I wasn't alone either. Everyone who had contributed to my growth was a part of me that night.

Then it was over. I went off the stage in a daze. There was a commotion. Somebody said it was a fight. Suddenly, I realized that the audience was on its feet, clapping like crazy. I went back to look; they were applauding me!

"Get Don on the phone, quick—" I said to my agent, "I want him to hear it, too."

When the long distance operator finally connected us I couldn't talk. But without my saying a word, he knew.

For that applause was rightly his, as much as mine. Now, as always, we were sharing.

And it was in that moment, with Don's voice coming over the long distance wire, that I knew God had His Arm around us both.

U.S. 'Pioneer' Racing Toward Moon, Sun

'VERY FAVORABLE'

Two and one-half hours later, jubilant scientists of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration here reported "very favorable" results.

The predicted success of this attempt came after four U.S. failures to orbit or pass the moon. One of three Air Force tries sent a probe up 71,300 miles before it fell back to earth and was burned up in the atmosphere. The Army's first try ended at 63,580 miles.

The Soviets claim to have established the first man-made planet in a solar orbit after a launching last Jan. 4.

Pioneer IV, whose gold plate provides an antenna to relay radio instrumentation back to earth, is 20 inches long and weighs 13 pounds. It is loaded with instruments to measure radioactivity in space and already has sent back much data, the scientists said.

One of Pioneer's IV's assigned scientific tasks was to test a pistol-shaped photoelectric sensor, designed to determine whether later probes might take television pictures of the moon.

But Dr. William H. Pickering of the NASA said the photoelectric device, triggered by the light of the moon, would work only within 20,000 miles of the moon.

Murder Trial Like Soap Opera

Son Labels Testimony of Mom Hiring Wife's Killers 'Fantastic'

VENTURA, Calif. (UPI)—Frank Duncan says he would be forced to think what's happened in court here was "soap opera" if his wife had not been killed and his mother were not on trial for murder.

Referring to testimony yesterday by 84-year-old Emma Short, the 30-year-old attorney, whose wife Olga, was killed by two men who said they were hired by his mother, Elizabeth 54, said:

"If it had been anywhere but in a courtroom and my wife had not been killed and my mother on trial, I would have thought it was soap opera. Her testimony was fantastic."

Mrs. Short, a bird-like woman with gray hair tinged with yellow, spent most of yesterday on the witness stand under probing cross-examination by S. Ward Sullivan, representing Mrs. Duncan. He won admissions from Mrs. Short that she was "confused" in testimony before the grand jury which indicted Mrs. Duncan, Luis Moya, 22, and Augustine Baldonado, 25, for murder last Dec. 26.

Under Sullivan's skillful cross-examination, Mrs. Short also admitted her memory was "not very accurate" when it comes to dates.

Sullivan also "caught her out" in several discrepancies on the content of conversation reported by Mrs. Short in which Mrs. Duncan was reported to have "shopped around" among four or five persons for someone to kill her daughter-in-law.

Stolen Parakeet 'Not Talking' in House Break-In

Oakland County sheriff's detectives had a story today about a helpful dog and unhelpful bird.

Yesterday, officers investigated a burglary at an unoccupied home at 2920 Phillips Rd., Pontiac Township, owned by Maurice Sherer of 268 S. Marshall St.

Reported stolen were items valued at more than $110 plus $25 cash, a stuffed owl and a live parakeet. Sherer told detectives the parakeet had been imported from Mexico and was quite highly valued.

A check of neighborhood residents failed to uncover anything. Later in the afternoon detectives got a call from Roy Lee, 13, a resident of Shimmons Trailer Park nearby.

Roy had seen a stray dog with a bird in its mouth. Sure enough, the bird was Sherer's lost parakeet. The dog was given a friendly pat for his efforts. The bird was uninjured.

Back at the Sheriff's Department, Det. Alphonse Anderson walked from his office shaking his head and muttering, "We can't get a word out of him."

When asked to explain his predicament he smiled and said: "That parakeet is our only witness to the crime, but he won't talk." Anderson would not reveal whether the parakeet was going to be held as a material witness.

Juno II Sixth Rocket Shot Toward Moon

By The Associated Press

A chronology of space probes and moonshots:

Aug. 17, 1958 — The U.S. Air Force fired a Thor-Able rocket toward the moon. It blew up at 50,000 feet after 77 seconds of flight. It did not carry a project name.

Oct. 11, 1958 — The Air Force fired Pioneer I atop another Thor-Able rocket. It was intended to circle the moon and return to earth after viewing the moon's hidden side. It rose to 71,300 miles and fell back to earth. Failure was laid to deviation in course.

Nov. 8, 1958 — The Air Force made its third try, Pioneer II, with the Thor-Able rocket. The third stage failed to fire and the probe reached only 1,000 miles high, falling back to earth in a normal ballistic path 7,500 miles from Cape Canaveral.

Dec. 5, 1958 — The U.S. Army made its first attempt, Pioneer III, with a Juno rocket. This shot was to bypass the moon, or with luck to hit it. The rocket was to achieve escape velocity, 7 miles per second — a speed that would enable it to enter an orbit around the sun. The rocket failed to fire all its fuel, and so failed to reach top speed. It traveled to a height of 66,654 miles and fell back to earth.

Jan. 2, 1959 — The Soviet Union said it fired a 1½ ton satellite into orbit around the sun, passing very close to the moon, perhaps within 4,700 miles. Radio contact was lost with this rocket at 374,000 miles, but it was known that the rocket had achieved escape velocity, the Soviets said. Most American astronomers concede that, supposing the Soviet data correct, Mechta is in orbit around the sun, and will remain so for millions of years

March 3, 1959 — A Juno II rocket was launched by the Army, carrying Pioneer IV. The goal was to hurl a 13-pound satellite past the moon and into solar orbit.

Issuance of Bike Licenses Delayed

At a brief meeting last night, the Waterford Township Board postponed the issuance of bicycle licenses from March 1 to May 1 due to bad weather conditions.

A new ordinance requiring bicycle owners to present their bikes for inspection tests before the issuance of a license was approved by the board in December.

The township soon will set up operations in the schools. Licenses will be 25 cents each, according to Police Chief Millard Pender.

In other business, a used car license was approved for the Drayton Collision Inc., at 3458 Sashabaw Rd.

Still Uncertain About Fate of Air Force Rocket

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Status of Discoverer I — the rocket the Air Force hoped would achieve polar orbit—was still very much in doubt today.

Official hopes of an orbit were boosted Monday on the basis of radio signals picked up in Alaska. But early today searchers failed in an effort to find the missile by bouncing a radio signal off it.

A radio signal was beamed at the orbit path for 40 minutes, from the Stanford Research Institute in Palo Alto, Calif.

At the Standard Oil Co. research center in Cleveland, Ohio, sensitive radio receivers were to pick up any reflected signals, but none was received.

Dr. A. L. Jones of the Cleveland facility said he was reasonably certain his equipment would have picked up a reflected signal if the Discoverer had been where it was supposed to be.

A few hours earlier, an Air Force spokesman said the signals heard in Alaska Monday tended to substantiate previous belief that orbit had been achieved.

Postal Substation Reopens on Walton

The Pontiac post office contract station No. 1, W. Walton boulevard and Baldwin avenue, reopened today, according to Robert C. Miller, acting postmaster.

Robert Meagher, appointed clerk in charge, and his brother, William, will operate the Meagher Lumber Co. there also, Miller said.

The postal station closed Dec. 31 due to the liquidation of the Lowrie-Hick Lumber Co. in whose building the station was located. The new owner of this building was low bidder for the new contract station, Miller said.

The station will be open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 8 a.m. to noon Saturday.

All postal services will be available with the exception of postal savings, revenue and savings stamps. These are handled at the main post office, 735 W. Huron St.

Chess, Checker Tourney Set by Parks Dept.

City chess and checker players have the rest of this week to sharpen up on their games for the Pontiac Chess and Checker Club tournament starting Monday.

Sponsored by the City Parks & Recreation Dept., the club announced tournament play will begin March 9 at the Adah Shelley Branch Library, 251 E. Rundell St. First move is scheduled for 7 p.m.

At the club's regular meeting held at the library last night, members decided to assess 50 cents to each tournament entry in order to purchase trophies or prizes for the winners. Other than this new charge, there are no dues or admission charges, according to R. E. Dunham, 272 Cottage St., publicity chairman of the club.

Club officials urge chess and checker players to bring along their favorite boards for the competition.

Michigan Engineering Society Plans Meeting

The 79th annual meeting of the Michigan Engineering Society will be held in Ann Arbor at the Michigan Union, April 3-4, it has been announced.

A business meeting, election of officers, social hours, and tour of the north campus of the University of Michigan are planned, in addition to presentation of several technical speeches.

Powerful, Harmless Quake Hits California

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A powerful but comparatively harmless earthquake shook up Northern California Monday.

It rattled dishes and windows from Sebastopol, 50 miles to the north, to Hollister, 100 miles to the south.

South of San Francisco, a hillside slid and blocked part of a state highway east of Watsonville, two refrigeration pipes broke in Hollister and plaster fell from the ceilings of older buildings in Gilroy and Santa Cruz.

Telephone switchboards were jammed throughout the San Francisco Bay area.

The University of California seismograph at Berkeley recorded for 12 minutes. Seismologist Don Tocher said the quake centered 65 miles to the south in the coast range south of Mt. Hilton.

Repeal Auto Excise Tax, State Legislature Asks

LANSING — The legislature last night completed passage of a resolution urging congress to repeal the 10 per cent excise tax on motor vehicles.

Also adopted was a resolution inviting the International Olympic Committe to consider Detroit as England imported 1,225,000 pounds of oranges from Cuba during the first seven months of 1958, Holland 446,000 pounds, the U. S. 360,000 pounds and Curacao 7,000 pounds.

Hearing Held on Aid to Distressed Areas

Cause of Economic Ills in State Angrily Debated

DETROIT (AP)—Conflicting views on the reasons for Michigan's economic distress brought angry clashes at a Senate subcommittee hearing here yesterday.

Twenty witnesses gave their views on the value of a bill sponsored by Sen. Paul Douglas (D-Ill) which would appropriate 300 million dollars to a revolving fund for loans to economically distressed areas to build and equip plants for new industries. Most favored the measure.

One witness was AFL-CIO Vice President Walter P. Reuther. He urged quick passage of the Douglas bill, declaring: "This matter of distressed areas is really a matter of a distressed nation."

The labor leader said 76 of the nation's 149 major labor markets have more than six per cent of their labor forces idle.

Reuther, also president of the United Auto Workers union, appeared before a Senate subcommittee on production and stabilization headed by Douglas.

He took sharp issue with questions raised by Sen. Wallace Bennett (R-Utah) on whether Michigan's average unemployment of 405,000 in 1958 might be charged to the state's so-called economic climate.

Earlier, Gov. G. Mennen Williams, a Democrat, and Bennett, a former president of the National Assn. of Manufacturers, had jousted verbally on the point.

Bennett told Williams that "there are other things to solve and your dependence on the federal government is not necessary." He went on to quote figures which he said showed Indiana and some other states do not tax industry as severely as Michigan.

Williams charged that Bennett's figures were "biased" and "not comparative." He said he had answered all of them in winning a sixth term last November.

Reuther said that Michigan unemployment had grown more than five-fold since 1953, or from 2.7 per cent of the labor force, to 405,000, or 13.8 per cent in 1958.

Televiewers Become Bane of Judge's Day

DETROIT (AP)—"How do you plead — guilty or not guilty?" said the judge when Anthony Nowak, 48, appeared before him on a charge of driving without having his license on his person.

"I invoke the Fifth Amendment, your honor," replied Nowak.

The judge adjourned the case for trial next Monday, and sighed: "He has been watching TV too much."

Britain Wins Through in Currency Dilemma

Drastic action taken by the British Government since 1956 to defend the nation's currency has proved very effective.

Following President NASSER's seizure of the Suez Canal and the unsuccessful attempt by Britain and France to keep control, speculators caused a severe drain on the pound sterling. Britain's domestic and foreign trade was disrupted and rumors that the French franc would be devalued worsened the situation.

The United Kingdom's gold and silver dollars dwindled to $1.85 billion, much below the minimum requirement. On the assurance that the government would defend its currency, the International Monetary Fund and the Export-Import Bank advanced credits of over a billion dollars.

To protect the integrity of the pound, the British government through the Bank of England, raised the discount to the almost unheard of rate of seven per cent thereby attracting money back to Britain. By March, 1958, the critical situation had eased so that the rate was reduced to six per cent. Since then it has been lowered four times and now is four per cent.

The British Government recently announced that it does not need the $250 million still earmarked for it by the Export-Import Bank. This closes a dramatic chapter in Britain's defense of its currency and shows what can be done when a government takes action for the good of the country without regard to possible political penalties.

Women Winning Fight for More Recognition

Recently in Switzerland where men voted two to one to deny women that right nationwide, women nevertheless made gains by winning the franchise in several of the more populous cantons. The antisuffragists, as usual, argued that "women's place is in the home," completely ignoring the fact that 46 per cent of Swiss women go out to work.

The status of women continues to improve all over the world and with it goes a corresponding share of responsibility. In Algeria, Gen. de Gaulle has taken steps to free Moslem women by decreeing that henceforth they cannot be forced to marry against their will. Marriage age has been set at 15 for women and 18 for men and divorces can be granted only by courts.

The Koranic custom of child marriages and easy divorces of wives has been curbed and courts also will rule on alimony and custody of children. The woman most responsible for the change, Algeria's NEFISSA SID CARA, is a member of France's Assembly.

South Viet Nam also is keeping up with the times. The daughter of the present Ambassador to the United States, Mme. NGO, has been instrumental in getting a Family Bill passed by the Assembly freeing women from traditional servile roles. South Korea has a woman member of the Assembly and Prime Minister NEHRU's politically experienced daughter, INDIRA GANDHI, has been elected president of the Congress Party, a post previously held by her father and grandfather.

A light note on the subject of equality, which perhaps carries the matter too far, comes from Argentina where Senorita TEREZ MAZQUIDA, a member of the legislature, considering herself aggrieved by fellow member, Senor ALBERTO FLORES, challenged him to a duel. Whether through chivalry or fear of defeat, the Senor declined.

ANOTHER peculiar thing about the Russians is that they think they're dancing when they sit on their haunches and kick.

"IT IS reported that President EISENHOWER and MATEOS agreed tentatively to build a bridge over the Rio Grande on a 50-50 basis," says a news commentator. The American taxpayer wonders if this wouldn't mean Mexico would chip in 50c for each $50 the U.S. put up.

Ananias: Author of much of this southern climate publicity.

Running a dead heat for dean of the Oakland County Board of Supervisors are

William A. Ewart

of the Pontiac City delegation;

Fred W. Smith

of Royal Oak, and his colleague,

William C. Hudson,

all three having credits of 28 years. Following them is of Birmingham, 26 years;

W. Ray Ransom

of Pontiac, 25 years;

Forest I. Brendel

R. Clare Cummings

of Pontiac, 22 years, a total of 181 years for these seven men.

Although generally regarded as the four of Oakland County's 25 townships do not have even one lake within their borders. They are Troy, Southfield, Farmington and Royal Oak. The county's 423 lakes cover an estimated 21,000 acres, with West Bloomfield Township having the greatest water area, about 4,000 acres, with Waterford Township in second place, having about 2,600 acres.

"Land of the Lakes,"

'Twas 26 years ago tomorrow that the last President of the United States was inaugurated on March 4. That's when

laconically soothed us with the quotation that

"All we have to fear is fear," which it has been found was first used by a prominent person in the year of 1562, and by another in 1849.

Some of Miami's claims are of whole cloth and a yard wide. The latest is that its airports handle more passengers than those of any other city in the nation.

A clipping from a Pontiac paper of June 6, 1899, recently handed me by states that by actual count there were 218 horses tied to hitching posts in the downtown area on the previous Saturday. A special officer was detailed to prevent "double parking," but it wasn't called that then. The item calls it "hogging the street."

Angus Mullaly,

Another good Oakland County "first" comes in a letter simply signed, which states that there's hardly a pavement in Southeastern Michigan or a big building project in which sand and gravel from our county was not used in its construction.

"One of Your Boosters,"

Just Say a Friend Called

David Lawrence Says:

U.S. Could Shoot First if Pressed

WASHINGTON — America may not sit by waiting for Chicago or Detroit or New York City to be destroyed by missiles—that is, accepting the "first blow"—before letting loose our power of massive retaliation.

LAWRENCE

America instead might conceivably strike first in what has become known as "preemptive" rather than "preventive" war.

This is the inference that can be drawn from the testimony just given by Secretary of Defense Neil McElroy before the House Space Committee.

McElroy emphasized that the present policy is not to strike the "first blow" but "whether that always will be true is another matter."

Rep. McCormack of Massachusetts, Democratic leader of the House, promptly commented that he was encouraged to hear America might change its strictly defensive policy under certain circumstances.

This episode is the climax of a long discussion that has been going on in military circles in both countries, beginning in February 1955, when Nikita Khrushchev became the No. 2 man in the Soviet Union and enunciated what has since become known as the "Khrushchev Doctrine."

It is a policy of striking the "first blow" so as to prevent what is called "surprise aggression." This was the term used in an article in the Red army "Star" in March 1955 written by Soviet marshal of the armed forces, P. Rotmistrov, when he declared: "We must not allow ourselves to be taken by surprise."

After reporting in June 1955 the opinions expressed by military men in the Soviet Union, "U. S. News & World Report" also published on Dec. 13, 1957, an article on "surprise attack" by Capt. W. D. Puleston, retired U. S. naval officer and the author of many books on the strategy of war.

This article produced a lot of comment in Soviet military publications and was denounced by Moscow radio.

