

Revolution in Iraq Shocks State Department

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower, Vice President Richard M. Nixon, and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles held a lengthy emergency meeting today on the revolt in Iraq. The President summoned Democratic and Republican congressional leaders to the White House today for a 1:30 p.m. EST meeting.

There was no advance indication what steps the President was considering. However, it was reported, events were "moving fast" and major developments with regard to the Middle East might be expected in the next day or so.

Informed sources disclosed that the State Department's own inside dispatches indicated that the situation was even worse than appeared from news accounts.

Officials were shocked today at the lightning military coup which overthrew King Faisal's pro-Western Iraq government.

Worried officials clearly regarded the revolt as a major development which could set off new, far-reaching repercussions in other Middle East countries.

Iraq is a cornerstone of the anti-Communist Baghdad Pact.

Cables from Ambassador Waldemar Gailman reported that Iraq army tanks had been deployed around the U.S. Embassy in Baghdad to protect the embassy and its personnel.

Iraq is the only Arab state unashamedly and legally bound to the West by treaty ties, as a member of the Baghdad Pact with Britain, Pakistan, Turkey and Iran.

The United States, although not a member of the alliance, supports it and is a member of its leading committees.

The immediate diplomatic reaction in London was that failure by the West to come to the aid of the legal Iraqi government almost certainly would spell the end of Western influence throughout the Arab world.

All signs suggest that the Iraqi army plot was cunningly timed and long prepared.

Both in Iraq and Jordan there had been for some time much suppressed hostility against the pro-Western policies of the Baghdad and Amman governments.

In recent weeks there had been evidence of mounting tension between Iraq and Syria.

Restrictions on travel along and across the borders of the two countries had been made more stringent.

For the past three weeks all foreigners — which meant mainly Syrians, some Egyptians and some Palestinian Arabs — had been barred from approaching Iraq's border areas, military camps and all oil installations.

William L. Ryan, AP Foreign News Analyst, writes from Belgrade, that Iraq's revolution can be the beginning of the worst of all crises for the Middle East.

It carries a real danger to world peace.

If King Hussein of Jordan is to survive the overthrow of his Iraqi cousin Faisal, he will need massive support from the outside.

If he gets that support, the Middle East will become a cockpit for a deep world political crisis.

But if the Iraqi revolution is made to stick, its effects also will be felt far beyond Jordan.

If the Iraqi revolution, therefore, consolidates itself, the real payoff crisis in the Middle East is at hand.

They Walk Here No More

public was established. Reports said Illah was beaten to death by a mob and his body dismembered and burned. He had served as regent until Faisal came of age in 1953 and still was regarded as the real power in the palace.

Report Adams Will Quit Draws Silence in Capital

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Detroit newspaper, quoting unnamed top-ranking Republican sources, said Sherman Adams plans to quit his presidential assistant's job during Labor Day weekend.

Its copyrighted story said the decision to quit is Adams' own, not that of President Eisenhower.

HAGERTY SILENT

White House press secretary James C. Hagerty declined to comment on the report. Adams himself was not available to newsmen.

The paper said details of Adams' reported plans to leave are still being worked out.

It noted that the timing it gave would be after Congress adjourns but still two months before the November elections.

In the absence of any new evidence to link Adams with Goldfine, Eisenhower has given every indication he regards the matter as closed.

STANDS ON STATEMENT

In the public record, he is standing on his statement that although Adams was imprudent, he is convinced of his aide's honesty and integrity and needs him as chief assistant.

Secretary of Interior Fred Seaton apparently is the overwhelming choice of congressional Republicans to succeed Adams—if Adams should quit.

In his Cabinet job, Seaton has been highly cooperative with senators and House members where it was possible for him to help out with their problems.

He also has the reputation of being able to say "no"—when he has to—in soft language that turns away their wrath.

Adams, on the other hand, has been known as a rather flinty "no" man.

And that obviously has contributed to the unwillingness of many Republicans to defend the presidential aide in the controversy over his acceptance of expensive favors from Bernard Goldfine, millionaire Boston industrialist.

Has No Plan for Starting Tax Inquiry on Goldfine

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Wilbur Mills (D-Ark) said today he has no present plan to start a tax inquiry involving Bernard Goldfine, gift-giving friend of presidential aide Sherman Adams.

Mills heads the Ways and Means Committee, which handles tax questions.

Rep. Oren Harris (D-Ark), chairman of the Commerce subcommittee now checking Goldfine's tangled financial affairs, disclosed yesterday he had talked to Mills "with reference to any possible income tax evasion."

Harris said his inquiry is limited to how regulatory agencies carry out the law. His subcommittee has brought out that Goldfine charged items like hotel bills for Adams as business expenses.

Both Goldfine and Adams have pictured Goldfine's favors for Eisenhower's top aide as acts of friendship.

But Harris' investigators say if that's true, then Goldfine's gifts could not properly have been de-

Auburn Heights Tot Drowns in Big Lake

A three-year-old Auburn Heights girl drowned last night in Big Lake when she fell from a dock at her parents' cottage into 2½ feet of water, according to Oakland County Sheriff's Deputies.

Lorna Denise Brockman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Brockman, of 150 Juniper St., was found about five feet off the end of a 25-foot long dock behind the family cottage at 6095 Hillsboro St., Springfield Township.

The parents told deputies they had lost track of her only moments before she apparently wandered onto the dock.

Expects Rebels in Cuba to Free 29 GIs Today

U.S. Consul Wollam Sends Hopeful Note From Oriente Province

GUANTANAMO, Cuba (AP)—Cuban rebels were expected to begin releasing their 29 captive American servicemen this afternoon after holding them more than two weeks.

The evacuation from the rebels' isolated mountain camps may take four days or more.

Word of the anticipated release came from U.S. Consul Park Wollam, who has been dicker with Fidel Castro and his lieutenants in the mountains of Oriente province for the captives' return.

"We are hopeful all will be released," Wollam messaged Rear Adm. Robert B. Ellis, commander of the big American naval base on Guantanamo Bay where the prisoners were stationed.

Twenty-eight of the sailors and Marines were kidnaped June 26 on a bus ride through the Cuban countryside and two more were grabbed near the base. One of the latter has been returned.

Ellis said he was not sure how many men would be freed today.

The captives have been the only foreign aircraft allowed to fly over rebellious Oriente province by President Fulgencio Batista's government.

The rebels' reported decision to start freeing the servicemen appeared to indicate they have given up hope the kidnappings would help them wheedle concessions from the United States.

They had been seeking recognition as genuine belligerents—instead of unorganized revolutionaries—and hoped this might lead to a promise that American aid to President Fulgencio Batista's government would be shut off.

C. of C. Hails High Success of Water Follies

Still totting up total attendance and ticket sales, Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce officials today termed "highly successful" the three-day appearance here of the Water Follies of 1958.

Estimating that roughly 10,000 to 11,000 tickets were sold, chamber manager John W. Hirlinger believed the event was "especially successful in providing a community get-together."

"The Chamber has long felt that we need a summertime activity here to bring people together, and that is why it undertook to sponsor the follies as the first in what we hope will become an annual festival, stressing Pontiac's role as a water recreation center," said Hirlinger.

The follies last night completed its fifth and final performance at Winder Stadium.

Clamp Continuous Curfew on Terror-Gripped Cyprus

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP)—A round-the-clock curfew was clamped on Cyprus today to halt mounting communal warfare between Greek and Turkish Cypriots. Terror gripped the island.

The British governor, Sir Hugh Foot, ordered all persons to stay in their homes until further notice except civil servants and essential public workers.

It was the most drastic security move since the shootings, bombings, ambushes and riots began on this Mediterranean island three years ago.

The Greeks and Turks here have been fighting each other since June 8, ever since the word got out that the new British plan for the island would not satisfy the Greek majority's desire to unite with Greece.

Three From Area Killed in Separate Road Mishaps

Three area persons were killed over the weekend in traffic accidents and a fourth is in serious condition.

Edward R. Mason 47, of 1005 Northlawn St., Birmingham, died three hours after his car hit a bridge on the New York State Thruway, near Syracuse, late Saturday.

His wife Gloria suffered a fractured skull, broken right leg and right arm and internal injuries.

The couple, on vacation, were injured when their car went out of control while passing another. Mason was an engineer in Chrysler Corp.'s research on gas turbine engines.

They had left Friday on the vacation trip after taking their two daughters, 1½ and 3½ years old, to stay with Mason's mother in Grayling.

DIES CROSSING ROAD

Billy Atkinson, 7, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Atkinson, of 7847 Romeo Plank Rd., Romeo, was killed Saturday when struck by an automobile while crossing U.S. 2, 15 miles west of St. Ignace.

He was camping with his parents in the sand dunes area.

The third fatality occurred Sunday when Reginald Wooster, 39, of 1086 N. Saginaw St., Lapeer, died of injuries received when he was thrown out of his car after losing control on a curve.

The accident occurred Saturday on M21 and Harsen, five miles west of Lapeer.

'Oops, Wrong Pocket

MILAN, Italy (UPI)—A pickpocket who lifted Adamo Degli's wallet in a bus gave it back several minutes later when he recognized Degli as the lawyer who obtained his acquittal on a pickpocket charge two months ago. "I apologize, sir, for not having recognized you, but that bus was just too crowded," Degli quoted the pickpocket as saying.

King Faisal's Fate Remains Unknown

Fearful Coup Perils Baghdad Pact With Western Powers

From Our News Wires

An Army group overthrew the pro-Western government of Iraq today and deposed King Faisal in a coup d'etat that may have wrecked the Baghdad Pact, Mideast broadcasts reported.

King Hussein proclaimed himself head of the Arab Union of Jordan and Iraq today.

A communique issued at the Royal Palace in Amman said that according to the Arab Union constitution and due to the absence of King Faisal of Iraq, Hussein had taken over powers as head of the Arab Federation as from today.

The communique said Hussein also has taken over as commander in chief of all armed forces of the Federation.

Hussein, addressing his people by radio, asked that reports concerning the fate of certain members of the royal family in Iraq be treated with reservation. There was no clear word as to the fate of Faisal.

Semi-official reports reaching Tehran claimed the rebels were in control of most of Iraq by midday.

Being Readied for Heart Surgery

Girl, 6, to Fight for Life

By REBA HEINTZELMAN

Six-year-old Linda Forbes of Waterford Township went into Ford Hospital in Detroit yesterday, for a serious heart operation, and with her went the prayers of many volunteers who have been donating blood plasma today to help save her life.

