Terrorist Bomb Injures 12 GIs

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—A teen-age terrorist tossed a grenade in a truckload of U.S. soldiers in Saigon today, injuring 12 GIs.

It was Saigon's fourth straight day of terrorism marking the fifth anniversary Monday of the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front.

STAVROS NIARCHOS

Auto Heiress Weds Greek Ship Tycoon

ST. MORITZ, Switzerland (AP)—Automotive heiress Charlotte McDonnell Ford and Greek shipping magnate Stavros Niarchos arrived today to honeymoon at the same Alpine resort where her father honeymooned last February.

Miss Ford, 24, elder daughter of Henry Ford II, and the 56-year-old Greek were married secretly in Juarez, Mexico, yesterday by a civil judge one day after Niarchos received a divorce from his second wife.

Miss Ford is a Roman Catholic. The couple came to Zurich in a chartered Boeing 707 jetliner and immediately took off in a

The would-be assassin, about 15 or 16, fled in the confusion on the busy street. Only one of the Americans was seriously injured.

In North Viet Nam, Communist MIGs took to the air — but cautiously — during another day of heavy bombardment.

American pilots reported sighting seven Soviet-built MIG-17s which kept a discreet distance while apparently trailing the U.S. jets. An Air Force spokesman said the American planes were too short on fuel to take on the Communist jets.

Two U.S. planes were lost in other operations.

JET CRASHES
A Navy jet returning from a mission over North Viet Nam crashed into the ramp of the flight deck of the carrier Kitty Hawk and plunged into the sea. The pilot was presumed dead.

In the ground war, a Viet Cong battalion badly mauled a government company 22 miles northwest of the capital, inflicting heavy casualties. The Reds fled before a relief column came to the scene.

The appearance of the MIGs came after U.S. officials had expressed some concern about probes of American air preparedness by Communist jets.

The Air Force did not specify the nationality of the MIGs sighted over North Viet Nam.

73 TONS
U.S. planes dropped 73 tons of bombs on the Communist North. Spokesmen said they hit bridges, roads and buildings in the Dien Bien Phu area, near the Laotian border, and the Vinh sector, 170 miles south of Hanoi.

In the South, American aircraft aimed at Viet Cong river shipping in the Mekong River Delta south of Saigon.

Pelotas claimed 24 sampans were sunk, seven of them motorized.

The latest outburst of terrorism in Saigon came despite maximum security precautions.

The blast occurred half a block from a U.S. Army intelligence compound where a Viet Cong bomb injured four Americans yesterday.

A police official said maximum precautions were being taken against the terrorist campaign, but he added:

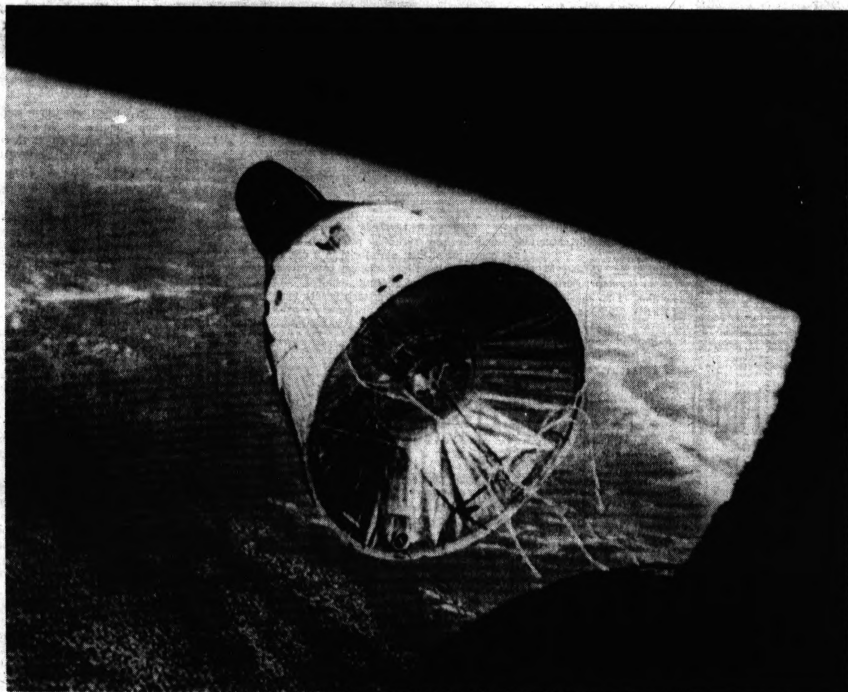

"You simply cannot search every Vietnamese in Saigon."

All streets around key military installations and U.S. billets in the city of more than 1.4 million have been closed to non-essential traffic.

Terrorists struck twice last night. A traffic policeman and four Vietnamese civilians were injured by a Viet Cong grenade, and a Vietnamese police guard was shot in the stomach.

Administration sources said there will be a lull of some kind in allied war activity if the Communists do not try for military advantage during the cease-fire.

Budget Hiked for Hospital

Costs to Be Higher at Pontiac General

Pontiac General Hospital trustees last night approved a record 1966 operating budget of $8.3 million — up nearly a million over 1965.

The 11-member board of trustees gave the hospital's administrator authority to hike room rates to finance the record budget.

Hospital Administrator Harold B. Euler said all room rates would be boosted $2, putting the cost of a ward bed at $22 per day, a semiprivate room at $27 and a private room at $31.

The budget now goes to the City Commission for final approval.

Euler attributed most of the budget hike to added personnel and the increased cost of supplies.

COSTS RISE
He said that in most departments the cost of materials and supplies are hiked five per cent in 1966 over 1965.

Euler said some 45 people — 19 in nursing services — have been added to the hospital's staff, hiking the total number of employees to 928.

The budget incorporates a 1 1/2 per cent pay boost for the employees, according to Euler.

He said the pay hike is included in a two-year agreement with employees. Next year will be the last year for the agreement. Explaining the added personnel, he said:

Gemini 7 Shows Doctors 30-Day Flight Is Possible

MANNED SPACE CENTER, HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The record-breaking flight of Gemini 7's "crummy and itchy" crew has already persuaded medical officers that future pilots will be able to endure the confinement of space travel for at least 30 days.

Dr. Charles A. Berry, Gemini flight surgeon, says "There is no limit to in-flight time if we can solve the comfort problem."

"I personally feel the Gemini 7 astronauts will be in no worse shape after 14 days than the Gemini 5 pilots were after eight days," he said.

In their 68-foot instrument-

AMC Head Echoes Optimistic Outlook

DETROIT (AP) — Roy Abernethy of American Motors yesterday became the third automotive company president to predict that auto sales in the U.S. next year would at least equal the 9.3 million sold in 1965.

Abernethy, president of the Automobile Manufacturers Association as well as of American Motors, spoke to the Economic Club of Detroit yesterday.

In a long range evaluation of the automotive market, the AMC President said "a strong and steady trend" both for the automobile industry and the economy as a whole in the next decade."

which bannered the story on page 1 in its Dec. 18, 1963 edition.

It wasn't until 1968 that the Wright brothers' achievements were given significant news coverage.

In 1969 the U.S. government accepted the Wright machine for military use.

Two of four Pontiac residents contacted yesterday have vivid recollections of the Kitty Hawk they are being given flight training first.

"There are some factors we don't understand in motion sickness," he said, "but we do check the sensitivity of all astronaut candidates to this sort of stress."

Berry said attention would be given to providing more variety in the diet of future astronauts but he was more concerned with the problem of entertainment.

SENDING MUSIC

"We've been sending music up to them and we certainly plan to continue this in future flights," he said.

How about sleeping pills to help astronauts through dull periods?

"Never," said Berry. "I would not like to ever get to the point where we have to compromise a man's ability to respond to an emergency."

News Flash

The Bloomfield Branch of Pontiac State Bank, 970 W. Long Lake, Bloomfield Township, was held up shortly after noon today by a lone bandit.

A suspect was apprehended by township police within an hour, according to bank officials. They said no one was hurt in the robbery. Township police refused to release any information concerning the robbery or to acknowledge that a suspect was being questioned.

DOCTOR, SCIENTIST

One of the two was a doctor, the other a scientist. Their commander, an experienced fighter pilot, felt no ill effects.

Berry pointed out that the United States also plans to send scientists into space but nothing about it. "It either wasn't in the paper or else I was interested in a girl at the time," he explained.

Samuel Dudley of 28 Augusta read details of the flight, but H. O. Whitfield of 22 Waldo recalls hearing little about it. Both men are in their 90s.

They all agreed, however, that most people thought "anyone who tried to fly, was crazy."

Astronauts Get Okay for Full 14-Day Trip

Space Champs Due to Land in Atlantic Tomorrow Morning

MANNED SPACE CENTER, Houston, Tex. (AP) — The Gemini 7 pilots — assured that the power-producing fuel cells of their spaceship would not fail them — hurtled confidently onward today to the big goal of 14 days in space.

After a night of worry over the power system, flight directors determined that it would hold up, and gave the word space endurance champions Frank Borman and James A. Lovell Jr. a "go" for the full distance of 5,149,400 miles.

This would bring them to a landing in the Atlantic at 8:45 a.m. EST tomorrow, in the same area where spacemen Walter M. Schirra Jr. and Thomas P. Stafford brought the Gemini 6 down yesterday near the waiting aircraft carrier Wasp.

"There's no reason," astronaut Elliot H. See Jr. told Borman and Lovell in a statewide press this morning, "that we shouldn't go straight on down-hill from now on."

Gemini 7 entered its 194th orbit at 12:01 p.m. EST.

The Gemini 7 astronauts were so sure of themselves that they made a bet with Schirra and Stafford during their historic rendezvous in space Wednesday that they could make a more accurate landing.

Gemini 6 missed the aircraft carrier Wasp by less than 15 miles.

The stakes were not disclosed but Borman asked today for accurate figures on the Gemini 6 splashdown point.

"There's a lot riding on that," he told mission control.

Ideal weather conditions that prevailed during the Gemini 6 reentry will continue tomorrow, forecasters said.

After keeping cautious watch on the power system through the night, flight directors gave the green light for a full mission to Borman and Lovell as they soared near Bermuda.

This was soon after Gemini 7 entered its 190th orbit.

First Snowfall Covers Ground

The first snow of the season to cover the ground fell gently on the Pontiac area during the night. It measured a scant one quarter of an inch.

Mostly cloudy and cold with a chance of snow flurries is the forecast for tonight and tomorrow. Sunday is expected to be partly cloudy and slightly warmer.

Morning westerly winds will continue at 10 to 20 miles per hour.

A frosty 27 was the low recording in downtown Pontiac prior to 8 a.m. The 2 p.m. reading was 32.

Area Shops Have Variety of Gift Pets, Accessories

By JEANNE NELSON
Pets make delightful Christmas presents for youngsters and can be enjoyed all year long.

Stores in the Pontiac area have a fine array of pets and their accessories.

Miniature parrots like the Half Moon and Beebe varieties will usually live up to 40 or 50 years.

For an 8- to 9-month-old the cost would be about $29. The cage would run around $25.

Hamsters, either sleek or rag-mop type, and their houses can be purchased for under $6.

An iguana will need at least a five-gallon aquarium. The pet will cost about $3.69 and container about $5.

Monkeys costing about $29 and $39 will stay out of mischief in a dog cage that costs about $7.

For the family who already owns a pet, stores have an attractive variety of gifts in stock, such as a pair of doggie pajamas at $2.39.

U.S. Losses in Viet Lower Than Anticipated

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. losses in the Viet Nam war are lower than officials anticipated, it was learned today.

When the Pentagon laid out plans last summer for the big buildup in Viet Nam, it cranked into its calculations an estimate of how many Americans might be expected to be killed.

While the figures are secret, it is known that fewer American servicemen have been killed so far than had been predicted.

The Pentagon reported Thursday that U.S. combat deaths as of last Monday totaled 1,961, dating to January 1961.

Of these, 1,241 have been killed this year — most of them since midsummer.

At the same time, official estimates peg Communist losses at about 35,000, more than double the 17,000 reported killed in 1964.

This total is based on body count and there is a belief that many more Viet Cong were killed but that their bodies were carried away by their comrades.

Currently, Communist losses are said to be running about 10-1 over U.S. battle deaths.

Something Fishy Here

SCHENECTADY, N.Y. (AP) — Investigating a burglary at a pet shop, police learned the loot included 32 jars of fish medicine.

However, this does not take into account South Vietnamese losses, which normally run much higher than the American.

The latest weekly casualty figures announced in Saigon Wednesday gave the combined Allied forces a 2.7-1 favorable kill ratio over the Communists.

Intensified ground and air operations are sure to bring a rising curve of casualties.

Thus far, U.S. battle deaths in Viet Nam still are well below those suffered in any major U.S. war of modern times. In Korea, for example, the United States lost 33,629 men.

The Army has sustained the heaviest losses in Viet Nam to date — 1,012 men.

The Marines have suffered 305 combat deaths, the Air Force 104 and the Navy 75.

The toll of wounded reached 5,863 as of last Monday. More than 5,000 of these wounds occurred in 1965.

The roster of missing has reached 126 men and 25 are believed held prisoner.

In addition to the killed in action, 437 Americans had died in Viet Nam from a variety of non-combat causes such as aircraft accidents and auto and truck crashes.

Our Gemini Gyration Score a Space Scoop

Thanks to our quartet of astral adventurers, the United States has firmly established its supremacy in the realm of outer space.

When WALTER M. SCHIRRA and THOMAS P. STAFFORD nudged their Gemini 6 capsule into rendezvous Wednesday with Gemini 7, flown by JAMES A. LOVELL JR. and FRANK BORMAN, it signaled the first such achievement in the history of mankind. (The Russians reputedly brought two spacecraft within three miles of each other in 1963.)

The delicate feat of juxtaposing the two capsules represented a scientific and navigational marvel. The series of maneuvers that ensued went on for 5½ hours during which 3½ orbits of the earth were made.

And as if a single record were not enough for one space project, Gemini 7, which took off on a 14-day mission Dec. 4, has broken every manned space flight endurance record.

To add a bit of icing to the celestial cake, Command Pilot SCHIRRA, after completing the rendezvous program, landed his Gemini 6 craft within 12 miles of the pickup aircraft carrier Wasp—by far the most precise landing achieved by a Gemini pilot to date.

The stupendous spatial coup of the Geminis, in addition to its scientific rewards, has significantly advanced the Apollo program aimed at a moon landing before the end of the decade.

America proudly and feelingly salutes the four spacemen, the Mission Control Center and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration on the phenomenon that their genius has brought to pass.

Many Shoppers Debase Spirit of Christmas

Christmas is a time to be wary and well as merry. The Nation's merchants have taken this advice to heart by redoubling their efforts to prevent shoplifting. Such light-fingered activity increases 100 per cent during the Yule shopping season. Retailers complain that too many people take to heart that old vaudeville gag, "Do your Christmas shoplifting early."

According to a Dec. 1 FBI report, shoplifting is the Nation's fastest growing form of larceny. Police in 1964 recorded 184,473 shoplifting cases involving stolen goods worth almost $5 million. The crime has increased 93 per cent in the past five years, a period of unprecedented prosperity. Its practitioners walk off with about $2.5 billion worth of merchandise annually, according to one estimate.

Fastest growing participation in shoplifting is that of teenagers. Some do it for kicks, and others as a part of initiation into clubs. A majority of shoplifters are women, and the FBI says this is because of the ease with which a woman can conceal stolen articles about her person.

Honest consumers pick up the tab for the less honest in the higher prices needed to offset the pilferage.

Pickets Win Status as a Sign of Times

This country will be coming apart at the seams only on the day when Americans stop thinking up new ways to make money.

Take the current popularity of picketing and demonstrating. To cash in on it, two young entrepreneurs in New York have formed a company called "Rent-A-Picket."

For three dollars an hour, they will "shoulder your protest," supplying signs for or against just about anything, from mothers-in-law to Indonesian libraries.

Their bearded pickets, which are in great demand, rent for slightly more.

Next step in the development of professional picketing will likely be a picket-line demonstration to organize the picketers.

IN ADDITION to the goals of eliminating poverty, ignorance and crime, the Johnson Administration, in initiating financial support for certain cultural interests and activities, evidently is committed to eliminating lowbrowism.

Viet Nam War Baffling to LBJ

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (H)—The war in Viet Nam is President Johnson's most baffling experience, and in the end it may do him more political damage than anything that ever happened to him.

He has had great success, in the Senate and White House, persuading people he could reach by phone or in person. And for most of his political life, his problems were those at home.

But Viet Nam is half-way around the world, and the Communists there are out of reach. And they won't listen.

And here at home, unless there is a settlement in the war before the 1966 congressional elections, the Republicans are sure to make it a big issue in the campaigns. He can remember President Harry S. Truman and the Korean War.

One example of how much direct contact means to Johnson came Wednesday at the end of his two-day conversation with Pakistan's President Mohammed Ayub Khan.

American relations with Pakistan had become a little rocky since the Indian-Pakistani war this year.

PROMISE FOR FUTURE Johnson and Khan wound up their conversation with an agreement to deal directly with each other in the future on matters of common interest.

Bill D. Moyers, White House press secretary, said the two men had discussed the misunderstanding that had impeded communications between them in the past but that now the communications seem clear again.

Johnson and Secretary of State Dean Rusk on one side, and the North Vietnamese on the other, in making their separate declarations on how the war could be ended, were not talking to each other directly but at each other.

In the process they have apparently talked themselves into a dead end, since the terms each side laid down almost certainly would require the other to surrender, with no out.

ANTIWAR GROUPS Johnson has to be concerned to some extent about the antiwar groups in this country.

He may feel it necessary to keep them in mind as he ponders actions to win the war, actions which will have to be more drastic than any taken so far if the war is to be finished.

But his real political problem at home will be the Republicans if the war drags. This week, their congressional leaders and some of their governors issued a unanimous declaration urging Johnson to stronger action.

The desire to deprive the Republicans of an issue would, by itself, be a big incentive for Johnson to redouble his efforts next year to settle the war.

The Season To Be Jolly?

David Lawrence Says:

Court Ruling Sanctions Atheism

WASHINGTON—The Supreme Court of the United States may not have intended to prescribe a "religion" which could be taught in the public schools, but it has given an involuntary assist to the cause of non-belief in God.

The high court has just rejected the plea of a LAWRENCE group of parents of Protestant, Catholic, Jewish, and Armenian faiths who asked, through court action, that their children in public schools be allowed voluntarily to engage in a prayer that mentions the word "God."

As a result of the court ruling, the impression is conveyed to the pupils for all time that there is something wrong with a belief in God.

This is exactly what atheism claims. Atheism is regarded by some people as a kind of "religion" in itself.

The high court's decision hereafter has been based on the idea that the government must remain "neutral" as between religions. But not until the latest ruling, specifically banning voluntary prayer requested by the parents of children of virtually all faiths, has the Supreme Court placed itself squarely on record against even a prayer that is neutral as between the sects.

The Constitution says that "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof."

This would appear to mean that neither can the Supreme Court help to establish any religion, whether it is atheism or anything else.

The controversy has been getting more and more tangled ever since the Supreme Court in 1962 tackled the question of prayer in the schools. The high court ruled then that the educational officials of a state or local government cannot lawfully compose a prayer and direct that it be uttered by pupils in public-school classes or assemblies.

Nothing was said by the court about the right of students to engage in silent prayer or to recite aloud prayers prepared for them by a group of parents of all faiths.

The prayer problem, now, however, has been enlarged. Although the parents agreed on a neutral prayer suitable for all, it is being banned, presumably because atheists could object.

Recognition of atheism as an "established religion" is thus given legal sanction.

The Almanac

By United Press International Today is Friday, Dec. 17, the 351st day of 1965 with 14 to follow. The moon is approaching its full phase.

The morning stars are Mercury and Jupiter.

The evening stars are Venus, Mars, Saturn and Jupiter.

The only formula that remains to be tested is one whereby the parents give their children copies of the text of certain prayers and request the teachers to permit a brief intermission during which the pupils can recite in silence or say out loud the prayers prepared for them by their own parents. Will this, too, be barred as an "establishment of religion?" Eventually, it would appear, a constitutional amendment may be needed to protect and safeguard the words of the First Amendment which provide that the federal government shall not interfere with the "free exercise" of religion.

Bob Considine Says:

Fame for the Astronauts Comes Instantaneously

CAPE KENNEDY — What greater change of identity do we have in our time than that to which an astronaut is subjected?

These men labor not weeks nor months but years in utter anonymity, then are transformed from faceless—ness to immortality in a matter of moments.

They are like cloistered nuns who, instead of being handed their diplomas at commencement exercises, are stuffed in a cannon and shot off the campus.

An astronaut's endless training, study, reading, comprehension of things unknown until yesterday, and sober contemplation of possible catastrophes must blend into what amounts to penitence.

Until they have flown, they are as anonymous as Joe the plumber. Even less, really, for Joe has his friends as well as his family, can get out for a beer at night, lead the life he wants to lead. The apprentice astronaut has about as much liberty as a monk.

NUMBER IS UP But then, one clear morning here at Cape Kennedy, his number comes up. NASA's pie wag on pulls up to hangar "H" where he has been living, if that's the word, fetches him and takes him to Pad 19.

