United Fund Torch Lighted

LIGHT TORCH — With a slight buzzing sound from the button, Calvin J. Werner, general campaign chairman, lights the torch that signals the start of the 1965 Pontiac Area United Fund campaign. Werner pressed the button in brief ceremonies yesterday on the lawn of City Hall.

Record Goal of $875,000 Being Sought

Campaign Will Run for 22 Days Seeking Help for Agencies

Brief torch-lighting ceremonies yesterday on the lawn of City Hall officially launched the 1965 Pontiac Area United Fund campaign. A record $875,000 will be sought this year.

Calvin J. Werner, general chairman, lighted the giant torch that will burn for 22 days and nights until the campaign is completed Nov. 4.

Werner said that the torch is the symbol of hope and an invitation to help those less-privileged Pontiac citizens.

"Let's preserve the challenge to care," he added.

FIND LEADERSHIP

Griffin said that this year the UF drive looked to industry for leadership and found it in Werner.

Attending the torch-lighting were the four division chairmen, Thomas F. Wiethorn, industrial; James P. Dickerson, commercial; Bruce J. Annett, advance gifts; and Mrs. William G. Wright, women's.

Representatives from some of the 55 agencies supported through the annual UF solicitations were also on hand for the lighting of the torch.

A group of musicians — The Wide Tracks — from Pontiac Central High School provided music for the brief ceremonies.

The record goal this year is $59,500 higher than last year, reflecting the growth of the community and its needs.

Funds collected last year served 30,000 families — more than three out of every five persons in the Pontiac area.

Division goals are $234,757 for commercial; $104,090, advance gifts; $582,463, industrial; and women's, $35,078.

The torch-lighting marks the kickoff of the four divisions, except the advance gifts division which has already begun solicitations. Hundreds of volunteers will begin contacting contributors.

Cloud Legality of Morrissey Race in 1934

Massachusetts Paper Cites His Testimony: Resided in Georgia

BOSTON (AP) — Francis X. Morrissey, nominated by President Johnson for a federal judgeship, ran for the Massachusetts House in 1934 when he has testified he was living in Georgia, the Boston Globe said today in a copyright story.

"The disclosure becomes pertinent because Morrissey, by his own testimony before the Senate Judiciary Committee this week, has made his whereabouts in 1933-34 a central issue in his fight for confirmation," the newspaper said.

The committee approved the nomination, 6-3, after a hearing in Washington Tuesday, and then recalled Morrissey for further questioning

At the hearing Tuesday, Albert E. Jenner Jr., of Chicago, chairman of the American Bar Association's Federal Judiciary Committee, urged rejection of the nomination.

He said so far as his committee could learn, Morrissey obtained admission to the bar in Georgia from a law school that had no faculty and that he never attended.

Jenner said his information was that Morrissey spent only two days in Georgia.

Morrissey testified that he attended law school in Athens, Ga., for three months and after his admission to the Georgia bar, stayed on in the state for about six months.

"The time, according to the testimony he gave the Senate subcommittee, would have placed him in Georgia from June 1933, to March 1934," the Globe said.

"To be eligible to serve in the House Morrissey would have had to be an inhabitant of the House District, Ward 2, Boston, since January of 1934," to meet the state's constitutional requirements, the Globe said.

Cuba Demands Puerto Rico Freedom

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (UPI) — Cuba today demanded freedom for Puerto Rico and called for a full United Nations debate on Viet Nam where it contended only the Communist government holds sway.

Cuban Foreign Minister Raul Roa, a fiery speaker with machinegun diction, told the U. N. General Assembly that the only way to denuclearize Latin America would be to take nuclear weapons away from the United States.

He said the government of Premier Fidel Castro "reserves the right to put previous conditions to guarantee its defense." He did not elaborate.

As Roa walked to the assembly rostrum amid applause led by the Communist bloc, Ambassador Charles W. Yost, deputy chief of the U. S. mission, led the United States delegation from the hall in silent protest.

Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg reserved in advance the right to reply to Roa's remarks.

The United States left one young representative at its seats in the assembly hall. She was Mrs. Kirsten Campbell Paulos, foreign affairs officer who is named next to last on the list of 41 mission members in the printed delegates' directory.

Nicaragua and Honduras did not show up for the Roa speech. The other Latin American delegations sat through it.

Roa gained frequent applause from the gallery, where U. N. guards were liberally sprinkled among what appeared to be Castro supporters.

He also was applauded often by the Communists, led by Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, and once by the El Salvador delegation when he declared that "Cuba is the only free country in the Americas."

Roa denounced the sending of U. S. troops to the Dominican Republic and condemned Washington for interventionist moves in hemisphere affairs. As for Castro's government, he said:

"Seven years after the revolutionary dawn Cuba is still there . . . without having given one iota in the socialist development of life it chose or without renouncing a single principle underlying its foreign policy."

Roa said Cuba believed the Viet Nam war "might well lead to a universal conflagration." He charged that the United States "shattered" the 1954 Geneva agreements.

Roa was applauded when he referred to Puerto Rico as "a stunted nation" and a U. S. colony.

Dedication and Birthday Will Coincide

Mrs. Alfred G. Wilson will celebrate her 82nd birthday Tuesday by officiating at the cornerstone laying of Matilda R. Wilson Hall, the new Oakland University classroom-office building named in her honor.

Representatives of the state government, the Michigan State University Board of Trustees and Oakland County legislators will join OU students and staff in the official noon ceremony.

Commemorating the Wilsons' 1957 contribution of their estate and $2 million to construct the university's first two buildings, Matilda R. Wilson Hall will house a new university art gallery.

It will provide classrooms and offices for some of the departments in the College of Arts and Sciences, the School of Education, admissions, placement, dean of students and language labs.

It also includes a lecture hall seating more than 600.

Prince Philip Takes Off for London Despite Fog

MILAN (AP) — Piloting his own plane, Prince Philip took off for London today in a fog that closed the Milan airport to regular traffic.

The thick fog, a normal autumn occurrence in northern Italy, did not seem to disturb Philip as he left in his Hawker-Siddeley twin-engine plane.

Barbs at LBJ Season GOP's Fete for Ike

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans assembled in 28 cities to toast Dwight D. Eisenhower on his 75th birthday salted their salute to the former president with a bristling attack on the present one, Lyndon B. Johnson.

And Eisenhower, himself spoke scornfully last night of legislation "bullied through just by political power."

The birthday anniversary of the last Republican president was a time to raise high the GOP banner, scorn the Democrats — and pour up to $100 a plate into depleted party coffers.

Eisenhower attended none of the dinners, celebrating instead with his four grandchildren in Pheonixville, Pa. But a 15-minute film carried this and other remarks to the diners across the country:

"The laws a nation lives by have to be hammered out by debate, by thoughtful discussion and by give and take. They cannot be bullied through just by political power.

★ ★ ★

"In legislation, it is not how many laws you pass, it is how many good laws you pass."

The power theme — that the Democrats, led by the White House, are too prone to its use — was sounded also by Barry Goldwater, party chairman Ray C. Bliss and New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

Defend States, Says Romney

Asks GOP Support for Fight to Hold Rights

NEW YORK (AP) — "The battle to strengthen states should be a central plank in our party's blueprint for victory," Michigan's Gov. Romney said last night.

Romney, speaking at a dinner here in honor of former President Eisenhower's 75th birthday said, repeating an earlier warning by Eisenhower, that:

"If present trends continue, the states finally will become nothing but powerless satellites of the national government."

The governor asked for more Republican victories to stop "the march of power to Washington" and said there must be four main points of state responsibility.

He listed these as:

- Responsible states must constantly modernize and update the machinery of state and local government.
- They must maintain revenues to pay for needed services and preserve fiscal integrity.
- They must "preserve the people's needs. They must not ignore problems or be afraid of reform."
- They must "stay close to the people and give them encouragement and support in solving their own problems."

Romney cited his own record, in a state otherwise controlled by Democrats in the legislature and other top elective offices, as "Michigan Republican progress" and an example of "responsible state action to meet the people's needs."

City Merchants Urged to Arm

Say Guns Needed to Battle Robbers

Pontiac merchants have been urged to arm themselves to protect their lives and businesses against gun-wielding bandits and robbers.

Rep. Arthur J. Law, D-Pontiac, owner of a local grocery store, advised 30 local business proprietors at a meeting at City Hall Wednesday "to do something to help themselves."

He urged them to take training in the safe and proper use of firearms. He also urged merchants to aid the city in securing and maintaining an adequate police force.

Police Chief William K. Hanger has offered to have his department furnish the necessary training for those interested businessmen. He also offered the police target range for practice.

★ ★ ★

Hanger, who attended the City Hall meeting along with City Manager Joseph A. Warren, said that even though the number of armed robberies in Pontiac is down slightly from a comparable period in 1964, they still are occurring at an alarming rate.

ONE A WEEK

The police chief said there were 76 armed robberies in the city in 1964, an average of more than one a week.

Hanger told of difficulties in coping with the problem due to an undermanned department, while Warren told of efforts of the city to recruit more officers.

Hanger also spoke of recent restrictions placed by the Supreme Court on police depart-

Sunny, Mild Tomorrow

The weatherman promises a pleasant tomorrow, but he may dampen the area with a few showers Sunday.

★ ★ ★

Clearing and cooler with lows 45 to 53 is the forecast for tonight, and sunny and mild with highs of 62 to 70 is Saturday's prediction. Showers and warmer is the Sunday outlook.

Morning southwesterly winds at 5 to 20 miles per hour will diminish to 5 to 10 m.p.h. tonight.

Fifty-six was the low recording in downtown Pontiac preceding 8 a.m. The thermometer reading at 2 p.m. was 70.

Johnson Having Some Pain; Slept Little Last Night

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson was reported today to be "having some pains in the area of his incision" and to have had barely two hours of sleep last night.

But Joseph Laitin, assistant White House press secretary, said the pain was not great enough to require any sedation.

And, when asked for the latest assessment of the President's condition, Laitin said:

"The general opinion among the doctors is that progress is continuing satisfactorily."

Viet Protest Due in Spite of Warnings

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — Despite warnings of mass arrests, the "Vietnam Day Committee" went ahead with plans for a march today in protest to United States involvement in Viet Nam.

Warnings came from state and local authorities.

* * *

The 7½-mile march from the University of California Berkeley campus to nearby Oakland Army Terminal is part of a series of such demonstrations planned in the United States and abroad.

Repercussions came quickly from various parts of this nation:

At New Brunswick, N.J., Mrs. Walter Lantrey, mother of a Coast Guard lieutenant in Viet Nam, slapped a Rutgers University student who told a teach-in that military personnel there were "drips." Campus police said the student then punched the mother. Disciplinary action was promised.

* * *

A float, designed to show disapproval of the Viet Nam conflict, was overturned at the University of Michigan. The float was for the Michigan homecoming parade and was built by the "Student-Faculty Committee to End the War in Viet Nam."

GENERAL SPEAKS

In Milwaukee, Wis., Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor was picketed when he made a speech. Taylor, former U.S. ambassador to Viet Nam, took note of the pickets and said:

"Here at home they don't mean anything, but Communist leaders in Hanoi and Peking draw encouragement from them."

In Austin, Tex., the City Council refused to grant a downtown parade permit to a University of Texas organization, "Students for a Democratic Society."

While one group of 500 marched by torchlight Thursday night through the campuses of the Claremont College group near Los Angeles in protest of Viet Nam policy, a group of equal size paraded in support of U.S. actions.

In Washington, the Senate Internal Security subcommittee, in a study, declared "there has been a tragic blurring of the distinction between the position of those who oppose our involvement in Viet Nam on pacifist or idealist grounds, and those who oppose our involvement in the war because they are Communists or pro-Communists."

The subcommittee accused the national teach-in movement of being Communist-infiltrated and exploited.

Manhunt Closes In on Fugitive

WEATHERFORD, Okla. (AP) — Police closed in on this central Oklahoma area today in an effort to snare a slippery Texas fugitive who has held 18 persons captive in his desperate bid to escape.

Delbert Harmon Garmon Jr. has zigzagged across the state in half a dozen stolen automobiles for the past 10 days. At every stop he has managed to elude state and federal officers.

* * *

So far, no one except Garmon, 26, has been hurt. He was nicked on the cheek by a shotgun blast fired by a Wichita Falls, Tex., policeman.

For six hours Thursday Garmon held captive another family.

UNDER HIS GUN

It was the sixth time he placed people under his gun since he fled Oct. 5 from Wichita Falls. He left Wichita Falls in an exchange of gunfire with a policeman who answered a call that the ex-convict had threatened his wife.

Garmon's wife, Nina, 29, and her three children were placed in protective custody after she made a statement implicating the fugitive in two Oklahoma City holdups that netted around $11,000.

The Texan's spree began Oct. 5 after his wife ran into a service station in Wichita Falls saying her husband had threatened her. Police were notified and Garmon disarmed an investigating officer. The officer managed to fire a blast from his shotgun.

Bronson Picks Finn Top Aide

Post Vacant Since Death of Robert Long

Oakland County Prosecutor S. Jerome Bronson today named James F. Finn as his top aide.

* * *

Since joining the staff as an assistant prosecutor in June, Finn, 39, of Detroit has been the chief criminal trial lawyer for the prosecutor's office.

He takes over the chief assistant post left vacant Oct. 7 by the death of Robert D. Long, who had held the job since 1958.

James Roberts, an assistant prosecutor for 10 years, was named to succeed Finn as the chief trial lawyer.

Roberts, 44, of Royal Oak Township, was first appointed to the staff by then Prosecutor Frederick C. Ziem, now an Oakland County Circuit Judge.

Bronson had indicated this summer that Finn would move into the position when Long became assistant to the Circuit Court administrator.

* * *

Long became ill, however, and his transfer to the new position was never carried out.

FIRST ASSIGNMENT

Prior to coming to Oakland County, Finn was the chief of the criminal division in the U.S. Attorney's Office in Detroit.

One of his first major assignments with the county was the Madison Heights Steren Assembly Club trial, held in Manistee in late July and early August.

He headed a three-man team that won convictions against 20 gamblers arrested in the raid nearly two years earlier. An appeal is being prepared by the defense attorney.

* * *

A 1957 graduate of the University of Detroit Law School, Finn was engaged in private practice in 1960-61 with R. E. Manning, a former Redford Township supervisor.

Remnants of the fort were discovered in 1962 during excavation for the construction of the new downtown Detroit Bank and Trust Co. building at Fort Street near Shelby.

Charter memberships in the friends organization are still available.

A first birthday gift from the group will be presented to the library Thursday.

Chief Denies Firemen Late

The Novi fire chief today disputed a report by employes of the American Plastics Products Co., which was destroyed by fire yesterday, that it took 45 minutes for the first fire truck to arrive.

Chief Fred Lyons said that a truck from his department arrived at the burning building at 40281 13 Mile seven or eight minutes after the alarm was reported at 6:45 a.m.

Lyons said that damage to contents of the building still is undetermined.

The building itself, which was called a total loss, was valued at $140,000 by its owner, Torkum Prince.

The 30 merchants attending the meeting agreed unanimously to take the gun training.

START TRAINING

Any Pontiac business or professional persons who think they are potential robbery victims were urged to contact Law or Chief Hanger to enroll in the gun-training program.

Owner of a grocery store at 200 Earlmoor, Law was beaten and robbed by a pair of thugs in 1951. He suffered multiple lacerations and bruises of the head, face and shoulder.

Last month Law's 25-year-old son, Charles, fatally wounded a bandit in another robbery attempt at the store.

1st Area Pediatrician Ends Long Career

By JODY HEADLEE
Home Editor, The Pontiac Press

When Dr. Campbell Harvey walks out of his Riker Building office for the last time tomorrow, he'll close the door on a lifetime of devotion and dedication to his youthful patients, their parents and his community.

* * *

A Pontiac pediatrician, the retiring Dr. Harvey began his practice 43 years ago, the first physician in Oakland County to specialize in children's diseases.

How many babies has the 76-year-old doctor guided from colic to college? He won't even hazard a guess.

"I just couldn't," he said, "but I do know I'm now taking care of the grandbabies of some of my first babies."

* * *

A graduate of the University of Michigan, Dr. Harvey has served as commissioner and health commissioner of Orchard Lake where he makes his home.

SCHOOL PHYSICIAN

He was the school physician at Cranbrook and Kingswood schools for more than 15 years.

Former president of the Oakland County branch, Michigan Children's Aid Society, Dr. Harvey has volunteered his services to that organization since 1925.

He has also been active on the Pontiac Day Nursery board and as director on both the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals and the Pontiac YMCA.

The Harveys have one daughter, Mrs. Hugh Leaming of Bryan, Ohio and two grandchildren.

6-MONTH HOLIDAY

In November Dr. and Mrs. Harvey will drive to San Miguel, Mexico for a six-month holiday.

"It's beautiful down there," said the doctor. "The people are friendly. The climate is warm. And the fruits are perfectly wonderful.

"We'll have pomegranate, lime and orange trees growing right on our own patio. And a man to take care of them too.

* * *

"Oh I know I'm going to miss my practice," confided the soft-spoken man, "the friendships, the work, everything.

MISS THE CHILDREN

"But mostly," he hesitated as if trying to recall almost a half century of memories in an instant, "I'll miss the children.

"Their running up and wrapping warm little arms around my neck, there's nothing quite like it you know.

"Yes, mostly I'll miss the children."

New President Talks to IAPA

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI) — Jack Howard, president of Scripps - Howard Newspapers, accepted the presidency of the Inter-American Press Association (IAPA) last night with a pledge to preserve the unity in its ranks and a warning to its members not to take it for granted.

"We are headed for the future in a craft well equipped to handle our problems," Howard said in acceptance remarks to a closing session of the IAPA's 21st general assembly, attended by 500 editors and publishers from throughout the Americas.

Pontiac Press Publisher Harold A. Fitzgerald and Business Manager Howard H. Fitzgerald II are attending the session.

Delegates to the assembly approved at the closing session measures condemning restrictions on the free press both in North America and Latin America.

"There does not exist any vestige of individual freedom of the press under the present regime in Cuba," the IAPA said. It pledged to take whatever measures might aid in obtaining the release of more than 20 newsmen jailed in Cuba.

DISCRIMINATORY TAXES

The IAPA also pledged efforts to end what it termed "discriminatory" taxes "and other government-imposed burdens" on newspapers. In Canada, it said recent legislation has in effect placed a tax on newspaper advertising.

KISS FOR COURTENAY—Two-year-old Courtenay Valenti, daughter of White House aide Jack Valenti, gets a kiss from President Johnson yesterday on a sun deck at Bethesda Naval Hospital. The President took advantage of the warm weather to get some sunshine—the first time he has ventured out since his operation.

Color, Mood Seem Good

LBJ Gets First Fresh Air Since Surgery

WASHINGTON (AP) — Weak but cheerful, President Johnson reached a minor medical milestone Thursday night — the end of a week's hospitalization for major surgery.

His color and mood seemed good when he got his first airing on a sunny rooftop terrace at Bethesda Naval Hospital in late afternoon.

He traded hugs and kisses with a pretty young lady — the 2-year-old daughter of one of his top assistants, Jack Valenti.

Johnson was described as in a relaxed mood at dinner later with Mrs. Johnson and some of his staff. He attributed his being around as long as he has to staying grounded when his pilots tell him not to fly and to doing what his doctors tell him to do.

PLANT TREE

The President was expected to be watching from a hospital window today while Mrs. Johnson and Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall plant an oak tree as a green symbol of the restoration of his strength and well-being.

The word from his chief spokesman, Bill D. Moyers, White House press secretary, was that he is "slowly regaining his strength," that "the doctors continue to be pleased with his recovery and satisfied with his progress."

★ ★ ★

This despite Johnson's having told Moyers he was more tired than he thought he would be and the press secretary's own assessment that "he is weaker than anyone thought."

★ ★ ★

"I think the pace of the last 20 months has accumulated weariness that was not evident until the operation," Moyers told newsmen Thursday.

SATISFACTORY PROGRESS

The operation last Friday morning removed Johnson's malfunctioning gallbladder and a kidney stone.

From the start, the doctors have said he is making a satisfactory recovery and that gas pains, discomfort and weariness are a normal aftermath.

★ ★ ★

"So the doctors are in no way alarmed about his progress?" Moyers was asked.

"There is no alarm whatsoever," the press secretary answered.

But neither is there any word when Johnson will get out of the hospital or where he will continue his recuperation.

★ ★ ★

Last weekend there was a burst of presidential activity. Johnson was on his feet for a few steps five hours after the operation ended. He signed bills. He met with staff members. He conferred with Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey. He had a session with Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

★ ★ ★

Amid all the talk of weakness and weariness, Moyers was asked if Johnson overdid things at first. He replied he had asked the doctors "if the President's seeing two visitors and signing the legislation that was necessary to sign was in any way detrimental to his recovery, and they said no, that patients are often known to do things at this stage of their recovery that they don't do later on."

★ ★ ★

For the last three days Johnson had no known official visitors and Moyers said he looked for none today.

'Sexes' and Sermons

LOS ANGELES, Calif. (AP)—A 24-year-old man appeared in Superior Court here and told the judge he planned to become an Evangelical church missionary. He wished to have his name changed legally to Lawrence Six. His name had been Lawrence Sex.

Same Pole Picked for His Second Crash

TIVERTON, R.I. (AP) — Three months ago, Joseph Keogh, 19, crashed his car into a power pole here but only cracked the pole at its base.

Recently, he hit the same pole with the same car and this time knocked it down.

About 86 per cent of the nation's foreign aid appropriations are spent in the United States, Rep. Ray J. Madden of Indiana said recently in a House report.

Ku Klux Klan Secrets to Be Revealed at Congressional Hearing Starting Tuesday

WASHINGTON (AP) — The investigator for the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

Appell, who has been probing Klan activities for months, has the assignment of setting the stage for the hearings which will be rife with such mystic nomenclature as klavern, klud, wizard, dragon.

Rep. Edwin E. Willis, D-La., chairman of the House Committee on Un-American Activities, explained: "Because the inquiry would concern the structure, peculiar leadership titles and the activities of organizations which turn the full light of its public are admittedly secret, the hear- ings will begin with background information designed to assist in better understanding the matters to be developed."

THE FULL LIGHT

Once this is out of the way, the committee is expected to turn the full light of its public hearings on the biggest of all the Klans—Imperial Wizard Robert Shelton's United Klans. Later it will take up individually the smaller, sometimes feuding units of the invisible empire.

Willis, who opened the Klan investigation in March, announced Thursday the public hearings will begin Tuesday in the big caucus room of the old Cannon House Office Building.

Willis said that, because of the scope of the subject matter, the inquiry "will last a considerable length of time."

The committee's investigators are said to have turned up more than 200 witnesses, including Klansmen and former Klansmen.

13 WEEKS

The committee's staff believes it has enough witnesses and material for up to 13 weeks of hearings.

"We have done the hard, detailed work essential to an inquiry such as this," said Willis, "and I am confident that in these hearings we will be able to place on the record the kind of information required to understand the true nature of the Klan movement in the United States and which will enable Congress to pass necessary remedial legislation."

Businessmen Hear Fowler

'U.S. Gains on Trade Deficit'

By RICHARD L. GRAVES

HOT SPRINGS, Va. (AP) — Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler told the nation's business managers today the United States is making further headway this second half of 1965 in cutting down its balance of payments deficit.

"We expect the improvement to continue in 1966," Fowler said in a speech prepared for the semiannual meeting of the Business Council.

And, he continued, "we intend and expect that it will continue for as long as necessary to bring our payments into an equalibrium."

Fowler tempered his optimistic forecast by saying the low rate of deficits — $1.3 billion — achieved in the first half of 1965 may not be achieved in the second. He cited as one reason increased tourist spending abroad. But, he said, exports in July and August were substantially better than earlier in the year and imports, which had been rising faster than exports, may be flattening out.

'SOLID IMPROVEMENT'

Anything near a $1.3-billion deficit for the year, he said in summary, would be a very solid improvement over the 1964 deficit of $3.1 billion.

In speaking of the deficit problem — the fact that more dollars are leaving the country than are coming in — Fowler made an appeal to the top industrialists gathered here.

"I do not know," he said, "if the business community is doing as much as it can, as fast as it can, to increase its exports, and to hold its foreign investment to levels that will assure an equilibrium in our balance of payments."

Corn goes into paints and pipe bowls, soaps, salad oil, paper, matches, margarine, hair-waving preparations, vinegar, cheese, chewing gum, bay rum and face powder, to name just a few.

Elder Statesman 'Ike' Is Hale, Hearty at 75

IKE EISENHOWER doesn't look much older than he did the day he left the White House.

It's hard to believe that it was 10 years ago that he was jolted by a heart attack that had the Country nervously wondering if he could recover and finish his term as president.

EISENHOWER

★ ★ ★

Not only did he do that, he went on to win and serve a second term, weathering a major operation and a minor stroke along the way.

Anyone who lasts through eight years in the most man-killing job in the world, especially if he went into it at the age of 62 with one of the most brilliant military careers in American history already behind him, could be expected to have retired to a well-deserved life of absolute leisure.

But IKE at 75 is as busy as ever, — writing, traveling, making speeches, advising party heads and government officials, painting, puttering, practicing as a gentleman farmer, enjoying his grandchildren.

His third book of personal history has been published. He has set himself the task of one more volume. After that he'll have to find something else to do.

★ ★ ★

The Nation that loves him wishes Dwight Eisenhower most hearty congratulations on having surpassed the traditional three-score and ten by a full five and looks forward to repeating them every year at this time for many more years to come.

Dodgers Are Crowned New Diamond Champs

Today we salute the Los Angeles Dodgers as Champions of Baseball for 1965.

The team well merits the title, as it fought back to win the seventh and deciding game of the World Series after spotting the Minnesota Twins a two-game lead.

To acclaim individual performers would be an injustice to many others who distinguished themselves. But certainly neither Dodger nor Twin would take exception to singling out the Frank Merriwell pitching of Dodger Sandy Koufax and a had-to-see-to-believe fielding play by teammate Jim Gilliam in the final game as decisive factors in the triumph.

The 1965 Series marks the 62nd playing of the annual classic since it was inaugurated in 1903 (it was not played in 1904) and the 21st time it has gone the limit of games. The American League entry has won the title 37 times, the National 25.

As we applaud Manager WALTER ALSTON and his players on their victory, let us not overlook rival pilot SAM MELE and his redoubtable clan.

