No Emergency Exists in Steel, Court Is Told

Union Presents Case; Indecision on When Verdict Will Come

WASHINGTON (AP)—Union lawyers centered early argument before the Supreme Court today on a contention there is no national emergency to justify an 80-day injunction sending the half-million striking steelworkers back to the job.

That point was brought to the fore in the first question from the bench as the high court opened a hearing on the union's appeal from the back-to-work order issued by U.S. Dist. Judge Herbert P. Sorg in Pittsburgh and upheld by the Court of Appeals in Philadelphia.

At issue, in arguments before the court, was the validity of an injunction already issued under emergency provisions of the Taft-Hartley labor laws.

It directs the workers to halt their strike during an 80-day cooling off period, but it doesn't become effective until the Supreme Court rules.

There was no firm indication how soon that would be. It was believed likely that legal arguments would be completed today, but no time limit was fixed. The court's ruling could come any time after the arguments end.

The court could, if it chose, announce its decision in a brief order without waiting to write a formal opinion. The opinion could be filed later.

★ ★ ★

Federal mediators met inconclusively Monday with both union and management negotiators and called further sessions for Wednesday. Chief Mediator Joseph F. Finnegan said he hadn't decided whether to arrange separate or joint meetings then. No sessions were scheduled today because of the court hearings.

President David J. McDonald of the Steelworkers Union said Monday's meetings made "absolutely no headway." R. Conrad Cooper, chief industry negotiator, agreed he couldn't point to any new sign of progress.

It has been more than three weeks since President Eisenhower on Oct. 9 declared the strike a national emergency and invoked the Taft-Hartley Law.

Vending Machine Boom Provides Food for Thought

CHICAGO (UPI)—The vending machine industry took a look into the 1960's today and saw food, football tickets and four billion dollars in its future.

The crystal-gazing took place at the 13th annual convention and exhibit of the National Automatic Merchandising Association.

Almost every official at the convention forecast a boom in automatic eafeterias, particularly in plants and schools. According to Aaron Goldman, vending machine manufacturer, machines can already vend about 90 per cent of the foods which most workers want for their meal "away from home."

Officials Probe Drinking Party

400 Area Youths Said to Have Attended Affair in Oakland Barn

An affair which started out as a Halloween costume party near Rochester Saturday night, broke into a drinking party when carloads of youths apparently "crashed" it, the arranger of the party said today.

The Oakland County Prosecutor's Office said it was investigating reports that there were many underage youths at the party.

At the same time, the Rochester Area Youth Guidance Committee met especially last night to seek ways to prevent a recurrence of such drinking parties.

A statement was taken at the prosecutor's office this morning from Charles Timmreck 24, of 1150 E. Avon Rd., Avon Township, reportedly the instigator of the affair.

Jerome K. Barry Jr., assistant prosecutor, said Timmreck volunterred to come to the office and make a statement.

"This will determine whether we take any formal action," Barry said.

★ ★ ★

The 400 youths, who told raiding sheriff's deputies they were from Birmingham, Royal Oak, Rochester and Pontiac, were all released when Sheriff Frank W. Irons said the size of the crowd prevented arrests.

★ ★ ★

However, Roger C. Vaughan, 20, of 487 Omar St., who led Rochester police to the Oakland Township barn where the party was being held after a patrolman spotted a defective taillight wasn't so lucky. Today he pleaded guilty before Rochester Justice Luther Green for possessing beer and was fined $25.

Investigating officers believe Timmreck, known as "Hi Fi," sent out invitations telling of the party and listing an admission price of 25 cents a person.

Timmreck had rented the barn from Harold Fogler, who owned the property, Irons said.

Some of the kids were dressed in costumes of Fidel Castro sympathizers. One youth reported that they were dressed that way for a "beatnik" dance which was held elsewhere that night.

In an informal statement given to Barry this morning, Timmreck said he had invited a group of his friends to a nondrinking costume party and charged the 25 cents to pay the $40 rental for the barn. He said he expected between 150 and 200 people.

He said the party went along smoothly until he went to a neighbor's home to change into his Castro outfit. When he returned to the barn, Timmreck told Barry, many carloads of youths had arrived with beverages.

They apparently learned of the party, Timmreck guessed, from those invited or by word-of-mouth.

Because he had promised the owner no drinking would be allowed, Timmreck told Barry he immediately turned off his hi-fi set and ordered the drinking youths out of the barn. About this time, he said, deputies began to arrive.

"Timmreck said he didn't provide any beer or intoxicating liquor," Barry said.

Barry said he has asked the Sheriff's Department to bring in in some of the other participants to get their side of the story.

BAND LEADER TALKS — Xavier Cugat testifies today before the House subcommittee. The orchestra leader said he appeared on the '$64,000 Challenge' for publicity purposes and got advance help with questions and answers.

EXIT VAN DOREN — Charles Van Doren follows his wife out of the hearing room Monday after publicly revealing his famous television quiz program appearances were dishonest. Van Doren told the House subcommittee on legislative oversight he followed a prepared script in giving the answers that made him a celebrity.

He Felt Show Just Like Any 'Make-Believe'

Patty Duke's Manager Questioned Next About Child on 'Challenge'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Band leader Xavier Cugat testified today that he was given answers in advance when he won $16,000 on the TV quiz show "the $64,000 Challenge."

Cugat told House investigators that he had been given advance assurances by his publicity agent who arranged for his appearance on the show in June 1958 that he need not worry about looking bad on the program.

★ ★ ★

But it came as a surprise to him, he said, when it turned out that all of the questions were ones which he had been asked in a preshow warm-up session by a member of the producer's staff.

He said the warm-up session was held in his apartment and the staff aide gave him the answers to the questions which he could not answer. All of the questions were about Tin Pan Alley.

After hearing Cugat's story, the subcommittee encountered a reluctant witness — John Ross, manager of 12-year-old Patty Duke who won $32,000 as a contestant on the "$64,000 Challenge" in January 1958.

★ ★ ★

Ross requested that he not be required to testify in public because the testimony "may tend to incriminate, defame or degrade some other person."

After a brief huddle, the subcommittee went into closed session to hear Ross. Patty also was on hand for the closed session, but there was no indication she would be questioned.

Before clearing the caucus room of other spectators, the subcommittee showed a film of the show on which Patty, who then was only 11, won $32,000 answering questions about music.

Ross was asked by newsmen before the closed session began whether Patty had been supplied the answers in advance.

"I would rather not comment," he replied.

Can't Cheat Lie Detector, Fibbing Reporter Finds

By MAX E. SIMON

I am a confirmed fibber.

I've never bragged about it, being quite modest.

But it's true—I'm a first class liar. About an accomplishment like this I couldn't lie.

Now there are second-class liars (whose stories you doubt) and third-class liars (the obvious ones).

★ ★ ★

Liars like myself are in a special class. We've got special skill and talent.

As a police reporter I welcomed the assignment to match my fibbing skill against the new polygraph (lie detection) machine of the Pontiac Police Dept.

It seemed like a good chance to expose the thing as a fraud.

When the expose came, it wasn't the infernal machine that got the works. I did.

★ ★ ★

Questioning me was Det. Orville C. Johnston. He has just completed a six-week course at the National Center of Lie Detection in New York City on the machine's operation.

"Are you always a careful driver?" was the first shot.

Without hesitation, I replied firmly: "Of course!"

"For shame!" the detective said. I blushed.

★ ★ ★

It must have been a mistake. I waited for the next question, supplied by Press editors.

"You're supposed to phone your city editor at 8 a.m. each morning from the police station. Have you ever phoned from your home while still in bed?"

"Never!"

★ ★ ★

The detective watched three little pins spreading red ink lines on graph paper. "There's no use fighting it," he said. "It's your inner sensations. You have a beautiful

Conferees Spar on Tax Issue

Both Parties Waiting for Other to Compromise in Bipartisan Meeting

From Our News Wires

LANSING—A bipartisan tax committee got off to a shaky start today on negotiations for a new tax program to rebuild Michigan's collapsed treasury.

The first hour of talks centered on arguments whether lawmakers

LANSING (AP) — Posted on the wall of the legislative room where Senate Republicans caucus, newsmen observed last night, was a printed sign reading:

"Vote NO on any additional taxes. Insist on MORE efficiency and less waste. Any FOOL can spend money."

should first talk about revenue needs or specific revenue plans.

Despite new warnings of fiscal crisis, including a warning from the governor that "plain and simple disaster" was ahead for schools, Democrats and Republicans waited for the other to make the first compromise gesture.

A GOP leader said there would be "a long, hard winter" if Democrats didn't yield.

"I'll stay here 'til doomsday," said Rep. Michael O'Brien (D-Detroit).

The talks recessed shortly before 11:30 a.m. until 2:30 p.m. Sen. Lynn O. Francis (R-Midland) indicated just before the recess he would be willing to discuss an income tax but Sen. Carlton H. Morris (R-Kalamazoo) said he didn't "want any part of it."

Sen. Harold Ryan (D-Detroit) said he would supply figures later in the day on a tax on business profits above 6 per cent.

The Legislature's attempt to bail Michigan out of its money jam went off today on a new bipartisian tack after majority Republicans abruptly dropped their go-it-alone approach.

Democratic leaders conditionally accepted the bipartisan plan. They agreed to counsel but not to negotiate if the GOP insisted on limiting any emergency tax package to 70 million dollars.

Acting on their own, Republicans

U.N. Suspends Council Election

Voting Marathon Fails to End Turkey-Poland Deadlock for Seat

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (UPI)—The general assembly set a new record in its marathon balloting today without breaking the deadlock between Turkey and Poland. It suspended further voting in its Security Council election for two more weeks.

Six ballots were taken this morning, bringing the total to 37 and breaking the record of 36 cast in 1955 when a stalemate between the Philippines and Yugoslavia was broken by drawing lots.

Yugoslavia won and was elected under an agreement that it would serve only half the two-year term on the council. The Yugoslavs resigned after one year and the Philippines was elected to the "unexpired" term.

There was no indication of such a solution to this year's deadlock. Backers of both candidates insisted they would stick to the end.

★ ★ ★

Turkey, which held the lead when balloting was suspended two weeks ago, ran its edge to its widest margin today on the 34th ballot, when it polled 43 votes against 36 for Poland.

However, Poland tied the balloting on the next round and held a 42-38 edge when voting was suspended until Nov. 17. A two-thirds majority is required.

Assembly president Victor Andres Belaunde of Peru said after the 37th ballot that it seemed useless to continue voting today. He suggested another two-week suspension. There was no objection.

The assembly then took up the Ford Foundation's offer of $6,250,000 to build a new U.N. library.

Jobless Van Doren Faces Bleak Future

WASHINGTON (AP)—Charles Van Doren, out of one job and suspended from another, faced today a future clouded by his story of deceiving the public on a rigged television quiz show.

Within hours of his public testimony, Columbia University accepted Van Doren's offer to resign as an assistant professor of English.

The action by the university's board of trustees was made effective immediately.

The National Broadcasting Co., which suspended Van Doren with pay last month from a $50,000-a-year post as commentator, said it was withholding comment. The suspension was subject to the outcome of the congressional hearings.

Van Doren himself was uncertain of his future plans.

"I hope to be a teacher," he told newsmen. "I think I would be better at that than anything else."

To some extent, at least, Van Doren's future may depend on public reaction to his emotion-packed story of accepting help while winning fame as a scholar on NBC's onetime quiz show "Twenty-One."

"I was involved, deeply involved, in a deception," he told the House Legislative Oversight subcommittee Monday. He added at another point that "I would give almost anything I have to reverse the course of my life in the last three years."

The immediate reaction was mixed. Some of the committee members praised his action in telling the truth at last, and urged that his employers wait for public reaction before making any decision.

The one public interruption during the hearing was hostile. The caustic remark by Rep. Steven B. Derounian (R-NY) that an intelligent adult shouldn't be praised for telling the truth brought a burst of applause.

Yet as the boyish-faced, wavy-haired Van Doren left the hearing room, spectators fought their way through the mass of reporters to reach his side, shake his hand, wish him well.

Sitter Beater Gets Six Years

Pontiac Butcher, 32, Said He Had Thought Victim Was His Wife

For beating a baby sitter he thought was his estranged wife, Bruce M. Taylor, a 32-year-old Pontiac butcher, yesterday was sentenced to Jackson Prison for 6 to 10 years.

Oakland County Circuit Judge William J. Beer passed sentence on Taylor after he had nothing to say in his own defense.

Formerly of 596 Mt. Clemens St., Taylor last month pleaded guilty to a reduced charge of assault with intent to do great bodily harm less than murder. He had been charged with assault to commit murder, which carries a maximum term of life.

Victim of Taylor's savage beating June 22 was Phyllis Jean Keel, 18, of 58 Wall St. The girl was caring for Mrs. Taylor's three children at 223 W. Rutgers St. and was asleep on the living room sofa when Taylor beat her with a baseball bat. She suffered two skull fractures and severe neck and chest cuts.

After a night of drinking Taylor told police he went to the home and beat "a woman in the house on the couch." He said he thought the woman was his wife Juanita, 29. She was at work at a local hospital when the beating occurred.

Politicians Seek '60 Trends

States, Cities Vote Today

By The Associated Press

Voters today elect two governors, legislators in five states and hundreds of mayors. None of the contests was fought on national issues, but politicians hope to spot trends for the 1960 presidential year.

The two liveliest contests were for governor of Kentucky and mayor of Philadelphia.

In the latter battle, onetime Republican wonderboy Harold E. Stassen is making what could be his final bid for elective office.

He is expected to lose to incumbent Democrat Richardson Dilworth.

In Kentucky, Democrat Bert T. Combs is running against Republican John M. Robsion Jr., a former congressman. Combs is favored, but an intraparty squabble with retiring Governor A. B. (Happy) Chandler may make it a close race.

Mississippi also elects a governor, but segregationist lawyer Ross Barnett is unopposed. He won the run-off primary in August.

State legislators are being chosen in New Jersey, New York, Kentucky, Virginia and Mississippi. Only 11 vacancies are being filled in New York.

Mayors are being elected in Boston, Cleveland, Pittsburgh, San Francisco, Salt Lake City and many smaller cities.

In Indiana 108 municipal elections are being held. Democrats won 72 of 104 city elections in 1955 and the Republicans are out to reverse this trend.

★ ★ ★

Stassen reached his highest elective office as the youthful governor of Minnesota. He made several tries to win the Republican presidential nomination but never came close.

LOST OUT

In 1958 he ran as a candidate in the Republican primary for governor of Pennsylvania, and lost the nomination to an obscure pretzel manufacturer.

Now he is running for mayor of Philadelphia, and observers don't give him much chance to win.

All three of the city's newspapers have supported Dilworth; 118,000 more Democrats are registered than Republicans; the Democratic city chairman has predicted a Dilworth victory by at least 150,000 votes.

Stassen claims he'll win an upset victory by 60,000 votes.

Kentucky's Gov. Chandler is ineligible to succeed himself. He backed Lt. Gov. Harry Lee Waterfield in the gubernatorial primary, but Combs beat the Chandler candidate.

Some of the bitterness of this primary fight remains. Chandler predicted that thousands of Democrats would stay home.

However, Kentucky has had only two Republican governors since 1927, the last in 1943.

Warmer Weather Forecast for Tonight

Cloudy and a little warmer with a chance of rain is the weatherman's forecast for tonight in the Pontiac area. The low will be near 40.

Temperatures are expected to become cooler Wednesday with rain. Tomorrow's high will rise to 45 degrees and the low tomorrow night will be about 36-40.

This afternoon's 20-mile wind will shift to northwest late tonight at 12 to 22 miles an hour.

Thirty was the lowest temperature in downtown Pontiac before 8 a.m. At 2 p.m. the reading was 46.

Rumored U.S. to Appeal DuPont-GM Stock Ruling

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Tribune says it has learned the government is virtually certain to appeal a federal judge's ruling permitting the Du Pont Company to retain ownership of 63 million shares of General Motors Corp. stock.

Judge Walter J. La Buy on Oct. 2 ruled that the giant chemical firm could keep the shares, but must pass all voting rights on to individual Du Pont stockholders and must refrain from exerting any influence on GM.

His decision was widely regarded as a Du Pont victory over the government which has been striving for years to strip Du Pont of the motor firm's shares.

★ ★ ★

The Tribune story appearing in its Tuesday edition said the government will appeal on two principles:

1. That Du Pont's violation of the antitrust laws requires complete rather than partial divestiture of GM stock such as passing on voting rights.

2. That Judge La Buy's ruling which was calculated to sever the relationship between the two industrial giants is inadequate in its provisions.

Judge La Buy made his ruling in compliance with a Supreme Court decision which found there is a tendency toward monopoly between Du Pont and GM.

Du Pont is GM's largest supplier of paints and finishes.

The Tribune story, written by Nick Poulos, said that government attorneys who attended a hearing here concerning implementation of Judge La Buy's ruling, would say nothing more than that an appeal is "being considered." The story did not say where the paper had learned of the reported appeal plan.

HAS 60 DAYS

The government has 60 days from the date of the official entry of the decree to appeal. Judge La Buy has not yet signed the final judgment.

At yesterday's hearing, Du Pont attorneys announced that on the date of the official entry of the decree four Du Pont directors would resign from the GM board of directors and that Alfred P. Sloan, honorary board chairman of GM, would step down from the Du Pont board.

These resignations would be in compliance with Judge La Buy's order which forbade interlocking directorates.

If the National Broadcasting Co. wants him to continue to appear under his $50,000 contract would he do so?

"I just don't know."

Does he think his usefulness as a teacher has been impaired?

"Now you are asking me a very hard question," said Van Doren, who had kept his composure under an hour and a half of testimony and a chaotic session with newsmen. "I think I could be a better teacher than I was before."

Van Doren recalled with some pride that he had a chance to discuss poetry, other literature, history, people on the NBC network under his contract.

Head-On Crash Hurts 2 Drivers in Oakland

Two men were injured in a two-car head-on collision this morning on Orion road just southeast of Snell road, in Oakland Township.

Oakland County sheriff's deputy Robert W. Lalonde identified the drivers as Louis E. Wiseman, 36, of 3771 Webb St., Detroit, and Lynn A. Bothwell, 19, of 2035 Adams Rd., Orion Township.

Wiseman suffered a severe scalp laceration and was described by hospital officials as in fair condition. Bothwell was less seriously injured and was treated and released.

Ex-State Engineer Head Dies at Midland Home

MIDLAND (AP)—Lester J. Richards, 65, former president of the Michigan Society of Professional Engineers, died of a heart attack at his home here yesterday.

Active in civic affairs, he was a member of the city school board and served the last eight years of his tenure as board president. He also was president of the Midland Community Center board.

Gusty Winds Blow Away Lakes' Chill

By The Associated Press

Gusty winds blew cold air across wide areas in the eastern third of the country today but a warming trend developed in the nation's mid-section.

The cold air covered areas from the Great Lakes region to the lower Mississippi Valley and eastward to the Atlantic Coast. Biggest temperature drops in the last 24 hours averaged near 20 degrees and were in the Ohio Valley and lower Great Lakes region.

Readings ranged from the 20s in the Great Lakes through the 30s extending southward into Virginia and Kentucky. The 40s and 50s prevailed in other areas southward, with the 60s near the gulf coast.

Temperatures averaged 10 degrees higher than Monday morning in the central part of the country. Biggest gains, about 15 degrees, were in the northern plains.

Skies were clear across the major part of the country.

CAR THAT CAME TO DINNER — Out of control after a sideswipe collision, this car, driven by Mrs. C. J. Gunther, 58, of Omaha, careened across lawns and smashed into the dining room of the George F. Damage to the house and furnishings was estimated at $5,000.

Open Four Bids for Test Well Set for Huron Gardens Area

Four bids for running a test well in the Huron Gardens area for a future water system, were opened at last night's regular township board meeting.

Bids for a six-inch and an eight-inch well were submitted and low bidder was the Fred Pew Co. of Birmingham. Their six-inch well figure was set at $3,058 and the eight inch, $3,495. All bids were referred to township engineers Johnson & Anderson for recommendations.

The board authorized the purchase of a four-and-one-half yard township dump truck. The one bid submitted at last week's meeting by General Motors Truck & Coach Co. was $8,608 and was accepted. Trade-in for the present 1950 township truck was $625.

Three important items were tabled for further consideration. An amendment to the heating code requiring a $5 fee for inspecting installation of oil tanks up to 275 gallons was presented and clerk James Seeterlin and trustee John Coleman asked more time for study.

For lack of additional electrical department information, there was no action on a revised ordinance requiring commercial buildings be wired into individual conduits. This is the third week action on the ordinance has been postponed.

The resignation of former policeman Thomas Kretz was also tabled, after he presented medical documents pertaining to his physical fitness. Kretz had presented his resignation because of a back injury incurred in World War II but wanted the board to reconsider his action.

A long discussion regarding the hiring of a sewer plant operator resulted in tabling the project before seeking applications. The State Health Department has required that the township hire the operator.

The board authorized the Ann Arbor Construction Co. be paid for installing 425 extra square feet of concrete work on eight Camley street driveways.

Drainage problems and smooth transition to the street, made it necessary to remove more of each of the driveways than was anticipated when the company installed the new pavement recently. The cost amounted to $255.

The board also authorized the purchase of $257 pipe locater for the water department. The new equipment will detect leaks in pipes some 18 feet in the ground and will register trouble eved through solid concrete.

The Monteith school Parent-Teacher Assn. will be reimbursed $84 as the township's share in supplying fill-dirt to a 1,000 foot gravel walk along Hatchery road for children going to and from the school. The PTA had presented a check to the township for $164 to cover the entire cost.

The request of James H. Baden of 6279 Maybee road, Clarkston to have a four-acre piece of property on Elizabeth Lake road near Airport road rezoned from residential to commercial, was tabled.

The board authorized that only six holidays will be observed by township officials. These include Christmas, Thanksgiving Memorrial Day, Labor Day, Fourth of July and New Year's Day. Township employes will work with a skeleton crew on Veteran's Day.

Cugat Admits Coaching for 'Challenge' Show

cast of the Broadway play "The Miracle Worker."

★ ★ ★

Cugat appeared before the House subcommittee which yesterday wrung a painful confession of TV quiz show "deception" from Charles Van Doren, the quiz whiz of the now defunct "21" show.

SECRETLY COACHED

The subcommittee also was told yesterday that associate producer Shirley Bernstein of the "$64,000 Challenge" secretly coached some contestants on this show. Miss Bernstein is the sister of conductor-composer Leonard Bernstein.

Cugat said he was coached in his New York City apartment in three pre-program sessions by Mert Koplin, the producer of the "$64,000 Challenge," who was also on today's subcommittee witness list.

He indicated that he kept very little of the $16,000 for himself. He didn't say exactly how much.

He said he gave 10 per cent, or $1,600, to his publicity agent who arranged the appearance, gave some to a Spanish orphanage, some to an Italian orphanage and "some to my brother who helped me study" for the show.

"Most of the balance went for taxes."

As it turned out, Cugat said the studying he did with his brother "was not necessary."

The portly bandleader said the idea for his appearance on the quiz show came from his publicity agent who thought it would help publicize Cugat's Orchestra engagement in a large New York hotel in June 1958.

"I was interested in publicity, but I did not want to make a fool of myself," he said.

He complained to the publicity man when the category of questions turned out to be Tin Pan Alley — popular music — not Latin-American music.

Cugat said he told the publicity man that "if I missed an early question, the publicity might not be so good."

"Over the phone, my publicity man told me not to worry about a thing," Cugat said.

"From the tone of his voice, I assumed that for at least one or two sessions they would either ask me easy questions or questions they knew I would know the answers to, or that I would actually be coached."

Even so, he said he did some "studying up of my own."

Cugat said that he told his story last January to the New York County Grand Jury investigating rigged TV quiz shows.

"I know I broke no law," he said. "I know I intended no injury to any person.

"I know that as an entertainer I am called upon all the time to make-believe, to help make a good show. I suppose the producers of the $64,000 Challenge also wanted to make a better show, and so they made-believe, too."

Cugat concluded his prepared statement with this observation: "If there was too much make-believe, I wish you could do something about it without giving entertainment too much of a black eye."

Members have predicted that the subcommittee will recommend Congress enact new legislation designed to assure a greater degree of honesty on TV programs.

Cugat, speaking in a thick Latin accent, said he and Lillian Roth, the opponent he defeated on the show, made five appearances on the show. However, the first two times they were simply introduced so they were asked questions on only three programs, he said.

The bandleader said the program producers arranged for him to get in free plugs for his band's current performance each time he appeared.

I choked.

"Have you ever been scooped lately?"

"No!" The operator was silent. I squirmed as the ink lines curved erratically.

"If you could get away with it would you steal a million dollars?"

Remembering what happened to Charles Van Doren, I decided I wouldn't. The machine didn't believe me.

"Do you like police officers?" Working with them every day, what could I say?

After I answered that one, the detective's voice didn't sound nearly as friendly.

★ ★ ★

"Are you popular with girls?" I'm no Casanova but I get by, I replied. "Too bad, buddy," the detective said in sympathy.

"Do you lie very much?" Naturally I wouldn't admit it.

Detective Johnston said he would never work with me again.

"Do you always get the facts?"

"Certainly," I insisted. I lowered my eyes as the red lines started curving again. "No one is 100 per cent perfect," I amended my statement.

★ ★ ★

"And now," the detective said merrily, "I'm going to ask you an embarrassing, personal question." Before he could, however, the lines started curving more and more.

"I'll drop that question," he said. "We've got to keep the machine in working order."

I breathed a sigh of relief.

My pride smashed, I asked Johnston if it was possible to beat the machine.

It seems it can't be done. The gadget checks your skin reflexes, pulse, and breathing. Everyone trips on something.

"One more question," the officer said. "After this interview, do you think you'll still have a job?"

I was sure I would.

You're a liar, the machine said.

HAROLD R. BOYER

GM Announces New Division

S. E. Skinner, Formerly in Pontiac, Will Head 'Defense Weapons'

NEW YORK (AP) — General Motors Corp. has announced formation of a new activity to be known as the defense systems division.

John F. Gordon, president, said the new division will be composed mainly of scientists and engineers to engage in research on development of weapons systems and related activities. It will be directed by S. E. Skinner, executive vice president.

★ ★ ★

Directors elected Harold R. Boyer as GM vice president and appointed him general manager of the defense division. Previously Boyer was director of military products for the company.

He joined General Motors in 1925 as a works engineer for Pontiac Motor Division, and worked in Pontiac until 1929.

The new division will be located at the GM Technical Center. While it will not undertake manufacture of any defense items, Gordon said, it will be responsible for coordination of productive efforts of other GM divisions in this area.

★ ★ ★

GM, the world's biggest automaker, has concentrated its research up to this time primarily in the field of transportation.

"In expanding the scope of GM research," Gordon said, "it is expected through cooperation with the Department of Defense and other defense contractors that the corporation will increase its contribution to the national defense effort."

Search River for Loot in Thefts by Officers

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A special investigator searched a river bottom in a diving suit as a new step in a probe of looting by members of the Columbus police department.

Nine officers have been arrested and Police Chief George W. Scholer said "still more officers may be involved."

★ ★ ★

Police Lt. Alfred Lashley, a special investigator for Safety Director Leo L. Phillips, recovered what he said are three stolen appliances from the bottom of the Scioto River Monday using a diving suit. A shotgun was found in about 30 feet of water at nearby Hoover Dam Reservoir.

Officials filed burglary and grand larceny charges against Sgt. James S. Faris, 47, highest-ranking department member to be arrested and a 17-year veteran on the force. He is free under $10,000 bond and scheduled to appear in municipal court Wednesday.

★ ★ ★

Three policemen entered pleas of innocent in municipal court Monday. They are patrolmen Edward F. Mulholand, 32, charged with petit larceny; William E. Clifford, 34, and William B. Russell, 29, charged with burglary and grand larceny.

Patrolman Richard O. Headlee, 33, was arrested Sunday night and held for investigation with patrolmen Robert E. Horch, Charles R. Haapala and Lawrence M. McNulty, all 29, arrested earlier.

★ ★ ★

Latest to be arrested was patrolman Raymond E. McKnight, 34, booked Monday night for investigation. Deputy Inspector Harvey List said McKnight, off duty on disability after injury in an accident 18 months ago, may be charged with a minor offense today. List said McKnight's involvement "seems minor," consisting largely of "knowledge he didn't report."

★ ★ ★

Articles collected by investigators during the probe include quantities of floor tile, camera equipment, garden tools and the like. Investigators said the articles may be worth several thousand dollars.

Reports that merchandise disappeared during burglary investigations set off the intra-department probe.

State VFW Magazine Voted Nation's Best

LANSING (AP) —The official publication of the Michigan Veterans of Foreign Wars has been voted the best VFW magazine in the country by the group's national organization.

It marks the third time in five years that the publication — the Michigan Overseas Veteran — has won top honors.

Nominate Ten to Area Board

Pontiac C. of C. Group Chooses Slate for Director Election

Ten nominees for the Board of Directors of the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce were recommended by the Chamber's Nominating Committee which met yesterday in the Waldron Hotel.

Of the 10, five will be elected by chamber members. Ballots will be mailed out Monday.

Nominated for three-year terms beginning in January 1960, were James Clarkson, vice president and treasurer of Pontiac Federal Savings and Loan Assn.; Thomas F. Wiethorn, General Motors Corp. vice president and general manager of Fisher Body Division; Stuart E. Whitfield, vice president of Pontiac State Bank; Harold W. Dudley, attorney, and Theodore F. MacManus of the advertising firm, MacManus, John & Adams Inc.

Also nominated were Francis F. Miller, executive vice president and general manager of the Pontiac Credit Bureau; John W. Fitzgerald, editor of The Pontiac Press; Raymon I. Gerson, manager of Myers Jewelry; D. B. Varner, chancellor of Michigan State University Oakland; and Dr. John J. Marra, chief of staff at Pontiac General Hospital.

