HE'S NOT WORRIED—Allen Samson, 15, freshman football player for St. Michael High School here, doesn't appear worried over tonight's clash with Oxford High—even though he wears a number 13 jersey and this is Friday the Thirteenth. In fact, Allen, the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Samson of 1254 Atkinson St., would consider it a good omen if his team won by a score of 13 to 0.

Teamsters Threatened Here While Circulating Petitions

Six union members of Pontiac Teamsters Local 614, who are circulating petitions demanding the termination of the local's trusteeship, have been threatened with physical violence, according to the group's attorney, Louis W. Snyder of Pontiac.

He said over half a dozen of the petitions have been destroyed by opponents of the complaining union members. Those circulating petitions also demand the ouster of all officers of the local.

Snyder said he has received complaints from members that certain persons "use threats against the men and their families and then grab the petitions out of their hands and tear them up.

"One member had two more names to complete his petition when he was threatened with violence," Snyder said. "Then his petition was grabbed out of his hands and torn up."

There are about 80 men circulating the petitions. So far, Snyder said, only two men have been threatened.

The group is holding a closed meeting tonight to consider what legal action can be taken to restrain further interruptions.

"Our ultimate recourse," Snyder added, "will be to consult with Oakland County Prosecutor's office for further action."

The petitions charge suspended local President Daniel J. Keating and Secretary-Treasurer Louis C. Listean with "arbitrary interpretations of the International Constitution" through which they continued to succeed themselves in office.

James A. Hoffa, president of the Teamster's Joint Council, placed the Pontiac local under trusteeship last month on orders of the union's International President Dave Beck.

Paper Links Ike With White

New York Post Prints Quotes From Magazine on War-Time Meeting

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Post said today it has obtained a document which states that President Eisenhower and the late Harry Dexter White, whom the U.S. attorney general says was described as a Soviet spy by the FBI, met at Gen. Eisenhower's headquarters in southern England in 1944.

The Post article, on the editorial page, quotes this paragraph from the transcript of President Eisenhower's White House press conference last Wednesday:

"Some days back Mr. Brownell, the attorney general, reported to him (Eisenhower) that there were certain facts that had been coming to light in Brownell's department that he felt should be made available to the public, and that he felt, moreover, it was his duty to do so, and he told the President that they involved a man named White, a man whom the President had never met, didn't know anything about."

The Post said the document is a rare copy of the March, 1947 issue of the "United Nations World" magazine, which contains an article by M. Fred Smith, an assistant to Treasury Secretary Henry Morgenthau Jr. Mr. Frederik Smith was an assistant to Morgenthau in the savings bond program from May 11, 1943 to Nov. 13, 1944, when he resigned.

The Smith article said that on Aug 7, 1944, in a tent in southern England, the Morgenthau plan for making Germany a nation of farmers was born and "actually it was Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower who launched the project."

"The subject first came up at lunch in Gen. Eisenhower's mess tent," the Post quoted from the Smith article.

Red China Market Surveyed by U.S.

America Losing Export Trade, Claims Official

Chrysler Man Watches Sec. Dulles' Ideas on Foreign Business

DETROIT (AP) — The U. S. State and Commerce Departments, according to a Chrysler Corp. executive, have been sounding out industrial sentiment on this country's opening trade with Communist China.

C. B. Thomas, president of Chrysler's export division, viewed Secretary of State John Foster Dulles' recent press statements also as signs that Red China might be opened to U. S. trade.

Thomas' comments came in answers to questions at a press conference in conjunction with Chrysler's showing of new model cars and other products yesterday.

When asked how the export outlook appeared, he replied: "It is on the downgrade . . . there is one outlook at the present time. If it opens up, it will be a big market. That is Communist China."

"Will you sell to Communist China" a reporter asked.

Thomas responded: "We will sell automobiles to any point that the government will agree to our shipping. It is a government policy and not ours.

"If you have been reading the press in the last two days you'll notice the subject came up in Secretary of State Dulles' statements — partial recognition of Communist China.

"We cannot sell nor can we ship, but already France, Italy and England are shipping to Communist China."

The Commerce Department and State Department have been making a survey of industry for a week in the past, getting sentiment as to the availability of supplies possibly on a restricted basis. That was the reason for the comment the market might open.

"They (the Chinese Communists) need transportation possibly more than they need anything else, and it (China) always was a very, very large market for Chrysler products and especially Dodge trucks."

(Dulles hinted in a news conference Monday if Red China changed its anti-Western policies and stopped support of aggression in Indochina and elsewhere, there might be a possibility of recognition. Canadians Cheer for Ike as He Arrives for Visit

OTTAWA, Ont. (AP)—Under a leaden sky, President Eisenhower arrived in the Canadian capital today for a two-day visit. He will address the Canadian Parliament tomorrow.

Mechanical troubles delayed the special presidential train en route from Washington, and it arrived here 15 minutes late. The President and Mrs. Eisenhower stepped onto a red carpet at Union Station to receive the greetings of Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent—whose visit to Washington last May is being officially repaid.

Gov. Gen. Vincent Massey, brother of the actor, Raymond Massey and Canada's first native-born governor general, also was on hand, along with members of the Canadian cabinet.

His position is that of the Queen's representative, a job with strictly nominal powers in the government. Massey and St. Laurent will share honors as the President's host here.

The red carpet led the President 500 feet from the platform through the station concourse to the street. Outside, in Confederation Square, he heard a 21-gun salute and "The Star Spangled Banner." After inspecting the colorful guard, the President laid a wreath on the 70-foot war memorial.

Thousands in the square cheered the Eisenhowers as they entered Massey's automobile to ride to his official residence, Rideau Hall, for lunch. Douglas Stuart, U. S. ambassador to Canada, rode in a second car, and Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., chief U. S. delegate to the United Nations, in a third.

Expect Betrothal of West German First Lady

BONN (AP) — The engagement of West Germany's First Lady, Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's daughter Lotte, is expected to be announced shortly before Christmas, friends said today.

The slender, 28-year-old brunette plans to marry a 32-year-old architect from Aachen. The friends declined to identify him, but said the chancellor approves his daughter's choice.

Both president Theodor Heuss and the Chancellor are widowers, so "Miss Lotte," as she's affectionately called by the Germans, is recognized as the nation's first lady.

Although she has a full-time job as a high school teacher, she accompanies the Chancellor on his foreign trips and serves as his hostess.

Girl Kidnaped but Unharmed

Man Scares Family, Takes Daughter, 13, but Releases Her

NEW YORK (AP) — A 13-year-old girl was found today apparently unharmed after being kidnaped from her East Side Manhattan home and held captive for almost four hours by a scar-faced man.

The girl, Dorothea Del Lago, was wearing only pajamas and a coat when she was forced into a car about 5 a. m. (EST) after the scar-faced man had terrorized her family for an hour.

Police said she reported the man put her out of the car about 9 a. m. after giving her $5. Police said the girl had been riding around in the kidnaper's car for about four hours.

She still was wearing the pajamas and coat when found in front of the Woodside branch post office in Queens.

She asked a passerby, Helen Doyle of Woodside, to call her a taxi. Miss Doyle told the girl there was a taxi stand a block down the street.

"I don't want to go down there," the girl replied. "I have on pajamas under this coat."

Police were called and the girl was taken to Elmhurst Police Station for questioning. A doctor was called in. Police said she apparently had not been harmed.

Police broadcast an alarm for a two-tone green sedan, believed to be the one used by the kidnaper.

Arson Is Suspected in House Fire Here

A home at 81 N. Merrimac St., condemned by the Pontiac Health Department since Oct. 26 as being a fire hazard, was set afire late last night, according to Pontiac Police.

The blaze in the basement of the home was extinguished by Pontiac Firemen minutes after it was reported by a neighbor.

Police and firemen said they suspect arson as fuel oil had been poured on the floor. Only slight damage was caused.

Blaze Destroys Alcona County Court House

Pre-Dawn Fire Burns 83-Year-Old Structure to Ground

HARRISVILLE, Mich. (AP) —A disastrous, predawn fire destroyed Alcona County's 83-year-old court house today, putting a stop to virtually all county business.

Early estimates placed the loss at $100,000.

The blaze, starting about 4:30 a. m., burned the ancient building down to the ground. A vast quantity of official county records was destroyed.

No one was reported hurt. Firemen from nearby communities rushed here to help in a battle against flames which engulfed the frame, two story building.

Northbound hunters' cars bound for the deer country for the season opening Sunday had to stop when traffic on U. S. 23 was blocked.

Although the cause of the fire was still undetermined, Firemen said it started in a furnace room.

At 5:30 a.m. the old structure, a landmark sitting in the middle of Court House Park near the center of town, was a mass of flames. Its 90-foot tower collapsed.

Late this morning firemen were pouring water on the ruins in an attempt to cool four walk-in steel vaults containing various county records.

This included records of the county clerk, probate judge, register of deeds, and county treasurer. All other records were lost.

Destroyed were offices of the superintendent of schools, agricultural agent, health department, the welfare department and the draft board.

Court room and judge's chambers also were wiped out.

Circuit Judge Herman Dehnke had held his court in the building until 6 p.m. yesterday.

A night worker on his way home discovered the blaze. Harrisville firemen were assisted in their fight by Lincoln, Greenbush, Alpena and the Wurtsmith Air Force Base at Oscoda.

Weather Dims Hunters' Hopes

No Tracking Snow Is Forecast for Opening of Deer Season

A long-range forecast of warmer-than-average temperatures has dimmed deer hunters' hopes of good tracking snow for the opening of deer season Sunday.

But one ray of hope still remains in the five-day forecast released today by the U. S. Weather Bureau.

Scattered showers, which might change to snow if a cold front sweeps in, are expected Monday through Wednesday in upper Michigan and Tuesday in lower Michigan.

The five-day forecast says temperatures will average 3 to 6 degrees above normal in both upper and lower sections of the state.

Mostly fair weather is expected in the Pontiac area, with a low of from 36 to 40 degrees tonight and a high of from 54 to 58 Saturday.

Thursday's temperatures ranged from 39 to 47 degrees.

The mercury rose from 42 at 8 a.m. today at 50 degrees at 2 p.m. in downtown Pontiac.

Truman Is Big Attraction

'Robin Hood' Faces Ban as Communist Doctrine

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UP)—The state superintendent of education said today he would re-read "Robin Hood" to study a textbook commissioner's charge that it should be banned as Communist doctrine.

But the infamous sheriff of Nottingham will continue to be a villain and not just an injured capitalist to Indianapolis six graders.

The city's superintendent of schools, Dr. H. L. Shibler, said he would not ban present textbook references to Robin Hood, the legendary outlaw and bowman of Sherwood Forest.

Mrs. Thomas J. White of Indianapolis, Republican member of Indiana's Textbook Commission, said the Robin Hood legend and all information about the Quaker religion should be removed from school books because they tend to support communism.

"There is a Communist directive in education now to stress the story of Robin Hood," she said. "They want to stress it because he robbed the rich and gave it to the poor," she said.

"That's the Communist line. "It's just a smearing of law and order and anything that disrupts law and order is their meat."

State Superintendent Wilbur Young said Mrs. White, one of seven commission members, "is entitled to her own opinion."

As for the story, Young said it "sounds all right as I remember, but it's been 25 years since I read it."

He said he would read it again "to decide what's in it technically."

Mrs. White said references to Quakers should be eliminated from books because:

"Quakers don't believe in fighting wars. All the men they can get to believe that they don't need to go to war, the better off the Communists are. It's the same as their crusade for peace — everybody lay down their arms and they'll take over."

Benjamin Franklin and William Penn are among the historical figures who were Quakers.

Mrs. White, who was appointed by Gov. George Craig last May to a four-year term, said she has read more than 100 books under consideration for adoption by the commission.

She says she has written to publishers with several complaints about "slanted material," asking it be removed.

She said she often consults Indiana Senator William E. Jenner about "questionable" authors and persons mentioned in the textbooks.

But He'll Give Written Queries Serious Study

Truman Indicates That He May Speak Out on White Controversy

WASHINGTON (UP) —Rep. Francis E. Walter (D-Pa) said today that the late Harry Dexter White was kept in the government with the approval of FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover so Hoover's agents could more easily keep the alleged spy "under surveillance."

WASHINGTON (AP)—Supreme Court Justice Tom Clark refused today to comply with a subpoena to testify before the House Un-American Activities Committee on the Harry Dexter White case.

Clark offered, however, to give "serious consideration" to any written questions the committee may wish to send him.

In a letter to the committee, Clark based his rejection of the subpoena on the premise that the judiciary branch of the government is independent of the legislative.

This is the same constitutional basis on which former President Truman declined yesterday to honor a committee subpoena. Truman's stand was that the executive branch of the government was not subject to authority of the congressional branch.

Truman hinted today, however, that he may yet speak out on the charge by Atty. Gen. Brownell that he promoted White, a treasury aide now dead, in 1946 despite an FBI report that White was a Russian spy.

The ex-President told reporters during a morning walk in New York that his refusal to comply with the subpoena did not necessarily mean he would remain silent on the controversy.

Truman declined any specific comment on the brief hearings yesterday by the Senate internal security subcommittee which questioned his former military aide, Maj. Gen. Harry H. Vaughan, among other.

Vaughan testified that FBI reports intended for the President were customarily handed to him but that he did not remember any report relating to White.

Justice Clark's secretary delivered his letter to committee Chairman Velde (R-Ill) a few minutes before 10:30 a. m. (EST), the time set in the subpoena for Clark to appear before the House investigators.

Clark wrote that "the independence of the three branches of our government is the cardinal principal on which our constitutional system is founded."

Truman told the committee politely but firmly yesterday he could not obey its order to testify on Brownell's charges that he promoted White in 1946 despite FBI reports that White was a spy.

Battery Additive No Good, Scientific Group Agrees

WASHINGTON (AP) — A committee of the National Academy of Sciences sided today with the findings of the Bureau of Standards that the controversial battery additive AD-X2 "is without merit."

The committee, appointed by Secretary of Commerce Weeks to evaluate the work of the bureau in testing AD-X2, recommended that no additional tests of the material be made.

The California maker of the battery additive, Jess Ritchie, claims that AD-X2 will rejuvenate worn-out but mechanically sound storage batteries of the type used in automobiles.

In reporting to Weeks that its information supports the AD-X2 conclusion of the bureau, the committee said the work done by this government scientific agency in testing batteries "is excellent."

The Bureau of Standards ran a series of tests on AD-X2 and reported that it was worthless. This report resulted in a fraud order by the Post Office Department early this year against Ritchie and the company he heads, Pioneers, Inc.

When Weeks became secretary of commerce in the change of administration in January, he asked the Post Office to suspend the fraud order pending further investigation.

Weeks charged before the

Birmingham Stores Pick December 7 as the Date for Second Men's Night

From Our Birmingham Bureau

BIRMINGHAM—Plans are well under way for the second annual Men's Night to be staged by local merchants Dec. 7.

On that night stores will be open to men only, allowing them to shop for Christmas gifts undetected by female friends and spouses.

According to Richard Wilson, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce Retail Merchants Committee, about 95 per cent of the Birmingham stores will participate by remaining open. Tentative hours are from 7 to 9 p.m.

Heading the committee arranging the event, which was so well

This year the event will replace the annual Christmas preview open house of stores held in former years.

Brochures will be distributed in advance of the Men's night, notifying women shoppers that if they spot something they would like to receive, a notation of the store clerk's name to the husband might prove helpful.

VISIT KIN OF KOREAN BUDDIES—Sgt. James Conway and Cpl. Jimmy Delaney, Marine Korean veterans, wanted to visit the families of some of their buddies who are still in Korea. They mentioned the fact on a TV show and James H. Rand of Remington-Rand who saw the show, made this possible for them. Here, Conway (left) and Delaney (on crutches), with Henry Wardhouse of Remington-Rand, visit Mrs. R. W. Johnson, the sister of a friend.

Tom Clark Refuses to Obey Subpoena

clined to leave his post as governor of South Carolina to answer a committee subpoena. Chairman Velde accepted Byrnes' suggestion to send investigators to him, but set no date.

That left the committee — arguing among itself and reported to be under heavy pressure from the White House and the Republican National Committee — with a mighty tenuous schedule of witnesses and hearings.

Brownell was one witness. Velde and other Republican committee members gave in to their Democratic colleagues' demands yesterday and, by unanimous committee vote, invited — rather than ordered — the attorney general to testify. Brownell accepted, but again no date was set.

Another witness was Jerome Blumauer, who was foreman of a federal grand jury in New York which considered the White case in 1947 but did not hand down an indictment. Velde announced yesterday that Blumauer would testify today, but last night Blumauer's appearence was postponed indefinitely.

A committee source, declining use of his name, said it might be six weeks before the committee got around to Blumauer. This source noted that the committee is "extremely busy," what with subcommittee inquiries scheduled in San Francisco and Philadelphia.

It seemed extremely doubtful that Brownell would testify earlier than the end of next week. The Philadelphia probe, into Reds-in-education, is expected to keep a subcommittee busy on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Velde said he has some further questions to ask Harry H. Vaughan, who was military aide to Truman, in the wake of the retired major general's testimony yesterday before the Senate internal security subcommittee.

Vaughan, squinting in the glare of television and newsreel lights, told the senators he couldn't recall seeing any FBI reports on White. But he added that if Brownell said they were sent to him to be brought to the President's attention:

"I would not question it for a moment."

That was exactly what Brownell did say in the Chicago speech which set off the whole uproar a week ago today.

The effervescent Vaughan, who figured in investigations of influence peddling late in the Truman administration, testified soon after another onetime Democratic official, T. Lamar Caudle, added some details to the charges and countercharges.

Caudle, fired by Truman as an assistant attorney general for "outside activities," testified that in early 1946 he called Clark's attention to an FBI report indicating White was a Communist underground agent.

Caudle said he told Clark "if the facts were true, I hope he would do what he could to discourage the appointment of White" as U. S. director for the International Monetary Fund.

Caudle said he gave this report to Clark by phone.

"Here Eisenhower became grim, and made the statement that actually sparked the German hardship plan. He said: 'I am not interested in the German economy and personally would not like to bolster it if that will make it any easier for the Germans.'

"He said he thought the Germans had punishment coming to them: 'The ringleaders and the SS troops should be given the death penalty without question, but punishment should not end there.'

allowed in the U. N. Assembly, since there was no veto there.)

Thomas said a December meeting of the Big Three in Bermuda "may bring around a solution." It was then that he emphasized trading of England, France and Italy with the Reds.

Many export markets, Thomas said, have closed during the last year and there is little indication of them opening in the early part of the coming year.

He mentioned Brazil, which he said is now short of foreign exchange, and Mexico, which is limiting the number of automobiles that may be brought in for assembly there.

On the U. S. front, President L. L. Colbert of Chrysler told newsmen, that next year "is going to be a good business year although a highly competitive one."

ate Small Business Committee that the bureau had not been "sufficiently objective" in testing AD-X2. He said this after an investigation had been carried out by Craig Sheaffer, then assistant secretary of commerce.

Weeks requested and got the resignation of Dr. Allen V. Astin as director of the bureau, in April. This aroused a storm of protest from scientific organizations.

Weeks subsequently asked Astin to remain in his job temporarily and appointed one committee of scientists to evaluate the functions and operations of the bureau and another to evaluate its testing of AD-X2.

A third committee of scientists was appointed to recommend a successor to Astin. Before this committee reported, Weeks reinstated Astin and a short time later Sheaffer resigned.

No Water, Hot Sun Bar French Plans for Sahara

By PHIL NEWSOM
UP Foreign News Editor

The French hope that riches found beneath the vast, sandy wastes of the Sahara will help them get back on a competitive industrial footing with a rising West Germany.

To this end, they have set up a new government office to direct exploration of the Saharn and to lay the groundwork for a "future Pittsburgh."

They are working against enormous odds but the prize could be worth the effort.

The story goes that 40 years ago a foreign Legionnaire was ordered to dig a ditch at Kenadza, a remote outpost 250 miles deep in the interior of Algeria. He cursed when his shovel hit a ledge of black rock.

It was the accidental discovery of a coal deposit from which the French today are taking 275,000 tons a year.

At present, the French take a loss of $7 on every ton of coal extracted from the Kenadza mine.

But in a desolate area where not even the desert Bedouins can live, where water is the difference between life and death (and there is no water), where soar above 120 degrees, the temperatures during the day build a vast industrial complex French eventually hope to which will in the end be profitable.

And on this and other colonial projects, France's future greatness may depend.

The center of this "future near not only Kenadza but also a manganese deposit found at Meabha.

Two railroads connect the possible industrial center with the Mediterranean port of Oron, 470 miles north.

French engineers plan eventually to transform the Kenadza coal into electrical energy at Colomb-Becahar by building a 80,000 to 100,000 kilowatt power station.

But coal and manganese are not the only discoveries.

At Tindouf in the eastern corner of Algeria only 200 miles from the Atlantic, French technicians plan to exploit a huge iron deposit of at least 100,000,000 tons. There also is coal at Tindouf.

Elsewhere, prospectors have found rich deposits of copper, lead, potassium, and more coal, iron and manganese. Oil was found at Maktar, Tunisia.

The greatest problem remains the lack of workmen to dig in the mines, the heat and the lack of food, water and housing for them if they came.

In the approximate 30 square miles of the prospective manganese mine north of Colomb-Bechar, there is exactly one tree.

So remote is the area that for the last five years the French have been using it for top-secret experiments on guided missiles.

The French hope to lick the problem by boring artesian wells, building better highways and railroads and encouraging business men with tax deductions and preferential customs treatment.

Torturer of Child Gets 45-Year Term

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP)—Winston H. Morse entered the Florida State Penitentiary today to begin a 45-year sentence for the torture attack on 8-year-old Bruce Strandhagen.

The 34-year-old Salem, Mass., cook pleaded guilty yesterday to charges of lewd and lascivious assault and attempted murder, and Criminal Judge W. T. Kennedy gave him the maximum sentence allowed by the law.

Morse told police he was convicted three times in Massachusetts for attacks on small boys but that each time he was released on probation as "feeble-minded but harmless."

Morse lured the Strandhagen boy into his room the night of Nov. 2 and tortured him by sticking 17 four-inch needles into his body. Doctors removed one needle from Bruce's heart muscles and another from a lung.

The boy, son of Dr. and Mrs. Harry Strandhagen, also was choked, beaten and sexually attacked. He is recovering now, but for days was given only a 50-50 chance to survive.

Garbage Collectors Couldn't Make Grade

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—The City Planning Commission has ruled that property owners in a new subdivision must install garbage disposal units in their homes. Reason: Some of the driveways have a 29 per cent grade. That's too steep for the city garbage trucks.

