

Rabbi Joseph Risks Criticism, Demands Jesus' Body

EDITOR'S NOTE-In Jesus' direct and darkest hours, support for Him came not from His customary friends and co-workers, but from comparative strangers, including two rabbinical scholars. This, the fourth in a five-part Easter series, tells of one of them, Joseph of Arimathea.

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

Shades of disgrace trailed him. Reproachful eyes peered from behind the hedges and tongues of slander whispered against him, as they did against the prophets of old.

"Denounce him! Let us denounce him!" Joseph of Arimathea walked a treacherous path.

It had led him into conflict with his class, into challenging his own judicial order, into defense of a convicted capital offender and at last, into claiming the man's body from the Roman satrap who condemned him.

Joseph, the warm-hearted and eloquent country rabbi who had risen to distinction in the leading institutions of the Holy City, followed a road that could bring him to ruin.

It descended into the dark desert of the Cross.

But for him, there was no turning back. "Like a weaver, I have rolled up my life."

"Give me this stranger," he requested of Pilate, in a bold and direct confrontation with that giggling ruler, a scene noted in Scripture and detailed in other early Christian literature.

After each round of argument, Joseph repeated his insistent plea, "Give me this stranger."

Pilate, disturbed and dubious at first, warned that it seemed provocative and ill-advised in this messy case.

Finally, however, after sum-

moning the centurion in charge of the execution to verify that Jesus was dead, the governor testily consented, "Take Him!"

U.S. Officials Boost City Plan

Initial reaction of federal officials to downtown Pontiac redevelopment plans is encouraging, city officials said today following a trip to Chicago.

Pontiac officials, headed by Mayor William H. Taylor Jr. and City Manager Joseph A. Warren, unveiled for the first time to Housing and Urban Development (HUD) authorities the redevelopment proposal by A. Alfred Taubman.

Regional HUD officials found the plan for an enclosed mall shopping center "very acceptable," according to Taylor.

Promises of cooperation to further develop the plans were received, he said. HUD will work closely with the developer, the City Commission and city staff personnel, reported Taylor.

While only exploratory meetings were held yesterday with the regional Land Disposition and Legal Section, there was some discussion of the mechanics for disposal of the land.

Two alternatives were presented for disposition of the land. Both are acceptable, said Taylor.

One alternative would be to develop or sell outright to him.

LOOK AT BOTH

Taylor said the city's bond counsel, also present at yesterday's meeting, is to explore both alternatives.

Taylor said urban renewal plan changes to accommodate the Taubman proposal do not appear to be as complicated as was first anticipated.

However, Taylor reiterated that it will take several months to work out legal details and the mechanics of the Taubman plan.

The agenda for the Chicago trip also included meetings on the city's 1966 Workable Program for Community Improvement, which had been returned by HUD.

SUBMITTED AGAIN

Furnishing additional information, the Workable Program was resubmitted yesterday.

The contingent of local officials that visited HUD officials yesterday were told that the city may have to hire an additional person for the code enforcement program.

SECOND PERSON

This would be in addition to the full-time building inspector the city already has agreed to hire and assign to the program.

Taylor also reported that HUD officials suggested three more persons be added to the six-member committee on minority group housing.

These three individuals would be a person connected with banking, a person connected with real estate and a person connected with a minority group.

Annual recertification of the Workable Program is necessary for the city to receive any new federal aid.

CHARLES B. WOODHEAD

Leader Named for UF Division

Pontiac District Manager of the Michigan Bell Telephone Company Charles B. Woodhead will head commercial division efforts of the 1966 Pontiac Area United Fund drive, it was announced today.

Woodhead of 433 Parkdale, Rochester, will begin immediately to fill campaign posts within the division for the annual drive in October, according to Donald O. Tatroe, general chairman.

He will require the services of about 700 volunteers to cover government, education, and the professions, as well as small companies with nine or fewer employees.

Last year Woodhead served the UF as former plans chairman, and a member of the speaker bureau.

He is active in several area chambers of commerce and currently serves as president of the Rochester Area Chamber of Commerce and director of the Lake Orion Chamber.

Woodhead is married and has two daughters.

Awards Ceremony Honors 18 City Policemen, Civilian

Eighteen Pontiac policemen and a civilian were formally honored yesterday afternoon in an awards ceremony at City Hall attended by some 120 persons.

The awards, certificates for "meritorious service" and "bravery," were presented jointly in the City Commission chambers by Police Chief William K. Hanger and Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley.

Kelley attended the ceremony at the invitation of Hanger and spoke to the group for about 20 minutes prior to presentation of the awards.

The civilian honored for "meritorious service" by the department was Garcia Leonel, 22, of 339 E. Pike who apprehended two teen-agers, one of them armed, in the midst of a robbery last Sept. 13.

The certificate cited Leonel for "quick, decisive action with disregard of his own safety or thought of reward."

Policemen receiving awards included 12 patrolmen, three detectives, and three officers.

MULTIPLE AWARDS

Patrolman Raymond V. Solow was the recipient of three separate merit citations, while Detective James F. Fritz was cited once for meritorious service and once for bravery.

Details of the awards are as follows:

BRavery AWARDS

Sgt. Herbert C. Cooley, Detective James F. Fritz and patrolmen George Scheuern and Billy S. Hargraves, who together disarmed and arrested a man Aug. 16 shortly after a policeman had been shot.

Bravery: Former patrolman Robert F. Rowland, who returned fire at a man Aug. 16 after being shot in the chest, assisting other officers in making the arrest.

Recovery Ends Long Search in Mediterranean

Missing Since B52 and Tanker Aircraft Collided on Jan. 17

MADRID (AP) — An American H-bomb missing since the crash of a U.S. nuclear bomber Jan. 17, has been recovered from the Mediterranean off Spain's southeast coast, it was officially announced today.

The bomb, which was lost when a B52 bomber and a tanker plane collided over Palomares Beach, was recovered by a U.S. naval task force which had been searching the sea depths for more than two months.

The bomb was located in 2,500 feet of water about five miles offshore on March 15 by the midjet sub Alvin.

It was found almost exactly where Francisco Simo, a Spanish fisherman, told the searchers he saw a strange object fall into the Mediterranean after the crash.

A U.S. spokesman said the bomb was pulled up by the small submarine rescue vessel Petrel. A 1,550-ton vessel, the Petrel is jammed with special

County Districting Is Snarled

LANSING (AP) — The future of county government in Michigan apparently lies in a tangle of State Supreme Court opinions, two pending legislative bills and probably ultimately in the U.S. Supreme Court.

A change of mind by State Supreme Court Justice Eugene Black seemingly nullified Tuesday's court decision which had ruled in favor of one-man, one-vote representation on county boards of supervisors.

But not all the justices agreed this was the case.

Meanwhile:

- Several parties to one supervisor apportionment case indicated they'd go to the U.S. Supreme Court.
- A State Senate committee prepared to deal with a House-approved bill which would implement one-man, one-vote representation but might be unconstitutional.
- And deals reportedly were being worked out which would improve the chances for a more comprehensive county home rule bill to win legislative approval.

Developments reached one climax Tuesday when the eight-member State Supreme Court voted 4-3 to uphold a decision by Kent County Circuit Judge Fred N. Searl in favor of one-man one-vote representation and to reverse Muskegon County Circuit Judge Henry Beers' ruling against the concept.

Chief Justice Thomas Kavanagh ruled the four Democratic votes were sufficient to bring on one-man, one-vote representation because they were a majority of those voting in the cases.

But yesterday, Black, who had abstained, added his vote to the Republican threesome, creating a 4-4 deadlock.

In a parallel development, the high court attempted to issue an order dismissing a suit brought by 34 persons against the state's present one-man-one-vote districting of the Legislature.

The same thinking was applied to the March legislative districting decision as was used Tuesday on the county question, that is: four justices upheld it; three opposed it, and one did not vote on the issue.

Some Offices Close Friday

All city, state and county offices will be closed tomorrow from noon to 3 p.m. in observance of Good Friday.

Federal offices will remain open all day, as will the post offices.

Local banks and stores will be open all day, shifting their staffs so those who choose may attend church services.

Waterford Township offices will close at noon and remain closed the rest of the day.

News Flashes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Several thousand highly trained Army enlisted men with important skills will be pulled out of Europe over the next few months, it was learned today. The soldiers to be withdrawn will be returned to the United States to beef-up combat units, including those eventually destined for Vietnam, and to strengthen the training structure.

HOUSTON (AP) — Joe Foss resigned today as commissioner of the American Football League.

Weather Key Factor for Masters Golfers

By BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

AUGUSTA, Ga.—The weather has suddenly become an important factor in the first round of the 30th Masters Golf Championship that started this morning at Augusta National Golf Club.

Dark clouds, gusty winds up to 20 miles an hour and light sprinkles covered the course just after the noon hour with the temperature hovering around 60 degrees.

The weatherman, however, optimistically insisted there would be no heavy rain that might prevent the opening round from being completed.

The entire field of players was on the course with the early twosomes having completed their rounds and the final group—a threesome made up of Bob Rosburg, Bob McCallister and Cesar Samudio—teeing off at 2:06.

As the sun faded and the winds grew stronger, scores also became higher.

LATE STARTERS

The favorites of the tournament — Jack Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer and Gary Player — were all late starters.

Among the early scorers, Don January of Dallas, Texas, posted a one-under-par 71.

January commented about the sudden change in the weather. "It was fortunate to play my first nine without any wind but the back nine was a different situation altogether."

"If the winds continue to blow as they are, the late starters will certainly encounter the problems."

Snow Flurries, Overcast Skies Will Continue

Snow flurries, coming and going through tonight, will end tomorrow.

Skies will continue partly overcast through Saturday with temperatures on the warming trend.

The weatherman said the mercury is expected to fall to 27 to 34 tonight, climbing to 40 to 48 tomorrow.

Thirty-one was the low in downtown Pontiac prior to 8 a.m. The thermometer reading was 41 at 2 p.m.

Mystery Veils W. Berlin Red Jet Crash

Legislature Okays 9th County Judge

The addition of a ninth judge to the Oakland County Circuit bench was given final legislative approval yesterday by members of the House.

Only the governor's signature is needed for the measure to become law.

The bill creates six other new judgeships in circuits in southern Lower Michigan at a cost to the state of about $105,000 for salaries.

Originated in the Senate by Sen. Haskell Nichols, R-Jackson, the bill increases the number of judges in other circuits from one judge in Jackson County, to five in Kent County, to two in Allegan-Ottawa counties, to three in Washtenaw County and to two in Monroe County.

The new judges would be elected in November for six-year terms beginning Jan. 1, 1967.

TWO OTHERS

Besides the ninth judge, two others are to be elected in Oakland County.

The eighth position was created by the Legislature last fall and has yet to be filled.

The third vacancy occurred with the death last summer of Judge Stanton G. Dondero.

Though the new judgeship increases the chances of election for the growing list of candidates, it presents an added problem to county officials.

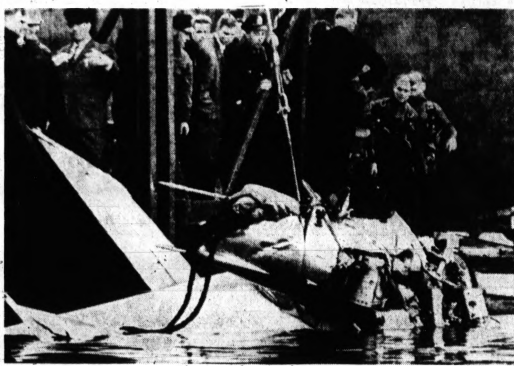

COURTS, OFFICES

They are faced with providing courts and offices for all three new judges.

Presently there are only six circuit courts in the county building. A new wing is planned, which will ease the situation, but construction isn't expected to start until August, with completion 18 months later.

Daniel T. Murphy, chairman of the Oakland County Board of Auditors, said this morning that he has no idea at this time where the judges will be housed while construction is under way.

The tentative 1967 county budget provides for the salaries of the new eighth and ninth judge.

SCENE OF MYSTERY CRASH—A barge equipped with a crane lifts from the water the wreckage of a Soviet jet plane that crashed yesterday into West Berlin's Havel River. Mystery quickly developed around who was flying it and what happened to those aboard, since no occupants have been found.

Rabbi Joseph Demands Jesus' Body

Judaism did not practice embalming, nor use coffins. An outer shroud was wrapped around the body, before it was carried into the sepulchre.

Inside it was placed on one of several recessed ledges, hewn into the side walls.

Then Joseph and the others withdrew.

The Roman guard, assigned by Pilate, rolled the huge, disk-shaped stone along its groove until it covered the mouth of the tomb, and sealed it with metal straps.

The task was done.

Joseph, out of some dauntless urgency of mind and character, had defied the friendless, even in death.

IMMORTALITY

Unlike the dominant, but soon repudiated Sadducee party, Joseph believed in the immortality of the soul, in the enduring rabbinic tradition of the Pharisees.

As Scripture notes, he held the messianic hope, that the "Kingdom of God," confident that the Lord acts in human history.

Whatever his reasons, Joseph took his stand with a defamed and marked man, not counting the costs, realizing that it would arouse resentment in high quarters. By his decision he himself became a marked man.

According to legend, he became a wandering Christian disciple, carrying with him the cup which Christ used at His Last Supper, and extending the faith to the British Isles, where, spent by his labors, he sighed, "We be weary all," thereby giving the name to Wirral Hill.

OTHER TALES

Other tales about him—about his building a house of prayer in Glastonbury, battling snakes in Ireland and other adventures—have filtered through the centuries, doubtlessly embroidered in the telling.

But the decisive and dependably recorded drama of Joseph took place back there, in the maelstrom of suspicion, fear and persecution which drove Jesus to his death, when Joseph defied the officialdom which he feared, undermined his own hard-won status and brought scandal on himself by siding with the forsaken Jesus and offering the last gracious act in his behalf.

Plane Comes Down in River

No Trace of Airmen, GIs Posted at Border

BERLIN (AP)—Efforts to raise a crashed Soviet jet from deep in the mud of West Berlin's Havel River resumed today amid a widening mystery of what happened to the two-man crew.

A British spokesman at the scene in the British sector said divers had found no trace of the two Soviet airmen after the crash yesterday afternoon.

The official Soviet News agency Tass reported earlier that the pilot, Capt. Boris Kapustin, and his navigator, Lt. Yuri Yanov, gave their lives to insure that the plane went down in an uninhabited spot.

Later the East German news agency Adn said that Tass had requested that Adn withdraw its version of the Tass story. Later Tass advised Adn to release the story. No reason was given for the change on signals.

The sonic booms of other Soviet planes continued to be heard overhead despite a demand by the U.S., British and French commandants for Soviet authorities to end "reckless flights" over the city.

"MOST SERIOUS"

"This incident," their statement said, "is the most serious of a number of reckless flights in the past weeks as shown by the frequent excessive sonic booms experienced in the city."

A U.S. spokesman confirmed that "a small number of fully equipped personnel" were posted at seven East-West border crossing points.

Informed sources speculated that they were there to block any Soviet attempt to bring salvage equipment into West Berlin.

In its dispatch, Tass said: "Noteworthy is the strange behavior of the Western occupation authorities in West Berlin who did not let representatives of Soviet armed forces go to the place of the accident and pay last honors to the dead servicemen."

AT THE SCENE

About 10 Russian officers and five enlisted men were at the scene, but the British restricted them to the riverbank.

A British spokesman said the plane "eventually will be returned to the Russians."

Informed sources said that the Russians had not pressed to be included in the salvage operation but had asked to guard the plane during the night and were turned down.

A British officer confirmed that a busload of Russian troops arrived at the scene yesterday but did not leave their vehicle and returned to East Berlin.

NOT IDENTIFIED

The early Tass report did not identify the type of plane. Some Western experts guessed that it was a MIG 17, but the British spokesman said definite identification cannot be made until the craft is raised.

The spokesman said the plane was "fairly heavy—10 or 12 tons." British and German workmen were reported having some difficulty in getting cables around it, down in about 13 feet of water.

The plane came in over a nearby bridge and a heavily traveled highway to land in the water very close to a shore lined with homes.

Foes of Fluoridation

Seek New Detroit Vote

DETROIT (AP)—Opponents of fluoridation of Detroit's water supply said yesterday they would try to have the issue put to a vote again. Fluoridation was approved by Detroit voters last year.

The Greater Detroit Citizens Opposed to Fluoridation needs 22,042 signatures by July 12 to petition for a new vote.

Mothers' Club to Join With Students for Fair

BIRMINGHAM — The Mothers' Club will join forces with the student body of Brother Rice High School to sponsor the Galtway County Fair April 23 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the school.

Previously, the annual fair had been a Mother's Club project only but, this year, the club decided to allow students to set up the booths and games.

Proceeds from the affair will be used for the Students' Chapel, the Student Council and purchase of visual aid equipment.

The Bloomfield Art Association announced this week that over 400 students had begun classes for the spring semester and that registration is under way. The classes begin April 18.

Mrs. Robert Bender, the association's board liaison officer, said there is still room for interested students in a few classes and that students may sign up during the next two weeks.

Three new teachers have been added to the young people's classes which start April 23.

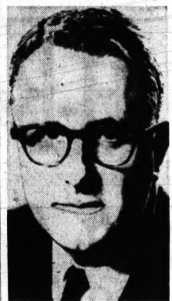

Sieve Daly will teach sculpture to students between ages 10 through 18 and Bill Fuhrmann will handle the introduction to art course for 6 and 7-year-olds. Both teachers are currently working on their masters degrees at Cranbrook.

The third new teacher is painter Jeanne Peak, director of the new Romaine Gallery, who will teach two classes in introduction to art for students ages 6 to 9.

The first session of art appreciation for adults will be 8 p.m. April 21, with Walter Hamady leading the lecture and discussion.

Painter Robert Wilbert, sculptor Jay Holland, potter Fred Bauer, painter Carol Ward and internationally known photographer Balthus Korab will alternate with Hamady over the course period.

Officials of the art association said the art appreciation course is designed to give a cross section of the arts to its members.

PAUL F. LIVINGSTON

West Bloomfield Man 1st Dem to Enter Bid

A West Bloomfield Township business executive, Paul F. Livingston, today entered the wide-open race for the Democratic nomination for governor.

Livingston, president of a Detroit firm specializing in advertising groups on employee benefit programs, announced his candidacy in a news conference at a Detroit hotel.

Livingston, 42, bidding for the first time for public office, is the only announced Democratic candidate for governor. He lives at 7233 Tratham.

Democratic State Chairman Zoltan Ferency, however, has indicated strongly he will run for governor. Senate Majority Leader Raymond Dzendzel, D-Detroit, has said he is considering candidacy.

Active in Democratic politics since he came to Michigan from Minnesota in 1949, Livingston is chairman of the West Bloomfield Democratic Club.

HAD A DUTY

"In the past I have always felt I had a duty to support others running for office," said Livingston. "Now, I feel there are honest campaign issues that must be raised in the upcoming election."

"There is a need to explore the state's relationship to the federal and city governments, a matter neglected by the opposition, which, unless corrected, could lead to the decay of our state form of government."

"I hope to establish dialogue during the campaign to give the public an understanding of the present erosion of the State of Michigan and to offer ways of effecting solutions," he said.

Livingston said he has 24 county committees working on his campaign.

He has been active in union affairs and attended St. John's University in Minnesota and the University of Minnesota.

Married to the former Rose Barry of Ireland, Livingston and his wife have five children.

U.S. officials would not comment, but informants said that the successful cable hitch to the bomb was made by Curv, a torpedo recovery vehicle flown to the scene from Pasadena, Calif.

U.S. Embassy officials said the bomb was intact and not damaged.

The bomb described as a one megaton hydrogen bomb, was one of four lost from the B52 in the collision and crash which seven airmen were killed.

He hurried, for the sun declined. From the Praetorium, he crossed the Sextus Bridge to the upper city, and at his house, he had his servants accompany him, taking along a flat cypress litter.

He led them out the Fish Gate and up the rocky hill beyond the city wall, and to the foot of the sapless tree, where Jesus hung.

There, Nicodemus, another minority Pharisee on the Sanhedrin who had wanted Jesus spared, joined Joseph in extracting the nails and lowering the body from the lifeless body from the scaffold to the ground.

BODY OF JESUS

The body of Jesus was borne by Joseph, Nicodemus and their servants to the peaceful, landscaped "Garden of Joseph," where fountains splashed, where flowers grew, where a newly hewn tomb opened in the face of a stone embankment.

It was the ninth hour (6 p.m.), and nightbirds called in the twilight.

It was a lonely, desolate affair. From a distance, only two friends of Jesus—both women—watched silently through the trees as the two kindly rabbis rendered the last offices for the abused and forsaken Galilean. Joseph had prepared the new tomb for himself and his family, but since they were newcomers in the city, it so far had remained unused. Now it would become the resting place for the stranger.

While still outside, in the waning light, the men washed the body and anointed it with aromatic nard.

THEODORE B. BLOOM LARRY HARTMAN

GM Workers to Take Part in St. Joseph Fund Drive

A campaign among employees of the three General Motors plants in Pontiac will be conducted for the benefit of the $2,350,000 St. Joseph Mercy Hospital Building fund.

The campaign was announced today by Theodore B. Bloom, personnel director of Pontiac Motor Division and chairman of the employee drive.

"More than one-third of the admissions at St. Joseph come from GM employees and their families," Bloom said, "It seems only fair that we participate in this important community project."

Larry Hartman, international representative of the UAW-CIO, has been appointed coordinator of the effort that will reach 34,000 hourly rated workers.

Hartman said the UAW has a vital interest in the success of the campaign, particularly since its membership wants and needs the new health facilities that will be created.

PITCH IN AND HELP

"For years," he said, "we have been seeking more and better health benefits for our membership. Now, it certainly behooves us to pitch in and help with the building program at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital."

Direct responsibility for conduct of the drive in the GMC Truck and Coach Division will lie with Owen J. O'Neill and Robert White, president of Local 584.

At Fisher Body, Ralph Dave and Donald Johnson, president of Local 586, have been appointed, while at Pontiac Motor Division J. H. Shimmick and John Maye, president of Local 653, share the load.

In announcing the campaign, which will start immediately and conclude by April 20, Bloom emphasized that it was to be a strictly voluntary effort.

"A payroll deduction plan is being offered to those who wish to take advantage of it," Bloom said. "A few cents each week, over a three-year period can amount to a meaningful gift, and we want to do everything we can to insure the total success of the campaign."

Saigon Rioters Burn U.S. Jeep

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Hundreds of anti-government demonstrators poured toward downtown Saigon tonight and burned a U.S. Military Police Jeep a few hours after Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's military regime pledge publicly to

The Buddhist hierarchy earlier instructed its militant young supporters to remain quiet until the junta replied to its request for a public pledge to turn over power to a popularly elected constituent assembly within five or six months.

SAIGON (UPI)—Mobs of Buddhist students savagely beat an unidentified American tonight then kidnapped him in a small station wagon as anti-government demonstrators took a violent anti-American tone. It was feared Viet Cong elements had joined the mobs. A second unidentified westerner was reported missing by U.S. Army military policemen.

gave way to a civilian government in five or six months.

No Americans were reported injured.

"End the war immediately," said one of the banners carried by the demonstrators. A battalion of paratroopers waded into the rioters and sent them scurrying down side streets. Some began regrouping to continue their descent on the downtown area in the fifth continuous day of unrest in the capital's streets.

Until then a strange calm had prevailed in Saigon, with no sign of any anti-government or anti-American agitators.

HEAVY FIGHTING
Heavy fighting flared 20 miles northwest of Saigon between the U.S. 25th Infantry Division and the Viet Cong.

By midafternoon, 24 Communists were reported killed and the shooting was continuing around what appeared to be a Viet Cong base camp in the Ho Bo Woods, an old Red stronghold.

It was the only significant ground action reported for the day. A government spokesman reported that the Viet Cong shot 25 Vietnamese prisoners in the back just before several government battalions overran a Communist detention camp in Phu Tam hamlet, 70 miles southwest of Saigon, Wednesday. Most of the victims were civilians, and they included three women still in chains and padlocks.

4 SURVIVORS
One of the four survivors told the Vietnamese troops and American advisers that they were being held for failing to pay Viet Cong taxes in rice or money.

"They could not pay because they didn't possess anything," the government spokesman said.

The political dissension among the Vietnamese did not affect the American combat toll last week but government and Communist losses were down by about 50 per cent.

The U.S. military command reported that 101 Americans were killed, 690 wounded and nine missing compared with 123 killed, 515 wounded and four missing in the week of March 20-26.

LOSSES DECLINE
Vietnamese killed declined from 318 to 155 and missing from 58 to 28. The government does not announce its wounded. Other allied forces reported 18 killed and 51 wounded compared with 28 killed and 58 wounded the week before.

Enemy casualties for the week of March 27-April 2 dropped to 962 killed and 73 captured, compared to 1,968 killed and 249 captured the previous week.

The new casualty report raised the number of U.S. losses in Viet Nam since January 1961 to 2,410 killed and 14,727 wounded.

BUDDHIST STATEMENT
The Buddhist statement came from Saigon's influential Buddhist Institute. It said Ky's government promised in talks Wednesday to speed up the promulgation of a constitution so a civilian assembly could be elected in five or six months.

I Remember Mama--and Her Prayers

Florida Housewife

Mama picked up the last well-scrubbed plate, stacked it, and shooed all nine of us children out the door. "Back by six, now!" she called after us. I went back to help because I wanted to see if Mama was going to do it again. I knew, even if the younger children didn't, that there was no foot left in the house. Papa earned $15 a week as a meat cutter, and since Mama had paid a doctor's bill Mrs. Snelgrove that Monday, the money had simply run out. For two days we'd been eating peanut butter and oatmeal but now even that was gone.

And still there was no sense of fear in the air. Mama began to set the table. What a feeling that was, helping my mother set table for nine children and two adults just as carefully as if the larder were full.

She paused to straighten the two little signs that hung there just at eye level above the drain. "Jesus never fails," one of them said. "Prayer changes things," said the other.

At 4 o'clock there was a knock on the door.

"Sister Bey?" I recognized the voice of Mrs. Allen, a lady who lived down the street. I walked over neighbor with a large paper bag under her arm.

A FEW BEANS

"I was just wondering, Sister Bey," said Mrs. Allen, "if you could use a few of these string beans from my garden. Seems like they're all coming in at once."

That night we sat down to a feast: delicious cups of bean-flavored broth as a soup course, followed by beans cooked in bacon drippings, topped off with a crisp bean salad. Papa said a second blessing after the meal.

LENTEN GUIDEPOSTS

Mama was always "setting a table" in this way. I remember very clearly how she bought our family home with a down payment of $50.

We had been living in furnished rooms until then. My little sister took sick one day and the landlady said we'd have to get out.

WANTED HOME

That night Mama told Papa she wanted a home of her own. Papa didn't need to remind Mama that we had a hard time even paying the rent. Where were we going to get enough money to buy a house?

"Papa," Mama said, "If the Lord and I work out the details will you sign the papers?" The minute Papa agreed she marched down to Bartog Realty and told Mr. Bartog she knew the house she wanted. She wanted Mr. Bartog to take a down payment on the down payment.

"Will the owner let us move in for $50?"

OWNER AGREED

Mr. Bartog laughed but he agreed to make the proposal. A few days later he arrived at our door all excited. He just couldn't understand it, but the owner had agreed, and we could move in.

Mama was dusting, and I could have sworn she winked at me as she passed her feather duster over the frame of the sign that said, "Prayer changes things."

Our new house turned out to be just right. We lived there for 20 years, paid off the mortgage, and watched the value of the house and land double.

But there was still one major crisis ahead. Papa, in the year he reached 60, came home one day with the news that he had been let go. He was too old.

ANOTHER JOB

Papa found another job, but we could all see the signs: the day was coming when he would not be able to get work as a meat cutter.

"Papa," Mama said, "what we need is a little corner grocery store. Not too big. Not too small. If the Lord shows a store like that will you let me buy it?"

Papa agreed and Mama set out to find her little store by saying a prayer. "Lord," she said, "somewhere in this city you have a little store that's up for sale. Show me the store, Lord, won't you?"

And that night Mama had her dream. She saw herself floating down a river. She came to a rickety little footbridge and on the bank was a small store, low and long and painted white. There was a "For Sale" sign outside.

WAS THE ONE

Mama knew this was her store. All she had to do was find it.

She answered every store-for-sale ad; she placed ads of her own in the paper; she made the rounds of the real estate people asking if they knew of a store that fit her description.

Finally she met an agent who said, "You've already seen the property then? I have a listing like that."

They drove out to Miami Springs, and there it was. Just

YEARS PASSED

That was 20 years ago. Papa is 80 now, and Mama 73 and they are just getting around to thoughts of retiring.

The little store has done very well by them. They built the gross up from $15 a day to over $100 a day. They bought a little land and two houses and put their children through school and watched their family grow until they had 33 grandchildren and 16 great-grandchildren.

They met their bills, and paid taxes and tithed to their little Pentecostal church and still they had money left over.

And where did all this come from? We know, in our family. But it is likely to be Mama who puts it into words.

THE ANSWER

"The answer to all our questions is right here," says Mama, nodding toward the sign in her kitchen which says, "Jesus never fails." "The whole trick is in finding enough faith to believe the good news."

Next — Mrs. Lowell Thomas Jr., wife of the famed adventurer and writer, tells of the faith that sustained her and her children in the Alaskan earthquake of 1964.

U.S. Elections No Match for British

With the general election in Britain now history and the congressional election in the U.S. but months away, some significant comparisons of the election procedures of the two countries come into focus.

Uncle Sam runs a bad second in the comparison.

The British election was called by royal proclamation just three weeks before the event. Parties then had just eight days to nominate candidates and exactly two weeks for them to campaign. No primaries, no fuss, no nothing.

But in the U.S., congressional candidates for the November election began in January the business of declaring, maneuvering and eventually campaigning for the Aug. 2 primary.

During the interim, both candidates and public become heartily bored with the prolonged, repetitious campaigns that produce little statesmanship and probably change few votes.

Equally invidious for the United States is the disparity between campaign expenditures of the two systems.

