Nixon Picks a Budget Head

NEW YORK (AP) — President-elect Nixon announced today a federal budget director — Chicago Banker Robert Mayo — before flying to Washington to announce his Cabinet choices to the nation tonight.

At his Pierre Hotel headquarters in New York, Nixon said Mayo, whose background couples 18 years in the Treasury Department with nine years in private banking, will be considered "a top member of the Cabinet team."

Mayo wound up his Treasury career in the Eisenhower administration as assistant to the secretary for debt management and in 1960 joined the Continental Illinois National Bank & Trust Co. of Chicago, where he is vice president.

William P. Rogers, attorney general for three years in the Eisenhower administration, will be named secretary of state.

Rogers, 55, has been a New York and Washington lawyer since leaving the attorney generalship in 1961.

Word of some other Cabinet selections has already gained public circulation.

Gov. George Romney of Michigan, according to informed Republican party officials in Washington, will be secretary of housing and urban development.

Another Republican governor, Walter J. Hickel of Alaska, will be secretary of the interior, according to Alaska's senator-elect, Mike Gravel, a Democrat.

There were strong reports Rep. Melvin R. Laird, R-Wis., would be secretary of defense.

Nixon told reporters yesterday he would announce today a major post for Republican Lt. Gov. Robert Finch of California. It was generally believed Finch would be secretary of health, education and welfare.

Nixon mentioned Finch in announcing a surprise appointment for sociologist Daniel P. Moynihan, a Democrat.

Nixon said Moynihan, an assistant secretary of labor in the Kennedy and Johnson administrations, would be his White House assistant for urban problems — a new position he said would elevate Moynihan to the same status as Dr. Henry A. Kissinger, his assistant on national security affairs.

Inflation Fight Mustn't Peril Poor—Ford

DETROIT (AP)—Henry Ford II, board chairman of Ford Motor Co., today called for a reduction in the rate of inflation in the nation's economy but said it should not come "at the expense of those who can least afford to bear it."

At his annual year-end news conference and business review Ford said U.S. auto sales would reach 9.6 million by the end of this year, bettering 1965, the previous record year by some 300,000 cars. He predicted sales of 9.4 million cars in 1969.

Ford also confirmed that the nation's No. 2 auto maker would build a new small car, called the "Maverick," next year in an attempt to meet the stiff competition of foreign car makers. He said the car would be assembled at Kansas City, Mo., and St. Thomas, Ont., and would go on sale in mid-April.

Speaking on the economy, Ford said, "There is no reason why the strains in the American economy cannot be corrected and a healthy rate of growth maintained."

"The rate of inflation must certainly be reduced, but I do not belong to the school of thought which holds that a strong dose of recession and unemployment is the only cure for inflation."

He said he thought "moderate fiscal and monetary restraint can achieve a gradual slowing in the rate of inflation with little effect on unemployment."

He said he favored a "gradual victory over inflation," adding that "The burden of recession and unemployment falls heaviest on the poorest and least secure segment of our people."

OU Lecturer Bares Feelings

A 21-year-old English major at Oakland University took off all his clothes and addressed an audience of approximately 50 persons for 15 minutes last night in the Barn Theatre.

The student, tentatively identified as Lee Elbinger, a Detroit senior, apparently based his nude lecture on poet William Butler Yeats' "conception of personal freedom."

He addressed his lecture near the end of a three-hour program of semester projects for an English class, which also included a musical performance, pantomimes and a student-produced film.

Following his talk, Elbinger reportedly walked nude among the audience and passed out candy.

'NAKED AND FREE'

Elbinger is quoted as saying, "If I am naked and I am not ashamed, then I am free."

"I've had a few mystical experiences in the past week, and one of them is that I am the reincarnation of William Butler Yeats," Elbinger reportedly said.

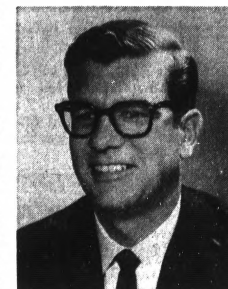

Yeats, an Irish poet and dramatist, died in 1939. He was regarded as one of the greatest poets of his time and was actively interested in mystical studies.

Elbinger reportedly is leaving Michigan tonight for India, where he plans to study mysticism and Indian philosophy under a guru or a swami near Bombay.

Hotel Set Ablaze; Four Dead in N.J.

PATERSON, N.J. (U) — Four bodies were recovered today in the smoldering ruins of a downtown hotel destroyed by fire that police said was the work of arsonists.

The blaze swept through what firemen described as 31 sleeping rooms situated on the second floor over a row of shops. Some 25 persons resided at the Midtown Hotel.

Owner Charles Convery estimated damage at $200,000.

At least 10 persons were treated at hospitals, but none was reported in serious condition.

Firemen battled the blaze for several hours in numbing subfreezing temperatures.

Blast Shatters Ferndale Firm

FERNDALE (AP)—An explosion today shattered the Midland Adhesive and Chemical Co. on the northeast side of Ferndale. More than half of some 24 or 25 employees were reported injured.

The blast knocked out windows in buildings as far as 500 feet from the plant, which makes adhesive compounds. The explosion sparked a fire which firemen were still battling an hour later.

Owner Irving Schulist said he thought 25 persons were working at the time of the explosion and that he had been able to account for 24 of them.

VARYING DEGREES

The injured were rushed by at least five ambulances to William Beaumont Hospital in neighboring Royal Oak. Officials said that 12 persons were taken to the hospital in the first ambulance runs and more were expected.

The injured suffered varying degrees of burns.

One person at the scene described the factory as "a shambles."

Cause of the blast was not immediately known.

Police Sgt. Stanley Nesson said he convinced about 10 persons not to jump from a ledge. He said they were rescued moments later by firemen.

'NEIGHBORHOOD VENDETTA'

Deputy Police Chief Solomon Reines said the fire was "definitely arson." He said there has been a "neighborhood vendetta" against occupants of the hotel who were described as mostly elderly transients.

Officials said there was a minor fire at the hotel recently which was extinguished without injuries to any occupants.

Fire Commissioner Edwin Englehardt said witnesses told authorities they saw a band of young men throw gasoline-soaked rags into the building before the fire broke out.

One witness, Mrs. Raymond Borges, 31, who with her husband runs the Orchid Room bar across from the hotel, said, "I ran out into the street and saw people screaming from windows."

COULDN'T ESCAPE

Her husband, Raymond, 37, said he spotted the hotel clerk at a window he was unable to fit through because of his size.

"He was a heavy guy. He couldn't get through the window," Borges said.

Mrs. Mary Brown, 35, who was visiting a friend in the hotel when the fire broke out, was among the first to sound the alarm. She said she fled down a fire escape with three others.

If the Flu Strikes...

If the Hong Kong flu epidemic hits Michigan, don't panic.

"The flu you might catch in an epidemic is no more serious than the flu you might get as an individual case," says Dr. George Pickett, health director for Detroit and Wayne County.

"An epidemic simply increases the likelihood of catching the illness," he said.

Dr. Bernard D. Berman of the Oakland County Health Department agrees.

'NOT DEADLY SERIOUS'

"Influenza is not a deadly serious disease," he said. "The new Hong Kong flu is reported less severe than the previous Asian influenza we have experienced."

"The dangers," according to Dr. Berman, "lie in the complications which may develop, such as pneumonia and middle-ear infections. These complications can cause prolonged disability and may even prove fatal, particularly in the elderly and those with chronic illnesses which make them less resistant."

Symptoms of the Hong Kong flu are common with many other illnesses, health authorities say. The disease characteristically starts suddenly with headache, chills, fever and muscle aches, with a sore throat, runny nose and cough following the next day or so.

Czechs Crave Freedom, McDonald Says

is the first congressman, and possibly the first U.S. official with diplomatic status, to tour the Eastern European city since its take-over in late August.

"There is nothing but hostility toward the Russians now that the Czechs have been deprived of freedom of the press, freedom of speech and freedom of elections, which were so near," McDonald said today.

"The people want a chance now that they have tasted it," he added, "though they seem to realize that it could take 10 or 15 years."

INVITED BY COLONEL

McDonald made the trip on the invitation of a Czech government official he had met a year earlier at the Russian Embassy in Washington.

The official, identified by McDonald only as a Czech air force colonel, was sent back to Prague before the invasion.

"I decided to take him up on the offer because it was a great opportunity, and I was pleasantly surprised when I was issued a visa that I had applied for a month earlier."

During his stay, McDonald said that the official served as his host and interpreter, introducing him to people and acting as his guide.

"When I first met him here, I thought he was very pro-Russian, but that wasn't the impression he gave since the invasion," said McDonald.

McDonald arrived home late Monday after spending Nov. 27-29 in Prague and the surrounding area.

At no time, said McDonald, did he see a Russian soldier. "Though I've been told there are about 70,000 still stationed in the country."

There is evidence of anti-Russian sentiment everywhere in the city, according to McDonald.

CITY WALLS SCARRED

Walls throughout the city have remnants of messages that had to be wiped or scratched off before the Russians would leave, he said.

In theaters and restaurants, entertainers are careful when they make jest of the Russians.

"They use double-meaning words that get the message across," McDonald said.

"All Russian movies, which once were popular, have been discontinued because they have been boycotted," he said.

The most open display against the Russians is in the central square of the city, where wreaths and flowers a-half-block long are replenished each day in honor of the 70 persons killed during and after the invasion.

As a member of the House Public Works Committee, McDonald said he was interested in that area of endeavor, but was thoroughly unimpressed by what he was shown.

"For example," said McDonald, "I saw a road construction site where men were placing eight-inch blocks down by hand like they did 200 years ago."

Jury Holds Fate of Two Accused of Extortion Try

An Oakland County Circuit Court jury resumed deliberations today on the guilt or innocence of two men charged with attempting to extort $4,000 from a part-owner of the Orchard Lakes bowling alley in Pontiac Township.

Final arguments in the two-week trial of Thomas F. Davis, 39, of Dearborn and Michael D. Bruno, 53, of Detroit ended yesterday before Judge William J. Beer.

The jury then reviewed the case for about a half hour before being excused for the day.

The two are accused of threatening Donald A. Spalla and his family with bodily harm unless he gave them the money, which they claim was owed to a friend.

1967 INCIDENT

Spalla is a partner and manager of the bowling alley at 645 Opdyke.

The alleged incident occurred in May 1967.

While no money changed hands, Michigan law does not require that an act of extortion be carried out in order that a warrant be issued.

Yesterday Beer dismissed additional charges that Davis and Bruno were involved in a plot to extort the money.

INSUFFICIENT EVIDENCE

Beer agreed with their attorneys, Nicholas Smith and Theodore Albert, that the testimony was insufficient to indicate a conspiracy on the part of the defendants.

"I feel the record is inadequate to give the jury the case on conspiracy," Beer ruled.

Extortion charges against two others involved in case — Patricia Kelly, 31, and William H. Jebrail, 35, both of Detroit, were dismissed for lack of evidence at their preliminary examinations last year before Waterford Township Justice of the Peace Kenneth H. Hempstead.

The money, according to Miss Kelly's testimony, was a debt owed her by Spalla.

Spalla, 35, testified, however, that she had voluntarily given him the money for living expenses when he accompanied her on a business trip to Florida.

5 Teens Arrested at Roadblock

Five Detroit-area teen-agers were arrested last night at a roadblock in Pontiac Township in connection with a $468 holdup of a Flint gas station.

The arrests were made by Oakland County Sheriff's deputies who were notified of the robbery by the Genesee County Sheriff's Department at about 10:30 p.m.

In custody at the Oakland County Jail are Daniel L. Klimonski, 17, Walter Niemcow, 17, and William J. Sepytek, 18, all of Detroit, and Peter Petyr, 18, of Hamtramck.

Differences Developing on Controlling Inflation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Differences of opinion have developed among both business and congressional figures about means of dealing with the problems of inflation in the nation's economy.

Influential legislators say only restrained government spending and continued high taxes can retard the spiral. But businessmen say the inflation can't always be cured by laws and government action.

A host of economic indicators have pointed recently to inflationary trends.

The government announced last month living costs rose six-tenths of one per cent, the biggest jump in six years.

Government economists expect the rise for the year to be the biggest since wage-price controls were instituted during the Korean War.

Dr. S. L. Booth, director of research for the National Consumer Finance Association, estimated personal income will rise 7 per cent next year, but 4 per cent will be consumed by price increases.

Retailers say sales are up 8 to 10 per cent this year, despite the 10 per cent income surtax and a consumer price level that has risen 4 per cent by October, compared to a 3.1 per cent rise in all of 1967.

FROM SAVINGS

Economists say much of the difference apparently came from savings. The savings rate dropped from 7.5 per cent before enactment of the surcharge to 6.25 per cent by September.

Dr. Michael Sumichrast, chief economist of the National Association of Home Builders, said the price increases—like the jump in median prices for homes from $20,000 to $25,000 in four years—apparently has convinced consumers buying now will save them money in the long run.

"I've been impressed with how much inflationary pressure there is. It's gone pretty far," said Guy E. Noyes, senior vice president of Morgan Guaranty Trust Co., during a U.S. Chamber of Commerce panel discussion yesterday.

"Inflationary expectations are tending to snowball," said Richard Scruggs, an analyst with Goodbody Co. in New York.

STIMULATES BUYING

"Talk of inflation can stimulate people to buy and use their dollars," he added.

"One of the chief tasks facing the Nixon administration will be to dampen the inflationary psychology that seems to permeate the economy," said Milton Friedman, economics professor at the University of Chicago and a campaign adviser to President-elect Nixon.

But Rep. George H. Mahon of Texas, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, said anti-inflationary measures will be hard for the government to achieve.

Mahon said he sees little chance for keeping next year's federal budget below present levels. He supports extension of the surtax scheduled to expire June 30.

"I would rather extend the surtax than to have an unexpectedly high deficit," he said.

The people McDonald met seem to have a sincere, warm feeling for Americans, he said.

DRAB COUNTRYSIDE

McDonald, who was accompanied by his wife, said that generally, they found the country to be drab, including furnishings, clothing and accommodations.

McDonald's trip was paid by the government. He paid his wife's expenses.

A major economic problem is now facing the country, said McDonald, and one the government is trying to solve.

"The people are buying at a fantastic rate, spending more than their income by dipping into their savings."

"They feel their money will soon be deflated and want to have material things before this happens."

Travel among the Czechs also has been restricted because the government feels there is a danger of a "brain drain" with the country's intellectuals traveling to the west.

McDonald said that, later this week, he intends to meet with the Czech ambassador in Washington to review the impressions of his trip. He said the appointment with the ambassador was made prior to his leaving for Prague.

JOHN H. GIBSON

Labor-Relations Director Is Named

John H. Gibson has been promoted to director of labor relations for Pontiac Motor Division, Personnel Director Thomas C. Dorais announced today. Gibson of 2669 Silverside, Waterford Township, has been general supervisor of labor relations since 1961.

The appointment is effective immediately. Gibson joined Pontiac in 1953 as a college graduate in training. In 1955 he was a suggestion investigator and later that year he transferred to labor relations as a representative. He was made a supervisor in 1960.

A 1951 graduate of Michigan State University, Gibson is married and has four children.

$85,000 Award in Man's Death

The estate of a Detroit man killed 2½ years ago in an industrial accident was awarded an $85,000 judgment yesterday by an Oakland County Circuit Court jury.

The jury returned the verdict and settlement against Gordon Laramie & Sons Inc., Southfield, and Larry Johnson of Farmington, the operator of a crane that fatally injured James R. Ditty on May 28, 1965.

Ditty, 45, died three days later of injuries sustained when he was crushed by a counterweight of the crane which was owned by Laramie.

The accident occurred at the Ewald Steel Co. in Detroit where Ditty was employed.

RENTED CRANE

The damage suit was heard in Oakland County since the defendant corporation has its offices in the county.

Ewald Steel had rented the crane from Laramie to unload steel.

The jury reached its decision after deliberating one hour yesterday and three hours Monday. The case, conducted before Judge Philip Pratt, started Dec. 2.

What to Do if the Flu Strikes

SELF-LIMITING

Berman reports the illness is self-limiting and recovery occurs in three to seven days if complications do not intervene.

Treatment consists mainly of rest, fluids, and aspirin with cough preparations and decongestants as may be indicated.

Antibiotics, Berman said, are of no value in treating the influenza, but do control the complications. Victims are advised to contact their family physicians.

To minimize problems, people should eat properly, dress for the weather, get plenty of rest and stay away from crowds.

The elderly and the chronically ill are advised to seek immunization shots. A limited quantity of vaccine is now available.

'Nixon Didn't Want Rocky in Cabinet'

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller had hoped for a post in Richard M. Nixon's Cabinet, but no direct job offer ever was made, informed sources reported today. Persons closely attuned to the postelection maneuverings between Rockefeller and the president-elect said the main reason Rockefeller was not taken into the Cabinet apparently was that Nixon did not want him.

"The governor dropped a lot of hints that he was available, but he was too proud to ask," one such source said. "Nixon simply did not want to take the hints."

At one point during a face-to-face talk between the two erstwhile rivals for the Republican presidential nomination, Nixon made what one source described as "a passing reference" to the United Nations ambassadorship.

CURRENT JOB BEST

But, the source said, this came at a point when they had agreed that Rockefeller could give the strongest support to the new GOP administration by continuing to serve as governor of New York. Therefore Rockefeller did not regard this as a job offer.

As Nixon prepares to announce his Cabinet selections, the public postures of the two men regarding Rockefeller's omission from the list have been carefully set.

Rockefeller has said and will say that he really believes he can be of maximum public service by staying on as governor.

Nixon will say that he would have been delighted to have Rockefeller's services but deferred to his wishes.

Behind the facade of these comments, however, a different story unfolded in the weeks preceding Nixon's election.

WHAT HAPPENED

Authentic sources say this is what happened:

On election night, Rockefeller went to Nixon's headquarters at New York's Waldorf Astoria hotel to congratulate him on his impending victory and was told that Nixon was resting and would see no one. The governor left in a negative mood.

The next morning, however, Nixon telephoned Rockefeller and thanked him warmly for his campaign support. There was no mention of a Cabinet post.

During the next few days, in response to newsmen's questions, Rockefeller allowed that he would give "serious consideration" to a Cabinet offer. But he took pains to emphasize that he was not seeking a job.

In various ensuing comments, Rockefeller indicated he would be interested in serving either as secretary of defense, secretary of state or—as a distant third choice—U.N. ambassador.

SAT BACK TO WAIT

Rockefeller then sat back for a while to see if there was any reaction from the Nixon camp. There was none immediately.

As the days stretched into weeks, Rockefeller began to get the feeling that his telephone never was going to ring. He confided to one friend, "Dick might not want a strong-minded person like me."

Rockefeller then began to protect himself against a snub by saying publicly that he liked being governor and was inclined to continue in that capacity. Still no word from Nixon.

Late in November, however, John N. Mitchell, who had been Nixon's campaign manager, telephoned George L. Hinman, New York's GOP national committeeman and Rockefeller's closest political adviser. Mitchell asked what was all the talk about Rockefeller about staying on as governor.

Hinman said, Mitchell and Nixon should not put too much weight on those remarks but should bear in mind that Rockefeller had said he would consider a Cabinet offer.

A few days later, on the morning of Nov. 26, Nixon arranged to confer with Rockefeller at the apartment house in which they both live, on New York's Fifth Avenue. Their conversation philosophically but that the episode touched heavily on urban affairs, and Rockefeller—sensing already strained relationship—no job offer was forthcoming—between the two GOP leaders.

Likely Cabinet Choices

By the Associated Press

Here's how President-elect Nixon's Cabinet, to be announced tonight, shapes up:

Secretary of State: William P. Rogers, attorney general in the Eisenhower administration and close friend of Nixon's.

Secretary of Defense: Rep. Melvin R. Laird, R-Wis., a congressional authority on defense spending, is reported the definite choice.

Secretary of Labor: James J. Reynolds, now undersecretary. Another possibility is George P. Schultz, dean of the University of Chicago's graduate school of business.

Secretary of Transportation: Gov. John A. Volpe of Massachusetts.

Postmaster General: Winston C. Blunt, president of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce.

Secretary of the Treasury: David Kennedy, chairman of the Continental Illinois National Bank of Chicago, or Robert H. Anderson, who held the post in the Eisenhower administration.

Attorney General: John N. Mitchell, Nixon's presidential campaign director and a former law partner, is likely.

HUD POST TO ROMNEY

Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare: Lt. Gov. Robert H. Finch of California is considered the likely choice.

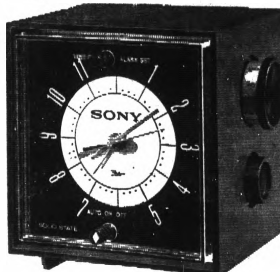

Secretary of Housing and Urban Development: Gov. George Romney of Michigan, according to usually informed Republican officials.

Secretary of Agriculture: Clifford M. Hardin, University of Nebraska chancellor, regarded the choice.

Secretary of the Interior: Gov. Tim Babcock of Montana, defeated for re-election in November, or Gov. Walter F. Hickey of Alaska.

Secretary of Commerce: A mystery, but Maurice H. Stans, budget director in Eisenhower's administration, has been named by some as the likely choice.

Troy Schools Chief Will Resign in June

By TOM GRAY

TROY — Schools Supt. Dr. Rex B. Smith last night officially declared his intent to leave the post of superintendent upon expiration of his contract in June 1969.

Smith, in a letter made public at a board of education meeting, said he was "not interested in renewal" of his contract beyond the June 30 expiration date.

The superintendent had announced unofficially his intention of seeking employment elsewhere several months ago, following long-standing controversy in the district over fiscal and administrative questions.

Last night's statement followed by two months an attempt by three board members to have Smith reassigned as a teacher and to discharge Ronald G. Sitter, business manager.

In his letter, Smith alluded to the controversies, saying, "to my knowledge I have done nothing illegal or improper."

Nor, he added had board members who had been similarly accused.

The state attorney general's office is conducting an investigation into charges of alleged mismanagement of some $857,000 from the 1965 and 1968 schools building and site funds.

Smith also thanked the board for "eight and a half years" of cooperation and assistance during his 10-year term as superintendent and concluded, "Time will tell who has been working in the best interest of the children of Troy."

Several board members praised the superintendent for his leadership and dedication to the district.

PREVIOUSLY OFFERED

Trustee John D. Vagnetti revealed that Smith had offered his resignation to Alex Tunstall, former board president, before the board election in June, but that he withdrew the resignation after the state investigation began and "stuck with" the board.

In other business, the board, in a split vote, went on record as "unanimously supporting" the millage renewal and bond issue requests to be voted on in an upcoming special election.

Trustees Harold A. Jones and Leonard Lucas dissented. Both, along with Trustee James McFarland, opposed the requests when they were originally approved. McFarland voted in favor of last night's motion, which passed, 5-2.

District citizens will go to the polls Jan. 13 in a special election to decide on a proposed five-year renewal of 8 mills for operating expenses and a $6.75-million bond issue for new construction.

In other action last night, the board changed its policy on suspension of students accused of possession of narcotics off school grounds.

McFarland urged the change, under which administrators are instructed to consult with the board before applying suspension.

The previous policy, approved a month ago, gave administrators full power to suspend students in such cases.

McFarland suggested that such a policy might be illegal, in denying a student his right to public education without due process of law.

Following the board's action, Smith revealed that the administration is considering introducing a course to educate students on the dangers of drug abuse.

Sewage Rests In Henrydale Ditch

Pontiac Twp. Trying to Ditch Drain Woes

PONTIAC TOWNSHIP — Township officials have begun steps to relieve drainage problems created by construction of a new ditch along Henrydale Street.

Supervisor Roy Wahl said yesterday that he has contacted Oakland County Road Commission and Health Department officials, so far unsuccessfully, in an effort to get immediate action to improve poor drainage in the area, which has resulted in sewage resting in the ditch, originally intended for storm drainage.

Also, the township board Monday night gave Wahl permission to draw up releases granting the township the right to dye the sewer systems of residences in the area, to find the source of the contaminating material.

The ditch along Henrydale, the supervisor explained, was constructed by the road commission, which he said intended to relieve a drainage problem at Henrydale and Squirrel.

DITCH CONNECTED

Wahl said commission employees, after digging the ditch along Henrydale, connected it to a storm drain-line which runs past the end of Henrydale and connects with a main line at South Boulevard, one block south.

However, the added drainage proved too much for the storm drain line, which has become clogged with weeds and roots, Wahl said.

Normally, the problem would have resulted only in water standing in the ditch along Henrydale. But, Wahl added, sewage lines from some residences north of Henrydale have been draining into the storm drain line, and the effluent is now mixed with the standing water.

Some years ago, the standard practice in construction was to allow sewer and storm water to drain in the same lines. Today, however, the practice is illegal.

Wixom Winner of Board Race Fights Recount

Legal action has been started in Oakland County Circuit Court to block a recount petitioned by a defeated candidate for the County Board of Supervisors.

Charles J. Porter, attorney for Lew R. Coy, winner of the supervisor post from District 27, said he expects to argue the case this week before Judge William R. Beasley.