But, so far as is known, it was the first public recognition in American military circles that a "surprise attack" could be fatal and that it must be avoided even if, under certain circumstances, it could mean inflicting the "first blow" ourselves.

This undoubtedly is the situation that Secretary McElroy had in mind in his testimony on Monday. Here is what Capt. Puleston suggested:

"Our government also should make it equally clear to the Soviets that we will not stand idly by and wait to be attacked—that we will not permit any nation to prepare and mount a surprise attack upon this country or any of its allies.

"If Russia—or any other nation—should give positive evidence that it is preparing such an attack, the United States should immediately:

"1. Alert its armed forces and deploy them for instant attack upon the threatening nation.

"2. Serve immediate notice upon the threatening nation that, unless it dismounts the attack preparations within a specified brief period of time, the United States will attack in self-defense, without waiting to be hit first.

"Then, if the Russians or their satellites should defy this warning, the U. S. would be in a position to get at least an even break. If the enemy should attack, we could attack simultaneously.

"If the enemy should persist in its preparations to attack, we could—with honor—attack first, and thus gain the initial advantage instead of conceding it."

A few months before the Soviets launched an intercontinental ballistic missile in the summer of 1957, Maj. Gen. G. I. Pokrovsky, in a revealing book entitled, "Science and Technology in Contemporary Wars," wrote:

"A massive blow with long-range missiles can be especially powerful when administered by an aggressor in a surprise fashion, by way of an attack against some peaceful country.

"This is so because launching sites, and the missiles on those launching sites, can be secretly prepared in peacetime without the possibility of their discovery and destruction by the side which is defending itself.

"All this means that long-range missiles, being one of the newest means of combat, substantially increase the role of surprise in contemporary war."

Dr. William Brady Says:

Foolish for Women in 40s to Fear 'Ordeal' or 'Crisis'

"Mother is going through the menopause and she is miserable."

(This is the wrong way to state the present complaint. Let's revise it to read: Mother is miserable and besides she is 49 years old.)

"She swears by your word. She won't see her doctor and she is just about unbearable to live with. She takes her glum or sullen moods out on everyone and hurts the family very much by her remarks and actions. She has always talked about her mother and her moods, and doesn't realize that she herself is the same way . . .

(Signed——)"

In the pamphlet on "The Menopause" (available free to any reader who asks for it and provides stamped, self-addressed envelope) I say, and I hope every woman will accept this as the truth, that "the normal woman—thanks to enlightenment her numbers are increasing—suffers no disability or inconvenience from "change of life."

There is simply cessation of the function of menstruation, usually gradual, not abrupt, through a period of several months. The sensible woman who experiences or notices or even fears anything out of the ordinary at the age of 46 to 50, will promptly submit her complaint to her physician, just as though there were no such thing as menstruation or sex.

Only scheming quacks and unscrupulous nostrum makers would have you believe that "change of life" is a critical occurrence or an ordeal for the woman to encounter.

Whether this mother is exploiting her age for some selfish purpose it is impossible to judge at this distance. It may well be that the mother, ignorant or misinformed, really believes the "change of life" converts an amiable, wholesome, happy woman into the moody, self-centered sort the correspondent describes.

From medical literature and from correspondence with women readers I am convinced that most women today find the menopause is neither a "crisis" nor an "ordeal."

I have left hot flashes until last so I can make a quick getaway, before nice kind ladies with hot flashes can buttonhole me and tell me the facts of life.

In the menopause pamphlet I mention two prophylactics against flashes: namely, sex hormones, natural or synthetic, administered by intra-muscle injection once or twice a week or in tablet form by mouth (which would be best is for your physician to determine); and lime eating.

Doctors should give greater attention to euthanasia. I have just watched a neighbor spend six years dying and he was a great burden and problem to his whole family and even his neighbors and friends. His folks have mortgaged their whole future financially.

This man was all gone mentally and physically but the doctors said his heart just kept beating although there were no other signs of life.

I don't think this follows the desires of the Lord and doctors face a stern duty and obligation that they shouldn't avoid. It's part of their jobs to humanity.

Many years ago in Toledo a woman lived three years after she was 80 without being conscious at all. The family went through a very hard experience and how about the expense? The medical profession should have background enough in cases like this to handle a mercy death in the best interests of humanity.

'Voters Should Read Article on Schools'

If you live in Waterford and are planning to vote for the special school election to be held March 3rd, may I urge you to read an article in the February issue of a national digest magazine entitled, "How to Have More Schools for Less Money." We're constantly being reminded that our school enrollment is increasing. Isn't it also true that nearly every new pupil means a new taxpayer in our midst?

Income Tax Notes

PERSONAL EXEMPTIONS

You as a taxpayer are allowed a personal exemption of $600. In addition, if you are 65 or over by the end of the year, you are entitled to another $600 exemption.

An additional exemption of $600 for blindness is also allowed. It would be possible for an individual to have personal exemptions totaling $1,800.

If you file a joint return, your wife could also claim any of the above exemptions to which she is entitled.

If you file a separate return, you may claim the exemptions for your wife if she has no gross income. If your wife has gross income, you may claim her exemptions only if she files a joint return with you.

If your wife is the dependent of another, you may not claim her exemptions.

A husband or wife cannot be claimed as a "dependent." So there is a difference between personal exemptions and dependency exemptions.

You are entitled to the full exemptions even if your spouse died before the end of the year. This applies as long as the conditions qualifying the exemption existed at date of death.

Read the instruction book to determine whether or not you qualify for these exemptions. If there is still a question, telephone your local Internal Revenue Service office for the answer.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Lasting Love Has to Be Earned

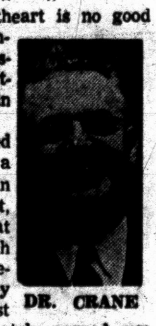

Donna's case hits home with millions of you readers, so scrapbook it for local use or mail it to some relative who is in the same boat. One of the best ways to prevent divorce is to use your head during your romance. Don't let unwise emotions mutiny against Captain Brain! Grit your teeth and sail toward a logical goal in spite of your breaking heart.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE A-468: Donna D., aged 23, is the victim of a love-at-first sight affair.

But her sweetheart is no good and she'd undoubtedly be miserable and deserted by him within a few months.

DR. CRANE

So I explained that the reason a person falls in love at first sight, is the fact that the object of such love usually resembles somebody else in the past who has legitimately earned our affection.

In Donna's case, for example, she had been very devoted to an only brother, who died in an airplane crash in the Korean War.

She had idolized this older brother. And he had been very good to Donna.

Joe, the new suitor, simply resembled this brother who had actually merited affections by earning them with his thoughtfulness.

Joe had earned none of her regard. But because he vaguely resembled her dead brother, he "triggered" the pent-up love and affection which Donna had filed away in her memory regarding her brother.

This is the usual explanation of love at first sight, for actually we cannot fall in love at once with a totally strange or meaningless object or person.

Sometimes love at first sight turns out wonderfully, especially if you meet a moral person of wonderful personality, as I did when I was bewitched by my first sight of Mrs. Crane.

But that is a matter of chance, so love at first sight is a dangerous type of romance.

The "earned" love affair, built up through many months of casual dating, is far safer and less likely to end in devorce.

BREAK ROMANCE

After explaining the mechanics of her apparent love for Joe, I also told Donna that she was casting the proxy votes of her future unborn children when she picked their father.

"Do you really think Joe would be the type of man of whom your children would be proud?" I bluntly asked.

She just shook her head, with tears in her eyes.

"Then you must let your head rule your heart," I warned, "and don't get the notion you will never fall in love but once."

Finally, I showed Donna that emotions may be duplicated many times. We thus can be angry or grief-stricken or frightened or in love several times during our life span.

"Oh, Dr. Crane," Donna protested, "I just KNOW. I could never love anybody else."

"Donna, you FEEL that way now but you are wrong in saying you KNOW you never could be in love again.

"For you have seen many girls marry and lose their mates by death, yet those same widows remarried and were very happy with their second husband.

"So you actually KNOW it is possible to be ideally happy in a second romance. It may take months, but you can work your way out of this mad infatuation.

"Happy marriage is not based solely on the butterflies in your stomach or the other thrills and chills your suitor produces.

"You must look ahead and pick shrewdly. So rate Joe on these 'Tests for Sweethearts' and tell me your results."

Donna did so and 30 minutes later handed me her report. By her own admission, Joe rated "Very Poor." And she was a prejudiced judge.

"Dr. Crane, I can't give him up, though," she moaned, and started crying. "So what can I do?" (See tomorrow's follow-up).

Does Anybody Remember Self-Reliance?

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—What ever became of self-reliance?

It used to be the mark of most Americans. They took care of themselves, their families—young and old—and their own futures.

They went to work with the idea of getting ahead, maybe dreaming of being their own boss, risky as that might be.

Now the emphasis seems to have swung to something called security.

Many employers complain that when they interview a job applicant today the talk switches at once to what kind of a pension plan the company has. The job seeker mentally figures how that will supplement the social security he'll collect from the government.

The would-be employe also asks about the company's policies on severance pay and unemployment benefits, health insurance, sick pay and many other fringe benefits.

But business itself is just as busy chasing security.

Government subsidies aimed at insuring the security of various groups or industries take many forms.

There is the familiar cry of the railroads that the airlines benefit from postal subsidies and from use of airport facilities built at taxpayers' expense; and that trucks use highways also provided by tax money.

Security on the farm is a political issue. The farmer can't be made secure from the weather's onslaughts — droughts, floods, dust storms. But in many cases he can be sure that the price of what he does raise will be supported by the government, and that in some cases he'll be paid by the soil bank for NOT raising anything.

Industry turns to government for many kinds of security against the perils of foreign, or even domestic competition. Government stockpiling has been used to furnish markets for, and support prices of, various metals and other materials.

Pump priming in recessions is expected by many businessmen. The government hands out orders for their products, launches big construction projects, buys military supplies with a lavish hand. It makes credit easy for them if they want to expand, or gives them tax allowances.

Small business looks to government to make credit available on favorable terms and to watch constantly lest big business get too big—and to remember them particularly when government orders are handed out.

Critics of fair trade laws contend they tend to make manufacturing profits secure at the expense of the consumer. Charges of security at the expense of competition also have been made in such controversial things as laws aimed against chain stores or branch banking.

Security extends right into the home, also. Opponents of public housing contend that at the expense of the taxpayer some citizens are guaranteed cheap rent—something that other citizens can't find.

Government guarantees of home mortgages and attempts to fix the interest charges on them have made it possible for many Americans to buy their own homes "just like paying rent". A very good thing, NO doubt — but also part of the modern cult of security.

Ticketed Judge Claims Police Falsified Data

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A judge long known for cracking down on traffic offenders has received a speeding ticket — and it doesn't sit at all well with him.

"In 12 years on the bench," Superior Court Judge Roger A. Pfaff says angrily, "I've been accepting the word of police officers. Now I'm shocked that any of them would so falsify a citation."

Two policemen cited him for going 45 in a 25 m.p.h. zone. He passed them, he said Monday, doing between 30 and 35.

He knows, he says, because his son and two other teenage boys all were watching the speedometer closely after asking him: "Gee, are you going around a police car?'

"Sure," he told them, "there's no law against that."

His Pleasant Evening Becomes Big Loss

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The blind date, met by telephone, was delighted when Robert Wood, 29, suggested a drive-in movie.

She seemed pleased, too, when he went after refreshments, leaving her alone in his late-model car.

But for Wood, a service station attendant, the evening suddenly took a dismal turn. Missing along with the brunette, when he returned, was his car.

Chief's Slayer Kills Himself

Uses Gun as Police Close In on Hiding Spot at Sister's Home

LEAKSVILLE, N.C. (AP)—The slayer of a West Virginia police chief took his own life when officers trapped him in his sister's home Monday night.

Douglas Barker, a mental patient sought for the murder of Police Chief Amos Morris of Mannington, W.Va., was hiding in the kitchen pantry when police approached the house. Barker, 28, shot himself twice before they could reach him.

Mack Brysnt, assistant police chief at nearby Spray, said he had been tipped Barker was spotted entering the house.

Barker had been sought in several eastern states since the officer's body was found last Saturday. Morris, shot five times, had been dropped over a 20-foot embankment off U.S. 250 near Mannington.

A runaway girl from Erie, Michigan, who was with Barker at the time of the shooting is being held at Fairmont, W.Va., Juvenile Detention home. The girl, Nancy Jean Sedlock, 16, said she was forced to accompany Barker when he killed the officer. She gave authorities this account:

Morris had picked up the two and asked Fairmont officers by radio if there was a wanted message out for the girl.

As the cruiser neared Fairmont, Barker pulled out a gun. Morris, who was not armed, pleaded with Barker to put the weapon away.

But Barker shot Morris three times, dumped the body out of the car and fired twice more.

The girl said she escaped from Barker near Frederick, Md., Saturday night. She told police there was a man with Barker at the time, also a hostage.

Barker, according to his father, Swanson Barker, of Lynchburg, Va., had been released recently from a North Carolina mental hospital. The elder Barker said he had seen his son briefly in Lynchburg Saturday night.

The United States holds joint trusteeship with Britain of several islands in the Pacific including Canton, Endebury and Christmas Islands.

Billy Graham Relaxes by Playing Golf

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP)—Taking a brief rest halfway through his Melbourne crusade, Billy Graham spent the day golfing. The American evangelist went to the beach Monday.

Graham resumes his sermons tonight, preaching for the first time at the Melbourne Show Grounds. His doctors have ordered him to take it easy, with only one crusade meeting daily, because of the recurrence of the eye ailment which delayed his arrival in Australia.

Crusade officials consider the move to the show grounds the big test of Graham's impact on Melbourne. The new location is four miles from the center of the city; the Music Bowl where he has been drawing huge crowds is in the heart of the city.

* * *

The Melbourne crusade ends March 15. Graham then goes to Tasmania to preach for two days, takes a two-week holiday, and then holds crusades in New Zealand and Sydney.

Charged With Hillsdale Murder

Berkley Youth on Trial

HILLSDALE (UPI) — Patrick Flannery, 18, Berkley, was scheduled to stand trial today on charges of killing his Hillsdale college roommate.

Flannery was charged with beating Thomas Nietling to death with the stock of a shotgun Nov. 26.

His trial originally was scheduled for Feb. 3 but was postponed by Judge Charles O. Arch to give Flannery's attorney, William Raegan, time to have the youth examined at the University of Michigan hospital for a possible tumor or brain disease.

Raegan said he planned to base his defense on grounds that Flannery was insane at the time of the killing.

Flannery, son of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick C. Flannery of 995 Oxford St., has been held without bond in Hillsdale County jail since his surrender.

He walked into the First Precinct police headquarters in Detroit shortly after Nietling's body was found and confessed he had beaten his roommate to death while Nietling slept in the room they shared above a Hillsdale restaurant.

Nietling's body was found by the proprietor of the restaurant when he went upstairs to determine why the boys had not gotten up to attend classes.

Two holes in the back of Nietling's head first led police to believe he had been shot to death but a coroner's report after Flannery confessed showed the holes were caused by a beating.

Detroit to Whip Officers in Line

Crackdown Threatened to Halt Slowdown Over Integration Order

DETROIT (AP) —Top Detroit police brass held to plans to integrate the force's scout car system today despite an officers' slowdown strike on handing out traffic tickets.

Commissioner Herbert W. Hart threatened a crackdown if the rebellion continued. He said any officers neglectful of duty would be suspended.

An undetermined number of scout car police, presumably unhappy over plans to put Negro and white officers in the same cars, slowed up in their issuing of tickets for minor traffic violations.

Besides arousing City Council concern, the incident also came to the attention of the state Legislature at Lansing.

Democratic Sen. Basil W. Brown, a Detroiter and only Negro member of the Senate, demanded an investigation by the state. He charged that certain policemen were shirking their duty.

Specifically, Brown complained about a slowdown on ticketing motorists lacking new 1959 license plates.

A secret meeting of white officers reportedly drew up plans for the slowdown at a meeting last week.

At one precinct station a 30-day pilot study of an integrated scout car system has been started. Both Negro and white officers are assigned to the cars. Ultimately, the same arrangement is to apply to the entire scout car system.

Individual City Council members called informally for disciplinary action against any offending officers. The Council took no official action, however.

Yankus Squares With Uncle Sam

Defiant Cass County Farmer Pays Fines for Excess Crop Growing

DOWAGIAC (AP)—Farmer Stanley Yankus is all square with the U.S. government now—$3,370.56 worth.

The Cass County poultry raiser, who has fought the government's wheat control program, mailed a check for that sum yesterday in paying off penalties since 1954 for his excess crop growing.

Yankus, who says he intends to sell his 100-acre farm and migrate to Australia with his family of four, vowed he would do it all over again if the situation were to repeat itself.

"I've got two strong hands and a mind. I made good once and I can again," he said.

Claiming he grew wheat only to feed to his chickens, Yankus charged the government violated his constitutional rights by fining him for over-production.

He repeated his stand in a letter with his check sent to U.S. Attorney Wendell Miles at Grand Rapids.

Miles made public a letter dated Feb. 25 to Yankus in which he expressed regret over the farmer's decision to leave America.

"There is still quite a bit of freedom left in this country," Miles said. "I am genuinely sorry to hear of your departure. You and I both fought under the American flag on foreign soil in World War II. We should continue to live under it now."

However, the letter also had a tone of reproof.

Miles, while noting he concurred with views that there are too many restrictions on farmers, said Yankus never took part in acreage hearings, never asked review of his case by the Agricultural Stabilization Commission, and ignored requests to appear to answer government pleadings.

The government lawyer also noted that the Supreme Court has upheld on "several occasions" the act under which the wheat program is carried out.

