

AWAITS DECISION — Sen. Thomas Dodd walks through a corridor today as the Senate approaches a final vote on censure charges filed against him. "I'd like to get this over with one way or another," the Connecticut Democrat said last night as the Senate recessed amid a parliamentary snarl and a flare of tempers without reaching a vote on the financial misconduct charges. For the second time in two days, the Senate overwhelmingly beat back a bid to soften the possible action against Dodd.

20 Marines Die as Copters Hit in N. Carolina

JACKSONVILLE, N.C. (AP)—Two huge troop-carrying Marine helicopters collided in flight during a training exercise today at the New River Marine Air Facility near Jacksonville. Unofficial sources at the scene said at least 20 were killed and a dozen injured.

The facility's information officer said, "We are making a head count. We do not at this time know the number of casualties, killed or injured."

The helicopters, one a Huey and the other a CH-53 "Sea Stallion," crashed at the end of runway in a wooded area.

The Sea Stallion was carrying Marine troops on a routine training mission and was coming in for a landing, a base spokesman said. The other craft was practicing touch-and-go landing.

The spokesman said the second craft apparently rose from the runway and struck the other helicopter in its belly.

The dead were not identified, pending notification of relatives.

New Grand Juror Petitions for Pratt's Secret Records

Oakland County's new grand juror, Judge James S. Thornburn, traveled to Lansing today to petition the Michigan Supreme Court to give him the secret records of his predecessor, Judge Philip Pratt.

Without the information that was compiled by Pratt during the 10 months he headed the judicial inquiry, it is believed by some courthouse observers that Thornburn's eight-week term will not have any far-reaching results.

Thornburn was appointed to the job yesterday by fellow members of the bench to fill out the remaining term of Pratt, who was disqualified last month by a ruling of the Michigan Court of Appeals.

When Pratt was named to head the

State Senate Okays Appropriation Bills

LANSING (AP)—Faced with the threat of a major budget slash, the Senate passed $465.5 million in spending bills yesterday while the House moved another $338.8 million worth of bills into position for a vote.

Meanwhile, Gov. Romney and House Republican and Democratic negotiators conferred on a means to break a logjam holding up House passage of a tax reform package to provide money to meet the bills.

Romney's budget staff prepared to introduce a new spending bill which would trim his February budget proposals from $1.153 billion down to an "austerity" level of $945.9 million.

The austerity bill was to be held ready in case the Legislature failed to pass a revenue-raising tax reform package by the end of the fiscal year on June 30.

LBJ, Kosygin Confer in N. J.

GLASSBORO, N.J. (AP)—President Johnson and Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin shook hands today and went into a historic summit meeting to examine major tensions threatening world peace.

Johnson and Kosygin arrived a half-hour apart at this little South New Jersey college town for a meeting arranged days out of suspenseful diplomatic negotiations.

Johnson arrived at the 118-year-old home of President Thomas E. Robinson of Glassboro State College at 10:45 a. m. EDT, after flying from Washington to Philadelphia and then coming here by helicopter.

Kosygin arrived in his motorcade from New York shortly after 11:15 a. m. The two smiled broadly as they shook hands and exchanged greetings.

'NICE PLACE'

"You have chosen a nice place," Kosygin commented on the meeting site as he and the President surveyed the grassy lawn with its shelter of elms, oaks and linden trees.

The President had to wait 35 minutes at the doorway of Dr. Robinson's stately home before the Soviet party, with Kosygin's black limousine in the vanguard, pulled to a stop.

It had been preceded by a squadron of police cars flashing red lights.

While he waited, the President chatted with Gov. Richard J. Hughes of New Jersey, who had, with Mrs. Hughes, greeted him on his arrival by helicopter from Philadelphia.

SOLEMN EXPRESSION

As he talked, the President's expression was solemn.

Johnson drove a quarter of a mile from the helicopter landing site to the Robinson home with his aides, in an eight-car motorcade.

"All along the routes of both the President and the Soviet leader, police were on the alert."

Kosygin had traveled the two-lane Route 322, guarded all the way by state police. Along the way, householders, even with little notice, had found time to hang out American flags.

When Kosygin finally arrived, President Johnson stepped quickly to the side of his limousine. With the President was Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

Board Moves on River Project

By JOE MULLEN

After conducting an information session yesterday in Macomb County on a proposed $70-million Clinton River improvement project, the augmented drainage board voted to proceed with first stage plans for the project.

The board comprises three members each from Oakland, Macomb, St. Clair and Lapeer counties and has, as its 13th member, the state director of agriculture.

Still in the preliminary planning stage with no cost commitments made, the river project was petitioned for by 10 Macomb County communities. The river basin to be developed includes 65 communities in the four-county area, including 39 in Oakland.

Thomas S. Welch, Macomb County drain commissioner and secretary of the augmented board, explained the nature of the proposed project, its objectives and projected costs.

Welch estimated that the river widening, deepening and straightening would take 20 years and require $35 million in local funds. He viewed the prospects of receiving federal matching funds as likely and said that state funds may also be available.

RIVER BASIN

The basin of the river which empties into Lake St. Clair has a population of 872,000 and covers 760 square miles, according to Welch.

Some 75 officials of communities in the river basin area attended the meeting, including several from Oakland County.

In answer to a question from Sherwin Brinkman, attorney for the City of Pontiac, Welch explained that the engineer-

Pontiac Div. Sets 10-Day Sales Mark

For the fourth time in the past two months, Pontiac Motor Division sales set a 10-day record.

General Sales Manager Thomas L. King said today that June 11-20 sales totaled 24,696 units, a 10 per cent increase over the 22,378 cars sold in the same period a year ago.

Since the spring upturn started, King pointed out, Pontiac sales were running ahead of the year-ago pace.

"The market for our products continues very strong," King added. "In fact, currently we're obtaining 11 per cent of domestic sales, our deepest penetration in a long time."

The previous mid-June record was set two years ago when 23,692 cars were sold.

ing work to date on the proposed project has been aimed at establishing a delineation of the river basin.

A later question was who is paying the engineering fees incurred in the project planning.

PLANNING TASK

Welch explained that Johnson & Johnson, Inc., of 2300 Dixie, Waterford Township, has accepted the planning task on a "no remuneration" basis while approval of the project is pending.

Welch said that the augmented board interviewed five engineering firms before selecting Johnson & Johnson and that all five were willing to "gamble" on the preliminary work if they would be retained and reimbursed when the project is approved.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate voted today to censure Sen. Thomas J. Dodd for converting to his personal benefit funds obtained "from the public through political testimonials and a political campaign." This was one of two counts on which the Senate ethics committee recommended that the Connecticut Democrat be censured for conduct that tends to bring the Senate into dishonor and disrepute.

Mrs. Fruehauf Tells of Beating

By JIM LONG

Mrs. Roy Fruehauf, wife of the late trailer manufacturer, testified yesterday that she was beaten so badly by her ex-boyfriend, Donald DeClercq of Detroit, that she thought she was a "prizefighter."

The attractive widow was one of two witnesses to take the stand at DeClercq's preliminary court examination on an aggravated assault charge brought against him by Mrs. Fruehauf.

Following the two-hour hearing in the West Bloomfield Township Justice Court, Judge Robert Scott ordered DeClercq, 30, bound over to Oakland County Circuit Court for arraignment on the charge July 6 before Judge Arthur E. Moore.

The alleged incident occurred, according to Mrs. Fruehauf, early the morning of Feb. 15 after DeClercq came to her home at 533 Middle Belt, West Bloomfield Township, with a Valentine Day gift for her.

"We had broken up by that time. I didn't want anything to do with him, but he wanted to make up," Mrs. Fruehauf said on being questioned by Asst. Prosecutor John Davey.

'ARGUMENT ENSUED'

The 42-year-old widow said as the evening wore on, an argument ensued over the repayment of $25,000 she had loaned DeClercq.

"He called me every name he could think of," said Mrs. Fruehauf, "and started throwing anything he could get his hands on."

House Panel Clears Bill on Riot Agitators

WASHINGTON (AP) — this summer to the Capitol's doorstep. Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz, testifying before another committee, said rioters are blocking "real, honest efforts to help their cause."

CRITICIZES CONGRESSMEN
But Wirtz also criticized congressmen who attack administration antiriot programs he said helped avert the kind of racial unrest the same congressmen deplored.

In another part of Washington—a former shoeshine parlor that now is headquarters for the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee—the SNCC chairman, Rap Brown, said trouble administration weighed in with sharp criticism of rioting. And a civil rights leader warned violence could spread lies ahead unless Negroes get more representation on the capital's ruling councils. A majority of the city's population is Negro.

Responding to a white newsman's question, Brown said: "If you view yourself as a honky and antiblack, you should start moving right now. If you are a friend of the black people, bring some guns."

"If America chooses to play Nazis, the black people ain't going to play Jews," he added. House Speaker John W. McCormack endorsed the House Judiciary subcommittee's approval of the antiriot bill, saying he strongly favored such legislation.

FAST ACTION SEEN

Prospects appeared to be for prompt approval by the full committee and speedy passage by the House.

Chairman Emmanuel Celler, D-N.Y., succeeded in tying to the measure a provision aimed at guaranteeing Negroes against interference with their civil rights, such as voting, attending public schools and using public accommodations.

The same provision, part of last year's civil rights legislation, won House approval last year but died when the Senate sank the entire package.

On the Senate side, the administration's antiriot chief conceded his prediction last year that the war on poverty would be won in 10 years had been optimistic. Sargent Shriver, director of the Office of Economic Opportunity, told a Senate antiriot subcommittee that cutbacks in funds means "it will take a lot longer than 10 years."

"The great turbulence in universities across America has been created and nurtured by those outside the broad areas of engineering," Varner said.

"To the extent that they are disruptive, you must share the guilt. To the extent that they consume resources in an unproductive way, you too, have been wasteful."

'HIPPIES' ACTIVISTS
During the past three years, the problem of dealing with "hippies" and "activists" has commanded more "highly unproductive" time than conventional problems of money and personnel, he related as head of MSU's sister institution for 10 years.

University heads and governing bodies are haunted by the agony of finding the right balance of limits of student and faculty dissident groups, Varner noted.

Birmingham Area News Handicapped Danes to Visit

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — The Cranbrook Academy of Art will be host for a group of 50 severely handicapped young men and women from Denmark from July 12 to 15.

The group is a part of a project called "DIADEM-Return," initiated by Marshall M. Fredricks, of the District of Columbia, and Urban Hansen, Lord Mayor of Copenhagen, Denmark.

The group will make a 3,500-mile tour of the U.S. both to visit and to see what is being done here to help the handicapped.

The original DIADEM program (Disabled Americans' Denmark Meeting) saw 53 handicapped young Americans, one from each state, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands, visit Denmark in 1956.

They traveled widely in the country and Sweden. Seminars were attended with other handicapped persons from Scandinavia.

Frederick, who was instrumental in organizing and financing both trips, accompanied the Americans to Denmark.

"It was an invaluable opportunity to exchange information about rehabilitation facilities and methods as well as furthering understanding of the special problems of the handicapped."

"It also had great value in furthering friendly relations between Europe and the United States," he said.

"Now we are most pleased to return the great courtesy shown our young people in Denmark by hosting these remarkable young Danes who have been chosen for their courage and resourcefulness in overcoming their disabilities," Fredricks said.

LUNCHEONS, TOURS

During their Cranbrook stay, the group will be hosted by the Ford Motor Co. for a luncheon and tour of Greenfield Village, Henry Ford Museum and the Rouge plant.

General Motors Corp. will also host a luncheon and tour of the GM Technical Center, Warren.

Dinner at the International Institute with Gov. and Mrs. Romney, a trip to Windsor and recreation activities with the Danish community are also planned.

DIADEM — Return is under the joint sponsorship of the Eastern Seal Society and the Committee for the Handicapped of the People-to-People Program.

In cooperation with the President's Committee on Employment of the Handicapped, Danish organizations back the program and Her Royal Highness Princess Benedikte is patroness. Cochairman in the U.S. is Fredericks and Dr. Frank H. Krusen of Temple University, Philadelphia.

Heart Disease Caused Death

The death of a 75-year-old Avon Township man, whose car was involved in a traffic accident in downtown Pontiac shortly after 11 a.m. yesterday, has been attributed to heart disease. Results of the autopsy performed this morning were revealed by city police.

The victim was identified as George Stancome of 3086 Greenwood. He was dead on arrival at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital.

The accident occurred on West Lawrence near North Saginaw. Stancome's car struck the rear of a Michigan Bell Telephone Co. truck driven by William H. Gorsline, 46, of 911 N. Johnson, according to witnesses.

The impact forced Gorsline's vehicle into a pedestrian, Charles H. Harmon Jr., 34, of 41 Thorpe, who was knocked down.

Gorsline and Harmon were treated at Pontiac General Hospital and released.

Urging More Services to Curb Delinquency

Michigan probate judges, meeting at Gaylord for their annual conference yesterday, passed a resolution urging the Legislature to maintain and expand the services to delinquent and neglected youngsters by the Department of Social Services.

Oakland County Probate Judge Eugene A. Moore, who is attending the three-day meeting, said the resolution was adopted because of the defeat of fiscal reform, and Gov. Romney's proposal to cut state services by 15 per cent.

The appropriation for the department is presently inadequate, according to the resolution, and if the program is not expanded, "a rise in crime will result."

Moore said that a reduction in funds to the Department of Social Services would not affect Oakland County as much as it would hurt other counties in the state.

The burden on the department isn't as heavy in Oakland County because of the many county agencies serving children, according to Moore.

Thirteen other defendants appearing in the District Court guarded by heavily armed officers were ordered by Judge Joe Angel of Las Vegas, N.M., held in lieu of $2,500 bond.

Witnesses, under direct examination by Dist. Atty. Alfonso Sanchez of Santa Fe, placed Tijerina, Valdez, Leyba and Apodaca at the scene. Judge Angel said at the hearing that the presumption was great and the evidence was substantial to sustain the first-degree charge.

Angel said Sanchez has asked that the case be moved from Rio Arriba County to either Santa Fe or Los Alamos County.

Defense attorneys say they do not want the case moved away from Rio Arriba County.

This placed the trial at the courthouse in Tierra Amarilla where two police officers were wounded, two hostages taken and several persons held captive June 5.

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — Four members of a band of Spanish-Americans arraigned in connection with an armed raid on a rural courthouse have been ordered held without bond in the state prison for safekeeping.

They also were charged with assault to commit murder and assault on a jail.

GOP Faction Hits Metro Bill

The dissident 19th Congressional District Republican executive committee has called for defeat of preliminary legislation for the six-county Council of Governments (COG) now before the State Legislature.

Christian F. Powell, chairman of the GOP committee, said that COG seems contrary to the concepts of local sovereignty and may interfere with local facilities, customs and institutions.

"It apparently entails giving up freedom of action and centralizes government power in the hands of a few," Powell added.

The committee, in calling for defeat of COG legislation, cited four reasons in the resolution it passed.

These were that members of COG serving Southeastern Michigan including Oakland County are not elected, that members are not responsible to citizens, that power granted to COG is taken away from local governments and that COG's decisions are not subject to review or referendum by the citizens.

Boy Rescued, Then Dies

BRIGHTON (UPI) — A teenage boy died last night several hours after he was pulled from a lake by a young girl and revived by mouth-to-mouth resuscitation.

Doctors said death was caused by heart failure.

One Oil Tank Explodes, 2 Spared in Aden Terror

ADEN (AP) — A large storage tank was ripped open today by a terrorist's plastic bomb and British authorities found explosive charges on two nearby tanks as the oil poured out of the ripped tank but did not explode or burn.

A total of 50,000 tons of refined diesel fuel was in the three tanks, which stand just 40 yards from five more tanks each holding 13,000 tons of fuel. The fuse on one charge had burned out just short of the detonator.

The British intensified security precautions at oil installations throughout the South Arabian protectorate.

"If the charges had gone off as planned by the nationalists, Aden would have had its biggest fire and the surface of the harbor could well have blazed," officials said.

Rival terrorist groups fought in Aden's Crater section Thursday and heavily armed British troops sealed off the district but made no move to halt the fighting. One terrorist sniper was killed by another. His body was dragged away by a mob and burned.

A series of battles that began Tuesday have killed 22 British soldiers, nine terrorists and two Arabers. At least 30 British and 15 Arabs were wounded.

Summit Details Are Overcome

GLASSBORO, N.J. (AP) — The decision reached by President Johnson and Premier Alexei N. Kosygin to meet for at least a little while ended one of the most intensive diplomatic tennis games the world has seen in several years.

For a week the President and the Soviet leader have battled back and forth the question of when and where they should talk — and whether they should talk at all.

The issue overshadowed the special session of the U.N. General Assembly on the Middle East crisis which brought Kosygin across the Atlantic.

U.S. officials privately agree that if the negotiations had failed to produce a conference, there would have been a bad worldwide reaction except in Communist China and the Arab states.

The Chinese Communists, who frequently charge the Soviet Union with plotting with the United States, and the Arabs, who rely heavily on Soviet opposition to the United States in the Middle East, are expected to react to the Johnson-Kosygin summit with varying degrees of indignation and suspicion. This is believed to have been the major reason underlying Kosygin's refusal to consider Washington as a meeting place; he wanted to minimize his Chinese and Arab problems.

The diplomatic exchange began last weekend when Johnson invited Kosygin, who arrived Saturday, to visit him in Washington during his stay in the United States. The President offered the White House, Camp David, Md., or some nearby mountain resort in Virginia or West Virginia as a site.

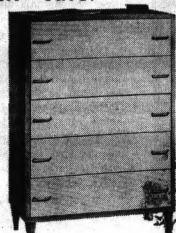

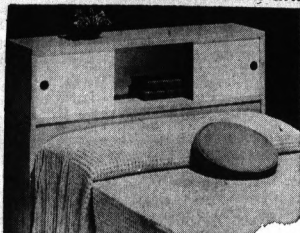

Kosygin replied, according to U.S. officials, that he had come to attend the U.N. session rather than to visit the United States and he was therefore unable to accept the invitation. Johnson was reported to regret the rejection, but he considered his invitation still open.

This exchange was handled by the U.S. ambassador to Moscow, Llewellyn Thompson, who happened to be in Washington, and the Soviet ambassador to Washington, Anatoly Dobrynin.

The nature of the President's invitation and Kosygin's reply became known publicly last Monday night. The disclosure is reported to have caused a stir among Kosygin's 66-man delegation to the U.N. General Assembly session, and on Tuesday Thompson and Dobrynin were in touch again. The question then arose whether the Soviet premier was opposed to any meeting with the President at this time or whether the problem was of place.

Features 300 Animals and Birds

Groveland Pair Have Own Zoo

By ED BLUNDEN
GROVELAND TOWNSHIP — "It gets to be a sort of fever," said Mrs. Hans Schierup of 10413 Oakhill, explaining how she and her husband acquired over 300 animals and birds in their private zoo.

On their property are creatures as large as a family of llamas from South America and as small as the tiny—about 2 inches long—young of the button quail from the Philippines.

The collecting and raising of exotic birds and beasts is a hobby shared by many people, Mrs. Schierup said.

"You'd be surprised how many people are interested. Many doctors and lawyers take it up. It's very relaxing," she said.

Mrs. Schierup's husband works for the Sealtest Milk Co. on a wholesale milk route. "He works long hours and when he comes home he just loves to go out and take care of the animals. It relaxes him," she said.

10 ACRES

Schierup came from Denmark 33 years ago and worked for the same company since then, his wife said. About 10 years ago they moved to their Oakhill address where they have about 10 acres.

Their hobby began with the purchase of a pair of pheasants. After that the "fever" grew until they became keepers of a large private zoo.

About six years ago, the Schierups dug a large pond adjacent to their home. This now is the habitat of an assortment of ducks and swans from all over the world.

These include black swans from Australia, English call ducks, black East India ducks, and a pair of black-neck swans from South America that cost $500.

The cost of feeding the menagerie runs from $35 to $40 per week, Mrs. Schierup said. It would cost more than that, but a cabbage patch and a couple of acres planted with grain help with the feed bill.