DYE FEATURED

The problem, Wahl explained, is therefore doubly complicated. If the storm drain line is cleaned, the sewage will flow into the South Boulevard line. So dyes must be added to the residential septic systems to find the source of the sewage as soon as possible.

In other business, the township board again declined to approve Wahl's proposed appointments to the planning commission. Despite two attempts to name new members, the commission thus remains four members short.

Milford Twp. Clerk to Become First Woman Supervisor Jan. 1

MILFORD TOWNSHIP — Mrs. Roger S. Hubbell becomes the township's first woman supervisor Jan. 1. She was chosen by the board to serve the remainder of William Mainland's term which runs till 1970. Mainland has been elected district supervisor.

Mrs. Hubbell of 1335 S. Milford has been township clerk since 1959. Her salary will be $7,500 plus a $1,000 annual travel allowance. She is a Republican.

"Mrs. Hubbell is both capable and experienced. She is fully informed on all aspects of township government. I am appreciative of the considerable help and the fine cooperation which I have enjoyed over the almost five years since I joined her on the township team," commented Mainland.

"As district supervisor I look forward to working with Mrs. Hubbell on the problems of the township and her dealings with the county," he added.

Mrs. Keith Downes of 916 Birdsong will replace Mrs. Hubbell as township clerk. Mrs. Downes has been a clerk in Milford for the last 1 1/2 years.

Darwin Theory Stirs New School Policy

WALLED LAKE — The board of education has adopted a policy concerning the teaching of controversial subjects.

The policy provides for academic freedom and encourages exploration of all ideas, but calls for clear identification of theories — when in fact they are theories — and reaffirms the district's policy to respect personal beliefs of any kind, according to Supt. Dr. George G. Garver.

The policy, presented at a recent board meeting, was drafted by clergy from various area churches and Murray Adams, director of secondary education.

The decision to write such a policy statement resulted from a clergyman's request to Garver that district teachers clearly state that Darwin's theory of evolution is theory — not fact.

The clergyman was not objecting to the theory of evolution in any way. Garver was quick to point out. He was merely requesting that theory be labeled as theory and fact be labeled as fact.

Adams also headed a committee that looked at athletic activities for girls in the secondary and interschool competition for girls.

The board directed the administration to draw up a plan which would move towards that goal beginning with the school year of 1969-70.

A final set of development plans for the athletic facilities at the new Wall Lake Western High School were approved. Competitive bids for the project will be sought.

The Dublin Elementary School PTA received board approval to financially towards buying equipment for a new school program offering homemaking and wood-working activities.

COY, A REPUBLICAN, is attempting to prevent the Oakland County Board of Canvassers from conducting a recount for Ray Lahti.

Lahti, a 10-year veteran of the present board, was defeated by Coy in the Nov. 5 election for the reapportioned district seat by 50 votes, 5,601 to 5,551.

VIOLATION ALLEGED

Coy, 48, of 2942 Loon, Wixom, contends that Lahti violated a state election law by not petitioning within 24 hours after he had filed a petition for a recount.

The statute also provides that a counterpetition must be submitted within 48 hours after the original recount petition was filed.

This allows the other candidate an opportunity to ask for a check of those precincts where his opponent won.

Lahti, 53, of 2240 Nalane, Wixom, filed his petition for a recount on Nov. 25, the deadline for requesting a review of the vote.

His recount has been delayed while the defeated Daylight Savings Time issue was certified by the state, and a decision made by its supporters as to whether there would be a recount.

Says Pentagon Aide Missile Mishap Chance 'Nil'

The chances are "essentially nil" that the missiles to be stored at a projected Pontiac area Sentinel base would accidentally explode, a U. S. Defense Department spokesman said yesterday.

"Stringent precautions are taken to protect the public against any hazard," added the spokesman.

The Defense Department was responding to protests by two university physicists that a Sentinel antiballistic missile (ABM) base was planned on one of three areas sites.

Dr. Alvin M. Saperstein of Wayne State University and Dr. William Hartman of Michigan State University had questioned location of the Sentinel bases so close to heavily populated areas.

AREA SITES MENTIONED

Avon Township, Pontiac Township and Troy have been suggested as possible sites for a link in the new ABM system.

Said the defense department spokesman: "In more than 20 years of nuclear weapons production, transportation, storage and operation, there has never been a nuclear yield from a nuclear weapon involved in an accident."

He pointed out nuclear devices have been located at five points in the Detroit area since 1961.

No decision has yet been made on the exact location of an area Sentinel base. The U. S. Army Corps of Engineers is studying various sites and zapping soil tests.

PONTIAC TWP. KILLER OF EX-WIFE'S BEAU WILL BE SENTENCED

A Pontiac Township man will be sentenced Jan. 16 in Oakland County Circuit Court for the slaying of his ex-wife's boyfriend in August.

Donald Caskey, 32, of 2773 Churchill pleaded guilty yesterday to second-degree murder in the shooting of Leigh S. McFern, 29, of Berkeley.

Caskey was charged with first-degree murder but was allowed to enter a guilty plea to the lesser offense.

After accepting the plea and setting the sentencing date, Circuit Judge James S. Thorburn ordered that Caskey be returned to the Oakland County Jail without bond.

POSSIBLE LIFE TERM

McFern was shot the morning of Aug. 28 in the yard of Mrs. Caskey's home at 2753 Churchill.

Caskey faces a prison term of up to life for second-degree murder. First-degree murder carries a mandatory life sentence.

3 Appointed to Board

NOVI TOWNSHIP — Three board of tax review members were appointed by the Township Board this week for two-year terms starting Jan. 1, 1969.

Appointed were Kenneth Cook of 44239 W. 12 Mile, Peter Romanow of 45241 Grand River and Robert H. Mohr of 41138 Wyngate. The board meets March 4, 5 and 10 to review assessment rolls and hear any complaints on assessments. Board members receive a salary of $20 a day.

Flood Study Report

WOLVERINE LAKE — Flooding conditions in the southeast corner of this village are being studied in preliminary engineering reports now being made. Village Manager Clifford Cottrell reported to the Village Council last night.

William Milliken—Who Is He?

By HOWARD HELDENBRAND

If you were to position yourself curbside and ask the first 10 passersby who and what William G. Milliken is, you'd likely be rewarded with a sequence of blank looks, unless a politician was among those questioned.

But with George Romney expected to relinquish his post as Michigan's governor for a job in President-elect Nixon's Cabinet, the anonymity of Lt. Gov. Milliken could abruptly end. He would become the state's chief executive for the remaining two years of the governor's term and the odd-on candidate for a four-year extension of the job in the 1970 election.

It is no reflection on Milliken that his name (to borrow one of Vice President-elect Agnew's nifties) is not a household word. Like their vice presidential counterpart, lieutenant governors habitually perform their chores in the shadow of the man above, with relatively little public exposure.

This generalization is perhaps diluted a bit by the broadened and more publicized role of vice presidents during the last three presidential administrations. In Milliken's case, he has received unusual prominence due to his assumption of gubernatorial responsibilities during Romney's frequent absences from Lansing.

ALL-TIME RECORD

Incidentally, Milliken set what must be an all-time political record by rejecting some $11,000 of taxpayers' money. The lieutenant governor was entitled to the money because he pinch-hit for the governor as Romney pursued the Republican presidential nomination.

Bill Milliken appears ready and willing to assume the state's top executive office. He appears unquestionably able.

appointment to the State Waterways Commission. Thereafter, he served for six years as Republican chairman for Grand Traverse County.

ELECTED TO STATE SENATE

In 1960 he was elected to the State Senate and became a member of a group of GOP moderates which eventually wrestled control of the chamber from party conservatives. Reelected in 1962, he served as Republican Senate floor leader.

WILLIAM G. MILLIKEN

Two years later he took on powerful House Speaker Allison Green for the nomination for lieutenant governor, and defeated him.

He joined Gov. Romney in the Statehouse as Romney later won his second gubernatorial term. Milliken was reelected in 1966 when the two ran as a team for the state's first four-year executive term, as prescribed by the new constitution.

Perhaps none have greater influence on the public weal than the elected politicians. Yet in far too many instances, those aspiring to public office are merely job seekers or impelled by self-serving motives.

In the face of voluminous works on political science and kindred subjects, never has there been projected the theoretical image of an ideal practical politician — one completely endowed to serve the public in high government office.

But Bill Milliken eminently personifies the prototype.

Contrast Seen in Cost of Living Index

This will be difficult to believe, but the cost of living is lower than it was 10 years ago — on a selective basis, that is.

Television sets and vacuum cleaners, for example, cost 20 per cent less than they did in 1958, according to the Government's Consumer Price Index. Refrigerators have dropped 16 per cent; radios 13 per cent; washing machines, 10 per cent. Drug prices are down 2 per cent. If allowance is made for improvements and extras, automobiles cost about the same as they did 10 years ago.

That doesn't exhaust the list. Portable tape recorders, movie cameras, color film, nylon hose, some wrist watches, girls' handbags, electric drills, clothes dryers and garbage disposal units are cheaper than they were 10 years ago. And all of these products are better made.

By contrast, notes the National Observer, daily hospital service has skyrocketed by 131 per cent since 1957-59. The cost of owning a home has risen more than 26 per cent. Movie admissions are up more than 85 per cent; doctors' fees, 46 per cent; auto insurance, 47 per cent.

It is the soaring cost of "services," where productivity cannot be measured in numbers of widgets stamped out per hour, that is chiefly responsible for the overall rise in the cost of living of 22.9 per cent in the past decade.

Warren W. Abbott

The death at 67 of WARREN W. ABBOTT cost the community a highly respected citizen and a dedicated educator.

MR. ABBOTT became superintendent of Roosevelt School in Keego Harbor in 1930 after serving on its faculty for some years. He relinquished the post in 1953 when the school combined with two others to form the West Bloomfield School District.

Subsequently he joined the Pontiac school system, serving as principal at different schools until his retirement in 1964.

ABBOTT

"DAN" ABBOTT was a schoolman's schoolman. Few in his profession have enjoyed the measure of respect and affection that was accorded him by students and faculty associates alike.

A devoted outdoorsman and an avid follower of competitive sports, his warm and outgoing personality attracted a host of friends and made him a sought-after companion. The high regard in which he was held was recently indicated when West Bloomfield Junior High School was renamed to bear his name.

Warren Abbott left an enviable imprint on the record of his times, and will be deeply missed by all who were privileged to know him.

State Safety Commission's Timely Tire Tips

From the Michigan State Safety Commission comes timely suggestions for readying automobiles against the rugged driving conditions of the winter months that lie ahead.

While the Commission urges that every auto be given a thorough mechanical and "fluids" checkup in preparation for combating weather and highway impediments, it emphasizes the need for particular attention to tires.

"We have stretched our luck with the good weather/conditions and dry pavements of most of the fall season, and many drivers will be caught unprepared for stormy weather and slippery roads," reads the Commission's advisory.

Here are some tire tips it offers:

- If your vehicle is still equipped with regular tires, make sure they have good tread.
- If you put on snow tires, so much the better. They will help pull you through deep, loose snow.

• Studded tires are particularly helpful on ice and hard-packed snow, but be sure that you are not depending on studs that have flipped in service. Get down and check them.

• Whatever your tire preference, don't get caught without tire chains in your trunk. When you need them, you really appreciate them. National Safety Council tests, conducted annually for more than 25 years, show that reinforced tire chains are the best traction aid for severe snow and ice conditions.

No car is safer than its tires, and in no context does the timeless axiom "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure" better apply.

Schools' Financial Peril Is Growing

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

WASHINGTON (NEA) The closing of the public schools in Youngstown, Ohio, from now until Jan. 2 for lack of funds is merely the newest and most dramatic evidence of a growing phenomenon in this nation — the near financial starvation of a year.

The cause of Youngstown's closings was the failure by some 1,500 voters of a tax increase proposition at the polls on Nov. 5.

It failed chiefly in poorer ethnic wards where the many Catholic citizens who send their children to parochial schools dislike the rising burden of public school costs.

But Youngstown seems to be unique only in the fact of its total shutdown. Last year Cincinnati and Los Angeles schools felt the money pinch for lack of new levies. At earlier times, Cleveland and St. Louis have been affected.

MOUNTING TREAT

Education officials who now are checking this matter carefully see it as a mounting threat to the continuity of school for thousands of American children in elementary and secondary grades. How do badly pinched school systems meet their financial emergencies? The responses naturally are immensely varied.

Los Angeles eliminated foreign language teaching and physical education in the elementary grades. Left teacher vacancies unfilled and made classes larger.

Cincinnati schools temporarily did away with football and other extracurricular activities. At the next opportunity, voting parents went to the polls and voted the needed extra levies.

CUTTING CORNERS

Obviously, the larger the school system the more chances there will be for cutting some corners and keeping basic education going.

A common practice is to cut maintenance outlays, though this can be costly in the long run if it speeds the deterioration of school properties.

There are instances where individual sets of parents actually are asked to volunteer contributions to help defray maintenance costs. Though plainly there are numerous repeaters among the communities which suffer financial malnutrition, authorities in education estimate that perhaps as many as 150 have been affected altogether in recent years and suggest that the proportion will rise among the nation's roughly 22,000 school districts.

The laws which compel putting the issue before the voting public on a fairly regular basis are complex and varied, and cannot be detailed here.

SPECIAL SITUATIONS

Situations sometimes are special, as when a large industry paying heavy taxes suddenly shuts up shop and leaves town, throwing a heightened burden on remaining taxpayers.

Areas where state aid to schools is a huge budget factor naturally are having the least trouble. But it is notable that in many states education today accounts for 40 to 50 per cent of total annual budget costs.

Hundreds of major school systems still are not near the financial peril point. But the warning signs highlighted by Youngstown are ominously clear.

David Lawrence Says:

Isolationism Might Lead to War

WASHINGTON — The war protesters of today may prove to be the war makers of tomorrow. That's what happened prior to each of the two world wars.

For it was a mistaken impression abroad that the United States was lacking in resolute LAWRENCE which caused the enemy both times to violate American rights and force this country directly into the conflict.

The current revival of isolationism — the belief that the United States can give up all its commitments around the world, bring back its troops from Vietnam, and in effect, announce that it will no longer give aid to rebel aggression — has been supported by "peace" demonstrations not only in the colleges but in the streets of many of our cities.

Some members of Congress have advocated virtual withdrawal from foreign involvements of any kind.

What is little understood is that dictatorships and irresponsible governments which have substantial military power study carefully the statements made by prominent Americans and watch the course of antiwar demonstrations.

NO RESISTANCE?

Thus, the feeling has grown recently in the realms of communism that the United States will not again resist a takeover of a smaller country by an aggressor regime.

Today there are trouble spots in the Middle East as well as in Southeast Asia.

The Soviets are building up their naval forces in the Mediterranean, and this will make the problems of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization even more difficult if it should be called upon to protect Italy, Greece and Turkey, along with Western Europe, from invasion.

There are signs that the Red Chinese may have become disillusioned with their Soviet allies and could turn out to be a friendlier to the United States than has hitherto been imagined.

MINIMIZATION OF AID

Already Peking is considering a diminution of its aid to the Hanoi government as Moscow emerges as the principal factor in dictating the terms North Vietnam will require for an armistice settlement like that in Korea.

Meanwhile, misunderstanding and miscalculations can grow. Secretary of Defense Clark Clifford, undoubtedly with the best intentions, has just proposed that there be a mutual withdrawal of United States and North Vietnamese troops from South Vietnam starting in the next 40 days.

But nothing was said about how to prevent the Vietcong, which is a military arm of the North Vietnamese, from continuing guerrilla warfare in South Vietnam.

The big questions are whether the North Vietnamese, who can any day go back across the border into South Vietnam, will honor the obligations of an armistice agreement and whether any international force will again defend the invaded country.

Peace in the world today and for many years to come depends on the resoluteness of the United States — whether the American people are prepared to help protect weaker nations around the globe.

Bob Considine Says:

Nixon Needs Some Help in Locating Top Minds

WASHINGTON — I knew President-elect Richard Nixon would come around to it, sooner or later. He's asked me to help him stock his administration with men and women who by their qualities of youthfulness, judgment, intelligence and creativity can make significant contributions to our country.

"I seek the best minds in America to meet the challenges of this rapidly changing world."

Well, folks, the request didn't do anything to shrink my hat size, particularly when Dick's letter noted, "You, as a leader."

Alas, it has now been learned that the same letter went out to all 66,000 persons listed in Who's Who. Thus, Elvis Presley also was asked to browse among his friends and fan clubs in search of the best minds available. So was Casper Stengel

INTERESTING

Who's Who provided the bulk of the selected list of addressees. About 14,000 additional Americans received similar letters. If all those in Who's Who send in recommendations it might be worth looking into what Castro, Kossygin, Khrushchev, Mao Tse-tung and Ho Chi Minh have to say. Also, if the form letters went to everybody whose biography is miniaturized in that noble tome, Nixon got a letter signed "sincerely, Richard M. Nixon."

Each letter enclosed a couple of application blanks to be filled out by chosen applicants for the thousands of executive department seals which will be emptied when LBJ moves out.

There's an inadvertent slight in each of the form letters. The recipient is asked to recommend somebody else and send him or her the application to fill out.

The person who received the letter is presumed not to have "qualities of youthfulness, judgment, intelligence and creativity," or be numbered among "the best minds in America." But maybe he knows somebody like that, right?

I'm sending my two blanks to a couple of guys who will soon be out of work: Hubert Humphrey and Earl Warren.

Voice of the People:

'Disagree With Editorial on Hart, Auto Industry'

In regard to your editorial on Senator Philip A. Hart's stand on the auto industry, I agree with him 100 per cent. You state that most Washington politicians fight for their state industry. I submit that this is in part why our affairs are in such a mess. Instead of trying to correct the deceit and corrupt practices of these obvious rackets, these men take the popular stand and avoid criticism at all costs.

It is obvious Mr. Hart is a man for the people of this State and not a patsy for big business. He realizes he is not a public relations man for the auto industry. It is well and good to put praise where it is deserved but not at the cost of shutting our eyes to these shortcomings.

Again I say hurrah for Hart. We need more men like him and he could use help in cleaning up this mess, instead of criticism. The timing was great.

'Teach Children to Honor Anthem, Flag'

I attended a sports event at a local high school recently and to my great delight the National Anthem was played before the game. But to my utter disgust, it was a guttural, strumming, out-of-tune version similar to the one played at a World Series game in October. Why? I was told it was because students found it hard to sing the proper tune and didn't like it. I've never particularly cared for the arrangement of the stars and stripes in our flag. Let's change that too. And the Great Seal of the United States is difficult to draw. I could master it better if it had a chicken instead of an eagle.

Shall we permit our Country to be lowered to the level of the non-artist, the non-singer, the non-doer? Or shall we insist that our schools teach our children how to honor the flag, sing the National Anthem, and save themselves to the heights of this great country.

We talked to several dealers, and they all agreed it would probably be worth about $2 to $5. To find a buyer (who might give you more), you could run ad in Antiques Trader, Box 827, Keewauke, Ill., 61443. It has a large circulation among collectors, and ads run only 8 cents a word for 10 p. type, 5 cents for smaller type.

Question and Answer

A few months ago I read in your column that people could pay for sand and gravel for their driveways and the County Road Commission would deliver it. I called and was told they don't do this and never have. At the end of the street just before we go into our driveway there are large holes, getting bigger all the time. The only answer we got was if we want it filled, we should do it ourselves. Can you help?

MRS. BETTY SHELBY
669 TIERNEY, HIGHLAND

REPLY

We didn't say the Road Commission would do that for your driveway, we said for the road. However, Mr. Loomis says if holes are in the travel portion of the road, the Commission will sell you the gravel ($1 per yard, minimum 20 yards) and they'll pay for hauling and spreading. Call the maintenance office, and someone will come out to tell you if it can be done and how much is needed. Just be sure to tell them how to reach you and at what hours you're home. Let us know if there are any more problems.

Nixon's Plans . . .

Rome L'Espresso

Once he has made sure George Wallace is not just a passing phenomenon Mr. Nixon will let the Alabama demagogue continue to hold sway over the racists' extreme right and will try to push the Democratic party into the arms of the Eugene McCarthyite left wing, and install the Republican party in the golden center. In so doing, he will be creating a vast coalition of forces and interests similar to what Johnson dreamed of when he launched his politics of consensus, only this time the coalition will be much more solid because it will be much more firmly rooted in youthful forces, and freed of heavy Federal programs.

seen. Situations often arise where a number of signs are posted within a short distance to one another.

Thus, a code of eye-catching color is being put into use across the nation's highways and city streets. The matter where motorists may be traveling, he will know what sign to look for.

A system of symbols, known as "glyphs" in Europe where they originated, also is being tested to give instant instruction to drivers without using words.

The average motorist already recognizes the red, white and blue shield symbolizing Interstate routes. Twelve colors proposed by the Joint National Committee on Uniform Traffic Control Devices also signal a sign's purpose on many Connecticut roads.

Green designates a directional sign ("No Exit 2"). Red denotes a restriction: "stop," "do not enter," or "wrong way," for instance. White on black gives a part-time regulation while black on white shows full-time rules such as "one way."

Yellow is used for caution signs, "slippery when wet," or an intersection cross.

Orange means temporary danger — "men working" — while blue announces available roadside services. Brown will mark scenic and recreation areas.

But the system has its complications because many drivers are color-blind. Red and green, so important in road signals, are the two which the color blind find most difficult to identify.

To compensate, experts add just enough yellow to the red and a bit of blue to the green so that both are distinguishable to everyone.

A uniform sign language not only on a nationwide, but also a worldwide basis, certainly would be a welcome aid to getting today's millions of travelers where they want to go safely and with the least trouble.

Dr. Sheppard Wed Ariane 'Because I Felt Indebted'

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI)—Dr. Samuel Sheppard said he married his second wife, Ariane, who is suing him for divorce, because he felt indebted to her, the Columbus

Citizen Journal said yesterday in a copyrighted article. "I was married two days after my release from the penitentiary — after serving nearly 10 years," Sheppard said. "But I felt very indebted to Ariane. I looked on her as a 'partner saviour.' I felt I had to marry her to justify all she had done for me, or said she had done while I was in prison."

Ariane, a pretty 39-year-old German divorcee, has charged Sheppard with neglect and extreme cruelty. He has also been ordered by the Cuyahoga County Common Pleas Court not to see her.

Sheppard married Ariane two days after he was released from prison in 1964. He was convicted in 1964 of the death of his first wife, Marilyn, whose body was found July 4, 1964, in their suburban Cleveland home. He was acquitted at his second trial in 1966.

"I still feel love for her," Sheppard said of Ariane. "But we are two dominant people and we just aren't compatible. Now I recognize that."

Cavanagh Unhappy With Spiro's Speech

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Detroit Mayor Jerome Cavanagh says he was "discouraged" by some parts of a speech in which Vice President-elect Spiro Agnew called for scaling down "the federal establishment."

Cavanagh, appearing displeased with the speech delivered to some 3,000 municipal officials at the National League of Cities, said:

"I am discouraged by some of it, encouraged by other parts and some of it was just too general to comment on."

OUTSPOKEN OFFICIAL

Cavanagh is one of the nation's most outspoken municipal officials in calling for more federal aid.

In his speech Agnew said he favored a return of control to elected officials of some programs such as the poverty and the model city projects which call for "maximum feasible (citizen) participation."

Mayor John H. Burton of Ypsilanti, a Negro, issued a statement after the speech, saying the 50 Negro delegates to the League gathering were "discouraged and dismayed by the Agnew speech."

Agnew's "announced plan to limit the influence and control of the poor over programs affecting them" was especially distasteful, Burton said.

"VERY ARROGANT"

During a panel discussion at the annual meeting, Cavanagh said, "It is very arrogant for me and I think anyone else to assume that the citizen has no ideas to offer the so-called professionals."

Cavanagh referred directly to Agnew only once, saying he had to "disagree somewhat with our very distinguished and respected vice president-elect."

But he made clear he was responding to an Agnew talk on Monday in which the Maryland governor said participation of the poor should be encouraged "where they can make an effective contribution." Agnew said final policy and planning decisions should be restored to elected officials. "All too often participation of the poor has been construed to mean playing both patient and doctor."

Cavanagh said the real problems were "deprivation and alienation," calling the doctor-patient analogy inappropriate.

GM Reveals Use of Computers to Help Design Autos

WARREN (AP) — General Motors Corp. revealed yesterday that it is using computers to help design automobiles.

The process, first used in said.

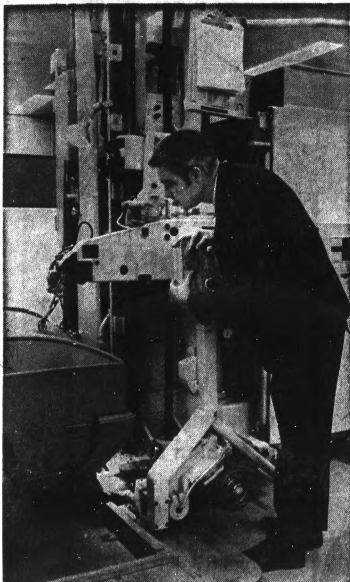

Computer-controlled devices punched tape which runs the fully manual procedures of the computer, the company added, since draftsman and engineers "now have more time for hard-core design problems."

