NASA Sticks to July's Apollo 11

No Moon Landing in May

SPACE CENTER, Houston, Tex. (AP) — High-level space officials have decided to send Apollo 10 around the moon for 63 hours, but man's first landing there will have to await the flight of Apollo 11.

A source at the Manned Spacecraft Center said the space agency officials adopted this course at a meeting yesterday.

Apollo 10 will be launched May 18, the source said, and fly into lunar orbit. Two of its crew will then fly the landing module to within 10 miles of the lunar surface, leaving the third crewman behind in the command module.

The lunar module descent stage will be jettisoned at 10 miles above the moon and the ascent stage flown up to a rendezvous with the command module. The ascent stage will be left in lunar orbit and the crew will return to earth in the command module.

JULY LANDING

A successful flight by Apollo 10 will virtually assure a moon landing attempt by Apollo 11, now scheduled for a July blast-off.

The reported decision appeared to end speculation that the first moon-landing attempt would be made by Apollo 10, without waiting for the Apollo 11 launch.

According to one source, astronaut Thomas P. Stafford, the commander of Apollo 10, had actively campaigned to have his mission attempt the moon landing. But, a source said, officials judged it would be more prudent to use Apollo 10 to gather more information about the moon and make the big try later with Apollo 11.

GRAVITATIONAL PULL

One concern is accurate tracking and orbital altitude determination. Engineers learned during Apollo 8 that differences in the gravitational pull of various areas of the moon cause altitude changes for orbiting spacecraft greater than had been noted on unmanned lunar orbiters.

The crew for Apollo 10 will be Stafford, Navy Cmdr. Eugene Cernan and Navy Cmdr. John Young, all veterans of the Gemini space flight series.

Peking Dire N-Peril in '70s, Says Laird

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird told Congress today the emerging Communist Chinese nuclear threat will be "one of our gravest national security problems of the 1970s."

And, he added, the Soviet Union is throwing up a challenge "of serious import" to the United States and now has "in being or under construction more ICBM launchers" than the 1,050 U.S. land-based intercontinental ballistic missiles.

Laird testified during a closed session of the Senate Armed Forces Committee primarily to present his department's budgetary plans, more commonly known as the Pentagon's annual "defense posture" statement.

But it was his first appearance on Capitol Hill since President Nixon unveiled last Friday his administration's revised "safeguard" Sentinel antimissile defense system and that aspect was expected to be discussed prominently.

FRIENDLY COMMITTEE

The committee is heavily weighted with ABM supporters and Laird was expected to receive a generally friendly audience for his first formal budget presentation. The document was released to newsmen.

The proposed budget includes $800 million for deployment of the modified Sentinel system which Laird said will include 12 missile defense batteries in the continental United States plus options to locate two others in Hawaii and Alaska.

Laird told the committee he had little to add to Nixon's Sentinel announcement but did report work is under way to increase the range of the system's long-range, nuclear-tipped Spartan interceptors.

He described the system as a "measured deployment of an active defense of our retaliatory forces," which contrasts with the Johnson administration's proposal to guard the nation's cities. The $800 million represents about half of what former President Lyndon B. Johnson had sought for the Sentinel's initial phase.

'Not Laying Base for Viet Pullout'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird told Congress today, "I see no indication that we presently have a program adequate to bring about a significant reduction in the U.S. military contribution in South Vietnam."

Just back from a personal inspection, the new Pentagon chief criticized U.S. leaders in Vietnam for being oriented more toward military operations "than on assisting the South Vietnamese to acquire the means to defend themselves."

Laird's somber-toned prepared report to a closed session of the Senate Armed Services Committee also amounted to a rap at the policies of his Democratic predecessor, Clark M. Clifford.

Laird asked for another $156 million to speed modernization of South Vietnam's armed forces (RVNAF), and declared "establishment of a new objective for this modernization which has not previously existed, namely, the effective assumption by the RVNAF of a larger share of combat operations from American forces."

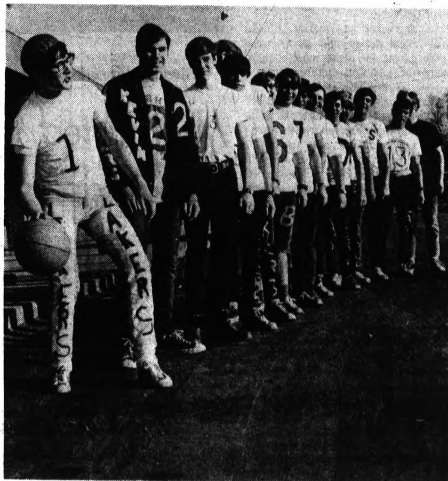

New Military Pay Boost Is Scrapped

WASHINGTON (AP) — Plans to boost military pay an additional $1.2 billion this year are being dropped, Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird said today in his first budget presentation to Congress.

The revised program of military pay will not affect the $1.8 billion pay hike this year which previously was approved by Congress, he told the Senate Armed Services Committee.

But because of budgetary pressures, he added in his prepared report for the closed-door presentation of the annual "defense posture" statement, future pay hikes are being re-examined.

The additional pay raise was designed originally as the first step in the Nixon administration's plan to establish an all-voluntary military force.

DRIBBLING ALONG — Dick Curran (left) has first call as he and 13 West Bloomfield High School classmates start a basketball dribble from the school in Orchard Lake this morning. They're expected to arrive in Grand Blanc this evening just prior to West Bloomfield's state basketball tournament quarterfinal game against Bay City All Saints. The 14 planned to work in two-man teams with each team bouncing the ball a mile before taking a break. (Story, page C-1)

Overflow Crowd Likely for Hearing on Parochial Aid

LANSING (UPI) — The biggest bill before the Michigan Legislature will get a public airing March 28 in the Capitol's biggest room — and that may not be big enough.

Scores of witnesses are expected to file before the microphone in the high-ceilinged House chamber beginning at 1:30 p.m. to express their sentiments on a bill to allot $400 million annually to nonpublic schools.

The chamber, used only for hearings on the most controversial of bills, holds about 300 persons on the floor and in the galleries.

Indications that an overflow crowd may show up developed yesterday when organizations for and against parochial aid confirmed they will be out in force.

The Catholic-dominated Michigan Association for Nonpublic Schools is spearheading the drive for parochial aid. Opposition forces are led by the powerful Michigan Education Association and the Citizens to Advance Public Education. It will be their first head-on conflict since a series of public hearings last fall by a special Senate-House study unit.

The bill is sponsored by Rep. J. Robert Traxler, D-Bay City, and 34 House colleagues.

Rep. Lucille McColough, D-DeARBOR, committee chairman, said the decision to hold the hearing was unanimous. "After all," she said, "there are a lot of people waiting to be heard on this issue and we have a duty to listen."

SCENE OF NEAR-TRAGEDY—Three youngsters involved in a near-tragedy and lifesaving exploit stand at the south shore of Watkins Lake in Waterford Township. Charles Morris Jr., 4, of 4180 South Shore fell through the melting ice yesterday afternoon and was pulled out by his sister, Cheri, 14, (right). The other girl, Patricia Weber, 14, of 1210 Florence, first saw the boy foundering and aided in the rescue.

Two Waterford Girls Save Drowning Boy

By ED BLUNDEN
Four-year-old Charles Morris Jr. had a few things going for him yesterday afternoon, and what could have been a tragic drowning would doubtlessly be just another family story — the day Charlie fell through the ice.

Charlie's mother, Mrs. Charles Morris of 4180 South Shore, Waterford Township, heard her daughter shouting frantically about 3:15.

Mrs. Morris discovered that Charles had gotten out of the house near Watkins Lake and walked onto the ice where he fell through.

His rescuers were his sister, Cheri Morris, 14, and a neighbor, Patricia Weber, 14, of 1210 Florence. Both girls are ninth graders at Cray Junior high.

SENIOR LIFESAVER

"Pat discovered him first and Cheri went to pull him out. She fell through but managed to get him to shore. The water is fairly deep there, but Cheri had senior lifesaving last summer and knew what to do," Mrs. Morris said.

"The girls put Charlie in a tub of warm water right away," Mrs. Morris said.

The boy was reportedly all right yesterday afternoon and did not require hospitalization. Mrs. Morris credits the two girls with saving the boy's life.

"He was supposed to be taking his nap, but he got out of the house on me, somehow. Boys will do that," she said. Charles is the youngest of the family's six children and the only boy.

GM Recall Tops Million Vehicles

DETROIT (AP) — Three weeks after announcing the biggest vehicle recall in the automobile industry's history, General Motors is calling back another 1.1 million vehicles, this time for correction of possible brake defects. The two recalls cover 6 million cars, buses and trucks.

Linked to the latest call-back was the crash of a GM-built bus last autumn at Huntsville, Ala. which killed a 4-year-old boy and injured 24 other junior high school pupils.

On Feb. 26 GM asked owners of 4.9 million vehicles to take them back to dealers for correction of possible carburetor and exhaust-system defects. GM said then four deaths had been attributed to faulty exhaust systems.

Involved in the new call were Pontiac cars and Chevrolet and GMC trucks and buses.

GM declined comment yesterday on the crash of the General Motors bus in Alabama, but noted that an investigator for the National Highway Safety Bureau said that a seal in the bus's master brake cylinder was worn enough to cause a hydraulic pressure failure.

The report, GM said, also stated the vehicle's brake linings were worn and could have been a contributing factor to the crash.

GM also said seven accidents had been reported involving trucks, another involving a school bus and something under 20 involving the Pontiac automobiles—1965 and 1966 Pontiac Catalinas, Star Chiefs, Bonnevilles and Grand Prix models.

The autos were recalled for replacement of two front brake hoses which according to field experience could fail after extended mileage, GM said. A total of 967,000 Pontiacs were involved.

24 Hurt in U.S. Airdrop

SEOUL (AP) — U.S. military officials in Seoul said today that 24 men of the U.S. 82nd Airborne Division and the South Korean special forces were injured during the massive airdrop that launched Operation Focus Retina Monday.

Weather Playing Overture to Spring

With spring only a day away, the weatherman continues to provide Pontiac residents with sunshine and unseasonably mild temperatures.

The mercury in downtown Pontiac yesterday soared to 64, a high for the season.

The weatherman predicts tonight will be mild with a low of 32 to 36.

Mostly cloudy with little temperature change, with the high heading for 60 to 65, is the forecast for tomorrow. Cloudy and colder is Friday's outlook.

Probabilities of precipitation in percent are 5 today, 10 tonight and 20 tomorrow.

Low temperature was 43 in downtown Pontiac before 8 a.m. today. By 2 p.m. the mercury had climbed to 69.

Commissioners Hear Union, City Charges

WINSTON LIVINGSTON

Charges and countercharges over conduct during labor contract negotiations were hurled across the City Commission chambers in City Hall last night.

Taking up the cause for three city employes was lawyer Winston Livingston, who charged the city with trying to break the unions.

Livingston is representing the Pontiac Firefighters Association, Municipal Employees Association and Federation of State, County and Municipal employes. About 500 persons on the city payroll are members of the three unions.

Livingston's contentions were backed strongly later in the meeting by Ken Morris, regional director of the UAW.

All are working under Circuit Court order by Judge Philip Pratt after a strike was ended March 4. Negotiations are still supposed to be going on, but appeared to be stalled, it was revealed at the meeting.

The parties involved announced last week a fact-finder would be asked for from the State Labor Mediation Board. However, the three unions apparently have balked at signing the petition.

Livingston declared the unions wanted the fact-finding to be binding on both sides.

Normally a fact-finder would hold hearings and issue an opinion which could be accepted or rejected and not be binding. It was not indicated the city would agree to the proposal of "binding fact-finding."

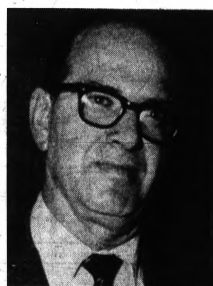

Livingston's speech to the commission was an "equal time" concession following last week's report given by Police Chief, William K. Hanger, which was strongly critical of union activities.

Hanger charged the unions with harassment, threats, destruction of city and private property, assaults on other employes, illegal striking and blocking of entrances to buildings. The chief also indicated on the reportedly tension-filled evening of March 4, Livingston, some union leaders and some picketers were "noticeably under the influence of alcohol."

Livingston pointed out in his reply that he and most of the union leaders had been in Judge Pratt's chambers all day until just moments before the strike was called off at 7:45 that night.

Livingston charged the city with forming a "back-to-work" movement that precipitated the tear-gassing incident of the morning of March 3. Livingston insisted Chief Hanger had never answered the question "Who ordered the

Reds' Spring Thrust Hits Da Nang Area

SAIGON (AP) — The Vietcong's spring offensive ripped into South Vietnam's northern sector today as big enemy rockets slammed into a Da Nang shantytown and ground troops made heavy attacks on U.S. and South Vietnamese forces guarding the nation's second largest city.

The U.S. Command also reported the massive counteroffensive by more than 10,000 American troops northwest of Saigon had killed 123 North Vietnamese soldiers yesterday in its first day of operations. One American was killed and 23 wounded, the command said, indicating most of the attacks on the enemy were by planes and artillery.

In Da Nang, 13 Vietnamese civilians were reported killed and 21 were wounded when ten 100-pound rockets exploded in the slum neighborhood around a Navy pier before dawn. It was the highest civilian toll in the four times Da Nang has been shelled since the enemy's spring offensive started Feb. 23.

A South Korean civilian working for

The U.S. Navy also was killed, and three U.S. Marines were wounded.

MARINE CAMP HIT

Twenty miles south of Da Nang, 400 North Vietnamese troops laid down a mortar barrage on a U.S. Marine night camp, then stormed the camp.

The Marines fired their artillery point-blank into the charging enemy troops and reported killing 72 of them, but the fight took the lives of 12 Americans and 30 were wounded.

Two of the North Vietnamese reportedly broke through the Marine lines, and ran into a mess hall carrying flamethrowers. They killed two Marines but were cut down before they could light the flamethrowers.

Marines at daybreak found 20 assault rifles, three flamethrowers, three bazooka-type rocket launchers and 200 Chinese hand grenades.

OTHER ATTACKS

Military spokesmen said the enemy also made several other unsuccessful attacks south of Da Nang about 2 a.m. In one, South Vietnamese rangers and infantrymen threw back an assault on Dien Ban, a key district capital 15 miles south of Da Nang.

About 30 rocket and mortar attacks against allied bases and towns were reported during the night, most of them in the northern 1st Corps military area.

One rocket attack being prepared for Saigon was blocked when two alert GIs on a watchtower observed radar traces of people moving about a mile away.

They called in mortar fire, and the radar scopes showed people running off. At dawn searching troops found six 122mm rockets aimed at the heart of Saigon.

Army Will Lighten Mutiny Sentences

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army plans to act with considerable leniency reviewing stiff court-martial sentences given soldiers convicted of mutiny, in a California stockade last October, it was learned today.

The decision reflects a high-level Army conclusion that mutiny charges against 27 inmates of the Presidio, Calif., stockade were ill-advised and that initial convictions brought "outrageous" sentences.

Trials of the first four men prosecuted under the mutiny charge brought prison terms of as much as 16 years.

Records of the first case involving Pvt. Nessey Snow, who originally got 15 years, were flown to Washington yesterday so that the Army advocate general could cut the sentences to two years.

Besides Snow, Pvt. Lawrence Reidel, Louis Oszpinski and John Colip all were convicted of mutiny.

Deaf-Mute Athlete $800 Shy of Goal

A campaign to send a deaf-mute employee of the Fisher Body plant in Pontiac to the Deaf Olympics in Belgrade, Yugoslavia, is $800 short of its goal.

The total amount needed by April 1 is $1,800. The money will send Edward S. Wright Jr., 24, of 158 Whittemore to the games if it is collected in time.

The fund is being handled by UAW Local 586 President Donald Johnson. Checks or cash should be sent to the local office at 821 Baldwin or turned over to Johnson, he said.

Wright did well in previous competition and set three records in qualifying events which made him eligible for the International Games for the Deaf, which will be held in Belgrade Aug. 9-16.

Eileen Anderson Has Her Eye On A City Hall Office

Miniskirted Mother Seeks Los Angeles Mayor's Job

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A comely red-haired housewife who says Los Angeles "deserves a swinging mayor" is going after the job with green stockings, songs and miniskirts.

"Politicians are asleep on the job," Eileen Nora Anderson tells political allies. Then she launches into song: "I would like to do lots of good things for this great big city."

"Lower all your taxes, do away with smog and pity."

"Legalize gambling and control it by the city."

"Take the burden off the taxpayer — today."

"Yeh. Yeh. Yeh."

A NEW APPROACH

Man Is Charged in 'Child Beating'

A Waterford Township man was charged last night with beating his nearly 2-year-old daughter because she refused to eat.

Donald A. VanLaven, 36, of 7025 Redmond was arrested by Oakland County sheriff's deputies on a charge of felonious assault. He is being held in the Oakland County Jail for arraignment.

His wife, Shirley, told deputies that her husband threw the child, Carol, from the dining to living room and hit her with his hands and belt after she refused to eat dinner on Monday.

He forced her jaws open and shut, causing her to bite her tongue, according to Mrs. VanLaven. She said she tried to stop him.

The child has been admitted to Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital for observation. She suffered bruises over most of her body and a possible concussion, deputies said.

The Garden City is owned by T. J. Stevenson & Co. of New York.

Commission Hears Union, City Charges

He was stopped by Mayor William H. Taylor Jr., who cautioned him about "negotiating at the commission meeting."

Taylor also had to interrupt UAW leader Morris for the same thing. Morris warned that the city's alleged "union-busting tactics held dire consequences."

He said the city was manifesting "a dedicated hatred of labor unions," and posed the question, "If you would do that (use gas) on your own employees, what would you do to the members of the UAW in this community?"

Morris warned the dispute "will not end here... many changes must take place."

From all indications the unions and the city were very close to agreement but the further to go to fact-finding was reported as pending.

Birmingham Citizens Group Pushing 'Yes' for School Vote

BIRMINGHAM — The Citizens for Birmingham Schools, has launched a "vote yes" campaign in support of the school district's upcoming millage and bond election.

Nearly 1,000 volunteers will attempt to visit every resident in the district to explain why the millage and bond issue is needed.

The citizens committee also has scheduled more than 20 informational meetings at schools in the district to explain the school board's ballot proposals.

A member of the Board of Education, a representative of the school administration and a citizen from the supporting committee are appearing at each meeting.

MARCH 24 VOTE

The Birmingham Board of Education has two proposals on the March 24 ballot.

One is a building bond proposal for $4.5 million that would allow expansion of both of the district's high schools, Seaholm and Groves. The expansion is needed to meet increased enrollments, school officials say.

Voters also will be asked to approve a one-year proposal of 11 mills for operation. This includes a renewal of 7.5 mills that expires this year and an increase of 3.5 mills.

"The purpose of our committee is to get out the 'yes' votes on March 24," said Daniel Burlingame, chairman of Citizens for Birmingham schools.

QUALITY EDUCATION

"The residents of this district always have desired quality education, and we expect they will continue to support the system by approving the requested millage."

John Blackhall Smith, superintendent of the Birmingham school district, told the Board of Education last night he will accept curriculum recommendations for the 1969-70 school year ready for board action April 1.

The recommendations will include course additions to the curriculum, faculty additions, new teaching procedures and equipment needs.

Smith said the special school election will help determine the priorities and extent of the curriculum and school operation recommendations.

Representatives of various curriculum and study committees discussed proposed recommendations with the board at last night's meeting.

The Birmingham-Bloomfield League of Women Voters will hold a "Candidates Night" at 8 p.m. March 27 in the Community Center.

The program will give residents an opportunity to meet and question candidates for the Birmingham City Commission and the Baldwin Library Board before the Municipal election April 7.

Candidates will speak on local issues and will be available for informal questioning and discussion. All nine City Commission candidates and the three Baldwin Library Board aspirants will be present.

Brazil Floods Subside

RECIFE, Brazil (AP) — After six days of torrential rains, skies were clear over northeastern Brazil today and flood waters began to subside. Unofficial reports said hundreds had died and 40,000 were homeless.

Officials feared a typhoid epidemic. Reports from Maceio said health officials had discovered two cases in Sao Jose de rage, the most severely inundated town along the flooded Mandau River.

Malaysia Claim Denied

KOTA KINABALU, Malaysia (AP) — Filipino troops are massing on island near the Malaysian state of Sabah and may use force to take over the disputed Borneo territory, Deputy Prime Minister Tun Abdul Razak said today.

The charge was quickly denied by Gen. Manful T. Yan, armed forces chief of Sabah in Manila, who said: "We have done no such thing."

New Jobs Cut to 115 in County Budget

The 156 new positions requested by county departments have been cut to 115 in the county's tentative budget for 1970. The Oakland County Board of Auditors yesterday made recommendations on the

150 in Southfield to Fight Stadium

SOUTHFIELD (AP) — About 150 Southfield citizens are planning a campaign to thwart any effort to locate a domed Detroit-area sports stadium in this suburb.

One group of stadium promoters has proposed a $100-million stadium-shopping center-office building complex southwest of Telegraph Road and I-696 on Southfield's western boundary.

Those attending an antistadium meeting last night voted to:

- Call a meeting next week of presidents of Southfield's various subdivisions.
- Sound out present and prospective City Council members' views on the stadium proposal.
- Select an antistadium council state and support it in the April 7 municipal election.

'ELECTION ISSUE'

"This will be an election issue," said James Brooks, a co-chairman of the citizens' group.

"We want every one of you to ask the politicians how they feel about this issue. And don't take wishy-washy answers."

Several community improvement associations were represented, and major objections centered on the possible need for extra police and fire personnel, road improvement and additional facilities, which the stadium complex would require.

positions to the board of supervisors personnel practices committee.

Salaries for the reduced number of new jobs would total $856,034 a year compared to the previous total of $1,161,676. Another $85,000 has been set aside for emergency salaries, $91,200 for the employment of school co-op students, and a $300,000 reserve earmarked for overtime reserve.

The figures do not take into consideration raises asked in several departments.

SOUGHT TO DOUBLE STAFF

Plunkett asked to double his current staff in a "new approach to law enforcement." Auditor Robert Lilly said his department had compromised with the figure of seven in order to "tackle new programs on a slower basis."

"With a change of philosophy, the best way to prove programs is the slower and surer method," Lilly said.

Also slashed was the position of Circuit Court attorney who would have served as a coordinator in the circuit courts at a salary of between $25,000 and $28,000 a year.

"It's an administrative position," according to Daniel T. Murphy, chairman of the board of auditors, adding that the circuit courts already have an administrator.

The sheriff's department request for 16 new positions was okayed. However, following a recommendation by the Michigan jail inspector, the number of new turnkeys was increased from three to five. The personnel practices committee then dropped the number of new deputies from nine to seven.

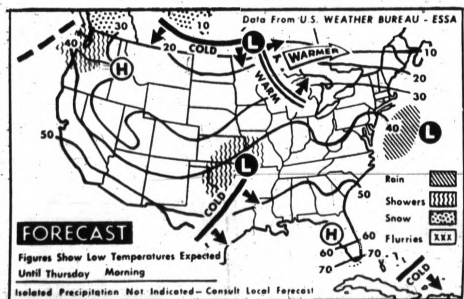

The decisions made yesterday will affect the county's temporary budget due in April. Auditors and committee members noted that further changes could occur before the final budget is adopted in October.

Watchdog Agency Asks Unified Poverty War

WASHINGTON (AP) — A fragmented federal antipoverty watchdog agency efforts.
has urged President Nixon to do what it says President Johnson failed to do—weld together the tribulations of the Office of Economic Opportunity, recommended creation of an "Office of Human Resources" at the White House level "to carry out the planning, coordination and evaluation of all federally-assisted antipov-erty efforts."

Antipov-erty legislation lodged the coordinating responsibilities with OEO. And that, said the report which took 14 months and more than $1 million for Congress' auditing arm to complete, was "unrealistic."

"OEO with its sizable operating programs is properly and inevitably an 'advocate' agency," said the report. "Its primary emphasis has been on the administration of operating programs. It cannot serve as the neutral point of leadership and objective analysis and as an instrument for resolution of inter-agency differences."