Her husband also gets lettuce, leavings and stale bread from store customers along his milk route, his wife said.

They belong to the Michigan

Game Breeders Society and the American Pheasant and Water Fowl Society. These groups publish bulletins that contain information on the hobby.

"When a bulletin comes in, we drop everything to read," Mrs. Schierup said.

OSTRICH PAIR

Most of the trading and sales takes place between hobbyists. Her husband recently ordered a pair of rheas, a New World ostrich that stands about three feet high, from Miami that came by airfreight.

Last January her husband bought a pair of llamas from Ohio and brought them back in a trailer. But then in April the female gave birth. The addition to the family is named "Surprise," Mrs. Schierup said.

All the animals have names and seem to recognize them as Mrs. Schierup makes her rounds.

"At present she has a problem with four Persian, or karakul, sheep. The large creatures have enormous coats of fluffy (and expensive) fur."

BUSY SHEARER

"We have to get a man to come out and shear them, but he's pretty busy and doesn't like to make the trip when we have so few," she said.

Mrs. Schierup seems to enjoy caring for the animals in addition to her household duties. She admits to being as much a fan of exotic animal keeping as her husband.

"Just ask him. He'll say I'm worse," she said.

SHARING A SNACK—A llama and a chicken are mess-mates at the Hans Schierup home in Groveland Township. About 300 exotic animals and birds live on the property.

Supervisor Recall Bid Halted in Commerce

COMMERCE TOWNSHIP — A recall drive launched a month ago against newly appointed Township Supervisor Robert H. Long has apparently been halted at least for a while.

Arthur Lange, who was circulating petitions seeking a special recall vote, said his group has decided to "sit back and wait" and give Long "an opportunity to prove his value."

"I still feel the supervisor should be elected," said Lange, "but at the Township Board meeting recently, Mr. Long conducted one of the finest meetings I have ever attended.

"He allowed full citizen participation and listened to everyone."

Lange said he feels there is a need for better communication between the citizens and the government and that Long "appears to be trying to keep the lines of communication open."

'DEPRIVED OF RIGHT'

Lange originally sought a recall because he said the "people have been deprived of their right to a duly elected supervisor rather than an appointed one."

Last month the Township Board appointed Long, a board member, to replace Thomas Tiley, supervisor for 10 years who resigned for health reasons. Tiley was re-elected to a two-year term last fall.

Tiley was then appointed as a trustee to replace Long on the board.

At that time, Tiley pointed out that the law specifically empowers the Township Board to appoint a replacement.

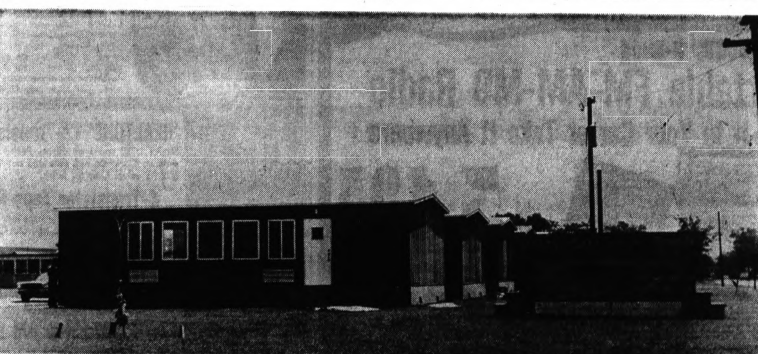

42 Beauties Seek 10 Spots

MUSKEGON (AP) — The parade of pulchritude in the Miss Michigan contest continues to-night with 42 girls vying for the 10 semifinalist spots.

Carin Reinemuth of Hillsdale took preliminary honors in the talent contest, singing a selection from "The Merry Widow."

Susan Stevenson of Onkema, a tall junior at Central Michigan University, won the swimsuit preliminary. Miss Stevenson stands 5-8½ and measures 36-25-36.

Saturday the field of 42 will be cut to 10, with Miss Michigan announced Saturday night.

NEW CLASSROOMS — These portable classrooms at Walled Lake Senior High School will be used to solve anticipated overcrowded conditions next year when enrollment is expected to jump

Children Have Reading Club

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — Township youngsters will have an opportunity to improve their reading this summer and be rewarded for it at the same time.

The Union Lake American Association of University Women has started a Winnie The Pooh Reading Club for township children in the West Acres branch of the township library.

All township children in grades two through six are eligible to participate in the program.

Children in grades two through four who read 12 books this summer will receive certificates as will those in grades four through six who read 16 books. Those who read more than their quota will earn gold stars on their certificates.

Interested children can register at the library from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday and from noon to 8 p.m. on Wednesday.

The program will continue through Aug. 10.

STORY HOUR

The AAUW is also conducting a story hour to be held at the library at 10:30 a.m. each Thursday in July.

Orchard Lake Sewers, Water Eyed

ORCHARD LAKE — A sanitary sewer system to serve a portion of the city and a joint water system with West Bloomfield Township are being considered by the City Council.

The cost of the sanitary sewer system, which would serve an area between Orchard and Upper Straits lakes, has been estimated at $855,000.

The cost of the water system, which would make use of Detroit water, has not yet been estimated.

M. D. Waring, consulting engineer for Hubbell, Roth and Clark, Inc., said that the cost of the sewer system is based on a total projection of 510 connections at the end of 30 years.

He said it would currently serve 154 homes in Shady Beach, Shady Beach Heights and West Shores subdivisions and the Orchard Lake Country Club.

WOULD TIE IN

The system, he said, would tie into the Clinton-Oakland Sewage Disposal System.

Both projects are simply under study, he pointed out, and no action has been taken on either.

Last year, the council, in a 3-3 vote, rejected a proposal to join the Clinton-Oakland Sewage Disposal System.

Those opposed at that time said they felt the city did not need sewers now or in the near future.

Those in favor of the system said the "need was great" for a sewer system.

The city's two neighboring communities, Keego Harbor and West Bloomfield Township have already started work on plans or systems to tie into the Detroit water system.

9 Candidates to Compete for Title of Miss Romeo

ROMEO — Nine candidates tomorrow night will vie for the title of Miss Romeo at the Romeo Community Youth and Civic Center.

The contest, sponsored by the Romeo Festival Association, will begin at 8 p.m. and is open to the public.

The winner will represent Romeo in the Romeo Peach Queen Contest to be held in August.

O'Brien, 344 Pleasant; and Wanda Rohloff, 6468 Wicklow Hill.

From Washington Township are Francine Eterno, 8540 Pilgrim, and Phyllis Nettle, 60762 Campground.

Competing from Armada is Lorraine Quinn, 17820 34 Mile.

Capac Man Freed in Imlay City Killing

IMLAY CITY — A Capac man, held in Lapeer County Jail in connection with a shooting here early Wednesday, was released late yesterday afternoon.

Imlay City Police Chief Lawrence Dougherty said the man, Bryon R. Dawson of 15707 Norman, Capac, was released because he had not found enough evidence to warrant holding him further.

The victim of the shooting was Robert Brown, 25, of 242 S. Almont, Imlay City. He was dead on arrival at Lapeer County General Hospital after being shot in the parking lot of the Imlay City Lounge, 280 S. Cedar, early Wednesday.

Dougherty refused to talk about his investigation or about circumstances surrounding the incident.

Dawson had been apprehended by Pontiac police after a minor traffic accident in Pontiac. No charge had been filed against him, said Dougherty.

Republican Club Slates Meeting

COMMERCE TOWNSHIP — The Commerce Township Republican Club will meet at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the Walled Lake Senior High School.

New activities will be discussed, and interested persons are being encouraged to participate.

Music Workshop

EAST LANSING (AP) — More than 100 organists and choir directors from Michigan and neighboring states are expected July 10-13 at the 13th annual church music workshop at Michigan State University.

LEARY Q. WOOD

Installation Set by Lions Club in Ortonville

ORTONVILLE — Leary Q. Wood will be installed as president of the Ortonville Lions Club at 7 p.m. tomorrow at Wildwood Inn, 1000 Bird.

Other officers to be installed are Karl Kalamaja, first vice president; Ronald Richards, second vice president; Elmer Seelbinder, third vice president; Donald Vogel, secretary; and Vernon Hutchings, treasurer.

Others taking office include Kenneth Faust, lion tamer; Curtis Eggleston, tallwister; and Fred Fish, Arnold Seelbinder, and Norman Sharrard, directors.

Rochester Fills School Position

ROCHESTER — Schools Supt. Douglas B. Lund has announced the appointment of Charles L. Johnson to the post of director of instruction for the school system.

Johnson replaces Harlan Johnson, whose resignation for health reasons will be effective at the end of the month.

The new administrator has been director of instruction for Avondale Schools for the past three years.

Prior to that he was an elementary school principal in Avondale and a teacher in the Troy School System.

He lives with his wife and two children at 834 Lyndale, Avon Township.

Soviet Allies Getting Up-to-Date Arms

By K. C. THALER
LONDON (UPI) — The supply by Russia of sophisticated, up-to-date weapons to her allies has heightened Allied fears for future peace prospects.

Such weapons were discovered by the Israelis during their advance into Egypt.

Details are now being disclosed of the latest type weapons which so far have been unknown to the West and, according to some reports, have not even been seen with the Soviet forces.

This development represents a marked change in the Kremlin's policy, which has been to supply only obsolete weapons to her allies and potential allies, but never to allow latest-type arms to leave the U.S.S.R.

The first indications of this change came from the Vietnam fronts when MIG21 supersonic fighters appeared in numbers in battles against American planes.

SAMS APPEARED

Then Russia began to make known to her friends in Hanoi surface-to-air missiles (SAMS) on an increasing scale. Some, incidentally, fell into Red China's hands and are believed to be providing valuable information for Peking's own rocket development program.

Reports from Israel reaching here mentioned the presence of Soviet-supplied radar-controlled ground-to-air missiles, antitank rockets allegedly superior to anything known in the West, radar installations for correcting the range of artillery fire on moving targets and a howitzer with a 10-mile range.

Western diplomats and experts alike are surprised that Russia should place such weapons into foreign hands, and in inexperienced hands at that.

Whether Russia anticipated

New Troop Garb

BOSTON (AP)—This summer Massachusetts state troopers started wearing a new lightweight uniform, including a short-sleeved shirt, tropical-weight slacks and a straw campaign hat. They replaced the breeches and boots that had been the uniform for 46 years.

the risk of their falling into Western hands appears doubtful. There may be some anxious slip-searching in the Kremlin about the effect of this slip-up.

FUTURE THREAT

What worries Western governments is the threat that this development poses for the future.

The fact that deadly, sophisticated weapons are being put into the hands of people who ostensibly cannot be trusted to use them properly is causing anxiety.

But the prospects that even deadlier weapons might be passed onto small nations whose leaders may be prepared to use them in a do-or-die mood is causing outright alarm.

Charles W. Hayner

Pontiac loses an able business executive and an estimable citizen in the death of CHARLES W. HAYNER at 73.

Mr. HAYNER's early years were spent in Durand, his birthplace. Thereafter, his local residence spanned nearly half a century, during which he engaged in banking and fiduciary pursuits and for 17 years had served as manager of the Pontiac State Bank Building.

and warm personality had won a wide circle of friends. Devotion to his occupational responsibilities left little time for recreational activities, though fishing and golf had provided occasional outlets for relaxation.

Mr. HAYNER served his country in the armed forces in World War I and earned a Selective Service medal for his service on an area draft board throughout World War II. He was active in fraternal and civic affairs and devoted to many worthy causes.

CHARLES HAYNER well fulfilled his earthly mission, and in bowing to the inevitable destiny of all men leaves behind an exemplary record of it.

U.N. 'Beggars' Shouldn't Be Choosers

Since the General Assembly of the United Nations seems to have superseded the Security Council of the organization as the cockpit for thrashing out world peace-keeping measures, the matter of national delinquency in U.N. dues and assessments — and consequently the right to vote — again comes to the fore.

This has been a thorny problem for many years, and one of increasing concern in Congress.

Under Article 19 of the U.N. Charter, any nation more than two years in arrears is supposedly subject to loss of its voting rights. There are now 32 nations in that category, but they continue to vote nonetheless.

Moreover, State Department data show that 108 of the 122 member nations are now delinquent in one form or another and 69 are over one year in arrears.

Regardless of its effect on the matter of immediate concern — the Middle East crisis — the mounting total of delinquency of U.N. members, which now stands at $187 million, may have consequences affecting American foreign policy.

Last year, Sen. Jack Miller, R-

Iowa, just missed in linking U.S. foreign aid to U.N. delinquency. He proposed an amendment to the aid bill which would have cut off U.S. assistance to any nation more than one year in arrears in its U.N. indebtedness. It was adopted by the Senate but went down the drain in a House conference committee due to Administration opposition and pressure.

Miller first introduced his amendment several years ago. At that time 25 nations more than a year delinquent in U.N. obligations were receiving U.S. aid. Last year, the total rose to 46, and today it is 56.

Although it will undoubtedly again be opposed by the State Department as infringing on its freedom of action, the Senator's amendment might this year make the grade.

The attitude of the 90th Congress toward our uninhibited philanthropy to importunate nations is commendably hard-nosed. It's about time an arm of Federal government looked at foreign aid through glasses of realism.

Pretzel Producers Take Dough-ty Stand

Here's good news:

"Despite the sober facts of creeping inflation, inadequate labor supply, increases in labor costs and an economy under the growing strain of war, the quality of pretzels will be maintained," says an editorial in the organ of the National Pretzel Bakers Institute.

Every pretzel manufacturer is committed to hold the line on high quality, the editorial declares, adding that "there will be no deterioration of this fine snack food that has persisted to entice and delight the consumer throughout all the stresses of all the wars and disturbances since A.D. 610."

Something to chew on.

Animal Tale of 'No Pet' Household

By L. GARY THORNE

Asst. City Editor—Suburban Pets—dogs, dandruff and other insects—in the normal course of things are not welcomed at our house.

Other families may tolerate animals, but we, or at least I, do not. It's a purely personal preference.

It was some time ago that THORNE I, as captain of the ship and grand exalted master of the household, declared emphatically: "There will be no pets."

Two dogs, a cat and a pair of matching parakeets later, I stand by my original decree. You can immediately see who rules the roost.

In any event, I must confess I was the first to break my own rule. After much begging, pleading and crying, I presented my little new bride with a cuddly little pup. A feed and grain store robbed me of $5 for the privilege. The dog was a product of promiscuous parents.

My bride was happy. She stayed happy for two whole weeks. It was about then that it was decided that the dog never was going to be housebroken.

"Let's face it," I said, "there are dumb people so there must be dumb dogs, too."

That dog was put up for adoption.

The second dog admitted to the premises was also of uncertain parentage. He seemed nevertheless a friendly creature, and managed some control.

This latter achievement, while an improvement over his predecessor, never did endear the animal to me. In fact, there was a certain satisfaction in watching my helpmate dash screaming to the rescue of her carpet.

The new mutt couldn't adjust to indoor living, though. Indicating only casual interest in bones and dog food, he ate anything he could wrap his teeth around. He had to go.

Next came two parakeets (I thought they were canaries until last week). Two parakeets "It was a large cage," she said.

ually, it was a kitten . . . the difference being a matter of age.

While the cat has an affectionate gleam for the parakeets, they so far have let one another alone, although I suspect the cat has no love for me.

Events at the zoo were going along fine, the birds not uttering a word and the cat only occasionally making a grab for a bared leg with its razor-sharp claws.

However, the even course of things came to an abrupt halt over a recent weekend. The cat came limping home from one of its many outings with its undercarriage hanging low.

A layman's inspection disclosed no firm conclusion except that something was wrong. An expert was consulted. The vet said the cat had a hernia.

That too, passed, with the aid of a $30 surgery bill. The cat did fine, although I nearly passed out at the bill.

Meantime, our toddler wants to adopt the toads that periodically appear in the backyard. Like I once said . . . "There will be no pets."

David Lawrence Says:

Dodd Motion Misses the Point

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — The motion in the Senate to rebuke Sen. Thomas Dodd of Connecticut, Democrat, settles nothing. It administers a reprimand and admonishes everybody in the upper house not to become a victim of the same indiscretions and mistakes. But it doesn't clarify what is or is LAWRENCE not ethical for a member of Congress to do or what is the true significance of a campaign contribution made to help elect someone to public office.

The unanswered question is: Does a contribution of any kind put the elected official under obligation?

Campaign contributions have to be publicly disclosed under federal and state laws. But most important of all is the fact that the winning candidate knows who has contributed money to his campaign fund.

If those citizens who give money to campaigns do obtain benefits which are denied other voters, is there any tribunal which could pass judgment on whether favoritism is involved and whether the elected official who accepts money and disburses favors is guilty of having succumbed in some way to money's influence?

Sen. Dodd is accused of having used private funds for personal purposes — money that some of his constituents gave him.

The Dodd case, therefore, raises a new issue: What are the rules that should regulate the use of contributions, and what are personal and what are political expenses?

The more the subject is studied, the more members of Congress will find themselves influenced now by the public condemnation of money-raising for individual use.

Now that so much of a furor has been raised, however, the natural thing is to expect the Senate and the House to draw up regulations covering the conduct of their own members and make it clear what type of expenses of a personal nature, if any, can be paid for out of campaign contributions. It will be necessary also to define the use of money derived from "testimonial dinners."

The ideal system would be one in which people made campaign contributions to a government agency which would supervise the expenditure of the funds for both parties.

But even when all the rules and regulations are explicitly written, it would still be possible for some friend of an elected or defeated candidate to go out among the voters and ask them to make small gifts to cover personal expenses incurred before or during a campaign.

Humorist Remembers Rough Chicago Days

NEW YORK — Jack Waldron, a first-class stand-up-and-stare-em-down humorist.

There would be no sense in calling him a comic. A comic suggests a putty nose or some body who, as Bugs Baer once suggests, as the surest laugh of all, shoots a gun and falls on his prat.

Jack Waldron came along in the years, particularly around Chicago, when a fellow could be killed or slashed to ribbons if (1) He wasn't funny enough or (2) Tried to get a better job from a joint owned by another mob.

Joe E. Lewis, one of the last and greatest of the species, carries the scars of that forgotten war with the nonchalant air of a hero with a Silver Star boutonniere.

"It's hard to believe what power the mobs had in those days," Jack was saying at Horace McMahon's table at Toots Shor's the other day.

Jack knew Al Capone, Jack McGurn, Bugs Moran . . . "Jack McGurn killed the guys in St. Valentine's Day Massacre. He was a strange one, McGurn. Very good golfer, you know. Could have been a pro. He got his greatest kicks out of going home in the afternoon and listening to Bing Crosby records."

"He missed killing Bugs Moran, the fellow he probably wanted to kill."

"Bugs was commander of the North Side in Chicago. He was invited to attend the meeting at the Clark Street garage where the others got hit."

"Bugs would have been hit, too, but as he started to get out of his car he noticed the cops that were around the place. He noticed that their pants didn't seem to fit."

"He said to himself that cops — real cops — may have shirts and jackets that don't fit but their pants always fit. So he got back in the car."

"They weren't cops, of course, any more than McGurn was. And that saved his life — for a time, of course."

McGurn gave a party to celebrate the slaughter. He commanded Jack Waldron to be present. Jack went. One of his best-liked numbers at the time was "Singing in the Rain," during which he popped an umbrella and a stage hand would pour a pitcher of water over the umbrella.

"McGurn had his shoes off and was drunk and I was nervous," Waldron said the other day.

"I was so nervous I didn't notice that he had a seller bottle on his table."

"He told me to sit down and sing him 'Singing in the Rain.'"

"I started it and he picked up the bottle, squirted it all over me, and fell on the floor laughing at his joke."

"I walked home through a Chicago winter, a sheet of ice."

Law and Rails

The Christian Science Monitor

President Johnson's railway mediation law has been switched onto a siding mainly through his own fault.

His failure to honor his year-and-a-half-old pledge to support legislation outlawing all strikes which harm the national interest has resulted in the House of Representatives' refusal to pass such legislation for the railways.