★ ★ ★

Those elected will be replacing the Rev. Edward D. Auchard, Frederick J. Poole, Edward T. Barrett, Dr. Dana P. Whitmer and Stuart E. Whitfield.

K the Politician Woos Support

Putting Emphasis on Consumer Goods, Talks Less of Attack by West

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former New York Gov. Averell Harriman said today Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev has become a "politician" trying to increase his popularity with the Russian people in contrast to Stalin, "the absolute dictator."

★ ★ ★

Harriman, U.S. ambassador to Russia during World War II, said Khrushchev was attempting to "cement his position" by boosting his popularity through more consumer goods, increased favorable information about the United States and less talk about being attacked by the West.

The former governor told the Advertising Club of Washington in a prepared speech that he believes Khrushchev wants to reach an arms limitation agreement with the West because the armaments race is interfering with his aims at home.

Harriman said U.S. policy should be to "encourage Khrushchev in his new line and in the new goals that he has held out for the Russian people."

★ ★ ★

"I feel that American spokesmen who have rushed to warn that we can't trust Khrushchev without proof, that we should hold him personally responsible for Peiping's pronouncements, give him the wrong emphasis," Harriman declared.

★ ★ ★

But, he warned that the United States should not let down its guard. He said Khrushchev was just as determined as Stalin to spread communism.

The Day in Birmingham

Reid Building Parking Lot Declared a Necessity

BIRMINGHAM — The City Commission last night decided that a parking lot in the rear of the Reid Building is a necessity and directed the city assessor to make special assessments on the properties affected by the improvement.

The council met last night to consider any objections to the proposed construction.

A public hearing will be scheduled for the purpose of reviewing the new assessments.

The development of the parking lot calls for installation of drainage facilities, paving and other improvements, the council said.

★ ★ ★

A letter protesting the construction of an "olympic-sized pool, wading pool, bathhouse and parking area" at Manor Park proposed by the Forest Hills Swim Club, Inc., from Mrs. Elizabeth A. Haro was referred to City Manager L. R. Gare for further study by the commission.

Mrs. Haro, a homeowner on Shepardbush road, in her letter to the council said:

"Manor park is one of the few remaining natural areas in Birmingham and I cannot help but feel that the presence of 350 families and their automobiles would do certain damage not only to the appearance of the park, but to many of the wild animals whose home is there.

"From frequent past attendance at meetings of the city commission I know that other citizens of Birmingham are concerned over the possibility of Birmingham's parks becoming fewer and fewer.

★ ★ ★

"May I urge, as they do, that the study of the future dedication of Birmingham's park areas be completed with all possible haste, before other 'enterprising citizens' find further projects to erect on our few remaining bits of natural beauty."

Another letter turned over to the city manager was attached to a petition signed by 36 property owners on Wellesley drive, requesting that "no parking" signs prohibiting parking between the 8 and 10 a.m. on weekdays be erected on the street.

The letter from the protesting groups said that the signs are necessary to eliminate problems created by high school students parking and leaving their cars on Wellesley drive all day, as a safety measure and to prevent possible serious loss in property values."

On the recommendation of City Manager Gare the Commission awarded the contract for the maintenance of refrigeration equipment at Eton Park to the low bidders, Ackerman Refrigeration Co.

Up-to-date information on the Blue Cross-Blue Shield insurance program will be given by Leonard Schramm at the next meeting of the Senior Men's Club of Birmingham Friday at the Community House.

Robert Phillips will lead the Club's Discussion Group on the topic "Do We Need Bomb Shelters?"

A "Country Fair", sponsored by Congregational Church of Birmingham, 388 Woodward Ave. will be held in Fellowship Hall of the church Thursday from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m.

★ ★ ★

There will be a sale of handknit items, handicraft articles, holiday decorations, baked goods and candy. A snack bar will be set up between 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. Chicken dinners will be served between 5:30 and 7:30 p.m.

Another Faces Trial in Bias Bombing

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—The trial of John Taylor Coggins, accused in one of three bombings which jarred Little Rock Sept. 7, begins today in Pulaski Circuit Court.

Coggins, 39, a car salesman, is the third of five men accused in the night-time blasts to be tried. Jesse Raymond Perry, 24, a truck driver, was sentenced last week to three years in prison. J. D. Sims, 35, is serving a five-year sentence imposed after he pleaded guilty.

★ ★ ★

Coggins is charged with dynamiting the business office of Mayor Werner Knoop.

The Little Rock School Board offices also were bombed in the outbreak of violence over integration, together with a station wagon at the home of Fire Chief Gann Nalley.

★ ★ ★

Reese Quits Bums to Join Ol' Diz on TV

NEW YORK (AP)— After 20 years as player and coach with the Dodgers, Pee Wee Reese is quitting the club to become a baseball telecaster, it was learned today. Official announcement of the switch will be made Thursday.

The 39-year-old veteran from Louisville has signed a two-year contract to join Dizzy Dean in handling the commentary of the CBS games of the week on Saturdays and Sundays for a Midwestern brewery. Reese replaces Buddy Blattner, a former major league infielder.

Proposes Vote to Lift Tax Lid

State Lawmaker Also Asks Broad Powers of Corporation Levy

LANSING (AP) — Proposals for statewide votes in November, 1960 on lifting the constitutional sales tax lid and on broadening the Legislature's power to tax corporations were filed in the Senate last night.

The sales tax resolution, submitted by Sens. Clyde H. Geerlings (R-Holland) and Frank D. Beadle (R-St. Clair), would leave no restrcition at all on the rate of tax that could be levied.

A resolution offered by 16 Republicans last week, and now under committee study, would raise the existing three per cent limit to four per cent.

The corporation tax proposal was offered by Sen. Philip Rahoi (D-Iron Mountain). It read:

"The Legislature may impose specific taxes on corporation income from whatever source derived at such rates and with such exemptions as it determines without regard to any other provision of this constitution."

Asked about it, Rahoi agreed the language would allow the Legislature to tax income of one corporation, or class of corporations, at 75 per cent and income of another at 10 per cent.

"But that isn't what I had in mind. Do you think the Legislature would ever do that?" he said.

Rahoi said he merely wanted to give voters a chance to express sentiment on whether corporations should be taxed more heavily if they are going to be asked to pass on increasing the sales tax.

Republicans, Dems Huddle Jointly Today

last Friday fixed the size of the package at 70 million dollars despite Gov. Williams' strong stand for a 110 million dollar program to replace revenues lost through the Supreme Court's use tax decision.

Williams declared yesterday that unless the figure was met 1959-60 state aid to local school districts might have to be shorted 30 to 40 million dollars.

Questioned by newsmen, he conceded that if such a burden fell on education it would temper the drastic reduction in state payrolls and services he foresaw Friday under the Republican program.

Nobody seemed to know where developments left the GOP proposal for a statewide vote next year on lifting the 3 per cent constitutional sales tax lid.

Both Beadle and Geerlings feared delay in a settlement, regarded last week as likely by Nov. 15.

Sen. Harold M. Ryan of Detroit, Democratic minority leader, said of the Republican about face "it appears they're trying to get the monkey off their back."

"They have been running the show so far and now they're making overtures," Ryan said. "We've been stepchildren all through the session and now they want to let us share the blame for new taxes)."

To neutrals, the whole episode looked like hot potato tossing, with the GOP shying at writing the tax ticket and Democrats, on the basis of inferior numbers, trying to strike the pose of innocent bystanders.

Soup 'Blistering Cold'

LONDON (UPI) — A tourist complained in the London Daily Telegraph yesterday that he had blistered his mouth in a Palma Majorca Hotel restaurant while eating a soup listed on the menu as "cold, clear soup."

Puerto Rican Police May Join Teamsters

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) — Puerto Rico's Police Assn. is thinking of joining James Hoffa's International Teamsters Union, a Teamster official said today.

Frank Chavez, Hoffa's chief organizer here, told the San Juan Star that three police captains and several police lieutenants recently approached him to discuss affiliation with the union. Chavez said the police apparently hoped to gain higher wages and strong-er job security.

Asks Testimony Be Corrected

N.Y. District Attorney Urges Quiz Witnesses to Correct Statements

NEW YORK (AP) — Dist. Atty. Frank S. Hogan said Monday it would be "advisable" for many of 300 witnesses in a New York probe of TV quiz shows to come forward now and correct their testimony.

"A good many contestants told the truth but then there were a great number who did not," said Hogan of the grand jury probe into program rigging.

The inquiry was completed several months ago, but the jury's report has never been publicly disclosed.

Hogan declined to say whether he plans perjury action against Charles Van Doren or any others who appeared before the panel.

★ ★ ★

"It's a matter that will have to be considered and not in terms of one contestant," Hogan said.

The district attorney said he thought a pending perjury indictment against Albert Freedman, associate producer of the "21" show, had "induced a great many contestants to reconsider earlier statements, although in all fairness there were many who told the truth."

Hogan was asked if individuals purged themselves legally by correcting inaccurate testimony.

Hogan said "No, but if I were to speak to a grand jury, they might want to know did they show signs of contrition before deciding whether they wanted me to present any evidence."

She's Gay and Bantering

Mamie's Spry Despite Recent Cold

By MERRIMAN SMITH
UPI White House Reporter

WASHINGTON — Backstairs at the White House:

Many people remarked last week about the youthful, effervescent appearance of Mrs. Eisenhower when she went out for the first time since her long siege with a cold and a succession of sore throats.

She turned up at two rather large social affairs in a gay, bantering mood and looked quite unlike one who had been ill recently. The reason behind this appearance seemed to be that while she was fighting her cold, she got a complete rest for about three weeks.

If the President wants to get a complete rest, the Navy stands ready to help. The Navy would like to entice the President aboard a cruiser for a leisurely voyage in southern waters off the lower east coast of Florida.

There are still a few hundred veteran residents of the nation's capital who are sticklers about a form of social courtesy which is disappearing noticeably with each passing year. This is the custom of leaving visiting cards at the White House.

The 1959 "Social List of Washington" still reports quite primly, "It is considered proper that all officials make a courtesy call once a year upon the President and his family." These courtesy calls usually consist of leaving cards at the northwest gate of the White House.

The courtesy call is a dying custom, however. Literally thousands of visiting cards were left at the White House annually before World War II, but only a few hundred a year now. Some people don't bother to leave cards at the gate. They mail 'em.

Until fairly late in the Franklin D. Roosevelt administration, the White House custom was to invite to the larger receptions or afternoon teas virtually all Washington residents who made their proper "card" calls.

But this had to be dropped because the number of card-callers got too large.

Most of the cards left at the White House today are delivered to the front gate by chauffeurs. Etiquette suggests that personal cards be left at the White House within three days after attending a luncheon or dinner.

Charged in Shooting of Young Prankster

DETROIT (AP) — John Cedzynski was charged with assault with intent to do great bodily harm Monday in the shooting of a Halloween prankster.

Cedzynski, 65, stood mute and was freed on bond, pending examination Nov. 12.

Robert Miller, 16, of East Detroit, was shot in the leg Friday night when a bullet fired by Cedzynski from a .22 rifle ricocheted off the ground.

The man said he fired the rifle in an effort to frighten away some youths who were damaging his lawn.

Tells Truth but Not Until He's Forced

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Charles Van Doren, who got fame and fortune by taking credit for knowing more than he knew, finally decided on honesty as the best policy—for non-intellectual reasons.

In the end this may be the source of the bitterest remorse for this 33-year old ex-teacher who had preached the glories of the intellectual life. Columbia University accepted his resignation Monday.

★ ★ ★

Van Doren stressed the mental tortures he endured before deciding to admit he got help in winning $129,000 on the rigged TV quiz show, "Twenty-One."

★ ★ ★

Actually, he lied as long as he could expect to get away with it. He arrived at his moment of truth only after he knew he faced possible prosecution for perjury if he kept on lying.

A LETTER HELPED

He didn't say this. He explained Monday to a congressional committee investigating crooked TV quiz shows that "in the end it was a small thing that tipped the scales" in inducing him to own up to his deceit.

★ ★ ★

He said a woman, a stranger, wrote and told him that the only way he could ever live with himself was to tell the truth. It doesn't speak well for his intellectual processes to say this aphorism tipped the scales for him.

★ ★ ★

Van Doren grew up in a cultured, intellectual world, a member of one of America's best-known literary families. He had been exposed for years to philosophical discussions of truth.

The idea of telling the truth because you have to live with yourself is at least as old as Socrates.

When he appeared on "Twenty-One" he put on a great act of struggling to come up with answers to the questions asked him. He admits now he received 80 per cent of the answers before he appeared on the air.

★ ★ ★

He told the committee one of the reasons he accepted the answers — from Albert Freedman, producer of the show — was that Freedman told him: "That by appearing on a nationally televised program I would be doing a great service to the intellectual life, to teachers and to education in general by increasing public respect for the world of the mind through my performance."

★ ★ ★

What he connived in was actually a betrayal of the intellect, a fact he admits now, for he told the committee "I think I have done a dis-service" to the world of the mind and public respect for it.

FREEDMAN INDICTED

Van Doren said he and Freedman both agreed, when a New York grand jury began investigating "Twenty - One," that they would deny any wrong-doing. Both did. Later Freedman was indicted for lying.

Still later, Van Doren said, he learned Freedman had gone back, changed his story to the grand jury, and implicated him. It was after this and after the congressional committee called him in that Van Doren caved in.

★ ★ ★

He went to the New York district attorney and admitted he had not told the grand jury the truth. He faced a possible perjury indictment if he didn't. He still faces that possibility.

★ ★ ★

But if he came down and lied to the congressional committee, and the government could prove it, he faced a charge and trial for perjury here, too.

His testimony ended a three-year period of deceit. Why did it happen? True, Van Doren succumbed to the lure of fame and money. But why did this happen to a man with his family, educational and ethical background?

Perhaps Van Doren himself still doesn't understand. His own statement to the committee was moralistic and remorseful. But it wasn't analytical.

Man Gets 2-4 Years for Taking Empty Purse

Oakland County Circuit Judge William J. Beer sentenced Lyle D. Lynn, 25, of 1793 Beechcroft St., Keego Harbor, to 2 to 4 years in Jackson Prison yesterday after he pleaded guilty to stealing a purse from a Pontiac home. The purse was empty.

Lynn pleaded guilty Oct. 12 to stealing the purse in September from Gladys Wheatley of 86½ S. Roselawn Dr.

Salaries, School Aid on Education Agenda

EAST LANSING (AP) — Teachers' salaries and school aid will be high on the agenda when some 500 educators gather here Thursday for a two-day curriculum development session sponsored by the Michigan Education Assn.

Executive Secretary E. Dale Kennedy said the MEA will give its legislation program top priority in 1960. He added the program will stress maintenance of adequate teachers' salaries and sufficient financial aid to schools.

★ ★ ★

Kennedy maintained Michigan schools are in danger of losing their reputations and their teachers because of the uncertainty of school finances.

'He's Doing the Right Thing'

Wife and Dad Stand By

WASHINGTON (AP)—Poet Mark Van Doren, father of Charles, was present Monday during his son's dramatic confession of deception on a TV quiz show.

"Did you help him with his statement?" a reporter asked.

"No, not at all," Mark replied.

★ ★ ★

"You think he's doing the right thing?"

"Absolutely."

★ ★ ★

"Does his wife think so, too?"

A nod of the head.

Charles Van Doren's young wife, in a black dress, glanced at the reporter a second and then riveted her eyes again on the witness stand where Charles sat.

Michigan Families Isolated Across River

'59ers Face Hard Alaska Winter

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (UPI)—The sourdoughs are predicting a rough winter ahead for the Michigan '59ers who migrated to Alaska in a motorized caravan to homestead in the 49th state.

The original group headed for the Kenai Peninsula southwest of Anchorage to take up their land. In the months since their arrival last March, however, the families have spread out.

Some remained in the Kenai area. Some abandoned their homesteads and moved to Anchorage as construction workers.

One group of seven families took up acreage near Talkeetna on the Susitna River, 112 miles northeast of Anchorage. And some have gone back to the Middle West.

★ ★ ★

Marino Sik, who finally ended up as trail boss of the original group of '59ers, now heads the community of Talkeetna. He said the families had built a community barn and four cabins to see them through the winter.

'We're doing pretty well," Sik said, "and I think we'll have enough feed for our livestock due to the generosity of our neighbors who let us use some of their cleared land last summer to grow hay."

The homesteaders were blessed with unusally warm weather in the early fall, and were able to get their living quarters in fairly good shape before winter arrived.

But veteran railroaders who know the Talkeetna area said the region they have chosen to homestead gets some of the worst weather in south central Alaska with high winds, bitter cold and extreme icing conditions.

COMPLETELY CUT OFF

The sourdoughs are also critical of the location of the Talkeetna homesteaders. They pointed out that the seven families are living across the river from the village, cutting themselves off from all communication except in midwinter when the river freezes.

"There are no bridges across the river in their area," one sourdough pointed out, "and they have to ferry everything into their places, and ferry themselves out when they get into trouble."

Unusually heavy rains in the Kenai Peninsula discouraged many of the '59ers when they first tried to settle down this summer. The weather, plus the difficulties involved in clearing the land on the Kenai, caused Sik and his group to move to the Talkeetna area.

★ ★ ★

The sourdoughs agree that if the homesteaders manage to hold out through this winter, the rest will be comparatively easy.

★ ★ ★

"It's that first winter that's the bad one," explained a 25-year veteran of the Alaska Railroad. "If they can come up smiling next spring after being hit by the 40-below-zero temperatures, gale winds and those long, dark nights, the rest will be all downhill."

Gets One to Two Years for Passing Bad Check

A former accountant who admitted issuing a $7 bad check was sentenced yesterday to 1 to 2 years in Jackson Prison by Oakland County Circuit Judge William J. Beer.

John E. Meisinger, 32, of 1761 Stanford St., Berkley, pleaded guilty Oct. 19 to issuing the check without an account in September. Meisinger also passed $26 worth of other bad checks, police said.

There are some 40,000 insurance agents in Russia, but they all work for the same government-owned company, Gosstrakh.

Supreme Court Orders Cheese Deal Refund

The Supreme Court has turned down a request by the cheese firms involved for a review of the deals which netted them huge profits. The Government had sued to recover the money and won in the lower courts.

Nearly three years ago a House Committee headed by Rep. Fountain (D-N.C.) looked into the 1954 transaction whereby the Government bought cheese from big companies and immediately sold it back to the same firms at a loss of 2.75 cents a pound.

★ ★ ★

At that time Agriculture Secretary BENSON had announced a cut in the support price of cheese. Before the cut went into effect the Commodity Credit Corporation bought cheese from private companies at 37 cents a pound and then sold it back to them at 34.25 cents. Most of this cheese never left the warehouses.

★ ★ ★

Testimony before the committee brought out the fact that the deal had been recommended by members of the Agriculture Department's dairy committee one of whom was a vice-president of a large cheese company. This company was the biggest buyer and even before the sale was announced had urged its larger customers to take advantage of the program.

As a result of the committee's findings a bill was passed to prevent industry or other representatives being placed on committees where there would be a conflict of interest and an opportunity to help their own companies from inside the Government.

★ ★ ★

The Agriculture Department insisted for some time that the deal was in the taxpayers interest. However, in 1956 the Justice Department under pressure of public opinion sued for recovery of the money.

The Supreme Court agrees with lower court findings and the money will be repaid. It has taken five years for the taxpayers to get a refund from a Government deal which never should have been entered into.

New Loan Regulations Attach Strings to Aid

New restrictions on the Development Loan Fund (DLF) to help balance exchange payments bear an uncomfortable similarity to the discredited "Buy American" idea of a few years back.

Established in 1957 the fund made loans on favorable terms to underdeveloped countries who could then take the money and buy what they needed anywhere in the world. The purpose of DLF was not to provide a market for American goods but to hasten the economic growth of newly independent lands in order to guard their freedom. The loans will now have to be spent in this country for American goods and services.

One effect of the new policy will be to raise the cost of goods bought and thus reduce the size and effectiveness of the loans. The official explanation, and a reasonable one, is that the restrictions were established to force other friendly industrial nations to finance their own sales to underdeveloped lands.

★ ★ ★

Board Chairman HENRY C. ALEXANDER of the Morgan Guaranty Trust Co. of New York, believes that the remedy lies not in restrictions but in increased exports, more investment of foreign funds in the U.S. and the spreading of the foreign aid burden among our prospering Allies.

There is a possibility that the new DLF rules may have the effect of getting the industrial nations of Europe, Japan and Australia to end their remaining restrictions on imports of goods from dollar areas. Britain already has lifted the ceiling on overseas spending by traveling Britons.

★ ★ ★

The objection to the DLF action is that it violates the important principle of placing reliance on a free flow of goods without trade or aid restrictions. It might invite retaliatory action.

ANOTHER great advantage in removing the threat of war by disarming would be that nations could have a wonderful time insulting one another with impunity.

AS THERE are various degrees of love, surely you can love your enemy to some extent — at least love him enough not to murder him.

Portrait of a Candidate

David Lawrence Admonishes:

Probers Must 'Judge Not, That . . .'

WASHINGTON — Conscience came to Washington this week in the testimony of Charles Van Doren. Conscience spoke in the halls of Congress. Most of the members were away but maybe many of them will read in the newspapers the confession of a troubled soul.

LAWRENCE

When will the same kind of conflict that burned in the mind of young Van Doren bring other confessions and perhaps an altered morality in public affairs?

★ ★ ★

When will those members of Congress who receive big campaign contributions weigh carefully whether it is right for them to put themselves under obligation to those groups and organizations interested in the promotion or defeat of legislation? For in the Scriptures it is written: "No man can serve two masters. . . . Ye cannot serve God and mammon."

★ ★ ★

Members of Congress are elected to serve all the people. But it has become a commonplace for big sums—often reaching totals of many millions of dollars—to be spent in campaign contributions for the benefit of those candidates who either are being rewarded for past votes on legislation or are being put under obligation to vote as the contributors want them to vote in the future.

Is this ethical? Isn't it a hidden deception?

Not so long ago a prominent labor leader wrote a public letter criticizing members of Congress for failing to vote for legislation desired by the unions and indicated that labor, which had furnished financial support to many members of Congress, was not only disappointed but might impose reprisals. It caused something of a flurry outside Congress but only a few members denounced the letter.

Charles Van Doren has at least confessed his sins. The public has yet to hear any remorseful expressions from those members of Congress who have virtually a 100 per cent record of voting in favor of the side that has given them the larger amounts of campaign contributions.

There are representatives and senators, of course, who, when they make a decision on a pending piece of legislation, do vote as their consciences tell them to vote, irrespective of any campaign help they may have received from interested parties.

IS THERE HONESTY?

But what shall the public think when it notes that certain members have a record of voting always the way their campaign contributors would have them vote?

Is there, moreover, honesty in respect to the disclosure of campaign contributions? Federal laws require that the candidates for Congress must reveal how much they themselves spent, but there is no requirement that all the money spent for the benefit of a candidate shall be accounted for specifically.

Thus, big sums are deliberately contributed to state committees or state organizations or to citizens' committees which do not get into the public records.

The American people are not permitted to know how much money is actually spent to elect members of Congress and by whom the largest sums are contributed. A wave of conscience over Capitol Hill is long overdue.

Charles Van Doren courageously revealed the error of his way. This does not minimize his wrongdoing but it cleanses his own mind and gives him the right to face society as a man of conscience.

He did not seek to excuse his mistakes though he might well have attributed them perhaps to a conflict between the demands of drama or a "good show" and his own sense of right and wrong.

★ ★ ★

Many people might have expected him to argue that even makeup is a deception and that a "quiz" performance is still a "show" on the stage of make-believe. But young Van Doren went the whole distance—he confessed his misguided action and asked the people in the court of public opinion to forgive him.

Dr. William Brady Says:

Anger, Fear and Worry All Harm Your Heart

This is the third of a series of pieces about care of the coronaries. In the previous pieces we mentioned factors which constrict the coronary arterioles — anger, fear, worry, alcohol, over-exertion under great anxiety; and some factors which contribute to coronary insufficiency in some circumstances — digitalis, excessive use of coffee, excessive smoking.

DR. BRADY

Growing children should not be allowed to take coffee. It over stimulates them.

Sedentary adults may take coffee in moderation — two or three cups daily, but never within 3 or 4 hours of bedtime. For adults who work or play hard (with their muscles) two or three cups of coffee daily may be taken with benefit to health and spirit.

REMEMBER THIS

People who have lost some of their marbles are likely to be sure they can't take coffee. In any case it is well to remember this about coffee: The active principle or alkaloid in coffee that stimulates the cerebrum, the heart and the kidneys is caffein, and caffein dilates the coronary arterioles and so increases the supply of blood and oxygen to the heart muscle.

In one of the previous pieces we quoted John Hunter, great eighteenth century surgeon, who, being subject to angina pectoris, said his "life was in the hands of any rascal who chose to annoy and tease" him. The irascible Dr. Hunter in due course expired at the early age of 65, in a fit of anger.

For the sake of your coronary arteries you had better cultivate composure, peace of mind, and equanimity.

★ ★ ★

I'm not telling you to "control your nerves" or to "watch your blood pressure" or to fuss about the amount of cholesterol in your everyday food.

Instead, I suggest that you get from the public library Walter B. Cannon's book Bodily Changes in Pain, Hunger, Fear and Rage and read it carefully, especially Chapter XV. This book will tell you how to keep your shirt on.

RELAX TENSION

When I find myself beginning to fuss and fret about things, I collect my pipe and tobacco, sneak out through the patio and head for the bowling green. When I get back, three hours later, I'm not mad at anybody.

The diversion one gets in the game relaxes and adjusts all the tensions that might otherwise subject one's arteries to needless wear and tear.

People who believe that one with "weak heart" must have his daily nip of digitalis to stay alive — and keep everybody around him duly impressed — will not understand how equanimity or composure can influence and control the nutrition and oxygenation of the heart muscle.

Among other things an adequate daily intake of calcium (of course with vitamin D) does for you is that it promotes composure and equanimity and normal functioning of the heart.

Signed letters not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr William Brady, if a stamped, self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

The Country Parson

Voice of the People

'Murder, Deceit the Only Culture Reds Preserve'

The gentleman who wrote that Russia is preserving its various cultures is seriously misled.

★ ★ ★

Russia has preserved nothing of the past except the fine old cultures of murder, deceit, oppression, depravity, etc. Their conduct since the dawn of recorded history has been and still is the worst. No race can match them for brutality.

★ ★ ★

The dignity of the human being never had any place in their way of life. The worship of God is frowned upon to say the least. They sure are cultured! Throughout the world white markers tell of their accomplishments.

Many young people with no history background are being taken in by their false claims. Russia gets a good ride in our schools. Democracy is pictured as slightly out of date. Many parents do very little at home to counter these notions.

★ ★ ★

This country has to take a back seat to no one. America is the hope of the world. Just ask anyone who has escaped from the cultural paradise behind the Iron Curtain.

Citizen

Would Do Away With Local Union

Mr. Buero was quite right in his comparison of the steel and the auto unions. Auto shops are rapidly becoming torture chambers instead of a place to work for a living.

★ ★ ★

Small minorities or cliques rule at union meetings. Shop committees sell us out. Horsetrading in grievance procedures is common knowledge. Paragraph 78 of this contract has been bartered away. No protection of working conditions exists. More work is added on to us every day. People work during lunch time, etc., to keep up with their jobs. We work under enormous pressure all day long.

★ ★ ★

Wouldn't it be better to dissolve local unions and have a district director from the international enforce articles of the contracts? Surely we'd get better enforcement.

One Who Knows

Draft Rejections Cause Concern

Hanson W. Baldwin invites us to look at "frightening draft statistics." In the 10 years rejection rate for physical, mental or moral reasons was 38.3 per cent, and 6.6 per cent of those passed by their draft boards were later rejected by the services.

★ ★ ★

In the realm of character, conduct, Mr. Baldwin sees an increase in the VD rate (50,000 new cases annually) making a sizable inroad in youth of preservice age; of major crimes in the U. S. (8 per cent increase for 1958), teen-agers have committed a "disproportionate share of them." He estimated one out of every five young men will have police records "in the foreseeable future."

★ ★ ★

From all this, according to Mr. Baldwin, "there emerges a picture, not of an American who can lick any two or three enemies, but of a vacuous adolescent without motivation." Under these conditions Mr. Baldwin says leadership dies and professionalism of crack soldiers withers.

Seconds Editorial Praising Willman

Three cheers to The Press for the fine editorial on Willman. He deserves every bit of praise he gets.

★ ★ ★

The dignity and gentlemanly manner with which he conducted himself during and following the Straley mess was almost superhuman. For a man to give so much of his time and efforts to a city and then be lambasted the way he was at that time would be enough to make most men chuck the whole thing.

★ ★ ★

Pontiac certainly can be proud to have a man like Willman.

Charity begins at home . . . Or so it ought to be . . . One's obligation first of all . . . Is to the family . . . Not just in terms of money but . . . In thought and word and deed . . . As those who hunger for our love . . . Are constantly in need . . . We owe a heavy debt to our . . . Creator on this sod . . . Yet, as we serve our family . . . We also honor God . . . No neighbor or some other friend . . . Or public cause today . . . Is more important than to help . . . Our children on their way . . . Let us be good and generous . . . Wherever we may roam . . . But keep in mind that charity . . . Should have its start at home.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Let Infatuation Die Natural Death

Ted shattered the halo that Milly had placed on his head. If her parents had kept arguing with Milly, they could soon have driven her into an elopement with this immature youth. So send for the Rating Scales below. Shatter your own unwise infatuations. You cast the proxy votes for your future unborn children so pick wisely when you marry.