Brannan Plan Rumors

Some Democrats profess to see the EISENHOWER Administration leaning toward the Brannan Plan of farm price supports.

While we know of no such proposal from any authoritative source, it is worth remembering that the Democratic controlled Congress of 1949-1950 refused to have anything to do with the plan.

Actually the plan didn't conflict greatly with the present price support program. Strongest opposition arose against Brannan's proposals on perishable and non-storable commodities. These account for about 75 per cent of all farm cash income.

It was proposed for these commodities that they be allowed to sell at whatever prices they would bring under supply and demand. The Government then would repay the farmer directly for the difference between what he got and what the support price would be for the individual commodities under the newly computed formulas.

Brannan contended that these repayments wouldn't cost the taxpayer any more, in the long run, than the existing price support program. He argued that the Government would save its present losses on spoilage, shipping and storage on its stocks of perishable products. His further claim was that the consumer would benefit from lower food costs as farm commodities were allowed to drop to their natural price level.

Rejection of that plan is traceable to three main factors. One of these was lack of cost estimates, guesses running all the way from $5,000,000 to $19 billion a year. The others were the requirement that farmers be eligible for Government payments only if they co-operated in soil conservation programs and that these payments be limited in the case of very large farms.

So far the only official hint as to the form the new EISENHOWER farm program will take is that it will include some kind of price support. Details of the program now being drafted may not be made public until Congress reconvenes.

War on Heart Disease

Encouraging progress is being made by medical science in its war on heart disease, according to the Life Insurance Medical Research Fund.

This news is important to everyone because the various diseases of the heart and arteries account for more than half of all deaths in the United States.

Of the $5,500,000 contributed by 146 life insurance companies in the United States and Canada since 1945, over $4,000,000 has gone to medical schools and research centers. The remainder has been used to finance more than 200 student fellowships.

That the research thus financed already has yielded results and promises more, is made clear in the report. For example, new evidence has been found indicating that some day it will be possible to prevent hardening of the arteries and coronary artery disease.

Progress also has been made in finding new ways of treating hypertension through the use of new and powerful drugs which lower blood pressure. Work is progressing, too, on the role of diets and hormones in this field.

In promoting such research the insurance companies are acting in their own interests. Nevertheless, it is heartening to see that private enterprise is willing to invest its money in a project that eventually will benefit all mankind.

GOP Wins in California

Skies look much brighter to Republicans after GLENARD R. LIPSCOMB's decisive victory in the four man race for a California Congressional seat.

There are good reasons for the satisfaction expressed by President Eisenhower and other party leaders over Lipscomb's election. The victor, who had state and local GOP organization support, and John Collier, both state legislators, went all out in their campaign in backing the Eisenhower program.

On the other hand GEORGE L. ARNOLD, Democratic runner up to LIPSCOMB, is an unalloyed New Dealer. He is the son of THURMOND ARNOLD, assistant attorney general under FDR and latterly counsel for OWEN LATTIMORE who is awaiting trial on perjury charges.

Another fact which cheers Republicans is that LIPSCOMB's victory came despite the district's registration figures favoring Democrats 81,691 to 75,289. The result also was hailed because a Democratic victory would have reduced the GOP margin in the House to two votes.

Pontiac Was Shoveling Out After Bad Storm

Daffynition

Mind: What no man can change as often as a woman—unless he's married and loves peace.

Twenty years ago today this area was blanketed with several inches of snow and the roads were coated with ice, following one of the worst November storms in local history.

Thought to be in Pontiac is 14-year-old

Winifred Johnson,

who disappeared from her home in Flint two weeks ago. She is 5-4 tall, weighs 135, has brown hair and eyes, and was wearing a yellow coat, yellow dress, black shoes and black hat when she disappeared. Her parents are

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Johnson of 2035 East Scottwood Ave., Flint.

There's a lot to think about in that slogan of

Paul Penfield,

Supervisor of Advertising for the Detroit Edison Company,

"People Never Stand Still."

A new chemical product soon to go on the market keeps potatoes from sprouting while in storage, and prevents other vegetables from putting on new growth and thus sapping their vitality.

Rochester, that beautiful suburb of Pontiac to the east, is claiming a new distinction, according to one of its principal boosters. He says that more people who move away from Rochester come back soon after for the rest of their lives than is true of any other community.

When he found some queer looking seeds in a package of tomato seed last spring, of Auburn Heights planted them in a separate place. They grew into stalks of Kaffir corn.

Malcolm Swan

A postal card received with the signature,

"Perhaps I'm Crazy, Too,"

commends the current general display in Pontiac of the signs,

"Watch Out for Crazy Drivers," and continues, "No matter how crazy we may be, we always think that it means the other fellow. Let's all check up on ourselves."

The big flurry on soybeans in the nation's markets is of little local significance. They are not produced in Oakland or adjoining counties to any marketable extent.

A phone call from

Billed to speak at a public gathering on "Off-Season Attractions in Southeastern Michigan,"

Mort Neff,

Businessmen Back Chief of Police; Feel That He Has Been Doing Good Job

(Letters will be condensed when necessary because of lack of space. Full name, address and telephone number of the writer must accompany letters but these will not be published if the writer so requests, unless the letter is critical in its nature.)

We believe that Pontiac's City Commission, its City Manager and its Chief of Police have been doing a good job and are entitled to the open support of citizens.

If any member of the Police Department has been guilty of illegal acts, then proof should be laid before the Trial Board, which body is capable of reaching the proper decision and taking appropriate action.

We believe our city has enjoyed good government and that the men at its head are entitled to public support rather than condemnation.

Anyone who does anything, antagonizes some people, and those people are entitled to voice their opinions. But by the same token, we think those who believe that our Chief, and Manager and Commissioners have been doing a good job are also entitled to speak, and that they have a responsibility to speak out publicly.

A good public servant gets little enough thanks and little enough pay. The least those can do who believe he has done a good job is to back him up when he is being attacked. We hope others will voice their opinions.

THOUGHTS FOR TODAY

And that ye put on the new man, which after God is created in righteousness and true holiness.—Ephesians 4:24.

Man is greater than a world — than systems of worlds; there is more mystery in the union of soul with body than in the creation of a universe.—Henry Giles.

David Lawrence Says:

Mr. Truman Seems Willing to 'Sell' All to Magazine but Not 'Tell' All on Stand

WASHINGTON — Former President Truman has placed himself in an awkward, if not untenable, position before the public by his refusal to comply with a subpoena from the House Un-American Activities Committee.

Truman says he cannot be compelled by law to testify about any events that happened while he held the presidential office, but recently he contracted with Life Magazine, for a price of reportedly around $600,000, to write about events which will include the period of his service in the White House.

Shall the American people be denied, by reason of an arbitrary refusal by a private citizen to give it, information affecting vitally the security of the nation — that is, about the lax procedures that have prevented prompt defection of security risks in their government?

Shall the reason given by Truman to the Congress that a former President cannot be compelled to testify about public matters be accepted as a precedent now?

For, if so, then every former official can plead the same excuse hereafter.

Truman was paid a high salary by the people of the United States, and what he did while in office constitutes information belonging to the people.

There has been a quibble as to whether it would have been better to "invite" Mr. Truman as a matter of "courtesy" rather than to summon him by subpoena, but the reply given formally to the House committee now indicates that Truman refuses, either voluntarily or as a result of subpoena to give any information which the Congress seeks.

It is a well-established principle of constitutional law that, once a witness does give a partial answer and opens up the subject matter, he can be required to answer further or be adjudged in contempt.

By analogy, Truman has opened up the subject matter by a statement in the press declaring that when he found out that Harry Dexter White was "disloyal," he "fired" him.

The Congress has a right to have those statements made under oath and to ask that the record be supplied which shows that, even if the resignation on April 7, 1947, by White was "forced," nothing in the laudatory letter written by the former President when White terminated his employment indicates it.

The Congress and the American people have a right to know what took place at the conference which the then secretary of state, James F. Byrnes, held with Truman on Feb. 6, 1946, when Byrnes urged that White's commission for his new post be held up.

Who were the persons present at the meeting, and why didn't the President act later as he had seemed to be willing to act on the Byrnes suggestion?

Truman's loyalty or fidelity to his country is not an issue and has never been, despite efforts of Truman followers here to confuse the matter by claiming such an implication was made by Attorney General Brownell. It was laxity in procedure alone to which Brownell called attention.

Incidentally, Lamar Caudle, former assistant attorney general in the criminal division of the Department of Justice under the Truman administration, now has testified that on Oct. 13 last he disclosed to the Senate Internal Security Committee the existence of the so-called "second" FBI memorandum about Harry Dexter White dated Feb. 4, 1946.

He did so in answer to a question by a committee investigator who evidently had heard about it.

So Brownell could have made public all the data that he covered in his speech of last Friday several weeks earlier — indeed, during the campaign itself if he were seeking political advantage.

The fact that he did not speak until all the special campaigns for Congress were about over is a sign that he did not, as the Democrats now claim, act for political purposes in his "timing."

Truman had an excellent opportunity to put his case before the people by declining to accept a subpoena but offering to appear voluntarily without subpoena.

Whichever way the testimony is to be obtained is not important, for it seems doubtful that the Democrats will wish to permit their former leader to take the side of concealment and suppression as against full publicity of the facts in his possession.

Case Records of a Psychologist

Teach Children Correct Attitude Toward Police

Every policeman is a modern Horatius who stands out boldly and alone against the hordes of crooks who would destroy our peaceful cities. So please teach your children the true attitude toward these courageous men. They symbolize our great Republic, but receive all too few bouquets.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case J-341: Clem V., aged 39, is a police lieutenant in a large city.

"Dr. Crane, I used to be in your psychology class at the Northwestern University Traffic Institute," he greeted me after a speech I had made to his state police association.

"And I have never forgotten that intelligence test you gave us. For you said we made a higher average score than your Liberal Arts seniors on the Evanston Campus.

"Well, that gave me a big lift. For too many people talk about us as 'dumb cops' and belittle our jobs.

"But we get shot down without warning by gangsters, and must be out in all sorts of weather to maintain law and order.

"So we are doubly grateful for any boost that we receive."

Well, Clem, we'll give you some more deserved boosts, too. For you faithful policemen are the real Horatius at the bridge of social chaos.

You stand out as a lone patrolman, to guard the welfare of thousands of children, as well as their parents.

You dress in distinctive color and boldly march down the street even though human "mad dogs" in the form of insane killers may be skulking in alleys to take pot shots at you behind your back.

Like the Marshal in the recent movie "High Noon," you realize that you symbolize law and order. You have a great moral responsibility.

Obviously, you don't get paid a large salary. Indeed, you belong in much the same boat with school teachers in this respect.

In fact, the mechanics in many of the factories in your same city draw more wages than you receive. But that is likewise true of the school teachers in your town, also.

But you still stick to your post, partly because there is an inner elation of the soul which a man receives when he knows he is helping hold up the entire fabric of civilization. And policemen do that.

Millions of Americans are law-abiding not because of conscience or home teachings on moral questions.

But because they are afraid of the policeman! Though you may be the only man on your beat, thousands of potential crooks obey the law just because of your stalwart presence!

Policemen are now beloved by children, for they protect the street crossings at schools.

Modern youngsters actually look forward with glee to clasping the genial policeman by the hand and walking across the intersection beside him.

In earlier days, unfortunately, thoughtless parents threatened their toddlers with the dire prophecy: "The policeman will come and take you to jail if you don't eat your oatmeal, etc."

That was the very worst kind of psychology! Instead, we are now training our youngsters to look upon the policeman as their protector.

And all adults should do likewise. Remember, policemen don't make the laws, but simply enforce them!

So please be reasonable when an officer of the law arrests you for speeding or some other minor offense.

He is doing only what he is paid to do. So he deserves the respect and cooperation of all you good people, even if you occasionally violate some minor regulation of your city.

Nowadays, it takes brains and versatile training, plus real courage to be a policeman. He stands out boldly as the symbol of law. He doesn't pot shot people behind their backs, as the cowardly crooks do.

And as your children learn to respect and love the policeman, so they learn to respect and love our Republic with its guarantees of equal rights to all minority groups.

Baering Down

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER
(International News Service)

This is one of those double doubts when a man wants traveler's insurance for looking at his shoes.

The ancient Greeks wouldn't go anywhere on Friday the 13th. But if they happened to be there it was all right.

All this superstitious business goes back to the oily days of Wall Street. When the 56-cent dollar had cream on the top. In those days a dollar was a dollar no matter who had it.

But two dollars were also two dollars and the sweetest music in the world is the jingle of speculation.

So the first black Friday was 84 fiscal seasons ago on Sept. 24, 1869. President Grant's boy friends had their feet under the table and were pulling more strings than a piano tuner.

Jay Gould and the uptown mob started cornering everything in the roundhouse. They boosted the price of gold to 162 and ½. That was like hollering fire in a celluloid factory. Somebody pulled the plug and school was out.

We've had 'em since. The burned child dreads the hot stove. But where else are you going to cook?

People have learned their lesson and don't go down to the street to take advantage of the reciprocal transportation system. You walk in and get carried out.

London had its black Friday just three years ahead of us in 1866. It sent over an expert to set one up for us.

This prospectus is no offer of stock. Just a road map in case you want to run the blockade with a loaf of bread under your arm.

Long Continued 'Shots' of Antibiotics Has Dr. Brady Ready to 'Blow His Top'

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

Several weeks ago I told here the story of the poor little boy, who, according to his aunt, had "Strep throat," was hospitalized, given many tests and "shots" and sent home with instructions that he must be kept in bed as long as he "ran a temperature."

Evidently Auntie was adept at wielding the little glass stick. Too bad. But who am I to doubt the skill or wisdom of the leading specialists of Aunt's community?

Speaking as a plodding doctor I may say that if the little boy were my patient I'd forbid Auntie to use her mischievous glass stick and I'd prescribe gradually more hours out of bed day by day. But, again, who am I . . . ?

The little boy still had a temperature of 100 or sometimes higher, after a few weeks of this idiotic confinement to bed, so the doctor decided to let him get up. But Auntie wasn't satisfied, so she changed doctors.

The new doctor said he didn't know what the trouble was. But he took out the boy's tonsils. The poor little boy.

Back around 1920, when we were unable to determine what ailed a patient we could always fall back on "focal infection" and divine that tonsillectomy would remove the septic focus and speed recovery. It rarely worked out that way.

Months passed. Auntie continues, and the little boy still had the same afternoon temperature of 99.6 or 100. The doctor now plied him with antibiotics, penicillin, etc., of course all by "shots"—

Still the victim of all this maltreatment was no better. So, in desperation the second doctor told Auntie to let the little boy get up and play.

The third doctor opinioned the boy had rheumatic fever and said he must be kept in bed a year.

"More "shots" tests for heart murmur, electrocardiogram tests for undulant fever, tests for tuberculosis.

Finally the doctor decided the trouble was not rheumatic fever, but, for some inconceivable reason concluded that the little boy would have to take antibiotics for another year!

The poor little boy, his Aunt adds, is still in bed, still "runs a temperature."

Now see here, I'm ready to blow my top. I have something to say which has been simmering in my mind for the past year or two. You may take it or leave it.

In my opinion the antiobiotics and penicillin do more harm than good in most instances, and as nearly as I can learn the doctors who give these "wonder" or miracle drugs as freely as in the case of the poor little boy are giving the "shots" blindly.

The use of adequate doses of the antibiotics daily or several times a day for several days is well established practice, but plying a child with any such medicine for months and years is wicked malpractice, in my judgment.

Signed letters, not more than 300 words long, pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. Brady if a stamped, self addressed envelope is enclosed, etc.

Flint Youths Confess Knife-Point Robbery

FLINT (UP)—Two 19-year-old youths have confessed robbing a restaurant at knife point Nov. 3, police reported today.

Authorities said the youths, Robert Reimann and David G. Gilbert, would be charged with armed robbery. Police said they confessed pulling knives on restaurant owner Loretta Bazzell and Waitress Donna Knopps and making off with $48 from a cash register.

The youths were arrested Saturday night by State Police who said they caught them breaking into a cleaning establishment. Police said the pair confessed to several other burglaries in the area.

Superintendent Resigns

GRAND HAVEN (UP) — For the first time in 12 years Municipal Hospital is looking for a new superintendent. Evelyn Jolinson who has served since 1941 and who has seen the hospital nearly tripled in size during her administration, has resigned.

Pipelines, the intricate system by which oil travels underground, totaled 168,301 miles as of January 1, 1953. Some 27,800 miles of these pipelines carry refined products to market places.

Artie Shaw's Band Cuts Discs, but Not for Public

By RICHARD KLEINER

NEW YORK (NEA) — The fabulous new sounds Artie Shaw and his revived Gramercy Five are making are going to be recorded. But don't get your hopes up—most of them won't be for sale. They're for Shaw's own amazement.

"The recording companies issue maybe six records a year on any artist," Artie said, relaxing in his bathrobe with a big boxer at his feet.

"That may keep the public happy, but it's not enough to preserve your work.

"Look, I'm 43. How do I know how long I'll be playing? Maybe in 10 years I'll want to hear what I did now. So I'm going to take the boys into a recording studio once in a while and we'll make tapes of everything we do."

There is a strong possibility that a few of these will filter out through commercial channels. Shaw is dickering with several recording companies. As with his music, he's a perfectionist about these details, too.

He's one of the few musicians to span, actively, the era from hot to cool. He says it took him a lot of hard work to learn to play the new jazz.

Music has progressed," he says. "It always does. In '38, the new thing was rhythm, drive, beat. Today the notes are more important. My '38 band couldn't play this music we play now. They just wouldn't know how.

"Today the musicians are ahead of the public. In '38, the public taste and music met, and what was new was also popular. Not now. Maybe the people will catch up in 10 years. Maybe it'll take longer."

At the moment, many people feel modern jazz "isn't pretty." Shaw gets particularly angry at that comment, "because those people's ears just aren't tuned to it." So keep Artie happy and get your ears tuned.

THE POPULAR SIDE: Robert Merrill objects to the term "long-hair"—he says, "It's only long-hair if you don't understand it."

An album of show tunes, including everything but the show, is "The Body in the Seine." It's a complete score to an unwritten, unplotted and unproduced musical comedy. If you have a spare plot around, see if this fits. Pleasant listening on the record, issued by Alden-Shaw Productions.

ON THE CLASSICS: A new classical label is Angel Records, the U. S. outlet for an old English firm. They have avilable an extensive list of operas and orchestral works.

Out of the great musical past, RCA-Victor brings a magnificent addition to its Collector's Issue label. It's Rachmaninoff and Kreisler in a matchless piano-violin reading of Greig's Sonata No. 3 in C-Minor and Schubert's Sonata in A, originally recorded about 1928.

SUREFIRE: "I'll Never Stand in Your Way" (Joni James, MGM)

SLEEPER: "The Love for Three Oranges" (Ralph Marterie, Mercury).

GOOD ONES: "Off Shore" (Richard Hayman, Mercury); "Secret Love" (Doris Day, Columbia); "Ev'rybody Loves Saturday Night" (Percy Faith, Columbia);

"Don't Get Around Much Anymore" (Patti Page, Mercury); "We Will Always Be Sweethearts" (Shirley Harmer, MGM); "Caribbean" (David Caroll, Mercury).

POP ALBUMS: Hugo Winterhalter goes semi-classical on a fine RCA-Bluebird 12-incher. One side is Gershwin's Rhapsody in Blue, and the other is excerpts from Grofe's Grand Canyon Suite.

For dancing, try the newest in the inexpensive Lion "Designed for Dancing" series. This one has Tommy Tucker playing some of the top pops.

Jail Samba Dancers With Red-Hot Check

OKLAHOMA CITY (UP)—Police arrested Frank Ashworth, 18 and his brother Howard, 27, of Beaver, Utah, while they were doing the samba at the local Arthur Murray dance studio.

The Ashworth boys' samba steps were real hot—but so was the $1,248 check they gave the studio to pay for the lessons.

Police said the pair quickly admitted a "three-month good time spree" by writing worthless checks in 15 states. They were jailed without charge awaiting FBI investigations.

Howard Ashworth explained the check here was for 75 hours of dance lessons for the two of them, adding: "We wanted the complete course. We're good dancers, but there were some Latin steps we wanted to brush up on."

'Old Man River' Booming Bigger

Freight Traffic May Pass Million Ton Mark on Mississippi

ST. LOUIS (INS) — "Old Man River," which many thought had passed its peak in the last century, is booming bigger than ever before.

Freight traffic on the middle Mississippi in May passed the million ton mark for the first time in the river's long history.

And veteran river men expect the boom to continue because of the economy of waterway transportation over highway and rail carriers.

But the modern barge traffic is far removed from the packets which plied the river in the 1800s.

Passengers are a very minor source of revenue today in operations in contrast to the last century when steamboat owners competed fiercely for tourist dollars and ornately decorated their cabins and vessels with the finest of furniture, rugs, silver and dishes.

The frieight business likewise has evolved from the packet days when cotton was the principal commodity shipped.

One of the largest vessels of the cotton era was the sidewheel J. M. White built at a cost of $300,000—a breath-taking sum in those days—and able to accommodate only 2,500 tons of cargo.

The modern steel towboat built at costs upward of $500,000 has the latest navigational devices, radar and radio-telephone and many of the conveniences of home, including in some instances air-conditioning.

Its powerful diesel-powered screw propellors enable it to push as many as 15 loaded barges upstream.

Petroleum products are the principal cargo of the modern tows on the river.

The haul of the 1,702 vessels which set the cargo record last month, carried more than 500,000 tons in this class.

Specially-built barges handle the pireleum items, hopper barges carry coal and other bulk items and covered, weatherproofed barges ply the river with loads of grain and other items needing protection from the weather.

The larger shipments carried by the modern equipment goes in a controlled river channel deep enough so that an increasing number of ocean-going vessels are sailing upstream from the Gulf of Mexico. This contrasts sharply with the slow-moving, shallow and meandering river which faced the pilots of a hundreds years ago.

The barge tow today sometimes reaches 1,100 feet in length—longer than the Queen Mary—and carries as much as 22,000 tons on a trip. Still the integrated tow moves along around the clock 6 to 12 miles an hour, about the speed of the average packet in the days of the publicized race between the Natchez and the Robert E. Lee.

Anti-TB Drugs Let Patients Go Home Early

NEW YORK (AP) — Potent new anti-tuberculosis drugs can cut in half the hospital stay of many TB patients, with home treatment completing the cure, four Pittsburgh physicians said today.

