My Lai Suspect Is Interrogated

From Our News Wires

WASHINGTON — First Lt. William L. Calley Jr., the only man officially accused so far of murdering South Vietnamese villagers at My Lai last year, was advised to say nothing about his role in the alleged massacre when questioned yesterday by Pentagon investigators.

Calley's civilian lawyer, George Latimer, said he told the 26-year-old soldier not to discuss the subject during his appearance before a special board established to determine whether a low-level Army inquiry soon after the March 16, 1968, incident amounted to little more than a whitewash.

The investigating panel, headed by Lt. Gen. William R. Peers, interrogated Calley in absolute secrecy for nearly three hours. The content of his testimony was not made public. When the questioning ended in midafternoon, Calley, accompanied by Maj. Kenneth Raby, his military attorney, flew back to Ft. Benning, Ga., without speaking to reporters.

Calley, a platoon leader in the My Lai engagement, has been ordered court-martialed on charges of premeditated murder of at least 109 civilians the day of the assault. His trial is expected to begin early next year at Ft. Benning, where he is stationed.

ASSAULT CHARGE
David Mitchell, 29, a staff sergeant from St. Francisville, La., has been charged with assault to commit murder in the case.

Army Capt. Ernest Medina, who was Calley's company commander, said yesterday he ordered his troops at My Lai to destroy and burn the village, kill the livestock and battle the Vietcong. He said he never gave any orders to massacre women and children.

In a taped television interview on CBS-TV's Evening News, Medina said reliable intelligence sources informed him all women and children would be out of My Lai at the time of the attack. He said he received his orders from Col. Frank Barker, task force commander, who died in a helicopter crash later in 1968.

Medina's attorney, F. Lee Bailey, said yesterday in Columbus, Ohio, that he thinks it is unlikely any charges will be made against the captain.

Goodfellow sales are also being conducted in four other area communities.

130 FAMILIES HELPED

"Last year we helped about 130 families," Latimer said. "The money we raise will not only help the children at Christmas time but all through the year."

Waterford organizations helping with the sale include the Rotary Club, Super Optimists, Breakfast Optimists, Fraternal Order of Eagles, the police and fire departments, Lions, VFW and high school students.

Pontiac Goodfellows President Dick Rompa of the main post office said his organization will sell at the city's main intersections, including downtown locations, K-Mart and Spartan Department Stores centers and the Tel-Huron shopping district.

"We hope to go away over our goal of $1,000," Rompa asserted.

Pontiac policemen, firemen and service club members will participate as Old Newsboys in today's sale.

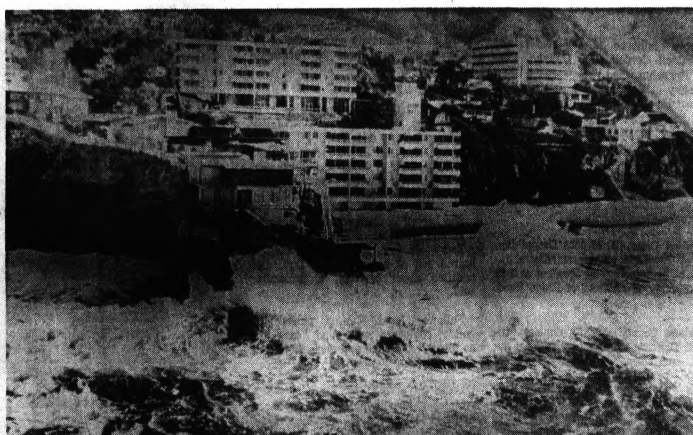

Goodfellow editions are also being sold by volunteers in Highland, Avon and Pontiac townships and Oxford.

$110-Million Suit Filed Over Viet Killings Story

BOSTON (AP) — Capt. Ernest L. Medina, charging he was held up to ridicule and contempt, filed suit against Time Inc. yesterday in federal court, asking $110 million in damages.

The suit was filed from the office of F. Lee Bailey, Boston lawyer who represents the Springer, N.M., native.

Medina's suit said the case is based on the current issue of Time magazine, which carried statements of a soldier connecting Medina with alleged slayings of civilians at My Lai, South Vietnam, in March 1968.

Cultist Tells of Tate Murders

From Our News Wires
LOS ANGELES — The strange story of "the Manson family," whose members are prime suspects in the bizarre Sharon Tate murders, was described yesterday to a county grand jury by a pretty 21-year-old member.

Susan Atkins appeared before the grand jury without being granted immunity from prosecution.

She testified behind locked doors for two hours and 15 minutes, relating her earlier story of the "band in black" which she saw stab and shoot and kill actress Sharon Tate and four others in August.

A prosecutor said an indictment charging murder and conspiracy will be sought against Charles Manson, 35, the wild-haired leader of the wandering band of occult-oriented hippie types.

The grand jury action against Manson — who, followers say, called himself "God," "Jesus" and "Satan" — will be asked on the basis of vicarious liability, said Deputy Dist. Atty. Vincent Bugliosi.

In vicarious liability, he said, a person who joins in a conspiracy, is criminally responsible for any of his coconspirators' crimes that further the object of the conspiracy.

Asked how she felt about informing on the weird, nomadic cult whose members are accused of a total of eight senseless slayings, Miss Atkins replied, "Dead."

Her attorney, Richard Caballero, said later Miss Atkins fears her testimony may make her a "marked woman" (Continued on Page A-2, Col. 4)

An Innocent Bystander

NEW YORK (UPI) — "I'd just been minding my own business . . ." says 70-year-old George Baier, and that is the lead-in to the story none of his checker-playing cronies will believe.

Baier is a seasoned sidewalk superintendent at the Central Park Zoo. He was on hand as usual yesterday supervising the loading of a couple of bears which had been sold to another zoo, when the 500-pound male got rambunctious.

A keeper zoned in on the big, angry bear with tranquilizer-loaded darts. When the bear began to slow down and it was clear the drug was taking effect, Baier noticed something — and found a dart stuck in the sleeve of his overcoat. "Hey! Look at this!" he said. The next thing he knew he was in an ambulance on the way to the hospital.

DIDN'T PENETRATE

No sweat, though — when the doctors looked him over, they found out the dart had lodged in his coat sleeve without even breaking the skin.

Meanwhile, back at the zoo, they had new problems. The drugged male had gone to sleep in his wading pool. Keepers had to hold his head out of water to keep him from drowning until the pool could be drained and he could be hauled out with ropes.

After all that, it was kind of a comedown for Baier to join his friends for their regular afternoon checker game.

"I told them what had happened," he said. "They didn't believe me."

Area Hospitals Eye Boost in Red Cross Blood Costs

Pontiac area hospital officials are hastily appraising an announcement yesterday that the American Red Cross will increase its cost of blood service to hospitals.

Red Cross officials announced the institution of a new plan known as Red Cross Hospital Participation. Under the new plan, hospitals will be charged a basic fee of $12.50 per pint, an increase from an average $7-88 per pint formerly charged.

Red Cross officials said charges will cover costs of collecting, processing and distributing blood to hospitals in Wayne, Macomb and Oakland counties. The fee is not a charge for the blood itself.

"I think $12.50 is still a reasonable charge," said Dr. William C. Swatek, director of laboratories at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital.

FINANCIAL JAM

"Red Cross is in a financial jam what with subsidy cuts and the increase simply has to be passed on to the individual hospitals," Swatek said.

United Foundation has announced an eight per cent reduction in its Red Cross grant — a total of $3 million, down $284,166 from last year.

"Whatever additional costs we must bear," Swatek explained, "we must pass on to the insurance companies and/or patients."

Swatek indicated that at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, when officials determine increase figures, any cost that must be passed on to patients will consist of a per-usage measure rather than an across-the-board increase for all patients.

Harry Whitlow, administrator of Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital, could not discuss reaction to the Red Cross announcement "because we have to first determine how much business we do with Red Cross."

GOP Warning: Plan Is So Rich Nixon Will Veto

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Senate, in a rare Saturday session today, tried to complete action on a bill cutting taxes and granting generous Social Security increases.

The measure, most extensive reform of the nation's tax laws in history, has become so laden with benefits some Republicans said it left Nixon no choice but to reject it.

Democrats were confident a House-Senate conference committee would tone down the bill's extra costs — estimated by Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., at $8.95 billion more than when the bill came to the Senate floor last week.

The conference committee will receive the bill after the Senate completes action, which it hoped to do today even if forced to meet into the evening.

LOOPHOLES EYED

First up for vote was a reform proposed by Sen. Lee Metcalf, D-Mont., to close a tax avoidance avenue of the rich who write off paper losses on their "hobby farms" to reduce their taxes. Scores of others could be offered.

Yesterday the Senate voted 73 to 14 — with all the opposition coming from Republicans — to grant perhaps the biggest Social Security boost since the first checks were mailed in 1940.

Under the measure, all 25 million Americans on Social Security would receive an across-the-board 15 per cent increase.

Minimum benefits would go up to $100 for a single person and $150 for a married couple. They are now $55 and $82.50.

EFFECTIVE JAN. 1

The increase would be effective Jan. 1. But retired persons would not get the money until March and April.

Social Security taxes would also rise but not — as Williams acidly pointed out — until after the 1972 presidential election.

In other action, the Senate:

• Approved a proposal to allow taxpayers to subtract up to $25 a year from their federal taxes for the college expenses of any child, effective in 1972.

• Rejected by a 69-to-18 vote, a plan requiring foundations to give away all their assets in 40 years or lose their tax-exempt status.

The osteopathic hospital officials are appraising figures and the cost extent of its Red Cross business.

"After our survey is made, then we can tell whether or not our costs to patients will rise or remain the same. I

Suit to Bar Parochiaid From House Heard

LANSING (AP) Parochiaid opponents were in court yesterday trying to stop the school aid and parochiaid bill from reaching the House.

A panel of three Ingham County Circuit Judges said they would try to reach a decision by next Friday on a suit seeking to bar House Clerk T. Thomas Thatcher from accepting the bill from the Senate.

Parochiaid, a $25 - million plan blessed by Gov. William G. Milliken but damned by public education advocates, finally passed the Senate, by a 20-14 vote yesterday.

The Senate sent the controversial measure, which would allocate public funds to private and church - operated schools, on to the House - scene of its earlier, first defeat. Currently in operation in only four states, parochiaid is contained in a $1,000 - billion school aid bill for next year, and is part of Milliken's 12 - item education reform package.

Voting for the parochiaid measure were Republicans Robert J. Huber of Troy, L. Harvey Lodge of Waterford

Township and George W. Kuhn of West Bloomfield Township.

The House Taxation Committee, meanwhile, recommended favorable action on a three - bill package to raise an estimated $48 million by tying off several business and manufacturing exemptions from the four - per cent state sales and use taxes. Those bills, sponsored by Senate Taxation Committee Chairman Harry DeMaio, R-Battle Creek, passed the upper house earlier.

A bill to raise some $16 million by eliminating the property tax credit on state income tax payments also has been sent to the House.

The lower chamber's tax committee also moved closer to recommending an increased state income tax plan proposed by House Speaker William A. Ryan, D-Detroit.

Aiming to raise an additional $200 million in the next 12 months, Ryan proposed a two - tenths of one per cent increase in the 2.6 per cent state personal income tax. He also would raise the 5.6 per cent corporate income tax to 6.5 per cent and the 7 per cent financial institutions tax to 8.2 per cent.

The seven - cent state cigarette tax would go to a dime a pack under Ryan's plan.

The injunction request against Thatcher was filed by Democratic Sens. Roger Craig of Dearborn, Basil Brown of Highland Park and Coleman Young of Detroit.

They contend the parochiaid section of the school aid bill, besides being unconstitutional, amounts to allocating public funds for a private purpose - and must be adopted by a majority of two - thirds as stipulated in the 1963 State Constitution.

GM Scientist Honored by Austrian Unit

BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — A General Motors Corp. scientist, Dr. Philip Weiss of 520 Cranbrook, will be honored by the Austrian Industry Society and the Technical University of Vienna next Friday for his scientific and industrial contributions to polymer science and technology.

Dr. Weiss will receive the Wilhelm Exner medal which is presented annually to individuals whose scientific achievements are judged to have contributed significantly to industry and technology.

The medal will be awarded by the chancellor of Austria, Dr. Josef Klaus. The GM researcher will be the sixth American to receive the award since it was first presented in 1921. Former recipients include nine Nobel Prize winners.

Dr. Weiss is a recognized worldwide authority in the field of polymers - a term which represents materials such as adhesives, plastics, paints and rubbers. He is head of the polymers department of General Motors Research Laboratories.

As head of the polymers department, Dr. Weiss' responsibilities include research and development in adhesives, elastomers, surface coatings and plastics.

BIRMINGHAM — A traditional festival of Nine Lessons and Carols will be held Dec. 14 at 5 p.m. in the sanctuary of the First Presbyterian Church, 1669 W. Maple.

The order of the service for the festival is based on ancient liturgical forms, used for centuries in English cathedrals and colleges, and now becoming increasingly popular in American churches in their Christmas observance.

This is the first year the Birmingham congregation has presented the service.

The 20 carols which illustrate the lessons are the appealing folk carols and hymns, both familiar and new from different cultures and dealing with many different aspects of the Nativity.

The carols will be sung by the Chancel, Calvin Cecil and Chapel choir; by soloists soprano Carolyn Grimes, contralto Carol Ferrero, tenor Kenneth Ish, and bass Carroll Stickland; and by the congregation.

Area Hospitals Appraise Boost in Blood Costs

just couldn't say right now," Whitlow said.

Dr. William Dito, chief pathologist of Pontiac General Hospital, said cost increases would be spread out over a "greater number of patients than just those who would require blood."

OTHER SOURCES

Dito and Swatek both indicated that their hospitals would remain a bit better off than most because they have blood sources other than Red Cross from which to draw.

Swatek said a serious problem would face hospitals in the combination circumstance of more expensive Red Cross service and a decrease in blood donations during the holiday period.

"Bloodmobiles are not very popular around the holidays," Swatek said.

Red Cross officials emphasized that the $12.50 cost of a pint of blood will be covered under Michigan Blue Cross and other commercial insurance plans and, in the case of indigent patients, by Medicaid.

A doubling of costs for blood transfusions might face uninsured patients or those not covered by federal health plans.

Drug Recall Ordered for 8 Manufacturers

WASHINGTON — Eight manufacturers have been ordered by the Food and Drug Administration to recall about 40 million capsules of a widely used drug used to fight infection because of doubts about its effectiveness.

The FDA's action yesterday against the drug oxytetracycline may spark a controversy over whether all drugs of the same chemical compound are equally effective.

The decision followed up a complaint by Charles Pfizer Co., original patent holder of the drug, that equal doses of it now manufactured by other companies failed to produce the same blood levels as its version.

Tragic End to Las Vegas Jaunt

Plane Crashes in Snowfall; 11 Die

BURNED-OUT PLANE WRECKAGE—Two boys in Albuquerque look at the largest piece of wreckage left after a twin-engine plane crashed yesterday, killing the two-man crew and nine persons returning from a jaunt to Las Vegas.

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — A apparently World War II airplane, apparently groping for a safe landing amid snow flurries, crashed in flames yesterday, killing the two - man crew and nine prominent west Texans.

The victims were returning from a holiday in Las Vegas, Nev. Strawn over the desert scant yards from a housing development was the airplane wreckage and what remained of the holiday: a sack from a Las Vegas store, playing cards, a smartly polished shoe with a shoe tree still in it and charred currency.

An investigation by the National Transportation Safety Board was to begin today. The bodies were locked in a nearby warehouse and the crash area was sealed off.

The Lockheed Lodestar, a transport converted to passenger use, was chartered from a service operated by the pilot, Carroll Thompson, and copilot, Ralph Dodkins Jr., both of Stratford, Tex.

Returning to their homes were Bill Allen, Perryton, partner in an oil company; Fred Adeock, Perryton, a petroleum engineer; Jack Hood of Borger and three couples described as wealthy farmers and ranchers. They were Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Ruckles and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Schertler, all of Stratford, and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Davis of Borger.

Federal Aviation Administration officials in Albuquerque said the plane was on a visual flight plan toward its Dalhart, Tex. destination until it reached western New Mexico, when the pilot radioed he was switching to instruments. They said the craft was not heard from again.

The crash was within sight of a small, private airport north of Albuquerque.

Fight Brewing Over Center for Retarded

Differences in concepts for the future treatment of mental retardation cases has sparked a disagreement between Oakland and Macomb counties.

At issue is a proposed state-funded facility which is to serve some 500 children and adults in the two counties. Land for the center core has reportedly been leased in Macomb County.

Macomb County officials favor a centralized, hospital-type facility while Oakland officials want a central building for severe cases, but a satellite cottage system for those patients able to function to some capacity within the community.

Mrs. Rita Charron of Royal Oak, the county project adviser, believes Macomb County has undercut her group by taking its plans to the state first.

"We've had a special committee of well-informed citizens working on this project since June," said Mrs. Charron. "Macomb County, which only initiated its study six weeks ago and which used some of our findings in their study, went immediately to the state."

"We were stalled waiting for them to complete their study and had intended to correlate the two county plans into a unified plan before taking it to the state," she said.

"Now we'll have to go with our tentative plan before Christmas; however our final plan is of such depth that it will take until January to complete it," the adviser said.

While the sum of $12 million for the facility is being bandied about, both Mrs. Charron and state officials contacted by The Press, deny that any fixed sum has been made available.

Israel, Egypt Fight, Trade Prisoners

By United Press International

Israeli jets attacked Arab guerrilla bases in Jordan near the Sea of Galilee today, an Israeli military spokesman said. And Israel and Egypt held a prisoner exchange on the Suez Canal.

The Israeli spokesman said the warplanes struck bases opposite the Israeli town of Kfar Ruppin, in the Beisan Valley 16 miles south of the Sea of Galilee. The strikes followed a week of intense air attacks including raids against Egyptian positions on the Suez Canal.

The International Red Cross said in Geneva it had arranged the truce that made possible the prisoner exchange at Qantara on the Suez Canal.

Police Reach Tentative Agreement on New Birmingham Wage Contract

Skjacking Rule Gains

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Only Cuba, a hijackers' haven, opposed a resolution approved by the U.S. General Assembly's legal committee that appealed for severe penalties for plane hijackings.

