Tax Issue Passes, Hospital Loses

Proposed Bonds Lack Sixty Pct. So Rate to Drop

'55 Levy Will Be Down
50 Cts. on Each $1,000
Property Valuation

Voters Monday approved a charter amendment increasing the city's tax limit from 10 mills to 12½ mills but failed to approve by the required 60 per cent majority a $3,000,000 bond issue for hospital expansion.

However, only 1½ mills of the increase ($1.50 per $1,000 valuation), earmarked for public improvements, can be used. The other $1 per $1,000 valuation, set up for hospital expansion, cannot be used because of the bond issue defeat.

The tax limit boost is effective in 1955.

If at any time in the future voters approve a hospital bond issue, the 1-mill authorized yesterday for hospital purposes could be taxed, according to City Manager Walter K. Willman.

The majority approval of city voters voting needed to pass the tax proposal was obtained, 6,863 voting "yes" and 6,080 voting "no."

A majority of the property owners approved the hospital bond issue, but the "yes" vote fell 497 short of gaining the required 60 per cent of those voting. The vote was 6,240 in favor and 4,908 opposed.

Pontiac's tax rate will drop 50 cents per $1,000 as a result of voters' decisions on the two proposals, according to Willman.

Because the city charter amendment increasing the tax limit stated that $1 of the $2.50 per $1,000 could be used only for hospital (Continued on Page 2, Col. 8)

Tornado Alert Later Canceled

'Danger Appears Past' Weather Bureau Says
in Mid-afternoon

The Weather Bureau withdrew its tornado alert at 2:30 this afternoon advising "danger of a tornado now appears past."

From AP & UP Dispatches
DETROIT — The U. S. Weather Bureau warned at 12:30 p. m. today there was a "chance of an isolated tornado" in an area 50 miles north of a line running from Fort Wayne, Ind., to Port Huron, Mich. It said the alert would continue until 3 p. m.

The Weather Bureau said the other line extended from Sturgis to Harbor Beach, Oakland County is included in the alerted area.

The bureau also said it would issue an all-clear when the threat of the tornado has ended.

A year ago in May a tornado struck Port Huron and Sarnia, Ont., across the St. Clair River. Five persons were killed and millions of dollars of damage done.

A month later the worst tornado in Michigan history struck the northern outskirts of Flint, killing or fatally injuring 116.

Police Nab Suspects in Bank Holdup

DETROIT — FBI agents and suburban Dearborn Police today arrested two 21-year-old men in the $35,000 robbery of the Manufacturers National Bank in Dearborn last Friday.

Both were captured in a Dearborn home. One leaped from a second-story window to avoid capture but broke his arm.

Most of the money stolen in the daring daylight robbery was found in the home, police said, "stuffed in an old grip."

The men were identified as Thomas Cox and James Minder Jr. Minder said they rented the house a few weeks ago while planning the bank robbery.

Voluntary Test to Be Safe

Head of County Physicians Explains Stand on Vaccine

Dr. Robert J. Mason today said there's nothing alarming in Michigan Medical Society's executive committee statement that it will not recommend the new Salk polio vaccine be used until there is further assurance that the serum is safe.

The president of Oakland County Medical Society commented that the state committee's stand "doesn't show any change of attitude at all."

"We've all said from the first," he said, "that not one drop of this serum will be given any child until we get a written statement from the U. S. Health Service that it's absolutely safe."

Meanwhile, Dr. Mason said, the county will go ahead with plans for the vaccine field tests.

Local plans include a public meeting Wednesday at 8 p. m. at Stevens Hall, West Pike and Williams streets, when health officials and National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis personnel will answer audience questions about the vaccine and the tests.

Some 35,000 youngsters in the first, second and third grades of Oakland County's schools are scheduled to take part in the field test of the new polio vaccine.

The serum, developed by Dr. Jonas E. Salk in research paid for by the National Foundation, would be given half the "test" group, an inactive liquid to the others.

Believes Russia Would Shun Risk; Danger Lies in Miscalculated Move

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower told the nation and the free world last night Russia is unlikely to risk war so long as this country stands ready to strike back swiftly with all its atomic might.

The President declared, however, that Americans must prepare "very coldly and very carefully" against the danger that power-loving men in the Kremlin might "in a fit of madness or through miscalculation" plunge the world into a hydrogen-bomb-ago holocaust.

As for the United States, he said, "We're not going to start a war" despite this country's advantage in atomic weapons.

facing of the atomic era facts of life—and a fervent warning against the perils of "jitters" and hysteria over communism, investigations of communism or the threat of depression.

"We don't have to fear," he said. "Of course, there are risks, but we do not have to be hysterical."

"We can be vigilant; we can be Americans. We can stand up and hold up our heads and say, America is the greatest force that God has ever allowed to exist on his footstool. As such it is up to us to lead this world to a peaceful and secure existence, and I assure you we can do it."

Pontiac (Illinois) Gets Roundabout Local Phone Call

PONTIAC, Ill. — Firemen in Pontiac got a telephone call early today from Tulsa, Okla., to put out a fire—not in Tulsa, but five miles north of Pontiac.

The fire was in a storage tank containing 150,000 barrels of crude oil at the Sinclair pumping station. Workmen at the station however, couldn't make a telephone call to the fire department. Lightning, which started the fire, also disrupted telephone service to Pontiac, a city of 9,000 about 100 miles south of Chicago.

But it did not affect a direct telephone line to the company's headquarters in Tulsa, so a call was put through there and the fire reported. Tulsa relayed the call to the Pontiac Fire Department.

The fire was confined to the top and sides of the tank, and did not spread to six other tanks.

Finnegan and McCallum Elected Municipal Judges

Judge Maurice E. Finnegan and Cecil McCallum were elected yesterday to serve six-year terms each in Pontiac Municipal Court.

McCallum beat Odin H. Johnson who was appointed by the City Commission in January to fill the unexpired term of the late Judge Charles P. Webster.

Judge Finnegan piled up an impressive margin over the other candidates for the two judgeships.

The other defeated candidate was G. Edson Hallock. The vote was: Judge Finnegan, 8,502; McCallum, 6,384; Johnson, 5,220; and Hallock, 4,346.

Judge Finnegan and McCallum will begin the new terms July 4.

Johnson said today that he would resign as judge effective April 15. This would permit the City Commission to appoint McCallum to replace Johnson until the new term begins.

Judge Finnegan has served as municipal judge since 1941, except for two years in the Army in World War II.

The 48-year-old jurist is a native of Pontiac and lives at 173 N. Johnson Ave.

McCallum, 52, has been a Pontiac resident since 1910 and has been an attorney for 21 years. He lives at 72 Dwight Ave.

Both Judge Finnegan and McCallum took early leads when returns started coming in last night and increased their totals until the final precincts reported after midnight.

Commissioner Paul A. Kern was not a candidate for re-election in District 3 where William W. Donaldson defeated Earl J. Smith 580 to 448. Donaldson, 48, operates an insurance agency. He was District 3 commissioner from 1944-48.

Victor in District 5 was John A. Dugan who totaled 1,404 votes to win over John H. Ridgway who had 841. Dugan, 45, is an employee of Pontiac Motor Division.

Present District 5 Commissioner Ronald C. Hallenbeck, who was defeated for nomination in the primary, received 305 write-in votes.

Birmingham Voters Elect 3 to Commission, Approve Bond Issue, Annexation

From Our Birmingham Bureau
BIRMINGHAM—With more than one-fourth of the registered voters going to the polls, residents approved the three questions on the ballot yesterday and named James C. Allen, incumbent, Robert E. Navin and William E. Roberts to three-year seats on the City Commission.

Annexation of the 45-acre tract of Troy Township land within the city was achieved, although Troy residents voted against it, 30 to 64 in a special election.

Birmingham residents approved adding the property, 2,568 to 374, thus providing the necessary majority of the total votes cast in the two elections.

A charter amendment providing more adequate benefits for city employees and their dependents, under the city retirement system, was approved 2,615 to 478.

The proposed $225,000 bond issue to finance building two new fire stations received almost a six to one favorable vote, passing 2,496 to 402.

Owners of the annexed land, the W. E. Reid Development Co., plan construction of Adams Village, a $4,000,000 development of 19 single-family residences, 210 duplex units, and business frontage along Adams road.

Annexation was sought to secure sewer, water and other city facilities which the township could not provide.

Grand Rapids Mayor Defeated

Ex-Commissioner Wins Over Goebel in Heated Election Battle

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
George Veldman, a former city commissioner, nosed out Grand Rapids' incumbent Mayor Paul G. Goebel Monday. Then Veldman said he may ask former Mayor George W. Welsh, who Goebel unseated in 1949, to be city manager.

The vote fight turned Grand Rapids Municipal election into one of the hottest in the state, as cities and towns voted on countless issues and civic candidates.

Although Veldman's margin was narrow, an unofficial 21,984-21,781, Goebel said he personally would not ask for a recount. However his campaign committee said it might and would meet today to decide.

Veldman said he and a majority of the seven-man City Commission favored Welsh for city manager to replace Millard M. Moore who is now doubling as city manager and city engineer.

Goebel was first elected in 1950, after taking a leading part in a recall movement that had made Welsh resign in 1949. Goebel had charged law law enforcement.

Welsh, however, resigned rather than face the recall election. Moore, if Welsh is picked as city manager, will leave the $17,500 a year job and concentrate on city engineering.

The election results will also give anti-Goebel forces a 4-3 majority on the City Commission.

At Owosso voters rejected a proposal to revise the city's 40-year-old charter. The vote was 1,033 for, 1,527 against. The proposal, sponsored by the Citizens' Research Council and the Charter Revision Committee, reportedly would have brought about a city manager form of government.

Owosso now has a mayor and a three-man City Commission. The proposal was defeated in four out of the city's five wards.

Voters narrowly defeated a proposal which would have provided the city with a $170,000 sewerage system expansion. The vote needed a 3-3ths majority, but fell 1,361 to 891. The margin was 32 votes.

William Stickle was re-elected city commissioner and Randall Grover was re-elected municipal constable.

At Marquette 3,800 voters named three city commissioners to two year terms. Elected were Harold W. Alholm, Lynn H. Halverson and Richard C. Hammerschmidt.

Incumbents Howard J. Larson and Emmett M. Dwyer were named to two year terms on the Marquette County Board of Supervisors along with C. Donald Johnson who replaces Dennis A. Havan.

Voters also gave 10-1 approval to a proposal to give the Upper Peninsula Power Co. a 30-year irrevocable franchise to transmit power in the city. A 3-3ths majority was all that was required.

Greenview voters gave Democrats Owen Mumaw his fifth term as mayor. He defeated Republican Robert E. Gravelle, a used car dealer, by 1,042 to 413.

The voters also approved, 1,128-139, a $150,000 bond issue for construction of an elevated water storage tank.

At Big Rapids, Mayor Donald F. Rankin, dean of men at Ferris Institute, won an unopposed second term as mayor.

In the first election under a new city charter, Big Rapids voters also elected a four-man non-partisan City Commission to replace the former two-man Commission.

Elected to four year terms were Arthur S. Wilson and Edmund E. Ilesonen. Two-year terms were given Charles Adkins and Russell M. Brown. Neither incumbent sought re-election.

The veterans would be paid at the rate of $10 a month for domestic service and $15 a month overseas to a maximum of $500.

The suggestion that the bonus should be limited to veterans who served in Korea was attacked by Rep. Leann Harrelson (D-Pontiac) who said that the state should compensate all veterans for sacrificing their time in the armed services.

He said the FBI—rather than the nation's "great bulwark" against Communist infiltration.

He said "very grave offenses" can be committed against innocent persons by "someone having the immunity of congressional membership"—though he voiced confidence that in the long run public opinion "will straighten this matter out wherever and whenever there is real violence done to our people."

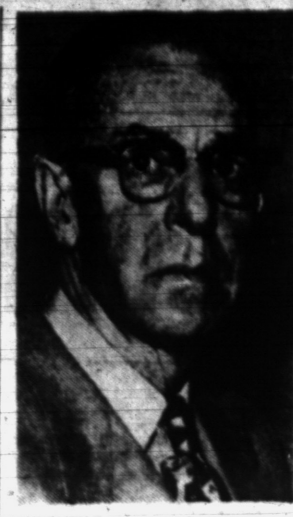

And he said that while Communists in this country are dangerous and must be pinpointed, their number is "minute" and is often exaggerated.

Actually, he said, there aren't more than 25,000 doctrinaire or dyed-in-the-wool Communists and they are not government workers and other Americans are "just as dedicated as you and I."

On another home front topic, he said unemployment "happily shows every sign now of leveling off."

The government is ready to undertake anything necessary to prevent a depression, he said, but "does not intend to go into any slam-bang emergency program unless it is necessary."

Police Veteran Retires Today

Det. Lt. James Curran Leaving Pontiac Force After 32 Years

After 32 years with the Pontiac Police Department Det. Lt. James H. Curran, 57, of 60 Douglas St., retires today.

The second oldest officer in length of service, Curran is retiring on the advice of his doctor. He spent 24 days in the hospital recently.

Joining the department April 24, 1922, Curran was made a detective in 1937 and was promoted to sergeant in 1948. Three years later Police Chief Milton F. Cooney promoted him to his present rank.

He served as special investigator for the county prosecutor's office in 1931 and was head of the police juvenile bureau in 1946.

"Curran's Saturday Morning Club," which he formed for youngsters, has brought him high praise throughout the city.

After several years of work in the vice bureau, he became head of the detective division in 1951.

In 1937, Curran received a "conspicuous bravery award" for foiling an attempted robbery of the Sears-Roebuck Co. He shot it out with four thugs of Detroit's Tutha gang. One slug tore through the crown of Curran's hat, but he was not wounded.

He also received two other commendations.

Fellow officers, Lt. Walter C. Krause and Capt. Clark M. Wheaton, chief of detectives, expressed regret at his leaving.

Of the present police officers, only Lt. Ira Herron has served on the force longer than Curran. Herron became a policeman a few months before Lt. Curran joined the department.

C. of C. Seeking New Members

Launches 3-Day Drive With Kickoff Breakfast This Morning

Pontiac Chamber of Commerce launched its drive for new members today with an early-morning kickoff breakfast at Hotel Waldron. Curtis E. Patton, drive chairman, briefed some 40 campaign workers on the three-day drive, due to end in a victory luncheon Friday noon.

John W. Hirlinger, the chamber's assistant manager, opened the program. Several chamber members spoke briefly.

With slogans like "Pitch In For Pontiac" and "Let's Do More in '54," Patton urged campaign workers to sign on as many new members as possible.

"There's power in Pontiac," he said. "No amount of wishing will make a better community—but Pontiac Chamber of Commerce is working full time for a better civic, commercial and industrial Pontiac."

Patton pointed out that the chamber, open to any ethical business or professional man, needs funds as well as members. He said the chamber should have a full-time employee working to get industries to build new factories in Pontiac; and another to work with retail merchants.

Chamber of Commerce membership is a three-for-one deal, Patton said. Each member is a member of the chamber, the Better Business Board and Retail Merchants Association.

"The people in our Chamber of Commerce are the top-flight business and professional men in Pontiac," he said. "To belong means you want to go places; want to help your community."

"The way to get more power in Pontiac is to get more members for the chamber," he said. "Let's build Pontiac together!"

substance unless his parents have requested he take part in the test.

Dr. Mason today said it was true that some batches of the serum have been tested, found unsafe and thrown out. Others have been tested, found safe, and used on Pennsylvania children.

"When you put any new serum into mass production," he said, "you usually come up with a few 'bad' batches that you throw away. The reason for running three separate laboratory tests on each batch is to find any serum that isn't absolutely safe—and throw it away."

Dr. Mason repeated that every batch of serum must pass lab tests by Dr. Salk's laboratory, the manufacturer and the U. S. Public Health Service.

Dr. Mason said that he has talked to manufacturers of the serum about a statement that seven of ten batches had been found dangerous and thrown away.

"There haven't even been 10 batches made up to test in the labs yet," he said. "Parents can rest assured that this vaccine will never be given any child here if there's the least danger it may harm that youngster."

To the subcommittee and to reporters, Sears said he declared that he had never taken any position publicly or privately on McCarthy.

Sears was unanimously selected for the post of special counsel last week. But after the appointment, it developed that Boston newspapers had quoted him in 1952 as hailing McCarthy's reelection and praising McCarthy's "great job" in driving Communists from the government.

Board of Education to Discuss Budget

The Pontiac Board of Education will meet for a special session tonight to take up next year's proposed school budget of $4,847,499.90, about $400,000 higher than this year's.

The meeting is scheduled for 7:30 in the school offices at 40 Patterson St.

The proposed budget for the coming school year, which starts July 1, has been revised to include about $257,500 for pay increases.

The school board also plans to decide whether to buy 10½ acres of Oakland County-owned land on Kennett road for a future school site.

From 100 tons of dry cane sugar it is possible to make almost 3,000 gallons of gasoline, more than 4,500 gallons of oil. In addition to more than eight tons of sugar.

En route to Magistrate's Court, they saw another car, driven by a woman, commit a similar act. Officers stopped the car and found that it was driven by Snider wife. Each was fined $10.

NOW, MOBIL POWER COMPOUND

An exclusive development of Socony-Vacuum laboratories brings amazing power-saving and mileage-saving benefits for every motorist.

RELIEVES PRE-IGNITION PING

Pre-firing of the combustion mixture is a major cause of power waste and damage to engine parts. Mobil Power Compound's amazing chemical additive, RT 125, quells and controls glowing and fiery particles which are responsible for this common trouble.

CORRECTS SPARK PLUG MISFIRING

due to injurious combustion deposits. Mobil Power Compound gives new positive control of such deposits—"takes the wraps off" your spark. It acts to increase engine power—increases the effective life of spark plugs up to three times.

CONTROLS STALLING OF ENGINE

due to icing of carburetor. No other gasoline offers the protection of GLYMONATE, unique de-icing additive developed by Socony-Vacuum and covered by patent applications.

Snake Cultist Dies From Bite

Congregation Members Take Rattler to Country and Slay It

LONG BEACH, Calif. (INS)—The death of an elderly woman of a rattlesnake bite received during the religious ceremonies of a snake cult was listed officially as an accident today and police closed their investigation of the case.

Investigators said the only law violation they could uncover was the failure to have a permit for handling poisonous reptiles within the city limits. No action was planned on that issue.

The victim of the fatal snake bite was Mrs. Bertha Smith, 72. She died at her home Monday after having been bitten on the hand during services Sunday at the Church of the First Born.

Her son, Elza D. Smith, 49, said he arrived at his mother's home a few minutes before she died and found that her face and chest had turned black.

He expressed regret over her death, but said he was glad she died in the faith she had held for 50 years.

The woman's son-in-law, Faw Jordan, 35, a real estate salesman, also was bitten on the hand when he seized the nine-rattle snake after it sank its fangs in Mrs. Smith's hand.

He apparently received a smaller dose of venom and is recovering, although his right arm is black and swollen. Smith said:

"Brother Jordan is doing fine. He is firm in his beliefs and has no desire for medical aid. If he accepted it, he would be held in error by the church."

Smith said that after the bitings took members of the congregation to the snake into the country-side "and slew it."

Legislature Has to Change Rules for Ike Invitation

LANSING (AP)—The Legislature had to change its rules last night to invite President Eisenhower to make Mackinac Island his summer White House in 1955.

The invitation, part of the plan for the Soo Locks Centennial, was contained in a concurrent resolution, sponsored by Sens. Harry F. Hittle (R-East Lansing) and William A. Ellsworth (R-St. Ignace).

But Sen. Edward Hutchinson (R-Fennville) protested that legislative rules forbade adoption of concurrent resolutions in the last week of a session.

So the invitation was delayed while the Senate changed the rule and asked the House to do likewise.

