Solons See Ike Easing Aid Plan to Cement Unity

George, Humphrey Call Dulles on Foreign Policy Attitude and Comments

WASHINGTON (INS) — Congressional sources believe today President Eisenhower will drop a plan to ask Congress for a long-term foreign aid program, rather than risk upsetting bipartisanship in 1956.

Senate Foreign Relations Chairman Walter F. George served notice on the administration Friday that it is "far more important" to maintain bipartisanship on essential programs than to "force" the long-term issue on Congress.

Significantly, George's statement was made in an interview shortly after he had lunched with Secretary of State John Foster Dulles.

It came a few days after another high-ranking Democrat had stated the 1956 presidential election year will be "rough" so far as discussion of foreign policy is concerned.

Democrats, this informant made it clear, intend to take off their gloves in criticizing the administration's execution of foreign policy.

Should Dulles and the President insist upon trying to get a long-term commitment on foreign aid from the Democratic-controlled Congress, that approach might invite, rather than reduce, majority attacks on the foreign policy front.

Most Republicans oppose the idea of a long-range aid program as much or more than do the Democrats.

Some Democrats are willing to go along with the "Marshall Plan" concept of continuity in assistance. Sen. John Sparkman (D-Ala.) is one of these, saying he would support a commitment for more than one year.

TEN-YEAR PROGRAM

Administration sources have revealed Dulles was considering an expression of approval by Congress for a 10-year foreign aid program—designed to help foreign countries get long-term loans from the world bank and other sources. Congress still would review the program each year under this plan.

But George told newsmen such a request would be "most untimely." The Senator is a candidate for reelection this year and

Abandon Hope for Son-in-Law of Local Couple

Bury Bodies of Victims Near Plane's Wreckage in Ecuador Jungle

Hopes that their son-in-law might have been spared by savage South American Indians were shattered for a Pontiac couple today when they heard the body of missionary T. Edward McCully 28, was one of five identified by a rescue party in an Ecuador jungle yesterday.

Subject of a week-long search, the missing men had been massacred by the Auca Indian tribe they were seeking to convert to Christianity.

Rescue workers buried the five near the downed airplane they had flown to the jungle site in an effort to contact the Aucas.

Also identified were Nathaniel Saint, Huntington Valley, Pa.; James Elliot, Portland, Ore.; Roger Youderian, Lansing, and Peter Fleming, Seattle, Wash.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold F. Hobolth, 779 May Ct., whose daughter, Marilou Hobolth, 27, was McCully's wife and co-worker in many missionary matters, had prayed every day for their son-in-law's life.

The couple learned the news from the young man's father, T. Edward McCully Sr., of Milwaukee. "We really have too much hope after kee.

Mrs. Hobolth said, "We didn't heoring yesterday, that four of the bodies had been found."

She said her daughter and two grandsons, Stephen, 3, and Michoel, 1, now in Ecuador, are expected to return to Pontiac "as soon as possible."

McCully's father, T. Edward McCully Sr., of Milwaukee, said the missionary group through their sacrifice achieved "sudden glory."

When he heard of his son's death, McCully Sr. quoted the Bible passage: "God moves in mysterious ways, his wonders to perform."

"The flame that glowed so warmly in these five young lives seemingly is gone," he said, "but it only seems so. For those in Christ, death means sudden glory."

The men had flown the plane into the jungle and then set up an advance base on a river bank. Efforts to rescue them had been conducted since messages from their short-wave radio ceased one week ago.

For an account of the fierce Ausca Indian tribe, believed responsible for the deaths of the five missionaries, turn to Page 5 of today's Press.

Resume Fluoride Plan in Schools

Second, Fifth Graders to Get Decay Deterrent Starting Monday

Optional fluoride dental treatments for second and fifth grade pupils are being continued this month, with programs scheduled in three Pontiac schools, Josephine Seeley, coordinator for Pontiac public schools health services, reported today.

The program, aimed at reducing tooth decay in children, will be in effect at Owen School next week.

Parents who wish their children to receive fluoride treatments were advised that Monday is the deadline for accepting registrations at Owen School.

Forms giving parental consent, plus the $4 service fee required, must be turned in to teachers of second and fifth grade pupils by Monday afternoon.

Willis School will have its fluoride program the week of Jan. 23. Longfellow School will follow, with the specific date not yet determined.

Miss Seeley said that all other schools in the Pontiac district will be scheduled for fluoride treatment clinics this year, with the exception of six schools that already have had the program—McConnell, Lake Street, Bagley, Whittier, St. Frederick, Crofoot, Webster and Whitfield.

The treatments consist of four applications of topical fluoride, a colorless liquid which is swabbed on the child's teeth. Group tests show that it reduces tooth decay in children by an average of 40 per cent.

The dental health treatments are endorsed by the Oakland County Dental Society, and by Michigan, Pontiac and Oakland County Health Departments.

The applications of fluoride are given by a registered dental hygienist, Mrs. Ruth Toepfer, under the auspices of the Department of Health Education for Pontiac Public Schools. The $4 per child fee pays the cost of the treatments, so that the program is self-sustaining.

Many Advantages Claimed for One-Roomed Schools

By WILMA GREENWAY

The "old" met the "new" in the hills of Oxford and found it stacked right up, in spite of such modern innovations as separation of grades, counseling service, gym equipment and "consolidation."

The one-room Arnold school—one of the few left not yet consolidated into a larger school system—has stood on the Lakeville road in Addison Township for 99 years.

Five generations of children have chewed their pencils as they conned their lessons under the eye of a teacher whose class included kindergarten through eight grade, but who yet managed to turn out educated, clear-thinking, well adjusted graduates.

Second graders from Ferndale's Roosevelt school who visited the 30 pupils of Arnold School and Arnold's teacher, Mrs. Viola Woodward, found the "old way" not only intriguing but also challenging.

There is something basically right in the "big family" feeling a one-room school fosters, Roosevelt teacher Miss Bessie Lincoln said after the visit.

Arnold school has no gym, no cooking and sewing room, no woodworking shop, but there are substitutes that the Roosevelt visitors found wonderfully exciting.

From the windows was a view of the low lying hills.

In place of a gym, there was a real story-book stile the children could climb and do stunts on.

There were ponds, two of them, frozen over, where the Arnold pupils ice-skate every noon; and, in the yard, giant snowmen such as city children never hope to build. In summer, too, there are apples on the big tree, and outdoor swings, a merry-go-round, and trapeze.

NATURE STUDY

The visitors discovered the ravine behind the school where Mrs. Woodward takes her pupils for hikes and on field trips to collect leaves and study erosion.

And, perhaps best of all, there was the real school bell in its belfry, and the bell rope which pupils have the privilege of pulling six times a day.

"My second graders were thrilled with the hills and the space," said Miss Lincoln, "and

Dr. Schweitzer Seeks Quiet Life

Marks 81st Birthday; Would Like to Meditate, Shun World Publicity

PARIS (INS) — Dr. Albert Schweitzer, world-famous philosopher-missionary-surgeon who is 81 today, thinks it is time he stopped speaking out publicly on world problems and let silence "fall around" him.

The Nobel Peace Prize winner modestly declined to answer an International News Service questionnaire. He explained why in a letter received in Paris today

Dr. Schweitzer said:

"People talk too much about me in the world, and seek too much to make me talk as if it were important to the world to know my opinion on all questions facing our times. I am afraid of being accused of pretentiousness should I do so . . .

"I would not be true to myself should I address myself again and again to the world.

"Silence should fall around me. I must not always talk about myself to the world. Let me be simple and modest . . ."

Here's a Woman With Great Tact — and Discretion

CUSHING, Okla. (INS) — Local embarrassment is less painful than national exposure, so this lady kept her mouth shut.

The woman was in a department store when she looked down and saw her underthings half-masted around her ankles.

Pain was added to humiliation when the lady fell through a plate glass window while making a wiggly effort to restore order.

Treated for cuts, the woman was asked to give her name. But she declined, explaining:

"I may have lost my pants, but not my head."

'My Pal Would Be Alive Today, but for Myself'

PORT HURON (INS)—"Yes, it is easy to step on the gas, but to stop is another matter," said an essay a 16-year-old youth passed up to Circuit Judge Edward T. Kane yesterday.

The essay was entitled: "My Carelessness Cost a Life." And it was by Gerald V. Lindsay, 16, of nearby Memphis. A 500-word essay was part of his sentence on a negligent homicide conviction that also carries two years probation.

Bernard Martin, 17, also of Memphis, was killed and four teenagers injured last May 9 when a car driven by Lindsay rammed an abutment on M19, a mile south of Emmett in St. Clair County.

"If only I had kept the speed under 50 miles per hour," Lindsay wrote, "My friend Bernard Martin would be alive today and my other friends and myself would not have been maimed, scarred and crippled."

Girl, 17, Killed in Auto Crash

Keego Harbor Resident Victim as Vehicle Rams Into Roadside Tree

A 17-year-old Keego Harbor girl was killed early this morning when the car in which she was riding left Cooley Lake Road, glanced off a tree, and returned to the road before smashing into another tree.

Joan Dell Kennedy was pronounced dead on arrival at Pontiac General Hospital at 3:40 a.m.

Her companion, driver of the car, was Wayne Hoyt, 23, also of Keego Harbor, who is reported in good condition despite a fractured skull and multiple lacerations.

Officials in the Oakland County Prosecutor's Office say they plan to take a statement from Hoyt when his condition improves.

City Budget May Boost Tax Rate, Says Manager

The proposed 1956 budget for the city may possibly result in a tax rate 10 cents higher per $1,000 of assessed value than the 1955 rate, according to City Manager Walter K. Willman.

A public hearing will be held on the budget Tuesday night at 8 with adoption by the City Commission expected by the end of the month.

The tax rate per thousand of assessed value for the city was $13.70 last year and according to Willman, "the estimate assessed value of the city for 1956 will very possibly permit a tax rate of $13.80 per thousand of assessed value."

The proposed budget calls for a record expenditure of $4,891, 828.09 which is approximately $300,000 higher than the 1955 budget.

Property tax levies will provide for $3,036,513.49, while $1,555,314.59 is estimated as income from sources other than taxes. The budget would be balanced by allocating $300,000 from the city's unappropriated surplus.

An allocation of $750,000 for a continued capital improvement schedule is proposed which represents 3.41 mills on the city's assessed value, conforming to the city's committment to the people at the time for the millage vote in 1954.

PLAN SAFETY BUILDING

Provision has been made for the continuation of the paving, sewer and sidewalk program, the construction of the public safety building at an estimated cost of $750,000, and the addition of a $75,000 fire station.

The purchase of most of the remaining property between the City Hall and the Clinton River, an additional 1000 gallon fire pumper and additions to the city's equipment inventory are included in the proposed plan.

The budget also provides for the city's share of funds to complete the Telegraph-Orchard Lake grade separation, including by-pass paving and the widening and reconstruction of Perry street from Huron to the city limits.

Police Ask: Where Did Million Go?

By International News Service

* * *

Where is the Brink's $1,218,211 cash hidden?

Who was the "master mind"?

Where are Thomas F. Richardson and James I. Faherty, named by the FBI among the 11 Halloween masked Brink's robbers?

Was there an "inside" contact, as a majority of investigators insist? His identity?

Who sent Elmer (Trigger) Burke with his machine gun from New York to Boston in an unsuccessful attempt to slay O'Keefe? Why?

What has become of O'Keefe's pal, John Henry Carlson, who vanished.

Why did "Spec's" friend, George O'Brien, commit suicide after acquittal in the $681,000 Danvers bank truck 1952 looting, largest of its kind in history?

What was the connection between the Brink's job and the gang-style slaying of Carlton O'Brien (no relation to George) in West Warwick, R. I., in 1952 on the eve of his scheduled questioning in the Boston robbery.

Who was in on the delivery of "Trigger" Burke from Charles Street Jail in 1954?

Who got the $30,000 in a reported "dry run" of the Brink's robbery?

New Hampshire Primary Gets New Contender: Ike

CONCORD, N. H. (INS) — The name of President Eisenhower was formally listed today in nomination for the New Hampshire primary March 13, the traditional "first in the nation."

Maurice D. Grant, an automobile dealer from Manchester, filed a petition bearing 123 names, 23 more than necessary, just as the door of the Secretary of State's office was closing at 5 p.m. yesterday.

It was the opening day for filing as candidates to the national convention, as well as candidates for the preference test.

Following his action, Grant declined to comment except to say he was one of many New Hampshire Republicans interested in learning whether President Eisenhower would seek re-election to a second term.

Under New Hampshire law, President Eisenhower will have 10 days after receiving formal notification of his preference nomination to request that his name be withdrawn. Silence would be taken as consent.

When the secretary's office opened yesterday, Friday the 13th, Gov. Swinell and five other Republicans filed as delegates to the national convention. All were "favorable" to President Eisenhower. Later four others filed as favorable to the President.

TWO FAVOR KNOWLAND

Two Republicans filed as favorable to Senator William F. Knowland of California

Only two Democrats filed delegate papers during the first day. One was favorable to Senator Estes Kefauver of Tennessee, and the other favorable to Governor G. Mennen Williams of Michigan.

'I'll Defend Formosa,' Ingersoll Tells Reds

TAIPEI, Formosa (INS)—America's top Far Eastern fleet commander said today there has been "an enormous buildup" in Russia's submarine forces.

Vice Adm. Stuart H. Ingersoll told a news conference:

"I have a mission to defend Formosa and the Pescadores Islands . . . and I will do it. My mission is very clear . . . I don't intend to lose."

Ingersoll held his first news conference since he took over both the U.S. 7th Fleet and Taiwan (Formosa) defense commands in December.

11 Brink's Bandits Indicted; 2 Others Hunted

BOSTON (INS)—Eleven ex-convicts were under indictment today for participation in the $1,218,211 Brink's robbery of Jan. 17, 1950, and a nationwide hunt was on for two of the men and the money, the largest cash theft in the nation's history.

Circulars and descriptions of Thomas F. Richardson, 48, and
James I. Faherty, 44, were en route to every city, village and hamlet in the nation.

Forty-six indictments were handed down yesterday by the Suffolk County Grand Jury against the 11 members of the gang, one of whom died last year.

A second member of the Brink's bandit gang today was reported as "almost begging" to become a government witness.

As Joseph "Specs" O'Keefe, 47, continued his songbird role, it was reported that Stanley A. Gusciora, 36, of Stoughton, Mass., was anxious to turn against his former pals.

Gusciora, now serving a long term in Western Penitentiary, Pennsylvania, never did get to have any fun out of his reported share of the loot.

Meanwhile, the days of freedom for Faherty, and Richardson, were numbered as the police and public throughout the country were called upon to join in the hunt for them.

'DOUBLE-CROSSED'

The state of Massachusetts was finally able to obtain the indictments when the disappointed and fearful gang member, already in prison, decided to tell all he knew.

O'Keefe outlined before the grand jury the details of planning and carrying out the crime, and how he was "double-crossed" in the split up of the loot—the largest cash haul of any U.S. robbery.

Picking up all that money during a 17-minute holdup has been the subject of discussion by the public ever since it happened. It looked, on the surface, like easy money.

According to O'Keefe it wasn't. The gang worked out the details painstakenly for more than a year prior to the raid.

Then, within 24 hours after they had it, they had to get rid of $106,000 in bills which had consecutive serial numbers. They had to dispose, too, of the checks, money orders and securities which were too "hot" to handle.

RESENTS GANG

Within the same 24 hours, the gang planted in O'Keefe's mind the seeds of resentment that six years later cost the other mobsters their freedom.

According to the balding, skinny "Specs," he was short-changed by the others to the tune of $68,000.

First, O'Keefe was told his share amounted to $90,000, or $20,000 less than he had figured was his due. Then O'Keefe made a mistake, according to his story, by allowing Adolf Maffie to hold $68,000 for him.

Maffie, 44, of North Quincy, Mass., declined to part with the money when "Specs" asked for it, so the latter went out to get it in his own way.

In November 1954, authorities suddenly rushed Specs from the Springfield jail to Concord reformatory where he remained for 16 days.

There was a rumor, a strong one, that a plot had been uncovered to kill 'Specs' right in jail.

O'Keefe would have been paroled three weeks from today. He chose instead to "sing" and take his chances on a long, but relatively safe, prison term.

Auto Crash Injures Area Man Critically

Douglas Palmer, 21, of 254 Dick Ave., was reported in critical condition in Pontiac General Hospital after an Orchard Lake Village accident late last night which reportedly demolished the car driven by Willis Jacks, 21, of 383 Voorheis Rd.

Palmer suffered a fractured skull, jaw and internal injuries when Jacks' car overshot a curve on Commerce Road near Old Indian Trail at 12:55 a.m. The car glanced off a telephone pole and hit a tree.

Jacks, who was treated and released from the hospital, was ticketed for reckless driving by Orchard Lake police.

Martha Boggs Injured; Condition Reported Good

Martha L. Boggs, 57, of 414 E. Beverly St., was reported in good condition at Pontiac General Hospital this morning after an accident last night on Opdyke Road at Doris Road.

Oakland County Sheriff's deputies arrested a Billy Taylor, who gave his address as 1859 Maddy Lane, Keego Harbor, in connection with the accident. They say Taylor drove the car which struck one driven by Walter M. Boggs, 61, of 414 E. Beverly St.

Turnpike Authority Calls Meeting on Toll Route

The Michigan Turnpike Authority will meet Monday at 1:30 p.m. in the First National Bldg., Ann Arbor, Chairman George N. Higgins said today.

TO CATCH A SAILOR — Navy Recruiting Chief John Borer and Petty Officer First Class Joe Carry stand beside the Navy's window display in Osmun's, part of this month's effort to recruit a complete 65-man company representing Pontiac. The City Commission passed the idea as a resolution, and Chamber of Commerce and Jaycee support has been pledged.

Pontiac Becomes First City to Recruit Navy Company

Spearheading a wave of similar moves by other Michigan cities, Pontiac is moving to organize its own Navy company.

In recognition of this move, shortly to be emulated by Flint and Saginaw, Gov. G. Mennen Williams has proclaimed January "Navy Month," recruiters announced recently.

Recruiting for the 65-man Company, to be completed Jan. 31, began Jan 3. To date, 21 men have enlisted.

The company, to be composed entirely of Pontiac men, will be sworn in Jan. 31 in Pontiac before leaving for training camp in Great Lakes, Ill.

Remaining together as a unit through nine weeks of basic training, the Pontiac sailors will return together for their first leave. They will then go seperate ways to specialized schools or other training.

Pontiac's Navy Company will be the first in Michigan to represent its own city. Openings still remain for volunteers between 17 and 31.

Pontiac's City Commission passed the move as a resolution Jan. 3, and the bill was signed by Mayor William W. Donaldson. Chamber of Commerce and Junior Chamber of Commerce support has been enlisted for the Company.

Service will be at 10:30 a.m. Monday in the Kirkby Funeral Home. Rev. Lousina Kibbe, of White Shepherd Church, will officiate with burial in Oak Hill Cemetery.

Two Passengers Hurt When Car Overturns

Michael J. Burch, 16, of 73 Glenwood Ave., and Richard K. Plourde, 16, of 132 Oliver St., were treated and released from Pontiac General Hospital last night after an accident on Joslyn Avenue near Collier road.

Oakland County Sheriff's deputies said the car in which they were riding, driven by 17-year-old Denniss Carroll of 36 Foster St., had gone out of control, bounced off a guardrail and rolled over in the road.

State OKs Plan for Jobless Pay

GM, Ford Seeking Ohio Approval of Dual Layoff Benefits for Workers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Michigan Employment Security Commission says that layoff pay on top of unemployment compensation is OK.

And in Ohio both Ford and General Motors have called for legislative approval of the supplemental layoff pay plan negotiated throughout the auto industry by the United Automobile Workers.

The Michigan commission's official ruling yesterday specifically was on the layoff pay agreement between the UAW and the Ford Motor Co. It was the first such decision.

The Michigan commission ruled that unemployed workers receiving supplemental pay will not be disqualified from or ineligible for unemployment compensation under the state's employment security act.

Advantages Seen in One-Roomed Schools

fascinated to see so many classes in one room and to watch how the older students helped the younger ones. It was an eventful trip."

Mrs. Woodward, who has been at Arnold School for 10 years, believes the one-room school turns out better educated, better adjusted personalities than does the streamlined, many-roomed city school. After the sixth grade, though, she thinks students are better off in the larger schools, where there are facilities for shop work, home economics, and social activities.

"For children through the sixth grade, we have most of what the larger school offers and much that can be got nowhere but in a one-room school. Our curriculum is modern, and includes such subjects as science and social studies. We have a 500-book library and the pupils themselves serve as librarians," says Mrs. Woodward. She pinpoints the advantages:

1. Because the teaching time is limited students learn to work independently.

2. Students who miss any part of the work in one grade, readily pick it up through hearing it taught to other grades.

3. By helping each other, students develop a sense of responsibility and learn to get along with others. Younger students have a learning incentive in seeing what the older ones accomplish.

4. With so many grades, discipline is essential, and students are better mannered.

5. Children are not shut off from the outdoors. Trips and hikes can be made at a moment's notice. In humid weather, classes can move outdoors without difficulty.

How does a teacher maintain discipline with 30 students of different ages and nine grades to teach?

GOOD DISCIPLINE

"I block off my time—about 10 minutes for each subject," says Mrs. Woodward. "I have a self-government system of discipline. Students set their own penalties for broken rules, and we abide by them. When I get a new student who is mischievous, I nip it in the bud by taking away privileges—It's not much fun to sit alone while others are skating on a pond or having the kind of fun these children have in their free periods."

Every student has his duties in keeping the school clean, and for good work there are such rewards as special seals and stickers. There are classes in art, with many outdoor materials utilized by the young students. And music includes simple fingering exercises and learning to play easy melodies on the school piano.

PARENTS APPROVE

How do the parents feel about the one-room school? Apparently they approve it wholeheartedly, for of the school's 30 students, 12 are "tuition" scholars — which means that their parents are bringing them from city school districts to the little country school, transporting them long distances and paying for the privilege. Their big fear is that the school will be forced to consolidate and be swallowed up in the larger school system.

One "hopeless" student, brought to the Arnold School last year, could speak only an unintelligible jabber. This year he's speaking clearly, and doing well in all subjects. The "jabber" was a defense mechanism to hide the fact that the boy hadn't learned to read. He learned reading quickly under the one-room system, and then his troubles disappeared.

"After the sixth grade, I think a bigger school offers more," says Mrs. Woodward.

"Before that, I'll take the one-room school every time. I've been told that some of the new students were 'holy terrors,' but when I get them they're as meek as lambs."

RICHARD SCRIBNER

Install Local Man in Top Kiwanis Post

Among officers installed at the Mid-Year Conference of Michigan Kiwanis District, Jan. 8-10 in Flint, was Richard Scribner, new Lieutenant Governor of the Fifth Michigan Kiwanis District.

Scribner is a past president of the West Pontiac Kiwanis Club. Fifteen members of the club acting as escort of honor at ceremonies Sunday were:

Floyd Baker, new president; Fred Gibson, Frank Van Atta, Robert Erickson, Harry J. McGarth, Robert Lazelle, Gerald Jacobs, Dr. Lynn D. Allen Jr., William J. Brown Jr., Michael E. Daniels, Archie G. McDonald, Robert Terry, William Treanor, John Mitchell, Lawrence Taylor and John A. Riley.

Among 500 Kiwanians attending the conference were Jack Niggeman, Fred J. Poole and William Coulacos, officers of the Downtown Kiwanis Club; Horace Hatifield and Merritt C. Clark, officers of the North Pontiac Kiwanis Club.

Armed Pair Invades Home, Robs Woman

Two men are held on investigation of armed robbery charges after a housewife reported that she was held up in her home last night.

Pontiac Police said one of the two, ages 21 and 23, is suspected of leveling a rifle at Mrs. Myrtle Meapon, 17 N. Midland Dr. and robbing her of $3.

Mrs. Meapon explained this was all the money she had in her purse. She said the man searched her house but couldn't find any more cash.

Solon to Renew Efforts to Obtain Water Supply

Oakland County's State Sen. William S. Broomfield (R-Royal Oak) said today he will try again during the legislative session just started to get more money for the State Water Resources Commission to aid in extensive studies toward relieving Southeastern Michigan's water shortage.

A bill which Broomfield intends to introduce next week would allow the Commission to join with local communities in research to set up a plan for bringing in more water, probably from the Great Lakes.

Four Persons Injured in Two-Auto Collision

Four persons were treated and released from Pontiac General Hospital last night after a two-car collision on M59 and Duck Lake road.

Fred A. VanBalaricum, 35, of Howell, and Robert P. Danley, 54, of Milford, the two drivers, received slight injuries.

Also treated were Gladys L. VanBlaricum, 32, and Ione W. VanBlaricum, 38, both of Fenton.

GM and Chrysler to Lay Off 7,500

Car Output Adjustment Puts 3,900 Out of Jobs at 6 Assembly Plants

DETROIT (AP)—Two of the "big three" of the auto industry—General Motors and Chrysler — reported adjustments in production schedules will result in layoffs affecting a total of nearly 7,500 employes. Ford previously reported a layoff of 4,600 workers.

* * *

General Motors Corp. said about 3,900 workers were laid off yesterday at six assembly plants in a scheduled readjustment of Buick, Oldsmobile and Pontiac production.

The GM plants are at Framingham, Mass.; Kansas City; Arlington, Tex.; Wilmington, Del.; Linden, N.J., and Southgate, Calif. GM has a total work force of 335,000 in the United States.

Chrysler Corp. said it is laying off 3,581 workers at plants in Detroit and Evansville, Ind. The layoffs include 1,400 at the Automotive Body Dvision and 1,000 at Chrysler Division in Detroit, and 1,181 at two Evansville plants. The Plymouth body and assembly plants in Evansville have been employing about 7,000 workers. Chrysler has a nationwide work force of 160,000, including 130,000 in Detroit.

Stereotypers Vote OK on Contract

DETROIT (AP) — Striking stereotypers voted overwhelmingly today to accept a new contract with Detroit's three big daily newspapers —the News, the Times and the Free Press.

The action was another step toward an early resumption of publication by the three newspapers which have been strike bound since Dec. 1.

George Robinson, president of the Stereotypers Local union, said the vote was 134 to 10 for approval.

Robinson said the stereotypers picket lines will be withdrawn immediately but he said no members of his union have been recalled to work as yet.

Striking printers and mailers met separately but simultaneously to ratify new contract terms offered to them.

The newspapers have reached agreement with six of eight unions so far.

A seventh union has agreed to submit a new contract to its membership.

The teamsters (truck drivers), only union still to settle with the publishers met today with the Detroit News, but announced "no progress" was made in bargaining. Asked by newsmen if he thought publication would be resumed by all papers, Monday, Ray Prebenda, teamsters business agent, said "Absolutely no."

Earlier, some observers had predicted the afternoon Times and News would start running again Monday and the morning Free Press Tuesday.