Linda, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Forbes of 3834 Island Park Dr., will have a team of six nationally-known heart specialists hovering around her at 10 a.m. Wednesday, getting set to close a hole in her heart.

However, the doctors have told the parents that the big risk in Linda's case, is the fact that unaccountable complications have enlarged the little girl's heart.

They have not been able to find the reason for the disorder and will not know the cause until the operation is in progress.

The first clue to Linda's dilemma was detected six years ago when Mrs. Forbes took her new baby to the doctor for a routine 6-weeks check-up. A definite heart murmur warned the doctor, and X rays verified his suspicions of the damaged heart.

Since that time, the baby has (Continued on Page 2, Col. 2)

FACING HEART OPERATION — Six-year-old Linda Forbes of Waterford Township played with her pet dog, Nancy, yesterday morning for the last time for quite a while. She was taken to Ford hospital by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Forbes, in the afternoon to await a serious heart-repair operation to be performed by a team of specialists Wednesday.

Iraq's King Overthrown

Kerim Kassem, who led the coup, has been installed as premier and defense minister with a pledge to end "imperialist" influence in the nation. Kassem set up a cabinet that included three other generals.

Kassem is a little-known army man who commanded a brigade in the Palestine war against Israel. He is a known leftist.

With Faisal missing, plans for the Istanbul Baghdad Pact summit conference were canceled. It was announced that Iranian, Pakistani and Turkish officials would meet in Ankara instead later today.

It was first reported that Premier Nouri Said and Crown Prince Abdul Illah had been assassinated, but rebel army broadcasts from Baghdad now say that Premier Nouri Said was not killed in today's coup.

The later dispatch by the semi-official Middle East News Agency, broadcast by Cairo radio, said only Abdul Illah was dead and that he was torn to pieces by angry mobs.

Middle East News Agency said the Iraqi revolt spread to Jordan, but a Tehran dispatch said King Hussein of Jordan earlier had foiled a plot to overthrow and kill him.

The Iraqi army group proclaimed its support of President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic in its swift uprising that once again brought the Middle East near to war. It claimed "total victory" in the uprising.

King Faisal, 23, apparently escaped.

ing to a meeting of the Moslem members of the Baghdad Pact in Istanbul when the army officers struck, seizing the city of Baghdad, assassinating the crown prince, an uncle of the king, and burning his body in the street.

HUSSEIN A 'TRAITOR'

The rebels called Hussein a "traitor."

United Press International correspondent Joseph Mazandi reported from Tehran that the plot also was directed against Hussein, Faisal's cousin who is linked with Iraq in the Arab federal state. Hussein acted in time and escaped the death plot.

In what appeared to be a broadcast from the streets of Baghdad, crowds could be heard shouting "Nasser, we are your soldiers."

The broadcast indicated there was some opposition and said "some of our compatriots are firing at us." The announcer appealed for calm and said "opposition obstructs this sacred revolution."

In Wiesbaden, Germany, the U.S. Air Forces in Europe declined to say if plans were under way to evacuate Americans from Iraq. A spokesman said any such request would have to come from the State Department.

News of the coup d'etat was first brought to the world by the Cairo, Damascus and Baghdad radios. Then the insurgents broadcast repeatedly over "free Iraqi radio" giving details of the plot.

The State Dept. in Washington confirmed that a coup had taken place in Baghdad and that there were a few initial shots. The information came from U.S. Ambassador Waldemar Gallman.

Ominously, the broadcasts received on the regular Baghdad radio frequencies indicated the principal station in the Iraqi capital was in rebel hands. However there still was no word the rebels held the entire nation.

Tehran closed its border immediately and alerted its army for trouble from the insurgents. Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi of Iran flew from Cannes, France, today to Istanbul to be in close touch with the situation.

Pakistani President Iskander Mirza had just left Karachi to attend the Istanbul meeting of the Baghdad powers and it was obvious the coup was timed to wreak the worst possible damage to the pact that is a keystone of Western defenses in the Middle East.

Iraq is one of the four Moslem members of the Baghdad Pact with Iran, Turkey and Pakistan. Those four nations form a solid link below the southern borders of Russia, sealing off the Soviet frontier from the rest of the coveted Middle East. Britain is a member of the Baghdad Pact, the United States an associate member.

It also would upset the entire balance of power in the Middle East with Nasser winning unprecedented power, and endangering little Lebanon even further.

Lebanon has been locked in a civil war for ten weeks and the pro-western government has accused Egypt and Syria of aiding the rebels.

Nasser himself has been in Yugoslavia conferring with Marshal Tito.

There were many ironic twists in the reports from Iraq. Faisal and Hussein formed a federation so Faisal, with a large and powerful army, could protect Hussein against alleged Egyptian pressure.

Diplomatic sources in Tehran believed the coup against the two kings was timed to break simultaneously.

But the plot against Hussein was believed nipped last week when Hussein arrested 60 army officers and men, including members of his own bodyguard.

Some of the "free Iraq radio" broadcasts sounded markedly like the propaganda line used by both Moscow and by the Cairo and Damascus radios.

"Compatriots, now we can speak and breathe," one broadcast said. "The handcuffs have been shattered. Now we can raise our heads and speak freely and say 'down with imperialism, with traitors and with mercenaries.'"

At Istanbul, Turkey, leaders waited in vain at the airport today for Faisal, Abdul Illah and Nuri Said to arrive for the meeting of the Moslem members of the Baghdad Pact tomorrow.

Then Turkish President Celal Bayar, Premier Adnan Menderes and Foreign Minister Fatin Ruzhku Zorlu took off unexpectedly for their capital, Ankara.

Sheriff Warns Water Skiers

Oakland County Sheriff Frank W. Irons today voiced a warning to water skiers on county lakes in the face of several skiing accidents this weekend.

"The fault usually lies with the person operating the boat which is towing skiers," he asserted. "The operator should watch where he is going rather than watching the skier."

"In fact, it is best to have another party in the boat so one can watch the skier and another the boat's course," he added.

Of a half-dozen boating accidents reported this weekend, two accounted for four injuries. Both involved water skiers.

Dorothy Button, 32, of 81 Goldner St., Waterford Township, was treated at Pontiac General Hospital for injuries received in a freak accident early Sunday afternoon on Lake Sherwood, according to Pontiac State Troopers.

She had fallen from water skis and was about to be pulled into the boat towing her which was operated by Harlan Anderson, 30, of Livonia. An unidentified speeding motorboat passed nearby creating waves which sent Anderson's boat out of control.

Before he regained control, the boat wheeled and struck the skier, said troopers.

Three persons were reported injured in a collision on Lake Oakland, said sheriff's deputies. Listed as treated for minor injuries at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital were Gertrude Biskner, 30, 148 Elmwood St., Clawson; Michael Verrier, 9, of 1909 Northwood Rd., Royal Oak; and Michele Collins, 9, of 117 Murphy St.

Deputies said one of the boats, operated by Donald Biskner, 32, of Clawson, was towing a water skier. Biskner said he was watching the skier and when he looked in front

Reminding Area Candidates About Poster Limits

Candidates for public office this election year have been reminded by the Oakland County Road Commission that there are certain places where their political posters cannot go.

Letters signed by Road Commissioners Sol D. Lomerson, Robert O. Felt and Lee O. Brooks, have gone out to all candidates informing them if their signs are placed in any public highway right-of-way they will be removed.

"This goes for both Republicans and Democrats," Lomerson said. "We're not playing political favorites, but just complying with the state law."

He said road commission crews have already taken in signs which have been illegally placed.

What constitutes a right-of-way depends on the widths of the road, Lomerson, commission chairman, said. "Usually anything outside a fence line, if there is one, would be in violation," he explained.

Ike's Brother in Canal Zone

No Leftist Flareups Mar Official Visit by Milton So Far

BALBOA, Canal Zone (AP)—Milton Eisenhower embarked on a tour of the Panama Canal today with his head full of Panama's proposals for economic aid and a plea for recognition of her sovereignty over the vital waterway.

It was the third day of the friendly and thus far uneventful fact-finding mission on which the President of the United States has sent his brother.

Later he goes on to Honduras, Costa Rica, Nicaragua, Puerto Rico, El Salvador and Guatemala, in that order. The zig-zag itinerary was planned in advance and announced only today to foil any violent leftist demonstrations of the type that greeted Vice President Nixon on his South American tour.

If any similar anti-American sentiment exists in Panama, it did not show itself over the weekend. Eisenhower was shielded by strict security measures and whisked around Panama City so rapidly that the inhabitants of the capital hardly were aware of his presence. His daily schedule was not published.

President Ernesto de la Guardia Jr. told the visitor that flying the Panamanian flag over the Canal Zone and using Spanish officially inside the 10-mile-wide strip would help bring the people of Panama and the United States closer together.

The United States controls the Canal Zone under an agreement with Panama. The question of mineral rights and Panamanian sovereignty over the zone recently has become a hot political issue which De la Guardia's opposition has been quick to exploit.

De la Guardia also outlined ways in which the United States could aid Panama financially to help ease the social unrest which breeds communism. He pointed out the nation's population is growing but it lacks capital with which to increase production. The purpose of the trip by Eisenhower, who is president of Johns Hopkins University, is to study the background for a possible revision of U.S. policies toward Latin America.

On his return to Washington Eisenhower is expected to get together with Vice President Nixon to draw up recommendations to President Eisenhower on a solution of Latin America's problems.

Detroit Boy, 15, Shot Fleeing From Police

DETROIT (AP) — A 15-year-old Detroit boy was shot in the back and seriously wounded yesterday when he failed to head a policeman's order to halt.

Doctors said Robert L. Banks was in serious condition from a bullet wound in the back. The bullet nicked his spine.

Patrolman Andrew Sokolowski and his partner, Frank Jankowski, answered a burglar alarm at an automobile agency. Sokolowski said he saw Banks trying to run out of the agency and shot at the youth when he failed to obey an order to halt.

Banks was sent to the Catholic Youth Organization Home last November by Juvenile Court after being convicted of staging a series of burglaries. Officials at the home said he had been making "good progress" and was about to be discharged.

They said they allowed the youth to leave the home Saturday after he promised to return last night. He had told them he was going to stay with his mother but police said he spent the night with a friend.

Booming Era Promised by Iraq's Natural Wealth

By The Associated Press

Iraq, the legendary site of the Garden of Eden, has spawned rich civilizations in the past and has the natural wealth to bring forth a new era for its Arab people.

Oil, the black gold of the Middle East, has been paying for the vast development projects the nation started under 23-year-old King Faisal II and his crafty political strong man Nuri Said.