Sen. Donald W. Gilbert (R-Saginaw) asked: "Isn't there some way we can invite the President without going through all this maneuvering. It's a nice gesture but after all, he isn't going to come anyway."

Interlochen Director Withdraws Objection

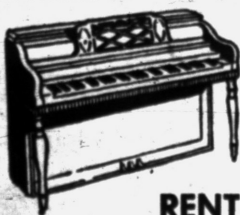

TRAVERSE CITY (AP)—Dr. Joseph E. Maddy, director of the national music camp, told the Air Force Monday that he has withdrawn objections to a jet plane base near Traverse City.

Dr. Maddy said earlier that the drone of the jets would disrupt musical performances at the camp. The Air Force assured him, he said, that runways would be built so that planes would not take off directly over the woodland camp.

The Air Force proposal is to build the jet base eight miles southwest of Traverse City—six miles from the music camp.

Pair of Alma Burglars Get Prison Sentences

ALMA (AP)—Harry Susdorf, 25, and Anthony Elsea, 24, both of Alma, were sentenced Monday to terms in Southern Michigan Prison for breaking and entering at night. Circuit Judge Paul R. Cash gave Susdorf 10 to 15 years and Elsea 8 to 15 years.

Police said the pair made some 50 illegal entries in 15 Central Michigan counties over a 10-week period.

Stove Company for Sale at Auction in Battle Creek

BATTLE CREEK (AP)—The A-B Stoves Co., a subsidiary of the Detroit-Michigan Stove Co., will be sold at auction April 27-28. The plant, closed since late 1953, covers about 225,000 square feet of floor space in some 16½ acres.

All buildings, land, tools, equipment, and fixtures will be sold. Stove production was transferred to Detroit, closing the plant.

Detroit Sentenced for Having Heroin

Floyd Hudson, 31, of Detroit, was sentenced to 18 months to 10 years in prison Monday by Circuit Judge H. Russel Holland for possessing narcotics.

He pleaded guilty March 24 and will serve his term in Southern Michigan Prison at Jackson.

Hudson was arrested by Pontiac Police Dec. 8 after a woman told them he had tried to force her to take heroin. At the time he was given five days in jail for possession of policy slips. While he was in jail police found two capsules of heroin in his car.

Dislikes Slashes for Mental Care

Governor Hopes Cuts Being Proposed Will Be Reinstated

LANSING (UP) — Gov. G. Mennen Williams charged Monday that proposed legislative cuts in his recommended appropriation for the state mental hygiene program will hamper community psychiatric services and operation of present mental hospitals.

"I cannot urge too strongly that the cuts made in number and cost of personnel at various hospitals be reinstated," the governor said in a special 700-word message to the Legislature.

"It has long been recognized that proper care and effective treatment of patients can only be provided by competent personnel in sufficient numbers. Lack of care means lack of cure and longer residency of patients."

The Senate Appropriations committee has reported out a bill providing $43.6 millions for operation of the mental hygiene program in 1954-55—a reduction of $800,000 from Williams' recommendation of $44.4 millions.

Over 25 per cent of the cut in total mental hygiene budget outlay was made in the budget for Northville State Hospital, the state's newest mental institution.

"At Caro, Coldwater and Pontiac State hospitals minor cuts have been made in salaries and wages which will handicap or prevent proper staffing," Williams said.

H-Bombs and Survival

Awesome though they are, just released details of the destruction which can be wrought by a hydrogen bomb should serve a useful purpose.

From now on no one anywhere should doubt that the atomic and thermonuclear age has reached a point where nations must find a way to control this force if humanity is to survive.

Actually the impact of these facts is so terrific as to be almost beyond realization. One can read AEC Chairman Lewis Strauss' statement that it is possible to make an H-bomb which could put any city in the world out of commission, without appreciating its full meaning.

Even when the effects of an H-bomb dropped on our Court House are spelled out, it is difficult to comprehend the full scope of the problem confronting mankind.

Reactions abroad seem to be the best index to the fear generated by the news that our March 1 H-bomb had the destructive power of 16,000,000 tons of TNT. Anxiety was most evident in Japan and Britain. On the other hand Russia, which also has the H-bomb, dusted off its rejected atomic weapon control plan—still without any inspection feature.

On the Home front there is widespread opinion that H-bomb progress has tossed into the ash heap this country's former concept of adequate Civil Defense. One school seemingly now believes that community Civil Defense effort has become a hopeless waste of time, energy and money.

Another, and perhaps more logical opinion is that henceforth Civil Defense emphasis must be placed on advance warning and means for speedy evacuation of large cities.

Meanwhile we believe our Government is right in building up both its knowledge and stock of A and H-bombs as a further deterrent to aggressive attacks. At the same time we hope, with countless millions everywhere, that the terrifying potentialities of these new weapons will convince all nations that there must be no more war. That would confine atomic energy to peaceful purposes for the good of all mankind.

Architect of Air Power

Because his career was linked with this State, the untimely death of Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg especially saddened the people of Michigan.

Interest in his career from the time he first came into prominence was widespread because he was a nephew of the late Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg. In a sense he was an adopted son of Michigan. Born in Milwaukee and brought up in Massachusetts, he lived for a time at the home of the Senator when the latter was editor of the Grand Rapids Herald.

It was during that period that Hoyt Vandenberg got his appointment to West Point from the late Sen. William Alden Smith. From there he climbed up the ladder was rapid, culminating in the rank of four star general and service as Air Force Chief of Staff.

History records that President Eisenhower had a part in that rise. In April, 1944, the President, then DTC commander, telephoned General Marshall from Europe to ask that Hoyt Vandenberg be made his air deputy with the rank of major general. This was done.

The President has paid high tribute to Vandenberg, calling him a forceful fighter for the Air Force and the cause of strong national defense. We think it fitting that this soldier who was so much the architect of our modern Air Force should sleep forever among the heroic dead at Arlington.

Power From Volcanoes

Among the interesting research undertaken in recent years is that which seeks to prove the feasibility of generating electricity from volcanic steam.

This process isn't new as such a plant is now in operation in Italy. But the idea of using it on a much larger scale is of vital interest to Central American countries.

It is believed that far more productive plants could be operated in the volcanic areas of El Salvador, Guatemala, Honduras, Costa Rica and Nicaragua also are interested as they have plenty of volcanic steam available.

What makes the research doubly important to these countries is that all of them suffer from lack of sufficient electric power. If that could be supplied with the aid of this abundant underground force, the economies of these countries would be stimulated greatly and their living standards vastly improved.

In advocating higher income tax exemptions, Democrats probably weren't so much interested in trying to get the taxpayer out of the hole as they were in putting the Administration in it.

The loud mouths with the proletarian minds are at it again. A new club has been added to the long list of anti-fascist clubs of America, viz: The Joe Must Go Club of Wisconsin. So, if you hate your neighbor on radical-religious or political grounds, just hop on the bandwagon. You'll recognize the boys by their red complexions and the large holes in their heads.

We had public officials, church dignitaries, the intelligentsia of His time whom Christ called liars, thieves and whited sepulchers but they called him a blasphemer and crucified him. Today He would be called a fascist.

Communism is not the outgrowth of intelligence but the stupid mind further disordered by education. Consequently we have bred a new race—Fifth Amendment Americans.

Claims Congress Listens Carefully to Veterans

Amvets has been a healthy young organization since its birth, less than 10 years ago.

On July 23, 1947 Congress recognized Amvets as the leading veterans group born out of World War II and granted us a national charter.

When war broke out in Korea, Congress, at Amvets request, amended our charter to make veterans of Korea eligible for membership. Every year more than 4,000 bills are introduced into Congress, all of which could become law.

Obviously you need someone in Washington to tell Congress how you feel about these proposals. You can be sure that Congress listens carefully when all Amvets speak collectively through a representative in Washington.

They listened in 1953 when we urged a strong, virile veterans administration medical program, to our recommendations concerning service to veterans. A better, less expensive veterans administration resulted.

I strongly urge you to join us or the veterans' organization of your choice. All of the veteran groups in Pontiac cooperate with each other.

Says Liquor Commercials Bad Influence on Children

In a recent editorial you stated that House Bill 297 would not pass and the cost seemed to be the only reason for your decision. You forget the influence those programs have on children and young people.

The courts are having many complaints about our youth—13 years and up—and the alcoholic says that the ads on TV are so great . . . to see someone drinking and saying how good.

That bill would not restrict the programs sponsored by liquor, only pouring a glass and drinking it. I hope that you will reconsider the money part.

Function Called Executive 'Leadership' Could Be Dangerous, End in Dictatorship

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Totalitarian concepts that could be the forerunner of a new form of fascism some day in America have begun to emerge in the pressures being directed at President Eisenhower to change the historic role of the chief executive and assume functions, called "leadership," but which actually envisage a type of dictatorship.

The first public sign of this pressure appeared today in a paid advertisement in a local newspaper which called upon President Eisenhower to ignore one of the basic constitutional rights of the Congress.

It said, in part: "We would like to see you forbid government representatives to appear before McCarthy's subcommittee until he gives ample and unmistakable proof that he will abide by fair and reasonable rules of procedure in the treatment of witnesses."

The 51 Americans who signed this statement are well-meaning, loyal, highly respectable persons who probably never gave a moment's thought to the constitutional implications of the petition which they were urged to sign.

For, if the President of the United States is to set himself up as the judge of what is "fair" or "reasonable" about a congressional procedure, then the system of government as the people of the United States have known it since 1787 will have been completely undermined.

The American constitutional system provides that Congress is the coordinate branch of the government, equal in power and authority, in its own sphere, with any other branch, and that the right of Congress to decide what shall be its own rules of procedure cannot be taken away by the executive branch of the government.

There is not a single Supreme Court decision which immunizes employees of the executive branch of the government from obeying a subpoena to appear before committees of Congress.

The same holds true for subpoenas by the courts. By long-established custom the President himself has been held to be theoretically immune from the subpoena power, but even this could be overturned by a Supreme Court decision in the future, or by a law of Congress.

If a President were to forbid at his pleasure the appearance of the officials of the executive department and agencies before Congress, he could successfully deprive the legislative branch of the government of the pertinent information it needs in formulating laws, especially appropriation bills.

Thus, the whole system of checks and balances set up by the founding fathers would collapse.

Never before in the memory of this correspondent has there been a movement started in America urging the President to assume a virtual dictatorship over the conduct of committees of Congress.

If he may pass judgment on its own rules of procedure, he could also, by the same precedent, evaluate at his will the qualifications of the members of Congress, or do anything else which hitherto has been strictly the prerogative of Congress.

The road would be open to the Hitler or Stalin practice of "purging" the legislature by order of the executive.

But the new totalitarianism in America is not confined entirely to an effort to make Congress the tool of the executive, as was the case with the German reichstag under Hitler.

There is, for instance, a drive to insist on a conformity of thought on the part of persons employed by congressional committees.

They must conform to the ideas of pressure groups who evidently seek the support of President Eisenhower in their present drive.

The controversy over what Samuel P. Sears said publicly concerning Communists in government, or his expressed beliefs that persons should not abuse the Fifth Amendment, or his political remarks in favor of a Republican candidate for senator in the state of Wisconsin in 1952, makes it apparent that only those who conform to certain precepts would be permitted hereafter to serve their government if the pressure groups have their way.

'Budget Beauty' Essential for Success in Marriage

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
 A "Budget Beauty" may catch a man's eye, but it requires a "Budget Beauty" to keep him happy after marriage. Otherwise, bill collectors will hound him and his car or furniture may be re-possessed by the finance company. So read these 5 rules for happy marriages.

Case K-388: Rev. William F. Esig, aged 80, is a retired Congregational minister in Oregon, City, Oregon.

"Dr. Crane, I still try to help couples prevent divorce and build happy, Christian homes," he recently informed me.

"Even though I am retired from the pulpit, I now make it my hobby to read your 'Worry Clinic' column and apply modern psychology to domestic situations.

"We've been discussing broken homes and divorce here in Oregon in recent months and have had several excellent newspaper stories about the problem.

"So what would you list as the best insurance for happy marriage?" If husband and wife are both active together in the same church, there is little likelihood of divorce.

 A "Budget Beauty" may catch a man's eye before marriage but it takes a "Budget Beauty" to keep him happy afterwards!

This means the wife should know how to operate a home with business efficiency.

So she should not marry in high school! She should first take a

In the average home, the wife should be made treasurer of the family corporation. This saves her husband much embarrassment, too, for he is then not likely to be asked, "Pal, can you lend me a five-spot till payday?"

For he can honestly say his wife handles all the money and he doesn't have $5 in his pocket.

Remember, too, that a wife doesn't spend your money. It is half hers at all times. Aside from lunch and carfare, you husbands are not entitled to any money until all the essential household expenses are met.

Then, and only then, are you entitled to 50 per cent of the balance. There'll be little balance, too, for most men earn just about enough to operate their home and meet the premiums on life insurance.

The couple should have children, in pairs spaced about 2 years apart, so the youngsters will socialize each other and be pals.

And it is wise for the in-laws to make a down payment on a little home for the newlyweds.

Don't subsidize their standard of living by adding cash handouts to the couple. If you give them money, put it into a down payment on a home or farm or business.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long 3-cent stamped, addressed envelope and a dime to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his psychological charts.)

Optimal Everyday Ration of Vitamin D Instead of 'Big Shot,' Advised by Brady

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

Would it be harmful, asks a Nevada reader, to take iodine ration, calcipaps and the vitamin B12 follic acid tablets all at the same time?

Well, now, let's see. For a long time I have taken my day's ration of the first two together three or four days in the week along with a bite of whatever I can snatch from the refrigerator as I sneak out to the patio.

The query reminds me of the conductor on the R & E running through Canandaigua, when my brother Andy was an R & E conductor. This chap was pretty well nourished and no nonsense about it.

At a favorite eating place while the other fellows fussed over their food, eating now this and afterward that, in the peculiar way some people have, this one simply put everything together in one dish—meat, potatoes, bread, pie, gravy—whipped it up and spooned it in while he read his paper.

After all, the fellow said, it's all going into your stomach, so what's the diff whether you take it piecemeal or sloop, as Jackie Gleason calls it?

Generally speaking, one who may be taking two or more medicines had better not combine them in one dose unless his or her physician approves doing so.

But the iodine ration, calcipaps, and B12 follic acid are not medicines. They're food or nutritional elements which one should get from a correct diet, not from a correct diet in these days of what Yankee wisecracks consider refined food?

Somehow the naive notion that this or that vitamin, especially if you get it in expensive "shots" gives you "pep."

You'll get more pep from bacon and eggs for breakfast or an extra glass of milk for lunch than any such "shot" can give you.

Ten or 15 years ago many physicians, including the writer of this column, were persuaded to believe enormous doses of vitamin D had some mysterious remedial effect upon chronic joint disability (call it "arthritis," rheumatism or what you will). We learned from sad experience that this hope was vain.

In the 1950 edition of The Ills Called Rheumatism I said "My advice to anyone who inquires about the high-potency vitamin D treatment is this: Leave it to the judgment of your physician."

The 1954 edition will hardly mention the high-potency or massive dose D treatment, but only the optimal daily ration of D (2,250 units) required for assimilation and utilization of calcium, as explained in the pamphlet "Calcium and Rheumatism," available on written request if you provide stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 150 words long, pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. Brady if a stamped, self-addressed envelope is enclosed.

Pierre du Pont Dies at Age 84

Brother, Sister Attend U.S. Chemical Pioneer in Final Hours

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP)—Pierre Samuel du Pont, dean of the famed chemical family and a major figure in the development of two of the world's largest industries, died last night. He was 84.

Du Pont, who took an active part in the Du Pont empire even after his announced retirement in 1940, was stricken with a severe abdominal pain shortly after dinner at Longwood, his estate at nearby Kennett Square, Pa.

Rushed to the Wilmington Memorial Hospital, Du Pont died of what physicians described as an aortic aneurysm (rupture of a main blood vessel).

A younger brother, Irene, and his sister, Mrs. R. R. M. Carpenter, were at his bedside. They are Du Pont's only immediate survivors.

Du Pont, who shunned publicity and seldom made public appearances, was a former president and board chairman of E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co. He also served as president of General Motors Corp. for three years.

Pierre was the great-great-grandson and namesake of a political refugee who fled to America from France in 1799. His father, Lamont du Pont, was a noted inventor and authority on explosives who founded one of the nation's first dynamite plants, the Repauno Chemical Co. near Gibbstown, N. J.

He was killed by an explosion of nitroglycerin when Pierre was 14. Pierre then took over the leadership of the family as the eldest of 11 children.

A noted philanthropist who once built an $800,000 hospital in memory of his chauffeur, Du Pont was a graduate of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Shortly after his graduation in 1890 he collaborated with a cousin in developing the first successful Du Pont smokeless powder.

Honorary Degree for Nixon Defeated

DURHAM, N.C. (AP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon, at one time scheduled to be the Duke University commencement speaker June 7, was refused an honorary degree by the school, a university spokesman said here yesterday.

The unidentified spokesman said Nixon, a graduate of the Duke Law School, was turned down for an honorary doctor of laws degree 61-42 by a secret faculty vote about a month ago. No reason was given.

The vice president's office announced two weeks ago that Nixon had canceled his engagement as the school's commencement speaker. However, the university spokesman said Nixon did not cancel the speech because of the vote. Nixon's office said the address was canceled because of the heavy file before Congress.

The university spokesman reported that Nixon was willing to make the commencement address after knowing of the faculty vote.

Only about one fifth of the Duke faculty attended the meeting and voted, the spokesman said. A secret committee of some members of the university board and the faculty had nominated Nixon for the degree.

No Set Answer to Cancer Issue

Physicians Say Telling Patient Depends on His Emotional Makeup

CHICAGO (AP)—Should a doctor "tell" a patient if he has cancer—or should he hide the information from him?

A small group of doctors, interviewed separately—and at random—today at the annual meeting of the American College of Physicians, were agreed that there's "no set answer" to the question, admittedly one of the toughest they have to face in practice.

The decision largely depends, they said, on the emotional makeup of the patient—and each case has to be handled individually.

But, in general, according to most of the doctors:

1. If the patient is an emotionally stable type who can "take it," then tell him.

2. If he's the type who might "go to pieces" emotionally, don't tell him. As one doctor put it, telling such a person he has cancer might even lead to suicide.

And one of the doctors said it's well to "individualize" not only for people who have an incurable cancer, but also for those who might have a cancer possibly curable by surgery, X-ray or radium.

"The very word 'cancer' still scares some people," said Dr. George Miller of Long Beach, N. Y., adding that people of that type should not be told what they have even though the particular cancer might be—and actually is—cured.

A compilation of the ideas of the doctors on why people should be told, if at all possible, is as follows:

(1) The personal desire of everyone to arrange his own financial and other matters; (2) the possibility that the patient, knowing his time was relatively short, might want to do something he wanted to do all his life, like take a long trip, or even, as one doctor put it, "be like a friend of mine who, on learning he had an incurable cancer, decided he'd go back and finish out law school"; and (3) the possibility that the patient might wish to provide an example of quiet courage that would be helpful to others in time of adversity.

Monkeyshines Reveal Illegal Liquor Cache

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—Officers Jim Harp and Johnny Coles arrested M. L. Sharp last night for illegal possession of whisky but they had to have an assist from Sharp's monkey.

The officers, unable to find evidence of whisky in Sharp's house, took a look in his back yard. There they found a monkey in a chicken coop playing with a half pint of whisky. A further search revealed 16 more pints.

"That damned monkey," said Sharp. "Last week he broke 12 bottles."

Kerr Optimistic on Tax Cutting

Believes Senate Will Approve Bill to Raise Personal Exemptions

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Kerr (D-Okla.) said today his guess is that the Senate will approve a move he co-sponsors to cut income taxes by increasing personal exemptions of each taxpayer and dependent.

He said in an interview he hopes this action will be taken in the Senate Finance Committee but that, if it is not done there, he believes success will come on the Senate floor.