States Dragging Feet on 'Succession' Need

Although President JOHNSON's incapacity following his gallbladder operation is by no means total, with no serious disruption in the continuity of the Chief Executive's office, it does re-emphasize the need for speedy ratification by the states of the constitutional amendment that provides orderly replacement of a President in an emergency.

To date, only eight states (Michigan included) of the 38 needed have ratified the 25th Amendment that passed Congress three months ago.

Johnson, as did his two predecessors in office, has a working agreement with his Vice President to cover just such cessation of Presidential activity now being experienced. But such voluntary and personal arrangements are a poor device for insuring the most powerful nation in the world against a hiatus in the most powerful office in the world.

Twice in its history, the Country has been leaderless for long periods because its President was disabled. On five other occasions, brief periods of presidential disability have seen the Administration spin its wheels while executive business piled up on the White House desk.

So, you laggard 30 states, let's get with it and give the necessary legislative approval in implementation of the vital measure that will relieve the Nation's citizenry from anxiety over who'll run the shop should the Head Man be immobilized.

States Unhurried on Amendment

By RAYMOND J. CROWLEY

WASHINGTON (AP) — The states are in no hurry to write into the U.S. Constitution answers to certain questions that have long disturbed political scientists.

Questions like:

If a president is incapacitated, how can a smooth transfer of power be assured? How can the nation be as certain as possible that there will not be a dangerous struggle for the reins of government?

The answers, so far as Congress was able to work them out, are contained in the proposed 25th Amendment, now before the states.

Passed by Congress in July, the proposal has now been approved by eight of the required 38 states. An Associated Press survey indicates it will be 1967 before the amendment is ratified, assuming it is ratified.

State legislatures that have approved are Arizona, Oklahoma, Nebraska, Massachusetts, Wisconsin, Pennsylvania, Kentucky and Michigan.

22 STATES TO MEET

At least 23 other state legislatures are to meet in regular or special sessions in 1966. But some of these will be limited by law to considering state budgets. A few legislatures are meeting this fall on reapportionment, and the amendment could come up.

But sponsors of the amendment are making no change in their prediction that it will be written into the Constitution in 1967.

Briefly, it provides:

If a president formally declares himself disabled, the vice president takes over. If a disabled president does not relinquish power, a majority of the Cabinet, or some other body Congress may designate, plus the vice president, may transfer the power to the vice president.

The president resumes office on stating to Congress that no disability exists, unless the vice president and a majority of the Cabinet inform Congress to the contrary. Congress then could by a two-thirds vote in each house, continue the vice president in power.

President Johnson's gallbladder operation did not add urgency to the proposed amendment, in the view of most legislative leaders.

Under an agreement between Johnson and Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, the latter was sort of acting president during the few hours when Johnson was either under anesthetic, or snapping back from its effects.

That is, Humphrey was empowered to make decisions, if need be. But the need did not arise.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., who piloted the proposed amendment through the Senate, took the view that in this particular case, the Johnson-Humphrey agreement was sufficient.

Viet Gains May Prompt Review

By STEWART HENSLEY
United Press International

President Johnson, within the next few months, probably will have to make some critical new decisions regarding the Viet Nam war.

This time, unlike previous occasions, the necessity to review the situation will arise from American successes rather than Communist gains.

The United States now has more than 140,000 military personnel in South Viet Nam. The number is expected to rise to almost 190,000 by Christmas. American air attacks on Red North Viet Nam continue.

The steadily increasing application of U. S. military power has reversed the tide of nine months ago and made it clear American forces are not going to be driven off the Southeast Asian mainland.

The question the President appears to face around the first of the year is whether to continue the escalation or level off American military operations while revitalized South Vietnamese forces try to clean up the Communist guerrillas, which U.S. fighters have dispersed but not subdued.

Some influential voices in Congress and elsewhere probably will argue that the United States should take advantage of the military momentum it has achieved to deliver even more decisive blows against Hanoi in an effort to win total victory in Viet Nam.

Others at the opposite end of the spectrum undoubtedly will contend that Washington, having reversed the earlier course of events and put the Reds on the defensive, should pause and intensify its efforts for peace talks.

URGE PEACE MOVES

Neutralists abroad, and even some of the allies, are again urging suspension of U.S. air attacks on North Viet Nam on the grounds this might induce the Communists to talk peace.

The President's top advisors are inclined to neither extreme. They see no point in suspending air attacks and intensifying peace offers in the absence of any indication that the Communists are interested.

At the same time they recognize the perils of a massive escalation of the war effort which might bring Red China into the conflict and eventually involve a million or more U. S. troops in an inconclusive land war.

Administration officials acknowledged the Viet Nam war is but part of a broad struggle between Red China and the United States over whether independent or neutral nations in that area are to be permitted to exist untroubled by their neighbors.

★ ★ ★

However, they believe this can best be established by achieving what still remains the primary American goal — to help South Viet Nam subdue the Communist forces still controlling more than half the country, and to guarantee South Viet Nam's territorial integrity and sovereignty against the Reds to the north.

This is the difficult middle course. Officials realize that eventually it will cost Johnson the support of "hard line" elements who are hoping he will carry the war north for a showdown with China.

It also will intensify criticism for the "soft line" adherents who would like to grasp at any possibility for peace talks even on terms detrimental to the West.

Indications are that Johnson will go very slow in any escalation of military operations beyond the first of the year.

Bob Considine Says:

Next Gemini-Titan Shot to Follow Unique Script

NEW YORK — Another chapter in the breath-taking saga of the Gemini-Titan project is about to unfold.

The hardware will look familiar to the millions who'll watch, but the script will be unique.

CONSIDINE

Gemini VI, scheduled for Oct. 25, proposes to fling astronauts Wally Schirra and Tom Stafford into orbit from Cape Kennedy shortly after a big Agena rocket, placed in orbit about an hour and a half before, completes its first revolution and starts out over the Atlantic on lap No. 2.

Schirra and Stafford have the stern task of finding out— at the usual risk of their lives — if it is possible to (a) find the orbiting Agena in space and, (b) berth with it. This has never been done.

The space "chase" will end 161 miles out in space off the coast of Peru on the fourth lap of the 29 orbit mission, if everything works perfectly.

★ ★ ★

Each spacecraft will be maintaining orbiting speed of 17,500 miles per hour at the time and going in the same direction at the same altitude.

GENTLE RENDEZVOUS

The rendezvous will be a gentle one. Gemini VI is fitted to hook onto the large cylindrical Agena, ride tandem for a time, break away again, pull off for a distance while the two traverse the night side of the earth, and lock horns again in the darkness.

As was the case with Gemini I, this next shot will have military overtones.

Before clamping onto Agena, the Gemini capsule will nuzzle up to it and — by means of little maneuvering power squirts — push it a bit.

★ ★ ★

Doesn't sound like much of a military experiment. But it will constitute what is called a "mass determination."

WILL TELL

The nudging will tell instruments aboard the Gemini just how much the Agena weighs and suggest what its contents are.

This is the first step toward a day when we will have space patrols aloft, intercepting and making "mass determinations" of all suspicious-looking unmanned objects.

The TV networks have been pushing hard to arrange coverage of splash-downs of astronauts.

They'd "pool" a helicopter equipped with long-range TV cameras, go with the rescue fleet to the projected landing area, send their pictures to a C-121 circling well overhead, which in turn would relay the images to the carrier, which would shoot the pictures out into space to Early Bird — 22,300 miles up over the Atlantic — and E. B. would ricochet them back down to North America and Europe.

Who could have believed all this, even five years ago?

'Appreciated Press Story of Recent Trip Abroad'

I should like to express my appreciation to The Pontiac Press for the excellent article regarding my year abroad on a sabbatical leave. It was not generally known that the Pontiac school system offers its qualified teachers this opportunity for additional study. This progressive and forward-thinking program encourages teachers to further their education and thus become much better teachers. It will also aid in keeping the best possible personnel for Pontiac schools.

★ ★ ★

Great value can be derived by participation in a person-to-person type of program on an adult basis. While we have many young students involved in foreign study and "experiment in international living" programs, it is quite rare to find an adult studying and living with a family on such a program.

★ ★ ★

I wish to correct the poor impressions given us by tourists and politicians of the French people. We found them to be most generous and hospitable. People are pretty much the same the world over, regardless of language and customs. I highly recommend this experience for real understanding of others.

'Drivers Make Improper Left-Hand Turns'

I read two letters in the Voice of the People about stupid drivers. The prize of all nitwits is the one who doesn't understand left-hand turns. Mr. Critchfield explained in The Press with a diagram, but some of the jerks haven't comprehended yet.

★ ★ ★

The first left-hand turner goes clear out to the middle of the street and angles slightly leftward. The next turner edges right up behind and often that lets a third get in the act. Then when the light changes, three turn instead of one. The dummies that foul this action deserve three tickets instead of the two that one writer demands.

PETE AND ED

Supports Osteopathic General Practitioners

It would seem that the days of the old family doctor are numbered and that this species of medico is nigh unto extinction. Recent figures indicate that only 25 per cent of medical school graduates are entering general practice.

The fact that 75 per cent of the graduates of osteopathic schools of medicine are going into general practice has played no small part in the prospect of State and Federal funds for the establishment of a Michigan Osteopathic College of Medicine.

★ ★ ★

The general practitioner is the basic unit of osteopathic philosophy. He recognizes and treats the whole patient with a disease, and not the disease alone. He has that additional therapeutic weapon, osteopathic manipulation, that has both its physical and psychological benefits. He ingratiates himself not only with the individual but with the family. He is the liaison between the patient and the specialist.

★ ★ ★

Red Carpet Visitor

The Hillsdale Daily News

One of the current visitors to the United States now being shown full military honors only five years ago helped to overthrow an American-backed regime and stage a lot of problems for the U.S. His entire military force is estimated at no more than 8,000 men.

He is Gen. Kong Le, regarded as the most likely man to keep his native Laos opposed to the Communist infiltration and aggression of the Pathet Lao. And to this end, the United States has invited him to visit this country for a month, inspect military installations, farms, aircraft, and individual plants.

One of the things that bothers Americans involved with affairs in Laos is that officers of the Laotian Army are being trained in Indonesia. Their stay in that country is long because they usually have to learn the language. And American officials fear they may also learn the rote of anti-Americanism as expressed by Sukarno and his henchmen.

Kong Le denounced the Pathet Lao two years ago as being dominated by "foreign masters." Presumably he meant the Red Chinese or North Vietnamese. We hope that while Kong Le is in this country occasional references are made to the current struggle Indonesia's Sukarno is having with the Communists in his own land.

Not Exempt

The State (Lansing) Journal

If the ruling by the U.S. Tax Court stands, the Communist party in this country must pay federal income taxes. It never has filed a federal income-tax return or an application for exemption.

The Tax Court upheld an Internal Revenue Service finding that the Communist party owes $326,313 in income tax and penalties for 1951.

The Red organization had claimed tax-exempt status under a provision of the tax code exempting some charitable, religious, educational and fraternal groups.

The code makes no mention of any exemption for subversive groups. If the IRS can make the ruling stick and collect the taxes claimed to be due, they would offset in some degree the money it costs the government to keep tabs on the activities of the domestic Commies.

Forgotten Fringes

The Ann Arbor News

The National Education Association is getting a lot of mileage out of the account of the dedicated and determined janitor in the Akron, Ohio public schools who wanted to become a teacher.

Clarence Bradshaw for nine years pushed mops and brooms by day while attending college classes in the evening. He finally achieved his goals: a college degree, teaching certificate and a job as an elementary schoolteacher.

He also qualified for a cut in salary. As a teacher he earns $350 a year less than he did as a janitor.

The item has been picked up as an editorial in scores of newspapers, which NEA naturally hoped would happen. Not once was there any comment on the probability that as a teacher Bradshaw would work a 42-week year and as a janitor a 50-week year.

Yes, we know about the summers teachers spend working on advanced degrees, but the "fringe benefits" should never be forgotten in job comparisons, and Mr. Bradshaw's case still makes a good story — completely told.

Detroit Policeman, Wife Are Found Dead

DETROIT (AP) — A Detroit policeman, Patrolman Carl Bangert, 50, and his wife, Mary Agnes, 46, were found dead in the basement of their home Thursday. Each had been shot once. The bodies were found by a daughter, Peggy, 18. The girl told police her parents had quarreled and she had fled the room.

Viets Say 218 Cong Killed in Two Days

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — The South Vietnamese army claimed today that its troops killed 218 Viet Cong guerrillas in two battles in the past two days.

The claim was not confirmed by U.S. military spokesmen.

The Vietnamese said 168 guerrillas were killed in the major battle Wednesday night in the Mekong Delta, 10 miles southwest of Can Tho and 95 miles southwest of Saigon. Earlier they had reported 60 Viet Cong killed.

About 500 guerrillas clashed with a government battalion which was reinforced by four other battalions. The government troops as a whole suffered moderate casualties, the Vietnamese said, but one company took heavy losses. During the action, 37 Vietnamese prisoners of the Viet Cong were set free.

PHOTOGRAPHER KILLED

A Vietnamese photographer for The Associated Press Huynh Thanh My, also was killed during the fighting.

Fifty Viet Cong were reported killed in another Vietnamese operation Thursday in Binh Duong Province 20 miles northwest of Saigon. The Vietnamese said they took light losses in the action.

Troops of the U.S. Army's 1st Infantry Division reported sporadic contact in the same area today but said there were no casualties to either side.

Four U.S. Army helicopters were shot down Thursday in the central highlands as 5,000 troops of the 1st Air Cavalry Division ended a huge five-day operation. American casualties were described as light.

LIFTED TO SAFETY

Three of the helicopters were lifted to safety by giant helicopters called Chinooks but the other was burned, apparently by the Viet Cong.

U.S. sources said 45 Viet Cong were killed and 46 captured in the offensive in the Suai Ca Valley 280 miles north of Saigon.

With 4,000 to 6,000 government troops also taking part, it was the biggest U.S.-Vietnamese operation of the war. A U.S. spokesman said earlier it appeared that the large enemy force previously reported in the area had chosen to flee rather than fight.

The South Vietnamese said their troops have killed 39 Viet Cong and captured 14 in an operation that has been going on for a week south of Hue, in the northernmost sector of Viet Nam. They reported three guerrillas killed today and seven captured.

Troops of the U.S. 101st Airborne Brigade routed about 25 Viet Cong Thursday in the Qui Nhon area

Nobel Award to Red Writer

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — Soviet writer Mikhail Sholokhov today was awarded the 1965 Nobel Prize for literature.

Author of "Quiet Flows the Don," Sholokhov is a member of the Supreme Soviet, or Parliament. He is 60.

* * *

The Swedish Academy gave the prize to the veteran of Socialist realistic prose for "the artistic power and integrity with which in his epic of the Don he has given creative expression to a historic phase in the history of the Russian people."

The chairman of the academy's Nobel Committee, Dr. Anders Osterling, noted that Sholokhov, "although a convinced Communist, keeps ideological comment out of his book completely."

"Quiet Flows the Don," written over a decade and completed as early as 1940, often has been compared to Tolstoy's "War and Peace."

It earned the veteran Cossack writer a Stalin Prize. It has been made into films and operas and is regarded a national epic of the Soviet people. Sholokhov also won a Stalin Prize for his second broad epic, "Virgin Soil Upturned."

The prize is worth about $55,000 this year. It is the second of four to be awarded in Stockholm. Three French scientists won the physiology and medicine prize Thursday.

Cuba Refugees Survive Storm

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—Eleven tired and seasick Cuban refugees — many shaky after a trip through surging seas and slashing rain — reached Key West today aboard the 16-foot motorboat Topeca.

"I got out just in time," said 13-year-old Vicente Torres, who arrived with his parents. "Boys aged 14 to 27 are not allowed to leave because they must do military service.

"They dread this. They have to work in the sugar cane and sweet potato fields."

The Topeca was escorted to Key West by a Coast Guard cutter.

* * *

"This is too good to be true," declared refugee Maria Sanches as she stepped onto U. S. soil. "We could even bring four changes of clothing and two pairs of shoes — if we could find them in Cuba — but no money." Refugees report shoes are scarce in Cuba.

OWNED STORE

Rosado Fernandez, who owned a sundries store in Marianao, Cuba, said: "The seas are getting calmer now but departures are being slowed by Cuban red tape; many have to wait for papers and vaccination."

At least three boats battled the squally Gulf Stream Thursday night and brought 71 more refugees to Florida. One boat began leaking and a Coast Guard cutter took the men off before they got to Key West.

* * *

Another boat that carried newsmen to Cuba returned and the skipper described Camarioca, the exit port on Cuba's north coast, as "gay, festive, carnivallike."

* * *

A shapely, 22-year-old barmaid who had gone along as an interpreter said "everything was relaxed" at the port. She even learned some new dance steps from militiamen.

GOT HER WAY

"When I told the Cuban militiamen I wanted something, I would usually get several running off," said Cessie Fernandez.

Arriving refugees, who left everything behind but the clothes they wore and a few small bundles, said about a dozen boats were waiting at Camarioca to make the trip.

* * *

More than 300 have sailed across the Florida Straits since Fidel Castro opened the doors despite U.S. warnings that the trip was illegal.

"There is no freedom in Cuba," said one refugee, Florentino Rodriguez, "there was no alternative but to leave."

STILL NEGOTIATING

The United States is still negotiating with Castro about a program for a massive exodus. A new U.S. note goes to the Cuban government today from the Swiss Embassy in Havana, which has handled U.S. affairs since this country broke diplomatic relations with Cuba in 1961.

No Navy Combat for Last Living Sons

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy has restored a policy permitting men who are sole surviving sons to be kept out of combat, it was learned today.

To get such protection, a Navy officer or enlisted man must make a formal request for assignment to noncombat roles.

* * *

The policy applies to "sole surviving sons in families depleted by incidents of the service" since 1940.

The action was taken by the Navy about two weeks ago following a study. The policy had been canceled more than three years ago.

NEVER ABANDONED

The Army, Air Force and Marine Corps all said they have never abandoned their sole surviving son practices which were begun in World War II.

* * *

A Navy order issued Sept. 28 specified that any officer or enlisted man who chooses this course shall be released from uniform as soon as their enlistments or period of obligated service has run out.

* * *

In other words, the Navy apparently doesn't want such men if they cannot be used in combat service and will get rid of them at the earliest possible time.

The Navy has put out another order which will give enlisted men who complete a tour in Viet Nam "every consideration practicable on being ordered to their next assignment."

UNUSUAL HARDSHIPS

Such treatment is being accorded, the Navy order said, "in view of the unusual hardships, exposure to hostile action and the difficult working conditions" connected with the operations in and around Viet Nam.

Eligible are enlisted men who have completed the normal year-long tour in Viet Nam or a comparable period afloat in that war theater.

* * *

It was specified that any sailor who has finished such a tour in Viet Nam will be spared a second such assignment for at least three years, unless he volunteers or unless the chief of naval personnel okays another tour.

* * *

However, the Navy order made it plain that the service wants to encourage volunteers wishing to extend their service in the war area up to three years.

Who's watching over him? Who found him a hotel room, got him theatre tickets, sat down and advised him on his future . . . and will wake him up so he gets back to his ship? His USO and your USO too. Because but for you and millions of other Americans who have contributed to it, there wouldn't be any USO.

The USO is still very much in business, since there are still well over 2,700,000 men and women in uniform.

The USO is a home away from home for lonesome trainees, a place for servicemen overseas to relax, to meet friends and the friendly people of allied nations. And no matter how remote his post overseas, the famous USO shows come to him, to make him forget for a moment just how far away he is from everything and everybody that he loves.

A Junior Editors Quiz About STARS

QUESTION: Why don't we see the stars during daylight?

* * *

ANSWER: Because of the force of gravitation, which draws things near the earth toward its center, our planet is surrounded by a layer which we call air or atmosphere.

This is composed of gases such as nitrogen, oxygen and carbon dioxide, but it also contains fine droplets of water vapor and minute suspended particles of different kinds.

As the sunlight passes through the air, it is reflected from countless billions of these tiny particles with the general effect that the sky looks light. The molecules in the particles break up and scatter the white light of the sun rays into rays of different colors.

As short, blue rays are scattered most widely, the general effect of the sky on a sunny day is usually blue.

But if there is a large amount of water vapor in the air, this will change the sky, giving it a dull, gray effect.

Since the moon has no atmosphere surrounding it, there can be no particles or water vapor droplets to pick up the light of the sun.

Consequently, even when the sun is shining brightly, scientists say that the sky from the moon will look velvety black, with myriads of stars gleaming brightly, as in the imaginary lunar landscape our artist has drawn.

* * *

FOR YOU TO DO: Study the lunar landscape, and you may imagine something is wrong. If that big white ball in the sky is the sun, why is the shadow of the rocket leading toward it, instead of away? But the white ball isn't the sun, which is back of the astronaut; it is the brightly illuminated earth.

Future jet aircraft, using unique fan systems, will be able to take off and land like helicopters and fly long distances at nearly the speed of sound.

Moe than two million persons are employed in the nation's eating places and the industry ranks third in persons given steady employment.

Give it a go.

Satellite is the spirited new leader of the all-new Plymouth Belvedere line. Standard equipment runs like this: Front bucket seats. Center console with glove box. Power is a passion with the Satellite. Optional V-8s check in at 318, 361, and 383 cubic inches. That's forceful. And that's Satellite.

DEADFALL. By Desmond Cory. Walker. $4.95.

This is a story of people on the wrong side of the law, and the action takes place in Spain, but the principal characters are English and French.

Jeye, an ex-Englishman, is a genius at stealing jewels, and makes an art of it.

But Moreau finds himself growing too old to loot houses and safes, turns to planning jewel raids, and pressures Jeye into becoming his partner. Moreau's young wife Fe is adept at disposing of stolen gems.

Jeye always has been too wily a criminal to let himself become interested in one woman, but he and Fe fall hopelessly in love.

★ ★ ★

Gradually it becomes apparent there is something strange about the relationships of the two Moreaus, and that is the emotional center around which the climax is built.

It's unlikely you'll fall asleep over "Deadfall."

THE BLOODY BATTLE FOR SURIBACHI, by Richard Wheeler (Crowell $5.95):

This is the story of a limited action on a tiny Pacific island during World War II.

Suribachi, the mountain, and Iwo Jima, the island, might be soon forgotten were it not for one of the most famous photographs of that war—the raising of the American flag on Mount Suribachi.

Actually, there were two photos of the flag-raising, one taken by the Marines who stormed to the top, the other — and better known one — by a news photographer a few hours later.

★ ★ ★

The author, a corporal in the platoon that brought the flag to the summit, wrote this story as a tribute to the men of his platoon, all but four of whom were casualties.

In the course of this straightforward account is a wise commentary on wars and why men continue to fight them.

YANKEE DOODLE DANDY, by Noel B. Gerson (Doubleday. $4.95): Every American has heard of John Hancock, but few know much more about the man than the fact that he signed his name large to the Declaration of Independence.

★ ★

Gerson's book an essentially accurate biography presented as a novel, offers the readers an easy way to find out more about a remarkable man who has been undeservedly neglected by history.

Hancock was a long-headed but short-tempered man, unusually able and courageous although inclined to be pompous.

Many wealthy colonists turned Tory during the Revolution, but Hancock chose freedom long before the shooting started. He and Samuel Adams were fugitives from British justice on the historic day in April when the Minutemen stood up to the Redcoats at Lexington and Concord.

★ ★ ★

"Yankee Doodle Dandy" will not rank as great literature, but it is an easily readable and informative account of a significant American's life.

Girls' Athletic Association Letter Club will sponsor a Play Day tomorrow from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the Waterford Kettering gymnasium.

GAA members from 12 area schools have been invited, and a limit of 10 girls from each school will register.

Purpose of the GAA Play Day is to promote friendship and to instigate team spirit between girls from different schools.

GAA members will form teams with representatives from the respective schools.

The first Senior Bulletin of the year was distributed. Assistant Principal Howard Bennetts spoke to the seniors on the possibility of a class trip, and a committee was formed to draft a proposal for the Waterford Township School Board.

Principal James Fry informed the seniors that there would be no more baccalaureate services.

Yearbook sponsor Mary Aperauch has chosen the '65-'66 Kismet editors: Nancy Yingling, editor-in-chief; Nancy Morton, special events; and Linda Vancelli and Cathy Frayer, academics.

Others were Susan Wagner and Cheryl Ross, organizations; Pamela Holton, sophomores; Cheryl McMann, juniors; Evelyn Maxim, seniors; and Pamela Hicks, business manager.

Which Milford Float Will Be Judged Best?

By RICHARD WIXOM

All three classes at Milford High School have been rushing to complete their floats for the homecoming program tonight at Milford's Memorial Field.

The senior float "Pass Me By" pictures Aesop's fable of the hare and tortoise. The juniors' "Lakers on the Rocks" and the sophomores' "De-Feet 'Em" also predict dire ends for the West Bloomfield squad.

The floats will be judged as they parade around the field at 7:15 p.m. and during the first half of the game. Winners will be announced at halftime, and asked to circle the field again.

The field of chief and princess candidates was narrowed to 12 by a vote in homerooms last Friday.

Candidates for chief are seniors Mike Painchaud, Eric Smith and Michael Yeager, and juniors James Kaspar and Bruce Larson.

Seniors Donna Anderson, Ann France and Tina Partridge, and juniors Linda Allen, Carol Desmet and Darlene Weinberg are in competition for princess.

Final election was held today. Results will be announced at halftime. The chief and princess will then reign over the homecoming dance which follows the game.

Special plans are being made to welcome Milford alumni to the 1965 homecoming activities.

Former graduates will register in the student commons beginning at 6:30 p.m.

All signing up will be given name tags denoting the year of their graduation, and will be asked to sit in a bleacher section reserved for alumni only.

Three Foreign Students Attend BHHS

By LINDA McNEILL

Bloomfield Hills High School welcomes three foreign students.

For the first time, BHHS has a veteran foreign student. Yuki Obata, a petite Japanese girl, has attended American schools throughout her high school career.

She spent her sophomore year in Hawaii and was an active member of the junior class at BHHS last year.

Yuki will graduate with the class of '66 in June before returning to Tokyo to complete her studies.

Carla Aleven, who has lived most of her life in the Netherlands, flew over to America from Zandervoort, a resort town about 18 miles from Amsterdam.

FINISHED SCHOOL

Although she has finished school in Holland, Carla decided to study in America to perfect her English and to learn more about our country's customs and culture.

After completing her studies here, she will have mastered four languages: Dutch, French, German and English.