This go-home-early method seems to work successfully for persons who respond to drugs, they told the American Public Health Assn.

Of 173 men and women sent home early, only seven later had to return to the hospital, said Doctors Merle Bundy, George E. Martin, I. Hope Alexander and Carl C. Kuehn, Pitsburgh Department of Health.

For the persons who react well to the drug, the usual long hospital stay is being reduced 50 per cent. But, they said, this new treatment method needs further study to determine its real value.

Patients visit a clinic each month and careful tabs are kept upon them in their home treatment.

Isoniazid, streptomycin and Pas are the drugs used in the hospital and continued at home for one to two years. No bad reactions have been noted from the daily doses of these drugs, Dr. Bundy said.

Of 111 patients taking isoniazid at home, only three failed to stay well.

Of 62 taking streptomycin and Pas, four had to return.

Baby Girl Born to ROK Woman in POW Camp

PANMUNJOM (AP)—The 332 South Korean war prisoners who refuse to go home became 333 this week, the custodian Indian command said today.

An Indian spokesman said a "pro-Communist" mother—one of five women in the group—gave birth to a girl Tuesday.

The spokesman said the baby is not "political" but will follow her mother wherever she goes.

3D Pictures Prove Worth in Damage Suit

TOWSON, Md. (UP)—What is believed to be the first use of three-dimension photographs in a damage suit was part of a case in Baltimore County Circuit Court which resulted in $4,000 in verdicts yesterday for victims in an automobile accident.

Hyman A. Pressman, attorney for the plaintiffs, said he used the 3D pictures because they gave the jury a much clearer view of the scene and the damage done to the vehicles in a collision.

A special viewer for the 3D pictures was passed from juror to juror after the procedure had been approved by Judge Howard Murray. A verdict was reached after only 10 minutes deliberation.

'Tired of Running,' Detroiter Surrenders

DETROIT (UP)—A 22-year-old ex-convict walked into police headquarters Thursday and asked to see someone "about a holdup."

When led into the office of Inspector Carl Falk, he laid an automatic on the desk and said:

"You're looking for me. I'm broke and tired of running."

After identifying himself as Harold J. Woodin, he confessed a series of robberies. They included a $400 holdup of a Highland Park loan company last Oct. 28.

Ferris Taymore, 23, who Woodin claims was his former accomplice, was arrested earlier and is being held in Wayne County Jail pending trial.

Although the human brain reaches almost its maximum weight at the age of seven, it continues to grow very slowly until age 20 when the weight begins to decline.

Pleads Guilty; Judge Decides He's Innocent

GRAND RAPIDS (UP)—Robert H. Albright, 21, of Newaygo, pleaded guilty but the judge found him innocent.

Albright on Oct. 23 pleaded guilty to charges of larceny by conversion of an automobile and an outboard motor.

He was without counsel and Circuit Judge Dale Souter refused to accept the plea and entered innocent pleas on behalf of Albright.

In two separate trials Thursday Judge Souter found Albright innocent on both counts and declared in his opinion there was no intent to commit a crime in Albright's actions.

"Brassard" which now refers to a badge on the upper arm originally meant a piece of armor for the upper arm.

Detroit Takes Honors for Biggest UF Goal

DETROIT (UP) — Detroit claimed today that its pledge of $13,508,000 to its United Foundation Torch Fund is the largest ever given by any city in a single charity campaign.

The goal was $13,100,000. News that the goal had been oversubscribed by $408,000 was announced to volunteer workers at a "victory dinner" last night.

Half of American women who reach age 65 will live 15 years longer and a third of them will live for 20 years.

Ionia Free Fair Shows Deficit of $8,500 for Run

IONIA (UP)—The Ionia Free Fair showed an $8,535 loss in its 36th annual run last August, President Allan Williams reported today.

It was the first time the fair showed a loss since depression days. Williams said banning of games of chance and bingo on the midway was the biggest factor in the deficit.

About 90 per cent of Ohio's total area is devoted to agriculture, and about four-fifths of this amount is in improved land.

LOS ANGELES (UP) — Childhood sweethearts in Rockville, Ind., Mr. and Mrs. Samuel F. M. Puett, were married there 53 years ago.

State Is Cool to Army's Offer

Lease of Percy Jones for Mental Hospital Under Study

LANSING (UP)—The state mental health director was cool today to the Army's offer to lease Percy Jones hospital near Battle Creek to the state for a mental institution.

The offer was conditioned upon the Army's right to take the hospital back "on short notice" and on the state not making any "major alterations" which would prevent its being reconverted quickly to Army use.

Gov. Williams, to whom the Army offer was made, withheld comment until he could talk to the Mental Health commission.

Director Charles F. Wagg said "we will have to have an interpretation of what they mean by 'on short notice.' We could probably put 2,000 patients in Percy Jones but if we had to move them quickly where would we put them?"

Wagg said "we had 550 patients in the old Army hospital at Sault Ste. Marie but we had a year's notice to move from there and even then we were hard pressed to find a place to put the patients. If this were a small institution it might be different, but it's a tremendous place."

Wagg said state officials have not inspected the hospital since before the Korean War and did not know what changes the Army had made in it in the interim. This would control the amount of alteration the state might have to make to fit the institution for a mental hospital he said.

The Army has closed the Percy Jones Hospital as a military installation.

$3 Bill Queer? Not So, Boasts Kentucky Man

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UP)—Anything may turn up on Friday the 13th, including a $3 bill. It's genuine.

Such assurances from the Treasury Department were welcome news to Wilson K. Beatty. The attorney has a client—not identified—who put up $300 for the bill, then began wondering about its authenticity.

He was told the certificate, about the size of today's greenbacks, was issued on government authority by the Mechanics Bank of Georgetown, D. C., Nov. 26, 1852. Printed only on one side, it has a bald eagle on the face and a symbol of the 13 original states.

Now that Beatty knows the bill isn't counterfeit, he's carrying it clipped to a small poster which asks:

"What's so queer about a three dollar bill"

Toscanini to Be Back

NEW YORK (UP)—Arturo Toscanini will return as conductor of the NBC Symphony Orchestra Sunday, Nov. 22, the network announced today. Toscanini, ill with influenza, missed the initial radio broadcast Nov. 8. Pierre Monteux will conduct again this Sunday.

Sues to Allow Girl's Absence

Father Wants School to Excuse Daughter to Attend Ballet Lessons

NORRISTOWN, Pa. (AP)—A father who says he already spent $10,000 on the career of his 11-year-old ballerina daughter is suing to get hes excused from school one afternoon a week for dancing lessons.

George Rapine, proud father of dancing Betty Anne, instructed his attorney, Leonard F. Markel, yesterday to sue the school board of nearby Conshohocken.

The board recently ruled that pretty, blue-eyed Betty Anne could no longer be absent from her fifth grade classes at public school to attend dancing lessons in New York Wednesday afternoons.

The youthful ballerina is no ordinary child, her father said. She has appeared on the New York stage and at the Steel Pier in Atlantic City. He said the only time open for her on the New York dancing instructor's schedule is Wednesday afternoon.

Her father, a rigging contractor, said Betty Anne attended the Miquon School, a private institution near her home the first year. Last year she transferred to the Conshohocken public school.

Since Rapine had already paid her dance tuition, Dr. Robert C. Landis, Montgomery County superintendent of schools, decided she could cut classes Friday afternoon —her dance schedule at that time.

School officials said this year is another matter. Betty Anne has used up the six half holidays permitted under the school code and the board solicitor, Stanley B. Cooper, said the board has no right to grant further absences.

Friday the 13th Club Pokes Fun at Superstitions

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Friday the 13th once again called together a group of 14 Pittsburgh businessmen who poke fun at persons who believe the day brings bad luck.

The "Friday the 13th Club of Pittsburgh" meets for luncheon today and the program calls for entering the dining room by walking under a ladder, sitting beneath open umbrellas at tables decorated black cats, throwing salt on the floor, breaking mirrors and paying for meals with $2 bills.

The club was formed a few years ago. Its officers are 13 vice presidents and a vice president in charge of vice presidents.

PHS Biology Club Pays Visit to MSC

A trip to Michigan State College highlighted the meeting of the Pontiac High School Biology Club Nov. 7.

The trip, which was led by Mr. John Youngpeter and Miss Marion Lehner, covered an interesting field of activities.

The junior biologists left school at 7 a. m., and upon arrival at East Lansing heard lectures by the director of the Education Institute of Ford Motor Co. and Carl Stiles, college professor.

Displays were viewed in the Science building and PHS'ers also saw a movie on marine life.

Nov. 19 was announced as the last date on which students may join the Biology Club. The organization is open to all Pontiac High School students.

Fourth Candidate Enters State Senatorial Race

CADILLAC (UP) — Attorney Richard Crandall, former Wexford County prosecutor, said today that he would enter the 27th district senatorial race, making a total of four announced candidates for the post, who seek to succeed the late Sen. Felix H. Flynn.

Others who have announced are John Minnema, Traverse City, William Blanchard, Traverse City and T. Walter Kelly of Cadillac.

Williams Asks for Tax Aid for Disposal Plants

LANSING (UP)—Gov. G. Mennen Williams today urged Michigan members of Congress to support any legislation that would give tax relief to companies that build anti-pollution facilities.

The governor said he believed industries would step up construction of waste disposal plants if permitted to make special tax deductions.

Boston May Banish Strip-Tease Acts

BOSTON (UP)—Boston, a stronghold for burlesque for more than a half century, may never again be thrilled by the tease of the stripper.

The Board of Censors yesterday ordered the city's two burlesque theatres—the 108-year-old Old Howard and the larger Casino—closed for the rest of the year because their shows were too dirty.

Mayor John B. Hynes, as spokesman for the board, said he didn't know whether the licenses would be renewed. And he hinted very broadly that if burlesque is allowed to return, the stripper will have to do a fadeout.

Strip-teasers have been outlawed from Boston night clubs for more than two years.

The Old Howard and Casino theatres were ordered closed as a result of a municipal court conviction last week of three strip-teasers and the managers of both theatres on charges they presented and participated in immoral shows.

Mrs. Campbell had been ill a month.

She was a native of Bancroft, in Shiawassee County, and was the widow of William P. Campbell, a Detroit businessman and four-term member of the State House of Representatives.

Hal Boyle Says:

Hard to Win in Daydream Against Modern Business

NEW YORK (AP) — Your daydreams grow up as you do.

This fact is giving me quite a headache. My daydreams used to be fun. Now they're hard mental work. To tell you the truth, my daydreams are beginning to give me nightmares.

The troubles is, I always imagine I have a big rival in my daydream, and the dream itself is the drama of how I become a hero and show my rival up as a bum.

Here, for example, is my oldest and most favorite daydream:

Dawn is breaking on the plains as I ride up to a small campfire, dismount stiffly from my tired pony, and put down my smoking rifle.

A buckskin-clad figure doing by the fire throws off a blanket and looks up drowsily. It is Buffalo Bill himself.

"Where you been, Hal?" he asks.

"Just shot me 1,276 buffalo," I reply curtly.

"In the dark?"

"Of course, in the dark. Any man who shoots a buffalo by daylight is a coward."

"You can't call me that," says Buffalo Bill, reaching for his holster.

"Draw, darn you, draw!" I say, my gun hand hovering like eagle talons. Buffalo Bill looks in my steel gray eyes and sees death in them.

"I was just a-jokin'," he says lameley.

"Well, I wasn't," I answer shortly. "When you kill buffalo, you sell 'em to the railroad work gangs, don't you?"

"Yeah," says Buffalo Bill. "It's just a living with me."

"Well, you know what I'm going to do with my 1,276 buffalo, Bill? I'm a-going to give 'em all free to the pioneer mothers of America so they can feed their kids. Why do you suppose they all call me 'Buffalo Hal, the mother's pal'?"

Bufallo Bill is so ashamed he covers up his head with his blanket like a prairie dog. End of dream.

Well, about the time of my 40th birthday this daydream began to get a bit threadbare. I got ashamed of making poor Old Buffalo Bill feel ashamed.

I looked around for a new rival in my daydreams and found him in "Real Estate Bill." And I've had nothing but woe since.

This "Real Estate Bill" is William Zeckendorf, the fabulous Manhattan dealer who sold the United Nations site to John D. Rockefeller Jr., at a two million dollar profit.

Bought the top of Nob Hill out in San Francisco, and owns or controls acreage and buildings in 35 states and three foreign countries.

Zeckendorf doesn't seem to know himself where his next tremendous deal is coming off.

But in my daydreams I was making him look like a minor league cemetery lot salesman.

Then I made the mistake of dreaming I bought the Chrysler Building while Bill gnashed his teeth and moaned, "Hal, you outbid me again."

Well, the next day I picked up the paper and—bless me!—Zeckendorf actually had purchased the Chrysler Tower and two other skyscrapers for 52 millions.

Since then he has announced plans for a multi-million dollar garage, a 35 million dollar shopping center, and he gave away $500,000 to Long Island University as a kind of afterthought.

What can you dream up against a guy like that? Last night I had this nightmare:

"Well, Bill," I said, "I bought Grant's Tomb, the Statue of Liberty, the Eiffel Tower, and the Washington Monument this morning. Think I'll air-condition 'em all—except the Eiffel Tower, of course. What'd you buy today—another Broadway shooting gallery?"

And Bill just quietly tossed over a newspaper that had this headline: "Zeckendorf purchases U. S. Mint, announces plans to modernize currency."

I woke up sweating. Guess I'd better go back to dreaming about Old Buffalo Bill. He can't fight back.

Two Boys Show the 'Spirit of St. Louis'

GRANITE CITY, Ill., (AP) — A couple of youngsters spent a day watching activity at a nearby airport, slept in a plane overnight and then decided to take a solo ride.

Here's what happened:

The youths, 12 and 13 years old, got the Piper Cub started, taxied to one end of the field and turned for the takeoff. They got the plane slightly off the ground but it smashed into two parked planes. No one was injured but damage to the planes was estimated at $1,500.

Airport owner Omar Midyett said the boys told him they spent the night in the plane because they couldn't catch a ride back to their St. Louis homes. They decided on the flight when they woke up.

Juvenile authorities turned them over to their parents.

Carney in Formosa on Inspection Tour

TAIPEH, Formosa (AP)—The U.S. chief of naval operations arrived today on an inspection tour and declared "the American prople recognize Formosa as one of the great political and geographic bastions of the free world."

Adm. Robert B. Carney handed newsmen a written statement as he stepped from this plane.

"Because aggression could only initially come by sea and by air," the statement said, "the waters aroudn Formosa and the air above those waters constitute a frontier which must not be breached."

Carney is to meet Chinese Nationalist President Chiang Kai-shek this evening. He was met by top Nationalist and U. S. officials.

Freed Theft Suspect Asks to Be Re-Jailed

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—William George Reader, free on $2,500 bond here in a car theft case, walked into the U. S. marshal's office and asked to be put back in jail.

Marshal Rex Hawks said the 28-year-old Reader explained that his sweetheart had taken up with his best friend and he feared he would do her violence if allowed to remain free.

Hawks accommodated the young man.

Identical Stunt Fails to Bluff Bandit Twice

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Louis A. Klute pulled a fast one on a bandit once but it backfired the second time.

Klute, 78-year-old collector for a real estate firm, stepped on a floor button which sounded like a buzzer in a rear room when the bandit entered his office last week. The man fled.

But the same bandit returned yesterday and knew what to expect.

Klute said he was a little farther from the buzzer and the man beat him to it, jerking the wires loose. Then Klute was hit on the head.

The bandit escaped with $91 from an open safe.

Ferguson Predicts Dynamic Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Hmomer Ferguson (R-Mich) forecasts that the Republican administration will have a "real, dynamic program" to actt on in the near future.

Ferguson made the prediction yesterday after a conference with President Eisenhower.

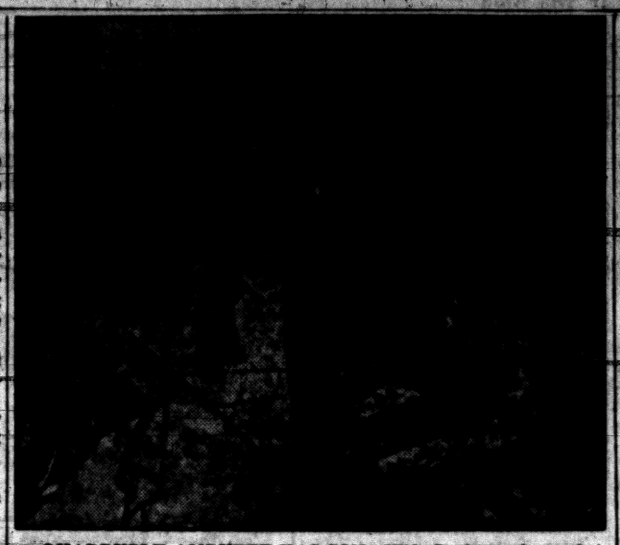

Ferguson, chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee, said that the program would be ready to go when Congress meets in January.

Ferguson said that he went to the White House to tell Eisenhower about his recent tour of Michigan. He said he told Eisenhower that he found the feeling that confidence in the government "is being restored and has been restored."

Ferguson added that generally speaking business conditions in his home state are good.

Motorist in 'Trouble' Pulls Off $176 Trick

HOUGHTON LAKE (AP)—To Detroiter Raymond Beavers it looked as if a fellow motorist was in trouble, so he went back and succeeded as much yesterday in Maple Valley.

"Uh, uh," the other fellow said. "You're the one in trouble."

Wherewith, Beavers told State Police, the man pulled a pistol, marched him off the road, took $176 from his wallet and threw his auto keys into roadside bushes.

The man ran to his own car, slammed down the hood and took off.

War Kills 2 Sons, Third Faces Draft

RALEIGH, N. C. (UP)—J. N. Inman of Columbus County wrote North Carolina selective service headquarters:

". . . I want you to know that I lost two sons during World War II. . . . I feel that I have done enough. I have two sons left and you are about to take one of them. If this boy is drafted, I feel I will lose my wife from grief and I don't know whether I can stand it or not. The boy about to be drafted is 21 years of age and is married and has one child.

"I will thank you to advise me what I can do. Will it do me any good to write or wire the President of the United States, and if I do so, do you believe it will be brought to his attention."

Col. Hugh T. Upton of selective service explained that the laws provides for deferment of an only surviving son where one or more of his brothers was killed in war or died later of injuries suffered in war.

"But you can't help feeling deep sympathy," Upton said of the case.

Jap Confesses Stabbing Army Civilian in Tokyo

TOKYO (UP)—Police said today a 21-year-old Japanese man arrested today while dressed in female attire admitted stabbing James Pearce, a Department of Army civilian, in a Tokyo park early yesterday.

INTENSE PAIN OF ARTHRITIS GONE THANKS TO O-JIB-WA

Mrs. Laura Beckum, 26932 Hopkins, Inkster, Michigan, tells what O-JIB-WA BITTERS did for her after five years of painful suffering from rheumatism and arthritis.

"For over five years I suffered the intense pains of rheumatism and arthritis in my right hip and arms. During that time, I tried many medicines, but with very little results. I felt awfully bad and became quite discouraged. I couldn't even lift my arm to my head, and going up and down stairs was both painful and difficult. Probably through my suffering, I became very nervous and didn't know where to turn for help. On day I read of O-JIB-WA BITTERS in my newspaper, and thought it might help me as it had so many others. I was delighted with the results, for in what seemed no time at all, my pains left me and my rheumatism and arthritis was greatly improved. O-JIB-WA also gave me lots of pep, settled my stomach and my nerves are much better. Because O-JIB-WA has helped me more than anything else, I have recommended it to many people. I don't think there is a better medicine made than O-JIB-WA BITTERS."

Mrs. L. Beckum

'Farm Program to Boost GOP'

Sen. Case Says Ike Plan Will Assure Victory in 1954 Elections

WASHINGTON (UP)—Sen. Case (R-SD) said today he expects the Eisenhower administration to recommend to Congress in January a farm program that will assure Republican control of Congress after next year's elections.

Case said "there is no doubt" but that the farm issue would decide the elections.

Case conferred yesterday with Agriculture Department officials after spending the past month talking to farmers and livestock men in his normally Republican state.

He had no criticism for Secretary of Agriculture Benson, as a few Republican congressmen and many Democrats have had. He praised the recent departmental reorganization by Benson which among other things revamped the soil Conservation Service and eliminated its regional offices. This feature touched off considerable criticism.

"I think that's a good thing," Case said in an interview. "It will place more authority in the state offices of the conservation service and bring it that much closer to the farmers."

Case agreed with Benson's critics that there is considerable dissatisfaction among farmers because of the drop in farm prices and incomes and lower prices for beef cattle.

"But beef prices have been fairly good for the past month and there has been some increase while hog and corn prices have remained strong," he said.

Case said he has "some ideas" as to the program the administration's will offer at the new session but could not discuss them now.

Actor Dreams of Ball Fields

William Bendix Longs for Crowd's Roar, Not Klieg Lights, Camera

NEW YORK—Television star William Bendix, who portrays the bumbling Chester A. Riley on the TV situation comedy series, The Life of Riley could be termed a successful but disappointed man.

Despite the fame which has come to him in motion pictures and more recently in television, Bendix is a thwarted baseball player. Let others dream of klieg lights and television cameras, Bendix always dreams of beautiful green baseball diamonds and the roar of the crowd.

Like his television counterpart, he dreams great dreams—but in real life Bendix is able to make a lot more of his dreams come true than he ever manages in the Riley menage.

Born Jan. 14, 1906, in New York City, one of three sons of a Spanish American War veteran, Bill entered the wholesale grocery business at a fairly early age, determined to make it his life's work. In 1936 the business folded, and a chance affiliation with the Federal Theatre suddenly brought him into an entirely new field.

At the age of 16 Bill had participated in amateur theatricals at the Henry Street Settlement House, so his Federal Theatre experience was not his first. He went into six different Broadway shows, however before scoring a tremendous success in Saroyan's "The Time of Your Life."

In May, 1941, Bendix was signed by MGM for the role of the tavern keeper in "Woman of the Year" starring Katherin Hepburn. He has since appeared in dozens of leading roles in top-flight films, notably "The Hairy Ape" and "Detective Story."

In 1944 Bendix began his radio interpretation of the role of Chester A. Riley, the blustering, good-natured riveter and devoted family man of "The Life of Riley." During the next five years the family comedy series became a regular radio network feature and on Jan. 2, 1953 Bendix came to TV in the Riley characterization.