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — Peter Owen Jackson, 16, 3797 West Maple, Bloomfield Township, was thrown from the front seat of a car driven by Gordon W. Degener, 18, 3560 Roland, when Degener lost control of the car on the turn east of the railroad viaduct on East Long Lake Road at 11 p.m. last night. Jackson was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital with face lacerations and a possible concussion.

Florida Cold to Continue

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A week-long spell of cool weather in Florida and other Southeast States showed no indication of a general breakup today.

Miami, which has shivered in unseasonable cold since last Sunday, had another chilly morning with readings in the low 40s.

LITTLE WARMER

The Miami Weather Bureau expects a warming trend tomorrow but its five day forecast indicated temperatures "far below normal" through next Wednesday.

Crop losses in Florida have been estimated at more than 10 million dollars. The citrus crop suffered only minor damage.

Generally pleasant winter weather prevailed in most parts of the country.

The Weather Bureau predicted heavy rain from vicinity of Stockton and San Francisco northward today, tonight and Sunday, in a series of storms which formed around Hawaii.

Auto Rams Utility Pole

Bert L. Knight, 34, of 46 Park Pl., was injured slightly when the car he was riding in struck a utility pole at the corner of Osmun and S. Saginaw Sts. yesterday.

He was released after treatment in St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, authorities said.

The Day in Birmingham

New Recreation Director Starts Preliminary Work

BIRMINGHAM — Norman Landry, new recreation director, met his recreation board members and talked with them at their Thursday meeting on how his work will be integrated into other community activities.

His immediate problems, including meeting civic leaders and making contacts with those people primarily interested in youth activities, were discussed. He starts work Monday, but has already begun interviewing secretarial candidates for an aide in his office in municipal building annex.

With winter activities his first item on agenda, he will continue the board's efforts to keep Pembroke and St. James skating rinks flooded and in shape for ice sports. Quarton has had attempts at flooding, but weather conditions have been unfavorable. Date on completion of Eton Park skating rink will be announced Monday.

Arrangements for flooding parks will go through the Recreation Board rather than through contacts of other city officials, city commissioners decided at a recent meeting. But currently, weather and budget limits them to the two parks.

Arrest Local Resident for Larceny of $200

One man was arrested and another is sought for the larceny of $200 from a car parked in front of a S. Saginaw St. restaurant early this morning.

Held is Aaron Walker, 38, of 186 Earlmore Blvd., who police say was seen snatching a purse containing the money.

Victim of the robbery, Louise Lair, of Keego Harbor, told police two men in her car fled with the purse when they saw her leave the restaurant.

NEAR WAR 3 TIMES

President Eisenhower has been urged to say publicly whether he endorses Secretary of State John Foster Dulles' statement that the U.S. narrowly averted war three times in the Far East.

Renewing his attack on Dulles, Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn) noted yesterday that the secretary had read his interview with Life magazine and had offered "no changes or apologies."

Humphrey added: "I now ask the President to read the article and to tell the American people if he agrees with his secretary of state."

Meanwhile, some senators reportedly are demanding that Dulles appear again before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and clarify the testimony he gave earlier this week.

'VERY UNWISE'

But Chairman Walter F. George (D-Ga) appeared to be cool toward the idea. He also said he thought it would be "very unwise" to publish the transcript of the closed session.

If this were permitted, George said, no secretary of state could be expected to give the committee confidential briefings.

However, ABC news commentator Edward P. Morgan last night quoted "a high-ranking" committeeman as saying he wouldn't be "at all surprised" if Dulles were summoned for questioning.

Morgan said the unidentified senator added: "We haven't heard the end of this by a long shot."

Adrian Group Cites Former Local Man

Former Pontiac resident Bernie F. Beach, 65, general manager of the Michigan Milk Producers Dairy Co., has been named "outstanding citizen of the year" by the Chamber of Commerce in Adrian, his home for the past 14 years.

Beach, who was the firm's manager in Detroit while living in Pontiac for 22 years, moved to Adrian in 1941.

A native of Tuscola County, Beach graduated from Michigan State University.

He has visited Europe and Puerto Rico at U.S. government invitations to advise those countries in the setting up of milk producing plants. He was honored by MSU last November for distinguished service to agriculture.

Mundt Opines on Farm Plan

'Not One Shot in Arm but Many Are Needed,' Committeeman Says

WASHINGTON (UP) — Sen. Mundt (R-SD) said today that farm prices and income "should get not one, but four or five shots in the arm from the new administration farm program."

* * *

He referred to complaints from some House Republicans and others that farmers suffering from low prices needed "an immediate shot in the arm" in addition to long-range benefits envisioned under the proposals of President Eisenhower and Secretary of Agriculture Benson.

But Sen. Olin D. Johnston (D-SC) expressed doubt that the various administration proposals "will work without first returning to 90 per cent of parity supports"—a plan strongly backed by many Democrats.

Both Johnston and Mundt are members of the committee, which now is considering the nine-point program Eisenhower proposed in a special message Monday.

* * *

Chairman Ellender (D-La) said the committee has agreed to rush action on four points in "an omnibus bill," while leaving four others for later action since they would involve expansion or revision of programs already in effect.

The ninth point, already approved by the Senate Finance Committee, was cited by Mundt as "probably the first shot." He said it would involve "a refund of 60 million dollars of federal taxes now paid (each year) on gasoline used on the farms."

Another prompt boost for farm income, Mundt said, should result from "a stepped up government program of buying pork products" for which Benson said 85 million dollars has been earmarked.

Mundt said the new "soil bank payments," under which corn, wheat cotton and rice growers could get additional payments by not planting their land, "also could put a billion dollars into farm incomes this year if Congress acts quickly."

IN 20-DEGREE TEMPERATURE—A $300,000 fire on Friday, the 13th, destroyed two buildings of the Warlick Furniture Co. in Bluefield, W. Va., and damaged two others in a spectacular blaze. Firemen battled the flames from snow-covered streets in a 20-degree temperature. The fire, starting about 8 a. m., snarled traffic in downtown Bluefield and cast an acrid pall of choking smoke over the business district. The fire was brought under control about 10 a. m.

Reveal Florida Launching Site

Will Fire Satellite From Cocoa Air Base on Atlantic Coast

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Navy and Air Force has announced that the launching site for the earth satellite project will be Patrick Air Force Base, Cocoa, Fla.

The two services said the base was selected "on the basis of operational requirements for large rocket launchings, and is suitable to the scientific needs of the program."

The base has a firing range for rocket and missile tests which extends southeastward over the Atlantic.

* * *

The statement recalled a previous announcement that test firings of the components of the satellite would be carried out first, although exact launching dates have not been determined.

It added that a complete "vanguard" satellite unit "will be launched after flight tests of the components indicate that there is a good chance of putting the satellite into orbit."

ANNOUNCED LAST JULY

The satellite plan, to be part of the International Geophysical Year in 1957-58, was announced by President Eisenhower last July.

Under the program, several satellites are to be fired into the lower fringes of space. It is anticipated that they will orbit around the earth at altitudes of several hundred miles for several days or weeks.

At the time of the President's announcement, scientists said the satellite probably would be about the size of a basketball.

There have been indications since that they were thinking in terms of a somewhat larger sphere.

* * *

Last October the Navy, which has been assigned the overall job of directing the launching program announced that a contract for building the vehicle had been let to the Glenn L. Martin Co. of Baltimore. The General Electric Co. holds a subcontract with Martin for part of the propulsion system.

Other contracts for other components are being made.

Kalamazoo Man Conducts Detroit Opera Symphony

DETROIT (UP) — Kalamazoo-born Thomas Schippers, 25-year-old Metropolitan Opera conductor, appeared Thursday night as guest conductor of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra.

The audience was loud in its applause of the young conductor and the orchestra in performances of Prokofieff's fifth symphony, the overture to Smetana's "Batered Bride," the prelude to Wagner's "Meistersingers" and two works by young American composers, Gian-Carlo Menotti and Charles Turner.

Turner is a former Detroiter and 1955 winner of the Copley Foundation prize in Composition. Both Menotti and Turner were in the audience and took bows after performances of their works.

Included on the program were Mentti's suite from hi sballet, "Sebestian," and Turner's "Encounters."

Final Tax Notice Sent to Noted Author-Convict

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (UP)—Caryl Chessman, author of best-seller "Cell 2455, Death Row," received a "final notice" yesterday from the Internal Revenue Service asking for $3,433.62 in unpaid 1954 taxes and interest.

The convict, who still is fighting through courts his 1948 sentence for kidnap-rape, was advised: "Avoid the inconvenience, embarrassment and additional costs that result from further delay."

News Conflict Due to 'Rivalry'

U. S. Armed Services Blamed in Hassle Over Pentagon Information

WASHINGTON (UP) — R. Karl Honaman testified today that one reason for a controversial Pentagon news directive last year was rivalry among the armed services.

* * *

He said this rivalry sometimes led to one service giving out material that perhaps unintentionally discredited another.

Honaman was Deputy Asst. Secretary of Defense for Public Affairs at the Pentagon for almost a year until he left Dec. 30 to return to his New York job as director of technical publications for Bell Telephone Laboratories.

His Pentagon stay was marked by controversy with news reporters and editors. There was criticism that he sought to bottle up information to which the public was properly entitled.

In the light of this controversy, a House subcommittee making a general inquiry into government policies called Honaman before it today to talk about a Defense Department directive of last March about withholding information that was not "constructive."

Honaman said the directive was issued before he joined the department last April and he was not the author.

* * *

He said there had been occasions when material released by one service reflected discredit on a sister service.

Governors Line Up on Candidates

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — At least 25 of the nation's 48 governors appeared today to be headed toward major roles in the choice of this year's Republican and Democratic presidential nominees.

Still others will step into the picture before the August nominating conventions.

Almost every one of the 21 Republican governors now is counted as a supporter of President Eisenhower if he decides to seek a second term, and four have started actively organizing delegates slates to support him. Some—but not all—seem likely to go down the line for any substitute candidate the President suggests if he himself doesn't run.

In the Democratic camp, former Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois already has enlisted the public support of five governors in his race for that party's nomination. They include Govs. George M. Leader of Pennsylvania, Abraham A. Ribicoff of Connecticut, Orville L. Freeman of Minnesota, Luther Hodges of North Carolina and John F. Simms Jr. of New Mexico.

The Stevenson strategists also hope to swing Gov. Robert B. Meyner of New Jersey, Gov. Orval Faubus of Arkansas and others into their lineup before the Chicago convention next August.

Gov. Averell Harriman of New York describes himself as an "inactive" candidate for the nomination. He has had some nice words from Gov. Raymond Gary of Oklahoma, but otherwise has displayed little strength among his gubernatorial colleagues.

Gov. Frank J. Lausche of Ohio is a favorite son candidate with the object of controlling his state's potent delegation and looking over the field at the convention. Lausche has had a pat on the back from Gov. Allan Shivers of Texas, who doesn't like Stevenson.

Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan also is expected to wind up in the favorite son class with some hopes of first or second place on this year's national ticket.

Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee, a candidate for the presidential nomination, hasn't picked up any public support among the governors. There have been reports, however, that his candidacy has some appeal to Gov. James E. Folsom of Alabama. Folsom says publicly he is for former President Truman, who in turn says he isn't going to run.

Charge 3 in Looting Local Tavern of $110

Three men were charged with the $110 robbery of a N. Perry St. bar Tuesday and four others are being held in investigation of the case, Pontiac Police said today.

Arrested for breaking and entering were Joseph L. Brewer, 19, of 91 Tebeau Ct., Auburn Heights; William L. McArthur, 24, of 207 E. Huron St., and Donald H. Ritter, 27, of 4 S. Saginaw St.

Police have not yet determined whether the trio also broke into a N. Perry St. gas station Tuesday night, Det. Sgt. John E. Depauw said.

Ike's School Aid May Get First Test on House Floor

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower's program of federal aid for school construction may get its first test not in committee hearings but in direct contest on the House floor.

Rep. McConnell (R-Pa), senior Republican on the House Education Committee, said efforts would be made on the floor to change a Democratic-sponsored measure to fit the President's program. There is no present plan, he said to propose a new House bill.

The Democratic bill, by Rep. Augustine B. Kelley (D-Pa), has been approved by the education committee and is now awaiting rules committee clearance. Speaker of the House Rayburn (D-Tex) said he expects it to reach the House floor "reasonably soon."

In the Senate, Chairman Hill (D-Ala) said the Senate Labor and Public Welfare Committee will hold some hearings on the administration plan. A bill to carry it out was introduced yesterday by Sen. H. Alexander Smith (R-NJ).

5-YEAR PLAN

Eisenhower proposed a five-year 1¼ billion dollar program of federal matching grants along with financing aid and planning funds as means of meeting the classroom shortage. The Kelley bill would provide, among other things, a four-year $1,600,000,000 program of grants.

But the touchy subject of racial segregation—unmentioned in Eisenhower's message — continued to threaten passage of any school aid measure. As McConnell put it, any such bill "has a rough road to go."

Sen. Hill said Eisenhower's new plan "is a considerable improvement on his proposal of last year," which included 200 million in grants over three years, and added:

"The only thing which will prevent enactment of a bill with the same principles as the President proposed is an antisegregation amendment. An antisegregation amendment will kill the bill."

Senator Seeks Support for Presidency in State That Gave Him '52 Vote

PORTSMOUTH, N.H. (AP)—Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn), still searching for the Democratic presidential nomination that eluded him four years ago, returned today to the state that gave him a stunning victory over President Truman in 1952.

The tall Tennessean began a three-day political invasion of New Hampshire in high hopes of capturing its eight votes at the Democratic national convention.

He was also not unaware of the prestige and more practical political benefits that might accompany another triumph in the nation's first presidential primary here March 13.

* * *

Kefauver's schedule included a brief stop at Hampton, near the Massachusetts - New Hampshire border, before a visit to Portsmouth, where his supporters arranged a reception.

Other stops on today's crowded automobile itinerary included Dover, Somersworth, Rochester and Nashua, where he will speak at a rally and spend the night.

Actor Robinson's Son Booked on Drunk Charge

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Edward G. Robinson Jr., was in trouble with police again last night after an officer said the actor's son tried to punch him.

Robinson, 22, was booked on a plain drunk charge, a count on which he has been arrested previously.

Officer George Deal reported trouble started at the Los Angeles Municipal Airport about 40 minutes before young Robinson was slated to take off for New York to visit his father.

The airport restaurant reported a disturbance. Deal said that while he was trying to talk to Robinson he suddenly had to dodge a punch.

The actor's son was acquitted of bad check charges in 1952 and a robbery count against him was dismissed in 1954.

Nearly $2 Million Collected by GOP

Reports filed yesterday with the clerk of the House also showed that the Republican groups spent $1,697,172, while the Democratic bodies paid out $1,008,827 in 1955.

Income listed was from contributions and other sources.

Reporting on their finances were the Democratic and Republican national committees and separate groups set up by each party to help elect senators and members of the House.

Health Commissioner Defends Serum Plan

LANSING (AP) — Dr. Albert E. Heustis, state health commissioner, today defended the state's method of allocating Salk vaccine as "the fairest possible."

* * *

Dr. Heustis said he had received complaints from some local health commissioners that vaccine in their communities was in critically short supply.

"Everybody is short throughout the state, not just in a few areas," Dr. Heustis said.

He said allocation was based strictly on the number of eligible recipients in a given area.

"If a community has 5 per cent of the eligible children in the state, then they get 5 per cent of the vaccine. We don't deviate from that method of distribution," Dr. Huestis said.

Colombia Bags Top Coffee Crop

U.S. Farm Department Lists Output at Nearly Seven Million Sacks

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department reported today that Colombia produced a record coffee crop of 6,853,200 bags during the past season.

* * *

While no official forecast of production has been made for the current season, the department's Foreign Agricultural Service estimated a minimum of 7,200,000 bags.

The previous high production was 6,728,500 bags in the previous season.

The department said that 6,123,000 bags of last season's output were available for export, although shipments have totaled only 5,151,000 bags.

UP A MILLION

As a consequence, the agency said, the carryover supplies in Colombia increased about one million bags during the season to a total of 2,321,000 bags.

* * *

The department said that this season's crop would provide an export supply of at least 6,500,000 bags.

"With fair weather, the crop could be even larger," it added.

Gls' Polio Benefit 66 Miles From Goal

LA GRANGE, Tex. (AP)—Two members of the 6th Marine Reserve Battalion of Houston were given a hero's welcome here yesterday on their 182-mile "Marines' March on Polio" trek to the State Capitol in Austin.

A benefit basketball game was staged last night in honor of S. Sgt. Nolan G. Henry of Mason and Navy Hospitalman 3. C. Charles R. Blanar of Houston, now only 66 miles from their goal.

Townspeople along the route have turned out in large numbers to greet the Marine unit members on their hike. High school bands and civic leaders have welcomed them in a number of towns.

The earth's orbit is such that the sun is three million miles closer in January than in July, the National Geographic Society says. If the sun's rays did not strike the northern Hemisphere more obliquely then, winter would be warmer than summer.

Hubby Shuts Her Up; Judge Grants Divorce

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Testimony that her husband made her speechless won actress Tina Carver a divorce from Dr. Thomas H. Carver, a University of Indiana professor.

* * *

A friend of Mrs. Carver's, Mrs. Kay Dart, told Superior Court yesterday that at times during the marriage the actress was "so distraught that it was impossible for her to speak coherently."

The Carvers married in Paris in 1949 and separated in 1953. They have a 3-year-old daughter. Dr. Carver is to pay $200 a month alimony and child support under a support settlement.

TODAY'S ASSIGNMENT FOR: JUNIOR EDITORS

HAPPY FISHING!

Do you like to go fishing? Here is a game in which you can try to get the fish, but all the time you must watch out for the ugly old octopus lurking near them.

Before pasting the picture down on cardboard, color it with crayons. The background should be light green like water in an aquarium. The fish should be in all sorts of bright colors, leaving the circles with the numbers white.

Any number of persons can play this game. Break a toothpick in half. Each player in turn drops the toothpick from a height of about two feet onto the fish. Whichever fish or fishes the toothpick touches determines the number of points gained. The player who reaches 500 first is the winner. But, should a toothpick touch any part of the octopus, the player, if he has 50 points or more, must subtract 50 points from his score.

An octopus lives in the sea and is sometimes called a devil-fish. It has eight long arms or tentacles. Each has a double row of cuplike suckers down its length. These help the octopus clamber about on rocks under water and enables it to seize prey.

WE BELIEVE . . .
GOOD BUSINESS
by Edgar A. Guest

If I possessed a shop or store,
I'd drive the grouches off my floor;

I'd never let some gloomy guy
Offend the folks who come to buy;

Nor let a man who draws my pay
Drive customers of mine away.

I'd treat the man who takes my time
And spends a nickel or a dime

With courtesy and make him feel
That I was pleased to close the deal,

Because tomorrow, who can tell?
He may want stuff I have to sell,

And in that case, then glad he'll be
To spend his dollars all with me.

The reason people pass one door
To patronize another store,

Is not because the busier place
Has better silks, or gloves, or lace

Or special prices, but it lies
In pleasant words and smiling eyes;

The only difference, I believe,
Is in the treatment folks receive!

Reflections
He Made Friends, First

J. L. VOORHEES
"Lucky," they said, but those of us who knew Don Ragon best, knew the word should have been "Compassionate."
Don Ragon was born and reared on a farm in Kansas, knew how calluses came, fully appreciated what it meant to live on corn mush and a piece of pork sidemeat. He walked two miles to school, often through blizzards, came home to chores; in addition to his manifold duties he helped his neighbors. He opened an Electric Appliance store; his banker said, "You'll fail unless you tighten your credit strings." Don shook his head. "I can't," he said. "They're my friends." He took calves, hogs, chickens and eggs in lieu of cash. Those payments stocked his ranch. His business prospered. His greatest wealth was friends and compassion sealed them to him tighter than glue.

Reports of a dog whining started the girl's father and others digging. Members of the family escaped alive, although Heather was trapped for 15 minutes.

2 Men, Woman Shot in Auto

Ex-Husband One of 3 Found Dead; Think He Killed 2 in Jealousy

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Police today pieced together a theory of an ex-husband, jealous over his former wife's attentions to a married man, in the case of three bodies found yesterday on a lonely country road.

Two men and a young woman were found slumped together in the front seat of a car, parked near the Meramec River some 25 miles southwest of here. Officers found the bodies after an anonymous telephone tip.

The victims and their part in the love tragedy as reported by St. Louis County Police Lt. Herman Birmes were:

Elmer P. Loring, 28, married, and a drinking companion Thursday night with the woman victim.

James V. McGraw, 28, of East St. Louis, former husband of the woman and the man police say did the shooting with a pistol.

Miss Carol Hug, 20, who divorced McGraw last April on grounds of cruelty. She and Loring were St. Louis residents.

The woman's body was between those of the men. She had been shot in the right side of the head. Loring was shot in the right chest and McGraw in the right temple. The gun was found between McGraw and Miss Hug.

McGraw's car was later found parked near Miss Hug's home.

Lt. Birmes said McGraw apparently waited for Miss Hug and Loring to return from a drinking date, then forced them at pistol point to drive to the spot near an abandoned club house.

Miss Hug and Loring worked for a St. Louis printing firm. McGraw was a railroad electrician.

Miss Hug's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Norman A. Hug, said McGraw had seen their daughter several times after the divorce in an attempt for a reconciliation, but that he also had threatened her with death.

Mrs. Melba Loring, wife of one of the victims, was quoted as saying she last heard from her husband Thursday night when he called to say he would have to work overtime.

Killers of 5 Missionaries

Beast-Like Aucas Living as Stoneagers

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Auca Indians, presumed slayers of five flying missionaries from the United States, are a naked, bloodthirsty Ecuadorean tribe still living in the Stone Age.

* * *

This is the picture presented to a U. S. government agency by field agents who surveyed the region for possible rubber development during World War II.

The agents' reports to the Rubber Development Corp, were made available by the National Archives in the wake of reports that an Air Force helicopter had found four bodies near a camp the missionaries had established in the Amazon jungle reaches of Ecuador. Their aim was to Christianize the Aucas, described by visitors to the area as extremely ferocious.

"They are still Stone Age indians . . . never contacted by white men or civilization. . . extremely savage and bellicose," says one report.

Not much has been learned about the Aucas, says another report, because "those who saw them seldom lived to tell the tale."

"They combine their instincts of jungle beasts with human intelligence," the investigators said. "They fall on their victims with blood-curdling cries, virtually paralyzing them. They always strike from ambush."

* * *

Aucas use as their weapon a lance 9 to 12 feet long. One agent, Richard F. D'Orsay, said he was inclined to doubt the blood-curdling stories of what they did with their lances until he saw for himself the result of an Auca hit-and-run attack:

"There were six bodies lying on the beach, two women and four children. The dead were literally nailed to the ground by lances. The body of a 2-year-old child was impaled by a 12-foot lance which was stuck in the ground like a flag."

Area, Nation Set Records During 1955 Birth Boom

The baby boom persisted through 1955 in the United States with the total number of births reaching a new high of approximately 4,100,000 statisticians of a national life insuance company reported.

Both Pontiac General Hospital and St. Joseph Hospital reported record number of live births during the past year.

Pontiac General recorded 2,870 live births as compared to 2,817 in 1954 and 2,570 in 1953. The infant mortality rate for the three years, or babies that died within 72 hours of birth, averaged 1.8 at the hospital.

National infant mortality rate declined to a new low rate of 26.4 per 1,000 live births, which is about one and one-half per cent below the previous minimum established in 1954.

The 1955 total of live births at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital was 3,682, the previous year it was 3,577 and in 1953, 3,480 babies first saw the light of day.

Based on the number of babies that remain at the hospital nursery for one month after delivery, a St. Joseph Mercy Hospital clerk reported a one-per cent mortality rate for the past three years.

The 1955 total was at the rate of 24.9 births per 1,000 of population residing in the United States.

Statistics reveal that since World War II births have averaged 3,800,000 annually.

Between 15 and 20 per cent of all life insurance in the nation is owned by women.

Cleveland Restates Ideas After Re-Election Defeat

(Michigan's history is rich and alive. Too foten it is lost in the dullness of schooltime lessons. In an effort to bring some of these moments to life, the following story has been compiled from eyewitness accounts on file with the University of Michigan's historical collections and Assistant Director F. Clever Bald.)

By JOHN BARBOUR

ANN ARBOR, Feb. 22, 1892 (AP)—Former President Grover Cleveland came out of his re-election defeat for a major political speech today on Washington's birthday and may have recouped his party's confidence.

* * *

Speaking at the University of Michigan, Cleveland took the opportunity to restate his basic philosophy on the U.S. government.

His defeat by Republican Benjamin Harrison was generally laid to a split in the Democratic party between Cleveland and party leader David B. Hill of New York. It appears now that despite his defeat, Cleveland is not ready to give up his fight with Hill.

In returning to Michigan, Cleveland has come to the state where much of his support was born. He had populated his cabinet, his advisors' posts and his judiciary with many University of Michigan alumni.

THOUSANDS WATCH

Arriving by train, he followed the Ypsilanti Light Guards and more than 1,500 students along a route lined by thousands, more than 5,000 from out of town.

As the train pulled into the station, there was a swelling shout of welcome. In his speech, Cleveland called for a reaffirmation of the sentiment he believes is part of American life. He said rather pointedly that this sentiment should not be permitted to fall to disillusionment.

"None of us can be ignorant of the ideas which constitute the sentiment underlying our national structure," he said.

He told the university students that some of them one day may hold political office. "But do not leave your faith behind you," he said.

"Do not surrender your faith to those who discredit and debase politics by scoffing at sentiment and principle, and whose political activity consists in attempts to gain popular support by cunning devices and shrewd manipulation," he added.

There was no direct reference to his opponents, but his speech left little question what he meant.

(Footnote: Cleveland continued to ride the crest of a rising popularity. In the next presidential election, he defeated Benjamin Harrison to become the only U.S. president to regain the office after a term absence. He continued to name University of Michigan alumni to public office, among them Postmaster-General Don Dickinson, Ambassador James B. Angell, ICC chairman Thomas M. Cooley; Solicitor General Lawrence Maxwell, Ambassador Thomas W. Palmer, Ambassador William E. Quinby, Ambassador John M. B. Sill, Private Secretary Henry T. Thurber, Asst. Secretary of State and Ambassador Edwin F. Uhl, Asst. Secretary of Agriculture Edwin Willits.)

Shelley Winters Breaks Foot; to Miss Show

The actress injured her foot Wednesday while teaching her 3-year-old daughter, Victoria Gina, to roller skate in Central Park.

A Lyceum Theater spokesman said her physician reported she would not be able to return to the show before the Saturday matinee, if then.

AEC Continuing Tests on All Atomic Weapons

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — The Atomic Energy Commission resumes tests today seeking to determine if atomic weapons can be exploded accidentally.

Weather permitting, the AEC said the first test will occur during daylight hours at the test site, some 75 miles northwest of Las Vegas.

The program is to determine what can happen in case of accidents in the handling and storage of atomic weapons.