In Britain, candidates can spend 2 or 3 cents per voter, depending on the constituency, plus a basic sum of $420, plus $280 for personal expenses. Every shilling has to be accounted for. No supplementary spending can be concealed in bogus "volunteer committees."

The financial aspects of our elections, on the other hand, have become recurring scandals. Boston news sources say that Edward Kennedy spent about $1 million getting elected to the Senate, and his brother, Bobby, doubtless spent as much winning in New York. Outlays for many House races run to $100,000.

The Corrupt Practices Act is a farce. Whereas in Britain, campaign limitations are both rigidly enforced and respected, here the expense reports filed by candidates after elections verge on the ludicrous.

England's onetime colony has taught the mother country much along many lines. The national off-spring can learn much at the maternal knee about how to run elections.

The Other Cheek!

David Lawrence Says:

Judge Selection Reform Needed

WASHINGTON—The American people know very little about how judges are appointed, but they do know that there is something wrong with the system.

A Gallup poll just published reveals that 61 per cent of the persons interviewed are in favor of letting the American Bar Association draw up LAWRENCE a list of approved candidates and submit them to the president to take his pick.

Certainly the poll revealed dissatisfaction with the present method by which judges are selected.

The American Bar Association Journal reports that, ever since the Cleveland administration, no president has made less than 82 per cent of judicial appointments from the ranks of his own party.

But the inference that a president of the United States is himself governed by political considerations is only partly true. Members of the Senate of the United States are really responsible for the political partisanship which has been manifested for many years.

There are stories going around Washington about cases in which the two senators from the opposite party in a state refused to approve a particular appointment the president made and blocked the confirmation for two years.

NO REASON
There is no reason why senators should, in effect, select federal judges.

In too many instances judgeships have been the reward for services rendered to a political party.

The idea that the very best man with a background of judicial experience should be preferred in a district over someone who has never sat on the bench is not new.

Federal judges wield enormous power.

POSSIBLE FACTOR

The fact that a man is nominated for the bench who has been active in party politics might or might not be a factor in the kind of decisions he subsequently renders.

But certainly eyebrows are arched and suspicions are generated when an active politician becomes a federal judge, passes upon questions related to governmental policy and, in certain cases, seems to side with the administration which brought about his appointment.

Such inferences may not always be correct, but they persist.

The American people for many years have seemed to be indifferent to the way judges are appointed to the bench.

Some of the appointees, it is true, rise above their previous political backgrounds and make fair and impartial judges. But even with the best of intentions, many of them do not do an adequate job for the simple reason that they have not had judicial experience.

It would seem logical if men who aspired to be federal court judges would first serve on municipal or county courts or state supreme courts.

But persons who want to become judges do not have to follow that route because the political habit of today is to pick for the federal bench mostly men who have not had a single day's experience as judges.

The Gallup poll has served a constructive purpose in bringing out the fact that the American people do not like the existing arrangement and that they frown upon the use of federal judgeships as a political prize or as a reward for service to particular nominees in public office.

Smile—even if you are not on Candid Camera.

Bob Considine Says:

GIs Are Venting Wrath Over U.S. Viet Protests

NEW YORK—Some of the best reporting coming out of the war in Viet Nam is by means of the letters of Americans serving there.

That being the case, the families of more than 200,000 men now serving there should soon be getting letters which, on the whole, will express in vivid basic English the feelings of a let-down fighting corps.

These will be the voices of good men who have been battling and dying bravely for the freedom of, among others, the articulate group now in open revolt against the Saigon government we support, and, because we support it, against us.

As far as our Revolutionary War history shows, no American colonist ever displayed in his window a sign reading "Go Home, Lafayette."

How would you feel if you were a kid from New Jersey, let's say, up to his hips in the alien rice paddy and under fire only to learn that some of the people you are fighting for are demonstrating against you in the nearest comfortable city?

DOMESTIC CRIES

How would you feel if you were the President of the United States, recognized the absolute importance of continued support of the South Vietnamese people in general, and had to face every day domestic cries of let's-get-out-of-that-rat-trap?

Premier Ky is a tough guy. Bill Slocum, who was there, tells me that when he learned that some of his pilots in dive-bombers were pulling out of their dive perhaps 1,000 feet over the target he informed them succinctly that he proposed to tail-gate them on their next mission and if they didn't go down to within 50 feet of the deck, he personally would shoot them down.

Before this revolt is quelled, Ky may become known as a much stronger autocrat than the dictator, Diem, whose murder we condoned because we considered his rule of dissidents too tight. Tempus fugit.

There will be no high-level Washington censure of Ky if he clobbers elements now making a mockery of a difficult war, costing us blood and fortune, for a nation's right to freedom of choice.

WE'LL BE CRITICAL
Indeed, we'll be critical of him if he doesn't get tough and stay tough. We deplored the strong tug in Diem when he had his troubles with Buddhist traitors and others.

We'll applaud that same biological fortitude in Ky, a peacock who couldn't carry Diem's mailed fist.

Readers' Opinions Vary on Flying Object Reports

I don't think the flying objects are just gas—swamp, marsh or whatever. If they were, there'd be whole squadrons of UFOs hovering over Washington most of the time. No doubt their maneuvering would become more violent and erratic during election years.

MORE CONCERNED ABOUT BIG BROTHER THAN LITTLE GREEN MEN

People that refuse to believe in flying objects from other planets at this late day are simply prejudiced and live with their eyes closed. They tell me the government has explained 98 or 99 per cent, but how about that great big one per cent?

F.M.E.

People have too vivid imaginations. There are no flying objects from other planets. There are many things in life that can't be explained and these merely drop in that group.

ANDY DAY

It is possible that we could be "visited" by aliens from space and it infuriates me to read of people saying "Why not take a shot at it?" Are we "at war" with something we know nothing about?

Recently, a person in Hillsdale was verbally presented the "Award for Stupidity" by a TV program for making a similar statement.

CLARKSON OBSERVER

The UFOs have created quite a furor and many are not happy with the explanations of so-called experts. Maybe man is not supposed to understand UFOs. The Bible reads: "And great earthquakes shall be in diverse places, and famines, and pestilences; and fearful sights and great signs shall there be from heaven."

Dr. Edward Teller, a foremost scientist, answered a query about UFOs saying "They are just plain miracles." The only way for a person to play it safe is to become a born-again Christian. Regardless of what happens in this world, you will still be OK.

'Only Our Government Can Halt Inflation'

We are deep into inflation. A prodigious increase in money and credit, without a corresponding increase in available goods, inflates currency. Price increases follow. To hold the price line three measures are suggested: high taxes, wage-price control, and huge cuts in Federal spending. A tax increase would not do the job for our prodigious government would merely have more to spend. Dictatorial wage-price control would rob and shackle the people and impose no restraint on Federal spending. The government itself can halt inflation by decreasing drastically its own spending.

The President has announced a deficit of $1.5 billion, but qualified economists predict a deficit of at least $5 to $10 billion. To cure inflation, therefore, a cut of $5 to $10 billion must be imposed on Federal spending. For fiscal '67, AID seeks more than $8 billion for foreign handouts. Foreign economic aid should be reduced by at least $5 billion.

The President has passed the buck to the people. He has asked housewives and businessmen to reduce their spending; he makes no mention of reducing Federal foreign spending in which lies the one best hope to stop inflation. Present these views to your Congressmen while they're home for Easter.

Says Facts Prove Benefits of Fluoridation

In view of the myriads of facts, studies, etc., that have illustrated the benefit of fluoridation in prevention of dental caries in our youth, why would anyone wish to object? The safety has been proven and the cost on an individual basis is next to nothing.

Some live in areas where water has the proper percentage of natural fluorides for protection. Would this be classified as "forced medication"? If someone feels strongly that his rights have been violated, no one would stop him from putting in his own well.

In regard to Commissioner Hudson's answer on storm sewers in the Brooklyn area, a portion of the land in the backyard of a new junior high school for which citizens pay taxes was sold to a scrap metal concern. Discusses West Bloomfield Township Vote

The voters have made known their desires in West Bloomfield Township. Perhaps those who complain about our police and fire departments will think twice before griping. For a small sum in taxes they could have had better service. Both departments are undermanned and lack equipment. This could have been remedied. Both departments could have used a raise but the voters made their choice at the polls — or did they stay home?

Is that young relative who got the big salaried county job with no experience still holding it? There was so much criticism I expected to read of a replacement, but I've seen nothing. Is he still there?

'Good Listening' Doesn't Come Naturally

It has long been suspected that the reason nature provided people with two ears was so that what went in one could readily find its way out the other. Now there are statistics to back up this suspicion.

According to C. HOWARD WATTS, a consultant in management communications: "Untrained listeners 'hear' only about 25 per cent of what they're listening to."

In other words, we retain about every fourth word or every fourth sentence or every fourth thought that impinges on the ear. This would seem to suggest that the human cranium contains some sort of matter acting as an impediment to the transmission of sound across the void.

One might expect college students to possess a greater amount of this sound absorbing substance than the general population. However, WATTS cites a study which showed that college students listened to a 10-minute talk with only 25 per cent of efficiency, the same as the rest of us.

WATTS also says that the average person spends 9 per cent of his time writing, 16 per cent reading, 30 per cent talking and 45 per cent listening.

It's this overage of listening time as against talking time that is intriguing. We've often used up our 45 per cent of listening time, but never yet have we met anyone who had run out of his 30 per cent of talking time, leaving us with 15 per cent of pure, golden silence.

But we're hoping.

Baseball Contest a Hit Guess Game

Correct us if we're wrong, but we'd say that the Annual Press Baseball Contest that rewards the winner with a $500 U. S. Savings Bond is the only such competition in which the sponsors don't know the winning answer in advance.

Even though they are barred from the bond by ethical barriers, those conducting it enjoy a vicarious thrill from scrutinizing the entries and speculating on which will represent good news for its submitter.

But we would be less than human (offstage voice: "You're telling us?") if we hadn't arrived at some conclusions on the outcome based on consensus of the outside. What reminds us that "consensus" is what LBJ says he operates on—but he hasn't entered the contest yet... Do you have the feeling, too, that the last sentence has logic trouble?

Anyway, you'd never guess who is the No. 1 choice to top the hitters when the contest closes May 15. Which brings us to whether you have already guessed who he'll be, and if you haven't, the need to begin guessing before another sun has set. Well, we guess you could do a little moon-lighting, if you guess better after dark.

Wastebasket One Mile Deep

By Science Service

HOLLAND — What must surely be the world's deepest wastebasket, 5,896 feet, has been drilled through layers of sandstone — and it empties itself. "I had to rework much of the geology of western Michigan," said Richard M. Winar, the geologist who first was assigned to find out if the hole could even be made.

The wastebasket, which cost about $100,000, was drilled to give the Holland-Suco Color Co. a place to throw away about 35,000 gallons every day of waste from color pigment production.

After solids are extracted in two large settling tanks, the remaining liquid waste is pumped down the hole.

There it disperses into the surrounding sandstone of a huge deposit called the Mt. Simon, which extends from Michigan out into Wisconsin and Canada.

The wastebasket should be good for a long time, as the Mt. Simon deposit is equal in volume to several Lake Michigans.

AND IN SHE GOES — Two vacationing college youths sprint across the beach to toss a struggling bikini-clad girl into the surf at Fort Lauderdale, Fla. Thousands of students are gathering at Florida resort areas for Easter vacations. Police say most are generally well-behaved.

Freshly Planted Trees

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — City Forester Joseph H. Plante Jr. reports that $45 worth of sapling trees along a city street were damaged 10 days after they were planted.

He said the young trees were "callously broken by vandals."

The deepest trench on the ocean floor of the Atlantic is the Puerto Rico Trench, which goes down to 30,246 feet. In one place it is called the Milwaukee Depth.

Collegians Jam Florida Resorts

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. — "Too much fuzz," the kids observe. Too much drinking, the police say. And all agree there's plenty of both as thousands of the country's college set hit the beaches and bars for an Easter blowout.

"I've never seen so many policemen before in my whole life," said Bruce Fowler, 18, of Atlanta, Ga. "Why, they're on every corner."

He said he got to bed as early as 5 a.m. one morning because there was "just nothing going that night."

Fowler is one of 40,000 students who have already crammed this town of 37,000. The Chamber of Commerce expects 100,000 to be looting on the white beaches, wandering in the crowded streets and bursting out of the jammed motels by Easter Sunday.

MANY ARRESTED

Although hundreds have been arrested since the spring vacations began six weeks ago, O. L. White, Chamber of Commerce president, said the kids are nothing like the gangs of 1961, and 1962 that tossed sharks into swimming pools, swiped yachts and rioted in the streets of Fort Lauderdale.

Since then, the Fort Lauderdale Easter crowds have shrunk and only 7,500 are expected.

Collegians, with the exception of an 18-year-old coed from Wisconsin who insisted she was sent here on doctor's orders for a nervous condition, say they have just come for a good time.

"Where else is there to go," a 21-year-old Montclair State junior said. "It's cold in New Jersey and I just can't stand the cold."

"The trouble is the girls come in extremes," he said. "Either they throw themselves all over you or else they just won't have anything to do with you."

But the boy's problems are minor compared with those of the Police Department — which will expand from its normal six patrol cars and two motor-

Rochester's 5-Year-Old Municipal Building

Rochester Study Due

Cityhood Question Revived

By JANICE KLOUSER
ROCHESTER — To be (a city) or not to be (a city)? That is the question village residents may one day have to answer.

Before they do, however, a seven-man committee must determine if cityhood is right for Rochester.

Within the next two months, these seven men will weigh pros and cons of incorporation. They will present findings, along with a recommendation, to the village council. The council will, in turn, decide whether to submit a proposal to the voters.

If it comes to a vote, it will be the third time in eight years. The first two proposals were turned down in 1958 and 1968.

BUT DIFFERENT

The latest proposal to change the governmental structure of the community is slightly different from the first two. It would incorporate only the 16 square miles within the village limits. The earlier plans took in part of Avon Township.

The incorporation study was initiated by Councilman Louis Mitzelfeld because "there seems to be increased interest in the subject."

Members of the study committee are Edwin Aldrich, 124 Clineale; James Hill, 120 Griggs; Dr. Alvin Gursin, 1129

Main; Dr. Hugh Wilson, 124 South; John Hubbard, 510 W. Third; Wilson Severance, 364 Charles; and Charles Maltrott, 117 Woodward.

Committee member Severance said one of the prime reasons for the latest move is the fact that, as a city, Rochester would have more control over its own activities and up-keep of public utilities.

MORE CONTROL

He said the county has more control over township functions. Bills now in the legislature, he pointed out, would strengthen county control.

The committee is also looking at the cost angle. It is trying to determine whether it would cost more to run various departments, such as police and fire, under a city or village government.

"I'd say offhand that it won't cost any more," said Severance.

Severance said it is difficult to predict just how cityhood would affect taxes.

RESPONSIBLE

"The charter commission would be responsible for establishing the form of government we would have," he said, "and, if it decided to add a lot of frills, taxes would go up."

Cityhood would eliminate one tax—that which village residents pay to the township. The village tax is $18.50 per $1,000 of assessed valuation. The tax which villagers pay to the township is $1.32 per $1,000 equalized valuation.

On the other hand, Severance pointed out the difference may be made up in the cost of the functions which the new city would have to take over from the township.

A library, a cemetery and a park which belong to the township are within the village limits.

JURISDICTION

Severance said the council would have to hire an attorney to determine who has jurisdiction over these facilities.

Duplication of services under the present system could also be eliminated through incorporation, according to Severance.

Now, voters must register twice, once in the village for village elections and once in the township for township, county and school elections.

CONSIDERATIONS

There are also two property assessments by the village and the township which Severance says is an inconvenience to the taxpayer. He said a taxpayer must go to two boards of review to protest unjust assessments.

"There are a lot of things to be considered," said Severance, "and we're going to study this very carefully before making a recommendation."

If the proposition is put to a vote, a charter commission would be elected at the same time. This commission would draw up the form of government under which the new city would operate.

Residents would then have an opportunity to vote on the charter.

Shelby Twp. Challenges Quarry Firm

SHELBY TOWNSHIP — Operators of the Sunshine Beach land-fill operation at Ryan and Hamlin roads have been ordered by the Township Board to show cause why their license should not be revoked.

Township Clerk Mrs. Mae Stecker said that as part of their quarry removal operation, the diggers had gone over their boundary line onto township property.

They were notified to appear at a public hearing before the board at 7:30 p.m. April 19.

The board also postponed action on rezoning the corner of Mound and 24 Mile from residential to retail business.

The County Coordinating, Zoning and Planning Committee recommended denial of the request because the township is in the process of establishing a professional building zone.

Mrs. Stecker said the present zoning ordinance does not contain a professional building ordinance. A hearing is scheduled for May 4.

Elba Crash Is Fatal to Port Huron Man

ELBA TOWNSHIP — A 24-year-old Port Huron man was killed early this morning in an accident on Davison Road.

Lapeer State Police said Glenn H. Barr was westbound on Davison when he collided with a car driven by Mrs. Madeline Cross, 54, of 5993 Davison, Lapeer.

Police said the impact forced Mrs. Cross' car off the road into a tree and forced Barr into the eastbound lane where he collided with a pickup truck driven by Ismael Ross, 27, of 608 Fairgrounds, Inley City.

Mrs. Cross is in satisfactory condition and Ross in good condition at Lapeer County General Hospital.

On Avon Township Estate

Plan Development

Area News

AVON TOWNSHIP — A nine-hole private golf course, 900 apartments and a shopping mall are to be part of an elaborate development planned for the 417-acre Howard L. McGregor Estate on Walton Boulevard.

Steven Slavik of the development firm of Slavik Builders, Inc., of Oak Park said work will be started when his rezoning requests are approved.

He is seeking to rezone portions of the estate to multiple dwellings and professional offices.

He said the golf course is to be the first part of the project developed. It is to be located on 50 acres with McGregor's home to serve as a club house.

A pool on the estate will serve as the club pool. A larger pool is to be built near the course for use by residents of the nearby subdivision.

BEHIND MALL

The apartments are to be located on 75 acres behind the proposed shopping mall and professional offices. Slavik said some of the apartments will overlook the golf course.

The shopping mall will be on Walton, west of the main entrance to the development, and professional offices will be on Walton, east of the main entrance.

About 220 acres of land along Livernois are to be developed into a residential area. Plans call for 600 homes in the $30,000 range and up.

Slavik said the entire project will take from seven to 10 years to complete.

The development will lie in both the village and Avon Township. Three hundred acres are in the township while 117 acres are within the village limits.

Plans Easter Egg Hunt

SPRINGFIELD TOWNSHIP — The Davisburg Jaycee Auxiliary will sponsor an Easter egg hunt at 10 a.m. Saturday for children between the ages of 3 and 12 at the Davisburg Park.

Two age groups, 3 to 6 and 7 to 12, will compete for prizes. Silver dollars will be awarded to the first, second and third place winners in each age group in the hunt, which will be limited to 20 minutes.

Broad Participation in Utica Unit Sought

UTICA — School district residents are being asked to attend a citizens committee organizational meeting to be held at Utica High School at 8 p.m. Tuesday.

The board of education recently approved formation of such a committee to study the district's population growth, building needs, curriculum and finances.

The purpose of Tuesday's meeting is to organize and form various study groups.

Schools Supt. Philip E. Runkel pointed out that it has been two years since the Citizens Advisory Committee made a study of the school system and that during that time numerous changes, particularly in population, have taken place.

"To properly evaluate our program and plan for the future requires the assistance of many citizens," he said.

"COMMUNITY DUTY" "All school problems cannot be solved by school people alone."

"Education is a community responsibility and requires community cooperation and support if it is going to reflect our desires and ambitions for our children."

State Senate OKs Bill to Exempt Farm Workers From Benefits

LANSING (AP) — The Senate exempted agricultural workers from workmen's compensation for another year and passed seven other bills Wednesday as progress continued slow despite a calendar of 147 items.

The other measures ranged from prohibiting regrooving of tires to requiring that all intermediate school boards be elected by popular vote. All eight bills must go to the House.

The farm worker measure was a one-year delay of a provision included in last year's comprehensive workmen's compensation bill.

Farm employers of three or more workers on a full-time hourly wage or salary basis for more than 13 weeks a year will have to provide workmen's compensation protection to the workers.

EFFECTIVE DATE

Originally this was to have taken effect May 1, 1966, but difficulty in getting insurers to provide reasonable protection brought about the delay until May 1, 1967.

The regrooved tire bill is designed to prohibit auto or tire dealers from deceptively making tires appear to have more life in their tread than they actually have. Supporters said regrooved tires also are unsafe.

The intermediate school district bill would require election this November of all election boards except those which now elect their members.

Water Level Below Average in County

Ground water levels in Oakland County remained below average last month despite a climb throughout most of Michigan, according to the U.S. Geological Survey.

Clinton County recorded its first above average reading since September 1960.

In northern lower Michigan, Mason County listed a record high for March and Roscommon County reported an above average level for the eighth straight month.

In southeastern Michigan, despite the climbs, levels remained below average in key wells in Calhoun, Ingham and Sanilac counties.

Doctor Surrenders to Police; Defied Arrest for 48 Hours

ROARING SPRINGS, Pa. (U)—The drama of a country doctor defying police arrest was over today without a shot fired. He surrendered quietly.

For nearly 48 hours, heavily armed Dr. Patrick M. Boccagno, 34, refused to budge from his Roaring Spring farmhouse.

Police said he threatened to shoot any officer who tried to get in.

Yesterday, the doctor softened and permitted a state trooper to enter. After a heart-to-heart talk, he surrendered without a struggle.

WITH MOTHER

His four children, who were with him in the house throughout the long wait, were back with their mother, Elizabeth, 28.

A constable went to the farmhouse Monday night to serve Boccagno with a surety of the peace warrant filed by his wife.

Boccagno turned back the constable and also state police who came later. Officers retreated and decided to wait it out.

The end came after a neighbor, John Thompson, got into contact with the doctor on a civilian band radio. Both men had sets in their homes.

On the radio, Boccagno agreed to talk with a state trooper inside the farmhouse.

Frozen Male Sperm Used to Impregnate 29 Women

ANN ARBOR (U)—The possibility the sperm of a genius such as Beethoven may be preserved to enrich future generations was voiced yesterday by a biologist who said 29 women had been made pregnant by male sperm frozen for up to 2½ years.

Dr. S. J. Behrman, director of the University of Michigan's Center for Research in Reproductive Biology, made the remarks to a meeting of the Michigan Society of Obstetricians and Gynecologists.

Emphasizing that his work with frozen sperm was preliminary, Behrman said, "The day when we can preserve the sperm of an Einstein or a Beethoven for reproduction in future centuries still is a long way off.

"Someday, it should be possible to produce a child with exactly the characteristics desired. But that won't be tomorrow."

Behrman said the most recent phase of his work concerned a study in which 44 women received frozen sperm and 18 of them became pregnant.

8 BEAR CHILDREN

In this phase, eight women bore children, six still are pregnant, and four lost their babies.

Behrman said the eight children show no defects traceable to the frozen sperm and added that the four miscarriages were not believed caused by the impregnation since the women previously had miscarried.

He told a newsman that in an earlier study with frozen sperm, 11 women were impregnated and nine of them bore children. He said he did not recall how many women took part in that study.

The sperm, he said, was donated by "men with physical and intellectual resemblances to the women's husbands." All the women were volunteers and had their husbands' assent.

NEW FIELD

The U. of M. Medical Center said its program in this new field was one of "no more than half a dozen" known in the world. It also was believed to be the largest and most successful frozen live sperm for the longest period.

A spokesman for the center said similar work had been done in Japan on a smaller scale and that children had been born to some of the women involved.

"What we have done so far," Behrman said, "is to freeze the male cell through which life had been passed on over the centuries. We are able to suspend this life for up to 2½ years and still obtain successful pregnancies. There is every reason at the moment to believe this suspension can be prolonged indefinitely."

In keeping with a policy of anonymity regarding the donors and recipients, Behrman declined to discuss them or their lives.

FOR 15 YEARS

However, the spokesman said that the oldest of the born children was about 2 and that the various persons involved came from "several Midwestern states and Canada."

Check Earth's Size and Shape

Scientists Are Using Satellites to Measure

By Science Service
WASHINGTON — The size and shape of the earth are being measured, with the help of a couple of satellites, by far flung teams of American scientists in Greenland, Iceland, Norway, Scotland and Denmark.

In June, the investigations will really swing into high gear, with the scheduled launching of the Passive Geodetic Explorer Satellite (PAGEOS) and the addition of a 41-station worldwide satellite tracking network.

Currently, the Echo I and Echo II satellites are being used to help triangulate the distances between points on earth.

This is done by measuring the precise distances and angles between each of two earth-points and one of the satellites.

The more earth-distances that are exactly known, the better a picture of earth can be assembled.

Such measurements have already been used to support a theory that the island of Bermuda has moved northward since it was first formed.

Satellite measurements of other kinds have helped to find earth's radius to within a foot (3,963.203 miles).

Not only is the earth non-spherical, but it is pear-shaped in a north-south direction, egg-shaped in a plane through the equator and even has corners.

LINE OF SIGHT

A limitation to measurements with Echo I and II is the height of the satellites' orbits. The higher the satellite, the greater the line of sight, and the more accurate the resulting measurements.

Echo I is only 1,054 miles above the earth at its highest point, while Echo II never rises above 814 miles. PAGEOS, however, will travel in a circular orbit 2,500 miles up.

Although PAGEOS will be launched by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, the earth-measuring is being done by the Environmental Science Services Administration (ESSA) of the U.S. Department of Commerce.

Damage Responsibility Is Laid to Bartender

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — The New Jersey Supreme Court says bartenders can be held responsible for damages resulting from serving a customer who is visibly drunk.

The court rejected the contention of a tavern owner that an intoxicated person can be held guilty of contributory negligence.

Viet Crisis Came as Tide in Battle Was Turning

By JOHN T. WHEELER
SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Viet Nam's latest government crisis erupted just as senior American military officials felt the tide of battle had begun to turn in their favor.

"If things continue to go as they have in the field, we're in one U.S. officer said, summing up the feeling of the American command."

The allied troops have taken the initiative from the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops. Massive American firepower, the war was set back six months or more following the collapse of a regime. If Premier Nguyen Cao Ky should fall, the situation will not be quite so serious this time unless anti-American sentiment being fanned by the Buddhists gets out of hand.

During all past crises, the Vietnamese generals and province chiefs virtually ignored the war as they jockeyed for political position. Lesser officials sat on their hands awaiting the outcome.

lems — poor officers, lack of coordination, slipshod tactics — remain in many units.

FEW HEADLINES

Destruction of arms and rice caches, together with military operations to deny rice harvests to the enemy seldom make the headlines but are a vital factor in the ultimate outcome.

To operate in large units, the Communists must seize a large portion of the rice in their area and set up caches, both in their base areas and in areas where they plan to fight.

One of the oldest and most formidable of Viet Cong strongholds was the D Zone north and northeast of Saigon. American troops pushing through the jungle fastness have destroyed or seized thousands of tons of rice, arms and ammunition. One source said this was of far more military significance than the number of Viet Cong killed.

Gen. William C. Westmoreland, the American commander in Viet Nam, has been promised as many American troops as he needs and thousands are in the pipeline.

needed booster for Communist being forced to switch from the hunter to the hunted.

Reports from defectors and captives indicate North Vietnamese and Viet Cong main forces have been badly hurt, not only by American firepower but well-informed source said. "The physically by malaria and malnutrition and emotionally by mous impact."

Sharply increased Viet Cong taxation and enforced recruitment have hurt the Communist image in the countryside. Through letters and word of mouth, some Communist troops are getting the word, further weakening their will, some sources believe.

taxation and enforced recruitment have hurt the Communist image in the countryside. Through letters and word of mouth, some Communist troops are getting the word, further weakening their will, some sources believe.

News Analysis

constant bombing and relentless pressure on Communist strongholds have produced impressive results.

Some senior sources concede the picture isn't quite as bright as the daily announcements make it appear.

Two of the most quoted statistics are enemy bodies counted and the number of Viet Cong defectors. One senior official said he automatically cuts body count figures in half. Another says the current rate of more than 2,000 defectors a month includes a large number of refugees and a high percentage of persons in the fringe of the Communist movement.

4-MONTH SETBACK

During past political upheavals, U.S. sources figured that

Now American troops are bearing the brunt of the war, and U.S. operations presumably would continue at their present or possibly at a higher pace.

The crisis has hurt the Vietnamese military effort already. If it worsens, the Vietnamese effort will slide proportionately.

BRIGHT SPOT

But if the political situation is the blackest cloud over Viet Nam at the moment, things are brighter on the battlefield.

Not since the bloody battle of the Ia Drang Valley last November have Viet Cong or North Vietnamese regiments taken on U.S. forces for a toe-to-toe battle of any duration.

U.S. intelligence has vastly improved, and the Communists' ability to mass large numbers of troops safely for an attack has skidded proportionately.

The infusion of 225,000 American and allied troops in the country lifted the morale of government troops. They are fighting with a new determination. But many of the old prob-

State Legislature Supports Bid for Atom Smasher

LANSING (UPI) — The Michigan Legislature has pledged its full support of the state's bid for a $350-million atom smasher near Ann Arbor.

Both houses of the Legislature passed a resolution yesterday promising they will "provide the site and basic development for the location of a nuclear accelerator center."

Michigan is competing with six other finalists to attract the giant Atomic Energy Commission nuclear accelerator.

A team of atomic scientists led by AEC Chairman Glenn Seaborg was to visit the Ann Arbor site today as part of a final reevaluation of the remaining sites.

The Democrats gained 523 electoral votes in the 1956 election to only 8 for the Republicans.

STEADY BUILDUP

With them the military pressure can be steadily built up. At present there are not enough troops for the number of large, sustained operations that it will take to drive the Viet Cong into the ground.

In all likelihood a major battlefield showdown of some sort is in the offing. The Communists probably are hard at work devising tactics they hope will counter the massive American firepower advantage.

Senior U.S. officers don't believe the Communists will come up with a good answer. But they warn that ambushes will continue. The Communists at present are clearly aiming at the destruction of an entire American unit, for the propaganda effect in South Viet Nam and in the United States and as a badly

Approval Is Given to Key Issues on Eve of Congressional Easter Recess

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress starts its Easter recess today after approving the two-month extension in signing for doctors' bills insurance under Medicare.