The resolution was approved by the committee yesterday by a vote of 67-1 with 17 abstentions.

The Birmingham Police Officers Association (BPOA) and city officials agreed yesterday to a pact calling for a top pay of $10,460 after 18 months service, BPOA attorney Noel Gage, said. The agreement is subject to ratification by BPOA membership and the Birmingham City Commission.

The previous top salary for patrolmen in Birmingham was $9,300 after three years.

A spokesman for the 31 members of the association said ratification is expected by Monday. Several command officers on the force aren't represented by the union.

During a long dispute, Birmingham police had threatened mass resignation unless their demands were met. Gage said the association demanded $10,600 and city offered $10,300 prior to the compromise agreement.

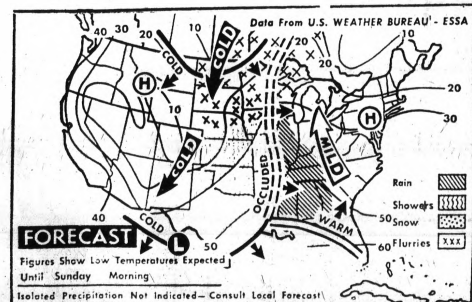

Neighboring Beverly Hills police ratified a salary package yesterday. Their proposed pact, called perhaps the highest settlement in the state, calls for a top wage of $11,261 after 24 months of service.

Two Auto Victims Die From Injuries

Two deaths have resulted from a pair of traffic accidents occurring last weekend in Oakland County.

LeRoy Linthorne, 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Cordell, 1730 Opdyke, Pontiac Township, died Thursday at Pontiac General Hospital. He had been injured Saturday evening when struck by a car as he crossed the road near the M59 - Opdyke intersection, according to drivers for Fleet Ambulance Co.

Edward Dean, 24, of 3073 Hampkian, Milford Township, died yesterday of injuries he sustained in an accident at 3:39 a.m. Sunday on M59 east of Ridge Road.

Oakland County sheriff's deputies reported Dean was attempting to pass another car when his car went out of control, began to skid sideways, and struck an oncoming car driven by Walter J. Arnold, 20, of 3285 Maple Ridge, Highland Township. Arnold was not seriously injured.

Dean was a test driver for Cadillac Motor Car Co.

through the black magic and mystical spells with which Manson once held his followers.

The gaunt, dark-eyed Manson remains jailed in the mountain community of Independence on charges of possessing stolen cars.

'ALL THE DETAILS'

Miss Atkins, 21, principal witness at the hearing, described "all the details" of the stabbings and shootings, her attorney said, and told the grand jury she was hypnotized by Manson. She has said she was at the murder scenes and that Manson had ordered the victims slain.

She herself is charged with murder of a Malibu musician.

Terry Melcher, 27, blond, shaggy-haired son of actress Doris Day, also testified about Manson, a prosecutor said.

REJECTION SYMBOL

Melcher, then living in the tomato-red mansion later rented by Miss Tate, refused Manson's request but reportedly invited the clan leader to his house. After that, the friends said, Manson saw the house as a symbol of rejection.

Caballero said he hoped Miss Atkins' testimony would save her from the gas chamber and also that by telling her story she would purge herself of her fear of Manson.

Affects Local Workers

LANSING (AP) — The State Appeals Court has held in separate opinions that employees of the Cadillac, Pontiac Motor, AC Spark Plug and Fisher Body No. 1 Divisions of General Motors were entitled to unemployment compensation benefits in two strike cases.

The court said employees of Pontiac Motor Division, AC Spark Plug and Fisher Body plants are entitled to benefits because they were not directly involved in a labor dispute in 1964 which caused the unemployment.

The three GM operations were affected by a strike at Buick Motor Division, Flint.

In October 1968 and April 1969, the Cadillac Division was shut down because of strikes at the Fisher Body Division's Fleetwood plant, which supplied parts to Cadillac.

BENEFITS AWARDED

The Cadillac employees were awarded benefits by the State Employment Security Commission.

The appeals court upheld the County Circuit Court in saying the workers are entitled to benefits.

The court cited previous state Supreme Court decisions declaring benefits should be allowed because the two plants were separate employing units although both were under General Motors.

This also upheld State Employment Security Commission and Ingham County Circuit Court rulings.

Joblessness in Inner City of Detroit High

DETROIT (AP) — A U.S. Labor Department report shows that unemployment in Detroit's inner city is the highest recorded among six cities studied.

A study by the Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS) showed that the unemployment rate in the inner city was 12.2 per cent for the year ending last June 30.

This compared with a 6.7 per cent rate for all of Detroit and 3.4 per cent nationally.

Some 70 per cent of the estimated 95,500 persons inside the area are black, a BLS spokesman said, adding that chances are that the unemployment rate is even higher now.

SURVEY AREA

The Detroit survey was made in an area roughly encompassed by Michigan and Vernor on the south, the Penn Central Railroad on the west, West Grand Boulevard and Harper on the north, and McClellan on the east.

A total of 3,500 families were interviewed in the study in the inner city, and the same number were questioned in other areas of the city for comparison.

Los Angeles had a 10.3 unemployment percentage; Atlanta, Houston and Chicago about 8.5, and New York about 6.9 per cent.

The report said teen-aged workers made up a disproportionate share of total unemployment in the areas studied.

Yule Tree Dangers Force Special Care

LANSING (AP) — Christmas trees, because of the fire hazard they present, are termed "an American necessary evil" by a member of the State Police Fire Marshal Division.

"Dryness always makes them susceptible to flame and fire," said Lt. Glenn Tankner. "The best thing to do is to use common sense and treat them as special hazards."

Tanner said although solutions are advertised that are supposed to make trees fireproof, he knows of only one that has been approved by testing laboratories.

"Even then you have to follow directions to the T," he said.

"The best idea is to make a fresh cut toward the bottom of the tree and place it in water," he advised. "Then as soon as it starts shedding, it should be thrown out."

CHECK WIRES

Christmas tree light wires should be checked carefully he said. Because the wires are so fine there is a danger of them becoming frayed and causing a short circuit and fire.

A dangerous shock also can come from putting lights on metallic trees if there is a short circuit, Tanner said.

As other suggestions for fire prevention over the holiday season, he advised placing Christmas candles carefully—so they cannot fall or be knocked over by children—and wrapping old Christmas present wrappings so they do not become a fire hazard.

2 Killed in Crash

ROCKFORD (AP) — State Police from the Rockford post said two persons were killed and three injured in a two-car crash just north of Rockford on old US 131 shortly after midnight today. Names of the dead were not immediately released.

'Tis the Season to be wary of frauds

Watch out for those "street corner" sales. Often involved is cheap merchandise — watches, ties, toys, gadgets. Don't fall for attempts to collect for C.O.D. packages for a neighbor who is "not at home." If you receive unordered merchandise at your home, remember some of these "charitable" organizations are outright commercial ventures.

'Bell' Looks Ahead

Keeping pace with one of the fastest-growing communities in the United States and anticipating its future demands is an exacting challenge for the utilities which supply the necessities and conveniences of the citizenry.

No public service system has a greater responsibility in this respect than the telephone companies that knit the Nation in a vast network of communication.

Thus, it comes as good news that Michigan Bell Telephone Co. has earmarked $8,660,000 for expansion and improvement in Pontiac. The outlay is part of a $31,145,000 program affecting important localities in Oakland County.

Pontiac and Oakland County are receiving more than might be their normal share of the improvement funds, because of the severity of problems here, and the important growth taking place.

Statewide, the company will spend a record $260,245,000 on new construction and service improvements, topping this year's figure by $26 million. The utility foresees the addition of 200,000 additional telephones next year, with a projection of 4.5 million telephones in use by the end of the year.

The local program will involve outside plant facilities, office and residential telephone equipment, central office equipment, and new buildings.

We salute the progressive outlook evidenced by Michigan Bell and the confidence implied in the continued growth and prosperity of our area.

USIA Role in Thailand Curbed

WASHINGTON — One blatant excess of the U.S. involvement in Thailand, an assumption by American officials of the task of propagandizing Thai citizens in behalf of the Thai government, has been quietly halted.

BARTLETT

Officials of the agency were the chief architects and activists of a strenuous campaign to persuade the rural Thais that the Royal Thai government is deeply concerned with their problems.

The Americans were doing what the Thai government should have been doing for itself with characteristic efficacy.

Some 12 branch posts had been established outside

Bangkok as bases for mobile information teams of Thai officials, financed, primed and prodded by Americans to tour the villages to inspire support for the central government.

MONTHLY GESTURE

As a monthly gesture toward the same end, Americans were preparing and publishing two magazines for the Thai government and distributing over 80,000 packets containing pamphlets in which Thai ministers boasted of their efforts to improve the lot of the people in the outlying provinces.

Every month Americans supplied 178 hours of tapes for three radio stations which they had earlier built for the Thai government.

These activities were an obvious distortion, if not a legal violation, of USIA's mandate "to help achieve U.S. foreign policy objectives by influencing public attitudes in other nations."

As a result, the USIA warned subordinates in Bangkok that the Thai government's "inability or unwillingness to assume the projects will not be a reason... to continue them."

SUBSTANTIVE MOVE

This is the first substantive move by the Nixon administration to lower the American profile in Thailand.

The White House has decided this is no time to reduce sharply the 49,000 troops stationed there and so the negotiations opened in August by Thailand's foreign minister, Thanat Khoman, have been halted with an agreement to make a token reduction of 6,000 Americans.

It is more than a matter of money although American propaganda activities in Thailand have been costing $3.1 million a year and more than half of this has been allocated to a pursuit of popularity for the Thai government.

Americans who worked in Thailand emphasize the emergence of a corps of younger, dedicated officials who are apt to outlast the corrupt ruling generals and change the character of the government.

They argue that their propagandizing was therefore not a deception and that their exertions have in fact served to unify the country.

But the USIA order is a reprieve for Americans in Thailand who became prisoners of their zeal and of their disbelief that anyone could do the job as well as they. Many similar orders are being issued to restore the perspective that was lost.

'State Needs Stiffer Laws to End Senseless Crimes'

I think Michigan should have the death penalty so people who find it so easy to take another's life will be afraid of the consequences. These senseless crimes must be stopped before they happen—before another elderly lady dies because someone wants her money, which happens to be only a nickel.

Let's write to our lawmakers and ask for good, stiff laws and make life safer for all of us.

Opinions Continue on Rejection of Millage

To the gentleman who thinks the voters are stupid, bull-headed, etc., for turning down the school millage in Waterford Township, why vote for something you can't pay? Many are on regular pay rates and do well to make ends meet. Yes, the children are getting short-changed and a poor education—and in one of the richest and most heavily-populated townships in Michigan. Also, the heaviest taxed.

If those who want more millage will do something to stop the destruction of school property and see that the money already allotted is used properly and cut the waste, we might vote differently

1410 AIRWAY

I resent being called pig-headed, stupid and selfish for not approving the Waterford school millage. My husband passed away in August and I'm paying all the taxes I can. The poor can't pay and there are so many loopholes in the law, the rich don't pay. So who gets stuck? My children need an education as much as anyone else.

MRS. P. McMAMARA
221 DOREMUS

After six times, it seems that Waterford would forget about trying to pass the school millage. We who voted "no" know what it does to our pockets with all our other taxes. We surely don't need to be drained of any more money. Let's forget about trying to pass it again and let us save some money.

MR. AND MRS. LARRY VADER

Regarding the rejection of Waterford's school millage proposal, what price should education cost a year to educate a child when your school systems are trying to "keep up with the Joneses"? When I pay my house payment, electric, gas, phone, car insurance, life insurance and gasoline each month, I have $20 left for food, clothing and entertainment for a family of three. This problem is not limited to me, but to many thousands.

A solution to our problem is to remove all the gravy from elected, appointed or salaried government jobs by reducing these salaries 50 per cent of the top, with an increase in their taxes. These people would suddenly find out what real problems are.

'Reading Ability Affects Student Behavior'

Discipline problems in our schools can be related to reading ability. Rules imposed by a teacher merely trying to keep order are not observed by students who find no meaning for them in the subject matter taught.

Those unable to read cannot participate in any academic class, so are left to their own devices and amuse themselves by creating disturbances. By the time a youngster reaches the junior high level he must read or be left to himself unless a capable reading teacher can use the SRA reading lab and other tools to improve the situation.

Ability to read is related to interest and interest leads to paying attention in class—less time to cause problems.

Horse Population Jumps

"Get a horse!" may have been a big joke back when the auto was making its sputtering challenge for control of the roads, but a half-century later more and more Americans are now doing exactly that.

We have the Department of Agriculture's word for it that there has been a significant upswing in the Nation's horse population in recent years—a doubling, in fact, to an estimated seven million in the last six years alone.

This is, of course, still a far cry from the something like 27 million on American streets and farms back in the peak year for horses, 1918. After that, the decline was rapid. As the internal combustion engine took over transportation and field chores, man's age-old power source became not only inefficient but eventually almost a luxury.

Ironically, this is the reason for the comeback in the affluent '60s.

With more money and more leisure time, more Americans are indulging in horsey pastimes.

Horse racing, for example, already rates as the Country's No. 1 spectator sport with 63 million fans passing through the turnstiles of 230 tracks last year. The race horse population alone is growing at a 15 per cent annual rate.

Trail riding, according to the Agriculture Department, is the fastest growing activity of all, and rodeos are also drawing more people and horses. Horse shows are on the increase, with some 500 major events now scheduled annually.

For real class, there are fox hunting—more than 100 hunt clubs already and still growing—and polo, 94 clubs currently, up 50 per cent in the past decade.

Technological progress may have led the horse to the point of extinction, but it couldn't quite make him go.

Draft Lottery Confusion, Gripes Seen

WASHINGTON (NEA)—The first year of the new draft by lottery is going to see extreme confusion and widespread complaints of inequity.

Because of the way in which the lottery system will operate under President Nixon's CROCMLEY executive order, a young man in one place whose number is 12, for example, may be drafted and sent to war, while a young man in another town whose number is 137 may not be called at all.

Men farther down the list in some states will be called before men higher on the list in other states.

For all men with No. 67, for example, will not be called at the same time throughout the United States.

LOCAL ACTION

The Defense Department, in a particular month, will call for so many men, say 12,500. That call will be divided among the states and then broken down among the local draft boards in each state.

Each local board will call men in the order established by the lottery. But if, in one board's area, there are few or no men with Nos. 1 through 12, for example, that board may have to dip early into the 13 through 20 group.

Another board may have a great many young men with Nos. 1 through 12 and will dip later in the 13 through 20 group.

As one call follows another, by the end of the year some boards may thus be digging a lot deeper down the line of lottery numbers than other boards, particularly in areas where considerable numbers of young men are rejected for physical or mental reasons.

These discrepancies, of course, will bring complaints. The changeover will also present some quite serious decisions for young men with college or other deferments.

the belief that in 1971, 1972 or 1973 the draft calls will be lower and his chance of being drafted perhaps less even though the pool of eligible men will be smaller?

Further, by 1971, 1972 or 1973, it may be that the number of U.S. troops committed in Vietnam may be so reduced that even if drafted a young man's chances of facing combat would be less than if he were drafted in 1970.

These are the sort of questions that young men are already asking Selective Service advisers.

Play Character Alsop or Just a Coincidence?

NEW YORK — People... Places... Any resemblance between the hawkish Washington correspondent in Art Buchwald's upcoming play, "Sheep on the Runway," and Joseph Alsop is purely accidental, Art keeps saying.

The play's mythical correspondent, whose name is Joe Mayflower, fouts things up for President Nixon's ambassador to a make-believe Himalayan country named Nepal. Nearly gets us in a war against Albania... or something like that. I haven't seen it. It will undergo a survival course first. A tough one. It opens in New Haven, then goes to Philadelphia before opening on Broadway next month.

Anyhow, Art, who ghostwrites for Toots Shor, is not doing very well with his "any resemblance" disclaimer. Joe Alsop's brother Stewart, of Newsweek, accosted the famed playwright the other day and asked him if "Joe Mayflower" was, indeed, Joe Alsop.

"Absolutely not!" Art swore. "Then how come people are now calling me Stewart Mayflower?" Joe's brother asked.

(Q) Please give me a definition of a "Senior Citizen." What is the age limit?

PUZZLED

(A) We'll trade that definition for an answer to "How high is up?" There is really no absolute definition. Age limits vary with different organizations and programs but these groups are usually geared to the retired person, usually 65 and over. In general, you'd almost have to say a senior citizen is anyone who thinks he is.

(Q) I'd like to know where I can send some transistor radios to be repaired so I could send them to our fighting men in Vietnam. I'm sure many people would be more than happy to send them if they knew it would bring enjoyment to our men overseas.

MD Sentenced in Tax Dodge

A Bloomfield Hills surgeon has been fined $2,500 and placed on two years probation in U.S. District Court in Detroit for willfully filing a false income tax return.

U.S. attorney James H. Brickley said Dr. Edward J. Priske, 530 Haverhill, was sentenced by Judge Fred W. Kaess after pleading no contest to a charge of filing a false income tax return for 1962.

Dr. Priske had reported taxable income for 1962 of $29,713 and tax of $9,325 when his correct income was $46,019, on which he owed a tax of $17,351, Brickley said.

The doctor owns and operates the Priske Clinic at 6603 Plymouth, Detroit. He was the race track physician for the Hazel Park Racing Association during the years 1957 to 1964.

Criminal charges against Priske for alleged evasion of $19,521 in income taxes for 1961, 1962, and 1963, and willfully filing false and fraudulent tax returns for 1961 and 1963 were dismissed by Kaess.

The judge said he must cooperate with the Internal Revenue Service in the settlement of his income tax liability as a condition of his probation.

Coast Guardsmen Picnic Till Rescue

HONOLULU (AP) — Moray of hot dogs, hamburgers and eels slithered along the landing pier. Fish swam in toilet bowls. One room had a tree in it, another a boulder.

But the 19 Coast Guard technicians who manned the tiny island lookout flooded by storm waves last Monday were high and dry on a rooftop with plenty

According to their account, what might have been a disaster was little more than a 24-hour picnic.