The Finance committee, on which the Oklahoman serves, opens hearings today on a big tax revision bill to which Democrats hope to attach the income tax reduction.

The Eisenhower administration strongly supports the revision bill, which would make assorted tax cuts totaling $1,400,000 to business and individuals in its first year of operation. Just as strongly it opposes any new income tax slash.

Senate Republican leaders voice confidence they can beat the income tax cut as things stand now, citing indications that the business downturn is leveling off.

Democratic sponsors say it is too early to tell about the economic situation.

Both sides agree that the economic trend of the next two months probably will determine the outcome of the income tax fight in the Senate. The Finance Committee plans to end its public hearings April 23 and finish writing its version of the bill in May. It could be June before floor debate is finished.

Democrats have used the business decline as their principal argument for the income tax cut. They say efforts should be made to build up mass purchasing power instead of increasing incentives for business expansion, which the administration says is a main purpose of the revision bill.

Kerr is a co-sponsor with Sen. George (D-Ga.) and Frear (D-De.) of an amendment to raise income tax exemptions by $200 this year, a 4 1/2-billion-dollar tax cut, and by $400 in 1955 and thereafter, an eight-billion reduction. Kerr implied that smaller cuts would be pushed if the original plan were beaten.

In the House, Democrats tried for a $100 exemption increase, a tax cut of 2 1/2 billion. They lost 210-204 in a vote which largely followed party lines.

CORDOBA, Spain (AP)—An overturned lamp set fire last night to dried palm fronds being prepared in a small shop for Palm Sunday. Four children were burned to death.

Pair of 6-Legged Pigs Born to 6-Legged Sow

KEARNEY, Neb. (AP)—Farmers Harold and Elmer Bilsland have a sow that has an extra foot on each front leg—the extra being tucked away on the inside of the leg.

Recently that sow gave birth to piglets. And, got darn if a couple of them didn't have an extra foot on each leg.

Bones of Genghis Khan Returned, Peiping Says

TOKYO (AP)—The bones of Genghis Khan, Mongol conqueror of the 13th century, have been returned to Inner Mongolia, Peiping radio said today.

A broadcast said the Nationalists made off with his bier when the Communists were overrunning the mainland in 1949 and took it to Tsinhai province in the far west, where the Reds found it.

Bandages Fail to Hamper Smile Over Good News

A wide bandage on David Jackson's face couldn't hide a big smile today when he learned that his injured dog, Rusty, soon would be coming home.

The pet German Shepherd suffered a broken leg Saturday when struck by a car in front of the 13-year-old boy's home at 168 E. Wilson Ave.

Despondent over the dog's injury, Dave accidentally poured water on a coal fire Sunday, scalding his cheek and neck.

"I feel fine now," said Dave when told that Rusty's leg would mend. The veterinarian didn't say when the dog could leave the animal hospital, but promised him it would be as soon as possible.

Front Line Safest in Next War, Montgomery Says

LONDON (AP)—Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery thinks the safest place to be if a war breaks out is "in the front line with the fighting soldiers"—because he believes both sides will be using atomic weapons from the outset.

The hero of El Alamein, now NATO's deputy supreme commander in Europe, explained his view in a radio interview last night.

"If you're in the forward area, he (the enemy) cannot drop on you explosions, which have a killing effect over a wide area because he will kill all his own soldiers too."

Hunters to Stalk Rattlesnake Steak in Thrill Derby

OKENE, Okla. — Thrill-bent hunters will match wits Sunday with deadly rattlesnakes in the annual Okene Rattler Roundup—all for a piddling 50 cents a pound.

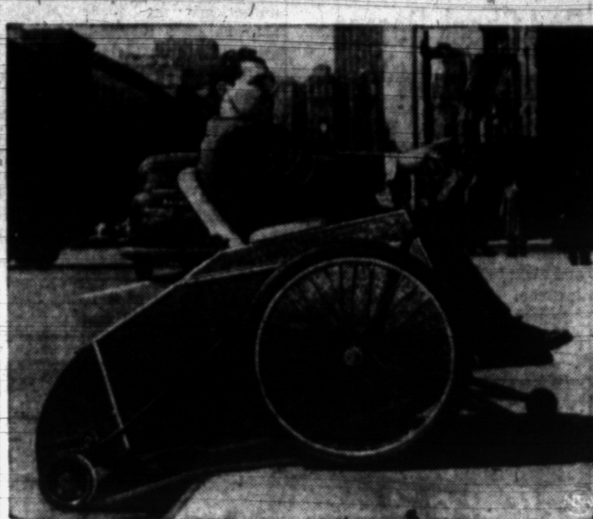

That's the current rate for rattlesnake meat on the hoof—alive and wiggling.

For thrills, many claim it's hard to beat—stalking sometimes vicious rattlers using nothing more than a forked stick or a pair of tongs.

Sponsors of the hunt claim, "anyone can do it." They bill it as "a new sport for the average man."

Thrill seekers from all over the nation will stalk the hills in groups, routing rattlers from their winter sleeping grounds. Some still are sleepy, others surprisingly active and vicious.

Rattlesnake steak will be on the menu at the big banquet Saturday night, preceding the hunt.

CURB-CLIMBER—M. Arnold Lerman, a New York City paraplegic, shows off the motorized wheel chair he developed. It allows a disabled person to climb the highest curb and moves easily through sand and snow. Powered by a two-cylinder engine it can travel between 10 and 15 mph. Lerman claims the user can control the vehicle with one hand.

Color Blind Reporter at New TV Showing

OKLAHOMA CITY — When station WKY-TV presented its first public television in color, the Daily Oklahoman sent reporter Jim Reid to cover the proceedings.

Reid looked at the television for a while and then asked WKY public relations man Wally Kinnam if the color really was good. Kinnam assured Reid the color was the best and asked why he questioned it.

"I'm color blind," Reid replied.

The Great Republic, listed as the largest clipper ship ever built, was 325 feet long, had four decks, could carry 6,000 tons of cargo and drew 24 feet of water.

Baby Found In New B-29

HOUSTON, TEX.—Modern ingenuity has devised a new type baby diaper that looks so much like a B-29 that it has modern mothers up in the air with enthusiasm. The manufacturer has named his creation, the "Dexter Diaper"—but the shape reminds one of a B-29 and the jet speed with which it can be washed and dried, positively has mothers wondering what to do with their spare time. Readers may mail this clipping plus 25¢ (in coin) direct to the DEXTER DIAPER FACTORY, DEPT. B-29, HOUSTON 8, TEX. AS for sample "Dexter Diaper" postpaid, beautifully packaged as a gift with a handsome set of pins-on-chain for baby and a Doctor Book with 16 modern ways to make diapering easier for mother. Only one gift-pack per clipping, because 25¢ does not fully cover manufacturer's cost.

New Trend Threatening: Homes Lack Bookshelves

By GEORGE GALLUP
Founder of the American Institute of Public Opinion.

We pollsters often notice surprising new trends before the public is aware of them. One such discovery we have made, recently, threatens many fields of our social structure. Searching for a positive, rather than merely critical way to explain it, I found this very interesting example:

A woman, brought up without a belief in God, wrote an article "What Shall I Tell My Children?" in the August 1952 issue of Harper's Magazine.

Priscilla Robertson, mother of three children, explained in her article that her rearing was not without ethical values, but rather that righteousness was humanly determined, not by a power in the universe greater than ourselves, and . . . "That it is our job, unaided, to make for ourselves a better life on this planet."

She planned to bring up her own children the same way.

A month later Harper's editors carried a page of letters from readers in answer to Mrs. Robertson's article. One of particular significance was from Mrs. William Robert Kapp of New York City.

Mrs. Kapp, also a mother of several children, placed herself in the same group of persons who were brought up without a belief in God, but with this difference. She felt it was important that, "regardless of a parent's personal stand on the matter, the children have a right to become acquainted with the varied religious heritage of the human race."

So Mrs. Kapp told how she began to read extensively, in order to broaden her own religious knowledge, that she might instruct her children in religious history. This reading, she explains, stimulated close self-examination, with unexpected results.

An interviewer called on Mrs. Kapp to ask further questions. He quickly noted the large floor to ceiling bookcases.

"It is a third generation library," Mrs. Kapp said. "It was begun by my grandfather. My own father, a classic scholar who taught high school until his recent retirement, added to the collection."

"My husband and I both agreed and planned, even before we were married, that we would raise our children without a belief in God," Mrs. Kapp continued. "We decided, however, that as a matter of general education, we would teach the children fundamental facts about all religions, just as we would teach them the history of other nations."

"I started with the Encyclopedia Britannica and read everything else I could find." This reading, she added, took several years. By the time their daughter was 4 and their son, 3, she was ready to begin their plan of education in religious history, without teaching active faith in God. But, at this point, she found something had happened to her thinking and she had changed her views on the subject. Could she explain it?

"Yes," Mrs. Kapp said. "As a young girl I was often troubled with a miserable feeling that I was going nowhere. This persisted even after marriage. Life did not mean what I felt it should. My inner convictions and drives to improve myself were at a low point."

"None of the high ideals of ethics such as helping people to better themselves, seemed to have much sense if I weren't going any place myself, and the universe appeared meaningless."

"I needed something basically affirmative. Gradually the responsibilities of married life had brought into focus my inadequacies and the need for inner strength to meet them."

"My reading showed that, with God as a center, my whole life could have a higher purpose. With this conviction as a new basis of living, everything I did took on a larger importance. My life was transformed. I chose a job I would otherwise never have chosen and my social life underwent a change too."

Mrs. Kapp's experience demonstrates very well the importance of an intellectual approach to religion — one based on reading, analysis and study.

Too many people, today, cease learning when they get a school diploma. To me it should be a continuous process from birth to death. Our surveys report that the typical American college graduate, today, doesn't read any more books than the person who has not had the advantage of such education.

One frequent observation made by our interviewers, who go throughout the country into the homes of rich and poor alike, is the growing absence of bookshelves in houses. Many modern homes are being designed and built without any provisions at all for books. When our interviewers ask people in such homes, where do you keep your books, they hear:

"Oh, we don't want them messing up the place" or "We keep a few underneath that table."

The gradual disappearance of books from American homes can actually be a real danger to our spiritual progress.

I, myself, have a deep faith, but I believe that religion has to be grounded not only on an emotional belief in God, but on experience and reason as well. I call it the systematic approach. I have found it provides a complete faith; and there is no better foundation for living.

To guarantee our spiritual vigor, I would like to pass this recommendation on to my own two sons and daughters as a bulwark to carry them through the years to come.

"Above all keep your mind open. Keep it eager and searching — and read. Read everything and keep studying. This will nourish your faith in the absolute existence of God, based upon an emotional love of His justice and mercy, and an intellectual appreciation of the scope of the Divine Plan which created this most amazing universe in which we live today."

TOMORROW—Beligion, for Ruth Hussey, screen star, is inspiration.

THE GROWING TREND TO LINCOLN

To a lady with her eye on fashion and a man with his eye on action

Young lady—do you keep ahead? In fashions? In home decorations? In the way you live? If so, we're talking to you.

And, sir—if you like action, this message is specifically for you. For the new Lincoln is the one fine car that comes closest to tomorrow—in design and performance.

Notice first the clean, trim look of the Lincoln. No bulging fenders or useless chrome. Functional beauty is built in every line. Second—drive this fine car. No other one on the road gives you such effortless response; for 2 years in a row Lincoln took 1st, 2nd, 3rd, 4th places among all stock cars in the Mexican Pan-American Road Race. (The Lincoln V-8 engine is the finest specimen of today's high-output, low-friction design. It has such exclusives as the vacuum-operated 4-barrel carburetor . . . and a precision-molded crankshaft for the utmost smoothness.)

And the Lincoln ride is purposely designed to be different—with its own kind of balance, poise and smoothness. The firm control, stability and easier handling are the result of the first major front suspension improvement in many years—the new ball-joint suspension found only in Lincoln among fine cars.

Won't you see the new Lincoln for yourself—and then drive it? Come in and let us hand you the keys to a Lincoln or a Lincoln Capri.

Papers Criticize Churchill Tactic

Even Tory Press Hits
His Charge That Attlee
Threw Away A-Pact

LONDON (U)—Even Conservative newspapers lambasted Prime Minister Churchill today for his charge that Clement Attlee's Labor government threw away Britain's wartime exchange of atomic secrets with the United States.

The nominally independent but usually pro-Conservative Times of London said yesterday's House of Commons debate on the hydrogen bomb "degenerated into a sterile, angry and pitiful party wrangle—and the responsibility was the Prime Minister's."

The Liberal, middle-road News Chronicle said the showing of the 79-year-old government chief in the House may foreshadow his early resignation from office, something many observers have predicted would happen this year.

The bitter partisan fight in the wake of Sir Winston's charge generally obscured the action of the House, which on a voice vote called on Churchill to take "immediate initiative" in seeking a face-to-face conference with Soviet Premier Malenkov and President Eisenhower. But the Laborites did not challenge the government's stand that the timing of such an approach should be left to it.

Churchill put the House in an uproar with his charge that it was the "responsibility or misfortune" of Attlee's 1945-51 government that a hitherto secret 1943 agreement for British-American atomic cooperation was no longer in effect.

Under the accord, reached at their Quebec conference in August 1943, Churchill and the late President Roosevelt set up the two-nation agency for development of the atomic bomb and agreed that neither would use atomic weapons against a third nation without the other's consent.

Attlee, seething with anger and backed by a continuous Labor chorus for Churchill to "withdraw!" "resign!" replied that the wartime agreement had been terminated by Congress' adoption in 1946 of the McMahon Act, which forbids sharing of U. S. atomic secrets with foreign governments.

Flash of Memory Allows Driver to Find His Car

CHICAGO (U)—A flash of memory and a persistent wife yesterday enabled Herbert Livermore, 35, to recover his automobile which he had been unable to find since Feb. 25.

On that date, a police squad car stopped him for driving without lights. Livermore said he admitted to "a couple of drinks" and the policemen parked his car, wrote the location on the back of his driver's license, gave him the keys, and put him on a bus for home.

Livermore lost the driver's license, couldn't remember the car's location and couldn't find the policeman who parked the car.

But he remembered the number 300 had some connection with the incident.

In a borrowed automobile, his wife, Wanda, 31, combed the 300 blocks of Chicago streets and Monday she found it in front of 310 S. Green St., a short distance west of the Loop.

Styrofoam, Pipe Cleaners Become Easter Bunnies

CHICAGO (INS)—Styrofoam, the plastic that looks like snow but doesn't melt away, can provide housewives with unusual Easter decorations for the table.

Whimsical bunnies can be con-structed from it with some pipe cleaners, sequins and ribbon.

Use a ball of styrofoam about the size of a pom-pom for the head and one about as big as a baseball for the body.

Stick them together with a pipe cleaner bent like the coil of a spring.

Similar coils can serve as the arms and pipe cleaners fashioned into hoops as the feet the "animal" stands upright on.

Give the bumpy pipe cleaner ears, too. Bend the pipe cleaner in the middle into a point and then bend it over once again to be "floppy."

The annual English cup and saucer party sponsored by Esther Court 13, Order of the Amaranth, will be held Wednesday evening at Roosevelt Masonic Temple. Wrapping gifts for the 8 o'clock affair, which will in-clude a style show, are Mrs. William Pfahler of Lakeland avenue, Catherine Mc-Crindle of Elizabeth Lake road and Mrs. Harley Bowers of West Walton boulevard (left to right).

Ballet Artist Lauds U.S. Jivé Craze

Kyra Nijinsky Says
That Any Type of

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor

If you are worrying about the jitterbug jive of your teen-ager, don't.

It's all an expression of America's great new vitality in appreciation of the dance, says Kyra Nijinsky, daughter of the late great Yslav Nijinsky, high priest of the ballet and the modern dance.

A vibrant brunette with a volcanic manner, Miss Nijinsky has been in America for less than two months, teaching classic ballet at the Ballet Arts School in New York and training her own group for television and concert appearances. She says:

"Dancing in America is at the world's highest level. Here you are so vital, so alive, so conscious of every form of the dance. This country is on the verge of a great renaissance of the art of the dance. And I hope to be a part of it."

"Trained as a dancer since the age of 6 by her famous father, Kyra is absorbed heart and soul in the evolution of the dance. She seems to find it difficult to sit still, and has the air of a bird arrested in flight when she sits down. Even then her eyes are dancing, her hands illustrating her words in motion. She says:

"Any kind of dancing is good—even this jitterbug craze of which you speak. It's all a part of the whole urge of this young, great country to express emotion through movement—and that is good."

"There has been too much snobbery about the dance. The classic ballet has been too formalized, too revered by its exponents. I believe in a freer, more pliable technique. Of course, one must know the ballet first, but one need not be bound by its forms."

"In school I teach the traditional ballet, but with my own group I use my own methods. The classic ballet cannot fully express this modern, rushing age of ours. And that is what I am trying to interpret in motion."

Miss Nijinsky had her own dance school in Florence for eight years before coming to New York, and has lectured widely throughout Europe.

Foamy Cologne Soothing to Skin

Something really new has just appeared on the fragrance scene. It's an after-bath cologne that features both lasting fragrance and skin-soothing properties. What's more, it's not a liquid but a foam.

Made by a famed cosmetic house, the new cologne foam is available in four well-known scents.

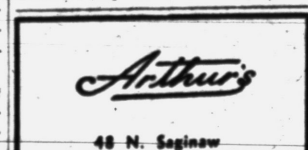

Two factors are chiefly responsible for the foam's skin-soothing quality: the presence of lanolin and the absence of alcohol.

The firm claims that the foam is completely nonsticking and that it will melt into the skin very quickly.

Its subtle fragrance is said to outlast alcohol-based toilet water by hours.

A fluffy, pink concoction, it's packaged in a spray container that eliminates spillage worries.

The budget-minded will be happy to note, the company points out, that more than two quarts of foam can be sprayed from the inexpensive, five-ounce container—enough to cover many a bath-time beauty session.

Salts Cause White Crust on Masonry

Efflorescence May Mean That Water Is Entering Wall

By HUBBARD COBB

If you have any bricks, masonry block or cinder block around your place, you may have noticed from time to time a white crust appearing on the surface of the wall.

This stuff is called "efflorescence" and it is caused by the soluble salts in the masonry or mortar being brought to the surface. The salts are carried to the surface by moisture and in new work this is usually just the water used in the mortar.

In old work it is usually a sign that water is entering the wall at one point or another, and before you take the time to remove the white crust you should go to work and find and correct the leak in the wall.

Efflorescence is often removed by the rain when the wall is exposed to the weather, but it can also be removed by other methods, or at least in many cases.

Sometimes all you need to do is give it a good scrubbing with a fiber or wire brush. If this fails to do the trick, you can soften it up with some muriatic acid.

Make a solution of one part muriatic acid to 10 parts water. Pour the acid into the water and be careful not to let it reach the clothes, body and especially the eyes. We suggest old clothes, rubber gloves and goggles.

Scrub this solution over the white crust and try as much as possible to keep the solution out of the mortar joints. Muriatic acid, in case you hadn't guessed, will soften cement mortar.

After you've removed as much of the efflorescence as you can, give the area several good rinsings with fresh water.

In the Easter Parade, the young fashion-minded miss loves her new suit and her pretty new blouse. On the left is a soft rayon linen fabric in light blue—sleeveless with a demure petal collar. The other is the famous classic in starched white cotton broadcloth with the convertible Peter Pan collar, worn closed here. Both blouses are trimmed with matching pearl shoe buttons and are guaranteed washable.

Mary Margaret McBride Says:

Dream of White Garden Once Again Fate Thwarts

Undoubtedly, I've had worse disappointments, but right now I'm crushed because the white spring garden a thoughtful suburban friend planted for me last fall has come up red, blue and yellow. Yet the label on every bulb plainly said white.