Paule Verschoore's first impressions of the United States were the big cars, food and clothes. Paule is from Belgium and is attending BHHS through the American Field Service program.

★ ★ ★

Paule speaks five different languages: German, Dutch, French, Spanish and English. With this background in languages she hopes to become an interpreter at the United Nations or the Common Market in Brussels.

"The Gang" or Pandilla meets monthly to learn Spanish customs and better usage of the language. The Spanish Club puts on bake sales to buy school equipment for South American countries. Every year they hold a Christmas banquet and spring fiesta.

Hospital Group Seeks New Site

A new cost estimate and the possibility of a new site for the proposed Huron Valley Community Hospital were announced today at the start of a giant fund-raising event for the facility.

The directors of the Huron Valley Community Hospital Association last night agreed to make public the fact that they are looking for another site, the new one to be east of Milford.

They also are now talking about a hospital which would cost some $4 million rather than $2 million, the figure solicitors have been aiming at for the last three years.

Fund raisers have been working toward financing construction of a 100-bed unit on a 15-acre site fronting Mont Eagle and Atlantic in Milford.

★ ★ ★

The property, which the association has owned for two years, cost $14,600.

OTHER SITES

"Several other sites are being considered for a great number of reasons," according to Mrs. Laurence Trumble, campaign co-ordinator.

The two reasons she mentioned were the need for more acreage and location of the facility in the center of a higher growth area.

The area to be served by the hospital is in the process of being enlarged.

★ ★ ★

It originally included Milford, Rose, Highland, White Lake, Commerce, Novi and Lyon townships in Oakland County and Brighton, Green Oak and Hartland in Livingston.

150 BEDS

The hospital now being planned would be built for 150 beds and could be expanded for 300, Mrs. Trumble said.

She noted that the board already has received several offers for the original site.

★ ★ ★

NOT SAYING

While not divulging how much money now is in the fund for the hospital, Mrs. Trumble said that the site is owned by the association and there are "several thousands of dollars in the bank."

Board members also are now "doing the leg work" for both federal and state grants to finance a portion of the project.

Meanwhile, the local fund-raising continues.

★ ★

The Huron Valley Community Hospital Bazaar is being held today and tomorrow at the Alpine Ski Chalet on Highland Road in White Lake Township.

★ ★ ★

The event, sponsored by the Women's Club of the White Lake Citizens' League, will be open until 8 tonight and from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. tomorrow.

Key Measures Still Pending

Fall Legislative Session to End Today

LANSING (AP)—The legislature wraps up its autumn session today, still facing decisions on the motor vehicle accident claims fund, auto insurance, judges' terms and veterans' homestead tax exemptions.

Final agreement came Thursday in such major areas as welfare department merger, senior citizens rent reimbursement and extra money for colleges with extra students as both the House and Senate worked most of the night.

★ ★ ★

These were the key measures pending today in joint conference committees:

★ ★ ★

—Accident claims fund. Should uninsured motorists have to pay $25 annually or $50? And should the minimum property damage claim be $300 or $100. The House backs the former figure in each case, the Senate the latter. The fund is due to start operation in two weeks. It will protect motorists against financial ruin incurred by being the victim of an uninsured driver.

★ ★ ★

—Auto Insurance. Should a motorist be required to purchase uninsured driver protection unless he stipulates otherwise in writing? The House says yes. The Senate says such a strict condition would be unworkable for insurance agents.

—Judges' terms. The major problem is what to do about Oakland County, where technical discrepancies have left legislators uncertain about how long two judges elected in 1964 must serve. The bill in question aims to provide staggered terms for multijudge circuits.

★ ★ ★

—Veterans' homestead tax. The issue is whether veterans of police actions such as Viet Nam should get the same break given earlier veterans and whether they should have to have been wounded to qualify. The House also wants a tornado damage rider to the bill which the Senate rejected.

Final agreement on the welfare merger bill came over objections of some Wayne County senators who protested against Wayne and Oakland counties being left out.

The measure requires the other 81 counties and Detroit to merge their welfare operations with the state. The state in turn will increase its support of relief payments from 30 to 40 per cent and will share administrative costs for the first time—also at 40 per cent.

In addition, the state will pay all costs after the county has spent an amount equal to one mill on its state-equalized valuation. Estimated cost to the state will be $6.1 million, including $2.2 million in Detroit.

The Senate agreed to technical House amendments on a bill providing an average of $93 in rent relief to persons over 65 who have lived in Michigan 7 of the past 10 years, earn less than $5,000 and live in dwelling units valued on a state-equalized basis at less than $10,000. Total cost is pegged at $4 million to $6 million.

The House approved a $1.2 million appropriation to eight small state colleges and universities whose fall enrollments were beyond expectations.

★ ★ ★

Both chambers gave immediate effect to the earlier-approved water pollution control bill, and the House dropped its demand that criminal penalties be deferred until the act had been in effect for 90 days.

★ ★ ★

House Ways and Means Chairman Rep. Einar Erlandsen, D-Escanaba, also asked — and got — a one-day delay on a bill setting salaries for new posts and department heads under governmental reorganization.

★ ★ ★

Gov. George Romney had succeeded in convincing the legislature to boost the salary of the labor department director above its present $12,500 in order to attract a more qualified administrator.

★ ★ ★

Republicans fought unsuccessfully to change the agenda — a move they said was necessary to make sure a $455,384 bill to finance the secretary of state's takeover of driver licensing in several communities is legal.

Area Music Group to Host District Event

ROCHESTER — The Rochester Tuesday Musicale will be host to the annual meeting of the Southeast District of the Michigan Federation of Music Clubs to be held Wednesday in the Gold Room of Oakland University.

Mrs. Jan VanderHeide, state president of the Michigan Federation of Music Clubs, will also be a guest at the meeting.

Members and guests will attend from the Birmingham, Dearborn, Detroit, Mount Clemens, Oxford, Pontiac and Royal Oak clubs.

★ ★ ★

'Regulations Need Clarification'

House Holds Up Rent Subsidy Funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House voted to hold up money for starting a rent subsidy program for low-income families. But administration sources expressed confidence today the money will be restored later.

Action by the House came Thursday in passage of a $4.2-billion catch-all appropriation bill that had included $180,000 to start the rent subsidy program and authorize contracts for another $6 million.

Rep. James Harvey, R-Mich., offered the amendment that chopped the money from the bill. He won heavy support from Republicans and some Democrats who had opposed the program earlier this year in enactment of a housing bill.

The roll call vote that knocked the housing subsidy out of the appropriations bill was 185 to 162. The amendment did not affect an appropriation of $170,000 for administrative expenses of the program.

ABILITY TO PAY

Under the subsidy plan the government would make payments to owners and developers of nonprofit housing that would be made available to low-income families. Payments could run as long as 40 years and would be based on the ability of individual tenants to pay the rents from their own income. None of the payments would go to private landlords.

Harvey, in successfully arguing for denial of the money, said tentative regulations could permit persons with large investment incomes to occupy the subsidized housing. He called for a delay until the regulations are clarified.

He denied arguments of opponents that the amendment would kill the program.

Rep. James D. Martin, R-Ala., joining the debate, asserted the program was misrepresented when it was approved June 30 by a vote of 208 to 202 "and still is being misrepresented."

Administration backers of the rent subsidy program said they were confident the funds would be restored by the Senate, and the House eventually would approve at least starting money.

APPROPRIATION BILL

The appropriation bill, carrying money for a score of federal agencies, was approved 242 to 100 with no other changes after deletion of the housing subsidy money.

Last minute money requests not considered by the House Appropriations Committee Chairman George H. Mahon, D-Tex., said, may mean addition of $400 million to the catch-all bill by the Senate.

The senior Republican member of the appropriation committee, Rep. Frank T. Bow, R-Ohio, called the bill "only a small beginning" on costs of "Great Society" legislation, adding: "We are appropriating today only about 10 per cent of the total initial authorization."

Weapon Tied to Slaying of State Man

BENTON HARBOR (AP) — Berrien County sheriff's men believe they have found the weapon used in the slaying of Charles Bujack, 34, of Benton Harbor.

A 38-caliber revolver found Thursday about 50 yards from where Bujack's body was found Wednesday was turned over to State Police for tests.

* * *

Police are seeking Willard Schubert, 49, for questioning in the case. The victim was the husband of Schubert's ex-wife.

Two men found the body. They quoted a man who stopped them as saying he had just killed a man and "I've got two more to get rid of."

Benton Harbor police said they thought the other two might be Bujack's wife, Orine, 43, and her daughter, Wilma Richardson, 21, now visiting relatives in Kentucky.

Mrs. Bujack said Schubert had threatened in letters and telephone calls to kill her and Miss Richardson.

Dublin Hearing Is Postponed

A public hearing on the Dublin School District issue was postponed yesterday until next Thursday at 4:30 p.m. by the Oakland Schools Board of Education.

Located in White Lake Township, the village offers classes for pupils in grades 1 through 8. Its high school students attend classes in Walled Lake.

In accordance with state law, however, all school districts must provide facilities for students in kindergarten through 12th grade by the end of this year or be incorporated with an adjacent district that does.

Adjacent districts in Dublin's case are Waterford Township and White Lake.

* * *

In other business, the board hired Michael J. Robbins, 36, of Detroit, to the newly created position of coordinator of an adjusted study program for emotionally disturbed children.

COMPLETING DEGREE

Robbins will be employed on a three-day-a-week basis while he is completing work on his doctorate's degree from Wayne State University.

College Aid Bill on Way to Governor

LANSING (AP) — A $1.2 million bill to help eight state colleges and universities cope with an unexpectedly large turnout of freshmen was on its way today to Gov. George Romney — who vetoed it earlier.

This includes an estimated $100,000 to $200,000 for Oakland University.

The measure would help all but Michigan, Michigan State and Wayne State universities finance some 2,300 unanticipated students.

The Senate measure passed the House 79-14 and was given immediate effect Thursday.

A similar provision was stricken from an appropriation bill by Romney during the spring session.

Romney said at the time the provision would only encourage schools to build enrollment, adding that those whose student population estimates were short of reality could be helped through the normal supplemental appropriation procedure next winter or spring.

Welfare Units in County to Merge, Official Predicts

George H. Williams, director of the Oakland County Department of Social Welfare, today predicted that the county's state and local welfare agencies would merge.

Williams statement followed passage by the State Senate late yesterday of a mandatory merger bill for all county and state welfare departments except those in Oakland and Wayne.

The door was left open, however, for the state's only two counties with over 600,000 population to join the merger by a Dec. 31 deadline.

Oakland County would receive an estimated additional $430,000 in state funds if it merges with the state welfare agency.

If it remained independent, it still would receive an added $230,000, or $200,000 less than under a merger.

MEETING LIKELY

Williams sid that a joint meeting of the ways and means, legislative and welfare committees of the County Board of Supervisors probably would be held next week to discuss merger.

County officials had opposed the merger bill as written mainly because of loss of control over welfare matters by the county.

Williams was critical that no public hearings were held in Lansing on what he termed a hastily written bill which provided no added benefits for welfare clients.

* * *

Though opposed to the bill passed by the Legislature, Williams had no objection to a single agency concept as such.

VERY SUCCESSFUL

He said that a merger program in Ohio where the state program is locally administered has been very successful.

Williams pointed out that County Welfare Department employes took no formal stand against the merger bill even though they would lose some benefits if Oakland County had been included.

The bill will cost the state an additional $6.1 million with $2.2 million of this to be spent in Detroit.

* * *

This increase is due to a boost in the state's matching funds for direct relief cost from 30 to 40 per cent.

Jakartans Fire China School

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — About 800 youths screaming "down with communism" burned the Chinese University yesterday and clashed with about 60 Communist Chinese students outside a dormitory.

Witnesses said knives and firearms were used in the fight and there were several injured on both sides before soldiers intervened.

The Chinese University is sponsored by an association of local pro-Peking Chinese. Its two-story building was burned to the ground.

It was the first time that demonstrators had attacked Chinese since the army-inspired, anti-Communist campaign started following the Sept. 30 coup attempt.

* * *

Earlier yesterday about 10,000 youths held an anti-Communist rally and then staged a noisy demonstration in Jakarta streets. They shouted "dissolve the Pki and hang Aidit." The Pki is the Indonesian Communist party and D. N. Aidit is its chief.

NOT SEEN

Aidit has not been seen since the abortive coup but has been reported in central Java.

County Judge Dismisses $200 Fine on Lawyer

Circuit Judge James S. Thorburn yesterday dismissed a $200 assessment against a Detroit attorney who failed to appear before him in court to try a case early this year.

Thorburn nullified his order following a hearing at which Wayne County Circuit Judge Charles Kaufman testified in behalf of the lawyer, Robert E. Sullivan.

* * *

Kaufman said he, too, had ordered Sullivan to be in his Detroit courtroom the same day Thorburn had issued his mandate.

Sullivan appealed to the Michigan Supreme Court following the Feb. 2 conflict, but the high court upheld Thorburn's decision by rejecting the complaint.

See Big Growth for Waterford

Waterford Township will experience a tremendous growth rate in the next 15 years if figures presented at a recent Greater Waterford Community Council (GWCC) meeting prove to be fairly accurate.

According to a GWCC spokesman, George Lloyd of the Detroit Edison Co., said the township's population will climb to 69,000 in 1970 and 100,000 by 1980.

The estimated 1964 population of the township was 51,400.

Lloyd also quoted figures for Oakland County, telling the group that its population would rise from a present 757,600 to 900,000 in 1970 and 1,200,000 in 1980.

* * *

All projected figures are a result of a study made by the Detroit Edison Co.

Other speakers also were heard in keeping with the program's theme, "Waterford Township, Past, Present and Future."

Deadly Lessons in Viet Jungle

Tough Veterans Teach Warfare to GIs

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Tom Tiede is a reporter who has built a reputation as a sports writer. Now, Newspaper Enterprise Association has assigned him to cover Viet Nam. Tiede will seek out the offbeat, the dramatic and humorous stories to help bring an understanding of the war to home readers.)

★ ★ ★

PHU CU PASS, Viet Nam (NEA) — This was Viet Cong country, lovely and lethal.

The sobering signs were everywhere. Anti-American epithets were splashed on the village homes in blood or berry juice. Slant-eyed natives carried no friendly identification. Bumps in the road concealed explosives.

And off in the brush, every leaf was a booby trap.

"For Pete's sake," warned the sergeant, "look where you're going."

★ ★ ★

The men of "A" Company, 2nd Battalion of the 7th Cavalry, 1st Cavalry Division, listened to the sergeant. He was a veteran and calm. They were fresh and full of fear. He knew war. They knew, to this time, only peace.

BARKED ORDERS

He barked orders and cursed incompetence but he was their friend.

And he was their sergeant. In war there is no substitute. A major is to be avoided, a sergeant approached. A captain conceives a plan, a sergeant carries it out. A lieutenant points the way but no man moves until a sergeant gives the nod.

This one was 38, a soldier for 19 years, a volunteer in Viet Nam. Tough, brusque, headstrong, confident.

★ ★ ★

"A" Company had landed near this highland pass less than an hour earlier for their first action in this land. They were part of a brigade mission, a far-reaching, complicated series of activities designed to seize and hold strategic land surrounding main route 19 through the mountains.

There's No Easy Road To Victory In Viet Nam

GRAND PICTURE

But the grand picture escaped the sergeant and his people.

"We simply gotta smoke the bastards from their holes," he told them.

The men began to fan out up the side of a lush hill. They carried 30 pounds of equipment each and bled sweat in 100-degree heat.

★ ★ ★

"Feel your way," said he sergeant. "This ain't no picnic."

SHARP STICKS

Indeed it wasn't. On the paths, slivers of razor sharp sticks were driven into the ground, business side up. They were coated with fermented animal fat and could pierce a combat boot. The fat is an erratic poison. Sometimes it works, sometimes not.

But if it didn't kill you, the sergeant had said, it could at least make you so sick you might wish you were dead.

Nearly invisible wires were strung everywhere. Some were fastened to hard balls planted in overhead branches and embedded with several bamboo needles. When activated, they would come swinging down into a man's eyes or neck.

★ ★ ★

The men felt safest near the sergeant. He had been out here the evening before, reconnoitering, mapping safe trails, ferreting out the more obvious traps. He was thorough; a cautious campaigner who, as much as anyone, wanted to stay in one piece.

He had talked of how, in a month's time, he might retire. He wasn't certain, however. Twenty years of military is hard to shake. But he was considering the step.

There was, however, a job to do first and good times would have to wait. Cold beer and clean sheets would come later.

Halfway up the hill it happened.

The blast of a grenade shattered the still of personal thoughts.

"A" Company froze. "Booby trap," somebody whispered. "Hidden in the bushes . . . pins are tied to strings stretched knee-high between trees. It's impossible to see them."

"Who got it?"

They hugged brush and ground waiting for an answer. Sweat beads ran down motionless skin, stopped and then continued on. Nobody moved, nobody scratched, nobody spoke.

At length the word was passed back and, one by one, "A" Company got up and moved forward. They had read about this war, joked about it even. But always before it was only foggy recognition of it.

★ ★ ★

Now the fight was theirs.

The sergeant was dead.

Cong 'Drafts' Up to 40,000

Forcing Recruitment in Try to Match U. S.

SAIGON (UPI) — Viet Cong military leaders have "drafted" at bayonet point an estimated 30,000 to 40,000 men within the past month in desperate attempts to match the massive U.S. military buildup in Viet Nam, it was learned today.

Top-ranked military sources also disclosed that more than one regular army unit from Communit North Viet Nam may now be operating in the south. Until now, U.S. intelligence has confirmed the presence in the south of only the 10,000-man 325th division of the People's army of (North) Viet Nam.

The gunpoint Communist recruitment program has sent Viet Cong strength to a record hizh estimated at 220,000 full- and part-time soldiers.

On Sept. 23, Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara testified before a congressional committee in Washington the Viet Cong was believed to have 68,000 to 70,000 regulars and 80,000 to 100,000 guerrillas — those who farm by day and fight by night.

★ ★ ★

As of last Wednesday, military planners estimated there now were between 80,000 and 100,000 regulars and 100,000 to 120,000 guerrillas in Viet Cong ranks.

CALL FOR INCREASE

U.S. military strength in Viet Nam now stands at about 144,000 men and plans call for an increase to some 200,000 in the near future.

All told, the South Vietnamese government has about 575,000 men in uniform and about 20,000 troops from South Korea, Australia and New Zealand are here.

The Viet Cong recruitment drive consists of raiding villages and marching off male residents at bayonet point for service. Those classified "4-L" are used as porters.

★ ★ ★

Volunteers for rebel ranks have dwindled, U.S. military leaders said, because of the U.S. buildup in men and firepower.

Operation Mail Call

Letters to Cheer Troops

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—"Teacher told me to write to the most important man I could think of—and that's you."

In due time that bit of heart-warming spontaneity on the part of a schoolboy will reach some American soldier in Viet Nam, conveying cheer from back home.

It is one of hundreds of greetings going to U.S. troops in Viet Nam, as a result of an inspiration by Dr. Richard P. Ornsteen and his wife, June, who started a drive a week ago to "let our boys over there know how much we appreciate what they are doing.

"I got the impression from a television program that many of our soldiers were disheartened over the indifference, even hostility in some instances, of the home folks over what's happening in Viet Nam," Mrs. Ornsteen said.

"So I got to thinking how fine it would be if a lot of people flooded our men in Viet Nam with expressions of sympathy, understanding and support."

JUST AS ENTHUSIASTIC

The doctor was just as enthusiastic as his wife, and they resolved to start the ball rolling themselves.

Ornsteen wrote Lt. Gen. William Westmoreland, U.S. commander in Viet Nam, who, the doctor said, replied that "an overwhelming display of public support" would greatly help troop morale.

Ornsteen said the general advised he would assign an information officer to coordinate distribution of the cards and letters, and that units had been picked to receive the first outpouring.

★ ★ ★

The project, known as "Mail Call Viet Nam," solicits cards, letters, notes, messages in any form, all unsealed, to be sent to Mail Call Vietnam, Post Office Box 450, Bryn Mawr, Pa.

ALL ARE SCREENED

All are screened to eliminate crank or screwball messages. The Ornsteens' basement in suburban Gladwyne is used for this.

Luncheon clubs, the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, and several industries have volunteered to help.

★ ★ ★

Marry Cousin?

States Differ in Law

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My bachelor cousin came to town and I invited him to stay with me and my 14-year-old son.

ABBY

I am a widow, 48, and this cousin is at least 65. He is retired, financially comfortable and good company. He pays his share, which helps me a lot as I have no income except what I work for.

Besides, he takes me places, is good to my son and I like his company.

Everyone in the neighborhood was friendly toward him until we told them we planned to get married. This is no torrid romance, Abby, it's just a marriage of convenience for both of us.

A neighbor told me that it is against the law to marry your cousin, and according to the Bible, it's incest. Is this true?

WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: Don't worry about what your neighbor said. Consult a lawyer about the legalities. (Laws pertaining to marriage between cousins differ from state to state.) If it's legal, it's moral.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I have received a proposal of marriage from a man 50 years of age. (I am 41.) He has had a very good education and is a successful businessman, but his table manners are atrocious! Abby, he doesn't even know how to hold a fork properly.

Is it possible to teach a man his age how to eat? I doubt if I could sit across the table from him for the rest of my life and overlook it. So how do I tell him? I do not want to lose him.

DELICATE PROBLEM

DEAR DELICATE: Yes, it's possible to teach a man his age how to eat. But don't attempt to overhaul his entire method of eating all at once.

One "suggestion" at a time is sufficient. And let him know that you are correcting him not because you are "ashamed" of him, but because you love him.

WOMEN'S EDITION

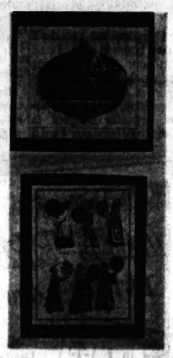

Artists Design Cards

This year's Christmas cards are varied enough to appeal to almost any taste. They may have a religious theme as do the two on the left. Sheilah Beckett, one of the American Artists Group designing all these cards, uses a bright-eyed robin to express her greeting. At the lower right, the best of the past lingers on in Charlotte J. Sternberg's 19th century stage coach theme.

Winner of two major awards from the National Academy of Design, Albert John Pucci has charmingly portrayed the nations as they travel the merry highway in their traditional manner. This is one example of a practical use of art by contemporary artists and the 31st annual collection of Christmas cards.

The contemporary card at the top was designed by Stan Fraydas who joins postal issues of the world to make a gaily patterned and unique ornament. Tom Morrow's card (bottom) presents a congregation of concord in a common prayer for peace, the theme of many holiday cards in 1965.

Plastic Cleaning Bags Have Variety of Uses

Most of the bonuses of being well-groomed are familiar to everyone.

But there is an extra bonus to good grooming that many do not take advantage of. It is the variety of practical uses for those plastic covers drycleaners provide to protect garments.

These garment bags have been used for everything from making decorative little French poodles to wrapping picnic lunches.

BONUSES

Here are some of the many good grooming bonuses from these plastic garment bags:

- Line your laundry basket with one to prevent water from dripping onto the floor.
- Wrap just - sprinkled clothes in them to keep the garments damp until you are ready to iron them. Colored garments can be wrapped in individual bags to keep the dyes from staining other fabrics.
- Cut several strips from a bag and tie them into unique and decorative pom-pom for a birthday or anniversary package. The bags come in a variety of colors. Pom-poms made from clear plastic look silver. (Instructions on how to make these pom-pons or the toy poodle are available from the National Institute of Drycleaning, Silver Spring, Md.)
- Use the bags to wrap books, magazines, pictures, lamp shades, picture albums and other articles to be stored. This will protect the stored items from dust and moisture.
- Protect a precious silver plate or tea service when it is not in use by wrapping each piece in the plastic.
- Cover the floor with plastic bags before painting a wall or chair. The paint will not seep through the plastic onto your floor as it sometimes does with newspaper.
- Line a trash can or garbage pail with a plastic bag to keep these containers clean.

* * *

- Protect suede or cloth-covered shoes from dust by wrapping each shoe in some of the plastic before putting them away.
- Use a small strip from a garment bag to tie a plant to its support. The plastic tie is virtually invisible.
- Protect sweaters and other knits by keeping them in plastic bags. The plastic coverings from a drycleaner are particularly useful for bulky sweaters that are too large to fit into regular sweater bags.
- If you store fabric articles at home in a cardboard box, line the box with plastic to protect the fabric from moisture.

Hear Talk on Stocks at Dinner

Pontioak Chapter, National Secretaries Association International, met for dinner at Holiday Inn Wednesday. Mrs. Mary Rogers was the evening's hostess.

Guest speaker, Dr. Dennis Carmichael, spoke on investments, stocks and bonds, relating to the history of Wall Street and ways to invest money.

* * *

Mrs. Ula Trevethan, vice president, installed a new member Geri Auringer.

Plans are under way for the GIMAC CPS Awards dinner at Detroit in November. Pontioak Chapter members will be hostesses.

GUESTS

Guests at the dinner were Phyllis Brown, Mrs. Rita Field, Mrs. George Schroeder, Mrs. Sheri Jenkins and Rose Mary King.

The chapter will conduct a November work bee and business session at the Pontiac Business Institute. Further details may be had by contacting Mrs. Catherine Burns, president.

One Wig Isn't Enough

Just one wig in a woman's wardrobe no longer meets the requirements, Reid-Meredith, a New York concern concerned with making slip-on and pin-on coiffure additions, recommends a wig wardrobe.

★ ★ ★

Its parts: the basic wig to cover the whole head, a switch chignon 24 inches long, a five-inch oval-shaped wiglet, a 10-inch crescent shaped one, and a half wig. With these, just about any hairdo a woman wishes can be arranged, said the firm.

Three Plan Weddings

Early February vows are planned by Cheryll Juon Green, daughter of the Richard D. Greens of Wyman Street, and Edward Clarence Ford, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Ford of Shaddick Street.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Morse of Ridgetop Drive announce the engagement of their daughter Patricia Ann to Frank Anthony Butler, son of the Basil Butlers of Lakeview Avenue.

Rev. and Mrs. John A. Barnett of Milford announce the engagement of their daughter Carol Rose to Alvin Lester York, son of the Lester Yorks of North Duck Lake Road, Highland Township. She attends the Hurley Hospital School of Nursing in Flint.