By GEORGE W. CRANE

Case C — 486: Ted R., aged 19, in the immature boy with whom Milly was infatuated.

★ ★ ★

Her mother followed my advice and urged Milly's father to quit berating Ted, for that just forced Milly to recite his virtues all over again.

And, as I mentioned yesterday, by sheer repetition we soon begin to believe what we say, regardless of its original falseness. So never prod the victim of an unwise infatuation into a forced defense of his or her sweetheart.

Milly's mother thus sided with Milly, at least to the extent of having a party for Ted and a half a dozen of Milly's college friends.

★ ★ ★

Ted drove up with his flamboyant jalopy.

When he parked it in front of Milly's house, it contrasted very sharply with the dignified automobiles used by the other guests.

Already, therefore, Milly began to wince slightly at the juvenile nature of Ted, yet her parents had not said a word:

No, Ted's own behavior helped lead Milly to this new conclusion.

Parents, it is generally wise to throw open your homes to parties for your teen-age children and their friends.

★ ★ ★

If the stranger fits into your environment, well and good. If he doesn't, his own mistakes will shatter the halo that your infatuated daughter has placed on his head.

And that is exactly what took place at Milly's home. Her college classmates discussed their future goals.

One boy was planning to enter medicine. Another mentioned his desire to become an engineer, etc. Ted then diverted the conversation to the speed he could get out of his "souped up" jalopy.

Milly subconsciously noted the different viewpoints of her college pals, vs. Ted. They showed mature judgment, while Ted was talking like a 15-year-old.

★ ★ ★

And please notice that it was Ted, not Milly's father, who was now proving the immaturity of Ted!

So Milly now couldn't blame her father for an unfair charge against her boy friend! But she vaguely resented Ted's second-rate standing among the other boys, and wanted to blame somebody.

Who would be the culprit? Obviously, we human beings will not blame ourselves, for we cannot stand such self-deflation of ego.

★ ★ ★

Consequently, Milly began to grow irritable at Ted. She was thus realizing his immaturity.

And when he spilled a glass of punch over her new frock, even though it was accidental on his part, she snapped at him for being clumsy.

You readers can guess the rest. Within a month, Milly had cooled off to the point where she declined Ted's request for dates, and he then picked a high school junior who squealed with glee over his hot rod car.

Girls, when you are infatuated, remember you cast the proxy votes of your future unborn children when you select your mate. So use your brain!

To help shatter unwise infatuations, send for the 200-point "Tests for Sweethearts," enclosing a stamped return envelope, plus 20 cents (non-profit).

★ ★ ★

If the boy fails to rate "Superior" thereon, keep up your man hunt.

Pope Will Give Dead Tedeschini His Absolution

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—Pope John XXIII will break a Papal precedent by personally imparting absolution to Federico Cardinal Tedeschini, who died of intestinal cancer yesterday.

An official announcement said today the Pope would attend Tedeschini's funeral in St. Peter's Basilica Friday morning and impart absolution.

★ ★ ★

Absolution to a dead cardinal is normally given by the dean of the Sacred College, now French-born Eugene Cardinal Tisserant.

The Pope's gesture, for which Vatican sources could recall no precedent, was only one of many marks of the Pope's special affection for diplomat and charity-sponsor Tedeschini.

Genesee County Offers Food to Laid Off Men

FLINT (UPI) — The Genesee County Welfare Policy Board decided yesterday the county cannot afford to relax rules to make auto workers laid off because of the steel strike eligible for direct relief.

But acting welfare director, Mary Taylor, said sufficient surplus food is on hand to help out the idled workers.

Dies Hunting Ducks

PETOSKEY (UPI) — Alfred E. Bond, chief engineer at the Petoskey Portland Cement Co. branch for more than 34 years, was to be buried today. He died Sunday while duck hunting near his Crooked Lake Home. Bond retired three years ago.

Survivor Should Never Be Bored

NEW YORK—Bored with life today? Think, then, of what must be the attitude of Ernest Bradley, sole survivor of a DC3 crash in the Blue Ridge Mountains of Virginia Friday night.

Bradley remembers hearing the plane sheering off the tops of trees as it went in, then a terrible jolt, and then nothing. When he regained consciousness he was still in his seat, seat belt fastened, but the seat was on the ground near the ruptured plane.

He sat there in the wind and rain and fog from Friday night to Sunday morning, when he was found, calling out to the dead around him, calling out to the distantly baying dogs.

"I was beginning to wonder if anyone would ever come," he said in his hospital.

I'll bet Ernest Bradley wasn't bored today. I'll bet he savors each and every moment of the rest of his life, the remainder of his borrowed time, knowing for the first time how precious is life.

The Russians gained at least part of their knowledge about the A-bomb and the H-bomb by theft from us, thanks to the scientist-spy Klaus Fuchs, a German-born British-nationalized nuclear physicist who worked here with other pioneers to develop the bomb. He passed his secrets to a courier named Harry Gold, who worked for a Russian spy assigned to the Soviet Embassy and for Julius and Ethel Rosenberg.

The production of similar bombs in the Soviet Union altered the course of history.

Well, now it appears that another one of our boys has made good— or, rather, bad. Dr. H. S. Tsien is reported to be the brains behind Red China's said-to-be-impending entrance into the big missile league.

It may be propaganda (though it's best not to dismiss it as such) but the Red Chinese are bragging that they will soon have arsenals of long-range rockets equipped with atomic warheads.

If so, they will be much more inclined to use them than, say, Russia. Indeed, Russia is beginning to fear that the chief targets of any such Red Chinese development will be Russia, not the U.S.

Dr. Tsien is a graduate of the California Institute of Technology. He was a trusted insider in the government research agency which preceded the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. He was deported to China from the U.S. in 1955 as a Communist.

Let's all practice how to duck.

Had a delightful visit in Washington the other day with Sister Bernard, the Notre Dame Du Namour nun who taught me in the sixth grade in grammar school.

That was nearly 40 years ago. I knocked on the door of the convent and asked timidly if I could see Sister. I expected her to be bedridden, at least, and was half fearful that the nun who answered the door would say, "Sister Bernard? Haven't you heard . . . ?"

Instead, she said, "Sister Bernard is never here at this time of day. She's across the street at school."

"Still teaching . . . ?" It seemed impossible.

There she was, correcting papers—as she had been the last time I saw her. The room was being cleaned by a couple of her more devoted scholars, just as I had once helped with such chores. There was a faint smog of chalk dust about, for the blackboard erasers were being pounded clean on the window sill.

"Hello, Robert," she said.

LOOKED THE SAME

I asked her how many thousands upon thousands of kids had passed through her hands. She had seemed like an elderly woman four decades ago, but now she looked no older than I remembered.

★ ★ ★

Sister Bernard laughed and said she had long since lost track of the numbers of her students, but that she could remember all of them.

"All of them?"

"Certainly," she said. "A priest brought me a clipping of a man's face not long ago and asked me if I remembered him. Of course I did. He sat in the fourth row, second seat. I could see his face as a boy. Then the priest opened the clipping and showed me the story. The man had been convicted for forgery."

I asked Sister Bernard how she reacted.

"I told the priest that John had always been an excellent penman. Straight A's in penmanship as long as I had him," she said, with dogged pride and loyalty.

Sister Bernard had heard that I had been in Russia.

"I suppose you know who Khrushchev really is," she said, in the familiar voice of the teacher. She seemed surprised that I'd flunk such an easy answer.

"He's the Devil," Sister Bernard said with a flat finality that brooked no retort.

Hint Kassem Was Injured Worse Than Iraq Reported

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign Editor

There is evidence that Iraqi Premier Abdel Karim Kassem was much more seriously hurt in the attempted assassination against him than the outside world was allowed to know.

There also is evidence that his Arab neighbors, notably Jordan and the United Arab Republic, have been watching events since with an indecisive mixture of hope and apprehension.

The machine gun attack on Kassem occurred on Baghdad's narrow Rashid street no Oct. 7. An official announcement said he was hit in the left hand, the left arm and the shoulder.

It was emphasized the wounds were not serious.

Yet nearly one month later, Kassem still is in the hospital and latest reports say he will be there another 10 days.

★ ★ ★

Since Oct. 7, the Baghdad radio has been busy denying various reports, most of them circulated by those admittedly unfriendly to Kassem. One was that Kassem had died. Another, that Iraqi doctors had proved incapable of treating him and that Russian doctors had been flown in.

Whatever the facts, the method of treatment has changed. A decision to leave bullet remnants in Kassem's arm was reversed and it now appears another operation may be necessary to remove the whole slug.

The mixture of hope and apprehension being demonstrated in Jordan and the UAR springs from two sources.

Chaos certainly would result should Kassem be removed from the ruling seat in Iraq.

★ ★ ★

Whether this would be of most benefit to the Arab nationalists or to the Communists is problematical. But neither King Hussein of Jordan nor President Abdel Gamal Nasser of the UAR would be likely to stand idly by while the Communists took over.

Neither Hussein nor Nasser wastes any love on Kassem — Hussein because he regards himself as head of the Hashmite dynasty which was toppled in the Iraq revolution last year, and Nasser because of his battle with Kassem for leadership of the Arab world.

But if either were to attempt to intervene in Iraq, it is most probable some form of legality would be sought. That form presently is lacking. The fact that the attempt on Kassem's life was not accompanied by simultaneous disturbances throughout the remainder of Iraq, tends to the belief it was not directed from either Cairo or Amman.

The Communists also seem to be guiltless since they were doing all right in the Kassem government as things were.

★ ★ ★

Beirut reports, denied elsewhere, have had both Jordanian and UAR troops massing at the Iraqi border. And there have been angry warnings from Baghdad that any attempt at intervention would have dire results for him who did the intervening.

Uneasiness again is stirring in the Middle East and, as he was a year ago, Kassem once more is the center.

The completed Trans-Canada highway will extend a length of 4,161 miles.

Cyprus Resumes Constitution Talks

NICOSIA, Cypru (AP) — After two weeks of inactivity, the Greek-Turkish constitutional committee resumed negotiations Monday on the division of government powers between their two communities after Cyprus becomes independent next year.

Archbishop Makarios, the Greek Cypriot leader, suspended committee meetings Oct. 21 after a British minesweeper captured an ammunition - laden Turkish fishing boat off Cyprus.

★ ★ ★

The archbishop's action aroused fears that strife would resume between the Greek and Turkish Cypriot communities. The way was opened to a resumption of negotiations by appeals from both the archbishop and Turkish Cypriot leader Fazil Kutchuk for their people to surrender all illegally held arms by midnight Wednesday. No arms have been turned in yet.

Makarios faced new opposition from his own people. Six leading Greek Cypriot mayors — representing all shades of political opinion — accused the archbishop of dictatorial tendencies and demanded an immediate review of the London agreement giving independence to Cyprus.

President Lays CIA Cornerstone

Secret Agency Building to Go Up in Virginia on Huge Site

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower lays the cornerstone today for a new multi-million dollar headquarters of the government's super-secret Central Intelligence Agency.

★ ★ ★

Eisenhower arranged to speak at the excavation site at nearby Langley, Va., along with Allen W. Dulles, director of the far-flung intelligence network.

★ ★ ★

The president hoped to go directly from Langley to Gettysburg, Pa., to vote there before returning to Washington.

★ ★ ★

The 46-million-dollar CIA structure, due to be completed by August 1961, will provide a single home for the thousands of CIA employes now scattered in 22 separate buildings in downtown Washington.

★ ★ ★

The CIA won't disclose how many persons will work in the new headquarters. All a spokesman would say is that the building will have one million square feet of space and another 600,000 square feet of corridors.

★ ★ ★

Two huge parking lots of 21 acres will surround the building.

★ ★ ★

Intelligence data gathered in every corner of the world will be funneled into the new modern offices for assessment as part of CIA's task of keeping check on Soviet activities and intentions.

Oil Expert Fails to Cap Adrian's Runaway Well

JONESVILLE (AP) — A team of Texas trouble-shooters attempted again today to stop the runaway well that has been sprewing an estimated $150,000 worth of oil a day into the sky since Friday.

★ ★ ★

Boots Hansen and his crew of oil experts from Houston failed yesterday to stop the hissing mixture of oil, gas and water.

They did some repair work at the well owned by Perry Faulk of Albion, State Police said, but they could not cap it.

The oilmen estimated the wild well had already wasted a year's production of oil.

Hansen, who represents Red Adair Co. of Houston, was brought in Sunday to stop the gusher. It was reported his bill runs to $1,000 an hour.

★ ★ ★

Faulk had first estimated the loss at $300,000 a day. But later he revised his estimate. He said the well was losing 1,500 barrels of oil and water each hour.

Three Milford Teens Get One to Five Years

Three teen-age Milford boys who took a $170 chain saw from a Commerce Township shed last month received 1 to 5 year prison terms yesterday from Oakland County Circuit Judge William J. Beer.

★ ★ ★

Sentenced to Jackson Prison were Harry J. Medaris, 17, of 5454 Commerce Rd., Willis N. Westerman, 19, of 662 E. Grand Traverse Rd., and James Cummings, 19, of 314 Winona Rd.

The three pleaded guilty to grand larceny Oct. 19.

He's there—in the dead of winter

Folks whose homes are oil heated never have to worry about running out of fuel. Not only is their home heated cleanly, economically and, above all, safely; but reserve tanks are filled automatically by means of the degree day system. This means that advance fuel oil needs are determined by the outside temperature and the heating needs of the home.
Oil heated homes are guaranteed constant heat when they deal with distributors who are members of the Oakland Oil Heat Council, for council members utilize the degree day system in anticipating their customers' needs.
The modern equipment and modern methods of members of the Oakland Oil Heat Council have kept pace with the dramatic development of fuel oil and fuel oil heating plants over the years. Because he has the equipment and the knowledge, your fuel oil dealer can help you in many ways with any problems you may encounter. He is more than willing to give you an assist to help improve the enjoyment and comfort of oil heat.
If you are now using oil heat or are planning an oil conversion keep in mind that when you deal with a member of the Oakland Oil Heat Council—you can deal with confidence.

Most TV Quiz Show Winners Insist They Received No Help

By The Associated Press

Where are they now—the people who won thousands of dollars on television quiz shows? And what do they think of revelations of fixed programs, topped by Charles Van Doren's dramatic admissions before a congressional committee?

Most of them have dropped back into obscurity. Some have changed from one job to another. Few seem to have scored any great financial gains, other than their prize winnings, although some have been able to retire.

★ ★ ★

The great majority insist that they received no direct help in giving correct answers.

Elfrida Von Nardroff of Brooklyn, whose winnings of $220,000 were one of the all-time highs on TV quiz shows, quit her job as a personnel manager during her appearances on "21." She later took a lengthy tour of Europe. Since she has returned to New York, but has not been reachable for comment.

At least one woman wonders whether, unknown to her, she received help.

★ ★ ★

"I received no answers," said Mrs. Carlyle E. Anderson of Evanston, Ill., a $64,000 winner. But, she continued, "Now, I feel quite let down because I think the questions were tailored to avoid my knowledge deficiencies. I had felt quite satisfied with myself."

★ ★ ★

The housewife said the only coaching she received was on what to do with her hands and a reminder to take time before answering.

Mrs. Myrt Power, 75, of Buford, Ga., the grandmother who won $32,000 for her knowledge of baseball, lives with a daughter, Mrs. Sarah Cook, and spryly denies she received any answers.

"If somebody had been giving out the answers I wouldn't have stopped at $32,000 on 'The $64,000 Question,'" she said. "I'd have gone all the way."

Mrs. Power, a Dodger fan, went to Los Angeles for the World Series last month and wrote special articles for the Atlanta Journal.

★ ★ ★

Remember the Egan brothers of Hartford, Conn., who won $48,000 on the quiz shows? James N. Egan is still an attorney there, but William Egan has married and moved to Winter Haven, Fla.

He is in the real estate business and is writing a novel — "Not about TV quiz shows." He said that as far as he and his brother could tell the shows were not rigged.

He expressed sympathy for Van Doren, the $129,000 winner on "21" who has been suspended from his $50,000 a year contract with NBC and has lost his job as an assistant professor at Columbia University.

"I feel sorry for Van Doren — they were trying to make him look a little too good," said William Egan.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Joyce Brothers, another $64,000 winner as an expert on boxing was one of the few winners to continue on in a television career. She has an NBC program on which she gives psychological answers to letters sent to her by viewers on topics such as love, marriage and child rearing.

★ ★ ★

To a query whether she received any questions or answers in advance on her quiz appearances, she said: "None whatsoever."

UAW Plans Appeal of Renda Judgment

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers Union plans a State Supreme Court appeal in a $400,000 judgment awarded Detroit scrap dealer Carl Renda in a damage suit against the union.

The union's motion for a new trial was denied by visiting Judge Edward T. Kane of Port Huron in Circuit Court here last Thursday.

The union had to put up a $500,000 bond pending outcome of its appeal to the high court.

The case grew out of the 1948 shooting of Walter P. Reuther, UAW president, and a subsequent investigation in which Renda claimed he was maliciously prosecuted.

A jury awarded the money damages to Renda.

Russian Union Paper Again Blasts Reuther

MOSCOW (AP)—Walter P. Reuther, AFL-CIO vice president, was the target of another attack by the Soviet trade union newspaper Trud yesterday.

★ ★ ★

Trud last week charged Reuther had given up Communism to become "a "lackey of the monopolists." It also accused him of deserting a Russian wife in the 1930s.

Reuther, also president of the United Auto Workers Union, called the story a "complete fabrication and falsehood."

The Soviet news agency Tass reported that Trud reaffirmed authenticity of documents it used to support its accusations.

An article signed by "Kornilov" stated the photographs and documents published in Trud had been examined by a number of unnamed foreign newsmen.

★ ★ ★

"The workers of all countries see for themselves that Reuther and his associates from the American Federation of Labor-Congress of Industrial Organizations betray the interests of the working people, that they serve the monopolists and protect their interests," the article said.

Pontiac Tax Accountant Can Practice Before IRS

Angus Campbell, 995 W. Huron St., has been admitted as an agent to practice before the Internal Revenue Service, it was announced today by the U.S. Treasury Department.

A tax accountant with offices in Pontiac, Campbell is a member of the Institute of Internal Auditors.

New Hoffa Group to Gun for Labor Bill Backers

DETROIT (UPI) — Teamsters Union chief James R. Hoffa said today his union will form a political action group aimed at defeating all congressmen who voted for the Landrum-Griffin labor bill.

★ ★ ★

Hoffa, speaking at a new conference at the opening of the annual meeting of the Central Conference of Teamsters, appeared particularly incensed about Sen. Patrick V. McNamara's (D-Mich) vote for the labor bill.

"McNamara is a good example," he said, speaking of the members of Congress the Teamsters would seek to defeat. "He can't escape the fact that he voted for a bill which he himself called a bad bill for labor unions.

Hoffa was not as antagonistic toward Sen. Philip A. Hart (D-Mich), who also voted for the labor bill and who has wealthy in-laws.

★ ★ ★

"Hart couldn't be expected to know the implications of the bill as well as McNamara or others," he said. "We will talk to him before we decide whether to support him."

"We don't intend to support anyone who voted for the bill," Hoffa said.

"In some cases, we may not support either candidate," he said. "We will definitely not be a one-party group."

Hoffa said the political action group would be headed by his top lieutenant, Bert Brennan, and would be designed to "reach all the way down to the grass roots level."

★ ★ ★

He said funds for the group would come from two sources. Political education will be financed from funds from the international union while funds for contributions to the campagns of candidates the Teamsters support will come from voluntary contributions from the members, he said.

"We are not suggesting any specific amount any member should contribute," he said. "The program probably will cost about 15 cents per member per month, including both the educational and campaign fund aspects."

He said all candidates' names will be brought before the membership and the members will then decide which candidates they want to support or oppose.

★ ★ ★

Asked if the Teamsters would support Sen. John Kennedy (D-Mass), Hoffa noted that Kennedy was a prime mover behind passage of the Landrum-Griffin bill and said "I won't support any spoiled millionaires."

He said he probably would resign all of his Teamster Union offices except the presidency once "the court matters now pending are cleaned up," referring to the court suit for dismissal of the stewardship placed on the union.

However, he said he would seek re-election as chairman of Teamsters Local 299, his home local, one of 14 titles he holds in the union, next Sunday.

He said the Steelworkers Union was "fighting the fight of all labor" and the Teamsters would give the Steelworkers whatever aid was asked of them.

But Ore Carriers to Run Late If . . .

Foreign Vessels Scoot for Home to Avoid Ice

By United Press International

Foreign vessels plying the Great Lakes are taking no chances of getting caught by an early freeze-up this year, a survey showed today.

A marine-reporting service in Detroit, the J. W. Wescott Co., said nearly all foreign ships already have fled the fresh water lakes for their ocean ports and won't be back in numbers until next year.

Shipping officials at Milwaukee said overseas vessels are planning to cut the season short by 10 days and get out of the lakes by Nov. 20.

Several ships were caught by an early freeze in 1958 and they want to make sure they will avoid it this year, shippers said.

However, Great Lakes ore carriers are ready for a final dash to Lake Superior ports when the steel strike ends.

A few of the 243 ore boats in the Great Lakes fleet already have recalled their crews in order to sail as quickly as possible.

The ore carriers probably will be able to operate into December. The locks at Sault Ste. Marie between Lake Superior and Lake Huron are scheduled to close Dec. 12 and the Welland Canal between Lakes Erie and Ontario will remain open until Dec. 16.

Robert T. Smith, director of the Duluth (Minn.) Port Authority, said the ore carriers will try to keep running as close to the winter freeze as possible.

"There is a chance the Soo Locks and the Welland Canal may be held open longer than usual if the steel strike ends," Smith said. "That is the only case where we would expect any real rush of shipping

TO RUN LATE

"If that happens, ships will be running right up to the time the lakes freeze, providing that cold weather doesn't make it too difficult to load ore at Duluth."

Jim Gibson, broker at Alastair Buthrie, Inc., shipping agents which handle 65 per cent of traffic at Duluth, said his firm would try to move as much cargo as possible but would not risk endangering vessels in a freeze-up.

"I doubt anyone will push his luck to stay on the lakes later than usual," he said. "We plan to move cargoes right up to the last minute, but we won't try to push it farther than is safe.

"If you're out there on the Lake (Superior) when it starts freezing, nothing—not even an icebreaker—can be of much help to you."

Debate Looms in French Tests

U.N. Morocco Delegate to Lead Debate Against Sahara Atom Blast

By TOM HOGE

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —Another heated debate loomed in the U.N. today as a parade of Asian and African delegates lined up to protest France's plans to explode her first atomic bomb in the Sahara Desert.

Ahmed Taibi Benhima of Morocco was to begin the debate in the 82-nation Political Committee this afternoon. It was his government which proposed that the U.S. go on record opposing the French nuclear test, expected to take place soon.

★ ★ ★

Benhima was expected to contend that the Sahara is not a no man's land and that no nation has the right to contaminate the area with nuclear blasts.

France's veteran disarmament expert, Jules Moch, was expected to reply that his government would ignore any U.N. resolution opposing its test plans. Moch reportedly was ready with a scientific report showing that the planned French test would not cause danger of radioactive contamination to any serious degree.

Authoritative sources said the French bomb has been ready for months but the tests had been delayed because the desert experimental station was not ready.

Moch reportedly will tell the committee that France will renounce nuclear weapon tests the day the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union agree to ban production and use of such weapons.

Waterford Boy Sets Fire in Old Automobile

A small Waterford Township boy playing with matches in an old car used for storage, escaped serious injury yesterday afternoon when he set fire to the interior of the automobile.

Glenn Gilliam Jr., 7, of 101 Lorberta Lane, scrambled out of the car after he dropped a pack of lighted matches. The car was parked back of the Glenn Gilliam residence, and contained a lawn mower and other implements.

Waterford Township fireman estimated some $200 damage to the $250 automobile.

Gets 2-Week Sentence, $50 Fine on Knife Charge

TROY — A 21-year-old Detroit man was found guilty in Justice Court here yesterday of carrying a switch blade knife and was fined $50 plus $15 court costs and sentenced to 15 days in jail.

Norman J. Pierson Jr. was arrested Oct. 18 at the Dance Ranch, 3271 Rochester Rd.

May Solve Dystrophy With Mice

NEWCASTLE, England (AP)—British doctors say three mice from the United States may provide the answers to a disease which turns people into helpless cripples.

The disease, muscular dystrophy, wastes away the muscles and often results in death. It usually begins in childhood and frequently runs in families.

The American mice, themselves cripples, have been studied for a year by researchers at Newcastle's Royal Victoria Infirmary. After experiments with the animals, a British team succeeded in growing muscles for three weeks in a chemical liquid. Now doctors are able to study the whole life history of a dystrophic muscle.

A hospital spokesman claimed a "noteworthy step forward in the fight against muscular dystrophy."

The spokesman cautioned dystrophy patients against any false optimism, however.

'Old Reb' Maintains Weak Grip on Life

HOUSTON, Tex. (UPI) — "Old Reb" Walter Williams maintained a weak grip on life today as he began his seventh straight day under the oxygen tent doctors hope will save him from a pneumonia attack. He is the last surviving Civil War soldier.

His physician, Dr. Russell Wolfe, called the old man's condition "about the same" late yesterday although "he seems to get a little weaker every day."

But Russell pointed out 'one cheerful fact, "he can be roused and is taking a little nourishment now."

Russell could not predict whether the old Confederate will live to see his 117th birthday Nov. 14.

"I wouldn't say his time is real soon, but you never can tell with a man of his age," Russell said.

State Extension Service Groups Name Officers

EAST LANSING (UPI) — Professional associations of staff members of the Michigan Cooperative Extension Service announced results of annual elections today.

Associations and their new presidents are:

Michigan County Agricultural Agents' Assn. — Vernon F. Hinz, Kalamazoo County extension director.

Michigan 4-H Club Agents' Assn. — William P. Kirkpatrick, Barry County 4-H extension agent.

Michigan Home Economics Extension Agents' Assn. — Mildred M. Omlor, Jackson County home economics extension agent.

Michigan Extension Specialists' Assn. — Donald L. Murray, extension dairy specialist.

Shortage Limits Sale of Autos

But Full Effect of Steel Shutdown Still Due, Trade Paper Says

DETROIT (UPI) — Automotive News said Monday estimated sale of 500,000 new cars in October was held down by a limited supply of 1960 model cars.

"No dealer has been able to probe the full potential of the new '60s because so far he hasn't been able to get enough units to satisfy demand," the industry publication said.

The publication said sales, nevertheless, have been at satisfactory volume, but, "a sag is bound to come as full effects of the steel strike filter down to the showroom level."

Automotive News said all General Motors assembly plants are shut down, idling close to 175,000 employes, except the Corvair production lines at Willow Run; Oakland, Calif.; and Kansas City; with a limited number of Buicks being built at Flint before shutdown and a few Corvettes at St. Louis.

Chrysler Corp. cut Imperial production back to four days and may have to reshuffle other lines, the publication said.

Ike May Visit Italy, Foreign Papers Say

ROME (AP) — Leading Italian newspapers today reported that a visit to Rome by President Eisenhower is practically a certainty.

The newspapers said he would stop in the Italian capital on his way to Paris for the Dec. 19 Western summit conference.

The White House, the U.S. Embassy in Rome and the Italian Foreign Ministry all said they could neither confirm nor deny the reports. "I haven't got anything to say," said Eisenhower's press secretary, James Hagerty, in Washington.

SRO at High School

Vocal Concert Success

By MRS. CHARLES W. BUCK

The 13th annual Senior High Schools' Fall Vocal Concert was presented last night to a standing room only audience in the Pontiac Northern gymnasium.

From the first ringing notes of Beethoven's majestic "The Heavens Are Telling" to the final words of Noble Cain's "Let Not Your Song End" the 830 students performed a varied and complex program with ease and accomplishment.

EXCELLENT INSTRUCTION

The performance was a testimony to the excellent instruction they had received during the past six weeks from George H. Putnam, supervisor of secondary music, and Doreen Voltmann, A. Michael Dempsey and Melvin Larimer, instructors at Pontiac Central and Northern.

Don Craig, nationally known choir director, made his fourth appearance as guest conductor. Under his direction, the massed chorus performed its numbers with feeling and clarity. The sacred selections were sung sincerely and with a responsiveness which made possible effective shadings in dynamics. The folk song, "John Henry," arranged by Lionel Wood, was filled with syncopation and was performed in a lively manner.

★ ★ ★

Whether conducting the boys in the Welsh folk song, "Holy Lord of All," sung with full and mature tones, or leading the girls in the haunting "Velvet Shoes," Mr. Craig achieved a unity with the singers.

Especially thrilling was the concluding number, "Let Not Your Song End," which he dedicated to Mr. Putnam as "the man who has had the faith and vision in high school students to make them perform music beautifully even though it is very difficult."

FINESSE

The Pontiac Central High School Choir under the direction of Mr. Putnam sang with finesse the difficult Finnish folk song, "Lost in the Night" by Christiansen. "Waters Ripple and Flow" provided a contrasting melodic style and was well sung with excellent accompaniment by Gary Relyea.

Mr. Larimer conducted the Northern Choir in the spiritual "Ride the Chariot" and Mozart's smooth flowing "Ave Verum Corpus."

The popular "Catch a Falling Star," directed by Mrs. Voltmann, was particularly well-received by the audience and was executed by the massed chorus with a good spirit of fun.

★ ★ ★

The Boys Chorus performed "Do You Fear the Wind" with ease and expressiveness under Mr. Dempsey's direction.

The Central Songspinners' interpretation of the difficult modern "Nursery Rhymes" by Hunter, Central Senior Boys' "Poinciana" with rhythm instruments, and the Northern Norsemen's performance of "Climbin' Up the Mountain" were well done.