Once Again FBI Proves Its Tremendous Worth

Don't fool with the FBI.

It NEVER pays.

Ask the man who's awaiting trial; or who's languishing in Federal prison; or who has been deported. Of course those that have gone to their death can't quite testify.

Or, if none of these is available, ask the man who is still at large and who has that relentless, tireless and indefatigable outfit breathing down the back of his neck.

The biggest bank robbery in this country took place six years ago. In the interim, the tumult and the shouting died down. Gigantic though it was, the case slipped from the minds of most of the people.

But our Agents in Washington never forgot. Their patience is inexhaustible. The files remain open and "alive" until the case is solved. It's that simple. They never give up. Quod erat demonstrandum.

There were eleven men involved in the celebrated Brink case. One is dead. Two are in prison and six have just been whisked out of circulation.

This leaves two at large.

Would you like this threat hanging over your head? Would you want the greatest law enforcing agency in the world still hunting for YOU? Could you enjoy one moment's peace of mind?

Throughout the years, one fact becomes more clearly established as time passes. The FBI has built up a tremendous record. Its prestige in America is absolutely tops. Even our most ardent investigators leave the FBI alone.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation has earned its position in the affection and esteem of the American people. It occupies an unique position. No one assails it and everyone cheers.

Of course, it does have one large, silent, hostile segment. We refer to the thieves, burglars, kidnappers, murderers, gangsters, racketeers and more of the same sorry ilk. J. Edgar Hoover is the personal scourge of their sorry lives.

★ ★ ★

Waterford Told About Incorporation Troubles

If proof were needed that Waterford residents are vitally interested in their municipal future, it came at the area's first panel type town meeting.

Despite unfavorable driving conditions, more than a thousand persons appeared at Waterford High School to hear the question discussed. Deep interest also was indicated by the close attention given panel speakers who discussed every aspect of the problem.

Audience reaction was most favorable to the remarks of William Brashear, Detroit attorney, who drafted Livonia's municipal charter. He emphasized the incorporation difficulties that would confront a township of Waterford's large area.

There appeared to be general agreement that other town meetings would be necessary to discuss not only incorporation but proposed annexation to Pontiac.

★ ★ ★

Much the same idea was expressed at a recent meeting of Pontiac real estate men interested in the City's development. Those present felt that the cost should be shared by the City of Pontiac, Waterford Township and such other communities as might be considered in developing Greater Pontiac.

More Turnkeys Needed

Deserved praise has come to Sheriff Irons and his staff in a letter recommending the addition of two turnkeys at Oakland County Jail.

In the letter, written to Floyd Andrews, chairman of the Board of Supervisors, W. H. Nestle, State Jail Inspector, first praised the fine supervision being provided at the jail. He added that if his recommendation were adopted, the jail would become one of the finest in the country.

With the present staff, there are two turnkeys for one of the three daily eight hour shifts and but one for each of the other two. Population of the jail averages about 175. During 1955 there were a total of 7,386 admissions.

★ ★ ★

A little thought reveals the need for the additional employes. With two turnkeys on every shift, there obviously would be greater safety for staff as well as inmates in the event of fire or any other untoward occurrence.

On the basis of our own investigation, we believe Inspector Nestle's recommendation deserves sympathetic consideration by the supervisors.

Strike Teaches Politicians the Importance of Papers

By JACK I. GREEN

LANSING — The Detroit newspaper strike has had such peculiar effects on state government and politics that it is interesting to speculate what might result from a complete closure of the public press.

• • •

While the three largest newspapers in Michigan were shut down for at least 45 days there has been a lot of talk about its effect on advertisers, retail business and the general attitude of the public.

But the strike also influenced government and politics strongly—and apparently has opened a lot of official eyes to the place of the newspaper in America.

The most obvious result has been the sudden shrinkage of public information and statements by state officials and political leaders.

• • •

True, they did not climb into a hole completely for the duration of the strike. True, they recognized that all of outstate Michigan was still receiving its daily papers.

PLANS WITHHELD

But with more than one million reader-voters lacking regular newspaper service officials began deliberately withholding the plans and announcements they otherwise would have been thrusting on reporters.

• • •

State officials said frankly, although privately, that they did not want to "waste" their choice publicity bombs when the Detroit readers could not hear them —or hear them in full.

Probably this is partly due to the fact that the Williams' administration leans so heavily on the big Wayne County Democratic vote and because Detroit Democrats hold so many key spots in the administration that they tend to emphasize or overemphasize the role of the Detroit reader.

No official refused to give out information about his department and the nonpolitical agencies continued their routine issuance of news. But the elective officials and their aides let down their publicity barrage noticeably.

• • •

One can speculate as to how much of the storm and fury of political life, the name-calling and accusations would end if there were no newspapers to relay it all.

RELY ON PAPERS

But if that might be a blessing, consider the case of those many people—and they are legion—who must depend on the press to give them the facts on which they base decisions and programs.

• • •

One alert municipal official, who acts as a lobbyist and an adviser to his government, reports that during the newspaper strike he spent most of his working hours on the telephone calling New York, Washington, Lansing and other cities trying to find out what had happened in this situation, what was doing in another.

Days of All Faiths

Week Devoted to Considering Relation of New Economy to Christian Society

By DR. HOWARD V. HARPER

Each year, during the Epiphany season, the National Council of Churches, through its Department of Church and Economic Life, sets aside a full week for the consideration of the Christian's place in today's changing economic system.

This year's theme, on which sermons and study material in hundreds of American Protestant Churches will be based, is "Not by bread—alone," which refers, of course, to the Lord's statement in Matthew, chapter 4, verse 4, "it is written Man shall not live by bread alone."

In its promotional pamphlet the Department points out that although most people think America is still living in the age created by the Industrial Revolution which began 125 years ago, the actual truth is that we are well into a new era which might be called the Technological Revolution. The chief characteristics of our present economy, says the pamphlet, are "Abundance, Atomic Energy, and Automation."

What this new age means to the concerned Christian is thus far undetermined. The consideration of this question is the purpose of Church and Economic Life Week. The Department recommends three general topics for discussion by church groups and provides a guide for each topic. The topics are:

1. You and our changing economy.
2. Your Christian conscience and American abundance.
3. Your role as a Christian in a responsible society.

POPE'S FIRST THRONE

Wednesday is celebrated in the Roman Catholic Church under the somewhat unusual name of St. Peter's Chair at Rome. In ancient times it was the custom in many dioceses (geographical areas) to keep an annual festival on the anniversary of the date when the diocese first received a bishop.

The festival is perhaps the only one of these observances left—it commemorates the occasion when St. Peter first ascended the throne as Bishop of Rome and first Pope. An ancient wooden seat, said to be Peter's first throne is still preserved at the Vatican. The present celebration takes place in St. Peter's Church in Rome.

Today the Roman Catholic Church begins its "Church Unity Octave," which is an eight-day period of prayer for the reunion of Christendom. The Octave runs from the Feast of St. Peter's Chair to the Feast of the Conversion of St. Paul (January 25) and is observed throughout the Roman church.

NEW AND BETTER HYMNS

On Thursday, Jan. 19, in 1922 there came into existence the Hymn Society of America, an interdenominational group dedicated to the improvement of both the music and the poetry of Protestant hymns. Another important function of the Society is to encourage the writing of new hymns related to contemporary life.

For example, five new hymns on modern city life have been produced under the Society's auspices. A concise statement of the Society's goal might be "up to high standards and up to date."

When the Revised Standard Version of the Bible appeared in 1952, the Society brought out ten new hymns on the Holy Scriptures. For the meeting of the World Council of Churches in 1954 at Evanston, Illinois, the Society published 11 new ecumenical hymns, that is, hymns dealing with the unity of Christendom.

Hubby, Wife Rating Scales Developed From Complaints of Happily Marrieds

Howard didn't realize that he had offended his devoted wife all the years of their marriage. It wasn't until he widened his perspective with the rating scales described below, that he saw himself through her eyes. All married couples can have fun, and also profit greatly, by rating themselves, or each other. Use them in your church and neighborhood clubs.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case Q-348: Howard J. aged 31, is the husband of Janet, who complained yesterday about his soured, tobacco halitosis.

"Dr. Crane, I never knew before that my breath was repulsive," he conceded, in honest surprise.

"For nobody had ever mentioned that fact to me. If it has offended Janet, it may likewise have cost me many sales, for I sell insurance.

"And I find from your 'Test for Husbands' that there are a lot of other things I had never stopped to think about.

"So I'll try to remedy my halitosis, for I have a wonderful wife and love her with all my heart."

RATING SCALES

* * *

And some of our greatest scientists, as well as many business executives, are of that sort.

A famous American publisher of my acquaintance always looked out of his two eyes as if he were on a one-way street.

"If I like political columns, everybody likes them," was his usual attitude, for he failed to realize that other folks might not share his own viewpoint.

"I like myself," is thus the opinion of most husbands,' "so my wife must like me, too."

But a person needs to be jogged into a keen analysis of himself, as by using that "Test for Husbands" which contains 50 of the most common merits of American males, as well as their 50 most common faults.

I developed that test after personal interviews with 600 apparently happily married wives. Taking each woman in my private office, I asked her in confidence to tell me what she liked best about her husband.

"Why do you love Howard?" I would ask. "What attracts you to him? Why did you marry him instead of somebody else, etc?"

Women are naturally more diplomatic than men, so these wives gave me their frank opinions, even though they had never mentioned them to their husbands.

And after obtaining the spontaneous reasons why wives loved their husbands, I then reverse my query and said:

"Does Howard have any faults, big or little? Is there anything he does or says that gets on your nerves? Would you change him in any way if you could do so without his knowing it or without incurring his anger?"

Then these 600 wives gave me their specific dislikes about their mates, which had often lain dormant and unspoken ever since their wedding day.

My "Tests for Wives" was developed in the same manner by confidential interviews with the 600 happily married husbands.

VIEW YOURSELF

So you have an excellent chance to see yourself as others observe you when you go down the list of the 50 most common merits of husbands (or wives), and the 50 most frequent demerits or faults.

You also are measuring yourself against the standard of current American husbands and wives and not against an arbitrary yardstick which we psychologists have prepared.

If you fall short, don't blame us psychologists, for these tests are the actual attitudes of wives and husbands, confidentially telling their inner secrets about their mates.

So send for the "Tests for Husbands & Wives", enclosing a stamped return envelope, plus 20c.

Use them on the married class at Sunday school or at your club meetings. They are not only fun, but basically are helpful psychological aids.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 3c stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

Dr. Brady's Mailbag:

Doctor Claims Dandruff Is Incurable, but Soap Tonic Will Kill Some Germs

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

I have dandruff very bad, and also my hair is very oily because I brush it so much. (Miss F. L.)

Answer—Dandruff is incurable, though there are 1,001 dandruff cures on the market. The best you can do is to keep the condition under control so that it will give a minimum of trouble. How to do this at home is described in Little Lesson 24, The Hair and Scalp, for which send 35c and stamped, self-addressed envelope. Incidentally shampoo with plain soap and water will kill as many germs as any nostrum can, but no one has shown that germs cause dandruff or baldness. I don't know, but I do believe that going hatless tends to prevent dandruff and baldness.

Answer—at least no harm in taking two 5-mg tablets of riboflavin (vitamin B-2) twice a day for two weeks, and from now on consuming not less than 1½ pints of whole milk, skim milk, separator milk, buttermilk daily (milk is the best food source of riboflavin).

My husband believes in you but doesn't believe in other doctors. He was hospitalized recently (has one kidney) and the doctors told him he must stop drinking, but he thinks they are kidding. (Mrs. A. S.)

Answer—Pretty silly, isn't he? If his beer and whisky guzzling continues something tragic may happen when he is in one of his "real nasty and mean" spells. There is still hope for him if he will voluntarily seek help from an Alcoholics Anonymous group in your city.

Mrs. R. and I have been supplementing our diet with the three-vitamins-three-minerals as you suggest in the pamphlet and we feel so much better for it—I think we have more vite than our married children. (H. R.)

Answer—It seems to be an insoluble problem—how to persuade the young folks to cherish it when they still have enough to build on. They seldom take any interest in it until they begin to realize—but I do the best I can. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope and ask for the pamphlet Young Folks and Old Folks.

We nearly starved our children withholding sugar, candy and sweets for two years, but they had as much calories as do the neighbors' children who get plenty of sweets. Now we are going to try to save their teeth with good nutrition. Wish we had had Little Lesson No. 1 from the start. (D. M. B.)

Answer—I maintain that sugar, candy and sweets in general are not responsible for decay of the teeth. Such food is so plentiful, so cheap, so easy to eat (or drink) even though you are not hungry, so quickly converted into energy and so satiating (for a little while) that child or grown-up may have little appetite or desire for more essential foods, such as milk, eggs, cheese, vegetables and nuts—the chief sources of vitamins and minerals required to build and preserve the teeth. For No. 1 Little Lessons Save Your Teeth, send 35c and stamped, self-addressed envelope.

I suffered for several weeks with varicose ulcer which the doctors could not heal. Then I sent for your pamphlet, used the chamomile tea dressing, which brought a lot of comfort, and in a few days the ulcer was almost healed. (S. G. S.)

Answer—For instructions send stamped, self-addressed envelope and ask for pamphlet Varicose Veins and Varicose Ulcer.

Your pamphlet on bed-wetting. The lad is now eighteen and realizes he can't help it . . . sure he has never been punished for it. (M. B. A.)

Answer—Any one who punishes, humiliates or scolds a child of any age for bed-wetting should be slapped red in the face. Send for pamphlet the Bed-Wetting Habit. The fact that a teenage boy has not gotten over the habit is punishment enough. As a fact of no particular significance, a good many fine, healthy youngsters in their 'teens still wet the bed. I hope the pamphlet will show your boy the way to acquire the control in sleep that keeps him from wetting in the daytime.

Signed letters, not more than one page of 100 words long, pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped self-addressed envelope is sent to the Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

Voice of the People

'Jack Pines Are Beautiful, Fine for Christmas Trees'

Letters will be condensed when necessary because of lack of space. Full name, address and telephone number of the writer must accompany letters but these will not be published if the writer so requests unless the letter is critical in its nature.

All during the holiday season we have been much too busy cutting, transplanting and selling jack pines, honestly labeled as such. And watching the customers in droves trample right over Scotch pine, balsam, what not, to get our trees, to tell you how irked we are becoming over your city forester's yearly strictures on jack pine and its total unsuitability as a Christmas tree.

We extend an invitation to the gentleman to visit Hernehale Farm to see the jack pines which we have for the past four years been delivering to an ever-growing group of satisfied customers.

They are not only beautiful trees, but they hold their needles practically forever. Just today one highly pleased customer went out of his way to tell me how pleased they were. His children insisted on leaving the tree up, and this being their first jack pine, was the first tree which had not been almost completely denuded long before the 12 days of Christmas were ended, or even the New Year begun.

Jack pine growing naturally on cut-over, burned-over land, denuded of top soil and crowded with scrub oak is one thing, and those grown as we grow them quite another.

For that matter, we should not forget the debt we owe jack pine for its services in restoring abused forest lands to the point where white pine, red pine and other more valuable conifers can grow again.

Come to Hernehale and see for yourself, and bring that forester with you.

Incidentally, this is only the second time we have been slightly annoyed at your paper. Most of the time we enjoy it immensely.

'Must Coach Leave City to Succeed in His Field?'

To continue the subject originated by Mr. Baker and "Football Fans" on the Pontiac High School football situation, I think the trouble may lie even farther along the line than in the coaching staff.

I think the whole policy our local school system employs in filling vacated athletic positions needs to be scrutinized. Instead of moving up one of the many capable young men already coaching in the junior high and high school who is desirous of a head coaching position, the policy seems to be to go outside the system to fill such openings.

Even the position of athletic director recently created was filled by a young man who had left the Pontiac system to enter another field. The article in the Press telling of his appointment made it sound as if he were a coach at Eastern at the time of his appointment, a position which he no longer held.

Must our coaches leave Pontiac or the teaching profession to get ahead in their field? A system as large as Pontiac's should be grooming their personnel to move up within its own system. The present method is breeding unrest and making cooperation difficult for everyone.

UNESCO Activities Are Topic

Education Sorority Listens to Speaker From U. of M.

Alpha Beta Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma sorority met in the auditorium of Donelson School on Wednesday evening. A program was presented on one phase of the work of UNESCO, at Patzouaro, Mexico, by Hayden Smith of the University of Michigan School of Education.

* * *

He showed moving pictures taken of this project in fundamental education directed from the Latin American center.

The speaker defined this phase of UNESCO activity as "education in the fundamentals of daily living and a new means of gaining a decent livelihood for a better way of life."

He stated that the plan is to assist backward areas in providing teachers with special preparation in classroom, laboratory and field work skills.

Patzouaro, 200 miles west of Mexico City, is the first of six centers to be given aid by UNESCO.

EFFECT OF POVERTY

Mr. Smith also stated that it has been noted that in areas of the world in which poverty prevails, groups antagonistic to world peace find a good place to sow seeds of discontent.

* * *

Education in fundamental living is the key to a better way of life for these people, he stated, and the hope for a free, peaceful world lies in training native teachers to assist in raising the standard of living.

Restrained Use of Black Shown

By JUDITH L. CLEMENCE

NEW YORK — "Pontiac, that's where I began my career in music," Metropolitan Opera star, Lucine Amara told your reporter at a party following the performance of Offenbach's "Tales of Hoffman," Thursday evening at the Metropolitan Opera.

* * *

Miss Amara in the role of "Antonia" the third love of Hoffman," said she began violin lessons with Bertha Roth in Pontiac when she was 10 years of age. She began studying voice when she moved to San Francisco at the age of 13.

Mrs. Clemence

During the conversation the soprano whose performance was so outstanding told us how she appreciated the story which the Pontiac Press had carried concerning her rise to stardom, and she said, "you even used my picture."

Next week Miss Amara appears at the opera in "Carmen" and on Feb. 23 she begins, "Magic Flute."

The entire cast of the performance, and the 'Met's' general manager, Rudolf Bing joined with the visiting press at the evening party. (Our box seats and entertainment were through the courtesy of the Jewelry Industry Councils).

Even though they'd been on a whirl of parties, editors realized the work to be done and settled back to concentrate on more spring fashions Friday.

By this time you think you've seen everything and no one can tell you more things about fashion. But that's never really true in this business. Certain designers always pop up with some newsworthy detail.

* * *

Like Adele Simpson for instance. She introduced for the first time a new cotton fabric called, "Supima" — a light, floating fabric which is so sheer it looks like chiffon.

Suits are favored over dresses by this designer for her spring collection, and she shows a variety of jackets in various lengths from very brief boleros to waist and hip lengths.

* * *

Nettie Rosenstein always has been known for her version of the elegant but restrained black dress. This year newness is in its detailing — horizontal draping to flatter the torso, cutouts at the neckline and pleating of the skirt.

In one dress the silhouette is a composite of the slim and the full. A reed-like sheath has a removable harem skirt. When the over-skirt is worn, the dress has the full-skirted look.

She has made use of the sheath concept where slimness is in the front of the gown and easy fullness is stressed at the back.

Where skirts are full and meant to be that way — they are really full. Several dresses sported four and five petticoats. And this, we feel, is a very good look for the tiny, petite woman who wants gentle sophistication in clothes.

The couture group of the New York Dress Institute has just announced that taxis are waiting to take us up to Lilly Dache's penthouse for a party, so we must be on our way. We'll have a roundup of spring fashions for you Monday.

Coming Events

The Happy Hour Club will meet Tuesday at 1:30 p.m. with Mrs. Louis Howell, 289 E. Pike St.

Daughters of Pontiac, 186, will meet Monday at 8 p.m. in the Malta Temple, 82 Perkins St.

The Sunset Club will meet Thursday at 1 p.m. at Wilson School for a cooperative luncheon.

Fanny E. Tompkins, No. 41, Pythian Sisters will meet Monday at 8 p.m. at 18½ W. Huron St.

Standish Group Has Luncheon

Mrs. Roy Bennett of Chamberlain street was hostess to the Standish group of the First Congregation Church Friday. A dessert luncheon was served with Mrs. E. C. Durphy and Mrs. Carl Malkin acting as assistant hostesses.

Mrs. H. C. Manus gave the devotionals using as her theme "Guides for the New Year."

Announcements were made of the Women's Fellowship luncheon which the group will serve Jan. 27 and of the Inter-Church meeting to be held Jan. 22 at the Congregational Church.

Church Guild Meets

Mrs. Charles Miller of Elizabeth Lake road opened her home Thursday afternoon to members of the St. Mary Guild of St. Benedict Church. Mrs. Fred Gottschalk assisted the hostess with luncheon.

Plans were discussed for the group's project for the year and annual reports were presented.

Mrs. Anton Bego of Osceola drive invited the group to meet in her home for the February meeting.

Varied Topics Highlight City PTA Meetings

World affairs, American history and expansion of Pontiac schools were several of the topics of interest at PTA meetings this week.

LeBaron School

When the LeBaron PTA met on Thursday afternoon at the school, the membership voted to support the Pontiac PTA Council in sponsoring a third scholarship under the present scholarship program.

Safeguarding Americas Four Freedoms—"How Can We as PTA Members Help" was the topic of the buzz session conducted by Mrs. Floyd Miller, program chairman.

Colors were presented by Robert Bradshaw, Billy Deacon and Lislie Smith of Cub Scout, Den 7. Margaret Harths led the group in community singing accompanied by Roasmond Haeberle.

Appointed to serve on the nominating committee were Mrs. Welton Sherman, Mrs. William Simpson, Mrs. Fred Giddings, Mrs. Sidney Deacon and Mrs. John Buchanan.

Bagley School

Parents and teachers enjoyed a "World Travelogue" presented by the Rev. Richard H. Dixon of Trinity Baptist Church at the PTA meeting held at the Bagley School Thursday evening.

Mr. Dixon's talk was focused around color slides of England, France, Greece and Italy. He emphasized the prosperity of the United States as compared with the economic conditions of other countries.

* * *

The present project of the PTA is a Bagley School shirt sale to be held on Feb. 14. Mrs. Carl Moss and Mrs. Herbert Mullen will serve as cochairmen for the project. Proceeds from the sale will be used for playground equipment.

Newcomers Meet With Mrs. Wilcox

Mrs. Clifford Wilcox was hostess to members of the Newcomers Club for their Wednesday afternoon meeting at her home on Valencia drive. Mrs. W. C. Caverly assisted the hostess.

For the social meeting, members decorated personality hats that each had designed. Mrs. Joshua Madden was a guest at the affair.

Mrs. McKinniss Speaks to Group

Mrs. Arthur McKinniss showed colored slides of Northern Michigan at the Tuesday evening meeting of the Pontiac National Hairdressers Association held at 88 Wayne street.

Final plans were made to attend the North American Beauty and Fashion Show to be held Feb. 5-6-7 at the Hotel Sheraton Cadillac in Detroit.

The February meeting of the Pontiac group will be held at 867 West Huron street at which time a guest hairstylist from Detroit will be present.

Zonta Prepares for Bosses' Day

At the Thursday evening meeting of Zonta Club of Pontiac held in Kingsley Inn, plans were completed for the Bosses' Day luncheon and program.

The luncheon will be held at Hotel Waldron on Thursday. Elmer Rosenberg, personnel director of General Motors Truck and Coach Division, will be the guest speaker.

The group voted to cooperate in the Meet Your Neighbor project being sponsored by the City Federation of Women's Clubs.

Church Group Meets in Home

Mrs. Verne Hampton opened her home on Cherokee road Friday afternoon to members of the July-August Group of the First Presbyterian Church. Mrs. Noyce Strait, Mrs. Ray Kemp and Mrs. Harry Windiate assisted the hostess.

The mission study on Brazil was conducted by Mrs. Theodore Koella. Mrs. Hazel Little led the group in the Bible study, beginning with St. Paul's Letters to the Ephesians.

Mrs. Galan Hershey and Mrs. John C. Peck were guests of the group.

Adele Simpson Displays Originality With 'Baby Bolero' for Springtime

By OLGA CURTIS

NEW YORK (INS) — Pint-sized designer Adele Simpson, who packs a ton of talent into her less than 5-foot frame, today came up with a pint - sized fashion that should be big news.

* * *

It's the "baby bolero," and it seems to be the newest idea for spring.

Mrs. Simpson, who favors the slim silhouete and the costume look, is making both look original with boleros and blouse tops that actually appear baby-size.

It's done in solid colors of silk or wool for all three pieces, or in solids with print blouse and print lining on the jacket.

OTHER NEW IDEAS

The "baby bolero" is just the feature attraction in a whole batch of new ideas by Mrs. Simpson. As costime tops, she also likes "vanity box" jackets, short, trim box jackets which just brush the top of the hipbone, or big matching stoles, or combined bolero-stoles which are boleros in front and stoles in back.

She also showed fashion editors new skirt and back treatments: "Butterfly wing" back flares from the hip of skirts for easier walking; bloused or eased - waistline backs, some gathered by drawstrings; "sultana" skirts with a fullness effect only from thigh to knee; "obi sash" back panels hanging from high-set belt tabs, and "fleur de lis" sheaths without belts, but with high girdles set into the dresses.

For evening, however, Mrs. Simpson likes plenty of skirt and plenty of freedom when moving. She puts full petticoated skirts on her silk organza prints.

Two other collections were shown to fashion writers on the last day of the 26th National Press Week.

Mollie Parnis, a designer who pays careful attention to what women like to buy, is offering two completely different silhouettes because she says "women have approved sheaths by day but prefer full skirts for evening."

BACK INTEREST

So she has both huge billowing skirts and slim sheaths with only tiny kick pleats or godets set into the back hem. But Miss Parnis does offer plenty of changes in the back of skirts, including huge flares that puff out from gathers placed exactly where they used to place bustles.

The Parnis trademark, bows all over, is still very much present for spring 1956, but with a new twist. Her dresses this season are much higher in front than in back, and big bows accent the shoulders or back center neckline on the low backed dresses.

Nettie Rosenstein's line for spring also puts more fabric into the back of narrow dresses. There's hardly a really slim skirt in this line. The backs of skirts have pleats, or panels, or gathered fullness. There are wraparound skirts, too, and fully pleated skirts.

Furniture Fashions for '56 Goes Flowery for Milady

CHICAGO (INS) — Nothing flatters a woman like flowers so bouquet prints are staging a comeback in home backgrounds for 1956.

* * *

Poseys bedecked sofas, chairs and bedroom settings at the Merchandise Mart and the American Furniture Mart, sites of the 10-mile display of new furnishings for homes.

Instead of the cold, blue look that has dominated home furnishings for the past few seasons, exhibits being visited by 40,000 retail buyers from all over the nation took on a spring-like air.

* * *

The popular blues and browns gave way to mellow leaf and apple greens, sparked by pale apricot oranges and daffodil yellows. The blues that remained were true blues, like a robin's egg.

MADE TO FIT

To help women struggling to achieve space in small homes and apartments, furniture - makers squeezed wood furniture pieces to fit against walls and allow room for passage.