In a big preholiday push, the House also passed a 2.9 per cent pay raise for 1.8 million federal workers and two major money bills totaling $3.3 billion to finance activities of the Treasury, Post Office and Interior Departments.

After recessing today, the House will be off until April 18. The Senate plans to come back April 13 for debate — but no immediate action — on Relations Service, which mediates civil rights disputes, from Dirksen's proposed constitutional amendment to modify the Supreme Court ruling that both houses of state legislatures must be apportioned according to population.

Many congressmen will take advantage of the recess to return home to feel the public pulse on such matters as Vietnam, government spending and inflation, and to get in a bit of campaigning for November's congressional elections. But six senators and seven representatives plus staff members and wives plan to spend the holiday in Australia — with stops also in Honolulu, New Zealand and perhaps Tahiti. They left Wednesday on an expense-paid junket as U.S. delegates to the spring meeting of the Interparliamentary Union in Canberra, Australia. The stops are being made because their Air Force jet jacks sleeping facilities, they said.

State Is $9.5 Million Too Low on Changing I-696, Say Mayors

LANSING (U-P) — It would cost an additional $9.5 million to change plans for the disputed I-696 highway, mayors from four Detroit suburbs were told Wednesday.

The mayors of East Detroit, Roseville, Warren and St. Clair Shores disputed the estimate given by the Highway Department.

They agreed, to meet in about 10 days to discuss the matter further.

Big, Black Dog That Bit Girl Is Hunted in Area

Area police are searching for a big, black dog, believed to be a Labrador retriever, that bit 5-year-old Lisa Bone of Bloomfield Township Saturday.

Mrs. Eugene Bone, mother of the girl, said the dog bit incident occurred at their home at 2325 Greenlawn, located off of Square Lake Road west of Telegraph.

The young girl has until Monday to locate the dog, before undergoing a series of rabies shots, said Mrs. Bone. The dog had a 1965 dog license, but no tags with numbers.

Returning Solon Hailed

LANSING (U-P) — Rep. John Fitzpatrick, D-Detroit, received a rare standing ovation from his colleagues when he walked into the House chamber yesterday. Fitzpatrick, 56, returned to the Legislature after a seven-week convalescence from a heart attack.

The Highway Department said it wasn't sure the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads would approve either of two suggested alternate routes.

Both alternatives would shift I-696, a proposed $140-million east-west freeway, from 11 Mile Road to 10 Mile Road. The Highway Department has been recommending the 11 Mile route.

Roseville Mayor Arthur Waterman termed the Highway Department figures "a lot of hog wash."

Figures in the highway Department report, Waterman said were "in error and misleading."

State Highway Department Director Howard Hill said after the meeting that he felt "we're getting closer to agreement" on the 11 Mile route.

"There seems to be no alternative," Hill said. Hill said after polling the mayors he failed to find agreement on either of the 10 Mile Road alternatives.

"It looks like we're back to 11 Mile or nothing," he commented.

Go-Go Girls Can Stay

LANSING (AP)—"Go-go girls" don't have to go. "They can stay and shake—as long as their boss has an entertainment license," said Walter Noack, chief of the Enforcement Division of the State Liquor Control Commission.

Noack said there had been complaints that his inspectors were "cracking down" on "go-go girls." "This isn't anything new. This statute has been in the book for more than 20 years," said Noack.

"But in the last several months we've noticed that a lot of places have been advertising 'go-go girls' as entertainment. We have warned them, simply, that they must have an entertainment permit to permit that kind of action."

MANY WARNINGS

Noack said his investigators have delivered between 50 and 60 such warnings during the past month. Almost every major city in Michigan, he said, now has some variety of a "go-go girl."

"It was all right when she was a customer or dancing with a partner. But when the girl is hired to do her dancing, then she is an entertainer. Then she becomes part of the floor show," he said.

Such a license, Noack said, must be approved by the local police department and governing body, but it is not difficult for liquor license holders to obtain such permits.

Encyclopedia Updated

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeature

Photography embraces so much that is old and so much that is space-age new; so much that is instinctive and so much that demands technical know-how; so much that is automatic and so much that takes manual operation that it would take an encyclopedia to tie it all together.

And that's what we have today: "The Focal Encyclopedia of Photography" published in two big volumes by the Focal Press of London and New York ($39).

From "Aberration" to "Zoom," this revised, expanded and modernized edition totals 1,755 pages of information prepared by 281 specialists from 23 countries.

It is illustrated by 1,750 diagrammatic illustrations and 450 photographs of which 16 pages are in color.

The encyclopedia was first published in England 10 years ago in one oversized volume that had grown three times larger than planned.

UP-TO-DATE SOURCE

Its aim then, as now, was to provide photographers with an easy-to-consult, comprehensive source of up-to-date information.

Though many of British origin, pertinent articles were written by U.S. specialists wherever dominant research, development or use is American in nature.

Revolutionary changes have transformed the world of photography, however, in the past 10 years.

To keep step with the new developments, a complete revision of the encyclopedia was almost as formidable a task as its original conception. It was a job that took four years to finish.

THIRD LARGER

The presented edition is one-third larger than the original edition and necessitated printing in two books.

Besides basic photographic definition, explanations, formulae and facts, the encyclopedia includes biographies of historical personalities and surveys of the national status of photography in 28 countries from Austria to Yugoslavia.

Under "Amateur Photography," a topic of particular interest to this column, here are a few thoughts expressed by A. Krasna-Kraus, editor-in-chief of Focal Press:

"Potentially creative, amateur photography gets closer to being the folk-art of the 20th Century than other contemporary communications media such as radio, cinema, television. Its popularity is international; the interest and diversity of its applications almost unlimited.

"The flag bearers of amateur photography will be found organized in clubs, societies and associations.

They are the people most consistently concerned with pictorial quality and technical progress.

They read periodicals, frequent lectures, participate in exhibitions and gather at congresses. But many brilliant amateurs remain lone workers and will not join in any of these activities.

In fact the membership of Great Britain's approximately 3,000 amateur organizations has been estimated to be no more than a fraction of 1 per cent of the number of people who take amateur photographs in this country.

2-WAY TRAFFIC

"There has always been a busy two-way traffic between amateurs and the business of photography. A number of basic inventions originated with amateurs.

"Manufacturing for hundreds of thousands of amateur consumers is a very different proposition from producing tools for a few hundred professionals.

The competitive element, tempted by an ever-expanding market, stimulates ideas, accelerates research and makes it a practical proposition to tool up to high quality standards.

Thus the amateur's greatest gift to photographic progress is, in fact, mass consumption."

Portugal Plane Missing

LISBON (UPI) — A Portuguese air force plane carrying five men was reported missing yesterday somewhere over northern Angola, the newspaper "Diario Popular" reported. Planes and helicopters were reported searching for the missing plane, which was on a reconnaissance mission.

The average hourly earnings of production workers in manufacturing industries last year was $2.53, according to the Department of Labor.

Citrus Fruit a Delight to See and Eat

The citrus groves of Florida supply the country (and other parts of the world) with vitamin-C and flavor-packed fresh oranges and grapefruit through the late spring months.

Low in calories, but rich and flavorful enough to satisfy our appetites and taste buds, citrus is the answer for those seeking slimmer outlines in the weeks ahead. And vitamin C, of course, is needed every day by adults and children alike, regardless of weather, diet or fashion trends.

The freezing weather in the state the end of January damaged only a small percentage of the Valencia orange crop, cutting the estimated total from 45 to 43 million boxes. This prized orange is coming into markets now, and the flavor is great.

Valencias are superb for eating whole or slicing and sectioning for use in salads and fruit cups, as they are thin-skinned and virtually seedless.

The grapefruit crop was fortunately not damaged and the fruit, both pink and white, is particularly good this year, having excellent juice content and superb flavor.

When shopping for oranges and grapefruit, look for fruit that is firm and heavy for its size, and store it in a cool place, preferably the refrigerator.

FLORIDA GRAPEFRUIT HALVES

First Course or Dessert:

Cut grapefruit in half; remove core if desired. Cut around each section, loosening fruit from membrane. Do not cut around entire outer edge of fruit. Serve plain or with any of the following toppings:

- Place orange sections or strawberry slices in center of each half. If desired, garnish with mint.

- Fill center with mixture of shrimp, crab meat or tuna. Serve with French dressing as first course or main dish salad.

- Put slices of stuffed or ripe olives in center of each half. Serve with French dressing as first course or salad.

Braised Grapefruit:

Sprinkle each half with 2 teaspoons sugar (or brown sugar, gingers F.) 10 to 12 minutes. Serve warm. Makes about 4 doz. and a dash of cinnamon, mace en.

or nutmeg; if desired, dot with 1 teaspoon butter.

Place grapefruit on broiler rack 3 inches from heat. Broil slowly 15 to 20 minutes or until grapefruit is slightly brown and heated through.

If desired, grapefruit may be baked in a 400 degree oven 15 to 20 minutes. Serve hot.

How to Section Grapefruit:

Dough Hides Black Olives

Golden Ripe Olive Bites are scrumptious for mid-winter entertaining. Stuff 1 cup extra-large canned pitted ripe olives with 1/2 cup cheddar cheese, cubed.

Combine 1 cup biscuit mix, 2 tablespoons melted butter, 3 tablespoons milk and 1/4 teaspoon each thyme and oregano. Mold a teaspoon of dough around each olive, covering completely.

Place on baking sheet.

Bake in hot oven (400 degrees F.) 10 to 12 minutes. Serve warm. Makes about 4 doz.

To section, cut slice from top. Then cut off peel in strips from top to bottom, cutting deep enough to remove white membrane. Cut slice from bottom. Go over fruit again, removing any remaining white membrane.

Cut along side of each dividing membrane from outside to middle of core. Remove section by section, over bowl, to retain juice from fruit.

If desired, sections may be sprinkled lightly with sugar.

Combine grapefruit sections and sliced banana with diced apple (leave red peel on for color contrast).

Combine grapefruit and orange sections with finely cut dates and shredded coconut.

Combine grapefruit sections with diced avocado and chopped pimiento — (omit sugar).

Combine grapefruit sections with sliced strawberries. Top grapefruit sections with orange and lime sherbet. Garnish with mint leaves.

CINNAMON ORANGES

1/4 Florida oranges
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1/4 cup granulated or sifted confectioners' sugar

Cut off orange peel in a long strip going around orange and cutting deep enough to remove white membrane. Combine cinnamon and sugar. Spear oranges on fork; roll in sugar mixture. Yield: 4 servings.

Special Touches Given Hamburgers

Seasoning ground beef this way makes it taste delicious.

Good Hamburgers

2 tablespoons undiluted evaporated milk
1 small onion, finely grated (use pulp and juice)

1/4 teaspoon salt and 1/4 teaspoon pepper
1/4 teaspoon crushed thyme
1/4 teaspoon red wine vinegar
1/4 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

Mix together all the ingredients; form into 4 patties. Cook to desired doneness, browning well, in a little butter in a hot skillet. Serve with drippings in pan, if you like. Makes 4 servings.

Mexican Canned Food Goes Into Casserole

When time is flying and the family is hungry, canned meats are life savers! Scores of quick and tempting meals can be made with these convenience foods.

Keep the shelf stocked with a variety of canned meats. Whether there's a time problem or not, a fine dinner can be on the table in minutes.

Just such a glamour dish is chili-tamale bake. This is a high-speed dinner that only takes about 15 minutes to heat. Perfect for a family dinner, and fine for unexpected guests, this meal appeals to those who like foods with a foreign flavor.

Chili-Tamale Bake

1 jar or can tamales

2 cans chili con carne (with or without beans)

1 can (15 ounce) kidney beans, drained
1 cup coarsely chopped onion
2 tablespoons flour
1 cup shredded pasteurized process American cheese

Drain sauce from tamales. Combine sauce, chili con carne and kidney beans in saucepan. Combine onions and flour. Stir into chili mixture and heat. Unwrap and slice tamales across width to form circular pieces.

Pour hot chili mixture into shallow 1 1/2 quart casserole; sprinkle with cheese and top with rows of sliced tamales. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees) for about 10 minutes. Yield: 6 servings.

CITRUS PLATTER — Florida's fresh grapefruit and oranges make delicious nutritious appetizers and desserts to light up springtime menus. For an unusual treat, try Cinnamon Oranges.

Low Calorie Dessert Looks Rich

Every hostess dreams of dazzling her guests with a spectacular dessert she's made herself. She pictures something that looks and tastes scrumptious. And, with almost every one counting calories, she'd also like the dessert to be light in calories.

Such is the dream dessert shown here. Blissfully sweet and rich-tasting, Mocha Crown Torte is a culinary triumph sure to please everyone, calorie-counting or not.

Notice there isn't a single grain of sugar in this luscious confection. Instead, perfectly delicious sweetness is achieved through the use of the calorie-free sweetener, sucaryl.

MOCHA CROWN TORTE (Low-Calorie)

4 envelopes unflavored gelatin
½ cup cold water
¼ cup instant coffee
1 tablespoon cocoa
1 quart skim milk
4 tablespoons sucaryl solution

¾ cup nonfat dry milk
¾ cup ice water
12 small lady fingers, split
¼ cup almonds, chopped
Soften gelatin in cold water. In top of double boiler, combine instant coffee and cocoa. Add milk gradually, then egg yolks and sucaryl. Cook over hot (not boiling) water, stirring constantly, until mixture coats spoon.

Remove from heat; add softened gelatin, stirring until gelatin dissolves. Chill until mixture begins to thicken. Beat egg whites until stiff peaks begin to form; fold into coffee gelatin.

Combine dry milk and ice water; beat on high speed of mixer until soft peaks form; fold into gelatin.

Broiled Grapefruit Has Different Taste

Just sprinkle grapefruit halves with sugar and a dash of spice-cinnamon, mace or nutmeg. Then dot with bits of table fat and broil 10-15 minutes with direct heat, on the broiler rack set 3 to 4 inches from the heat.

When the grapefruit halves are just slightly browned and heated through, serve them hot. Or, try baking the grapefruit halves 15 minutes in an oven set at 400 degrees.

Line sides of a 9-inch spring form pan with the lady fingers. Spoon coffee gelatin into pan. Sprinkle with chopped almonds, chill until firm.

Can Use Either One

There are two kinds of vacuum-packed wheat germ on the market—the regular toasted cereal and the sugared-honey product. They are interchangeable in recipes; that is the sugared-honey cereal, nugget-like in texture and slightly sweet, can be used in hamburgers, meat loaves and other recipes where the toasted, italy cereal may be called for, or vice versa.

Blue Cheese Puts Zest Into Beans

Beans de Jour
2 cans (1 pound each) Vegetarian Beans in Tomato Sauce
3 tablespoons minced onion

2 tablespoons blue cheese, crumbled
1 teaspoon Worcestershire Sauce
Heat oven to 350 degrees. Combine all ingredients in a 1-quart casserole. Bake 35 minutes or until beans are hot. Stir before serving. Makes 4-6 servings (¾ cups).

MOCHA CROWN TORTE — A dessert that's worthy of your prettiest serving dish is this Mocha Crown Torte. It looks richer than it is because sucaryl replaces sugar in the recipe for the luscious filling.

Second Thoughts on Easter Ham

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

Last week we told you how to cook your Easter ham. Today, we'll discuss what to do with leftovers.

It's an old joke, but most appropriate — a definition of eternity is "ham and two people."

If you don't want to use left-over ham right away, you can freeze it. Just plan to use it within two to four months.

Freeze a large piece or cut

It in slices, cubes or julienne strips. Grind some for ham loaf or sandwich fillings.

Grind some to use right now in Waikiki Ham Balls. If you make a double recipe, you can freeze half for a quick dinner later on.

WAIKIKI HAM BALLS

1½ pounds ground, fully cooked ham
½ pound ground pork
2 cups soft torn bread crumbs

¼ cup finely chopped onion
2 eggs, beaten slightly
½ cup milk
2 tablespoons shortening
1 can (1 pound 4 ounce) sliced pineapple
¼ cup (packed) brown sugar
½ cup peach preserves
¼ cup cider vinegar
1 tablespoon cornstarch
1 teaspoon dry mustard

Combine first six ingredients. Mix well. Shape into balls using a rounded tablespoonful for each. Brown ham balls in hot shortening on all sides.

Ham balls are delicately soft, so turn carefully. Remove balls from skillet. Drain off drippings.

Drain pineapple slices. Save syrup and add water as needed to make 1 cup liquid. Combine liquids and remaining ingredients in skillet. Heat to simmering stage. Add ham balls.

Cover and simmer until meat is thoroughly done, turning balls several times to glaze evenly, about 30 minutes. Cut pineapple slices in half. Add to meat ball mixture and heat. Yield: 8 servings.

HAM AND APPLE CASSEROLE

2 cans (1-lb 4-oz. each) pie-sliced apples
1 teaspoon dry mustard
2 teaspoons vinegar
½ cup brown sugar
3 half-inch thick country-cured ham slices

¼ cup cornflake crumbs OR 1 package oven-ready biscuits
3 tablespoons butter or margarine

Mix undrained apple slices with mustard, vinegar and brown sugar. Place apple slice mixture into a buttered shallow baking pan. Cut ham into cubes or strips and place in with apple slices.

Sprinkle top of casserole with cornflake crumbs and dot top with pieces of butter or margarine. Or place biscuits on top of the casserole.

Bake in a 375 degree oven for 20-25 minutes or until top of casserole is golden brown. Serves six.

2 large stalks celery
1 small green pepper
½ pound cooked ham
2 tablespoons cooking oil
½ cup raisins
1 tablespoon soy sauce
½ cup orange juice
1 teaspoon grated orange peel
1 tablespoon cornstarch

Peel and cut onion into wedges. Trim and cut celery into diagonal ¼-inch slices (about 2 cups). Remove stem and seeds and cut green pepper into chunks. Cut ham into finger-length pieces.

Cook ham quickly in hot oil until it begins to brown. Add vegetables and raisins. Cook, stirring, until vegetables begin to soften, about 5 minutes.

Add soy sauce blended with orange juice, peel and cornstarch. Cook, stirring, until sauce clears and thickens and vegetables are crisp tender. Makes 4 servings.

STIR FRY HAM AND RAISINS

Date Bread Is Wheaty Kind

A finely speckled quick bread which stores away very well, "Date Wheat Bread" spread with orange marmalade or cream cheese and enjoyed with milk, tea or coffee is a morning, afternoon or evening snack par excellence. Large pieces of mellow fresh California dates contribute significantly to its appetizing moistness and flavor.

Date Wheat Bread

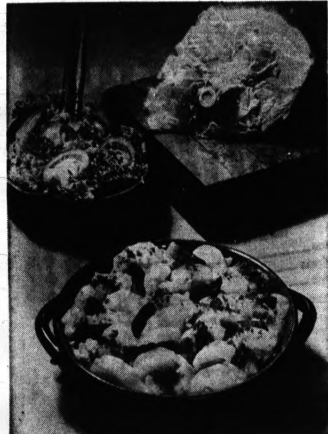

¾ cup milk
1 tablespoon vinegar
1 cup sifted all-purpose flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon baking soda
1 cup fresh dates
¼ cup shortening
½ cup sugar
1 egg
1 cup whole wheat flour

Mix milk and vinegar; let stand 10 minutes. Sift all-purpose flour with baking powder, soda and salt.

Cut dates into large pieces; beat with shortening and sugar until mixture is fairly smooth. Beat in egg and soured milk. Add flour mixture and whole wheat flour; mix just until smooth.

Turn into greased and floured 8x4x3-inch loaf pan. Bake in 325-degree (moderately slow) oven 55 minutes or until toothpick inserted in center comes out dry. Cool 15 minutes in pan; turn out and finish cooling on wire rack.

For best results, store overnight before cutting. Makes 1 loaf.

Add New Flavor to Shrimp Salad

While shrimp is by far America's favorite shellfish, a shrimp salad is the most valuable single fishery in the United States, there aren't, to our knowledge, any readily available figures to show what is America's favorite shrimp dish.

An educated guess might be cocktail, or perhaps French-fried shrimp. Whatever your favorite way of serving shrimp, forget it for the moment and feast your eyes upon a new suggestion, a curried shrimp salad developed by the Shrimp Association of the Americas.

2 teaspoons salt
Juice of half a lemon
1 bay leaf
2 to 3 whole peppercorns or dash of freshly-ground black pepper
1 cup mayonnaise
2 teaspoons curried powder
2 teaspoons soy sauce
2 tablespoons minced green onion
½ cup minced celery
Cherry tomatoes
Whole black olives

Cook shrimp in boiling water according to package directions, adding salt, lemon juice, bay leaf and peppercorns. Drain and cool; then chill. Mix together mayonnaise, curried powder and soy sauce. Chill.

When ready to serve, combine chilled shrimp, green onion and celery. Add mayonnaise mixture and toss lightly. Garnish with cherry tomatoes and whole black olives. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Asparagus Is Good Eating

For the shrimp, you can use the fresh or frozen, the cooked or uncooked, shelled or unshelled. If beginning with the raw shrimp, you may find it easier to shell and devein the shrimp and then cook it.

Asparagus Ham Bake

10 slices of lean boiled ham
1½ cups cooked asparagus cuts and tips
½ cup sour cream
1 tablespoon horseradish
¼ teaspoon garlic salt
Grease 5x3 baking dish or 1-qt. casserole. Roll each slice of ham and place in greased container cover with drained asparagus. Combine sour cream, horseradish, and garlic salt. Pour over asparagus.

Cover and bake in moderate oven at 350 degrees for 25 to 30 minutes. Serve hot. 6 servings.

Cheese and Olives

Cheesy nibbles to savor while snipping — Simply cut a good cheese pastry into assorted shapes, decorate with California ripe olives, brush with butter and sprinkle with more cheese before baking. Or, just as good, roll the pastry around whole olives and shape into neat little balls before baking.

Curried Shrimp Salad

2 packages (1 pound) frozen peeled and deveined shrimp

Shortages of Men's Clothing, Textiles Noted in Wake of Viet

By SALLY RYAN

NEW YORK (AP) — In Mississippi, Mont., a store hasn't had men's boxer shorts, size 34, for three weeks.

"We can't get them," said J. E. Meyer of Missoula Mercantile Store. "I couldn't believe it until I talked to the mill."

Meyer blames stepped-up military buying for the war in Vietnam for his short supply of shorts.

Shortages of men's clothing and textiles — particularly sheets — are showing up in some stores across the country.

Other stores, however, report no supply problems.

BLAME PLACED

Some stores reporting shortages blame the demands of a soaring economy, some the New York City transit strike in January that cut production in the garment industry.

The National Retail Merchants Association issued a bulletin to its members last week, calling on stores to avoid excessive inventory buildups.

"It could prompt the government, which is watching inventories closely, to pull the trigger on controls sooner than might be done otherwise," the NRMA said.

Ely R. Callaway, executive vice president of Burlington Industries, Inc., said with the industry operating near capacity, further acceleration of military requirements would produce temporary dislocations in some civilian areas.

MILITARY WORK

Joseph H. Cohen & Sons, Inc., which makes men's suits and sport coats, said it has turned one of its eight shops in Philadelphia over to military production.

"There is no question but what it is going to delay civilian deliveries," said Rep. M. Cohen, company president, said.

Col. Robert M. Ferrell, chief of the Defense Personnel Support Center's textile and clothing division, predicts that government apparel and textile demands may triple this year. He estimates military expenditures for apparel and textiles will soar to between $850 million and $1 billion in the fiscal year ending June 30, the most since the Korean War.

PREVIOUS YEAR

In the previous year, Uncle Sam spent $300 million on textiles and clothing.

A nationwide Associated in short supply in Dallas, said Wynn Hancock, general of Clarks Discount Department Press spot check of department Tex.; textiles in St. Louis, Mo.; merchandise manager, J. B. Store, Baltimore. "We ask slow. Prices are going to be a about a particular shirt style little higher," too."

men's cotton slacks in Honolulu, Hawaii; men's suits in New Orleans; men's shirts in Atlanta, Ga.; men's blue urban Phoenix, Ariz.; socks and jeans in Daisy, Tenn., and underwear in Wichita, Kan., brushed denim pants in Helena, and men's clothing in Portland, Ore.

"It's a problem and it's going to become a greater problem," said Wynn Hancock, general of Clarks Discount Department Press spot check of department Tex.; textiles in St. Louis, Mo.; merchandise manager, J. B. Store, Baltimore. "We ask slow. Prices are going to be a about a particular shirt style little higher," too."

"We are having difficulties getting men's suits and even boys' slacks because of the shift to military production," said Stan Canepa, division manager of Maison Blanche suburban New Orleans store. "There's no sense talking to the manufacturer. Be happy you got a shirt."

"We are just beginning to feel it," said A. J. Wiles, manager of an East Point, Ga., department store. "Deliveries are slow on denim goods — 15 to 30 days. Deliveries are going to be a about a particular shirt style little higher," too."

Sues Police Under Riot 'Act

SOUTHEND, England (UPI) — William Gordon looked up the law books and then sued the local police for $1,960 stolen by bandits who raided his home.

A law passed in 1886 and still on the statute books says the police can be sued for damages caused in a riot.

The law defined a riot as "a private act by three or more people carried out in a violent and turbulent manner to the terror of the people."

Five gangsters broke into his house six weeks ago, tied him and his family up and got away with furs, jewels and cash totalling $14,784.

But Gordon is only claiming the lesser amount which was in cash and not covered by insurance.

Noise and the Teen-Ager Seem to Be Harmonious

By RALPH DIGHTON
in Science Writer

LOS ANGELES — If your teen-ager turns up the volume while studying — don't fret. "It may be a sign of intelligence," says an educator.

Dr. John E. Hoffman, who has a daughter 19, and feels like an authority on teen-age study habits, recently tested 281 11th grade pupils while recorded music blared at them with a force of 85 decibels for 30 minutes.

By comparison, the average office noise is 60 decibels, a pneumatic drill 90 decibels.

"The sound was not deafening," says Hoffman, "but it was as loud as a symphony orchestra during a crescendo."

HIGH SCORES
Despite the noise, students of higher than average intelligence scored as well or better on examinations than they did when tested in a quiet room, Hoffman said.

"Superior readers tended to perform more effectively under loud noise than poor readers," said the educator. "Students of average and below average intelligence seemed to be bothered more by the sound."

Hoffman made the experiments in earning a Ph. D. in education at the University of Southern California. He elaborated on his findings in an interview.

"Teen-agers like the radio, record player or television turned on loud at any time because they want to feel the sound. They want to participate — to actually feel the beat," Hoffman said.

GOOD MOOD
"They do it when they study because this puts them in a good mood, and thus they are more receptive. Also, forcing themselves to learn under this form of stress increases their concentration, and the superior students seem to learn more rapidly."

But it only works for teen-agers, he cautioned.

"It doesn't work for pre-high school students nor for those in college," he said.

"And it certainly doesn't work for adults. I know. I spent eight hours a day for four days giving those tests in all that noise."

"It almost drove me nuts."

In 1940, there were only 6,000 teachers to serve the entire island of Puerto Rico. Today, there are more than 19,000.

KINGSWOOD QUADRANGLES — That architect Eliel Saarinen planned Kingswood School Cranbrook as "a series of connected quadrangles" appears evident in this aerial view of the Bloomfield Hills private girls' school. The complex, yet informal buildings, on the north shore of Kingswood Lake, are considered to be an example of the famed Finnish architect's best work. The halls at the top of the photograph contain the school's academic areas while those in the foreground include the auditorium, dining hall and dormitory. Dark-roofed Wenger Gymnasium, dedicated last year, is the first addition to the complex. The sister institution to Cranbrook School for Boys, Kingswood School Cranbrook was opened in 1931. There currently are 310 students in seventh through 12th grades at Kingswood. The independent boarding and day school for girls is one of six institutions built on the former estate of George G. and Ellen Booth. Others are Cranbrook School, Brookside School Cranbrook, The Cranbrook Institute of Science, the Cranbrook Academy of Art and Christ Church Cranbrook.

Program for County Employees

Supervisors to Get Merit System Draft

A proposed merit system, or civil service program, for Oakland County employees, will be presented Tuesday for consideration by the County Board of Supervisors.

Members of a special merit system study committee of the board of supervisors yesterday completed a series of meetings and agreed on a final draft of the proposed merit system guidelines.

Copies have been mailed to the supervisors for study prior to the meeting Tuesday.

Action by the supervisors on acceptance or rejection of the merit system proposal is expected at either the April 18 or April 26 meetings of the full board.

Purpose of the merit system is to assure that the selection, pay rate and treatment of county employees is based on merit to recruit and retain top level personnel and to make the county eligible for certain federal matching fund programs.

NOT COVERED
Employees of the Oakland County Road Commission, an autonomous unit, will not be covered by the merit system.

Provisions covering manner of selection, appointment, removal from office or limitation of political activity will apply to all other employees with these exceptions:

- Officers elected by popular vote and persons appointed to fill vacancies in such offices.
- Officers and employees for whom the constitution specifically directs the manner of appointment.
- Appointees of the board of other officials or official bodies.
- One deputy or assistant in each of the elective offices.
- Attorneys and investigators employed by the prosecuting attorney's office.
- Judicial secretaries to circuit court and probate court judges.
- Persons serving in temporary or part-time positions.

The proposed merit system calls for establishment of an appeal procedure, giving employees with regular status the right to appeal dismissals, suspensions and disciplinary action to a five-member appeals board.

COMPRISE BOARD
This board would consist of two members of the board of supervisors appointed by the chairman of the board with board approval, two members selected by county employees and the fifth member selected by the other four.

Personnel policies, according to the proposed merit system, would be administered by a seven-member personnel policies board.

All would be members of the board of supervisors appointed by the chairman with concurrence of the full board and all would serve one year terms.

EXAMINATIONS
Competitive examinations will be the basis of filling positions under the merit system. However, present employees will not be required to take an examination.

Promotional examinations may be requested at the discretion of department heads having a vacancy to be filled.

Beatnik Barred From France

LONDON (UPI)—A young Scottish student had the distinction today of being the first person barred from France under new restrictions against beatniks.