The process was originated at the General Motors Technical Center in Warren and is the joint development of the company and manufacturing developing sections of GM laboratories and participating divisions.

Currently, the system is used by the styling staff of Fisher and the Chevrolet, Buick, and Oldsmobile divisions.

Detroit Boy, 16, Gets Life for Slaying at Cobo Hall

DETROIT (AP) — A 16-year-old boy convicted of stabbing a high school band member to death last year and said to be mentally retarded, was sentenced Tuesday to a life term in prison.

Lane had been expelled from special classes in Detroit's Garfield School. "We were waiting for him to be placed in a school for socially maladjusted children," said Garfield Assistant Principal Paul Avies when he was arrested.

Lane was tried as an adult in the fatal stabbing of George Overman Jr., a high school trombonist and the son of a former Detroit Police Department band director.

The slaying took place in an empty corridor of Cobo Hall in April of 1967 as young Overman sought to have his son committed there.

Ex-Blacksmith, 84, Undaunted by Long Stream of Adversity

It's been an 84-year journey from a modest village in England to a modest frame house at 180 Edison. Still Walter Sugg remains optimistic.

He lost his trade when cars took over from horses, he lost his business when the great depression dictated that the business could not go on, he lost his sight near the end of World War II, he lost his wife just months later and still he remains optimistic and undaunted.

"I've had a happy life," he says with the strength of spirit that must match the strength of his arms back when he was the village blacksmith in Johnston City, Ill.

Sugg and his wife of the past 20 years, Rose, 75, live on a limited pension and have a hard time getting around. She suffers from arthritis and can't drive, but they feel that they get along as well as many people in their age bracket.

DRIVEN TO STORE

A friend drives Mrs. Sugg to the grocery store every week. Sometimes she goes to the store by taxi, "but taxis are hard to get from downtown," she complains mildly.

For outside enjoyment the couple relies mostly on the Sunset Club. "We go to the pot-luck supper every chance we get," Sugg said. "Then they have dances for the blind and we do a fair job of square dancing," he adds.

The big yearly event is the annual family picnic, which has been celebrated for 28 years. Sugg is the patriarch of a family that includes a son, George, of Rochester; three daughters, Mrs. Barbara Swinehart of Ortonville, Mrs. Myrtle Mattingly and Mrs. Elvadean Anderson, both of Waterville Township; seven grandchildren; and 10 great-grandchildren.

To relieve the tedium of day-to-day living, Sugg has a variety of interests. He listens to the radio and television programs, as well as stories and music from recordings from libraries and service organizations for the blind.

LOVE FOR POETRY

He also has a love for poetry, but almost exclusively his own. Sugg has been writing poetry since 1954, two years after his retirement from Pontiac Motor Division.

"He's never even seen anything he's written, but he can remember every word after all these years," Mrs. Sugg said.

Sugg will sit back in his favorite easy chair and recite poems by the hour for interested listeners.

He writes of everyday experiences and of times gone by, of past friends and of nostalgic scenes that he remembers.

FIRST CAR

Among the 40 poems he has written are ones concerning his first car, "The Tin Lizzie," one about an imaginary fellow called "The Tail Twister," a Lions Club member who keeps other members in line by strongly pointing out any defects in the members' treatment of blind persons, and one called "My Typewriter."

Sugg only learned to type-write after he began writing poetry and after he became blind. In the poem, he accuses the typewriter of poor spelling, but at the end recants and admits the blame himself, admitting almost ruefully that "I'm sure I could do much better if only I could see."

In addition to writing letters to his family, Sugg enjoys his wife's reading aloud from two long-time friends, the Cheddar Valley Gazette and the

Walter Sugg, His Wife, Rose, Remain Optimistic

Bridgewater Mercury, two 18 months, I didn't have enough newspapers published in England in the area where he grew up.

Both Sugg and his wife are from England. Mrs. Sugg left London in 1926 and still maintains a loyalty toward her country. "Anybody that can't say anything good about their homeland isn't worth much," she said.

FIRST TRADE

Sugg's first trade was that of a blacksmith, taught to him by his father, also a blacksmith. "I started learning it in 1896, three months before my 12th birthday," he said.

He came to the United States, worked at a canning company in Illinois then set up a blacksmith shop in Johnston City. The shop flourished and prospered, but a blacksmith had to know his business. "Every horse is different and every hoof had to be treated differently," he said.

In the '20s, he was employing two men in the shop and in the middle 30s he put up a new two-story building. Cars came and horses left. "I woke up and couldn't see the American scene, however. 'In my hand in front of my face and can't see this day," he said. "It was glaucous."

Sugg took a different job with Pontiac Motor Division. He began making boxes, something he could do blindfolded. "It would work as hard as any of them, still can't see this day."

His wife died in August 1945. He continued working, going home to eat lunch, and reminiscing. He worked nearly eight years as a blind man before he retired.

MARRIED IN 1945

He met his present wife in Pontiac. She was living in Birmingham and was introduced to Sugg by friends of her brother. They met in September 1947 and were married in June 1948. "I've never regretted it," Mrs. Sugg said. "His family's been very good to me, and I'm very proud of him."

The years have rolled by and there has been trouble. Sugg had a heart attack a few years back, and his nerves slip once in a while.

Three or four years ago he slipped down the basement stairs and broke his shoulder blade and wrist and fractured his pelvic bone. He tries to sit on a cushion now, and his wife won't let him near the basement steps, but for the most part he is used to his house.

BIG SECRET

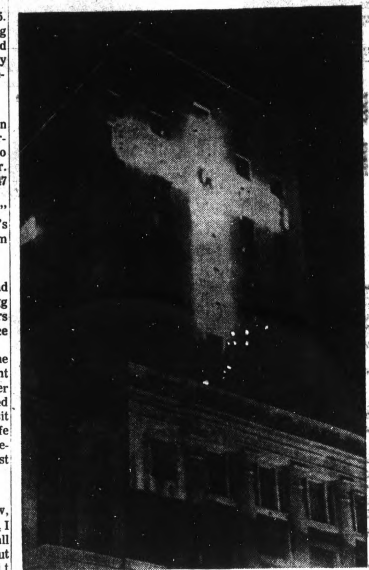

"I wouldn't go anywhere now, I know where everything is, I set up and clean the dishes all by myself. The secret is to put everything back where it belongs," he said.

His love of the homestead doesn't still his spirit for travel, however. He's flown to Texas three times to visit a cousin ("He's the last of a family of 12") and in 1947 flew to England.

"I love flying," Sugg says. "Give me the chance and I'm gone," almost in glee that an opportunity might arise.

His legs are a little stiff, his back is a little hunched and his gray hair is somewhat sparse, but his spirit and outlook are sprightly. He is thankful for life and, in his memory, thankful for his life.

RIGHTS VIOLATED? — A cross, burning six stories high on the Dade County Courthouse, set off a furor in Miami, Fla. Rev. John Papendrew of Miami complained that his constitutional rights were being violated by the cross on a public building. A federal district court, however, ruled it could stay.

Pooch's Pot-Sniffing Triggers Postal Probe

COCOA Fla. (AP) — When Inspector J.A. Callahan, who said sniffing first-class mail is strictly taboo.

Callahan, Geiger's boss in Atlanta, said Tuesday an investigation was under way into the incident which he said violated the policy of the post office to keep unauthorized people out of the inner sanctum of the mail room.

Geiger, meanwhile, wasn't talking.

However, Brevard Sheriff Leigh Wilson had plenty to say.

"When a dog can do your job better than you can," said the sheriff, "that's something to be concerned about."

Wilson admittedly was irked by the adverse reaction of postal officials to the visit by narcotic agents and Duke, pride of the narcotics division.

"They asked us to come over and look around and we did,"

Wilson said. "If they don't want us to come again, that's fine with me."

NOTED BY AGENTS

However, in Atlanta, Callahan said he understood that Wilson's agents—tipped that a shipment of marijuana was being sent to Cocoa Beach—had approached Geiger with the suggestion that Duke look around in the mail room.

At any rate, Duke put his talented nose to work and found three packages which the narcotics agents noted and allowed to continue their way, unopened.

Callahan said that authorities cannot use evidence gleaned in such a matter because the "sanctity of the seal" has been broken in the mail room.

"Duke has made numerous arrests and was instrumental in breaking up a $20,000 drop," said Wilson. Duke had qualified to lose a case for lack of evidence.

Fugitive Charge Faces Cleaver

Bail Set at $100,000 for Missing Militant

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Black Panther leader Eldridge Cleaver is sought on a federal warrant charging unlawful flight to avoid confinement as a parole violator.

Bail on the fugitive charge was set Tuesday at $100,000.

Cleaver vanished Nov. 25, two days before he was to return to state prison as a parole violator. The fugitive warrant was based on an FBI affidavit stating that Cleaver's wife, Kathleen, had drawn $33,000 from their bank account and had flown to New York Sunday.

HER WHEREABOUTS

The FBI said it knew her whereabouts in New York. "It appears she has transported funds which are the fugitive's property for delivery and probable use outside the state," said the affidavit by FBI agent Fred Ligarde.

The withdrawn money presumably was earned from Cleaver's best-selling book, "Soul on Ice." His parole from a 13-year sentence for attempted murder—of which he had served eight years—was revoked last spring after an exchange of gunfire between Black Panther and Oakland police.

He posted $50,000 bail on the Oakland charge. He is charged with assault with a deadly weapon and intent to murder. He and two policemen were injured. Black Panther treasurer Bobby Hutton, 17, was killed in the melee.

College Head OKs Demand to End Sit-In

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Mrs. Mary Bunting, president of Radcliffe College, brought a daylong sit-in at the school to an end by telling 27 Negro students she approved seven of their eight demands, and was considering the eighth.

The girls, members of the Ad Hoc Committee of Black Students at the female adjunct to Harvard College, wanted at least 30 Negro students admitted next year, a Negro admissions officer and other pledges.

Mrs. Bunting said of the suggested Negro quota, "I am deeply concerned, and think it important to increase the number of black students."

However, she refused to commit herself to a quota of 30 Negro students, but said the college would hold admissions open into the summer in hopes of finding qualified Negro students.

Mrs. Bunting told the students the college was seeking a Negro admissions officer by Jan. 15.

The other student demands were new admission policies, which were not listed in detail; recruiting in "new territory" to obtain students from "diverse backgrounds"; a broader preadmission program; increased funding for recruiting, with $5,000 set aside solely for black recruiting; reevaluation of the process of computing financial aid programs; and a work-study program for black students in admissions and recruitment.

55 Locomotives to Penn Central

NEW YORK (AP) — C.I.T. Leasing Corp. says it has leased 55 diesel-electric locomotives valued at more than $13 million to Penn Central Co.

Leasing of these units brings to 165 the number of locomotives acquired in this manner from C.I.T. by Penn Central and its predecessor roads.

Win or Lose It's a Whole Family Affair

By JUNE ELERT

What kind of woman would oppose her own husband for a township trusteeship? And what kind of man would let her do it?

All over the country people are probably asking these questions, wherever the Republican victory of Mrs. Ronald Drake over her Democratic incumbent husband has been reported.

(The Pontiac Township contest outcome has been picked up by the wire services and spread nationwide.)

About a month after the election, I went to find out.

Marjorie Drake, the "WINNAH!" is petite and pretty. She laughs a lot. Of herself, she says, "I'm an outspoken person. I believe in telling people what I think. . . I like to read people's eyes and expressions. . ."

The interview went like this:

Q: "Is the war over? Have you declared a truce?"

A: (Laughter—a joyful noise) "Everybody is asking that. Our friends don't understand how I could do it to him, either. But he's a good loser. We love each other and I suppose that's why he is able to accept it graciously."

Q: "What did he say when you announced you were going to oppose him?"

A: "It wasn't really that way at all. Ron had been a trustee for four years. We are both interested in politics. He was all for my getting on the Board too, because we don't differ much on local issues.

"But, you see, we didn't really expect that I would win. I wanted to get my name before the voters at this election so I could run again in 1970, when I thought I would have a chance."

"Actually, I think I got in because Nixon got in. The straight ticket voters did it."

Q: "Do you suppose your husband encouraged you because he was so confident of his own election, he felt you were no threat?"

A: (Laughter again) "No, no. He campaigned hard. We both did. They were so disappointed when he lost, I hated to tell them."

Q: "And now that it's over, how is he taking it?"

A: "Oh, he's just marvelous. He's taking a lot of kidding. But I know he's glad for me and he's still just as interested in township affairs as he ever was and I know he'll help me every way he can."

Q: "Where do your political differences begin?"

A: "I would say at the state level."

Q: "Do you take his advice?"

A: "Well, he doesn't really give me advice. We discuss things. Sometimes we agree and sometimes we don't. We listen to each other."

Togetherhness has been the theme for this couple since their marriage. They built their home together, starting with an oil-space-heated garage on the lot they owned on Allerton Street. A small addition to house laundry equipment was next, then the house itself.

About two years ago, they added the lovely paneled family room, where, Marjorie says, they really live.

The togetherhness will continue with Marjorie carrying on the fight Ron had been waging against expansion of the Oakland County Airport which, she says, is not desired by the majority of the township's citizens.

Also, she will continue his work against the establishment of a refuse dump on Bald Mountain.

The togetherhness extends to home, family, outside interests and hobbies including reading, used book sales, antiques and, presently, painting, in which they are tyros, but at which both are working and encouraging each other.

And even to politics—at the local level.

Romney Lauds Group's 'Status of Women' Study

LANSING (UPI) — Gov. George Romney told the Commission on the Status of Women Tuesday it did a "superb job" in pointing up areas that need further legislation and in the overall study of the position of women in Michigan.

Romney spoke during a luncheon meeting which culminated the commission's first year of study.

By legislative act, the 30-member commission will be reorganized for additional study and will be financed by the state. The retiring commission was funded from the governor's special budget.

The commission was established in the fall of 1967 to investigate charges of discrimination against women in employment, recommend legislation to insure equal treatment for women and seek ways to strengthen home life.

OPEN HOUSING

Mrs. H. J. Liverance of Bloomfield Hills, commission chairman, said the final recommendations include support of open housing and sex education laws.

The group opposed elimination of work hour limitations for women, claiming "many women who work do so because of economic necessity and most of these also carry heavy home responsibilities."

"Unlimited hours may jeopardize their ability to hold a job."

The State Occupational Safety Standards Commission recently removed restrictions on women's working hours.

The commission has begun a roster of women qualified for appointive governmental posts, Mrs. Liverance said.

and has initiated programs to further volunteer guidance for girls in junior and senior high schools.

The commission urged expanded services in the area of family planning. In its report, the group said: "In order to strengthen family life, we believe that every woman has the right to determine how many children she shall bear and how they shall be spaced; that she has the right to make this decision without duress and according to her personal belief and convictions."

"Thank you, Daddy, thank you, Daddy," Debbie Gray kept repeating happily, after her father, Kenneth, of Milwaukee, Wis., returned to the scene of a Thanksgiving Day accident to find her lost security blanket. Despite cold, wind, mud, and a two-mile walk, Daddy said, "It was worth it."

Yule Concert Set by Musicale

The 50-member chorus of Birmingham Musicale will sing the "Missa Brevis in D" by Benjamin Britten, plus Christmas carols of English, Czech, Ukrainian and French origin at the club's December meeting in Redeemer Lutheran Church Thursday.

The open meeting will begin at 1 p.m. Mrs. Richard H. Buchanan, assistant organist and carillonneur of Christ Church, Cranbrook, will accompany the "Missa".

Mrs. Philip G. Whelan is piano accompanist for the group which is directed by Mrs. David Lawrence, organist and choir director of Northminster Presbyterian Church, Troy.

Also on the program will be an organ presentation of music from the "Noel Fantasies," played and written by Mrs. Sharon Elery Rogers, organist and director of music at All Saints Episcopal Church, Detroit.

Myrtle Waggner, assistant organist of Redeemer Lutheran Church, will perform with Mrs. Rogers in a piano-organ selection.

Mrs. John H. Schmidt is program chairman. Mesdames H. S. McFarland and Irwin Reed are cochairing the tea to be held following the program.

Lynda, Husband Together Again

By JOHN T. WHEELER
Associated Press Writer

BANGKOK (AP) — President Johnson's elder daughter and her Marine husband from Vietnam were reunited in Bangkok, two days after their first wedding anniversary. But judging from Lynda Bird Robb's radiant face, she didn't mind the delay too much.

Maj. Kenneth Robb flew to Bangkok from Vietnam where he served six months as a rifle company commander and now is assigned to a headquarters in Da Nang.

There was little doubt here that if Lynda and Robb had wanted an anniversary reunion on Monday, it could have been arranged. But Lynda made plain earlier that she and Robb would be treated no differently than any other Marine couple, capturing what happiness they could on the regular five-day "rest and recreation" leave American GIs get from the war zone.

Among other things Lynda brought to Bangkok were pictures of their five-week-old daughter, whom Robb has never seen. The baby was left at the White House with the President and Mrs. Johnson.

This Mother-to-Be Teen Kept Imprisoned at Home

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: This is a family problem. My sister (I'll call her Mary) is 14 years old and pregnant. Mary isn't going anywhere to have her baby. She's staying at home and our parents plan to keep it.

Mom insists that Mary stay in the house all the time where nobody will see her. All her friends know, so why hide? Mary doesn't like to be cooped up in the house all day and this is causing lots of arguments. Mary isn't allowed to have any of her friends over, which keeps her lonely and unhappy.

What do you think of Mary's going out of the house occasionally?

MARY'S BIG SISTER

DEAR SISTER: If all Mary's friends know of her condition, the neighbors probably know, too. So there's not much sense in hiding. All expectant mothers, married or otherwise, need fresh air and exercise.

And while I don't recommend that Mary flaunt her condition, neither should she be "cooped up" and hidden—like a criminal.

DEAR ABBY: I do not drive an automobile, and all my friends know it. Now, Abby, it stands to reason that I have to depend on my friends for transportation to club meetings, church doings, and other social events. So why must I telephone my friends and have to beg a ride?

Since they are well aware that I attend all the things they do, wouldn't it be much more gracious if they were to call me and offer a ride? When I call and ask them for a ride they are always courteous, but I really would appreciate it if I didn't have to call and beg.

NO NAME, PLS.

DEAR NO NAME: Most people (even the most gracious) are too pre-occupied with their own business to guess who needs transportation. Don't be so sensitive. If you need a ride, call someone you think is going and ask for a lift.

If you are prompt, pleasant and don't inconvenience the driver by taking him out of his way, you'll always be a welcome rider. (P.S. Have you ever shown your appreciation to those who have consistently chauffeured you by giving a small gift?)

DEAR ABBY: We received an invitation to a wedding reception on which was added, "BRING THE BEVERAGE OF YOUR CHOICE." We were shocked. We have never heard of this before. Has something new been added to wedding receptions?

PUZLED

DEAR PUZZLED: I've heard of "BYOB" (Bring your own bottle) parties, but this takes the wedding cake!

DEAR ABBY: That letter in your column concerning men who date widows and divorcees—hoping to make time with them right away—sure hit home with me.

I was in that boat not long ago. When one of those conceited slob would ask, "What have you got to lose?" I'd say, "Just you, Charlie, and that's not much."

MARRIED (HAPPILY) NOW

CONFIDENTIAL TO "CHARLENE E'S MOTHER IN BELMAWR, N.J. Your 17-year-old daughter wrote, 'My mother isn't just a mother. She's my very best friend.'"

No daughter could ever pay her mother a finer compliment. I salute you!

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, in care of The Pontiac Press, Dept. E-600, P.O. Box 9, Pontiac, Mich. 48056 and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Mrs. Hubert Humphrey (right) and her guest, Mrs. Spiro Agnew, wife of the vice president-elect, have tea together in the former's apartment. Mrs. Humphrey presumably briefed her successor on some of the duties she might be expected to perform in the future.

In one of his favorite hair styles Pierre Henri, style director of the Saks Fifth Avenue Beauty Salons, moves the hair straight back into a giant chignon, bound up by small braids. Tender little curls surround the hairline in front, a pretty extension of the Gogynesque feeling.

PAMELA PERRY SUTTMAN

A June wedding is planned by Pamela Perry Suttman of Durnham Drive and Kenneth Karl Kindt. Their parents are Mr. and Mrs. Ben J. Suttman Jr. of Miamisburg, Ohio and the Karl F. Kindts of Biggers Drive, Avon Township. The couple are alumni of Heidelberg College and the University of Detroit, respectively.

Schools Announce Students' Honors

From Eastern Michigan University comes news of the recent election of Keith R. Johnston Jr. as vice president of the executive committee of the Board of Directors of Wesley Foundation of EMU.

Keith, son of the senior Mr. and Mrs. K. R. Johnston of Chippewa Road, is the first student to be elected to the board.

CEDARVILLE
Bruce McDonald of Cedarville College, Cedarville, Ohio, has been named to the 1968-'69 edition of "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges."

His parents are the John T. McDonalds of Lake George Road, Oakland Township.

NAZARENE
Also listed in the annual directory of distinguished students is Nazarene College, Kankakee, Ill., senior Marilyn Kay Glancy, daughter of the Earl C. Glancys of Highland.

MARION COLLEGE
The operatic debut of Penn Hart was noted with her performance in the recent Marion College offering of the comic opera, "Gianni Schicchi" by Puccini.

Fete Volunteer From Library

Mrs. William Poland of East Duell Road, Oakland Township, was honored at a coffee Tuesday for her selection as "Volunteer of the Week" of United Community Services of Metropolitan Detroit. Mrs. Poland's efforts in behalf of Oakland University's Friends of the Kresge Library governed the choice.

Mrs. Richard G. Pearce of Birmingham, executive secretary of the "Friends" group, hosted the affair.

Condition Hair for Winter Beauty

Whatever hair style you select, it should be in top condition to look best. At this time of year that means overcoming the harsh effects of sun, salt and chlorine, often obvious after months of summer fun.

Conditioning treatments and scalp massage play a vital part in overcoming summer-shocked hair. To give yourself an effective scalp massage, simply spread the fingers of both hands and use them to move the scalp in tiny circles. It's important that the fingers stay firmly in place while the scalp moves.

The presentation given on the Marion, Ind. college campus, marked the first student endeavor in the opera field.

Penny is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frances Hart of Judah Road, Orion Township.

MUSKINGUM
Selections by Mozart and Schubert highlighted a vocal recital presented recently at Muskingum College, New Concord, Ohio, by Linda Schultz. A junior, Linda is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald E. Schultz of Rattalee Lake Road, Springfield Township.

AMERICAS
Susan Vantine will soon round out fall studies at the University of Americas in Mexico City where she is completing her senior year. Susan's parents are Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Vantine of Rene Drive, White Lake Township.

Christmas Trim Given Museum by Members

Members of the Detroit Historical Society Guild and their families will begin decorating the Detroit Historical Museum in its annual Christmas dress Sunday.

The theme "Christmas Is Peace" will be carried out with greenery and a tree decorated with universal peace symbols, at the Kirby Street entrance.

The fine period rooms dating from 1760 to 1900, on the second floor, will also be decorated.

There will be a nativity scene at the entrance to the Museum's new addition, Kresge Hall. Cochairmen for the affair are Mrs. John Pretzel Jr. of Bloomfield Hills and Mrs. John Monks Jr. of Oak Park.

Polly's Pointers

Clean Iron Skillet

DEAR POLLY — I use iron but it takes several applications of skillet for frying. I want to tell and must be done outdoors in Bev that she can remove the fresh air. Use only on the built-up grease on the outside of inside of the pans. Do not get hers by building a good, hot fire this on anything else, so spread in the fireplace or the back lots of old newspapers under yard grille and then putting the your work.

To clean rust from the inside, rub repeatedly with a salt-free oil. I also oil them after each use and then wipe well with a paper towel. They can be cleaned if you work at it.

Do you have a book of household hints and how could I get one if you do? — JERRY

DEAR JERRY — By book of Pointers is sold in paperback editions on many newsstands or it can be ordered by writing to Polly's Homemaking Pointers, in care of The Pontiac Press at P.O. Box 468, Chicago, Ill. 60600. Please enclose 75 cents for cost of book and handling — POLLY.

DEAR POLLY — I want to tell Bev that if she is going to use grandmother's iron skillet she should clean it a grandmother did. When you have raked up a pile of leaves this fall, place your pan in the center of the pile, burn the leaves and also burn away the rust and baked-on grease. — MRS. W. C.

DEAR POLLY — My Pointer is so simple I am almost embarrassed to send it in, but it does save steps. There was an empty hole in my bathroom toothbrush holder and I have put a teaspoon in it so I do not have to make a trip to the kitchen when I want to take medicine. — BETSY

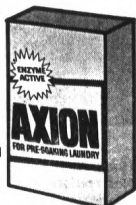

When sewing a dress with kimono sleeves, sew a one-fourth-inch-wide, four-inch-long strip of selvage in the underarm seams. Sleeves will not rip or tear under your arm.

By Eunice Farmer

Dear Eunice Farmer,
Is there a way to finish a hem in a coat without the stitches showing from the right side?

Mrs. S. T.

Dear Mrs. S. T.:
The stitches at the hemline may be eliminated by adding a strip of light-weight interfacing fabric to the hem of your coat or suit and fastening the hem to this.