It is possible, but far from certain, that the House can be brought to reverse its decision. We hope that it can.

By an even more overwhelming vote (70 to 15) the Senate passed the President's proposal. Thus the two branches must iron out the very great differences in their approaches to the problem.

While, believing that the House's action was shortsighted and harmful to the nation, we also feel that the main problem today is the administration's lack of political courage in facing what must needs be done.

Although the President pledged in January, 1966, that he would introduce legislation to deal with "strikes which threaten irreparable damage to the national interest," he has steadfastly refused to live up to his promise.

Yet there has been, in the meanwhile, ample evidence

When our Oakland County parks commission was being voted on it was publicized that it would develop much needed recreation facilities in the County. Now they buy Dr. Mathews' property which is already developed and paying taxes.

Under County ownership it will undoubtedly be removed from the tax rolls of Groveland Township, which is already one-fourth government owned. This will make an ever-increasing burden on the private property taxpayers.

I can show these gentlemen storm sewers that haven't been cleaned in years. One location is in the area bounded by Montcalm, Glenwood, Perry and Joslyn. A little cleaning in this area might save tempers of property owners. A little action by our public works crew would be appreciated.

Is there any way to outlaw throw-away cans and bottles in Michigan or Oakland County? It must cost thousands of dollars to clean up the mess, and the only solution I can see is to outlaw throw-aways and put a large deposit on others.

Action on this matter could be taken through the State Legislature, and we suggest you discuss it with your State Representative and Senator. Perhaps you and others who feel the same could persuade them to introduce such legislation at the next session.

of how badly such a law is needed. First, there was last summer's costly and disastrous airlines strike. Now there is the threat of a national rail shutdown.

President Johnson is making a serious mistake if he believes that, by hearkening to labor leaders rather than to the interests of the country as a whole, he is strengthening his political position.

National interest comes before the partisan wishes of any group however powerful.

Rejects . . .

Chicago Tribune

While Prime Minister Kosygin and President Johnson sparred over summation of a get-together, right in New York there are dozens of erstwhile Russians with whom he could have had equally friendly chats if he were to take the time to call on them.

New York is loaded, for example, with emigre Russian princes whose families escaped from Russia when the Romanov dynasty was thrown out in 1917.

As children, some of these ex-princes may even have played with toy soldiers in the office Mr. Kosygin now occupies in the Kremlin. If not, he could still reminisce with them about life in the winter palace at Livadia.

Mr. Kosygin would need only stroll up to 91st street to pay a quiet call on the first Russian minister of post-war Russia, Alexander Kerensky. Mr. Kerensky was rudely thrown out by the bolsheviks after only a few months.

A short drive over to 8th Avenue would bring him to the office of Countess Alexandra Tolstoy, daughter of the Tolstoy, whom the late Prime Minister Stalin forced to leave Russia in 1929 because she believed in God.

And out on Long Island there is Stalin's own daughter, Svetlana, who recently fled Russia because of the tyranny which persists under Mr. Kosygin himself. They could talk about how beautiful the snow is in the Urals.

Even if conversation with these people should begin to drag, Mr. Kosygin's time wouldn't be wasted. They might know of some nice apartments for him to keep in mind if he should ever find it necessary to think of coming to New York to live.

Against Senior Republican Domination

Young GOP in Open Revolt

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — In future of their organization in his hands. Senior Republicans reacted quickly to Thursday's rejection of a chairman who may have the eration convention of a series of amendments to their constitution which would have strengthened the hand of GOP National Chairman Ray Bliss in dealing with them.

The young GOP first rejected a constitutional amendment that would allow the senior organization to put two observers on the Young Republicans executive board.

Then, perhaps fearful they had gone too far in rebuffing the man who holds the purse strings, they approved a change in bylaws to permit two members of the Republican National Committee to sit with the Young Republicans executive group. The bylaws change could be rescinded at any time by another convention.

MINORITY DISSENT

To emphasize its departure from routine support of the national party, the convention declined to give unanimous approval of a resolution offered by the moderate Pennsylvania delegation praising Bliss. Instead, this issue was put to a voice vote in which a few conservatives shouted their minority dissent.

Quick parliamentary footwork by retiring National Chairman Tom Van Sickle of Kansas prevented a roll call vote.

Jack McDonald of Nashville, Tenn., considered most likely to be elected national Young Republicans chairman today, said that if he is chosen to head the organization he will cooperate closely with Bliss. This cooperation seemed likely to leave in the hands of the new chairman the issue of whether the national organization might cut off the $21,000 budgeted by the national committee for the Young Republicans during the next year.

"I don't interpret the action of the convention in voting on constitutional amendment as being any sort of slap at Mr. Bliss," McDonald said.

COOPERATION STRESSED

"It's absolutely necessary that the Young Republicans and the senior party organization work together. We both want winners."

Jack Jordan, Pennsylvania's senior party chairman, said, however, the convention action was a slap at Bliss and the moderates who are supporting Michigan Gov. George Romney for the Republican presidential nomination.

Jordan said it is going to be up to the senior organizations in the states to control the activities of the Young Republicans. He said it was "no answer" to cut off their funds.

"We have to take a long look," he said. "I hope we don't come to the point where we have to withdraw recognition of the YRF."

Lechenhaut now triumphantly—so even your own Thomas Jefferson believed in rule by a elite! And la methode—"

"Clar!" The colonel's voice briefly drowning out all others. "What's that he's saying about Thomas Jefferson?"

Afterward we all adjourned to the library, where card tables had been set up, but conversation still took precedence over cards. Here Colonel Hardie drew me aside and looked me over with concern on his craggy face.

"What do you think of him?" he asked, jerking a thumb in the direction of Lechenhaut.

"He's a clever man."

"He's a lot more than that, Davis. He's an inspired man. He sees the big picture like no one else around. He sees the tremendous gnawing away at the foundation of the house and he damn well intends to do something about it before the walls cave in." The colonel frowned. "You got every word he said, didn't you?"

"Yes."

"I wish to hell I did, but I'm tone deaf or something when it comes to foreign languages. Great thing, languages. A man can make himself useful anywhere where he's got an ear for them."

In the middle of the room a scene was building up between Anne and Dr. Morillon. Other voices fell as theirs rose. All faces turned toward them with surprise.

"I will leave," Anne said loudly. "I told you I want to see you, Paul."

Her arm was in Morillon's grasp. When she swung away from him, he didn't release the grasp but effortlessly drew her back to face him again.

"Djilana is watching Paul," he said angrily. "What could possibly happen to him?"

"Oh, all right! Will you be love, I'm too exhausted to keep my eyes open any longer?"

"No, I will not," the doctor said scathingly. "You are not exhausted. You are drunk. Very drunk. And you know how I warned you against that. You know how dangerous it can be."

Israelis Use Pay Lists to Find Guerrillas

GAZA (AP) — The Israeli army is using Egyptian payroll lists found in Gaza banks to track down Arab guerrillas who survived the Israeli attack.

Ahmed Shukairy led the Palestine Liberation Organization seeking the return to Israel of Arab refugees from the 1948 war and their offspring. Shukairy was in Jordan when the war broke out June 5.

"We found complete payroll lists showing Shukairy's names were being paid by the Egyptian government through the banks here as if they were in the Egyptian army," Gen.

He said thousands of soldiers who escaped death in the Israeli attack and had no chance to flee the strip had been rounded up and sent to prisoner of war camps.

An estimated 4,000 weapons have been rounded up from the Palestinian guerrillas and from thousands of civilians who were armed by them. Goren said there is "no doubt" many weapons are still hidden.

Though Gaza City is still badly

The curfew for civilians has been reduced from 14 hours to 10. The public transportation system is to start up again Sunday. The Israelis are putting the regular Gaza police on the streets, though so far without guns.

The Israeli soldiers still carry machine guns. But in contrast to the icy atmosphere in the first days of occupation, they now can be seen chatting on street corners with barefoot children and idle youths who wander the streets aimlessly.

LA Dems Break Ties With LBJ

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Some 8,000 registered Democrats purchased a three-page advertisement in today's Los Angeles Times to announce their disassociation with President Johnson and his administration over the Vietnam war.

The names of all of the members appeared in small type under the organization's declaration, which read in part:

"Mr. President, we dissenting Democrats want a cessation of bombing and an end to escalation. We want an immediate beginning of meaningful negotiations with all forces involved in this conflict. We want out of the war in Vietnam."

The group included celebrities Robert Vaughn, Dick Van Dyke, Inger Stevens, Ray Bradbury, Irving Wallace, Barbara Bain, Carl Reiner, Rod Serling and Richard Alan Simmons.

The advertisement was planned to coincide with President Johnson's visit tonight for a Democratic fund-raising dinner.

CAMPAIGN SUPPORT

The dissenting Democrats said they had worked for Johnson's election in 1964, but vowed "Henceforth, we will support only those political candidates who work for an end of the war in Vietnam."

The organization's executive director, Anne Marcus, said it had been in existence less than a month.

"We anticipate that everywhere that Lyndon B. Johnson appears, he will be greeted by similar public declarations," she said.

"We also believe that this is perhaps the most meaningful and effective type of protest against the Vietnam war that is presently taking shape because it is one that President Johnson and all members of his administration can understand."

Two women employees were killed, three others were reported missing and three were injured in an explosion about 10:50 p.m. Thursday at the Army ordnance plant in West Burlington.

Names of the dead were withheld pending notification of relatives.

George Mathis, public relations officer, said the blast occurred in one room of one building on line No. 9 where heavy ammunition is loaded.

He said the cause of the blast was not determined but it involved a munition containing a conventional chemical explosive. The building was extensively damaged and was knocked out of production.

Mathis said seven persons, all women, were in the room when the accident occurred.

The plant, employing nearly 6,000 persons, is operated for the Army by Mason and Hanger-Silas Mason Co., a private contractor.

Fired Teacher Reinstated in Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The superintendent-designate of Philadelphia's public schools has reinstated a substitute high school teacher who was fired when he refused to recall copies of essays written on controversial topics by students.

Steven H. Harlem was reinstated Thursday at the request of Dr. Mark R. Shedd, who becomes superintendent Aug. 1.

Shedd said Harlem "had the guts to take a few chances and venture onto rugged terrain in an effort to get students deeply involved in learning — in this case by developing in them an enthusiasm for self-expression through writing about subjects of relevance and concern to themselves."

NO SPECIFIC TOPICS

Harlem, 29, a graduate psychology student at Temple University, said he didn't assign specific topics to his 11th grade English students at Dobbin High School.

He told them to write on what was important to them, then promised it would be distributed in a mimeographed magazine.

Essays were written on such topics as premarital sex, civil rights and Vietnam. Principal G. William Donovan told Harlem to get the copies back on grounds he had issued a publication without proper authorization. Harlem refused.

Shedd said Thursday, "There is little doubt Harlem handled himself less than wisely in his confrontation with the principal but he is a talented young man who was doing an interesting and first-rate job of teaching."

Hippies Arrive, but Not All Stay

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The summer influx of hippies has begun, authorities said Thursday.

But, said Police Capt. Dan Kiely, "Some of them are leaving the same day they get here. It's too cold to sleep out in San Francisco."

Officers in the Haight-Ashbury District reported there is disillusionment, too, over the absence of feminine companionship.

"They somehow got the idea that there would be free love, free pot, free food and a free place to sleep."

'LOVE SUMMER'

Earlier, Haight Street hippies had predicted nearly 100,000 young people would come to San Francisco for "a summer of love."

Thousands gathered Wednesday to celebrate the first day of summer, but officers said most were members of the local set.

is successful, such human resources center campuses could spring up all over the city in the distant future.

This is the opinion of B.C. VanKoughnett, Pontiac schools community action director, who is co-director of planning for the city's southeast center.

After a six-month $10,000 study, VanKoughnett and his co-workers have judged the idea of a southeast center as feasible. Now he is awaiting $117,000 of federal funds for planning the center on which construction could start in late 1968.

A multi-million-dollar southeast human resources center would replace McConnell, central and Wilson elementary schools and possibly involve Frost and Longfellow schools, according to VanKoughnett.

FIRST UNIT

He said McConnell could be the first unit of possibly a 30-acre campus for eventually 2,000 students since it is tentatively planned for replacement next summer. Central is scheduled for phasing out the following summer.

The idea behind the human resources center is to stabilize the neighborhood's economic and racial aspects, redevelop its physical appearance, improve education for all ages and purposes and coordinate social services.

It would serve the educational, recreational, cultural, social and, to some degree, the personal needs of children, youth and adults who lived in the neighborhood.

Pontiac is among over a dozen cities across the nation who have or are planning educational parks, reported VanKoughnett, who spent two days in Washington, D.C., researching.

B. C. VANKOUGHNETT

'NEW IDEA'

"The idea of a human resources center is new in southeastern Michigan," he said. "It is felt that Pontiac's adaptations of the educational park concept are innovative."

Three Pontiac innovations are:

- A partnership between the city Commission and the board of education to concurrently improve educational and physical living facilities of a neighborhood.
- A cooperative effort of the schools, city and county and state organizations.
- A study of the needs and problems in elementary school attendance areas as done in other major studies.

QUESTIONS REMAIN

Many questions remain to be answered concerning the southeast center. They include size and location of buildings, transportation for students, attendance area boundaries and educational program.

A one-year federal grant to the school system for an in-depth study would provide the answers, VanKoughnett says.

With the funds, an architect could be hired to design the building and a study supervisor and two assistants could be appointed, each at a salary above $14,000, VanKoughnett proposes.

The City Commission is also to apply for federal funds to determine the type and extent of physical renewal in the southeast section of town.

"The city is seriously considering the development of a community center on the human resources center campus," said J. David Vanderveen, manager of the Oakland-Pontiac Airport who is the city's codirector of the study.

"This would take the form of a building designed to accommodate city recreation activities, library facilities, health and youth assistance activities and other related functions which would work with the school district in serving needs of people in this area."

Heat Beats Radar

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — Harry Gilley brought his radar book to court recently to prove radar doesn't work very well on hot days. He said he was going only 33 miles an hour when radar clocked him at 63 in a 45 m.p.h. zone. Gilley said he had been an Army radar technician for seven years. The judge fined him the minimum $2.

State AFL-CIO Parley Ends

Get Political, Unionists Urged

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—After listening to a succession of Democratic speakers outline party and union plans, delegates to the biennial Michigan AFL-CIO convention have returned home from the four-day session.

Former Gov. G. Mennen Williams, Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley and President Gus Scholle, among others, urged delegates to return to the political battlefield.

Speaking at the last session Thursday, Scholle said that labor had taken a beating because the AFL-CIO had not changed its approach to politics and lacked money to do so.

greater political activity, and the delegates approved a resolution that requested higher assessments for COPE, the union's political arm.

9th CONGRESS

In another resolution, the delegates agreed that the 89th Congress had enacted more progressive legislation than any previous Congress, but they noted that "thousands of workers cast their votes in 1966 for opponents of those gains."

Williams warned that the distinction between political parties had blurred. He said the GOP had drifted toward the Democratic line.

"The Republican party cannot supply answers to today's problems," he said, "because it is its nature to look backward."

He asked organized labor and the Democratic party to develop the answers to those problems "so that the party will win the vote of people tomorrow."

ADMONISHES PARTY

Earlier, Kelley had admonished the party for its "indolence" in the wake of liberal successes in the presidency, Congress, state legislatures and courts.

"Our success has made us indolent," he said.

Esther Peterson, assistant secretary of labor, told the delegates that the government knows the answers to problems in education, housing, health, recreation and pollution.

"But we're too miserly to solve them," she said.

A plea to organize farm workers and nonunion labor in Michigan was put forth by Emil Mazey, secretary-treasurer of the United Auto Workers.

He urged a seven-cent per capita assessment to support the drive.

PERCENTAGE DROP

Only 34 per cent of the total labor force is presently unionized, said Mazey, compared to the 42 per cent in 1942 when the AFL merged with the CIO.

Delegates approved the following resolutions at the conclusion of the sessions:

Opposition of all efforts to cut funds in the poverty war.

Endorsement of higher teacher salaries, and the expansion of vocational education facilities.

A call for an increase from $600 to $1,000 in individual income tax exemptions.

Tighter controls of air and water pollutions, with stiffer penalties for violators.

Insect protection that works inside flowers and plants...

Gets bugs from inside.
New ORTHO Rose and Flower Care gives flowering plants insect protection that won't wash away. It works systematically inside the plant. Just work in the granules around the plant base. Then water. The insecticide is absorbed into the sap stream and protects from the roots up. When aphids, mites and other pests come to feed, they've had it.

Grows beautiful flowers.
ORTHO Rose and Flower Care fertilizes flowers systematically. The fertilizer is absorbed along with the insecticide, so buds get big and beautiful. Rain or sprinkling can't wash plant food or protection away. And it's economical. You get full fertilization and protection for six weeks or more for pennies a plant.

Wife's Job Is Just a Picnic

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: About three months ago my wife started to work for a professional man. I am on the road a lot, and she wanted something to keep her busy. She can't type. About all she can do in an office is answer the phone, but her take-home pay is nearly $600 a month. Last week she started fixing two lunches to take to work. One for herself and one for her boss.

She says her boss likes to "get away" from the office for lunch, so they take a coffee thermos, and it was full of martinis.

Her boss is a married man. Shouldn't his wife be the one to fix him lunch? I don't like the looks of this, but I don't want to make any false accusations. What should I do?

DEAR MAC: Tell your wife that you do not approve of her midday martini picnics, and if her boss likes to "get away" at lunchtime, he should "get away" with his own wife. And if you let them "get away" with this you ought to have your head examined.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 33-year-old professional man, born, raised, and educated in New York, but I am practicing in Los Angeles. I am a bachelor and I met a young lady I am very much interested in marrying. Please don't think I am an idiot, but I have a "nose job," and I'm sure she doesn't know it because she met me with this nose.

The big question: Should I tell her

I've had a nose job? I'm afraid she might think I'm just another California phony and change her mind about me.

NOSE JOB

DEAR JOB: Tell her. She might surprise you and "confess" that she's had one, too. Then you can start saving your money for your children's nose jobs.

Order That Ten-Gallon Hat for Luci Bird's Newest Pat

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Two-day-old Patrick Lyndon Nugent already is endowed with a U.S. Savings bond from his parents and a Hereford heifer from his grandfather, President Johnson.

The President also made it plain he is bestowing one of his Texas ranch properties — formerly the Lewis Ranch, a spread of several hundred acres — on his daughter Luci and her husband, Patrick J. Nugent, now that they have produced their first son and his first grandchild.

Luci already is heiress to about $500,000. Her father often has said he had two ranch properties set aside for his daughters, Luci and Lynda. But he never said outright that he had made them a gift of the properties.

THE OLD L AND N

At the White House Thursday, however, the President made public a telegram sent to Nugent expressing his happiness at the birth of their son and announcing "our best Hereford heifer is being carried for delivery to the Lewis-Nugent Ranch consigned to your nine-pound son."

That made it plain the Lewis ranch was to belong to the Nugents.

Johnson, kept busy with the most pressing of international concerns including a meeting with Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin in New Jersey today, has yet to see his grandson.

But there was little question at Seton Hospital here that Johnson probably would get here by Sunday to see Luci's baby.

Luci's Roman Catholic parish priest, the Rev. Harold G. Zink, rector of St. Mary's Cathedral in Austin, said he tried to see Luci at the hospital Thursday but "she was preoccupied."

He said he wanted to discuss christening of the Nugent baby. Father Zink said the Nugents had not yet decided who would do the baptizing.

The third-floor hospital chapel was decorated Thursday with pink pennants — some of the scores of floral bouquets being sent to the President's daughter.

Bridal Shower Now Becoming Too Commercial

The following letter has been chosen as the prize-winning one for this week. A copy of Emily Post's Etiquette has been sent to the writer who asked that her name be withheld.

Dear Mrs. Post: Perhaps I am old-fashioned, but now that we are again being drenched with "showers," I would appreciate your opinion.

At one time a shower was a very personal party given by the bride's closest friend, held at the friend's home, and included only the bride's young friends.