NEW OFFICE NEEDED

Needed, said the report—which focused on administrative difficulties and failings in the Johnson-created agency—is a new office which would have the "full support" of the President.
Congress gave OEO responsibility for coordinating the various governmental antipov-erty measures in 1964, authorizing an Economic Opportunity Council to carry out the task.

"As an instrument of coordination, the Economic Opportunity Council has not fulfilled the need," the report said.
"Its restructure by the 90th Congress eliminated the coordinator of OEO as chairman and provided that the council be provided with staff. Since Jan. 1, 1968, the council was never convened by the President. The council, hence, has exercised no coordinative influence."

LITTLE EFFECT

The report also noted that since 1965 OEO has been devising annual national poverty action plans, but the effort has had little effect.

"There is no available evidence that the President implemented the plan already presented to him, or that the legislation or appropriations recommended for education, health, manpower training, urban development or veterans' benefits."

The report recommended that OEO be made an independent agency responsible for programs of an innovative nature, such as community action.

It endorsed the plan already put forward by Nixon to shift, programs such as Head Start and the Job Corps to other agencies already carrying out related functions.

Some other key findings:

Manpower Programs—"The available data showed that most of the manpower programs experienced high early dropout rates which strongly indicated that many enrollees received little or no actual help."

GAO recommended that Congress review the Job Corps, particularly its conservation camp structure, to determine whether it should be retained at current expense levels.

Community Action—"It has been an effective advocate for the poor in many communities
... It has introduced new or expanded existing services to the poor. However CAP has achieved these ends in lesser measure than was reasonable to expect in relation to the magnitude of the funds expended."

The GAO blamed this "shortfall" on administrative deficiencies and the relatively short time the program has been in effect.

NO MALFEASANCE

Throughout the report, the GAO mentioned "the difficulties" encountered by OEO, including demand for speed in getting programs started, delays and uncertainties over congressional funding and the problems of working out relationships with other agencies gun away from Flowers.

Local Man, 26, Stands Mute to Charge of Murder

A Pontiac man stood mute to a charge of first-degree murder when he was arraigned yesterday before Oakland County
Circuit Judge Frederick C.
Ziem.

After entering an innocent plea in behalf of Carlton Flowers, 26, of 445 S. Jessie, Ziem ordered that he be returned to the county jail and held without bond pending his trial. No trial date was set.

Flowers is accused of killing

Rochester Schools Ask Voters

ROCHESTER — A questionnaire designed to probe citizen opinions in the wake of last month's bond issue election failure is being circulated in this district.

Survey, which questions citizens about their ideas on the district's classroom crowding problem, is designed to furnish the board of education with information both on attitudes about the bond issue and on the extent to which residents are informed, according to Superintendent Douglas Lund.

The vote tally was 1,967 yes and 2,651 no.

It begins by asking whether residents are satisfied with the job the schools are doing and whether they are aware that enrollment in the district is increasing at the rate of about 600 students a year.

Then the survey asks, "How did you receive most of your information about this (Feb. 8) bond issue?" offering word of mouth, the school newsletter, citizens' committee presentations and local newspapers as choices.

Questions delving into the bond issue failure in more depth follow:

- "Why do you think the Feb. 8 bond proposal failed?"

• "If you were a member of the board of education, how would you provide for this enrollment increase? Crowd more students into the present classrooms? Ask the voters again for funds to build classrooms on a short-term basis? Ask the voters again for funds to build classrooms to take care of the next five years' growth? Run schools on half-day or split sessions?"

The survey concludes by asking whether citizens need more information about the schools and, if so, how such information should be provided.

Three Board Seats Will Be Vacant in June Election

ROCHESTER — Two members of the board of education have announced their intention not to run for reelection in the annual board elections in June, and a third has submitted his resignation from the board, effective April 30.

Board President Robert Ludwig and Trustee Dr. Robert Williamson have said they will not campaign again, according to Assistant Supt. Richard Huizenga.

Ludwig cited the demands of board membership, including travel and evening meetings, in his announcement, while Williamson, a faculty member at Oakland University, will take a sabbatical for study, Huizenga said.

Three seats on the board will thus be vacant in the June 9 election, two for four-year terms and one for two years, the remainder of McAlpine's term.

Huizenga said the board hopes to fill the vacancy created by McAlpine's resignation on a temporary basis prior to the election.

Legislator Promotes Walled Lake Stadium

LANSING — Members of the House have received copies of a 30-page, slick-paper brochure entitled: "The Stadium Story: A Metro-dome for Michigan."

Rep. Clifford H. Smart, R-Walled Lake, who passed out the brochure yesterday, told legislators, "You're going to have to make a decision on Walled Lake."

Cranbrook Science Institute Elects Four New Trustees

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — Four new trustees, including the first woman trustee, have been elected to the board of Cranbrook Institute of Science, 500 Lone Pine.

They are Mrs. William D. Edwards, Albert J. Berdis, Wilfred D. MacDonnell and Frederick Osann Jr. Their election brings the membership of the board to 24, according to Chairman Donald N. Frey.

Mrs. Edwards has served the Institute for many years in various volunteer capacities. She is president of Roper Lower School Parent-Teacher-Friends Association, a trustee of the Drayton Plains Nature-Center and a member of the Junior League of Detroit. She resides at 4140 Echo, Bloomfield Township.

Berdis is chairman of the board of Great Lakes Steel Corp. A Purdue University graduate, he is a member of the executive board of the Detroit Area Council of Boy Scouts and is a director of the Greater Detroit Board of Commerce and Manufacturers National Bank of Detroit. He lives at 116 Chesterfield, Bloomfield Hills.

MacDonnell is president and chief administrator of Kelsey-Hayes Co., Romulus. A graduate of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, he was elected last year to membership in the National Academy of Engineering. He is vice president of the Detroit United Foundation and a director of the Economic Club of Detroit. He lives at 1375 N. Glenarry Road, Bloomfield Township.

Osann is group vice president for U.S. automotive manufacturing at Chrysler Corp. Holder of degrees from Princeton University and Chrysler Institute of Engineering, Osann has been associated with Chrysler since 1939. His activities include membership in the Society of Automotive Engineers, the Detroit Board of Commerce and the Princeton Engineering Society. He resides at 271 Berwyn, Birmingham.

NEW TRUSTEES — Three of the four new trustees elected to the board of Cranbrook Institute of Science are (from left) Frederick Osann Jr., Mrs. William S. Edwards and Albert J. Berdis. Mrs. Edwards is the first woman ever elected to the board.

Avon Planners to Meef

Hearings on Rezonings Tonight

AVON TOWNSHIP — Public hearings on two rezoning requests are scheduled at the township planning commission meeting tonight at 7:30 at the Township Hall.

Both requests are from Weinberger Homes, 3901 Highland, Waterford Township.

The first asks rezoning of 43 acres in Section 17, south of Walton and west of Old Perch from R-1A single-family residential (smaller lot size) to allow construction of a "planned neighborhood group" development.

The planned neighborhood group, a township zoning classification, would allow lot sizes as small as 12,000 square feet in the development, provided not less than four acres of property is set aside for green space or parks.

The second request, involving property south of Walton between Rochdale and Rochester Knolls in Section 16, would permit office usage in a 300-foot-deep strip along Walton.

Also included is a proposed expansion in 100-foot-wide strips on three sides of a neighboring multiple development. The rest of the 60-acre parcel, rezoned several years ago to single-family at the request of the petitioner, would be developed on that basis.

Also on tonight's agenda is a request from L. R. Halstad of Bloomfield Hills to permit construction of a multiple development in 400-foot-wide strips on the north and west sides of the new Rochester Adams High School, presently under construction at Tienken and Adams.

Trash-Burning Ban Announced

Rochester Fire Chief Lyle Buchanan yesterday announced a ban on all open burning (without containers) until further notice in Rochester, Avon Township and Oakland Township.

Trash burning in approved containers will not be permitted between 9 a.m. and 9 p.m., Buchanan added.

The fire chief, noting that about 100 grass fires have been reported in the area in the past week, said the ban was issued jointly by the Rochester, Avondale, Oakland Township and Brooklands fire departments, and that citations would be issued for violations.

Bid Opening May 16 on S. Lyon Post Office

SOUTH LYON — Congressman Jack McDonald, R-19th District, has announced that bids will be opened May 16 at 10 a.m. for a new post office on Lafayette between Liberty and Layton streets.

The new facility, privately owned, will be leased by the Post Office Department on a 20-year basis, with six five-year renewal options.

The interior of the building will cover 5,410 square feet with 510 square feet for the platform and loading area and another 6,675 square feet devoted to parking and maneuvering space.

The bid opening is set for room 914 of the Post Office in Detroit.

Phillip Runkel Has A Method For Selling Taxes

This School Chief Is Master Salesman

UTICA—Since school taxes remain as one of the few remaining items over which the voter still has control, the job of selling taxes is no simple task.

Phillip Runkel, who is paid $26,500 annually to run the ever-expanding Utica Community School System has his own method of persuading voters. His answer to the money problem — total communication with the school district.

The 38-year-old administrator, who was elevated to the superintendent's post five years ago from a junior high principalship, has successfully shepherded a $15.5-million building program through the polls.

He is now laying the foundation for a further bond-financed building program.

COMMITTEE ROLE CITED

Runkel believes the work of a citizens advisory committee, which made many of the recommendations for the last bond issue package, has been responsible for much of the success in keeping the Utica School System growing in proportion to its increasing population. Population in the Utica area has nearly doubled in six years.

Committees have long been Runkel's chief communication link with the public. He figures by attempting to involve all aspects of the community in school district business, finding community accord on money matters can be a lot easier.

Runkel currently has five committees in operation, covering a broad range of subjects including finance, legislation, elementary curricula, feasibility of establishing year-round school and curriculum research centers.

The committees range in size from 50 to 200 persons.

MANY IDEAS ADOPTED

Runkel noted that not necessarily all recommendations developed by the committees are acceptable to the school board, but a good percentage have been adopted in one form or another, particularly those recommendations from the finance building and legislation committees.

The important element in the committee principle is that we are attempting to give as many people as possible a voice in the operation of their schools.

Man Shot Fleeing Burglary Gets Jail

A Detroit man who was shot fleeing from the scene of a burglary in Birmingham in January was sentenced yesterday to 3 to 5 years in the state prison at Jackson.

Oakland County Circuit Judge Frederick C. Ziem ordered the imprisonment of John T. Hopkins Jr., 41, a month after he had pleaded guilty to attempted breaking and entering of the Maxwell Texaco Service Station, 1599 N. Woodward.

Hopkins was captured in a wooded area about a mile from the gas station after two Michigan State Police troopers had spotted him inside the building.

He was charged in the right shoulder by Trooper Charles Anderson of the Pontiac post during a foot chase through the northern section of the city.

Hopkins had been charged with breaking and entering but was allowed to plead guilty to the lesser offense.

Authorities said that Hopkins has seven previous burglary convictions and has been in prison five times.

Heating Work at 3 Avondale Schools OK'd

The Avondale Board of Education has approved plans for the renovation of heating controls at three elementary schools.

Schools Supt. John W. Dickey said the renovation contract with Honeywell Inc. will include installation of a number of new controls and instruments and repairs at Auburn Heights, Elmwood and Stiles schools at a cost of $7,417.

The cost, the superintendent predicted, will be "recovered in savings on fuel over a very short time."

The contract also provides for labor on installation and replacement of equipment to be provided at no charge and free maintenance service for one year, Dickey said.

ADDITION APPROVED

In other recent business, the board approved addition of a gate-valve to the water main being constructed to the district's new high school on Waukegan in Pontiac Township.

The gate-valve will be used to provide convenient access to the main for Avondale Junior High School, which will also be converted to the Detroit water supply in the future. The junior high school at 2900 Waukegan is currently supplied by well water, Dickey said.

"It was more economical to provide the valve now, while the main is being constructed, rather than go to the expense of a tap-in later," he explained.

The board also awarded contracts for replacements for two school buses. The new vehicles will have bodies by Ward Body of Michigan Inc., with General Motors chassis, and will cost $7,405 each, according to Dickey.

State GOP Panel Meets Saturday

U.S. Rep. Jack McDonald, R-19th District, will be the featured speaker Saturday as the Republican State Central Committee meets at Botsford Inn, Farmington, for the first time since the GOP state convention last month. McDonald will speak following an 8:30 a.m. brunch.

The committee will host a reception honoring Rep. William P. Hampton of Bloomfield Hills, minority floor leader of the State House of Representatives, Friday night.

A secretary and treasurer for the party's steering organization will be elected. Oakland County GOP Chairman James E. Detebaugh will conduct a meeting of county and district chairmen and vice chairmen.

Jurist From County

Woman Heads Judges Group

A woman judge from Oakland County has been elected president of the newly organized Michigan District Judges Association.

The post was won by District Judge Alice L. Gilbert, one of three women judges among the 150 members in the statewide organization.

Judge Gilbert's jurisdiction is the 48th District which includes the cities of Birmingham, Sylvan Lake, Keego Harbor, Orchard Lake and Bloomfield Hills, and the townships of Bloomfield and West Bloomfield.

A justice of the peace for eight years before her election as a district judge in November, Mrs. Gilbert had served as acting chairman of the association since its inception in December.

Bylaws and a constitution drafted under her guidance were adopted during the organizational meeting in Lansing over the weekend.

president; Judge V. Robert Payant of Iron Mountain, secretary; and Judge Roy Gurenburg of Warren, treasurer.

CANDIDATE AND BACKERS — Dorothy Furie, 40, announced this week she's seeking a seat on the Detroit Common Council. She says she has some ideas about how a city should be run and she is confident many will agree with her and vote accordingly. One vote for sure will come from husband Tom, holding Dot, 2 1/2. With Mrs. Furie is Waller, 11, days. On the stairs are (from top to bottom) Aimee 5, Agnes 7, Tommy 9, Cathy 10, Margaret 12, Maura 14, Anne 13, Virginia 16 and Paul 4.

DETROIT (AP) — Those who perience dealing with people travel the campaign trail with "All of my 11 children have Dorothy Furie likely will have different personalities," says the 5-foot-2, 112-pound, brown-haired mother. "So I think I would know how to handle the youngest only 11 days old, — councilmen; and get cooperation and the first candidate to file between the council and mayor, for Common Council in Detroit's the council and police — and not Sept. 9 primary election. have everybody blaming every-body else."

Although a novice in politics, Mrs. Furie says unabashedly. She holds a master's degree she could run the city better in education, won last September than present council members, her at Marygrove College, and adds that she has had ex-her husband, Thomas, is a pipefitter at a Kelsey-Hayes auto parts plant.

When will she find time to campaign, especially since she's nursing the youngest, Walter Sullivan Furie, and will have to be around whenever he gets hungry? "I think you can always find time for something you really want to do," she replies.

Her political career grew out of a joking remark. "I was always griping about the way the city is run," she said it was ridiculous, and adds, "I've already started trying to get that tradition scrapped."

She said it was ridiculous, and adds, "I've already started trying to get that tradition scrapped."

She's giving herself another two weeks rest before cornering experts and striking out to visit block club meetings gathering opinion and advice on subjects she is most concerned about.

The subjects, she says, are property taxes, the exodus of business from downtown, crime and effectiveness of the courts and police-community relations.

"SHOT IN ARM" "I think it'll be a great shot in the arm for her," said her husband. "And if I didn't think she was capable of the job I would have told her 'no.'"

The Furie children, in stair-step order, range from 16-year-old Virginia down to baby Walter Sullivan. In between there are seven other girls and two other boys.

Progress Rests on Order

The Press hopes that an atmosphere of order and tolerance may prevail at tomorrow night's regular meeting of the Pontiac Board of Education.

Two previous meetings at which a resolution respecting the location of the proposed new high school was to be proposed for formal action became so disorderly that it was impossible to present it or, indeed, conduct the meetings.

The resolution calls for a three-month period devoted to reappraisal of the two sites under consideration for the school, as well as consideration of alternate locations.

resolving the issue to the satisfaction of the majority of the citizenry, though it goes without saying that unanimous approval of this or any other issue is beyond hope.

Let it be said for members of the Board of Education that they are representative of the local citizenry as a whole, that they were elected to office by that same citizenry, that they serve without pay, that they devote much time publicly and privately to their offices, and that they are devoted to the welfare of the people of Pontiac and their educational system.

Since a means is provided for any group or individual to have any question or issue placed on the agenda of any regular meeting, the board asks only that proper order be preserved so that scheduled business can be effectively conducted and decisions made.

It is little enough to ask.

Boy Hero Does an Encore

Heroes come in all sizes and in all ages. One of the smallest and youngest ever to qualify for the title is

RANDY CARVER, the six-year-old son of the RICHARD CARVERS of Waterford Township.

Early last month, RANDY pulled his 9-year-old brother to safety from the icy waters of Lake Oakland, and then just to keep his hand in for the rescue business, he duplicated the feat a week later, rescuing another 9-year-old (a girl this time) from the same lake.

Randy is now the proud possessor of an Oakland County Sheriff's Department Water Safety Division citation for his bravery and resourcefulness, and well he merits it. It is unusual for an individual during an entire lifetime to be acclaimed for an act of heroism, let alone for two within days. The Waterford youngster seems well on his way to becoming the all-time All-American lifesaver.

The Press salutes RANDY CARVER on his selfless response to the plight of others and commends him as an inspiring example of young America.

Domestic Role Lures Men

Turnabout is fair play in the battle of the sexes as in any other kind. If women can invade fields once considered the domain of men, men can counterattack in areas once considered "women's work."

At one university, one such battleground is the home economics department. Bowling Green (Ohio) State University is experiencing an increase in the number of men taking home economics and even has one student—a 200-pound tackle on the football team—majoring in the subject.

Home ec, of course, is not the bake-a-cake, sew-on-buttons business it once was. Modern home ec courses fit into the requirements for certain other majors.

Nutritionists are often bio-chemists. The fields of family and child development reach into areas of psychology and involve more men than women.

But while men usually stick to the technical aspects of home economics, part of the trend stems from the influence of a freer world with men and women sharing responsibilities, according to Dr. GEORGIA HALSTEAD, chairman of the department. Today more women than ever are working outside the home and their husbands often assume some of the household tasks.

"You'd be surprised at the number of men who prepare Sunday breakfast for their families," she says. "Food is becoming a man's world. If today's man doesn't like the way his wife prepares spareribs, he's likely to try it himself. . . . It's a well-known fact that the world's best cooks are men."

Make the most of that, ladies!—say, next Sunday morning.

Fading Opposition

The Daily Oklahoman

The Canadian ambassador to Sweden has been instructed by his government to attempt talks with the Red Chinese mission in Stockholm about exchanging diplomatic missions between Canada and the Communist Chinese government.

The Trudeau administration of our northern neighbor has said this does not imply a desertion of the Nationalist Chinese on Taiwan, yet it is well established that the Red Chinese stoutly maintain they will have no dealings with any government which does not uphold its claim to being the sole Chinese regime.

The Canadian move can be interpreted many ways. It may indicate a change of attitude toward the Nationalist Chinese, brought about by commercial dealings with Red China such as large sales of wheat, or Canada could be offering the Communists an opportunity to lessen their own intransigence to gain a new posture in the family of nations.

While the Canadians have had a large measure of independence in the past in international affairs, they have been guided largely by Britain's policies. Britain has a restricted and tenuous mission in Peking and recognizes the Red government. It also has never forsaken trade either with Red China or other Communist governments while proclaiming its alliance with the United States.

If America openly criticizes other governments for playing up to the Red Chinese, it must answer to them for the political maneuvering that led to the forced coalition of Nationalists and Communists in China which resulted in the Red takeover of the mainland.

Showdown Time!

David Lawrence Asks:

Will Interest Rate Hike Work?

WASHINGTON — When the average person reads that the prime rate of interest has been advanced to 7½ per cent by commercial banks and is told that this has something to do with the effort to curb inflation, there is no way to answer the most important question of all: will it work?

For in an economy which now has such a tremendous volume of business operations — a gross national product of about $915 billion — who can really apply brakes?

The government alone can't do it, as the demand for the production of more goods is virtually uncontrollable.

RAPID GROWTH

Expansion nowadays is called a "boom" because the growth of industry is rapid. But when it is considered that the United States has 200 million people and in the next 25 years the figure may rise to 250 million, the difficulty comes in trying to measure supply and demand for such a huge system of free enterprise.

America is a wealthy country — the richest in the world — and it has a large credit reservoir of its own.

Industry's extra facilities are built in part on borrowed money, and just now companies are in the midst of a period of enlargement of their plants, equipment and machinery.

The purpose of the hike in interest rates is not to cripple expansion but to postpone much of it until a stabilized economy can be attained.

MAY BRING SLUMP

The risk of such intervention by money managers in the government, however, is that it may bring a slump and a loss of confidence by investors. Appeals for restraint have been going on for more than a year, but things haven't slowed down much, despite cuts in the federal budget, a tax hike and efforts to restrict credit.

The dollar is, of course, steadily depreciating in value as it buys less and less. Unemployment hasn't grown, and wage raises are still being made.

In fact, the Department of Commerce has just reported that the American people got an increase in income in February of $5.25 billion, which is double the rise in earnings for January of this year.

PAYROLLS ON RISE

Manufacturing industries, particularly, augmented their payrolls, and two-thirds of the wage was among the producers of metals, machinery and lumber products. Another big advance was in the wages paid by corporations engaged in operating transportation, communications and public utility systems.

So, even though the rate for borrowing has gone up, it remains questionable whether the trend in wages will halt expansion plans.

This brings up the question of whether the country wouldn't have been better off if Congress had imposed wage-and-price controls when the Vietnam war started to strain the economy and push up living costs.

Houses now are more expensive to build than the same homes were a few years ago.

The rise in interest rates, however, is not expected to cause any serious downturn in the demand for mortgage money.

There is a lot of talk, to be sure, of stringent measures which President Nixon may take. But while there may be budget cuts, the key to whether the inflationary boom is being restrained will be found in the banking world, where the cost of credit is expected to continue to rise.

The hope is that this will cause spending to be deferred on projects that can be put aside for a year or so.

What the administration would like to accomplish is a curtailment of government expenditures, but at a pace described as "gradualism," so that there will be no sudden collapse of defense contracts which would have an adverse effect on the whole economy.

Bob Considine Says:

TV Warm-Up Man Gets Unexpected Work Call

NEW YORK — People . . . Places . . .

"Johnny Olsen speaking" has been one of the most cheerful sounds on TV since shortly after the invention of the boob tube. Johnny's pre-program warm-ups have loosened millions of audiences all tensed up over whether the panning camera will show them waving to Aunt Nellie in Keokuk.

Considine

Though rarely seen on camera, Olsen has become as much of a part of 17 major shows, including Jackie Gleason's, as the stars. And he has earned and kept more than most of them.

Thirty years ago, Olsen joined the local musicians union in Milwaukee and waited for his career to open. He listed himself as a banjoist and music librarian.

RECEIVES CALL

Recently, when he was in Miami Taping a Gleason show, his wife Penny received a call at their New York apartment from the leader of a small band in Jersey. The man explained that his banjoist was ill with the Hong Kong flu and he had an opening for her husband.

He had found Olsen's name still listed in the musicians union roll-book! He became quite angry when Mrs. Olsen explained that Johnny was doing some TV announcing in Florida and couldn't make it to Hackensack.

The band leader informed her crisply that he was going to bring her husband up on charges, and hung up.

It was the first "call" Johnny had had in 30 years as a dues-paying banjo-strummer.

How about that hairy recovery of astronauts McDivitt, Scott and Schiwickart? The communications blackout, the sight of the heat-scared side of the command module, and the seemingly interminable delay before they spiritedly spilled out into a bobbing liferaft consumed one of the tensest periods of the Space Age.

Then there was the excruciating efforts of the rescue helicopter to hook them and fish them from the sea.

Scott was dunked with all those tons of 'copter chattering harrowingly close overhead, and then there was the upending of the raft in which McDivitt was waiting to be plucked.

It recalled the near-drowning of the late Gus Grissom and the sinking of his Mercury capsule in 8,000 feet of water, at the end of the second suborbital flight.

Project Apollo is too far along in its $24 billion orbit to make any major recovery changes. But looking at those magnificent TV shots of the breathtaking drama made us think the Russians have better idea. They land their astronauts on good old terra firma, and the hell with the feelings of the Red Navy.