Now, the TV pop camera is on him. Suddenly, millions know his last name, some can even recall his first name. A few can remember whether he's Air Force or Navy, and there is a general knowledge of his features.

As the countdown reaches for that terrible word "Ignition!" and its enthralling companion word, "Lift-off!" millions pray earnestly for a man they hardly knew existed the day before.

As his flight in space continues, they grow to like the sound of his voice from on high, to marvel at his courage, chuckle over his humor, get interested in his pretty wife and fine children.

NOT PUBLIC'S FAULT It is not the public's fault, of course. The anonymity extends even into sectors of the national space agency.

Yesterday at NASA's press headquarters in Cocoa Beach we asked for the names of the crew of Gemini 8. There was a bit of a scurry and search and then the answer: Neil Armstrong and David Scott.

Neither has flown before. But some time in the first quarter of 1966, we'll all be throwing our hats in the air at the sound of their names, the sight of their friendly kissers.

We'll be saying, "Hey, how about that Armstrong?" Sure made it look easy to hook on to an Agena, right? And "Wow!—what a guy that Scott is. Imagine climbing out of that old capsule and walking all the way around the world in an hour-and-a-half — like he was strolling to the corner drugstore for a malted."

Instant fame! It's swifter than instant coffee, if you're an astronaut.

Problem Dropouts...
The TODO, Buenos Aires

The subway rush toward a college degree is by no means an exclusively North American problem. This bright statement from a Buenos Aires weekly represents an Argentine view of the world educational speedup, with its corollary lack of respect for established classes or institutions. Sadly, TODO has ceased publication; the problem it describes remains.

Newspaper headlines proclaim: 60,442 failures! That's the number of students at three universities who have had to abandon their chosen careers in the last seven years. This figure is just another tragic example of the haphazard way we tackle our national problems. On the one hand, a shortage of technicians forces us to import for-

Voice of the People:

Reader Says Suppression Is Way of Communism

A few recent VOP writers complain about our lenience with Communists in this country. Don't they know that to suppress anyone who has something to say is the Communist way? Mr. Edwards suggests that we are "double-crossing the men we send into combat," but those men are fighting for Americanism and democracy, systems which guarantee each citizen the right to stand up and say what he believes without fear of punishment or censorship.

There are already too many closed churches and lecture halls behind the iron and bamboo curtains, and our soldiers in Viet Nam are trying to prevent the spread of this subtle slavery. The best way to double-cross them is to impose on an already free people this type of restrictions that Mr. Edwards and other VOP writers seem to advocate.

I'm against communism and for Americanism, which includes the right of anyone to speak or of anyone else to gather and listen. This system allows us both to speak out, Mr. Edwards, and it allows this paper to print our letters. I wouldn't trade this freedom for anything and thousands of guys are in Viet Nam because they wouldn't either.

Viewpoints Differ on County Appointment

Your heartrending story about Shane Murphy on page one on December 9 touched me deeply—but only in the pocketbook. I am aware of the fact that the Federal government has a training program for drop-outs, underprivileged, needy, etc.

I hope that you can inform your readers or bring them up to date on when Oakland County initiated such a program for sons or relatives of County executives.

I have had years of experience in accounting and after reading this article, you should have had it inserted on page 12, section E (comics) of your paper. I hope the intelligent voters will keep this back-scratching in mind when the parties come up for reelection.

A TIRED RETIRED TAXPAYER

Why don't the people complaining about the recent appointment of Deputy Treasurer of Oakland County let the man prove or disprove their so far unwarranted cries of foul. It seems funny that people can downgrade him and the rest of us in his social and age bracket. We are too young and too dumb to hold public office but just perfect to feed into the Viet Nam war.

Let's face it, the wise and educated elder or adult know-it-alls have gotten the word in a mess and we younger people will have the job of trying to pick up the remains after they have long gone. How about a fair chance?

Disagrees With Serviceman in Viet Nam

After reading Mrs. Martin's letter with a quote from her son in Viet Nam, I felt I must write. I completely disagree with him, as I recently participated in the march on Washington. He says "I, as well as other boys here would really love to go hunting for the V.C." And yet our government claims that the Communists are bloodthirsty, with little regard for human life. "Love thy neighbor," indeed!

'Hell's Angels Shouldn't Be Called Worthless'

In answer to a letter about the Hell's Angels, how can a person set herself up as a judge? A writer called Hell's Angels "worthless" when they have offered their service to defend the freedom of this country. They are different, but isn't this country built on the freedom of speech and religion, as well as dress? No one but God has the right to judge a person with a soul as worthless.

A DEFENDER OF FREEDOM

body of even a few decades ago.

The new generation is less likely to be outstanding, to choose "the best of everything." The students' reaction to the tensions generated by the universal regime can be seen in their attitude; they are in a state of perpetual conflict and engaged in a bitter and hopeless struggle. The anguish and frustration of being a dropout (which, unfortunately, is generally termed "failure") are carried over into family life, ruining the happiness of many people.

These frustrations are the reason for so many discontented employees and perennial bureaucrats who keep saying that they are just about to go their degrees, not to mention the fathers — ashamed that they themselves didn't set their sons a better example — who develop complexes as these sons grow up.

'Yule Traffic May Kill 560 to 660'

CHICAGO (AP)—Between 560 and 660 persons may die in traffic accidents during the nation's three-day Christmas weekend, according to the National Safety Council.

The council said Thursday that American motorists would drive an estimated 11.3 billion miles during the period, from 6 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 23, to midnight Sunday, Dec. 26. On an average nonholiday weekend motorists travel some 8.9 billion miles.

Records indicate Christmas is the most dangerous holiday for motorists, Howard Pyle, council president, said.

PENNEY'S MIRACLE MILE

Let Son Make Postgraduate Plans, Parents Urged

By LESLIE J. NASON, ED. D.
Dear Dr. Nason: Our son is graduating next June with a degree in business administration. He wishes to work for a year or two after graduation before continuing his education. We feel that he should stay in college until he has obtained his master's degree.
What is your advice in this matter? S. N., Venice, Calif.
Answer:
A break in your son's schooling is called for if he has been under tension during his college years. Has competition for grades been a struggle? If so, the attitude of many college instructors toward their behavior, become acquainted with the business world, and gain better orientation toward his ultimate goal in the field of business, might be desirable. It might even be worth the risk of his assuming so many responsibilities that ultimately he would find it difficult or impossible to return to college full time.
The primary consideration is that the ultimate plan be one to which your son agrees wholeheartedly and can carry out enthusiastically.

Plan Eyed for U. P. Prosperity

By Esther Van Wagoner Tuft
WASHINGTON — Director Eugene P. Foley of the Economic Development Agency (EDA) has his eye on Upper Michigan as a "place to extend our country's prosperity."
Assistant Secretary of Commerce Foley, who is director of Economic Development, has asked Gov. Romney "to submit a recommendation to improve the economy of the Upper Peninsula, the top of lower Michigan as the part of a newly marked out Upper Great Lakes area eligible for federal help."
In the Congress, Sen. Philip Hart and Congressman Raymond Cleveland of Sault Ste. Marie both Democrats, have been pushing for an EDA approval of this area to be included in this program authorized under the Public Works and Economic Development Act of 1965 which authorized federal aid for those regions whose economies are lagging behind the nation's overall prosperity.
Minnesota and Wisconsin as well as Michigan are in the Great Lakes area will be officially designated by Foley, as soon as the states approve the initial boundaries for their economic development.
Foley is fond of saying "economic distress doesn't recognize political boundaries." He says his agency must reach across county and state lines to seek common solutions to common problems.
CONFIDENT OF SUCCESS
The Upper Great Lakes area can be compared to the Appalachian project. This is where EDA's approach differs substantially from the ARA program and other, and incidentally, why Foley is confident of success.
A key feature of EDA is to build public works and facilities vitally needed to support existing industry and to encourage new development.
Another major part of the program is loans for public works and to private companies for acquiring and improving land, buildings, machinery and equipment. Other funds have been allotted for technical assistance and research to find solutions to problems holding up an area's growth.

I ask you in all honesty, when the time comes how can we choose a college for our 12-year-old grandson, when the colleges themselves cannot control or discipline the students? Mrs. W. P. W., Buckroe Beach, Va.
Answer:
Boards of regents, state legislators and college administrators all feel genuine concern will have the situation well in hand by the time your grandson must choose his college.
With the backing of strong public demand that our universities and colleges proceed with the business of teaching and learning in a dignified manner, by stars and other heavenly bodies.

High School Revisited—3

Teachers Now Recognized as People

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the last of three articles on what a UPI reporter learned when he went back to his hometown high school and talked to teachers who, in his eyes, used to seem 10 feet tall.)

By MYRON FEINSILBER

STROUDSBURG, Pa. (UPI)—Principal Alfred Munson remembers the time, shortly after prohibition, when a group of men, one of them a teacher at Stroudsburg High School, went into a local tavern.

The bartender drew beers for all — except the teacher.

"That's not for you," he said. "You are a teacher."

And he invited him to leave the premises.

Earl Groner, superintendent of schools, can match that story. He recalls when his predecessor as superintendent was walking along Main Street one summer evening.

SWINGING DOORS

The tavern of the Indian Queen Hotel had swinging doors and the superintendent looked inside — and saw one of his teachers standing there.

The teacher had been earning some summer money by playing in the hotel's dance band and had gone into the bar during a break. Teachers were paid $1,300 a year in those days.

When school resumed that fall, the superintendent called the teacher into his office and made it clear that he would have to choose between classrooms and barrooms.

Things have changed, Groner says, and the community now recognizes that teachers are people too.

"People gossip about a teacher the same way they gossip about anybody," he says, and when a teacher gets arrested for speeding, the papers always note his occupation in their stories.

Groner is still pained to see a woman teacher walk across the lawn of the school with a cigarette in her mouth, but he holds his tongue.

He can't recall a single instance in the last 10 years when someone called him up to complain about the conduct of a teacher.

When Groner and Munson started teaching here, in the depression years of the early 1930s, they were paid $1,200 a year. As recently as 1952, starting salaries were $2,400 with an annual raise of $100.

ABOVE MINIMUM

Now teachers start at $4,700—$200 above the state minimum, a raise negotiated by the teachers with the school board, which is unsalaried.

A teacher with a master's degree gets $5,200, and if he continues to do advanced college work during his summers, he can eventually earn as much as $8,200.

But it will take a long time before the extra salary compensates for the cost of the extra education.

"People keep saying, 'Yes, but those salaries are for 10 months' work,'" Groner says. "They forget that a teacher has to live 12 months a year, and that a teacher also wants to send his children to college."

NOT CONVINCED

Groner is not convinced that today's $4,700 buys any more than the $1,200 he once earned.

Rising salaries and costs have boosted the amount Stroudsburg's property taxpayers spend to educate each student from $110 in 1932 and $220 in 1952 to $487 today — an average of about $2 a day per pupil.

Teachers aren't satisfied, but the pay schedule is not their chief complaint. They still feel frustrated when they face a class of 42 pupils.

If the class size were cut in half, they say, they could considerably more than double their effectiveness. With a large class, there just isn't time to draw each student out, to push him to the limits of his capacity.

SLOW STUDENTS

Invariably, the teachers say, they put their greatest effort into teaching the slowest students. There's always a temptation to work hardest with the brightest students because they're the ones who respond.

Says one teacher: "I stand there, day after day, and talk, and shout, and wave my arms. I try this approach and then I try that approach. And still they sit there; they don't say a thing. Sure it's frustrating."

Another teacher says that if his last class in the day is a bright group, he goes home full of spirit. But if the last class is an unresponsive group, he feels drained at the end of the day.

When the school board meets, another teacher notes wryly, the school's head custodian is seated at the conference table with the board members. "They never invite a teacher to sit there," he complains.

"The custodian is there because he's important; he's spending money."

Ira Nagler, who seven years ago abandoned the business world to become a teacher, thinks that the teacher who heads each academic department should be the person who hires new teachers, rather than the board of education with the advice of the principal and superintendent.

"After all," he argues, "the head of the department is responsible for the quality of education in his department."

Nagler remembers when history teachers used to teach the battle of Yorktown "by making students memorize the names of 300 generals and 300 horses."

No more. Now he teaches "conceptual, rather than chronological, history. When we reach the Civil War, we go into its cause, we talk about life at the time, about the rise of industry, the machine age, the Grange movement, the rise of labor unions. We're trying not to teach abstract facts any more.

"The hope is that the student, when he leaves, will be able to recognize what he sees in today's society. When he joins a union, he'll understand the role of the union movement in America; it won't be a foggy day when Sam Gompers did something or other.

"He'll understand then the union's limitations. It is because people don't understand the roles and limitations of the organizations in their own lives that they eventually turn all their problems over to Washington to solve."

Nagler believes teachers should be paid more. One reason they aren't, he said, is because in too many cases, a teacher's paycheck represents his household's second income—a luxury income rather than a livelihood.

LACK PRESSURE

Until that changes, he thinks, teachers will not exert enough pressure to raise their salaries significantly.

He lectured a senior economics class the other day: "When you become adults, remember this: All it takes to raise the quality of education is money. A community gets the quality of education it is willing to pay for."

Gifts Collected

HELEN COLLIAS

Pontiac Central students voted to collect Christmas gifts to be sent to the Oakland County Children's Center and Youth Home. All presents are new and range from clothing to canned goods.

Each student is urged to bring one gift and/or any amount of money he wishes to contribute. No prize is issued for the best collection. The decision is left up to the individual to decide how much or what to give.

Last year, Pontiac Central delivered over 500 wrapped gifts in addition to cash and many bushels of canned food.

Musical groups are busy during the Christmas season with various scheduled appearances.

Holly Clubs to Sing Carols at Hospital

By LINDA LONGSTRETH

The Holly High School Foreign Language Club and the Christian's Youth Club are going to Flint Osteopathic Hospital Wednesday to sing Christmas carols.

Tell Tale yearbook members are working overtime this week, trying to meet their first edition deadline. The first 400 pages of the book must be done by Saturday.

Dress will be semiformal.

The A Cappella Choir, under the direction of A. Michael Dempsey, has worked hard to perfect Handel's "Messiah."

In addition, there will be a program of favorite Christmas songs. Highlighting it will be a group of girls enacting "Twas the Night Before Christmas."

Taking advantage of the conference point lead, debate coach, Walter Smith, is substituting new debaters for the more experienced ones. This will enable new debaters to gain experience and let students who have worked hard all semester get a chance to debate.

New debaters in the Jan. 1 and last tournament will be Stephen Embree, Christopher Lewis, Bertie Brady, Jerry Murphy and Ted Fisher.

500,000 Students Due to Seek U. S. Loans

WASHINGTON (UPI) — More than 500,000 college students are expected to apply for government financial aid totaling $400 million in the academic year 1965-1966.

which starts next September. U.S. Education Commissioner Francis Keppel made the estimate yesterday in a speech before federal and state education officials. The program of low-cost loans is provided for under the Higher Education Act of 1965.

U.S. Open to Allied Offers to Aid War

PARIS (UPI) — The United States is "open to any offers" by its European allies to aid in the anti-Communist war in Viet Nam, U.S. officials said today. The officials said Secretary of State Dean Rusk's Tuesday appeal to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) council covered every kind of aid, ranging from ambulances and hospital supplies to outright military assistance, including tanks and troops.

The officials called the first NATO reaction to the plea "predictable" and admitted it was not too encouraging. "There certainly was no frenzy of applause," was the comment of one American source.

The comment coincided with unofficial reports that Russia is organizing a conference of Communist parties to coordinate aid for North Viet Nam, especially from the European satellites.

NO INFORMATION

There was no information on where or when the meeting will be held, but it was understood that Moscow has told the satellites to be ready to make supplies available for the Vietnamese Communists.

In his speech, Rusk bluntly told the NATO council the war in Viet Nam is not just an American action but that it could decide the fate of Europe, also.

Rusk emphasized that if the United States backs out of its commitment to defend South

Viet Nam from Communist aggression, neither the Soviet Union nor the Western allies could be sure Washington would honor its European pledges.

Rusk's hard-hitting statement was backed up by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, who warned that Communism will have the means to hit Europe and the United States with nuclear rockets in two or three years.

ALLIED AID

American officials said the purpose of the two speeches was both to seek allied aid in Viet Nam, and to persuade Europeans that Communist aggression must be contained in Asia as well as elsewhere.

The U.S. argument is that now that the Soviet threat to Europe has been contained and the allies are strong and affluent, they have a stake in damping the Communist tide in other parts of the world, including the Far East.

"A new kind of seed was planted in this respect here this week," U.S. officials said. "It remains now to be seen how far it will take root."

The sources said in the coming months the United States will carry an increasingly heavy military burden in Viet Nam while maintaining the equivalent of a six-division army in Europe for the defense of its NATO allies.

POLITICAL ISSUE

The American officials said that as the American buildup in Viet Nam increased and American casualty lists mount, the number of U.S. troops idle

'Will Suspend Klan Terrorists'

Shelton Vows Full Cooperation in Cases

WASHINGTON (AP) — Imperial Wizard Robert M. Shelton says that from now on any member of the United Klans of America indicted on a charge involving acts of violence and terrorism will be immediately suspended from membership.

"If subsequent investigation strongly indicates such member is guilty of the charge," he told a news conference Thursday, "the United Klans of America will cooperate fully with the local authorities and make available to such local authorities the services of its attorney, Mr. Lester V. Chalmers, to assist in the prosecution."

Shelton also announced that he is contributing $1,000 to a reward fund for the apprehension and conviction of persons who dynamited four Negro homes in Charlotte, N. C., last month.

Shelton told newsmen that his organization is continuing to increase its membership. And he called President Johnson "the best recruiter we have." Johnson once called the Klan "a hooded society of bigots."

During hearings this fall, the House Committee on Un-American Activities contended that in at least one case a Klansman who pleaded guilty to a charge of bombing had never been actually drummed out of the Klan. Shelton is due to return Jan. 4 under subpoena to testify before the committee when it resumes its look into various Klan organizations.

Bridge Open in Ohio

SANDUSKY, Ohio (AP) — The new $3.2-million Thomas A. Edison Memorial Bridge, a 2,000-foot long span across Sandusky Bay on Lake Erie, has been opened to traffic.

Arguing Ends; New Philippine President OK'd

MANILA (AP) — After three days of wrangling over charges of vote fraud, Congress declared Senate President Ferdinand E. Marcos winner in the presidential election and Marcos told proclaimed himself president-elect of the Philippine Republic.

Marcos, 48, a World War II guerrilla hero, also declared Sen. Fernando Lopez vice president-elect. Marcos and Lopez, running on the Nacionalista party ticket, defeated President Diosdado Macapagal and Sen. Edson Roxas of the Liberal party in the Nov. 9 election. Marcos and Lopez will be inaugurated Dec. 30.

Junior Editors Quiz on FLUTES

QUESTION: How did men learn to make flutes?

ANSWER: Flutes belong to the woodwind class of instruments, those whose bodies are made of wood or metal, and whose tone is produced by blowing.

Clarinets or oboes use reeds to start the sound. But the tone of a flute is produced by blowing across a hole toward one end of the cylindrical body of the instrument, this end being closed by a plug.

The player's breath strikes the sharp edge of the hole opposite his mouth and starts air vibrations. These, in turn, vibrate the air inside the hollow body, producing the peculiarly hollow and romantic flute tone.

The origin of the flute is too far back to be able to say who discovered the principle. Primitive men, perhaps, found they could produce pleasing tones by blowing across the tops of hollow reeds.

Later, they bound reeds of different lengths together, each length giving a different note, so producing that ancient instrument, the panpipe.

It would be a short step from this to the discovery of the flute principle. Primitive flutes were known to many ancient peoples. The modern flute, so important in the orchestra, was perfected in 1864 by Theobald Boehm.

FOR YOU TO DO: Take an empty pop bottle and see if you can produce a musical tone by blowing across the top. This is the principle of the panpipe.

Brookdale Cemetery Probe Is Reopened

DETROIT (AP) — The Wayne County prosecutor's office said Thursday it would reopen its investigation of Brookdale Cemetery in suburban Livonia.

Asst. Prosecutor William Long, head of the criminal frauds division, said complaints to be checked include allegations of failure to comply with Michigan burial permit laws.

LEGENDS OF CHRISTMAS

"Now, Otto," Mrs. Gottlieb said after Peter had gone, "we need another Christmas tree as much as we need two heads!"

"I know," her husband replied, "but the boy needed the money. I'll get rid of this one."

Later, Mrs. Gottlieb took the little tree he bought from Peter and tossed it on the village dump.

It looked like an unhappy Christmas for the busy little tree.

Dr. Wayne G. Brandstadt Says:

Weakness, Weight Loss Diabetes Signs

Q. What are the usual symptoms of diabetes? Can it be treated now with pills instead of injections?

A. The chief symptoms (which usually come on gradually) are an increase in thirst, appetite and the amount of urine passed.

As the disease progresses there is weakness and loss of weight because the carbohydrate foods needed for energy are lost through the kidneys.

Antidiabetic pills are effective in the control of diabetes only in persons who develop the disease after the age of 25.

Q. I have diabetic neuritis. Is there any publication that can give me information about it?

A. Write to the American Diabetic Assn., 1 East 45th St., New York, N.Y. 10017.

Q. How many Diabetic tabes and loss of weight should I take in a day for diabetes? Will they affect the carbohydrate foods needed?