Back in the days when he was still in the grocery business (he was 30 years old before he became an actor) Bendix married his childhood sweetheart, Theresa Stefanooty. They have two children, Lorraine and Stephanie, and live now on a two-acre place in Encino, Calif., in the San Fernando Valley.

Fire Department Keeps Lansing Man Alive

LANSING (AP) — Harry Cove, the steadiest customer of the Lansing Fire Department, was revived by the department inhalator squad for the 100th time today.

Cove, who will be 95, Nov. 27, has suffered repeated attacks of aterio sclerosis. Each time the fire department is called and he is revived with inhalator equipment which "breathes" for unconcious persons.

Cove, then, 88, suffered his first attack in 1947. So far in 1953, he has been revived 22 times.

Fire department officials said they believed the 100th call established some kind of a record.

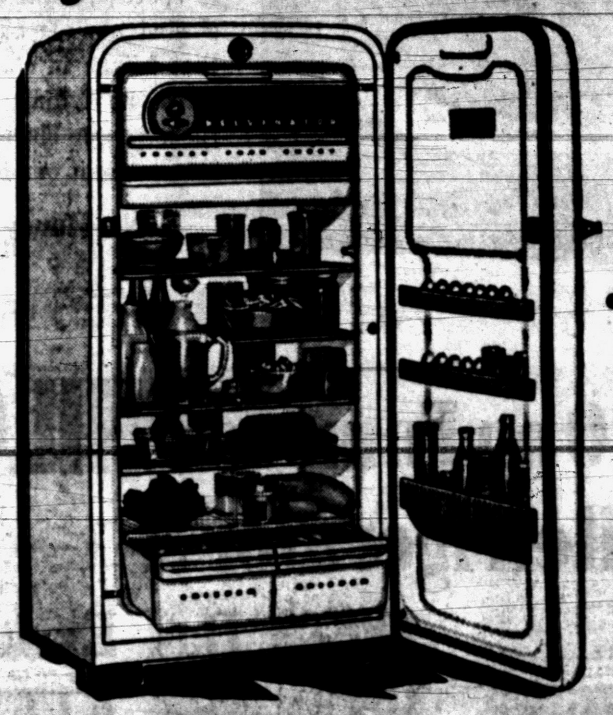

Every man on the department, they said, knows his address.

"When we get an alarm, the dispatcher just yells 'Harry Cove!' and away we go!" said one member of the inhalator squad.

There were 10,571 wildcat oil wells drilled in 1952.

Misfortune Strikes Family, Friends Pitch-In to Help

Friends and neighbors are helping turn the tide of misfortune which overtook the Harry Irwin family last weekend.

Last Friday night Irwin, his British war-bride wife, Eileen, and their five children were involved in a traffic accident on Airport road near their home at 5886 Dwight St.

Mrs. Irwin suffered severe burns over one-third of her body when the automobile caught fire, and her husband's hands were badly burned pulling his wife and children from the car.

Mrs. Irwin, still in critical condition at Pontiac General Hospital, cannot believe that her children, ranging from two to nine years in age, escaped unharmed.

Irwin, an employe of the Hawk Realty Co. in Clarkston, will not be able to work for several weeks because of his injuries.

And hospital costs, piled on top of everyday expenses for a family of seven, seemed impossible to meet until friends, neighbors and co-workers offered a helping hand.

As of today, $208 in cash donations has been turned over to the family to help pay the cost of three round-the-clock nurses caring for the mother.

Other offers of food and clothing are being gratefully accepted.

"We just don't know how to express our appreciation," Irwin said.

The children are being cared for by Irwin's sister, Mrs. Thomas McCracken of 105 W. Sheffield, who has worries of her own.

Her three-year-old daughter, Dessie, was admitted to Pontiac General Hospital Sunday night with bronchitis and her mother, Mrs. Emma Chouinard, also was a patient at the hospital over the weekend after suffering a heart attack.

"The doctor believes it will be a long, hard pull before Eileen is back on her feet," Mrs. McCracken said.

"He thinks it would help her morale tremendously if her mother could come to visit her from England, but the family just can't bear the expense right now."

She added that the former English war bride has not seen anyone from her immediate family since she came to the United States in 1946.

Eight Long Years

Ex-Red Captive Fears Women

Wonders How He Will Hold Conversation With American Females

This is the last in a series of articles by Frank Rohrbacher Jr., a prisoner in Soviet and Hungarian slave labor camps for eight years. Today he tells how he feels about returning to the United States and wonders how he will get along with American girls after not having talked with a woman since 1945.

By FRANK ROHRBACHER JR.
As Told to
International News Service

VIENNA (INS)—In just a short time now, I will be going back to the United States, which I haven't seen since I was 6 years old.

And I will see my parents, whom I haven't seen since 1944.

It is almost impossible for me to describe how I feel. But one emotion I am sure of. I am scared stiff.

I am mortally afraid, among other things, of the American girls. Remember, until my release from the last concentration camp in September I hadn't talked with a woman in eight years.

How will I talk to the American girls? How will I ever be able to keep up a conversation with them?

I was just 19 when I was forced into the German army, while living with my parents in Hungary. All the time in the army, until I was captured by the Russians in 1945, I was in training and we were not allowed to talk with women. And of course in the concentration camps we could not talk to women.

If, on work details outside the camps, or during transfers from one place to another, a prisoner tried to talk to a woman, the punishment was severe.

So that is something I'll have to learn. To meet and talk with women.

And there are so many other things I must learn—Just learning to live as a free man frightens me, after so many years of brutalized machine treatment.

I already am learning, of course, and I will not be entirely just a creature of the camps any more when I reach New York. But there is so much to forget—to learn—to know!

America still is to me a symbol more than a reality, just as the United States is a symbol for all the enslaved people I have left behind.

Practically all the people I met and knew during those years looked to America for their hope. Many, especially in the camps, pray for war between the United States and Russia. They think that is the only chance they may have ever to be free—if American troops come and liberate them.

I cannot speak, of course, for the masses of the Russian people, or the Hungarian people. But I do know that among the oppressed with whom I was thrown together, there is nothing but burning hatred of the Communists. And many of them say it is the same "on the outside" — that the people are against their dictators.

Wherever I was during my eight years as a prisoner, I was known among my fellow inmates as "the American." And so many of them pleaded with me, "If ever you are free—tell them in America how we feel."

Sees Good Business Ahead

Chrysler Displays Complete 1954 Line, Stressing New Features, Color, Beauty

By HAROLD A. FITZGERALD
(Pontiac Press Publisher)

DETROIT—More than 700 representatives of the press were shown Chrysler's complete line of cars and trucks here Thursday.

The display was the most brilliant in Chrysler's long career and points again to the fact that 1954 promises to be an intensely competitive period in automotive development.

"Our new cars really constitute one of the most important changeovers that we have had in this company in years, and we are very proud of the style, the beauty, the color and the new fabrics which we have in these 1954 automobiles," said President L. L. Colbert, "and of course they also incorporate very important new engineering changes.

"We have the horsepower in our Chrysler cars—you may have up to 235 horsepower in some of our Chrysler models now. You may have power steering on any of our automobiles: Chrysler, Dodge, DeSoto or Plymouth.

"You may have automatic transmissions on Chrysler, DeSoto and Dodge, and Hy-Drive on Plymouth, and we have a number of other engineering features. We have many major changes in the engineering on our cars entirely apart from the style, beauty and design changes.

"Our business this year at Chrysler is very good indeed. We have already produced more than a million and a quarter cars and trucks. We are past the 1,250,000 mark in the United States and Canada. Based on the schedules that we have laid out for the rest of November and December, we will run considerably over 1,400,000 units.

"This will be within a few thousand of the largest year, production-wise, that Chrysler Corp. has ever had.

"We are in a particularly fortunate position in that field stocks are very low indeed. Introduction of these 1954 cars was delayed between three and four weeks due to the tool and die strike, and so in the third quarter we did not produce as many units as we had originally scheduled.

"That also allowed our dealers to get their stocks of 1953 cars in excellent condition for introduction of the new 1954 models.

"Our trucks are new from stem to stern," he said, "and we have what we believe is the best field stock situation of anyone else in the industry by far.

"We think that 1954 is going to be an excellent business year. Business is going to stay on a very high level.

"The automobile industry will build between five and a half million passenger cars in the year 1954 and we have full confidence in the future not only of the automobile industry but of our part in it.

"As to our sales outlook—we are looking for a bigger percentage of the business next year than this year, and we are holding on to our percentage of the business this year.

"Our confidence in the future of the automobile industry was exemplified by our agreement for the purchase of Briggs, which has to be approved by the Briggs stockholders and which is in process now.

"Automobile sales will roughly follow the general economy, and the automobile is practically a necessity in most people's minds now. Everybody who has one wants two, and those with two want three. I repeat, I think that 1954 will be an excellent year.

"If we build the number of vehicles in 1954 I am talking about, it will be the third or fourth largest year in industry's history. By the same token, the general economy would drop off some compared to 1953."

V. M. Exner, Chrysler Corp. director of styling, predicted today that advances in the science of colors and paint will make 1954 the most colorful year in the history of the automobile.

"The 1954 Chrysler Corp. lines—which feature a record choice of 58 exterior colors and 86 two-tone combinations—seem to breathe spring the year around," he said.

"On the 1954 Plymouths and Dodges, for example, the shelf of the instrument panel is receiving a coat of textured enamel resembling Scotch grain leather.

"Black has diminished to less than 10 per cent of auto production (8.2) and is ranked fifth behind light blue, light green, dark green and light gray in that order of preference," he stated.

Exner predicted that the 1954 Plymouth will establish a new area in automotive styling, introducing a series of cars whose interiors right down to the floor mats will be harmoniously keyed to their two-tone exteriors.

For instance, Chrysler Corp. will offer 15 shades of blue in its Plymouth, Dodge, DeSoto, Chrysler and Imperial cars because of blue's popularity.

"Green is the second most pleasing color," he asserted, "and consequently, light blue is the nation's first choice and green is second. The fact that gray is neutral gives it wide acceptance in the auto industry."

C. E. Buchholzer, president of the Airtemp Division of Chrysler Corp., forecast that by 1956 approximately one-half of all new homes will include year-round air conditioning.

"It is not illogical to predict that by 1956 two out of every three homes built to sell for $14,000 or more will include air conditioning," Buchholzer declared.

Expressing optimism for the future of home air conditioning units, Buchholzer said that sales of Chrysler Airtemp residential air conditioners in the first nine months of this year have exceeded 1952's record volume by 200 per cent.

Number Ahead of '52 Figures

1,991 Babies Are Born in Period, 198 More Than a Year Ago

A steady up-swing in number of patients admitted and babies born at Pontiac General Hospital continued through the first nine months of this year, according to Miss Lauretta F. Paul, hospital director.

Some 9,037 adults were admitted through September this year, compared with 8,233 during the ni months last year. Babies numbering 1,991 were born, 198 more than in the same 1952 period.

Total number of patients, including newborn, has increased from 11,129 in 1948 to 13,445 in 1952, Miss Paul said. If the current pace continues the 1953 total should be exceeded this year, she added.

"With the number of patients steadily increasing, a haphazard admissions procedure could disrupt the whole hospital schedule," Miss Paul explained. "Patients must be gotten in and out smoothly with all records complete and at hand."

A new patient takes over a room probably vacated only a half-hour previously. In that time the room has been scoured, the bed washed, the bedside cabinet cleaned, old linen removed, fresh linen supplied and other room-preparing details completed.

The admitting office has alerted the patient's family that the room is available. He arrives and is placed in the room within minutes.

Most data necessary to his hospital stay has already been supplied, when he filled out an information form sent him for his advance registration. In addition, the doctor who requested the person's admission has provided the hospital with orders for his care.

Maternity cases register at least 60 days in advance. They are sent information to aid them in preparing for the birth of their child.

An escort takes the patient to his room where orientation in hospital procedure is completed. The hospital-provided radion system is explained, and blood specimen, temperature, respiration and other information noted.

The patient's chart is prepared including progress reports, laboratory sheet and nurses notes. This is taken to the floor with the patient and forms his record.

A considerable saving in time and effort is achieved by putting the 10 parts in the admitting document together with carbon paper and typing them all at once.

A card is filed for each new admission, on which his complete record is kept available should he be admitted again.

The average hospital stay through September this year is 6.5 days. During the same nine-month span in 1952 average stay was 6.7 days.

On October first this year days spent in the hospital by adult patients numbered 58,559, compared with 55,373 in 1952. Newborn patient days increased from 9,026 in 1952 to 9,037 through September this year.

Trial of Baxter in Adjournment

Will Resume Monday; Total of 26 Witnesses Heard First Week

The second degree murder trial of Gilbert R. Baxter, 22, in the June 2 shooting of his wife, Ellen, 19, was adjourned until Monday by Oakland County Circuit Judge Frank L. Doty Thursday.

A jury of nine women and three men will decide the case which opened Monday.

Chief Assistant Prosecutor George F. Taylor called 22 witnesses to the stand and defense attorneys Carl Roeser of Birmingham and Robert Columbo of Detroit called four others including Baxter and his mother, Mrs. Helen Baxter.

Baxter, who maintains his wife was shot accidentally with a hunting rifle following an argument in their home, is free on $2,500 bond.

West Opens Travel for German Zones

BONN, Germany (AP)—The three Western occupation powers have decided to permit free travel between Communist East Germany and West Germany, Allied officials said today.

A note to the Soviets announcing this step is now being drafted by the Allied high commission, they said, for delivery to Soviet high commissioner Vladimir Semyenov within a few days.

The Allies will abolish the requirement that East Germans must possess interzonal passes to cross West Germany.

Dad Beholdin' to Son for Old Man's Darlin'

By BILLY ROSE

A couple of weeks ago I went up to Boston to see "Kismet," the new musical starring Alfred Drake. As the crowd came out during intermission, I asked the house manager if there were any celebrities in the audience.

BILLY ROSE

He pointed out a couple of Saltonstalls, a pair of Pecks and a stray Aldrich. Then, as a stylish looking couple passed us, he said, "Remind me to tell you about them when the show is over. There may be a column in it for you . . ."

"You'd better not use their real names," he said later that night over a cup of coffee. "That is, if you figure on ever coming back to Boston."

"All right," I said. "I'll call them the Allenbys. That sounds like Back Bay."

"There's an amusing story behind their marriage," said the manager. "The wife was born Eunice Murphy, and her dad was and is a bricklayer.

"The father of the Allenby boy, however, not only rates with the Cabots and Lowells — he owns the bank where they keep their money. Nevertheless, old man Allenby practically forced his son to marry the bricklayer's daughter . . ."

As the manager told it, about a year ago George Allenby Jr., went out to a suburb to see how the work was going on a low-cost housing project his father was interested in.

There he ran into Eunice who was waiting to drive her father home and, to make a short story shorter, he fell head onver custom-built heels in love with her.

His problem, of course, was to get his father's consent to the marriage.

The boy finally hit on a notion — a plot turn he had once seen in a French movie.

From one of his friends he got the telephone number of a good-looking chick who wasn't too particular how she made an easy dollar. He went to see her, told her his problem, and offered her a substantial piece of money to help him.

Then he went around to the bank to see his father.

"I need your advice," he said. "I've been running around with a couple of girls and, believe it or not, I'm stuck on both of them. The trouble is, I don't know which one would make me a better wife."

"Let me meet both of them," said his father, "and then we can talk about it."

That night George took his dad to the flat where the good-looking chick lived, and the old boy almost jumped out of his dignity when he saw her flashy make-up and overgenerous chest.

"You'd be crazy to —" said Senior when they got to the street. "Why, she's nothing but— well, I certainly don't think you should."

Next night, George invited Eunice to have dinner at the Copley and brought along his father.

The girl, now knowing what it was all about, was, to coin a phrase, her own sweet self, and Senior was so taken by the contrast between the bricklayer's charming daughter and the mascaraed footsie that he darn near gave his son to Eunice on the spot . . .

A couple of weeks after the wedding, George told his wife what he had done. "Hope you aren't sore," he said.

"Not at all," said Eunice. "Actually, I suppose, I owe my marriage to this girl, and if you'll give me her address I'll figure out some way to make it up to her."

The very next afternoon, George's wife dropped in to see the chick at her flat.

"My husband told me what you did," she said, "and I'd like you to know how much I appreciate it. I thought — that is if you wouldn't be offended — perhaps a little check —"

"You got it all wrong, honey," said the chesty lass. "It's me what's beholdin' to you. If George hadn't looked me up, I'd never have made the acquaintance of a very generous boy friend."

She pointed to a silver frame on her dressing table.

5th Wife Walks Out on Horace Dodge Jr.

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The nine-month-old marriage of Horace Dodge Jr. and Gregg Sherwood — his fifth and her second—appeared today to be on the rocks.

The platinum blonde actress went home to her parents in Beloit, Wis., declaring that "the constant friction" of her marriage had threatened her health and that of the baby she expects in March.

Gregg accused Dodge, the multi-millionaire auto heir, of drinking constantly, locking up her clothes, hiding the car keys, accusing her of flirting and "tweaking my little dog's tail just to annoy me."

In Palm Beach, Dodge said he loved his wife and wanted the baby but "I'm not going to carry on with this monkey business." He denied doing anything to cause a separation.

Program Scheduled Dec. 5

Top-Rated Quartets to Sing Barbershop Songs in City

The blended voices of leading barbershop quartets will fill Pontiac High School auditorium Dec. 5 at 8:15 p.m., in the annual program sponsored by the Pontiac Chapter of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartet Singing in America.

Several well-known quartets are included in this year's line-up, according to Joseph W. Milosch, chairman for the affair.

Appearing will be the Singing Brocks, four youngsters from 7 to 15 years old, nationally known in the quartet field, with radio and television appearances to their credit.

Other groups include the Wolverine Quartet of Dearborn, state champions for 1953; the On-Chords of Saginaw, second place winners this year; and the Pitch Blendaires of Detroit, novice state champs.

Also scheduled to appear are the Merrimen of Lansing, past state winners; the Progressives of Detroit; and the Variety Four of Pontiac, one of the oldest quartets in the state.

The emphasis will be on gay and serious barbershop songs of the 1890s, Milosch said. Current popular and novelty songs are planned as a change of pace, he added.

Tickets are available from any member of the chapter and at Hallman's Drug Store, 457 Elizabeth Lake Rd. at Telegraph Rd.

The highly popular program usually draws a capacity crowd and Milosch advises interested persons to purchase tickets early.

For the Record

Uncle Sam Needs Long Swig of Old-Fashioned American Courage

Irene Corbally Kuhn, author of "Assigned to Adventure" and "The Enemy Within," asks what has happened to good, old-fashioned American courage.

By IRENE CORBALLY KUHN

Once upon a time an American president with guts and a full, proud understanding of American honor and American obligations to its citizens, threatened to blow the fez off every manjack in Morocco unless a kidnaped American, held for ransom, was released forthwith.

MISS KUHN

"Perdicaris alive or Raisuli dead!" was the way the ultimatum read, and the Marines, with the power and might and right of the United States government behind them, stood ready to land from the warship Brooklyn and make tripe out of Tripoli.

Needless to say, Raisuli and his Berber pirates quit. Perdicaris was delivered alive. Nobody pulled Uncle Sam's whiskers with impunity in those days.

But, kiddies, that was a long time ago, nigh on to 50 years ago, when we weren't nearly as big and strong and rich and all-powerful self-conscious as we are today.

But though we were smaller and poorer and younger, our public men were big. They were courageous Americans with fierce pride in their country's honor and their own.

That was when all an American had to depend on was his own hard hitting, straight-talking United States, not the pusillanimous, double-talking, afeard-of-its-shadow-U.N.

And now? What's the value of a young American male? What's he worth on the hoof to his government?

Not much in Korea, or in Red China, or any place where he's unfortunate enough to have got himself nabbed by the Communists or their sadistic and submissive little satellites.

There was William Vogeler, the American businessman seized in Hungary and imprisoned for more than two years.

There was William Oatis, Associated Press newsman held incommunicado in a Czechoslovakian jail for more than three years.

In each case, incidentally, a loyal, fighting wife did more to spring her man than all the striped-pants boys in the diplomatic set, those very stiff and formal characters whose official job is to maintain good relations with foreign countries.

The maintenance of relations has become more important than American lives, apparently; and the diplomats, domestic and U.N. variety both, seem to have developed permanent pernicious anemia in their red blood department.

Diplomacy has surrendered entirely to appeasement, and the collective intellect of the western world is taking a terrific beating from the Kremlin bullies and all their satellite stooges.

There are still three Americans, including two newsmen, held somewhere in Communist China after being seized in the waters off Hong Kong.

And there are our 22 tragic, weak youths who have, apparently, succumbed to Red "persuasion" and repudiated their country for communism.

If anyone of these 22 youths—and they're all barely of age—was physically wounded in battle, all the genius of medicine and surgery, all the panoply of science would be rushed into the breech to save his life, and damn the expense.

Is it not our responsibility to save their lives by reclaiming them and their minds from the sickness with which the Communists have infected them?

What Uncle Sam needs more than anything else is a good tonic, some iron injections, and a long swig of old-fashioned American courage so that they can all put up their dukes and demonstrate to the world once more that an American life is our most precious possession.

Nothing makes a bully back up faster and farther than a righteously indignant man—or a country—ready, able and willing to call his bluff with a "put up or shut up!"

33rd Ingathering Proves Pontiac Is Warmhearted Toward the Needy

Needlework Sorts Items for Charity

Mrs. H. E. Howlett Re-elected to Guild Presidency

By JUDITH CLEMENCE

The thirty-third Ingathering of the Pontiac Branch of the Needlework Guild of America Thursday proved that Pontiac residents are interested in the welfare of the needy.

As the many hundreds of bundles were brought into the First Presbyterian Church where the Ingathering was held, members of the guild worked diligently to sort clothing for the various social agencies.

There was happiness in the faces of the members as they discussed what pleasure was in store for many youngsters and grownups who would be benefitting from the philanthropic project.

Mrs. Harold E. Howlett, president of the Pontiac Branch, has led an active committee in this year's Ingathering. Section presidents who have given so generously of their time include Mrs. Henry Leonard, Mrs. Austin Esler, Mrs. L. Vaughn Garrison, Mrs. Arnold Jerome, Mrs. Harold Furlong, Mrs. William Maybury and Mrs. Howlett.

Others are Mrs. Edward Barrett, Mrs. H. B. Lowes, Mrs. Carroll Braid, Mrs. Henry Gaukler Jr., Mrs. Mac Whitfield, Mrs. O. L. Beaudette, Mrs. A. H. Harrington, Mrs. L. S. Hunt, Mrs. John Fitzgerald, Mrs. Charles Williams, Miss Barbara Mercer and Mrs. Charles Corwin.