Several Discuss Waterford School Tax Vote

As a Crary Junior High School student working for the school millage election, I urge Waterford citizens to make your vote "yes" on March 26 and show you care about our future education. Remember, today's children are tomorrow's leaders.

DIANE PALMER
CRARY STUDENT FOR BETTER EDUCATION

We citizens of Waterford Township are the only ones that have control of the education of our future generation. I realize the tax burden is getting unbearable, but please do not refuse our children proper education. The citizens they become is our responsibility. Vote "yes" on March 26.

MRS. GERALD MIELKE

How many of the Waterford Township taxpayers have figured how much more their taxes will be in December 1969? On an assumed $7,500 state equalized valuation in 1968 the taxes would be about $348. The additional 24 per cent would be $83.50, and a 9-mill increase in school taxes would be $67.50—a total of $151 yearly, or an increase of about 43½ per cent. This would increase mortgage payments about $12.50 a month.

F. S. WILSON

3527 AQUARINA, DRAYTON PLAINS

It appears that the tax factor in Waterford will be in the area of 2.50 for the current year, an increase of 24 per cent in equalized value. Because the millage we pay is based on state equalization, not assessment, the tax rate of $96.96 per thousand in 1968 will be raised to approximately $120 per thousand this year. If the pending school millage issue passes it could go as high as $143 per thousand. The Waterford schools will receive the largest share of this huge increase—over 70 per cent—which is nearly as much revenue as the millage increase would have given them had these figures passed in the last millage elections. If the nine-mill package is passed it will cost about $23.30 per thousand of assessed valuation with an equalization factor of 2.50.

Why won't our total millage of over 46 mills adequately cover the needs of our local taxing units when many in the State operate with less than 20 mills, even under equalized valuation.

The West Bloomfield League of Women Voters urges a "yes" vote on the school pool bonding issue on the March 31 West Bloomfield School District ballot. Gives Views on Recent School Board Meeting

Concerning the manner in which the Pontiac Board of Education has been handling its meetings, it is our opinion that nonpaymasters should not be able to dictate certain things, as they do now. Inquiries were made to the Board of Education on a public meeting. The board answered that it would be mainly for the black students' benefit and if parents attended they wouldn't be able to express their opinions. Since this group has the right to demand a meeting barring tax-paying adults from giving their opinions, it should be demanded that a meeting be held barring tax-paying students.

Question and Answer

Are transistor batteries really longer lasting enough to be worth the difference in price, compared to regular batteries? Do batteries weaken with age if not used? If so, what stores sell the freshest batteries? Will the transistor battery recharge as well as regular batteries on home rechargers?

MRS. RUTH MERRICK
ORTONVILLE

REPLY

We're not sure that you mean by "transistor" and "regular" batteries. Dealers tell us some that fit transistor equipment are marked "transistor" and some aren't, but they can be the same type of battery. Generally, we're told, the more expensive batteries (alkalyl, for example) last considerably longer than cheaper ones. They do weaken if left on store shelves for nine months or a year, but any store with large turnover will probably be selling fresh batteries. They recharge as well as others in home rechargers.

'Inflationary Psychology' Undercuts Gradual Curbs

In theory, higher interest rates should discourage borrowing. And since major banks this week raised their basic interest rate to a record 7½ per cent, companies which want loans for plant expansion should be thinking about postponing the borrowing.

But if the corporations feel sure of continuing inflation, they may borrow anyhow. To postpone the borrowing would simply mean paying a still higher interest rate later.

The high credit cost doesn't matter much anyway if the corporation can pass it on to consumers by marking up the price of the goods it sells. And if consumers also are conditioned to the expectation of inflation, they'll buy now in fear of still higher prices ahead.

The only way to stop this spiral is to destroy the expectation of inflation—the "inflationary psychology" that economists deplore.

disproportionately large number of Negroes and slum dwellers. The Nixon administration has promised to do it less painfully by "gradual and persistent" restraint, applied steadily for a year or two years if necessary.

But business is not convinced, seemingly, that the government really means business—that anti-inflationary measures will be applied hard enough and long enough to do the job.

The continuing expectation of inflation showed up clearly and ominously last week in the official announcement that companies plan a spectacular 14 per cent increase from last year in their plant and equipment spending in 1969. Most of the money so spent will be borrowed money.

That spells more boom, not disinflation. The increase compares with a 4 per cent rise in 1968 and a 2 per cent increase in 1967.

Officials are hoping that the boost in the banks' "prime rate" to 7½ per cent will induce many companies to postpone their expansion plans.

Milliken: Poor Need Pride

LANSING (AP) — Gov. William Milliken told the Michigan Welfare League Tuesday one of the most urgent goals of social services should be "to humanize the systems that serve the poor."

Milliken estimated that social services will cost Michigan close to one-half billion dollars during the next fiscal year.

There is a need, however, the governor said, to look beyond the amount of money being spent and the number of people being served.

"We must find ways," Milliken said, "to give the poor more than money, food stamps or a bus ticket to another welfare office. We must arm them with pride, equip them with dignity, help them achieve self-con-

"We must remember that a smile is free," Milliken said, "and a welfare worker who displays a genuine concern for the plight of a poor person doesn't cost the state treasury a penny."

LA Coroner Fights Firing

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Dr. Thomas I. Noguchi says he'll appeal his dismissal as Los Angeles County coroner and chief medical officer and denies he prayed for tragedies and threatened office aides with a surgical knife.

Noguchi, 42, a Japan-born pathologist, claims he is a victim of racial discrimination. County supervisors who hired him—and who fired him Tuesday—denied this.

The county's chief administrative officer, L.S. Hollinger, accused Noguchi of a wide range of erratic behavior.

"You prayed that Mayor Sam Vorty's helicopter would crash because the press would be there and you would be there and this would bring glory and prestige to the office," Hollinger said in a letter to Noguchi, with copies to the supervisors.

Noguchi performed the official autopsy on Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

OCC Students Do Well at Universities

Oakland Community College missions Counselor Elizabeth and cumulative GPA records: While at OCC the GPAs of the 88 students increased more than one full grade point to 2.72. The transfer to the university resulted in an initial drop to 2.18 with a subsequent increase to a 2.33 cumulative GPA in subsequent semesters at the four-year institutions.

"It is possible that many of those students who had not been successful in high school might not have continued their education had it not been for the availability of this college with its open-door policy of accepting all high school graduates," Hill said.

The 287 students earned a cumulative grade point average (GPA) of 2.39 (on a 4-point scale), which favorably compared with the GPA of 2.38 for the 6,418 community college transfer students studied in a nationwide survey.

The follow-up study indicated that OCC students who were the subjects of the study transferred at the junior level which was compiled by Ad-

The survey indicated that 98 of the 240 students for whom high school GPAs were available had high school GPAs of 1.60 on a 4-point scale, which in letter grades, was less than a "C" average.

Junior Editors Quiz on BUCCANEERS

QUESTION: Where did the buccaneers come from?

ANSWER: In the early 1600s, most colonists had left the West Indian island of Hispaniola because of the harsh rule of the Spaniards. There were cattle and pigs on the island. The few settlers developed a way of curing meat without salting, called boucaning.

It was against Spanish law to sell such meat to passing ships, but many smugglers and rough characters united to do this. Many of these — English, French, Dutch and Portuguese settlers — were united against the Spaniards. Since they had learned to boucan meat, they came to be called buccaneers.

So, when these people sailed out to attack some Spanish treasure ship, as they are shown doing in our picture, they had the excuse of fighting their countries' enemies. But they became ever more savage and cruel, attacking towns as well as ships.

When, in 1670, England made a treaty with Spain, the buccaneers had no legal excuse left for their violence. Many became out-and-out pirates, and were finally hunted down and destroyed.

(You can win $10 cash plus AP's handsome World Yearbook if your question, mailed on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of this newspaper, is selected for a prize.)

35,000 Returns Are Incorrect On New Surtax

(UPI) — More than 35,000 federal income tax returns in one state are incorrect, a spokesman said. The spokesman said the IRS feared the unusually large number of early errors were a sign that the new federal surtax, the 10 percent, was being miscalculated.

About 26 percent of all early tax filers either forgot to figure the surtax or miscalculated it, he said.

Surtax Errors Slow Returns Seek Qualified Help, IRS Says

Federal income taxpayers can expect a delay in receiving their federal income tax refunds this year because of errors in figuring the new tax surtax.

Tax returns filed early at one Internal Revenue Service (IRS) Center, shows an unusually high percentage of returns with mistakes in computation of the surtax, according to the IRS district director.

12 Ferris Students Facing Charges

BIG RAPIDS (AP) — Officials of troubled Ferris State College said yesterday that charges ranging from assault to destruction of property have been filed against 12 students since a racial clash Feb. 27.

The students charged included five Negroes and seven whites.

About 15 other students, Negroes and whites, also face suspension or expulsion from the college as a result of disturbances, a college spokesman said.

LARKSPUR, Calif. (AP) — Betty Mitchell felt in a prosaic way an age-old desire of poets and philosophers: To stop time in its flight.

14-Year-Old Is Head of Brigade in Biafra

Being the Chief Water Boy Carries Prestige

IFE, Biafra (P) — A boy named Ikechukwu is head of the water brigade in this village and it is a little like being first in your class, Eagle Scout and toughest kid on the block all in one.

Work begins at 3 a.m. when the leaves on the palm trees still look like black spikes against the sky. There is only one kerosene lamp, and Ikechukwu, who is 14, holds it in one hand while balancing a bucket on his head.

Spread out behind him in a line are 20 other boys, mostly 12 and 13, each with a bucket. Together they walk about half a mile to a stream, dip their pails and then head back to a Red Cross-supervised feeding center where about 8,000 smaller children wait to be fed.

Then it is out again, until six trips are made. Ikechukwu must make certain there is no dawdling on the job, because war comes to the village at sunrise. Feeding must be over by the time Nigerian jets can move in the sky.

MOTIVATION

The motivation for being a water boy is prestige, but even more the chance to stand around the kitchen where four fat kettles sit on wood fires. There is ash in the air, the smell of wood and food, and the chance to make friends with a cook like Mrs. Beauty Nwoso.

Ikechukwu shouted at another boy who was hovering a bit too intently near a pot of food. The boy could not explain how he got it, but he wore a yellow and white baseball jersey of the Maryvale Community Association Parkway Jets.

"I told that boy in Ibo that if he insisted on being near that pot I would thrash him," Ikechukwu said to one at the front. With backed away.

Water boys in Biafra are special people for another reason. Sometimes they graduate from the village chukwu said in English. The boy buckets on their heads they move to advanced positions where water is only second in importance to bullets. Some of the water boys die. When he was asked about going to the front, Ikechukwu said: "When the war is over I would like to be a teacher."

Letters Request More Advice About Subject

By ELIZABETH L. POST
Of The Emily Post Institute

I received several letters requesting amplification of my answer about receiving visitors when the deceased has donated his body to a medical school for research.

Naturally, there can be no "viewing" of the body. But this should not in any way prevent relatives and friends from calling to pay their respects. Many people object to having to see the body in any case, and one of the main reasons for having calling hours is so that friends may offer sympathy and support.

Nor is it necessary to have the body present in order to hold a funeral or memorial service.

The choice is up to the family of the deceased. If they do not wish to receive friends, they simply do not mention visiting hours in the death notice. If they do receive visitors, the notice is written in the usual way and the reason for the absence of the body is explained by a friend or relative at the door.

MONOGRAMS

Dear Mrs. Post: Is there a rule governing patterns on dinnerware? On page 174 of your Etiquette, I note the statement, "The service plates with the pattern properly positioned . . ." But nowhere do I find what that position is. Also, is there anything covering patterns on cups and saucers? Most of the illustrations seem to skirt this by showing plates without pattern, or plates with all-over-patterns!—Ruth.

Dear Ruth: The next revision of Etiquette will contain more specific information on china with a "readable" pattern.

When dinner plates have a monogram or a "picture" as a pattern, the plate should always be in such a position that the design is right-side up for the person sitting at that place. Monogrammed cups and glasses should have the initials toward the diner.

The Flanderses spent six weeks in Lauderdale-by-the-Sea, in their apartment building Leisure-by-the-Sea. Friends popped in from time to time, one of them Mrs. Brent K. Hogshede of Birmingham. When Mr. and Mrs. Gaylord Todd came by, (she's president of Women's City Club in Detroit) the four of them trekked to West Palm Beach's La Coquille Club for dinner.

Widow Considering Idea of Convenience Plan

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am 52 and I have been keeping fairly steady company with a man who is 60. He's very considerate, generous, and I certainly appreciate his company, after having been a lonely widow for four years.

He asked me if I would like to move in and keep house for him so we can find out if we are "compatible" before trying marriage. He says there is nothing wrong with it at our ages.

I refused. Was I foolish? Lately I have been reconsidering his proposition. I don't enjoy being alone. He has money and could get plenty of other women on his terms.

Can you help me come to a decision? LEXINGTON LADY

DEAR LADY: I say, let some other woman have the pleasure of "moving in" with him to find out if she is "compatible." Respectable couples of all ages still marry before they live together. If you want to be a "housekeeper" with sleeping privileges, it's up to you.

DEAR ABBY: My father-in-law likes to tell about the only time in his life he made a mistake, and that was when he "thought" he was wrong, and then found out he wasn't.

My former roommate was a public health nurse in San Francisco, and her job was to call on welfare cases to see if the children were properly fed and clothed.

She told me (and there was no reason for her to lie) that about half the children were adequately cared for, but she usually found plenty of cigarettes, beer and liquor in the home, and oftentimes a man in the bedroom. She said one mother had 12 illegitimate children. She got $800 a month, which was maximum, so she put her 13-year-old daughter to work starting a new family.

Abby, $148 (tax free) for one child, plus $1 per day, times 30 days per month, times five or six children, plus free housing, medical care, and food stamps, equals what some working men have to raise their families on. I am not saying that anyone is getting rich on welfare, but I wonder what would happen if these women were required to rise and shine at 6 a.m. and go to work in order to raise their illegitimate children.

You were right the first time when you said you thought that any woman who bears more than one illegitimate child should be taken off welfare. By apologizing for your original statement, I believe you made your first mistake.

MRS. R. C. M., JR.
GLENDALE, CALIF.

DEAR MRS. R. C. M., JR.: Your statement was a mistake, it wasn't my first.

DEAR ABBY: We are childless after 10 years of marriage, although we would dearly love to have a family. We go out with people about our ages and most of them have children.

Whenever we meet new people, the conversation invariably turns to children. I am often asked, point-blank, "Do you have any children?" It is becoming more and more painful to reply no. WHY do people ask this?

Don't they realize that parents always mention their children if they have any?

I have even been asked, after having remarked that I have no children, "WHY NOT?" Abby, this has been a very painful subject for me, and I'd rather not discuss it. Can you say something to stop people from asking such cruel questions?

DEAR HURT: Most cruel questions stem from ignorance. Your best defense is to develop a stiff upper lip, a tougher hide, and believe it or not, compassion for people who don't know any better.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, care of The Pontiac Press, Dept. E-600, P. O. Box 9, Pontiac, Mich. 48066 and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Children's Camps Keep 'Em Busy, Busy

By PATRICIA MCCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — If camp blurs are accurate, youngsters won't have much time on their seats this summer in front of television.

It isn't unusual for a camp to promise, in its brochure: all land and water sports, individual athletic attention, water skiing, sailing, surfboarding, swimming, horseback riding, golf, canoe trips, socials, bowling, hikes, pioneering, ham radio, go-karting, hockey, rocketry, judo, karate, and sometimes tutoring.

SPECIALTY CAMPS

Camps for rocket, music, science and what-not buffs continue.

You can send your child to camp in Japan, Israel, and a dozen other countries. Some of these offer work experiences. In Israel, for example, a teenager gets the chance to pick fruit.

In listings for teen-age campers in the Shaker Village work group in Pittsfield, Mass., those accepted held to operate a restored early American village.

Lincoln Farm, in Roscoe, N.Y., is one also for teen-agers who have outgrown conventional camps. Craft workshops include auto mechanics, candlemaking, and construction. Under the latter program, a 10-room house is built each summer.

Among questions parents should ask, however, is this one:

"Is my boy or girl ready to leave home?"

Condition children by arranging short overnight stays away from home in the months before the first-time camping experience.

Authorities also recommend that you visit the camp and talk with the director. If possible, communicate with parents of children who have camped there and also with one or two previous campers.

Once you've packed child off to suitable camp, the next worry is — letters from camp.

Though many children would prefer to call home (collect) rather than write, experienced camp managers have gotten around the problem in assorted ways. The most interesting technique is one making a letter to home the admission ticket to movies or some other fun events during the week.

But even that isn't foolproof. My son went to such a camp one summer and we received a number of sealed envelopes with blank paper inside.

Symphony Unit Hears Peterson

Robert Peterson, Pontiac Central High School orchestra director and violinist with the Pontiac Symphony Orchestra, was guest speaker Monday at the Women's Association of the Pontiac Symphony Orchestra meeting.

He presented a short biography of Italian composer Ottorino Respighi, whose "Fines of Rome" will be performed at the combined concerts Monday and Tuesday of the Pontiac Symphony, the Rochester Community Orchestra and the Oakland University Symphony.

The association's annual gemstone sale will be held at The Pontiac Mall May 22 and 23. A workshop in preparation for the sale will be hosted Monday by Mrs. Frank Bonner.

Mrs. G. W. Stark entertained the group in her Cranbrook Lane home. She was assisted by Mrs. A. L. Hulet and Mrs. Curtis E. Patton.

SEW SIMPLE

By Eunice Farmer

Dear Eunice Farmer,

I am taking a wonderful tailoring course in our adult education program and our teacher tells us to follow your column for additional hints and instructions. She has also suggested that our spring project be made of wool, the kind that is not bonded. We live in a rather small town and I can't find a yard of wool that isn't bonded.

Why would I learn more working with wool in the first place and also what difference could it make whether it is bonded or not?

Mrs. R. B. T.

Dear Mrs. R. B. T.:

Hokey for your teacher, wish there were more like her and perhaps we could all get back to the wonderful wools that are so hard to find today because the market has been flooded with bonded fabrics.

You will certainly learn more about fine tailoring when working with wool than any other fabric. There are pressing techniques that are important and handled very different than when pressing other fabrics. You will learn the importance of "ease," shaping, and fitting in the finished look of your garment.

The quality of bonded wools is much less desirable because the fiber content is not the same. The bonding process is used to hold this fiber together. Many women feel that because a fabric is bonded it doesn't need underlining, interfacing, or whatever. This is not true if you want a custom look to your garment. I only recommend this type of fabric for "quickies," children's clothes, etc., but certainly not for a garment you are going to spend many hours of time on and one that you want to wear proudly for a long time to come.

TAILOR TRUX WINNER

Mrs. E. Buryta, Stoney Creek, Ontario, Canada, is this week's winner of the Tailor Trux pressing board for her following suggestion:

"This sewing hint has been very useful to me, hope it helps your readers. When altering a pattern, I use a stapler rather than pins or scotch tape which is always difficult to work with. These staples stay in better, they don't work out when you fold the pattern to put away until further use."

Mrs. E. R.

Dear Mrs. E. R.:

Your question has been answered by a marvelous new product that we have actually tried and been delighted with the results on fabrics such as the kind you have mentioned. It is a net type product that adheres to brown paper and is almost invisible to the eye. You can apply it in three simple pressing steps and it actually fuses fabric to fabric.

If you use it for hemming these knits (you won't need to use hem tape, or any other type of finish) and you don't want the sharp crease at the lower edge of your garment, apply it about one-half inch above the finished hem and press to this point only.

It also works beautifully on neck and armhole facings that become so limp and curl up when you try to hem them. Hope this product works out as well for you as it has for us. Simple directions are printed every few inches on the brown paper for easy application. It is also washable and dry cleanable if properly applied.

Girls Promote Mat Matches

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — The girls in Paradise Valley High School are turning to the sport of wrestling — as spectators. They have formed an organization called Mat Maids to promote a better understanding of wrestling and to encourage attendance at matches.

Each Mat Maid attends four classes conducted by Craig Anderson, head wrestling coach, to observe varsity wrestlers in practice. At the close of the course, she takes a written exam consisting of multiple choice and completion questions, comments on a match and keeps

At the matches, the girls are able to explain to the audience what is happening on the mat. As part of their duties, they keep score and take care of the clock.

Art Blooms in Decaying Chicago Negro Area

By CHARLES-GENE McDANIEL

CHICAGO (AP) — "Art and Soul" is a place where people "come in and do their thing." And in doing their thing, they have turned out some art works whose quality surprises professionals.

"Art and Soul" is a studio workshop in the heart of Lawndale, a decaying Negro community. It was started and is operated, by a former youth gang called the Conservative Vice Lords, who are involved in a number of community betterment projects.

Ann Zelle, professional adviser to the project, said, "The idea is just to get people to come in and do their thing." An estimated 100 children and adults are involved.

The Vice Lords are getting help from the Museum of Contemporary Art, and other institutions, including the public library.

ENTHUSIASM

The organization's projects and successes generated quite a bit of enthusiasm in the West Side neighborhood, Jan Van der Marck, museum director, said.

The museum hired Miss Zelle, a young sculptor formerly associated with the Newark Museum in New Jersey, as a member of its staff, then assigned her to be an adviser to assist with Art and Soul.

The director of the project is a member of the Vice Lords, Jackie Hetherington, an artist and former henchman.

The center opened in November with a show of collages by Ralph Arnold, who is a leading artist in his medium. One of the functions of the center is to acquaint the community with work by professional Negro artists.

'AMAZED OF TALENT'

Van der Marck was a judge for the center's first show over the weekend. "I was amazed to see so much talent," he said. "Previously there has been no art from the black community on this scale," he said.

There is a great deal of talent — in the community and others — which needs help from established institutions to be developed, Van der Marck said.

Arnold served as the first artist in residence at the center. Youths who came to his classes were so enthusiastic that they worked outside of class and came to the center to work when he was not there.

Hetherington expressed surprise at the support Art and Soul has received from throughout the city.

DONATIONS COME IN

"I thought we would get just a few fellows to come in to paint — maybe from the neighborhood." But donations have come in from business establishments and others and one firm donated $500 in prize money for the art show.

Community residents pitched in to renovate two adjoining rundown store buildings for the studio. This has brought such community pride, Hetherington said, that security has been no problem.

Easels and wooden cabinets have been built and donated by men being trained in woodworking at the Urban Progress Center.

MAKE PUPPETS

Some children are making puppets and plan to present a show. Another group is making papier-mache African shields. Richard Hunt, a sculptor, soon will be an artist in residence to teach his art form. Photography classes and a writing workshop also are planned.

The center opened in November with initial funding by the Illinois Sesquiennial Commission. That money has run out now and the Vice Lords are trying to raise money to keep Art and Soul going.

Canada Jolts Wheat Prices

May Peril U.S. Aim to Expand Exports

CHICAGO (AP) — The United States' aim to expand grain exports in 1969 may have suffered a serious setback in recent days.

Canada has announced that it will sell wheat at prices below the minimums set by the International Grains Agreement "to meet competition."

Canadian Trade Minister Jean-Luc Pepin did not say how much prices would be lowered. He said Canada has consistently observed minimum price levels, but that other countries, including parties to the IGA pact, have been undercutting prices.

If a price war should start among the half dozen countries in the world that have an exportable surplus of wheat, it probably would mean no saving for the average housewife in this country on a loaf of bread, for some time to come.

MIGHT ADVANCE

But these countries could deplete their huge stores of wheat and, if their 1969 yields provided only a small cushion of surplus, prices might later advance.

Current wheat prices probably would continue at their low levels, unless the winter and spring wheat crops became endangered by weather conditions.

The United States has had a huge exportable surplus of wheat and other grains for several years, and the Department of Agriculture had hopes that this year its export goal of 700 million bushels of wheat might be reached.

The International Grain Agreement signatories are the principal exporting countries and the main importing countries. The exporters include Australia, Canada, Argentina and the United States. Russia is not a member.

BIG BUYER

Russia's production of grain is seldom made public, and in past years when it has reported a record yield of principal grains it has still been a big buyer of the same grains in the international marketplaces.

Under the International Grain Agreement, signatories agree to sell wheat at a certain price, deliverable from certain ports in the exporting country. The price varies from one port to another, but there had been little, if any, visible price cutting.