A. The dose of chlorpropamide (Diabinese) must be carefully adjusted to your individual needs, taking into account the number of calories in your diet.

Too much of the drug will lower your blood sugar unduly and cause you to feel faint. The drug will not affect glucocoma.

Q. When a person has to take insulin for diabetes how much will it shorten his life?

A. Any treatment that controls your diabetes will lengthen, not shorten, your life.

Q. If a man has a venereal disease, is it possible for his wife to have a normal child? Does a negative blood test show that he is cured?

A. If a man has a venereal disease his wife will not get it if she avoids intercourse until he is cured.

If, however, the wife has either gonorrhea or syphilis there is danger that the child will be diseased.

Adequate treatment of syphilis usually results in a cure in which the blood test usually becomes negative.

In some persons, however, the blood test remains positive even though the victim is cured.

Q. My doctor has been giving me a muscle relaxant called Decagene.

When I forget to take it for a day or two I ache and feel sick all over.

Will taking these tablets for a long time have any bad effects?

A. This compound contains dexamethasone a cortisone-line drug, aspirin and aluminum hydroxide.

It is a value in the treatment of acute bursitis and other diseases of the muscles and joints but it should not be taken over a prolonged period.

The side effects include softening of the bones, increased blood pressure, moonface, acne, insomnia, convulsions and many other undesirable symptoms. (written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Lawmaker's Farewell Spoken Too Soon

WASHINGTON (AP)—Colleagues of Rep. Oren Harris joined in farewell eulogies to a departing member before Congress adjourned in October. Harris responded with what was considered a farewell address.

But Harris now plans to be in his seat when the House reconvenes Jan. 10.

The reason: President Johnson, who nominated the Arkansas Democrat in July to be a federal judge, still hasn't signed the formal commission although the Senate confirmed the nomination in August. And Harris doesn't plan to give up his House seat until his new judicial position is official.

Reached by telephone at his home in El Dorado, Harris wouldn't comment on the unusual delay between the time of his confirmation and the time he can officially don his judicial robes.

His colleagues advanced some of their own theories.

Most of them said the political situation in Arkansas was at the root of the delay. State law provides for runoff elections between the two top candidates when no one receives a majority of votes in a primary election. But it doesn't provide for a runoff in a special election to fill a vacancy.

In a special election, the top man would win even though he did not receive a majority of the votes.

"About 15 people already have indicated that they would like to run," an Arkansas political expert said. "We don't know who would win in a race like that. A Republican, or a Negro, could come out on top if the Democrats split their majority of votes among a dozen or more candidates."

Science Quiz

By BOB BROWN

PROBLEM: Strange colors. NEEDED: Mechrochrome and a drinking glass.

DO THIS: Put some of the mechrochrome on the bottom of the inverted glass, let it dry, and notice the strange colors that can be seen in it.

HERE'S WHY: This is an application of light interference. As the mechrochrome evaporates, a thin film of variable thickness is formed which reflects some colors more than others. Some yellow color may be observed in parts of the thin film.

NEXT WEEK: Cloudy Tea.

A collection of the "Science for You" experiments is in book form under the name "Science Circus." It is on sale in book stores, or may be ordered from Bob Brown, the author, care of The Pontiac Press. (Copyright Gen. Pea Corp.)

Eagle's Bid Gains Wide Attention

LONDON (UPI)—Goldie the Eagle remained at large today, blissfully unaware his latest bid for freedom has involved London bookmakers, the national press, the man-in-the-street and members of Parliament.

Goldie was in the third day of freedom in Regent's Park, scene of his previous escape from London Zoo. He spent 12 days last March soaring disdainfully through the treetops before he was nabbed by a posse of keepers.

At midmorning, Goldie was still perched in a tree. He looked wet and dejected in a heavy downpour.

The eight-pound eagle yesterday swooped into the yard of a government building and bolted down food laid out for Scruddy the Cat, who lives by his wits in the area. Keepers today caught Goldie's June 2 one week from today. Bets have already been placed, it was announced.

Goldie was quoted on the board of at least one major bookmaker. The bookie was giving 6-4 odds the eagle would be caught by Christmas Eve — one week from today. Bets have already been placed, it was announced.

ON AGENDA

Timothy Kilson, Conservative member of Parliament, placed on Monday's agenda a question asking whether the Labor government intends to let catch Goldie since he is "at large in a royal park."

The London Sun gave circus poster treatment to the second escape by the Finnish eagle. It said in part, in bold letters next to a photograph of Goldie peering down from a 50-foot tree:

Goldie's Encore

By Public Demand, a New Thrilling Christmas Performance Starring

The World Famous Eagle Goldie

In His Stupendous High-Flying Act

(See Him Escape from the Wicked Keepers)

The paper noted the show would run "for a strictly limited period only."

5 Killed, 2 Missing as Overpass Collapses

MONTREAL (UPI)—Crews with jackhammers and picks drilled and hacked through mounds of hardened concrete and bent steel today, searching for two men missing and believed killed with five others yesterday in the collapse of 1,600 tons of wet concrete used in the construction of a railway overpass.

Five workmen were killed when the overpass roof craved 25 feet to the floor. Two other men were critically injured. The missing workers were believed killed and buried in the debris.

Hare: Handling Poor Drivers Is Rising Problem

EAST LANSING (AP)—A mounting problem of handling 50,000 "incurable drivers" is facing Michigan, Secretary of State James Hare said Thursday.

He told a traffic safety group that this many violation-prone drivers with 12 or more points will be reexamined by driver improvement officers. Many will have their licenses suspended or revoked but some 10,000 will evade punishment, said Hare.

He said locating these drivers is costly, time-consuming and especially difficult in Detroit. He said many apparently continue to drive without renewing licenses when they expire.

"No one knows how many persons are driving without a valid license," said Hare.

ON AGENDA

Timothy Kilson, Conservative member of Parliament, placed on Monday's agenda a question asking whether the Labor government intends to let catch Goldie since he is "at large in a royal park."

The London Sun gave circus poster treatment to the second escape by the Finnish eagle. It said in part, in bold letters next to a photograph of Goldie peering down from a 50-foot tree:

Goldie's Encore

By Public Demand, a New Thrilling Christmas Performance Starring

The World Famous Eagle Goldie

(See Him Escape from the Wicked Keepers)

The paper noted the show would run "for a strictly limited period only."

5 Killed, 2 Missing as Overpass Collapses

MONTREAL (UPI)—Crews with jackhammers and picks drilled and hacked through mounds of hardened concrete and bent steel today, searching for two men missing and believed killed with five others yesterday in the collapse of 1,600 tons of wet concrete used in the construction of a railway overpass.

Five workmen were killed when the overpass roof craved 25 feet to the floor. Two other men were critically injured. The missing workers were believed killed and buried in the debris.

Hare: Handling Poor Drivers Is Rising Problem

EAST LANSING (AP)—A mounting problem of handling 50,000 "incurable drivers" is facing Michigan, Secretary of State James Hare said Thursday.

He told a traffic safety group that this many violation-prone drivers with 12 or more points will be reexamined by driver improvement officers. Many will have their licenses suspended or revoked but some 10,000 will evade punishment, said Hare.

He said locating these drivers is costly, time-consuming and especially difficult in Detroit. He said many apparently continue to drive without renewing licenses when they expire.

"No one knows how many persons are driving without a valid license," said Hare.

Africans Sounding Off on Cost of Wives

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP)—The high cost of wives is arousing many modern Africans.

Government price controls have been suggested to curb inflated prices. Many want to abolish the auctionlike atmosphere surrounding marriage arrangements.

In Nigeria, the fee is usually cash, payable before the marriage. Kenya custom sometimes permits payment in goods such as livestock, kumera and bicycles. The dowry in Kenya can be the equivalent of five years of the groom's income.

A Nigerian schoolteacher commented: "Even when the price is reasonable, it takes away the money a man needs to set up a home, unless of course he is old adding a new wife to an existing household."

Africa remains a masculine stronghold. Male offspring are pampered while small girls are set totling in the fields or put out as petty traders as soon as they can count.

Often the only important occasion a girl's family has to make her subject of celebration is upon arrangement of a profitable marriage. Losing a daughter, they may gain a herd of goats.

Crippled Swiss Plane

Escorted to Safety

HALIFAX, N.S. (UPI) — A single-engine plane of Swiss registry developed engine trouble 360 miles south of the Newfoundland coast yesterday, but managed to fly safely to Torbay Airport under the escort of another plane.

The Turbo-Beaver, with only the unidentified pilot aboard, radioed for assistance while on a flight from Newfoundland to the Azores. A Royal Canadian Air Force Argus was diverted from a patrol flight to escort the crippled craft.

in Macomb County, which has turned out to be the largest in Michigan, holding five times the gas supply originally credited to it.

Consumers Has Plans for It

Macomb Gas Field Is Bargain

Consumers Power Co.'s Ray natural gas field in Macomb County has turned out to be a mightier asset than was bargained for, and now ranks as Michigan's largest gas producing field.

But it won't be a producer for long; plans for its conversion into a gas storage field are already under way.

The Ray field, which Consumers Power purchased from the Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line Co. in 1963, was at that time believed to be fully defined, with gas in place estimated at about 10 billion cubic feet, and covering about 300 productive acres.

By June 1965, as Consumers Power, and its associates in the oil and gas development business, completed a Ray field drilling program.

The results showed Ray field's productive area covers 650 acres, with five times as much gas in place as was originally estimated—or, 50 billion cubic feet.

Its purchase of Panhandle Eastern's Michigan gas production properties in 1963 made Consumers Power the largest owner of undeveloped oil or gas leases in the state at the time.

The Ray field development is an outstanding example of how Consumers Power strengthened its own position as a Michigan producer, as well as a retailer of out-of-state gas, for its 680,000 natural gas customers.

The company's gas service area encompasses much of Michigan's Lower Peninsula, including such markets as Royal Oak, Pontiac, Mount Clemens, Flint, Saginaw, Bay City, Jackson, Kalamazoo and Lansing.

Consumers Power Co. officials credit the company's geology department with much of the Ray field growth.

'GREW UP TOGETHER'
 The department and the field "grew up together," so to speak.

After the Panhandle purchase, the department was expanded, and it now has seven geologists, two technicians and a geological field man helping to probe and exploit Michigan's subsoil.

They not only work to increase oil and gas production where possible, but they also help to develop depleted gas fields into gas storage fields, thus helping to preserve a geological asset and serve customers at the same time.

Consumers Power uses lots of underground storage for gas, because most of the supply it sends its customers comes from the Southwestern states, including offshore in the Gulf of Mexico.

To supply Michigan customers all the gas they need in winter, underground storage is used in the warm months of the year.

Then, in cold weather, when the big transcontinental pipelines are working at capacity to meet daily demands, the Consumers Power storage system is put into use sending out gas to customers.

Without underground storage in handy locations around Michigan, Consumers Power estimates it would be able to supply only one-third of all the gas customers it now has.

And it is for this reason that the Ray field will shortly lose its status as a gas producer, since Consumers Power will convert the field to storage beginning early in 1966, to have it ready to supply stored gas to the company's system in time for the 1967-68 heating season.

This project will involve conversion of producing wells to storage wells, meaning they will be able to receive gas as well as send it out.

COMPRESSOR STATION
 It also involves construction of an 11,000-horsepower compressor station, and related pipeline and gathering facilities.

The pipeline to connect the Ray storage field to the company's statewide gas transmission system will also be installed next year.

The growth of the company in the gas area is almost all post-World War II.

In 1945, the company was selling manufactured and natural gas to about 253,000 customers, who used a total of 56.8 billion cubic feet of gas that year.

In 1964, Consumers Power sold 171.5 billion cubic feet of gas to 659,151 customers.

Where Does She Hide the Dirt?

Folks, Meet Mrs. Clean

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I have a cousin whose favorite topic of conversation is how "clean" she is.

I have always assumed that everyone is reasonably "clean" — unless there is evidence to the contrary and, frankly, I never thought much about it.

But this woman tells everyone she meets that she bathes twice a day, changes her bed linen twice a week, and she goes into boring detail about how she changes the shelf paper in her pantry every month and scrubs the walls and floors of her basement, etc.

Is there something wrong with her? Or is it me?

CLEAN'S COUSIN
DEAR COUSIN: Better that your cousin plug cleanliness than peddle dirt. I'm for cleanliness, too, but when someone wears it like a crown, I wonder where the dirt is hidden.

DEAR ABBY: There are times when I get a little excited or nervous and talk louder than I should. But does this give my husband the right to scold me about it at the dinner table in front of guests?

To top it off he said, "This isn't the first time I've called your attention to it, and I don't want to have to tell you again!"

Now, Abby, I am not a four-year-old, and I don't care to be embarrassed that way before guests. He is a man of means and he is generous, but he did not exactly rescue me from the poor farm.

I am 65 and he is 72 and we have been married less than a year. He is my second husband (I was a widow) and I am his seventh wife. He was divorced by all of them and now I am beginning to see why.

Am I making too much of this incident? Or should I leave him while I'm still young enough to find someone else?

THE CAPTAIN'S WIFE
DEAR WIFE: Judging from his record, your chances for reforming him are slim. Either learn to ignore such unkind remarks, or invite him to try for eight.

DEAR ABBY: You say that most men buy their wives gifts of wearing apparel because they "love" them?

Ha! Ninety-nine out of a hundred men wouldn't even be in the store if they weren't buying something for their girlfriends. And just to ease their guilty consciences, they get something for the wife, too.

All Right to Call This Pair

By The Emily Post Institute

Q: During the summer I met a very attractive couple at a friend's house. They were visiting her friend from another city.

I will have occasion to go to their city on business in a couple of weeks. When I met this couple, they said that if I was ever in their town to be sure to look them up and have dinner with them.

I would like to know if it would be presumptuous of me, after having met them just this once, to take them up on their invitation?

A: As they asked you to look them up, it would not be presumptuous to telephone them when you arrive in their city and say that you are in town for a day or two on business and that you called to say "hello."

Then if they really meant what they said, they will in all probability invite you to dinner. If not, they can always say they are busy.

SIGNING CHRISTMAS CARDS

Q: When signing Christmas cards, is it necessary to include the last name or may they be signed simply Mary and John?

A: To very close friends, the last name need not be written; to others it should be included. When names are printed, the last name is always used.

TUXEDO FOR THIRTEEN-YEAR-OLD BOY?

Q: Will you please tell me the correct clothes for my 13-year-old brother to wear to my wedding which will take place at an evening hour?

He wants to wear a tuxedo but I think a dinner jacket unsuitable for a boy his age. May I please have your opinion?

A: Unless he is tall for his age and looks older than he is, he is too young for a tuxedo and a blue suit with a white shirt will be in better taste.

The Emily Post Institute cannot answer personal mail, but all questions of general interest are answered in this column.

The William T. Johansons of East Beverly Avenue announce the engagement of their daughter, Marilyn Sue, to James C. Braswell, son of Mrs. Johnnie Braswell of East Walton Boulevard and the late Mr. Braswell.

Set Festive Yule Table

Entertaining for the holidays? You can set a festive table by putting a different fold on cotton napkins, according to the National Cotton Council.

Especially appropriate is the candle fold, an easy way to give a holiday shape to napkins.

Take an unfolded napkin and fold it into a triangle. Turn the bottom edge up about one inch, and place the folded side face down. Then, starting at the left corner, roll the napkin tightly to the opposite end. Tuck in the corner and stand candle napkin upright.

Place candle napkins in the center of dinner plates, and add a sprig of holly for decoration.

For an effective color scheme, try the combination of red napkins and a bright green cloth. Choose val-dyed cottons so that colors will stay bright and clear after laundering.

With suicides increasing among younger people, it is the third ranking cause of death in the 15-to-19 age group, exceeded only by accidents and cancer, the National Institute of Mental Health reports.

Color for Cloth

Give a white cotton tablecloth a festive holiday air with colorful Christmas designs that can be removed after the holidays. Use pinkish shears to cut bells, trees, and stars from red and green cotton scraps. Attach the motifs with snaps, or dip them in starch and iron onto cloth.

Good Bazaar Item

A "crevice cleaner" is an easy - to - make Christmas gift or holiday bazaar item. The item is simply a yardstick covered with washable cotton fabric - a bright print on one side, and terry cloth on the other. It can be used to clean crevices between appliances and other hard-to-reach spots.

Tips on Making Men's Suits Last Longer

By MARY FEELEY
Consultant in Money Management

I always tighten my seat belt when I tackle the letters that start out: "How much should we spend for family clothing? What should I allow for my husband, my teen-age daughter, and myself?"

This is always rough going. Everybody needs clothes, and clothes cost money. Trying to dole out the right funds for each member of the family is actually harder than planning the meals. Where food is concerned, everybody sits down at the same table.

But the family's clothing isn't a family pool.

Statistically, you are entitled to spend from $8 to 15 per cent of the annual take-home pay for family clothing in order to pay a well-balanced budget. But there are times when a statistic just doesn't give you much help.

I think one of the things most families are concerned with right now is the higher price of men's suits. The news columns foretold this some time ago, and, lo, it has come to pass. The breadwinner must pay more in order to look like an up-and-coming breadwinner. There isn't much point in going into why - labor costs, textile costs, transportation of materials, etc., and etc. I don't pretend to be able to pinpoint it.

The only thing the breadwinner's loving wife can do, in order to save a dollar, is to examine his fairly well-worn suits and see if she can redeem any of them.

I talked to a good tailor-plus-dry-cleaning authority today, and gathered a few suggestions you might use, if you want to keep your husband's suits in circulation for a little longer. Here they are:

If he wears a vest with his winter suits, you may find some worn areas, due to his leaning against his desk or counter. These become light-colored and conspicuous.

Maybe the cleaner or tailor - or you - could stain these light spots.

On a brown suit, for instance, it has been done by some smart wives with a solution of coffee or tea. You could even try vegetable dye. I admit that this measure doesn't last through many dry cleanings, but at least you can keep the guy well-dressed temporarily.

Then, there are the worn pants cuffs. Adjusting the cuffs a fraction of an inch, just to hide the worn spots, won't make the pants too short. Some tailors will "refuzz" - that's my term for it - the slick areas of a man's suit, such as the seat of the trousers or the elbows of the jacket. It may cost you somewhere between $5 and $10 to get this done, but it will give a suit a new lease on life.

Sometimes a man - especially a salesman who carries a lot of reference material in his pockets - will wear out the lining of his jacket long before the suit itself is worn.

You can ask your tailor-cleaner to replace these linings sometimes just panels of matching material will make the suit look pretty good again.

Of course, if you can afford a new suit, buy it.

And let me say right here that women who can sew can make themselves some "in" clothes for very little money. But a man can't. He has to buy his.

Learn From Tots

DEAR POLLY - My 4-year-old Cindy is a most helpful child and contests with her older sister to fold all the smaller freshly-washed things when we are at the coin laundry.

She is always trying to find someone or something as the object for her little practical jokes. The other day she took the smaller things to a different table to fold them and did so when my back was turned.

She brought them back to me with a twinkle in her eye, her hands behind her back and tried to arouse my curiosity as to what she had been up to. She finally showed me several washcloths she had folded in triangles.

I had never thought of that trick but both dishcloths and washcloths stay neater stacked that way and take up little space in a corner of a kitchen drawer and the linen closet. It took a 4-year-old to show me. -JANE

DEAR POLLY - My Pointer is one I have shared with many friends. When baking cookies, remove the grates (shelves) from the oven before turning it on to the desired heat. Cut a piece of HEAVY-DUTY foil to fit over the top of each grate. The foil may or may not be greased, according to what is specified in the recipe. Use these foil-covered shelves as you would ordinary cookie sheets and you will save on baking time, as each of these large grates will hold many cookies.

When cookies are baked, remove the grates from the oven and carefully slide foil and cookies onto a table. This is one of my most valued time savers. - MINERVA FROM MAINE.

GIRLS - I think this hint is super-duper, as the children say. I tried it on a day when I was making lots of cookies for four visiting grandchildren. I found it best to grease (my recipe called for a greased sheet) the foil before putting it on the shelf.

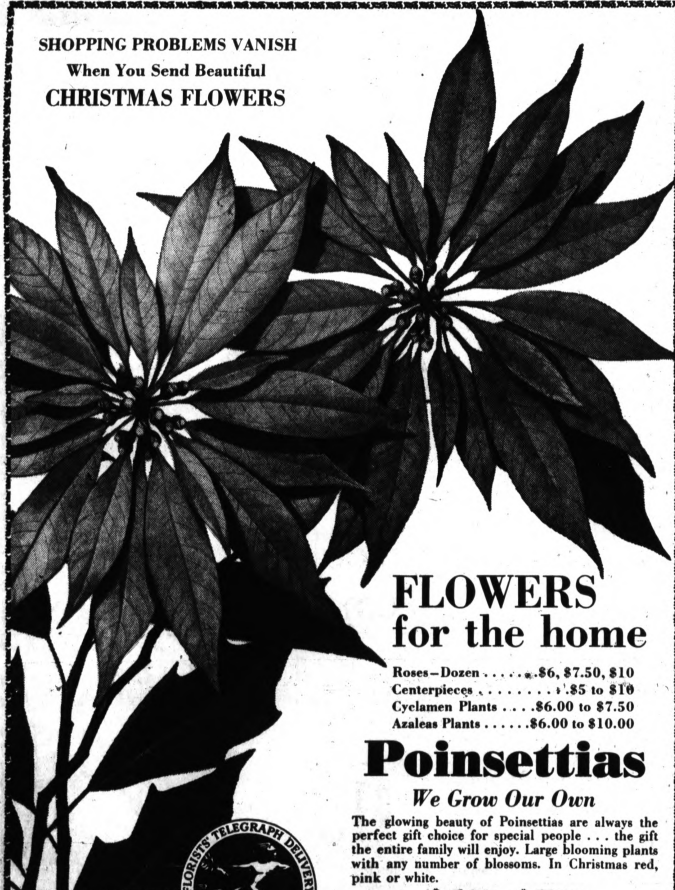

It is easier and quicker to do when the cut piece of foil is placed on a table. I also re-used the foil for a second baking, greasing the side that had been at the bottom during the previous baking, so saved on the required quantity of foil. Be sure to remember this Pointer when holiday baking time rolls around. No more waiting for cookie sheets (and who has enough) to cool and then be washed between bakings. My personal thanks to you, Minerva. - POLLY.