Colored Section president is Mrs. Cora Williams, and Mrs. Lester Snell is the Auburn Heights Section president.

Mrs. John Newton is president of the Queen Mary Section which each year serves at the coffee hour following the Ingathering. The section, comprised of Scotch, English and Welsh members, contributed tea cakes, tarts, shortbreads and scones which are famous in their native countries.

Assisting Mrs. Newton Thursday were Mrs. Alex Joss and Mrs. Harvie Little.

Groups which contributed to the Ingathering were Carol Brooks Section, Stabafa, Kelsa, Amies, Camp Fire Girls, Phi Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi and Beta Theta Phi sorority's Alpha, Beta and Gamma Chapters. Beta Theta Phi is planning three complete sections next year headed by Mrs. Harold A. St. John Jr.

Also contributing were St. Frederick High School, Priscilla Club, Parent Guidance Club and Soroptimist Club of Pontiac.

Mrs. R. R. Anglemier purchased necessary garments from the money contributed.

An election of officers was held at the annual meeting, with Mrs. Howlett re-elected president and Mrs. Chauncey G. Burke chosen as first vice president.

Honorary presidents are Miss Ella Green and Mrs. H. B. Lowes. Mrs. E. A. Christian is honorary vice president.

Mrs. John W. Fitzgerald is second vice president; Mrs. Harold Furlong, third vice president, and Mrs. Harold A. Fitzgerald, fourth vice president.

Mrs. A. J. Michal is secretary and Mrs. Don Nicholie is assistant secretary. Mrs. Bertil Larson is treasurer.

Everyone participated in the Ingathering of the Pontiac Branch of the Needlework Guild of America at First Presbyterian Church Thursday. The Queen Mary Section prepared refreshments for the "coffee" under the supervision of its president, Mrs. John Newton of West Huron street (right, upper left photo). Other members photographed with her were Mrs. Frank Snover of Belmont avenue (left), Mrs. Henry Milligan of Belmont avenue (second from left) and Mrs. Harvie Little of Wall street.

PHS Players Present Sparkling Performances

Fantasy World Enfolds as Children View 'Cinderella'

By GOLDIE STAMAS

A world of fragile fantasy appeared before the enchanted eyes of Pontiac grade school youngsters yesterday. They viewed the Pontiac High Playerafters' Children's Theater production with a mixture of awe, laughter and delight as the beloved fairy tale "Cinderella" unfolded before them.

On a stage which was transformed by sheer artistry into a universe of princes and castles, "Cinderella" cast its age-old spell of witchery.

Pat Mann, in the leading role, captured a soft spot in every viewer's heart with her tender and appealing performance.

The actors, all sparkling and capable, were aided by simple, yet strikingly beautiful sets.

Mary Parrish, high school drama coach, introduced a new type of children's theater with this play. The production made no attempt at realism; it strived, in fact, achieved, an animated fantasy quality which greatly enhanced the ultimate effect.

To the youngsters, the panorama of gauze, lights and colors was breathtaking. Adults were certainly as thrilled and delighted with the fairyland world of "Cinderella" as the grade schoolers were.

The rather intricate details of "Cinderella" probably escape the casual grownup to whom the story is but a hazy memory. But one may wonder how certain feats, such as drawing the carriage with mice, were performed (By the way, this was actually accomplished on stage.)

The actions might have been clumsy; instead they were perfect.

The lighting was excellent, deftly creating flashbacks and daydreams which might have done Walt Disney credit.

The sets were colorful complements to such able performers as Jack Porritt, who created a likable picture of handsome Prince Charming.

The cast, sparkling with competent performers, included three thoroughly convincing shrews, Mary Ellen Wait as the stepmother, Carolyn Hawn and Margaret Lovely as the two wicked stepsisters displayed great animation and a definite flair for comedy.

Jack Niggeman as Roland, Esther Diem as the fairy godmother, Don Bumgardner as Curdkin and Charlyne Deeg as the Queen proved themselves versatile and capable thespians.

Mari Karen Trager adroitly enacted the role of Felica, and Leonard Barry capably played the page and Bob Crandall, the herald.

The play, which will run for one more performance today, is a gentle and loving creation of hard work, imagination and understanding on the part of all concerned.

Following the open house a colored film on "Ojibway Country" was shown by Mr. and Mrs. Howard Shelley, who took the film while traveling in northwestern Ontario last summer.

Parents took the refreshments to the various classrooms where they could talk with the teachers.

Since she is interested in children, she did volunteer work with the juvenile court in Athens, and she is now working towards a master's degree in sociology at the university, with special emphasis placed on juvenile delinquency.

Miss Mihopoulou is in this country studying under an AAUW international grant and a Fulbright travel grant.

Trim, Slim Annette Kellerman Tells How to Stay Young for 40 Years

First Pinup Credits Diet, Exercising

Keeps Figure That Rocked America in 1-Piece Swimsuit

It has been 40-odd years since Annette Kellerman introduced the one-piece bathing suit. But the figure that rocked America back in 1910 can still wear that old swimsuit—and not too snugly at that.

In those days she was a perfect 36—bust 36, waist 27, hips 36. Her weight was 123. Today her figure has varied a mere fraction.

What is the secret of her svelte figure? Miss Kellerman attributes it to "good health and reasonable exercise." Says she:

"You can grow old gracefully with proper nutrition and exercise. Too many people eat icebox leftovers, bread and potatoes instead of nourishing foods."

Miss Kellerman happesn to be a vegetarian, but she doesn't recommend it for everyone. She is an avid user of vitamins, but suggests they be prescribed only by a doctor.

She hasn't had a cold for 25 years and attributes it to her half lemon and hot water morning eye-opener. She supplements that citrus with vitamin C and also takes 25,000 units daily of vitamin A which she believes has maintained her wonderful sight.

She never has worn glasses even to read the fine print of a newspaper. Her hair is a good rich brown. Although one cannot spot a gray hair, she says, "there are a few."

Girls who are not pretty should never relax just because nature did not endow them with good looks. Develop personality, she says and you have the world in your hands. Says she:

"As far as a face is concerned, I never had a good one, but I always had personality and a joy of living. I had marvelous skin as a result of my interest in dietetics.

"Any girl can be popular if she'll develop a pleasing personality and make good health shine from her countenance."

"Jimmy Sullivan and I always have been perfectly happy. One reason is that we still consider our marriage a romance.

Miss Kellerman says proudly that she is married to the same man she wed 41 years ago in Danbury, Conn.

"I never have relaxed trying to keep youthful and interesting to him. More women could hold their spouses if they kept that in mind."

The 5 foot 5 Miss Kellerman, a native Australian, has had a varied career. She has been a vaudeville trouper, tightrope walker, accordionist, swimmer, silent screen star and ballet dancer.

She says she danced "The Dying Swan" in a 1918 war benefit at the Metropolitan Opera House, doing 64 pirouettes. Today she lectures at schools and colleges on various grooming subjects.

Everyone over 30 should do limbering-up exercises instead of heavy strenuous routines, if they'd keep their mental and physical outlook alert, she says.

Miss Kellerman offers several simple exercises as an example. (She does them with the grace and zip of a teenager, can touch the floor with the palms of her hands, and kick as high and handsome as a Radio City Rockette.) Here's how:

1. Lie on floor. Bring knees up close to chin. Relax and stretch.

2. Clasp arms behind neck. Swing head right and left as far as possible, bringing chin around to shoulder as far as possible.

3. Stand up. Touch shoulders with fingertips. Bring arms as far back as possible (this raises the diaphragm immediately). Make semicircles with the arms in that position.

4. Stand up. Put hands ou front with palms down, head up looking straight ahead. Bring arms up and around in semicircle, dropping head back, palms are then turned upward in position like a swan dive.

5. Stand up. Put hands to shoulders. Keep feet and arms in position and swing hips quickly back and forth.

6. Stand in doorway, put hands on door frames, keep body erect. Kick back and forth.

7. Put foot on chair, bringing head down to knee without bending leg. (This is in the strenuous class, she says, and should be reserved until you've progressed past the limbering stage.).

1910 . . . Annette Kellerman as she appeared in the one-piece bathing suit that shocked America.

Book Guides the Beginner on Selling by Telephone

By ANNE HEYWOOD

Some months ago, I mentioned a method of making pin money by selling magazine subscriptions over the telephone.

Many readers got in touch with me about this, and I gave them the name of the company which was interested in hiring women.

Since then, I have heard from quite a few readers who are now clearing anything from $10 to $30 a week, selling by telephone in their own homes.

One is a young mother with twin babies. One is a grandmother who doesn't get around too well and wanted the social contact the work would give her.

And one was a businesswoman who had to take a year off to take care of a sick father, and who needed some source of extra income.

Lots of women are afraid to tackle such work. They are interested in it, yes, but afraid they might not "have what it takes."

In order to answer their inquiries, I scouted around, and finally cmae across an excellent book on the subject.

It is called "How to Earn an Income Selling Products and Services by Phone," and it just fills the bill perfectly. It is written by Sally Eisenberg, who has herself sold everything from stockings to real estate by telephone.

The first chapter, called "For the Love of People," describes exactly what it takes to be successful at this kind of work.

The author quite obviously is interested in people—all kinds of people—and her analysis of why people will be cranky or pompous, unpleasant or boring, is a gem.

Also, her explanation of how to handle the types you will "meet" is an example of very intelligent psychology. If, after reading that chapter alone, you feel excited and think it would be fun—you'll make out all right.

She discusses, among other things, exactly how to word an advertisement in your local paper, and get offers from companies who have a product they want sold by telephone.

Mary Margaret McBride Says:

Taking Time to Telephone May Save a Friendship

MISS McBRIDE

This is going to be an argument against conclusion-jumping, but also, willy-nilly, a plug for the telephone.

A short time ago a friend of mine named Earl, who came originally from Ohio and has made good in the big city, wrote a book that I was intending to interview him about.

However, something I thought he'd done made me change my mind and I sent word the whole thing was off. I was pretty burned up at him and I guess he was plenty irked at me when he got my message. So the situation had all the makings of a fine, full-blown feud.

Happily, Earl obeyed an impulse to telephone me, planning probably to tell me just what he thought of me. I answered in the same gentle spirit.

But luckily before we even got started on mutual recriminations, we discovered the facts and it was clear that there was no quarrel at all, just a misunderstanding. We had a fine long conversation, a good if embarrassed laugh, and when we hung up, our friendship was intact.

Two days later I got from Earl a letter which I want to quote, for it is not only a generous admission of a nice man but there's a good moral in it.

"I think what's happened is a rather interesting study in preserving friendships," Earl began. Then he went on to tell me that when he first heard of the cancellation of our interviewing date he flew into a huff and angrily began to think about ways to get even.

"Then I suddenly had an attack of common sense, which I have too rarely, and said to myself, "This doesn't sound like Mary Margaret—why don't I call and ask her? So then I did and we smoothed it all out beautifully. I'm truly pleased that I wasn't foolish enough to wind up our friendship through not making a telephone call.

"A long time ago, I heard about a city editor who told his reporters that many a big story had been lost to the paper because they didn't make that 'one more telephone call.'

"I think maybe this same thing could be said about holding on to friendships. I guess maybe I'd better end this, because it's already beginning to sound like a sermon — or something."

Sermon or not, Earl, what you wrote sounded wonderful to me. I think I've always realized that the direct approach is best when somebody you like and trust seems to have disappointed you.

But we all need to be reminded, and who knows, maybe hearing about our coming close to a furious parting of the ways may save somebody else's valuable friendship?

So thank you, and I just hope your new book will sell a billion copies.

Couple Has Company at Mealtime

By EMILY POST

A wife tells me: "Last evening my husband was delayed at the office and as a result we had a rather late dinner. While we were eating, unexpected visitors arrived. I asked them to please wait in the living room while we finished dinner.

"When I got back to the table, my husband was quite put out with me and said that I was very discourteous to our guests for not asking them to join us. Will you please tell me if I was rude?"

Answer: If they were old friends, or in any case, if you had a sufficient amount of food to share it liberally, then your husband's suggestion would have been pleasing.

But if they were acquaintances and your menu not too plentiful, bringing them in would have been embarrassing rather than helpful. The not-too-pleasing answer is that you should have eaten as quickly as possible and joined them.

Dear Mrs. Post: My sister and I (we are twins) are planning a double wedding this winter and are puzzled as to the correct wording of the wedding invitations. Will you please give us the correct form?

Answer:

Mr. and Mrs. John Brown request the honor of your presence at the marriage of their daughters

to
Mr. Henry Grey
and Joan Anne
to
Mr. James Green, etc.

(Put the girls' names in the order that they are usually spoken of.)

Dear Mrs. Post: My parents will soon celebrate their golden wedding anniversary, and I would like to give a party for them. However, my brother, who is in the Army, will not be able to be home at that time.

Would it be proper to give this party several months later when he will be home? I'm sure mother and dad would be a lot happier if he were there.

Answer: While very unusual not to have it on the day, it would surely be understood if they choose to wait.

Boy Has Fun, Can Follow Cookie Rule

Duane Baumgras, Likes Baking Them, Frosts 'em Too

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

The women at a suburban church will have to look to their cooking laurels. In a baking contest held recently the winner was a 10-year old boy, Duane Baumgras.

We talked with Duane's mother who told us he has been cooking for two or three years; last Christmas he decorated all the holiday cookies.

His entry was a last-minute one. He had often made these sugar cookies before, but did not know about the contest until a few hours before the deadline.

Lest anyone think that Duane's only interest is in food, we'll tell you that he has skied since the age of three and also is proficient in archery. On the side he raises ducks and tropical fish, and paints.

FROSTED DROP COOKIES

½ cups sour milk
¾ cup shortening
2 eggs, well beaten
4 cups flour

Drop by teaspoon onto well greased baking sheet. Bake in 425 oven 10 to 12 minutes. When cool frost with Butter Frosting and sprinkle with colored sugar. Top with walnut half.

Butter Frosting

⅓ cup butter or margarine
1½ cups powdered sugar
2 to 3 tablespoons milk
Vanilla
Dash of salt

Lad Displays Decided Interest in Girl, Yet He Is Rumored to Be Going Steady

By ELIZABETH WOODWARD

"Dear Miss Woodward: When I first laid eyes on him I liked him! One of my best girl friends introduced him to me, and I've since been told that he is going steady with a very nice girl.

"But that's what I'm finding hard to believe! Whenever I see him around he comes over to talk to me and fool around.

"He asks to walk me home at night, and when I'm not around he asks my friends where I am. He's a problem to me, and I'd appreciate your advice!"

He's going through all the motions of a boy who's attracted to a girl, isn't he? He seeks you out enthusiastically and consistently — for all the world as though he liked you a lot, wanted to know you better, even start dating together.

And no wonder you're tantalized and mixed up. You like him, and have from the start, so you want with all your heart to respond to his attentions. You want to encourage him to ask you for dates.

Yet you don't dare. There's that other girl. Maybe if you let your interest show you'd find out he only meant his as fooling around. Then where would you be? Out on the end of a limb, nursing your wounds.

It's a problem, yes. But what can you do but follow the line of least resistance? There's nothing really positive you can do to change the climate. So why not go on enjoying his attentions just as though you had a right to?

After all, he hasn't told you about any other girl, so she's only a rumor. If he seeks you out it's because he wants to. If he wants dates with you he'll have to untangle his other alliances — that's up to him — it's a thing you can't even mention.

Act as though it were quite OK for you two to be friends. It might just encourage him to declare a new deal for himself.

"Dear Miss Woodward: "For as long as I can remember I have liked Jim. I've just found out from his sister that he thinks I'm a good kid and likes me, but would never ask me for a date.

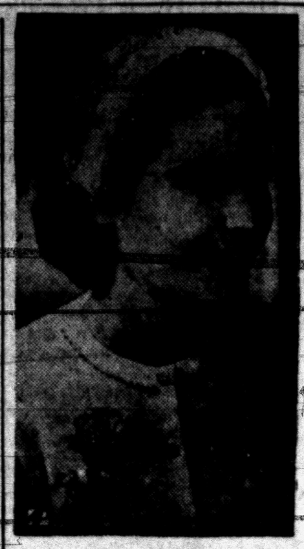

"What can I do to show him that I'm crazy about him and would give anything for a date with him?"

You apparently feel that if Jim knew of your blazing torch it would change his entire attitude toward you. So you want the good news to reach his ear.

Funny, but I have a distinct feeling it wouldn't change things one bit. He has his own ideas about you — he has you cubbyholed in a definite section of his mind and affection. He's not likely at the moment to shift you around.

But his "would never ask her for a date" is like a lot of other definite pronouncements I've heard. Many indicate a very positive mind about to change!

Of course, it may take time. So enjoy being with him when he's around, and save your fancy frenzies for the moment when he decides to give you the big break.

Homemade Yule Cards Capture Season's Cheer

By ELIZABETH HILLYER

Talent and skill come in handy for making Christmas cards. But more important is that special love of Christmas that makes you happy to spend hours with the scissors and paste pot, just to send extra warm, personal greetings.

Designs that are simple to execute can turn out to be pretty special to look at.

Here are starter ideas, but your own improvisions will suit you better, and these may be only the sparks for entirely different ideas of your own.

Gather up an assortment of sequins and bigger, fancier spangles that can now be bought in any variety store, red or green crinoline, red or green paper, ribbons, a box of gold letters and a tube of strong, colorless cement.

Use the heaviest writing paper or ask a stationer to order extra heavy paper used for printed announcements with envelopes to match.

Three cards sketched begin with a large sheet of paper folded twice. The other, longer and narrower, can be made of paper that comes with no envelopes because the card fits a business envelope, No. 10 size, which is available anywhere.

Cut a pattern first for the tree or the Christmas stocking, or a boot, a mitten, a bell or a tree ornament. Use the pattern to guide the cutting of the shape in both paper and crinoline.

The paper and crinoline stocking or tree shape might both be red or both green, or the paper might be green and the crinoline red, or vice versa.

Cement the paper shape on the card first and the crinoline shape over it at one side, then add a shower of sequins and fancy spangles.

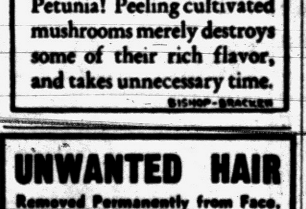

The photo folder is no trick to whip up and is very effective. Satin ribbonette makes a frame for the snapshot of the baby or family group, two strips of red and two of green, cut and fitted mitre-fashion at the corners.

The snap is mounted inside, on the back of one layer of the top of the double folder, and the layer above it is cut out to show it.

Use ribbonette, which is fairly stiff, rather than limp ribbon, and you might like to add a few spangles.

Ribbonette in shades of green from chartreuse to the deepest green are cemented on the front, over the fold and half way down the back of the last card, and it is finished off with gold letters and red and magenta spangles.

Manners MAKE FRIENDS

It was a newcomer who was talking. "We love it here," she said. "People are so friendly. And we have such nice neighbors." That woman may be a newcomer but she won't be an outsider for long. She is enthusiastic about her new home and so those she meets are likely to be enthusiastic about her. It's the woman who compares a new city unfavorably with the one she left who makes everyone she meets wonder:

"If she doesn't like it here—why doesn't she go back to where she came from?"

Authorizes Borrowing

YPSILANTI (AP) — The board of education has authorized the borrowing of $50,000 to meet its monthly payroll, pending receipt of State aid. Federal aid was cut off after cancellation of the aircraft contract with Kaiser Motors Co. A new operating tax will yield the necessary funds with the start of 1954.

Hindu Herb Effective in Heart Disease

DENVER (AP) — Heart specialists from 34 states were told yesterday of an ancient Hindu herb which is proving "very promising" as a treatment for heart disease.

The herb, called rauwolfia serpentina, produces a sedative effect and lowers high blood pressure, according to Dr. Kenneth G. Kohlstaedt of Indianapolis, research director for the Eli Lilly Co., a drug-manufacturing firm, and professor of medicine at the University of Indiana.

The doctors are attending a week-long conference on heart and blood vessel diseases.

All 48 if the states grant some form of property tax exemption to institutions maintained for educational, religious or charitable purposes.

U. N., Reds Back to Plan Parley

Top Delegates Resume Discussions for Korean Peace Conference

PANMUNJOM (AP) — Top U. N. and Red negotiators return tomorrow to discuss plans for a Korean peace conference after a week's recess while staff advisers worked in secret on an agenda.

The advisers ended a series of six secret meetings today but refused to give any information on the results. However, they apparently reached some sort of agreement since the top delegates were called back.

Meanwhile, Gen. John E. Hull, U. N. Far East commander, said in Korea he would "absolutely" press for the release of all remaining anti-Red Korean and Chinese war prisoners on Jan. 22 if the already late conference hasn't begun by then.

By this, Hull meant the U. N. would object to any Red claim that any prisoners be held longer for any reason.

The truce agreement specifies that all unrepatriated POWs be released as civilians one month after the end of efforts to woo them home if the political conference has not settled their fate.

The Red interview program, now at a standstill, is due to end Dec. 23 by U. N. interpretation. The peace conference, originally scheduled to start by Oct. 28, has been stymied by the deadlock over an agenda for planning the talks.

The explanations hung in stalemate Thursday for the eighth straight day and no interviews were scheduled for Friday.

The Communists gave no sign of accepting an Indian plan for speeding up the interviews, insisting again on talking with 356 Chinese POWs not interviewed when one 492-man compound was called up Nov. 5.

The Reds have refused since then to call any other group and the 356 POWs have refused to come.

The repatriation commission heard a formal protest by the Red satellite Polish and Czech delegates against "illegal refusal."

The five-nation repatriation commission also approved a Czech resolution objecting to the discovery of a small radio in a bag of rations that a UNC representative delivered to a Korean POW compound.

The commission warned the UNC to "take immediate measures" to prevent delivery of any objects unless they are approved by the commission.

The high-level negotiations between U. S. Ambassador Arthur Dean and North Korean and Chinese delegates were recessed a week ago after days of futile discussion on what phase of a Korean peace conference to talk about first.

India Boasts Deposits of Mineral for Glass

CALCUTTA (AP)—India boasts the world's largest deposits of sillimanite, key mineral in glass making, according to the Geological Survey of India.

Deposits in the Khasi and Jaintia hills of northern Assam contain more than 251,000 tons, the survey said. The deposits were discovered after World War I but full exploration occurred only recently.

Two Drayton Men Waive Examination

Two Drayton Plains men waived examination yesterday before Waterford Justice Willis D. Lefurgy on bad check charges, and were bound over to Oakland County Circuit Court.

