

Countdown Proceeds for 4-Day Gemini 12

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The countdown for the finale in America's Gemini project, a major bridge to the moon, swept smoothly today toward the start of a four-day adventure that may determine man's physical limitations in space.

Lights burned green at Gemini 12 launch pad consoles and around the world as technicians, their skills honed sharp by nine straight successful manned launches, methodically checked out every system.

The 100-foot-tall Titan that will thrust a veteran astronaut and a space rookie into the sky was loaded with more than 200,000 pounds of fuel in last time of three hours and 21 minutes.

The pilots, Navy Capt. James A. Lovell Jr. and Air Force Maj. Edwin E. Aldrin Jr., slept late after getting to bed at 2 a.m. They were adjusting to the swing shift work cycle their demanding flight plan requires.

The sun sparkled through cloudless blue skies at dawn. Forecasters said launch pad weather would be nearly perfect at 2:08 p.m. EST when the doubleheader launching was scheduled to start with the lift-off of an Agena target satellite, 3:46 p.m.

Lovell and Aldrin were to ride into space at 3:46 p.m. atop a Titan 2 to start the five-mile-a-second pursuit of the Agena.

Troubles with an automatic pilot system in the Titan 2 forced the original Wednesday launch date to slip 48 hours.

The problems were cleared up yesterday and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration flashed the go-ahead for the mission to start today.

While sweeping 58 times around the globe in their tiny space chariot, command pilot Lovell, veteran of last year's 14-day Gemini 7 flight, and Aldrin, making his first space trip, are to exploit lessons learned on nine previous two-man Gemini journeys.

Their major goal is to learn if man can work effectively outside an orbiting ship in a pressurized suit. Space walkers experienced troubles moving about on the last three Gemini flights and raised a question whether astronauts will be able to perform complex tasks slated for later space flights.

HAY?—Little Danny Jurkiewicz can think of better things to eat than hay. But that's what Frisky, the 7-month-old Appaloosa pony that's taking the place of the dead Timber, really likes. Danny's sister, Vivian, offers the treat.

Fire Fatal to 7 Is Investigated

Materials From Ruins Readied for Analysis

By DAVID J. COOK
State fire marshals and Farmington Township detectives today readied for laboratory analysis a large sampling of materials taken from the ruins of a fire which claimed seven young lives in the township yesterday.

Chief of Detectives Russell Conway said it would be "about a week" before indications as to the cause of the fire would be received from State Police analysts in Lansing.

"We're reading everything we have," said Conway after completing with two state investigators a thorough check of the gutted home of Harold Palmateer, 2240 Colgate.

Palmateer, an industrial welder, was at a friend's home helping repair an automobile when flames erupted at his family's four-room house.

The intense heat and choking smoke snuffed out the lives of seven of his children — Carol, 12; Lisa, 9; Suzanne, 8; David, 5; Randolph, 3; and 2-year-old twins Dennis and Denise.

ONE CHILD SURVIVES
Only Cynthia, 9, escaped.

The tragic blaze was the third multiple-death fire in the Pontiac area this year. By a margin of two lives, it was also the worst.

In each instance, one child managed to survive.

When flames ravaged the Waterford Township home of Mrs. Barbara Brown Jan. 5, her three daughters and a son were killed.

19 Aboard AF Plane Are Hunted in Atlantic

BOSTON (AP)—An Air Force Constellation carrying a crew of 19 was believed to have crashed in the Atlantic Ocean early today, the Coast Guard said, about 125 miles east of Cape Cod in patchy fog and churning seas.

A large air and sea search was under way, including Air Force planes from Labrador and Bermuda, Coast Guard cutters and fishing vessels from Nantucket Island off the Massachusetts Coast.

The U.S. Weather Bureau said the area was cloudy and rainy with seas running three to five feet, "near the rough category."

Visibility was reported only a mile or less in fog, and from two to five miles in the showers.

The Coast Guard at Boston said the plane was a four-engine EC121H, a radar patrol plane on a routine air defense mission.

A spokesman said the Constellation left Otis Air Force Base at Falmouth on Cape Cod, at 12:35 a.m. The missing aircraft reported to tracking stations at 1:22 a.m., according to routine, by radio to ground radar sites, the Coast Guard said.

Shortly after that, ground radar contact was lost, the Coast Guard said. There was no report of any conversations or indications of difficulty.

