Pontiac Changes Liquor Rules Despite Protests

Allow Dancing, Alter Time of Sunday Sales

Clergymen Express Complaints Before Near Full Chambers

Despite protests from a near-capacity audience, the Pontiac City Commission approved two liquor ordinances last night.

After a two-hour debate, the commission voted 5-2 to allow dancing in local taverns and bars with class C liquor licenses.

Commissioners William H. Taylor Jr. and Charles H. Harmon voted against the ordinance amendment.

A second ordinance change, setting the beginning of Sunday sales of beer and wine by the glass at noon instead of 2 p.m., was approved by a 4-3 margin.

Commissioner Milton R. Henry joined Taylor and Harmon in voting against the second proposal. Both amendments take effect in ten days.

Pontiac church leaders, tavern owners and others jammed the second-floor chambers of the commission to discuss the controversial changes.

An estimated 200 to 300 spectators debated dancing, alcohol and the effects of both.

Dr. Milton Bank of Central Methodist Church headed the opposition and cited statistics to show the evil effects of alcohol.

Stating that he was opposed to the dancing amendment because "It won't upgrade Pontiac and I think it is a backward step," Commissioner Harmon listed the number of liquor licenses now in the city.

He said there were two class B hotel licenses, 36 class C, 18 tavern, 7 club, 24 package liquor, and 134 beer and wine licenses.

Commissioner Taylor, who also voted no, estimated that for every $1 received for the dancing permits, the city would spend $4 policing the establishments.

Also referring to the policing problems, Commissioner Loy L. Ledford said it was solely up to the individual bar owners.

Commissioners Winford E. Bottom and Dick M. Kirby expressed the view that Pontiac should try to keep some of the business that is now going to neighboring areas.

Mayor Robert A. Landry received an ovation from the large audience for his position that the responsibility for the effects of alcohol was up to the individual.

Pontiac's mayor further stated that the intent of the ordinance changes was clearly mistaken. He said the amended ordinances merely brought the city in line with the rest of the state and county.

WHAT ARE YOU DOING HERE?—Mrs. Herman Sturm of 2443 Gerald, Avon Township, found her sister, Mrs. William Damon of 192 Mechanic, in the next maternity ward hospital bed at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital Monday. Mrs. Sturm gave birth to a 6-pound, 10-ounce baby boy at 3:51 a.m. Monday. Her sister gave birth to a 7-pound, 4-ounce girl eight hours later. Hospital officials obligingly put the two new mothers in the same room.

Civil Rights Battles Cross Many Fronts

FROM OUR NEWS WIRES

WASHINGTON — The congressional battle o[illegible] civil rights blazed across many fronts today, from integration in sports stadiums to a proposed investigation of the leaders of racial demonstrations.

Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick told the Senate Commerce Committee today that the major leagues are now almost totally integrated both on the playing field and in the stands.

In Columbia, S.C., Gov. Donald Russell ordered state troopers into racially torn Charleston today and placed National Guard troopers on an alert basis in case they are needed to put down further violence.

Six Charleston policemen and a fireman were slightly injured last night in the first outbreak of violence in the month-long series of antisegregation demonstrations here.

Frick said baseball "paid a price" for integration with the loss of several minor league clubs in the South. But over-all, it has worked out to the satisfaction of almost everyone concerned, he said.

He conceded that the introduction of Negro players into baseball shortly after World War II was approached with some fears but declared "We had no reaction at all, no incidents" based on race.

Commissioners Pete Rozelle of the National Football League and Joe Foss of the American Football League, said those organizations had few racial problems.

Earlier, Govs. Ross R. Barnett of Mississippi and George C. Wallace of Alabama and Atty. Gen. Bruce Bennett of Arkansas urged the committee to investigate what they pictured as Communist influences bent on a divide and conquer strategy.

The Pentagon, faced with protests it was encouraging military personnel to take part in demonstrations, issued orders last night restricting and practically barring such activities while in uniform.

★ ★ ★

Negro leader Martin Luther King believes as many as 200,000 integrationists will take part in a scheduled Aug. 28 march-on-Washington.

AFL-CIO President George Meany asked Congress today to help the Negro find the same job opportunities on the assem-

Forecaster Turns On Overhead Sprinkler

All of Oakland County may look forward to more showers tonight and tomorrow.

The weatherman said tonight's low will be a warm 70 but temperatures will make it cooler late tomorrow after a high during the day of 85.

A light rain measuring .05 of an inch quenched the thirst of parched gardens and lawns during the night.

The low recording in downtown Pontiac before 8 a.m. was 64. The thermometer reading at 2 p.m. was 89.

SEC Probers Recommend Stock Exchange Overhaul

Court Orders Reapportioning of Oklahoma

Ruling Shatters Rural Domination of Houses; Deadline '64 Elections

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (AP) — A three-judge federal court, in a unanimous decision that shattered half a century of rural domination, ordered today the reapportionment of both houses of the Oklahoma Legislature on the basis of population.

The new formula was ordered into effect before the 1964 elections.

★ ★ ★

Rural forces have promised to appeal the decision, saying they will carry it to the U.S. Supreme Court if necessary.

The 24-page opinion was handed down by Judge Alfred Murrah of the 10th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, and U.S. Dist. Judges Fred Daugherty and Ross Rizley.

The judges said they reached the decision "with reluctance."

★ ★ ★

The opinion followed a plan presented by college professors at one of the hearings on the original case brought by Harry Moss of Oklahoma City.

★ ★ ★

The plan continues the Senate membership at 44 but where currently Oklahoma and Tulsa counties have only one senator each, under the new plan Oklahoma County will have eight and Tulsa County seven.

Oklahoma County has the largest population of the state's 77 counties, and Tulsa County is second.

Comanche County, the state's third largest county in population, will have two senators and four House members.

The court declared it was convinced the legislature would never realign its membership in accordance with the court's concept of equal protection as provided by the 14th Amendment of the Constitution.

LAKE YIELDS CAR — This car that plunged through the ice in Cass Lake last March into 70 feet of water was recovered yesterday. Divers Larry Miller (left) of the state police and sheriff's deputy Medward Tessier guide the car in. Lt. Donald Kratt of the sheriff's department conducted the recovery. Divers made several unsuccessful attempts to find the car before locating it two weeks ago. Three occupants of the car jumped out before it went through the ice.

Do Reds Have Shipment?

$32 Million in Grain Vanishes

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate Republicans are pressing for a congressional investigation into reports that 24 million bushels of U.S. grain vanished somewhere on the way to Austria.

★ ★ ★

The $32 million worth of corn, barley and sorghum "could have gone behind the Iron Curtain" in violation of U.S. barter agreements, said Sen. John J. Williams R-Del., yesterday in demanding a Senate investigation.

★ ★ ★

Or, he said, the grain "may have been diverted and sold in Western Germany for dollars," which would also be a violation.

Barter deals are restricted to non-Communist countries that would not otherwise pay dollars for U.S. farm products.

Lester P. Condon, Agriculture Department inspector general, said evidence uncovered so far does not indicate the grain went behind the Iron Curtain, but that some of it might have wound up in West Germany where it could hurt cash markets for U.S. grain.

★ ★ ★

Condon said the United States suffered no loss on the shipments intended for Austria because it received the agreed upon minerals in the barter exchange.

ARRESTS MADE

Williams said seven importers have been arrested in Austria and that he does not see how the grain could have disappeared without some collusion with someone in this country, although no Americans have been implicated.

Williams said the Justice Department should join the investigation.

"This is really big stuff," said Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirkson of Illinois in backing Williams' request to create a special Senate committee and give it $100,000 to look into the case.

Dirksen said the grain was loaded on ships in this country but apparently never got to Austria.

Sen. Jack Miller, R-Iowa, said "the silence has been deafening" since he asked Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman last month about the disappearance and what was being done to prevent such cases from recurring.

Condon said the department is seeking to prevent any possible repetition by requiring American exporters to submit papers showing where bartered goods are unloaded abroad.

"There appears to be an effort on the part of some bureaucratic officials to excuse this illegal diversion on the basis of carelessness or incompetence," Williams said.

★ ★ ★

"No man can be so stupid or so incompetent as to lose completely 24 million bushels of grain without knowing it," he said.

Bulky Report Calls for End to Floor Trade

Policing of Members Selling Specific Items Included in Changes

WASHINGTON (AP)—An unexpectedly drastic overhaul of the operation and self-policing of the nation's major stock exchanges was recommended today by Securities and Exchange Commission probers.

The recommendation was in the second bulky installment of a two-year investigation of the securities markets.

★ ★ ★

The report, calling for the outright abolition of floor trading, was sent to Congress by SEC Chairman William L. Cary, without an official endorsement of any of the dozens of specific changes proposed by the investigation team.

Cary said the five-volume report pictured "basically strong institutions subject to many specific weaknesses and abuses" and reassured investors that:

"This report should not impair public confidence in the securities markets, but should strengthen it as suggestions for rising standards are put into practice."

★ ★ ★

The report struck at ancient institutions of the "big board"—the New York Stock Exchange—and, to a lesser extent, of the second-ranking American Stock Exchange by recommending:

● Elimination, in two steps over the next 18 months, of floor trading on both exchanges.

This is the buying and selling of stocks by members on the exchange floor in quest of quick profits. The investigators held that it has an unstablizing effect.

● Stiffer exchange rules to correct what was described as "inadequate" policing of stock specialists.

Mother Will Face Death Charge

The mother of three small girls who died in a Waterford Township fire, will be arraigned Monday on an involuntary manslaughter charge.

Mrs. Harriet Kittles waived examination in a preliminary arraignment yesterday afternoon before Waterford Township Justice John E. McGrath.

McGrath bound her over for appearance in Oakland County Circuit Court at 1:30 p.m. Monday.

Mrs. Kittles, 32, will appear in court at the same time as George Mishenko, 34, who also faces an involuntary manslaughter charge.

They are accused of negligence resulting in the deaths of Patricia Ann Mishenko, 4 months, Laura Mishenko, 18 months, and Tammy Lee Kittles, 2.

The children died when fire gutted the home at 1825 Manse, Waterford Township, which Mrs. Kittles shared with Mishenko.

Police say the couple left the children unattended while they were out drinking at a tavern.

The fire was apparently caused by a cigarette smoldering in a sofa.

Describes Tragic Evening

"We were only going to be gone 15 or 20 minutes."

But those minutes lengthened into hours and three small children died in a fire that swept their Waterford Township home.

Patricia Ann Mishenko, 4 months, Laura Mishenko, 18 months, and Tammy Lee Kittles, 2 years, died early Sunday in a fire that gutted the first floor of the home at 1825 Manse.

★ ★ ★

Twisting a handkerchief in her lap as she sat awaiting arraignment yesterday on an involuntary manslaughter charge, Mrs. Harriet Kittles retraced those hours.

She said George Mishenko, 34, with whom she lived at the Manse address, suggested they go out and get a drink.

"He had been drinking all day," she added.

She said she thought the chil-

Mrs. Kittles, who collapsed when she returned home to find the house blackened, was released at noon yesterday from Pontiac General Hospital.

Besides shock, she was being treated for a bump on the head and black eye she said was inflicted by Mishenko when they were returning from the tavern.

At Justice McGrath's court, her outward composure vanished and she began sobbing gently as her legal rights were explained.

A $3,000 bond was posted for Mrs. Kittles two hours later, and she was released from the county jail.

Mishenko, who waived examination Monday, still is held there unable to post $3,000 bond set by Justice McGrath.

bly line that he now enjoys on the baseball filed.

In testimony prepared for the House Judiciary Committee, Meany supported the administration's request for statutory authority for the President's Commitee on Equal Employment Opportunity.

In Charleston, officers arrested 95 of the approximate 400 Negro demonstrators during last night's riots.

Police chief William F. Kelly called all city policemen to duty and also summoned a contingent of county policemen and 24 state troopers as a "precautionary measure . . . when a greater crowd (of Negroes) built up" after the riot.

DISPERSED

But the Negroes gradually dispersed after milling around a church, three blocks from police headquarters, for awhile.

None of the injured officers was believed seriously hurt.

Other racial news:

● In Savannah a Negro fireman was wounded slightly last night by a rifle bullet fired from a passing car. Six white teenagers were arrested within minutes.

The victim, Warnell Robinson, 29, said he saw the car pass and heard a shot and a bullet hit him in the stomach.

He was treated at a hospital and released.

Police arrested four youths at a drive-in restaurant about 10 minutes after the shots were fired. Two others had left the car and were picked up later.

FORMING COMMITTEE

During the day more than 70 business leaders began organizing a committee to seek a solution to the city's racial problems. The group is not connected with a similar committee of religious leaders.

● In New York, the seven major U.S. antisegregation groups today were setting up an "emergency" council to help them expand and coordinate their struggle for civil rights across the nation.

The new organization will be known as the Council for United Civil Rights Leadership (CUCRL), Roy Wilkins, executive director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) said last night.

* * *

Along with the NAACP, groups participating in the CUCRL were the National Urban League; Congress of Racial Equality; Southern Christian Leadership Conference; Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee; National Council of Negro Women, and the NAACP legal defense fund.

The contractor at a Harlem bank remodeling job reached agreement on hiring practices with civil rights groups yesterday, ending demonstrations which had forced suspension of work for 12 days.

● In Cambridge, Md., integration leaders pressed for concrete proposals from a newly formed biracial committee today, and delayed a decision on whether to resume demonstrations in this trigger-taut fishing community.

Demonstrations had been suspended for 24 hours—until midday today—on the condition that the committee come up with proposals for desegregation.

* * *

● In Columbus, Ga., the Muscogee County (Columbus) School Board agreed unanimously today to desegregate the county's public schools and libraries.

● In Birmingham, Ala., about 200 hand-picked citizens braved the curses and jeers of Ku Klux Klansmen and other militant segregationists last night to attend the first meeting of a blue-ribbon, biracial committee to work for racial peace here.

* * *

● In Detroit, Negroes today continued to mount pressure on Wayne County Prosecutor Samuel Olsen to reopen the investigation into the shooting death of a young Negro woman.

* * *

Arthur L. Johnson, executive director of the NAACP, asked Olsen for a meeting to discuss the matter. Olsen said he was drafting a letter telling Johnson he would be glad to meet with the NAACP, but that he would not reopen the case unless new evidence was presented.

Progress Hinted in N-Ban Talks

MOSCOW (AP)—U.S. and British negotiators met Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko today in another three-hour session amid signs they were making progress toward agreement on a limited nuclear test-ban treaty.

In a surprise development, a Communist delegation from East Germany headed by Foreign Minister Lotar Boltz arrived in the Soviet capital. The official news agency Tass said they were here to discuss "foreign policy questions of interest to both sides." It did not elaborate.

East German sources said there was "nothing dramatic" about their visit.

* * *

The East Germans would have nothing to do with the signing of a nuclear treaty among the three nuclear powers but they would have a connection with a nonaggression pact which Premier Khrushchev has called for as a condition to a test ban treaty with the West.

Gromyko met the East Germans at the airport before turning up for his session with the U.S. and British negotiators.

His meeting with the western teams lasted 3 hours and 10 minutes.

* * *

Hart Parries With Wallace

Argue Civil Rights in Vigorous Exchange

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sharp and pointed all the way was yesterday's civil rights exchange between Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace and Michigan Sen. Philip A. Hart — including its discussion of heaven.

Alabama's chief executive and the Democratic senator lanced vigorously.

Hart broached the subject of heaven.

"What do you think heaven will be like, will it be segregated?"

"I don't think any of us knows what heaven will be like," Wallace answered. "God made us all, he made you and me white. He made others black. He segregated us."

Hart asked the heaven question after Wallace stated he bore no hatred toward anyone and believed in God and tried to follow religious teachings.

Following Wallace's answer, Hart said he would pursue the subject no further except to say he presumed "we would all be one family in heaven under one loving father."

Hart and Wallace exchanged comparisons of discrimination in their home states.

Each defended his own.

During their discussion both indictated exasperation at times.

Wallace named three Michigan cities — Wyandotte, Owosso and Dearborn — where he said segregation existed.

* * *

Hart admitted there was discrimination in Michigan but said it differed from that in Alabama.

"Ours is a sophisticated form, yours is hard-nosed," he said. "I don't know which is worse, but we're both wrong."

Cuban Teachers Fired

HAVANA (UPI)—Forty schoolteachers in Las Villas Province have been fired for "immoral conduct contrary to the highest ideals of the fatherland," it was reported today.

Say Cubans to Quit U.S. for Latin Base

MIAMI (UPI) — A top Cuban exile organization, irked by U.S. interference with anti-Castro raids, said yesterday it will move to Central America to launch a new campaign against the Communist island.

* * *

Manuel Artime, the 31-year-old chief of the Revolutionary Recovery Movement (MRR), said he and top organization leaders would be leaving Miami "in the near future."

* * *

Artime, who was civilian leader of the abortive 1961 Bay of Pigs Invasion, said the move was prompted by the federal government's continual interference with exile raids on Cuba.

* * *

"Virtually all doors in the United States have been slammed shut on Cuban exiles who want to do something," he said.

Discount Rate Hiked by U.S.

Designed to Check Flow of Cash Abroad

From Our News Wires

WASHINGTON — A higher Federal Reserve discount rate went into effect today as the government intensified its campaign to check the flow of dollars abroad.

* * *

The Federal Reserve Board announced Tuesday a boost from 3 to 3.5 per cent in the discount rate for seven of the 12 reserve banks. The others are expected to follow promptly.

* * *

DEFICIT REVEALED

The board said preliminary information indicated that there was a substantial payments deficit in the April-June quarter.

Another source said the second-quarter deficit probably was at about the same $3.3 billion annual rate as in the first quarter of the year.

* * *

The board said its action was designed to ease the international payments problem. Chairman Wright Patman of the House Banking Committee said the move was terrible and that he would call in the members of the board for questioning.

The general public is not expected to be much affected by the boost in interest rates.

The action will not increase the present maximum interest rate of 4 per cent paid on savings account funds which remain on deposit for one year or more.

RAISE INTEREST

However, the Federal Reserve Board did authorize banks to raise the interest they pay on short-term deposits held by their business customers. The banks made no immediate move to take advantage of the authorization but they were expected to do so at any time.

The interest rates commercial banks charge consumers for installment loans and home mortgages are not likely to be increased on the heels of the discount hike.

School Board Gives OK for Expansion of Facility

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — The board of education last night approved final plans for expansion of its physical plant and discussed preliminary transportation plans.

* * *

Drawings for a $60,000 addition to Hickory Grove Elementary School were presented by the architectural firm of Terrapata and McMann of Bloomfield Hills.

The three-room addition will include a special room for handicapped children. It is to be completed by the beginning of the school year.

Board members also approved plans for a garage in which the district's 28 buses will be kept. The $20,000 structure will be built at East Hills Junior High School.

* * *

District buses are now parked outside Bloomfield High School. The board will soon advertise for bids on both projects.

Preliminary plans for a revised transportation program for next year were discussed, with walking areas being redefined.

The district, which transported 3,334 students last year, is facing a 10 per cent increase in enrollment.

* * *

No child next year will walk more than eight-tenths of a mile or need to cross or walk along a major highway — but more children will be walking.

* * *

Final transportation plans are expected to be presented at next month's meeting.

At its four-hour session last night, the school board also reviewed the district's elementary French program.

Mrs. Douglas C. Giles

Service for Mrs. Douglas C. (Martha R.) Giles of 1272 Villa, Birmingham, will be 10 a.m. Friday at the Alfred E. Crosby Mortuary, Highland Park. Burial will follow in Au Gres Cemetery, Au Gres.

Mrs. Giles died unexpectedly Monday while at the family's summer home near Tawas.

She was a past worthy matron of the Birmingham Chapter, Order of Eastern Star; past president of the Highland Park Rotary Club's Rotary Anns; and a member of the First Presbyterian Church of Birmingham.

Surviving besides her husband are a son, Richard C.; a daughter, Mrs. Douglas Christy; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Merle Robinson of Indianapolis, Ind.; two sisters; and two grandchildren.

John M. Riley

John M. Riley, 80, of 656 Purdy, Birmingham, died yesterday after a long illness. His body is at the Manley Bailey Funeral Home.

Mr. Riley was retired caretaker of the Congregational Church. He was also a life member of the Stonewall, Manitoba Lodge, F&AM.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Thomas McCall of Birmingham; a brother; and a grandson.

Fear Contagion of Egg Illness

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An outbreak of intestinal bacteria from cracked eggs has led Public Health Service physicians to believe the disease may be contagious.

Before the current epidemic, the bacteria, known as salmonella derby, was believed to emanate only from outside sources such as contaminated eggs.

But Dr. Eugene Sanders of the Public Health Service's Communicable Disease Center in Atlanta, Ga., has reported there now is "strong evidence" that it may be contagious.

"There is a reasonable possibility in some of the more recent cases that the bacteria has been spread from one person to another," he said. "We are now investigating this possibility."

Trial Is Ended on Guilty Plea

The trial of an Oak Park man accused of robbing a Bloomfield Township bank of $3,173 last March was stopped abruptly yesterday when he confessed in U.S. District Court.

Allan E. Morrison, 29, of 23960 Oakcrest, pleaded guilty before Federal Judge Wade H. McCree in Detroit.

Morrison admitted robbing the Manufacturers National Bank branch office at 4057 W. Maple, Bloomfield Township. He was released on a $25,000 cash bond to await sentencing.

Two other bank robbery charges against him will be held in abeyance.

50 Hurt as Monks, Saigon Police Clash

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Swinging rifle butts and clubs, South Vietnamese riot police laid into a demonstration of Buddhist monks, nuns and women and children followers today, injuring at least 50.

Police backed by helmeted troops arrested more than 200 demonstrators, flinging them bodily into army trucks.

Demonstrators sprawled in the dust as security forces kicked and clubbed them.

Smaller demonstrations, involving about 100 monks and nuns each, broke out around Saigon's central market and in Cholon, the Vietnamese capital's Chinatown. Riot police quelled them quickly and carried off several dozen more demonstrators.

The new Buddhist demonstrations against the government of President Ngo Dinh Diem, a Roman Catholic, erupted as a 48-hour hunger strike by more than 200 monks and nuns went into its second day.

The biggest demonstration was at Giac Minh pagoda, where more than 1,000 Buddhists gathered secretly overnight to march to the Xa Loi pagoda where the hunger strikers are.

Police got wind of the plan, threw barbed wire barricades across roads and called in troops.

Monks and nuns tried to break through the barbed wire several times but were thrown back. Two monks fainted and were laid prostrate in front of the wire.

A monk addressed the police and assembled newsmen over a portable public address system. He called on the United States to support the Buddhists and chanted slogans.

In a battle of public address systems, police chanted anti-Buddhist slogans back at the demonstrators.

Remnants of the demonstrators finally retreated toward the pagoda. Troops sealed off the narrow alleyway leading to it, then smashed through adjoining shop fronts to get at cornered Buddhists.

Mother Retraces Tragic Evening

dren, already bedded down for the night, would be safe. The couple left "about 10 or 11 p.m." (she isn't sure when), locking the house.

The following hours are a blur. Mrs. Kittles said, however, that, somehow, the drinks and talk in the bar kept them longer than expected.

"But I only had two mixed drinks, that's all," she insisted.

"We never left the children alone before," she exclaimed. 'George wouldn't let me. We always took them, with us wherever we went, to the stock car races, or the drive-in movies."

Her face seemed to brighten as she recalled their life before the fire.

Then her hand reached up to an elastic bandage holding a compress to her head, and moved down to a badly bruised left cheek.

"We were arguing about bills that night. He got mad and belted me," she explained. "George wasn't one to let things pass."

They were quarreling as they drove up to find their home gutted by fire.

A divorce action from her husband Charles, who has custody of her four other children somewhere in the state, never was completed, police say.

On Morals Charge

Nab Drive-In Owner

A warrant was issued yesterday against a 40-year-old Berkley man accused of operating a prostitution racket through his Birmingham drive-in restaurant.

* * *

Peter Nick of 1404 11-Mile Road was arrested at his home Tuesday night in a police trap sprung with the help of an 18-year-old Pontiac girl.

Nick was accused of attempting to persuade a female to enter prostitution. The official charge was pandering, which carries a maximum penalty of 20 years in prison.

* * *

The police trap was set up after another 18-year-old Pontiac girl told Birmingham police that Nick tried to persuade her to become a prostitute when she answered a newspaper ad for waitresses, according to Oakland County Assistant Prosecutor Robert Templin.

Templin issued the warrant against Nick, who owns the Mars Drive-In in Birmingham and Bel-Mar Restaurant in Royal Oak.

Templin said the girls who answered the ad were promised "lots of money" to work as both waitresses and prostitutes.

* * *

Templin said Nick was divorced and has a record of a 1959 conviction for statutory rape of a 16-year-old girl.

* * *

Nick appeared in Birmingham Municipal Court yesterday and demanded examination on the charge. Examination was set for July 26.

* * *

Nick is free on $500 bond.

He was arrested by state, Birmingham and Berkley police.

Two Renamed; Fill Vacancy on Hospital Board

The Pontiac City Commission last night reappointed two members to the Pontiac General Hospital Board of Trustees and selected a new member to fill a vacancy.

* * *

Reappointed to the 11-member board were Mrs. Edna B. Roush, 326 W. Iroquois, current secretary, and Robert A. Armstrong, 179 Cherokee, who begins his second four-year term.

* * *

John Q. Waddell, a realtor, was selected to fill the vacancy left by the resignation of Robert S. Nelson, 190 Ottawa.

* * *

The Board of Trustees is scheduled to meet tomorrow. New officers are expected to be chosen for one-year terms.

Young Wife Suffers 2 Family Tragedies

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP)— Mary Jane Pritchard, teen-aged wife of an Air Force man, returned to her mother's home in West Virginia last month to give birth to the couple's first child. The baby died.

Tuesday Mrs. Pritchard headed back to Dover Air Force Base near here to rejoin her husband, William, 20, airman second class. She was waiting for him near the railroad station when state police found her. They told her William had been killed in an auto accident on his way to meet her.

Guard Soon to Get Better Equipment

CAMP GRAYLING (UPI) — A top Defense Department official held out the promise today that National Guard troops will soon "be better equipped than at any time in their history."

Gene A. Robens, special assistant for reserve and National Guard affairs to the secretary of the Army, said, "definite plans have been made, both short and long range, and money is being provided to secure additional needed equipment for reserve forces."

Robens made the statement after inspecting the Michigan 46th Infantry National Guard division at work on the 130,000-acre Camp Grayling military reservation.

* * *

Robens said, "because of the long time need it will not mean the guard will get the latest, most sophisticated equipment along with the regular Army or even a month or a year later."

But he said definite steps were being taken to update the equipment of the reserve forces.

The one-time National Guard officer said training for reserve forces is now noticably better than it was two years ago when guard units were activated at the time of the Berlin crisis.

* * *

"There is no question that training has improved decidedly," he said.

"It is aimed at getting the guard and reserves as combat ready as possible — to have the troops ready for any mission with the least amount of delay."

Robens said following his inspection of the 46th he was impressed with "how professional the Army National Guard has become — due to its leadership and other factors such as supervision by the Army."

* * *

Robens was due to complete his inspection today. Also checking on the Michigan guardsmen today were Lt. Gen. Charles G. Dodge, commanding general of the 5th U.S. Army, 14 state legislators and civic, governmental and business leaders from Lansing and the Detroit area.

State Fair Plans More for All

By United Press International

"More to see — More that's free."

That's the keynote of the 1963 Michigan State Fair, set to open with a giant parade the evening of Aug. 23 and run through Labor Day, Sept. 2.

★ ★ ★

There'll be more to do, more to see and, fair officials hope, record-breaking crowds.

As a state fair, ours is the oldest in the nation. This year's event will be the 114th. Only Texas, which runs six more days, and Minnesota outrank the Michigan State Fair in attendance.

Last year, a record 1,002,681 poured through the gates to view this late summer attraction. And part of that crowd took home $125,478 in premiums offered farmers and homemakers.

In the last 10 years, the fair has shown a yearly average profit of $22,000. Last year, the profit soared to $119,503 as fair manager Walter Goodman advanced the date of the fair a week so children could attend before the opening of school.

PREPARE NOW

Termed the "Showplace of Michigan" by George Romney, the fairgrounds in Detroit is already a beehive of activity as preparations get underway for the giant opening.

The calendar is full of special days to honor various groups. There'll be a Veteran's Day, a Religion Day, a Sports Day, an Old Timer's Day, a Beauty Queen's Day, Governor's Day, Teachers' Day and International Day.

For the first time in the Mid-west, there will be a teen-age fair direct from Hollywood. This fair for youth will cover about 10 acres and will feature 300 special events.

Among them will be daily "rocket man" flights; competition among 32 Michigan high school bands; a folk song festival; a Miss Teen U.S.A. pageant; a motor fair; a music fair; a fashion fair and a science fiction horror film festival.

The midway, as usual, will be crammed with rides and shows for thrills, action and excitement.

One of the high points of the fair will come Sunday, Sept. 1, when the 250-mile new car race is held.

Horses and livestock will replace recording stars and entainers in the Coliseum with 12 indoor horse shows, including the international show of Clydesdales.

For those interested in home arts, the entire clubhouse area will be utilized by the home arts department this year, more than doubling the display space for this department. New competition includes the teen-age division of the cotton bag sewing contest, the wool needlework contest and a new division for decorated candies.

★ ★ ★

Free grandstand entertainment includes the stars of the Grand Ole Opry, fireworks and auto stunt driving.

MUSIC EVERYWHERE

A bonus treat will be free performances at the music shell featuring Duke Ellington, Johnny Desmond, Jimmy Wilkins, Les Elgart and Dinah Washington.

And there'll be music everywhere — in the picnic grove, in the old-timer's grove, in the band shell, in the grandstand and in the children's area as strolling musicians serenade fairgoers.

For the very young, there'll be a complete kiddie agricultural fair where baby animals will be housed in a farmyard setting. A kiddie playland will feature all the midway rides — in miniature. New this year is a special puppet theater with seating for 500 children and a TV fun circus, headlined by Detroit-area television performers.

★ ★ ★

The late Henry Ford will be saluted by the fair in various programs and places on the 100th anniversary of his birth. The Detroit Council of Churches again will sponsor a Sunday sunrise service on Aug. 25.

Hundreds of other special events, contests and entertainment acts too numerous to detail, also have been scheduled as fair officials live up to their promise of "More to see — More that's free."

Detroit Suburb Rejects Grants

Refuses Federal Aid to Avoid 'Socialism'

GROSSE POINTE FARMS (AP) —The City Council of Grosse Pointe Farms—fashionable suburb of Detroit—has turned down federal public works grants totaling $149,000 to avoid being "dictated to from Washington to get the funds."

"It was the feeling of the council that someone must stand up against the creeping socialism that this and all other federal aid programs represent," said William G. Butler, councilman and mayor protem, yesterday.

"Municipalities lose their sovereignty and their integrity when they accept handouts of this nature," he added.

A $63,000 grant to help pay for a proposed new municipal building was rejected unanimously by the seven-man council.

A $25,000 grant for improvements at the city's Department of Public Works garage and a $61,000 grant for a waterworks project — including a new reservoir and pumps — failed by 6 to 1 votes.

"There are definite conditions connected with these grants such as a detailed statement as the racial identity of all employes who would work on these projects," Butler said.

★ ★ ★

"We don't care what these conditions are," he said. "We just don't want to be supervised and dictated to from Washington to get the funds."

AUDREY J. CUMMINGS

An Oct. 19 wedding is being planned by Audrey Jean Cummings and Michael J. Boland whose engagement is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon E. Cummings, 1812 Avon Circle, Avon Township. The prospective bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Boland of Detroit.

Quarter of U.S. Population Owes for Medical Service

ANN ARBOR (UPI)—The University of Michigan reported today that about one-fourth of the population of the United States owed money to a doctor, dentist or hospital in 1962.

The University's survey research center also reported that almost half of the people who incurred large medical expenses had no medical insurance, or had insurance which did not cover any of the expense.

National statistics compiled in the center's 1962 survey of consumer finances revealed that somewhat higher expenses are incurred by persons 65 years old and older.

Charles Lininger, director of the survey, said the frequency expenses for hospitals was greater among younger people than senior citizens.

But, he added, expenses for drugs were more prevalent among senior citizens.

Lininger said that older people were more likely to use savings to pay medical bills since they often have fixed incomes and have had more time to accumulate savings. Public assistance was reported by about three per cent of the families with large medical expenses, Lininger said.

NOT COVERED

The survey disclosed that about 1,800,000 persons had personal medical expenses of $1,000 or more during 1961 which were not covered by insurance.

More than half the young families with children under six, the survey said, reported large medical expenses.

Of these, four out of five reported hospitalization plans, reflecting the high frequency of children born to this group and the almost universal use of medical care for childbirth in this country, the survey disclosed.

More than half of those 65 years of age and older who had large medical expenses reported having no insurance for medical or hospital expenses.

The survey also showed that the very young and those in the 55-64-year age group reported lower incidence of medical expenses than other age levels.

Kingsbury School Plans Day Camp for Children

ADDISON TOWNSHIP — A day camp for children from 5 to 12 will begin at Kingsbury School, Oakwood and Hosner roads, July 29.

The five-week camp will include a program of horseback riding, swimming, tennis, sailing, crafts and games.

The camp will run five days a week from 9:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. and is open to anyone interested.

★ ★ ★

Joe Page III of Birmingham, a junior at Princeton University, will run the camp under guidance of Bruce N. Coulter, director of Kingsbury School.

Swimming lessons for all the campers will be conducted at a pool and at a lake with a sandy beach.

Older boys and girls will learn to play tennis.

★ ★ ★

Those big enough to handle a tiller will sail at Whigville Lake using sailing prams.

Younger campers will play volleyball, badminton, softball and other games.

The handicrafts program will include ceramics, pottery, drawing, painting and crafts.

Riding, which campers may elect at extra charge, includes 15 lessons.

★ ★ ★

Campers may enroll for a minimum of two weeks. Enrollments can be made by writing or calling the school.

Romney Asks Feed Action

LANSING (AP) — A request that Wexford, Lapeer and Gratiot counties be declared emergency feed areas has been wired by Gov. George Romney to Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman.

Romney said the action will permit farmers in the area to pasture and harvest hay on conservation reserve acres, as well as on diverted acres under the wheat stabilization and feed grain programs.

Freeman already has approved earlier requests that Grand Traverse and Leelanau counties be designated as emergency feed areas.

Detroit Man Sentenced for Theft at Gas Station

A $7.70 theft from a Farmington Township gas station on Memorial Day brought 22-year-old Gerald E. Heft of Detroit a two-to-five-year term in prison yesterday.

★ ★ ★

Heft, who had two previous auto theft convictions, was sentenced by Circuit Judge Arthur E. Moore. Heft pleaded guilty June 27 to breaking and entering in the daytime.

Recent Ceremony

Area Couple Weds

SPRINGFIELD TOWNSHIP — Avona Mae Lewis became the bride of Edward Allen Brenner in a recent ceremony at Christ Lutheran Church in Waterford Township.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold E. Stadler, 11926 Scott, are parents of the bride. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Brenner, 4112 Lakegrove, White Lake Township.

The bride wore a floor length gown of white brocaded taffeta. A pearl crown held her bouffant veil. She carried a bouquet of white carnations and roses.