* * *

Cabinets made up for shallow dimensions by taking on height. Straight, severe lines were softened by the wide use of tambour fronts, borrowed from the old fashioned, roll-top desk.

Although the lean look dominated chests and tables, sofas got plumper and more comfortable through the use of down-filled cushions and higher and tufted backs.

Teak, both in natural and darkened finishes, is edging out walnut which has been the favored wood of the past few markets. Plastic tops for tables have gone into novelty pieces only. The emphasis now is on wood and wood that is not varnished but oiled or waxed to take on a patina with age.

* * *

Brass is still the king of metals used to trim wood furniture. Once-dominant wrought iron has vanished. Silver and pewter trims, having proved themselves acceptable in high style lines, now are available in the moderate-priced furniture that young marrieds can buy.

LESS TEXTURE

To compliment the new furniture at the market, designers are toning down the textures of upholstery fabrics and rugs. The favored materials are silks, linens and brocatelles.

Rugs no longer are shaggy or nubby. New carpeting is sleek, usually plain in color with a carved motif for design relief.

Imitation Minks Catching Fancy of Teenagers

NEW YORK (INS)—The end of 1955 saw the beginning of a new trend when the first imitation mink hit the market.

The "fake" mink is made of a synthetic fiber which really looks like the real thing. Of course, you can tell the difference when you touch it.

A fad which is catching on with the teenage crowd, the man-made mink will be available in the form of coats and stoles—and also you may be able to have a "mink" lumberjacket or a "mink" pullover or a "mink" evening skirt.

For those who want to look like they're in the lap of luxury no matter where they are, how about a man-mad mink beachcoat and strapless bathing suit?

'56 Coral Jewelry Features New Color

Mr. and Mrs. Arnulf W. Esterer were married this afternoon at Christ Church Cranbrook. The bride is the former Kate Micou, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Hall Micou of Bloomfield Hills. He is the son of Mrs. Marie Burt Esterer of Ann Arbor and Dr. Arnulf K. Esterer of Longview, Wash.

MRS. ARNULF W. ESTERER

Kate Micou Married in Christ Church Rite

Kate Micou became the bride of Arnulf Walter Esterer at a 4:30 o'clock ceremony today in Christ Church Cranbrook, Bloomfield Hills.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Hall Micou of Bloomfield Hills, and he is the son of Mrs. Marie Burt Esterer of Ann Arbor and Dr. Arnulf K. Esterer of Longview, Wash.

* * *

* * *

The pearl accent in the collar was repeated in her waist-length ivory tulle veil which was embroidered with tiny seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of white Amazon lilies, orchids and ivy.

Nancy Wonnberger of Bloomfield Hills served as maid of honor wearing a ballerina-length gown of cornflower blue satin with a fitted bodice. Her headband was of matching blue satin and she carried a bouquet of Garnet roses and ivy.

Gowned identical to the maid of honor were the other bridal attendants Mrs. Ross Lee Finney and Marianne Esterer of Ann Arbor, sisters of the bridegroom; Svea Blomquist of Harvey, Ill.; Marion Mercer of Akron, Ohio; and Sandra Henderson of Bloomfield Hills. Their bouquets were of English violets, Garnet roses and ivy.

* * *

Ross Lee Finney of Ann Arbor served as best man and seating the guests were David Micou and Richard Booth of Bloomfield Hills, Clarence Stephenson, Henry Finney, and Robert Brown of Ann Arbor.

* * *

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Micou was gowned in an aqua faille dress with matching accessories. Mrs. Esterer chose a gown of mink brown brocade with matching accessories. Their flowers were cymbidium orchids.

'56 Shoes Slender and Stronger

NEW YORK (INS)—The 1956 shoe and the 1955 skyscraper will have a lot in common, a noted shoe designer predicts.

Roger Vivier says they will both be built of lighter-than-ever materials which have greater-than-ever strength.

They will both be slender and angular with the effect of being poised in air. And they both will represent the latest in comfort, simplicity and function.

Vivier believes the average woman will have two or three more pairs of shoes next year than she had last, because shoes will have style significance and sex appeal.

Bright colors to match or accent her costume, printed silk or satin for fun and glittery shoes for evening will make shoes the arresting part of many costumes.

Neighbor Mistakenly Keeps Vase

Owner Wondering if She May Ask for Its Return

By EMILY POST

A reader tells me: "Several weeks ago a neighbor of mine was quite ill and I took her a bouquet of fresh cut flowers which I arranged in one of my own vases.

"I had not intended her to keep the vase but evidently she thought the vase was meant for her too as it has not been sent back to me. Would it be proper to ask her to return it to me, and if so, how can I do this without causing her embarrassment?"

Answer: The next time you go to see her, say, "If you will give me my vase, I will be glad to carry it home."

"Dear Mrs. Post: My husband and I have received an engraved invitation to a small dance. The guest of honor is a granddaughter of a friend of ours. The hour named is 10 o'clock in the ballroom of a hotel.

"We are not young and would like to know what is expected of us. (1) If we accept, what time should we arrive? (2) Will my husband be expected to dance with the hostess and other women guests?

"(3) How soon would it be all right to leave? (4) Should I write a note of thanks afterwards? (5) Are we expected to find the hostess to say goodbye?"

Answer: (1) You are expected to arrive about a half hour after the time set. (2) If he dances well he would be expected to do his share of dancing, but if he does not dance well it would be a great mistake for him to make the attempt.

(3) You would have to stay at least an hour. (4))Not necessarily. (5) Yes, unless you leave very early.

"Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please tell me whether it is proper to slice a banana on cereal with a spoon? My husband always does this and our two sons are beginning to follow his example.

"I do not think it is proper but would like your opinion before putting my foot down on this practice."

Baking Soda, Lemon Is Remedy for Colds

An old-fashioned remedy still in high favor for treatment of colds consists of baking soda and lemon. The basic formula is a half glass of water, the juice of one fresh lemon and a half teaspoon of soda added just before serving, so it fizzes.

To make it palatable for children, a teaspoon of sugar may be added.

Eleanor Annis became the bride of Stuart C. Cappell this morning in a ceremony at St. Vincent de Paul Church. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Annis of South Sanford street. He is the son of Mrs. Corinne Cappell of Perkins street.

MRS. STUART CAPPELL

Stuart Cappell Claims Eleanor Annis as Bride

At a Nuptial Mass performed in St. Vincent de Paul Church at 10 o'clock this morning by the Rev. Maurice Veryser, Eleanor Annis became the bride of Stuart C. Cappell.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Annis of South Sanford street and he is the son of Mrs. Corinne Cappell of Perkins street.

A princess style gown of Valenciennes lace over satin and featuring a chapel length train was worn by the bride. A cloche cap of lace and seed pearls secured her finger tip veil of illusion. A white orchid centered her bridal bouquet of white roses.

Mrs. John Annis attended the bride as matron of honor and Sandra Cappell, sister of the groom, was her other attendant. Both were gowned alike in periwinkle blue crystalette gowns fashioned in princess lines.

* * *

Albert T. Cappell served his brother as best man and John R. Annis, brother of the bride, acted as groomsman. Seating the guests were Jay V. Cappell, Charles Cappell, James Cappell and James Olsen.

* * *

A breakfast was held at Rotunda Inn immediately following the ceremony. After a honeymoon trip to Chicago the couple will reside in Pontiac.

If you're planning to travel, take dressy separates, mix-and-match outfits that double and triple for sports, mid-day tea and sightseeing.

White flannel separates gaily accented with bloused print jacket and you have the new spectator look. Superlative cotton skirts with dressy tops will see you around the clock while globe trotting.

Common Sense Best Crime Cure

By DOROTHY ROE

A large dose of plain, old-fashioned common sense is the best cure for problems of juvenile delinquency, says Sir Basil Henriques, who, recently retired after 18 years as chairman of the East London Juvenile Court.

Tall, silver haired and one of Britain's foremost authorities on the problems of the young, Sir Basil paused briefly in New York at the start of a nationwide lecture sponsored by the British Foreign Office.

"I blame many of the ills of today's young people on unrealistic educational theories which ignore the characteristics of real life and try to train young people in an environment where there are no punishments, no rewards, no competition and no repression," he said.

* * *

'Naturally some of the youngsters go berserk when they leave school to meet a world where things become unpleasant if you break the rules, where the rewards of integrity and skill are great, where life is constantly competitive and where it is necessary to exercise some repression.

"Some of the so-called progressive schools instill in children the idea that they should exercise every whim at any time, that they must express themselves, no matter how disastrous the results, that if they don't like to read or do sums they don't have to, and that, no matter what they do they will never be punished.

"I believe you have more of this kind of schools in America than we do in Britain, but even there discipline is much more lax than it used to be."

Gleaners Group of First Baptist Enjoys Music

A unique musical program, under the direction of Mrs. W. E. Hakes and Mrs. T. N. Slosson, was presented at a recent meeting of the Wayside Gleaners of the First Baptist Church.

The life of Christ, from His birth through His earthly life and on into the promise of His glorious coming again, was depicted in song.

Other important events in the life of Christ were brought forth in duets and solos presented by Mr. and Mrs. Kyle Wilson, the Rev. and Mrs. W. E. Hakes, Mrs. T. N. Slosson and Mrs Gordon Shelton.

Prior to the singing of each number, Scripture was read by the Rev. Mr. Hakes.

Following the music day program, refreshments were served and a social hour was enjoyed by the members.

Indifference Is an Elusive Enemy

By ELIZABETH WOODWARD

A man stood raptly absorbed by the paintings in the window of the art gallery. Another man ambled up, stood beside him to take a look.

The first man, wanting to share his pride with someone, said to the stranger beside him, "My brother painted those!" To which the other replied nonchalantly, "I don't care."

That's indifference.

Affection is a warm, clinging, comfy feeling that you can cherish to you. Even hate has dimensions that give it a shape you can handle. But indifference is like a wall of soft gray sponge.

You can poke at it, but your fist just sinks in up to the wrist; and when you remove your hand, the hole fills up again. Indifference is frustrating. Your best efforts meet with defeat. Your charm has no effect. Your enthusiasms fall flat.

Yet, many of us are the victims of others' indifference. We suffer because others just don't care enough. And still others are the victims of our indifference — our laziness, our selfishness, our self-concern, our negligence. We don't care enough.

Here's a girl who is at the same time the victim and the perpetrator of indifference. It's the basis of all her troubles. She writes:

"Dear Miss Woodward: I can't seem to have any girl friends. There appears to be an organized snub against me. They never ask me to their homes or ask me to go to games with them.

"However, I always manage to go places because some boy will ask to take me. The boys that ask me are from the very nicest group, so when I'm out with them the crowd treats me fairly well.

"I think I really must be a fool, though, because if any of these girls do call me or stop to talk to me, I treat them as though they were always very sweet to me. I just don't know how to snub back.

"Is my situation one in a million—or do I just imagine that it doesn't happen to others? Shall I still try to be friendly, or is the fault all mine?

"I think I've adjusted myself to getting along without them, still I'd like to know why these girls take this attitude that seems to have followed me all through high school."

Answer: You call it an organized snub. You feel that you are purposely being left out of the girls' activities, as though they really had something against you.

They're completely indifferent to you on the whole. They don't chase after you, they don't call you up all the time, they don't drop in at your house. They're only decently cordial when you're out with some boy and happen to be with the crowd.

And you're blaming the whole thing on them, aren't you? But it sounds very much to me as though you started high school walking alone, have made no effort to include other girls in your personal activities, have made them feel that you're quite content in your independent status. And they've left you to it.

You can't expect everybody to come to you all the time. The girls aren't going to give you a constant big play—unless you go more than halfway toward them.

How many parties, for instance, have you had at your house during the past year? How many times have you invited the girls over for lunch? How many movies have you suggested? How many double - dates have you fixed up for girls you know?

If your sore is low, it's a sure sign you've been meeting what you consider their snub with a sublime indifference of your own. Just as though you didn't care.

But you care plenty. Enough to make you take the initiative and make actively friendly advances to the girls? Enough to make you draw them closer to you—instead of waiting for them to beckon to you?

YWCA Resumes Winter Activities

Winter term activities at the YWCA will resume during the coming week. Clubs, classes, interest groups, even the board of directors will take up again their regular scheduled meetings.

A few groups, including the Queen of Clubs, composed of bridge fans, and the teenage canteens, senior and junior, are already back on schedule.

Monday evening will find the students of French, both beginners and those who have previous knowledge, meeting with Prof. Robert P. Jochmans. Students of German will meet the same night with Miss Mary L. Chapman, instructor. The Queen of Clubs, also a Monday group, has as its sponsor Mrs. William Herrmann.

Tuesday, the Golden Age Group will have its monthly dessert luncheon meeting. Golden Agers are transported to and from their homes by Mrs. Harold Euler, chairman, and members of her committee.

That evening, the intermediate bridge class will have its first meeting with Mrs. Herrmann, instructor. (Date and time for the beginners' evening class will be announced.)

Wednesday morning will inaugurate a new term for the Ladies Day Out. The participants, many of whom are young mothers, will enjoy a second cup of coffee before choosing their classes, after depositing their pre - school age children in the nursery operated by Mrs. Hazel Beutler and Mrs. Leslie Pickup from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.

* * *

Instructors of the various courses offered include: Mrs. Elcray Thomas, enameling on copper; Mrs. Raymond Ellsworth, crafts; Mrs. John Dawson, sewing and knitting; and Mrs. Herrmann, bridge.

Mothers are requested to bring a lunch for each child, as they eat early. The mothers themselves may bring their lunch and linger after class to chat with friends or slip our for an hour's shopping before collecting their offspring.

Oil painting, taught by Mrs. John Allshouse, will be offered in the evening as well as in the afternoon this term. Both classes are scheduled for Wednesday, from 1 to 3 p.m. and from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m.

* * *

Thursday evening the program for employed women similar to the popular Wednesday program for homemakers, will introduce two new instructors. Miss June May, therapist at the Pontiac State Hospital, will take over the metalcraft program, while Mrs. Neal Crisp will teach the painted crafts. Mrs. John Martin will again teach sewing.

* * *

With this program, the coffee hour follows the class sessions. Spanish for beginners and also for those with some knowledge of the language will be taught the same evening, from 7:30 to 9:30. Mrs. Leonard Cain is the instructor.

BOARD WILL MEET

The YWCA board of directors will hold its monthly meeting Thursday at 8 p.m., with a coffee hour following.

Junior members of the Y are not forgotten. In addition to the Teen Canteens, held Wednesday from 7:30 to 10 p.m. for senior high boys and girls, and on Fridays, from 7 to 9:30 p.m. for junior high age groups, there is also a Saturday morning class of varied content for girls from 8 to 14 years of age. Mrs. Dorothy Spann Redmond is in charge of all these activities.

Folders are available from the Y on request, and suggestions are welcomed as to new classes or interest groups which might be popular.

The Y is also offering a 45-minute exercise class for the early birds at the Ladies Day Out program, from 9 to 9:45 a.m., if there is sufficient demand. Mrs. John Streit will be the instructor and will be present Wednesday morning to talk to prospective exercisers.

Friends Honor Homer Gerue at Hotel Waldron

Members of the staff of the Oakland County Prosecutor's Office gathered Thursday at the Hotel Waldron to honor former assistant prosecutor, Homer G. Gerue. Mr. Gerue recently resigned to become a legal assistant in the office of the Friend of the Court.

Frederick C. Ziem, George F. Taylor, Robert D. Long, Gerard A. Poehlman, Edward H. Shigley, Robert C. Miller, Walter Dennison, Donald A. Brown, William E. Lang and Emmett J. Leib also attended.

Striped Clothing Predicted for '56

California designers are forecasting stripes for spring, 1956. Stripes as never before . . . woven, printed, knit, wide, narrow, patterned, plain . . . anyway, so long as they're stripes! It started with the men, bless 'em, earlier last year, and now the idea has spread like wildfire. They're in swimsuits, playclothes, dresses, blouses, skirts, suits, coats, linings and trim.

Presbyterian Group Meets

The November group of the First Presbyterian Church met with Mrs. Philip Meachem of Brookdale street Wednesday evening.

* * *

Mrs. Raymond Eick opened the meeting with worship service and Mrs. Lester Carlsen read the Bible study. A report on the General Assembly was given by Mrs. Richard Ferris.

Mrs. Bradley L. Scott and Mrs. Karl Bradley were accepted as members at the meeting and guests of the group included Mrs. Emil Bair, Mrs. Harold Babb, Mrs. Carl Kreps, Mrs. Robert Newill and Mrs. John Brewer.

Other guests were Mrs. William VanJaarsveld, Mrs. Erwin Schram, Mrs. Sam Wellwork and Mrs. Lowell Armstrong.

Prepare for Hair-Do

If you really want to get your money's worth, get your hair in tip-top condition before your next permanent. Wash it with two or three latherings, at least three rinsings. Be faithful to your nightly brushing routine.

If you do this for a few weeks in advance, you'll be repaid in the most valuable coin: beauty.

Chilly Miami Stays in Social Whirl

By ETHEL TOMBRINK

There's been a record-breaking sale on heating units and fuel supplies—the main problem being delivery requests.

But through the wintry weather, the last-year's coated crowd, dashes off to the office each morning. And the mink-coated crowd rests 'till noon, then start in on a busy round of luncheon, cocktail parties, dinners and dances . . . with the races, opera, theater thrown in.

* * *

People loved the Playhouse—it's spacious, comfortable and done in good taste. But they walked out on "Waiting for Godot," which has been rated as a triumph in Paris, London, Rome, Helsinki and Frankfurt.

According to producer Michael Meyermerg, the opening night crowd wasn't 'intelligent enough' to understand it.

But Walter Winchell, who was in the opening night crowd, seems to agree with the Miami people. He quotes Thornton Wilder (a Pulitzer Prize playwright) as saying that it's 'great'—to which Winchell adds, "it would make more sense if he called it a great bore".

* * *

"Waiting for Godot" is still running, however—to the "come and see yourself" fans. Frankly yours truly, is giving in and going to 'see for herself' tonight.

'Gobot', after pre-runs in a couple northern cities, will open in New York soon.

'Dahling' Tallulah Bankhead in rehearsal now at the Playhouse for next week's opening of 'Streetcar Named Desire'. So we're still WAITING — that is, those who like 'Dahling', or 'Streetcar'.

Back to opening night, it was almost like Hollywood—besides Winchell, there were Joan Fontain, her husband, George Collier; Tennessee Williams, Joe Cotton (who got his start here in little theater groups) society writer Charlie Ventura and the usual crowd of Miami Beach social set.

* * *

There's been a fussin' and a feudin' on the musical side, too. Discordant notes were flying the other day between Arturo di Filippi, maestro of the Miami Opera Guild, and Dimitri Chitro, ballet maestro.

The whole thing was over support of Opera Guild's presentation of 'Cost Fan Tulle' Tuesday, and Chitro's bringing the Russian opera 'Boris Dodounov' here early next month.

Despite feudin' both will go in as scheduled. That's Miami.

But there' a lot of down-to-earth ordinary day to day living going on, too . . . with the other thousands (latest census figure was more than 703 thousand) or residents of greater Miami and those in other south Florida cities.

People like the Nelse Knudsens spent quiet but happy holidays in the waterfront home in Hollywood—seeing friends and visiting around. And they're even 'enjoying' this cold spell. They're expecting some of their Michigan friends down soon.

And Helen and Clinton Parr . . . they've had a few small holiday gatherings in their home, and are spending a lot of time getting acquainted with their neighbors in the Old Cutler Acres estates, — where their new home is located.

Mr. and Mrs. Maynard Post are baby sitting these days. Son and daughter-in-law Norman and Shirley Vivier left six-month-old Deborah here with them while they and Christie, 3, went vacationing up Michigan way.

Deborah was born July 25 in Lima, Peru, shortly before Mr. Vivier was transferred to Miami.

The Viviers are staying at the Posts' home in Milford, and will spend some time with Norman's sister, Mrs. Robert Pierce in Birmingham, and Shirley's brother, Don, and his wife in Walled Lake—that's the Post's former home.

* * *

Halter Neckline Appears to Continue on the Bolero

One look, and you know this is a Jo Copeland creation. Unequalled in her field for giving the most provocative-looking clothes a lady-like air, she here shows a sheath costume with a wonderful new halter neckline.

The neckline is made of bias cut bands that cross over the neck and end under the arms. The idea is repeated on the semi-fitted kimono-sleeved bolero which is lined, but here the pieces separate and end at the side seams, giving the impression that they are a continuation of the dress.

Choose a wool, novelty shantung, faille or peau de soie and make the bands in silk or wool jersey for effective draping.

Cranbrook Chaplain Leads Initial Bible Exposition

Inter-Church Fellowship will open the ninth series of Sunday evening get-togethers tomorrow at 5:45 in the Lutheran Church of the Ascension, 96 Williams St.

* * *

The Rev. Walter Young, chaplain of Cranbrook School, Bloomfield Hills, will give the Bible exposition each of the six Sundays. "The Bible Says" will be the keynote of the series with sub-titles, "God's Word," "God's Laws," "God's People," "God's Prophets" and "God's Son, God."

The Rev. Mr. Young was graduated from Bowdin College with degrees in mathematics and physics and from Virginia Seminary in 1943. Before coming to Cranbrook in 1945, he served as curate at Trinity Church in Boston, Mass. He is Examining Chaplain in the Episcopal Diocese in the field of Christian Ethics, teaches an Old Testament course at the Diocesan School in Detroit and courses in religion at the Cranbrook School for Boys.

Twice a month, he preaches in St. Andrews Episcopal Church, Clawson. Until last Sunday, St. Andrews was a mission.

At the close of the Bible study, refreshments will be served by the women of the host church.

Speaking at 7:30 will be the Rev. Erwin A. Britton, pastor of the First Congregational Church, Wayne.

A graduate of Oberlin College and Oberlin Graduate School of Theology, the Rev. Mr. Britton became minister in Wayne following a short pastorate in Avon Lake, Ohio. He is past moderator of the Detroit Association of Congregational Churches, is president of the Board of Trustees of Camp Talahi, Inc.; secretary of the State Conference Board of Trustees of the Congregational Christian Churches, and a past lieutenant governor of the Michigan District of Kiwanis International.

Besides his church activities, he has been a leader in the YMCA, United Fund, American Red Cross and Boy Scouts.

Claims Editors 'Foster Sadism'

Jesuit in Gotham Tells Probers of Magazines Rotting Minds of Youth

NEW YORK (RNS)—A Roman Catholic priest charged here that some publishers and editors are "deliberately fostering sadism and masochism" among American youth.

* * *

The Rev. John Hoodack, S. J., of New York's Nativity Mission Center, testified before the State Joint Legislative Committee on Obscene Literature which has been conducting hearings on pornographic material. The Mission Center works with Puerto Rican youth on New York's lower East Side.

The priest presented the committee with exhibits from periodicals, pocketbooks and "girlie" magazines which he said fostered the perversions of sadism and masochism. These publications, he told the committee, are "easily obtainable by kids."

"A masochistic and sadistic youth of today," he warned, "means a morally, intellectually and physically weak nation soon . . . a ripe field for totalitarian interests."

* * *

"The people who publish and edit and distribute and sell this 'literary' garbage, whether their motive is to make a fast buck or whatever it may be, are certainly contributing to the downfall and destruction of our country."

"Why I had to embrace the CATHOLIC Faith"

"I wanted to be a part of Christ's Mystical Body . . . to adore Him in the Mass . . . to find Him in the Holy Eucharist . . . to receive His sanctifying grace . . . to be assured of the forgiveness of my sins.

". . . I wanted the Holy Spirit to fill every bit of me from the top of my head to the tips of my toes . . . to slip my hand into my Father's and say, "Lead me, Lord."

"I wanted to love God above all else, with my whole heart and soul and mind, and my neighbor as myself . . . and nowhere can I find the pattern so clearly shown and taught as in the Catholic Church."

These are not the words of a lifelong Catholic. They come from the heart of one who was told in childhood that Catholics are "ignorant and superstitious" . . . whose circle of friends included no Catholics . . . who was never exposed to the "coercion" of a Catholic priest or the influence of Catholic literature.

They are the heartfelt words of a genuinely religious and deeply sincere woman who has wandered down many byways in search of Christ's truth . . . and now finds peace and joy and certainty in the last place she looked . . . in the Catholic Faith. A convert.

To all who seek this same certainty, the Catholic Church says just one thing: "Investigate! Investigate! Investigate! Find out for yourself . . . as thousands are doing every day . . . exactly what the Catholic Church teaches . . . why it claims to be Christ's Church . . . how it clearly charts the course that Christ intended men to walk.

As a first step, we invite you to read a pamphlet containing the full story of the woman convert related only in part here . . . and many other equally heart-warming experiences of people who have returned to the Faith of their forefathers in recent months.

This remarkable pamphlet . . . describing the feelings, experiences and discoveries of those who investigate the Catholic Faith . . . and embrace it . . . will be sent in a plain wrapper upon request . . . without cost or obligation. And nobody will call on you. Write today. Ask for Pamphlet No. KC-40.

Salvation Army to Erect 8-Story Office in Chicago

CHICAGO (RNS) — The Salvation Army has razed its 70-year-old Evangeline Residence here to make room for a new eight-story headquarters building for the 11-state Central Territory.

It will be connected by a bridge to the two-story chapel annex built behind the Evangeline Residence shortly after the Salvation Army took over the former mansion in 1913.

The old residence, which housed the swanky Union Club prior to 1913, was a "home away from home" to hundreds of young girls as they arrived for careers in the big city.

Senior - Major Mary McMahan moved into the home in 1926, the year she was commissioned, and lived there 27 years.

Officers Elected for Year 1956

Oakland Avenue United Presbyterian Church Holds Annual Meeting

The annual congregational meeting of the Oakland Avenue United Presbyterian church was held in the Fellowship Hall Wednesday evening. A cooperative dinner preceded the business meeting which was conductd by Staton Levely, chairman of the congregation.

* * *

The pastor, Rev. Theodore Allebach, conducted the devotional period, with the choir director, William Coffing, leading the group in singing.

Reports were heard from all groups and classes of the church and Bible school. The chairman of the trustees, Donald Wilson, presented the budget for 1956.

On recommendation of the Bible school improvement committee, additional folding doors are to be installed in the basement to provide more class rooms.

The members voted to contribute toward the support of two missionaries.

Mrs. Floyd Levely, Donald Wilson and Earl Shepherd were appointed as a committee to select a worthy candidate to receive support from the Dr. Creswell Memorial Missionary fund.

The following elders and church officers were elected: elders to serve four year terms. Alex McAllister, Guy Caswell, Howard Webb, Robert McCormack and Walter Hill; trustees serving three years: Mrs. Clyde Clark, Donald Wilson and Emmett Meredith.

Congregational officers elected for one year:

Chairman: Stanton Levely
Vice-Chairman: Elmer Good
Secretary: Mrs. John Gemmell
Treasurer: William Webb

Tellers for the evening were: Mrs. Omar MacNutt, Donald Upton, John Allshouse, William Coffing and Earl Shepherd.