It was also one of the largest voter turnouts in the community's history.

The combination of the two delayed final tabulation of the ballots until almost 2 p.m. Wednesday — many hours after results were in from the rest of the county.

The official record showed that 567 persons cast ballots. Normally, a turnout of 300 voters is considered heavy, according to City Clerk Lucille M. Smith.

Farnum Plans for Future Hazy

Considering Starting Local Consulting Firm

Congressman Billie S. Farnum, defeated in Tuesday's election, said today that his future plans are indefinite but that he is thinking seriously of starting a consulting firm in Pontiac.

"If anything it would involve the problems of mental health and related fields which I became extremely interested in during the past two years," said Farnum.

Farnum, a former Michigan auditor general, was distinguished by being named to the appropriations committee, the first time a freshman representative had been so honored.

Some close associates feel that Farnum's popularity in Washington could easily gain him a presidential appointment.

To this, Farnum says only "It is not out of the question."

Farnum said that he will continue to pursue his duties and serve the residents of the 19th District until his successor, Jack H. McDonald, replaces him on Jan. 11, 1967.

Veterans Day Marked

Two Pontiac World War I veterans today laid a wreath at the feet of the bronze soldier guarding City Hall in Veterans Day ceremonies.

In a moment of silence, these men commemorated the end of World War I and honored the 33.7 million — living and dead — U.S. war veterans.

This morning's Veterans Day ceremony was conducted by American Legion Commanders William Tunningley of Chief Pontiac Post No. 337 and William Coatesworth of Cook-Nelson Post No. 20.

A Chief Pontiac Post rifle team stood at attention throughout the ceremony.

Prior to the rite, Ployd J. Tower, past commander of the 18th district which covers Oakland County, spoke at the annual Cook-Nelson breakfast — a tradition begun more than 30 years ago.

PROCLAIMED IN 1919
In 1919, Nov. 11 was proclaimed Armistice Day by President Woodrow Wilson to commemorate the signing of the peace pact and to act as a reminder of the tragedies of war.

In 1954, Congress changed the name to Veterans Day to honor all those who have fought in American wars.

Cook-Nelson Post at 308 Auburn was named after two local men who were killed in World War I at the same time with the same shell.

Weatherman Sees Chance of Light Snow

Winds mostly west to southwest 5 to 15 miles per hour today becoming northerly tonight.

Public's Generosity Helps Ease the Loss of Pet Pony

By JEAN SAILE

Where last week there were two saddened families, broken-hearted over the cruel death of a pet Shetland pony, today there are happy children, one pony, and another due to arrive today.

A load of hay was delivered yesterday to the revamped garage at the Richard Ayers home, 3901 S. Rochester, Avon Township, in anticipation of the increase in the pony population. Ayers has also been asked to board a third pony.

On hand to check the quality in hand-fed nibbles was Frisky, a 7-month-old Appaloosa pony, which at this stage of its short life looks more like a large friendly dog.

Frisky arrived yesterday afternoon, the gift of the J. L. Hudson Co., Westland.

He was cheerfully greeted by 13-year-old Veronica and 3-year-old Danny, children of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Jurkiewicz, 1061 Glaser, Troy.

Like Timber before him, Frisky was stabled in the converted garage at the Ayers home.

CONSIDERED HIM SPECIAL
The Ayers children considered him special, not knowing that today Conway was to make his appearance and be the Ayers children's horse.

Conney is a pedigreed two-year-old Shetland, from the stable of Mrs. Alfred G. Wilson of Meadow Brook who offered it to help make up for the loss of Timber.

Timber was the small Shetland, owned by the Jurkiewicz family but cared for by the Ayers, which was found dying alongside Rochester Road, early the morning after Halloween.

A vandal had apparently let the pony out of its pen and then shot it five times with a 22-caliber rifle.

REWARD MONEY
Reward money is still coming in. A fund of $600, $500 offered by The Pontiac Press for the arrest and conviction of the killer, was augmented yesterday by another $150. C. M. (Bud) Shelton, owner of Shelton Pontiac,

Waterford Dems Tie Blitz to Romney Coattail, Ballot

By HUDSON WILLSE
Whitewashed in Tuesday's election, Waterford Township Democrats today attributed their downfall more to Gov. Romney and a new ballot arrangement than to their local Republican opposition.