★ ★ ★

Alice Cummings of Davisburg was the maid of honor, with Sheryl L. Bartlett of Warren attending as her cousin's junior bridesmaid.

The groom's brother James was best man. Ushers were Charles R. Blood of Algonac, uncle of the bride, and Arnold R. Bartlett of Warren, cousin of the bride.

Try to Keep Ag Dept. Separate

EAST JORDAN (AP)—Spokesmen for the Michigan Agricultural Conference, which represents most major farm organizations in the state, urged yesterday that the Agriculture Department remain a separate major agency in state government.

★ ★ ★

That recommendation was presented by Glenn Lake, president of the Michigan Milk Producers Association, and Forest Smith, secretary of the conference, at the agriculture commission meeting in this Charlevoix County community in the Northern Lower Peninsula.

Some 130 present departments, agencies and commissions of state government must reorganize into 20 units or less under the Constitution.

The conference spokesmen recommended that a number of administrative units, including the State Racing Commissioner and the State Board of Pharmacy, be included in the structure of the new Department of Agriculture.

★ ★ ★

Others to be included were the State Cherry Commission, State Apple Commission, State Board of Landscape Architects, the Upper Peninsula State Fair Board, the State Fair Commission, the Potato Industry Council, the State Soil Conservation Committee and the Board of Veterinary Examiners.

An agriculture department spokesman said the same units were to be included in the department in a plan submitted to Gov. George Romney by the department.

The conference spokesmen also urged that the State Department of Agriculture continue to have full responsibility to administer state dairy laws and recommended a unified dairy inspection system.

Some county health departments and city governments now have milk inspection systems, the agriculture department spokesman said.

The commission also gave final approval to a new department regulation on sanitation in food handling establishments.

The new regulation was drawn up with the cooperation of the State Liquor Control Commission and Department of Health. It unifies, under one regulation, rules that formerly were separated.

Waive Exams in Riot Case

Four Men Charged in Shelby Twp. Incident

SHELBY TOWNSHIP — Four men that police say incited a riot at Warsaw Park last month waived examination in Macomb County Justice Court yesterday.

Appearing before Justice of the Peace Francis A. Castellucci, in Mt. Clemens, the four were charged with disturbing the peace.

★ ★ ★

They are Eugene J. Sobolewski, 29, and Stanley Dopierola, 36, both of Detroit; Chester Grzywinski, 42, and his brother Richard C., 29, both of Warren.

The men were released on $600 bond. A July 30 trial date was set.

Police said after the men are tried for disturbing the peace they will be bound over to Circuit Court on a charge of assaulting a police officer.

On June 23, the four were tossing firecrackers around Warsaw Park, according to police.

When approached by special Macomb County deputies Joseph Wozniak and Clyde Thrush, the men allegedly began striking the police officers.

★ ★ ★

A full-fledged riot then developed. It involved some 50 persons and police from five area departments before it was quelled.

Road Confab in Berkley

BERKLEY (AP) — All cities affected by the proposed I-696 freeway are expected to send representatives today to Oakland County's East-West Expressway Committee meeting. The meeting, to be held in Berkley City Hall, is to aid in the selection of the freeway route.

Car Bounces Another Into Path of Train

UTICA — A rear-end automobile collision caused a train-car crash on Auburn early today.

No one was hurt in the freakish mishap.

★ ★ ★

Shortly after midnight, the engine of a southbound Michigan Central Train, pulling 17 cars, collided wit ha car belonging to Robert L. Belch of Detroit.

Robert Nowland of 45650 Cass had stopped his car at the trac kcrossing near Utica Road when he observed the warning signal.

Belch crashed into the rear of Nowland's car and pushed it over and past the tracks. But Belch's 1959 Chevrolet stalled when it stopped right in the path of the train.

★ ★ ★

The driver jumped from his car and ran along the tracks, toward the train attempting to flag down the engineer.

The engineer, however, failed to see the driver or car and the tra n rammd into the automobile, dragging it 40 feet. Then it burst into flames.

The car was a total wreck, police said.

Charge Detroit Man With Manslaughter

MOUNT CLEMENS (AP) — The Macomb County prosecutor's office recommended Tuesday a manslaughter warrant against Curtiss Farrar, 69, of Detroit, accused of causing an accident which killed three teen-aged girls last Saturday.

Killed were Linda Rooney, 18, of Grosse Pointe Woods; Janice Kozlowski, 17, of Harper Woods; and Colleen Champine, 18, of Detroit.

Police said Farrar crossed the center line of a St. Clair Shores street and crashed into the girls' car.

PEACE CORPS ENTHUSIAST — Bill Rathburg, 15, of 1571 S. Lapeer, Orion Township, talks over the possibility of serving in the youth program with Mel Thompson, special assistant in the office of public affairs with the U. S. Peace Corps. The discussion took place during last week's 45th annual 4-H Clubs Week program at Michigan State University.

Drainage Problems Plague to City, Farm

Drainage is a common problem for city and country cousins alike. Both are interested in reducing water runoff from their acreage through the use of tile, surface drainage and land-leveling.

★ ★ ★

The only difference is that the farmer generally has more land. His drainage problems are on a much larger scale than a damp basement.

Bill Cutler, Michigan State University drainage engineer makes this observation regarding excess water.

Everyone — whether city or rural — can see the latest types of drainage equipment in action at the first tristate drainage and water conservation field day July 31 and Aug. 1.

This event is expected to be one of the largest events of its type in the Midwest, says Cutler.

It will be held on the Stanley Riddle farm near Albion, Ind., which is 25 miles northwest of Fort Wayne, Ind.

Visitors at the field day will be able to view farm ponds, contour farming, recreational development and woodlot management from the air. They will also see the installation of 10,000 feet of tile, land smoothing, stump removal, land clearing, irrigation practices and construction of drainage ditches, says Cutler.

Drainage contractors from all three states have combined efforts to sponsor the field day. Also cosponsoring the event are the Cooperative Extension Services of the Hoosier, Buckeye and Water Wonderland states.

Boy, 11, Killed on Bike

KALAMAZOO (AP) — Eleven-year-old Craig Grimm of Kalamazoo Township was killed yesterday when he pulled onto a highway on his bicycle and was struck by a car near his home.

Prison Guard Describes Dummies Left in Escape

JACKSON (AP)— Hair clippings from the Southern Michigan Prison barber shop were used for the head of a dummy left in a cell block by one of the four convicts who escaped April 23.

★ ★ ★

The hair was taped on toilet tissue wrapped up in the shape of a man's head.

★ ★ ★

Prison guard Byron J. Stanfield testified to this yesterday in the appeals hearing of two fellow guards who were fired for negligence in the prison break.

Three of the four escaping long-term convicts left dummies in their cells to cover their escape. The four sawed their way to freedom. All later were recaptured.

Former guards Elmer McClain, 59, of Hanover, and Lynwood Miller, 27, of Munith, both of whom were fired by Warden George A. Kropp, have appealed to the State Civil Service Commission.

WARDEN TESTIFIES

Warden Kropp, also a witness yesterday, said he overruled lesser penalties recommended by a fact-finding board of three prison officials.

Kropp said the board recommended a 30-day suspension for McClain and a 20-day suspension for Miller. He said, however, that he fired the guards because they failed to meet a basic responsibility to make sure the convicts were in their cells.

The escapes of three of the four had gone undetected for a period of hours.

Guard Stanfield testified about the dummy left by Elmer Crachy, one of the four in the breakout.

Stanfield said that on reporting for duty 5:45 a.m. April 23 he started an immediate cell count.

His recollection that Crachy had light hair while the hair on the dummy was black led to his discovery of the dummy and Crachy's flight, Stanfield said.

The guard said at first he walked by Crachy's cell, assuming the prisoner was in bed. Then, he said, he recalled that Crachy was an early riser and he returned. On his return he found the dummy, he said.

★ ★ ★

Crachy, along with Richard Mauch, James Hall and Robert Gipson, made the break by sawing through cell bars and through a prison fence.

Since the incident, the prison has tightened security regulations, including expansion of the prison yard floodlights system from guard towers.

Rescue Team Proves Ability in Horseplay

BELCHERTOWN, Mass. (AP)— An Air Force air-sea rescue team, trained to save distressed fliers, proved its versatility Tuesday by rescuing a horse.

An 11-year-old mare named Donna, ridden by her owner, Frank Hano of South Hadley, sank up to her neck in a swamp.

Unable to free the animal, Hano called the 44th Eastern Air-Sea Rescue Service at Westover Air Force Base, Chicopee.

A helicopter crew was dispatched to pluck the horse from the mud. Tree cover prevented the chopper from moving close to the animal.

More conventional means were then tried. Ropes were tied around the horse and 10 airmen pulled Donna from the mud. She was unhurt.

Experimenter Praises Living Under Red Sea

NICE, France (UPI)— Andre Portelatine, one of the members of Cmdr. Jacques-Yves Cousteau's recent 20-day experiment in living under the Red Sea, said yesterday he ate and slept as though he were at home.

"We are enthused about the days we lived and by the undersea landscape we saw," Portelatine said here. "An underwater life does not present any difficulty."

Deny Mindszenty Report

BUDAPEST (UPI) — Hungarian official sources today denied reports that settlement is near on the future of Hungarian Catholic Primate Jozsef Cardinal Mindszenty. They said there was no foundation to reports the cardinal would leave Hungary within the next few weeks.

U.S. Senate to Face Another Filibuster?

As emblematic of the South as mint juleps, magnolia blossoms and plantations are filibusters. And the portents are that the Nation will soon be exposed to another of the strategic devices that Dixie Senators have successfully employed to block civil-rights measures since Civil War Reconstruction days.

Strength of the Southerners lies in the weakness of the cloture rule — the theoretical means by which Senate debate can be limited — requiring a two-thirds majority of all Senators voting.

★ ★ ★

Since the rule was adopted in 1917, Southern forces, led by Sen. RICHARD B. RUSSELL, D-Ga., have blocked every effort to modify it.

For the first time in 27 years, the Senate voted cloture last year in curbing a talkathon by "economic liberals" against President KENNEDY's space satellite communications bill. But civil rights were not involved.

★ ★ ★

The word filibuster derives from "filibusteros." These were West Indian pirates who scourged the Southern seas in small craft "filibotes." Hence, use of the term for tactics by minorities which opposing majorities regard as piratical.

The Senate's last continuous civil-rights talkfest was in 1960 and lasted nine days. Other filibusters down the years have lasted as long as two months, but not in continuous session.

★ ★ ★

Some awesome nonstop verbal performances have been mouthed by the filibusterers. Current title-holder is Sen. Strom Thurmond, D-S. C., who in 1957 emitted 24 hours and 18 minutes of verbiage — thus stilling the 1953 outpouring of 22 hours and 26 minutes by Oregon's Democratic Sen. Wayne Morse, former top talker.

But with records tumbling in all fields, don't be surprised if a new mark is voiced by the words tumbling from the lips of one of the 18 Senators organized into three squads now tuning up for the looming civil-rights babble of the century.

Good and Bad Sides to Steel Agreement

Like many an agreement between parties with basically diverse interests, the recent Steel-Labor contract extension has plus and minus qualities.

★ ★ ★

The pluses:

● It was resolved without a strike or government intervention.

● It was negotiated without exchange of public recriminations and one-sided statements of issues.

● It was completed well ahead of the usual cliff-hanger deadline, thus relieving public anxiety and economic constriction.

The Minuses:

● The settlement is costly for the companies.

● The possibility that it may knock out some of the smaller producers.

● The problems it will entail for allied industries whose labor contracts traditionally follow Steel's formula.

★ ★ ★

The pact, however, does mark a long step forward along the road of management-employe relations in one of America's basic industries—a road best described as a rocky one.

First semblance of accord came in 1937 with the mutual attitude of understanding that developed between BENJAMIN F. FAIRLESS, president of U.S. Steel and the late PHILIP MURRAY, president of United Steel Workers of America.

★ ★ ★

But some rough-and-tumble years were ahead as David J. McDonald, taking over the USWA presidency locked horns with Fairless' successor, Roger M. Blough and his labor director R. Conrad Cooper, climaxed by the long and bitter strike of 1959.

★ ★ ★

Whether the principle of the current settlement is sound — making work for additional workers via extended vacations for long seniority—is a moot question. But at least, it seems, bitterness, strikes and public posturing in steel are over.

YOUR share of the U. S. national debt is now almost $1,700, but don't worry—you'll never live to pay it.

Communist Split Baffles the West

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — The deepening break between the Russians and Red Chinese has left the West as confused about the future as it was when Nikita Khrushchev suddenly repudiated Stalin in 1956.

MARLOW

Even Secretary of State John Foster Dulles admitted at the time:

"It is too early to judge its full meaning."

The American Communist party said in an editorial in the Daily Worker:

"The shattering revelations made by Khrushchev show what a gigantic transformation is taking place in the Soviet Union."

★ ★ ★

What was shattered was the myth of the Russian leadership's infallibility. Around the world Communist parties suffered convulsions. Some were heretical enough to criticize the Kremlin.

Russia had to crush Hungary's anti-Red revolt. The Soviet hold on the satellites was weakened, if only a little. But its hold on the Red Chinese was weakened enormously for a reason which may have been overlooked then but isn't now.

While Khrushchev attacked the memory of Stalin at the 20th Party Congress on Feb. 24, 1956, 10 days before that he made suggestions which today are presented as the main cause of the Russian-Chinese split.

★ ★ ★

He said international problems should be solved by negotiation, that war isn't necessary for communism to triumph, and that the West and East should sign a nuclear test ban agreement and even a nonaggression pact.

The Chinese disagree on all counts. And these are the main points they throw at Khrushchev now in their accusation that he is undermining world communism.

SIDES DRAWN

It seems plain that the Communist parties in the West will go along with Russia; the Asian parties will stick with Red China. Out of this division competition to win over the backward non-Communist countries everywhere is inevitable.

Out of the competition will come conflict of one kind or another between the two worlds of communism. This will take up much of the energy, attention and resources of the two camps. To this extent the West will benefit.

The split may even drive Russia into closer association and cooperation with the West.

But the blessing is not unmixed.

The Russians are accusing the Chinese of promoting antiwhite racialism. From this it can be assumed, if true, that the Chinese will appeal to all the nonwhite peoples to divide the world into big camps: white and nonwhite.

That's horrible enough, but the West must be prepared for another specter.

For a while the Chinese may stay behind their frontiers, leaving the rest of Asia pretty much alone because they are not militarily strong enough to challenge the West and risk a war.

That won't last. They'll develop nuclear weapons, perhaps within two years. It may take them some time longer to complete good delivery systems.

Therefore, since the Chinese assert war is necessary for Communist victory, the Western world, particularly the United States, must get adjusted to the reality that sooner or later the Red Chinese will move to take over all of Asia.

Then the West will have to decide whether it wishes to risk war to stop the Chinese.

New Door Mat?

David Lawrence Says:

U.S. Needs 'Domestic Aid' Plan

WASHINGTON — The public impression of the dispute between the railroads and their union employes is that one side or the other is adamant and uncompromising. But the truth of the matter is that what is happening to the railroad employes constitutes a human problem which will really never be solved satisfactorily by collective bargaining or arbitration or negotiation.

LAWRENCE

When workers are laid off because of automation or new technological inventions, who shall take care of them? It has been estimated that there are between 25,000 and 40,000 railroad employes whose services may no longer be required.

Many of them are not near retirement age and are willing to work, but there will be no work for them in their present jobs.

★ ★ ★

The railroad unions are trying to preserve as much as they can for the unfortunate workers who are affected. Union leaders, moreover, feel that they must not yield or they will be voted out of office.

Meanwhile, the companies cannot afford to be philanthropic. Railroads are in bad shape anyway because of competition with trucks, buses and airplanes.

But all the explanations and reasons as to why automation is logical and inevitable do not erase the fact that a certain number of human beings are going to be hurt and that the railroad unions are struggling desperately to find a way to postpone the day when the workers must be turned out of their jobs.

There is one solution which will occur to folks who read in the newspapers about the billions of dollars being appropriated by Congress in the "foreign aid" program.

It is that perhaps there should be a "domestic aid" program. It may be that some of the natives in India or Nigeria or Indonesia would not be able to get as much money from the American taxpayers as heretofore.

The need for a "domestic aid" program is acute today. None of the workers wants to "go on relief." There are many jobs that could be performed by them with proper training.

Even the railroads could put into effect an arrangement whereby, as certain employes are released, the furloughed workers would be given the first opportunity to be employed whenever vacancies occur in other departments of the business.

Trainmen and conductors and firemen are intelligent enough to perform many duties in the offices and shops of the railroads. Those who are physically capable of working for many years more are not able themselves to pay for the expenses incurred during a training period.

It is estimated that the United States has spent a total of $100 billion in "foreign aid" since the close of World War II. The average appropriation now per year is around $4 billion.

★ ★ ★

It probably would not cost as much as $500 million annually to take care of a relief and training program for those employes who are gradually released in the next few years.

But even if it costs as much as a billion dollars a year for a program of this kind, this is a relatively small item compared with the expenditures that are being made for the people of foreign lands.

Also, a railroad strike could cost the country a billion dollars a month.

Certainly the primary responsibility of the American government is to its own citizens, so many of whom year after year have contributed in income taxes to the support of the government and who now find themselves the victims not of unfairness on the part of anybody, but simply of the serious consequences that flow from automation.

Bob Considine Says:

Tip to Eclipse Watchers: Look at It on Television

NEW YORK — The best tip on how to watch next Saturday's eclipse of the sun is don't.

If you do — for even as short a period as one second — you could be permanently blinded, according to a dire announcement by the American Medical Association (AMA). The eye contains a focusing mechanism not unlike that of a magnifying glass.

CONSIDINE

Subjected to the direct rays of the sun, it can point a beam against the retina and burn it much like a beam, concentrated by a magnifying glass, can set paper afire.

★ ★ ★

Sun glasses won't provide a sufficient filter. Matter of fact, the most opaque welders' glasses are considered by ophthalmologists to be too translucent when confronted by the sun.

The old gag of smoking up a piece of clear glass and using it to shield the eyes against that portion of the sun which the moon won't hide, is useless and dangerous, AMA warns.

Here are other AMA tips for the upcoming cosmic extravaganza.

● Telescopes and binoculars trained on an eclipse are particularly dangerous. They magnify and intensify the burn. DON'T PHOTOGRAPH THE ECLIPSE unless you are an experienced professional.

★ ★ ★

Looking into the viewfinder of a camera pointed at the sun is highly dangerous. Even special filters don't help, unless they are chosen with great care.

● There is no necessarily immediate sensation of pain before damage is done to the eye.

● The safest way to view the eclipse is on television or through photos in the newspapers and magazines.

● Unless you obtain professional advice from an expert — an ophthalmologist, astronomer or optical scientist — just don't look.

After this warning, I think I'll watch it on radio.

That old devil sun is something!

Its eternal "H-bomb" explosions, countless thousands of times more potent around the clock than the single detonation of all the hydrogen bombs possessed by the U.S., the Soviet Union and Britain, cook up a solar surface temperature of 10,000 degrees Farenheit and an incomprehensible interior heat of 35 million degrees.

★ ★ ★

There will be a sharp drop in the number of atheists — for at least a time on Saturday.

'Keego Fathers Forget Their Role?'

Other communities are promoting the comfort and well-being of senior citizens. In Keego Harbor a group has taken over city hall, overriding the wishes of lifelong citizens, homeowners and taxpayers—with their attempt to inject a "convalescent home" into the residential district. This is against the advice of our city planning consultants who advise the area is too small to accommodate such a structure.

★ ★ ★

When water service for the 200 additional people in this "home" lowers our water table, making it necessary to drive new wells for our homes, who will foot the bill?

We hope the city "fathers" will not lose perspective and forget they are "servants" of the taxpayers.

★ ★ ★

This is the same government which some foolish people want to give aid as well as to Yugoslavia. Russian and Chinese Reds are united on forming a single economic unit from Vladivostok to E. Berlin to ruin the economies of the West.

Franklin Roosevelt's "grand design" was a colossal failure. Hundreds of millions of humans went into bondage as a result. Now the stakes are higher. There was a time when summer school was for the dull, the deficient, the unfortunate, or the lazy. It was almost exclusively a place where courses flunked or missed during the regular academic year could be made up.

★ ★ ★

That's no longer true. Summer school these days is drawing more and more busy people who cannot find the time during the rest of the year to acquire the learning they feel they need.

★ ★ ★

Some of the attendance, of course, traces to make-up work. But far more important, especially at the college level, is the search for specialized knowledge, either in a zest for learning or in an effort to improve one's position by the addition of credits or a degree.

★ ★ ★

And if so many students are willing . . . . even eager . . . . to go to school in the summer on their own initiative, isn't this an added argument for keeping the schools and colleges open 12 months a year?

Freezing Assets

The freezing of Cuban assets in this country, whether owned by the Castro government or individuals is a step which will hamper attempts to spread subversion thoroughout the hemisphere.

The process and its effects are complex, but if the device works out as explained by administration figures, it's prudent to ask why this step was not taken sooner.

The people have been assured, again and again, by the administration that all measures which do not carry an actual threat of war, are being taken against the Castro government. Here seems to be one that has been overlooked.

Revolutionaries, like everyone else, need money to operate. Tying up Castro's funds in America will make it just a little more difficult for him to do his dirty work in other Latin-American countries. But, again, we wonder why the delay?

Ambulance Drivers Fined

Chicago's American

Ambulance drivers who speed hither and yon with sirens screaming and lights flashing are heading into trouble if they're not on genuine emergency cases.

In the wake of a fine of $300 and costs imposed by traffic court Judge William M. Barth on one ambulance driver, chief of traffic police has ordered his men to check up on all speeding ambulances and other emergency vehicles, unless they have a patient or can prove they're on a real emergency run.

The driver fined by Barth was charged with 11 violations, including running red lights and speeding, while going to a hospital to get a patient who was being released. Barth, ruling that there was no emergency, warned operators of emergency vehicles they will be punished for violations. The American Journal of Surgery has reported that a survey showed no emergency in 98.2 per cent of 25,000 ambulance runs.

★ ★ ★

All vehicular and pedestrian traffic should yield the right of way to emergency vehicles. But the drivers of such vehicles should be pinched if they merely are hurrying on some nonemergency.

Texas Dynamo Is Strategist of Goldwater Movement

By RUTH MONTGOMERY

WASHINGTON—The chief strategist behind the grassroots Goldwater-for-President movement is a pint-sized dynamo who hails from the king-sized Lone Star state.

Almost as much in demand at Republican rallies as Senator Barry Goldwater himself, 37-year-old Sen. John Tower is a fearless, frank-spoken Texan who stands five-feet-five-and-a-half inches in his bare feet.

★ ★ ★

Last week-end, fishing off Ocean City, Md., he landed a 60-pound marlin. At the GOP Convention next July in San Francisco, he confidently expects to land an even greater prize—the Republican Presidential nomination for his fellow conservative from Arizona.

Tower is a king-maker by inclination. A campus political boss at Southwestern University in Texas, the future solon ran for no offices himself, but elected his proteges with monotonous regularity.

A Democrat until 1951, he says of his political switcheroo: "Harry Truman made me a Republican."

TALENTED STRATEGIST

Tower's talents as a strategist are a key to his phenomenal rise in the Senate—a body which jealously guards its seniority rules. Although a member of the "world's most exclusive club" for only two years, he is already the ranking Republican on two powerful subcommittees, and leader of the opposition floor fights against such legislation as the Domestic Peace Corps, the Mass Transportation Act, and migratory labor bills.

★ ★ ★

Blue-eyed, blond, and lobster-red from his recent fishing safari, he is the first Republican senator to be elected from the Confederate states since Reconstruction days.

Tower is a power to be reckoned with, as the administration is learning to its dismay. A segregationist, he has nevertheless embarrassed the White House by introducing a bill to void union shop contracts for unions which practice discrimination against race, color, or ethnic background.

The bill would chiefly affect the giant construction unions—primarily controlled by Irish Catholics—who refuse to admit Negroes to membership. President Kennedy is on the spot because of his dependence on labor support, but Tower says matter-of-factly:

"Inasmuch as our Federal labor laws give sanction to union shop contracts, this means that no one can now be hired in such shops unless he joins the union. If he can't join the union he's out of luck, so unions must be forced to integrate."

★ ★ ★

No hearings have been scheduled, but Tower serves warning that "I will propose it as an amendment on the floor to any other likely bill."

WILL LEAD FIGHT

The domestic peace corps, called the national service corps, is expected to pass the Senate Labor Committee with votes to spare, but Tower will lead the floor fight against it. He explains his attitude this way:

"The administration's position is pure hypocrisy. When Bobby (Att. Gen. Robert Kennedy) testified before our committee that there was a crying need for 5,000 peace corps workers in slum areas and Indian reservations, I asked him why, if that was the case, the administration had proposed reducing charitable tax contribution exemptions from 30 to only 5 per cent. Bobby had no comment.

"We already have hundreds of thousands of volunteers and paid workers in this field, representing such charitable organizations as Salvation Army, Catholic Welfare, YMCA and boys clubs, and they depend on contributions for their existence. If tax exemptions are reduced they would virtually have to go out of business; yet the Peace Corps calls for only 5,000 federally supported workers. This bill is simply a move to get the federal foot in the door to take over social services already performed by other volunteer and community agencies."

The next bill due for an airing before Tower's labor subcommittee is the administration's Voluntary Fair Employment Act. Of it, Tower says: "That's the biggest demed misnomer I ever heard. Actually it calls for the nationalization of all farm labor. It would impose essentially the same controls on domestic farm workers that we already have on Mexican migratory laborers who come across our borders.

"The trade unions are trying to get rid of the migratory farm laborers, and now they've got an administration that is willing to carry water for them. I don't know why industrial workers should regard farmers as competition. They wouldn't go out and do that stoop labor on farms if you paid them double. That's derned hard work. I did it as a kid, and I would hate to do it again."

★ ★ ★

Tower, serving in his first elective office, was a professor of political science at Midwestern University at Wichita Falls, Tex., when he resigned in 1960 to run against Lyndon B. Johnson.

"I got clobbered," he says of that first race, but after LBJ resigned his seat to accept the Vice Presidency, Tower ran again and won, in the surprise Texas upset of the century.

FATHER OF THREE

Married to a former teacher of organ and piano at Midwestern University, Tower is the father of three girls aged seven, eight and nine. During World War II, he served as a Navy seaman aboard an amphibious gunboat in the western Pacific.

Too far removed from headquarters to receive rapid promotion, he emerged three years later as a seaman first class. Proud of the fact that he is the only active "enlisted man" in the august upper chamber, he spurned a commission offered by the Navy after he came to the Senate.

Last fall he re-enlisted for another four-year hitch in the reserves, but attends no meetings. He grinningly explains: "They won't let me come to their derned meetings of the Senate reserves, because all the rest of 'em are officers."

The spunky little senator has few hobbies except duck shooting, since his one-time avocation of politics is now his vocation. A Kappa Sigma in college, he played football and baseball on the fraternity teams, but was too light for the varsity squads.

Tower's chief current interest is in electing Barry Goldwater as President. Without the Arizonian's blessing or assistance, he nevertheless masterminded a Fourth of July Goldwater-for-President rally that overflowed the Washington Armory. The armory seats only 6,500, but 8,000 came.

Assessing Goldwater's chances, Tower says: "We will carry at least eight of the 11 Southern states — maybe all of 'em. We'll carry at least three of the five border states, take an almost solid phalanx across the Midwest, and do exceedingly well in the West.

★ ★ ★

"We're stronger in the northeast than most people imagine. We should carry New Hampshire, Maine and Vermont. New Jersey and Pennsylvania are leaning our way.

"We're obviously way out in front for the Republican nomination. Some of the favorite-son movements are just holding operations, and we have strong support in virtually every state organization in the country. It looks good right now."

Asked if he thinks Goldwater will become an avowed candidate, the Texan drawled: "I think he will if there's a strong manifestation of support. That's what we're proving now — that there is. His announcement is merely a matter of timing."

BOTH MICHIGAN MADE PURE SUGARS

Dr. Wayne G. Brandstadt Says:

Skin Diver Must Know Sport's Hazards

Water sports of all kinds are steadily growing in popularity. Next to water skiing, the popularity of skin diving is increasing fastest.

Some five million persons in this country will try it this summer. Their pleasure will depend on a thorough understanding of the hazards involved.

In skin diving, the first precaution is to make sure that you are physically fit. No one with an acute or chronic respiratory infection, epilepsy, ruptured ear drum, or impaired hearing should even consider this sport.

Next, take a preparatory course. Then get the equipment you will need, and always plan to make your dives with a diving partner—never alone. Have one person on the surface who knows where you are.

The chief hazards result from the increase in pressure on the body gases with each foot of descent.

The important cases include the air in the middle ear, nasal sinuses, lungs, and that which is dissolved in your blood.

Since the pressure increases at the rate of 15 pounds per square inch for every 33 feet of descent, the greatest changes occur in the first 15 feet.

For divers who do not go more than 20 feet below the surface, no equipment is necessary. For deeper descent, minimum equipment consists of a face mask that covers the eyes and nose (goggles are unsatisfactory), and flippers.

Earplugs should not be worn, because at a depth of 15 to 20 feet they will prevent equalization of the air on both sides of the ear. Drums may rupture from within outward.

Furthermore, pressure from the outside may force the plugs so deep into the ear canal that they will have to be removed surgically.

OPEN TUBES

The healthy diver soon learns how to keep the Eustachian tubes that lead from his throat to his middle ear open at all times during a descent.

When he ascends, the bubbling of air from the middle ear back to the throat presents no problem.

Pressures in the nasal sinuses will likewise present no problem if their openings are not obstructed. If blocked, the pressure will cause excruciating pain during ascent.

Pressure on the lungs becomes a hazard in dives of more than 20 feet. For this reason, all dives to a greater depth should be undertaken only with SCUBA (self-contained underwater breathing apparatus). Here again the hazard is in the ascent.

The diver must not ascend faster than one foot per second, or at about the same rate his expelled air bubbles ascend.

Because the air in his lungs expands during ascent, he must exhale continuously until he reaches the surface. If this is not properly done, the small air sacs in his lungs may rupture and the air under pressure will be forced into the small, torn, blood vessels.

These bubbles will reach the arteries in the brain, obstruct the flow of blood and cause convulsions or lapse of consciousness.

It is wise never to dive if you are tired, cold, or not feeling well. When you are under water don't make any unnecessary movements.

★ ★ ★

Excess use of energy increases your need for oxygen and depletes your air supply more rapidly.

Toy Gun Bandit Gets Jail Term for April Holdup

A 46-year-old Detroit man who twice held up a Berkley bakery with a toy pistol yesterday was sentenced to five to 15 years in prison by Circuit Judge Arthur E. Moore.

Robert E. Coyle was given the prison term on an armed robbery charge stemming from the second holdup, which netted him some $130 April 19. He pleaded guilty June 17.

Coyle was apprehended by five men who chased him after one of the bakery's owners dashed outside shouting that the store had been robbed.

★ ★ ★

Coyle admitted an earlier $170 holdup of the bakery and seven other armed robberies in the south Oakland area.

Poland Negotiates for Canada Wheat

WINNIPEG (AP) — Poland is negotiating for the purchase of 3.7 million bushels of wheat worth about $7 million from Canada, reliable sources said Tuesday.

The Communist country has become a regular customer for Canadian wheat in recent years. It took 14.2 million bushels last fall.

A Yugoslav delegation is making final arrangements for shipment of 7.5 million bushels of wheat purchased earlier.

In another pending deal, negotiations for a large wheat sale to Communist China are continuing in Hong Kong.

Cuba Peasant Disgruntled at Conditions Under Castro

SPECIAL REPORT

(Editor's Note—What is it like to be a Cuban in Cuba these days? George Arfeld, the Associated Press man in Havana for two years, talked to some peasants before he left for another assignment, and gives his report.)

By GEORGE ARFELD
Associated Press Staff Writer

The Cuban peasant, once a cheering supporter of Fidel Castro, today mutters increasingly against the Communist regime which has made a joke of land reform, while encroaching day by day on his way of life.

Still as appallingly poor as before the advent of the bearded ruler, most peasants this correspondent met during his stay in Cuba yearn for a return to the past. They say that then, at least they were free to do as they pleased.

"Things have never been so bad before," a 68-year-old retired cattle foreman said, shaking his head.

"Fidel has turned (former dictator Fulgencio) Batista into a saint, by comparison," commented a Matanzas Province squatter.

"Had Batista been satisfied with stealing only three, maybe four million pesos, maybe all would have gone well," the squatter added.

For the peasant, life in the backlands is rough. Shortages are far more acute than those experienced in Havana.

"Havana is paradise, compared to Oriente Province," a Negro peasant said.

Milk, beef, rice, bread, even sugar, are frequently absent from country store shelves for long periods.

TYPICAL CASE

Take the case of Pipo Diaz, a Pinar del Rio Province squatter, who lives in a thatched wooden hut with his wife and five children.

He claims he has had no beef for almost a year, before peasants are forbidden to slaughter their steers and no meat is being sent from the cities.

The whitewashed hut lies up from a brook, between a patch of corn and some native potato plants. Pipo's children romp around the hut clad in faded cottons. None wears shoes.

"For more than a year now there've been no boots or shoes for us 'guajiros' (peasants). If you want boots you have to join the militia or a government cooperative," Pipo says.

"Everything is a mess these days," his wife chips in. She bends over an open charcoal fire, fanning the embers on which the noon meal cooks. "Cooking oil—when we get it—tastes like motor oil; lard is poor and mostly rancid; they are always out of hard crackers. To get a tin of evaporated milk you have to obtain a coupon from the Committee of the Defense of the Revolution."

Lunch is served: boiled cornmeal with a handful of chopped onion on top and boiled malange. Black coffee.

FORCED SALES

Why doesn't Pipo raise more chickens and hogs, or plant more vegetables?

"First of all," he explains, "at the prices the government pays us for pigs and produce we make no profit and are never sure they will pay. Secondly, in case we harvest a surplus, they'll force us to sell it to them."

Pipo shows off his three-room hut. In the bedroom there are two large beds: one for the couple and the latest baby, the other for the three boys and the 12-year-old girl.

* * *

In the living room two rocking chairs face each other. Stiff posing relatives and startled infants peer from framed sepia photographs. A faded picture of Castro torn from a magazine is tacked to the wall.

"You never know who'll come around," Pipo shrugs.

As it does with other independent farmers who refuse to toe the party line, the government is applying subtle pressure to force Pipo to join a cooperative or peoples farm. Unless he does so, it will be increasingly difficult for him to obtain feed, fertilizer, boots, wire and farming implements.

Since joining a state cooperative means growing what the government determines and then turning over a high percentage of the crop to the regime, Pipo feels he'd "rather be killed" than buckle under. Later he concedes that with six mouths to feed, maybe he will eventually have to give in.

Pipo holds a very low opinion of the state farm managing of his area.

"Bums and bandits, that's what they were and still are," he says savagely.

"They've got everyone scared around here. There's one peasant in 100 who's for the revolution. Those who, like myself, once believed in it changed our minds when Fidel said he was Communist. That, sir, is a name we do not like."