White Lake Votes Student Transfer

WHITE LAKE TOWNSHIP—An overwhelming majority of voters yesterday approved a proposition that ninth-grade students in Dublin School District No. 7 of White Lake Township shall attend a Walled Lake Consolidated District school beginning next September.

The final results, as announced by Philip McCullough, secretary of the Dublin Board of Education, showed that the proposition carried by a 113-18 margin.

The special election was held at Dublin School and attracted only a small percentage of eligible voters.

Under the new setup, Dublin School District No. 7 will pay tution for ninth graders to attend the new junior high school to be opened by the Walled Lake District next fall. The school will be located on Commerce road, across from the Edgewood Golf Club.

Nelson O'Shaughnessy, Dublin School superintendent, said that 55 Dublin students will attend a Walled Lake District school next fall, "thus alleviating an overcrowded condition in the Dublin Junior High School."

O'Shaughnessy pointed out that the ninth-graders will be offered a wider range of subjects in the Walled Lake District School than was possible here.

Innocent Plea Entered in Area Shooting Feb. 15

A plea of innocent was entered yesterday for Elmo Marshall, 47-year-old Commerce Township man accused of the careless use of firearms in the Feb. 15 non-fatal shooting of his wife.

When Marshall, of 1841 Point Dr., appeared before Oakland County Circuit Judge H. Russel Holland for arraignment on the firearms charge, his attorney, Birnard Girard, said his client desired to stand mute. The plea of innocent was entered then by Judge Holland.

Girard also asked that Marshall, just recently released from the hospital after swallowing an overdose of medicine for a heart condition at the time of the shooting, be remanded back for pretrial examination before West Bloomfield Township Justice Elmer C. Dieterle. Marshall Saturday waived examination.

Marshall's wife, Mable, 44, was reported showing improvement at Pontiac General Hospital with a bullet wound of the abdomen. Marshall is free on a $1,000 bond.

Two Proposals Involving a 7-Mill Increase Go Down to Defeat

ROYAL OAK — School district voters here yesterday refused two proposals to raise the school tax.

The second proposal asked for two additional mills for the next five years toward construction of new schools, renovation of existing schools, improving health and safety facilities, acquiring sites and furnishing and equipping schools.

It received 8,899 "no" votes and 5,756 "yes" votes.

Nautilus Skipper Lauds Product of Holly Man

HOLLY — Local inventor and manufacturer Fred D. Barton has been commended for his product "Bar's Leaks" which played an important role in enabling the U. S. Navy's nuclear submarine Nautilus to complete its journey safely under the North Pole ice cap.

The high praise came in the best-selling book, "Nautilus 90 North," written by the submarine's skipper, Cmdr. William R. Anderson.

He wrote that on the suggestion of a seaman Bar's Leaks was used to seal a leak in the steam propulsion plant of the $100,000,000 submarine, enabling the Nautilus to complete its history-making, under-ice voyage without delay.

The leak sealer is marketed primarily for use on automobile cooling systems. But it has been used successfully on several major construction jobs.

2 Burglary Suspects Waive Examination

Two burglary suspects arrested Sunday night by Pontiac police waived examination yesterday before Municipal Court Judge Maurice E. Finnegan.

Leo Russell Van Loven, 18, of 83 Union St., and Larry W. McCray, 19, of 180 Norton St., were bound over to Oakland County Circuit Court for arraignment March 9.

McCray originally told police his address was 330 Shadywood St., Rochester, but under questioning later admitted he had never lived there.

Impala Sport Coupe—like every Chevy—has Safety Plate Glass all around.

Chevy stops quickest ... goes farthest on a gallon!

Chevy showed the best brakes of the leading low-priced three in a test of repeated stops at highway speeds conducted and certified by NASCAR. Chevy also won over the other two in a NASCAR economy run—getting the most miles per gallon for 6's and V8's at normal cruising speeds of just over 55 miles an hour.*

Fresh as this car is to look at, it's inherited more than its share of those long familiar Chevrolet traits—economy and dependability.

It's a car that knows how to get the most out of a gallon. And it's the only car in its field to bring you hydraulic valve lifters in all popular engines—6 and V8. This mark of a modern engine means smoother, quieter performance for you.

There are many other advances just as fundamental as the efficiency of Chevrolet's engines and the dependability of its new brakes (with more lining area than any other low-priced car). But why not stop at your dealer's and let Chevy do its own sweet talking!

Ike's Inner Circle Tired of Each Other

(There have been sporadic reports of developing differences within President Eisenhower's official family, bickering among his White House associates. Here is an authoritative reading of the current mood at 1600 Pennsylvania Ave. by Merriman Smith who has been covering the White House for 18 years.)

By MERRIMAN SMITH
UPI White House Reporter

WASHINGTON—There comes a time in the life of any President's staff when members of the inner circle get a little tired of each other.

They would be less than human if this did not happen, living, working, eating and playing together as they do over a period of years.

This seems to have happened to some of the people around President Eisenhower—just as it did in the Roosevelt, Truman and a lot of other administrations.

Bickering, differences, disagreements frequently are personal in their inception. Sometimes they blossom into red-faced stubbornness affecting major policy, but not often.

Basically, members of the Eisenhower staff present a strong outer wall. Let an outsider criticize any one of them, and they rise to his or her defense with uniform fervor. But away from the public, they can be quite snippish about each other. Against the background of the President's great emphasis on team play, little spats sometimes seem much larger when they seep out.

Externally, at least, it seems today to take more time to reach a decision at the White House than it did a year or two ago. And behind the scenes, some of the upper echelon staff members differ strongly on policies and plans.

Part of this is due to the switch from the firm, sometimes harsh control exercised by Sherman Adams as the President's chief assistant, to the more affable, easy-going approach of his successor, Wilton B. Persons. He believes in "getting along" with people, particularly congressmen and senators, whenever possible and in greater distribution of responsibility than did Adams.

Some of the differences within the Eisenhower staff must be charged to the simple fact that they have been cooped up together for going on seven years.

This may not seem unusual to other office workers or business executives, but the White House is somewhat unique. For one thing, the hours are brutally long. On most days, the top staff members cannot get out to lunch. They eat together in a crowded staff dining room in the basement, or grab a sandwich in the office.

When the President is away for any length of time, the staff members live next door to each other in hotels or military quarters. Frequently they set up their typewriters, file cabinets, desks and telephones right in the same room where they sleep. They are without the large supporting clerical staff back in Washington.

And after one of these trips, they come home to the irritating reward of being asked, "How was the vacation?" The President may have played a lot of golf, but for the most part, his staff worked.

An appreciable measure of personal vanity usually is present in a White House staff. This condition has a tendency to intensify the longer an administration remains in office. Even the file clerks carry a bit of the presidency around with them.

Two high staff assistants work for days on a particularly important statement of policy, then, inadvertently, one gets all the public credit. One administrative assistant gets in to see the President; another one asks, and is put off. Such are the seeds of dissension.

Proximility to the President frequently is a source of contention. The lower staff levels maneuver constantly for some excuse to communicate with the President directly; the upper levels try just as hard to see that this doesn't happen in order to save his time for things more important.

Also, in the waning days of a national administration, the participants closest to the outgoing President know they are outgoing too. They cannot help being fretful about their future. Conscience precludes most of them from quitting while the quitting is good. The mechanics of administration also dampen tendencies to jump on other political bandwagons until close to the end.

There have been reports that some of the Eisenhower staff has begun to shift or lean toward either Vice President Richard M. Nixon or New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller for 1960. To be sure, there are personal preferences at this early date, but hardly of a nature to influence Eisenhower's action one way or another.

The situation may change later, but there seems to be no evidence now of activity within the White House clearly motivated by a personal preference for 1960. In fact, one of the 1960 GOP hopefuls recently tried to enlist a top Eisenhower aide for an immediate political assignment. He got turned down flat. The staff member involved said the same answer would go to any other GOP aspirant—now.

Obviously there will be plenty of time to choose sides next year. One aspect of 1960 which may be overlooked: The chances are slim that either Nixon or Rockefeller, if elected to the White House, would retain much, if any, of the upper Eisenhower staff. Politicians have their own crowd to carry along. A few more or less career holdovers usually survive in the White House, but for the most part, new presidents are like new brooms—they sweep clean.

And what of the President, himself, in this era? There have been reports of increasing irritability, pounding the table, chewing out certain associates in old Army style.

He still blows up occasionally, always has. This reporter, however, found no evidence of an appreciable or recent change in Eisenhower's temper.

True, he is going beyond the monumental issues and dipping into many more relatively smaller matters than he did when Adams was around. Purely as a matter of mathematics, this gives him more opportunity to criticize—and approve.

Eisenhower certainly is more tolerant of imperfection than he was as a military man. The general who could—and did—"bust" brother officers and former classmates would not do the same thing today as President. He's no head chopper. He dislikes hearing that he handled a domestic matter "like a general."

Yet, among his severest critics today are some of his former comrades in arms. There are men high in the armed services who complain bitterly, but privately, that their former commander does not obliterate obstacles to their concept of the strongest defenses.

As for differences within his staff, not many of them get to him for adjudication. He knows that differences and disagreements do exist. He doesn't hear too much about the pettier bickering.

But as to differences of opinion, he would be surprised if it were otherwise in the White House. He does not regard the situation as unhealthy. This is why he was astonished recently when a reporter suggested that he should stop the armed service commanders from disagreeing with certain aspects of his defense budget.

An old man was ordered by his doctor to cut down on his drinking because it might affect his hearing. He refused, explaining, "I like what I drink better than what I hear" . . . The best way to win an argument with a woman is to be on her side. —Earl Wilson.

Ad Men of Today in Complex Business

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK—A man in the advertising business (colloq: huckster) is alleged to have ulcers, a three-martini minimum at lunch, and morals to match his gray flannel suit. As movies and novels depict him, he is a yes-man who cuts throats out of fright or spite. His object in a short, frantic life is to booze himself and bamboozle the public.

"He is, the myth says, a bum. But let me tell you—the biggest men in this country, politically, financially, socially and artistically, depend for business decisions on these so-called alcoholic bums."

It is an agency man speaking. Name of James B. Briggs. Mr. Briggs, at 36, is executivee vice president, director and major stockholder in Erwin Wasey, Ruthrauff & Ryan, 13th largest agency in the U. S., and he isn't mad at anybody. Just wants to set the record straight as he sees it.

"The agency business attracts the type of people who'd have ulcers if they were driving a milk wagon," he says. "They're creative guys, like people in the entertainment business. Colorful, expressive people, something of dreamers — sometimes not too stable.

"But the legends in books and movies are about the agency business 20 years ago. The pioneers in this business were hard-drinkin' creative fellas. What'd they have to turn out? Maybe a one-minute radio commercial. They could get a whisky bottle, and a couple of girls, and hole themselves up in a hotel room for an hour while they wrote it. Easy."

Today advertising is complex and competitive. There are thousands of agencies, millions of clients, "with people on both sides of the fence trying to justify themselves."

As a result, Briggs says, "I know more agency teetotalers than drinkers. Call them business teetotalers. They're probably Saturday night drunks, like everybody else, but that's their business.

"Most of the people in our office have sandwiches brought in at noon. Saves time for more talking. You spend more time talkin' than you do workin' in this business anyway.

Are they cut-throats? Briggs pauses long before answering.

"It's a matter of degree. I suppose if you win a decision on a clever maneuver, it's brilliance. But the guy who lost can always figure his throat was cut."

Jim Briggs got in the business 10 years ago. He started in Philadelphia, on his own; his first account: "The Diaper Service Institute." Now he commutes daily from his Philadelphia mansion, a matter of almost six hours' travel a day. At home are his wife, five children, assorted canine "pensioners" and peace.

On business trips he flies his own plane, and on weekends he breeds and races Siberian huskies, shoots quail or sails his own boat. He's "loaded," but only with creative ideas and money.

Between Jim Briggs and the advertising business there is a reasonable affection. "I like my work. At a given age, with less training, you can make more money in advertising than in any other business that is legal."

Nevertheless, he will retire at the age of 50. "I don't care if we get the Procter & Gamble account in 1973—I'm backing out. There are so many other things I'm interested in, too."

One thing about the industry bugs Briggs. It's the "little Mr. Bright-Eyes" from the agency who acts like an oracle in the presence of the client.

"A guy's been making fountain pens all his lifetime. Then an agency man comes in and tells him how to run his business. Hooey. We can give him nothing but ideas, ideas to help his pens sell.

"I don't know of a guy in the agency business who's written a Dead Sea Scroll. Why do some of them act like it?"

MSU Senior Named Envoy to U.S.S.R.

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—A Michigan State University senior from Grand Rapids Monday was named the first community ambassador from the United States to Russia.

Miss Suzanne Leslie, 21, leaves next summer on the project sponsored by the Council on World Affairs. She was a member of the first teenagers abroad program of the council in 1956.

Miss Mary Lu Cook, 24, was named community ambassador to Israel, according to Donald VanderMey, chairman of the community ambassador project for the Grand Rapids council.

Lana Turner Quits 'Anatomy of Murder'

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — A dispute between Lana Turner and Director Otto Preminger has caused the actress to withdraw from a choice role in Preminger's movie, "The Anatomy of a Murder."

Miss Turner said Monday night she was withdrawing because of Preminger's temper. But the director-producer said the dispute was over costumes she was to wear in the movie.

Shooting is scheduled to begin March 23 and Preminger says there will be no delay. "I'll take an unknown for the part and make her into another Lana Turner," he said.

'Ham' Operator Teaches Lore

Lakes Sailor Tells 5th Grade Students About Legend Seamanship

SAGINAW (AP) — Fifth grade pupils at Saginaw's Webber School are learning Great Lakes seamanship and lore via shortwave radio.

Richard V. Miller, a woodshop instructor at the school, is a shortwave radio "ham." He has his station W8WXE set up in his classroom.

Students and Miller regularly converse with Leon W. Stuber, also an amateur radio operator, and first assistant engineer for Pittsburgh Steamship Division of U. S. Steel Co. Stuber operates station W8PJH aboard his ship.

Stuber answers fifth graders' questions about Great Lakes ships. He has held his ship-to-shore classroom sessions since the fall of 1957.

Recently Stuber put in his first appearance at Webber School. He was swamped with questions which students had stored up since their last radio instruction.

The novel ship-to-shore instruction has been enthusiastically received. Originally only pupils in Mrs. Elfemia Evert's class participated. Now students in Mrs. Betty Gimensky's second grade class are sharing benefits.

Stuber became a Webber "teacher" as a result of a vacation trip Miller took in 1957. He was driving through the Upper Peninsula near Iron Mountain and tuning in the amateur set in his car when he picked up Stuber's voice.

The two "hams" had never met, but did shortly after. Stuber and his wife invited the Millers to visit them in Duluth and see the ship.

Stuber has been sailing the Great Lakes for 20 years. His connection with education isn't limited to Webber School. He also has radio schools in Rhinelander, Wis. and this winter, with lake fleets tied up, he is teaching engineering courses at a Cleveland school operated by the Lakes Carrier Assn.

Jerry Lee Lewis Names His Son for Steve Allen

FERRIDAY, La. (AP) — Singer Jerry Lee Lewis' 5-day-old son has been named Steve Allen Lewis in honor of the television star.

Lewis said Monday that Allen helped his career actually and by inspiration.

Steve was born in a Ferriday hospital Thursday. Lewis' 14-year-old wife, his cousin Myra, had watched her husband perform the night before in Baton Rouge. They raced back to Ferriday so their child could be born in her home town.

Lewis' marriage, his second, made headlines in London last year after authorities there objected to her youth.

Free Flow of News Said Way to Peace

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — The free flow of news between nations marks the way to peace.

That was the point speakers at the World Press Congress hammered home today. They said both censorship and propaganda have been used to block understanding between people and nations.

Aryeh Dissentshik, editor of Marriv at Tel Aviv in Israel, put it like this: "I am sure that a free flow of news across war torn borders in the Middle East would contribute much to the promotion of peace. The flow of propaganda-infected news is a decisive factor in the perpetuation of enmity and hatred."

He said a better and healthier atmosphere would be created if well-backgrounded news enabled the peoples to understand each other more fully.

Marshall's Condition Continues Serious

FT. BRAGG, N.C. (AP)—Gen. George C. Marshall continued in serious condition today.

A late medical report said there was no change from Monday when Marshall, 78, was described as being "a little more alert" but still seriously ill.

Paris Goes 'Sane' for Spring

For the first time in years, Paris is free of freaks in fashion. The new fashions do not represent a "line" of any kind. They are simply designed to make the most of a woman's figure.

The waistline is back where it should be, at the normal level and skirts are still short but well below the knee.

A look of the 1930s is noticeable in these new clothes from Paris. It is a look of elegance, understated and restrained. In suits, it's interpreted with a slightly mannish air and with long, slim jackets. Many of these new suits have a three-button closing.

For evening, skirt lengths may be anywhere from daytime length to ankle length and longer, that is, trailing. The three models shown below point up the outstanding fashion feature for spring 1959—clothes that are pretty again. Once more it's smart to be feminine.

Headliners in Paris' spring fashion parade are, left to right, above: summer party dress by Michel Goma in pale blue and beige dacron and cotton fabric. This is a teenage fashion done with long-waisted silhouette, high square neck and slim elbow sleeves. The new length covers the knee and stops short at the top of the calf. From Christian Dior comes this floor-length evening dress in violet nylon tulle embroidered in Parma violet and silver thread with sparkling silver sequins. The bodice is caught at the waist with a narrow lilac satin ribbon belt. There are two underlayers of pink nylon tulle, also embroidered, to add depth and sparkle. The cocktail dress, by Guy LaRoche, is in a slubbed fabric of ondule rayon and silk. It has a full, short skirt topped by a collarless bolero bodice which looks like a jacket but actually is one with the skirt. A band of fabric at the waist carries out the illusion. A happy note in most collections is the stress on femininity.