Late last year, Japan announced it would seek bids on wheat of a certain grade and, after several countries had announced offers, Japan revealed that France was the lucky bidder. Subsequently, several losing bidders accused France of price cutting and in the exchange that followed, a price below the IGA agreement was confirmed.

One knowledgeable exporter at the Chicago Board of Trade, the world's largest commodity futures exchange, says he believes he saw in Canada's announcement a move to get the IGA signatories together again for a possible revision of prices downward.

MEETING SLATED

Late Monday, the USDA announced that a meeting had been set for April 2 in Washington between government, farm and grain trade officials to air views on the IGA pact.

One of the world's largest exporting firms is Continental Grain Co. Its president, Michael Fribourg, said in New York the Canadian decision "simply recognizes the prima facie evidence that high minimum prices of the arrangement cannot be maintained under a situation of worldwide wheat surplus."

Cargill Inc., of Minneapolis, another major exporting firm, withheld comment on the Canadian move because "it's too early."

The U.S. wheat export goal last year was 750 million bushels, but this was trimmed by about 100 million bushels before the year ended. This year, the USDA set a goal of 700 million bushels.

Then Dec. 20 the longshoremen at East Coast and Gulf Coast ports started a 10-week strike. Exports bogged down to virtually a trickle from West Coast ports not involved in the dispute.

Safeguarding Teens Against Narcotics—8

Teach Young Children Respect for Drugs

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Writer

Facts provide a main key to preventing abuse of dangerous drugs.

The more complete and factual information parents have on the "mind" drugs, the more effective they can be in dealing with drug temptations and problems.

Youths and children also need to know the full story, particularly because drug users are the very ones who induce or try to induce other people to try the same drugs.

Those who "push" the mind affecting drugs, in the beginning at least, are often users who may wish only to share their experiences with others. But they do not always mention the potential or real hazards of the drugs they push.

TEACH RESPECT

Beginning at a very young age, "we should teach children respect for drugs of all kinds, even aspirin" (which can cause death by overdose), says John Finlator, associate director of the Bureau of Narcotics and dangerous drugs.

"We should teach them to take drugs only as needed, and to follow directions when they do. We cannot wait until children reach an age of decision about drugs. We must tell them facts about all kinds of drugs, when they are in their predecision, precommitment years, when children listen.

"We should tell them that if they take marijuana, they may get into trouble. We should tell them that LSD can lead them to a hospital. We should not only tell them but let them find that what we tell them is true.

Detroit Takes 'Knifing' From Customs Man

DETROIT (AP) — "Lock your car up," a U.S. customs officer reportedly said as a car was about to enter the Windsor-Detroit tunnel for the drive to the United States, "You don't want any animals in there with you. You don't want to get knifed in the back in Detroit."

Amazed, the driver snapped back, "Sir, I don't like that remark."

The driver was Detroit Common Councilman Philip Van Antwerp, and he took down the name of the customs official.

NOT ONLY ONE

Van Antwerp, a former Detroit police commissioner, isn't the only one to report such an experience. Council President E. Carey said he recently was told the same story by a friend, down to "the animals."

District Customs Director Louis A. Mazzano, who said he hadn't been notified of the matter until it became public, said, "This shook me." He added the department has discovered who the man is and plans to reprimand him.

Cavanagh Plans Student Interns

DETROIT (AP) — A student internship program in city government was announced Tuesday by Detroit Mayor Jerome Cavanagh. The plan, patterned after one in New York, will provide training jobs for 200 college students.

The federal government will provide $200,000 for the program and the city will finance the remaining $50,000.

"Let them read about it, all of it. Kids are smart. They're going to make decisions. Let's give them good, informed, intelligent information."

STRESS THE POSITIVE

Parents are advised to respond with factual discussion if they suspect or know their children, or children's friends, are using or being tempted to use dangerous drugs.

"Stress the positive aspects," one psychiatrist suggests.

"Remind them of the penalties under law. Remind them that anything drugs can do for them, they can achieve in other ways. You can feel good, be so capable, without depending on drugs."

"Ask why they think they should do the drug bit—how do they think drugs help them? What is troubling them or influencing them so they think they ought to play with drugs?"

"Does it serve a social purpose? If there are no real benefits, why are they using drugs?"

HUMAN BEINGS

Head-on quarrels over drugs, or other subjects, often only create more tensions and wider gulfs than they settle.

Parents should "respond to kids as human beings," says another psychiatrist. "If we are going to let a generation grow up, we have got to let them make some decisions, with a chance they will make some that are wrong.

"If they are taught to make minor decisions at first, and then more important ones as they grow older, they are far less likely to depend upon other people for decisions, and to depend upon crutches such as drugs in order to get along."

"Youngsters should be given a sense of responsibility for their own futures," says Dr. Malcolm B. Powers Jr. of Yale. "They have to recognize that there are various prices one pays for his future. Drug use and drug dependence are one particularly hedonistic — pleasure-seeking way of selling out the future."

EASIER TO LEAD

Some children respond to a strong approach, but generally "it is easier to lead them than to drive them, and they all want to be treated as human beings," says a psychiatrist concerned with drug hazards.

Various specialists stress that youths want authority, but not tyranny.

Some young persons who became addicted to heroin say they think they would not have done so "if their parents had of been really concerned about it."

Youngsters want parents to be fair, and to hear them out before pronouncing judgments.

SUSPICIOUS NAGS

Parents also are advised to know and to be interested in where their children spend their time, and with whom, but not to appear as suspicious nags in seeking that knowledge.

Other major points of counsel:

- Respect the confidence of children and youths; respect their right to some privacy, as in keeping diaries and in talking with their friends. Everyone has some basic rights of privacy.

- Give youngsters "general support" for flying right, rather than make a special campaign aimed at use of drugs, or at one misfortune in their lives. We must do more than just insist that they do not take drugs.

If — whatever the discipline or family relationships — parents sense they are drifting away from their children, "It is time for a change, but make it a slow rather than a sudden change. No one dramatic step will remedy the situation, and neither will shouting nor a show of force. Do it gradually, but do it."

TERRIBLE CHASMS

In studies of families where youths are abusing drugs, terrible chasms are often apparent between parents and children, says Dr. Harry A. Wilmer of the University of California School of Medicine.

"We see in these parents their rejection of their children, their righteousness, the vain and awful attempts to impose their values on their children," he says.

"Most of our runaway children are push-away children. The moral chasm is almost irreparable."

Dr. Wilmer adds that "what troubles me most, from the position of the law and the families, is that the more punitive the laws become, the more rigid

We've been in men's wear longer than many of you.

We started in 1931.
Before a lot of you were born.

We started with boaters and wide ties, white linen suits, shirts with removable collars, garters, and overcoats that were so thick and heavy you could hardly move in them.

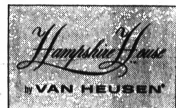

We started with one small store in downtown Pontiac.
And we started with an idea.

We knew that even though Osmun's was a clothing store, clothing itself couldn't possibly be reason enough for people to buy from us.

Nor could current fashion, careful tailoring, or charge accounts.

Location, of course, is important. That's why we opened a second store in Pontiac, one in Warren, and one in Southfield — to serve people in those areas.

And people do come to our stores. More all the time.

You just might find more Van Heusen shirts at Osmun's.

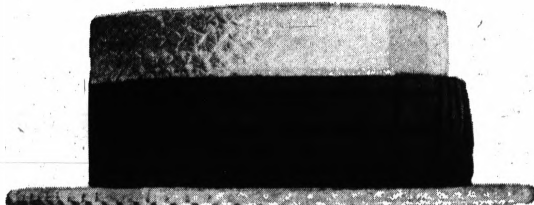

It's not the fashions. We carry the same wide ties everyone else carries now that ties are wide again.

It's not the tailoring, and it certainly isn't the charge accounts.

It's just that every time you walk into an Osmun's store, we remind ourselves that you didn't have to. And that you're a person, not a sale.

That's the 32-year-old idea that's the secret of our success.

Pretty tricky, isn't it.

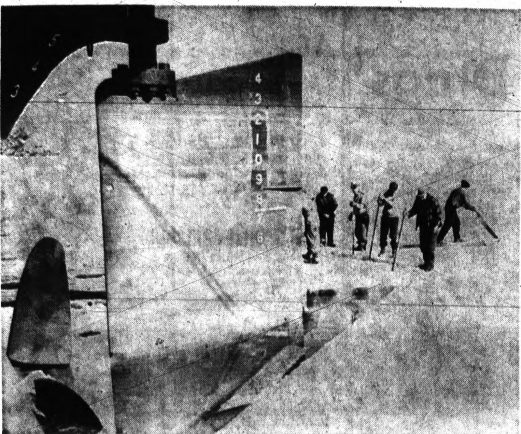

we know there are other men's stores in town

Three of our stores are open evenings 'til 9: Tel-Twelve Mall (Telegraph and 12 Mile in Southfield), Tech-Plaza Center (12 Mile and Van Dyke in Warren), and Tel Huron Center (Telegraph and Huron in Pontiac). Our downtown Pontiac store is open Friday evenings 'til 9. Look around. Bring your Osmun's or Security Chargecard, your Michigan or Midwest Bankard, or money, if you like.

Boat Becomes Mental Burden

By JOE WING

NEW YORK (AP) — I must go down to the sea again—and work on that darned boat.

My old Susan K. doesn't really deserve such abuse, and in the flush of the sailing season doesn't receive it. But now that fitting out time is only a calendar page away, Susan K. has become a mental burden.

Oh, it's all well and good to write, as I once did, about the joys of fixing up an old wooden boat. There's hard work, I said, but also there's time for dreams while the red winged blackbirds whistle in the marsh and the springtime sun warms the deck and you.

That's all very true, and I'm glad I never missed a single moment of it—in years past.

YEAR OLDER

Now, however, it's 1969, and Susan K. and I are both a year older.

That good right arm of mine, the one that bears the brunt of scraping and sanding and painting, has a touch of a misery never before noticed. The calling in Susan K.'s teak deck needs replacement, and her topsides should be taken down to the wood. Those are items, or let us say major projects, in addition to what is known as routine maintenance. It's going to be a rough spring.

You must realize too that Susan K. is nearly 29 feet long. No all is ready. The drying seams matter how small your boat may seem in the water, she is, the once propped up in the boat yard, a tremendous ark.

But grouching will get you nowhere. While you've been complaining the fitting out season has arrived.

LAY CREDIT ON LINE

You make a call, the first of many, at the marine hardware store and lay your credit on the line. There is paint to be bought, and paint remover, and sandpaper and scrapers and varnish. Ship's stores such as these are no ordinary merchandise: you have to pay handsomely for the privilege of lugging them out to your car.

Next stop is the boat yard. There lies Susan K. in her cunningly shaped beauty. Behind her in silent, canvas-covered rows, stand other land-bound hulks, awaiting the magic touch of ardent owners.

Your first act is to throw off the swaddling cloths that protected Susan K. from the winter snows. As her sweeping lines reappear, you experience a resurgent enthusiasm for the whole seasonal ritual.

You have of course donned your oldest work clothes. You soon get dusty and tired. You are cramped while bending over the cracking deck. Your arms and back ache as you force the electric sander to its task and help lug the heavy spars from their shed. This goes on and on.

TIME OF DREAMING

But there comes a day when all is ready. The drying seams have been calked. The topsides may seem in the water, she is, the newly applied bottom paint glows warmly red. You have only to await the launching.

Resident Eccentric

Hollywood Hermit Dies at 90

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Years ago, he was the resident eccentric, a curiosity for tourists to stare at and natives to shake their heads over.

But when Peter the Hermit died last week at the age of 90, the event was scarcely noticed. Peculiar characters had become so profuse on Hollywood Boulevard that few paid attention to the spindly-legged coddler with the flowing beard.

THOMAS

For almost 50 years, Peter Howard—that was his real name—ploded up and down the Boulevard ignoring the taunts of Philistines. Unlike the younger bearded types who now frequent the area, Peter was immaculate. He wore freshly laundered white duck pants and a white T-shirt, sometimes a white robe. Often he carried a staff, and he sometimes used it to smack the backsides of women shoppers as they strolled by. To the astonished women he then delivered a lecture on the dangers of confining the body with girdles.

Now comes the time of dreaming. You sit in the familiar cockpit and remember that fast reach you sailed from Port Jeff to Oyster Bay. Or the time the unseen steamer blared at you in the fog off Block Island. Or the soft summer nights at anchor in the moonlight.

The red-winged blackbirds whistle in the marsh, the springtime sun warms your back, and you have come around once more to the firm conviction that only landlubbers and turncoats will stoop so low as to forsake well-seasoned wood for fiber glass.

Finally a meeting was arranged in his one-room home on Ivar Avenue, a short distance from the roaring Hollywood Freeway.

"I'm ageless," he snapped when I inquired of his age. And indeed, with pink face and patriarchal white hair and beard, he might have been 65 or 105. He admitted to having been born in Limerick, sailing the seven seas as a young man and studying the religions of the world—"They're all stepping stones."

He claimed to have come to Hollywood because of its promise. But he was soon disillusioned by what he found.

'FOLLYWOOD'

"I never call it Hollywood," he railed. "I call it Follywood! The movies could have created the coming church, the universal language, but that promise was never realized."

"Follywood! It has ruined more homes than siege guns. The movies show nothing but war, crime and sex. Follywood never gave anything to anybody. All the movie makers do is fool the people. Well, movie people mean nothing to me. They're shysters, all of them!"

Peter's bitterness may have stemmed from the fact that the movies had passed him by. In his early years in Hollywood he had earned a fair living as an atmosphere actor in films, especially Biblical epics like "The King of Kings." He lived as a squatter on land in the nearby hills, where he tended goats and chickens.

The hills filled with houses, and Peter the Hermit was forced to live in the city, occupying one rented room after another. Movie jobs dried up, and he subsisted on government pensions.

NO DOLLARESIS

"I'm a vegetarian; I need very little," he explained. "Thank God I haven't got grabeis nor dollaresis." He cackled over his word-coining and instructed: "Put that down. This will be the greatest article you ever wrote."

In his last years, Peter the Hermit spent less time strolling the Boulevard. He seemed appalled by the scruffy young hedonists who crowded the sidewalks. Peter spent more and more of his time high in his beloved hills, where he contemplated the follies of Hollywood and of mankind.

Prof Urges Overhaul of FTC, Consumers' Cabinet Department

WASHINGTON (AP) — A California law school professor who urges a thorough overhaul of the Federal Trade Commission says a Cabinet-level department would represent consumers more effectively than a White House aide.

John E. Schulz, an assistant professor of law at the University of Southern California, told a Senate subcommittee Tuesday a White House staff member might tend to listen more to the president than to the nation's consumers.

Betty Furness, who was President Johnson's assistant for consumer affairs, was the featured witness for today's hearings on the proposal to create a Department of Consumers.

Schulz and fellow witnesses, all law students, held out little hope that the FTC could do much for consumers without a massive infusion of enforcement authority and money, and a change in command.

SINGLES OUT CHAIRMAN

Singling out chairman Paul Rand Dixon for sharp criticism, Schulz said there might be some hope if he were replaced "by someone hard-hitting."

The group made a critical report on the FTC last summer and Schulz said Dixon's main reaction was to issue a "hysterical" eight-page reply and to circulate a memorandum to his staff, ordering them:

"(1) to be at work on time; (2) not to drink on the job; (3) to refrain from any discussion whatsoever of our report; (4) to cover up any imbibing with breath mints; and (5) not to bring copies of our report into the agency offices under any circumstances."

Dixon made a speech in Pittsburgh Tuesday night in which he commended the energy of critics of the nation's business

'Ray Had Slim Prison Bankroll'

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Officials of the Missouri State Penitentiary say that as far as the y can determine, James Earl Ray was broke when he escaped in June 1967. During his seven years of confinement the records show the most he ever had in his prison account at one time was $108.37 on June 19, 1963.

Warden Harold Swenson and Fred Wilkinson, director of the Missouri Department of Correction, both scoffed Tuesday at suggestions that Ray had some kind of racket in prison which enabled him to send large sums to persons on the outside.

Ray is estimated to have spent $10,000 to $15,000 between the time he escaped and his arrest a year later in London as the slayer of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. This has caused many to believe the killing was a conspiracy and that Ray had well-heeled backers.

DRUG TRAFFICKING

After Ray pleaded guilty to the slaying, Dist. Atty. Gen. Phil Canale of Shelby County, Tenn., said he had reason to believe the assassin trafficked in drugs while in prison and sent out about $7,000.

"There's nothing to support that at all," warden Swenson said in an interview.

Hospital to Unveil New Dwellings for Interns, Residents

Pontiac General Hospital's new $410,000 apartment buildings for residents and interns will be unveiled at an open house for the public from 1 to 5 p.m. Sunday.

Four buildings at the south end of the hospital's parking lots contain 12 two-bedroom and eight three-bedroom apartments. They are air-conditioned and equipped with kitchen appliances.

The apartments are for the use of the hospital's nine interns and 26 resident doctors.

Nearly $33,000 was donated by the medical staff to furnish 13 of the apartments and buy drapes for every unit.

system, but urged them "to consider the old adage that the best way to get rid of rats is not to burn a good house down."

In an interview he said his speech was not pointed at the student investigators but was "just something I thought needed to be said."

'SHOULD BE ABOLISHED'

Schulz told the subcommittee if the FTC cannot be reformed "it should be both abolished and bypassed... so that American consumers will no longer labor under the illusion that a Federal regulatory agency is protecting them by discovering and terminating objectionable business practices."

Testifying with Schulz were William H. Taft IV, Andrew D. Egendorf, Robert C. Fellmeth and Edward F. Cox.

The group picked up the nickname of "Nader's Raiders" because it got its start from consumer protection advocate Ralph Nader, but Fellmeth indicated the five were less than happy with the tag.

"We don't feel that we were on a foray," he said. "We feel like scholars."

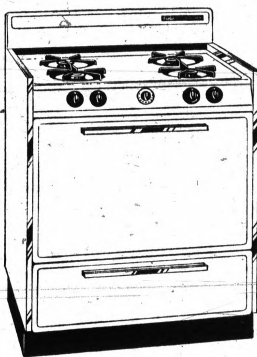

He said the group was planning another investigative project for this summer.

TALUS Gets OK to Seek Added Funds

DETROIT (AP) — The administrative committee of the Transportation and Land Use Study has authorized Irving J. Rubin, TALUS director, to seek more funds to complete the study by Aug. 8.

The action came after a two-month controversy during which the committee insisted no more money was needed.

Rubin said he would immediately apply to the Department of Housing and Urban Development for a $100,000 grant and also seek other sources of revenue. Rubin admitted he might not get the money, which would delay completion of the study past Aug. 8.

If this happens, Detroit could lose a $2.6-million federal grant to be used for building a proposed new bus terminal.

ALREADY IMPOSSIBLE?

Rubin said the two-month delay may already have made it impossible to complete the study on time.

Aug. 8 is the date set for completion of only part of the study of southeastern Michigan transportation needs. It will take another four months and an additional $300,000 to finish the study, according to the master plan.

Rubin said he would report back on the results of his money hunt at a March 28 meeting.

Ex-Store Owner Dies at Age 94

Frederick W. Torley, former owner and operator of Torley Hardware Store, died Monday. He was 94.

Service will be Friday at the Turnbull Funeral Home in Monmouth, Ill., with burial in the Monmouth Cemetery. His body was taken there by the Donelson-Johns Funeral Home.

Torley of 21 Delaware was a member of First Methodist Church and life member of Masonic Lodge F&AM, Royal Arch Masons and Low Twelve in Monmouth.

Surviving are two sons, Donald W. of Pontiac and F. Glen of Rockbridge Baths, Va.; a brother; and four grandchildren.

Two Men Held in Area Holdup

Two men are being held in Oakland County jail in connection with the beating and robbing of an Orion Township gas station attendant early this morning.

Arrested on charges of armed robbery were Gary H. Bailey, 27, of 745 W. Glass, Brandon Township, and George E. Finer, 26, of 2 1/2 Mill, Oxford.

The pair was chased by Oakland County Sheriff's deputies after they allegedly beat attendant Larry G. Roberts of the Clark station, 799 S. Lapeer, and escaped with an undetermined amount of money.

Roberts, who was treated at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital and released, told deputies the pair knocked him down, kicked him and beat him with bottles.

After his assailants left, Roberts called the sheriff's department and deputies were rushed to the scene. One deputy spotted and chased the escape car, but lost it.

Later, Deputies Harry Earp and Carl Raymond in another car spotted the suspect's car in a driveway at 1375 Indian Lake and arrested the two men. The deputies said they found more than $83 in the car.

Report Due on Waterford Millage Effort

A report on personal contact campaigning by citizens supporting a millage increase is scheduled at tomorrow night's meeting of the Waterford Township School Board.

Election activities, which include coffee meetings and door-to-door campaigning, will be discussed. Polling on the two-year nine-mills school proposal will be next Wednesday.

Otherwise, routine business dominates the agenda for the 7:30 p.m. meeting at the school district administrative offices, 6020 Pontiac Lake.

The board will hear financial statements for February from the district office and the food service department and will be asked to approve accounts payable for March.

In addition, superintendent's recommendations relative to staff appointments and state aid requests.

Deaths in Pontiac, Nearby Areas

Mrs. Julian Catlett

Service for Mrs. Julian (Millarean) Catlett, 44, of 315 Rapid will be 2 p.m. Friday at the Church of Christ with burial in Oak Hill Cemetery. Her body may be viewed after 3:30 p.m. tomorrow at the Davis-Cobb Funeral Home.

Commission Acts on PAPC Bylaws

The Pontiac Area Planning Council (PAPC) came under renewed fire from one city commissioner at last night's commission meeting.

However, a revised set of bylaws was approved, 6-1, over the negative vote of Robert C. Irwin of District 2.

The bylaws also must meet approval of the Pontiac School Board. The board and the commission set up the PAPC in November 1967 to act as a planning and advisory body for the two groups.

However, repeated criticism of the PAPC led to a request for bylaw modifications which were approved by the PAPC at its meeting earlier this month.

Only the school board is left to okay the revised rules of operation.

However, a revised set of bylaws was approved, 6-1, over the negative vote of Robert C. Irwin of District 2.

The commission held hearing on intent to construct curb, gutter and paving on Ypsilanti from Baldwin to Carlisle.

The project was approved and hearing on the assessment roll is set for 3 p.m. next Tuesday.

The Boys' Club owns property at 124 W. Columbia which adjoins the Ypsilanti projects. An assessment of $13 per front foot would cost the club an assessment of $9,000, it was pointed out.

City Engineer Clyde Christian reported to the commission that the club did not have the funds. He said that no exception could legally be made to exclude them from the assessment.

He added further delay of the project was unjustified and no solution to the money problem was announced.

In other business the commission:

Called for bids on a parcel of property at Lake and Orton and adjacent to the railroad that was formerly known as the Lake Street Yard. The appraised price after a multiple residential rezoning was approved was placed at $40,700. Bids are to be received by 2 p.m. April 14.

Requested the State Department of Natural Resources remove two properties in the city from a public auction roll slated for March 26. The properties were to be sold for taxes, but the commission decided to exercise its right to buy them at appraised value. The lots are one at Norton east of Johnson and one adjacent to Harris Lake.

Heard Mayor William H. Taylor Jr. proclaim this week as Boys' Club Week in Pontiac.

Fidgeting, nose-picking, a tormenting rectal itch are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms. ugly parasites that medical experts say infect 1 out of every 3 persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it.

To get rid of Pin-Worms, they must be killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P-W tablets do... and here's how they do it:

First - a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then - Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredients go right to work - kills Pin-Worms quickly and easily.

in our community, but it has lost contact with the rest of the community."

Particularly cited was the action of the PAPC in support of placing the proposed super high school in the southwest part of the city rather than on the Pontiac State Hospital grounds as the school board had proposed.

NOT RESIDENTS

Irwin said the PAPC is favored by those "who do not feel the people are capable of electing their own leaders." He stressed his objection to 16 of 30 PAPC members not being actual residents.

District 4 Commissioner F. Jack Douglas was outspoken in opposing Irwin's viewpoint. Douglas said the best minds of the area are on the PAPC and "we can (use) their minds to help us solve the complicated problems of this city."

The new bylaws will make several fundamental changes in the PAPC structure. Among them are:

• The city mayor and school board president will no longer be chairman and vice chairman of the PAPC.