Robert North, 19, and Sam L. Jenkins, 21, both of 2515 Litchfield Rd., failed to post $4,000 bond each and are being held in Oakland County Jail. They will be arraigned in Circuit Court Nov. 20.

They are accused of issuing bad checks at the Jack O'Hearts Bar at 2585 Dixie Highway by the owner, Brent L. Hart.

Jenkins and North, arrested last week by Arizona authorities, were returned to Pontiac Wednesday by Oakland County Sheriff's Detectives Delos Anderson and Leo Hazen.

Ailing Knee Doesn't Slow Comic Lewis

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Despite having his knee in a brace, Jerry Lewis is living it up in the picture of the same name.

There have been reports that tthe zany member of the Martin and Lewis team is ailing. He added substance to the reports when he took a tumble while subbing for Lou Costello on the Comedy Hour. He injured his knee again. But he isn't letting such matters slow him down.

When I saw him in his Paramount dressing room he was playing songs from his current picture and going through wild contortions of the dance number. He seemed as nimble as a jitterbug with the seven-year itch. But when he sat down for a quiet chat (a rare occasion), he favored the left leg.

"It's all right when I stand up, because the leg is in a natural position," he explained. "But I can't bend it when I sit down. I have to keep it up on a table or something. If I don't, I'll fall on my face when I get up."

Jerry remarked that the stiffness is the result of an old injury. He pulled up his pants leg and showed that the knee was braced and wrapped with elastic tape.

"I could have it operated on," he said, "but the doctors can't assure me that it won't be stiff afterwards. I'd rather have it the way it is."

Lewis isn't letting this trouble slow down the pace that he and his crooning partner have been setting in the past few years. As soon as they finish their picture, they'll take off for eight one-night stands in Texas.

"Who needs to sit down and rest?" asks the comic. "Not Dean and me. We get a lot of talk, even in our own organization, about how we should take it easy and relax. I don't believe in that.

"We have our own five-year plan. I think that during the next five years, we should go out and meet the people as much as possible. It's a way of saying 'Thank you' for the nice treatment we have received. And it's also good for us to stay alive and creative. You can't do that by sitting beside a swimming pool for weeks.

"I have a great deal of respect for Bob Hope; he is wise in the ways of our business. You don't catch Hope sitting beside a swimming pool for long. He's out traveling around, entertaining people and sharpening up his timing.

"Dean and I are going to do the same thing. Last time we toured some towns in the East; this time it will be Texas. When we go out again, it will be to the Pacific Northwest or the Middle West. We want to cover the whole country.

"We have a ball on these trips. We put on a big show in arenas and auditoriums, taking along a company of 65 people. The fun part is going by train; we have three private cars. It isn't a money venture. We're lucky to break even. On our last tour, we made $15,000 and gave it to our favorite charity."

Lewis made no secret of his happiness over "Living It Up," the first big property that has been purchased for the team. It is taken from the recent stage hit, "Hazel Flagg," which in turn was taken from the Carole Lombard-Fredric March movie, "Nothing Sacred." The producers pulled a switch and Jerry is playing the Lombard role.

He remarked that the picture will cost two and a half million, which is quite a difference from their first big hit, "At War With the Army." That one ran $400,000.

Courtesy, Not Curtsy Best for King, Queen

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Mayor Roy Hofheinz asked Houstonians to substitute courtesy for curtsy next Wednesday when greeting King Paul and Queen Frederika of Greece.

"Good taste and proper recognition of democratic standards dictate that there be no curtsies," the mayor said.

What is the proper salute? Hofheinz recommends:

"How do you do?"

"Welcome to Texas."

"Howdy, pardner."

Spartans See TV of Big Tilt a Favorable Omen

By ROBERT E. VOGES

EAST LANSING (AP) — There's something about a television camera that seems to bring out the best in the Michigan State football team.

Michigan State has never been beaten when it's had a game televised nationally. And for every television game the Spartans, like a bunch of ham actors, have put on terrific shows for the viewers.

If Michigan State follows its past pattern, University of Michigan, the football foe here tomorrow, will be wishing the game could be played in the privacy of someone's cellar.

Michigan State made its television debut against Notre Dame at South Bend, Ind., in 1950.

Spartans and the Irish put on a show that couldn't have been more dramatic if it had been scripted by some Hollywood writer.

They traded touchdowns back and forth for four quarters. MSC finally won 36-33 by the margin of a field goal.

In 1951, Michigan State and Notre Dame staged a repeat of their television hit in Macklin stadium.

Sports writers agreed afterwards that Michigan State played a "dream game."

Fullback Dick Panis charged 88 yards through the Notre Dame team for a touchdown on the very first play of the game. Michigan State kept pouring it on and whipped the Irish, currently rated best in the nation, 35-0.

Last year, Texas A & M supplied the opposition. Michigan State backs, carefully keeping their best profiles toward the camera, romped on a 48-6 runaway.

Even Michigan State coach Biggie Munn, named "coach of the year" after his Spartans were voted the national champions last year, is impressed by the size of the audience he'll have Saturday.

"It scares you a little," Munn said, "when you figure how many people will be watching."

Michigan State, playing on home grounds in Macklin stadium, will be able to use its full bench if the games goes as expected.

The Spartans, rated fourth in the Associated Press poll this week, are a solid three touchdown favorite over their university neighbors from Ann Arbor, Mich.

Michigan State, currently in number two spot in the Western Conference title race, wants to win this one so as to remain in position in case anything happens to Illinois, top dog in the Big Ten.

This will be the seventh time a Munn-coached crew has played Michigan. Michigan State has won the past three years.

"I consider this the rubber game as far as my relationship with Michigan goes," Munn said. "I really want to win this one."

Old Adage May Spur Wolverines in Saturday Tilt

'On Given Day Any Big Ten Team Can Beat Another'

ANN ARBOR (AP)—Michigan holds its most important football practice of the week today. And not an ounce of serious physical work will be done.

It's the last team get-together in uniform before Saturday's nationally televised and highly colorful meeting with Michigan State at East Lansing.

It's the day coach Bennie Oosterbaan's Wolverines trot out onto the practice field, clad in shiny, clean game uniforms. They limber up briefly, run a few signal drills, listen to a few last suggestions by the Michigan coach and retire.

This is the day some of the old grads, ardent faculty supporters and other sidelines claim they can tell by watching how the team will perform the next day.

"You can sense an electric spark jumping from one player to another if they are ready," was the way one watcher put it.

It is something to do with whether the Wolverines, as a team, have concluded they can win and are fired up.

It is true they have been fired up and lost. But it is the times they have won under such conditions that the partisan observers cling to on the eve of grim prospects.

Despite losses for the last three years to Michigan State, Oosterbaan's regulars undoubtedly will be high for this one.

In stronger times, Michigan used an old football adage—on a given Saturday any Big Ten team can beat another—to warn its players into good performances against weaker opponets.

Now, however, Oosterbaan uses the same maxim to give his Wolverines hope against a strong and deep Spartan squad. After the token workout, the Michigan coach will herd his traveling squad aboard chartered buses and head for Lansings, where they will spend the night at the Olds Hotel.

Halfback Tony Branoff was kept out of the heavy work in favor of a sore shoulder. In a surprise move, sophomore Tom Hendricks was shifted to handle wingback chores.

Duncan McDonald, Michigan's amazing spot passer, directed the first string backfield in the absence of Lou Baldacci, who was nursing a cold. Baldacci is expected to start Saturday, however. Regular fullback Dick Balzhiser and halfback Ted Kress completed the regular backfield.

Edward Keith Captures '53 Pheasant Prize

Bird Downed During Fight with Another Wins Press Contest

A husky pheasant, downed while engaged in a battle with another ringneck, brought the 1953 Pontiac Press "big pheasant" derby award to Edward Keith, 5640 Oster drive, Pontiac.

Keith, hunting near Pontiac Lake recreation area, saw two roosters engaged in a wing-fluttering, spur slashing scrap. He put the birds up and got one good shot. The pheasant that tumbled out of the air weighed 3-pounds 11-ounces. It broke a tie between two others for the derby lead, and, as events developed, finally won the big prize, a $50 U. S. Savings bond.

Award will go out to the '53 champion within a few days.

Keith's late entry (shot last week displaced birds entered by Russell Allie and Paul Emerson, respectively, that weighed 3-pounds and 9-ounces.

Caroline's Toe Worries Coach

Hospital X-Rays Show No Injury to Running Star's Foot

CHICAGO (AP) — Regardless of J. C. Caroline's painful big toe, Illinois remains a 7-point favorite to top Wisconsin at Madison tomorrow and keep up its Big Ten football title and Rose Bowl pace.

Coach Ray Eliot yesterday held his breath, crossed ihs fingers and probably prayed when Caroline, the nation's leading rusher, was forced to leave drills with a pain in his left big toe.

He was taken to a hospital, where X-rays revealed no injury. But Eliot feared that Caroline's speed might be checked if the toe doesn't quit hurting by game time.

"It started bothering me Tuesday, but it really began paining something awful during Thursday's practices," said the sensational halfback. "I'm glad no bone is broken."

Illinois will have only one game remaining, at Northwestern, after the Wisconsin encounter.

Meanwhile, Michigan State is driving ahead for the title and a conference vote showdown for Rose Bowl representation should Illinois lose in the stretch. Spartans close out their Big Ten campaign tomorrow as host to Michigan and are favored by 14 points.

Harder Placed on Reserve List

Move Creates Room on Lions' Roster for Rookie Smith

DETROIT (AP) — Fullback Pat Harder is on the 30-day injured reserve list of the Detroit Lions today. He was put there to make room for rookie Robert L. Smith, also a fullback.

The 31-year-old Harder has been troubled by a leg injury and has carried the ball only eight times for 21 yards this season for the National Football League champions.

Smith, who set a Southwest Conference rushing record of 2,573 yards while playing at Texas A. & M., came to the Lions recently following his discharge from the Air Force. The Lions swapped the Cleveland Browns a draft choice for him two years ago.

Smith, second Bob Smith in the Lions backfield, will be used Sunday against the Green Bay Packers. The other Smith is a defensive halfback and punter from Iowa.

Eight players on Syracuse University's starting football eleven are seniors.

Skipper 11 Closes '53 Season

By JACK SAYLOR

Waterford High School's football team journeys to Owosso Saturday night to close the prep football season for Oakland County schools, except for Birmingham's annual Turkey Day tilt at Royal Oak.

Eighteen Skipper seniors will play their final game as Walt Ashley's team shoots for a better than .500 record. Waterford's record stands at 3-3-1. Senior halfback stars Kerry Keating and Ray Campbell are the Skippers' prime hopes.

Keating, who has piled up 772 yards from scrimmage this fall, was held in check by Birmingham last week, running for only 24 yards in 15 tries. He did break away on an 85-yard kickoff return for his team's only touchdown.

Campbell, meanwhile, gained 53 yards to bring his season total to 351.

Saturday night's game is Waterford's 3rd meeting with the ex-Saginaw Valley League school. Owosso won 25-0 in 1951 and 14-7 in '52. Two chartered busses will carry Skipper rooters north for the arc-light game.

In addition to Keating and Campbell, Ashley will lose nine other seniors who play on more-or-less a regular basis. Included are ends Dick Tims and Lew Fitzgerald; tackle Jim Elliot; guard Ron Cordray; centers Walt Perry and Dave Cook and backs Pat O'Neill, Larry Wigner, and Jim Lesar.

Others are ends Don Jones, Steve Ryeson, Roscoe Hendry and Dick Allen; tackle Jack Marshall and guards Mike Patterson and Frank Spadafore.

Saginaw will rely on the running and outstanding defensive play of halfback Bob Maturen in seeking its 5th victory in eight starts.

Maturean, one of the Valley's best all-around backs, missed much of this season's play because of injuries but is reportedly now in top shape.

Tonight's Kid Gavilan-Bratton Welter Title Bout Has Boxing Experts Upset

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—Boxing experts as a group always are more puzzled and suspicious than ordinary people, but the welterweight championship being fought at Chicago tonight has them even more upset than usual. They can't, to coin a phrase, make head or tail of it.

They know with some degree of certainty that Kid Gavilan, the 147-pound champ, is to defend his title against Johnny Bratton, but that's about as far as they go.

Being only a part-time expert, our own feeling is that it will be a good and entertaining fight in which the two boys will punch each other around enthusiastically for 15 rounds. At the end of that time we expect to see Gavilan's glove lifted in victory, as usual.

Possibly the main thing agitating the real experts about tonight's bout is that they can't figure out which is the "house" fighter for the International Boxing Club, the promoter. That is, they are not sure what result would best fit into the IBC's plans. That always is held to be very important.

Gavilan has said that, win or lose, he will quit the welterweights and challenge Bobo Olson for the middleweight crown. All right, say that the Cuban flash beats Bratton impressively. That would really set up a Gavilan-Olson battle for the 160-pound title, guarantee maybe a $200,000 gate.

But where would it leave the welterweight division? Without a champion, that's where, and in no condition to make any money for anybody pending the outcome of one of those long and wearisome eliminations.

Should Bratton win, on the other hand, the welter division would have an exciting new champ—for television purposes, at least—and Gavilan still would be available to duel Olson at a weight he claims now is his natural one.

Brown Praises 49ers as Well-Balanced 11

CLEVELAND (AP) — "They have the guns to be the toughest so far—the best balance of any team we play," coach Paul Brown says of the San Francisco 49ers who assault his Cleveland Browns unbeaten pro football record here Sunday.

"That fullback, Joe Perry, does not lead the league for nothing," Brown worried. "Their set of running backs is about the best. And that (Yelburton Abraham) Tittle can throw the ball with men all over him better than anyone in the league."

Coach Buck Shaw agrees his 49ers are good—in fact, he thinks they should have a record of seven straight victories to match the Browns' string.

TV Fans Get Treat

Both UM and Spartans Utilize Spinner Series

By FRANK LEAHY, Head Notre Dame Coach

Television people certainly hit on one of the nation's top attractions this week as viewers across the nation will have an opportunity to watch single wing football at its finest. It will be the defending national champions from Michigan State versus their greatest rivals from the University of Michigan. Oddly enough sponsors of this program didn't even have to go out of their own home town to telecast this attraction as it will be played in Lansing.

The Michigan State attack is geared around speed and deception. Coach Biggie Munn believes in small speedy backs and he has some of the best. He uses the unbalanced line all of the time and on a number of his plays they line up in the T and shift into the single wing.

The man to watch is halfback Leroy Bolden, a 160 pounder who is very fast and extremely strong for a man of his weight. For passing it's quarterback Tom Yewcic and their power man is fullback Evan Slonac.

Both teams use the famous fullback spinner series with much success. In this play the team lines up, or shifts into, the single wing and the ball is snapped directly to the fullback. He takes one step forward and spins around while bent over. As his back is to the line of scrimmage the halfback crosses over and takes the ball and the fullback completes his spin and heads into the line, still doubled up.

While this is going on, the power of the single wing, that is, the right halfback who is on the wing and the right end "double team" the defensive left tackle who is the key defensive man who could stop the play. The quarterback pulls out to block the defensive end while the two guards "pull" to halfback who cuts between the end and the tackle and heads downfield.

It can be readily seen that this play has great deceptive possibilities because as soon as the defense starts assuming what is going to happen then the fullback can fake the handoff and spin into the line with the ball.

Blocking assignments for both teams are quite similar as are the majority of their offensive formations. Most likely you will see Michigan rely a bit more on their passing game while State will count on speed and deception when the chips are down.

To my way of thinking it is a real treat for the TV viewers to be able to see such two fine exponents of single wing football in action against each other.

Tigers Buy New 'Farm'

DETROIT (AP)—The Detroit Tigers have purchased the Valdosta, Ga., club of the Class-D Georgia-Florida League.

The American League club announced the purchase yesterday and said Valdosta will replace Wausau, Wis., as a Class-D Tiger farm. The Wisconsin State League of which Wausau was a member, has folded.

Michigan State home games previously have started at 2 p. m. but all local contests during November are advanced one half hour to avoid the earlier darkness.

Veteran Hunter Gets His 'Pat' Easy Way

BERLIN, N. H. (AP)—Robert Holland got his first partridge of the season. It was wounded by a bedroom screen and retrieved by a 3-year-old boy. Holland, a well-known hunter in this area, had tramped through the woods for 15 days with no luck. But one morning he heard a thump at his bedroom window.

Looking out, he saw this 3-year-old neighbor holding a dazed partridge.

Spartans Picked, Irish to Win by Large Margin; Writer Also Tabs Tech, Penn, Illini in Top Games

By GRANTLAND RICE

NEW YORK — We now move into a number of old-fashioned traditional battles that stand out. Yale-Princeton is one of the tops, regardless of what they have done before. Army and Pennsylvania is another fine contest.

Columbia and Navy will be well worth while, if only to see an outmanned little Columbia team battle on every Saturday all the way to the wire. Lou Little must have gotten a big kick out of this team.

Michigan State and Michigan should be another classic, since their rivalry is fierce. It should be a little keener than usual this year, because both are good

Then we have a tough one in Georgia Tech and Alabama, provided Alabama has one of its good days — not one of its worst. The best game on the West Coast is UCLA vs. Washington, a game UCLA has to win.

EAST — Army and Pennsylvania are well matched but I think Penn is too strong. Princeton-Yale. Princeton is the sort of team of destiny. It wins most of its games regardless. Princeton. Harvard has too many guns for Columbia. Cornell has a trifle too much for Dartmouth, and Syracuse over Colgate.

SOUTH — Alabama-Georgia Tech. We'll string with Tech. Alabama too erratic Auburn over Georgia. Tennessee, improving, has a shade over Florida. Pittsburgh is too good for North Carolina State. Notre Dame-North Carolina. Notre Dame by a decisive margin. Mississippi State over Louisiana State and Tulane over Vanderbilt.

WEST — Texas to beat Texas Christian. Baylor should win over Houston. Rice over Texas A. and M. Illinois is picked over Wisconsin, in one of the best games of the day. Michigan State should handle Michigan in another fine contest.

Northwestern over Indiana. Oaklahoma should take Iowa State. Missouri should beat Kansas State. Ohio State is too good for Purdue. Nebraska over Colorado. California to beat Oregon, UCLA to conquer Washington, Stanford to handle San Jose State and SMU over Arkansas.

Champ Has No Problem Making Weight Limit

Crowd of 17,000 Is Expected at Chicago Stadium Tonight

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

CHICAGO (AP) — Kid Gavilan, razor-sharp and making the 147-pound weight limit without a strain is a solid 8-5 choice to retain his welterweight championship tonight against a threatening and determined Johnny Bratton.

The 15-round fight, promising to be a scorcher, will be televised (NBC) and broadcast (ABC nationally starting at 10 p.m., EST. The Chicago area is blacked out on TV, boosting the Chicago Stadium crowd to an expected 17,000 with a net gate of about $130,000.

Bratton, who at 26 has been in the ring professionally for nine years, will receive 20 per cent of the net and $10,000 from a TV cut—in all approximately $36,000 that should get him out of hock after a spending spree as a teen-age phenom.

Gavilan, making his seventh defense of his crown since taking a 15-round decision from Bratton, then the NBC titleholder, in New York two years ago, will get 40 per cent of the net gate and TV.

It will be the third meeting of the two. Gavilan became the third fighter to fracture Bratton's jaw in their first scrap and Bratton also broke his hand in that maul. Later in 1951 they met in an overweight nontitle bout at Chicago Stadium that was ruled a draw. Gavilan claimed he was a victim of a home town decision and says: "I whip him for sure this time . . . There be no doubt."

Interest in the Cuban Hawk's defense tonight is sharpened by his uninspired job in September at Syracuse against Carmen Basilio. Basilio scored a knockdown and Gavilan was hard pressed to get a decision.

Gavilan had to shed eight pounds in two weeks to make the 147-pound weight for Basilio. This time he has trained faithfully and should have no excuses if he loses.

Kentucky Team Bounds Into Bowl Picture

Overlooked Pre-Season, 'Cats Now Rate 13th in AP Grid Poll

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—The recipe for Kentucky's football resurge is a blend of three prime ingredients: team morale, improvement in various phases of play and unexpected fine performances by several gridders.

Kentucky was figured in preseason calculations to finish in the second division of the Southeastern Conference. It dropped its first two starts and then, in an underdog role most of the time, rebounded for five victories and a tie.

Kentucky's recovery had projected it into contention for a bowl bid and to 13th place nationally in the Associated Press ratings.

Statistics bear out Kentucky's improved play. For example, take pass defense, in which the Wildcats consistently have been among the national leaders this autumn.

In eight games Kentucky's foes have completed 43 of 119 throws for 507 yards but have scored only once through the air. Kentucky, meantime, has intercepted 15 throws for 207 yards and one touchdown to reduce the over-all effect of the opposition to 300 yards.

Its rushing game is better too, with 17 backs having an over-all average of nearly four yards a carry.

The big man in Kentucky's line has been co-captain-guard Ray Correll, an All-America candidate, who successfully made the conversion from defense to two-way play.

Bryant has said he considers Correll, a 205-pound senior, "as good or better than any Kentucky linemen I have had since I have been here."

The Wildcats meet Memphis State here Saturday in a prep for the finale a week hence with arch-rival Tennessee.

The lowly mackerels belong to a giant suborder of marine fishes which includes most of the very fastest, strongest, fightingest and most streamlined of saltwater species, such as sailfish and swordfish.

Andrews, Davey Both Pass on Graham Bout

DETROIT (AP)—Because neither Chuck Davey nor his two time-conqueror, Al Andrews, wanted any part of Billy Graham he will fight Paddy Young in New York Dec. 18.

Graham was to have headlined a fight card at Detroit's Olympia Dec. 2. Matchmaker Nick Londes of the International Boxing Club said he'd get the winner of the Nov. 4 Andrews-Davey fight.

But winner Andrews' manager, Ike Bernstein, said his youngster wasn't ready to meet a socker of Graham's experience. The slipping Davey also declined, Londes said.

Now Londes has signed Moses Ward, an all-wallop, no-defense middleweight, for the Dec. 2 headliner and indicated his for likely would be Ernie Durando, Willie Troy or Joe Giardello.

Richard Seeking to Regain Title

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Maurice (The Rocket) Richard of the Canadiens aims to regain the goal-scoring crown he lost to Detroit's Gordie Howe the past three National Hockey League seasons.

The 32-year-old fiery forward tallied twice last night to lead front-running Montreal to a 4-2 victory over the last place Chicago Black Hawks. Goals were his eighth and ninth of the season-high in the league.