Soap 'n' Water Best for Skin

Most women with sparkling skin confess that soap and water are their best allies. How frequently we wash away a day's grime depends on whether the skin is oily or dry.

But, most women will be safe with a good soap and water cleansing in the morning and a good cream at night.

Arm of Coincidence Moves to Gather In Baby Sitters

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

"DEAR ABBY: I am the sitter who had her boy friend over while I was sitting. The neighbors said the lights went off when he came in and the minute the people drove up the lights were turned on again. This is a dirty lie! The lights were on almost all the time he was here. We turned a few lights off to watch television. And the reason he ran out the back door was because his hair needed combing and we couldn't find a comb."

ABBY

CINDY (Cleveland)

"DEAR ABBY: I am very glad that I do not have to worry about the neighbors who claimed they saw my boy friend going out the back door because when my people come home they always put their car in the garage behind the house and they come in the back door. So if I did have a boy friend visiting me he would have to go out through the front door or else he would bump into the people."

ANNE MARIE (Asheville, N. C.)

"DEAR ABBY: Would you please print this as soon as possible? Will the neighbors who witnessed the sitter's boy friend leaving hurriedly by the rear exit while we came in the front, please contact us with the facts? We have suspected that our sitter was entertaining her boy friend in our home for a long time but have never been able to prove it. Thank you."

MRS. G. G. F. (Beverly Hills, Calif.)

"DEAR ABBY: The people who live next door to the lady I sit for are trying to make trouble for me. My boy friend went out the back door because the lady who I sit for told me if I had company they would have to use the back door. My boy friend did not run out the back door—he was going anyway. DOTTIE (Duluth, Minn.)

"DEAR ABBY: My girl friend has not been asked to be a sitter since that letter showed up in your column telling about me visiting her on the job and leaving by the back door when the folks came home. I would like to say it was all my fault. I don't know why I ran. She asked me to stay and meet them. If the house looked dark it must have been because all the shades were drawn. The lights were on and we were listening to records and dancing. Honest.

DON (Houston, Texas)

"DEAR ABBY: When I read that item in your column about the sitter who hustled her boy friend out the back door when the husband and wife came home it started me to thinking. Which night was it and did the people live on Pacific street in San Fransciso.

"When my husband and I came home one Saturday night our sitter had the guiltiest expression on her face I have ever seen. So far none of our neighbors have mentioned a word to us about anything."

CURIOUS

DEAR CURIOUS: The long arm of coincidence has reached several thousands of miles. The guilty sitter lives in Elizabeth N. J.

"DEAR ABBY: I would like to tell my side of it. The reason my boy friend ran out the back door when the people came home was because he was too bashful to meet them. We weren't doing anything wrong. I wish the neighbors would mind their own business."

Homemaker May Not Be Good Wife

By RUTH MILLETT

It's easy for a woman to confuse being a good housewife with being a good wife.

But any man could tell her that there's a world of difference.

A good housewife keeps her home neat and tidy, cooks good and nourishing meals, manages money well, and is an efficient manager of her time and energy.

But many a woman who can claim to be a top-notch housewife is actually an indifferent wife.

She may lack the sympathetic understanding that her husband needs from her. She may be so lacking in gaiety and a sense of humor that life with her is real and earnest, but not much fun.

She may lack the tact needed to soothe a man's ego when he meets defeat.

She may be a dull companion. She may lack any interest in her husband's work — regarding it as nothing more than the way he earns his pay check.

She may be stand-offish so that his friends never feel really comfortable in their home.

She may be such a sticker for routine that she makes life boring for both of them.

She may be such a perfectionist that she's a shrew.

A good housewife can lack a lot of qualities that make a woman a good wife. But too many wives don't realize that.

They are perfectly sure that they are good wives because they meet all the requirements for a good housekeeper.

Don't Soak Knife

Here's a tip on the care of knives. Never soak them in hot water — because prolonged moisture will eventually warp and roughen wood handles. Instead, always wash knives quickly in hot soap or detergent suds and rinses, then wipe them dry at once.

Movie Stars Are Used to Publicity

By EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please settle an argument that has been going on between my husband and me ever since the other night when we went to a well-known supper club after the theater. Seated at a table next to ours was a very well known movie star, and incidentally, one of my favorites. Very quietly I leaned over and asked her if she would give me her autograph. She said she would be delighted.

"My husband thinks that it showed lack of manners on my part and said that I had embarrassed him by my behavior. I think a person in public life encounters this all the time and I certainly see nothing wrong in what I did. What is your opinion?"

Answer: That it embarrassed your husband is the only reason your asking for the autograph was wrong. The movie star is so accustomed to being asked for an autograph that I am sure she did not mind.

"Dear Mrs. Post: I teach in an elementary school where our principal encourages the children to answer him., 'Yes Sir' and 'No Sir' I agree with him in the feeling that this is good training. I also speak to him in that way especially when children are present.

"My girl friend teaches in the same school and says this is in bad taste. She claims that only servants use this term when speaking to their employers. Will you please clear this up for us?"

Answer: Your girl friend is mistaken. "Sir" is properly used in speaking to any older man whether he is your employer or not.

"Dear Mrs. Post: I have been seeing a boy quite steadily for the past three months and he has invited me to his house for Sunday dinner so that I may meet his parents. Will it be proper for me to go on his invitation alone and, if so, should I take a box of candy for his mother?"

Answer: It is very important that his mother send you a personal invitation either by telephone or a note. It is not at all expected that you take anything to her. In fact, it would be better not to.

To Benefit Friendship House

Jazz Jubilee Invades Washington

WASHINGTON (AP) — Official Washington, long attuned to the spoken political word as a kind of music, is trying its ear on some jazz.

Patrons of the Washington jazz jubilee include some names you wouldn't think of as cool cats:

Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Mrs. Richard M. Nixon, Mrs. Earl Warren, Mrs. John Foster Dulles, 22 ambassadors and their wives, seven Cabinet officers and their wives, the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and his wife, Speaker of the House Rayburn (D-Tex).

Washington's first jazz concert with such prominent backing is being arranged by a group of congressional wives raising money for Friendship House, a settlement house on Capitol Hill. The jubilee chairman is Mrs. Richard Bolling, wife of the Democratic representative from Missouri.

A band of jazz greats will shake the rafters of a Washington hotel ballroom on the night of March 16. What Mrs. Bolling calls "an uptown level" will be supplied by the Library of Congress and the National Gallery of Art.

Marshall Stearns, literature professor at Hunter College and writer on jazz, lectured on the subject at the art gallery Sunday. Monday, the Library of Congress opened an exhibit, "Seven Ages of Jazz," to trace its course from the early folk music to the Carnegie Hall.

Why a jazz jubilee in Washington?

"We wanted something new —the benefit circuit has been so overdone," Mrs. Bolling said. "The patrons aren't jazz buffs, but they're really glad to know what it's all about."

FEATURED PLAYERS

Dick Cary, pianist and arranger, got together the band. It will include Buck Clayton on trumpet, Willie and Lion Smith on piano, Pee Wee Russell on clarinet, Bud Freeman on saxophone and Jo Jones on drums.

They play traditional jazz, the kind which first built up such a big following overseas. To show how it has spread abroad, there will be the Japanese girl pianist, Toshiko. The featured singer will be Ernestine Adams.

Willis Conover, program conductor of the Voice of America's Music—USA, will be concert narrator.

"It just can't miss," said Mrs. Bolling, a fan ever since the family maid took her as a child to hear jazz.

Give Psychological Help

Many Women Wear Hair Pieces

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Most men would prefer not to become bald but I am sure that baldness does not have the psychological repercussion on them which loss of hair has on a woman. I suppose that one reason for this is that so many more men than women become bald. Then too a woman's hair is thought of as one of her greatest beauty assets. "Her crowning glory" always has been admired by men and is glorified in poetry novels and song.

When I talked with Doris Fleischer whose family has been pioneers and leaders in the field of extra hair pieces for four generations she touched on this problem with real feeling.

Miss Fleischer said "There is much more sparseness and even baldness among women than most people know and this has a devastating effect on the lives of many of them.

"No woman wants to lose her hair but actually this is one of the least physical lacks in that there is no pain and no crippling and her appearance easily can be remedied."

There are one and a half million women in the United States wearing what Doris called "problem hair pieces" or hair pieces which are really needed to cover sparse hair or even bald spots. Five hundred thousand of these wear complete wigs.

Besides the fashion angle Doris and her brother Paul work to combat the psychological fears which are produced by a steady increase to partial or complete baldness.

I was surprised to learn that many thousands of children have this difficulty due to accident, illness, brain surgery or deep burns. The Fleischers work with thousands of children sent to them by the New York City Department of Welfare and by Boards of Education and plastic surgeons throughout the country. Imagine what an awful effect loss of hair would have on a child's budding ego!

Doris and Paul also work with physicians of the Armed Forces in rehabilitating veterans who have lost all or part of their hair due to combat injury or nervous tensions.

The stigma has been taken out of wearing wigs because they now are fashionable and women wear them who do not need them.

Many women would be happier with a small "problem hair piece" to cover a sparse or bald spot. I was amazed a few weeks ago when a woman I have known for quite some time put her hand to her head and removed a portion of hair about three by two inches in size — which was not her own. She said "I had a burn and you never suspected that I wear a false hair piece did you?" I hadn't!

Doris Fleischer told me many heartwarming stories. She told me about husbands who have brought their timid wives in for help. I asked "How do the men really feel about this?" Doris said "The ones I have seen are disturbed only by their wives' distress."

I think this column illustrates the fact that there is almost always an answer today to any beauty problem.

Waterford Concert Ends Civic Music Season

By MARY L. LINDQUIST

The members of the audience privileged to attend the final concert of the season sponsored by the Waterford Township Civic Music Association were entertained Saturday evening with a concert paced as a miniature Broadway production.

The artists were Robert Goss, baritone, and his wife, Louise Whetzel. The concert included solos and duets costumed, choreographed, staged and tied together by action and conversation.

The artists chose the title, "Make a Show" for their concept of an informal concert. Their efforts did make a show indeed.

Both of these young artists are gifted with fine voices and dramatic ability and had no trouble holding the attention of the audience. Karlos Moser, Brazilian-born pianist and composer, served as a very capable accompanist for the concert.

The concert was divided into seven groups, each with a different type of repertoire. The opening group was "Operetta" in which a scene was portrayed in appropriate costumes. Numbers from different operettas were sung with dialogue spoken between to give a continuity to the scene as if it were an original libretto.

A favorite number from "Show Boat," "Make Believe," was sung as a duet for the opening number. The quality of the two singers' voices blended very well.

This concert served as a very happy finale to a most interesting season for the Civic Music Concerts. Members are looking forward to an equally fine season next year.

Save Old Gloves

A worn-out glove is pretty hopeless unless it is only the seam that's open. When the fingers wear, retire the pair to the kitchen work or for use under rubber gloves when floor scrubbing. With the fingers cut off, they are good for gardening.

Those stretch gloves come in black satin now and have added glamour in the way of rhinestone trim.

You'll find many brilliant fake gems in flower form this spring. Not costly, they look very much like the real thing.

BY BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

LAKELAND, Fla.—If Eddie Yost gets to play a full schedule at third base for the Tigers, he feels he can be a big help to Detroit with just a .240 batting average.

Inasmuch as he hit an anemic .224 with the Senators last year and Reno Bertoia, the player he replaced at the Detroit hot corner, hit only .233 for the Tigers, his batting goal does not stir the imagination as anything spectacular.

But as a leadoff batter, having Yost hit .240 could mean additional 25 or 50 runs for the Tigers for the season and also pick up a few more of those one-run games. Last year Detroit won 15 and lost 30 by one run.

One of the big objectives for a leadoff man is to get on base as much as possible. By hitting .240, Yost expects to get 140 hits. Add to this another 135 walks and getting hit by 10 pitched balls and he can get himself on the base paths 285 times.

Yost wouldn't have to stretch his imagination to do this. He has led the American League in walks on several occasions. In 1950 even though he hit .295, he got on base 320 times. He drew 141 walks that year.

In 1956 he hit only .231 but he got on base 280 times, including 151 walks.

"I'm sure to get hit about 10 times this year," said Yost, who is one of the most feared leadoff men in either league despite his average.

By getting on base 280 times means he gets to first slightly better than 50 per cent or at least once out of every two times up.

The Yanks with their big cleanup bats realized this a long time ago when they tried to get Yost.

Another statistic that favors Yost is the fact that among active players he ranks second in leadoff homers. He has hit 17 in his first trip to the plate.

Hank Bauer of the Yanks has 18 to his credit, and in history of baseball only Eddie Joost has had more leadoff homers with 19 between 1948-53.

Yost hopes to pass Joost's mark and also Bauer's. The facts about Yost's home run record are quite unusual.

Through 1955 he had hit 73 homers on the road and only seven in his home field at Griffith Stadium. When the new seats were added in left field of the Senator park, his home total picked up the last couple years.

He now has 101 to his credit in 12 years, 78 of which have been on the road. Best homer seasons were in 1951 and 1952. He hit 12 each of those years and only one was before the home fans.

Fenway Park has been his favorite place. He has hit 17 there.

The Tigers are hoping Yost can help in another way. He was the league's best defensive third baseman last year with a .964 mark.

So they figure Yost can save a couple games with his fielding, and if he does get on base 280 times then it will be up to middle-lineup batters like Harvey Kuenn, Al Kaline or Charley Maxwell to give him a ride all the way home.

This could help the RBI production of these Tigers, but Yost could turn out to be the big man even with a timid .240 average.

Miss Taking ABC Lead by 59 Pins

Buds 2nd to Detroiters

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI)—Don Carter and Dick Weber will carry the main hopes of the St. Louis Budweisers into singles and doubles play today at the American Bowling Congress Tournament.

Carter was the big gun last night as the Budweisers, the National Match Game team champions, made a valiant run at the record 3,243 scored last week by the Pfeiffers of Detroit.

Carter led the St. Louisans to a 3,185 series, 59 pins short of first place, with a 674 series. Weber came through with 662.

The Budweiser team total put them in the runnerup spot with a healthy 121-pin bulge over the third place S and Z Tool and Die Co., Cleveland, with 3,064.

Bill Lillard was third in the Budweiser scoring parade with 622, Ray Bluth had 620 and Tommy Hennessey was low with 607.

Opening with a 1,046, the Budweisers slipped to 990 in the second game and appeared out of the running. But they came roaring back in the third game with 1,149 and as late as the eighth frame had an outside chance to grab the lead.

Ironically, Carter was low man in the final splurge, scoring 203. Lillard had 244, Bluth 243 Weber 233 and Hennessey 226 in the stretch run. The 1,149 game was the seventh highest single team game ever rolled in an ABC tourney, while the 3,185 total was the ninth highest in the 56-year history of the event.

Carter's other games were 256 and 215. A 7-10 split late in the third game kept him from a 700 series and a running start at Ed Lubanksi's leading 2,116 all-events series.

Bob Pettit Has to Average 13 for NBA Record

NEW YORK (AP)—Bob Pettit of the St. Louis Hawks needs only a 13-point average in his six remaining games to establish a National Basketball Assn. scoring record.

The Bayou Bombardier, who was drafted by the Hawks after winning All-America honors at LSU, is within 78 points of George Yardley's standard of 2,001. Yardley, now playing for Syracuse, set the mark at Detroit last season.

Pettit has amassed 1,924 points, an average of 29.2 points a game. If he maintains that average, he will eclipse the record set by the great George Mikan, who in 1950-51 tossed in 28.4 a contest.

Northern Trips Alma as NAIA Qualifier

ALMA, Mich. (AP) — Northern Michigan, eliminated in the first round last year, is getting a second shot at the National Assn. of Intercollegiate Athletics basketball title.

Northern, defending state champion, qualified for next week's NAIA tourney in Kansas City by overcoming Alma last night 74-62 in the Michigan district playoff.

Crack free throw shooting pulled Northern through. The Marquette team, outscored 25-21 on field goals, sank 32 of 40 free throws.

Ferris Saxton of Alma led individual scoring with 25 points. Dave Ghiardi and Bob Pearce of Northern got 19 each. Northern led at the half 34-30, staying ahead of the Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Assn. representative all the way.

Last place Winona State closed out its Northern State Conference season last night with a new home court basketball scoring record in turning back Michigan Tech 108-80.

Wehmeier Gets 'Take It Easy' Order From Boss

LAKELAND, Fla. — Veteran pitcher Herman Wehmeier got a "take it easy" order from Detroit Tiger management Monday in his comeback from his arm operation last fall.

The big right-hander whom the Tigers bought from the St. Louis Cardinals last spring was a 1958 flop because of the arm trouble. He was put on the disabled list and had an operation for removal of calcium from his elbow.

Manager Bill Norman said he would be cautious with Herman in an effort to make sure he'd come back as a competent relief man.

Tall Pitcher and Cerv Head Holdouts

Bosox May Land Conley

United Press International

The Milwaukee Braves evidently are fed up with Gene Conley and are getting ready to trade the string-bean pitcher to the first serious bidder.

These facts became evident yesterday when Birdie Tebbetts, executive vice president of the Braves, revealed the National League champions have given up hope of luring Conley away from the Boston Celtics before the close of the basketball season.

"Conley feels he owes an obligation to the Celtics," Tebbetts said upon his arrival at the Braves' training headquarters at Bradenton, Fla. "I asked him if it would make any difference how much money we offered him and he said, 'No.' He is determined to finish the basketball season no matter what."

Tebbetts then pointed out that Conley has averaged $22,500 a year for five years with the Braves.