Robert Reid, 20, said he tried to get off the cross-channel steamer at Calais yesterday with a guitar and a kit bag but was halted by customs agents who asked how much money he had and wasn't his hair a bit long on the sides.

When he could only show $25.48, the customs agents ordered him back aboard the ferry and sent back to England.

Earlier this week, French officials announced they would turn away tourists whose "untidy appearance, shaggy hair and general grubbiness present an undesirable spectacle."

Weather Control Not Stressed

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the last of three dispatches in which UPI's Harry Ferguson reported on current theories on weather control.)

By HARRY FERGUSON
UPI National Reporter

WASHINGTON — In attempts to control our environment and modify the weather, we create problems almost as fast as we solve them. Soil experts know how to prevent dust storms from fouling the air, but the chimneys of our factories pour a steady stream of pollution into the atmosphere.

Malignant smog hovers over Los Angeles and other big cities. Millions of automobiles poison the air from their exhaust pipes. Some estimates are that polluted air costs the United States $11 billion per year, which may be too high. But it is a sizable sum, and it also is a menace to our health.

The Radio Corporation of America has discovered that worker absences because of respiratory diseases are five times greater in New York City, where the air is dirty, than they are in Cincinnati, where things are comparatively clean.

Irving T. Michelson has just completed a three-year study of the problems of 7,000 American families living in cities. The survey translates air pollution into terms we understand best — what it costs a home owner in dollars and cents over one year. It runs like this:

- Inside maintenance — additional cleaning and painting of walls, washing windows, curtains, drapes and rugs: $227.
- Outside maintenance — additional washing and painting of walls: $368.
- Laundry — extra washing for family of four: $186.
- Personal cleanliness—more soap, shampoo, etc: $48.

VAST SUMS

Small wonder that many persons are reluctant to approve the spending of vast sums of money in an attempt to control the weather. Their argument is that there are more immediate problems that deserve our cash and our attention.

Another discouraging factor is that there seems to be no signs of progress in dealing with the real "killers" of Mother Nature — cyclones, tornadoes, avalanches, hurricanes, tidal waves, earthquakes and volcanoes.

The National Academy of Sciences' Research Council, in a recent report, disposes of the matter tersely: "No prospect of practical success in modifying hurricanes or tornadoes until such time as adequate theories of the genesis and behavior of these storms are developed."

What has happened is that the completed three-year study of life has been dropping the problems of 7,000 American families living in cities. The survey translates air pollution into terms we understand best — what it costs a home owner in dollars and cents over one year. It runs like this:

But the danger potential of the killers remain, and scientists will not be happy until they have devised means to attack hurricanes and tornadoes and beat them to their knees before they can get started on their lethal journeys.

The National Academy of Science concedes that its experts are groping in the dark: "Not even the most successful aircraft reconnaissance and radar surveillance have yet come close to completely revealing the structure and dynamics of a hurricane from birth to death."

But if we do not understand the nature of the killers, their tragic results are too often before our eyes. The power and ferocity of hurricanes and cyclones are difficult to comprehend.

The easiest way to do it is to leaf through a book by Frank W. Lane, called "The Elements Rage," in which he has assembled some verified description of the killers at work:

- On Sept. 2, 1935, a hurricane passing over Florida picked up a beam of wood 18 feet long and six by eight inches in cross section and shot it 300 yards through the air. It then smashed through a house, wrecking it like an artillery shell.

- At St. Louis, after the tornado of 1896, some wheat straws were found imbedded more than an inch deep in a tree trunk.

- On June 22, 1919, near Fergus Falls, Minn., a tornado struck the Oriental Limited while it was traveling about 35 miles an hour. Seven of the train's 11 coaches were blown from the track. The baggage car was wrecked away and set down 30 feet away at a right angle to the track.

- At Wellington, Wash., March 1, 1910, the worst avalanche in the history of the United States occurred. The snow-capped Thompsons, a water tank and the railroad station over a ledge. One hundred persons were killed.

- Lightning struck an arsenal at Brescia, Italy, in 1789 and more than 100 tons of gunpowder exploded. A sixth of the city was destroyed, and 3,000 persons were killed.

State Workers' Turnover High

LANSING (AP) — State Civil Service workers, reacting to good job opportunities elsewhere, are quitting at the highest rate since the Korean War, Frank DeWald, state personnel director, reports.

Civil Service turnover, which has averaged about 10 per cent in recent years, was up to 18.3 per cent in 1965, DeWald said. It hit a high of 24 per cent at the time of the Korean War.

The state's average Civil Service work force in 1965 was 34,477, and 5,635 workers quit, said DeWald.

He attributed the turnover rate to the high level of the economy and a tight labor market.

The State Civil Service Commission authorized an average 6 per cent wage increase for state workers last December, but delayed the raise until July 1 to give the Legislature a chance to consider it in authorizing budgets.

Class to Teach PR Campaign Directing

A learn-by-doing course in directing public relations campaigns will be offered at Oakland University on five consecutive Tuesday afternoons beginning April 19.

The communication skills workshop is cosponsored by the Pontiac Area United Fund and Oakland University's Division of Continuing Education.

It is designed for social agency representatives, community project directors and lay citizens often called upon to conduct drives.

Recognized authorities in several fields of news reporting and public relations will guide workshop participants through a mythical campaign during the 3-5 p.m. sessions.

The first class will be conducted by John Fisher, public relations director of the United Foundation campaign.

CONSULTANTS
Consultants for the April 26 session will be Robert J. McBride Jr., director of news and community affairs at WJBK-TV; Hal Youngblood, executive producer, WJR; and Leontine Keane, director of radio-television publicity, Wayne State University.

Conducting the May 3 workshop will be Tony Spina, Detroit Free Press chief photographer.

2 Found Innocent of Bribing Officer

DETROIT (AP) — Anthony (Tony Jack) Giacalone and Claude E. Williams were found innocent Wednesday of bribing a police officer and conspiracy to bribe an officer.

A Detroit Recorder's (criminal) Court jury returned the verdict after 2½ hours of deliberation. The three-year-old case was the oldest on the court docket and set a Detroit record for legal trials.

Giacalone, reputedly head of Detroit's Mafia, and Williams, his associate, were specifically accused of giving Police Lt. James Thomas $250 in 1963 in return for laying off a gambling operation.

will lead the May 10 workshop.

The May 17 session will be conducted by Mae Derderian, director of public relations and education for United Community Services of Metropolitan Detroit.

ALSO MODERATORS

Planning committee members who also will serve as moderators are Troy Crowder, Oakland University public relations director; Donald J. Frey, director of the Pontiac Area United Fund; Robert A. Bogan Jr., Birmingham Community House executive director; Roger L. Srigley, public relations programming, MacManus, John and Adams, Inc.; and Donald M. Miller, manager of the Oakland regional office of the American Red Cross.

Other committee members are Virginia Loveland, public relations director, Pontiac Area United Fund; Boris G. Sellers, associate director, of continuing education at Oakland University.

Reservations and further information on the workshop can be obtained from the conference department at the university.

Wedding Album

A Living Remembrance for Bride

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the second in a series of articles having to do with wedding preparations. Summer brides should be in the process of choosing a photographer right now.

By MADELINE DOEREN
Long after your bridal bouquet has shed its petals and the wedding gown stored away, there's an indelible record of the most important day in your life... your wedding photographs. These are an integral part of your memories, your own personal publicity, so to speak.

You'll be showing them to your children and possibly to grandchildren some day so they should be the very finest.

Consult several photographers as soon as the wedding date is set, then choose the one you feel will do the best job for you. Set up the appointment as soon as your gown is ready. Make this as early as possible thereby avoiding rush and tension which make one less photogenic.

Pictures may be taken at home, in the bridal shop or in the photographer's studio which offers the ultimate in lighting, equipment and background. They may even be taken at the church if the bride dresses there an hour or so before the ceremony.

For the home photograph, choose the most photogenic background, also the simplest. Pictures of the bridal attendants may be taken at this time and presented to them as a memento of the happy occasion.

The veil and dress should, of course, be pressed for the occasion and the same jewelry worn as for the wedding. Hair should be soft, clean and shiny, and worn in the most becoming style.

A permanent wave, if needed, should be scheduled about a month before the wedding day. Enough sleep the night before the appointment is a must. Wear a minimum of lipstick and moisten your lips just before the camera clicks. This gives a sheen. Don't wear red nail polish!

Most photographers take three types of portraits... close-up, three-quarter and full length, unless the gown is a sheath with much detail on bodice and sleeves.

Arrange for black and white glossy prints for the newspapers to meet their deadlines. Few papers use pictures of the bridegroom.

For the press pictures, suggest to your photographer that these be taken against a fairly dark background so that the veil and gown will stand out. About one-third of those received at The Pontiac Press had posed against white backgrounds and provide no contrast.

If you plan complete coverage of the wedding with photographs to be taken at the church, inform the photographer of the time and place of the ceremony and your arrival time.

Give the clergyman's name, the number of attendants, names of any important guests to be photographed and when the music will start.

Remember when tossing your bouquet after the reception, to fling with the arm furthest from the camera... then you'll be less apt to cover your face at the crucial moment.

AVERAGE PRICES

We have checked prices with leading area photographers. The average cost of an album of 24 to 30 pictures eight by 10 inches in size, in black-and-white, is about $125.

Twelve five by seven inch black-and-white prints in an album are priced at about $40 and one dozen eight by 10's at $55.

An album of 12 eight by 10 color pictures with complete coverage will be priced from $85 to $100. Eighteen pictures will run about $118 and 24 will cost approximately $150.

Let Fiance Decide on This Move

By The Emily Post Institute

Q: My fiance's parents are divorced and both have remarried. He does not live with either parent but has made his home with an aunt and uncle ever since he was 10 years old.

His parents have shown very little interest in him and he considers his aunt and uncle as his parents. At our forthcoming wedding, would it be proper to have them take his parents' place at the church and the reception?

His own parents will be present at both but my fiance feels that his aunt and uncle should be given the honors. What do you think about this?

A: If your fiance feels that his aunt and uncle have truly taken the place of his mother and father, you should follow his wishes and give them the places of honor at both the church and the reception.

STATIONERY

Q: Will you please tell me if bordered stationery is in good taste for a man, or must it be plain?

A: A man's stationery should be plain without any border.

Details concerning the announcement of an engagement are described in the Emily Post Institute booklet entitled, "Announcing the Engagement."

To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Emily Post Institute, in care of The Pontiac Press.

The Emily Post Institute cannot answer personal mail, but all questions of general interest are answered in this column.

Rev. McAlpine Will Speak

The Rev. James P. McAlpine, minister to the University Christian Federation, Oakland University, will be guest speaker for the Episcopal Churchwomen of Christ Church Cranbrook April 19.

He will use the topic "The Church's Ministry in Higher Education." This segment of the day's program will follow 10 a.m. celebration of the Holy Communion in St. Dunstan's Chapel.

Rev. McAlpine, a former Marquis Fellow at Christ Church Cranbrook, completed his formal education at Trinity College, Hartford, Conn. and the Episcopal Theological School, Cambridge, Mass. The McAlpines and their four children now make their home in Rochester.

After a noon luncheon, the meeting will continue with 29 models and four junior models presenting a fashion preview of "The Cranbrook Collection Revisited," featuring designer originals selected from items which will be available at the annual spring benefit sale at Christ Church April 23.

The program will be highlighted by parodies of E. Franklin Hitch of Birmingham. The women also will be entertained by the "Rummage Game Club." Another special attraction will be "Birmingham Bertha" and her dancing chorus of "Bloomfield Bombers."

Heart Association Sets Body Mechanic Classes

The Michigan Heart Association has announced "Heart of the Home" classes in work simplification and body mechanics will be offered in Oakland County.

The sessions, for benefit of homemakers with limitations of time, energy or physical activity, will be from 2 to 4 p.m. April 18 at the Oakland County Heart Information Center, Hunter Boulevard in Birmingham.

The association reports, "Experience has shown that the classes have great value for many physically handicapped individuals as well as for those who must conserve their energy."

The free classes are presented by Mrs. Alice Epple, consultant in homemaker rehabilitation, MHA. Mrs. Epple follows the theme "Take it easy by the way you use your body." It includes discussions and demonstrations of sit-down work, work levels, selection and use of household equipment, kitchen layout, work centers, storage arrangements and the application of work simplification principles to specific jobs.

Mrs. Epple emphasizes that the instruction is concerned with useful techniques for life and work, and that no medical advice is given.

Registration may be made and further details obtained by calling the Oakland County Heart Information Center.

The "Heart of the Home" program is made possible by the

MHA through funds contributed to the Michigan United Fund.

An August wedding at Kirk in the Hills is planned by Royann Carol Kidney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy C. Kidney of Beverly Hills, and Frederick Bentley Clark, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Clark Jr. of Apple Lane. Miss Kidney attends Eastern Michigan University. Her fiance is a graduate student at the University of Michigan and member of Delta Tau Delta fraternity.

Love Is Where You Find It, and He Found His in Vision

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Thank you for the understanding you showed when someone asked what you thought of a 62-year-old woman marrying a "boy" of 23.

I know something of that kind of marriage, having been married for five years to a fascinating woman who is my mother's age. We met when I was 20 and she was 55. She had been a widow for 20 years.

ABBYY

For the next five years I dated all the young chicks and I ended up marrying her. She has 10 grown children, 38 grandchildren, and two great-grandsons.

I have always had the feeling that my wife and I knew each other in another life somewhere in the 16th century.

When I was a small boy I kept having recurring dreams in which I would promise an unidentified little girl playmate that I would come back to her. Years later, when my wife showed me a picture of herself as a little girl, it proved to be the replica of the childhood playmate in my dreams.

You may use my name, I want to go on record as saying that being married to an "older" woman is wonderful. Sincerely yours,

DAVID S. SASSO

DEAR ABBY: You keep insisting that men want to marry "nice" girls. That idea went out with World War II. Don't get me wrong, Abby, I am still a "nice" girl, but I'm beginning to wonder if it's smart.

I get heart sick when I go out with a fellow I think is different, and when he learns I am not about to play his game he says, "I'm not wasting my time with you. What do you think I took you out for?"

Then I have to fight him off, and I have the bruises to prove it. While I continue to cling to my high principles, I keep reading in the newspapers that fellows I fought off are marrying girls I knew had fast reputations. Then I could kick myself. What is a girl supposed to do anyway?

"TOO NICE"
DEAR NICE: She's supposed to behave herself. And almost without exception, the girls who have to fight off men, and have the bruises to prove it, prove only that they are leading the men on a bit too far.

Women at All-Saints Slate 14th Annual Antique Show

The women of All-Saints' Episcopal Church are engaged with plans for their 14th annual antique show and sale.

The exhibit will be from 11 a.m. to 10 p.m. April 19-21.

Special attraction for browsers and shoppers at the show will be a "tea hour" from 3 to 5 p.m. when hot English scones, brownies and cookies will be served. Salads and desserts, prepared by women of the congregation, also will be available.

Buffet luncheons will be served from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. A balcony tea room will be open from 11 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily.

Proceeds from the show will help to support the many missionary projects at home and abroad undertaken by women of All-Saints'.

Among the many dealers exhibiting for the antique display are a number from this area. They include: Herb Martin of Pontiac, chair caning, rush weaving; Frances Rupe, "The Music Box," Orchard Lake, music boxes, organ, Dorris Ballentine, "Green Shutters Antiques," Clarkson, furniture, brass, china, etc.; and Anne Thatcher, Oxford, large furniture, china, ironstone.

Others are: Chloann Smith, "The Country House General Store," Ulica, woven mats, table cloths, candy; Joan Hersh, Troy, books and silver; Lillian Grow, "Trash and Treasures," Royal Oak, trunks, lamps, stands, etc.; and Wanda McKinnon, Royal Oak, butter churns, wood bowls, brass, etc. Completing the dealers' list are: Leonard Berry, Pauline Work, Therese Moore and Garnette Walters, all of Detroit; Mrs. Carl Sparks, Nashville, Mich.; Ariene Lambert, Highland Park; Mrs. Ray Curtis, Okemos; H. Thayer Fletcher, Flint; and Elsie Harms, St. Clair Shores.

Mrs. Robert Tricker is manager of the show, assisted by Mrs. Fred Cackle and Mrs. Maxwell L. Shadley, general chairmen.

Others working on the event are: Mrs. Russell Thurston, Mrs. Bryan Kinney, Mrs. Palmer Strang, Mrs. Roy Lewis, Mrs. Kenneth R. Hess and Mrs. C. Byron Gilbert.

Also lending assistance are: Mrs. J. Vernon Madigan, Bruce Meixsell, Mrs. James Hampton, Mrs. Bruce MacDonald and Mrs. Charles Crittendon.

General food is under chairmanship of Mrs. Clarence Smith and Mrs. Kenneth Burr. Their assistants are: Mrs. John Riley, Mrs. Victor Sutt, Mrs. Donald Harrison, Mrs. Arthur Thomas, Mrs. Bruce Hubbard, Mrs. C. George Widdifield and Debbie Strang.

Tickets may be purchased at the door or from members of the church. Also handling ticket sales are: Mrs. George H. Hicks, Rochester; Mrs. Robert Boynton and Mrs. Arthur Williams of St. Philip's Episcopal Church, Rochester; Mrs. Douglas Kuehne, Church of the Resurrection, Clarkson; and Mrs. Richard Morgan, St. Andrew's Episcopal Church, Drayton Plains.

Erik Olaf Arrives

Mr. and Mrs. James Christy (Carolyn Wharton) of Urbana, Ill., announce the birth of a son, Erik Olaf, on April 4. Grandparents are the Walter J. Whartons of Rugby Circle and the Olaf Christys of Chicago, Ill.

Three generations eagerly awaiting All-Saints' Episcopal Church's annual antique show are Mrs. Horace Young of Riviera Street (left) with her daughter, Mrs. Wayne Pyke and granddaughter Pamela, five, of Waterford Hill Terrace. Pamela is charmed by a Civil War vintage doll with hand-made body and leather hands, a proud possession of Miss Emma Howard.

Are You Bride-to-Be?

Are you planning a wedding in 1966? We are interested in having your engagement and wedding news. But we need your cooperation.

The Pontiac Press has printed forms for both engagement and wedding announcements. But you may send in the details, giving full names and addresses (husband's names for a married woman) and other pertinent details.

Please include a telephone number so that we may check if necessary.

TIME LAPSE

There must be four months between engagement and wedding stories; if there is to be a picture with both. No engagements are announced less than a month before the wedding date.

We prefer to receive wedding stories and pictures before the ceremony.

If pictures are taken at the wedding, we must have them no later than two days after the ceremony (that is, by noon Tuesday for Saturday weddings.)

If the wedding takes place out of town, this deadline is extended.

BEST PICTURES

Pictures should be black and white, preferably glossy prints. Snapshots cannot be used. Color and tinted prints are not acceptable.

While The Pontiac Press makes no promise to use every picture submitted, some printed mention of the event will be made.

There is no charge for editorial space, but it cannot be reserved nor can we promise the size of picture or its position.

Engagement and wedding pictures are kept for two months, then discarded. They may be called for any time after publication.

Judge Pratt Is Speaker at Meeting

For his talk before Beta Chi chapter, Epsilon Sigma Alpha sorority, at the April meeting in the YWCA, Circuit Judge Philip Pratt chose for his topic "American Heritage."

Officers elected for 1966-7 at the meeting are Mrs. James Stone, president; Mrs. Robert Williams, vice president; Mrs. Dorsey Underwood recording secretary; Mrs. Joseph Orosy, treasurer and Mrs. Jere Donaldson, corresponding secretary.

They will be installed at the next meeting which will be in the home of Mrs. Don R. Murphy, Locklin Drive, West Bloomfield Township.

Donations were made to the YWCA and the geriatric wards at Pontiac State Hospital. A portable television set will be purchased and presented to Dr. Julius Rutsky for his pediatric waiting room in St. Joseph Mercy Hospital.

Mrs. Everett Harris, local music teacher and Mrs. La-Von Ryden, local vocalist, will participate in the luncheon program at the forthcoming state convention in Kingsley Inn.

Mr. and Mrs. N. P. Warrenner of Foster Street recently celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary. The couple was honored at a dinner at Devon Gables. Their sons and daughters are: Gerald Warrenner, Indianapolis, Ind.; Alvin of Russell Street; Mrs. William H. Taylor Jr., Ottawa Drive; and Mrs. Robert Shorey, Wenonah Drive.

When in Doubt Use 'Basic White'

When in doubt as to the correct table covering to use for company dinner, choose that plain white cloth. Like your basic black dress, it can be dressed up or down with different accessories, and it always looks right.

CHAPTER 16

The application of soft, subtle color brightens up your whole appearance, and as a result, perks up your personality. It's wonderful for sallow complexions, for days when you aren't feeling up to par, and in the evenings (fluorescent lighting has a tendency to drain color from the face). Remember, though, a little goes a long way.

Face powder is an important step in your overall makeup because it "sets" all other makeup. Here's how to apply it:

- Dip a large puff of cotton deep into a box of fluffy, almost transparent powder (the colorless kind is best).

- Bend forward and press the puff firmly against your face and neck, avoiding the eyelids and lashes (for now).

- Let powder set for a few minutes — you have to give the base time to absorb it.

- Turn cotton puff over and brush off excess powder in a downward direction. (The downy facial hairs that hold powder grow that way.)

- Brush powder out of eyebrows with a big eyebrow brush, first the wrong way, then into place.

Use a clean cotton puff each

time you powder, to prevent skin infections.

Yesterday we discussed the application of foundation base and rouge, and now, powder. What next? If you look carefully at yourself in the mirror, you'll notice that your face needs definition around the eye area. And that brings us to the next big step — eye makeup.

EYE SHADOW (stick):

- With stick itself, stroke shadow lightly across lids.

- Blend color into nothing past outer corners, using fingertip.

I don't think eye shadow is appropriate for school, street, or even date wear. Why not save up the extra sparkle and depth it can give your eyes for very special evenings?

Gray and brown are the most natural-looking colors, and camouflage pinkish lids. Older girls sometimes go in for shades that match their eyes or clothes (for gala occasions, of course).

KEEP SUBTLE

Besides an eye shadow stick, you might want to try cream or powdered shadow. Cream is applied with your fingertip, powder-type with its own brush. Whichever type you choose, remember to keep the shading subtle.

EYELINER (liquid):

- Stretch lid out gently.

- Dip bottle brush in bottle or add drop of water to cake liner or cake container; wipe brush on side of bottle until a small amount of color remains on brush.

- Draw a narrow, careful line

as close as possible to the base of lashes, beginning at the inner corner of the eye and working across to the outer corner.

If your eyes are close together, start the line in from the inner corner of the eye and tilt upward a quarter of an inch past the outer corner.

If you use pencil, rules 1, 3 and 4 apply. Be especially wary of smudging.

Powder the entire lid area (including eyelashes) BEFORE you use eyeliner. Puff on powder, let set and brush it off. (This helps prevent smudging and sets your eye makeup.)

MASCARA:

- If you use cake mascara, dip brush in water and rub over mascara.

- If you use a cream mascara, run brush over it lightly.

- If you use a roll-on type, just remove it from tube.

- Hold a hand mirror under your chin and look down into it.

- Coat the top side of your lashes with mascara.

- Still looking down, coat the underside of your lashes. (This makes them curl upward.)

- Holding brush or roll-on in "up and down" position, add a little mascara to outer lashes.

- Separate lashes with a clean, dry lash brush. Choose a color in the brown family — it's more natural-looking.

The powder you left on your lashes serves as a base for mascara and will make them look twice as thick.

EYEBROW PENCIL:

- Remove any excess powder from brows with a little water on cotton or a clean eyebrow brush.

- Take eyebrow pencil and use short, quick strokes to fill in brown; or use eyebrow darkener which comes with its own brush.

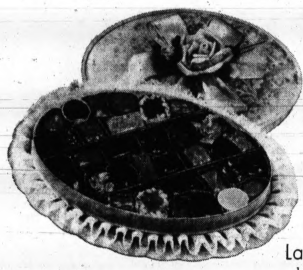

- Fill in the area from the arch of your brow to the end.

- Brush brows into place.

From the book published by G. P. Putnam's Sons.

Than Not at All

Say Better Bareheaded

NEW YORK — Don't let the fact that you don't have a new Easter bonnet keep you from attending church services this Easter — your pastor will be glad to have you, even bareheaded.

According to The Insider's Newsletter, clergymen hate to look down from their pulpits at a sea of makeshift headcoverings fashioned from facial tissues, dollies and gloves, but they would rather see you bareheaded than not at all.

Even in the Catholic Church, covering your head is a matter "of custom but not requirement," says an information officer at St. Patrick's Cathedral in New York. "It is a sign of respect," she added.

An Episcopal minister notes that "when women ask if they should wear hats we say yes, but in the light of present-day customs and attitudes we do not require it."

The Newsletter also posed the question of whether a wig could count as a "headcovering." The information officer at St. Patrick's acknowledged that she doesn't know inasmuch as no one has ever brought the question up.

Restores Glaze

After the glaze has become worn from chintz cloth, it can be restored somewhat by dipping it in a thin solution of starch to which a small amount of paraffin wax has been added.

Takes on Circus Look

A "Book Circus" is planned April 19 when women journalists stage their ninth annual book sale from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. at the Detroit Press Club.

Members of the Detroit chapter, Theta Sigma Phi, national professional fraternity for women in journalism, will welcome the public to the sale at the club, located at First and Howard streets. Normally it is open only to members and guests.

Detroit television weather forecaster Sonny Elliot will visit the literary circus at noon, and Jerry Booth of the children's TV show "Fun House" will be on hand at 6 p.m.

Costumed circus characters will act as book saleswomen, to the tune of catnip music.

ALL VARIETIES

Browsers will find paperback and hard cover books, original cartoons and records. Book chairman Louise (Mrs. Nelson J.) Roy anticipates that more than 5,000 books will be assembled for the sale which annually attracts hundreds of book-lovers, including many well-known area members of the press, radio and television.

The sale benefits the Lucy Corbett Scholarship Fund, established in memory of a beloved Detroit woman journalist, and helps deserving women students of journalism complete their education.

Well-known Detroit authors will be on hand to autograph copies of their books which will be sold at the Book Circus. Among them are photojournalist Joe Clark and Lillian Jackson Braun, author of "The Cat Who Could Read Backwards."

Cochairman of the sale is Mae Derdarian. Assisting are Janet (Mrs. Carmi) Odell, Barbara Marx, Patricia Kroger, Betty (Mrs. Frank) Angelo, Barbara (Mrs. Frank) Nolan, Margaret (Mrs. James B.) Hendrix and Sibi (Mrs. Frank) Gill.

Completing the assistants list are: Fran Maier, Laurena Pringle, Vera (Mrs. Frank) Nolan, Margaret (Mrs. James B.) Hendrix and Sibi (Mrs. Frank) Gill.

Pincurl Pointers

When pincurls come out snarled they probably were wrapped too tightly. If the curl falls out, it was probably wrapped too loosely. Only practice determines the exact tension to apply. Dampen pincurls with good quality witch hazel. It dries quickly, leaves hair and scalp sweet smelling.

Holding a spectacled "trained walrus" Mrs. Nelson J. Roy of St. Joseph Street, West Bloomfield Township, is ringed by but a few of the many books ready for a "Book Circus" April 19 at Detroit Press Club. Ringmaster Mrs. Roy is chairman of the event, staged by Detroit's chapter of Theta Sigma Phi, professional fraternity for women in journalism.

A Book Browser

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — When Kenny Brackett, operator of the Capitol Book Store, became owner of a Beagle hound he named the dog "Boy."

After watching the dog stroll around the store for a few days "just like a customer" "Brackett changed Boy's name to one he considered more appropriate. He is known now as "Browser."

Why Grow Old?

Q. With summer coming up I need a rapid answer to my problem. I'm 32 and have two children. I'm 5 feet 6 and still have a good figure, (36-23-35). BUT HELP! My upper legs are a sight! My thighs bulge with thick flab just below my hips for about six inches down my leg. This is terribly noticeable in shorts and slacks. I took dancing lessons throughout my teens and wonder if this could be the cause.

A. Dancing might overdevelop the muscles, but it couldn't cause fatty deposits. The bulge you describe is often due to muscle slump plus deposits of fat. Do the following exercises.

Lie on your back with your legs straight and your arms out at your sides, palms toward floor. Keep your legs straight as you roll your hips from side to side. Roll as far in each direction as you can.

Lie on your left side. Brace yourself by putting your right hand on the floor in front of you. Raise your right leg up as far as comfortable and then lower it. Continue. After a while turn onto your right side and raise and lower your left leg.

ANY HOPE?

Q. Is there any hope for a double chin that is already there? Would every day massage by hand help? What about a throat cream?

A. A double chin is usually due to poor posture and deposits of fat. Therefore you should try to improve your posture and lose any overweight if you have too many pounds. The following exercise will help you greatly improve the situation.

Lower your head backwards. Hold it that way while you chew in an exaggerated manner, opening your mouth wide. And pat a lubricating cream on your neck every night.

Try Matting Pictures

Mats play an important role in framing and displaying pictures.

According to the Picture and Frame Institute they serve two integral functions:

- A mat separates a very delicate picture from the frame and background making an oasis between it and the frame. It serves to strengthen and emphasize the lines and colors of a composition.
- Matting can make a small picture appear larger and give it importance.

Generally, a mat is at least 2 1/4" at top and sides and 3" on the bottom. This wider bottom margin is to compensate for optical illusion, for a mat the same size at bottom and sides, will actually appear to have a narrower bottom.

Mat colors can pick up and repeat a predominant color in a picture or harmonize with surrounding room colors.

If you're a do-it-yourself fan you can make your own picture mat by following these directions:

- Measure opening in back of frame and cut the mat to fit opening.
- Place picture on the mat so that top and side margins are the same and the bottom one is wider.
- Measure a quarter inch in from each corner and mark on the mat. Connect these points with light pencil lines.

- With a sharp razor and a metal edge ruler cut through the matting just to edge of marked lines and remove cut part of mat.
- Place picture straight on mat and fasten with masking tape.

With the picture matted, you are now ready to finish framing. The Institute recommends putting glass into a frame first, then the matted picture. Secure mat to frame with headless nails. Cut a piece of heavy brown paper the size of the frame and glue it to back.