Richard scored 50 goals during the 1944-45 season to set a league record. He again won the title in 1946-47 and 1949-50. Then Howe came along to capture goal-scoring honors for the past three seasons.

Howe currently has five goals in 14 games. Richard has played in 17.

Bay City Hopes of Repeating in Valley Are Slim

Need Win Over Tribe, Hills' Upset of Vikings, Turkey Day Tie

By LLOYD NORTHARD

DETROIT (UP)—Bay City Central, which won the Saginaw Valley Conference championship for the first time in 21 years last season, can keep alive its hopes of defending the title tonight when it entertains Flint Central.

Coach Elmer Engel's Bay City Eleven has lost only one game in eight starts, but that was a costly 18-12 reversal by Flint Northern, a conference foe.

The two Flint schools, Central and Northern, both have perfect records in the Valley. Thus, Bay City would be out of the running with another defeat.

Bay City's lone hope for an outright title would necessitate the following chain of events—a victory over Flint Central, a Saginaw Arthur Hill triumph over Flint Northern tonight and a tie Thanksgiving Day when Flint Northern and Flint Central meet.

Except for a handful of Turkey Day battles, the high school football season ends this weekend, and the schedule is slim since many teams packed away their equipment a week ago.

Brooklyn Dodger pitcher Preacher Roe lost three games in 1953. His third defeat snapped a 10-game winning streak.

Aussie Retains Bantam Crown Against Gault

Carruthers Boxes Way to Decision Over U. S. Challenger, Today

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — World Carruthers, a slick dancer from Australia, held his title by a decision as he deftly boxed down Pappy Gault of Spartanburg, S. C., in a 15-round fight at Sydney, broadcast today by the Australian radio.

At the end only a knockout could have won for the shorter, stockier American, said the broadcast heard in San Francisco.

A crowd estimated at 25,000 roared as the tiny fighters battled down to the end in the outdoor arena at the Sydney Sport Ground under warm skies.

Gault weighed 117¾. Carruthers 117½.

Carruthers, who stood three inches over the stubby American, never let Gault corner him.

He took the lead at the start and held it almost all the 15 rounds.

There were no knockdowns.

In the third round, Carruthers came out of a hurried flurry of blows with a cut right eye, but he nursed it through the rest of the fight without trouble, never letting Gault work on it. It stopped bleeding in the seventh.

CASE—Avoid Arm Break.

Slide and Lift Action—In the action sketch of Steve Nagy, star and stylist, are pictured fundamentals that make him great: His body is low and perfectly balanced, the result of a smooth, finishing slide. His slide is exceptionally long—about 20 inches.

The right foot is applying the brake to his slide, with still no rush to release the ball. The arm swings through smoothly, like a pendulum, with the hand turning easily to apply hook spin to the ball at release.

The least effort to rush the swing at this point would kink the arm, throw it out of kilter, and ruin what is perfect form to this time. Concentrate on low at the line and unhurried swing. It'll pay dividends in high totals.

More Hunters, Fewer Deer for '53 Season

By JACK PATTERSON

If, by week's end, Pontiac seems gripped in a major economic slump, with small businesses shut down and larger ones operating on skeleton shifts, don't be alarmed. The boom hasn't ended. It happens every year around Nov. 15 and by early December the economy is traditionally back to normal.

PATTERSON

Yep, you guessed it. Sunday marks the opening of the 1953 deer season. THE season to many a hunter, and that blankety-blank deer thingamabob to many a hunter's wife.

Adance sales of licenses, reported by Pontiac sporting goods dealers, indicate that the usual army of hunters from this area will be substantially reinforced this year. What are their chances of success?

Well, the conservation department is making a very cautious prediction of a total kill during the '53 season of around 50,000 deer. The reasons advanced for this reduction by more than a half from last year's bag are the success of last year's 3-day any deer season in reducing the herd, and limitation this year of the any deer season to one day, Dec. 1.

There is no question that deer are down in some areas, notably the southern half of Zone 2. But deer are plentiful elsewhere and the careful hunter should have just about as good a chance as last year at a legal buck.

Deer are still plentiful through much of the northern half of Zone 2. In the Upper Peninsula, conditions should be roughly the same as last year, although there are reports of fewer deer in some areas. Zone 3 seems to have just about as many deer as last year, with some local exceptions.

Zone 3 hunters are reminded that except for a small area between highways M. 46 and M. 20, only legal weapons are shotguns and .22 caliber rim-fire rifles. The rim-fire stipulation outlaws, of course, souped up and wildcat .22s.

Since deer are relatively scarce in some areas of former abundance, hunters using public lands will run into more competition in areas where game is plentiful. While on the face of it this is a situation hunters tend to deplore, it can be turned into a real advantage. The patient hunter who can sit tight on a good stand will benefit from the fact that a lot of hunters in the area will mean a lot of deer movement.

Scarcity of acorns in Zone 2 will make oak ridges less productive than in years when they are plentiful. But concentrations of hunters in other types of cover may move deer into oaks and stands of mature hardwoods which usually have little to recommend them as deer cover.

Those planning to hunt Dec. 1 must remember to get licenses before that day. Deadline is 7 p.m. Nov. 30.

Deer Hunters to Start Rush North Tonight

By JAMES A. O. CROWE

Associated Press Outdoor Writer

Deer camps were spring up, the Straits of Mackinac ferries were getting busier and northern highways were getting crowded today as the first deer hunters got set for Sunday's opening.

Gunners may shoot one buck deer each anywhere in Michigan, starting at 6 a.m. Sunday, and the rush is expected to really be on tonight.

So far, there has been no waiting at the ferry docks, but when the hunters quit work tonight and take off for the Upper Peninsula, the story is expected to be different.

State highway department has five boats, one leaving every 20 minutes, to get the rush of cars across the straits as fast as possible.

There was a slight rush of hunters to the Lake Michigan ferry terminal at Ludington following the unfounded rumor that a strike was impending on the state ferries.

The highway department, noting that the rumor seems to crop up every year before the deer season, emphasized there was no labor dispute on the ferries and no possibility of a strike.

Supplementary feeding of puppies should begin at three weeks to start them towards the weaning period.

Tarheels to Pin Only Hopes on Punter Lackey

Game Is Considered One of Year's Gross Mismatches

By WILL GRIMSLEY

CHAPEL HILL, N. C. (AP)—North Carolina is counting on Dick Lackey's toe to prevent a complete rout at the hands of Notre Dame, the country's No. 1 football team, here tomorrow.

Lackey, 21-year-old senior from Shelby, N. C., is the Tar Heel's ace punter, the best in the United States at his specialty, with an average of better than 44 yards for seven games. An adept quick kicker, he averaged 54 yards last week in the 18-0 loss to South Carolina.

"We have worked and worked trying to set up defenses for this team," said George Barclay, North Carolina's head coach. "Then we re-examined pictures and just tossed them aside.

"On the blackboard you can design ways to stop John Lattner and Neil Worden but out on the field they'll still pound you to death with three and four yards at a time.

"Maybe Lackey's kicking can slow them down some."

On the surface, the football game here tomorrow is one of the season's gross mismatches. The unbeaten and untied Irish rate anywhere from 27 to 34 points over a team that has lost its last four starts by one-sided margins.

"This Notre Dame is one of the greatest college teams of all times," added Barclay. "It is three-deep in good personnel and it's a poised, confident team that seems able to score whenever it takes the notion.

"Our boys are up for it, sure, just as any team would be against the nation's No. 1 outfit. They think they may be able to wipe out a disappointing season with an outstanding performance. But we haven't the men, I'm afraid, to do it."

Nevertheless, the Tar Heels are giving it the full try. Their locker room is plastered with pictures of Lattner, the Notre Dame cover boy, and Worden, the fullback who leads the team's ground gainers with 407 yards.

Lowell's Burch Ends Long Career as Coach

LOWELL (AP)—Chris Burch, Lowell High School's head coach for 17 years, and dean of the Grand Valley football conference coaches, Thursday announced his retirement from the sports job.

He said his resignation as coach had been accepted by the school board but that he would continue as a member of the high school faculty.

His successor has not been chosen.

Burch cited his long term as a coach and the press of other duties as the reasons for his retirement from the sports field.

Powell Beats Hafer

DETROIT (UP) — Michigan heavyweight champion George Powell won six of eight rounds Thursday night to gain an easy decision over Walter Hafer of Warren, O., in the feature bout at Motor City Arena.

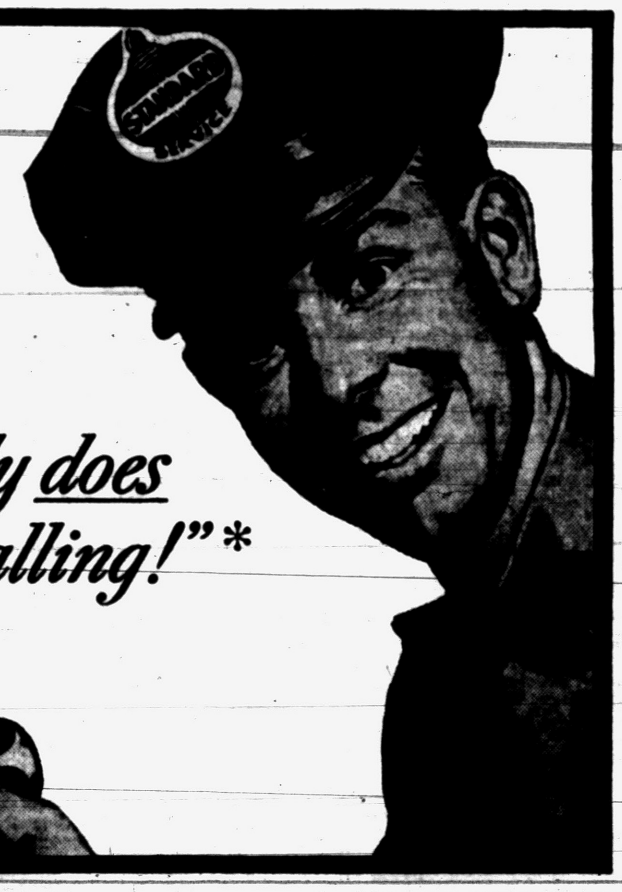

Powell was expected to defend his Michigan title next month against Embrell Davidson, who also boasts a victory over Hafer.

PONTIAC CAR OWNERS TELL ME:
"It really does cure stalling!"*

New Standard Premium does what no other gasoline will do!
(remarkable DE-ICER additive prevents stalling!)

Believe it or not, when your engine dies in traffic at this time of year, chances are that ice does it. Yes, ice! Carburetor ice! But carburetor ice can't form when you use New STANDARD WHITE CROWN Premium Gasoline.

No mechanical carburetor adjustment can cure this cold-motor stalling. But this is how Standard scientists have solved the problem. They have added to New Standard Premium a costly DE-ICER additive, a built-in anti-freeze. This additive prevents the formation of the thin ice film that can cripple the action of your carburetor, stall you dead in traffic.

Here is added proof that you can expect more from Standard—and get it. Millions of midwest motorists expect to get the best things in gasoline first from the leader in the field. Your neighborly Standard Oil dealer—a member of one of the finest service teams in the country—invites you to stop in today to get your car ready for Winter and to fill up with New STANDARD PREMIUM, the anti-stalling gasoline.

YOU CAN'T BUY A MORE POWERFUL GASOLINE.
TRY A TANKFUL TODAY!

*A THIN FILM OF ICE
a major cause of engine stalling from 58 to 28

When you press the starter, the gasoline needed for starting and warm-up is vaporized. These vapors are drawn rapidly through the carburetor. This evaporation chills the carburetor below freezing. Chilled metal causes moisture in air to condense and freeze on carburetor parts. A thin film of ice forms on the carburetor throttle plate. Ice shuts off the flow of fuel during idling. Then, when you make a stop, your fuel-starved engine sputters and dies. New STANDARD WHITE CROWN Premium Gasoline contains a costly DE-ICER additive which prevents carburetor ice from forming.

You expect more from STANDARD and get it!

Illinois Meets Biggest Stumbling Block Saturday

By BEN PELDGAR

NEW YORK (AP) — The Illinois football team, which would like nothing better than to spend the Christmas holidays in California, runs into its biggest stumbling block when it meets Wisconsin at Madison tomorrow.

Unbeaten in the Big Ten, the Illini need one more victory to assure themselves of at least a tie for the conference title and its accompanying trip to the Rose Bowl.

Wisconsin, beaten in the Big Ten family only by Ohio State, still has conference title hopes and Badger Coach Ivy Williamson claims he knows how to stop J. C. Caroline and Mickey Bates.

At East Lansing, Michigan State, the other main candidate for the Big Ten crown, engages Michigan in the television game of the day. The Spartans figure to win. If they do they'll finish the conference with a 5-1 record.

Illinois was ranked third in the nation in this week's Associated Press poll. Michigan State was No. 4.

First-place Notre Dame journeys to Chapel Hill N.C., to meet North Carolina, the nearest thing to a breather on the Irish schedule.

Maryland, the No. 2 club, plays host to Mississippi, No. 11. Like Notre Dame and West Virginia, Maryland is unbeaten. It was at this point last year too. Then came Mississippi and a 21-14 licking. It looks as if it will be close again.

Fifth-ranking Georgia Tech, which probably will operate without halfback Leon Hardeman, headlines the Southeastern Conference's top attraction at Birmingham against Alabama, where the Crimson Tide is reported to be upset-minded.

Oklahoma has a chance to become the first team to clinch a major bowl bid this season. The Sooners entertain outclassed Iowa State while Kansas State, the second-place team in the Big Seven Conference, is the underdog against Missouri. An Oklahoma victory and a Kansas State loss would wind up the Big Seven race, which carries an Orange Bowl invitation. Oklahoma is ranked No. 6.

UCLA returns to action against Washington after a week's rest.

West Virginia, fresh from a couple of close ones against Penn State and Virginia Tech, probably won't find South Carolina much easier but the Mountaineers are expected to win.

Baylor's Bears expect to start another winning streak at the expense of Houston and Texas, conqueror of the Bears last week, entertains Texas Christian.

McLendon May Sue NFL, Too

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Gordon McClendon, who has a $12,000,000 suit against 13 major league clubs for allegedly forcing his Liberty Broadcasting System to collapse, said today he might also file a suit against professional football in view of the federal court decision that held radio broadcasters can not be restricted.

"I was just as deeply involved in pro football as in baseball," he declared, charging that his broadcasting rights were withdrawn from him on orders of Commissioner Bert Bell of the National Football League.

It was on this same basis that McClendon filed the suit against the big leagues and the baseball commissioner, claiming that he was deprived of the right to broadcast major league games and this made it impossible for him to fulfill contracts with his sponsors.

Federal court decision came yesterday in Philadelphia where Judge Alan K. Grim, acting in an antitrust suit by the government against the National Football League, held that "there is no factual justification for territorial restrictions on the sale of broadcasting rights."

McClendon hailed the decision as "the first big victory of this long fight."

Pro Football Happy Over OK on Television Policy

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A ruling by a federal judge that the National Football League legally can restrict television coverage of its games left the professional sports world in a state of happy confusion today.

Both football and baseball circles appeared gratified over the first portion of a four-part decision yesterday by U.S. District Judge Allan K. Grim.

Judge Grim — acting two days after the U.S. Supreme Court ruled professional baseball is a sport and therefore not subject to the nation's anti-trust laws — held that the NFL has the right to ban television of league games into other league cities when home teams are playing.

NFL Commissioner Bert Bell hailed the ruling and Ford Frick, commissioner of baseball, said "it is a fine ruling for football."

However, neither Bell nor Frick would comment on the effects on each other's domain of the remaining three parts of Judge Grim's ruling.

PGA to Make Last Try Today

Convention Is Slated to End Today; No Sites Named for Tourneys

DETROIT (AP)—A last ditch attempt will be made by the Professional Golfers Association today to get its winter schedule lined up.

The Association's 1953 convention here was scheduled to end today after a week of unsuccessful work on the schedule.

Another fruitless meeting was held late last night in an attempt to get the problem ironed out.

PGA laid most of its difficulties to trying to pacify 17 cities that are making bids for 14 weekend winter dates. Thes dates fall between the first of the year and April 8 when the Masters Open will be staged at Augusta, Ga.

A spokesman said that Dr. Cary Middlecoff, the co-chairman of the association's tournament committee, was reported to have lined up 10 weekend matches and three pro-amateur events. However, he declined to name any of the sites involved.

Led by President M. P. (Monk) Wilson, the Winter Sponsors Association, which claims strong representation in the West and Southwest, walked out of the convention Sunday.

Wilson said the members of his group would go ahead with scheduled tournaments with or without PGA sanction. Among the demands PGA made that he balked at was a guarantee of a $15,000 purse for each event.

Spokesmen said that Middlecoff had managed to come to terms with some members of Wilson's group.

Orioles Hope Fan Support Will Aid Team

BALTIMORE (AP)—Jimmy Dykes says you'll find him back on the third base line next year in his new job as manager of the Baltimore Orioles and that both he and his players, former St. Louis Browns, hope to draw new life from heavy fan support.

The cigar-smoking manager, named Thursday to succeed Marty Marion, talked enthusiastically to the press at a luncheon here yesterday of chances on improving the 8th place club and said:

"I don't think we need very much help to make a real contender."

Some trading will be necessary for better pitching and strengthening a few batting spots, Dykes conceded.

He ticked off the names of shortstop Billy Hunter, second basemen Bobby Young, first baseman Dick Kryhoski and outfielders Vic Wertz and Johnny Groth among the better players.

Skippers' JVs Win Season's Last Tilt

Norman Probert and Jack Traxler each scored two touchdowns to pace Waterford High School's junior varsity football team to a 40-16 victory over Dublin in the final game of the season Thursday at Waterford.

Skipper JV's closed with a 5-2 record. Probert also added two extra points to bring his scoring total to 60 for the year.

Jerry Harnack and Dave Latta also scored for the Skippers, who led 27-7 at the half. Jerry Winterbottom and John Traverse scored Dublin touchdowns.

Pontiac High Juniors Make Final Plans for 'Snow Fall Twirl'

Plans for the traditional J-Hop to be held Dec. 5 at Pontiac High School are well under way.

Juniors can be seen whirling in feverish anticipation as chairmen heads oil the wheels of progress with some handy elbow grease.

Pasting snow flakes and winter stars is the decorations committee headed by Martha Varney. Workers are Elsie Russell, Bonnie Evans, Barbara Hill, Don Edmunds, Dick Lohff, Kay Trager, Dinae Hubbs, Bill Kistler, Malcolm Stoglin and Janath Piersoon.

Busy with "Snow Fall Twirl" trappings are other committee members which include Brenda Bender, Mary Gale Beaupre, Joan Wagley, Roy Webb, Nancy Baker, Nancy Gilbert, Ruby Emery, Norma Goodman, Julian Baker, Bob Dunn and Ann Fitzpatrick.

Sandra Johns heads the ticket committee with able helpers Nancy Moats, Pat Sederlund, Donelda Brantley, Bruce Oakley, Barbara Robinson, Pat Ryder and Bernice Stevens.

Also selling ducats first, fourth and sixth hours are Kathleen Hooks, Lily Johnson, Jane Penilo, Norma Eustice, Diane Euler, Margaret Neil, Janet Kimmel, Chela Hollis, Marlene Harmes and Yvonne Schuler.

Prom publicity is being supervised by Eva Johnson assisted by an able crew of poster painters.

Members include Sharon Hubbell, Frances Hunt, Alice Kabodian, Barbara Magnus, Yolanda Jackson, Janice Moriarity, Barbara Tate, Irene Gertz and Wilma De Rousse.

Gail Barber is chairman of the refreshment committee which is busy planning treats for the festive juniors. Helping Gail are Beth Tenny, Lee Hathaway and Jack Porritt.

Patrons were selected by Carol Young, while Joe Mills took charge of the music department.

Malcolm Stoglin and crew have the task of cleaning up Sunday after the dance at approximately 2:30 p.m. Post dance committee members are assigned to leave the gymnasium almost as tidy as before.

HAPPY VICTORS—The sound of music will pour from St. Michael High School tomorrow night, as the jubilant shamrocks whirl at the "Victory Dance." Celebrating their victory over St. Frederick High's football team Oct. 30 will be cheerleaders (left to right) Georgiana Gunnerson of 587 E. Tennyson Ave.; Nancy Polasek, 245 Nelson St.; Gwen Herald, 5795 Pine Knob Rd.; Marydee Smith, 2351 Edinburgh St.; and Marlene Cook of 927 Perry St. Nancy and Gwen are co-captains of the cheerleaders sponsors of the event.

Victory Dance Red Letter Date

St. Michael Students Sponsor 9 to 12 Event Set for Saturday

Saturday, Nov. 14 is a red letter day for St. Michaelites. The gala event of the season will take place when all students make the most of the "Victory Dance" to be held at that time.

Sponsoring the event are cheerleader captains Gwen Hearald and Nancy Polasek, aided by their peppy assistants Georgiana Gunnerson, Mary Dee Smith and Marlene Cook.

The dance festivities are scheduled to begin at 9:00 and come to an end reluctantly at midnight.

Couples will be swaying to the music of the "Downbeats" who will furnish the orchestration for the joyous event.

Tickets will be sold to anyone with 75 cents or to any couple who is willing to pay $1.25 for an evening of guaranteed enjoyment.

To Hold Speech Clinic

ANN ARBOR (AP) — A theater and speech clinic at the University of Michigan Saturday is expected to draw high school students and their teachers from all parts of the state.

Students Plan Gala Events for Holidays

All three high schools planned dances for the very near future as Pontiac High tepee chiefs put the finishing touches to the J-Hop and just awaited the big red letter day.

St. Mike echoed with the resounding sounds of jubilee as students prepared to really cut loose at the "Victory Dance" Saturday night.

Not to be outdone, St. Frederick heads were busy buzzing for the "Harvest Moon Hop."

The holiday season was being launched with a bang throughout the city.

PONTIAC HIGH

PHS warriors gathered in the gym last Friday for a pep assembly which preceded the last home game of the season played that night. Innocent bystanders might have mistaken the cheerleaders for 'bums' but it was only a disguise, says Vicky Micu. The tramp outfits were worn by "Booster Club" members who performed in a hobo skit for the student body.

VICKY

The rather serious subject of accident insurance policies was the topic when clansmen conferred with parents on the advisability of the project.

Characters for the forthcoming play, "Cinderella," nervously chewed nails, and fell over prop pumpkins as final dress rehearsal was completed Tuesday, the day before opening night.