This is the third time fate has thwarted me about that garden. For years my mother and I dreamed of a small plot planted in white flowers that would be lovely in moonlight and sunlight and smell deliciously of orange blossoms, stock, daphne, lilacs-of-the-valley, roses, nicotiana, sweetpeas, jasmine, gardenias and tuberose.

Since this was a dream garden, we never had to concern ourselves about realities like climate or times of blooming. The assumption was that all our fragrant favorites would grow anywhere and miraculously flower together the year round.

Maybe it's better for me to leave the white garden to dreams and try something more practical, though not the devil's collection of poisonous plants once tended by an editor I knew on Long Island.

He had deadly nightshade, crimson lobelia, blue-flowered monkshood and mandrake, the odd-shaped roots of which were once believed to shriek when pulled from the ground, all in a sinister little patch bordered with poison ivy.

I might possibly settle for a Shakespeare garden with all the plants mentioned in the bard's works—roses for remembrance, pansies for thoughts, violets, columbine, rue, wild thyme and the rest.

Or maybe a plot devoted to weather-wise plants would fill the void—clumps of Indian licorice, for instance, said to predict weather two days in advance by movement of their leaves.

I'm sure I'd love a "Mary garden," in which would grow all the flowers and herbs associated by legend and history with the mother of Jesus: Columbine and trefol, said to have sprung up at the touch of her foot; lily-of-the-valley, Our Lady's tears; foxglove, Our Lady's thimble; snowdrop; rosemary, which legend says turned blue, Mary's color, after she spread her child's garments on the bush to dry.

If I had the patience and knowledge, I might even copy naturalist Edwin Way Teale's insect garden, a bit of orchard hillside inhabited by bugs. For $10 each year, Edwin obtained the insect rights to the area and distributed it only to spade a bit and plant the items particularly enjoyed by the creatures he fished to study and write about.

When two or three acquaintances had hybrid tearoses named for them, a friend of mine got an inspiration to start a "name-dropper" garden. For awhile it seemed a good idea but Cynthia herself got only as far as a half-dozen

Refrigerator Cookies Are Very Rich

Mrs. Eddie Vines Makes Nut-Filled Butter Treats

By JANET ODELL

Pontiac Press Food Editor

A very rich, delicious cookie is the recipe given us by Mrs. Eddie Vines. It is similar to the butter crescents many of us make for the holidays, but this cookie is sliced.

Mrs. Vines says her family of two boys and three girls is an extremely active one that keeps her busy full time. She does, however, manage to find time to do church work and to attend meetings of the Urban League Guild.

RICH BUTTER COOKIES

By Mrs. Eddie Vines

1 cup butter
2 cups sifted flour
1/2 cup sugar
1 cup chopped nuts
2 teaspoons vanilla
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons cold water

Mix all together. Form into a roll and chill several hours. Slice thin, bake on a greased cookie pan 12-15 minutes in a 350-degree oven. Dip in powdered sugar while hot.

Cleaning Hint

To remove those caked patches of dirt on your floors, use steel wool moistened with turpentine.

How Can Wife Find the Right Work?

By ANNE HEYWOOD

"I am 46 years old," a woman writes me, "and in two years my youngest boy will be going away to college. My girl is in college already."

"My husband is wonderful and works very hard, but with two children to educate there isn't very much money left over."

"We have decided that when Jimmy goes to college and I have time on my hands, I should get some kind of job so the youngsters will have the little extras that mean so much."

"But I have no idea what I could do. I took a course in typewriting at the Y several years ago, and have kept it up ever since, but I would hate to do nothing but type all day."

"I'm interested in many things, but I don't know what to settle on. There is no money for vocational tests, much as I would love them, and I wonder if you have any suggestions on how I can figure this out for myself, without tests."

First, let me congratulate you on your foresight. By considering this problem now, when you have a couple of years to prepare for it, you are pretty sure to succeed.

And, of course, your typing will be a great help, since you can combine it with other interests and get a foot in the door.

If you will send me six cents in postage, I will mail you my Housewives Career Guide, which is a questionnaire designed to help you translate your housekeeping duties into their equivalent in the business world.

Next, I suggest that you conduct your own little research project. Go to your public library and tell the librarian you would like to see books about different kinds of work.

Asks How Bridal Table Is Arranged

What Places Are Taken by Parents, Wedding Party?

By EMILY POST

A bride-to-be asks this question: "At a horseshoe-shaped table, at which everyone is to be seated, where do the parents of the bride and bridegroom and the members of the wedding party sit?"

Answer: If the wedding is so small that everyone is to be seated at one very large horseshoe-shaped table, the bride and bridegroom are seated at the center of the convex side with their attendants seated some in front of them and others on either side of them.

The parents are seated on the opposite ends. At one end, the bridegroom's father with the bride's mother on his right. At the other end, the bride's father with the bridegroom's mother on his right, and their nearest relatives next to them.

Dear Mrs. Post: My sister and her husband have separated after a brief marriage. Her mother-in-law is insisting that she return the wedding and engagement rings. She also claims a large portion of the wedding presents.

Is my sister obliged to return the rings? Also, what about the wedding presents?

Answer: Having actually been married, all of these gifts are hers to keep. Certainly they do not belong to her ex-mother-in-law.

If her husband asks her for the return of the wedding presents given by his family or friends, it would be no more than fair to let him have them—even though they were addressed to her and quite definitely belong to her.

Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please tell me what wine is correctly served with the meat course at dinner and what wine is served with fish? Also, what kind of wine should be served with poultry?

Answer: If champagne is the wine, it is served with every course and no other is included.

Otherwise, sherry is served with soup and chablis or other white wine with fish, claret or burgundy with meat and again white wine with poultry.

She Blames Hated Lad for Lost Love

By ELIZABETH WOODWARD

telling him I hate him, as the girls tell me to do.

"How can I get rid of him and get my boy friend back without being violent? Please don't tell me to give up my boy friend because of his jealousy and mistrust. I love him too much to let him go."

"You see, he believes that I unconsciously love this other junior because I haven't the heart to tell him I hate him!"

The one thing for sure and certain in your story is your affection for a junior boy. The complicating factors are all guesses. Why doesn't he love you anymore? Are you sure he told his sister the truth? And did she tell you the whole story?

It would seem that your boy friend has broken up with you for some reason of his own. And I doubt if it's the fault of another boy whose actions you can't control.

You don't have to tell any boy you hate him in order to fend off his attentions. The very blankness of your eyes, the lack of interest in what he has to say, your inability to stand still long enough to listen, and your complete preoccupation in other directions would discourage him mightily.

He'd quickly catch on that you weren't having any—and he'd leave you alone. All of this you can still work on the junior who leaves you cold. You'll make yourself quite clear—and he won't have to do any guessing about the way you feel.

But the best way to avoid any guessing games with the junior you like is to talk things out with him. Don't put words in his mouth, or try to imagine what he's thinking any longer.

Get the thing out in the open so you both know where you stand. Then you'll know whether there's any real basis for hoping that you'll get your boy friend back.

"Dear Miss Woodward: Pat and I like each other very much and he shows it in little ways, but he's very shy. The boys tease him for not taking me out, but he can't get up his courage to ask me."

"Dick does take me out—and he and Pat fight over me—the kids say so. Dick usually wins because Pat thinks I don't like him for some crazy reason."

"Should I drop Pat and keep going with Dick? Can I break through Dick's shyness without hurting him? Help me quick because we're having a prom soon and I don't know which to ask!"

You can only guess at what Pat thinks. He doesn't tell you himself, and you can't credit what the other kids tell you. Until he makes some definite gesture toward you, don't count on him very heavily.

And take Dick to the prom. You owe him something for all the dates you've had with him.

Add Dash to Sheath With Cumberbund

Here's one way to give a high-sheath without hurting the budget: Buy some crisp material in a color to match your accessories, enough to envelop your waist a few times and lap over a bit. Wear it by winding it upward around your midriff and adorn it with a few large pearls, jeweled buttons or pins.

See Lined Skirts

The next time you go shopping for a skirt, ask to see those that feature a protective lining. These linings, that insure against that so-called look, are now available in moderately-priced garments.

Kirk Douglas Sees America in New Light

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—What does an American miss most after a year and a half in Europe?
"Some good, simple food," replies Kirk Douglas. "In France, where I spent much of my time, you can get the most elegant food in the world. But after a while you yearn for a well-prepared, plain dish such as you can only get in the United States. Pot roast, Corned beef and cabbage. A hamburger and milk shake. How I could have used something like that!"

Douglas frankly admits that he went abroad to profit from the tax exemption for Americans who lived abroad 18 months. He didn't come back with as much profit as he had hoped for; Congress stepped in and changed the law. But he does think that the jaunt was worthwhile in other respects.

The actor made three pictures abroad: "The Juggler," "Act of Love" and "Ulysses." He toured throughout Israel, Italy, France, Switzerland, Germany and England. He met royalty and the heads of state. He feels that the whole experience caused him to grow as an actor and as an individual.

But most of all, it threw a new light on his native land. "You miss the things you have always taken for granted in this country," he observed. "For instance, when you're in Europe for a while, you almost forget that the bathroom is a well established institution."

"When you come back here, you get a different impression just from seeing the faces of the people. Americans seem so much healthier, cleaner and happier. I guess it's because of our standard of living."

He added that a trip abroad made him again appreciate the American success story, of which his own life is a notable example. He was born Issur Danielovitch in Amsterdam, N. Y. His parents, who also had six daughters, had emigrated from Russia.

"If they had stayed there, I would have been a peasant," he reflected. "I realized in Europe that the average person has little chance of rising above the status of his parents. But in America, anyone can do anything. Any boy can become president of the United States."

Teenage Thief to Repay $7,000

Youth Admits Sneaking Into Boss' Bedroom to Take Money

A 17-year-old boy was ordered Monday to pay back $7,000 he stole in the past two years from his former employer's bedroom while the businessman lay sleeping.

The youth, John L. Koenig, 17, of 1103 Boston St., Waterford Township, also was put on five years probation by Circuit Judge H. Russell Holland.

Police arrested Koenig March 15 as he tried to enter the home of John M. Fisher, 56, of 1934 Derby St., Birmingham, with a duplicate key to the front door.

Koenig told police he discovered that Fisher took the daily receipts from his market at 1248 S. Woodward home each night.

The youth claimed he then made weekly visits to the Fisher home, removed his shoes, sneaked into the sleeping Fisher's bedroom and left with a handful of bills.

Fisher said he didn't suspect the youth of removing money from his billfold, as the amount stolen each time apparently was extremely small.

Detroit Sentenced on Holdup Conviction

Circuit Judge H. Russell Holland sentenced James T. Sullivan, 30, of Detroit, to 5 to 20 years Monday for the armed robbery of the Fox and Hounds Inn last November.

Sullivan was found guilty of the $6,200 holdup by a jury March 16 and will serve his term in Southern Michigan Prison at Jackson.

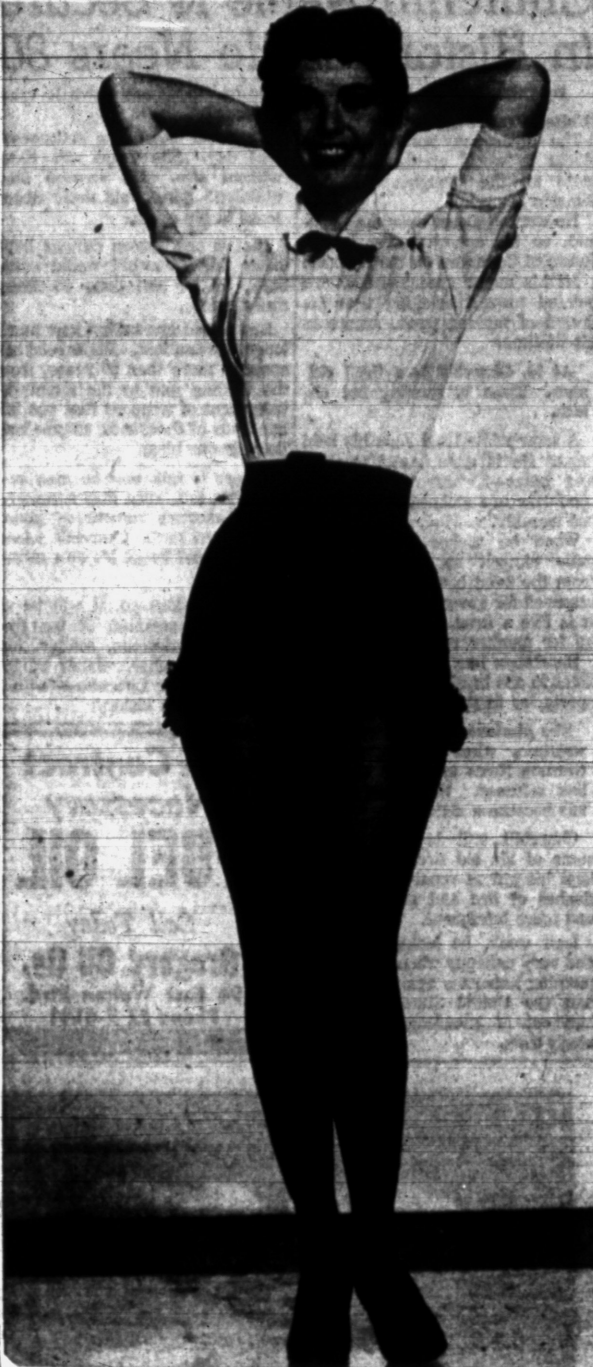

Sullivan, alias James T. Suttles, and two other men, escaped after arrested by Pontiac Police when he was discovered riding in a car fitting the description of the one used in the robbery.

DETROIT (AP)—A fire brought death to one man and routed more than 100 persons, including small children, from a large apartment house building early today.

Donald C. Pitt, 30, Highland Park factory inspector, was dead on arrival at Providence Hospital. Firemen brought Pitt down a ladder from his third-floor apartment while routed occupants of the building, shivering in the night air, watched.

The fire was confined entirely to Pitt's room in the West Grand boulevard building. Smoke had spread through much of the building.

Pitt, a bachelor, lived alone in the apartment.

Firemen investigated to determine the cause of the blaze.

16 Lobbies Pay Above $50,000

Reports Show Electric Assn. Spent the Most to Influence Congress

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sixteen individuals and groups have reported to Congress that they spent more than $50,000 each on their "legislative interests" during 1953.

The biggest 1953 expenditure listed in accordance with the lobbying law was $547,789 by the National Assn. of Electric Companies, Washington.

The lobbying law requires persons or groups interested in promoting or discouraging legislation to file financial reports quarterly. Expenditures which must be reported include those for public relations and advertising services, salaries, fees, commissions, gifts or contributions, overhead, travel, food, lodging and entertainment, and telephone and telegraph charges.

In addition to the National Assn. of Electric Companies these others reported spending more than $100,000 in 1953:

American Farm Bureau Federation, $102,403; American Federation of Labor, $123,606; American Medical Assn., $106,624; Association of American Railroads, $235,727; Julian D. Conover, Washington, representing the American Mining Congress, $307,733; National Milk Producers' Federation, $233,357; Southern States Industrial Council, $105,106; National Economic Council, Inc., $116,477.

These reported expenditures ranging from $50,000 to $100,000: American Legion, $85,830; American Tariff League, Inc., $68,126; Colorado River Assn., $50,596; District Lodge No. 44, International Assn. of Machinists, $59,383; Friends Committee on National Legislation, $61,276; General Electric Co., $82,962; National Federation of Post Office Clerks, $78,252.

House Pay Hike Bill Legality Questioned

OWOSSO (AP)—Rep. Adrian de Boom (R-Owosso) said Monday that salary raises in the state House and Senate will not necessarily improve the caliber of membership.

He said he has asked the attorney general to rule on his question of constitutionality of a present measure which would increase House salaries to $4,000 a year.

De Boom said the measure he was questioning was an amendment to House Bill No. 452. He said an original bill for the increase, House Bill No. 234, had passed the House but was reportedly dying in the Senate.

He said he has asked the attorney general whether the Legislature can attach an amendment to the appropriations bill increasing salaries before the original bill calling for the increase has passed both houses.

Johnson Averse to Draft Move

Colorado Senator Says
He Doesn't Want to Run for Governor

WASHINGTON (U-P)—Sen. Edwin C. Johnson (D-Colo.) said today he is "not taking seriously yet" a move to draft him into the race for the Democratic nomination for governor in Colorado.

Johnson recently announced he would not be a candidate for re-election. His decision was generally regarded as a blow to Democratic hopes of winning Senate control in the November elections.

The veteran Colorado senator said in an interview that some of his friends are "getting excited" about drafting him for the state race but he added that "they'll cool off later."

Johnson apparently means to stick to his decision not to seek the Senate seat but there was in his statement at least an indication he will think about remaining in politics at the state level.

If they can get a proved vote-getter like Johnson on their ticket, national Democratic leaders will feel better about the Colorado senate race, and about their overall chances of picking up the net of one seat they would need to gain undisputed control of the Senate.

That possibility brightened in the view of many Democrats when former Vice President Alben W. Barkley announced he would go after the Democratic senatorial nomination in Kentucky.

In other Senate races, Democrats apparently believe their chances have improved to re-elect Sen. Douglas (D-Ill.). And in Ohio the minority party thinks it has about the best available candidate in Democratic Sen. Burke to buck what is normally an off-year trend to the Republicans.

Senators Gillette (D-Iowa), Murray (D-Mont) and Hunt (D-Wyo) are viewed as strong candidates for re-election and Democratic leaders say they aren't worrying much about returning Sen. Humphrey of Minnesota.

Chickenpox Postpones Triplets' Birthday Party

CONCORD, Mass. (U-P)—A birthday party for the Glass triplets has been postponed a week—but it took six cases of chickenpox to do it.

The party was to have been held yesterday but the 4-year-old triplets—Nancy, Sally and Susan—were bedded with the disease.

So were their twin sisters, Carol and Sandra, 6, and Linda, 2.

Churchill Name Is Secure in History as He Nears 80

By CHARLES M. McCANN

United Press Staff Correspondent
The hydrogen bomb and its threat to world civilization dominate all the thoughts of aging Winston Churchill.

He worked alone, over the weekend, on his speech today in the House of Commons on the H-bomb. All his major speeches now are pointed toward bringing true his dream of making peace secure in his lifetime.

At 79, Churchill is a tired old man. Time is running out on him.

A snow white frost rims his bald head. He is deaf, and wears—and hates—a hearing aid. His shoulders are stooped. His hands are tremulous.

When he makes a speech he pulls himself up with difficulty from the front bench in Commons, reserved for government ministers. It is like a tired old boxer getting up for another round.

He stands like a squat rock, his notes in one hand, his horn-rimmed spectacles in the other.

The glorious Churchill grew of wartime, when he defied the German Nazis to invade Britain, has softened. His famous lip has become a slur.

Churchill still has, in debate, some of his old fire, and he has kept his gift of repartee. But the flashes of fire and wit get more and more infrequent.

Last week, he looked very old and very unhappy when he told the taunting Laborites again and again that the United States had shut him out of knowledge of its H-bomb tests.

He had to sit and listen to cries of "shame!"

Churchill read his statement that day. His voice was flat, without fire. He seemed humiliated. Some said there were tears in his eyes.

That is one reason Britons hope today that Churchill would come back, as he had done so many times before.

But people are asking how much longer he can last. His career has spanned more than 50 years, from the Gatling gun to the awful development of weapons that can kill hundreds of thousands, maybe millions, in one blast.

There is talk that he may retire this fall, even this summer. The Laborites sometimes taunt him about that. Churchill jokes about it and keeps his own counsel.

When he does go, it will be as the elder statesman of the free world—as statesman, soldier, historian, biographer, winner of the Nobel Prize for Literature—with a place secure in history.

Reds Try to Use Our Churches

Dr. Norman Vincent Peale Tells How Alert Lay People Met This Challenge at Marble Collegiate Church in New York; Points Out It Can Happen Anywhere

The young man on the phone had a sense of urgency in his voice. "My name is Harry Peters," he said.