Use a bias strip of woven interfacing about the same weight as muslin. Be sure it is at least half inch wider than the width of the hem. Baste this strip of bias fabric to your garment; the edge of the bias should be exactly on the hemline marks of your garment. Catch stitch this edge of the bias strip to your garment.

Next, fold the hem of the garment in place over the bias strip, baste near the fold to keep it even and straight, and press lightly in place. (Be sure to use silk thread for this basting. If you are working with fleshy fabrics or broadcloth finishes in wool, the silk thread will eliminate marks when pressing.)

Next, catch stitch the edge of the hem to the bias strip only; the bias strip should extend at least half inch above the width of the hem. Catch stitch the edge of the bias interfacing to the garment seams only. This will eliminate the need for placing hemming stitches on the entire hem, which would be sure to show from the right side. The lining of your coat will keep the hem in place and prevent it from pulling down.

The bias strip of fabric will give the necessary body to the hem of any garment and prevent it from becoming limp and stretched out of shape. One of those important couturier touches!

TAILOR TRIX WINNER

This week's Tailor Trix pressing board winner is Mrs. Phillip Standley, San Diego, Calif., for the following suggestion.

I have a little trick for concealing shoulder straps, which I have never seen in your column and would like to pass on to others. I use it constantly, summer and winter, and it works beautifully for sleeveless dresses as well as those with sleeves.

Instead of fastening down a neck facing all the way around, I only fasten it down across the front and the back centers, leaving the sections across the shoulders open.

I place a snap at the shoulder seam on the facing, as well as the garment itself. After slipping my dress on, I tuck my straps under the facing and snap the facing down. Straps never creep into sight. This trick will enable a gal to wear a regular bra instead of a strapless one with most low-necked formals or cocktail dresses.

Dear Eunice Farmer,

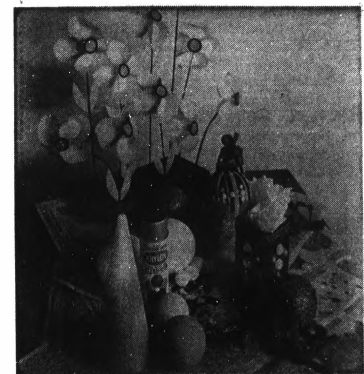

Recently I made a suit of imported Scottish tartan fabric, an even-plaid, each square approximately four inches. I thought I had everything matched perfectly, but when I set the sleeves in the armholes, I found that they didn't match the plaids of the jacket. Would you please tell me if there is some rule about matching the sleeves and the body of the jacket?

Mrs. R. W. B.

Dear Mrs. R. W. B.:
It sounds like you thought of almost everything, except where the sleeves should match. You never try to match the vertical plaids, just the horizontal lines. When placing the pattern on the fabric, use the notch in the front section of your pattern at the armhole as the guide to your plaid.

When placing the sleeve in position to cut, place the front notch of the sleeve on the same horizontal line as the front notch of the jacket front. Unfortunately, you will not be able to match the notch at the back armhole, but the front is the most important.

Always remember that a most attractive sleeve in a plaid suit or coat is to cut the sleeve on the bias of the plaid. It is not only decorative, but eliminates the need for matching completely. (Sounds like the coward's way out, but it is actually a detail used by many designers and the better coat and suit manufacturers.)

Hi-Fi Speakers in New Design

An electronics firm provided a thin-line, swing-away solution to a home decor problem when it unveiled a decorator-designed, water type hi-fi speaker system. The manufacturer says it matches in tonal quality most of the bulky, box speakers now deployed around a home.

The speakers are about as thick as a picture frame and attractively encased in a simulated oiled walnut frame and a cane grill (plastic fabric). The unit can be swung out when playing, swung back against the wall when silent.

Attended by Sherry Williams and Edward Riley, the couple was wed earlier that evening in Bethel United Church of Christ.

The daughter of the Paul Speeds of Pontiac Lake Road chose a traditional ensemble of taffeta and Chantilly lace.

Her bouquet was comprised of white rosebuds centered with a salmon rosebud corsage.

Susan Williams, Mrs. Edward Riley, Gary Taylor, Kenneth Waker, Randy Reynold and John McCoy completed the wedding party. The bridegroom is the son of the James F. Taylors of Pontiac Lake Road.

This special exhibit of Flowing Blue china was loaned by Rex Lamoreaux of Fairgrove Street for the Oakland County Pioneer and Historical Society's "re-creation of a Victorian Christmas" at the Gov. Moses Wisner home on Oakland Avenue. Marcia Starkey, curator, lights the tall candles on either side of the Christmas centerpiece. The blurring of color was achieved by exposure of the stone-china-based pottery to a chlorinated atmosphere in the kiln. Several similar patterns are represented in this exhibit which continues through Friday.

States Women's Rights

LANSING (UPI) — Quick answers to such questions as "Is my second husband responsible for my child?" or "What laws cover me if I do housework in private homes?" are now available for Michigan women in a compact 12-page booklet just published.

The booklet is meant to acquaint women with laws which most directly affect them and is put out by the governor's Commission on the Status of Women. It is available to anyone who writes to the Michigan Women's Commission at the executive office here.

The publication covers laws on marriage and divorce, a married woman and her property, social security, women who work and women as citizens.

It doesn't stay with the usual questions, such as who is responsible for family support, but goes one step further and asks, "What type of support must the husband supply?"

According to the leaflet, this support includes "necessaries" such as food, clothing, medical care, a place to live and other things consistent with his income and position. An interesting point, according to the leaflet, is that a wife can disinherit her husband in her will, but a husband cannot entirely disinherit his wife by a will.

For a woman with an illegitimate child, the publication advises that she is entitled to custody of her child if she is fit to care for it, and adds

"generally the father is liable for support of the child."

And does a second husband have to automatically assume the responsibility for a child? No, the publication stated: "He must make it clear that he voluntarily assumes such responsibilities."

Young mothers try to do many things but are constantly interrupted to care for the needs of infants and young children, said Dr. Jacobson.

It's a good idea to plan your daily activities with your young child in mind she noted. Try not to plan the day so full that you can't allow for interruptions. Remember to plan for time to play with him. You will get to know his needs, reactions and personality. And, he will learn from you.

Expect Three Plays

After several years of European 'exile' and barnstorming, Brecht's version of Sophocles' the iconoclastic troupe is headed for Detroit and three performances in the Art Institute auditorium Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Led by Julian Beck and integrated with pop-culture imagery, the ages and an anthology of group earned a reputation as an adventurous and radical ensemble soon after its establishment in 1948.

During their four years in Europe, following seizure of the Living Theatre's last home in New York by the Internal Revenue Service for tax arrears, the ensemble collectively created four new works.

Three of these will be performed during Living Theatre's Detroit Institute of Arts appearance.

Thursday — "Mysteries and Smaller Pieces," a series of apparently unrelated sections.

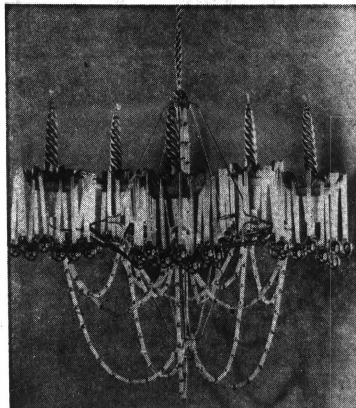

Friday — "Antigone," Brecht's version of Sophocles' play, performed with particular relevance to the act of civil disobedience in our own time.

Saturday — "Frankenstein," the familiar Mary Shelley novel, the ages and an anthology of group earned a reputation as an adventurous and radical ensemble soon after its establishment in 1948.

The object of Living Theatre is, in Julian Beck's words, "to break down barriers, to change the spectator from someone who passively watches to someone who actively participates."

Tickets for all three 8:30 p.m. performances are now available at the Art Institute Ticket Office, Hudson's, Grinnell's and Wayne State University.

The three-day engagement in Detroit is sponsored jointly by the Theatre Arts Department of the Detroit Institute of Arts and University Center for Adult Education.

CHRISTMAS CHANDELIER

Parts for Chandelier Are Common Items

Hand made decorations give a home a warm glow during the holidays, particularly those unusual designs created from ordinary household materials.

This beautiful holiday chandelier, for example, is made from 5 wire coat hangers, 5 corks, 5 bottle caps, 5 cardboard and 10 aluminum tart pans, 65 plastic straws, 80 Christmas balls and 120 beads.

Here's how it's done: Take 5 wire coat hangers same size and type. Straighten hooks to make sharp "L" shape. Place hangers together with hooks facing same direction and bind together at top and bottom with thin wire.

Stand hangers on end, fan out so that hooks are equidistant apart forming a star shape when looked down on. Place a cork (about 2" deep) on each hook.

Take 10 aluminum tart pans (4" diameter). Cut leaf pattern into pan rims — 8 petals each.

For each holder, place two of the aluminum pans in a cardboard tart pan for bottom reinforcement. Attach all three to cork with thumbtack. Bend bottom row of petals back slightly and move them so that they alternate with petals of inner tin.

Glue a bottle cap in the center of each for the candle holder. Spray entire assemblage with gold enamel paint.

WIRE STRAW

Take a piece of thin wire about 1½ times the circumference of the circle formed at the necks of the hangers. Twist one end around the neck of one hanger, string with 4 pieces of straw 4" long, alternating with beads.

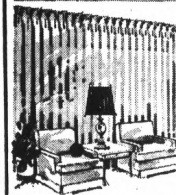

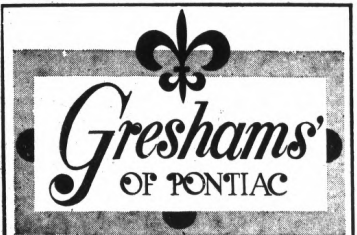

Wrap wire around neck of next hanger and continue in same way around the chandelier.

Cut 40 plastic straws in half to make hanging ornaments from petal points. Take an awl (or large needle) and pick holes in top and bottom of each straw and each petal point.

Insert Christmas ball hanger loop in bottom holes and place ball on hanger. Attach straw to petal with wire.

String 1" straw lengths on heavy sewing thread, alternating with beads and attach in swags to hangers to resemble crystal chandelier beading.

Tie heavy gold cord or ribbon at top, secure candles in holders by setting in warm tallow.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — How the field: "Within 15 or 30 minutes after a man is shot, he's in a totally equipped hospital. There's almost no need for a field surgeon any more."

"Sometimes they're very shy," reports actress Tippi Hedren, "because they're sort of turned off thinking about girls. They know they're going to be there four or five months and so, they figure, why think about girls too much?"

After Tippi thawed them out by initiating the conversation, their first question usually was: "How are the girls back home dressing?"

"I told them," she laughs, "everybody's wearing miniskirts."

SECOND TRIP

Miss Hedren's 12-day Vietnam tour, just completed with Joey Bishop, was her second in two years. By plane and helicopter they made about 15 stops a day "in the boonies as they call them (boondocks), encampments of about 200 guys who don't see anybody for months."

Joey told jokes while Tippi, who played in "The Birds" and "Marnie" and who neither sings nor dances shook hands and talked — "to let them know Americans are thinking of them and are in back of them."

She visited wounded men in hospitals everywhere and found fewer of them there. She thinks the reason is faster evacuation to hospitals back home. She marveled at fast attention in

Downed Pilot's Wife Keeps Hoping

ALEXANDRIA, La. (AP) — Mrs. Hayden J. Lockhart has a simple wish for Christmas. She wants her husband, a prisoner of war in North Vietnam for the past 3½ years.

And she hopes for better luck than in the past, when Christmas packages mailed to her husband have been returned by the North Vietnamese.

"My hopes are higher this year for several reasons," she said after mailing another package to Lockhart.

"The talks in Paris have naturally buoyed my optimism, as has the recent bombing halt called by President Johnson."

Also the fact that the North Vietnamese did show signs of a more humanitarian outlook by releasing six prisoners this summer has given me new hope of my package getting through to Hayden," she said.

Her husband, a captain, was the first Air Force pilot shot down over North Vietnam. He has been held captive since March 2, 1965, when his F100 fighter-bomber was downed.

Mrs. Lockhart had help preparing the annual gift package this year. Jampie, a 3½-year-old son Hayden never has seen, enclosed a greeting card in the package which included gum, cigarettes, cigars, a toothbrush, a comb, a deck of cards and other items.

"He talks about his daddy flying planes, 'I think he understands Hayden's imprisonment about as much as a child his age can.'"

FOUR PICTURES
The North Vietnamese have allowed only four pictures of the boy to reach Capt. Lockhart, she said, and letters have been almost as scarce.

"I've received just six letters from Hayden during the time he's been a prisoner," she said. April, had been written in December. The last letter, received in December 1967, she said.

RAIL UNIONS MERGE — Shaking hands in Chicago after the merger of four railroad unions was announced yesterday are (from left) Charles Luna, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen; Clyde Lane, president of the Order of Railway Conductors and Brakemen; H. S. Gilbert, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers; and N. P. Spiers, president of the Switchmen's Union of North America. Luna is chief executive officer of the newly formed United Transportation Union.

Dem Says Nixon Blocked Court Post for Goldberg

WASHINGTON (AP) — President-elect Nixon learned President Johnson planned to appoint Arthur Goldberg as chief justice and blocked it, says Sen. Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio.

"He knew that President Johnson planned to appoint Arthur Goldberg as chief justice, because LBJ so informed him," Young said in a statement Tuesday.

"Despite this," Young said, "behind the President's back, he picked up the telephone to Earl Warren and asked him to remain as chief justice until June."

Nixon's headquarters in New York announced recently that Chief Justice Warren had agreed at the president-elect's request to stay on until the present Supreme Court session ends in June.

Young said Nixon will not become president until Jan. 20 and therefore had no power to ask Warren to remain on the court or to accept Warren's resignation.

"This is the right of President Johnson, who is still President of the United States," Young said, "and I hope he will demonstrate this fact by proceeding with his plan to appoint former Associate Justice Goldberg to be chief justice of the United States."

PIN-WORMS A FAMILY AFFAIR

Pidgeting, nose-picking, a tormenting rectal itch are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms... ugly parasites that medical experts say infect 1 out of every 8 persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it.

To get rid of Pin-Worms, they must be killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P-W Tablets do... and here's how they do it:

First — a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then — Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredient goes right to work — kills Pin-Worms quickly, easily, and painlessly. Don't take chances with dangerous, highly contagious Pin-Worms which infect entire families. Get genuine Jayne's P-W Vermifuge... small, easy-to-take tablets... special sizes for children and adults.

Sato to Push Okinawa Return

TOKYO (AP) — Prime Minister Eisaku Sato said today his government will press for the return of Okinawa from the United States but indicated he will try to work out mutually satisfactory arrangements for the American bases there to remain.

"I will continue to make every possible effort for the early return of Okinawa on the basis of mutual trust with the United States and with due cognizance of security requirements," he told a special session of the Diet, Japan's parliament.

It was Sato's first major policy address since his reelection. Okinawa is a major staging area for Vietnam-bound troops and supplies and even before the war was one of America's chief bases in the Far East. Japan's powerful left-wing groups want to eliminate the bases, but it is generally understood that Sato wants them maintained on the same terms as the U.S. bases in Japan — without nuclear weapons and with Japan having a voice in their operation.

PRO-U.S. STANCE — Underlining his government's pro-Western stance, Sato said he would "continue to maintain friendly relations with the United States" under the Nixon administration "and cooperate with her in pursuing the common goal of world peace and stability in Asia."

A few hours after Sato's speech, Chobyo Yara, the new leftist chief executive of Okinawa and the Ryukyu island chain, told the Tokyo foreign correspondents' club "the time is ripening" for the return of Okinawa.

Although Yara gave the impression he is prepared to leave the negotiating to Sato, he said he anticipated "an adjustment" of Okinawa security issues between the United States and Japan.

Yara said his people are op-

Building Storm Hits Northwest; Cold Stings East and South

By the Associated Press
A late-autumn storm building across the Pacific Northwest today while zero-degree cold stung the Northeast and once again scattered frost into the south.

The Pacific storm, which slammed ashore Tuesday with peak winds of 105 miles an hour along the southern Oregon coast, flung rain as far south as

Los Angeles. The Oregon community of Cape Blanco, hit hardest by the winds, also was soaked with six inches of rain through Tuesday.

Moving inland, the rain turned to heavy snow in mountain areas of the Northwest.

Heavy-snow warnings were out for northwestern mountain sections, and cold-wave warnings were issued early today for the northern portion of Montana east of the continental divide. As far south as Virginia and in to the 20s across the Carolinas and Georgia.

Across the country, zero cold gripped parts of Pennsylvania, New York and New England for night. In contrast, mild, almost balmy weather fanned over the Plains and Central Rockies. Denver, at 52 degrees, was only slightly cooler than Miami during the pre-dawn hours.

Some early morning reports: Boston 16, clear; New York 17, partly cloudy; Philadelphia 15, rain; San Francisco 51, partly cloudy; Washington 19, cloudy; Seattle 43, rain; Miami 55, clear; Chicago 28, partly cloudy; Minneapolis-St. Paul 32, partly cloudy; St. Louis 29, clear; Kansas City 39, partly cloudy; Dallas 50, cloudy; Phoenix 54, pre-arranging the tank by a

MRS. JOSEPH KENNEDY

RFK Eulogized by His Mother

She Speaks at Dinner to Pay for Campaign

BOSTON (AP) — "I know I shall never see his like again," says Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy of her assassinated son Robert.

"What joy he brought us. What an aching void he left in our hearts. We admired him, we loved him and we miss him terribly," she told about 1,000 persons Tuesday at a dinner to help pay Robert F. Kennedy's $3.5-million campaign debt.

The $1,000-a-couple dinner was one of two fund-raising functions. The other was a $100-a-person cocktail party.

"You have wept with us in times of sorrow, and you have rejoiced with us in times of triumph," Mrs. Kennedy said. "For all these tributes we are grateful from all our hearts."

EDWARD AT DINNER

With her at the dinner and the cocktail party were her only surviving son, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and his wife, Joan.

Sen. Robert Kennedy, D-N.Y., was shot to death last June 5 in Los Angeles, just after winning the state's Democratic presidential primary.

Edward Kennedy told the two gatherings that if members of his family amounted to anything, it was because of his mother.

Mrs. Kennedy didn't escape one of the humorous barbs the Kennedys delight in flinging at each other.

'NOT IN CABINET'

"When President-elect Nixon announces his Cabinet tomorrow night," Sen. Kennedy said, "mother will not be included in it. That's appropriate because mother just turned down the chairmanship of the Democratic state committee last week."

More than 20 members of the U.S. Senate and House and four New England governors were among those at the two gatherings.

The two events were the first of a series planned to pay off the Kennedy campaign deficit.

8 in Family Die in Ontario Farm Blaze

WEST LORNE, Ont. (UPI) — Police and firemen late yesterday recovered the bodies of eight members of a family who died when flames flashed through their isolated farmhouse near this southern Ontario farming community.

Under the mournful vigil of the family dog, firemen searched the blackened rubble of the 50-year-old wooden farmhouse for more than 12 hours after the pre-dawn blaze.

Ontario provincial police said the bodies of David Haskell, 42, his wife, Sylvia, their five children ranging in age from 18 months to 7 years, and a bedridden 70-year-old grandfather, Joshua Vennema, were all burned beyond recognition.

Police said an overheated wood stove may have been the cause of the fire. Haskell and his family had lived in the house for five years, renting it from farmer John Alder, for whom Haskell worked.

E. Germans Use Hate Propaganda to Stiffen Border Vigilance

BERLIN (AP) — The Communist regime that drafts East German border guards into service has taught them a new lesson in hatred.

The object of the hate propaganda is to tighten the border and to convince the guards that the West German government is responsible for the fact East Germany is not recognized as a nation outside the Communist bloc.

The East Germans have tightened the border between the two Germanys, mainly to prevent a loss of manpower to the West. The East German regime calls anyone who tries to cross these borders a "provoker" and says it is the fault of such persons that border incidents take place.

Both a would-be refugee and a border guard were shot to death in one border incident recently.

STARTED FIGHT

According to the East German version, the fight started when an armed "provoker," trying to shoot his way into West Berlin past a border patrol, killed a guard and was killed himself.

The slain refugee has not been identified nor any reason given why he tried to cross to the West. The border guard, Rolf Henninger, a draftee whose regular job was as a railway worker, was buried with military honors.

The weekly East German military newspaper, Volksarmee (People's Army), quoted the Berlin city commander, Maj. Gen. Herimut Poppe, as saying at the funeral service:

End in Sight for Smallpox — U.N. Expert

KINSHASA, the Congo (AP) — Smallpox, perhaps the most devastating disease known to man, should be wiped out in the world within eight years, the United Nations' top smallpox expert says.

The 10-year program. We've finished two years and we're right on schedule. Our goal is zero cases, and there's every reason to believe we'll make it," said Dr. Donald A. Henderson, chief medical officer of the World Health Organization's smallpox eradication program.

The most dramatic example is West Africa. By the end of 1968, this region of 115 million people will be rid of smallpox for the first time, he said. "If they don't succeed," he added, "it's going to be damned close."

Two years ago estimates ran as high as 100,000 cases a year in West Africa.

USPHS VET

Henderson, an athletic-looking American of 40, joined the Geneva-based program at its start in January 1967, after work with the U.S. Public Health Service. He was here for a conference on smallpox in East Africa and the Congo, one of five of the world's remaining critical smallpox zones.

Smallpox is a viral disease, carried from person to person with no evidence of animal or insect vectors. The only way to fight it, Henderson says, is universal vaccination.

The World Health Organization uses 250 million doses of vaccine a year, the bulk of it donated by the Soviet Union.

New emphasis has been placed on "fire-fighting" teams to follow up reported outbreaks. At the first sign, vaccinators hurry into an area and immunize everyone.

For this to work, local officials have been assiduously briefed on the necessity of immediately reporting every case.

Toy Chest Trick

Cover any container with a bright, cheerful new wall covering and you can turn it into an inexpensive toy chest.

"The brutal murder fills the hearts and heads of the army and all the workers of the German Democratic Republic with tremendous hate against those who carried out the cowardly murder."

An editorial intended as indoctrination for the troops said:

"The murder act fills our hearts and heads with tremendous hate against the West German imperialist system... at the same time our hate is directed against all those who serve this criminal system without condition and to-kill orders against persons who let themselves be misused against our Socialist state of the German nation."

To Western observers, the tone of this kind of indoctrination gives a hint at difficulties in getting troops to follow shoot-kill orders against persons trying to reach the West. Police a recent mass escape during remind me of me at the end of in West Berlin report that many which a refugee was shot, said World War II.

an East German border guard of the East German soldiers:

"They are young. They are under tremendous political and personal pressure. Their futures depend on keeping their noses clean while in the army. They wanted to fight."

Since the Communists threw up their border barriers in 1961, a total of 507 uniformed East Germans have fled to West Berlin alone. Almost 20,000 East Germans made their way to West Germany in 1967, one way or another.

Salvation Army Clearinghouse Aids Needy at Yule

The Salvation Army is again operating a clearinghouse during the Christmas season to coordinate the distribution of food, clothing and toys to needy families and individuals in northern Oakland County.

"We receive approximately 1,000 applications annually and very few are ever rejected," said Mrs. John Grindle of the Salvation Army.

The idea behind the clearinghouse is to avoid duplication, she said. "People in need of help come here and we take their names; those who want to give help also come to the clearinghouse and we give them names."

Each township usually has service organizations that seek to adopt a needy family or individual during Christmas and the Salvation Army concentrates on needy residents in Pontiac, Mrs. Grindle said.

OPERATES TOY SHOP

She added that anyone interested in giving a basket should get in touch with the clearinghouse to insure that someone is not helped twice.

For city residents who do not receive toys with their donations, the clearinghouse operates a toy shop on Dec. 16 and 17. The needy families are notified by the Salvation Army to come in and select a toy for each child 12 years old and under.

All of the toys are new. Some are contributed by service groups and the rest are bought with money raised through the Salvation Army kettles.

Mrs. Grindle said she estimates the Salvation Army checks to older individuals in families who suffer from office help hired during the seasonal layoff, Mrs. Grindle said.

The clearinghouse receives donations and kettle collections, welfare, mothers on ADC (Aid to dependent children) and Fund donates funds to pay for the house in past years said, "I appreciate the help very much. It's really nice. We usually receive a turkey, apples and oranges and sometimes one or two toys."

Mrs. Grindle said the clearinghouse has been accepting applications since Nov. 11 and this is the last week for accepting names.

She added that the clearinghouse will continue making adoptions of needy families to interested groups until Christmas Eve.

Boy Battling His Principal in U.S. Court

NEW YORK (AP) — An 11-year-old boy has gone into federal court to protect his right to petition for the ouster of his school principal.

Joshua J. Mamis, a student at Intermediate School 44 in Manhattan, told a news conference this week:

"I got the idea from a film we had last year on the Bill of Rights."

The principal, Saris Cohen, a school official for 22 years, did not report for duty during the citywide teachers' strike. Nelson Harris served as acting principal during the walkout.

STUDENT SUPPORT

Joshua said that he had gathered 120 signatures among classmates seeking the removal of Cohen, and contended that Cohen told him to stop it.

"I thought Mr. Harris . . . was more capable of being principal," the boy said.