"If he feels that by leaving the Celtics he would jeopardize his obligation to them, then we must feel he has no obligation to us," Birdie added.

Conley, hampered by arm trouble, didn't win a game for the Braves last season. The six-foot-eight, former Washington State basketball star joined the Celtics shortly after the start of the current National Basketball Association campaign and has been averaging less than five points a game.

If the Braves are serious about peddling lean Gene, the Boston Red Sox undoubtedly would grab him if waivers could be obtained from all National League teams. Conley made his major league debut with the old Boston Braves in 1952 and has a large following among New England fans.

The Braves finally signed catcher Del Rice and infielder Casey Wise yesterday but still have three holdouts in their ranks. In addition to Conley, they are relief pitcher Don McMahon and first baseman Joe Adcock.

The Washington Senators' holdout list was reduced to four players when outfielders Albie Pearson and Jim Lemon came to terms. Pearson, the 1958 rookie-of-the-year in the American League, reportedly settled for $10,000 while Lemon will receive $14,000. Still unsigned are Roy Sievers, Jim Delsing, Pedro Ramos and Jose Valdivielso.

Billy Loes ended his holdout with the Baltimore Orioles and promptly asked to be traded to another club.

Among the holdouts, Bob Cerv of Kansas City's A's, remained firm in his demands. Seeking a reported $35,000, he and the club are still about $5,000 apart.

An optimistic note was struck at the Pittsburgh camp where Dick Stuart phophecised he would hit 30 homers if played regularly "and maybe we'll all be playing in the World Series."

But a nostalgic note broke the routine at the Los Angeles camp. Flanked by two attendants and confined to an electrically powered wheelchair he calls his "Cadillac," Roy Campanella, now a Dodger coach, rejoined his former teammates.

Tiger Manager Figures Indians Kept His Club From 1st Division

By BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor Pontiac Press

LAKELAND Fla. — Of the seven other teams in the American League manager Bill Norman has picked the Cleveland Indians as the primary target for the Detroit Tigers.

Why not the Yanks or the White Sox the two teams which finished 1-2 last year?

Norman explains "We had the season's edge on every team in the league except Cleveland and Washington and it was the Indians who beat us out of the first division by 1½ games and we've got to take 4th place before we can get third."

"We still have the same pitching plus a little help to keep on beating the Yanks and think we have a couple more who can win a few against teams like Cleveland and Washington our downfall teams last year."

Cleveland had a 14-8 mark against the Tigers and the Senators were 13-9. The Tigers won 12 and lost 10 against every other team thus the 10-game deficit to the Tribe and the Nats actually meant the difference between third and fifth place.

By getting Ray Narleski and Don Mossi in a trade from Cleveland the Tigers have obtained two pitchers who have beaten them 11 times against only two setbacks in two seasons.

Narleski has been a thorn for Detroit especially in relief roles. Last year he got credit for three victories without a loss and two years ago he was credited with a 3-1 mark against Detroit.

In Narleski the Tigers have also found someone who can also beat the Senators. The fast righthander owns a 9-3 record against the Nats in four seasons.

With Narleski in a Detroit uniform there have been only four other pitchers who won three games against the Tigers last season. Pedro Ramos and Truman Clevenger of Washington had 3-2 and 3-0 marks respectively against Detroit while Cal McLish of Cleveland was 3-1 and Dick Donovan of the White Sox was 3-4.

Yesterday when the sun peeked out for the first time in five days Norman sent the batters against "live" pitching and the first three hurlers to work were Jim Bunning Paul Foytack and Frank Lary who are figured to be the three regular assignments.

"We have the pitchers to bail us out of trouble in Narleski and Mossi now we want another starter who might be able to alternate with Billy Hoeft for the 4th starting assignment in rotation" said Norman.

Gerry Davie who had an impressive 17-5 mark at Charleston and Pete Burnside 11-7 at Phoenix have been considered as the best prospects with Don Lee and Bob Bruce with outside chances.

But during early camp Norman has liked the performance of George Spencer 32-year-old veteran who saw major league duty with the Giants while in New York. He had a 9-4 record at Charleston last season with a respectable 2.01 earned run average.

Spencer has always had good control although not extremely fast. "We will get a chance to look at him better when we start our exhibition schedule" said Norman "but presently he is doing quite well."

Even though the rain subsided yesterday practice was cut short because of gale-like winds which pushed the temperature down to 50 degrees.

The first intra-squad game will probably be played Thursday with the first exhibition slated against Washington at Orlando Saturday.

TRAINING CAMP NOTES

A couple of banquets get attention this week. Last night the annual Governor's Dinner was held in Tampa with writers, sports casters, coaches, managers and major league executives in attendance.

After a celebration which starts today and continues for the rest of the week in honor of the 1934 Tigers the city of Lakeland will give a dinner for the Detroit squad Sunday.

This is the 25th anniversary of the 1934 team which was the first to train in Lakeland and many of the players of that team will be in attendance for weekend ceremonies.

Harvey Kuenn says he is going to put smaller wads of chewing tobacco in his mouth from now on. "I tried to yell something from the outfield and the wad was so big I nearly choked when I opened my mouth" he laughed.

District Cage Action Begins Locally Tonight

Class 'A' at Southfield, 'C' Games in PCH Gym Start Tourney Show

They're starting the basketball season all over again tonight. For one brief moment at least the losses suffered during the regular season are shunted to one side.

The schoolboy hysteria which annually sweeps across the state at this time of year—the Michigan high school basketball tournament—gets under way this evening.

Oakland County prep cagers victims of the "March madness" like nearly everybody else swing into action at a handful of area locations.

Pontiac Central in Class C and Southfield in Class A head the area program tonight as district activity tips off the 1959 edition of "tournament fever."

Those who had banner seasons are no better than the also-rans before the opening game. Right now the won-and-lost records mean nothing except the privilege of selecting favorites. They're starting from scratch.

All teams are temporarily on equal footing and the highly-rated prepsters will have to start proving their claims to season honors once again. If the elite are going to battle their way to state championship laurels they'll have to do it the hard way.

From now on it's "one loss and out" with no consideration for won-and-lost marks during the regular season.

Pontiac's two parochial schools plunge into district tourney play tonight on the Pontiac Central court.

St. Frederick is a heavy favorite to take the measure of Farmington Our Lady of Sorrows at 7 o'clock while St. Michael rates a slight edge over Hartland in the 8:15 nightcap.

Waterford and Walled Lake both wade into district openers in Class A at Southfield and each holds the underdog role, particularly Waterford.

Memphis of the Southern Thumb circuit faces Detroit Sweetest Heart of Mary in Class D at East Detroit at 7 p.m., with Class A quintets South Lake and Lakeview meeting at 8:30 on the same floor.

In Class C play at Port Huron Southern Thumb clubs Almont and Capac collide at 7 with Armada also of the Thumb loop, meeting Marine City in the 8:30 finale.

State Wins Again, 6 Tied for 2nd

By The Associated Press

The topsy-turvy Big Ten basketball race, featured by Michigan State's swift march to the title, was posed with this dilemma today: Six teams deadlocked for second place.

Last night's games, including Michigan State's 93-73 drubbing of hapless Wisconsin, made it a certainty that no less than two and possibly four conference teams will share the final runnerup spot to the Spartans.

A five-game slate Saturday closes the conference season. Then Michigan State will make a bid for NCAA honors.

Michigan tossed a 60-point second half barrage last night at Illinois to win 101-95, and Ohio State survived Ron Johnson's 30-point game to edge Minnesota 68-66.

Thus, Michigan and OSU slipped into a second place tie with idle Northwestern, Iowa and Purdue and losing Illinois, each with 7-6 records. Illinois could have claimed undisputed second place by sweeping its last two games.

Last night, MSU rolled to 13-0 lead and built a 45-29 halftime advantage. Spartan reserves dominated the second half. The victory gave MSU a 11-2 conference record. Johnny Green, the Spartans' jumping jack pivot star, had 28 points while Jim Biggs led Wisconsin, now 1-12, with 22.

At Ann Arbor, spectacular sophomore John Tidwell, M. C. Burton and George Lee collected 85 points to offset Illinois' 54-41 halftime advantage over Michigan. Tidwell dumped in 20 of his 33 points in a second half spurt to pace the Wolverines. Lee had 28 and Burton 24.

Ohio State, spurred by Larry Siegfried's 24 points, rallied from a 41-36 halftime deficit, to defeat Minnesota at Minneapolis.

Cincinnati and Bradley cleared the decks for their showdown battle for an NCAA tourney berth by winning last night. All-American Oscar Robertson poured in 44 points to smash three school records as Cincy walloped North Texas State 95-64 and Bradley beat Houston 74-60. They meet Saturday.

The Border Conference finished in a three-day tie for first last night, forcing two playoff games to decide the NCAA representative. St. Louis, which appears headed for the National Invitation, ripped Tulsa 83-55 and Notre Dame trounced Valparaiso 93-65 in other contests.

The NCAA playoffs start March 10 with some pairings already set. A twin bill at Louisville, Ky., will have Eastern Kentucky vs. Louisville and Marquette against the Mid-American champion. New York will have a tripleheader involving Navy, West Virginia and four other undetermined teams. Butler entered the NIT yesterday, leaving three vacancies.

Titan Jayvees Steal Show

DETROIT (UPI)—The preliminary game took the play away from the Detroit-Dayton contest last night and it was all right with Titan coach Bob Calihan who saw his varsity blasted 82-51 by the Flyers for Detroit's fifth straight defeat.

With the season over for Detroit, Calihan could look forward to next year and Dave DeBusschere. The husky all-state star who led Detroit Austin to the Class A prep crown last season flipped in 35 points as the Titan freshmen defeated Western Michigan's frosh 74-65.

That was the only game of the night in the memorial building. The Detroit varsity was behind 17-3 with 8:30 played in the first half and went 7:26 without a point. It was no contest as Detroit lost its 14th game against 11 victories.

The preliminary brought together two of the best freshmen squads in the state sprinkled with tournament stars of the past few years.

Kentucky Stays at Top of Heap in College Vote

MSU Cagers Elevated to Sixth Place After Taking Loop Title

By The Associated Press

Kentucky's Wildcats may find themselves in the unenviable position of having to defend two firsts when they begin play in the 1959 NCAA basketball tournament.

Kentucky, which finished its regular season with a 23-2 record and a tie for second place in the Southeastern Conference, will begin its NCAA title defense in the Midwest Regionals at Evanston, Ill., March 13. The Wildcats got in because Mississippi State, the Southeastern Conference champion, wouldn't play in a tournament where other teams had Negro players.

Kentucky not only will be defending the NCAA title, but it likely will go into the tournament ranked as the No. 1 college team in The Associated Press poll. This week's voting again put Kentucky on top by a margin of 100 points over runner-up Kansas State.

Kansas State (22-1) has two more games to play, however, and these could lead to stronger support in the voting of sports writers and broadcasters in The AP poll. Third-place Cincinnati also has some key games left on its schedule.

Pontiac Central Edges Cosmos in 'A' Rankings

Chiefs Grab Mythical State Crown for First Time in History

By The Associated Press

Pontiac Central, River Rouge, Pigeon and Schoolcraft are marked teams in the Michigan high school basketball tournament that starts tonight.

They are the winners in the final Associated Press poll of the regular season. Now the season starts fresh for them and the more than 700 other schools engaged in district tourney play. A heavy slate is scheduled for tonight.

Pontiac (14-1) shaded Hamtramck (14-1) by 12 points in the Class A voting by a panel of Michigan sports writers. Pontiac had 11 first place votes to Hamtramck's three as teams received 10 points for first place, nine for second and on down to one for 10th.

Flint Northern ((12-2) was third, Berkley (15-1) fourth and Alpena (12-1) fifth. Defending state champion Detroit Austin (15-2) was dumped to sixth.

River Rouge (16-2) was 17 points ahead of second place St. Joseph (16-0) for Class B honors. St. Joe, the only unbeaten in the upper two classes, actually had five first place votes to the Rouge's four. But a concentration of second place votes carried River Rouge to the top. Sault Ste. Marie (15-1) was third and defending Class B champion East Lansing (15-1) fourth with Flint Kearsley (14-1) fifth.

Remarkable Pigeon (16-0) was nine points ahead of defending state champion Muskegon Christian (16-2) in the Class C rankings. Pigeon, after its first state championship, has rattled off 50 straight victories in regular season play. Imlay City (14-1) was third in the rankings, followed by Bay City St. Stanislaus (13-0) fourth and Kalamazoo Christian (15-3) fifth.

Schoolcraft (16-0), an heir apparent to three-time defending champion Chassell, marched away in the Class B rankings. Cheboygan Catholic (18-0) was second, Brimley (18-2) was third, Manton (19-0) climbed two notches in the final week and settled in fourth and Gwinn (16-2) was fifth.

The last week of play resulted in no changes among the leaders. Only minor reshuffling was recorded in the top ten in all four classes.

In Class District competition Monday night, Freesoil whipped Copemish, 63-31, and Brethren stopped Arcadia, 60-42.

Wings Meet Bruins on Gordie Howe Night

DETROIT (AP)—A onetime Detroit Red Wing favorite will be doing his best tonight to spoil "Gordie Howe Night" for the Wings at Olympia Stadium.

Harry Lumley, who once minded the goal for the Wings, will be in the nets for the Boston Bruins amid the Wings' fading chances for a National Hockey League playoff spot.

It's the result of regular goalie Don Simmons' stomach ache and operation.

On the trip from Chicago yesterday Simmons complained of illness. As soon as the team arrived he was hospitalized and operated on for appendicitis.

With the loss of Simmons, the Bruins hurridly called up Lumley from their farm team at Providence.

The operation on Simmons was a success, physicians said. However, Simmons will be a patient for five or six days and the time of his return to action is problematic.

At tonight's civic testimonial, Howe, the Wings' great star for years, is to be given about $10,000 in gifts.

Coast Guard Drills Under Otto Graham

NEW LONDON, Conn. (AP) — The Coast Guard Academy held its first spring football practice Monday under its new coach, Otto Graham.

Before sending the 33 cadets who turned out through a 45-minute indoor drill, the former Cleveland Browns great spoke to the squad for about 20 minutes in private. He said he wanted to outline his offense and have a "get acquainted talk."

Graham plans a wide-open game for the cadets next fall. He said the emphasis will be on "passing the ball — if we can get someone to throw it."

Assisting Graham was Warren Lahr, a former teammate from Graham's Cleveland Browns days. Lahr will be here for spring practice, but he said he hasn't made up his mind as to whether he'll continue playing with the Browns another year.

'Dream Come True,' Matson Says of Trade

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Newly traded Ollie Matson said Monday that playing for the Los Angeles Rams of the National Football League is a dream come true.

"It took three years for the dream to happen," the great ex-Chicago Cardinal fullback told a news conference.

The Rams gave the Cards enough players to form a hefty baseball team to get the 28-year-old Matson. They were four regulars, four rookies and a high draft choice in 1960.

Matson told the press gathering that he wanted to join the Rams when he checked out of the University of San Francisco in 1952.

Crane Skaters Lose, 3-2

Cranbrook's hockey team lost a 3-2 decision to Detroit Catholic Central yesterday on Cranbrook ice in the opening game of a best-of-3 semifinal series in the International Hockey League prep playoffs. Chick Cudlip in the 2nd period and John Waters in the 3rd stanza scored Cranbrook's goals. The Cranes ended their regular season with a 4-9-1 record.

IF YOU WERE THE UMPIRE

By BEN OLAN

One of baseballs most dramatic plays is the steal, or attempted steal, of home. Vic Power of Cleveland did it twice in one game last year.

Here's a puzzler involving an attempted steal of home. You're an expert if you can come up with the right answer in this simulated situation.

The Milwaukee Braves have Ed Mathews on third base and one out against Pittsburgh. Hank Aaron is the batter, facing Bob Friend. On the first pitch to Aaron, Mathews streaks for home on an attempted steal. Aaron "takes" the pitch. But seeing that Mathews is a cinch to be out at the plate, Hank intentionally gets in the way of catcher Hank Foiles. Mathews safely crosses the plate as Foiles' view is blocked by Aaron.

Do you think that:

a. Mathews should be out with Aaron still batting?

b. Aaron should be called out with Mathews returning to third base?

c. Both Mathews and Aaron should be out?

Answer: A — Mathews is out with Aaron still batting. When there are less than two out and a runner on third base, the runner is the one who is out when a batter hinders a catcher in making a play at home plate.

PCH Ace Fires 178 Points

Bandy Valley Scoring King

Sometimes he's called "Long John" and other times any other adjective to describe his slender physique.

But it's all in jest and they don't care if 6-foot-3 John Bandy is as "thin as a rail" because the Pontiac Central sharpshooter really can draw a bead on the basket and score.

Bandy is officially the Saginaw Valley Conference scoring champion for the 1958-59 season and he wrapped up the league's offensive honors with a 21-point show against Saginaw High last Friday at Saginaw.

It gave the Chiefs a double sweep because they also clinched the Valley title outright for the 2nd time in three years with their 74-56 victory over the Trojans.

The lanky Bandy piled up 178 points in 10 Valley games to beat out Flint Northern's John Gillian for the league scoring crown.

Gillian scored 14 against Bay City Central last Friday and finished 2nd in the race with 176.

Arthur Hill's Bill Brussow, who led the pack entering Friday's final session, was held to four points in the Hillites' defeat at Flint Central and wound up 3rd with a total of 174.

Dale Lucas of Flint Central was 4th with 173 and Saginaw's Bob Parker came next with 157. Harrison Munson of Pontiac Central finished 10th among the top 20 with 108 points.

From the standpoint of scoring average, the winner was Pontiac's Charlie Barge who graduated at the end of the 1st semester. Barge played in five league games and tallied 107 points for a 21.4 average.