Aggravated Assault Puts City Man in Jail

Angelo Tony Manzella, 25, of 113 Third, was placed on two years' probation yesterday and ordered to serve four months in jail for his aggravated assault last July on another Pontiac man.

Manzella was permitted to plead guilty June 21 to the assault charge although he had been accused of attempted murder.

He was accused of beating Gene Feist, 23, of 2327 Richwood, after dragging Feist from a car parked at 3409 Dixie Highway in an argument over two women with Feist and a companion.

The sentence was imposed by Circuit Judge Arthur E. Moore.

Paris Model Dies at 41

PARIS (UPI) — Lucie (Lucky) Daouphars, one of the most celebrated Paris fashion models of all time, died in a hospital last night after an illness of several months. She was 41.

Miss Daouphars was noted for her almond-shaped eyes, toothpick slim figure and undulating walk. The tall brunette was the star model for the late Christian Dior for many years, and always accompanied him on voyages abroad.

Marina's Distraught With Fear of Killer

STORY SO FAR — Marina Gregg, beautiful screen and stage star, and her husband, Jason Rudd, brilliant director, buy Gossington Hall and at a benefit given there tactless Mrs. Badcock babbles on to her hostess about meeting her years ago, getting out of a sick bed to get her autograph. Marina stares past her, a frozen look on her face. She asks Jason to give Mrs. Badcock a drink. The drink is spilled and graciously Marina offers her untouched glass. Mrs. Badcock dies from a lethal dose and Marina believes she was the intended victim. Jason's secretary, Ella Zelinsky, and the butler attempt blackmail and die. Gladys Dixon, waitress at the benefit, thought Mrs. Badcock spilled her drink purposely. She vanishes, leaving no address. Threatening notes continue to come to Marina.

INSTALLMENT XXXIX

"There was something in the coffee that day at the Studio," Marina said. "I'm sure there was, Jason. If only you hadn't poured it away! If we'd kept it, we could have had it analyzed or whatever you call it. We'd have known for sure."

"Would it have made you happier to know for sure?"

She stared at him, the pupils of her eyes widely dilated.

"I don't see what you mean. If they'd known for sure that someone was trying to poison me, they'd have let us leave here, they'd have let us get away."

"Not necessarily."

* * *

"But I can't go on like this! I can't. You must help me, Jason. You must do something. I'm frightened. I'm so terribly frightened. There's an enemy here. And I don't know who it is. It might be anyone here. At the Studios, or here in the house. Someone. Someone who hates me, but why? Someone who wants me dead. Who is it? Who is it? I thought, I was almost sure it was Ella. But now—"

* * *

"You thought it was Ella?" Jason sounded astonished. "But why?"

"Because she hated me, oh yes, she did. Don't men ever see these things? She was madly in love with you. I don't believe you had the least idea of it. But it can't be Ella, because Ella's dead. Oh, Jinks, Jinks, do help me. Get me away from here. Let me go somewhere safe."

She sprang up and walked rapidly up and down, turning and twisting her hands.

The director in Jason was full of admiration for those passionate, tortured movements. I must remember them, he thought. For Hedda Gabler perhaps? Then, with a shock, he remembered that it was his wife he was watching.

He went to her and put his arms around her.

"It's all right, Marina, all right. I'll look after you.

* * *

"We must go away from this hateful house at once. I hate this house, hate it."

"Listen, we can't go away immediately."

"Why not? Why not?"

"Because," said Rudd, "deaths cause complications, and there's something else to consider. Will running away do any good?"

"Of course it will. We'll get away from this person who hates me."

"If there's anyone who hates you that much, they could follow you easily enough."

"You mean I shall never get away? I shall never be safe again?"

"Darling, it will be all right. I'll look after you. I'll keep you safe."

* * *

She clung to him.

"Will you, Jinks? Will you see that nothing happens to me?"

She sagged against him, and he laid her down gently on the chaise longue.

"Oh, I'm a coward," she murmured, "a coward. If I knew who it was, and why? Get me my pills, the yellow ones, not the brown. I must have something to calm me."

"Don't take too many, for God's sake, Marina."

"All right, all right. Sometimes they don't have any effect any more." She looked up in his face.

She smiled, a tender exquisite smile.

* * *

"You'll take care of me, Jinks? Swear you'll take care of me."

"Always," said Jason Rudd. "To the bitter end."

Her eyes opened wide.

"You looked so odd when you said that."

"Did I? How did I look?"

"I can't explain. Like a clown laughing at something terribly, sad, that no one else has seen."

TIRED INSPECTOR

It was a tired and depressed Inspector Craddock who came to see Miss Marple the following day.

"Sit down and be comfortable," she said. "I can see you've had a very hard time."

"I don't like to be defeated," said Inspector Craddock. "Two murders within twenty-four hours. Ah well, I'm poorer at my job than I thought I was. Give me a nice cup of tea, Aunt Jane, with some thin bread and butter and soothe me with your earliest remembrances of St. Mary Mead."

Miss Marple clicked with her tongue in a sympathetic manner.

* * *

"Now it's no good talking like that, my dear boy, and I don't think tea and bread and butter is at all what you want. Gentlemen, when they've had a disappointment want something stronger than tea."

* * *

As usual, Miss Marple said the word "gentlemen" in the way of someone describing a foreign species.

"I should advise a good stiff whisky and soda," she said.

"Would you really, Aunt Jane? Well, I won't say no."

"And I shall get it for you myself," said Miss Marple, rising to her feet.

"Oh, no, don't do that. Let me. Or what about Miss What's-her-name?"

* * *

"We don't want Miss Knight fussing about here," said Miss Marple. "She won't be bringing my tea for another twenty minutes so that gives us a little peace and quiet. Clever of you to come to the window and not through the front door. Now we can have a nice quiet little time by ourselves."

She went to a corner cupboard, opened it and produced a bottle, a syphon of soda water and a glass.

"You are full of surprises," said Dermot Craddock. "I'd no idea that's what you kept in your corner cupboard. Are you quite sure you're not a secret drinker, Aunt Jane?"

"Now, now," Miss Marple admonished him: "I have never been an advocate of teetotalism. A little strong drink is always advisable on the premises in case there is a shock or an accident. Invaluable at such times. Or of course, if a gentleman should arrive suddenly. There!" said Miss Marple, handing him her remedy with an air of quiet triumph. And you don't need to joke any more. Just sit quietly there and relax."

* * *

"Wonderful wives there must have been in your young days," said Dermot Craddock.

"I'm sure, my dear boy, you would find the young lady of the type you refer to as a very inadequate help-meet nowadays. Young ladies were not encouraged to be intellectual and very few of them had university degrees or any kind of academic distinction."

"There are things that are preferable to academic distinctions," said Dermot. "One of them is knowing when a man wants a whisky and soda and giving it to him."

Miss Marple smiled at him affectionately.

* * *

"Come," she said, "tell me all about it. Or as much as you are allowed to tell me."

"I think you probably know as much as I do. And very likely you have something up your sleeve. How about your dear Miss Knight? What about her having committed the crime?"

"Now why should Miss Knight have done such a thing?" demanded Miss Marple surprised.

"Because she's the most unlikely person," said Dermot. "It so often seems to hold good when you produce your answer."

"Not at all," said Miss Marple with spirit. "I have said over and over again, not only to you, my dear Dermot, that it is always the obvious person who has done the crime. One thinks so often of the wife or the husband and so very often it is the wife or the husband."

"Meaning Jason Rudd?" He shook his head. "That man adores Marina Gregg."

MISS MARPLE EXPLAINS

"I was speaking generally," said Miss Marple, with dignity. "First we had Mrs. Badcock apparently murdered. One asked oneself who could have done such a thing and the first answer would naturally be the husband. So one had to examine that possibility. Then we decide that the real object of the crime was Marina Gregg and there again we have to look for the person most intimately connected with Marina Gregg, starting as I say with the husband.

"Because there is no doubt about it that husbands do, very frequently, want to make away with their wives, though sometimes, of course, they only wish to make away with their wives and do not actually do so. But I agree with you, my dear boy, that Jason Rudd really cares with all his heart for Marina Gregg. It might be very clever acting, though I can hardly believe that.

"And one certainly cannot see a motive of any kind for his doing away with her. If he wanted to marry someone else there could, I should say, be nothing more simple. Divorce, if I may say so, seems second nature to film stars.

"A practical advantage does not seem to arise either. He is not a poor man by any means. He has his own career, and is, I understand, most successful in it. So we must go further afield. But it certainly is difficult Yes, very difficult."

"Yes," said Craddock, "it must hold particular difficulties for you because, of course, this film world is entirely new to you. You don't know the local scandals and animosities and all the rest of it."

"I know a little more than you may think," said Miss Marple. "I have studied very closely various numbers of Confidential, Film Life, Film Talk and Film Topics."

Dermot Craddock laughed. He couldn't help it.

"I must say," he said, "it tickles me to see you sitting there and telling me what your course of literature has been."

"I found it very interesting," said Miss Marple. "They're not particularly well written, if I may say so. But it really is disappointing in a way that it is all so much the same as it used to be in my young days. Modern Society and Tid Bits and all the rest of them.

"A lot of gossip. A lot of scandal. A great preoccupation with who is in love with whom, and all the rest of it. Really, you know, practically exactly the same sort of thing that goes on in St. Mary Mead. And in the Development to.

"Human nature, I mean, is just the same everywhere. One comes back, I think, to the question of who could have been likely to want to kill Marina Gregg, to want to so much that having failed once they sent threatening letters and made repeated attempts to do so. Someone perhaps a little—" very gently she tapped her forehead.

"Yes," said Craddeek, "that certainly seems indicated. "And of course it doesn't always show."

"Oh, I know," agreed Miss Marple, fervently. "Old Mrs. Pike's second boy, Alfred, seemed perfectly rational and normal. Almost painfully prosaic, if you know what I mean, but actually, it seems, he had the most abnormal psychology, or so I understand.

"Really positively dangerous. He seems quite happy and contented, so Mrs. Pike told me, now that he is in Fairways Mental Home. They understand him there, and the doctors think him a most interesting case. That of course pleases him very much. Yes, it all ended quite happily, but she had one or two very near escapes."

Cradock revolved in his mind the possibility of a parallel between someone in Marina Gregg's entourage and Mrs. Pike's second son.

"The Italian butler," continued Miss Marple, "the one who was killed. He went to London, I understand, on the day of his death. Does anyone know what he did there, if you are allowed to tell me, that is," she added conscientiously.

"He arrived in London at 11:30 in the morning," said Craddock, "and what he did in London nobody knows until at a quarter to two he visited his bank and made a deposit of 1,500 in cash.

"I may say that there was no confirmation of his story that he went to London to visit an ill relative who had got into trouble. None of his relatives there had seen him."

Chief Issues List of 100 Motorists

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Chief Magistrate John F. Daly is getting tougher on traffic violators. Now he's going to publish the "100 most wanted motorists" who have been ignoring warrants.

* * *

"We're going to give these lists to all 5,500 policemen, and we're going to tack them on the walls of every police station in the city," Daly said.

* * *

The "most wanted", he said, have disregarded mailed summonses and warrants for at least 18 months.

Set Services for Attorney

DETROIT (AP) — Services will be held Friday for Detroit attorney Albert G. Goetz, chairman of board of Reichhold Chemicals, Inc., Ferndale, until his retirement in April.

Goetz died Monday in Mt. Carmel Mercy Hospital. He was 70.

Goetz, a native of Goetzville, Mich., was senior member of the Goetz & Goetz & Foley law firm.

Woman Pleads Guilty to Embezzling Charge

MONROE (AP) — Mrs. Elaine J. Frostell, accused of collecting water bills and fees and keeping the money while she was South Rockwood village clerk, pleaded guilty yesterday to embezzling $1,386 of village funds.

Mrs. Frostell, 33, was released on $1,000 bond pending her arraignment Friday in Monroe County Circuit Court. She was village clerk from April, 1961, to Aug. 6, 1962.

In 1962, Mormon missionaries converted 112,000 new members. The church has 11,000 missionaries in the field.

Junior Editors Quiz on POODLES

QUESTION: What made poodles popular and why are they clipped?

* * *

ANSWER: "Poodle comes from the German "Pudel," for it was in Germany where this breed is said to have originated. These active, intelligent dogs have been used in Europe for many years for retrieving ducks.

The naturally heavy coat of the poodle held it back as it splashed through the reeds, so it became the custom to trim away the forepart. Then came the idea cutting the poodle's coat to allow puffs of hair to stand out.

This extreme fashion was especially developed in France. Highly clipped "French poodles" became popular all over the world because of their "chic," amusing appearance.

But the poodle is not only smart in the fashion sense. These dogs are particularly responsive to training, so they are often found performing tricks in circuses.

Their even temper makes them fine house pets. In color, poodles are even tones of white or black, also blue, cream, red, liver or apricot. The standard poodle stands over 15 inches high at the shoulder; the Miniature is less than 15 inches, and the Toy Poodle is under 10.

* * *

FOR YOU TO DO: Draw a poodle silhouette as at the top. Our artist says the secret of doing good silhouettes is to draw the object carefully as if you were going to put in all the details. Then make an ink outline and fill it in solidly; your silhouette will come alive.

Woman Into Space

NASA Tests Jerrie

(Editor's Note—Jerrie Cobb, one of America's most famous women pilots, is telling about her campaign to become our first woman into space. In previous installments, she told of her early piloting and personal experiences and of her excitement upon being chosen for NASA tests.)

By JERRIE COBB
with Jane Rieker
Installment IX

It was the night of February 14, 1960. I checked into a motel near the Lovelace Foundation at Albuquerque and gazed out toward the purple-hazed mountains.

★ ★ ★

The Lovelace Foundation is a nonprofit research organization that has pioneered in aviation and aerospace medicine. Here in the next five days would be the chance, perhaps the only one, to prove a female spaceworthy.

"God help me, please."

In no other physical examinations had I ever undergone such minute scrutiny.

TILT TABLE

A test which has been the nemesis for a good many ox-strong pilots is the tilt table.

In it I was wired for electrocardiogram, and a blood pressure cuff was wrapped around my arm. My body was tilted up to 65 degrees, then back so I was lying flat again.

The change from prone to tilt to prone again is a sneaky way to detect coronary insufficiency. If a space pilot is going to black out, it is best to find out in a laboratory.

For one fascinating test, I had to fly to Los Alamos. An atomic research pioneer, Dr. Wright H. Langham, was waiting for me. "This is a body-efficiency test," he said. "We see how much muscle makes up your body in relation to fat and total weight."

★ ★ ★

We went to a very warm room occupied mainly by a large green cylindrical tank. Protruding from the tank was a long, narrow tube. "You'll get into that," said Dr. Langham, "then we'll run it into the cylinder. And while you lie there for a few minutes, we'll 'read' you."

The tube was so narrow that I had to lie down with my arms folded over my body, as if I were to be the main participant in a wake. Panic in that confined space could be an ugly thing.

"Here's the chicken switch," said a technician, handing me a button on a long cord. "If you want to get out before we run you out, just push it." I declined.

A moment later, the tube moved slowly and deliberately like a missile into a muzzle-loading cannon. I was in a dark tunnel, while outside recording-board lights flashed and dots danced on oscilloscopes.

PASSES TESTS

Later a doctor told me:

"You're a remarkable physical specimen. I wish there were more women like you. You've passed Mercury astronaut tests."

I also underwent NASA's test in MASTIF (a combination of all those dreadful amusement park whips and swings I have always tried to avoid) and psychological and psychiatric testing at the well guarded laboratories of the psychiatric services division of the Veterans' Administration hospital in Oklahoma City.

This time it was my brain that rode a bicycle.

"Profound sensory isolation" in water is like being totally deaf and blind with no sense of touch, taste or smell. It is close to the state of aloneness that will face the first long-duration space voyagers.

Dr. Jay T. Shurley and Mrs. Cathy Walters, his assistant, had a flow of questions: had I slept well? (yes); had I eaten any breakfast? (yes, really!); how did I feel? (fine); afraid? (no); ready? (yes).

> The FAI gold wings, the Amelia Earhart Gold Medal of the 99's, the 1959 "Woman of the Year in Aviation" award of the Women's National Aeronautics Association, and a special citation from the National Pilots Association of New York.

I put my bathing suit on, though I was told I could be without it if I preferred. Some subjects find clothes bothersome.

Into the 10-foot-diameter tank I went, supported near-horizontally by an inflated rubber collar under my head and by pieces of foam rubber wrapped around my middle. I was to float quietly and relax.

They left. The enormous safe-like door in the eight-inch-thick steel walls swung closed. It was pitch black.

EVERYTHING'S OK

"Just reporting in that everything's fine. I feel peaceful and quiet and I'm getting sleepy. I find the less I move the more I like it." Silence.

Did they hear me yawn? I think my teeth clicked when I closed my mouth. Maybe they always do, after a yawn. But it's so very still here, I guess that's why they heard it.

"Reporting in again that everything's fine. I'll try to tell you how I feel. First of all, it doesn't feel like water. The minute I move, of course, I can feel the water. But I dislike moving, I'd rather be still.

★ ★ ★

"Although I'm suspended in the water and the water is holding me up, it feels like it's holding me down instead of up. I have no feeling of being held up, any feeling is of being held down."

"What is that? A little light spot? No, that's not possible. This room is light-proof. Maybe it'll go away.

"There's some little bit of lightness coming from somewhere over here."

That's that. I've reported. Now, I don't see anything. Total black. Wonder if there really is any gray spot.

NO STRONG FEELING

"This is Subject 52 reporting that everything's fine in here. I think I'll get out of the tank unless you want me to stay in longer. I don't have any strong feeling either way."

While I mopped myself with a towel, we checked the light leak, which I had said I thought was near the door. It was in a completely opposite corner. So much for orientation in total isolation. But at least I hadn't imagined the little gray spot!

Dr. Shurley asked, "What time do you think it is?"

"Two or two-thirty P.M."

★ ★ ★

It was straight-up seven. I had been in the tank for 9 hours and 40 minutes. Of previous female subjects, none had exceeded six hours; of male subjects, none had exceeded six and a half hours.

These are some excerpts from Dr. Shurley's findings:

"Thus far in our experience, probably not one in 1000 persons would be capable of making such a lengthy isolation run. We have had extraordinary people as subjects. Among them she still stands out . . . .

Triplets Arrive After 20 Years

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Mrs. Lemuel C. Millard celebrated her 20th wedding anniversary in a hospital today after giving birth to triplet daughters.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Millard, 39, also has a daughter, 17. The triplets, born Tuesday weighed 3 pounds, 4 ounces; 3 pounds, 9 ounces; and 3 pounds, 1 ounce.

★ ★ ★

"I had the feeling I was going to have twins," she said. Mrs. Millard said her husband, an electrician, was "downtown buying cigars, blankets, powder and all kinds of things."

A LEG? — No — it's only the leg of a department store mannekin which was washed into the streets of Hot Springs, Ark., yesterday in a flash flood. The leg came to rest in this pile of debris.

Start to Mop Up Debris Left by Wave of Water

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — This resort town has started mopping up the debris left by a four-foot wave of water which cascaded down eight blocks of the business district at daybreak Tuesday.

There were no injuries in the flash flood, which resulted from an 8.31 inch rainfall. Damage to property was expected to run into the hundreds of thousands of dollars.

The water sent four boulders tumbling down mountainsides. The city is in a valley between two mountains of the Ouachita range.

★ ★ ★

Rural areas near the spa were hard hit by rising waters. The Red Cross moved in to handle emergency needs, mostly in outlying sectors. Several highways into the city were temporarily blocked.

Population of the United States increased by 19 per cent in the decade between 1950 and 1960. There was an increase of 35 per cent during that time of people 65 and over.

Collects Cravats From Governors

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Gov. Albertis S. Harrison Jr. has sent two of his old neckties to a Michigan woman who asked for them.

Mrs. Ruth R. Smith of Kalamazoo wrote the governor she was making a quilt from ties worn by the 1963 state governors.

She said the quilt would be displayed at the Kalamazoo County Fair this September.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Smith informed Harrison she intended to print the name of each governor, the name of his wife, and the state on the quilt.

Harrison sent her a beige tie and a black-striped tie.

Beans, Beef and Cheese Fill Hamburger Buns

When the teen-agers meet after an afternoon at the pool, these hearty sandwiches will fill the bill.

In saucepan, cook ¼ cup chopped celery, ¼ cup chopped green pepper, ½ clove garlic (minced), ½ teaspoon leaf oregano (crushed), and ½ teaspoon chili powder in 1 tablespoon butter until vegetables are tender. Add a 1-pound can beans and ground beef in barbecue sauce. Heat, stirring now and then.

Spoon onto 6 split and toasted hamburger rolls; sprinkle with shredded Cheddar cheese, and top with shredded lettuce. Makes 6 sandwiches.

Note to new cooks: egg yolk contains fat and not a speck of it should be allowed to mingle with egg whites that are to be beaten separately.

Serve Avocados in Many Ways

Plan refreshing, nourishing warm-weather menus around California avocado salads.

Lightly toss cubes of California avocado with tomato wedges, strips of chicken or ham, cucumber slices, assorted greens and Italian dressing. Serve with hot buttered garlic bread and iced tea or milk.

For a shimmery cool molded salad, combine avocado crescents with diced green pepper, sliced green onion and chopped pimiento in lemon gelatin. Chill until gelatin is set, unmold on lettuce and serve with cold cuts.

California avocado half-shells hold endless salad combinations. Cut avocados lengthwise into halves; remove seeds and sprinkle with lemon juice.

Mound chicken, ham or seafood salad on each half. Or fill with sliced fresh strawberries and orange segments and top with sour cream.

Rolled Lamb Shoulder

Ever roast boned rolled lamb shoulder? A three-pound piece of meat will need about 2½ hours in a 325-degree oven; if you use a meat thermometer, it should read 180 degrees for well-done.

Use Canned Fish Juice to Spark Up Salads

Want to have your canned fish salads (lobster, shrimp, crab, etc.) the talk of the kitchen crowd? Marinate the lettuce in the juice of the fish for a few minutes and toss the salad before you add any other ingredient, including the fish, to the salad.

★ ★ ★

It won't bedraggle the lettuce because there isn't that much juice in the can but it will spark up the taste, and you can sometimes use one can less of the fish if you do this. Then add onion, green pepper, mayonnaise mixed with cream, freshly ground black pepper, salt, celery . . . . . and rest of your laurels.

Note to new cooks: To "dredge" food means nothing more than to coat it with flour or a similar substance.

Don't waste celery leaves. They contain flavor and nutrients. Add them to cooked cabbage, carrots, stews, soups, stuffings and to the water in which shellfish is to be cooked.

Add Chopped or Slivered Almonds to Glamorize Foods

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Almonds, a favorite of all good cooks, are great embellishers. Here are some reminders of the ways they may be used when you want to keep your family happy by varying everyday dishes.

Next time you make a frosted cake, add this garnish. Dip one end of blanched whole almonds in melted semi-sweet chocolate, then insert the nuts — chocolate tip up — in the frosting. Delightful to look at and delicious to eat.

Youngsters usually adore "porcupines." Soften cream cheese and beat with a little milk or cream.

Arrange a pearhalve (fresh or canned) with the rounded side up on a lettuce leaf. Frost the pear halves with the cream cheese and insert almond "quills."

Plain sugar cookies taste extra good when they are given this treatment before they are baked. Brush the rolled-out and cut dough with slightly beaten egg white; sprinkle with a mixture of sugar, grated lemon or orange rind and finely chopped almonds.

Almonds give steamed rice great texture and flavor contrast. Just stir toasted slivered almonds into the cooked rice at the same time you add butter.

So many green vegetables — peas, snap beans, broccoli and asparagus — benefit from almonds. Add the blanched slivered toasted nuts to melted butter and pour over the cooked vegetable.

Custard-type puddings — vanilla, chocolate and butterscotch — with their bland flavor and smooth texture take to a crisp almond topping.

* * *

Sunday brunch coming up? You can make almond-cinnamon buns in a hurry and they'll be freshly baked. Serve them with eggs and bacon; men usually like these because they're not too sweet.

Almond Cinnamon Buns

⅓ cup sugar
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ cup butter or margarine, softened
¼ cup toasted slivered almonds
12 brown-and-serve butterflake rolls

In a small bowl, stir together the sugar and cinnamon; blend in the butter. Stir in almonds lightly. Partially separate sections of rolls; spread each with about 1 tablespoon of the butter mixture. Place in ungreased muffin pans and bake in a moderate (375 degrees) oven for 8 to 10 minutes. Serve at once.

Special Problems for Women

Consider Children Most in Divorce

Editor's Note: This is the third in a series of articles concerning divorce in Oakland County, its frequency and effects; as well as proposals offered for a solution.

By JIM DYGERT

"Divorce is not so bad unless children are hurt."

"The growing number of broken marriages is a serious problem mainly because of the dangers they create for society."

This is today's attitude toward the divorce problem; an attitude that emphasizes social considerations over traditional moral contexts.

Though divorce should not be approved generally, this attitude says, it's only a matter of private personal morality and not really a public problem if no children are involved.

Although the humanitarian desire to promote marital happiness is strong and many still believe divorce is always wrong, there's no loud or urgent alarm over childless divorces.

★ ★ ★

The concern is concentrated on who is harmed the most.

The divorced woman, even if childless, faces special problems in being newly single.

Divorced mothers get custody of children in 90 per cent of the cases and must raise their youngsters alone.

Divorce is sometimes tougher on the father, as even some divorced women agree.

Child support requirements split a divorced father's income between two households, an especially demanding thing if he remarries.

Though it varies with income, support usually is $7.50 a week per child.

Failure to pay the support subjects him to jail. Reciprocal agreements between states enforce this even if he leaves Michigan.

While they regret the law's provisions, men generally do not, however, regret their divorces. Nor does a divorced woman (of which there are now 2 million in the United States who have not remarried), despite her new problems.

In 90 per cent of the cases, she started suit in the first place.

Since it's presumed that adults can look after themselves, society is more concerned with the children. Certainly the courts are.

Absence of one parent can deprive a child of his emotional needs. And as Oakland County Circuit Judge Frederick C. Ziem points out, the father's money squeeze may deprive him of material needs.

'NOT BAD'

"Divorce is not essentially bad," says County Circuit Judge Arthur E. Moore. "It's a social problem because it affects children."

Even Circuit Judge William J. Beer, the county bench's staunchest foe of easy divorce, admits he seems less strict when no children are affected.

The law, while holding that all divorce is against public policy except in extraordinarily grave circumstances, emphasizes protection of children.

The law sets up the Friend of the Court's office to investigate and recommend to courts on custody and support of children under 18, to enforce court orders in these regards, and to collect support money. In short, protect the children's welfare.

Only a two-month waiting period is required for a childless couple's uncontested divorce, compared to six months for parents.

Why the emphasis on children?

BROKEN HOMES

Because 50 per cent of juvenile delinquency can be traced to broken homes, according to Judge Moore.

Because, he says, broken homes often shatter a child's security and subject him to an abnormal family life that can lead to emotional and moral neglect and breakdown.

Because children of divorces are more likely to become maladjusted adults who resort to crime and who, themselves, as poorer marriage risks, multiply the divorce problem.

Because all this represents a threat to the existence of a peaceful society and to a civilization organized on the family unit.

There are some 20,000 children under the Oakland County Friend of the Court's supervision.

Of the county's 2,862 divorce cases filed in 1962, some 1,977 involved 4,646 children, an 83 per cent jump from 1961.

TOO MANY CASES

"There are too many cases for my staff of 40 to check regularly," says Friend of the Court W. Cadman Prout.

Operating on a $225,000 annual budget, Prout's office last year collected $4.4 million in child support.

"We're on the children's side," Prout says.

★ ★ ★

Children of divorcees last year received $700,000 in Aid to Dependent Children in the county, and currently get $2,500 per month besides from the county in direct welfare relief.

Next: Some Proposals.

Crash Kills Otsego Man

KALAMAZOO (AP) — Lee E. Abbott, 41, of Otsego, was killed yesterday in a one-car crash on a rural road seven miles from here. Abbott's car failed to negotiate a turn and struck a tree.

Detroit Schools to Sell Bonds?

DETROIT (AP)— The Common Council offered yesterday to give the Detroit Board of Education authority to issue bonds which would net $45 million if the board will drop plans to for half day sessions in the first, fourth and seventh grades next school year.

School Supt. Samuel Brownell said if the money were raised through bonds, it would free $8 million which could be used for salaries and avert the half-day sessions.

The offer was made by Council President Ed Carey, who said the Council has the right to give the school board authority to issue bonds amounting to two per cent of Detroit's assessed valuation.

★ ★ ★

School Board President Leonard Kasle said the board would study the offer and report back on July 24. "There is a large possibility we will take this offer," he said.

Union Local Sets Picnic for Sunday

Pontiac Motor Division Local 653's annual picnic is set for this Sunday at the John P. Ivory farm, located at 9960 Cooley Lake Road.

Free refreshments — including soft drinks, ice cream and added refreshments for the adults — will be available.

Free pony rides, swimming and other activities have been planned for the children.

Clowns will provide entertainment, and baseball games for both children and adults have been scheduled.

A full display of all models of Pontiacs and Tempests will be provided by Pontiac Motor Division.

Because the number of picnic tables is limited, these desiring have been advised to bring their own table.

New Look in Maternity Clothes

This tunic ensemble in a shimmering summer blend cotton, rayon and silk is perked up by piping on a jewel neck and arms and bow-bedecked inserts of white being important highlights to the sides. About $15.

The duo that can do beautifully for festive summer includes an organza check coat with a Chanel neckline and three-quarter sleeves matched with a sheath of rayon silk, shirred at the bodice, self-belted at the waist. About $25.

The sleeveless modified shift, with its open neck yoke of red and navy has an unbutton-as-you-go front, adapts the season's most important new silhouette to the woman who's waiting in cool Arnel sharkskin. About $15.

Literally overnight — the new look in maternity clothes has stolen the limelight in the fashion picture — a position it assumed the moment announcement was made from Washington, D. C. that a new Kennedy is expected at the White Household.

* * *

Even if the new baby were merely the first to be born to a President while he was in office since the days of McKinley, fashion interest in the new look of maternity clothes would be at a height.

* * *

But with the First Lady unquestionably the country's — if not the world's — most prominent style setter, what she will be wearing through the summer months can be expected to bring maternity fashions to new status — and chicness.

MATERNITY LINES

Indications point to a continuation of the "young arrogant look," adapted, of course, to maternity lines.

* * *

This unmistakable air of smartness quickly came to the fashion forefront when Jacqueline — as well as the several other Mrs. Kennedys —firmly established Washington as a focal point in fashion; it should continue as a point of departure especially once its applications to the maternity silhouette have been established.

*

The fluid shift, the eased "A" line and the uncluttered tunic, all already among the favorites of the First Lady's "looks," can be expected to be among the most important lines in new maternity fashions.

* * *

Easily translated to lines for the lady-in-waiting, they will tend to highlight the face while they deftly disguise the silhouette. Panels, floating scarves and yoking can also be expected to dominate the fashion scene in the months ahead.

* * *

Intricate necklines and interest at the sleeves should also achieve importance as devices to put emphasis at the face.

MORE FORMAL

For more formal occasions, Mrs. Kennedy's preferences for the costume look and the matched sheath and coat ensemble should be much in evidence in forthcoming months. More formal silhouettes will probably stress clever tiering and flounced skirts with rich tones and lavish fabrics that are cool and comforting — completing the gala look.

* * *

As one of the most sports minded First Ladies within memory — there's little doubt that Mrs. Kennedy's fashion emphasis will be almost equally divided between formal wear and play clothes—especially when the family gathers at Hyannisport for the summer.

* * *

New stretch fabrics, particularly in play pants and bathing suits, can almost be predicted with complete safety to play a major part in the relaxed fashion picture subheaded: MATERNITY.

A dress emphatically Empire in looks features a bright bow on the shirred bodice with a flurry of fringe on the top and white pique at the bib and neck. About $11. All maternity fashions shown here are available locally.

The classic lines of the tunic shown here are in cooling silk and cotton. Floating panels stemming from the neck are caught and tabbed at the shoulder for comfort. About $18.

This prettily printed lined Fortrel cotton voile is scooped at the neckline, bared at the arm and triple-tiered to give a deceptively slim line. A lovely way to look at important events while/ expecting the most important event of all. About $18.

Shower Held for Bride-Elect

Linda Simpson of Orchard Lake opened gifts of linens at an evening shower Monday in the Erie Drive home of Mrs. Harold Knisley. Mrs. Robert Ferrier of Pontiac Lake was cohostess.

The Aug. 10 bride-elect is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Filon J. Simpson Jr. The Louis K. Copelands, also of Orchard Lake are parents of her fiance, John Wayne Copeland.

Joining some 20 area guests were Mrs. Floyd Kerby, Grosse Pointe, and Mrs. Matthew Donner, Livonia.

Fluff Ironing Board Pads

When your ironing board pads become matted and flattened, use the automatic dryer to fluff and give them new life. Tumble the pads on "no heat" for five or 10 minutes and see the difference.

Personals, News Notes From Area

* * *

The Bruce Annetts of Sylvan Shores Drive are attending a two-day conference of the State Chamber of Commerce, being held at the St. Clair Inn.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Wiliam Belaney, Chippewa Road, are being visited by his mother, Mrs. J. W. Belaney of E. Liverpool, Ohio. She will be staying with them for another week.

* * *

Mrs. Roger Smith (Judith Castell) of Hartford, Mich. will return to Pontiac soon to serve in the July 27 wedding of Diane Diamond, East Greenwich Drive, to Jack LemMun, Lake Orion. She will stay with her parents, the Robert Castells, East Iroquois Road.

* * *

The William Lacy family will be leaving July 28 for a three-week motor trip to California.

* * *

Mrs. Marc J. Eshman, Bloomfield Hills, leaves on a month-long motor tour of Europe this week. Stopovers in Denmark, Germany, Austria and Italy are planned.

Sunglasses Bring Glamour, Comfort, Safety

When Greta Garbo first took to sunglasses, it wasn't to hide from her public! Miss Garbo and other Hollywood stars first wore sunglasses to protect their eyes from the bright Klieg lights.

Thus, sunglasses became a status symbol of glamour.

* * *

Today, sunglasses are more than a glamourous affectation — they have become a necessity. First seen only on beaches, sunglasses quickly gained popularity as people realized their effectiveness in protecting their eyes from harsh glare in all seasons.

With the knowledge that sunglasses are fashionable, a status symbol and extremely utilitarian, the realization has grown that one pair alone could never fill the needs or desires of the well-dressed woman.

COMPLEMENT STYLES

Leading sunglass manufacturers now work closely with fabric, leather and jewelry manufacturers, as well as leading hair stylists, to complement styles.

Included in the latest styles are new pearlized pastel colors to dramatize resort fashions. Tailored sports glasses protect the eyes and complement casual clothes. Jeweled frames set off summer dresses for gala occasions and late sunsets.

* * *

For the tailored look year-round, there are many demi-amber, black and white frames to blend with everything from the business suit to the basic black dress.

For the 76½ million wearers of regular eyeglasses who do not own prescription sunglasses, there is a complete line of opti-clipovers in many shapes and sizes. These are tailored styles that fit over the lens area only, or framed-shapes with lattice work at the corners and tiny jewels highlighting the frames. They can change regular eyeglasses into glamorous sunglasses in seconds.