Concert accompanists were David Brien, Karen Bronoel, Barbara Griffin, Jill Hicks, Gary Relyea, Carol Wargelin, Diane Williams, Linda Libby and Judy Hinkley.

Hatless Gents Will Flip Their Lids at This!

You may not know it, but whether or not you wear a hat indicates whether or not you have feminine instincts. At least, Texas psychologist Dr. Charles Mayer seems to think so.

He says "the hat is the symbol of masculinity," and that the man who wears no hat "is telling all who want to see that, in effect, he doesn't want to be a man."

Mayer points out that warriors always wore helmets, Indian chiefs wore their fine feathers, knights wore armored hats, kings wore crowns — and he infers that anybody who doesn't wear a hat leans toward femininity.

Wonder when the doc last saw a prize fighter with a hat on?

Heavy Blankets Call for Towels in Your Dryer

Your favorite heavy blankets emerge from an automatic dryer amazingly soft, new-looking and luxurious when you take time to carefully follow drying directions.

★ ★ ★

Place several large, dry bath towels in dryer, and allow to preheat for five minutes. Then place blanket in dryer and allow it to tumble with towels. Remove while still slightly damp, and reshape to size by pulling small sections along the length and width keeping edges straight. Place on flat surface to finish air-drying. When blanket is completely dry, brush nap with fine wire brush, and press binding if desired.

★ ★ ★

Drying time will vary according to size and weight. However, after the first 10 minutes of dryer-dying are up, check frequently for proper moisture content. This helps guard against overdrying.

Orlon and other synthetic fabric blankets may be dryer-dried in this way, too, although drying time will generally be shorter.

Abby Donates to Fight Acne

STANFORD, Calif. — Abigail Van Buren, whose column of advice to the troubled and lovelorn appears in this paper, has pledged a $25,000 grant to the Stanford University School of Medicine in Palo Alto, Calif., toward a better understanding of skin diseases.

★ ★ ★

Abby said, "About 20 per cent of my mail is from teenagers, and one of their most hopeless problems is that of acne. Perhaps in some small way I can help the medical profession to help these young people."

★ ★ ★

The medical school is part of the 22 million dollar Stanford Medical Center, recently completed on the university campus.

★ ★ ★

The grant from "Dear Abby" (in private life Mrs. Morton Phillips) was made through Dr. Eugene M. Farber, chief of the division of dermatology, who will direct the over-all work in the new laboratory. It will work with a view to a better understanding of such skin diseases as psoriasis, eczema and acne.

The ninth annual convention of the American Business Women's Assn. in October at Phoenix, Ariz., was attended by several Pontiac area women. Representatives of the local Tipacon Chapter were, from left, Mrs. Stephen Gibbs of Ottawa drive, Mrs. Carroll Welch of Watkins Lake road, Ruth Cramer of Delaware drive and Mrs. Albert Adair of Menominee road. Seated are, Lillian Laska, left, of Watkins Lake and Mrs. Richard Veazey of Delaware drive. Joyce Hohm of Melrose street, not pictured, also attended. Tots Appreciate Color, Paint What They Feel Toddlers love to paint—that is they get great joy from bright colored poster paints they can streak across big pieces of paper.

Painting is valuable experience for little children. They do not paint pictures, they paint the way they feel. It is often very worthwhile for a youngster to be able to express himself in this way.

★ ★ ★

It takes a bit of doing to arrange a place at home where a small child can paint. We will discuss how to equip a painting corner.

FIND A CORNER

Select a corner that will not be too much damaged by a bit of paint being slopped around. Cover the floor with a big piece of linoleum. In the summer the painting equipment might be set up outdoors or in a corner of the garage.

You will use water soluble paints so the clean-up is possible with a wet rag. Bright color poster paint can be obtained at an art supply store.

★ ★ ★

Buy the dry pigments (they are cheaper than liquid paints). Get some Bentonite which mixed with the pigments and water will make your paints go much further. You will need pigments in the three primary colors, red, yellow and blue, and also black and white. With these you can mix a variety of colors.

JARS HANDY

Have a few wide mouth jars for a small amount of each color paint to be given to the child. You will need brushes, one for each color of paint.

The paper can be newsprint. You can obtain it from your local newspaper printing office—free sometimes, but never expensive.

MAKE EASEL

It is handy to have an easel though you can use a table top or even the floor. Of course you can buy an easel, but a most satisfactory one can be made from an old orange crate. Stand the crate on end. Nail an upright piece of wood at the back of the top and a horizontal piece of wood at the front of the top.

A big piece of cardboard can then be supported on the upright and will be held in place by the strip in front. Your newsprint can be attached to the cardboard with thumb tacks.

If the orange crate has a divider in it, as most do, it will provide a handy shelf for jars of paint.

★ ★ ★

With a very small expenditure of money and some time and effort you will be equipped to provide your child with painting equipment that will last for years. Your child will get great joy from painting and you may come to understand him better by watching his activities with this play medium.

Soprano of the Metropolitan Opera, concert, films and television, Roberta Peters discusses the value of knowing how to "do-it-yourself."

ROBERTA PETERS

'Do It Yourself,' Says Opera Star

By ROBERTA PETERS

While the "do - it - yourself" vogue has validity for many in terms of escape from the humdrum of routine living, it has an even greater value in the practical aspects of working ease-of-mind and home-life economy.

When I was a little girl, I learned, as others did, that sewing was important; that knowing how to cook was essential. I learned to embroider and it was up to me to make inexpensive, simple frocks into wearable and attractive dresses.

I even learned to knit — and parenthetically, it has been a constant source of quiet relaxation while on tour or during stage waits at the opera. I am very proud of the sweaters and socks I have turned out for my young son.

TEACH CHILDREN

Speaking of youth, the ability to learn is not the prerogative of the adult. I believe it is most important that children learn how to repair their toys; that they develop habits of resourcefulness that become second nature and of inestimable value and satisfaction in adulthood.

I hope my two-year-old son will be resourceful and adept in many interests as his years advance. Best of all, interested wholesome activity for growing youngsters is a decided deterrent to juvenile delinquency.

★ ★ ★

In my case, my ability to do basic sewing has stood me in good stead, time and again, while traveling. Seamstresses are not always available — and my needle and thread, plus my early training save costly waits and give me added use of costumes and evening gowns that require constant change and attention. As a student, I made my own clothes. As a performer, it's nice to know that I still can turn out a simple frock that I can wear with ease.

HAS ADVANTAGES

The ability to do well the many things that make for better living has many advantages in everyday life. Whatever your vocation may be, if you are a home-owner or an apartment dweller, a knowledge of "how-to-fix" offtimes saves costly repair bills.

Knowing where fuse boxes are and what to do when one burns out, to cite a simple example, many times saves expensive visits from an electrician. Knowing how to make minor repairs, whether on an automobile or in the house, comes in handy, especially when you live, as I do, in the country.

I don't want to imply that we all should take a "How-To-Fix-It" course. I do suggest that we should learn to help ourselves and to develop interests away from our regular work.

I have friends, for example, who could hit a thumb quicker than a nail. But these same friends, away from their desks or during a sepite from household chores, found time to develop talents they never dreamed they had.

They may be "Sunday painters" but they are dedicated to their new-found form of self expression. Some discovered the joys of good literature and the pleasures of discussing books with friends of similar tastes. Learning how to handle a monkey wrench or a hammer, even while young, doesn't imply necessarily that you become a mechanic.

It does mean satisfaction — and economic savings — in using this knowledge later when an emergency situation brings out this other side of your talents. And it's fun, too!

Ideas Have Changed About This

By EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: I had a date with a young man last evening to go to dinner and the theater. I met him directly from the office. When we met he said that he had to stop by at his apartment (which was a short distance away) to pick up something. I went up with him as I had never seen his apartment. He showed me around and we had a glass of sherry and then left.

"When I told my mother about this she was furious at my having gone alone to a man's apartment. She said that I should have waited downstairs in the lobby for him. I certainly see no harm in what I did but she is making such an issue of this that I am writing to ask you if what I did was so terribly wrong?"

Answer: A generation ago you would have been thought terribly wrong, but times have changed and it is now really up to you to make your own decision as to whether or not you were wrong. In considering your description of what you did and assuming that you were sure the young man has the instincts of a gentleman, I would not say that you were wrong, though perhaps unwise, in risking some possible criticism.

"Dear Mrs. Post: There is a difference of opinion in our office as to whether or not it is proper to send flowers to the home of the bereaved after the funeral? Some say they have never heard of this practice. Will you please advise us?"

Answer: It is unusual but entirely proper, and by no means unheard of, to send cut flowers to a member of the family who is a personal friend after the funeral, rather than a floral offering to the funeral of one who was a stranger to you.

"Dear Mrs. Post: When a monogram is to be engraved on a baby spoon, which is considered correct — the initial of the first name or the first initial of the last name?"

Answer: The initial of the first name is correct.

Princess Thrilled She'll Visit U.S.

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor

Even a princess likes to get out of her homework once in a while—especially to be feted as royal guest of honor at a fabulous ball 6,000 miles from home.

That's the delightful prospect facing 17-year-old Princess Marie Cecilie of Prussia, daughter of Prince Louis Ferdinand, head of the house of Hohenzollern, and his wife, the Grand Duchess Kira of Russia.

The pretty schoolgirl will get her first look at America at the Imperial Ball in Los Angeles on Saturday night, Nov. 7.

Interviewed by transatlantic telephone shortly before her departure with her parents, Princess Cecilie giggled with excitement.

"I'm delighted to be coming to America," she said. "I want to meet a lot of American young people and see how they live and how they study.

"I want to see a football game and a basketball game, and I want to visit an American college."

The princess speaks somewhat halting English, but is ably assisted by her linguist father, who lived and worked in America for a time until he was called back to head the house of Hohenzollern after the death of his older brother, Prince Wilhelm, in 1934.

SHE'LL SEE U.S.

During the three-way telephone interview, Prince Louis Ferdinand said: "We hope to show our daughter as much of America as possible in two weeks. That is as long as she can be away from school. I hope she will meet many American young people. We certainly don't want her to stay around with the old folks all the time."

The prince said his daughter is studying sculpture, history of art and music. She is in a grade corresponding to a freshman at an American college.

Asked if he would object if the princess elected to become a career woman, her father laughed heartily.

"But no! Of course not! If she developed a real talent, and wanted to do it, I would be delighted. Of course, I hope she will get married."

★ ★ ★

What would he say if she married an American?

"I'd say bravo!"

Does the princess have dates and go to dances?

HAS FRIENDS

"Well, she has many friends. But her studies keep her very busy. She does not have much time for other things. I would say she does not have as much social life as American girls of her age. We are a little slower here."

Cecilie is a good dancer, and loves American music and records. She is more excited over her trip to America than anything that has happened so far in her brief career.

With her parents, she will fly over the North Pole, by way of Stockholm directly to Hollywood.

The Imperial Ball is an annual Los Angeles social benefit for the WAIF Division of International Social Service, headed by movie actress Jane Russell.

The international adoption service has placed more than 7,000 homeless children since its founding in 1955.

No Longer Deaf, She Aids Others

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—Mrs. Hobart C. Ramsey, who for 20 years lived in the silent world of deafness, now is devoting her life to keeping others from suffering the same affliction.

"I once made a promise to God," said the 41-year-old socialite from Short Hills, N.J. "I am trying to keep that commitment."

Mrs. Ramsey, the wife of the board chairman of the Worthington Corp., is founder and president of the Deafness Research Foundation, the first national voluntary layman's group furthering research on this major health problem.

Some 17 million Americans have impaired hearing, Mrs. Ramsey said. At least three million are children. "More people suffer from the invisible handicap than the combined total of those with cancer, heart disease, blindness, polio . . . well, the 10 major diseases," she said, in an interview at the Foundation's New York headquarters.

The foundation, financed by contribution, endowment and grant, underwrites hospital and university research, and hopes to educate the public to the need for yearly hearing tests, early diagnosis and methods of prevention and cure.

LIFE CUT OFF

Mrs. Ramsey, a native of Nashville, Tenn., said she was just turning into her teens when an abnormal bony growth in the middle ear began to impair hearing. Her father and mother had to face up to asking for a front row seat for her in the classroom, to asking teachers to talk louder when they addressed her, and to have her teachers eventually suggest she drop her courses in Spanish because the nuances of a foreign language were beyond her.

Then, she said, began "my whole career scarred with doctors"—with her parents checking out every clue they heard to a deafness cure.

Another illness which would call for a spinal operation ultimately led to restored hearing. While taking some tests at the Mayo Clinic, Rochester, Minn., she heard of Dr. Julius Lempert, a New York ear specialist who had developed the "fenestration" operation—creating a "window" to let sound waves through.

"I thought, ears first and spine second, as I hurried east," said Mrs. Ramsey.

"I don't believe in bargaining with God. But I pledged that if the Lempert operation worked, I would do all I could so that others might also hear. And I also promised that if it didn't . . . the chances were about one out of three, I also would accept deafness."

She had the operation on her right ear in 1952 . . . on her left a year later, when it started further deterioration. Both were successful, giving her what she called "practical" hearing—"it never will be perfect."

★ ★ ★

Six months after the second ear surgery, she was back in the hospital for the corrective operation on the lower spine. "I believe things have a design," she said. "I had time in the two years I was recuperating from the spinal fusion to work out details for the Foundation. I even had time to pay off an old grudge—I took Spanish lessons while I was in the hospital."

Mrs. Ramsey, a tall, striking brunette, is the mother of two daughters—Colette, 21, named for her, and Janet, 18. She had told her husband of her deafness before their marriage and said that all through the years of silence, he was her "ears"—"I would love him forever for that alone," she said.

"But you can't know what a joy it is to hear, once you have lived with deafness. "To hear rain . . . birds singing. The tenderest things have to be said softly. You can't shout 'I love you.' I missed hearing my babies cry . . . hearing their first words.

"Now I am just eternally thankful. I can't wait to get up in the morning and start listening."

Good Protein

Yogurt a Valuable Food

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Yogurt is not a new food except in its current form. It is as old as the Bible. For hundreds of years the Balkans have liked and eaten fermented milk.

These peoples have an amazingly long life span. The average age in certain communities there is as old as ours. Some years ago Dr. Ilya Metchnikoff of The Pasteur Institute in Paris became interested in the diet of these people and the cultures found in the fermented milk which played such a large part in their diet.

Dr. Metchnikoff discovered that this milk contained "friendly" bacteria or bacteria which destroy the "unfriendly" or harmful bacteria in the intestinal tract. As recently as 1950 studies at Columbia University demonstrated the potent effect of yogurt on dangerous bacteria.

Milk brings us so many health values that even on a slimming routine the adult should include two glasses of milk a day.

JUST WHAT IS IT

Readers often write to ask me just what yogurt is, what essentials it provides and what it is good for. Yogurt is made from pasteurized cow's milk. It retains all of the vitamins, calcium and phosphorous, which the pasteurized milk has. Cultures are added.

Today half of the butter fat has been removed so that a half-pint container of plain yogurt has only 120 calories while the same amount of whole milk has 160 calories. This is therefore a splendid food, not only for health but for the reducing diet.

Yogurt is important as a protein food and because of its calcium and phosphorus content. It is also more easily digested than milk. Some people who cannot drink milk can eat yogurt.

Milk brings us so many health values that even on a slimming routine the adult should include two glasses of milk a day. This should be yogurt or skim milk or powdered, fat free milk.

If you would like to have my calorie chart send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 36 to Josephine Lowman in care of this paper.

Baby Enjoys Exercise; Just Give Him a Chance

By DOROTHY V. WHIPPLE, M. D.

Have you ever watched a baby smile with his toes?

When a grownup is amused the corners of his mouth twitch, his eyes crinkle up and his whole face lights up but his body remains still. The amount of muscular activity involved is not very great. But not so a baby.

When he wants to say he likes it he smiles or laughs out loud, he throws his arms out, he straightens his legs, points his toes and just plain wiggles all over. Every muscle in his little body takes part in his expression of pleasure. The baby uses everything he's got when he doesn't like it, too. He cries and yells, not with his voice alone but with every bit of him.

★ ★ ★

This is as it should be. A baby must use all his muscles if he is to grow strong. He will do it if we give him half a chance. All he needs is a place big enough to wiggle and a reasonably appreciative audience. A baby crows with delight when he plays all alone, but he does a lot more of it when you express some enthusiasm for his activities.

WIGGLE TIME

Don't keep your baby wrapped up in snug blankets all the time. He needs quite a bit of his waking time free from hampering clothes so that he can make full use of every muscle in his body. As soon as he is awake take him out of his crib and let him wiggle to his heart's content. A blanket on the foor is all right, but a play pen is a lot safer. Never, never, put your baby on a bed or a table top and leave him for a single minute. He will turn over before you think he knows how and you'll find him on the floor and maybe he's had a nasty blown on his head.

When your babe is struggling to sit up let him pull against your finger. He will grab your hands and use every bit of power he's got to raise himself up. He is developing strength in his muscles—help him.

When he is able to sit up and to crawl don't overdo the play pen. He needs more space to explore, big hollow blocks to push about, a ball to push and then dive for.

★ ★ ★

You will have to keep him in his playpen some of the time, but try to fix up a larger area for him, too, a corner of the porch, or a streamlined corner of his own room or some other room. Make it safe, equip it with big, light things he can push and tug. He will exercise if you just give him a chance.

Headboards Provide Many New Features

Modern headboards can provide a utilitarian purpose or just add to the beauty of the bedroom or both. A homemaker can be inspired by just walking through the bedding department of her department or furniture store and viewing the various styles of headboards that are on today's market.

If it's beauty she's after, the headboards that are delicately fashioned in many styles, materials and colors will catch her eye. She will be impressed by the ultra modern headboard styles which hang on the wall over the bed, and some that even reach all the way up to the ceiling.

The utilitarian headboards, of course, are made to hold all types of "essentials" including the radio, books, reading lamps, as well as the extension telephone and clock. Some of the newer models even have arm rests for the ultimate in relaxing comfort. These practical type headboards are also made to handsomely combine with the decor of the room.

Overweight Woman Is in Danger

Although life insurance companies have long preached the maxim: "Lean Body—Longer Life," overweight women continue to waddle about talking diet and never practicing it.

They are, of course, endangering health as well as good looks. An operation or illness is far more serious with the added burden of many extra pounds.

★ ★ ★

Fatigue is another factor. For carrying overweight is exactly like lugging around a gunny sack filled with potatoes. And it's just about as graceful.

★ ★ ★

As for appearance, pounds add years. The slim person invariably looks younger than the fat one.

As for clothes, all of the prettiest clothes are designed for slim figures. And of course, the smaller sizes cost less than the large special sizes.

★ ★ ★

So, all in all, the overweight woman who puts saccharine in her coffee and then orders a gooey dessert is defeating herself.

Start Training Children Early

Most mothers like their children to change their clothes when they come home from school. If you do, start from the first day training them where to put their good school clothes. Have them put shoes where they can find them the next morning.

★ ★ ★

If the children know to put their soiled school clothes in the clothes hamper, you will not have to go to their rooms and pick them up yourself.

Brazil Nut Fruit Cake Recipe Printed Again

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

About 8 or 10 years ago when Florence Selden was Food Editor, she published the following fruit cake recipe sent in by Mrs. Dale J. Swanson. This recipe has gone all over the country for Mrs. Selden shared it with other food editors at conferences. We hear about it ever so often.

★ ★ ★

Because it is an unusual and excellent recipe, it has been published several times since. If you have lost your original copy; or if you are wondering which fruit cake recipe to try, you'll welcome this one. Our thanks, once more, to Mrs. Swanson.

BRAZIL NUT FRUIT CAKE
By Mrs. Dale J. Swanson

2 pounds pitted dates
1 pound Brazil nut meats
½ pound English walnut meats, kept whole
1 cup red and green candied cherries
1½ cups flour
1½ cups sugar
1½ teaspoons baking powder
1½ teaspoons melted butter
¼ teaspoon salt
5 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla

Fill each pitted date with a whole Brazil nut. Put fruit and nuts in bowl and add flour, sugar, salt, baking powder and butter. Add well beaten eggs and work together thoroughly.

Line tins with waxed paper (this is important). Pour in batter. Bake for one hour in 325-degree oven. Makes 2 loaves.

If you prefer, you may place nut-filled dates and candied cherries in the paper lined pans. Mix rest of ingredients as directed and pour over fruit. This gives a more uniform spacing of the fruit.

Picture Talk By Bill Nicholai

Today's Story

"How to Ride a Hobby Hard"

Surprisingly enough, we are sufficiently broad-minded to realize that there are people in this world who have hobbies other than photography.

All well and good — but we maintain this. Whether you favor woodworking, miniature railroading, hunting, fishing or what have you — a camera will help you get an extra measure of fun out of what you do for relaxation.

Here's what we mean. Say you tackle the job of refinishing some battered old furniture.

Your patient work and skill transform the wrecks into show pieces. Now, wouldn't "before" and "after" pictures of your handiwork look good tacked up over your work bench?

Or maybe you go for H. O. railroading. You painstakingly create a realistic landscape for your trains to travel through. So why not take some pictures that will fool plenty of people into thinking they are looking at a real train highballing down the tracks.

And naturally if you are a fisherman you want a picture as proof positive that you really caught a whopper up at the lake.

At this distance it's hard for us to judge what camera best suits your hobby. So why not drop in and let's talk the whole thing over.

County Couple Residing at Fort After Wedding

Residing at Fort Benning, Ga., are newlyweds Mr. and and Mrs. Thomas A. Wyatt. The bridegroom, an Army private first class, is stationed at Fort Benning.

The couple exchanged vows Wednesday in a double-ring candlelight ceremony at Trinity Methodist Church in Keego Harbor with the Rev. Robert H. Benedict officiating.

The bride, the former Janice A. Petersen, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Petersen of Hester court, Keego Harbor. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Jonathon T. Wyatt of Drayton Plains.

★ ★ ★

Of white peau de soie, the bride's gown was fashioned with a portrait neckline of Alencon lace trimmed with seed pearls, fitted tapered sleeves and a bouffant skirt decorated with appliques of Alencon lace. A large bustle bow at the back swept into a chapel train. She wore a crown of seed pearls and sequins with a fingertip veil of imported illusion net and carried a semicascade of white rosebuds, stephanotis and ivy.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. William Jameson, the bride's sister, was matron of honor wearing a colonial blue velvet ballerina length gown with matching hat and carrying a semicascade of pink roses.

★ ★ ★

William Shaw, uncle of the bridegroom, was best man. Ronald Hicks of Drayton Plains and Ellsworth Smith of Keego Harbor ushered.

Mrs. Wyatt wore a pale blue taffeta dress with royal blue accessories and a corsage of rosebuds. Mrs. Peterson's gown was beige with rust accessories, and she wore a talisman rosebud corsage.

★ ★ ★

For traveling the bride changed to a cocoa brown suit and wore the white rosebud corsage from her bouquet.

Women Don't Want Men's Understanding

By RUTH MILLETT

Memo to men: Don't try to understand a woman — especially if that woman happens to be your wife.

Women don't really want to be understood, they just think they do.

Even if they did want to be understood, no man could really understand 'em.

One reason is that women only speak their minds to other women. When they are talking to a man they are always play acting just a little. After all, they have to try to appear to be everything they think their men want them to be, don't they? So how can they afford to be themselves?

Another reason is that women on the whole would rather worry with a problem than try to find a quick and easy solution to it.

When a woman tells her troubles to a man she wants to be assured that the man understands what a bad time she is having and thinks she is wonderful. She certainly doesn't want him to give her a snappy solution that implies she hasn't any real problem at all.

Another thing, women rely to a great extent on their "feelings" about things and on their intuition. When a woman says about another woman, "I don't know why but I just don't trust her," a man's reaction is apt to be "Nonsense." And yet nine times out of 10 the woman's instinctive distrust turns out to be justified by later happenings.

But the biggest reason why men can't undersand women remains that women don't want them to. Women like to think of themselves as mysterious and deep and puzzling.

★ ★ ★

The most deflating thing a man could ever say to his wife would be, "Honey, I understand you perfectly. I can read you like a book. Nothing you ever do surprises me."

The blouse gets unusual color treatment for fall: stripes of olive green, brown and soft blue on a white ground.

Broach Co. Founder Von Reis Says:

Europe Threatening Us With Our Own Knowhow

By DICK HANSON
Suburban News Editor

The industrialist gazed out the picture window of his decorator-inspired office and wondered — how long?

How long would his multimillion dollar plant continue to hold its quiet splendor in the Avon Township countryside in the face of increasing foreign output?

How long before European competitors would be able to mass-produce him into the ground with their reduced labor costs?

They have the tools to do it — methods which he innovated, farmed out to them by his own government in Washington.

A glum prospect for a man who had the guts and ability to make a fortune the hard way — Horatio Alger-style.

Gustav von Reis, born in Goteborg, Sweden, and in business in Michigan since he founded the Detroit Broach and Machine Co. 25 years ago, is not throwing in the sponge. He is stating the problem of American industry as he sees it.

STRUGGLED FORWARD

Thirty years ago, he landed in New York, another face in a flood-tide of immigrants, little money in his pocket. His first job in this country was a lucrative one.

He quit as soon as he found out he was a part of bootleg operations. Those were prohibition days.

He got other jobs that didn't pay so well; but Gus found something else—his hands understood machines and he sensed what more could be done with them.

He heard about industrial broaching, then in its embryo stage, and studying the principle of cutting machine parts by this method, he came to realize a great potential.

In a land that was just getting the swing of mass production, he saw a miraculously fast way to carve out hard metal parts in a single, swift action.

Scraping together $5,000, he opened his own broach company in Detroit, a small shop on Beaubien street. That was in 1934.

Von Reis took two partners with him, H. R. Conner as vice president and A. Sigge Svenson, chief engineer. They are still with him.

In addition, six men were employed in the manufacture of industrial broaches. The company struggled through the rest of "the grim 30s."

LIVED ON HAMBURGERS

"Those were the days we survived on hamburgers," recalled Von Reis. (He now is able to provide his wife and daughter with a gracious home in Bloomfield Hills.)

The soundness of broaching principles carried the firm through rapid growth as more industries came to realize the time these tools could save in the manufacture of other machine parts. The company moved to larger quarters in Detroit in 1941.

But it wasn't until the United States was propelled headlong into World War II that broaches really caught on in a big way.

Even then they almost didn't. Sure these unique cutting tools invariably would slash production time in half, but who in Washington knew what an industrial broach was?

"I went down to Washington to see about getting more metal to make more broaches," said Von Reis. "The official behind the desk laughed when I mentioned it to him. He probably thought they were some kind of jewelry for machines," Von Reis chuckled later.

The man from Michigan got his point across, however. Soon his broaches were helping speed more guns, tanks, planes and all types of war material to our troops.

This country's tremendous mass production methods paid off by turning the tide of battle.

Washington called for more broaches, said Von Reis. "We were told to raise our production 200 per cent. We kept our machines running 24 hours, seven days a week to do so. And it turned the trick."

In 1951, Detroit Broach and Machine Co. took another big step. It picked up its entire operation and moved to its present rural setting on Avon road, just south of Rochester.

Designed by Sture Frolen of Stockholm, Sweden, the modern plant covers 86,000 square feet in a carefully landscaped setting.

★ ★ ★

It can produce 75 different broaching machines and is always looking for new parts to cut. Broach companies seem intent upon putting themselves out of business. For every time a new broach is perfected it is able to produce innumerable parts for its industrial buyer. The broach won't have to be replaced for a long time.

★ ★ ★

So broaches that will do new jobs of cutting for yet more parts must be created. The company's biggest broach machine weighs 50 tons complete. It is used to cut a drive gear for one of the largest diesel trucks in production.

★ ★ ★

The smallest broach being produced is small as a gem and costs as much as a diamond of comparable size.

★ ★ ★

The intricate cutting on such a small piece of steel is what pushes the cost up so high.

★ ★ ★

These broaches are shipped in small velvet lined cases so designed as not to lose their precious cargo.

The real marvel in broaching is that it can slash the time needed to cut parts from minutes to seconds. The huge broaching machines send the hard steel broaches slamming into the metal to be cut.

The broach itself resembles a round, slightly tapered file. As it descends through the metal it takes an ever bigger bite until the largest end of the broach clears the metal, leaving the finished cut. The part is then ready to be put into use whether for typewriters or jet engines.

★ ★ ★

Mechanical parts that can be broached faster than they can be produced by other methods stretch in a seemingly unending line.

GERMANS LACKED THEM

After the war, Von Reis was dispatched by the U. S. government to tour German war plants and see how far along they might be with broaching production methods.

Von Reis was amazed to find they had virtually none. No wonder we beat them, he said.

But today, it's a different story. The United States has poured its technical knowhow into building up Germany and other European countries.

★ ★ ★

Even Russia has caught on by now. "They're probably at least equal to us in this field today," said Von Reis.

"This means we have lost our edge in the world market created by our ability to mass produce. It means other countries no longer must rely on time-consuming, hand methods for a small part of the market.

"Today they are after the big chunks. And, with labor costs much lower than ours, they can sell at as much as four times less than we can."

If the import gates of this country remain open to European countries once they really get rolling, it seems certain that a lot of American firms will be wiped out on their home ground—unable to meet foreign competition right here in this country.

It's like Frankenstein. We created it. Will it come to devour us before long?

GIANTS OF INDUSTRY — Going over specifications for "Big Boy," largest broach ever built by Detroit Broach and Machine Co., Avon Township, are the president of the multimillion dollar firm, Gustav von Reis at right and Executive Vice President H. R. Conner. The huge broach, weighing 1,100 pounds, is in the foreground. Behind the executives is the mammoth broaching machine that operates "Big Boy." It weighs 50 tons. The broach is used to cut a two-speed, diesel truck drive gear from a solid piece of metal in one pass. It reduces the production time on the gear from 44.8 minutes to one-seventh of a minute.