Why Grow Old?

by JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Q. What can I do about hair on my cheeks, between my eyebrows, and so forth?

A. You can tweeze the hairs between your brows and your coarser hairs on your chin. When you mention hairs on your cheeks I judge you refer to the very fine, fuzz-like hair. Unless this is extreme, it is not unattractive.

If you wish to remove it use one of the depilatories planned especially for facial hair—not one of the others.

Q. I have huge, hanging, deposits of fat on my abdomen. Can this be removed with plastic surgery?

A. Yes. This operation can be done successfully.

PREVENT FULL BUST?

Q. I would like to know if sleeping on your stomach and chest will keep the bust from filling out. I sleep this way out of habit. I am 16 years old, 5 feet 2½ and weigh 91 pounds.

My measurements are: bust 31, waist 22, and hips 33 inches. Of course I am very thin, but my mother says that I have a very nice figure when I wear a 32 padded bra. I would like to fill out this measurement properly. I have a nice figure for one so thin, long legs and a flat tummy.

I would like to gain weight and to know whether or not sleeping on my abdomen makes my bust smaller.

A. I do not think that sleeping on the abdomen would hinder the development of bust but it seems to me that it would certainly flatten it. There were many flat busted women following the flat, years ago, of wearing bras which flattened rather than supported.

HEALTHY BUT THIN

As you say you are a lot underweight and should make every effort to gain. Many thin folks are healthy folks but I suggest that you see your family physician and ask his help in gaining weight. You probably know what the usual rules for gaining are: plenty of sleep, a vitamin-rich, well-balanced diet, and mild exercise.

Why not go to your local YWCA this winter to swim? This is a wonderful normalizer of weight, whether you wish to gain or lose. It's fun, too!

RIGHT IN STYLE — Gifts of fashion and beauty — an elegant robe, a fascinating fragrance — are always in style for the women in your life.

New Japan Trains Beat Airliners

By RENE-GEORGES INAGAKI
TOKYO (AP) — Japan's super-express electric train is giving domestic airlines the blues.

The train covers the 322 miles between Japan's two biggest cities, Tokyo and Osaka, in three hours 10 minutes. The sleek white and blue Hikari — Flash — trains dart out of Tokyo's central station 26 times a day.

The route used to be a gold mine for the airlines. Their jets hop the distance in half an hour, but the trip between downtown Tokyo and downtown Osaka takes about 2½ hours.

BUSINESS TRIP

Said a passenger riding the Hikari on a business trip: "The difference in time gained now is no longer worth the trouble of driving out to the airport, waiting around for takeoff, taking the risk of flying, and then having to drive back through dense traffic into downtown Osaka."

When the fastest express took six hours to reach Osaka, it was not always easy to get a plane booking.

One month after the Hikari started operating Oct. 1, 1964, with a cautious experimental five-hour schedule, Japan Air Lines suffered a 32 per cent drop in the number of passengers on its Tokyo-Osaka route, compared to the same month the previous year.

Last April the train time was cut to four hours, and another 50 minutes were slashed Nov. 1, giving the Hikari an average speed of 103 miles per hour.

DRASTIC DROP

At the end of November, Japan Air Line noted a 20 per cent drop compared to October in Tokyo-Osaka traffic. The other airline flying the run, All Japan Airlines, suffered a 25 per cent decline.

Airline officials have no effective measures to counteract the rail service.

Plans to speed up the trip between city center and airport with a helicopter service were dropped because the fare would be double that of a taxi.

The airlines' disadvantage concerns only the Tokyo-Osaka stretch, a relatively short trip. Jets fly from Tokyo to Fukuoka, or to Sapporo in one hour. The express trains take more than 10 hours.

TRIPS FREQUENT

In addition to the 26 Hikari trains, making stops at Nagoya and Kyoto, there are 26 round trips by the same type train, called Kodama — Echo — with a four-hour schedule.

All 800 seats on the Hikari are reserved — and almost always booked solid.

The Hikari is so smooth and silent, racing on long jointless rails, that it has surprised and killed several track workers. But not a passenger has been killed or injured.

Finding Right Yule Gift for Your Host, Hostess

Exchanging visits at Christmas is just as traditional as exchanging gifts and more often than not, involves a gift of some kind for the gracious host and hostess.

The scope of the visit and the friendship usually determine the size of these Christmas remembrances, which may vary from silver serving trays and wall decorations to monogrammed towels and bridge sets.

The thoughtful guest can discover many suggestions for gift ideas by recalling his or her own needs as host and hostess.

Ash trays, table lighters, candlesticks, napkin and coaster sets, pepper mills, unusual salt and pepper shakers, coffee mugs, all make useful and decorative gifts that can be purchased at the same time as personal party needs.

One such shopping trip serves to point up many entertaining gift suggestions.

GIFTS FOR HOST
Gifts for the host might center around his duties at the party, for instance, several-sized glasses, novel decanters, ice buckets, bar accessories, whisk broom and silent butter.

Larger gifts might be chosen to especially help the hostess in her tasks. These include coffee pots, carafes, chafing dishes, serving trays and platters.

The smaller kitchen utensils, such as carving knives, silver serving spoons, pot holders and dish warmers always give a helping hand to the busy hostess.

Appetizing gourmet delights, attractively packaged in quantities sufficient for every size of party, make gifts that can be shared with guests.

Talk About Restrictions

Suspect Fern Causes Cancer

Plant Eaten in Japan Checked by Scientists

By Science Service
WASHINGTON — The prevalence of stomach cancer in Japan could be traced in part to the custom of eating a coarse fern called bracken.

Two "grasses" belonging to the large family of ferns called polypodiaceae are believed to be indistinguishable and could be interchanged in food markets.

Warabi (Pteridium aquilinum) is known to cause cancer in animals, while zen mai (Osmunda japonica) is probably harmless. Used widely as a fresh or dried vegetable and seasoning throughout Japan, zen mai could easily be mixed with the cancer-causing bracken, it is feared.

No one wishes to be quoted on the problem until further study is done, but a report in the British scientific journal Nature has stirred up considerable excitement in scientific circles in this country.

A survey of sheep on the North Yorkshire Moors has revealed that a number of older animals from areas infested with bracken have died of the same type of tumor produced in rats that ate a bracken diet.

REPORT WRITERS

The Nature report is by Drs. I. Antice Evans and J. Mason of the department of biochemistry and soil science, University College of North Wales, Bangor, Caernarvonshire.

These scientists point out that it is well-known from previous research that an effect like radiation damage has been found in cattle eating the bracken plant or extracts from it.

Intestinal tumors in rodents are rare, but the investigators found that 20 male rats and 14 female rats fed a bracken diet died or showed poor condition when killed.

Postmortem examination showed numerous multiple tumors protruding into the intestines, predominantly in the region of the ileum, or lower part of the small intestine.

LARGE TUMORS

Ten of the animals developed a very large tumor as well as other widespread smaller ones.

Work is now going on to find the exact causative agent by trials with bracken extracts.

The residue of fibrous material after extraction is also under test to eliminate any possibility of irritant action.

Communications are being exchanged with Japanese scientists to determine how carefully fern material is being screened before being made available in public markets.

SECOND PLANT

This is the second plant food that has been incriminated as a cause of cancer.

The tropical plant called the cycad, which is found in Guam and elsewhere, was suspected of being dangerous to humans after untreated seeds caused liver cancer in rats.

In the past 10 years life costs for F&A insured homes averaged $2,800 or 18 per cent of the home price. In 1964 life cost only 12 per cent of the total.

Russian Hopes for Private Cars May Be Dashed by Decision to Stress Armaments

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

Nikita S. Khrushchev, as pre-spread private ownership of au-mier and party chief, pooltomobiles.

Probably a lot of Russians have their fingers crossed these days. Many long for private passenger cars. Their hopes have been raised, but now there may be reasons for haunting the notion that there should be any wide-

Later Premier Alexei N. Kossygin and party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev said Khrushchev's ideas about passenger cars were unsound. There was such a need and it ought to be met.

The hopes soared Nov. 30, when virtually the entire party and government leadership trooped to an automobile show in Moscow, an event recorded on the front page of the Communist party organ Pravda.

And besides, would not passenger car production create traffic and parking problems? In 1964, the Soviet automotive industry produced 185,000 cars. The United States turns out that many in a week.

But the new regime wanted to stimulate the internal economy, and evidently hoped for a substantial increase in passenger car production in the new five-year plan.

This meant problems — roads, service stations, and the other things which go with automobiles. Still, the demand would offer the regime an antiinflationary opportunity, a means of siphoning away idle cash.

Two or two and a half years' pay for the average factory hand. But many in the more privileged strata could afford cars if cars were available, and many others would save diligently to get the price.

The leaders conferred with their automotive industry minister, A. M. Tarasov, and heard him report on a long-range plan to expand output of passenger cars.

NEW SOVIET BUDGET
Now comes the new Soviet budget for 1966, stressing heavy industry as opposed to consumer industry. The military budget is increased 5 per cent. The public, in effect, is told to blame U.S. policies.

Perhaps the big production of automobiles, among other things the Russians pine for, will have to be delayed again.

Evidently, Kossygin would regret such a delay. He said this week:

"The production of passenger cars must develop under socialism, just as other sectors of the economy. Men must have cars to move about, to move across the vast expanse of our country. To do this you can walk, ride a horse or drive a car, and of course a car is more effective and better."

KHRUSHCHEV VIEW
Compare this with the way Khrushchev put it after his 1959 trip to the United States:

"Some people like to determine the standard of living of a country by the number of passenger cars produced."

"But this is precisely the field in which we won't compete with America, because we believe that human energy is quite unreasonably wasted there for the production of passenger cars."

Khrushchev wanted to know: What was wrong with taxis?

Big Meteorite Found in Gobi

By Science Service

LOS ANGELES — Earth's third largest meteorite, weighing some 30 tons, has reportedly been discovered in Communist China's Gobi Desert.

It was said to have been found in northern Sinkiang and is on display in Urumchi, capital of Sinkiang.

The largest meteorite on record is the Hoba iron found in 1920 near Grootfontein, Southwest Africa, which weighs an estimated 60 tons.

The second largest is called Ahnighito. It was found in Greenland by Eskimos and brought to the United States in 1867.

Ahnhighito weighs 34 tons and is on display at the American Museum of Natural History in New York.

The Sinkiang meteorite, like all of the largest known meteorites, is undoubtedly a metallic one, or "siderite," composed primarily of an alloy of nickel-iron. Ronald A. Orti reports here in the Griffith Observer, publication of Griffith Observatory.

In London's worst year of crime, the equivalent of $42 million worth of property was stolen in 1964.

Do electric dryers really cost less to buy?

Do you really get no-charge service?

Do kids like ice cream?

The answer to the last question, of course, is a rousing YES! And that goes ditto for the first two questions.

Model for model, electric dryers cost from $20 to $40 less than gas dryers. You can easily check for yourself at any appliance dealers.

Every electric dryer is backed by Edison's No-Charge repair service. No charge for any electrical parts. No charge for labor, either. So you don't have to worry about unexpected repair bills. Remember, Edison is the only utility company in this area that offers no-charge repair service.

Can you get this kind of worry-free assurance with a gas dryer? Sure—with a manufacturer's repair service policy—but it will cost you up to $120 over the first five years of operation alone!

One thing more, Edison's money-saving No-Charge repair service applies even if you don't buy from Edison—so long as the dryer is electric and you get your electricity from Edison.

When you add up the facts, you find that an electric dryer can save you up to $160 in just a few years. That can keep the kids in ice cream for a good long time.

PS If you buy now, from a participating dealer, the low price you pay includes the cost of wiring, if any's needed.

Figures Show N-Power Safe

Radiation Kills Only
6 in U.S. in 22 Years

By Science Service
LOS ANGELES — Operating a nuclear reactor is safer than (1) driving a car, (2) taking a railroad trip, (3) swimming in the ocean or a lake, or (4) working in a factory.

In the 22 years since atomic power was first harnessed, only six men have died from nuclear radiation in the United States, said Dr. Ronald D. MacLain, supervisor of the University of California at Los Angeles nuclear reactor.

That averages out to less than one-third person per year, compared to an annual fatality rate of 40,000 for motor vehicles, 1,000 for railroads, 18,000 for accidental falls and 5,200 for drownings.

Basically, a reactor works like any old-fashioned power plant that burns fuel to heat water. The water makes steam, and the steam turns a turbine generator to produce electricity.

"There is one difference," says MacLain, "instead of oil, gas or coal we use uranium as fuel, making the boiler safer, cheaper, cleaner, smaller and quieter than any other power plant."

MYTHS RIFE

Because nuclear energy first burst upon the public mind in the form of terrifying bombs, many number of myths have developed over the years.

Nuclear plants, like the training reactor at UCLA, cannot explode, MacLain argues, even if all external controls fail.

Over the years, the Atomic Energy Commission has conducted tests on experimental reactors in remote places to check what happens when reactors are pushed beyond all safety limits.

Don't Surprise Her With Yule Gift of Fur

Women love gifts of fur for Christmas. Women love to be surprised at Christmas. Therefore, it seems logical that women would love to be surprised with gifts of fur at Christmas. Seems logical — but it isn't. By all means, Santa, give her fur. This Christmas offers the best opportunity in years, thanks to the removal of the ten percent federal excise tax on furs.

But please, Santa, don't surprise her. Save the surprises for little gifts and "exchangeables."

Though gifts of fur now cost considerably less, they still represent a sizable investment.

Make sure the lucky lady will get the years of enjoyment she deserves from a fine fur, by consulting her tastes first.

FUR IN STORE

Simplest way is to tell her there's a fur in store for her this Christmas. Then, take her along to select what she wants, within the range of the fur gift budget.

One way the surprise element can be maintained is by asking her favorite furrier to provide a suggested sketch of a fur fashion, along with a gift certificate. This can be placed under the tree for her.

Both the budget and her present fur wardrobe, enter into consideration, when deciding on her fur gift.

For thrift and for fun, there are vests, cardigans and overblouses in all sorts of furs, from luxurious mink to sports furs such as kit fox and squirrel.

POPULAR GIFTS

Jackets, stoles and other fur wraps make popular gifts. And the ultimate, of course, is a street-length coat in her favorite fur.

New shades as well as new fashions in furs are creating a Yuletide furore.

In Persian lamb, for example, a new beige hue and a new iridescent natural brown vie with the top-dyed brown called "laser," and with natural gray and traditional black.

As for mink, the selection includes 58 natural colors of American-bred Emba mink.

3-Tire Driver Will 'Retire'

CINCINNATI, Ohio (UPI) — Paul R. Wooten, 23, who managed to drive a car with only three tires 46 miles per hour, won't be driving for at least a year.

He was arrested for speeding in a 30-mile an hour zone.

After explaining he drove the car on a wheel rim because he was in a hurry to return it to the owner, Wooten was fined $25 and his license was suspended for a year.

Search for Better Drugs

Science Gains in Battle on Fungus

NEW YORK (AP) — Medical scientists are making more gains against fungus infections — the "third disease."

Bacteria and viruses long have been the major causes of human death and illness, but drugs and vaccines are bringing them under control.

Now the search is stepping up for better drugs and medicines to control or cure fungus ailments, which actually affect far more people than bacterial and viral diseases combined.

By one estimate, half of all people at some time or another suffer from some kind of superficial or external fungus infection that may cause itching, inflammation, scaling of skin or other woes.

And thousands more fall victim to serious internal or systemic fungus diseases which are often fatal.

There is some evidence that ailments caused by fungi — which are plantlike forms of life — are increasing, says Dr. John A. Lear of the Clinical Research Department of Schering Corp., Bloomfield, N.J.

The hunt for better drugs is worldwide.

One of the newest medications, tolnate — trade name Tincin — rose from research begun 10 years ago by Japanese scientists who patiently tested 3,000 chemicals seeking one that would kill the fungi causing various skin infections. They turned up a chemical, from herbs, that looked promising.

Working on this lead, Schering chemists developed tolnate into a man-made prescription medication which physicians now credit with curing or controlling more than 80 percent of cases of athlete's foot and some other common fungus infections of the skin.

Itching or burning from athlete's foot is usually relieved within one to three days, and true athlete's foot is usually cured or controlled in seven to 21 days, reports Dr. Harry M. Robinson Jr., of the University of Maryland School of Medicine.

This new agent is not effective, however, against most fungus infections of the nails, nor against the fungus that causes moniliasis, a serious infection of the mouth, skin and some other body organs.

Less than a dozen types of families of fungi produce fatal systemic diseases that may involve the lungs, intestines, liver, bones or other organs and systems.

A main drug against the systemic fungi is an antibiotic, amphotericin B. But it sometimes produces undesirable side effects.

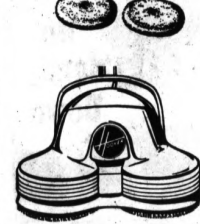

SHOW PROMISE

Two newer antibiotics are reported showing promising activity against some types of systemic fungus infections — one has the code name X5070C, the other is hamycin. Clinical studies to learn just what they can do are still under way.

HELP FROM MOM — A little girl can make her own Christmas gifts by baking pictures on cookies — with a little help from mother.

Air Procedure Provides Help in Hard-to-Find Brain Injuries

By Science Service
NEW YORK — Head X-rays which show up brain fractures, tumors or stroke effects in the head can be improved by putting air into the brain cavities. Procedures for visualizing injuries of diseases that cannot be seen with X-ray alone were made known to a forum at the New York Academy of Sciences.

Pneumography is based on the principle of air in the brain cavities. The procedure calls for a slight reduction in the amount of spinal fluid in these cavities and its replacement by air.

With this change, the radiologist's films can show the effect of pressure defects on the air-filled cavities, displacement of brain substance and other conditions.

Another common aid is called angiography, a method that makes visible the arteries within the skull. It can reveal a greater area of the head than pneumograms generally show.

NOT ADVISED

Complicated procedures are not advised when plain X-ray is sufficient, as in the diagnosis of fractures, Dr. Juan M. Traveras of the Washington University School of Medicine, St. Louis, has pointed out.

Ultrasound, or echonocography, calls for a beam of light-pulsed ultrasound to be passed into the head.

FOR HIM — Gifts to fit special interests — such as this portable power saw — always prove welcome at Christmas time.

Present for Boss Fine

The time honored custom of holding office parties in anticipation of Christmas time always presents the problem of whether the "boss" should be included in the exchange of gifts among staff members usually engaged in at such a time.

Of course, it is correct for him to be included, since he is usually the host, but one gift that comes from the staff collectively, rather than individual gifts from members, is recommended.

A collective gift saves him from the embarrassment that may result from a "shower" that would occur if individual gifts were given, and it certainly circumvents the possibility of anyone charging "office politics."

The burden on the budget of every individual is also lightened. What to choose for him? Above all, good taste should prevail. Something for his desk first comes to mind; something for his business life; or something which recognizes his hobby interests.

Here are a few suggestions. Gifts of desk accessories can be as simple as a new pencil holder, calendar or memo pad.

If many people are joining presenting the gift, something more elaborate might be in order — a complete "desk set," including blotter, clock, calendar, pencil holder, for example.

For the boss who travels — and most do — are gifts that range from pocket memo pads to travel alarm clocks to attach cases.

GOOD TASTE — It's correct to gift the boss, and good taste is the guide to the correct choice. Here, desk accessories are decorated with "vintage car" models.

About 40 per cent of the railroads of the United States have terminals in Chicago.

Do-It-Yourself Holiday Gifts Are More Fun

The do-it-yourself craze is still going strong. And Christmas is one of the best times to join the ranks of the do-it-yourselfers.

Homemade Christmas gifts provide a personal touch that's often lacking in the store-bought variety. And making the gifts is fun in itself and can start you on a brand new hobby.

Some of the easiest gifts to make are available in various types of kits which provide instructions and equipment.

Some of them are easy enough for children to make, and grandma probably will be more delighted with a slightly lopsided home-made gift from little Susie than with a ready-made present.

Little girls who enjoy working in the kitchen can try baking pictures. You just pour powdered plastic crystals on a flat cookie tin and pop them in the oven.

USE A MOLD

The crystals are available in most colors. Use a mold to get the desired picture or draw the outline on a metal sheet.