Commented Cohen: "The whole thing is a silly tempest in a teapot," adding: "I told him this was not a matter for a child to decide and that he had better concern himself with . . . conditions in the lunchroom or traffic in the halls."

With the consent of the boy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Justin Mamis, the case was taken by the National Emergency Civil Liberties Committee — not connected with the American Civil Liberties Union.

Towns Divide Nixon 'Honors'

WHITTIER, Calif. (AP) —

Historians, it's official: This college town of 75,000 is the "home town of Richard M. Nixon." And Yorba Linda, a 700-people spot 15 miles to the east, is the "birthplace of Richard M. Nixon."

The final decision was reached this week by tourist-conscious businessmen from both towns.

Nixon was born in Yorba Linda on Jan. 9, 1913 but moved to Whittier when he was 9, and a dispute developed over which town could properly claim him.

In the talks, it was mentioned that President-elect Nixon had pledged to unify the nation. A retired Yorba Linda auto dealer who headed his town's forces said Nixon would expect no less from his home towns.

50 Years of Scouting in Oakland County

All Work And No Play For These Scouts

Rochester Scouts Enjoyed Activities At Camp Agawan In 1934

By DIANNE DUROCHER
Boy scouts in Oakland County have been working, playing and learning together for the past 50 years.

This week the Clinton Valley Council, Boy Scouts of America, is observing its golden anniversary.

A half-century has seen the growth of the council from a handful of men and a few boys in 1918 to an expanding Clinton Valley Council listing 11,500 boys and 3,700 volunteer adult leaders.

Scouting began in Oakland and Macomb counties before the formation of a council about 1910 with the organization of troops in Pontiac and Mount Clemens.

FIRST STEP

The first step toward a council organization was in 1918 with the formation of the Pontiac Council. It was expanded in 1928 to become the Oakland Area Council, including all of Oakland County with the exception of four southeastern townships.

Then in 1938 the Pontiac Council merged with the Macomb County Council to form the Clinton Valley Council and set up service boundaries as they are today.

Camping programs have continually been stressed by the council. Over the past 50 years Camp Agawan near Lake Orion has provided a haven for recreation, a place to work on merit badges and sites for camping expeditions for area boy scouts and cub scouts.

The camp site was purchased in 1918 when it was called Camp Pontiac. It comprises 115 acres, which includes half of Tommy's Lake.

CAMP EXPANDED

In 1925 the camp was expanded with the construction of 26 buildings including a dining hall, administration cottage, cabins and latrines. The cost was $26,000. Then in 1938 the name of the camp was changed to Camp Agawan.

Since the 1940s an important aspect of the muchused camp is that the facilities are used on a year-round basis and not merely for a short summer season. The camp has received regular and constant use by area troops since it was purchased.

Last weekend about 35 boy scouts from Troop 116 in Farmington Township shivered in 30-degree temperatures to earn their cooking and fire-building merit badges.

The temperature didn't seem to faze them as they prepared everything from a steak dinner complete with biscuits to a lemon pie. They gobbled down the feast they had prepared and complimented each other on their cooking abilities.

BUILT FIRES

Newer scouts hurriedly built fires which served to provide warmth in the wilderness about 50 feet from camp buildings.

In 1930, a group of somber-faced scouts worked on merit badges at the camp when it was still known as Camp Oakland.

And in 1934 scouts from the Rochester participated in a roundup celebration at the camp.

Operating funds for the council over the years have come from the United Foundation in Detroit, Pontiac Area United Fund, West Bloomfield Township United Fund, Avon Township Chest and the Oakland Township Chest.

The next few years are expected to see great expansion of scouting in the area served by the council. Under scouting's boy-power program which goes into effect Jan. 1 the Clinton Valley Council has set its goal for active participants at 16,000.

LONG-TIME SCOUT—John W. Hunt, 22948 Hayden, Farmington, former president of the Clinton Valley Council, has been associated with scouting for 58 years in the United States, Canada and England. It is the longest tenure of any scout in the council.

Impostor at Law Gets Big Chance in High Court

DANIEL MORGAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Walter Mitty of Washington courtrooms may be headed for his most glorious day—a chance to argue the law with the nine justices of the Supreme Court.

And there is nothing Daniel Jackson Oliver Wendel Holmes Morgan likes to do more than argue the law.

For years, in Chicago and then in the nation's capital, Morgan argued criminal cases in courts. Four of his clients were in the deepest of trouble:

They were under death sentences.

And then, in 1961, it was discovered that lawyer Morgan was an impostor. Off he went to federal prison on a 3-to-10 year sentence for forgery, perjury, fraud and false pretenses.

RELEASED IN MAY

Morgan was such a good prisoner at Leavenworth that he was released last May. But he didn't lose his taste for litigation.

While in the Kansas prison he sued the warden, John T. Williamson, and the chief medical officer, C. A. Jarvis, for $3,265,000.

Morgan claimed they caused him to be inoculated with a "deleterious foreign substance, serum or drug" and battered, clubbed and choked him.

Since Leavenworth is a federal prison, the case normally would be handled by a federal court.

BETTER CHANCE

But Morgan's skill still sharp, he convinced the U.S. Circuit Court in Denver he had a right to try to bring the case into state court, presumably where he thought he'd have a better chance.

This sent U.S. Solicitor General Erwin N. Griswold appealing to the Supreme Court, saying the law had been turned "topsy-turvy."

Though Morgan, in a highly professional reply, opined the Justice Department was "exag-gerating," the court on Monday decided to hear the case.

Thus, early next year, Griswold or a young Justice Department lawyer, smartly turned out in morning coat, will stand before the bench and put the government's case to the court.

Morgan, of course, is entitled to have a lawyer represent him. Though laymen are permitted to argue their own cases in the court, no one recalls this happening more than a handful of times.

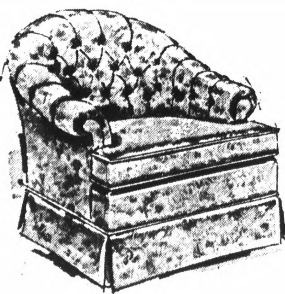

But for Daniel Jackson Oliver Wendel Holmes Morgan, the temptation may be too great.

Soviet Influence Grows in Anti-Communist Algeria

ALGIERS (AP) — The extensive stores along rue Didouche Mourad have a new kind of foreign customers: free-spending Russians from the rapidly growing Soviet Union.

By authoritative estimates, some 3,000 Soviet technicians, experts and advisers have arrived in Algeria in 18 months.

The influx began after the six-day Middle East war of 1967. It has spread to all parts of the country and into virtually every industry.

Yet the government of President Houari Boumedienne remains firmly anti-Communist despite its widely proclaimed pursuit of "revolutionary socialism." The Algerian Communist party is banned, and Algerian leaders insist their friendship with the Soviet Union has no strings attached.

KEPT WAITING

To underline their independence policy, the Algerians have kept Hungarian Ambassador Elek Tot waiting since September to present his credentials to Boumedienne. Algerian officials suggest that this is meant to retaliate for the admission of Soviet Algerian Communist leader Bou Ali to three world Communist meetings held in Budapest this year.

Algerian leaders are immensely proud of their eight-year war of independence from French rule. They say that never again will any foreign power be allowed to establish military bases on Algerian soil, not even the "brotherly Socialist friend," the Soviet Union.

Western diplomats say Boumedienne is undoubtedly sincere in the desire to keep his young nation strictly nonaligned, but they fear growing Soviet influence may gradually undermine his freedom of choice.

Massive military aid has led Algeria's armed forces into almost total dependence on Russian instructors, equipment and supplies. However, the army medical corps and engineers and the elite gendarmes, which would have to deal with any civil disorder, are still trained and equipped by France.

INVISIBLE FACTOR

French influence also remains an invisible, moral factor among senior officers, many of them once served in the French armed forces.

Russia supplies the artillery weapons, tanks, vehicles and ammunition of Algeria's army, the MIG21 jet fighters of its air force and the missile-equipped Komar and OSA-type ships of its small but growing navy.

Some 600 Algerian pilots are training in the Soviet Union; Russian instructors operate flying and maintenance schools in Algeria. Soviet instructors attached to army units and naval vessels keep in the background and have no command functions anywhere.

Half a dozen Soviet civilian technicians help maintain complex equipment at the former French naval base of Mers el Kebir, near Oran. This base has an underground command post plus deeply buried storage depots and fuel tanks, once enough to provide for the entire French Mediterranean fleet.

KEPT WORD

The French handed it over to Algeria last Jan. 31, nine years before the lease was due to expire. In return, the Algerians promised not to allow any foreign power to use the base, at least until the lease would have run out in 1977.

The French government — and many Western military experts in Algeria — are convinced that the Algerians have kept their word.

According to all available evidence, no Soviet ship has been permitted to enter Mers el Kebir since the French left. There is no sign that the Algerians intend to allow Russia's Mediterranean fleet to use the base even after 1977.

"There is no need for them to use Mers el Kebir, since they can and do have free use of port facilities in Algeria," a Western diplomat said.

CALL REGULARLY

In fact, units of the Soviet Mediterranean fleet, including its cruiser flagship, call regularly at Algiers for fuel and supplies and to give shore leave to small groups of smartly dressed, well-behaved sailors. This has made Algeria the Soviet navy's westernmost supply point in the Mediterranean. Its military significance in a crisis is doubtful because of Algeria's exposed position.

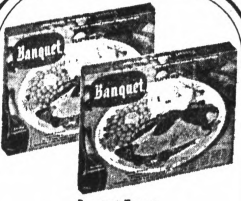

Western strategists seem more worried by the possibility that Russia might override Algerian objections in a crisis and try to take over air bases located deep on the Sahara.

Such bases as Laghouat and Ouargla were built originally by the French and have since been expanded with Russian help. Algeria's MIG squadrons use them, and Russian transport planes refuel there occasionally while carrying arms to federal Nigeria. But thus far they are strictly Algerian bases and there is no expectation here that Algeria would willingly hand them over for use by the Soviet air force — least of all at a moment of world tension. The question in many Western minds is whether Algeria's dependence on Soviet arms could one day force the nation against its will to open its doors to Soviet forces.

Algerian officials say: never.

Battleship's 'Trigger' Can Send Death 23 Miles Away

By GEORGE ESPER

USS NEW JERSEY, Off Vietnam (AP) — His shipmates call him Trigger. Some even joke that he has his right index finger insured for $100,000.

Ranked as a fire control technician third class, Henry Robidoux, 23, fires the devastating 16-inch guns of the battleship New Jersey. For this he gets paid $336 a month. The guns can hurl a 1,900-pound or 2,700-pound shell 23 miles.

In the main battery plotting room of the 56,000-ton New Jersey, four decks below the guns, Robidoux's firing console lights up: "Plot ready." "Turret 1." This means that the enemy target has been plotted and checked four times to avoid hitting friendly troops or villages and that one of the three turrets is ready to fire.

Robidoux must await an oral order and a hand signal from a master chief petty officer, Robert Hawkins, 42. Hawkins, a veteran of 26 years in the Navy, is the boss of the plotting room.

DOWNWARD SIGNAL

On a bright, sunny afternoon, Hawkins gives Robidoux the order to fire, waving his hand downward. The target is a series of enemy bunkers 18 miles away from the ship and 23 miles below the demilitarized zone.

There are three trigger keys on the console. The left one sounds the salvo signal, a loud buzzer warning that the guns are going to fire within seconds. Getting too close to the guns could collapse one's lung.

The right trigger fires the guns. The middle trigger is an automatic firing device used when the ship is rolling to put gun barrels at the right level.

"The spotter on the shore," says Robidoux, "sends in coordinates of the target to us. We take the coordinates and position them on the computer. That computer feeds information to the Mark 8 range-finder which in turn sends a bearing and elevation to the turret. The turret will automatically go into position. When I pull the trigger, it sends an electrical signal to the gun, actually to the shell primer. The electric impulse charges the primer."

SPLIT-SECOND TIMING

Robidoux sounds the first warning buzzer. Before he can sound a second one, Hawkins, five feet away, hollers, "Check fire." Five more seconds and it would have been too late. A ground spotter on the beach has radioed that an American helicopter is in the line of fire.

After a wait of several minutes, the helicopter is clear of the area. Robidoux calmly sounds the warning buzzer twice with his left hand, pulls the trigger with his right.

A muffled sound is heard in the control room. Above, on deck, the shell bursts out of the cannon in a thundering roar. A large yellow flash shoots into the sky and the heat from the muzzle blasts is felt 25 yards away. Just for an instant.

Robidoux, who has grown a full beard in the more than two months the New Jersey has been in action, is the son of a millworker, Henry Robidoux. At a technical school in Danielson, Conn., he studied to be a construction electrician. After graduation, he worked briefly as an electrical maintenance man in a spaghetti manufacturing plant. He enlisted in the Navy Oct. 13, 1964.

He should have been out two months ago, but he extended his four-year enlistment by six months to join the New Jersey, which entered the Vietnam war on Sept. 30.

Hawkins had the right to leave a year ago.

"I had the papers in to retire in October 1967," he said. "Because I was the only one they could find with this kind of experience, they requested me to stay on for two years. There are plenty of people with experience aboard a battleship but no one who had been a chief main battery type."

Hawkins, a native of Milwaukee, Wis., finds his responsibility nothing new. He did the same thing aboard the battleship Iowa at the end of the Korea war 15 years ago.

Hawkins' wife is living in Norfolk, Va. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hawkins, live in Chillicothe, Ohio.

Ancient Gold 'Factory' Found

By Science Service

King Croesus' gold workshop has been discovered at Sardis, Turkey. A Harvard-Cornell expedition is excavating the workshop where gold was extracted and refined in the sixth century B.C.

Croesus, the last king of the Lydian Empire, introduced the system of coinage into the world's marketplace, and with his gold, made Sardis synonymous with wealth. It was one of the great cities of the ancient world.

In excavating the area, archaeologists have found tiny bits of refined gold in the form of droplets, foil and gold leaf. They have also uncovered pieces of the goldworking apparatus, including crucibles and blowpipe nozzles. Lydians apparently refined some gold from lead ore placed in small clay basins and heated with an intense blowpipe flame.

The workshop is located near the banks of the Pactolus, which, according to Herodotus, was famous for its gold-bearing sands.

The work is being directed by George M. A. Hanfmann of Harvard and A. Henry Detweiler of Cornell.

Detroit Tests Show Blacks More Placid Than Whites

DETROIT (AP)— Personality tests show that most Negroes are less aggressive, less inclined to minor mental instability, more religious and more likely to feel liked by their fellow man than whites, according to a Wayne State University psychologist.

Dr. Paul Cameron says that tests among more than 600 black and white Detroiters shows that there is a marked difference between blacks and whites in some facets of personality. Whites generally show greater response to individualism and materialism and less response to religion and community feeling than blacks, Cameron said.

The comparative placidity among blacks stems directly from the way they have been forced to live, he said, and they whites felt people like them...

on's neighbors will tell you anything about him, from his debts to his sex life. Quite the opposite happens in a Negro neighborhood... Negroes tend to band together against snoopers of any kind.

What's so great about it?

It's a Jane Parker Fruit Cake.
And we think it's great because of what goes into it.
You see, the best fruit cake has less cake...more fruits and nuts.
And Jane Parker Fruit Cake is OVER 2/3 FRUITS AND NUTS... with just enough delicious cake to hold the fruits and nuts in place.

It's literally bursting with imported and domestic cherries, pineapple from the Far East, sun-drenched raisins from California, citron from the Caribbean and pecans from the South.

What else can we tell you to convince you that Jane Parker Fruit Cake is great?
Well, we can tell you about the price:

What would you expect to pay for a fruit cake like this? $8, $7, $6, $5?
How about $4.59 for our 5-lb. cake.
That's great too. Isn't it?

17 U. of M. Seniors Build Scanner Satellite

ANN ARBOR (UPI)—A 196-pound satellite that can provide valuable information about land topography and natural resources has been built by 17 seniors at the University of Michigan.

The satellite, a brainchild of an aerospace system design class, carries an optical mechanical scanner which can cover a 126-mile area. Scanning is done by a four-sided mirror spun continuously by a motor.

The scanner picks up the "spectral signature" of minerals, plants and animals on the earth surface. Since the spectral signature of every material differs, healthy vegetation can be distinguished from diseased vegetation, dry soil from wet soil, and wheat fields from oat fields.

Data from the scanner—if it were ever launched—would be transmitted to a worldwide receiving network, where Information would be stored, correlated and quickly available to users in needed form.

VARIETY OF USES

The students worked 15 weeks on the project, meeting two afternoons a week as a team and during weekends as subgroups.

The seniors said the satellite has a wide variety of uses. As one example, they suggested scientists might begin to catalog the physical and chemical characteristics of soil, area by area, and relate them to geologic, climatic and vegetational factors.

The students dubbed the satellite "observer" and said it is designed to cruise in a near-circular orbit covering the earth every 96.4 minutes. It is powered by batteries and two solar cell paddles.

HOLIDAY NOGS — A choice of frozen strawberries or raspberries is suggested for this festive holiday eggnog to add a bright note of color and refreshing fruit flavor.

Eggnog Is a Christmas Tradition

Food Editor, Pontiac Press

How or why eggnog became associated with the holiday season is something I've been unable to discover. It is a drink with English ancestry. The nog is a shortened version of the word noggin, a small drinking vessel used to hold strong ale. In England, there is a milk and egg beverage made with ale, known as sack-poset.

But it is such an accepted part of Christmas that no one questions its belonging.

You can buy ready prepared fresh eggnog in the dairy case of your favorite store. For the past few years, you have also been able to buy canned eggnog. But there is no trick to making your own eggnog.

CHRISTMAS EGGNOG

3 eggs, separated

Hanukkah Is Party Time for Children

Make this Hanukkah one of the happiest of all by having a small party for the children on each of the eight evenings. To make each night special, serve a different food or beverage each time.

One way to delight the youngsters is to serve a colorfully garnished punch drink in a festive punch bowl or pretty pitcher. Then, after the candle lighting ceremony, drink a "toast" which the children can enjoy.

The use of canned or frozen concentrate punch will make preparation of the treat easy for you.

RED CINNAMON PUNCH

3 tablespoons small red cinnamon candies
¼ cup sugar
¼ cup water
1 can (46 oz.) red regular or low-calorie Hawaiian punch, chilled
1 quart ginger ale, chilled
2 lemons, thinly sliced, if desired

Combine candies, sugar and water in small saucepan; heat together, stirring, until candies are completely melted, then cool. Combine melted candies with chilled Hawaiian Punch. Just before serving, add ginger ale. Serve over ice cubes and garnish with lemon slices, if desired.

If preferred, omit lemon slices and top each serving with a small scoop of vanilla ice cream. Makes about 2½ quarts.

¼ teaspoon salt
3 cups milk
1 cup heavy cream
1 tablespoon sherry extract
grated nutmeg

Beat egg yolks; gradually add ¼ cup of the sugar and the salt, beating constantly. Gradually add milk and cream.

Cook over hot water, stirring constantly, until mixture is thick enough to coat a spoon. Cool. Add sherry extract; chill.

BEAT WHITES

Beat egg whites stiff; gradually add remaining sugar, beating constantly until stiff. Fold into chilled custard.

When ready to serve, pour into chilled punch bowl; sprinkle with nutmeg. Makes 2 quarts.

From Women's Day Encyclopedia of Cookery.

Some of your guests will be happy if you serve them a low-calorie version.

LOW-CALORIE EGGNOG

2 envelopes (4 servings each) low-calorie vanilla pudding
1½ quarts skimmed milk
1½ cups blended whiskey
4 egg whites
¼ teaspoon salt
Grated nutmeg

Place both envelopes of vanilla pudding and 1 cup of skimmed milk in a saucepan. Stir until thoroughly dissolved. Add remaining milk, place over low heat and bring to a boil. Simmer 5 minutes. Remove from heat. Chill two hours. Stir in blended whiskey and chill again.

Just before serving, place eggnog in a punch-bowl. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites carefully. Dust the top of the eggnog with grated nutmeg. Makes 3 quarts or 24 servings, in 4-oz. cups.

ONLY 70 CALORIES

There are only 70 calories per serving in this Low-Calorie Eggnog. Regular eggnog contains 290 calories per serving.

For something different, add frozen strawberries or raspberries to your eggnog.

FROZEN FRUIT NOG #1

1 quart prepared eggnog
2 packages (10 ounces each) frozen raspberries or strawberries with syrup
1 can (8 ounces) frozen concentrated orange juice, thawed
Cinnamon sticks
Cinnamon nutmeg

Chill eggnog. Thaw fruit according to package directions. Combine eggnog and undiluted orange juice concentrate. Beat with a rotary beater or electric mixer until thick and foamy.

Place thawed fruit with syrup in bottom of a punch bowl or pitcher. Add prepared eggnog mixture. Stir gently to swirl fruit through eggnog. Serve in punch cups or small mugs. Garnish each serving with a cinnamon stick and a sprinkling of nutmeg. Makes 12 servings.

FROZEN FRUIT #2

1 package (2½ ounces) custard dessert mix
5 cups skim milk or reconstituted dry milk
1 teaspoon ground nutmeg
2 teaspoons brandy or rum flavoring
2 packages (10 ounces each) frozen raspberries or strawberries with syrup
1 cup heavy cream, whipped (optional)

Prepare custard mix as directed on package using the 5 cups milk. Cool and chill. Beat until foamy. Stir in nutmeg and flavoring. Thaw fruit according to package directions.

Place thawed fruit with syrup in bottom of punch bowl or pitcher. Add prepared eggnog mixture. Stir gently. Serve in punch cups or small mugs.

If desired, top with a spoonful of whipped cream and a springling of nutmeg. Makes 12 servings.

Holiday Bread Is International

Bread, a biblical symbol of hospitality, takes many different forms at Christmas. French mothers bake "pain d'épices" — a spicy bread laced with nuts, honey and ginger — in the fanciful forms of angels to delight the children at Christmas.

In Mexico it is a fruit-studded cake appropriately called the "crown of The Three Kings." In Italy it becomes a brown-crusted, dome-shaped "panettone."

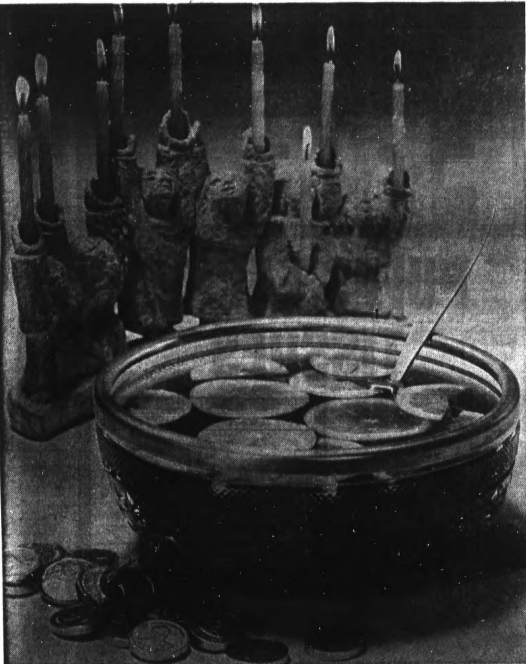

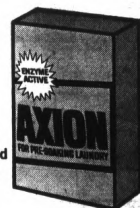

Germany's sugar-coated "stollen" and Poland's crown-shaped "babka" are also traditional Christmas breads.

"I have two active children and they really know how to get stains into clothes. Axion knows how to get them out."

Mrs. Lydia A. Foust
5018 Frazee Avenue
Cleveland, Ohio

"This is the one I recommend...it's the best."

Celebrate Holiday With Pancakes

King-size pancakes, middle-size pancakes, miniature pancakes — and everyone loves them. Of course, they are always expected at the Jewish festival of Hanukkah, celebrated this year for eight days beginning the evening of Dec. 15.

Since 165 B.C. this beautiful custom of lighting one candle and then lighting one more each night until a handsome candelabra glows with nine small tapers, has illuminated holiday tables.

Potato pancakes with fruit sauce are the traditional fare, first apple sauce and then others. Just after the first candle is lit at sundown, and the first gifts distributed to children, the first of hot potato pancakes are served and apple sauce is the traditional accompaniment.

Mother is expected to invent a new twist to pancakes, as the week goes on. This year it is potato pancakes served with luscious pitted prunes.

DOLLAR-SIZE POTATO PANCAKES

6 medium potatoes, grated
3 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon baking powder
2 eggs, slightly beaten.

Peel and grate potatoes. Let stand about ten minutes so that liquid will rise to top. Pour off all liquid. Mix flour, salt and baking powder and beat into eggs. Stir all through well-drained shredded potatoes.

Drop by spoonfuls onto a well-greased heavy skillet. Brown on both sides. Drain on soft paper. Makes 30-36 pancakes.

Yule Sweets Vary by Land

"The buche de Noel" — a delectable, chocolate cake in the shape of a yule log — is a great Christmas favorite of the French. The English delight in their celebrated, flaming plum pudding and its kinsin' cousin, hot mince pie.

In Sicily, the traditional Christmas sweet is the "cassata," an angel cake filled with frozen whipped cream, currants and candied fruit.

prune, fasten with pick and eat — as many as you like.