"I watched all my diving gear go diving without me," said Howard C. Schadt Jr., 31, of Hicksville, N.Y. "We could walk our pet fish through the barracks."

RESCUED FROM POST

He and the others were rescued from their sea-swept navigational post on Tern Island 24 hours after the big waves hit. A New Zealand Navy vessel took them to Midway Island, 900 miles to the northwest, where they caught an Air Force plane for a weekend in Honolulu.

The first waves flooded the island during the night and "I was in a state of shock at first," said Lt. (jg) Henry J. Kofron, 24, the island keeper. "Water was everywhere—one foot deep at least."

The men tried to shore up what they could with sandbags, then raided "Joe's," the station's makeshift bar of food and beer, before they settled down on the highest roof.

WIPE OUT

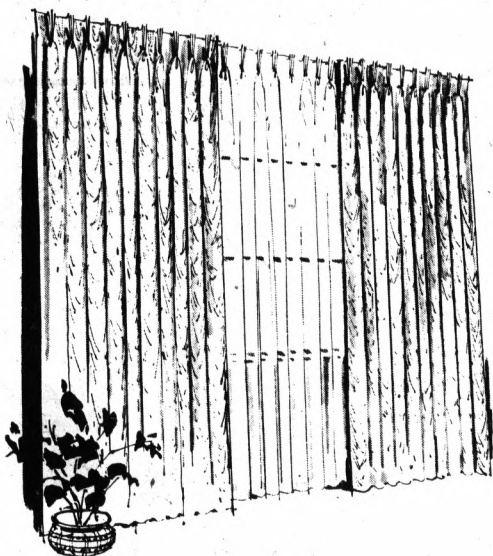

Richard T. Morrill of Newcastle, N.H., said his room was wiped out and he lost all his personal belongings.

"The barracks were almost completely wrecked," said Kevin Melsha, 30, Cedar Rapids, Iowa. "One room had a tree in it, another a boulder." Tern Island, in the French Frigate Shoals 500 miles north-west of Hawaii, was the first struck by storm waves that later ravaged the north shore of Oahu, leaving $1 million in property damage.

"We fared fairly well, really," Kofron said. "We didn't lose the electronic equipment."

He referred to the $657,000 in navigational gear his men operated.

Food Stamp Force Is Shunned

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department is shying away from forcing food stamps on 302 counties now without government food programs for the needy, says the man who runs the program. Richard E. Lyng said Friday the department will "use every means at our command to get food into all counties" by the end of next June. But, unless President Nixon rules otherwise, there are no plans to move federal food programs directly into holdout counties, Lyng said in an interview. Meantime, a delegation from the recently concluded White House Conference on Food, Nutrition and Health met with President Nixon to urge that immediate emergency action be taken to get food to millions of Americans. The delegation said Nixon promised speedy executive action but that he was not prepared to declare a national hunger emergency. But Daniel Moynihan, the White House expert on urban affairs, said Nixon had made no commitment to the group. "All meetings like that are essentially alike for presidents," Moynihan said. "He says thanks to the group but does not make the decisions." Moynihan said that "We don't need to get a national emergency. We need to get food stamps into every county in America."

Program Costs Show Big Hike

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cost of government food donations jumped last year from $367.7 million to $458.3 million while quantities of foodstuffs ranging from fresh apples to rolled wheat rose from 1.7 billion pounds to more than 1.9 billion. The Agriculture Department announced the food program increases Friday showing comparative figures between fiscal 1969, which ended last June 30, and a year earlier. Food distributed to needy families in 1968-69 cost $225 million compared with $124 million a year earlier, and included 1,064.8 million pounds compared with 723.3 million. 6.7 MILLION BENEFITTED The department said that more than 3.5 million persons received donated food in June 1969, and another 3.2 million participated in food stamp programs. Thus, officials said, 6.7 million persons were benefiting from family food programs last June, compared with 5.6 million a year earlier, officials said. Food donations to charitable institutions last year cost $35.4 million for 135.3 million pounds, compared with $22.2 million and 148.1 million pounds a year earlier. Schools received $207.9 million of donated food totaling 756.3 million pounds, compared with $220.5 million and 797.3 million

LOCAL PARTICIPATION
Lyng said local governments must participate in the program wherever possible. "We don't like to federalize the system," he said. Dr. Jean Mayer, the White House nutrition specialist, said Lyng said local governments had ordered the Agriculture Department to extend the food stamp program to the 302 counties by next June 30.

U.N. Considers Annual World 'Day for Peace'

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — With the guns unstilled in Vietnam, the Middle East and Africa, the United Nations wants to divert the attention of the world from arms for one day each year and observe the occasion as "A Day for Peace." On that day, a resolution before the U.N. General Assembly today says, all states should embark on a 24-hour study to find out how much they spend on arms in a day. Then they should think about channeling the money into economic and social development, especially in the poorer lands.

One day's spending on arms could total more than $500 million a day, considering that the world exclusive of Communist China spends $180 to $200 billion a year on weapons. * * * The resolution was introduced by a group of African states.

The assembly's economic committee approved it without a dissenting vote, although the Soviet Union and five other Communist members abstained. Soviet delegate L. N. Astafey told the committee that complete and general disarmament was an end to itself and should be pursued without the "complication" of linkage with economic development. * * * U.S. delegate Shirley Temple Black said her government considers the measure realistic and important.

Chinese Garden Seat Acts As End Table Between Social Room's Chairs

Brass Cathedral Candlesticks On Social Room Mantel Date To 17th Century

Featured on 'Christmas Walk'

Wing Expands the Living Area

By JODY HEADLEE
Home Editor, The Pontiac Press

Not enough room. What to do? Eight years ago the R. Jamison Williamses faced the problem and solved it by adding a wing to their French country-style home in Bloomfield Village.

The wing includes a cathedral-ceilinged social room and a spacious brick-floored entry way with a guest suite in the space above the entry's normal height ceiling.

"We went to great lengths," said Mrs. Williams, "to coordinate the new with the old so it would flow together and not look like it had just been stuck on."

The spindles on the balustrade on the raised social room repeat those of the original staircase leading to the second floor. And the bricks match identically those of the original hallway approaching the entry.

To offer an outside entrance to the addition, the Williamses had the existing knoll excavated to the proper height, holding back the soil with a four-foot dry wall and creating an attractive entrance patio before the double French doors.

An antique Dutch trousseau chest is found beneath the entry's copper lavabo filled with live philodendron.

"Both are functional," said Mrs. Williams. "The spigots on the lavabo work and the trousseau chest doubles as a toy chest when our grandchildren are visiting."

Three steps lead to the white-walled social room carpeted in a brown-and-beige.

"The color scheme in this room," said Mrs. Williams, "was taken from the painting above the credenza." It's "Little Girl with Lemons," by David Fern.

Bright pink and olive green chairs serve the round table in the game alcove overdraped in a floral of pink, aqua, green, black and brown on off-white.

The working beams marking the cathedral ceiling are painted aqua to emphasize the aqua tones of the room's loveseats and sofa.

Dominating the oak-paneled fireplace wall is a massive lion, a 17th century French weathervane.

"It is hollow copper," said Mrs.

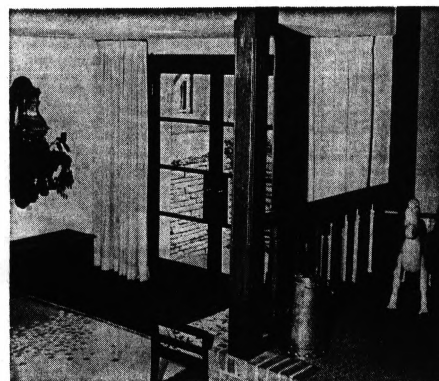

Williams. "Just the lion was brought to the United States in the early 18th century. Here it was mounted and made into a sign, probably to advertise an inn."

The Williamses will open their home next Friday to benefit the Junior Women's Association for the Detroit Symphony Orchestra.

The Oakland County portion of the "Christmas Walk" will feature seven Birmingham-Bloomfield homes.

Materials to Serve as Patching Fillers

By MR. FIX

There is no lack of materials to serve as fillers for cracks and holes in wood.

But to make the patching of furniture, trim and cabinets the neat job it should be, you must pick the right type and apply it properly.

Putty and plastic wood fillers should not be confused with the wood filler used to seal open grain wood.

The latter is brushed across the grain of the wood and then the excess wiped away before finishing.

LINESEED OIL PUTTY
The fillers in question here are used for cracks, nail holes and such.

Sometimes old-fashioned lineseed oil putty is all that you will need.

Do not use it to repair a broken corner or to build up an edge since this sort of putty does not get really hard.

It also does not adhere as well as some of the other fillers.

FLEXIBLE SUBSTANCE
You will find it useful in filling cracks and holes in filling surfaces.

The expansion and contraction due to temperature changes will not hurt this flexible substance.

Putty-like are the plastic compounds available in tubes and cans.

These consist of wood powder mixed in an adhesive.

DRY QUICKLY
They dry quickly, almost too quickly if you are not careful.

When dry the material is dense and hard and can be cut and sanded.

Some brands are somewhat coarse so make it as smooth as you can while it is still soft.

These fillers are non-porous. If you are repairing wood with a stained rather than painted finish you will not be able to stain the filler once it is dry.

MATCHING WOOD
Try to buy a filler that matches the wood. If you cannot, color the filler before filling the crack.

Use powdered pigments to get the right color.

Linseed oil putty also should be tinted while still soft. Use oil colors.

Instead of ready-mixed filler you can buy a filler in the form of dry powder which you mix with water.

LEAVE OPEN
Mix only what you need when you need it.

Since all of these compounds harden quickly there will be no waste when using the powder if the can is left open for a time as there would be with the ready-mixed materials.

The powder and water compounds also dry quickly but they are easier to apply in thin layers.

This quality makes them ideal for building up broken edges and for feathering to fine edge.

"The total cost of the home," continued Brown, "will be $19,900. This covers the lot, the well and septic system (if required), and the painting.

"In other words, we are offering a complete home, ready to occupy with no additional hidden costs.

In explaining the financing, Brown said, "We do not pretend to be working magic by simplifying the financing of a new home when, in fact, conventional mortgage money is already difficult to obtain.

"We take advantage of Federal Housing Administration (FHA) financing and some of the special FHA programs, already on the books, but not widely used in this area.

"Our house plans conform to FHA building requirements and we are prepared to handle all of the paper work and form processing in our own office.

"In that way, we can shorten the mortgage processing and construction time and offer a completed home 90 days after the forms are completed.

NO CLOSING COSTS
"At the closing, there are no closing costs for the buyer, providing an additional savings."

Lots available for the ranch home are found in numerous area townships. If a prospective customer wants to build in an area where there are presently no lots available, Brown representatives will attempt to find one.

"In addition," said Brown, "if a prospective buyer already owns a lot, we'll give him credit against the price of the house."

Use Separate Heating Zones

Controlling the temperature of your entire house with only one thermostat is like using a cabin cruiser to cross a pond. You'll get there, but at an exceedingly high price.

It isn't necessary to keep all the rooms in the house at the same temperature all day long.

Each area of the house has its own needs and should be treated separately.

The bedrooms, for example, don't require as much heat as the living area during the day.

Having only one thermostat to control the heat is wasteful and uncomfortable.

One way to solve the problem is to divide the home into separate heating "zones" and have each zone controlled by its own thermostat.

When you leave the bedrooms in the morning, lower the temperature on the bedroom-zone thermostat.

On the other hand, when you retire for the night, lower the setting on the thermostat in the living area.

Installing zone controls in homes with hydronic (modern hot water) heating is fairly simple for a qualified heating contractor, and by using zone valves, it can be done more inexpensively. The saving in lower fuel bills will make up the cost.

Over a million people are employed by timber based industries in 12 Southern Pine producing states.

Gate's Good Looks Rely on Operation

How good is your garden gate? Does it work without binding or dragging? Is it attractive, only so-so, or a droopy mess? Does it provide adequate passageway, and does it reveal or conceal what lies behind?

If you're one of those who takes a gate for granted, sags included, it may be time to reassess the situation. After all, a gate is important. When built as part of a courtyard wall, for example, it's THE front door to the public eye. Elsewhere, appearances and smooth operation still are important, even if only to salve pride and save temper.

The key is good construction. Determining factors are the gate post, framing, latch and hinges. To withstand the strain of a swinging gate — essentially a twisting motion — the post to which the gate is hinged must be larger than fence posts and set deeper in the ground.

CONCRETE COLLAR
Usually a 6x6-inch post set three feet deep is needed. A concrete collar also is helpful in preventing twist, and it's smart to use pressure-treated lumber.

To prevent sag, the gate must be rigid and that means proper bracing. Most gate designs can be built with a z-shaped frame or brace of 2x4s.

BRACING
The trick in bracing is to be sure the diagonal piece runs from the latch side at the top corner to the bottom corner on the hinge side.

That, in effect, pushes the gate up to the latch, keeping it true.

The diagonal piece also must be perfectly tight; even a one-eighth-inch gap between it and horizontal pieces of the frame eventually may cause sag.

Leaving adequate space for hinges and latch prevents binding between gate and posts.

CONSTRUCTION

Generally, the opening should be 1½ inches wider than the gate itself.

But it's best to choose both latch and hinges before beginning construction since spaces needed differ with styles.

Be sure hinges are big enough to carry the weight of the gate planned and to buy screws or nails of adequate length.

And don't forget to allow swing space at the bottom of the gate.

EXCLAMATION MARK

Style-wise, decide whether the gate should disappear into the fence or stand as an exclamation mark.

To make it disappear, simply repeat the fence pattern. For an accent, it's usually best to work out a variation of the fence pattern rather than switching to something entirely different.

But if you feel a creative fit coming on, don't stifle it — you may end up with a great gate.

Parquet Deck Easy on Cash

When having a new house built, you may save money by substituting a handsome, do-it-yourself parquet deck for the concrete patio ordinarily provided by the home builder.

To make the job extra easy, have the builder level ground for the patio as usual.

Be sure the area is big enough—at least 12x15 feet. Build the deck in individual three-foot squares, arranging the squares to create whatever pattern is desired.

PLANTING PITS

Some squares can be left "blank" and used for planting pits, a sandbox or bird bath. Each square is built of Douglas fir or cedar 2x4-inch deck boards nailed to a 2x4 joist at either end.

Joists should be placed one inch from ends of deck boards, and the deck planks should be spaced one-eighth inch apart to allow rain runoff.

Pressure-treated lumber is recommended for the on-ground parquet deck.

SOLID BASE

Spread a three-inch layer of sand and gravel underneath to provide a solid base and prevent weed growth.

BOOK WALL — Spacious family room invites informal living with stone fireplace, comfortable sofa, lounge chair. Library wall makes a den in one corner. Wall-hung cabinet of resawn cedar boards matches paneling. Metal standards, brackets support book shelves.

To Fit Everyone's Needs

Family Room Needs Thought

A family room is by nature multipurpose. It's the place for informal living—on every age level. That may include games, reading, playing music, watching TV, you name it.

That doesn't mean the average family needs something like Madison Square Garden to accommodate the pastimes of its members. Thoughtful arrangement can provide convenience and comfort for a wide range of activities.

For instance, when the man of the house comes home, he'll want to be with the family. But he'd probably rather relax and read the evening paper than join the gang watching television. Or the cook may find time for a coffee break while waiting for the oven timer.

What's needed is a corner that invites adult relaxation. First essentials are comfortable seating, good lighting, books and magazines, preferably tucked beside a fireplace. Furnishings should be serviceable yet attractive.

A cushy sofa and lounge

Sick Heating Can Be Cured

If your head is warm while your feet are cold, you don't have a fever. You have a sick heating system.

The hot-head-cold ankle syndrome is the most recognizable symptom of an unbalanced heating system.

Citing tests made at a research house by the University of Illinois, it was learned that a balanced heating system should not permit more than a three-degree temperature difference between the floor and the ceiling.

To be most effective, heating outlets should be placed along the floor on "outside" walls to act as a barrier against the cold.

RECOMMEND

Hydronic baseboard heating panels are recommended.

Only ankle high, the baseboard panels usually extend across the entire wall, and even when the thermostat is satisfied they retain enough heat to keep the floors warm.

If you have a hydronic system and find that you have a warm head and cold feet, get into bed immediately and call your doctor. You're really sick.

Invest in Home Improvements

More people are investing in improvements to present homes, now that interest rates on mortgages for newly-purchased houses are at a modern-day peak.

The Federal Reserve Board reports a recent monthly gain in the volume of new credit for home repairs, up nearly 16 per cent from a year earlier.

Is Love a dirty word?

You'd think so, the way some people respond to young people—and The Love Movement they've generated. But isn't this Movement an expression of the virtues we're always saying we believe in—but so rarely put into practice? Love. Maybe we should live it more and speak it less. All of us.

Military Rule Gets Greece Cold Shoulder From NATO

BRUSSELS (AP) — Key allies in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization seem to have quietly put the big freeze on Greece, which has been accused of undemocratic practices and of torturing its opponents.

The unannounced development coincided with moves to suspend the Athens government from the Council of Europe, a consultative body of 18 nations. Their foreign ministers are due to decide on the issue when they meet next Friday in Paris.

Informed diplomats emphasized that no thought is being given now to suspending Greece from NATO. Under NATO's 20-year-old treaty, its members are obliged to defend democracy and its institutions.

Among signs of the freeze:

• Seating on the Nuclear Planning Group has been arranged so that Greece is not taking a place at this time.

• Greece is expected to take over Turkey's seat next year, but no announcement has been made.

• In September Greece gave up its right to the presidency of the NATO Council, which normally goes the rounds among the 15 members in alphabetical order. There was no official explanation. Cor-Canadian Foreign Secretary respondents who inquired were told that the Greek Foreign minister was ill. The most important job of the president is to give a dinner for the ministers at the December year-end review meeting that ended Friday.

POSSIBLE EMBARRASSMENT
Because the Greek government is unpopular, it would have been embarrassing for some, including Secretary of State William P. Rogers, to accept Greek hospitality.

For their part the Greeks themselves seem less than pleased. Unlike their allies, they sent no cabinet ministers to the current sessions. They were represented by George Tsistopoulos, undersecretary for foreign affairs.

In Athens today, the newspaper Ethnos said strongman Premier George Papadopoulos will lift martial law next week in an effort to prevent the Council of Europe from suspending Greece.