When baked, take the picture off the cookie tin, frame and wrap prettily.

Another simple project in the kitchen is fried marbles, a recent craze which has grown to an amazing popularity.

Put the marbles in a pan and fry for a few minutes. Then put them in cold water. The marbles will develop cracked patterns. Next, turn the marbles into jewelry. Earring and pin backings are available at most hobby and variety stores and are easy to glue on.

If Dad is handy with tools, you can drill holes in the marbles and string them on a chain for a necklace.

sola and Tracewski took over for him.

Alston remembered a time during the 1964 season when Tracewski filled in and batted around .300 for a few weeks. Charlie remembered the same thing, too.

"I think he'll help us," said Dessen. "He gives us insurance in the infield."

Tracewski, who spent his whole professional career in the Dodgers' organization, will be coming into a strange league, of course.

He and Koufax got along just fine but there is one plus in this derby for the utility infielder.

Seven Okay Pacts

Tigers' Kaline Signs

DETROIT (UPI) — The Detroit Tigers announced Thursday they have signed seven players including Al Kaline for the 1966 season.

The other six are pitchers Hank Aguirre, Denny McLain and Joe Sparrma; catcher Bill Freehan and outfielders Willie Horton and Gates Brown.

Kaline, who first signed with the Tigers in 1963 as a bonus player, was the first to sign for the third straight year. General Manager James A. Campbell said.

Kaline, who will be 31 Sunday, said he was anxious to get to spring training, perhaps with the rookies who will report in early February. He said he was optimistic about an off-season operation on his foot.

"I'm doing something now I couldn't do before — walk without a limp," he said.

No contract terms were disclosed.

Kaline, a former American League batting champion, hit .281 last season. Horton, who was voted the team's most exciting player in a poll of Detroit baseball writers, hit .273 with 29 home runs after a torrid early season streak.

McLain, 21, posted a 16-4 record and 2.62 earned run average to lead the Tiger pitching staff last season. Aguirre won 9 of his first 11 decisions and finished with 14-10. Sparrma was 13-8.

Brown, Detroit's best pinch hitter and a part time outfielder, hit .256 and reached base on 13 of 37 pinch hitting appearances. Freehan, hampered by an injury, hit .234 but fielded .996, a team record.

OPEN WEEKDAYS MONDAY thru FRIDAY 8 A.M. to 5:30 P.M.

SATURDAYS from 8 A.M. to 4 P.M.

I-L Fives Face Foes From EML

The four squads in the Inter-Lakes League have met with little success in their ventures outside the loop this season.

In 12 games — all against nonleague foes — the I-L quintets have won five and lost seven.

And that record may look worse after tonight's round of nonconference play.

Pontiac Northern (1-2) visits Roseville (4-0). Walled Lake (1-2) travels to Port Huron Central (0-2). Waterford (1-2) has a date at Mount Clemens (2-1) and Farmington (2-1), owner of the best I-L mark to date, shown on powerful East Detroit (3-0).

Of the four I-L teams, only Walled Lake is favored to come out on the winning side tonight.

PNH REBOUNDS

PNH's Huskies, after two straight losses, rebounded with a 69-64 victory over Port Huron Northern last week, and although the Huskies haven't shown a lot of power, they continue to show improvement.

After Roseville, PNH takes time out for Christmas before meeting Pontiac Central on the Chiefs' court Dec. 28.

Northern will open the league campaign Jan. 7 at Walled Lake. Waterford will entertain Farmington the same night in the other I-L game.

In the Northwest Parochial League, Orchard Lake St. Mary (4-1) will be looking for its fourth league victory against an invading Ferndale St. James quintet.

Other Northwest games have St. Benedict (4-0) at St. Francis de Sales (1-4) and St. Rita (0-4) at Royal Oak St. Mary (3-1).

UNBEATENS MEET

One of the unbeaten in Southern Thumb League action will fall this evening when Almont (2-0) entertains Capac (2-0).

Anchor Bay, also 2-0, entertains New Haven (0-2), while Memphis (1-1) visits Brown City (0-2) and Dryden (1-1) visits Armada (0-2).

Elsewhere in the area, Madison Lamphere entertains Lutheran East, Wyandotte visits Royal Oak Dendero, Orionville plays host to Hartland, South Lyon visits Chelsea and Lakeview has a date at Utica.

Kettering in League Opener

With three warm-up victories behind them, Kettering's Captains will start their drive for the Tri-County basketball championship tonight on their home floor with defending champion Lapeer providing the opposition.

Lapeer's Panthers were a pre-season choice to finish well down the league ladder this season, but the squad has broken even in four starts so far and has shown a lot of scoring punch.

Kettering has squeaked past three opponents and the young Captains are improving with each game.

Another Tri-County game tonight will find Oxford (1-2) traveling to Mount Clemens to meet winless L'Anse Creuse (0-3). Romeo, idle tonight, has a date at Lake Orion tomorrow night.

A full slate of games are on tap in several area leagues. In the Saginaw Valley Conference, unbeaten Pontiac Central (3-0) will try to remain that way with a game at Saginaw Arthur Hill (1-2).

Other SVC games have Saginaw (4-0) at Midland (3-0), Flint Southwestern (2-0) at Bay City Central (1-3) and Bay City Handy (0-3) at Flint Northern (0-2). Flint Central (0-3) entertains Flint Northwestern (4-1) in a nonleague.

Saginaw and Arthur Hill were the pre-season favorites to battle for the SVC crown, and PCH, which meets both teams only once, must meet the favorites on their home floor. Central will take on Saginaw Jan. 25.

In the Oakland A League, Avondale's Yellow Jackets (3-0) journey to Warren to meet Cousino (5-0) in a battle of unbeaten. Troy visits Madison, Clawson entertains Lake Orion and Rochester will be looking for its first victory when it entertains Warren Fitzgerald.

A key Macomb Catholic League contest will find St. Michael (3-1) entertaining Waterford Our Lady of Lakes (3-1) at Kennedy Junior High.

A victory for the Mikemen would set the stage for their battle with St. Frederick (5-0) next Tuesday on the Kennedy floor. St. Fred's Rams visits Warren Mott in a nonleague game tonight.

West Bloomfield (2-1) will be looking for its third league win in a home encounter against Holly (1-2). Elsewhere in the W-O, Northville is at Milford, Clarenceville at Brighton and Bloomfield Hills at Clarkston.

Vet QB's in AFL Finale

By United Press International
Father time isn't due to close the door on 1965 for another two weeks, but two of his more illustrious proteges are already busy planning an interesting finale to this year's American Football League season.

Houston's George Blanda and Boston's Babe Parilli are the aging characters in question, and these two veteran quarterbacks will square off Saturday in a game that could help to decide second place in the Eastern Division.

Second place is all that's left to settle in this season's AFL race.

Buffalo has nailed down the Eastern Division title and San Diego has captured the Western Division crown, so the final weekend of activity offers little more than competition for individual honors.

Houston (4-9) has a chance to gain a tie for second place in the East if New York loses to Buffalo on Sunday.

The Oilers, though, are on a five-game losing streak while the Patriots (3-8-2) have won two straight.

The remainder of the AFL teams close out their schedule on Sunday. Besides the Jets-Bills clash at New York, San Diego hosts Oakland and Kansas City entertains Denver.

ROAD TEAM

Buffalo will be out to finish its season without a loss on the road while New York is interested in solidifying its hold on second place in the East.

Both teams have good quarterbacks with the Jets' Joe Namath currently ranked third in the league and Buffalo's Jack Kemp fourth. New York also has the fourth leading rusher in Matt Snell and the third leading pass receiver in Don Maynard.

Bosox Slugger Best

BOSTON (AP) — Carl Yastrzemski of the Boston Red Sox, runner-up to batting champion Tony Oliva of Minnesota last season, won the American League's slugging title in 1965, the final averages confirmed today.

Yastrzemski compiled a .536 slugging mark, collecting 265 total bases in 494 times at bat. Among his extra base hits were 45 doubles, three triples and 20 home runs.

Tony Conigliaro, another Boston outfielder, and first baseman Norm Cash of Detroit tied for second at .512. They were followed by Leon Wagner of Cleveland .485, Oliva .491, Willie Horton of Detroit .490 and Tom Tresh of the New York Yankees and Frank Howard, Washington, .477 each.

In the official batting averages released earlier this week,

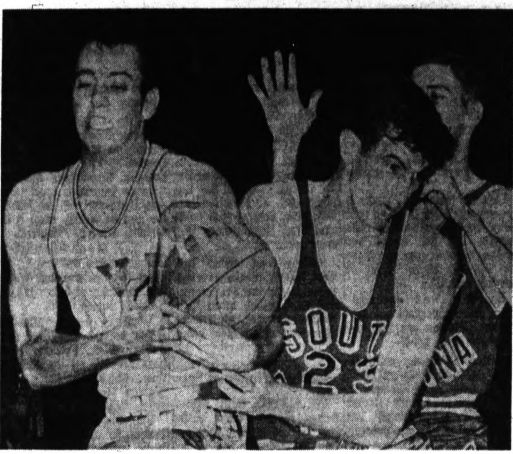

Yastrzemski had a .312 average to Oliva's .321.

The Red Sox had the highest team slugging mark, .400. Then came the pennant-winning Minnesota .399, Cleveland .379, Detroit .374 and Chicago and New York, .364 each.

Rocky Colavito of Cleveland drew the most bases on balls, 93, while Minnesota's Don Mincher had the most intentional walks, 26. Baltimore's Jerry Adair grounded into the most double plays, 26.

Max Alvis of Cleveland and Bert Campaneris, Kansas City, were hit by pitched balls the most times, nine each, while Cleveland's Jerry Adair grounded into the most double plays, 26.

Yastrzemski is the first Boston player to win the slugging title since Ted Williams did so in 1957.

Big Orange 'Cagers' on Way Back

By The Associated Press

Syracuse, one of the disappointments of the college basketball season a year ago, is on the way back.

In contrast to their poor start last season when they won their first game then lost six in a row, the Orangemen chalked up their sixth straight against no defeats this season with a 103-79 victory over previously unbeaten Penn State Thursday night.

'Actually it was Syracuse's ninth straight since the Orange won the last three games of the 1965 season for an over-all 13-10 record.

Dave Bing, a 6-foot-3 from Washington, D.C., delighted a record turnout of 6,913 at the Manley Field House on the Syracuse campus. He paced the Orange with 24 points, 10 rebounds and six assists.

Carver Clinton, with 28 points, led the Nittany Lions who stayed in contention until Syracuse took a nine point lead 79-70 late in the second half.

Another youth from the nation's capital, Bob Lewis, also made headlines.

Lewis, a 6-3 junior, set an all-time individual one game scoring record for North Carolina with 49 points as the Tar Heels swamped Florida State 115-80 at Chapel Hill.

SCORING MARK

Lewis hit on 18 of 25 shots from the field and got 13 of 16 free throws as he erased the previous Tar Heel one game record of 48 points set last year by Billy Cunningham against Tulane. In addition Lewis grabbed seven rebounds and handed out five assists.

Tony Hinkle, veteran Butler coach, again was thwarted in his bid for his 500th career victory when ninth-ranked Bradley defeated his Bulldogs 73-70 at Peoria. It was the seventh straight victory for the unbeaten Braves, the only team in The Associated Press Top Ten, to play Thursday.

Houston, paced by Joe Hammond's 20 points, won the unofficial championship of the two day Bluebonnet Classic at Houston by defeating Texas A&M 90-85. The Cougars were the only ones to win on both nights.

South Carolina, which had surprised Duke, the AP's No. 1 team last week, took a 83-66 trouncing from NYU in the feature of a New York doubleheader. Stan McKenzie scored a career high of 37 points for the Violets. Unbeaten DePaul swamped Iowa 82-37 in the other game at Madison Square Garden.

Billy Smith tapped in a rebound with 10 seconds left to give Chicago Loyola a 74-73 victory over St. Louis and Mississippi beat Southern Mississippi 94-75.

The 36-game winning streak of Central State of Ohio, No. 1 in the AP small college poll, was snapped by Steubenville 59-57 on John Hummel's jump shot in the last second of play. The Evansville Aces, No. 2 and defending NCAA small college champs, also lost. They were beaten by Mt. St. Mary's 82-81 on Mike Lyons' layup with eight seconds left.

The Kansas at UCLA game tops tonight's schedule which also lists first round games in six holiday tournaments, the Milwaukee Classic, the Vanderbilt Classic, the U. of Kentucky Invitational, Gulf South Classic, Virginia Tech Invitational and Sun Devil Classic.

Mississippi 11 Bowl Favorite

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — You could call Saturday's Liberty Bowl the "Bowl Bowl" and get away with it.

The Liberty Bowl combatants, Auburn and Mississippi, played a total of eight games against bowl-bound teams during the regular season, and the results proved that the two Southeastern Conference teams could probably hold their own in almost any bowl game.

Mississippi is a six-point favorite in the Liberty Bowl, which will be telecast at 3:30 p.m. (EST) to much of the eastern half of the country. The favorite's role came mainly on the strength of rebel wins over Cotton Bowl-bound LSU (23-0) and Bluebonnet Bowl-bound Tennessee (14-13).

Auburn's Tigers knocked off one bowl team and tied another. The Tigers upset Florida, headed for the Sugar Bowl, 23-17, and tied Tennessee.

Auburn finished second in the SEC this year and Mississippi was fifth, but the Rebels have better overall record.

Mississippi ended the regular season 6-4 over-all and Auburn was 5-4-1.

GROUND GAMES

The two teams, which haven't met in a dozen years, have strong ground games, both offensively and defensively.

Mississippi counts heavily on deadly little roll out runs by quarterback Jimmy Heidel, who leads the team in total offense with 788 yards, and fast, hard runs by all-SEC halfback Mike Dennis.

Coach Shug Jordan's Tigers, who caught fire after switching quarterbacks only to have the SEC title go down the drain in a disappointing 30-3 loss to Alabama, have found a good offensive combination but the real star is a defensive manlinebacker Bill Cody.

An SEC official who has seen both teams this season was asked for an assessment.

Pass-Minded Tulsa 6-Point Underdog

HOUSTON (UPI) — Tulsa, one of the passngest teams in the history of college football, and the Tennessee Volunteers, a football team with one of the nation's top defenses this season, collide Saturday in the seventh annual Bluebonnet Bowl.

Tennessee, with a 7-1-2 record, goes into the game a 6-point favorite over pass-minded Tulsa, but a favored team has never won in the Bluebonnet Bowl.

Nine-Day Season Nets 183 Elk

AP Outdoor Writer
VANDERBILT (AP) — Michigan's elk hunters had bagged a good total of 183 of the huge animals as a nine-day special Conservation Department, re-season closed Thursday night.

"They did a lot better than we expected," said Troy Yoder, a game warden for the State.

"We thought the weather would hold down the elk kill more than it did," he said.
Last year, 269 elk were shot.
The department predicted only 100 would be taken this year.

GOOD SHOOTING

Department game experts later jumped their estimate to around 200 after excellent weather and good marksmanship by first-and-second-day elk shooters resulted in a higher-than-expected kill.

"We still are real happy with the season," said Yoder.

The big bulls and the smart cows started retreating early in to the deep forest. There was one day that only one elk was bagged and another day when the take was two.

Persistent hunters had to follow them into the wilderness.

"We had little tracking snow after the first few days, otherwise the bag would have been higher," Yoder said.

Yoder reported that in the last day, eight animals were shot.

Hunters then had to track them as far as five to six miles into the woods, taking advantage of the late snow cover, he said.

By JERE CRAIG

Apparently, Michigan has at least one "River City" with "Trouble that starts with a capital T which rhymes with P and that stands for love."

The Niles Board of Education is investigating a $30 expense item covering bowling and billiards for Brandywine High School students.

It seems the students bowl two or three times a week and play pool afterward... at the taxpayers' expense and for course credit.

The idea of high school youngsters bowling isn't appalling.
Many schools have bowling clubs which sponsor leagues, though not for course credit.

The Brandywine class is patterned after numerous college courses in which bowling, archery, golf, tennis are combined into a recreation program.

Principal O. L. Vecellio em-inated the cue sticks from the curriculum; but he defended the program, claiming it was of more value than rope climbing or pushups since the students could play pool after graduat(or dropping out of school).

But the pool hall stigma of shady participants and unhealthy atmosphere still plagues billiards despite the clean, carefully supervised areas with well-lit tables at many bowling establishments today.

In the Pontiac area, family groups as well as well-dressed

MICHIGAN ROAD THREATENED — Recent rains continued to eat away at this bluff near a stretch of Red Arrow highway along Lake Michigan in St. Joseph and now threaten the highway. Jetties at right were built in the early 1950s for $7,000 each after a high lake level had sliced off a section of the bluff and tumbled homes into the lake. A rising lake level is expected next year.

The party was given by the Children's Holiday Party Foundation, a trust established by Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., and several men who worked with him in his election campaign last year.

Scranton Would Run—for Safety's Sake

Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania was talking to a group of high school students at the governor's conference on traffic safety in Harrisburg yesterday when this question came up:

"Are you going to run for president again?"

Scranton smiled and replied: "If it would help traffic safety, I'd run for president."

After losing the 1964 Republican presidential nomination to Barry Goldwater, Scranton had said he would not try for that office again.

U.A.R. 5th to Break Britain Ties

CAIRO (AP) — The United Arab Republic Thursday night became the fifth African nation to break diplomatic relations with Britain over Rhodesia.

Earlier Ghana, Tanzania, Guinea and Mali heeded the call by the Organization of African Unity for its 36 members to break with London unless the British overthrew Prime Minister Ian Smith's Rhodesian government by last Wednesday.

Tass, the Soviet news agency, reported that four more OAU members, Nigeria, Mauritania, Senegal and the Congo Republic — Brazzaville — were also breaking with Britain. Senegal denied it would do so now.

Rhodesia's white minority government declared independence from Britain on Nov. 11 after negotiations broke down over Britain's insistence that Rhodesia's four million Africans be guaranteed ultimate control of the government. There are 220,000 whites in Rhodesia.

Britain has imposed economic sanctions against Rhodesia but refuses to use force to bring down the Smith regime. The African nations are in no position to mount a successful military operation against Rhodesia.

The U.A.R.'s decision to break surprised British diplomats in Cairo. After the OAU's deadline expired Wednesday, Egyptian officials said their government would postpone the break and backed Ethiopian Emperor Halle Selassie's call for another OAU conference on Dec. 21 to reconsider the matter.

Ghana and Tanzania are members of the British Commonwealth, and Tanzania appeared careful to preserve its well-

Commonwealth ties in announcing its decision. But Ghana's President Kwame Nkrumah told his cheering Parliament that his government was considering leaving the Commonwealth as well.

Give a Cheer, Brigitte Is Here

French Actress Pays First Visit to U.S.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Brigitte Bardot, wearing a tight knit dress variously described by reporters as raspberry, strawberry, and pink, introduced herself to the United States yesterday.

"Do you want to be a serious actress?" one reporter asked the blonde star on her arrival at Kennedy Airport.

"I want to be myself," said Brigitte.

"What's that?" "Look," then she twirled her hips and pouted in the Bardot manner, the stuff of which male fantasies are made.

Another reporter, apparently trying to find out how the French feel about the state of affairs in their former colony, asked for her views on the war in Viet Nam.

"We are not here to speak about politics. We are here to speak about Brigitte Bardot," said she with a toss of her bleached, shoulder-length hair.

Miss Bardot, on her first visit to the United States, is here to attend the premiere of her film "Viva Maria."

At another section of the airport, Prime Minister Harold Wilson of Britain departed un-noticed for a meeting with President Johnson in Washington.

Exec of Parker Firm Sees No New Trend in Games

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD — Edward P. Parker is a conservative New Englander of middle years who has devoted his lifetime to games.

Grandnephew of the founder of the Parker Bros. he is now executive vice president of the Salem, Mass., firm that has provided entertainment for American parlors for 80 years.

Parker was here recently for several purposes: to confer with the Disney people, for whom his company has devised games since the early days of Mickey Mouse; to pay a first visit to Disneyland; to check on Christ-Finch and Rook are 60 years old; yet all three are among his firm's stars.

"Business seems to be good," he reported, "but you never can tell until Christmas is over. For some reason we've never favored, people seem to buy games last, after they have purchased everything else."

What's the trend in games? CAN FADE FAST "There's no trend," Parker said. "We've seldom gone in for topical games, although—experience is that you have to try alone is now somewhere between 40 and 50 million."

Monopoly has provided riches for its inventor, Charles Darrow, who now lives in Bucks County, Pa. Because he sent the game to the public, Parker Bros. feels obligated to examine every submission by amateur game inventors.

"We had 2,000 games proposed to us last year, and this year there may be as many as 4,000," said Parker. "Ninety per cent of them take little time to examine. They are usually track games which offer little novelty, or they are topical games which will age too fast."

There is no common denominator for a successful game. "If you enjoy playing it, then you've got something. If you don't enjoy it, you have failed," said the veteran game man. "That's all there is to it."

The low bid for the wrecker also was submitted by GMC Truck and Coach Division. The board approved a recommendation of Tatroe outlining policies to be followed in applying for open space land grants.

The federal government will finance 50 per cent of the cost of school land sites to be used for recreational purposes.

Effective Jan. 1, the Board of Education will assume control of the Waterford Township Recreation Department.