Not Her Day

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Diane Castor, 21, was driving down a street here when a wheel came off a passing car and crashed into her vehicle. Shortly afterward as she was filling out an accident report for police, a radiator hose on the police car broke and sprayed her with water.

Even Relations Should Pay Fair Rent

By MARY FEELEY
Consultant in Money Management

Dear Miss Feeley: My mother-in-law is 82 and was never very business-minded, even in her young days.

MARY FEELEY

She now is renting her apartment upstairs for only $60 a month. It's a touchy situation — because my daughter and son-in-law live there with their two children.

Each quarter my mother-in-law has had me go to the bank to draw out money from her savings account to pay the taxes on her house. This must stop, as there is no longer any savings account to draw on.

★ ★ ★

She receives $66 a month Social Security, and that's all the income she has. The taxes on her house are approximately $440 per year, and liability insurance about $20 a year. Fuel runs about $250 a year, water about $7 a quarter. She spends about $10 a week for her food, also has to pay for her gas and electric bills, and any medicine.

★ ★ ★

Please help me arrive at a fair rental she should charge for that upstairs apartment, which will pay the taxes at least. A. H., Peekskill, N.Y.

Dear Mrs. H.: Talk to your daughter and son-in-law just like you're talking to me.

I should think they could well afford to pay more rent—where else in the world could they get quarters for four for $80 a month? And they should certainly feel morally obligated to share your concern.

Of course, if your daughter and family move out, this 82-year-old woman will have only uncaring strangers in her home. Who will show concern if she's ill in the middle of the night — or needs to be driven to town to see the doctor or buy something in a store? The emotional security of having her own family in the house has undoubtedly persuaded her to let this apartment go so cheap. But is that fair?

★ ★ ★

Surely $80-$85 a month is as reasonable a rent as your daughter and her family could expect to find. I think all of you will be happier if they voluntarily raise their rent. After all, your mother-in-law's basic expenses for the home are $738 a year — which breaks down to $61.50 a month.

★ ★ ★

Dear Miss Feeley: My son, 19, has just acquired his first full-time job. He earns $70 a week before deductions.

He has a small foreign second-hand car which he needs to get back and forth to work. He lives at home, and my question is this:

★ ★ ★

How should he budget his income to include room, board, shirt laundry ($1.25 weekly), car maintenance, car insurance, lunches, savings, clothes, and recreation. Mr. E. M. B., Cincinnati, Ohio

Dear Mrs. B.: Let's say your son actually has $56 a week clear income

★ ★ ★

All things being normal — which they practically never are, I admit — you could expect him to contribute one-fourth of his take-home pay toward room and board. This would be $14 a week.

But let's take a look at the rest of his weekly expenses:

Clothing (and upkeep), $7; savings and insurance, $5; lunches, $10; recreation, $8; car expenses (insurance, maintenance, gas and oil), $12.

So there goes his whole $56. In this day and age it would surely be difficult for a young man to have even one, let alone two, dates a week on $8. But he does have to pay for his car and his transportation, which is a business necessity. I think he should be encouraged to have a regular savings account and to take out some life insurance while he's young and the premiums are low.

If he feels too pinched on this budget, maybe you could make do with a little bit less for room and board — say $10 instead of $14 a week. He also needs something, remember, for church contributions and gifts.

While I certainly believe that any wage-earner in the home should carry his own freight, I know that too heavy a burden can discourage a young man on his first job. See if you can ease up a little at this point.

★ ★ ★

Polly's Pointers

Write Gift Ribbon

DEAR POLLY — We made a screened-in, portable outdoor room using 72-inch-wide nylon net.

We added a striped canvas roof and sewed rope along the sides of the canvas to hold it in shape. The net was sewed to the edge of the roof.

We put a hole in the middle and used four corner posts. The posts are permanent with hooks to hold the corners of the net and canvas. We have four extra poles to use when we want take this room on our camping trips.

It is a 10- by 20-foot area with a lapped-over opening at each side for doors. I put bean bag weights on the bottom of both sides of the door openings to hold them closed. The sides are pegged down with tent pegs.

Our homemade bug and mosquito-less room was quite inexpensive.

If you sew a lot and have dozens of leftover cards of ricktack, bias tape, braid and so on cluttering up the sewing drawer, do not despair.

As a cure I use the empty tube from a waxed paper or plastic wrap box, neatly wrap odds and ends around this tube and fasten the ends.

I covered the box itself with adhesive-backed plastic paper and now have an attractive storage box for my "trimming" filled tube.—THELMA

DEAR POLLY — For many years I worked in a large office and scarcely a week went by that there was not a gift for a wedding, resignation and so on.

Instead of the usual card on which everyone signed his name, we used to get three or four yards of heavy satin ribbon (usually white) and typed all the names on the ribbon in alphabetical order.

They were placed toward the end of the ribbon so as to be left as a streamer when the bow was made and placed on the package.

Be sure the ribbon is right side up, the typewriter clean and the typist accurate. This ribbon makes a lovely keepsake.—LUCILE

Heirloom pieces and striking accessories work compatibly with carefully scaled reproductions included in the Mediterranean collections recently introduced by furniture manufacturers. Rush chairs may be antiques or reproductions; the bells are old. Unifying the room is a new carpet by Lees that has a gracefully embossed design. Offered in nine colors, the carpet is available locally.

Our Victorian heirlooms have a new place in the fashion sun. Art Nouveau is back. Right at home with the ornately carved armchair and the outlandish dragon lamp is a multi-color carpet that could have come from an antique shop, but didn't. It's woven of nylon and comes in rug size or as carpeting. Lees carpets available locally.

MILBANK, S. D. (AP) — Mrs. Ed Nelson of Milbank was uninjured when her motor car knocked over a parking meter and crashed into a building. But she was embarrassed. She had just come from the Grant County courthouse where she had successfully passed her driver's examination.

Must Bow to Big Beds

Happiness in the kingdom of sleep is a bed of regal dimensions. Down with the "normal"-sized bed, it's out. Up with the king and queen size — they're in. In fact, it will soon be hard to get a "normal" bed; king size will be normal.

IN TROUBLE

Many brand new apartments are already in trouble. Their up-to-date tenants can't get their king-sized beds into the minimum-sized bedrooms. Not to speak of getting them in through the door, into the elevator and down the hallway.

* * *

Architectural Record warns that designers will have to bow to the big beds, like it or not, and build their bedrooms accordingly.

The net worth of the American consumer — total assets minus liabilities — was $1,874 billion at the end of 1964, according to the National Consumer Finance Assn.

An old fashioned medley of accessories, including an antique clock and classic etchings, lends fresh appeal to this room. Accent chairs in gay, floral print covers can be easily moved about to suit the activity of the moment, be it games or relaxed conversation over coffee. Sam Moore chairs available locally.

Batch of Cookies Is Flavorful Treat

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

How often do you have to bake to keep the cookie jar full? If it's empty right now, here's a new recipe for you to try.

Oatmeal cookies are good, not only because of their excellent taste, but because they contribute some necessary vitamins and minerals to the diet.

If you don't have any buttermilk, add one tablespoon vinegar to sweet milk called for in the recipe.

Mrs. Ralph H. Beatty, a grandmother of three, is today's cook.

She is leading a busy life these days, taking training to be a practical nurse. Her daughter says that mother gets better marks than she does!

GRANDMA'S SUGAR COOKIES
By Mrs. Ralph H. Beatty

1 cup margarine
1½ cups white sugar
2 eggs
⅔ cup buttermilk
1½ cups raw oatmeal
1 cup raisins
2½ cups flour
¼ teaspoon salt
¾ teaspoon soda
2 teaspoons baking powder
1½ teaspoons nutmeg

Cream margarine, sugar and eggs until fluffy. Add oatmeal. Alternate sifted dry ingredients with buttermilk. Mix well. Add raisins.

Drop by teaspoonful on baking sheet. Bake at 400 degrees 10-12 minutes or until light brown.

Antiques Are Gaining in Popularity

The current forum on antiques at Greenfield Village in Dearborn points up anew the current interest in heirlooms.

For many years, a small group of individuals have collected and lived with reminders of the past. But now it is the "in" thing to do. Prices have risen accordingly.

Any article is of little value unless it can be used. Many items by collectors are not practical in today's life. But they may serve as decorative accents in a room that is otherwise modern.

A recent story concerns a decorator who discarded some antique figurines because they did not "fit" the contemporary scheme.

But when she surveyed the finished room, she replaced the china because they added a warmth the room lacked. Rooms should look lived in, not sterile.

Grandma had the right idea; she just went too far. She knew that personal touches turn a house into a home. But she added so many of these touches that the result was clutter.

Second hand stores often are gold mines if you don't mind getting dirty as you paw through the collection of junk.

It's fun to pick up some relic from the past and clean it, refinish it or turn it into something useful for your home.

Modern furniture and rug manufacturers are taking heed of the interest in the past and are making home furnishings that blend in this rather sentimental decor.

Detroit Credit Union Is Robbed of $7,000

DETROIT (AP) — A pair of bandits held up an east side credit union Thursday and escaped with $7,000 after a mile-long chase by two clerks.

The clerks, Raymond Scott, 22, of Detroit and Jerome Crowcom, 24, of Ferndale, followed the bandits on foot from Designing Engineering Credit Union.

Mrs. Romney to Women: Join Social Revolution

NEW YORK (AP) — Mrs. George Romney, wife of the governor of Michigan, told Republican women Thursday they must join the "social revolution" to give all people "an opportunity for free rein for their talents and abilities."

Mrs. Romney was the guest speaker at one of a series of "school of politics" luncheons at the Women's National Republican Club.

* * *

Mrs. Romney urged some 90 luncheon guests to continue to increase their political activity, saying the results in a better life for all Americans would be worth "some of the nasty jobs we have to do in politics."

Council OKs Antibias Stand

Declaration Absolves Jews for Crucifixion

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican Ecumenical Council voted final endorsement today of an historic Roman Catholic declaration deploring anti-Semitism and declaring that the Jews as a whole cannot be blamed for the crucifixion of Christ.

The bishop voted to leave out the controversial word "deicide" while stating that the Jews should not be presented as a people "rejected by God or accursed."

By a vote of 1,763-250 in St. Peter's Basilica, the bishops of the Roman Catholic Church gave over-all approval to the declaration on the church's attitude toward non-Christians, including the Jews.

The declaration, with its key passages about the Jews and a statement denouncing racial discrimination, will become a church decree after one more formality: promulgation by Pope Paul VI and the council in a public session of the assembly.

* * *

This possibly will come on Oct. 28 or Nov. 18.

The 2,300 Roman Catholic prelates at the council Thursday voted 10-1 in favor of the introduction to the section dealing with the Jews in the document "on the church's attitude toward non-Christians.'

The introduction says there is a spiritual bond between Christians and Jews and urges "fraternal dialogues" between them.

The council also voted on the controversial section saying that "what happened to Christ in his Passion cannot be attributed to all Jews, without distinction, then alive, nor the Jews of today."

* * *

The council prelates also approved 10-1 the general introduction on the spirituality of other religions, a section on the search for God in Hinduism, Buddhism and other religions, and a section on "the religion of Islam."

New Council Formed to Aid State Youth

LANSING (AP) — The Greater Michigan Foundation has announced formation of a council on youth programs. It will be concerned mainly with expansion of opportunities for youth in Michigan. Heading the council will be Robert B. Miller of Battle Creek, executive chairman of Federated Publications Inc., publishers of The Lansing State Journal and Battle Creek Enquirer and News, plus newspapers in Indiana and Idaho.

The State-Federal Vocational Rehabilitation program is a public service to prepare physically or mentally handicapped persons for employment and place them in suitable jobs.

Wins Teacher Election

WAYNE (AP) — The Wayne Education Association Thursday won the right to be sole bargaining agent for the 783 teachers in the Wayne public schools. The vote with the rival Wayne Federation of Teachers was 467 to 267 with 738 teachers voting.

If your furnace
can't face another winter,

consider the heart-warming advantages of electric heat

We've got some good news about replacing your tired old furnace. It's easier and faster when the switch is to electric heat. Less trouble, less muss and fuss.

In fact, some of the nicest things about electric heat are the things you don't get: no flame, no soot, no chimney or chimney connections. You do get even, clean heat.

There are many different kinds of electric heating systems available. So you can be sure of getting one that best fits your modernizing plans—big or small. Choose from drop-in floor units, wall units, ceiling panels or baseboard units; all give you room-by-room temperature control.

Or choose from two types of central electric heating systems—forced-air or hydronic. Either system can be tailored to give you comfortable "zone" temperature control. The forced-air system can be set up for room-by-room control.

Cost? That depends on your home. One thing is certain—it won't cost a cent to find out. Just call us at Edison. We'll send out one of our Heating Specialists. He'll gladly answer any questions and will give you accurate estimates on monthly operating costs. We think you're in for a heart-warming surprise.

EDISON

Four good reasons you'll appreciate the new half-gallon of Seagram's 7 Crown.

1. It's compact. Only 12¼ inches high. So it fits most shelves and cabinets.

2. We've built a special pourer into the top. So this half-gallon pours evenly instead of gushing.

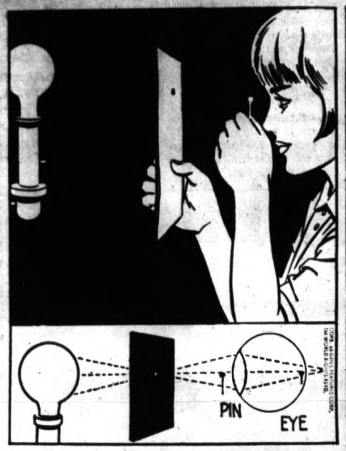

3. This bottle is specially sculptured, so you can get a good grip on it—even with one hand.

4. Inside: The world's most popular whiskey. So dependably good it's come to be called The Sure One.

Science Quiz

By BOB BROWN

PROBLEM: A trick of the eyes.

NEEDED: A card, a pin, and a light source.

DO THIS: Make a pin hole in the card and look at the light through it. Bring the pin near the eye and into the line of sight between the hole and the eye. The pin will appear upside down.

HERE'S WHY: The simplified diagram below shows the paths taken by the light rays from the source to the eye. The pin in this case is a shadow cast on the retina of the eye. Since the shadow is right side up the brain will see it as being upside down.

This may not be a simple experiment to do on the first try. Hold the pin close to the eye. Use a bright light source. Hold the card at arm's length.

There has been some debate on this experiment by several scientists to whom the author has shown this experiment. Anyone who does not agree with the diagram and explanation is invited to write to the author, in care of The Pontiac Press, and express another opinion. NEXT WEEK: The Homing Can.

A collection of the "Science For You" experiments is in book form under the name "Science Circus." It is on sale in book stores, or may be ordered from Bob Brown, the author, care of The Pontiac Press.

Detroit Pulls Out of Case Against Ex-City Minister

The case against a former Pontiac minister charged with swindling a Garden City church has been dismissed in Detroit Recorder's Court because it did not have jurisdiction.

* * *

A new complaint against Harry B. Schlosser, 63, of 1946 N. Hammond Lake, Bloomfield Township, has been made with the Garden City Police Department. A warrant has not yet been issued.

The Wayne County Prosecutor's Office requested the dismissal when it learned that the alleged transaction did not take place in Detroit at Schlosser's office but in Garden City.

Recorder's Court handles cases that occur only in Detroit.

* * *

Schlosser is accused of taking $111,613 from St. Matthew Evangelical Church after he had raised $500,000 through bond sales for the construction of a new church.

LARCENY CHARGE

He was charged with larceny by conversion.

Schlosser, a professional fundraiser, was pastor of the North East Community Church in Pontiac from June 1957 to May 1961.

Senate Rejects Romney Pick

Confirmation Process Hit by Dem Leaders

LANSING (AP) — The Senate has for the second time rejected an ex-legislator appointee of Gov. George Romney—and this time Democratic leaders threw in caustic comments about the entire confirmation process.

The victim Thursday was former Rep. Wilfred Bassett, a seven-term Republican from Jackson who had been named to a $14,000-a-year post on the workmen's compensation appeal board.

Democratic leaders, trying to avoid a public rejection, tried to convince Bassett to withdraw during a Capitol corridor meeting shortly before the vote. He refused.

The Senate Business Committee reported unfavorably on two lesser Romney appointees after a shouting session at which Majority Leader Raymond Dzendzel, D-Detroit, said the governor "never gives us any consideration."

WITHOUT CONFIRMATION

Later, the names of Dr. Otto K. Engelke, Ann Arbor, named to the state council of health, and Jackson K. Beatty, Mount Pleasant, named to the aeronautics commission, were returned to committee. They will take office without confirmation once 60 days has elapsed from the time of their appointment.

Committee Chairman Sen. John Bowman, D-Roseville, objected to sketchy biographical information provided to the committee by the governor's office.

"I don't know a thing about these guys," he said. "I'm getting sick and tired of the front office not sending along any information."

He said the committee should have enough staff to investigate appointees within the 60 days allotted for confirmation.

You Are Further Notified that a hearing on the matter will be held in the Circuit Court for the County of Oakland at the Oakland County Court House Tower, 1200 North Telegraph Road, Pontiac, Michigan, on Tuesday, the 7th day of December, A.D. 1965, at the opening of Court on that day at 9 a.m., before the Honorable William John Beer, Circuit Judge, or as soon thereafter as Counsel can be heard.

Plant Course for Indoors

When autumn night temperatures go below 50 degrees, bring your house plants indoors.

Most modern house plants grown for their foliage are of tropical origin. They suffer permanent harm in 40-degree temmanent harm in 40-degree temperatures.

Repotting and new plant selections can be made at time of bringing indoors.

But care of plants indoors is sometimes difficult. Air is too dry and light less intense than needed for vigorous growth.

To help flower lovers with selection and care of plants for indoor culture, The Pennsylvania State University offers a correspondence course of nine lessons entitled "House Plants For Your Home."

About 175 kinds of plants and their care are described.

Anyone can enroll and get a copy of the course simply by writing to House Plants, Box 5000, University Park, Pennsylvania, 16802.

Include your name and address and two dollars twenty-five cents. There are no other charges.

Autumn Rains Prove Ideal for Spring Bulbs

With the coming of autumn, the fall rains, the warm soil and the cooling atmosphere combine to make ideal bulb planting conditions over most of the United States.

* * *

Good root formation is encouraged while the tops are given little or no incentive to start growth.

Tulips are the notable exception. They should be planted in October say the gardening experts at Union Fork and Hoe Company of Columbus, Ohio.

This means that daffodils, hyacinths, crocus, scillas, snowdrops, snowflakes, grape hyacinths, puschkinias and a host of lesser known bulbs among the spring bloomers can be set out now.

* * *

And, if you haven't already done so, you can still plant colchicums, fall crocuses and sternbergias — if you live in a mild climate like the Northwest, the hardy cyclamen, too.

The first two, especially, can be counted upon to bloom this fall provided you get them in early.

SOME PUMPKIN!—Baker Hill of 1420 Fuller watches as his daughter Brenda measures the king-size pumpkin grown in their garden. It weighed over 100 pounds.

Fixed as a jack-o-lantern, it's sure to light the way of trick-or-treaters as they call on the Hill household on Holloween.

HALLOWEEN HEADQUARTERS—Mrs. Eliza Caskey of 4375 Baldwin, Orion Township, places the last of her 551 pumpkins on the pile. She is now ready for junior-sized witches and hobgoblins to come searching for just the right pumpkin to turn into a grinning jack-o-lantern. Mrs. Caskey grew all of the pumpkins in her garden.

When you wish to place short-stemmed flowers in a tall vase that cannot be seen through, slip the stems in drinking straws and then the straws into the water.

Bulbs wrapped in aluminum foil will not dry out as readily as those not wrapped.

Home Owners Want Beautiful Property

Practically every home owner wants a beautiful home property he can be proud of; and, at the same time, be suitable for outdoor living to be enjoyed by the whole family in peace and contentment.

How you go about making your property beautiful indicates whether or not success will be achieved.

A sound approach to beautifying the property, involves four steps.

- A plan. Before you actually set about getting a landscape plan, it is wise to notice other properties you admire either close-up, such as a neighbor, or at a distance by walking through the better-landscaped areas of your community.

Since the plan will not be costly, it always is less expensive in the long run to get the best you can.

As a general rule the better nurserymen, turn out excellent plans, or else they will direct you to a landscape architect who will do so.

* * *

Many landscape nurserymen have professional landscape architects on their staffs.

- Have a good idea of what you want your plan to accomplish.

It may be beautiful transition from indoor to outdoor living, with lovely views from indors outward to the borders of your property.

This is contrary to the conception of some home owners who wish the property to be beautified from the street to the house.

* * *

You may wish both, the important thing being to have a conception of what you wish to achieve, instead of merely setting out plants here and there.

Some home owners can do the latter of course, and have a perfectly beautiful final result, but it is fairly rare.

You want plantings that will allow you to enjoy the property to the fullest.

- You want all-year beauty, plus lovely flowers in season.

Contrary to general opinion, properties can be made warmer as well as beautiful in severe winter months depending on what, and where, plantings are made.

- Strive for functional uses to give you the most out of your property outdoors.

Plants can provide delicious flowers, fruits, berries, outdoor living areas, privacy, windbreaks, shade and other delicacies and comforts.

Your nurseryman can advise what may be best for your particular site and climate.

* * *

Overall, you want beautiful surroundings and pleasant outdoor living for your family.

For use as centerpieces and accents on small tables or narrow shelves and mantels, compact plants now made possible by such new chemicals as B-9, are growing in popularity among house plant gardeners.

Hurry Spring With Blooms

Housewives can hasten spring by starting in October and November to force amaryllis, hyacinth, daffodil, Easter lily and tulip bulbs into bloom as early as January.

To enjoy this thrill, ask your florist, garden center, or supermarket about bulb varieties recommended for forcing then pick up a supply of red clay bulb pans for planting.

Cover the drainage hole of each clay pot with a flat or concave piece of broken flower pot, and fill in a half inch of pebbles. Over this, add a mixture of equal parts of loam, leafmold, and sand.

Press this down firmly, leaving about three inches of space to the rim of the pot, and place the bulbs on this, one-half inch apart. Use the same variety of bulbs in a single pot so all will flower at once.

After bulbs are in place, fill soil so the noses of the bulbs barely show, and press the soil down firmly. Leave about an inch of space so it will be easy to water the bulbs after they have sprouted.

IDENTIFY VARIETY

Identify each pot's variety name by tying a label on a slim bamboo stake at least a foot long.

Then, place each pot in a pan of water to soak all the way through the porous clay pot walls and the soil within. After this initial soaking, cover each pot with an empty inverted clay pot of the same size.

This protects new shoots as they grow. Next, place each pot in a deep trench or coldframe for an 8 to 10-week rooting period.

Fill in six inches of soil over the tops of the pots and cover this with a thick layer of leaves.

Along about the first week in January, dig up one of the pots, and gently knock the soil ball from the pot. If there is a network of roots you can slip the earthball back into the pot and put the pot into a 50 degree to 55 degree F. north window until shoots turn green.

Then move it to a sunny 60 degree spot and keep the soil well watered. You can bring in several pots at once for a gala display, or one by one in succession to spread the blooming period over several weeks.

Buds will pop open quickly and will leave you breathless with their unbelievably lovely colors and springtime perfume.

The Merion variety of Kentucky bluegrass is still regarded as one of the top varieties, and in many localities is the chief Kentucky bluegrass grown for sod.

Turf Plugger Saves Backs

A boon to gardeners with weak or lazy backs is a turf plugger which may be used to prepare ground for shallow planted bulbs, young tomato plants and transplanting garden flowers.

★ ★ ★

The gadget reduces bending and kneeling. It is 32 inches long and has an 8-inch footrest that permits your foot to help with the digging. The tool cuts a hole 3¾-inches deep and 2¼-inches wide.

It is convenient for cutting Zoysia and other thick grasses.

Elm Disease Still a Threat

Sanitation is a "must" in the control of the Dutch elm disease, according to a Michigan Department of Agriculture official.

"This is the one tool that has everyone's approval, and we must use it to the fullest extent if a successful control program is to be achieved," said Dean F. Lovitt, assistant chief of MDA's Plant Industry Division.

But in emphasizing the need for sanitation, he also charged that this practice is not being conducted as diligently in many areas as it once was.

Lovitt said one of the reasons for the lack of attention to sanitation is because the size of the job has grown considerably; more diseased and dead trees take longer to remove.

"The capacity of the Plant Industry Division to enforce removals on private property was badly hurt by austerity," he reminded, "and we have not yet recovered.

"Along with the decline in enforcement activity, there has been a decline in leadership, which we in Plant Industry like to think has played no small part in whatever success the program has achieved."

A decline in enthusiasm for the program, brought on partly by the failure to come up with new control techniques; such problems as the diseased and dead tree situation outside control areas, and the lack of financing to keep pace with the problem in some communities are other contributing factors, Lovitt said.

★ ★ ★

If controls are to be effective against the disease, he concluded, sanitation must be combined with spraying and other measures in all affected communities and as part of a continual program.

Harmful Salts Show as White Frost

The white frost you see on the sides of your red clay flower pots is a sign that harmful salts that might endanger plant health have been leached out through the porous walls of the clay pots.

The frost can be scrubbed off in a few seconds to restore the natural terra cotta color of the container.

Save Spring for Planting Chores

Prepare for Next Season Gardeners

The gardener who wishes to get off to an early start in the spring is the one who gets ready in the fall.

In order to take advantage of the first break in the weather, all tools and equipment must be in condition to be used instantly.

Time out for cleaning, sharpening and oiling; for searching for lost items; for purchasing replacement items will cause the loss of valuable time.

After the first killing frost you can pull out sticks and stakes, clean off the dirt and store them away for next year.

Leaving them in the garden over the winter will leave many of them useless for next year.

DRY HOSE

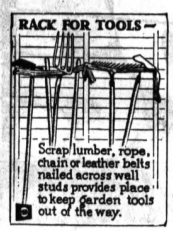

The hose should be dry inside and out. Allow it to drain completely.

Clean mud out of couplings. Pull out and throw away washers. Replace with new washers.

Coil the hose carefully so there will be no kinks. Hang it on a hose reel or rack.

Garden tools should be free from dirt and rust. Steel wool will both clean and brighten all metal parts.

A light coating of oil (wipe with an oily rag) will keep rust from forming until the spring.

Check handles for splinters, rough spots. Sand and wipe with linseed oil if handles have a natural finish. Otherwise repaint.