Addison Twp. OK's Rezoning

Rezoning Request Refused

Court to Get Drag Strip Case

WHITE LAKE TOWNSHIP—The heated battle of the drag strip here is headed for Oakland County Circuit Court.

★ ★ ★

Co-owners of Pontiac Speedway auto race track on M59 Robert Amos and Frank McDonald were refused a rezoning request yesterday by the Township Board of Appeals. Rezoning would have made the drag strip possible.

Construction of the strip at the race track already had been started. Amos said he and his partner already have $59,000 invested in it.

Amos announced yesterday that his attorney, Clarence Smith, has been instructed to file suit in Circuit Court against the Township Board. The Board had turned down the request to have 15 acres adjacent to the race track rezoned from agricultural to commercial to permit construction.

★ ★ ★

The drag strip was begun last July, Amos said, and the first three-quarters is part of the race track already there.

SAFETY FACTOR CITED

However, when he neared completion, Amos said, he saw that he would need at least 15 acres so that cars, after finishing the race, could safely return by making a complete U-turn.

★ ★ ★

This safety section, said Amos, has been causing him all the trouble.

Amos said that when the township found he was continuing into property zoned for agriculture they filed suit in Circuit Court and got a restraining order preventing further construction of the drag strip.

He said that besides the $59,000 he has spent in its construction, he would spend another $40,000 if it is completed.

"My partner and I are extremely disappointed in the decision of the Board of Appeals," Amos said, "but I think a court case will clear up the problem once and for all."

★ ★ ★

Amos said he has not received official notice of the denial but is expecting it in the mail today.

However, he said, he had talked to Donald Cavin, chairman of the Board of Appeals, by phone.

★ ★ ★

He said Cavin told him the request had been denied because property values in the area around the track would depreciate should a strip be built.

★ ★ ★

Another reason given, Amos said, was that a church is planned across the street from the drag strip area.

★ ★ ★

Cavin said yesterday an official statement on the reasons for denial will be ready in a couple of days.

Soil Bank Applications Double Acreage Goal

WASHINGTON (AP)—A lot of Michigan farmers who want to place acreage in the Soil Bank Conservation Reserve next year are going to be disappointed.

An Agriculture Department tabulation shows 4,489 applications from Michigan offering to place a total of 320,521 acres of cropland in the reserve.

This is considerably more than twice the 1960 acreage goal for Michigan—141,000 acres.

The picture is about the same nationwide. The department said more than 9½ million acres were offered for the reserve before the Oct. 16 deadline. The national 1960 goal is about 5,100,000 acres.

Farmers participating in the program withdraw their land from production for periods of up to 10 years. They receive annual rental payments and the government shares the cost of devoting the acreage to conservation purposes.

A spokesman said the department now expects to be able to accept a somewhat higher acreage than the original goal, but many farmers still won't qualify for contracts.

Those who won't make it will be the farmers who set too high a price on their land. Lowest bids will be accepted first until the money is gone.

The Michigan allocation for 1960 signups totals $2,115,000 calculated on a basic acreage rate of $15. The national basic acreage rate is $13.50.

★ ★ ★

Farmers who want to participate in the program do not necessarily get $15 an acre, however.

County ASC committees set a basic rate for each farm. The farm owner then decides what percentage of this rate he will accept to withdraw the land from production.

The lower the percentage the better his chances, since the lowest bids will be accepted first.

Michigan's 1960 acceptances are expected to total more than the 141,000-acre goal, since acceptance of lower bids will permit more acreage to be acquired.

Since the program began in 1956, Michigan farmers have signed 8,846 contracts withdrawing a total of 508,454 acres from production.

Groups to Study School Needs

Rochester's Board of Education Calls Two Citizen-Faculty Confabs

ROCHESTER — Two groups of faculty members and citizens have been invited by the Rochester Board of Education to study school expansion needs in the district.

Meeting at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow in room 110 at Harrison Central Elementary School are those concerned with plans for a new grade school to be located on the 10-acre site recently donated by Howard L. McGregor and Howard L. McGregor Jr.

Room 213 at the Junior High School will be the scene of a similar meeting for junior high parents and school personnel at 8 p.m. next Monday.

Principal speaker at both sessions will be Board of Education President Henry Purdy.

He will list the needs at the two schools and ask cooperation in planning the expansion program.

If those at both meetings decide they want to proceed as study groups, they will be encouraged to organize and elect a chairman and secretary.

Both committees may be expanded by the addition of other citizens, according to Superintendent of Schools Donald C. Baldwin.

There will be eight faculty members in both study groups, and 11 citizens have been invited to work on the elementary school program and 28 on junior high expansion plans.

Paves the Way for Monastery

New Industrial Plant Also Given Go-Ahead by Approval of Change

ADDISON TOWNSHIP — The final step toward the location of a monastery and a new industrial plant in the township was taken last night when the Township Board approved both rezoning requests.

The Board okayed the rezoning of the John B. L. Cote property on E. Drahner road from "suburban farms" classification to "public or institutional" for the monastery.

According to present plans, Benedictine Fathers from Detroit propose to erect a monastery on the Cote property, using the present buildings for the housing and education of priests and novices.

The application for rezoning of 40 acres of a 157 parcel on Lake George road from "agriculture" to "light manufacturing" was made by Ferndale manufacturer, Charles A. Pelizzari.

★ ★ ★

He plans to build a plant to house the three companies in which he has interests, merging them and locating them under one roof.

The three companies are: ROW Sales, a window manufacturing firm which has about 10 employes, Hardware Springs with 60 employes making auto parts and weather stripping and Sash-Controls with 10 employes who make awning hardware.

The passage of the two rezoning requests closely follows favorable action taken by the Township Zoning Board last week climaxing a series of hearings on the Pelizzari request which was withdrawn after one session, then submitted again after 300 signed petitions were presented favoring the application.

★ ★ ★

The two proposals were approved by the Oakland County Planning Commission before the Township Board gave its final okay last night, according to Township Supervisor Frank Webber.

The only step that could block the two petitioners from proceeding with their plans now is court action, Webber said.

19 Counties Problem Areas

Dairy Cattle TB Rises

LANSING (AP) — An increase in tuberculosis in Michigan dairy herds is reported by George S. McIntyre, director of the State Department of Agriculture.

During the past year, he said, one out of every 66 head tested was found to be infected. Nineteen counties now are classed as problem areas for the disease, he added.

At Michigan State University, the college of veterinary medicine has undertaken the first major research against cattle TB in several decades in an attempt to reverse the trend.

McIntyre estimated 25,000 people are in contact with infected herds but had no figure on how many might have contacted the disease.

Pasteurization of milk from infected animals makes it safe to drink, he added.

McIntyre attributed the increase to unrestricted transportation of infected animals and the mistaken belief that bovine TB is no longer a problem.

Polio Clinic Friday for Gingellville Area

GINGELLVILLE — A polio clinic for the Proper, Weber and Carpenter schools will be held from 9 a.m. to noon and 6 to 9 p.m. Friday at Proper School here.

★ ★ ★

In addition to polio inoculations, the three-in-one tetanus, diphtheria and whooping cough shots will be administered.

The three-in-one and polio shots will cost one dollar each.

★ ★ ★

Dr. W. W. Oliphant and Dr. E. Arthur Calkins will be the attending physicians.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Norvel Wagner is health chairman for the clinics. Another is planned for the three schools at Proper School on Dec. 9.

New Clarkston High School Being Winterized

CLARKSTON — The $2,500,000 Clarkston High School now under construction is being "winterized," according to school Superintendent Dr. L. F. Greene.

★ ★ ★

Workmen are racing against time to get the school enclosed and the mechanical and electrical systems into operation before the cold weather sets in, he said.

About 60 per cent of the work has been completed. Walls of all six units are up and the glass windows are being installed this week.

"We expect to be able to heat the school for inside finishing work by Dec. 1," he said.

★ ★ ★

A bond issue was approved by voters at a special election last May, making possible the construction of one of Oakland County's finest high schools. Designed to accommodate 1,000 students in grades 10 through 12, the 30-room high school is expected to be ready for operation next September.

State Schedules Inventory of All Highway Signs

LANSING (AP) — The first count of signs on Michigan trunklines is planned by the Highway Department.

The department estimated it has 400,000 signs on the 9,400 miles of state trunklines — more than 40 to a mile — but said the figure could be off by 50,000.

The more than 300 types of signs cost from $7.50 for route markers to $6,000 for large overhead signs and are valued between eight and 10 million dollars.

The inventory, which will take several years to complete, is expected to save state money.

The department will be able to determine if a sign is up to standard from a master map and to answer queries on signs without a field check.

Smart PTA Schedules Potluck Supper Meeting

WALLED LAKE — A potluck supper sponsored by the Clifford H. Smart Junior High School PTA for parents and teachers will be served Thursday between 6:30 and 7:30 p.m. in the school cafeteria.

The program will include an explanation by Principal Murray L. Adams of the rules governing social events of the school. Teachers who sponsor the various social clubs will give a short talk on their purpose and activities.

At Rochester Church

Holiday Bazaar Thursday

ROCHESTER — A traditional holiday bazaar titled "The Christmas Story" will be staged Thursday by the women of St. Philip's Episcopal Church here.

The doors in the church's new school wing will be open from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. for the event.

The Christmas decor has been designed and executed by Mrs. Gene E. F. Shaw with assistance from the Senior Girls' Friendly Society.

Activities sponsored by individual churchwomen will include a parking spot for youngsters, a makeup booth, a sugar-plum lollipop tree and a tearoom featuring homemade sandwiches and cupcakes.

★ ★ ★

The "Holly Wreath" will feature dried arrangements for home decoration during the holiday season. A special "first" for St. Philips will be "The Esquire Room" where shopping value for males from 16 to 60 will be offered.

"The Inn Kitchen" will open at 11 a.m. and will feature several luncheon platters prepared by Mrs. George W. Akers, Mrs. Florence Hoyt and Mrs. H. A. Mitzelfeld.

Jams, jellies, fruit cakes, candy and many home-baked delicacies will be found at "The Cooky Tree" under the direction of Mrs. Wilfred O. Loeffelbein. Mrs. George Crane has charge of the pecan sale.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. William Manning is chairman of the "Jewel Box" where knitted articles for children and babies, hand-dressed dolls and stuffed animals will be among the items to be sold.

Mrs. George Goble is general chairman of the bazaar assisted by Mrs. Russell W. Nowels and Mrs. Harry O. Lang as executive advisory chairmen.

★ ★ ★

The proceeds will be used mainly to provide equipment for the new kitchen and educational units of the church.

Three Rivers Residents Electing Mayor Today

THREE RIVERS (UPI) — Three Rivers residents went to the polls today to elect a new mayor and two city commissioners.

★ ★ ★

Incumbent Mayor Samuel M. Smith is seeking a third two-year term and is opposed by F. Robert Jubb, who is making his first try for public office.

★ ★ ★

Commisioners Glen Detwiler of the first ward and Clifford Wellington of the third ward are unopposed in their bids for another two-year term.

Police Find Gunman Sought Since March

ROYAL OAK TOWNSHIP — A crazed man with a gun who was sought on a charge of assault with intent to murder since last March has been arrested by township police.

Anthony D. Watson, 26, of Detroit will be examined here Nov. 12 before Justice Lonnie Cash.

Watson is accused of attempting to shoot Delores Madden, 22, of 20868 Pasadena Apartments on March 29 in a friend's home at 10763 Dunlop Ct.

The woman told township police that, during a love-spat, Watson smashed her on the head with the gun after trying several times to shoot her. The gun failed to fire, she said.

When arraigned Saturday before Cash, Watson pleaded not guilty. He was unable to meet the $2,000 bond set and is being held in Oakland County Jail.

JUDITH KATRINA GARLITZ

Judith Katrina Garlitz and Daniel L. Miller are planning to wed in February. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Garlitz of 5030 Virginia Lane, Orchard Lake and he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Miller of 2112 Cass Lake Rd., Keego Harbor.

ROSE MARY CHOWEN

A Nov. 25 wedding date has been set by Rose Mary Chowen and Ronald Meneghel of Clawson. Their engagement is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Chowen of 1309 Decker Rd., Walled Lake.

Developers Will Hear Airman's Illustrated Talk

DRYDEN—Guest speaker at the next meeting of the Dryden Area Development Assn. Thursday evening will be Richard Kirkbride of Imlay City. He will give an illustrated talk describing his travels and experiences in Portugal, Spain and Germany during the summer of 1958.

A student at Flint Junior College, Kirkbride is one of four cadet majors in the Civil Air Patrol of Michigan. He belongs to the National Cadet Advisory Board and received a flight scholarship.

Kirkbride was a guest of the Portuguese Air Force in the sumbers of 1958, during which time he received a pilot's license from the Portuguese government.

★ ★ ★

The meeting will be in the Ladies Library Hall here. Dinner will be served by ladies of the Library Assn. at 7 p.m.

Also on the agenda is a discussion of installation of lights on the high school athletic field with a representative of the Detroit Edison Co.

Extension Agent Gets Conservation Position

LANSING (AP) — Robert E. Braden of Bad Axe today was named state administrative officer of the Michigan Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, an agency of the U.S. Agriculture Department.

Thatcher Is Seeking County Road Post

For a chance to be county road commissioner, Hiland M. Thatcher is willing to relinquish his 11-year West Bloomfield Township supervisor's position and possible elevation someday as chairman of the Oakland County Board of Supervisors.

Thatcher, 69, today officially made it known that he is a candidate for the unexpired term of Lee O. Brooks, who's resignation is expected to be accepted when supervisors meet next month. At the same time a successor will be named.

By tossing his hat into the race, which is taking on all the aspects of a major political contest, Thatcher becomes the second person who has shown interest in the $7,500 job.

Former Ferndale supervisor Clayton G. Lilly, a Democrat, announced his candidacy last week. He sent letters to all supervisors seeking their support.

RESIGNATION A SURPRISE

Brooks, appointed to the three-member Board of Road Commissioners in 1937, last month surprised many by submitting his resignation. He gave ill health as his reason.

However, supervisors at their Oct. 26 session didn't learn about the resignation since it was not made a part of the regular agenda.

Thatcher is a Republican although he is elected on an independent Citizens Party ticket in his township. Last year, along with Chairman Delos Hamlin, he was re-elected to an unprecedented third two-year term as vice chairman of the 83-member Board of Supervisors.

In announcing his candidacy for the road post, he said he probably would submit his resignation to the West Bloomfield Board of Trustees after Dec. 1 and before the supervisors meet.

Supervisors are not eligible to become road commissioners.

He was first appointed supervisor in 1948 and re-elected six times later.

He has served on the Roads Committee of the Board and was first chairman of the Inter-County Highway Commission in 1956-57. Today he is a member of the powerful Ways and Means Committee and secretary of the Board of Public Works.

★ ★ ★

"I've been vitally interested in the work of the Road Commission for years," Thatcher said.

The fulltime supervisor said he would be taking a pay cut should he win the road position.

Upon learning that Thatcher was in the race, the 40-year-old Lilly, in the grocery and gas station business, said he still intends to bid for the post. "I'm not going to back out now," he said.

★ ★ ★

Lilly said at one time he had been reluctant to try for it knowing Thatcher might be a candidate, but some friends convinced him to stay in the campaign.

"I WAS INVOLVED IN A DECEPTION"—Charles Van Doren, his boyish face drawn, presented these studies Monday as he told congressional investigators all about "being deeply involved in a deception" — his participation in a rigged TV quiz show. Van Doren admitted he followed a script, was coached on mannerisms and, later, gave false information to a grand jury studying quiz programs.

Had $50,000 Left After Taxes

Van Doren Wishes He Could Return His Winnings

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Charles Van Doren told reporters today he wished he could return the $129,000 he won in rigged TV appearances but most of it is gone.

Following his appearance before a House subcommittee, Van Doren was asked by newsmen if he feels he won the money dishonestly.

"I don't feel I won it honestly," he explained.

"Do you feel any moral obligation to return the money?" they asked.

"I wish I could," he answered.

"Do you have any plans to return any of the money?"

"I have no plans."

"Is any of it left?"

"Not as much as you might think. Remember the taxes. Most of it's gone."

★ ★ ★

Van Doren said "I feel better than I have in three years" — the time since he appeared on the now defunct TV quiz "21."

He said he had no plans except to return to New York and sleep—something he said he hadn't done in the past three weeks.

Van Doren was able to retain between $50,000 and $55,000 of his $129,000 winnings on "Twenty-One." His marriage in April 1957, enabled him to save about $20,000 in income taxes.

Van Doren was a bachelor when he took part in the quiz program. After he was defeated, it was figured that the federal government and New York state would subtract about $100,000 from his winnings.

After returning from his honeymoon with the former Geraldine Ann Berstein, Van Doren said that a joint tax return would enable him to realize about $20,000 more from his winnings.

Movies Smell Up Theater; Description, Not Opinion

By DOC QUIGG

NEW YORK (UPI) — The "Battle of the Smelling Pictures"—a race between to movie producers with different systems of assaulting the national nostril — has rounded the last turn and headed into what some misanthropes might call the home stench.

First we had the silent movies. Then the talkies (Garbo talks!). Come December, the smellies will be here (Monroe wafts?). The aromas, like the sounds, are cued to the action. Theaters will be ripe in sound, fury and whiffery.

Walter Reade Jr., son of a theater pioneer, on Dec. 2 opens at the Mayfair Theater in New York a movie doused in a scent process called Aromarama, with 72 odor cues ("you've got to breathe it to believe it").

Mike Todd Jr., son of the late show-business mogul, on Dec. 22 opened at the Cinestage Theater in Chicago a movie exhaling a process dubbed, by his press agent, "glorious smell-o-vision!" Todd has trade-marked the term smell-o-vision!, including the exclamation point.

Reade thus has made reality of the rumor that he was out to beat Todd into the film fragrance field. He seems to have done it, if only by 20 days. However, Reade's smell system is superimposed on a previously made movie — a semi-documentary about China called "Behing the Great Wall" that won two grand prizes at Brussels last year.

Todd's smell system is the center of his plot. As the great Mosque of St. Sofia is said by architects to be built on light, so is Todd's film built on scent. Written specially for odor, and filmed completely on location in Spain, it's about a young British tourist to that country who "turns detective when he scents a murder plot."

The Todd vehicle is called "Scent of Mystery." The only two real clues the hero has to work with are the perfume of the girl in the case and the smell of the pipe tobacco the villain uses. The film is billed as a comedy-mystery. Its 40 different odors will introduce, for the first time, movie "whiff-gags," in which a scent triggers the laughter.

★ ★ ★

Reade calls his Aromarama "the most exciting innovation that has come along since sound." He adds: "just as you prepare a score for a film, we will prepare fragrances. The public will tell us whether it's boxoffice or not —we think it is."

The Aromarama fragrances—all are said to be pleasant or at least, neuter — will be loosed through the theater's air distributing system, being automatically cued at the projector. An electronic air purifier will remove them immediately.

Reade said he intends to make other pictures for his system. He said a theater should be able to install Aromarama equipment for $7,500 and that eventually he expected to reduce the cost to $3,500.

The Todd movie is shot on film containing eight sound channels, for eight separate loudspeakers, and one smell channel where a smell signal is implanted at a distance before each smell. The electric signal triggers a huge dispensing machine, a sort of smell brain.

Todd's dispensing system is closed circuit direct to you. It squirts to your twitching nose nerves from a tiny plastic tube on the seat back that's in front of you, having been piped from the machine. Fifty machines, plus tubes, are now being constructed for theaters.

★ ★ ★

Well, these gentlemen having put in their two scents worth for movies, will TV eventually go smellie? Where will it all end? Heaven, if you'll pardon an organic pun, nose.

Ike Expresses Sympathy to Mexicans in Disaster

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Eisenhower has written the president of Mexico expressing "heartfelt sympathy" to the Mexican people suffering from cyclone, flood and landslides.

In an exchange of letters made public today, the President wrote Mexican President Adolfo Lopez Mateos that the U.S. government "stands ready to cooperate in any manner it can in alleviating the hardships now being borne by the citizens of Mexico."

Arabs Will Pay for Dam Land

Sudan Agrees to Take Lesser Price; Soviets Aid on Aswan Project

CAIRO (UPI) — The United Arab Republic will pay Sudan 15 million pounds — 42 million dollars—for Sudanese lands in the Wadi Halfa area that will be flooded by the Aswan high dam, the newspaper Al Ahram reported today.

★ ★ ★

The paper said the U.A.R. and her southern neighbor also have agreed that Sudan will get almost two-thirds of the Nile River water which the huge dam in southern Egypt will keep from flowing to waste in the Mediterranean.

The reported agreement removes the last major obstacle to the start of work on the Aswan dam. Sudan in turn has been unable to get a world bank loan for her proposed Roseires dam until her differences with the U.A.R. were settled.

The water reserve behind the dam, Al Ahram said, will flood a vast area extending more than 227 miles behind the dam, or about 100 miles into Sudanese territory.

★ ★ ★

Al Ahram said Sudan originally demanded $100,800,000 for the land to be flooded, while the U.A.R. offered $25,200,000. A compromise was reached after President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the U.A.R. intervened.

★ ★ ★

The report added that the two neighbors had reached a trade agreement providing for a total annual exchange of $31,570,000 worth of products.

Construction is scheduled to start early next year on the first stage of the high dam, which is being built with Soviet technical and financial help.

Adds Tenseness by Flouting Red China Edict

Nehru Strengthening 'Forbidden' Areas

(UPI correspondent Ajit Das has just completed a weeklong tour of the Sino-Indian frontier, scene of recent clashes between Indian and Chinese Communist forces.)

By AJIT DAS

DARJEELING, India (UPI)—The Indian army is strengthening its defense setup along the frontier with Communist China, including areas "forbidden" by the Peiping government. The move injects a new seriousness into the tense situation.

(Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru has told a meeting in New Delhi that Red China is acting "in the arrogance of might" and said, "We will not tolerate border violations." He appealed for coolness, called for negotiations to settle the disputes and then pledged if Red China uses force "we will defend our border at all costs.")

This correspondent toured border areas during the past week and found the Indian army taking over details of border guarding carried out in the past by border police. Seventeen border police were killed or captured by the Communists in a clash in the Ladakh sector of the state of Jammu and Kashmir on Oct. 21.

The army already has taken over guard duties along the border of the North East Frontier Agency in Assam, the area just south of Tibet although the Chinese Communists still occupy the border outpost of Longju there. The troops are close to each other but there has been no clash.

The more serious situation was in Ladakh where the Chinese Communists warned in an Oct. 26 note to New Delhi that they will make a "fresh entry" south of the MacMahon line if the Indian army enters Ladakh areas claimed by the Communists.

(The MacMahon line of 1914 defines the Chinese - Indian - Tibetan border.)

SEE ARMY CONTROL

Reliable border reports said the government of India had sent the army a directive ordering it to replace police patrols in Ladakh immediately as they did in the Assam area of northeastern India. This would complete army control over border areas.

The nervous populations of Bhutan and Sikkim, both tiny Himalayan countries under India's protection, meanwhile were demanding Indian army troops to reinforce their small, ill-equipped border guards who are opposed a few miles away by modern Chinese Communist armies.

Government officials in Sikkim told me the Chinese Communists violated the border in September and entered North Sikkim through Kongra-la pass up to Lake Gayum Chona. They later withdrew but the population is still extremely nervous.

The Communists also moved into eastern Sikkim in October, making several "visits" to Nathula, terminus of the 34-mile Gangtok-Tibet road which Nehru opened in September 1958.

Sikkim Crown Prince Maharajkumar Palden Thondup Namgyal spent the past week in New Delhi consulting Indian officials on further protection while in Sikkim itself near panic gripped the population. Officials openly asked for Indian troop protection.

★ ★ ★

Officials said a similar situation existed in nearby Bhutan where reports said the Chinese were building nearby airbases with slave labor and massing troops near the border.

COMING EVENTS CAST SHADOWS — Jawaharlal Nehru, prime minister and revered leader of 400 million Indians, presents a characteristic picture of solitary meditation as he nears his 70th birthday amid mounting political and military problems. Red China's seizures of Indian border territories and threats of a political split in the National Congress overshadow his birthday celebration Nov. 14.

Fisher, RCA Part; Sets Up Own Recording Firm

NEW YORK (UPI) — Singer Eddie Fisher is setting up his own recording company.

Fisher announced he has left RCA Victor records after 10 years to form Ramrod Records, Inc. He said the new company would feature his own records as well as those of several other name performers and rising new performers.

In a statement issued by his press agent Fisher said he had asked for and received a release from RCA Victor even though his contract still had several years to run. He said the only reason he quit was his desire to form his own firm.

Broadway Gets 1st Big Splashy Revue

By WILLIAM GLOVER
AP Drama Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Broadway's new theatrical season, already remarkable for variety and quality, now has its first big and splashy revue in the boxoffice sweepstakes with "The Boys Against the Girls."

★ ★ ★

Teaming comic stars Nacy Walker and Bert Lahr in their first joint White Way assignment, the frolicsome romp opened Monday night at the Alvin Theater.

The show is built around the old battle of the sexes, domestic, romantic and social, and provides the stellar pair a laugh-packed workout in skit, pantomine and song.

★ ★ ★

The raucous romp is embellished with some bright supporting players, youthfully skillful dancers and the kind of chorus line Ziegfield made famous.

Shelley Berman, of the night club circuit, and Dick Van Dyke, fresh to Broadway from TV, are the standout assistants in the Walker-Lahr fun parade.

Soft Soap Mom? Not This Dad! Hits Her Instead

DETROIT (UPI)—A father who says he believes in the literal meaning of the challenge "trick or treat" faces a court sentence for hitting a woman whose windows his son soaped.

★ ★ ★

Lewis Rawls, 32, was found guilty in recorders court yesterday of cutting Mrs. Alpha Overton, a restaurant owner who told police she was out of treats when Rawls' 9-year-old son showed up Saturday night.

Mrs. Overton told police she chased the boy because he soaped her window as he left empty-handed. She said Rawls, who was waiting in his car, followed her into the restaurant and struck her.

★ ★ ★

"I don't see anything wrong with my boy soaping that window," police quoted Rawls as saying. "After all, if you don't treat you get tricked."

Rawls will be sentenced Nov. 12 for assault and battery.

Machinery Levy Eyed by Legislators

Look to Farmers in Tax Tangle

LANSING (UPI) — Eyes of some Michigan legislators are again looking toward farmers as a partial way out of the state's money troubles.

The problem is that Michigan doesn't have nearly enough revenue to meet past, present and future bills. Many possibilities are available to lawmakers on ways to jack up the state's revenues but all find some opposition.

Quite possibly the one or ones meeting the least opposition will be the methods getting the legislative nod.

There is an idea that seven or eight million dollars a year could be brought into state coffers if the sales tax exemption were removed from purchases of farm machinery.

★ ★ ★

Some lawmakers would just as soon see such a move made into law but it doesn't appear likely it will happen.

Opposition to the move is strong. Many legislators come from farming areas and a vote for removal of the exemption, they think, would be death at the polls in the 1960 election.

The farm lobby is strong. Organized farm groups are in close contact with legislators, both at home and in Lansing.

This is the case with other groups also, especially during this time when so many varied tax possibilities are being considered and could spring into law almost immediately.

Those arguing for extension of the tax to farm machinery say farmers should have to pay on their purchases just as do other groups.

However, industrial processing machinery is exempt also and ideas advanced so far to remove the farm machinery exemption are coupled with similar suggestions on industrial processing equipment.

To pass one without the other would be difficult. To pass them together would be perhaps more difficult because strong opposition from farm and industry groups be teamed to fight such moves.

★ ★ ★

Farm spokesmen argue that most farmers operate on a low margin of profit and to hit them with the tax would make a deep cut into that narrow margin and be a heavy blow to agriculture.

FARMERS PAY

On the same side it is also claimed farmers pay a large cost of supporting local government, including the county, township and schools.

Stanley Powell, lobbyist for the Michigan Farm Bureau, put it this way:

"These (farm machinery) exemptions were written into the sales tax and use tax laws to avoid double taxation.

★ ★ ★

"The principle involved is that this tax should be applied only once.

"If something is used in the production of an article which is to be sold subject to the tax, that equipment or supply should not be taxed."

EMPLOYMENT FEVER CHART — Some 66.3 million Americans were working at jobs as the calendar swung into fall, reports the U. S. Department of Labor. The figure dropped by 900,000 in September as large numbers of students and summer workers left the labor force. Total unemployment was 3.2 million, nearly 900,000 below the same month last year. Chart above traces past 10-year history of U. S. employment, showing an uneven, but steady, rise. "Actual" line shows total employment at any one time; "seasonally adjusted" line takes into account normal seasonal fluctuations in the labor force.

Bostonians Go to Polls to Elect New Mayor

BOSTON (AP) Boston voters decide today whether their new mayor will be John E. Powers, president of the Massachusetts Senate, or John F. Collins, Suffolk County register of probate.

Both are Democrats but the election is non - partisan. Each seeks the seat being vacated by Mayor John B. Hynes, retiring after 10 years in office.

Collins highlighted his campaign by emphasizing his belief in a state sales tax to lower Boston's real estate tax of $101.20 per $1,000 valuation.

Sen. Powers opposes the sales tax, saying the city's financial problems can be solved by economy in operation of city departments.

Federal Agents Rush to Florida Airfields

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—In an attempt to stop illegal flights from Florida to Cuba, federal agents has fanned out over the state's 200 small airfields.

"We've got a few ideas—a few tricks in the bag," said James F. Green, assistant commissioner in charge of the border patrol.

The Justice Department, at the request of President Eisenhower, beefed up its border patrol force in Florida.

Among the airfields visited by the agents Monday was one at Pompano Beach, the jumping off spot two weeks ago for a leaflet-dropping mission to Cuba.