Yule Party for Children The ninth annual Christmas party for children with blood diseases will be held at the McCarrall School, 191 Glenwood, from 1 to 3 p.m. tomorrow.

Entertainment will include musicians, dancers, a magician, a cartoonist to sketch the children, and TV star Sherry Kaye. Chairman of the affair is Kay Pickering.

Thai TB Rate 1 in 30 BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — About a million of Thailand's 30 million population has tuberculosis, an official of the Tuberculosis Suppression Association says.

For Waterford Schools

Bargaining Agents OK'd

Three school employee groups were officially recognized as sole bargaining agents last night by the Waterford Township Board of Education, following recommendations by Supt. Don O. Tatroe.

Gaining bargaining status were the Waterford Education Association, the Waterford Association of Educational Secretaries and Metropolitan Council No. 23, American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees.

A majority of the members of the three groups previously indicated they favored the move, according to school officials.

Last night's action stems from a new Michigan law which allows for collective bargaining for public employees.

The board appointed a school district bargaining team to be authorized to negotiate contracts with employee representatives.

OTHER ITEMS In other business last night, the board authorized purchase of six new school buses for $38,826 and a wrecker for $3,818. GMC Truck and Coach Division submitted the low bid of $17,386 for the bus chassis, while Ward Body of Michigan turned in the low bid of $21,438 for the bus bodies.

Famous Italian Tenor Tito Schipa Dies at 75

NEW YORK (UPI) — Tito Schipa, one of the great Italian operatic tenors, died here last night. He was 75.

10th Protester Is Reclassified

U-M Student Put 1A by N.Y. Draft Board

ANN ARBOR (AP)—A 10th student participant in the Oct. 13 anti-Viet Nam draft board sit-in here said Thursday he had been classified 1A in the military draft.

Richard Gordon, 18, of Merrick, Long Island, New York, said his local draft board had classified him immediately available for the draft despite his full-time student status at the University of Michigan.

Gordon said he applied for a student deferment when he enrolled as a freshman in the college of literature, science and art in September and had expected to be deferred.

A controversy over the reclassifications has developed since they began last month. Selective Service maintains the students violated the draft law by conducting the sit-in at the Ann Arbor draft board, obstructing its functions.

DEFENDS STUDENTS At Detroit, Ernest Mazey, director of the Michigan branch of the American Civil Liberties Union, said ACLU attorneys would defend all but one of the students who have been reclassified. One student has a private counsel.

ACLU attorneys will meet in Washington next Wednesday to determine legal strategy, Mazey said.

"We may not go through the internal appeal process all the way," he said, adding the ACLU may challenge the Universal Military Service and Training Act on grounds it is unconstitutional in some sections.

"When we get to court," he said, "we'll undoubtedly challenge denial of counsel or a reporter to take transcripts of hearings before local draft boards."

NORMAL RIGHTS Mazey said, "I think there's a chance that the courts may well hold that persons subject to Selective Service are entitled to normal safeguards of the law, such as the right to be represented by counsel."

He said appeals would be carried to the U.S. Supreme Court if necessary, adding draft reclassifications are an abuse of the law and indistinguishable on moral and constitutional grounds.

Fire Victim Likes Barn

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — The Christmas spirit has moved many Nashvillians to offer homes to the Albert T. Davis family, left without a place to live when fire destroyed their house Wednesday morning.

Only thing is, Davis says, he's taken a liking to the barn where he and the other five members of his family have been living since the fire. He says he thinks he'll stay there.

"I thank everyone for their offers of places to live," the 50-year-old salvage dealer says.

"But I think this barn can be fixed up, and we'd rather stay around here, close to the school and the people we know."

Work, Fun Combined by Schirra

SPACE CENTER, HOUSTON (UPI) — Just because Wally Schirra is possibly the best spaceman in the business, don't think he's one of those dead-serious types.

He's the one, for example, who slipped that strictly non-regulation corned beef to astronaut John Young before the latter set off in Gemini 3 last March to take a space stroll.

Schirra showed again on Wednesday and Thursday why his superior overlook it if he has a little fun in his work—his work invariably following the formbook to the letter.

His handling of Gemini 6 surprised even those who know how good he is. But he injected some light moments into the flight, too.

During the final phase of his mission Thursday morning, Schirra galvanized ground controllers with the report:

"We have an object in view. Looks like it's in a polar orbit. And in a very low trajectory, heading north to south."

LET SOAK IN

He let that soak in a bit. Then:

"This is a rare space object, indeed. Only someone like Santa Claus could make it."

"Stand by an we'll try to pick this up..."

Then, after letting the curiosity build, Schirra put the kicker on his little practical joke by whipping out a harmonica and playing "Jingle Bells" for the folks on the ground, accompanied by copilot Thomas Stafford on a set of bells.

DID IT AGAIN

The old smuggler had done it again.

Not only that, he revealed that he had taken aboard a sign reading "Beat Army," which he flashed in the face of Gemini 7's Command and Pilot Frank Borman, a West Point graduate, during Wednesday's historic rendezvous.

But Borman was ready for him. He flashed his own sign, reading "Beat Navy."

The outcome of this friendly feud will have to wait until next year. This year's Army-Navy football game wound up a tie, 7-7.

Rendezvous Points Way to Military Role

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON (AP) — The successful rendezvous of the Gemini 6 and 7 space vehicles has pointed the way toward the first step needed if the military is to have a useful role in space.

But neither Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara nor Pentagon experts feel this peaceful scientific demonstration in itself will lead to military activity in space in the near future.

What Wednesday's rendezvous did was to show the ability to "dock" one orbiting space vehicle with another—and thus transfer and supply crews of large, comparatively permanent spaceships without bringing the ships to earth each time.

With no decision made on how the military might utilize space, the Defense Department has received President Johnson's approval to go ahead with the $1.5 billion "Military Orbiting Laboratory" — MOL — aimed at determining what military men could do in space and how this could benefit the national defense.

The Pentagon rules out, basically, any idea of using satellites carrying nuclear weapons to be put down on targets either by making the vehicles reenter the earth's atmosphere and directing them to targets or by releasing the weapon from the vehicle and aiming it at the target.

NO SATELLITE WEAPONS

There are two reasons for this: U. S. defense experts insist that better accuracy, reliability and warhead load can be obtained with long-range ballistic missiles; and there is agreement between the major nuclear powers not to use satellites as weapons.

There are, however, obvious fields of interest for those contemplating future possibilities for military space activities.

The first is inspection of suspected space vehicles which might be carrying weapons and be either manned or unmanned. Here close approach or even actual entry into the suspected vehicle would be needed.

If the vehicle proved hostile, it would be necessary to destroy it, again by a rendezvous close enough so the explosion of the intercepting weapon would do the job.

EARTH SCANNED

Then there is surveillance of the earth. That already is being done by unmanned, highly instrumented satellites which scan the earth from polar orbits. Both the United States and the Soviet Union have such systems.

The use of rendezvous could make possible the posting of large, manned "space platforms" in orbit, primarily as a base in the sky for sending out smaller vehicles to conduct inspection or surveillance. Such platforms presumably would be assembled in the sky from parts sent up by cargolite vehicles.

Inventors Can Use New Lab

By Science Service

PHILADELPHIA — Inventors here no longer need to park the car in the street and work in the garage.

They have the use of a new type of nonprofit laboratory established by private industry with the aid of the Economic Development Administration.

The laboratory provides independent inventors with space, modern equipment (including computers and electron microscopes) and technical advice at cost.

Its purpose is to stimulate industrial research, resulting hopefully in more jobs for southeastern Pennsylvania.

These private inventors, however, have one important advantage over those actually working for industry: they retain the rights to all their inventions. Rights to almost everything invented by company inventors are automatically owned by the companies.

TECHNICAL PANEL
Inventors who want to work at the laboratory are screened by a technical panel of university and industrial researchers. If accepted, they become "research associates" of the laboratory.

So far, the venture has been very successful, both in number of applicants and new products. Conceivably, such laboratories will be established in other parts of the United States.

Initiative, however, must come from local sources. The site and the building here were provided by private industry — the Southeastern Pennsylvania Economic Development Corp. and the West Philadelphia Corp.

Federal aid consisted solely of a technical staff.

Santa and the Zabbazara Bus

BY LUCRECE BEALE

Synopsis: Santa shows Mr. D the island of Zabbazara on a map of Faraway Places. They and the little boy get on the bus and set out for the island.

CHAPTER ELEVEN
AP News Feature

They rode all day and they rode all night. On the morning of the second day they arrived at the edge of a blue-green sea. In the middle of the sea was a golden isle. This was Zabbazara.

Santa and Mr. D and the little boy got out of the bus.

"There's no bridge!" cried the little boy. "And no boat. How will we get across the sea?"

Santa pointed to an old sea trunk on the beach.

SIGN ON TRUCK

A sign on the trunk said "Free ride to Zabbazara." They opened the trunk. It was filled with pieces of colored rubber.

"They're balloons!" exclaimed Mr. D. "What use are they?"

The little boy snatched out a purple balloon and began to blow it up. In two breaths it was bigger than he.

He could hardly hold on to it. A little breeze tugged at the balloon. Before he knew what had happened the boy was in the air and sailing over the sea.

WONDERFUL WAY

"My goodness!" cried Mr. D. "What a wonderful way to travel!"

He took a balloon out of the box and blew it up. In a few seconds he was sailing after the boy. A moment later Santa, too, was on his way.

When they came near the island the little breeze died down as if someone had pressed a button. The three travelers floated gently down.

Now they saw that the island was not all gold.

GOLDEN APPLES

But the trees bore such golden apples and oranges and pears and bananas, and the flowers had such bright yellow blossoms, that it seemed truly a golden island.

A group of laughing children burst through the trees and surrounded the visitors.

"Come play with us!"

Santa shook his head. "We don't have time for play. We have work to do."

NO WORK

"But, there's no work here! We only play!"

"Don't you even go to school?" asked the little lost boy in astonishment.

"What for? We know all we need to know."

"Perhaps you had better take us to your elders," said Santa.

NO ELDERS

The children hooted. "We have no elders! There are no grownups in Zabbazara."

The little boy thought he had never heard of a land so grand.

Santa said, "You have a princess. I have heard."

The children said of course they had a princess, and they would take Santa to see her.

OUT OF TREES

They led the visitors out of the trees and down a golden street to a golden palace.

There in a golden hall on a golden throne sat the princess. She was no older in years than the little lost boy, who thought that never again in his life would he see so lovely and shining a creature.

The princess smiled graciously. Santa told her he had heard she had great power and could grant any wish and break any charm.

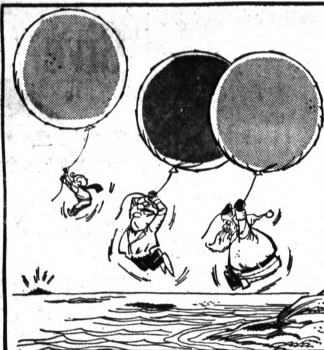

He asked her help in breaking the spell the evil Voodoo man had cast over Santa Land.

SMILE VANISHES

The princess's smile vanished. She sent all the golden-haired children out of the palace. Then she said, "What you have told me makes me fearful for us all."

The Voodoo man threatens us, too, and I do not want the others to know."

"But you have great power," began Santa.

Trio Headed For Golden Island

The princess looked even younger than her years.

"Alas! The Voodoo man has found a secret magic that makes his power greater than mine. There is no magic I can work against him. Unless we find what his secret is he will destroy us all."

Tomorrow: Mr. D's Plan.

First Step Is Taken to Get Detroit Water

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP—The Township Board has taken the first official step toward bringing Detroit water to the township.

Trustees have authorized the Oakland County Department of Public Works to establish a water supply district in the township.

Establishment of the district will include a master plan for eventually supplying water to the whole township.

However, the initial service area basically will cover that portion of the township currently using the township water system.

The area lies roughly between Inkster and Orchard Lake roads, from 14 mile to the northern boundary of the township.

Township Supervisor John C. Rehard said it also would cover some subdivisions west of Orchard Lake.

The next step in the program is to determine exactly what area will be covered by the initial system, he said.

Officials are working toward constructing the first phase of the system in 1966.

Estimated cost of the system has not yet been determined, Rehard said.

CONNECTION FEES

Connection fees will be paid to retire revenue bonds for the project. A $200 charge will be made to units connecting to lateral lines, while those on the transmission main will pay $400.

The supervisor said other funds will be available through the savings effected because the township no longer will pay for maintenance of pumping stations.

Rehard said Detroit water will cost users more than that now being pumped from wells.

The rate will be set when the township signs a contract with the Detroit Department of Water Supply. It is based on elevation, distance and the pressure at which the water is to be distributed.

250 FEET HIGHER Rehard noted West Bloomfield Township is about 250 feet higher than Detroit.

In other action Wednesday, the board extended its fire protection contract with Orchard Lake until April 1.

Under the contract the city pays $8,000 a year for Township Fire Department service. In addition, it pays $75 per truck for the first hour of service and $50 an hour beyond that.

The contract had been renewed for only six months in July because Orchard Lake officials were considering the possibility of establishing a fire department in conjunction with Keego Harbor and Sylvan Lake. The April 1 extension date corresponds to the beginning of the city's fiscal year.

READY FOR DELIVERY

White Lake Township Goodfellows, preparing to deliver Christmas packages and baskets to needy families, will raise funds for the project through a paper sale tomorrow. While John Ingamells (left) tries to make a sale, Township Clerk Ferdinand Vander (center) and Bob Pickford display some of the items that will be distributed to the needy. Ingamells is president of Metropolitan Club Spirit No. 78, which sponsors the drive.

Goodfellows Will Sell Papers Tomorrow in White Lake Twp.

Lack of Water Shuts Off All School Activity

ROCHESTER — West Junior High School remained closed today because of a lack of water pressure.

All activities scheduled for tonight at the school have been canceled.

Schools Supt. Dr. William Early said repairs should be made in time for the morning recreation program to be held tomorrow.

A power failure Wednesday in a portion of Avon Township caused a burned-out motor on a water pump at the school.

Dr. Early said there has been some difficulty in obtaining a water pump replacement.

Youngsters Will Donate Yule Gifts

WHITE LAKE TOWNSHIP — Youngsters are going to turn the tables on Santa here Sunday and give him a bag full of toys.

They'll gather at the annual kiddies Christmas party sponsored by the Lakewood Village Women's Club.

The event is scheduled for 2 to 4 p.m. at the White Lake Township Community Hall on M59.

Each child attending will bring a toy wrapped and labeled to indicate whether it's for a boy or girl and the age bracket.

The White Lake Township firemen will help Santa distribute the gifts to needy children in time for Christmas.

Youngsters at the party Sunday also will get a chance to get in a few last-minute words to Santa.

County Committee Selected for ASCS

Twenty-three Oakland County Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) community committees yesterday elected a three-member county committee for 1966.

Under a new ASCS ruling, the committees will serve staggered one-, two- and three-year terms.

Two members of this year's committee were reelected in the voting at Waterford High School. They were Alfred Haack of 52400 12 Mile, Lyon Township, who was named chairman, and Arthur Stack of 7187 Grange Hall, Groveland Township, who was elected vice chairman.

Haack will serve a two-year term and Stack was named to fill the three-year term.

The third member elected was Frank Ruggles of 5561 Cooley Lake, White Lake Township, who was an alternate member last year.

ALTERNATE MEMBERS

Alternate members chosen in yesterday's balloting were Robert Long of 5996 Bogie Lake, Commerce Township, this year's chairman, and Harold Mitchell of 16452 McWain, Holly Township.

The committees serve as liaison between farmers and the ASCS in the implementation of the various federal farm subsidy programs.

The ASCS office has been relocated at 4515 Highland, Waterford Township, on the second floor of the Giroux Realty building.

The office was formerly located at 63 Oakland in Pontiac.

The new location provides ample parking space and more adequate facilities for the office staff.

EMPTY SHELVES — Sister M. Lawrence, O.P., librarian at Delima Junior College, 775 W. Draher, Oxford Township, looks a bit forlornly at the empty shelves in the new library. The present library collection contains more than 5,300 books, but expansion plans call for 7,200 books and periodicals. Officials hope to develop a college library which will be available to the general public. Any persons having books or magazines to donate may write or call Sister Lawrence at the college.

For Paving Roads Assessment District Set Up

AVON TOWNSHIP — The Township Board last night ordered a special assessment district to be set up for paving roads in Rochdale subdivision.

The assessment district was approved by the board at a public hearing in spite of past objections by residents.

Delay of Hearing on Lake Gives Time for Talks

Highland and White Lake Township officials have taken advantage of a postponement of a hearing on the level of White Lake to hold an informational meeting on the matter.

The Oakland County Circuit Court hearing on establishment of the lake level was postponed from Wednesday to 9 a.m. next Wednesday before Judge William J. Bear.

A meeting on the proposed project will be held at 8 p.m. today at the White Lake Township Hall.

Speakers will include William McDonald and Philip Hampton of Johnson and Anderson, Inc. The Waterford Township firm is responsible for the engineering on the project.

Under the assessment plan, all property owners will be required to share additional costs normally incurred by owners of corner lots.

An extra assessment will be added to each parcel of land on the rolls to cover the costs of the corner lots.

Several residents tried to withdraw their names from the original petitions seeking the paving but the township attorney ruled their names valid.

10-YEAR PERIOD

Township Supervisor Cyril E. Miller said payments will be spread over a 10-year period with option to pay off the project sooner.

He said work will begin next spring as soon as weather permits. Estimated cost of the project is $65,867, based on the low bid of Cooke Construction Co. for $47,139, plus engineering, advertising and financial consultant fees.

Yearly Meeting Set Jan. 20 by Hospital Association

The annual meeting of the five-year-old Huron Valley Community Hospital Association has been scheduled for Jan. 20.

The public gathering will be held at 8 p.m. in the little theater of Milford High School, 2380 N. Milford, Milford Township.

Reports will be given on progress of the hospital fund drive and directors will be elected for 1966.

Formed June 9, 1960, the association has collected contributions and pledges totaling about $80,000.

The proposed hospital is expected to cost $3.5 million.

Included in the service area for the facility are 10 townships — Highland, White Lake, Rose, Commerce, Novi, Lyon and Milford in Oakland County and Green Oak, Brighton and Hartland in Livingston County.

NEED FUNDS

Fund raisers for the hospital now are seeking financial backing for a 150-bed unit.

They are attempting to procure both state and federal help along with private donations.

Originally purchased as the site for the facility was a 15-acre parcel of property fronting Mont Eagle and Atlantic in Milford.

However, the directors announced in November that they were seeking a new site closer to the Union Lake area.

A site there would be more accessible for emergency cases and would be closer to the center of projected population growth, they said.

NEED MORE ROOM

It also was noted that the site should be larger — a parcel in the 30- to 50-acre range was recommended.

In announcing the annual meeting, association spokesmen said that a financial statement is being prepared and will be available to all members shortly.

GUEST SPEAKER

— Rev. Edgar Twedt, dean of faculty at the Baptist Bible College, Grand Rapids, will speak at the 11 a.m. service Sunday at Meadow Brook Baptist Church. Services are held in Meadow Brook Elementary School, 2350 Munster, Avon Township.

Dryden Masonic Lodge Will Install Officers

DRYDEN — Richard Thomas of 4223 Rochester, Leonard, will be installed as worshipful master of Dryden Masonic Lodge No. 150, F&M, at 8 this evening.

Other officers to be installed include Fred Bosch of 6030 Hough, Almont, senior warden; William Wilcox of 3871 N. Mill, junior warden; Oliver Braidedwood of 5561 Liberty, treasurer; and Donald Vandewalker of 5531 North, secretary.

ALLEN W. HAUGSTED

Killing Suspect
Wanted by FBI

Allen Wade Haugsted, a hot-tempered Minnesota baker charged with a deadly family crime rampage, has been added to the FBI's list of "Ten Most Wanted Fugitives."

Late on the night of Feb. 19, 1965, Haugsted allegedly invaded his mother-in-law's home near Willmar, Minn., shot his estranged wife in the chest and head, killing her, and murdered his mother-in-law with three more gunshots, in addition to severely clubbing her about the head.

Haugsted also allegedly shot his 7-year-old daughter in the head, seriously wounding her, and inflicted a superficial gunshot wound on his brother-in-law.

Haugsted, an accomplished baker, has also worked as a cook, handyman, janitor and motion picture projectionist.

A white American, who was born at Minneapolis, Minn., on January 13, 1931, he is 5 feet 10, weighs 200 pounds, has a heavy build, medium complexion, brown hair and blue eyes.

SMALL SCAR

He has a small scar at the back of his head above the neckline, reportedly wears full dentures and walks at a quick, nervous pace with his toes pointed outward.

Should you receive any information concerning the whereabouts of Haugsted, you are requested to immediately notify the nearest office of the FBI, the telephone number of which may be located on the first page of local telephone directories.

U-M Plans Institute on Road Safety

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Every-one talks about highway safety, but the University of Michigan plans to do something about it. Backed by $10 million in grants from the auto industry, the university said today it planned to establish a highway research institute whose purpose would be to learn how to make the nation's roads safe.

U-M President Harlan H. Hatcher said the institute would attempt to develop a comprehensive approach to highway safety.