SHARP EDGES

Edges of spades and hoes should be sharp. A light going over with a file will take care of this. Clippers and shears should be kept sharp as well.

Clean the mower of grass clippings and other dirt. Sharpen the blade and lubricate according to manufacturer's instructions.

Give the blade a light coating of grease or oil.

If it's a power mower, drain both fuel and oil. Clean the filter now. Tighten all body bolts.

★ ★ ★

No mower should be left standing. Either hang it or support it on wooden blocks so that the wheels are up off the floor. Cover the motor to keep out dirt.

Spraying and dusting equipment must be stored clean. Empty them. Don't leave powders in bags or boxes.

Place in jars that can be tightly stoppered. Don't forget to label them.

LAWN ROLLER

If you have a lawn roller of the type that is filled with water, don't forget to drain it.

Leave the stopper out so that the inside will remain dry. If there's any dirt on the roller, clean it off.

This is the first place that rust will form.

While you want your tools ready to use in the spring, you also want them out of the way during storage.

Simple racks will keep you from tripping over them.

Bulb Planting Time Can Be Fun for the Whole Family

Fall flower-bulb planting is so simple that even the youngest members of the family enjoy it. Youngsters and oldsters alike can get a tremendous thrill out of putting Dutch bulbs "to bed for the winter," to wait for the joy of next spring's flowers.

No special skills or equipment are needed, and once the bulbs are safely in the ground, no care is required.

Most tulips, as well as daffodils and hyacinths, are planted six inches deep and six inches apart.

A few species tulips which bloom in early spring, such as Kaufmanniana, Fosteriana, etc., seem to grow best when planted only four inches deep.

★ ★ ★

The bright little early-blooming bulbs like the saucy crocus, galanthus or eranthis should be planted three inches deep and three inches apart.

WARM SOIL

Soil is warmer as you dig down — so bulbs can still be planted after surface frost, though not after really cold, ground-hardening weather.

In the south bulbs should be stored in the refrigerator for approximately eight weeks at a temperature of 40 degrees F. and then planted in January in somewhat shallower beds of about four inches depth in the north or south.

Planted at the proper depth and at the proper time of the year, bulbs will develop healthy roots.

★ ★ ★

Nature and the Dutch have made growing flower - bulbs so easy and so inexpensive that the joyful flowers of spring can be enjoyed by all. Remember that:

- Bulbs can be planted in any part of your garden, but determine first whether they are to be used in mass plantings, groups or borders.
- Formal beds of spring-flowering bulbs provide masses of brilliant color. But don't plant awkward blocks or a single row of colors. The single line is unattractive.
- When in bloom, tulips look best in clumps of twelve, twenty-four or more.

Sufficient bulbs of one kind should be planted in a group so that a mass picture is obtained rather than a forlorn "dotted effect."

- Edging garden walks, surrounding a garden gate or planting in front of shrubbery make for eye-catching spots for tulips.
- "Naturalizing" bulb plantings in the grass, lawn, shrub, border or other locations to imitate nature is an excellent gardening method to display bulbs.
- Consider combining tulips with dogwood, cherry, forsythia, and fruit trees for scenic effect. Try ringing an evergreen with a deep circle of brilliant Darwins, for example, using all but the darkest shades for effectiveness.
- Fit tulips into the scheme of a rock garden.
- Interplant bulbs into beds of pachysandra, myrtle, ivy or other ground covers.

Half the fun in the fall is selecting new places to plant bulbs and the choosing of the varieties. The other half comes in the spring, when your flower-bulb garden comes to life.

Tirade Marks Downfall of K

Pravda Article Says Farm Woes His Fault

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviets today marked the first anniversary of Nikita S. Khrushchev's downfall with an indirect but obvious tirade of abuse against the ousted premier.

An article in Pravda, the official newspaper of the Soviet Communist party bitterly blamed Khrushchev for Russia's farm problems. It accused him of "commandism, duplication, petty tutelage, ostentation and fuss."

The writer was Ukrainian party leader Pyotr Shelest, one of Khrushchev's proteges. The article did not mention Khrushchev by name, but there was no doubt of the intended target.

Khrushchev, disgraced and relegated to the status of an "unperson," presumably read the article in the seclusion of his country home where he is trying to live "the quiet life of a retired man."

* * *

Shelest has been one of Khrushchev's strongest critics in the 12 months since the upheaval that established two-headed leadership — Premier Alexei N. Kosygin and Communist party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev. Khrushchev, now stripped of all power, held both posts under the old regime.

CRASH PROGRAM

Shelest squared off first on Khrushchev's crash corn-growing program, a policy that has been blamed at least in part for Russia's recent wheat shortages.

"The area under winter wheat was unaccountably reduced by more than 2 million hectares (1.5 million acres) in recent years," Shelest wrote. "At the same time, the area under corn and peas was inordinately enlarged even in areas where they produced low yields."

Under the new Kosygin-Brezhnev leadership, Shelest said, things down on the farm are improving.

* * *

"The elements of commandism, duplication and petty tutelage over collective and state farm leaders and specialists are being banished from the practice of party government and economic bodies.

"Ostentation and fuss are rooted out."

CONTINUOUS ADVICE

Shelest was obviously referring to Khrushchev's practice of giving continuous advice to farmers on how to grow their crops and tend their livestock.

* * *

The words of abuse, including the charge of "commandism" and "ostentation," were used by the official Russian press in the days immediately following Khrushchev's ouster.

OUTSTANDING PAIR—Actor Frank Sinatra and Italian actress Virna Lisi hook up for a scene in the new movie, "Assault on a Queen." The film has a far-out plot in which Frank pulls a million-dollar heist on the Queen Mary using a submarine.

Latest Far-Out Film Has Frankie in Sub

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD — Movie plots are wilder than ever. Now they've got Frank Sinatra pulling a million-dollar heist on the Queen Mary via a submarine.

THOMAS

That is the essential plot of "Assault on a Queen," which is being filmed under the joint auspices of Sinatra Enterprises, Seven Arts and Paramount.

Sinatra says, "It's a good story and a forerunner in the field of far-out plots; the book has been laying around for 10 years.

"But listen, you can get away with these stories — if you hook the audience in the first eight to twelve minutes. And if you keep moving fast. And we move fast in this one, believe me."

* * *

I believed him. You need only to watch Sinatra at work to understand the swiftness of his operation.

"What are we waiting for?" he asks when there is a lull in shooting. "Let's get moving."

A lull gave me a chance to inquire about current and future plans of the phenomenon known as Sinatra.

SINATRA PLANS

"On Thanksgiving Eve, I'll have a special on television," he reported. "A week before that, CBS is putting on the World of Frank Sinatra. They've been following me around for six months, shooting everything I do, almost.

"Then a couple of weeks ago Walter Cronkite came down to Palm Springs and taped a long interview. That guy is great, you know. I think he's the best of the newscasters, a real reporter who can dig in an interview and come up with interesting questions. A real gentleman, too.

* * *

"That will be the format of the show: the interview, with flashbacks to film that has been taken."

After "Assault on a Queen," Sinatra will play his usual three weeks at his Las Vegas base, the Sands. Then in January he plans to film "Any Wednesday," the Broadway hit comedy about a tycoon who maintains a girl-equipped apartment which he visits midweek.

"Sandy Dennis, who played the role on Broadway, will be the girl," said Sinatra, "and we've signed R. J. (Robert) Wagner for the boy's part. I'm hoping to get Deborah Kerr to play my wife. She'd be great for it."

After "Any Wednesday," Sinatra plans a respite.

* * *

Does he plan a marriage to Mia Farrow during his lull in filming next year? He didn't say, and he had to return to the scene before I got a chance to ask. Thank heaven.

Back Student Rating of Profs

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — The student may have some say some day about which junior faculty members Yale University keeps and which it fires.

A report proposing that written evaluations by a select group of students be considered when decisions are made on candidates for permanent faculty appointments has won the endorsement of the Executive Committee of the Faculty of Arts and Sciences.

* * *

It must still be discussed by the faculty of Yale College and the graduate faculty at meetings next week and finally passed on by the Yale Corporation, the university's board of trustees. But the plan has strong support.

For instance, Paul Weiss, a professor of philosophy, thinks the idea is sound.

ACADEMIC WORK

He said the report of the special committee that proposed the plan was "a judicious, academic work, much better than I expected from a committee which had been appointed by the very administration that had blundered badly on the same issue."

* * *

This was a reference to the campus uproar last spring when Richard J. Bernstein, associate professor of philosophy, was denied tenure, i.e. fired.

Many of Bernstein's students, and sympathetic faculty members, attacked the decision, contending Bernstein was a first-rate teacher.

The FBI last year investigated 1,668 bank robberies, burglaries and larcenies, more than double a decade ago.

By Conferees

College Bill Worked Out

WASHINGTON (AP) — A congressional conference committee has hammered out a broad, new higher education program that would establish a national teacher corps and help poor- and middle-income students attend college.

The House and the Senate will have to pass on their conferees' compromise before it can be sent to President Johnson to sign into law.

* * *

At least one fight is in prospect. House Republicans objected in conference to the teacher corps and said they will try to have the provision removed from the bill on the House floor.

The Senate approved the teacher corps, but the House never voted on the proposal. While the conferees were wrestling with the bill Thursday, Johnson reportedly called from Bethesda Naval Hospital to say he wanted the teacher corps included.

MORE GENEROUS

The compromise bill is more than three times as generous as Johnson's narrower, original request. Where he asked for a $250-million program, the conferees' plan would cost $841 million a year.

The national teacher corps would work with local school districts in improving teaching services in low-income areas.

* * *

For the first time, the federal government would give scholarships to undergraduate students. And for the first time, middle-income families would get federal help in combatting steadily rising college costs.

* * *

The scholarships, called educational opportunity grants, would go to students selected by the colleges and only after the students demonstrated need. They would be worth $200 to $1,000 a year and would have to be matched by some other form of student aid, such as a loan or a work program.

Area in Florida Is Waterlogged

POMPANO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Jittery residents inched their doors open today to find flooded streets, seawalls washed away and cars stalled in three feet of water.

The area had its greatest rainfall in living memory.

It was still raining after more than 20 inches of rain fell on Pompano Beach in 13 hours Thursday.

Police told residents of the Pompano Beach-Fort Lauderdale area: "If you don't have to go out, stay home."

"This is the most terrifying thing I've ever seen," said Maxine Degraw, who saw her neighbor's boat dock and seawall washed away. Children rowed down streets in small boats; many homes were flooded.

The rain dumped more water on Pompano Beach than any hurricane has in 18 years. The city declared a state of emergency as police in nearby Fort Lauderdale took nearly 3,000 calls from motorists seeking help with stalled cars.

★ ★ ★

The rain flooded septic tanks, and health authorities warned parents not to let their children play in the floodwater.

A woman walking her dog was killed by a hit-and-run driver, who police said may not have seen her in the driving rain.

STREETS BARRICADED

Officers barricaded streets that they thought might cave in. Part of one street was washed into the Wahoo Canal. At one spot, seawalls collapsed from the weight of water behind them — not the waves breaking in front.

The Weather Bureau said the wooden stand for the rain gauge floated away when the forecaster tried to take a reading.

"I retrieved it a couple of blocks south," the forecaster said.

The rest of south Florida was also lashed by hours of heavy rain. Up to 10 inches was reported in Miami. The Weather Bureau didn't foresee an early letup.

The rain fell from a stalled front, which passed over southern Florida last Friday as a cold front. It got almost to Cuba before it returned as a moisture-laden warm front.

Amalgamation Issue

Pontiac Osteopathic College Hits Snag

By L. GARY THORNE

Forward progress of Pontiac's fledgling osteopathic college has collided solidly with the bigger issue of amalgamation.

Now the quest by the college's backers for a governing authority and state financial aid have been sidetracked until the winter session of the state legislature.

Meantime, the possible merger of the MD and DO professions is to be studied by an interim House subcommittee.

Following the interim study, recommendations are to be forthcoming so that in January the House can act on a bill to create a 10-member osteopathic college authority to govern the institution.

★ ★ ★

The bill was shelved earlier this week when the House State Affairs Committee voted 8-2 to keep it bottled up in committee.

PAVE THE WAY

Although the current measure does not call for any state money this year, it would pave the way for the state to furnish operating and maintenance funds.

State support for the osteopathic college is a big step. Amalgamation is an even bigger step.

Only one state — California — has merged MDs and DOs. Michigan has some hospitals with joint medical staffs. Amalgamation, however, would go even further.

Merger talk was brought up in the debate before the State Affairs Committee by a spokesman for the Michigan State Medical Society, a group particularly active in the current legislative considerations.

SINGLE STANDARD

According to the MSMS spokesman, amalgamation would mean a single standard for both professions; a single state board, a single degree.

The merger would be in terms of licensure and standards, but not in a unifying of the medical schools of the two healing professions.

The state medical society has gone on record in favor of the merger. The osteopaths, meanwhile, are opposed.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Benjamin F. Dickinson, Pontiac surgeon and president of the Michigan Association of Osteopathic Physicians and Surgeons, said that he did not think amalgamation was the issue.

UPHILL FIGHT

Osteopaths anticipated an uphill fight to obtain state funds. Dr. Dickinson feels the issue should be the question of more doctors for Michigan.

The osteopathic president pointed out that more medical schools are needed even with expansion at Wayne State University and further development of the medical school slated to get under way at Michigan State University.

On the national level, osteopaths are likewise opposed to amalgamation. Dr. H. C. Moore, the state association's legislative representative, pointed this out to the House committee.

★ ★ ★

"When they propose amalgamation, they're trying to put us on trial in legislative halls, while this is something to be worked out between our two organizations," he said. "They will do anything to stall for time."

STUDY RESOLUTION

The House study resolution specifies that the recommendations should determine "what steps the Legislature might take to insure the people of Michigan the highest quality medical services at the least cost . . ."

Despite the setback in failing to win state support this year, Dr. Dickinson said the bid would be revived in the January session. It will be the third attempt to secure such aid.

Meantime, the association president did not think the overall development of the college would be slowed.

Efforts to merge MDs and DOs will face tough sledding. State funds are vital to the college's eventual success, according to osteopaths.

NO AMALGAMATION

Previously, the osteopathic profession was asked repeatedly by legislators for assurances that there would be no amalgamation, if state funds are to be appropriated.

New Hampshire has had a state system of education since 1647 when a court order required every community of 50 persons to maintain a school.

News Analysis

Two Pontiac Men Stand Mute in Troy Robbery

Two Pontiac men, charged with armed robbery, stood mute yesterday in Troy Municipal Court.

Examination was set for Monday for Floyd Newbern, 24, of 256 Rockwell and Clarence Montgomery, 23, of 94 Lull, who were arrested yesterday after a $9,780 holdup at the Sears Roebuck & Co. Oakland Mall store in Troy.

Both are being held in Oakland County jail in lieu of $50,000 bond.

Pontiac police said they are also questioning the two about an armed robbery Wednesday night at the Orchard Lake Tavern, 404 Orchard Lake.

NY Auction of Paintings Sets Records

NEW YORK (UPI) — The world auction record for modern paintings was broken last night in a $3,385,600 sale at which a secretive American collector paid an unparalleled $800,000 for one of Cezanne's impressionist landscapes.

The auction of 55 canvasses at the Parke-Bernet galleries not only topped the previous most expensive sale of works painted since 1870 — a $2.3 million sale in London in 1963 — but it also set new auction records for four French artists, Cezanne, Manet, Guillaumin and Duchamp.

A price of $616,000 for a Cezanne had stood as the auction record for a modern painting since a London sale in 1958.

American prosperity and the increasing scarcity of prime impressionist works made it inevitable that the masterful painting sold last night, "Houses at Estaque," would bring even more.

"Few Cezannes of this quality can be expected to come up on the market in the future," said are dealer E. J. Rousuck who placed the winning bid for a collector he described only as "living in the East not far from New York."

FARMHOUSES

Cezanne painted the sun-flecked farmhouses on a rocky hillside in 1882 — when he was lucky to get a few hundred dollars for a painting.

It was put up for sale by Mrs. Marius de Zayas of Greenwich, Conn., who also realized $275,000 for a richly colored Tahitian scene by Gauguin. The Gauguin was purchased by the Staempfli Gallery of New York.

Trading at Slower Pace

Stock Market Nudges Higher

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market nudged irregularly higher today following three sessions of uneven decline.

Trading was active but at a slower pace than any other session this week.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 1.0 at 348.6 with industrials up .9, rails up 1.4 and utilities up .3.

* * *

Some of the so-called glamour issues which have backtracked on profit taking snapped back.

The market averages were helped by a highly selective recovery among blue chips. Duller issues, for example, rebounded only fractionally.

BUSINESS NEWS

The business news background was encouraging although reports of a tightening in lendable funds and some further stiffening of interest rates.

Little leadership was provided by the important stock groups.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 2.68 at 940.18.

Further blue chip came from Air Reduction, up 1, Texaco, American Telephone, Chrysler, International Nickel, Anaconda and Southern California Edison, all fractional gainers.

Prices advanced in active trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Corporate bonds were mostly unchanged. U.S. Treasury bonds declined.

Italy trailed by five International Match Points starting the final day's play against America but it did not take the team long to move into the lead.

JACOBY

On the second board of the day, (board 98 of the match) Italy reached a very doubtful three no-trump contract.

The Italian bidding is shown in the box. North's opening bid was the Roman Club showing a balanced hand with 12 to 16 high card points. The one spade response was positive and showed at least three spades and a minimum of nine points.

The two club rebid was artificial and merely showed that the club opening was a maximum of 15 or 16 points. South chose a two no-trump rebid at this point in spite of his worthless doubleton in hearts. North raised to game.

West opened the six of diamonds and South won with the queen. At this point I don't imagine that South would have given a plugged Italian lira for his chances but, as you can see, there was no way to beat the hand.

Dummy's ten of diamonds represented a second diamond stopper and West's queen-jack of spades were going to drop to give South an entry to make his clubs after he got the suit up. So he made a really lucky four no-trump.

At the other table the American South played at a sound two spade contract. He only made three odd, but three or four would represent the same seven IMP loss.

Card Scene

Q—The bidding has been:

South	West	North	East
2 ♣	Pass	3 ♣	Pass
4 ♥	Pass	5 ♦	Pass

You, South, hold:
♠ A K Q J 10 5 ♥ A K J ♦ 3 2 ♣ 8
What do you do?

A—You might make the super scientific bid of five hearts, but my own preference is to take a chance and jump to six spades.

TODAY'S QUESTION

You bid six spades and your partner bids six no-trump. What do you do now?

Lindsay Shuns GOP Tag in Rough-and-Tumble Race

(EDITOR'S NOTE: It's an odd mayoralty campaign in New York, where the Democrats keep trying to "expose" Rep. John V. Lindsay as a Republican, while Lindsay seems oblivious of the party label. A reporter who's followed him along the hustings provides a close-up of the candidate.)

By SAUL PETT
AP Special Correspondent

NEW YORK—The New York mayoralty campaign is getting rough. Someone has accused John V. Lindsay of being soft on Republicanism.

Abe Beame, the Democratic candidate, went further. He made the flat charge that Lindsay has met "secretly" with Republican leaders and they are "secretly" supporting him. Whispers even have been heard, among those convinced that Lindsay will end up one day in the White House, that he may be a "Republican Kennedy."

* * *

Nothing could be more serious in a city where Democrats normally out-register the Republicans by better than 3 to 1. However, political insiders doubt that either charge will stick.

True, Lindsay will have to explain why the Congressional Directory lists him as a Republican representative from the city's 17th District and why the Republican party, as well as the Liberal party, happened to nominate him for mayor.

FUSION CANDIDATE

Nonetheless, Lindsay insists he is a fusion candidate for mayor and almost never mentions the word Republican in speechees, "position papers" or billboards.

He frequently invokes the memories of such Democratic party heroes as Eleanor Roosevelt, Herbert H. Lehman and John F. Kennedy. He insists there is no Republican or Democratic way of cleaning up the streets of New York.

* * *

Asked where he will find the money to clean up the city, reduce its crime rate, to increase its business and improve its schools, Lindsay, more often than not, starts by saying the city can get more money than it has from the federal government.

* * *

To his supporters, this is ample proof that John Vliet Lindsay long since has redeemed what many regard as the one mistake of his groping youth, when in a moment of confusion, he joined the Republican party.

If voters in the Nov. 2 election require further evidence of Lindsay's un-Republicanism, he can always cite the fact that he refused to support Barry Goldwater in 1964, often failed to vote with his party in Congress and, publicly, can almost never remember the name of the governor of New York, Nelson A. Rockefeller, whose recent 2 per cent state sales tax has infuriated many voters. Despite Lyndon B. Johnson's sweep last year in the nation and city, it was Lindsay who outpolled the President in his district.

TENDS TO THUNDER

In style, Lindsay reminds one of an earnest young minister with a good tailor and an endless supply of righteous indignation. In oratory, he generally avoids humor, tends to thunder and does not shrink from hyperbole. "New York's substandard housing is probably worse than any city's outside of Calcutta" and "The collapse of New York makes the fall of Rome look like the minor toppling of dominoes."

He frequently recalls his days in the Pacific — on a destroyer — and often attacks Beame, his principal opponent, as the prisoner of a political machine which "cares only about what it can get out of the city, not what it can give the city." His sarcasm tends toward wringing alliteration as when he drips the last drop of scorn out of "the bosom of bossism."

Auto Club Reports on Fall Leaf Coloring

DETROIT (AP) — The Automobile Club of Michigan said Thursday fall leaf colorings are "excellent" in northern Lower Michigan and "drawing to a close" in Upper Michigan. Southern Michigan should be at 80 per cent of full fall color this weekend, the club said.

Sandy Koufax Dominating Figure in '65 World Series

Dodgers' Ace Brilliant in Final Victory

Only One Earned Run Is Allowed by Lefty in 24 Innings

MINNEAPOLIS—ST. PAUL (AP) — Sandy Koufax figured to dominate the World Series before it started, and it turned out just that way.

The 29-year-old ace of the Los Angeles Dodgers, who is called the best pitcher in baseball, won Thursday's clincher 2-0 with a brilliant three-hit effort. The left-hander struck out 10 Minnesota Twins.

★ ★ ★

Although he lost his first start in the second Series game, Sandy allowed only one earned run in 24 innings in three starts. His final strikeout total of 29 was only two short of the Series record of 31 set by Bob Gibson of the St. Louis Cardinals last year.

★ ★ ★

With all due respect to Don Drysdale, the 23-game winner who won the fourth game, Koufax' performance in coming back with only two days of rest, made him the Dodgers' No. 1 hero.

In the final essence, it was Dodger pitching with three shutouts and the ability of Los Angeles' supposedly weak hitters to all but match the Twins in home run power that swung the balance to the Dodgers.

★ ★ ★

It was another satisfying triumph for the National League which has won eight of the last 12 Series and three in a row. The Dodgers go into the record books along with the 1921 New York Giants, 1955 Brooklyn Dodgers and 1956 and 1958 New York Yankees as the only clubs to bounce back and win after losing the first two.

★ ★ ★

The startling difference between the games played at Metropolitan Stadium and at spacious Dodger Stadium in Los Angeles was reflected by the results. Not until the final day did they have to play the last of the ninth inning.

BIG PRODUCERS

Maury Wills and Ron Fairly, each with 11 hits, were the big producers for the winners, but don't overlook Lou Johnson, the much-traveled 31-year-old outfielder.

Johnson, called up from Spokane in May after Tommy Davis suffered a broken ankle, sparked the Dodgers in May and June. In the final game of the Series, it was his home run off the left field foul screen that gave Koufax all the margin he needed.

★ ★ ★

Johnson's homer, leading off the fourth, doomed Jim Kaat, who also was pitching with two days rest. When Ron Fairly followed with a double to the right field corner and Wes Parker singled to right scoring Fairly, Kaat was done for the day.

★ ★ ★

Sam Mele's relief men put the stopper to the Dodger attack but it was the same old story—too late.

Koufax' best friend was Jim Gilliam, an old sidekick who was brought back from the coaching staff to the active list in May to fill a third base emergency.

TIGHT SPOT

When Sandy gave up a double to Frank Quilici in the fifth and then walked pinch hitter Rich Rollins, Manager Walter Alston came out to talk with him. The next batter, Zoilo Versalles, slammed a hard grounder down the third base line that Gilliam gloved behind the bag in time for the vital force play at third base.

Arrows Seeking Tie for Crown

The Pontiac Arrows are just one victory away from clinching at least a tie for the Midwestern Football League championship.

And they'll go looking for the win Saturday, moving into Dayton (Ohio) to take on the Colts who hold down second place in the league with a 2-2 mark. Game time is 8 p.m. at Stebbins Field on Harshman Road.

The Colts, who gave the Arrows a rough time before bowing 21-19 at Wisner Stadium earlier in the season, suffered a jolt this week when their leading scorer and pass receiver — Keith Smith — suffered a knee injury in practice.

Smith, a 6-3 210-pound end is the big spark in the Colts' offense, and without him, the team may be in for a losing evening before the home fans.

★ ★ ★

In three league games, the jumping-jack Smith has caught 31 passes for 310 yards and seven touchdowns.

11 RECEPTIONS

In the game against Pontiac, Smith, who played briefly with the San Diego Chargers in the AFL, hauled in 11 passes for 187 yards and almost beat the Arrows.

★ ★ ★

"He was really bannged up in the practice session," said Wally McGinnis, spokesman for the club, referring to a practice last Sunday.

"He hasn't been a practice this week and it's doubtful if he'll see much action against Pontiac," McGinnis said. 'Coach Ed McCracken planned to let him run a little tonight to see if he can maneuver.

With Smith out of the lineup, McCracken is expected to go with Jim Grabowski, a 6-0 190-pounder. At the other end will be Chuck McElligott, a 6-0, 175-pounder, who has picked off 17 passes in three games.

★ ★ ★

A player who may turn out to be a thorn in the side of the Arrows is safetyman Roy Kronenberg, who leads the league with nine interceptions, four ahead of Pontiac's Jesse Parrish.