Instead of pouring all oil revenues into the royal treasury as King Saud has done in Saudi Arabia, the young king has turned as much as two thirds of the royalties back to the nation's development board in a year.

This money went for roads, slum clearance in the ancient capital of Baghdad and an expanding irrigation program aimed at bringing the nation's parched deserts back to the fertility which supported the Sumerians 3,500 years before Christ in the famed valley of the Tigris and Euphrates.

But it still has a long way to go.

Annual income is about $45 a person and illiteracy runs 80 per cent.

World War I freed Iraq from the Turks of the old Ottoman Empire. The nation went to Britain under a League of Nations mandate, and the British presided at its formal birth as a nation in 1932, when King Faisal's father took the throne.

Ever since then the British-owned Iraq Petroleum Co. has been one of the most pro-Western of Arab nations.

The pro-Western policy continued into the cold war, when Iraq was the only Arab state to join the Baghdad Pact—the so-called "Northern Tier" alliance against the Soviet Union.

For their allegiance to the West, Iraq's rulers had to fend off attacks from the other Arab countries, who charged Faisal and Nuri Said with selling out the golden dream of Arab unity.

Chief among the attackers was President Nasser of the United Arab Republic, who has had his eye on Iraq's oil resources to help raise the standard of living for the miserable peasant crammed into Egypt's Nile Valley and help boost his power.

Iraq has no overpopulation problem like Egypt. Her five million people (one fourth of Egypt's) are spread out over the Tigris-Euphrates Valley in the south and working in the northern oil fields and southern Basra fields and refinery near the Persian Gulf.

But though the pro-Western policy brought Iraq prosperity unparalleled in most of the Middle East, Iraqi nationalists were embittered because of the rise of Israel and their own hard struggle for independence from Britain. They harkened to Nasser's call for Arab unity despite the wily political machinations of 70-year-old Nuri Said, one of the cleverest politicians in the Middle East.

Fourteen times premier of Iraq and then premier of the new federation with Jordan, Nuri Said always before had managed to land on his feet in a power play.

In a country like Iraq where most people vote the way their local tribal shiek tells them to—and the shieks themselves often run for parliament with no fear of opposition—the monarchy usually is an important institution.

Faisal ascended the throne after his father died in an accident in 1939. The nation was put under the regency of Abdul Ilah, his uncle, who set about training young Faisal for the problems of ruling.

Abdul Ilah dressed himself as a woman after a 1941 coup and smuggled the young King out to Britain, where he got a solid education at Harrow, Winston Churchill's alma mater.

Faisal returned in 1953 to take over the throne he had held longer than any Arab monarch, since he was 9. But Abdul Ilah remained his chief adviser and was viewed in Iraq as the real power in the palace.

Dead Horse OK as Tax Deduction if It Devours a Hat

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A dead horse just possibly might be accepted as an income tax deduction, but only if the end came from eating a hat.

A businessman who owned the horse—a fine saddle specimen—and shared his riding pleasure with his customers, deducted $500 as a business loss when the favorite was laid low.

He told the Internal Revenue Service that while he was riding one day his hat fell off and the horse ate most of it. The horse died soon afterward.

A veterinarian said that flu, not the hat, killed the horse. The businessman's $500 item was thrown out.

Internal Revenue ruled that had eating the hat killed the horse while presumably it was being employed to build customer goodwill, the owner might have had a chance to collect.

Perceptron Inventor Claims:

New Robot Will Have 'Real' Personality

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Intelligent mechanical robots that might have ugly or pleasant personalities now seem likely to walk right out of fiction into reality before many more years have passed.

Dr. Frank Rosenblatt, 29-year-old research psychologist at Cornell Aeronautical Laboratory, Buffalo, believes his "perceptron" concept developed for the Navy can provide electronic machines duplicating all functions of the human brain, including consciousness.

"If a machine can be conscious, the scientist agreed in an interview, then the electronic robot could be happy or unhappy; it could be sympathetic, agreeable, limitless.

Whereas present-day electronic "brains" are glorified adding machines capable of endlessly obeying mathematical instructions, the perceptron would be a glorified television set capable of perceiving and learning of itself.

Rosenblatt, when here last week to demonstrate his methods, said "yes" when asked whether his thinking machine would even be able to "reproduce itself." But he indicated this question scarcely interested him, since obviously a machine that could be made to walk could in principle be made to walk along an assembly line and build similar machines. In fact, no such intelligence as is contemplated for the perceptron would be needed for this purpose.

However, the question of consciousness in a machine brings up definitions over which philosophers have labored for centuries—What is consciousness?

The general view, at least since Descartes in France, has been that consciousness and existence are two things that cannot be denied. To deny existence would require existence, while to deny consciousness would require consciousness.

Certainly, according to Dr. Rosenblatt, the perceptron when perfected will be able to "know" that it exists. It will "know" when it is not getting the right "inputs," and may complain bitterly.

"About the only way you could say that the machine wasn't conscious," the scientist said, "would be to define consciousness as applying only to biological beings. But that would be arbitrary. The machine would be conscious in every practical sense of the word."

The first perceptron is to be built during the next 12 months at a cost of about $100,000. Its camera "eye" will have about 400 sensitive "photo-cells," and its "brain" will contain 1,000 or more electronic "association cells."

This will be a modest experimental step—even conventional computers frequently cost more than $2,000,000. When the number of cells in the perceptron passes the million mark, it should begin to approach human capability.

That would be considerably more efficient in terms of numbers than is achieved in human thought, since there are approximately 10 billion nerve-responsive cells in the human brain.

Bridge Hides Wreckage

Flat Tire Saves Youth Trapped 36 Hours in Car

GLENDIVE, Mont. (UPI)—A teen-age radio announcer who yelled for help for 36 hours while lying trapped in the wreckage of his car by a busy highway struggled for life today in a hospital.

The announcer, Robert Biedrzycki, 19, owed his life to a Seattle couple, identified only as a Mr. and Mrs. Johnson, who stopped to fix a flat tire yesterday morning.

WANDERS TO BRIDGE

Mrs. Johnson wandered over to a highway bridge. Peering down to a dry irrigation canal below, she saw a wrecked convertible. With a start, she saw a hand extended from the window give a weak flutter.

The Johnsons called for help.

Biedrzycki was taken to a Glendive hospital. Doctors found he suffered two punctured lungs, one of which was collapsed, a broken leg, broken ribs, a dislocated hip and other injuries.

His condition was so critical that surgeons dared not give him an anesthetic. Later, they said he had a 50-50 chance.

Young Biedrzycki, an announcer for radio station KXGN in Glendive, fell asleep at the wheel Friday night. His car sailed off the road while he was doing 60 miles an hour.

Part of the car landed under the bridge, screening it from the highway.

Shade from the bridge and the top of his convertible helped Biedrzycki escape the worst of the 95-degree heat during the daytime. At night, temperatures dropped to around 50.

PASSED 4 TIMES

Montana Highway Patrolman Clarence Owens, who pulled Biedrzycki from the wrecked car, said he passed the spot four times Saturday night and failed to see the wreckage.

Owens said he asked Biedrzycki as he pulled him from the wreck: "Where are you going, Bob?"

"I've got to hurry and open the studio," the young man gasped.

Owens said Biedrzycki was "out of his mind—he could talk but he didn't know what he was saying."

Biedrzycki said he was fully conscious during his ordeal. He shouted for help at the automobiles that sped back and forth along the highway above, but none heard him.

After identifying themselves briefly, the Johnsons resumed their vacation. They were driving a 1953 or 1954 green and white Chevrolet sedan. Officers did not get the license.

Like Mishaps Fatal Eight Miles Apart

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — An Indianapolis father and a young girl about eight miles away were shocked fatally at about the same time yesterday—both when they touched electric water pumps in their back yards.

Eugene Smith, 41, was electrocuted while using a 110-volt electric pump to drain rainwater from his back yard so his children could use playground equipment in the yard.

At about the same time, 8-year-old Vicki Marietta was shocked fatally by an electric pump as she played in her yard.

About one of every 10 passenger cars and more than one out of every four trucks in the United States is used in farm operations, a combined total of about 6.5 million motor vehicles.

Adams-Goldfine Probe Big Vote Issue—Truman

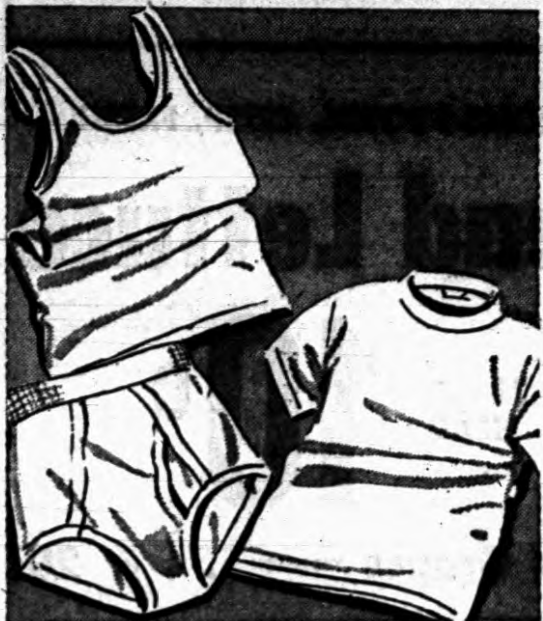

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP) — Former President Harry S. Truman said last night the Sherman Adams-Bernard Goldfine investigation will be a major issue in this year's congressional elections. "It is up to President Eisenhower to handle the situation," Truman said, speaking of presidential assistant Adams, "but I think the voters will take care of the problem in the fall elections." He made the comment when he and Mrs. Truman arrived home from a seven-week trip in Europe. Earlier, at St. Louis, Truman defended the acceptance of gifts from Goldfine by his own presidential assistant John Steelman. Truman said Steelman accepted the gifts only after the government had rejected Goldfine's application for a 12-million-dollar loan "and that's the difference."

Girl, 3, Beaten to Death;
Charge Foster Parents

PATERSON, N.J. (AP)—Blonde, blue-eyed Ellen Graham was only an infant when her natural parents were found guilty of neglect and she became a ward of the state.

Two years ago, Ellen got a new pair of parents.

Today, the foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Corbo, face arraignment on charges of beating her to death.

The 3-year-old girl was found dead in her crib of a brain hemorrhage Friday morning, her little body covered with bruises.

Police said three of her brothers and a sister, all wards of the Corbos since 1956, were found suffering from malnutrition.