PRUNE-APPLE SAUCE

2 packages (8 oz. each) cream cheese
¼ cup sifted light brown sugar
2 teaspoons lemon or lime juice with a small amount grated rind
1 cup pitted prunes, sliced
1 cup pitted prunes, sliced
Beat cream cheese, brown sugar, lemon juice, grated rind and apple sauce together until smooth. Stir in prunes. Let stand in refrigerator at least one hour.

Makes a delightful, fluffy sauce. Nice with pancakes or buttered, toasted Challah (egg bread) and coffee.

HOT SOUR CREAM PRUNE FILLING

1 egg
½ cup sugar
Dash of salt
Dash of freshly ground nutmeg
½ cup sour cream
½ cup pitted prunes, sliced
Beat egg and sugar until pale lemon color, and add salt, nutmeg and sour cream. Cook over low heat stirring until slightly thickened. Add sliced prunes and cook, stirring until thick, about 5 minutes. Serve hot with crisp hot potato pancakes.

U.S. Boyles Over With Double-Talk

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Heard any good double-talk lately?

As you probably know, double-talk—the ability to say one thing while thinking just the opposite—is one of America's purest art forms. Some people are born double-talkers, some achieve skill in it only after long years of practice. But it has become so widespread and accepted that it would be difficult for anyone, even if he talked only to himself, to go through a day without employing double-talk.

For the benefit of the uninitiated, here are some typical examples of double-talk—followed in each case by the literal translation of what the speaker actually was thinking:

"Well, after all, Christmas is for children."—So don't forget your baby, Sugar Daddy.

"It isn't the value of the gift that counts, but the spirit of the giver."—But how can anybody show much spirit if he gives you something that is worth nothing?

DIVINE COIFFURE

"What a divine coiffure, Wilma. You simply must tell me who your hairdresser is."—I want to be sure the bum never gets a chance to work on my locks.

"So what's new with you?"—Don't start telling me your troubles; I've got plenty of my own to worry about.

"If you don't see it, ask for it."—But don't ask me, because if you can't see it, I probably can't find it either.

"The customer is always right."—In a pig's eye he is! "Know that in a real emergency you're the only one I really can count on."—That's why I am so afraid of emergencies.

"Will all you passengers kindly move to the rear of the bus, please."—Or, better yet, open the windows and jump out.

"I certainly do believe it's a worthy charity, but I already gave at the office."—Let me think, when was that—five years ago last July?

GAME THEORY

"It isn't whether you win or lose that counts—it's how you play the game."—All that counts is whether you win.

"Of course, I was only thinking out loud, so to speak."—Why did I have to open my big trap in the first place?

"This department welcomes constructive suggestions of any kind."—Be sure and drop yours in the wastebasket on the way out.

"I know, Reginald, that you couldn't be marrying that girl simply for her money."—Her father must own a liquor store, too.

grade will depend strictly on the literary merits of your term papers."—I throw them all downstairs and the one that goes the farthest gets the best grade.

"In this course, your final 'That miniskirt sure does reveal your charming peekaboo knees, Mabel.' If the elm tree in our front yard was that knobby, I'd call in a tree surgeon.

MUMPS AND MONO

"I don't know when I've had a more interesting time in my life than serving as your PTA president during the current year."—Unless it was that time in college when I came down with both mumps and mononucleosis.

"I admit that the starting pay on this job is small, but you will find it has other compensations."—For one thing, the hours are so long that you'll find you won't have enough strength left to spend the money you do get.

Bridge Tricks From Jacobys

West were playing pre-emptive timed. The defense had two jump overcalls and East elected tricks in and South had to make a pre-emptive bid when really his hand called for a more and to hold his loss to simple overall.

The jump might have cost East a lot. West thought that East would hold better distribution and fewer high cards and decided to continue the barrage by jumping to four spades.

A double of that four-spade contract would have given North and South a 300-point plus and a substantial profit in International Match Points, but North was dreaming of better things. South had rebid three clubs over the two-spade jump.

North felt that a slam was quite likely and that if he did jump to six clubs he would stampee East or West into a six-spade sacrifice.

East and West did not stampee. Neither did they double but it didn't make too much difference. West opened the ace of spades and continued the ace of hearts.

Then they play two round robins. The first consists of each pair playing 14 boards against each other pair. The lowest six pairs are eliminated and the 10 survivors play a 28-board round robin.

The whole thing represents 10 days of steady play with never a breather and needless to say plenty of mistakes are made.

East's two-spade overcall is an example of how players try to upset their opponents' orderly bidding processes. East and

CHRISTMAS LUNCH — If the holiday spirit abounds, it can even be packed into a box lunch! Tree-shaped sandwiches, Angostura Fruit Balls, and a spicy grape punch. This is a pleasant package to open.

Cooks Will Vary in Usage of Ground Pepper

Europeans have long been partial to the subtle aroma of white pepper. Americans, it is almost unnecessary to mention, much prefer — about eleven times over — the lustier flavor of black pepper.

While pepper is the world's master spice, Americans consume about one-third of the world's pepper harvest each year; last year almost 45 million pounds of black pepper and 6 million pounds of white.

Skilled cooks everywhere, make use of all types of pepper for various dishes.

Coarsely ground pepper is most often recommended for casseroles and roasts where the cooking process absorbs the larger particles and flavors the overall dish. It is highly prized on salads and the popular peppered steak.

Finer grinds, however, are more desirable for eggs, vegetables, many sauces, and some meats, and prevent the surprising experience of biting into a larger piece of pepper.

And white pepper is used regularly for light-colored dishes, such as cream sauces and potatoes, where visible black specks would be less attractive.

Grease Pan Rim

You will have no trouble with water boiling over while cooking vegetables if you first coat the rim of the kettle with bacon grease, butter, lard or any other shortening.

Set Up Canape Cart for Guests' Choosing

A key to happy holiday entertaining lies in simplifying wherever possible.

Canapes, whether to intrigue the diner before a festive meal or to serve as a snack when callers or carolers arrive, are customary party fare throughout the season. They can spell your success as a hostess.

Here's a suggestion to simplify the preparation and serving of canapes. On a spacious tray, table, or serving cart, set up a selection of spreads and garnishes to go with an assortment of crisp Melba toast rounds — white, sesame, onion, and garlic flavored. Then invite guests to concoct their own favorite canapes.

The informality of canapes "a la cart" is a boon to both planned and impromptu get-togethers. A mobile serving cart is especially handy because it's easy to circulate among guests, and is a time-saver for clean-ups.

SPREADS

Turkey-Celery: Combine 1 cup chopped, cooked turkey, 1 cup diced celery, ½ cup mayonnaise or whipped cream cheese.

Avocado-Roquefort: Make a paste of ¼ cup Roquefort cheese, add 1 cup avocado puree, 1 tablespoon lemon juice. Blend, chill.

Egg-Caviar: Hard cook 8 eggs, press through ricer, ¼ cup soft butter, 2 tablespoons caviar, salt and pepper to taste. Blend, chill.

Salmon-Cucumber: Combine 1 cup flaked salmon, ½ cup chopped cucumber without seeds, ¼ cup mayonnaise.

Crabmeat-Horseshadish: To 1 cup minced, cooked crabmeat add 2 tablespoons cream, 1 tablespoon prepared horseradish. Blend, chill.

Ham-Cream Cheese: Cream together ½ teaspoon dry mustard and ½ cup cream cheese. Add 1 cup chopped, cooked ham.

GARNISHES

Cocktail onions; Spanish green olives; capers; chopped gherkins, or drained, chopped relish; marinated mushrooms; shrimp; oysters; artichokes; slivered almonds.

CANAPES A LA CART — A serving cart, tray or table set up with a selection of spreads, garnishes and Melba toast rounds — white, sesame, onion and garlic flavored — saves the hostess preparation and serving time. Invite guests to make their own delicious decisions as to what combinations taste best.

Dice Turkey for Lemon Salad Mold

The San Joaquin Valley of California produces the cornucopia of fruits and vegetables associated with the holidays. The plump, colorful grapes, almonds, olives and even turkeys are grown in this fertile valley.

The almond slivers should be toasted before adding to the gelatin mixture. Heating the slivers will keep them crisp, and they add texture along with the diced, crisp celery.

SAN JOAQUIN SALAD

1 3-oz. pkg. lemon flavored gelatin
1 cup boiling water
½ cup sauterne wine
2 tablespoons olive juice
½ cup cold water
1 cup diced, cooked turkey or chicken meat
½ teaspoon salt
¼ cup sliced, stuffed green olives or pieces
¼ cup diced celery
¼ cup toasted, slivered almonds
½ cup mayonnaise
¼ cup seeded tokyo or seedless grapes

Western Iceberg lettuce leaves
Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Add cold water, olive juice and wine. Put in refrigerator until it starts to gel. Stir in all of the ingredients, except lettuce leaves. Put in ½ quart mold. Set in refrigerator.
When ready to serve, unmold on chilled plate. Tuck washed lettuce leaves and frosted bunches of grapes around the edge for garnish. Makes 5-6 servings.

New Twist for A.M. Cake

Seldom is sausage thought of as part of a cake, especially an upside-down cake. That's what makes this Sausage Surprise Cake a hit for breakfast, brunch, lunch or evening meal. It's a palate pleasing combination of sausage, pineapple, and nut bread.

Sausage Surprise Cake
1 12-ounce package small sausage links
¼ cup butter or margarine
¼ cup brown sugar
4 pineapple rings, drained
1 (17-ounce) package nut bread mix

Fry sausage links until evenly browned. Set aside. Melt butter or margarine over low heat in 9-inch round cake pan. Remove from heat.

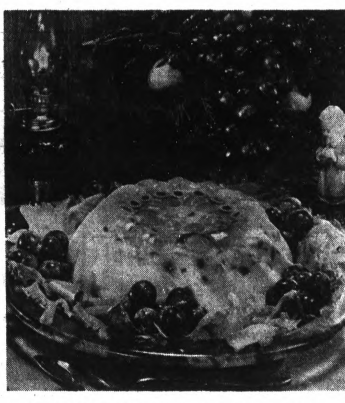

Sprinkle brown sugar into melted butter. Arrange pineapple in pan. Place sausage links between pineapple. Mix nut bread ingredients as directed on package. Pour over sausage and pineapple.

Bake in 350-degree oven for 50 minutes. Remove from oven and turn upside-down on serving dish.

Serve with skillet scrambled eggs and chives. To vary recipe use apricot halves or peach slices in place of pineapple. Makes six servings.

Holiday Snack

Combine ½ cup chopped California seedless raisins with 1 cup peanut butter. Spread on graham crackers and top with marshmallows. Heat in moderate oven until marshmallows melt. A quick snack to fix during the busy holidays.

Santa and the Hippies

By LUCREE BEALE

Synopsis: The hippies decide not to keep Santa a prisoner but as he is about to leave Hippieville Edgar arrives with the bad news from Santa Land.

CHAPTER 9 Edgar's Story

SANTA and the hippies listened in horror as Edgar the elf told his tale.

Edgar had been away on an errand searching for a certain blue glass that Santa used to make doll baby eyes. When he returned to Santa Land with a pocketful of beautiful stones he went straight to Santa's house to show what he had found.

The door to Santa's house was open but no one was home. Not even Mrs. Claus. Edgar heard a funny whirring sound. Looking down he saw a small top spinning in a pool of salt at his feet.

He thought it was a new toy Santa was trying out. He went to the shops to find out what was going on. Everywhere he went he found spinning tops and a sprinkling of salt on the floor.

Even in the stables there were no reindeer—only eight spinning tops.

SAW DWARF
He saw smoke coming from the chimney of Santa's private tool shop. He thought, eagerly, "Ah, Santa is there!" He ran to the shop but instead of bursting in he stopped at the door and peeped through the keyhole.

Inside he saw not Santa but a misshapen dwarf hammering

Then Edgar knew some awful thing had happened to all the creatures in Santa Land. He started running as fast as he could. At the edge of Santa Land he came upon a family of red-eyed geese.

When Edgar told them what had happened the mother goose said she had seen Santa flying off in his little plane not too many hours ago and she could take Edgar to wherever Santa was because it was easy for a red-eyed goose to track an airplane.

WHAT TO DO?
"Now here I am!" finished Edgar. "And, oh, what are we to do?"

Santa scratched his whiskers thoughtfully. "You say there was salt?" he asked. "All over the floor!"

"And what was this contraption the dwarf was making?" "It was huge and ugly with wires and bolts sticking out of its middle and lights flashing in its head."

"Ah," said Santa with a sigh. "It was Heskiah. He has invented a salt to turn people into tops while he works on a machine to take the place of people. I never thought he would dare to come to Santa Land."

Excitedly, Edgar the elf told his tale

Ding Dong felt terrible. He said it was all his fault because he had tricked Santa into leaving Santa Land. But the hippies said it was really their fault because they had wanted to capture Santa in the first place. Now all of Santa Land was gone and there wouldn't be any Christmas anymore.

But Santa said, "Don't worry. I've known about Heskiah for a long, long time. I can handle him."

"What will you do?" asked the hippies. "I'll get the three-colored string and trip him with it," said Santa. "Then his power will be gone and so will he."

"The three-colored string? What is that?" "That's a secret," said Santa with a smile. "But come, Edgar. We must be off. If we hurry we will still be able to save Santa Land in time for Christmas."

They ran to Santa's plane but Edgar was too short to climb in. Santa said, "Here, I'll give you a boost." He made a basket out of his hands and Edgar stepped into the basket.

When Edgar's shoe touched Santa's hands, Santa himself turned into a spinning top.

Largest Troupe Ever

Hope to Visit Viet Soon

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Bob Hope leaves Saturday for Vietnam with the largest troupe in 18 years of entertaining U.S. servicemen overseas.

Hope is taking along 21 performers and the Les Brown band. The group includes actress Ann-Margret and Rosey Grier, former Los Angeles Rams football star.

Hope's itinerary includes stops in Japan, Korea, Okinawa, Guam, Thailand and Vietnam. The comedian will report on his trip in The Pontiac Press, starting next week.

A case for our beer.

A tie. A book. A couple of bucks for the mailman.

Every year, the same people get the same gifts.

That's the case for giving Miniature Gift Cases of Black Label Beer.

Inside the Miniature Case, there's a card that entitles its owner to a real, big case of Black Label.

Which is a lot more personal than giving money. More original than a tie.

And a lot more sociable than a book.

Altogether, that's quite a case.

'Soul' Dolls Are Selling Big in Detroit

DETROIT (AP)—It may be already has reordered several lines, and Sears is busy restocking shelves of inner city stores with the "surplus" of Negro dolls being returned by suburban stores in all-white areas. But it isn't only Negro parents who are buying the dolls. Whites have also bought many of them.

The J.L. Hudson Co., which sells 32 varieties of Negro dolls, with them, then there's no fear there when they're older," explained Robert Whitaker, toy department manager at Sears in Highland Park, a suburb having a large Negro population and surrounded by Detroit.

He said this year is the first Christmas he has ordered more Negro than white dolls. He said they are still selling out.

Nervous Northern Huskies Rout Highland Park, 64-47

By FLETCHER SPEARS
Stage fright won't kill you but it's likely to scare the daylight out of a guy. Ask coach Dick Hall of Pontiac Northern. He'll tell you.

Hall squirmed, sweated, yelled, cajoled and even sat silently for a bit during the first quarter of the Pontiac Northern basketball opener against visiting Highland Park last night and as the period ended he was scared.

Northern trailed at that point, 18-9, and had looked rather poor in getting that far, but whatever was ailing the host Huskies called it stage fright, nerves or just opening jitters — it disappeared and the Northern quintet went on to an at times impressive 64-47 triumph over the Parkers.

ANY MEDICINE?

"Anybody got any ulcer medicine," Hall asked of no one in particular at halftime after the Huskies had battled back to take a 28-24 lead.

Of Northern's poor effort in the opening period, Hall said: "That's the way they've been looking in practice. But at least they're hustling now."

I WAS SCARED

The Huskies had looked both good and bad as they prepared for the opener. "I was scared before the game," admitted Hall after the score was in the books.

Scared of how PNH would perform or of Highland Park? he was asked. "Of both! We knew what our kids could do; we just didn't know what they'd do tonight. And, Highland Park has a good team. They beat us down there in overtime last year. We had that four-point lead with just a few seconds to play and they beat us."

UNDERSTANDABLE

If the Huskies were nervous it was understandable. Going into the game they had only two kids with varsity experience — guard Rod Clancy and forward Charles Moncrief. It took a while for the newcomers to settle down.

Highland Park (62), which is without a couple of its stronger players — they're out with injuries — outscored PNH on the boards and, in general, outplayed the host team in forging an 18-9 lead after one quarter.

SURGE STARTS

Hall had most of his starters on the bench before the period ended and that rest plus some verbal nudging from the coach paid off.

The Huskies promptly applied a full court press that rattled the Parkers and proceeded to turn their foe's miscues into points. Seven points in a row made it, 18-16, and PNH finally moved in front, 26-24, at the 1:42 mark on a pair of free throws by Joe Bradley.

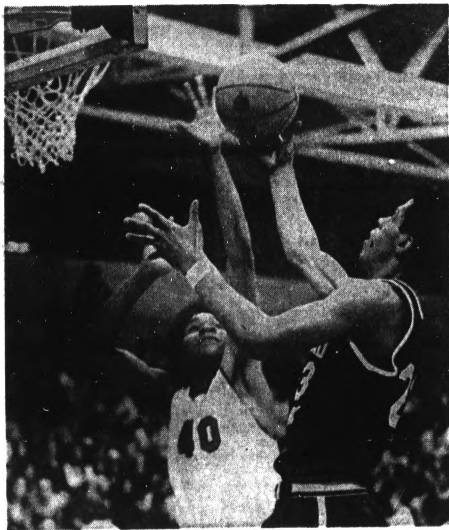

STEAL PAYS OFF

Moncrief stole the ball with just seconds left and laid it in to give the Huskies the 28-24 halftime margin.

The third period was much of the same but more so. Moncrief, Bradley and Ernie Crawford took turns making baskets and the Huskies outscored the

116 Breeds in Show

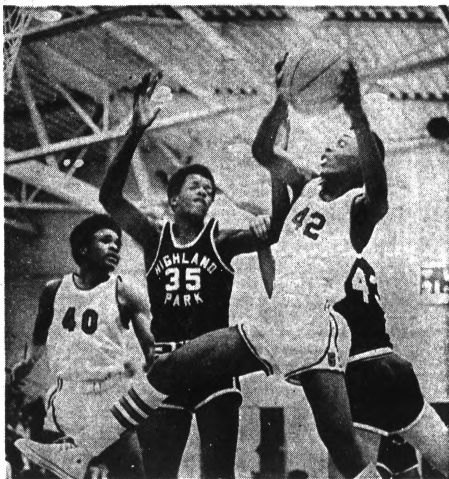

NEW YORK (AP) — Entries for February's Westminster Kennel Club Show at Madison Square Garden closed Tuesday with a total of 2,556 dogs comprising 116 breeds. Poodles led the list.

UNDER PRESSURE — Highland Park's Glen Croton (23) has to contend with the long arm of Pontiac Northern's Sheldon Fisher (40) as he tries to get a shot away during the first half of their game at Pontiac Northern last night.

THE PONTIAC PRESS SPORTS

HUSTLING HUSKIES — Forward Charles Moncrief (42) of Pontiac Northern beats Highland Park's Joe Broughton (35) to this rebound in the second half of their game last night at PNH. Hanging onto Broughton's arm is teammate James Valesano. No. 40 at left is Sheldon Fisher. Pontiac Northern won, 64-47.

Frazier Retains 5-State Boxing Title

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Joe Frazier retained his five state heavyweight title, but his failure to knockout or even deck Oscar Bonavena Tuesday night rubbed some of the glamour off the unbeaten champion.

There was no doubt that the 24-year-old Frazier tried every punch in the book to try and keno the doctored Argentinian, but he wound up a tired, frustrated winner by unanimous decision of the two judges and referee.

Judge Nate Lopinson scored it for Frazier 74-64 under the Pennsylvania system of five points must for the winner of a round, and four or less for the loser. Judge Dave Beloff carded it 72-64, and referee Joe Sweeney 70-67.

The Associated Press had Frazier an easy 72-63 winner with the count 12-3 in rounds.

SEVERAL CUTS

Although Frazier won handily, the triumph wasn't as easy as the score indicated. The winner suffered a cut inside his lower lip, his jaw was swollen and needed an ice pack, and he complained of a sore right hip.

He obviously was tired from the longest and apparently toughest of his 22-fight career.

The strong-jawed challenger, a bull of a man with hair to match, left the ring with both eyes almost shut and blood jutting from cuts about the eyes. His nose was red and he looked a loser.

The 26-year-old Bonavena didn't protest the verdict that deprived him of a chance to lift Frazier's five-state title—New York, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Illinois, and Maine.

"I thought the fight was closer than the decision," he said. "He is not the master. I'm satisfied with the decision but disappointed."

NO WAY

Bonavena confirmed the fight he fought—his back to the ropes attempting to beat off the driving Frazier with counterpunches —when he observed, "I was looking for enough room to get in one good shot. But Frazier was crowding me and I couldn't find my way."

Red Wings Call Goalie Edwards Up From Farm

DETROIT (AP) — Goalie Roy Edwards, who replaced Roger Crozier for a time last season, was recalled by the Detroit Red Wings from their Fort Worth farm club Tuesday.

Edwards, 31, replaces 20-year-old Gerry Grey, who has been Crozier's back-up goalie since Terry Sawchuk broke a finger on his catching hand during a practice last week. Sawchuk is expected to be sidelined at least one more week.

Grey, headed back to the Fort Worth club, did not appear in any National Hockey League games since his emergency callup.

Captain Alex Delvecchio, who missed his first two regular season games in four years last weekend, did not travel to the West Coast for a two-game series Wednesday and Thursday; the team said.

The Wings play Los Angeles today and Oakland Thursday.

Delvecchio suffered bruised ribs when he crashed into the boards during a game last week.

Prior to the rib injury, Delvecchio had missed 26 games out of a possible 1186. This is his 17th season.

Owner of Buffalo Bills Makes Inspection of Seattle Stadium Site

SEATTLE (AP) — Ralph C. Wilson, Jr., owner of the Buffalo Bills of the American Football League, was in Seattle Monday with two other club executives and inspected stadium sites.

A New York newspaper had predicted the Bills, who have the poorest record in professional football, will switch their franchise to Seattle.

Wilson held no news conference but it was known he visited with King County Commissioners, who have called upon architects to suggest ideas for a new $40 million domed stadium approved by the voters.

The stadium will house the Seattle Pilots of the American Baseball League and, presumably, would be the playing site for any pro football team franchised here.

Fast Start Enables Skippers to Collect Second Decision

The outlook continues to look prosperous for the Skippers of Waterford Township.

Showing a lot of scoring balance, the Skippers ran up an early lead and held on for a 74-70 victory over Clarkston's Wolves last night.

It was the second win in a row for the Skippers (2-0), who journey to Walled Lake Friday to raise the curtain on Inter-Lakes Conference play.

After the Walled Lake engagement, the Skippers are home for games against West Bloomfield (Dec. 17) and Southfield Lathrup (Dec. 20) before they take time out for Christmas.

DROP 2ND TILT

For Clarkston, the loss was the second in three outings and the Wolves are

Mott's Corsairs Drop 3rd Game

Waterford Mott's Corsairs fluttered in the second half and wound up on the losing end of a 65-49 decision at Dearborn last night.

The loss was the third straight for the young Corsairs, who journey to Dearborn Heights to meet Ann Arbor before taking time out for the holidays.

FALLS BEHIND

Mott stayed in the game for a half, trailing 25-24 at intermission, but the host quintet gained a 19-13 edge in the third period and sewed it up with a 21-12 edge in the final frame.

Bill Ziem tossed in 18 points and Erick Ernst added 10 for the Corsairs. Ziem had a hot night as he hit on nine of 14 shots, most of them from long range.

Jack Lorente tossed in 27 points to spark the Dearborn attack. Mark Packer added 16.

home Friday night for a Wayne-Oakland League contest against strong Bloomfield Hills Andover.

The Skippers managed a 16-13 lead in the first frame and made it 38-27 at halftime with a 22-14 edge in the second stanza.

BOTH HOT

"We had a real good second period and," said Taylor, "Seven times in the first frame and made it 38-27 at halftime with a 22-14 edge in the second stanza."

With Waterford up by 13 points after three frames, Taylor and Clarkston coach Bud McGrath went to their benches freely and the Wolves managed to slice into the Waterford margin by posting a 23-14 edge.

TURNOVERS HURT

"We ran into a lot of turnovers in the fourth," said Taylor. "Seven times in a row we turned the ball over without scoring a basket."

In the scoring column, Bruce Carlson set the pace for Waterford with 22 points, while Bill Foley added 15 and Bob Finkle 11.

Eric Hood tossed in 24, to spark Clarkston and teammate Chuck Granger collected 23.

Carlson and Foley combined to give Waterford a 44-35 edge in the rebounding department.

Eaglets, Titans Stay Unbeaten in Easy Wins

Waterford Our Lady Slips Past St. Rita for First Decision

With some preliminary scraps behind them, the Eaglets of Orchard Lake St. Mary and the Titans of Pontiac Catholic are now tuning for their early showdown Friday on the Titans floor.