Insert eye screws on the frame, one-fourth of the way from top, and attach picture wire for hanging.

More Marrying Than Separating

RENO, Nev. (AP) — Although Reno has the reputation of being a "divorce capital," marriage licenses in 1965 outnumbered divorces by more than 6 to 1.

A total of 27,166 wedding licenses were issued, up ten per cent over the previous year, as compared to 4,318 divorces issued in 1965.

Mrs. Lucinda Wyckoff of Newberry Street is the "Lucinda" in today's Polly's Pointers. Here she illustrates her pointer for shortening skirts that cannot be hemmed.

Polly's Pointers

Area Woman Wins

DEAR POLLY — My Pointer is for those gals who have two-piece knitted suits of yesteryear. Try boys' suspenders under the blouse to hike the skirt length. This works fine and there is no extra bulk around the waist as when the top is turned over. I find they can be adjusted as much as three or four inches—LUCINDA

DEAR POLLY — Three-year-olds outgrow their clothes so fast. My daughter had two slips with fitted bodices and full-gathered skirts that became too small around the waist and chest. I opened each side seam to the waist and inserted half the top of one of her worn out socks in each side.

The socks were white with deep ribbed tops. It is necessary that the skirt be gathered so as to take care of this extra width at the top. The slips have some stretch so are easier to put on as well as being enlarged for longer wear.—JEANNIE

DEAR POLLY — When we Camp Fire girls go on a camping trip we take along a large, used juice can. We punch holes in the bottom of the can with a nail and then tie the can to a tree to use for washing our hands. A bucket of water is placed nearby and, when we wash, we pour water from the bucket into the can and it comes out through the holes. The water does not get dirty and the soap washes away.—A CAMP FIRE GIRL

DEAR POLLY — To clean my typewriter keys I use a small wire brush intended for cleaning suede shoes. It does the job easily.

If you need a blotter in a hurry, try blotting with a piece of newspaper. It really works.—ADA

DEAR POLLY — My husband was putting ceramic tile on our kitchen wall and after he finished putting the grout on the directions said to strike the joints by pressing a narrow end of a toothbrush handle firmly against all tile joints. We did not have an old one so he used the handle of a rat-tailed comb. It worked fine and did a wonderful job.—DORA

DEAR POLLY — When a loop buttonhole tears on any of my clothing, I crochet a chain with a few strands of thread to make a neat-looking new one.—IDA

Anyone submitting a Polly's Problem, a solution to a problem or a favorite homemaking idea will receive a dollar if Polly uses the item in Polly's Pointers.

POLLY'S PROBLEM

DEAR POLLY — I am chairman of the ways and means committee of the ladies' group in our church. My mind is a blank. I cannot think of anything different from the bazaars and bake sales we have always had. Please ask the other girls what they do to raise money for their clubs and churches.—TERRY

Wants to Study Gap in Lifespans

The gap in lifespans between men and women is increasing, and a constitutes one of the nation's most serious medical and social problems, a prominent woman physician declares.

No one knows quite why women live longer than men, but intensive research should be started to find the reason or reasons, says Dr. Katherine R. Boucot of Women's Medical College, Philadelphia. At age 65, half the women who have lost their husbands will live another 15 years, and one-third will live 20 years, Dr. Boucot writes.

Stretch Fabrics Like This Thread

Nylon thread is recommended for stretch fabrics as it is very strong.

Even so, stretch the garment seams fore and aft to make sure you have enough thread length for the needed stretch in the seam. A short zigzag stitch is ideal for stitching stretch fabrics, any fabric, in fact.

Wife Should Hold On to Paid Up Policy

By MARY FEELEY
Consultant in Money Management

Dear Miss Feeley:
I am a married woman and the mother of two children. Twenty years ago at age 19, I took out a 20-payment life insurance policy in the amount of $1800. The premiums were $4.70 a month. I have reached the end of the premium-paying period, and MARY FEELEY have accumulated annual dividends and interest amounting to $270.07.

The cash value of the policy is $467 for each $1,000 of insurance, which would be $467.00 for the $1800. This is the only insurance that I have on my life. Should I continue to leave the policy as is with the company on a fully paid-up basis, with annual dividends being left to accumulate? Or should I cash in the policy for the $467.00, plus the $270.07 interest and dividends, and re-insure myself at the age of 40? I am in good health and do not need the cash.

J. Z., Yonkers, N.Y.

Dear J. Z.:
Hold on to the policy as is. If, however, your company will permit you to buy paid-up additions with your dividends, and subsequent ones — which is unlikely at this point — such an arrangement could prove a savings tax-wise.

As for re-insuring yourself at age 40, if you feel the family situation needs this protection, then buy what additional insurance you can without cashing in this policy you mention. Premium rates at your age, of course, would probably be as much as 50 per cent more per $1,000 than you paid for the policy you bought at age 19.

Dear Miss Feeley:
On the back of Series E Bonds, there is a statement: "I do not hold U.S. Savings Bonds of Series E originally issued to me in excess of the amount fixed by regulations."

Could you tell me what this fixed amount is?

Also what are bank investment certificates?

L.P.H., Jersey City, N.J.

Dear L.P.H.:
The fixed amount that you ask about is $10,000 (face value) in E bonds that can be issued to one person during any calendar year. Where bonds are purchased in the names of two individuals as co-owners, each may hold $10,000 or together $20,000.

As to Bank Investment Certificates, these are considered time deposits to be purchased in certain denominations in multiples of $100 with a specified minimum either $500 or $1,000. You agree in advance to deposit the money for a specified period of time, such as six months or one year. For this reason these Certificates offer a higher interest rate than regular savings accounts. If you want to withdraw any of the money, you usually have to give 30 days notice, and there will be a reduction in the interest rate you receive.

Dear Mary Feeley:
Our daughter will be entering a business school after graduation in June. She will then stay with relatives.

We would like to know what would be a reasonable amount for her to pay them for their hospitality, based on a five-day week and two meals a day.

Mrs. W.R., Seaford, Del.

Dear Mrs. R.:
Since your daughter will not be earning a salary at this point, you can't go by the rule-of-thumb for room and board — which is generally estimated at from one-fourth to one-third of the paycheck. So you could start by using the moderate food plan of $6.50 to $7.00 for five days.

The additional amount you'd want to pay for your daughter would depend on whether she will be sharing a room, and the other services she will be getting.

(You can write to Mary Feeley in care of The Pontiac Press. Questions of wide interest will be answered in her column.)

Make Double Batch of Cocoa Brownies

By JANET ODELL,
Pontiac Press Food Editor

Brownies probably take honors for the all-time favorite cookie. But sometimes when you're hungry for them, there isn't any chocolate in the house.

Then it's time to get out Mrs. Ian R. Olley's recipe — it's a family specialty — and make Brownies with cocoa.

Remember not to over-bake Brownies or they'll be dry.

BROWNIES
By Mrs. Ian R. Olley

¾ cup flour
1 cup sugar
½ cup vegetable shortening
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 eggs
¼ teaspoon salt
5 tablespoons cocoa
¼ cup chopped nuts
Mix ingredients in order given. Pour into greased 8x8 pan. Bake 25-30 minutes at 350 degrees. When cool, spread with your favorite chocolate frosting and cut into squares.

Says Teen-Agers Require Cultural 'Hitching Posts'

Too many of today's teenagers are in danger of being lost permanently to the world of fun-morality, according to a noted author and lecturer.

Clifton Fadiman, Humanities Consultant for Encyclopaedia Britannica Films Inc., warns that youngsters from fifteen to eighteen are most vulnerable to seduction by the post 3 PM world of the frug and the hopped up sports car.

"PLASTIC PERIOD"

"During this plastic period the boy or girl may be moved one way or another. If they are captured by the world of passive entertainment, they may eventually operate all their lives at intellectual low-throttle," he said.

"The high school student, fortified with little or no perspective, is quite naturally persuaded that only the present exists," he said. But Fadiman believes that for all their rebelliousness, high school youngsters are desperately seeking something to which they can attach themselves. They can be easily lost in a world that is too big if they lack hitching posts.

Fadiman believes that the Humanities — the study of literature and the arts — provide them with the finest hitching posts our civilization has been able to set up.

The Humanities help supply youngsters with the lacking perspective and give them some awareness of civilization as a whole.

Fadiman believes that the Humanities can be successfully deployed against the nonmental world of sport, diversion and rapid motion. "They are the ideas, images, sounds, passions, great historic actions, heroes and villains to which and to whom the adolescent is peculiarly sensitive," he declared.

Mr. and Mrs. Irvin C. George of Carlisle Street, announce the engagement of their daughter, Karen Ann to Paul Lawrence Rossman, son of the Seward A. Rossmans of Lake George Road, Addison Township. He is a senior at General Motors Institute. A June 24 altar date is set.

New Process in a Minute

In the future fabric manufacturers may be able to provide consumers with a yard of cloth in as little as 1-50 the time it now takes.

Jean Schubel, clothing specialist with Michigan State University, relates that manufacturers are developing a new method of manufacturing fabrics that is neither knitting nor weaving.

The new process enables manufacturers to produce two to three yards of cloth in a minute. With present knitting and weaving processes it takes a machine 10 to 50 minutes to produce two yards of cloth. The time now required depends on how dense the fabric is to be, she notes.

Cutting production time from nearly an hour to only a minute for every two yards of fabric will have far-reaching influences on the economics of the fabric business, Miss Schubel added.

The new fabric manufacturing process uses multi-needle machines. The apparatus stitches together yarn or fiber layers.

Create Fund for Campers

Members of the Alpha chapter, Beta Theta Phi sorority gathered in the Hathon Drive home of Mrs. L. Z. Monroe Tuesday evening.

Highlighting the meeting was the viewing of an oil painting donated by Mrs. Charles Kreher which will be sold by the group with proceeds slated for a fund to enable two girls to attend Camp Oakland summer camp.

A benefit sale is scheduled by the group at the Community Hall in Clarkson on May 13.

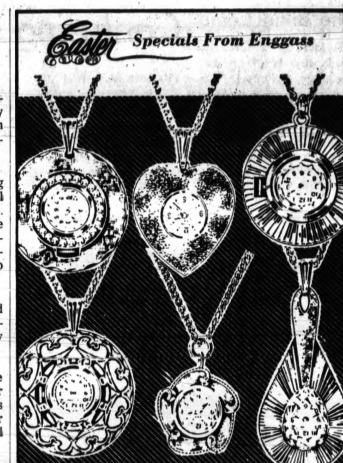

Also on the agenda was the selection of Mrs. John Kinsler and Mrs. Walter Kinsler as representatives at the dinner at Camp Oakland on April 18.

Speaks of Book to Round Table

Mrs. D. R. Lazelle opened her home on Ledgestone Drive for the April meeting of the Round Table Club, with Mrs. George Cram and Mrs. James H. McGuire as cohostesses.

A book review of "A Gift of Joy" by Helen Hayes was given by Mrs. Arthur W. Selten.

Election of officers is slated for the May meeting in the home of Mrs. K. K. Kreitz.

Confusing Isn't It? Rage and Love

By MURIEL LAWRENCE
DEAR MRS. LAWRENCE: I've just learned that our 17-year-old boy has borrowed money to buy himself a used car. He's done this because my husband took away the one we gave him after he got a ticket for speeding.

He's keeping the new car in a friend's garage. There's been so much trouble over this car question between him and his father that I'm afraid of what his father will do if he hears he's borrowed money.

ANSWER: Why on earth did your husband take his first car away from him? You can't make a 12-year-old boy stop speeding in cars by removing one from him. If he's bent on speeding, he can always find another car to risk his life in, if not in one of his own, in the cars of his friends. What a strange way to express one's loving fear for a child's life!

Your son isn't the only speed demon in your family. Your husband is one, too. He has sped right over his loving concern for this child's life and, instead of exploding this original feeling, has exploded a secondary one—his rage at the discomfort caused by his love and fear. So the boy has been sped over awareness of their existence in his father and has exploded defiant rage of his own.

No wonder. He's been given the notion that he's being punished instead of the truth that could evoke responsibility from him, the truth that his life is precious to the man who begot him and who has nourished and protected him for 17 years.

I suppose your husband is too proud to tell the boy he loves him and too proud to restore his car to him, which would make that love so clear that the boy would begin to take better care of the life that's so valuable to his father.

It is sad that fathers believe it is much more manly to explode rage at a child who has made them feel loving fear than it is to explode the loving fear. It is most unfortunate that they regard love and fear as weak, feminine feelings that must not be revealed at any cost lest their manhood come into question.

The result is they give their children such a false, unfair impression of them as unreachably angry bullies. In an excellent paper on fathers and defiant sons by Norman Epstein of Brooklyn's Psychiatric Centers, I find this line:

"The fathers in this study denied tenderness to their boys in order to encourage their masculinity."

Ah, well. So long as fathers' manliness obliges them to express loving fear as rage, sons are going to express it by responsive rage. And nobody is ever going to get to know anyone.

Daughter Is Born

Former Pontiac residents Mr. and Mrs. Tom O'Brien of Ann Arbor announce the birth of a daughter Heather Lynn. Paternal grandparents of the child are Mr. and Mrs. Ward O'Brien, Lotus Court. Mr. and Mrs. Rowland McLaughlin of Ann Arbor are maternal grandparents.

Skit Planned for Church Luncheon

The Women's Association of the Church of the Atonement, United Presbyterian, on Clintonville Road, will have a luncheon at one o'clock, April 14, in the church social rooms. A play titled "Mothers Don't Have Much Fun," directed by Mrs. Herbert Allen will be presented following the luncheon.

Mrs. Ray Bush will lead devotions. Hostesses are Mrs. Crea Clark, Mrs. Leonard Moss and Mrs. Terry Smith. Table decorations will be by the Rebekah Circle.

A nursery will be provided.

Selling Autos Is Her Forte

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—A car salesman's indifference led to Mrs. Annie Rassinier's first job 34 years ago. Today, at 71, she's still going strong.

"I'd be a fool to quit now," she says. "The auto agency is getting ready to move to a new location right around the corner from my home. I won't even have to drive to work."

She has sold more than 5,000 cars, and some of her customers have been with her for years.

It all began in 1931 shortly after her husband died. Mrs. Rassinier was left with four children.

"I had a BA degree from Buford College in Nashville and no idea how to put it to work when I went in to buy a car."

"A car is a big investment. Before you spend that much money, you ought to ask questions and you're entitled to intelligent answers. I went up to the manager, told him how I felt, and got myself a job."

Three days after Mrs. Rassinier delivers a car, she calls the new owner to check on the performance. Thereafter, she calls once a month throughout the first year.

"When my customers have a complaint, they come to me and I go with them to the service department. I'm not very popular back in service. I nag. But I get results and that's what my customers want."

The Henry C. Barkers of Ferndale, announce the engagement of her daughter, Jacqueline Joy Wallace, to Homer Lee Hassenzahl, son of the Fred H. Hassenzahls of Alberta Street, Pontiac Township. Both attend Spring Arbor College, Spring Arbor, Mich., and plan Sept. 3 vows.

Fill Baskets for Patients

Easter baskets were filled for patients at the Orchard Lake Nursing Home by members of Iota Nu chapter, Beta Sigma Phi sorority recently.

The project got under way in the Shadick Street home of Mrs. Ronald Applegate.

Committees in charge were headed by Mrs. Larry Girard, Mrs. Andrew Kiviklan, Mrs. James Schimp and Mrs. Applegate.

Mrs. James Talley was selected as "Girl of the year" by the chapter and will represent her unit at the founders day dinner scheduled for April 27 in the Holiday Inn.

'His Ear's Are OK'

TRENTON, Mo. (AP)—A woman called a business adviser and asked to speak to her son-in-law. A girl in the office said: "I don't believe he can talk to you. He has laryngitis."

The mother-in-law answered: "He doesn't need to talk, I'll do the talking."

BETHEL COLLEGE

Two Pontiac coeds at Bethel College, Mishawaka, Ind., are on a 4,000 mile tour with the college's concert choir. They are Marla Lloyd, daughter of the William Lloyds, Emerson Street, and Carolyn Simmons, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Simmons, Lorraine Court.

The choir, whose members are chosen on the basis of Christian character as well as musicianship, will make appearance in Indiana, Illinois, Minnesota, Western Canada, the Dakotas, Iowa and Nebraska.

CENTRAL MICHIGAN

Offices in the Inter-Fraternity Council, Central Michigan University recently were given to two area students.

DOUG

Larry Nichols, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Nichols, Green Street, was elected president. A junior, he is affiliated with Pi Kappa Phi fraternity.

Doug Stranahan, son of the Neil Stranahans, Fremont Street, has been named vice president. Also a junior, he is a member of Tau Kappa Epsilon.

MICHIGAN STATE

Rosemarie Tripp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Tripp, South Hammond Lake Drive, has been elected corresponding secretary of the Junior Panhellenic Council at Michigan State University. A member of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority, she is a sophomore.

OHIO WESLEYAN

At Ohio Wesleyan University, Delaware, Ohio, Debbie Peterson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Peterson, Andersonville Road, has been chosen senior advisor to freshman students for the 1966-'67 school year. Miss Peterson also is a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority and Orchestras, a modern dance group.

U. OF M.

Martha Kurzwil, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kurzwil of Orchard Lake, has been admitted to the Honors Scholar Program at the University of Michigan. She was accepted on the basis of high academic achievement and teacher recommendations. Martha is a school of music sophomore.

Recently initiated into Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority at University of Michigan was Mary Lou Snyder. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Snyder, Devon Brook Drive.

The Snyders' son Joe, a senior at Michigan State University, has returned to the campus after spending spring vacation with his family.

'Good Old Doc'

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — He's still kindly, but the modern family doctor no longer is old, according to a tabulation by the American Academy of General Practice — the association of family medicals.

The tabulation showed that more than 54 per cent of the organization's 29,000 members are under 50 and that the highest percentage of these doctors are between 40 and 44.

Old Wool Socks Become Mittens

When men's wool socks wear out at the feet, turn the tops into play mittens for the children. Have the child place his hand on the flattened sock and trace the shape of the hand and thumb with chalk.

Sew around the pattern on the sewing machine and then cut out. The tops of the socks make nice cuffs. These mittens keep their hands warm when they play outdoors during the winter months.

WESTERN MICHIGAN
Judy Hillman, daughter of the Marvin Hillmans, West Huron Street, recently was tapped for Mortar Board at the annual spring breakfast on the Western University campus.

JUDY

Mortar Board membership comes only to a select group (12 to 15) of university women at the close of their junior year. Judy, an art major, is affiliated with Gamma Beta chapter, Sigma Kappa sorority, and currently its president.

Other campus activities for Miss Hillman include Snow Carnival, homecoming, the women's tennis team and residence hall positions.

Nikita, U.S. Hit at Red Parley

MOSCOW (UP) — The 22nd Soviet Communist Party Congress, the Kremlin's largest Red conclave in nearly five years, rushed toward its finale today with twin attacks on ex-Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev and the United States.

Discussion of Premier Alexei N. Kosygin's new five-year economic plan was expected to end today or tomorrow with its automatic adoption by the 5,000 Soviet delegates.

The meeting itself was expected to close tomorrow or Saturday after the reelection of Communist party boss Leonid I. Brezhnev and other Kremlin leaders.

A series of speakers yesterday blamed Khrushchev for damaging Russia's iron and steel industries, and they attacked the United States for trying to subvert the Soviet people, particularly their youth.

Although Khrushchev has neither attended the congress nor has been mentioned by name, his image and administration have been criticized regularly by Communist officials.

WIDE RANGE
They have accused him of everything from "undue haste" and "amateurism" in economic planning to errors in permitting the publication of "pessimistic and skeptical" books.

Russia's estranged allies, the Communist Chinese, also have come in for some ideological blasts from officials at the conclave. But yesterday, Peking hit back.

An editorial in Peking's official People's Daily newspaper assailed the Russians for practicing "nominal" Socialism and charged that a "privileged stratum" of well-paid managers and technicians were restoring capitalism behind a thin facade on non-private ownership.

The cultural minister, Mrs. Yekaterina Furtseva, turned on the United States, charging "reactionary propaganda" from the West was "making savage attacks on Socialist culture."

Other speakers have complained that American and foreign radio broadcasts to Russia were endangering the interests of Soviet youth.

Water Deaths Down

EAST LANSING (AP)—Michigan had a good year in water accidents in 1965, State Police report. The final count showed 245 persons killed in 547 water accidents during the year. This was a reduction of 45 in deaths and 59 in accidents from the previous year.

WOULD SERVE AGAIN — Desmond T. Doss of Rising Fawn, Ga., a Seventh-Day Adventist who served in World War II as a conscientious objector, holds the Medal of Honor awarded him for bravery in the battle of Okinawa in 1945. Doss, in World War II uniform (left), is the only conscientious objector to win the Medal of Honor.

AP Photofax

Objector-Hero in WW II Says He'd Serve Again

RISING FAWN, Ga. (AP) — 77th Infantry Division on Guam, Desmond T. Doss is a frail and meek looking man who served in World War II and says he stands ready to serve his country again if called upon. He says he expects his son, Desmond Doss Jr., 19, to do the same.

"When Uncle Sam gives orders, you do or die trying," Doss says.

What is unusual about Doss, 47, is that he is a conscientious objector — a Seventh-Day Adventist — and the only conscientious objector to win the Medal of Honor.

A 126-pound former cabinet maker, Doss lost one lung and six ribs and suffered other serious injuries as a result of duties in World War II. He now lives in a quiet existence in this remote Lookout Mountain community.

ARMY MEDIC

Doss won the nation's highest military decoration as an army medic in the battle for Okinawa in 1945. His Medal of Honor citation credits him with the single-handed rescue of 75 men on a jagged escarpment. The citation said Doss — a private — showed "outstanding bravery and unflinching determination" in going beyond American lines to rescue the soldiers, bring them back under fire, and lower them from a 30-foot cliff on rope litters.

Doss, who refused to touch a weapon or stand Saturday inspections because these things were contrary to his religion, was the butt of jokes and abuse when he was drafted in 1942.

But he refused a discharge. When other enlisted men threatened to kill him, Doss prayed for them.

"I couldn't kill anybody or anything," said Doss, whose 11-acre mountain farm is something of a wild animal sanctuary. "I don't think many persons have had more temptation to take life than I have. I just put my trust in God and let other men do the fighting."

OFF TO PACIFIC

The Army finally made him a medic and shipped him to the Pacific in 1944.

"It's not against our religion to save lives on Saturday," Doss said.

He landed with troops of the for six hours before other medics reached him. But as he was being carried to a first aid tent, Doss saw other soldiers more seriously wounded. He crawled off the litter and refused to be evacuated.

Later, he was shot by a sniper and crawled to first aid. Though GIs wept when they saw him.

Doss said his son, who works in Chattanooga, Tenn., received a 1A draft classification recently.

"He has applied for a 1AO classification, which means he has religious reservations about carrying arms," said Doss. "I won't be a bit surprised if he doesn't go to Viet Nam someday as a medic."

NO VOLUNTEERS

Seventh-day Adventists don't volunteer for military service but they don't object to being drafted, Doss said.

"We should be called conscientious cooperators. We serve both God and country. The Bible teaches that a person should recognize the power of his government."

"I believe that as long as a person is not required to go against the Lord, he should serve his country in any way he can."

Doss said he did not approve of fighting and killing but these things are inevitable.

MUST 'FACE UP'

"The Bible says there will always be wars and rumors of wars, earthquakes and famines and other troubles. The Lord expects us to face up to these things," he said.

Doss, who was born in Lynchburg, Va., came to this rural area after several years in a hospital after World War II. He is head deacon at a small church, which he keeps in repair with his carpentry skills, and is chief of the Community

Rescue Service.

Several months a year, he travels as goodwill ambassador for the national church and recently completed a Caribbean tour visiting Adventist soldiers.

"I'm afraid I don't keep up with things in Viet Nam," he said. "I'm concerned about the weekend to let the drivers ratify war, of course, but when I think about the experiences I've had, it unnerves me."

'Nye' to Electric Blanket

Soviets Facing Cold Winter Nights

MOSCOW (UPI) — There will be no electric blankets for those long winter nights in Russia for at least the next five years.

But Soviet consumers will soon get their first look at Russian-made electric frying pans, portable washing machines, electric home hot water heaters and electric clothes dryers, according to one high appliance industrial official.

Soviet planners are also calling for a voice for housewives in the conception of goods destined for their use and dreaming up such innovations as a built-in vacuum cleaner to which an apartment-dweller would merely attach her pickup hose and watch the dust go whizzing away to soil someone else's dainty hands.

Anatoly Kozlov, chairman of the all-union household electric appliance and machinery organization, cast the wet blanket on the electric kind in an interview in "Week" (Nedelya) — the weekend supplement of the government daily Izvestia.

He also warned consumers that the five-year plan up for approval by the current Soviet Communist party congress would provide no authorization for the manufacture of electric power saws and planes for the home carpenter, electric floor scrubbers or electric window-cleaning machines.

REFRIGERATORS

Refrigerator production will go up to 19.5 million units between Jan. 1, 1966, and the end of 1970—as against a total of 7.5 million units during the 16 years beginning in 1950—and at least six lines of refrigerators which proved unsatisfactory to consumers will be eliminated while production is streamlined and parts interchangeability increases, Kozlov said.

As if in anticipation of the changeover, Soviet sales clerks were warning some of their customers this week of one of the flashier-looking lines of refrigerators as "unreliable" — and recommending a sturdier-looking model which they said is "sure because it has stood the test of time."

I. M. Khreshin, director of the Institute for the Study of Consumer Good Supply and Demand, urged a greater voice for housewives in another article in the same issue of "Week."

He said Soviet industry had discontinued some quality items just as the workers began earning enough money to buy them and then failed to produce enough other items now in demand, such as tape recorders and sewing machines sought because housewives were dissatisfied with the ready-made clothes available to them.

"It is necessary to stress that it is not enough just to produce items, these items should be of high quality as the requirements of the customers increase," he wrote.

He said planners should hesitate before ordering up the production of more vacuum cleaners and first pull housewives on whether they would prefer buildingwide vacuum systems with just a plug-in suction hole in each apartment.

"Before producing, we should estimate the pros and cons," he said.

Attention potato growers!

Dig Big!

You'll "dig big" if you prevent hidden soil insect damage with Chlordane. Both yields and quality will be improved. Better stands, healthier plants and fewer culls will give you bigger profits at harvest time.

APPROVED Chlordane has a U.S.D.A. label registration for the control of wireworms and other soil insects in potatoes, based on an FDA residue tolerance of 0.3 ppm.

PROVEN Chlordane, through years of testing and commercial use, has proven to be the most effective insecticide that is now permissible to use for soil insect control in potatoes.

PROFITABLE Chlordane gives your crop complete protection for just a fraction of the increase in yield and quality that result from its use.

CHLORDANE CONTROLS: Wireworms • Mole crickets • Cutworms • Seed corn maggots •

Tuber flea beetle larvae • White grubs • European chaffer larvae • White fringed beetle larvae • Earwigs • Other insects.

Negro Protests AEC Experts to Inspect Michigan's Proposed A-Accelerator Site Today

Halted in Dixie

Alcorn A&M Campus Calm After Disorders

LORMAN, Miss. (AP)—The Negro against Negro civil rights dispute at Alcorn A&M College settled into pre-Easter calm today after three days and nights of stormy protests.

The highway patrol, which guarded the campus home of Alcorn President J. D. Boyd with 50 troopers during a demonstration Wednesday night, reduced its force to two cruising cars.

No classes were scheduled Friday and students prepared for Easter trips home.

The nighttime demonstration, which followed a day of quiet, started with a noisy snake dance some distance from Boyd's house and ended with about 370 students filing silently by the two-story structure.

NEGRO LEADER

Boyd says Negro leader Charles Evers is responsible for the disorders. Evers has said Boyd should be removed from his post for suspending students and firing faculty members involved in civil rights activity.

Evers had flooded the campus with elementary-school children, Boyd said, in order to create trouble. He also denied the charges by Evers, an Alcorn graduate who became state field secretary for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Roy Wilkins, executive director of the NAACP, extended his support Wednesday to the student protests.

"The situation at Alcorn college is a long standing indictment of Mississippi's segregated education system," he said.

Big Blast Rips Bunker at Ex-Ordnance Plant

AMBOY, Ill. (AP)—A strong explosion Wednesday night tore apart a steel and concrete bunker at a former government ordnance plant near Amboy in northwestern Illinois. Shock waves were felt 35 miles away.

State Police said 10,000 to 12,000 pounds of ammonia nitrate, a chemical used to make explosives and liquid fertilizer, detonated. They said the cause of the blast was not determined and no injuries were reported.

ANN ARBOR (AP)—Federal atomic energy experts planned to examine today Michigan's proposed site for a vast atomic accelerator facility.

Gov. George Romney and other state and University of Michigan officials were to estimate to cost $350 million or more.

The facility is expected to become a national center for atomic research which will employ some 2,000 scientists and highly trained technicians.

annual payroll is pegged at about $60 million.

Federal requirements for the site include an adequate geologic foundation and proximity to a major university, air transportation and metropolitan area.

The Legislature confirmed Wednesday the state's earlier promise to provide land for the project. It approved a resolution committing the state to the land purchase and utility improvement.

Sen. Garland Lane, D-Flint, said it could cost $5 million to $10 million, but the investment would be many times returned if the project comes to Michigan.

The Atomic Energy Commission group was to inspect the Madison, Wis., site later today.

Other contenders are near Sacramento, Calif., Brookhaven, N.Y., Chicago, Ill., and Denver, Colo.

Per capita income in Puerto Rico has risen from $121 in 1940 to more than $330 today.

Chief Nine Hopes to Overcome 'Its'

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the seventh in a series of articles in which Press sportswriters size up league races among area high school baseball teams.)

Getting the baseball title away from the co-champions of the Saginaw Valley Conference is going to be a man-size chore. Midland and Flint Southwest split the diamond gem last year, and while both have obvious weaknesses, there seems to be no one around this season with the strength to challenge them.

Among the teams that could make the race interesting are Pontiac Central and Flint Central.