The paper said the move would "give Foreign Minister Panayiotis Pinielis a strong argument to reject charges against Greece" at the council meeting.

Black Panthers Battle Police

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Four members of the Black Panther party battled with eight policemen in a short, violent struggle outside the door of Police Chief C. M. Kelley's office Friday afternoon.

The Panthers said they wanted to attend a news conference Kelley had called in his office. Kelley had issued orders that they were not to be admitted, so the eight officers barred their way.

After arguing several minutes, one of the Panthers said they were going into the office anyway. They were subdued a minute later.

The Panthers were Pete O'Neal, 31, deputy chairman of the local party; Tommy Robinson, 28; Edward Rollins, 18; and John Jacobs, 30.

$100 BONDS
They were charged with interfering with police and, several hours later, were released under bonds of $100 each. Robinson went to a hospital where nine stitches were placed in two cuts on his head.

An X ray showed Robinson had a skull fracture, attendants said, but he declined to stay overnight in the hospital.

In the news conference, Chief Kelley repeated his denial that he had allowed confiscated firearms to be transferred to right-wing groups as the Panthers have charged.

Coed Leads a Dog's Life as Live-In Kennel Keeper

By PAT LEISNER
Associated Press Writer
PHILADELPHIA (AP) Mary Leisner is working her way through college by giving pups in a two-room apartment. Right now she has 12 Afghan hounds and an Irish Setter.

"Lots of students find classes and lectures a chore: I find them a welcome relief," says Mary, a slender blonde sophomore at the University of Pennsylvania.

She started breeding and selling Afghans in August 1968 and paid a semester's tuition with her first litter. The pups bring about $200 each.

"I didn't learn until mid-August that my tuition loan was phased out in the federal education cutback," Mary says, "and there weren't too many ways I could come up with $1,000 on short notice."

"They are work," she says. "Puppies need a lot of attention. My studies are suffering. So am I. It's costing about $50 a week to feed them."

The 10 pups are barricaded in the bathroom with a 3½-foot-tall street sign nailed to the doorway. Mary and her sister use a wooden milk carton to boost themselves in and out.

The bathroom sits over the lobby and to somebody fidgeting with a key in the entranceway, it sounds like a demolition team at work upstairs. When neighbors inquire, Mary answers: "What dogs?"

The pups play tag, drink water from a spigot left trickling for them and help Mary take a shower. They enjoyed a game of tug-of-war with the shower curtain, until they won.

Some problems Mary didn't count on. One night the pups got into fabric dye and all turned green. Another time they closed the bathtub drain and flooded the place. And then there was the hamper raid.

"Guess I'm lucky the bathroom is large," Mary says. "It's what separates me from insanity."

Sometimes, the pups are allowed the freedom of the living room.

"They get exercise and learn to play and defend themselves romping around with the bigger dogs," she says, following them around with wads of tissue to clean up.

"I'm two years from my degree and how I hope a federal loan comes through next year."

Nice Gesture to Ask Couple to Be Proxies

By ELIZABETH L. POST
Of The Emily Post Institute

Dear Mrs. Post: We are expecting our second child soon, and have asked close friends of ours in Holland to be Godparents by proxy. We are not sure who we should ask to be the proxies. We are closely acquainted with the husband's parents, and thought that we would like to ask them. However, we do not want to impose on them. Who are the usual choices for proxies, and how should we ask them? — Louise

Dear Louise: It would not be an imposition, but would be a very nice gesture to ask the parents of the godparents to act as proxies. There is no usual choice, and any friend or relative may be asked to serve. They are asked by telephone or note, making it quite clear that they are the proxies.

It is somewhat of an honor, demonstrating your reliance on their friendship and understanding.

She Worries About Image Following Bad Publicity

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I recently moved to this town, bought a nice home in a good neighborhood and settled down to become a part of the community.

Now comes my problem: Last week, while shopping for the usual items one needs after a move, I foolishly laid my purse down on the counter to look at something, and in a matter of seconds, my purse was gone!

The person who took it then hurried to another store where she was picked up for shoplifting. She refused to identify herself, so the police looked in the purse she was carrying and found my identification. The next day the newspaper published the police report which stated that I had been arrested for shoplifting!

Abby, I told everyone I know how the mistake was made and thought they would surely believe me. I was wrong. Some of my neighbors are treating me very coldly and when I try to explain the circumstances to others, I get the impression they think I'm lying.

What can I do?

DISAPPOINTED IN PEOPLE

DEAR DISAPPOINTED: If your local newspaper has not published a CORRECTION of the error, they certainly should. And you have every right to insist upon it. In the meantime, hold your head high, and be aware that people are inclined to believe what they want to believe. And the "nice" people will give you the benefit of the doubt.

DEAR ABBY: I have a neighbor who used to be a school teacher. Now she's married and has a four-year-old kid. She bought herself a paddle to hit the kid with whenever he says "huh" instead of "I beg your pardon." You can hear this kid yelling his head off about 30 times a day.

Personally, I don't approve of hitting kids with anything but the open hand and I wish you'd put this in the paper with your answer because she reads your column every day.

DEAR NEIGHBOR: Apparently your neighbor's method of "teaching" isn't very successful. If it were, she wouldn't have to paddle the kid 30 times a day.

DEAR ABBY: I am 19 and Rusty is 25. We've gone together for a year and plan to marry in a couple of years when we can afford it. I have a good job and so does Rusty. He is on the road four nights a week.

Two girlfriends and I are planning to move into an apartment the first of next month. We've found an ideal place in a good neighborhood near where we all work.

My problem is that Rusty is dead set against it. He says if I move from my parents' home before we are married, we are finished. Abby, I want experience in budgeting, cooking, housekeeping and many domestic things I could never learn any other way. Even my parents are all for it. What should I do?

Why is Rusty so stubborn? He knows he can be 100 per cent sure of me.

RUSTY'S GIRL
DEAR GIRL: Rusty may be 100 per cent sure of you — but he's not sure of himself. Move into the apartment. If you and Rusty are finished for this reason, you're better off without him.

Filly Billy Nightsticks Are a Knockout

NEW YORK (AP) — In New York, where muggings can be a problem, women can now buy clubs in their favorite colors to carry around with them.

"They have a dual purpose — fashion and protection," says Marilyn Baltar, the 29-year-old blonde who designed them.

Called "Filly Billys," the clubs cost $9 and are 2 feet long, 1¼ inches in diameter and weigh one pound each.

She says they are slimmer and "more feminine" than the regular policeman's nightstick.

The New York police have them only in shades of brown and black but the fashion-conscious lady can buy a Filly Billy in metallic gold, metallic silver, white, red, lilac or yellow.

The clubs come with a gold chain so they can dangle from the waist or the shoulder.

Miss Baltar, a former store buyer in New Orleans, her hometown, and Chicago, says the clubs go well with new styles.

IN STYLE

"They are in proper proportion with the mace and pants look everyone is wearing today. And, they are a lot cheaper than a $4,000 attack dog."

Miss Baltar says she got the idea last September when she and her fiancé, Shelly Fireman, a New York restaurant owner, were scouting restaurants in upstate New York.

"I picked up a baseball bat in a store in a small town," she says, "and Shelly told me, 'Hey, that would be a good thing for girls to carry for protection!'"

The clubs are manufactured in Maine and sold through a new company she and Fireman founded, Thought-Waves, Inc.

One product now under development by the company is a replica of a 1900

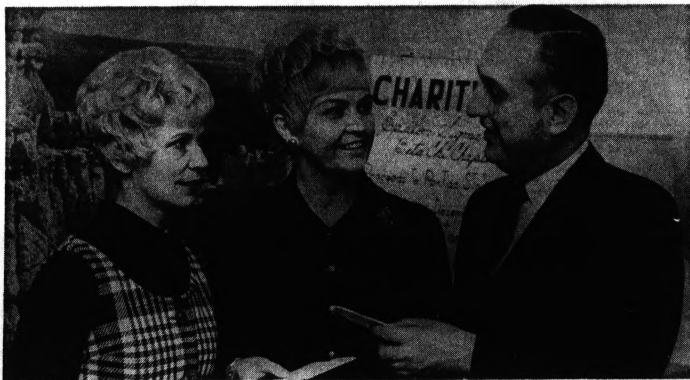

New York policeman's hat, complete with gold spike. She wears a prototype around town and draws lots of attention.

Miss Baltar also carries a Filly Billy.

"I almost used it the other night when an overly friendly man approached me on an East Side street," she says. "He took one look at it, and said, 'I don't believe it. Are you for real?'"

Janine Foster lies warm and protected in Toronto's Hospital for Sick Children where she is being cared for by nurse Ursula Seulberger. Saint Laurent to Offer Patterns, Fabrics

By HELEN HENNESSY
NEA Women's Editor

NEW YORK — The name Yves Saint Laurent has the drawing power of a magnet for the fashionable women of all ages. But the price tag prohibited all but a fortunate few to do more than just look. Until now.

Soon anyone who can sew can wear a Saint Laurent design, complete with label. A unique series of YSL sew-to-wear fabric boutiques will be launched in about 100 leading stores across the country early next year.

they were in great-grandma's perhaps. But we have been women in varying economic day. The boutique is more overwhelmed by the favorable brackets the opportunity to response." wear a Saint Laurent at a fraction of the original cost.

Yves Saint Laurent also approved the fabrics to be sold. "Buyers can't buy any separate part of this new concept. They have to take the whole boutique setup and everything that goes into it," Felner said. "It was a big chance to take, fabric with the plus of giving dress, suit or coat.

The steel-and-glass modular boutiques (similar in mood to Yves' own Rive Gauche) will be uniform in design at every store. There will be four round tables of varying heights, a book of fashion sketches by Saint Laurent to choose from, an easy-to-follow silhouette pattern and an array of specially designed fabrics — all approved by the designer himself.

The fabrics will spill over the tables, under the tables and over chairs in a riot of color.

"These sew-to-wear fabric boutiques are a new approach to fabric merchandising," said Theodore I. Felner, president of the Burlington Retail Division of Burlington Industries, who conceived the idea.

YOUTH APPEAL
"Most home sewers are young people," Felner continued. "But when these kids go into a fabric store, the bolts of cloth are displayed in dull stacks on the counters, just as

The steel and glass modular boutique shown above represents a new concept in fabric selling to be introduced in the Yves Saint Laurent fabric boutiques in stores across the country. Colorful fabrics will spill a riot of color on the scene. A book of Saint Laurent sketches and easy-to-follow silhouette patterns will provide instructions that will make it possible for any woman who can sew to have an original Saint Laurent design. The fabrics from Burlington are inspired and approved by the couturier himself.

Designers Favor the 'Cloud' Look

NEW YORK (AP) One trend Starr brought that look into focus Wednesday at the American Designer Showings in New York.

Models glided onto the runway in full bias-cut chiffons, some with raised waists, deep v-necks and short sleeves. Others were trimmed with glitter: at the waist, on bolero tops, around collars and sleeves. Several dresses were shown with the folded, triangular shawl, a popular wrap for the coming season. The pastel tones of one multicolored shawl were carried onto its feather trimming.

Kasper for Joan Leslie showed many Oriental prints for spring: birds, flowers, rushing waves, set on silk sarong and crepe de chine. Lacquer colors are intensified by black or white.

He juggled pattern on pattern in day clothes: twin prints with quilting and prints with plaid or stripes.

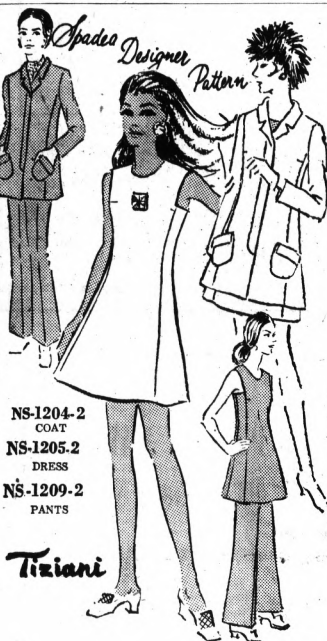

The plum color will be big for spring, he said, bringing out a white dress with light plum sash under a print coat in pale pinks, blues and purples.

First Concert With OU Band Is on Monday

The Music Department of Oakland University will present the premiere concert of the newly formed Oakland University Concert Band on Monday at 8:00 p.m.

The band is made up of about 40 musicians from the University community and is under the direction of Russell Reed. Reed is a graduate of the music department of the University of Michigan. In addition to directing the Oakland University Concert Band is director of bands at Grosse Pointe South High School. This past summer he was selected to conduct a group of picked, high-school-aged musicians on a concert tour of Japan as part of the federal People to People project.

For his first concert, Reed has chosen a program with a distinctively modern flavor.

Princess Anne Gives Milliners Big Ideas

By NADEANE WALKER

AP Fashion Writer
LONDON (AP) — Princess Anne's taste for big hats seems to have influenced London milliners in designing their new spring line.

The cowboy look is the thing for 1970, as shown here this morning. And the see-through look has finally reached the top, with many hats in lacy, transparent straws and organzas.

The show was staged by the Millinery Institute, which selects highlights from the collections of several British hat-makers. One feature was outsize Mexican sombreros intended to top ponchos, which are currently in favor with the young and trendy.

Pink and rose red look like being leading colors, with lots of white, golden yellows, beige and green. Felts were unusually popular for spring and summer hats, turning up in Stetson styles as well as in soft, floppy brims.

Western type headgear is said to go well with the maxilloid, but for those who opt for a small, neat head there were turbans and toques among the spring chapeaux.

Lots of hats were trimmed with long scarf bands, and a few were banded with flowers. The Millinery Institute described its selections as "masculine in feeling, but retaining an essentially feminine look with the subtle use of flowers, organza and silk trimming." In other words, unisex dressed up with a few furbelows.

The milliners claim that many more young people are wearing hats nowadays, and they are glad to give some of the credit to Princess Anne, who has abandoned the royal style of off-the-face hats to wear whatever she likes.

Her unisex or cowboy headgear has even drawn protesting letters to the editor in London papers, but she continues to wear them.

Keep Untangled

To keep your tape measure from getting tangled in the sewing basket, tack one end of it on an empty thread spool. Roll up the tape on the spool and hold it in place with a bobbin pin.

Rid of Rain Spots

If you are caught in a shower, rain spots may be removed from your garments by placing a clean, damp cloth on the material and pressing with moderately warm iron.

Old Remedies Endorsed for Modern Use

LONDON, Eng. (WMNS) — Hail the lowly oil of pepper, known to the ancient Greeks and just recently endorsed by the august British Medical Journal for its "swift and universal action" in producing burps.

Known formally as carminatives, such volatile oils as peppermint, cardamom, dill, ginger, cinnamon and cloves are used for bawling infants and "patients complaining of wind," as well as in liqueurs and as seasonings.

Carminatives, usually sold in alcoholic solutions (tinctures), are praised as "useful, pleasant and (apparently) without side-effects," producing "an almost immediate sensation of warmth" in the upper reaches of the abdomen followed within a few minutes by a well-rounded, easyful belch.

Alas, carminatives also appear in onions and garlic, leading to the suspicion that they may produce unwelcome heartburn. Still, says the BMJ, they "have stood the test of time well."

The number of United States workers experiencing noise conditions unsafe to hearing is estimated to be in excess of six million.

FDA's Unscientific Actions Annoy Solons

By BARBARA J. CULLITON

NEA Science Service Writer
WASHINGTON — The Food and Drug Administration, a hero in the thalidomide case, has made a goat of itself by reporting to Congress "results" from experiments it hasn't done.

Its actions in regard to a popular food seasoning called monosodium glutamate (MSG) have left a sour taste in some Congressional mouths.

FDA, like most Government agencies, is conditioned to jump when a Congressional committee speaks. This time, it jumped too fast.

When the Senate asked for FDA's opinion on the seasoning in July, the agency had none ready-made. It hastily put together a report showing that MSG posed no significant threat.

So hastily was the job done, in fact, that it reported as definitive experiments only begun.

As a result, Congressmen are asking just how reliable the FDA is. And they mean to find out.

NOT NEW PRODUCT

MSG has a long history. It has been sprinkled liberally into won ton soup, over sweet and sour pork and other oriental dishes for ages.

It is a mainstay in the kitchen of Chinese restaurants — and has been named in the United States as the cause of "Chinese Restaurant Syndrome." This condition, in which the diner feels faint and woozy, is an allergic reaction by susceptible persons to MSG too freely applied.

Even babies eat MSG today — not because it makes their puree taste better to them, but because it makes the stuff taste better to mom. And there's where the trouble began.

A research paper published back in 1967 showed that, in newborn animals, MSG damages retinas (where the eyes' lenses focus their pictures) in newborn animals.

Following this line of reasoning, Dr. John W. Olney of Washington School of Medicine in St. Louis conducted experiments on the effects of MSG on the central nervous system.

"When MSG is injected into infant mice, it causes brain damage," he says. "Nerve cells lack of chromosomal breakage swell dramatically and within several hours, die." Other effects, including extreme fatness and sterility in the females, also showed up in Dr. Olney's tests.

Dr. Olney reported his findings in the Journal Science in May and again in July before the Senate Select Committee on Nutrition and Human Needs, headed by Sen. George McGovern (D-S.D.).

MORE DAMAGE

Since then, he has duplicated his original work, giving MSG to mice by mouth, and found even greater damage.

A mouse is not a man, and there is no evidence that MSG harms human infants. But since it has no food value at all, and there are serious questions about it, the FDA should ban its indiscriminate use in baby food, at least until the facts are known, Dr. Olney contends.

After infancy, the seasoning salt is broken down by chemicals in the liver, but these chemicals are not produced during infancy. Thus the MSG remains whole and possibly seeps through the membranes of the brain, creating a dangerous excess, Dr. Olney suggests.

Then the FDA's problems began. Called on to tell what it knew about a substance that had not been the object of much research, the FDA produced a position paper. The FDA cited four studies indicating that MSG is safe.

It quoted Dr. Olney's preliminary work, a report on the "Chinese Restaurant Syndrome," and two studies supposedly performed in its own laboratories, showing that the substance "does not damage chick embryos when injected into incubating eggs, and does not break the chromosomes in cell cultures."