In dropping all five major contests in the township, the Democrats — all incumbents — lost control of the Township Board for the first time since the spring of 1957.

All five Democratic losers felt no local issues were involved in the outcome, which will send them into at least temporary political retirement April 10 when the Republicans take over.

Treasurer James F. Schell perhaps summed up the feelings of the defeated Democrats. "I feel I was running against George Romney, not my opponent" (Mrs. L. Catherine Wolters), said Schell.

INSURANCE BUSINESS
Schell, who plans to return to full-time status in the insurance business after April 10, is uncertain whether he'll take another crack at politics.

So are Supervisor Dorothy W. Olson, Clerk Elmer R. Fangbner and Trustees William J. Dean and Rudy Mansfield, all defeated by 1,000 to 2,000 votes by their Republican opponents.

Mrs. Olson, who was beaten after winning election to the treasurer's post five straight terms, prior to being appointed supervisor in 1963 pointed out that township candidates were on the same ballot lines as state office-seekers this year for the first time.

She said that many persons who pulled the lever for Romney's slate, consequently, voted for Republicans seeking township offices.

"I think it was the same all over," she said. "This was different. I think it was Romney and his action team."

So Mrs. Olson, who was swept into office as treasurer in 1957 when the Democrats blanketed the Republicans in Waterford Township, leaves in an opposite sweep.

She said if she had been elected, she probably would have served only one term, anyway.

Maybe I'll enjoy staying home," said Mrs. Olson, who has worked most of her life.

SOMETHING ELSE
She implied she would find something to do, even if it was volunteer work.

Her husband, Luther, is manager of the Royal Oak branch of the Michigan Employment Security Commission office.

Appointed treasurer late last year, Schell said, in reviewing local results, "I can't sense a resentment toward the party in office. I don't feel they gave the local vote consideration."

Fangbner, a township official since 1958 when he was named the community's first full-time fire chief, also singled out the blending of township with state candidates on the ballot as significant in Tuesday's GOP sweep.

FEW SPLIT VOTES
"People didn't bother to split their tickets," said the 63-year-old two-term clerk. "There were very few split votes, other than Kelley (Atty. Gen. Frank) and Hare (Sec. of State James)."

"I think if we had been separated (on the ballot), we probably would have been reelected," said Fangbner.

Mansfield, coowner of Mansfield Auto Sales, also figured Romney was the reason for the Democratic setback. "Romney pulled them all in," he said. "I don't think there were any local issues."

"I'm looking forward to spending some time with my wife," said Dean, remarking about the many hours required of a township official.

"We just have five more neighbors who will represent the people," he said. "I just filled a vacancy on the Township Board for two years. I enjoyed it and I feel I know more about Waterford Township now."

flames to leap to safety from a porch roof.

Investigators who probed through the wreckage of the two-story home at 3390 Arcadia Park attributed the fire to a faulty oil space heater.

Less than two months later, Feb. 23 — fire, also traced to an oil space heater, gutted a two-story Troy home.

Four sisters, aged 1-4, the children of Mr. and Mrs. David Kirby, 6725 John R., died in the fire.

ESCAPES DEATH
Escaping the fate of his sisters was 5-year-old Kris Kirby, attending a morning kindergarten class when the fire broke out.

Harold Palmer, whose 9-year-old daughter Cynthia escaped yesterday's fire, indicated he, his daughter, and wife would probably move.

"My wife told me 'I don't want to live in this place anymore,'" he said. "We could maybe rebuild the inside but we won't."

"I lived for my children and loved them."

Buick in Rochester, posted $100 and two neighbors offered $25 each.

Meanwhile, the Ayers and the Jurkiewicz families are being made aware of the many people in the area whose letters, donations of cash and offers of three other ponies have just about overwhelmed them.

Mrs. Ayers supplements the family income by driving a school bus. Her husband, a Pontiac Motor Division employee, is home from his night shift when she leaves for work.

Other bus drivers for the Rochester School District where Mrs. Ayers works became incensed over the pony's death to the point that they began collecting money to buy a replacement horse for the children.

BEGAN SEARCH
The money was accumulated and Richard Overturn, garage superintendent, began hunting around for ponies. That's when Mrs. Wilson heard of the plight and made her offer.