(Advertisement)

They said the two Corbos children were found in good shape.

Corbo, 40, was charged with murder soon afterwards, while his wife was taken to the Hope Dell County Hospital over the weekend for examination. The hospital's report has not been released, but a police official said the woman was found fit to be questioned. Officers quizzed her yesterday and booked her on the murder charge after she allegedly admitted striking Ellen with a leather strap.

Meanwhile, Lloyd B. Wescott, head of the State Department of Institutions and Agencies, called for a full investigation "to determine whether there has been negligence on the part of the field supervisors."

Police said the couple told them they had struck the child in recent weeks because she had refused to eat or go to bed on time. The Corbos also said the child had fallen twice, once down the cellar stairs and once from a chair.

While she admitted using the strap, Mrs. Corbo, 30, denied hitting the girl with a wooden stick, police said.

The stick, a 15-inch bat three quarters of an inch by two inches wide, had a carved handle and was kept hung up in the Corbo home with a rope attached to one end, they said.

Officers quoted Mrs. Corbo as saying she gave the girl a licking last week when Ellen "got out of hand."

Church membership in the U.S. is at a new high of 56 per cent of the population or about 90 million persons.

Republicans to Map Strategy Wednesday

WASHINGTON (AP)—High level Republicans meet Wednesday to discuss the coming election campaign and GOP prospects.

A party official who asked not to be named didn't say who would attend other than that Vice President Nixon and most members of the Cabinet have been invited and are expected to participate. Some GOP congressional strategists also may take part.

The official said the meeting was suggested about a week ago by GOP National Chairman Meade Alcorn. He described it as one of a continuing series of campaign conferences.

The official said the conference has no connection with the controversy over Sherman Adams, President Eisenhower's chief aide, and his gift-giving friend, Bernard Goldfine.

"It could come up but I doubt it," the official said, adding that the meeting is "for the purpose of talking about the campaign."

Oakland and Woodhull Lake Level Hearing

Waterford Township residents who own property fronting Lake Oakland and Woodhull Lakes, have been mailed notices of a hearing to be held Sept. 12 in the Oakland County Circuit Court regarding the establishment of their lake levels.

A tentative level for both lakes has been set by Drain Commission officials at 957.5 feet above sea level. This is approximately one-half foot higher than the present level of the two lakes, according to Drain Commissioner Dan Barry.

Objectors to the tentative level may appear at the September hearing and the court will decide the issue. A date will then be set for the awarding of construction bids to re-build the present dam.

DEPENDABLE FOOD RETAILERS SINCE 1859Science Shrinks Piles
New Way Without Surgery
Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain—without surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne*)—the discovery of a world-famous research institution. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H.* Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug counters. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

Adams to Offer Resignation With Ike Turning It Down?

By LYLE C. WILSON

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Reporters on the Sherman Adams story have been trying to nail one way or the other the grapevine report that the No. 1 White House aide offered his resignation some time ago and that it was refused.

Maybe yes; maybe no! A good bet would be, however, that before the episode is ended, Adams will offer to resign. Just as good a bet is that President Eisenhower will refuse to accept the resignation.

The President was not exaggerating when he told a news conference shortly after the Adams-Goldfine story broke that he needed his assistant. He would not have been exaggerating any, either, if he had added that the need arose from the indisputable fact that there is no one available who could take Adams' place at the White House.

Adams' job requires a combination of physical and mental vigor, a close and unusual relationship with the boss, prestige and great stature in government and, above all, the knowledge, wisdom and courage to make big decisions and to make them fast.

"They don't," as George Gobel almost said, "hardly make 'em that way any more."

A big name Republican pondered the situation the other day and came up with the observation that of all the top Republicans he knew—he knows them all—only Thomas E. Dewey possessed the qualifications to take over from Adams. This big name Republican hastened to say that he was not suggesting that it was even remotely likely that Eisenhower would ask Dewey to take the job and he was positive that Dewey would refuse, if asked.

The reference to Dewey does emphasize, however, the interpretation which should be placed on the President's statement that he needs Adams. He does need him and he is not about to let him get away. It will be the problem of White House strategists, therefore, to plan the strategy whereby Adams can be shielded somewhat from the fierce political heat of a general election campaign.

It might be done by making something of a public show of an Adams resignation and of the President's refusal to accept it. An appropriate occasion would be after the House investigating subcommittee makes a report, assuming that the report is made before the all-out political campaign gets going.

Adams' resignation would be in letter form addressed to the President. Eisenhower's refusal would be a letter in response. In such a letter, the President would have the opportunity to state the administration's case against the House investigators and for Adams in detail, with leisurely emphasis not possible in the back and forth of news conference discussion.

Publication of the letters would place the administration's case before the voters in its most favorable form. Eisenhower and his written expression of confidence in his assistant would become then the shield somewhat protecting Adams from campaign fire.

The President, in effect, would be lending Adams some of his own prestige and solid reputation for integrity. There are, doubtless, other ways to do it. Doubtless, too, something has to be done if Adams is to stay on.

New Jail Won't Hold Thin Men; Two Escape

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP)—May be Santa Clara County's new multimillion-dollar jail just won't hold thin men.

Yesterday Blas Romero, a slim youth, slipped through an opening in a third floor ventilator and descended three floors to the ground over a makeshift bedsheet ladder. On June 27, Richard Ledesma escaped through the same ventilator.

Guards said any thin man could escape that way. Sheriff Melvin L. Hawley promised he would close up the ventilator opening if he had to wield the blow torch himself.

Car-Truck Smashup Near Windsor Kills 4

WINDSOR (AP)—Four persons were killed and two injured critically Saturday night when a car and truck collided and exploded in a shower of flying metal and flames near Windsor.

Bodies and wreckage were strewn along 200 feet of roadway as the truck went off the highway and sheared off a tree southwest of Windsor.

Killed were Leo Dufour, 58, and his wife, Mable, 52, occupants of the truck; Earl Rutt, 26, and Donald Piche, 25. The Dufours and Rutt were from nearby River Canard, Piche was from Sandwich West Township.

In critical condition were Albert Crosse, 30, and Victor Percy, 25.

'Chemise' Is Out--Unfitted Look Predominates Fashion

By DOROTHY ROE

NEW YORK (U.S.)—The American woman may be shaped like a pear, a balloon, a bell, book or candle next fall.

Such are the shapes of fashion as previewed to the nation's fashion press today in the opening of a hectic week of fall showings by New York's couture group of designers.

'CHEMISE' OUT!

Commentators avoid the use of the word "chemise" like a plague. But the unfitted silhouette, by another name, is still the predominant influence in the fall fashion lineup, with the high-waisted-Empire silhouette the favorite variation.

Women who have been afraid of their husbands ever since the arrival of the potato bag silhouette may take comfort in the fact that new fall fashions offer many versions of the no-waistline look, and that designers have modified and adapted the more bizarre styles to suggest at least if not accent the lines of the human body.

Although belts never appear at the natural waistline and seem to be added as afterthoughts, they are present and accounted for, placed just below the bust or anywhere from the hips to the hem.

The Empire silhouette, which appears in every collection, takes various forms. As a "chemise," it features a soft, slender line, with drawstrings at neckline and just below the bust.

As a Directoire silhouette, it may have a high sash and flowing skirt. As a Trapeze, it may flare sharply, pyramid style, from shoulders to hemline.

SKIRTS SHORTER

Skirts are shorter than ever, revealing the knees of the wearers, and posing difficulties in sitting or stepping into taxicabs without undue exposure.

Suits have brief bolero jackets or short, boxy jackets ending at waist or hipbone, with most skirts attached to a bodice to achieve the important high-waisted, loose look.

Even in suits, few skirts hang from the natural waistline. Suit blouses are mostly overblouses ending just below the bust usually done in matching or co-ordinated fabric, sometimes matching the jacket lining.

The new fashions demand new attitudes on the part of the wearer.

This fall, for instance, you never, never cinch in your waistline, and you learn to walk with that slinky debutant slouch popular in the 1920s.

Your costume should not touch your body except at the shoulders and perhaps the hip-line. The waist is sternly ignored.

This is the look for fall. The dress which falls loosely from the shoulder is from the Christian Dior fall collection.

A back-dipping belt is fastened in front to a fold-shaped panel of the black silk and wool trapeze dress.

Oversized collars are seen often in the new fall collections by New York designers.

Fur trim, little or lavish, is an important trend in New York designer collections for fall.

Back roundness is important in New York fashions this fall. It is achieved through pleats and folds.

Excuses Will Do The Trick

By EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: My husband and I live in a two-family house and the family living below us have no telephone of their own. They apparently have given our number to their friends to call. I don't mind this in an emergency but most of the time they call and just talk."

"It seems we never sit down to a meal without this interruption and frankly, we are sick of it. Will you please tell me how we can put an end to this without causing hurt feelings?"

Answer: The only thing I can think of for you to do is to make an excuse of some kind to the person calling as to why you cannot call your neighbors to the telephone, such as, you can't leave what you are doing at the moment, or that you are waiting for a very important call and don't want the line tied up, etc. By and by they will realize that their calls are not welcomed by you and stop calling.

"Dear Mrs. Post: I have been invited to a large dinner given by a woman's organization at one of the large hotels here in the city. I would like to know whether it is correct to wear a hat. I believe it is necessary to wear one at a luncheon, but I cannot make up my mind whether or not to wear one in the evening. I will not be in evening dress."

Answer: No hat need be worn at an evening dinner even if one wears day clothes.

"Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please tell me if it would be all right for my 19-year-old daughter to spend a weekend in New York at a proper hotel and go to see a play with her boy friend who is working in that city? I promised I would let her go if you said it was all right."

Answer: If the boy is someone you thoroughly approve of, and if she stayed at any one of the women's hotels, it would be entirely proper.

Good Fashion Bet

The natural linen handbag, perked up with flowers and covered with clear vinyl, is a fashion bet for wear now and later. Easy to keep clean, too.

Barbara L. Sheppard Is Married

Barbara Lee Sheppard and Ralph Richard Ensworth were married Saturday evening at Kirk in the Hills, Bloomfield Hills. Parents of the couple are Mrs. Bernice Sheppard and Denzel T. Sheppard and Mrs. Ralph Ensworth.

MRS. RALPH R. ENSWORTH

Married Saturday evening in the garden of Kirk in the Hills were Barbara Lee Sheppard and Ralph Richard Ensworth. Dr. Harold C. DeWindt officiated at the 7 o'clock ceremony before 200 guests.