* * *

Sunglasses are an important working accessory. Anyone who works outside for long or even for short periods of time should be particularly serious about eye care, advises the Sun Glass Institute, which represents leading United States Manufacturers.

SUFFER FROM GLARE

Many people, the Institute claims, suffer from almost chronic cases of glare fatigue and wonder why they feel headachy and irritable.

When these persons play in the sun at the beach or on the golf course, or even when they are among the crowd at the ball park, they wouldn't think of being without their sunglasses which are recognized as a required part of the up-to-date sports or casual costume.

When they work, however, they fail to use the same good judgment when simply donning sunglasses would help prevent those annoying glare fatigue symptoms.

* * *

There are literally dozens of occupations, the Institute reports, in which sunglasses can reduce strain and add to eye comfort. In driving jobs where the safety factor is important, sunglasses are at a peak of popularity.

Sunglasses for working hours should be selected carefully. Frames should be sturdy. The hinges connecting the temple pieces should give smooth movement.

The lenses should be large enough to cover the normal angle of vision and should not be brushed by the eyelashes. Frames should not be too tight behind the ears; nor should they rest on the cheekbones.

* * *

It is important, too, that lenses be free of distortion. To check this, hold the glasses in front of the eyes and focus on a fixed point. Then slowly move them from side to side, noticing if this produces any wavy or blurred spots.

Coloration should also be checked by holding the glasses up to the light and inspecting for lighter or darker spots.

For working and particularly for driving, green or neutral are preferred lens colors. Pastel or "cosmetic" lenses should be saved for less demanding activities.

Linda Fisher, Pontiac Press staff member tries on some ornate sunglass frames which are display at Pontiac Optical Center.

* * *

The first "sunglass" is said to have been worn by Nero. He held a polished emerald to his eyes to watch gladiatorial combats in the Roman arena.

Although sunglasses were first worn used in ancient Rome, it was not until the 18th Century when Henry VIII ruled England that sunglasses became popular.

During the 18th Century, "London Smoke" glasses became the rage, and numerous "smoke glass shoppes" sprouted up throughout the city.

The Gay Nineties and the introduction of the automobile also witnessed the development of tinted "dust goggles"—an American sunglass concept that served a two-fold purpose, first for horse-drawn carriage travel and later in our early touring cars.

Perfectly round lenses seemed to be the fad of the Flapper era during the '20s, marking the beginning of fashion in sunglass design.

Hollywood popularized sunglasses, creating a celebrity identification and an aura of glamour and romance. Soon, millions of women were following the sunglass fashion trend set by Garbo and other famous screen stars.

Stranger Asks

Guess Who, Friend!

DEAR ABBY: Recently I answered my door and was confronted by a woman who insisted that I KNEW her. When I told her I didn't, she seemed offended, and kept me guessing for some time.

It was most embarrassing. She turned out to be an old schoolmate I hadn't seen in FORTY-ONE years!

ABBY

Really now, Abby. We weren't that close in the first place and hadn't had any contact in all that time. It was good to see her again, but wasn't she presumptuous to have expected me to remember her?

She had the advantage over me because she had been told where I was living. How does one tactfully handle the idiotic question, "I'll bet you don't remember me, do you?"

EMBARRASSED

* * *

DEAR EMBARRASSED: With the forthright honest reply, "Perhaps I should but I'm sorry I don't. Who ARE you?"

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I have three children under five years old. Several times when I've come home from work, I've found them badly bruised. Even with broken bones.

My wife said they fell out of the highchair, or down the cellar steps. Once the older one said, "Mommy hit us," and she was called "a filthy little liar." Now I'm sure my wife has been mistreating the children because I came home early yesterday and caught her in the act.

She says it's my word against hers and a man can't testify against his wife. Is this true?

I operate a complicated machine, Abby, and I can't keep my mind on my work for worrying about the children. Can you help me?

WORRIED FATHER

* * *

DEAR WORRIED: Ask a lawyer (or District Attorney or sheriff) how to get your children away from a possibly dangerous and ill mother. They may need something beside your word for it, but they will advise you on tactics. And don't delay.

Why Grow Old?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

When traveling, small conveniences can make the trip so much more pleasant. Give some thought to these little comforts, aids and pleasures.

★ ★ ★

So many people are accustomed to speedy airplane trips and helpful stewardesses that a long train or bus trip is apt to find them unprepared. If you are planning an over-night (or longer) train, bus or auto trip, here are a few suggestions for your tote bag.

1. A box of tissues, besides obvious uses, is good for taking off make-up, mopping up spills, wiping dust off shoes and purse, wrapping around the head of a wet toothbrush, etc.

2. Several packets of those aluminum-wrapped "wet" tissues—to rid you of sticky or dirty hands when it is impossible to get to a sink.

3. Some candy bars, apples or cookies—you can get terribly hungry late at night just because you know there is no place to get a snack.

4. A small can of hair spray—overnight trips, either sitting up or lying down, will muss your fresh hairdo.

5. A paper pad and pen or pencil — a long train or bus trip gives you plenty of time to catch up on your correspondence, or you may want to jot down your impressions of a very scenic route or some experiences you had to help you re-enjoy the trip later on.

6. An extra sweater — even in summer it gets cold at night on trains and buses traveling through mountains. On air-conditioned Pullman cars you may often welcome the sweater. In a bus seat, a coat may be cumbersome.

7. Some safety pins and a threaded needle — in case of popped buttons, a suddenly split dress seam, broken garter, or to pin your earrings or bracelet to the lining of your bag so you can find them easily in the morning.

8. Extra cigarettes and matches if you smoke — again, for the late hours when your fellow passengers may be sleeping and you can neither borrow nor buy.

9. Extra pair of stockings and white gloves, depending on the length of your trip and feasibility of washing things out — possible in a train compartment, but not in a coach or on a bus.

10. A good book, thrown into your bag in advance — you might be late getting aboard and not have time to buy reading matter.

11. A small jar of dehydrated citrus drink — if you are traveling by Pullman and just can't make it to the diner in the morning without something to wake you up. A little of this mixed with water will help you face the world.

12. A tiny transistor radio with ear plug will work on bus or train and relieve tedium. Also useful drug items: aspirin and eyewash (stations and depots can be very dusty).

"Dear Eunice:

"Please tell me how to remove the underarm dart from a pattern? I am very small and thin and can't find a pattern without this dart."

Mrs. R.A.J.

Dear Mrs. R.A.J.:

Rather than eliminate the dart altogether, I would suggest you make it just half the size the pattern calls for. You may also change the size of the dart under the bust to half its size. This will eliminate quite a lot of the shaping in the bodice and should fit you much better.

Incidentally, this is also the correct alteration for pre-teens who haven't developed enough for the amount of shaping the pattern often calls for.

"Dear Eunice Farmer:

"Please help me decide what to do with cotton and wool knits. Many of the ready-made garments aren't lined; I do prefer a lining unless there is some reason for not using one."

Mrs. J.W.

Dear Mrs. J.W.

The reason most knits aren't lined is because a softer effect is desired in the garment. There is no reason they can't be lined however; I usually prefer a very fine China silk for a lining because it will retain the shape of your garment without any extra bulk.

Of course, the biggest advantage of lining is that the hem marks won't show.

While we're on the subject of knits, be sure to use a slightly larger machine stitch and hold the fabric firmly (pulling slightly) as you stitch. This will give the seam the same elasticity as the fabric and prevent a pulled look at the seams as well as breaking of the stitches.

HELPFUL HINT

Mrs. E.C. says: "One of my favorite gadgets in my sewing equipment area is just a steel wool pad. It's wonderful for that slightly rusty needle, or sticky pin.

MATCHING SKIRTS AND SWEATERS

"With matching sweaters and skirts so much in vogue, it is often impossible to find a perfect match. I buy a piece of white, fine quality wool and have it dyed the exact color of my sweater.

"Be sure to have the fabric dyed before you make the skirt and allow a little extra fabric for shrinkage. This should be done professionally to assure successful color matching."

Jean Tashmo, St. Louis, Mo., is this week's winner of a Tailor Trix pressing board for this suggestion.

"Dear Mrs. Farmer:

"The nylon overskirt on my formal has a small burn in the center front. It is very noticeable and I am wondering if there is anything I can do about it?"

Peggy

★ ★ ★

Dear Peggy:

This is rather hard for me to answer since you haven't described the fabric and color, however, if it is a solid color, you might scatter a few embroidered medallions over your skirt.

Other variations would be tiny velvet bows, beaded or sequined circles, or almost any type of trim. Actually, you can actually make your formal more attractive than it was originally.

YOUR SEWING GLOSSARY:

China silk: This is a very fine, closely woven, lightweight silk that is used mostly for linings because of its firmness and lack of weight.

College Mixes Arts, Sciences

MORAGA, Calif. (UPI)—St. Mary's College, a four-year liberal arts school located in a verdant valley 25 miles east of San Francisco, is trying to give its students more than just "random courses in the humanities."

The college, which has an enrollment of about 800, has recently introduced courses designed to give students an idea of the relationships among the arts, sciences and social sciences.

The school offers an "integrated curriculum" to some students. Such a curriculum is intended to give students an idea of the links between science and mathematics, on the one hand, and history, literature and philosophy on the other.

All students also must take a course in "Great Classics," which introduces them to Freud, Marx and Einstein as well as Plato, Aquinas and Shakespeare.

Wardrobe Aid for Moms-to-Be

(UPI) — For expectant mothers: A new nylon stretch panel can be easily sewn into all regular clothes, making a special maternity wardrobe unnecessary. It comes with a variety of colors with matching draw string.

Britain to Reorganize Military, Security Units

LONDON (UPI) — The government announced yesterday its plan for reorganizing Britain's defense, including centralization of military intelligence and security in a move designed to combat Soviet espionage.

The plan, published in a white paper today, will put the Royal Navy, Air Force and Army under the defense ministry.

Mafia Arrests Grow in Sicily

PALERMO, Sicily (AP) — Police eported yesterday 50 more suspects have been rounded up in Italy's biggest anti-Mafia drive since World War II.

This brought to nearly 300 the number of arrests since the crackdown began 16 days ago.

Security sources said the operation might soon be pushed into other sections of West Sicily, the half of the island considered to be the strongest Mafia domain.

Fix Aheads

Nice for that evening get-together: skewers of baked ham cubes alternated with cocktail onions, pimiento-stuffed olives. Serve with party-size slices of buttered rye bread, or make sandwiches of the bread using a mustard-butter filling.

A little canned tomato sauce leftover? Add it to ground beef you are going to make into hamburgers.

Franks 'n' Cabbage

Last-minute dish: heat a pound jar of sweet and sour red cabbage in a big skillet with a pound of frankfurters. You'll need to cover the pan and simmer for about 10 minutes. Serve with mashed potatoes made from a package. Pass the mustard!

Ever add crisply cooked crumbled bacon to sardines mashed with mayonnaise for a sandwich spread?

Stuffed Prunes

Here's a wonderful addition to a fruit salad. Fill large cooked pitted prunes with cream cheese combined with toasted wheat germ and mayonnaise.

Try Liverwurst

Ever add thin slices of liverwurst to the usual club sandwich combination of sliced chicken or turkey, sliced tomato and crisp bacon? These may be served open-style and garnished with pickles, lettuce and mayonnaise. Men like these!

By the year 2,000 it is estimated the nation will need more than 40 million additional housing units.

Family Moves to New Neighborhood

School Change Poses Learning Challenge

BY LESLIE J. NASON, ED.D.

So you've moved and your children will be in new schools in September.

Don't worry about their adjusting. With a little help the change will do them good. During their lifetime they will change locations and jobs several times.

DR. NASON

To begin with they'll need some pointers on what not to do as well as what to do to enter into a new school happily and successfully.

* * *

Once the technique is learned, it will stand them in good stead for the rest of their lives. Whether it is entering a new school, a new job or a new community, the same principles hold.

When children feel secure in the love and affection of the home, they have confidence in entering new and strange situations.

Parents should be especially mindful of this and take the time to talk with each child individually a little each day. They should emphasize the security of each child within the family circle.

In entering this new group, a person isn't accepted by the group as a whole. Acceptance is by the individuals within the group. A child entering a new school will do well to make just ONE friend and then another, and so on.

The child should NOT try to master the new situation without help. Ask—it is a good way to meet people. A simple statement, "I'm new here, can you please help me?" will bring out the best in others.

The mechanics of life in the new school are important. A small child may need a few minutes help in learning his way about the new building.

An older child can get a handbook or get some details on the rules from the counselor. Either should find a new friend to lean on for details as soon as possible.

He should not talk about how things were done in the last school. Far better to ask how they are done here!

If children are to become skilled in enjoying the changes which appear to be part of their future, a planned approach to the adventure of change is called for.

Make the change a learning experience for the whole family. As a family, discover as much as you can about the new location both before and after you arrive. Get data from the library and the Chamber of Commerce.

Students starting in a new school with different teachers and a different textbook can make the change a challenge rather than a problem.

An immediate attack on the materials in the text, careful attention to the procedures asked by the new teachers, and a determination to make a good first impression with high standards of work all pay dividends.

Conferences between a parent and a child can help plan each new day. Such plans drive out fears from the mind and ease entry in the new situation.

You can write Dr. Nason in care of the Pontiac Press. He will answer questions of most interest in his column.

South felt that he was right conservative merely to bid four spades and then refrain from redoubling.

JACOBY

It was just as well that there was no redouble because South did not make his contract.

He started all right by winning the heart opening and leading out his ace of trumps, but he continued with the jack of trumps. West took his queen and later on South had to lose two more trump tricks and a club.

South should have followed his ace of spades with a low one. West would still take his queen, but South could play his jack of spades later on and eventually pick up East's nine spot with the ten.

Why was South's unfortunate result due to bad play and not to luck?

Because South had nothing to gain by leading the jack of spades after taking his ace. Should trumps break 3-3, he was only going to lose two spade tricks on any play. Should either defender hold four to the king-queen South would have to lose three trump tricks, but if either opponent held queen-small or king-small then the low play would save that all-important contract.

A—Bid six spades. Your partner must be interested in learning that you have second round diamond control and your spades are solid.

Your partner bids four no-trump over your four spades and five no-trump after you bid five diamonds to show one ace. What do you do?

Dr. Wayne G. Brandstadt Says:

Medicine Should Set Boxing Ring Rules

BRANDSTADT

Accidental deaths occur in almost any sport, but the aspect of boxing that gives it its bad name is that none of the injuries incurred can properly be called accidental.

This is because, unlike football or baseball, boxing is a sport in which the avowed purpose of the contestants is to batter the opponent senseless.

Those who would defend the sport claim that it helps to keep many fit, and lures them away from mischievous gangs.

Medical authorities are coming more and more to believe that there are better ways of accomplishing this purpose.

* * *

The best that can be said for boxing is that, along with teaching these boys how to inflict injury on others, it does help train them in how to avoid injury to themselves and defend themselves in an unprovoked fight.

Blows below the belt were outlawed long ago and are not tolerated by fight fans; yet such blows, although painful, have never been fatal.

It is much more important to outlaw blows to the head because, aside from producing cauliflower ears and flattened noses; these are the blows that cause concussions, the punch-drunk state, and death.

Often it is not any one blow or bout, but an accumulation of minor brain injuries, that leads a boxer to suffer from dizziness, loss of memory, blurred vision, and persistent headaches.

* * *

It is doubtful, however, that fight fans would support recommended rules or legislation that would prohibit blows to the head, because that is precisely what they pay their money to see.

INADEQUATE PROTECTION

That the headgear sometimes worn gives inadequate protection was shown in the recent death of 19-year-old Francesco Valesquez, who was wearing such gear when he received a fatal blow.

The Commission on Medical Aspects of Sports of the American Medical Association has re-examined the whole question.

Since there seems to be little hope of outlawing boxing, they have made the following recommendations:

* * *

- A thorough medical examination of each contestant before he enters the ring.
- A physician present at all bouts, with authority to stop the fight.
- Opponent to be declared the winner when a contestant sustains more than one knockdown in any one round.
- Automatic suspension of any contestant who is knocked out or severely injured, until physician O.K.'s resumption of boxing.
- Adoption of shock-absorbing ring padding under the canvas.
- Required use of headgear and mouthpieces.
- Training to assure the maximum protection that goes with good condition.
- Referees familiar with and alert to the health hazards inherent in boxing.

* * *

Observance of these recommendations will not eliminate all injuries in the ring, but they will go a long way to reduce the number and seriousness of such injuries.

Sentence Set for Later Date

Sentencing of a 31-year-old Pontiac man who pleaded guilty to an assault charge after winning a new trial from the State Supreme Court was delayed yesterday until next June by Circuit Judge Stanton G. Dondero.

Judge Dondero took the action in the case of Billy Eugene Oates, who was sentenced in 1959 to 7½ to 10 years in prison after his conviction of assault to do great bodily harm in the brutal beating of his sister, Mrs. Odell Wyatt, 26.

Oates served four years in prison before the high court overturned his conviction in February. The court said the late Circuit Judge Frank L. Doty's charge to the jury "exceeded all bounds of permissible comment."

The adjournment of sentencing was done under a state law permitting such a delay up to a year. Oates is free on personal bond.

* * *

Oates' record during the 11 months he is free will be taken into account in the sentencing.

Oates pleaded guilty as his second trial was about to begin June 26.

New Insect Bomb Kills Fast...
KEEPS KILLING INSECTS 3 TIMES LONGER THAN OLD-FASHIONED SPRAYS!

Kills flies and mosquitoes fast, then keeps killing 3 times longer than old-fashioned sprays.

Scientific tests of insecticides at a major laboratory tell a surprising story: Of the leading sprays tested, many lose their power to kill soon after they are used! But with the discovery of Black Flag Insect Bomb, you keep killing flying insects after old-fashioned sprays are no longer in the air. In test after test, Black Flag kept its killing action three times longer than the old-fashioned sprays.

The reason: Old-fashioned sprays actually "fade away" minutes after you use them. No wonder bugs come back to bother you!

But one spray of Black Flag Insect Bomb kills fast, then keeps killing flies and mosquitoes three times longer. Yet you cannot see Black Flag at work. It's invisible! Only the bugs know it's there.

So why use old-fashioned sprays at home? Their killing action can fade away in minutes! Bugs come back to attack you. Instead, use Black Flag Insect Bomb in the convenient green-and-white push-button can. Scientific tests proved Black Flag kills fast, then keeps killing three times longer than old-fashioned sprays.

For longer lasting action against flying insects, get new

In Powder Puff Derby

Novices Win Flying Contest

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UPI) — Mrs. Virginia Britt, Fort Lauderdale, Fla., the wife of an amateur pilot, was named the winner last night of the 17th annual Powder Puff Derby, an all-women transcontinental airplane race.

Mrs. Britt flew the 2,900-mile course from Bakersfield, Calif., to this resort city on the Atlantic Ocean with Mrs. Lee Winfield, Miami Springs, Fla., as her copilot.

Their victory was considered by a Derby spokesman as "quite remarkable" because their Piper Cherokee PA-28 has only a 180-horsepower engine while the majority of the 42 planes that finished the race were equipped with 250-horsepower engines.

* * *

In addition, Mrs. Britt, mother of one son, only had 445 hours of flying time and Mrs. Winfield, who has four children, only 280 hours.

The Derby spokesman said many contestants have up to 17,000 flying hours to their credit.

The Britt-Winfield team arrived here at 10:09 a.m. (Pontiac time) yesterday, coming in as the 35th plane.

* * *

The official winner is determined by the difference between her average flying speed and a handicap speed determined by the capability of her plane.

GOOD NAVIGATION

The Derby spokesman said Mrs. Britt and Mrs. Winfield won because their "navigation was very good and they caught good winds. They waited for good winds."

Second place was captured by the team of Mrs. Nancy Lynan, Alameda, Calif., and Ellen Bateman, Rockville, Md.

Mrs. Ellen Leoning and her copilot, Mrs. Linda Warner, both of San Francisco, came in third.

* * *

Fourth place went to Mrs. Ginnie Richardson, Yakima, Wash., and Marian Jepsen, Del Mar, Calif.

Mrs. Mary Ann Noah, Mission, Kan., and copilot Stella Lehmann, Kansas City, Mo., were fifth.

The defending champion in the race, which started in Bakersfield Saturday, was Mrs. Frances Sara, Long Beach, Calif., who had won the past two years.

* * *

Mrs. Britt, who has a commercial flying license, was competing in her second Powder Puff Derby. She placed fourth in the 1960 competition. Her husband, D. E. Britt, is an engineer and also a pilot.

* * *

This was the first Derby competition for Mrs. Winfield. She has an aircraft dispatcher's license and is executive secretary to Southeast Airlines in Florida.

The first place winner receives $900, numerous trophies and other prizes.

Catholic Author Dies

NEWCASTLE, England (AP)— The Rev. Fr. Gerald Vann, 58, one of the most widely read Roman Catholic theologians, died Sunday. Father Vann, who made his chief mark as author of a series of religious books, made several visits to the United States as a lecturer and broadcaster.

Women From State Place in Contest

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Bernice T. Steadman of Flint and Mary E. Clark of Jackson placed seventh yesterday in the 17th annual Powder Puff Derby coast-to-coast airplane race.

Standings in the 2,500-mile race, which started Saturday in Bakersfield, Calif., are determined by a formula involving ground speed and "par speed" handicap, which takes into account the capabilities of various models of aircraft.

Margaret Crane of Fenton, Mich., was the final finisher yesterday among the 43 entries in the race.

Says Clay for President Would Unite the GOP

NEW YORK (UPI) — Former Rep. Hamilton Fish believes the nomination of Gen. Lucius Clay as the Republican party's 1964 presidential candidate would "unite the left and right factions of the party."

Fish said yesterday he would speak at a press conference Friday in Washington and "present the image of Clay as the ablest and best qualified Republican to head the ticket." Fish is secretary of the Draft Clay for President Committee.

Varied Fish Recipes Please

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

You don't spend all your time cooking hot dogs and hamburgers on your grill; you do serve other foods. Or do you?

Here is a trio of fish recipes that will help to beat the heat and vary the menu. In price they range from the relatively inexpensive canned tuna to shrimp and individual fish steaks.

The protein found in fish is equal to that of meat. Even with the addition of dressings, the fat content is not prohibitively high.

Pickled fish has a Spanish background. Although the recipe suggests serving it as a first course, it could easily be a luncheon salad. Any leftover fish will keep well in the refrigerator.

PICKLED FISH—Pescado Escabeche, sometimes known as Seviche in Caribbean regions, is pickled fish. Sparked with pimiento-stuffed olives and served on crisp western iceberg lettuce, it's deliciously cool for a hot night.

Pickled Fish

1½ pounds striped bass, cut in ¾ inch thick steaks
1 teaspoon monosodium glutamate
¾ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
¼ cup olive oil
½ cup onion rings
½ cup sliced, pimiento-stuffed olives
2 teaspoons dry mint flakes or 1 tablespoon chopped fresh mint
½ cup vinegar
Western iceberg lettuce

Sprinkle bass with monosodium glutamate, salt and pepper. Lightly brown fish in heated oil in skillet; transfer to shallow casserole.

In same skillet, cook onion until soft and yellow about 3 minutes; add olives, mint flakes and vinegar; pour over fish. Cover and chill several hours. Serve as first course on western iceberg lettuce. Makes 4-6 servings.

Any favorite fish steaks may be used.

* * *

Shrimp-Fruit Kabobs may be cooked indoors or out. They suggest a buffet party. If you have a small hibachi, let your guests grill their own kabobs.

Shrimp Fruit Kabobs

1 cup orange juice
½ cup vinegar
½ cup salad oil
½ cup soy sauce
1 teaspoon salt
1 pound fresh shrimp, shelled and deveined, or 1 8-10 ounce package frozen shrimp, thawed
16 thin slices lime or lemon
16 maraschino cherries
1 large banana, cut in thick slices

Combine orange juice, vinegar, oil, soy sauce, and salt; blend. Add remaining ingredients. Chill 1 hour. Arrange shrimp, lime or lemon slices, cherries, and banana slices on 8 skewers. Reserve marinade.

Broil kabobs 3-4 inches from source of heat, or cook on outdoor grill 3 to 4 minutes on each side. Heat remaining marinade and serve as a sauce with kabobs. Makes 8 servings.

* * *

East Indian Tuna Salad

1 head romaine
1 head leaf lettuce
1 bunch watercress
3 cans (6½ or 7 ounces each) tuna in vegetable oil
Curry accompaniments
Curry Mayonnaise

Arrange salad greens and tuna in shallow serving dish, accompaniments in small bowls (chopped hard-cooked egg, finely diced green pepper, canned slivered, toasted almonds and flaked coconut). Let each person help himself to salad greens and tuna, adding any or all of the accompaniments. Serve Curry Mayonnaise separately. Yield: 6 servings.

Curry Mayonnaise

½ cup mayonnaise
½ cup dairy sour cream
1 teaspoon lemon juice
1 tablespoon wine vinegar
½ teaspoon salt
Pepper
½ teaspoon paprika
2 teaspoons curry powder
1 teaspoon sugar

Combine mayonnaise, sour cream, lemon juice and vinegar; mix well. Combine remaining ingredients; stir into mayonnaise mixture; mix well. Chill. Yield: Approximately 1 cup.

Carry Out Romance With Pink Desserts

With announcement parties in season and suppers to honor the future bride and groom, romance is in the air, which, of course, means, that pink desserts are now in demand.

* * *

You'll find these two very easy to make. They actually start with your baker.

Cherry Torte

1 (1¼ lb.) can frozen red cherries
⅞ cup confectioners' sugar
3 tablespoons cornstarch
2 tablespoons Cointreau
1 (10-inch) baker's angel food cake
1 cup heavy cream
1 tablespoon grated orange rind

Thaw cherries, drain off juice and save. Dissolve ¾ cup sugar and cornstarch in juice. Stirring constantly, heat until juice is thickened and just begin to boil. Stir in Cointreau and cherries; chill.

Slice cake into 3 equal-sized layers. Spread cherry filling between cake layers. Whip cream until it will hold its shape, then add 2 tablespoons sugar and continue whipping until thick.

Spread whipped cream over top and sides of torte. Sprinkle orange rind over top of cake. Serves 12-16.

Raspberry Meringue Stacks

12 slices enriched bread
2 egg yolks, unbeaten
¼ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons sugar
¼ teaspoon almond extract
1 cup milk
2 egg whites
4 tablespoons sugar
½ teaspoon almond extract
1 quart fresh raspberries or other fresh fruit

Trim crusts from bread; cut each slice in half. Combine egg yolks, salt, sugar and almond extract; beat slightly. Add milk.

Dip slices of bread in mixture and place on a greased cookie sheet. Bake in a 325-degree oven for thirty minutes. Remove from oven.

Beat egg whites until stiff. Add sugar gradually, continuing to beat until mixture stands up in peaks. Add almond extract. Top each slice of bread with meringue and return to oven for fifteen minutes, or until brown.

For individual servings, cover 6 slices of meringue toast with crushed raspberries, or other fresh fruit. Top each with another slice and garnish with more fruit.

Big Turkeys Are Economical

Back in the early 1500's, a new "luxury meat" was the talk of Europe — turkey. Brought back from the Americas by early explorers, turkey was a fad food, especially popular at banquets.

Today, turkey is especially popular for any type meal — snack, supper, or backyard banquet. And it's priced for pennywise pocketbooks.

* * *

U. S. Department of Agriculture home economists say, if you buy a turkey a little larger than you can use in one meal, you'll probably save money. Larger birds usually are priced less per pound. Furthermore, you'll get more actual meat per pound.

For each generous serving of turkey, allow ¾ to 1 pound of ready-to-cook weight for birds that are less than 12 pounds. (Remember that you may need more than one serving per person.) If your bird weighs 12 pounds or more, you can figure on ½ to ¾ pound per serving.

Today's turkeys come in all possible handy sizes for homemakers — from 3 to 30 pounds. Not at all a luxury, turkeys, according to USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service, will make thrifty eating and serving in July. They are in plentiful supply and are expected to be attractively priced.

Rocket Fails, Data Studied

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —Air Force investigators are studying five seconds of radioed data in an effort to determine what caused a Minuteman missile to explode.

The 58-foot intercontinental range rocket blew apart Tuesday night just after darting out of the 55-foot-deep launching pit for an intended 4,000-mile test flight.

The missile was an advanced Wing 2 model, of a type which the Defense Department declared operational earlier this month.

Industry Eying Disarmament Effects

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK—American industrialists are thinking about the possible effects of disarmament on the economy but aren't doing much about it.

Some think an end to the arms race is a pipe dream. Others believe there is a chance of reality.

U.S. Disarmament Administrator William C. Foster recently told businessmen: "It is not too early for the private sector to begin serious consideration of how to use effectively the resources released by disarmament."

Conceding there is little evidence that the Soviet Union is ready to abandon the cold war, Foster added: "But if and when they do, it would behoove us to be adequately prepared on the all-important economic front — prepared psychologically as well as physically to make the economic adjustments such a transition would require and which are within our means to carry out successfully."

★ ★ ★

An Associated Press survey of leading companies engaged in the defense program indicated executives feel the likelihood of disarmament is so remote that it isn't necessary to draw definite plans now.

PRODUCTION SHIFT

Most seemed agreed that if disarmament does come it will be possible to shift production from weapons to consumer goods without causing a depression.

Some whose companies are engaged in work for space exploration envision an acceleration of this phase of production, now limped with the defense program.

A spokesman for the Garrett Corp. of Los Angeles said, "We consider total disarmament a pipe dream even if something happened to the Russians. Consequently, we anticipate that we will always have a substantial amount of military business."

★ ★ ★

Roy Marquardt, president of Marquardt Corp., another Los Angeles company engaged in defense work, said its firm is conducting long-range studies to determine the market potential of private business.

"As these large defense expenditures to other purposes without visibly affecting our over-all economy," he said.

William E. Zisch, president of Aerojet-General Corp., said the possibility of disarmament "is definitely not a pipe dream; it is a matter of realistic possibility and our planning takes this into account."

★ ★ ★

He said that in the last two or three years, most Aerojet-General expenditures for new facilities have been in support of nondefense programs.

SPECIAL REPORT

Phone Crews Leave Posts

DETROIT (AP) — Long distance telephone operators walked out briefly yesterday to protest the dismissal of an operator, disrupting person-to-person and credit-card calls for 20 minutes.

★ ★ ★

American Telephone & Telegraph Co., spokesmen said 84 of 95 long-distance operators and some plant personnel walked out. They said supervisory personnel returned service "substantially to normal" after the initial disruption.

Or Else It Was Scotch

ST. HELIER, Isle of Jersey (UPI)—Italian motorist Lansfranco Montecchi, 22, was fined 10 pounds ($28) for careless driving yesterday despite his plea that he drank so much English tea it put him to sleep at the wheel.

Love Thy Neighbor

DAVENTRY, England (UPI) — A magistrate found neighbors Mrs. Bridget Hickman and Mrs. Eileen Jones guilty of attacking each other, but paroled them yesterday on the condition they do not speak to each other for a year.

State Indians Still Powwow

PETOSKEY (AP)— Michigan Indians now have formal sounding organizations such as Northern Michigan Ottawa Association, but they still powwow.

Several hundred Michigan Ottawas, Chippewas and Pottowatomies start their two-day Indian powwow and Michigan Indian Princess Contest here Saturday in full costume, with a parade and dance performances scheduled.

Local and visiting Indians will exhibit Indian arts and crafts.

Performing Indian dance troupes include the Grand Valley Lodge Dancers from Grand Rapids, the North American Indian Club Dancers, Shawano Dancers from Detroit, Intertribal Dance Troupe of Detroit, Kewadin Indian Dancers and Petoskey's Manda-Bee-Kee Dancers.

★ ★ ★

Miss Michigan Indian Princess will be named Saturday night. Seven girls are competing for the honor.

SAFE WAY — Watching the Saturday eclipse of the sun without proper protection could damage the eyes permanently. One safe method, indirect viewing, as demonstrated here, will show the moon moving across the sun's face. The image of the sun is projected through a hole in a piece of cardboard onto a white cardboard. The viewer's back is kept to the sun.

DIAGRAM OF ECLIPSE — This artist's drawing shows the relative position of the sun, moon and earth at the time of the solar eclipse on Saturday. At one point, the moon will totally block the sun's image. Only at that point, visible in just a few sections of the country, will it be safe to view the eclipse with the naked eye.

Canada Kills Deal for Bridge, Tunnel

WINDSOR, Ont. (UPI) — The Canadian government has turned down a proposal by the Windsor Harbor Commission to buy the Ambassador Bridge and the Windsor Tunnel.

The commission learned yesterday that the department of transport rejected the proposal to purchase the two international links for 41-million dollars. The rejection was reportedly in line with a police decision that the government or its agent, the Harbor Commission shoud not buy out the two private enterprises.

The decision ended a year of negotiations between the commission and the Sarjem Corp. of New York which promoted the multi-million dollar sale. The Harbor Commission had hoped to use revenue from the bridge and tunnel tolls to develop Windsor's waterfront.

Drinking Definitely Out for Hollywood Set

By JAMES BACON
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD — All of a sudden, it's unfashionable to drink in Hollywood.

Even Jackie Gleason is on the wagon. And Frank Sinatra now buys his favorite sour mash bourbon by the bottle instead of the case.

* * *

The other night producer Marty Rackin and his pretty wife, Helen, gave a cocktail party to introduce Broadway star Elizabeth Ashley to the town. She is making her movie debut in "The Carpetbaggers."

The Rackin home was filled with most of the town's big names including some of its legendary two-fisthed drinkers.

It was a gay party but there was little drinking, compared with Hollywood cocktail parties of the past.

I ordered a Scotch from the bartender, an old friend.

"Thank heavens!" he exclaimed. "Do you know that this is the first alcoholic drink I have fixed in the last 30 minutes? Everybody in town is either on the wagon—or a two drink limit."

* * *

One top male star, one of the screen's most virile and, in his prime a heavy boozer, said he had not had a drink in nine months.

Asking that I not use his name, he went into detail about a clinic in Paris where he took a cure.

"I went to the clinic because it's a rule of the house that all patients can drink as much as they want. The only restriction is that they give you a shot of a new French drug after every drinking bout.

"The drug, of course, makes you violently ill when combined with alcohol. It is so powerful that one day I got on the elevator with a man who had gin on his breath. It made me so ill that I had to rush off at the next floor.

"I have such a repugnance to alcohol now that I know that I will never take another drink the rest of my life."

There can be harmful side-effects to this trend away from booze.

Look what happened to little Bullets Durgom, the manager who originally guided Jackie Gleason to stardom.

Bullets says, "Out of the blue, the new non-drinking Gleason called me up and said he wanted to talk to me. It was the first time he called me in five years since we had our falling out.

"I come on the lot and he's waiting for me in his golf cart. He said it would be much better to talk in the open air instead of some smoky saloon.

"Then he took off around a corner like he was a hot rodder. Next thing I know the car has spilled, Gleason's 286 pounds is on top of me and I'm on my way to the hospital.

* * *

"I got two cracked vertebrae—and I never did find out what he wanted to talk to me about. He never drove like that when he was drinking."