• Each member will select his own alternate who must be approved by the appointive body. (No approval was formerly required.)

• Members must be appointed for three-year terms on a staggered basis with one-third of the membership up for appointment each year. (Terms were indeterminate.)

• Expenditures must meet approval of both the city and schools.

• A system of reports and stepped-up communications between the three bodies is called for.

• A new executive board is created.

SF Policemen Finally Have a Place to Go

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The San Francisco Police have added something new to their line of equipment — A "potty wagon."

The need was realized during rioting two years ago when hundreds of officers found themselves with no place to go.

Now a converted mobile lab, fitted with toilet facilities, is stationed at San Francisco State College where large numbers have been deployed because of student demonstrations.

The wagon is painted black and bears a police star in gold letters SFDP.

An eye specialist says that reading in dim light will not permanently damage the eyes, although it can cause temporary eye strain.

Showing of Pontiac Plan Set for School Tomorrow

Another presentation of the Pontiac Plan will be made at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow at Kennedy Junior High, 1700 Baldwin, it was announced at last night's City Commission meeting.

District 5 Commissioner Robert F. Jackson said the presentation of the proposed $100-million downtown urban renewal project will be sponsored by the Civitan Club.

A full house was present for a showing last month at City Hall. Jackson said a presentation would be made to any group wishing one if they called the urban renewal department.

The plan calls for a multi-faceted development of the city's long-vacant 29 acres south of downtown.

Proposed for the site are such facilities as a hospital, hotel, arena, convention center, art museum, apartments and housing for the elderly as well as supporting businesses such as restaurants and small stores.

The Pontiac Plan is a creation of C. Don Davidson and Bruno Leon and Associates of Detroit. First phases could begin shortly, it has been indicated.

U.S. urban renewal officials have endorsed the plan.

should you wear a shaped suit if you're somewhat out of shape?

Practically all of the men's fashions you see today are "shaped"—which can cause, at first glance, a little dismay if you're not a perfect 40-regular. But before you panic back into your 1959 blue serge, take a moment to learn more about what "shape" is all about . . . and how you fit in.

There are many degrees of shape—from the glove-fitted fashions of Pierre Cardin to suits and coats that simply suggest a trimmed-down indentation at the waist. What they all have in common is this: they make a man look thinner. How? Because they're designed to accent your figure in a more perfectly-proportioned way—by making the shoulders look broader (it's done by cutting the shoulders a little wider; not by adding bulk), by indenting the waistline so that it automatically looks slimmer, by flaring the bottom of the jacket so that any overabundance of figure below the waist is minimized, and by cutting the trousers straight down so that the tall, slim line is fairly continuous.

Actually, while the shaped look is a cinch for the man with a perfect figure, it's even a greater boon for the man who's a little out of shape. It's surprising how much better proportioned you look in properly-fitted shaped clothing.

And in order to spread the blessings of shape, we've gathered a selection to accommodate men of almost every size and proportion (naturally, if you're quite portly, shape isn't for you), and to accommodate a wide range of tastes—from the young avant garde to the middle-aged conservative. The price range is typically HHS wide.

Men's fashion has never been more exciting, more rewarding than it is right now. And the best way to be right now is to see what's taking shape at HHS.

Recalls N.Y. Incident

Lolich Stays in Denny's Corner

By MILTON RICHMAN

LAKELAND, Fla. (UPI) — This wasn't a bar late at night and it wasn't Lou Michaels telling Joe Namath to get up and come outside.

Instead, this was in the Detroit clubhouse in broad daylight and Mickey Lolich was simply explaining that what he had to say about Joe Namath last month still goes.

The night was Feb. 3 and the site Rochester, N.Y. The occasion was the annual banquet at which the professional athlete of the year and winner of the $10,000 Hickok belt always is announced.

Mickey Lolich, winner of three World Series games against the Cardinals, including the final one, had been scheduled to be guest of honor that same night in Portland, Ore., as Oregon's athlete of the year.

Portland is Mickey's home town, he says he'd be treated royally there, but he made his apologies and declined the invitation with regret. He said that Denny McLain, his teammate, was going to be honored as professional athlete of the year in Rochester, that he had been invited to attend also and that he thought it would be nice if one of Denny's teammates was there so the Tigers' 31-game winner wouldn't feel completely alone. Accordingly, Lolich passed up a certain welcome in Portland to go to Rochester and be on hand to help honor one of his teammates.

There was a slight hitch. They announced the winner was Joe Namath, not Denny McLain. Namath was off visiting wounded servicemen in Pacific hospitals at the time so he made his comments that he picked some dirt out of his shoes after McLain made his remarks as runner-up in the balloting, after he beat the Cardinals in Lolich was called upon to speak. He remembers exactly what he said.

"I just said I came here to Rochester to honor the greatest athlete in the U.S. and he finished second," Lolich recalled, picking some dirt out of his spikes in the Tigers' clubhouse.

"What's more," the Detroit lefty went on, "I still think the same way. I believe McLain was the athlete of the year. I'm a little curious to see how I'm gonna be received the first time I come into New York. After all, I spoke out a gainst Broadway Joe and I know how they feel about him there. This isn't anything personal with me. I've never met him and know nothing about him. He's a professional, so he's gotta be good. He can't be a rummy."

"But I think he got the vote on what he did in the Super Bowl. That's a big game, sure, but it's only one game. McLain won 31. You can say 32 with the one he won in the World Series. In my book, that makes him, not Namath, the athlete of the year."

Lolich's comments caused him to hear from a great many people. One of them was Denny McLain, who thanked him for saying what he did.

Others took a nastier tone. They told him to mind his own business and quit popping off. They told him that some of the same people who were signing his praises after he beat the Cardinals in the balloting, after he beat the Cardinals in Lolich was called upon to speak. He remembers exactly what he said.

"I just said I came here to Rochester to honor the greatest athlete in the U.S. and he finished second," Lolich recalled, picking some dirt out of his spikes in the Tigers' clubhouse.

"What's more," the Detroit lefty went on, "I still think the same way. I believe McLain was the athlete of the year. I'm a little curious to see how I'm gonna be received the first time I come into New York. After all, I spoke out a gainst Broadway Joe and I know how they feel about him there. Wings Nearing End of Line

Detroiters Battling for Playoff Berth

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI) — If the Detroit Red Wings hope to make the Stanley Cup playoffs this year, tonight's night they'd better start winning.

Down two points behind Toronto for the fourth and last playoff spot in the National Hockey League's Eastern Division, the Wings meet the Western Division Oakland Seals tonight and the Los Angeles Kings Thursday night.

Two wins on the West Coast could give the Wings the lift they need going into the final four games of the season against stiff competition — two games with Toronto and two with Chicago.

Pete Stelmowski, one of five 20-goal scorers for the Red Wings this season, will miss the two West Coast contests because of a leg injury.

The 25-year-old center remained behind in Detroit to take treatments for a strained leg muscle, but it was hoped he would be ready to play in Toronto Saturday night in what could be the crucial game for the Wings Stanley Cup hopes this year.

Idaho School Gets Prize: Bald Eagle

OAKLEY, Idaho (AP) — The Oakley elementary school has a prized new exhibit — an American bald eagle — thanks to high school sophomore David Baker and cooperation from the Interior Department.

Baker found the rare national bird frozen in snow and ice beneath a high power line about a month ago. Apparently, it had flown into the line and was electrocuted.

The bird was removed and Oakley officials asked the Interior Department for permission to keep it and have it mounted. The bird was about 2 years old, has a 7-foot wingspan and weighed 17 pounds.

School principal Gary Masoner said he received a letter Tuesday from the Interior Department which authorized the school to keep the eagle indefinitely, as a loan.

Bald eagles are, by law, property of the federal government.

Tax Rates Hiked on Property for Utilities in State

LANSING (UPI) — The State Board of Assessors has boosted the average property tax rate on utilities in Michigan from $4.11 to $4.60 per $1,000 assessed valuation.

The levy affects railroad, telephone, telegraph, car loaning and similar property holdings.

The board, composed of the three-member state tax commission and the governor, also reported that property taxes levied by all units of government in Michigan last year totaled $1,474,994,223, up $186.3 million from 1967.

Larry Jones' 38 points led the Denver Rockets to the four-point decision over the Miami Floridians. Jones, who has Indiana Pacers to their 10th scored 30 or more points in his consecutive victory, a 143-114 last 23 games, tallied 21 in the rout of the cellar-dwelling Nets. Spartan. Batters Sharp but Team Drops 8-7 Verdict

MIAMI, Fla. (UPI) — The Michigan State Spartans put together a 14-hit attack, including two home runs by centerfielder Rick Miller, but dropped their second straight spring baseball game, 8-7, to the University of Miami.

Miami put together three straight singles to break the 7-7 tie in the bottom of the seventh inning after the Spartans had built up a 5-2 lead in the first four innings.

Besides Miller's two homers, the Spartans got a triple from catcher Harry Kendrick and a double by third baseman Joe Gaval. Miller's homers were line drives over the right field fence more than 375 feet from home plate.

After dropping its first two spring games to Miami, Michigan State takes on the University of Cincinnati today in the third of 13 games in Florida.

Lamprey Eel in Comeback

By KEN LOWE

Marquette Mining Journal Writer

MARQUETTE (AP)—If you're one of those who think the sea lamprey menace is a thing of the past, you're mistaken. For more than 10 years, U.S. and Canadian fisheries agencies have been engaged in leading a two-pronged battle against the parasitic lamprey in Lake Superior.

On one front, federal crews have been treating young lampreys before they can grow large enough to prey on lake trout. On the other front, federal and state crews have been planting Lake Superior with lake trout every year in an attempt to reestablish this prime fish in the Great Lakes.

As a result, lake trout fishing has improved spectacularly in Lake Superior. It's been so good, in fact, that as many as 500 fishermen were reported bobbing for lakers through the ice of Whitefish Bay on a recent weekend.

LAKERS NOT AS LARGE

They weren't catching any of the 20- or 30-pound fish that were being taken before the lamprey invaded Lake Superior, but they were averaging a couple of trout apiece, and some of the fish weighed as much as 13 pounds.

That's considered mighty fine lake trout fishing these days. These and other reports of excellent laker fishing along the south shore of Lake Superior have led many to believe the lamprey threat has been stamped out in the biggest of the Great Lakes.

Not so, according to U.S. Bureau of Commercial Fisheries officials.

Dr. George Y. Harry, director of the bureau's research laboratory in Ann Arbor, and Richard L. Pycha, Ashland, Wis., investigation chief for the bureau's Lake Superior program, both discussed problems that have been encountered in lamprey control in recent years. They were here recently to take part in a conference at the bureau's lamprey control headquarters in Marquette.

LEAKS IN CONTROL NETWORK

Admitting that there are some "leaks" in the lamprey control network, Harry said, "We are considering this really an experimental program until we get all the bugs ironed out."

"We doubt that lampreys ever will be eradicated," Harry said. "But we believe they will be controlled. The question is what level of control should be decided on, and economics is the determining factor here. We have to compromise between money available and how much effort can be given to maintain the proper measure of control."

Harry speculated that lampreys have not been completely eradicated from Lake Superior for a variety of reasons despite concentrated efforts to rid the streams of all young lampreys by chemical treatment.

For instance, he said, biologists know that some ammocoetes (young lampreys) escape the chemicals by drifting into Lake Superior while still in their larval stage. Theoretically, these, if they found a suitable environment, could transform into predatory adults in Lake Superior. Lampreys are not parasitic during their ammocoete stage in streams.

SOME AVOID LAMPRICIDE

Other ammocoetes may miss being exposed to chemicals during treatment simply because they were in some backwater of the stream where the lampicide did not reach.

Finally, Harry said, some adult lampreys may continue to migrate into Lake Superior from Lake Huron or attach themselves to the hulls of vessels passing through the locks at Sault Ste. Marie.

Harry believes a shortage of funds is contributing to the delay in the victory over the lamprey.

For example, in order to determine the effectiveness of stream treatment, he said, surveillance programs are carried out. "Even stronger surveillance programs might indicate some areas where control measures could be strengthened, but funds are not available for everything we would like to do."

"This isn't any time to be easing up on our lamprey control program. Instead, we should be hitting it harder than ever now."

Several disturbing factors have clouded the lamprey control program in Lake Superior in the past couple years.

WEIR COUNT DOUBLED

One is an increase in 1968 in the number of lampreys captured in electro-fishing weirs on streams in the Upper Peninsula and northern Wisconsin when the adults move out of Lake Superior to spawn. This figure declined from 66,000 lampreys in 1967 to about 4,000 in 1968, but doubled to about 8,000 in 1968.

There was also an increase in the rate of lake trout scarring by sea lampreys in Michigan waters in 1968. Whereas between 1.8 and 6.3 per cent of lake trout taken in commercial fishermen's nets in the spring of 1967 bore lamprey wounds, the rate jumped to between 6.8 and 15 per cent in the spring of 1968. The wounding rate was only about one-fifth that high in Wisconsin waters.

The Department of Natural Resources has withdrawn delivery slips authorizing the public to pick up surplus corn from federal storage bins at Ithaca for feeding deer in the northern Lower Peninsula.

It decision to cut off further shipments came after several weeks of generally mild weather "alleviated" the earlier emergency for whitetails in that part of the state.

In the Upper Peninsula, where deer still face tough going, efforts are being con-

Gun Education Project Slated

Pontiac Jaycees Aim at 7-14 Age Group

A shooting education program for youngsters is being started by the Pontiac Jaycees.

The project, national in scope and co-sponsored by Daisy Manufacturing Company, is open to boys and girls seven through 14 years old.

A presentation preview explaining the instructions will be Friday, March 28, at the Pontiac Boys Club, 530 E. Pike, at 7 p.m.

The course consists of 13 one-hour classes of instruction with BB guns. It will conclude with a Jaycee shooting league in which the boys and girls will participate in regulation team match competition.

Parents are urged to attend the preview with their children. Applications are being placed in Pontiac schools. Additional information is available from Tim Reetz, 2593 Patrick Henry.

tinued to soften the threat of winter losses.

Explains Dave A. Arnold, the Department's deer specialist:

"We're pretty certain we already have enough corn on hand at our district headquarters in the Northern Lower Peninsula to meet the situation through spring break-up. We're not chopping off our program to help deer, but conditions for animals in that region have been alleviated so much that we're not justified in approving any more delivery slips for corn."

While artificial feedings are appropriately being geared down, the DNR is pressing on with its own timber-cutting program to boost browse supplies for deer in food-shortage areas.

Among the encouraging signs to game men at this late stage of winter is the good physical condition of highway-killed deer autopsied in northern Michigan.

In some northern areas where whitetail movements are still restricted, deer are being chased and attacked by wild-running dogs.

Dingell Renews Bid to Increase Duck Stamp Price

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sportsmen would be required to purchase a federal permit to hunt in addition to ducks, under a bill pending in the House.

Another measure would authorize the interior secretary to increase the price of the duck stamp from $3 to $5.

Half of the revenue received from $1 dove permits would be given to the states for conducting research activities.

The bill to broaden the duck stamp, introduced by Rep. John D. Dingell, D-Mich., is the same measure passed by the House last year but received no action in the Senate after Washington sportsmen opposed it.

The other bill, also introduced by Dingell, is new this year. It actually authorizes the collection of $1 for a federal permit for the taking of any migratory game birds other than migratory waterfowl but is aimed at the hunting of doves.

Takes Athletic Post

PRAIRIE VIEW, Tex. (UPI) — Samuel Lindsay, an assistant football coach at Prairie View A&M College, has been named athletic director at the Texas school, succeeding W. L. Nicks.

Midland (A) — A hydrology engineer for the Michigan Water Resources Commission says the "objections have narrowed to a point of insignificance" to a plan to collect and impound spring flood waters of the Tittabawassee River Basin.

The engineer, Dale Granger, said "There are very few objections—we have not investigated in the study."

Granger told a Midland hearing last week the study of collecting the waters for industrial, public and recreational use through the summer actually began in Midland County in 1957 and "was recognized as a necessity as long ago as the early 1930s."

The purpose of the meeting was to explain the plan to the public and to the legislature.

In weighing all the factors, correcting all the mistakes and gaining the confidence of the people through these meetings and the effort of news media, we think the objections have been narrowed to a point of insignificance," he said.

Granger said the first phase of a plan for the management of surplus waters of the Tittabawassee River Basin involves construction of two reservoirs on the Pine River northwest of Alma and St. Louis at an estimated cost of $5,034,000. He said plans are so complete, it could become a reality within four to six years.

Granger said the final decision now rests with representatives of the boards of supervisors in the counties of Midland, Saginaw, Gratiot, Gladwin, Isabella, Mecosta, Montcalm, Ogemaw, Osceola, and Roscommon.

Status of Major Legislation Before U.S. Congress Is Sketched

WASHINGTON (AP) — Status of major legislation:

DEBT—Nixon proposed to redefine the national debt so as not to include money the government borrows from the Social Security fund, and to raise borrowing authority by $17 billion. House Ways and Means Committee rejected the new concept, and limited the increase to $12 billion. The committee's bill, providing a record-high $377-billion "temporary" ceiling through June 30, 1970, comes up for House action today.

TAXES—President Nixon wants a year's extension of the 10 per cent surtax on corporate and personal income taxes, now due to expire June 30. No bill has been introduced yet; no hearings scheduled.

TAX REFORM—House Ways and Means Committee holding hearings on various proposals to make taxes more equitable; among them, to impose some tax on foundations and on substantial incomes now exempt under various provisions. President Nixon's tax reform bill is still to be received.

PAY—Congress raised the pay of the president from $100,000 to $200,000 a year (plus expenses). It allowed to go into effect March 1 a 41 per cent pay boost for its own members, from $30,000 to $42,000 a year. Federal judges, Cabinet members, and top officials of the executive branch also got big increases. Separate bill to raise speaker and vice president from $43,000 to $62,500, and House and Senate leaders to $55,000 came up in House yesterday.

RIOING—House Education and Labor subcommittee will resume, possibly this week hearing on college problems including campus riots and federal aid to those involved. House Internal Security Committee investigating "revolutionary violence" in cities and on campus with hearings planned but not set. No bills yet.

MINES—President Nixon asked for stricter health and safety rules, to be drafted by interior secretary, with emphasis on "black lung" disease afflicting coal miners. Hearings under way in House and Senate labor subcommittees on related proposals.

POSTAL—President ordered removal of postmaster and rural carrier appointments from congressional patronage and asked Congress to back up order with legislation. No action yet, House or Senate.

ELECTORAL—Nixon has proposed change in method of electing the president to avert possible deadlocks. He wants to abolish presidential electors and assign to each candidate his proportionate share of each state's electoral vote. House Judiciary Committee hearings complete, on this and alternative plans. Senate Judiciary subcommittee hearings under way.

POLLUTION—Administration drafting bill expected to tighten federal regulations on oil drilling and require well and vessel operators to pay cost of cleanup in oil leaks. House Public Works Committee hearings started on related proposals by members. Senate Public Works subcommittee also has begun hearings on members' antipollution proposals.

SCHOOLS—House Education and Labor subcommittee expected to approve this week five-year extension of major aid programs for poverty area grade and high schools. No presidential request so far.

POVERTY—Administration has asked one-year extension of antipovety program with Job Corps and Head Start to be shifted to Labor Department and Health, Education and Welfare, respectively. House Education and Labor Committee hearings to start in April.

HUNGER—Senate Welfare subcommittee holding hearings on extent of malnutrition.

Bills offered in House to boost spending for food stamp help, but no hearings set. Agriculture Department has experimented with free food stamps (as opposed to practice of selling them at discounts), but administration has proposed no legislation.

NUCLEAR—Senate, on recommendation of President Nixon, has affirmed nuclear nonproliferation treaty, 83 to 15. Nuclear powers who sign will agree not to give weapons to others; nonnuclear signatories will agree not to build them.

DRAFT—President has ordered study looking toward end of the draft. No legislation proposed. Hearings in House and Senate Armed Services committees expected but not yet scheduled, many members are proposing draft changes, including selection by lottery.

Waterford Man Gets Prison for Resisting Deputy

A Waterford Township man was sentenced to 1 to 2 years in prison yesterday for resisting a sheriff's deputy who had been called to a Pontiac Township home to investigate a complaint.

Bennie Crowe, 21, of 5450 Tubbs was sentenced by Oakland County Circuit Judge Frederick C. Ziem.

Crowe pleaded guilty to the charge Feb. 27.

He was arrested Jan. 20 at the home of his ex-fiancee, Carolyn Sinsbaugh, 19, of 3415 Giddings, Pontiac Township, after he had allegedly terrorized her and her sister with a shotgun.

Crowe at first refused to turn over the weapon, but later gave in and handed the 16-gauge shotgun to Deputy Gerald Reeves. Crowe then took a punch at the deputy and had to be restrained by three other deputies.

Mohammedans claim the Black Stone in the Kaaba, sacred shrine of Islam, fell from heaven. It is almost certainly a meteorite.

U. S. Agents to Curb Campus Strife Urged

WASHINGTON (AP) — The said federal investigative and head of California's state college enforcement agencies should also help identify and arrest students from federal crime fighters who move about the country would be more help in curbing campus disorders than cutting off funds to student ring leaders.

"I'm not suggesting any college CIA," Theodore Meriam told a House education subcommittee. "But it surely wouldn't hurt to share whatever hard information federal agencies have gathered."

SR STATE FOCUS.
The hearings are to center on the continuing troubles at San Francisco State College. Meriam's testimony came a day after a White House spokesman indicated the Nixon administration would take a stand on campus disorders. Meriam said the administration would take a stand on campus disorders. Meriam said the administration would take a stand on campus disorders.

White House Press-Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler indicated this would be included in a statement due from Robert H. Finch, secretary of health, education and welfare.

President Nixon had been expected to outline the administration's viewpoint, but passed the task to Finch after a meeting Tuesday afternoon with the

TV RESTRAINT EYED
In his testimony, Meriam also said "the influence of the federal government" should be used to encourage television stations to strive for balance and perspective in covering campus disorders.

"There is little doubt in my mind that there is a direct relationship between the degree of escalation of violence in a college confrontation and the number of TV cameras that are on the scene," Meriam said.

Most of these arrests took place recently, he said, and the cases have not been settled. He said some cases will probably result in a cutoff of funds.

He said the government can be of more use in helping local police and college officials determine whether a national or international conspiracy is behind campus disturbances, and in trying to assure balanced television coverage.

State Dems Protest ABM
LANSING (AP) — Michigan Democrats will join other groups across the country in opposing President Nixon's proposal for an antiballistic missile system, State Party Chairman James McNeely said Tuesday.

"ABM does nothing to improve our ability to defend ourselves against attack from Russia or China," McNeely said.

"The time has come for the people of this country to stop being bamboozled into outrageous expenditures of money because of the scare tactics of the military-industrial complex, who have the most to gain from such expenditures," he said.

the will hear from student leaders, including members of the black militants groups that have been active on several campuses. She also said Finch will testify, probably next week, of her hearings by introduction of a bill designed to ease the financial load for students working their way through college.

The bill, with 11 cosponsors, would permit a working student to receive a deduction in his college tuition and other expenses in an amount equal to the money earned to put himself through college.

She said it was time recognition and encouragement be given students pursuing their education despite campus turmoil.

State's 'Free Universities' Are Casual

By KARL MANTYLA

DETROIT (AP)—Who's gripping about the high cost of higher education?

Not the students and faculty of Michigan's three "free universities."

Free, to them, means not only a way to learn what they want and how they want, but to attend classes without worrying about writing home to dad for more tuition money.

A free university at the University of Detroit is the largest in Michigan, with upwards of 200 or more students.

NO GRADING

Others are operating at Michigan State University and the University of Michigan.

None of the students are graded. Homework is up to the individual. Textbooks usually are nonexistent and, in most cases, the class decides the directions of the course. If anybody wants a "diploma" he can pick up the sheepskin before or after the course and fill it in himself.

With no entrance requirements, anybody can attend the "universities." Some are high school pupils interested in college campus atmosphere. Others are regular professors, priests, housewives, businessmen and campus hangers-on.

Though Michigan's free universities were established by disenchanted students as a means of providing kinds of education drastically different from inside-the-university courses, they by no means are "antiuniversity" or "protest movements."