Parents of the couple are Mrs. Bernice Sheppard of Birmingham, Denzel T. Sheppard of Seminole avenue and Mrs. Ralph Ensworth of Niagara avenue.

The bride wore a gown of re-embroidered Alencon lace applied on cameo mousseline de soie featuring a chapel train and a cutout applied neckline. Her veil fell from a crown of pearl orange blossoms and she carried a spray of stephanotis.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Jeannene Everett, the bride's sister. Bridesmaids were Mrs. D. Thomas Sheppard Jr., the bride's sister-in-law, Virginia Townsend of Birmingham and Kathy Fitchett, junior bridesmaid.

IDENTICAL DRESSES

All the attendants wore identical dresses of silk organza. The matron of honor's dress was pale pink and the bridesmaids' were coral. They carried cascade bouquets of blue delphinium.

Leigh Everett, niece of the bride, was flower girl. She wore a white organza dress and carried a basket of miniature rose petals.

James Logan of Ann Arbor was best man. Seating the guests were D. Thomas Sheppard Jr., David Huthwaite and William Beattie.

To receive guests at the garden reception held at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Jeannene Everett, Mrs. Sheppard wore a dress of re-embroidered silk lace over mauve taffeta with a rosebud corsage. The bridegroom's mother wore a wedgewood blue silk organza dress and a rosebud corsage.

When the couple left for a honeymoon to Mackinac Island, the bride was wearing a suit of multiple shades of blue paisley with a white feather cloche and white accessories.

Both are graduates of Michigan State University. The bridegroom is affiliated with Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity.

The high waistline is one of the most important trends for fall.

Learn to Relax for Beauty's Sake

The tendency to rush around these days, perhaps doing nothing, seems to speed the appearance of strain lines in the face.

Housewife or career woman, it is best to balance working hours with hours of play and relaxation. Try 10 minutes a day of resting with the feet elevated as a refresher.

Be Polite, Anyway!

If you accept a blind date you shouldn't show any disappointment if the date doesn't come up to your expectations. You need never accept another date with the person.

Princess Welcomed to British Columbia

VICTORIA, B. C. (U.S.)—Princess Margaret gets an official welcome to British Columbia today in her first full day's schedule of activity during an eight-week visit to Canada.

First the Queen's sister was to go to Victoria's city hall to be greeted by Mayor Percy Scourah and other officials.

Half an hour later Margaret was to go to the legislative buildings where she was to be greeted with a royal salute, inspect an honor guard and reply to an address of welcome from Premier Bennett. Then she was to meet cabinet officials, members of the legislative assembly and other dignitaries.

GARDEN PARTY
In the afternoon, a garden party with some 4,000 invited was scheduled at Government House — the temporary residence in the Empress Hotel of Lt. Gov. and Mrs. Frank Ross. Her evening is free, Margaret leaves here Wednesday to continue her two-week visit in the province and six-week Canadian tour.

The Princess was 15 minutes late for services at Grey-Gothic Christ Church Cathedral yesterday morning. When she arrived the jammed church applauded her appearance.

Her afternoon free, the Princess motored to the farm residence of Mrs. W. C. Woodward, widow of the former lieutenant governor, at nearby Saanich.

Lt. Gov. and Mrs. Ross and some members of the royal household went along to spend a quiet afternoon enjoying the beach that fronts the residence and to watch television pictures of Margaret's arrival Saturday at Patricia Bay airport.

Pessimism Is Aging

Optimistic Attitude Can Be Cultivated

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Katherine Mansfield said, "Life never becomes a habit with me. It's always a marvel." What a shame that everyone can't feel this same way! Too often strains and worries and responsibilities warp our natural love of life. We fret or mull through each day with little awareness of the beauty and laughter all about us.

This attitude can become one of the most vicious and damaging habits we could possibly develop. Without realizing it we may have formed the habit of the pessimistic and complaining attitude. This colors all of our reactions and inclines our personality toward drabness. No telling what it does to our glands and to our health!

On top of all this nothing could be more aging! It is aging because it injures health and also because it draws the corners of our mouth down, puts frown lines about the eyes and tenses the entire facial contour so that its trend is downward. Such an attitude may even affect our posture. Our carriage often reflects our attitude toward life.

Many people have blinders on and do not realize it because the habit of melancholy and criticism have sneaked up on them gradually. The only possible way to get a new viewpoint is to realize and admit to yourself that you have fallen into a rut of this sort. You cannot expect to change overnight, but you can begin today in many small ways.

BE OPTIMISTIC

Make it a point to be optimistic about all small matters, about all the little concerns of daily routine and responsibility. If something goes wrong, try to see the funny side of it. There most always is one. Make it a point to be pleasant to those with whom you come in contact.

If we train ourselves in these small, everyday attitudes, soon we will find our lives full of fun and excitement and stimulation. Drabness and dullness will disappear in the light of a consistent effort to improve.

If you would like to have my leaflet "Individual Happiness" send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 55 to Josephine Lowman in care of The Pontiac Press.

The mail has been especially fascinating recently because of the column I wrote not long ago about what men like and don't like in women. In this same column I invited women to write to tell me what they like and don't like about men. The letters have rolled in!

It seems that men and women search for some of the same qualities in the opposite sex. For instance, both men and women emphasized an appreciation for gaiety, for good companionship and naturalness. It is also very apparent that the ladies like a man they can be comfortable with. However, there were definite pet peeves in the letters from women.

PEEVES

But 'listen' for yourself to these pet peeves: "I dislike men who talk about their conquests. They are little boys who do not deserve respect." "I can't stand a man who thinks he is irresistible to women. No real woman can."

Here is another category:

"The man I like must be well-groomed at all times. I like him to be dressed so that we can go visiting or to a restaurant, if we wish, when we go out." "Cleanliness, being well-groomed, keeping nails clean and manicured, shoes polished and using deodor-ants, will even make dull Jack more interesting."

"A man should dress appropriately. A girl likes to dress up occasionally. She can't if he wears slacks and a sport shirt."

"Just let me see that 'five o'clock shadow' a few evenings in a row and I lose interest."

Most of the letters from women listed good grooming and a dislike of the man who talks about his old loves. These letters are so interesting and give us such an insight into feminine thinking, that I am going to bring you a few more of them for the next two days.

If you have any doubt that women like their men masculine, watch tomorrow for what my readers had to say.

Tomorrow: "Men Should Be Men Not Just Household Helpers."

Chocolate Pie Filling Made Without Stove

By JANET ODELL

Pontiac Press Home Editor

No woman wants to spend any more time in the kitchen than is absolutely necessary. This is especially true in hot weather. This chocolate pie recipe was dreamed up for just such cooks and such times.

Mrs. Vern Ernst is today's cook. She says this is a recipe you can always count on. Outside of her family of two boys, Mrs. Ernst is active only in church work.

CHOCOLATE SILK PIE

By Mrs. Vern Ernst

½ cup butter ½ cup sugar

1½ squares chocolate, melted 1 teaspoon vanilla 1 egg Beaten pie shell

Cream butter, add sugar and cream well. Add melted cooled chocolate and vanilla. Add one whole egg and beat 5 minutes at medium speed. Add the second egg and beat another 5 minutes at medium speed.

Pour into cooled pie shell. Chill for 2 hours or more and serve with a topping of whipped cream, if desired. This makes a filling for an 8-inch shell. It is good in a regular pie crust, a coconut one or a graham cracker crust.

Public Relations Program Needed

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I've been following your column and would like to say that the pros and cons of the Red Cross have interested me tremendously. Some say the Red Cross has never been known to give anything away and others say it is a great service organization.

I would like to state that, for one, have tried to collect money for the Red Cross and when I ask a veteran for anything he says, "I'd give for the Salvation Army, or Knights of Columbus, but not to the Red Cross!" Maybe this is unfair, but half a million servicemen can't be wrong.

sands (yes, thousands!) of letters I have received concerning this Red Cross controversy, I must admit that nine out of ten were NOT on the side of the Red Cross.

If ninety per cent of my readers haven't a good word to say for the largest service organization in the world, then I would say the Red Cross is sadly in need of a herculean public relations program. Amen!

DEAR ABBY: I have a problem. My neighbor lady runs around outside in her bathing suit all summer. My husband noticed this and now he puts on his bathing suit and lays outside all day. What's good for a burn?

Mavis B. Fors Weds Paul Douglas Furlong

Three hundred guests attended the Saturday evening wedding of Mavis Beverly Fors to Paul Douglas Furlong at Our Lutheran Church of the Redeemer in Birmingham. The Reverend Theodore Wuggazer officiated at the 7:30 p.m. candlelight service.

The bride was given in marriage by Harold Ritter of Lake Odessa.

She is the daughter of Mrs. Arvid N. Fors of North Perry street and the late Mr. Fors. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Francis N. Furlong of Farmington.

A princess style Bombazine gown featuring a chapel-length train, appliques of pearls, Alencon lace and a headpiece of bombazine and pearls was worn by the bride.

WHITE ROSES

A semi-cascade of white roses and stephanotis and ivy comprised the bridal bouquet. Her only jewelry was a diamond pendant, a gift from the bridegroom.

Wearing a gown of pink orchid chiffon and taffeta of princess style with a bow in back, Mrs. Robert Jones of Louisville, Ky., served as matron of honor.

Lorraine Antilla, Ruth Campbell, Mrs. Perry Dooley, and Louise Halme of Wayne were bridesmaids. Their princess style taffeta gowns of pistachio green featured a bow in back. Each of the attendants wore a single strand of pearls and carried semi-cascades of pink rapture roses and ivy.

Robert Furlong of Detroit attended his brother as best man. Serving as ushers were William Aaron, David Sloss, Robert Sedstrom, all of Detroit, DEAR ABBY: I go with a girl I like a lot, but every time I go to her house to take her out her father dollars me to death. He always has a "hot tip" on a horse and asks me to pitch in a dollar and he bets a dollar.

I have yet to see one of his horses come in. Should I tell him I don't care to bet with him or should I keep my mouth shut and keep on handing out dollars?

NO BETTOR

DEAR NO: Quit handing out the dollars and mention to your girl that you are no better. If she doesn't speak to her Dad about this, she is "no better" (than her father, that is).

DEAR ABBY: I have become

MRS. PAUL DOUGLAS FURLONG

and Bruce Brown of Charlotte. A reception followed the ceremony at Devon Gables.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Fors chose an aqua green mist silk dress with applique of pearls and white accessories, and she wore a corsage of pink rubrum lilies and rosebuds. Mrs. Furlong wore a dress of pale pink chiffon with pink accessories, and a corsage of white rubrum lilies and rosebuds.