Moore-Robinson Title Bout Being Arranged

LONDON (AP)—The fight talk in Britain today was about world middleweight champ Sugar Ray Robinson—and Sugar Ray's Manager George Gainford was doing most of the talking.

Gainford has the dollar-trail all worked out for the 38-year-old Robinson, rated one of the finest pound-for-pound fighters in the history of the prize fight business.

"Everything has been arranged in principle for Archie Moore to defend his world light heavyweight title against Robinson in June," Gainford said.

Griff's, Booth Playoff Victors

Defeat Glenn's, Field's Cagers in First Round of City 'B' Tourney

Griff's Grill enjoyed a romp and Booth Homes had a close shave in opening games of the Class B City League basketball playoffs Monday night at Pontiac Northern.

Booth, the regular season Class B winner in a runaway, was forced to come from behind for a 70-66 victory over Field's Landscape. Jim Potecet led Booth's well-balanced offense with 20 points while Art Larson hooped 18 for Field's quintet.

Jerry Hill bagged 19 points to lead Griff's to a 66-44 rout of Glenn's Motor team. Jim Jones caged 17 in a losing cause.

The Class B playoffs will resume Wednesday night, also at Northern, with Booth and Griff's meeting at 8:30 and Field's and Glenn squaring off in the 7 o'clock opener.

Playoff action in classes A, C and D start tonight. The "A" cagers open fire on the Northern court, Class C teams tackle each other at Madison Junior High and the "D" clubs tangle on the Lincoln floor. All playoffs are double elimination.

MSU to Oppose TV Schedule

EAST LANSING (AP)—Michigan State will vote against the NCAA's proposed program for televising 1959 football games, the Athletic Council announced Monday.

The NCAA program would have 10 nationally televised games and three Saturdays of regional television next fall.

Dr. Harold B. Tukey, council chairman, said the action was taken in the belief that football television should be regulated by the conferences and colleges rather than at the national level.

Mother Offers to Forgive Sitter Who Took Child

LOS ANGELES (AP) — As a distraught mother promised forgiveness, FBI agents today sought a childless woman they think may have resorted to kidnaping for the second time.

They said discriptions of a volunteer babysitter who vanished with Eric Flores of suburban Ontario jibe with those of a woman who figured in a previous kidnaping.

Ruth Flores, 35, widowed only last June, prayed, meanwhile, asking God to make the kidnaper "see the light of what is right" and return her ailing eight-week-old baby.

"If she will do this, I am willing to forgive her," the mother sobbed. "She must love children an awful lot. But that's no excuse to rob me of mine."

The youngster was taken early Friday from the crib he shared with his twin, Aaron. Mrs. Flores has four other children.

A woman giving the name Ann Williams sat for Mrs. Flores after posing as a church worker. Mrs. Flores recalled that the woman wore a maternity dress although she did not appear to be an expectant mother.

Promotion of Inflation Similar

Treasury May as Well Try Greenbacks

(One of the government's biggest problems is financing a record national debt of 288 billion dollars without fostering inflation. This, the second of four articles on debt management, discusses this fiscal dilemma.)

By FRANK CORMIER

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. Treasury is promoting inflation of the money supply just as surely as if it were printing paper greenbacks.

The Treasury doesn't like this, of course, because it could lead to inflation of the whole economy. At the moment, however, it sees no clear way out.

Investor fears of rising interest rates and inflation have made it difficult — if not impossible — for Uncle Sam to borrow needed billions on a long term basis, or even for an intermediate period like five years. As a result, he has had to concentrate on getting short term loans which are much more inflationary.

Many of these loans, which come due in three months to three years, are kissing cousins of greenbacks and they create a paradox.

Uncle Sam has trouble getting less-inflationary long term loans, partly because of inflation fears. So he borrows on a short term basis and thus reinforces the very fears which are compounding his problem.

For Secretary of the Treasury Robert B. Anderson, this is a bitter irony. Anderson is so vocal a foe of inflation that Sen. Paul Douglas (D-Ill) recently accused him of being obsessed on the subject.

The Treasury chief is acutely aware that he, through his department, is helping to increase the inflation potential he decries. The secretary's dilemma stems from the fact that the banks are the principal source of short term loans.

Anderson has made a point of acquainting a number of recent visitors with the relationship between bank loans and inflation. He has done so in hopes of gaining missionaries for a balanced budget, which he regards as part of the basic solution to his problem.

The secretary begins by asking the visitor's opinion on "monetization of the debt." He has found that a surprising number of government and business leaders are puzzled by the term. In such cases, he launches into a simple explanation.

Assume the Treasury borrows a million dollars from a Washington bank. What is involved?

The Treasury gives the bank a piece of paper — a government security—which says Uncle Sam has borrowed a million dollars and will repay in so many years at a fixed rate of interest. Because the worth of this piece of paper is vouched for by Uncle Sam, it assumes real value and is listed among the bank's assets.

On the liability side of the bank's ledger is written an offsetting entry. The bank sets up a new deposit of one million dollars against which the government can write checks to pay its bills.

Anderson asks, where did the bank get this million dollars? Did it take the cash out of someone else's account and give it to the Treasury?

The answer is that it got the money from no one. It created one million dollars worth of credit on the strength of the Treasury's I.O.U.

At this point the visitor is apt to comment, "That's just like printing greenbacks, and I'm against that."

The picture could change for the worse this year, however, if the Treasury continues to do most of its borrowing on a short term basis. The "greenbacks" could get out of hand.

Idaho Pulls Off Ban on Mixed Marriages

BOISE, Idaho (AP)—Idaho removed its ban on interracial marriages Monday.

Gov. Robert E. Smylie signed a bill passed by both houses of the Legislature which repeals the so-called "antimiscegenation" law.

The law, on the Idaho books for decades, prohibited marriages between whites and Negroes, Orientals, and other persons of color.

Security for You

Proposes Medical Help

By RAY HENRY

Rep. Aime Forand (D-RI) doesn't look like a crusader or a radical. He's nearly 64, short, round, balding and wears glasses.

Yet—

To many older people he's the leader of a crusade offering real hope for getting needed medical care without the label of charity.

To the American Medical Assn. (AMA) he's the author of a radical bill now before Congress which would "destroy private health insurance" and "could pankrupt the entire Social Security program."

Forand chose his roll on Aug. 27, 1957, when he asked Congress to approve a plan to add health insurance for the aged to the Social Security system.

Almost immediately the brick-bats and bouquets began to fly. The AFL-CIO threw a bouquet. The AMA tossed a brick-bat.

BATTLE PICKS UP

The battle has been picking up ever since.

The AFL-CIO this year named the plan one of its major legislative objectives and has been joined by such organizations as the American Nurses Assn., and the American Public Welfare Assn.

The AMA — in opposition—now stands shoulder-to-shoulder with the National Assn. of Manufacturers and the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

Despite the furor and although Congress has yet to consider his plan at length, Forand has lost none of his zeal for it. If anything, he's now more enthusiastic.

"My No. I aim this year," he told me a few days ago, "is to get my health program passed."

What chance has he of success?

At best, he feels it'll be a tough fight. As a first step toward passage, the House Ways and Means Committee—of which Forand is the second ranking Democrat—must hold hearings.

When asked about hearings, Committee Chairman Wilbur Mills (D-Ark) told me:

"I have no plans now for holding them. The committee already has a heavy schedule for the next few months."

Thus, just making the first step may be different.

PARALLEL COVERAGE

Forand's health insurance plan would cover the cost of certain hospital, nursing home and surgical care for anyone eligible for Social Security payments—now or in the future.

In general, here's how:

HOSPITAL CARE—The usual hospital services, in semi-private accommodations, for up to 60 days a year would be paid by the insurance if a physician certified that such services were necessary.

NURSING HOME CARE—A person needing nursing home care after hospitalization could receive up to 120 days a year of combined care, as long as not more than 60 days were of hospital care.

SURGICAL CARE—All surgical services in a hospital would be paid for. So would emergency or minor surgical care performed in a doctor's office or in an outpatient clinic of a hospital.

To pay for the health insurance, the Social Security tax would be raised for all employes and employers by ¼ of one per cent and by ⅜ of one per cent for self-employed persons.

Forand says his plan may have shortcomings.

"But," he believes, "we cannot wait, and the older people who look to us, cannot wait for perfection. We must go forward carefully and soundly."

Airborne Thief Eludes Police

One of FBI's 10 Most Wanted Men Robs Bank, Steals Plane, Vanishes

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — Police and the FBI traced a flying bank robber to this northern Ohio city Monday night. There the trail ended.

Authorities say there is little doubt that the man they are chasing is Frank Lawrence Sprenz, 29, of Akron. He is one of the FBI's 10 most wanted criminals.

At Hamilton in southern Ohio Monday a courteous gunman, who thanked his victims, held up a branch of the First National Bank and Trust Co. and fled with $25,955.

Later an airplane was stolen from the Hamilton airport and flown to Coshocton, 160 miles northeast. That's when the FBI started thinking the bank robber was Sprenz, who has stolen airplanes on two other occasions.

Mrs. Elizabeth Lewis, a teller in the Hamilton bank, identified Sprenz' picture.

In Coshocton, a car dealer said a man answering Sprenz' description purchased a used car with cash and drove away. Four hours later and 55 miles to the north the car was found abandoned here.

That's where the trail ends. Police frankly admit they have no solid leads on Sprenz' whereabouts —he's vanished, or so it seems.

But, if everything the FBI believes about Sprenz is true, his disappearance follows a pattern. He has been leading them on an incredible chase since breaking out of the Summit County jail in Akron almost a year ago.

Twice he has stolen airplanes. A seaplane taken from a Toronto, Ont. airport was found floating abandoned in Baltimore harbor on Sept. 30. Feb. 14 a plane was stolen from Scranton, Pa. and landed near Colchester, Vt.

While police scoured the East for Sprenz a man answering his description robbed a New Haven, Conn., Trust Company branch of $12,000.

Although Sprenz has not been known to shoot, the FBI says he is dangerous and will fire without provocation.

A natty dresser — he likes Ivy League clothes, the FBI says — Sprenz is soft-spoken and plays the gentleman. He wears a toupe, which can be changed quickly or discarded, making for an effective disguise. He also speaks fluent German, which he picked up while stationed in Austria with the Army.

Student's Speech Leads Teacher Into Hot Water

YUKON, Okla. (AP) — A student's speech on prostitution has a high school speech teacher on the carpet today in this small central Oklahoma farming community.

The speech was given by a high school junior in a class conducted by Larry Kirkland last Friday. Parents complained.

Supt. Ralph Myers, who discussed the matter for two hours Monday night with Yukon's Board of Education said, "It was a little crude for high school."

Kirkland, in his first year of teaching at Yukon, said the speech was a regular part of his assigned classwork but the topic was of the student's own choosing. Kirkland declared he didn't think it out of order.

The steel industry in the U.S. reinvested 54 per cent of its nearly seven billion dollars in total earnings between 1950 and 1957.

Versatile Peter Ustinov Resents Label of 'Freak'

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Peter Ustinov can write short stories, novels and hit plays. He has been a sensation with his drolleries in TV talk shows. He can act up a storm in comedy or drama and direct films and plays in which he stars.

In this age of specialization, this makes him somewhat of a freak. And he resents it.

"Today you're supposed to do one thing only, not a lot of things," he observes. "What would happen if Leonardo da Vinci were alive today?"

Right now Ustinov feels like a slacker. He's just acting. He is playing headmaster of the gladiators' school in "Spartacus" — "I've finally struck middle ground. Usually in American films I've been either an emperor ('Quo Vadis') or a slave ('The Egyptian.')"

"Spartacus" is the stormiest film in several seasons, having already listed one director and a leading lady as casualties. One reason may be that there are too many generals in the cast. Kirk Douglas also doubles as producer, and Ustinov, Laurence Olivier and Charles Laughton have also been directors.

I asked Ustinov if he had been caught in the crossfire.

"No," he said, "I have ordered my legions to draw back and consolidate their forces."

The actor-writer-etc. is consolidating his own forces, and that's why he doesn't mind his singular duties in the picture. He feels that it's well for a creator to ride on one of his talents while the others get refreshed from inactivity.

Meanwhile, he continues writing a story each month for Atlantic Monthly. He is negotiating for a deal to film "Romanoff and Juliet," the Broadway hit he wrote, directed and starred in.

Motel Guest Peppers Walls With Bullets

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—The weekend guest was gone when operators went to clean his motel room Monday. But he left behind:

Twenty-one bullet holes, in walls, floor and furnishings.

A smashed heater grill and desk.

All his belongings, including two pistols and an empty whisky bottle.

A note saying "I will be over to pay for the damage tonight."

Police continued their search for the guest.

Caribbean Area Potential Battleground

Haiti Fears Invasion Within Month

(Frank H. Bartholomew, president of United Press International, is in the Caribbean area making a study of the new cold war developing there. In an interview, Haitian President Francois Duvalier told Bartholomew the Caribbean situation is "explosive," a statement borne out by events in Cuba where Bartholomew found Haitian expatriates planning a revolutionary attempt against Duvalier.)

By FRANK H. BARTHOLOMEW

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (UPI)—"The Caribbean today is an extremely explosive area," the president of this small nation which is striving to avoid entrapment as a battleground between two larger neighbors told United Press International.

Francois Duvalier, the grave and thoughtful medical doctor who heads the Republic of Haiti, said he believes the situation is such that "the United States should take immediate steps to assume full responsibility for maintenance of peace in the Caribbean area."

The doctor gazed through the glass louvered windows of the nation's White House on a hillside out over Port Au Prince harbor toward Cuba on the distant horizon as he spoke.

Meantime in Cuba, former Sen. Louis Dejoie is heading a movement of other Haitian expatriates for a revolutionary invasion attempt against Haiti which he told United Press International will be made within 30 days.

Dejoie, a defeated candidate in the last Haitian presidential election, has a bodyguard of two "barbudos," riflemen from Premier Fidel Castro's Cuban revolutionary army.

Castro has not included Haiti in the Caribbean countries where his government has pledged to assist in overthrowing asserted dictatorships. However Castro has stated his positive intention to aid in an attempt to unhorse President Hector B. Trujillo of the Dominican Republic, on the same island as Haiti which stands between Trujillo and Cuba.

"Our concern at the moment is the possibility Trujillo may move first in an attempt to block us before we are ready," Dejoie told the United Press International in Cuba. "Before we move we want to make clear our demand for United Nations supervision of Haitian elections."

Dr. Duvalier, a quiet-voiced, neatly dressed man with a greying crewcut and hornrimmed glasses, addresses his fellow presidents of Caribbean nations:

"It's time for every leader to think in terms of civilization rather than wars and invasions.

"The important battle should not be against one another but against illiteracy, poverty and disease," he said. "It is unfortunate that leaders continue to think in terms of stirring up trouble for personal aggrandizement rather than concentrating the time, effort and expenditures toward improving the standard of living of the common man.

"It is impossible to overlook the remarkable progress of the people of Jamaica and Puerto Rico whose political destinies are stabilized by larger countries.

"A new era of peace and prosperity can come not only to the Caribbean nations but to the entire hemisphere if the United States under the terms of the Caracas Convention of 1954 accepts the responsibility for the maintenance of international peace according to its leadership of the Western Hemisphere."

Otherwise, President Duvalier said, Haiti is prepared to defend itself with its regular army of 5,000 well-trained troops and armed civilians numbering more than 8,000.

Comes at Worst Time

De Gaulle's New Republic Faces Recession Danger

PARIS (UP)—President Charles de Gaulle's efforts to build a politically and economically strong France are faced with a new danger—the possibility of a recession.

Economic observers are divided on the seriousness of the threat but all say that a recession or at least a period of economic leveling off is definitely possible.

Paul Bacon, minister of labor, says he does not consider the situation alarming at the present time. But an indication of the seriousness with which French officials view the situation is the recent action of the National Credit Council in lifting the year-old ceiling on private credit.

In explaining the action the council said it was necessary to stimulate investment activity. But such a potentially inflationary move would not have been taken unless the government felt the slowdown had gone far enough to warrant countermeasures.

France has weathered postwar periods of economic stagnation before. The present slowdown is dangerous because it comes at the worst possible time.

De Gaulle needs a breathing space in which to allow the longe range effects of his recovery program to take effect. Most observers say this will take six months to a year.

Moreover the immediate effects of his program would be hard even on a growing economy. In the present situation they are doubly difficult. Devaluation and the cutback in subsidies has had the effect of raising prices.

Wholesale prices went up 4.5 per cent in January and retail prices increased by 3.5 per cent.

These price rises, even under normal conditions, would have the effect of creating strong pressure for a general wage increase. If the economic situation continues stabilized or takes a turn for the worse the pressure for wage increases may become irresistible.

A general wage increase at this time would tend to set off an inflationary spiral. Inflation would in turn wipe out the benefits of devaluation, place France once more at a disadvantage in the world market and seriously endanger the recovery program.

Ohio Freight Agent Job Became Family Matter

CRESTLINE, Ohio (UPI)—There's always been a Bagley as freight agent in this small Ohio town.

Erwin E. Bagley, 74, will soon complete 57 years on the job at the Pennsylvania Railroad's freight office here. His father held the same position for 56 years and his grandfather was the first freight agent when the office opened about the time of the Civil War.

Bad Check Passer Has Better Luck Than Judge

BOSTON (UPI)—A Texan accused of passing three worthless checks totaling $140 in Boston was arraigned before Chief Justice Elijah Adlow in Municipal Court.

"How did you do it?" asked the amazed judge. I tried to give a check for an airplane ticket the other day and they refused to accept it."

Deputies Arrest Driver After 4 Are Injured

A Lake Orion man was arrested for investigation of felonious driving last night after being involved in a two-car head-on collision which injured four persons, according to Oakland County Sheriff's deputies.