The nominating committee was comprised of William Cadman, Mrs. Howard Tanner and Omar MacNutt.

Arizona's Car Dealers Continue Sunday Closing

PHOENIX, Ariz. — Members of the Arizona Used Car Dealers Assn. here voted 36 to 4 to continue a Sunday closing policy adopted last spring.

The Sunday closing movement was launched there by 30 service clubs of the area with the cooperation of church groups who aided in distributing car stickers reading "I'm Not a Sunday Shopper."

Confident Living

Collection Agent Restores Self-Esteem in Debtors

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

Some time ago I met an amazing man who runs a collection agency. As you know, such an organization takes over uncollected debts from business firms and gets as much money as possible out of the delinquents, usually on a commission basis.

* * * * * *

Now I have always thought that people in this business must be the type of men who get a kind of sadistic pleasure from badgering other people. But I was wrong about this man — and no doubt I've been wrong about most of the others too. For, surprisingly, this collection man told me that he had dedicated his business to God and to helping people.

DR. PEALE

I suppose I looked startled because he went on to explain his way of doing business. He would call on a man whose account with a department store, let us say, was long overdue and have a talk with him. "This is what you owe," he would say, "so together let's try to find a way to do something about it."

Then the debt-ridden man would begin to explain, perhaps, that he had an extravagant wife, that his children had been ill or that there was a death in the family. "I'm absolutely swamped with bills," was a frequent frustrated explanation. "I have no respect for myself any more, and I know that other people have no respect for me either. I'm sick about it all."

After he had given the unhappy man opportunity to pour out his woes, the collection agent would suggest: "What do you say — let's put the whole matter on the table and pray about it. Let's ask the Lord what to do about these debts."

'YOU OUGHT TO SEE THE CHANGE'

This would usually so startle the debtor that he would be willing to pray. Then the agent would go on: "Let's see, now. What is your salary? What are your assets, as small as they may be? Let's organize things so that by paying off a little each week you'll ultimately get out from under. We'll get in touch with your creditors and tell them they can expect something regularly, even if it's only a little. Using this system, we can get you out of financial trouble sooner than you think."

The agent grinned at me. "You ought to see the change in a man the minute he begins to pay up. Before long he gets a new self-respect. Seeing an out from his troubles, he keeps at it and soon his bills will have been cut by fifty per cent, and he becomes sure then that he'll have them all cleaned up eventually. When there is, say, only twenty-five per cent left, he'll start asking if people are beginning to have respect for him again. I can honestly tell him they do, because people always respect a sincere and systematic person who is trying to solve his problems."

Personally I'm always thrilled by people who use their religion in such a practical manner in their daily work, especially those who see in it the opportunity to help persons in need. This collection agent told me, "Every human being has the desire for self-respect and the respect and esteem of others. I like to think I can help restore self-esteem to those who have lost it, and the regard of their fellow men as well."

It is indeed true that one of the deepest desires of human nature is to be well thought of, respected and loved. Whenever you hear anyone say, "I don't care what other people think about me," you can put it down as a foolish and unrealistic statement. We do care profoundly what others think of us. Lincoln, in his first speech to the voters of Sagamon County said, "I have no other ambition so great as that of being truly esteemed by my fellow men."

Nor is the method for gaining esteem a complicated one. An upstate New York farmer, an old friend of mine, had a homey and very sound philosophy of life, together with the gift of simple and potent expression. I was constantly surprised and enlightened by his insights.

* * * * * *

Once I heard him tell a boy, "To respect yourself and be respected, simply live up to your best." The more you think of it, that bit of advice has the earmark of real wisdom. Do that, and you can look yourself and everyone else in the face. And the person who truly earns his own personal esteem is very likely to have the respect of others also.

Men's Club to Hear President of Council

Ralph Gillespie, president of the Detroit Presbytery Council of Presbyterian Men, will address the Men's Club of the First Presbyterian Church Wednesday at the 6:30 dinner meeting.

The local club will be presented a charter as the Pontiac Chapter of the National Council of Presbyterian Men.

This is the first meeting under the direction of the new officers; William Herrmann, president; Fred Hoestine, vice president; Ed Rightmire, secretary; John Huntzinger, treasurer. Bradley Scott, a member of the group, will be in charge of the dinner.

Albert W. Gault who served with the United States Forces in India during World War II, will be guest speaker of the Tuxis Society Sunday evening. His subject will be "Report from India."

John Jordon will lead devotions and John Pattison will provide the refreshments.

The Pioneer Society will begin a study on "Ways to Read the Bible" under the leadership of the Rev. Galen E. Hershey.

H. P. WOODWORTH

Candidates for the mass Baptism were counseled previous to the 2 p.m. Baptism in the High School pool.

Jehovah's Witnesses' semi-annual Circuit Assembly opened last night at the Senior High School with 1100 delegates from 21 congregations of this area. The three Pontiac congregations acted as hosts.

In his address of welcome, Malcolm S. Allen of Brooklyn, N. Y. Watchtower headquarters, outlined the advanced course in ministry training.

"In preaching this good news of the Kingdom," he said, "we need to be at our best when making known such wonderful news to hearing ears and giving answer to every man that asks you a reason for the hope that is in you."

During the program, A. W. Andrews of Lapeer reviewed highlights of the activities for 1955. "The 642,900 Witnesses in 160 countries," reported Andrews, "spent over 85,000,000 hours conducting 338,000 home Bible studies and spoke to people at their doors, leaving with them 66,000,000 Bibles and books explaining the Bible, printed in 100 languages."

H. P. Woodworth, supervisor of the congregations concluded the session as chairman of a model "Service Meeting."

The program this evening will be under the general theme, "The Right Kind of Ministers." P. D. Slider of St. Clair, M. E. Miller and Clinton Duck of Pontiac will participate in the discussions on "Examining Our Ministry," "Preparation Essential," "Follow Up Interest," and "Effective Bible Studies."

While the public is welcome at all sessions, the Witnesses extend a special invitation to Pontiac citizens to the address by Malcolm S. Allen at 3 p.m. Sunday. His subject will be "Overcoming the Fears of This Generation."

Over Half of Uranium Strikes Made by Rookies

OMAHA (INS) — More than half the uranium strikes in the United States have been made by amateurs, according to University of Omaha physics instructor J.G. McMellan.

He adds that "you don't have to be an expert to find it."

However, Professor McMilan cautions, relatively few amateur prospectors make a paying strike and the search should be conducted as a hobby or avocation.

In addition to rewards offered for discoveries of the nuclear weapon material, Uranium-235 is worth about $9,000 a pound.

To Dedicate New Walled Lake High School Sunday

Plans Speakers, Public Tours

University of Michigan Representative to Give Address

WALLED LAKE — The public dedication of the Walled Lake Senior High School Sunday, at 2 p.m. will be held in the recently completed auditorium-gymnasium.

* * *

Clifford H. Smart, superintendent of schools will preside while Dr. James Lewis, vice president of student affairs at the University of Michigan will be the principal speaker. Others who will speak will be the Rev. C. F. Oliver who will deliver the invocation; Walter T. Anicka, architect; A. N. Hickson, contractor; Joseph W. Long, president of the Board of Education; E. V. Ayres, high school principal; and Robert Hess, president of the Student Council.

The high school band under the direction of Helmut Holland-Moritz will play and Mrs. Ronald Lamontagne's girls chours will sing. Following the benediction by the Rev. Wendall Malloch, National Honor Society members will conduct visitors on a tour of the building and the PTA will serve refreshments.

The building which has a capacity of one thousand students cost a little over $1,300,000 to build and equip. It contains 40 classrooms, library, cafeteria seating 240, conference and health rooms, offices, bookstore, laboratory and shop facilities, and storage areas, in addition to the unit just completed, the double gym and auditorium.

Bleachers already installed in this unit will seat 1,000 and seating for another 450 for sports events has been ordered for installation on the stage. These can be folded against the wall when not in use. When chairs are placed on the floor seating is available for at least a thousand more.

Teachers and administrators assisted in designing the building which has attracted many visitors in the year it has been in use. Its functional qualities, beauty and the economy with which it was built in comparison to other buildings of similar size, have made it an outstanding high school building.

More than 200 educators in the state have been issued invitations to attend the dedication and the general public is also welcome. Souvenir programs showing pictures of the building will be distributed according to program committee chairman, Mrs. Helen Dewey.

Presbyterians Elect Officers

DRAYTON PLAINS — Dr. L. G. Rowley was relected congregational chairman when the congregation of the Community United Presbyterian Church held its annual meeting recently. Mrs. Harold Trexler was elected congregational secretary for a term of one year, and Mrs. Gerald Shell, treasurer for three years.

* * *

C. Bernard Chamberlain, James Cowen and Elden Shell were elected for three-year terms as trustees.

The congregation adopted a record budget of $51,800 which is to be divided three ways. Approximately $21,000 is allocated for local expenses, $8,500 for benevolences and $22,000 for the building. The treasurer reported that less than $12,000 remains to be paid on the educational unit which was built about two years ago at a total cost of slightly over $100,000.

Roy Lindahl Sr., heads the new building committee to work with representatives of the various organizations of the church to make preliminary studies for a new sanctuary.

National Co-op Meet Expected to Call 500

WASHINGTON (INS) — More than 500 persons are expected to attend the National Council of Farmer Cooperatives annual meeting in Los Angeles from Jan. 16 through Jan. 19.

The council, rated as one of the big four farm organizations, speaks for marketing and purchasing cooperatives claiming to represent some 5,000 local groups serving nearly three million farmer members.

Highlight of the opening session will be a speech in which Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson may outline some of the details of the new farm program he is presenting to Congress.

Postpone Card Party

ORTONVILLE — A card party, originally slated to be held Jan. 21 in Masonic Hall here by OES 286, has been postponed until the month of February.

The event will be non-profit and the program chairman is looking especially for first editions, old deeds, tax records, calendars, catalogues, books Bibles and anything that spells "age."

Avon Board Votes for Census Takers

AVON TOWNSHIP — The Avon Township Board unanimously adopted a resolution presented by Township Clerk Frances O. Covert, Wednesday.

The resolution was to name a group of enumerators for taking census of all the inhabitants of proposed annexed territory of Avon Township, including the village of Rochester for the incorporation of the city of Rochester. The resolution is to be forwarded to the Secretary of State.

The board authorized the township treasurer to make an extension of the tax collection to Feb. 20 without penalty.

The board will meet again at 7 p.m. Monday, Jan. 23. There will also be a meeting of the Avon Zoning Board the same evening at 8.

MR. AND MRS. WM. KLEINO

St. John's of Rochester Scene of Kleino Wedding

LAKE ORION—Janet Ann Harry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Alcock of Lake Orion became the Saturday bride of William C. Kleino, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Kleino of Rochester at St. John's Lutheran Church in Rochester.

Janet wore a floor-length gown with a white faille bodice, featuring a scoop neckline. Bouffant nylon tulle accented with white daisies, formed the skirt. A tiara of seed pearls and sequins secured the waist-length veil. She carried a bouquet of French colonial roses and carnations.

Judith L. Harry was her sister's maid of honor and bridesmaids were Joan Cochran and Marjorie Kleino.

Best man for the bridegroom was his brother George; and seating the guests were Charles Long and Donald Webb.

* * *

$6,500 Blaze Sweeps Home

WEST BLOOMFIELD—A $6,500 blaze swept through the garage, an apartment over the garage and caused considerable smoke damage to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Jones of 1763 Cass Lake Rd., yesterday.

The West Bloomfield Fire Department fought the fire for over three hours.

According to Fire Chief Ben J. Moshier, the department had to use 1600 ft. of hose to draw water from ice covered Sylvan Lake.

The origin of the fire has not been determined.

Who's Superstitious!!! Residents of West Bloomfield Township have every reason to shy away from Friday the 13th. During the course of the day Station 1 of the Township Fire Department received its first call of the new year and a black cat and a kitten were killed in the fire at 1763 Cass Lake Rd.

Township Restricts Eight Mile Parking

Other business completed at the meeting includes the purchase of 10 metal "No Dumping" signs to replace cardboard signs which have disappeared; the authorization of Supervisor Eugene Swem to purchase a 134" wheelbase truck, not to exceed cost of $3200, after he has bids for same; and the authorization of Swem to work up a cost sheet of rubbish pickup for Lathrup by township trucks plus a 20 per cent handling cost and to report back to the board during the special meeting.

Cyrus Johnson of the United Machinery and Supply Co. was directed to appear before the board of appeals for his request to build a warehouse and office building on Eight Mile Road on property running back to residentially zoned Shiawassee Street.

Exchange Club Elects Officers in Farmington

FARMINGTON TOWNSHIP — Newly elected president of the local Exchange Club is Norman Lawton, following the recent semi-annual election of officers held in the Universalist Church.

Bert Herzog won the post of first vice president; Henry Trombley, second vice president; Claude Goodes, re-elected secretary; and Emory Hatton, re-elected treasurer. This post will have to be filled due to the sudden death of Mr. Hatton, who had been a charter member of the club.

DeVere Fleming, Elton Thomas and Thomas Bonner were elected to the Board of Control. Meetings are held Wednesdays at 12:15 p.m. in the Universalist Church basement, Warner street entrance.

Evangelist to Conduct Metamora Services

METAMORA—Evangelist Jimmie Threlfall will conduct services at Hunter Creek Church starting Monday for two weeks.

The programs will begin at 8 p.m. nightly with special services on Sunday.

To Speak to Baptists

ORTONVILLE—The Rev. John Bussema of Bear Lake, a former pastor here, will speak in the Baptist Church at 11:30 a.m. and at 7:45 Sunday during the absence of the Rev. Perry Deyarmond, who is on vacation.

Slate Special Organ Program at Waterford

WATERFORD — Robert Lilleyman will play special numbers on the new organ in the 7:30 evening service Sunday, at Faith Baptist Church.

Mrs. Ryland Erickson will play for the morning service.

The young people of the church will sponsor a film showing "The Life of Bob Jones Sr.," at 6:15 p.m. Mr. Jones is the founder of Bob Jones University.

Schedule First Fruit Lecture

ROMEO — "Fertilizing and Mulching" will be the topic of the first lecture in the Romeo Fruit School series to be held at 8:00 p.m. Monday evening at Romeo High School.

The subject will be discussed by Paul Larsen of the horticulture department of Michigan State University. He will also show slides to illustrate his remarks.

The school is sponsored by the Macomb County Fruit Committee and is open to fruit growers throughout the area.

The tree removal program was an outgrowth of a survey of neglected orchards by experts made at the request of local fruit growers. It was their contention that degenerate fruit trees primarily in subdivided orchards were jeopardizing the 1956 apple industry.

The school will feature additional lectures during the next six weeks. Topics to be discussed include "Fruit Insects and their Control" on Jan. 23, "Apple Grading and Marketing" on Feb. 6, and a fruit tree pruning demonstration on Feb. 20. Specialists in each field will be principal speakers during the series.

Metropolitan Club, Auxiliary to Install

WATERFORD TOWNSHIP — The Metropolitan Club and Auxiliary No. 62 will meet at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the VFW hall, 4680 West Walton Blvd. for a joint installation of officers.

The installing officer for the auxiliary will be Mrs. Howard Fairman who is from Metropolitan Club Auxiliary No. 6. Mrs. Fairman is the past national president.

Additional officers to be installed are: sergeant at arms, Mrs. Lewis Goff; chairman of auditors, Mrs. Burton Hilliker; second year auditor, Mrs. Arthur Haynes; and third year auditor, Mrs. Clayton Soncrainte.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond O. Hitchcock, 2164 Collins, are parents of a daughter, Barbara Ann.

A son, Steven Arthur, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Sauer, 50780 Mile End Dr.

St. Patrick's Women Install; Plan Party

WHITE LAKE TOWNSHIP — Mrs. Gerald F. DeSormier was installed as president of St. Patrick's Women's guild at a recent ceremony in the parish meeting room.

Mrs. Stanley Freville, installing chairman, was assisted by Mrs. Frank Wuergess and Mrs. Leon Glynn.

Other new officers installed were: Mrs. E. E. Pifer, vice president; Mrs. Gordon A. Schulte, secretary, and Mrs. Luther Diaz, treasurer. All were presented with corsages of white carnations.

Plans were made for a card party to be given jointly with the Men's Club at 8 p.m., Saturday, Jan. 21, in the parish hall. St. Mary's guild will have charge of tables; Sacred Heart guild, table prizes; Immaculate Heart guild, refreshments, and guilds, clean-up. Door prizes will be provided by the Men's Club and the various guilds.

Mrs. Johnson, retiring treasurer, gave her annual report at the meeting, pointing out that the guild has only a $2,200 balance to pay on its pledge of $6,000 made last July to the Parish Expansion Fund.

Moore Explains Water Petitions

Judge Recommends Farmington Become Chartered

FARMINGTON TOWNSHIP — The Farmington Township Water Development Committee met Thursday evening in the Town Hall with Judge Arthur E. Moore to discuss the progress of petitioning in the dry areas of the township. Judge Moore was appointed by the township board to act as legal adviser to the group.

Persons not in the proposed water district have asked to sign petitions, requesting that their subdivision be included. Judge Moore said that petitions can be drawn for these subdivisions, but unless there are enough homes in the subdivision to make an additional main or lateral feasible, they can not be included at the present time.

Moore also discussed with the committee the advantages to be gained by the entire township in changing its form of government. He pointed out that a charter would help the credit of the township in issuing bonds, would make their sale easier, and would simplify "red tape."

The township now has a 15 mill limit, placing such a low ceiling on bonds that investors are fearful of buying, he said. A charter would place the township in the same category as a city in that it would not be subject to the 15 mill limitation.

He recommended that the area become a chartered township as "quickly as possible, then begin consideration of incorporation as a city.

"From the point of financing, a city as large as the township is entirely feasible," he said. "It also makes for greater economy of municipal government."

Dr. Joseph Gadbaw, chairman of the water committee, requested Mrs. Elise Avery to contact leaders of the township's civic organizations to arrange a meeting so that the matter can be more fully discussed.

The first white man to visit the Great Smoky Mountains is believed to have been Hernando De Soto, in 1540.

Initial Meeting Held by Players

West Bloomfield Group Names Committees; Sets Date to Meet

Franklyn Donegan presided and Mrs. Nell McArthur volunteered as temporary treasurer for the group.

Meetings have been scheduled for the fourth Thursday of the month, at the township hall. The group is aiming toward a charter membership of fifty in order to vote on a set of bylaws. A second business meet and casting session will be Jan. 19.

Volunteer committees selected for immediate planning included George Curran, Clayton Freeman, Pat Unick, and Wilda May. Others are H. K. Smith, Neil McArthur, John Batts, Crew Couse, Mr. and Mrs. Dick Lavell, and Mrs. Irene Klopp.

Persons over 21 interested in membership are invited to attend the meetings.

Metamora Church Elects New Officers

METAMORA—The Rev. Charles Robbins was re-elected Sunday School superintendent and Mrs. Ronald Walker re-elected secretary treasurer at the annual meeting of the Pilgrim Congregational Church Monday.

Church officers elected include: Harold Brower, deacon for three years; Mrs. Lewis Fishell and Mrs. George Nunn, trustees for three years each; Mrs. Harold Brower, re-elected clerk for one year; Maude Martin, re-elected treasurer for one year; Mrs. Guy Russel, re-elected deaconess for three years.

The next fellowship supper at the church will be Wednesday, Jan. 25 at 7 p.m., instead of the 18th as originally planned. A program will follow the supper.

Utica Berean Baptists Receive New Pastor

UTICA—The Rev. Donald J. Cutting has accepted the pastorate of the Berean Baptist Church in Utica. The Rev. Mr. Cutting is a graduate of the Detroit Bible Institute and was ordained Dec. 7, 1955 at the Strathmoor-Judson Baptist Church of Detroit where he has been assistant pastor.

Radio Telescope Built in Australia

Giant Eyes May Solve 2 Planetary Mysteries of Mars and Venus

SYDNEY, Australia — A giant radio telescope, in the form of a cross with arms nearly a mile in length, now being built here for the Australian Commonwealth Scientific and Industrial Research Organization, may help to solve mysteries connected with the two planets nearest to the earth — Venus and Mars.

* * *

Radio astronomers hope to pick up radio waves from Venus and Mars, and perhaps "bounce" radar signals back from the planets' surfaces to the earth.

A few years ago the radio astronomers picked up radio waves naturally emitted by the moon's surface, and by study of these they were able to trace the temperature, and also guess the nature of its surface—a thin coait of dust lying on rubble or gravel, and below that, rock.

The surface of Venus is perpetually hidden by an envelope of cloud or dust, and it is calculated that if the surface is hot it will emit radio waves which will enable deductions to be made as to its construction.

* * *

Similar possibilities present themselves in the case of Mars, which is consistently visible, and which has a very thin atmosphere.

Soccer Pools Played by 10 Million Italians

ROME—Nearly 10 million Italians, besides a considerable number of tourists and other foreigners now buy tickets in the national football pools.

The pools—tickets sell for about 17 cents — operate during the months when soccer is played and in the nine years since they were started, through the efforts of a posrts writer named Massimo della Pergola, more than 1,000 Italians have become "lira millionaires."

Della Pergola was bought out by the Government and still has his big money, but to most other winners sudden wealth has spelled mainly trouble, it is observed—and taxes.

Winners get their money tax-free but the revenue collector takes note for the annual tax assessment. However, thousands of hunchback ticket peddlers have prospered, because, as every Italian knows, they bring luck.

The European television network now provides viewers in England, the Netherlands, France and Belgium with simultaneous reception of special events.

WHAT ROBBERS LOOKED LIKE — A newsman wears a rubber mask similar to that worn by seven bandits who robbed Brink's armored car firm in Boston, Jan. 17, 1950. In Washington in announcing solution of the nation's biggest cash robbery, the FBI said the seven men had worn Halloween-type masks.

Staves Off Gas Thief by Blowing His Own Horn

One of the neatest bits of home-made sleuthing was reported by a frustrated motorist. Plagued for months by mysterious disappearing gas tank balances in the family auto, he decided to take matters into his own hands.

Describing his plan in an entry in an idea contest the motorist told how he had caught the thief wet-mouthed.

He wired the gas tank flap to the horn so that in closed position the flap depressed a small switch holding the circuit open. Lifting the flap, closed the circuit, sounding the horn.

The idea worked. No report on how the private eye made out on the contest (which was for unusual uses of such switches) but he stopped losing gasoline.

No Money Made at Unique Store

CHICAGO, (INS) — Chicago's most unique "general store" is crowded with customers but not a penny is taken in despite the heavy turnover.

The lack of money, which in most establishments would make proprietors tear their hair, means nothing to the operators of this store. These managers explain happily that they sell things for good deeds.

The odd store in the Old Town branch of the Chicago Boy's Clubs on the city's near west side—a slum-ridden neighborhood pocked with littered lots, condemned building and old factories.

To purchase items, the kids use credit tokens earned in a variety of ways. They can wash floors, aid in a cleanup campaign, empty wastepaper baskets and run errands. Even improving grades in school piles up the tokens.

Club director Vince Giesler points out: "There are a lot of poor kids in our neighborhood: Instead of just giving the stuff away, we are making them work for it.

The credit tokens will buy a wide range of goods including bicycles and cans of food.

David X. Meyers, a garage owner who is the club's chairman of the board, said that stock for the unique enterprise had been donated by local businessmen. Much of the merchandise was supplied by the Near West Side Businessmen's Assn.

Mechanization Aids Aussie Farm Output

SYDNEY — Mechanization has greatly influenced nearly every branch of Australia's agricultural production and machinery has invaded types of work in which great care is necessary.

Milking machines, shearing machines, interrow cultivators, automatic hay loaders, hay-baling machines, potato digging, and many other specialized types of machine, are in general use in Australia.

As a result the number of man-hours required for a given quantity of output on a farm has decreased and with the advance of mechanization a machine minded generation of farmers and farm workers is replacing the more horse conscious older generation.

Brink's Robbery Twists Deadline-on-Arrest Row

WASHINGTON (INS) — Lawyers and legislators have argued for years over the three words—statute of limitations—that almost permitted suspects in the daring Brink's robbery to remain free.

The Boston express company case puts a new twist on an age-old problem which has been plaguing prosecutors for centuries.

Generally, statutes of limitations set a definite time limit for prosecution in thousands of federal, state and local laws. They arrive from the theory that criminal prosecutions should be brought within a reasonable time or not at all.

In the Brink's case, the suspects could have been tried for their alleged crime under federal law after three years—later extended to five. Massachusetts set a six-year time limit, later extended to 10 years.

CHARGE CONSPIRACY

FBI agents picked them up Thursday on warrants charging conspiracy to violate federal laws, the accusation being that the conspiracy was still continuing at the time of arrest.

Over the years, debate on such questions has echoed through legislative forums and court rooms. The result is a wide variety of laws, many of them conflicting and many constantly being changed.

Generally, there is no time limit when prosecutions can begin for murder or treason. In many states this also applies to kidnaping and other major crimes. Quite often, time spent outside the state or under a false name is not counted when the statute of limitations goes into effect.

STONE AGE HAD IT

Historians trace the statute of limitations back to the early days of civilization when a stone age man found a nicely-made spear in the jungle. The elders around the campfire ruled that if a neighbor wanted to claim the weapon, his claim would have to be made with what scholars now call "reasonable promptness."

The early Hebrews, Greeks and Romans elaborated this precedent to include disputed farm land and even differences of opinion over who owned a particular wife.

When the early lawyers were working out this problem, they were a bit slower in the field of general crime.

* * *

At first, the statute of limitations worked somewhat in reverse—if a thief were caught redhanded the punishment was more severe than if he were caught down the street or a year later. But this was modified to permit immediate vengeance if the criminal were caught in "hot pursuit."

Then through the years lawyers, judges and the general course of civilization swung around to the theory that is the basis for the various statutues of limitations in effect today.

Pontiac Official to Help Prepare State Booklet

David R. Ewalt, director of Parks and Recreation, will attend a four-day conference at Michigan State University, beginning Monday, of the Michigan Institute of Park Executives.

The purpose of the meeting is education booklet which will circulate nation wide, which is part of a series of manuals prepared by the institute and the university.

Ewalt will be on a committee to prepare a chapter on day camping for the booklet.

Cigarette Device Probes Disease

Machine Which Draws Checks Relationship of Cancer and Tobacco

ADELAIDE, South Australia—A cigarette-smoking machine, which is being used in this city, South Australian capital, as part of investigations into the relationship between cigarettes and lung cancer, operates by a pumping device which causes it to produce periodic "draws."

* * *

The tar from the smoke is collected in several flasks which are cooled in ice for research purposes. A large red balloon, inside a glass apparatus containing cotton wool, acts as a human lung.

The research work is being carried out at the Department of Organic Chemistry of the Adelaide University. The Department has collected data showing the increase in cancer in Great Britain and Australia since 1920.