Flint Northern suffered from graduation and from the realignment when Flint Northwestern opened; Saginaw and Saginaw Arthur Hill will be rebuilding; and the two Bay City schools — Central and Hagley — back in SVC baseball competition after a brief layoff, are strictly darkhorse candidates.

The situation at Pontiac Central is real 'it's' and coach Mel Nuss makes no effort to disguise it.

Nuss and the Chiefs posted a 2-6 record in SVC play last year in finishing sixth. The team had an over-all mark of 7-11.

And from that team, Nuss has nine players back plus some potential starters who advanced from the junior varsity.

Central's success will be riding on the arms of a pair of junior pitchers — Gary Richardson and Cecil Martin — both right-handers.

The two had a combined won-loss record of 6-6 last season and Nuss needs better production this year to make a run for the title.

PCH PROBLEMS

Among Nuss's ifs are "If our defense can tighten up and if back in SVC baseball competition after a brief layoff, are strictly darkhorse candidates."

sponse to those two 'ifs,' it could be bad news for the Chiefs' foes.

Among the returnees are co-captains Tom Howard, an outfielder who hit .275 last season, and third baseman Jerry Murphy, who compiled a .280 mark at the plate in '65.

The other lettermen include catcher Paul Roberts, first baseman Mike Villareal, second baseman Rick Farms, shortstop Frank Dell and center fielder Bill White.

Midland and Southwest have the pitching.

The Chemics of Midland, who posted an over-all mark of 13-6 last season, have two starters back — senior Gordon Green, who posted a 4-2 mark and an ERA of 0.73, and senior Dave Reece, who fashioned a 1-1 record along with an ERA of 0.53.

JV HELP

Coming up from the junior varsity to give the Chemics a lift are juniors Brian Sullivan (2-2) and Jim Kern (3-0).

Southwest lost a few infielders from the '65 team that compiled a 15-5 record, but the Colts have three hurlers returning who combined for 10 of those victories.

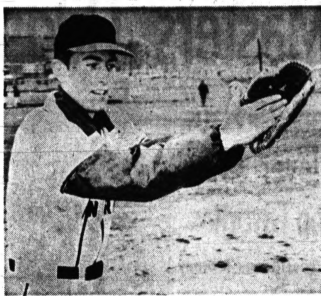

Senior Dennis Bergeron racked up a 4-2 record and batted .300, while Duncan Beagle finished 3-2 and junior Jerry Kramer 3-1.

Guest Speakers at Midland CC

Two officers of the Professional Golfers Association of America along with a golf equipment manufacturer will be guest speakers at the Michigan Section PGA meeting April 18th at Midland Country Club in Midland.

On hand will be Warren Orlick, treasurer of the PGA, who is also head pro at Tam O'Shanter Country Club in Orchard Lake; Leo Fraser of Atlantic City, N.J., PGA secretary; and Bill Kaiser, vice president of Hillerich and Bradsby Company of Louisville, Ky., makers of golf clubs and baseball bats.

THIRD SACKER—Senior Jerry Murphy will be at third base when Pontiac Central opens the 1966 baseball season. Murphy, who quarterbacked the Chiefs on the football field last fall, pounded out a .280 average last season with the bat.

Family Factors Prompt Paul Dietzel's Switch

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — Paul Dietzel said he considered a win and a tie in four games with arch rival Navy.

Dietzel said he would bring his entire defensive staff from the U.S. Military Academy.

Concerning the present Gamecock staff, Dietzel said, "We'll have an amalgamation of people, but it will be basically the same staff that went with me to West Point from LSU."

George Terry, Dietzel's chief assistant, will head the defensive staff and will be assistant athletic director. Basketball Coach Frank McGuire will remain associate athletic director.

Others coming from Army are Larry Jones, a defensive coach nine years under Dietzel, and Bill Rowe, who handles centers and linebackers.

"I finally worked down to one paragraph on each side of the paper. There were some valid reasons for both places."

"But I did what I felt was best for my family. I've been married for 22 years and my wife Ann is the most important thing in my life. Ann and the kids."

The Dietzels have two children, Steve, 17, and Kathy, 13. Both were born while he was an assistant coach at West Point.

MOVED TO LSU

From Army, Dietzel moved to Louisiana State as head coach. His seven Tiger teams had 46-243 record and the 1958 squad was national champion.

Dietzel created a furor when he broke contract at LSU to take the head coaching job at Army. The Cadets were 21-18-1 in four years under Dietzel, with

Tug of War Over Braves Nears End

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Milwaukee-Atlanta tug-of-war over the Braves is nearing an opening day showdown with Wisconsin brandishing a carrot and a stick in hopes of drawing baseball to the bargaining table.

The state made a dramatic shift in position Wednesday as the trial of its antitrust suit against the Braves and the National League closed with an oratorical clang.

Special counsel Willard S. Stafford asked Judge Elmer W. Roller to order the Braves back to Milwaukee this season only if the league failed to agree by Tuesday to give Milwaukee an expansion team for 1967.

Tuesday is when the Braves are scheduled to open their National League season in Atlanta after 13 years in Milwaukee.

It was the first time the state publicly dropped its unconditional demand for baseball in 1966, a demand baseball officials have said could not possibly be met.

NOT RULED OUT

Baseball has not ruled out expansion to include Milwaukee in 1967.

Roller, who was told by baseball attorneys that he could not succeed in ordering the Braves back to Milwaukee, reserved decision in the case until this weekend. The white-haired Milwaukee County circuit court judge promised a ruling by Saturday or Sunday.

Baseball attorneys went through with their final arguments as if no offer had been made, but Baseball Commissioner William Eckert, contacted in Washington, expressed interest.

"This is a development that the National League will have to take under consideration. It will have to be studied."

Tigers Picked to Win American League Pennant and Face ...

By JACK HAND
NEW YORK (AP) — Picking the American League used to be a breeze. Put the Yankees on top, Washington at the bottom and then fill in the spaces. It doesn't work out that way any more. It probably is safe to eliminate Kansas City, Boston and Washington before a bat is swung in anger. After that sixth-place finish, 25 games back, New York almost goes into the same category. Almost, but not quite.

There are those who believe the Yankees still may awaken and regain their lost glory. However, they are in the minority. Mickey Mantle is only a pinch hitter, Tony Kubek is retired and Jim Bouton still is looking for that fast ball.

This shapes up like a typical National League-type race with five of six teams having a chance at it.

Minnesota has the bombers and Baltimore has added Frank Robinson's power. Eddie Stanky has the Chicago White Sox hustling and Cleveland is thinking big. Granted that every club has a weakness that could prove fatal, Detroit looks like the best bet to this observer with a good balance of young and experienced pitching and pretty fair sock. Chuck Dressen will cook the chili and pull the strings. All he needs is a solid bullpen man and a little bit of luck in avoiding injuries. At this time of year on a clear day you can see forever. It may look different in October. The following predicted order is guaranteed to put the kiss of death on the Tigers:

1. Detroit
2. Baltimore
3. Minnesota
4. Chicago
5. New York
6. Cleveland
7. California
8. Washington
9. Boston
10. Kansas City

A healthy Al Kaline and the slugging of Willie Horton and Norm Cash give Detroit solid run potential. The infield is solid, but not brilliant, and the addition of Dick Tracecki to back up the regulars should help. The Tigers are very thin in catching behind Bill Freehan.

Baltimore has the big boom with Boog Powell, Frank Robinson, Curt Bleaary and Brooks Robinson but the absence of Dick Brown, who underwent brain surgery, leaves a gap in the catching department.

It remains to be seen if Hank Bauer can find enough pitching to make up for the loss of Milt Pappas to Cincinnati. Dave McNally and Steve Barber on the starting line and Dick Hall and Stu Miller in the bullpen are the solid staff members.

There is a disposition to believe that the Twins won't do it again but this may be a horrible mistake. With Harmon Killebrew, Don Mincher, Jimmie Hall and Zoilo Versalles the defending champions have plenty of muscle. A second base gap by a broken finger. The Sox hung in there last year, finishing second with Juan Pizarro winning only six games. If Eddie can do better he should be the manager of the year.

The Yanks' problems are many, starting with Mantle who has been limited to pinch hitting duties as he recuperates from shoulder surgery. Roger Maris appears to be back in the groove and Elston Howard is healthy. Whitey Ford and Mel Stottlemyre are the solid pitchers. Two rookies, Roy White and Bobby Murcer, can hit but it remains to be seen if they can do the job in the field.

... Giants in World Series Play

NEW YORK (AP) — Nobody's Milwaukee with six men hitting 20 homers. The air will be balmy in Atlanta, but they still need pitching. Pittsburgh closed like gangbusters and still finished third. They have the same team back for another try. The Philadelphia Phillies are going through their annual spring housecleaning after the winter deals. Gene Mauch still is looking for more pitching and juggling that outfield.

Things look dark for the Los Angeles Dodgers and not just because they won last year. Even if the sun did peek through the smog when Sandy Koufax and Don Drysdale finally signed, they missed a lot of work. If Koufax wins 26 and Drysdale wins 23 again this year, they should abolish spring training.

Cincinnati couldn't win with Frank Robinson so why should they do better without him. The Braves couldn't make it in Chicago. This could be the year the Giants finally get together and live up to their potential. With Lindy McDaniel to help Frank Linzy in the bullpen and Orlando Cepeda back to put his shoulder to the wheel, the Giants present a strong lineup.

Most of all, the Giants have Willie Mays, the outstanding player in all baseball. Mays says he will take a day off now and then, but he'll be in there for about 150 of the 162 games.

Herman Franks' main problem is pitching. He will have to get by with ordinary shortstop work. The rest of the line-up is loaded. If Cepeda ever comes back to his old form, that power brings us to the San Francisco Giants. This is known as the process of elimination. This could be the year the Don Heffner has approached his first big league managing job with the zeal of an evangelist. He convinced Pete Rose, the All-Star second baseman, to move to third base to make room for his buddy, Tommy Helms. Deron Johnson is making the switch from third to the outfield.

Jim O'Toole must come back strong and Milt Pappas must turn out to be a big winner if the Reds are to make up for the loss of Frank Robinson's power. They got Jim Maloney in line just in time.

Cage Tourney Record Broken

LANSING (AP) —Michigan's State High School Basketball Tournament hit a record again this year in attendance and gate receipts.

It was a continuation of a steady climb for the past 10 years, reported Charles Fryslyte, state high school athletic director. The attendance for district, regional, semifinal and final tournaments was 741,703, $6,916 over last year.

Gross receipts were $686,440, $34,721 more than last year. Entertaining and competing schools received $245,435 from the total, up $9,772 from last year. Some $75,000 probably will be voted to the schools, about $10,000 more than last year.

Radio and television rights this year amounted to $19,650, up from the $8,000 last year.

Cassius Clay Seeking Money, Title Belt

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Cassius Clay needs $26,500 today to stay out of jail — and $50 to get his heavyweight championship belt out of lock.

He has until this afternoon to come up with the larger amount in alimony for his former wife, Sonji, and attorneys' fees and court costs from the divorce.

And Clay probably could get his championship belt back for the $50 for which it reportedly was locked with a New York bartender, if he knew where the bar is.

Circuit Judge Harold Spear of Miami, Fla., gave Clay 48 hours Tuesday to raise the $26,500 when the champion failed to appear for a hearing in the case earlier this week.

Clay's chances of coming up with the divorce money appear good. Arthur W. Grafton, attorney for the champion's Louisville sponsoring group, said Wednesday.

The money probably will come from Clay's friends outside the sponsoring group, however, Grafton said. So far, the attorney said, Clay hasn't asked the group to bail him out of his financial troubles.

Clay's difficulties were reported Wednesday by the Louisville Courier-Journal. Grafton said Clay's problems are not the fault of the sponsoring group.

"We have distributed to Clay his share of everything and are trying our best to collect more money," Grafton said.

A big part of the problem is that Clay can't get his hands on almost one-half million dollars he has coming for his two latest fights.

Canada is holding Clay's share of the purse for his bout last month in Toronto with George Chuvalo until a tax audit is completed.

Clay hasn't received about half of his purse from his bout last November with Floyd Patterson. This money is tied up in a lawsuit filed by SportsVision which claims it had the closed-circuit theater rights to the Toronto fight.

The fight was telecast by Main Bout Inc., formed by some of Clay's friends.

Meanwhile, Clay has been so involved with trying to raise the money he hasn't had a chance to look for his championship belt, the newspaper quoted Clay's manager, Angelo Dundee, as saying.

Clay's troubles with the championship belt started after his Chicago apartment was destroyed by fire about a year ago, Dundee said.

"Cassius gave the belt to a friend to hold until he could find another place to live," Dundee said. "Clay and the friend parted ways, and the last I and the champ heard, the guy had hooked the belt with a New York bartender for $50."

"It isn't the monetary value of the belt that's important," said Dundee. "It's only worth $500 or so. It's the tradition behind the belt that's important."

What Was So Good in Good Old Days?

By HOWARD HELDENBRAND

We had the idea that with life's tempo at full throttle, the social order becoming more and more boggled up and the future dim and dire, a piece about the Good Old Days would be timely.

But here entered an unanticipated obstacle. Nobody seems to know just when the Good Old Days were what and what was so good about them.

On the assumption, however, that the turn of the century most nearly reflected the halcyon days of long ago — mainly because few living can remember them — we went to a copy of The Pontiac Gazette, forerunner of The Pontiac Press.

The four-page issue of Jan. 22, 1892 (yearly subscription $1.00) depicts a relaxed citizenry functioning in an uncomplicated society.

In fact, so relaxed was the nation, that a sizable slice of Page 1 was devoted to the Dear Departed. Makes us wonder whether folks just died of relaxation.

In any event, since automobiles were unknown, citizens died more under their own power, at least.

The Dread Harvester Is Rapidly Gathering in the Sheaves

Leaving the D. H. to carry on, we note on the same page a Fifteen Cent Column — the individual cost of a miscellany of ads.

Thus, we see signs of enterprise in the announcement by the Rose House Hotel of a new hack which, in addition to meeting all trains, is available for long or short hauls or trips to the Asylum.

Anyone who thinks the hostility was just horsing around in providing custom convenience is crazy.

PERSUASIVE POWERS

In 1892, as now, there was much solicitude about the intestinal well-being of humanity. The persuasive power of Syrup of Figs is sworn to in an ad, at $1 a bottle.

Whether this was the large economy size is unstated, but Gay Nineties buyers, like today's, were warned against substitutes.

Inside, a column of editorial comment is prefaced by an uncharacteristic note of humility: "These thoughts may not prove interesting to habitual readers of novels or to intellectual swells and dudes."

The self-assurance of editors has come a long way since then.

GREAT NUMBERS

Local briefs dealing with civic and social events on Page 3 still leave room for commercial concern over defective livers, falling hair, cures for consumptives and a panacea for tired and nervous women — of which there appeared to an astonishingly large number.

Those suffering dropout in the dental department could sink their teeth into a new method for adding casual choppers without a plate, and the dentistry display is capped by a reminder that pearly whites could be crowned for $1.50 each.

On the back page, amid reports of county and legal notices, a clothier finds his stock of overcoats too large for the time of year and is prepared to really slash prices.

And he'll sell you a horse blanket at cost. (A natty horse blanket, presumably, was a wardrobe must-for the modish male.)

SAME PROBLEM

Another merchant offers belated "Holiday" greeting, misspelling then being the bane of newspapering, as it is today.

Hope is offered weak, nervous men (what was there to be so nervous about in 1892?) by a Detroit doctor, and Syrup of Figs, it turns out, is also available in a 50-cent bottle.

But as we scan the record of pursuits and anxieties of the populace in that time we might call the Good Old Days, doubt assails us.

We wonder whether there was in truth, any time worthy of the designation — whether it is not an illusory escape for those who find contemporary burdens increasingly irksome.

LOOKING BACK

Maybe the nostalgic backward look is of a piece with the report involving a critical subscriber who complained to the London Times that the paper was not what it used to be.

"No," replied the editor, "and it never was."

club bid. If West opens any suit but spades South will simply concede a trick to the ace of hearts and make his contract without any trouble but West opens the nine of spades and South sees that he will never be able to bring home dummy's six card heart suit.

He wins the first trick in dummy and takes a club finesse. Then he knocks out East's ace of hearts. East plays a second spade and South is in dummy for the last time.

He takes a second club finesse but still must lose a trick to West's jack of diamonds provided West knows enough to guard that card instead of his ten of clubs.

In most games there would be an excellent chance for West to go wrong. South would take his queen and jack of hearts and West would have to make two discards. He could throw a spade and a diamond with no worries but then South would cash his third spade and West would be in trouble. He would probably guess right and throw a club but the count signal would give him a sure thing play.

East should play the four of clubs on the first lead of the suit and the deuce of clubs

Bird Gets Relocated

LOS ALTOS, Calif. (AP) — California's freeway builders have become cautious about evicting occupants from their homes that lie in the path of new roadways.
Thus it was that construction superintendent Dick Knabel ordered work to halt on the moving of an underpass scaffold yesterday when he noticed a hummingbird nest with an egg in it.
Biologists from nearby Foothill College were called in to trap the mother hummingbird. When they had taken her and her egg to a safer place, workmen returned to take down the scaffold.

Policeman Kills Muskegon Soldier

MUSKEGON (U-P) — A reported AWOL young soldier was shot fatally by a city policeman Wednesday after he and a companion had eluded capture in a stolen car flight from Illinois.

The second man, William J. McClure, 18, of Fairfield, Calif., was captured about a mile away from a Muskegon service station where the two were intercepted.

Terry J. Keck, 19, of Muskegon was shot in the chest by Patrolman James Carls after Carls said, Keck pulled a gun and began firing. He died about an hour later in Hackley Hospital.

Trio Confident in Space Test

DOWNEY, Calif. (AP) — On their ninth day crammed in a 6x9-foot capsule hung in a lethal, space-like vacuum, three men in long Johns are hungry

"for the things you might expect," but confident:

1. They'll finish their 14-day simulated flight to the moon and back in good shape.

2. They could endure their spacecraft environment four weeks without strain.

3. Fear of spacecraft puncture by micrometeorites need not keep astronauts from relaxing in their underwear on long trips there's plenty of time to get back into space suits.

The three — Richard Erman, 33, John Moyles, 36, and Normal Abell, 37 — entered their mock-up Apollo moon ship March 29 to test the Environmental Control System designed for U.S. lunar missions later in this decade.

Since then they have eaten only freeze-dried food, taken turns sleeping on astronaut couches and worked halfway through an inch-thick book of equipment-test procedures almost as exacting as a flight plan.

They have survived two cabin decompressions, sustained only by their space suits. Air pressure in the capsule, normally maintained at 27,000 feet altitude, was allowed to drop — as if hit by a marble-sized bit of space dust — to an altitude of 110,000 feet.

"Exposure to that altitude would of course have been fatal if they hadn't had time to get into their space suits," Bob Sheere, test director, said Wednesday.

"But the system is designed to allow time, by releasing a high flow of oxygen to compensate for the leak while the men suit up."

The three began the experiment in space suits, but now wear only long underwear.

HIGHER MORALE
"I can tell you, our motivation went up 100 per cent with the suits off," Erman said in an interview over a closed-circuit television hookup from inside the capsule.

This hookup gave their families a glimpse of the bearded experimenters in a surprise visit to the capsule in a bangar at the North American Aviation, Inc., plant in Downey.

But the men couldn't see their wives or children. The visual part of the system works in only one direction, from the inside to the outside.

They were as isolated as if they were in space.

FIRST ON MENU
What's the first thing they want to do when they get out?

Said Abell: "I want to see my family."

Said Erman: "The first thing, I guess, will be a cold beer."

Moyles was asleep at the time of the interview — he later was awakened for the families' visit — but Erman volunteered for him: "He wants a cigar."

Early Bird for Marines

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Timothy Jay Ratch wrote a local Marine Corps recruiter asking that his name be put on the corps enlistment list now "so the Army and Navy won't get me."

Sgt. Walter Cramer visited Timmy, gave him a card certifying him as an honorary recruiter and told Timmy he would have to wait a while. Timmy is 17 years old.

His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Arnold J. Radwich.

MISS TEEN INTERNATIONAL. — Miss Ewa Aulin (center), 16-year-old model and part-time actress from Stockholm, Sweden, stands between two runners-up in Los Angeles last night after being named Miss Teen International. She won the honor in

Willy Loman Story Set for TV

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD — Willy Loman, classic symbol of the futile search for success, will be unloading his sample cases on television next.

Willy is the leading figure of Arthur Miller's "Death of a Salesman." In presenting the play May 8, CBS performs the novelty of featuring the actor who created the role: Lee J. Cobb.

That was something Hollywood never thought of. Fredric March played Willy in the movie version.

"Naturally I was disappointed when I wasn't offered the movie," says Cobb. "But when I saw the film, I considered myself lucky. It looked as if it had been made by the enemy."

Cobb was among friends when he performed Willy at CBS Television City this spring. Opposite him was his original costar Mildred Dunnock, and it was the first time they had done the play in 17 years.

"I didn't need makeup this time," the actor commented ruefully. "Before, I had to deepen the facial lines and hide the baby fat."

"Death of a Salesman" may represent a turning point in American television, as it was indeed a milestone in American drama. The idea of CBS, the fun-and-games network, putting on a serious play in prime time is remarkable.

Cobb assured that "Salesman" was made with few compromises.

"I was impressed by the serious attack that the creative people took toward the play," said the actor. "Cuts had to be made to fit into the two-hour span. But the sense and impact of the drama wasn't hurt. They kept the spirit of the original."

PLAY WILLY AGAIN

He admitted that he had hoped to play Willy again, but Willy Loman to a stock television Western to a campy spy farce. During the past four years he has been the dramatic mainstay of "The Virginian."

But his life on the range appears to be ending.

"I'm almost phased out of the series," said the actor. "I have four more 'Virginians' to do, and then I'm out of it."

"My participation has never been more than partial, anyway. There have been a few good 'Virginians,' but that has been the trouble: there are only a few. Doing Willy has proved a vivid reminder of what's possible on the outside."

Cobb's plans include a sequel to "Our Man Flint," in which he played the apologetic chief of the far-out secret agent, James Coburn.

A Heart-Less Theft

BOSTON (AP) — John Coughlin of Nashua, N.H., a medical equipment salesman, has reported to police the theft of an electric heart machine worth $2,250 from his car.

Portugal, S. Africa Warned Again on Oil

LONDON (AP)—Britain sounded more warnings to Portugal and South Africa today as the tanker Joanna V sat another day at anchor in Portuguese Mozambique without unloading oil for Rhodesia.

Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart told the South African ambassador Wednesday that defiance of the voluntary U.N. oil embargo against rebellious Rhodesia could lead to mandatory U.N. sanctions, possibly involving the use of force.

Portugal received a similar warning Tuesday but has refused to prohibit the movement of oil through the pipeline across Mozambique to Rhodesia. The South African government also has refused to halt private overland shipment of oil by South African companies to Rhodesia.

The Joanna V, under charter to a South African firm, was still at anchor with 18,000 tons of crude oil off Beira, Mozambique's chief port. There was still no indication whether she would unload her cargo.

Britain is seeking to block the unloading of the oil and its shipment through the pipeline to the Rhodesian white minority government, which unilaterally declared independence from Britain last November. The pipeline is owned by a British-Portuguese company in which the Portuguese directors outnumber the British.

The Greek government, which has ordered compliance with the U.N. economic sanctions, announced in Athens it has canceled the Joanna V's Greek registration. The government made plain the ship's master faces stern disciplinary action if he discharges his oil in Beira.

The British government told representatives of the other 20 Commonwealth members Wednesday it was considering asking the U.N. Security Council for a compulsory world ban on trade with Rhodesia.

But Sir Saville Garner, permanent head of the Commonwealth relations department in London, said charges from African members that the current economic boycott has failed to weaken the white minority regime. Garner acknowledged, however, that the Rhodesians were still selling equipment in Germany and Japan and buying oil from South Africa.

He indicated that Britain may favor mandatory sanctions despite the risk that military enforcement would be necessary, including a possible naval blockade of South Africa.

Big Mac Bill Signed--Sadly

Romney Regrets Time
Lost on Legislation

LANSING (UPI)—Acting with "reluctance and regret," Gov. George Romney signed a so-called dead letter Mackinac Bridge refinancing bill into law yesterday.

Romney lamented a "wasted year" of legislative debate during which the bond market rose to levels beyond interest rate ceilings in the bill. "A year ago this would have been landmark legislation," he said.

"Time and interest rates wait for no man, not even the Michigan Legislature," Romney said. "During the wasted year, Michigan not only lost a million dollars in interest payments, but also the chance for future savings through refinancing in the immediate future."

"I have signed this measure with reluctance and regret," the governor said. "Reluctance, because it raises misleading hopes which cannot be fulfilled in the immediate future; regret, because it represents an opportunity missed and a responsibility ignored."

Romney, who called high bridge tolls "an economic irritant" between the two peninsulas, said he approved the bill in the hope a future Legislature, "will have the vision and determination to transform it from an empty expression of intent into a vehicle for meaningful action."

A MONUMENT

"In the meantime, this statute will stand as a monument to legislative indecision, inaction, expediency, and wishful thinking," he said.

The bill authorizes the State Administrative Board to refinance the $100-million bridge with full faith and credit state bonds yielding an interest rate of up to 3.25 per cent. Such bonds now sell at an interest rate of 4 per cent or more.

Until the bond market is ripe, the bill, unless amended, will lie dormant. Tolls will remain at about the current level of $3.75 per one-way passenger auto trip.

The two chief sponsors of the bill, Sen. Thomas F. Schweigert, R-Potosky, and Rep. Elmer Brlandsen, D-Escanaba, indicated in a joint statement they were less than satisfied with the bill, but said it at least provides a means for action "when conditions change."

Under the bill the Michigan Highway Department will take over operation and maintenance of the bridge when refinancing is complete. The chore is handled now by the Mackinac Bridge Authority.

Flu Closes 3 Schools

HARRISON (AP) — Three schools were closed Wednesday because of an outbreak of influenza. Supt. Robert Larsen said 200 students and four teachers were absent because of the outbreak. Larsen, who consulted with health authorities, said the schools would remain closed until Tuesday, April 11.

Many in France Wondering How NATO Pullout Will Affect Air Defense

By JOSEPH E. DYNAN
PARIS (AP) — Many Frenchmen, reflecting on their president's decision to withdraw from the allied military structure, are wondering how their country might be defended from future aerial attack.

Jean Lecanuet, candidate against President Charles de Gaulle in last December's presidential contest, has raised the question in criticizing de Gaulle's plan to withdraw French troops from North Atlantic Treaty Organization command and to evict NATO forces from France.

Lecanuet claimed this will leave the French air force and the nation's anti-aircraft defenses blind to any attack until the enemy's planes or missiles are over French territory. He said this would be true of de Gaulle's "force de frappe" the fledgling French nuclear deterrent.

As presently constituted, the force is a number of supersonic planes which can carry nuclear bombs. The range of these planes is extended through refueling from American-built tanker planes. France is at work on missiles which could carry nuclear tips, and the nation also plans eventually to have nuclear powered submarines which could carry Polar-type missiles.

NATO sources support Lecanuet's view.

The air defense screen, stretching from North Cape in Norway to Eastern Turkey, is the only fully integrated operational element under Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer, supreme allied commander. Land and naval, and other air forces, are integrated in the sense that they are pledged to allied command in the event of war.

The air defense screen includes an early warning radar screen, a fleet of several hundred fighters and fighter-bombers, and thousands of anti-aircraft missiles.

REPORT ANALYSIS

As far back as six years ago, all 15 members of NATO, including France, agreed on a computerized processing system known as NADGE—NATO Air Defense Ground Environment—which would make the analysis of radar reports fully automatic and almost instantaneous.

Some minor work has been completed on the network, but the bulk has yet to be done. The total cost has been estimated at about $300 million.

Without the NATO warning system, and without future access to NADGE, France would have only two relatively minor radar stations in eastern France to give warning of attack. These radar can "see over" into West Germany, but no farther. Their equipment is owned by NATO.

Arraignment in Holdup Set for 2 City Men

Two Pontiac men charged with armed robbery were bound over to Circuit Court yesterday for arraignment April 14.

Howard Crawford, 28, of 298 Howard McNeill and Melvin R. Scott, 25, of 281 Luther were remanded to the Oakland County Jail following preliminary examination.

Crawford is held in $10,000 bond and Scott in $15,000 bond, part of which was set following his arraignment on a related charge of possession of marijuana.

The two were arrested by three Pontiac patrolmen March 9 after allegedly robbing a 24-year-old man at a point of $125 and a $300 watch.

Order Restraining Yardenes Is Still On

Circuit Judge Clark J. Adams yesterday continued his order restraining yardenes for the Grand Trunk Western Railroad in Pontiac from illegally striking.

At the same time, he dismissed the complaint against all the defendants named in the original order who were not participants in the wildcat strike Monday.

About 100 yardenes walked out after management refused their demands to be paid for the four days they honored picket lines during the earlier firemen's strike against eight railroads.

The hearing before Judge Cecil B. McCallum was postponed after being originally slated for yesterday.

City Planners Act on 2 Items

Only limited business was conducted last night at the regular meeting of the City Planning Commission.

Official action was taken on only two items due to the lack of a quorum after that.

Charge City Man Illegally Sold Hypnotic Drugs

A 42-year-old Pontiac man was arrested yesterday afternoon by Pontiac police on a charge of illegally disposing of hypnotic drugs.

Richard Salomon of 253 N. Perry pleaded guilty to his arraignment before Municipal Judge Cecil B. McCallum and was sentenced to five days in the Oakland County Jail.

Salomon was apprehended by vice squad patrolmen Guy White Jr. and Stephen E. Flemington at 118 W. Lawrence.

He was sought on a warrant alleging he had illegally sold four capsules containing phenobarbital.

Trial on Trees Is Postponed

Municipal Court trial of eight persons charged with failing to destroy diseased elm trees on their property is scheduled to be held Wednesday.

The hearing before Judge Cecil B. McCallum was postponed after being originally slated for yesterday.

The eight, all Pontiac property owners, have been arraigned under a state law misdemeanor providing penalty for refusal to cut down trees diseased with Dutch Elm disease.