Now the money collected by the drivers will go to purchase riding equipment, according to Overturn.

said. "We had 3,600 ballots to open and it took us almost three hours." Each voter received six ballots.

By comparison, the county's only other two paper ballot districts—Brandon and Groveland townships — delivered returns to the county clerk's office before 6 a.m. Wednesday.

Brandon had almost 1,100 voters, nearly twice as many as in Orchard Lake, while Groveland had a turnout of more than 450 voters.

In addition to the four election workers in Orchard Lake, Smith and her deputy had to be sworn in to help count the votes.

The election workers were Mrs. Clarence Brown, 5605 Shore

U.N. Told: Talk to All on Viet

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield says the United Nations Security Council should convene all countries interested in Viet Nam in order to "measure rather than guess the gap" which separates them.

The Montana senator said in a speech Thursday at Johns Hopkins University that maybe some countries wouldn't show up and that he didn't expect miracles.

But he added: "The least that should be expected, or accepted it seems to me, is a willingness on the part of the council to confront the issue of Viet Nam and to confront it soon."

STATED POSITION
Mansfield said getting participation from all interested parties should not be insurmountable. He recalled that Communist China, not a U.N. member, appeared before the council to state its position on the Korean conflict.

So far, Red China and North Viet Nam have denounced any U.N. peace-making role in Viet Nam.

Mansfield said that as far as the United States is concerned, "it is the interest of this nation to welcome the confrontation" in the Security Council.

"The open bar of world opinion is one before which we must never hesitate or fear to place this nation's policies," he said.

Supervisors Adopt Legislative Goals

By JOE MULLEN
A 1967 county legislative program was adopted yesterday by the Oakland County Board of Supervisors.

Related Stories, Page C-6

opposition to five existing proposals and support of four other legislative matters which will be initiated by other organizations.

The five primary goals are:
• Amendment to Act 336, Public Acts of 1967, to ensure the public that law enforcement officers will not be placed in a position of dividing their loyalties between their oath of office and labor union ties by holding membership in unions that admit nonpolice personnel.

• An amendment to Act 98, Public Acts of 1967, that would require law enforcement officers to file reports of child abuse. An amendment, passed last year, specified the same requirement for nurses, social workers and school administrators.

• Legislation, similar to Senate Bill 407 which failed to pass last year, which would increase the amount of state matching funds for foster children care.

• An amendment to Act 265, Public Acts of 1915, which would assure counties of necessary operating expenses in connection with school facilities of Probate Court.

This proposed legislation relates to the possibility of the County Board of Education assuming responsibility for the Probate Court school facilities.

Opposition to the following proposed legislation was incorporated in the county legislative program:

• House Bill 3203 proposes a Metropolitan Transportation Authority which, in the opinion of the County Road Commission, is premature in view of the present Talus study on transportation habits.

• Legislation that would make it mandatory for road commission members to be elected rather than appointed.

• Legislative efforts to finance activities that are remotely connected with road construction and maintenance from the restricted Gas and Weight Tax funds.

• Proposed legislation that would require the State Highway Department to reimburse utility companies for costs they might incur when required to remove their facilities from a public road right-of-way.

• Legislation that would allow the use of metal tire studs in passenger and truck tires. Studies by the State Highway are now under way to determine damage that such tires could cause to roads.

Concurrence with the following four legislative proposals initiated by other organizations also was included in the county legislative program:

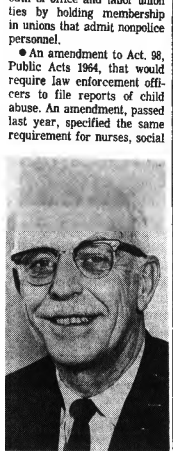

• An amendment to the Aeronautics Code which would clarify the financing provisions relating to airfields and the acquisition, maintenance and operation thereof by political subdivisions.

• An amendment to Act 185 which would provide for the establishment and operation of garbage and rubbish disposal facilities.

• Proposed legislation that would divert an increase to 10 percent of the Alcohol Tax to the Department of Public Health for the Board of Alcoholism. The added tax diversion would be used for local education programs to combat alcoholism.

• Legislation that would raise the statutory limitation from $1,000 to $2,500 for the purchase of material, parts and equipment and from $2,500 to $10,000 on road improvements by road commissions before bids can be taken.