NOT DONE

But neither of the last two studies had been done. Dr. Herbert L. Ley, Jr., Commissioner of the FDA, was forced to concede this was an "inexcusable error" on FDA's part.

Subsequently, Dr. Marvin Legator of FDA has exposed cells derived from maripal kidneys to MSG. "It is our most sensitive test," Dr. Legator points out, "and revealed no chromosomal damage." While damage, he says. "Nerve cells lack of chromosomal breakage is important in gauging the safety of chemicals in foods, it has little to do with the question of brain damage."

Unquestionably, FDA's behavior over the MSG issue casts a shadow of doubt over its reliability in other matters, been done, were informally says a spokesman for the McGovern committee. "We would like to know just how something like this can happen. it makes you wonder what the people at FDA are doing."

Dr. Legator explains that the MSG fiasco was simply a matter of human fallibility, compounded many times over. Some minor MSG tests had been done, were informally discussed, and so how McGovern committee. "We would like to know just how conversation to presentation in the position paper."

Nevertheless, FDA is going to have to explain itself and answer speculation that what happened in this case is not unique.

The Chinese used footprinting for identification purposes as early as the 1500s.

Where Are All the Answers Hiding?

By BETTY CANARY

NEA Writer

Children are unreasonable. You teach them things like, Do Unto Others . . . and Respect Your Elders, and recite truisms long handed down from parent to child and what do they do? They start thinking, that's what they do. And they ask questions and expect YOU to do some explaining.

My son, for example, came home from school and asked, "Did you know Sept. 22 is Yom Kippur? That it's a Jewish holiday?"

"Yes, I know," I said. "Then why don't we get out for vacation like they do on our church holidays?"

"Well, it's difficult to explain," I said.

Then, after watching a news broadcast of Irish Catholics and Irish Protestants fighting, he asked, "Why don't they stop that?"

"Well," I said.

"Don't they know it doesn't make any difference what church a person goes to . . . ?"

"Oh," I hedged. "I'm sure they KNOW it's wrong to fight."

"Then why," he asked in his maddening way, "don't they STOP?"

"Well . . ." I explained.

"Didn't you say we were part Irish?"

"Yes," I said proudly. "And your father's family is Dutch and German."

"Then we're half-breeds, right?"

"How ridiculous!" I said.

"But this book says a man who is part Indian and part Canadian is a half-breed, so what's the difference . . . ?"

"Did you see those Irish police throw rocks?" he asked.

"Remember," I recited, "our policeman is our friend!"

"What about the one who stopped Rick and yelled at him?" he asked. "You didn't think HE was very friendly."

"Your brother was only walking to the store," I said hotly, "and some policemen are rude just as some citizens are rude. The man had no right to . . ."

"Boy, I'm glad Rick wasn't black!"

"What has that to do with it?"

"My friend, Jimmy, you know? HIS brother was just coming home from ball practice and the police took him to the station!"

"I'm sure it was a misunderstanding," I said. "It makes NO difference if you're black or white."

"Then why can't Jimmy join the swimming club?"

"You KNOW I told you that was wrong."

"So why can't he join?"

"Let's have a snack," I said, hoping to stop the questions.

"Are those children in Biafra still starving?" he asked through his tuna sandwich.

"Why do we just let them starve? I can't understand . . ."

OLSM Gives Coach Birthday Present

Eaglets Topple Unbeaten FOLS to Lead League

By FLETCHER SPEARS
The birthday cake is tasting just a bit sweeter today for the Rev. John Rakoczy of Orchard Lake St. Mary.

Fr. Rakoczy is 44 today, but his happy birthday was assured last night when he collected his 228th basketball victory as coach of the OL St. Mary Eaglets.

ALL IS WELL.
The hair at his temples is a bit greyer, and the personable coach has added a pound or two, but he'll admit that things are pretty much the same as usual at OLSM.

The Eaglets toppled visiting Farmington Our Lady of Sorrows last night, 82-56, before a small but spirited crowd and the win boosted OLSM into the top spot in the Northwest Catholic League.

WOLL FALLS.
In other league games, Ferndale St. James (3-1) downed Waterford Our Lady of Lakes (2-2) in overtime, 68-65, and Detroit St. Rita handed Ulica St. Lawrence a 41-39 setback.

The win enabled Fr. Rakoczy and the Eaglets to maintain their hex over Farmington OLS — the two have met 15 times and OLSM has won them all.

YOUNG SQUAD
The Eaglets are young — two freshmen, three sophomores, a junior and two seniors make up the team — but they played like they know what the game's about in disposing of FOLS.

Fr. Rakoczy is looking happier all the time. "Yes, I'm very pleased," he said of the Eaglets' performance. "The young players have come along well. Hey, and the rebounding, we're doing well for a small team."

Sophomore Walt Sakowski led the Eaglets with 28 points, while senior Mick Krolewski added 20 and freshman Mike Paciorek contributed 19.

AFTER SIXTH TIME
The win gave the Eaglets a 4-0 record in the Northwest loop, putting them well on their way to a sixth straight league championship. And those 228 wins of Fr. Rakoczy have been spread over 18 campaigns.

After gaining a 35-27 halftime lead, the Eaglets broke the game open with a 25-13 edge in the third as they hit on 12 of 17 shots from the field.

CONTROL BOARDS
In the rebounding department, Paciorek, Sakowski and Rick Trzcinski helped the Eaglets to a 47-27 advantage.

Center Mike Hart ran into foul trouble early which proved a handicap for FOLS, he had three early in the second and was whistled out late in the third.

Without Hart, FOLS lost its rebounding strength and OLSM pulled away. "I know we're better than we looked tonight," said FOLS coach Bob Morris.

"We'll see them again at our place." Guards Dan McGrath and Ross Patton sparked the FOLS attack. McGrath hit for 24 points, most of them coming on one-handers from the right side, while Patton popped them in from long range on the left side.

In the overtime period, the Eaglets pushed in a layup with nine seconds left to pull Waterford Our Lady into a 60-58 tie in regulation, but St. James posted an 8-5 edge in overtime to gain the decision.

Kevin Keener came off the bench and contributed four of his six points in the extra session, while Dave Johnson and Tony Ransom bagged a bucket apiece. Mike Brunner led the Dales in scoring with 20 markers.

Dave Calme contributed 26 points to pace WOLL while Webster finished with 18.

Pontiac Catholic Wins Second Game in Overtime Play, 62-58

Pontiac Catholic is taking a little extra time in posting its victories this season. The Titans won their second overtime game in three triumphs by defeating Aquinas 62-58 last night.

In the season opener Catholic won two overtimes to win over Benedictine. Aquinas led 36-29 at halftime and 49-42 after three periods. The Titans never led in the second half until four straight free throws by Kellie Dean and Sam Brady tied it 56-56 as regulation play ended.

OVERTIME SCORING
In the overtime period Brady scored a bucket and two free throws, and Aquinas cut the margin to 60-58. Then Steve Hoffman converted the 1-1 situation into his only two points of the night to ice the victory.

Brady hit for 30 points and he had help from Rick Schachern with 19 and Herb Larson with 14.

The Titans were tough at the free throw line in making 18 of 21 attempts. Two Aquinas players, Tallong and L'Esperance each had 18 points, but the loss came at the charity line as the losers had one more field goal.

The Titans won their regulation after stealing the ball in the final seconds. A bucket fired at the gun was nullified for violation of the three second rule.

Kettering Falls to Brighton in Opening Game

While league champ West Bloomfield began defense of its crown by rolling past Clarkston, Bloomfield Andover, Brighton and Northville all posted victories as conference competition got under way last night.

Andover and Northville extended their winning streaks to two straight. The Barons dumped Milford 67-58 while the Mustangs whipped Clarencville, 52-43.

Brighton took a 68-60 decision from Waterford Kettering in the season opener for both schools.

Once again Dick Souther proved to be the workhorse of the Andover five taking high point honors for the Barons.

HIT CHARITY TOSSES
Souther only hit on six field goals, but connected on nine of 10 opportunities from the charity line to lead both teams with 21 points.

Thanks to Andover's cold shooting from the floor, Milford stayed in contention right up until the final buzzer. The Barons hit for just six field goals in the first half, but with the benefit of 18 points scored from the foul line, held a 16-14 first quarter lead and 30-25 edge at the half.

Andover stretched its lead to 50-35 in the third period before sending in the back up players as Milford took a 22-17 scoring edge in the last stanza.

Larry Allingham was the only other Baron to hit double figures with 10, while Gary Neighbors (16), Mike Monnier (14) and Tom Newcomb (10) paced the Redskins.

Northville, with outstanding contributions from Bertie Bach and Rick Adams in the final period, had to come from behind to best Clarencville.

Down 37-34 going into the fourth period, Northville's Bach picked off 10 rebounds while Adams fired in six points as the Mustangs outscored the Trojans 16-8.

Clarencville had led 14-13 at the end of the opening quarter, which increased to 22-19 at halftime, while both teams scored 15 each in the third.

With two minutes gone in the fourth, Northville went on a scoring spree to take over the lead by scoring 12 straight points.

Bach and Fred Hubbard paced the Mustangs with 15 and 12 points.

STRONG QUARTER
A strong second period followed by heads up ball in the final half brought about Brighton's win over Kettering.

Down 14-13 at the end of the initial quarter, Brighton took a 34-26 half time lead after dumping in 21 points while limiting Kettering to 12.

With their lead cut to 49-43 as the final quarter started, the Bulldogs went into a full court press in a successful attempt to draw Kettering into foul trouble.

Brighton scored 11 points from the charity line in the last period, outscoring the Captains 19-17 and put the game away.

Four players scored in double figures for Brighton led by Bruce Ritter with 18, Dave Harmon 12, and Ed Gardner and Tony Byrds 15 each.

West Bloomfield 5 Beats Wolves, 71-58

By DON VOGEL
West Bloomfield gave Clarkston's basketball team a lesson in survival last night.

The Lakers overcame an injury, fouls and a fourth quarter Clarkston rally to down the Wolves, 71-58. It was the opening game for the defending Wayne-Oakland League champion Lakers and Clarkston's second straight home loss.

Don Johnston of West Bloomfield topped all scorers with 28 points, including a trio of three-point plays in the fourth quarter, and led all rebounders with 17. John Hamill scored 12 points and Bill Bullock 11 for the Lakers.

Clarkston's leading scorer was guard Rick Prasil with 13. Dan Brown chipped in with 12 points and 14 rebounds.

West Bloomfield's difficulty started during a close first quarter when forward Randy BeVier was lost for the game with a knee injury.

SMOOTHER SAILING
Things went a little more smoothly for the Lakers until the end of the third quarter. They were ahead, 47-40, but Johnston, Bullock and Stee Alix each had four fouls.

A three-point play by Johnston opened a 10-point gap and coach Art Paddy benched his foul-plagued trio. The Laker reserves immediately found themselves in deep trouble when they were halted twice by a pressing Clarkston defense.

while trying to get the ball over the center line.

The Wolves took advantage of the turnovers by getting baskets from Brown and Larry Walker. Steve Warman came up with another bucket and West Bloomfield's lead was down to 50-46. Paddy sent the regulars back into action.

However, Clarkston had the momentum and the lead was sheared to 54-52 when the turning point came. An errant Laker pass-in went into the hands of Warman. But he missed the easy shot; the Lakers rebounded and seconds later Johnston came up with another three-point play.

OUT OF REACH
The Lakers pulled away and by the time Hamill and Bullock fouled out the game was out of Clarkston's reach.

Clarkston coach Bill Hanson tried several combinations with some success, but he couldn't shoot free throws for the Wolves who missed six one-and-one tries and a potential 12 points in the second quarter. This enabled West Bloomfield to lead, 32-24, at the half.

The Lakers had a slight edge in rebounding, 37-35, but came up with a better shooting percentage than the Wolves who were forced to take many shots from outside.

West Bloomfield made 23 of 43 field goals while Clarkston connected on 21 of 50.

Flyers Play Another Tie

Deadlock With Seals
10th of Season

OAKLAND (AP)—The Philadelphia Flyers have won only four National Hockey League games, but they've tied 10 of their other 18 and that's kept them in contention for runnerup spot in the Western Division. In the only league game Friday, the Flyers and Oakland Seals tied 2-2 at Oakland.

Garry Garrett scored for Oakland at 1:25 of the final period to tie the game then got in a fight with Philadelphia's Reggie Fleming and received a five-stitch cut on his right eye.

The Seals play at Los Angeles against the Kings tonight, while the Flyers are idle.

Other NHL games tonight: Minnesota at Montreal, Pittsburgh at Toronto, Chicago and Boston and Detroit at St. Louis.

The tie enabled Philadelphia to move within a point of Pittsburgh and Minnesota, who are tied for the Western Division runnerup spot.

Oakland outshot Philadelphia 45-26, but was never able to take the lead.

Championship Preview

Rams, Vikings Not Holding Back

By the Associated Press
It may be only a preview of more important things to come, but you'll get a strong argument from a couple of guys if you think there'll be any "holding back" in Sunday's slam-bang collision between the Los Angeles Rams and the Minnesota Vikings.

In reality, there's nothing more than prestige, pride and a couple of lengthy winning streaks at stake since both teams already have wrapped up divisional titles, setting up a Dec. 27 showdown between the two for the National Football League's Western Conference title.

But, from the way both Viking Coach Bud Grant and Rams boss George Allen are talking, Sunday's meeting sounds like the REAL thing...not just a preview.

"We'll play to win and play tough," barked Allen, whose team hasn't been beaten in 11 games this season.

"You don't improve by sitting on the bench or taking things easy. We'll play this game like we've played each one the past four years...and I'm sure the Vikings will play the same way."

BEST RECORD
"We anticipate a rugged contest," said Grant. "The Rams have the best record in the league, they're undefeated in 11 games and they're certainly the best team we've played all year."

Los Angeles turned back stubborn Washington 24-13 to clinch the Coastal Division title last Sunday, continuing its hopes of becoming the league's first team to go unbeaten during a regular season since the Chicago Bears turned the trick in 1942, when the campaign was only 11 games long.

Minnesota was upset at New York 24-23 on opening day, but since then the Vikings have carried out 10 consecutive victories including a 27-0 Thanksgiving Day blanketing of the Detroit Lions that assured them of the Coastal Division title.

Meanwhile, Dallas, only divisional leader that hasn't shed up a championship, should claim the Capitol crown easily Sunday against Pittsburgh, which has lost 10 straight since an opening triumph.

Second-place Washington, which travels to Philadelphia, has an outside chance of overtaking the Cowboys—but only if the Redskins suffer a first-round defeat, while the Cowboys against Cleveland's Century Division champs for the Eastern Conference title Dec. 28.

In other games Sunday, Green Bay travels to Cleveland, Detroit goes to Baltimore, St. Louis is at New York and Atlanta plays host to New Orleans. San Francisco entertained the Chicago Bears this afternoon.

The Rams-Viking clash not only marks the first time in the league's history that two teams have had such lengthy winning streaks on the line during a regular season game, but also matches up L.A. quarterback Roman Gabriel against Joe Kapp and the Rams' Pearsome Force home against Minnesota's Purple Gang.

Greg Barton, meanwhile, has been activated for the third time this season and will be Munson's backup man. Landry will dress but it is doubtful he will play.

TO make room on their roster, the Lions moved receiver Bill Malinchak to their "move" list. That is one step above the taxi squad and a player must remain there at least two games.

A local newspaper ran a story Friday that Landry would be placed on the "move" list and be lost for the season. However, the Lions spokesman denied there were any such plans.

SORE KNEE
Bill Triplett and Nick Eddy, who is still bothered by bad ribs, are expected to be the starting running backs for Detroit Sunday. Defensive tackle Alex Karras, despite a swollen knee that continues to bother him, will also start for the Lions.

The activation of Barton prevented Detroit from activating Rick Duncan, a punter who has been working out with the team. Lem Barney, who has the lowest punting average in the league, will do the punting against the Colts.

Detroit Plays at Baltimore

Division 2nd Places
Goal of Schmidt

Detroit (AP)—It's official. Bill Munson will start at quarterback for Detroit Sunday when the Lions meet the Colts in Baltimore.

Both teams are 7-4 for the season but the game should mean more to the Lions than to the Colts. Baltimore has already clinched second place in the Coastal Division of the National Football League ahead of Atlanta which is 3-8.

Detroit, on the other hand, is battling with Green Bay, 6-5, for second place in the Central Division behind Minnesota. The Vikings clinched the top spot with their 27-0 win over the Lions Thanksgiving Day.

The Los Angeles Rams have clinched the Coastal title.

Lions' coach Joe Schmidt said Friday that Munson would start in place of the ailing Greg Landry. Landry sprained his right shoulder in the Vikings game and hasn't sufficiently recovered. However, a team spokesman said he would be dressed and could be ready by the next game.

BRIEF APPEARANCE
The second-year quarterback led Detroit to five victories in seven starts as the replacement for Munson who had suffered a broken hand. But Munson was activated for the Minnesota game and played in the fourth quarter.

Greg Barton, meanwhile, has been activated for the third time this season and will be Munson's backup man. Landry will dress but it is doubtful he will play.

TO make room on their roster, the Lions moved receiver Bill Malinchak to their "move" list. That is one step above the taxi squad and a player must remain there at least two games.

Brewer Leads Golf Classic

Old Putter, Nichols
Prove Helpful

MIAMI (AP)—Gay Brewer had two things going for him in the $125,000 Danny Thomas-Diplomat Golf Classic—an ancient putter that found new life, and Bobby Nichols.

"I've played with him eight or nine times in our careers," said Nichols. Brewer's playing partner in the first two rounds, "and he's never shot higher than 67."

The magic remained in the second round Friday, with Brewer taking a six-under-par 66 for the 36-hole lead at 131.15 under par on the 6,964 yard, par 72 course.—Presidential golf.

He held a four stroke lead over rebounding Arnold Palmer and rookie Hal Underwood going into today's third round in this, the last stop of the year on the PGA tour.

Palmer, who snapped a year-long slump with a victory last week, and the red-haired Underwood, on the tour only six months, were tied for second at 135.5. Each had a second round 67.

Jones' Boys Turn Tables on NY Nets

By the Associated Press
Everything was going along just fine for New York Friday night...until New Orleans' Jones' boys started ganging up on the Nets.