The bride is a graduate of the University of Michigan's School of Education and the bridegroom attended the University of Michigan in the School of Architecture and Design. She is affiliated with Alpha Omicron Pi sorority and he is affiliated with Phi Sigma Kappa fraternity.

For traveling to the Canadian Rockies and the Laurentian Mountains, the new Mrs. Furlong changed to a blue and green print trapeze-style dress with white accessories, and corsage of white roses from her bridal bouquet. Upon returning, the couple will reside at Cass Lake.

This girl is too young for you and too young for marriage. Don't let her rush you into anything you might regret.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "MARY DOE": There's your answer ... Marry dough!

For a personal reply, write to ABBY in care of this paper. Enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Couple Married at St. Andrews

Married Saturday at St. Andrews' Episcopal Church were Ray Upchurch of Deland street and Mrs. Lorna A. Bergin of Fort Wayne, Ind.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Waldo R. Hunt. Attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Harmon Doan.

Must Be Alcoholic Before 45 or Never

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

That if a person hasn't been an alcoholic before 45, there is little danger he will become one after that age. One out of every six alcoholics is a woman.

That someone has estimated women lost more than 30 hours a year looking at mirrors, and four hours a year powdering their nose. But no woman really counts this as lost time.

That America's annual fish harvest amounts to five billion pounds.

That when male twins reach the draft age in Argentina, only one is required to enter military service.

That Irwin H. Kramer of the Hotel Edison has this seasonal sign on his desk: "You won't complain so much about the hot weather if you are snowed under with work."

That if you want a new taste treat, here's an old Welsh recipe for preparing seaweed: "Boil gently, but do not overcook or else all the flavor will be lost. Mix with vinegar or lemon juice, a few drops of olive oil, pepper and salt, and serve cold on toast."

Move to Halt Polio in Indian Reservation

BROWNING, Mont. (AP) — A 13th polio victim was reported today as new health measures were begun to halt an epidemic of the disease in the Blackfeet Indian reservation.

All the polio cases have been diagnosed within the past 13 days. Nine of them are paralytic. A 3-year-old girl died of the disease Saturday.

Doctors have given the first of a series of three Salk vaccine inoculations to more than 3,000 reservation inhabitants and townspeople here. Indian Health Service officials ordered a massive community cleanup and DDT spraying program this week.

Plans to Visit Red China

PARIS (AP) — Ex-Premier Pierre Mendes-France announced this weekend he plans to leave July 21 for a three-week visit to Red China.

Today a size 41 fits him a little tightly.

That doctors now can identify 47 different kinds of headaches.

That singer Sal Mineo isn't old enough to vote, but he's just bought a $200,000 house where he will live with his parents, two brothers and a sister. Sometimes it pays to give your kids music lessons.

That bread becomes stale because the starch in it crystallizes. That drama school director Burt Lane points out: "A man becomes wise by watching what happens to him when he isn't."

That workers who skip breakfast have more accidents than those who eat a morning meal.

That the teen-ager is one of the great markets of the future. Experts estimate that by 1968 the nation's 27 million teen-agers will be spending 16 billion dollars a year.

That frog eggs can be made to develop into tadpoles without fertilization by puncturing them with a fine needle.

THEY BUILD SAILBOATS — If you want to sail on one of Oakland County's 423 lakes the Leon F. Irish Co., also called "Sailand," 4300 Haggerty road, Walled Lake, is a good place to find out how to do it. Here, in the background, Mrs. Virginia

Irish sands the hull of a Snipe while Irish (in center) and Chester Simonelli are in the process of putting the deck on a Jet 14.

IT'S ALL FIBERGLAS — One could be riding in this proposed boat the next day after they saw it in this beginning stage at Glasto-Craft, 4811 Dixie Highway, Waterford Township. The boys are saturating one of the layers of Fiberglass with laminating resin in the mold after the color spray has been applied. They are: Denny Kind of 5825 Mill St., Waterford, rolling out the bubbles; Fred Warrick Jr., 8565 Thendara St., Clarkston, cutting the excess fiberglass off; and Jack Craven, 4560 Rockcroft, Waterford Township, placing the cloth along the bottom.

Building of Boats Becomes Growing County Industry

By SYLVIA de STEIGER

Oakland County is the best equipped county in the Lower Peninsula for the nautical sportsman and it is also rapidly growing in the boat building trade.

Whether one has a rod, wheel, tow rope or oar in hand, the water sportsman is at home here. The county contains 423 lakes and that's not including the many streams and rivers for the fisherman and the canoe enthusiast.

The number of lakes is increasing each year since man has taken up the task of making them, as the desire for boats of all sizes and types increases. Oakland County residents now can buy their boats from Oakland County boat designers and builders.

The county's only sailboat manufacturer is "Sailand" or the Leon F. Irish Co., according to Irish, the owner. Located at 4300 Haggerty Rd., Walled Lake, the company makes four classes of sailboats: Penguin, Jet 14, Snipe and Flyer.

Although sailboat building started out as a hobby for Irish who lives on Green Lake in West Bloomfield Township, it has been his occupation since 1950. Today his Snipe business extends as far west as Kansas and south to Georgia.

The company of five boat builders is now completing a fleet order of eight Jet 14s for the University Sailing Club, University of Michigan.

Masts are "shaped by hand" with the use of portable electric rotors and plane. They build up to 40-foot spars.

Kits of the boats with finished or unfinished wood are also manufactured by Sailand. Parts and accessories for all types of sailboats are available and the firm repairs all types of boats.

Three Waterford Township brothers, Kuga, Tako and Jun Kujima, are in their second season of business making Fiberglass boats.

Their company, called Glasto-Craft, 4811 Dixie Hwy., manufactures an average of four completely fiberglass boats per day. They manufacture two types which are both in the 12-foot class.

One, the Car Top, which weighs 100 pounds, is designed by the trio for fishing. The Play Boy or ski boat tips the scales at 135 pounds, includes a heavier deck and has backs on the seats.

Three forms of spun glass are used in manufacturing the boats: Mat, woven roving and cloth.

After spraying the color coat (polyester resin) into the mold, which is also made of Fiberglass, successive layers of Fiberglass are saturated with laminating polyester resin until the desired thickness is attained. Different portions of the hull contain from two to five layers of the Fiberglass.

The hulls are primarily white although they have made red, blue, yellow, green and coral boats.

The brothers have developed methods and techniques whereby the boat is complete with seats and reinforcements before it is taken out of the mold.

One of their products has been very useful throughout the county. They made the Oakland County Sheriff's Department rescue boat.

Custom-made boats of all sizes and types "up to 50 feet" are what Carl Henke, another Oakland County boat builder, constructs in this land of lakes.

Henke, of 2340 S. Commerce Rd., Walled Lake, has been building boats for the past 38 years. His knowledge of boat building began when he was a child in Germany near the Baltic Sea.

With the assistance of his daughter, Elfrida, he designs and builds boats "on order."

At present, he is building a cruiser of mahogany planking on white oak frames. Henke also works with Fiberglass over plywood.

The tradename "Curly Craft" which you may have noticed on boats throughout the area was born in Oakland County.

"Curly" is the nickname of the owner of the Northwestern Boat & Manufacturing Co., 19470 W. 10 Mile Rd., Southfield. He is Arthur E. Crouch, who has been designing and building boats in the county since 1938. They've ranged from an 8-foot pram to 26-foot cruisers. They build 12 stock models plus custom-made boats.

The company constructs on an average of 25 boats per year and also repairs all types of boats. The firm carries marine supplies for inboards and outboards.

Boating can provide fun, excitement and exercise in Oakland County, and here the boat builder certainly has inspiration and plenty of "proving grounds."

As Required by New State Law

More Boats Being Registered for Use on Pontiac Area Lakes

Boat registration forms are still being picked up by area boat owners anxious to comply with the state's new boating law.

The new forms, which do not need notarization, are available at the Oakland County Sheriff's Department, the Secretary of State branch office, and at several boat supply stores.

Under the state law, all boats must be registered with the state, and bear a registration number on the bow, with the following exceptions:

- 1—Those operated and propelled solely by muscular power;
- 2—Those having an overall length of less than 16 feet . . . and not permanently or temporarily equipped with a motor;
- 3—Those used or owned by the United States Government;

4—Those registered with the U.S. Coast Guard.

When completed, the forms must be sent to the Secretary of State in Lansing. Out-of-state boat owners bringing a boat into Michigan may secure registration numbers at Sheriff's Departments.