Now we have huge halls rented, showers given by the bride's or groom's family, and every woman invited to the wedding is sent an invitation. Is this a new custom? Surely there is enough time during an engagement to introduce the bride to a few relatives and close acquaintances.

I am not an old guard, but we were raised with the theory that love is most important, and not material things. Everything is so commercial today. — Mrs. G.

Dear Mrs. G.: Thank you for your excellent letter which expresses beautifully my own feelings about showers.

As far as I can see, these enormous affairs, frequently given by mothers or sisters of the bride, are an obvious demand for additional presents. They are often as large and elaborate as the reception itself, and the guests are expected to produce presents of value, as well as another present for the wedding.

For many years the idea of a shower was, as you suggested, an occasion for a gathering of good friends who brought simple, thoughtful gifts. A couple of pot holders or a wicker bread basket were typical shower gifts. At many showers today they would be considered laughable.

If these affairs are what people want, that's fine, but let's be honest about it and call them "gift-getters" rather than defame the pleasant and sentimental "shower."

Dear Mrs. Post: I have noticed that many restaurants are serving tea in a large stein instead of cup. What does one do with the tea bag, since there is no saucer?

I have had to resort to the ash tray or to my napkin, but I still think it does not look proper. — Mrs. M. Morra.

Dear Mrs. Morra: The next time you are served tea in a mug or stein, ask the waiter for a saucer for the tea bag. No customer should have to use his napkin for this, and what a mess it must make in an ash tray!

Cultural Calendar for 1967-68 Being Readied for Fall Events

Area residents will have a new way to keep track of cultural events, starting next fall.

A booklet will be published early in September listing upcoming events, lectures, plays, exhibitions and other cultural happenings. This will be the first of three for the 1967-68 season.

Mrs. Maxwell Shadley, Pontiac's representative on the Michigan Arts Council, is heading the committee working on the first issue.

The Pontiac Mall is underwriting the cost of this first cultural calendar.

John C. Carlisle, assistant director of community services — cultural affairs, at Oakland Community College, is working closely with the committee. OCC is seeking to extend its help in coordinating such activities.

Calendar

TODAY

Bonneville Junior Bridge Club, 7:45 p.m., The Pontiac Mall. For beginning players.

SATURDAY

Bonneville Duplicate Bridge Club, 8 p.m., The Pontiac Mall.

SUNDAY

Northside American GI Forum, noon, Amvets Hall on Oakland Avenue. Mexican plate dinner. Open to the public with proceeds going to scholarship fund.

Oakland Community College, noon, Highland Lakes campus. Student works and area professionals. In case of rain, will take place following Sunday.

Webster School, 3:5 p.m., in the school. PTA reception for Edith Roach Snyder, retiring principal.

The Pontiac YWCA will act as an information center, both before the cultural calendar comes out and throughout the year.

Organizations wishing to have their events listed may send the same in writing to the YWCA. This should be done by July 15 for events through December. Individuals who wish information on events may telephone the YWCA throughout the year. The "Y" is open from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m., Monday through Friday, and until noon on Saturday.

VOLUNTEERS

Volunteers will assist the regular staff in providing this service.

A number of teenage YWCA members are helping to prepare material for the calendar.

According to the Michigan Arts Council, the seven forms of art are music, art, drama, dance, writing and architecture.

Other members of the area committee are Earl Kreps, Mrs. W. J. Emerson, Mrs. C. J. Odell and George Putnam.

Birmingham Resident Weds New York Girl

The David Thornes of Rochester, N.Y., announce the marriage of their daughter, Susan Jane to Cary Dean Morton. He is the son of Mrs. John F. McLean Jr. of Waddington Road and the late Dr. James A. Morton.

The McLeans with Lora, Christopher and Jeffery Morton attended the recent ceremony.

Albion will be the temporary home of the newlywed couple.

Consultant in Money Management

Dear Miss Feeley: Although we've weighed the pros and cons of this situation, we still can't come to a decision: Should we buy a house?

We are in our late 20's and have no children, but may in a year or so. My husband will be subject to transfer for the next 10 years, though we haven't been transferred yet and may never be.

He makes $600 a month and I make the same. However, I work only 10 months of the year.

We save my salary, since I'll stop working if I have a baby. We have $10,000 we can put down on a house, leaving $1,000 in cash and $2,000 in secure stocks.

We've been saving earnestly for several years so we could make a large down payment on a house — thereby having low monthly payments and still have a nice quality house.

The question is this: We may never be transferred but if we are it will be on short notice and his company will not help us sell our house. Should we buy and plan to keep it and sublease it if we move?

We'd have to be prepared to come up with two payments if it goes unrented one month.

Perhaps we should just plan on renting indefinitely. Right now we pay $75, but anticipate having to pay $100. If you think it's wiser for us to rent, should we leave our cash in the bank for the "someday" when we can buy a home?

I know there's no black-and-white answer but can you tell us which way you lean?

Mrs. G. K., New Orleans

Dear Mrs. K.: I lean toward home ownership for you — but after you start your family. Here are the pros from my point of view:

While you're perfectly able to buy a house now, you'll have a better idea of the home you want when you're family-minded. Children can govern your attitude toward size, location, child-oriented neighborhood, present and future school facilities, and other things you may not have weighed seriously.

Also, living on one income after having been accustomed to two (even though yours goes in the bank it's still a psychological bolster) will be a realistic experience after the first baby comes. You'll be more aware, too, of what it will take to maintain the kind of home you want and raise your family as you hope to do.

And since you aren't planning to wait more than a year or so for motherhood, I suspect you can postpone buying that long without feeling like a frustrated renter.

As for the chance of your husband's being transferred, don't let that sway your thinking unduly. Many couples live with that situation today. You're just as apt to guess wrong as right, and it's emotionally wearing to live with suspense.

If the move should happen, you'll just do as thousands of others have done — work it out somehow.

The soundest planning, it seems to me is to continue living on your husband's income. I suggest you keep an amount equal to from three to six months' income in the bank for emergencies, then put the rest of your surplus funds into investments that will grow until you're ready to buy.

Galas for Guest From California

Wesley B. Sibley of Palo Alto, Calif. is here for a few weeks as the house guest of his brother and sister in law, Mr. and Mrs. Standish Sibley of Oriole Drive.

On his arrival, Mrs. Sibley planned a dinner party for 10 and this evening will be her husband's hostess at a bridge party for 12.

Among the other galas scheduled for the west coast visitor is a family gathering Sunday in his nephew's home, the Forbes Sibleys of Troy where 22 are expected.

Baroque Music at OU

The 10-member New York Pro Musica will perform Tuesday at 8:30 p.m. in the Baldwin Pavilion of the Meadow Brook Festival grounds at Oakland University.

John White, who took over the famed group founded by the late Noah Greenberg, will conduct.

The program will be made up of music of Northern France and Flanders c. 1400-1600 and performed on the ancient instruments of the period.

This and a second concert, scheduled July 4, will be the only performances the group will make before the public during its residency at Oakland.

The members are conducting an institute for medieval, renaissance, and early baroque music in the Meadow Brook School of Music's summer program.

Tickets are available at the Festival office at Oakland, at Hudson's and Grinnell's.

Your Own Little Paper Doll

By JOANNE SCHREIBER
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Have you tried sewing with paper yet? Gals who have tried it tell me that paper-stitchery is unbelievably fast, easy and fun. The results are sensational.

Little-girl dresses are a favorite project and the little girls look like real little paper dolls in those gay paper colors. By eliminating all those extra steps such as putting in facings and hemming, you could whip up several paper-dresses in an afternoon.

You may have had trouble finding paper-by-the-yard, especially if you don't live near a big city department store. Some of you have even written to ask where you can buy paper in your part of the country.

If you're one of the many, many sewers who are dying to sew with paper, and can't find the paper to sew with, we have a very special offer for you — a pattern for a child's dress, enough paper material to make it, and a special leaflet prepared by the sewing experts at the Singer Company. The leaflet is jam-packed with helpful tips, bright ideas and additional items to make from paper.

The paper (actually nonwoven cellulose strengthened with fibers) is Tiger Tissue, 48 inches wide, and it's fire-resistant. You'll receive two yards of it in a gay, colorful, allover summer print in just the colors and designs little girls love most.

ILLUSTRATED

Either of the two adorable outfits shown here is a natural for paper-stitchery. Order either one, or choose a third which isn't pictured. Or get all three, and give your little girl a real summer wardrobe!

Sue Burnett Pattern No. 8168 has an old-fashioned mop-cap and matching panties to go with the little shoulder-tied dress. It's available in size 1 through 6.

The other little sundress is

Sue Burnett Pattern No. 120, and it features a double row of ruffles at the hem, a pretty side-tied effect, and a little matching kerchief. Quilt binding makes the solid-color edging. This pattern will fit sizes 3, 4 and 5, so there is no need to specify size if your little paper doll is in this size range.

The third pattern, not shown, is the easiest of all. It is a very simple little sleeveless A-line with a button on one shoulder. It features a little kitten applique, which you can do in solid-color, iron-on mending tape. This dress, Sue Burnett Pattern No. 8317, is available in sizes 2 through 6.

OTHER USES

You'll find that paper dresses for little girls are just great for travel, for color photography, for dress-up visiting, for Sunday picnics and for birthday parties. And when the ice cream drips (and it will!) just cut the clean part in doll clothes, dollhouse curtains or a dollhouse rug.

A pretty pair of paper dolls appear in party-perfect paper dresses. Sew these quick-and-easy dresses in crisp and colorful paper prints.

Polly's Pointers

What About Odors?

DEAR POLLY—I hope someone can tell me how to get the "cleaning fluid" odor out of clothes cleaned at the self-service cleaners and sometimes from clothes sent to a professional dry-cleaning establishment?

I have tried hanging them out of doors to air but to little avail. —MRS. E. E.

DEAR READERS—So much interest has been evidenced in help for the disabled that we have more Pointers that should prove helpful to Harold's wife and other amputees. —POLLY

DEAR POLLY—I have no use of my left arm and only use of the lower right arm but have cared for three children all on my own. I drive a car (with certain limitations, a steering knob, automatic transmission, directional signals and power steering), am active in my church, the local hospital auxiliary, make all my own clothes as well as my daughters'.

The two things I think have been my greatest help are an electric can opener (a type my husband found that can be operated with one hand) and a snap-on diapers. Snap-on diapers can be operated CAREFULLY with the teeth, if the line is low enough. —MRS. D. R. R.

DEAR POLLY—I do hope the following ideas will help Harold's wife and others in some small way. Use a clipboard for writing. Use a one-handed double bucket with water on one side and cleaning aids on the other.

Have another two-sided small bucket in which place settings can be carried to the table and taken off. The same bucket can carry ironed undergarments to be put away. A small child's plastic broom is easy to use for small cleanup jobs. Sew a small zipper bag, or pin a change purse, in a coat pocket to have when shopping. —RUTH

DEAR POLLY—May I urge all amputees to use teeth, knees, feet and HEAD. Dry dishes on a bath towel. Take it easy as you iron and don't be as particular as you once were. Get on your hands and knees to get out of the bathtub. Use an upright vacuum cleaner as the tank type will wear you out. Get a little washboard to do hand washing and, to wring out this wash, wrap in a towel and knead with the feet, with shoes off, of course.

It is easier for me to climb INTO clothes. To wind my watch I hold it between teeth and lips before I apply my lipstick. Wall-to-wall carpeting is easier to care for than floors to scrub. —LOIS

You will receive a dollar if Polly uses your favorite home-making idea. Polly's Problem or solution to a problem. Write Polly in care of The Pontiac Press, Dept. E-600, P.O. Box 9, Pontiac, Mich. 48066.

Furnace 'Shoots' Woman in Leg

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP)—Mrs. Annabell Gonsalves, 47, was shot by a furnace. Baltimore police said Mrs. Gonsalves was breaking up a chair and throwing the pieces into her basement furnace. Police said there was a 22-caliber bullet in the chair, and the furnace heat caused it to fire. Mrs. Gonsalves suffered a minor wound when the bullet struck her leg.

Blot Excess of Rouge

Applying rouge evenly on both sides of the face, and with just the right amount of color, requires skill and just a little luck. If there is too much color, rather than try to rub away the excess, put a dab of cream on a tissue and blot it up.

Bride Wears Lace, Pearls for Wedding

Bernadette Joan Willin and David Alan Bilger recently exchanged vows at St. John's Church, Davison.

The bride wore an A-line gown of white silk linen appliqued with re-embroidered Alencon lace and accented with seed pearls.

She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses, ivy and orchids.

Maid of honor was Cheryl Babinger, Vivian Croghan, Joan McCormick and Michelle Bilger were bridesmaids, with Bambi Bilger, junior bridesmaid.

John Westerby was best man, with ushers Kent Everson, Larry Krueger and Jeffrey Harrell, Jean Helias was junior usher.

Following a reception in the church parlors, the couple left for a Northern Michigan honeymoon.

Their parents are Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Willin of Davison and the Samuel Bilgers of Orionville.

Why Grow Old?

Dear Josephine Lowman, I have read in your column many times that it is so much easier to exercise if you have someone to exercise with you. I am sure this is true. I am thinking of my family.

Actually, my children do not get the exercise they need. They spend far too much time in cars and in front of television. They should walk back and forth to school, but it is hard to insist that they do so when all of the other children ride in the school bus.

I need more exercise and so does my husband. I really believe that if we had a plan we would all join in and exercise together and it would be fun. However, I suppose we would all have to do different exercises.

can have a lot of fun with. Summer is a good time to start it since the children have more time because they are out of school.

Junior Editors Quiz on TROTTERS

QUESTION: In harness racing, what is the difference between trotters and pacers?

ANSWER: Harness racing is an exciting sport in which fast moving horses pull light, two-wheeled sulkies and their drivers around a track.

Horses carrying jockeys on their backs are of the breed called Thoroughbred, but for harness racing a sturdier kind of horse is used, called a Standardbred.

Racing horses run in different ways which are called gaits. The gait of the Thoroughbred is the gallop. Harness horses use two other gaits; either the trot or the pace.

The difference between these gaits is shown above (top). Legs whose hoofs come down on the ground at the same time are shown in black. Look carefully and you can see that in the trot, the opposite back and front feet come down together, while in the pace, both feet come down together on the same side.

Now how about figuring out the gait of the large horse? (You guessed it — it's the trot!)

Modern harness racing events usually feature both trotting and pacing, but there are generally more pacing races because pacing is faster.

Miami Beach or Chicago to Get GOP Convention

CHICAGO (UPI) — Miami Beach and Chicago will have to fight it out for the plum — selection as the site of the 1968 Republican nominating convention and, possibly, that of the Democratic National Convention.

Republican National Chairman Ray Bliss, following a tour and discussion of Chicago's convention offerings yesterday, said his site-selection committee had narrowed its choice to those two cities. "It now appears that the sites have been narrowed to Chicago and Miami Beach," Bliss said.

But the committee's final decision will not be made for another month, near the end of July.

Both cities have campaigned vigorously for the rich convention to be held in their respective cities, especially after the major television networks began pressuring both parties to hold their conventions in the same city next year.

Since the two nominating conventions traditionally have been held close together in mid-summer, the advent of color television and the bulky and heavy equipment it requires would make it nearly impossible to televise both conventions in color, the networks claimed.

Both parties reportedly have looked favorably on such a suggestion, and since the GOP convention is held earlier, the Democratic choice may hinge heavily on the Republican selection.

The color television cameras have added other elements to decision-making of Bliss and his selection aides, however. The color cameras require a lot of light which in turn creates a lot of heat.

That would require changes in the air-conditioning system at Chicago's Amphitheatre, selected as a possible convention site after the mammoth McCormick Place burned to the ground late last year.

The Amphitheatre provided the stage for Richard Nixon's Republican nomination in 1960, but that was before color television.

Massachusetts, with a cranberry crop 14 per cent above average, last year produced approximately half of the total cranberry yield in the country.

Only Chevrolet offers

The roomiest car in America

The results of Automotive News magazine's annual roominess study: Chevrolet wins the space race. It's not only the roomiest car in its class, but the roomiest car made in America! Your legs, knees and shoulders are in for a real treat, especially on those long trips. Combine all that space with Chevrolet's good looks and low price, and you've got some of the reasons why Chevrolet remains the number one choice.

The best value in its class

Chevy II, naturally. You can spot the tell-tale signs of quality in the deep Magic-Mirror finish, the rugged all-vinyl upholstery, and the flush-and-dry rocker panels. Quality's working behind the scenes, too, in Chevy II's Mono-Plate rear suspension and bolt-on front fenders. The point is, we put more into Chevy II, so it will cost you less to keep up.

The lowest, widest sportster at its price

If you think Camaro looks a little sportier than others at its price, you're right. Fact is, Camaro stands wider and lower. Camaro feels great, too. Those good-looking dimensions give you the closest thing yet to sports-car response. If all this sounds good to you, so will what's below.

Besides these three fine cars, Chevrolet also makes the internationally famous Corvette Sting Ray, recently voted the Best All-Around Car of 1967 by the readers of Car and Driver magazine; the nimble Corvair, America's only rear-engine car, offering sure traction and easy handling; and the Quick-Size Chevelle with smooth-riding Full Coil suspension, the most popular car of its size. Just stop by your Chevrolet dealer's, where you'll be sure of satisfaction.

Chevrolet's built-in advantages are another reason you get that sure feeling

Three Killed in Iowa; Parolee Is Charged

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa (AP) — Police searched today into the background of a man who they said apparently came to Iowa from Texas to rob a bank and wound up killing three persons who innocently got in his way while he was "casing" the countryside.

Held on a murder charge was a bald, 42-year-old man identified as Hubert B. McClelland of Beaumont, Tex., a parolee with a criminal record for nearly 20 years.

Authorities described as "senseless" the fatal shooting Wednesday night of a housewife and two farmers and the abduction of two children riding with the woman.

Mrs. Charles Schwab, 41, of Belle Plaine was shot after her car was forced off a gravel road near Elberon and the gunman drove off with the children who had been riding with her.

FARMERS KILLED — Less than a mile down the road the man ran into a ditch. He shot Leland Skoog, 55, a dairy farmer, and Skoog's son, Garth, 24, when they went to offer aid.

Mrs. Schwab's daughter, Christine, 11, and Christine's cousin, Julie Braskie, 11, were in the trunk of the Skoog car when he surrendered meekly to police on the outskirts of Cedar Rapids, and asked for a cigarette. The children were unharmed.

Authorities said they did not know until hours later that the man they had in custody was McClelland, who had given the name of Joseph Robert Carter. Robert Blair, chief of the state Bureau of Criminal Investigation, said police were certain of the identification.

In Wake of Adam Clayton Powell Affair

New Rules Govern House Travelers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Starting July 1, House members will do their official traveling under new rules that discourage abuses and make honesty a little painful.

On one hand, official credit cards will be out and prior authorization will be in. On the other, per diem expenses will go up from $16 to $25 daily, plus transportation.

The new expense rules were imposed in the aftermath of the Adam Clayton Powell affair. They cover travel in the United States, by House members or committee employees, plus management of committee payrolls.

The new rules were drafted by the committee on House administration, which also took steps to enforce them, hiring for the first time an accountant whose job it will be to inspect every voucher.

Powell, the veteran Harlem lawmaker who rose to be chairman of the education and labor committee, was denied his seat on charges that he used his committee's airline credit cards to finance personal trips and kept his wife on the payroll despite the fact she did no work.

KEPT IN DARK

Aside from these formal charges, members of his committee complained they sometimes were kept in the dark about the committee payroll.

The new rules abolish credit card travel. Members or staffers traveling on behalf of Congress must get prior authorization on a form covering purpose, mode and destination of trip, as well as estimated costs.

Detours or en route delays for the traveler's convenience hereafter will be charged to him, not to Congress.

Formerly, members traveling on official business in the United States could collect $16 per day for lodging and meals, or up to $30 if they itemized everything and could show where it went.

The per diem allowance clearly wasn't enough, except for light eaters, so it usually was necessary to go the more difficult itemized route. The new rules provide only per diem, but raise this to $25.

Committee chairmen, as before, must perform the initial approvals. They also will be responsible for the prior authorization required.