Zeno Pence, 51, of 361 Lake St., was being held at Oakland County Jail after being treated at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital.

The other driver, Carolyn B. Lauer, 17, of 3011 Judah Lake Rd., Orion Township, her brother, Fred, 13, and mother, Emma, 42, also were taken to the hospital.

The mother was reported in satisfactory condition today after undergoing surgery for facial injuries last night. Her daughter and son were treated and released.

Deputies said the Lauer girl and a witness told them Pence swerved across the center line at 2330 Clarkston road and smashed into the Lauer auto.

Pence had been drinking and has a poor previous driving record, deputies said.

2 Injured as Car Hits Rut and Tree in Orion

Two Pontiac men were injured last night when their car hit a rut, went out of control and struck a tree along Orion road east of Pine Knob road in Independence Township, according to Pontiac state troopers.

The driver, William Coggins, 30, of 299 Norton St., and a passenger, James Atchison, 23, of 99 Virginia St., were taken to St. Joseph Mercy Hospital.

Atchison was described in fair condition today with face and knee injuries. Coggins was treated and released.

GMAC Income Up 15.8 Pct. in 1958

NEW YORK (AP)—General Motors Acceptance Corp. reports net income for 1958 rose 15.8 per cent to $53,323,000 from $46,037,000 a year earlier.

Retail installment sales contracts purchased during the year totaled $3,160,984,000, down 17 per cent from the $3,829,959,000 in 1957, Charles G. Stradella, president, said in the annual report.

GMAC collection, repossession and loss experience in 1958 was influenced by unfavorable economic conditions in the first half, the report said.

The rate of repossession and ratio of loss to liquidations continued into 1958 the upward trend of 1957, but had passed their peak and were declining by midyear, it noted. In the last quarter, repossessions and losses were substantially lower than the same period of 1957.

Missile Stocks Continue Rise

NEW YORK (AP) — The missile-rocket-electronic shares continued to make strides and oils resumed their recovery as the stock market came close to a record high early this afternoon.

Trading was heavy. The ticker tape was late for 37 minutes in the first hour and briefly on several later occasions.

Gains by leading stocks went from fractions to a point while the "space age" issues made wider advances.

The pattern of the market was following through almost identically from yesterday when the tense Berlin situation and enthusiasm of the public for "glamour" stocks made these outstanding.

The solid economic news included a big rise in auto output last month and a scheduled steel industry operating rate at record proportions. Despite this, both the steel and auto sections were spotty.

In about two weeks she said the Society will mail out about 184,000 appeal letters for funds to aid physically handicapped adults and children within the county.

The Society already has announced that William P. Whitfield will be the 1959 campaign chairman in Pontiac. Other area chairmen are:

The three are accused of robbing William Andrews of 3466 S. Holly Rd., on Feb. 16 at his home.

Will Study Troop Pullback

Khrushchev, Macmillan Admit Failure to Agree

MOSCOW (UPI)—Premier Nikita Khrushchev and Prime Minister Harold Macmillan admitted today they were "unable to agree" on Germany but said they would study a plan to pull back troops and nuclear weapons from the middle of Europe.

They pledged themselves to seek a negotiated solution to the Berlin crisis. Western diplomats in Moscow has not retreated from the solution was in sight because Moscow has not reatreated from the determination to turn Berlin control over to Communist East Germany.

A Soviet-British communique issued at end of the 10-day Macmillan mission accepted the need of "early negotiations" to save "peace and security in Europe and throughout the world" and promised to study a partial pullback of Eastern and Western forces from the Iron Curtain.

After the communique was made public, Macmillan flew homeward aboard a Comet IV jetliner. He called to Khrushchev in Russian "all the best" as he boarded the plane.

"God speed and au revoir," Khrushchev shouted back.

Next week Macmillan will go to Paris and Bonn to deliver first-hand reports on the talks to President Charles de Gaulle and Chancellor Konrad Adenauer. Then he probably will go to Washington to see President Eisenhower.

Any decision to pull back troops from the Iron Curtain would be part of a peaceful, long-term settlement of the German problem. They said nuclear weapons would be included in the thinning out and that there would be "an appropriate system of inspection."

This would provide a partial start on disarmament and a partial start on European security, two east-west issues long locked in a cold war stalemate. At first reading, the cautiously worded communique seemed to imply a new British willingness to take up the previously-rejected "rapacki plan" for europe.

Macmillan did appear to have succeded to some extent in softening Khrushchev's hard Berlin line but observers noted the basic Russian position was unchanged.

Khrushchev accompanied Macmillan on the 18-mile drive to the airport. Foreign diplomats and Soviet officials were among the throng that gathered to see the Prime Minister's departure.

In a speech of farewell, Khrushchev told Macmillan "we want to eliminate all obstacles to peaceful coexistence."

Macmillan said that as a result of his visit he has no doubt that he will now "better be able to tackle those issues on which the future of mankind depends."

$5 Million Tax Base Hike Likely

Review Board Begins Hearings on Property Assessments for '59

The Tax Board of Review today began hearings on recommended 1959 property assessments, which would put the city's tax base at around $275 million, or about $5 million more than last year.

James F. Spence, a Board member, was re-elected chairman.

Hearings on hardship cases will continue through Friday, Spence said, while hearings on real property will be scheduled next week and on personal property the week after.

The Board will meet from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday in the City Assessor's first-floor office in City Hall.

John Waddell and Cecil Mullinax are the others on the three-man Board, while City Attorney William A. Ewart and Finance Director Marvin Alward are ex-officio members.

The Assessor's Office has recommended the slight increase in assessments. The city's current tax rate of $13.27 for every $1,000 assessed valuation can be maintained next year if the recommended increases are adopted, City Manager Walter K. Willman has predicted.

Vandals Blamed for $400 Damage

House Windows Smashed

Oakland County sheriff's deputies yesterday reported a window breaking episode in which damages have been estimated at more than $400.

"It's the worst case of window breaking I've ever seen in a furnished private home," said Deputy Roland Pless after returning from the two-story frame home at 9808 Mandon Lake Rd., White Lake Township.

The summer home is owned by Joseph A. Keller of Detroit. He told deputies that the last time he had been at the house was Jan. 15.

Deputies believe the destruction took place within the past few days since little or no rain or snow had blown in through the broken windows.

Forty-two windows were broken by vandals who threw rocks at them. Two of the panes were large picture windows of thermopane glass valued at roughly $150 each, said Keller.

Every window in the garage also was broken. Most of the damage was confined to a side of the home facing a vacant lot, deputies reported.

Plush Florida Motels Worry Luxury Hotels

By JOE HAAS

MIAMI BEACH, Fla.—The plush motel within the past year or so has become the first competitor to worry the plush hotels that vie for patronage in the world's greatest winter resort section.

HAAS

In fact, the expenditure for these new motels here during the past year is over ten times the amount for new hotels during the same period. Only two new hotels now are under construction on the so-called Gold Coast, but a little further north dozens of these high class motels either have only recently opened up or will soon be ready.

Since World War II over 100 hotels have been built to cater to the tourist trade, all on the ocean front or near it, but further building in that line now is almost discontinued. Additions to present hotels are also very rare. Only two of the top ten are making any expansion.

In order to secure the ocean frontage and parking facilities for these motels, it has been necessary for them to pick sites further north than the famous "10-mile front," now mostly occupied by hotels.

This is a great relief to their patrons, as it gets away from the area of freak characters on the beach, who never get their bathing suits wet, and who only lie there to get a tan, and then go home and lie about how they got it.

Starting at the lower end of Miami Beach, that ocean-front mile along Lummus Park, beach sights for several miles are not conducive to a good appetite for your next meal or a guarantee that you can keep down your last one.

LUXURY APPOINTMENTS

The best of these new motels have all the luxury appointments of the top hotels—and some are even more modern. Most are two or three stories high with elevators, rooms much larger than in most hotels, plate glass windows (usually 8x16 feet in a single pane) extending clear across one end, many with ocean-front views, and private verandas with solid walls between each (which is more than that afforded by some of the $50 per day hotels).

The charge is about one-half that of hotels similarly located as regards ocean-frontage and otherwise, this being true of both room rental and meals which are devoid of most of the social headaches encountered in big hotel dining.

Regardless of the publicity put out by them, the close of the warmest February in the history of Miami Beach finds that its plush hotels are not having their biggest season. A survey just completed by one of the local papers is quite interesting.

A reporter who posed as a "northern financier" called up all the hotels, asking for an immediate reservation. Among the 100 called, he didn't get a refusal, and several of the "top 10" wanted to send a special car for him and his baggage.

With the top new motels it is far different. We're spending a few days at two of them. Both are sold out for the entire season and most of next winter, plus a good part of the warmer months. They offer a quietude that makes a vacation a vacation.

Some of these motels put on special entertainment which their patrons get without cover charge, and which usually can discount the few remaining good TV, radio and movie stars advertised for personal appearances at the hotels, and which most of their patrons never see—unless they're out to make a whole night of it, and are willing to be double-gypped on cover charges.

CAUSES STRTETCH-OUT

This is causing the Gold Coast to stretch out. It once was only a mile long, then five miles, and for the last few years ten miles. Now it is running up past Hollywood and Fort Lauderdale, with ocean-front options bringing it past 100 miles.

On this extended frontage new hotels will vie with the new motel construction, some of which now is under way, some in the groundbreaking stage and much more on the drawing board, with the financial end assured.

Local banks and northern investors seem to think Florida's Gold Coast is not a passing fad and that it won't have many winters like it endured early last year.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Republican National Committee will select a site for the party's 1960 national convention on April 11, GOP national chairman Meade Alcorn announced today.

The Democrats picked Los Angeles for their convention, starting July 11, 1960.

Alcorn said the GOP committee, meeting here, will pick both a convention site and date after receiving a report from the site committee headed by Ohio state chairman Ray Bliss.

A museum of logging equipment, sawmill equipment, and woods tools will be established on the campus of Stephen F. Austin College at Nacogdoches by the Texas Forestry Association.

Pres. Siles Says U. S. Denies Time Report

Attempts to Calm Enraged Bolivian Mob

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP) — Seeking to calm enraged mobs which stoned the U.S. Embassy, Bolivian President Hernan Siles said Monday night American officials have denied a Time magazine story that touched off the anti-American outburst.

The Time article quoted an unidentified U.S. Embassy official as suggesting Bolivia, because of its economic problems, should be abolished as a country and "its neighbors divide the country and its problems."

Siles took to the streets and the radio after the rioting resulted in the fatal shooting of a 15-year-old student. At one point mobs burned the U.S. flag but there were no reports of injuries to Americans.

In a radio appeal, Siles said the U.S. charge d'affaires had told him the Time magazine article did not correspond to statements made by an American diplomatic official.

There had been, Siles told the nation, a "provocation by an irresponsible journalist that reflected the thought of international capitalism."

The quote in question appeared in the current hemisphere edition of Time, which circulates in Latin America, but not in the U.S. edition. A spokesman at the magazine's offices in New York indicated a statement might be issued later.

Angry mobs burned issues of Time in front of the embassy. A police cordon was thrown around the building and along neighboring streets, but about 200 youths broke through.

Later stone-throwing mobs broke many of the windows in the embassy. Others stoned the offices of the U.S. Information Service two blocks away and broke into the USIS library, destroying books and magazines. A jeep outside was overturned.

Shots were fired in front of the embassy by rifle-bearing youths, as police used tear gas to try to disperse the mobs.

Siles strode through police lines guarding the embassy and shouldered his way up the block to the headquarters of the ruling Nationalist Revolutionary Movement.

From a balcony he called on the crowd to calm down.

"Don't make the situation more acute with acts of violence," he declared.

The president's appeals quieted things somewhat, but scattered groups roamed the mountain capital Monday night. Heavy police guards were out.

The Bolivian government protested against the Time article in both La Paz and Washington. The ministry said it had received assurances that no U.S. Embassy official had made the statement quoted in the magazine.

Cubans Protest Trial of 45 Batista Airmen

SANTIAGO, Cuba (AP) — Demonstrators ranged through this provincial capital Monday night, shouting protests against a military tribunal's acquittal of 45 Cuban airmen charged with mass murder bombings of rebel villages in Oriente province.

The demonstrations abated after the prosecutor, Lt. Antonio Cejas, appealed the verdict and it was announced that a new trial would start before a different tribunal in several days. The airmen were kept in jail.

The court had held the charges had not been proved. They were accused of bombing and strafing civilians as part of former President Fulgencio Batista's campaign against Fidel Castro's rebels.

The defendants claimed they deliberately dropped their bombs in open country to avoid killing civilians. The prosecution based its case on action reports which the defendants admitted signing, but the fliers said they faked them to escape punishment by air force authorities.

Congress Gets Atom Bill for $179 Million

WASHINGTON (AP) — A 179-million-dollar atomic energy bill has been introduced in Congress. It would authorize 115½ million dollars for atomic projects 49½ million for experimental reactors and 14 million for Euratom cooperation. Rep. Carl Durham (D-NC) and Sen. Clinton Anderson (D-NM) introduced the bill for next fiscal year at the request of the Atomic Energy Commission.

Michigan to Bid Official Goodbye to Alaska 59ers

LANSING (AP)—When Michigan's modern-day pioneers — the 59ers — set off Thursday on a homesteading journey to Alaska, each family likely will take along an engraved memento of the Michigan's high praise of their undertaking.

In what amounts to an official farewell, Rep. Edward H. Jeffries (D-Detroit) last night submitted a resolution lauding the 59ers' "pioneer courage and tenacity."

"While Michigan regrets losing her citizens of such caliber, she lauds their pioneer spirit, their dedication and intrepidity and extends her corporate blessing to each 59er," the resolution declared.

If adopted by both House and Senate, copies of the document will be distributed to the head of each family in the group of homesteaders, which plans to set up a community in Alaska's Kenai Peninsula.

Copies also will be sent to the governor of the new state and its top legislative officers.

The 59ers, all from the Detroit area, started the first independently organized movement of an entire colony to the 49th state.

Home Rule Requested for Washington, D.C.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Residents of Washington have no vote and many think this an injustice. In their annual report to Congress Monday, the city's commissioners dubbed Washington "the one city that belongs to all the people" and asked for home rule.

Rep. D. R. Matthews (D-Fla) wondered how home rule would jibe with the idea that the city belongs to all Americans.

Said Commissioner Robert McLaughlin: "It would make us all Americans."

Dems Rushing Key Bills to Ike

Anxious to Make Good Record Before Easter Vacation Begins

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic leaders are driving to lay controversial housing and airport aid bills on President Eisenhower's desk before Congress takes a 10-day Easter vacation March 26.

There also is a possibility that both houses will agree on a bill to grant statehood to Hawaii and that the Senate may get around to acting on a labor reform measure in the next three weeks.

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas and Speaker of the House Sam Rayburn (D-Tex) obviously want to pile up a substantial record of legislative action as quickly as possible in an effort to show that the Democratic Congress is keeping on its toes.

Johnson and Rayburn are reported agreed that unless there are unexpected international developments that would require congressional action, this year's session ought to wind up its work early in July.

Any such timetable, however, may depend on Eisenhower's reaction to measures such as the housing and airport bills, which affect his efforts to balance the budget.

Five Drowned in Rio Grande

Mexican Women Cast Into River in Auto From Ferry

LOS EBANOS, Tex. (AP)—Five drowned in the murky waters of the Rio Grande Monday after an automobile plunged from a ferry boat.

Four bodies were recovered Monday night on the United States side of the river. There was an unconfirmed report a fifth was recovered on the Mexico side.

Police searched for the driver whom they identified as Luis Montehongoy also a Mexican national. They said he freed himself from the submerged vehicle and swam to the Mexican side.

The accident occurred moments after Montehongoy drove the car aboard the ferry, officers said bound for San Miguel, Mexico opposite this border village.

"It shot off into the water and bounced downstream before disappearing in 15 or 20 feet of water" ferry operator Francisco Rivas said. He told police "it looked like the driver hit the accelerator instead of the brake."

Tough-Guy McMahon Flinches at Gunshots

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — We third-degreed Horace McMahon—the tough television detective and got several confessions out of him. We'd just seen him killing a few dangerous criminals, so we asked him how he was at handling guns in real life.

WILSON

"I never had a pistol or a gun permit," he said.

"But you can shoot?" he exclaimed.

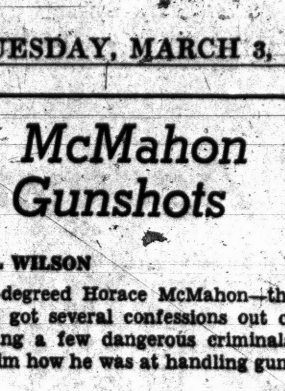

"Well," he faltered. "I'm afraid I blink when I fire. One of the directors said, 'You're supposed to be so implacable—and here you are blinking like a boy with a firecracker when you pull the trigger.'"

Horace explained that the reason he blinks is that the gun makes a very loud report when the black cartridge explodes. "Hurts my ears," he confided.

Horace is playing Detective Lieut. Mike Parker in "Naked City" starting March 17. But before that he played a Hollywood mob guy in movies.

"I had my own prison uniform at Western Costumes," Horace boasted to me. "I was in stir from 500 to 2,000 years. The studio would just call up and say, 'Send over Horace's stripes. He's been sentenced again.'"

McMAHON

"Well, now in real life," we said, resuming the third degree, "have you ever been arrested for murder . . . manslaughter . . . bank robbery . . . inciting to riot . . . picking pockets . . ."

Horace kept shaking his head "No" right on down through drunken driving, speeding . . . jay walking . . . not curbing the dog.

"Oh, wait a minute — I got some parking tickets!" he beamed happily.