'NOTHING TRIVIAL'

"These courses are meaty—solid. There's nothing trivial about them," says Theresa Church of Detroit, a 40-year-old mother of five. Mrs. Church "enrolled" in the U. of D. Free University this term for courses in Spanish Existentialism, Aristotelian Ethics and the Structure and Dynamics of Myth.

If those titles sound too esoteric, then there's something to appeal to the lighter side: Photography, How to Build and Fly Model Rockets or Karate.

An attractively printed catalogue of the U. of D. Free University offers 35 courses this "semester."

Kinds of courses offered depend on how many students are interested and whether an instructor will donate his time free. Classes usually are held once or twice a week.

PRIME MOVER

Frank Lucatelli, a moustachioed, 23-year-old senior majoring in urban studies at U. of D., is the prime mover behind his school's free university.

He acknowledges an "attendance problem." Some 850 persons registered at the U. of D. Free University last fall, but only about 300 remained steadily in the classes, he said.

At both Michigan State University and the University of Detroit, sympathetic administrations allow use of regular classrooms for the Free University courses.

The Free School, as it is called, at the University of Michigan has been more loosely knit and most classes have been held off-campus. No estimate of the enrollment was available at the U. of M. Free School.

120 STUDENTS

At MSU there are about 120 students taking the five courses offered this term. The subjects are Hypnosis, Poetry Workshop, A Peaceful Revolution—Is It Possible?, Self-Improvement in Modeling, and Yoga.

Administrative offices have even been established for the free universities at student government headquarters at MSU and U. of D.

Students at MSU suggest the courses, but some of the more "kooky" ones are rejected. For example, a request, presumably from a young revolutionary, for a course in making Molotov cocktails was denied.

CAUTIOUS APPROVAL

Cautiously voicing approval of the free university concept, the Rev. Malcolm Carron, president of the University of Detroit, says, "There hasn't been any trouble and I have been interested in the students' ability to carry it on."

Father Carron, whose university is operated by the Catholic Jesuit order, says he insisted at the outset that the faculty have some voice in the free university's courses and instructors.

Michigan Man Quits Smoking, Feels Better . . . at 108

EASTMANVILLE (UPI) — Joe Steel, who gave up smoking last year on the advice of his physician who told him it might impair his health, says he feels better.

In fact, Steel said this week he is downright glad he kicked the habit and is looking forward to celebrating his 109th birthday March 31.

The centenarian — plus, who moves around without a cane, was an inveterate pipe smoker his adult life until he engaged, in a life- and- death bout with pneumonia last year at Community Haven Home here.

Little is known about Steel because he claims to have suffered an attack of amnesia around the turn of the century. He wandered into the Ottawa County poor farm in 1907 and said he didn't know who he was or where he came from.

Fifty-eight years later, Steel, whose real name turned out to be Monroe Rutty, was recognized by a nephew who read a newspaper article about the "lost man." He identified him as Rutty.

Steel's age was authenticated after his identity was determined, according to Larry Hildore, director of social services of Ottawa County at Holland.

The oldest was born in Eden in Ingham County and worked in lumber camps as a youth, Hildore said.

After coming to the poor-farm, he remained there doing odd jobs until the farm's residents were moved into the rest home.

New Desserts Fine Way to Welcome In Spring

By JANET ODELL
Food Editor, The Pontiac Press

This first touch of spring sends everyone's spirits soaring. Even if there be snow in the next few weeks, we know it won't last and that once again, winter is behind us.

Let's celebrate with some lighthearted desserts. Serve them to the family; climax a dinner party; or just invite friends in for dessert, coffee and good conversation.

More impressive that its name is Trifle. This one has several unusual features, one of which is custard made without milk.

Peach Trifle, Sauterne

4 eggs, separated
1/2 cup extra fine granulated sugar
3/4 cup Sauterne, divided Juice of 2 lemons

1/2 cup whipping cream
1 pkg. lady fingers
6 large canned peach halves
Nutmeg

Beat egg yolks until thick and lemon-colored; beat in sugar gradually. Cook and stir over hot water until thickened. Add 1/2 cup wine and lemon juice slowly; stir to blend. Remove from heat. Chill.

When ready to serve, fold in stiffly beaten egg whites and whipped cream. Line a shallow serving bowl with split lady fingers. Sprinkle with remaining 1/4 cup wine. Arrange peach halves over lady fingers. Top with the wine custard. Sprinkle with nutmeg.

If desired, arrange lady fingers around rim of bowl. Makes 6 servings.

Orange Gelatin Whip

1 pkg. (3-ozs.) strawberry or mixed fruit flavored gelatin
1 cup boiling water
1 cup cold Florida orange juice

1 tablespoon grated orange rind
1/4 teaspoon almond extract, optional
2 cups Florida orange sections*

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Add orange juice, orange rind and extract. Chill until very thick. Then whip with rotary beater or electric mixer until fluffy, about 2 minutes. Fold in orange sections. Spoon into dessert dishes. Chill until firm.

If desired, garnish with additional orange sections and whipped or prepared whipped topping. Yield: 6 to 8 servings.

*To section Florida oranges, cut off peel round and round spiral fashion. Go over fruit again removing any remaining white membrane. Remove section by section over bowl to retain juice from fruit.

Orange Cherry Tarts

ORANGE TART SHELLS

1 pkg. (10 to 11 ozs.) pastry mix
2 teaspoons grated orange rind

3 to 4 tablespoons Florida orange juice

Prepare pastry according to package directions, adding orange rind to the dry mix. Substitute orange juice for liquid called for in package directions. Roll out pastry on floured board 1/4-inch thick.

Cut with a four-inch cutter into 12 circles. Prick each circle well with a fork. Place pastry circles over inverted medium muffin pans, measuring 2 inches at bottom. Make pleats around cup so pastry will fit close to cups. Place pastry-covered pans on baking sheet. Bake in 425-degree oven 8 to 10 minutes.

When cool, remove tart shells carefully and place right side up. Fill with Orange Cherry Filling* using about 1/4 cup filling for each. If desired, top with orange sections and whipped cream or whipped topping.

*ORANGE CHERRY FILLING

1 can (1 pound, 5 ounces) cherry pie filling
2 cups Florida orange sections
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg

Combine pie filling, orange sections and nutmeg. Spoon into cooled tart shells. Yield: 12 tarts.

Coffee Cake Gay, Fruited Quick Bread

Cherry Crumble Coffeecake is a streusel-topped quickbread that takes less than 10 minutes to assemble and 30 minutes to bake.

CHERRY CRUMBLE COFFEE CAKE

1/4 cup vegetable shortening
3/4 cup granulated sugar
1 egg
1/2 cup milk
1 1/2 cups sifted flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt

TOPPING:

1 pound can unsweetened cherries
1/2 stick (1/4 cup) butter or margarine, melted
1/2 cup flour

1/2 cup packed brown sugar
1/4 cup teaspoon cinnamon
1/4 cup together shortening and granulated sugar. Add egg and beat. Blend in milk. Sift together 1 1/2 cups flour, baking powder, and salt into bowl with shortening mixture. Mix together.

Spread batter in a 9 inch square baking pan which has been rubbed with shortening. Drain cherries. Mix together 1/2 cup flour, brown sugar, and cinnamon for topping. Add melted butter and blend.

Place cherries on top of cake. Sprinkle crumble topping over cherries. Bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees) 30 to 35 minutes or until done.

Shiny Fruit

The surfaces of apples, oranges, pears, grapefruit, and the like can be polished with a good grade of salad oil. This not only gives the fruit a lovely sheen, but preserves it. Polished fruit makes a lovely and appropriate centerpiece.

Maple Syrup Makes True American Cake

Maple syrup made from the sap of the Vermont maple tree has become symbolic of fine cooking with a real American flavor.

According to legend, the use was discovered by a young Iroquois Indian squaw who thought that the sweet drippings from the maple tree in front of her wigwam might enhance the flavor of boiled moose meat.

She used the sap instead of cooking water, and by the time the meat was ready, the sap had boiled down to syrup which gave the dish a delicious maple flavor. News of this cooking discovery spread up and down the mountainside, and the syrup from the maple became a staple in Indian cooking.

The first white settlers learned the art of syrup making from the Indians and since that time, the syrup has been a part of traditional American cookery. Vermont Maple Date Cake, created by the home economists in the Vermont Maid Kitchens, has a real old-fashioned flavor and stays fresh for days.

VERMONT MAPLE DATE CAKE

1 cup chopped dates
1/4 cup butter or margarine
1 cup boiling blended maple and cane syrup

1 slightly beaten egg
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
1 1/2 cups sifted flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt

1/2 teaspoon ginger
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
1/2 cup chopped pecans, optional

Place dates and butter in a mixing bowl. Pour hot syrup over dates and butter and stir until butter is melted. Stir in egg and vanilla extract.

Sift together flour, baking powder, salt, ginger, and baking soda. Blend dry ingredients into syrup mixture; stir in pecans if desired. Pour into a greased and floured 8 or 9 inch square pan or any 1 quart (4 cup) mold or baking pan.

Bake 30 minutes in a preheated, moderate 350 degree oven. Remove from oven and cool at least 5 minutes before removing from pan.

This cake can be doubled by doubling all the ingredients, using a 2-quart mold or pan, and extending the baking time to 45 to 50 minutes at 350 degrees F.

Spread the finished cake with the topping below, or with whipped cream.

For a special gourmet touch, make the cake without the 1/4 teaspoon of ginger and drizzle plain slices of the cake with Cointreau or Brandy.

topped with whipped cream before serving.
Makes about 9 servings.

MAPLE DATE CAKE TOPPING

1/2 cup blended maple and cane syrup
1 teaspoon cornstarch

1 tablespoon butter dash of salt
1/2 cup chopped pecans
Combine syrup and cornstarch in a saucepan and bring to a boil; cook 2 minutes. Stir in butter, salt, and pecans. Spread over cake. Serve while topping is warm.

Black Students to Be Answered

City School Officials to Reply to Demands

Pontiac Schools administrators will present responses to the Black Student Union's demands at tomorrow night's board of education meeting. The meeting will begin at 7:30 at 350 E. Wide Track.

The demands were presented to the board at the last regular meeting March 6, and were discussed with board members Russell Brown and Dr. Robert Turpin and other school officials March 10.

The demands include a reversal of the decision to build the proposed super high school on Pontiac State Hospital grounds; more black teachers, administrators, coaches and cheerleaders; free busing for all students; and an investigation into alleged racist attitudes and discriminatory actions of Pontiac teachers.

The board also is expected to act on equal recommendations of the Equality of Educational Opportunity report. Recommendations include those on community school programs and the policy and procedures for denying students the privilege of attending school.

RETURNS TO AGENDA

A statement asking for a 90-day reevaluation period on the west side high school site is again on the agenda for the board's approval.

The statement, issued by the school board March 3, was not acted upon at the board's last regular meeting. During the three-month period, the board would study alternate site locations for the high school, suspend architectural development on the Pontiac State Hospital site, and ask that legislation for the sale of the hospital land to the school district be held off.

Also on tomorrow night's agenda are:

- A request for approval of proposals for modification of the Pontiac Area Planning Commission bylaws.
- A recommendation that Bank of the Commonwealth, Detroit, be appointed paying agent for $19-million school district bonds.
- A report on progress in the development of the planned Human Resource Center.
- A report on student athletic and accident insurance.

Supervisors Face
Long Meeting

Solid waste disposal, per diem pay for county boards and commissions and appointments are on tomorrow's meeting agenda of the full County Board of Supervisors.

Expected to be long, it is the first full board meeting in a month. Supervisors will meet in the courthouse auditorium at 9:30 a.m.

Accelerated Breakup of Great Lakes Ice Is Expected

DETROIT (AP) — An accelerated breakdown in Great Lakes ice is anticipated, with above-normal temperatures and westerly winds prevailing generally over the next week, the U.S. Weather Bureau reports.

Normal to slightly above-normal temperatures are expected to persist through mid-April, the Weather Bureau added.

Reporting there had been considerable deterioration of ice over the lower lakes last week, the bureau said, however, that cool temperatures and moderate winds had maintained ice cover in the upper lakes, with some rafted pancake ice along the south shores.

Ice was reported extending and open pack ice extending 20 miles out of Duluth on miles west.

Lake Superior and from Port Arthur to Isle Royale. While open water mostly prevails beyond Whitefish Bay, the bay it through the Straits of Mackinac, and Little Bay de Noc and Big Bay de Noc, off Lake Michigan, mostly open, except for jammed floes extending about 30 miles north of Port Huron. The southern two-thirds of Georgian Bay still is mostly covered with solid ice.

Lake Huron was reported open, except for local windrowing of ice at Gary and Port In-diana.

Ice to a depth of 20 inches was reported over Green Bay and Little Bay de Noc and Big Bay de Noc, off Lake Michigan, mostly open, except for jammed floes extending about 30 miles north of Port Huron. The southern two-thirds of Georgian Bay still is mostly covered with solid ice.

Lake Ontario from its northeastern islands to its southern bays.

More Spotters for Tornado Watch Sought

DETROIT (UPI) — Hundreds of tornado spotters are needed in Michigan this spring and summer to aid in a warning program that can cut the toll of tornado deaths, the Detroit Weather Bureau has announced.

An estimated 50,000 Americans already are serving as spotters across the nation, but Michigan needs a great many more, meteorologist C. R. Snider said Monday.

"When radar sees a storm approaching a Michigan county, radio-equipped police and civil defense units fan out to prearranged observing points."

"But there is still a possibility that a tornado might strike in an unobserved area or that an unsuspecting community might be hit during the few minutes it takes to get the warning out," Snider said.

He added that the human eye is still the only instrument which can positively identify a tornado.

Cut from Corn-Fed Porkers! "Super-Right" Quality

43^c 53^c
lb

7 That's the number we'd like you to remember the next time you buy a Pork Loin Rib Portion.

Why?

Because that's how many ribs you'll get if you buy a
"SUPER-RIGHT" Pork Loin Rib Portion at A&P.

When you pick up the package, you can feel and count the rib bones with your fingers.

If you don't shop A&P, try counting the ribs.
If there aren't seven, you're missing select meat.
You're not getting the best value.

Because of fair practices like this,
because WE CARE about, you shouldn't A&P be your store?

We care

It takes an expert to grade beef!

In our great country we're lucky. Our government trains and employs experts men who inspect and grade beef at hundreds of locations throughout the nation. They protect you—and retailers, like us.

That's why A&P is happy there's a U.S. government inspector on the premises of our meat plant serving this area.

Also important are A&P's OWN beef experts. Their job is to see to it that A&P Beef measures up to our own "SUPER-RIGHT" quality standards...

No wonder we don't hesitate to guarantee that the "SUPER-RIGHT" Beef you buy will be as flavorful and tender as you think it should be, or your money back.

You've heard it—perhaps in person or with the telephone approach. It's the get rich-quick scheme—"You have been selected to receive this offer" . . . "This is your opportunity of a lifetime" . . . "No cost to you . . . etc. REMEMBER: "FREE" doesn't always mean what the word implies. When you are offered something for nothing it behooves you to investigate thoroughly or you may pay until it hurts!

NASA Sticks to July's Apollo 11

No Moon Landing in May

SPACE CENTER, Houston, Tex. (AP) — High-level space officials have decided to send Apollo 10 around the moon for 63 hours, but man's first landing there will have to wait until the flight of Apollo 11.

A source at the Manned Spacecraft Center said the space agency officials adopted this course at a meeting yesterday.

Apollo 10 will be launched May 18, the source said, and fly into lunar orbit. Two of its crew will then fly the landing module to within 10 miles of the lunar surface, leaving the third crewman behind in the command module.

The lunar module descent stage will be jettisoned at 10 miles above the moon and the ascent stage flown up to a rendezvous with the command module. The ascent stage will be left in lunar orbit and the crew will return to earth in the command module.

JULY LANDING

A successful flight by Apollo 10 will virtually assure a moon landing attempt by Apollo 11, now scheduled for a July blastoff.

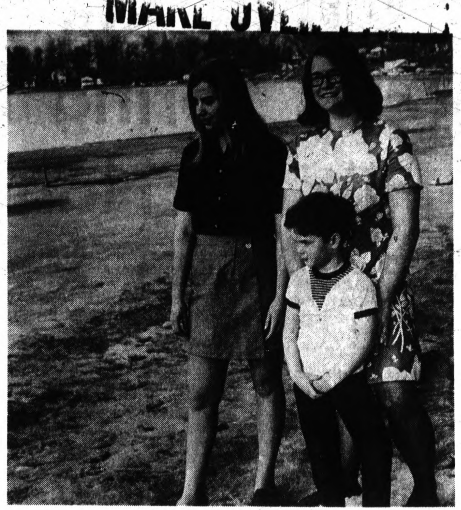

The reported decision appeared to end speculation that the first moon-landing attempt would be made by Apollo 10, without waiting for the Apollo 11 launch.

According to one source, astronaut Thomas P. Stafford, the commander of Apollo 10, had actively campaigned to have his mission attempt the moon landing. But, a source said, officials judged it would be more prudent to use Apollo 10 to gather more information about the moon and make the big try later with Apollo 11.

GRAVITATIONAL PULL

One concern is accurate tracking and orbital altitude determination. Engineers learned during Apollo 8 that differences in the gravitational pull of various areas of the moon cause altitude changes for orbiting spacecraft greater than had been noted on unmanned lunar orbiters.

The crew for Apollo 10 will be Stafford; Navy Cmdr. Eugene Cernan and Navy Cmdr. John Young, all veterans of the Gemini space flight series.

GM Recall Tops Million Vehicles

DETROIT (AP) — Three weeks after announcing the biggest vehicle recall in the automobile industry's history, General Motors is calling back another 1.1 million vehicles, this time for correction of possible brake defects. The two recalls cover 6 million cars, buses and trucks.

Linked to the latest call-back was the crash of a GM-built bus last autumn at Huntsville, Ala. which killed a 4-year-old boy and injured 24 other junior high school pupils.

On Feb. 26 GM asked owners of 4.9 million vehicles to take them back to dealers for correction of possible carburetor and exhaust-system defects. GM said then four deaths had been attributed to faulty exhaust systems.

Involved in the new call were Pontiac cars and Chevrolet and GMC trucks and buses.

GM declined comment yesterday on the crash of the General Motors bus in Alabama, but noted that an investigator for the National Highway Safety Bureau said that a seal in the bus's master brake cylinder was worn enough to cause a hydraulic pressure failure.

The report, GM said, also stated the vehicle's brake linings were worn and could have been a contributing factor to the crash.

GM also said seven accidents had been reported involving trucks, another involving a school bus and something under 20 involving the Pontiac autos—1965 and 1966 Pontiac Catalinas, Star Chiefs, Bonneville and Grand Prix models.

The autos were recalled for replacement of two front brake hoses which according to field experience could fail after extended mileage, GM said. A total of 967,000 Pontiacs were involved.

'Not Laying Base for Viet Pullout'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird told Congress today, "I see no indication that we presently have a program adequate to bring about a significant reduction in the U.S. military contribution in South Vietnam."

Just back from a personal inspection, the Pentagon chief criticized U.S. leaders in Vietnam for being oriented more toward military operations "than on assisting the South Vietnamese to acquire the means to defend themselves."

Laird's somber-toned prepared report to a closed session of the Senate Armed Services Committee also amounted to a rap at the policies of his Democratic predecessor, Clark M. Clifford.

Laird asked for another $156 million to speed modernization of South Vietnam's armed forces (RVNAF), and declared "establishment of a new objective for this modernization which has not previously existed, namely, the effective assumption by the RVNAF of a larger share of combat operations from American forces."

to allot $40 million annually to nonpublic schools.

The chamber, used only for hearings on the most controversial of bills, holds about 300 persons on the floor and in the galleries.

Indications that an overflow crowd may show up developed yesterday when organizations for and against parochial confirmed they will be out in force.

HEAD-ON CONFLICT

The Catholic-dominated Michigan Association for Nonpublic Schools is spearheading the drive for parochial. Opposition forces are led by the powerful Michigan Education Association and the Citizens to Advance Public Education. It will be their first head-on conflict since a series of public hearings last fall by a special Senate-House study unit.

The bill is sponsored by Rep. J. Robert Traxler, D-Bay City, and 34 House colleagues. Already it has caused more hearache, controversy and travail than any other proposal before the 1969 session.

The decision to hold a public hearing came as a mild surprise, since even foes of the legislation indicated such a session would accomplish little.

It is generally conceded there are enough votes in the House Education Committee, which will conduct the hearing, to propel the parochial measure onto the floor.

DECISION 'UNANIMOUS'

Rep. Lucille McCollough, D-Deerborn, committee chairman, said the decision to hold the hearing was unanimous. "After all," she said, "there are a lot of people waiting to be heard on this issue and we have a duty to listen."

However, one committee member, Rep. William Jowett, R-Port Huron, insisted the hearing would "be an exercise in futility. The bill will be reported out in spite of any hearings we hold."

The formal House session yesterday was cut to 15 minutes to allow Republicans and Democrats to hold party caucuses on major issues before the Legislature.

Only one bill was passed during that time. The measure, sent to the Senate for action, would raise from $500,000 to $600,000 revenues given to Livonia and Hazel Park for furnishing fire and police protection for racetracks here.

Laird, Packard Take ABM Before Senate Panel Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — The administration has a generally friendly forum today for the Capital Hill unveiling of its revised missile defense system.

Some $200 million in funds for deployment of the modified Sentinel system were contained in budget requests prepared by Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird for a closed hearing of the Senate Armed Services Committee.

Despite strong opposition in the Senate to any antiballistic missile (ABM) system, Armed Services is heavily weighted with supporters. Missouri Democrat Stuart Symington is the opposition's voice on the panel.

The appearance of Laird and his deputy, David Packard, was the administration's first foray onto Capital Hill in support of the ABM since President Nixon announced Friday his modifications to the Lyndon Johnson program.

INITIAL PHASE LESS

The $200 million represents about half what Johnson had sought for the initial phase of Sentinel which, under Nixon, will entail construction at two sites and procurement of 10 more.

It is the vote on these funds — expected in about two months — that will provide the test for Nixon, especially in the Senate. House leaders predict easier going if the funds make it through the Senate.

Since Friday, Nixon has picked up 10 votes in the Senate and an Associated Press survey now shows 44 votes against ABM, 35 for and 21 uncommitted.

Weather Playing Overture to Spring

With spring only a day away, the weatherman continues to provide Pontiac residents with sunshine and a seasonably mild temperatures.

The mercury in downtown Pontiac yesterday soared to 68, a high for the season.

The weatherman predicts tonight will be mild with a low of 32 to 36.

Mostly cloudy with little temperature change, with the high heading for 60 to 65, is the forecast for tomorrow. Cloudy and colder is Friday's outlook.

Probabilities of precipitation in percent are 5 today, 10 tonight and 20 tomorrow.

Low temperature was 43 in downtown Pontiac before 8 a.m. today. By 12:30 p.m. the mercury had climbed to 61.

Commissioners Hear Union, City Charges

Charges and countercharges over conduct during labor contract negotiations were hurled across the City Commission chambers in City Hall last night.

Taking up the cause for three city employee unions was lawyer Winston Livingston, who charged the city with trying to break the unions.

Livingston is representing the Pontiac Firefighters Association, Municipal Employees Association and Federation of State, County and Municipal employees. About 500 persons on the city payroll are members of the three unions.

All are working under Circuit Court order by Judge Philip Pratt after a strike was ended March 4. Negotiations are still supposed to be going on, but appeared to be stalled, it was revealed at the meeting.

The parties involved announced last week a fact-finder would be asked for from the State Labor Mediation Board. However, the three unions apparently have balked at signing the petition.

Livingston declared the unions wanted the fact-finding to be binding on both sides. Normally a fact-finder would hold hearings and issue an opinion which could be accepted or rejected and was not binding. It was not indicated the city would agree to the proposal of "binding fact-finding."

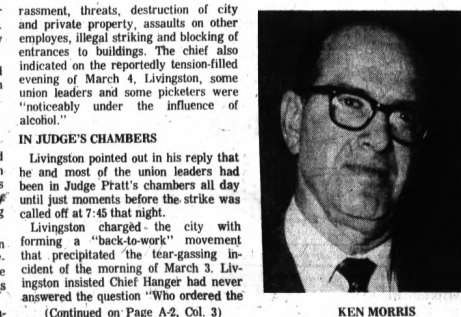

Livingston's speech to the commission was an "equal time" concession following last week's report given by Police Chief William K. Hanger, which was strongly critical of union activities.