Senate Battle On in New Jersey

Vote Also May Decide if Gov. Meyner Will Run for U.S. Senate

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Three statewide referenda and a strong Democratic bid to capture all branches of the state government highlight today's election in New Jersey.

If the Democrats are successful, it will be the first time since 1914 they've had New Jersey so completely under control.

The Republicans are determined not to let this happen. They are making a vigorous effort to retain control of the state senate, which they now dominate 12-7. The Democrats control the Assembly, 41-17.

★ ★ ★

The contest could play an important part in the political future of Gov. Robert B. Meyner.

Some political observers believe Meyner, who has been mentioned as a possibility for the 1960 Democratic presidential nomination, will run for the U.S. Senate if the New Jersey State Senate goes to his party.

For the average voter the three referenda perhaps are of more interest than party politics.

★ ★ ★

One issue is the turnpike-transit plan, which has the full endorsement of the governor. It seeks to take surplus funds from the New Jersey Turnpike and apply them to struggling commuter transportation facilities — namely, the railroads.

★ ★ ★

Another referenda deals with the $66,800,000 bond issue which calls for the construction of new buildings at public colleges in the state.

A third referendum deals with legalizing games of skill or change that once prevailed at amusement parks and boardwalks.

You Can't Know How I Feel'

Pilot So Regretful Over Crash

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—The pilot of a jet fighter that slammed into a house and killed two children says "If I were blessed with foresight, I might have ridden it into the ground."

"You can't know how I feel about the aircraft going into a house," the pilot said after the crash Monday.

★ ★ ★

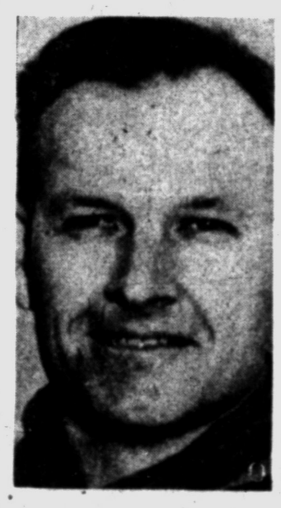
The pilot, Maj. James Bradbury, 34, the father of a small daughter, bailed out of his plane.

But Air Force officials said he did all he could, staying with the supersonic F104 Starfighter — which had an explosion and lost power—until it was out of control and 500 feet below recommended minimum bail-out altitude.

They arranged to fly Grace Shoup, 34, mother of the two little victims, to a Texas military medical center specializing in burn treatment today.

★ ★ ★

She ran screaming from the burning building, a converted brick school, with her clothes on fire. Clyde Allen, a neighbor, grabbed a blanket from his house, wrapped Mrs. Shoup in it and smothered the flames.



MAJ. JAMES BRADBURY

★ ★ ★

The house, in rural Green County near the Dayton suburb of Kettering, was destroyed. Mrs. Shoup's daughters, Lori Ann, 2, and Lynne Marie, 12, were killed. Lynne was home because her overcrowded school has half-day sessions.

Two other children, Billy, 10, and Tommy, 8, were in school. Mrs. Shoup's husband John was at work at the National Cash Register Co. in Dayton.

Mrs. Shoup was rushed to Miami Valley Hospital in critical condition.

Bradbury landed a half-mile north of the crash scene. He was not hurt.

The "Jones to Rome" fund has started to mushroom.

Couple months ago in this column, it was mentioned that Pontiac is almost certain to have its native son Hayes Jones as a sure representative in the 1960 Olympics.

The community liked the thought. In fact citizens in Pontiac also liked the idea that Hayes could be Pontiac's first gold medal winner in the Olympiad and sought to give his chances for victory a psychological assist.

It was noted that when Hayes started his track career, his greatest days were when his parents were spectators at the events.

The psychology thus became: If we want Jones to win, let's have his parents right there in Rome.

The City Commission appointed H. Guy Moats and Rev. Alan J. Parker to head the "Jones to Rome" fund as dollars started to roll in. Now the total has reached nearly $400.

★ ★ ★

Organizations got on the bandwagon. Sizeable contributions came from Downtown Kiwanis and Neapolitan Club. Others are considering similar moves by means of membership assessments or club treasury donations.

A contribution to note was the dollar which came from Frank Potts, the track coach at the University of Colorado. Potts was coach of the American track team against the Russians in the meet in which Jones scored a great hurdles victory against his closest competitor, Lee Calhoun.

Former Pontiac mayor Bill Donaldson, an ex-gridder and alumnus of Colorado, noted a story in the Alumni news of the school about Potts and his American team, and he immediately dropped a note to the coach telling him what the community was trying to do for Hayes.

★ ★ ★

Potts replied with a dollar and a tribute to Hayes as a "gentleman and a great athlete, a fine representative of the city and most deserving of what Pontiac is trying to do for him."

Donaldson, who sees the "Jones to Rome" drive as a tremendous counter to Commie propaganda of race prejudices, has even donated one of his prized possessions toward building the fund.

A football he received from Pontiac Central last year, the day the Chiefs whipped Wyandotte "for him" on his day of resignation as mayor will be given in a pick-from-the-hat drawing of all names listed among the donors.

★ ★ ★

The Olympics are a year away, but all reports from Rome say lodgings are at a premium, and so all reservations for "Ma and Pa Jones" have to be made very soon.

The "Jones to Rome" address is Box 333, Pontiac and if for some unfortunate reason Hayes doesn't make the trip, the United Fund will gain its benefit.

Hayes is eagerly awaiting the Olympic trails next spring. Pontiac can now give him that psychological boost.

Pontiac Press Photo

A "PASS" FOR FUND — There's a new move under way to aid the "Jones to Rome" fund. Rev. Allen Parker, fund trustee (right) is poised to take the football with which PCH won a game, then presented it to the "passer," Bill Donaldson. The ball will go to some donor, after a round of area community groups, with the above pair doing the running and passing. The fund will send parents of great hurdler Hayes Jones to back the Pontiac boy in Olympic competition, in 1960. Contributions may be addressed to PO Box 333, Pontiac, Mich., for the Jones Olympic Fund.

Win Over Ole Miss Keeps Top Spot

LSU Is Still No. 1

By The Associated Press

This is the week of decision for the big boys who rank high in the football poll. Louisiana State, Northwestern, Syracuse and Penn State should know if they can hope to go all the way by Saturday night.

LSU just finished a harrowing test, beating Mississippi 7-3 on a last quarter touchdown and then holding off Ole Miss in a goal line stand to remain the No. 1 team in the National Associated Press poll of sports writers and sportcasters.

Now the Chinese Bandits and Billy Cannon face another vital game Saturday with Tennessee, beaten by Georgia Tech and tied by Alabama. If LSU gets past this game, only oft-beaten Mississippi State and Tulane bar the door to another perfect campaign and the Sugar Bowl.

LSU received 132 first place votes among the 202 cast in the poll. It was the 14th straight time the Tigers have been the No. 1 club, including a pre-season ballot.

Northwestern, the No. 2 club, showed impressively against Indiana, 30-13 with its cripples back in the line-up. They may need everything they have Saturday when they meet once-beaten Wisconsin, the No. 9 team, with the Big 10 lead at stake.

The unofficial eastern title will be at stake Saturday at University Park, Pa. when Syracuse (6-0) plays Penn State (7-0), a pairing of the No. 4 team and the No. 7 team in the nation.

The top ten, with points based on 10 for a first place vote, 9 for second, etc. (First place votes and won-lost records in parentheses):

		Points
1.	LSU (132) (7-0)	1,859
2.	Northwestern (30) (6-0)	1,596
3.	Texas (6) (7-0)	1,442
4.	Syracuse (14) (6-0)	1,371
5.	Mississippi (1) (6-1)	1,123
6.	So. California (4) (6-0)	878
7.	Penn State (8) (7-0)	810
8.	Auburn (3) (5-1)	677
9.	Wisconsin (2) (5-1)	446
10.	Clemson (2) (5-1)	224
	SECOND TEN
11.	Georgia (6-1)	142
12.	Washington (6-1)	87
13.	Tennessee (4-1-1)	76
14.	Purdue (3-1-2)	59
15.	Oregon (6-1)	53
16.	Arkansas (5-2)	37
17.	TCU (5-2)	36
18.	Air Force (4-1-1)	27

Lions Fullback First Victim of Coach's Wrath

Johnson Misses Team Plane Then Arrives Monday Night

DETROIT (AP) — Coach George Wilson is keeping his promise to shed his velvet glove and swing an iron fist at his Detroit Lions.

★ ★ ★

John Henry Johnson, the vanishing fullback whose best runs this season have been toward out of bounds, was the first victim of Wilson's wrath. Two weeks ago, before departing for the West Coast, Wilson had issued a "put out or get out" ultimatum to his players.

Johnson, AWOL on the Lions' flight home from San Francisco after Sunday's 33-7 drubbing by the 49ers, has been suspended indefinitely.

Wilson said after Johnson popped up in Detroit last night the fullback would miss Sunday's grudge game with the Pittsburgh Steelers and possibly more.

In Oakland, Calif., meanwhile, a superior court bench warrant was issued yesterday for Johnson. His divorced wife, Barbara, charged Johnson is $2,360 arrears in alimony and other payments. Johnson has five children.

★ ★ ★

Wilson said Johnson's disappearing act wasn't the sole cause for the suspension.

"This is a combination of things, including his general attitude," said Wilson, who has been outwardly angered by Johnson's play this season.

Wilson had a dose of punishment for the rest of the Lions—those who made the plane home.

★ ★ ★

Saying they lacked the will to win, Wilson sent them through an unheard of Monday drill. It was the first time within memory the Lions lost their day off following a Sunday game.

★ ★ ★

"We don't have our old desire," said the coach who had won a world championship only two years ago. "And we don't have the horses. Some of our guys just seem to be interested in getting their paycheck. That's a lot of junk."

★ ★ ★

Wilson indicated there'd be wholesale changes in the 1960 Lions. Apparently many of the current team will have their jobs at stake while the team goes through the motions of finishing out the 1959 schedule.

Top-Ranked Bay City Is Here Friday

Pontiac Central Fights Wolfpack on Wisner Turf

Valley Champ Has Been No. 1 Football Power for Nearly 2 Years

By BILL CORNWELL

Last Friday evening the Pontiac Central football team picked up a little prestige in Michigan prep circles by knocking Ferndale from the unbeaten-untied ranks with a decisive 27-7 victory at Wisner Stadium.

Ferndale's loss was so convincing, in fact, that the Dales fell right out of sight in the latest weekly Class A high school football poll conducted by The Associated Press.

Now the Chiefs get another golden opportunity to upend a rated opponent and if they succeed, the added prestige will be much greater.

★ ★ ★

The Dales were ranked 6th with a 6-0 record when they invaded Pontiac. This time PCH is shooting at the very top of the ladder—Bay City Central, the No. 1 grid power in the state.

Bay City's Wolfpack invades the Wisner arena Friday night to meet the Chiefs in a highly important Saginaw Valley Conference game at 8 o'clock.

The Wolves of Elmer Engel were heavy choices as Michigan's best prep squad in this week's Class A poll announced today by The AP.

Being No. 1 in the state is nothing new for the Wolves. As a matter of fact, they have been voted the top position for the last 15 weeks.

★ ★ ★

Bay City grabbed 1st place in the 1st poll of the 1958 season and the upstaters have not been unseated from their lofty position since that time.

Pontiac Central could be a tough hurdle for the Wolves in their quest of a 3rd consecutive Valley crown. The Chiefs are regarded by rival Valley coaches as the finest PCH team in 10 years or more.

Coach Jesse MacLeay's warriors have promised to make the evening as miserable as possible for the Wolfpack and the Bay City coaching staff is admittedly worried about the outcome.

Bay City compiled a total of 73 points to lead this week's Class A voting. The top 10 teams are selected by a panel of sports writers and editors throughout the state.

Here's The way the AP panel of experts rates the Class A teams this week:

	TEAM	REC.	PTS.
1.	Bay City Central	7-0	73
2.	Grand Rapids Catholic	7-0	68
3.	Muskegon Catholic	6-0	59
4.	Hamtramck	7-0	49
5.	Lansing Eastern	6-0-1	42
6.	Lincoln Park	7-0	30
7.	Flint Northern	4-2	24
8.	Traverse City	6-1	20
9.	Ann Arbor	5-2	19
10.	Midland	5-2	14

Others, in order: Walled Lake, Ferndale, Warren Fitzgerald, Kalamazoo Central, Detroit Cooley and Lansing Sexton.

GOING AWOL? — This is John Henry Johnson running against the San Francisco 49ers last Sunday with Big Leo Nomellini (73) and Jerry Tubbs (50) giving chase. Johnson suddenly went AWOL after the game, missing the plane home, and today was suspended by Detroit Lions' coach George Wilson.

Can Tigers Land Dick Gernert?

He May Be Available as Boston Obtains Ron Jackson

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Tigers, crying for a power hitting first baseman throughout the 1959 season, may now have a chance to get one.

Dick Gernert of the Boston Red Sox apparently is on the market. The Tigers have tried several times to cook up a deal for Gernert. All efforts failed last summer while Gail Harris, Gus Zernial and Larry Osborne took turns flopping at first base for Detroit.

The long-ball belting Gernert became expendable yesterday when the Red Sox acquired first baseman Ron Jackson in a trade with the Chicago White Sox Jackson, a 6-7 former Western Michigan basketball star from Kalamazoo, went to Boston for lefthanded pitcher Frank Baumann.

It was a trade of two players who failed to live up to big build-ups.

Jackson was signed in 1954 for $30,000 by the Chisox. He spent most of his career shuttling back and forth between Chicago and the White Sox' Indianapolis farm. A strong-armed right-handed hitter, Jackson may find the short left field fence at Fenway Park suited for his talents. He hit 30 homers last summer at Indianapolis.

Baumann, who signed a $90,000 bonus with Boston in 1952, had been with Boston for several seasons. His record was only 6-4 last season and he has only 13 victories in his major league career.

Eighth Member Sought by A.A. Baseball Loop

CHICAGO (AP) — The American Assn. will meet today in an attempt to find an eighth member for the 57-year-old baseball league.

League President Ed Doherty will be in charge of the meeting at which the 1960 schedule will be discussed.

The league was reduced from 10 members to 7 at the close of the season.

Fort Worth, Omaha and Charleston, W. Va., withdrew. Remaining members are Denver, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Indianapolis, Louisville, Dallas and Houston.

NBA Definitely Set to Expand

Chicago Will Enter, Pittsburgh Considered for Next Year

NEW YORK (AP)—The National Basketball Assn., expansion-minded like the rest of the professional leagues, may go to 12 teams in 1961 and to 15 teams thereafter, President Maurice Podoloff says.

★ ★ ★

Now an eight-team league with two divisions of four teams each, the NBA will definitely add one new member—Chicago—next year and possibly two, if Pittsburgh is ready by then.

But that's only the beginning, according to Podoloff.

★ ★ ★

"Our long range plan calls for a three - division setup of five teams each, one division in the East, another in the Midwest and a third on the West Coast," he told The Associated Press yesterday.

"There are no longer any travel problems as far as the West Coast is concerned. With jet flights we can make it in four hours from the East.

Top Offense, Defense Belong to Hillsdale

By The Associated Press

The state's top offense, averaging nearly 35 points per game, the state's stingiest defense, with an average yield of a touchdown a game — and the state's top record:

That's Hillsdale College.

The Dales, skimming through seven foes and aiming for a bowl bid, have just about nailed down every possible honor in the Michigan collegiate ranks. Only weak Kalamazoo College stands in the way of a sixth straight MIAA championship.

Impressive victories over Kalamazoo and Northern Illinois could mean an invitation to the Holiday Bowl and according to the form charts, the Dales should have little trouble with either club.

They have rolled up 244 points while limiting seven victims to 43 points. Nearly half of those 43 came in the first game of the season when the Dales beat Northern Michigan 29-20. No one has scored more than one touchdown against them since.

Two teams have finished their 1959 firing with plus-records. Michigan Tech wound up with a 6-2 mark and a share of the Northern States Conference title. Grand Rapids JC finished with a 5-2-1 mark and still is a bit hopeful of landing a bowl bid.

Here's the way the state's college footballers look, for the record:

TEAM	W	L	T	Pts.	Opp. Pts.
Hillsdale	7	0	0	244	43
Hope	6	1	0	127	68
Central Michigan	6	2	0	187	104
X-Michigan Tech	6	2	0	149	97
Northern Michigan	5	2	0	189	80
X-Grand Rapids JC	5	2	1	245	114
Wayne State	3	2	0	87	87
Albion	4	3	0	135	109

Michigan	2	4	0	72	106
Olivet	2	4	0	63	155
Adrian	2	5	0	48	164
Kalamazoo	2	5	0	86	149
Eastern Michigan	1	5	0	50	161

(X—Season completed).

Chip Halfbacks Battle for TDs

Either Beach or O'Neil Likely to Win Football Scoring Race

It looks like the state football scoring championship will be a two-man battle between a pair of Central Michigan College halfbacks.

Jerry O'Neil and Walt Beach currently are running 3-4 in the scoring, but the two players ahead of them have wrapped up their 1959 accomplishments.

Jack Boldt of Michigan Tech finished his season last week with 66 points, and trailing him by three points is John Scally of Grand Rapids JC, who also finished up last week.

★ ★ ★

O'Neil ranks third with 60 points and Beach is fourth with 58. The Chippewas have a pair of Interstate Conference games remaining, Eastern Illinois next Saturday and Southern Illinois the following week.

Jack Boldt, Michigan Tech	66
John Scally, Grand Rapids JC	63
Jerry O'Neil, Central Michigan	60
Walter Beach, Central Michigan	58
Howard Rodgers, Hillsdale	48
Mike Stone, Albion	42
Jim Hurd, Albion	42
Jim Northrup, Alma	36
Jim Morse, Wayne State	36
Wayne Hendrickson, Hope	36
Bill Skidmore, Ferris	36

'D' Basketball Meeting Is Slated Wednesday

A basketball managers meeting for Class D teams has been set by the Pontiac Parks and Recreation Department for 7 o'clock Wednesday night in the conference room of the health department at City Hall.

To be eligible for Class D competition, players must be 18 years of age or younger. Persons who reach their 19th birthday before May 1, 1960, are not eligible for this league.

Managers or representatives of teams considering entry in the "D" circuit are urged to attend tomorrow's meeting.

Three Florida Coaches Get Effigy Treatment

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Three oft-defeated Florida college football coaches received the effigy treatment from unhappy fans.

Bob Woodruff was found "buried" yesterday on the University of Florida campus at Gainesville. Perry Moss of Florida State was hanged in effigy at Tallahassee. At the University of Miami, a Dummy lambasting Andy Gustafson was propped up in the doorway of a fraternity shop.

Teams of all three coaches lost weekend games.

Florida was a 6-0 victim of Auburn, giving it a season record of three defeats and three victories, and one tie. Miami was upset 22-3 by Kentucky and has a 3-3 record. Florida State was beaten 42-0 by Georgia and has now lost four games in seven tries.

Move Brings Blast From International

Round Table Enters Retirement

NEW YORK (UPI) — The sudden retirement of Round Table triggered some bitter verbal exchanges today between Travis Kerr, owner of the turf's all-time money winner, and officials of the Laurel Race Track.

Kerr had promised that Round Table would make his final appearance under silks in the Washington D. C. International race at Laurel, Nov. 11. However, he changed his mind yesterday and announced Round Table will be shipped to Kentucky tomorrow to enter stud duty.

This surprise announcement by the Oklahoma horseman left Laurel officials holding the bag, for Round Table was being counted on to represent the United States against some of the world's greatest thoroughbreds in next week's classic.

John D. Schapiro, president of Laurel, and Joseph Cascarella, the track's executive vice president, were shocked when they learned of Kerr's decision.

"Kerr has been giving us the business for three years," Cascarella said, pointing out it was the third straight year Round Table had been withdrawn from the International.

"Sportsmen from all over the world have shipped their horses thousands of miles to compete in our race," the former Washington Senators pitcher added. "Here's a horse who was 200 miles away and his owner pulls him out of the International after accepting an invitation."

Schapiro, who originated the race eight years ago, was equally bitter.

"We have had these disappointments in the past," he said. "However, the hardest disappointment to accept is when a man gives his word and then reneges."

When informed of the statements issued by officials of the Maryland track, Kerr found it hard to control his temper.

"You can tell them I don't give a damn how they feel about it," Kerr snapped. "We've retired Round Table and if they don't like it I'm sorry."

Kerr later simmered down and explained he didn't want to ship Round Table to Laurel and then scratch him from the International if the track was muddy on the day of the race.

"Everybody knows our horse doesn't like an off track, so I figured it was best to retire him now and let some one else have a chance to run in the International," he added.

Round Table, purchased for $175,000 by Kerr in 1957, worked like a horse in earning a record $1,749,869. He won 43 of 66 starts, including 31 stakes, and was named "horse of the year" in 1958.

DEVELOP STYLE BEST FOR YOU

By LEE JOUGLARD

Instructors should stress fundamentals.

They should check your equipment, be sure that you have a properly weighted ball fitted to your hand.

They should make certain that you have the proper stance on the approach.

They should determine the number of steps most natural to you.

They should see that you have rhythm in the swing and in releasing the ball.

They should teach you the proper angle for the flight of the ball.

Listen to your instructor. Practice what he preaches because he should know best. Make both his job and yours a little more pleasant. He wants you to score well.

But bear in mind that the instructor's personal style may not be the best for you.

He should—and no doubt will—analyze each case individually and prescribe accordingly.

Pistons Start Rough Grind Wednesday

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Pistons should know in the next 3½ weeks just what their potential is in the National Basketball Assn. race.

Starting with tomorrow night's game with New York at Olympia Stadium, the Pistons will play 17 games in 24 days. Nine of the opponents will come from the Pistons' own Western Division.

"We should find out in a hurry just about how well we're going to do in our own division," said coach Red Rocha, preparing the Pistons for a long stretch of dribbles and rebounds.

MONDAY'S FIGHTS

MONTREAL—Rory Calhoun, 166, White Plains, N.Y., knocked out Joey White, 176, Durham, N.C., 6.

Gresham Scores KO

CHICAGO (AP)—Gene Gresham of Detroit scored a four-round TKO over Joey Reynolds of St. Louis Monday night in a scheduled eight-round bout at Midwest Gym. Gresham weighed 138, Reynolds 136.

City Wants More Games

Army Pleases New York

NEW YORK (AP)—New York City is going all out to get the Army football team into Yankee Stadium next year and has an eye out for a continuation of the Army-Air Force series here.

Bill Tackmann, director of promotion for industry and public events in the city's commerce department, said yesterday that he will approach West Point officials at the season's end to see if they are amenable to moving next year's game with Syracuse into Yankee Stadium. The game is scheduled for Nov. 5, 1960 in Army's 27,500 seat Michie Stadium. Army already has a 1961 date with Oklahoma here.

Last Saturday, more than 67,000 fans jammed Yankee Stadium to see Army and Air Force tie 13-13 in the first game of a new inter-service rivalry.

This crowd, and the throngs in other major sports events here last weekend boosted attendance to past the 200,000 mark, and has sent the city scurrying after other choice events.

Philadelphia and Chicago are actively campaigning for these big events, with the latter after the 1963 meeting between the Air Force and Army, the next time the two meet. Games are also scheduled for 1965-7-9, with the sites not yet designated.

★ ★ ★

Tackmann said that the city's board of estimate and the mayor are the only ones who can make any decision on terms to get the major attractions. The city paid the two service schools $15,000 for Saturday's game, giving it in the form of an amusement tax refund.

College Football

by "RED" BLAIK

The challenge of professional football to the college game grows more clamorous. The pros, who already dominate in the three large metropolitan areas of New York, Chicago and Los Angeles, threaten soon to establish a beachhead in the rich and enthusiastic Dallas-Fort Worth and Houston markets.

It may not be long either before even such a citadel of the college game as Atlanta, where Georgia Tech, Georgia and the Southeastern Conference have controlled public interest, will have to share newsprint and entertainment money with the pros.

All this is no cause for alarm or fateful pronouncements that the college game is doomed. But it does demand serious re-evaluation by both the colleges and the pros. If the colleges are to coexist profitably with the pros, then they will have to match them as shrewd promoters.

At the same time, the pros will have to promote the college game as well as their own. For their own game can only continue healthy so long as the college game remains robust. If the college game were to become anemic, the pros would lose their only source of supply.

George P. Marshall, owner of the Washington Redskins, recently called attention to this when he doubted the wisdom of the pros invading Texas because it could conceivably hurt the college game there. One need not agree with all of Mr. Marshall's pronunciamentos on football to appreciate that he is an old pro, acutely aware of any trend that might ultimately affect his own operation unfavorably.

His specific concern about pro invasion of Southwest Conference territory is understandable. Texas, developer of Sammy Baugh and Davey O'Brien, always has been our most pass-conscious sector. The success of the pro game depends mainly on its superior and exciting passers and receivers. Texas football lovers just take naturally to the pro-type game.

In a broader sense, Texans want nothing but the best. That is how the pros sell their football — as the best. Post-graduate football, they like to call it.

It is post-graduate, of course (in most cases, at least) but is it the best? It is in the sense that it presents the best passers, receivers, kickers and other specialists who learned the fundamentals of these skills in college. That is the difference between the job of the college and pro coach. The pro coach concerns himself with strategy, not fundamentals. The college coach must be first a fundamentalist and then a strategist.

The pros, relatively speaking, do not attempt to mount as exciting a running game as the collegians. Despite what may be argued, they do not because they cannot risk their costly star-investment in the scrimmage which is indispensable to the development of the superior running game. And the breakaway run is still the most exciting spectacle in football.

The colleges should point to the fact that the pass was introduced in 1906 to open the game — not to dominate it. When the pass dominates then the classic concept of football as a running game has been subordinated.

Such organizations as the NCAA and the National Football Foundation and Hall of Fame are doing a fine job in promoting the game, although too often the police powers of the NCAA overshadow its positive dedication to college football.

In the areas where the pros and colleges are in competition they must promote each other. Certainly, they can sell their games as two different concepts of football, which they are, but both intensely interesting and exciting.

Ryder Cup Teams Set for 13th Biennial Matches

U.S.-British Squads Ready to Go Friday

Captain of American Team, Snead, Confident of Victory

PALM DESERT, Calif. (UPI) — Ryder Cup captains Sam Snead of the United States and Dai Rees of Great Britain today sent their squads through leisurely workouts on the Eldorado Country Club course, scene of the International matches.

Today's practice round is the final one prior to an 18-hole pro-celebrity event in which Ryder Cup players will join with film, business and sports figures tomorrow.

Both Snead and Rees showed confidence in their squads for the action in the 13th biennial matches which get underway here Friday.

"I think we'll give a good account of ourselves," the cautious Snead remarked. "I'm not making predictions but we'll let our games speak for themselves."

Rees, however, was more outspoken and optimistic that the British squad would score its first victory in this country. He attributed his confidence to the enthusiasm of the young team he headed.

"They are all coming along nicely," Rees commented after yesterday's informal practice rounds. "It has taken our fellows a few days to get used to the course but I'm encouraged over their efforts."

Other members of the 10-man British team include Pete Alliss, Eric Brown, Dave Thomas, Norman Drew, Christy O'Connor, Bernard Hunt, Peter Mills, Harry Weetman, and Ken Bousfield.

Mills is making his second appearance with the British team. In 1957 he beat the captain of the American team, Jack Burke, Jr., 5 and 3.

At 40, Bousfield is next to the oldest Briton on the squad. He is six years younger than Rees and has been on four other Ryder teams.

Alliss is a second generation Ryder Cupper. His father, Percy was a top flight player on the teams of 1933-35-37. Peter made his debut on the team in 1953 at the age of 22 and he is considered one of the most impressive golfers in Great Britain.

Horvath Deadlocks Geoffrion in Points

MONTREAL (AP)—Boston's Bronco Horvath clicked for five points last week an ' moved into a first-place tie with Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion of Montreal in the National Hockey League scoring race.

Terry Sawchuk of the Detroit Red Wings still has the lowest goals-against average among the net-minders. He has given up 15 goals in 11 games for a 1.36 average. Sawchuk also is the shutout leader with two.

The leaders:

	G	A	Pts.
1. Horvath, Boston	10	5	15
2. Geoffrion, Montreal	7	8	15
3. Toppazzini, Boston	4	9	13

Michigan Searching for an Offense

State Stressing Pass Defense

EAST LANSING (AP)—Michigan State's pass defense was due for a major overhauling this week in preparation for the Saturday football meeting with Purdue.

The Spartans have a 3-3 overall record and stand 2-2 in the Big Ten. Both conference losses, to Iowa and Ohio State, came because MSU couldn't control a hot passing attack.

The 30-24 loss to Ohio State was particularly surprising because the Buckeyes are more noted for a grind-it-out ground game than anything fancy in the aerial department.

Purdue has won two, lost one and tied one in the Big Ten. The Boilermakers still have a theoretical chance to overhaul first-place Northwestern and runner-up Wisconsin.

But they can't afford even another tie like Saturday's 7-7 knot with Illinois that left both third in the standings.

Before the season started, MSU coach Duffy Daugherty named Purdue as his personal pick for Big Ten honors. MSU has won only three out of seven since the modern day series with Purdue was revived in 1952.

The Spartans, ironically, were beaten at Columbus because Ohio State made more telling use of one of the favorite MSU weapons.

Quarterback Dean Look has been considered a prime scoring threat with his rollouts on an option to run or pass. Buckeye quarterback Tom Matte had this play working to perfection, netting 73 yards rushing and 138 yards passing despite the sloppy field.

Michigan State started rehearsing pass defense on a chilly and windswept practice field yesterday afternoon. No crippling injuries were reported but a lot of players complained of minor aches and bruises — the kind that always feel much more painful after the team loses.