FRANK F. WEBBER

Board Honors Member From Addison Twp.

A certificate of merit was presented yesterday by the Oakland County Board of Supervisors to Frank F. Webber who is retiring from the board after 12 years of membership.

Webber has been a member of the board of supervisors by virtue of his position of supervisor of Addison Township. He has resigned as township supervisor effective next Tuesday.

While a member of the board of supervisors, Webber served as chairman pro tem and on several committees including the powerful ways and means committee.

A resume of Webber's lengthy public service was read to the supervisors by John L. Carey, supervisor from Springfield Township. Carey then presented the certificate of merit to the departing supervisor.

Hear Talk on Trouble Spots

By HOWARD HELDENBRAND

Speaking on "Trouble Spots in Focus" before a Birmingham Town Hall audience, William Outmans yesterday clocked 66 minutes of enlightenment punctuated with humor and anecdote.

Although the "spots" are nearly as numerous as those on a youngster beset with chicken pox—showing in Latin America countries, most of Africa, and India—it was on Indonesia that the Dutch journalist and television reporter centered his discourse.

From a first-name, breakfast-companion relationship with President Achmed Sukarno, Outmans described Indonesia as the Communist nut in the United States' South Viet Nam-Australia nutcracker.

SUKARNO NOT OUT

In doing so, he emphatically dispelled the current notion that Sukarno has had it, and retains nominal title as head of state of the 3,000-island republic only by sufferance of the military junta.

"As far as Sukarno is concerned," said the correspondent, "things are little changed. The man who wrested Indonesia from the Dutch 21 years ago is an ideological blank. He works both sides of the street and the middle to further the interests of his bankrupt, wholly corrupt, inflation-ridden country."

After American aid dried up, explained Outmans, the dictator turned to Russia for military and economic help.

When the Kremlin closed the spigot, he reached out a beckoning hand to Red China.

Now with that country's domestic turmoil making it a dubious source of aid, he is making goo goo eyes at Japan—and the dollar signs portend that the Nipponese are soon to be nipped.

How then could so fallacious a belief in the eclipse of Sukarno have gained credence?

"Because," explained Outmans, firing a blast at the international news media, "of the tendency to rely on observations and conclusions of reporters with insufficient background and interpretive depth to see Indonesian conditions as they really are, instead of screaming the evidence to match preconceptions or accommodating it to wishful thinking."

COMMUNICATION

The urgent need of modern civilization is greater international communication between both governments and peoples.

Pointing out that basic objectives are common to all nationalities, Outmans found most disturbing the fact that man has made so much progress in scientific and technological fields and so little toward a global spirit of fellowship.

In this regard, he had praise for the cultural and humanitarian agencies of the United Nations, but none for its international political effectiveness.

A celebrity luncheon at Bloomfield Open Hunt following the lecture at Birmingham Theater brought forth a wide range of questions which the lecturer fielded with authority and engaging frankness.

Packaging many queries regarding the outcome of America's involvement in Viet Nam, the "Flying Dutchman" stuck out his prophetic neck to predict that it would end in a Korea-style armistice.

But he warned that neither bullets nor dollars can eradicate communism until the lot of the destitute is brightened by present amelioration and a hopeful future.

Ended Career

By the time Marlene Dietrich was seven years old she had learned to play the violin; but at 18, a serious wrist injury ended her dream of becoming a concert violinist.

Turn On the LSD Device

By DICK WEST
United Press International
WASHINGTON — If you were channel-hopping during the election coverage Tuesday night, you undoubtedly encountered one or all of the vote projection systems used by the television networks.

These electronic methods of interpreting returns were called "Pa," "Eva" and "RSVP." With only a small percentage of the ballots counted, the computers would forecast the eventual winner. Usually, at some point in the early morning, after a long evening of dial twiddling, I must have gotten kind of punchy. I could have sworn I heard one of the networks refer to its projection system as "LSD."

I'm sure this was a slip of the ear on my part, but I said to myself, maybe it would work. According to those who have taken the drug, LSD gives the brain a new dimension.

Almost immediately I began having hallucinations myself.

On the screen before me I could see a typical television election center. It had three newscasters—Chet Glim, David Wry and Walter Sincere.

FOLK SONGS
Only instead of using a computer to analyze the returns, they were using a folk singer named Clyde.