"I know of your interest in young people's groups, Mrs. Brinig. I represent the Labor Youth League and would like to present a program at your church to show the deliberate campaign that exists to silence the youth of America."

Somewhat mystified, Mary Brinig, director of activities at Marble Collegiate Church, New York City, agreed to see him personally the following day.

She checked the Labor Youth League, found its headquarters was at 799 Broadway in New York, that it had branches throughout the country. She also discovered the League had just been cited by the Justice Department as a Communist front organization.

(The testimony against the Labor Youth League included evidence produced by a New York bank showing photostats of cancelled checks made out by the Communist Party to the Youth League.)

Despite this, she quietly decided: "Why can't the church take the offensive in this situation?"

She invited her husband, Harold, and Dom Luppino, two active laymen in the church, to attend the meeting. Harry Peters arrived: a young man... early thirties... neatly dressed... intelligent looking... intense. The four sat down informally. Here is a careful reconstruction of part of the conversation.

PETERS: I know of your fine work with young people — that's why I am here. Our Labor Youth League can prove the existence of a real danger to our American democracy. The Justice Department has called us subversive because we are not afraid to speak out...

HAROLD BRINIG: Is your Youth League a subversive group?

PETERS: No.

HAROLD BRINIG: Why are you on the Justice Department list then?

PETERS: Ambitious men in Washington are trying to promote their own interests by stirring up suspicion and hatred. They are out to curb progressive movements. Youth will not be silenced.

HAROLD BRINIG: There are hundreds of youth groups who, I'm sure, feel they are doing progressive work. Yet they are not under fire from the government. What is your program?

PETERS: First, to build a peaceful world. We're against universal military training, participation in the Korean war, build-up of atomic weapons; we're against such discriminatory bills as the McCarran Act, Mundt-Nixon Bill and Smith Act.

DR. NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

HAROLD BRINIG: I know some loyal American groups who are opposed to a few of those things too, but I don't know any group opposed to all of them, except the Communists.

(Peters is a bit nettled. He becomes more emphatic.)

PETERS: We are not connected with the Communist Party.

HAROLD BRINIG: Can you tell us what you are for?

PETERS: We want better rights for Negroes, better education for youth, better housing, more playgrounds; we want to advance the cause of the working people.

HAROLD BRINIG: Most other Americans are for those things too. What have you done about them?

PETERS: We have discussions, meetings. We educate youth on these matters. We want to see justice done.

HAROLD BRINIG: That's fine, but have you built or financed a playground, for example?

PETERS: No, but we are trying to interest people in social ideas.

MARY BRINIG: Our group is dedicated to building a better world, too, but we've learned that discussions have little value unless centered around results.

Groups of 20 and 30 have gone to Puerto Rican, Negro and Lower East Side areas to help construct churches out of old stores and to create old playgrounds out of rubbish-filled lots.

PETERS: We don't want to interfere with what you're doing.

LUPPINO: Why do you call your group the Labor Youth League?

PETERS: We believe the answer to world problems has to come through the laboring group. Our membership is of working people.

HAROLD BRINIG: Since I work for a living, that includes me then. Who is a worker and who isn't?

PETERS: Well... we mean productive workers.

HAROLD BRINIG: Then people who get ideas which result in production work for others are not productive workers? You discriminate against those who do not work with their hands.

PETERS: No, but future leadership must come from the working class. We're for brotherhood.

MARY BRINIG: We believe in brotherhood, too, and try to practice it. Our church has American-born, foreign-born, Negroes and whites. Union members, white collar workers and executives work together in your young people's group on common projects. We believe in the Brotherhood of Man because we believe in the Fatherhood of God. Do you, and the others in your Youth League, believe this?

PETERS: I am not religious.

LUPPINO: Were your parents?

PETERS: Yes.

LUPPINO: What changed you?

(There was a pause as Harry Peters seemed to struggle with himself for a moment. The conversation was not taking the turn he wanted. Yet he also sensed that instead of animosity, there was an interest and concern for him, personally. It puzzled him.)

PETERS: Back in 1939 I was in Yorkville. There was a meeting... a group called The Christian Mobilization. The speaker was a Joe McWilliams. He hated anyone who wasn't white and 100 per cent American. I believed in the idea of brotherhood. What he said scared me. I didn't want to see Hitler in America.

HAROLD BRINIG: You realize that the word "Christian" in the title of this group meant nothing. Groups which use "Christian" this way mock the meaning of Christianity.

PETERS: I wanted no part of him — or what he stood for. Some young people there were heckling this guy McWilliams. I joined them.

LUPPINO: Were they Communists?

PETERS: Yes, some were.

LUPPINO: Are you a Communist?

PETERS: That has nothing to do with why I'm here. The real danger is from the right, not the left.

LUPPINO: I'd still like to have you tell us honestly whether you are a Communist or not.

(A pause while Peters struggles with some inner torment.)

PETERS: Yes, I am. But the

Williams Signs Many Measures

One Law Holds Money in State, That Has Been Willed Into Russia

LANSING (AP)—Iron Curtain countries will no longer be able to confiscate money willed their citizens by Michigan residents under a bill signed into law by Gov. Williams yesterday.

The measure permits the State Board of Escheats to hold the money as conservator for the heirs when it is apparent that the heirs can not benefit from it.

Another measure made law by the governor's signature increases the pay of jurors from $6 to $8 a day and from $3 to $4 for half days.

Other bills signed will:

Permit the state health commissioner to be represented on the plumbing board instead of requiring him to be a member.

Require notaries to type or stamp their name and county on instruments in addition to their signature.

Extend from 15 to 30 days the time in which a mechanic's lien must be served.

Increase the fee for taking the state bar examination from $20 to $30 and the re-examination fee from $10 to $20.

Include women as subject to penalties for assaulting or taking indecent liberties with children.

Give the state Supreme Court authority to issue writs of error in criminal cases involving the liberty of a person when the judgment is against such person.

Spring Weather Covers Most of Nation Bringing Tornadoes, Marble-Sized Hail

By THE UNITED PRESS

Spring, long overdue, arrived on a dead run, driving winter cold out of most of the nation in a single day.

The frigid weather that had chilled most northern states for weeks was dispelled with surprising speed Monday as the mercury soared to balmy levels during the day.

April 5 heat records were set at Ottumwa, Iowa, with 81, and Des Moines, with 79. Chicago enjoyed a high of 69 degrees and the temperature was expected to hit 70 today.

Except for parts of New England, where freezing weather made a last stand, most of the nation enjoyed the same summery heat.

The warm air was turbulent, however. Early today, thunderstorms were common over northern Missouri, eastern Iowa, southern and eastern Wisconsin and northern Illinois.

Chicago's Midway Airport reported hail a half inch in diameter, and gusty winds up to 60 miles per hour were reported throughout the thunderstorm area. Rainfall was generally over one inch and fell in hard, pounding sheets.

Mild, spring weather was the rule along the Atlantic Coast from New York southward. New York City had a pre-dawn reading of 44 and Miami had 73. Warm weather prevailed along the Gulf Coast and northward to the Ohio River. The midcontinent was especially warm.

St. Louis had 73 and Kansas City 61 even before the sun rose.

But warm weather brought scattered tornadoes, thunderstorms and hail the size of marbles with it.

At least six tornado funnels were sighted in Iowa and Kansas Monday night, and some of them capriciously ripped up farm buildings and homes.

Mrs. Alex Mullins suffered cuts and bruises when a twister swept through a 10-mile area north of Blanchard in southwest Iowa, lifting her home right over her head. Another home was carried a quarter of a mile and then reduced to kindling. Two others were whisked away and demolished.

In all, four funnels were sighted in the Blanchard area. Another touched ground near Riley, Kan., damaging or destroying several farm buildings. The sixth, seen near Milford, Kan., did not touch the ground.

At least 21 head of cattle were killed in the Iowa tornadoes.

When residents saw the funnels bearing down on the Blanchard area, many of them raced away in their cars while others dived for their basements.

The Riley tornado damaged the home of Daly Sylvester, destroyed two cattle sheds and a chicken brooder and overturned a hog house and two corn cribs. Hall accompanied the twister.

Letter to Request Land in Pontiac

Community Group Cites Increasing Population as Reason for Plea

The City Commission tonight is slated to receive a letter from the Weaver-Owen Community Club asking that property near the Hawthorne School be set aside for park purposes.

The proposed land is bounded by Telegraph road, and the west city limits, Kennett road and Little Silver lake.

The site is needed, according to the club, because no park is located north of Oakland Park and the Hawthorne area is rapidly increasing in population.

Commissioners are also scheduled to consider renewing for two years the contract with Consumers Power Co. for supplying power to pump the city's water and sewage.

Commissioners are expected to deed to Albert A. Lee lots 861 and 862 of Perry Park Subdivision Number 1, except the west 20 feet.

A bid is expected from Edward C. Lee for all but the west 30 feet of lot 1 Mount Clemens Hills Subdivision and lots 852 and 853 of Perry Park Subdivision Number 1.

A bid is scheduled from Hugh C. Lee for the purchase of part of lots 19, 20, 21, 22 and 23 in Mount Clemens Hills Subdivision.

A resolution is slated to receive special assessment rolls prepared by the city assessor for curb, gutter, drainage and related work on Winsor from Cass to Short.

Public hearings on petition to construct two-inch bituminous concrete recap are scheduled on streets including:

Walton from Perry to the west city limits, S. Boulevard from the Belt Line Railroad to Opdyke, Montclair from Baldwin to Perry, Kennett from Baldwin to the west city limits.

A public hearing is also scheduled on petition to construct curb, gutter, drainage and related work on Hazel Bend from Belmont to Jessie.

Woman From Michigan Kills Self in Minneapolis

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—The corner's office called the death Monday of Mrs. Jean W. Waters, 31, of Midland, an apparent suicide.

Police said her car rammed a six-foot retaining wall. They said there were no skid marks and the speedometer was jammed at 80 miles an hour. The length of the car was reduced from 190 to 120 inches.

Mrs. Waters' husband, Russell Clyde Waters, is ill in a Minneapolis hospital.

Senator McCarthy's Charges of Reds in State Department Launched Him as Political Issue, Brought Headlines

By BEN PRICE

WASHINGTON (AP)—Shortly after 4 p.m. on Feb. 20, 1950, the junior member from Wisconsin, Joseph R. McCarthy, Republican, gained the floor of the United States Senate.

"About 10 days ago..." he began, "I made the statement that there are present in the State Department a sizable number of Communists. I made the further statement that of one small group which had been screened by the President's own security agency, the State Department refused to discharge approximately 200..."

"The secretary of state promptly denied my statement and said there was not a single Communist in the whole State Department. I thereafter sent a telegram to the President."

McCarthy read a copy of this telegram. In it he said:

"...I have in my possession the names of 57 Communists who are in the State Department at present."

"While the records are not available to me, I know absolutely of one group of 300 certified to the secretary of state for discharge because of communism. He actually only discharged 80..."

The telegram demanded that President Truman revoke his executive order forbidding disclosure of the contents of loyalty files and added:

"Failure on your part will label the Democratic party as the bedfellow of international communism..."

The speech McCarthy was delivering climaxed 10 days of the most intensive fidgets that had befallen his fellow members of Congress, the Truman administration and newspaper correspondents for some time.

The statement he described had been made at Wheeling, W.Va., before a Republican women's club.

Newspaper stories had quoted him as saying at Wheeling: "I have here in my hand a list of 205 that were known to the secretary of state (then Dean Acheson) as being members of the Communist party and who nevertheless are still working and shaping the policy in the State Department."

The next day, having flown to Salt Lake City, he was quoted in a recorded radio interview as saying: "Last night... I stated I had the names of 57 card-carrying members of the State Department."

If McCarthy's listeners in the Senate had expected him to clear up this seeming self-contradiction, they were to be disappointed. Instead, he went on for six hours altogether—to rake the State Department from every angle.

The attack continued thereafter, not subsiding entirely even after Dwight D. Eisenhower was elected President and John Foster Dulles became secretary of state.

As that evening in 1950, wore on, McCarthy began reading into the Congressional Record what he said were the case histories of Communists or fellow travelers in the State Department. He said he had now compiled a list of 81.

"While I consider them all important," he said, "there are three big Communists involved... I do not believe President Truman knows about them... To those who say, 'Why don't you tell the State Department; why do you not give the names to the State Department?' I say that everything I have here is from the State Department's own files."

McCarthy named no names. He said he would give them to senators in private or to a committee and that if he were called upon to testify on them before a committee he would appear under oath.

He simply listed his cases as Case No. 1, and so on through 81. For example:

"The man involved in Case No. 1 is employed in the office of an assistant secretary of state. The intelligence unit shadowed him and found him contacting the members of an espionage group..."

The day after McCarthy's Wheeling speech Scott Lucas, Senate Democratic leader from Illinois, called a meeting of the Democratic Policy Committee. He was for attacking McCarthy with a demand that the Wisconsin senator produce proof.

One wily Southern politician recalled later that he advised against such a move.

"I told them then," he said: "Don't do it. All you are going to do is puff this man up and call attention to him. He's nobody in the Senate and has no influence, but if you attack him then you'll only give him stature in the eyes of the people. And that's exactly what happened..."

The advice was ignored. Two days later the Democratic-controlled Senate set up a subcommittee of the Committee on Foreign Relations to make an investigation. Sen. Millard E. Tydings (D-Md.) was named chairman, and one of the end results of the investigation was a bitter enmity between Tydings and McCarthy.

The committee called McCarthy as its first witness March 8. Having been sworn, McCarthy said:

"I am not making charges. I am giving the committee information on individuals who appear to all the rules of common sense as bad security risks."

In angry tones, Tydings said: "You have left the committee in a rather embarrassing position because the resolution which brings us here and which brings you here reads as follows 'In the conduct of this study and investigation, the committee is directed to procure by subpoena and examine the complete loyalty and employment files and records of all government employees in the Department of State and other such agencies against whom charges have been heard.'"

"Without somebody making a charge, or you call it a charge, what do we do then? How do we get the records? We are authorized to get them by the Senate language if you or somebody else makes a charge. We are in a pretty small position to issue a subpoena."

McCarthy replied "...I am not in position to file any formal charges."

In four months of hearings the committee heard 35 witnesses and some three million words of testimony.

The Democratic majority of the Tydings committee, as it came to be known, said in its final report that the 81 cases discussed by McCarthy on the Senate floor were drawn from a list of 108 presented before a House subcommittee on appropriations in 1947. The majority also said it found these same names had been presented to three other House committees and had been discussed on the floor of the House Jan. 28-29, 1948.

The majority report continued: "We are thus confronted with the amazing spectacle of four different committees of the 76th Congress, which was controlled by Sen. McCarthy's own party, having considered the very same files and information which provided the predicate for the McCarthy charges — with none of these committees so much as regarding the situation as one meriting a report or citing a single State Department employee as disloyal."

The Tydings committee Democrats concluded:

"...The charges of Communist infiltration upon the State Department are false... We have seen the technique of the 'big lie' elsewhere employed by a totalitarian dictator with devastating success employed here for the first time."

In addition, the Tydings committee majority reported that "a fraud has been perpetrated upon the Senate of the United States."

A Republican committee member, Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. of Massachusetts, filed his individual views on the subject raised by McCarthy. Lodge said:

"The fact that many charges have been made which have not been proved does not in the slightest degree relieve the subcommittee of the responsibility for undertaking a relentlessly thorough investigation of its own."

"There was a tendency throughout the investigation to give a far greater amount of time to proving or disproving individual charges than was given to the overall problem of ferreting out disloyal persons."

Democrats on the Tydings committee also asserted that at the time McCarthy was reading his list of 81 to the Senate only 40 of those names still were employed by the State Department.

"Seven of the so-called 81," they said, "were never employed by the State Department and the remaining 33 are no longer in the department, having been separated through resignation, termination or reduction in force."

While the State Department was McCarthy's principal target, he shifted his aim from time to time to the committee itself.

He charged its mission was to "whitewash," which the committee denied.

McCarthy demanded that the files of the 81 be produced by President Truman. He said they would prove his case. When some State Department files were produced, the Wisconsin senator declared they had been "raped" of vital entries. The committee denied this too.

All the while the committee was in session McCarthy kept up a drumfire of headline-winning statements. Two involved widely known Americans — Owen Lattimore, then a professor of international relations at Johns Hopkins University and Philip C. Jessup, U.S. ambassador-at-large under a temporary appointment.

On March 26, McCarthy said Lattimore was the man he had described as the top Soviet espionage agent in the United States. McCarthy called Lattimore a key State Department consultant, "chief architect of our Far Eastern policy."

McCarthy charged Jessup was a man with an unusual "affinity for Communist causes."

Three former secretaries of state, Cordell Hull, James F. Byrnes and George C. Marshall, and the then secretary Dean Acheson denied that Lattimore had had anything to do with construction of Far Eastern policy.

Commission to Japan, lectured to State Department employees once in 1946 and participated for two days in a conference on Chinese affairs in 1949.

The committee Democrats concluded: "We find Owen Lattimore is not now and never has been in any proper sense an employee of the State Department..."

We have no evidence to support the charge that Lattimore is 'a top Russian spy' or any sort of spy."

Nearly three years after the Tydings committee report, however, a grand jury in Washington on Dec. 16, 1952, indicted Lattimore on seven counts of perjury.

This followed an investigation by the Senate internal security committee into the Institute of Pacific Relations, a private research organization, to determine whether it was infiltrated with Communists and whether it influenced U.S. foreign policy.

In May 1953 four of the seven counts against Lattimore were tossed out by U.S. District Judge Luther Youngdahl. Youngdahl said there even was some doubt as to whether the remaining three indictments would pass the test of materiality.

The chief charge against Lattimore is that he lied when he said he had never been a Communist sympathizer or promoter of Communist interests. After Youngdahl's action, the government appealed to a higher court for reinstatement of the charges. This appeal is still pending.

Jessup appeared before the Tydings group and under oath swore he was not and had never been a Communist. He produced letters in which Gen. George C. Marshall and Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower vouched for his loyalty and integrity.

The committee Democrats said the record showed "facts which conclusively demonstrate that Dr. Jessup is actively opposing the aims of communism by deeds as well as words."

Whatever the truth or untruth of McCarthy's charges before the Senate Feb. 20 or his subsequent statements, they provided a rallying point for some Republicans in their attacks on the Democratic administration.

On April 16 Sen. Kenneth Wherry (R-Neb) came to McCarthy's support, one of the first senators to do so.

Wherry said that "instead of trying to smear McCarthy, try McCarthy or even whitewash the evidence of Communist influence in the State Department," an effort should be made to "weed out those Communists."

Three days later "Mr. Republican" himself, the late Sen. Robert Taft (R-Ohio), charged that influential forces in the State Department had "refused to regard the delivery of (government) papers to Communists as a serious offense."

Taft said it wasn't true, as some Democrats charged, that "Sen. McCarthy is deliberately and publicly accusing prominent citizens of Communist connections for political purposes."

Taft asserted that the Tydings committee had been instructed by the Senate to make an investigation of McCarthy's charges. He said that hadn't been done.

"The majority," he said, "seem to have been more interested in hampering Sen. McCarthy than in carrying out the investigation."

McCarthy now had become a political issue. His charges were being fought through the next campaign.

Communists Try to Use U.S. Churches; Group Shows How It Met Challenge

Communist Party has never been proven subversive, not even in court.

LUPPINO: Many ex-Communists won't agree with you. They've testified that the Communist Party in America is a foreign branch of Kremlin espionage. Its primary purpose, to destroy our government. These former Communists have told us exactly how the Party works.

PETERS: Those people you mention are very unstable persons. They have poor morals.

HAROLD BRINIG: Morals? What do Communists consider as immoral?

PETERS: The usual thing. You know... chasing around... affairs.