IN JUDGE'S CHAMBERS

Livingston pointed out in his reply that he and most of the union leaders had been in Judge Pratt's chambers all day until just moments before the strike was called off at 7:45 that night.

Livingston charged the city with forming a "back-to-work" movement that precipitated the "tear-gassing incident" of the morning of March 3. Livingston insisted Chief Hanger had never answered the question "Who ordered the

Reds' Spring Thrust Hits Da Nang Area

SAIGON (AP) — The Vietcong's spring offensive ripped into South Vietnam's northern sector today as big enemy rockets slammed into a Da Nang shantytown and ground troops made heavy attacks on U.S. and South Vietnamese forces guarding the nation's second largest city.

The U.S. command also reported the massive counteroffensive by more than 10,000 American troops northwest of Saigon had killed 123 North Vietnamese soldiers yesterday in its first day of operations. One American was killed and 23 wounded, the command said, indicating most of the attacks on the enemy were by planes and artillery.

In Da Nang, 13 Vietnamese civilians were reported killed and 21 were wounded when ten 100-pound rockets exploded in the slum neighborhood around a Navy pier before dawn. It was the highest civilian toll in the four times Da Nang has been shelled since the enemy's spring offensive started Feb. 23.

A South Korean civilian working for the U.S. Navy also was killed, and three U.S. Marines were wounded.

MARINE CAMP HIT

Twenty miles south of Da Nang, 400 North Vietnamese troops laid down a mortar barrage on a U.S. Marine night camp, then stormed the camp.

The Marines fired their artillery point-blank into the charging enemy troops and reported killing 72 of them, but the fight took the lives of 12 Americans and 30 were wounded.

Two of the North Vietnamese reportedly broke through the Marine lines and ran into a mess hall carrying flamethrowers. They killed two Marines but were cut down before they could light their flamethrowers.

OTHER ATTACKS

Military spokesmen said the enemy also made several other unsuccessful attacks south of Da Nang about 2 a.m. In one, South Vietnamese rangers and infantrymen threw back an assault on Dien Ban, a key district capital 15 miles south of Da Nang.

About 30 rocket and mortar attacks against allied bases and towns were reported during the night, most of them in the northern 1st Corps military area.

One rocket attack being prepared for Saigon was blocked when two alert GIs on a watchtower observed radar traces of people moving about a mile away.

They called in mortar fire, and the radar scopes showed people running off. At dawn searching troops found six 122mm rockets aimed at the heart of Saigon.

New Jobs Cut to 115 in County Budget

The 156 new positions requested by county departments have been cut to 115 in the county's tentative budget for 1970. The Oakland County Board of Auditors yesterday made recommendations on the positions to the board of supervisors personal practices committee. Salaries for the reduced number of new jobs would total $856,034 a year compared to the previous total of $1,161,676. Another $85,000 has been set aside for emergency salaries, $91,200 for the employment of school co-op students, and a $300,000 reserve earmarked for overtime reserve.

The figures do not take into consideration raises asked in several departments.

SOUGHT TO DOUBLE STAFF

Plunkett asked to double his current staff in a "new approach to law enforcement." Auditor Robert Lilly said his department had compromised with the figure of seven in order to "tackle new programs on a slower basis."

"With a change of philosophy, the best way to prove programs is the slower and surer method," Lilly said.

Also slashed was the position of Circuit Court attorney who would have served as a coordinator in the circuit courts at a salary of between $25,000 and $28,000 a year.

"It's an administrative position," according to Daniel T. Murphy, chairman of the board of auditors, adding that the circuit courts already have an administrator.

The sheriff's department requested for 16 new positions was okayed. However, following a recommendation by the Michigan jail inspector, the number of new turnkeys was increased from three to five. The personnel practices committee then dropped the number of new deputies from nine to seven.

The decisions made yesterday will affect the county's temporary budget due in April. Auditors and committee members noted that further changes could occur before the final budget is adopted in October.

Naval Buildup Is Urged in U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — An aging U.S. naval fleet and a lackluster shipbuilding program here allowed the Soviet Union to cut into United States superiority on the high seas, a House subcommittee said today.

The House Armed Services subcommittee on seapower says in a report prepared for release today that the United States no longer enjoys a clear-cut military and technological advantage over the Soviets in naval matters.

"In this new environment, our present and past methods must be subjected to ruthless appraisal," says the report, the result of seven hearings and staff visits to 13 major shipyards and ship repair facilities.

The report recommends that a well-balanced construction program, extended over a period of years, start immediately.

1969 NEEDS CITED

The subcommittee said the Navy should by the 1980s have a fleet of 800 modern ships, which should include 41 Polaris submarines.

The report said the Navy has requested 100 nuclear attack submarines to replace the 60 diesel-powered underwater craft now in use.

Now, it said, the average age of U.S. Navy ships is 17 1/2 years, and 58 per cent of its combat ships are at least 20 years old. In contrast, it said less than 1 per cent of Soviet Navy ships are that old.

Eileen Andreson Has Her Eye On A City Hall Office

Miniskirted Mother Seeks Los Angeles Mayor's Job

LOS ANGELES (U) — A comely red-haired housewife who says Los Angeles "deserves a swinging mayor" is going after the job with green stockings, songs and miniskirts.

"Politicians are asleep on the job," Eileen Nora Andreson tells political rallies. Then she launches into song: "I would like to do lots of good things for this great big city."

"Lower all your taxes, do away with smog and pity."

"Legalize gambling and control it by the city."

"Take the burden off the taxpayer — today."

"Yeh. Yeh. Yeh."

A NEW APPROACH

Eileen admits "It's a new approach." So is her garb: green mesh opera hose, green miniskirts to accent her long flowing red hair and green eyes. "People remember me."

Eileen, 5-foot-4 mother of three, with a 37-24-34 figure, is one of 13 candidates trying to unseat Mayor Sam Yorty on this city's April primary.

"I feel very qualified," she says, in her clipped British accent. "I've fought city hall before."

She once fought her own auto-injury case against her insurance company. In open court, she whipped off an outer garment and stood before the startled jury clad only in a swimsuit. "To show my scars," The jury awarded her the decision and she sang "God Bless America" to the judge.

AGREED TO SETTLE

When the insurance company appealed, she picked its offices in a swimsuit. Police challenged her garb, or lack of it. Eileen won a city permit to continue, and the insurance company agreed to settle for $14,000.

Concerned about smog, she wore a mermaid costume to appear before the county's air pollution board. Her smog solution: "Dig a hole through the San Gabriel mountains and fan the air out."

Does Eileen have a chance in the race? "My name's first on the ballot. And my mother, who reads tea leaves, says I will."

Eileen's husband, Bill, says "I'm trying to keep my sense of humor."

U.S., Polish Ships Hit

DEAL, England (AP) — An American freighter and a Polish ship collided in dense fog today off England's southeast coast, and the American crew began to abandon ship, the coast guard reported.

The coast guard said the ships were the 8,189-ton Garden City and the 10,500-ton Polish government steamship Zaglębie Dabrowskie.

No further details were immediately available.

The Garden City is owned by T. J. Stevenson & Co. of New York.

Man is Charged in 'Child Beating'

A Waterford Township man was charged last night with beating his nearly 2-year-old daughter because she refused to eat.

Donald A. VanLaven, 36, of 7025 Redmond was arrested by Oakland County sheriff's deputies on a charge of felonious assault. He is being held in the Oakland County Jail for arraignment.

His wife, Shirley, told deputies that her husband threw the child, Carol, from the dining to living room and hit her with his hands and belt after she refused to eat dinner on Monday.

He forced her jaws open and shut, causing her to bite her tongue, according to Mrs. VanLaven. She said she tried to stop him.

The child has been admitted to Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital for observation. She suffered bruises over most of her body and a possible concussion, deputies said.

Deaf-Mute Athlete $800 Shy of Goal

A campaign to send a deaf-mute employee of the Fisher Body plant in Pontiac to the Deaf Olympics in Belgrade, Yugoslavia, is $800 short of its goal.

The total amount needed by April 1 is $1,800. The money will send Edward S. Wright Jr., 24, of 158 Whittemore to the games if it is collected in time.

The fund is being handled by UAW Local 596 President Donald Johnson. Checks or cash should be sent to the local office at 821 Baldwin or turned over to Johnson, he said.

Wright did well in previous competition and set three records in qualifying events which made him eligible for the International Games for the Deaf, which will be held in Belgrade Aug. 9-16.

Commission Hears Union, City Charges

tear gas" as he had been directed to by the City Commission.

Following Livingston's presentation, two other officials joined the chorus of accusations. Speaking for the city was Gilbert Cox, Detroit lawyer and chief negotiator for the city, and Ken Morris, regional director of the UAW.

Cox vigorously defended the city negotiating team and Morris berated the city for using "neanderthal" union-busting tactics.

HEADING NEGOTIATIONS

Cox has been heading city negotiations since the city's other hired negotiator, David Burgess, 54, a Detroit lawyer from the same firm, was stricken with a heart attack. Burgess has been released from the hospital and reportedly is recuperating in Florida.

Cox's defense of the city was met with repeated heckling from the capacity audience of about 200 persons last night. Cox repeated Hanger's allegations of misconduct on the part of the union. He also started to quote what he termed the "reasonable" offer of the city to the unions.

French Vote Illegal?

PARIS (AP) — An opinion that one phase of President Charles de Gaulle's referendum April 27 is unconstitutional is not expected to change the government's plans.

The referendum is to endorse De Gaulle's plans to create regional governments with some of the central government's powers, and to convert the Senate into a consultative body, removing its powers of delaying legislation.

He was stopped by Mayor William H. Taylor Jr. who cautioned him about "negotiating at the commission meeting."

Taylor also had to interrupt UAW leader Morris for the same thing. Morris warned that the city's alleged "union-busting tactics held dire consequences." He said the city was manifesting "a dedicated hatred of labor unions," and posed the question, "If you would do that (use gas) on your own employees, what would you do to the members of the UAW in this community?"

Morris warned the dispute "will not end here... many changes must take place."

From all indications the unions and the city were very close to agreement but no further bargaining sessions outside of the offer to go to fact-finding was reported as pending.

Birmingham

Citizens Group Pushing 'Yes' for School Vote

SI CITIZENS GROUP NL Citizens' for BIRMINGHAM — The Citizens' for Birmingham Schools, has launched a "vote yes" campaign in support of the school district's upcoming millage and bond election.

Nearly 1,000 volunteers will attempt to visit every resident in the district to explain why the millage and bond issue is needed.

The citizens committee also has scheduled more than 20 informational meetings at schools in the district to explain the school board's ballot proposals. A member of the Board of Education, a representative of the school administration and a citizen from the supporting committee are appearing at each meeting.

MARCH 24 VOTE

The Birmingham Board of Education has two proposals on the March 24 ballot.

One is a building bond proposal for $4.5 million that would allow expansion of both of the district's high schools, Seaholm and Groves. The expansion is needed to meet increased enrollments, school officials say.

Voters also will be asked to approve a one-year proposal of 11 mills for operation. This includes a renewal of 7.5 mills that expires this year and an increase of 3.5 mills.

The purpose of our committee is to get out the 'yes' votes on March 24," said Daniel Burlingame, chairman of Citizens for Birmingham schools.

QUALITY EDUCATION

"The residents of this district always have desired quality education, and we expect they will continue to support the system by approving the requested millage."

John Blackhall Smith, superintendent of the Birmingham school district, told the Board of Education last night he will have curriculum recommendations for the 1969-70 school year ready for board action April 1.

The recommendations will include course additions to the curriculum faculty additions, new teaching procedures and equipment needs.

Smith said the special school election will help determine the priorities and extent of the curriculum and school operation recommendations.

Representatives of various curriculum and study committees discussed proposed recommendations with the board at last night's meeting.

The Birmingham-Bloomfield League of Women Voters will hold a "Candidates Night" at 8 p.m. March 27 in the Community House.

The program will give residents an opportunity to meet and question candidates for the Birmingham City Commission and the Baldwin Library Board before the Municipal election April 7.

Candidates will speak on local issues and will be available for informal questioning and discussion. All nine City Commission candidates and the three Baldwin Library Board aspirants will be present.

Brazil Floods Subside

RECIFE, Brazil (AP) — After six days of torrential rains, skies were clear over northeastern Brazil today and flood waters began to subside. Unofficial reports said hundreds had died and 40,000 were homeless.

Officials feared a typhoid epidemic. Reports from Maceio said health officials had discovered two cases in Sao Jose de Lage, the most severely inundated town along the flooded Mandau River.

Malaysia Claim Denied

KOTA KINABALU, Malaysia (AP) — Filipino troops are massing on island near the Malaysian state of Sabah and may use force to take over the disputed Borneo territory, Deputy Prime Minister Tun Abdul Razak said today.

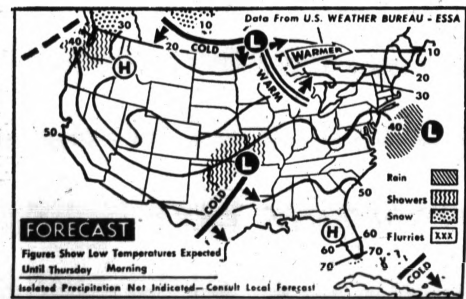

The charge was quickly denied by Gen. Manuel T. Yan, armed forces chief of staff in Manila, who said: "We have done no such thing."

Rochester Schools Ask Voters

ROCHESTER — A questionnaire designed to probe citizen opinions in the wake of last month's bond issue election failure is being circulated in this district. Survey, which questions citizens about their ideas on the district's classroom crowding problem, is designed to furnish the board of education with information both on attitudes about the bond issue and on the extent to which residents are informed, according to Superintendent Douglas Lund.

The vote tally was 1,967 yes and 2,651 no.

It begins by asking whether residents are satisfied with the job the schools are doing and whether they are aware that enrollment in the district is increasing at the rate of about 600 students a year.

Then the survey asks, "How did you receive most of your information about this (Feb. 8) bond issue?" offering word of mouth, the school newsletter, citizens' committee presentations and local newspapers as choices.

Questions delving into the bond issue failure in more depth follow:

- "Why do you think the Feb. 8 bond proposal failed?"

- "If you were a member of the board of education, how would you provide for this enrollment increase? Crowd more students into the present classrooms? Ask the voters again for funds to build classrooms on a short-term basis? Ask the voters again for funds to build classrooms to take care of the next five years' growth? Run schools on half-day or split sessions?"

The survey concludes by asking whether citizens need more information about the schools and, if so, how such information should be provided.

Three Board Seats Will Be Vacant in June Election

ROCHESTER — Two members of the board of education have announced their intention not to run for reelection in the annual board elections in June, and a third has submitted his resignation from the board, effective April 30.

Board President Robert Ludwig and Trustee Dr. Robert Williamson have said they will not campaign again, according to Assistant Supt. Richard Huizenga.

Ludwig cited the demands of board membership, including travel and evening meetings, in his announcement, while Williamson, a faculty member at Oakland University, will take a sabbatical for study, Huizenga said.

Three seats on the board will thus be vacant in the June 9 election, two for four-year terms and one for two years, the remainder of McAlpine's term.

Huizenga said the board hopes to fill the vacancy created by McAlpine's resignation on a temporary basis prior to the election.

Legislator Promotes Walled Lake Stadium

LANSING — Members of the House have received copies of a 30-page, slick-paper brochure entitled: "The Stadium Story: A Metro-dome for Michigan."

Rep. Clifford H. Smart, R-Walled Lake, who passed out the brochure yesterday, told legislators, "You're going to have to make a decision on Walled Lake."

Mrs. Edwards has served the Institute for many years in various volunteer capacities. She is president of Roper Lower School Parent-Teacher-Friends Association, a trustee of the Drayton Plains Nature Center and a member of the Junior League of Detroit. Avon Planners to Meet

Hearings on Rezoning Tonight

AVON TOWNSHIP — Public hearings on two rezoning requests are scheduled at the township planning commission meeting tonight at 7:30 at the Township Hall.

Both requests are from Weinberger Homes, 3901 Highland, Waterford Township.

The first asks rezoning of 43 acres in Section 17, south of Walton and west of Old Perch from R-1A single-family residential to R-1B single-family residential (smaller lot size) to allow construction of a "planned neighborhood group" development.

The planned neighborhood group, a township zoning classification, would allow lot sizes as small as 12,000 square feet in the development, provided not less than four acres of property is set aside for green space or parks.

The second request, involving property south of Walton between Rosedale and Rochester Knolls in Section 16, would permit office usage in a 300-foot-deep strip along Walton.

Also included is a proposed expansion in 100-foot-wide strips on three sides of a neighboring multiple development. The rest of the 60-acre parcel, rezoned several years ago to single-family at the request of the petitioner, would be developed on that basis.

Also on tonight's agenda is a request from L. R. Hafstad of Bloomfield Hills to permit construction of a multiple development in 400-foot-wide strips on the north and west sides of the new Rochester Adams High School, presently under construction at Tienken and Adams.

Trash-Burning Ban Announced

Rochester Fire Chief Lyle Buchanan yesterday announced a ban on all open burning (without containers) until further notice in Rochester, Avon Township and Oakland Township.

Trash burning in approved containers will not be permitted between 9 a.m. and 9 p.m., Buchanan added.

The fire chief, noting that about 100 grass fires have been reported in the area in the past week, said the ban was issued jointly by the Rochester, Avondale, Oakland Township and Brooklands fire departments, and that citations would be issued for violations.

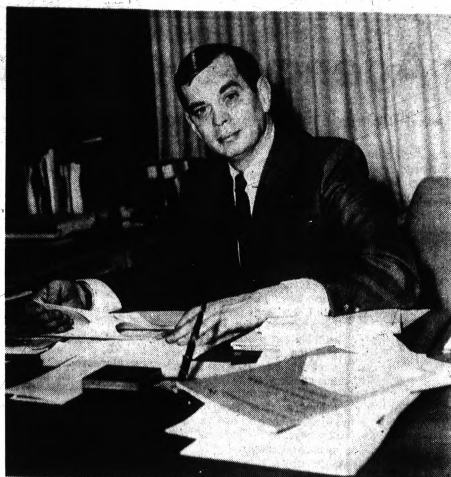

Bid Opening May 16 on S. Lyon Post Office

SOUTH LYON — Congressman Jack McDonald, R-19th District, has announced that bids will be opened May 16 at 10 a.m. for a new post office on Lafayette between Liberty and Layton streets.

The new facility, privately owned, will be leased by the Post Office Department on a 20-year basis, with six five-year renewal options.

The interior of the building will cover 5,410 square feet with 510 square feet for the platform and loading area and another 6,675 square feet devoted to parking and maneuvering space.

The bid opening is set for room 914 of the Post Office in Detroit.

Phillip Runkel Has A Method For Selling Taxes

This School Chief Is Master Salesman

UTICA—Since school taxes remain as one of the few remaining items over which the voter still has control, the job of selling taxes is no simple task.

Phillip Runkel, who is paid $26,500 annually to run the ever-expanding Utica Community School System has his own method of persuading voters. His answer to the money problem—total communication with the school district.

The 38-year-old administrator, who was elevated to the superintendent's post five years ago from a junior high principalship, has successfully shepherded a $15.5-million building program through the polls.

He is now laying the foundation for a further bond-financed building program.

COMMITTEE ROLE CITED

Runkel believes the work of a citizens advisory committee, which made many of the recommendations for the last bond issue package, has been responsible for much of the success in keeping the Utica-School System growing in proportion to its increasing population. Population in the Utica area has nearly doubled in six years.

Committees have long been Runkel's chief communication link with the public. He figures by attempting to involve all aspects of the community in school district business, finding community accord on money matters can be a lot easier.

Runkel currently has five committees in operation, covering a broad range of subjects including finance, legislation, elementary curricula, feasibility of establishing year-round school and curricular research centers.

The committees range in size from 50 to 200 persons.

MANY IDEAS ADOPTED

Runkel noted that not necessarily all recommendations developed by the committees are acceptable to the school board, but a good percentage have been adopted in one form or another, particularly those recommendations from the finance building and legislation committees.

"The important element in the committee principle is that we are attempting to give as many people as possible a voice in the operation of their schools."

"And at the same time the board—via the committees—gains a wider perspective into the district's operation and needs which certainly leads toward making responsible decisions," Runkel explained.

The board of education recently has charged the administration with hopefully carrying out a repeat performance by another citizens advisory committee.

PUBLIC REQUEST

Runkel has issued a public request that any person who is interested in the welfare of the school district join the citizens committee. More than 400 persons from 200 organizations in the Utica Community schools are being contacted.

"In order for the citizens advisory group to do its work objectively and responsibly, it is important the membership represent a cross-section of interests and points of view," said the school chief.

Runkel and his committees have their work cut out for them. Current estimates project an enrollment of 28,000 in the Utica School District by 1973 and 41,000 within 10 years. Current enrollment is 18,400.

Jurist From County

Woman Heads Judges Group

A woman judge from Oakland County has been elected president of the newly organized Michigan District Judges Association.

The post was won by District Judge Alice L. Gilbert, one of three women judges among the 150 members in the statewide organization.

Judge Gilbert's jurisdiction is the 48th District which includes the cities of Birmingham, Sylvan Lake, Keego Harbor, Orchard Lake and Bloomfield Hills, and the townships of Bloomfield and West Bloomfield.

A justice of the peace for eight years before her election as a district judge in November, Mrs. Gilbert had served as acting chairman of the association since its inception in December.

Bylaws and a constitution drafted under her guidance were adopted during the organizational meeting in Lansing over the weekend.

Heating Work at 3 Avondale Schools OK'd

The Avondale Board of Education has approved plans for the renovation of heating controls at three elementary schools.

Schools Supt. John W. Dickey said the renovation contract with Honeywell Inc. will include installation of a number of new controls and instruments and repairs at Auburn Heights, Elmwood and Stiles schools at a cost of $7,417.

The cost, the superintendent predicted, will be "recovered in savings on fuel over a very short time."

The contract also provides for labor on installation and replacement of equipment to be provided at no charge and free maintenance service for one year, Dickey said.

ADDITION APPROVED

In other recent business, the board approved addition of a gate-valve to the water main being constructed to the district's new high school on Waukegan in Pontiac Township.

The gate-valve will be used to provide convenient access to the main for Avondale Junior High School, which will also be converted to the Detroit water supply in the future. The junior high school at 2900 Waukegan is currently supplied by well water, Dickey said.

"It was more economical to provide the valve now, while the main is being constructed, rather than go to the expense of a tap-in later," he explained.

The board also awarded contracts for replacements for two school buses. The new vehicles will have bodies by Ward Body of Michigan Inc., with General Motors chassis, and will cost $7,405 each, according to Dickey.

State GOP Panel Meets Saturday

U.S. Rep. Jack McDonald, R-19th District, will be the featured speaker Saturday at the Republican State Central Committee meets at Botsford Inn, Farmington, for the first time since the GOP state convention last month, McDonald will speak following an 8:30 a.m. brunch.

The committee will host a reception honoring Rep. William F. Hampton of Bloomfield Hills, minority floor leader of the State House of Representatives, Friday night.

Man Shot Fleeing Burglarly Gets Jail

A Detroit man who was shot fleeing from the scene of a burglary in Birmingham in January was sentenced yesterday to 3 to 5 years in the state prison at Jackson.

Oakland County Circuit Judge Frederick C. Ziem ordered the imprisonment of John T. Hopkins Jr., 41, a month after he had pleaded guilty to attempted breaking and entering of the Maxwell Texaco Service Station, 1599 N. Woodward.

Hopkins was captured in a wooded area about a mile from the gas station after two Michigan State Police troopers had spotted him inside the troopers.

He was wounded in the right shoulder by Trooper Charles Anderson of the Pontiac post during a foot chase through the northern section of the city.

Hopkins had been charged with breaking and entering but was allowed to plead guilty to the lesser offense.

Authorities said that Hopkins has seven previous burglary convictions and has been in prison five times.

Letters Request Flanderses Leave Florida More Advice After Vacation by-the-Sea About Subject

Of The Emily Post Institute

I received several letters requesting amplification of my answer about receiving visitors when the deceased has donated his body to a medical school for research.