Mrs. Rowland died today after a short illness. She was a member of the Rotary-Ann of Birmingham, the Thursday Morning Musical and the First Presbyterian Church of Birmingham.

Surviving besides her husband are a son, James W. of Birmingham, and three grandchildren.

approval of a request to rezone the southwest corner of State and Pratt to residential-3 (R-3) for expansion of a nearby nursing home clinic.

Also recommended for approval was a plan for an parcel of urban renewal property bounded by Padlock, Osman, Perkins and Wall.

Residential-1 zoning was recommended for Wall street frontage, while Osman street frontage was planned as an open greenbelt.

HEARINGS ADJOURNED

Hearings on three other rezone petitions were adjourned for a date of a quorum.

A protest petition, signed by 46-50 neighboring residents, was received against requested R-3 zoning for 624 Orchard Lake. Twenty-six apartment units are planned for the parcel.

Restrictions for commercial-1 zoning for a lot on Monticello to the rear of Oakland frontage lots were reviewed. Planners suggested certain alterations in the plans.

A hearing on R-3 zoning for a 10-acre parcel south of West Columbia, east of Alcott School, for 163 apartments was adjourned until next month with the recommendation that a new site plan be prepared.

Bound Over in Raid Case

Pair Charged With Gaming Violations

Two men charged with three counts of violating state gaming laws were bound over to Circuit Court yesterday for arraignment April 14.

Robert J. Green, 27, of 2165 S. Baldwin, Orion Township, and Wayne C. Brock, 27, of 33 W. Brooklyn were released after Orion Township Justice Helmar Sfinaback continued their bonds of $2,000 each.

Breen and Brock, apprehended Feb. 18 in an early morning raid by Oakland County sheriff's officers, are charged with conspiring to violate, violation of the gaming law, and maintaining an illegal operation.

Examination of the pair, originally set for March 22, had been postponed in a dispute between prosecuting and defense attorneys over admissibility of evidence seized in the raid.

Stanaback ordered all confiscated items, including several packs of playing cards, seven cases of beer, and $985 in cash, brought to yesterday's hearing.

In the course of the four-hour examination, the judge ruled against suppressing the evidence, which defense attorneys contended did not constitute adequate grounds for issuance of a search warrant on Breen's home.

To Join 'M' Troupe

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Movie actor Melvyn Douglas will appear in the University of Michigan's first repertory company season this fall, the university said Wednesday. Douglas will join veteran actress Helen Hayes as a member of the troupe.

May Arrive Due on Books Under Law

The first library books to be provided Oakland County schools under a 1965 federal education act are expected to arrive sometime in May.

Oakland School acted as purchasing agent for 18 districts and 53 parochial schools in buying 100,000 worth of books.

Contract for the books was awarded to A. C. McClurg of Elk Grove, Ill., on the basis of a 37 per cent discount bid.

The vendor will deliver the books to individual school buildings and the State Library in Lansing will provide cataloging services.

The order will be placed as soon as Oakland Schools receive its share of a $4,671,827 allocation made to the state under provisions of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965.

Books are to be delivered within 30 days of that date.

Probation Given Man in Shooting

A Farmington Township man, convicted of assault and battery in a shooting last May, was placed on two years probation yesterday by Circuit Judge Clark J. Adams.

In addition, Wilbur H. Dixon, 31, of 2260 Middle Belt, was ordered to pay $100 court costs.

Dixon was found guilty by a jury March 8 of wounding William Jones, 23, of Detroit in the arm with a shot from a 22-caliber pistol.

The shooting occurred during a fight outside Dixon's trailer in the Farmington trailer court. He had been charged with assault with intent to murder.

A Public Sale on an abandoned 1959 3-door will be held on May 6, 1966, at 10:00 a.m. at the Pontiac Press Building, 100 N. Perry St. Pontiac, Mich. Vehicle can be viewed by phone at 438-2200. Terms 9-4.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A North Viet Nam, said its pro-social group of southern New York was being forwarded to Jersey lawyers expressed optimism that the president of North Viet Namism today on its efforts to protect the legal rights of the more than 60 Americans taken prisoner by the North Vietnamese.

Patrick T. McGahn Jr., an attorney who said he had been in Atlantic City lawyer who found-forwarded to Viet Nam through and heads the Society for the embassy of the United Arab Defense of American Prisoners Republic.

'Friars' Cast of Roasters Grills Celebrities at Fete

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — I was fortunate to sit next to charming and attractive Mrs. Robert Kennedy—known to the world as Ethel, the mother of eight—at the Friars' salute to Sammy Davis Jr. and noticed that she joined in the laughing when Comedian Jackie Vernon turned to the Senator on the dais and said, "Senator, you're not supposed to doze off, you know... let's jazz it up a little."

Bobby, who was actually wide awake, laughed, too. All the VIPs got ribbed.

"Mayor Lindsay's here to apologize for the first 5 months and Senator Kennedy's here to refuse the apology, Comedian Pat Henry said.

"Senator Javits is evidently interested in President Johnson's job," m.c. Johnny Carson mentioned. "He was seen at the synagogue Friday night wearing a 10-gallon yarmulka."

"Sammy Davis," said Steve Lawrence, "lived one of the great love stories of history. He saw what he wanted and he went after it. And Sammy, I hope you and Frank Sinatra'll be very happy together."

Steve also referred to the Jewish saying "Let my people go" and said it came true.

"CBS let me go and NBC let Sammy go," Steve said.

"Sammy Davis is the world's most compact minority group," the Mayor told us... but despite the excellent performances of the Three-Letter-Word Specialist Buddy Hackett and Norm Crosby, it was Sammy who climaxed the night.

"When my NBC program was canceled," he said, "I said to Gen. Saroff, 'You can't do this to me,' and he sent me back a wire saying 'Read your book.'"

"I figure if I cool it for a year, I'm going to come back on TV," Sammy said... meanwhile, we learned, he told Senator Javits that he believes no Negro entertainers have gone to Viet Nam... and he wants to go.

WILSON

Reps. Cornelius E. Gallagher, D-N.J., and Peter H. B. Frelinghuysen, R-N.J., members of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, have publicly announced their joint support of the society's aims.

It also has received the support of the New Jersey Bar Association.

GUARANTEE RIGHTS

"The purpose of forming the society was to enlist the support of the State Department to guarantee the rights of the American prisoners in North Viet Nam," McGahn said. "We feel they should be treated as prisoners of war in accordance with the terms of the Geneva Convention and not as common war criminals."

McGahn said the announcement that captured American pilots would be treated as criminals "reminded me of the time during World War II when some of the fliers who bombed Tokyo were tried by a Japanese court, were prosecuted, convicted."

Some of them were executed.

"I thought the same thing could happen in Viet Nam and decided to do all I could to prevent a similar tragedy," said McGahn, 38, a former Marine captain who served in Korea.

The society consists of McGahn and three other attorneys, three businessmen and two investigators, including a former FBI agent.

Some 60 American fliers — 34 Air Force and 26 Navy — are believed to be held by the North Vietnamese. Another 46 — 30 Air Force and 16 Navy — are listed as missing but presumed to be alive.

Daylight Saving Bill Puts State on Spot

By Esther Van Wagoner Tufts
WASHINGTON—The daylight saving time bill creates a special problem for Michigan. It requires each state to observe daylight saving time throughout the entire state from April to October unless the state legislature votes to retain standard time throughout the state. If Lansing does not act, the Lower Peninsula, now on Eastern time, will for six months in 1967 be two hours ahead of the sun. The IOC may come to the rescue.

Former Democratic Sen. Prentiss Brown of St. Ignace, who will be 77 years old this June, writes a Washington friend that "Big shot Republican money is going for Detroit Mayor Cavanagh in the Senate primary race against former Gov. Williams, but Republicans will switch to Republican candidate Robert Griffin in the election." Just the same, predicts Brown, "Soapy will win as usual."

Most Michigan folk know Michigan is called the Wolverine State, but many flounder in naming the state flower (apple blossom); the state tree (white pine); the state bird (robin); the state fish (trout); and the state stone (Potoskey stone).

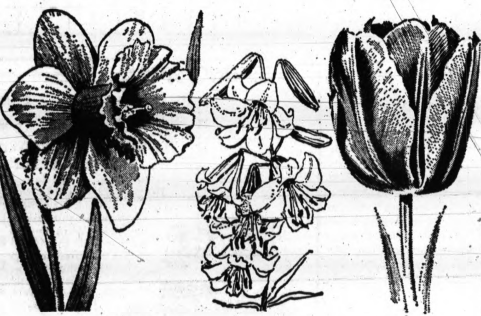

"Parcel Post has become an administrative thorn in the side of the post office," complains Congress- man William Ford, D-Detroit, who advocates a complete overhaul of the system.

569 Classrooms OK'd by State in March
LANSING (AP) — The State Education Department reports it approved construction of a record high of 569 school classrooms during March. It was the highest number approved in any single month since a state law was enacted in 1915 requiring schools to meet minimum design and construction standards. The previous single month high was May 1967, when plans for 540 classrooms were approved.

Rabbi Joseph Risks Criticism, Demands Jesus' Body

EDITOR'S NOTE—In Jesus' direct and darkest hours, support for Him came not from His customary friends and co-workers, but from comparative strangers, including two rabbinical scholars. This, the fourth in a five-part Easter series, tells of one of them, Joseph of Arimathea.

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

Shades of disgrace trailed him. Reproachful eyes peered from behind the hedges and tongues of slander whirled against him, as they did against the prophets of old.

"Denounce him! Let us denounce him!" Joseph of Arimathea walked a treacherous path.

It had led him into conflict with his class, into challenging his own judicial order, into defense of a convicted capital offender and at last, into claiming the man's body from the Roman satrap who condemned him.

Joseph, the warm-hearted and eloquent country rabbi who had risen to distinction in the leading institutions of the Holy City, followed a road that could bring him to ruin.

It descended into the dark desert of the Cross.

But for him, there was no turning back. "Like a weaver, I have rolled up my life."

"Give me this stranger," he requested of Pilate, in a bold and direct confrontation with that giggling ruler, a scene noted in Scripture and detailed in other early Christian literature.

After each round of argument, Joseph repeated his insistent plea, "Give me this stranger."

Pilate, disturbed and dubious at first, warned that it seemed provocative and ill-advised in this messy case.

Finally, however, after sum-

moning the centurion in charge of the execution to verify that Jesus was dead, the governor testily consented, "Take Him!"

HONORED CITIZEN — Garcia Leonel (right), 22, of 339 E. Pike is presented with a "meritorious service" citation by Pontiac Police Chief William K. Hanger. Leonel was honored along with 18 policemen in formal ceremonies yesterday at City Hall.

Awards Ceremony Honors 18 City Policemen, Civilian

Eighteen Pontiac policemen and a civilian were formally honored yesterday afternoon in an awards ceremony at City Hall attended by some 120 persons.

The awards, certificates for "meritorious service" and "bravery," were presented jointly in the City Commission chambers by Police Chief William K. Hanger and Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley.

Kelley attended the ceremony at the invitation of Hanger and spoke to the group for about 20 minutes prior to presentation of the awards.

The civilian honored for "meritorious service" by the department was Garcia Leonel, 22, of 339 E. Pike who apprehended two teenagers, one of them armed, in the midst of a robbery last Sept. 13.

The certificate cited Leonel for "quick, decisive action with disregard of his own safety on account of reward."

MULTIPLE AWARDS

Patrolman Raymond V. Solwold was the recipient of three separate merit citations, while Detective James F. Fritz was cited once for meritorious service and once for bravery.

Details of the awards are as follows:

BRAVERY AWARDS

Sgt. Herbert C. Cooley, Detective James F. Fritz, and patrolman George Scheer and Billy S. Hargraves, who together disarmed and arrested a man Aug. 16 shortly after a policeman had been shot.

BRAVERY: Former patrolman Robert F. Rowland, who turned fire at a man Aug. 16 after being shot in the chest, assisting other officers in making the arrest.

MERITORIOUS SERVICE AWARDS

Lt. Raymond E. Meggitt, who pretended to accept bribe payments from an alleged gambling syndicate for a period of four months, assisting in investigation which led to the arrest of 30 persons in a raid Oct. 2.

Detectives William G. Davis and Fritz, who chased and finally apprehended a suspected auto thief, Nov. 3, resulting in official clearance of 10 stolen car complaints.

Patrolmen Charles A. Lindeberg and Solwold, who apprehended a juvenile and underwent intensive interrogation interview.

Workable Plan Is Resubmitted

Resubmission of the 1966 Workable Program for Community Improvement and encouragement to proceed with downtown redevelopment plans were the results of a Chicago trip yesterday by Pontiac City officials.

Mayor William H. Taylor Jr. said today that the Workable Program was resubmitted as expected to the regional office of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) with the additional information requested.

Exploratory meetings were held during yesterday's visit on the proposal by A. Alfred Taubman for redevelopment of downtown urban renewal land.

The Taubman proposal for an enclosed mall shopping center was "very acceptable," to HUD representatives, reported Taylor.

Promises of cooperation with the City Commission, the developer and city staff personnel were received, he added.

The contingent of local officials that visited HUD officials yesterday were told that the city may have to hire an additional person for the code enforcement program.

SECOND PERSON

This would be a second person to the full-time building inspector the city already has agreed to hire and assign to the program.

Taylor also reported that HUD officials suggested three more persons be added to the six-member committee on minority group housing.

These three individuals would be a person connected with banking, a person connected with real estate and a person connected with a minority group.

Annual recertification of the Workable Program is necessary for the city to receive any new federal aid.

Leader Named for UF Division

Pontiac District Manager of the Michigan Bell Telephone Company Charles B. Woodhead will head commercial division efforts of the 1966 Pontiac Area United Fund drive, it was announced today.

Woodhead, of 433 Parkdale, Rochester, will begin immediately to fill campaign posts with the division for the annual drive in October, according to Donald O. Tatroe, general chairman.

He will require the services of about 700 volunteers to cover government, education, and the professions, as well as small companies with nine or fewer employees.

Last year Woodhead served the UF as chapter plans chairman, a member of the speaker bureau.

He is active in several area chambers of commerce and currently serves as president of the Rochester Area Chamber of Commerce and director of the Lake Orion chamber.

Woodhead is married and has two daughters.

Bar License Nullity Asked

Independence Board
Votes After Hearing

The Independence Township Board last night recommended by a 5-0 vote that the State Liquor Control Commission revoke the Class C liquor license of Nicholas Manzella, owner of Manzella's, 7504 Dixie.

The decision followed a three-hour public hearing attended by more than 175 persons.

Nine persons testified at the hearing, including John Adams, 4501 Maybree, who contends that Manzella, 7504 Dixie, and Manzella's brother, Angelo, 2354 Middle Belt, West Bloomfield Township, assaulted him at the bar March 19.

Seven witnesses were called by the board, while Nicholas Manzella and Diane Talbot, 3434 Dixie, a barmaid at Manzella's, were asked to testify by Manzella's attorney, David Herlihy.

Herlihy and Township Attorney Paul Mandel questioned the witnesses.

Adams charged that the incident started when he went to the bar and asked for some matches and the Manzellas pushed him into a restroom and beat him.

FIGHT STARTED

According to Nicholas Manzella, Adams grabbed his brother by the throat and kicked him and that started the fight.

Nicholas Manzella said he attempted to break up the fight and that he didn't hit Adams. He said Adams again started fighting in the lobby and was wrestling with his brother when he went through the glass "backyard."

The Talbot woman's testimony supported the Manzellas' version while other witnesses tended to support portions of Adams' story.

Township Board members contend that when they granted the Class C liquor license transfer to Nicholas Manzella last May 18 there was an understanding that Angelo Manzella should not be employed at the bar because of his past police record.

However, according to Nicholas Manzella, his brother has been employed at the bar since he took over the business.

Herlihy requested an adjournment until after Nicholas Manzella's April 21 trial before Independence Township Justice Robert Carr so board members could hear a transcript of the testimony.

Mandel pointed out that this would amount to a month's delay.

County Districting Is Snarled

LANSING (AP) — The future of county government in Michigan apparently lies in a tangle of State Supreme Court opinions, two pending legislative bills and probably ultimately in the U.S. Supreme Court.

A change of mind by State Supreme Court Justice Eugene Black seemingly nullified Tuesday's court decision which had ruled in favor of one-man, one-vote representation on county boards of supervisors.

But not all the justices agreed this was the case.

Meanwhile:

- Several parties to one supervisor apportionment case indicated they'd go to the U.S. Supreme Court;
- A State Senate committee prepared to deal with a House-approved bill which would implement one-man, one-vote representation but might be unconstitutional;
- And deals reportedly were being worked out which would improve the chances for a more comprehensive county home rule bill to win legislative approval.

Developments reached one climax Tuesday when the eight-member State Supreme Court voted 4-3 to uphold a decision by Kent County Circuit Judge Fred N. Searl in favor of one-man, one-vote representation and to reverse Muskegon County Circuit Judge Henry Beers' ruling against the concept.

Chief Justice Thomas Kavanagh ruled the four Democratic votes were sufficient to bring on one-man, one-vote representation because they were a majority of those voting in the case.

But yesterday, Black, who had abstained, added his vote to the Republican threesome, creating a 4-4 deadlock.

Justice Theodore Souris, who wrote the major opinion favoring one-man, one-vote, contends despite Black's switch, the Tuesday ruling giving the Legislature until 1967 to implement one-man, one-vote stands.

"The Legislature has before it a ruling by four justices of the Michigan Supreme Court that article 7, section 7 is unconstitutional," he said. "And I (Continued on Page 2, Col. 7)

Device Is Lifted From Depths of Mediterranean

Missing Since B52 and Tanker Aircraft Collided on Jan. 17

MADRID (AP) — An American H-bomb missing since the crash of a U.S. nuclear bomber Jan. 17, has been recovered from the Mediterranean off Spain's southeast coast, it was officially announced today.

The bomb, which was lost when a B52 bomber and a tanker plane collided over Palomares Beach, was recovered by a U.S. naval task force which had been searching the sea depths for more than two months.

The bomb was located in 2,500 feet of water about five miles offshore on March 15 by the midjet sub Alvin.

It was found almost exactly where Francisco Simo, a Spanish fisherman, told the searchers he saw a strange object fall into the Mediterranean after the crash.

A U.S. spokesman said the bomb was pulled up by the small submarine rescue vessel Petrel. A 1,800-ton vessel, the Petrel is jammed with special equipment for underwater operations. The ship carries a crew of 85.

U.S. officials would not comment, but informants said that the successful cable hitch to the bomb was made by Gary, a torpedo recovery vehicle flown to the scene from Pasadena, Calif.

U.S. Embassy officials said the bomb was intact and not damaged.

The bomb, described as a 20-megaton hydrogen bomb, was one of four lost from the B52 in the collision and crash in which seven airmen were killed.

SUPPORT MISSION

Eight other American airmen were killed in the crash of a C124 transport which was on a support mission for the search and recovery groups off Palomares Beach.

Legislature Okays 9th County Judge

The addition of a ninth judge to the Oakland County Circuit bench was given final legislative approval yesterday by members of the House.

Only the governor's signature is needed for the measure to become law.

The bill creates six other new judgeships in circuits in southern Lower Michigan at a cost to the state of about $185,000 for salaries.

Originated in the Senate by Sen. Haskell Nichols, R-Jackson, the bill increases the number of judges in other circuits from one to three in Jackson County, to five in Kent County, to two in Allegan-Ottawa counties, to three in Washtenaw County and to two in Monroe County.

The new judges would be elected in November for six-year terms beginning Jan. 1, 1967.

TWO OTHERS
Besides the ninth judge, two others are to be elected in Oakland County.

The eighth position was created by the Legislature last fall and has yet to be filled.

The third vacancy occurred with the death last summer of Judge Stanton G. Dondero.

"Though the new judgeship increases the chances of election for the growing list of candidates, it presents an added problem to county officials."

COURTS, OFFICES
They are faced with providing courts and offices for all three new judges.

Presently there are only six circuit courts in the county building. A new wing is planned which will ease the situation, but construction isn't expected to start until August, with completion 18 months later.

Daniel T. Murphy, chairman of the Oakland County Board of Auditors, said this morning that he has no idea at the time where the judges will be housed while construction is under way.

The tentative 1967 county budget provides for the salaries of the new eighth and ninth judge.

VALLEJO, Calif. — City Councilman George Maraccesi was the successful bidder on a fruit cake auctioned by the South Vallejo Social and Improvement Club to help defray club expenses.

He paid the $5 he had bid, then donated the cake back to the club to be awarded by lot to someone, using tickets previously sold for the drawing. The someone who won the cake was George Maraccesi.

Judaism did not practice embalming, nor use coffins. An outer shroud was wrapped around the body, before it was carried into the sepulchre.

Inside it was placed on one of several recessed ledges, even into the side walls.

Then Joseph and the others withdrew.

The Roman guard, assigned by Pilate, rolled the huge, disk-shaped stone along its groove until it covered the mouth of the tomb, and sealed it with metal straps.

The task was done.

Joseph, out of some dauntless urging of mind and character, had befriended the friendless, even in death.

IMMORTALITY

Unlike the dominant, but non-repudiated Sadducean party, Joseph believed in the immortality of the soul, in the enduring rabbinic tradition of the Pharisees.

As Scripture notes, he held the messianic hope for the "Kingdom of God," confident

He also had prospered, and owned a spacious house and grounds. He would not lightly jeopardize this estate.

Yet now he approached an incriminating task. Under precepts of the Torah, it was defiling to touch the corpse of a condemned man, especially one crucified.

"A hanged man is accursed," Moses wrote, in Israel, such a death was the utmost infamy and shame.

No executed criminal, however he died, would be laid in a family tomb. Yet Joseph so intended, in the face of the ostracism this likely would cause him.

He hurried, for the sun declined. From the Praetorium, he crossed the Sextus Bridge to the upper city, and at his house, bade his servants accompany him, taking along a flat cypress litter.

He led them out the Fish Gate and up the rocky hill beyond the city wall and to the foot of the sapless tree, where Jesus hung.

There, Nicodemus, another member Pharisee on the Sanhedrin who had wanted Jesus spared, joined Joseph in extracting the nails and lowering the bruised and lifeless body from the scaffold to the ground.

BODY OF JESUS

The body of Jesus was borne by Joseph, Nicodemus and their servants to the peaceful, landscaped "Garden of Joseph," where fountains splashed, where flowers grew, where a newly hewn tomb opened in the face of a stone embankment.

It was the ninth hour (6 p.m.), and nightgawks called in the twilight.

It was a lonely, desolate affair. From a distance, only two friends of Jesus — both women — watched silently through the trees as the two kindly rabbis rendered the last offices for the abased and forsaken Galilean. Joseph had prepared the new tomb for himself and his family, but since they were newcomers in the city, it so far had remained unused. Now it would become the resting place for the stranger.

While still outside, in the waning light, the men washed the body and anointed it with aromatic nard.

No Trace of Airmen; GIs Posted at Border

BERLIN — Efforts to raise a crashed Soviet jet from deep in the mud of West Berlin's Havel River resumed today amid a widening mystery of what happened to the two-man crew.

A British spokesman at the scene in the British sector said divers had found no trace of the two Soviet airmen after the crash yesterday afternoon.

The official Soviet News agency Tass reported earlier that the pilot, Capt. Boris Kapustin, and his navigator, Lt. Yuri Yanov, gave their lives to insure that the plane went down in an uninhabited spot.

Later the East German news agency said that Tass had requested that Adn withdraw its version of the Tass story. Later Tass advised Adn to release the story. No reason was given for the change on signals.

The sonic booms of other Soviet planes continued to be heard overhead despite a demand by the U.S., British and French commanders for Soviet authorities to end "reckless flights" over the city.

'MOST SERIOUS'
"This incident," their statement said, "is the most serious of a number of reckless flights in the past weeks as shown by the frequent excessive sonic booms experienced in the city."

A U.S. spokesman confirmed that U.S. Army vehicles and "a small number of fully equipped personnel" were posted at seven East-West border crossing points.

Informed sources speculated that they were there to block any Soviet attempt to bring salvage equipment into West Berlin.

In its dispatch, Tass said: "Noteworthy is the strange behavior of the Western occupation authorities in West Berlin who did not let representatives of Soviet armed forces go to the place of the accident and pay last honors to the dead servicemen."

AT THE SCENE
About 10 Russian officers and five enlisted men were at the scene, but the British restricted them to the riverbank.

A British spokesman said the plane "eventually will be returned to the Russians."

Informed sources said that the Russians had not pressed to be included in the salvage operation but had asked to guard the plane during the night and were turned down.

A British officer confirmed that a busload of Russian troops arrived at the scene yesterday but did not leave their vehicle and returned to East Berlin.

NOT IDENTIFIED
The early Tass report did not identify the type of plane. Some Western experts guessed that it was a MIG 17, but the British spokesman said definite identification cannot be made until the craft is raised.

The spokesman said the plane was "fairly heavy — 10 or 12 tons" British and German workmen were reported having some difficulty in getting cables around it, down in about 13 feet of water.

The plane came in over a nearby bridge and a heavily traveled highway to land in the water very close to a shore lined with homes.

Mothers' Club to Join With Students for Fair

BIRMINGHAM — The Mothers' Club will join forces with the student body of Brother Rice High School to sponsor the 23rd annual fair April 21, 22 and 23 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the school.

Previously, the annual fair had been a Mother's Club project only but, this year, the club decided to allow students to set up the booths and games.

Proceeds from the affair will be used for the Students' Chapel, the Student Council and purchase of visual aid equipment.

The Bloomfield Art Association announced this week that over 400 students had begun classes for the spring semester and that registration is under way. The classes begin April 18.

Mrs. Robert Bender, the association's board liaison official, said there is still room for interested students in a few classes and that students may sign up during the next two weeks.

Three new teachers have been added to the young people's classes which start April 23.

Steve Daly will teach sculpture to students between ages 10 through 18 and Bill Fuhrmann will handle the introduction to new art classes in introduction to art for students ages 6 to 9.

The third new teacher is painter Jeanne Peak, director of the new Romaine Gallery, which will have a class in introduction to art for students ages 6 to 9.

"Black did not rule that provision is constitutional — and I presume he would have said so," said Souris.

The constitutional provision cited by Souris gives each organized township a vote on the county board of supervisors regardless of township size.

It is the crux of complaints from advocates of equal representation who contend that rural interests dominate county government.

"There is a need to explore the state's relationship to the federal and city governments, a matter neglected by the opposition which, unless corrected, could lead to the decay of our state form of government."

GM Workers to Take Part in St. Joseph Fund Drive

A campaign among employees of the three General Motors plants in Pontiac will be conducted for the benefit of the St. Joseph Mercy Hospital Building fund.

The campaign was announced today by Theodore B. Bloom, personnel director of Pontiac Motor Division and chairman of the employee drive.

"More than one-third of the admissions at St. Joseph come from GM employees and their families," Bloom said, "it seems only fair that we participate in this important community project."

Larry Hartman, international representative of the UAW-CIO, has been appointed coordinator of the effort that will reach the 34,000 hourly rated workers.

Hartman said the UAW has a vital interest in the success of the campaign, particularly since its membership wants and needs the new health facilities that will be created.

While still outside, in the waning light, the men washed the body and anointed it with aromatic nard.

At Fisher Body, Ralph Dawe and Donald Johnson, president of Local 596, have been appointed, while at Pontiac Motor Division J. H. Shimmick and John Maye, president of Local 633, share the load.

In announcing the campaign, which will start immediately and conclude by April 20, Bloom emphasized that it was to be a strictly voluntary effort.

"A payroll deduction plan is being offered to those who wish to take advantage of it," Bloom said. "A few cents each week, over a three-year period can amount to a meaningful gift, and we want to do everything we can to insure the total success of the campaign."</

Saigon Rioters Burn U.S. Jeep

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Hundreds of antigovernment demonstrators poured toward downtown Saigon tonight and burned a U.S. Military Police Jeep a few hours after Buddhist leaders demanded that Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's military regime pledge publicly to give way to a civilian government in five or six months.

No Americans were reported injured.

"End the war immediately," said one of the banners carried by the demonstrators.

A battalion of paratroopers went into the rioters and sent them scurrying down the streets. Some began regrouping to continue their descent on the downtown area in the fifth continuous day of unrest in the capital's streets.

The Buddhist hierarchy earlier instructed its militant young supporters to remain quiet until the junta replied to its request for a public pledge to turn over power to a popularly elected constituent assembly within five or six months.

The Buddhist statement said the government had promised this privately.

Hopes that the month-long political crisis was easing a bit were jolted when 500 demonstrators emerged from the Buddhist compound on the outskirts of the city. As they marched toward the center of the city with their familiar anti-government banners, they attracted hundreds of supporters.

Until then a strange calm had prevailed in Saigon, with no sign of any antigovernment or anti-American agitators.

Heavy fighting flared 20 miles northwest of Saigon between the U.S. 25th Infantry Division and the Viet Cong.

By midafternoon, 24 Communists were reported killed and the shooting was continuing around what appeared to be a Viet Cong base camp in the Ho Bo Woods, an old red strong-hold.

It was the only significant ground action reported for the day.

A government spokesman reported that the Viet Cong shot 25 Vietnamese prisoners in the back just before several government battalions overran a Communist detention camp in Phu Tam hamlet, 70 miles southwest of Saigon, Wednesday. Most of the victims were civilians, and they included three women still in chains and padlocks.

They could not pay because they did not possess anything," the government spokesman said.

The political dissension among the Vietnamese did not affect the American combat toll last week but government and Communist losses were down by about 50 per cent.

The U.S. military command reported that 101 Americans were killed, 600 wounded and nine missing compared with 123 killed, 515 wounded and four missing in the week of March 20-26.

LOSSES DECLINE

Vietnamese killed declined from 318 to 155 and missing from 58 to 28. The government does not announce its wounded.

Other allied forces reported 18 killed and 51 wounded compared with 28 killed and 58 wounded the week before.

Enemy casualties for the week of March 27-April 2 dropped to 962 killed and 73 captured, compared to 1,988 killed and 249 captured the previous week.

The new casualty report raised the number of U.S. losses in Viet Nam since January 1961 to 2,410—killed and 14,727 wounded.

BUDDHIST STATEMENT

The Buddhist statement came from Saigon's influential Buddhist Institute. It said Ky's government promised in talks Wednesday to speed up the promulgation of a constitution so a civilian assembly could be elected in five or six months.