ANN ARBOR (AP)—Michigan became a football team in search of an offense this week.

While the Wolverines' defense has improved to the point where they can hold its own with the best in the conference, the offense continues to falter.

Against Wisconsin last week, Michigan's passing attack, which had been adequate most of the season, suddenly collapsed. Six Wolverine passes were intercepted and three of them were turned into two touchdowns and a field goal.

The game again emphasized the fact that one touchdown is not enough to win most Big Ten football games. Aside from its opening loss to Missouri, the Wolverines have won both games in which they scored two touchdowns and lost three others when they could garner only a single six-pointer.

Michigan can perhaps find some rationalization for its lack of offensive punch from the fact that it has played teams with great lines in the last three games — Northwestern, Minnesota and Wisconsin.

But this can offer only meager consolation at best. This week's clash with third-place Illinois will find the weary Wolverines running smack up against another tough forward wall and a team with the best defensive mark in the loop.

And Michigan's final two opponents — Indiana and Ohio State — also sport formidable defenses. This factor has spurred the Wolverines into an all-out effort to rebuild its offense as it enters the 1959 home stretch against surprising Illinois.

The Michigan defense — sparked by the reserve raiders — showed Saturday it can contain the most powerful offense on a given day.

If Michigan could score a pair of touchdowns to go with another superb defensive performance, an upset victory over Illinois would be very likely.

TRICK OR TREAT — No this isn't Jacques Plante going out on a trick or treat mission. The Montreal Canadien goalie puts on his self-designed mask after being treated for severe facial cuts caused by a shot in the New York Ranger game recently. Seven stitches were needed to close the wound.

NHL Discusses Pros, Cons of Protective Face Mask

NEW YORK (AP) — The jury still is out as to the advantages and disadvantages of a National Hockey League goalie wearing a molded fiber-glass protective mask.

Jacques Plante of the Montreal Canadiens donned the mask Sunday night after he had been cut on the face by a hard shot in a game against the New York Rangers.

After receiving seven stitches to close the wound, Plante returned to the ice with the mask early in the first period and proceeded to turn back the Rangers 3-1.

Muzz Patrick, general manager of New York, said today, "over the years a goalie seldom misses a game because of a face cut, but might be sidelined by a leg or arm injury. The use of a mask takes something from the fans. They want to see the man, particularly the female fans."

Coach Phil Watson differed with Patrick. "I have no objection to the use of a mask by our goalie," Watson stated. "I wouldn't object to it as long as he saves the goals."

Gump Worsley, the Rangers' goalie, doesn't advocate wearing a mask. "I won't wear one," he declared. "I actually don't think it's necessary, but if they make it a league rule its use by a goalie should be optional."

Plante, who has suffered numerous facial injuries in his career, previously had worn the mask only in practice. He may keep the mask on when the Canadiens play the Rangers in Montreal Thursday night.

NEW YORK—Chico Rollins, 132¾, New York, knocked out Steve Haywood, 131, Baltimore, 6.

DALLAS—Buddy Turman, 183, Tyler, Tex., and Donnie Fleeman, 181, Midlothian, Tex., drew, 10.

Accuse USC Player

Cal Plans to Follow Dirty Football Charge

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — University of California officials plan to follow up charges by football coach Pete Elliott that Southern California guard Mike McKeever deliberately smashed the face of Cal halfback Steve Bates.

Without mentioning names, California Athletic Director Greg Engelhard said, "Certainly we are going to follow it up with USC officials. It is a delicate subject between two schools and will be discussed privately."

★ ★ ★

Southern California Coach Don Clark flately refuted the charge, saying, "It's certainly regrettable when any boy is injured. A review of the films with our university administrators indicates no misconduct on the part of Mike McKeever.

Elliott saw a different picture of the play during USC's 14-7 victory Saturday on which Bates was injured in the second quarter. The California coach claimed McKeever piled into Bates and hit him in the face with an elbow after the halfback was down and out of bounds.

★ ★ ★

Bates was hospitalized with a broken cheekbone and nose. Physicians said he will undergo surgery as soon as possible.

At yesterday's meeting of the Northern California Football Writers and Broadcasters Assn., Elliott said that last year McKeever drew a 15-yard penalty for a similar foul against quarterback Joe Kapp and had committed three flagrant rule violations in the past two games.

The 220-pound junior guard was ejected from the Stanford game two weeks ago and was tossed out of the California game in the fourth period for roughing quarterback Pete Olson.

In Los Angeles, Clark told the weekly meeting of the football writers there that he had spent eight hours reviewing films of the first half of the California-USC game and found no indications of misconduct.

Clark said the films revealed that McKeever made a rolling tackle of Bates and he wasn't out of bounds, he was on the chalk line.

A sequence of still pictures in San Francisco indicated Bates had been tripped up and was on the ground as McKeever approached.

Clark said he thought Bates' crushed face resulted from collapse of his plastic helmet. He termed the incident one of the unfortunate things that can happen in this game.

Anderson Strives Against Fiscal Dangers

Gains Reappraisal of Foreign Aid

By FRANK CORMIER

WASHINGTON (AP)—Robert B. Anderson, the quiet man who is secretary of the Treasury, has quietly brought about a hard-eyed reappraisal of the U.S. foreign aid program.

Just as important, he has put across a new policy designed to insure that a bigger proportion of U.S. loans to underdeveloped countries are spent in the United States.

Working behind the scenes, Anderson won administration backing for these major policy moves without touching off an acrimonious public debate.

★ ★ ★

His performance has solidified the widespread impression here that he is the most influential member of President Eisenhower's Cabinet.

While the secretary's aides take pains to point out that Eisenhower made the decisions and the new policies are administration policies, Anderson was the architect.

He acted because he felt some changes might be made in the aid program that would help stem the outflow of gold and dollars from the United States.

This outflow, measured in terms of the country's balance of international payments, will reach four billion dollars this year. Since trade produces a surplus, all of this deficit results from military spending abroad, foreign aid and private investment overseas.

★ ★ ★

As the Treasury chief, it is Anderson's job to watch this deficit because it inevitably affects the stability of the dollar.

Critics say that the benefits to be gained from tying development loans to purchases in the United States are piddling compared to the potential harm.

SEES TURNING POINT

They say it represents a turning-away from this country's liberal trade policy and may encourage protectionist forces.

Anderson does not see himself as a protectionist but as an internationalist. He believes the payments deficit itself would strengthen protectionist forces if it is not curbed.

To the plain-spoken, mild-mannered Texan, the new development loan policy makes plain horse sense at a time when this country is losing dollars.

★ ★ ★

An aide, echoing Anderson's views, said: "What if we provide cash for a country and say, 'go buy yourself a power plant in West Germany.' Would we be helping that country or West Germany, which doesn't need any help?"

★ ★ ★

In dollars and cents the new policy is unlikely to have a profound effect soon. From Anderson's point of view, this may not be too important.

PSYCHOLOGICAL MOVE

The secretary has always emphasized the importance of confidence, which often can be influenced as much by psychology as by measurable developments.

In one sense, the new loan policy is a psychological move. It is intended to show the world that the United States will take any action necessary to maintain confidence in the dollar.

This m itself could help inspire confidence, though Anderson's critics aren't buying this argument.

Anderson takes much the same view toward a balanced budget. He has conceded privately that a small deficit would be no financial disaster. However, he insists on seeking a balance because otherwise, he believes, people would lose confidence in the government's fiscal responsibility.

HAS TWO SIDES

In his advocacy of conservative fiscal policies and his almost mystical preoccupation with confidence, Anderson perhaps is displaying two sides of his personality.

★ ★ ★

The secretary is both a businessman and an amateur poet, and perhaps looks more the poet. Tall, gangling and bespectacled, he walks with a slight limp which dates from a childhood polio attack. No desk pounder, he speaks softly and sometimes rambles in a fashion tht belies his success in influening high policy.

★ ★ ★

Anderson, now 49, was the $60,000-a-year manager of the Waggoner Ranch in Texas before coming here, a Democrat for Eisenhower, as secretary of the Navy in 1953. After moving up to deputy secretary of defense, he left in 1955 to become president of Ventures Ltd., a Canadian mine holding company.

★ ★ ★

In July 1957 he was back as secretary of the Treasury—this time as a registered Republican.

His rise in influence since then has been such that President Eisenhower is known to believe that Anderson would make a fitting successor in the White House.

Seek $10 Billion to Train Doctors

Study Group Claims Federal Plan Needed to Keep Present Ratio

WASHINGTON (AP) — A special study group says the federal government and other sources should share in a billion-dollar 10-year program to increase the nation's medical school facilities.

A special group of consultants named by the surgeon general of the U.S. Public Health Service said facilities must be increased if the supply of doctors is to keep pace with an ever-expanding population.

With the population expected to reach 235 million by 1975, it said, medical schools would have to graduate 11,000 doctors a year—about 3,600 a year more than those in 1959—to keep up the present ratio.

The recommendation would call for the expansion of the nation's 85 existing medical schools and the building of 20 to 24 new ones. Also recommended was construction of 22 new dental schools.

★ ★ ★

The proposal calls for the federal government to provide 500 million dollars over a 10-year period—with the idea that this would stimulate states, industries, private foundations and philanthropies to contribute a similar amount among them.

Japan to Eliminate Anti-U.S. Tariffs

TOKYO (AP) — Japan will be wide open to U.S. products by March 31, 1961, Japanese officials say, but some Americans feel the swing is too slow.

★ ★ ★

U.S. Undersecretary of State C. Douglas Dillon was told that import restrictions will be lifted on 10 dollar-area items by April 1, 1960. Dillon asked for an end to all restrictions within a few months.

★ ★ ★

The 10 items to be taken off the restricted list first are scrap iron, soybeans, gypsum, fat, lard, copper and alloy scrap, pig iron scrap, Philippine timber, cowhides and abaca fiber for ropes.

Dillon's plea to end discrimination against U.S. goods came during the first week of a four-week meeting of the General Agreement On Tariffs and Trade.

Disarm in Part, Nehru Advises

Says Nikita's Push for Total Abandonment Is Unrealistic Right Now

MOSCOW (AP) — Prime Minister Nehru suggested today that partial disarmament is more feasible at present than the total and universal disarmament called for by Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

★ ★ ★

The Indian leader, interviewed by the newspaper "Soviet Russia," said complete disarmament and efforts to end all thoughts of war should be the basic goal. But "perhaps partial fulfilment of this task is more feasible at present," he observed.

Nehru said recent changes in the world had "definitely produced an international detente (relaxation of strained relations) and instilled hope in the peoples that the cold war would be gradually done away with."

★ ★ ★

Nehru said great masses of people in all countries are looking forward to the successful achievement of an international agreement. He said continued improvement of international relations can be achieved only at the summit.

New York State Is Voting Today

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — New York state voters balloted today in local, off-year elections.

Party leaders disagreed on public reaction to the higher taxes of the Republican administration of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller. Rockefeller is considered a possible candidate for the GOP presidential nomination next year.

★ ★ ★

At stake were 49 mayoral offices, 11 seats in the state Legislature, scores of races for county, town and other local offices, and the position of chief judge of the Court of Appeals, the state's highest court. There was no contest for the court post.

★ ★ ★

In addition, voters balloted on nine proposed amendments to the state constitution. Among the most controversial of these was a proposal to allow the state to use 300 acres of the Adirondack Forest Preserve for an Albany to Canada superhighway.

2,000 Molders Working Following Long Strike

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Approximately 2,000 moldmakers returned to their jobs at 88 plants across the nation today following settlement of a 51-day strike against 26 glass container firms.

Negotiators for the American Flint Glass Workers Union and the Glass Container Manufacturers' Institute signed a two-year agreement last night which provides moldmakers with a benefit package valued at 27 cents an hour.

State National Guard Officer Is Promoted

LANSING (UPI) — Col. Cecil L. Simmons, 47, of Grand Rapids, was promoted by Gov. Williams today to the rank of brigadier general and sworn in as assistant division commander of the 46th infantry division.

The National Guard officer moved into a vacancy left by advancement of Maj. Gen. Cecil Kennedy to the position of division commanding general yesterday.

Simmons, city traffic engineer for Grand Rapids, has commanded the first battle group, 126th infantry, since last March.

Business and Finance

Corn Firms Up, Others Ease Off

CHICAGO (UPI) — Corn futures worked toward firmness but other grains and soybeans eased slightly during the first several minutes today on the Board of Trade.

Dealers said there appeared to be no new important trade factors and that corn derived scattered support on cash dealer demand in the absence of offers. Hedge selling was light and cash receipts small.

The Department of Agriculture report it had cleared another 3,430,000 bushels of corn for export on subsidy bids of one cent a bushel.

It brought the total for the two days this week to more than 10 million, the largest subsidy clearances for a comparable period in several months.

By the end of the first hour prices had become strong in spots with corn leading the advances.

Wheat was unchanged to ⅜ cent a bushel lower, December $2.00 ⅝; corn ⅞ to 1¼ higher, December $1.11; oats unchanged to ¼ higher, December 76½; rye ⅛ to ⅝ higher, December $1.36⅛; soybeans ½ to ⅞ higher, November $2.20¾.

Cadillac Citizens Voting for Mayor, 3 Officials

CADILLAC (UPI) — Cadillac voters went to the polls today to elect a new mayor and three city commissioners.

Mayor Everett Reiser is not seeking re-election.

Te mayorality race is between Walt Kelly, a former Cadillac mayor, and Henry Kidder, current first ward commissioner.

Seeking Kidder's commission seat are Charles Underwood, a former Upper Peninsula fire chief, and Fred Weber, former Cadillac police chief.

John English, another former Cadillac mayor, was squared off with Drexel Swartwood, a former commissioner, for the third ward commission seat.

Two relative political newcomers—Orrin Richardson and A. H. Joynt—were running for the fourth ward commission seat.

Hearing Verdict Due on Knight Today

BRIGHTON (UPI) — A ruling was expected today on whether ex-convict Alvin W. Knight must stand trial for the murder of state trooper Albert Souden last September.

★ ★ ★

Justice of the Peace G. Eric Singer said he would rule immediately after completion of the testimony.

Knight's attorney, Martin J. Lavan, indicated he would call only two more witnesses briefly today. They were Dr. Thomas M. Barton, A Howell physician, and Howard Barton, of Argentine.

More than 40 witnesses have been called in the 10 days of hearings.

State police officers testified Knight admitted shooting Souden with his own gun and leading them to where he had buried the trooper's body.

Lavan based his defense largely on claims that Knight's constitutional rights had been violated in his arrest and questioning.

Buffalo Seventh AFL Grid City

Detroit Man Owner of Franchise; Eighth Will Be Revealed Soon

NEW YORK (UPI)—The expansion committee of the new American Football League announced today that Buffalo has been added as the seventh city in the professional circuit which expects to begin operations in 1960.

Harry Wismer, president of the New York club in the league, made the announcement on behalf of the committee which also includes Barron Hilton, owner of the Los Angeles franchise, and Bud Adams, oil man who will operate the Houston entry.

The other cities already holding franchises are Minneapolis - St. Paul, Denver and Dallas.

Wismer said the eighth city will be announced within a few days.

The Buffalo franchise will be owned by Ralph Wilson Jr., Detroit businessman, and a group of Buffalo citizens.

Meanwhile, Edgar E. (Rip) Miller, one of the "seven mules" who cleared the way for Notre Dame's famed "four horsemen" 35 years ago, emerged as a leading candidate to become the first commissioner of the new league.

Olds Production Edges Pontiac

But October Figures Show Local Product Well Ahead of 1958

General Motors production reports for October show Oldsmobile edging Pontiac for second place behind Chevrolet in production.

GM produced 265,873 passenger cars and trucks in the United States and Canada in October, and 77,976 during October 1958. Of the October units, 236,158 were passenger cars and 29,715 trucks.

Both the Pontiac and Truck & Coach Divisions were well above production achieved in October 1958.

During the past month, Pontiac rolled 35,606 units off the line, compared to 6,572 for the same period last year. Olds this year made 36,608 units in October, compared to 10,687 last year.

The Truck & Coach Division added up 5,692 units in October, and 3,313 in October 1958. For the first 10 months of 1959, Truck & Coach produced 71,923 units, compared to 49,478 during the same time in 1958.

Pontiac's total for the 10 months was 360,153, as opposed to 151,116 during the first 10 months of 1958.

Police Seek Dentist

Gives Laxative 'Treats'

FREMONT, Calif. (AP)—Police hunted today for Dr. William V. Syne, a dentist they say gave candy - coated laxative pills to youngsters Halloween.

None of the 16 moppets who patrolmen say got the pills was hospitalized, but six who ate them suffered nausea and diarrhea, or both.

★ ★ ★

Tests showed the pills contained bitter aloe, a strong purgative.

Police inspectors Lee Reiman and Robert Plummer searched unsuccessfully for Dr. Shyne Monday.

They carried a warrant for his arrest, charging him with the misdemeanor offenses of outraging public decency and unlawful dispensing of medicine.

Police reported more than 450 of the pills were found in unconsumed Halloween loot after a check of 250 homes.

500 Amvets Expected for Weekend Conference

Amvets begin arriving Friday for their first major state gathering in Pontiac.

The fifth Annual Fall Conference of Michigan Amvets will be held this weekend, with headquarters at the Roosevelt Hotel.

Pontiac's Cook-Nelson Post 20, Jimmy Dey Post 12, and Wright-Fournier Post 161 are making last-minute preparations.

Local Amvets have been working for weeks to make this a successful conference for the more than 500 representatives.

According to chairman James R. Cavalier of 1424 Rosedale St., West Bloomfield Township, highlights will be Saturday.

"We will present special Amvet awards to Oakland County Probate Judge Arthur E. Moore and Prosecutor Frederick C. Ziem, circuit judge-elect, for their outstanding service to the community," Cavalier said.

The presentation ceremony will be 1 p.m. Saturday at the Roosevelt Hotel.

Reports OK But Editorial 'Horrible'

State Crisis National News

By DALE ARNOLD

LANSING (UPI) — Michigan, its financial and political problems, is getting an unprecedented amount of national publicity this year.

Are the reports carried by national news magazines, leading newspapers and nationwide radio and television accurate?

"People ask me —'is it as bad in Michigan as the papers say it is?'" said State Treasurer Sanford A. Brown.

"I tell them that by and large it's worse," Brown said.

"The stories are all right," said Paul Weber, press secretary for Gov. G. Mennen Williams during the governor's 10 years in office. "But a lot of the editorial comment is horrible."

★ ★ ★

"Many editorials say Michigan is broke because we spent all the money," Weber said. "The complexities of the situation just don't come through. It's no one's fault particularly."

"I've got no complaint," said Senate Majority Leader Frank D. Beadle (R-St. Clair).

Art O'Connor, one of the governor's press aides, listed a string of news organizations which have sent men to Lansing during the present, hectic session.

★ ★ ★

The list includes:

U.S. News and World Report, Business Week, Time, Christian Science Monitor, New York Times, New York Herald - Tribune, NBC and CBS news, Chicago Sun-Times, Wall Street Journal, Dayton News and the Toledo Blade.

In addition, many news magazines and out-of-state papers keep tabs on the Michigan situation through correspondents stationed in Lansing or Detroit.

There also is a regular staff of at last 16 newsmen on the job here the year around, supplying news for newspapers and news services, largely in Michigan.

State Controller James W. Miller, who perhaps is as close to the Michigan money problem as anyone, said general national coverage was good but he would like to see more detail.

★ ★ ★

"It's difficult to fight the simple distortion with the complicated truth," Miller said.

Weber carried this point a bit farther.

"The story about the threadbare rug in the governor's office got national play because it was different and attracted attention," he said. "But the danger in the story was that people read it and thought the state didn't have $300 to buy a new rug when actually, state agencies should economize."

New Evidence That Judge Drowned

CHICAGO (UPI) — One of Chicago's leading citizens stepped forward yesterday to report he saw missing Judge W. Lynn Parkinson weaving violently through a downtown hotel.

Walter P. Paepcke's report made him the last known person to see the judge before he vanished Oct. 26.

★ ★ ★

Paepcke is chairman of the Container Corporation of America, founder of the Aspen, Colo., arts colony, director of numerous other corporations and holder of many awards and honorary degrees.

★ ★ ★

Earlier witnesses had placed the judge in the Drake Hotel, but Paepcke's report carried Parkinson further along the Drake arcade —and closer to an exit leading to the Oak street beach of Lake Michigan.

The discovery of Parkinson's glasses and umbrella in the vicinity tended to support police theories the judge staggered from the hotel to the beach, fell in and drowned.

Others Lead in Prison Figures

Native Michiganians Good People

By BILL SINNOTT

LANSING (UPI)—Persons born out of state make up 45 per cent of Michigan's population but are responsible for 54.5 per cent of its prison commitments, a survey by the State Corrections Department has indicated.

Looking at it another way, native Michiganians comprise 65 per cent of the population but are involved in only 45.5 per cent of commitments.

The survey also showed that in Michigan:

★ ★ ★

1. Negroes represent 7 per cent of the population but 36 per cent of commitments.

2. Residents who are natives of the South are responsible for 31 per cent of commitments although they make up only 9.5 per cent of the population.

3. Of these Southern-born residents, 5 per cent are whites who account for 9 per cent of the prison population; 4.5 per cent are Negroes who account for 22 per cent of the prison population.

4. Residents who were born in the East North-central states comprise 8 per cent of the population but 10 per cent of commitments; the Middle Atlantic and New England states — 4.5 per cent of population but 6 per cent of commitments; West North-central and Far West states — 3 per cent of population but 5 per cent of commitments.

BASED ON YEAR 1959

The survey was ordered by corrections Director Gus Harrison at the request of the State Corrections Commission.

It was made by the department's administrative analyst, Robert J. Glass, and based on the year 1950 — the latest for which federal census statistics are available.

However, Glass says data compiled since then indicates that the characteristics of commitments has not changed.

He holds that the significance of his study is that Michigan has been acquiring a sizable number of residents through migration and that this group is over-represented in the number of commitments.

He observes that the experience of several other states is similar with respect to the type of recent migration.

Other findings:

1. Females comprise 50 per cent of the general population but only 4 per cent of commitments.

2. The 10 per cent of residents who were foreign born are responsible for less than 2 per cent of commitments for the good reason that 65 per cent are over 50 years of age.

3. Males and females under 15 plus males over 50 make up 75 per cent of the population but only 10 per cent of commitments.

4. To put it another way, 90 per cent of commitments are males between 15 and 50 with the heaviest rate in this group (59 per cent) falling on those between 15 and 29.

Glass reports the survey revealed "striking evidence that small population groups, which are only a fraction of the total general population, are a potent source of prison commitments."

To illustrate this, he looked at the commitment rate for various groups per 100,000 total general population.

When this was done, he found the rate for whites born in the South is more than twice the rate for whites born in Michigan. The reverse is true for Negroes — the rate for those born in Michigan is more than double the rate for those born in the South.

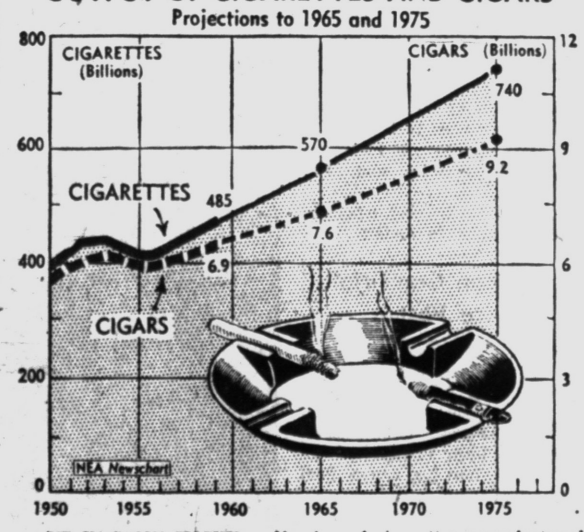
★ ★ ★

Glass says the survey indicates several promising avenues of research into the incidence of crim-

"This report must stop short of these objectives and be concerned primarily with the effect of the incidence of crime on penal populations rather than its causation."

"It is hoped," Glass continues, "that it may point toward comprehensive, long-range improvements in the present legal framework and the administrative organization for correctional treatment."

OUTPUT OF CIGARETTES AND CIGARS
Projections to 1965 and 1975



UP IN SOME SMOKE — Number of cigarettes manufactured this year will set a new record of about 485 billion, 15 billion more than 1958. Cigar and cigarillo output will be near 6.9 billion, about 350 million above 1958 and the highest since 1923. So reports the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Assuming a continuation of smoking trends in recent years and increases in the smoking-age population, cigarette production may rise by 53 per cent by 1975; cigars by 33 per cent.

Various Issues Face Ohioans

1,600 Local Questions, Mayor, City Council Election on Ballot

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Today's off-year election in Ohio is expected to draw nearly 2,300,000 voters for grassroots decisions on more than 1,600 local issues and candidates for about 15,000 public offices.

The election has practically no statewide political significance.

Principal voter attention is directed toward hot municipal races. Some of Ohio's big cities are electing mayors and deciding major issues.

★ ★ ★

Cincinnati has a king-size field of 29 candidates for nine council seats — nine candidates each from Republican, Democratic and Charterite groups plus two independents. The Charterite group is made up of both Republicans and Democrats. Cincinnati has a city manager form of government.

In Cleveland, Mayor Anthony J. Clebrezze, a Democrat, is seeking re-election with Republican Tom Ireland as his opponent. A county charter proposal also is on the ballot.

In Akron, Democratic Mayor Leo Berg seeks re-election against the strong challenge of Republican Ed Garrigan.

Youngstown's hot mayoralty contest pits Republican Edward J. Gilronan against Frank R. Franko, unbenched municipal judge who defeated Mayor Frank K. Kryzan in the Democratic primary.

In Columbus, Democratic Mayor Maynard E. Sensebrenner, seeking a third term, goes against Republican Council President W. Ralston Westlake.

★ ★ ★

Toledo will decide on two proposals to change the city charter. One provides for an elected mayor with strong powers; the other for an elected mayor with limited powers. The city now has a city manager with a mayor appointed by city council.

Traffic Rolling on Last Section of Lodge Xway

DETROIT (AP) — Traffic begins rolling today on the final section of Detroit's John C. Lodge expressway, 13 years in the building.

The four-tenths mile section at the southern end of the nine-mile route passes under Cobo Convention Hall in the city's civic center and joins Jefferson avenue.

The 90-million-dollar Lodge expressway, which connects with James Couzens highway on the city's northwest side, eventually will be extended to join the Farmington - Brighton expressway. The extension is to be placed under contract by June, 1962.

At the southern terminus, Lodge eventually will connect with the Walter P. Chrysler expressway to form an expressway loop around downtown Detroit.

Nineteen miles of expressways are in use in Detroit.

Castor oil is no longer the popular medication it once was, but consumption is increasing — 119 million pounds last year and an estimated 210 million pounds a year by 1965. Most of it goes into the manufacture of paint and resins.

October Car Production Nearly Double '58 Time

DETROIT (AP) — U.S. automakers nearly doubled their October production compared to a year ago, but the outlook is for a serious slump this month.

A total of 507,590 cars were built in American factories last month, compared with 261,701 in October 1958.

This month, however, shortages stemming from the 112-day-old steel strike probably will cut production to less than half last month's output.

ALL HIGH LAST MONTH

Every automaker increased production in October. The big gainer was General Motors Corp., which built 224,162 cars, an increase of 56,773 over October 1958 when GM was shut down much of the month due to labor difficulties.

GM entered November, however, with only token production remaining at four assembly plants.

One, the Chevrolet plant at Oakland, Calif., was to close today with the other three expected to shut down by the weekend. They are the Buick plant at Flint, and Corvair plants at Kansas City and Willow Run.

Ford built 165,795 autos in October, a boost from the 112,962 in 1958. Ford also is slowing down production to conserve steel.

Chrysler's October production increased from 57,144 in 1958 to 66,202 this year. Production at American Motors climbed from 26,124 to 37,221. Studebaker-Packard's output rose from 8,698 to 14,210.

200,000 OUT AT GM

By the weekend, layoffs at General Motors are expected to exceed 200,000. There already are 185,000 workers idle at GM. Chrysler has 5,100 workeds laid off and it expects to drop up to 1,000 more this week.

Many Ford plants plan to shut down one or two days a week in November to conserve enough steel to maintain production into December.

All Ford plants will shut down Thursday and Friday this week except the Falcon assembly plants at Lorain, Ohio, and Kansas City, and the Lincoln assembly plant at Wixom.

Four-day weeks also are in prospect at many Chrysler plants. A spokesman said, however, that Chrysler would try to work five days wherever possible.

Rouge Ouster Action Now Ruled Invalid

DETROIT (AP)—The ouster of two suburban River Rouge public safety commissioners, discharged 11 months ago, was ruled invalid yesterday in Wayne County Circuit Court.

Judge Theodore Souris ruled that James C. Dailey and Jack Bewick had been denied a fair trial because the charges against them were general conclusions.

★ ★ ★

Dailey and Bewick were accused of misconduct leading to corruption in the River Rouge Police Department. The Rouge City Council fired them last Dec. 2. Dailey had been a commission member since 1954 and Bewick had been a commissioner since 1950.

Israeli Voters Picking Their 4th Parliament

JERUSALEM (AP)—Long lines formed early at many of Israel's 2,419 polling places today as the nation elected its fourth Parliament.

Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion's moderate Socialist party, the Mapai, was expected to emerge again as the biggest faction in the 120-member Knesset, but once more without the majority it needs to govern alone.

Counting of votes does not start until after midnight, and general trend probably will not be apparent until Wednesday.

Shoots on Halloween; Released Until Nov. 12

MOUNT CLEMENS (AP)—John Cedzynski, 65, charged with wounding a teen-ager when he fired a warning shot at a group of Halloween pranksters, stood mute at his arraignment yesterday.