Increases in the number of cigarettes smoked is greater in Britain than Australia, and has caused attention to be directed to the theory that cancer may be associated with atmospheric pollution.

Detroit Edison, 11 Firms to Build A-Power Plant

MONROE (AP)—Detroit Edison Co. and 11 associated firms plan to build a pilot atomic power plant at nearby Laguna Beach.

The site was disclosed yesterday by Robert Van Deuser, Edison production superintendent, at a Monroe County Probate Court hearing yesterday on Edison's request for condemnation of fishing rights along 58 acres owned by the company near the mouth of the River Raisin.

Arab Nations Close Ranks to Dislodge British Power

By JOHN H. MARTIN
(INS Foreign Director)

Fierce battles over black desert gold and old dynastic feuds are the backdrop in the Middle Eastern theater, where Soviet Russia again has a foot in the door.

* * *

Saudia Arabia, Egypt and Syria now have announced officially what was apparent for a long time —a concerted effort to dislodge British influence in Jordan and other parts of the oil-rich Middle East.

The three Arab governments have offered economic aid to Jordan's improverished kingdom to supplant that of the British, Britain gave $7,000,000 in economic aid to Jordan last year and has offered to increase it this year. In addition, Jordan's army, the Arab Legion, costs the British approximately $22,000,000 yearly.

Saudi Arabia is the moneybags behind this offer to wean Jordan from its alliance with the British. And behind this offer is King Saud's bitter enmity toward the British, a battle that threatens a cleavage in American-British relations.

DYNASTIC QUARREL

Saudi Arabia is an old foe of the Hashemite families ruling Jordan and Iraq, and is united with Egypt and Syria in a new military pact directed against Israel but also politically opposed to the pro-Western Baghdad Pact.

Besides the dynastic quarrel Saudi Arabia is engaged in a miniature war with British-led forces in easternmost Arabia near the Persian Gulf.

British-protected sheiks opposing King Saud's vast oil domain have grabbed territory in ill-defined border lands claimed by Saud. The lands are believed to cover a big untapped new reservoir of the black gold.

EXPECTS U.S. SUPPORT

King Saud's government already gets more than $200,000,000 yearly in oil revenues coming from the million-barrel-per-day output of the Arabian-American Oil Company (ARAMCO).

Besides the Big American oil stake in Saudi Arabia the United States has an air base at Dhahran.

In protesting against British "aggression," King Saud inevitably expects American support. The British, who have held sway in the rich Persian Gulf area for 150 years, in turn expect Washington to support them in the quarrel, made even more precarious by covetous Soviet efforts to turn Arabs against the West.

It is estimated that approximately $600,000,000 yearly flows into London from the Persian Gulf area. A loss of that revenue would knock out the British-led sterling bloc financial leadership in the commonwealth and undermine Britain, main NATO partner of the U.S.

This is only one facet of the Middle Eastern cockpit about whose dangers Secretary of State John Foster Dulles seeks "to wake up" the American people.

Greek Beauty Invades Hollywood Westerns

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—A couple or three years ago in Capri there was a beautiful Greek girl named Irene Papas lolling around the beach, and it was suggested that I talk to her—as she would go far.

"No," I said, "I wish to take some pictures of a girl with much more promise, Simone Silva."

★ ★ ★ ★

Miss Silva is the girl who later did a striptease with Bob Mitchum and has since passed from sight. Miss Papas became the first Greek girl ever signed to a long-term contract by M-G-M and is now in N.Y., telling her life story.

IRENE

"A Greek western?" I asked when we met again.

"I'm a Greek girl that goes West," Miss Papas, a tallish, statuesque brunette, said. "It was supposed to be Wyoming, but we shot it in Colorado."

She tossed this off in such good English that I asked for more. "I been born near Corinth," she said. "I was 4 years on Greek stage. In Greece we don't sell pictures outside but make our money from the stage."

"Are they going to make you into a new Ava Gardner?"

"I don't think they need another Ava Gardner."

Elia Kazan, who is half Greek and half-Armenian, and Katina Paxinou are the only Greeks in pictures here, so far as Miss Papas knows . . . excepting, of course, the Skourases. Kazan and Miss Paxinou both have Oscars and the Skourases have 20th Century-Fox and Cinemascope. Heavens knows what Miss Papas will have.

"Did Hollywood have to fix your looks any?" I asked.

"Why should they fix me?"

"You're perfect?"

"If I were perfect, I'd not be a human being."

"Your figure is splendid."

"After all," she shrugged, "I can't be proud of any of the things I didn't make."

"What men have you been going out with here?"

"If you're asking me as a journalist, I won't tell you, and if you're asking as a person, you're very fresh. If I became a good friend of yours I might tell you, but if you were my friend you wouldn't print it."

Miss Papas also has a word to say about posing for American photographers. "They don't want people," she snorts. "They want forms!"

THE WEEKEND WINDUP

"DON'T PRINT THAT!": A B'way producer is charging his show's budget $400 a month for office space—but he works at home . . . A recording star plays only his own disks at home, explaining, "I just can't stand anybody but myself."

If Ike runs, the GOP's song may be "My Shining Hour," with the parody, "This Will Be My Eisenhower" . . . Blind singer Al Hibbler signs autographs in Braille . . . Walter Slezak's sporting a Christmas gift—a Persian lamb beard warmer . . . A major ad agency faces an office rebellion 'cause it didn't give any holiday bonuses.

Tommy Dorsey's gift to his wife was $1,000 worth of clothes . . . Red-haired Bethe Douglas, a hit in Europe, is up for a "Ziegfeld Follies" lead.

Soviet Boss Bulganin Absent From Moscow

LONDON (AP) — Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin has been absent from the Moscow scene for more than a week, reports reaching here indicated today.

The 60-year-old premier may be ill or out of town on a holiday to rest from the exhausting recent tour of Southeast Asia. He reportedly looked wan and drawn when he returned to Moscow. Soon after Christmas he made a long speech before the Soviet Parliament.

Moscow radio reports indicated his last public appearance was on Jan. 3 when he attended ceremonies at the East German embassy celebrating the 80th birthday of President Wilhelm Pieck of East Germany.

Researcher Says Chains Still Tops for Winter Driving

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—A lot of devices have been dreamed up to give automobiles more traction in ice and snow, but ordinary chains are still the kingpins.

That's one of the conclusions reached by Prof. Archie Easton of the University of Wisconsin in 10 years of testing many devices. He is director of motor vehicle research at the college of engineering.

Research revealed that reinforce chains increase the driving efficiency of regular tires on ice 409 per cent, on hard-packed snow 313 per cent, and increase their braking efficiency on ice 153 per cent and on hard-packed snow 58 per cent.

Winter tread mud-snow tires usually give at least 40 per cent more efficiency in driving and 22 per cent more in braking on ice, and 71 per cent more efficiency in driving and 33 more in braking on hard-packed snow.

Sanders in front of regular tires increase their driving efficiency 270 per cent and their braking efficiency 16 per cent on ice, and their driving efficiency 32 per cent on hard-packed snow. But the sanders do no good at all in braking on snow, the tests show.

Yule Cards Die in Blaze If Found Undeliverabe

The most forlorn aspect of the Christmas mail rush comes after postmen and clerks have rested aching feet and settled back to routine eight-hour days, according to Acting Postmaster Leslie Dean.

It is then that postal employes turn to the task of burning Christmas cards whose envelopes carry incorrect or undecipherable addresses, or which have none at all.

Dean estimates that between 2,000 and 3,000 cards met destruction in the post office's furnace at the end of the 1955 season, although he pointed out that they represented a small percentage of the million-odd pieces that were successfully delivered.

"Cards normally carry 2-cent stamps — third class mail," the postmaster said. "During the Christmas season we give them as careful handling as we do first class mail. But if we can't deliver them, we have no choice but to destroy them."

Archduke, 37, to Wed Countess, 18, in April

MUNICH, Germany (AP) — Archduke Ferdinand of Hapsburg announced his engagement today to Countess Helen of Toerring-Jettenbach, 18-year-old niece of the Duchess of Kent.

Hollywood Headlines:

Smartly Attired Claudette Cares Little About Styles

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—It may surprise you that Claudette Colbert doesn't give a hoot about clothes.

This despite the fact that she has long been one of the screen's best dressers. You can see her tonight in four fetching outfits as she costars in CBS' "Blithe Spirit" with Noel Coward and Lauren Bacall.

"Oh, you should know the trouble I've had over those four dresses," sighed Claudette at a luncheon on the veranda of her Holmby Hills home. "Nothing but fittings, fittings, fittings. It drives me nuts. When I think of the amount of time I have spent in my lifetime over clothes!

"It simply isn't that important to me. Clothes never have been. If I had to spend as much time on them in my personal life as some women do, I'd go to Tahiti and wear a Mother Hubbard."

* * *

Fancy duds are important to Claudette professionally, but she maintains a slimmer closet than a lot of the other glamor girls.

"I don't have nearly as many clothes as a lot of producers' wives," she remarked. "If I have any reputation as a dresser, it is for conservative clothes. I think it's smarter to avoid the high fashion. Unless there is a sweeping change in style, you can usually wear a dress for five years or more. And I often do."

She said she owns about eight evening gowns and an equal number of cocktail dresses. She rotates them and cares not a whit if friends recognize them — "you can't be expected to have a new dress for every occasion."

You can understand why she buys them and keeps them. An evening gown can run from $800 to $1,000. Her favorite designer was Adrian, who is now retired from feminine fashions (he designs only men's ties and shirts now).

* * *

Claudette is winding up her CBS contract with "Blithe Spirit" and vows she won't sign a long-termer again. She likes TV, but wants to call her own shots.

Board Named by Ike to Check Work of CIA

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower has created an eight-man board of "outstanding citizens" to review periodically "the foreign intelligence activities of the government."

The president said the new unit will deal particularly, but not exclusively, with the work of the Central Intelligence Agency.

The announcement said the board was being established with the full approval of Allen Dulles, CIA director, and at the recommendation of the Hoover Commission for Government Reorganization.

Eisenhower named Dr. James R. Killian, Jr., president of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, as chairman of the board.

Union Official Blasts Segregation Leaders

ATLANTA (AP) — Attempts by some Southern political leaders to maintain segregation — particularly in the schools — was described as "utterly foolish" today by the head of the U. S. Steelworkers Union of America.

David J. McDonald, of Pittsburgh, USWA president, declared in an interview that he thought the whole attitude toward segregation was a "horrible mistake." He said he was not just referring to Georgia political leaders but also those fighting integration of the races in other Southern states.

McDonald said the United States was "in a contest with the Communist world" and added it is "very poor thinking to foster ideas of disuniting our people."

Baton Rouge Freezes as Gas Mains Burst

BATON ROUGE, La., (AP)—Two large gas mains broke and caught fire early Friday, leaving about 90 per cent of the city in freezing temperatures without heat and cooking facilities.

Authorities said the 20-inch mains were broken in the north end of the city. The cause was not immediately determined.

The temperature had dropped to 29 degrees, but rose later to 32—the freezing level.

Baton Rouge, the state capital, has a population of about 150,000.

4 Yanks Saved by Arab Troops

Amman Rioting Mobs Burn, Loot Buildings Belonging to U.S.

AMMAN, Jordan (AP)—Arab Legion troops today brought four Americans to safety in Aman after rioting mobs burned down two buildings belonging to a U.S. Baptist Mission Hospital and looted others in Ajlun, North Jordan.

There were no casualties among the hospital staff when the rioters attacked yesterday. Among the rescued Americans was Lloyd Lovegreen, the hospital director.

Now all but four Americans on the east bank of the River Jordan have been brought to Amman.

An estimated 300 Americans are now in the capital, organized under district wardens. A mimeographed bulletin issued daily by the U. S. embassy warns them of the danger zones and security arrangements.

Jordan has been the scene of violent anti-Western rioting against the pro-Western Baghdad defense alliance. Several American installations have been targets of rioters.

Palestine Arabis, refugees from the 1948 war with Israel, are politically potent in Jordan just now and they violently oppose any alliance, such as the Baghdad Pact, which might tie Jordan's hands in future dealings with Israel and freeze Israel's present borders. The Baghdad Pact links Iran, Iraq, Turkey, Pakistan and Britain.

Guam Will Get B47 and B52 Jets, Says AF Chief

GUAM (AP)—Air Force Secretary Donald Quarles said today the B47 Stratojet and B52 Stratofortress would be assigned soon to this Western Pacific base.

Andersen Air Force Base on Guam is being prepared to handle the latest jet aircraft, he said in an interview.

Asked if the B36 strategic bombers now on Guam would be used in case of trouble in the Formosa area, he replied:

"It all depends on how you define trouble."

He said the B36s "would be used in event of a general war," and added:

"I did not imply that B36s would be used every time there is trouble."

Red Cross Will Ask Record $90 Million

NEW YORK (AP)—The American Red Cross plans a record peacetime appeal for 90 million dollars this year because of hurricane and flood disasters of the past six months.

* * *

Red Cross National Chairman E. Roland Harriman said yesterday the disasters caused the organization to spend more than 27 million dollars on emergency relief and long-range assistance to families and small businesses.

Harriman said this was four or five times the amount spent in an average disaster year and added: "We now have less than a million dollars to cope with disaster work this spring and summer."

At present, he said, 11,000 families and small businesses are being assisted in the wake of recent floods in the far west.

Marquette Wood Firm Building Razed by Fire

The blaze started on the first floor, shot up through an elevator shaft and fanned through the building. No one was injured.

Charles W. Nicholas, general manager, said the plant, which employs 200 persons, would be closed temporarily until the extent of the loss is determined.

Free Penicillin Ready for Rheumatic Fever

LANSING (AP)—The State Health Department today launched a new campaign against rheumatic fever, spearheaded by free distribution of penicillin.

The department, which will conduct the campaign in cooperation with the Michigan Crippled Children Commission, said Michigan now has an estimated 4,000 rheumatic fever victims.

Under the new program, the department will grant benzathine penicillin "G" to doctors for "all patients who have had one or more attacks of rheumatic fever or who show clinical evidence of rheumatic heart disease."

The penicillin will be assigned to doctors through local health departments in 70 counties and through 13 distribution centers in counties without health departments.

Ice Floes Clog St. Clair River

Dropping Water Level Hinders Ferry Service to Harsen's Island

ALGONAC (AP)—Ice jammed up in the St. Clair River yesterday, causing a sharp drop in the water level that hampered ferry service to Harsen's Island.

The water level was down four feet at the mainland dock, making it difficult to load heavy fuel trucks on the ferries. Ordinarily the ferry dock is level with the dock.

Ferrying of school buses was halted after it took dock workers more than a half hour to maneuver a bus down the sharp incline improvised with planks.

Parents drove children to the island dock where they were taken across as foot passengers, then picked up on the other side by an automobile shuttle arranged by Algonac schools.

500 RESIDENTS

There are some 500 permanent residents on the island who depend on the ferry for fuel and other supplies. No heavy trucks were being permitted aboard the ferry today.

Several island residents who get their drinking water from the river found their intake pipes out in the air. People had to dip water out with buckets.

The ice jam developed after warmer temperatures earlier this week eased a previous pileup caused by last week's cold snap. The piled ice extended almost the full 40 miles from Algonac north to Marysville.

Residents feared the situation would get no better if a quick thaw occurs. That would loosen the ice too rapidly, piling it up along the shore and bringing the danger of floods.

The river ice was solid enough to permit island residents to walk the half mile to the mainland, but too rough to allow vehicles to cross.

The ice jam dropped the water level at Algonac 43 inches below normal. It was down 30 inches at Marine City, 10 miles north of Algonac, and only 4 inches at St. Clair, eight miles north of Marine City.

Top Navy Official Says GIs Are the Key Strength

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — The Navy's top commander says it still banks on the individual sailor, airman or Marine as "our greatest strength" in event of war with Russia.

Adm. Arleigh A. Burke, chief of naval operations, scoffed at the idea of a robot war, in which machines would decide the victory.

"The more equipment you get," he said in an interview yesterday, "the more important it is to have good men to operate them."

SOLO RUN — A garage in Los Angeles, Calif., is now open at both ends, thanks to this run-away car. When the car's owner stepped out for a minute, leaving the motor on and the automatic transmission in gear, it took off. Up one hill, down another, up a third, into and through the open garage. A policeman is inspecting the damage.

Letters Emphasizing Traffic Safety Issued

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)— Law, school and safety authorities issued open letters emphasizing responsibilities of parents and teenage drivers in traffic safety.

The letter to young drivers said, in part:

"The driver's license is a privilege. Possessing it implies a basic knowledge and ability. Using it properly requires judgment, restraint and consideration for others . . ."

It urged "cooperation" to make "driving on our crowded streets and highways safer for all of us."

A companion letter warned parents of their responsibility in "how safely and considerably" their teen-age children use a driver's license. "Your schools can educate, your civil authorities can regulate, but the maturity with which this grownup child of yours approaches this new responsibility rests with you," it stated.

The letters were issued in the aftermath of an auto crash last Friday night which claimed the lives of three teen-agers.

British Royalty to Visit Nigerian Leper Colony

LONDON (INS) — The British Church Missionary Society announced today that Queen Elizabeth II and the Duke of Edinburgh will meet two lepers during their tour of Nigeria, which begins Jan. 27.

The society said this would mark the first time that British royalty would visit a leper settlement.

By H. GUY MOATS
(Press Special Writer)

A hopeful, and confident Pontiac High School basketball team experienced a rude shock in the new Wildanger Fieldhouse at Flint Northern, Friday night.

Art Van Ryzin Chiefs were pushed down into a 3rd place tie for Saginaw Valley position by a battling Viking club, 60-56. Jack Marlette's boys took advantage of late defensive lapses by the Chiefs and after tying the count several times, in the final period, moved in front to stay on Jerry Radenbaugh's side shot.

Chiefs were forced to make a supreme effort in the 2nd period to square a 13-point deficit. Pontiac led briefly in the 1st period, fell behind seven points at the end of that session, then ran into a series of misses while the Vikings' big Clarence Elliott, Radenbaugh, Tom Ryan and Henry Clarke piled up the long lead.

Chiefs' offense pattern began to click, with Willie Dewalt firing in two in a row, Larry Peet hitting on three straight gift shots, and Dewalt coming back for four charity tosses. That left Chiefs only three points off the pace.

But Vikings were not to be denied, and compiled a new lead with Elliott the leader on three goals. Dewalt went the 6-6 Viking one better to count four times from the floor on side set shots and fine driving plays. That was the 1st time since the 1st few minutes Pontiac held a lead, and the Chiefs were in front 47-45 going into the finale.

Radenbaugh tied it up at 47. Dewalt grabbed a bucket to push Chiefs ahead again, and from there in, this final period was a wild give-and-take affair.

Clarke, Ryan and Melton Wright collected five points in a row for a 52-49 edge. Treais hit a side shot, Diehm got a free shot, tying the score at 52 but a Northern bucket by Al Miller wiped it out briefly. Hud Ray's tipin tied the count again, and Chiefs moved ahead on Treais' goal.

That was the end for the Chiefs. Ryan hit one from in front, Padenbaugh dunked a side shot and Elliot pushed one in from underneath just as the final horn sounded.

Dewalt was the one shining light for the Chiefs. His 12-point drive in the 2nd period gave the fans a big kick. When he came back for a 9-point effort in the 3rd period he really stole the show. Willie compiled an amazing 27 total, probably one of the longest point making jobs in several years at PHS. He hit for 11 goals and five free throws, to pace the shooters, far ahead of Elliot's 12, Clarke's 11 and Treais' 10 points.

Willie was also a major defensive factor, doing a grand job on rebounds and in feeding to other Chiefs. He went out on personals in the 4th period and the loss hurt PHS' chances badly.

Loss leaves Pontiac tied for 3rd place with Arthur Hill, which dumped Bay City, while Central rolled over Saginaw in a game filled with fouls. More than 60 were called and the teams had 99 chances at the free-throw line.

Fred Zittel's reserves smothered a Northern club that had not lost in six straight outings, 54-36. Dick Whitmer's 21, and Ken McClintock's 19 points set the scoring pace for the 5th win against one loss for the Little Chiefs.

West Pros Favored

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The sixth annual Pro Bowl football game comes off tomorrow in Memorial Coliseum with the finest professionals in the world colliding in the all-star studded engagement.

Kickoff is 1 p.m., Pacific Standard Time, and 40,000 or more fans are expected to see the long grid season come to an end.

It's the East against the West in the divisional battle and the West is a slight favorite to make the count 4-2 since the series was inaugurated in 1951.

Coach Sid Gillman of the Los Angeles Rams, coaching the West, and big Joe Kuharich of the Washington Redskins, tutor for the East, have an abundant supply of material.

Van Brocklin At Quarter

Gillman's ace, Ram quarterback Norman Van Brocklin, probably will have his teammate, rookie Ron Waller, at one half, Rick Casares of the Chicago Bears at the other, with rookie Alan Ameche of Baltimore at fullback.

Actually it makes little difference who starts the game. Gillman has such other stars as Howie Ferguson, Doak Walker, Dick Moegle and Tank Younger for offensive backfield duty; Bill Howton and John Hoffman to back up Harlon Hill and Billy Wilson at end.

Kuharich has backs Ollie Matson, Johnny Olszewski, Scooter Scudero and Kyle Rote, the latter also available for end. Regular ends are Pete Pihos and Darrell Brewster.

Impressive Defensive Units

The defensive units are equally impressive. With such backs as Ken Konz, Night Train Lane Emlen Tunnell for the East and Will Sherman, Jack Christiansen and Jim David for the West, either passing attack must be letter perfect to succeed.

Souchak 8 Under in First Round of Pro-Am Meet

Souchak, the ex-Duke University football player, rode a string of six birdies and an eagle to an eight-under-par 64 in yesterday's opening round of the $15,000 tournament being played on two of the three courses which crowd the Monterey peninsula. Tomorrow's finals, involving the 60 low scorers, will be played on the third layout at Pebble Beach.

The 33-31—64 Souchak fashioned yesterday was on the Monterey Peninsula course, which is considered three strokes easier than the Cypress Point fairways over which both Hogan and Middlecoff played. That means big Mike moved over today to the ocean-hugging course while his two foes tackled the inland links.

Running Behind Fetchik

Middlecoff carded a 32-34—66 and Hogan a 35-32—67 at Cypress, which plays 37-35—72. Actually, though, they were running third and fourth in the race for the money behind Mike Fetchik, a young Yonkers, N.Y., pro who trailed Souchak by only one stroke with a 33-32—65 at Monterey. He, too, was firing today at Cypress Point.

Both courses play at par 72, with only the nines reversed, but experts figure the Monterey layout which is some 100 yards shorter, by far the easier of the two.

Cypress lies on the ocean fringe, with two holes requiring over-the-water drives, and its fairways constantly are raked by winds which frequently are savage. Monterey is inland and has no water holes.

MSU-Purdue Tilt on National TV Circuit Today

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Illinois puts its Big Ten basketball lead on the block tonight at Indiana as conference action hits full swing for the first time this season.

* * *

Five games are scheduled with the Purdue at Michigan State game reaching a nationwide audience via television (3 p.m. EST—CBS).

In tonight's other games Minnesota is at Iowa, Michigan at Northwestern and Wisconsin at Ohio State.

For Illinois, it's the beginning of the team's first extended road trip of the season. After Indiana, the Illini are at Purdue before moving into Chicago for a non-conference game against DePaul.

* * *

The winner of the Purdue-Michigan State game will rank as a top contender. Purdue has a 2-1 conference mark and MSU is 1-1. The Boilermakers must stop Julius McCoy if they hope to beat the Spartans.

Michigan, a rapidly improving team, will try to add Northwestern to its list of victims.

Lapeer Wins 7th, Beats Rochester

PHS Swimmers on Short End of Tilt With 'Jacks

Pontiac High's swimming team took it on the chin Friday, losing to Arthur Hill's defending champions in a Saginaw Valley Conference dual meet at Saginaw. It was the Chiefs' 1st league setback in two starts.

Taking eight out of a possible nine 1st places, the Lumberjacks chalked up a 57-30 victory in the Saginaw High pool. The lone triumph for Pontiac's tankers was scored by Denny Simonson in the 100-yard freestyle.

An unfortunate incident happened to Tom Cross in the 100-yard backstroke. The Chiefs' ace was ahead in the event and probably would have won, but he missed touching the wall at the turn and the miscue forced him to finish 2nd. Chiefs took seven 2nd places in the meet.

Summary:

200-yard medley relay—won by Arthur Hill (Princing, Manwell, Mertz and Marks). Time—1:54.3.

Romeo Outpoints Cranbrook, 72-68

The lead switched hands repeatedly in the first half and at halftime Romeo led 32-30. Cranbrook rallied for 50-46 lead after three quarters, but in the final stanza three Cranes fouled out and with 6 minutes to play, Romeo took the lead to stay ahead.

Herb Stanton and Chuck Grube each had 14 for Cranbrook. Bill Schmidt pushed through 29 for Romeo.

St. Marys Wins 45-36, in SCL

Three Eaglets, led by Jerry Leszczynski's 15 points, hit double figures to lead Orchard Lake St. Mary's to a 45-36 win over Center Line St Clement in a Suburban Catholic game last night at Orchard Lake.

At halftime it was 19-19 but in the 3rd quarter the Eaglets poured in 21 points to two for St. Clement to run away with the game.

Ted Kopacki and Pete Madelanas each had 10 for St. Marys with Jack O'Mara getting 18 for St. Clement.

After a 20-20 halftime score, Phil Brzezinski moved St. Marys into the driver's seat. He hit for 16 points to pace the victory.

Tom Byrne Signs Yankee Contract

The 36-year-old southpaw, named the American League's No. 1 comeback and also first in The Associated Press poll which included all sports, compiled a 16-5 record last year after being brought up from Seattle late in the 1954 season. He also had the best percentage, .762, in the league and had a 1-1 record against Brooklyn in the World Series.

A Yankee spokesman declined to quote figures but said Byrne received a 'substantial boost."

Lightburn in Split Decision

Honduras Boxer Wins Over Joey Lopes in TV Bout

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Ludwig Lightburn, a lanky boxer from British Honduras, shrugged off a cut inside his left eyelid last night and went on to win a split decision from Joey Lopes of Sacramento, Calif.

Lightburn, ranked seventh, weighed 139¼ for his 10-round nationally televised bout against the 10-ranking man in his division. Lopes weighed 137½.

* * *

Still bouncy after the fight, Lightburn said his best blows landed on Lopes' body. Lopes, sucking on a chunk of ice in his dressing room, thought the winner did the most damage with a right uppercut to the chin.

Both Lopes and Lightburn agreed the loser's best was a second-round right to the head. "He caught me with a good one," said Lightburn.

Judge Toby Irwin scored it 58-52 and Judge Eddie James 56-54, both for Lightburn. Referee Jack Silver had it 55½-54½ for Lopes.

Artificial Snow Covers Slide for Ski Meet

Few Revisions Made for '56 Grid Rules

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—College football fans won't have to digest a new rule book to understand the game in 1956.