People in the News

By The Associated Press

Dr. Richard P. McKeon, a University of Chicago professor, beginning next fall, will commute 2,000 miles every week between Chicago and New York.

The New School for Social Research said yesterday McKeon will teach seminars in New York two consecutive days each week.

His plane fare, about $180 round trip, will cost the school $5,400 in the 1966-67 academic year.

McKeon is a philosopher.

New Yorkers to Telephone Lindsay

New York Mayor John V. Lindsay either goes to the people or wants the people to come to him with their complaints.

The mayor announced plans so New Yorkers can telephone him directly.

He said the program would be ready within a month.

Later, the mayor went to Traffic Court—not to pay a fine but as a spectator.

After watching a judge tick off 40 cases at the rate of one a minute, Lindsay appeared in agreement with complaints that traffic courts were overburdened.

Kelly Firm Drops 'Girl' From Name

Can a "Kelly girl" be a boy?

Certainly, and the firm of Kelly Girl Service, Inc., is changing its name because of it. The firm supplies part-time workers to businesses.

Stockholders gave their approval in Detroit yesterday to dropping the "girl" from the title.

Judge Watches to See if Go-Go Dance Decent

Judge Luther Lane of Tulsa, Okla., wanted to see for himself whether go-go dancer Billy Ruth Willsey outraged public decency with her act in a topless bikini.

So he adjourned court yesterday to watch Miss Willsey demonstrate her act in the Coachman's Pub.

When the act ended, the judge reserved decision, saying he wanted to check the statutes before making a ruling.

Miss Willsey, who measures 36-25-35 1/2, was arrested Tuesday and waived right to a jury trial.

Wedding Album

A Living Remembrance for Bride

EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the second in a series of articles having to do with wedding preparations. Summer brides should be in the process of choosing a photographer right now.

By MADELEINE DOEREN
Long after your bridal bouquet has shed its petals and the wedding-gown stored away, there's an indelible record of the most important day in your life... your wedding photographs.

These are an integral part of your memories, your own personal publicity, so to speak.

You'll be showing them to your children and possibly to grandchildren some day so they should be the very finest.

Consult several photographers as soon as the wedding-date is set, then choose the one you feel will do the best job for you. Set up the appointment as soon as your gown is ready. Make this as early as possible thereby avoiding rush and tension which make one less photogenic.

Pictures may be taken at home, in the bridal shop or in the photographer's studio which offers the ultimate in lighting, equipment and background. They may even be taken at the church if the bride dresses there an hour or so before the ceremony.

For the home photograph, choose the most photogenic background, also the simplest. Pictures of the bridal attendants may be taken at this time and presented to them as a memento of the happy occasion.

The veil and dress should, of course, be pressed for the occasion and the same jewelry worn as for the wedding. Hair should be soft, clean and shiny, and worn in the most becoming style.

A permanent wave, if needed, should be scheduled about a month before the wedding day.

Enough sleep the night before the appointment is a must. Wear a minimum of lipstick and moisten your lips just before the camera clicks. This gives a sheen. Don't wear red nail polish!

Most photographers take three types of portraits... close-up, three-quarter and full length, unless the gown is a sheath with much detail on bodice and sleeves.

Arrange for black and white glossy prints for the newspapers to meet their deadlines. Few papers use pictures of the bride-groom.

For the press pictures, suggest to your photographer that these be taken against a fairly dark background so that the veil and gown will stand out. About one-third of those received at The Pontiac Press have been posed against white backgrounds and provide no contrast.

If you plan complete coverage of the wedding with photographs to be taken at the church, inform the photographer of the time and place of the ceremony and your arrival time.

Give the clergyman's name, the number of attendants, names of any important guests to be photographed and when the music will start.

Remember when tossing your bouquet after the reception, to fling with the arm furthest from the camera... then you'll be apt to cover your face at the crucial moment.

AVERAGE PRICES

We have checked prices with leading area photographers. The average cost of an album of 24 to 30 pictures eight by 10 inches in size, in black-and-white, is about $125.

Twelve five by seven inch black-and-whites in an album are priced at about $40 and one dozen eight by 10's at $55.

An album of 12 eight by 10 color pictures, with complete coverage will be priced from $85 to $100. Eighteen pictures will run about $118 and 24 will cost approximately $150.

According to the editors of The Bride's Magazine, albums of candid photographs have become as much a part of weddings as champagne and flowers.

Your photographer may start the series showing the final adjustments of your veil, continue with your leaving for the church, a long view of the service taken from just outside the church door.

A picture made of a church scene is done by time exposure, the experts say, never flash.

Candid group pictures of the entire wedding party can be taken after the receiving line, before the newlyweds leave for the honeymoon. These make thoughtful gifts for those who attended the couple.

Twins' Mothers Sponsor Party

The Twins' Mothers' Club of Oakland County will sponsor the fifth annual benefit card party at 8 p.m., April 14, in the Pontiac State Hospital chapel gymnasium.

Mrs. Robert A. Green is general chairman of the affair slated to benefit the children's section at the hospital.

Her cochairman, Mrs. Donald Hawes, is in charge of ticket sales, with Mrs. Keith arranging for door prizes and table favors. Hospitality and refreshment chairman is Mrs. Kenneth Golt.

Tickets are available from any club member and will also be sold at the door.

Love Is Where You Find It, and He Found His in Vision

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: Thank you for the understanding you showed when someone asked what you thought of a 62-year-old woman marrying a "boy" of 55.

I know something of that kind of marriage, having been married for five years to a fascinating woman who is my mother's age. We met when I was 20 and she was 55. She had been a widow for 20 years.

For the next five years I dated all the young chicks and I ended up marrying her. She has 10 grown children, 38 grandchildren, and two great-grandsons. I have always had the feeling that my wife and I knew each other in another life somewhere in the 16th century.

When I was a small boy I kept having recurring dreams in which I would promise an unidentified little girl playmate that I would come back to her. Years later, when my wife showed me a picture of herself as a little girl, it proved to be the replica of the childhood playmate in my dreams.

DEAR NICE: She's supposed to behave herself. And almost without exception, the girls who have to fight off men, and have the bruises to prove it, prove only that they are leading the men on a bit too far.

Women at All Saints' Slate 14th Annual Antique Show

The women of All Saints' Episcopal Church are engaged with plans for their 14th annual antique show and sale.

The exhibit will be from 11 a.m. to 10 p.m. April 19-21. Special attraction for browsers and shoppers at the show will be a "tea hour" from 3 to 5 p.m. when hot English scones, brownies and cookies will be served. Salads and desserts, prepared by women of the congregation, also will be available.

Buffet luncheons will be served from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. A balcony tea room will be open from 11 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily.

Proceeds from the show will help to support the many missionary projects at home and abroad undertaken by women of All Saints'.

Among the many dealers exhibiting for the antique display are a number from this area. They include: Herb Martin of Pontiac, chair caning, rush weaving; Frances Rupp of Music Box, Orchard Lake, music boxes; organ; Dorris Ballentine, "Green Shutters Antiques," Clarkston, furniture, brass, china, etc.; and Anne Thatcher, Oxford, large furniture, china, ironstone.

Others are: Chloae Smith, "The Country House General Store," Utica, woven mats, table cloths, candy; Joan Hursh, Troy, books and silver; Lillian Grow, "Trash and Treasures," Royal Oak, trunk, lamps, stencils, etc.; and Bauda MacKinnon, Royal Oak, butter churns, wood bowls, brass, etc.

Completing the dealers' list are: Leonard Berry, Pauline Work, Therese Moore and Garnette Watters, all of Detroit; Mrs. Carl Sparks, Nashville,

You may use my name, I want to go on record as saying that being married to an "older" woman is wonderful. Sincerely yours,

DAVID S. SASSO

DEAR ABBY: You keep insisting that men want to marry "nice" girls. That idea went out with World War II. Don't get me wrong, Abby, I am still a "nice" girl, but I'm beginning to wonder if it's smart.

I get heart sick when I go out with a fellow I think is different, and when he learns I am not about to play his game he says, "I'm not wasting my time with you. Why do you think I took you out for?"

Then I have to fight him off, and I have the bruises to prove it. While I continue to cling to my high principles, I keep reading in the newspapers that fellows I fought off marrying girls I knew had fast reputations. Then I could kick myself. What is a girl supposed to do anyway?

TOO NICE: She's supposed to behave herself. And almost without exception, the girls who have to fight off men, and have the bruises to prove it, prove only that they are leading the men on a bit too far.

There will be a charge for guests at the lecture.

Problems? Write to Abby, in care of The Pontiac Press. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abby in care of The Pontiac Press for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions."

Lecture Set for Ikebana

The Detroit chapter of Ikebana International will meet at 12:30 p.m., Wednesday, in the Birmingham Federal Savings and Loan Association Building, West Maple Road at Lahser.

Michael Blackburn of Detroit will use slides, sketches and materials to complement his lecture on "How to Landscape a Japanese Garden."

He holds a degree in landscape architecture from Michigan State University. Before coming to Detroit, he was design consultant for the Birchfield Nurseries, Rhineclaire, Wis. and the Maxson Garden Center, Grand Legue.

There will be a charge for guests at the lecture.

Rev. McAlpine Will Speak

The Rev. James P. McAlpine, minister to the University Christian Federation, Oakland University, will be guest speaker for the Episcopal Churchwomen of Christ Church Cranbrook April 19.

He will use the topic "The Church's Ministry in Higher Education." This segment of the day's program will follow 10 a.m. celebration of the Holy Communion in St. Dunstan's Chapel.

Rev. McAlpine, a former Marquis Fellow at Christ Church Cranbrook, completed his formal education at Trinity College, Hartford, Conn., and the Episcopal Theological School, Cambridge, Mass. The McAlpines and their four children now make their home in Rochester.

After a noon luncheon, the meeting will continue with 20 models and four junior models presenting a fashion preview of "The Cranbrook Collection Revisted," featuring designer originals selected from items which will be available at the annual spring benefit sale at Christ Church April 29.

The program will be highlighted by parodies of E. Franklin Hitch of Birmingham. The women also will be entertained by the "Rummage Glee Club." Another special attraction will be "Birmingham Bertha" and her dancing chorus of "Bloomfield Bombers."

Heart Association Sets Body Mechanic Classes

The Michigan Heart Association has announced "Heart of the Home" classes in work simplification and body mechanics will be offered in Oakland County.

The sessions, for benefit of homemakers with limitations of time, energy or physical activity, will be from 2 to 4 p.m. April 18 at the Oakland County Heart Information Center, Hunter Boulevard in Birmingham.

The association reports, "Experience has shown that the classes have great value for many physically handicapped individuals as well as for those who must conserve their energy."

The free classes are presented by Mrs. Alice Epple, consultant in homemaker rehabilitation, MHA. Mrs. Epple follows the theme "Take it easy by the way you use your body." It includes discussions and demonstrations of sit-down work, work levels, selection and use of household equipment, kitchen layout, work centers, storage arrangements and the application of work simplification principles to specific jobs.

Mrs. Epple emphasizes that the instruction is concentrated with useful techniques for life and work, and that no medical advice is given. Registration may be made and further details obtained by calling the Oakland County Heart Information Center.

The "Heart of the Home" program is made possible by the

MHA through funds contributed to the Michigan United Fund.

An August wedding at Kirk in the Hills is planned by Royann Carol Kidney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy C. Kidney of Beverly Hills, and Frederick Bentley Clark, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Clark Jr. of Apple Lane. Miss Kidney attends Eastern Michigan University. Her fiancé is a graduate student at the University of Michigan and member of Delta Tau Delta fraternity.

Are You Bride-to-Be?

Are you planning a wedding in 1966? We are interested in having your engagement and wedding news. But we need your cooperation.

The Pontiac Press has printed forms for both engagement and wedding announcements. But you may send in the details, giving full names and addresses (husband's names for a married woman) and other pertinent details. Please include a telephone number so that we may check if necessary.

TIME LAPSE

There must be four months between engagement and wedding stories, if there is to be a picture with both. No engagements are announced less than a month before the wedding date.

We prefer to receive wedding stories and pictures before the ceremony.

If pictures are taken at the wedding, we must have them no later than two days after the ceremony (that is, by noon Tuesday for Saturday weddings.)

If the wedding takes place out of town, this deadline is extended.

BEST PICTURES

Pictures should be black and white, preferably glossy prints. Snapshots cannot be used. Color and tinted prints are not acceptable.

While The Pontiac Press makes no promise to use every picture submitted, some printed mention of the event will be made.

There is no charge for editorial space, but it cannot be reserved nor can we promise the size of picture or its position.

Engagement and wedding pictures are kept for two months, then discarded. They may be called for any time after publication.

Judge Pratt Is Speaker at Meeting

For his talk before Beta Chi chapter, Epsilon Sigma Alpha sorority, at the April meeting in the YWCA, Circuit Judge Philip Pratt chose for his topic "American Heritage."

Officers elected for 1966-7 at the meeting are Mrs. James Stone, president; Mrs. Robert Williams, vice president; Mrs. Dorsey Underwood recording secretary; Mrs. Joseph Orsey, treasurer and Mrs. Jere Donaldson, corresponding secretary.

They will be installed at the next meeting which will be in the home of Mrs. Don R. Murphy, Locklin Drive, West Bloomfield Township.

Donations were made to the YWCA and the geriatric wards at Pontiac State Hospital. A portable television set will be purchased and presented to Dr. Julius Rutzy for his pediatrics waiting-room in St. Joseph Mercy Hospital.

Mrs. Everett Harris, local music teacher and Mrs. LaVon Ryden, local vocalist, will participate in the luncheon program at the forthcoming state convention in Kingsley Inn.

Mr. and Mrs. N. P. Warrenner of Foster Street recently celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary. The couple was honored at a dinner at Devon Gables. Their sons and daughters are: Gerald Warrenner, Indianapolis, Ind.; Alvin of Russell Street; Mrs. William H. Taylor Jr., Ottawa Drive; and Mrs. Robert Shorey, Wenonah Drive.

When in Doubt Use 'Basic White'

When in doubt as to the correct table covering to use for company dinner, choose that plain, white cloth. Like your basic black dress, it can be dressed up or down with different accessories, and it always looks right.

CHAPTER 16

The application of soft, subtle color brightens up your whole appearance, and as a result, perks up your personality. It's wonderful for sallow complexions, for days when you aren't feeling up to par, and in the evenings (fluorescent lighting has a tendency to drain color from the face). Remember, though, a little goes a long way.

Face powder is an important step in your overall makeup because it "sets" all other make-up. Here's how to apply it:

- Dip a large puff of cotton deep into a box of fluffy, almost transparent powder (the colorless kind is best).
- Bend forward and press the puff firmly against your face and neck, avoiding the eyelids and lashes (for now).
- Let powder set for a few minutes — you have to give the base time to absorb it.
- Turn cotton puff over and brush off excess powder in a downward direction. (The downy facial hairs that hold powder grow that way.)
- Brush powder out of eyebrows with a big eyebrow brush, first the wrong way, then into place.
- Use a clean cotton puff each

as close as possible to the base of lashes, beginning at the inner corner of the eye and working across to the outer corner.

If your eyes are close together, start the line in from the inner corner of the eye and tilt upward a quarter of an inch past the outer corner.

If you use pencil, rules 1, 3 and 4 apply. Be especially wary of smudging.

Powder the entire lid area (including eyelashes) BEFORE you use eyeliner. Puff on powder, let set and brush it off. (This helps prevent smudging and sets your eye makeup.)

MASCARA:
• If you use cake mascara, dip brush in water and rub over mascara.

If you use a cream mascara, run brush over it lightly.

If you use a roll-on type, just remove it from tube.

• Hold a hand mirror under your chin and look down into it.

• Still looking down, coat the underside of your lashes. (This makes them curl upward.)

• Separate lashes with a clean, dry lash brush. Choose a color in the brown family — it's more natural-looking.

EYEBROW PENCIL:
• Remove any excess powder from brows with a little water on cotton or a clean eyebrow brush.

• Take eyebrow pencil and use short, quick strokes to fill in brown, or use eyebrow darkener which comes with its own brush.

• Fill in the area from the arch of your brow to the end.

• Brush brows into place.

From the book published by P. Putnam's Sons, "TOMORROW: Something still missing? — It's lipstick — next on your guide to becoming a perfectionist at makeup time."

time you powder, to prevent skin infections.

Yesterday we discussed the application of foundation base and rouge, and now, powder. What next? If you look carefully at yourself in the mirror, you'll notice that your face needs definition around the eye area. And that brings us to the next big step — eye makeup.

EYE SHADOW (stick):
• With stick itself, stroke shadow lightly across lids.

• Blend color into nothing past outer corners, using fingertip.

I don't think eye shadow is appropriate for school, street, or even date wear. Why not save up the extra sparkle and depth it can give your eyes for very special evenings?

Gray and brown are the most natural-looking colors, and camouflage go in for shades that match their eyes or clothes (for gala occasions, of course).

KEEP SUBTLE
Besides an eye shadow stick, you might want to try cream or powdered shadow. Cream is applied with your fingertip, powder-type with its own brush. Whichever type you choose, remember to keep the shading subtle.

EYELINER (liquid):
• Stretch lid out gently.

• Dip bottle brush in bottle or add drop of water to cake liner or cake container; wipe brush on side of bottle until a small amount of color remains on brush.

• Draw a narrow, careful line

Than Not at All

Say Better Bareheaded

NEW YORK — Don't let the fact that you don't have a new Easter bonnet keep you from attending church services this Easter — your pastor will be glad to have you, even bareheaded.

According to The Insider's Newsletter, clergymen hate to look down from their pulpits on a sea of makeshift head-coverings fashioned from facial tissues, doilies and gloves, but they would rather see you bareheaded than not at all.

Even in the Catholic Church, covering your head is a matter "of custom but not requirement," says an information officer at St. Patrick's Cathedral in New York. "It is a sign of respect," she added.

An Episcopal minister notes that "when women ask if they should wear hats we say yes, but in the light of present-day customs and attitudes we do not require it."

The Newsletter also posed the question of whether a wig could count as a "headcovering." The information officer at St. Patrick's acknowledged that she doesn't know inasmuch as no one has ever brought the question up.

Restores Glaze

After the glaze has become worn from chintz cloth, it can be restored somewhat by dipping it in a thin solution of starch to which a small amount of paraffin wax has been added.

Wife Should Hold On to Paid Up Policy

By MARY FEELEY
Consultant in

Dear Miss Feeley:
I am a married woman and the mother of two children. Twenty years ago at age 19, I took out a 20-payment life insurance policy in the amount of $1000. The premiums were $4.70 a month. I have reached the end of the premium-paying period, and have accumulated annual dividends and interest amounting to $270.07. The cash value of the policy is $467 for each $1,000 of insurance, which would be $940.60 for the $1000. This is the only insurance that I have on my life. Should I continue to leave the policy as is with the company on a fully paid-up basis, with annual dividends being left to accumulate? Or should I cash in the policy for the $840.60, plus the $270.07 interest and dividends, and re-insure myself at the age of 40? I am in good health and do not need the cash.

J. Z., Yonkers, N.Y.

Dear J. Z.:
Hold on to the policy as is. If, however, your company will permit you to buy paid-up additions with your dividends, and subsequent ones which is unlikely at this point — such an arrangement could prove a savings tax-wise.

As for re-insuring yourself at age 40, if you feel the family situation needs this protection, then buy what additional insurance you can without cashing in this policy you mention. Premium rates at your age, of course, would probably be as much as 50 per cent more per $1,000 than you paid for the policy you bought at age 19.

Dear Miss Feeley:

On the back of Series E Bonds, there is a statement: "I do not hold U.S. Savings Bonds of Series E originally issued to me in excess of the amount fixed by regulations."

Could you tell me what this fixed amount is?

Also what are bank investment certificates?

L.P.H., Jersey City, N.J.

Dear L.P.H.:
The fixed amount that you ask about is $10,000 (face value) in E bonds that can be issued to one person during any calendar year. Where bonds are purchased in the names of two individuals as co-owners, each may hold $10,000 or together $20,000.

As to Bank Investment Certificates, these are considered time deposits to be purchased in certain denominations in multiples of $100 with a specified minimum either $500 or $1,000. You agree in advance to deposit the money for a specified period of time, such as six months or one year. For this reason these certificates offer a higher interest rate than regular savings accounts. If you want to withdraw any of the money, you usually have to give 30 days notice, and there will be a reduction in the interest rate you receive.

Dear Mary Feeley:

Our daughter will be entering a business school after graduation in June. She will then stay with relatives.

We would like to know what would be a reasonable amount for her to pay them for their hospitality, based on a five-day week and two meals a day.

Mrs. W.R., Seaford, Del.
Dear Mrs. R.:

Since your daughter will not be earning a salary at this point, you can't go by the rule-of-thumb for room and board — which is generally estimated at from one-fourth to one-third of the paycheck. So you could start by using the moderate food plan of $6.50 to $7.00 for five days.

The additional amount you'd want to pay for your daughter would depend on whether she will be sharing a room, and the other services she will be getting.

(You can write to Mary Feeley in care of The Pontiac Press. Questions of wide interest will be answered in her column.)

Make Double Batch of Cocoa Brownies

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

Brownies probably take honors for the all-time favorite cookie. But sometimes when you're hungry for them, there isn't any chocolate in the house.

Then it's time to get out Mrs. Ian R. Olley's recipe — it's a family specialty — and make Brownies with cocoa.

Remember not to over-bake Brownies or they'll be dry.

BROWNIES

By Mrs. Ian R. Olley

¾ cup flour
1 cup sugar
½ cup vegetable shortening
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 eggs
½ teaspoon salt
5 tablespoons cocoa
½ cup chopped nuts

Mix ingredients in order given. Pour into greased 8x8 pan. Bake 25-30 minutes at 350 degrees. When cool, spread with your favorite chocolate frosting and cut into squares.

Says Teen-Agers Require Cultural 'Hitching Posts'

Too many of today's teen-agers are in danger of being lost permanently to the world of fun-morality, according to a noted author and lecturer.

Clifton Fadiman, Humanities Consultant for Encyclopaedia Britannica Films Inc., warns that youngsters from fifteen to eighteen are most vulnerable to seduction by the post 3 P.M. world of the frug and the hopped up sports car.

PLASTIC PERIOD
"During this plastic period the boy or girl may be moved one way or another. If they are captured by the world of passive entertainment, they may eventually operate all their lives at intellectual low-throttle," he said.

"The high school student, fortified with little or no perspective, is quite naturally persuaded that only the present exists," he said. But Fadiman believes that for all their rebelliousness, high school youngsters are desperately seeking something to which they can attach themselves. They can be easily lost in a world that is too big if they lack hitching posts.

Fadiman believes that the Humanities — the study of literature and the arts — provide them with the finest hitching posts our civilization has been able to set up.

The Humanities help supply youngsters with the lacking perspective and give them some awareness of civilization as a whole.

Fadiman believes that the Humanities can be successfully deployed against the non-mental world of sport, diversion and rapid motion. "They are the ideas, images, sounds, passions, great historic actions, heroes and villains to which and to whom the adolescent is peculiarly sensitive," he declared.

Mr. and Mrs. Irvin C. George of Carlisle Street, announce the engagement of their daughter, Karen Ann to Paul Lawrence Rossman, son of the Seward A. Rossmans of Lake George Road, Addison Township. He is a senior at General Motors Institute. A June 24 altar date is set.

New Process in a Minute

In the future fabric manufacturers may be able to provide consumers with a yard of cloth in as little as 1-50 the time it now takes.

Jean Schubel, clothing specialist with Michigan State University, relates that manufacturers are developing a new method of manufacturing fabrics that is neither knitting nor weaving.

The new process enables manufacturers to produce two to three yards of cloth in a minute. With present knitting and weaving processes it takes a machine 10 to 50 minutes to produce two yards of cloth. The time now required depends on how dense the fabric is to be, she notes.

Cutting production time from nearly an hour to only a minute for every two yards of fabric will have far-reaching influences on the economics of the fabric business, Miss Schubel added.

The new fabric manufacturing process uses multi-needle machines. The apparatus stitches together yarn or fiber layers.

Create Fund for Campers

Members of the Alpha chapter, Beta Theta Phi sorority gathered in the Hathorn Drive home of Mrs. L. Z. Monroe Tuesday evening.

Highlighting the meeting was the viewing of an oil painting donated by Mrs. Charles Kreher which will be sold by the group with proceeds slated for a fund to enable two girls to attend Camp Oakland summer camp.

A benefit sale is scheduled by the group at the Community Hall in Clarkston, on May 13.

Also on the agenda was the selection of Mrs. John Kinsler and Mrs. Walter Kinsler as representatives at the dinner at Camp Oakland on April 18.

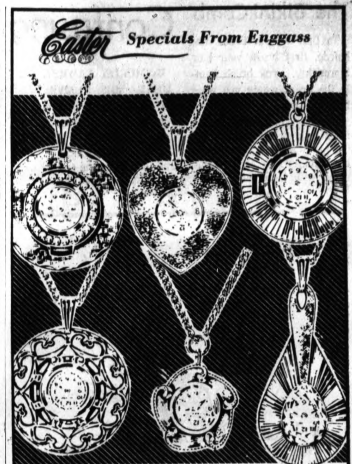

Speaks of Book to Round Table

Mrs. D. R. Lazelle opened her home on Ledgestone Drive for the April meeting of the Round Table Club, with Mrs. George Cram and Mrs. James H. McGuire as co-hostesses.

A book review of "A Gift of Joy" by Helen Hayes was given by Mrs. Arthur W. Sel-den.

Election of officers is slated for the May meeting in the home of Mrs. K. K. Kretz.

Confusing Isn't It? Rage and Love

By MURIEL LAWRENCE
DEAR MRS. LAWRENCE: I've just learned that our 17-year-old boy has borrowed money to buy himself a used car. He's done this because my husband took away the one we gave him after he got a ticket for speeding.

He's keeping the new car in a friend's garage. There's been so much trouble over this car question between him and his father that I'm afraid of what his father will do if he hears he's borrowed money to . . .

ANSWER: Why on earth did your husband take his first car away from him? You can't make a 17-year-old boy stop speeding in cars by removing one from him. If he's bent on speeding, he can always find another car to risk his life in, if not in one of his own, in the cars of his friends. What a strange way to express one's loving fear for a child's life! Your son isn't the only speed demon in your family. Your husband is one, too. He has sped right over his loving concern for this child's life and, instead of exploding this original feeling, has exploded a secondary one—his rage at the discomfort caused by his love and fear. So the boy has been sped over awareness of their existence in his father and has exploded defiant rage of his own.

No wonder. He's been given the notion that he's being pushed around instead of the truth that could evoke responsibility from him, the truth that his life is precious to the man who begot him and who has nourished and protected him for 17 years.

I suppose your husband is too proud to tell the boy he loves him and too proud to restore his car to him, which would make that love so clear that the boy would begin to take better care of the life that's so valuable to his father.

It is sad that fathers believe it is much more manly to explode rage at a child who has made them feel loving fear than it is to explode the loving fear. It is most unfortunate that they regard love and fear as weak, feminine feelings that must not be revealed at any cost lest their manhood come into question.

The result is they give their children such a false, unfair impression of them as unreachably angry bullies. In an excellent paper on fathers and defiant sons by Norman Epstein of Brooklyn's Psychiatric Centers, I find this line:

"The fathers in this study denied tenderness to their boys in order to encourage their masculinity."

Ah, well. So long as fathers' maleness obliges them to express loving fear as rage, sons are going to express it by responsive rage. And nobody is ever going to get to know any one.

Daughter Is Born

Skit Planned for Church Luncheon

The Women's Association of the Church of the Atonement, United Presbyterian, on Clintonville Road, will have a luncheon at one o'clock, April 14, in the church social rooms. A play titled "Mothers Don't Have Much Fun," directed by Mrs. Herbert Allen will be presented following the luncheon.

Mrs. Ray Bush will lead devotions. Hostesses are Mrs. C. Clark, Mrs. Leonard Moses and Mrs. Terry Smith. Table decorations will be by the Rebekah Circle. A nursery will be provided.

Selling Autos Is Her Forte

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—A car salesman's indifference led to Mrs. Annie Rassinier's first job 34 years ago. Today, at 71, she's still going strong. "I'd be a fool to quit now," she says. "The auto agency is getting ready to move to a new location right around the corner from my home. I won't even have to drive to work."

She has sold more than 5,000 cars, and some of her customers have been with her for years.

It all began in 1931 shortly after her husband died. Mrs. Rassinier was left with four children.

"I had a BA degree from Buford College in Nashville and no idea how to put it to work when I went in to buy a car."

"A car is a big investment. Before you spend that much money, you ought to ask questions and you're entitled to intelligent answers. I went up to the manager, told him how I felt, and got myself a job."

Three days after Mrs. Rassinier delivers a car, she calls the new owner to check on the performance. Thereafter, she calls once a month throughout the first year.

"When my customers have a complaint, they come to me and I go with them to the service department. I'm not very popular back in service. I nag. But I get results and that's what my customers want."

Fill Baskets for Patients

Easter baskets were filled for patients at the Orchard Lake Nursing Home by members of Iota Nu chapter, Beta Sigma Phi sorority recently.

The project got under way in the Shaddick Street home of Mrs. Ronald Applegate. Committees in charge were headed by Mrs. Larry Girard, Mrs. Andrew Kivlan, Mrs. James Schimp and Mrs. Applegate.

Mrs. James Talley was selected as "Girl of the year" by the chapter and will represent her unit at the founders day dinner scheduled for April 27 in the Holiday Inn.

'His Ears Are OK'

TRENTON, N.J. (AP)—A woman called a business office here and asked to speak to her son-in-law. A girl in the office said: "I don't believe he can talk to you. He has laryngitis." The mother-in-law answered: "He doesn't need to talk, I'll do the talking."

The Henry C. Barkers of Ferndale, announce the engagement of her daughter, Jacqueline Joy Wallace, to Homer Lee Hassenzahl, son of the Fred H. Hassenzahls of Alberta Street, Pontiac Township. Both attend Spring Arbor College, Spring Arbor, Mich. and plan Sept. 3 vows.