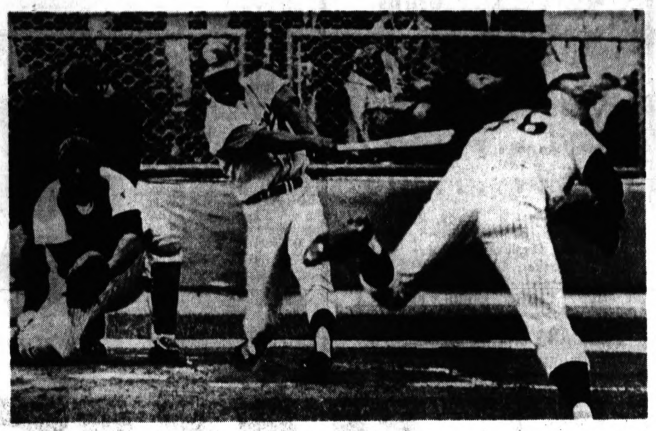

BAD NEWS

He may be particularly bad news for Arrows' quarterback Karl Sweetan, who has completed 39 of 70 passes for 497 yards and nine touchdowns. Only two of Sweetan's passes have been intercepted.

After Dayton, the Arrows have an off week and then travel to Flint for a game with the Blue Devils. They return home Nov. 6 to play host to Lansing's All-Stars.

BIG FIRST RUN—Los Angeles Dodger leftfielder Lou Johnson takes a mighty cut at the ball in hitting a home run to send the Dodgers into a 1-0 lead in the 4th inning of the final World Series game yesterday at Metropolitan Stadium against the Minnesota Twins. Pitcher is Jim Kaat and the catcher is Earl Battey. Behind the plate is umpire Ed Hurley.

Sandy Calls Self Lucky in Winning

MINNEAPOLIS - ST. PAUL (AP) — Sandy Koufax, the man with the champagne arm, took a long swig from a bottle of orange pop and proclaimed himself lucky.

But teammate Lou Johnson proclaimed Koufax "the greatest" and didn't get a dissenting vote.

Twenty-six times during the National League season and twice in the World Series, Koufax was the stopper, the ace in the hole, the man who was money in the bank for the Dodgers.

Yet, in the midst of the celebrating Dodger dressing room, the soft-spoken southpaw had compliments for his teammates and kind words for the Minnesota Twins, the team he licked 2-0 on three hits in the seventh game of the World Series Thursday.

KEY PLAYS

"I was trying to go as far as I could," he said. "But my fast ball wasn't getting over, and I didn't have a curve the whole game."

★ ★ ★

He and Manager Walter Alston credited Jim Gilliam with the key defensive plays of the game, stops of smashes near the third base line in the fourth and fifth innings that had hit marks all over them.

"Everybody on this ball club has made the big plays," Koufax said.

★ ★ ★

Koufax, dripping perspiration but willing to talk as long as sports writers wanted, refused to be drawn into an argument over the merits of smallish Metropolitan Stadium as opposed to spacious Dodger Stadium.

★ ★ ★

He lost the Series opener in the Twins' home park.

"I'm not afraid of the stadium," he snapped. "The stadium didn't beat me, the Twins did."

Although the season is over, Koufax gave his talented left arm the same icepack treatment he's used since arthritis began to throb in his elbow.

MAN OF THE HOUR—Pitcher Sandy Koufax is rushed by his Los Angeles Dodger teammates after striking out the last Minnesota batter Bob Allison to win the 1965 World Series with a final game score of 2-0. It took seven games and Koufax won two, allowing only three hits yesterday.

Scores Pair Aces in Golf Tournament

CARLSBAD, Calif. (AP) — Marine Corporal Charles Lewis, has put together a pair of aces, back-to-back.

★ ★ ★

Lewis scored his second hole-in-one in two days Thursday while playing in the amateur division of the $50,000 Haig and Haig Mixed Scotch Golf Tournament at La Costa Country Club.

The son of a Little Rock, Ark., golf pro, Lewis sank a four-iron shot on the 183-yard 12th hole.

★ ★ ★

Wednesday, in the pro-amateur play, he put his 1-iron shot against the wind into the cup on the fly on the 180-yard No. 5.

CARLSBAD, Calif. (AP) — Leaders after the first round of the $50,000 Haig and Haig Mixed Scotch golf tournament:

Ray Floyd-Carol Mann	34-32—66

Spartans Pack Power for Visiting Buckeyes

EAST LANSING, Mich., (AP) — A combination of power running, some potent passing and a fancy kicking game makes Michigan State the favorite over Ohio State in a test of early Big Ten front-runners at East Lansing Saturday.

★ ★ ★

The fourth-ranked Spartans are unbeaten in four games and last week defeated Michigan, defending Big Ten and Rose Bowl champ, 24-7.

★ ★ ★

Ohio State has a 2-1 record but showed its potential by coming from behind to run over Illinois 28-14, three of the touchdowns coming within eight minutes of the second quarter.

The Buckeyes were the conference runner-up last year and always have been slow starters.

"It was more like 12 yards and a cloud of dust," said MSU Coach Duffy Daugherty of the performance of the team that traditionally has been described as an outfit with a "four yards and a cloud of dust' grind-it-out attack.

BREAD AND BUTTER

Fullbacks Tom Barrington and Willard Sander are the bread and butter boys of the ground game for Ohio State with 393 yards and six touchdowns between them.

Quarterback Don Unverferth has added a passing threat to the Buckeye attack with 26 completions for 292 yards.

★ ★ ★

Steve Juday, the poised senior quarterback, directs the aerial arm for Michigan State and has hit 39 throws for 563 yards.

The top rusher is sophomore fullback Bob Apisa of Hawaii, with a net of 285 yards. Closely following is Clint Jones with a net of 260.

★ ★ ★

Another import from Hawaii, Dick Kenney, is a crowd-pleaser with his unorthodox barefoot style of kicking. Kenney is leading scorer in the Big Ten with 28 points on eight field goals and four conversions.

Roverback George Webster and end Bubba Smith lead an MSU defense that held Michigan to minus 39 yards rushing.

★ ★ ★

A near sellout crowd of 76,000 is expected for the 1:30 p.m., EST, kickoff.

Dale Back Ranks 7th

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Hillsdale halfback Bruce McLenna ranks seventh in individual rushing among NAIA member schools, football statistics released Thursday show. McLenna has gained 468 yards in 79 carries for a 5.9 average.

Coach Fears Defeat After 42 of Them

TROY, N.Y. (AP) — A Union College football team was the last to taste defeat at the hands of luckless Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute.

The score was 21-0 and the year was 1959.

Saturday, the Dutchmen and the Engineers meet again, and RPI players will be after their first victory in 42 games.

Engineer Coach Dick Riendeau said he was "fearful" of Saturday.

"Union could score 50 points against us and that would demoralize RPI for the remainder of the year."

In its extended losing streak, RPI has enjoyed its closest games with the Dutchmen. In 1961, Union won, 10-8, and the following year 14-7.

'M' Must Stop QB

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Michigan's hopes of snapping its two-game losing streak Saturday rests on how well it can stop Purdue's Bob Griese and Bob Hadrick.

The Boilermakers, who have scored three straight victories over Michigan, including a 21-20 triumph last season, have their eyes set on a Rose Bowl bid and figure they've got the balance to make it.

★ ★ ★

The Griese-to-Hadrick pass combination has set four school marks this season and Griese added another himself with 322 yards total offense against Notre Dame.

Michigan has seen its pass defense tested several times this season—North Carolina nally got the Wolverines moving passers setting school marks for attempts and completions against it—but has not yet met the likes of the Purdue duo.

SEVEN TD PASSES

Griese has completed 66 of 95 attempts for 838 yards in the first four games. Seven have gone for touchdowns.

Hadrick has latched on to 31 passes for 402 yards and one touchdown.

When Griese isn't passing, the Wolverines can look for either Gordon Teter or Randy Minniear to carry the ball. Each has averaged about four yards a try so far.

Michigan Coach Bump Elliott is expected to start Wally Gabler at quarterback, Gabler fi- against Michigan State last week but was sidelined by a bruised rib.

Texas Meets Arkansas

Key Battle for No. 1 Rating

By The Associated Press

Talk about your over-lapping schedules:

Here the World Series is over less than 24 hours and the national college football championship is ready to be settled.

★ ★ ★

The Texas vs. Arkansas clash at Fayetteville, Ark. Saturday afternoon ranks as the most important game of the season. It very well could produce the national champion and is certain to have a great bearing on the final selection.

Here's the set-up:

Texas currently ranks as the No. 1 team in the nation. Arkansas is No. 3. Nebraska ranks second. Each has a 4-0 record. Nebraska plays neither Texas nor Arkansas, in fact has the rest of its schedule against Big Eight opposition.

NEBRASKA STRONG

Should the Texas-Arkansas match produce a big winner, that team would be in excellent position to go all the way. That's been the general situation. Should it be a close one — and tion for the last couple of years, recent history would indicate Arkansas beat Texas 14-13 last that's more likely — Nebraska season, finished up at 10-0, but could get in No. 1 and stay couldn't overtake Alabama in there. the No. 1 position.

The year before, Texas won 17-13 and went on to an undefeated season and the national title.

In fact, the last three Texas-Arkansas games have been decided by a total of nine points, and all indications are that this one — scheduled for national television coverage — will follow the same format.

Texas, however, is singing the injury blues.

"We have 13 of our first 33 players who have something wrong with them," Longhorn Coach Darrell Royal said Thursday. "All but two of them will be in uniform Saturday in an attempt to make it, but we don't know how they'll stand up."

KNEE INJURY

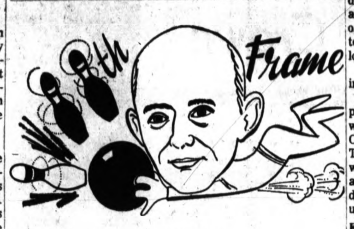

The biggest question mark concerns Tommy Nobis, a 230-pound linebacking sensation. Nobis suffered a knee injury in practice and, according to Royal, may not be able to play. Nobis says he will.

Nebraska, meanwhile, has a much easier assignment. The Cornhuskers, who have outscored their last two opponents 81-0, are top-heavy favorites against winless Kansas State.

Southern California, also Rose Bowl conscious, matches 3-0-1 records with Stanford in Los Angeles.

Florida, 3-1 and No. 9 in the country, is favored over North Carolina State, 1-3. No. 7 Notre Dame is idle.

Fifth ranked Georgia and 10th ranked Mississippi State, each 4-0, are scheduled Saturday night. Georgia is at Florida State and Mississippi State at winless Memphis State.

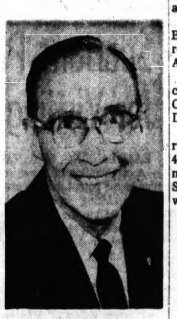

By JERE CRAIG

J. B. (Mac) McDermid has seen his scope increased greatly in bowling during the past four years.

The industrious General Motors Truck and Coach publications office worker was only a league bowler until 1961 when he became director of the Elks Lodge 810 youth bowling program.

The lodge members were impressed with what he did for their youngsters, so they made him their women's organizer . . . that is, for the local group's annual National Invitational Ladies' Tournament.

MAC McDERMID

Apparently, his praises were scattered outside the lodge because McDermid now has the title of Zone 1 director for the newly formed Michigan State Junior Bowling Association.

As such, McDermid (who lives at 601 East Third) will supervise the zone's participation in next spring's first official MSJBA tournament.

Zone 1 includes the Greater Detroit and Wayne County men's bowling associations geographical boundaries. Last year this area (including Pontiac) had nearly 6,500 young bowlers.

This is a big jump from the approximately 100 youngsters in the Pontiac Elks Temple program.

The MSJBA was chartered by the American Junior Bowling Congress in August. The state president is John Kasinsky of Hastings and Wilma LaLonde of Detroit is secretary-treasurer.

The Women's International Bowling Congress and the ABC have joined forces to form the AJBC. The National Federation of State High School Athletic Associations has recently voiced approval of the AJBC's purpose and administrative procedures.

★ ★ ★

The bowling proprietors still have their Youth Bowling Association, also; and there is hope something can be done to integrate the two programs.

This season's state tournament will be a team event. The Greater Detroit BA is organizing a holiday singles and doubles tournament.

McDermid has been in contact with local establishments regarding a possible site for the state tourney.

Should a Zone 1 proprietor be the successful bidder, McDermid's scope could become even more expanded and crowded.

SPARE PINS

Joe Puertas, long-time local bowling figure, is home recuperating from recent surgery and reportedly is coming along fine.

has featured several interesting scoring efforts.

Monday night in the Superior Merchants circuit, the 300 Bowl team took league-leading Sylvan Lanes, 3-1, despite the fact Don Plumb had 237—612 for the losers who had dropped only one point previously.

Chuck Larr posted an enviable progression: 201-202-203 for 606. Sunday, the Mixed League saw Joe Foster and Ray Brancheau each maintain their 200-pin averages with 248—623 (Foster) and 245—622 (Brancheau) efforts.

Mary Keller had 201—574.

U. S. Finale Looms in Piccadilly Play

WENTWORTH, England (UPI) — The prospect of an all-American final loomed today as Arnold Palmer and Tony Lema went out to do battle at the Piccadilly world match play golf championships semifinals in opposite halves of the draw.

Palmer, last year's winner of the 5,000 pounds ($40,000) first prize, plays British Open champion Peter Thomson of Australia.

Lema, the Carling world champion and Buick Open winner, faced off against South African Gary Player, the reigning U.S. Open and Canada Cup winner.

Irish Leader to Run Again Despite Age

DUBLIN (AP) — President Eamon De Valera is 83 and nearly blind, but he's planning to run for a second seven-year term next year.

The old veteran celebrated his 83rd birthday Thursday. Friends reported he had decided to try to continue in office.

★ ★ ★

Most political observers believe "Dev" will win easily. His 1959 opponent, Gen. Sean MacEoin, is believed unlikely to run again. The small Labor party may put up a candidate, but he is not expected to be much competition.

The presidency is a ceremonial post divorced from active politics but this time the election holds special significance.

OBVIOUS APPEAL

Whoever wins will preside over the 50th anniversary celebrations of the 1916 Easter uprising which led to Ireland's independence from Britain.

This prospect holds obvious appeal for De Valera, who in 1916 was the last of the rebel commanders to surrender. Surrounded by British troops, he stepped from his fortified post in Dublin and said: "Shoot me, but spare my men."

Job Corps Center to Open in U. P.

DETROIT (AP) — Michigan's second Job Corps center was scheduled to open today at Ojibway in Gogebic County and a third is to begin operations Dec. 1, Dr. David Gottlieb, corps associate director, said Thursday.

* * *

The Ojibway unit will handle 200 boys. The other new unit, at Hoxeyville near Cadillac, will handle 120 youths. Both are designed for boys with a 6th grade level education.

Michigan's first center, at Camp Custer near Battle Creek, has been in operation several months.

Male Long Hairs Growing in Popularity, Says Earl

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — My popularity with the female sex has increased to the extent that it is now practically microscopic. To give the girls a further treat, I went pubcrawling in a Beatles wig that cost $3.13 at the Circle Magic Shop, 52d and Broadway.

EARL WILSON

Long-hair for men is no longer a joke. Tony Curtis and Dick Shawn both say they started it . . . Tony Newley only gets sheared once a month . . . and Yul Brynner doesn't know what the heck to do.

My first stop in my Beatles wig was Sardi's where Val, the maitre d', screamed, "CAROL CHANNING!"

Henry Morgan growled, "I pay $12 for a haircut and I beg them, 'Just cut it like they did in the Army.' No, they want to run it down my back."

"But what do you think about long-haired men?" I asked. "Between us?" said Henry . . . "Of course, Henry," I purred . . . "I don't think about them," said he.

* * *

Sybil Christopher's marrying Jordan Christopher made long-hair socially acceptable hereabouts. Lovely Lesley Ann Warren, the sensational new celebrity in "Drat! The Cat!", has dates with long-maned mid-thirtyish Photographer Jerry Schatzberg, who's quite hot now . . . who says "I happen to like it that way."

Washington and Jefferson wore it long. So may we. Remember what the teen-ager said to the barber: "Just a trim . . . even it up a little around the shoulders."

* * *

THE MIDNIGHT EARL . . .

Mrs. Bing Crosby (Kathy Grant) signed to write her memoirs for Appleton . . . Lee Strasberg's new book, "Strasberg at the Actors Studio," was unveiled and cocktailed at the Drama Book Shop where Lee said that those who criticize "the Method" should read it "so they'll know what they're against."

* * *

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: A Broadway character recalled his poverty-stricken childhood: "My mother used to have to sweep the dirt under a neighbor's rug."

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "Patience is a matter of being able to wait for the first coat of paint to dry before applying the second."—Anon.

EARL'S PEARLS: Steve Lawrence took one of those excursion flights to Las Vegas, "and instead of movies they showed us card tricks."

Paul Anka eavesdropped this in Greenwich Village: "My cousin swore not to share during the water shortage—and you know how terrible a beard looks on her!" . . . That's earl, brother.

Word Power for Success—5

Seek Meaning; Avoid i's in Profusion

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fifth article in a 30-part series entitled "The Word Power to Success." The series is designed to help bring improvement in spelling, grammar and vocabulary.)

By The Reading Laboratory, Inc.
Written for NEA Special Services

Avoid the i's in profusion,
Seek the meaning, not confusion.

In the third article of this series we laid down the general rule regarding the keeping or the dropping of a word's final silent e before a suffix. Here is that rule:

When suffixes begin with vowels,
Silent e grabs crying towels.
When suffixes start other ways,
Then silent e — make sure it stays.

According to that rule, practice becomes practicing; memorize becomes memorizing; arrive becomes arriving. The final silent e, in other words, disappears before suffixes which begin with vowels.

On the other hand, that final silent e remains when the suffix starts with a consonant: retire becomes retirement; strange becomes strangely. And so forth.

In the fourth article we took up the matter of saving soft g and soft c. There are times, we saw, in which following the general rule would take away the original soft g or c of words (change, notice) and give them a hard character.

★ ★ ★

We covered this group of exceptions with the rule expressed in this ditty:

If suffixes start a, u, o,
When g precedes, it's g in go.
To save soft g, keep e you must,
And say the g like j in just.

KEEP SOFT G

Now, if you have a word which has a soft g (like j in just): the point is to keep that soft g throughout all other words built on that word.

Since suffixes which start a, u, o will make that soft g or soft c hard if they follow right on top of the g or c, then the verse says, "keep e you must." Therefore, you will have changeable, outrageous, advantageous, traceable, noticeable.

This brings us to the final small class of exceptions.

Let us take the word die, meaning "to pass out of physical existence." You are told to add the suffix ing. Good.

If you follow the regular rule, the final silent e of die will disappear before ing. Right? That will give you diing. That not only looks silly, but how would you ever pronounce it? And the same thing would happen if you add the suffix ing to lie. You would have liing.

Our rhyme to the rescue: "Avoid the i's in profusion." A succession of i's is to be avoided, in other words. So we write dying and lying, and these are certainly familiar.

So far so good. You know now that the word is dying, and it means "passing out of physical existence." Now someone comes along and speaks of changing colors in the curtains.

★ ★ ★

She wants to dye the curtains. And while she is doing that, she asks you to add the suffix ing to the word dye. So you follow the rule and drop the e of dye before a suffix (ing) beginning with a vowel. And what do you get? Dying.

SEEK MEANING

From that spelling is there any way of distinguishing "changing colors" from "passing out of physical existence"? We look to our verse to pull us out of this mess, and it says "seek the meaning, not confusion." In other words, use your good common sense and write dyeing ("changing colors") so as not to get mixed up with dying ("passing out of existence").

The word singe means "to scorch or burn slightly." Adding to that. If you follow the rule exactly, you will get singing. Now there must be some difference between making music with the voice and scorching.

So, using your good common sense, ("Seek the meaning, not confusion"), you are "singing a song" and "singeing the cloth."

★ ★ ★

Today's small verse says two things: Avoid a succession of i's; avoid confusion between words that are spelled alike.

CORRECT SENTENCES

Suppose you correct these sentences now, and in our next article we shall have a full-scale review of all columns to date.

1. Father lay diing while mother was dying her hair.
2. I always start singeing joyous songs while madmen are singing my feet.

Answers

1. Father lay dying while mother was dyeing her hair.
2. I always start singing joyous songs while madmen are singeing my feet.

Human Leukemia Virus Nears

By Science Service

PHILADELPHIA — Scientists are nearing their goal of proving their "hunch" that viruses, which cause leukemia in animals, also cause human leukemia.

This cancerous disease of the white blood cells and blood-forming organs takes many forms.

There is no reason "man should be an exception to all the other animals" in which leukemia is virus-caused, Dr. Albert J. Dalton of the National Cancer Institute, Bethesda, Md., told Science Service. He said however, that no specific virus affecting humans had been found.

Dr. Dalton and other scientists from as far away as Australia and Israel are meeting in Philadelphia this week to share findings on their research for the cause, and hopefully imminent control, of human leukemia.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Arnold Graffi, director of the Institute for Experimental Research at the German Academy of Science, East Berlin, reported that, working with only one type of virus, he produced several forms of leukemia in mice.

Included were the lymph form; the myeloid, or bone marrow, form; and others. His findings bring into question the belief, held by many scientists, that the various forms of leukemia are each caused by a different virus.

ELECTRON MICROSCOPE

The electron microscope shows virus particles in solid tumors that appear identical to those found in mouse leukemia and in some human leukemias.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Dalton reported yesterday he used the Moloney virus, named after Dr. John B. Moloney of the Laboratory of Viral Oncology, in which Dr. Dalton also works, to produce solid tumors.

In answer to a Science Service question, Dr. Dalton said this was not the first time viruses have caused solid forms of cancer. The DNA, or deoxyribonucleic acid, viruses producing solid tumors include polyoma, or mouse virus; SV-40 or simian virus; Rous sarcoma, or chicken virus; four different adenoviruses; the wart virus, and others.

LIGHT TORCH — With a slight buzzing sound from the button, Calvin J. Werner, general campaign chairman, lights the torch that signals the start of the 1965 Pontiac Area United Fund campaign. Werner pressed the button in brief ceremonies yesterday on the lawn of City Hall.

At City Hall

UF Torch Is Lighted

Brief torch - lighting ceremonies yesterday on the lawn of City Hall officially launched the 1965 Pontiac Area United Fund campaign. A record $875,000 will be sought this year.

★ ★ ★

Calvin J. Werner, general chairman, lighted the giant torch that will burn for 22 days and nights until the campaign is completed Nov. 4.

Werner said that the torch is the symbol of hope and an invitation to help those less-privileged Pontiac citizens.

"Let's preserve the challenge to care," he added.

★ ★ ★

FIND LEADERSHIP

Griffin said that this year the UF drive looked to industry for leadership and found it in Werner.

Attending the torch-lighting were the four division chairmen, Thomas F. Wiethorn, industrial; James P. Dickerson, commercial; Bruce J. Annett, advance gifts; and Mrs. William G. Wright, women's.

Representatives from some of the 55 agencies supported through the annual UF solicitations were also on hand for the lighting of the torch.

★ ★ ★

RECORD GOAL

The record goal this year is $59,500 higher than last year, reflecting the growth of the community and its needs.

Funds collected last year served 30,000 families — more than three out of every five persons in the Pontiac area.

Division goals are $234,757 for commercial; $104,090, advance gifts; $582,463, industrial; and women's, $35,078.

★ ★ ★

The torch - lighting marks the kickoff of the four divisions, except the advance gifts division which has already begun solicitations. Hundreds of volunteers will begin contacting contributors.

Cloud Legality of Morrissey Race in 1934

Massachusetts Paper Cites His Testimony; Resided in Georgia

BOSTON (AP) — Francis X. Morrissey, nominated by President Johnson for a federal judgeship, ran for the Massachusetts House in 1934 when he has testified he was living in Georgia, the Boston Globe said today in a copyright story.

"The disclosure becomes pertinent because Morrissey, by his own testimony before the Senate Judiciary Committee this week, has made his whereabouts in 1933-34 a central issue in his fight for confirmation," the newspaper said.

The committee approved the nomination, 6-3, after a hearing in Washington Tuesday, and then recalled Morrissey for further questioning before the vote late Wednesday.

After listening to testimony, Senate Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said it bothered him that Morrissey had listed himself as a resident of Georgia in applying for admission to the bar there in 1933.

Morrissey is an old friend of the Kennedy family.

His nomination for the judgeship was submitted to Johnson by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.

At the hearing Tuesday, Albert E. Jenner Jr., of Chicago, chairman of the American Bar Association's Federal Judiciary Committee, urged rejection of the nomination.

He said so far as his committee could learn, Morrissey obtained admission to the bar in Georgia from a law school that had no faculty and that he never attended.

Jenner said his information was that Morrissey spent only two days in Georgia.

Morrissey testified that he attended law school in Athens, Ga., for three months and after his admission to the Georgia bar, stayed on in the state for about six months.

"The time, according to the testimony he gave the Senate subcommittee, would have placed him in Georgia from June 1933, to March 1934," the Globe said.

"To be eligible to serve in the House Morrissey would have had to be an inhabitant of the House District, Ward 2, Boston, since January of 1934," to meet the state's constitutional requirements, the Globe said.

Gov. Romney Stresses Fight to Save States

NEW YORK (AP) — "The battle to strengthen states should be a central plank in our party's blueprint for victory," Michigan's Gov. Romney said last night.

Romney, speaking at a dinner here in honor of former President Eisenhower's 75th birthday said, repeating an earlier warning by Eisenhower, that:

"If present trends continue, the states finally will become nothing but powerless satellites of the national government."

The governor asked for more Republican victories to stop "the march of power to Washington" and said there must be four main points of state responsibility.

He listed these as:

- Responsible states must constantly modernize and update the machinery of state and local government.
- They must maintain revenues to pay for needed services and preserve fiscal integrity.
- They must "preserve the people's needs. They must not ignore problems or be afraid of reform."
- They must "stay close to the people and give them encouragement and support in solving their own problems."

Romney cited his own record, in a state otherwise controlled by Democrats in the legislature and other top elective offices, as "Michigan Republican progress" and an example of "responsible state action to meet the people's needs."

LBJ, Dem Power Politics Rapped at Ike Dinners

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans assembled in 28 cities to toast Dwight D. Eisenhower on his 75th birthday salted their salute to the former president with a bristling attack on the present one, Lyndon B. Johnson.

And Eisenhower, himself spoke scornfully Thursday night of legislation "bullied through just by political power."

The birthday anniversary of the last Republican president was a time to raise high the GOP banner, scorn the Democrats — and pour up to $100 a plate into depleted party coffers.

Eisenhower attended none of the dinners, celebrating instead with his four grandchildren in Pheonixville, Pa, But a 15-minute film carried this and other remarks to the diners across the country:

"The laws a nation lives by have to be hammered out by debate, by thoughtful discussion and by give and take. They cannot be bullied through just by political power.