The institute will be housed in a laboratory building to be constructed with grants totaling $4 million from Ford Motor Co. and General Motors Corp. A $6-million grant from the Automobile Manufacturers Association will underwrite operating expenses for the first five years, Hatcher said.

LARGEST GIFT

He said the grants constituted the largest corporate gift ever received by a university for any purpose.

Announcement of the grants and research center followed hearings on auto safety by a Senate subcommittee in Washington earlier this year.

The hearings prompted establishment of an industrywide committee on auto safety. The committee included presidents of the four major U. S. auto firms.

"Almost 50,000 Americans are killed on our highways every year, and far more are seriously injured," Hatcher said. "It is a social, psychological, human phenomenon that highway transportation demands far more exhaustive research than it has yet received."

The institute will coordinate studies of highway transportation and undertake a broad systems approach to needed research in this field, he said.

The laboratory staff of the institute will include experts in various fields, Hatcher said.

AP SPECIAL REPORT

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Johnny, 6, sat on his teacher's lap in the center of a small classroom. After repeated coaxing, the child uttered the words "Mouth, mouth, Johnny's mouth."

The teacher didn't give Johnny a passing mark or a star for mastering a new word. He hugged him lovingly.

Johnny desperately needs both the individual attention and the affection. He has been blind since birth and is mentally handicapped.

But he is learning. Johnny is a pupil at Hope School for Blind Multiple Handicapped Children, an institution devoted to rescuing such youngsters from their lonely, frustrating worlds.

There are an estimated 15,000 blind children in the United States who are mentally retarded and also may have other physical handicaps.

Because they are blind, they can't get admittance to schools. Johnny, who came to Hope School in June 1965 from Chicago, now has a vocabulary of 10 words. His hands no longer have to be restrained and self-inflicted scratches and sores on his hands and face are healing.

That is why Hope School was founded.

Johnny, one of 28 pupils in the school, is the only child in his class. There are two desks, his and his teacher's.

ESTABLISH RAPPORT

"The object is to establish rapport between one and one," said Maurice Tretakoff, director of the school. "Johnny must be taught in a room where there is no competition."

"We believe we're the first to try to combat this problem in depth," Tretakoff said.

Johnny, who came to Hope School in June 1965 from Chicago, now has a vocabulary of 10 words. His hands no longer have to be restrained and self-inflicted scratches and sores on his hands and face are healing.

"These children are afraid," Tretakoff said. "They are their own worst enemies. The answer is human contact and lots of it."

ONLY THEN

Contact, Tretakoff said, is a child letting you know he is listening. Then, and only then, can a mental hospital and forget annually it costs to care for about her," he was so shocked each child. The rest comes from his own public donations.

Hopeful, Johnny one day will join others in organized activities. Across the hall from his one-pupil classroom, 10 children were seated in a semicircle keeping time with sticks to recorded march music.

One, Mary Lou, 9, was "practically a vegetable" when she came to Hope School five years ago, Tretakoff said. Today she can dress herself, find her way to and from her room and is area along Lake Springfield.

NO SCHOOL

Because Judy was blind, retarded and emotionally disturbed, her parents could find no school for her. They traveled in vain throughout the United States and parts of the world.

The first school was an old world's tallest skyscraper, a six-room house, Jordan, a den, is nearly a quarter of a mile from a housekeeper and a above street level. It has 102 stories, seven miles of elevator by a Springfield boy with shafts, and contains enough people.

WANT TO ENROLL

Its 28 pupils come from 11 states. The school is besieged by requests from parents who want to enroll their children.

The school's two cottages which adjoin the classrooms and administrative offices will be expanded eventually to 10 with accommodations for 125 persons, Tretakoff said.

Most parents with children at Hope School are able to pay only a fraction of the $20,000 cost to care for each child. The rest comes from his own public donations.

Reds Seize Area

Dominican Mob Riots

SANTO DOMINGO (UPI)—Communist-led mobs seized control of a 50-block area of downtown Santo Domingo last night in an orgy of violence recalling the early days of the abortive April revolt.

U.S. paratroopers and Dominican police cordoned off the mob-held area, but made no immediate effort to clear the streets.

of smashed store fronts. In many cases, the barricades were set on fire.

The seizure of the downtown area climaxed a day of rioting during which a U.S. Army truck was burned by the mobs, which were exhorted by Communist street-corner orators to "fight the Yankee invaders."

A U.S. Army spokesman said no American soldiers were injured.

NEWSMAN BEATEN

Brazilian troops of the international American Peace Force seized and beat up NBC television cameraman Hugo Mateo when he tried to take pictures of riots. Mateo was released four hours later at U.S. request.

Gas-masked U.S. troops with bayonets fixed used "riot control" gas to disperse one mob early in the rioting, but the attack was not pressed home.

Sporadic rifle fire echoed through the city. There was no immediate report of gunshot casualties.

The situation was reminiscent in many ways of the early days of the April uprising, when leftist mobs led by army deserters seized control of about two square miles of downtown Santo Domingo and passed out arms to all comers.

MARINES SENT

The United States flew in Marines to protect American citizens and reinforced them with paratroopers who cordoned off the rebel zone of the city.

Troops from Brazil and other Latin American countries arrived later to form the "inter-American Peace Force" which is still stationed here.

Yesterday's outbreak of violence apparently was set off by a demonstration outside the Dominican "White House." About 500 students, many of them brandishing Communist banners and shouting anti-American slogans, massed outside the building.

Soon after the demonstration began, mobs swarmed through downtown Santo Domingo. The rioters threw garbage into the streets and smashed sidewalk peddlers' stands.

TROOPS STONED

They pelted U.S. troops with stones and garbage when the soldiers tried to restore order. Although the riots appeared at first to be spontaneous, sidewalk vendors said they were warned as much as three hours ahead of time to get their merchandise under cover.

The demonstration at the "White House" was organized by extreme-leftist unions, a parently irked by the collapse of a slowdown by government workers demanding payment of full Christmas bonuses.

Maugham Estate Put at $5.6 Million

LONDON (AP)—British newspapers estimated today that the late W. Somerset Maugham left an estate of more than $5.6 million.

Films, plays, television adaptations and reissues of his works are expected to keep royalties flowing into the estate for years.

Maugham died Thursday in his villa in Nice, France, at the age of 91. His phenomenally successful career spanned more than half a century.

Libya, the vast North African country, is three times the size of Texas.

'Will Hike Tax if LBJ Wishes'

Democrat Says War Declaration Possible

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Democratic leader Hale Boggs of Louisiana predicts Congress will vote increased taxes or even a formal declaration of war if President Johnson decides either is necessary because of the Viet Nam war, the Washington Post said today.

The Post quoted Boggs, who has just returned from a 15-day trip to Asia, as saying he believes "more and more attention will be given the Viet Nam war" in the session starting Jan. 10.

"I don't know whether a tax increase will be necessary or not," he said. "But if it is required we will vote it. I doubt very much that any new (domestic) programs will be undertaken. I believe the session will be dominated by the needs of the Viet Nam war."

Boggs, a close friend of Johnson and a member of the Ways and Means Committee, said any tax increase would probably take the form of an excess profits tax possibly coupled with higher excise taxes, the Post said.

On Wednesday the White House denied published reports that President Johnson was considering a tax increase to meet mounting costs of the Viet Nam war.

Court Hears Views on Southern Juries

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP)—makeup of the convicting jury Judges of the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals heard more argument today in Southern cases Thursday with four cases attacking the methods of making up juries in trials for Negroes.

The nine judges, together in a rare "on banc" proceedings, called seven cases. Each was based on the frequently recurring legal claim that the racial

St. John's U. Fires Over 20 on Faculty

NEW YORK (AP)—The number of faculty members fired by St. John's University in the past two days has risen to more than 20, a faculty spokesman said today.

The dismissals by the nation's largest Roman Catholic university came after 10 months of feuding between faculty and administration over academic freedom.

Among those dismissed was Msgr. John Clancy, a former member of the Vatican Secretariat who was secretary to Pope Paul VI when the Pope was a cardinal.

Another was the Rev. Peter O'Reilly, head of the St. John's chapter of the AFL-CIO United Federation of College Teachers, which has often been the spokesman for faculty members demanding a greater voice in university administration.

In two, defense lawyers argued that Negroes were excluded from the trial jury by the system of jury selection. In the others, it was argued that Negroes were intentionally placed on the jury as a legal token.

RANDOM SELECTION

Defense lawyers claimed there was no true random selection from a broadly based jury pool which would include Negroes as a normal part of operation.

Judge John R. Brown, Houston, Tex., asked at one point how a court could follow an order to obtain a balanced jury representing the community, making sure Negroes were included, without intentionally selecting Negroes.

"We don't want jury commissioners to pick a few 'Uncle Toms' for the jury," replied William VanDerCreek. "We want this court to insure that the Texas grand jury system meets federal constitutional requirements."

VanDerCreek represented Willie Brooks, a Van Zandt, Tex., Negro sentenced in 1960 to 30 years for the rape of a white woman.

Negroes were excluded from the jury which convicted Brooks in 1956 and intentionally included on the retrial jury in 1960, VanDerCreek said. This was denied by the state.

Slip of Tongue on 'Ypsi' Leads to Admission of Double Life

ANN ARBOR (AP)—A slip-of-the-tongue reference to having been to "Ypsi" led Thursday to Maurice Mallon's admission of a double life.

Mallon, 37, admitted to newsmen that he deserted his wife and four children in nearby Ypsilanti eight years ago. He said he later married an Ohio woman and has three other children in suburban Cincinnati.

Clare LaFrier, a Washnaw County undersheriff, said Mallon's reference to having been to "Ypsi" killed his amnesia cover story.

"That's how we knew he wasn't telling the truth about this amnesia," said LaFrier. "He wasn't supposed to know anything about Michigan. If he'd been telling the truth, he would have said Ypsilanti, and murdered it."

"But he said Ypsi. Only somebody who lived in the area would know that."

Mallon made the slip when interviewed by Stan Putnam, a reporter for the Detroit Free Press. LaFrier overheard the remark.

"After that, we just started putting things together," he said. "There were several little things like that, and they all added up."

Mallon had been living in Cincinnati under the name of Robert White when arrested for

IS DO-IT-YOURSELF SERVICE
AS DANGEROUS AS THEY SAY?

The total failure of many a good TV set can be traced directly to "do-it-yourself" tinkering.

Your TV set is the most complicated device you own — far more complex than even your automobile. When you need TV service, call a expert technician — your fully trained and experienced TESA of OAKLAND COUNTY Service Dealer.

Terrorist Bomb Injures 12 GIs

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—A teen-age terrorist tossed a grenade in a truckload of U.S. soldiers in Saigon today, injuring 12 GIs.

It was Saigon's fourth straight day of terrorism marking the fifth anniversary Monday of the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front.

Hike OK'd in Budget for Hospital

Pontiac General Hospital trustees last night approved a record 1966 operating budget of $3.2 million — up nearly a million over 1965.

The 11-member board of trustees gave the hospital's administrator authority to hike room rates to finance the record budget.

Hospital Administrator Harold B. Euler said all room rates would be boosted $5, putting the cost of a ward bed at $22 per day, a semiprivate room at $27 and a private room at $31.

The budget now goes to the City Commission for final approval.

Euler attributed most of the budget hike to added personnel and the increased cost of supplies.

COSTS RISE

He said that in most departments the cost of materials and supplies are hiked five per cent in 1966 over 1965.

Euler said some 45 people — 19 in nursing services — have been added to the hospital's staff, bringing the total number of employees to 928.

The budget incorporates a 1½ per cent pay boost for the employees, according to Euler.

He said the pay hike is included in a two-year agreement with employees. Next year will be the last year for the agreement.

MORE PATIENTS

Explaining the added personnel, Euler pointed to the hospital's emergency room services. He said 17 per cent more (Continued on Page 2, Col. 6)

CHARLOTTE FORD

STAVROS NIARCHOS

Auto Heiress Weds Greek Ship Tycoon

ST. MARITZ, Switzerland (AP)—Automobile heiress Charlotte McDonnell Ford and Greek shipping magnate Stavros Spyros Niarchos arrived today to honeymoon at the same Alpine resort where her father honeymooned last February.

Miss Ford, 24, elder daughter of Henry Ford II, and the 56-year-old Greek were married secretly in Juarez, Mexico, yesterday by a civil judge one day after Niarchos received a divorce from his second wife.

Miss Ford is a Roman Catholic.

The couple came to Zurich in a chartered Boeing 707 jetliner and immediately took off in a private jet for Niarchos' chalet overlooking St. Moritz, the winter sports resort where her father honeymooned early this year with his second wife, Italian-born Maria Austin.

The parents learned of their daughter's planned marriage only the night before.

The wedding announcement said the couple would live in Europe.

Niarchos, considered the largest independent shipowner in the world, has homes in Switzerland, France, England, Bermuda and Greece.

But for years he has favored living in splendor on his yacht, Creole, the world's largest privately owned sailing vessel.

First Snowfall Covers Ground

Borman, Lovell Get Go-Ahead for 207 Orbits

Power Unit Problem Fails to Cut Short 14-Day Space Flight

MANNED SPACE CENTER, HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Astronauts Frank Borman and James A. Lovell Jr. raced down the homestretch in their marathon space journey today after officials decided a power unit problem was not serious enough to cut their flight a day short.

They swooped on toward their 14-day goal and a landing in the Atlantic Ocean about 9 a.m. tomorrow, when they'll bring back to earth every manned space flight record.

After keeping cautious watch on Gemini 7's power-producing fuel cell through the night, flight directors gave the space men a go-ahead for their full 207 orbits while they were near Bermuda.

This was soon after Gemini 7 entered its 190th orbit.

A warning light, supposed to indicate fuel cell trouble, although ground station monitors said the unit's power output was normal, flashed on yesterday.

FLICKERED OUT

It finally flickered out about 2:20 a.m. today but started burning anew before completion of another orbit.

John D. Hodge, the overnight flight director, said the cell nevertheless would last at least 150 hours beyond the end of the scheduled 14-day mission.

"The Blue (midnight to 8 a.m. control) team is happy to give you a go-ahead," Hodge told command pilot Borman.

This sent Air Force Lt. Col. Borman and Navy Cmdr. Lovell streaking on toward an intended splashdown in the area where Gemini 6 descended yesterday.

MAKE A BET

They have made a bet that they will land even closer to the aircraft carrier Wasp than the Gemini 6 pilots did after the historic rendezvous of the two spacecraft.

Gemini 6 parachuted to a landing 15 miles from the carrier, the best landing accuracy yet in the Gemini program.

The Gemini 6 pilots, Navy Capt. Walter M. Schirra Jr. and Air Force Maj. Thomas P. Stafford, were flying today from the Wasp to Cape Kennedy to begin telling the experts about Wednesday's dramatic meeting in space.

What they have to say will help set guidelines for future rendezvous missions which eventually will take American astronauts to the moon.

26 HOURS

Gemini 6 was in space slightly less than 26 hours. For more than five hours, the two space ships sailed together around the earth.

Comfort Major Problem

30-Day Space Flight Possible

MANNED SPACE CENTER, HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—The record-breaking flight of Gemini 7's "crummy and itchy" crew has already persuaded medical officers that future pilots will be able to endure the confinement of space travel for at least 30 days.

Dr. Charles A. Berry, Gemini flight surgeon, says "There is no limit to in-flight time if we can solve the comfort problem."

"I personally feel the Gemini 7 astronauts will be in no worse shape after 14 days than the Gemini 5 pilots were after eight days," he said.

In their 6x8-foot instrument-jammed cabin, Air Force Lt. Col. Frank Borman and Navy Cmdr. James A. Lovell Jr. have been unable to bathe, shave or even stretch out full length since their launch Dec. 4.

They have voiced few complaints, however, except to say they felt "crummy and itchy" and that they were too warm when required to wear pressure suits. When allowed to strip down to their long underwear, both agreed that was "the only way to fly."

SMALL CRAFT

"Admittedly, Gemini 7 is a small spacecraft," Berry said in an interview toward the end of the two-week flight. "But if they had a larger vehicle in which they could move around I believe they could go to 30 days or even longer."

"These two men have adapted normally in their heart rates, sleep and performance."

"For the rest of the flight we are going to watch closely the small comfort items that may get more bothersome, such as the simple problem of getting clean."

Berry said Borman and Lovell have shown no signs of the motion sickness suffered by two of the three men aboard the Russian Voskhod 1 spacecraft in October 1964.

DOCTOR, SCIENTIST

One of the two was a doctor, the other a scientist. Their commander, an experienced fighter pilot, fell ill on effects.

Berry pointed out that the United States also plans to send scientists into space but they are being given flight training first.

"There are some factors we don't understand in motion sickness," he said, "but we do check the sensitivity of all astronaut candidates to this sort of stress."

Berry said attention would be given to providing more variety in the diet of future astronauts but he was more concerned with the problem of entertainment.

SENDING MUSIC

"We've been sending music up to them and we certainly plan to continue this in future flights," he said.

"So far we've kept them pretty busy. No boredom has been apparent. But in longer flights, with more idle drifting time, this may become more of a problem."

How about sleeping pills to help astronauts through dull periods?

"Never," said Berry. "I would not like to ever get to the point where we have to compromise a man's ability to respond to an emergency."

College Toughens Test

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP)—A State Education Department official says tougher entrance requirements by the University of Kentucky will force 25 per cent of Kentucky's 427 high schools to improve their programs.

Area Shops Have Variety of Gift Pets, Accessories

Pets make delightful Christmas presents for youngsters and can be enjoyed all year long. Stores in the Pontiac area have a fine array of pets and their accessories.

Miniature parrots like the Hail Moon and Beebe varieties will usually live up to 40 or 50 years.

For an 8- to 9-month-old the cost would be about $29. The cage would run around $25. Hamsters, either sleek or rag-mop type, and their houses can be purchased for under $6.

An iguana will need at least a five-gallon aquarium. The pet will cost about $2.69 and container about $3.

Monkeys costing about $29 and $39 will stay out of mischief in a dog cage that costs about $7.

For the family who already owns a pet, stores have an attractive variety of gifts in stock, such as a pair of doggie pajamas at $2.99.

Districters' Use of '60 Census Contested

LANSING (AP)—Faced with a possible court test, simmering tempers and about a dozen alternative plans, the Legislative Apportionment Commission stepped up its pace today.

At the opening of its first two-day session yesterday, the commission heard demands from legislators that it throw out the 1960 federal census figures it already had agreed to use as a base for reapportionment.

One lawmaker filed a formal petition with the commission, which was to be the foundation for a possible court test.

Meanwhile, the commission continued working toward districts with closer population equality based on 1960 census figures.

The session yesterday ended in a row between Republican and Democratic members in which one Republican almost walked out of the meeting.

SUGGESTED PLANS

The fight was touched off by a citizens' group when it presented the commission with suggested plans for House and Senate redistricting.

The commission also received Republican and Democratic amendments to current districting or this year's proposed plans.

Under Michigan Supreme Court mandate it has until Jan. 1 to reach majority agreement on one set of House and Senate plans.

Three Detroit area House Democrats—all elected to their first terms under present districting—demanded the commission throw out the 5-year-old U.S. census figures because of substantial population shifts in suburban areas since the last federal count was taken.

Rep. Marvin Stempien, D-Livonia, could not attend the meeting, but sent the formal petition.

Livonia, he said, has grown from 66,762 in 1960 to an estimated 90,000 today.

Rep. Bruce Monds, D-Mount Clemens, told the commission Macomb County had grown sufficiently to merit two more representatives. Its population has jumped from 418,000 to about 532,000, he said, adding that he hoped to be a party to any suit Stempien might file.

Democratic Rep. Richard A. Young lives in Dearborn Heights — a city that did not exist when the 1960 census was taken. He backed the others, claiming that western Wayne County had experienced a population boom since 1960.

which he said was the first time under present districting.

May Delay Plan to Halt GTW Train

Plans to discontinue an early morning Grand Trunk Western Railroad commuter at the end of the year may be delayed as a result of a petition filed today with the Interstate Commerce Commission by State Atty. Gen. Frank J. Kelley.

Kelley, acting on behalf of the Michigan Public Service, asked the federal commission to reconsider its earlier action that permitted the railroad to remove train No. 22 between Durand and Detroit.

Kelley's request will have the effect of postponing the discontinuance, which Grand Trunk had scheduled for Dec. 31.

The train handled approximately 60,000 Oakland County commuters annually, according to Kelley.

Trains No. 22 and 57 (Detroit to Durand) reportedly are operating at an annual net loss of $72,000.

Kelley, in his petition, said "The maintaining of adequate rail commuter service between these northern suburbs and Detroit is essential if the Detroit area is to maintain any hope of solving its burgeoning transportation problems."

He noted that the Grand Trunk commuter train takes less than an hour to make the trip from Pontiac to downtown Detroit, whereas buses require 1½ hours for the same trip.

Kelley concluded his report by saying, "The Metropolitan Detroit area is presently engaged in a multimillion effort to prepare a program for a unified urban transportation system, pursuant to the Urban Mass Transportation Act."

"Similar programs are being developed in large metropolitan areas throughout the country and the commission must face the issue of whether it will preserve needed existing rail services until unified transit plans are developed and the benefits of federal aid programs are felt."

Mrs. Stafford said seeing the capsule hoisted aboard the carrier and the astronauts' safe emergence was "the greatest thing in the world."