To make sure they don't strain their consciences here, the chairmen hereafter must provide monthly reports not only on all members' travel but also on committee payrolls, with addresses, salaries and duties included.

Thrive on Neglect

Cosmos Are Colorful, Carefree

Cosmos thrives on neglect. Select the type and color you prefer, plant the seeds and forget them. They'll grow and produce hundreds of bright flowers for your garden with an absolute minimum of care.

There are two entirely different types of cosmos. The first grows from 4 to 6 feet high and has flowers in white or shades of pink, rose or scarlet. The second is earlier blooming, much lower (3 feet high) and has flowers of yellow or orange.

The first type described above is called Early Sensation and seeds may be bought of mixed colors or of separate ones. Pink and Crimson Scarlet obviously have blossoms of the colors described by their names.

A two-toned or bi-color cosmos is called Radiance and is illustrated above. This is soft rose color with a deep maroon flush as it spreads outward on the petals.

There also is a crested or anemone-flowered form of cosmos which has a single row of petals around a many-petaled or crested center — an interesting departure from the usual form.

MANY FORMS

There are single, semidouble and double-flowered forms of the second type of cosmos.

A mixture of single-flowered yellow and orange cosmos is available as well as a variety named Mandarin with double, orange flowers.

The variety Orange Ruffles has extra large, double, ruffled blooms while Fiesta flowers are semi-double, colored gold and striped with scarlet.

Plant both forms of cosmos in your garden this year, but don't plant them together. All of the Sensation cosmos colors blend beautifully with one another, and all of the yellow and orange flowered cosmos colors blend, but those of one type fairly scream at those of the other.

Interior Plantings Perform Many Functional Tasks

The use of living plants in decorating plans is not solely ornamental. Plantings have become functional!

Consider color — one of the most important features of any room setting. Plants in their natural terra cotta pots can be used to keynote any color scheme.

If your upholstered pieces, draperies, floor coverings, are monotone, then plants as well as accessories can supply needed contrast. Or you can pick up your strong color with clay-potted flowering plants to reinforce your decorative effect.

Large green plants soften the boxy, sharp look of contemporary furnishings. And smaller plants add a natural look to sometimes too-formal period rooms.

Plants, of both the flowering and foliage variety, not only provide subtle differences, they often serve as important pieces of "furniture."

They can separate two living areas as the center of interest in room dividers. And in these days of mammoth wall units, plants are increasingly important to break the monotony of straight lines of shelving.

Clay-potted foliage plants plunged into built-in planters often solve the problem of what to place against the long walls of narrow foyers or entryways.

Another interesting "architectural" treatment is a built-in ceramic tile planter that runs along the wall of the room, with wells for plunging clay-potted plants and a surface that can hold additional plants, as well as being a perfect showcase for a collection of sculpture or curios. Overhead lighting can supply the necessary "sun" for plant growth.

And, an awkward corner in the living room turns into a decorative "plus" with one of the larger foliage plants. Its clay pot and saucer set directly on the floor, to add a "finished" look.

Living plants more than repay you in warmth and beauty for the care they require. Just make sure that your plants are professionally grown and conditioned in porous red clay pots and follow your florist's instructions on their light and water needs.

Home Gardeners Vote for Annuals

The four most popular flowers with home gardeners, in order, are petunias, snapdragons, marigolds, and zinnias, according to the Pennsylvania State University.

Penn. State has one of only two dozen All-America test gardens for ornamental flowers in the United States.

The gardens serve to test new and established annual varieties for seed producers and dealers.

Among recent All-America award winners displayed in Penn. State's gardens are Cosmos Sunset and Spun Yellow Marigolds; a Pansy named "Majestic White With Blotch"; an Amethyst Verbena; and a Sweet William Called "Red Monarch."

The use of cold water on house plants should always be avoided. Use water that is of room temperature always.

Harvest Time's Coming

Scale Hatch Hits Plantings

Scale insects, which attach themselves to twigs and grate to the leaves and new branches, form a protective shell, and suck sap, may severely damage ornamental plants or kill out whole limbs.

While pruning the heavily infested parts serves as an immediate remedy only spray will prevent a recurrence.

Dormant sprays are effective during the dormant season but at this time of year many scale insects are entering the crawler stages when they are very susceptible to spray materials.

Crawler stages now hatching include such scales as euonymus, oystershell, pine needle and many others.

AIR TRAVELERS

Scale insects spread from plant to plant on the feet of birds or by wind.

When you are garden browsing take along a magnifying glass and you will be able to see the insects.

To protect your yews and other plantings, use a 50 percent malathion spray — two tablespoons to a gallon of water. As with all poisonous spray materials, be careful and store the leftover insecticide from children.

Sow Seed for Late Harvest

Sweet Corn Culture

It's getting to be that time, of the year again, when our taste buds quiver in anticipation everytime we think about biting into the tender kernels of the season's first home-grown sweet corn.

Mrs. B. W. of Clarkson writes us that she is withstanding the battle of the bugs plaguing the community but is about to concede defeat to the sweet corn plants that keep throwing up suckers.

"I pull them," she writes, "but they grow right back. What should I do?"

"Don't do anything," report the experts. "Leave the suckers alone. They really do not cause any harm."

For your next planting, you might try the newer varieties of hybrid sweet corn. They are not given to forming these suckers or tillers quite so readily as the older types.

TWO MORE

And there is still time for two more plantings of the luscious vegetable, according to Lyle Abel, Oakland County agricultural agent.

You can sow seed this weekend and next, barring an early killing frost, enjoy the fruits of your labors well into autumn.

Plant rows three feet apart and drop a single seed every six to eight inches. If you prefer planting in hills, sow three seeds to a hill with the hills two feet apart.

Be sure that your ground is properly prepared before you place the seed in the ground, broadcasting 5-20-20 fertilizer over the soil before cultivating.

Ring your plants with another application of nitrogen-high fertilizer (33 percent ammonium nitrate is fine) when they reach knee-high, working it into the ground. This will give that picture perfect look to the leaves and husks.

Sweet corn is tolerant of a wide range of soils and acidity as long as the fields are well drained.

Be sure you buy your seed from reputable seed houses. Up on the seeds' viability largely depends the success of your crop.

CARRY RULES

Next time you head for your corn patch, carry along a ruler. If your corn leaves measure 24 inches from the stalk to the tip, you had better start on a religious spray program to combat the effects of the European corn borer.

Every seven days cover each plant with methoxychlor or Sevin solution using two tablespoons insecticide to each gallon of water. The borers' eggs are laid in clusters on the underside of the leaves.

The mature caterpillar, approximately an inch long with round brown spots on its faintly pinkish body, sets up housekeeping inside the corn stalk or ear.

Smut, identified by great masses of silvery outgrowth, is a common fungus disease that can reduce the corn yield. When these tumor-like swellings or galls break open, they release a black powdery cloud of spores to spread the disease.

Crop rotation has proved a helpful control and in the home garden removal of the galls before they rupture is a practical way of interrupting the reproduction cycle.

In past years, I've run into trouble with ants invading the corn patch. For the want of a better name, I've dubbed these black marauders as corn ants though I'm sure that isn't the correct nomenclature.

These annoying poachers have a built-in radar system as to when the corn will be at its peak. I'd eye-mark certain ears as being ready tomorrow and arrive in the garden the next day only to find the husks and the silk stripped bare and in place of the sweet, juicy kernels, a bare, breeze-dried cob.

In checking with my neighbors, I discovered their corn patches were not violated.

Did I get the message? I certainly did. There's a vegetable stand about five miles away and they have the tastiest sweet corn...

Philodendron Need
Light Impetus

If your philodendron leaves appear to be getting smaller, your plant may not be receiving enough light.

In the belief that the leaves are smaller because they do not take enough food from the soil, some householders over-fertilize.

Instead of doing this, move the philodendron, or other tropical vine, to a brighter spot and see whether there is an improvement.

In the tropical rain forests, where philodendron thrives, the plants climb along tree trunks to reach the light.

This, with the warm, moist atmosphere, helps keep the plant leaves large and fresh.

House Plants Are Fresh Air Fiends

House plants need fresh air, even in cold weather. The best way to give them this is to admit air indirectly from an open door or window in an adjoining room.

The top soil of the potted plant should be stirred about once a week with an orange stick to admit air to the roots.

a Little Late

Because spring was late in the north, garden viewers had more color available all at once:

Bulbs, such as tulips, were still flowering gayly when azaleas and rhododendrons were wearing blossoms.

And there were columbine, pink lady's slipper, iris, alyssum, white rockcress, scilla and phlox.

Here Are Labor-Saving Suggestions for Home Gardeners

Lots of labor-saving ideas are available for modern gardeners. You can adopt them this year to have beautiful gardens with much less work.

Use the time saved to enjoy life more.

are easier to maintain. You can curve them for artistic patterns, but keep them within 4-foot widths. Consider an aluminum or plastic lawn edge material to keep grass from spreading into flower beds.

It can be set flush with soil level to keep grass roots from spreading and to speed mowing.

You can start many annuals and perennials from seed if you wish.

PEAT POTS

Peat pots and peat-cube flats make the transplanting job much easier.

You simply plunge the peat pot or cube into the soil. Roots grow right through the peat walls, avoiding setback to seedlings if transplanted the usual way from flats or trays.

Think of mulches for all beds, borders. Peat moss, dried leaves, grass clippings, wood chips and similar organic materials are all good. They help retain soil moisture but also keep down weeds.

That saves hours each week from weeding.

Around shrubs and trees, mulch in a saucer shape so the depression is around the plant and rain or irrigation is held near the root areas.

For borders along the house, garage or buildings, consider ground covers, Myrtle, pachysandra and ivy will out fast and keep weeds down. They also provide evergreen cover year-round.

When you select shrubs or hedges, landscaping or specimens, consider the pruning each will need.

Some require little care, grow to a uniform size and retain their natural shapes longer. These will save hours of pruning each year.

Wax begonias, philodendrons and a number of other foliage plants do not need direct sunlight.

Administration Gets Extra Time in House

Space Funds Battle Delayed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Administration forces have a few days extra time to try and beat back potential House cuts in the nearly $5-billion authorization program for space activities.

One member they can thank for the grace period is Rep. James G. Fulton, R-Pa., who wants to slice $250 million from one section of the vast program and appeared to have the strength to do it late Thursday.

But Fulton said he thought the space program was too important for a series of amendments to be considered on a last-minute basis "even though thought I had the votes to win." So he helped postpone the entire matter until next week.

The sudden turn of events came after general debate ended on the bill, past versions of which have been treated kindly by the House. At this point there were reports many administration supporters had out-of-town commitments and were planning to leave.

After some Democratic huddles, Chairman George P. Miller, D-Calif., of the House Space Committee made a parliamentary maneuver designed to put the whole package off until next week. It carried 133 to 61.

Miller told reporters later he was concerned about "the attitude and temper of the House and the temper was very short. Perhaps now they will have a day to cool off."

Democratic leaders announced that the $4.99-billion bill authorizing programs for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, in the year beginning July 1 won't come up again until Tuesday.

"Sure I think they'll (Democrats) have their troops together for Tuesday," Fulton told reporters, "but I think the program is too important to be handled on a last-minute basis."

Fulton's proposed cut would come out of $444.7 million proposed for NASA's future Apollo applications program, still in the planning stage. He contends it won't hurt the space program.

Rep. William F. Ryan, D-N.Y., who wants to cut out funds for developing a powerful nuclear rocket engine, said it took the Apollo fire which killed three astronauts earlier this year to "bring us to the point where national attention was focused on some aspects of the development in an agency like NASA. It has taken years to develop the teams of scientists."

Ryan contended Congress should take a close look at new departures in the program and see whether to commit vast sums of money. "NASA management is simply out of control at this point," he said.

Miller, however, argued the over-all program was sound and said "you cannot turn on and off the current fiscal year.

Jayne's Child Is With Kin

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actress Jayne Mansfield's 16-year-old runaway daughter reported to have gone to live with a close relative.

Police said the girl, Jayne Marie, said she ran away from her mother's mansion Friday night. The girl said a male friend of her mother had beaten her.

Details of a closed pre-trial hearing in juvenile court have been ruled secret by Superior Court Judge Joseph A. Sprinkle Jr.

Patrolman Delivers Baby

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — W. J. Clower, an Atlanta patrolman, equipped with a pocket knife and a shoestring, delivered a baby girl Thursday on the back seat of a wrecked car.

After the mother and 7-pound, 1-ounce girl reached the hospital in an ambulance, a hospital spokesman said it was "an excellent job."

Mother and baby were in fine condition.

The traffic accident occurred when Sharon Colene Peeks, 23, of East Point was being rushed to the hospital by her husband who said his car's brakes failed, causing him to collide with another car.

"IT WAS OBVIOUS" "I arrived at the scene, and it was obvious that the mother was going to give birth to the baby before she could be rushed to Grady Hospital," Clower said.

He said he had assisted in the birth of another baby about four or five months ago.

Missourians Battle River's Rising Waters

ST. CHARLES, Mo. (UPI)—Rising Missouri River waters lapped at the tops of soggy levees today while residents of lowlands areas in the St. Charles area answered with more sandbags.

The river was reported above flood stage from Nebraska City, Neb., to its confluence with the Mississippi River just east of here.

The worst is yet to come for this area, if Weather Bureau flood crest predictions hold true.

Several hundred persons in a low area north of St. Charles spent yesterday and last night piling sandbags on weakening levees and around their homes.

Floodwaters, nothing new to them, only stiffened their determination to "stay and fight," authorities said.

About 12 of 65 families in a trailer court in the area evacuated as water started seeping through a weak levee.

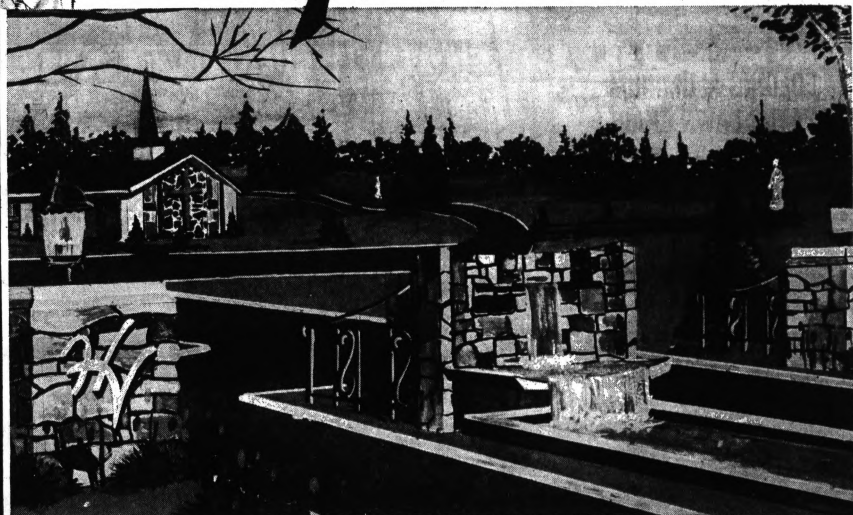

However, later yesterday county Civil Defense Director Calvin Davis said he believed the problem had been bridged and the levee would hold.

Whether it holds until the crest passes, estimated for Tuesday, is speculative. In any case, the city of St. Charles, sitting on high ground, is in no danger.

Ron's 9 Roosts Atop AL Loop in City Action

Wagon Wheel Takes Lead in Slow Pitch Competition

Ron's Roost got an unexpected assist last night in its bid for grab the city American League softball championship.

Running its record to 8-2, Ron's rolled past Bob & Larry's (4-6), 3-1, while Local No. 594 (6-4) rallied for four runs in the top of the seventh to upset Town & Country (8-3), 5-3.

In a National League game, Timberlans No. 1 (5-4) trimmed L & S Standard (1-8), 8-5, and in Slow-Pitch action, Wagon Wheel (7-1) moved into first place with a forfeit victory over Chalein Inn (6-1).

Ron's picked up a run in the third on a triple by Bill Buck and a single by Bull Hayward, and pushed across two more in the fifth on a double by Mouse Beers.

A single, walk, two doubles and an error produced four runs for Local 594 in the come-from-behind win over Town & Country. The winners had only one hit through the first six frames.

BIG HITS
After a single by Gene Lands and a walk to Ed Edwards with one out, Don McDonnor and Dave Simmons cracked successive doubles with the latter scoring on an error by the catcher.

Dick Snyder, Frank August and Gene Coons collected two hits apiece in pacing Timberlans No. 1 to victory. John Stoddard picked up three safeties for the losers.

Net Tournney in Semifinals

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — Top-seeded Patsy Rippey of Odessa College plays fourth-seeded Jane Albert of Stanford today in the semifinals of the Women's National Collegiate Tennis Tournament.

In the other semifinal second-seeded Julie Anthony of Stanford meets third-seeded Pixie Lamm of UCLA.

In doubles play Thursday Miss Anthony and Miss Albert advanced to the semifinals with a 6-1, 6-2 victory over Donna Chun and Margaret Greenwood of Brigham Young.

Stakes Horse Injured

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Make Money, an Argentine-bred stakes horse, suffered a leg fracture during a workout at Hollywood Park Thursday. X-rays will determine whether he can be saved.

Surprise Leader in Cleveland Open

CLEVELAND (AP) — Two of the goldfom's greats, Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus, were surprised by first-round development in the $103,500 Cleveland Open.

"Who?" asked Palmer, after he was told that Wayne Yates was the 18-hole leader.

The popular Pennsylvania pro admitted he did not know who Yates was after the 25-year-old Atlanta performer carded a four-under-par 66 in Thursday's first round.

That gave Yates, in his second year as a tour regular, a one-shot edge over Palmer, veteran Dan Sikes and young Dick Lutz.

But Palmer figures the scores are going to get better on the par 70, 6,611-yard Aurora Country Club layout.

Somebody will shoot 65 before the week is over... maybe.

Former Northville High school star Jim St. Germain, now a sophomore at the University of Houston, won the fourth annual Horton Smith Memorial golf tournament yesterday at Detroit Golf Club after a sudden death playoff on the third hole.

St. Germain, once the top prep in the Pontiac Press Interscholastic, dropped in a 30-foot birdie putt to defeat the No. 1 player in the GAM, Hunter McDonald of Oakland Hills.

The young collegian who is a member of Meadowbrook had another key birdie putt in the tournament. He dropped what was estimated as an 80-footer on the 18th hole to tie the McDonald with a regulation 71 and force the overtime hole.

The third hole, where the match ended, is a 145-yarder.

He and McDonald had identical nines of 36-35. Pete Green of Orchard Lake, an ex-champion of the tournament, finished 38-36-74 for a 4th place tie behind Bill Newcomb of Barton Hills.

Title Defense Slated

PORTLAND, Maine (AP) — Gene Herrick of Saco will defend his New England middleweight title against Dick French, Providence, R.I., here next Thursday night.

Nicklaus, who played erratically and admitted he was bothered by the wet course, disagreed.

Four-Way Tie in LPGA Golf

CINCINNATI (AP) — There were four girls to beat today in the second round of the annual $21,000 Buckeye Savings Ladies Invitational Golf Tournament.

Four of the leading money-winners among the 42 starters battled to a two-under par first place tie Thursday over the Clovernook Country Club's par-72 layout — Susie Maxwell, Clifford Ann Creed, Marilyn Smith and Carol Mann.

Young Mary Lou Daniels shot a 71 that put her into a fifth-place tie with defending champion Sandra Haynie. Lucille Wardell was at even par.

Miss Maxwell, fresh from winning the Milwaukee Jaycee Open, did not have a single bogey on her round. She had 16 straight par holes, then birdied the last two.

Carol Mann, Clifford Ann Creed, Marilyn Smith and Mary Lou Daniels were tied at 71. Sandra Haynie, Sherry Masters, Marie Lindstrom, Betty Sogge, Louise Suggs, Kathy Whitworth, Sandra Haynie, Candy Phillips, Shirley Englehorn, Cynthia Sullivan, Pam Barnett, Betty Stone, Peggy Wilcox.

"Sure someone can shoot 60, shape," said the rangy George, whose best previous effort was a tie for 11th in the Memphis Open.