No one seems to know exactly why the nondrinkers are in and the drinkers are out. Maybe it's just another Hollywood fad.

But Joe E. Lewis, the Socrates of the saloon circuit, gives this reason: "I think they have seen the handwriting on the floor."

Newspaper Broker Dies

BINGHAMTON, N.Y. (AP)—Charles E. May, 82, an official of May Brothers, newspaper brokers, died Monday after collapsing on a street. He had been operating the business with his brother, James, since 1910. He at one time owned the Forest City (Iowa) Independent, was editor of the Bloomington (Ill.) Pantagraph, and founded the Moline (Ill.) Daily Mail.

Italian tennis star Orlando Sirola is 6 feet 7 inches tall.

Koufax, McCovey Continue Torrid Play in NL Race

By The Associated Press

A brilliant left-handed pitcher sparking a pennant drive and a rangy slugger on a club in the throes of a critical slump continue as the hottest items in the National League.

They are, of course, Sandy Koufax of the Los Angeles Dodgers and Willie McCovey of the San Francisco Giants.

Both starred again Tuesday night in doubleheader splits.

Koufax fired his ninth straight victory and 16th of the season at Philadelphia, going six perfect innings and finishing with a six-hitter in a 5-2 victory. The Phils rebounded against the first-place Dodgers in in second game, romping 10-2 with a 12-hit attack led by Johnny Callison.

McCovey belted a homer in each game at Pittsburgh, extending his hitting streak to 21 games and his homer total to 28. He won the opener 3-2 with a two-out homer in the ninth inning. Then the Giants dropped the second game, 3-2, falling into fourth place with the seventh loss in their last nine games.

EDGE CLOSER

Chicago's runner-up Cubs edged to within 5½ lengths of the top, taking Milwaukee 1-0 on a four-pitcher shutout and Ken Hubbs' homer. St. Louis moved into sole possession of third, nipping Cincinnati 5-4 on a 10th-inning squeeze bunt by Tim McCarver and Bobby Shantz's fine relief pitching. New York's last-place Mets clipped Houston 4-3 with a ninth-inning run in the other NL game.

In American League action—Kansas City routed Boston 11-0; Washington beat the Chicago White Sox 3-1; Baltimore knocked off Detroit 5-2 and the Los Angeles Angels tripped Cleveland 2-1. New York's pace-setting Yankees and the Twins were rained out at Minnesota.

* * *

Koufax, gunning for his fourth straight shutout and 10th of the year, retired the first 18 Phils in order as the Dodgers built a 5-0 cushion. But Tony Taylor nicked Koufax for a leadoff double in the seventh and eventually scored on Tony Gonzalez's sacrifice fly for the first run off the star lefty in 34 innings. Doubles by Don Hoak and Earl Averill gave the Phils another run in the eighth.

The Dodgers got their five runs and 12 hits off loser Art Mahaffey and Chris Short, with Wally Moon socking a homer and Jim Gilliam two doubles.

Callison walloped two homers and two singles in the second game, which the Phillies wrapped up with three runs in the first off Nick Willhite and four more in the third against Ed Roebuck. Dallas Green went the distance for Philadelphia.

IN RELIEF

Bob Buhl of the Cubs checked the Braves without a hit until Hank Aaron doubled with two out in the seventh inning at Chicago. He gave way to the heat and humidity in the eighth, and Don Elston, Dick Lemay and Lindy McDaniel limited Milwaukee to one hit the rest of the way. Winless Bob Sadowski dropped his fourth decision despite allowing only three hits—the first, and decisive, being Hubbs' homer in the fifth.

Moe Drabowsky pitched the shutout for the Athletics who bombed Boston pitching for 15 hits. The veteran right-hander permitted the Red Sox only four hits for his first victory of the season and first Kansas City shutout since May 17. Drabowsky helped his cause with a home run and a two-run single when his teammates jumped on loser Dave Morehead for five runs.

Ken McBride pitched a three-hitter against Cleveland for his 10th victory and sparked the Angels' winning rally in the third with two runs against loser Jim Grant. It was the fourth straight loss for the Indians. It was the first time the Angels had beaten Grant since Aug. 12, 1961.

* * *

Another who combined timely hitting with good pitching was Senator southpaw Claude Osteen who turned back the White Sox with four hits and chipped in with a single during a three-run second inning rally against Juan Pizarro.

All Washington runs were unearned. With two out and a man on first, catcher Camilo Carreon dropped Chuck Cottier's pop foul. Cottier then walked, Osteen singled in the tying run and Marv Breeding followed with a triple sending home the decisive runs.

SLIDES HOME — Willie Mays of the San Francisco Giants slides under the tag by Pittsburgh's Smoky Burgess to record an inside-the-park home run in yesterday's game. The run proved to be the difference as the Giants posted a 3-2 victory.

Lary Fast, but Tigers Lose

DETROIT (UPI) — Frank Lary was throwing hard again last night but the problem for the Detroit Tigers was that Stu Miller was still throwing his tantalizing slow ball.

Flashing the form that made him a 23-game winner in 1961, Lary was impressive in his second start since returning from the minor leagues as he allowed the Baltimore Orioles just three runs on two homers before being lifted for a pinch-hitter in the eighth inning.

* * *

But Lary was saddled with a 5-2 loss because of the Tigers' inability to hit Miller, who left five Tigers stranded in the last two frames.

Miller, who throws three pitches — slow, slower and slowest — from a herky jerky motion that had the Tigers baffled, retired Rocky Colavito and Billy Bruton in the eighth inning with the bases loaded and retired three straight batters in the ninth after letting the first two batters get on to save the victory for Milt Pappas.

Despite the defeat, the Tigers were encouraged by the pitching of Lary, who must make a comeback if the club is going to get on the right track next year and seems to be on the verge of regaining the stuff that made him the famed "Yankee killer" before he was sidelined with arm trouble.

For the first half of the game, he completely dominated the game with his pitching, hitting and fielding in the old Lary style.

He was the master as he retired the first 11 batters he faced until big John Powell parked a breaking slider on a 3-2 pitch into the second deck in rightfield with two out in the fourth inning to put the Orioles ahead, 1-0.

"It was a good pitch, breaking around the belt," Lary said, "but he must have figured it would be in there on 3-2 and got ahold of it."

Since the Tigers couldn't hit Pappas, Lary took matters into his own hands and singled home Bill Freehan who had doubled to tie the game 1-1 in the last of the fifth inning with two out.

TURNS SOUTHPAW — Defending PGA champion Gary Player of South Africa turns left-handed for this shot out of a creek bank while practicing yesterday for the PGA championship. The tournament starts Thursday in Dallas.

Clinch Softball Crown

Harvey's Down Monicatti, 5-3

Harvey's Colonial House combied timely hitting and tight pitching last night to defeat Monicatti, 5-3, and clinch the City American League title.

Rallying from a 3-2 deficit in the fourth inning, Harvey's scored three times on two walks, a single by Gene Ssell and a double by Jim Long.

* * *

Winning pitcher Don Harrington held Monicatti to just four hits. Monicatti scored single runs in the first, second and third innings, but were held scoreless in the final four frames.

In the nightcap of the American League twinbill at Beaudette Park, Arro Realty took over undisputed possession of second place by edging Martin Associates, 3-2, in nine innings.

Bud and Bill Hayward paced the winners with two hits apiece while winning pitcher Harry Avesion was blanking Martin's.

Avesion fanned seven and didn't give up a hit in his three inning relief stint of starter Doug Hall.

* * *

At the Northside diamond last night, Elks scored four times in both the third and fourth innings and then held off a late rally to beat Howes Lanes, 8-5.

Charles Graves led the Elks attack with three hits, while R. D. Jacobs scattered seven hits by the losers to take the win.

BIG SWINGERS

Town and Country, behind the big bats of Al Levy and Jerry Wedge, routed 300 Lounge, 11-1.

* * *

Wedge had a triple and two home runs, Levy produced a triple and a pair of singles. Roger Reynolds was the winning pitcher holding 300 to just three hits.

Four games are scheduled tonight.

At Beaudette Park, Bud & Lou's plays Pontiac Millwork at 7 p.m., and Poponea's Market meets Buettner's at 8:30 in an International League twinbill. A National League doubleheader at Northside will feature Pontiac State Hospital and Bob & Larry's Bar at 7 preceding the G & M-First Church of Brethren clash at 8:30.

Net Tournament Slated for Orchard Lake CC

A men's invitational doubles tennis tournament will be held at Orchard Lake Country Club, Sunday July 28.

Entry fee for the tourney is $4 per team. Interested players can obtain further information by calling the country club, 682-0100, or TR 3-6625.

Rosenbloom Is Cleared by Rozelle

NEW YORK (AP) — Carroll Rosenbloom, owner of the Baltimore Colts, has been cleared and the many-faceted investigation of gambling in pro football finally has ended after six long months.

The net results of the probe by Pete Rozelle, commissioner of the National Football League, were:

1. Green Bay's Paul Hornung and Detroit's Alex Karras were suspended indefinitely for betting on games.

2. Detroit's John Gordy, Gary Lowe, Joe Schmidt, Wayne Walker, and Sam Williams each was fined $2,000 for betting on the 1962 title game.

3. The Detroit club was fined $4,000 for failing to keep a closer check on its players and permitting unauthorized individuals to sit on the bench.

4. Rosenbloom was cleared of accusations, later repudiated, that he bet on league games while an owner. Rozelle held the charges "unfounded."

* * *

There never was any evidence that any player ever bet against his own team or sold information to gamblers.

When Rozelle announced his original findings, April 17, he said the Rosenbloom matter had been delayed because of legal proceedings involving the owner of the Colts. He said the investigation would be completed in the near future. However, it was not until almost three months later that he finished.

It was pointed out in Rozelle's announcement Tuesday that two separate matters of private litigation involving Rosenbloom and one or more of his original accusers have been resolved. The most recent, an insurance case, was dismissed in Rosenbloom's favor June 28.

All three of the men who charged Rosenbloom with betting on pro football games during a period eight to 10 years ago subsequently repudiated or withdrew their accusations.

Women Golfers Eye City Title

Mrs. DeBolt Defends Crown; Entries Lag

Only 10 entries have been received for the annual Women's City Medal Play golf tournament Saturday at the Municipal course.

Course manager L. C. Barner announced that entries will be accepted through tomorrow. Entry fee is $3.

Competition in the 18-hole tourney will start at 12 noon with defending champion Mrs. Zadah DeBolt leading the field.

Mrs. DeBolt has won the tournament seven times, her first championship coming in 1936.

Last year Mrs. DeBolt finished with a 42-40—82, one stroke ahead of Phyllis Boyer and Gretchen Bouwens, both of whom are entered in this year's tournament.

Also entered in Saturday's meet are 1961 champion Mrs. C. J. (Bobbie) Miller, Mrs. Bernice Allen, former city handicap champion Betty Wallace, Gwen Brooks, Agnus Larson, Geraldine Featherstone and Eve Miller.

Leaders in the city tourney will represent Pontiac in the state Recreation Association meet in Midland later in the summer.

Black, Heaton Pace A&W Softball Win

It was the same old story for A & W in the Waterford Class C softball league last night. The league leaders have been paced all season by the strong arm of pitcher Algie Black and the bat of Ray Heaton.

Last night was no exception, Black won his 12th game of the season and Heaton blasted his 7th home run to lead A & W to an easy 12-2 win over Dinky's Hideaway.

Heaton drove in six runs with his homer and two singles, while Black fanned 12 and scattered 5 hits.

The win puts A & W 1½ games ahead of second place Haskins in the township 'C' race.

The second game last night was forfeited to West Side Lanes by Midget Bar.

Pros Like PGA Course

By The Associated Press

DALLAS—The world's top professionals, with hardly a critical whimper among them, will set out Thursday in the first round of the Professional Golfers Association Championship over—believe it or not—a course they say they like, even if it is baked by 100-degree heat.

"It's a good, fair course," Arnold Palmer said today. "Sure it's hot but when you play a tournament in Texas in July you expect that."

"I don't remember ever seeing a course used for a major championship that is so well conditioned and so fair," echoed Mike Souchak. "There are 18 tough holes out there, tough but fair. They've done a wonderful job in getting it ready. The fairways are fine and the greens are the best. You can't ask for much more than that."

The object of this sweeping praise—so rare in these days of knock down the souped up championship layouts that it comes like a refreshing breeze—is the 7,046-yard, par 36-35—71 Dallas Athletic Club course where a talent-jammed field of 167 will begin hammering away at 7 a.m. CST, Thursday, for the third in America's annual triple of prestige tournaments.

LAST CHANCE

It's also the last chance for Palmer, the king of golf the last four years, to win a major championship in a year in which he has banked more money than anyone else in PGA history and yet hasn't hauled in one of the big ones.

No one can call a year in which he has won a record $88,150.18 an off-year, but it's a rarity indeed when Palmer, who needs money like the average guy needs poverty, doesn't nail one or more of the big four—the Masters, U.S. Open, British Open, and PGA.

So far this season, he's been off his feed in the big ones—although he staggered into a three-way playoff in the U.S. Open before finishing third behind Julius Boros and Jacky Cupit. He was well down the list in the Masters, won by Jack Nicklaus, and last week wound up 27th in the British Open, won by the New Zealand left-hander Bob Charles.

The fact that he's overdue, plus his past record of never having won the PGA championship, have made the Latrobe, Pa., master a 4-1 favorite in the 72-hole medal play championship that—barring a playoff, which has become almost routine of late—is due to end Sunday.

Right behind Palmer are Nicklaus, now back on his game after his woeful performance in the National Open at Brookline, Mass. and defending champion Gary Player of South Africa. Each is listed at 6-1, with Boros and Tony Lema at 8-1.

PAR OR BETTER

By JULIUS BOROS
U.S. OPEN CHAMPION

GRIP IS BASIC ELEMENT

Most people don't realize it, but the primary difference between a good golfer and a bad one lies in the grip — probably the most basic element of any player's game.

Without a sound grip, your chances of ever becoming a good golfer are quite remote. Conversely, once you have mastered a sound grip, you are on your way toward graduating from the class of the duffers.

Such outstanding golfers as Cary Middlecoff and others insist that if a player attains a good grip and a correct stance, a good swing is almost sure to result auomatically.

I'm inclined to agree with this theory.

Speaking of theories, I'd like to state right here at the beginning of the instructional section of this series that I am not a great theorist in golf. I have a very simple philosophy.

I'm going to attempt to tell you about instructional golf that has worked out satisfactorily for me.

I'm going to pass along to you the method which I attempt to follow, and relate to you what I think I do when I swing a golf club. If it pans out well for you, I will be as pleased as you.

I want to emphasize, however, the following two points from the start:

All the instruction in the world is useless without practice.

Visit your own professional early and often.

NEXT: When to use interlocking grip.

GRIP — Julius Boros demonstrates a reverse, overlapping grip, asserts difference between good and bad golfer lies in sound grip.

Par May Lose to Lady Pros in U.S. Open

CINCINNATI (AP) — The nation's best women pros hint at some par-smashing performances at the U. S. Women's Open starting Thursday at Kenwood Country Club.

A practice tour Tuesday by defending champion Mrs. Murle Lindstrom of Worcester, Mass., brought a smile and this comment:

"It's made to order, and greens are magnificent. I'm looking forward to playing it again."

Mary Lena Faulk of Thomasville, Ga., third leading money winner on last year's tour of women pros, also lauded the greens, saying:

"On greens like these it'll be putting that will decide the championship."

Althea Gibson, first Negro to enter the open, went around alone, getting advice from her caddy.

'A' League Moundsman Notches No-Hit Gem

The growing improvement in the hurling jobs turned by the city Class A League pitchers climaxed last night with a no-hitter by the Clippers' Terry Anderson.

Anderson blanked Oxford's Merchants, 5-0, although he did have 6 baserunners against him. The winners only managed four hits off Bill Willis.

The opening game at Jaycee Park No. 2 saw Cranbrook's John Billesdon pitch a three-hitter to whip Talbott Lumber, 8-2. The right-hander had a no-hitter for four and two-thirds innings.

Anderson fanned 10 and walked three in his no-hitter. Only in the final inning could Oxford put two men on base at the same time, but the southpaw whiffed the final man to complete the whitewash.

Warren Stephans solo home run in the first inning was all the margin Anderson needed. The league leaders went on to tally four more times in the frame and coast into the win.

Cranbrook's Dick Mosher cracked a three-run circuit blast in the second inning to send Billesdon sailing along to the first-game victory. Teammate Chuck Heavenrich had a solo shot in the final inning.

* * *

Bob Pickett's two-run single over third base was the first and only damaging blow against the tall, hard-throwing Billesdon.

The loss was Talbott's third straight and marked the seventh time this season the lumbermen had gone to the well in a Class A lidlifter and found their bucket winless.

Tonight at Jaycee Park No. 2 Local 594 will seek a share of 4th place when it meets M. G. Collision at 8 p.m.

JUNIOR GAMES

Nor was the adult league the only one with a no-hitter yesterday. In the city Widget National loop, the Moose's John Wheeler no-hit the Rebels for a 10-2 win.

Wheeler fanned 14 batters in five innings but also walked nine opponents, two of whom scored.

Greg Watters had a home run, triple and two singles but Griff's Grill still dropped a 15-8 verdict to the Red Devils in the Widget circuit.

In the Class D League; Pontiac Northern rallied for three runs in the bottom of the seventh inning for a 6-5 win over Cranbrook; and Franklin scored twice in the same inning for 3-2 decision over the Pontiac Boys Club.

Young Archer Heading for Finland

Keaggy Ready for World Meet

One of the busiest young men in the area during the next three weeks will be Dave Keaggy Jr., 3807 Aquarina, Waterford Township.

The 15-year-old Kettering High School junior will compete in the World Archery championships in Helsinki, Finland, July 24-27, and then hurry home to defend his national men's title in Los Angeles, July 29.

★ ★ ★

Dave, who will leave for Finland Friday, is one of six amateur archers representing the U.S. FITA (Federation of International Target Archers) in the every-other-year international tournament. The event has been dominated by American bowmen in the past decade.

The young archer qualified for the trip to Finland by placing second in a shoot-off at Oak Park, Ill., in June. Keaggy's qualifying score was two points over the world record of 2,289.

In the Helsinki tournament Dave will compete in two FITA rounds consisting of 30 arrows each at 30, 50, 70 and 90 meters.

In the short, three year period during which Keaggy has participated in competitive archery, he has compiled a record that makes many veteran bowmen envious.

Under the able tutelage of his father, Dave Keaggy Sr., a world-renown archery instructor, Dave Jr. began winning tournaments at the age of 12.

He won the state junior crown in 1959, the state intermediate title in '61-62 and the statemen's title last year.

SET RECORD

He surprised the nation's top professional archers last year when he set a world record of 1678 out of a possible two round score of 1728 in winning the Ben Pearson Open in Chicago.

Karl Palmatier, executive secretary of the National Professional Archer's Association, has high praise for the young bowman.

"Usually an archer is at his peak in his early 30's," says Palmatier, "but every once in a while a kid comes along and sets the archery world on its ear."

Palmatier claims that Dave is already one of the best archers in the world.

Dave can credit much of his success to a change in stance. When he began his career he was shooting right handed but ran into what archers call "freezing." He switched to a southpaw stance and began reaping the benefits with many honors.

"Archery is a great sport," says Dave, who keeps in training by lifting weights and shooting 3 or 4 hours each day.

★ ★ ★

Dave plans to attend college and is hopeful that the NCAA will go through with its plans of adding archery as a full-time sport.

★ ★ ★

"There are some eastern colleges that participate in an intercollegiate archery program," says Dave. "Michigan State has shown the greatest interest of any midwestern school."

Youth Steals Skeet Laurels

Great Lakes Action Requires Shoot Off

A 16-year-old South Lyon shooter stole the show from veterans in the Great Lakes Skeet Championships over the weekend at Ted's Blue Rock Gun Club near Center Line.

Richard Brengle was the teenager who took all gauge honors in a shootoff with two veterans, Gerald Van Tassel and Howard Brown, both of Detroit. The trio had tied at 100s.

Brengle and Van Tassel both broke 25 clay birds in the regulation shootoff. Brown dropped out. In the second try to break the deadlock, the two gunners shot double from all stations.

The youth clipped 25, but Van Tassel missed two.

The coveted over-all championship was won by Bob Thiefels of Pontiac who defeated Detroit's Jack Pattyn in a shootoff. Both gunners had 388 x 400 during the regulation rounds.

Thiefels also won the 410 gauge with 95 x 100 and teamed with Larry Smith of Birmingham to cop all gauge two-man team honors with 197 x 200. Smith and Thiefels won the two-man 20 gauge with 199.

Smith broke all 100 birds to win the 20 gauge event. Dr. Jack Wiant of Birmingham won Class A in this event with a 99.

OCSC Loses Round in Racing Dispute

By DON VOGEL

The Oakland County Sportsmen's Club last night lost the first round in its dispute over road racing with residents adjacent to the club grounds.

Over 120 people crowded into the meeting room of the Clarkston Community Center to hear the Independence Township Board go on record as opposing the issuance of a special beer permit to OCSC.

The sportsmen's Club is seeking the permit for use during the July 27-28 road races at the OCSC-owned Waterford Hills track.

Normally, the club would only have needed the approval of the sheriff's department to obtain the permit. The State Liquor Commission, however, requested the added approval of the township board because of complaints received against OCSC.

Although it was never stated at the board meeting, it was generally accepted by those attending that the complaints had been made by residents in Pelton Heights subdivision.

Members of the Pelton Heights Association and OCSC made up the large attendance at last night's board meeting.

Subdivision residents complained to board members that people attending the road races were throwing beer cans and other refuse on lawns after the races. They also charged cars were speeding along subdivision streets at the conclusion of the races.

Leslie C. Smith, of Detroit, vice president of OCSC, disagreed with the charges.

Two members from each organization, who did not want their names used, stated after the meeting that racing was the real issue. They agreed subdivision residents are opposed to the races.

They said the track was constructed before the subdivision, but actual racing came after the houses were occupied, about four years ago.

The track is located on the east end of the OCSC property. A road and fence separate the track's backstretch and the houses.

Both OCSC and subdivision properties are located east of Waterford Village, just inside Independence Township's south boundary line.

NO ACTION

Supervisor Duane Hursfall, twice asked board members if they wished to take action on OCSC's request for approval of the permit.

When the board declined to act, he started to continue with the agenda.

Frank Lawrence, former president of OCSC, criticized the board for not taking a stand and said, "You owe it to all these people who took the time to come to this meeting to make a decision."

Hursfall moved that no approval be given. He was supported by Township Clerk Howard Altman. Trustee Harold J. Bauer and Treasurer Kenneth L. Johnson abstained. Trustee Merle Bennett was absent.

Subdivision residents in attendance applauded the action as OCSC members began filing out. They quickly re-entered the room when Altman began reading a proposed ordinance covering racing in the township.

It was patterned after the ordinances adopted for Waterford and White Lake townships, according to Independence Township attorney Paul Mandel.

No action was taken on the ordinance and Hursfall pointed out that it could be accepted "as is, some parts changed, or the whole ordinance rejected."

OCSC's track does not comply with many provisions in the ordinance.

Altman said after the meeting that if the ordinance was approved as read, OCSC would be given a time limit to meet the new restrictions.

Need 'Public Education'

LANSING (UPI) — A litter bit of legislation pushed through by Michigan lawmakers last spring should have a positive effect on careless vacationers when it becomes law in September in the opinion of Sen. William G. Milliken, R-Traverse City.

Milliken said the litter law, which makes it illegal to toss that beer bottle, cigarette or sandwich wrapper "knowingly" out of your car window may be stronger from an educational viewpoint than from the enforcement position.

Under the law a court can make litter-pickers out of violators.

Milliken feels the first time a newspaper runs a human interest piece about litter bugs serving time as trash collectors a great deal of the area's littering habits will be cut down.

"I also think the educational signs which will be erected to call attention to littering will have a great beneficial effect," Milliken said.

Another Michigan legislator, who strongly supported the bill, feels the litter law will be a step in the right direction. But he is a little dubious about that "knowingly" which had to be included in the bill to secure passage.

"That's a bad word in there," Rep. Hans C. Rasmussen, R-Ludington, said.

DIDN'T KNOW

"Right now kids will be able to throw litter out of the back seat of the car and it will be pretty hard to pin the driver's ears back because he didn't know about it."

Both lawmakers agreed that if "knowingly" makes the law difficult to enforce there could be a change in the law next year.

Mrs. Maxwell Captures Silver Lake 1st Flight

A low net of 33 gave Mrs. Maxwell first flight honors in the Women's Silver Lake Golf League yesterday.

Mrs. William DeBeaubien took second flight's low net with a 35 while Mrs. Harold Hoover's 34 led the third flight.

Low putt honors went to Mrs. Charles Campbell who had 15. The ladies yesterday also honored Mesdames Paul Spavin, Fred Harroun and Ken Thayer for previous accomplishments.

Fishing Shows Downward Trend

LANSING (UPI) — Since it makes sense that where there's water there's usually fish, Michigan should rank as one of the world's great angling paradises.

For the statistically-minded, the Wolverine state boasts 11,037 inland lakes, 36,000 miles of stream and is bordered by 3,251 miles of Great Lakes shoreline. Hence its nickname "Water Wonderland."

Yet, conservation officials point to the fact that fishing in Michigan has been on a slightly downward trend in recent years as indicated by a 2 per cent yearly dropoff in fishing license sales.

License sales, one gauge to angler participation, stood at the 900,000 mark last year. This would indicate about 1,800,000 persons fished Michigan waters (youngsters under 17 and wives of license-buyers fish free).

Max Hunt, state fish hatchery supervisor, said changing recreational patterns and a possible decline in good fishing are two reasons for the trend.

Michigan allocates $600,000, all revenue from license sales, to the hatchery division but Hunt says not all of it is spent for the fish-stocking program. Other duties of hatchery personnel such as maintenance cut into the budget.

★ ★ ★

"Money is the biggest drawback to improving our program," he said. "Michigan still is a good fishing state but a stepup in fish planting could make it better."

In order to attract more anglers, the state last year and again this year planted one million legal-size fish and another 1.5 million sub-legals, fries and fingerlings in lakes and streams.

CUT IN PROJECT

There is a sharp contrast to the 1959 season, when the state was stocking nearly two million legal fish alone.

This spring the department, and this fall, the department will have added 400,000 brook, brown and rainbow trout, ranging in size from 7 to 9 inches, in state lakes and set free another 530,000 legal trout into streams.

Also included in the planting program this year are 200,000 muskellunge fingerlings and 170,000 largemouth fingerlings.

The state also plants northern pike in large numbers because of their low survival rate, along with walleyes, smallmouth, bluegill, black crappie and catfish.

Hunt said the program has reaped "very positive" results, particularly in lakes "where we plant them 7 inches long and fish weighing 3 and 4 pounds are being taken out."

In streams, where the department in engaged in "put and take" planting, the results are harder to assess, Hunt says, but he anticipates anglers take 50 per cent of the plants within the first couple of weeks of the season. "The bulk of them are caught, predation takes the rest," he said.

★ ★ ★

Hunt said preliminary license sale figures indicate the state this year may enjoy an upsurge in fishing.

★ ★ ★

Brookies, Bluegills Favored by Anglers

Brook trout and bluegills in inland waters and perch in the Great Lakes were leaders in catches by fishermen in Michigan during 1962.

Final results of the 36th consecutive general creel census by conservation officers showed that in trout waters 61 per cent of trout caught were brooks, 26 per cent rainbows and 13 per cent browns.

In non-trout waters bluegills made up 35 per cent of the total catch, yellow perch 31 per cent and black crappies, 9 per cent.

Yellow perch made up 73 per cent of the catch from Great Lakes waters with walleyes, rock bass, smallmouth bass and northern pike adding another 16 per cent.

2 Teammates Mound Foes

Waterford Kettering teammates Rick Pankey and Dale Manning opposed each other on the mound last night in the township's junior baseball Class D League.

Pankey tossed a two-hitter to gain a 3-0 triumph. He racked up 11 strikeouts en route. His mates garnered three hits off the servings of Manning and a relief hurler.

Other township contests saw Ralph Hayman throw a one-hitter in the Class F circuit as Elizabeth Lake took the Lake Oakland Panthers, 8-1.

The Waterford Merchants took the Waterford Wildcats, 2-1 on a late tally; while in the Widget League Stankster & Jones beat the Blue Star Falcons, 12-10.

Avon Church Loop Becomes Top Heavy

The Avondale Church Softball League's top three teams took on the bottom three Monday night.

There are five teams on top now.

★ ★ ★

After 27 games on the loop's 36-game schedule have been played, five of the six teams have identical 5-4 records. Stone Baptist is the only one out of the race with a 2-7 mark.

Still in the battle are First Church of God, Memorial Baptist, Avondale Baptist (all three losing last time), Social Brethren and the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

★ ★ ★

Monday's scores were Social Brethren 12, First Church 2; Stone Baptist 5, Memorial Baptist 2; and the Latter Day Saints topped Avondale Baptist, 5-1.

Interest Rate Hike Has Some Effect

Industrials Gain in Livelier Trade

NEW YORK (AP) — Industrials advanced in a mixed stock market early this afternoon. Trading was livelier than in recent sessions.

Brokers commented that the market seemed to be "acting well" in view of the news that the Federal Reserve Board had boosted interest rates by hiking the discount rate to 3½ per cent from 3 per cent.

TIMING UNEXPECTED

The increase itself came as no surprise—although the timing was unexpected.

Motors, steels, electrical equipments and a number of the glamour issues in the photographic and office equipment lines were strong.

Rails and utilities, however, put on a lackluster performance.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up .99 at 703.11.

A certain amount of caution prevailed in advance of the release by the Securities & Exchange Commission of the latest installment of its study of the securities business.

* * *

Concern over the raise in the discount rate, which has depressed bonds lately, had a similar effect on utilities, which also appeal to investors chiefly on a "yield" basis.

CHRYSLER UP

Chrysler, up nearly a point, resumed its comeback from recent profit taking. Ford, General Motors, and Studebaker leaned to the upside. Small gains were made also by the leading steels, including Jones & Laughlin, Bethlehem and U.S. Steel.

* * *

Singer Manufacturing dropped more than 2 points on word of its proposal to acquire Friden Inc. Because the exchange of stock gave a big edge to Friden, the opening of Friden was delayed by an accumulation of buy orders.

* * *

Friden finally opened on a big block of 35,000 shares, up 6¾ at 40¾, clipping about a point from the advance in later dealings.

Murray Corp. advanced about 2 points on word it plans a cash distribution of $14 a share, subject to a favorable tax ruling.

United Fruit indicted on charges of monopolizing the banana market, lost a fraction.

* * *

Prices were irregularly higher on the American Stock Exchange. Trading was moderately active.

Corporate and U.S. Government bonds declined in reaction to the rise in the discount rate. Trading was slow.

Union May Call Seaway Tieup

Canadian Labor Head Threatens Retaliation

PORT COLBORNE, Ont. (AP)—The Canadian Maritime Union (CMU) says it will block the St. Lawrence Seaway if the government doesn't take immediate action against the rival Seafarers' International Union (SIU).

* * *

CMU President John Staples issued the ultimatum yesterday after publication of a judge's report calling for drastic government action against the SIU.

Staples again charged the SIU with harassing CMU-manned vessels in U.S. ports and said his union "will be forced to take retaliatory measures" unless the government intervenes.

The CMU tied up the Seaway July 5, 1962 for 30 hours in retaliation against the SIU. The waterway was not reopened until the government promised to investigate the SIU.

That inquiry, by British Columbia Justice T. G. Norris, recommended that Hal C. Banks, American-born boss of the SIU, be run out of office. It also proposed that a three-man trusteeship take over the waterfront unions in an effort to bring labor peace on the Great Lakes.

Labor Minister Allen V. MacEachen is studying the possibility of legislation based on the Norris report.

"We will be meeting next week to decide what our position will be if the government decides to sit on this report," Staples said. "We're giving the government until then to act.

* * *

"We are trying to be as patient and law abiding as we can. But in the face of the SIU disregard for the law in the United States we can't see any other way but to take drastic steps."

Grain Futures Slide in Slower Demand

CHICAGO (AP)—The grain futures market slid into general weakness today in early activity on the board of trade.

Brokers said demand was somewhat slower with less resting order support apparent. They said that appeared to have been well absorbed in yesterday's active trading and that prices had not ranged out enough since then to reach into others.

Declines amounted to more than a cent in wheat, rye and soybeans during the first several minutes, largely on liquidation. However, there appeared to be a little more short selling in soybeans on reports of generally favorable crop development.

* * *

At the end of the first hour; wheat was ½ to 1 cent a bushel lower, July $1.80⅛; corn unchanged to ½ lower, July $1.29¼; oats ⅛ to ½ lower, July 65¼ cents; rye 1¼ to 1⅝ lower, July $1.25¾; and soybeans ⅜ to 1½ lower, July $2.58.

Midsummer Plague

Business in Stalemate

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK — Stalemate psychology is plaguing both the stock market and business planners at midsummer. Too many problems are at the maybe-yes, maybe-no stage today for comfort.

DAWSON

In Moscow maybe the Russians are ready for first steps that could in time lead to lightening the disarmament cost burden for taxpayers, and maybe they aren't. What that will or won't mean to many companies with defense contracts, present or prospective, Wall Street would like to know.

The rail labor strife may be settled by the President's study panel or by the Congress, and maybe it can't be without at least the calling of a strike. And then maybe the rails would be seized and maybe they wouldn't. Shippers would like to know, and so would businessmen worrying about inventories. And so would the truck and barge lines.

Civil rights legislation may come to a climax soon or may be dragged out further. The uncertainty isn't good for business now. And the threat of increased racial strife in many parts of the nation could disrupt much business planning. The problem could last long after its day in Congress.

Tax legislation is at the critical stage in Congress. And how it may finally turn out and what it will do to business in a major uncertainty just now.

* * *

A tax cut could spur business activity. Or, some say, it could merely lay the foundation for future inflation by increasing the federal deficit.

INTEREST RATES

At the moment the financial markets are wondering how high short-term interest rates will go and if this in turn will push up long-term borrowing costs, too.

The Federal Reserve Board Tuesday raised the discount rate to 3½ per cent from 3 per cent. This charge by Federal Reserve banks to member banks for what they borrow usually sets the pace for all short-term rates, such as charges that commercial banks make for loans to businessmen. This may or may not affect long-term rates. Those charged on mortgages, corporate bonds, municipal bonds.

* * *

The stalemate here is between two prime monetary aims—checking the deficit in the balance of payments and promoting more business activity that could provide more jobs.

If the long-term interest rates go up too high and too soon, some fear the business growth that picked up this spring could be deflated. And deflation often is more of a bugaboo to businessmen than is inflation.

But increased short-term yields are backed by those hoping to discourage further outflow of investment funds. Their flight to other money capitals where interest rates are higher has been a major reason for the deficit in international payments that has resulted in piling up of surplus dollars abroad. Some have been turned in for gold and drained U.S. reserves. Many more could be, if the value of the American dollar is doubted.

* * *

And another stalemate just now is politics. Business more and more is involved in government actions at the three government levels, federal, state and local.