Chairman Fritz Crisler said that aside from a few technical matters, the 1956 rules session was the leanest for changes in the 50-year history of the organization.

The clock on free kickoffs will not start until the ball has touched the opponent team, instead of starting at the moment of the kick. This will give the receiving team valuable time to put the ball back in play, especially in the waning moments of a game.

Users of light fabric tear-away jerseys, which are a boon to breakaway runners, will pay for the privilege. Hereafter, timeout to replace will be charged to the team, not the officials.

Only when a piece of equipment is damaged to the extent that it might injure the opposing team—e.g., a dislocated shoulder pad, or an exposed cleat post, will the time out be charged to the officials.

Gained Important Decision

Makers and proponents of the rubber football gained an important decision. If a coach wants to use the rubber ball on offense, he may. Heretofore, there had to be mutual agreement between the rival coaches for the ball to be used in any situation.

Sports Auto Exhibit Begins in Dearborn

Fifty-four sports cars from all over the world went on display yesterday in the biggest single exhibit ever presented at the Henry Ford Museum in Dearborn.

Entitled "Sports Cars in Review," the exhibit will last for three weeks. Seven of the sleek models were shipped directly from European factories for premier U.S. showings.

Purpose of the review, according to planners, is to point up the development of the personal car in the past half-century. Old vehicles, as well as new, are shown alongside of each other.

Maples Keep Lead in EML

Flesser Hits With 8 Seconds Remaining to Beat Hazel Park

Birmingham and Royal Oak point to their game next Friday after each came through with Eastern Michigan League victories last night.

The Maples nipped Hazel Park 50-48 when guard John Flesser fired a one hand jump shot with eight seconds remaining to break a 48-48 tie.

Waterford Beaten; I-L in Showdown

Walled Lake and Southfield will stage a showdown in the Inter-Lakes League next Friday after both teams scored easy wins in the loop play last night.

The Vikings clobbered Van Dyke 60-32 and Southfield trimmed Berkley 59-48. A mild upset resulted at Waterford where the Skippers fell to Farmington 47-42.

Walled Lake led by center Larry Hughes with 25 points and Dick Woodworth with 14, started the parade of reserves midway in the second quarter. After a 28-20 halftime lead the Vikings cleaned the bench without fear.

The win gave Walled Lake a 4-0 mark in the league and 5-1 for the season.

Southfield had its typical slow start at Berkley. The Jays were behind 11-4 at the quarter and 26-18 at the half, but in the second half the visitors held Berkley to 22 points while scoring 41.

Four Jays hit double figures, Evans 15, Klamik 14, Filar 12 and Leighton 10. "It was one of our best played games," said coach Bob Watts.

Southfield now 3-1 in the league and 4-4 for the season. The Jays host Walled Lake next week.

* * *

Waterfore led throughout its game and saw a 12 point lead disappear in the final three minutes of play. The Skippers had a 42-34 lead in the 4th period, and when the game ended they still had 42 and Framington added 13.

Bad ball handling and court violations killed Waterford. Chuck Gillis had 24 points, and Bud Jones led Farmington with 16.

NBA Supports NY Guild Ban

CHICAGO (AP)—The National Boxing Assn.'s Executive Committee meets today with a strong possibility that the NBA will recommend backing of New York Commissioner Julius Helfand's ban against the New York Boxing Managers' Guild.

"The Helfand vs. guild subject is No. 1 on our agenda," NBA President Lou Radzienda said.

Radzienda said he expects between 15 and 20 delegates to attend today's annual session adding that he hopes all business will be completed without requiring another session Sunday.

Other items on the agenda include the rating of boxers in each classification and discussion on a new system of scoring bouts.

Four Tied in 3rd Round of Panama Open

PANAMA (AP)—Play in the $7,500 Panama Open Golf Tournament entered the third round today with four U.S. professionals tied for first place and four others within three strokes of the lead.

Trojans Nip Clarkston 66-64, to Rise in WO

Now the Trojans, 4-1, will have to prove their intentions against Milford next Friday.

It was a nip-tuck game all the way, but Clarkston could not overcome the two point lead at any time.

Northville, led by Pat Patterson's 27 points, substituted freely in whipping Holly 78-64. Twenty-two men got into the scoring for both teams.

* * *

It was the 6th straight loss for Holly after winning the season opener and Northville is now 3-2 in the league and 4-3 for the season.

* * *

Brighton snapped a 4-game losing streak by surprising West Bloomfield 58-53 in overtime on the Laker court. It was the Lakers 3rd loss in the row in WO action.

Oakland B League Cagers Go on Scoring Spree

By BRUNO L. KEARNS
Press Sports Editor

Scoring records blew sky high in the Oakland B League last night as teams and players cut the basketball net to ribbons.

* * *

At Madison, Jim Simer pushed through 53 points to lead his team to a 101-56 win over Thurston, and at Lake Orion, Jerry Paul of Avondale scored 43 points as the Yellow Jackets won 96-77.

Both team and individual scores were new school scoring records.

Simer collected his basketful on 23 field goals and seven free throws. The 6-foot forward has been averaging 28 points a game for the Eagles, and this brings his 6-game total to 188 points for a 31.3 average. The 53 points is believed to be an Oakland County individual scoring record for one game.

Paul scored his 43 points on 13 field goals and 17 charity tosses in a hot shooting game which saw seven players from the combined teams in the double figures.

* * *

Avondale got 31 points in the first quarter and at halftime it was 56-46 for the Jackets. Lake Orion stayed within five points until the final six minutes. Another record for Avondale was the 34 field goals scored by the team.

For Lake Orion Ralph McLaughlin got 25, Nick Niera 19 and Jim Drake 16.

In other league action Fitzgerald stayed unbeaten in 7 games and atop the loop by beating stubborn Roseville with a second half rally 41-32. Jim Clary led the winners with 17 and Len Martyniak got 19 for Roseville.

* * *

Thumb Loop in Deadlock as Capac Beats Armada

The Southern Thumb League was thrown into an open platter last night when Capac handed Armada its first circuit loss 63-54.

This put both teams into a 1st place tie with 5-1 records and identical 5-2 season marks.

Almont led by Larry Kersten's 24 points downed Brown City 53-41 to keep its defending title hopes alive. This will pinpoint the Capac-Almont clash next Friday.

New Haven fought off stubborn Dryden for the first half, then waltzed away in the last 16 minutes to a 42-26 win.

* * *

Dryden, in the basement with 0-6 in the Thumb, scored only two field goals of 42 shots taken in the second half.

Memphis invaded Imlay City of the South Central League and was given a 51-33 setback. Imlay led by Dorow's 15 points is now 7-1 for the season.

Michigan's Hockey Team Moves Into League Lead

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Michigan's NCAA hockey champions climbed into undisputed possession of 1st place in the Western Intercollegiate League last night, defeating Minnesota, 2-0.

The Wolverines gained the top spot as Michigan Tech knocked off North Dakota, 5-3. Michigan Tech and North Dakota are tied for 2nd place.

Garver in Tiger Fold

Your Neighbor's House

Westacres Marks 20 Years of Progress

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

"Never Let Well Enough Alone" is the title of a book by a famous industrial designer. It might well be the motto of a good many home owners who get the urge to remodel or to add on to their homes. Currently, it is the theme song of a number of Westacres residents who are remodeling their homes.

Elsewhere on this page you will see three houses in the process of being enlarged. There are others in the community also being remodeled, whose owners were not ready to have them photographed.

Twenty years of progress . . . that is the story of Westacres. Were its founder Sen. James M. Couzens, alive today, he would be proud of his brainchild. But he would scarcely recognize the community as it was when it was opened in 1936.

People who drive through the curving streets of Westacres today see a community of well-kept homes, with wide sweeping lawns, shrubs, flower gardens, and trees of all descriptions. It is a comfortable looking place, one where children thrive in great numbers.

Twenty years ago these houses were in the process of construction. Started in the fall of 1935 —in a depression year—they were ready for occupancy in the spring of 1936. The first families moved in in April. By fall all 150 homes were filled.

A descriptive brochure published in 1936 had this to say: "One hundred and fifty lots of an acre apiece have been laid out around a central commons. An attractive, well constructed, six-room cozy house, with single garage, has been built upon each acre lot. Every house has a modern kitchen, living room, three bedrooms, bathroom and a utility room equipped with furnace, hot water heater, and wash tubs. Running water, electricity and gas enter all houses."

Several different designs were used, and there is no feeling whatever of "row" housing. Under today's conditions it sounds almost unbelievable, but landscaping was included in the purchase price of the Westacres homes. In addition, eight fruit trees were planted on each lot.

The story behind all this? Michigan has long been aware of the benefits conferred upon its citizens by its philanthropic citizen, Mr. Couzens.

Couzens believed that families with low incomes should have good low-cost housing with land available to grow some of their food, and, if possible, some additional means of earning money in the community. He donated $500,000 to start a housing project and persuaded the Federal government to contribute $300,000 more.

With this $250,000 Oakland housing, a non-profit organization with public spirited citizens for directors, bought nearly 900 acres along Commerce Road in West Bloomfield Township. On some 300 of these acres they built the community of Westacres, close to Middle Straits Lake.

These houses were sold at cost to a group of specially selected families. No down payment was required, but this was not a charity proposition.

Applicants had to have a job and a good financial rating. Be between the ages of 21 and 40, and be willing to devote some time to gardening. In the beginning these homes were designed to be sold to the average working man of the time, earning around $35 a week.

A farm expert was hired to advise the residents on their gardening. For a number of years, most of them grew large quantities of vegetables. Since the end of World War II there have been few large gardens under cultivation.

To supplement depression incomes, a cement block plant was built and continued in operation for a number of years. A greenhouse supplied nursery stock; a co-op store and credit union were organized. Today, only the credit union is still in operation.

It is interesting to note that a community which began as a "residential district for workingmen" has, in twenty years, turned into a middle class, white collar community. Many of the residents today are highly skilled workers or professional men. The houses, of course, have appreciated in value. At present prices they are appraised at almost four times their original cost of $4,400.

Of the first 150 families 40 still live in Westacres. Some houses have changed hands three or four times. Two years ago 17 new homes were constructed in the area. These were put on half acre lots, but there is still a feeling of spacious living. The new houses are similar in design to the older ones.

Westacres is not a village. It does, however, have many of a village's conveniences. A volunteer fire department has reduced insurance rates. There is a branch of the West Bloomfield Township library in the clubhouse.

The clubhouse was acquired with the original acreage. During the construction period it was used as an office. When the houses were occupied, the members used the clubhouse for meeting purposes.

Many clubs were formed and are still in existence. There is a Child Study Club, several Boy and Girl Scout troops, among others. At various times church groups have met there.

One such group transferred to the Orchard Lake Church when it was reorganized not too long ago. At present, a Lutheran group meets weekly until its church, to be built nearby, is constructed.

A group of residents who work at the same place in Highland Park own and operate a private bus. Their reconditioned school bus has the most comfortable seats they could buy and install. They take turns driving while the passengers read, play cards or just snooze.

Residents who work in Pontiac and Detroit are also participating members of the larger community. They serve on the Walled Lake school board, work at polls at election time, volunteer their services in a hundred and one ways in the social and civic life of greater Pontiac.

Over the years many of the homes have been changed. It is doubtful that a stranger seeing the community for the first time would realize that the original floor plan had been used for all the houses. Larger families have necessitated additions. Basements and fireplaces have been added. Porches jut out here and there.

Some of this building is going on right now. You can see for yourself three such homes in the process of remodeling. We have visited in numerous others and marvel at the number of ways people can achieve variety.

Many of the individuals who have remodeled have done much of the work themselves. This means a time-consuming project that may take anywhere from a few months to a few years.

"Never leave well enough alone." Make it better, if possible is the American way.

Metalwork Aids Homes' Decor

Now iron and steel can be shaped and joined as easy as wood in the average home workshop. It's surprising, too, how many things there are to do around a home with metals.

A few of the many interesting possibilities of metalworking are described in a new do-it-yourself book called "Selfwelding" which shows over 80 different projects and how to make them with a new Selfwelding method.

The Selfwelding method, also described in the book, is said to eliminate a lot of the skill normally required to weld, can be used safely in a basement shop, and is well within the means and ability of the average home owner.

With this new welding method, anyone can repair his own car, garden tools, children's toys, yard furniture and household equipment.

It becomes a simple one evening project to make something like a pair of andirons, book ends, flower holders or lamps. More ambitious projects can be making items such as iron furniture, a wheelbarrow or a boat trailer.

Purchase Your Lot When Ready to Build

The time to buy a lot is when you are ready to build a house. Paying taxes for years on vacant land is not always prudent. Hunting for a modern plan to fit land that was subdivided a generation ago is not pleasant.

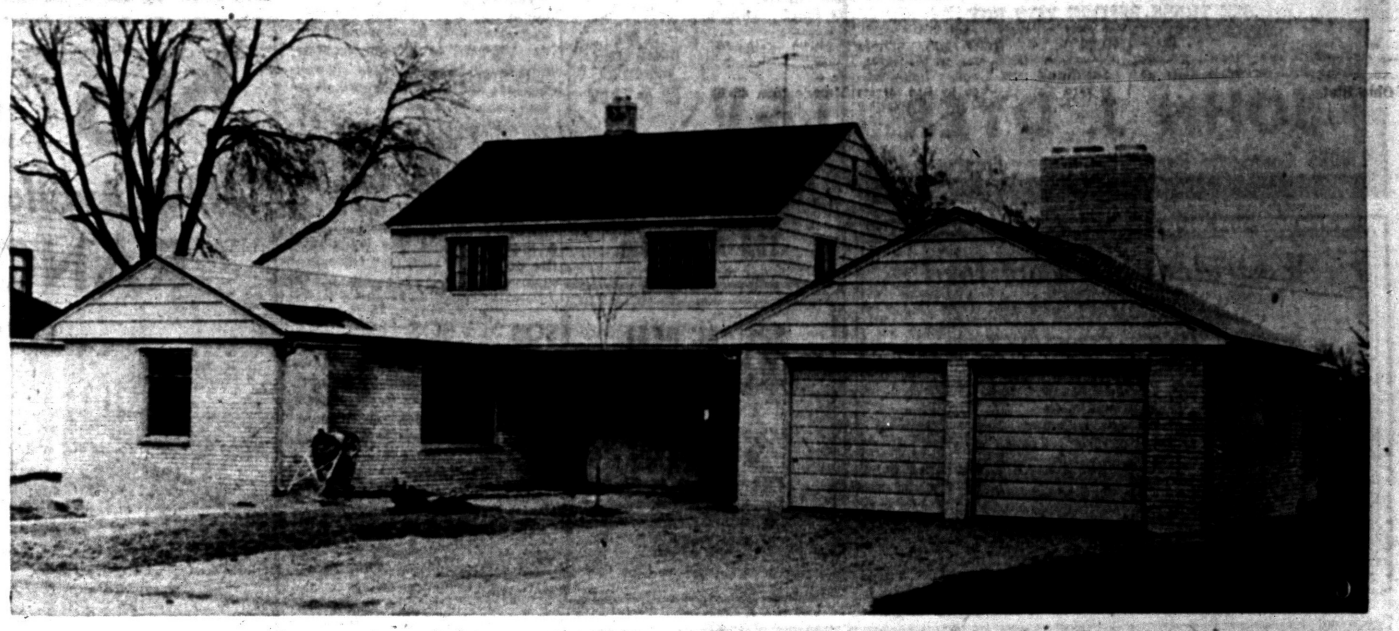
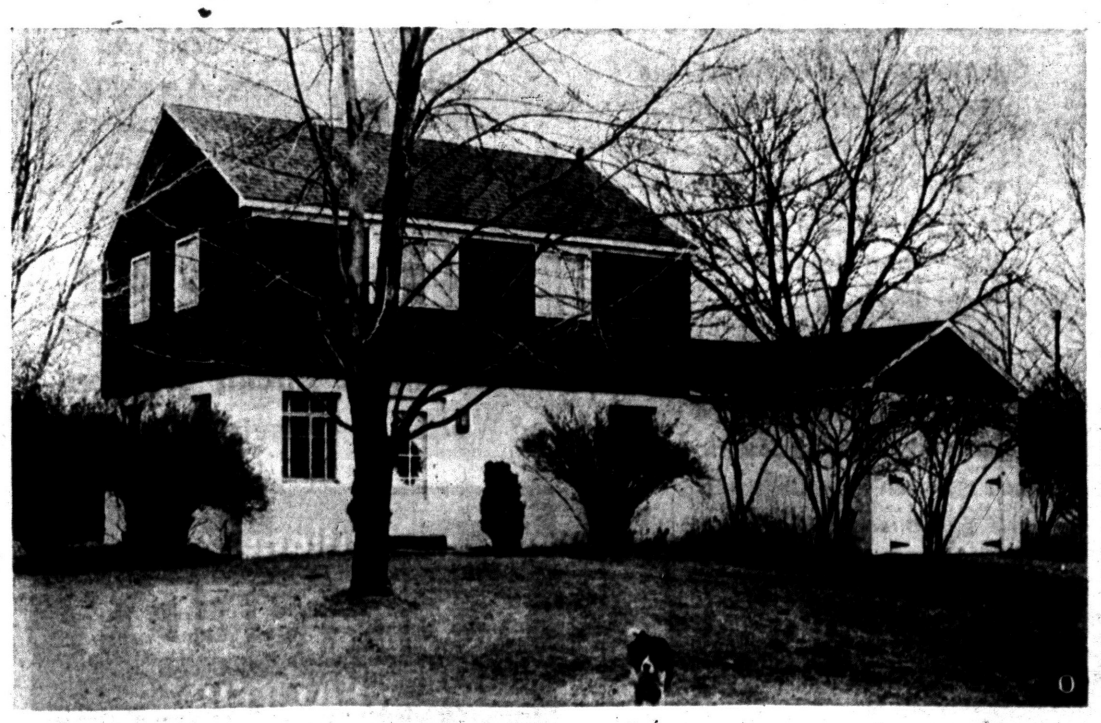
You can fit a house to its site much more easily and economically than you can grade and fit land to a house. Land planning is part of home planning.

THE RICHARD HANCOCK HOME — The Richard Hancocks on Arrowwood drive in Westacres are building an addition around the back of their original home. As newlyweds, they moved into this house in October 1936. "A sea of mud for the first winter," is the way Mrs. Hancock remembers it. The new structure adds an L-shaped porch off the living room. Screened in, this will become the family's outdoor living room for summer. The large window in the center is in the new dining room, while the shorter windows on the right are in the remodeled and enlarged kitchen. A new back entrance and an addition to the bathroom upstairs are also included in the remodeling. Gray-white Norman brick blends well with the gray shingles on the upper story. This has been a do-it-yourself year for the Hancocks, and they have concrete evidence to prove it.

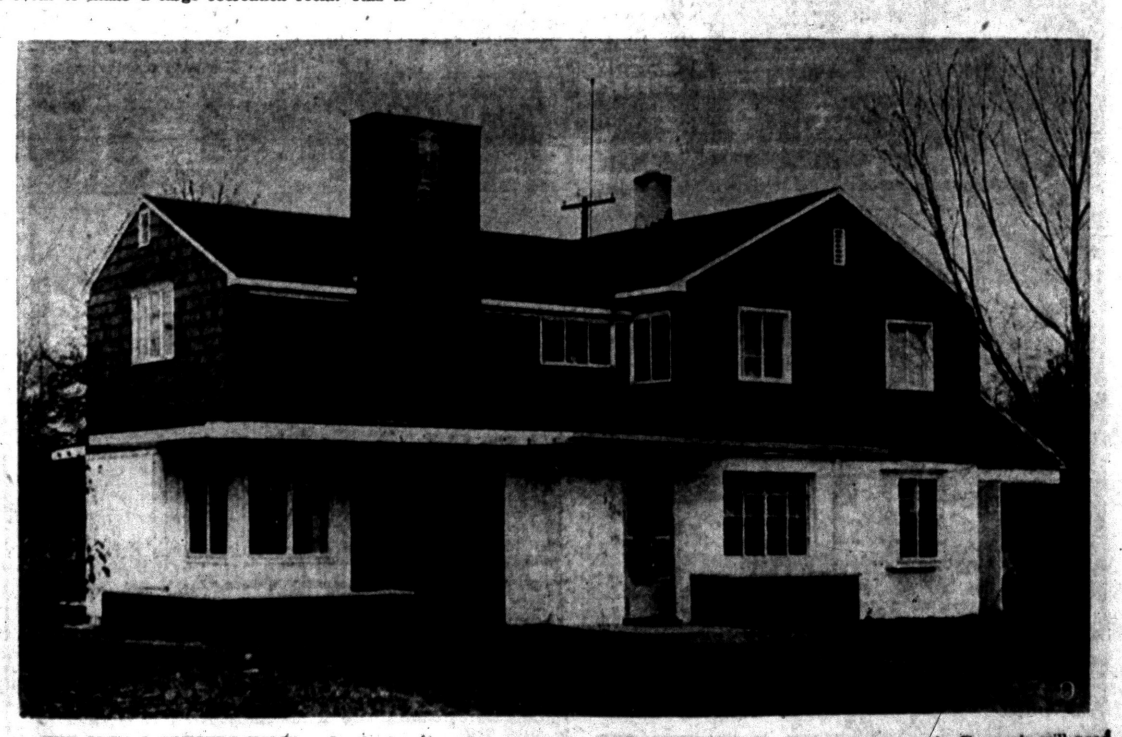
Pontiac Press Photos by Jim Mahar



THE LAWRENCE A. HEATH HOME — The Heaths who live on Lilac court are adding wings on both sides of their house. The wing to the left was the original garage which now is being converted to a 12x16 foot bedroom with a private bath. Openings in the roof will allow the planter boxes below to get both sun and rain. Behind the double garage is a new 25x17 foot living room with a fireplace and a thermopane window wall. The Heaths excavated under this room to make a large recreation room. This is reached by a semi suspended stairway which opens off the hall leading to the front door. There is no need to go through the rest of the house to reach the recreation room. Mr. Heath has been doing the work on his house himself since last April. He hopes to have it completed by March of this year. To make the old part of the second story blend with the new brick veneer, it has been covered with gray masonite siding.



THE WILLIAM D. ABERSOLD HOME — The William Abersolds who also live on Arrowwood drive are among the forty original residents still living in Westacres. They have been the only owners of this house since they purchased it in 1936 when it was brand new. They have a son in the Navy and a daughter in high school and have found the house large enough for their family. Good materials went into these homes built during depression days. The ground floor is made of 8-inch slag or concrete blocks, the second story of siding shingles. All interior walls are plaster on insulating lath. Windows are metal casements with copper screens. The roof is of asphalt slate shingles. Upkeep is easy. In this picture Sport, the family dog, keeps a watchful eye on the Press photographer to insure the safety of his home.



THE JOHN J. EMMERT HOME — On the last day of the year 1939 the Emmerts moved into their Westacres home on Winterberry drive. In May of 1955 they started excavating for an addition to it. This includes a 16½x22 foot living room with a red brick fireplace and upstairs a bedroom of the same size. The old living room becomes a library-dining room. A small bedroom adjoining the new one has become a den and is being decorated to match the larger room. With a teenage daughter and a younger son, the Emmerts will need a second living room to retire to occasionally. We had hoped to show you an interior view of this house, but illness in the family slowed down Mrs. Emmert's original plans to get her draperies made and her furniture in — in time for Christmas, at least. The addition with its wide overhang is made of white board and batten. A small terrace juts out at the rear.

New Table Mat Lists Household Measuring Data

Have you ever wanted to know how many tablespoons in an ounce, how many cups in a pint, or how much butter in a cup?

If you want the answer in front of you at all times, you can find it in a new and novel table mat.

The unique kitchen mat contains a complete list of household measurements attractively lithographed on the front of the mat. As a result, it not only protects the table and stove from hot dishes, pots, and pans, but also makes a handsome and practical decorative piece.

The mat can be suspended for use as a wall protector and decorative plaque behind the stove or sink. Grease splatters wipe off easily with a damp cloth.

The mat is decorated in a shade of delicate pink with original drawings of succulent foods interspersed around the borders. The entire decor maintains an exotic flavor.

The front of the mat is made of steel while the back side consists of an insulated filler covered by soft fireproof asbestos, which will protect fine finishes from scratches and marring. It comes in three sizes ranging from 14 by 17 inches to 18 by 20 inches.

In the long run it's economical to surface your roof decks or elevated verandas with a weatherproof, quality material that can withstand any sort of use.

Modern-Day Home Buyer Looks at House Interior

Today's home buyers are as discriminating a lot of people as ever put a broker, builder or mortgage man to the test.

* * *

Twenty-five years ago, according to findings of the Gas Appliance Manufacturers Association, buyers were attracted largely by exteriors. Most two-floor houses looked alike, and the slightest variation in outside construction got special attention and commanded a better price.

On the other hand, the present-day split level, Cape Cod and ranch homes offer a greater variety of room arrangements and tend to sharpen buyers' judgment as to the location, appearance and quality of interior equipment.

"Even ten years ago, young couples were concerned chiefly with the number of rooms or with the paint or location of switches and sockets," said Harold Massey, GAMA managing director. "Nowadays, benefiting by the education in home buying provided by the press and radio as well as by builders' groups, people of the same age enquire about building materials, space-saving construction and energy-saving facilities.

COMPACT FURNACE

"They're more interested now in cooking, heating and laundering equipment. We of the gas industry have had to move fast in new-product development to keep up with this demand."

The basementless house, he said, has given rise to the compact gas furnace or boiler as a replacement for the bulky, old-type equipment. The modern home laundry, washing machine and extra bath have speeded the development of the larger temperature-controlled gas water heaters and clothes dryers. Buyers also are attracted by gas incinerators as a solution to garbage and trash disposal problems.

The GAMA official said that, more than ever, young homeowners favor one-fuel houses, showing a preference for gas because of the economies resulting from multiple usage and because of the fact that gas is clean-burning and requires no storage.

Another trend in recent years has been toward shorter-term mortgages on new home purchases and the use of open-end mortgages to finance installation of the new appliances and equipment, Massey said.

We need your cooperation. Please do not stick your coins for the house plans to the coupon or any paper with sticky tape. It is difficult and time-consuming to detach a large number of such stuck-up coins. You can put them in a smaller envelope which you enclose in the larger outside one; or you can use a coin card. Make two slits in a piece of cardboard and stick the coin behind them.

Wax Protects, Gleams Most Coated Surfaces

A thin film of wax on a coated surface not only protects it but also gives a lustre that is highly pleasing. By renewing the wax from time to time, the underlying finish is preserved a longer time.

Wax comes in three forms: paste liquid and emulsion. The paste and liquid forms require polishing after they have dried. The emulsion type dries naturally with more or less gloss and is usually not polished. It is sometimes called "self-polishing" wax.

BIG ROOMS — Big rooms are a feature of this comfortable home. This house has no basement, only a crawl space. There are no stairs for anyone to fall down. The house has just enough attic to keep the house cool in summer and to pitch the roof for the economical use of asphalt strip singles.