Nicklaus, who won the U. S. Open last weekend with a brilliant display of precision golf, staggered home with a 72 Thursday in a round that included five bogeys.

Yates, who rang up six birdies and two bogeys, has earned only $3781 this year.

Crown Returns to Sally Werner

Mrs. T. M. (Sally) Werner, who looked like she had never been away this week in the Women's District Golf Association medal play championship.

Mrs. Werner, the former Sally Sharp, ruled the WDGA in the early 1960s in match and medal play, and then came marriage and a family and there was no time for golf.

With home life humming smoothly, there's now time for golf and she served notice this week that she's to be reckoned with in the scramble for golfing titles.

After rounds of 81 and 79 the first two days at Orchard Lake Country Club, Mrs. Werner lost her putting touch yesterday and struggled in with a closing 87 for a 54-hole total of 247.

Despite the slump which also hit a few other players, she managed to win her fourth medal play crown by two strokes over Mrs. John Hume of Birmingham, who has finished second in four of the past seven tournaments.

THREE CHILDREN

Most of Mrs. Werner's time is spent caring for her three children, Scott, 1; Linda, 3; and Keith, 5, but she showed at OLOC she still has the temperament for tournament golf.

About yesterday's horrendous 87, she said only, "I lost my swing. My stance didn't feel good, and when that improved my hands didn't feel right."

Along with having swing problems, she had trouble on the greens in using 27 putts for the round that included five three-putt greens.

In a three-way tie for third place were Mrs. Robert Gamble of Lochmoor Club, Kathy Shanahan of Pine Lake and Mrs. Anthony Koustas of Dearborn.

Mrs. Gamble had the day's best round, an 81, and she showed steady improvement in the tournament with rounds of 86-83-81.

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — Two methodical putters, former champion Roberta Albers of the University of Miami and Martha Wilkinson of California State College at Fullerton met today for the Women's National Collegiate title.

Miss Albers, who had been bothered by a bad back in earlier rounds, advanced to the final by beating medalist Jane Bastanchury, Odessa College, Tex., 2 and 1 Thursday in a semifinal.

Miss Wilkinson, a pressure putter, beat Nicki Nordstrom, Arizona State University, 4 and 3.

Champ Runs Mark to 5-2 in City Loop

Defending champion Teamsters Local 614 hiked its record to 5-2 last night by knocking off Lake Orion's Cardinals, 4-0, in City Class A baseball action.

The winners scored three times in the first and added their final marker in the fifth.

Don Picmannet led the distance for the unionmen, scattering five hits and fanning seven.

John Fleser paced the hitting attack for the Teamsters with a double and single.

In a couple of Saturday make-up games, U.A.W. meets the Clippers at 6:30 while Talbot takes on Pass Excalibur at 8:30.

Back to common sense.

Back to a Volkswagen... the common sense car that's simply comfortable and economical.

When you consider the high cost of horsepower, power brakes, power steering, power windows, premium gasoline, anti-freeze and all the related maintenance and repair that you can expect from most of today's cars, you'll conclude that driving a Volkswagen is just plain common sense.

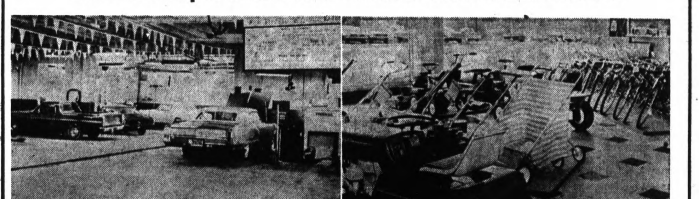

The price of a new Volkswagen is low, yet, it is well built and reliable. It's small and easy to park. It gets about 27 miles to the gallon of regular gas and averages 40,000 miles on original tires. You never pay for anti-freeze, radiator repairs or water hoses because a VW is air-cooled. Parts are readily available and inexpensive because Volkswagens don't change much from year to year and many are interchangeable.

Look around. You'll see that Volkswagens are really quite common... because they make a lot of sense. So, with new car price increases just around the corner, it makes even more sense to get your VW right now. Come in and see us, we've got a lot in common. We'll save one for you.

Inter-League Grid Play Opens Aug. 5

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Football League and the American Football League will get together to play 16 preseason games this year during the period between Aug. 5 and Sept. 3.

Regular season play between the two leagues is not expected to start until 1970. The only previous meeting of the leagues was in the Super Bowl at Los Angeles where the Green Bay Packers of the NFL defeated the Kansas City Chiefs of the AFL.

White Sox Shutout Cross-Town Rivals

CHICAGO (AP) — Four Chicago White Sox pitchers combined to limit the Chicago Cubs to five hits Thursday night as the American League leaders defeated their cross-town rivals 2-0 before 39,443 in Comiskey Park.

It was the 18th annual Boy's Benefit Game, and the White Sox gained their eighth victory of the series with single runs in the first and eighth innings. Tommy McCraw singled Ken Berry across in the first for the Sox.

The second run sprang from Jim King's third straight single, Al Weis' infield hit and Tommie Agee's sacrifice fly. Lefty Rob Gardner, Koonce's successor in the sixth, gave the second run.

Spartans Finish 7th in Team Race

SHAWNEE-ON-DELAWARE, Pa. (UPI)—Michigan State University golfers finished eighth Thursday in their bid for the team title of the 70th annual National Collegiate Athletic Association golf championships.

But one Spartan golfer remained among the leaders vying in the individual title race.

John Bailey tallied a 73-72-145, five strokes off the pace of leader Steve Melnyk of the University of Florida, after Thursday's second round action.

Bailey, Melnyk and 13 other golfers who shot between 140 and 145, joined 68 others who survived Thursday's cut into today's final 36 holes.

The field of 240 was reduced to 73 on a 150 cutoff score. The MSU team finished with 596 points, 13 strokes behind the University of Houston.

Patti Shook Wins Spring Lake Title

SPRING LAKE (AP)—Patti Shook has become the first triple-winner of the Spring Lake Women's Open Golf Tournament in 21 years, regaining the trophy she won in 1959 and 1960.

Miss Shook, medalist of the tournament, defeated Mrs. William Windatt of Muskegon, 4 and 3, Thursday.

Shared LeMans Victory

Foyt Eyes Prix Circuit

NEW YORK (AP) — A.J. Foyt, a figure of sport book proportions in the violent world of American oval-track auto racing, would like to try his hand on the Grand Prix circuit.

"I would like to get into the classic—and he didn't have to share any with the car owner. He is the car owner."

Foyt knows about purse money. He collected $171,227 for winning the recent Indianapolis 500—his third victory in that classic—and he didn't have to share any with the car owner. He is the car owner.

A.J. appeared this week with Dan Gurney, an American who is as well, if not better known, in world road racing circles as he is at home, at a small dinner given by the Ford Motor Co.

ALL-AMERICAN

Gurney, Foyt and Ford teamed up to win this year's 24-hour LeMans road race in France, the first all-American team to turn the trick.

The victory also made Foyt making his initial appearance at LeMans, the first man to win both Indy and LeMans.

Now the executive committee of the United States Auto Club meets next week in Indianapolis to determine if the turbine will continue as a legal entry. Some feel it should be banned. Others look for modifications of rules which would necessitate alterations.

"If I have to make excuses for a car which can do things no car has ever done before, I must be in the wrong business."

Granatelli declared at a Thursday news conference.

Asked if he expected USAC to approve the turbine for future Indianapolis classics, he replied, "No, I don't expect them to approve, but I don't see how they can turn it down."

us the race," Foyt said, "They would have said 'He's just another Indy driver.' And if I won, they would say 'He should have won.'"

Gurney, besides sharing in the LeMans first, also chalked up one of his own last Sunday.

He won the Belgian Grand Prix and became the first American to win in an American-made car a Grand Prix race that counts towards the world championship.

Gurney, whose LeMans victory came on his seventh attempt, said:

Turbine Speedster Sees End of Piston Racers

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Andy Granatelli predicts turbine engines will replace the conventional piston types in automobiles within 15 years yet he can't predict how his racer will fare Monday.

The race car builder spent three years developing his turbine driven speedster for the Indianapolis 500 and it led last Memorial Day until bearing trouble forced it out with 7 1/2 miles to go.

Now the executive committee of the United States Auto Club meets next week in Indianapolis to determine if the turbine will continue as a legal entry. Some feel it should be banned. Others look for modifications of rules which would necessitate alterations.

"If I have to make excuses for a car which can do things no car has ever done before, I must be in the wrong business."

Granatelli declared at a Thursday news conference.

Asked if he expected USAC to approve the turbine for future Indianapolis classics, he replied, "No, I don't expect them to approve, but I don't see how they can turn it down."

State Reports Rash of 'Swimmer Itch' Cases

LANSING (AP) — Cool, cool waters, particularly in the southwestern part of the state, could mean scratch, scratch, scratch.

The State Conservation Department reports that "swimmer's itch," the bane of summer bathers, is breaking out in a number of Lower Michigan water resources division.

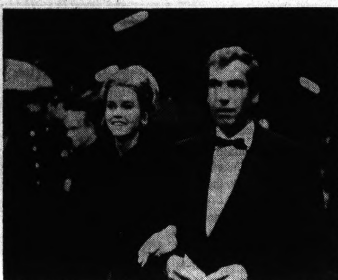

Up to 30 complaints of the scratchy scourge have been reported to Michael Newton, aquatic biologist for the department's water resources division. The complaints come from the Kalamazoo-Paw Paw areas, he said. Complaints also have been coming in to the Plainwell district, the department reported.

"Tiny parasites, called cercariae, are carried by certain kinds of snails," the department said. "The small organisms come into contact with swimmers and burrow into their skin, leaving tiny red spots which swell, itch and fester."

The department said the best defense against swimmer's itch is to stay out of waters where it is reported or suspected. "If you're not sure about the threat of swimmer's itch in waters where you've been swimming," the department continued, "take a good shower afterwards and scrub yourself thoroughly."

If the little monsters already have attacked you, apply a drying lotion such as calomine to relieve the itching sensation, the department suggested.

The Conservation Department is following up complaints and advising lakeland owners on applying a chemical, usually copper sulphate, which combats swimmer's itch.

OUTDOOR LENS TEST — Jane Fonda and husband Roger Vadim, attending Manhattan premiere of "The Game Is Over," are subjects of a photographer's lens test. Using the new aspheric Noctilux f/1.2 lens wide open, this was shot by available light on Anscochrome T100 film at 1/30th second.

Lens Advance Noted

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

When I attended Photokina, world's largest photo fair in Cologne, Germany, this past October, it was impossible to see or report on all items of major news interest that were introduced.

One of the things I missed then but have caught up with now is an important breakthrough in lens production: the high-speed aspheric Leitz Noctilux 50mm f-1.2 lens. This 6-element Gauss-type lens which focuses down to 40 inches is bayonet-mounted for the Leica M2 and M3 bodies.

It is a special purpose lens for photographers wishing to shoot color pictures by available light even when the light shines into the lens.

Company technicians claim the Noctilux offers corner-to-corner correction, sharpness and contrast never available before in a lens of this ultra-speed.

My testing is practical, not technical. It involves no lab with an optical bench or electronic machinery. It consists of a performance test after borrowing the Noctilux on an M3 body.

STAGE PRESENTATION

Indoors, I chose a stage presentation typical of many amateur dramatic group performances in small theaters or hotel meeting rooms around the country. Some lights on the stage faced the camera. With Anscochrome Tungsten-100 color film, a meter reading showed an exposure of 1/30th second at f-1.4 was needed.

Outdoors, at night, a gala Manhattan movie premiere provided the opportunity for a test. It was cold and raining when Jane Fonda and her husband, Roger Vadim, arrived for the opening of "The Game Is Over" in which she starred and he directed.

Other photographers were shooting with flash while I took color pictures under the lobby lights at the slowest hand-held speed advisable — 1/30th second — at full opening, f-1.2 with the same T-100 film.

The exposure here was a guess since the Leica M3 does not have a built-in meter and the occasion was too hectic for separate meter reading. Processing was normal and the results seemed to bear out the claims: there was no halo rimming the lights and the colors seemed more distinct in the shadows. If anything, the night outdoor shots were a tiny bit over-exposed.

Having done well in these tests, the lens became more interesting as a technical achievement.

As an aspheric (non-spheric) lens, the design is keyed to correct aberrations, eliminate internal flare and increase contrast thereby giving better shadow detail and purer, more saturated color rendition at wide open ultrashort settings.

But it was hitherto impossible to produce high-speed aspheric lenses on a production line or quantity basis.

The use of water softeners in homes can be dangerous for persons on a restricted salt diet because the chemicals used may produce a higher salt content than is normal for city water.

Detroit Police Pay Talks Start

Parley Today Opens
10-Day Bargaining

DETROIT (AP) — Police and city officials called a meeting today to open 10 days of negotiations on police demands for more pay.
The 10 days were arranged by the settlement that ended a wave of patrolmen calling in sick and a ticket-writing slowdown.

Deputy Police Commissioner Robert Lothian said the two sides will discuss all the non-economic matters that contributed to the five-day police crisis touched off last Thursday.

But the main problem is money. Detroit police draw a top of $8,335 and want $10,000 a year. Mayor Jerome Cavanagh and other city officials said there was no money available for raises.

61 SUSPENDED

On May 17, police started slowing down in the number of traffic tickets they wrote. Sixty-one policemen were suspended for refusing to write tickets and more were taken out of squad cars and put on beats.

After the suspensions, policemen started calling in sick. A high of 676 out of the 4,300-man department reported ill at one point.

John F. Nichols, deputy superintendent, reported a total of 233 men still reporting sick as of 8 a.m. Thursday. The number of sick continues to drop with each succeeding shift, Nichols said.

Under terms of the settlement, the two sides will negotiate for 10 days. Any unresolved issues will be turned over to a select citizens study commission. It is this committee which is expected to take up the issue of more pay for policemen.

OFFICIAL REPORT

Meanwhile, Councilman and former Mayor Louis Miriani asked for an official report on the dispute.

Miriani said the council has received no information from the Cavanagh administration.

2 Get Posts at Boys' State

Two Pontiac boys have been elected to offices at Wolverine Boys' State, Michigan State University.

Dennis McLaughlin, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. D. McLaughlin of 33 Court, was named justice of the peace for his "city."

John Willson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. F. Willson, 661 Second, was elected city councilman.

Both boys are sponsored by the Pontiac American Legion Post.

Boys' State is an American Legion-sponsored activity held for one week each summer to give students experience in government. The session at MSU ended yesterday.

Costs Companies Millions Annually

Manny the Torch—an Insurance Bugaboo

NEW YORK (AP) — Manny the Torch liked to play with matches when he was a kid. The roar of flames, the screaming of fire engines gave him pleasure. Manny's a big boy now. But he still gets his kicks playing with matches. And now he gets paid for it.

Manny's a professional torch, a criminal who sets fires on order. He'll drop burning matches in a building for a cut of the insurance money from the owner.

Manny's an imaginary figure, but he's a composite of the torch criminal whose arsonous

WILL DO ANYTHING

A torch is "the general, no-good criminal who will do anything for a buck," says Brendan P. Battle, manager of the Fraud and Arson Bureau of the American Insurance Association.

Last year Battle's staff of about 100 agents investigated 3,705 fires throughout the country that had been reported as being suspicious. Of these, 702 were fires set to collect the insurance money, he said.

"The total amount of insurance at risk on these probable fraud fire losses was $35,522,500," said Battle. "In 100 of these cases, arrests were made which represented $3,989,000 in insurance coverages."

A lot of money. A lot of fires. And Battle isn't optimistic the problem will disappear quickly.

"Let's face it," he said, "there's no law against carrying a match."

The depression of the 1930s was the worst time for fraudulent fire-setting," Battle said. "But then times got better, there was a war and the problem sort of died down."

Torching for cash were infrequent enough so that the Fraud and Arson Bureau kept no statistics on the problem. But it started compiling them in 1959.

As Battle puts it: "This criminal activity has continued to grow until today it is one of the serious problems which must be met by the insurance industry."

He said that in 1960 his agents investigated 578 cases involving probable insurance fraud. The figure was 740 in 1961; 780 in 1962; 875 in 1963; 904 in 1964, and 836 in 1965.

Insurance men say arson is easy to commit but difficult to detect.

Just how difficult may be seen in what happened to, what Battle called "one of the best cases we ever had."

The case was lost in court, he said, despite the testimony of any eyewitness who saw the arsonist sloshing gasoline against a building and then throwing a match on it.

The torching took place late at night, however, and the eyewitness was an 83-year-old woman. Defense efforts to discredit her testimony on the ground of falling sight were successful.

But John E. Stuerwald, the assistant manager of the Fraud and Arson Bureau, says that in many arson cases the failure to arrest or convict the torch "does not mean complete defeat."

In many cases, he said, the bureau's agents were able to collect sufficient evidence of arson to enable the insurance companies to resist claims successfully.

Manny the Torch keeps trying, though, either on his own or as a member of a professional arson ring. Some of these rings, Battle believes, are controlled by racketeers and one of their specialties is "the long-distance transportation of hired torches" who "travel many hundreds of miles from one city to another to touch off particular locations and then depart from the scene — their jobs accomplished." On some jobs, the torch has traveled 1,000 miles or more on a specific assignment, he said.

Movieland Doves Will 'Welcome' LBJ

By BOB THOMAS

AP Movie-Television Writer

LOS ANGELES — A group of film figures, headed by UCLA's Robert Vaughn, have prepared a special welcome for President Johnson's visit to Los Angeles today.

Vaughn, who combats the secret agency TRUTH as Napoleon Solo each Friday night, has assumed leadership of an organization called Dissenting Democrats. Their aims to oppose the administration's policy in Vietnam.

The Dissenting Democrats have taken a two-page advertisement in the Los Angeles Times today to coincide with the President's visit. The group aimed for 5,000 signatories to the ad and said it had 6,500 by deadline time.

The broadside notifies President Johnson that as of today the undersigned, "registered Democrats, who helped elect you in 1964, are disassociating ourselves from you and your administration because of your conduct of the war in Vietnam."

DAILY THREAT

The ad avers: "Your administration threatens us daily with the prospect of an all-out confrontation with Red China and inevitably with the Soviet Union, leading us inexorably toward a thermonuclear holocaust."

The statement ends with the upper case notification: "Mr. President, we advise you, that on every level of government that, from this day on, our campaign funds, our energies and our votes go to those and only those political figures who work for an end to the war in Vietnam."

What effect, if any, the ad will have is a matter of conjecture. But it reflects a new boldness in political dissent that has not been seen in Hollywood since before the McCarthy era.

During the wartime and post-war period, film figures often lent their names to causes that went counter to majority opinion. The congressional investigations of the 1950s, followed by industry blacklists, put an end to political activism in Hollywood.

MOST NOTABLE

Vietnam has changed that. Most notable of the movieland doves is Vaughn, who has become a pal of Sens. Wayne Morse and Robert F. Kennedy and is much in demand as a speaker at universities throughout the land. Despite his stand against the Vietnam war, he appears not to have endangered his position as star of the popular series "The Man From U.N.C.L.E."

Form Block Club in City

Teens Find 'Something to Do'

A group of preteens and teenagers who ordinarily might be lamenting, "there's nothing to do," have something to do since they followed the example of their mothers and fathers and organized their own block club.

The club's name was well chosen. The "Do-Etts" have, since organizing two months ago, held weekly meetings, elected officers, nearly doubled the membership, secured a neighborhood playground for themselves, held an unusual "grassroots" thrown a party, learned parliamentary procedure and taken turns at public speaking.

The "Do-Etts" sprang into existence after several teenagers living on Irwin Street attended a meeting of the Irwin Street Block Club. They asked Arthur Dunlop, an organizer for the Office of Economic Opportunity, how to go about getting a youth group in the area.

Dunlop, well-versed in organizing clubs, immediately canvassed the neighborhood in the area of Central and Irwin for members.

"One of the first things that I noticed was that the young people wanted to do something and they also wanted to feel like they were part of the community," he said.