So businessmen, like everyone else, are watching the current strife in political circles. Will the Republican presidential nominee be New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, generally tagged a liberal, or Arizona's Sen. Barry Goldwater, symbol for conservatism? Or will it be a businessman turned official, like Michigan's Gov. George Romney, or some dark horse, professional politician?

And will the 1964 campaign have government-business-labor relations as an important issue?

Mid-July is as full of stalemates as vacationers.

Business Notes

Wilbur E. Saylor of 1535 Island, Bloomfield Township, has rejoined the advertising firm, Geyer, Morey, Ballard, Inc., as copy chief in charge of the Kelvinator account, Richard J. Farricker, president of the agency, announced today.

SAYLOR

Saylor left the agency in 1930 to become assistant advertising manager of Frigidaire Corp.

In 1932, he joined Kelvinator, where he spent the next 30 years. For the past nine years he had been director of advertising and sales promotion for the American Motors division.

A former Oakland County deputy sheriff, Gordon F. Hodges of 1232 Dundee, Waterford Township, has been named assistant manager of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company's Harper Woods branch office.

He had been insurance consultant at the company's Pontiac branch since 1960. He joined the firm in 1958.

Replacing him as insurance consultant at Metropolitan is Gerald L. Noggle, an agent for the firm since 1962. He lives at 3052 Welch, Commerce Township.

Banking Courses Start in September

The Oakland County chapter of the American Institute of Banking is offering five courses later this summer, open to all area bankers.

Being offered are courses in credit administration, starting Sept. 5 at the Royal Oak branch of the Wayne Oakland Bank; economics, starting Sept. 5 at the Community National Bank; and commercial law, starting Sept. 9 at Birmingham's Seaholm High School.

Also being offered are courses in bank operation, starting Sept. 9 at the Royal Oak branch of the Wayne Oakland Bank; and effective bank letters, starting Sept. 10 at the Community National Bank.

All courses begin at 7 p.m. and are of a three-hour duration. They meet once each week for 14 weeks.

To Re-Examine Issues on Port

LANSING (AP)—Two controversial port authority issues which died on the 1961 legislative session will be examined anew in a series of three hearings by lawmakers next month.

House and Senate interim committees, headed by Rep. Oscar Bouwsma, R-Muskegon, and Sen. Clyde Geerlings, R-Holland, have agreed to hold joint hearings in Detroit, Muskegon and Lansing.

Testimony will concern legislation which would permit port districts to accept gifts from private sources, and a change in the vote requirement for approval of a port bond issue.

Proposals to allow ports to receive gifts from nongovernmental sources, and to lower the vote passage requirement from 60 per cent to a simple majority were introduced in the 1963 session by Bouwsma.

Both passed the House but died in Senate committee.

Geerlings said the hearings will be held because there were contradictions in testimony given this year and in the 1957 hearings in the Senate on problems of the St. Lawrence Seaway.

He said the Senate decided further hearings should be held "to resolve the matter."

News in Brief

Successful Investing

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q) "A stock which I am interested in is recommended because it is selling below its book value. Could you explain what this means?" B. F.

A) I'm happy to. Book value is an accounting term which is not always clearly understood by investors. It's really quite simple.

Book value is determined by adding up all the assets of a company, then deducting all debts and other liabilities. This sum is then divided by the number of common shares outstanding to arrive at the book value per share.

This is one of the many fundamental calculations made in the evaluation of common stocks, but you should never confuse it with earning power, which is considerably more important.

As a rule, shares of situations operating in declining or depressed industries can be expected to sell under their book value since there is relatively little demand for such stocks. On the other hand, companies in rapidly growing, popular fields are often bid up to prices far above book value.

* * *

Q) "We have a savings account of $5,000 which we feel is ample for an emergency. Under normal conditions, we will be able to save about $1,000 a year. We own Duquesne Light, Air Reduction and American Can. Should we buy more American Can or Long Island Lighting even if they are rather high rate right now?" E. L.

A) I congratulate you on the conservative maner in which you have invested your money.

The stocks you own are not rated highly for growth but they are good income issues, which I assume is what you want. American Can's diversification moves have helped some, but they have also diluted earnings through the greater number of shares outstanding after merger transactions. No real growth has been shown here since 1955.

On the other hand, Long Island Lighting (NYSE) continues to benefit from above average growth in its area. On that basis, the stock doesn't appear too high, and I advise you to buy these shares.

Mr. Spear cannot answer all mail personally but will answer all questions possible in his column.

Photogs Take Thrill Ride in Rubber Rafts

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

How would you react in an emergency if you had a camera handy? Would you think of taking pictures or would you put aside the camera to see what was going on and what you could do?

There is no pat answer to the question that will fit all emergencies for all people but I came very close to finding out my own reaction recently.

At the same time, the question was answered for several amateur and one professional photographer.

* * *

The amateur photographers put aside their cameras to look and try to help the victims of a boating accident. The professional saw that the victims were getting help and tried to take pictures but his camera angle was blocked, he said.

Later, he did shoot when he was in a better position, although the story-telling peak of danger had passed.

The occasion was a weekend trip to the snow-topped Grand Teton Mountains in Wyoming for the press premiere of "Spencer's Mountain."

The movie had been shot in the rugged Jackson Hole area of Grand Teton National Park and the spectacular scenery vied with the stars, Henry Fonda, Maureen O'Hara, for top billing.

RAFT TRIP

Among the activities for the press was a rubber raft trip down the fast-moving, winding waters of the Snake River.

Five rafts were waiting and the group of men and women found places on a chance basis. Three larger rafts held 10 boatmen guides.

Two smaller rafts seated five passengers each and a guide. Many of the passengers carried cameras to record the trip and scenery.

* * *

Our large raft was the first to cast off and led the way. I took a picture of the rafts following but found it very difficult to shoot our own craft because we were packed so close.

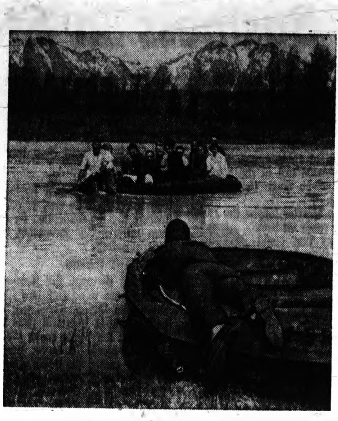
It was risky to stand up for elevation and I only tried it once. We soon lost sight of the other rafts behind a bend in the river.

The swift-moving current became small rapids in places and turned us completely around several times and gave us two exciting moments.

Once we couldn't bypass a fallen tree in mid river. We slid right over it. Then, at a bend in the river, we seemed headed for a tree leaning at an oblique angle from the river edge.

The guides paddled hard to make the turn but it became apparent we couldn't miss the tree entirely. We all crouched low in the raft, shielding our faces.

The rear of the raft missed the trunk of the tree but we sheared off the dead branches with our arms and backs. In neither case did I try to take a picture.



UNPLANNED — It was a happy landing for these photographers after a close call on the Snake River, Wyo. One raft sank, tossing six men into the ice-cold water. Two were rescued; four swam to safety.

Our trip over, we waited a long time, it seemed, before the other rafts appeared. I photographed the approaching craft automatically. Then, when it landed, we discovered that our thrilling ride was child's play compared with their experience.

One of the smaller rafts had met with disaster in going over a log. For the first time in 17 years, a raft was ripped apart and sank within seconds. The occupants, six men, went under in the ice-cold river.

Two of the men could not swim and, in addition, were saddled with cameras around their necks.

Fortunately, the other three rafts were all very close by and one of the nonswimmers was within grabbing reach. He was hauled aboard by the seat of his dignity by a lady editor who had no time to be embarrassed.

The other nonswimmer was in danger but his predicament was spotted by the boatman tossed into the water. The guide swam to his rescue and hauled him to safety.

The other three editors made their own way to safety, helped by the rafts present. One of them a correspondent for Swedish newspapers, went down when the raft sank with a monocle in his eye and a cigarette holder in his teeth.

He came up and swam to safety with the monocle in his eye and the cigarette holder still clamped in his teeth.

During this dramatic episode, none of the occupants of the three rescue rafts took a photo of the men in the river, though many had cameras. One young lady probably expressed their feelings.

She said she had her movie camera in her hand at the moment of the accident but the thought of taking pictures never occurred to her in the shock of the event. Instead she put her camera down and tried to help fish the victims out of the water.

* * *

The professional photographer was in the same raft. He said his first concern was for the victims but when it became apparent that they were getting all the help needed, he tried to take pictures.

He didn't succeed, however, because his camera angle was blocked in the close quarters of the raft.

He got back into photographic action later when the victims took off some of their wet clothes and put on dry sweaters and coats offered by others present.

I believe it's a rare photographer who can take pictures in moments of extreme stress or great danger. It takes nerves of steel, a cool, calculating head and steady hands. I'm not at all anxious to find out if I qualify. How about you?

Jury Acquits Wreath-Layers

Detroit Men Protested U. N. Katanga Action

DETROIT (AP) — After deliberating 24 minutes, a Recorder's Court jury yesterday acquitted two men of charges they disturbed the peace here when they laid a wreath at the feet of United Nations Undersecretary Ralph Bunche.

* * *

The incident occurred May 18 when Dr. Bunche spoke at the American Baptist Convention in Cobo Hall.

The defendants, Edward A. Kelly, 37, of Mount Clemens and Jack Barrett, 25, of Detroit, said they were protesting Dr. Bunche's role in the Katanga crisis in Africa.

They hung on the podium a wreath and a ribbon with the words, "In memory of the victims of U.N. aggression in Katanga."

Defense attorney Larry S. Davidow told the jury the two men created no disturbance.

* * *

He said, "These two young men feeling as they did about atrocities committed by the United Nations representatives in Katanga — and a lot of that occurred when Bunche was there — they felt they wanted him to know the American people were not in accord with rape and murder of the Katanga people, destruction of their homes and bombing of their hospitals."

* * *

Davidow said the men quietly walked out after placing the wreath and issued a news release explaining what they did. He said they were arrested later by policemen who hadn't seen what took place in the hall.

Air Masses Cause Our Dry Spell

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Large, dry air masses moving down from Canada to block moist air masses from the Gulf are responsible for the drought Michigan and the Midwest have been having lately, University of Michigan meteorologists believe,

The weather scientists report that the dry masses are borne by high altitude winds and block the moist air — causing the rains to fall elsewhere. They add that this also accounts for recent record cold nights.

However, meteorological theory can't yet explain what causes the movement of these high altitude winds — unusual for this time of year.

U. of M. meteorologists and engineers are deeply involved in the search for the answer and one of the more effective means of learning about these and similar weather problems has been the series of Tiros weather satellites.

TAKE PICTURES

The satellites take television pictures and photographs of large cloud formations and corresponding wind patterns, and measure the earth's heat balance with sensitive instruments.

The heat balance is the difference between energy received from the sun and that re-radiated or reflected by the earth.

U. of M. meteorologists, under National Aeronautics and Space Administration sponsorship, are interpreting such information from the Tiros satellite to fit it into weather theory.

Over the past three years, a group of aeronautical engineers — members of the high altitude engineering laboratory — have been "checking out" Tiros instruments by flying them in packages beneath huge 11-story high balloons which soar up to 120,000 feet.

Their efforts not only have proved the capability of Tiros instruments, but also have provided a basis for comparison and evaluation of the data the Tiros satellites radio back.

On Probation for Burglary

A 24-year-old Pontiac man was placed on three years' probation yesterday for his May 24 burglary of Bill's Standard Service, 427 S. Saginaw.

Alfred Campbell of 273 Harrison was sentenced by Circuit Judge Arthur E. Moore. Campbell pleaded guilty June 25.

An adding machine and a tire were taken in the break-in.

Committee Will Consider Lake Level Control Costs

The county supervisors' drain committee is slated to meet tomorrow to consider the cost of having water levels of 15 lakes in Waterford and Independence townships legally established and maintained.

* * *

County Drain Commissioner Daniel W. Barry, who would be responsible for the project if approved, said his engineers are working on cost estimates now, and that they should be ready for tomorrow's meeting.

If the project is deemed feasible by the drain committee, a proposal will be presented to the supervisors' ways and means committee Monday morning.

The ways and means committee is responsible for deciding on county expenditures before they are presented to the full board of supervisors for approval.

* * *

Lakes being considered in the proposal are in two groups which, according to Barry, can be controlled at two separate dam sites on the Clinton River by diverting river water into them at peak flow periods.

At the present time, more than enough excess flow is being carried into Lake St. Clair each spring to adequately maintain the lake levels throughout the year, said Barry.

One lakes group, forming the headwaters of the Clinton, includes Williams, Maceday, Lotus, Van Norman, Lester, Greens, Dollar and Cemetery lakes.

* * *

Levels for this group can be controlled by a dam where the river forms the Waterford Mill Pond, said Barry.

There already is a privately owned dam at this location which the county would have to acquire, he said.

* * *

The second group comprises Lake Angelus, Mohawk, Wormer, Schoolhouse, Upper Silver, Silver and Loon lakes.

These can be controlled by dams at the State Conservation Department's no-longer used fish hatchery in Waterford Township, according to Barry.

He said the department is willing to turn the dams over to the county for a nominal $1 fee if the board of supervisors makes a formal request.

* * *

The drain committee already has agreed to ask the supervisors to waive the circulation of lake-level petitions among lake-front property owners if the project is deemed economically feasible.

The board of supervisors can waive its petition requirement by declaring the establishment of lake levels is "in the interests of public health and welfare."

Crops in State Helped by Rain

LANSING (AP) — Lower Michigan crops got at least temporary relief from dry soil because of last weekend's soaking rain, reports the federal-state crop reporting service.

* * *

Late reports indicated there was little runoff of the rain and little water left standing in fields. Gusty winds in some areas caused grains to lodge, it was reported.

The service said field and vegetable crops responded quickly to the new moisture but tree fruits need more rain.

* * *

The grain harvest was active last week, with more than one-half the state's winter barley in and the wheat harvest off to a good start.

* * *

Early cabbage, celery, lettuce, peas, pickles and early tomatoes were harvested in volume last week, and the strawberry harvest was about done.

* * *

Sweet and tart cherries, raspberries and early blueberries were among the fruit crops being harvested.

Condition Improves for Accident Victim

Reported in improved condition today at Pontiac General Hospital is Sally Blosser, 20, of 27 Ramone. She was injured in a two-car crash in Orion Township, Monday.

* * *

Miss Blosser, who received severe cuts and possible fractures in the accident, was first listed in serious condition.

The crash was on Lapeer Road, opposite the Orion Medical Center.

* * *

Company Founder Dies From Stroke

Service for former Pontiac resident Sherry H. Montgomery, founder of the White Owl Express Co., will be at 2 p.m. tomorrow in the Donelson-Johns Funeral Home with burial in Perry Mount Park Cemetery.

Mr. Montgomery, 83, of 1107 E. Lemon, Lakeland, Fla. died of a stroke yesterday after a three-week illness.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Charles R. Shaw of Salem, Ore. and Mrs. Olin E. LaBarge of Pontiac; two sons, Byron C. and Donald R., both of Pontiac; six grandchildren; five great-grandchildren; and a brother.

OK Bond Issuance for Sewer Project

FARMINGTON TOWNSHIP — The State Municipal Finance Commission has approved issuance of special assessment bonds to finance a $198,000 sewer project here.

The Old Farm Colony subdivision is to be served by an arm and laterals from the township sewer lines. The arm will be constructed from Shiawassee to 10-Mile Road.

The area to receive sewer service is roughly a mile square.

At Least Son-in-Law

WICHITA, Kan. (UPI) — Mr. and Mrs. Sam Springer moved into their son-in-law's home while he was on vacation "so it wouldn't be robbed."

Shortly after they moved in, according to police, burglars slipped in and made off with an estimated $65,000 worth of Mrs. Springer's jewelry.

No Joke in Theft of Ducks

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A Municipal Court judge presiding over the trial of two men accused of "ducknaping" made it clear today he saw nothing funny in the case and would tolerate no more laughter from tittering spectators.

* * *

Raymond Lopez, 71, and Steven Newrocky, 61, are on trial for petty theft because a policeman arrested them as they carried more than a dozen ducks from MacArthur Park near downtown.

The defendants contend they wanted to care for the ducks, because of "improper feeding" in the park.

Yesterday, Sgt. James A. Branch testified he saw the two men loading the ducks into an auto.

"Where did the ducks come from, officer?" said attorney Julian Harmon, seeking to establish how the ducks got into the park.

* * *

"I assume from eggs," was the reply, which resulted in laughter from spectators. At that point, Judge Howard H. Schmidt warned he would remove spectators if there were further outbursts.

* * *

The case has a tragic overtone, since Mrs. Venceslava Hanush, Los Angeles, committed suicide in San Francisco June 14. Also arrested, she left a note saying she couldn't bear the humiliation.

City Man Asks Examination on Stabbing Charge

A 68-year-old Pontiac man yesterday asked for examination on a felonious assault charge in the knifing of a neighbor July 12.

James L. Chambers, 565 Montana, denied stabbing Jessie Williams, 38, of 599 Montana, during an argument in front of Chambers' home.

* * *

Municipal Judge Maurice E. Finnegan released Chambers on personal bond to appear for examination July 24.

* * *

Williams is reported in satisfactory condition with an abdomen wound at Pontiac General Hospital.

TO WED — Dr. Robert E. Boehme, 43, acquitted last year of a charge of attempting to kill his wife Dorothy, will wed his former sister-in-law, Mrs. Mary Boehme (above). Mrs. Boehme refused to testify against the doctor, whose wife died several months after the trial.

Vote to Decide Phone Contract

Union Members Set Ratification Election

Members of Pontiac Local 4012 of the Communications Workers of America (CWA) will vote tomorrow whether to accept or reject the recently negotiated contract between the CWA and Michigan Bell Telephone Co.

The ratification vote is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. in the meeting room at 21½ E. Lawrence.

Local 4012 president Robert J. Parker said this morning that he is recommending that the new 38-month contract be approved despite what he described as glaring weaknesses.

The new contract — described by CWA president Joseph A. Beirne as "without precedent in the communications industry" — provides wage, health, retirement and vacation improvements valued at 20 cents for the average Michigan Bell worker.

However, the new agreement does not contain any Local 4012 objectives, according to Parker.

* * *

These included town reclassification, a correction in alleged job structure inequities and a revision of the company's attendance control program.

The ratification vote by the 15,000 Michigan Bell employes represented by the CWA is expected to be completed by next Monday.

'English Experienced in Writing Constitutions'

LONDON (UPI) — Colonial secretary Duncan Sandys, opening the Malta independence talks yesterday, offered this explanation of constitutional problems:

"We in Britain have no constitution of our own, but we have quite a lot of experience in writing constitutions for other people."

200 Strive for Spots in Jr. Olympics

Some 200 Waterford Township boys and girls competed yesterday in Junior Olympics events to determine local representatives in the Detroit Metropolitan Youth Fitness finals next week in Livonia.

* * *

Winners of events in 42 metropolitan communities will compete July 25 at the Livonia Athletic Field.

Yesterday's competition in Waterford Township, conducted by Paul Atkins, was confined to three categories. Class A included youngsters 14 and 15; Class B, 12 and 13; and Class C, 10 and 11.

The Waterford winners were:

SOFTBALL THROW — Jim Kesselring and Wanda Austreng in Class A, Darwin Clement and Pam Godoshian in Class B and Bill Poe and Linda Motzny in Class C.

STANDING BROAD JUMP — Class A, Gary Western and Patricia Atkins; Class B, Bonnie Flook and Steve Thompson and Class C, Dan Deering and Pat Searle.

RUNNING BROAD JUMP — Class A, Dave Ferriss and Pam Godoshian; Class B, Jim Ball and Darlene Morse; Class C, Doug Jerolaman and Sue Gratz.

HOP, STEP AND JUMP — Class A, Jerry Beseau and Debbie McNair; Class B, Dana Hilton and Gail Strader; Class C, Mike Dillard and Kathie Budnik.

50-YARD DASH — Class A, Lee Pearsall and Renee Mosher; Class B, Arturo Sambrano and Linda Olsen; Class C, Mike Sheldon and Debbie Strohmeyer.

Winners in the chinning events in which only boys competed were Rick Chidester in Class A, Leroy Serton in Class B and Danny Sweet in Class C.

* * *

Pam Godoshian will be seeking a second consecutive victory in the softball throw in this year's finals. She was Waterford Township's only winner last year.

Darlene Morse won four events yesterday but is allowed to compete in only one event in the finals, the running broad jump.

SEALED BIDS FOR THE SALE OF 1954 GMC school bus will be received at the Dublin School, White Lake Twp., Dist. #7, 9980 Sandydale Drive, Union Lake, Michigan, until 4:00 o'clock, p.m. on Monday, August 12, 1963. Bus may be inspected at school address

HOMECOMING — Douglas Corrigan, who got fame, fortune and the nickname of "Wrong Way" 25 years ago with his Atlantic crossing in a $900 monoplane, was carried on the shoulders of admirers as he returned to New York on an ocean liner. Today he is 55 and lives in tight-lipped seclusion in Santa Ana, Calif.

'Wrong Way' Corrigan Remains Secretive

SANTA ANA, Calif. (AP) — In an old barn in an orange grove near this Los Angeles suburb is an ancient airplane called "Lizzy."

★ ★ ★

There was a time when it was the most-photographed aircraft in America.

★ ★ ★

Getting a picture of it today is as difficult as getting its owner to hold still for an interview.

WRONG WAY

The owner is Douglas "Wrong Way" Corrigan, who 25 years ago today flew the creaky monoplane from New York to Dublin, Ireland, in a flight that was supposed to end in Long Beach, Calif.

His classic explanation then: "My compass got stuck."

★ ★ ★

Corrigan, once glib in interviews, refuses to answer questions or pose for pictures. "I only talk for money now," says Corrigan.

★ ★ ★

It's not that he needs the money.

He earned about $85,000 from public appearances, a quickie movie "The Flying Irishman", his autobiography after his flight, and some years ago bought a 20-acre orange grove.

The grove now is in the middle of a residential area—a subdivider's dream.

"He's sitting on a gold mine," says a neighbor.

DOESN'T PLAN

Corrigan 55, has said he does not plan to subdivide and added characteristically: "I'm not one to do what everybody else is doing."

That may explain why the old plane is still in the barn.

His wife, Elizabeth, more talkative than Corrigan, told a newsman "he was going to donate it to a museum, but he may pass it on to his children instead."

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Corrigan says her husband flies occasionally, in chartered planes, but spends most of his time in his orange grove.

"That's all he ever does," says a neighbor. Corrigan still wears a leather jacket and scuffed shoes—the attire he adopted years ago in emulation of his idol, Charles A. Lindbergh, first to solo across the Atlantic.

Corrigan couldn't get permission to duplicate Lindbergh's flight—authorities said it was too risky for his ancient craft.

STUBBORN FLIER

So the stubborn young flier made secret preparations. He told airport officials he was heading back to California, but instead wound up in Ireland, 3,000 miles east, 24 hours later.

★ ★ ★

The defiant stunt made him a hero. He got a ticker tape parade down Broadway and for a time his nickname was a household word.

★ ★ ★

The limelight faded, and later he barnstormed, worked as a commercial pilot and served in the ferry command in World War II. He ran for the United States Senate in 1946 but was unsuccessful.

As an orange grower in recent years he has been about as secretive as he was the day he made his famous wrong-way flight.

Must Have Action Now on State Traffic Danger

Editor's Note—This is the first of a nine-part series of articles on Michigan's critical traffic accident problem by F. Granger Weil, president and editor of the Port Huron Times Herald and for more than 10 years chairman of the Traffic Safety Committee of the Michigan Press Association.

BY F. GRANGER WEIL
Editor, Port Huron Times Herald

PORT HURON (AP) — Michigan needs swift, courageous action on the part of its officialdom to halt promiscuous blood-letting on our highways.

If the trend for this year continues, roughly one of every 10 Michigan drivers will be involved in an accident—one in 20 will be injured—one in every 2,500 will die in traffic.

In my book, this is an emergency situation calling for immediate and drastic action, namely, a special session of the legislature. The safety experts have clearly in mind what should be done at this special session.

What they propose is taken up —in part—in the series of articles to which this is an introduction.

The traffic problem has been getting more complicated since 1958 when fatalities hit their lowest postwar level — 1,382. More cars, more drivers, more travel have aggravated the situation.

But accidents do not have to happen. They are caused—and almost always by a driver, or two drivers, ill-equipped to travel on highspeed freeways, uninformed about traffic regulations and the limitations of the vehicle, grossly negligent or momentarily careless behind the wheel, any one of which deficiencies can cause a life to be snuffed out, a body to be racked unceasingly by pain.

Michigan was in a similar accident situation in the early 1950s. Accidents spiraled up until 2,016 persons were killed in 1955.

Substantial measures were imperative to halt the holocaust and they were forthcoming!

A special session of the State Legislature was called and out of this came a number of highly important measures that bent back the rising trend and made Michigan highways substantially safer for a number of years.

These measures included 200 additional Michigan state troopers, a central driver license file to keep an historical record of the violations of all Michigan drivers, a high school driver education program, an absolute 65-mile-per-hour speed limit and establishment of the Michigan State University Highway Traffic Safety Center, which has been discontinued because of budget problems.

Michigan needs the same bold action today. The impetus from the 1955 traffic safety package has ground to a halt. Michigan today actually has fewer state police troopers on highway patrol than in 1957.

It is encouraging to note that Gov. George Romney and safety authorities recently discussed the request for more state troopers, better driver licensing procedures, compulsory vehicle inspection, strengthened high school driver education programs and reactivation of the Michigan State University Highway Safety Center.

★ ★ ★

There have been numerous discussions. Now we have to face facts head on.

Time, cold cash and lives are being wasted with every day of delay.

Let's cut the preliminaries and get down to brass tacks.

Next: Driver Patience.

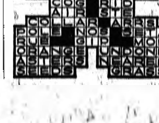
Answer to Previous Puzzle



Brando to Aid Rights Protests

LOS ANGELES (AP) —Actor Marlon Brando says he has "talked to (movie) studio heads who said they believe in segregation."

The actor said Tuesday he would take part in Southern civil rights demonstrations. But, he added, he also will sit in on talks to integrate the movie industry.

"The last time there was mixed dancing in a film was when Shirley Temple danced with Bill Robinson," said Brando.

LEAVE SUNDAY

The actor told a news conference he would leave Sunday for Maryland to take part in anti-segregation demonstrations in racially torn Cambridge and at Gwynn Oaks amusement park in Baltimore. The latter was the scene of 383 arrests of demonstrators, among them a group of clergymen, last July 4 and 7.

Brando said he will also participate in talks beginning Thursday in Hollywood between film industry officials and representatives of the local unit of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

The NAACP claims there is discrimination in movie-making hiring practices and presentation of Negroes in films.

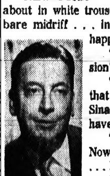
The actor said he would participate in demonstrations in Cambridge even if they care called in defiance of a ban imposed by the National Guard. But, he added, he'll adhere to the principle of nonviolence.

"I wouldn't fight back if I were attacked," he said.

No Regrets for Juliet — Career Goes Marching On

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Long-legged, beautiful Juliet Prowse bounced about in white trousers and a white, fringed top that showed her bare midriff . . . in her suite at the Algonquin . . . acting very happy about life . . . when I threw her my question.



WILSON

"Have you ever been sorry about your decision?"

"NO!" She paused briefly. Knowing, of course, that I referred to March 1962, when she and Frank Sinatra broke an engagement . . . so she could have a career.

"It's a little hard to go into retirement at 25. Now," she laughed, "I could go into retirement . . . I'm 26."

"Tell him," urged her manager, Mark Mordoh, and what a name for a manager ("More Dough!"), "who took you to the SHARE celebrity party in Hollywood."

★ ★ ★

"Oh," and she nodded, "I still see him — once in a while. We say, 'Hi, let's have dinner'." She waved it aside, a thing long past.

But what about her career? She hasn't been idle. You could probably get her right now at the Tally-Ho Motel, Valley Forge, Pa. She's opening a six-week tour of "Irma La Douce" in Valley Forge . . . she did a Eurovision TV spec from Germany . . . several guest shots on U. S. TV . . . "and I changed agents — for films I got Kurt Frings."

He only represents Liz Taylor and Audrey Hepburn, besides.

THE MIDNIGHT EARL . . .

Carol Lawrence tickles her fiance, Bob Goulet, in their joint act, and breaks him up giggling . . . The Bolshoi ballet in Moscow asked Shelley Winters (now in "Cages") to bring 'em a case of hair dye on her trip there . . . Bernard Baruch spent his first night out — since his hospital stay— at the Voisin: he'll be 93 on July 29.

Johnnie Ray's friends are boosting him for the Broadway version of "Elmer Gantry" as "the best therapy for his health" . . . Jack E. Leonard doesn't think "Cleopatra" is too long: "As a matter of fact, I'm gonna visit it again on my next vacation."

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "A toastmaster is a man who eats a meal he doesn't want so he can get up and tell stories he doesn't remember to people who have already heard them."

EARL'S PEARLS: A virus, says cynical Joe Brody, is something discovered by a doctor whose wife wanted a fur coat.

Len Maxwell explains that his uncle was very unpopular: "He once ran for political office, unopposed — and lost." That's earl, brother.

Fringe Benefits Up at Hospital

St. Joseph Initiates New Employe Plan

Employe fringe benefits have been increased at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Sister Mary Xavier Kinney, R.S.M., administrator, disclosed today.

Sister Mary Xavier estimated that the new benefits would cost about $51,000. She said this was an increase of about 17 per cent.

A new salary schedule has also been adopted, which includes six annual increments. The schedule sets up minimum and maximum salaries for all positions.

The new salary schedule steps up the rate at which employes move from the minimum to the maximum.

Hospital officials estimate that the new salary schedule will cost an estimated $40,000 more next year.

The increased fringe benefits include one week vacations for employes with six months service, increased sick leave from 30 to 45 days, and liberalized leave-of-absence privileges.

★ ★ ★

The hospital also has a noncontributory retirement program and now gives employes a discount for inpatient and outpatient hospital care.

Sister Mary Xavier, who will explain the personnel policies in a series of interviews with the hospital's 850 employes, said a noncontributory life insurance plan is now under study.

★ ★ ★

In addition, the hospital is expected to set up a plan to pay part of the costs for employe hospital and medical care insurance. This will be instituted before the first of the year.

The changes in the personnel policies are explained in a revised employe handbook, first major revision since it was issued in 1956.

Record Quake Tremors

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Fordham University observatory early today recorded seismograph readings indicating a "fairly strong earthquake" occurred 5,400 miles northwest of here, probably off the Kurile Islands northeast of Japan.

Auto Club Answers 15 Millionth Call

The Automobile Club of Michigan (AAA) recently answered its 15 millionth SOS from a motorist in distress.

One bitterly cold day last winter, its 140-member road service staff handled more than 11,000 calls for help, according to director of Road Service Robert C. Nisbet.

Nisbet recalled that when he joined the organization in 1924, a supervisor harassed by a deluge of distress calls remarked that "it is absolutely impossible to handle more than 300 calls a day."

★ ★ ★

It took 30 years for the auto club to record 10 million calls, but only another 10 years to log the next 5 million, Nisbet said. The AAA now has 623,000 members in Michigan.

Says Church Must Offer Dixie Race Leadership

ATLANTA (AP) — An Atlanta Board of Education member says Southern churches are offering no leadership in the racial situation at a time when people need it most.

Mrs. G. Ray Mitchell said yesterday that churches have the responsibility for solving the moral issue of racial segregation. She said the legal question is almost completely settled.

Rocky, Barry in TV Debate?

NEW YORK (UPI) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., have been invited by the Columbia Broadcasting System (CBS) to exchange their views in a television debate.

Richard S. Salant, president of CBS news, sent telegrams to the two Republicans yesterday, offering them an hour of air time on July 24, Aug. 7 or Aug. 21.

A spokesman said today the network has not received replies from either Rockefeller or Goldwater.

LOVING CARE IS NEEDED

when you're driving, too!

There are so many ways to express your love for a child —amuse him, caress him, understand him, protect him from hurt and harm.

Because drivers kill and cripple more children than any disease, a car is potentially one of the most dangerous places your child can ever be. So protect him whenever he is in the car—with a seat belt.

If every car owner in America had seat belts in his car—and used them— we could reduce severe injuries by one-third, deaths by 5,000 a year!

It's terribly important to drive with loving care, always. And to support strict law enforcement in your town, for where laws are strictly enforced, accidents and deaths go down. But can a parent who wants to protect his loved one and himself possibly overlook the protection afforded by seat belts?

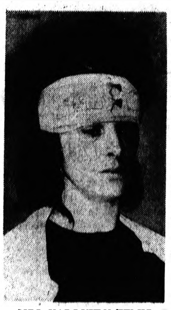
WHAT ARE YOU DOING HERE?—Mrs. Herman Sturm of 2443 Gerald, Avon Township, found her sister, Mrs. William Damon of 192 Mechanic, in the next maternity ward hospital bed at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital Monday. Mrs. Sturm gave birth to a 6-pound, 10-ounce baby boy at 3:51 a.m. Monday. Her sister gave birth to a 7-pound, 4-ounce girl eight hours later. Hospital officials obligingly put the two new mothers in the same room.

Will Arraign Mother in Death of 3 Tots

The mother of three small girls who died in a Waterford Township fire, will be arraigned Monday on an involuntary manslaughter charge.

Mrs. Harriet Kittles waived examination in a preliminary arraignment yesterday afternoon before Waterford Township Justice John E. McGrath.



MRS. HARRIET KITTLES

McGrath bound her over for appearance in Oakland County Circuit Court at 1:30 p.m. Monday.

Mrs. Kittles, 32, will appear in court at the same time as George Mishenko, 34, who also faces an involuntary manslaughter charge.

They are accused of negligence resulting in the deaths of Patricia Ann Mishenko, 4 months, Laura Mishenko, 18 months, and Tammy Lee Kittles, 2.

The children died when fire gutted the home at 1825 Manse, Waterford Township, which Mrs. Kittles shared with Mishenko.

★ ★ ★

Police say the couple left the children unattended while they were out drinking at a tavern.

The fire was apparently caused by a cigarette smoldering in a sofa.

Mrs. Kittles, who collapsed when she returned home to find the house blackened, was released at noon yesterday from Pontiac General Hospital.

Besides shock, she was being treated for a bump on the head and black eye she said was inflicted by Mishenko when they were returning from the tavern.

At Justice McGrath's court, her outward composure vanished and she began sobbing gently as her legal rights were explained.

A $3,000 bond was posted for Mrs. Kittles two hours later, and she was released from the county jail.

Mishenko, who waived examination Monday, still is held there unable to post $3,000 bond set by Justice McGrath.

'We Only Went for 15 Minutes'

Tragic Evening Is Retraced by Parent

"We were only going to be gone 15 or 20 minutes."

But those minutes lengthened into hours and three small children died in a fire that swept their Waterford Township home.

Patricia Ann Mishenko, 4 months, Laura Mishenko, 18 months, and Tammy Lee Kittles, 2 years, died early Sunday in a fire that gutted the first floor of the home at 1825 Manse.

★ ★ ★

Twisting a handkerchief in her lap as she sat awaiting arraignment yesterday on an involuntary manslaughter charge, Mrs. Harriet Kittles retraced those hours.