Naturally, there can be no "viewing" of the body. But this should not in any way prevent relatives and friends from calling to pay their respects. Many people object to having to see the body in any case, and one of the main reasons for having calling hours is so that friends may offer sympathy and support.

Nor is it necessary to have the body present in order to hold a funeral or memorial service.

The choice is up to the family of the deceased. If they do not wish to receive friends, they simply do not mention visiting hours in the death notice. If they do receive visitors, the notice is written in the usual way and the reason for the absence of the body is explained by a friend or relative at the door.

MONOGRAMS

Dear Mrs. Post: Is there a rule governing patterns on dinnerware? On page 174 of your Etiquette, I note the statement, "The service plates with the pattern properly positioned . . ." But nowhere do I find what that position is. Also, is there anything covering patterns on cups and saucers? Most of the illustrations seem to skirt this by showing plates without pattern, or plates with all-over-patterns.—Ruth.

Dear Ruth: The next revision of Etiquette will contain more specific information on china with a "readable" pattern.

When dinner plates have a monogram or a "picture" as a pattern, the plate should always be in such a position that the design is right-side up for the person sitting at that place. Monogrammed cups and glasses should have the initials toward the diner.

Widow Considering Idea of Convenience Plan

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am 52 and I have been keeping fairly steady company with a man who is 60. He's very considerate, generous, and I certainly appreciate his company, after having been a lonely widow for four years.

He asked me if I would like to move in and keep house for him so we can find out if we are "compatible" before trying marriage. He says there is nothing wrong with it at our ages.

I refused. Was I foolish? Lately I have been reconsidering his proposition. I don't enjoy being alone. He has money and could get plenty of other women on his terms.

Can you help me come to a decision?

LEXINGTON LADY

DEAR LADY: I say, let some other woman have the pleasure of "moving in" with him to find out if she is "compatible." Respectable couples of all ages still marry before they live together. If you want to be a "housekeeper" with sleeping privileges, it's up to you.

DEAR ABBY: My father-in-law likes to tell about the only time in his life he made a mistake, and that was when he "thought" he was wrong, and then found out he wasn't.

My former roommate was a public health nurse in San Francisco, and her job was to call on welfare cases to see if the children were properly fed and clothed.

She told me (and there was no reason for her to lie) that about half the children were adequately cared for, but she usually found plenty of cigarettes, beer and liquor in the home, and oftentimes a man in the bedroom. She said one mother had 12 illegitimate children. She got $800 a month, which was maximum, so she put her 13-year-old daughter to work starting a new family.

Abby, $148 (tax free) for one child, plus $1 per day, times 30 days per month, times five or six children, plus free housing, medical care, and food stamps, equals what some working men have to raise their families on. I am not saying that anyone is getting rich on welfare, but I wonder what would happen if these women were required to rise and shine at 6 a.m. and go to work in order to raise their illegitimate children.

You were right the first time when you said you thought that any woman who bears more than one illegitimate child should be taken off welfare. By apologizing for your original statement, I believe you made your first mistake.

MRS. R. C. M., JR.
GLENDALE, CALIF.

DEAR MRS. R. C. M., JR.: You're mighty kind, ma'am, but if my original statement was a mistake, it wasn't my first.

DEAR ABBY: We are childless after 10 years of marriage, although we would dearly love to have a family. We go out with people about our ages and most of them have children.

Whenever we meet new people, the conversation invariably turns to children. I am often asked, point-blank, "Do you have any children?" It is becoming more and more painful to reply no. WHY do people ask this?

Don't they realize that parents always mention their children if they have any?

I have even been asked, after having remarked that I have no children, "WHY NOT?" Abby, this has been a very painful subject for me, and I'd rather not discuss it. Can you say something to stop people from asking such cruel questions?

HURT

DEAR HURT: Most cruel questions stem from ignorance. Your best defense is to develop a stiff upper lip, a tougher hide, and believe it or not, compassion for people who don't know any better.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, care of The Pontiac Press, Dept. E-600, P. O. Box 9, Pontiac, Mich. 48066, and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Children's Camps Keep 'Em Busy, Busy

By PATRICIA MCCORMACK

NEW YORK (AP) — If camp blurs are accurate, youngsters won't have much time on their seats this summer in front of television.

It isn't unusual for a camp to promise, in its brochure: all land and water sports, individual athletic, attention, water skiing, sailing, surfing, swimming, horseback riding, golf, canoe trips, socials, bowling, hikes, pioneering, ham radio, go-karting, hockey, rocketry, judo, karate, and sometimes tutoring.

SPECIALTY CAMPS

Waterford Unit Hosts District Meeting

The Waterford unit of Michigan Jayettes will play hosts at tonight's spring district 12 meeting. Members attending will be coming from Clarkston, Davisburg, Holly, Ortonville, Pontiac, Rochester and Auburn Heights.

State president, Mrs. Al Formicola, executive vice president, Mrs. William Ames and district 12 vice president, Mrs. Robert Tilly will be guests.

On the agenda for the evening in Grayson School, are the naming of district 12 outstanding Jayette and the group's outstanding project.

Included also will be the finals of the district "Speak Up" contest and the election of a new district vice president. Mrs. Lyle Kitzridge and Mrs. Chuck Wood are cochairmen.

You can send your child to camp in Japan, Israel and a dozen other countries. Some of these offer work experiences. In Israel, for example, a teenager gets the chance to pick fruit.

In listings for teen-age campers in the Shaker Village work group in Pittsfield, Mass., those accepted help to operate a restored early American village.

Lincoln Farm in Roscoe, N.Y., is one also for teen-agers who have outgrown conventional camps. Craft workshops include auto mechanics, candlemaking, and construction. Under the latter program, a 10-room house is built each summer.

Among questions parents should ask, however, is this one:

"Is my boy or girl ready to leave home?"

Condition children by arranging short overnight stays away from home in the months before the first-time camping experience.

Authorities also recommend that you visit the camp and talk with the director. If possible, communicate with parents of children who have camped there and also with one or two previous campers.

Once you've packed child off to suitable camp, the next worry is — letters from camp.

Though many children would prefer to call home (collect) rather than write, experienced camp managers have gotten around the problem in assorted ways.

The most interesting technique is one making a letter to home the admission ticket to movies or some other fun events during the week.

But even that isn't foolproof. My son went to such a camp one summer and we received a number of sealed envelopes with blank paper inside.

The association's annual geranium sale will be held at The Pontiac Mall May 22 and 23. A workshop in preparation for the sale will be hosted Monday by Mrs. Frank Bonner.

Mrs. G. W. Stark entertained the group in her Cranbrook Lane home. She was assisted by Mrs. A. L. Hulet and Mrs. Curtis E. Patton.

TALUS Gets OK to Seek Added Funds

DETROIT (AP)—The administrative committee of the Transportation and Land Use Study has authorized Irving J. Rubin, TALUS director, to seek more funds to complete the study by Aug. 8.

The action came after a two-month controversy during which the committee insisted no more money was needed.

Rubin said he would immediately apply to the Department of Housing and Urban Development for a $100,000 grant and also seek other sources of revenue. Rubin admitted he might not get the money, which would delay completion of the study past Aug. 8.

If this happens, Detroit could lose a $2.6-million federal grant to be used for building a proposed new bus terminal.

ALREADY IMPOSSIBLE? Rubin said the two-month delay may already have made it impossible to complete the study on time.

Aug. 8 is the date set for completion of only part of the study of southeastern Michigan transportation needs. It will take another four months and an additional $550,000 to finish the study, according to the master plan.

Rubin said he would report back on the results of his money hunt at a March 28 meeting.

Two Men Held in Area Holdup

Two men are being held in Oakland County jail in connection with the beating and robbing of an Orion Township gas station attendant early this morning.

Arrested on charges of armed robbery were Gary H. Bailey, 27, of 745 W. Class, Brandon Township, and George E. Finer, 26, of 24 Mill, Oxford.

The pair was chased by Oakland County Sheriff's deputies after they allegedly beat attendant Larry G. Roberts of the Clark station, 799 S. Lapeer, and escaped with an undetermined amount of money.

Roberts, who was treated at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital and released, told deputies the pair knocked him down, kicked him and beat him with bottles.

After his assailants left, Roberts called the sheriff's department and deputies were rushed to the scene. One deputy spotted and chased the escape car, but lost it.

Later, Deputies Harry Earp and Carl Raymond in another car spotted the suspect's car in a driveway at 1375 Indian Lake and arrested the two men. The deputies said they found more than $83 in the car.

Report Due on Waterford Millage Effort

A report on personal contact campaigning by citizens supporting a millage increase is scheduled at tomorrow night's meeting of the Waterford Township School Board.

Otherwise, routine business dominates the agenda for the 7:30 p.m. meeting at the school district administrative offices, 6020 Pontiac Lake.

The board will hear financial statements for February from the district office and the food service department and will be asked to approve accounts payable for March.

Owners Pondering Super Bowl Site

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — The owners of the 26 National and American league professional football teams momentarily put aside their debate over realignment today to hear bids by two cities seeking to stage the 1970 Super Bowl game.

Representatives from Miami, site of the last two championship games between the AFL and NFL, and New Orleans were sent to present their arguments at a joint session of league owners.

Rozelle, hoping a decision will be forthcoming at this meeting, said he was not in the least surprised that the matter is taking so long to settle.

He recalled the period when the NFL was restructuring its 16 teams into divisions of four.

"It took us three days of about 16 hours each day to break the two eights into four fours," he noted.

DIFFERENT VARIATIONS

In separate meetings, the two leagues have dealt at length with "any number of variations of the realignment, Rozelle said.

He added that he felt it was better that each league reach an agreement within its own family before convening in a joint meeting.

"It's better to have 16 and 10 clubs battling than 26 at one time," the commissioner said with a broad smile.

Underneath the controversy is the interpretation of the word realignment as used in the original merger agreement of June 8, 1966.

He interjected the statement that the present squabble is not related to the outcome of the 1969 Super Bowl game in which the AFL New York Jets surprised the NFL Baltimore Colts 16-7.

There are at least three AFL owners who contend the merger agreement specifically called for total realignment, thus eliminating the AFL as an identity of itself.

They are Paul Brown of the Cincinnati Bengals, Gerald Phipps of the Denver Broncos and Joseph Robbie of Miami.

UCLA Meets Drake

NCAA Semifinals Are Slated

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Coach Maury John of Drake doesn't plan a slowdown or a stall against top-ranked UCLA and its superstar, Lew Alcindor, when the free-wheeling Bulldogs clash with the Bruins in the semifinals of the NCAA basketball championships Thursday night.

The Uclans, 27-1 and aiming for a record third-straight national title, will be heavy favorites against Drake, 25-4, in the second game of a doubleheader. Fourth-ranked North Carolina, 27-3, meets No. 6 Purdue, 22-4, in the opener of the twinbill at 7:40 p.m., EST. The survivors play for the championship Saturday at 4:15 p.m. All games will be televised by NBC-TV.

John, John Wooden of UCLA, Dean Smith of North Carolina and George King of Purdue were interviewed in a long distance telephone hookup Tuesday before embarking for Louisville.

John said, "I realize we're playing a Tigers' Rookie Lefty Sharp in Relief

Bengals Drop 6-2 Decision to Philadelphia

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP) — Working out with the Detroit Tigers this spring is a change of pace for Mike Kilkenny, and if the 24-year-old left-hander succeeds in winning a spot as relief pitcher his change-up will play no small part.

Kilkenny pitched three innings of no-hit ball against the Philadelphia Phillies Tuesday as the World Champion Tigers lost 6-2 in exhibition baseball.

Kilkenny walked two men in his three-inning stint, and struck two out, both of them on change-of-pace pitches.

"I used to change up a lot late last year when I was pitching with Toledo," Kilkenny said. "Then I got it down pat in winter ball this year."

MOVED UP

Kilkenny pitched last year at Montgomery in the Class AA Southern League, but was called up to Toledo near the end of the season, where he sported a 1.20 earned run average as a reliever.

The 6-foot-4 southpaw said he had been aided in his overarm delivery by pitching coach Johnny Sain, catcher Bill Freehan and catching coach Hal Naragon.

"He's improving all along," said manager Mayo Smith. "His fast ball's getting better velocity-wise and he throws some good changes."

One of Kilkenny's two strikeouts was suffered by Richie Allen, who had slammed a solo home run in the third-inning on a pitch served up by last season's 31-game winner Denny McLain.

BIG INNING

McLain, given the loss in the exhibition season record book, also was tagged for a three-run blast by Bill White, which highlighted the five-run second inning for the Phillies.

The only noise the Tigers could manage with their bats was in the fourth inning when Jim Northrup doubled home Norm Cash and Dick Tracy knocked in Willie Horton.

Kilkenny is accorded a good chance of making the team, filling the spot left when lefty reliever Jon Warden was drafted in the American League expansion by Kansas City.

super team, but I don't plan to make any drastic changes in our style of play. The only thing, perhaps, is that we may be a little more conservative offensively. I feel we have the ability to score."

Willie McCarter, a senior guard, is the Drake star.

LEADING PLAYER

"Willie has developed into a more complete player," John said. "He's an excellent outside shooter, he's quick, and he's averaging seven assists and 20 points per game. He's the backbone of our club."

Wooden maintained that he has a five-man team, not a one-man gang but he admitted, "We do try to get Alcindor in close to the basket. And, if we can get him in a one-on-one situation, well, it might be difficult for the other team to handle him."

The 7-foot-1 Alcindor, two-time player of the year and three-time All-American, comes into the game with a 24.1 scoring average and 14.5 rebounds a game.

Gary Odom, a rugged 6-8 Drake senior, likely will be the man assigned to guard Alcindor.

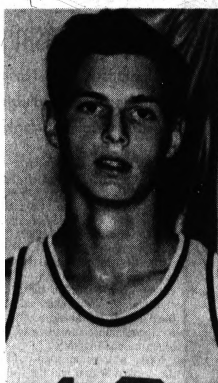

INJURY PROBLEMS

Both John and Wooden said that their teams are in good physical shape but Purdue and North Carolina both have injury problems.

King said that 7-foot center Chuck Bavis definitely is lost to Purdue with a muscle separation in his shoulder.

Herman Gilliam, the Boilermakers' No. 2 scorer, is doubtful with an Achilles tendon injury.

Dick Grubar, a senior guard and North Carolina's top defensive player, is lost with a knee injury. He originally was counted on to guard Rick Mount, Purdue's All-American.

READY RESERVE — John Hamill is the No. 1 backcourt replacement for West Bloomfield's basketball team which will play Bay City All Saints tonight in a Class B quarter-final game at Grand Blanc. The game will start at 7:30.

Kings Nip Seals on Ted Irvine's Hat Trick, 3-2

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Oakland Seals wonder where Ted Irvine was earlier this season and why he didn't stay there.

The Los Angeles Kings' 6-foot-1 left wing scored all three goals for his first National Hockey League hat trick as the Kings edged the Seals 3-2 in Tuesday night's NHL game.

The victory gave the Kings a 4-2 edge over the West Division's second-place team, but Los Angeles trails Oakland by seven points.

Irvine came alive to score the final goal in a 4-3 King victory over the Seals on Feb. 28. His hat trick gave him 15 for the season.

Irvine exploded for his first two goals in less than 30 seconds at 7:09 and 7:38 of the first period and extended the Kings lead to 3-0 midway in the second session.

Brothers Share Spotlight in Tourney Quarter-Finals

By The Associated Press

Michigan high school basketball has seen a lot of brother acts, but never before have two coaching brothers managed to get their teams into the state quarter-finals in the same year.

For Sam and Lefty Franz, coaches at Saginaw St. Stephens and Bay City All Saints, that's only one of two unique aspects to the 1969 season. The other is that for the first time they could pull for each other all the time, never trying to beat each other.

Sam, who has been coach at St. Stephen for three years after spending 18 years at nearby St. Mary, and Lefty—who coached at Bay City St. Stanislaus for 16 years before it merged with two other schools and formed the class B Bay City All Saints — face two of the toughest assignments in tonight's quarter-final round.

St. Stephen, unbeaten at 20-0 and ranked second among the state's class C powers, faces Manistee Catholic Central, which is riding an 18-game win streak, while All Saints, rated No. 10 in class B meets sixth-ranked Orchard Lake-West Bloomfield at Grand Blanc.

GAVE UP POST

A third Franz brother recently gave up coaching after three years at Saginaw St. Andrew. "Don't see the only smart one in the family," says the 49-year-old Sam, but friends don't take him seriously.

They do take him seriously when he says he's worried about tonight's game at Mount Pleasant. "All I can do is say an undefeated team is sort of a hex," he said. "But I hope we can keep it going at least to East Lansing."

Another kind of challenge is faced by brother Lefty, 45, at Grand Blanc. He and West Bloomfield coach Art Paddy were the best of buddies when Paddy coached Bay City Central back in the 1950's.

Their teams—one class A and one class C—never played, but they scrimmaged regularly. Lefty saw his old friend for the first time in eight years last Saturday when he high-tailed it down the freeway to watch West Bloomfield win its regional title.

BRIEF REUNION

After a brief friendly reunion, the pair will be going full-blast after each other tonight.

If Lefty gets beyond the quarter-final, it will be a first. Though he's won ten district titles and one regional in 17 of coaching in the Saginaw Valley, piling up a 212-106 record, he's never gotten to the final foursome in East Lansing.

If Sam's team makes it to East Lansing, though, it won't be his first trip. His Saginaw St. Mary unit won a state championship in 1954.

Another sort of byplay will be going on at the Ferris State College gym in Big Rapids where Frankfort meets Mount Pleasant Sacred Heart in class D play. Frankfort, Schools Supt. William DeYoung, a devoted follower of the team during his long tenure as a school official, died of an apparent heart attack just after Frankfort's 57-53 regional win over Ellsworth Saturday.

The Frankfort team has dedicated its efforts the rest of the way in the tourney to his memory.

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Led by Ed Austreg's 648, Pontiac Janitor Supply, of Pontiac, Mich., rolled into seventh place in team standings of the 66th annual American Bowling Congress tournament Tuesday.

The booster team division saw its best individual performance, as Chris Lostek rolled a 651 to lead Chris Corners Bowl of Green Bay, Wis., to a 2,671 and sixth place in the division.

Sam DiPaolo of Michigan City, Ind., put together series of 641, 629 and 626 for a 1,896 and fifth place in the all-events division.

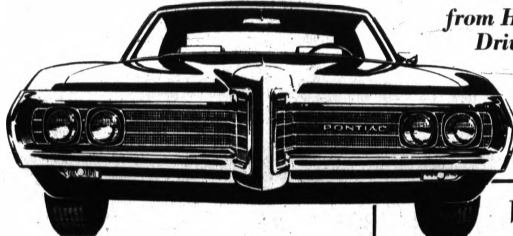

Cecil Caldwell, 26, of Joliet, Ill., took a share of eighth place in the singles with a 680.

Trade Is Moderate

Stock Market Opens Mixed

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks opened mixed today in moderate trading.

Little hope for a breakthrough at this week's session of the Paris peace conference on Vietnam lessened the chances for any sustained market recovery despite a winning performance yesterday — the first advance in a week.

Midwest tensions also were an unsettling factor.

Still, recent economic news has been mostly constructive, particularly the big rise in February personal income and strong steel demand, and could act as a plus factor.

Shortly after the opening, the UPI stock market indicator showed a gain of 0.14 per cent on 312 issues on the tape.

Advances held a slim edge over declines, 126 up 97.

U.S. Steel, which recently hiked prices on some tubular products, held unchanged, as did Youngstown Sheet & Tube.

Ford dipped $\frac{1}{4}$ among the motors, while Chrysler gave up $\frac{1}{2}$.

In the electronics, Scientific Data rose $\frac{1}{4}$, while RCA and Magnavox gained $\frac{1}{2}$ apiece.

National Cash Register, up more than 3 in the previous session, was unchanged. Litter rose $\frac{1}{4}$, IBM $\frac{1}{2}$, General Electric eased $\frac{1}{2}$.

Bell Spending Record in '68

NEW YORK — A tip for growing conglomerate companies: Watch out for the insider.

He can ruin you. He can block every move. He is able to shoot down your innovative ideas until in desperation you're forced to fire him.

The tip comes from Dr. Eugene Jennings, a professor, psychologist and accountant who picks and pokes and probes his way through corporate management so thoroughly he has been called the best-informed man on the subject.

By the end of 1968 the number of telephones served by Michigan Bell totaled nearly 4.1 million — a net gain of 189,000, Day said.

Volumes continued to rise. On an average day the company handled 21,321,000 local calls, 691,000 more per day than in 1967.

Long-distance conversations totaled 245,004 for the year, an increase of almost 20 million, according to the report.

"DISAPPOINTING" Financially, Day described the year as "somewhat disappointing." Earnings per share were down seven cents to $1.68, continuing a decline that started in 1966.

Among the factors contributing to higher operating expenses, Day cited higher wages, material prices, depreciation costs, federal income and local taxes and the high cost of new electric wire.

In studying recent conglomerate mergers—the kind in which diverse firms are rolled into one—Jennings has found that the personnel situation of the company being sought can be as important as the profit-loss statement.

"The managerial mix can be the ultimate determinant of whether a marriage works out," Jennings says. But some buyers of other firms fail to recognize that the very possibility of change changes this personnel mix.

First, the threat of a take-over often causes the best men, the men who feel confident they can move on to another company, to just that. And it causes the

Inflexible Insiders Threaten Mergers

INFLXIBLE STAY

The net effect, the best men leave, the most inflexible stay. The men who could have cooperated with the new owners are lost, leaving most insiders, the natural enemies of outsiders.

That means trouble.

The situation is not uncommon. In fact, some large corporations have acquired companies with personnel so "inside" in their attitudes that a completely new management team has had to be installed.

This naturally is destructive and expensive to correct. But, perhaps of even greater consequence, it presents the new owners with a situation that can't always be solved, for reserve management teams just don't exist.

Among the most successful take-overs, Jennings believes, are those by International Telephone & Telegraph Corp., and for these reasons:

• ITT sizes up the management team of the company being considered for purchase and then uses this information in making its decisions.

• If it wants managers of the newly acquired firm to remain, it gives them a long-term contract and a boost in salary.

Least the impression be created that most companies facing take-over are populated only by insiders, by people who will resist, Jennings has this observation:

"There are lots of presidents of medium-size firms who would like a Jimmy John (chairman of Long-Term Capital) to take them over because then they'd have more entrepreneurial freedom than they get from their provincial boards of directors."

"Hundreds of medium-size firms suffer under the yoke of constraining boards. These directors see only one picture. The conglomerate setup can provide a bigger picture, and it measures management by performance rather than means."

This, Jennings feels, is something congressmen fail to grasp in their studies of conglomerates. "They think the natural order of things is a board and a president, but this is a 19th century attitude. It might be less competitive, but it's, in fact, as he feels, a rigid attitude as that taken by the grumpy insider, the guy who says, 'This is the way we've always done things around here.'"

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National League of Cities says millions of dollars in federal crime-fighting funds are being wasted on rural areas and the creation of a new level of bureaucracy.

Allocated under the Safe Streets Act of 1968, the federal funds are designed to help control and ultimately lower crime rates.

But the league, representing 14,000 municipalities, released Tuesday a study saying administration of the grants "will fail to achieve Congress' primary goal of controlling crime on the streets of urban high crime areas."

"Instead of focusing dollars on the critical problems of crime in the streets," it said, "local planning funds are being dissipated broadly without regard to need and are being used to finance third levels of bureaucracy."

Another $29 million was distributed this fiscal year under the various state plans. At least 75 per cent of the $29 million must be used in the state, must, under the Safe Streets Act, go either to individual communities or regions.

While the bill was before Congress, the league sought to have the money channeled directly to municipalities rather than through the states.

Q — Do you think that this is a good time to buy Combined Insurance? — G. W.

A — A recent lead article in the Wall Street Journal was devoted to the dynamic head of Combined Insurance, W. Clement Stone, and his "Positive Mental Attitude." The company's success in the insurance business was attributed to Stone's success in the mass merchandising of shoes is legend within the industry. Although Zayre has begun full-scale promotion of life insurance. Since then a 300% gain in life insurance in force has been reported, and a sharp increase is projected by the end of 1969. Generous stock dividends have been distributed annually since 1963, a policy expected to continue, according to Stone. New areas of growth are being successfully tested market. Long-term purchases are advised.