Basketball, just waiting to replace football as the sport rage, induced players to round up shoes and suits for practice shots. PHS girls scanned fundamental game sheets and practiced making "baskets" in anticipation of tryouts Monday night.

ST. MICHAEL

The swish and swirl of material announced the advent of new skirts at St. Michael High School, reports Margaret Martin.

Sewing classes proudly displayed their creations as Christmas projects came into focus under flying fingers. The sewing classes began preparations for dressing up dolls for Christmas gifts to needy youngsters.

MARGARET

Grunts, groans and grins filled the corridors as St. Michaelites viewed report cards with mixed emotions. This event marked the close of the first quarter of school.

For the first time since babyhood, sophomores found themselves speechless when confronted with the task of writing autobiographies, speeches and introductions in the English classes.

The silence in the busy school did not last for long.

ST. FREDERICK

Tense whispers filled the halls of St. Frederick, writes Mary Drake, as students gathered together in anticipation of the quarterly test results.

MARY

Meanwhile a Book Fair was being planned at St. Fred's, highlighting Book Week activities at the school. People of all ages should find reading material to fit their every mood at the display setup in the high school library.

The thump of balls preceded the news that practice and schedules for all basketball enthusiasts would soon be under way. Girl basketball players met last week with Coach Joan Mazza to discuss plans for the coming season.

St. Frederick Prepares for 'Harvest Moon Hop'

Autumn colors are setting the theme for St. Frederick High School's "Harvest Moon Hop" next Friday.

Chairmen Michael Wells, Marlene Green, Jean McHugh and Ross Moody are planning the 8 to 11:30 event.

Taking a few tips from old Mother Nature, herself, are decorators Carolyn Robichaud, Gerald Crawford, Glenn Thompson, Richard Denihan, and Sue Atkins. Other brush wielders are Donald Cox, Judy Maddock, Alice Revera and Jerry Bradley.

Publicity which is being handled by Donald Younce, Henry Landry and Jesse Acosta is paving the way for ticket salesmen who are anticipating a rush.

Marketing admission tabs are James Williams, Delfino Chavez, James Kraus, Patricia Nicholson, Mary Barnett, Dan Wagner and Kenneth Atwood. Jesse Ramirez, James Demski, Dorothy Bergin and Ida Jane Arcand complete the list of ticket sellers.

Furnishing the entertainment will be Nenfa Parmo, Juanita Villa, Paul Willhite, Elinor Schutt, Julianne Dean, and Mary Ramirez while Barbara Johnson, Sharon Wolf and Jane Hoffman will see to it that there is plenty of soft lights and music.

James Russell, Carl Foster, Harold Hudson, Mary Jane Leahy, Jacqueline Johnson and Nicela Kelly will be greeting junior classmen with checking tabs. Also taking care of coats will be Gail Dean, Sallie Wright, Margaret Carry, Josephine DeConick, Sue Wetzel and Neil Gotting.

Eating treats have been lined up by refreshment committeemen Barbara Boncher, Pat Goodsell, Larry Decker, David Dumas, Marilyn Ashby, and Elizabeth Powe. Winding up affairs will be Monica Maloney, Mary Capogna, Donna Scholtz, Pat Leahy, Benjamin Santana, Fred Slavin, John Janczarek and Gerald Wagner.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Wells, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Green and Mr. and Mrs. Hubert McHugh will chaperone the dance.

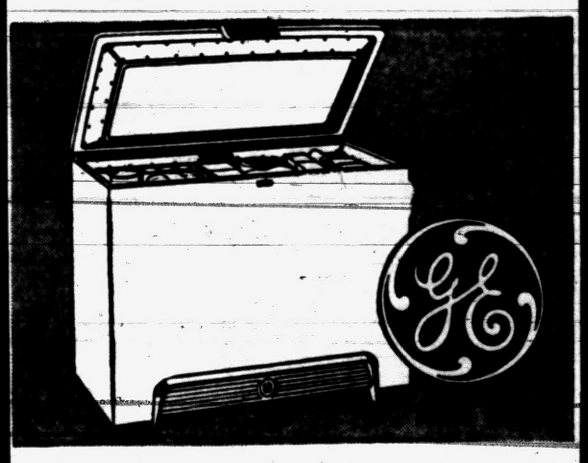

Reckless Driving Plea Grows Into $150 Fine

DETROIT (AP) — Lauri E. Niemi, 55, had no alibi. He stepped right up in traffic court and pleaded guilty to reckless driving yesterday.

But the judge whacked on a heavy $150 fine when he heard Niemi's original defense from patrolman James Duval.

The excuse: "I was too drunk to walk."

Market Narrow, Some Higher

NEW YORK (AP) — The Stock Market moved along a narrow path today with trading quiet.

There was little concerted movement in the major groups of stocks. Most price changes were an eighth or a quarter, and many leading issues were reluctant in appearing on the tape.

Among higher stocks were U. S. Steel, Sears Roebuck, Schenley Industry, and Zenith Radio. Lower were Santa Fe, Standard Oil (NJ), Du Pont, and General Motors.

The market yesterday was slightly higher. On Monday and Tuesday prices were lower all around. The market was closed Wednesday for Armistice Day.

Truman Joins Street Crowd on TV Program

NEW YORK (AP) — Former President Truman jaywalked at one point during his early morning stroll today.

"I know this is against the law," he commented as he crossed the street in the middle of the block to join a sidewalk crowd watching Dave Garroway's NBC-TV show.

As Truman watched the show through the windows, the chimpanzee, J. Fred Muggs, was brought to the window and the former President smiled.

"I'd beter get along, I don't want to spoil the show," Truman said and started away.

The chimpanzee was brought outdoors and Truman paused to grasp its paw. As the walkers moved away a reporter asked the former President whether he thought "the Republicans are making monkeys out of the people of the United States."

"I'll let you draw your own conclusions," Truman said with a smile. "I hope you are a Democrat."

Bob Considine Says:

White House, Committee Clashes Are an Old Story

NEW YORK (INS)—The White House vs. the House Un-American Activities Committee (No. 2)—

When President Eisenhower deplored the action of the House Un-American Activities Committee in subpoenaing ex-President Truman, it was just one more brush the committee has had with the White House. And by then it was an old, old story.

President Roosevelt took a dim view of the committee from the time it was set up, with a starvation $25,000 appropriation, on May 26, 1938. He reprimanded Chairman Martin Dies for the publicity that emerged from the committee room after the second witness of its history, John P. Frey, president of the Metal Trades Department of the AFL, outlined the progress of Communists in the CIO.

After leaving the White House Dies reported, "the president became very upset. He told me that no one was interested in communism; that he had heard about it all his life but had seen nothing of it; that it was not a menace. He urged me to concentrate on nazism and fascism and forget communism."

Harold Ickes and Madam Perkin of F. D. R.'s cabinet, nearly ridiculed the committee to death shortly thereafter by distorting certain testimony given by J. B. Matthews, a former Red, on how a French Communist managed to feature hearty greetings from Clark Gable, Robert Taylor, James Cagney and Shirley Temple."

Ickes said the committee had decided Shirley Temple was a "dangerous radical." Madam Perkins spoke of "the preposterous revelations of the committee in regard to this innocent and likeable child."

The committee ran out of money just before the end of its allotted 7-month term. Dies mentioned this in a speech, and a flood of voluntary contributions reached the committee's office. Old Henry Ford offered to deliver three Lincolns to the committee—for official use—in exchange for three $1 bills.

The committee nearly was wiped out in 1939 by a hoax, photostats of an exchange of correspondence — supposedly — between Dies and the notorious William Dudley Pelley of the Silver Shirts.

The data was read into the Congressional Record by Rep. Frank E. Hook (D) Mich. The letters turned out to have been forged by a Washington "fixer" named David Dubois Mayne.

By July 1, 1951, the committee investigators had unearthed a wealth of information about Japanese spying in the Pearl Harbor area. Dies had by that time promised to clear matters through the Justice Department. But when he said he planned open hearings on this menace, acting Attorney General Matthew McGuire said that F.D.R. and Secretary of State Hull specifically forbade it.

The committee had a very hard time with Mrs. Roosevelt and a group of New York "youths" she once had in tow. The committee, inquiring into the loyalty of the American Student Union, called in its head, Joe Lash. The "young people" arrived at the house office building in two cars, chaperoned by the first lady.

On the witness stand, Lash won a round of applause when he burst into a song which he said he had once sung to members of the Lincoln Brigade during the Spanish Civil War. It went:

"If you see an un-American come lurking near,

Why, alkalize with Martin Dies, and he will disappear."

J. B. Matthews was called in to question Lash the second day and as Bob Srtipling said in "the Red plot against America," ". . . it was a depressed and deflated little group of 'young people' which returned to the White House for lunch." Lter when Hitler and Stalin fell out, the "young people" booed the F. D. R. in his own home when the president urged them to denounce "all forms of dictatorship, whether found in Berlin or Moscow."

No man can say what the first man said to the first lady that night about the kind of young tramps she was bringing into the old Maison Blanc. But they never came back much after that. Lash's friend Joe Cadden, who once slept in Lincoln's bed, wound up picketing the White House.

Lapeer Police Catch Suspect

Man Sought by Jackson Lawmen for Questioning in Burglary Cases

LAPEER—A man identified as Robert Wyers, 31, who was being sought by Jackson Police for questioning in connection with several burglaries, was arrested by Lapeer police yesterday afternoon.

Patrolmen Claude Scramlin Jr. and Arthur Lawrence spotted Wyers and a woman identified as Mrs. Elizabeth Wyers, 20, driving on M-21 in a 1953 Buick which police said was stolen Nov. 5 in Saginaw.

In the car, police discovered an acetylene tank, hammers, punches, chisels, electric drills, a portable typewriter, clothing, hunting boots, 11 steaks, five roasts, a supply of hamburger, pot roasts, stewing beef and track shoes.

Police also reported that the man had $1,047, and half-dozen drivers licenses in his pockets. One was made out to Robert Wyers, 31, of 125 Pearl St., Jackson.

Jackson police expressed the belief that Wyers was the driver of a car that eluded them in a 100-mile-per-hour chase Wednesday night from the scene of an attempted burglary. A police cruiser was demolished in the chase.

Wyers, according to Jackson police, has a record and served prison sentences at Jackson and Milan.

The woman admitted she had served a term at Adrian Girls Vocational School, Lapeer police said.

Both were turned over to Jackson police last night.

Trout Gobble Angler's Hooks Reject Cigarette

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Sam Kellog, Corpus Christi, Tex., movie operator, was telling a Dallas man yesterday about a Gulf coast fishing trip:

Kellog said he waded out in waist-deep water, dipped a hook and came up with a big trout. As fast as he could bait the hook and drop it back in the water, he got more trout. He pulled them in and pulled them in until he got tired, so stopped to smoke a cigarette.

When he finished, the story went, he threw the butt on the water. Another big trout came out of the water and took the butt down.

Five or ten seconds later, Kellog related, the trout broke water again and spat out the butt.

Conservatives Hold Own in Special Vote

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Churchill's Conservative government today held its 18 vote over-all majority in the House of Commons by winning two special elections to fill facancies.

The margin of victories in the traditional Tory districts — both in Lancashire—was about the same as in the 1951 general election, giving political analysts little to go by in studying possible trends.

Col. Douglas Glover won handily in Ormiskirk and Rodney Page in Crosby to take over seats previously occupied by fellow Conservatives—one of whom resigned from Commons, the other leaving on being elevated to the House of Lords.

Board Sponsoring Activities

Six Teams Are Signed Up for Waterford Basketball

WATERFORD TOWNSHIP — Six teams have been registered for the 1953-54 men's basketball league, one of the activities being sponsored by the Waterford Township Recreation board.

According to Thomas Belton, recreation director, plans call for the league to begin play Dec. 1. Managers and sponsors are being asked to submit team entries and lists of players to the recreation office in the CAI building before Nov. 23.

All men out of high school who live or work in the township are eligible to participate in the games which will be played in the gymnasium of the high school.

Because of popular request of mothers in the township, plans are also being drawn up for a pre-school ballet class, according to Belton.

The class is expected to begin Dec. 3 and will be held in the CAI building from 2 to 3 p. m. The program will be similar to the one for older girls now being held on Thursdays and Saturdays with 260 enrolled, and the women's classes held on Thursdays with 25 enrolled.

A minimum of 23 registrations is being requested in order to carry on the pre-school ballet classes.

The first in a series of six travel-adventure programs sponsored by the recreation board was held Tuesday night. Aubert Lavastida, noted traveler, photographer and lecturer, presented a travelogue on Colombia, South America in the high school auditorium before 320 persons.

Next program in the series will be presented Dec. 8 on "Japan" by Karl Robinson. Season and single admission tickets for the lecturer are still on sale at the door and at most offices and stores in the township.

More than 50 young men were on hand Monday evening to take part in the activities offered by the Young Men's Athletic Club, also sponsored by the board. All young men in or out of high school are invited to take part in basketball, volleyball, weight lifting, boxing, table tennis, shuffleboard and wrestling.

All activities are directed by John Hackett, physical instructor of the high school. The club meets every Monday night in the CAI building.

Milford Pupils Move to School

Shift From Temporary to Permanent Location Takes Place Today

MILFORD — Students here who have been attending classes at the Precise plant will be moved today to the new Bertha Baker School, Supt. Harold Hansen announced yesterday.

The library and multi-purpose room at the new school have just been completed.

Some 70 pupils have been attending classes at the Precise plant since the beginning of the school year.

Recent purchase of the plant by the Skuttle Manufacturing Co. made the move necessary. Extra labor was assigned to hurry work on the School.

According to Hansen, everything at the new school is ready for students with exception of the cafeteria, where tables remain to be installed. They have been ordered, but Hansen said it may be several weeks before they arrive.

Say $1.7 Million Is School Need

Citizens Committee Will Urge Vote This Year on Expansion Fund

ROCHESTER — Double-header meetings Thursday night of the citizens advisory committee brought final recommendations from the group, who are requesting that the Rochester Community Board of Education propose a $1,750,000 school building bond issue for vote before Christmas.

Leonard Harding, president of the Rochester board, said that tonight a special meeting of the board would prepare formal papers for that purpose.

A mass meeting of Rochester citizens followed the 7 o'clock special meeting of the citizens committee.

By unanimous vote, the committee recommended that the board purchase the 52-acre Townsend site at the corner of Livernois and Walton boulevard, if the bond issue is approved by voters.

They also requested that the board accept the 10-acre gift site offered by Howard McGregor, senior and junior.

The McGregor's new offer will give the district 10 acres at the south end of the 22-acre site they had proffered earlier.

Wallace Hodges, chairman of the citizens' committee, said that the McGregors believe the 10 acres would better suit district needs for the elementary school.

"This will give us space for an immediate seven rooms and enough room for another seven-room addition when the need warrants it," said Hodges.

He explained that although the original offer of the McGregors had been predicated upon the district's full development plans for the gift site as approved by the donors, they had been told that the 10 acres had absolutely "no strings attached."

The McGregors also said that if at any time the district finds it needs more of the remaining acreage, it would be available.

In considering the new offer by Henry W. Axford of 50 acres for $50,000 at the corner of North Rochester and Tienken Roads, the citizens' committee said they believed the board should not take an option on this.

"Remembering the controversy that was engendered over that site in the last election, we feel that the Townsend site will be more acceptable to voters. We are here to get the children some schools not to settle issues over site differences," Hodges said.

Other recommendations presented to the board include a five room and a multi-purpose addition to Goodison school; four rooms and multi-purpose to Hamlin; an elementary school in northeast section of Rochester on the 10-acre McGregor site; additional land at Avon school for playground area.

The committee, said Hodges, also recommended that the present architect be retained for the elementary additions, but for further building, such as the proposed high school, have the "ideas of other architects" along with the elementary architect.

West Bloomfield Board of Education Approves Building Drawings

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — Another stride toward a new high school in the township was taken Wednesday night as the Board of Education received and approved architectural drawings submitted by the George D. Mason Co. of Detroit.

The board met in special session in the Roosevelt building in Keego Harbor.

Specifications for the new high school have been completed, and the board decided to advertise for bids this weekend. The bids will be opened at a special meeting of the board Dec. 2.

The board also awarded a contract for a ten-inch well on the high school site to B. W. Layman on his low bid of $1,920.25. The one other bid received was from O. O. Corsaut of Oak Park for $2,735.

Walled Lake Takes Stock

Bond Issue, Personnel Changes Highlight School Year

WALLED LAKE — National Education Week is inventory time for Walled Lake Schools. Superintendent Clifford H. Smart took stock this week with an annual report of the progress in the school system.

Most significant progress noted in the yearly report was the passage of a $1,300,000 bond issue.

The money will provide for a new 25-room high school building at South Commerce and Oakley Park roads and a 13-room elementary building in the Twin Beach area.

Changes in personnel were also noted during the year. Rolland Langerman took over as principal of the junior high school. Under his direction departments have been organized with chairmen, committees, each with certain responsibilities. Class sponsors have also been named for each grade.

Kenneth Cowan replaced Langerman as junior high guidance counselor and John Kremkow assumed the duty of student council adviser, succeeding Murray Adams who joined the senior high staff. Ten new members were also added to the faculty.

Donald Yerkes assumed advisorship of the senior high student council. There were five other changes in the staff.

A new class, interior decorating, was added to the senior high curriculum with Stanley Kester as instructor.

Also significant was a trend toward greater interest in science and mathematics courses.

More than a third of the high school, 395 students, were enrolled as of this week in plane and solid geometry, trigonometry and advance algebra courses. Biology, chemistry or physics drew 180 students.

Most startling change in the elementary division was half-day sessions for the first three grades. The curtailed sessions were brought about by lack of space.

Most pupils are expected to return to full days next September if the Twin Beach School is completed, and the remainder should have full days when the new high school is completed.

Accomplishments of the elementary division during the year include a guide published by a curriculum committee directed by Miss Nina Krepidioski, elementary supervisor.

The guide is designed to require teachers to analyze goals and furnishes evidence of progress to parents showing what is taught and why.

A series of workshops were also held during the year with topics such as Elemetary School Policies, Language, Arts, Arithmetic and Audio-visual Instruction.

New equipment added included three new buses, two cars for the driver training classes in the high school, cafeteria equipment and audio-visual equipment. Also the usual items of classroom and office equipment were added.

In the field of health, nearly 400 pupils in the kindergarten, second and fifth grades received sodium fluoride treatments. Walled Lake and West Bloomfield Township schools jointly purchased the dental equipment used.

Work Open to All, Says Thors

Local Photographers Ask for Quiver Pictures Job

Pontiac High School's methods of choosing the photographer for its Quiver pictures was questioned at a Pontiac Board of Education meeting Wednesday.

A delegation from Pontiac Photographic Association, asking why the contract always seemed to go to an out-of-town studio, questioned John Thors Jr., PHS principal, in a half-hour hearing.

Robert J. St. Clair, manager of Pontiac Chamber of Commerce, accompanied the delegation.

Thors explained the photographic contract is let by a committee of five faculty members and five students, who compare samples from various studios, compare price lists, and vote for the one they want.

He emphasized that the only definite contract the Quiver photographer gets is the one to provide one glossy print of each student for the school yearbook.

"If students want to order some prints of the pictures, they can," he said. "If they don't, they don't have to. If they order them and then change their minds, the photographer will refund their money.

"This photography," he said, "has caused me more trouble through the years than just about anything else. My only interest is to see that we get the best possible photos for the yearbook at the lowest cost.

"If local men can compete," he said, "I'd be more than happy to see them get this contract."

Gerald L. Wooliever said he had been given only three days notice this year when the committee was to consider samples and prices. He was called on a Tuesday, he said, and asked to have samples in Friday.

Thors said he had, in the past, extended the deadline if local men asked extra time to get samples in. He was not asked to this fall, he said.

Rudy LoPatin said he was sure that local photographers could do the same quality work for the price out-of-town studios ask.

Thors repeated the way the photographer is chosen.

Wooliever asked "if it's true that a man intercepts each student as he has his picture taken and asks him whether he plans to order prints before he takes the pictrue? And makes more proofs if he is?"

Thors said so far as he knows t is not true.

Wooliever than detailed the association's proposal:

That each student be allowed to select the photographer who takes his Quiver picture;

That photographers be given a set of uniform standards as to background and head size in pictures;

That the association hire one of its own members to do the free glossy prints of the school's faculty, athletic teams, and other groups

That the association post a $100 bond to guarantee its members' fulfillment of the standards.

Glenn H. Griffin, school board president, appointed Maurice J. Croteau, board vice president, and Monroe M. Osmun to try to help Thors and the photographers reach a solution.

No One Seems to Know Which End Is Top

RALEIGH, N. C. (AP) — Which is the top and which is the bottom of a tomato?

Mrs. James Nicholson of Mebane couldn't tell. She asked the State Department of Agriculture. Department experts scratched their heads. They passed the buck to officials at North Carolina State College.

No help there

One state college expert cautiously suggested referring to the "stem end" and the "blossom end" of the tomato.

Nab Young Shoplifters

YPSILANTI (AP) — Two 11-year-old girls and one 12-year-old were nabbed by police during a shoplifting spree at a local department store. Seized were 69 items valued at $37. The trio was turned over to the custody of their parents.

Old Farm Home Attests to Skill of Early Settlers

HOMER, Mich. (AP) — A 110-year-old Homer farm house today testifies to the construction skill of early southwestern Michigan residents and to their superstitions.

The house, located on the Colon Brockway farm, was built in 1843 by Abraham Gridley, the great-grand father of its present owner.

Gridley built the house out of bricks turned out in a kiln located near the property.

Following a superstition of the time, the house was built with eight sides to enable its residents to derive special benefits and better health said to go with an octagonal house.

The eight-sided house has six rooms downstairs with a large hall and an open stairway. Six more rooms are on the second floor and Brockway says the third floor of the house has more than ample storage space.

Well constructed, the house has needed few repairs through out its existence.

The only modern addition to the structure looks somewhat out of place. The addition is a television aerial situated among several lightning rods atop the old house.

Arranges Espanol Class

GRANT (AP) — Supt. Roy Schroeder of Grant High School has arranged an evening adult class in Spanish for the benefit of farmers and business people dealing with the Mexican field workers who come here annually for the harvest season. Nearly 50 persons have enrolled in the 20-week course.

Heavily Traveled

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Packard road, just south of the city limits is the most heavily traveled stretch of highway in this county, averaging 12,833 motor vehicles in 24 hours, the Washtenaw County Road Commission reported. The figure represented a 25 per cent increase over last year.

Soft coal deposits underlie 57 of Missouri's 115 counties.