She said George Mishenko, 34, with whom she lived at the Manse address, suggested they go out and get a drink.

"He had been drinking all day," she added.

She said she thought the children, already bedded down for the night, would be safe. The couple left "about 10 or 11 p.m." (she isn't sure when), locking the house.

The following hours are a blur. Mrs. Kittles said, however, that, somehow, the drinks and talk in the bar kept them longer than expected.

"But I only had two mixed drinks, that's all," she insisted.

"We never left the children

City Changes Rules on Liquor Over Protests

Vote Allows Dancing in Local Bars With Class C Licenses

Despite protests from a near-capacity audience, the Pontiac City Commission approved two liquor ordinances last night.

After a two-hour debate, the commission voted 5-2 to allow dancing in local taverns and bars with class C liquor licenses.

Commissioners William H. Taylor Jr. and Charles H. Harmon voted against the ordinance amendment.

A second ordinance change, setting the beginning of Sunday sales of beer and wine by the glass at noon instead of 2 p.m., was approved by a 4-3 margin.

Commissioner Milton R. Henry joined Taylor and Harmon in voting against the second proposal. Both amendments take effect in ten days.

★ ★ ★

Pontiac church leaders, tavern owners and others jammed the second-floor chambers of the commission to discuss the controversial changes.

An estimated 200 to 300 spectators debated dancing, alcohol and the effects of both.

OPPOSITION LEADER

Dr. Milton Bank of Central Methodist Church headed the opposition and cited statistics to show the evil effects of alcohol.

Several residents joined with Dr. Bank in protesting the dancing ordinance.

Rev. Carl Adams of the First Methodist Church objected to the ordinance changes. He said the issue of liquor should be considered in light of its effect on children.

★ ★ ★

Stating that he was opposed to the dancing amendment because "It won't upgrade Pontiac and I think it is a backward step," Commissioner Harmon listed the number of liquor licenses now in the city.

He said there were two class B hotel licenses, 36 class C, 18 tavern, 7 club, 24 package liquor, and 134 beer and wine licenses.

Commissioner Taylor, who also voted no, estimated that for every $1 received for the dancing permits, the city would spend $4 policing the establishments.

Also referring to the policing problems, Commissioner Loy L. Ledford said it was solely up to the individual bar owners.

Commissioners Winford E. Bottom and Dick M. Kirby expressed the view that Pontiac should try to keep some of the business that is now going to neighboring areas.

Mayor Robert A. Landry received an ovation from the large audience for his position that the responsibility for the effects of alcohol was up to the individual.

Two Renamed; Fill Vacancy on Hospital Board

The Pontiac City Commission last night reappointed two members to the Pontiac General Hospital Board of Trustees and selected a new member to fill a vacancy.

Reappointed to the 11-member board were Mrs. Edna B. Roush, 326 W. Iroquois, current secretary, and Robert A. Armstrong, 179 Cherokee, who begins his second four-year term.

John Q. Waddell, a realtor, was selected to fill the vacancy left by the resignation of Robert S. Nelson, 190 Ottawa.

The Board of Trustees is scheduled to meet tomorrow. New officers are expected to be chosen for one-year terms.

LAKE YIELDS CAR — This car that plunged through the ice in Cass Lake last March into 70 feet of water was recovered yesterday. Divers Larry Miller (left) of the state police and sheriff's deputy Medward Tessier guide the car in. Lt. Donald Kratt of the sheriff's department conducted the recovery. Divers made several unsuccessful attempts to find the car before locating it two weeks ago. Three occupants of the car jumped out before it went through the ice.

Goldwater Eyes Senate Seat

Sees Time to Decide if Backed for Presidency

WASHINGTON (AP) — Come what may, Sen. Barry M. Goldwater intends to file for re-election to the Senate from Arizona next year.

If political events should take matters out of his hands and deliver him the 1964 Republican presidential nomination, the Arizonan indicated today in an interview, it would be time enough then to decide whether to seek two offices in the November election.

★ ★ ★

A filing that would place his name on the senatorial primary ballot would have to be made by Goldwater by July 10, three days before the GOP presidential nominating convention opens in San Francisco.

If he follows his present inclination, the Arizona senator said he will have the papers ready on June 10, the first day on which they could be filed officially.

Goldwater obviously expects Arizona's attorney general, Robert Pickrell, to rule soon that the senator's name may go on next year's ballot both as a candidate for president and for re-election to the Senate.

Civil Rights Battles Cross Many Fronts

FROM OUR NEWS WIRES

WASHINGTON — The congressional battle over civil rights blazed across many fronts today, from integration in sports stadiums to a proposed investigation of the leaders of racial demonstrations.

Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick told the Senate Commerce Committee today that the major leagues are now almost totally integrated both on the playing field and in the stands.

Frick said baseball "paid a price" for integration with the loss of several minor league clubs in the South. But over-all, it has worked out to the satisfaction of almost everyone concerned, he said.

★ ★ ★

The commissioners of the two major professional football leagues also told the committee that segregation was no problem in pro football.

Earlier, Govs. Ross R. Barnett of Mississippi and George C. Wallace of Alabama and Atty. Gen. Bruce Bennett of Arkansas urged the committee to investigate what they pictured as Communist influences bent on a divide and conquer strategy.

The Pentagon, faced with protests it was encouraging military personnel to take part in demonstrations, issued orders last night restricting and practically barring such activities while in uniform.

★ ★ ★

Negro leader Martin Luther King believes as many as 200,000 integrationists wil take part in a scheduled Aug. 28 march-on-Washington.

AFL-CIO President George Meany asked Congress today to help the Negro find the same job opportunities on the assem-

Cubans to Quit U.S. in Anger

MIAMI (UPI) — A top Cuban exile organization, irked by U.S. interference with anti-Castro raids, said yesterday it will move to Central America to launch a new campaign against the Communist island.

★ ★ ★

Manuel Artime, the 31-year-old chief of the Revolutionary Recovery Movement (MRR), said he and top organization leaders would be leaving Miami "in the near future."

★ ★ ★

Artime, who was civilian leader of the abortive 1961 Bay of Pigs Invasion, said the move was prompted by the federal government's continual interference with exile raids on Cuba.

★ ★ ★

"Virtually all doors in the United States have been slammed shut on Cuban exiles who want to do something," he said.

★ ★ ★

"We cannot just sit here. We have to go someplace else — a place from which we can fight Castro communism."

DOG DAZE—They call these dog days, but this is ridiculous. "Look at my tongue," Banny a six-month old beagle seems to say. Actually, the pup is begging his owner, Sandra Mitchell, 15, of 3147 Lincolnview, Auburn Heights, to play some more with him and the squeaky toy in his mouth.

Outbreak Worries Officials

Say Egg Disease May Spread

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An outbreak of intestinal bacteria from cracked eggs has led Public Health Service physicians to believe the disease may be contagious.

Before the current epidemic, the bacteria, known as salmonella derby, was believed to emanate only from outside sources such as contaminated eggs.

But Dr. Eugene Sanders of the Public Health Service's Communicable Disease Center in Atlanta, Ga., has reported there now is "strong evidence" that it may be contagious.

★ ★ ★

"There is a reasonable possibility in some of the more recent cases that the bacteria has been spread from one person to another," he said. "We are now investigating this possibility."

Sanders said all of the original cases reported in the epidemic stemmed from a common source. The service said last week that there was enough evidence to indicate this common source was cracked eggs from a farm in an unidentified area.

"But the large majority of cases now are secondary cases, transmitted from person to person," Sanders said.

★ ★ ★

He said physicians at the disease center also were "quite excited" because for the first time they had "recovered some of the bacteria from the air" in hospitals where there were outbreaks.

Forecaster Sees More Heavenly Lawn Sprinkling

All of Oakland County may look forward to more showers tonight and tomorrow.

The weatherman said tonight's low will be a warm 70 but temperatures will make it cooler late tomorrow after a high during the day of 85.

A light rain measuring .05 of an inch quenched the thirst of parched gardens and lawns during the night.

The low recording in downtown Pontiac before 8 a.m. was 64. The thermometer reading at 1 p.m. was 88.

Step Up Pace in Test Talks

Fear Soviet Demands May Hinder Progress

From Our News Wires

MOSCOW — The United States, Britain and Russia stepped up the pace of nuclear negotiations today, with early optimism tempered by fears that Soviet calls for an East-West nonaggression pact might hinder progress toward a nuclear test ban.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, U.S. Undersecretary of State W. Averell Harriman and Britain's Lord Hailsham met this afternoon in the third straight day of negotiations amid reports they were moving in the direction of at least a partial nuclear test ban.

Gromyko was giving a dinner for the chief American and British negotiators tonight following the regular afternoon session in the Siridonovka Palace. It was the first announced evening gathering of the three-power delegates.

★ ★ ★

Although the initial meetings have been surrounded by a cordiality unprecedented in recent cold war history, Western sources cautioned against "undue optimism" that the talks would achieve a break-through in the long test-ban stalemate.

Western observers said there were two possible stumbling blocks:

- The danger that the Soviets might try to link a nuclear test agreement with their repeated call for a nonaggression pact between NATO and the Communist Warsaw pact nations.
- The possibility that the Russians might insist on an unpoliced moratorium on underground testing to accompany a ban on other forms of nuclear tests. The Soviets have steadfastly refused to agree to Western demands that a minimum of seven on-site inspections a year be held to police an underground ban.

★ ★ ★

Though secrecy surrounds the discussions, there were growing indications that the negotiators are going straight to the test-ban issue itself, with other issues brushed aside.

Shipment Due Austria Now in Red Hands?

Agriculture Officials Silent on Fate of 24 Million Bushels

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republicans are pressing for a congressional investigation into reports that 24 million bushels of U.S. grain vanished somewhere on the way to Austria.

The $32 million worth of corn, barely and sorghum "could have gone behind the Iron Curtain" in violation of U.S. barter agreements, said Sen. John J. Williams R-Del., yesterday in demanding a Senate investigation.

★ ★ ★

Or, he said, the grain "may have been diverted and sold in Western Germany for dollars," which would also be a violation.

Barter deals are restricted to non-Communist countries that would not otherwise pay dollars for U.S. farm products.

Lester P. Condon, Agriculture Department inspector general, said evidence uncovered so far does not indicate the grain went behind the Iron Curtain, but that some of it might have wound up in West Germany where it could hurt cash markets for U.S. grain.

★ ★ ★

Condon said the United States suffered no loss on the shipments intended for Austria because it received the agreed upon minerals in the barter exchange.

ARRESTS MADE

Williams said seven importers have been arrested in Austria and that he does not see how the grain could have disappeared without some collusion with someone in this country, although no Americans have been implicated.

Williams said the Justice Department should join the investigation.

"This is really big stuff," said Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirkson of Illinois in backing Williams' request to create a special Senate committee and give it $100,000 to look into the case.

Dirksen said the grain was loaded on ships in this country but apparently never got to Austria.

Sen. Jack Miller, R-Iowa, said "the silence has been deafening" since he asked Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman last month about the disappearance

Nosed Out

Pusher Let Down

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (UPI) — Ulysses L. Baxter, 21, of Oklahoma City, the Pikes Peak peanut pusher, received some discouraging news yesterday.

Baxter, a night club entertainer in Colorado Springs, thought he was about to become the first person ever to push a peanut to the top of the 14,110 mountain with his nose.

But he learned that Bill Williams of Rio Hondo, Tex., was the first man to conquer the peak with a nose and a peanut.

* * *

In 1929, Williams started at Rainbow Falls, went up the pass, then up the Pikes Peak Highway and reached the top. He covered 22 miles in 20 days.

Newspaper clippings showed that Williams, an employe of the Tom Houston Peanut Co. of Columbus, Ga., was bet $5,000 he couldn't push a peanut 20 miles in 20 days. The clippings failed to say if Williams collected on his bet.

Williams' feat was uncovered as Baxter was about a mile from the summit. But Baxter apparly still plans to finish. His schedule calls for him to push within 25 yards of the top today and to cross the top at 9 a.m. tomorrow.

Hart Parries With Wallace

Argue Civil Rights in Vigorous Exchange

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sharp and pointed all the way was yesterday's civil rights exchange between Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace and Michigan Sen. Philip A. Hart — including its discussion of heaven.

Alabama's chief executive and the Democratic senator lanced vigorously.

Hart broached the subject of heaven.

"What do you think heaven will be like, will it be segregated?"

"I don't think any of us knows that heaven will be like," Wallace answered. "God made us all, he made you and me white. He made others black. He segregated us."

Hart asked the heaven question after Wallace stated he bore no hatred toward anyone and believed in God and tried to follow religious teachings.

Following Wallace's answer, Hart said he would pursue the subject no further except to say he presumed "we would all be one family in heaven under one loving father."

Hart and Wallace exchanged comparisons of discrimination in their home states.

Each defended his own.

During their discussion both indictated exasperation at times.

Wallace named three Michigan cities — Wyandotte, Owosso and Dearborn — where he said segregation existed.

* * *

Hart admitted there was discrimination in Michigan but said it differed from that in Alabama.

"Ours is a sophisticated form, yours is hard-nosed," he said. "I don't know which is worse, but we're both wrong."

Get Your Mumps Early and Avoid the Rush

OXFORD, England (UPI) — Dr. George Watson told the British Medical Association conference yesterday that children should catch some childhood diseases at an early age and get them over and done with.

Watson predicted that someday doctors may offer "mumps for sale" and parents will rush in to make their purchases.

Half House Big Woe for Joe

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP)—The city of Charlotte and Joe Conrad are at odds over half a house.

The city wants to pay Conrad $28,288.50 for his trouble and half the house. Conrad says it's not enough.

* * *

Conrd oaned a bg iouse

Conrad owned a big house at 1301 Greenwood Cliff. The city wanted to extend a street. Half of Conrad's house site was needed.

The city used its right to condemn and began tearing down the house.

"Saw it in two," Conrad told city officials. "You're not taking but half of it."

WON'T COLLECT

The city's half of the house was expected to be cleared away today.

Conrad still won't pick up the city's check.

"I don't think I'm getting a fair price," he said. "I'm going to let a jury decide what is a fair price."

Discount Rate Hiked by U. S.

Designed to Check Flow of Cash Abroad

From Our News Wires

WASHINGTON — A higher Federal Reserve discount rate went into effect today as the government intensified its campaign to check the flow of dollars abroad.

* * *

The Federal Reserve Board announced Tuesday a boost from 3 to 3.5 per cent in the discount rate for seven of the 12 reserve banks. The others are expected to follow promptly.

* * *

Almost simultaneously, President Kennedy announced that he would send a special message to Congress Thursday outlining planned administrative measures on the balance of payments problem.

DEFICIT REVEALED

The board said preliminary information indicated that there was a substantial payments deficit in the April-June quarter.

Another source said the second-quarter deficit probably was at about the same $3.3 billion annual rate as in the first-quarter of the year.

* * *

The board said its action was designed to ease the international payments problem. Chairman Wright Patman of the House Banking Committee said the move was terrible and that he would call in the members of the board for questioning.

The general public is not expected to be much affected by the boost in interest rates.

The action will not increase the present maximum interest rate of 4 per cent paid on savings account funds which remain on deposit for one year or more.

RAISE INTEREST

However, the Federal Reserve Board did authorize banks to raise the interest they pay on short-term deposits held by their business customers. The banks made no immediate move to take advantage of the authorization but they were expected to do so at any time.

The interest rates commercial banks charge consumers for installment loans and home mortgages are not likely to be increased on the heels of the discount hike.

School Board Gives OK for Expansion of Facility

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — The board of education last night approved final plans for expansion of its physical plant and discussed preliminary transportation plans.

* * *

Drawings for a $60,000 addition to Hickory Grove Elementary School were presented by the architectural firm of Terrapata and McMann of Bloomfield Hills.

The three-room addition will include a special room for handicapped children. It is to be completed by the beginning of the school year.

Board members also approved plans for a garage in which the district's 28 buses will be kept. The $20,000 structure will be built at East Hills Junior High School.

* * *

District buses are now parked outside Bloomfield High School. The board will soon advertise for bids on both projects.

Preliminary plans for a revised transportation program for next year were discussed, with walking areas being redefined.

The district, which transported 3,334 students last year, is facing a 10 per cent increase in enrollment.

* * *

No child next year will walk more than eight-tenths of a mile or need to cross or walk along a major highway — but more children will be walking.

Final transportation plans are expected to be presented at next month's meeting.

* * *

At its four-hour session last night, the school board also reviewed the district's elementary French program.

Mrs. Douglas C. Giles

Service for Mrs. Douglas C. (Martha R.) Giles of 1272 Villa, Birmingham, will be 10 a.m. Friday at the Alfred E. Crosby Mortuary, Highland Park. Burial will follow in Au Gres Cemetery, Au Gres.

Mrs. Giles died unexpectedly Monday while at the family's summer home near Tawas.

She was a past worthy matron of the Birmingham Chapter, Order of Eastern Star; past president of the Highland Park Rotary Club's Rotary Anns; and a member of the First Presbyterian Church of Birmingham.

Surviving besides her husband are a son, Richard C.; a daughter, Mrs. Douglas Christy; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Merle Robinson of Indianapolis, Ind.; two sisters; and two grandchildren.

John M. Riley

John M. Riley, 80, of 856 Purdy, Birmingham, died yesterday after a long illness. His body is at the Manley Bailey Funeral Home.

Mr. Riley was retired caretaker of the Congregational Church. He was also a life member of the Stonewall, Manitoba Lodge, F&AM.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Thomas McCall of Birmingham; a brother; and a grandson.

Trial Is Ended on Guilty Plea

The trial of an Oak Park man accused of robbing a Bloomfield Township bank of $3,173 last March was stopped abruptly yesterday when he confessed in U.S. District Court.

Allan E. Morrison, 29, of 23060 Oakcrest, pleaded guilty before Federal Judge Wade H. McCree in Detroit.

Morrison admitted robbing the Manufacturers National Bank branch office at 4057 W. Maple, Bloomfield Township. He was released on a $25,000 cash bond to await sentencing.

Two other bank robbery charges against him will be held in abeyance.

Other racial news:

● In Charleston, S.C., the last in a daylong series of antisegregation demonstrations by Negroes erupted last night into a brick-throwing riot in which six policemen and a fireman were injured and a number of patrol cars damaged.

Officers arrested 95 of the approximate 400 Negro demonstrators during the melee.

Police chief William F. Kelly called all city policemen to duty and also summoned a contingent of county policemen and 24 state troopers as a "precautionary measure . . . when a greater crowd (of Negroes) built up" after the riot.

DISPERSED

But the Negroes gradually dispersed after milling around a church, three blocks from police headquarters, for awhile.

None of the injured officers was believed seriously hurt.

● In Savannah a Negro fireman was wounded slightly last night by a rifle bullet fired from a passing car. Six white teenagers were arrested within minutes.

* * *

The victim, Warnell Robinson, 29, said he saw the car pass and heard a shot and a bullet hit him in the stomach.

He was treated at a hospital and released.

Police arrested four youths at a drive-in restaurant about 10 minutes after the shots were fired. Two others had left the car and were picked up later.

FORMING COMMITTEE

During the day more than 70 business leaders began organizing a committee to seek a solution to the city's racial problems. The group is not connected with a similar committee of religious leaders.

● In New York, the seven major U.S. antisegregation groups today were setting up an "emergency" council to help them expand and coordinate their struggle for civil rights across the nation.

The new organization will be known as the Council for United Civil Rights Leadership (CUCRL), Roy Wilkins, executive director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) said last night.

* * *

Along with the NAACP, groups participating in the CUCRL were the National Urban League; Congress of Racial Equality; Southern Christian Leadership Conference; Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee; National Council of Negro Women, and the NAACP legal defense fund.

The contractor at a Harlem bank remodeling job reached agreement on hiring practices with civil rights groups yesterday, ending demonstrations which had forced suspension of work for 12 days.

● In Cambridge, Md., integration leaders pressed for concrete proposals from a newly formed biracial committee today, and delayed a decision on whether to resume demonstrations in this trigger-taut fishing community.

* * *

At a brief sidewalk news conference, Negro leader Reginald Robinson issued a statement urging the committee to come out with proposals by 2 p.m. (Pontiac time).

* * *

Demonstrations had been suspended for 24 hours—until midday today—on the condition that the committee come up with proposals for desegregation.

* * *

● In Detroit, Negroes today continued to mount pressure on Wayne County Prosecutor Samuel Olsen to reopen the investigation into the shooting death of a young Negro woman.

Arthur L. Johnson, executive director of the NAACP, asked Olsen for a meeting to discuss the matter. Olsen said he was drafting a letter telling Johnson he would be glad to meet with the NAACP, but that he would not reopen the case unless new evidence was presented.

On Morals Charge

Nab Drive-In Owner

A warrant was issued yesterday against a 40-year-old Berkley man accused of operating a prostitution racket through his Birmingham drive-in restaurant.

Peter Nick of 1404 11-Mile Road was arrested at his home Tuesday night in a police trap sprung with the help of an 18-year-old Pontiac girl.

Nick was accused of attempting to persuade a female to enter prostitution. The official charge was pandering, which carries a maximum penalty of 20 years in prison.

* * *

The police trap was set up after another 18-year-old Pontiac girl told Birmingham police that Nick tried to persuade her to become a prostitute when she answered a newspaper ad for waitresses, according to Oakland County Assistant Prosecutor Robert Templin.

Templin issued the warrant against Nick, who owns the Mars Drive-In in Birmingham and Bel-Mar Restaurant in Royal Oak.

Templin said the girls who answered the ad were promised "lots of money" to work as both waitresses and prostitutes.

* * *

Templin said Nick was divorced and has a record of a 1959 conviction for statutory rape of a 16-year-old girl.

Nick appeared in Birmingham Municipal Court yesterday and demanded examination on the charge. Examination was set for July 26.

* * *

Nick is free on $500 bond.

He was arrested by state, Birmingham and Berkley police.

50 Hurt as Monks, Saigon Police Clash

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Swinging rifle butts and clubs, South Vietnamese riot police laid into a demonstration of Buddhist monks, nuns and women and children followers today, injuring at least 50.

Police backed by helmeted troops arrested more than 200 demonstrators, flinging them bodily into army trucks.

* * *

Demonstrators sprawled in the dust as security forces kicked and clubbed them.

Smaller demonstrations, involving about 100 monks and nuns each, broke out around Saigon's central market and in Cholon, the Vietnamese capital's Chinatown. Riot police quelled them quickly and carried off several dozen more demonstrators.

The new Buddhist demonstrations against the government of President Ngo Dinh Diem, a Roman Catholic, erupted as a 48-hour hunger strike by more than 200 monks and nuns went into its second day.

BUDDHIST MARCH

The biggest demonstration was at Giac Minh pagoda, where more than 1,000 Buddhists gathered secretly overnight to march to the Xa Loi pagoda where the hunger strikers are.

Police got wind of the plan, threw barbed wire barricades across roads and called in troops.

Monks and nuns tried to break through the barbed wire several times but were thrown back. Two monks fainted and were laid prostrate in front of the wire.

* * *

A monk addressed the police and assembled newsmen over a portable public address system. He called on the United States to support the Buddhists and chanted slogans.

In a battle of public address systems, police chanted anti-Buddhist slogans back at the demonstrators.

Remnants of the demonstrators finally retreated toward the pagoda. Troops sealed off the narrow alleyway leading to it, then smashed through adjoining shop fronts to get at cornered Buddhists.

14 GIs Injured in Cong Attack

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Communist guerrillas raked the airport of South Viet Nam's second largest city with mortars and machine guns Tuesday night, wounding 14 U.S. Army Special Forces troops.

The attack at Can Tho airport, 80 miles southwest of Saigon, lasted only eight minutes, but between 16 and 20 mortar shells hit the installation. One of the 60 mm shells went through the roof of a shack housing the special forces team, inflicting all the casualties.

Ten of the wounded Americans were taken to the 8th U.S. Army field hospital in Nhatrang. Three were in serious condition. Three Vietnamese also were wounded.

It was the heaviest casualty toll of American servicemen in a single encounter with the Viet Cong.

Earlier Tuesday, two American military advisers and two Vietnamese soldiers were injured and a Vietnamese soldier was killed in the crash of a U.S. Marine Corps helicopter in mountains 300 miles northeast of Saigon.

New Look in Maternity Clothes

WOMEN'S SECTION

This tunic ensemble in a shimmering summer blend cotton, rayon and silk is perked up by piping on a jewel neck and arms and bow-bedecked inserts of white being important highlights to the sides. About $15.

The duo that can do beautifully for festive summer includes an organza check coat with a Chanel neckline and three-quarter sleeves matched with a sheath of rayon silk, shirred at the bodice, self-belted at the waist. About $25.

The sleeveless modified shift, with its open neck yoke of red and navy has an unbutton-as-you-go front, adapts the season's most important new silhouette to the woman who's waiting in cool Arnel sharkskin. About $15.

Literally overnight — the new look in maternity clothes has stolen the limelight in the fashion picture — a position it assumed the moment announcement was made from Washington, D. C. that a new Kennedy is expected at the White Household.

★ ★ ★

Even if the new baby were merely the first to be born to a President while he was in office since the days of McKinley, fashion interest in the new look of maternity clothes would be at a height.

★ ★ ★

But with the First Lady unquestionably the country's — if not the world's — most prominent style setter, what she will be wearing through the summer months can be expected to bring maternity fashions to new status — and chicness.

MATERNITY LINES

Indications point to a continuation of the "young arrogant look," adapted, of course, to maternity lines.

★ ★ ★

This unmistakable air of smartness quickly came to the fashion forefront when Jacqueline — as well as the several other Mrs. Kennedys —firmly established Washington as a focal point in fashion; it should continue as a point of departure especially once its applications to the maternity silhouette have been established.

★ ★ ★

The fluid shift, the eased "A" line and the uncluttered tunic, all already among the favorites of the First Lady's "looks," can be expected to be among the most important lines in new maternity fashions.

★ ★ ★

Easily translated to lines for the lady-in-waiting, they will tend to highlight the face while they deftly disguise the silhouette. Panels, floating scarves and yoking can also be expected to dominate the fashion scene in the months ahead.

★ ★ ★

Intricate necklines and interest at the sleeves should also achieve importance as devices to put emphasis at the face.

MORE FORMAL

For more formal occasions, Mrs. Kennedy's preferences for the costume look and the matched sheath and coat ensemble should be much in evidence in forthcoming months. More formal silhouettes will probably stress clever tiering and flounced skirts with rich tones and lavish fabrics that are cool and comforting — completing the gala look.

★ ★ ★

As one of the most sports minded First Ladies within memory — there's little doubt that Mrs. Kennedy's fashion emphasis will be almost equally divided between formal wear and play clothes—especially when the family gathers at Hyannisport for the summer.

★ ★ ★

JANET ANN BARANSKI

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Baranski of Vassar announce the engagement of their daughter Janet Ann, to Ronald Wilford Ramsey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Ramsey of Hallman Street.

Both the bride-elect and her fiance are seniors at Michigan State University, East Lansing.

A mid-September wedding date has been set.

SUSAN CAROL HALLAS

Early fall vows are planned by Susan Carol Hallas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Hallas, Pine Lake, to James Lewis Axtell, son of Arthur J. Axtell, Sidney, N.Y., and Mrs. Joseph K. Levinsky, Phoenix, Ariz.

Miss Hallas, a member of Sigma Gamma, attended Wellesley College and will enter Newnham College, Cambridge, Mass.

Her fiance, a Yale University graduate, will work on his Ph.D. degree at Trinity College.

A dress emphatically Empire in looks features a bright bow on the shirred bodice with a flurry of fringe on the top and white pique at the bib and neck. About $11. All maternity fashions shown here are available locally.

The classic lines of the tunic shown here are in cooling silk and cotton. Floating panels stemming from the neck are caught and tabbed at the shoulder for comfort. About $18.

This prettily printed lined Fortrel cotton voile is scooped at the neckline, bared at the arm and triple-tiered to give a deceptively slim line. A lovely way to look at important events while expecting the most important event of all. About $18.

Sunglasses Bring Glamour, Comfort, Safety

When Greta Garbo first took to sunglasses, it wasn't to hide from her public! Miss Garbo and other Hollywood stars first wore sunglasses to protect their eyes from the bright Klieg lights.

Thus, sunglasses became a status symbol of glamour.

* * *

Today, sunglasses are more than a glamourous affectation — they have become a necessity. First seen only on beaches, sunglasses quickly gained popularity as people realized their effectiveness in protecting their eyes from harsh glare in all seasons.

With the knowledge that sunglasses are fashionable, a status symbol and extremely utilitarian, the realization has grown that one pair alone could never fill the needs or desires of the well-dressed woman.

COMPLEMENT STYLES

Leading sunglass manufacturers now work closely with fabric, leather and jewelry manufacturers, as well as leading hair stylists, to complement styles.

Included in the latest styles are new pearlized pastel colors to dramatize resort fashions. Tailored sports glasses protect the eyes and complement casual clothes. Jeweled frames set off summer dresses for gala occasions and late sunsets.

* * *

For the tailored look year-round, there are many demi-amber, black and white frames to blend with everything from the business suit to the basic black dress.

For the 76½ million wearers of regular eyeglasses who do not own prescription sunglasses, there is a complete line of opti-clipovers in many shapes and sizes. These are tailored styles that fit over the lens area only, or framed-shapes with lattice work at the corners and tiny jewels highlighting the frames. They can change regular eyeglasses into glamorous sunglasses in seconds.

* * *

Sunglasses are an important working accessory. Anyone who works outside for long or even for short periods of time should be particularly serious about eye care, advises the Sun Glass Institute, which represents leading United States Manufacturers.

SUFFER FROM GLARE

Many people, the Institute claims, suffer from almost chronic cases of glare fatigue and wonder why they feel headachy and irritable.

When these persons play in the sun at the beach or on the golf course, or even when they are among the crowd at the ball park, they wouldn't think of being without their sunglasses which are recognized as a required part of the up-to-date sports or casual costume.

When they work, however, they fail to use the same good judgment when simply donning sunglasses would help prevent those annoying glare fatigue symptoms.

* * *

There are literally dozens of occupations, the Institute reports, in which sunglasses can reduce strain and add to eye comfort. In driving jobs where the safety factor is important, sunglasses are at a peak of popularity.

Sunglasses for working hours should be selected carefully. Frames should be sturdy. The hinges connecting the temple pieces should give smooth movement.

The lenses should be large enough to cover the normal angle of vision and should not be brushed by the eyelashes. Frames should not be too tight behind the ears; nor should they rest on the cheekbones.

* * *

It is important, too, that lenses be free of distortion. To check this, hold the glasses in front of the eyes and focus on a fixed point. Then slowly move them from side to side, noticing if this produces any wavy or blurred spots.

Coloration should also be checked by holding the glasses up to the light and inspecting for lighter or darker spots.

For working and particularly for driving, green or neutral are preferred lens colors. Pastel or "cosmetic" lenses should be saved for less demanding activities.

Linda Fisher, Pontiac Press staff member tries on some ornate sunglass frames which are display at Pontiac Optical Center.

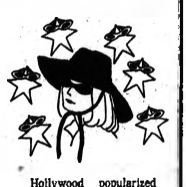
The first "sunglass" is said to have been worn by Nero. He held a polished emerald to his eyes to watch gladiatorial combats in the Roman arena.

The Gay Nineties and the introduction of the automobile also witnessed the development of tinted "dust goggles"—an American sunglass concept that served a two-fold purpose, first for horse-drawn carriage travel and later in our early touring cars.

Although sunglasses were first worn used in ancient Rome, it was not until the 16th Century when Henry VIII ruled England that sunglasses became popular.

Perfectly round lenses seemed to be the fad of the Flapper era during the '20s, marking the beginning of fashion in sunglass design.

During the 18th Century, "London Smoke" glasses became the rage, and numerous "smoke glass shoppes" sprouted up throughout the city.



Hollywood popularized sunglasses, creating a celebrity identification and an aura of glamour and romance. Soon, millions of women were following the sunglass fashion trend set by Garbo and other famous screen stars.

Stranger Asks

Guess Who, Friend!

DEAR ABBY: Recently I answered my door and was confronted by a woman who insisted that I KNEW her. When I told her I didn't, she seemed offended, and kept me guessing for some time. It was most embarrassing. She turned out to be an old schoolmate I hadn't seen in FORTY-ONE years!

ABBY

Really now, Abby. We weren't that close in the first place and hadn't had any contact in all that time. It was good to see her again, but wasn't she presumptuous to have expected me to remember her?

She had the advantage over me because she had been told where I was living. How does one tactfully handle the idiotic question, "I'll bet you don't remember me, do you?"

EMBARRASSED

* * *

DEAR EMBARRASSED: With the forthright honest reply, "Perhaps I should but I'm sorry I don't. Who ARE you?"

* * *

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I have three children under five years old. Several times when I've come home from work, I've found them badly bruised. Even with broken bones.

My wife said they fell out of the highchair, or down the cellar steps. Once the older one said, "Mommy hit us," and she was called "a filthy little liar." Now I'm sure my wife has been mistreating the children because I came home early yesterday and caught her in the act.

She says it's my word against hers and a man can't testify against his wife. Is this true?

I operate a complicated machine, Abby, and I can't keep my mind on my work for worrying about the children. Can you help me?

WORRIED FATHER

* * *

DEAR WORRIED: Ask a lawyer (or District Attorney or sheriff) how to get your children away from a possibly dangerous and ill mother. They may need something beside your word for it, but they will advise you on tactics. And don't delay.

Varied Fish Recipes Please

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

You don't spend all your time cooking hot dogs and hamburgers on your grill; you do serve other foods. Or do you?

Here is a trio of fish recipes that will help to beat the heat and vary the menu. In price they range from the relatively inexpensive canned tuna to shrimp and individual fish steaks.

The protein found in fish is equal to that of meat. Even with the addition of dressings, the fat content is not prohibitively high.

Pickled fish has a Spanish background. Although the recipe suggests serving it as a first course, it could easily be a luncheon salad. Any leftover fish will keep well in the refrigerator.

PICKLED FISH—Pescado Escabeche, sometimes known as Seviche in Caribbean regions, is pickled fish. Sparked with pimiento-stuffed olives and served on crisp western iceberg lettuce, it's deliciously cool for a hot night.

Pickled Fish

1½ pounds striped bass, cut in ¾ inch thick steaks
1 teaspoon monosodium glutamate
¾ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
¼ cup olive oil
½ cup onion rings
⅓ cup sliced, pimiento-stuffed olives
2 teaspoons dry mint flakes or 1 tablespoon chopped fresh mint
⅓ cup vinegar
Western iceberg lettuce

Sprinkle bass with monosodium glutamate, salt and pepper. Lightly brown fish in heated oil in skillet; transfer to shallow casserole.

In same skillet, cook onion until soft and yellow about 3 minutes; add olives, mint flakes and vinegar; pour over fish. Cover and chill several hours. Serve as first course on western iceberg lettuce. Makes 4-6 servings.

Any favorite fish steaks may be used.

* * *

Shrimp-Fruit Kabobs may be cooked indoors or out. They suggest a buffet party. If you have a small hibachi, let your guests grill their own kabobs.