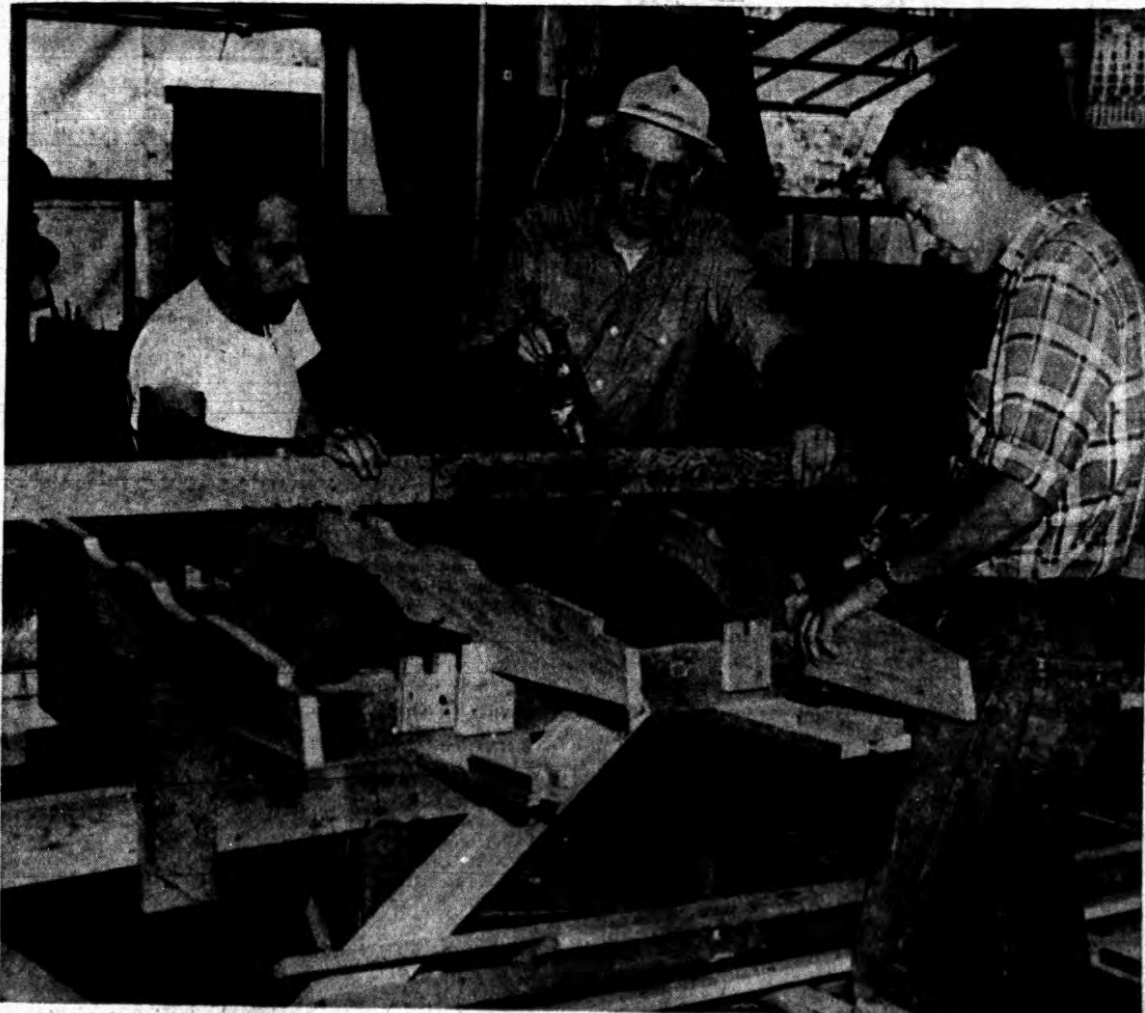

The boat registration law, with its numbering provisions, was designed to curb recklessness on the state's many lakes, and cut the annual death toll from boating accidents.

It allows identification of reckless boats by their numbers, and also provides penalties for reckless boat operation, and operating boats while under the influence of liquor or narcotics.

CUSTOM-MADE BOATS — Carl Henke, of 2340 S. Commerce Rd., Walled Lake, has made boats for the past 38 years. He learned his trade on the Baltic Sea in Germany. Here he is using a thickness planer for a part on a 26-foot cruiser which is under construction in the background.

Defeat Orioles 6-5 and 6-3; Al Kaline Hurt

Nightcap Victor Suec and Frank Bolling Avere Other Casualties

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — A streak of prosperity hit the Detroit Tigers alone in second place in the American League through the day, Gene Baker, Pittsburgh third baseman, ruptured a ligament in the first game and probably is out for the season.

The day was unusual for the number of hit batsmen, all victims of Orioles pitching.

Three men were hit. Besides Kaline, they were Frank Bolling, also struck by Beamon, and pitcher George Sasse, who had to quit in the second game after getting hit on his pitching arm by George Zvernick.

The Tigers got a run off Beamon in the first inning on two hit batsmen—Kaline and Bolling—and two walks, and without a hit.

A Beamon inside pitch caught Kaline on the wrist after Harvey Kuenn walked and Bill Martin grounded out. A walk to Bill Franke filled the bases and Beamon hit Bolling, forcing in Kuenn.

Since not panned in the ninth inning of the second game, Beamon was hit on the right forearm and was out for a while.

Detroit slipped the Orioles 6-5 in the opener and repeated in the second game 5-4 while giving a run to Bill O'Dell, the All-Star game pitcher, when O'Dell let in the seventh for a pinch-hitter while trailing 4-3. The two victories gave Detroit a three-game winning streak.

The Tiger biggest blast of the day was a three-run home run by Gene Baker in a four-run sixth inning in which they drove Charlie Beamon to the showers. Up to then they had gone without a hit off Beamon.

DETROIT (AP) — An unidentified woman narrowly missed being struck yesterday by some large chunks of window casement cement which toppled from the second floor of a building as she walked past.

The cement fell from a building at 8811 Jefferson East. Officers went to the scene and roped off the sidewalk in front of the building.

The collapse was the fourth in Detroit in as many weeks.

A woman was killed June 24 when a cornice dropped six floors from a downtown building and struck her. Six days later stucco and tile fell from the third floor of a building but no one was injured. On July 6 State Senator Charles S. Blundy narrowly escaped a chunk of concrete which fell from a building as he was entering a restaurant.

Iraqi Princess
Still Unaware of Revolution

ASCOT, England (AP) — Princess Faezeh, pretty 17-year-old fiancée of King Faisal of Iraq, went on with her lessons at Heathfield School today, not knowing that his regime had been overthrown.

"We told her there was trouble in Iraq after hearing the reports on the radio," a school spokesman said. "But she doesn't know how serious the situation is."

"We will be frank with her as soon as we get a clear picture of what is happening. There has been no message for her, either from King Faisal or from anyone else."

The princess, who has been at school here since January, planned to go back to Iraq for her wedding after the school term ends July 25.

Two Pontiac men were treated for minor injuries at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital and released early Sunday after their car overturned on Walnut Lake road, just east of Middlebelt road, West Bloomfield Township, according to Pontiac State Police.

Injured were the driver, Gerald McCullough, 20, of 2275 Lancaster St., and Joseph Woolfe, 20, of 294 Oakland Ave.

Troopers said the eastbound car went out of control, skidded and swerved from one side of the road to the other for 327 feet before overturning on the right shoulder.

Three youngsters were injured over the weekend in Pontiac traffic mishaps.

Three-year-old Sharon Sue Holden, of 2044 Drury Lane, Birmingham, suffered head injuries when she fell from the rear seat of a car driven by her father, Gracie, 28.

He told Pontiac Police the girl opened the rear door and the wind caught it pulling her out. The accident occurred Saturday evening on N. Perry, near Glenwood street, where the roadway is under construction.

Sharon was admitted to Pontiac General Hospital with head injuries and is in satisfactory condition today.

Another young girl, Barbara Brady, 7, of 112 E. Iroquois Rd., was hospitalized due to leg injuries suffered when she was struck by a car while riding a bicycle on Iroquois, at Mesconline road.

The driver, Judith Hamilton, 26, of 33 Illinois Ave., told police the girl ran a stop sign. Barbara is in satisfactory condition today at Pontiac General Hospital.

William G. VanBuskirk, 16, of 28 W. Fairmont Ave., was hurt when his motorbike overturned on Rutgers, near Baldwin avenue, last night.

He told police a boy ran out in front of him and he swerved to avoid him causing the mishap. He was treated at Pontiac General Hospital for leg and shoulder abrasions and released.

But He Can't Stay, Says Mrs. Levant

Oscar May Stop By for His Laundry

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Pianist Oscar Levant's wife says he can come home to pick up his laundry if he wants but after that he is going to have to leave.

Attractive June Gale Levant, about as happy as a concert pianist with two sore thumbs, served notice on her caustic-witted husband of 18 years that she has had it.

She filed for divorce Friday after the shaky star of local television accused her of trying to kill him with a pair of scissors during an argument about "other" women.

Oscar's screams were heard blocks away in their sedate, expensive neighborhood and brought Beverly Hills police to "rescue" a badly shaken Levant.

Mrs. Levant said she threw a shoe at her husband, but that's all.

"He can have all his stuff — piano, books, everything he wants," she said. "I told him that when he called me up Thursday and said he'd have to come home. I told him he was not going to come home but that he could get a moving van, back it up to the house and take everything that's his."

Levant, whose forte is sharp-tongued comments on the current scene, told his television audience he had run out of laundry since moving in with friends.

The Boston industrialist, whose gift-giving propensities and troubles with federal agencies have been making daily headlines, received the following letter from Orlando, Fla.:

"Dear Mr. Goldfine:
"I am 12 years old and I am going in the seventh grade.

"I have listen to news about you. I think you should keep sending presents and money to people. The reason I am writing to you is that I would like for you to send me around five stickout slips or crinolines.

"I know you don't know me but it would be a favor.
"Yours truly, Kathy Regan."

Crinoline slips are used to make dresses stand out stiffly. The words "size small" were written in the margin.

The letter, written in pencil, was addressed simply to "Mr. Goldfine, Washington, D. C."

Goldfine's aides said they did not know whether the little girl's wish would be granted.

Two early morning fires, one in a Southfield Township lumberyard and a second in a Detroit east side factory owned by a Metamora man, caused an estimated $180,000 damages to the buildings.

The two-story C.M. Lumber Co. storage shed at Eight Mile and Burt roads in Southfield suffered $100,000 damages, while the Essex Brass Corp., owned by John Q. Nagel, of Metamora, was hit by an $80,000 blaze which brought out 15 pieces of equipment and 85 firemen.

One fireman was overcome by smoke in the Detroit fire and plant controller, William Peers, 42, of St. Clair Shores, was stricken with a heart attack when he rushed to the scene.

TODAY'S 2-MINUTE MYSTERY

THE CASE OF
WHEN DEATH
BLOWS IN

By DONALD J. SOBOL

There are two suspects, Dr. Halejian," said Inspector Winters. "Both have seemingly strong alibis. At least guilt would be difficult to prove against either."

"The Brooks cottage overlooks the ocean, but the study in which Alfred Brooks was found shot to death faces a tropical garden in the rear of the house. The study was locked from the inside, so unquestionably the fatal shot was fired through the open garden window."

"Judith Brooks, the dead man's daughter, claims to have been in her room. She is in poor health, and high winds make her said Haledjian, "It is evident which one is lying."

WHICH ONE?

The lawyer's story was patently false. As a hurricane was blowing in from the ocean, "in from the ocean," it would have been impossible for papers to have blown into the study. The lawyer's story was patently false. As a hurricane was blowing in from the ocean, "in from the ocean," it would have been impossible for papers to have blown into the study. Finding the door locked, she climbed through the window.

nervous. She was particularly upset because the tail end of Hurricane Liza was blowing in from the Atlantic all day.

When she heard the shot, she rushed to the study, but finding the door locked, climbed in through the window. As she was opening the study door, almost overcome by hysterics, Harold McCarthy entered the cottage.

"McCarthy, the murdered man's lawyer, claims that as he left his car, the wind tore some important papers from his grasp. He had to chase them to the water's edge, where he heard the shot. I checked that part of his story, anyway; some papers were covered with moist sand."

"From the time McCarthy arrived, was either suspect out of the other's sight?" asked Haledjian.