Cedzynski of East Detroit was ordered released on $2,500 bond for examination Nov. 12. Justice of the Peace Francis A. Castellucci entered a plea of innocent to a charge of assault.

Cedzynski was arrested after Robert Miller, 16, was struck in the thigh by a bullet which severed an artery last Friday. The youth is in serious condition at Saratoga Hospital.

The bullet was fired, Cedzynski said, to scare off Miller and two companions. The bullet apparently ricocheted after it was fired into the ground.

Ballots Counted in Battle Creek

Vote to Revise Charter; Springfield Stalls Action to Annex Area

BATTLE CREEK (AP) — Battle Creek residents voted yesterday to revise their city charter while suburban Springfield voters forestalled the larger city from annexing a portion of its industrial area.

Nine men were elected to work on the 1913 charter and have it revised within 90 days when the revision would be placed up for a popular vote.

If the revision is approved, it would mean Battle Creek would switch from a mayoral to a city manager type of government.

Voters in Battle Creek favored annexation of an area containing seven industries in Springfield. But residents of Springfield voted the annexation down.

Battle Creek also turned down an increased levy of 1½ mill in taxes annually to finance a new pension system for city employes.

'I Knew He Was Mad,' She Testifies

Slayer's Mother Weeps

ANN ARBOR (AP) — ". . . I knew he was totally mad," said the tearful mother of James D. Vogel yesterday as she told a court about the night her 14-year-old daughter was killed by a shotgun blast.

Mrs. Irene Vogel, a teacher, testified at the examination of her 17-year-old son who is charged with first-degree murder in the fatal shooting of his sister Gwendolyn Oct. 24.

TRIAL NOV. 20

Vogel was bound over to circuit court by municipal Judge Francis O'Brien who set trial for Nov. 20.

Mrs. Vogel said she reached for a telephone to call for help after her son picked up a shotgun following an argument with his sister over who was to sit in an easy chair before the family television set.

"When I went to pick up the receiver, I knew he was totally mad," the distraught mother told the court. "His eyes just glittered. I knew that I would never lift the receiver."

Mrs. Vogel said she heard the shotgun go off as she fled outside. Gwendolyn was found dead a few minutes later. Vogel was captured by police after a blast from the shotgun wounded a woman passerby. A policeman also was injured by shotgun pellets.

Mrs. Vogel, who teaches the sixth grade, testified that her son resented Gwendolyn. She said that the night of the slaying the girl was sitting in the disputed chair with a triumphant smile.

Her son often played at being a "dictator," Mrs. Vogel said. "He always tried to pretend he was a great leader, particularly a dictator."

'I'M MUSSOLINI'

"One time he had his hand in the front of his shirt, and we asked him who he was and he said he was Mussolini," Mrs. Vogel told the court.

Vogel did not look at his mother during the examination, nor did she look at him. Once, however, when she was recalled to the stand, she put her hand on his shoulder.

Mary E. Root, 22, the passerby who was injured by the shotgun blast, is in the University of Michigan Medical Center. One pellet struck her in the eye.

Civic Center Hassle May End Tonight

Five years of haggling over 18,941 square feet of land could end tonight if City Commission members meet the asking price of Stuart Austin, owner of the Austin Trucking Company, 74 Water St.

The city has sought the Austin property, site of the company's garage and parking lot, for the proposed civic center.

A good deal of that time Austin refused to sell. Subsequently, when he did offer, the price wasn't right, the city felt.

Austin said he delivered new terms to City Manager Walter K. Willman last week. Willman will present them to the Commission for consideration at 8 p.m. at the weekly Commission meeting.

Austin's property is across from the City Hall. A library is being built at the rear of his parking lot.

Also on tonight's agenda is a revision plan of the employes' working agreement. Willman said the revision has been in Commission hands and under study for three weeks.

It is not known, he said, whether action will be taken tonight.

Mississippi Picks Racist Governor

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Ross Barnett, 61, unopposed Democratic nominee for governor, was nominated in the August Democratic primary on a platform which emphasized maintenance of segregation. He will take office Jan. 19 to succeed Gov. J. P. Coleman.

Generally, Mississippi is a one-party state, but the embryonic state Republican party put up William V. Westbrook Jr., 29, to oppose State Sen. Hayden Campbell, Democratic nominee for the State Senate seat for Hinds County.

Commodores Named at Detroit Yacht Club

DETROIT (AP) — Alfred F. Steiner is the new commodore of the Detroit Yacht Club.

An auto dealer, Steiner has been a member of the club 36 years. C. Joseph Belanger was named vice president and Paul Roth rear commodore.

Warren Man Can't Hold Civil Service Post

MOUNT CLEMENS (AP)—Irving Little, former suburban Warren city councilman, has lost a court fight to keep his post on the Warren Civil Service Commission.

Little had been named to the Commission after his defeat this year for reelection to the council.

Circuit Judge James Spier ruled yesterday that Little may not retain the Civil Service job under rules of the city charter. The charter says no one may accept an appointive position until a year after expiration of any previous term in public office.

Little's council term expired last April 13.

Area Masons Converging on Detroit for Reunion

Pontiac area masons will begin converging on Detroit today for the 246th reunion of Scottish Rite Masons of the Valley of Detroit.

Three local Scottish Rite members are taking an active part in the reunion, while three other area men will receive the Thirty-Second Degree.

The reunion begins today and lasts through Nov. 13 at Detroit's Masonic Temple. The Valley of Detroit has more than 19,000 members in Oakland and 10 other southeastern Michigan counties.

Scottish Rite members among the 750 degree workers, committee members and special unit personnel assisting in reunion work are David S. Neal of 245 Voorheis Rd., Daniel C. Geislerm of 6381 Alden Dr., West Bloomfield Township, and Roy M. Gallipo of 4409 Forest Dr., Waterford Township.

★ ★ ★

Area residents who will receive the 32nd degree as members of the Guy W. Moore Class are Donald A. Cabral of 2300 Devonshire Rd. and A. Glenn Wilson of 74 Alice St, both of Bloomfield Township, and G. Edward Herholtz of 2195 S. Hammond Lake Dr., West Bloomfield Township.

The presentation will take place at the traditional 32nd degree banquet which will close the semiannual meeting on the night of Nov. 13.

Degrees from 4th through 32nd will be conferred on the fall class of 250 candidates. The class has been named in honor of the late Guy W. Moore, a prominent member in Detroit masonic and legal circles.

Other major reunion activities will take place on the nights of Nov. 6, 10, 11, 12 and the afternoon of the 13th.

An estimated 1,200 members are expected at the final banquet. Guest speaker for the event will be Dr. Kenneth McFarland of Topeka, Kan., nationally known educational figure and staff speaker for General Motors Corp.

The Valley of Detroit is fourth in size among the 116 Scottish Rite centers in the Northern Masonic Jurisdiction.

Winterizing Trucks Halted at Steel Plant

DETROIT (AP) — Supervisory employes trying to enter the strike-bound Great Lakes Steep Corp. plant to winterize equipment were turned back by pickets last night.

The pickets also turned back two trucks bearing chlorine and antifreeze.

None of the 50 men denied admittance to the plant had union passes.

The men had been ordered into the suburban Ecorse plant by the steel company after the United Steelworkers Union had refused permission for the emergency maintenance work.

There were no reports of any violence last night.

Company President W. D. MacDonnell, who saw the men turned away, vowed he would find some way to get them in.

"We don't want any bloodshed but we have half a billion dollars worth of equipment rotting away out there in the yards."

4 Area Osteopaths Return From Parley

Four area osteopaths have returned from the annual convention of the American College of Osteopathic Surgeons in Los Angeles.

Two from Pontiac were Doctors Merton C. Worster, 1012 W. Huron St., and Robert O. Fagen, 510 Pontiac State Bank Building. Also in attendance were Doctors E. E. Ludwig, 83 E. Avon Rd., Rochester, and John P. Wood, 206 Wabeek Building, Birmingham.

They were among 1,600 specialists gathered for the scientific sessions. Convention topics included surgical treatment of industrial injuries and the use of radioactive isotopes in diagnosis.

The 210-foot-tall Big Wheel in Vienna's famous amusement park, the Wurstelprater, was built in 1898 to commemorate the 50th anniversary of the reign of Austrian Emperor Franz Joseph.

Indians Seek Land Payment

Claims Commission to Rule on Nearly 4 Million Acres Taken in 1832

WASHINGTON (AP) — A group of Indians from eastern Wisconsin claims the government owes them a minimum of nearly 2½ million dollars for Michigan and Wisconsin land taken from them 127 years ago.

Marvin Chapman, attorney for the Indians, told the Indian Claims Commission at a hearing yesterday to determine the value of the 3,931,000 acres in question that it would be set at not less than $1.25 an acre.

The Indians in this case claimed a half interest in the land which includes a large chunk of Michigan. The other half was owned by Menominee Indians, but their claims were disposed of in prior litigation.

Robert W. Finley, associate professor of geography at the University of Wisconsin, said the land now and on June 25, 1832 when the government took over the land is valuable as crop and forest land.

The commission in 1957 ruled the government had wrongly dispossessed the Indians and that they should not be compensated for the value of the land on the basis of its 1832 value. The present hearing is to determine its worth at that time.

About 4,000 Indians of the Oneida, Stockbridge and Munsee tribes of Wisconsin seek the compensation.

James J. Manogue, Justice Department attorney, indicated he would appeal any award the government deems excessive.

Predict Large Turnout at Chicago Auto Show

DETROIT (AP)—Drumbeaters for the 52nd annual Chicago automobile show invaded the Motor City today with enthusiastic predictions for near record attendance. The show runs Jan. 16-24 and is the largest of the nation's auto shows.

Don C. Mullery, president of the Chicago Automobile Trade Assn., said the mid-January dates offer "perfect timing to open a banner 1960 selling year. We look for another wave of public response even exceeding that greeting the autumn new car announcements."

The show's attendance record of 518,521 was set in 1958.

About 150,000 square feet, 10,000 more than ever before, will be devoted to American passenger cars. Import cars will use 50,000 square feet, up from last year's high of 36,000. The show is staged in the Chicago Amphitheatre.

Only One of His Kind

WASHINGTON — Grover Cleveland was the only U.S. president ever to serve a second term after having been defeated for re-election at the end of his first term, according to historical records.

Fashion Touch Keeps Her on Top

Loretta Holds Audience

(This is the second in a series of five articles about the "Queens of Television.")

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — How does Loretta Young keep going while TV's other weekly dramas fall by the wayside?

The answer is she knows that millions of women tune in her show just as much to see her elaborate wardrobe as to watch the dramas in which she appears.

The 46-year-old star, whose NBC show is now in its seventh season, explained:

"It's every woman's dream to wear a new and beautiful dress every day. Women like the show because I'm able to appear in something spectacular every week."

★ ★ ★

Loretta is show business-wise because she was show business-reared.

Although she was born in Salt Lake City, Utah, she was just three years old when her mother, Gladys Royal Young, packed up her family and moved to Hollywood.

Mrs. Young's brother-in-law, an assistant movie director, suggested that Loretta and her three sisters try their luck as child extras. With food and clothes to buy for her flock, Mrs. Young accepted the suggestion.

Loretta was an extra at 4, a juvenile bit player at 12 and a studio contractee at 13.

★ ★ ★

While the girls worked and attended convent schools, Mrs. Young borrowed $500 from a clergyman, rented a huge old residence and started a rooming house. Later she took the house next door and expanded, at one time having 40 guests.

SET GOOD TABLE

"I don't think mother made much money," Loretta said. "I recall that her gross income ran around $2,400 a month, but she had to keep maids and a cook, and she did set a good table.

"And we girls never seemed to have many clothes. One day I got sent home from the convent school across the street because I wasn't wearing stockings.

"I just didn't have any. Mother fixed me up with a pair belonging to one of my sisters."

Loretta's big break came in 1928. Aided by her study of ballet, she won the role of a tight - rope walker in "Laugh, Clown, Laugh" with Lon Chaney.

★ ★ ★

From there she went on to make nearly 90 movies, including "The Farmer's Daughter," for which she was named best actress of 1947.

Her other films include "Along Came Jones," "The Bishop's Wife," "Rachel and the Stranger," "A Night to Remember," "Suez," "Eternally Yours," "Call of the Wild" and "The House of Rothschild."

TV NOT EASY

In 1952, Loretta transferred her affection to TV, but it wasn't easy.

"Some actresses think they can say, 'I want to get into television, and here I am,' but it doesn't work that way," she said.

"Why, we submitted eight different program ideas to the sponsors before they agreed on this one."

In addition to the drawing power of her wardrobe, Loretta said her show has managed to hang on because of the "upbeat" nature of its scripts.

"Downbeat, morbid stories aren't wanted," she said. "We always have complete shows with answers to problems, not questions. There's usually a moral, too."

★ ★ ★

Loretta said her opening entrance in a fashionable dress "is a fortunate thing because after the audience has seen me well-groomed, I can wear horrible clothes and ugly makeup during the show without having people wonder whether I've aged overnight.

"I've loved every minute of it."

LORETTA YOUNG

Benny, Jessel, Cantor, Burns

Greats Get Together

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The four elder statesmen of show business, representing more than 200 years of movie, radio, TV and vaudeville entertainment, band together for the first time this month for a video show.

George Burns, who has not fully recovered from Gracie Allen's retirement, has taped his initial program of the year with Jack Benny, Eddie Cantor and George Jessel.

Originally titled "A Night at the Palace," the show will be seen as "The Bigtime" — a flight to nostalgia and the old vaudeville days.

"All four of us have taken portions of our acts and revamped them," Burns said, pacing his office floor. He was rakishly attired in sports clothes, including a blue beret.

★ ★ ★

"It begins with Cantor and Jessel when they were breaking records at the Palace Theater in 1927. Then we move to Benny at the Poli Theater in Wilkes-Barre the first time he performed without his violin."

Modestly, George said he would sing some of the songs he made famous.

Then he had the gall to ask how anyone could forget such all time greats as "I'm tying the Leaves So They Won't Fall Down," "Oh What a Wonderful Winter, the Boys Are All Back Home" and "Tiger Girl."

OLD TUNES

"When I get through with those numbers I sing some of the real old tunes," he beamed.

George's three guests on the spectacular (Nov. 17, NBC-TV), all were famous before Burns himself hit the bigtime. He struggled along as a second-rater until he joined forces with Gracie.

"I knew Cantor all my life," he said. "But he didn't know me. He didn't want to know me. He only started talking to me when I was 27 years old — after I met Gracie. Jack Benny has been my closest friend for 36 years. Jessel and I have known one another for about 35 years.

"This is the first time the four of us have worked together. In the old days we couldn't have afforded to appear in a group."

Burns struck a pose and he explained that he was a cut above his pals.

"They are essentially comedians," he said. "I am a singer. No, no, don't laugh. When I went to parties in the past I'd jump up and sing for nothing. But now that I have a night club act and sing on records I wait to be asked to sing. Trouble is, nobody asks."

Movie producer Albert Zugsmith is seeking TV star Raymond Burr (Perry Mason) to co-star with Mamie Van Doren and Fay Spain in "Anatomy of the Syndicate." . . . Frankie Laine will make a five-city personal appearance tour to plug his latest record before taking off for a tour of Europe.

TV News and Reviews

Second Look at 'Paradise' Shows No Improvement

By FRED DANZIG

NEW YORK (UPI)—What's wrong with ABC-TV's hour-long series, Adventure in Paradise?

The show took a severe thrashing when it debuted. Even the ad agency men and film executives who helped put it together voiced distress over the show.

They vowed to work harder to improve it. Gardner Mckay, the star of the show, began taking lessons on how to act. I was assured last week that the show had improved so much that I might be pleasantly surprised if I took another look.

What's this stuff about double jeopardy?

Last night's story was straight out of those Peter Lorre movies. His early ones. Paulette Goddard was on deck as a woman living it up on Noumea who didn't want her daughter to learn about her dreadful past. (I'm going to be very sure my past doesn't ruin her future," is how she put it.)

Paulette was threatened by a killer-blackmailer, played well enough by Simon Oakland. It all came out okay, however, after one of those patented ABC-TV ware house brawls.

★ ★ ★

Still absent from the show are paradise-like scenes of the South Pacific. Most of last night's action took place at night, or inside houses or cafes or that bloomin' warehouse. And as for adventure—it was sadly outdated.

However, McKay's acting has improved. He's only a monotone 98 per cent of the time now. But his eyelashes still flutter before he speaks. I think this little preliminary helps rev up his voice.

NO PLACE TO BE BAD

Someone once said that because of TV new performers no longer have any place in which to be bad. Nonsense. There is a place for new talent to be bad. Ironically, it's TV. And Adventure in Paradise is the best example I've seen.

Pat Harrington Jr., a performer who is resurrecting dialect comedy on TV, joined the permanent Danny Thomas show company last night on CBS-TV.

He plays the part of a young night club comedian who specializes in being an Italian golf pro named Guido Panzini which is the role he made famous on Jack Paar's Show.

Harrington's shortcomings as a straight actor were plainly evident, but in his less emotional scenes with Thomas, he showed promise of becoming an asset to the show. If Danny and Pat can leave the women at home and move ipto a night club environment, perhaps the jaded look of the show will vanish.

THE CHANNEL SWIM: Recording artists who will receive "Grammy" Awards on the Sunday, Nov. 29 NBC-TV special presented by the National Academy of Recording Arts and Sciences include Ella Fitzgerald, Bobby Darin Duke Ellington, Jimmy Driftwood, Shelley Berman and the Southern California Mormon Tabernacle Choir.

U.S. Steel's CBS-TV special on Feb. 10, "The American Cowboy," starring Fred MacMurray, has a supporting cast of Wally Cox, Edie Adams, Hans Conried and Carrol Burnett . . . Bil Baird is filming a puppet series in color for network or syndication use. The format recreates best-selling kiddy books.

A Tuesday, Nov. 10 show on ABC-TV will honor Dr, Thomas Dooley, the American whose clinics have helped Laotians battle sickness.

Lowell Thomas, a reluctant star of NBC-TV's This Is Your Life earlier this season, returns tomorrow to help Ralph Edwards honor a friend.

Wilson Bares His Soul: He Cheated on a Quiz

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Hey, how can a guy get subpoenaed around here? I want to confess . . .

Hi, Mr. Hogan! How's the perjury business? You see, they gave me the answers once on a rigged show, and I want to blab. If Charles Van Doren can recant, why recant I? (Some pun, hey, Frank?)

WILSON

What we had to do was identify famous historical events, from certain meager clues.

The first night of the show, just before air-time, I was over by the water cooler. The producer stood there loudly telling me a funny story. When nobody was near, he said in a low voice, "On the third question : . ." I looked at him quickly. "You've heard of Adam and Eve?" he added. "Don't guess it too soon now!"

This was before quiz show contestants took acting lessons. I sat there on the panel, cudgeling the answer out of my brain. "Is there any fruit involved in this here event?" I asked the quizmaster. "Is there a lady nudist in it?"

Just as I was about to crash through with the answer, my time was up, and a lady panelist got it. All I wish to say about this lady panelist is that she was always at the water cooler and went to dinner with the producer, besides.

That show flopped. I always felt it was too honest. The prizes were small. We always won an adding machine. I finally had so many adding machines I needed an adding machine to add up my adding machines.

Deeds Office Shows Decline in Business

After several months of showing an increase in business over comparable periods of last year, the Oakland County Register of Deeds Office last month noted a decline of 354 papers filed compared with October of 1958.

Receipts for last month totaled $20,125. For October 1958 receipts were $22,353 for 13,739 papers, compared with 13,385 filed last month.

Two new land plats were recorded last month, Daniel T. Murphy Jr., clerk-register said.

Last month there were 2,845 deeds ($4,704), 1,402 regular mortgages ($4,854), and 6,133 chattel mortgages filed.

State Death Toll Higher Than '58

70 More Than Same 10-Month Period; Any Reduction Doubtful

EAST LANSING (UPI)—Michigan's death toll for the first 10 months of the year is nearly 70 higher than for the corresponding period a year ago, State Police said Monday.

★ ★ ★

State Police tentative death figures for October come to 104, compared to 112 for October a year ago, but officials warn that delayed death reports could boost last month's toll.

Total deaths for the year through October were 1,136, just 67 more than for the 10-month period a year ago.

The downward trend in the toll for October was "encouraging," said State Police Commissioner Joseph A. Childs, but he warned that increasing hazards the rest of the year would make it that much more difficult to keep the toll down.

For the past three years, Michigan cut its traffic toll by 10 per cent each year but there is no chance of that reduction coming again, Childs said.

In fact, Michigan drivers this year will have trouble staying within the 1,375 death count of last year.

Travel in the state is up an estimated 4 per cent over a year ago at about 20,400,000,000 miles, Childs said, and the state's death rate is about 4.3 deaths per 100,000,000 miles.

4 Will Visit Poland to Strengthen Ties

WASHINGTON (UP) — Secretary of Commerce Frederick H. Mueller will head a four member U.S. delegation to Poland Nov. 14-25.

The White House said purpose of the visit is to strengthen historic ties between the American and Polish people and to foster better public understanding of mutual interests.

The delegation was invited by the Polish government. A Polish delegation visited the United States in 1958.

Many Still Like TV Quiz Shows

Only Small Portion of Public Is Disappointed, Claims Survey

NEW YORK (AP) — The headlines are big and black, and the news of quiz show rigging is shocking and disappointing. But all the revelations have affected only slightly the public's enjoyment of, and its attitude towards, television in general.

That, in essence, is the finding of a survey ordered by Broadcasting, a weekly trade publication. The survey, which covered almost 3,000 households in 187 different areas, was made by a professional research firm.

★ ★ ★

The current issue of the magazine — published before Charles Van Doren made his dramatic confession to the congressional subcommittee—says less than 10 per cent of those sampled say the investigation has affected their enjoyment of the medium. Just about twice that percentage say it has affected their attitude toward television — but in what way the survey report doesn't specify.

★ ★ ★

Perhaps the most interesting statistic dredged up by the survey is the 57.4 per cent who say that, in spite of everything, they'd like to have the quiz shows back on the air.

This grassroots vote of confidence should give the badly shaken TV industry a little comfort. After all, it lives, dreams and dies by surveys and ratings. But it has been a rough few months.

Royal Oak Man Sent to Prison for 5-10 Years

For taking indecent liberties with a 4½-year-old girl in his home, Jerry D. Belisle, 22, of 3407½ Rochester Rd., Royal Oak, yesterday was sentenced to 5 to 10 years in Jackson Prison.

Belisle pleaded guilty Oct. 9 before Oakland County Circuit Judge William J. Beer.

Both for Steel and in Railroads

Boils Down to—'Who's the Boss?'

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Labor-management disputes, still very much with us in the steel industry, move over today to the railroads. The issue is the same — work rules.

Railroad management calls it featherbedding. Steel management calls it an attempt to regain say-so in making mill operations efficient to get the most out of new equipment and the labor needed to run it.

Both disputes have another point in common — increasing competition.

Steel management contends that the old working rules, plus a steadily rising wage scale, have made many American steel products too costly to sell competitively in world markets and, in some cases, even in the domestic market.

★ ★ ★

Railroad management says that working rules, even more than rising pay scales, have put many an ailing road in poor position to compete with trucks, airlines and barges—and this year with the St. Lawrence Seaway.

★ ★ ★

The railroad brotherhoods are as unlikely to take kindly to the demand for work rule changes as the steel union.

Both deny that the rules do the damage that management contends. Both insist that the rules were won after long struggles and to give them up would be a step backward in workers' rights.

WHO'S THE BOSS?

This basic problem isn't confined to the two industries now in the spotlight. The issue of who should run the factory or the mill runs through labor negotiations in big and little companies in numerous industries.

Management charges the rules lead to make-work activity. Labor says that to change them would be a speedup.

★ ★ ★

During this decade the issue has been sharpened by great strides toward automation. Workers fear loss of jobs if machines take over what men used to do, and cling to the rules all the harder. Management wants to get the most out of its costly new gadgets.

★ ★ ★

Looking at this year's major strikes—steel, copper, zinc, glass, and the recently settled meatpacking—and the threatening walkouts in aluminum and on the railroads, the First National City Bank of New York sees the same thread running through most of them.

In its November bank letter, it holds: "Whether negotiators refer to featherbedding, automation, technological progress, or improved materials handling, the basic issue is the same — the insistence of management on its right to introduce more efficient methods and equipment."

★ ★ ★

"At a time when American industry is facing a difficult challenge in maintaining exports, business has become more sensitive to union rules which waste manpower. Excessive labor costs can no longer be easily offset by higher prices, and greater efficiency is management's major weapon in maintaining adequate profits to provide for growth," it says.

That is why steel executives say they're being so stubborn in demanding changes in rules they contend waste labor time. And why the railroads are attacking featherbedding — which they charge calls for unneeded employes doing little if any work.

DOUBLE-DECK COACH — Electrically heated double-deck coaches are only part of the remarkable new Chicago and Northwestern Railway train used for a suburban run in the Windy City. Rather than pulling, the locomotive pushes. Returning, the train operates conventionally. When the train is being pushed, it is operated by remote control from the last coach. Each car costs $155,000.

U.S. in Canal Zone Lets Her Assert Authority on Anniversary Day

PANAMA (AP) — American authorities in the Panama Canal Zone stood ready for any emergency today — the 56th independence anniversary of the republic of Panama — but made no open display of precaution.

An air of alertness prevaded the Canal Zone as a result of calls by two Panamanian nationalists for a show of their country's flags in the Canal Zone. The United States holds a perpetual lease on the 10 - mile - wide, 40-mile-long strip of land.

Former Foreign Minister Aquilino Boyd and Ernesto Castillero Pimentel last week urged their countrymen to enter the Canal Zone today carrying the Panamanian flag. They insisted the demonstration would be a peaceful reassertion of Panama's sovereignty over the zone.

American authorities said normal traffic control and disciplinary measures would be in effect. The U.S. Army's Caribbean Command indicated no special alert had been ordered but troops would be available if needed.

Panamanians have carried flags into the Canal Zone on Nov. 3 in previous years. There were indications no objections would be made this year if the activities were peaceful and orderly.

'Much Less Hair, Not Much More Cash'

Nixon, Pat Trek Home

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "I don't have much more money now than I had then. And I have considerably less hair."

That, says Vice President Richard M. Nixon, is the difference between his life today and 14 years ago when he was launched on a political career by friends in Southern California.

★ ★ ★

Nixon came home Monday night with his wife, Pat, to speak at a banquet reunion of the Committee of 100 that selected him to run for Congress in 1946.

★ ★ ★

He amused listeners by walking to a piano and playing a favorite of former President Harry S. Truman — "The Missouri Waltz."

The vice president, on a six-day vacation, has avoided political engagements because, he said, he did not want them to reflect on the coming visit of New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

Nixon said he was sure Rockefeller would get a warm welcome when he arrives here Nov. 12.

The Rhode Island State House in Providence boasts one of only four marble domes in the world. The others are atop the Taj Mahal in India, St. Peter's in Rome and the Minnesota State Capitol in St. Paul.

Burned Baby Sitter Being Buried Today

OTTUMWA, Iowa (AP) — The eighth victim of a house fire will be buried here today.

Service will be held at 1:30 p.m. for Sharon Ann Dooley, 13, baby sitter for the seven children who died when fire destroyed their two-room house while their mothers were in a tavern.

Sharon was rescued from the blazing building but died of burns Sunday.

The six children of Patricia Van Horne, and the daughter of Mrs. Van Horne's sister, Lorraine Campbell, were buried side by sid in little white caskets Monday.

Carlton Campbell attended the funeral of his daughter Carla, 3, with permission of county authorities who had jailed him on a charge of deserting his wife and family in 1957.

The father of the Van Horne children, Herman, was in a Santa Monica, Calif., jail on suspicion of bigamy. Police said he married a second wife there last month, after leaving his family in February.

Naughty Boy Statue Gets Gifts

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — "It's not a question of too few clothes," said former Belgian Sen. Leo Schalkens, "but of too many."

He referred to Brussels world-famous statue of a curly-haired little boy being naughty in public.

A member of the Brussels Municipal Council, the Brabant Country Council, and a newspaper editor, Schalkens is proudest of his job as president of an association of the friends of the naughty boy.

★ ★ ★

"We founded the association of his friends five years ago," Schalkens said, "and we meet at least twice a month.

★ ★ ★

"One of our greatest problems is the clothes we receive for the undressed boy.

"They come from all over the world. He now has more than 70 complete uniforms."

With a delightful sense of humor, the City Council has collected the uniforms and has them on display in a museum.

"These clothes are getting to be a bother," said Schalkens, "for the boy stands glorious, unique and unashamed in his plump nakedness. He doesn't need clothes. To clothe him would spoil him, but the world doesn't seem to understand." Uniforms have come from the American Army, the British, the Royal Air Force, the Canadians, and the French Foreign Legion — to mention but a few.

★ ★ ★

The decorations are on display in the museum too.

★ ★ ★

He's been stolen twice—by English soldiers in 1745, and French soldiers two years later.

"He is our most famous landmark" said Schalkens. "He's to Brussels what the Eifel Tower is to Paris, the Statue of Liberty to New York and Big Ben is to London."

A stream of water plays a big part in the statue's daily life.

"This dates back from an old legend," said Schalkens, "when the young son of a duke climbed into a tree and rudely, but correctly, insulted some foreign troops.

"At this splendid insult, the troops of Brussels took heart, rallied and won the day."

About 67 per cent of the U.S. meat supply is dressed in federally-inspected packing plants; 15 per cent by city or state inspection; 7 per cent by local retailers; 11 per cent on farms.

The only natural disaster to take five or more lives in the United States during 1958 was the group of tornadoes that struck northwestern Wisconsin early in June, claiming 30 victims.