Clyde, who had long hair and a beard, was wearing a Yogi Berra sweatshirt, leotards and sandals. He was seated on the floor in the lotus position, staring into space.

Chet: "Let's look now at the California governor's race. What's the picture, David?"

David: "With five votes counted, Reagan has three votes, Brown has one and one is a write-in for Lassie."

NOW TELL US
Chet: "And whom does LSD proclaim to be the winner?"

Walter: "We can't tell. Clyde says he isn't turned on yet."

Chet: "Give him another pill. We're 15 minutes behind the other networks already."

David: "While we're waiting for Clyde to get switched on, let's review the situation in New York. With all but 18 votes counted, Rockefeller has..."

BACK TO WORK
Walter: "Sorry to interrupt, David, but the LSD system is working now."

Chet: "Fine. What are the percentages?"

Walter: "Clyde gives 65 percent to Alf Landon and 35 percent to Franklin Roosevelt."

Chet: "Good Night!"
David: "Good Night, David."

Junior Editors Quiz on KENTUCKY DERBY

QUESTION: Why is a famous horse race called the Kentucky Derby?

ANSWER: Since early Egyptian days, men have enjoyed racing horses. Stallions of the beautiful and fast Arabian breed were brought to England in the old days. From these the Thoroughbred racing breed developed. Horse racing was called the "sport of kings" because, beginning with James I in 1603, so many English monarchs patronized it.

A number of annual racing events with prizes began to be held at such places as Epsom, Newmarket and Ascot. But the race at Epsom Downs, established by the Earl of Derby in 1780, became the most famous. Its name, the Derby, became known in many places of the world.

In America, race horse breeding became highly developed in the state of Kentucky, centering about the prosperous town of Louisville. In 1875, a large racing track was built there called Churchill Downs, and the running of an annual horse race began, called the Kentucky Derby after the famous English event. It is a 1 1/4-mile race for 3-year-old horses and is held each May.

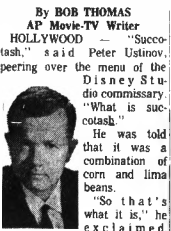

Although other races have higher purses for winners, the Kentucky Derby is generally considered the most glamorous horse race in the United States.

FOR YOU TO DO: Color the picture, with chestnut on the horses and some bright color notes on the jockeys.

Discourse Shows Ustinov Feeling His Oats

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer
HOLLYWOOD — "Succotash," said Peter Ustinov, peering over the menu of the Disney Studio commissary.

"What is succotash?" He was told that it was a combination of corn and lima beans. "So that's what it is," he exclaimed.

"And I always thought succotash was an obscure battle of your Civil War," he exclaimed. "And I always thought succotash was an obscure battle of your Civil War."

The double Academy winner—supporting awards for "Spartacus," 1960, "Topkapi," 1965—was in excellent Ustinov form—puckish, provocative, round, "I really don't eat very much."

"Then how do you explain your girth?" "When I was a baby, we had no girth control."

His size seems fitting for his current assignment, the title role of "Blackbeard's Ghost," and he looked properly practical in his bandanna and hucan-ner's costume. He also seems well suited to the philosopher's robes in "Barefoot in Athens," tonight's NBC special in which he portrays Socrates. It is his first venture into television drama since he played Samuel Johnson on an early "Omnibus" program.

SMALL ROLE
As usual, the Ustinovian career is proceeding in all directions. Currently in release is "The Lady L," which he wrote and directed and also played a small role.

"I have a book of short stories called 'Frontiers of the Sea,' which is being published this month," he reported. "Two new plays of mine will soon be produced in London—'The Unknown Soldier and His Wife,' which is being done by the Royal Shakespeare Company, and 'Halfway Up the Tree.'"

Also in Ustinov's future is a novel. It concerns the sheriff of a small Southern town who wins a European trip and gets into a argument in an English pub with the Communist shop clerk of a local union. "The sheriff shoots the man out of 'Blackbeard's Ghost' is the first Hollywood film for Ustinov since the debacle of 'John Goldfarb, Please Come Home' ('I had an inclination it would turn out badly because we were enjoying it too much')."

habit," said the author. "The first Hollywood film for Ustinov since the debacle of 'John Goldfarb, Please Come Home' ('I had an inclination it would turn out badly because we were enjoying it too much')."