HAROLD BRINIG: Hasn't Communism encouraged this sort of thing?

PETERS: No.

HAROLD BRINIG: There is no immorality in your organization now?

PETERS: A little.

HAROLD BRINIG: The Ten Commandments and Christ's teachings help us, who belong to a church, determine right from wrong. What moral standards do you have?

PETERS: We talk to the unstable ones.

HAROLD BRINIG: Any results?

PETERS: We feel it has helped.

LUPPINO: As a Communist, you say you are for justice, racial equality and civil liberties. How do you explain the fact that whenever Communists control a country, its people have none of these liberties?

PETERS: There is misunderstanding about this. Fascists in these countries stir up all the trouble.

LUPPINO: Yet you're not as concerned about the curbing of liberties in Communist-controlled countries, as you are about the danger of it happening here. Why?

PETERS: We can't do anything about it there. Besides, the real danger is from the right, not the left.

LUPPINO: What do you mean "right"?

PETERS: Fascists, capitalists. Those who destroy our freedoms. (At this point Peters had an attitude of dogged persistence, like a mechanical man who knows only a few verses and repeats them over and over.)

HAROLD BRINIG: If Communists take over America, they will liquidate all who don't agree with them. Are you, as a Communist, prepared psychologically to go along with the liquidation of me, for example? You might be in on the kill.

PETERS: I couldn't be a part of that sort of thing.

HAROLD BRINIG: But as a Party member, you do as you're told.

PETERS: Just because I'm a Communist doesn't mean I'm controlled. Are you controlled by this church?

MARY BRINIG: As individuals we're independent, but we try to reflect Christ's teachings for which the church stands.

PETERS: Some of the worst people I've known belong to churches.

MARY BRINIG: It's true that some Christian men have failed to live up to their Christianity. Men fail but the church doesn't. God doesn't. Christ doesn't. That's the great hope for mankind. Do you know about Christ?

PETERS: I've heard of Him.

MARY BRINIG: Jesus Christ was the young revolutionary of His time. A carpenter, Himself, He gathered together such young men as a tax collector, some fishermen, a writer. They formed the first cell group and concerned themselves with people's misery and need. Jesus gave his life to create a better world. His resolution was built on love, not hate, as yours.

PETERS: I don't think there's any difference in our objectives. That's why I'm here.

MARY BRINIG: But there is a great difference between what you and we stand for. You say your goals must be accomplished through the laboring class. We believe Christ's answers of love and understanding were for all people, not one group. Communists talk

Ike Says Confident, Vigilant Nation Can Keep Peace

WASHINGTON (AP) — Following is a transcript of President Eisenhower's speech to the nation Monday night.

Good evening, my friends. This evening I want to talk to you about a very big subject. I want to talk to you about this great country of ours. I should like to ask you to make a quick survey of its strengths, its problems, its apprehensions, and its future.

Particularly, I would like to talk to you about what you and I can do about its future.

Now, if we first take a look at the strength of the country — and I know it is the most productive nation on earth, that we are richer by any standard of comparison than is any other nation in the world. We know that we have great military strength, economic, intellectual, but I want to call your particular attention to spiritual strength.

Now, I don't think it's amiss in this season of the year that has so many religious overtones to recall attention to this fact, that in conception our nation has a spiritual foundation, so announced by the men who wrote the Declaration of Independence.

Do you remember what they said? "We hold that all men are endowed by their Creator with certain rights." That is a spiritual conception that our founding fathers decided upon. And now, today, that spiritual strength is just as great in its requirements as it has been in our whole history.

By this I mean it is very important that you and I value the spiritual things that they had in mind when they founded this country.

For example, the things that were stated in the Bill of Rights, the things that announce the rights that every single individual has in this country; his equality before the law; his right to worship as he pleases, think as he pleases and talk as he pleases just so long as he does not trespass on the rights of others.

Spiritual Strength of Nation Vital

And the other part of the spiritual strength we need today is the same stamina and courage and gallantry that our forefathers had in defending those rights.

I want to call your attention to this particular part of the American strength because without all this everything else goes by the boards. We must be strong in our dedication and our devotion to America. That is a first element of our entire strength.

But all in all, this total strength of America is one of those things we call and the world calls unbelievable.

Now, why then, with all this strength should we be worrying at times about what the world is doing to us? Actually we see threats coming from all angles, internal and external, and we wonder what's going to happen to us individually and as a Nation.

Now, perhaps I can illustrate some of the reasons for this concern of today. Thirty-seven years ago tomorrow our country entered the first World War. At that time I was a lieutenant serving with the United States Infantry in Texas.

My regiment was armed, as were all other regiments, with the same kind of equipment, at least as to type and general character and power, as were the regiments that fought the Spanish American War.

Now, only a year ago the hydrogen bomb was exploded in the Pacific. Last month another series of these was undertaken. Now, this transfer of power, this increase of power from the mere musket and the little cannon all the way to the hydrogen bomb in a single lifetime is indicative of things that happened to us.

They rather indicate how far the advances of science have outraced our social consciousness, how much more we have developed scientifically than we are capable of handling emotionally and intellectually.

No Easy Answers to Major Problems

So that is one of the reasons that we have this great concern of which the hydrogen bomb is merely a dramatic symbol. None of the questions that bother us today has an easy answer, and many of them have no answers at all, at least in their complete sense.

We may only do our best and from there on make sure that we are doing all that human beings can do to meet these problems. This is not greatly different from what the ordinary American family does.

It has the problem of meeting the payments on the mortgage, paying for the family car, educating the children, laying aside some money for use in case of unexpected illness.

It meets its problems courageously. It doesn't get panicky. It solves these problems with what I call courage and faith, but above all by co-operation, by discussing the problem among the different members of the family and then saying this is what we can do, this is what we will do, and reaching a satisfactory answer.

Now, the problems of America are the problems multiplied a million fold. That is what we are talking about tonight. Now, I am not going to try to talk about all the problems.

We can talk about water conservation and soil erosion and handling of the public debt and all of these things that bother us day by day in our daily lives, but I am going to confine myself this evening to a discussion of just four or five things.

For example, we are concerned about the men in the Kremlin. We are concerned about the atomic age. We are concerned about the loss of our international faith in exposed areas of the world, the loss of them to the Communist dictatorship.

We are worried about Communist penetration of our own country. We are worried about the possibility of depression, and the loss of jobs among us here at home.

Sees Great Need to Face Facts

Now, the greater any of these apprehensions, the greater is the need that we look at them clearly face to face without fear like honest, straightforward Americans so we do not develop the jitters or any kind of panic, that we do not fall prey to hysterical thinking.

Now, sometimes you feel almost that we can be excused for getting a little bit hysterical because these dangers come from so many angles, and they are such different kinds, and no matter what we do they still seem to exist, but underlying all of these dangers is this one thing, the threat imposed upon us by aggressive Communism, the atheistic doctrine that believes in statism as against our conception of the dignity of man, his equality before the law; this is the struggle of the ages.

Now, the H-bomb and the atomic age, they are not in themselves a great threat to us. Of course not.

The H-bomb is a threat to us only if a potential aggressor who also has the secrets of the H-bomb determines to use it against us, and against that then we have to make our provisions to make certain that sensible men have done every possible thing they can do to protect ourselves against that.

Now, as Communism seeks to divide us, to set class against class, good people against good people, when those good people should be standing together in defense of liberty and against Communism, because of that we must take counsel among ourselves and stand together and let nothing tear us apart.

So let us first then take these problems one by one and think of some of the counterbalancing factors to set over against the threat itself.

By this I mean, let's take the Kremlin.

The Kremlin—when we say that word we mean the Politburo and what may be its designs against us, what may be the dictators' intentions with respect to war or aggression, his plans to enslave the world.

Of all these, of course, war poses the greatest threat because of its destructive qualities.

Now, let's take the first of what I would call our counteracting or counterbalancing factors.

Kremlin Is Aware of Great Risks

The very fact that those men by their own design are in the Kremlin means that they love power. They want to be there. Whenever they start a war they are taking the great risk of losing that power. They study history pretty well. They remember Mussolini; they remember Hitler.

They have even studied Napoleon very seriously. When dictators overreach themselves and challenge the whole world they are very likely to end up in any place except a dictatorial position, and those men in the Politburo know that.

So we have the first of these counterbalancing factors against the possibility of their declaring war.

There are many risks of every kind in war. Among other things the Russians have a system of satellites, captive satellites. Now, they know again the risks of indulging in war when you have captive satellites.

Napoleon went into Russia in 1812 with exactly that kind of an army. The Grand Army of France had been reinforced by Prussians and others of the regions that Napoleon had conquered, and whose soldiers he had impressed into his own army which, as he met his first disaster in Russia, began to desert him. The Russians know all that. That very system of satellites could be, in a war of exhaustion, a very great source of weakness.

Soviet Is Weaker on Economic Front

They have, as compared to us, economic weaknesses, and after all, a strong economy is necessary if you are going to push through to victory a modern war.

The Russians produced last year something less probably than half a billion barrels of oil. We produced two and a quarter billion by ourselves.

We produced something over twice as much steel as they produced. Now, these are strong elements in economy when you are going to use so much of your production to wage a war, particularly a war of exhaustion.

Now, all of these things are deterrents upon the men in the Kremlin. They are factors that make war, let us say, less likely.

As long as they know that we are in a position to act strongly and to retaliate, war is not a decision to be taken lightly.

Yet I admit, and we must all admit, that there remains a possibility they might do this in a fit of madness or through miscalculation.

The atomic age, of course, as I mentioned before, is dangerous because those people have these secrets and they have exploded, as they did some months back, such a bomb.

But we know with respect to that bomb, we are not going to start a war.

It's not going to be used by our initiative, and I have just talked about the sobering effect of the risks of war upon the men in the Kremlin.

Of all those sobering effects none is greater than that retaliation that would certainly be visited upon them if they were to attack any of our nations or any part of our vital interests aggressively and in order to conquer us.

In addition to all this, we devote ourselves to civil, continental defense, in order to make certain that we have the best possible chance to live through such a catastrophe, to inflict upon the enemy such losses as we can.

But since insanity still exists, I again say there is still an element in that threat that we must calculate very coldly and very carefully.

Red Infiltration Is Real Danger

Now, the next thing that we fear, or concerning which we are apprehensive, is this idea of Communist infiltration into our own country, into our Government, into our schools, into our unions, into any of our facilities, any of our industries, wherever they may be and wherever those Communists could damage us.

Now, it would be completely false to minimize the danger of this penetration. It does exist. We know some of them are here.

Yet let me give you now some of the counterbalancing factors. First of all, this fear has been greatly exaggerated as to numbers. In our country today there are possibly some 25,000 doctrinal Communists.

The FBI knows pretty well where they are, but the headlines of the newspapers would sometimes have you think that every other person you meet is a Communist.

Actually 25,000 out of 160 million people means about one out of 6,000, but they are dangerous.

Now, our great defense against

REASSURES FREE WORLD—President Eisenhower flashes his familiar grin as he faces the camera just before going on the air last night in a plea for a sober facing of the atomic era facts of life. He assured the free world that America can lead the world to a peaceful and secure existence.

those people is the FBI. The FBI has been doing for years in this line of work a magnificent job.

They are a great bulwark and if any one of you can notify them to-day about real, valid suspicions you have, they will be on the job doing something about it. They're that kind.

So great is the story that they have to tell that I am not going to attempt to tell it tonight. Instead I have asked the Attorney General on next Friday night to come before you and give you a complete account of what the FBI has been doing about this.

Asserts Probers Must Use Care

Now, along with this fear of Communist penetration comes another fear that's related to it, the fear that we will use intemperate investigative methods, particularly through Congressional committees to combat that Communist penetration.

Now, as I pointed out before, it is minute. The great mass of governmental people, governmental workers, civilian and uniformed, people in our schools and everywhere else we can think of are just as dedicated as you and I. They are just as loyal.

But this fringe still has to be hunted out and, as I say, you will get a full report of what the FBI is doing.

Now the Congressional committee. One of its functions when it was first set up—the Congressional investigative committee—was to be your protection against the unwarranted attacks of an overpowering executive.

It was to look after your civil liberties to make certain that your liberties were not eroded away. Now, ladies and gentlemen, I admit that there can be very grave offenses committed against an innocent individual if he's accused falsely by someone having the immunity of Congressional membership.

He can lose his job. He can have scars that will be lasting, but in the long run you may be certain of this — America believes in and practices fair play and decency and justice.

In this country public opinion is never make it to think of our friends in the international world as being tools of ours. They are not.

They are friends of ours, and if they are not friends, they are useless to us.

The United Nations was conceived in the idea that co-operative effort among great and free peace-loving nations could establish peace in this world, and the United Nations authorizes coalitions in different areas of the world designed for the same purpose and in the same spirit.

We believe in those in every corner of the world, whether it's to protect the Southwest Pacific or NATO in Europe or wherever it is, we believe that the interested nations should band together and in a co-operative spirit maintain the freedom of those countries against any kind of Communist aggression.

Still, some of these nations are weak. They're indecisive, and we have our disappointments, in trying to build them up.

We have that form of apprehension to take into our calculations to prepare for and to prepare against.

Now, I want to take up just very briefly the fear of depression and the loss of jobs.

You will hear people talking about the level of 3,700,000 unemployed. It's very true, and it is a figure that comes about as a result of our efforts to go from war to peace economy.

That figure happily shows every sign now of leveling off. The last reports were only a few thousand greater than the ones earlier.

Jobs Near Record; 60 Million at Work

But these people who look on it so gloomily never say to you that there are more than 60 million people today gainfully employed in the United States entirely aside from the three million five hundred thousand that are in the armed services.

We have a number of peacetime jobs and employment that is very near to an all-time high. We have the most powerful of all forces, and it will straighten this matter out wherever and whenever there is real violence done to our people.

Must Not Lose World Friends

Now, the next fear I want to touch upon is the fear of losing international friends. The fear that comes to us, the apprehension that comes to us when we consider that exposed areas of the world not so strong as we are, not so strong materially or in this world's riches or militarily, may fall prey to the subversion and deceit, the bribery, the propaganda that is practiced by the Russians.

Now, some of these areas are very, very important to us, not merely because of the necessary materials we get from them, tungsten, the rubber, manganese, and all the things we need to keep our economy going, but because those people, regimented under the Communist dictators in the Kremlin could make them stronger and stronger against us as the free world is chipped away.

Now, let's take again some of the counterbalancing values. Did you ever stop to think there's no nation in the world that has ever freely adopted Communism in a vote of the people?

On the contrary, every time Communists have taken over a country, even Russia, it has been done by a very small minority practicing violence or through some slick method of political move has gotten control of the country, establishing a Gestapo or other method of police control, has ruled that country.

Moreover, there is a growing understanding in the world of the decency and the justice of the American position in opposing the slavery of any nation.

We do not believe that any nation, no matter how great, has a right to take another people and subject them to its rule.

We believe that every nation has a right to live its own life.

Every bit of aid we give, every co-operative effort we undertake, is all based upon the theory of co-operation among all of us. The other night a newspaper, by a curious error, spoke of 'Allies as "appliance" instead of alliances.

Now, the one mistake we must great insurance plans in this country against loss of jobs.

We have farm programs to protect the farms against disaster.

We have the great savings of our people, near an all-time high, and then we have the great requirements of 160 million people of good income, and that is the kind of thing that gives employment and insures the productivity of our farms and factories.

But aside from that, my friends, we have also a government that is ready to act whenever necessary.

Now, one of the important things in this kind of a problem is the attitude of your government.

I have tried to define our government several times as one that is completely liberal in its relationship to people, but earnestly tries to be conservative when it deals with your money and your economy.

Now, already there have been many measures taken to ease over and to accommodate this transition from a war to a peace economy.

We have made loans easier. We have facilitated construction. We have reduced and are reducing to some extent the surplus that overhangs our agricultural market.

We are trying to increase markets abroad, stimulating production, and so on, but there are many, many more plans in reserve ready to use if necessary.

Among these, of course, is public construction, further lowering of taxes, increasing of money to spend in many ways, and that is something to be brought out if necessary, but on the other hand, your government does not intend to go into any slam-bang emergency program unless it is necessary.

Free and Peaceful World Our Aim

Now, my friends, I should say that the one great aspiration of America is a free, peaceful and prosperous world.

To have a free and prosperous world we must be ever stronger. We must be ever stronger not only in the things I have mentioned but particularly in the spiritual sense, the belief, the faith that we can do certain things.

We must have the faith that comes from a study of our own history. From the inspiration of leaders like Washington, Lincoln, and in what our pioneering forefathers did.

But as we look at the whole problem and we sum up these apprehensions of which I have just spoken, we find that each of them has a certain lingering element of truth in it.

And so we have plans. And this Administration has presented to the Congress a plan, a legislative program.

In that program there are ample measures for defense, civil and continental defense and for the better effects of our atomic development.

We have lowered taxes so that 6 billion dollars or more have been turned back to the public to stimulate production.

We have farm programs, taxes, trade, mutual security, housing, social security, health programs.

All of these things, my friends, if they are done, we will be certain of the stronger America that will be capable of bringing closer to us this peaceful, prosperous and secure America.

But I say again that it is American belief in decency, in justice, in progress, and the value of individual liberty, because of rights conferred on each of us by our Creator, that will carry us through.

As we study and plan—these things, there must be something in the heart as well as in the head. And so we do this, as you and I approach these problems in this way, I assure you we don't have to fear.

I don't mean to say, and no one can say to you, that there are no dangers.

Of course, there are risks, but we do not have to be hysterical. We can be vigilant; we can be Americans.

We can stand up and hold up our heads and say, America is the greatest force that God has ever allowed to exist on his footstool.

As such it is up to us to lead this world to a peaceful and secure existence, and I assure you we can do it. Good night, my friends.

Farm Methods Increase Profit

Proper Fertilizing Most Important in Boosting Yields, MSC Says

EAST LANSING (INS) — Researchers at Michigan State College have come up with a survey that shows farmers how to cut production costs and boost profits.

The secret to more successful farming—according to Dr. R. L. Cook, head of the MSC soil science department, and Dr. R. Hoglund, of the agricultural economics department—is improved farming practices.

Their survey showed that improved practices cut the cost of producing one bushel of wheat from $1.54 per bushel to $1.28.

Similarly, improved practices saved 19 cents per bushel in the production of corn; 21 cents per bushel in oats; $3.50 per ton of alfalfa-brome hay, and $3.05 per ton of sugar beets.

According to the MSC men, the biggest saving in production costs was exercised through the use of recommended rates of fertilizer.

Also important were other practices—such as timely planting, use of adapted crop varieties, seed treatment, crop rotation, the right soil management, tillage and weed control.

Cook and Hoglund point out that while recommended practices make the farmer spend more money per acre, resulting yields more than offset extra expenses.

They explain that in Michigan an average farmer spends $46 per acre to produce 38 bushels of corn. But, by spending $62.25 per acre—the cost of recommended practices—the farmer could produce 61 bushels of corn per acre.

Ford Defeats Furgol to Win Open Crown

New York Pro Takes 18-Hole Playoff at Greensboro

GREENSBORO, N. C. (UP)—Mrs. Doug Ford today had a $2,000 10th wedding anniversary present, the first top money her golfer husband had ever won in four tournament playoffs.

Ford, of Klamath Lake, N. Y., defeated Marty Furgol of Lamont, Ill., by three strokes Monday in an 18-hole playoff for first place in the greater Greensboro Open golf tournament.

He shot a one-over-par 73 yesterday after finishing in a tie with Furgol at 283 in the 72-hole regulation play ended Sunday. Furgol collected $1,400 for finishing 2nd with 75.

Both golfers were in trouble often but managed to stage good recoveries and Furgol twice cut down what appeared to be overwhelming Ford leads.

In last year's tourney, Ford lost to Earl Stewart Jr., in a four-way playoff and Monday he appeared to be determined to make a run-away of it. Each time, however, Furgol came back to make it close.