REGULAR MEETINGS

The first meeting of the group was attended by 15 youngsters ranging from 8 to 16 years old. Since then they have been meeting regularly each Saturday at 4 p.m. The meetings usually last an hour to an hour and a half.

The club has bylaws and a sergeant-at-arms. It's all run by the youngsters with a minimal amount of adult supervision.

Officers elected at the second meeting are Gina Hoover, president; Leroy Robinson, vice president; Arthur Bradley, secretary; Sandra Dunlop, treasurer; James Ney, sergeant-at-arms; and May Jackson, assistant secretary.

MEMBERSHIP GROWS

Since organizing the club membership has grown to 26. It is comprised of both Negro and white youngsters.

The first interest that drew the members was finding a suitable place to have a playground, one that fits into their format as a neighborhood club.

An empty lot owned by a local businessman turned out to be the answer. He said the club could use it as a playground as long as it remained vacant, and that he had no immediate plans to sell it or build on it.

The help of the city in making the lot a playground was sought, and granted. David Ewalt, director of parks and recreation, saw to it that the grass and weeds were cut and plans are to have mowed spots leveled.

LAWN-CUTTING PROJECT

With that project being carried on, members of the club began another. On a Saturday they went from house to house offering to cut lawns.

After a four-hour spree of degrading the neighborhood — during which time they received $10.75 in "donations" — a party was held.

The Coca Cola Bottling Co. donated two cases of beverages and persons living in the area donated cookies, sandwiches and potato chips. The party lasted two hours.

During the summer the Do-Etts are planning to stage more lawn-cutting parties and to hold a car-wash day.

ZOO TRIP EYED

They are hoping to earn enough to take a trip to the Detroit Zoo and to see a stage play in Detroit. They're also discussing going to Edgewater Beach, if possible, on a hay wagon.

Each week the club meets in the home of one of the members.

During the meetings the members take turns in delivering speeches. They can talk on any subject they choose.

Dunlop, who said the idea of a unique neighborhood club is young in the area thinks this method is helping the youngsters build confidence in themselves.

He predicts that it won't be long before there are many similar groups in Pontiac.

What Is Congressman Up To?

D.C. Peril---Capital Question

By DICK WEST
United Press International
WASHINGTON — In a press release this week, Rep. Glenn Cunningham came to grips with the question "Will it be safe to visit the nation's capital this summer?"

WEST

The Nebraska Republican said he had appraised the situation in response to inquiries and that his findings were "far from reassuring."

He did not flatly declare the city unsafe for tourists. But he did say that, in view of the rising crime rate, "I cannot tell you that it is safe to come to Washington, D.C., on a vacation."

If I were the suspicious type, I might suspect two things: • That Cunningham had to entertain a lot of house guests last summer and is trying to forestall another invasion. • That his press release is the opening move in a campaign to obtain hazardous-duty pay for congressmen.

But I'm not the suspicious type. I'm the nervous type. So what the press release did was make me realize how brave I am to be working in Washington.

BIGGEST RISK

I must say, however, that I do not regard the crime wave as the greatest peril.

It seems to me the biggest risk to any tourist daring enough to come here is the danger of being trampled by other courageous tourists.

Being employed here, I must face such dangers in the line of duty. But since I have a vacation coming up in a few weeks, I would like to pose a related question: "Will it be safe to visit Nebraska this summer?"

If the answer is affirmative, I might change my vacation plans.

SECURITY CALL

I had been intending to visit my father in Merkel, Tex., my old home town.

As soon as I saw Cunningham's press release, I called my father to check on security there.

"Will it be safe to visit Merkel this summer?" I asked. My father said, "Hold the phone while I look out the window."

NOT REASSURING

He came back and said, "The situation is far from reassuring. I cannot tell you that it is safe to come to Merkel on a vacation."

"Wherein does the chief danger lie?" I queried.

"Well," he said, "during your visit, you probably would want to climb a few windmills, which is about all there is to do for entertainment around here. If a windmill happened to fall over while you were climbing it, it could give you a nasty spill."

"Has that ever happened?" I said.

"Not yet," my father said, "But there's always a first time for everything."

Being a tourist these days takes a lot of nerve.

Copter Pilot Gets Medal for Lake Huron Rescue

MOUNT CLEMENS (AP)—A Coast Guard helicopter pilot who battled his way through heavy snow and gale-force winds last November, rescuing eight men from a foundering German freighter, was awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross Thursday.

Lt. Cmdr. Lonnie L. Mixon of Whistler, Ala., got one of nine awards presented at Selfridge Air Force Base, home of the Detroit Coast Guard Air Station.

TWO CREWMEN

Air Medals were presented to two crewmen who were aboard Mixon's helicopter. They are his copilot, Lt. Jack C. Rittichier of Barborton, Ohio, and David C. Noffz of Traverse City, formerly an aviation machinist's mate and now a civilian.

Mixon also received an Air Medal for rescuing four hunters earlier last November. The men were stranded near Monroe in darkness, snow and gale winds.

His copilot for that mission, Lt. James H. Ferguson of Felton, Calif., was presented with a Coast Guard Commendation Medal.

Another Air Medal went to Lt. Cmdr. Cecil S. Berry for flying through snow and gales to rescue two men stranded on a gasoline barge near Kingsville, Ont., last November.

The rest will go to Camp Agawam on Tommy's Lake in Orion Township. This camp, in its 48th season, is under the direction of Anson R. Cassavoy, a scoutmaster and teacher from Holly.

Improvements in facilities, and program have been made at both camps. The changes were made possible by a special fund-raising drive in the council last year.

Approximately 1,400 scouts and adult leaders are expected to attend the two council camps this season.

The freighter Nordmeer ran aground on a rocky shoal near Alpena last November. The captain and seven crewmen stayed aboard for eleven days, until Lake Huron was whipped into a mountainous sea which threatened to break the vessel in two.

MIXON HOVERED

Mixon hovered his chopper 15 feet above the ship's bow and hoisted the men aboard, one at a time. He carried the eight men to a nearby icebreaker in two trips. The wreckage of the freighter still is on the rocks.

Air Medals were presented to two crewmen who were aboard Mixon's helicopter. They are his copilot, Lt. Jack C. Rittichier of Barborton, Ohio, and David C. Noffz of Traverse City, formerly an aviation machinist's mate and now a civilian.

Look at the Hidden Cost and Total Cost

AT SPENCER'S...

You know the total cost, right to the penny

Spencer's counseling will enable you to become more aware of the total cost of carpeting before you buy! We want you to understand the quality, whether you are talking "cost per yard" or the "installed price." We believe that the customer's individual needs are the first consideration. If you want to become "Carpet-aware" ... see Spencer's.

It's easy to see why confused customers can be "taken" by fast-talking "salesmen." These "salesmen" invite you to spring at the DEAL offered, to his "good" customers. He offers them quality carpeting at tremendous savings per yard, but the sting is felt when the installation, padding and delivery cost are added on.

The 3-rooms-of-carpet-at-a-price salesman who flowers you with the thought that your "BUY" will be installed in a jiffy will indeed invade your home with a poorly woven, cheap fiber, weak color and worthless guaranteed carpet.

Whatever your immediate needs, take the time to "know what you're getting and for how much."

U.S. Union Pay Bites Leave Foreign Stars Bitter Taste

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Rudolf Nureyev, Margot Fonteyn, Franco Corelli, Tito Gobbi and other foreign stars are rebelling against rising on American TV. In '68 because the 30% alien tax, full union fees of AFTRA, and other deductions leave them with very little pay for a guest star appearance. British star Roy Castle, who was a hit here, is another who's on strike against U.S. TV for the same reason. Agents and managers are seeking a compromise — but the unions and Gov't. seem for the present quite unmoved.

Dyan Cannon (Mrs. Cary Grant) slipped into NY minus Cary and the baby to "do some shopping and see some shows."

While waiters have been complaining about tipping in NY ("What tipping?" said one waiter), some barbers have it pretty good. Joe E. Lewis, for example, tips his barber $2, manicurist $2, and shine boy $1 — and many women up much higher.

Min Farrow's nervous about her appetite failure... Frank Sinatra, during this week, ordered cold at his apartment. The Lovin' Spoonful may lose a member (after their Forest Hills date Saturday). But if he goes, there's a replacement already waiting up... Dean Martin has no feuds but there's one male singer, pretty famous, he can't stand having on his show... At 21: Joe DiMaggio conferring with Al. Edward Bennett Williams.

THE MIDNIGHT EARL

Benny Venuta flew to Malta to visit U.S. Ambassador George Feldman (her across-the-hill neighbor here in NY). And Anita Louise and Henry Berger'll be going... Janice Rule has the darndest accident filming "The Ambushers" — a gun hidden in her bra went off during an embrace. (She was injured in the, uh, bra)... Producer Lee Guber's dr. Carol married TV writer Tom Schachtman... Dick Hays' mother, Marguerita, said at Matia's he's just as sure: "I wish citizenship."

Robert Mitchell, filming "Amigo" in Rome, made a singing appearance on local TV... The Richard Rodgers' new home in Westport costs $750,000... Ginger Rogers, touring in "Dolly," will get four months off to make a movie (probably about reclusive Ida Wood)... Princess Margaret and Lord Snowden ordered a new Rolls, a TV in the back... Socialite Philip Van Rensselaer's writing a Broadway musical based on the Duchess of Windsor's book, "The Heart Has Its Reasons."

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: Larry Mathews insists he doesn't drink often: "I just watch the Dean Martin show to be sociable."

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Rip Taylor hears that Bob Hope will entertain the fighting men again. He's taking a troupe to the UN building.

EARL'S PEARLS: Joe E. Lewis philosophizes, "Keep your head when all about you are losing theirs — and you'll be the tallest drunk in the place."

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "Many a good man has failed because he had his wishbone where his backbone should have been." A fellow complained that he went to Shea Stadium on Bat Day and got a bat, went on Cap Day and got a cap, went on Ladies' Day — and was disappointed... That's earl, brother.

AWAITS DECISION — Sen. Thomas Dodd walks through a corridor today as the Senate approaches a final vote on censure charges filed against him. "I'd like to get this over with one way or another," the Connecticut Democrat said last night as the Senate recessed amid a parliamentary snarl and a flare of tempers without reaching a vote on the financial misconduct charges. For the second time in two days, the Senate overwhelmingly beat back a bid to soften the possible action against Dodd.

State Senate Okays Appropriation Bills

LANSING (AP) — Faced with the threat of a major budget slash, the Senate passed $465.5 million in spending bills yesterday while the House moved another $338.8 million worth of bills into position for a vote.

Meanwhile, Gov. Romney and House Republican and Democratic negotiators conferred on a means to break a logjam holding up House passage of a tax reform package to provide money to meet the bills.

Romney's budget staff prepared to introduce a new spending bill which would trim his February budget proposals from $1.153 billion down to an "austerity" level of $945.9 million.

The austerity bill was to be held ready in case the Legislature failed to pass a revenue-raising tax reform package by the end of the fiscal year on June 30.

U.N. Diplomats Watch Summit

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Diplomats pursued intensive private discussions at the United Nations today on the tangled issues of the Middle East crisis with one eye on the meeting between President Johnson and Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin.

Behind-the-scenes consultation at the United Nations were considered still in an embryonic stage.

Most delegates predicted a long period of hard bargaining before the emergency session of the assembly received a resolution that could command the two-thirds majority necessary for adoption.

But feeling was widespread that prospects for a solution to the Arab-Israeli dispute hinged to a great extent on the outcome of the summit meeting in Glassboro, N.J.

LBJ-Kosygin Talks Near

GLASSBORO, N.J. (AP) — President Johnson and Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin meet on a college campus outside Philadelphia today for the first U.S.-Soviet summit session in six years. The White House announcement last night that the President and the premier would meet capped week-long, suspenseful negotiations over whether there would be a Big Two parley — and who would go to whom.

Johnson and Kosygin compromised, with each journeying about halfway between New York and Washington for their 11 a.m. appointment and lunch at Glassboro State College, in this little town 15 miles south of Philadelphia.

The White House said there was no agenda for the meeting but indicated the President planned to raise such issues as the Middle East, Southeast Asia and Vietnam, the proposed treaty to check the spread of nuclear weapons, and the U.S. proposal to limit the U.S.-Soviet antiballistic missile race.

However, the Big Two meeting was expected to last little longer than two hours — Kosygin wanted to be back in New York by 3 p.m. — so there was small prospect of summit solutions today to basic East-West issues.

NOTHING BIG EXPECTED

Diplomats looked for less tangible results:

- It is the first face-to-face meeting of the men on each end of the Washington-Moscow hot line. Even if they reached no substantive agreements, they might understand each other and the other positions better.

- Those around the globe who look to the great powers for evidence of their interest in avoiding conflict might feel reassured by the meeting.

JFK-KHRUSHCHEV

At the last U.S.-Soviet summit, in Vienna in May 1961, President John F. Kennedy and Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev agreed on neutrality and independence for Laos. But they disagreed over Berlin, which became a crisis point later that year.

The news that it was about to become an historic site took the people of Glassboro, like most everyone else, by complete surprise.

LEAVING FOR MEETING — Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin (right), accompanied by Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin (in glasses) and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko (center), prepares to enter a car at the Soviet mission for a trip to Glassboro, N.J. There he is scheduled to meet with President Johnson in a summit meeting.

ABC-IT&T Merger Approved Again

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Communications Commission has for the second time approved the merger of American Broadcasting Companies Inc. into International Telephone & Telephone Corp. — The biggest merger in broadcasting history.

But the Justice Department has not decided yet whether to take its fight against the consolidation into court.

FCC Commissioners Robert E. Lee Loewinger, James J. Wadsworth and Chairman Rosel H. Hyde formed the majority in the same 4-3 lineup that prevailed when the FCC first approved the $2.8-billion merger Dec. 21.

The majority said IT&T's strong financial backing would enable ABC to better compete with the other two major networks — National Broadcasting Co. and Columbia Broadcasting System.

The network says it will expand its color programming and build new studios as part of a $141-million program.

The new FCC decision was accompanied by a strongly worded 138-page minority opinion that accused some IT&T and ABC officials and witnesses of both companies of lack of candor and misrepresentations during their testimony at recent FCC hearings on the merger.

Engineer Society Hears OU Chief

Oakland University Chancellor Durward B. Varner yesterday found engineering educators guilty of an abdication of responsibilities in the nationwide campus turbulence.

He delivered the main address to some 3,500 persons attending the closing of the four-day, 75th annual meeting of the American Society for Engineering Education at Michigan State University.

"You are part of the university community and you have citizenship responsibilities there, too," Varner told the largest conference ever held on the East Lansing campus.

"You have too long ignored student radicals, and I urge you — I plead with you — in the interest of good university management — to join the battle. We need you!"

He contended students are the "center of the educational enterprise" and should be heard.

New Grand Juror Petitions for Pratt's Secret Records

Oakland County's new grand juror, Judge James S. Thorburn, traveled to Lansing today to petition the Michigan Supreme Court to give him the secret records of his predecessor, Judge Philip Pratt.

Without the information that was compiled by Pratt during the 10 months he headed the judicial inquiry, it is believed by some courthouse observers that Thorburn's eight-week term will not have any far reaching results.

Thorburn was appointed to the job yesterday by fellow members of the bench to fill out the remaining term of Pratt, who was disqualified last month by a ruling of the Michigan Court of Appeals.

When Pratt was named to head the investigation into alleged criminal activities surrounding the Hazel Park Race Track, he was selected because of past experience, and the fact that it takes a grand juror a few months to become accustomed to the procedure.

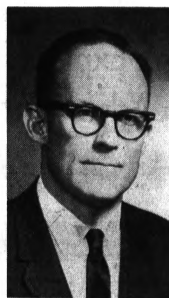

Pratt had ended a year-long investigation into Royal Oak Township only two months before he began his second.

ILLEGALITY

It is for this reason that the appellate court declared Pratt illegal, saying that he had succeeded himself in conducting a probe aimed at crimes which he had previously investigated.

State law limits a grand jury probe to only one year.

field Township, with a Valentine Day gift for her.

"We had broken up by that time. I didn't want anything to do with him, but he wanted to make up," Mrs. Fruehauf said on being questioned by Asst. Prosecutor John Davey.

'ARGUMENT ENSUED'

The 42-year-old widow said as the evening wore on, an argument ensued over the repayment of $25,000 she had lent DeClercq.

"He called me every name he could think of," said Mrs. Fruehauf, "and started throwing anything he could get his hands on."

Board Proceeds on River Project

By JOE MULLEN

After conducting an information session yesterday in Macomb County on a proposed $70-million Clinton River improvement project, the augmented drainage board voted to proceed with first stage plans for the project.

The board comprises three members each from Oakland, Macomb, St. Clair and Lapeer counties and has, as its 13th member, the state director of agriculture.

Still in the preliminary planning stage with no cost commitments made, the river project was petitioned for by 10 Macomb County communities. The river basin to be developed includes 65 communities in the four-county area, including 29 in Oakland.

Thomas S. Welch, Macomb County drain commissioner and secretary of the augmented board, explained the nature of the proposed project, its objectives and projected costs.

Welch estimated that the river widening, deepening and straightening would take 20 years and require $35 million in local funds. He viewed the prospects of receiving federal matching funds as likely and said that state funds may also be available.

RIVER BASIN

The basin of the river which empties into Lake St. Clair has a population of 872,000 and covers 760 square miles, according to Welch.

Some 75 officials of communities in the river basin area attended the meeting, including several from Oakland County.

Pontiac Div. Sets 10-Day Sales Mark

For the fourth time in the past two months, Pontiac Motor Division sales set a 10-day record.

General Sales Manager Thomas L. King said today that June 11-20 sales totaled 24,696 units, a 10 per cent increase over the 22,376 cars sold in the same period a year ago.

Since the spring upturn started, King pointed out, Pontiac sales were running ahead of the year-ago pace.

"The market for our products continues very strong," King added. "In fact, currently we're obtaining 11 per cent of domestic sales, our deepest penetration in a long time."

The previous mid-June record was set two years ago when 23,692 cars were sold.

Showers Are Likely Through Tomorrow

There's a chance of showers or thunderstorms tonight and tomorrow but little change in temperature is expected, the weatherman reports.

The official U.S. Weather Bureau report looks like this:

TODAY — Partly cloudy, a little warmer, high 78 to 84. Mostly cloudy tonight with some showers or thunderstorms likely. Low tonight 58 to 64.

TOMORROW — Mostly cloudy with some showers or thunderstorms likely. Little change in temperature.

Precipitation probabilities in per cent: Today 20, tonight 60, tomorrow 60.

House Panel Clears Bill on Riot Agitators

WASHINGTON (AP) — Spurred by this spring's rash of racial uprisings, a House panel quickly has approved a bill aimed at jailing traveling agitators who spark future riots.

The House Judiciary subcommittee okayed a measure that would make it a federal crime with a maximum sentence of five years' imprisonment to cross state lines to encourage rioting.

As the panel acted, the administration weighed in with sharp criticism of rioting. And a civil rights leader warned violence could spread this summer to the Capitol's doorstep.

Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz, testifying before the committee, said rioters are blocking "real, honest efforts to help their cause."

CRITICIZES CONGRESSMEN

But Wirtz also criticized congressmen who attack administration antiriot programs. He said helped arrest the kind of racial unrest the same congressmen deplored.

In another part of Washington—a former shoeshine parlor that now is headquarters for the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee—the SNCC chairman, Rap Brown, said trouble lies ahead unless Negroes get more representation in the capital's ruling councils. A majority of the city's population is Negro.

Responding to a white newsman's question, Brown said: "If you view yourself as a honky and antiblack, you should start moving right now. If you are a friend of the black people, bring me some guns."

"If America chooses to play Nazis, the black people ain't going to play Jews," he added.

House Speaker John W. McCormack endorsed the House Judiciary subcommittee's approval of the antiriot bill, saying he strongly favored such legislation.

FAST ACTION SEEN

Prospects appeared to be for prompt approval by the full committee and speedy passage by the House.

Chairman Emmanuel Celler, D-N.Y., succeeded in tying to the measure a provision aimed at guaranteeing Negroes against interference with their civil rights, such as voting, attending public schools and using public accommodations.