It's no secret, though, that Horace, who's now in his early 50s, who played in "Detective Story," who was on "Martin Kane, Private Eye," a decade ago, is a man to be feared in private enterprise.

Puffing a cigar, sticking out his busted beak (they call him "Flat Nose" because he got his schnozz smashed in a fight as a kid), he told how he licked 'em in Detroit when he appeared there last summer in "Detective Story."

"I wanted to try my hand at directing," he said, "I figured this would be such a bonanza, instead of a salary, I'd take a percentage of the profits. They happened to have a newspaper strike those weeks. No reviews, no ads, an all-time low. I worked for almost nothing . . . for what we call 'experience.'"

But there is a chink in Horace's armor. He drinks. It's nothing for him to down six or eight cups of coffee before he goes home to Connecticut every night. Getting to be such a coffee hush, his doctor wants him to taper off on Sanka.

THE MIDNIGHT EARL . . .

Postmaster Gen. Summerfield will retire, with Meade Alcorn replacing . . . Singer Lavern Baker married comic Slappy White . . . Carry Grant, an advocate of hypnotism, will be interviewed for a medical society report.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: The average American male knows the lineups of all the baseball teams, and about half the words of the "Star Spangled Banner."

A neurotic rocket expert working at Cape Canaveral was advised by his psychiatrist, "When you're about to lose your temper, count to one." . . . That's earl, brother.

Senators Have 'Closed Shop' and No Strike Aims

WASHINGTON (AP)— Addressing a building trades union meeting Monday, Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass) described the Senate in labor terms.

"We have a guaranteed annual wage for six years, but we have no job security, no pay for overtime, no unemployment compensation, and no assurance that our contract will be renewed," he said.

"The strange part about our closed shop is that there are plenty of people who want to take our places, but none of our current members ever wants to go out on strike."

Bob Hope Consults Eye Specialist

NEW YORK (AP) — Comedian Bob Hope, 54, is in New York to see a specialist about a blood clot that could cost him the sight of his left eye.

He arrived by plane from Hollywood Monday. He said he has only 50 per cent of normal vision in the eye and that closing and opening it suddenly upsets his sense of balance.

The trouble developed during a Christmas holiday trip to Europe to entertain U.S. servicemen. Hope said high blood pressure caused the clot.

Lung Cancer Claims Veteran Performer

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—Jack McElroy, 45, a veteran radio and television performer, died Monday night of lung cancer after a six-month illness.

McElroy spent 28 years in broadcasting, starting as a singer in his home town of Pittsburgh, Kan. He became known to millions as master of ceremonies on the radio show, "Breakfast in Hollywood," and as the announcer and singer on the TV show, "Bride and Groom."

British Arrest African Leader

Nyasaland Nationalist Party Head Seized as Trouble Continues

SALISBURY, Southern Rhodesia (AP)—The British rulers of Nyasaland arrested firebrand nationalist leader Hastings Banda today and declared a state of emergency in the East African protectorate.

Sir Robert Armitage, British governor of the restive colony, said Banda, 54, physician leader of the African National party and a large number of militant nationalists seized with him would be sent into exile.

Blantyre, the Nyasaland capital, and neighboring Limbe, where Banda lives, were packed with troops. Armored cars ringed Banda's house. Spotter aircraft patrolled over the two cities.

Armitage banned the African National Party in Nyasaland, as well as its Youth League and Women's League. He said the groups had become a threat to law, order and the colony's prosperity.

The governor said persons who continued to hold office in the movement would be liable to 14 years in jail and those who continued to be members could be jailed for 7 years.

All schools — for whites, Africans and Asians — were closed in Blantyre, Limbe, Cholo and Lilongwe, the major towns of Nyasaland.

Troop reinforcements already had been flown to Nyasaland from neighboring Southern Rhodesia. In Northern Rhodesia the territorial reserves were called up today for service.

Nyasaland, linked with Southern and Northern Rhodesia in the British-controlled Central African Federation, has been the scene of violent nationalist demonstrations for two weeks.

Stars Tonight in TV Tribute

Special Show to Raise Funds in Memory of NBC Vice President

By CHARLES MERCER
AP Radio-TV Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — There's something fascinating about a host of stars devoting 90 minutes of prime television time to paying tribute to a man whom the general public scarcely knows.

Yet that's what happens tonight when NBC-TV presents "Some of Manie's Friends" (at 7:30 p. m., EST).

Manie was Emanuel Sacks, a vice president of NBC, who died of leukemia a year ago Feb. 9.

The purpose is worthy. Everyone is performing for the minimum fee allowed by union regulations and donating the difference — totaling around $100,000 — to the Emanuel Sacks Foundation for Medical Research in Philadelphia.

The complications in organizing this show were enormous. A sponsor was found before either the content of the program or who would appear on it was worked out. Nearly everyone appearing in the show had to iron out conflicting commitments.

Those who will perform tonight include Sid Caesar, Rosemary Clooney, Nat King Cole, Perry Como, Eddie Fisher, Betty Grable, Bob Hope, Harry James, Tony Martin, Dinah Shore, Frank Sinatra, Kay Starr, Danny Thomas, Jack Webb and Jane Wyman.

Each feels he was aided in some way by Manie Sacks. There are many others who feel the same. Manie Sacks was a demonstration of the fact that nice guys do win ball games.

His name seldom appeared in the newspapers. His position at NBC sometimes seemed rather vague and nebulous; there are or have been so many vice presidents at NBC that it's a wonder NBC President Robert E. Kintner can name them all.

Basically, however, he was a discoverer of talent — a decisive voice who said, "let's try it." From wide experience in the recording industry and show business he had an uncanny knack of picking the better from the worst.

Falls 12 Stories, but Girl Is Only Cut and Bruised

NEW YORK (AP)—A girl plummeted 12 stories from her bedroom window Monday—and lived.

Deborah Taylor, 4, of Brooklyn, landed in shrubbery and a soft flower bed, only two feet from a concrete sidewalk. She apparently suffered only a few cuts and bruises.

She was the fourth to survive falls from dizzy heights here in the past two weeks.

Earlier Monday a delivery man fell 10 floors down an elevator shoft, crashed through the roof of a car, and knocked the two occupants flat. He was seriously injured. They suffered minor injuries.

Saturday a 23-year-old man fell five stories, crashed through the top of a water tank and pulled himself out.

Board Name Change for MSU on Ballot

LANSING—A proposal to change the name of the State Board of Agriculture to the Michigan State University Board of Trustees was ready today for a statewide vote April 6.

It cleared the legislature last night after the Senate backed down from an amendment which would have dropped the last five words from the school's formal title — Michigan State University of Agriculture and Applied Science.

It was the second proposed constitutional amendment readied for the April election ballot. The other would provide for continuity of government in the event of enemy attack.

Susie Misses Engine, Fire Department Glum

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Susie is gone and the 12 men at Co. 22 of the fire department are feeling pretty glum.

Susie wandered into the station when she was about six weeks old.

Today, at the age of 10, the Eskimo spitz fell short when she tried to jump on the back of a truck answering a call and was crushed under the wheels.

During her stay, she had ridden to nearly 3,000 fires.

Bing Crosby's Special Anemic, Semi-Boring

By WILLIAM EWALD

NEW YORK (UPI) — It's almost impossible to fault a show like last night's ABC-TV Bing Crosby special, but despite its lack of flaws, I must confess it semi-bored me.

I will yea-say first and tick off its merits: Its lumberyard set, notioned, I believe, by the show's art director, Jim Trittipo, was both fanciful and serviceable; Nelson Riddle's musical compounds were mixed with his usual skill; it had two sturdy veterans of the pop world, Crosby and Jo Stafford, on board.

But in spite of all this, the show itself had a feeling of bloodlessness about it. Its texture was sissy, timorous, dilute.

Jim Garner and two of the incunabular products of the Crosby workshop — Dennis and Phillip — also were in attendance and they, too, labored with suitable languor.

And just to complete the team, Dean Martin dropped in for a surprise fling — he didn't do much, but he was genial and casual in his lack of doing and I guess that just about sums up the hour.

SHORT SHOTS: I only caught the last half of last night's CBS-TV Desilu Playhouse entry, "Comeback," because it overlapped the Crosby Special.

I have nothing, therefore, to say about its first half which may have been as exciting as "King Lear," but its last half struck me as one of the squashiest, pastiest coagulations of the season. This is the sort of bosh that almost killed off the movies.

THE CHANNEL SWIM: Tommy Leonetti, dropped off the Feb. 21 ABC-TV Dick Clark Show, is booked in for the March 21 Clark bash . . . Lloyd Nolan is ticketed in for the lead in NBC-TV's Hallmark Hall of Fame April 28 entry, "Ah Wilderness."

NBC-TV's Saturday special, "Accent on Love," racked up a 25.4 Trendex rating . . . Gene Barry, who plays the lead on NBC-TV's Bat Masterson, will play the lead in "The King and I" at the St. Louis Municipal Opera this summer.

Hope of Finding Airman Fading

But Hunt to Continue for Private Plane in Northern Michigan

GAYLORD (AP) — Hope faded today for finding a missing airman who disappeared nine days ago on a flight over rugged Northern Michigan.

Searchers agin reported no clues yesterday in their hunt for Frank Wyman of Batavia N.Y. But Air Force officials reported that the search which was to have ended yesterday has been extended indefinitely.

Wyman disappeared a week ago Sunday in his own light single-engine plane on a flight from Batavia to duty station at Kindross Air Base near Marquette. He vanished after a stopover takeoff rom Saginaw, about three hours short of his goal.

A formal search did not start until Wednesday when Wyman's wife Mary reported at Batavia that she had heard nothing from him.

Fifteen planes and three helicopters took part in the search yesterday but reported no clues to the missing flier. The search concentrated over a wooded area east of Mullet Lake.

The Tenth Air Force at Selfridge Air Base at Mount Clemens took over responsibility for the search directing planes from the Army Navy and Coast Guard as well as the Civil Air patrol and volunteers.

The Air Force ordered the Gaylord airport closed to all planes except the searching aircraft for the duration of the hunt.

Debbie and Liz Both to Be on Awards Show

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Elizabeth Taylor and Debbie Reynolds—the two women in singer Eddie Fisher's life—will both appear on the annual Academy Awards show April 6.

Producer Jerry Wald says he plans to spot them an hour apart. He hasn't decided yet what each will do.

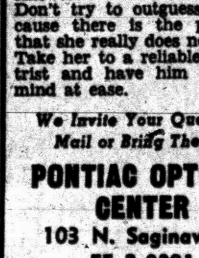

Debbie labeled Liz as the other woman in her broken marriage with Fisher. Miss Taylor is among those nominated for the top actress award.

My son has to wear his glasses all the time and yet insists on participating in active sports. Isn't it dangerous for him and shouldn't he be made to stop? M.C.

Answer:
If the boy enjoys athletics, by all means let him continue. There are some precautions that can be taken however, such as: wearing safety or plastic lenses in a special padded frame or wearing contact lens. Contact lenses would be best because they could give him the widest field of vision.

Question:
My plastic frames are always breaking. I was told that they get brittle because I perspire quite a bit. Is there anything I can treat the frame with to keep this from happening? E.S.

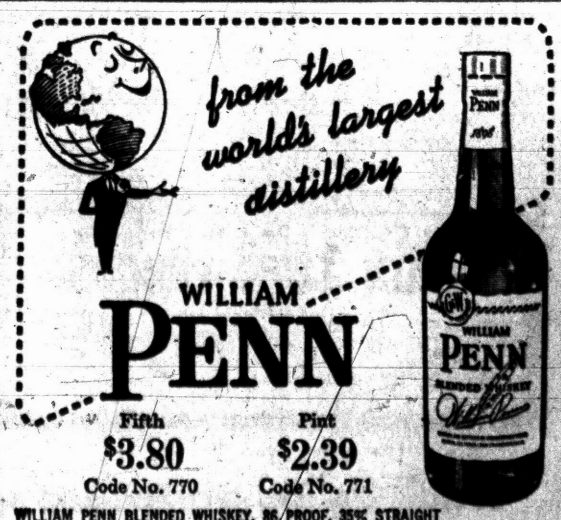

Answer:
There is nothing I know of to "waterproof frames" but I would suggest you try an aluminum frame next time instead of one made with plastic. They are a little more expensive but they last longer, are lighter in weight, will not fade and seem to hold their adjustments longer.

Question:
My eight-year-old daughter complains of her eyes bothering her but I think she wants to wear glasses because some of her classmates have them. How can I tell if she really needs them? D.M.

Answer:
Don't try to outguess her because there is the possibility that she really does need them. Take her to a reliable optometrist and have him put your mind at ease.

John o' Groat, who gave his name to the settlement on Scotland's far northeastern tip, was a man of enormous tact, the National Geographic Magazine says. He supposedly had seven sons with turbulent dispositions. So he built a house with eight doors and an octagonal table to give them all equal precedence.

Bob Considine Says:

Reporter Warned Against Russia in 1944

CAIRO — The last time I saw Cairo . . .

Karl von Wiegand, the dean of American foreign correspondents, gave me a photostat of an article he wrote for the New York Journal American and other Hearst papers dated Jan. 16, 1944.

At was written at a time when we were throwing our hats in the air over the feats of the Russian military, our noble allies. What he wrote at that time was widely condemned. Excerpts:

"There must be some very naive gentlemen in Washington who can believe that while in the United States there is talk of an 'American century' or even an 'American world,' following the war, that there are not men in the Kremlin who have very similar ambitions for a Soviet Russian world with better chances for realizing it, at least in Europe and in Asia."

"Soviet Russia is on the road to potentialities of might and power . . . such as no nation has had in prospect in more than 100 years. The historic irony of it all is that America and Great Britain, the latter a traditional foe of Russia, are making the same Russia greater, mightier, more powerful by their policies."

"Stalin is intensely realistic (about not helping the Allies in the war against Japan). Are we not engaged in the task of destroying the political might and prestige, and the military strength of the Japanese empire, the only possible and formidable enemy that Russia has in all Asia? . . . We are clearing the path for the dominance of Soviet Russian influence on the major part of the continent of Asia . . . and Europe."

The Nile-Hilton Hotel is the cleanest in this entire part of the world. The villainous Egyptian fly, which hits like a sticky pebble, has been barred. Its kitchens are sanitary, its food rigidly inspected, its water pedigreed, its rooms air-conditioned.

So our whole party took off the other day for a tent lunch out in the Sahara in the midst of a blinding sandstorm.

It's a sobering experience to drive through this most forlorn real estate on earth when it is beset by high winds. A sandstorm, if anything, is more terrifying than a great sleet storm. The road a few feet ahead suddenly disappears.

The stuff blasts at the side of the car and can denude it of paint in a short time. Our driver got lost and we wandered for three hours in this lost world and, like half a dozen other guests, never did find the tent. Understand the food tasted a great deal like sand.

Makes a fellow wonder what Agnes Ayres ever saw in Rudolph Valentino.

The annual per capita income of Egypt is under $50 . . . the going price for a baby camel is eight Egyptian pounds—$20. . . . It is difficult for any Egyptian to get a permit to leave the country. . . . Nasser spokesmen assured us that press censorship is in the process of being lifted, but the man still wanted three copies of everything I've written here, and six copies of a radio broadcast. . . . General Naguib, ostensible leader of the coup which unseated Farouk, is still under "house arrest" in Heliopolis.

His imprisonment is not harsh, an Egyptian told us. "He is given much whisky and permitted to have two wives."

An American won the bid to install a million-dollar communications system to stretch across Egypt. The Egyptian official told him, "We will pay you in goods, of course, not pounds or dollars." The American smacked himself in the forehead and roared, "What am I going to do with a million dollars worth of mango seeds?"

The Jesuit schools in Cairo have been returned to the rightful owners, after being requisitioned for failure to abide by some obscure Nasser decree. Only one thing had been changed in the schools. Under all paintings showing Moses leading his flock out of Egypt and back to Israel now appeared this caption: "Moses leading the Israelis out of the United Arab Republic and back to usurped Palestine."

Arrested as Link to Canada Loot

Charge Miami Man Received Part of Bank Robbery Money

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A Miami adventurer who once figured in Latin American intrigues is under $20,000 bond on a charge of receiving loot from a 2¼-million-dollar bank burglary in Canada.

Edward J. Browder Jr., 42, was held for continued hearing March 16 by U.S. Commissioner Roger E. Davis.

The FBI said Browder was carrying $136,650 in stolen bonds and a loaded pistol in a brief case when arrested. Special Agent Lee O. Teague said Browder was preparing to negotiate sale of the securities.

Teague said the FBI learned Browder had communicated with several persons in an effort to market the bonds. Browder's lawyer, Louis A. Sabatino emphasized there was no charge implicating Browder in the burglary itself in which the Brockville, Ont., Trust and Savings Co. was plundered by five men last May. It was one of a series of huge securities thefts in Ontario and Quebec.

Mail Floods Proxmire After Johnson Blast

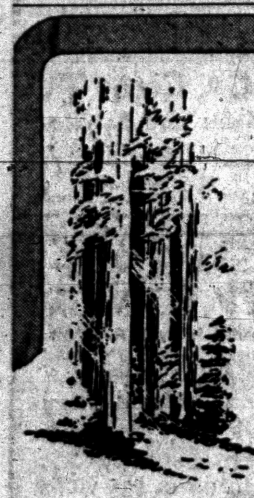

WASHINGTON (AP)—Mail has flooded the office of Sen. William Proxmire (D-Wis) since his well publicized Senate speech last week in which he criticized the Senate leadership of Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex).

Proxmire says the mail is running 30 to 1 in support of his criticism. Some of the minority comment came in letters postmarked Texas.

One example: "We think you are a good Democrat and a fine senator, but we love that Lyndon."