James Jones scored 38 points and Steve Jones 19—and the two scored most of them in last-half rallies—as the Bucks' Western Division leaders turned back New York 107-102 in the American Basketball Association.

A local newspaper ran a story Friday that Landry would be placed on the "move" list and be lost for the season. However, the Lions spokesman denied there were any such plans.

SORE KNEE
Bill Triplett and Nick Eddy, who is still bothered by bad ribs, are expected to be the starting running backs for Detroit Sunday. Defensive tackle Alex Karras, despite a swollen knee that continues to bother him, will also start for the Lions.

The activation of Barton prevented Detroit from activating Rick Duncan, a punter who has been working out with the team. Lem Barney, who has the lowest punting average in the league, will do the punting against the Colts.

TO make room on their roster, the Lions moved receiver Bill Malinchak to their "move" list. That is one step above the taxi squad and a player must remain there at least two games.

Tigers' Spring Camp to Open February 20

DETROIT (UPI)—The 1970 baseball season starts Feb. 20 for the Detroit Tigers, Jim Campbell, executive vice president and general manager, announced Saturday.

Detroit will also start a 28-game exhibition schedule March 6 and break camp April 5, Campbell said. All exhibition games will be played in Florida next year, reverting to the pattern set in 1967-68 and 1969-70.

Selected minor league pitchers and catchers will report to Tiger Town Feb. 18 to get in shape so the regulars will have some "tune-up" pitching to hit against when they come in four days later.

Both teams are 7-4 for the season but the game should mean more to the Lions than to the Colts. Baltimore has already clinched second place in the Coastal Division of the National Football League ahead of Atlanta which is 3-8.

Detroit, on the other hand, is battling with Green Bay, 6-5, for second place in the Central Division behind Minnesota. The Vikings clinched the top spot with their 27-0 win over the Lions Thanksgiving Day.

The Los Angeles Rams have clinched the Coastal title.

Lions' coach Joe Schmidt said Friday that Munson would start in place of the ailing Greg Landry. Landry sprained his right shoulder in the Vikings game and hasn't sufficiently recovered. However, a team spokesman said he would be dressed and could be ready by the next game.

BRIEF APPEARANCE
The second-year quarterback led Detroit to five victories in seven starts as the replacement for Munson who had suffered a broken hand. But Munson was activated for the Minnesota game and played in the fourth quarter.

Greg Barton, meanwhile, has been activated for the third time this season and will be Munson's backup man. Landry will dress but it is doubtful he will play.

TO make room on their roster, the Lions moved receiver Bill Malinchak to their "move" list. That is one step above the taxi squad and a player must remain there at least two games.

I LIKE THIS ONE—Mrs. Edson L. Barlow of 840 E. Gunn, Oakland Township shows Carol Seidell of 149 Glendale, Rochester, dresses in the clothes closet of Interchurch Women of Rochester. Carol helps Mrs. Barlow select dresses and other clothes for a little girl who lost all her clothing in a recent fire.

NEIGHBORHOOD HOUSE — Mrs. Robert H. Vogel of 331 Donagel, Avon Township (right), talks over problems of clothing for a needy family with a mother of the Rochester area. Clothing is collected and stored at Neighborhood House for emergency needs as furnished by Rochester church women.

DELIVER CHAIRS — Furniture comes and goes as Interchurch Women of Rochester supply the needs of burned out families and those with little or no income. Shown are

Give Time, Talents

Women Provide Food, Clothing

In a time of plenty, it is hard to realize that people go hungry but they do. When we have more than enough to eat, some cupboards are bare.

When our children go to school in new shoes, some in their mother's old boots.

When some children go to school in new clothes, others are made fun of because they are dirty and their clothes old.

The Interchurch Women of Rochester are giving of their time and talents to make children and families happier with food and clothing.

Presently women are helping the four families who lost all possessions in a Pontiac fire on Thanksgiving Eve.

Since their organization in 1963, Rochester Area Interchurch Women have won recognition for their efforts to improve their community and to establish fellowship on an interfaith basis.

The Interchurch Clothes Closet above the Detroit Edison offices open from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. each Tuesday has served as many as 50 families in a six-week period.

Present plans call for an additional service day if the staff can be found.

Clothes may be dropped off at Neighborhood House on Mondays only, and at the Clothes Closet on Tuesday only, or any other day at 302 Maywood.

According to Mrs. Edgar Harper, a vice president of the organization, all types of clothing and household linens can be used if clean and in good condition.

Furniture, appliances, transportation may be changed through Neighborhood House.

Interchurch Women also has a camping program for underprivileged children.

CHRISTMAS

At Christmas each year the women through the member churches furnish baskets to families. An individual family can be adopted by calling Mrs. Ralph Donaldson of the Congregational Church, Rochester.

Once a month members meet for a business session over rolls and coffee. A speaker in line with the theme "Living Religion" then takes over.

The January meeting is scheduled for 9:30 a.m. at St. Philip's Episcopal Church.

Neighborhood House is not just for the needy but for anyone with problems.

Services include adoption, family emergencies, divorce, a 24-hour answering service furnished by a local doctor and minister.

Mrs. Donaldson serves as an over-all chairman of Christmas baskets. Names are submitted by her to the Goodfellows of Avon; Brooklands; Oakland County social agencies and to general clearing house to prevent duplications.

AGENCIES

Social agencies working with the Interchurch Women include Children's Aid Society, Family Service of Oakland County, Mental Health, Catholic Social Society and the Cancer Society.

During the past year some 150 families were assisted.

Services included food orders, transportation to doctors, camp physicals, summer school tuition for bright students, baby sitters, repairing bikes, visiting the lonely, legal aid, placing furniture, securing a water pump and making it work, and finding jobs for many.

Layettes are furnished unwed mothers or the very poor.

Present officers include Mrs. Walter Larson, president; Mrs. Edgar Harper, vice president; Mrs. Helen Alsup, secretary; and Mrs. Harold Freeborn, treasurer.

The executive board consists of officers, chairmen and representatives from each member church.

CHECK CLOTHING—Looking over clothing for men, women and children and sorting for sizes are Mrs. Raymond Mayor (front) chairman of the Welfare Society at Riverside Seventh-day Adventist Church, Mrs. George Penoyer (center) and Mrs. William Swatek, all volunteer workers at the new Welfare Center, adjacent to the church, 168 University. The Seventh-day Adventists collect clothing and give it to needy people without charge. The grand opening of the building will be tomorrow from 3 to 6 p.m.

Adventists Announce Open House

The Health and Welfare Society of Riverside Seventh-day Adventist Church, will hold open house in the new addition to the Welfare building, 168 University, from 3 to 6 p.m. tomorrow.

Special guests will be Sen. L. Harvey Lodge of Michigan and Mr. and Mrs. Stanley S. Kresge of Detroit. The public is urged to attend.

Refreshments will be served. Although women of the Riverside Church served the Pontiac community by supplying clothing and food to the needy, through the Health and Welfare Society of the church, the building was inadequate for the large amount of articles donated to the society.

With a grant of $12,000 from the Kresge Foundation the congregation was able to completely overhaul and enlarge the present building.

Goal of the group is to cloth children well enough for them to attend school, be warm and well dressed.

Mrs. Raymond Mayor is general chairman of the project.

Priests to Receive Salary of $3,000 Plus

DETROIT (AP) The Roman Catholic Archdiocese of Detroit announced today all priests in its service will receive a uniform salary of $3,000 a year, plus $50 for each year of service, and an annual transportation allowance of $1,200.

Heretofore, archdiocesan pastor - priests have received $2,100 per year and assistant pastors $1,800 a year, plus $400 annually for transportation.

Under the new schedule, all priests also will receive room and board from the parish they serve and an allowance of up to $300 a year for fees, books and other professional expenses.

The archdiocese will pay hospital - medical insurance premiums.

COLLECTIONS

Christmas collections in each parish, which pastors have used for rectory and other expenses, now will go into a fund for retired priests.

John Cardinal Dearden said a new retirement plan is being readied and that the Priests' Senate "will play a prominent role in settling details."

The archdiocesan announcement said the uniform salary was instituted at the requests of the priests and after consultation with the Priests' Senate.

The eight - county archdiocese has 800 parish priests and a membership of 1.5 million.

Priests previously have kept offerings made to them for wedding, funeral and other masses.

Now, such offerings will go into the parish treasury.

The archdiocese and priests hereafter will get a more realistic credit toward Social Security retirement benefits.

The new salary schedule affects only priests in direct archdiocesan service, not those in religious orders who are often high school or college teachers and who assist parishes in filling weekend confession and mass schedules.

The archdiocese said that at the suggestion of the Council of Religious Order Priests, the following scale had been adopted for parish assistants: Weekday, $10; confession assistance on Saturday or the eve of a Holy Day, $15; Sunday and Holy Day, $35.

Why I Go to Church

By KEVIN REABE
State Half Mile Champion

I go to church for spiritual and mental growth, and for the blessings I get.

It is an inspiration for me to attend church and receive the message and the instruction from God's Word which is given for my benefit.

I like the fellowship with those who believe "God Is Alive." And He does answer prayer. I know this is true.

Before every race I pray to God to make me strong and to let me run the best race I am capable of running.

I enjoy the hymns we sing at church. The choir singing, the music played by the organist and pianist and all special numbers are really great.

It pleases me to go to church and I am sure it pleases God for me to be in His house.

Enforce Strict Rules for Female Tourists

Vatican guards, enforcing strict rules against immodest attire, have been refusing admission to female tourists in miniskirts.

This has given rise to a brisk business for a small group of Roman women, who provide women visitors with strips of cloth to be pinned to the bottoms of their skirts.

The fees, like the resulting hemlines, are quite modest.

Musicales Set

A musical program will be presented at 7:30 tonight in Antioch Baptist Church, 351 Prospect. Participating groups include the Gospel Majors of Louisville, Ky., the Pennington Specials of Detroit, the Gospels and other singing ensembles of the Pontiac area.

The Rev. W. T. Vernon said the public is invited.

Drama Guild at All Saints

Presbyterian Group Gives Play on Drugs

"A Penny for Your Thoughts," a drama by Buddy Gisi, will be presented by the Drama Guild of Westminster Presbyterian Church, Detroit in All Saints Episcopal Church at 8 p.m. Sunday.

The story behind the playlet is one of a series on current problems as generation gap, child molestation, burglary, car theft, drugs and others that originated with Thomas Markle, prosecuting attorney of Queens, New York.

Mr. Markle knew several writers and with their cooperation and the assistance of a number of amateur theater groups began to develop a cycle of plays.

The plays led to discussion with the hope that they would inform, broaden and help community members to be more aware of problems and constructive solutions.

DRUGS

"A Penny for Your Thoughts" deals with drugs and addiction, and is the first of the series to be produced by the Drama Guild.

Police Commissioner Johannes Spreen of Detroit has already arranged for this to be video-taped.

The Drama Guild has been functioning for 14 years, producing two or three plays a year.

Just two years ago the group received an invitation from the Theater at Stratford-on-Avon, England to present their staging of "Endor," a powerful drama about King Saul.

CAST OF FOUR

A cast of four, all active members of the Westminster Church, presents the play.

There is no admission charge and the entire community is invited.

After the performance members of the audience will be encouraged to join in discussion. Dr. and Mrs. Robert Tupper will be discussion leaders and resource persons.

Dr. Tupper is director of Medical Education at Pontiac General Hospital. The Tupperes are parents of teen-agers and members of All Saints Church.

Christmas Drama at 4 Churches

The Chancel Players will present a second Christmas drama, "And Myrrh" by Dorothy Clarke Wilson, in Pontiac area churches beginning Wednesday in St. James United Methodist Church. The time is 8 p.m.

On Dec. 14 the drama group will perform at the 9 a.m. worship service in Central United Methodist Church, and on Dec. 15 at 7:30 p.m. for the American Association of University Women in Fellowship Hall of Central Church.

The players will travel to Taylor for an 8 p.m. performance in West Mount United Methodist Church on Dec. 16.

There is an old Christmas legend that of the Wise Men who came from afar to worship the new born King of the Jews. One was from Europe, one from Africa and the other from Asia.

The story concerns the three Wise Men meeting in the desert as they sought the manger in Bethlehem.

CAST

The cast includes Stephen Fraser, slave; Ronald Pearsall, the Greek; Howard Greene, the Parthian; Bonner Teasley Jr., the Ethiopian; Mrs. Burce Hazen, a woman; Roberta Goins, Rachel; and Pat Crowe, the old man.

Others participating are Shari Morrow, little maid; Mickey O'Hearn, the shepherd.

Raphael Hooks will be soloist for each performance. Accompanists are Robert Stasiuk and Sandra Myers.

Crews include Vernon Hopper Sr., stage manager; Elynn Fraser, props; Paul S. Closson, lighting; and Les Howey, photographer. Mrs. Paul S. Closson is director.

The players represent Highland United Methodist Church, Our Lady of the Lakes Catholic Church, St. James United Methodist, St. Benedict Catholic, Sylvan Lake Lutheran and Trinity United Methodist Church, Waterford Township.

The Chancel Players are a group of people from various area churches working together to present God's message through drama. They perform during the Advent and Lenten seasons.

Anyone seeking information may contact Mrs. Closson or any of the players.

True friendship is like sound health; the value of it is seldom known until it is lost.—Charles C. Colton, English clergyman.

WISE MEN MEET—Coming from far off countries to worship the newborn King of the Jews are (from left) Ronald Pearsall of Central United Methodist Church, who portrays a Wise Man from Greece in the play, "And Myrrh," Howard Greene of Trinity United Methodist Church, Waterford Township who represents the Parthian, and Bonner Teasley Jr. of Liberty Baptist Church, an Ethiopian. The play will be 8 p.m. Wednesday in St. James United Methodist Church by the Chancel Players under the direction of Mrs. Paul Closson.

CELEBRATE CHANUKAH—Lighting the first candle in the menorah as they celebrate the Jewish holiday "Chanukah" in Temple Beth Jacob are (from left) Eric Schreier, Dean Manhoff and Lynn Melden, all of Bloomfield Hills.

Rabbi Philip Berkowitz, spiritual leader of the Temple, tells the children the story of the Jews victory over the Maccabees in Jerusalem centuries ago. The holiday opening at sundown yesterday will continue for eight days.

building and contents are now free of debt. Also shown are Cecil Lamphere of 2652 Oaknoll, chairman of the board of trustees; and Mrs. Ralph Jones of Waterford Township, church clerk.

In Korea, Trinidad

Missionary Speaks of Work

LeRoy Johnson, an electrical engineer and a graduate of Moody Bible Institute, will speak of his missionary work in Korea and Trinidad at 7 p.m. Wednesday in Memorial Baptist Church, 599 Michigan.

Johnson first went to Korea in 1966. After two years of language study, weekly chapel services and Bible classes at a Korean Army Base, and English Bible classes at Inha University, Johnson was appointed director of the Island Ministry in connection with TEAM Radio Station HIKX.

"I worked with three native evangelists on the islands off the west coast of Korea, doing personal work and mass evangelism," said Johnson.

"Together we talked to farmers in fields and fishermen on boats. Evening meetings were held on the seashore, in schools or in homes."

Mrs. Johnson also did village visitation, held meetings in a women's prison and taught missionary children.

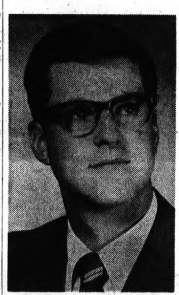

In 1966 Johnson sent to Trinidad to fill a vacancy. He served as a missionary in St. Augustine under the Evangelical Alliance Mission, an interdenominational society with missionaries in 20 world areas.

Pastor Duane Lindsay will preach on "New Creation" at 11 a.m. tomorrow.

Members of Senior Christian Fellowship are asked to bring a gift when they meet for game time and supper Thursday at the church. The festive Christmas party begins at 4:30 p.m.

A coffee hour will follow morning service. The 8:15 a.m. worship has been discontinued.

Translate Bible in 3rd Century

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The first Bible in everyday language, translated from Hebrew into Greek, appeared in Alexandria as early as the 3rd century, according to National Geographic Society.

A Greek narrative traces its origin to 70 scholars from Jerusalem who were requested to work on it by Ptolemy II, the society said in a recent book, "Everyday Life in Bible Times."

St. Trinity Church Has Own Office

St. Trinity Lutheran Church now boasts of an office all its own. Previously all calls to the church were answered at the St. Trinity School or by Pastor Ralph Claus at his home.

The office staffed by Korine Rees will open from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

The teen-agers known as The Society of Youth are participating in Advent meditations. The girls and boys will present a meditation and prayer at the beginning of the morning service each Sunday.

The boys constructed the large Advent Wreath in the chancel area of the sanctuary.

With the aid of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Whelpy, new counselors, the teens distributed the annual Wheat Ridge Foundation Christmas Seals.

Another group of young people, called the Slingers, those who are graduates of high school, have inaugurated a share-the-ride program.

Some 35 or more persons or families will be seen in some church activity of the past.

Then everyone will proceed to Christmas Lane Square where they will see exhibits of decorations and observe demonstrations of how to make many interesting things with which to decorate tree and home.

The emphasis will be on what the family can do together.

TEA ROOM

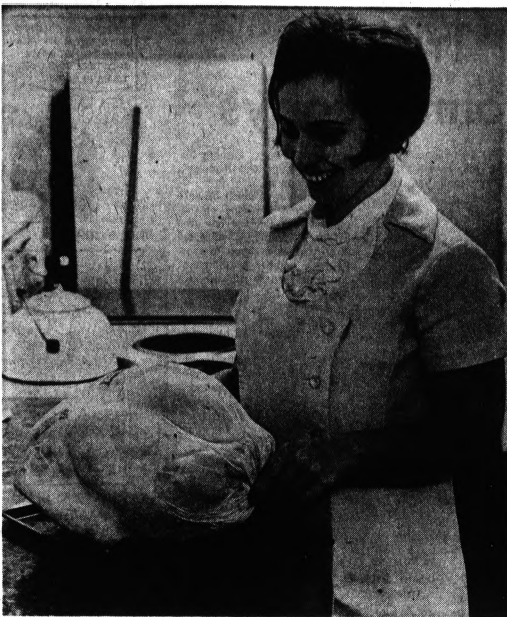

The Tea Room comes next. Here sandwiches, tasty cookies and a beverage will be served.