The same provision, part of last year's civil rights legislation, won House approval last year but died when the Senate passed the entire package.

On the Senate side, the administration's antiriot chief conceded his prediction last year that the war on poverty would be won in 10 years had been optimistic.

Sargent Shriver, director of the Office of Economic Opportunity, told a Senate antiriot subcommittee that cutbacks in funds means "it will take a lot longer than 10 years."

4-County Unit Acts on River Drain Plan

In answer to a question from Sherwin Birnkant, attorney for the City of Pontiac, Welch explained that the engineering work to date on the proposed project has been aimed at establishing a delineation of the river basin.

A later question was who is paying the engineering fees incurred in the project planning.

PLANNING TASK

Welch explained that Johnson & Anderson, Inc., of 2300 Dietz Waterford Township, has accepted the planning task on a "no remuneration" basis while approval of the project is pending.

Welch said that the augmented board interviewed five engineering firms before selecting Johnson & Anderson and that all five were willing to "gamble" on the preliminary work if they would be reimbursed when the project is approved.

Welch said he has little doubt that the project will be approved when the vital public hearing on appropriation costs of the affected communities is held probably within two years. He conceded that there may be many lawsuits in connection with land acquisition.

The only formal objection to the project at yesterday's session was offered by James Howlett of Pontiac.

CITY INCLUSION

Howlett, an attorney, said he objected to Pontiac's inclusion because the city already is part of an established drain and that the statute under which the augmented board functions gives it authority over a nonestablished drain area.

He also objected to the inclusion of Lake Angelus, as the attorney for the village, because he felt no community should be a part of a project beyond the scope of the statute.

Howlett said that the proposed river project is aimed at creating recreation areas while the statute governing an inter-county augmented drainage board limits its jurisdiction to critical drainage problems.

Representing Oakland County on the augmented board are Delos Hamlin, chairman of the County Board of Supervisors; Daniel T. Murphy, chairman of the board of auditors; and Daniel W. Barry, drain commissioner.

Persons of similar responsibility from the other three counties also serve on the board.

There are about 120,000 farms in Denmark and agricultural products account for nearly half of the country's exports.

ideas and freedom of inquiry and exploration must be encouraged," he said.

Engineering students and faculty have been too busy with "constructive" work — research and seminars — to get involved with what they call "trivia," according to the chancellor.

"The great turbulence in universities across America has been created and nurtured by those outside the broad areas of engineering," Varner said.

"To the extent that they are disruptive, you must share the guilt. To the extent that they consume resources in an unproductive way, you too, have been wasteful."

'HIPPIES,' 'ACTIVISTS'

During the past three years, the problem of dealing with "hippies" and "activists" has commanded more "highly unproductive" time than conventional problems of money and personnel, he related as head of MSU's sister institution for 10 years.

"An unpredictable turbulence created by students lost in the 'new look' in higher education cannot be brushed aside or ignored as though it were simply another goldfish-swallowing collegiate career."

University heads and governing bodies are haunted by the agony of finding the right balance and limits of student and faculty dissident groups, Varner noted.

Varner, who entitled his 16-page address "Education, 1967—The Agony and the Ecstasy," asserted that the presence of the "new generation" is complicated by passive or active support of faculty and devotion of much space by the news media to student unrest.

NEW CONCERN

"We would be blind indeed if we were unwilling to sift out the contributions of this new concern of students," he cautioned.

"Out of Berkeley has sprung a genuine renaissance in teaching as a basic responsibility, and great new innovations are sweeping the country."

"Suddenly, numbers are 'out' and people are 'in'; colleges within colleges have become stylish; and learning groups are very much the 'thing' in higher education."

MAKE LEARNERS

"The question under discussion is simply this: How do we make learners out of our students," he said.

Varner, who addressed the final banquet of the meeting, was the only nonengineer to speak during the conference. He justified his appearance this way:

"My most impressive credential is the very fact that I have not been fired during a 10-year period of planning and launching a new university — and during a decade of great turbulence in higher education."

"This, in itself, is an impressive statistic in today's world."

Handicapped Danes to Visit

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — The Cranbrook Academy of Art will be host for a group of 50 severely handicapped young men and women from Denmark from July 12 to 15.

The group is a part of a project called "DIADAM-Return," initiated by Marshall M. Fredericks of Royal Oak, famed sculptor, and Urban Hansen, Lord Mayor of Copenhagen, Denmark.

The group will make a 3,500-mile tour of the U.S. to visit and to see what is being done here to help the handicapped.

The original DIADAM program (Disabled Americans' Denmark Meeting) saw 53 handicapped young Americans, one from each state, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands, visit Denmark in 1956.

They traveled widely in the country and Sweden. Seminars were attended with other handicapped persons from Scandinavia.

During their Cranbrook stay, the group will be hosted by the Ford Motor Co. for a luncheon and tour of Greenfield Village, Henry Ford Museum and the Rouge plant.

General Motors Corp. will also host a luncheon and tour of the GM Technical Center, Warren.

Dinner at the International Institute with Gov. and Mrs. Romney, a trip to Windsor and recreation activities with the Danish community are also planned.

Judges Seek Aid for Youth

Urge More Services to Curb Delinquency

Michigan probate judges, meeting at Gaylord for their annual conference yesterday, passed a resolution urging the Legislature to maintain and expand the services to delinquent and neglected youngsters by the Department of Social Services.

Oakland County Probate Judge Eugene A. Moore, who is attending the three-day meeting, said the resolution was adopted because of the defeat of local reform, and Gov. Romney's proposal to cut state services by 15 per cent.

The appropriation for the department is presently inadequate, according to the resolution, and the program is being expanded, "a rise in crime will result."

Moore said that a reduction in funds to the Department of Social Services would affect Oakland County as much as it would hurt other counties in the state.

The burden on the department isn't as heavy in Oakland County because of the many county agencies serving children, according to Moore.

Thirteen other defendants appearing in the District Court guarded by heavily armed officers were ordered by Judge Joe Angel of Las Vegas, N.M., held in lieu of $2,500 bond.

Witnesses, under direct examination by Dist. Atty. Alfonso Sanchez of Santa Fe, placed the defendant at the scene of the Apodaca at the scene Judge Angel said at the hearing that the presumption was great and the evidence was substantial to sustain the first-degree charge.

Angel said Sanchez has asked that the case be moved from Rio Arriba County to either Santa Fe or Los Alamos County.

Defense attorneys say they do not want the case moved away from Rio Arriba County.

This would place the trial at the courthouse in Tierra Arriba where two police officers were wounded, two hostages taken and several persons held captive June 3.

All 17 persons appearing in court Thursday were charged with three counts of first-degree kidnapping, 21 counts of second-degree kidnapping, one count of assault with intent to commit murder and one count of assault on a jail. Three others still at large — Baltazar Martinez, Cristobal Tijerina and Harry Martinez — are also charged with the same counts.

DEFENDANTS CALM

The defendants listened calmly throughout the proceedings, waving during the breaks to persons in the courtroom.

Rose Tijerina, Reyes' daughter was among those allowed bail, along with Reyes' brother Ramon, and his son, Reyes Hugh Lopez Tijerina Jr.

June Car Sales in Modest Rise

DETROIT (UPI) — The nation's auto makers sold nearly 15,000 more cars in the first 20 days of this month than in the comparable period in June of 1966 for a 3.3 per cent gain, figures released today showed.

The modest gain still left General Motors Corp., Ford Motor Co., Chrysler Corp., and American Motors Corp. just over 446,000 cars short of the 1966 pace through the first 20 days of June.

The upswing in sales which began in early April has continually reduced the margin between the 1966 sales pace, the second best ever for the industry, and the 1967 pace.

GM continued to hold the sales edge on its competitors in the June 1-20 period, selling 250,873 of the 466,371 cars in the 20-day period. Ford sold 128,458 cars; Chrysler accounted for 73,851; and AMC sold 13,089.

Boy Rescued, Then Dies

BRIGHTON (UPI) — A teenage boy died last night several hours after he was pulled from a lake by a young girl and revived by mouth-to-mouth resuscitation.

Police said Gregory Maciejewski, 17, Trenton, was swimming from a raft to the shore at Lake Chemung when he suddenly yelled for help and went under.

He was towed to shore by a 15-year-old unidentified girl who revived him with artificial respiration.

The youth died about four hours later in a nearby hospital.

Doctors said death was caused by heart failure.

Local Accident Is Fatal to Man

A 75-year-old Avon Township man died in a traffic accident shortly after 11 a.m. yesterday on West Lawrence near North Saginaw.

The victim was identified as George Stancome of 3066 Greenwood. He was dead on arrival at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital.

City police said an autopsy was to have been performed to determine the cause of death.

Stancome's car struck the rear of a Michigan Bell Telephone Co. truck driven by William H. Gorsline, 48, of 91 N. Johnson, according to witnesses.

The impact forced Gorsline's vehicle into a pedestrian, Charles H. Harmon Jr., 34, of 41 Thorpe, who was knocked down.

Gorsline and Harmon were treated at Pontiac General Hospital and released.

N.M. Raid Suspects Held in Prison for Safekeeping

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — Four members of a band of Southwestern desperadoes, in connection with an armed raid on a rural courthouse have been ordered held without bond in the state prison for safekeeping.

Reyes Lopez Tijerina, 40, leader of an organization claiming not of acres of New Mexico land under ancient Spanish land grants; Tobias Leyba; Juan Valdez; and Baltazar Apodaca were formally charged Thursday with first-degree kidnapping, nonbailable offense which could carry the death penalty. They also were charged with assault to commit murder and assault on a jail.

Witchery With Stitchery

Your Own Little Paper Doll

By JOANNE SCHREIBER
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Have you tried sewing with paper yet? Gals who have tried it tell me that paper-stitchery is unbelievably fast, easy and fun. The results are sensational.

Little-girl dresses are a favorite project and the little girls look like real little paper dolls in those gay paper colors. By eliminating all those extra steps such as putting in facings and hemming, you could whip up several paper dresses in an afternoon.

You may have had trouble finding paper-by-the-yard, especially if you don't live near a big city department store. Some of you have even written to ask where you can buy paper in your part of the country.

If you're one of the many, many sewers who are dying to sew with paper, and can't find the paper to sew with, we have a very special offer for you — a pattern for a child's dress, enough paper material to make it, and a special leaflet prepared by the sewing experts at the Singer Company. The leaflet is jam-packed with helpful tips, bright ideas and additional items to make from paper.

The paper (actually nonwoven cellulose strengthened with fibers) is Tiger Tissue, 48 inches wide, and it's fire-resistant. You'll receive two yards of it in a gay, colorful, all-over summer print in just the colors and designs little girls love most.

ILLUSTRATED

Either of the two adorable outfits shown here is a natural for paper stitchery. Order either one, or choose a third which isn't pictured. Or get all three, and give your little girl a real summer wardrobe!

Sue Burnett Pattern No. 8168 has an old-fashioned mop-cap and matching panties to go with the little shoulder-tied dress. It's available in size 1 through 6.

The other little sundress is

Sue Burnett Pattern No. 120, and it features a double row of ruffles at the hem, a pretty side-tied effect, and a little matching kerchief. Quilt binding makes the solid-color edging. This pattern will fit sizes 3, 4 and 5, so there is no need to specify size if your little paper doll is in this size range.

The third pattern, not shown, is the easiest of all. It is a very simple little sleeveless A-line with a button on one shoulder. It features a little kitten applique, which you can do in solid-color, iron-on mending tape. This dress, Sue Burnett Pattern No. 8317, is available in sizes 2 through 6.

OTHER USES

You'll find that paper dresses for little girls are just great for travel, for color photography, for dress-up visiting, for Sunday picnics and for birthday parties. And when the ice cream drops (and it will) just cut the clean part in doll clothes, dollhouse curtains or a dollhouse rug.

A pretty pair of paper dolls appear in party-perfect paper dresses. Sew these quick-and-easy

State Reports Rash of 'Swimmer Itch' Cases

LANSING (AP) — Cool, cool water in the hot, hot summer could mean scratch, scratch, scratch.

The State Conservation Department reports that "swimmer's itch," the bane of summer bathers, is breaking out in a number of Lower Michigan waters, particularly in the southwestern part of the state.

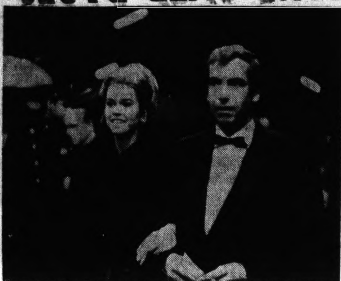

Up to 30 complaints of the scratchy scourge have been reported to Michael Newton, aquatic biologist for the department's water resources division. The complaints come from the Kalamazoo-Paw Paw areas, he said. Complaints also have been coming in to the Plainwell district, the department reported.

"Tiny parasites, called 'cercariae,' are carried by certain kinds of snails," the department said. "The small organisms come into contact with swimmers and burrow into their skin, leaving tiny red spots which swell, itch and fester."

The department said the best defense against swimmer's itch is to stay out of waters where it is reported or suspected. "If you're not sure about the threat of swimmer's itch in waters where you've been swimming," the department continued, "take a good shower afterwards and scrub yourself thoroughly."

If the little monsters already have attacked you, apply a dry-lotion such as calomine to relieve the itching sensation, the department suggested.

The Conservation Department is following up complaints and advising lakeland owners on applying a chemical, usually copper sulphate, which combats swimmer's itch.

OUTDOOR LENS TEST — Jane Fonda and husband Roger Vadim, attending Manhattan premiere of "The Game Is Over," are subjects of a photographer's lens test. Using the new aspheric Noctilux f/1.2 lens wide open, this was shot by available light on Anscochrome T100 film at 1/30th second.

Camera Angles

Lens Advance Noted

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

When I attended Photokina, world's largest photo fair in Cologne, Germany, this past October, it was impossible to see or report on all items of major news interest that were introduced.

One of the things I missed then but have caught up with now is an important breakthrough in lens production: the high-speed aspheric Leitz Noctilux 50mm f-1.2 lens. This 6-element Gauss-type lens which focuses down to 40 inches is bayonet-mounted for the Leica M3 and M5 bodies.

It is a special purpose lens for photographers wishing to shoot color pictures by available light even when the light shines into the lens.

Company technicians claim the Noctilux offers corner-to-corner correction, sharpness and contrast never available before in a lens of this ultra-speed.

My testing is practical, not technical. It involves no lab with an optical bench or electronic machinery. It consists of a performance test after borrowing the Noctilux on an M3 body.

STAGE PRESENTATION

Indoors, I chose a stage presentation typical of many amateur dramatic group performances in small theaters or hotel meeting rooms around the country. Some lights on the stage faced the camera. With Anscochrome Tungsten-100 color film, a meter reading showed an exposure of 1-30th second at f-1.4 was needed.

Outdoors, at night, a gala Manhattan movie premiere provided the opportunity for a test. It was cold and raining when Jane Fonda and her husband, Roger Vadim, arrived for the opening of "The Game Is Over" in which she starred and he directed.

Other photographers were shooting with flash while I took color pictures under the lobby lights at the slowest hand-held speed advisable — 1-30th second — at full opening, f-1.2 with the same T-100 film.

The exposure here was a guess since the Leica M3 does not have a built-in meter and the occasion was too hectic for separate meter reading.

Processing was normal and the results seemed to bear out the claims: there was no halo rimming the lights and the colors seemed more distinct in the shadows. If anything, the light outdoor shots were a tiny bit over-exposed.

Having done well in these tests, the lens became more interesting as a technical achievement.

As an aspheric (non-spheric) lens, the design is keyed to correct aberrations, eliminate internal flare and increase contrast thereby giving better shadow detail and purer, more saturated color rendition at wide open ultraspeed settings.

But it was hitherto impossible to produce high-speed aspheric lenses on a production line or quantity basis.

restrictions on use and the threat of major breakdowns, too.

One complaint against labor is that it has been insufficient in supply and strike-prone among the equipment suppliers. As a result, plants that had been scheduled to come out of service to meet demand have been delayed.

In Philadelphia, the Philadelphia Electric Co. said it could see the shortage out of the gate, but early this year. In February its industrial sales people set up a plan whereby industry would lessen its demand. The plan was implemented when the utility said the opening of two new plants would be delayed.

"At the Keystone plant, which was supposed to be available in May," a Philadelphia Electric spokesman said this week, "we didn't have enough skilled workers to get the job done. It's beautiful and clean, but it's in the middle of nowhere. The closest city is Johnstown, and that's miles away. A construction electrician wouldn't walk to work out there."

This inability to supply enough power exists despite the fact that over a long period of time the demand for electricity can be forecast with considerable accuracy. It is an assured market.

Whatver the reason, it is a clear possibility that somewhere in the United States again this summer there will be a demand for power that will exceed the ability of utilities to deliver. This would mean voluntary rationing.

He said conferences already are scheduled with apartment owners near military installations in California, Illinois, Florida and some other states.

QUICK RESULT

The directive appeared to bring at least one quick result. Within hours after McNamara unveiled the plan to newsmen, spokesmen for a 41-unit apartment near Andrews said it would be open to tenants of all races from now on.

Fifteen apartment houses and four trailer courts within 3½ miles of Andrews — the area targeted by McNamara — face being declared off-limits unless they accept other states.

The defense chief said Pentagon representatives met with owners and operators of the apartments and trailer courts near Andrews in a bid to work out an open-housing agreement.

He said, when the landlords agreed to go along if 75 per cent of their number approved — and only 50 per cent did.

It is our clear responsibility to make sure housing discrimination doesn't adversely affect the morale and performance of Negro servicemen.

He added that housing discrimination is a major problem in the defense industry and performance of Negro servicemen.

Pentagon Hits at Housing Bias

Units by Bases May Be Made Off-Limits

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon has kicked off a nationwide drive to end housing discrimination against service men, declaring apartments near Maryland air base soon will be put off-limits unless they accept Negro military personnel.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara said his directive will go into effect July 1 in the areas surrounding Andrews Air Force Base in suburban Maryland.

Saying the Defense Department is determined to end "humiliating discrimination" in the private housing of Negro servicemen, McNamara added: "We anticipate moving elsewhere in the country. This is but one step in a program we propose to follow."

He said conferences already are scheduled with apartment owners near military installations in California, Illinois, Florida and some other states.

QUICK RESULT

The directive appeared to bring at least one quick result. Within hours after McNamara unveiled the plan to newsmen, spokesmen for a 41-unit apartment near Andrews said it would be open to tenants of all races from now on.

Fifteen apartment houses and four trailer courts within 3½ miles of Andrews — the area targeted by McNamara — face being declared off-limits unless they accept other states.

The defense chief said Pentagon representatives met with owners and operators of the apartments and trailer courts near Andrews in a bid to work out an open-housing agreement.

Trading Is Active

Stock Market Shows Gain

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market rose today in active trading.

Index outnumbered losses by better than 5 to 3.

Wall Street seemed pleased that a meeting had been arranged between President Johnson and Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin.

Changes of fractions around a point were the rule.

What You Don't See Can Be MOST IMPORTANT

Look for those "Hidden Charges" in those "Honey of a Deals"

Look at the Hidden Cost and Total Cost

It's easy to see why confused customers can be "taken" by fast-talking "salesmen." These "salesmen" invite you to spring at the DEAL offered, to his "good" customers. He offers them quality carpeting at tremendous savings per yard, but the sting is felt when the installation, padding and delivery cost are added on.

The 3-rooms-of-carpet-at-a-price salesman who flowers you with the thought that your "BUY" will be installed in a jiffy will indeed invade your home with a poorly woven, cheap fiber, weak color and worthless guaranteed carpet.

Whatever your immediate needs, take the time to "know what you're getting and for how much."

AT SPENCER'S...

You know the total cost, right to the penny

Spencer's counseling will enable you to become more aware of the total cost of carpeting before you buy! We want you to understand the quality, whether you are talking "cost per yard" or the "installed price." We believe that the customer's individual needs are the first consideration. If you want to become "Carpet-aware" ... see Spencer's.