★ ★ ★

"In legislation, it is not how many laws you pass, it is how many good laws you pass."

★ ★ ★

The power theme — that the Democrats, led by the White House, are too prone to its use — was sounded also by Barry Goldwater, party chairman Ray C. Bliss and New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

Two Pontiac Men Stand Mute in Troy Robbery

Two Pontiac men, charged with armed robbery, stood mute yesterday in Troy Municipal Court.

Both are being held in Oakland County jail in lieu of $50,000 bond.

Pontiac police said they are also questioning the two about an armed robbery Wednesday night at the Orchard Lake Tavern, 404 Orchard Lake.

Demonstrating Due in Face of Mass Arrests

Repercussions Come Quickly From Various Sections of Nation

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — Despite warnings of mass arrests, the "Vietnam Day Committee" went ahead with plans for a march today in protest to United States involvement in Viet Nam.

Warnings came from state and local authorities.

★ ★ ★

The 7½-mile march from the University of California Berkeley campus to nearby Oakland Army Terminal is part of a series of such demonstrations planned in the United States and abroad.

Repercussions came quickly from various parts of this nation:

At New Brunswick, N.J., Mrs. Walter Lantrey, mother of a Coast Guard lieutenant in Viet Nam, slapped a Rutgers University student who told a teach-in that military personnel there were "drips." Campus police said the student then punched the mother. Disciplinary action was promised.

A float, designed to show disapproval of the Viet Nam conflict, was overturned at the University of Michigan. The float was for the Michigan homecoming parade and was built by the "Student-Faculty Committee to End the War in Viet Nam."

GENERAL SPEAKS

In Milwaukee, Wis., Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor was picketed when he made a speech. Taylor, former U.S. ambassador to Viet Nam, took note of the pickets and said:

City Merchants Urged to Arm

Say Guns Needed to Battle Robbers

Pontiac merchants have been urged to arm themselves to protect their lives and businesses against gun-wielding bandits and robbers.

Rep. Arthur J. Law, D-Pontiac, owner of a local grocery store, advised 30 local business proprietors at a meeting at City Hall Wednesday "to do something to help themselves."

He urged them to take training in the safe and proper use of firearms. He also urged merchants to aid the city in securing and maintaining an adequate police force.

Police Chief William K. Hanger has offered to have his department furnish the necessary training for those interested businessmen. He also offered the police target range for practice.

★ ★ ★

Hanger, who attended the City Hall meeting along with City Manager Joseph A. Warren, said that even though the number of armed robberies in Pontiac is down slightly from a comparable period last year, the number of holdups is still "too high."

Dedication and Birthday Will Coincide

Mrs. Alfred G. Wilson will celebrate her 82nd birthday Tuesday by officiating at the cornerstone laying of Matilda R. Wilson Hall, the new Oakland University classroom-office building named in her honor.

Representatives of the state government, the Michigan State University Board of Trustees and Oakland County legislators will join OU students and staff in the official noon ceremony.

Commemorating the Wilsons' 1957 contribution of their estate and $2 million to construct the university's first two buildings, Matilda R. Wilson Hall will house a new university art gallery.

It will provide classrooms and offices for some of the departments in the College of Arts and Sciences, the School of Education, admissions, placement, dean of students and language labs.

★ ★ ★

It also includes a lecture hall seating more than 600.

★ ★ ★

Osteopath College Hits Snag

By L. GARY THORNE

Forward progress of Pontiac's fledging osteopathic college has collided solidly with the bigger issue of amalgamation.

Now the quest by the college's backers for a governing authority and state financial aid have been sidetracked until the winter session of the state legislature.

Meantime, the possible merger of the MD and DO professions is to be studied by an interim House subcommittee.

Following the interim study, recommendations are to be forthcoming so that in January the House can act on a bill to create a 10-member osteopathic college authority to govern the institution.

★ ★ ★

The bill was shelved earlier this week when the House State Affairs Committee voted 8-2 to keep it bottled up in committee.

PAVE THE WAY

Although the current measure does not call for any state money this year, it would pave the way for the state to furnish operating and maintenance funds.

News Analysis

State support for the osteopathic college is a big step. Amalgamation is an even bigger step.

Only one state — California — has merged MDs and DOs. Michigan has some hospitals with joint medical staffs. Amalgamation, however, would go even further.

Merger talk was brought up in the debate before the State Affairs Committee by a spokesman for the Michigan State Medical Society, a group particularly active in the current legislative considerations.

SINGLE STANDARD

According to the MSMS spokesman, amalgamation would mean a single standard for both professions; a single state board, a single degree.

The merger would be in terms of licensure and standards, but not in a unifying of the medical schools of the two healing professions.

The state medical society has gone on record in favor of the merger. The osteopaths, meanwhile, are opposed.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Benjamin F. Dickinson, Pontiac surgeon and president of the Michigan Association of Osteopathic Physicians and Surgeons, said that he did not think amalgamation was the issue.

UPHILL FIGHT

Osteopaths anticipated an uphill fight to obtain state funds. Dr. Dickinson feels the issue should be the question of more doctors for Michigan.

The osteopathic president pointed out that more medical schools are needed even with expansion at Wayne State University and further development of the medical school slated to get under way at Michigan State University.

On the national level, osteopaths are likewise opposed to amalgamation. Dr. H. C. Moore, the state association's legisla-

In Washington, the Senate Internal Security subcommittee, in a study, declared "there has been a tragic blurring of the distinction between the position of those who oppose our involvement in Viet Nam on pacifist or idealist grounds, and those who oppose our involvement in the war because they are Communists or pro-Communists."

ACCUSATION

The subcommittee accused the national teach-in movement of being Communist-infiltrated and exploited.

The national demonstration is sponsored by the "National Committee to End the War in Viet Nam."

The program in Berkeley begins in front of the University of California's Sproul Hall with a teach-in.

Police in Berkeley and Oakland were ordered out in force to deal with the demonstrators. National Guard units were ordered to their armories where they would be ready if needed.

U.S. Plans Note to Fidel Aimed at Orderly Exodus

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department plans to send Fidel Castro a note today aimed at setting up orderly evacuation of an estimated 30,000 to 50,000 Cubans to the United States.

More than 200 refugees already have sailed to Florida in small boats since the Cuban prime minister opened Camaroca Sunday as an embarkation port.

See Story, Page A-8

* * *

President Johnson has hung out a welcome sign for Cubans who want to come here. But he wants an orderly process that will allow for some controls, not helter-skelter voyages across the Florida Straits.

The Castro government already has responded to a U.S. note last week which proposed ways of carrying out the transfer. Havana agreed first priority should go to close relatives of Cubans already here, but made counterproposals on other items.

* * *

Still to be settled are such matters as giving second highest priority to political prisoners, as Washington proposes, listing the evacuees by name, departure points and means of travel.

1st Area Pediatrician Ends Long Career

By JODY HEADLEE
Home Editor, The Pontiac Press

When Dr. Campbell Harvey walks out of his Riker Building office for the last time today, he'll close the door on a lifetime of devotion and dedication to his youthful patients, their parents and his community.

* * *

A Pontiac pediatrician, the retiring Dr. Harvey began his practice 43 years ago, the first physician in Oakland County to specialize in children's diseases.

How many babies has the 76-year-old doctor guided from colic to college? He won't even hazard a guess.

"I just couldn't," he said, "but I do know I'm now taking care of the grandbabies of some of my first babies."

* * *

A graduate of the University of Michigan, Dr. Harvey has served as commissioner and health commissioner of Orchard Lake where he makes his home.

SCHOOL PHYSICIAN

He was the school physician at Cranbrook and Kingswood schools for more than 15 years.

Former president of the Oakland County branch, Michigan Children's Aid Society, Dr. Harvey has volunteered his services to that organization since 1925.

He has also been active on the Pontiac Day Nursery board and as director on both the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals and the Pontiac YMCA.

The Harveys have one daughter, Mrs. Hugh Leaming of Bryan, Ohio and two grandchildren.

6-MONTH HOLIDAY

In November Dr. and Mrs. Harvey will drive to San Miguel, Mexico for a six-month holiday.

"It's beautiful down there," said the doctor. "The people are friendly. The climate is warm. And the fruits are perfectly wonderful.

"We'll have pomegranate, lime and orange trees growing right on our own patio. And a man to take care of them too.

"Oh I know I'm going to miss my practice," confided the soft-spoken man, "the friendships, the work, everything.

"But mostly," he hesitated as if trying to recall almost a half century of memories in an instant, "I'll miss the children.

"Their running up and wrapping warm little arms around my neck, there's nothing quite like it you know.

"Yes, mostly I'll miss the children."

New President Talks to IAPA

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI) — Jack Howard, president of Scripps - Howard Newspapers, accepted the presidency of the Inter-American Press Association (IAPA) last night with a pledge to preserve the unity in its ranks and a warning to its members not to take it for granted.

"We are headed for the future in a craft well equipped to handle our problems," Howard said in acceptance remarks to a closing session of the IAPA's 21st general assembly, attended by 500 editors and publishers from throughout the Americas.

Pontiac Press Publisher Harold A. Fitzgerald and Business Manager Howard H. Fitzgerald II are attending the session.

Delegates to the assembly approved at the closing session measures condemning restrictions on the free press both in North America and Latin America.

"There does not exist any vestige of individual freedom of the press under the present regime in Cuba," the IAPA said. It pledged to take whatever measures might aid in obtaining the release of more than 20 newsmen jailed in Cuba.

DISCRIMINATORY TAXES

The IAPA also pledged efforts to end what it termed "discriminatory" taxes "and other government-imposed burdens" on newspapers. In Canada, it said recent legislation has in effect placed a tax on newspaper advertising.

STUDY RESOLUTION

The House study resolution specifies that the recommendations should determine "what steps the Legislature might take to insure the people of Michigan the highest quality medical services at the least cost . . ."

Despite the setback in failing to win state support this year, Dr. Dickinson said the bid would be revived in the January session. It will be the third attempt to secure such aid.

Meantime, the association president did not think the overall development of the college would be slowed.

* * *

Efforts to merge MDs and DOs will face tough sledding. State funds are vital to the college's eventual success, according to osteopaths.

NO AMALGAMATION

Previously, the osteopathic profession was asked repeatedly by legislators for assurances that there would be no amalgamation, if state funds are to be appropriated.

Veep's OU Speech Is Open to Public

Vice President Humphrey's address at Oakland University, scheduled for Oct. 22, will be open to the public, it was announced today by Chancellor Durward B. Varner.

* * *

A change in the vice president's schedule has moved the time of the address from 1 p.m. to 11 a.m.

It will be held in the Howard C. Baldwin Memorial Pavilion.

Bronson Picks Finn Top Aide

Post Vacant Since Death of Robert Long

Oakland County Prosecutor S. Jerome Bronson today named James F. Finn as his top aide.

* * *

Since joining the staff as an assistant prosecutor in June, Finn, 39, of Detroit has been the chief criminal trial lawyer for the prosecutor's office.

He takes over the chief assistant post left vacant Oct. 7 by the death of Robert D. Long, who had held the job since 1959.

James Roberts, an assistant prosecutor for 10 years, was named to succeed Finn as the chief trial lawyer.

Roberts, 44, of Royal Oak Township, was first appointed to the staff by then Prosecutor Frederick C. Ziem, now an Oakland County Circuit Judge.

Bronson had indicated this summer that Finn would move into the position when Long became assistant to the Circuit Court administrator.

* * *

Long became ill, however, and his transfer to the new position was never carried out.

FIRST ASSIGNMENT

Prior to coming to Oakland County, Finn was the chief of the criminal division in the U.S. Attorney's Office in Detroit.

One of his first major assignments with the county was the Madison Heights Steren Assembly Club trial, held in Manistee in late July and early August.

He headed a three-man team that won convictions against 20 gamblers arrested in the raid nearly two years earlier. An appeal is being prepared by the defense attorney.

* * *

A 1957 graduate of the University of Detroit Law School, Finn was engaged in private practice in 1960-61 with R. E. Manning, a former Redford Township supervisor.

The best method to muffle sound from above, such as an apartment or living quarters on a floor above, is by the use of carpeting.

Bloomfield Twp. Library to Mark 1st Anniversary

BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — its first full year of service will be marked by the Bloomfield Township Library next week.

In honor of its first birthday, the library will serve coffee from 2:30 to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

The public is invited to see how the library's collection has grown, its staff increased and services expanded.

The book collection, started with 15,000 volumes, now contains over 23,000.

* * *

OPEN MEETING

As another feature of the anniversary celebration, the Friends of the Bloomfield Township Public Library will hold an open meeting at 8 p.m. Thursday with Dr. Phillip P. Mason, Wayne State University historian and archivist.

He will speak on "Detroit, Fort Lernoult and the American Revolution" for the organization's first fall meeting.

Mason is the author of a monograph by that title, in which he describes little-known facts about the fort.

* * *

Remnants of the fort were discovered in 1962 during excavation for the construction of the new downtown Detroit Bank and Trust Co. building at Fort Street near Shelby.

Charter memberships in the friends organization are still available.

A first birthday gift from the group will be presented to the library Thursday.

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — The University Center for Adult Education and the City and Country School of Bloomfield Hills will cosponsor a fall lecture series on "Guidance of the Gifted Child."

The series will be held at 8 p.m. on successive Wednesdays beginning next week.

There is a fee for the program. Further information can be obtained at the school.

Chief Denies Firemen Late

The Novi fire chief today disputed a report by employes of the American Plastics Products Co., which was destroyed by fire yesterday, that it took 45 minutes for the first fire truck to arrive.

Chief Fred Lyons said that a truck from his department arrived at the burning building at 40261 13 Mile seven or eight minutes after the alarm was reported at 6:45 a.m.

Lyons said that damage to contents of the building still is undetermined.

The building itself, which was called a total loss, was valued at $140,000 by its owner, Torkum Prince.

Ku Klux Klan Secrets to Be Revealed at Congressional Hearing Starting Tuesday

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation will get an insider's tour of the secret labyrinths of the invisible empire when the congressional hearings into the Ku Klux Klan open Tuesday.

Conducting the tour, sources said, will be Don Appell, chief investigator for the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

Appell, who has been probing Klan activities for months, has the assignment of setting the stage for the hearings which will be rife with such mystic nomenclature as klavern, klud, wizard, dragon.

Rep. Edwin E. Willis, D-La., chairman of the House Committee on Un-American Activities, explained: "Because the inquiry would concern the structure, peculiar leadership titles and activities of organizations which are admittedly secret, the hearings will begin with background information designed to assist in better understanding the matters to be developed."

THE FULL LIGHT

Once this is out of the way, the committee is expected to turn the full light of its public hearings on the biggest of all the Klans—Imperial Wizard Robert Shelton's United Klans. Later it will take up individually the smaller, sometimes feuding units of the invisible empire.

Willis, who opened the Klan investigation in March, announced Thursday the public hearings will begin Tuesday in the big caucus room of the old Cannon House Office Building.

★ ★ ★

Willis said that, because of the scope of the subject matter, the inquiry "will last a considerable length of time."

The committee's investigators are said to have turned up more than 200 witnesses, including Klansmen and former Klansmen.

13 WEEKS

The committee's staff believes it has enough witnesses and material for up to 13 weeks of hearings.

"We have done the hard, detailed work essential to an inquiry such as this," said Willis, "and I am confident that in these hearings we will be able to place on the record the kind of information required to understand the true nature of the Klan movement in the United States and which will enable Congress to pass necessary remedial legislation."

Businessmen Hear Fowler

By RICHARD L. GRAVES

HOT SPRINGS, Va. (AP) — Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler told the nation's business managers today the United States is making further headway this second half of 1965 in cutting down its balance of payments deficit.

"We expect the improvement to continue in 1966," Fowler said in a speech prepared for the semiannual meeting of the Business Council.

And, he continued, "we intend and expect that it will continue for as long as necessary to bring our payments into an equalibrium."

Fowler tempered his optimistic forecast by saying the low rate of deficits — $1.3 billion — achieved in the first half of 1965 may not be achieved in the second. He cited as one reason increased tourist spending abroad. But, he said, exports in July and August were substantially better than earlier in the year and imports, which had been rising faster than exports, may be flattening out.

'SOLID IMPROVEMENT'

Anything near a $1.3-billion deficit for the year, he said in summary, would be a very solid improvement over the 1964 deficit of $3.1 billion.

In speaking of the deficit problem — the fact that more dollars are leaving the country than are coming in — Fowler made an appeal to the top industrialists gathered here.

★ ★ ★

"I do not know," he said, "if the business community is doing as much as it can, as fast as it can, to increase its exports, and to hold its foreign investment to levels that will assure an equilibrium in our balance of payments."

Corn goes into paints and pipe bowls, soaps, salad oil, paper, matches, margarine, hair-waving preparations, vinegar, cheese, chewing gum, bay rum and face powder, to name just a few.

Elder Statesman 'Ike' Is Hale, Hearty at 75

IKE EISENHOWER doesn't look much older than he did the day he left the White House.

It's hard to believe that it was 10 years ago that he was jolted by a heart attack that had the Country nervously wondering if he could recover and finish his term as president.

★ ★ ★

Not only did he do that, he went on to win and serve a second term, weathering a major operation and a minor stroke along the way.

★ ★ ★

Anyone who lasts through eight years in the most man-killing job in the world, especially if he went into it at the age of 62 with one of the most brilliant military careers in American history already behind him, could be expected to have retired to a well-deserved life of absolute leisure.

But IKE at 75 is as busy as ever, — writing, traveling, making speeches, advising party heads and government officials, painting, puttering, practicing as a gentleman farmer, enjoying his grandchildren.

His third book of personal history has been published. He has set himself the task of one more volume. After that he'll have to find something else to do.

★ ★ ★

The Nation that loves him wishes Dwight Eisenhower most hearty congratulations on having surpassed the traditional three-score and ten by a full five and looks forward to repeating them every year at this time for many more years to come.

Dodgers Are Crowned New Diamond Champs

Today we salute the Los Angeles Dodgers as Champions of Baseball for 1965.

The team well merits the title, as it fought back to win the seventh and deciding game of the World Series after spotting the Minnesota Twins a two-game lead.

To acclaim individual performers would be an injustice to many others who distinguished themselves. But certainly neither Dodger nor Twin would take exception to singling out the Frank Merriwell pitching of Dodger Sandy Koufax and a had-to-see-to-believe fielding play by teammate Jim Gilliam in the final game as decisive factors in the triumph.

The 1965 Series marks the 62nd playing of the annual classic since it was inaugurated in 1903 (it was not played in 1904) and the 21st time it has gone the limit of games. The American League entry has won the title 37 times, the National 25.

As we applaud Manager WALTER ALSTON and his players on their victory, let us not overlook rival pilot SAM MELE and his redoubtable clan.

States Dragging Feet on 'Succession' Need

Although President JOHNSON's incapacity following his gallbladder operation is by no means total, with no serious disruption in the continuity of the Chief Executive's office, it does re-emphasize the need for speedy ratification by the states of the constitutional amendment that provides orderly replacement of a President in an emergency.

To date, only eight states (Michigan included) of the 38 needed have ratified the 25th Amendment that passed Congress three months ago.

Johnson, as did his two predecessors in office, has a working agreement with his Vice President to cover just such cessation of Presidential activity now being experienced. But such voluntary and personal arrangements are a poor device for insuring the most powerful nation in the world against a hiatus in the most powerful office in the world.

Twice in its history, the Country has been leaderless for long periods because its President was disabled. On five other occasions, brief periods of presidential disability have seen the Administration spin its wheels while executive business piled up on the White House desk.

So, you laggard 30 states, let's get with it and give the necessary legislative approval in implementation of the vital measure that will relieve the Nation's citizenry from anxiety over who'll run the shop should the Head Man be immobilized.

States Unhurried on Amendment

By RAYMOND J. CROWLEY

WASHINGTON (AP) — The states are in no hurry to write into the U.S. Constitution answers to certain questions that have long disturbed political scientists.

Questions like:

If a president is incapacitated, how can a smooth transfer of power be assured? How can the nation be as certain as possible that there will not be a dangerous struggle for the reins of government?

The answers, so far as Congress was able to work them out, are contained in the proposed 25th Amendment, now before the states.

Passed by Congress in July, the proposal has now been approved by eight of the required 38 states. An Associated Press survey indicates it will be 1967 before the amendment is ratified, assuming it is ratified.

State legislatures that have approved are Arizona, Oklahoma, Nebraska, Massachusetts, Wisconsin, Pennsylvania, Kentucky and Michigan.

23 STATES TO MEET

At least 23 other state legislatures are to meet in regular or special sessions in 1966. But some of these will be limited by law to considering state budgets. A few legislatures are meeting this fall on reapportionment, and the amendment could come up.

But sponsors of the amendment are making no change in their prediction that it will be written into the Constitution in 1967.

Briefly, it provides:

If a president formally declares himself disabled, the vice president takes over. If a disabled president does not relinquish power, a majority of the Cabinet, or some other body Congress may designate, plus the vice president, may transfer the power to the vice president.

The president resumes office on stating to Congress that no disability exists, unless the vice president and a majority of the Cabinet inform Congress to the contrary. Congress then could by a two-thirds vote in each house, continue the vice president in power.

President Johnson's gallbladder operation did not add urgency to the proposed amendment, in the view of most legislative leaders.

Under an agreement between Johnson and Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, the latter was sort of acting president during the few hours when Johnson was either under anesthetic, or snapping back from its effects.

That is, Humphrey was empowered to make decisions, if need be. But the need did not arise.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., who piloted the proposed amendment through the Senate, took the view that in this particular case, the Johnson-Humphrey agreement was sufficient.

Viet Gains May Prompt Review

By STEWART HENSLEY
United Press International

President Johnson, within the next few months, probably will have to make some critical new decisions regarding the Viet Nam war.

This time, unlike previous occasions, the necessity to review the situation will arise from American successes rather than Communist gains.

The United States now has more than 140,000 military personnel in South Viet Nam. The number is expected to rise to almost 190,000 by Christmas. American air attacks on Red North Viet Nam continue.

The steadily increasing application of U. S. military power has reversed the tide of nine months ago and made it clear American forces are not going to be driven off the Southeast Asian mainland.

The question the President appears to face around the first of the year is whether to continue the escalation or level off American military operations while revitalized South Vietnamese forces try to clean up the Communist guerrillas, which U.S. fighters have dispersed but not subdued.

Some influential voices in Congress and elsewhere probably gress and elsehwere probably will argue that the United States should take advantage of the military momentum it has achieved to deliver even more decisive blows against Hanoi in an effort to win total victory in Viet Nam.

Others at the opposite end of the spectrum undoubtedly will contend that Washington, having reversed the earlier course of events and put the Reds on the defensive, should pause and intensify its efforts for peace talks.

URGE PEACE MOVES

Neutralists abroad, and even some of the allies, are again urging suspension of U.S. air attacks on North Viet Nam on the grounds this might induce the Communists to talk peace.

The President's top advisors are inclined to neither extreme. They see no point in suspending air attacks and intensifying peace offers in the absence of any indication that the Communists are interested.

At the same time they recognize the perils of a massive escalation of the war effort which might bring Red China into the conflict and eventually involve a million or more U. S. troops in an inconclusive land war.

Administration officials acknowledged the Viet Nam war is but part of a broad struggle between Red China and the United States over whether independent or neutral nations in that area are to be permitted to exist untroubled by their neighbors.

However, they believe this can best be established by achieving what still remains the primary American goal — to help South Viet Nam subdue the Communist forces still controlling more than half the country, and to guarantee South Viet Nam's territorial integrity and sovereignty against the Reds to the north.

This is the difficult middle course. Officials realize that eventually it will cost Johnson the support of "hard line" elements who are hoping he will carry the war north for a showdown with China.

It also will intensify criticism for the "soft line" adherents who would like to grasp at any possibility for peace talks even on terms detrimental to the West.

Indications are that Johnson will go very slow in any escalation of military operations beyond the first of the year.

Bob Considine Says:

Next Gemini-Titan Shot to Follow Unique Script

NEW YORK — Another chapter in the breath-taking saga of the Gemini - Titan project is about to unfold.

The hardware will look familiar to the millions who'll watch, but the script will be unique.

CONSIDINE

Gemini VI, scheduled for Oct. 25, proposes to fling astronauts Wally Schirra and Tom Stafford into orbit from Cape Kennedy shortly after a big Agena rocket, placed in orbit about an hour and a half before, completes its first revolution and starts out over the Atlantic on lap No. 2.

Schirra and Stafford have the stern task of finding out— at the usual risk of their lives — if it is possible to (a) find the orbiting Agena in space and, (b) berth with it. This has never been done.

The space "chase" will end 161 miles out in space off the coast of Peru on the fourth lap of the 29 orbit mission, if everything works perfectly.

★ ★ ★

Each spacecraft will be maintaining orbiting speed of 17,500 miles per hour at the time and going in the same direction at the same altitude.

GENTLE RENDEZVOUS

The rendezvous will be a gentle one. Gemini VI is fitted to hook onto the large cylindrical Agena, ride tandem for a time, break away again, pull off for a distance while the two traverse the night side of the earth, and lock horns again in the darkness.

As was the case with Gemini I, this next shot will have military overtones.

Before clamping onto Agena, the Gemini capsule will nuzzle up to it and — by means of little maneuvering power squirts — push it a bit.

★ ★ ★

Doesn't sound like much of a military experiment. But it will constitute what is called a "mass determination."

WILL TELL

The nudging will tell instruments aboard the Gemini just how much the Agena weighs and suggest what its contents are.

This is the first step toward a day when we will have space patrols aloft, intercepting and making "mass determinations" of all suspicious-looking unmanned objects.

The TV networks have been pushing hard to arrange coverage of splash-downs of astronauts.

★ ★ ★

They'd "pool" a helicopter equipped with long-range TV cameras, go with the rescue fleet to the projected landing area, send their pictures to a C-121 circling well overhead, which in turn would relay the images to the carrier, which would shoot the pictures out into space to Early Bird — 22,300 miles up over the Atlantic — and E. B. would ricochet them back down to North America and Europe.

Who could have believed all this, even five years ago?

'Appreciated Press Story of Recent Trip Abroad'

I should like to express my appreciation to The Pontiac Press for the excellent article regarding my year abroad on a sabbatical leave. It was not generally known that the Pontiac school system offers its qualified teachers this opportunity for additional study. This progressive and forward-thinking program encourages teachers to further their education and thus become much better teachers. It will also aid in keeping the best possible personnel for Pontiac schools.