House of the Week Offers Living Space at Less Cost

Many houses are spoiled by compromising to meet a price. Room sizes are shaved down. Substitute materials are sought. Yet sizable amounts of the home building budget remain earmarked for a surplus of unused space—perhaps a basement of bowling alley size and an attic big enough for all the spiders in the world.

* * *

Isn't it better to spend your home building funds on the part of the house you will live in? Design T-109 on this page shows how you can do this.

Planned by Harman H. York, nationally known specialist in house architecture, this "House of the Week" concentrates expenditures on living space. No one will ever fall down stairs in this house.

There are no stairs. There is no basement. The house is built over a crawl space—a style that has proved comfortable throughout the South and in many other sections too. There is just enough attic to keep the house cool in summer and to pitch the roof for the economical use of asphalt strip shingles.

LOOKS SOLID

Brick and stone veneer gives this house a solid and substantial appearance as well as insuring economy of upkeep. Aside from exterior trim and gable ends there is nothing outside to paint and repaint.

The two-car garage is an outstanding example of what you can have when big economies have been achieved in planning and construction. It would be rare to find a one-car family that does not regret a one-car garage. They don't think of resale value, but they're annoyed by the problem of storage—a place for bicycles, sleds, lawnmowers and other tools, garden furniture and the numerous articles you must find a place for.

Big rooms attractively and efficiently arranged distinguish this house. From the entrance foyer you walk straight ahead into a living room with a wall of windows looking out over a rear garden terrace. This room, with a massive fireplace at one end, measures 16 by 23 feet. Adjoining it is a dining room that not only is ample for a family, but large enough for gracious entertaining. Here too is a window wall facing the terrace, while sliding glass doors open at one side to a covered porch for outdoor dining.

BIGGER KITCHEN

The kitchen is bigger than a grandmother's kitchen, yet is arranged for smooth use of modern equipment in popular U-shape. A generous corner is reserved for table space.

Two bathrooms, both with built-in vanitories and one with a stall shower, serve the bedroom wing. An extra lavatory is conveniently situated near the side door with an adjoining mud closet for garden clothing.

Flexible, this plan can serve a family and still suit requirements after children have grown and departed. The third bedroom is easily converted to use as a den, television room, sewing or hobby room, when two bedrooms suffice.

The house covers 2,041 square feet, exclusive of the garage and terraces. Garage and porch construction figure at a lower rate. This square footage is the best guide for obtaining local building estimates.

Predicts House Repair Upswing

A sharp upturn in home modernization will more than offset the modest decline in new home building expected in 1956, according to a statement by R. A. Schaub, President of the National Retail Lumber Dealers Association.

"The volume of home repair and improvement which has been increasing steadily in recent years will reach an all-time high in the new year, stimulated by unprecedented promotional efforts being planned by the building industry," Schaub said.

"New housing starts may drop 100,000 or so below the 1,300,000 plus level attained in 1955 and farm building probably will not increase, but commercial construction promises to keep on at a near record level and the do-it-yourself trade will continue its amazing expansion.

"Mortgage money has been relatively plentiful in recent months and should be ample in 1956, although the supply of funds may not be evenly distributed over all areas," Schaub said.

"A feature of the new year should be a great expansion in the use of time payment financing to pay for home repairs and improvements. Many home owners do not realize that a loan of $500 to finance home improvements can be repaid over a period of 36 monttths at a rate of only $15.97 per month," he concluded.

Let the Kids Romp; Remodel Playroom

The family room doesn't have to mean noisy children's games and furious teenage entertainment. If fear of that has held you back from remodeling extra living space into a family recreation room, just don't hold back any longer. Extra durable materials like ceramic tile for floors will withstand any kind of rugged wear and still stay colorful.

You can soundproof the walls yourself. Drapes over windows, for instance, will go a long ways to absorb noise. Your children have a right to vigorous activities but the clamor doesn't have to be upsetting.

Aircraft Engineering Aids Home Furnace Efficiency

Some of the lessons learned by aircraft engineers are turning up in an unlikely place—the familiar floor furnace, which scientific air-foil design has helped convert into an efficient modern heating appliance.

• • •

The way a floor furnace functions is that air at room temperature flows down into the furnace through a "cool air chamber," then turns a sharp corner and comes up through a "warm air chamber." On its way up, it passes over a heated metal surface, where it is warmed before it flows out into the room.

These passageways now have been streamlined, according to the Coleman Company, a manufacturer. Air movement across a curved, streamlined surface is much smoother than across an angular surface. This principle is as true for a floor furnace as for the fuselage of a jet plane.

Rounding the bottom of the floor furnace to do away with all sharp angles has increased the flow of warm air as much as 35 per cent.

DUAL WALL

A floor furnace fits under the floor in a house, where it is concealed except for the register at floor level. A dual-wall model fits under a wall, with a register on each side of the wall for direct distribution of heat into two rooms.

Floor furnaces are made to burn either gas or oil. Heat output can be controlled by manual regulation of the burner or by automatic controls that operate from a wall thermostat.

• • •

One floor furnace will comfortably heat a small home. Larger homes require two or more units. A multiple installation gives zone heating, in which one area of the houe can be kept at a different temperature from other areas. For instance, bedrooms that are little used during the day can be kept at a lower temperature than the living area. This conserves fuel.

FREE FLOW—Drawings show how hidden streamlining improves the air flow essential to efficient heating by a floor furnace. Top drawing indicates freely flowing air in a modern furnace with a rounded bottom. Bottom drawing shows old-fashioned furnace with a square-cornered bottom that restricts circulation.

Self-Spray Container Facilitates Painting

The makers of BPS paint products have just announced a new self-spray container for use by the do-it-yourself person for those odd jobs about the home, which mothers and mothers-to-be will more than appreciate for redecorating those kiddies' rooms.

It is a non-toxic enamel, dries to a high gloss in a very short time, and is absolutely safe for use on children's furniture, toys, beds, cribs, play pens, and in a hundred and one places about the home.

One of the advantages to the use of this spray container, of course, is that it is easy to reach those hard-to-reach places where a brush or roller made painting an absolute job. The colors in which these new self-spray paints are available match exactly other enamels in the line so quantities in the same colors are unlimited.

In addition, BPS paint dealers have the new Clear Coating which, is ideal for use on making copper and brass tarnish resistant — for use on hardware, wood and leather where a clear, transparent finish is desired.

Silverware Anti-Tarnish Now Can Be Sprayed On

Du Pont has developed an anti-tarnish coating for silverware that can be applied by spray from a push-button aerosol can. The company says the aerosol formulation is based on vinyl polymer and propellent.

It coats the silverware with a permanent protection that can be removed with soap and water before the silver is used again. The tough and pliable film is insoluable in water alone, and it keeps out air and fumes that cause tarnish.

10,000 Gallon Pool Made for Mobility

NEW YORK (AP) — Maybe you don't think so today, but it won't be long before you are going to be thinking about swimming. So here are a couple of new products to help you dream about next summer.

A swimming pool that you can dig up and take with you when you move is made out of vibrin polyester resin and glass fibers. The 10,000 gallon pool consists of four large sections that are bolted together in an oval shape and lowered into the ground.

The pool is surrounded by a concrete apron and measures 15 by 30 feet. It has a smooth white finish, and it won't shatter, dent or rust. Installation time is four days, and the cost is about half that of poured concrete.

A float four by seven feet for your swimming pool or for use at the beach can double as a picnic table. It is made of styrofoam plastic and aluminum, and its 46 pounds will support 750 pounds in the water.

Walls Hotter, Colder

The biggest heat loss in winter and the greatest heat infiltration in summer comes through the walls of a home. Heating and air conditioning experts estimate that 40 per cent more heat enters through the walls in summer and escapes in winter than it does SIMPLE ROOM DIVIDER — With open or closed shelves, this attractive kitchen-dinette divider occupies little floor space, yet provides ample storage. Its construction is simple enough for a handy man to complete it in a weekend.

Dinette-Divider Assembled During Weekend Time

Among the favorite weekend building projects wives reserve for handy-man husbands are storage-type room dividers. It's easy to see why. In today's popular boiled-down version of a home, room dividers eat up little precious floor space, yet can be built to provide much needed storage room.

Here's one designed to set kitchen and dinette apart — which it does well, throwing additional countertop space into the bargain. Its design is simple, construction simpler still. You can make it entirely of standard 1x12-, 1x10- and 1x4-inch lumber.

Length of the divider will depend upon the size of the room, but the overall height should be about 36 inches. Briefly, this is how it's put together:

One end of the divider is attached to the wall, using 10-penny common nails driven into a stud. Its base—a framework of 1x4's set on edge — is toenailed to the floor and fastened to both ends of the divider with screws. Shelves, their supports and countersop are attached with 8-penny finishing nails and metal corner braces beneath each shelf.

Fastening an end panel to the wall is a matter of either finding a stud behind the plaster or wallboard and nailing the 1x10 board to it, or of using toggle bolts. Nails or bolts should be so spaced that they will be hidden by the shelves.

So that the end board will fit snugly against the wall, it may be necessary to cut out a section of baseboard or molding at the base of the wall.

Now, put together the rectangular base frame of 1x4's next, using 8-penny finishing nails. Outside width of the frame should equal that of the 1x10 end boards —about 9½ inches, actually.

Next, attach one end of base frame to the wall-mounted board, using three 1¼-inch screws. Toenail the opposite end to the floor with 6-penny common nails—one on the inside and one on the outside of the end. Basic assembly is done when you've fastened the divider's other end board to the base frame with screws (drive them through the base into the end board). Shelving comes next.

Assemble lower shelf to lower support by nailing through the bottom of the shelf into the bottom of the support. Savvy? Set this subassembly in place on the base frame and drive 8-penny finishing nails through top of shelf into framework.

Assemble the other two shelves and their supports in the same way. Set each unit in place, level, and attach to each end and to the support below with metal corner braces. Do the same with the 1x12 countertop, which should overlap equally on all sides of the divider.

As now constructed, the divider will serve as an open-shelf partition, but you can make changes or additions to suit your own needs. For example, you might enclose it by adding a plywood panel on the one side and cabinet doors on the other. It you'd like a larger countertop, make it of hardwood plywood or of fir plywood with a laminated-plastic surface added. An electric outlet could be installed in a convenient place on the divider.

Sandpaper the finished product, set visible nail heads and fill them with wood putty, and paint or stain and varnish "to taste," as they say in cookbooks.

Don't . . . try to widley recommended method of a hot iron and a damp cloth to eliminate dents; it works only on new wood and wood from which all the finish has been removed.

New Anti-Tarnish Made for Coating Silverware

The Hamilton Watch Co. of Lancaster, Pa., has a wrist watch that gives the time in each of the four time zones in the United States and in Greenwich, England, the place where time begins.

The time where you are is told by the conventional hour and minute hands, and the time in the other places is given by a black and different kinds of hot broth.

rotating dial on the face of the watch. The watch is designed for travelers and businessmen whose interests circle the globe.

How About That!

You remember those water fountains that give both hot and cold water? Well, there is an attachment that provides the do-it-yourself ingredients for preparation of such things as coffee, chocolate,

Home Repairs Dos and Don'ts Aid Furnishings

DO...get an excellent and durable finish on new wood—or wood from which the old finish has been removed—with a mixture of two parts of boiled linseed oil and one part of turpentine.

DO...apply the mixture with a clean paint brush or cloth, going over it very lightly a second time with a dry rag to remove any excess oil.

• • •

DO...wait about 30 minutes, then rub with a piece of felt wrapped around a block of wood.

DO...rub for as long as you want—or can—for it is the amount of friction generated that produces the satin-like appearance of this type of finish.

• • •

DON'T...forget that this finish, while it darkens the wood very slightly, does not hide the grain and therefore is especially good on wood with an attractive grain.

• • •

DON'T...overlook putting the mixture on the unseen part of the wood (such as the underside of a table top), although in this case the heavy rubbing schedule is not necessary.

• • •

DON'T...expect this finish — or any other — to produce a smooth result unless the surface of the wood has been made smooth before you start.

Much modern millwork is delivered to the construction job with the priming coat already applied by a dipping process.

Wants to Use U.S. Funds to Sue the Government

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Federal Judge Ben C. Connally ruled you can't force the government to pay $15 so you can sue it to collete a refund of $1.20 on your income tax.

A convict in the Texas prison filed a petition to collect the $1.20, and along with it a pauper's oath that he couldn't pay the $15 filing fee.

Connally said if the man wanted to sue, he'd have to pay the fee.

Ever Think of This

A man's home is his castle, but a child's castle is his room—that is, if it's his very own. Around the age of three the child begins taking a real interest in having a room of his own, with his own things in it. For years after, until he leaves home, the room will be many things to him—all of them good if he is given a free hand in fixing it up the way he wants. He should be urged to make choices regarding the room's furnishings and design as well as the basic materials which go into the room.

Find Supports Legend of Fish Attacking Ships

BUXTON, N.C. (AP) — Ray Scarborough found the sword of a swordfish in a piece of eight-inch piling and thereby lent some credence to an ancient legend.

The legend has it that wooden ships sailing into the harbour used to be attacked by swordfish. Sailors would exhibit holes and sometimes bits of the sword to prove their story. The part of the fish left in the piling, Scarborough found is about eight inches long.

Recent inquiries among families looking for new homes show that most of them like the idea of a small dining nook off the kitchen where breakfast and quick snacks can be had with very little trouble.

Helpful Addition

There is no need to get too hot or cold with a new automatic control for your shower bath. The control operates on a thermostatic principal, like your furnace or air conditioner. You set the control dial, and from there on the temperature and water pressure of the shower remains the same. If cold water supply fails or if hot water gets over 110 degrees, the shower is automatically shut off as a safety measure.

CONVERTIBLE SOFA — At a press of a switch, this Hydramatic Convertible Sofa converts into a full-size bed. The sofa contains a small, efficient power unit similar to that used with a convertible automobile top. The mechanism, using current from a wall plug, folds 200 pounds of bed out of sight or converts the sofa into a bed in 18 seconds. Retail prices will be around $400, including foam rubber cushions.

Color Is but a Sensation Produced on Eye's Retina

So far as is known, nothing on earth has color in or of itself. Light is the source of color. Color is a sensation produced by the action of visible rays upon the retina of the human eye. It is an impression taken into the mind through the sense of sight, responding to the wave lengths of light.

Paint pigments in themselves have no color, but the peculiarity of a particular pigment determines what color wave length it reflects to the eye. Thus it may be said that an object possesses a certain color because of the response excited by a pigment which selectively reflects red, green, blue or another hue.

Get to the Source

One of the most logical and practical ways to reduce excessive and damaging moisture in a house is to eliminate the moisture at its source. Sometimes this can be accomplished by draining the building site. Other important means of moisture control consist of promptly repairing all leaks, of venting appliances to the chimney or outdoors, or of covering exposed earth under a house with waterproofed concrete or heavy coated roll roofing.

You can remove spots from "party" china by rubbing a little salt on the stains.

Ever Think of This?

Half a dozen large, light-weight metal trays can be a great help during an indoor repainting project—particularly if you're re-doing the kitchen, dining room or bath. Unload the contents of a shelf or drawer onto a tray and carry it away from the scene of your painting project. While your paint is drying, this tray-system makes it easy to weed out unwanted items and reorganize others.

New Building Materials Enter Home Construction

A vast array of new building materials may lie just over the horizon, the National Association of Home Builders said today.

They are expected to come, NAHB said, from the giants of the chemical industry and other large corporations who foresee a highly profitable, continuing market for new products in the present and future activities of the home building industry. A number already have quietly put their tremendous research facilities to work on new materials, many in the field of plastics, which could result in significant changes in the homes of the future.

The home building industry, which in 1955 completed its 10 millionth postwar home, anticipates an annual market for 1.2 to 1.3 million new homes until around 1965. Then, to keep pace with a sharp upturn in family formation, the result of the postwar "baby boom," the housing output should soar to 1.7 to 2 million units a year and the dollar volume from the present $14.6 billion to about $20 billion.

This outlook, based on government and industry figures, has not been lost on the nation's large corporative enterprises.

Industrial experts believe the new materials will come on the market gradually. Ordinarily there is a lengthy lapse of time between the conclusion of the laboratory work on a new product and its general acceptance by the public. During the interim, many firms field-test the new product — an operation frequently carried out in conjunction with the NAHB Research Institute.

For the immediate future, NAHB construction specialists expect to see more attention paid to "sound conditioning" in homes, as well as a considerable expansion of the trend towards air conditioning. Standardization of the component parts of the house—closets, doors, windows and the like — as well as off-site prefabrication will be stepped up and there will be better use made of glass.

Increased attention will be paid to house design, both exterior and interior. More and more builders not only are employing services of competent architects, but are giving the architects more latitude in their designs.

Furthermore, a good many development builders now are employing color experts to work out harmonious color schemes for an entire subdivision instead of making the selections themselves more or less on an individual house basis. Both inside and outside the house home buyers are going to find more interesting combinations of colors, textures and materials for diversification and better aesthetic effects.

Saves Much Work

When painting near a floor or a ceiling, you'll find that a paint guard is quite helpful. You can obtain such a paint guard at your dealer's or can use a stiff piece of non-absorbent cardboard. Wipe off the edge of your guard frequently so that it won't smear the surface that's a different color.

Use Wood, Plastic Film to Build Greenhouse

You can build a greenhouse out of wood and polyethylene film at a cost of 1-6 to 1-20 that of a greenhouse of masonry, metal and glass, according to the Bakelite Co. of New York. The wooden frame is covered with sheets of polyethylene .002 inches thick on the outside and another sheet .0015 inches thick on the inside of the frame.

That provides a dead air space for insulation. The plastic film won't crack under winter cold, is waterproof and resists acids and alkalies in the soil. The plastic film can be replaced annually at low cost, the company says.

SMALL BEDROOM — Here's proof that a small bedroom can be cheerful and comfortable. Heavy white cotton cord is knotted sailor-fashion and stitched in scallops to the washable brown corduroy throw, pillow cover and cornice. Walls and heavyweight cotton fishnet curtains are pale gold. The net is pre-shrunk and permanently finished. A length of the fishnet, gathered at each end and hung on the wall, is meant to hold odds and ends. Pictures are prints mounted on fishnet glued to cardboard and framed with pasted-down cotton cord. The rug is light brown.

Basement Door May Save Lives

"You may never be trapped in the basement of a blazing home, but it is a grim possibility which must be faced," says Mr. Rohde.

"Many homes have but a single means of access to the basement and that is through a section of the structure which could very well be the site of fire. The average basement window is so small as not to afford a means of escape.

Rohde says an intelligently planned and used basement not only increases the comfort and efficiency of the home but adds to its value.

"The basement is the least costly and most versatile room in the house," he adds.

"It is poor economics to permit it to remain a dark, dusty catch-all when with a little planning it can be made as cheery and accessible as any room in the house."

Don't talk to anybody while operating a power saw; if somebody comes into your workshop, turn off the saw immediately.

Lacquer Will Protect Aluminum Windows

Most aluminum windows are given a protective coating which is resistant to alkaline mortar and plaster. Frequently used for this purpose is a clear, water-white methacrylate type of lacquer.

When the windows are installed, this clear lacquer coat allows the adjoining mortar and plaster to dry without any chemical effect upon the aluminum, and permits the easy removal of any overruns or splashes of the materials from the exposed surfaces of the windows. The protective lacquer coat is applied in the plant where the aluminum sash and frames are made.

Water Glasses Gaily Decorated With Book Titles

NEW YORK (INS) — If you can afford to drink out of cut crystal goblets, that's nice—but if you can't afford them, there are other attractive glasses on the market for less money.

One set of tall glasses, which are priced at $7.95 for a set of eight, are gaily decorated in red and gold with the titles of various famed romantic books.

Around each glass are arranged a pattern of books with such titles as Romeo and Juliet, Camille, Madame Bovary and Anna Karenina. Just the thing for the girl who wants to inspire that special guy with thoughts of great loves.

If you've got the urge to travel, there's a short, squat shaped set of eight selling for $8.50 and decorated in gold, teal blue and white with scenes of Venice or London's famed Big Ben.

If you're more the intellectual, they come in either the tall or squat shape and have chess pieces for their pattern. The figures are done so that light can shine through them in a stained-glass window effect.

Indefinite Increase

WASHINGTON (INS)—How big is the market for homes in the U. S.? Terrific, say housing economists. Despite production of more than 10 million new homes and apartments since the end of World War II, the economists see the nation's home builders producing better than a million dwellings a year almost indefinitely.

New Deauville Chair

Chairs, as well as people, are "thinned down" these days to svelt lines, according to a recent survey in the furniture industry. But the new streamlined chairs, "bulk", supply an even greater measure of comfort and convenience, manufacturers report.

Typical is a new Deauville chair, by Troy Sunshade Company, adapted from a chair introduced over 25 years ago. The back of the chair has been whittled down to graceful proportions, providing ample comfort — and more convenience in carrying the piece from place to place on porch or patio.

Ireland's Kellys Give Grace Praise . . . Advice

COUNTY MAYO, Ireland (AP) — Grace Kelly might like to know that her cousins in the ould Sod heartily approve of her marriage to Prince Rainier of Monaco.

PROUD OF ROMANCE

Some are ready with advice, like Kate, 53, a widow who has a son in the United States — "I do hope she gives up films. Home life first."

Maura Kelly, only 27 but already the mother of seven children, said "Grace has good Mayo blood in her. It's enough."

* * *

Among the colleens and young men in Mayo there's a bit of envy evident.

* * *

Kathleen, the same age, retorted:

"Yes, and I wish we had a prince or two around here."

Red China, U.S. Meet Proposed by Japanese

KUMAMOTO, Japan (AP) — The chairman of Japan's Socialist party said today he will propose a meeting between U. S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and Chou En-lai, premier of Red China, when Dulles visits Japan, probably in March.

Mosburo Suzuki also told a news conference Japan's Socialist party will not hesitate to "act as intermediary," if required, for a China and Naionalis China.

Very Costly Urge

ROCHDALE, England (INS) — Damage by fire to a storehouse was $56, the local court was told during an arson trial, but damage by the water sprinkler system was $28,000. John Joseph Pybus, 22, was remanded to another court after he told the Rochdale magistrates "something came into my mind urging me to set fire to the storehouse and several other things."

Sees A-Cleaned Meat in Future

Reliable Sterilization by Irradiation Far Off, Says UM Doctor

EAST LANSING (AP)—A University of Michigan doctor said that it might be sometime before atomic irradiation of meat is a "fool-proof sterilization techinque."

Speaking at a conference on radioactive isotopes in agriculture, Dr. Lloyd L. Kempe told an audience at Michigan State University that the field is still in the experimental stages.

Dr. Kempe, an associate professor at the University of Michigan medical school, reported on some of the finding of the department of bacteriology in treating meat.

A moderate amount of irradiation, some 40,000 REP, is needed, he said, to significantly reduce bacteria in ground meat. A REP is a unit of atomic dosage.

BACTERIA TESTS

Comparison was even made between regular meat from a butcher shop and other specimens that were deliberately injected with bacteria. After five days of cold storage, Dr. Kempe said, both specimens went bad when the irradiation was under 20,000 REP.

Above that REP level, however, he said, there was no indication of spoilage after 13 days, indicating "that the refrigerated storage life of ground beef can be extended approximately one week by irradiation from 40,000 to 80,000 REP of gamma rays from cobalt 60."

Finally, he said, "our present information indicates that sterilizing food automatically may be the equivalent to killing flies with a sledge hammer; the method can be highly effective, but only practical in unusual situations.

In Memoriam 2

IN LOVING MEMORY OF OUR husband and father, Chas. T. Lange who passed away 8 years ago Jan. 15, 1947. Sadly missed by wife Mrs. Edith Lange and family.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF BERNAdette Harradine, who passeu away 1 year ago January 14, 1955. Sadly missed by daughter Patti, Kent, and Granddaughters.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF BARbara Jean Thompson, who passed away 6 years ago today, January 13, 1950.
No stain was on her little heart,
Sin had not entered there;
And innocence slept sweetly on that pale white brow so fair.
She was too pure for this cold earth, too beautiful to stay.
And so God's Holy Angel bore our darling one away.

Upcoming TV Programs Appeal to Varied Tastes

By CHARLES MERCER

* * *

(All times are Eastern.)

Drama — In "Blithe Spirit" Noel Coward costars in his own play with Lauren Bacall, Claudette Colbert and Mildred Natwick. There's much hilarity when Charles Condomine (Coward), properly married to his second wife Ruth (Miss Colbert), discovers that his mischievous — and dead — first wife (Miss Bacall) has returned as a ghost. Miss Natwick as Madame Arcati, a spiritualist medium, almost stole the play when she appeared in the role on Broadway. Ford Star Jubilee (CBS-TV), tonight at 9:30.

FORD ART LOVERS

* * *

Opera — "The Magic Flute" by Mozart has been given a new English libretto by poets W. H. Auden and Chester Kallman. In the two-hour televised version Tamino (William Lewis, tenor) finally frees his love, Pamina (Leontyne Price, soprano) from imprisonment with the aid of the magic flute. NBC Opera Theater (NBC-TV) Sunday, 3:30 p.m.

FASCINATING CRIME

History — In one of history's most fascinating crimes four Americans bilked the Bank of England of a fortune in the 1870s. In "The Great Forgery" the principal thief is Hal March, who on The $64,000 Question customarily is giving money away. Omnibus (CBS-TV) Sunday, 5 p.m.

* * *

Movies — In the steady effort to improve daytime TV programs on week days, ABC-TV enters the lists next Monday with a new series of two-hour British films. The opener is a top-drawer Alfred Hitchcock thriller, 'The Lady Vanishes," starring Michael Redgrave, Margaret Lockwood and Paul Lukas. Afternoon Film Festival (ABC-TV), Monday, 3 p.m.

Errol Flynn Arrives to 'Nice' Welcome

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—After many years abroad, actor Errol Flynn returned to Hollywood and an enthusiastic welcome by his ex-wife's attorneys.

* * *

The actor was promptly served yesterday with a contempt citation in a child support case. Ex-wife Nora Eddington claims he is $4,325 in arrears. The citation directs Flynn to appear Jan. 27 in Santa Monica Superior Court.

* * *

20 Killed, 16 Injured in Sweden Rail Crash

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP)—Twenty persons—including 10 school children—died yesterday in the crash of a two-coach passenger train and a freight train in central Sweden. Sixteen persons were injured.

Authorities said the ore-laden freight ran out of control, apparently after a brake failure, and smashed into the passenger train near Stalldalen.

William Dowell, for six years the "wisperer" in the Wispering Gallery of St. Paul's Cathedral in London, has transferred to a quieter guide role in the cathedral crypt.

'I Love Those Horses,'

NEW YORK (AP) — A 13-year-old girl has promised to behave—which includes taking no more horses and buggies.

The girl, not identified, made off Tuesday with a steed and wagon belonging to a Bronx stable. She was captured minutes later by a police car.

* * *

In children's court yesterday, Justice Harold J. Crawford asked the girl why she did it.