Both picked up victories last night to run their records to 3-0 in Northwest Catholic League play, so the winner Friday evening will be all alone at the top.

EASY WINS

The Eaglets whipped Ferndale St. James, 73-50, and the Titans eased past Farmington Our Lady of Sorrows last night, 71-40. In another league outing, Waterford Our Lady of Lake (1-2) broke into the win column with a 67-52 decision over Detroit St. Rita.

"I'm glad I'm coaching so I'll get a seat," says Titans coach Mel Larsen, who is anticipating a full house (2,300) for the Eagle-Titan clash.

"I can't see how we'll miss a full house. (Tim) Mege is quite a guy they want to see him play. I'm just glad we'll have a chance to play them," says Larsen.

EAGLETS' STAR

Mege is the Eaglets' spark plug and the Oakland County scoring champ for the past two seasons. Last night, he bagged 32 points to spark the easy OLSM victory.

After taking a 35-21 lead at intermission, the Eaglets coasted the rest of the way. Tom Sudek aided Mege with 16 points and Tad Cyman tossed in 10.

LEAD AT HALF

The Titans managed a 34-22 advantage at intermission and held the upper hand the rest of the way.

The big guy for the Titans was center Steve Hoffman, who bagged 16 points and pulled down 21 rebounds. Herb Larson added 17 points, Sam Brady 14 and Barry Burch 11. Brady and Kelly Dean ran into early foul trouble and played about half the game.

FALL BEHIND

The Lakers of WOLL fell behind in the first stanza, 18-16, but a 22-13 performance in the second game gave them a 38-31 lead at intermission.

"It was a better ball game," said new coach Dean Webster of the Lakers' initial win. "We're starting to put it together. We were fast-breaking a lot better."

Jerry Yezbick supplied the scoring punch for the Lakers with 21 points, while Pat McColligan picked up 17 and Dave Calme added 16.

The Lakers entertain St. Francis de Sales Friday night.

Conclusive Outcome Wanted

Eliminate Ties—Parseghian

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP)—"However, there are many problems to consider—such as coach who has been involved in airplane connections for the visiting team, the fact it gets dark games the last three seasons, around 4:30 and what method said Tuesday night should be used to decide the outcome. I think most coaches would like to see a conclusion to games just as I would," Parseghian said.

Statistics Show Tigers Also Tops in Fielding

BOSTON (AP)—The Detroit Tigers had more than hitting and pitching en route to the American League pennant.

Official figures announced by today that the Tigers jumped from fifth place to first in the league in team fielding in 1968.

The Tigers, who fielded .978 in missing the pennant by one game 1967, flashed a tight defense in winning the flag this year. They compiled an average of .983, just two percentage points below the league record set by the Baltimore Orioles in 1964.

Although outfielder Mickey Stanley, who switched to shortstop to help Detroit win the World Series against the St. Louis Cardinals, was the only individual leader, the Tigers committed only 105 errors, 27 fewer than in 1967.

Simpson vs. Keyes in Hula Bowl Tilt

HONOLULU (AP)—Helsman award winner O. J. Simpson of Southern California has been selected to play in the 23rd annual Hula Bowl football game here Jan. 4.

Leroy Keyes, Purdue's top halfback, was selected to head the North halfback. Keyes was runnerup for the 1968 Heisman Award behind Simpson. This will be the first time Keyes and Simpson will play against each other.

It was previously announced that Michigan State's Charley Wedemeyer would be on the North team.

Orlando's QB League's MVP

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP)—Orlando quarterback Don Jones has been named Most Valuable Player in the Continental Football League.

Jones led Orlando to its second straight CFL championship with a 10-2 regular-season record and victories over Indianapolis and Orange County in the title playoffs.

Farmington 5 in Squeaker

Farmington's Falcons applied the pressure in the fourth quarter and came away with a 59-55 basketball verdict over Southfield's Blue Jays last night.

In a couple of other games, Hazel Park turned in a 62-54 decision over Warren, and Fenton got hot in the second half and downed Northville, 75-65.

PULLS CLOSE

Southfield, down 29-21 at intermission, battled back to tie the game in the third stanza and trailed by a point after three quarters, 41-40.

The lead see-sawed in the fourth, but Farmington turned on the defensive pressure and made points of the Southfield miscues to put the game in the victory column.

PACE ATTACK

Randy Cleveland tossed in 18 points and Mark Lynott added

11 to pace the Farmington attack. Roger O'vink led Southfield with 13 and Scott Miller picked up 11.

Farmington actually won the game at the free throw line, making 21 of 34, while Southfield managed only 13 of 22.

LEAD DISAPPEARS

Northville rolled to a 35-29 lead at intermission and appeared headed for a mild upset.

FIND RANGE

Adams collected 29 points, bagging 12 baskets primarily from long range, while Stevenson added 12 points to the Fenton (2-1) total.

Northville visits Milford in a Wayne-Oakland League game Friday night.

LATE RALLY

Hazel Park waited until the final three minutes of the game before extracting the victory over Warren.

The Hazel Parkers were down at halftime, 36-25, and after three frames, 49-45, but they outscored Warren in the fourth, 17-4, to take the decision.

TIES SCORE

Al Petrich's field goal with 2:17 left in the game tied it at 54-54 and Hazel Park picked up the final eight points. Leon LaCross tallied six of those.

Petrich led Hazel Park with 23 markers and Jim Merchel collected 18. Dave Kazemczak tossed in 24 for Warren.

West Sparks Knights Past Oak Park, 69-67

The Knights of Bloomfield Hills Lahser have found the victory formula, but Cranbrook's Cranes continue to have their trouble on the basketball court.

STILL WINLESS — Cranbrook closed its pre-holiday activity with an 0-3 mark after bowing to a hot Algonac squad, 73-60.

Lahser seemingly had the game sewed up, but Oak Park rallied to turn it into a thriller.

LOSES LEAD — After 60-53 after three quarters, Lahser said that lead disappeared as Oak Park scored 10 points in a row to go in front, 63-60, and the Knights remained behind until the final minute to play.

With just 30 seconds left, Bernie McPheeley stole the ball and raced in for a layup that put the Knights ahead, 66-67, and Rod Roehrig added a free throw moments later to close out the scoring.

SPARKS ATTACK — Bill West collected 23 points to pace the attack for the Knights, while Tim Graham contributed 15 and McPheeley 12.

Larry Sherman collected 25 markers to lead Oak Park while Paul Kutnick added 17 and Sandy Glassman 10.

Cranbrook's Cranes couldn't cope with the rebounding power of Algonac and slowly fell behind. It was 18-10 at half and 38-28 at intermission.

Rick Johnson led the winners with 23 points.

Oneal Sanders sparked Cranbrook with 18 markers. Ron Ponda added 10 and Mel Sigler contributed 11.

ALBION (AP)—Albion's Mike Wilson scored 33 points, but it wasn't enough Tuesday night as the Britons fell to the Alma Scots 101-83 in the Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Association for both teams. Taking the sting out of Wilson's attack was sophomore forward Charles Hudson who scored 27 points and balanced scoring from the remainder of the squad.

Alma is now 3-0 overall and 1-0 in the conference. Albion is 2-1 and 1-0.

Troy Colts Toil Overtime to Down Lamphere, 39-38

Troy's defense looks like a tough nut to crack. After leaving the gates open in the first quarter and falling behind 18-7, the Colts tightened the defense and went on to a 39-38 overtime victory over Madison Heights Lamphere last night.

Colts UNBEATEN — The Colts, running their record to 2-0, were down 25-20 at intermission and finally moved in front after three stanzas, 32-27. But Lamphere then rallied to tie the game at 35-35 in regulation. The tying bucket was a 25-footer by Dan Pett.

In the extra session, Brad Faber tallied on a driving layup and Kerry Brown canned a pair of free throws.

TOP SCORER — For the evening, Faber led all scorers with 14 points while Brown contributed nine and Rod Losey eight.

Dan Kubik paced the Lamphere attack with 12 points. The loss was the third in a row for the Rams.

OTHER GAMES — In other games, Warren Fitzgerald downed Clawson, 68-58, Warren Lincoln whipped Lutheran East, 60-57, Roseville turned back Roseville Brabec, 70-49, and Warren Cousino aimed a 63-44 setback on Alton Stevenson.

Comeback Victory for Liston

BALTIMORE (AP) — Former heavyweight champion Sonny Liston—high on the comeback trail—battled what may have been the last barrier to getting a crack at the crown again by knocking out Amos "Big Train" Lincoln Tuesday night.

The 36-year-old boxer made no bones about it. He's ready and eager to take on Joe Frazier, who successfully defeated his five-state heavyweight title against Argentina's Oscar Bonavena in Philadelphia Tuesday night.

An untired Liston told newsmen after flattening Lincoln in 2:46 of the second round that he wants to win back the championship and "put boxing back on its right feet."

Liston weighed 215, Lincoln 209.

Liston won the heavyweight crown from Floyd Patterson on Sept. 25, 1962 and lost it Feb. 25, 1964 to Cassius Clay by failing to come out for the seventh round. Liston now says he would like to retire as heavyweight champion.

KAYO BINGE

The powerful fighter has now posted 11 straight knockouts since he was knocked out in the first round of a rematch with Clay in 1965.

Lincoln, the 32-year-old ex-fighting partner of Liston, came on in the first round almost confidently, countering Liston's jabs with his own.

But Liston was never phased. The second round was mayhem. Liston plowed left and right jabs to Lincoln's face and body, hardly missing aim once.

Lincoln was knocked to his knees and took the mandatory eight count. A handler threw a towel in a futile attempt to stop the slaughter, but referee Benny Goldstein let it continue. Under World Boxing Association rules, only the referee can halt the fight in mid-round.

Liston dug in with another flurry of punches and Lincoln was knocked out cold. He landed on his back, shoulders across the bottom rope.

Handlers administered mouth-to-mouth resuscitation before Lincoln staggered to his feet.

Liston's manager, Dick Salter, complained that the referee should have stopped the fight immediately after the first knockdown.

Pistons' Losing Skid at 6

PISTON BUCKET—Dave DeBusschere (22) of the Detroit Pistons drops in a layup shot in the opening period against the Chicago Bulls last night in Chicago as Bob Boozer (19) of the Bulls fails to stop the drive. The Pistons' skid continued as Chicago won a 100-83 decision.

CHICAGO (UPI) — Paul Seymour may be wondering right now just why he took over as head coach of the Detroit Pistons.

Since Seymour and Domina Butcher switched jobs — Seymour becoming the head man and Butcher the assistant and scout — the Pistons have lost four in a row. Their losing streak is now six all told.

The schedule, injuries and illness have all teamed up to give Detroit what must be at least Excedrin headache No. 658.

It was the same sad story Tuesday night, as the five Chicago starters all scored in double figures to enable the Rick Barnett scored five cru their second in a row.

SCORING SAG

Eddie Miles led Detroit with 18 points, while guard Dave Bird continued his recent scoring slump due to a slow recovery from the flu. Bird tallied just 15.

Jerry Sloan was high in the game with 19, Jim Washington had 17, Bob Boozer 16, Clem

Haskins 14 and seven-foot center Tom Boerwinkle dropped in 10.

In other National Basketball Association action, the Baltimore Bullets regained first place in the Eastern Division by routing the Boston Celtics 115-101. Earl Monroe hit for 30 points while Kevin Loughery netted 21 to lead the Baltimore attack.

It was the first meeting between the two Eastern Division teams who have battled for the top spot since the beginning of the season. The Bullets now hold a one game advantage over the Celtics.

Jim Barnes paced Boston with 19 points.

CRUCIAL POINTS

New York rallied to win its sixth straight game at home as Dick Barnett scored five crucial points in the waning minutes and the Knicks went on to defeat the Phoenix Suns 111-106.

Barnett hit a jumper with three minutes to play and then followed with a three-point play. He sat out half the game with a bandaged finger that had been dislocated early in the game. Elvin Hayes scored 39 points and Don Kojis and John Block netted 56 more to lead the San Diego Rockets to a 132-120 victory over the Philadelphia 76ers. San Diego led throughout the game as it continually beat the 76ers to the basket. Hal Greer scored 25 points for Philadelphia.

Senators' Slugger to Get Ruth Award

BALTIMORE (AP) — Outfielder Frank Howard of the Washington Senators will receive the Babe Ruth Crown here next Jan. 10 as baseball's 1968 Sultan of Swat.

The 6-foot-7, 260-pound slugger led the major leagues in home runs last season with 44. He also was second over-all in runs batted in with 106, and ninth in batting in the American League at .274.

Howard's outstanding season hit its peak during six days last May when he clouted 10 homers. His career total is 242.

The home run crown will be presented at the 16th annual Sports in Sports banquet sponsored by the Maryland Professional Baseball Players Association.

Rookie Joins Exclusive Club

NEW YORK (AP) — Paul Ruskus, to lead the AFL in his rookie season, has rushed for 1,000 yards in his first year with Buffalo, but year. Jim Nance of Boston, who against New York last Sunday he had played several previous set the league record of 1,458 in the 1966, picked up 321 in his first season.

Robinson, Gilchrist, Haynes and Nance are among nine members of the AFL's 1,000-yard club. Houston's Hoyle Granger, San Diego's Paul Lowe, Oakland's Clem Daniels, Kansas City's Mike Garrett and Houston's Charlie Tolar are the others.

Defense Made Pact

Extra Effort Aids Colts

NEW YORK (AP) — "When rank third, behind Dallas and we lost Johnny Unitas," said Coach Don Shula of the Baltimore Colts, "the defensive unit got together and made a pact among themselves to put forth an extra effort."

That something extra has carried the Colts within reach of the best defensive record in the National Football League since the advent of 14-game schedules seven years ago.

The Colts have not allowed a touchdown in their last four games and have yielded 120 points in all while compiling a 12-1 record to nail the Coastal Division title.

The fewest points allowed since 1961 is 14, by the 1963 Chicago Bears. The 1946 Pittsburgh Steelers yielded 117 in 11 games for the post World War II low.

RANK THIRD

Baltimore's offense, supposedly crippled by the loss of Unitas early in the season, has been surprisingly effective under the leadership of back-up quarterback Earl Morrall. The Colts

Dairy Farmer Makes Plans

Butterfat Yields Hunting Trips

By DON VOGEL

Keep one eye on the butterfat production and the other on the calendar... plan a hunting trip accordingly.

That's what Nelson W. (Bill) Tucker, 1965 Oakwood, Brandon Township, does each year. He has been successful on all counts.

For the last three years the dairy herd he and sons Tom and Tim worry over has won top honors in the Lapeer DHIA competition.

"I'd rather you write about the dairy herd than the hunting," Bill stated. Although 16,000-plus pounds of butterfat during the last year isn't anything to sneeze at, neither is a six-year log that shows 23,000 miles in hunting trips in the United States and Canada.

Tucker, George Starr and Wilbur Lane, both of Hadley, and Fred Veselski of Flint have made safaris to Colorado, Wyoming, Montana and New Brunswick each year since the fall of 1963.

MOOSE HUNT

The latest was a first look at moose hunting in Newfoundland.

"This was by far our best trip," said Tucker. "We plan to return next year and hunt caribou and moose." The quartet didn't get a crack at the caribou this year because they applied for licenses too late. All filled moose tags.

Outfitter Bill Newell of Cornersbrook, N.F. will take care of the caribou permits for 1969.

"Some of the fellows at other camps had caribou permits," said Tucker, "but they didn't see a one. We saw plenty."

One thing that impressed the farmer-hunter were the guides hired by Newell. "They always called us sir. I tried to get mine to call me Bill, but it was always the same."

Fish Licenses Now on Sale; Little Change

Fishing licenses for 1969 are on sale at dealers throughout the state.

As in the past, trout and salmon stamps must be validated by attaching them to annual resident or nonresident fishing licenses.

Fishing licenses stand by themselves. This is a change from last year under which the Department of Natural Resources has discarded the system of having all stamps and licenses affixed to basic identification cards.

All 1969 fishing licenses, except the special one for senior resident anglers, have been raised 10 cents since last year. That increase is for dealers to help defray higher handling costs.

PRICES SET

The lineup of licenses carries these new prices:

Resident annual, $3.10; non-resident annual, $6.10; resident trout and salmon (stamp), $2.10; nonresident trout and salmon (stamp), $3.10; resident 7-day, $3.10; nonresident 7-day, $5.10; resident and nonresident 1-day Great Lakes stamp for lake trout and salmon, $1.10.

Wives of licensed fishermen, both resident and non-resident, may fish free. Under both of the 7-day licenses, husbands and their wives may take an type of fish, including trout, splake and salmon.

Also entitled to all brands of fishing are residents 65 years and older who buy special licenses at 50 cents.

Caberfae Adds Area

CADILLAC (UPI) — Caberfae Ski Area, Inc., announced Tuesday it is taking over the Big M. Winter Sports Area near Manistee under a lease arrangement.

"When we came up on the moose I shot, Henry said 'There he is, sir, do you think you can hit him?' Another thing, those guides carried out every bit of meat to matter how far in the bush we were."

"I know of one group that brought home only heads because their guides wouldn't lug the meat."

Tucker has collected a black bear, several mule deer and antelope and an elk on his western trips. He also has taken 16 Michigan whitetail bucks, but doesn't hunt in Northern Michigan anymore.

"I just can't get enthused after taking those trips elsewhere."

Besides, his sons are deer hunters and "someone has to manage the herd."

MINK HUNTING

The decline in fur prices is responsible for a curtailment in mink hunting.

One oldtime hunter, who will remain anonymous at his request because the method used is slightly illegal, outlined the "proper" procedure for harvesting mink.

"You need a good dog, a crow-bar and an axe. A shovel was optional."

The dog would either tree the mink or run it into a den along a river bank. If a treeing occurred, only a 22 rifle was needed.

But the bank bit called for using the other equipment to rout out the mink. The rifle was the clincher.

The crow-bar was used to break in the bank and the axe to cut away roots. Shovels seldom were employed. "This could be construed as trespassing," he said, "but everyone hunted this way."

REVERSE GEAR

Dan LaRose, former Detroit Lion now of the Pontiac Firebirds, had a rather backward deer hunting trip to the Upper Peninsula last month.

While field dressing a 190-pound buck, he sliced his finger. En route to Thompson for repairs, the forward gears went on the car. LaRose and his companion backed the car 10 miles before they located a phone to call for assistance.

The wound required eight stitches.

Foreign Game Birds Studied

Expert Will Appear
Before Commission

Natural resource leaders Thursday will get an expert's view of the chances for having some foreign game bird successfully introduced in this state.

On hand to discuss the possibilities at the informal Resources Commission will be Dr. Gardner Bump, in charge of foreign game investigations for the U.S. Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife.

The federal specialist in this field has been specifically asked by the Department of Natural Resources to explain whether he knows of any foreign game bird that might do well under Michigan's climate and habitat conditions.

DNR game men are showing special interest along these lines largely because of the recent slump in Southern Michigan's pheasant population.

Nearly 90,000 Tagged

Weather Curtailed Deer Kill

LANSING (AP)—Despite poor weather, Michigan deer hunters bagged nearly 90,000 animals during the 1968 season.

Although this represents a drop of about 11,000 deer over the 1967 season, Department of Natural Resources biologists stated that this indicates hunter success was pretty good in view of the inclement weather during the season.

The preliminary survey was taken from traffic counts along major northbound and southbound highways.

Part of the reason for the lower deer kill, the department said, was the reduced kill of antlerless deer. Only 34,350 animals were shot this fall, compared to 45,510 in 1967.

FEWER BUCKS

The buck kill held up surprisingly well, biologists stated, with an estimated 55,500 animals taken. The 1967 buck harvest was pegged at 55,110.

Hunters who went afield this year met rains and heavy snow. Rain particularly cut into the hunting efforts at crucial times, including the opening weekend and during the Thanksgiving holiday.

"Once that early gun pressure was lost, it couldn't be recovered," said biologist Dave Arnold. "Also, the poor weather at the start of this season kept deer inactive. After the first few days of shooting and the continued bad weather, deer got even more wary and harder to cover."

Deer hunters in Southern Michigan apparently established a record kill. It was estimated that the sportmen killed 9,400 bucks and 1,850 antlerless deer, compared to 8,530 bucks and 1,590 antlerless deer in 1967.

Seasonal Rangers Sought for Parks

Civil Service is seeking examination applications from high school graduates to screen potential state park rangers for the 1969 season.

Eligible to apply for a Jan. 25 written test covering the recruit ranger positions are youths who will be at least 18 years old by next June 30, and have earned their high school diplomas, by then. Deadline for applying is Dec. 23.

The park ranger positions pay a starting bi-weekly salary of $216 and are located in various state parks throughout Michigan. Candidates selected to fill these openings will be employed 24 to 7 months next season within the March-November period.

Third Authority Director

Area Man Assumes H-M Post Jan. 1

An Oakland County resident will soon head the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority in 1967. He is David O. Laidlaw, 160 Dawson, Milford Township, former superintendent of Kensington Metropolitan Park, who is serving as deputy director of the authority until he becomes director Jan. 1.

Laidlaw's next assignment was an operations supervisor at Kensington Park, where he worked with the project engineer on construction and management and hired and supervised personnel for the initial park operations — which began in May of 1948.

OVER 2 MILLION

During the first year an estimated 94,000 persons visited Kensington Park, while currently the park will have over 2 1/2 million visitors when the 1968 season concludes at the end of December.

This first major project led to a system of eight parks within the valleys of the Huron and Clinton Rivers, with three sites in Oakland County.

Laidlaw holds membership in the Michigan Forestry and Parks Association, Michigan Recreation and Park Association, Michigan Parks Association, Northwest Recreation and Park Association and the National Recreation and Park Association.

He has appeared before many civic and park groups and in October was a program chairman at the annual Congress for Recreation and Parks held in Seattle, Washington.

He has been chairman of the Governor's Conference on Recreation and Parks, and the State Recreation Advisory Committee and active in Michigan Natural Resources Council, Citizens Action Council—"Michigan—America's Recreation State."

FORMER SCOUT

As a youngster Laidlaw attended elementary school and high school in Tecumseh. "It was there as a member of the Boy Scouts that I developed an appreciation for the outdoors."

This influenced me to get into park work as a career," remarked Laidlaw.

He was graduated from Michigan State University with a bachelor of science degree in park and municipal forestry in 1941 and in 1945 attended the command and general staff school of the Army, Fort Leavenworth, Kan.

Plinking at Insulators Often Endangers Others

Plinking at insulators on electric service as few others do," he points out.

Consumers, Edison and other utilities dealing in electric power are plagued with shooters zeroing in on insulators. In an attempt to curtail the vandalism, consumers has increased its reward from $100 to $500 for information leading to the conviction of offenders.

FLASHOVER

The damage often doesn't show until moisture causes a flashover of electric current, according to Wall. "Then we find that several insulators in a row have been damaged and we know that gunshots were the cause."

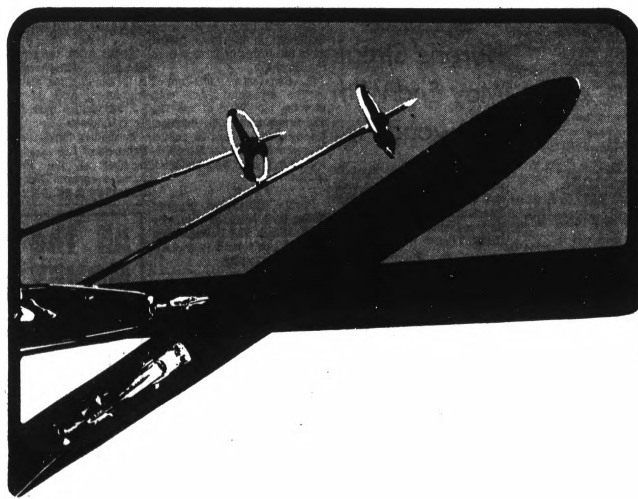

Power company crews keep a close watch on lines particularly during hunting seasons. But the damage isn't always noticeable... until the power fails.

Fish Hearings on Pesticide

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Twice as much pesticide can be found in Lake Michigan fish as in ocean specimens, a California scientist said Tuesday during a series of hearings on DDT pollution.

Robert Relebo of the University of California's marine resources institute said only the lower Mississippi River appears to have an insecticide pollution threat to wildlife greater than that of the lake.

DETROIT (AP)—Put a police-some persons called "silly look-man on a scooter and perk up" minicops.

Some officials say that's what appears to be happening in Detroit, where Police Commissioner Johannes E. Spreen has introduced the Community Oriented Patrol (COP), putting in 36, now 62, officers on what

Prior to the scooter patrol, Spreen says, police contact with the community was "negative," making arrests and on-the-scene investigations.

'LETTERS OF PRAISE'
"Now, we're continually getting letters of praise from home owners and businessmen," he says. Police officials add that a frequent comment from businessmen is: "I rarely saw a policeman until the scooter patrol began patrolling."

Some police scoffed at the scooter idea when Spreen initiated it last September. A few even called it "Spreen's folly."

But Spreen says officers of the scooter patrol now "seem excited about the job."

"The people like you when you stop and talk with them," says one patrolman, a 12-year veteran of cruisers.