★ ★ ★

Great value can be derived by participation in a person-to-person type of program on an adult basis. While we have many young students involved in foreign study and "experiment in international living" programs, it is quite rare to find an adult studying and living with a family on such a program.

★ ★ ★

I wish to correct the poor impressions given us by tourists and politicians of the French people. We found them to be most generous and hospitable. People are pretty much the same the world over, regardless of language and customs. I highly recommend this experience for real understanding of others.

'Drivers Make Improper Left-Hand Turns'

I read two letters in the Voice of the People about stupid drivers. The prize of all nitwits' is the one who doesn't understand left-hand turns. Mr. Critchfield explained in The Press with a diagram, but some of the jerks haven't comprehended yet.

★ ★ ★

The first left-hand turner goes clear out to the middle of the street and angles slightly leftward. The next turner edges right up behind and often that lets a third get in the act. Then when the light changes, three turn instead of one. The dummies that foul this action deserve three tickets instead of the two that one writer demands.

PETE AND ED

Supports Osteopathic General Practitioners

It would seem that the days of the old family doctor are numbered and that this species of medico is nigh unto extinction. Recent figures indicate that only 25 per cent of medical school graduates are entering general practice.

The fact that 75 per cent of the graduates of osteopathic schools of medicine are going into general practice has played no small part in the prospect of State and Federal funds for the establishment of a Michigan Osteopathic College of Medicine.

★ ★ ★

The general practitioner is the basic unit of osteopathic philosophy. He recognizes and treats the whole patient with a disease, and not the disease alone. He has that additional therapeutic weapon, osteopathic manipulation, that has both its physical and psychological benefits. He ingratiates himself not only with the individual but with the family. He is the liaison between the patient and the specialist.

★ ★ ★

Red Carpet Visitor

The Hillsdale Daily News

One of the current visitors to the United States now being shown full military honors only five years ago helped to overthrow an American-backed regime and stage a lot of problems for the U.S. His entire military force is estimated at no more than 8,000 men.

He is Gen. Kong Le, regarded as the most likely man to keep his native Laos opposed to the Communist infiltration and aggression of the Pathet Lao. And to this end, the United States has invited him to visit this country for a month, inspect military installations, farms, aircraft, and individual plants.

One of the things that bothers Americans involved with affairs in Laos is that officers of the Laotian Army are being trained in Indonesia. Their stay in that country is long because they usually have to learn the language. And Americans officials fear they may also learn the rote of anti-Americanism as expressed by Sukarno and his henchmen.

Kong Le denounced the Pathet Lao two years ago as being dominated by "foreign masters." Presumably he meant the Red Chinese or North Vietnamese. We hope that while Kong Le is in this country occasional references are made to the current struggle Indonesia's Sukarno is having with the Communists in his own land.

Not Exempt

The State (Lansing) Journal

If the ruling by the U.S. Tax Court stands, the Communist party in this country must pay federal income taxes. It never has filed a federal income-tax return or an application for exemption

The Tax Court upheld an Internal Revenue Service finding that the Communist party owes $326,313 in income tax and penalties for 1951.

The Red organization had claimed tax-exempt status under a provision of the tax code exempting some charitable, religious, educational and fraternal groups.

The code makes no mention of any exemption for subversive groups. If the IRS can make the ruling stick and collect the taxes claimed to be due, they would offset in some degree the money it costs the government to keep tabs on the activities of the domestic Commies.

Forgotten Fringes

The Ann Arbor News

The National Education Association is getting a lot of mileage out of the account of the dedicated and determined janitor in the Akron, Ohio public schools who wanted to become a teacher.

Clarence Bradshaw for nine years pushed mops and brooms by day while attending college classes in the evening. He finally achieved his goals: a college degree, teaching certificate and a job as an elementary schoolteacher.

He also qualified for a cut in salary. As a teacher he earns $350 a year less than he did as a janitor.

The item has been picked up as an editorial in scores of newspapers, which NEA naturally hoped would happen. Not once was there any comment on the probability that as a teacher Bradshaw would work a 42-week year and as a janitor a 50-week year.

Yes, we know about the summers teachers spend working on advanced degrees, but the "fringe benefits" should never be forgotten in job comparisons, and Mr. Bradshaw's case still makes a good story — completely told.

'Regulations Need Clarification'

House Holds Up Rent Subsidy Funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House voted to hold up money for starting a rent subsidy program for low-income families. But administration sources expressed confidence today the money will be restored later.

Action by the House came Thursday in passage of a $4.2-billion catch-all appropriation bill that had included $180,000 to start the rent subsidy program and authorize contracts for another $6 million.

Rep. James Harvey, R-Mich., offered the amendment that chopped the money from the bill. He won heavy support from Republicans and some Democrats who had opposed the program earlier this year in enactment of a housing bill.

The roll call vote that knocked the housing subsidy out of the appropriations bill was 185 to 162. The amendment did not affect an appropriation of $170,000 for administrative expenses of the program.

ABILITY TO PAY

Under the subsidy plan the government would make payments to owners and developers of nonprofit housing that would be made available to low-income families. Payments could run as long as 40 years and would be based on the ability of individual tenants to pay the rents from their own income. None of the payments would go to private landlords.

Harvey, in successfully arguing for denial of the money, said tentative regulations could permit persons with large investment incomes to occupy the subsidized housing. He called for a delay until the regulations are clarified.

He denied arguments of opponents that the amendment would kill the program.

Rep. James D. Martin, R-Ala., joining the debate, asserted the program was misrepresented when it was approved June 30 by a vote of 208 to 202 "and still is being misrepresented."

Administration backers of the rent subsidy program said they were confident the funds would be restored by the Senate, and the House eventually would approve at least starting money.

APPROPRIATION BILL

The appropriation bill, carrying money for a score of federal agencies, was approved 242 to 100 with no other changes after deletion of the housing subsidy money.

Last minute money requests not considered by the House Appropriations Committee Chairman George H. Mahon, D-Tex., said, may mean addition of $400 million to the catch-all bill by the Senate.

The senior Republican member of the appropriation committee, Rep. Frank T. Bow, R-Ohio, called the bill "only a small beginning" on costs of "Great Society" legislation, adding: "We are appropriating today only about 10 per cent of the total initial authorization."

Weapon Tied to Slaying of State Man

BENTON HARBOR (AP) — Berrien County sheriff's men believe they have found the weapon used in the slaying of Charles Bujack, 34, of Benton Harbor.

A 38-caliber revolver found Thursday about 50 yards from where Bujack's body was found Wednesday was turned over to State Police for tests.

★ ★ ★

Police are seeking Willard Schubert, 49, for questioning in the case. The victim was the husband of Schubert's ex-wife.

Two men found the body. They quoted a man who stopped them as saying he had just killed a man and "I've got two more to get rid of."

Benton Harbor police said they thought the other two might be Bujack's wife, Orine, 43, and her daughter, Wilma Richardson, 21, now visiting relatives in Kentucky.

Mrs. Bujack said Schubert had threatened in letters and telephone calls to kill her and Miss Richardson.

Dublin Hearing Is Postponed

A public hearing on the Dublin School District issue was postponed yesterday until next Thursday at 4:30 p.m. by the Oakland Schools Board of Education.

Located in White Lake Township, the village offers classes for pupils in grades 1 through 8. Its high school students attend classes in Walled Lake.

In accordance with state law, however, all school districts must provide facilities for students in kindergarten through 12th grade by the end of this year or be incorporated with an adjacent district that does.

Adjacent districts in Dublin's case are Waterford Township and White Lake.

In other business, the board hired Michael J. Robbins, 36, of Detroit, to the newly created position of coordinator of an adjusted study program for emotionally disturbed children.

COMPLETING DEGREE

Robbins will be employed on a three-day-a-week basis while he is completing work on his doctorate's degree from Wayne State University.

College Aid Bill on Way to Governor

LANSING (AP) — A $1.2 million bill to help eight state colleges and universities cope with an unexpectedly large turnout of freshmen was on its way today to Gov. George Romney — who vetoed it earlier.

This includes an estimated $100,000 to $200,000 for Oakland University.

The measure would help all but Michigan, Michigan State and Wayne State universities finance some 2,300 unanticipated students.

The Senate measure passed the House 79-14 and was given immediate effect Thursday.

A similar provision was stricken from an appropriation bill by Romney during the spring session.

Romney said at the time the provision would only encourage schools to build enrollment, adding that those whose student population estimates were short of reality could be helped through the normal supplemental appropriation procedure next winter or spring.

See Big Growth for Waterford

Waterford Township will experience a tremendous growth rate in the next 15 years if figures presented at a recent Greater Waterford Community Council (GWCC) meeting prove to be fairly accurate.

According to a GWCC spokesman, George Lloyd of the Detroit Edison Co., said the township's population will climb to 69,000 in 1970 and 100,000 by 1980.

The estimated 1964 population of the township was 51,400.

Lloyd also quoted figures for Oakland County, telling the group that its population would rise from a present 757,600 to 900,000 in 1970 and 1,200,000 in 1980.

* * *

All projected figures are a result of a study made by the Detroit Edison Co.

Other speakers also were heard in keeping with the program's theme, "Waterford Township, Past, Present and Future."

Welfare Units in County to Merge, Official Predicts

George H. Williams, director of the Oakland County Department of Social Welfare, today predicted that the county's state and local welfare agencies would merge.

Williams statement followed passage by the State Senate late yesterday of a mandatory merger bill for all county and state welfare departments except those in Oakland and Wayne.

The door was left open, however, for the state's only two counties with over 600,000 population to join the merger by a Dec. 31 deadline.

Oakland County would receive an estimated additional $430,000 in state funds if it merges with the state welfare agency.

If it remained independent, it still would receive an added $230,000, or $200,000 less than under a merger.

MEETING LIKELY

Williams sid that a joint meeting of the ways and means, legislative and welfare committees of the County Board of Supervisors probably would be held next week to discuss merger.

County officials had opposed the merger bill as written mainly because of loss of control over welfare matters by the county.

Williams was critical that no public hearings were held in Lansing on what he termed a hastily written bill which provided no added benefits for welfare clients.

* * *

Though opposed to the bill passed by the Legislature, Williams had no objection to a single agency concept as such.

VERY SUCCESSFUL

He said that a merger program in Ohio where the state program is locally administered has been very successful.

Williams pointed out that County Welfare Department employes took no formal stand against the merger bill even though they would lose some benefits if Oakland County had been included.

The bill will cost the state an additional $6.1 million with $2.2 million of this to be spent in Detroit.

* * *

This increase is due to a boost in the state's matching funds for direct relief cost from 30 to 40 per cent.

Jakartans Fire China School

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — About 800 youths screaming "down with communism" burned the Chinese University yesterday and clashed with about 60 Communist Chinese students outside a dormitory.

Witnesses said knives and firearms were used in the fight and there were several injured on both sides before soldiers intervened.

The Chinese University is sponsored by an association of local pro-Peking Chinese. Its two-story building was burned to the ground.

It was the first time that demonstrators had attacked Chinese since the army-inspired, anti-Communist campaign started following the Sept. 30 coup attempt.

* * *

Earlier yesterday about 10,000 youths held an anti-Communist rally and then staged a noisy demonstration in Jakarta streets. They shouted "dissolve the Pki and hang Aidit." The Pki is the Indonesian Communist party and D. N. Aidit is its chief.

NOT SEEN

Aidit has not been seen since the abortive coup but has been reported in central Java.

County Judge Dismisses $200 Fine on Lawyer

Circuit Judge James S. Thorburn yesterday dismissed a $200 assessment against a Detroit attorney who failed to appear before him in court to try a case early this year.

Thorburn nullified his order following a hearing at which Wayne County Circuit Judge Charles Kaufman testified in behalf of the lawyer, Robert E. Sullivan.

* * *

Kaufman said he, too, had ordered Sullivan to be in his Detroit courtroom the same day Thorburn had issued his mandate.

Sullivan appealed to the Michigan Supreme Court following the Feb. 2 conflict, but the high court upheld Thorburn's decision by rejecting the complaint.

The U.S. lumber industry produces more than 32 billion board feet a year. Annual sales, including paper and allied products, reach more than $30 billion.

Elm Disease Still a Threat

Sanitation is a "must" in the control of the Dutch elm disease, according to a Michigan Department of Agriculture official.

"This is the one tool that has everyone's approval, and we must use it to the fullest extent if a successful control program is to be achieved," said Dean F. Lovitt, assistant chief of MDA's Plant Industry Division.

But in emphasizing the need for sanitation, he also charged that this practice is not being conducted as diligently in many areas as it once was.

Lovitt said one of the reasons for the lack of attention to sanitation is because the size of the job has grown considerably; more diseased and dead trees take longer to remove.

"The capacity of the Plant Industry Division to enforce removals on private property was badly hurt by austerity," he reminded, "and we have not yet recovered.

"Along with the decline in enforcement activity, there has been a decline in leadership, which we in Plant Industry like to think has played no small part in whatever success the program has achieved."

A decline in enthusiasm for the program, brought on partly by the failure to come up with new control techniques; such problems as the diseased and dead tree situation outside control areas, and the lack of financing to keep pace with the problem in some communities are other contributing factors, Lovitt said.

★ ★ ★

If controls are to be effective against the disease, he concluded, sanitation must be combined with spraying and other measures in all affected communities and as part of a continual program.

Turf Plugger Saves Backs

A boon to gardeners with weak or lazy backs is a turf plugger which may be used to prepare ground for shallow planted bulbs, young tomato plants and transplanting garden flowers.

★ ★ ★

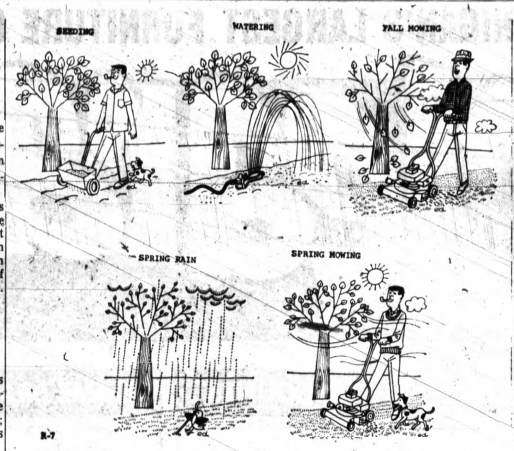

The gadget reduces bending and kneeling. It is 32 inches long and has an 8-inch footrest that permits your foot to help with the digging. The tool cuts a hole 3⅜-inches deep and 2¼-inches wide.

It is convenient for cutting Zoysia and other thick grasses.

Harmful Salts Show as White Frost

The white frost you see on the sides of your red clay flower pots is a sign that harmful salts that might endanger plant health have been leached out through the porous walls of the clay pots.

The frost can be scrubbed off in a few seconds to restore the natural terra cotta color of the container.

PLANT NOW FOR BEAUTY—Spring-flowering Dutch bulbs are easy to plant and require little care. The larger bulbs are planted six inches deep and six inches apart. The smaller bulbs are planted three inches deep and three inches apart. All bulbs require well-drained, friable soil for good growth. If the soil is heavy, sand or vermiculite should be mixed in. After planting, the bulbs should be watered thoroughly—nature will do the rest.

Bulb Planting Time Can Be Fun for the Whole Family

Fall flower-bulb planting is so simple that even the youngest members of the family enjoy it. Youngsters and oldsters alike can get a tremendous thrill out of putting Dutch bulbs "to bed for the winter," to wait for the joy of next spring's flowers.

No special skills or equipment are needed, and once the bulbs are safely in the ground, no care is required.

Most tulips, as well as daffodils and hyacinths, are planted six inches deep and six inches apart.

A few species tulips which bloom in early spring, such as Kaufmanniana, Fosteriana, etc., seem to grow best when planted only four inches deep.

★ ★ ★

The bright little early-blooming bulbs like the saucy crocus, galanthus or eranthis should be planted three inches deep and three inches apart.

WARM SOIL

Soil is warmer as you dig down — so bulbs can still be planted after surface frost, though not after really cold, ground-hardening weather.

In the south bulbs should be stored in the refrigerator for approximately eight weeks at a temperature of 40 degrees F. and then planted in January in somewhat shallower beds of about four inches depth in the north or south.

Planted at the proper depth and at the proper time of the year, bulbs will develop healthy roots.

★ ★ ★

Nature and the Dutch have made growing flower - bulbs so easy and so inexpensive that the joyful flowers of spring can be enjoyed by all. Remember that:

- Bulbs can be planted in any part of your garden, but determine first whether they are to be used in mass plantings, groups or borders.
- Formal beds of spring-flowering bulbs provide masses of brilliant color. But don't plant awkward blocks or a single row of colors. The single line is unattractive.
- When in bloom, tulips look best in clumps of twelve, twenty-four or more.

Sufficient bulbs of one kind should be planted in a group so that a mass picture is obtained rather than a forlorn "dotted effect."

- Edging garden walks, surrounding a garden gate or planting in front of shrubbery make for eye-catching spots for tulips.
- "Naturalizing" bulb plantings in the grass, lawn, shrub, border or other locations to imitate nature is an excellent gardening method to display bulbs.
- Consider combining tulips with dogwood, cherry, forsythia, and fruit trees for scenic effect. Try ringing an evergreen with a deep circle of brilliant Darwins, for example, using all but the darkest shades for effectiveness.
- Fit tulips into the scheme of a rock garden.
- Interplant bulbs into beds of pachysandra, myrtle, ivy or other ground covers.

Half the fun in the fall is selecting new places to plant bulbs and the choosing of the varieties. The other half comes in the spring, when your flower-bulb garden comes to life.

Decorate Post Top With Trailing Vine

You may securely and easily decorate the tops of cedar or redwood fence posts with pots of flowering plants or trailing vines.

Treat the post tops with waterproof paint or tack on a double-fold of aluminum foil.

Drive a five-inch nail into the center of the post, place the pot drainage hole over the nailhead and flatten the nail inside the pot before filling the container with earth and plants.

Overwatering is a primary cause of house plant failure, so be sure to water them less frequently during fall and winter, say Michigan State University horticulturists.

Area in Florida Is Waterlogged

POMPANO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Jittery residents inched their doors open today to find flooded streets, seawalls washed away and cars stalled in three feet of water.

The area had its greatest rainfall in living memory.

It was still raining after more than 20 inches of rain fell on Pompano Beach in 13 hours Thursday.

Police told residents of the Pompano Beach-Fort Lauderdale area: "If you don't have to go out, stay home."

"This is the most terrifying thing I've ever seen," said Maxine Degraw, who saw her neighbor's boat dock and seawall washed away. Children rowed down streets in small boats; many homes were flooded.

The rain dumped more water on Pompano Beach than any hurricane has in 18 years. The city declared a state of emergency as police in nearby Fort Lauderdale took nearly 3,000 calls from motorists seeking help with stalled cars.

★ ★ ★

The rain flooded septic tanks, and health authorities warned parents not to let their children play in the floodwater.

A woman walking her dog was killed by a hit-and-run driver, who police said may not have seen her in the driving rain.

STREETS BARRICADED

Officers barricaded streets that they thought might cave in. Part of one street was washed into the Wahoo Canal. At one spot, seawalls collapsed from the weight of water behind them — not the waves breaking in front.

The Weather Bureau said the wooden stand for the rain gauge floated away when the forecaster tried to take a reading.

"I retrieved it a couple of blocks south," the forecaster said.

The rest of south Florida was also lashed by hours of heavy rain. Up to 10 inches was reported in Miami. The Weather Bureau didn't foresee an early letup.

The rain fell from a stalled front, which passed over southern Florida last Friday as a cold front. It got almost to Cuba before it returned as a moisture-laden warm front.

Scopes' teaching career was ended in the 1925 trial in which he was defended by Clarence Darrow and prosecuted by William Jennings Bryan.

He said yesterday, in Baton Rouge, La., he had "no bitterness at all" about the trial. Scopes, 65, now a retired geologist, tells of the trial in a book to be published Nov. 1 by the University Press at Louisiana State University.

Comedian Steve Allen has asked the California Supreme Court to order Secretary of State Frank S. Jordon to put his name on the ballot as a candidate for Congress.

Allen is seeking the Democratic nomination from the 26th Congressional District in Los Angeles. The election is Nov. 23.

His name was kept off the ballot because he did not register as a Democrat until Sept. 18. State laws requires that a candidate be a member of his party for 90 days before an election.

Allen offered to show as proof of his party letters of appreciation for campaign services from Gov. Edmund G. Brown and Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey.

NY Auction of Paintings Sets Records

NEW YORK (UPI) — The world auction record for modern paintings was broken last night in a $3,385,600 sale at which a secretive American collector paid an unparalleled $800,000 for one of Cezanne's impressionist landscapes.

The auction of 55 canvasses at the Parke-Bernet galleries not only topped the previous most expensive sale of works painted since 1870 — a $2.3 million sale in London in 1963 — but it also set new auction records for four French artists, Cezanne, Manet, Guillaumin and Duchamp.

A price of $616,000 for a Cezanne had stood as the auction record for a modern painting since a London sale in 1958.

American prosperity and the increasing scarcity of prime impressionist works made it inevitable that the masterful painting sold last night, "Houses at Estaque," would bring even more.

"Few Cezannes of this quality can be expected to come up on the market in the future," said are dealer E. J. Rousuck who placed the winning bid for a collector he described only as "living in the East not far from New York."

FARMHOUSES

Cezanne painted the sun-flecked farmhouses on a rocky hillside in 1882 — when he was lucky to get a few hundred dollars for a painting.

It was put up for sale by Mrs. Marius de Zayas of Greenwich, Conn., who also realized $275,000 for a richly colored Tahitian scene by Gauguin. The Gauguin was purchased by the Staempfli Gallery of New York.

Fashion Show to 'Put on Dog'

CHICAGO (AP) — What Yves Saint-Laurent is to the haut monde fashion, Connie Ceedar may well be to the dog world.

Mrs. Ceedar of suburban Villa Park is preparing for an exclusive showing of her originals at the anticruelty society kennel Nov. 15.

★ ★ ★

As a couturiere, she has not plumped for the cubist influence of Piet Mondrian, nor borrowed from Andre Courreges' little-girl look.

"I think a dog's garment should complement the wearer's best lines, of course, Mrs. Ceedar says. "It must be neat — not cumbersome."

EASY TO WEAR

For this reason, she favors the soft cinch belt and the wrap-around breast, eschewing sleeves and collars for keeping her creations in place.

"The loose collar, especially of an attractive fur or decorative combination such as rhinestones on a soft cloth," are all right, she said in an interview.

She makes no attempt to achieve an illusion of youth or slenderness. Dogs are all young, relatively, she says, and few are obese. There's a charm about a tubby old English bulldog which can't be enhanced by cut and line, she says.

Mrs. Ceedar, whose husband, Charles, is a management consultant in Chicago, has been working up dog fashion ideas for four years.

"It was winter, and I saw a woman warmly dressed in a large mink coat walking a dog wrapped in some ugly-looking burlap thing that was supposed to keep it warm," she said.

"It just made me so mad," she says, "I went home and cut up an old fur piece and made a fur coat for a dog."

Some Stock Traders Wary Of Good News

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK—A flood of good news is turning some stock traders wary. Records are being set so regularly in so many segments of production and consumption that it's hard to be bearish. But a few traders are beginning to wonder if some stocks haven't been bid to too-optimistic high levels.

DAWSON

The big volume of trading is good news to the brokerage houses selling on commission. Yet it adds a bit to the nervousness of the more conservative. They fear the heavy trading reveals an inrush of novices taking a plunge. And speculative fever among the general public has a history of causing trouble.

★ ★ ★

When the low-priced stocks, and particularly those of companies little-known previously to the general public, start getting a big play, the conservative investor turns watchful.

But the economic news itself could hardly be better. Corporate profit reports are pouring in now. Most show prosperous sales and earnings conditions in the third quarter and the first nine months of 1965.

NOT SURPRISING

This quarterly gain in profits can no longer be classed as a surprise. Nor can the steady revision upward of the national statistics on output and personal incomes. Each three months, it seems, the nation's business has been better than predicted at the start of the period.

Bulls tend to see this as a new way of life for the U.S. economy. Some call it the new economics — meaning that the government has found the fiscal policies that will keep prosperity always a little brighter, a bit more widespread. The wary wonder what would happen to public complacency if in some future period the statistics weren't revised upward from earlier estimates.

This week the government has once more revised upward its earlier estimates of the total government and private output of goods and services. This Gross National Product rose in the July-September period to an annual rate of $676.9 billion. This was a $11.9 billion increase over the second quarter of 1965 when the GNP had expanded by $9.5 billion. Government officials say the economy last summer just performed "a little better than most people had been expecting."

Many people must have felt this better than predicted showing was a pretty sure thing, however, since the annual rate of consumer spending jumped $7.8 billion in the summer months to a $432.2-billion pace. If there was any nervousness about the health of the economy, consumers were showing little of it.

MORE NEWS

Stock traders have had many other bits of good news to consider in recent days. The number of nonfarm jobs has risen to a record 61.6 million. In September it gained 586,000 over the August figures, and 125,000 of the increase was more than usual for the season.

New car sales in the first 10 days of October were running 35 per cent higher than in the like period of 1964.

Plane Crashes on I-75 in Ohio

3-Man Crew Escapes With Minor Injuries

PIQUA, Ohio (AP) — A huge four - engine turbojet cargo plane — similar in appearance to a military "Flying Boxcar"— crashed on Interstate 75 Thursday while attempting an emergency landing.

The three - man crew escaped with only minor injuries.

The pilot, Robert Cupal, 26, of Dayton, first officer, Peter Onieu, 33, of Dayton, and flying Engineer Robert Butler of Saline, Mich., were treated for cuts and bruises.

The plane, an AW650 owned by Zantop Air Transport Co. of Inkster, Mich., was en route to nearby Wright - Patterson Air Force Base when it apparently lost power and attempted to land.

SHERIFF'S OFFICE

The Miami County sheriff's office said the plane attempted to pass through the Piqua-Troy road underpass five miles south of here.

Portions of both wings and one engine were torn from the aircraft and it sprawled along the highway, scattering debris over a large area, before bursting into flames.

Deputies said no automobiles were struck by the plane, but many cars were hit by flying debris and gasoline. No one in any of the cars was hurt.

Fire - fighting units from the Air Force base extinguished the flames within a few minutes after arriving on the scene.