On the 18th hole Ford was leading by two strokes but when his 2nd shot went into a trap to the left of the green, Furgol could have sent it into extra holes with an eagle.

Furgol went over the trap with his 2nd but Ford blasted out to within two feet of the pin. Furgol went 12 feet beyond and conceded.

The two had exchanged words on the 18th green Sunday and spoke very little during the playoff round. Both played slow, deliberate, although somewhat ragged, games.

Ford was two over par on the front nine but settled down on the back side for a one-under 35. Furgol had a 39 on the front and a 36 coming in.

Marshall Teague of Daytona Beach, Fla., will pilot the entry of Nat Fullerton, Santa Monica, Calif. Johnny Fredricks of Royal Oak, Mich., will drive the Dunn Engineering Special from Detroit.

All four cars are rear drives. Fredricks passed his driver's test in 1933 but failed to qualify.

Teague, a former AAA stock car champion, conked out of last year's race. A broken oil line on the 169th lap took him out of 5th place.

Tigers Batter Roberts Again

SPARTANBURG, S. C. (UP)—Who's afraid of Robin Roberts? Maybe the National League, but not the Detroit Tigers.

The star righthander of the Philadelphia Phillies, a former Michigan Stater, has been a first cousin to Detroit batters this spring. They've seen Roberts twice in the last six days, and twice have plastered him.

Tigers roughed up Roberts for five runs in the 8th inning yesterday and went on to post an 8-3 decision over the Phillies. It even overshadowed a triple play by the Tigers in the 3rd inning.

There was talk in the deep South that Roberts, a 20-game winner for the last four seasons, was bothered by a back ailment. He denied it. But the fact remains that he hasn't been his overpowering self since the middle of last season.

Last week Roberts worked a full nine innings against the Tigers, who rapped him for seven runs and 13 hits. He pitched only five innings yesterday, being tagged for five runs and seven hits.

Furthermore, the fast-balling righthander struck out only one batter yesterday.

Detroit piled up 12 hits off Roberts and his successor, Karl Drews. Al Kaline, the bonus sensation, hammered Drews for a two-run homer in the 7th inning.

Ray Herbert pitched the first seven innings for Detroit and was helped out of a jam by the 3rd-inning triple play.

With runners on 1st and 2nd, Granny Hamner hit a high bouncer back to Herbert. Quickly, he fired to 3rd base to force one runner and 3rd baseman Ray Boone whipped the ball to 1st to nip Hamner.

After four scoreless innings, Roberts was hit hard in the 5th. A double by Jim Delsing, five singles and a double steal by Kaline and Boone accounted for the five runs.

Teams were to meet again today, with Detroit hoping to improve its 12-14 record. And just one week from today, they'll be home in Briggs Stadium to open the season against the Baltimore Orioles.

Walt Drope, Tiger first baseman, then pegged the ball back to Boone, who tagged Del Ennis, who was trying to go from 1st to 3rd on the play.

After four scoreless innings, Roberts was hit hard in the 5th. A double by Jim Delsing, five singles and a double steal by Kaline and Boone accounted for the five runs.

Teams were to meet again today, with Detroit hoping to improve its 12-14 record. And just one week from today, they'll be home in Briggs Stadium to open the season against the Baltimore Orioles.

Walt Drope, Tiger first baseman, then pegged the ball back to Boone, who tagged Del Ennis, who was trying to go from 1st to 3rd on the play.

Low-Scoring Spree Seen

Four Newcomers Have Chance to Take Top Honors in Masters Golf Tourney

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UP)—There never has been an occasion when an unknown won the Masters Golf Tournament. But it could happen this year.

Conditions of the Masters are all against the outsiders. To qualify for an invitation to this event, a golfer has to prove his merit by winning an important title or by finishing in the upper brackets of a major championship.

But the big field for the 1934

Masters starting Thursday — about 80 or more starters out of 115 who received invitations — includes more players than ever before whose names seldom have appeared in headlines.

To emphasize this fact, tournament chairman Cliff Roberts asked four of the top players to name four newcomers who seemed to have a chance.

Result was this: John Dawson, veteran amateur, tabbed Gene Littler as "the most interesting golfer I have ever watched." Cary Middlecoff picked Ted Kroll as a possible Masters winner.

Ben Hogan, the defending champion, put in a strong plug for his assistant, Gardner Dickinson; and Byrre Nelson put young Ken Venturi on top of his list.

To these four names can be added such newcomers to the masters field as Bob Toski, only double winner on the winter tour; low scoring Bud Holscher, Bob Rosburg, Jay Hebert, Frank Souhak and PGA champion Walter Burkemo.

These newcomers will be up against the toughest competition they ever have faced.

Hogan, who won with a record 274 score last year, is aiming to become the second three-time winner of the Masters and the first to win it twice in succession. And he won't predict that his record score will stand.

Given your sunny days, Hogan said, someone in the big field will beat his mark. Augusta National's broad fairways are in excellent shape; the greens are slower than in past years with the result that players can risk bold pitches to the pins. And after a couple of days of practice, all hands are looking for a low scoring spree.

Bears, Barons Tangle

HERSHEY, Pa. (UP)—The Hershey Bears battle the Cleveland Barons tonight at Hershey in the 2nd game of the American Hockey League's Calder Cup finals. Bears hold a 1-0 advantage in the seven-game series, thanks to their 3-0 win over the Barons Sunday. Barons won the cup last year.

Wallyes Starting 'Lift' Over Dams

NEWAYGO (UP)—The annual "lift" of 10,000 spawning walleyes over the lower dams in the Muskegon River began early today. Dipnetters, working under contract for the state conservation department, have 15 days in which to transfer the walleyes over the dam upriver. Fish transferred over the dam provide upriver sportmen with angling while those that remain below the dam provide downriver angler with fishing.

Lift was started many years ago as a compromise to satisfy sportmen all along the Muskegon River on both sides of the dam.

St. Louis Cardinals, 6-2, at San Antonio, Tex.

Johnson, who posted a 15-12 record with Toronto of the International League last year, struck out three Cardinal batters while pacing the White Sox to their 3rd straight triumph.

He had a shutout until the 6th when Rip Repulski led off with a homer.

Little Bobby Shantz of the Athletics also turned in a fine effort at Mobile, Ala., limiting the Pirates to three hits but unfortunately for him one of those hits was Frank Thomas' 9th homer of the spring, enough to give Pittsburgh a 1-0 decision.

Rookie Bob Purkey went the distance for the Pirates and gave up six hits.

Johnny Klippstein, in his best appearance of the spring, held the Orioles hitless until Vic Wertz singled in the 7th as he

Stanley Cup Champs Seek to Break Olympia Jinx Tonight

By JOE FALLS

DETROIT (UP)—The Montreal Canadiens are a team of many mysteries as they seek to square the Stanley Cup hockey playoffs with the Detroit Red Wings tonight.

Having dropped the opening game in the best-of-seven series, Canadian Coach Dick Irvin pondered these puzzles:

1. Will Maurice Richard, the team's No. 1 gunner, snap out of his slump?

2. Will Jacques Plante, rookie goalie, hold up under the playoff pressure?

3. Will Montreal break its Olympic Stadium "jinx"?

4. And, finally, will the Frenchmen buck the odds and become the fourth team in 37 years to successfully defend the Stanley Cup.

Richard, as well as his linemates, Ken Modell and Bert Olmstead, have been in a terrific slump since the playoffs started. This trio — the club's bread-and-butter line — has been held without a point in five games.

In the goal, Plante has looked sure of himself but many of the Red Wings think Gerry McNeil, the man whom Plante replaced in mid-season, would be more difficult for them because of his experience.

When the Canadiens lost the opener 3-1 it marked the 8th time this season they failed to win at Olympia Stadium. However, they're not noted for winning on the road. They've won only eight times on enemy ice in 38 games.

They'll have to win at least once in Olympia Stadium if they are to retain the Stanley Cup—hockey's most prized possession. Only three teams have ever repeated—Ottawa Senators (1930-31), Montreal (30-31) and Toronto Maple Leafs (47-48-49).

Detroit, on the other hand, is seeking to overcome the notion that they're not a good playoff club. Prior to this year, the Red Wings won the regular season's title five times but went all the way in the playoffs only on two occasions.

Detroiters rule as a 2-1 favorite to dethrone the Canadiens. The 3rd and 4th games will be played in Montreal Forum Thursday and Saturday.

Pontiac Team 8th in Elks' National Test

Pontiac's West Huron Recreation team — comprised of Les Rothbarth, P. Sweeney, Joe Bonfiglio, T. Sutton and Bill Bull — rolled a 3006 total last weekend at Toledo to place 8th in the National Elks Bowling Tournament.

Starchiefs finished in 23rd place with 2960. Making up the team were D. Sweeney, L. Lock, F. Larkin, Mike Kinport, and F. Barnard.

Top pairs combination from Pontiac was Bud McLaughlin and Fred Wyszogski with a 1294 total. Gene Russell, who posted a 699 series, led the Pontiac contingent in singles.

Boxing Hopes for NCAA Boxing Crown Doomed

EAST LANSING (UP)—Michigan State boxing coach George Makris said today it will be "impossible" for the Spartans to win the NCAA boxing crown this weekend now that two MSC fighters have been ruled ineligible.

Tom Hickey, defending 105-pound titlist, and Chokan Mackawa, speedy 125-pounder, have been yanked from competition after flunking classroom courses during winter term.

paced the Cubs to a 3-0 triumph at New Orleans.

Wertz' hit was the only one allowed by Klippstein during his seven-inning stint.

Two singles and a double by Jackie Robinson plus the smooth seven-hit pitching of Clem Labine, Jim Hughes and Erv Palica helped Brooklyn to a 6-0 victory over Milwaukee at Chattanooga, Tenn.

Triumph was the Dodgers' 4th against the Braves this spring and gave them an even split in the spring series.

A pair of homers by Lloyd Merriam were the key blows as Cincinnati defeated Washington at Winston Salem, N. C.

Ted Kluszewski, Jim Greengrass and Wally Post each hit homers for the Redlegs, too, while Eddie Yost and Roy Sievers connected for the Senators.

Jim Hegan's three-run homer against John (Windy) McCall in the 9th gave the Indians a 10-3

Bevo Francis May Quit Rio Grande School

Cage Sensation Can't Support Wife, Infant While in School

RIO GRANDE, O. (UP)—Lanky Bevo Francis, whose astronomical scoring efforts rocked the basketball world for the past two seasons, contemplated quitting school today for "financial reasons."

Francis, who has two more years of college eligibility remaining at Rio Grande College, said he couldn't "give my wife the things she needs," and couldn't support his 20-month-old son properly by continuing in college.

Loquacious Newt Oliver, who discovered Bevo while coaching in high school and brought him to Rio Grande, indicated he might not be around next season either.

Oliver said he had "been offered one or two offers elsewhere, and besides, there wouldn't be much of a future here without Bevo."

Francis said he will "definitely" decide by this spring. "I don't want to go into debt any further," he said.

Francis topped the nation's small colleges in scoring the past season with a total of 1,255 points and an average of 46.5 points per game. He broke 11 all-time records in the process.

During the 1952-53 season, Bevo as a freshman scored 1,954 points for a 50.1 average, but the NCAA refused to recognize the figures since most games were against junior colleges.

Harris Kayoes Favored Rival

Chills Bob Finnerty in the Fourth Round of Motor City Bout

DETROIT (UP)—Duke Harris, a hard-fighting welterweight, defied the advance billing Monday night and knocked out Bob Finnerty of Cleveland in a scheduled eight-rounder at the Motor City Arena.

The Duke caught Finnerty with a sweeping right to the chin and felled him at 1:15 of the 4th round. The reeling Irishman was out on his feet at the count.

Finnerty, highly rated and favored to win, was seeking his 14th victory in 15 starts. It was a triumphant achievement for Harris, a poised beginner with only six professional fights to his credit.

In a scheduled five-round preliminary, welterweight Alan Kennedy of Bay City punched his way to a TKO over Charley Terrana of Detroit in a devastating 4th round.

Larue Harvey, Detroit middleweight, defeated Bob Jackson of Cleveland, in a four-round supporting bout. This fight, like the Finnerty-Harris battle was televised.

Lightweights Stan Kurka and Bobby Brooks, both Detroiters, fought to a draw in a five-rounder.

Monroe High Juggles Coaching Staff Around

MONROE, N. C. (UP)—Monroe High School had three changes hit its athletic staff yesterday.

Cleo Winchell, assistant coach since last fall, was named head football coach. Vincent Sigren, basketball coach at Dundee Community School in Monroe County for the past three years, became head basketball coach at Monroe.

Eugene (Red) Davis moved out of the basketball spot to concentrate on baseball. Winchell, a graduate of Hillsdale College, succeeds Merle J. Schlosser who resigned to join the staff of Bowling Green (Ohio) State University.

COLUMBIA, S. C. (UP)—Sgt. Frank House goes back into the Army April 15, but only to get his discharge. The Detroit Tiger bonus catcher has been working with the team on furlough. He'll receive his discharge at Ft. Jackson.

Third Annual Tourney Slated at Municipal

Oakland County Area Teams Invited to 18 Hole Event

By JACK SAYLOR

Third annual Pontiac Press Invitational High School Golf Tournament will be played over the Pontiac Municipal course Monday May 17.

Pontiac Parks and Recreation department is cooperating in the holding of the tournament and is donating the use of the course.

The 18-hole medal play affair for 5-man teams has the full approval of the Michigan High School Athletic Association. Total score determines the team champion, which will receive the big rotating Pontiac Press championship trophy.

Winning school also receives a permanent trophy, while members of the championship team receive medals. Medalist for the tournament also receives an award, as do the low scorers in each class, A, B, and C-D.

All participants must be eligible under MHSAA rules and under the direction of approved school representatives.

Fourteen schools competed in the popular event last year and an even larger turnout is expected this season.

Birmingham High School is the defending champion this year. Maples won the tourney with a 393 total, beating Shrine by only three strokes. Equally tight was the finish for medalist honors.

Lloyd Syron of Shrine and Joe Glass of Birmingham each carded 73s, before Syron won the playoff for tourney medalist honors. Syron also took the Class B medal, while Glass earned the "A" award. Curt Dempster of Bloomfield Hills won the C-D medal.

Waterford took 3rd place behind Shrine, followed by Pontiac, Southfield and Bloomfield Hills. Other team entries included Royal Oak, Northville, Milford, Rochester, Holly, Clarencerville, Ortonville and Brighton.

Six records, established in the inaugural tourney two years ago, were bettered last year, while 13 others held up. Shrine's 393 set a Class B record and Bloomfield's 427 set a C-D mark.

Dempster's 77 set an individual lower class record. He also won his division in the 1st tourney in 1952. Other records were nine-hole marks set by Glenn Whitney of Bloomfield Hills (C-D) on the north nine and Lloyd Syron of Shrine (B) and Bill Minihnick of Bloomfield Hills on the south.

CASE—Down and Slide. Left Side Braces—The sketch pictures Detroit's Therman Gibson at what is called the "explosive" point in stride. This is when the swinging ball passes the left leg.

Gibson's sound form is one to adopt because it is not too difficult to follow from the erect starting position, holding ball a bit above waist level. Remember, hold ball in palm of left hand for push-away in timing with first step.

Notice how Gibson is well down, how far his right leg is stretched, as right toe applies brake to two foot slide. You've got to slide in order to brace the left side.

That's what sends the arm straight on out into a reaching follow-through. It means accuracy, top scores. Slide for body balance.

Pacific Coast Loop Opens Season Today

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—The 1954 baseball season gets underway officially today as the Pacific Coast League opens its 52nd season with three single games and a day-night double-header.

There was a possibility that rain would interfere with the scheduled opener here between the San Francisco Seals and the Seattle Rainiers, and at Sacramento, where the Solons open against the Oakland Oaks.

However, clear weather is predicted at Hollywood for the Hollywood-Portland game and at San Diego, where the Padres will play the Los Angeles Angels.

PLANS COMEBACK — Native Dancer, standout three-year-old of the 1953 racing season, will return to racing in a 6-furlong allowance event at Belmont Park early in May. The Dancer probably will be an entry in the Metropolitan Handicap, May 15. Eric Guerin is riding the Big Gray.

PWBA Gives $1,147 Gifts to Charities

Pontiac Women's Bowling Association made contributions to 10 service organizations during the past season, according to a report released by the PWBA today.

Bowlers' contributions, biggest of which was a $547 donation to the WIBC's Victory Legion program at veterans' hospitals, totaled $1,147.

Other contributions included $100 gifts to Pontiac Goodfellows for Christmas baskets, March of Dimes, and Sister Kenny Foundation (Michigan Chapter), and $50 donations to the Oakland County Chapter of the Red Cross, Oakland County Society for Crippled Children, Pontiac Boys' Club, Navy Mothers' Club No. 355, Patients' Benefit Association of the Tuberculosis Sanitarium and Pontiac Citadel of the Salvation Army.

PIN MONEY

Selling pins in quantities didn't come into practice until 1844 when a small manufacturer in Derby, Connecticut, worked out a way to produce them by machinery at the rate of two million a week.

Up to that time ordinary pins sold for as high as twenty cents apiece and were looked upon as appropriate gifts for weddings and Christmas. They were also used as small change to supplement barter between individuals, which, incidentally is the origin of the term "Pin Money."

And with some of the prices advertised you can buy an "A-1" Guaranteed Used Car with "Pin Money" at---

Hal Boyle Says:

Horse Players Are Game, Learn to Take Punishment

NEW YORK (U.P.)—Bird watchers can understand. And flagpole sitters, weight lifters and people who play croquet or the tubs.

The lady who liked pancakes so well she kept her closets full of them will find no critic in me. I will even continue to shake hands on sight with a martini drinker, so long as he doesn't become a chronic wife beater.

Tolerance should ever be our byword in a world in which we all have out built-in foibles—and we should realize that if we all wanted the same thing—say money, to cite a crass example—why, there wouldn't be enough to go around.

But I must confess an inability to appreciate horse players. The mere act of living today seems to me to require such interesting but desperate gambles that I am puzzled by a man who will steadily adventure his dough on horses he hasn't even met socially.

Last Saturday some 40,220 people went out in 32-degree weather to the Jamaica Racetrack and bet $3,160,780. Among them was a friend of mine, a hard-working man afflicted with hoofbeat-ringing of the ears, who dropped $62.50, his entire wad.

He was cold, shivering, broke—and deliciously happy.

"Boy, that wind was brutal," he wheezed. "I felt sorry for the jockeys, wearing nothing but those thin silks. They should've had long-johns on."

"Would you do me a favor?" I asked him. "Please tell me the difference between a horse player and a human being."

Here is his answer—the philosophy of an incurable horse player:

"The horse player is the gamist of all sports fans. He takes the most punishment—in taxes, admission-fees and the way they hypo the food and drink prices once they get him out to the track."

"But a real horse player will turn out in the face of a blizzard, a hurricane, a fog—even an earthquake. He knows the big tracks are honest, but even if the races weren't on the level he'd still come out. He has an unbounded belief in the axiom, 'some horse has to win—and it might be the one I got my money down on.'"

"I don't say it gives a man as big a kick as becoming a father for the first time. On the other hand a horse player may root in a winner a thousand times, but how often in a lifetime can you become a father for the first time?"

"Hope springs eternal in the human breast, but it springs twice as eternal in a horse player's breast. So you lose? Most horse players are so accustomed to losing they take it pretty well. They will never commit suicide while they are holding a sweepstakes ticket."

"Horse players are human in at least one respect. They like to talk about the big killings they made in the past rather than discuss their losses for that day."

"Do all horse players die broke? Not necessarily. I heard of one player who hit a big daily double, collected his winnings, and dropped dead. He went to his grave in a new suit, dressed better than he ever had been in his life.