"LOOKED BALD" Karol Stafford, 8, said her father looked bald on television.

Mrs. Frank Bornman, whose husband is still in space aboard the Gemini 7 capsule, watched the recovery at Mrs. Stafford's home. Mrs. James Lovell, expecting a baby at the end of the month, was home for the splash-down. She planned a visit to her doctor today.

Mrs. Lovell, who had several friends over for coffee and cake after taking a nap, said her telephone was "ringing off the hook" with calls from friends excited about the Gemini 7 flight and rendezvous with Schirra and Stafford.

It will be administered by Don R. Iodice, assistant professor of French.

A $3,500 grant from General Motors Corp. will be used by the Oakland County Traffic Safety Committee, under the OU Mott Center for Community Affairs.

Supporting research initiated last summer, a $2,000 grant from the National Science Foundation will be directed by Richard A. Kammann, assistant professor of psychology.

Sargent, 36, educational administrator for the Central Intelligence Agency, will assume his duties next year.

A veteran of more than 29 years of government service, here and abroad, he was chief of the foreign area and language training program for the CIA from 1952 until his retirement this year.

The Far Eastern historian received his bachelor's degree from Denison University, a master's degree from Trinity College and doctorate from Columbia University.

Sargent earned a second master's degree from the College of Chinese Studies in Peiping, China, which he attended from 1932-35.

Pakistan Rushes Aid to Cyclone-Hit Area

DACCA, East Pakistan (AP) — The Pakistani government today to the cyclone-devastated coast of East Pakistan where many thousands were reported dead.

The Pakistani News Agency reported that 2,000 persons were killed but other reports said the death toll was much higher. The cyclone's twisting 100-mile-an-hour winds, followed by a 12-foot tidal wave and heavy rains, devastated crops and villages.

The governor of East Pakistan reported that 2,000 persons were killed but other reports said the death toll was much higher. The cyclone's twisting 100-mile-an-hour winds, followed by a 12-foot tidal wave and heavy rains, devastated crops and villages.

The cyclone started in the Bay of Bengal, which is formed by India, East Pakistan and Burma. The storm hit at Cox's Bazar, moved up the coast through Chittagong, about 200 miles east of Calcutta and then blew itself out as it moved northeast.

Naval units searched for survivors on the many small islands dotting the coast. Two hundred deep-sea fishermen were reported missing off Sonadia Island.

Persons reaching Chittagong from Cox's Bazar, 80 miles down the coast, said they saw scattered bodies. The news agency said the British ship Star Pink picked up five survivors in the Bay of Bengal Wednesday.

Details of the devastation on the islands were sketchy because communications were cut with the mainland port of Chittagong.

Hundreds were homeless, and 60 per cent of the houses were wrecked in Cox's Bazar, which has a population of about 6,000. The air force was reported under a flood of water.

Administration sources said there will be a full of the kind in allied war activity if the Communists do not try for military advantage during the cease-fire.

Federal Grant to Waterford to Waterford

Money Is for Learning Improvement Center

The State Department of Education has notified Waterford Township school officials that a $122,983 federal grant for establishment of a learning improvement center has been approved.

Last night, the Board of Education appointed John R. Heckler to head the program, expected to start the first week in February.

Heckler, 31, who will be paid approximately $12,500 a year, has been employed at Hawthorn Center in Northville since 1967.

His duties include teaching children with learning problems as a reading and language therapist. He is a graduate of Westminster College in Pennsylvania and the University of Michigan.

The funds, made available through Title I of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act, will be used to reduce learning difficulties of approximately 516 educationally disadvantaged primary school children.

EMPHASIZE LANGUAGES Particular emphasis of the program will be on the language arts.

A staff of 14 will conduct the program which will be centered at Riverside Elementary School as soon as the new addition is completed. Three mobile units have been purchased to conduct certain phases of the program.

In addition to Heckler, five language arts specialists have been hired. School officials are looking for a public health nurse, driver-technician, sociologist and community agent.

Euler said the new budget accommodates the increased demand for such services. Six employees have been added to the emergency room staff.

The 1966 budget calculates employee wages at $5,125,545, compared to $4,547,748 this year.

The budget is based on total occupancy next year of 96 per cent, the same as the current year.

LARGER DEMAND Euler said the budget generally reflects the stepped up demand for the hospital's services.

One new department is included as an expense item, although the hospital is reimbursed from the county and the state.

This is the outpatient mental health clinic, budgeted at $38,533, which operates through a contract with the county's Community Mental Health Services Board.

540 Bloomfield Pupils Attend Teen Club Events

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — The teen clubs at Bloomfield Hills School District's two junior high schools have come into their own.

Club activities at Bloomfield Hills and East Hills Junior High School are in full swing with 540 eighth and ninth graders participating in the Friday evening programs.

The events are sponsored by the recreation department.

Four years ago, the recreation commission and PTO's recommended this type of activity be instituted and some 80 pupils participated.

Today the pupils help plan the activities, which feature dancing to records or live bands.

OTHER ACTIVITIES Also included are badminton, basketball, trampolining, ping pong and volleyball facilities and refreshments.

Adults working with the pupils at Bloomfield Hills Junior High School are Mr. and Mrs. George T. Cavin, Don Waller, Karen Sencer and Mrs. Deloris Bristol.

Those who advise and supervise the East Hills Teen Club are Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Gwinn, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Corcoran and Bruce Chapman.

The Bloomfield Hills Junior High Teen Club functions are held from 7:15 to 10 p.m. at East Hills, they begin at 7:30 p.m. and close at 10 p.m.

NOT WEEKLY Students and supervisors try to coordinate evening teen club meetings with the school program — consequently, they do not meet every Friday night.

The schedule calls for the clubs to meet tonight, Jan. 7, Jan. 21, Feb. 4 and March 4.

In addition, Bloomfield Hills Junior High School has a meeting planned for Feb. 18, and East Hills for Feb. 25.

Gifts Collected

HELEN COLLIS

Pontiac Central students voted to collect Christmas gifts to be sent to the Oakland County Children's Center and Youth Home.

All presents are new and range from clothing to canned goods.

Each student is urged to bring one gift and/or any amount of money he wishes to contribute. No prize is issued for the best collection. The decision is left up to the individual to decide how much or what to give.

Last year, Pontiac Central delivered over 500 wrapped gifts in addition to cash and many bushels of canned food.

Musical groups are busy during the Christmas season with various scheduled appearances.

Holly Clubs to Sing Carols at Hospital

By LINDA LONGSTRETH

The Holly High School Foreign Language Club and the Christian's Youth Club are going to Flint Osteopathic Hospital Wednesday to sing Christmas carols.

Tell Tale yearbook members are working overtime this week, trying to meet their first edition deadline. The first 40 pages of the book must be done by Saturday.

The Holly Teen Club will hold its annual Christmas dance tomorrow from 8:30 p.m. to midnight in the auditorium of the Holly Elementary School.

Dress will be semiformal.

The A Cappella Choir, under the direction of A. Michael Dempsey, has worked hard to perfect Handel's "Messiah."

YULE SONGS
In addition, there will be a program of favorite Christmas songs. Highlighting it will be a group of girls enacting "Twas the Night Before Christmas."

Pontiac Central's Debate team has won first place in all three of the Saginaw Valley Tournaments held thus far. With only one left, Central leads with 42 points. Flint Northern is second with 27 points.

Taking advantage of the conference point lead, debate coach, Walter Smith, is substituting new debaters for the more experienced ones. This will enable new debaters to gain experience and let students who have worked hard all semester get a chance to debate.

New debaters in the Jan. 1 and last tournament will be Stephen Embree, Christopher Lewis, Bertie Brady, Jerry Murphy and Ted Fisher.

For Needy Families

Kettering Readies Christmas Baskets

By JAMIE SCHUTT

Students at Waterford Kettering High School feel the Christmas spirit doubly this year as they endeavor to make the holiday a little brighter for needy families in the Waterford and Pontiac areas.

Under the sponsorship of the Student Council, and the chairmanship of Student Council secretary Jacqueline Ross, a list of needy families in the area was obtained. Each homeroom was then assigned one family.

Students will have until Tuesday to collect baskets of canned and boxed foods for a Christmas Day dinner.

Gifts of clothes, toys, and other articles are also being donated by homeroom students for members of the families.

A money collection is earmarked for the purchase of perishable items, such as bread and turkeys, to supplement the holiday baskets.

TO BE DELIVERED
The daily decorated boxes will be delivered by homeroom representatives.

Four Kettering students have qualified in the first part of the Michigan Mathematics Prize Competition.

Seniors William Gutrie and Richard Cneal and juniors Kent

Aeschilman and Thomas Reinhart were in the top four percent of the 20,000 students taking the test.

Spanish club members are making plans for their Christmas party to be held Jan. 6.

TO EXCHANGE GIFTS
In accordance with the Spanish custom of celebrating the holiday on Epiphany, the group will exchange gifts on that date.

Student Council will sponsor an after-game dance, following tonight's basketball game.

Eileen Dunn and Andrea Condon were chosen first and second runners-up respectively, at the recently held Waterford Junior Miss Pageant hosted by Kettering.

Other girls from the host school participating in the contest were Michele Beisile, Genie Burns, Susan Hurteau, Donna Gould, and Jill Schwab.

TO VISIT HOSPITAL
Home and family living students are currently planning to visit Pontiac State Hospital.

Girls' Varsity Basketball has started practice for the 1966 season, under the direction of coaches Anne Commire, and Phyllis Huestel.

Gives 'I Remember Mama' Drama Group at BHHS

By LINDA McNEIL

Under the direction of Glenn L. Wooster, the Protagonists, drama organization of Bloomfield Hills High School, will present the play "I Remember Mama." The remaining performances of the play will be presented in the Little Theater tonight and tomorrow at 8:15.

Approximately 25 students will participate in this play. Main characters are Judy Wood, Mama; Michael Pettibone, Papa; Kathleen Miller, Katrin; Dave Elgass, Uncle Chris; Julie Spina, Dagmar; and Nels, Terry Niggeman.

Adapted from Katherine Forbes' book "Mama's Bank Account," the story shows how Mama, with the help of her husband and Uncle Chris, brings up the children in their modest San Francisco home during the early years of the century.

Mama, a sweet and capable manager, sees her children through childhood, educates them and lives to see one of her daughters begin her career as a writer.

It looked like an unhappy Christmas for the bushy little tree.

Eagle's Bid Gains Wide Attention

LONDON (UPI) — Goldie the Eagle remained at large today, blissfully unaware his latest bid for freedom has involved London bookmakers, the national press, the man-in-the-street and members of Parliament.

Goldie was in the third day of freedom in Regent's Park, scene of his previous escape from London Zoo. He spent 12 days last March soaring dismally through the treetops before he was nabbed by a posse of keepers.

At midmorning, Goldie was still perched in a tree. He looked wet and dejected in a heavy downpour.

The eight-pound eagle yesterday swooped into the yard of a government building and bolted down food laid out for Scruffy the Cat, who lives by his wits in the area. Keepers today doped Scuffy's lunch, hoping Goldie would again drop by for a sleep-inducing meal.

Goldie was quoted on the board of at least one major bookmaker. The bookie was caught by 6-4 odds the eagle won't be caught by Christmas Eve — one week from today. Bets have already been placed, it was announced.

ON AGENDA

Timothy Kilson, Conservative member of Parliament, placed on Monday's agenda a question asking whether the Labor government intends to help catch Goldie since he is "at large in a royal park."

The London Sun gave circus poster treatment to the second escape by the Finnish eagle. It said in part, in bold letters next to a photograph of Goldie peering down from a 50-foot tree:

By Public Demand, a New Thrilling Christmas Performance Starring
The World Famous Eagle Goldie
In His Stupendous High-Flying Act
(See Him Escape from the Wicked Keepers)

Lawmaker's Farewell Spoken Too Soon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Colleagues of Rep. Owen Harris joined in farewell eulogies to a departing member before Congress adjourned in October. Harris responded with what was considered a farewell address.

But Harris now plans to be in his seat when the House reconvenes Jan. 10.

The reason: President Johnson, who nominated the Arkansas Democrat in July to be a federal judge, still hasn't signed the formal commission although the Senate confirmed the nomination in August. And Harris doesn't plan to give up his House seat until his new judicial position is official.

Reached by telephone at his home in El Dorado, Harris wouldn't comment on the unusual delay between the time of his confirmation and the time he can officially don his judicial robes.

SEVERAL THEORIES

His colleagues advanced some of their own theories.

Most of them said the political situation in Arkansas was at the root of the delay. State law provides for runoff elections between the two top candidates when no one receives a majority of votes in a primary election. But it doesn't provide for a runoff in a special election to fill a vacancy.

In a special election, the top man would win even though he did not receive a majority of the votes. "About 15 people already have indicated that they would like to run," an Arkansas political expert said. "We don't know who would win in a race like that. A Republican, or a Negro, could come out on top if the Democrats split their majority of votes among a dozen or more candidates."

VACANT SEAT

For that reason, he explained, Gov. Orval E. Faubus might not call a special election to name a successor to Harris but would leave the seat vacant until it is filled in the regular election next November.

Such a course would leave the people of the 4th Congressional District without representation in the House after Harris resigned. To avoid that situation, Harris' judicial commission might be held up until some of the major bills have been acted on by the House next year.

Another explanation for the delay was that the President wants Harris — who will be 62 next Monday — to steer several more bills through the House before bowing out.

Harris is chairman of the interstate and foreign commerce committee, which this year has handled some major bills in the

Hare: Handling Poor Drivers Is Rising Problem

EAST LANSING (AP) — A mounting problem of handling 50,000 "incurable drivers" is facing Michigan, Secretary of State James Hare said Thursday.

He told a traffic safety group that this many violation-prone drivers with 12 or more points will be reexamined by driver improvement officers. Many will have their licenses suspended or revoked but some 10,000 will evade punishment, said Hare.

He said locating these drivers is costly, time-consuming and especially difficult in Detroit. He said many apparently continue to drive without renewing licenses when they expire.

"No one knows how many persons are driving without a valid license," said Hare.

Where Does She Hide the Dirt?

ABBY

DEAR ABBY: I have a cousin whose favorite topic of conversation is how "clean" she is. I have always assumed that everyone is reasonably "clean" — unless there is evidence to the contrary and, frankly, I never thought much about it.

But this woman tells everyone she meets that she bathes twice a day, changes her bed linen twice a week, and she goes into boring detail about how she changes the shelf paper in her pantry every month and scrubs the walls and floors of her basement, etc.

Is there something wrong with her? Or is it me? CLEAN'S COUSIN

DEAR COUSIN: Better that your cousin plug cleanliness than peddle dirt. I'm for cleanliness, too, but when someone wears it like a crown, I wonder where the dirt is hidden.

DEAR ABBY: There are times when I get a little excited or nervous and talk louder than I should. But does this give my husband the right to scold me about it at the dinner table in front of guests?

To top it off he said, "This isn't the first time I've called your attention to it, and I don't want to have to tell you again!"

Now, Abby, I am not a four-year-old, and I don't care to be embarrassed that way before guests. He is a man of means and he is generous, but he did not exactly rescue me from the poor farm.

I am 65 and he is 72 and we have been married less than a year. He is my second husband (I was a widow) and I am his seventh wife. He was divorced by all of them and now I am beginning to see why.

Am I making too much of this incident? Or should I leave him while I'm still young enough to find someone else?

THE CAPTAIN'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Judging from his record, your chances for reforming him are slim. Either learn to ignore such unkind remarks, or invite him to try for eight.

DEAR ABBY: You say that most men buy their wives gifts of wearing apparel because they "love" them?

Ha! Ninety-nine out of a hundred men wouldn't even be in the store if they weren't buying something for their girlfriends. And just to ease their guilty consciences, they get something for the wife, too.

All Right to Call This Pair

By The Emily Post Institute

Q: During the summer I met a very attractive couple at a friend's house. They were visiting her friend from another city.

I will have occasion to go to their city on business in a couple of weeks. When I met this couple, they said that if I was ever in their town to be sure to look them up and have dinner with them.

I would like to know if it would be presumptuous of me, after having met them just this once, to take them up on their invitation?

A: As they asked you to look them up, it would not be presumptuous to telephone them when you arrive in their city and say that you are in town for a day or two on business and that you called to say "hello."

Then if they really meant what they said, they will in all probability invite you to dinner. If not, they can always say they are busy.

SIGNING CHRISTMAS CARDS

Q: When signing Christmas cards, is it necessary to include the last name or may they be signed simply Mary and John?

A: To very close friends, the last name need not be written; to others it should be included. When names are printed, the last name is always used.

TUXEDO FOR THIRTEEN-YEAR-OLD BOY?

Q: Will you please tell me the correct clothes for my 13-year-old brother to wear to my wedding which will take place at an evening hour?

He wants to wear a tuxedo but I think a dinner jacket unsuitable for a boy his age. May I please have your opinion?

A: Unless he is tall for his age and looks older than he is, he is too young for a tuxedo and a blue suit with a white shirt will be in better taste.

The Emily Post Institute cannot answer personal mail, but all questions of general interest are answered in this column.

Deb Party to Be High-Flying Affair

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Dallas' swinging debauched crowd turns jet set tonight for a flight to New Orleans for an all-night session in the French Quarter's famed hot spots.

The flight will carry 124 to what society editors here are calling "the deb party of the year — anywhere."

The party will honor Wynne Chilton, a stunning blonde whom an admirer said "looks like a stick of sugar candy." She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Goodner Chilton of Dallas.

"It's just a party," said Mrs. Burwell J. Thompson. "We gave her sister a ball about two years ago, and we wanted to do something for Wynne, too."

ALL RELATIVES

The party plan was sponsored by the Thompsons, Toddie Lee Wynne, Toddie Lee Wynne Jr. and Henry C. Morris Jr., all relatives of the debauchee.

Mrs. Thompson said the party plans to split up into three or four groups after arrival at New Orleans so as not to overcrowd any of the places visited. "We don't want to cause a fuss," she said.

Romney Gets Crime Report

Citizen Unit Proposes a Four-Point Plan

LANSING (AP) — A citizens group recommended to Gov. George Romney today a four-point plan to fight crime and delinquency.

The report from the crime and delinquency division of the State Human Resources Council said the state should:

—Establish a computer-based law information network.

—Increase probation services for juveniles.

—Establish three state-financed regional detention centers north of the Bay City-Muskegon line for areas which have no access to such facilities.

—Appoint a committee on citizen participation to assist in the prevention of delinquency and the rehabilitation of youthful offenders.

The panel, headed by John B. Martin of Grand Rapids, also endorsed 12 recommendations made by a special committee on law enforcement legislation, another wing of the Human Resources Council.

Romney said the recommendations would receive serious consideration for their forthcoming State of the State message.

He asked members of the panel to serve as a nucleus for an enlarged governor's blue-ribbon commission on crime and delinquency.

Ship's Owner Certain Arson Caused Fire

TORONTO (AP) — The Toronto Star has reported that Jack Sokoloff, the owner of the Yarmouth Castle, says there is "no doubt in the world" that arson caused the fire aboard the cruise ship.

"It could have been a firebug, or a disgruntled seaman or a professional arsonist but there's no doubt in the world it was an accident," the ship went down.

The newspaper quoted Sokoloff as saying in a world copyright dispatch from New York Thursday.

The Star said Sokoloff told staff writer Jack Cahill in an interview in New York that he and some associates have started a private investigation.

A U.S. Coast Guard board of inquiry is now conducting hearings in Nassau into the disaster Nov. 13 in which 91 lives were lost. The ship sank while en route from Miami, Fla., to Nassau.

SHOW OWNERSHIP The Star said records of the U.S. Maritime Commission show the Yarmouth Castle is owned by Charade Steamship Co. of Panama, which in turn is owned by Commander Investments, Ltd., of Nassau.

The newspaper said Sokoloff, a 47-year-old Canadian, owns Commander Investments.

Two Steal Gold Worth $160,000

PARIS (AP) — Two rough-talking bandits wearing carnival masks roared away from a vault of 167 gold bars valued at more than $160,000.

The bandits, pulled the driver and his helper out of the van. The two alerted police by telephone. They gave these details:

The bandits, who apparently were familiar with the vault's daily trips from a precious metals foundry, were waiting in a sedan for the morning run.

JUMPED OUT

About 500 yards from the foundry in suburban Ivry sur Seine, the sedan forced the van against a curb. Two husky men, both wearing masks and one carrying a pistol, jumped out. A third man remained inside.

"Out of there, quick," one of them ordered. The driver didn't move fast enough. One of the holdup men grabbed him by the belt and jerked him out by the belt. The bandits also pulled his helper out of the van. The driver of the sedan wheeled his car aside, and the van and the car sped away.

Roadblocks were thrown up in the area but without result. First reports said the bandits had kidnapped the driver and his assistant.

Contract Plan OK'd by Trustees Inpatient Care

A proposed contract for inpatient psychiatric services through the county's Community Mental Health Services program was approved last night by the Pontiac General Hospital Board of Trustees.

The contract, still to be approved by the County Board of Supervisors, would set up a program similar to the hospital's current outpatient mental health clinic.

The hospital would furnish inpatient mental health services to indigent patients and be repaid by the county.

Hospital Administrator Harold B. Euler said he did not anticipate the program because of the hospital's high occupancy.