'LIKE A MAGNET'
"A scooter officer is like a magnet — kids swarm around him," adds Inspector Robert W. Moore, commander of one of two stations at which the program first was tested.

The original scooter patrol has logged some 1,000 miles each, and patrolmen have had personal contact with an estimated 30,000 citizens, said Lt. Richard Bouton, one of the officers in charge of the program.

So far, the department's worst fears about the program—police injuries and scooter thefts—have not materialized.

In the first two months of the program, the patrol made 51 arrests, including 22 for felonies.

Yugoslavia Talks

BELGRADE (AP)—Walter P. Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers, arrived Tuesday for talks with Yugoslav trade union officials.

Scooters also have been effective in chasing suspects on foot and in searching for lost children, because they can cover more territory and afford wider vision than scout cars, Spreen says.

HANDY VEHICLES
"They are handy for spotting purse snatchers and thieves who steal from shoppers' cars, so the department has created an afternoon scooter shift to patrol large shopping areas."

A rumor that one patrol would be moved to downtown Detroit for the Christmas shopping season didn't go over too well with citizens, however.

Inspector Odson T. Tetreault says some 100 persons called to protest any moving of the scooter patrol out of their neighborhood. One complainant threatened to picket the police department if the move materialized.

"I told him if that happened, I'd join him," Tetreault says.

$64.85 is all you spend—but you get a lot more than a $64.85 suit. To begin with, the fabric is a fine wool worsted: smooth and luxurious. The tailoring complements it handsomely, in well-cut, well-detailed two-button models . . . with flap pockets, side or center vents, and two pair of trousers; in a large assortment of patterns and colors including solids, stripes, plaids and multicolor checks. Deep-tone and medium shades of grey, blue, olive, green or brown; in a wide range of proportioned sizes.

Former Attorney General Rogers

Ex-Ike Aide to Succeed Rusk

NEW YORK (AP) — William P. Rogers, attorney general for three years in the Eisenhower administration, will be named secretary of state by President-elect Nixon when he announces his Cabinet appointments to the nation tonight.

Before flying to Washington for a live television-radio appearance at 10 p.m. EST, Nixon invited Vice President-elect Spiro T. Agnew to his New York headquarters for an advance peek at the Cabinet roster.

Rogers, 55, has been a New York and Washington lawyer since leaving the attorney generalship in 1961. He has had extensive government experience but his only formal role in foreign affairs was as a member of the U.S. delegation to the 20th General Assembly of the United Nations in 1965, by appointment of Johnson.

Word of some other Cabinet selections has already gained public circulation.

- Gov. George Romney of Michigan, according to informed Republican party officials in Washington, will be secretary of housing and urban development.

- Another Republican governor, Walter J. Hickel of Alaska, will be secretary of the interior, according to Alaska's senior-elect, Mike Gravel, a Democrat.
- There were strong reports Rep. Melvin R. Laird, R-Wis., would be secretary of defense.

- Nixon told reporters yesterday he would announce today a major post for Republican Lt. Gov. Robert Finch of California. It was generally believed

Nixon mentioned Finch in announcing a surprise appointment for sociologist Daniel P. Moynihan, a Democrat.

Nixon said Moynihan, an assistant secretary of labor in the Kennedy and Johnson administrations, would be his White House assistant for urban problems — a new position he said would elevate Moynihan to the same status as Dr. Henry A. Kissinger, his assistant on national security affairs.

Nixon announced plans to create a council for urban affairs — "a counterpart of the National Security Council."

All members of the Nixon Cabinet were expected to be at Washington's Shoreham Hotel for tonight's announcements. Nixon aides said nominees for other high positions might be disclosed.

MOMENT OF CRASH — Pieces of a truck-trailer rig fly above the roof of a Canadian National train yesterday near Kingston, Ont., as the train sliced the truck rig in half at a crossing. A London (Ont.) Free Press photographer, Ernie

Lee, was in the observation dome ready for a shot of the new train meeting another train coming from Montreal when he took this picture. The truck driver was shaken up and a signalman injured.

U.S. Orders More Spot Checks of Mines

WASHINGTON (AP) — As an aftermath of the West Virginia coal mine disaster, the federal government is ordering its inspectors to increase fivefold the number of spot inspections and to scrap a rule that could tip off mines pending checks.

In addition, the Bureau of Mines' new director, John F. O'Leary, said he was setting up machinery so miners suspecting a mine to be unsafe may secretly request an inspection.

Tomorrow — less than a month after 78 miners were entombed by explosions at the Farmington, W. Va., mine — some 200 representatives of industry, labor, government and the public are to meet in Washington for a coal mine safety conference.

Secretary of Interior Stewart L. Udall is expected to disclose a proposed administration coal bill that would give the Bureau of Mines authority to set safety standards for Coal Mines.

Udall also is expected to acknowledge that the government has not done all it could under existing law to prevent such disasters as struck the Farmington mine.

O'Leary, 42, a career man who took over as Bureau of Mines director only a month before November's mine disaster said in an interview he didn't think the bureau had the proper enforcement authority over coal mines.

But he also acknowledged, "I don't feel that in the past we have exhausted the limits of the authorities that we do have."

Showers Possible in Area Thursday

Christmas shoppers may look forward to mild temperatures and partly cloudy skies tonight with a chance of showers tomorrow.

Temperatures will become a little warmer. Tonight's low is expected to be 25 to 30 and tomorrow's high will be in the 39-to-44-degree range.

Cloudy and mild with showers likely is Friday's forecast.

Today's winds from the south will increase to 15 to 20 miles per hour then diminish to eight to 12 miles tonight and become south to southwest at 15 to 22 miles tomorrow.

Precipitation probabilities in per cent are: 10 tonight; 20 tomorrow.

Eighteen was the low thermometer reading prior to 8 a.m. today in downtown Pontiac. By 12:30 p.m. the mercury had climbed to 26.

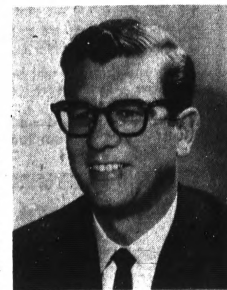

Suit Charges Daley

CHICAGO (UPI) — A U.S. District Court suit charges Mayor Richard J. Daley with misusing public funds in preparing the television documentary "What Trees Do They Plant?" which defended police tactics during the Democratic National Convention.

The suit, filed yesterday by the Chicago Legal Defense Committee on behalf of 13 persons, also asked the court to declare unconstitutional the laws under which demonstrators were arrested in Chicago during convention-week violence.

ONE COLOR MAKE OVER PADES Hotel Set Ablaze; Four Dead in N.J.

PATERSON, N.J. (AP) — Four bodies were recovered today in the smoldering ruins of a downtown hotel destroyed by fire that police said was the work of arsonists.

Owner Charles Convery estimated damage at $200,000.

At least 10 persons were treated at hospitals, but none was reported in serious condition.

Firemen battled the blaze for several hours in numbing subfreezing temperatures.

Squabbles Stall Paris Sessions

PARIS (AP) — The wrangle over prestige symbols threatens to delay indefinitely the start of the enlarged Vietnam peace talks.

Some American officials who once were confident that the talks would get under way early this week now appear to have lost hope of starting before the end of the year. Some western diplomats from other countries think the deadlock might continue until President-elect Nixon's inauguration Jan. 20.

In a two-hour meeting yesterday, U.S. negotiator Cyrus Vance and Col. Ha Van Lau of North Vietnam deadlocked again over such prestige issues as the shape of the conference table and the speaking order at the first meeting.

Vance and Lau also exchanged strongly worded protests over air and artillery activity in North Vietnam and the demilitarized zone, but both appeared more concerned with the dispute over procedure for the talks than with the protests.

The United States earlier turned down Hanoi's proposal that the conference meet at a square table, an arrangement which would symbolize that the delegation from the Vietcong's National Liberation Front was on an equal basis with the delegations from the United States and North Vietnam.

Although this would also give Saigon's delegation a side of its own and would thus undercut the NLF's contention that the Saigon government is a bunch of U.S. puppets who don't represent the South Vietnamese people, the United States rejected the square table.

Dark Until 11 A.M. — Scots See Light

STORNOWAY, Scotland (AP) — The sturdy Scots of the town of Stornoway, on the island of Lewis off northwest Scotland have had enough of Britain's new time. They are putting their clocks back one hour to Greenwich Mean Time to give themselves an hour more of light in the morning.

Britain used to do the same every year this year summer time is continuing through the winter as an experiment.

The experiment is under heavy fire from schools and parents who complain children are going to school in the dark and braving increased traffic hazards. At Stornoway, 48 miles south of the Arctic Circle, it was night until 11 a.m.

Police Sgt. Stanley Nesson said he convinced about 10 persons not to jump from a ledge. He said they were rescued moments later by firemen.

'NEIGHBORHOOD VENDETTA'

Deputy Police Chief Solomon Reines said the fire was "definitely arson." He said there has been a "neighborhood vendetta" against occupants of the hotel who were described as mostly elderly transients.

Officials said there was a minor fire at the hotel recently which was extinguished without injuries to any occupants.

Fire Commissioner Edwin Englehardt said witnesses told authorities they saw a band of young men throw gasoline-soaked rags into the building before the fire broke out.

One witness, Mrs. Raymond Borges, 31, who with her husband runs the Orchid Room bar across from the hotel, said, "I ran out into the street and saw people screaming from windows."

COULDN'T ESCAPE

Her husband, Raymond, 37, said he spotted the hotel clerk at a window he was unable to fit through because of his size.

"He was a heavy guy. He couldn't get through the window," Borges said.

Mrs. Mary Brown, 35, who was visiting a friend in the hotel when the fire broke out, was among the first to sound the alarm. She said she fled down a fire escape with three others.

If the Flu Strikes ...

If the Hong Kong flu epidemic hits Michigan, don't panic. "The flu you might catch in an epidemic is no more serious than the flu you might get as an individual case," says Dr. George Pickett, health director for Detroit and Wayne County.

"An epidemic simply increases the likelihood of catching the illness," he said. Dr. Bernard D. Berman of the Oakland County Health Department agrees.

'NOT DEADLY SERIOUS'

"Influenza is not a deadly serious disease," he said. "The new Hong Kong flu is reported less severe than the previous Asian influenza we have experienced." "The dangers," according to Dr. Berman, "lie in the complications which may develop, such as pneumonia and middle-ear infections. These complications can cause prolonged disability and may even prove fatal, particularly in the elderly and those with chronic illnesses which make them less resistant."

Symptoms of the Hong Kong flu are common with many other illnesses, health authorities say. The disease characteristically starts suddenly with headache, chills, fever and muscle aches, with a sore throat, runny nose and cough following the next day or so.

Czechs Crave Freedom, McDonald Says

is the first congressman, and possibly the first U.S. official with diplomatic status, to tour the Eastern European city since its take-over in August.

"There is nothing but hostility toward the Russians now that the Czechs have been deprived of freedom of the press, freedom of speech and freedom of elections, which were so near," McDonald said today.

"The people want a chance now that they have tasted it," he added, "though they seem to realize that it could take 10 or 15 years."

INVITED BY COLONEL

McDonald made the trip on the invitation of a Czech government official he had met a year earlier at the Russian Embassy in Washington.

The official, identified by McDonald only as a Czech air force colonel, was sent back to Prague before the invasion.

"I decided to take him up on the offer because it was a great opportunity, and I was pleasantly surprised when I was issued a visa that I had applied for a month earlier."

During his stay, McDonald said that the official served as his host and interpreter, introducing him to people and acting as his guide.

"When I first met him here, I thought he was very pro-Russian, but that wasn't the impression he gave since the invasion," said McDonald.

McDonald arrived home late Monday after spending Nov. 27-29 in Prague and the surrounding area.

At no time, said McDonald, did he see a Russian soldier, "though I've been told there are about 70,000 still stationed in the country."

There is evidence of anti-Russian sentiment everywhere in the city, according to McDonald.

CITY WALLS SCARRED

Walls throughout the city have remnants of messages that had to be wiped or scratched off before the Russians would leave, he said.

In theaters and restaurants, entertainers are careful when they make jest of the Russians.

"They use double-meaning words that get the message across," McDonald said.

"All Russian movies, which once were popular, have been discontinued because they have been boycotted," he said.

The most open display against the Russians is in the central square of the city, where wreaths and flowers a half-block long are replenished each day in honor of the 70 persons killed during and after the invasion.

As a member of the House Public Works Committee, McDonald said he was interested in that area of endeavor, but was thoroughly unimpressed by what he was shown.

"For example," said McDonald, "I saw a road construction site where men were placing eight-inch blocks down by hand like they did 200 years ago."

Contrast Seen in Cost of Living Index

This will be difficult to believe, but the cost of living is lower than it was 10 years ago — on a selective basis, that is.

Television sets and vacuum cleaners, for example, cost 20 per cent less than they did in 1958, according to the Government's Consumer Price Index. Refrigerators have dropped 16 per cent; radios 13 per cent; washing machines, 10 per cent. Drug prices are down 2 per cent. If allowance is made for improvements and extras, automobiles cost about the same as they did 10 years ago.

That doesn't exhaust the list. Portable tape recorders, movie cameras, color film, nylon hose, some wrist watches, girls' handbags, electric drills, clothes dryers and garbage disposal units are cheaper than they were 10 years ago. And all of these products are better made.

By contrast, notes the National Observer, daily hospital service has skyrocketed by 131 per cent since 1957-59. The cost of owning a home has risen more than 26 per cent. Movie admissions are up more than 85 per cent; doctors' fees, 46 per cent; auto insurance, 47 per cent.

It is the soaring cost of "services," where productivity cannot be measured in numbers of widgets stamped out per hour, that is chiefly responsible for the overall rise in the cost of living of 22.9 per cent in the past decade.

Warren W. Abbott

The death at 67 of WARREN W. ABBOTT cost the community a highly respected citizen and a dedicated educator.

Mr. ABBOTT became superintendent of Roosevelt School in Keego Harbor in 1930 after serving on its faculty for some years. He relinquished the post in 1953 when the school combined with two others to form the West Bloomfield School District.

Subsequently he joined the Pontiac school system, serving as principal at different schools until his retirement in 1964.

State Safety Commission's Timely Tire Tips

From the Michigan State Safety Commission comes timely suggestions for readying automobiles against the rugged driving conditions of the winter months that lie ahead.

While the Commission urges that every auto be given a thorough mechanical and "fluids" checkup in preparation for combating weather and highway impediments, it emphasizes the need for particular attention to tires.

"We have stretched our luck with the good weather conditions and dry pavements of most of the fall season, and many drivers will be caught unprepared for stormy weather and slippery roads," reads the Commission's advisory.

Here are some tire tips it offers:

- If your vehicle is still equipped with regular tires, make sure they have good tread.
- If you put on snow tires, so much the better. They will help pull you through deep, loose snow.

- Studded tires are particularly helpful on ice and hard-packed snow, but be sure that you are not depending on studs that have flipped in service. Get down and check them.
- Whatever your tire preference, don't get caught without tire chains in your trunk. When you need them, you really appreciate them. National Safety Council tests, conducted annually for more than 25 years, show that reinforced tire chains are the best traction aid for severe snow and ice conditions.

No car is safer than its tires, and in no context does the timeless axiom "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure" better apply.

School's Financial Peril Is Growing

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

WASHINGTON (NEA) The closing of the public schools in Youngstown, Ohio, from now until Jan. 2 for lack of funds is merely the newest and most dramatic evidence of a growing phenomenon in this nation — the near financial starvation of from 30 to 50 school districts a year.

The cause of Youngstown's closings was the failure by some 1,500 votes of a tax increase proposition at the polls on Nov. 5.

It failed chiefly in poorer ethnic wards where the many Catholic citizens who send their children to parochial schools dislike the rising burden of public school costs.

But Youngstown seems to be unique only in the fact of its total shutdown. Last year Cincinnati and Los Angeles schools felt the money pinch for lack of new levies. At earlier times, Cleveland and St. Louis have been affected.

MOUNTING THREAT

Education officials who now are checking this matter carefully see it as a mounting threat to the continuity of school for thousands of American children in elementary and secondary grades.

How do badly pinched school systems meet their financial emergencies? The responses naturally are immensely varied.

Los Angeles eliminated foreign language teaching and physical education in the elementary grades, left teacher vacancies unfilled and made classes larger.

Cincinnati schools temporarily did away with football and other extracurricular activities. At the next opportunity, voting parents went to the polls and voted the needed extra levies.

CUTTING CORNERS

Obviously, the larger the school system the more chances there will be for cutting some corners and keeping basic education going.

A common practice is to cut maintenance outlays, though this can be costly in the long run if it speeds the deterioration of school properties.

There are instances where individual sets of parents actually are asked to volunteer contributions to help defray maintenance costs.

Though plainly there are numerous repleters among the communities which suffer financial malnutrition, authorities in education estimate that perhaps as many as 150 have been affected altogether in recent years and suggest that the proportion will rise among the nation's roughly 22,000 school districts.

The laws which compel putting the issue before the voting public on a fairly regular basis are complex and varied, and cannot be detailed here.

SPECIAL SITUATIONS

Situations sometimes are special, as when a large industry paying heavy taxes suddenly shuts up shop and leaves town, throwing a heightened burden on remaining taxpayers.

Areas where state aid to schools is a huge budget factor naturally are having the least trouble. But it is notable that in many states education today accounts for 40 to 50 per cent of total annual budget costs.

Hundreds of major school systems still are not near the financial peril point. But the warning signs highlighted by Youngstown are ominously clear.

David Lawrence Says:

Isolationism Might Lead to War

WASHINGTON — The war protesters of today may prove to be the war makers of tomorrow. That's what happened prior to each of the two world wars.

For it was a mistaken impression abroad that the United States was lacking in resoluteness, LAWRENCE which caused the enemy both times to violate American rights and force this country directly into the conflict.

The current revival of isolationism — the belief that the United States can give up all its commitments around the world, bring back its troops from Vietnam, and, in effect, announce that it will no longer give aid to rebel aggression — has been supported by "peace" demonstrations not only in the colleges but in the streets of many of our cities.

Some members of Congress have advocated virtual withdrawal from foreign involvements of any kind.

What is little understood is that dictators and irresponsible governments which have substantial military power study carefully the statements made by prominent Americans and watch the course of antiwar demonstrations.

NO RESISTANCE?

Thus, the feeling has grown recently in the realms of communism that the United States will not again resist a takeover of a smaller country by an aggressor regime.

Today there are trouble spots in the Middle East as well as in Southeast Asia.

The Soviets are building up their naval forces in the Mediterranean, and this will make the problems of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization even more difficult if it should be called upon to protect Italy, Greece and Turkey, along with Western Europe, from invasion.

There are signs that the Red Chinese may have become disillusioned with their Soviet allies and could turn out to be a friendlier to the United States than has hitherto been imagined.

MINUTEMAN OF AID

Already Peking is considering a diminution of its aid to the Hanoi government as Moscow emerges as the principal factor in dictating the terms North Vietnam will require for an armistice settlement like that in Korea.

Meanwhile, misunderstanding and miscalculations can grow. Secretary of Defense Clark Clifford, undoubtedly, with the best intentions, has just proposed that there be a mutual withdrawal of United States and North Vietnamese troops from South Vietnam starting in the next 40 days.

But nothing was said about how to prevent the Vietcong, which is a military arm of the North Vietnamese, from continuing guerrilla warfare in South Vietnam.

The big questions are whether the North Vietnamese, who can any day go back across the border into South Vietnam, will honor the obligations of an armistice agreement and whether any international force will again defend the invaded country.

Peace in the world today and for many years to come depends on the resoluteness of the United States — whether the American people are prepared to help protect weaker nations around the globe.

Bob Considine Says:

Nixon Needs Some Help in Locating Top Minds

WASHINGTON — I knew President-elect Richard Nixon would come around to it, sooner or later. He's asked me to help him stock his administration with men and women who by their qualities of youthfulness, judgment, intelligence and creativity can make significant contributions to our country.

"I seek the best minds in America to meet the challenges of this rapidly changing world," he said.

Well, folks, the request didn't do anything to shrink my hat size, particularly when Dick's letter noted, "You, as a leader, etc."

Alas, it has now been learned that the same letter went out to all 66,000 persons listed in Who's Who. Thus, Elvis Presley also was asked to browse among his friends and fan clubs in search of the best minds available. So was Casey Stengel.

INTERESTING

Who's Who provided the bulk of the selected list of addressees. About 14,000 additional Americans received similar letters. If all those in Who's Who send in recommendations it might be worth looking into what Castro, Kossygin, Khrushchev, Mao Tse-tung and Ho Chi Minh have to say. Also, if the form letters went to everybody whose biography is miniaturized in that noble tome, Nixon got a letter signed "sincerely, Richard M. Nixon."

Each letter enclosed a couple of application blanks to be filled out by chosen applicants.

CONSIDINE

for the thousands of executive department seats which will be emptied when LBJ moves out.

There's an inadvertent slight in each of the form letters. The recipient is asked to recommend somebody else and send him or her the application to fill out.

The person who received the letter is presumed not to have "qualities of youthfulness, judgment, intelligence and creativity," or be numbered among "the best minds in America." But maybe he knows somebody like that, right?

I'm sending my two blanks to a couple of guys who will soon be out of work: Hubert Humphrey and Earl Warren.

'Disagree With Editorial on Hart, Auto Industry'

In regard to your editorial on Senator Philip A. Hart's stand on the auto industry, I agree with him 100 per cent. You state that most Washington politicians fight for their state industry. I submit that this is in part why our affairs are in such a mess. Instead of trying to correct the deceit and corrupt practices of these obvious rackets, these men take the popular stand and avoid criticism at all costs.

It is obvious Mr. Hart is a man for the people of this State and not a patsy for big business. He realizes he is not a public relations man for the auto industry. It is well and good to put praise where it is deserved but not at the cost of shutting our eyes to these shortcomings.

Again I say hurrah for Hart. We need more men like him and he could use help in cleaning up this mess, instead of criticism. The timing was great.

'Teach Children to Honor Anthem, Flag'

I attended a sports event at a local high school recently and to my great delight the National Anthem was played before the game. But to my utter disgust, it was a guitar-strumming, out-of-tune version similar to the one played at a World Series game in October. Why? I was told it was because students found it hard to sing the proper tune and didn't like it. I've never particularly cared for the arrangement of the stars and stripes in our flag. Let's change that too. And the Great Seal of the United States is difficult to draw. I could master it better if it had a chicken instead of an eagle.

Shall we permit our Country to be lowered to the level of the non-artist, the non-singer, the non-dancer? Or shall we insist that our schools teach our children how to honor the flag, sing the National Anthem, and raise themselves to the heights of this great country.

Question and Answer

A few months ago I read in your column that people could pay for sand and gravel for their driveways and the County Road Commission would deliver it. I called and was told they don't do this and never have. At the end of the street just before we go into our driveway there are large holes, getting bigger all the time. The only answer we got was if we want it filled, we should do it ourselves. Can you help?

MRS. BETTY SHELBY

REPLY

We didn't say the Road Commission would do that for your driveway, we said for the road. However, Mr. Loomis says if holes are in the travel portion of the road, the Commission will sell you the gravel ($1 per yard, minimum 20 yards) and they'll pay for hauling and spreading. Call the maintenance office, and someone will come out to tell you if it can be done and how much is needed. Just be sure to tell them how to reach you and at what hours you're home. Let us know if there are any more problems.

Nixon's Plans...

Rome L'Espresso

Once he has made sure George Wallace is not just a passing phenomenon Mr. Nixon will let the Alabama demagogue continue to hold sway over the racists' extreme right and will try to push the Democratic party into the arms of the Eugene McCarthyite left wing, and install the Republican party in the golden center. In so doing, he will be creating a vast coalition of forces and interests similar to what Johnson dreamed of when he launched his politics of consensus, only this time the coalition will be much more solid because it will be much more firmly rooted in youthful forces, and freed of heavy Federal programs.

Green designates a directional sign ("Next Exit 2 miles"), red denotes a restriction: "stop," "do not enter," or "wrong way," for instance. White on black gives a part-time regulation while black on white shows full-time rules such as "one way."

Yellow is used for caution signs, "slippery when wet," or an intersection cross.

seen. Situations often arise where a number of signs are posted within a short distance to one another.

Thus, a code of eye-catching color is being put into use across the nation's highways and city streets so that no matter where a motorist may be traveling, he will know what sign to look for.

A system of symbols, known as "glyphs" in Europe where they originated, also is being tested to give instant instruction to drivers without using words.

The average motorist already recognizes the red, white and blue shield sign, the interstate route shield. Twelve colors proposed by the Joint National Committee on Uniform Traffic Control Devices also signal a sign's purpose on many Connecticut roads.

Orange means temporary danger — "men working" — while blue announces available roadside services. Brown marks scenic and recreation areas.

But the system has its complications because many drivers are color-blind. Red and green, so important in road signs, are the two which the color blind find most difficult to identify.

To compensate, experts add just enough yellow to the red and a bit of blue to the green so that both are distinguishable to everyone.

A uniform sign language not only on a nationwide, but also on a worldwide basis, certainly would be a welcome aid to getting today's millions of travelers where they want to go safely and with the least trouble.