"No, I don't know of any serious horse player who is ahead of the game. Certainly I am not, after 20 years. But look at the fun I've had. I might have spent the same money on liquor—and had 20 years of hangovers. The serious horse player isn't a heavy drinker or girl chaser. Anybody who can afford three pastimes like those is just a playboy hobbyist."

"I'll admit there is no doubt that horse playing has ruined some lives. But I've also heard there's a case in the medical records of a man who actually drowned himself by drinking too much water."

"No horse player ever drowned at a well-run track."

Sales Continue in the Grains

CHICAGO (AP)—Grains continued to sell off a little today, with the heavy May wheat contract in the weakest position. Further pessimism as to export prospects depressed wheat.

Corn and oats were steady. Renewed strength in soybeans and meal helped a recovery movement in May and July soybeans, although the rest of the market continued weak. Lard held steady.

Near the end of the first hour wheat was $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$ lower, May \$2.16 $\frac{1}{2}$, corn was $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$ lower, May \$1.52 $\frac{1}{2}$, oats were unchanged to $\frac{1}{4}$ lower, May 74 $\frac{1}{2}$, rye was $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$ lower, May \$1.06 $\frac{1}{2}$. Soybeans were unevenly 1 cent higher to $\frac{1}{4}$ lower, May \$3.63 $\frac{1}{2}$ and lard was 5 to 10 cents a hundred pounds lower, May \$19.32.

Troop 244 Has 1st Honor Court

Over 200 Are Guests at Washington Junior Boy Scout Program

Over 200 parents and guests attended the first annual Honor Court of Boy Scout Troop 244 in Washington Junior High School last night when four trophies were awarded for outstanding work during the past year.

Two first aid trophies went to Duke Cummins and Jerry Powers and a six-month trophy was awarded to Richard Jackson. Runners-up for the achievement award were Ray Smith, John Blamy and Duke Cummins.

Scoutmaster Dr. Jack W. Bell was awarded a 20-year service star and a 100 per cent pin for the sixth time. Committee members receiving one-year service stars were Joseph Manning, John Blamy and Web Boyea. Arthur Tyrell, institutional representative, received a three-year service star.

Receiving 100 per cent duty pins were John Watson, Ray Smith, Jim Fair, Michael Strang and Terry Wilkins. Phil Francis was given the KP award.

Charles Turner, representative of the Grace Lutheran Church awarded Dr. Bell with a plaque for outstanding leadership in Boy Scouting. William J. De-Grace presented the troop with the annual compare award.

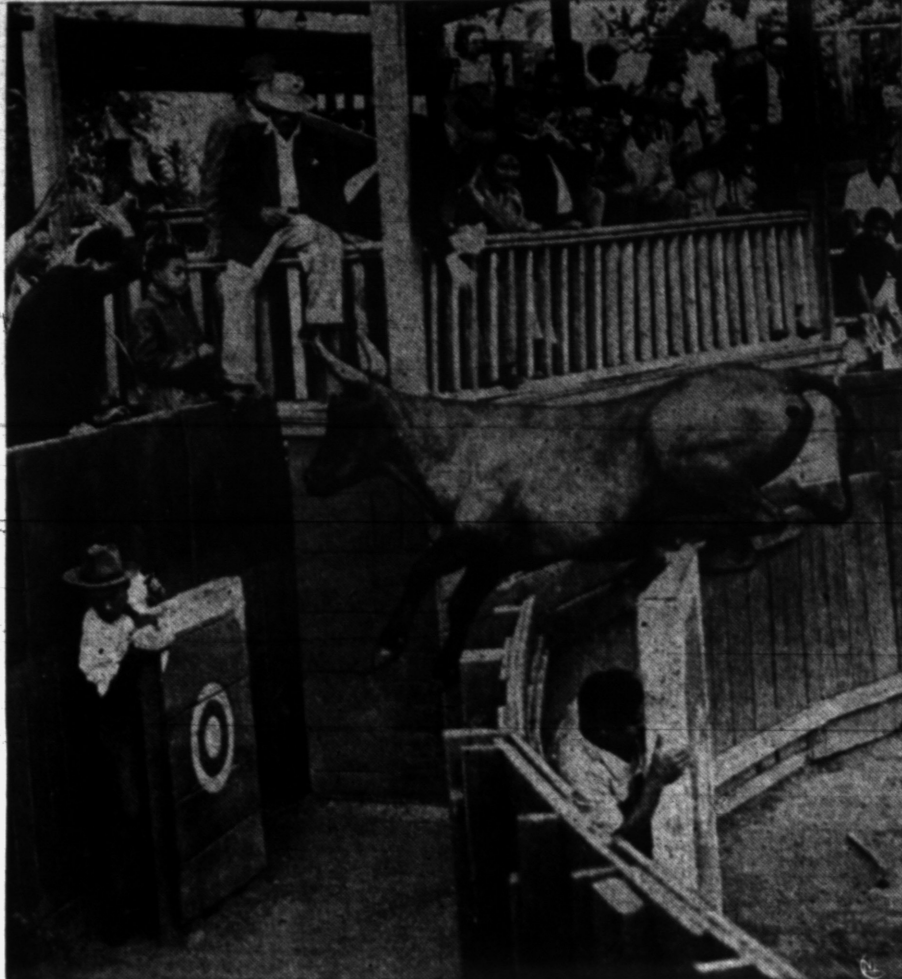

Promoted to senior patrol leaders were Gordon Jackson, Duke Cummins, Ray Smith, and Jerry Powers. New patrol leaders are John Watson, John Blamy, Rickey Serwin and Larry Olliffe. Assistant patrol leaders are Ken Mackie, Lynn Carson, Mike Strang, Larry Hall and Ted Gaensbauer.

Richard Jackson and Jim Smith are the troop's new quartermasters. Other awards went to Tyrus Menzel, Larry Hall, Roger Manning, Philip Schuricht, Dennis Jenks, Lambert Spur, Raymond Smith, Jim Fair, Bruce Benter, Michael Schultz, Rickey Eriksen, Ray Davis, Bob Hayward, Sam Hartman, Jim Smith, Van LaCore and David Panks.

Dr. Bell was congratulated in a telegram from his father, who is scoutmaster of Detroit's Troop 244, the largest in the world.

A contest covering knot-tying, marching, signaling and first aid was won by the Flaming Arrow Patrol. The patrol will be awarded a weekend trip to Dr. Bell's cottage in Canada.

HEADED FOR THE BULLSEYE—El Torro jumps the fence at a Caracas, Venezuela, bull-fighting school sending the manager, at left, scampering for safety behind a barrier. The bugler, in center stand, was signaling for the removal of the bull after 15 minutes of action. Youngsters between 10 and 20 years of age learn the art of bull fighting here for 75 cents a week. Every Sunday they face a live bull for 15 minutes. The bulls charge the youngsters head on, sometimes the students leap the fence for safety and sometimes El Torro jumps the fence in pursuit of the aspiring bull fighters. No one was hurt and the bull was led back to the corral.

Top State Court Upholds Eviction in Lapeer Battle

LAPEER (U)—The State Supreme Court has approved a new legal attack on "Fort Ziegenhardt."

In Lansing yesterday, the court said that a suit of ejectment could properly be brought against Chris and Paul Ziegenhardt, former owners of the Lapeer County farm which has been barricaded against seizure.

The ruling supported Mrs. Grace White of Lapeer, buyer of the farm at a sheriff's sale and a principal figure in the celebrated eviction battle.

The Lapeer County Circuit Court had held that Mrs. White obtained a writ of restitution to get possession and must pursue that course or drop it. However, the high court held she has a right to try the ejectment process.

Mrs. White bought the farm after the Ziegenhardt brothers refused to pay a stockholders' assessment against the defunct Lapeer Farmers' Mutual Insurance Assn.

Sheriff's officers dispossessed the brothers March 31, 1951, but friends and sympathizers immediately put them back in possession of the property.

Neither Mrs. White nor her law-

State Court Upholds Church Expansion

LANSING (U)—In a split decision, the State Supreme Court today ruled that a Roman Catholic church in the village of Orchard Lake could build a church and school despite implied restrictions.

Justice Leland W. Carr wrote the controlling opinion which affirmed the decision of the Oakland County Circuit Court in the case. Three justices joined him in signing the opinion.

The minority opinion, written by Justice Neil E. Reid and signed by two other justices, was for reversal of the lower court.

The suit was brought by Mr. and Mrs. Edward M. Buckley and Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Du Frain, adjoining property owners, who held that restrictions on the plot requiring that only single dwellings be built restrained the church.

Defendants in the case were Edward Cardinal Mooney, Roman Catholic archbishop of Detroit, and the Rev. Giles L. Bartol, pastor of Our Lady of Refuge Church, Orchard Lake.

Attorneys for the church contended that the restrictions were not included in the deed given the church and therefore did not apply.

Offers Removed by Chris Craft

Concessions Dropped Due to Recession, Firm Tells Strikers

ALGONAC (U)—Chris Craft Corp. has told four AFL unions that its offers of wage increases and fringe benefits have been withdrawn.

The company's three plants at Holland, Cadillac and Algonac have been strike-bound since March 17.

Hansen Smith, vice president, said the company sent telegrams yesterday to the AFL painters, carpenters, machinists, and upholsterers retracting its offers. He said:

"Lack of orders and a business recession make it advisable for the company to withdraw all wage increases and fringe benefits offered."

The telegrams also advised "all employees with low seniority to find employment elsewhere."

Smith said this was because the company expected lower than "present employment" when it reopens the plants.

Smith denied reports that the plants were closing down indefinitely. He said a plant at Carthageville, Mo., had been closed because of surplus inventory. But this plant was not involved in the strike.

The three Michigan plants employ about 1,800 workers.

The Holland plant continued to operate on a reduced schedule with non-strikers until last week. Violence hit the plant shortly before the company stopped attempts to produce there.

The painters, carpenters and machinists are involved at all the plants, but the upholsterers are employed only at Algonac.

Smith said no new offers are foreseen. But, he said, the statement did not mean the company was withdrawing from future negotiations.

It meant only, he said, that the company did not feel able to make the offers now which it had previously extended.

Three Youths Injured as Car Skids in Gravel

Three Detroit youths were injured Monday when their car skidded in loose gravel on a Pontiac Trail curve and crashed into a tree, according to State Police of the Pontiac Post.

Paul R. Diamond, 19, driver of the car, was admitted to Pontiac General Hospital with a fractured arm, forehead cuts and concussion. His condition today is listed as satisfactory.

Norbert Susko, 18, is in good condition with severe face cuts, according to the hospital. He and Kenneth Myers, 19, were passengers with Diamond. Myers was treated for deep leg cuts.

LUCKY LEATHERNECK—Terrance Brouse, one of 13 Marine Corps recruits bound for boot camp at San Diego, Calif., reacts in an un-Marine-like manner to a send-off kiss from airline stewardess Pat Carney. T-Sgt. John McCandless, of the Minneapolis, Minn., recruiting office, looks on in amazement, obviously thinking that Brouse needs a lot of boot training before he has the situation well in hand.

Asian Situation Worries Solons

Fear Choice Between Indochina Intervention and Loss to Reds

WASHINGTON (U)—Members of the House Foreign Affairs Committee seemed worried today that the United States may be forced to decide soon between more direct intervention in Indochina and possible loss of vital Southeast Asia to Communism.

The committee heard Secretary of State Dulles say yesterday that Red China is giving the Vietnam combat help in the furious battle with French Union forces.

He said Chinese Communist anti-aircraft gunners have been shooting down French planes, that a high-ranking Chinese Red General and a group of that in other ways the Chinese are "coming awful close" to a new aggression which he has warned might force American retaliation.

But committee members, after questioning Dulles in public and secret session, said they were still in the dark about any specific plans this country may have for countering a Red Chinese threat in Indochina. He has called for "united action," but this has not been spelled out.

Just last night, it was reported that the administration is preparing a united action with America's Pacific allies to throw a stern warning at Communist aggressors in Indochina.

Dulles appeared before the com-

107 Pints of Blood Given on Monday

Pontiac area men and women gave 107 pints of blood when the American Red Cross "bloodmobile" stopped Monday at Pontiac Elks Temple.

Mrs. N. E. Durocher, Red Cross blood donor recruitment chairman for Pontiac, said that "we especially appreciate those people's efforts. They took time on a busy city election day to give their blood to save the lives of the sick and injured in our local hospitals."

Salesmen of Oliver Motor Sales showed up for a group donation. Mrs. Durocher added.

The bloodmobile's next visit here is tentatively scheduled for April 27. Anyone who can give blood then is urged to call local offices of Oakland County Red Cross chapter, FE 4-3575, Mondays through Fridays.

'Robert Q.' Gets Wind of Parties

Has to Act Amazed at 4 Surprise Events for His 33rd Birthday

NEW YORK — TV's Bill Cullen got his biggest boost in his early days as a comedy writer from Jack Carney, brother of the famous Art. At the time, Bill was scribbling jokes for such comedians as Danny Kaye, Milton Berle and Arthur Godfrey.

Robert Q. Lewis accidentally got wind of four "surprise" parties planned for his 33rd birthday yesterday and had to practice up on his best amazed look in order not to spoil the fun.

Producer Peter Arnell took Clifton Fadiman out of the ranks of unemployed TV actors even before Fadiman's "This Is Show Business" went off the air. The former "Information Please" emcee will moderate Arnell's new TV panel show due soon on the network.

Jessica Tandy and Hume Cronyn, husband-and-wife starring team of radio's "The Marriage," will make an in-person cross-country tour this fall in a program of readings entitled, "Face To Face." The tour will start at the University of Delaware Oct. 4.

Celeste Holm didn't appear on the 30-minute TV tribute to Rodgers and Hammerstein because the songs she made famous in their stage hit, "Oklahoma!," "All or Nothing At All" and "I Can't Say No," are still banned from the networks.

Musical director Harry Sosnik's gift from his orchestra members on the Rodgers and Hammerstein TV tribute was a gold-plated baton inscribed with: "To Harry Sosnik, who beat 28 men with a stick and made them like it."

Producer Peter Arnell spotted lovely Betsy Palmer in a walk-on role on TV and signed her to introduce guests on his "Wheel of Fortune" TV show. The adage that no opportunity is too small is pointedly emphasized by the fact that Betsy has now been signed for a leading role in the next Tyron Power movie.

Yul Brynner, now touring in the Rodgers and Hammerstein musical, "The King and I," may have been a stranger to viewers during his stint recreating his role. But Yul was an ace director and producer for TV before appearing in the play and still is under contract with the network in this capacity.

Service note: A survey revealed that, at any given time, about five per cent of all TV sets are "on the blink."

Year's Probation Given for Taking Automobile

One year probation and $100 costs were imposed on James J. Stovall, 27, of 192 Harrison Rd., Monday by Circuit Judge H. Russell Holland for unlawfully taking and using a motor vehicle.

Stovall pleaded guilty March 29 to taking a car without permission from the used car lot of an auto agency in Birmingham where he worked. He drove to Pontiac to do an errand, according to police and was involved in an accident while returning the car.

Circuit Judge H. Russell Holland assessed Joseph J. McGinnis, 23, of 835 Pensacola Rd., $150 costs Monday and placed him on two years probation on a charge of larceny.

McGinnis pleaded guilty March 22 to stealing 36 sheets of plywood from a home under construction at Sylvan Lake.

State High Court Decision Verifies Eminent Domain

LANSING (AP) — The State Supreme Court has virtually told State Highway Commissioner Charles M. Ziegler to pay up and get on with the U.S.31 bypass around Holland.

The court rejected Ziegler's petition for a writ of mandamus against Kent County Circuit Judge William B. Brown to force him to lift an injunction against seizure of the property of the Holland Rendering Works, straddling the bypass right-of-way.

Ziegler, the court said, does not need a mandamus to get possession of the property.

"All he has to do," the court said, "is to pay the judicially-determined compensation to the owner," $80,520 fixed by three court-appointed condemnation commissioners.

Ziegler fixed the value of the rendering works at $35,000 and objected to the condemnation award. The Supreme Court twice has refused to hear his appeals from that award.

The grandsons of the late Henry Ford have won a Supreme Court decision which required Edgar LeRoy Bryant to post a $30,000 bond to cover possible costs in his suit to claim 30 million dollars from the estate of the late Clara B. Ford, widow of the automotive pioneer.

The decision upheld a Wayne County Probate Court order and reversed a decision of Wayne County Circuit Judge Carl Weidman, setting aside the bond order.

By default, the court let stand a lower court decision that a man who slays his wife can inherit half of the real estate they hold jointly "by the entireties."

The case involved the estate of Mrs. Veda Baumer a Mount Clemens beauty shop operator, who was slain June 26, 1948, by her husband, Harold. He now is serving a life sentence.

A lower court gave Mrs. Baumer's life insurance and personal property to her relatives, but held that half of the real estate was due her husband. The Supreme Court split four-and-four on the appeal, allowing the lower court decision to stand.

Justice Leland W. Carr and three justices held that a criminal may not benefit by his crime and that the husband was entitled to was his half of the real estate.

Justice John R. Dethmers and three others argued that property held "by the entireties" is owned wholly by both spouses. Since Baumer owned it all anyway, they said, he could not benefit by the crime.

Four Flint men convicted of gambling conspiracy Feb. 23, 1952, had their sentences upheld by the Supreme Court. They are Henry R. Pickett, Richard L. Kirby, Harold Wirsing and the late Edward Reinke.

The court said the Flint jury list drawn by the city assessor was legal.

Making new law, the court said that the examination testimony of a state's witness could be used at the trial when the witness refuses to testify.

Thief From Building Site Gets Probation for Man

Circuit Judge H. Russell Holland assessed Joseph J. McGinnis, 23, of 835 Pensacola Rd., $150 costs Monday and placed him on two years probation on a charge of larceny.

McGinnis pleaded guilty March 22 to stealing 36 sheets of plywood from a home under construction at Sylvan Lake.

Circuit Judge H. Russell Holland assessed Joseph J. McGinnis, 23, of 835 Pensacola Rd., $150 costs Monday and placed him on two years probation on a charge of larceny.

McGinnis pleaded guilty March 22 to stealing 36 sheets of plywood from a home under construction at Sylvan Lake.

Enters Guilty Plea to Unarmed Robbery

Lewis A. Denman, 29, of Farmington, pleaded guilty to unarmed robbery Monday before Circuit Judge H. Russell Holland.

Sentencing was set for April 12 and Denman was returned to the County Jail where he is being held in lieu of $1,000 bond.

Denman is charged with ordering cab driver Clarence Sheffer, of Detroit, to drive him to Telegraph road last March 25. Sheffer said Denman tried to choke him with a necktie on Beech road between Eight and Nine-Mile roads in Southfield Township.

He told police he broke away and ran from the cab. Denman was arrested by Royal Oak Township Police a short time later, while driving the stolen cab.

Icebreaker Near Detour

SAULT STE. MARIE (AP)—The icebreaker Mackinaw begin operations in the lower St. Marys River Tuesday, the Coast Guard reported. Commander T. H. Dahlburg of the Soo Coast Guard station said the cutter would finish up near Detour at the end of the week.

Argus Cameras Faces Complaint of Unfair Prices

WASHINGTON (INS) — The Federal Trade Commission today charged Argus Cameras, Inc., of Ann Arbor, Mich., with unlawful price discrimination in the sale of photographic equipment.

The FTC complaint also charges the company with granting discriminatory advertising allowances to two small mail order houses.

The complaint alleges that Argus sells to some purchasers at higher prices than those charged other buyers. It says the firms receiving the varying prices compete with each other in the resale of Argus products.

Robert Lewis, president of Argus Cameras, expressed surprise at the FTC's complaint. He pointed out in Michigan that the price schedule of his company has been in effect for many years and said it follows customary and traditional prices.

The company has 20 days to file an answer to the complaint. Hearings begin May 31 in Ann Arbor under the supervision of examiner William L. Pack.