"No. With murder committed in the house, they watched each other like hawks."

"Who benefits by the will?"

"Most of the cash and property goes to the daughter. However, McCarthy inherits a substantial amount of securities."

"From what you've told me,"

Electronic Foscic Will Fill Big Role in 1960 Census

WASHINGTON (AP)—An elaborate electronic device named "Foscic" is going to play a big role in the 1960 census.

It won't make the actual nose counts, but the U. S. Census Bureau is counting on it to speed up the job of analyzing census information—cutting the time from months to weeks.

It also is expected to save millions of dollars by doing the work which required 2,000 or more punch card operators for the 1950 census.

Like many other electronic gadgets, Foscic got its name from the initials of words describing its function—in this case "Film Optical Sensing Device for Input to Computers."

It is designed to scan raw material collected by census workers in the field and translate it into a magnetic tape that can be fed into big electronic computing machines for analysis.

These, in turn, will come up with the answers to such questions as the nation's growth and the states where it is concentrated—all in far less time than it took the last census 10 years ago.

Goes to Ranch to Find It Out

He Learns Why Son Laughs and Sneers at TV Westerns

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A few weeks ago Joe Vanducci, a diligent father, decided he should be spending more of his vacation time with his 10-year-old son, Bones.

This, he quickly discovered, involved mainly sitting in front of the television set laughing (and sneering) at the dusty progression of cowboy heroes channeled into Los Angeles each week on 23 Westerns.

Although a bit saddle-sore after successive days of watching Western exploits, Vanducci later explained that his biggest surprise was his son's cynical attitude toward the cowboys.

"To me," he explained, "cowboys had been a kind of lifelong inspiration. I admired and believed in them. I wished I could go out and ride the range with them right then."

When father Vanducci confided this secret ambition to his son, the boy gave him a long look of pity.

"Who're you kidding?" he said. "There ain't any cowboys."

Vanducci jumped at what he thought was a golden opportunity to educate his city son in the realities of the West. He resolved then and there to take the boy to a real, old-time cattle ranch and show him how wrong he was.

After considerable search and effort, he arranged for a visit to a 90,000-acre cattle ranch 130 miles southeast of this home range of Marshal Dillon, Wyatt Earp, Paladin and all the rest of Bones' shootin', ridin', heroes. This is what he found:

The ranch yard looked more like a lot used for trucks and farm implements than a corral.

A modern cowboy who used a rope on a steer would be fired, as roping makes steers nervous and puts them off their feed for four or five days, which in turn makes them lose weight and the ranch owner lose money.

The dozen cowboys working on the ranch ranged in age between 40 and 70, and all but three of them were bespectacled, paunchy, and vitally interested in such things as Social Security and income taxes.

None of the cowboys carried a gun — against the law.

One intrepid horseman had a saddle with a foam rubber seat and four carried transistor radios in saddle pouches on the rare occasions they had to be alone with the cattle.

These cowboys of the modern West hung around the ranch yard and bought their supplies — frozen meat and vegetables — from a refrigerated truck which came by three times a week.

Nadler Rings Up $180,000 on TV Quiz So Far

NEW YORK (UPI) — Former Civil Service clerk Teddy Nadler ran his television quiz show earnings to $180,000 last night by correctly answering questions on baseball.

Nadler, of St. Louis, who previously won $176,000 on "The $64,000 Challenge," (CBS-TV), tied at the $40,000 level in his current match with Frank Scott, personal and business manager to more than 90 major league baseball players.

They will continue their match next week.

In another match, Dr. Alexander Sas-Jaworsky, a veterinarian from Abbeville, La., raised his TV quiz jackpot to $136,000 by defeating Dr. Daniel Van Acker, a nuclear physicist from New York, in the "American History" category.

Van Acker, a former resident of New Orleans, failed to correctly answer a question pertaining to a boundary dispute between the United States and England in 1844. Sas-Jaworsky, who previously won $128,000 on "The $64,000 Question," challenged and corrected two mistakes made by Van Acker in a four-part question.

Funnymen Turn Out in Drove in Las Vegas

By EARL WILSON
LAS VEGAS — The funnymen are all out here in the desert now amusing the vacation tourists and so Las Vegas is one big bellylaugh.

Even Rosemary Clooney, expecting her fourth baby in October, is funny in her act where she wears a maternity dress. "This is not an endorsement of the current fashions," she announces. "The styles have finally caught up with what I've been wearing for the past four years." She adds privately, "I may not be the right shape but I'm certainly shapely."

Jack Benny, the $40,000-a-week star, asked co-star Gisele MacKenzie whether her marriage made any difference in her fiddle-playing, and she laughed, "No-o-o-o, but of course I don't fiddle around as much as I used to."

Milton Berle, class as ever, had a strange hassle with a ringside heckler, who, Berle says, made indecent remarks to him in a low voice. Berle called on the headwaiter to throw the man out—but the house was so crowded the waiters couldn't get at him. Besides, he was a rich hotel owner, and was accompanied by a prominent judge. The heckler finally got up and walked out—across the stage.

George Gobel pays a lot of tribute to the institution of marriage. Mentioning "spooky old Alice," he says, "It's fun to look back, and believe me, when you're married, that's the only way you can look." He identifies Alice as "this strange lady whose damp girdle decorates my bathroom door."

That's about it except that George mentions once living in a hotel room "so small that I had to go outside to let my mosquito bites swell."

British Doctors Discuss Plans to X-Ray Queen

LONDON (UPI) — Three doctors who have been examining Britain's ailing Queen Elizabeth II twice a day conferred today on plans to have her X-rayed.

Royal Physician Lord Evans, Sir John Weir, and ear, nose and throat specialist Cecil Hogg were expected to continue their twice-daily examinations well into this week.

The 33-year-old queen has been in bed for a week with acute catarrhal sinusitis. The doctors said she still was running a temperature.

But although she had a "restful day" yesterday, she still was far from well. There was no indication when she would be able to resume her normally heavy round of public appearances.

The queen's temperature was reported to have been hovering around 100 for several days.

Palace sources said the "acute inflammation" of her sinuses had slightly subsided and the catarrh was less severe.

Elizabeth's husband, Prince Philip, and Queen Mother Elizabeth doubled up on their own schedules to fill in for her at major appearances. Less important engagements were summarily cancelled when she became ill.

West Virginia and Ceylon are about equal in area.

Hungarians Mob U.N. Quarters

Pickets in New York Throng Soviet Offices With Police Watching

NEW YORK (AP)—Hungarian pickets marched noisily around the Soviet headquarters at the United Nations yesterday, shouting intermittently "Drop dead, Khrushchev," "Red murders" and "We love Hungary."

New York City police, mindful of a recent violent demonstration by Hungarians outside the offices, took extra precautions.

There were about 250 marchers and 147 uniformed policemen and 35 detectives around the Manhattan building. Other officers were in reserve a few blocks away.

The leader of the latest demonstration, the Rev. Imre Kovacs, pastor of the First Hungarian Reformed Church in Manhattan, asked the pickets to return every day this week through Saturday. "We should have 10,000 American boys and girls marching with us," he said.

The pickets say they are trying to annoy the Soviets out of the United Nations. They carried signs, reading "Now it is your turn to get out," "Stop butchering Hungarian patriots" and "Khrushchev is Soviet crime minister."

The demonstration, like other similar protests recently in various world capitals, was to call attention to the execution of former Hungarian Premier Imre Nagy and other leaders of the 1956 Hungarian rebellion.

Boat Tips, Man Drowns, but 5 Children Saved

HUME, Mo. (AP)—Henry Edwin Engleman of Grandview, Mo., took five children for a boat ride in a pond near here yesterday.

The boat capsized, and all five children, wearing lifejackets, were rescued. Engleman, reportedly a good swimmer, didn't have on a lifejacket.

His body was recovered by highway patrolmen.

Dutch Honor Pilgrims

How to Lick Your Way to 'My Fair Lady'

By PHYLIS BATTLE

NEW YORK — There was a day when Americans were quite delighted to get something for nothing. It was some time ago.

These days people have enough material possessions that they can afford to glare into the mouths of gift horses. They still want something for nothing—but not just anything. This is an inflation variation on integrity, and the reason pennies found in gutters aren't fun anymore.

Today, however, is a red letter (or red coupon) day in the lives of discriminating free-loaders. It marks the beginning of a new type of "supermarket premium stamp" series called "theater stamps."

By shopping in the right stores, families now can collect premium coupons, in a subdued and artistic maroon shade, which will entitle them to tickets for all the Broadway shows, movie theaters, the World Series, Carnegie Hall, circuses, rodeos, etc. In the past, such stamps were collected largely for more mundane prizes, such as pots and pans.

How does the "theater stamp" system compare?

"I tell you," says the originator of the idea, a buoyant Hungarian-born writer named Ladislav Farago. "The average American housewife spends $30 a week on food. She gets a coupon for every 10-cent purchase."

"At this rate, in two months of collecting theater stamps she can have one balcony ticket to 'My Fair Lady,'" Ladislav smiled with gentle fiendishness. "In two months of collecting other stamps, she would have not quite one pot..."

Ladislav got the idea after being bored with his supermarket prizes over the years. "One has to eat," he recalls, "so one gets stamps. I bought a wristwatch worth of coupons for my kid, and a garbage pail for my wife, and what else was there? I decided that women might prefer theater tickets to six tumblers, and we took it from there."

The idea was presented to Don Coleman, president of the Theater Corporation of America. Excitedly, he took a survey of the New York area which showed: Only one person in 1,500 is a theatergoer, and only one person in 850 has ever seen a legitimate show; yet eight out of 10 expressed a desire to become regular theatergoers.

"Then the idea spread, to include men and children," said Ladislav. "We particularly worried about the cultural habits of the children—seeing all those movies called 'I Was Dracula's Toothbrush'—what is it? So we included marionette shows, circuses and Yankee Stadium tickets in the plan. The Yankees are cultural, don't you think?"

The Department of Commerce advised Coleman and Ladislav that throughout the U.S. more than 50-million families are now pasting premium stamps in books to get a variety of items. "Imagine—all that saliva-going for culture."

The theater stamp movement, which is expected to spread throughout the U.S., is thus far limited to a 104-independent store outlet. The dickerings are still going on with supermarket chains to Coleman and Farago, but any day now," they report happily, but for everything from Bach and gasoline service stations, many demand exclusivity.

"But negotiations will be finished, it will be great not only for people, any day now," they report happily, but for everything from Bach and gasoline service stations, many demand exclusivity.