The event will conclude with Christmas Lane Chapel when the group gathers for songs, carols and the telling of the history of the Advent Wreath.

General Chairman Mrs. Dunstan is assisted by Dan Arnold, Lonnie Bone, Nancy Barton, Janet Fulton, Bill Cook and Susan Cox.

The chapel will be decorated by Janet Barton, Deborah Olsen and Nancy Hevel. Mrs. Lester Pitts and Mrs. William Barton will be in the Tea Room.

Red Bloc Reacts Cautiously to Brandt Feelers

By MICHAEL JOHNSON

MOSCOW (AP) — Chancellor Willy Brandt's new directions for West Germany's foreign policy have prodded the Soviet bloc into a reassessment of the European political scene, but the Communists apparently are not yet ready to change their basic views.

A Warsaw Pact summit meeting in Moscow ended Thursday with a communique that said a "tendency toward a realistic policy" has emerged in West Germany since Brandt's election in September. But it went on to repeat long-standing demands that Bonn recognize East Germany and accept Germany's postwar borders.

The communique praised as a "positive feature" Bonn's signing of the nuclear nonproliferation treaty Nov. 28. But in the next sentence it urged sober vigilance against neo-Nazism and revenge-seeking in West Germany.

Informed sources said before the summit meeting that its main purpose would be to work out a united policy toward Brandt's avowed aim to normalize relations with the Soviet Union and its allies.

Romania, the only Warsaw Pact member besides the Soviet Union which has diplomatic re-quire indicated it was a compromise document that had to be watered down so that all rapid normalization with Bonn would sign it.

The absence from the communique of any mention of the Middle East hinted that Romania's relatively soft stand on Israel had prevented agreement on the chief advocate of conservatism and restraint toward East Bloc state that has diplomatic relations with Israel.

The caution and balance of the statements in the communique indicated it was a com-

What Wall Street Did

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market turned in a chilling performance the past week, a deep, broad loss that twice pushed the Dow Jones average of 30 industrial to its lowest point in almost three years.

The first plunge into icy waters came at midweek when the Dow — a thermometer measuring the health of blue-chip stocks — dropped below 800.

The market continued to be dragged down by mounting evidence that the government would continue its tight-money policies, year-end tax selling and the prediction by a prominent economist that corporate profits would drop to 20 percent in 1970.

Recent high yields in the bond market also had lured investors away from stocks.

There was a modest rally on Thursday, but it was followed Friday by a drop in the Dow to 793.03, its lowest point since Jan. 4, 1967 and a fall of 19.27 points in the week. In the past 18 sessions it has dropped more than 70 points.

The broader-based AP 60-stock average also fell twice in the week to three-year lows. It reached the trough on Friday, off at 72.5, a loss of 7.9 of the week.

LINDA PRESTON

She Sews for Needy via the Goodfellows

T. LARRY ADCOCK

The Pontiac Goodfellows have have a pretty good girl on their side.

Linda Preston of 535 Auburn and her sewing machine aim to carry the Old Newsboys' spirit through the whole year, beginning with the big push at Christmas time.

For five years, Miss Preston has sewn dresses and other clothing articles for needy children on behalf of Flint Old Newsboys. In Flint, she was not alone.

"If people care enough in Flint to make 4,500 clothing articles for the needy children there, then people in Pontiac should be able to turn out a few hundred," Miss Preston said.

TIRED OLD EXCUSE

"And, if you could, you might mention in your article that I work full-time. I mean, you always hear the tired old excuse from people who say they don't have time to help out because they have to work. I sure wouldn't want to use that excuse myself," she confided.

Miss Preston, 23, a waitress in Birmingham, was a substitute teacher in the Flint schools when she began helping the Goodfellows on a year-round basis. She has another semester to finish her teacher preparation requirements.

"I guess it started one winter day in Flint when the boys in my class stole all the mittens from the cloak room," Linda said.

"It had snowed six inches that morning and it was still coming down. We finally straightened out whose mittens belonged to whom — except for one boy.

STARTED CRYING

"The boy was the only one who didn't get any mittens back. When I asked him whether he had any mittens, he started crying . . . he didn't have mittens or boots, or a very warm coat for that matter," Linda said.

"It just hit me all of a sudden how totally neglected some little guys and girls are. My principal and I spent the better part of the day rounding up some warm clothing for the boy who didn't have any," Linda said.

Through contracts in the school and her sister's church, Linda became active in the Flint women's group that produces the clothing all year long for that city's needy children.

The Pontiac Goodfellows, under the leadership of Dick Rompa, will supply Linda with material for her projects then collect and distribute the clothing to the children.

RECRUITING MORE WOMEN

Linda is not only busy with her waitress job and her sewing. She is actively recruiting more women with sewing machines and a little bit of love to join with her providing children with clothing, children who cannot provide for themselves.

"I have a few friends in Pontiac who are helping me get in touch with women who might help out through the schools and some of the churches," Linda said.

"We need a whole lot more," she said.

Linda was reluctant to grant The Press an interview for a story. She didn't want to attract attention to herself.

"I don't know. I guess I have to in order to get the word out . . . We need so may more," she said.

Met Seen Nearing Accord; May Open in Three Weeks

NEW YORK (AP) — Stacks of unused tickets for the 1969-70 Metropolitan Opera season gathered dust in a desk drawer of committee member Charles Revson, one of a legion of opera buffs that has been wondering whether the curtain ever will rise again.
Now, with a contract settlement possible as early as Monday, the Met hopes it may be able to present an abbreviated season beginning around Christmas. The opera company's $45 million house failed to open in mid-September.
The delay was caused by the management's decision not to begin rehearsals until agreement was reached on all labor

Julie's Name on Broadway After Twelve Year Wait

BY EARL WILSON
NEW YORK—Julie Wilson's name is up on the marquee over the title of "Jimmy" at the Winter Garden and she takes several bows each night—then starts the long 1-hr.-and-45-minute ride home to the trees and grass and fresh air of Summit, N. J.
"I take the subway to 33d St. starting at about a quarter to 12, then the tube to Hoboken, then the Erie-Lackawanna train to Summit (first stop Newark) and I get home about 1:30 in the morning," Julie was telling me.
"I enjoy the train ride. I sit down and put my feet up and read the papers. And it's so lovely out there when I get home. I grew up with grass and trees and I wish I could take the show back to Omaha."

Julie, a Middle Western beauty who was a chorus girl at the Copacabana, and a sleek, slick, elegant café singer, checks her children, Holt, 6, and Mikie, 5, when she gets home. Then has a snack and gets to bed at 3.
"I get up at 6 to send Holt to school at 6:45, and Mikie goes to nursery school at 9:30. Then I bury the phone under a lot of pillows and hit the hay again at 9:45. When Mikie comes home from school at 11:45, I've grabbed a couple of hours. If there are no appointments in the afternoon, I may sleep another hour."
It sounds difficult, but Julie's cheerful because, she says, "It was 12 years since I could get a stage role."
"Pajama Game" — 1956. I must have had 150 auditions since.
"They didn't want me for this show. They said, 'You're not fat, and Jimmy Walker's wife was fat.' I said, 'I'll think of it. I'll wear all the padding and all the falsies I can find.'"
"The big audition was a Saturday in July and it seemed like 110—and I had a cold, Mikie was sick, I was a mess, and I've never been at such a low ebb. I felt fat and frumpy. I leaned against the piano and read the lines. And I sang the songs."
"Every other audition I've been dolled up and in my best voice. Well, Monday they called that I had the part. I'm convinced after that experience that it's timing and fate."

THE WEEKEND WINDUP
Woody Allen was asked if he had to wear glasses all the time. "No," he said, "only to find the world when I wake up in the morning." ... Kler Dullea's gift to his wife: bite-sized Shih Tzu dog (weight, 8 oz.). ... Author Irving Wallace suggested Dustin Hoffman for a top role in the filming of his book, "The Seven Minutes" ... Richard Brooks described his movie, "The Happy Ending": "It's a love story—set against a background of marriage" ... Suzanne Zenor (of "The Moonshine War") married actor Jack Johnson.
TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: Someone wondered if the success of the Jets' ace kicking star Jim Turner had made him content. "I doubt it," said a fan, "he's still wearing the same size shoe."
WISH I'D SAID THAT: Values have changed. Now we measure a girl, not by what she measures up to, but by what she measures out to.
EARL'S PEARLS: Zsa Zsa Gabor said it: "In school I was taught that money isn't everything, that happiness counts more. As soon as Mama heard this, she made me change schools."

Dean May, using a bullhorn, ordered the blacks to leave the building, and warned them four times that failure to obey could result in either charges of trespass or citations before a faculty disciplinary body.

contracts. The unions, which had not called a strike, termed this decision a "lockout" and stiffened their demands.
The orchestra voted Wednesday night to accept the first three years of a four-year management proposal, and the artists' union negotiators followed suit Thursday. The stagehands negotiate today. Choristers and dancers will try to settle on Monday.
PAY PACKAGES
The contract now proposed by management would, over three years, raise weekly pay for musicians from $980 to $325; soloists without individual contracts from $325 to $375; choristers $194 to $250; and dancers from $140 to $215.
Pay increase sought at the start of negotiations last summer included 50 per cent raises for musicians, 140 per cent for choristers and 200 per cent for dancers.
Management estimates that the increases offered would double last year's operating deficit of $3.5 million. Much of the deficit is picked up by the opera's approximately 80 private and corporate patrons.
Many patrons, including some who give many times the minimum $1,000, prefer to remain anonymous. More than 115 companies and foundations patronize the opera, starting at $500 for foundations, $2,500 for companies.
Whether they are enthusiastic opera buffs or attend only occasionally, the patrons have been upset by the Met's five-month absence.
"I was waiting, hopeful it would be over by now," said patron Mrs. Charles Payson, owner of the Mets baseball team.
Composer Richard Rodgers had urged that "Both sides bend themselves double" to reach contract agreement. Asked how the added costs and deficits might be met, Rodgers quipped: "I think they'll have to get a lot of tin cups and pencils."
Even with a contract settlement, the comments of one patron suggested that not all the Met's problems would be over.
George Delacorte, arts patron and Dell Publishing Co. chairman, said, "I think this will make a lot of people hesitant about putting more money into it. There comes a time when you say, 'Enough!'"
The patrons had reason for cheer when General Manager Rudolf Bing began this week trying to reassemble Met stars who give many times the minimum $1,000, prefer to remain anonymous. More than 115 companies and foundations patronize the opera, starting at $500 for foundations, $2,500 for companies.

GOP's Future in Dixie Painted Rosy by Agnew

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Republicans Friday at the opening session of the two-day Southern GOP conference.
Agnew lauded attendance at the session for grass-roots party workers and said it was triple that of the three regional conferences held in other sections earlier in the fall.
Winton Blount, the Alabama who serves the Nixon administration as postmaster general, said: "The wave of the future in the South is Republicanism."
GOP National Chairman Roger C. B. Morton said his party's only strategy "is the strategy of victory," adding that since the GOP intends to win in the North and Midwest.
This brought rousing cheers South, that could be called "a from more than 1,000 Dixie Republican leaders, headed by Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, are painting a rosy picture for the GOP's future in the once-Democratic stronghold of Dixie.
But they deny there is any "southern strategy" for the GOP, except in the minds of Democrats.
There is, said Agnew, a "southern strategy" but it "is the brainchild of the controlling liberal wing of the Democratic Party ... and it is simply to criticize and ridicule and vilify the people of the South to curry favor with the powerful and radically left liberal industrial elite which are principally in the North and Midwest."
This brought rousing cheers South, that could be called "a from more than 1,000 Dixie Republican leaders, headed by Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, are painting a rosy picture for the GOP's future in the once-Democratic stronghold of Dixie.
But they deny there is any "southern strategy" for the GOP, except in the minds of Democrats.

TV Fare: Heavenly, Earthy

It seems as though the net works are moving heaven and earth — onto the television screen — in order to provide viewers with interesting fare this week.

The scene is heaven for a musical adaptation of Charles Tazewell's Christmas tale, "The Littlest Angel," which airs tonight at 7:30 on Channel 4 on the Hall of Fame.

Stars will include Johnny Whitaker of "Family Affair," E. G. Marshall, and Fred Gwynne. There will be gossamer effects, psychedelic colors and plenty of angels.

Promising to be a bit more earthy, Ann-Margret's second variety hour tonight at 8:30 on Channel 2 will feature a guest appearance by Dean Martin, along with Lucille Ball, and the Watts 103rd Street Rhythm Band.

DOWN TO EARTH

A couple more down-to-earth subjects — sex education and betting on pro football—are dealt with Tuesday on "60 Minutes" at 10 p.m. on Channel 2.

Johnny Whitaker (right), as a newly-arrived angel, is not impressed by the description of his new home presented by Fred Gwynne, during "The Littlest Angel," — the 90-minute original musical to be shown at 7:30 p.m. Saturday on Channel 4.

The life of Napoleon Bonaparte is chronicled in a documentary featuring graphics, drawings, paintings and film of historic sites Sunday at 9 p.m. on Channel 9.

There are two special reminders of the presence of the Christmas season. Mike Douglas ushers in the holidays with the help of Patti Page, Bob and Ray, and the First Edition Tuesday at 8:30 p.m. on Channel 2. "A Charlie Brown Christmas" returns for another engagement Sunday at 7 p.m. on Channel 2.

Highlight of the professional football telecasts this weekend will be the Minnesota Vikings-Los Angeles Rams clash which will be joined in progress immediately following the Detroit Lions-Baltimore Colts game which is Sunday at 2 p.m. on Channel 2.

Blending their talents musically and comedically, Ann-Margret and Dean Martin sing and clown on the actress' new special at 8:30 p.m. Saturday on Channel 2.

The Cover

Ann-Margret, shown with some of her friends on the cover of The Pontiac Press TV Schedule this week, presents her second special tonight at 8:30 on Channel 2.

LT. WILLIAM L. CALLEY JR.

From Our News Wires

WASHINGTON — First Lt. William L. Calley Jr., the only man officially accused so far of murdering South Vietnamese villagers at My Lai last year, was advised to say nothing about his role in the alleged massacre when questioned yesterday by Pentagon investigators. Calley's civilian lawyer, George Latimer, said he told the 26-year-old soldier not to discuss the subject during his appearance before a special board established to determine whether a low-level Army inquiry soon after the March 16, 1968, incident amounted to little more than a whitewash.

The investigating panel, headed by Lt. Gen. William R. Peers, interrogated Calley in absolute secrecy for nearly three hours. The content of his testimony was not made public. When the questioning ended in midafternoon, Calley, accompanied by Maj. Kenneth Eddy, his military attorney, flew back to Ft. Benning, Ga., without speaking to reporters.

Calley, a platoon leader in the My Lai engagement, has been ordered court-martialed on charges of premeditated murder of at least 109 civilians the day of the assault. His trial is expected to begin early next year at Ft. Benning, where he is stationed.

ASSAULT CHARGE

David Mitchell, 29, a staff sergeant from St. Francisville, La., has been charged with assault to commit murder in the case.

Army Capt. Ernest Medina, who was Calley's company commander, said yesterday he ordered his troops at My Lai to destroy and burn the village, kill the livestock and battle the Vietcong. He said he never gave any orders to massacre women and children.

In a taped television interview on CBS-TV's Evening News, Medina said reliable intelligence sources informed him all women and children would be out of My Lai at the time of the attack. He said he received his orders from Col. Frank Barker, task force commander, who died in a helicopter crash later in 1968.

Medina's attorney, F. Lee Bailey, said yesterday in Columbus, Ohio, that he thinks it is unlikely any charges will be made against the captain.

Old Newsboys Hawk Papers in Area Today

Pontiac and Waterford Township volunteers took to the streets today to sell Goodfellow editions of The Pontiac Press in their annual effort to raise money to provide a Christmas for needy children. Goodfellow sales are also being conducted in four other area communities.

locations until dark, said Goodfellow President Ernest Latimer of the Waterford Township Fire Department.

130 FAMILIES HELPED

"Last year we helped about 130 families," Latimer said. "The money we raise will not only help the children at Christmas time but all through the year."

Waterford organizations helping with the sale include the Rotary Club, Supper Optimists, Breakfast Optimists, Fraternal Order of Eagles, the police and fire departments, Lions, VFW and high school students.

Pontiac Goodfellows President Dick Rompa of the main post office said his organization will sell at the city's main intersections, including downtown locations, K-Mart and Spartan Department Stores centers and the Tel-Huron shopping district.

"We hope to go way over our goal of $1,000," Rompa asserted.

Pontiac policemen, firemen and service club members will participate as Old Newsboys in today's sale.

Goodfellow editions are also being sold by volunteers in Highland, Avon and Pontiac townships and Oxford.

$110-Million Suit Filed Over Viet Killings Story

BOSTON (AP) — Capt. Ernest L. Medina, charging he was held up to ridicule and contempt, filed suit against Time Inc. yesterday in federal court, asking $110 million in damages.

The suit was filed from the office of F. Lee Bailey, Boston lawyer who represents the Springer, N.M., native.

Medina's suit said the case is based on the current issue of Time magazine, which carried statements of a soldier connecting Medina with alleged slayings of civilians at My Lai, South Vietnam in March 1968.

Cultist Tells of Tate Murders

From Our News Wires

LOS ANGELES — "The strange story of 'the Manson family,' whose members are prime suspects in the bizarre Sharon Tate murders, was described yesterday to a county grand jury by a pretty 21-year-old member.

But Susan Atkins now fears a mystical spell will be cast on her by the group's hypnotic leader.

Miss Atkins appeared before the grand jury without being granted immunity from prosecution.

She testified behind locked doors for two hours and 15 minutes, relating her earlier story of the "band in black" which she saw stab and shoot and kill actress Sharon Tate and four others in August.

A prosecutor said an indictment charging murder and conspiracy will be sought against Charles Manson, 35, the wild-haired leader of the wandering band of occult-oriented hippie types.

The grand jury action against Manson — who, followers say, called himself "God," "Jesus" and "Satan" — will be asked on the basis of vicarious liability, said Deputy Dist. Atty. Vincent Bugliosi.