Shrimp Fruit Kabobs

1 cup orange juice
½ cup vinegar
⅓ cup salad oil
⅓ cup soy sauce
1 teaspoon salt
1 pound fresh shrimp, shelled and deveined, or 1 8-10 ounce package frozen shrimp, thawed
16 thin slices lime or lemon
16 maraschino cherries
1 large banana, cut in thick slices

Combine orange juice, vinegar, oil, soy sauce, and salt; blend. Add remaining ingredients. Chill 1 hour. Arrange shrimp, lime or lemon slices, cherries, and banana slices on 8 skewers. Reserve marinade.

Broil kabobs 3-4 inches from source of heat, or cook on outdoor grill 3 to 4 minutes on each side. Heat remaining marinade and serve as a sauce with kabobs. Makes 8 servings.

* * *

East Indian Tuna Salad

1 head romaine
1 head leaf lettuce
1 bunch watercress
3 cans (6½ or 7 ounces each) tuna in vegetable oil
Curry accompaniments
Curry Mayonnaise

Arrange salad greens and tuna in shallow serving dish, accompaniments in small bowls (chopped hard-cooked egg, finely diced green pepper, canned slivered, toasted almonds and flaked coconut). Let each person help himself to salad greens and tuna, adding any or all of the accompaniments. Serve Curry Mayonnaise separately. Yield: 6 servings.

Curry Mayonnaise

½ cup mayonnaise
½ cup dairy sour cream
1 teaspoon lemon juice
1 tablespoon wine vinegar
½ teaspoon salt
Pepper
½ teaspoon paprika
2 teaspoons curry powder
1 teaspoon sugar

Combine mayonnaise, sour cream, lemon juice and vinegar; mix well. Combine remaining ingredients; stir into mayonnaise mixture; mix well. Chill. Yield: Approximately 1 cup.

Carry Out Romance With Pink Desserts

With announcement parties in season and suppers to honor the future bride and groom, romance is in the air, which, of course, means, that pink desserts are now in demand.

* * *

You'll find these two very easy to make. They actually start with your baker.

Cherry Torte

1 (1¼ lb.) can frozen red cherries
⅞ cup confectioners' sugar
3 tablespoons cornstarch
2 tablespoons Cointreau
1 (10-inch) baker's angel food cake
1 cup heavy cream
1 tablespoon grated orange rind

Thaw cherries, drain off juice and save. Dissolve ¾ cup sugar and cornstarch in juice. Stirring constantly, heat until juice is thickened and just begin to boil. Stir in Cointreau and cherries; chill.

Slice cake into 3 equal-sized layers. Spread cherry filling between cake layers. Whip cream until it will hold its shape, then add 2 tablespoons sugar and continue whipping until thick.

Spread whipped cream over top and sides of torte. Sprinkle orange rind over top of cake. Serves 12-16.

Raspberry Meringue Stacks

12 slices enriched bread
2 egg yolks, unbeaten
¼ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons sugar
¼ teaspoon almond extract
1 cup milk
2 egg whites
4 tablespoons sugar
½ teaspoon almond extract
1 quart fresh raspberries or other fresh fruit

Trim crusts from bread; cut each slice in half. Combine egg yolks, salt, sugar and almond extract; beat slightly. Add milk.

Dip slices of bread in mixture and place on a greased cookie sheet. Bake in a 325-degree oven for thirty minutes. Remove from oven.

Beat egg whites until stiff. Add sugar gradually, continuing to beat until mixture stands up in peaks. Add almond extract. Top each slice of bread with meringue and return to oven for fifteen minutes, or until brown.

For individual servings, cover 6 slices of meringue toast with crushed raspberries, or other fresh fruit. Top each with another slice and garnish with more fruit.

Big Turkeys Are Economical

Back in the early 1500's, a new "luxury meat" was the talk of Europe — turkey. Brought back from the Americas by early explorers, turkey was a fad food, especially popular at banquets.

Today, turkey is especially popular for any type meal — snack, supper, or backyard banquet. And it's priced for pennywise pocketbooks.

* * *

U. S. Department of Agriculture home economists say, if you buy a turkey a little larger than you can use in one meal, you'll probably save money. Larger birds usually are priced less per pound. Furthermore, you'll get more actual meat per pound.

For each generous serving of turkey, allow ¾ to 1 pound of ready-to-cook weight for birds that are less than 12 pounds. (Remember that you may need more than one serving per person.) If your bird weighs 12 pounds or more, you can figure on ½ to ¾ pound per serving.

Today's turkeys come in all possible handy sizes for homemakers — from 3 to 30 pounds. Not at all a luxury, turkeys, according to USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service, will make thrifty eating and serving in July. They are in plentiful supply and are expected to be attractively priced.

Rocket Fails, Data Studied

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —Air Force investigators are studying five seconds of radioed data in an effort to determine what caused a Minuteman missile to explode.

The 55-foot intercontinental range rocket blew apart Tuesday night just after darting out of the 85-foot-deep launching pit for an intended 4,000-mile test flight.

The missile was an advanced Wing 2 model, of a type which the Defense Department declared operational earlier this month.

Industry Eying Disarmament Effects

BACKGROUND OF THE NEWS — AP SPECIAL REPORT

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—American industrialists are thinking about the possible effects of disarmament on the economy but aren't doing much about it.

Some think an end to the arms race is a pipe dream. Others believe there is a chance of reality.

* * *

U.S. Disarmament Administrator William C. Foster recently told businessmen: "It is not too early for the private sector to begin serious consideration of how to use effectively the resources released by disarmament."

Conceding there is little evidence that the Soviet Union is ready to abandon the cold war, Foster added: "But if and when they do, it would behoove us to be adequately prepared on the all-important economic front — prepared psychologically as well as physically to make the economic adjustments such a transition would require and which are within our means to carry out successfully."

* * *

An Associated Press survey of leading companies engaged in the defense program indicated executives feel the likelihood of disarmament is so remote that it isn't necessary to draw definite plans now.

PRODUCTION SHIFT

Most seemed agreed that if disarmament does come it will be possible to shift production from weapons to consumer goods without causing a depression.

Some whose companies are engaged in work for space exploration envision an acceleration of this phase of production, now lumped with the defense program.

A spokesman for the Garrett Corp. of Los Angeles said, "We consider total disarmament a pipe dream even if something happened to the Russians. Consequently, we anticipate that we will always have a substantial amount of military business."

* * *

Roy Marquardt, president of Marquardt Corp., another Los Angeles company engaged in defense work, said its firm is conducting long-range studies to determine the market potential of private business.

"As these large defense expenditures to other purposes without visibly affecting our over-all economy," he said.

William E. Zisch, president of Aerojet-General Corp., said the possibility of disarmament "is definitely not a pipe dream; it is a matter of realistic possibility and our planning takes this into account."

* * *

He said that in the last two or three years, most Aerojet-General expenditures for new facilities have been in support of nondefense programs.

Phone Crews Leave Posts

DETROIT (AP) — Long distance telephone operators walked out briefly yesterday to protest the dismissal of an operator, disrupting person-to-person and credit-card calls for 20 minutes.

* * *

American Telephone & Telegraph Co., spokesmen said 84 of 95 long-distance operators and some plant personnel walked out. They said supervisory personnel returned service "substantially to normal" after the initial disruption.

Speed It Was Scotch

ST. HELIER, Isle of Jersey (UPI)—Italian motorist Lansfranco Montecchi, 22, was fined 10 pounds ($28) for careless driving yesterday despite his plea that he drank so much English tea it put him to sleep at the wheel.

Love Thy Neighbor

DAVENTRY, England (UPI) — A magistrate found neighbors Mrs. Bridget Hickman and Mrs. Eileen Jones guilty of attacking each other, but paroled them yesterday on the condition they do not speak to each other for a year.

State Indians Still Powwow

PETOSKEY (AP)— Michigan Indians now have formal sounding organizations such as Northern Michigan Ottawa Association, but they still powwow.

Several hundred Michigan Ottawas, Chippewas and Pottowatomies start their two-day Indian powwow and Michigan Indian Princess Contest here Saturday in full costume, with a parade and dance performances scheduled.

Local and visiting Indians will exhibit Indian arts and crafts.

Performing Indian dance troupes include the Grand Valley Lodge Dancers from Grand Rapids, the North American Indian Club Dancers, Shawano Dancers from Detroit, Intertribal Dance Troupe of Detroit, Kewadin Indian Dancers and Petoskey's Manda-Bee-Kee Dancers.

* * *

Miss Michigan Indian Princess will be named Saturday night. Seven girls are competing for the honor.

Irregular Rise

Mart Advances in Lively Trade

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market advanced in livelier trading early today, shrugging off news that the Federal Reserve Board had raised the discount rate.

It was an irregular rise, but advances of fractions to about a point outnumbered losers by a fair margin.

★ ★ ★

The market was mixed in a cautious opening, then gained confidence and moved higher. The hike in interest rates was generally anticipated.

Wall Street digested reports that the increase was aimed more at stemming the nation's gold outflow than at pouring cold water over the economy.

Chrysler advanced a full point in a continued rebound from sharp profit taking. Other major auto stocks were about unchanged.

As steels nudged ahead, Bethlehem, U.S. Steel and Republic added fractions.

Polaroid received attention because of news about its new camera and the stock was up a couple of points. IBM and Xerox rose about 3 each and U.S. Smelting about 2.

★ ★ ★

Control Data and Electronic Associates rose about a point each.

A report that Singer Co. plans to acquire Friden, Inc., was followed by a drop of nearly 2 points by Singer.

Friden was delayed in opening amid reports of "big buyers" due to the proposed terms of the stock swap involved in the proposed acquisition.

Electrical Equipments, Aerospace Issues and Chemicals were generally higher. Tobaccos, drugs and rubbers took slight losses. Rails were mostly on the downside.

★ ★ ★

Opening blocks included: Sunray DX Oil, unchanged at 35 on 20,000 shares; Chrysler, up ½ at 60 on 5,500; and U.S. Smelting, up 1⅛ at 84⅝ on 3,000.

Yesterday the Associated Press average of 60 stocks dipped .4 to 269.0.

Prices were mixed on the American Stock Exchange.

Corporate bonds were mostly steady.

Union May Call Seaway Tieup

Canadian Labor Head Threatens Retaliation

PORT COLBORNE, Ont. (AP)—The Canadian Maritime Union (CMU) says it will block the St. Lawrence Seaway if the government doesn't take immediate action against the rival Seafarers' International Union (SIU).

★ ★ ★

CMU President John Staples issued the ultimatum yesterday after publication of a judge's report calling for drastic government action against the SIU.

Staples again charged the SIU with harassing CMU-manned vessels in U.S. ports and said his union "will be forced to take retaliatory measures" unless the government intervenes.

The CMU tied up the Seaway July 5, 1962 for 30 hours in retaliation against the SIU. The waterway was not reopened until the government promised to investigate the SIU.

That inquiry, by British Columbia Justice T. G. Norris, recommended that Hal C. Banks, American-born boss of the SIU, be run out of office. It also proposed that a three-man trusteeship take over the waterfront unions in an effort to bring labor peace on the Great Lakes.

Labor Minister Allen V. MacEachen is studying the possibility of legislation based on the Norris report.

"We will be meeting next week to decide what our position will be if the government decides to sit on this report," Staples said. "We're giving the government until then to act.

"We are trying to be as patient and law abiding as we can. But in the face of the SIU disregard for the law in the United States we can't see any other way but to take drastic steps."

Banking Courses Start in September

The Oakland County chapter of the American Institute of Banking is offering five courses later this summer, open to all area bankers.

Being offered are courses in credit administration, starting Sept. 5 at the Royal Oak branch of the Wayne Oakland Bank; economics, starting Sept. 5 at the Community National Bank; and commercial law, starting Sept. 9 at Birmingham's Seaholm High School.

Also being offered are courses in bank operation, starting Sept. 9 at the Royal Oak branch of the Wayne Oakland Bank; and effective bank letters, starting Sept. 10 at the Community National Bank.

All courses begin at 7 p.m. and are of a three-hour duration. They meet once each week for 14 weeks.

Plants Face Quick Closing If Rails Strike

NEW YORK (AP)—A railroad strike would mean some steel mills and auto plants would close almost immediately, says Iron Age magazine.

The trade publication said steel mills are pretty well supplied with raw materials, but they need trains to deliver finished products. Many would close rather than clog their warehouses.

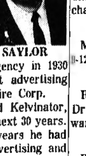
★ ★ ★

Some auto assembly plants unable to switch to trucks or barges for supplies might have to shut down within hours after a strike, the magazine said.

It said few firms seem to have arranged for alternate shipping. Iron Age said one firm reported it would take 600 trucks to handle shipping done by 200 rail cars, and it could not accommodate that many trucks at its loading docks.

Business Notes

Wilbur E. Saylor of 1535 Island, Bloomfield Township, has rejoined the advertising firm, Geyer, Morey, Ballard, Inc., as copy chief in charge of the Kelvinator account, Richard J. Farricker, president of the agency, announced today.



SAYLOR

Saylor left the agency in 1930 to become assistant advertising manager of Frigidaire Corp.

In 1932, he joined Kelvinator, where he spent the next 30 years. For the past nine years he had been director of advertising and sales promotion for the American Motors division.

A former Oakland County deputy sheriff, Gordon F. Hodges of 1232 Dundee, Waterford Township, has been named assistant manager of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company's Harper Woods branch office.

He had been insurance consultant at the company's Pontiac branch since 1960. He joined the firm in 1958.

Replacing him as insurance consultant at Metropolitan is Gerald L. Noggle, an agent for the firm since 1962. He lives at 3052 Welch, Commerce Township.

Canadian Plant Votes to Affiliate With UAW

WINDSOR, Ont. (AP)—The nearly 500 officeworkers of Chrysler Canada Ltd. have approved the United Auto Workers Union as their bargaining representative, the UAW announced yesterday.

A union certificate vote resulted in 270 votes for the UAW and 198 for no union, George Burt, UAW Canadian regional director, said.

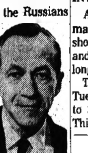
Midsummer Plague

Business in Stalemate

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK — Stalemate psychology is plaguing both the stock market and business planners at midsummer. Too many problems are at the maybe-yes, maybe-no stage today for comfort.

In Moscow maybe the Russians are ready for first steps that could in time lead to lightening the disarmament cost burden for taxpayers, and maybe they aren't. What that will or won't mean to many companies with defense contracts, present or prospective, Wall Street would like to know.



DAWSON

The rail labor strife may be settled by the President's study panel or by the Congress, and maybe it can't be without at least the calling of a strike. And then maybe the rails would be seized and maybe they wouldn't. Shippers would like to know, and so would businessmen worrying about inventories. And so would the truck and barge lines.

Civil rights legislation may come to a climax soon or may be dragged out further. The uncertainty isn't good for business now. And the threat of increased racial strife in many parts of the nation could disrupt much business planning. The problem could last long after its day in Congress.

Tax legislation is at the critical stage in Congress. And how it may finally turn out and what it will do to business in a major uncertainty just now.

★ ★ ★

A tax cut could spur business activity. Or, some say, it could merely lay the foundation for future inflation by increasing the federal deficit.

INTEREST RATES

At the moment the financial markets are wondering how high short-term interest rates will go and if this in turn will push up long-term borrowing costs, too.

The Federal Reserve Board Tuesday raised the discount rate to 3½ per cent from 3 per cent. This charge by Federal Reserve banks to member banks for what they borrow usually sets the pace for all short-term rates, such as charges that commercial banks make for loans to businessmen. This may or may not affect long-term rates. Those charged on mortgages, corporate bonds, municipal bonds.

★ ★ ★

The stalemate here is between two prime monetary aims—checking the deficit in the balance of payments and promoting more business activity that could provide more jobs.

If the long-term interest rates go up too high and too soon, some fear the business growth that picked up this spring could be deflated. And deflation often is more of a bugaboo to businessmen than is inflation.

But increased short-term yields are backed by those hoping to discourage further outflow of investment funds. Their flight to other money capitals where interest rates are higher has been a major reason for the deficit in international payments that has resulted in piling up of surplus dollars abroad. Some have been turned in for gold and drained U.S. reserves. Many more could be, if the value of the American dollar is doubted.

And another stalemate just now is politics. Business more and more is involved in government actions at the three government levels, federal, state and local.

So businessmen, like everyone else, are watching the current strife in political circles. Will the Republican presidential nominee be New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, generally tagged a liberal, or Arizona's Sen. Barry Goldwater, symbol for conservatism? Or will it be a businessman turned official, like Michigan's Gov. George Romney, or some dark horse, professional politician?

And will the 1964 campaign have government-business-labor relations as an important issue?

Mid-July is as full of stalemates as vacationers.

To Re-Examine Issues on Port

LANSING (AP)—Two controversial port authority issues which died on the 1961 legislative session will be examined anew in a series of three hearings by lawmakers next month.

House and Senate interim committees, headed by Rep. Oscar Bouwsma, R-Muskegon, and Sen. Clyde Geerlings, R-Holland, have agreed to hold joint hearings in Detroit, Muskegon and Lansing.

Testimony will concern legislation which would permit port districts to accept gifts from private sources, and a change in the vote requirement for approval of a port bond issue.

Proposals to allow ports to receive gifts from nongovernmental sources, and to lower the vote passage requirement from 60 per cent to a simple majority were introduced in the 1963 session by Bouwsma.

Both passed the House but died in Senate committee.

Geerlings said the hearings will be held because there were contradictions in testimony given this year and in the 1957 hearings in the Senate on problems of the St. Lawrence Seaway.

He said the Senate decided further hearings should be held "to resolve the matter."

Successful Investing

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q) "A stock which I am interested in is recommended because it is selling below its book value. Could you explain what this means?" B. F.

A) I'm happy to. Book value is an accounting term which is not always clearly understood by investors. It's really quite simple.

Book value is determined by adding up all the assets of a company, then deducting all debts and other liabilities. This sum is then divided by the number of common shares outstanding to arrive at the book value per share.

This is one of the many fundamental calculations made in the evaluation of common stocks, but you should never confuse it with earning power, which is considerably more important.

As a rule, shares of situations operating in declining or depressed industries can be expected to sell under their book value since there is relatively little demand for such stocks. On the other hand, companies in rapidly growing, popular fields are often bid up to prices far above book value.

Q) "We have a savings account of $5,000 which we feel is ample for an emergency. Under normal conditions, we will be able to save about $1,000 a year. We own Duquesne Light, Air Reduction and American Can. Should we buy more American Can or Long Island Lighting even if they are rather high rate right now?" E. L.

A) I congratulate you on the conservative maner in which you have invested your money.

The stocks you own are not rated highly for growth but they are good income issues, which I assume is what you want. American Can's diversification moves have helped some, but they have also diluted earnings through the greater number of shares outstanding after merger transactions. No real growth has been shown here since 1955.

On the other hand, Long Island Lighting (NYSE) continues to benefit from above average growth in its area. On that basis, the stock doesn't appear too high, and I advise you to buy these shares.

Mr. Spear cannot answer all mail personally but will answer all questions possible in his column.

Photogs Take Thrill Ride in Rubber Rafts

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

How would you react in an emergency if you had a camera handy? Would you think of taking pictures or would you put aside the camera to see what was going on and what you could do?

There is no pat answer to the question that will fit all emergencies for all people but I came very close to finding out my own reaction recently.

At the same time, the question was answered for several amateur and one professional photographer.

* * *

The amateur photographers put aside their cameras to look and try to help the victims of a boating accident. The professional saw that the victims were getting help and tried to take pictures but his camera angle was blocked, he said.

Later, he did shoot when he was in a better position, although the story-telling peak of danger had passed.

The occasion was a weekend trip to the snow-topped Grand Teton Mountains in Wyoming for the press premiere of "Spencer's Mountain."

The movie had been shot in the rugged Jackson Hole area of Grand Teton National Park and the spectacular scenery vied with the stars, Henry Fonda, Maureen O'Hara, for top billing.

RAFT TRIP

Among the activities for the press was a rubber raft trip down the fast-moving, winding waters of the Snake River.

Five rafts were waiting and the group of men and women found places on a chance basis. Three larger rafts held 10 boatmen guides.

Two smaller rafts seated five passengers each and a guide. Many of the passengers carried cameras to record the trip and scenery.

* * *

Our large raft was the first to cast off and led the way. I took a picture of the rafts following but found it very difficult to shoot our own craft because we were packed so close.

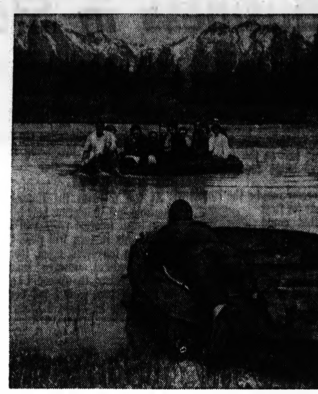
It was risky to stand up for elevation and I only tried it once. We soon lost sight of the other rafts behind a bend in the river.

The swift-moving current became small rapids in places and turned us completely around several times and gave us two exciting moments.

Once we couldn't bypass a fallen tree in mid river. We slid right over it. Then, at a bend in the river, we seemed headed for a tree leaning at an oblique angle from the river edge.

The guides paddled hard to make the turn but it became apparent we couldn't miss the tree entirely. We all crouched low in the raft, shielding our faces.

The rear of the raft missed the trunk of the tree but we sheared off the dead branches with our arms and backs. In neither case did I try to take a picture.



UNPLANNED — It was a happy landing for these photographers after a close call on the Snake River, Wyo. One raft sank, tossing six men into the ice-cold water. Two were rescued; four swam to safety.

Our trip over, we waited a long time, it seemed, before the other rafts appeared. I photographed the approaching craft automatically. Then, when it landed, we discovered that our thrilling ride was child's play compared with their experience.

One of the smaller rafts had met with disaster in going over a log. For the first time in 17 years, a raft was ripped apart and sank within seconds. The occupants, six men, went under in the ice-cold river.

Two of the men could not swim and, in addition, were saddled with cameras around their necks.

Fortunately, the other three rafts were all very close by and one of the nonswimmers was within grabbing reach. He was hauled aboard by the seat of his dignity by a lady editor who had no time to be embarrassed.

The other nonswimmer was in danger but his predicament was spotted by the boatman tossed into the water. The guide swam to his rescue and hauled him to safety.

The other three editors made their own way to safety, helped by the rafts present. One of them a correspondent for Swedish newspapers, went down when the raft sank with a monocle in his eye and a cigarette holder in his teeth.

He came up and swam to safety with the monocle in his eye and the cigarette holder still clamped in his teeth.

During this dramatic episode, none of the occupants of the three rescue rafts took a photo of the men in the river, though many had cameras. One young lady probably expressed their feelings.

She said she had her movie camera in her hand at the moment of the accident but the thought of taking pictures never occurred to her in the shock of the event. Instead she put her camera down and tried to help fish the victims out of the water.

* * *

The professional photographer was in the same raft. He said his first concern was for the victims but when it became apparent that they were getting all the help needed, he tried to take pictures.

He didn't succeed, however, because his camera angle was blocked in the close quarters of the raft.

He got back into photographic action later when the victims took off some of their wet clothes and put on dry sweaters and coats offered by others present.

I believe it's a rare photographer who can take pictures in moments of extreme stress or great danger. It takes nerves of steel, a cool, calculating head and steady hands. I'm not at all anxious to find out if I qualify. How about you?

Jury Acquits Wreath-Layers

Detroit Men Protested U. N. Katanga Action

DETROIT (AP) — After deliberating 24 minutes, a Recorder's Court jury yesterday acquitted two men of charges they disturbed the peace here when they laid a wreath at the feet of United Nations Undersecretary Ralph Bunche.

* * *

The incident occurred May 18 when Dr. Bunche spoke at the American Baptist Convention in Cobo Hall.

The defendants, Edward A. Kelly, 37, of Mount Clemens and Jack Barrett, 25, of Detroit, said they were protesting Dr. Bunche's role in the Katanga crisis in Africa.

They hung on the podium a wreath and a ribbon with the words, "In memory of the victims of U.N. aggression in Katanga."

Defense attorney Larry S. Davidow told the jury the two men created no disturbance.

* * *

He said, "These two young men feeling as they did about atrocities committed by the United Nations representatives in Katanga — and a lot of that occurred when Bunche was there — they felt they wanted him to know the American people were not in accord with rape and murder of the Katanga people, destruction of their homes and bombing of their hospitals."

* * *

Davidow said the men quietly walked out after placing the wreath and issued a news release explaining what they did. He said they were arrested later by policemen who hadn't seen what took place in the hall.

Air Masses Cause Our Dry Spell

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Large, dry air masses moving down from Canada to block moist air masses from the Gulf are responsible for the drought Michigan and the Midwest have been having lately, University of Michigan meteorologists believe.

The weather scientists report that the dry masses are borne by high altitude winds and block the moist air — causing the rains to fall elsewhere. They add that this also accounts for recent record cold nights.

However, meteorological theory can't yet explain what causes the movement of these high altitude winds — unusual for this time of year.

U. of M. meteorologists and engineers are deeply involved in the search for the answer and one of the more effective means of learning about these and similar weather problems has been the series of Tiros weather satellites.

TAKE PICTURES

The satellites take television pictures and photographs of large cloud formations and corresponding wind patterns, and measure the earth's heat balance with sensitive instruments.

The heat balance is the difference between energy received from the sun and that re-radiated or reflected by the earth.

U. of M. meteorologists, under National Aeronautics and Space Administration sponsorship, are interpreting such information from the Tiros satellite to fit it into weather theory.

Over the past three years, a group of aeronautical engineers — members of the high altitude engineering laboratory — have been "checking out" Tiros instruments by flying them in packages beneath huge 11-story high balloons which soar up to 120,000 feet.

Their efforts not only have proved the capability of Tiros instruments, but also have provided a basis for comparison and evaluation of the data the Tiros satellites radio back.

On Probation for Burglary

A 24-year-old Pontiac man was placed on three years' probation yesterday for his May 24 burglary of Bill's Standard Service, 427 S. Saginaw.

Alfred Campbell of 273 Harrison was sentenced by Circuit Judge Arthur E. Moore. Campbell pleaded guilty June 25.

An adding machine and a tire were taken in the break-in.

Committee Will Consider Lake Level Control Costs

The county supervisors' drain committee is slated to meet tomorrow to consider the cost of having water levels of 15 lakes in Waterford and Independence townships legally established and maintained.

* * *

County Drain Commissioner Daniel W. Barry, who would be responsible for the project if approved, said his engineers are working on cost estimates now, and that they should be ready for tomorrow's meeting.

If the project is deemed feasible by the drain committee, a proposal will be presented to the supervisors' ways and means committee Monday morning.

The ways and means committee is responsible for deciding on county expenditures before they are presented to the full board of supervisors for approval.

* * *

Lakes being considered in the proposal are in two groups which, according to Barry, can be controlled at two separate dam sites on the Clinton River by diverting river water into them at peak flow periods.

At the present time, more than enough excess flow is being carried into Lake St. Clair each spring to adequately maintain the lake levels throughout the year, said Barry.

One lakes group, forming the headwaters of the Clinton, includes Williams, Maceday, Lotus, Van Norman, Lester, Greens, Dollar and Cemetery lakes.

* * *

Levels for this group can be controlled by a dam where the river forms the Waterford Mill Pond, said Barry.

There already is a privately owned dam at this location which the county would have to acquire, he said.

* * *

The second group comprises Lake Angelus, Mohawk, Wormer, Schoolhouse, Upper Silver, Silver and Loon lakes.

These can be controlled by dams at the State Conservation Department's no-longer used fish hatchery in Waterford Township, according to Barry.

He said the department is willing to turn the dams over to the county for a nominal $1 fee if the board of supervisors makes a formal request.

* * *

The drain committee already has agreed to ask the supervisors to waive the circulation of lake-level petitions among lake-front property owners if the project is deemed economically feasible.

The board of supervisors can waive its petition requirement by declaring the establishment of lake levels is "in the interests of public health and welfare."

Crops in State Helped by Rain

LANSING (AP) — Lower Michigan crops got at least temporary relief from dry soil because of last weekend's soaking rain, reports the federal-state crop reporting service.

* * *

Late reports indicated there was little runoff of the rain and little water left standing in fields. Gusty winds in some areas caused grains to lodge, it was reported.

The service said field and vegetable crops responded quickly to the new moisture but tree fruits need more rain.

* * *

The grain harvest was active last week, with more than one-half the state's winter barley in and the wheat harvest off to a good start.

* * *

Early cabbage, celery, lettuce, peas, pickles and early tomatoes were harvested in volume last week, and the strawberry harvest was about done.

* * *

Sweet and tart cherries, raspberries and early blueberries were among the fruit crops being harvested.

Condition Improves for Accident Victim

Reported in improved condition today at Pontiac General Hospital is Sally Blosser, 20, of 27 Ramone. She was injured in a two-car crash in Orion Township, Monday.

* * *

Miss Blosser, who received severe cuts and possible fractures in the accident, was first listed in serious condition.

The crash was on Lapeer Road, opposite the Orion Medical Center.

* * *

Company Founder Dies From Stroke

Service for former Pontiac resident Sherry H. Montgomery, founder of the White Owl Express Co., will be at 2 p.m. tomorrow in the Donelson-Johns Funeral Home with burial in Perry Mount Park Cemetery.

Mr. Montgomery, 83, of 1107 E. Lemon, Lakeland, Fla. died of a stroke yesterday after a three-week illness.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Charles R. Shaw of Salem, Ore. and Mrs. Olin E. LaBarge of Pontiac; two sons, Byron C. and Donald R., both of Pontiac; six grandchildren; five great-grandchildren; and a brother.

OK Bond Issuance for Sewer Project

FARMINGTON TOWNSHIP — The State Muncipal Finance Commission has approved issuance of special assessment bonds to finance a $198,000 sewer project here.

The Old Farm Colony subdivision is to be served by an arm and laterals from the township sewer lines. The arm will be constructed from Shiawassee to 10-Mile Road.

The area to receive sewer service is roughly a mile square.

At Least Son-in-Law

WICHITA, Kan. (UPI) — Mr. and Mrs. Sam Springer moved into their son-in-law's home while he was on vacation "so it wouldn't be robbed."

Shortly after they moved in, according to police, burglars slipped in and made off with an estimated $65,000 worth of Mrs. Springer's jewelry.

No Joke in Theft of Ducks

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A Municipal Court judge presiding over the trial of two men accused of "ducknaping" made it clear today he saw nothing funny in the case and would tolerate no more laughter from tittering spectators.

* * *

Raymond Lopez, 71, and Steven Newrocky, 61, are on trial for petty theft because a policeman arrested them as they carried more than a dozen ducks from MacArthur Park near downtown.

The defendants contend they wanted to care for the ducks, because of "improper feeding" in the park.

Yesterday, Sgt. James A. Branch testified he saw the two men loading the ducks into an auto.

"Where did the ducks come from, officer?" said attorney Julian Harmon, seeking to establish how the ducks got into the park.

* * *

"I assume from eggs," was the reply, which resulted in laughter from spectators. At that point, Judge Howard H. Schmidt warned he would remove spectators if there were further outbursts.

* * *

The case has a tragic overtone, since Mrs. Venceslava Hanush, Los Angeles, committed suicide in San Francisco June 14. Also arrested, she left a note saying she couldn't bear the humiliation.

City Man Asks Examination on Stabbing Charge

A 68-year-old Pontiac man yesterday asked for examination on a felonious assault charge in the knifing of a neighbor July 12.

James L. Chambers, 565 Montana, denied stabbing Jessie Williams, 38, of 599 Montana, during an argument in front of Chambers' home.

* * *

Municipal Judge Maurice E. Finnegan released Chambers on personal bond to appear for examination July 24.

* * *

Williams is reported in satisfactory condition with an abdomen wound at Pontiac General Hospital.

TO WED — Dr. Robert E. Boehme, 43, acquitted last year of a charge of attempting to kill his wife Dorothy, will wed his former sister-in-law, Mrs. Mary Boehme (above). Mrs. Boehme refused to testify against the doctor, whose wife died several months after the trial.

Vote to Decide Phone Contract

Union Members Set Ratification Election

Members of Pontiac Local 4012 of the Communications Workers of America (CWA) will vote tomorrow whether to accept or reject the recently negotiated contract between the CWA and Michigan Bell Telephone Co.

The ratification vote is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. in the meeting room at 21½ E. Lawrence.

Local 4012 president Robert J. Parker said this morning that he is recommending that the new 38-month contract be approved despite what he described as glaring weaknesses.

The new contract — described by CWA president Joseph A. Beirne as "without precedent in the communications industry" — provides wage, health, retirement and vacation improvements valued at 20 cents for the average Michigan Bell worker.

However, the new agreement does not contain any Local 4012 objectives, according to Parker.

* * *

These included town reclassification, a correction in alleged job structure inequities and a revision of the company's attendance control program.

The ratification vote by the 15,000 Michigan Bell employes represented by the CWA is expected to be completed by next Monday.

'English Experienced in Writing Constitutions'

LONDON (UPI) — Colonial secretary Duncan Sandys, opening the Malta independence talks yesterday, offered this explanation of constitutional problems:

"We in Britain have no constitution of our own, but we have quite a lot of experience in writing constitutions for other people."

200 Strive for Spots in Jr. Olympics

Some 200 Waterford Township boys and girls competed yesterday in Junior Olympics events to determine local representatives in the Detroit Metropolitan Youth Fitness finals next week in Livonia.

* * *

Winners of events in 42 metropolitan communities will compete July 25 at the Livonia Athletic Field.

Yesterday's competition in Waterford Township, conducted by Paul Atkins, was confined to three categories. Class A included youngsters 14 and 15; Class B, 12 and 13; and Class C, 10 and 11.

The Waterford winners were:

SOFTBALL THROW — Jim Kesselring and Wanda Austreng in Class A, Darwin Clement and Pam Godoshian in Class B and Bill Poe and Linda Motzny in Class C.

STANDING BROAD JUMP — Class A, Gary Western and Patricia Atkins; Class B, Bonnie Flook and Steve Thompson and Class C, Dan Deering and Pat Searle.

RUNNING BROAD JUMP — Class A, Dave Ferriss and Pam Godoshian; Class B, Jim Ball and Darlene Morse; Class C, Doug Jerolaman and Sue Gratz.

HOP, STEP AND JUMP — Class A, Jerry Beseau and Debbie McNair; Class B, Dana Hilthon and Gail Strader; Class C, Mike Dillard and Kathie Budnik.

50-YARD DASH — Class A, Lee Pearsall and Renee Mosher; Class B, Arturo Sambrano and Linda Olsen; Class C, Mike Sheldon and Debbie Strohmeyer.

Winners in the chinning events in which only boys competed were Rick Chidester in Class A, Leroy Serton in Class B and Danny Sweet in Class C.

* * *

Pam Godoshian will be seeking a second consecutive victory in the softball throw in this year's finals. She was Waterford Township's only winner last year.

Darlene Morse won four events yesterday but is allowed to compete in only one event in the finals, the running broad jump.

SEALED BIDS FOR THE SALE OF 1954 GMC school bus will be received at the Dublin School, White Lake Twp., Dist. #1, 4080 Sandyside Drive, Union Lake, Michigan, until 4:00 o'clock, p.m., on Monday, August 12, 1963. Bus may be inspected at school address.