In vicarious liability, he said, a person who joins in a conspiracy, is criminally responsible for any of his conspirators' crimes that further the object of the conspiracy.

Miss Atkins first linked the Manson clan to the killings but said its chieftain was not there when the victims died, authorities reported.

An Innocent Bystander

NEW YORK (UPI) — "I'd just been minding my own business . . ." says 70-year-old George Baier, and that is the lead-in to the story none of his checker-playing cronies will believe.

Baier is a seasoned sidewalk superintendent at the Central Park Zoo. He was on hand as usual yesterday supervising the loading of a couple of bear which had been sold to another zoo, when the 500-pound male got rambunctious.

A keeper zeroed in on the big, angry bear with tranquilizer-loaded darts. When the bear began to slow down and it was clear the drug was taking effect, Baier noticed something — and found a dart stuck in the sleeve of his overcoat. "Hey! Look at this!" he said. The next thing he knew he was in an ambulance on the way to the hospital.

DIDN'T PENETRATE

No sweat, though — when the doctors looked him over, they found out the dart had lodged in his coat sleeve without even breaking the skin.

Meanwhile, back at the zoo, they had new problems. The drugged male had gone to sleep in his wading pool. Keepers had to hold his head out of water to keep him from drowning until the pool could be drained and he could be hauled out with ropes.

After all that, it was kind of a comedown for Baier to join his friends for their regular afternoon checker game.

"I told them what had happened," he said. "They didn't believe me."

Area Hospitals Eye Boost in Red Cross Blood Costs

Pontiac area hospital officials are hastily appraising an announcement yesterday that the American Red Cross will increase its cost of blood service to hospitals.

Red Cross officials announced the institution of a new plan known as Red Cross Hospital Participation. Under the new plan, hospitals will be charged a basic fee of $12.50 per pint, an increase from an average $7-$8 per pint formerly charged.

Red Cross officials said charges will cover costs of collecting, processing and distributing blood to hospitals in Wayne, Macomb and Oakland counties. The fee is not a charge for the blood itself. "I think $12.50 is still a reasonable charge," said Dr. William C. Swatek, director of laboratories at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital.

FINANCIAL JAM

"Red Cross is in a financial jam what with subsidy cuts and the increase simply has to be passed on to the individual hospitals," Swatek said.

United Foundation has announced an eight per cent reduction in its Red Cross grant — a total of $3 million, down $284,166 from last year.

"Whatever additional costs we must bear," Swatek explained, "we must pass on to the insurance companies and our patients."

Swatek indicated that at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, when officials determine increase figures, any cost that must be passed on to patients will consist of a per-usage measure rather than an across-the-board increase for all patients.

Harry Whitlow, administrator of Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital, could not discuss reaction to the Red Cross announcement "because we have to first determine how much business we do with Red Cross."

GOP Warning: Plan Is So Rich Nixon Will Veto

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate, in a rare Saturday session today, tried to complete action on a bill cutting taxes and granting generous Social Security increases.

The measure, most extensive reform of the nation's tax laws in history, has become so laden with benefits some Republicans said it left Nixon no choice but to reject it.

Democrats were confident a House-Senate conference committee would tone down the bill's extra costs — estimated by Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., at $9.95 billion more than when the bill came to the Senate floor last week.

The conference committee will receive the bill after the Senate completes action, which it hoped to do today even if forced to meet into the evening.

LOOPHOLES EYED

First up for vote was a reform proposed by Sen. Lee Metcalf, D-Mont., to close a tax-avoidance avenue of the rich who write off paper losses on their "hobby farms" to reduce their taxes. Scores of others could be affected.

Yesterday the Senate voted 72 to 14 — with all the opposition coming from Republicans — to grant perhaps the biggest Social Security boost since the first checks were mailed in 1940.

Under the measure, all 25 million Americans on Social Security would receive an across-the-board 15 per cent increase.

Minimum benefits would go up to $100 for a single person and $150 for a married couple. They are now $55 and $82.50.

EFFECTIVE JAN. 1

The increase would be effective Jan. 1. But retired persons would not get the money until March and April.

Social Security taxes would also rise but not — as Williams acidly pointed out — until after the 1972 presidential election.

In other action, the Senate:

- Approved a proposal to allow taxpayers to subtract up to $325 a year from their federal taxes for the college expenses of any child effective in 1972.
- Rejected, by a 69 to 18 vote, a plan requiring foundations to give away all their assets in 40 years or lose their tax-exempt status.

The osteopathic hospital officials are appraising figures and the cost extent of its Red Cross business.

"After our survey is made, then we can tell whether or not our costs to patients will rise or remain the same. I

Suit to Bar Parochiaid From House Heard

LANSING (AP) Parochiaid opponents were in court yesterday trying to stop the school aid and parochiaid bill from reaching the House.

A panel of three Ingham County Circuit Judges said they would try to reach a decision by next Friday on a suit seeking to bar House Clerk T. Thomas Thatcher from accepting the bill from the Senate.

Parochiaid, a $25-million plan blessed by Gov. William G. Milliken but damned by public education advocates, finally passed the Senate, by a 20-14 vote yesterday. The Senate sent the controversial measure, which would allocate public funds to private and church-operated schools, on to the House—scene of its earlier, first defeat. Currently in operation in only four states, parochiaid is contained in a $1,008-billion school aid bill for next year and is part of Milliken's 12-item education reform package.

Voting for the parochiaid measure were Republicans Robert J. Huber of Troy, L. Harvey Lodge of Waterford

Township and George W. Kuhn of West Bloomfield Township.

The House Taxation Committee, meanwhile, recommended favorable action on a three-bill package to raise an estimated $48 million by tying off several business and manufacturing exemptions from the four-per-cent state sales and use taxes. Those bills, sponsored by Senate Taxation Committee Chairman Harry DeMaio, R-Battle Creek, passed the upper house earlier.

A bill to raise some $116 million by eliminating the property tax credit on state income tax payments also has been sent to the House.

The lower chamber's tax committee also moved closer to recommending an increased state income tax plan proposed by House Speaker William A. Ryan, D-Detroit.

Aiming to raise an additional $300 million in the next 12 months, Ryan proposes a two-tenths of one per cent increase in the 2.6 per cent state personal income tax. He also would raise the 5.6 per cent corporate income tax to 6.5 per cent and the 7 per cent financial institutions tax to 8.2 per cent.

The seven-cent state cigarette tax would go to a dime a pack under Ryan's plan.

The injunction request against Thatcher was filed by Democratic Sens. Roger Craig of Dearborn, Basil Brown of Highland Park and Coleman Young of Detroit.

They contend the parochiaid section of the school aid bill, besides being unconstitutional, amounts to allocating public funds for a private purpose—and must be adopted by a majority of two-thirds as stipulated in the 1963 State Constitution.

Birmingham Area GM Scientist Honored by Austrian Unit

BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — A General Motors Corp. scientist, Dr. Philip Weiss of 520 Cranbrook, will be honored by the Austrian Industry Society and the Technical University of Vienna next Friday for his scientific and industrial contributions to polymer science and technology.

Dr. Weiss will receive the Wilhelm Exner medal which is presented annually to individuals whose scientific achievements are judged to have contributed significantly to industry and technology.

The medal will be awarded by the chancellor of Austria, Dr. Josef Klaus. The GM researcher will be the sixth American to receive the award since it was first presented in 1921. Former recipients include nine Nobel Prize winners.

Dr. Weiss is a recognized worldwide authority in the field of polymers—a term which represents materials such as adhesives, plastics, paints and rubbers. He is head of the polymers department of General Motors Research Laboratories.

As head of the polymers department, Dr. Weiss' responsibilities include research and development in adhesives, elastomers, surface coatings and plastics.

BIRMINGHAM — A traditional festival of Nine Lessons and Carols will be held Dec. 14 at 5 p.m. in the sanctuary of The First Presbyterian Church, 1669 W. Maple.

The order of the service for the festival is based on ancient liturgical forms, used for centuries in English cathedrals and colleges, and now becoming increasingly popular in American churches as their Christmaside observance.

This is the first year the Birmingham congregation has presented the service.

The 20 carols which illustrate the lessons are the appealing folk carols and hymns, both familiar and new from different cultures and dealing with many different aspects of the Nativity.

The carols will be sung by the Chancel, Calvin Cecilian and Chapel choir; by soloists soprano Carolyn Grimes, contralto Carol Ferrero, tenor Kenneth Ish, and bass Carroll Stickland; and by the congregation.

just couldn't say right now," Whitlow said.

Dr. William Dito, chief pathologist of Pontiac General Hospital, said cost increases would be spread out over a "greater number of patients than just those who would require blood."

OTHER SOURCES

Dito and Swatek both indicated that their hospitals would remain a bit better off than most because they have blood sources other than Red Cross from which to draw.

Swatek said a serious problem would face hospitals in the combination circumstance of more expensive Red Cross service and a decrease in blood donations during the holiday period.

"Bloodmobiles are not very popular around the holidays," Swatek said. Red Cross officials emphasized that the $12.50 cost of a pint of blood will be covered under Michigan Blue Cross and other commercial insurance plans and in the case of indigent patients, by Medicaid.

A doubling of costs for blood transfusions might face uninsured patients or those not covered by federal health plans.

Drug Recall Ordered for 8 Manufacturers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Eight manufacturers have been ordered by the Food and Drug Administration to recall about 40 million capsules of a widely used drug used to fight infection because of doubts about its effectiveness.

The FDA's action yesterday against the drug oxytetracycline may spark a controversy over whether all drugs of the same chemical compound are equally effective.

The decision followed up a complaint by Charles Pfizer Co., original patent holder of the drug, that equal doses of it now manufactured by other companies failed to produce the same blood levels as its version.

Tragic End to Las Vegas Jaunt Plane Crashes in Snowfall; 11 Die

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — A converted World War II airplane, apparently groping for a safe landing amid snow flurries, crashed in flames yesterday, killing the two-man crew and nine prominent west Texans.

The victims were returning from a holiday in Las Vegas, Nev. Strawn over the desert scant yards from a housing development was the airplane wreckage and what remained of the holiday: a sack from a Las Vegas store, playing cards, a smartly polished shoe with a shoe tree still in it and charred currency.

An investigation by the National Transportation Safety Board was to begin today. The bodies were locked in a nearby warehouse and the crash area was sealed off.

The Lockheed Lodestar, a transport converted to passenger use, was chartered from a service operated by the pilot, Carroll Thompson, and copilot,

Ralph Dodkins Jr., both of Stratford, Tex.

Returning to their homes were Bill Allen, Perryton, partner in an oil company; Fred Adecock, Perryton, a petroleum engineer; Jack Hood of Borger and three couples described as wealthy farmers and ranchers. They were Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Buckles and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Schertler, all of Stratford, and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Davis of Borger.

Federal Aviation Administration officials in Albuquerque said the plane was on a visual flight plan toward its Dalhart, Tex., destination until it reached western New Mexico, when the pilot radioed he was switching to instruments. They said the craft was not heard from again.

The crash was within sight of a small, private airport north of Albuquerque.

Fight Brewing Over Center for Retarded

Differences in concepts for the future treatment of mental retardation cases has sparked a disagreement between Oakland and Macomb counties.

At issue is a proposed state-funded facility which is to serve some 500 children and adults in the two counties. Land for the central core has reportedly been leased in Macomb County.

Macomb County officials favor a centralized, hospital-type facility while Oakland officials want a central building for severe cases, but a satellite cottage system for those patients able to function to some capacity within the community.

Mrs. Rita Charron of Royal Oak, the county project adviser, believes Macomb County has undercut her group by taking their plan to the state first.

"We've had a special committee of well-informed citizens working on this project since June," said Mrs. Charron. "Macomb County, which only initiated its study six weeks ago and which used some of our findings in their study, went immediately to the state."

"We were stalled waiting for them to complete their study and had intended to correlate the two county plans into a unified plan before taking it to the state," she said.

"Now we'll have to go with our tentative plan before Christmas, however our final plan is of such depth that it will take until January to complete it," the adviser said.

While the sum of $12 million for the facility is being bandied about, both Mrs. Charron and state officials contacted by The Press, deny that any fixed sum has been made available.

Israel, Egypt Fight, Trade Prisoners

By United Press International
Israeli jets attacked Arab guerrilla bases in Jordan near the Sea of Galilee today, an Israeli military spokesman said. And Israel and Egypt held a prisoner exchange on the Suez Canal.

The Israeli spokesman said the warplanes struck bases opposite the Israeli town of Kfar Ruppin, in the Beisan Valley 16 miles south of the Sea of Galilee. The strikes followed a week of intense air attacks including raids against Egyptian positions on the Suez Canal.

The International Red Cross said in Geneva it had arranged the truce that made possible the prisoner exchange at Qantara on the Suez Canal.

Police Reach Tentative Agreement on New Birmingham Wage Contract

Skysjacking Rule Gains

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Only Cuba, a hijackers' haven, opposed a resolution approved by the U.S. General Assembly's legal committee that penalized for severe penalties for plane hijackings.

The resolution was approved by the committee yesterday by a vote of 67-1 with 17 abstentions.

The Birmingham Police Officers Association (BPOA) and city officials agreed yesterday to a pact calling for a top pay of $10,460 after 18 months service, their attorney, Noel Gage, said. The agreement is subject to ratification by BPOA membership and the Birmingham City Commission.

The previous top salary for patrolmen in Birmingham was $9,300 after three years.

A spokesman for the 31 members of the association said ratification is expected by Monday. Several command officers on the force aren't represented by the union.

During a long dispute, Birmingham police had threatened mass resignation unless their demands were met. Gage said the association demanded $10,600 and city offered $10,300 prior to the compromise agreement.

Neighboring Beverly Hills police ratified a salary package yesterday. Their proposed pact, called perhaps the highest settlement in the state, calls for a top wage of $11,261 after 24 months of service.

Cultist Tells Grand Jury of Tate Murders

Asked how she felt about informing on the weird, nomadic cult whose members are accused of a total of eight senseless slayings, Miss Atkins replied, "Dead."

Her attorney, Richard Caballero, said later Miss Atkins fears her testimony may make her a "marked woman" through the black magic and mystical spells with which Manson once held his followers.

The gaunt, dark-eyed Manson remains jailed in the mountain community of independence on charges of possessing stolen cars.

The closed grand jury hearing into the killings of Miss Tate, blonde wife of film director Roman Polanski, and six others was continued until Monday with 10 more witnesses expected to testify. Six told their stories yesterday.

'ALL THE DETAILS'

Miss Atkins, 21, principal witness at the hearing, described "all the details" of the stabbings and shootings, her attorney said, and told the grand jury she was hypnotized by Manson. She has said she was at the murder scenes and that Manson had ordered the victims slain.

"If the grand jury sees the evidence as we do, we'll have an indictment of murder against Manson," said Aaron Stovitz, another deputy district attorney. Stovitz said murder counts would be sought against at least five other persons, including Miss Atkins.

Prosecutors said the case probably would not go to trial for at least three months because of its complexity.

ANSWERING EVERYTHING

Miss Atkins, prim in a pink velvet dress brought for her by her attorney, said softly she would answer "anything they ask me."

She herself is charged with murder of a Malibu musician.

Caballero, also a grand jury witness, said she repeated everything she had told him—describing how a band of black-clad Manson followers armed with guns and knives killed Miss Tate and four others Aug. 9, then killed a rich market owner and his wife the next night to prove they hadn't lost their nerve.

Terry Melcher, 27, blond, shaggy-haired son of actress Doris Day, also testified about Manson, a prosecutor said.

Followers said Manson played the guitar, composed songs and "sang like an angel," and once approached Melcher for a recording contract.

Melcher, then living in the tomato red mansion later rented by Miss Tate, refused Manson's request but reportedly invited the clan leader to his house. After that, the friends said, Manson saw the house as a symbol of rejection. Caballero said he hoped Miss Atkins' testimony would save her from the gas chamber and also that by telling her story she would purge herself of her fear of Manson.

Food Stamp Force Is Shunned

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department is shying away from forcing food stamps on 302 counties now without government food programs for the needy, says the man who runs the program.

Richard E. Lyng said Friday the department will "use every means at our command to get food into all counties" by the end of next June.

But, unless President Nixon rules otherwise, there are no plans to move federal food programs directly into holdout counties, Lyng said in an interview.

Meanwhile, a delegation from the recently concluded White House Conference on Food, Nutrition and Health met with President Nixon to urge that immediate emergency action be taken to get food to millions of Americans.

The delegation said Nixon promised speedy executive action but that he was not prepared to declare a national hunger emergency.

But Daniel Moynihan, the White House expert on urban affairs, said Nixon had made no commitment to the group.

"All meetings like that are essentially alike for presidents," Moynihan said. "He says thanks to the group but does not make the decisions."

Moynihan said that "We don't need to get a national emergency. We need to get food stamps into every county in America."

LOCAL PARTICIPATION

Lyng said local governments must participate in the program wherever possible. "We don't like to federalize the system," he said.

Dr. Jean Mayer, the White House nutrition specialist, said Thursday Nixon had ordered the Agriculture Department to extend the food stamp program to the 302 counties by next June 30.

Program Costs Show Big Hike

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cost of government food donations jumped last year from $367.1 million to $458.3 million while quantities of foodstuffs ranging from fresh apples to rolled wheat rose from 1.7 billion pounds to more than 1.9 billion.

The Agriculture Department announced the food program increases Friday showing comparative figures between fiscal 1969, which ended last June 30, and a year earlier.

Food donations included those to needy families under the commodity distribution program, schools and other institutions.

Food distributed to needy families in 1968-69 cost $225 million compared with $124 million a year earlier, and included 1,064.8 million pounds compared with 723.2 million.

6.7 MILLION BENEFITTED

The department said that more than 3.5 million persons received donated food in June 1969, and another 3.2 million participated in food stamp programs.

Thus, officials said, 6.7 million persons were benefiting from family food programs last June, compared with 5.6 million a year earlier, officials said.

Food donations to charitable institutions last year cost $25.4 million for 135.5 million pounds, compared with $23.2 million and 148.1 million pounds a year earlier.

Schools received $207.9 million of donated food totaling 756.3 million pounds, compared with $220.5 million and 797.3 million
